policy;[16] but contracts for contingent fees will also be closely scrutinized, and if

Co. v. Hargis, 17 Ky. L. R. 1190, 33 S. W. 946; Martinez v. Succession of Vives, 32 La. Ann. 305; Cain v. Warford, 33 Md. 23; Blaisdell v. Ahern, 144 Mass. 393, 11 N. E. 681, 59 Am. Rep. 99; Davis v. Com., 164 Mass. 241, 41 N. E. 292; County of Chester v. Barber, 97 Pa. 455; Perry v. Dicken, 105 Pa. 83, 51 Am. Rep. 181; Fellows v. Smith, 190 Pa. 301, 42 A. 678; Wheeler v. Riviere [Tex. Civ. App.] 49 S. W. 697; Lewis v. Broun, 36 W. Va. 1, 14 S. E. 444; Gilchrist v. Brande, 58 Wis. 184, 15 N. W. 817; Dale v. Richards, 21 D. C. 312; Ex parte Plitt, 2 Wall. Jr. 453, Fed. Cas. No. 11,228. Thus, an agreement to pay a proctor in an admiralty case, out of the proceeds of a recovery, is valid and enforceable. The Alice Strong, 57 Fed. 249. And there is nothing illegal, immoral, or against public policy, in an agreement by an attorney for a contingent fee or a share of the proceeds, to present and prosecute claims against the United States. Taylor v. Bemiss, 110 U. S. 42, 3 S. Ct. 441; Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548; Manning v. Perkins, 85 Me. 172, 26 A. 1015. A contract to pay an attorney a percentage of the value of the subject-matter in litigation to secure "a favorable" decision from the land department is not contrary to good morals or public policy. Bergen v. Frisbie, 125 Cal. 168, 57 P. 784. An agreement for a contingent fee does not make the attorney a party to the action (Gilchrist v. Brande, 58 Wis. 184, 15 N. W. 817); nor does his agreement for a certain percentage of recovery make him a necessary party plaintiff, and he need not be joined as such (McDonald v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 26 Iowa, 124, 96 Am. Dec. 114). A conditional obligation to pay an attorney an extra fee in case of success, in an action in which the obligor is not a party, is given upon a valid and sufficient consideration, if such obligor is a party to other suits in which the same question is involved. Clay v. Ballard, 9 Rob. [La.] 308, 41 Am. Dec. 328. An attorney's contingent fee of five-twelfths of whatever the client may "realize" out of certain litigation means five-twelfths of the gross amount recovered, without deduction for the expense of litigation or settlement attending the transaction. Funk v. Mohr, 185 Ill. 395, 57 N. E. 2. His agreement to collect bonds for twenty-five per cent of the "amount made" entitles him to one-fourth of the amount collected on the bonds by suit or otherwise (Larned v. Dubuque, 86 Iowa, 166, 53 N. W. 105); but where the client agrees to pay a fee of fifty dollars, and also a percentage of the damages which he may recover in the action, he is answerable only for a percentage of the damages received, not for such percentage of the judgment obtained (Fisher v. Mylius, 42 W. Va. 638, 26 S. E. 309). If the compensation agreed upon is contingent on the successful result of the suit, the measure of damages is not the contingent fee, but the reasonable value of the services rendered by the attorney. French v. Cunningham, 149 Ind. 632, 49 N. E. 797. A contract for a contingent fee made by the mother and sole next of kin of a decedent, though binding on her, does not bind her descendants, nor the estate toward which she stands in no other relation than that of distributee. Sloan's Estate, 161 Pa. 237, 28 A. 1084. Under some circumstances, an attorney having a contract for a contingent fee may recover on a quantum meruit. Thus, where an attorney made a special contract to prosecute a suit for a certain fixed fee and a further contingent fee in case of success, and the client afterward dismissed the case without the attorney's consent, the attorney is not entitled to recover the whole contingent fee, but can recover, either on a special count or quantum meruit, reasonable value for his services. Polsley v. Anderson, 7 W. Va. 202, 23 Am. Rep. 613. So in case of a special contract for legal services for a percentage of the recovery, where the services are wrongfully prevented by the client, and where the attorney holds himself continually ready to serve, he may claim the whole compensation agreed on, subject to such abatement as would, in the natural course of things, have been incurred by him if the services had been continued. Brodie v. Watkins, 33 Ark. 545, 34 Am. Rep. 49. Where the complete performance of an attorney's services has been rendered impossible, or otherwise prevented, by the client, the attorney may, as a rule, recover on a quantum meruit, for the services rendered by him (French v. Cunningham, 149 Ind. 632, 49 N. E. 797); but a lawyer who has violated his contract for a contingent fee cannot recover on a quantum meruit without showing the performance of services, and that those services were of benefit to his client (Moyers v. Graham, 15 Lea [Tenn.] 57). If an attorney is employed by a county to prosecute an action against a county officer to recover moneys alleged to be illegally retained, under an agreement whereby his compensation is made contingent upon the success of the suit, and he is discharged before the termination of the suit, he cannot recover damages for the breach of the contract of employment, where it appears that the suit ought not to have resulted in favor of the county had it been prosecuted to judgment. Swinnerton v. Monterey Co., 76 Cal. 113, 18 P. 135.—From note to Shirk v. Neible [Ind.] 83 Am. St. Rep. 151.

16. Contract for fees in a divorce case based on percentage of alimony, and in case of settlement, to be a minimum of $2,000, is void as tending to prevent a reconciliation between husband and wife. McCurdy v. Dillon [Mich.] 98 N. W. 746.

Note: While a contract for a contingent fee is not illegal where the suit is of a legitimate character, it is otherwise where the employment of the attorney is of an unlawful character. Thus, if he agrees to prosecute a suit on a contingent fee and bear the costs and expense of litigation, the agreement is champertous and cannot be enforced in law or in equity. So his agreement to prosecute a suit on a contingent fee is void, if part of the consideration for his undertaking is that another attorney shall render his services and bear the costs and expense of litigation. Geer v. Frank, 179 Ill. 570, 53 N. E. 965. An attorney may recover compensation for purely professional services in procuring legislation in which his client is interested; but when the agreement between attorney and client provides extortionate or obtained by undue means, will not be upheld,[17] the burden of showing unreasonableness being, however, on the client.[18] The champertous character of such agreements is specifically treated elsewhere.[19] An attorney obtaining a settlement without suit is entitled to a contingent fee contracted for.[20]

Implied contract.[21]—The contract to pay for legal services may be implied, or negatived, according to the circumstances.[22] There is no implied promise to pay an attorney whom one has not employed, because of incidental benefits derived from his services.[23] If a client prevent the prosecution of an action in which the attorney, under a contract, is to have a percentage of the amount recovered, the attorney's remedy is action for breach of contract, or on a quantum meruit, but in no such case is the percentage agreed on recoverable.[24] If prop-for compensation contingent on the amount recovered under such legislation when procured by the attorney, the contract is against public policy and cannot be enforced. Spalding v. Ewing, 149 Pa. 375, 24 A. 219, 34 Am. St. Rep. 608; Trist v. Child, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 441. A contract to give an attorney a certain percentage of a claim against the United States government for services in collecting it is void as against public policy, when such services consist in procuring legislation compelling the payment of the claim. Id. So, if the valid part of an attorney's contract is blended and confused with the part which is forbidden, compensation cannot be recovered for either part, as the whole is a unit and indivisible, and that which is bad destroys the good. Trist v. Child, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 441. But unless there is something on the face of the contract which shows that the means and methods to be used by the attorney, or which were used by him, were improper, the presumption is that a contract for a contingent fee is valid and enforceable. Bergen v. Frisbie, 125 Cal. 168, 57 P. 784. Contracts for contingent fees will not be countenanced in proceedings for divorce or alimony. Such fees in these proceedings are vicious, because the law does not favor divorce, but does favor marriage, and will not sanction contracts intended to promote its dissolution by lending itself to their enforcement. All such contracts, in these cases, should be held illegal and void, as contrary to public policy. Newman v. Freitas, 129 Cal. 283, 61 P. 907; Brindley v. Brindley, 121 Ala. 429, 25 So. 751. So it has been held that the giving of contingent fees, or compensation for services rendered to the public, is contrary to sound policy, as where a county agrees to give attorneys a contingent fee to enable its commissioners to lawfully place upon the tax list certain lands which the assessor has erroneously left off of the assessment roll. Such a contract is void as against public policy. Platte County v. Gerrard, 12 Neb. 244, 11 N. W. 298.—From note to Shirk v. Neible [Ind.] 83 Am. St. Rep. 151.

17. Muller v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 125 F. 212. An agreement that plaintiff pay all disbursements, and pay his attorney 50% of amount of any recovery for injuries is unconscionable and void. Herman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 121 F. 184. An agreement for a percentage of money to be recovered, extorted from a client by threatening to refuse to take action or to disclose his exclusive information, unless client signed without consulting anyone, may be set aside and a reasonable compensation fixed. In re Pieris, 82 App. Div. 466, 81 N. Y. S. 927.

18. Tabet v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 997.

19. See Champerty and Maintenance, 1 Curr. L. 506.

20. Stoutenburgh v. Fleer, 87 N. Y. S. 504.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 270.

22. Where attorneys' services, beneficial to an estate, are rendered with the knowledge and without the objection of the administrator, who, however, did not employ them so as to become personally liable, the estate is chargeable therewith. Marx v. McMorran [Mich.] 99 N. W. 396. An attorney directed by the court to conduct a criminal prosecution, in place of the county attorney who is disqualified, is entitled to compensation from the county. Mathews v. Lincoln County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 348, 97 N. W. 101. In disbarment proceedings, the attorney directed by the court to draw up the accusation and prosecute may recover reasonable compensation from the county, though there is no statutory provision therefor. Hyatt v. Hamilton County, 121 Iowa, 292, 96 N. W. 855. Where a citizen employs an attorney to compel city officers to perform certain duties, and the result brings funds into the city treasury, it does not create an implied contract on the part of the city to pay the attorney for such services. Park v. Laurens [S. C.] 46 S. E. 1012. An attorney is not entitled to fees for foreclosing a trust deed wherein he is named as trustee. Gantzer v. Schmeltz, 206 Ill. 560, 69 N. E. 584. The allowance of attorney's fees in bankruptcy is in the discretion of the judge, and fees paid in contemplation of bankruptcy are only valid in so far as subsequently approved by the court. In re Morris, 125 F. 841.

23. Petitioners who oppose a trustee's sale, which later realizes an amount insufficient to pay the lien creditors who force the sale, are not entitled to have their attorney's fees paid out of the trust fund. Lamar v. Hall & Wimberly [C. C. A.] 129 F. 79.

24. Jordan v. Davis, 172 Mo. 599, 72 S. W. 686. Under an attorney's contract for a certain percentage of sums recovered, where he is prevented from prosecuting the claim, he is not entitled to anything under the contract but may bring damages for the breach thereof. Johnston v. Cutchin, 133 N. C. 119, 45 S. E. 522. Where a client prevents his attorney from performing the contract for services entered into between them, erty is taken in part satisfaction of a judgment recovered, an attorney who holds a contract for a percentage of the recovery is entitled to a percentage on the fair value of the property, regardless of the price at which it was taken.[25] An agreement for a percentage of money recovered, where no charge is to be made by the attorney in case of failure to recover, is not a common-law contract for services, but an equitable assignment of part of whatever should be received, which the attorney can recover by a suit in equity.[26]

Assignments as security.—Where the client has in part assigned his claim to his attorney, with notice to the adverse party, he can only validly settle with the adverse party to the extent of the remainder of his claim.[27] Notice to the defendant's attorney of an assignment of an interest in a cause of action pending is notice to the defendant.[28] The filing and recording required by statute of the assignment of part of a claim for damages as compensation for legal services are not required to charge the one liable for the damages with notice of assignee's rights, but the burden is on the attorney to show that defendant had knowledge of the assignment.[29]

Employment of several attorneys, or by several clients.[30]—Where an attorney represents several parties, the fact that the services were for their common benefit is not conclusive as to whether their liability was joint or several, which question depends upon their express agreement, or their intention as gathered from all the circumstances.[31] Counsel, not partners, associated in litigation through separate employments, should be allowed fees from the fund in court in proportion to the services of each.[32] Where it is agreed in writing that two attorneys are to receive a certain percentage of money secured, and on one declining to act another is employed, that other is entitled to half of the percentage though not a party to the written agreement.[33] If an attorney reduce a claim to judgment, which judgment is in part enforced by another attorney acting for the creditor, the first attorney is entitled to his agreed commission.[34]

Allowance by court or taxation as costs.[35]—Professional services in ordinary cases cannot be taxed as costs,[36] but in many equitable proceedings solicitor's fees are allowed.[37] Statutes allowing taxation of attorney's fees are generally upheld,[38] and courts of equity often allow attorney's fees out of a fund in court the client is liable to the attorney for breach of such contract, and the attorney need not wait for the conclusion of the case in which he tenders his services to bring his suit for damages. Watson v. Columbia Min. Co., 118 Ga. 603, 45 S. E. 460.

25. Barcus v. Gates, 130 F. 364.

26. Bennett v. Donovan, 83 App. Div. 95, 82 N. Y. S. 506.

27. Powell v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 975.

28. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 572.

29. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Eldredge [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 556.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 270.

31. Matthews v. Williams Mfg. Co., 98 Me. 234, 56 A. 759.

32. Glidden v. Cowen [C. C. A.] 123 F. 48.

33. In re McGee's Estate, 205 Pa. 590, 55 A. 776.

34. Raley v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 54.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 271.

36. Where a foreign deposition is taken in an action, defendant is not entitled to tax as costs a sum charged by foreign attorneys for professional services rendered defendant in taking the deposition. Topken v. Cunard S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 394. Attorney's fees in a suit for dower against a purchaser from the husband cannot be taxed against the defendant. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171.

37. Solicitors' fees when taxable should be taxed like other costs, and a judgment therefor should not be rendered in favor of the solicitor in his own name. McMullen v. Reynolds, 209 Ill. 504, 70 N. E. 1041.

38. An attorney's fee provided for by statute in the prosecution of claims against insurance companies is not in violation of the U. S. Constitution, as denying to the insurance companies the equal protection of the laws. Farmers' & Merchants' Ins. Co. v. Dobney, 189 U. S. 301, 23 S. Ct. 565, 47 L. Ed. 821. An attorney's fee cannot constitutionally be taxed as costs in proceedings to foreclose a mechanic's lien. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 P. 640. The provision of a statute allowing an attorney's fee on foreclosure of assessment liens is valid as imposing a penalty for the property owner's delay in paying his obligations for public improvements. Brown v. Central Bermudez Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 150.

obtained or protected by legal services.[39] Where all the claimants of a fund appoint a trustee to collect the same, an attorney who intervenes in behalf of some of claimants individually is not entitled to have his fees made a charge on the fund.[40] The refusal to order an attorney to repay fees paid him on an order made without notice to adverse party is not an abuse of discretion, though the order be vacated after it has been complied with.[41]

Amount.[42]—Where attorney's fees are allowed against a fund in court, a reasonable amount in the discretion of the court is allowed.[43]

Evidence as to value of services.[44]—In estimating the value of legal services, the value of the property affected and the results achieved, may be considered;[45] it is also proper to include a reasonable retaining fee.[46] Attorneys who represent parties in the sale of state bonds, where litigation is necessary and undertaken to compel the state to accept such bonds for taxes, are not mere brokers, and the value of their services is not to be determined on that basis.[47] Restatements made on a rehearing of arguments made on appeal should not be treated as services rendered in separate cases in determining the compensation of attorneys

39. An attorney employed to resist the appointment of a receiver for a building association is entitled to fees out of the fund raised by the sale of the assets in the receiver's hands. Commonwealth v. Penn Germania Bld'g & Loan Ass'n, 204 Pa. 29, 53 A. 516. Equity may determine that counsel should be compensated for preserving a fund in court, notwithstanding an agreement, or an order of the court to the contrary. Oliver v. South Carolina Interstate & West Indian Exposition Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 988. When an award of counsel fees is set aside the receiver may recover from the attorney any excess paid in accordance with the erroneous award. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. Where an attorney employed by a receiver joins the receiver in submitting his claim for services to the court, the court's award is binding upon him until properly set aside, though the receiver is personally liable to him. Id. A general attorney for a receiver rendering services of a general and continuous character need not keep an itemized account thereof, as the court customarily allows such sum as is reasonable for the services performed. The amount allowed should depend on results accomplished, though a reasonable expense account may also be allowed. Id.

40. Sloan v. Smith [Conn.] 58 A. 712.

41. Brunings v. Townsend, 139 Cal. 137, 72 P. 919.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 271.

43. Services of an attorney, if adverse rather than beneficial to a trust fund, are not chargeable to that fund. Sprague v. Moore [Mich.] 99 N. W. 377. $225 for drawing an answer, making a motion for disclosure of residence, and a motion for costs, is excessive. $100 is sufficient. Frost v. Reinach, 81 N. Y. S. 246. $300 is a sufficient compensation for attorney's services in filing letters of administration. In re Pleris, 82 App. Div. 466, 81 N. Y. S. 927. Verdict for $1,000 was against the weight of the evidence. Whallen v. Hallam, 25 Ky. L. R. 965, 76 S. W. 860. Where evidence as to counsel fees placed the value at $1,000, and $700, and no disinterested witness placed it below $500, the fees allowed should not be less than $500. Reed v. Reed, 24 Ky. L. R. 2438, 74 S. W. 207. Under an act allowing $30 to attorneys appointed to defend criminals in cases where the punishment is imprisonment, an allowance of $50 by the court in a murder case is properly cut to $30, capital punishment having been abolished. Lake County Com'rs v. Glynn [Colo. App.] 74 P. 339. The measure of the husband's liability for wife's attorney's fees in separation suits is conclusively established by the order requiring him to pay a certain amount, and additional fees cannot be collected for recovering personal property of the wife remaining in the husband's possession. Damman v. Bancroft, 88 N. Y. S. 386. In fixing the value of the services of complainant solicitor in partition, the court has no right to refer that matter to members of the bar called in on the court's own motion. The report of members of the bar called in as a committee by the court, but not sworn, is not competent evidence and will not support an allowance for solicitor's fees. McMullen v. Reynolds, 209 Ill. 504, 70 N. E. 1041.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 271.

45. In an action to recover for services in examining the articles of incorporation of a mining company and passing on the value of the mine, evidence as to the value of the mine, of its productiveness, and of its capital stock is admissible. Graves v. Sanders [C. C. A.] 125 F. 690. Where favorable legislation is in part the result of actions at law, that fact may be considered in estimating the value of the attorney's services in those actions. Town of Hempstead v. New York, 86 App. Div. 300, 83 N. Y. S. 806. Where an attorney renders some services of value in the way of facilitating and expediting the collection of a claim, a contract for a percentage of the amount recovered is not void for want of consideration by reason of the fact that the claim would ultimately have been paid voluntarily. Claim against city for overpaid water rates, where the attorney prepared and filed affidavit as basis of claim and adjusted amount, with the officials. Rogers v. Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, 87 App. Div. 81, 84 N. Y. S. 12.

46. Roche v. Baldwin [Cal.] 76 P. 956.

47. Parsons v. Maury, 101 Va. 516, 44 S. E. 758.

so engaged.[48] Whether a note is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, so as to entitle the holder to collect attorney's fees, is a question of fact for the jury.[49] On conflicting evidence as to value of legal services the verdict of a jury will not be disturbed.[50]

Proceedings to recover.—A contract by one attorney for services rendered at the request of another attorney, for a share of the fee received by the latter, is enforceable against the latter either at law for breach of contract, or in equity for money had and received.[51] The attorney's right of compensation does not accrue until his relation in the suit has terminated, at which period also the statute of limitations against his claim begins to run.[52] Attorneys must notify their clients of the specific sum claimed as fees before beginning suit for same, and make known to them pending proceedings for recovery thereof.[53]

A judgment that part of a recovery inure to the benefit of the attorneys of litigants who are all minors, the attorneys not being parties, is erroneous.[54] Where a private settlement is made after suit brought, the court has jurisdiction to determine defendant's liability to plaintiff's attorneys for an aliquot part of the settlement previously assigned to them as compensation,[55] but a satisfaction of a judgment will not be set aside in a case settled by the parties, unless it is necessary for the attorneys to realize the amount due them for their services, which amount they are entitled to have determined.[56] To recover their fees, attorneys are frequently allowed to continue, in their own interest, actions which their clients have settled, abandoned, or otherwise prevented the attorneys from completing,[57] and the evidence must be of such a character as would authorize a recovery by the client were the suit still proceeding for his benefit.[58] But they may not be continued merely to get costs against the adverse party as compensation for services rendered the client.[59]

48. In re Kellogg, 88 N. Y. S. 1033.

49. Rogers v. O'Barr [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 593. Right to claim attorney's fees for collection provided for by note may be waived. Wicks-Nease v. James, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 151, 72 S. W. 87, where waiver was by presentment without demand for fees and allowance of amount of note only by probate court.

50. Evidence placed the value as high as $16,000 and as low as $100. A verdict of $700 would not be disturbed as against the weight of the evidence. Mack v. Miller, 87 App. Div. 359, 84 N. Y. S. 440.

51. Harrison v. Murphy [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 724.

52. McCrea v. Scofield, 86 N. Y. S. 10.

53. Truitt v. Darnell [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 692. Where judgment is rendered for legal services and there is no proof of demand, interest is properly allowed from the date of commencing suit. Trimble v. Kansas City, P. & G. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 678.

54. White v. Simonton [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 621.

55. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Eldredge [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 556. The compromise of a judgment by plaintiff and defendant in fraud of an attorney having a lien thereon may be set aside at the suit of the attorney defrauded. Jones v. Duff Grain Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1.

56. Corbit v. Watson, 88 App. Div. 467, 85 N. Y. S. 125.

57. An attorney to whom an interest in a cause of action is assigned in consideration of his services may, if the defendant settle with claimant with knowledge of the assignment, prosecute the original suit to judgment in his own interest and recover to the extent thereof. Powell v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 975. In a suit for fees by an attorney who has been prevented from prosecuting an action under his contract and discharged by his client, the opinion of witnesses cannot be heard as to what would have been the result of the action which is afterwards successfully prosecuted by another attorney. Breathitt Coal, Iron & Lumber Co. v. Gregory, 25 Ky. L. R. 1507, 78 S. W. 148. Where a defendant settles with a claimant, so that the attorney is prosecuting the action for his fees, and the defendant fraudulently keeps the claimant hidden out of the state, so that the attorney cannot prove injuries or damages, the attorney is entitled to recover from the defendant his proportion of the settlement. Powell v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 975. Attorneys who undertake to establish a client's right to a fund in court may, in spite of client's direction to proceed no further, continue the proceedings in his name to reverse the decision against him, in order to collect their fee out of the fund. Counsman v. Modern Woodmen of America [Neb.] 98 N. W. 414.

58. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Owens, 119 Ga. 833, 47 S. E. 213.

59. Pomeranz v. Marcus, 40 Misc. 442, 82 N. Y. S. 707.

Lien.[60]—An attorney can only claim a lien on money secured by his services when it has come into his possession, or is in an equity case in the grasp of the court;[61] but in a common law action he has no lien on funds brought into court in the action for distribution.[62] No lien on a fund secured by an attorney's services is allowed in Missouri.[63] The lien on a fund can only be for services rendered in the proceeding by which the money was recovered.[64] He can only have a lien on a claim when placed in his hands by a person who has title to it and the right to collect or assign it.[65] An attorney's lien for services rendered is on money due by the adverse party, and not on the judgment recovered. It is for services rendered by himself and not by another employed by him.[66] A client cannot, by dismissing an action and employing another attorney, defeat the lien of an attorney duly employed,[67] and the attorney's lien attaches to the proceeds of a compromise.[68] The act giving an attorney a lien does not apply to a judgment obtained by him before the passage of the act.[69] The New York statute relating to attorneys' liens applies to surrogates' courts; the right is not affected by the fact that the client is an executor, and the services rendered are in behalf of the estate, nor is the lien confined to moneys recovered by judgment.[70] The lien attaches to the whole judgment and the client cannot compel the attorney to forego same on showing that only a small portion of the face value of the judgment can be obtained, and that only in case the lien is extinguished.[71] An attorney's lien on the judgment is superior to defendant's equity of set-off.[72] An attorney has a lien upon the securities of his client,[73] if they come into his hands in the course of his professional employment.[74] In Louisiana attorneys have no lien for their fees prior to judgment.[75]

60. See 1 Curr. L. 272.

61. There is no attorney's lien on money in the hands of a subsequently employed attorney. Seybert v. Salem Tp., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 459. An attorney who prosecutes an appeal from a city auditing board to the board of county supervisors for the adjustment of a constable's fees has a lien enforceable against the award. Perry v. Myer, 89 N. Y. S. 347.

62. Quakertown & E. R. Co. v. Guarantors' Liability Indemnity Co., 206 Pa. 350, 55 A. 1033.

63. The lien of an attorney is only that which he has as bailee of property coming into his hands. Kersey v. O'Day, 173 Mo. 560, 73 S. W. 481.

64. Halsell v. Turner [Miss.] 36 So. 531. An attorney securing a judgment for a client has no lien on a fund obtained from a bank by garnishment proceedings founded on said judgment, the judgment against the garnishee being procured by another attorney. Raley v. Hancock [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 658. An attorney employed by an insolvent debtor to resist claims of creditors has no lien on the fund in the hands of the receiver, nor is he entitled to be paid therefrom. Ford v. Gilbert [Or.] 75 P. 138. An attorney defeating tax liens, under employment by holders of fractional parts of a previously acquired judgment, has no lien on the judgment as against a subsequent purchaser thereof. Alden v. White [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 913. Nor in procuring a judgment in garnishment has he any lien on the fund for an amount due from his client under a contract made after his client's right had attached by means of the garnishment. Raley v. Hancock [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 658.

65. Heirs of a beneficiary of an insurance policy have no right to collect, or assign same, it being the property of the administrator until the payment of debts. Joseph's Adm'r v. Lapp's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1875, 78 S. W. 1119.

66. Code, § 321. Gibson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 565, 98 N. W. 474. The claim for services by an attorney who is employed by another attorney holding contractual relations with the plaintiff is not a lien, nor anything more than a personal claim against the attorney employing him. Hallam v. Coulter, 24 Ky. L. R. 2200, 73 S. W. 772.

67. Gibson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 565, 98 N. W. 474.

68. Witmark v. Perley, 86 N. Y. S. 756. Plaintiff may settle a case at any time, but the lien continues on the amount agreed on in settlement and may be foreclosed notwithstanding the defendant pays the money to the plaintiff without the attorney's consent. Morehouse v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 332.

69. Young v. Renshaw, 102 Mo. App. 173, 76 S. W. 701.

70. In re Crouch's Estate, 89 N. Y. S. 465.

71. Serwer v. Sarasohn, 91 App. Div. 538, 86 N. Y. S. 838.

72. Barry v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 543, 84 N. Y. S. 830.

73. In re Sweeney, 86 App. Div. 647, 83 N. Y. S. 680.

74. Winans v. Grable [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1110.

75. While, as between plaintiff and his

Loss of lien.[76]—An attorney's lien is confined to the judgment or fund recovered by him as attorney. His lien on his client's papers depends on his possession, and ceases when he voluntarily parts with such possession.[77] If on a fund collected, it is released by the voluntary payment of the money to the client.[78] The lien for services rendered to an executor is not lost by transfer of the estate, by order of the court, to a co-executor, before final administration,[79] or by the appointment of a guardian for the client.[80]

Enforcement of lien.[81]—A statutory lien can be created and enforced only in the manner prescribed.[82] The written notice of lien required to be served on the defendant must be served personally, and not on the defendant's attorney.[83] If signed as attorney for his client, instead of for himself, it is sufficient to apprise defendant of a claim to a lien as attorney.[84] Where a judgment creditor has no notice of an attorney's intention to claim a lien on certain land belonging to a client, the lien acquired by filing the transcript of his judgment is superior to the attorney's right of lien.[85] The attorney's remedy for enforcing a lien is at common law and where the judgment is satisfied in disregard of his rights, it should be set aside and execution awarded to the extent of the lien.[86] The action to enforce may be brought against the client, or the adverse party, or both,[87] and a reference may be had to determine the amount of the attorney's lien.[88] In New York, the act authorizing the determining and enforcement of an attorney's lien provides a practice only as between attorney and client, and not against a defendant who has settled with plaintiff, unless plaintiff is shown to be insolvent.[89] The proper procedure, where an attorney has been defrauded by the compromise of a judgment upon which he had a lien, is to file an intervening petition and have the amount of his lien judicially determined before other steps are taken for its enforcement.[90] But it is not essential to the existence of the lien that the amount be definitely fixed, an allegation in the complaint of reasonable value is sufficient.[91] An attorney having a lien on a judgment may intervene in proceedings to revive such judgment and is entitled to a revivor thereof in his own name to the extent of his lien.[92] The attorney can follow the proceeds of a attorney, the former has no right to compromise his claim without the attorney's consent, yet if the defendant is guilty of no collusion to defraud, and is not notified of the transfer to the attorney of all right of compromise, the attorney has no redress against the defendant. Smith v. Vicksburg, S. & P. R. Co. [La.] 36 So. 826.

76. See 1 Curr. L. 274.

77. Hazeltine v. Keenan [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 609. Lien asserted at time of surrendering papers, but no claim for compensation presented for three years. Winans v. Grable [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1110.

78. In an action at law to recover from an attorney part of the money retained by him as fees in a prior case, the attorney is not entitled to have the suit enjoined and his claim determined in equity, there being an adequate remedy at law. German v. Browne, 137 Ala. 429, 34 So. 985.

79. In re Crough's Estate, 41 Misc. 349, 84 N. Y. S. 936.

80. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. of Silver Bow County [Mont.] 75 P. 516.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 275.

82. Nielsen v Albert Lea [Minn.] 98 N. W. 195.

83. Young v. Renshaw, 102 Mo. App. 173, 76 S. W. 701.

84. Gibson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 566, 98 N. W. 474.

85. Teller v. Hill [Colo. App.] 72 P. 811.

86. Young v. Renshaw, 102 Mo. App. 173, 76 S. W. 701. Where an attorney has served notice of lien for his compensation, and without his knowledge plaintiff before trial settles the case with defendant, the attorney may prosecute the case for his fees, and verdict may be rendered for the reasonable worth of his services, to which verdict his lien will attach. Herman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 121 F. 184.

87. Coombe v. Knox, 28 Mont. 202, 72 P. 641.

88. Cohn v. Polstein, 41 Misc. 431, 84 N. Y. S. 1072. On a substitution of attorneys the court may order a reference to determine the amount of the attorney's lien, and may impose as a condition of the order of substitution that clients pay the amount due. In default of payment the attorney may have an execution. Kane v. Rose, 87 App. Div. 101, 84 N. Y. S. 111.

89. Dumowith v. Marks, 84 N. Y. S. 453.

90. Jones v. Duff Grain Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1.

91. Coombe v. Knox, 28 Mont. 202, 72 P. 641.

92. In such a case the court may render judgment in favor of the attorney and settlement so far as they belong to his client, and be paid out of them before his client's creditors. He may not continue the action to final judgment to enforce his lien where his client's property is ample to secure the same.[93] An action commenced as in equity to recover the value of services and establish an attorney's lien is properly transferred and triable by a jury.[94]

§ 8. Authority of attorney to represent client.[95] Creation, proof and termination of authority.[96]—The right of counsel to appear in a cause is generally a question of law for the court,[97] but it may be submitted to the jury for a special finding.[98] In the absence of a statutory requirement that an attorney's authority shall be evidenced in writing,[99] an attorney need not give proof of his authority to appear for a client.[1] It is presumed, and the burden of proof is on the one seeking to show lack of authority.[2] It cannot be questioned by answer, but only by a rule upon the attorney to show by what authority he appears, supported by affidavit showing the facts relied on to question the authority.[3] On a rule to determine the authority of an attorney to prosecute an appeal from a decree of lunacy, under a prior contract with the alleged lunatic, the lunacy decree cannot be treated as an adjudication that he was of unsound mind.[4] An attorney's authority to represent client does not have to be expressly renewed, if the court makes an order of severance and compels separate suits against the different defendants.[5] The adverse party cannot object to an attorney's authority as to acts acquiesced in by the client or his representative.[6] His authority ceases on the death of his client,[7] and as a general rule on the rendition of judgment in the action in which he was employed,[8] though this rule is subject to many exceptions,[9] or in case of an employment to collect, with the taking of security to the satisfaction of his client.[10]

Scope of authority.[11]—An attorney must act strictly within the scope of his against the judgment debtor to the amount of the lien. Greek v. McDaniel [Neb.] 94 N. W. 518.

93. Cohn v. Polstein, 41 Misc. 431, 84 N. Y. S. 1072. An attorney holding an assignment of a share of damages to be received cannot, by giving notice of the assignment to the defendant, prevent a settlement between him and the client or compel the defendant to account to the attorney for his agreed share. Weller v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 730.

94. Sweeley v. Sieman [Iowa] 98 N. W. 571.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 277.

96. Creation and termination of relation, see ante, § 5.

97. State v. De Wolfe [Mont.] 74 P. 1084.

98. Fosha v. Prosser [Wis.] 97 N. W. 924.

99. Pacific Pav. Co. v. Vizelich, 141 Cal. 4, 74 P. 352. The statute providing that the authority of an attorney cannot be questioned if the notice of appeal be signed by appellant has no application where it appears that appellant is a dissolved corporation. Austen v. Columbia Lubricants Co., 87 N. Y. S. 497.

1. Austen v. Columbia Lubricants Co., 85 N. Y. S. 362; State v. Long, 66 S. C. 398, 44 S. E. 960.

2. Uehlein v. Burk, 119 Iowa, 742, 94 N. W. 243; Brown v. Arnold [C. C. A.] 131 F. 723. A judgment against a sheriff for not reserving exemptions at an execution sale will not be reversed on the ground that the record did not show the authority of the attorney claiming the exemption, the point not having been raised at the trial. Fowler v. State [Md.] 58 A. 444.

3. Appearance in bankruptcy for petitioning creditors. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

4. Chase v. Chase [Ind.] 71 N. E. 485.

5. Mahler v. Animarium Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 897.

6. Where plaintiff in an action dies and the attorney takes subsequent proceedings which are acquiesced in by the executor, defendant cannot object to the attorney's authority. Fisher v. Musick's Ex'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1913, 72 S. W. 787.

7. Service of notice of appeal on an attorney who had represented a party since deceased is ineffectual. In re Turner's Estate, 139 Cal. 85, 72 P. 718.

8. The employment of an attorney to prosecute a claim to recovery terminates with the rendition of judgment thereon, and the exhaustion of the usual legal process upon the judgment. It does not, in the absence of a showing of different intent, extend to subsequent proceedings against the debtor or his sureties. Lamb v. Wilson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 325.

9. Among these are that he may collect or enforce it, receipt for the proceeds and satisfy the judgment, and oppose steps to review or continue it. Brown v. Arnold [C. C. A.] 131 F. 723. He has the right to receive the money due on the judgment. Rhinehart v. New Madrid Banking Co., 99 Mo. App. 381, 73 S. W. 315.

10. Willis v. Gorrell [Va.] 47 S. E. 826.

11. See 1 Curr. L. 277.

authority.[12] In the absence of a disclaimer a party is presumed to know and acquiesce in the acts of his attorney in the case for which he is employed,[13] within the usual range of his duties,[14] and he is bound by his attorney's errors.[15] The acts of an attorney may be disavowed by a client upon discovery that the attorney, without the client's knowledge, is acting for other and adverse parties in the cause.[16] The actions of an attorney cannot bind a party from whom he has no express authority.[17] The authority of an attorney extends generally to all acts needful to the conduct of the action in which he is engaged, but not in other proceedings not essentially a part thereof,[18] thus he may in the absence of his client, advance legal costs and look to his client for reimbursement,[19] may make affidavits,[20] direct the service of particular notices,[21] enter an appeal,[22] agree to the use of a deposition taken in another action,[23] or agree that the case shall abide the final decision in another case.[24] His general authority does not extend to the dismissal[25] or compromise of an action,[26] the right of dismissal being in the client,[27] or the making of contracts on behalf of his client[28] not necessary to

12. An authority to represent a principal and surety in an action is not authority to sign a stay bond on behalf of the surety. Anderson v. Hendrickson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 844.

13. Lockner v. Holland County Ct., 81 N. Y. S. 730. A client is bound by his attorney's acts where the latter adopts methods which the former does not approve but does not prohibit. Alden v. Dyer [Minn.] 99 N. W. 784. A judgment creditor receiving payments on the judgment is held as having ratified his attorney's acts in enforcing the payments. Florence Cotton & Iron Co. v. Louisville Banking Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 456. Where a party enjoys the benefits of a settlement by his attorney, and has knowledge of the steps taken to procure same he must be held to have ratified his attorney's acts. Collins v. Fidelity Trust Co., 33 Wash. 136, 73 P. 1121. The acceptance, by order of the court, of the proceeds of an unauthorized settlement, and the use by him as directed, do not preclude a party from disregarding the settlement and insisting upon full property rights. Timm v. Timm [Wash.] 75 P. 879.

14. A mere agreement between counsel that the share of one party in the proceeds of sale shall be subject to remittances made by another party is not binding without some evidence that the client really assented thereto. Heyward v. Middleton, 65 S. C. 493, 43 S. E. 956.

15. Where an attorney is authorized to appear specially for a client in an action, and in so doing honestly pleads matters which operate as a general appearance, the client is bound by such general appearance. McNeal v. Gossard [Kan.] 74 P. 628.

16. Attorney for a legatee, acting also as attorney for the executors, without legatee's knowledge. In re Cummings' Estate, 120 Iowa, 421, 94 N. W. 1117.

17. The advice of an attorney not expressly authorized cannot bind a company in a suit for malicious prosecution. Belswanger v. American Bonding & Trust Co. [Md.] 57 A. 202.

18. Brown v. Arnold [C. C. A.] 127 F. 387.

19. In a suit by an attorney for fees and costs an award of damages must be made separately, and a general verdict for plaintiff is erroneous. Shuck v. Pfenninghausen, 101 Mo. App. 697, 74 S. W. 381.

20. Harwell v. Southern Furniture Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 888.

21. Cady v. Fair Plain Literary Ass'n [Mich.] 97 N. W. 680.

22. Friar v. Curry, Arrington & Co., 119 Ga. 908, 47 S. E. 206.

23. Thompson v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 583, 73 S. W. 29.

24. Brown v. Arnold [C. C. A.] 131 F. 723. Note: To the same effect see Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 19 S. Ct. 747; Ohlquest v. Farwell, 71 Iowa, 231, 32 N. W. 277; North Mo. R. Co. v. Stephens, 36 Mo. 150; Eidam v. Finnegan, 48 Minn. 53, 50 N. W. 933.

25. A retraxit, a release, or dismissal, cannot be made by an attorney without special authority therefor. Forest Coal Co. v. Doolittle [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 238. If employed to bring and prosecute an action he has no authority to dismiss same contrary to the desire of his client. Steinkamp v. Gaebel, 89 Neb. 507, 95 N. W. 684.

26. Not to bind his client by an attempted accord and satisfaction. Fosha v. Prosser [Wis.] 97 N. W. 924. Not to compromise an action, or accept land instead of money in satisfaction of a judgment, or authorize the sale of his client's land in payment for services to be rendered. Gray v. Howell, 205 Pa. 211, 54 A. 774. Without express authority, an attorney has no authority to bind his client by a compromise of a pending suit, or any matter entrusted to him. Benedict v. Wilhoite [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1155. An attorney for a wife has no authority to compromise her judgment for alimony pendente lite, though obtained by him while acting as her attorney. Schlemmer v. Schlemmer [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 636. An attorney authorized by the wife in a divorce case to settle the property rights involved on the basis of an equal division has no right to accept $250 for the wife's right in property worth $3,000. Timm v. Timm [Wash.] 75 P. 879. "Stipulation" in condemnation proceedings by attorney for petitioner. Held, not binding on petitioner as attorney had no power to sign it. Du Pont v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 203 Ill. 170, 67 N. E. 815.

27. A dismissal of a case by a client without costs may be made without the knowl-

the prosecution of the litigation.[29] He may not employ another lawyer to assist him and have the latter's services allowed to him as "personal and incidental expenses" within the statute.[30]

§ 9. Rights and liabilities to third persons.[31]—An attorney may be liable personally to a third person for his proceedings in an action.[32]

§ 10. Law partnerships and associations.[33]—The general principles of the law of partnerships applies to law firms.[34] A suit to dissolve a law partnership and recover a bonus paid to enter therein is an equity cause, and not simply an action to recover money.[35] Where a contract is made with an attorney that he alone shall render the services, his death terminates the contract, whether he is alone or is a member of a firm.[36] A general contract with a firm of attorneys to render certain services does not entitle client to demand that any particular member must act. In case of death of one member, or dissolution of the firm, the survivor cannot refuse to carry out executory contracts in force at the time, and if carried out the client is liable under the original contract with the firm.[37] Where the services of both members of a firm are contracted for, and one dies, the client may discharge the survivor, settle for services rendered and employ new counsel, but cannot re-employ survivor and defeat claim of estate of deceased partner.[38]

§ 11. Public attorneys. A. Attorneys general.[39]—The authority of the attorney general goes not only to the expediency of employing counsel in receivership cases but also to the amount of compensation.[40] Neither the attorney general, nor any officer of the department of justice is authorized to aid in the proceedings before a grand jury, nor can they delegate such authority.[41] A deputy attorney general, in admitting due personal service of papers, may act beyond his authority, but jurisdiction is thereby acquired as against the attorney general, and proceeding taken in consequence cannot be attacked collaterally.[42] The attorney general may authorize the employment of stenographers by the various district attorneys in government cases.[43] The attorney general is the legal adviser of the state officers, and where his salary is named in the constitution of the edge or consent of his attorney of record. Paulson v. Lyson [N. D.] 97 N. W. 533. Parties to an action may settle litigation without consultation with the attorneys of either party, if not defeating any of the attorney's rights. Nielsen v. Albert Lea [Minn.] 98 N. W. 195.

28. An attorney cannot without special authority bind his client by a new promise to pay a debt cancelled by insolvency proceedings. Houghton v. Ellis [Colo. App.] 73 P. 752.

29. The standing attorney of a foreign corporation instructed to foreclose a trust deed has implied authority to make contracts necessary to accomplish such foreclosure. Fowler v. Iowa Land Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1095.

30. In re Waldheimer, 84 App. Div. 366, 82 N. Y. S. 916.

31. See 1 Curr. L. 278.

32. An attorney who collects a judgment from a debtor and fraudulently collects same again from his surety is liable to the surety in a suit by him to recover the amount, and it is no defense that the attorney claims he was acting for the judgment creditor. Parsons v. Maxwell, 53 W. Va. 39, 44 S. E. 172. An attorney having an interest in certain proceedings and appearing for an undisclosed principal, is personally liable for services therein rendered at his request by a third party. Ross v. Niles, 84 N. Y. S. 142. An attorney is not liable to a sheriff for fees for levy made and released, where he did not satisfy the judgment or countermand the execution. O'Brien v. Allen, 40 Misc. 693, 83 N. Y. S. 251.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 279.

34. A law firm may sue on a contract for services made by a single member. Dennis v. First Nat. Bank, 33 Wash. 161, 73 P. 1125.

35. A bonus paid to enter the partnership should on dissolution be apportioned to the agreed and actual duration thereof. Hoyt v. Easton, 40 Misc. 264, 81 N. Y. S. 914.

36, 37, 38. Clifton v. Clark, Hood & Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 251.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 279.

40. Candee v. Cunneen, 86 N. Y. S. 723.

41. A special assistant to the attorney general is not an officer of the department of justice. U. S. v. Rosenthal, 121 F. 862.

42. Townsend v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 117.

43. An allowance per diem to stenographer if report not transcribed, and a certain amount per folio if transcribed, gives district attorney authority to have as much transcribed as he needs and to pay per diem for the balance. Swift v. U. S., 128 F. 763.

state, it fixes his entire compensation, so that a statute giving him a salary and fees is invalid.[44]

(§ 11) B. District and state's or prosecuting attorneys.[45]—A county attorney has authority to waive issuance and service of the summons in error in a case against the county in which he has appeared for it at the trial.[46] A county is not obliged to pay for legal services rendered at the instance of the county attorney without the authority of the county board.[47] The question as to whether an action in the county's name by the county attorney was sufficiently authorized cannot be raised by demurrer.[48] A district attorney of the United States, in condemnation proceedings by the government, has the same authority to submit the damages to arbitration as the attorney for an individual litigant would have.[49] Where the prosecution of crime by the commonwealth's attorney is provided for by statute, the employment of other attorneys for that purpose is not justified,[50] but an authority for a county to prosecute actions by the "county attorney or other person" is sufficient warrant for employing an attorney therefor.[51] A county attorney may be appointed by a board of county commissioners for the term for which such board is elected.[52] Under certain circumstances a county attorney pro tem. may be appointed.[53] A deputy county attorney, as such, may perform any duty devolving upon the county attorney.[54] A county attorney cannot contract with the county for extra-official services.[55] A state's attorney has the right to the aid of the prosecutor in a criminal case, but if he desires to use him as a witness, where the exclusion of witnesses has been ruled, he should examine him first.[56] A city attorney cannot compromise litigation in which the city is interested, without the consent of the mayor.[57] A district attorney is entitled to compensation for his services in prize cases in addition to his salary.[58] Where a commonwealth's attorney is compensated in part by a percentage of the fines paid into the county treasury, he may claim his share when the fines are paid, even though in the early part of the year it may make up the amount limited as his annual salary.[59] It is against public policy for public officers to defend actions for purely personal torts at the expense of the public.[60] The failure of a county attorney to turn over money voluntarily collected by him, and not in the performance of his official duties, does not render his sureties liable.[61] A prosecuting attorney is the proper one to protect the interests of a lunatic.[62]

44. State v. Maynard [Wash.] 76 P. 937.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 279.

46. Dakota County v. Bartlett [Neb.] 93 N. W. 192.

47. Card v. Dawes County [Neb.] 99 N. W. 662.

48. Otoe County v. Dorman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1064.

49. Judson v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 120 F. 637.

50. Under a statute allowing compensation to attorneys appointed to enforce the laws relating to insurance companies, compensation to an attorney who prosecuted an insurance agent for soliciting without a license is not justified, such prosecution being the duty of the commonwealth's attorney. Ky. St. 1899, § 762, construed. Sims v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 282, 74 S. W. 1097.

51. Heath v. Albrook [Iowa] 98 N. W. 619. A county may, if necessary, employ counsel in addition to the district attorney. Santa Cruz County v. Barnes [Ariz.] 76 P. 621.

52. Hancock v. Craven County Com'rs, 132 N. C. 209, 43 S. E. 634.

53. Daniels v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 215.

54. Canada v. Territory, 12 Okl. 409, 72 P. 375.

55. Wilson v. Otoe County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1050. In the absence of statutory authority a district attorney cannot make a county liable by contracting with a surgeon for a postmortem examination in a case where death by crime is suspected. Jones v. Sunflower County [Miss.] 36 So. 188. The prosecutor of the pleas has no power to bind the county by a contract with a detective to secure evidence of the violation of laws. The judgment that the detective could not recover on such contract does not preclude him from enforcing his claim for services. Gibboney v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [C. C. A.] 122 F. 46.

56. Smartt v. State [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 586.

57. Lake v. Hood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 323.

58. The Adula, 127 F. 853.

59. Hager v. Franklin [Ky.] 81 S. W. 926.

60. Corporation attorney not to defend policemen sued for a willful assault in making an arrest. Donahue v. Keeshan, 91 App. Div. 602, 87 N. Y. S. 144.

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS.

License and regulation.[63]—Unless required by statute, a license is not necessary;[64] but where a license fee is paid, it cannot be recovered on the enactment of a law making license unnecessary.[65] Where a resident auctioneer may make sales without a license, one temporarily resident may.[66]

Sale.[67]—A purchaser must comply with the terms of the sale,[68] and when he does so is entitled to the property purchased or damages for breach of contract.[69] Where there is no agreement as to credit and there has been no delivery, title will not pass until the purchase price is paid;[70] but if the terms provide for credit, it is optional with the purchaser to take it or pay cash.[71] A misdescription of the property in an advertisement of an auction sale,[72] or misleading and untrue statements made by the auctioneer at the time of the sale,[73] will release the purchaser, providing they were believed and acted upon by him.[74] That a corporation could not become an auctioneer cannot be set up as a defense by itself and the surety on the bond.[75]

BAIL, CIVIL.

The discharge of the debtor exonerates the bail;[76] that the order of discharge is reversed upon appeal and the debtor ordered to surrender himself is immaterial.[77] The judgment against the surety cannot exceed the amount of the 61. Wilson v. State, 67 Kan. 44, 72 P. 517.

62. Burns' Rev. St., § 2175. Chase v. Chase [Ind.] 71 N. E. 485.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 283.

64. Under city ordinance for licensing auctioneers, passed July 1902, no fees became due until June 1903. A prosecution and conviction for doing business without a license before that time was set aside. Atlantic City v. Freisinger, 69 N. J. Law, 132, 54 A. 249.

65. Under laws requiring a license fee, an auctioneer paid the fee from September, 1897, to September, 1898. Laws going into effect January 1, 1898, required no license fee. Held, the auctioneer could not recover back the proportionate part of his fee, as the latter act did not repeal the former or make the license void. Ryan v. New York, 40 Misc. 228, 81 N. Y. S. 685.

66. Statute inflicting a penalty for auctioneers, who sold without a license, excepted sales by a person made in the county where he resides. Held, one temporarily in the county was a resident. State v. Cunningham, 75 Vt. 332, 55 A. 654.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 283.

68. That the bidder must deposit a certain sum as soon as property is struck off and within 30 days examine the title and call at the office of the auctioneer prepared to take the deed and pay the balance. Sirk v. Emery, 184 Mass. 22, 67 N. E. 668.

69. When one bid in real property sold at auction, evidence that he looked up the title and tendered the purchaser price held sufficient to show that he was prepared to comply with terms of the sale. Sirk v. Emery, 184 Mass. 22, 67 N. E. 668. Refusal to deliver a horse sold at auction. Gruell v. Clark [Del. Super.] 54 A. 955.

70. A small portion of the purchase price was paid, and receipts for overdue interest on a mortgage for which there was no evidence that the vendor was liable was tendered. Held, the vendee had no right of possession so as to entitle him to maintain replevin. Hand v. Matthews [Pa.] 57 A. 351.

71. Terms of auction sale provided "sales over $10.00 a credit of eleven months will be given." Tender of cash instead of a note was compliance with terms. Gruell v. Clark [Del.] 54 A. 955.

72. That a sale of ground rent was of the "Calverton stock-yards," when the ground never belonged to the Calverton stock-yards. The description by courses and distances was correct. Doyle v. Whitridge, 97 Md. 711, 55 A. 459.

73. False statement that certain persons were lessees of the property, the ground rent of which was sold. Doyle v. Whitridge, 97 Md. 711, 55 A. 459.

74. An auctioneer represented a horse he was selling to be but eight years old. Just before the purchaser bid he was told by others that the mare was fifteen. Held, he could not rescind the sale. Korbel v. Skocpol [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1022.

NOTE. Chilling bids by appeal to sympathy: The only American case discussing the effect of an appeal to sympathy without fraud or misrepresentation is Herndon v. Gibson, 38 S. C. 357, 17 S. E. 145, 20 L. R. A. 545, in which it was held that a mortgage sale should be set aside because of an announcement by the mortgagor that she was a widow, dependent on the land for support, and desired to bid it in herself. To the same effect is the English case of Fuller v. Abrahams, 3 Brod. & B. 116.

75. A corporation executed a bond as auctioneer and received goods to be sold. In an action for the price of goods, it set up that, under the law, it could not become an auctioneer. Held, it was estopped. Lyon Bros. & Co. v. Stern, 110 La. 473, 34 So. 641.

76, 77. People v. Hathaway, 206 Ill. 42, 68 N. E. 1053.

bond.[78] An attorney violates his bond for the liberty of jail limits by going beyond such limits in the performance of professional engagements.[79] One arrested on a capias ad satisfaciendum, giving a bond for the liberty of jail limits and being thereafter surrendered by his sureties upon giving another such bond, is confined by virtue of a capias ad satisfaciendum.[80] Plaintiff being entitled upon forfeiture to an assignment of the bond, it may be assigned by a deputy sheriff.[81] A mere offer to surrender the principal in exoneration after the surety's time to answer has expired is unavailable as a defense to the action against said surety,[82] and the fact that such insufficient exoneration was performed upon the advice of an attorney is no ground for a new trial.[83] Such sureties not having a valid defense, the denial of the motion for a new trial upon an erroneous ground is harmless.[84] The denial of an exoneretur sought on the ground of the principal's discharge in bankruptcy is not res judicata of the bail's general liability on the bond.[85] In an action against the sureties, a return of "Not found" by the sheriff is conclusive.[86]

BAIL, CRIMINAL.

§ 1. Authority to Take and Right to Give Bail (395).
§ 2. Making of Recognizance and Sufficiency (396).
§ 3. Fulfillment or Forfeiture; Discharge; Rights and Liabilities of Sureties (397).
§ 4. Enforcement of Bond or Recognizance (398).
§ 5. Remission of Forfeiture and Return of Deposit in Lieu of Bail (399).

§ 1. Authority to take and right to give bail.[87]—The taking of bail consists in the acceptance by a competent court, magistrate or officer of the undertaking of sufficient bail for the appearance of the defendant, according to the terms of the undertaking that the bail will pay to the state the sum specified.[88] Excessive bail cannot be required.[89] The statutory deposit in lieu of bail may be made only by the defendant,[90] and a city council cannot confer authority upon policemen or police judge to accept a deposit in lieu of recognizance.[91] In general, bail is allowable in all cases "except capital offenses, where the proof is evident or the presumption great;"[92] but in Georgia, it is peculiarly within the discretion of the judge of the superior court to grant bail in capital cases.[93] If bail be any-

78. Garofalo v. Prividi, 87 N. Y. S. 467.

79. Professional duties called for his presence at the supreme court. Hughes v. Hally [Mich.] 100 N. W. 591.

80. Within Comp. Laws, § 10,521, providing the measure of damages for forfeiture in such cases. Hughes v. Hally [Mich.] 100 N. W. 591.

81. Construing Comp. Laws, § 10,520. Hughes v. Hally [Mich.] 100 N. W. 591.

82. Construing Code Civ. Proc. § 599. Garofalo v. Prividi, 87 N. Y. S. 467.

83, 84. Garofalo v. Prividi, 87 N. Y. S. 467.

85. Petition prayed that an order might be entered discharging the bail from liability. People v. Hathaway, 206 Ill. 42, 68 N. E. 1053.

86. Garofalo v. Prividi, 87 N. Y. S. 467; Kirk v. U. S., 13 F. 331; In re Beavers, 131 F. 366; State v. Haryzell [N. D.] 100 N. W. 745; State v. Williams [Or.] 77 P. 965.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 284.

88. Ind. Ter. Ann. St. 1899, § 1385. Simon v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 280.

89. State v. Lagoni [Mont.] 76 P. 1044.

90. Code, § 5524. The defendant cannot be lawfully discharged where deposit is made by a third party, and when such a deposit after an unauthorized acceptance thereof in lieu of bail has been restored to the depositor, the state cannot compel its return. State v. Anderson, 119 Iowa, 711, 94 N. W. 208.

91. Richardson v. Junction City [Kan.] 77 P. 691.

92. There being a doubt as to the question of self defense, defendant should be admitted to bail. Ex parte Majors [Miss.] 34 So. 151; State v. Lagoni [Mont.] 76 P. 1044. Upon the examination, it not being absolutely clear and conclusive beyond any reasonable doubt that the accused is guilty of a capital crime, he should be admitted to bail. Ex parte Locklin [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 585. One held for murder in the second degree, it not being a capital offense under the allegations of the indictment, is entitled to bail. Accused was acquitted of murder in first degree and secured a reversal of his conviction for second degree. Ex parte Moore [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 620. The supreme court on appeal will award bail in a murder case, if it should have been awarded, without discussion. Ex parte Smith [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 917.

93. In the absence of a manifest and flagrant abuse of such discretion, the ruling wise admissible, it may ordinarily be taken pending an appeal as well as before the original hearing;[94] but one is not entitled to bail, where, pending an appeal on a refusal to bail, he is indicted for the alleged crime,[95] and in Louisiana, a sentence of death or hard labor is a bar to bail, pending an appeal.[96] The courts are unwilling to hold that Federal circuit judges possess no power of admitting to bail other than as specifically vested by statute,[97] or that while bail should not ordinarily be granted in cases of foreign extradition, those courts may not in any case extend that relief.[98] Upon reversal of a conviction, the accused cannot be compelled to give a new bond, but is entitled to his liberty under the original bond,[99] and the Texas statute does not authorize the magistrate to require an increase of bail after the bail of one under indictment has once been fixed.[1] In Kentucky, one charged with a felony cannot be admitted to bail before being brought before a magistrate, and a bail bond so given is void.[2] One held to bail pending an examination for removal is not subject to arrest until the first proceeding is determined.[3]

§ 2. Making of recognizance and sufficiency.[4]—Bail bonds should be construed with reference to the laws of the sovereign jurisdiction relating thereto, where given,[5] but a bond which cannot be lawfully required of the accused is nudum factum.[6]

A bail bond need not be approved,[7] but it will be presumed that the officer taking the bond did his duty.[8] A recognizance must be in substantial compliance with the statute,[9] and strictly conform to the facts in its recital of the judgment,[10] will not be disturbed. Jernagin v. State, 118 Ga. 307, 45 S. E. 411.

94. Upon the theory that a person accused of crime shall not, until he has been finally adjudged guilty in the court of last resort be absolutely compelled to undergo imprisonment. In re Ah Tai, 125 F. 795. Pending an appeal in deportation proceedings, a Chinaman may be admitted to bail. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1322, does not apply when appeal is pending. Id. Relator indicted for murder held entitled to bail pending appeal. Ex parte Yerwood [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 708.

95. Ex parte Forney [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 440.

96. Rev. St. 1876, § 1007. State v. Williams [La.] 35 So. 140.

97, 98. Wright v. Henkel, 190 U. S. 40, 23 S. Ct. 781, 47 Law. Ed. 948. The circuit court held itself to be without power to admit to bail in foreign extradition cases. In re Wright, 123 F. 463.

99. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 464.

1. White's Ann. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, § 295 refers only to preliminary or examining trials. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 224.

2. Com. v. Phillips, 25 Ky. L. R. 544, 76 S. W. 118.

3. When bail is given, the principal is regarded as delivered to the custody of the sureties; it is a continuation of the original imprisonment. In re Beavers, 125 F. 988.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 285.

5. Boyles v. State [Wash.] 77 P. 198.

6. State v. Lagoni [Mont.] 76 P. 1044.

7. It is sufficient that the constable took the bond, placed it with the magistrate and released the prisoner. Crumpecker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 554.

8. Recitals in the bond, in connection with the above presumption, held sufficient evidence that C. M. Porter and Charles Porter were one and the same person. State v. Porter [S. D.] 99 N. W. 80.

9. Angel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 379. It is not a fatal defect that a recognizance reads "before the court in session" instead of "in open court" (Haley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 38), or that the bond reads the defendant is bound in the full sum of two hundred dollars "and the sureties in additional sums of two hundred dollars each" whereas the statute requires that each be severally bound [Code Cr. Proc. § 887] (Id.). Under section 887, Code Cr. Proc., it must state that the accused was convicted "in this cause" and what the cause was, and must not be more onerous than the law provides in requiring his personal appearance. Robertson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 517. The accidental substitution of the word "counseled" for "convicted" is fatal [Section 887, Code Cr. Proc.]. Allen v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 308. It must state that the defendant is charged with an offense against the law; "stands charged with the offense of unlawfully carrying a pistol" is not sufficient. Anderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 593. It must be for the statutory amount, and an undertaking for $40.00 is not sufficient when the minimum allowed is $50.00. Xydias v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 761. In Texas, a bond is void which is given over two months before the convening and adjourning of the term of court for which appearance is required. Douthit v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 809.

Time appearance required must be stated. It must state the term of court at which the accused should appear [Cr. Code, § 4362]. Tolleson v. State [Ala.] 35 So. 997. Requiring defendant to appear "at the next and in the case of an appeal bond, must be executed at the time of perfecting the appeal.[11]

§ 3. Fulfillment or forfeiture; discharge; rights and liabilities of sureties.[12] —A recognizance is defeasible only by a strict performance with the conditions therein named,[13] and the accused must appear at the time designated and deliver himself into the custody of the officers.[14] A condition that defendant appear at a certain term of court cannot be declared forfeited where he did appear and was tried,[15] and such a condition will not be construed as an obligation to appear from term to term,[16] but will continue in force where there is an adjournment or continuation of the term.[17] A bond is not forfeited by one who has previously pleaded to the charge of a misdemeanor, failing to appear and plead personally, term of court" is not sufficient under a statute requiring an appearance at the court of conviction from day to day and from term to term. Anderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 470. Requiring an appearance at the "next regular term and there remain from day to day and from term to term of said court" is not sufficient under Code Cr. Proc. § 887, requiring an appearance "from day to day and from term to term." Franklin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 470. That the accused shall appear "from day to day and from time to time" is not a substantial compliance with section 887, Code Cr. Proc., which requires an appearance from "term to term." Fulton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 227. To appear "until this case is finally disposed of" is not in compliance with section 887, Code Cr. Proc., requiring an appearance "to abide the judgment of the court of criminal appeals of the state of Texas in this case." Cooper v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 346. "Until discharged by due course of law" is not in compliance with section 887, Code Cr. Proc., requiring that the accused "shall not depart without leave of this court." Cooper v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 346; Robertson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 517. "And not depart without leave of the court" is not fatally defective because it should read "without leave of this court." Kees v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 855.

Description of offense: "An aggravated assault" is sufficient as a recital that the offense was a misdemeanor. Kees v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 855. A recital of the offense of "swindling over the value of $50.00" is sufficient designation as a felony, under a statute requiring a designation as a misdemeanor or a felony. White v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 770. A failure to recite that the defendant was convicted in the particular case of a misdemeanor and his punishment assessed, etc., is fatal under Code Cr. Proc. 1895, § 887. Cater v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 12; Hannon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1053; Angel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 379. The bond must state the conviction of a misdemeanor "on an information on complaint" [Code Cr. Proc. 1895, § 889]. Day v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 373. "Who has been convicted in this court of a misdemeanor" is not in compliance with section 887, Code Cr. Proc., requiring the words, "who has been convicted in this cause of a misdemeanor." Perkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 346. A recognizance conditioned that the said Holcomb, who stands charged in this court of the offense of aggravated assault, and who has been convicted and his punishment assessed, etc., is not sufficient under section 887, Code Cr. Proc. Holcomb v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 231. The recognizance in an action for unlawfully selling liquor must state such sale to have been "without the written consent of the parent or guardian, or some one standing in their stead," where such is an ingredient of the offense. Mitchell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 594.

The punishment assessed must be stated [section 887, Code Cr. Proc.]. Allen v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 537; Bean v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 759; Bourland v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 455; Angel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 379; Hannon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1053; Anderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 72 S. W. 593; Jackson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1055.

Omitting the concluding phrase, "in this case" is fatally defective under section 887, Code Cr. Proc. Gaither v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 234; Lockett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 234; Franklin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 759; Armstrong v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 446; Heinen v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 776; Meeks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 910.

10. A recital that the judgment was $25.00 fine and 20 days' imprisonment is fatal where the fine was $35.00 and the imprisonment for 25 days. Hargrove v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 926. A recital merely that defendant was convicted and appeals is fatal where in fact the appeal is from an order dismissing an appeal. Buck v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 12.

11. A new bond cannot be subsequently executed to supply defects in the original bond, though it be an appearance bond. Lydias v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 761.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 286.

13. State v. Bongard, 89 Minn. 426, 94 N. W. 1093.

14. Lawrence v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 455, 76 S. W. 10.

15. Such a bond thereupon becomes functus officio. Fortenberry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 538.

16. The term of court at which defendant was recognized to appear was held, but no action was taken for forfeiting the recognizance until a subsequent term. Bartling v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1047.

17. And the liability of the surety extends to the next term [Comp. St. §§ 32, 33, c. 19]. Bartling v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1047.

when the case is called for trial.[18] In Louisiana, the exact condition required by law for forfeiture must be shown to have been strictly fulfilled.[19]

The court in which the indictment is pending has jurisdiction to declare a forfeiture,[20] but the magistrate is not bound to enter the forfeiture upon the day of the breach.[21]

Sureties on a bail bond can only be discharged from liability by the appearance of their principal according to the condition of the recognizance, or by some intervening act of God, or the law of the state or of the obligee, which renders the performance of that condition impossible,[22] but the obligors of a bond have a right to insist that the prosecution observe the mandates of the statute.[23] The surrender of the defendant by his surety must be made to the sheriff or within the prison.[24] An oral order of release of the accused is sufficient so far as the prisoner and his sureties are concerned.[25]

A continuance of the cause, without consent of the accused, does not discharge the sureties,[26] nor does a failure of the clerk to mark the recognizance "filed,"[27] nor that it was taken by the court at chambers after an adjournment until the next day,[28] nor that it states the offense as V. L. O. L. meaning a violation of the local option law;[29] but it is a good defense that the indictment against the principal is void,[30] and a judgment of forfeiture will be reversed where an indictment or information was not filed within the statutory period after the accused was held to answer.[31]

The seizure of the accused, bailed on a charge of misdemeanor, is a satisfaction of the recognizance,[32] and the execution of an appeal recognizance releases the sureties on the bond below;[33] abandonment of a prosecution is a bar to recovery on a bail bond.[34]

§ 4. Enforcement of bond or recognizance.[35]—In an action against the sureties on a recognizance, it is immaterial that the accused may not have signed it,[36]

18. One accused of a misdemeanor may appear by counsel for any other purpose than to plead guilty [Code Cr. Proc. § 335]. People v. Welsh, 88 App. Div. 65, 84 N. Y. S. 703.

19. Failure of the accused to appear does not work a forfeiture of a bond conditioned that he shall appear when notified and such notice was not given. Notice to the sureties is not sufficient, under such a bond. But see, the dissenting opinion. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Moody, 111 La. 199, 35 So. 516.

20. Kirk v. U. S., 124 F. 324.

21. An entry at a subsequent date is equally good. Lawrence v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 455, 76 S. W. 10.

22. Illness, however severe and critical, is not a legal defense for nonappearance. Ringeman v. State, 136 Ala. 131, 34 So. 351.

23. Delay of more than the statutory period in the filing of an information is a good defense in an action upon the bond. Boyles v. State [Wash.] 77 P. 198.

24. The accused voluntarily entered the court room, where the sheriff took him into custody; held not to be a surrender by the surety. State v. Bordelon, 111 La. 105, 35 So. 476.

25. State v. Lagoni [Mont.] 76 P. 1044.

26. State v. Ballentine [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 317.

27. It was in the possession of the clerk and showed on its face that it had been taken and approved by the judge of the court. State v. Ballentine [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 317.

28. Rev. St. 1899, § 4160 does not limit the judge's power under Rev. St. 1899, § 2543. State v. Woodson [Mo.] 78 S. W. 603. In the absence of proof to the contrary, it will be assumed that the justice had not finally adjourned his court at the time of approving the bond. Crumpecker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 564. A defense that the bond was taken when the court was not in session may be raised without a plea of non est factum. Id.

29. The sureties were in no way misled as to the character of the obligation. Allen v. Com., 24 Ky. L. R. 2257, 73 S. W. 1027.

30. Williams v. Candler, 119 Ga. 179, 45 S. E. 989.

31. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6910. Boyles v. State [Wash.] 77 P. 198.

32. Code Cr. Proc. art. 910, provides that in a misdemeanor, judgment being affirmed, no proceedings need be had after filing the mandate, except to forfeit the recognizance or issue a capias or an execution. Carleton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 1044.

33. Dismissal of the appeal does not revive the liability of the original sureties. Bailey v. State, 71 Ark. 498, 76 S. W. 551.

34. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Moody, 111 La. 199, 35 So. 516.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 287.

36. State v. Ballentine [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 317. But the surety need not sign until the principal has done so. State v. Quattlebaum [S. C.] 45 S. E. 162.

but the failure of the sureties to sign is fatal.[37] An action on a bail bond may be brought in the district where the forfeiture occurred,[38] and in South Carolina, the court of general sessions has jurisdiction.[39]

A scire facias on a forfeited bail bond, not being a civil action, need contain no prayer for judgment.[40] Such writ may be issued by the court to which the criminal prosecution was removed by change of venue.[41] The alteration of a complaint against the principal on a forfeited bail bond, who has been rearrested, does not affect the scire facias proceedings.[42]

The complaint for forfeiture of a bail bond need not allege the filing of the bond,[43] nor with particularity that the defendant was released,[44] but it must state that the court declared the undertaking forfeited,[45] and that the amount due thereon has not been paid.[46]

The court has authority to order the institution of a proceeding upon a bail bond,[47] and may allow an amendment of the citation to the surety, he being in court.[48] In Kentucky, no pleading is required of the commonwealth in proceedings upon forfeited bail bonds.[49]

A stipulation in a recognizance, consenting to judgment immediately upon forfeiture, is a bar to an appeal from such a judgment.[50]

§ 5. Remission of forfeiture and return of deposit in lieu of bail.[51]—In an action upon a recognizance, the trial judge may remit any portion of the sum declared forfeited,[52] even after the close of the term in which forfeiture occurred;[53] but the release of defendant's co-sureties does not affect his liability for his proportionate share.[54] An application to set aside a forfeiture must be made within the statutory period.[55] In New York, there is no statutory limitation,[56] but a delay of sixteen years constitutes laches.[57] A forfeited bond will not be remitted where the principal violated one of the conditions by leaving the state temporarily, and he was never surrendered by his sureties and his subse-

37. The signing of an affidavit of justification at the end of the bond is not equivalent to signing the bond. Nelson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 73 S. W. 398.

38. The accused was arrested and committed in the central district of Indian Territory, and gave bail for appearance in the southern district; the bond being forfeited, an action thereon was properly laid in the southern district. Simon v. United States [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 280.

39. Under Cr. Code, § 85, the court of common pleas is without such jurisdiction. State v. Quattlebaum [S. C.] 45 S. E. 162.

40, 41. State v. Baughman [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 433.

42. A new count was inserted in the complaint. Abbott v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 510.

43. Rev. St. 1898, § 4686, only requires that the bond be returned to the clerk. State v. Davis [Utah] 75 P. 857.

44. It is sufficient to allege that the defendant was "admitted to bail." State v. Davis [Utah] 75 P. 857.

45, 46. State v. Lagoni [Mont.] 76 P. 1044.

47. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 70, c. 69. State v. Davis [Utah] 75 P. 857.

48. Amendment by inserting a date. White v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 770.

49. Cr. Code, § 94, sub. 3. Lawrence v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 455, 76 S. W. 10.

50. An order denying a motion to vacate the judgment is binding on the surety, in the absence of an appeal from such order. People v. Pernetti, 88 N. Y. S. 714.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 287.

52. This rests entirely in the discretion of the court, and it may entertain an application at any time before final judgment. State v. Bongard, 89 Minn. 426, 94 N. W. 1093; In re Sayles, 40 Misc. 135, 81 N. Y. S. 258. It is not an abuse of discretion for the court to remit only a part of a forfeited recognizance, though the accused subsequently submitted to trial, there being unusual equities involved. The offense was fornication and bastardy. Com. v. Cohen, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 55. Final disposition of a recognizance is left to the discretion of the court. Com. v. Real Estate, Title Ins. & Trust Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 235.

53. Mere forfeiture of a recognizance is not such a judgment as passes from the control of the court at the close of the term. Com. v. Real Estate Title Ins. & Trust Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 235.

54. The cosureties, upon their own application, were released upon payment of $281.00 each, but defendant was compelled to pay $1,250.00. State v. Bongard, 89 Minn. 426, 94 N. W. 1093.

55. State v. Bordelon, 111 La. 105, 35 So. 476.

56. In re Sayles, 40 Misc. 135, 81 N. Y. S. 258.

57. A refusal to remit the forfeit after such a period is not an abuse of discretion. In re Sayles, 84 App. Div. 210, 82 N. Y. S. 671.

quent appearance was not a voluntary one.[58] A surety moving for exoneration departs from the statutory procedure at his peril.[59] A certificate of the district attorney that the state has lost no rights is not a prerequisite to an application for remission of a forfeited bail bond, in New York City.[60]

The state cannot compel a return of a deposit, accepted without authority from a third person, and restored to him,[61] but a deposit in lieu of bail, of money belonging to another, may be recovered from the county.[62]

BAILMENT.[63]

§ 1. Definition; Creation of (400).
§ 2. Rights and Liabilities as Between Bailor and Bailee (401).
§ 3. Rights and Liabilities of Third Persons (403).

§ 1. Definition; creation of.[64]—A bailment consists in the delivery of personal property by one person to another to be held according to the purpose or object of the delivery, and to be returned or delivered over when that purpose is accomplished.[65] To constitute a bailment the bailee must acquire independent and temporarily exclusive possession of the property.[66] A bailment has been said to exist whenever the ownership and possession of specific corporeal chattels are lawfully severed from each other.[67] To create the relation of bailor and bailee there must be an agreement to return the identical property received;[68] and if it be stipulated that another thing of the same kind, or an equivalent in value, or otherwise, is to be returned, the transaction will ordinarily constitute a sale and effect a change of title.[69] But where a warehouseman stands ready to deliver to depositors a like quantity of grain of the same kind and quality as that

58. State v. Bordelon [La.] 36 So. 874.

59. Code Cr. Proc. § 590. People v. Mahoney, 89 N. Y. S. 424.

60. In re Sayles, 84 App. Div. 210, 82 N. Y. S. 671. Pen. Code, § 597, governs New York City, and not Laws of 1882, p. 371, c. 410, § 1482. In re Sayles, 40 Misc. 135, 81 N. Y. S. 258.

61. The deposit may lawfully be made only by the defendant. State v. Anderson, 119 Iowa, 711, 94 N. W. 208.

62. Though the justice who took the bail had no authority so to do. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 42 Misc. 38, 85 N. Y. S. 696.

63. Larceny by bailee, see Embezzlement, 1 Curr. L. 998.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 288.

65. Within the meaning of an embezzlement statute, the property must be the subject of larceny [Rev. Code, 1852, p. 943, c. 782, § 1]. State v. Sienkiewiez [Del. Gen. Sess.] 55 A. 346. A contract whereby a person agrees to hold goods for a sheriff until ordered released by him is a contract of bailment. Colbath v. Hoefer, 43 Or. 366, 73 P. 10. Where a porter brought grips to a hotel without authority or notice to any employe of the hotel, the owner not becoming a guest and paying nothing, the hotel company was not even a gratuitous bailee. Tulane Hotel Co. v. Holohan [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 113. Where a grocery company received goods to be sold if possible and if not to be returned, the parties expressly agreeing that there was not to be a sale, the transaction constituted a mere bailment. Furst Bros. v. Commercial Bank of Augusta, 117 Ga. 472, 43 S. E. 728.

66. Contract whereby the owner of timber employs another to convert it into ties at a certain rate per tie when inspected and delivered is not a bailment under statutory definition [Civ. Code 1895, § 2894]. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baker, 118 Ga. 809, 45 S. E. 673.

67. Doyle v. Burns [Iowa] 99 N. W. 195.

68. Where plaintiff deposited wheat in an elevator under an agreement that he was to receive flour and bran therefor, and his assignors under an agreement to receive cash, the transaction was a sale. Potter v. Mt. Vernon Roller Mill Co., 101 Mo. App. 581, 73 S. W. 1005.

69. In a lease of mining property certain personalty was agreed to be returned at the expiration of the term, in kind or value, according to an invoice, at the lessor's option. Held, a sale of the personalty. Scott Mining & Smelting Co. v. Shultz, 67 Kan. 605, 73 P. 903.

NOTE. Bailment or sale: "Where logs are delivered to be sawed into boards, or leather to be made into shoes, rags into paper, olives into oil, grapes into wine, wheat into flour, if the product of the identical articles delivered is to be returned to the original owner in a new form, it is said to be a bailment, and the title never vests in the manufacturer. If, on the other hand, the manufacturer is not bound to return the same wheat, or flour, or paper, but may deliver any other of equal value, it is said to be a sale or a loan, and the title to the thing delivered vests in the manufacturer." Laflin & R. Powder Co. v. Burkhardt, 97 U. S. 110, 24 Law. Ed. 973. Quoted in Potter v. Mt. Vernon Roller Mill Co., 101 Mo. App. 581, 73 S. W. 1005.

deposited by them, the transaction is a bailment, though there is no agreement to return the identical grain deposited.[70] A bailment may result from the actual delivery of property, though the contract sought to be made by the parties is void.[71] The contract between the United States and the owners of mail is a bailment of the letters and their contents, for hire of labor or services.[72] A corporation is not the bailee of its capital stock within the meaning of a statute authorizing the assessment and taxation of property in the possession of a bailee.[73]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities as between bailor and bailee.[74]—Parties to a contract of bailment may substitute a special contract for the one implied by law, and in such case the express agreement determines their rights and liabilities.[75] But in the absence of a special contract, the rights and liabilities of the parties are those that arise and are imposed by law.[76] Legal ownership of the property is in the bailor, and the bailee has bare possession, usually for some specific purpose.[77] Mere possession by the bailee does not give him apparent authority to sell.[78]

When a bailee fails to return property, or returns it in a damaged condition, the burden is upon him to show that the loss or damage did not occur through his negligence.[79] A bailee may excuse nondelivery by showing paramount title in a third person,[80] or seizure of the goods by officers of the law under prima facie valid authority,[81] or that the loss or damage was caused by inevitable accident or 70. Potter v. Mt. Vernon Roller Mill Co., 101 Mo. App. 581, 73 S. W. 1005.

71. Contract on Sunday. State v. Sienkiewicz [Del. Gen. Sess.] 55 A. 346.

72. National Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 70.

73. Ky. St. 1899, § 4023. Com. v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1126, 77 S. W. 186.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 288.

75. If there was an absolute contract to return a boat in as good condition as received, liability thereunder could not be avoided by an act of God, the public enemy or any vis major. Direct Nav. Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 790. Bailee's liability on default fixed by the terms of the written contract. Hire of cash register with $100 forfeit for failure to return. National Cash Register Co. v. Caillias, 84 N. Y. S. 166. Where the place of the return of a portable paving car plant was changed by agreement, it was held there was no delivery to the owner until the key was delivered, and the lessee was held for repairs. Municipal Imp. Co. v. Uvalde Asphalt Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 448. Instructions as to measure of damages for injuries to property leased conflicting, one being on contract liability, and one under the general rule as in tort. Smith v. Stratton [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 4.

76. In such case evidence of the owner's negligence, or an act of God, would be admissible to relieve bailee from liability. Direct Nav. Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 790.

77. In case of a trust, the trustee has legal title and possession. Held, that defendant held certain stock as bailee, not as trustee, and action in regard thereto could be maintained at law. Doyle v. Burns [Iowa] 99 N. W. 195.

78. Nichols v. Monjeau [Mich.] 94 N. W. 6.

79. Bissell v. Harris & Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 779. The law will presume the negligence of the bailee to have been the cause. Damages for injury to mare while in bailee's possession. Jackson v. McDonald [N. J. Law] 57 A. 126. Under a statute requiring ordinary care of a bailee, the burden of showing such care is on him in an action against him for failure to deliver a lost article [Civ. Code, §§ 2491, 2450]. Shropshire v. Sidebottom [Mont.] 76 P. 941. Bailee of horse for hire has burden of proving death of horse, while in his possession, was not caused by his negligence. Snell v. Cornwell, 87 N. Y. S. 1. Contra: The owner of a team to recover for damages to it while in the possession of one who hired it, must show negligence of the defendant as the cause of the damage, but need not show the exact time or place of such negligence. Wisecarver v. Long & Camp, 120 Iowa, 59, 94 N. W. 467. An instruction that in order to recover for injuries to a team while in the possession of one who hired it, the owner must show negligence of the one hiring as the cause of the injuries, does not withdraw from the jury evidence of the condition of the team when taken out and when returned. Id.

80. Calbath v. Hoefer, 43 Or. 366, 73 P. 10. Note: Where a third person asserts title to the property, the bailee may be entitled to maintain suit in the nature of an interpleader. Ball v. Liney, 48 N. Y. 6, 13, 8 Am. Rep. 511. And when the third person claims title derived from the bailor subsequent to the bailment, the bailee may compel the parties to interplead, since there is no denial of the original title or right. Betchel v. Sheafer, 117 Pa. 555, 11 A. 889. But the bailee must stand indifferent. Lawson v. Terminal Warehouse Co., 70 Hun, 281, 24 N. Y. S. 281; De Zouche v. Garrison, 140 Pa. 430, 21 A. 450. And he cannot thus seek relief from a state of affairs brought about by his own misconduct. Hatfield v. McWhorter, 40 Ga. 269. See note on "The Right of Interpleader," 91 Am. St. Rep. 608.

81. Goods taken from warehouse of a carrier. Southern R. Co. v. Heymann, 118 irresistible force.[82] A bailee for hire is charged with the duty of ordinary care in the preservation of the property deposited,[83] and the same degree of care is now usually required of a gratuitous bailee,[84] and of a bailee in a bailment for the benefit of both parties,[85] though some states adhere to the old rule and require only slight care of a bailee acting gratuitously.[86] To constitute conversion by the bailee his acts must amount to an assertion of right or dominion over the property inconsistent with the bailor's right of ownership,[87] and the purpose of the bailment.[88]

A bailee for repairs[89] or other work,[90] has a lien on the goods until charges for services are paid, in the absence of a special contract.[91] But such lien entitles the bailee only to the bare possession of the goods.[92] He may maintain detinue for the goods, or trover and conversion for their value, to the amount of his claim, if wrongfully deprived of his possession,[93] but cannot maintain a suit in equity to sell the property for payment of the claim.[94] One to whom goods are delivered for the purpose of performing work on them cannot recover for unworkmanlike services,[95] is liable for damages caused by the improper manner in which the work is done,[96] but is not liable for the loss of the goods not caused by his negligence.[97] The lessee of property is liable for the value of its use, less the expense of keeping.[98] In a suit for damages for breach of the contract of bailment, the bailees are estopped to deny matters admitted by them in a written receipt given for the goods.[99] A recovery from a bailee who has failed to account for goods will not be prevented by the fact that plaintiff could not

Ga. 616, 45 S. E. 491. A bailee for reward is not liable for failure to deliver goods to the bailor on demand, when the goods were taken under authority of a valid legal process, and the bailee notified the bailor of that fact within a reasonable time. Glass v. Hauser, 40 Misc. 661, 83 N. Y. S. 177.

82. This showing places burden on bailor to prove negligence of bailee. Bissell v. Harris & Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 779.

83. A bailee of horses liable for loss when pasture was not securely fenced [Civ. Code, § 2491]. Shropshire v. Sidebottom [Mont.] 76 P. 941.

84. Bank not liable for bonds kept in safe gratuitously, and stolen by trusted employe. Smith v. Elizabethport Banking Co., 69 N. J. Law, 288, 55 A. 248. Where a carrier receives personal baggage with the expectation that it is to be accompanied by the owner, but the owner does not in fact accompany it, the carrier is liable only as a gratuitous bailee. Trunk rifled while in baggageroom. Wood v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 98 Me. 98, 56 A. 457.

85. One who hires a team must use ordinary care in driving it, which includes observing the team while on the road to note effect of travel. Wisecarver v. Long, 120 Iowa, 59, 94 N. W. 467.

86. The mere fact that a bailee acting gratuitously, may expect an incidental advantage from his service, does not make the bailment one for hire. Merchants kept money for elevator owners to pay wheat checks, to keep business in the town and to save owners the expense of a safe in the elevator. Bissell v. Harris & Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 779. When one not a guest sends baggage to a hotel without compensation to be made, the innkeeper, if liable at all, is only liable as a gratuitous bailee, for gross negligence. Tulane Hotel Co. v. Holohan [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 113.

87. Where a bailee of a boat left it in possession of the owner, and never asserted any further rights over it, there was no conversion, though the boat was not delivered to the owner at the place agreed upon. Direct Nav. Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 790.

88. State v. Sienkiewiez [Del. Gen. Sess.] 55 A. 346. When one with whom money had been left to pay wheat checks changed some of the bills, and placed remainder in a bag in his safe, it was held there was no conversion, since the purpose of the deposit was carried out, and hence he was liable only as a bailee of the funds. Bissell v. Harris [Neb.] 95 N. W. 779.

89. Henderson v. Mahoney, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 539, 72 S. W. 1019.

90. Cut garments to be sewed. Davidson v. Fankuchen, 88 N. Y. S. 196.

91. A bailee of a bicycle for repairs, who agreed to ship it when repaired to the bailor, was not entitled to withhold it until charges were paid, but was liable in damages to the bailor for so wrongfully withholding it. Rollins v. Bowman Cycle Co., 89 N. Y. S. 289.

92, 93, 94. Burrough v. Ely [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 371.

95. Long v. Gingold, 84 N. Y. S. 194.

96. Damage to skins held not to have been caused by the dyer. Steinberg v. Schleshinger, 84 N. Y. S. 522.

97. Diamond to be polished lost because the machine which bailor caused to be used was defective. Vroman v. Kryn, 86 N. Y. S. 94.

98. Hire of horse. Not error to neglect to so instruct, when instruction was not requested. Palmer v. Smith [Conn.] 56 A. 516.

99. Colbath v. Hoefer, 43 Or. 366, 73 P. 10.

establish its loss definitely from its books, owing to negligent bookkeeping, if its claim could be otherwise proven.[1]

§ 3. Rights and liabilities of third persons.[2]—Bare possession by a bailee gives him no apparent authority to sell goods so as to vest title in a third person,[3] and an absolute sale by the bailee ends the bailment, so that the general owner has an immediate right of possession on which he can maintain trover.[4] The owner of property will not be estopped by failure to promptly disaffirm a sale by a bailee, to assert title against a subsequent transferee, when he had no knowledge of the intent of the first vendee to sell it.[5] A bailee for hire of services may maintain an action of trespass, trover, or conversion, for the disturbance of his possession by a wrongdoer, and may recover the value of the property as damages.[6] The United States, as the bailee of mail carried by it, may recover from the surety of a mail carrier the value of mail matter stolen by him, while performing his duty, whether or not the owners have presented claims for indemnity to the government.[7] A mortgage given on a stock of goods will not cover goods held by the mortgagor as bailee only.[8] A bailee of a third person may assert her right to possession of the property as against attaching creditors of her husband.[9]

BANKING AND FINANCE.

§ 1. The Occupation in General; Regulation, Supervision, Control (403).

§ 2. Associated or Incorporated Bankers; Corporate Existence Generally (404). Dividends (404). Transfer of Stock (405). Lien on Stock (405). General Powers (405). Reserve Fund (406). Personal Liability of Directors and Officers (406). An Action Against Wrongdoing Directors (407). Unauthorized Acts (408). Official or Individual Capacity (409). Notice to Bank from Knowledge of Officers (409). Winding Up (410). Reorganization (411). Stockholders' Individual Liability (411).

§ 3. National Banks; Officers and Examiners (412). Powers (412). Violation of Banking Act (413). Stock (413). Receivership (413). Enforcement of Stockholders' Liability (414). State Interference and Powers of State Courts (414). Usury by National Banks (415).

§ 4. Savings Banks (415). Powers (416). Liabilities of Directors (416). Rules (416). Reliance on Passbooks (416). Deposits and Repayment (417).

§ 5. Loan, Investment, and Trust Companies (417).

§ 6. Deposits and Repayment Thereof; Checks, Drafts, Certificates, Receipts, Credits (417). Relation of Banker and Depositor (417). Evidence of Deposit (418). Letters of Credit (418). Repayment of Deposits (418). Overdrafts (420). Forged or Altered Checks and Drafts (420). Checks Drawn Without Authority (422). Set-Off of Debts Due Bank Against Deposit (422). Deposits Received After Insolvency (423). General Deposits (423). Special Deposits (423). Specific Deposits (424). Trust Funds (424). Slander of Credit or Damages for Failure to Pay Checks (424). Actions to Recover Deposits (424). Defenses (425). Notes Payable at Bank (425). Certifications (425).

§ 7. Loans and Discounts (426). Drafts with Bills of Lading Attached (426).

§ 8. Collections (426), see special article p. 428. Duty to Preserve Rights of Parties (427).

§ 9. Offenses Against Banking Laws; Penalties (427). Receipt of Deposits When Insolvent (427).

§ 1. The occupation in general; regulation, supervision, control.[10]—The right to carry on a banking business is not a franchise, it belonging to the citizens

1. Knoop, Freirick & Co.'s Agency v. Columbus Compress Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 258.
2. See 1 Curr. L. 289.
3. Nichols v. Monjeau [Mich.] 94 N. W. 6. A mere bailee for storage has no authority to sell, and a bona fide purchaser from him does not acquire title as against the real owner. Ullman, Einstein & Co. v. Biddle, 53 W. Va. 415, 44 S. E. 280. The bare fact that the owner of property intrusts its custody to another does not give that other any apparent authority to sell and pass title to a third person Applied in case of a clerk who sold goods as his own. Ball-Barnhart-Putman Co. v. Lane [Mich.] 97 N. W. 727.
4. Lessee sold lasting machines. United Shoe Machinery Co. v. Holt [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1056.
5. Nichols v. Monjeau [Mich.] 94 N. W. 6.
6. Applied to a case where the United States recovered from a surety company the value of registered mail matter stolen by a letter carrier. National Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 70. A bailee of goods sued for labor performed on the goods by a third person may maintain a counterclaim for their conversion. Bailee sent goods to be laundered and returned. Langfelder v. Renouf, 84 N. Y. S. 236.
7. National Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 70.
8. Furst Bros. v. Commercial Bank, 117 Ga. 472, 43 S. E. 728.
9. Vermillion v. Parsons, 101 Mo. App. 602, 73 S. W. 994.
10. See 1 Curr. L. 289.

generally;[11] but the right to carry on such business through the agency of a corporation is a franchise, dependent on a grant of corporate powers by the state.[12] In some states, statutes regulate the amount of capital individuals must have in order to engage in the business,[13] and the manner of electing directors.[14] Officers of a building and loan association by participating in its lawful business do not become private bankers.[15]

Taxation of banks.[16]—An act exempting the capital of a bank from taxation includes an exemption from the imposition of a license tax for the carrying on of the banking business.[17] Savings banks are not charitable institutions so as to be exempt from taxation.[18] In New York, the personal property of trust companies is exempt from local assessment and taxation.[19]

§ 2. Associated or incorporated bankers; corporate existence generally.[20] Stock subscriptions.[21]—A subscription for stock in order to be binding must have the elements of a contract,[22] and it may be made by parol.[23] Where certain persons subscribe for all the stock of a bank, agreeing to afterwards apportion it among others, a subsequent subscription by one of the latter and a certificate issued to him does not constitute an overissue invalidating the last subscription.[24] A purchase of its own stock by a banking corporation, when legal,[25] does not constitute a reduction of the capital stock,[26] but the shares becoming the property of the bank may be resold or held for the benefit of creditors and the remaining stockholders, together with any dividends that may be earned on it.[27]

Dividends.[28]—A dividend declared in disregard of statutory regulations is void.[29] Failure to pay a declared dividend to all stockholders pro rata gives rise to a cause of action against the bank in favor of the stockholders discriminated against.[30] A distribution of the reserve fund will not be ordered by the court in the absence of a showing that plaintiff is a stockholder and that the directors had refused to declare dividends to which he was entitled.[31]

11. Bank of California v. San Francisco, 142 Cal. 276, 75 P. 832.

12. Taxation of a bank. Bank of California v. San Francisco, 142 Cal. 276, 75 P. 832.

13. Under the Laws of Missouri [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1278, 1299, 1301], individuals engaging in the business of private banking in a city of over 150,000 inhabitants are not required to have a paid up capital of over $5,000, and when the law is conformed to, the secretary of state is obliged to issue the certificate provided for in § 1277 or mandamus will lie. State v. Cook, 174 Mo. 100, 73 S. W. 489.

14. Comp. Laws, § 8553, providing for the election of directors on the cumulative plan was repealed as to banks by Comp. Laws, §§ 6101, 6153. Attorney General v. Bridgman [Mich.] 96 N. W. 438.

15. And hence are not guilty of carrying on such a business without authority from the state. State v. Newberry [N. J. Law] 58 A. 163.

16. See Licenses, 2 Curr. L. 730; Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

17. Construing the provisions of the charter of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, as amended by La. Act Jan. 30, 1836, § 4. In this case the bank was incorporated to aid the agricultural interests of the state, and the state assisted by a loan of its credit, and retained partial control. Citizens' Bank v. Parker, 192 U. S. 73, 24 S. Ct. 181.

18. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. 168, 82 N. Y. S. 621.

19. Construing Laws 1901, p. 318, c. 132, § 202, and § 187a (p. 316). People v. Lane, 41 Misc. 1, 83 N. Y. S. 606.

20, 21. See 1 Curr. L. 290.

22. Somerset Nat. Banking Co.'s Receiver v. Brinkley, 24 Ky. L. R. 2088, 72 S. W. 1129.

23. National bank. Somerset Nat. Banking Co.'s Receiver v. Adams, 24 Ky. L. R. 2083, 72 S. W. 1125.

24. Reorganization of state bank into national. Somerset Nat. Banking Co.'s Receiver v. Adams, 24 Ky. L. R. 2083, 72 S. W. 1125.

25. See post, General powers, p. 405.

26, 27. Draper v. Blackwell, 138 Ala. 182, 35 So. 110.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 290.

29. Construing Rev. St. 1899, § 1293. Lapsley v. Merchants' Bank of Jefferson City [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1095.

30. Tax dividend declared by national bank paid to some stockholders not to others. Redhead v. Iowa Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 806.

31. Mulcahy v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc. [Cal.] 77 P. 910. An allegation in the complaint of bad faith on the part of the officers in endeavoring to exclude the plaintiff from membership has no bearing on any question relative to the reserve fund. Id. The complaint alleging as a reason for the accumulation of the fund that the directors wished to divide it amongst themselves on dissolution, the allegation constitutes a mere conclusion, as is also the allegation of no in-

Transfer of stock.[32]—The stock must be transferred to one legally liable to assume the obligation of a stockholder and who cannot repudiate such obligation.[33] A bank may waive those provisions of its by-laws relating to the transfer of its stock.[34] A statute requiring a transfer on the books of the bank, a delivery to the cashier with instructions to so transfer it is insufficient.[35] The cashier is not a necessary party in a suit to compel a transfer of stock on the books of the bank;[36] the president is sufficient.[37] Where a stockholder holds as a trustee for future purchasers it is not necessary to show authority from him for a transfer of such stock by the bank to a purchaser.[38]

Lien on stock.[39]—In Georgia, a bank's lien on stock being created by contract or by its charter cannot be foreclosed by judicial proceedings unless the defendant is duly served by an officer or by publication.[40]

General powers.[41]—It is competent for banks to form clearing-houses, and the rules made supplant the law as between themselves.[42] In the absence of statutory restriction, a solvent banking corporation, not contemplating insolvency or dissolution, may purchase its own stock in payment of a previously existing debt due from its stockholder,[43] and may contract to sell another's stock in a corporation within a certain time and for a stated sum.[44] A bank has the power to lease property,[45] and is liable upon the covenants of the lease.[46] It may become a party to a fraudulent conspiracy, the same as a natural person and with like responsibility.[47] Dealing in checks is part of the general powers of a bank,[48] and it may under certain circumstances become an undisclosed principal upon negotiable paper,[49] though it has no authority to become an accommodation surety for a business in which it has no interest, and from which it can derive no profit.[50] Banks can only consolidate when authorized by law, and then in the manner provided by law;[51] but where a bank, in contemplation of closing up its business, sells its assets, property and business to another bank, and makes arrangements for the liquidation of its assets, there is no consolidation.[52] Under the statutes of some debtedness except as to depositors, and hence fund too large, the amount of deposits not being shown. Id.

32. See 1 Curr. L. 291.

33. Transfer to an infant does not relieve transferror from liability. Aldrich v. Bingham, 131 F. 363.

34. By-law provided that the transferee should be approved by board of directors, and should sign the by-laws. Defendant did neither, yet bank canceled old certificate and issued her a new one and paid her dividends. Held, provisions waived. People's Home Sav. Bank v. Rickard, 139 Cal. 285, 73 P. 858.

35. Construing Code of Laws 1902, § 1894. White v. Commercial & Farmers' Bank [S. C.] 46 S. E. 94.

36. Johnson v. Hume [Ala.] 36 So. 421.

37. Process should be directed to him. Johnson v. Hume [Ala.] 36 So. 421.

38. Reorganization of state bank into a national bank. Somerset Nat. Banking Co.'s Receiver v. Adams, 24 Ky. L. R. 2083, 72 S. W. 1125.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 291.

40. Owens v. Atlanta Trust & Banking Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 215.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 291.

42. Rules as to effect of indorsement. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank v. Nevada Bank, 139 Cal. 564, 73 P. 456.

43. Draper v. Blackwell & Keith, 138 Ala. 182, 35 So. 110. For effect of such a purchase, see Stock subscriptions, ante p. 404.

44. As against public policy nor, in this case, as violating Laws 1892, p. 1911, c. 689, prohibiting a bank from holding stock in excess of 10 per cent. of its capital. Guase v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 723.

45. Weeks v. International Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 370.

46. Where, owing to insolvency and the appointment of a receiver, a bank vacates its premises and thus breaks the covenants in a lease, it is liable in damages to the lessor. McGraw v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 390.

47. Wright v. Stewart, 130 F. 905.

48. The fact that a bank purchased a check instead of receiving it for collection is not a deviation from the usual course of business so as to show bad faith. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles, 89 App. Div. 281, 86 N. Y. S. 38.

49. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 96 N. W. 365.

50. Surety on replevin bond. Sturdevant Bros. & Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 819.

51. On Jan. 16, 1896, there was no law in Oklahoma authorizing two banks to consolidate. Overstreet v. Citizens' Bank, 12 Okl. 383, 72 P. 379.

52. Overstreet v. Citizens' Bank, 12 Okl. 383, 72 P. 379.

states, the bank through its officers is the agent of the stockholders in listing their stock for taxation,[53] and, as such agent, the bank cannot, in a suit to tax such shares, raise the question that some of them may have changed hands,[54] nor that the proceeding is unconstitutional.[55]

Reserve fund.—The amount of the reserve fund being left to the discretion of the directors, the courts will not attempt to control them unless their proceedings are unfair, or the officers act wantonly and in bad faith, or with disregard of the rights of the stockholders in such fund.[56]

Personal liability of directors and officers.[57]—A director is only required to act in good faith and to exercise such a degree of care as a reasonably prudent man would exercise under the same circumstances,[58] in some states, as such a man would exercise in his own affairs.[59] There is a marked difference between the duty which the directors owe to the bank, and that which they owe to strangers or creditors; in the absence of statute, they are not liable to the latter for mere nonfeasance.[60] A stockholder may bring an action against them for losses occasioned by their negligence, in behalf of himself and all others in a like situation, either after demand made that the bank should bring the action, and its refusal, or without demand, where the persons committing the wrongful acts continue as directors;[61] but such plaintiff must be a stockholder both at the time of the commission of the acts complained of, and at the time of the commencement of the action;[62] the plaintiff not being so qualified, a qualified stockholder being permitted by the court to intervene, the complaint should not be dismissed.[63] In most states, banks are prohibited from investing funds in trade or commerce, and the directors are liable for a loss sustained thereby;[64] they are also liable for money loaned to borrowers who were insolvent at the time, to the knowledge of the directors.[65] An allegation that overdrafts were negligently permitted is sustained by proof of illegal overdrafts.[66] In some states, by statute, a director is required to examine into the affairs of the bank, and it is no excuse for failure to do so that the cashier's fraud was so skillfully done that such an examination would not have revealed the same,[67] but this need not be done personally, for the custom of appointing discount and examining committees to attend to the details of the management of the business is a reasonable one.[68] A director may do business with a bank, and, so long as he does not act for the bank as well as for himself, his relation to the bank is the same as any other patron.[69]

A banker without compensation, investing and collecting the money of a depositor, is bound to exercise ordinary care and diligence,[70] and is responsible for 53. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 4241, as to notice in proceedings to tax omitted property. Com. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158.

54. Com. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158.

55. As violating the 14th amendment to the United States Constitution. Com. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158.

56. St. 1862, p. 200, c. 187, § 11, does not prevent a bank from creating a reserve fund in excess of $100,000. The accumulation of a reserved fund of $250,000 is not of itself fraudulent. Mulcahy v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc. [Cal.] 77 P. 910.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 291.

58. Stone v. Rottman [Mo.] 82 S. W. 76.

NOTE. Liability and duties of directors: Directors are charged with the duties of trustees, and must use good faith in the care of the bank's property. For a violation of these duties they are liable to account in equity, the same as other trustees. Bosworth v. Allen, 168 N. Y. 157, 61 N. E. 163, 85 Am. St. Rep. 667.—From note in Winchester v. Howard [Cal.] 89 Am. St. Rep. 169.

59. Hanna v. Lyon [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 778.

60. Stone v. Rottman [Mo.] 82 S. W. 76.

61, 62, 63. Hanna v. Lyon [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 778.

64, 65, 66. Stone v. Rottman [Mo.] 82 S. W. 76.

67. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 471, 472. Forbes v. Mohr [Kan.] 76 P. 827.

68. Stone v. Rottman [Mo.] 82 S. W. 76.

69. Representations by a director as to the financial conditions of the maker and indorser of a note he wished to discount. St. Johns Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 97 N. W. 704.

70, 71. Watson v. Fagner, 208 Ill. 136, 70

any loss resulting from a failure to do so;[71] nor is he relieved from such responsibility by the fact that the depositor made no attempt to collect the money invested.[72] As to what is admissible in evidence to show good faith and prudence, see notes.[73]

A cashier is not absolutely liable for overdrafts of a customer allowed by him according to the custom and usage of the bank, and upon the advice of the president and directors;[74] neither is he negligent in relying upon an identification by one personally known to him, there being nothing in that person's reputation or the transactions that would excite the suspicions of an ordinarily prudent man.[75] The cashier is not individually liable for the breach of a contract made in his official capacity.[76] In an action against a cashier for conversion of the bank's money, it is immaterial to whom he gave it, for what he spent it, or whether he loaned it to a solvent or insolvent corporation.[77]

An officer of a bank is liable for the natural and direct results of his acts, notwithstanding that some of his superiors may have been careless and some dishonest;[78] but when acting in good faith, he is not liable for the bank's own negligence.[79] Officers of a bank who are concerned in a misappropriation of its funds are liable, although they do not profit thereby;[80] and those who negligently fail to prevent it when they have knowledge of it are within that category.[81] In Iowa, a loan to an officer of a bank must be passed upon by the board of directors.[82] Statutes in some states render bank officials criminally liable for receiving deposits after knowledge of bank's insolvency.[83] A bank may ratify the acts of its officers and thus relieve them from liability.[84]

An action against wrongdoing directors.[85] Powers of officers and right to represent bank.[86]—As between a bank and innocent third parties who have dealt with its agents, authority may sometimes be inferred from a course of dealing.[87] It is without the general scope of a bank president's authority to agree to sell pledged property at a price bid therefor at a sale;[88] but the bank by buying the N. E. 23. If he loans it to persons largely indebted to the bank, who afterward become insolvent, the suspicion arises that it was loaned with a view to carrying the borrower along until the money due the bank could be collected. Id.

72. Watson v. Fagner, 208 Ill. 136, 70 N. E. 23.

73. In an action against the president of a bank for loaning the money of the bank on worthless collateral, evidence that such collateral was received by other banks with other security in loans to the same party is admissible when it is shown what estimate was placed by them on the questionable security. Seventeenth Ward Bank v. Smith, 83 App. Div. 64, 82 N. Y. S. 529. The fact that other banks had made loans to the same party for which none of the collaterals in question appeared to have been accepted as security is irrelevant in such an action. Id.

74. Only required to exercise the care and judgment of an ordinarily prudent man. First Nat. Bank v. Reese, 25 Ky. L. R. 778, 76 S. W. 384.

75. King v. Exchange Bank [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1038.

76. Pease v. Francis [R. I.] 55 A. 686.

77. Allegations of these matters will be stricken from the pleadings. First Nat. Bank v. Gaddis, 31 Wash. 596, 72 P. 460.

78. Fiala v. Ainsworth [Neb.] 94 N. W. 153.

79. A bank took notes for collection, the notes being indorsed by its president. The bank later delivered up the original notes and made further advances; these notes the president did not indorse. Held, he was not liable for failing to tell bank of debtor's private and secured debt to him, where the advances were made without his knowledge and at the time of the maturity of the original debt, the debtor's property was sufficient to pay both. Bank of Newport v. Watson [Ark.] 74 S. W. 15.

80, 81. Fiala v. Ainsworth [Neb.] 94 N. W. 153.

82. A blanket resolution affords no protection [Acts 15th Gen. Assem. p. 52, c. 60, § 17]. German Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa, 737, 98 N. W. 606.

83. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 7121 is not unconstitutional as violating art. 12, § 12 of the Washington State Constitution. State v. Oleson [Wash.] 76 P. 686.

84. Acquiescing for five years in the loaning of money to a speculative corporation held to relieve cashier from liability. First Nat. Bank v. Gaddis, 31 Wash. 596, 72 P. 460.

85, 86. See 1 Curr. L. 292.

87. Contract entered into by president and treasurer without authority of board of directors. Smith v. Bank of New England [N. H.] 54 A. 385.

88. Even though he owned a controlling interest in said bank. Agreed to sell to property and keeping it with knowledge of the agreement and fraud becomes liable therefor, and cannot refuse to sell to the surety on the ground that the amount bid was insufficient to pay the debt.[89] Acts of a cashier in the usual course of business and within the apparent scope of his authority are binding on the bank.[90] He is the agent of the bank in transmitting funds for a depositor,[91] and being the collecting officer of the bank, he has the power to enter into a contract looking towards the collection of debts due the bank,[92] and in doing so, may obligate the bank to pay one a reasonable commission for procuring a purchaser of real estate held by the bank, under a mortgage, as security for a debt.[93] He has no authority to knowingly accept a worthless check on another bank and charge his bank with the amount thereof,[94] nor can he generally bind the bank by an issuance of drafts or certified checks when given for his private business,[95] nor has he any apparent or implied authority to make any representation on behalf of the bank as to the solvency of one of its debtors.[96] A bank may recover funds misappropriated by its cashier from one receiving them with knowledge of the misappropriation,[97] and it is no defense to this action that the directors were negligent.[98] Fraud by the cashier when acting in his official capacity is fraud of the bank.[99] Authority to a cashier to buy and sell stocks covers purchases made for cash and on margins.[1] Under a statute requiring claims against a decedent's estate to be sworn to, the claim of a bank may be verified by the cashier where the president is the administrator of the estate.[2] A teller may be authorized to enter into a transaction by custom and usage,[3] to discount notes.[4]

Unauthorized acts.[5]—A bank is estopped to deny an officer's authority to do an ultra vires act not malum in se or malum prohibitum,[6] and when within the apparent scope of his authority,[7] when to do so would injure an innocent person who has dealt with the officer on the faith of his apparent authority. Where unauthorized acts of an officer of a bank are done under circumstances raising no implication of authority, and are never ratified by the bank, the bank is not bound surety on debt. Memphis City Bank v. Smith, 110 Tenn. 337, 75 S. W. 1065.

The fact that the president and treasurer executed the contract in question can be considered with other executive acts performed by them without special authorization, as bearing on the question of implied authority to execute the contract. Smith v. Bank of New England [N. H.] 54 A. 385.

89. Memphis City Bank v. Smith, 110 Tenn. 337, 75 S. W. 1065.

90. Agreement to hold securities deposited for collection for another. Mercantile Nat. Bank v. Peabody [Colo. App.] 72 P. 611.

91. Bank is liable for misappropriation of funds. Goshorn v. People's Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 185.

92, 93. First Nat. Bank v. Ratliff [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 591.

94. Van Buren County Sav. Bank v. Stirling Woolen Mills [Iowa] 94 N. W. 945.

95. A debtor of a cashier taking a certified check drawn by the latter upon his bank is bound to take notice of the latter's authority to make such particular certification. Rankin v. Bush, 87 N. Y. S. 539.

There is no presumption that the wrongdoer has paid value or made restitution, and the burden is upon those claiming that he did to prove it. Mendel v. Boyd [Neb.] 99 N. W. 493. A bank cannot recover the amount collected on a cashier's draft issued by its cashier to his individual creditor, the cashier having implied authority through custom and usage to so do. Campbell v. National Broadway Bank [C. C. A.] 130 F. 699.

96. Taylor v. Commercial Bank, 174 N. Y. 181, 66 N. E. 726.

97. Draft by cashier, over his official title, on correspondent, to be used in speculation, held knowledge to commission company of abuse of authority on the part of the cashier. Kitchens v. Teasdale Comm. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1177.

98. Kitchens v. Teasdale Comm. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1177.

99. Fraud in obtaining collateral for debt of bank when bank was insolvent. Hallett v. Fish, 120 F. 986.

1. Bank claimed to be exempt from liability for purchases on margins. National Bank of Boyertown v. Fridenberg, 206 Pa. 243, 55 A. 960.

2. Cox v. Higginbotham's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1057, 76 S. W. 1079.

3, 4. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman [S. D.] 97 N. W. 12.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 293.

6. An executed ultra vires agreement. York v. Farmers' Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 968.

7. The act of a cashier in obligating the bank as an accommodation surety on a replevin bond, in a suit in which it has no interest, is not within his apparent authority. Sturdevant Bros. & Co. v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Neb.] 95 N. W. 819.

thereby.[8] A third person is bound to know that a cashier cannot deal with himself individually, and hence the bank is not bound by the acts of the cashier in such a transaction.[9] Unauthorized acts may be ratified by accepting the benefits of the transaction,[10] or by subsequent knowledge and assent,[11] and knowing, the assent may be shown by silence and acquiescence, as well as by formal vote of ratification.[12] An unauthorized application of money by a bank may be ratified by the depositor.[13]

Official or individual capacity.[14]—One acting as a director and cashier of a bank is an implied trustee or agent for it.[15] The fact that a cashier is personally interested in a transaction is sufficient to put the other party upon inquiry as to the actual extent of the cashier's power,[16] he has no implied authority to dispose of the funds of the bank in satisfaction of his private debts,[17] and the bank can recover from the party receiving the same the amount so paid.[18] In making an agreement with a debtor that certain money shall be applied in a particular manner to his indebtedness a cashier acts in his official capacity.[19]

Notice to bank from knowledge of officers.[20]—Knowledge of the president of fraud in an agreement to sell pledged property of a bank is knowledge of the bank.[21] A bank is presumed to have knowledge of the fraud of its cashier.[22] An official's interest being hostile to the bank, his knowledge is not chargeable to the bank.[23] A bank is not chargeable with notice of facts of which its president acquires knowledge while dealing, in his private capacity, and on his own behalf, with third persons,[24] nor is knowledge on his part thus acquired imputable to the bank when dealing with him as an individual.[25] The fact that officers of a bank are stockholders in a corporation, which is the payee of a note, does not charge the bank with constructive notice of defenses of the maker of said note against the payee, where said officers had no actual notice thereof.[26] Knowledge of a director of a bank is not notice to the bank.[27] The holding of a public meeting in a city

8. President extended time of payment of debt. Arbogast v. American Exch. Nat. Bank [C.C.A.] 125 F. 518. See 1 Curr.L. 293.

9. Guaranteed his individual notes. German Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa, 737, 98 N. W. 606.

10. Cashier procured security for note given to debtor of bank, bank failed and debt was paid by persons owning the collateral, held could look to the receiver of the bank for reimbursement. Hallett v. Fish, 120 F. 986. Where a cashier gives his individual notes to a bank which sold them, receiving and retaining the proceeds, it ratifies the acts of the cashier. German Sav. Bank v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa, 737, 98 N. W. 606. See 1 Curr. L. 294.

11. Actual knowledge is not necessary, if in the exercise of ordinary care they ought to have known it is in law as if they knew. Smith v. Bank of New England [N. H.] 54 A. 385. See 1 Curr. L. 294.

12. Smith v. Bank of New England [N. H.] 54 A. 385.

13. Money to be applied to secured debt and thus release collateral, money was applied to unsecured debt, with knowledge of these facts a renewal note was given and interest paid for two years. Held ratified. Pease v. Francis [R. I.] 55 A. 686.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 294.

15. Statute of limitations runs against the fraud from the time of the commission of the offense, unless concealed. Central Bank of Kansas City v. Thayer [Mo.] 82 S. W. 142.

16. Paid individual debts with funds of the bank. Hier v. Miller [Kan.] 75 P. 77; Rankin v. Bush, 87 N. Y. S. 539. See 1 Curr. L. 294.

17. Paid individual debts by entering amount thereof as a credit on depositor's bank book. Held, could recover of depositor. Hier v. Miller [Kan.] 75 P. 77; Rankin v. Bush, 87 N. Y. S. 539. See, however, Campbell v. National Broadway Bank [C. C. A.] 130 F. 599.

18. Hier v. Miller [Kan.] 75 P. 77.

19. Pease v. Francis [R. I.] 55 A. 686.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 295.

21. Memphis City Bank v. Smith, 110 Tenn. 337, 75 S. W. 1065.

22. Embezzlement. Goshorn v. People's Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 185.

23. Attorney of bank was president of a corporation in whose favor note was drawn. Note was without consideration. Davis v. Boone County Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2078, 80 S. W. 161; Central Bank of Kansas City v. Thayer [Mo.] 82 S. W. 142. Knowledge of fraud. Camden Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Lord [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 607.

24, 25. People's Bank of Talbotton v. Exchange Bank, 116 Ga. 820, 43 S. E. 269.

26. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Sherman [S. D.] 97 N. W. 12.

27. That a grantee holds land as trustee. Homes Sav. & State Bank v. Peoria Agricultural & Trotting Soc., 205 Ill. 9, 59 N. E. 17. See 1 Curr. L. 295.

does not constitute notice to a bank in said city of the action taken therein, none of its officers being present.[28]

Winding up.[29]—Upon failure of the bank all general depositors stand on an equality;[30] this rule is not changed by reason of the deposit being a trust fund to the knowledge of the bank.[31] A deposit of money to purchase a letter of credit does not constitute a trust fund for the benefit of bankers honoring drafts drawn against the letter of credit, so as to give them priority over other creditors of the bank issuing the letter of credit.[32] The equity rule allowing dividends to a secured creditor upon the full amount of his claim obtains.[33] One who is induced by fraud of the cashier, when acting in his official capacity, to furnish securities for a loan to the bank, but is not told that the bank's capital is gone, is a preferred creditor to the amount of the loan paid by him to save his securities.[34] A preferred creditor is not entitled to be paid from a fund created by enforcing the double liability of stockholders to the exclusion of other creditors,[35] but a part of the general assets being used to enforce the stockholder's double liability, such preferred claim is entitled to a preference out of such double liability fund to the extent that the general assets were so used.[36] In proceedings to wind up a bank, the debt of the bank to a creditor who holds its note, and, as collateral, notes indorsed by it, is as regards the creditor's right to dividends the bank's note only.[37] In some states debts due the public are given priority over other claims.[38] The receiver of an insolvent bank may enjoin the suit of a resident creditor brought in another state, which prevents the collection of the assets of the bank.[39] A national bank being placed in the hands of a receiver as insolvent, the Federal law from that moment becomes the law of the distribution of its assets,[40] and the bankruptcy law has no application where the proceedings are under a special statute.[41] The owner of a trust fund which comes into the hands of the receiver of an insolvent national bank is not entitled to interest thereon, when it has not actually earned any.[42] The stockholders' agent for winding up the affairs of a national bank may be sued in the Federal courts irrespective of citizenship.[43] In determining whether the dissolution of a savings bank is "advisable," the only interests which should influence the judgment of the directors are those of the people,[44] and a depositor therein may, as a depositor and also as a citizen of the 28. Homes Sav. & State Bank v. Peoria Agricultural & Trotting Soc., 206 Ill. 9, 69 N. E. 17.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 296.

30. Officer v. Officer, 120 Iowa, 389, 94 N. W. 947.

31. Deposit by executor of funds of estate. Officer v. Officer, 120 Iowa, 389, 94 N. W. 947.

32. In this case there was a signature card on which was written "Guaranty for a letter of credit." Held, did not alter the above rule. Kuehne v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 715.

33. In the winding up of a bank through a receiver, G L. 1896, c. 178, § 42 et seq. governs, and does not change above rule. In re Burke [R. I.] 55 A. 825.

34. Collaterals advanced by financee of cashier. Hallett v. Fish, 120 F. 986; Id., 123 F. 201.

35. Liability of stockholders under Code, §§ 1882, 1883. Sioux City Stockyards Co. v. Fribourg, 121 Iowa, 230, 96 N. W. 747.

36. Sioux City Stockyards Co. v. Fribourg, 121 Iowa, 230, 96 N. W. 747.

37. Proceedings were under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 178, § 42 et seq. In re Burke [R. I.] 55 A. 825.

38. Under Code 1902, § 2538. Liability to a county is a debt due the public. Lockwood v. Lockwood [S. C.] 47 S. E. 441.

39. Davis v. Butters Lumber Co., 132 N. C. 233, 43 S. E. 650.

40. To the exclusion of the law of any state. First Nat. Bank v. Selden [C. C. A.] 120 F. 212.

41. In re Burke [R. I.] 55 A. 825.

42. Hallett v. Fish, 123 F. 201.

43. Construing Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, § 4, 25 Stat. 436 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 514]. Weeks v. International Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 370.

44. Under P. L. 1902, p. 677, c. 224. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst. [N. J. Eq.] 54 A. 543. The fact that a trust company and a national bank have been organized in the same community with a savings bank does not show that the dissolution of the latter is "advisable." Id. Under P. L. 1876, p. 346 [the savings bank act, and made applicable by § 52 to institutions already organized] declaring that "all vacancies in such board by death, resignation or otherwise, shall be community, maintain a bill to prevent the managers of said bank from dissolving it,[45] and the fact that in the case of dissolution he will receive back his deposit and share in the surplus, does not prevent him from maintaining such a bill.[46] A savings bank being dissolved, the surplus should be divided among the bona fide depositors at the time of dissolution.[47]

Reorganization.[48]—A bond being given, pending the application for the appointment of a receiver for a bank, providing for the return of the assets to the officers or stockholders and a full settlement by them within a certain number of years, any creditor who is a beneficiary of said bond may sue thereon after condition broken to his damage,[49] and a delivery of the assets to one of the makers of such bond does not relieve the sureties thereon from liability, where by their acts they assent to such delivery and ratify it,[50] and an answer setting up such taking of the property by the stockholders as a defense to a suit by the bank should allege that the action was by a majority of the stockholders.[51]

Stockholders' individual liability.[52]—A registered stockholder is prima facie liable, and the burden of proof is upon him to show a sale in good faith,[53] and a proper attempt to have the transfer made upon the books of the bank in accordance with the statutes,[54] though in some states the stockholder's liability continues for a limited time after the transfer of the stock.[55] A corporation obtaining stock in a bank by reason of ultra vires acts does not assume the stockholders' liability.[56] In some states in order that the holder of bank stock as collateral may be exempt from liability as to creditors, it must appear on the corporation's books that he holds the stock only as pledgee.[57] The liability of a stockholder is an obligation to the bank in trust for its creditors,[58] and the bank may not, as against creditors or other stockholders, relieve him from this liability.[59] It is created by statute,[60] though the liability is contractual,[61] and hence laws thereon should be construed to operate prospectively only,[62] and statutes imposing a double liability being in derogation of the common law, are to be strictly construed.[63] This liability may be enforced, before the assets are completely exhausted, upon it appearing that they will be insufficient,[64] unpaid subscriptions for stock should, however, first be resorted to.[65] In some states such liability is best enforced in the creditor's bill to have a receiver appointed,[66] but an independent action being brought by the receiver the creditors are not necessary, though proper parties,[67] and the complaint filled by the board of managers," the unwillingness of the present managers to continue in office is no ground for dissolving a savings bank, where proper men can be found to take their places. Id.

45, 46, 47. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst. [N. J. Eq.] 54 A. 543.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 296.

49. Bond given under Comp. St. 1901, c. 8, § 35. Rawson v. Taylor [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1033.

50. Taylor v. Weckerly [Neb.] 96 N. W. 613.

51. Savings bank. Omaha Sav. Bank v. Rosewater [Neb.] 96 N. W. 63.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 295.

53. Schofield v. Twining, 127 F. 486.

54. Purchaser promised to have stock transferred, failed to do so, held, registered stockholder liable. Schofield v. Twining, 127 F. 486. Where in the exercise of reasonable care he directs a proper officer of the bank to make the transfer on the books, he is not liable for the neglect of the officers of the bank to obey his direction. Hunt v. Seeger [Minn.] 98 N. W. 91.

55. In Minnesota, one year. Findings of fact of trial court sustained. Hunt v. Doran [Minn.] 100 N. W. 222; Hunt v. Seeger [Minn.] 98 N. W. 91.

56. White v. Commercial & Farmers' Bank [S. C.] 45 S. E. 94.

57. Construing Civ. Code, §§ 321, 322, providing that all banks shall keep a stock book and defining a stockholder. Hurlburt v. Arthur, 140 Cal. 103, 73 P. 734.

58, 59. Smathers v. Western Carolina Bank [N. C.] 47 S. E. 893.

60. Hence under Code Civ. Proc. § 338, must be brought within three years after the cause of action accrues. Jones v. Goldtree Bros. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 939.

61. Smathers v. Western Carolina Bank [N. C.] 47 S. E. 893.

62, 63. Construing Pub. Laws 1897, p. 473, c. 298. Smathers v. Western Carolina Bank [N. C.] 47 S. E. 893.

64, 65, 66, 67, 68. Smathers v. Western Carolina Bank [N. C.] 47 S. E. 893.

should state the time when the several defendants became stockholders, and the dates the debts were contracted.[68] Upon the reorganization of an insolvent bank, the stockholders taking part therein are primarily liable for the debts of the old bank,[69] the stockholders not taking part in the reorganization being secondarily liable,[70] and the latter are not discharged by the issuance and delivery by the reorganized bank of new certificates of deposit to the creditors of the old.[71] A stockholder receiving stocks[72] and dividends[73] from the reorganized bank is estopped to deny liability on the ground of irregularities or nonassent thereto. Under a statute allowing the stock to be sold by the bank upon failure of the owner to pay assessments levied thereon, money derived from such sale belongs to the owner of the stock.[74]

§ 3. National banks; officers and examiners.[75]—In the absence of a by-law the president of a national bank has no power to bind the latter by a representation that a forged signature is genuine,[76] nor are its directors empowered, without action of the stockholders, to levy an assessment ordered by the comptroller of the currency for the purpose of restoring its capital and enabling it to continue in business.[77]

Powers.[78]—The powers of a national bank under the national banking act are essentially matters for Federal construction and interpretation, and in construing said act state courts must yield to and follow the decisions of the United States supreme court.[79] A national bank may take stock in another corporation as collateral and acquire title to it upon default of the debtor,[80] it cannot become a member of a partnership, and cannot become liable as a partner,[81] but it may, in order to secure payment of a debt, become a part owner in severalty of the property then owned by the partnership, and as such, liable for its proportionate share of the debts and expenses incurred in managing and disposing of said property.[82] It may receive and hold a building contract as collateral security for the repayment of a pre-existing debt.[83] A national bank has power to lease property for its occupancy in conducting its business for a term extending beyond the expiration in its charter, even though the lease is only alienable upon a condition,[84] and, when insolvent, it may transfer its bank building in consideration of release of ground rent, where the transaction is fair, public, and reasonable.[85] A national bank has no power to bind itself that a draft drawn on its customer will be paid,[86] nor has it authority to procure a signature to a note for another bank in order that it may lend money to a third person, and represent the signature to be 69, 70, 71. In re Receivership of Germania Bank [Minn.] 98 N. W. 341.

72. State v. Germania Bank [Minn.] 95 N. W. 1116; Cronstadt v. Willius, 90 Minn. 150, 95 N. W. 1116.

73. Had transferred stock to his children 5 years old, held, made no difference. Aldrich v. Bingham, 131 F. 363.

74. Indiana statutes (4 Burns' Supp. 1897, § 13). Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. State Bank [C. C. A.] 121 F. 58.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 297.

76. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Sup.] 80 S. W. 601.

77. Construing U. S. Rev. St. §§ 5136, 5145 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3455, 3463), and § 5205 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3495). Commercial Nat. Bank v. Weinhard, 192 U. S. 243, 24 S. Ct. 253.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 297.

79. First Nat. Bank v. American Nat. Bank, 173 Mo. 153, 72 S. W. 1059. But the application of such decisions to a case properly brought in the state courts is to be determined by state decisions. Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211, 94 N. W. 74.

80. Union Nat. Bank v. Touzalin Imp. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 489.

81, 82. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Wehrmann [Ohio] 68 N. E. 1004.

83. As to whether or not it can complete said contract on the death of the owner, quaere? Security Nat. Bank v. St. Croix Power Co., 117 Wis. 211, 94 N. W. 74.

84. Assignable only by consent of lessor. Weeks v. International Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 370. See 1 Curr. L. 297.

85. Bank was in arrears for taxes, rent, etc. Held, lessor of ground could not be held to an accounting by receiver of bank. Brown v. Schleier, 194 U. S. 18, 24 S. Ct. 558.

86. Construing Rev. St. U. S. § 5136 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3455]. First Nat. Bank v. American Nat. Bank, 173 Mo. 153, 72 S. W. 1059.

genuine.[87] It cannot be estopped from pleading ultra vires by the performance of the contract by the other party,[88] nor can it willfully commit a trespass, though its officers may do so, becoming personally liable therefor.[89] Under the United States statutes a national bank is not subject to any visitorial powers except such as are authorized thereby.[90] The stockholder's right of inspection is not a visitorial power.[91] No reduction of capital of a national bank can be made without the approval of the comptroller of the currency,[92] and it is fairly within his authority to condition his approval on the adoption of such measures as he might think proper to do justice to the holders of the original shares.[93]

Violation of banking act.[94]—The directors of a national bank enter into an implied contract with the depositors, this implied contract being inherent in the contract of deposit, that the bank will use such deposits and its other assets in conformity with the safeguards provided by law.[95] The depositors may sue the directors upon this implied contract, though the bank be insolvent,[96] and are entitled to maintain a single suit in equity against such directors,[97] such a bill not being multifarious,[98] and the bill failing to allege the date the deposits were made may be amended.[99] This cause of action survives the death of the directors,[1] nor are the latter relieved from liability by the expiration of their term of office.[2]

Stock.[3]—A national bank cannot forbid the transfer of shares of its stock by a stockholder who is indebted to the bank.[4]

Receivership.[5]—The legal existence of a national bank is not cut short by its insolvency and the appointment of a receiver therefor,[6] nor by the expiration of its charter,[7] but it still continues as an entity capable of suing and being sued.[8] A Federal court sitting in equity has jurisdiction, except in those cases where the comptroller of the currency has the power, to appoint a receiver for a national bank to liquidate its obligations,[9] and to authorize him to collect and to enforce by action the liability of the shareholders of the bank.[10] The state courts have the power to appoint a receiver to wind up a national bank, at the instance of a stockholder, in all cases except those designated by act of congress to be brought under the authority of the United States.[11] The complaint must show that plaintiff tried to get redress by an appeal to his fellow-stockholders or to the directors,[12] and there being a defect of parties, the objection cannot be raised for the first 87. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 80 S. W. 601.

88. First Nat. Bank v. American Nat. Bank, 173 Mo. 153, 72 S. W. 1059.

89. Meyer v. First Nat. Bank [Idaho] 77 P. 334.

90. Rev. St. U. S. § 5241 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3517]. Harkness v. Guthrie [Utah] 75 P. 624.

91. Right given by Rev. St. Utah, § 329, construed. Harkness v. Guthrie [Utah] 75 P. 624.

92. Rev. St. U. S. § 5143 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3463]. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

93. Create a trust fund. Question arose on objection to averment in complaint for the appointment of a receiver. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 298.

95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 1, 2. Boyd v. Schneider [C. C. A.] 131 F. 223.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 298.

4. Under a by-law while indebted to the bank a stockholder could not transfer stock except with consent of board of directors. Third Nat. Bank v. Buffalo German Ins. Co., 193 U. S. 581, 24 S. Ct. 524.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 298.

6. Camp v. First Nat. Bank [Fla.] 33 So. 241. See 1 Curr. L. 298.

7. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

8. Where the legal title to a note, not an asset of the bank, is in its name, but the beneficial ownership in another, such bank may maintain a suit in its own name to recover the amount of the note. Camp v. First Nat. Bank [Fla.] 33 So. 241.

May still be sued by a stockholder and cestui que trust of a special trust fund for the appointment of a receiver. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

9. Act of Congress June 3, 1864, c. 106 (13 Stat. 99). King v. Pomeroy [C. C. A.] 121 F. 287.

10. Under Rev. St. 5151 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3465]. King v. Pomeroy [C. C. A.] 121 F. 287.

11. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

12. This question can only be raised by special demurrer. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

time on appeal.[13] One suing both as a cestui que trust and as a stockholder for the appointment of a receiver, on the ground that those who had gained control of it were using their power for improper purposes is entitled to the protection of courts of equity.[14]

The receiver of a national bank has the legal title to the property covered by his appointment, and is entitled to maintain an action at law in his own name in the state courts,[15] he is the proper party to sue, for the benefit of both creditors and stockholders, the directors of said bank for sums alleged to have been lost by negligence or mismanagement of the latter, the fund recovered to be used for general distribution as assets of the bank,[16] and in suing in a Federal court he is not bound to give a bond for costs.[17]

Enforcement of stockholders' liability.[18]—A national bank becoming insolvent, the comptroller of the currency must, within a reasonable time, make an accounting and determine the necessity for an assessment upon the stockholders;[19] the cause of action on the liability of a stockholder not accruing until an assessment has been ordered by the comptroller.[20] This action is governed by the statute of limitations of the state where the action is brought,[21] and the comptroller is subject to the rule that where preliminary action is essential he cannot delay the operation of the statute of limitations by unnecessary delay in taking such action,[22] nor will failure to make the accounting within a reasonable time prevent the running of limitations.[23] Federal courts hold that this cause of action does not accrue until the court ascertains its necessity, and fixes the time of payment,[24] no action of the comptroller being held necessary to empower a Federal court's receiver to enforce the liability of the shareholders.[25] The remedy of a creditor's suit to enforce the liability of shareholders of national banks in voluntary liquidation, is cumulative, not exclusive.[26] In order to render the pledgee of stock of a national bank liable as a shareholder, it must appear that he either became the owner of the shares in fact,[27] or had held himself out to be the owner, and thereby estopped himself to deny his liability as such.[28] The liability of a trust estate, depending upon the power of the trustee to make the estate a shareholder, cannot be determined in an action at law by the bank receiver against the stockholder.[29]

State interference and powers of state courts.[30]—An injunction will not issue from a state court against a national bank.[31] A state can tax the real estate of

13. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

14. Objection that he had an adequate remedy at law held untenable. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 56 A. 574.

15. Fish v. Olin [Vt.] 56 A. 533.

16. Liability of directors imposed by Rev. St. § 5239 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3516]. Boyd v. Schneider, 124 F. 239. Whether previous adjudication forfeiting bank's charter is necessary, quaere? Whether it cannot be brought by others than the receiver, acting under the direction of the comptroller of the currency, quaere? But in no case can it be maintained by the creditors alone. Boyd v. Schneider, 124 F. 239.

17. Construing Rev. St. § 1001 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901 p. 713]. Pepper v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 822.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 298.

19, 20, 21, 22. Rankin v. Barton [Kan.] 77 P. 531.

23. Facts disclosed in the pleading showing a lack of diligence in making such accounting are not overcome by an averment of diligence. Rankin v. Barton [Kan.] 77 P. 531.

24. When cause of action accrues and statute of limitation begins to run. King v. Pomeroy [C. C. A.] 121 F. 287. See 1 Curr. L. 299.

25. King v. Pomeroy [C. C. A.] 121 F. 287.

26. Act June 30, 1876, c. 156, § 2 (19 Stat. 63 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3609]). King v. Pomeroy [C. C. A.] 121 F. 287.

27. Rankin v. Fidelity Ins., Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 189 U. S. 242, 23 S. Ct. 553, 47 Law. Ed. 792.

28. Memorandum by assignee of pledgor. Pencil memorandum on stock ledger at bank, inadmissible in evidence. Estoppel by letters question for the jury. Rankin v. Fidelity Ins., Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 189 U. S. 242, 23 S. Ct. 553, 47 Law. Ed. 792.

29. Even though he alleges that he holds the stock as trustee. Hampton v. Foster, 127 F. 468.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 299.

31. Rev. St. U. S. § 5242. Meyer v. First Nat. Bank [Idaho] 77 P. 334.

national banks.[32] As to whether or not a state may tax the stock of a national bank there is a conflict.[33] In New Jersey a national bank cannot seek savings deposits or attempt to compete with a savings' institution.[34]

Usury by national banks.[35]—The right to recover twice the amount of usurious interest paid to a national bank is a right which survives,[36] and is therefore in most states assignable,[37] though the bank may relinquish the usurious part,[38] and evade the penalty by a bona fide sale of the note.[39] A controversy respecting usurious interest paid to a national bank is governed by the Federal law, though the transaction violates the powers of such bank.[40] The time the "usurious transaction occurred," in contemplation of the statute, is the date of the payment of the usurious interest.[41] The bankruptcy of the person paying such usurious interest does not preclude him from recovering under the statute, after his discharge, where his trustee in bankruptcy did not reduce the claim to possession.[42] Usury is a defense to an action by the receiver,[43] and it does not discharge the surety or guarantor on the debt.[44]

§ 4. Savings banks.[45]—A savings bank is not a benevolent and charitable institution, within the meaning of taxation laws.[46]

32. The bank having tendered taxes legally due is not liable for the penalty for nonpayment. First Nat. Bank v. Lampasas [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 42.

33. A state cannot tax the stock of a national bank, though the bank may render itself liable for taxes on its stock by offering to pay it. First Nat. Bank v. Lampasas [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 42. A state may levy a tax on the shares of stock of a national bank. Construing Rev. St. § 5210 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3498). The national banking act and Kentucky Acts 1900, p. 65, c. 23. This tax may be levied by counties, cities, towns or taxing districts when authorized by the state. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158.

34. P. L. 1876, p. 357. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst., 64 N. J. Eq. 425, 54 A. 543.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 300.

36. Lasater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1054.

37. Action may be maintained by a partner who has purchased all interest in a firm which has paid such usurious interest. Lasater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1054; Id., 96 Tex. 345, 72 S. W. 1057.

NOTE. Assignability of claim for penalty: A cause of action against a national bank for usurious interest paid to it is not assignable. Lloyd v. First Nat. Bank, 5 Kan. App. 512, 47 P. 575; Pardoe v. Iowa State Bank, 106 Iowa, 345, 76 N. W. 800.—From note to Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Gentry [Ky.] 56 L. R. A. 673, 695.

38. NOTE. Right to relinquish illegal excess. In Talbot v. First Nat. Bank, 185 U. S. 172, 22 S. Ct. 612, 46 Law. Ed. 857, the court says that although interest greater than the legal rate may have been charged by a national bank, such excess may be relinquished and recovery be had at the legal rate.—From note to Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Gentry [Ky.] 56 L. R. A. 673, 679.

39. NOTE. Evasion of penalty by bank: A national bank may evade the penalty for taking usurious interest by selling and disposing of the note in good faith, mere assignment raises no presumption of an absolute sale. First Nat. Bank v. Miltonberger, 33 Neb. 847, 51 N. W. 232.—From note to Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Gentry [Ky.] 56 L. R. A. 673, 681.

40. Interest paid on note, secured by a collateral note and mortgage, the latter executed in the name of the president but for the benefit of the bank, thus violating the law prohibiting a national bank from taking real estate security for a debt coincidently contracted. Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Gadsden, 191 U. S. 451, 24 S. Ct. 129.

41. Rev. St. U. S. § 5198 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3493], barring such actions after "two years from the time the usurious transaction occurred." Lasater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1054.

42. Lasater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1054.

43. NOTE. Availability of usury as a defense: The defense of usury is available as a defense in an action by the receiver of the national bank. Hade v. McVay, 31 Ohio St. 231. But it should be kept in mind that the courts now generally hold that where the usurious interest has been actually paid it is not available as a defense, but only in a separate action to recover the penalty of twice the amount of interest paid. Childs v. Alexander, 22 S. C. 169, holds that it is not available as a defense to a suit by the assignee of the bank.—From note to Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Gentry [Ky.] 56 L. R. A. 673, 696.

44. NOTE. Does not discharge surety or guarantor: A surety or guarantor of a debt to a national bank is not discharged because the bank charged or received usury. Wiley v. Starbuck, 44 Ind. 298; First Nat. Bank v. McEntire, 112 Ga. 232, 37 S. E. 381; First Nat. Bank v. Garlinghouse, 22 Ohio St. 492, 10 Am. Rep. 751; Lazear v. Nat. Union Bank, 52 Md. 78, 36 Am. Rep. 355; Allen v. First Nat. Bank, 23 Ohio St. 97.—From note to Citizens' National Bank v. Gentry [Ky.] 56 L. R. A. 673, 679.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 300.

46. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. 168, 82 N. Y. S. 621.

Powers.[47]—A savings bank may acquire title to shares of stock of another corporation, where they are taken in good faith in compromise or discharge of an insolvent debtor, and such action is for the best interest of the bank,[48] and on thus becoming the owner of such stock, it is liable thereon as any other stockholder.[49] A savings bank is liable for breach of its contracts.[50] In some states other banks are not allowed to seek savings deposits.[51] Savings banks are amenable to new laws.[52]

Liabilities of directors.[53]—The managers of a savings bank are holders of a public trust of a benevolent and charitable nature,[54] as well as trustees for the depositors in their institution,[55] and hence must act disinterestedly.[56]

Rules.[57]—By-laws and rules printed in the passbook of a savings bank delivered to and accepted by the depositor, at the time he opens the account, constitute a contract between the parties.[58] Rules providing that the bank will endeavor to prevent fraud do not dispense with the exercise of ordinary care and diligence on the part of the bank officials.[59] A by-law providing that the bank shall be discharged by payment to one having the passbook is operative only during the lifetime of the depositor.[60] A by-law providing that no depositor shall receive any part of his deposit without producing the original book, unless it be proved to the satisfaction of the trustees or treasurer that such book has been lost, cannot render the treasurer or trustees the final arbiter of the question of whether the book was lost, and thus oust the courts of their jurisdiction,[61] nor is the test the arbitrary decision of the treasurer or trustees, but the mind of a reasonable man.[62] Payments made to a person other than the rules designate are made at the bank's peril.[63] A by-law of a savings bank restricting the transfer of stock is not binding on a bona fide pledgee for value of the stock without notice thereof.[64] A savings bank may become estopped to assert that a transaction was invalid under a by-law.[65]

Reliance on passbooks.[66]—The bank cannot rely exclusively upon the posses-

47. See 1 Curr. L. 300.

48, 49. Hill v. Shilling [Neb.] 95 N. W. 24.

50. Where a bank operates a savings department in its banking house, a claim for damages for breach of the bank's lease, on the bank's insolvency, is chargeable pro rata against the assets of each department. McGraw v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 390.

51. P. L. 1899, p. 455, does not repeal P. L. 1876, p. 357. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst., 64 N. J. Eq. 425, 54 A. 543.

52. The Kansas banking law of 1891 superseded the savings bank act of 1868. West v. Topeka Sav. Bank, 66 Kan. 524, 72 P. 252.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 300.

54, 55. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst., 64 N. J. Eq. 425, 54 A. 543.

56. In dissolution proceedings they have no right to destroy the entity of the corporation while transferring to themselves its good will. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst., 64 N. J. Eq. 425, 54 A. 543.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 301.

58. Ferguson v. Harlem Sav. Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 825. Rules as to payment of money. Kelley v. Buffalo Sav. Bank, 88 App. Div. 374, 84 N. Y. S. 642.

59. By-law that payment to persons holding passbook would be payment to depositor, and that bank would endeavor to prevent fraud. Held. difference in signatures not easily discernible and bank not negligent. Kelley v. Buffalo Sav. Bank, 88 App. Div. 374, 84 N. Y. S. 642. Payment on forged signature, held as all the rules of identification were exhausted, and as irregularities in signature were slight, no negligence, and where this testimony was uncontradicted error to submit question of negligence to jury. Ferguson v. Harlem Sav. Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 825.

60. Payment after depositor's death to one having power of attorney from depositor and passbook from depositor, does not relieve bank. Hoffman v. Union Dime Sav. Inst., 41 Misc. 517, 85 N. Y. S. 16.

61, 62. Webber v. Cambridgeport Sav. Bank [Mass.] 71 N. E. 567.

63. Rule declared that on death of depositor deposit should be paid to legal representatives. Bank paid it to one claiming as the donee of a gift causa mortis, bank held liable to the personal representative. Mahon v. South Brooklyn Sav. Inst., 175 N. Y. 69, 67 N. E. 118. Under a similar rule paid to one who held a power of attorney not knowing that depositor was dead, bank held liable. Hoffman v. Union Dime Sav. Inst., 41 Misc. 517, 85 N. Y. S. 16.

64. Just v. State Sav. Bank [Mich.] 94 N. W. 200.

65. Transfer of stock without consent of directors, new owner being elected to the board of directors and recognized as such officer. Just v. State Sav. Bank [Mich.] 94 N. W. 200.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 301.

sion of the passbook, and even where a rule provides that payment to the holder of the passbook will discharge the bank, the officials of the bank are bound to exercise ordinary care and diligence.[67]

Deposits and repayment.[68]—The depositors in a savings bank occupy a double relation to the corporation as such; in case of insolvency they are creditors of the corporation,[69] in other cases they are partners or stockholders,[70] in all they are the cestuis que trustent of the managers.[71] Where two persons jointly own a deposit in a savings bank the title to the whole fund vests in the survivor,[72] and it is immaterial whether or not such survivor has ever had the passbook in his possession.[73]

§ 5. Loan, investment, and trust companies.[74]—The company must receive its charter under a constitutional act.[75] The contract of a loan, trust, and guarantee company is not ultra vires merely because failure to exercise the ordinary care required of every trustee may subject it to an indemnity payment wholly disproportionate to its compensation.[76] And such a company holding as trustee, and rating securities at their actual worth, is not a guarantor of the actual worth of the securities.[77] A suit against an insolvent debenture company may be instituted by one or more debenture holders in behalf of all holders, their interest being joint,[78] and they may maintain a suit against it to prevent the wasting of its assets, though the debentures have not matured.[79]

§ 6. Deposits and repayment thereof; checks, drafts, certificates, receipts, credits.[80] Deposits may be received from a gambler with reason to believe that the money was won in gaming or by other questionable means; but the bank crosses the line of permissibility when, with a knowledge that such depositor is obtaining the money by fraud or theft, it does acts in aid of the wrongful means by which the money is obtained.[81] It may rightfully receive deposits from an agent of an insolvent principal, the latter having committed an act of bankruptcy upon which he is subsequently adjudged a bankrupt.[82]

Relation of banker and depositor.[83]—The relation of banker and depositor is that of debtor and creditor,[84] the banker's liability being discharged by payment.[85] He cannot repudiate this obligation by showing that the name of the depositor was that of something having no legal existence.[86] Money being deposited in a 67. Kelley v. Buffalo Sav. Bank, 88 App. Div. 374, 84 N. Y. S. 642; Ferguson v. Harlem Sav. Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 825. See "Rules," supra.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 301.

69. One must here keep in mind the distinction between the corporate entity of a savings bank and its managers. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst., 64 N. J. Eq. 425, 54 A. 543.

70, 71. Barrett v. Bloomfield Sav. Inst., 64 N. J. Eq. 425, 54 A. 543.

72, 73. Farrelly v. Emigrant Industrial Sav. Bank, 92 App. Div. 529, 87 N. Y. S. 54.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 302.

75. Act 1898, p. 78, authorizing the secretary of state to grant charters to trust companies with banking privileges is not unconstitutional. Mulherin v. Kennedy [Ga.] 48 S. E. 437.

76. Smith v. Bank of New England [N. H.] 54 A. 385.

77. Stocks, etc., held as security for certificates of deposit issued by another trust company. Smith v. Bank of New England [N. H.] 54 A. 385.

78. To prevent officer of company from obtaining possession of guaranty fund. Christian v. Michigan Debenture Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22.

79. Christian v. Michigan Debenture Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22.

80. See 1 Curr. L. 302.

81. Wright v. Stewart, 130 F. 905.

82. Interstate Nat. Bank v. Claxton [Tex.] 80 S. W. 604.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 302.

84. First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 102 Mo. App. 357, 76 S. W. 489. Not a bailment. Arnold v. Sedalia Nat. Bank, 100 Mo. App. 474, 74 S. W. 1038; Heath v. New Bedford Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 184 Mass. 481, 69 N. E. 215. Garnishment. Deposit by principal for use of his agent. Principal a debtor of bank. Curtis v. Parker & Co., 136 Ala. 217, 33 So. 935.

85. By becoming dissatisfied with delay in returning signature card, and the fact that deposit was to be immediately withdrawn, the nature of the contract is not changed, so as to discharge it from liability by returning it to person unauthorized to receive same. Heath v. New Bedford Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 184 Mass. 481, 69 N. E. 215.

86. That a partnership was illegal being formed between an individual and a corporabank for the benefit of another, who is notified thereof by the bank, the relation between such person and the bank is that of depositor and banker.[87] A bank delivering a check to the payee at the request of the drawer "all charges to be paid by the payee" is, as to the drawer, a gratuitous bailee.[88]

Under an agreement to collect upon collaterals, deposited with it as security, and hold the proceeds for the benefit of another, a bank may be compelled to turn over the excess over the amount necessary to protect it, its liability for which the collateral was deposited as security not having ended.[89] In Oklahoma the remedy of an unsecured creditor against a bank which hypothecates his notes and credits as collateral for a loan is an action under the Code, not a suit in equity.[90]

Evidence of deposit.[91]—A passbook being sent to the bank to be written up and returned, it is in effect a demand on the part of the depositor to know what the bank claims to be a statement of his account, and a return of the book with the vouchers is an answer to that demand,[92] and, no objection being made by the depositor, it becomes in effect an account stated,[93] which most courts hold must be examined by the depositor within a reasonable time, and if incorrect, repudiated, failure to do so working an estoppel,[94] though this account stated may be questioned for fraud or mistake; the burden of proving such fraud or mistake clearly and satisfactorily resting upon the complainant.[95] A depositor is not bound to examine his bank book to discover whether the cashier has made a mistake in counting the amount of the deposit,[96] the contrary, however, being held, it seems that the depositor is not estopped to controvert the entry unless the bank is shown to have been prejudiced by his neglect to make such examination.[97] Whether or not an account is the depositor's individual account depends upon the circumstances of each case.[98]

Letters of credit.—One has no claim against the writer of a letter of credit unless he knew of its existence, and advanced his money on the faith of it.[99] The writer of a letter of credit cannot apply checks, cashed by one bank without any knowledge of the existence of the letter of credit, to the extinguishment of the amount named in the letter as against another bank subsequently cashing the bearer's checks on the faith of it.[1]

Repayment of deposits.[2]—A bank is bound to honor checks drawn on it by a depositor if it has sufficient funds belonging to the depositor when the check is presented, and the funds are not subject to any lien or claim,[3] or right of set-off in favor of the bank,[4] but the depositor being solvent the bank is liable, though tion. And this estoppel is not terminated by the individual partner's debt. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank [Cal.] 72 P. 832.

87. Heath v. New Bedford Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 184 Mass. 481, 69 N. E. 215.

88. King v. Exchange Bank [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1038.

89. Mercantile Nat. Bank v. Peabody [Colo. App.] 72 P. 611.

90. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 518-520, c. 66, St. 1893. Overstreet v. Citizens' Bank, 12 Okl. 383, 72 P. 379.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 302.

92. Scanlon-Gipson Lumber Co. v. Germania Bank, 90 Minn. 478, 97 N. W. 380.

93. Farry v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 305.

94. Scanlon-Gipson Lumber Co. v. Germania Bank, 90 Minn. 478, 97 N. W. 380; Hennessy Bros. & Evans Co. v. Memphis Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 557.

95. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud. Farry v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 305.

96. Evidence held sufficient to show a demand. Kemble v. National Bank of Rondout, 88 N. Y. S. 246. On the question as to whether a bill deposited with a bank was a $100 gold certificate or a $1,000 greenback, the fact that within 1½ hours of the time of the deposit the depositor had received a $1,000 greenback and a $500 gold certificate is relevant. Id.

97. Kemble v. National Bank of Rondout, 88 N. Y. S. 246.

98. Whether deposits belonged to depositor or firm. Bank of Salem v. Shrimpton [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1002.

99, 1. Bank of Seneca v. First Nat. Bank [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1092.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 303.

3. Wiley v. Bunker Hill Nat. Bank. 183 Mass. 495, 67 N. E. 655; Brown v. Schintz, 202 Ill. 509, 67 N. E. 172.

4. Depositor was insolvent. Owen v.

the funds have been set off by the bank against past due claims, no notice thereof having been given the depositor,[5] and the bank is obliged to honor the checks of its depositor even though he holds the money in a fiduciary capacity, it incurring no liability in so doing as long as it does not participate in any misapplication of funds or breach of trust,[6] though the conduct or course of dealing of the depositor may charge the bank with notice that he is violating his trust.[7] For its refusal or neglect to honor the depositor's check the bank may be sued either for conversion or for money had and received.[8] The statute of limitations runs against this right.[9] The check should be paid in money.[10] The deposit should be repaid to the true owner, and where the bank has sufficient knowledge to put it on inquiry that the depositor is not the true owner, it is liable for permitting it to be applied otherwise.[11] As between the parties every legal presumption is in favor of the personal ownership of the fund by the depositor,[12] hence the addition of the word "administrator" to the depositor's individual name has been held not to be notice to the bank that the fund was held in a fiduciary capacity.[13] A deposit of money in a bank by a third person to the credit of another does not show ownership in the latter in the absence of a showing of acceptance, or a presumption of acceptance.[14] Suit by an assignee of such third person for the benefit of his creditors is not an acceptance by the assignor of the benefit of such deposit,[15] nor is a letter by such an assignee to the bank that his assignor had funds in the bank evidence, in an action against the bank by the assignee, that the assignor owned the funds.[16] Such a deposit being for the benefit of the third party, it will be presumed to have been accepted by him,[17] but this is not true where the presumption would establish an unlawful act, or participation in an unlawful act.[18]

When, in the absence of fraud, a genuine check is presented to a bank and received as a deposit, the legal effect is that the check is paid,[19] and this effect does not depend upon there being cash enough in the bank the moment the check is presented to pay it,[20] nor on the financial condition of the bank as shown on a settlement of its affairs after insolvency.[21] The check being so presented, the bank becomes the owner thereof.[22] Where a bank accepts the check of a depositor, and puts it to the credit of another depositor, it is equivalent to a payment in cash to such second depositor of the amount of the check,[23] and the bank cannot recover from him the amount thereof on discovering that it in reality had no funds of the drawer.[24] A bank paying a check presented by a bona fide holder

American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 988.

5. Callahan v. Bank of Anderson [S. C.] 48 S. E. 293.

6, 7. Interstate Nat. Bank v. Claxton [Tex.] 80 S. W. 604.

8. York v. Farmers' Bank [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 968.

9. It seems to have been held that the statute of limitations runs against the cause of action against stockholders for indebtedness to a depositor from the time of deposit, and the transfer of such deposit by check to the savings department of the bank does not interrupt the running of such statute. Jones v. Goldtree Bros. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 939.

10. It is not authorized to pay it in evidences of indebtedness held by it against the agent of the depositor. Goshorn v. People's Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 185.

11. Depositor was insolvent. Interstate Nat. Bank v. Claxton [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 44. See 1 Curr. L. 303.

12. Sparrow v. State Exch. Bank [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 168.

13. Sparrow v. State Exch. Bank [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 168. The United States supreme court and many state courts have held contra to above. See Bank v. Insurance Co., 104 U. S. 54, 26 Law. Ed. 693.

14, 15, 16, 17, 18. Leach v. First Nat. Bank, 99 Mo. App. 681, 74 S. W. 416.

19. Check presented by payee as a deposit. Montgomery County v. Cochran [C. C. A.] 126 F. 456.

20, 21. Montgomery County v. Cochran [C. C. A.] 126 F. 456.

22. It being forwarded for collection to the drawee the original payee cannot recover from the drawee who pays it by mistake after it has been countermanded. National Bank of New Jersey v. Berrall [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 189.

23. Bryan v. First Nat. Bank, 205 Pa. 7, 54 A. 480.

24. Bank had on its books funds of drawer to meet the checks, but in reality, owing to later dishonor of certain checks, had no money of his. Bryan v. First National Bank, 205 Pa. 7, 54 A. 480.

in the usual course of business, it cannot afterward recover back the money as paid by mistake, on the ground that payment of the check had been countermanded by the drawer.[25] A bank may rely on the solvency of the drawer of a draft deposited on his account with it, and if not paid by the drawee may charge it back.[26] Whether or not a note or check has been paid often depends upon the circumstances surrounding the transaction.[27] The drawing and delivery of a check on a bank deposit operates as an assignment of so much of the deposit as is called for by the check,[28] but it must be drawn upon a particular fund and be accepted by the bank.[29] Where, by a bond given by order of court, a bank agrees to pay the deposit of a receiver upon demand, it is not relieved from liability to do so by an agreement with the receiver whereby the latter agrees to leave the deposit for a specified time.[30] A depositor, on accounting with the bank, is entitled to the benefit of a deposit made by a bank official for the specific purpose of paying overdrafts occasioned by his misappropriation of the depositor's money.[31]

Overdrafts.—An overdraft allowed by a bank is a note due on demand and may be sued on as such,[32] and the same is true of a note given, payable on demand, to cover it, to the extent that the overdraft is thereby segregated from the account.[33] An overdraft draws interest from the date of demand or adjustment.[34]

Forged or altered checks and drafts.[35]—A bank paying a check to one presenting it under a forged indorsement may recover back the amount if it proceed with due diligence,[36] and may recover of an indorsee upon proof that a prior in-

25. National Bank of New Jersey v. Berrall [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 189.

26. Hendley v. Globe Refinery Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1163.

27. Where on the maturity of a note, of one of its depositors, sent to a bank for collection, the cashier drew his check in favor of the payee for the amount of the note, made a memorandum thereof on a block, wrote on the face of the note in the bank's name that it was paid, and perforated it and put in the files, and was then notified of the maker's insolvency, held, the note was already paid, nothing remaining besides entries of records on the books, but to remit the proceeds. Nineteenth Ward Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 184 Mass. 49, 67 N. E. 670.

28. Brown v. Schintz, 202 Ill. 509, 67 N. E. 172.

29. Reviere v. Chambliss [Ga.] 48 S. E 122. Where bank answered a telegram, asking if the drawer had money in the bank, in the affirmative, held an assignment. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Patterson & Wallace [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1058.

30. Scott v. Whipple, 119 Ga. 485, 46 S. E. 663.

31. Van Buren County Sav. Bank v. Stirling Woolen Mills [Iowa] 94 N. W. 945.

32, 33, 34. Hennessy Bros. & Evans Co. v. Memphis Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 557.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 303.

36. In this case trust company guaranteed former indorsements, one of which was forged, held bank could recover from trust company and the latter from the person to whom the money was paid. Second Nat. Bank v. Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 206 Pa. 616, 56 A. 72.

NOTE. Recovery by one paying a forged check: To entitle the payor to recover upon a forged instrument it must appear that he has sustained a loss, and if he being a banker, can charge the payment to the account of the depositor, he has lost nothing, and has no cause of action. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 196 Pa. 230, 46 A. 420, 79 Am. St. Rep. 717. The payor upon discovering the forgery must promptly give notice to the person to whom the check was paid in order to recover from him. U. S. v. Clinton Nat. Bank, 28 F. 357. Reasonable diligence only is required. Schroeder v. Harvey, 75 Ill. 639; National Bank v. Bangs, 106 Mass. 441, 8 Am. Rep. 349.—From note to First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank [Mass.] 94 Am. St. Rep. 637, 644.

As between banks the same rules apply and the money paid may be recovered provided that the bank paid is in no worse position than if payment had been refused. First Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 4 Ind. App. 355, 30 N. E. 808, 51 Am. St. Rep. 221. There is a line of cases in conflict with the above principles holding, in effect, that a banker or other payee upon whom a forged check has been drawn cannot upon the discovery of a forged indorsement thereon, recover the amount from an innocent and bona fide holder for value to whom he has paid it. Price v. Neal, 3 Burr. 1354; First Nat. Bank v. Marshalltown State Bank, 107 Iowa, 327, 77 N. W. 1045; Deposit Bank v. Fayette Nat. Bank, 90 Ky. 10, 13 S. W. 339; Commercial Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 30 Md. 11, 96 Am. Dec. 554; Neal v. Coburn, 92 Me. 139, 42 A. 348, 69 Am. St. Rep. 495; Germania Bank v. Boutell, 60 Minn. 192, 62 N. W. 327, 51 Am. St. Rep. 519; National Bank v. Grocers' Nat. Bank, 2 Daly [N. Y.] 289; Salt Springs Bank v. Syracuse Sav. Bank, 62 Barb. [N. Y.] 101; Iron City Bank v. Peyton [Tex. Civ. App.] 39 S. W. 660; Bank of St. Albans v. Farmers' Bank, 10 Vt. 141, 33 Am. Dec. 188. The drawer of a check cannot maintain an action against one who collects it on a forged indorsement from the bank on which it was drawn, although the bank paying the check may. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 196 Pa. 230, 46 A. 420, 79 Am. St.

dorsement is forged,[37] the burden of proving the forged character of the instrument being on the bank.[38] It is liable for money paid to an indorsee, where it has knowledge that such indorsement was procured by fraud.[39] One depositing money in the name of another, representing himself to be such other person, the bank is not liable to him for money drawn out by such other person,[40] nor can one indorsing to an impostor recover from the bank when compelled to pay the real claimant.[41] The fact that the maker of a check is mistaken as to the identity of the payee will not allow him to recover from a bank, paying the check on said payee's indorsement, on the ground that the indorsement was forged.[42] In Massachusetts a bank is not bound to know the signatures of its patrons.[43] A bank is not liable for payments made upon a check altered by an agent within the apparent scope of his authority.[44] A depositor is not estopped to charge the bank with forged checks, if he has used ordinary care in the examination of his passbook and returned checks, and failed to discover the forged checks and to give notice thereof,[45] and where the examination is entrusted to a clerk he is only bound to use ordinary care in the selection of the clerk.[46] If the bank is negligent in paying the checks, the depositor is not estopped by his failure to make any examination.[47] What is a reasonable time in which a depositor should examine his passbook, after it has been balanced and returned to him with the canceled vouchers, is a question of law.[48] A bank on which a check is drawn, on taking it up in the clearing house properly indorsed, is presumed to have acted in good faith.[49] A bank taking a "raised" check for collection and indorsing it so as to convey no representation of ownership, the check being paid by the drawee, and by the collecting bank to the payee, the collecting bank is not liable to the drawee.[50] A bank falsely asserting that a signature is genuine is liable in an action for deceit.[51]

Rep. 717.—From note to First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank [Mass.] 94 Am. St. Rep. 637, 644.

37. Egner v. Corn Exch. Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 107.

38. Action by bank to recover from another bank the amount of checks paid by the former to the latter through the clearing house, on the ground that the indorsements thereon were fraudulent and unauthorized. National Park Bank v. American Exch. Nat. Bank, 88 N. Y. S. 271.

39. Certificate of deposit. Currey v. Joplin Sav. Bank, 100 Mo. App. 532, 74 S. W. 1036.

40. Arkofsky v. State Sav. Bank [Minn.] 98 N. W. 326.

41. Hoffman v. American Exch. Nat. Bank [Neb.] 96 N. W. 112.

42. Maker of check given as the purchase price for horses bought of one B. thinking that B. was a man well known in business circles, whereas he was another man bearing the same name. Sherman v. Corn Exch. Bank, 91 App. Div. 84, 86 N. Y. S. 341.

43. A Massachusetts bank cashed a forged check on a Minnesota bank and sent it to the Minnesota bank for collection. The Minnesota bank paid it and on learning of the forgery brought action to recover the money so paid. Held, they could recover. First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 182 Mass. 130, 65 N. E. 24.

44. Bookkeeper required to fill out and cash, but not sign, plaintiff's checks, held, any alteration in amount of check within his apparent authority and bank not liable. Champion Ice Mfg. & Cold Storage Co. v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 239, 75 S. W. 197.

45, 46. Kenneth Inv. Co. v. National Bank of the Republic [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1002.

47. Such negligence may be shown by the fact that at a prior time the bank had cashed a check of plaintiff's, not signed by any one in authority, but simply plaintiff's name stamped with a rubber stamp, and this is so, though the money realized from that check was properly used. Kenneth Inv. Co. v. National Bank of the Republic [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1002.

48. Kenneth Inv. Co. v. National Bank of the Republic [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1002. Ten days cannot be arbitrarily fixed as a reasonable time, but it is a reasonable time where the depositor resides in the same town or city in which the bank is located. Id.

49. Indorsement was by an unauthorized person. Wedge Mines Co. v. Denver Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 73 P. 873.

50. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank v. Nevada Bank, 139 Cal. 564, 73 P. 456.

51. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 239.

Evidence as to genuineness: Where a depositor refused to pay a check on the ground that she never signed a check with her initials, and an expert testified that the initials were not in her handwriting, and the cashier and another employe of the bank testified that they saw her sign it, and other experts testified the handwriting to be hers, a verdict finding that she did not sign the check is against the weight of the evidence. Peo-

Checks drawn without authority.[52]—A bank is responsible to a depositor for payment of checks drawn on his fund without authority.[53] Several persons making a deposit to their joint credit, a check drawn thereon must be signed by all, or the bank pays it at its own risk.[54] A bank paying money on a check signed by one who claims to be the depositor's agent does so at its peril,[55] and it is bound to take notice of the limitations of his authority,[56] other than secret ones.[57] That the act was within the apparent scope of the agent's authority is no defense, where the bank had no knowledge of such agency nor acted upon the faith of it.[58] That one is agent for the purpose of depositing his principal's money, does not give him authority to check the deposit out.[59] Money being deposited by one in his own name with no notice express or implied to the bank of his being an agent, the bank is not liable to the owner for money paid out on the agent's individual check.[60] A bank is liable for knowingly misappropriating the funds of a corporation depositor to pay the individual debts of the latter's officers,[61] and when it knowingly allows the depositor of a trust fund to appropriate the same to the payment of his individual debt to the bank it can be compelled to refund the same.[62]

Set-off of debts due bank against deposit.[63]—A bank has the right to apply so much of the funds of a depositor to the payment of his matured indebtedness to it as may be necessary to discharge the same.[64] The right of set-off does not exist until the maturity of the debt due the bank,[65] unless the depositor be insolvent.[66] Where the indebtedness to the bank does not mature until after the death of the depositor the right of set-off does not exist,[67] though it has been held otherwise where the debt matured the day after the depositor's death.[68] A bank cannot, without the consent of the depositor, apply the latter's deposit to the payment of a check or note upon which he is security or guarantor.[69] It is entitled ple's Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. Keith, 136 Ala. 469, 34 So. 925.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 304.

53. Husband drew checks on wife's deposit, her separate property. Brown v. Daugherty, 120 F. 526.

54. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 561, 76 S. W. 156.

55. Heath v. New Bedford Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 184 Mass. 481, 69 N. E. 215. Treasurer of corporation. Van Buren County Sav. Bank v. Stirling Woolen Mills [Iowa] 94 N. W. 945; Jackson Paper Mfg. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 199 Ill. 151, 65 N. E. 136, 59 L. R. A. 657.

But where no damage results to the principal it is damnum absque injuria. New York Brick & Paving Co. v. Bronx Borough Bank, 42 Misc. 31, 85 N. Y. S. 557. A clerk having no authority from custom or usage to indorse his employer's checks, the latter may deny the validity of the indorsement as against a bank paying the check. Rosenberg v. Germania Bank, 88 N. Y. S. 952.

56. Jackson Paper Mfg. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 199 Ill. 151, 65 N. E. 136, 59 L. R. A. 657. A bank receiving deposits in the name of an individual "and Co.," is put upon inquiry as to whether it is the deposit of the individual or of a partnership. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank [Cal.] 72 P. 832.

57. The fact that checks always bore the agent's indorsement is not notice that he could indorse for collection only. Wedge Mines Co. v. Denver Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 73 P. 873.

58. Husband as agent for wife. Brown v. Daugherty, 120 F. 526.

59. Heath v. New Bedford Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 184 Mass. 481, 69 N. E. 215.

60. Martin v. Kansas Nat. Bank, 66 Kan. 655, 72 P. 218.

61. Officers of corporation drew check, on corporation's funds in defendant's bank, payable to defendant, defendant credited amount of same on individual debts of officers. Kelsey v. Bank of Mansfield, 85 App. Div. 334, 83 N. Y. S. 281.

62. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 561, 76 S. W. 156.

63. The right of set-off is sometimes termed the "banker's lien on deposits." Sharp v. Citizens' Bank of Stanton [Neb.] 98 N. W. 50. See 1 Curr. L. 305.

64. Sparrow v. State Exch. Bank [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 168.

65. Sharp v. Citizens' Bank of Stanton [Neb.] 98 N. W. 50. It is not entitled to an equitable set-off of unmatured notes of a depositor against its liability for damages for refusal to honor check, no bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings having been instituted against him at the time of the dishonor of his check. Wiley v. Bunker Hill Nat. Bank, 183 Mass. 495, 67 N. E. 655.

66. Owen v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 988.

67. Sharp v. Citizens' Bank of Stanton [Neb.] 98 N. W. 50.

68. Little's Adm'r v. City Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 8, 74 S. W. 699.

69. O'Grady v. Stotts City Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 696.

to set off an insolvent corporation's deposit against the corporation's indebtedness to it.[70] The fact that money is deposited in a firm name, the bank understanding it to be the depositor's individual account, does not destroy the bank's right to set off the individual's note against such account.[71] A bank receiving a check, with a general indorsement in blank, for collection, and forwarding it with a like indorsement to its correspondent for collection, the latter is entitled to set off the proceeds as against the debt of the forwarding bank.[72] A bank cannot knowingly set off a deposit held by the depositor in a fiduciary capacity against the individual debt of the depositor due it.[73] A bank having no notice that a deposit is a specific one is entitled to apply it to the depositor's overdrafts.[74] A bank cannot be held to account to the owner of a fund which has been deposited by an agent in his own name and applied upon the agent's overdraft, the bank having no knowledge of the agency.[75] The fact that a bank is a preferred creditor of an insolvent does not authorize it to set off deposits made by the insolvent's assignee, as assignee, against its preferred claim.[76] A court has no power to summarily direct a bank to pay over to the receiver of a corporation the amount of the corporation's deposit in said bank, pending the determination of the right of the bank to set off such deposit against the corporation's indebtedness to it.[77] The right of set-off passes to the bank's assignee of the debt and account.[78] The right of a bank to a set-off will not be required by law, in the absence of express agreement or appropriation, so as to benefit a surety.[79]

Deposits received after insolvency.[80]—A bank discounting drafts when insolvent, to the knowledge of its officers, the drawer of the drafts may either demand and sue for them, or ratify the contract and prove his debt against the bank.[81]

General deposits.—Where the money deposited is mingled with other money of the bank, and the entire amount forms a single fund, from which depositors are paid, it is a general deposit.[82] Every deposit is presumed to be general.[83] Money deposited in a bank to the credit of a pledgee of chattels in order to release the goods is a general deposit though the facts were known to the bank officials.[84]

Special deposits.[85]—A special deposit is created where the money is left for safe keeping and the identical money is returned to the depositor.[86] A deposit of money paid into court, under a statute requiring the cashier of the bank to issue

70. Wheaton v. Daily Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 61.
71. Even though by secret agreement he has a partner in the firm business. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 P. 106.
72. Continental Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 36 So. 189.
73. Sparrow v. State Exch. Bank [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 168; Interstate Nat. Bank v. Claxton [Tex.] 80 S. W. 604.
74. First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 102 Mo. App. 357, 76 S. W. 489.
75. Kimmel v. Bean [Kan.] 75 P. 1118.
76. Johnston v. Green [Va.] 46 S. E. 388.
77. Wheaton v. Daily Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 61.
78. Right to set off individual's note against account kept in firm name. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 P. 106.
79. Camp v. First Nat. Bank [Fla.] 33 So. 241. See 1 Curr. L. 306.
80. See 1 Curr. L. 305.
81. He cannot do both. Where he brought an action to recover the amount of the drafts and garnished the drawee who had accepted them, such action constituted an election to affirm the contract and he could not recover on the ground that they had been obtained by the bank by fraud. Davis v. Butters Lumber Co., 132 N. C. 233, 43 S. E. 650.
82. A general deposit differs from a loan in that the money is left with the bank for safe-keeping subject to order and payable, not in the specific money deposited, but in an equal sum. Officer v. Officer, 120 Iowa, 389, 94 N. W. 947.
83. Officer v. Officer, 120 Iowa, 389, 94 N. W. 947.
84. No special instructions were given. Attempt to secure priority over general creditors. Schofield Mfg. Co. v. Cochran [Ga.] 47 S. E. 208.
85. See 1 Curr. L. 305.
86. Officer v. Officer, 120 Iowa, 389, 94 N. W. 947.

a statement that the money is actually deposited in the bank and not mingled with any other funds, does not create a special deposit.[87]

Specific deposits.[88]—A specific deposit exists where money or property is given to the bank for some specific and particular purpose.[89] The burden is on the depositor to show that a bank has notice that a deposit is a specific one.[90]

Trust funds.[91]—A bank knowing that deposits are trust funds it cannot appropriate them to the payment of an individual debt due it from the depositor.[92] The deposit of money by a trustee in his own name, and without notice to the bank of the trust, does not render the deposit a trust fund in the hands of the bank.[93] That funds collected by a bank on a note sent it for collection are used in its own business is insufficient, upon its insolvency, to impress a fund realized by its receiver, by converting its assets into cash, with a trust for the payment of the money so collected and used.[94] The depositary of a trust fund is not entitled to retain the same where it has parted with no consideration and has acquired no rights,[95] although such deposit was made by an agent or trustee and until demand by the owner the depositary had no notice of its real character.[96] A principal has a right, as against the agent and bank, to his funds deposited by an agent in his name, though such funds are mingled with the agent's.[97] The fact that the deposit is public money does not make the deposit a trust fund.[98]

Slander of credit or damages for failure to pay checks.[99]—Damages for refusal to pay a check when the drawer has sufficient funds on hand are the natural and reasonable consequences arising therefrom.[1] Substantial[2] and special damages if properly alleged,[3] may be recovered. Where the refusal is due to the mistake of a clerk, in the absence of proof of special damages, nominal damages only can be recovered.[4]

Actions to recover deposits. Parties.[5]—In some states the holder of an unaccepted check may sue thereon,[6] and the fact that the bank claims not to have had the money on hand when a check was drawn on it does not take the case out of the rule.[7] In others,[8] and in the Federal courts,[9] he cannot maintain such a suit. In 87. Comp. Laws, §§ 420, 424. Retan v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 1006.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 305.

89. Note for collection, money to pay a particular note, etc. Officer v. Officer, 120 Iowa, 389, 94 N. W. 947.

90. First Nat. Bank v. City Nat. Bank, 102 Mo. App. 357, 76 S. W. 489.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 305, n. 39-43.

92. State Bank of St. Johns v. McCabe [Mich.] 98 N. W. 20. See 1 Curr. L. 305. See, also, "Set-off of debts due bank against deposit," supra.

93. Deposit by an attorney of client's money. Rhinehart v. New Madrid Banking Co., 99 Mo. App. 381, 73 S. W. 315. And the fact that when the cestui que trust withdrew a portion on the depositor's check, she told the bank that a part of the rest was hers, does not entitle her to a money judgment in a suit at law against the bank. Id.

94. Ober & Sons v. Cochran, 118 Ga. 396, 45 S. E. 382.

95, 96. Union Stockyards Nat. Bank v. Campbell [Neb.] 96 N. W. 608.

97. Assignee of principal as against creditors of the agent. Packer v. Crary, 121 Iowa, 388, 96 N. W. 870.

98. Public money deposited, with the understanding that it shall draw interest, by the treasurer of the public board in a bank of which he is the cashier but not a stockholder does not constitute a trust fund so as to entitle such depositor to preferred payments on the insolvency of the bank, under Pub. Act 1875, pp. 158, 159, No. 131, prohibiting public officers from commingling public moneys with other funds. Board of Education of City of Detroit v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 373.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 306.

1. Wiley v. Bunker Hill Nat. Bank, 183 Mass. 495, 67 N. E. 655.

2. Depositor, studying in strange city, through failure to honor checks lost the confidence of her instructor, was delayed for two months in opening an art shop and spent $2.86 in telegraphing. Held, verdict for $500 not excessive. American Nat. Bank v. Morey, 25 Ky. L. R. 2151, 80 S. W. 157. See O'Grady v. Stotts City Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 696, where the authorities are collected by the Hon. Judge Bland.

3. Wiley v. Bunker Hill Nat. Bank, 183 Mass. 495, 67 N. E. 655.

4. Clark Co. v. Mt. Morris Bank, 85 App. Div. 362, 83 N. Y. S. 447.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 306.

6. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 561, 76 S. W. 156; Bloom v. Winthrop State Bank, 121 Iowa, 101, 96 N. W. 733.

7. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 561, 76 S. W. 156.

some states statutes provide for making all claimants for a deposit, who are not parties plaintiff, parties defendant.[10] In some cases an adverse claimant may interplead.[11]

Defenses.[12]—A bank on being sued by one other than the depositor should protect itself by depositing the money in court and asking a decision as to the ownership.[13] A bank charging off the credit given a depositor for checks presented and accepted, for the reason that the drawer failed to pay, cannot, in a suit for the credit given, defend on the ground that the checks were given for a gambling transaction.[14] The statute of limitations does not begin to run against a bank on paper payable on demand until demand has been made.[15] An action by the receiver, in a Federal court, against a stockholder is not a bar to an action by said stockholder, as a depositor, against said receiver for the amount of his deposit.[16] Money being deposited without an agreement for interest, the depositor withdrawing the deposit without interest cannot afterwards recover interest thereon.[17]

Notes payable at bank.[18]—A note payable at a bank where the maker keeps his account is equivalent to a check drawn by him upon that bank, so far as respects the power and duty of the bank to pay it,[19] but the bank may only treat it as such when the maker of the note has funds on deposit at the date of maturity.[20]

Certifications.[21]—By the certification of a check a bank becomes primarily liable for its payment to any bona fide holder thereof;[22] and must pay it to such a holder though notified by the maker that the check has been lost,[23] the drawer being released from liability.[24] The amount of a certified check, in the absence of fraud, is as much drawn from the depositor's account as if the money had been paid,[25] but the holder of such check, being paid, repaying the amount on being

8. Bryan v. First Nat. Bank, 205 Pa. 7, 54 A. 480. Unaccepted check. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1058; National Bank of New Jersey v. Berrall [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 189.

9. Can maintain neither an action at law nor a suit in equity, the check being held not to be an assignment pro tanto, even in equity, as between the maker and payee, of the indebtedness owing by the bank upon which the check has been drawn. First Nat. Bank v. Selden [C. C. A.] 120 F. 212.

10. New York: Under Laws 1892, p. 1896, c. 689, § 115, providing for the making of all claimants, for a deposit in a savings bank, who are not parties plaintiff, parties defendant. Where a deposit is claimed by one as a gift, the depositor's administrator should be made a party defendant. Answering does not affect the bank's right to this relief. Quinn v. Bank for Sav. of New York, 86 N. Y. S. 285.

11. NOTE. Interpleading conflicting claims to moneys deposited: The right to interplead such adverse claimants exists in favor of a bank whether it be a savings bank or bank of exchange. The elements of a case for interpleader must be present, and hence if the bank denies any part of the demand of either claimant, interpleader will not lie. An objection that the bank is a bailee, hence not entitled to interplead, has not been sustained. City Bank v. Skelton, 2 Blatchf. 14, Fed. Cas. 2,739. See cases collected in note to Connecticut Mut. Life Co. v. Tucker [R. I.] 91 Am. St. Rep. 590, 608.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 307.

13. Arnold v. Sedalia Nat. Bank, 100 Mo. App. 474, 74 S. W. 1038.

14. Bryan v. First Nat. Bank, 205 Pa. 7, 54 A. 480.

15. Certificate of deposit payable on demand. Sharp v. Citizens' Bank of Stanton [Neb.] 98 N. W. 50.

16. Where the receiver defends such action on the ground that part of said deposit was used to pay plaintiff's subscription to the capital stock of said bank, the burden of proof is upon the receiver to show that the purchase of stock was actually made. Somerset Nat. Banking Co.'s Receiver v. Adams, 24 Ky. L. R. 2083, 72 S. W. 1125.

17. Payment of money was refused on demand but subsequently allowed. Arnold v. Sedalia Nat. Bank, 100 Mo. App. 474, 74 S. W. 1038.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 307.

19. Nineteenth Ward Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 184 Mass. 49, 67 N. E. 670.

20. State Bank of St. Johns v. McCabe [Mich.] 98 N. W. 20.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 307.

22. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 857. Neg. Inst. Law, § 325. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83.

23. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 857; Hermann Furniture & Plumbers' Cabinet Works v. German Exch. Bank, 87 N. Y. S. 462.

24. Neg. Inst. Law, § 325. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83.

25. Central Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. White, 206 Pa. 611, 56 A. 76; Hermann Furniture & Plumbers' Cabinet Works v. German Exch. Bank, 87 N. Y. S. 462.

threatened with suit, cannot maintain an action against the bank on its certification.[26]

§ 7. Loans and discounts. Advances against bills of lading.[27]—A bank agreeing to pay the check of a purchaser of goods for the purchase price thereof taking the bill of lading as security, upon so doing has a lien upon the goods for its advances.[28] A bank agreeing to advance money to dealers to pay for goods purchased, taking the bills of lading as security, and the uniform course of business being for the dealers to sell the goods, and after the sales are made, receive the bills from the bank, and on receiving payment to deposit the amount in the bank, upon a sale the bank cannot refuse to surrender the bills and recover the goods.[29]

Drafts with bills of lading attached.—A bank for value and without notice of fraud purchasing drafts with bills of lading attached from the consignor, said drafts being fully paid by the consignee, it is not liable to the latter for fraud perpetrated by the consignor in making out the bills of lading.[30] A bank is liable for damages caused by failure to forward bill of lading with draft,[31] and for a failure to follow instructions.[32]

§ 8. Collections.[33]—A collecting bank on drafts may make the drawee bank its agent for collection.[34] A bank forwarding checks for collection under a general indorsement in blank, the title to such collection, as to third parties dealing without notice and not being put upon inquiry, passes to the bank to which they are forwarded, and the former becomes simply a general creditor of the latter bank.[35] A bank forwarding drafts for collection under claim of ownership is presumed to be the owner,[36] though one receiving a draft endorsed generally but accompanied by an instruction that it is for "collection and credit" for the benefit of the drawer takes the draft in the capacity of a collecting agent,[37] and has notice that the forwarding bank is not the owner thereof.[38] A bank forwarding a draft to a bank who has a correspondent in the town where the draft is payable, the first bank not having an agent there, will be presumed to forward for collection.[39] It is not presumed that a bank holding a local check drawn upon another bank is the owner thereof except for collection.[40] The forwarding bank making an assignment and ceasing to do business before the draft is collected, the collecting

26. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 86 N. Y. S. 857.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 308.

28, 29. First Nat. Bank v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1033.

30. Blaisdell, Jr., Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Tex.] 75 S. W. 292.

NOTE. Liability of bank on drafts with bill of lading attached: A bank collecting a draft drawn by the consignor of goods, with a bill of lading attached thereto, is not liable to the consignee after his acceptance and payment of the draft, for a failure of title to the property described in the bill of lading, or for a breach of warranty as to the quality or quantity of the goods shipped, or for failure of consideration in whole or in part from any cause, between the consignor and the consignee. Hall v. Keller, 64 Kan. 211, 67 P. 518, from note to this case in 91 Am. St. Rep. 209.

31. Carload of onions spoiled by delay. Stoner v. Zachary [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1098.

32. Instructions being to deliver the bill of lading only after payment of the draft, a delivery of the bill of lading before payment of the draft renders the bank liable for the payment of the same. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. North Tex. Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 567.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 308. See post, Bank Collections of Forged Paper [Special Article].

34. Drawee bank when acting as such agent must charge indorsers. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

35. Continental Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 36 So. 189.

36. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

37. Not as a purchaser. Josiah Morris & Co. v. Alabama Carbon Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 764.

38. Is not entitled to credit the proceeds against a debt of the forwarding bank upon the latter's failure. Josiah Morris & Co. v. Alabama Carbon Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 764.

39. Especially where the previous business relations of the parties tends to support this conclusion. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

40. "Raised" check. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank v. Nevada Bank, 139 Cal. 564, 73 P. 456.

bank's agency for the forwarding bank is terminated,[41] and the drawer may recover the amount subsequently collected.[42] A draft drawn in favor of the cashier of a bank, to enable the latter to collect the same and place the proceeds to the drawer's credit, does not divest the drawer's ownership of the debt for which the draft was drawn.[43]

Duty to preserve rights of parties.[44]—A collecting bank undertakes to collect and remit, or return draft.[45] The measure of a collecting agent's duty is ordinary care and reasonable diligence.[46] It must take proper means to charge indorser if note not paid,[47] and if this is not done it is liable if the drawer becomes insolvent,[48] the amount depending upon the latter's inability to collect from the maker,[49] and in such an action the indorser will be presumed to have been solvent at the time of maturity of the note.[50] It is liable to the drawer of a draft for damages sustained by the latter owing to the bank's failure to promptly return the draft after its nonpayment.[51] A general custom will not excuse the exercise of this care,[52] and a particular custom in order to be binding on the one sending the draft for collection must have been actually known to him when he sent it.[53] The collecting bank, in the absence of some special agreement, is liable for loss occasioned by a default of its agent for collection.[54]

§ 9. Offenses against banking laws; penalties.[55]—A conspiracy to defraud a national bank by causing false entries to be made in the books thereof, by an officer of the bank, is an offense against the United States.[56] The entry, by the cashier of a national bank on the books thereof, of a check which actually entered into a transaction of the bank as a "cash item" is not the making of a "false entry,"[57] although he knew the check to be worthless and fraudulent and made the entry with intent to deceive.[58] Where a bank accepts checks not stamped as required by acts of congress it cannot later, in a suit in which they are involved, object to their being offered in evidence because they were unstamped.[59]

Receipt of deposits when insolvent.[60]—In Kansas directors are liable for deposits received after insolvency, where they have failed to inquire into the affairs of the bank as required by statute, even though such an examination would not have revealed the insolvent condition of the bank.[61]

41, 42, 43. Josiah Morris & Co. v. Alabama Carbon Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 764.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 309.

45. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

46. Bank of Bay Biscayne v. Monongahela Nat. Bank, 126 F. 436.

47. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799; Howard v. Bank of Metropolis, 88 N. Y. S. 1070.

48. A bank received an indorsed draft for collection which it forwarded to the drawee and received in payment drafts upon itself for which there was no money on deposit. It protested these drafts and forwarded them to the drawer of the original paper. In the meantime the drawee of the original draft became insolvent. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

49. Where maker died shortly after maturity of note his estate not having been administered on and there being evidence that the full amount of the note could not be collected therefrom, held payee need not prove insolvency. Howard v. Bank of Metropolis, 88 N. Y. S. 1070.

50. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

51. Where at maturity and for a month thereafter, the drawee had property open to attachment to an amount larger than the draft, and before the draft was returned failed and made an assignment, held, drawer's damages are not remote as a matter of law. Lord v. Hingham Nat. Bank [Mass.] 71 N. E. 312. It is evidently not the custom of banks to retain no protest items after maturity. Id.

52, 53. Bank of Commerce v. Miller, 105 Ill. App. 224.

54. National Revere Bank v. National Bank of the Republic, 172 N. Y. 102, 64 N. E. 799.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 310.

56. Indictable under Rev. St. § 5440. Scott v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 429.

57. Within the meaning of Rev. St. § 5209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3497]. U. S. v. Young, 128 F. 111.

58. U. S. v. Young, 128 F. 111.

59. Bryan v. First Nat. Bank, 205 Pa. 7, 54 A. 480.

60. See Deposits received after insolvency, supra. See 1 Curr. L. 310.

61. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 471, 472. Forbes v. Mohr [Kan.] 76 P. 827.

BANK COLLECTIONS OF FORGED OR ALTERED PAPER.*

[SPECIAL ARTICLE.]

What law governs.—The laws of the place of the performance of the immediate acts constituting the mistaken or wrongful payment of forged paper by a collecting bank govern its liability therefor to the true owner.[1]

Name of maker or drawee forged.—As a general rule, the drawee of a check or draft is charged with knowledge of the handwriting of its customer or correspondent, the drawer, and, if the drawee pays the paper, it must stand the loss if the paper was a forgery, and has passed into the hands of a bona fide purchaser.[2] But this rule is not available to the payee, who took the check from a stranger without inquiry, though in good faith, and himself indorsed it, and thereby gave it currency and credit; since the indorsement by the payee gives the paper the appearance of genuineness, and tends to divert the drawee from scrutiny and inquiry.[3] This modification of the general rule is of general application, and will relieve the drawee from liability to any party to the paper who has in any way contributed to the success of the fraud, or to the mistake of fact under which the payment was made.[4] While it is true that the cashier is the general executive officer of the bank

1. Reasoning by analogy from the rules determining what law governs the relation between the depositor and the collecting bank, see Selover, Bank Collections, § 6. In deciding the liability of a London bank which had a branch in Paris, where a forged instrument was paid, the court said: "Collection had to be obtained by acts done partly in Paris and partly in England, and as soon as the person carrying out these acts reached England, he came under English law, and anything done by him subsequently, if it amounted to a wrong, must be justified, if at all, by English law. * * * If the individual presented it for payment in England, and received payment there, he would by both those acts have committed what amounts to conversion in English law. Upon analysis it will be seen that those acts were done by the French bank,—it is immaterial whether by traveling to England or by means of third persons,—and the question is whether, according to English law, the transaction amounts to a conversion." La Cave & Co. v. Credit Lyonnais, 66 Law J., Q. B. 226. See, also, Kleinwort v. Le Comptoir Nationale d'Escompte de Paris, 63 Law J., Q. B. 674 [1894] 2 Q. B. Div. 157.

2. Northwestern Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, 107 Mo. 402, 410, 17 S. W. 982, 15 L. R. A. 102; Stout v. Benoist, 39 Mo. 277, and cases cited; United States Nat. Bank v. National Park Bank, 59 Hun, 495, 13 N. Y. S. 411, affirmed (on opinion of court below) in 129 N. Y. 647, 29 N. E. 1028; Crawford v. West Side Bank, 100 N. Y. 54, 2 N. E. 881; Oppenheim v. West Side Bank, 22 Misc. 722, 50 N. Y. S. 148; First Nat. Bank of Carthage v. Yost, 58 Hun, 606, 11 N. Y. S. 862; 3 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 222; Price v. Neal, 3 Burrows, 1354. The leading case on this question states that it was incumbent on the drawee to satisfy himself "that the bill drawn upon him 'was the drawer's hand' before he accepted or paid it;" and that, having paid it to a bona fide indorser for value, he cannot recover back the money from him, though the signature of the drawer was forged. Price v. Neal, 3 Burrows, 1355. To same effect is Smith v. Mercer, 6 Taunt. 76. In a Massachusetts case, Holmes, C. J., in holding that the drawee bank cannot recover back money paid through the clearing house to a collecting bank, on a forged check payable to cash and unindorsed, on the ground that it was charged with knowledge of the signature of the drawer, and that, under the evidence, it could not have been misled by the lack of indorsement, said: "The plaintiff's argument is directed to proving that we should not adopt the rule laid down in Price v. Neal, 3 Burrows, 1354, according to which a drawee paying a forged draft or check to a bona fide purchaser cannot recover back the money paid. We are aware that this rule has been questioned by some text writers; but it is of such universal, or nearly universal, acceptance, that we shall go into no extended discussion. * * * Probably the rule was adopted from an impression of convenience, rather than for any more academic reason; or perhaps Lord Mansfield took the case out of the doctrine as to payments under a mistake of fact, by the assumption that a holder who simply presents negotiable paper for payment makes no representation as to the signature, and that the drawee pays at his peril." Dedham Nat. Bank v. Everett Nat. Bank [Mass.] 59 N. E. 62. See, also, authorities cited in above case.

3. National Bank of North America v. Bangs, 106 Mass. 441; Ellis v. Ohio Life Insurance & Trust Co., 4 Ohio St. 628; Birmingham Nat. Bank v. Bradley, 103 Ala. 109, 15 So. 440, and cases cited. See, also, Green v. Purcell Nat. Bank, 1 Ind. T. 270, 37 S. W. 50.

4. Gloucester Bank v. Salem Bank, 17 Mass. 33, 42; Ellis v. Ohio Life Insurance & Trust Co., 4 Ohio St. 628; National Bank of North America v. Bangs, 106 Mass. 441. Where a steamboat agent, after being informed by letter that a draft drawn on the captain of the boat had been deposited in a

*Adapted from Selover on Bank Collections.

for whose acts it must stand as sponsor, yet, to create an estoppel against the bank by reason of his acts and representations as to forged paper, his connection with the transaction must be definitely shown.[5] Under the rule, the drawee is only charged with knowledge of the signature of the drawer, and not with knowledge of the genuineness of the body of the instrument, as between himself and other parties having equal means of determining the existence of an alteration.[6] certain bank for collection, went to the bank on the day it was due, described and called for the draft, and voluntarily paid it without further inquiry, the bank, which received no compensation for the transaction, and made no entries of it on the books, is not liable to him for the amount thereof, both the letter and the draft having been forged, where it appeared that the draft was deposited by a stranger with instructions that, if no one called to pay it before three o'clock, it was to be given to a notary for protest, and plaintiff called and paid it a few minutes later, and the amount was turned over to the depositor on the same day. Stephenson v. Mount, 19 La. Ann. 295.

Indorsement of payee forged.—A bank which collects and pays to the depositors thereof checks, payable to order, on which the indorsement of the payee had been forged before deposit in the bank, is liable to the payee for conversion of the checks, though it was ignorant of the forgery, and acted in good faith.[7] But this rule cannot be invoked by one who has been impersonated,[8] though it seems this

5. A forged certificate of deposit was sent by plaintiff to defendant for collection, and by the latter sent to the bank purporting to have issued it. The cashier of the last-named bank passed it to the bookkeeper with other paper received from defendant, and a check was sent covering the aggregate amount of all the paper so received. The forgery was not discovered until after business hours of that day, when the bank immediately notified plaintiff and its principal of the forgery. On the next day it returned the certificate to defendant, who recredited such bank with the amount thereof under a general agreement to that effect respecting commercial paper found not good. It was held that defendant was justified in refunding the money to such bank as money paid by mistake, and that the passing of the forged certificate over to the bookkeeper did not amount to such a recognition of the genuineness of the certificate as would preclude the bank from setting up the subsequently discovered forgery, in the absence of a showing that the cashier actually passed on the genuineness of the certificate, or that it was his duty to do so, or that his acts were communicated to plaintiff or to defendant. Allen v. Fourth Nat. Bank of New York, 59 N. Y. 12, affirming 5 Jones & S. 137, distinguishing Price v. Neal, 3 Burrows, 1354, and citing Goddard v. Merchants' Bank, 4 Comst. [N. Y.] 149, and National Bank of Commerce v. National Mechanics' Banking Ass'n, 55 N. Y. 211, note.

6. Crawford v. West Side Bank, 100 N. Y. 54, 2 N. E. 881; United States Nat. Bank v. National Park Bank, 59 Hun, 495, 13 N. Y. S. 411, affirmed (on opinion of court below) in 129 N. Y. 647, 29 N. E. 1028; National Bank of Commerce v. National Mechanics' Banking Ass'n, 55 N. Y. 211; White v. Continental Nat. Bank, 64 N. Y. 316; Oppenheim v. West Side Bank, 22 Misc. 722, 50 N. Y. S. 148; Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 182 Ill. 367, 55 N. E. 360, affirming 77 Ill. App. 316; First Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 152 Ill. 296, 38 N. E. 739.

7. Farmer v. People's Bank, 100 Tenn. 187, 47 S. W. 234; Pickle v. Muse, 88 Tenn. 381, 12 S. W. 919; Chism v. First Nat. Bank of New York, 96 Tenn. 641, 36 S. W. 387; Talbot v. Bank of Rochester, 1 Hill [N. Y.] 295; Buckley v. Second Nat. Bank of Jersey City, 35 N. J. Law, 400; Shaffer v. McKee, 19 Ohio St. 526; Salomon v. State Bank, 28 Misc. 324, 59 N. Y. S. 407. One whose property has been wrongfully converted is not bound to take it back, but may abandon it from the moment of its conversion, and sue for its value. Id.; People v. Bank of North America, 75 N. Y. 564. Liability of bank on its indorsement of the paper, see Selover, Bank Collections, § 164. Where a bank has collected the amount of a check received on a forged indorsement of the name of the payee, to whom the instrument had never been delivered, such payee, by a subsequent demand on the bank for the proceeds, ratifies the indorsement, and makes the check his property to such an extent as to sustain an action by him for the proceeds. Farmer v. People's Bank, 100 Tenn. 187, 47 S. W. 234; Pickle v. Muse, 88 Tenn. 381, 12 S. W. 919; Talbot v. Bank of Rochester, 1 Hill [N. Y.] 295; Buckley v. Second Nat. Bank of Jersey City, 35 N. J. Law, 400. "The action against the wrongdoer does not rest upon privity, but upon the fact that he has intermeddled with property not his own, and, asserting a hostile claim, he has interfered with the lawful use and dominion of the owner of the property." Farmer v. People's Bank, 100 Tenn. 187, 47 S. W. 234.

8. An indorsement of the payee's name is not forged when made by the person named and intended to be named as payee, who received the paper from the drawer, and was the actual person with whom the whole transaction was made, though he had fraudulently procured the draft by using as security a worthless note and mortgage purporting to have been, but not having been, executed by a man and wife having the same surname as such payee. First Nat. Bank of Ft. Worth v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 49 App. Div. 349, 63 N. Y. S. 58. Payee had fraudulently represented himself to be the owner of land, and had obtained the paper by impersonating the real owner, but was, nevertheless, the modification of the rule has been done away with by the section of the negotiable instrument act, declaring a signature which is forged or made without authority to be "wholly inoperative."[9] In England, the liability of the bank is governed by statute.[10] The payee of a check, by suing the bank, which collected and paid over the amount thereof on a forged indorsement of his name, for conversion of the check, affirms and ratifies the payment of the check by the maker.[11] An indorser subsequent to the forged indorsement is liable over to the bank for the amount refunded.[12]

Diligence in notifying parties.—The collecting bank must exercise reasonable diligence in notifying the holder or party from whom it received the paper of the forgery or alteration.[13] But the bank is under no obligation to give notice of the person dealt with and intended as the payee of the paper. Emporia Nat. Bank v. Shotwell, 35 Kan. 360, 369; Crippen v. American Nat. Bank of Kansas City, 51 Mo. App. 509, and cases cited; Land Title & Trust Co. v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 196 Pa. 230, 50 L. R. A. 75, and note collecting cases.

9. See Tolman v. American Nat. Bank, 22 R. I. 462, 52 L. R. A. 877, where the court holds that the rule at common law is not clear and that the negotiable instruments law has abrogated it.

10. The English Bills of Exchange Act 1882, § 82, providing that "where a banker in good faith and without negligence receives payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself, and the customer has no title or a defective title thereto, the banker shall not incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment," protects a bank collecting for a customer the amount of a crossed cheque, on a forged indorsement of the payee's name, though at the time of receiving payment, and crediting it to the customer, his account was overdrawn, and a part of the credit canceled the overdraft. Clarke v. London & County Banking Co., 66 Law J., Q. B. 354. This section of the act is applicable, however, only in case the bank is dealing with a "customer;" and a stranger to the bank, whose only transaction with the bank is the passage on it of the forged instrument, is not a "customer," within the meaning of the act, and, in such case, the collecting bank, if it pays the amount of the paper to such stranger, is liable to the true owner for conversion of the funds. La Cave & Co. v. Credit Lyonnais, 66 Law J., Q. B. 226; Matthews v. Brown & Co., 10 Times Law R. 386 [1894] 63 Law J., Q. B. 494; Kleinwort v. Le Comptoir Nationale d'Escompte de Paris, 63 Law J., Q. B. 674, [1894] 2 Q. B. Div. 197; Arnold v. Cheque Bank, 45 Law J., C. P. 562, 1 C. P. Div. 578.

11. Salomon v. State Bank, 28 Misc. 324, 59 N. Y. S. 407; White v. Sweeny, 4 Daly [N. Y.] 223.

12. Where plaintiff in good faith took a check on a forged indorsement of the payee, and indorsed it in blank and delivered it to defendant bank for collection, and received the proceeds from the bank, the latter, on discovering the forgery and refunding the money to the drawee bank, may reimburse itself out of the first moneys of the plaintiff that come into its possession, though it had not notified plaintiff of the forgery; since plaintiff guarantied the genuineness of the payee's indorsement, and having received the proceeds, was chargeable with notice of the forgery. Green v. Purcell Nat. Bank, 1 Ind. T. 270, 37 S. W. 50. See, also, Mayer v. City of New York, 63 N. Y. 455, 457; Indig v. National City Bank, 80 N. Y. 100, 105.

13. Bank of Commerce v. Union Bank, 3 N. Y. 230; Oppenheim v. West Side Bank, 22 Misc. 722, 50 N. Y. S. 148. In case of an alteration, the bank exercises due diligence if it notifies the holder personally, on the day it is itself notified of the fraud, and also informs him of the same fact by letter three days later. Oppenheim v. West Side Bank, 22 Misc. 722, 50 N. Y. S. 148. The English rule is that "the holder of a bill is entitled to know, on the day when it becomes due, whether it is an honored or dishonored bill," and hence, where a forged acceptance is delivered to the acceptor's bankers on the day it is due, and they pay it on that day, but discover, on the following day, that it is a forgery, and give notice on that day to the holder, it cannot recover back the money paid. Cocks v. Masterman, 9 Barn. & C. 902. Aliter if notice was given on the day when payment was made. Wilkinson v. Johnson, 3 Barn. & C. 428. On the question of the difference between negligence in discovering a forgery or alteration and negligence in failing to giv notice after the discovery, the supreme court of New York, in a well-considered case, says: "A failure to discover, though resulting in a loss to another who might, if sooner apprised, have apprehended the forger, and recovered the money, gives no right of action, and for obvious reasons, one of which alone need be mentioned. There is no duty imposed on one who receives a forged check from another to unearth the crime. He receives it presuming, as he has a right to do, that all the signatures and indorsements are genuine, which is impliedly warranted by the person from whom it is received. This presumption, and the right to rely on this implied warranty, are only destroyed when, by inspection, the forgery could be detected because apparent on the face of the check or bill, or where, from the surrounding circumstances, the suspicions of the person receiving the note, check, or bill should be aroused, and his scrutiny challenged. Not so after discovery, for then the duty is incumbent on the one detecting such imperfection to act promptly in giving notice, and if he fails therein to the injury and damage of the one entitled to notice, he will be prevented from recovering the damage or in-forgery of an indorsement of the payee's name to one who had indorsed the forged paper in blank to the bank for collection, and had received the proceeds.[14]

Indorsement of forged paper by bank.—If the bank indorses, without qualification or restriction, paper to which the signature of the maker or drawer was forged, it is liable to a bona fide holder on its implied warranty of the genuineness of the instrument,[15] and the genuineness of the signature of the maker or drawer.[16] The Federal courts, however, hold that the general indorsement of a collecting bank does not imply a warranty that a prior indorsement is genuine.[17] It has been held that indorsing "for collection" relieves the indorsing bank from liability to the drawee bank which paid the draft.[18] Presentment to the drawee through the clearing house is not equivalent to an indorsement.[19]

Charging back amount.—A collecting bank which has credited the amount of a check, but has remitted no money on account thereof, may charge back the amount thereof on discovering that it had been raised before it was delivered to the bank.[20] Where the bank has not been guilty of negligence with respect to altered paper, and the holder had notice of facts putting him on inquiry, the bank will be protected.[21] While it may be true that a bank would be estopped to claim a right to charge back the amount of raised paper, if its cashier had represented to the holder that it was good, and the holder had acted on this representation to his injury, a mere statement by the discount and collection teller of the collecting bank, that the check was "all right," has been held not to estop the bank.[22] jury shown to have been actually incurred." Third Nat. Bank of New York City v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 76 Hun, 475, 27 N. Y. S. 1070.

14. Green v. Purcell Nat. Bank, 1 Ind. T. 270, 37 S. W. 50, and cases cited; Birmingham Nat. Bank v. Bradley, 103 Ala. 109, 15 So. 440, and cases cited. See, also, National Bank of North America v. Bangs, 106 Mass. 441.

15. Crosby v. Wright, 70 Minn. 251.

16. Brown v. Ames, 59 Minn. 476; Condon v. Pearce, 43 Md. 83; First Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Northwestern Nat. Bank, 40 Ill. App. 640; Turnbull v. Bowyer, 40 N. Y. 456. Under the negotiable instruments laws these rules obtain, though the paper had been previously indorsed to the bank restrictively for collection. See Selover, Bank Collections, § 53.

17. A pension draft, to which the name of the payee had been forged after her death, was indorsed "for collection" to defendant bank by the initial bank, and, after having been indorsed generally by defendant, was paid to it by the United States, and the money remitted to the initial bank. It was held that defendant bank was not liable to the United States for the amount of the draft; the court stating that, "in such cases, the indorsement by the collecting agent, who has no proprietary interest, does not import any guaranty of the genuineness of all prior indorsements, but only of the agent's relation to the principal, as stated upon the face of the draft; and as this relation is evident upon the draft itself, the payor cannot claim to have been misled by the indorsement of the agent, or any right to rely on that indorsement as a guaranty of the genuineness of the payee's indorsement." United States v. American Exchange Nat. Bank, 70 F. 232, distinguishing Onondaga County Sav. Bank v. United States [C. C. A.] 64 F. 703.

18. Indorser was a bona fide purchaser. Northwestern Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, 107 Mo. 402, 412, 17 S. W. 982, 15 L. R. A. 102.

19. Since it is not made for the purpose of transfer; but is merely equivalent to a presentment by the bank in person. Dedham Nat. Bank v. Everett Nat. Bank [Mass.] 59 N. E. 62.

20. Birmingham Nat. Bank v. Bradley, 103 Ala. 109, 15 So. 440. This rule is in harmony with the general rules as to the right to charge back a credit given for worthless paper. See Selover, Bank Collections, § 15.

21. Defendant's cashier advised plaintiff, solely because of the suspicious nature of the transaction, to have nothing to do with a check, though it was apparently good and regular. The bank took the check for collection and gave plaintiff credit, and it was paid by the drawee bank. It had been altered so skillfully that it could not be detected by examination, and was discovered only when the drawer's account was balanced at the end of the month. It was held that defendant bank was not guilty of negligence, and that, on the discovery of the alterations, it was justified in refunding to the drawee bank, and charging back the amount against the account of the plaintiff. Rapp v. National Security Bank, 136 Pa. 426, 20 A. 508.

22. Neither party suspected an alteration. The duties of such teller relate only to the discount and collection of commercial paper, and his statement must consequently be limited to the fact of its payment by the drawee, and cannot be extended to the genuineness of the body of the check. Oppenheim v. West Side Bank, 22 Misc. 722, 50 N. Y. S. 148. See, also, Espy v. Bank of Cincinnati, 18 Wall. [U. S.] 604; Marine Nat. Bank v. National City Bank, 59 N. Y. 67;

Recovery back of payments.—The general rule is that money paid upon a raised check may be recovered back, providing the one seeking to recover has not, by his careless or negligent act, injured or prejudiced the rights of the person from whom recovery is sought,[23] and since a collecting bank, to which the payee of a forged or raised check indorsed the same, and from which he received full face value therefor, is under no obligation to such payee to discover the fraud,[24] it may recover back the money so paid.[25] Where the collecting bank has received money by mistake, as under forged or raised paper, and has paid it over to its principal before receiving notice of the forgery, or other fraud inducing the payment, it cannot be compelled to repay.[26] If the collecting bank has not paid over any money or made an actual remittance to its principal, but has merely credited to it the amount of the paper, which credit has never been drawn against, the collecting bank is liable as for money paid to it under mistake.[27] Each of several successive indorsers of a bill, who have successively paid money thereon by mistake, the name of the first indorser having been forged, may recover from his immediate indorser.[28] Funds obtained by forgery cannot be followed into the hands of an innocent person who has received them from the forger in payment of a debt.[29] A collecting bank may obligate itself to pay the difference between the original

Security Bank of New York v. National Bank of Republic, 67 N. Y. 458.

23. National Bank of Commerce v. National Mechanics' Banking Ass'n, 55 N. Y. 211; Marine Nat. Bank v. National City Bank, 59 N. Y. 67, 77; Clews v. Bank of New York National Banking Ass'n, 89 N. Y. 419; National Park Bank of New York v. Eldred Bank, 90 Hun, 285, 35 N. Y. S. 752; Oppenheim v. West Side Bank, 22 Misc. 722, 50 N. Y. S. 148.

24. See Selover, Bank Collections, § 163.

25. Birmingham Nat. Bank v. Bradley, 103 Ala. 109, 15 So. 440; Green v. Purcell Nat. Bank, 1 Ind. T. 270, 37 S. W. 50. See, also, Carpenter v. Northborough Nat. Bank, 123 Mass. 66; White v. Continental Nat. Bank, 64 N. Y. 316; Susquehanna Valley Bank v. Loomis, 85 N. Y. 207; National Park Bank v. Seaboard Bank, 114 N. Y. 28, 20 N. E. 632.

26. National Park Bank v. Seaboard Bank, 114 N. Y. 28, 20 N. E. 632, 11 Am. St. Rep. 612, distinguishing Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Loyd, 90 N. Y. 530; La Farge v. Kneeland, 7 Cow. [N. Y.] 460; Mowatt v. McLelan, 1 Wend. [N. Y.] 173; Herrick v. Gallagher, 60 Barb. [N. Y.] 566; Story, Agency, § 300. In the case first cited in this note, there was evidence that the proceeds of the draft involved in suit, and also the entire amount that the principal bank had to its credit with the collecting bank at the time the proceeds of the draft were turned over to the principal, had been drawn out at least two weeks before the alteration of the draft was discovered, and the court applied the familiar rule as to application of payments,—that where there is no specific direction, the payment will be applied to the oldest items; citing Sheppard v. Steele, 43 N. Y. 52; Allen v. Culver, 3 Denio [N. Y.] 284; Webb v. Dickenson, 11 Wend. [N. Y.] 63.

27. United States Nat. Bank v. National Park Bank, 59 Hun, 495, 13 N. Y. S. 411, affirmed (on the opinion of the court below) in 129 N. Y. 647, 29 N. E. 1028; Bank of Commerce v. Union Bank, 3 N. Y. 236; National Park Bank v. Seaboard Bank, 114 N. Y. 28, 20 N. E. 632.

28. Canal Bank v. Bank of Albany, 1 Hill [N. Y.] 287, 294; Nassau Bank v. National Bank of Newburgh, 159 N. Y. 456, 54 N. E. 66, affirming 32 App. Div. 268, 52 N. Y. S. 1118, and 34 App. Div. 623, 54 N. Y. S. 1110; Rapp v. National Security Bank, 136 Pa. 426, 20 A. 508; Green v. Purcell Nat. Bank, 1 Ind. T. 270, 37 S. W. 50.

29. The forger first cashed a check for $2,400 at the defendant bank by forging the name of one of its depositors. He thereafter deposited in plaintiff bank a forged draft on a third bank for $6,000, which plaintiff collected, but afterwards repaid to the drawee bank on discovery of the forgery. Prior to the discovery of this second forgery, and while the $6,000 was still to his credit in plaintiff bank, the forger drew out substantially all of that amount, and among his drafts on that fund was a check for $2,400 on plaintiff bank to the order of the person whose name he had forged to the check cashed at defendant bank. This check he deposited in defendant bank to the credit of such person, and defendant collected it from plaintiff before it had any knowledge of the forgeries. It was held that defendant bank was not liable to plaintiff bank for the amount of the $2,400 check on plaintiff. Nassau Bank v. National Bank of Newburgh, 159 N. Y. 456, 54 N. E. 66, affirming 32 App. Div. 268, 52 N. Y. S. 1118, and 34 App. Div. 623, 54 N. Y. S. 1110. Citing Justh v. National Bank of Commonwealth, 56 N. Y. 478; Stephens v. Brooklyn Board of Education, 79 N. Y. 183; Hatch v. Fourth Nat. Bank, 147 N. Y. 184, 41 N. E. 403. It is of no conceivable importance that the existence of the fact of indebtedness was not known at the time when the forger sought to make reparation by repaying the moneys feloniously taken. Having made the payment, he could not reclaim it, and no interest in the money remained in him. It satisfied the claim which the bank undoubtedly possessed against him, and the discovery or knowledge of such a claim was not necessary to its existence.

amount of a draft and the amount as fraudulently altered and raised, by an offer to the drawer bank, accepted by it, to pay such difference if the draft was returned with an affidavit of the true amount, and the matter not made public, which conditions were all complied with by the drawer,[30] but an agreement of this kind is rescinded by a direction from the drawer to either pay the difference as agreed, or return the draft and affidavit, followed by a return thereof, together with a refusal to pay.[31] Where the drawee paid, by mistake, a fraudulently raised draft, to a bank holding it for collection, it may sue such bank for the overpayment, after a demand and a refusal to refund, without tendering back the paper itself.[32] The certification by the drawee bank of a draft merely vouches for the genuineness of the signature of the drawer, and the existence of sufficient funds of his at the bank to pay the draft. It does not warrant the genuineness of the body of the instrument, and, in case the draft was raised before certification, will not prevent the drawee bank from recovering the difference between the original and altered amount from a bank to which it paid the amount without knowledge of the alteration.[33] Where the money is received on forged or raised paper by a collecting bank ostensibly as owner, without disclosing its true relation to the paper as bailee or so-called agent for collection, it is uniformly held accountable as for money received by mistake.[34]

Ratification or waiver may relieve the bank of liability.[35]

30. National Bank of Commerce v. Manufacturers' & Traders' Bank, 122 N. Y. 367, 25 N. E. 355.

31. National Bank of Commerce v. Manufacturers' & Traders' Bank, 122 N. Y. 367, 25 N. E. 355. On this state of facts, an action for money had and received could not be maintained by the drawer bank against the collecting bank. Id.

32. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 182 Ill. 367, 77 Ill. App. 316, affirmed. See, also, Brewster v. Burnett, 125 Mass. 68, where it was held that a purchaser of counterfeit United States bonds need not return them before suing for the amount paid therefor. To same effect is Kent v. Bornstein, 12 Allen [Mass.] 342, with regard to the return of a counterfeit bank bill.

33. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 182 Ill. 367, 55 N. E. 360, affirming 77 Ill. App. 316. On effect of certification of check, in general, see Merchants' Bank v. State Bank, 10 Wall. [U. S.] 604, 647. As to liability of bank after certification of raised check and subsequent statement to a purchaser that the certification was good, see Clews v. Bank of New York National Banking Ass'n, 114 N. Y. 70. Recovery in such cases is based on the double ground of mistake and want of consideration. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 182 Ill. 367, 55 N. E. 360, affirming 77 Ill. App. 316.

34. A collecting bank, which was the last of several indorsers of a draft payable to order, the first of whom was ostensibly the payee whose name had been forged, having received payment from the drawee on presentment without disclosing its agency, must repay the amount as money received by mistake on an instrument to which it had no title, though it was not notified of the forgery for two months after it had turned over the money to its principal. Canal Bank v. Bank of Albany, 1 Hill [N. Y.] 287. "No doubt the parties were equally innocent in a moral point of view. The conduct of both was bona fide, and the negligence, or rather misfortune, of both, the same. It was the duty, or, more properly, a measure of prudence, in each to have inquired into the forgery, which both omitted. But this raises no preference at law or in equity in favor of the defendants, but against them. They have obtained plaintiff's money without consideration; not as a gift, but under a mistake." Id. Proof of a custom of collecting banks not to disclose their agency on the paper is not admissible to charge the drawee of a forged draft, who paid the same to the collecting bank, with notice of the fact that such bank was merely an agent, though the agency was not disclosed, in the absence of proof of a further custom of banks not to collect paper as principals. Id. The indorsements on a raised draft, following an indorsement by the payee, for deposit, to the American Trust & Savings Bank, were as follows: "American Trust & Savings Bank. Paid Feb. 14, 1894. Paid through the Chicago Clearing House to Metropolitan National Bank." Held to pass title to the draft to the Metropolitan, and not to make it merely agent for collection. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 182 Ill. 367, 55 N. E. 360, affirming 77 Ill. App. 316.

35. Greenfield Bank v. Crafts, 4 Allen [Mass.] 447; Wellington v. Jackson, 121 Mass. 157; Howard v. Duncan, 3 Lans. [N. Y.] 174. Proceeds used with knowledge. Ballston Spa Bank v. Marine Bank, 16 Wis. 120; Hughes v. Neal Loan & Banking Co., 97 Ga. 383, 23 S. E. 823. Indemnity accepted against forgery. Fitzpatrick v. School Commissioners, 7 Humph. [Tenn.] 224; Jones v. Hamlet, 2 Sneed [Tenn.] 256; Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743. Mere silence is not a ratification. California Bank v. Sayre, 85 Cal. 102; De Land v. Dixon Nat. Bank, 111 Ill. 323; Walters v. Munroe, 17 Md. 150. Failure of husband to notify bank of forgery by wife held to relieve bank of liability on checks forged thereafter. Neal v. First Nat. Bank, 26 Ind. App. 503.

BANKRUPTCY.

§ 1. Amendatory Acts and General Orders (434).
§ 2. Supervision of State Laws (434).
§ 3. Occasion for Proceeding and Acts of Bankruptcy (435).
A. In General (435).
B. Disposition of Property with Intent to Hinder, Delay, or Defraud Creditors (436).
C. A Preferential Tranfer of Property While Insolvent (436).
D. Suffered or Permitted, While Insolvent, the Obtaining of a Preference Through Legal Proceedings (437).
E. General Assignment (437).
F. Admitted in Writing Insolvency and Willingness to be Adjudged a Bankrupt (438).
§ 4. Persons Who May Be Adjudged Bankrupt and Who May Petition (438).
§ 5. Procedure for Adjudication (440).
A. In General (440).
B. Voluntary (441).
C. Involuntary (441).
§ 6. Protection and Possession of the Property Pending the Appointment of Trustee; Receivers (444).
§ 7. Creditors' Meetings; Appointment of Trustee; Removals (445).
§ 8. Compositions (445).
§ 9. Property and Rights Passing to Trustee (446).
A. Particular Kinds of Property or Rights (446).
B. Nature of Trustee's Title in General (449).
C. The Trustee Takes Title Free From Liens (450).
D. Whether Chattel Mortgages (452).
E. Preferential Transfers (453).
F. Preferential Payments (457).
§ 10. Collection, Reduction to Possession, and Protection of Property (458).
A. Discovery (458).
B. Compelling Surrender by Bankrupt (459).
C. Property in Possession of Officer Appointed by State Courts (460).
D. Summary Proceedings Against Third Persons; Jurisdiction (461).
E. Actions to Collect or Reduce the Property to the Trustee's Possession (462).
F. Claims Not Reduced to Possession by the Trustee (467).
§ 11. Protection of Trustee's Title and Possession (467).
A. Restraining Interference (467).
B. Actions Affecting the Trustee's Title (467).
§ 12. Rights of Trustee in Pending Actions by and Against Bankrupt; Jurisdiction of State Courts (468).
§ 13. Management of the Property and Reduction to Money (469).
§ 14. Claims Against the Estate and Proof and Allowance (471).
A. Claims Provable (471).
B. Proof of Claims (473).
C. Contest of Claims (474).
D. Surrender of Preferences and Effect Thereof (475).
E. Priorities (477).
F. Expenses of the Proceeding (479).
G. Expenses of Receivers and Assignees Appointed Prior to Bankruptcy Proceedings (480).
§ 15. Distribution of Assets (481).
§ 16. Exemption (481).
§ 17. Death of Bankrupt Pending Proceedings (483).
§ 18. Referees, Proceedings Before Them and Review Thereof (484).
§ 19. Modification and Vacation of Orders of Bankruptcy Court (485).
§ 20. Appeal and Review in Bankruptcy Cases (485).
§ 21. Trustee's Bonds; Actions Thereon (487).
§ 22. Discharge of Bankrupt; Its Effect and How Availed of (488).
A. Procedure to Obtain Discharge and Vacation Thereof (488).
B. Grounds for Refusal (489).
C. Liabilities Released (491).
D. Pleading and Evidence (494).
§ 23. Reopening, Grounds and Effect (496).

§ 1. Amendatory acts and general orders.[62]—The amendatory act of 1903[63] does not apply to bankruptcy cases proper pending at the time of its passage;[64] it covers acts committed prior to the date of its passage, the action not being pending at that date,[65] and its application is not confined to rights of action subsequently arising, but is available to enforce existing rights of action.[66]

The general orders in bankruptcy have the same force as a provision of the bankruptcy act,[67] and are made under an express constitutional delegation of power.[68]

§ 2. Supersession of state laws.[69]—The national bankruptcy act does not apply to any act of bankruptcy occurring before July 1, 1898,[70] and on its passage at

62. See 1 Curr. L. 311.
63. Act Cong. Feb. 5, 1903 [32 Stat. 801].
64. In re Docker-Foster Co., 123 F. 190; In re Scott, 126 F. 981. Does not apply to a suit brought by a trustee. Pond v. New York Nat. Exch. Bank, 124 F. 992.
65. Obtaining property on credit on a materially false statement in writing made more than four months prior to the date of the amendatory act, and about six months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy bars a discharge. In re Scott, 126 F. 981.
66. Pond v. New York Nat. Exch. Bank, 124 F. 992.
67, 68. In re Hoyt & Mitchell, 127 F. 968.
69. See 1 Curr. L. 312.
70. Grunsfeld Bros. v. Brownell [N. M.] 76 P. 310.

once suspended and superseded all state insolvency laws except as to cases and persons not within its purview,[71] hence a state insolvency law permitting a corporation to become a voluntary bankrupt is not suspended.[72] The state courts have the right to take charge of and distribute a debtor's property assigned for the benefit of creditors, until the assignment has been impeached as an act of bankruptcy,[73] but bankruptcy proceedings being instituted, the right of any claim against the bankrupt's estate to the preference given by such deed of assignment is defeated.[74]

§ 3. Occasion for proceeding and acts of bankruptcy.[75] A. In general.—Upon a debtor committing an act of bankruptcy a right immediately arises in the creditors to have his affairs wound up and his estate administered pursuant to the bankruptcy law.[76]

Insolvency.—Under the present bankruptcy law a debtor is not insolvent unless his property, at a fair valuation, is insufficient to pay his debts.[77] A bankrupt who denies his insolvency must produce his books or the burden is upon him to prove his solvency.[78] An adjudication of the insolvency of a partnership is an adjudication of the insolvency of each member thereof.[79] Property being transferred in payment of, or security for a just debt, the mere fact that it may involve a preference in bankruptcy, should bankruptcy proceedings be instituted, does not exclude it from consideration in determining the debtor's solvency.[80] An admission of insolvency under a state law is not an admission of insolvency sufficient to base involuntary proceedings on, insolvency as defined by 71. In re F. A. Hall Co., 121 F. 992. Act of 1898 provides a system of bankruptcy for particular cases only. Singer v. National Bedstead Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 868. Kentucky St. 1899, § 84, providing that title to property fraudulently conveyed by an assignor for the benefit of creditors shall vest in the assignee, and §§ 1910, 1911, making a preferential transfer in contemplation of insolvency operate as an assignment for the benefit of creditors and subjecting such transfer to the control of equity upon the petition of any one interested does not constitute an insolvency act and is not superseded by the bankruptcy law. Downer v. Porter, 25 Ky. L. R. 571, 76 S. W. 135. Chapter 67, Sess. Laws 1889 of New Mexico, is not a bankruptcy law. Grunsfeld Bros. v. Brownell [N. M.] 76 P. 310.

NOTE. Effect of bankruptcy law on state insolvency laws: By the great weight of authority such act suspends the operation of the state law and proceedings cannot be instituted under the latter. Foley-Bean Lumber Co. v. Sawyer, 76 Minn. 118, 78 N. W. 1038; In re Etheridge Furniture Co., 92 F. 329. Some cases hold that proceedings under state laws concerning voluntary assignments are suspended. In re Smith, 92 F. 135; In re Etheridge Furniture Co., 92 F. 329.—From note to State v. Superior Court for King County [Wash.] 45 L. R. A. 177. See 1 Curr. L. 312.

72. Keystone Driller Co. v. Superior Court of San Francisco, 138 Cal. 738, 72 P. 398.

73. Assignee in state court may sue on a note given for goods bought of the insolvent, no proceedings having been instituted by the trustee in bankruptcy to recover the goods or the note as part of the bankrupt estate. Lucas v. Lucas' Assignee, 25 Ky. L. R. 822, 76 S. W. 371; Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams [Wash.] 76 P. 934; Duryea v. Muse, 117 Wis. 399, 94 N. W. 365; Randolph & Randolph v. Scruggs, 190 U. S. 533, 23 S. Ct. 710, 47 Law. Ed. 1165. The operation of the Vermont state assignment act is not suspended by the national bankruptcy act. Hilliard v. Burlington Shoe Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 283. See 1 Curr. L. 312.

74. Claim of attorneys for services. Randolph v. Scruggs, 190 U. S. 533, 23 S. Ct. 710, 47 Law. Ed. 1165.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 312.

76. In re Knight, 125 F. 35.

77. Insolvency need not occur by mere failure of the debtor to meet his obligations as they become due. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co. [Cal.] 76 P. 243. An instruction that notice of fact sufficient to lead a prudent man to the conclusion that a debtor "could not meet his obligations as they matured in the ordinary course of business" is notice of insolvency of the debtor, within the meaning of the Federal bankruptcy act, is erroneous. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822.

Illustrations: One whose assets amount to $29,630, and his liabilities to $32,500 is insolvent. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121. A company owning buildings appraised at $100,000, and which could not be replaced for $250,000, also property, goods on hand and real estate worth $40,000, and being indebted in the sum of $81,200 is not insolvent within the meaning of the bankruptcy law (Act 1898, § 1, par. 15) so as to render a mortgage given to secure a creditor void as a preference, though a month after giving the mortgage it was adjudged a bankrupt and the plant could only be sold for $75,000. Empire State Trust Co. v. Wm. F. Fisher [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 502.

78. Bogen v. Protter [C. C. A.] 129 F. 533.

79. Gray v. Brunold, 140 Cal. 615, 74 P. 303.

80. Section 1, subd. 15, as regards the property to be excluded, refers only to property conveyed, etc., with intent to defraud, hinder, or delay the creditors. In re Doscher, 120 F. 408.

the state law being different from insolvency under the bankruptcy act.[81] An alleged bankrupt's stock being partially destroyed, it is competent on the issue of insolvency to show the value of his stock before, and after the partial destruction.[82]

(§ 3) B. Disposition of property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors.[83]—The intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors must exist in order to render the transfer, concealment, or removal of the property an act of bankruptcy,[84] but the intent may be inferred from the natural and necessary result of the transfer,[85] as where the property is conveyed without consideration.[86]

(§ 3) C. A preferential transfer of property while insolvent.[87]—In order that a preferential transfer of property may amount to an act of bankruptcy the debtor must have been insolvent at the time,[88] a preference must have been intended,[89] and the transfer must have been to a creditor.[90] The transfer amounting to a preference, the law presumes that it was done with the intent to prefer such creditor,[91] and in determining whether or not a preference was given, the whole transaction must be considered.[92] A conditional transfer of property as by mortgage[93] is a transfer within the meaning of this section. Conveyance of property by a debtor to his only creditors is not an act of bankruptcy,[94] nor can one not a creditor at the time of the conveyance attach the same.[95] Payments of comparatively small sums of money by an insolvent corporation to each of a number of its creditors, being made in the usual course of business, do not raise a presumption of an intent to prefer such creditors over other creditors.[96] Re-

81. In re Doscher, 120 F. 408.

82. An alleged bankrupt's stock being partially destroyed by fire it is competent on the issue of insolvency to show, in the absence of his books and the insurance not being adjusted, the value of the goods before the fire and after, and to contradict or impeach his own estimates or appraisals. Bogen & Trummel v. Protter [C. C. A.] 129 F. 533.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 312.

84. This intent to defraud must be distinguished from the intent to prefer necessary under the next subdivision of the act. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. Selling goods, under a threat by a creditor to institute criminal proceedings if the debtor did not pay up, to realize money to pay the debt, which money the creditor refused to receive and started criminal proceedings, is not a sale with intent to defraud. In re Belknap, 129 F. 646. A conveyance made by a debtor in good faith whether for an antecedent or present consideration does not constitute an act of bankruptcy, though its effect may be to hinder or delay creditors by removing from their reach assets of the debtor. Lansing Boiler & Engine Works v. Ryerson [C. C. A.] 128 F. 701. See 1 Curr. L. 312.

85. Insolvent corporation transferred business and property to another corporation in exchange for stock in the latter. Bean-Chamberlain Mfg. Co. v. Standard Spoke & Nipple Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 215.

86. Gray v. Chase, 184 Mass. 444, 68 N. E. 676. See 1 Curr. L. 312.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 313.

88. Troy Wagon Works v. Vastbinder, 130 F. 232.

89. Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 36 So. 65. Evidence that an insolvent debtor within four months of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy paid several bills maturing is insufficient to establish an act of bankruptcy, there being no evidence that he thereby intended to give preferences, or contemplated bankruptcy, nor that the creditors receiving such payments did not thereafter extend credit to him for larger amounts. Clark v. Henne & Meyer [C. C. A.] 127 F. 288.

90. An accommodation indorser is such a creditor. In re O'Donnell, 131 F. 150. The uncorroborated testimony of a single witness to a declaration made by an alleged bankrupt that the vendee of property conveyed by him was a creditor is insufficient to prove an act of bankruptcy, where the bankrupt testified that he was not indebted to the vendee, and received full payment for the land, and two other witnesses testified they saw the money paid. In re Foster, 126 F. 1014.

91. An answer in involuntary proceedings admitting that the bankrupt was insolvent and had sold property within four months prior to the filing of the petition and with the proceeds thereof paid certain debtors is an admission of a preference constituting an act of bankruptcy. Brinkley v. Smithwick, 126 F. 686.

92. Whole contract must be construed as to whether or not the bankrupt was the owner of the goods or the agent of the seller. Troy Wagon Works v. Vastbinder, 130 F. 232.

93. On real estate. In re Edelman [C. C. A.] 130 F. 700. A mortgage made by a debtor upon his entire property does not constitute an act of bankruptcy in a state where such mortgage creates a lien only and does not transfer the title where the mortgagor's remaining estate is greater in value than his unsecured debts. [Michigan]. Lansing Boiler & Engine Works v. Joseph T. Ryerson & Son [C. C. A.] 128 F. 701.

Chattel mortgage. In re Riggs Restaurant Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 691.

94, 95. Brake v. Callison [C. C. A.] 129 F. 201.

96. In re Douglas Coal & Coke Co., 131 F. 769.

cording being essential to the validity of an assignment of future earnings, such an assignment, by a debtor to secure a creditor, being recorded within four months of the filing of the petition constitutes an act of bankruptcy.[97]

(§ 3) D. Suffered or permitted, while insolvent, the obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings.[98]—In order to adjudge one a bankrupt on the ground of his suffering or permitting a creditor to obtain a preference through legal proceedings, without discharging the same, a preference must have actually resulted,[99] legal proceedings must have been instituted,[1] and a judgment must have been rendered therein,[2] and unsuccessful resistance by the debtor is unavailable as a defense to the bankruptcy proceedings.[3] A debtor allowing his creditor to levy upon his property, "suffers and permits" the obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings,[4] though allowing one to obtain a statutory lien enforceable without legal proceedings is not an act of bankruptcy,[5] nor is the due enforcement of liens acquired more than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.[6] It is not the mere obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings while insolvent that makes the debtor liable as a bankrupt, but it is the failure on his part to have the same vacated or discharged within five days before a sale or final disposition of the property.[7]

(§ 3) E. General assignment.[8]—Making a general assignment for the benefit of creditors is an act of bankruptcy, regardless of the debtor's solvency.[9] A direct transfer to creditors, without the intervention of a trustee duly appointed, is not an assignment for the benefit of creditors.[10]

Prior to the amendment of 1903 application for a receiver did not constitute an act of bankruptcy,[11] and this provision is not retroactive.[12] It is immaterial whether the receiver is temporary or permanent,[13] but he must have been appointed because of insolvency.[14] The filing of a bill in a collusive suit for the appointment of receivers, the proceedings being then discontinued, does not prevent the appointment of receivers in a subsequent suit for the same purpose, constituting an act of bankruptcy.[15] A corporation against whom creditors have filed a bill in a state court asking for the appointment of receivers, admitting in its answer the facts alleged and consenting to the relief prayed, the receivers being appointed, has committed an act of bankruptcy.[16] The record of the court ap-

97. In re O'Donnell, 131 F. 150.
98. See 1 Curr. L. 313, n. 28.
99. A distraint of goods under a landlord's warrant held not to operate as a preference. In re Belknap, 129 F. 646.
1. Failure by a debtor to take legal proceedings to retake goods taken and retained by a creditor is not an act of bankruptcy. In re Belknap, 129 F. 646.
2. Mere suing out of an attachment and levying the same is not sufficient. Seaboard Steel Casting Co. v. William R. Trigg Co., 124 F. 75.
3. Bradley Timber Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 121 F. 779.
4. Bogen v. Protter [C. C. A.] 129 F. 533.
5. Livery stable keeper's lien. In re Mero, 128 F. 630.
6. Owen v. Brown [C. C. A.] 120 F. 812.
7. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417; Bradley Timber Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 121 F. 779.
8. See 1 Curr. L. 312, n. 11.
9. Couts v. Townsend, 126 F. 249. See 1 Curr. L. 312.
10. Anniston Iron & Supply Co. v. Anniston Rolling Mill Co., 125 F. 974.
11. In re Burrell [C. C. A.] 123 F. 414.
12. Such an appointment made prior to the passage of the amendatory act will not support a petition in involuntary bankruptcy filed after that date, although the receivership still continues. Seaboard Steel Casting Co. v. William R. Trigg Co., 124 F. 75.
13. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner [C. C. A.] 131 F. 57.
14. Receiver appointed for property of a corporation in a suit to foreclose a mortgage, the bill not alleging insolvency, held insufficient to constitute an act of bankruptcy. In re Douglas Coal & Coke Co., 131 F. 769. Submission of questions, whether at the date of appointing the receivers, and at the date of the filing of the bankruptcy petition the property of the alleged bankrupt was at a fair valuation sufficient to pay his debts, and whether the appointment of the receivers was because of the debtor's insolvency, and if they had taken charge of the property, held proper. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner [C. C. A.] 131 F. 57.
15. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner [C. C. A.] 131 F. 57.
16. Lowenstein v. Henry McShane Mfg. Co., 130 F. 1007.

pointing the receivers is the best evidence of their appointment, and the reason therefor.[17]

(§ 3) F. Admitted in writing insolvency and willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt.[18]—The writing need not be made for the sole and express purpose of being adjudged a bankrupt, an admission in an answer to an involuntary proceeding is sufficient.[19] The admission for a corporation may be made by its board of directors,[20] and the appointment of receivers for the corporation does not deprive them of this power.[21] Solvency is no defense to proceedings based upon this ground.[22]

§ 4. Persons who may be adjudged bankrupt and who may petition.[23]—A natural person engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil cannot be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt,[24] but a corporation so engaged is not exempt.[25] A corporation cannot be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt by reason of its having a principal business which is beyond the authority given by its charter and within the scope of the bankruptcy act.[26] A corporation not of the excepted class is liable to be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt before actually engaging in business,[27] or after it has ceased to do business.[28] A corporation engaged principally in manufacturing or trading may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt,[29] as where it is engaged in building ships,[30] buildings and bridges,[31] or in raising a

17. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner [C. C. A.] 131 F. 57.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 312, n. 17.

19. An admission in an answer to an involuntary proceeding by the bankrupt that he is insolvent, and that he intends to pay the debts in full, and is willing to answer fully at any time the court may designate, is sufficient. Brinkley v. Smithwick, 126 F. 686.

20. The board of directors of a corporation having power under the state laws to make a general assignment of the property of the corporation for the benefit of creditors, they may make an admission in writing on behalf of the corporation of its inability to pay its debts and willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt on that ground. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 685.

21. Temporary receivers. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 685. Appointment of receivers by a state court and subsequently by a bankruptcy court. In re C. Moench & Sons Co., 123 F. 965.

22. Directors of a corporation on the request of certain creditors passed such a resolution, held such creditors were entitled to have the corporation adjudged a bankrupt without regard to its solvency. In re C. Moench & Sons Co., 123 F. 965. Such a defense cannot be interposed by a creditor of a manufacturing corporation. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 685.

23. See 1 Curr. L. 313.

24. Even though he be at the same time a private banker. Couts v. Townsend, 126 F. 249. One managing and controlling plantations is engaged chiefly in farming or tilling the soil, and the fact that he maintains a store or commissary thereon does not affect his status as one chiefly engaged in farming. Wulbern v. Drake [C. C. A.] 120 F. 493. The owner of a farm upon which he resides, but who has leased the same for the current year is not engaged chiefly in farming and may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. In re Matson, 123 F. 743.

25. In re Lake Jackson Sugar Co., 129 F. 640.

26. A corporation whose only authorized business is that of a carrier is not susceptible to bankruptcy on the ground that its principal business is in fact that of a trader. In re Quimby Freight Forwarding Co., 121 F. 139.

27. A corporation organized for the purpose of manufacturing paper from wood pulp had purchased woodland and other property, but had never in fact started its factory. Held, could be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. In re White Mountain Paper Co., 127 F. 180; affirmed in White Mountain Paper Co. v. Morse & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 643. See 1 Curr. L. 313, n. 35.

28. Receivers were appointed by a state court for a manufacturing corporation before the filing of the petition; held subject to the bankruptcy act. In re C. Moench & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 685. Bankruptcy proceedings having been begun against a corporation, a decree entered in another state dissolving the corporation does not affect the bankruptcy proceeding. In re White Mountain Paper Co., 127 F. 180; affirmed in White Mountain Paper Co. v. Morse & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 643.

29. Finding of a referee that a corporation was "extensively" engaged in trading falls short of the statutory word "principally" and will not justify an adjudication in bankruptcy. Philpot v. O'Brion [C. C. A.] 126 F. 167.

30. Columbia Ironworks v. National Lead Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 99. The corporation constructed boats, and parts and furniture for vessels, such as boilers, masts, tanks, paint, chairs, desks, tables, etc. Held, "principally engaged in manufacturing pursuits." In re Marine Const. & Dry Dock Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 446.

31. As a manufacturing corporation. In this case it simply furnished the labor, other parties furnishing the material. In re Niagara Contracting Co., 127 F. 782.

crop and manufacturing it into an article of merchandise.[32] A wage earner,[33] a building and loan association,[34] a corporation conducting a public warehouse,[35] a circulating library,[36] a private bank,[37] a brokerage business,[38] or that of a common carrier,[39] cannot be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. That the bankrupt is a married woman does not exempt her from involuntary proceedings.[40] A partnership cannot be adjudged a bankrupt without all its members being adjudged bankrupts,[41] but the firm is not necessarily bankrupt because all of its partners are,[42] and the insanity of one partner does not defeat the proceedings.[43] The debtor being prima facie incapable of being adjudged an involuntary bankrupt, the burden of proof is upon the petitioning creditors.[44]

Voluntary proceedings.[45]—It is not obligatory on debtors to voluntarily go into bankruptcy.[46] A voluntary subsequent proceeding for the sole purpose of obtaining a discharge to which a prior proceeding has conclusively determined the bankrupt is not entitled, cannot lawfully be maintained,[47] and the bankruptcy court has power to dismiss such proceeding, even after adjudication.[48]

Involuntary proceedings.[49]—A creditor in order to maintain a petition must have been a creditor at the time of the commission of the alleged act of bankruptcy,[50] and must still own his claim against the estate.[51] The number of creditors necessary to the petition should be reckoned as of the date of the petition,[52] a number of claims becoming merged in one person, such person counts only as one

32. One raising sugar cane and manufacturing it into sugar, syrup, etc., is engaged chiefly in manufacturing, not farming. This distinction, however, is immaterial, as a farming corporation may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. In re Lake Jackson Sugar Co., 129 F. 640.

33. One who owns a team, wagons and a plow with which he worked by the day for different employers as he could obtain work, earning usually from $9 to $15 per week, and working alone when not able to find work for his team is not an independent contractor, but a wage earner. In re Yoder, 127 F. 894.

34. In this case organized to accumulate a fund from contributions of its members, from which loans were to be made to assist members in purchasing real estate, the profits of which business were divided among its members. In re New York Building-Loan Banking Co., 127 F. 471.

35. In re Pacific Coast Warehouse Co., 123 F. 749.

36. In re Parmelee Library [C. C. A.] 120 F. 235.

37. Incorporated under the laws of a state. In re Surety Guarantee & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 73.

38. Neither as a trader nor as engaged in mercantile pursuits. In re Surety Guarantee & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 73.

39. The purchase by a common carrier of horses, hay, wagons, harnesses, etc., necessary to carry on its business, and the occasional incidental sale of horses and wagons and the occasional boarding of horses, does not make it a trading or mercantile company. In re H. J. Quimby Freight Forwarding Co., 121 F. 139.

40. A married woman engaged in business on her own account, and owing business obligations of the amount required by the bankruptcy law, for which her separate property is liable in equity, may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. MacDonald v. Tefft-Weller Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 381.

41. If the members are able to pay their own and firm debts, whether out of joint or separate estates, the firm is not insolvent and cannot be adjudged a bankrupt. In re Forbes, 128 F. 137.

42. In re Mercur [C. C. A.] 122 F. 384.

43. In re L. Stein & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 547.

44. The burden of proof rests upon the petitioning creditors to show that a corporation chartered for the purpose of transacting the business of a common carrier is a trading corporation. Philpot v. O'Brion [C. C. A.] 126 F. 167.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 313.

46. Summers v. Abbott [C. C. A.] 122 F. 36.

47. Bankrupt had failed to apply for a discharge in the former proceeding until too late. Kuntz v. Young [C. C. A.] 131 F. 719.

48. Kuntz v. Young [C. C. A.] 131 F. 719.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 313.

50. In re Callison, 130 F. 987.

51. A creditor contracting to sell his claim, but agreeing to first join in a petition against the debtor, which he does immediately thereafter, transferring and receiving payment for his claim, the claim must be considered as having been owned by the purchaser when the petition was filed. Lowenstein v. Henry McShane Mfg. Co., 130 F. 1007.

52. As to whether a single creditor is entitled to file an involuntary petition. In re Coburn, 126 F. 218; affirmed in Moulton v. Coburn [C. C. A.] 131 F. 201.

Where the number of creditors exceeds twelve, and three join in the filing of the petition, whether payment of the debt of one of the petitioning creditors after the petition is filed will defeat the proceeding for a lack of a sufficient number of creditors joining in the petition, quaere? Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

creditor,[53] and creditors not joining in the petition should be counted.[54] A creditor misled into signing an involuntary petition in bankruptcy may withdraw.[55] Creditors joining in an involuntary petition must have provable claims,[56] though the claims need not be allowable,[57] nor liquidated.[58] While there is a conflict as to whether or not a creditor who has obtained a preference can file an involuntary petition,[59] still it is conceded by all authorities that a preferred creditor may surrender his preference and thus qualify,[60] and, as there is no one, prior to the appointment of a trustee, to whom he can surrender it, it is sufficient if he offers to do so in the petition,[61] or in the course of the proceedings.[62] One may become estopped to join in the petition by inducing,[63] or receiving benefits and assenting to the commission of the act of bankruptcy.[64]

§ 5. Procedure for adjudication.[65] A. In general.—Jurisdiction of the subject-matter in bankruptcy proceedings is conferred by law, jurisdiction of the person in involuntary proceedings is acquired by filing a petition and serving a copy of it, with a subpoena upon the alleged bankrupt.[66] The jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court depends upon alleged bankrupt having a bona fide residence within the district,[67] the whereabouts of his property is immaterial,[68] and it having jurisdiction of

53. An assignee for the benefit of creditors purchasing claims with the funds of a debtor, such claims become either merged in the assignee as a single claim in equity or are to be regarded as extinguished, and hence though split up by the assignee and assigned to various parties, which assignment is ratified by the original assignor, are to be treated as one claim in determining the number of creditors necessary to an involuntary petition. Leighton v. Kennedy [C. C. A.] 129 F. 737.

54. Creditors induced not to join in the petition by the voluntary assignee of the alleged bankrupt, acting in behalf of creditors and not as an agent of the creditor signing the petition, should be counted. In re Coburn, 126 F. 218.

55. The proper officers of a corporation authorized its agent to assent to an assignment by the debtor for the benefit of creditors. The agent assented, but not under seal, having no authority to execute any instrument under seal. The corporation, forgetting the assent, joined in the petition, then it ratified the act of its agent under seal and sought to withdraw from the petition. Held, as it joined under a misunderstanding of fact, it should be allowed to withdraw. In re Coburn, 126 F. 218; affirmed in Moulton v. Coburn [C. C. A.] 131 F. 201.

56. Creditor receiving a preference which has not been surrendered cannot join. In re Fishblate Clothing Co., 126 F. 986.

57. Creditor having received a preference can nevertheless join in a petition for involuntary bankruptcy, though his claim cannot be allowed until he surrenders the preference. In re Hornstein, 122 F. 266.

58. Claim is for damages arising out of a breach of warranty upon a sale of personal property, and is disputed by bankrupt. In re Frederic L. Grant Shoe Co., 125 F. 576; affirmed in In re Frederic L. Grant Shoe Co., [C. C. A.] 130 F. 881.

59. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417. (See this case for a partial list of authorities pro and con). That he must surrender such preference where he in good faith had obtained an attachment lien within four months of the filing of the petition. In re Hornstein, 122 F. 266.

60, 61, 62. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417.

63. Creditors made debtor a proposal that he convey to them all his stock of goods and they would accept the same in full payment of their claims; held, creditors participating therein and assenting thereto could not use the conveyance as a ground for having the debtor adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. Clarke v. Henne & Meyer [C. C. A.] 127 F. 288.

64. A creditor participating in, receiving a benefit under, and assenting to, a general assignment under the laws of a state, is estopped. Durham Paper Co. v. Seaboard Knitting Mills, 121 F. 179; Moulton v. Coburn [C. C. A.] 131 F. 201. Creditors of a corporation intervening and assisting in a suit in a state court to have receivers appointed are estopped to subsequently file a petition in bankruptcy, based on the appointment of the receivers as the act of bankruptcy. Lowenstein v. Henry McShane Mfg. Co., 130 F. 1007.

Obtaining a debtor to commit an act of bankruptcy in order that all creditors might share equally does not estop such creditors from urging such act as against a creditor, who, if the bankruptcy proceedings were dismissed, would obtain a preference by his attachment. In re Moench & Sons Co., 123 F. 965. A corporation is not estopped, by reason of one of its officers becoming, as an individual, the assignee of the bankrupt, from joining in a petition for involuntary bankruptcy. In re Winston, 122 F. 187.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 314.

66. In re Brett, 130 F. 981.

67. Removal of a person from one district to another for the express purpose of filing a petition in bankruptcy therein, and with the intention of leaving the district as soon as a discharge was obtained, is not a bona fide residence therein. In re Garneau [C. C. A.] 127 F. 677.

68. That the property of a corporation is in the possession of receivers appointed by the state court does not affect the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court. In re Moench & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 685.

one member of the partnership, it has jurisdiction of all the partners and of the partnership property.[69] The court making the first adjudication of bankruptcy has exclusive jurisdiction of the proceeding.[70] The fact that one creditor's name was omitted from the list and that such creditor had no notice of the proceeding does not affect the court's jurisdiction in respect to the adjudication.[71] The simple forms of bankruptcy practice found in the general orders and forms prescribed by the supreme court should be followed,[72] and the petition and schedule should contain no abbreviation or interlineation except for the purpose of reference,[73] though amendments may be made at any stage of the proceedings regardless of the time which has elapsed.[74] The bankrupt's exemption from arrest continues until the final adjudication on his application for a discharge, unless suspended or vacated by order of the court,[75] and the court may require security of the bankrupt that during its continuance he will obey all orders of the court and not meanwhile depart from its jurisdiction.[76]

(§ 5) B. Voluntary.[77]—An adjudication of bankruptcy made ex parte on a voluntary petition is not conclusive on creditors.[78]

(§ 5) C. Involuntary.[79]—The bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to determine whether or not the alleged bankrupt is a proper subject of involuntary proceedings.[80] The good faith of the petitioners, being open to question, the court is justified in resolving all doubtful questions both of law and fact against them.[81] The petition should show by express language or inference that the alleged bankrupt is not of the excepted classes,[82] that the claims of the petitioners amount in the aggregate to $500 or over,[83] and where it does not, the court has no power to permit an amendment joining other creditors having claims sufficient to make up the requisite amount.[84] The petition being insufficient by reason of one of the petitioners being disqualified, it may be cured by the intervention of others.[85] The petition in involuntary proceedings must set out the business in which the defendant is engaged,[86] or state specifically that he was not engaged in one of the excluded classes of business or occupation, but a defect in this regard may be cured by amendment.[87] An allegation, in the petition, of the commission of an act of bankruptcy, should state the specific fact relied upon,[88] with

69. That one partner for a long period antedating the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings had been a resident of another state from that in which such proceedings were instituted, and was not served, does not divest the court of jurisdiction. Whitson v. Farber Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 327.

70. General order No. 6. Where pending an appeal from an order dismissing a petition in involuntary bankruptcy, the defendants were adjudged bankrupts in another district, the appeal will be dismissed. In re Sears, Humbert & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 275; In re Knight, 125 F. 35.

71. Roberts v. Fernald [N. H.] 56 A. 942.

72. W. A. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

73. General Orders in Bankruptcy No. 5. It seems that "Residence 135, Bway." is insufficient as designating 135 Broadway. Sutherland v. Lasher, 41 Misc. 249, 84 N. Y. S. 56.

74. In re Mercur [C. C. A.] 122 F. 384.

75. It is not restricted to the particular occasions when his physical attendance is required in court. In re Dresser, 124 F. 915.

76. In re Dresser, 124 F. 915.

77. See 1 Curr. L. 315.

78. May ask for a dismissal of the proceedings on the ground that court was without jurisdiction. In re Garneau [C. C. A.] 127 F. 677.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 314.

80. Columbia Iron Works v. National Lead Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 99.

81. One not a creditor purchased claims against the debtor. Lowenstein v. Henry McShane Mfg. Co., 130 F. 1007.

82. In re Brett, 130 F. 981; In re Callison, 130 F. 987.

83, 84. In re Stein, 130 F. 377.

85. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417.

86. In re Mero, 128 F. 630.

87. Contained averments consistent with his being a merchant. Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. [C. C. A.] 120 F. 736.

88. An allegation that a debtor committed various and sundry acts of bankruptcy by paying several of his creditors various sums of money while insolvent with intent to give preferences, without stating the names of the creditors or the sums so paid, is wholly insufficient. Clark v. Henne & Meyer [C. C. A.] 127 F. 288. Where the ground for filing the petition is removing property with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, the facts should be as specific as possible, but greater detail than it is time,[89] place, and circumstance.[90] The consideration of the claim need not be set forth and sworn to in the petition.[91] An involuntary petition need not allege in so many words that the preferred transferee is a creditor,[92] nor is it necessary to indicate in what manner the bankrupt indicated his intent, it being inferable from the facts alleged.[93] Several acts of bankruptcy may be set forth in one petition.[94] An attorney in fact for a petitioning creditor can make the necessary oath to the petition, where the facts are within his own knowledge,[95] and a defective verification may be cured by amendment.[96] Petitions may be consolidated by order of the court, and when done before reference to the referee precludes the latter from determining the necessity of the petitions.[97] In proceedings against a partnership, the petition must be specifically directed against it,[98] alleging an act of bankruptcy in which it is expressly involved, and the proceeding must result in an adjudication of the partnership itself,[99] but the petition of one partner to put his firm and copartners into bankruptcy need not allege an act of bankruptcy,[1] nor can the nonassenting partners set up the want of an act of bankruptcy as a defense to such a petition,[2] though they may set up the defense of solvency.[3] To maintain the action a partnership in fact must be shown,[4] and the existence of an alleged partnership being denied, it must be proven before an adjudication is made.[5] The petition being defective it should not be dismissed without first giving the petitioners an opportunity to apply for leave to amend.[6] Valid service of the petition can be made by leaving the subpoena and copy of the petition at the bankrupt's last and usual place of abode,[7] with some adult member or resident in the family.[8] probable creditors can furnish is not required. In re Mero, 128 F. 630.

89. Clark v. Henne & Meyer [C. C. A.] 127 F. 288. Need only allege that the preferential transfer was made within four months of the filing of the petition. Specific date need not be given. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417. Where the jurats to the oaths of creditors verifying the same bear different dates from that upon which the petition was filed, the petition must show on its face that the acts of bankruptcy complained of were committed within four months of the date of filing the petition. Bradley Timber Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 121 F. 779.

90. Clark v. Henne & Meyer [C. C. A.] 127 F. 288.

91. Construing § 57. In re Brett, 130 F. 981. An averment in the petition that the petitioner is the owner and holder of a certain promissory note for a stated amount, dated more than three months before the filing of the petition, and due three months after date, held sufficient. Id.

92. Alleged that the debtor transferred property to C. H. Childs & Co. with intent to prefer them over his other creditors. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417.

93. In re Mero, 128 F. 630.

94. Bradley Timber Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 121 F. 779.

95. It will be assumed that they are within his own knowledge where the oath is positive in its terms. An oath on the affiant's knowledge, information, and belief is not positive and is insufficient. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417.

96. In re Vastbinder, 126 F. 417.

97. In re McCracken, 129 F. 621.

98. Simultaneous proceedings by the same creditor against all the partners does not bring the partnership into court, nor can this be remedied by amendment. In re Mercur [C. C. A.] 122 F. 384.

99. In re Mercur [C. C. A.] 122 F. 384.

1, 2. In re Forbes, 128 F. 137.

3. In this case Judge Lowell discusses the question as to whether or not a partnership is an entity within the meaning of the bankruptcy law, reaching the conclusion that it is not and hence cannot be adjudged a bankrupt without all the partners being adjudged bankrupts. In re Forbes, 128 F. 137.

4. To maintain involuntary proceedings against a person as a partner a partnership in fact must be shown, and not a mere holding out upon which he may become liable to creditors. In re C. F. Beckwith & Co., 130 F. 475.

5. It appeared that both of the original partners had died, leaving their interests to others, some of whom were minors, the firm was continued but by whom did not appear, except that two of the persons conducting the business and who committed the act of bankruptcy admitted they were partners and were willing to have the firm adjudged a bankrupt, the continuance of the partnership after the death of the original partners was denied by the minors. In re McLaren, 125 F. 835.

6. In re Brett, 130 F. 981.

7. Left copy of petition with subpoena with the clerk of the hotel of which the bankrupt was the proprietor and where he usually resided, held sufficient, though the bankrupt was at the time in another town, sick and unconscious and died two days later without regaining consciousness. In re Risteen, 122 F. 732.

8. The clerk of a hotel of which the bankrupt is the owner and where he usually resides is a proper person. In re Risteen, 122 F. 732.

Anyone showing by his answer an actual interest in the matter may contest the petition;[9] he need not have a provable claim.[10] The answer must conform to the United States supreme court orders,[11] it must not contain grounds of demurrer to the original petition which have already been disposed of by the court,[12] it must be properly verified,[13] and admit or unevasively deny, upon the oath of a competent person, the material facts alleged in the petition.[14] The authority of the attorney appearing for the petitioning creditors cannot be challenged by the answer.[15] The "list of creditors" required of a defendant debtor, when he sets up as a defense to a petition by a single creditor that the number of his creditors is more than twelve, must contain the names and addresses of such creditors,[16] a statement of the amount due each creditor,[17] the date of the debt,[18] when due,[19] whether due by note or account or by some other form of contract,[20] the consideration therefor,[21] whether owned jointly with another,[22] and such other full particulars as will enable the petitioning creditor to negotiate with others to join with him in the petition.[23] If the particulars are not sufficiently definite a reference will be ordered to ascertain them.[24] There being no reply in the bankruptcy proceedings new matter set up in the answer must be taken as true.[25] The bankrupt must schedule all his property and debts and has no right to determine what property is valuable and what is not.[26]

The alleged bankrupt is only entitled of right to a jury trial on the question of his insolvency,[27] and the acts of bankruptcy with which he is charged,[28] and this right is limited to the bankrupt.[29]

Proceedings will not be revised on grounds fully disposed of in former proceedings by the same petitioner.[30] A petition for the dismissal of involuntary bankruptcy proceedings must state a ground justifying a dismissal,[31] and where a dis-

9. In re C. Moench & Sons Co., 123 F. 977.

10. An attaching creditor may resist an involuntary petition without surrendering his attachment. In re C. Moench & Sons Co., 123 F. 977.

11, 12, 13, 14. Bradley Timber Co. v. White [C. C. A.] 121 F. 779. An involuntary petition alleging the giving of a preference while insolvent, a denial of the commission of such act of bankruptcy is a denial of insolvency. Troy Wagon Works v. Vastbinder, 130 F. 232.

15. This can only be done by a rule upon the attorney to show by what authority he appears for the party, supported by affidavit showing the facts relied on to question the authority. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

16. Act 1898, § 59d. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

17, 18, 19, 20, 21. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

22. As a partner or otherwise. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

23. Thus saving the necessity and cost of a reference to ascertain the facts. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

24. Gage & Co. v. Bell, 124 F. 371.

25. Brinkley v. Smithwick, 126 F. 686. The case being argued upon the petition and answer, the averments of the latter stand as true. Answer denied commission of act of bankruptcy. In re Doddy Jourdan & Co., 127 F. 771.

26. Bankrupt received a deed purporting to convey an interest in land, which interest he mortgaged. Held he could not omit the property nor the mortgage from his schedule on the ground that the conveyance vested no interest to the land in him. In re Gailey [C. C. A.] 127 F. 538. A beneficiary of a trust-fund conveyed her interest in the property so held in trust for her benefit to the bankrupt, held, conveyed an equitable interest in the land subject to the trust which the bankrupt was required to schedule. Id.

A statement in a bankrupt's schedule that a life insurance policy was payable to his wife, whereas it was an endowment policy payable to his wife in case of his death, but to himself if he lived less than two years after the filing of the petition, together with the fact that he omitted a debt from his schedule for which he had pledged the policy for security, held to show bad faith for the purpose of misleading creditors. In re Towne, 122 F. 313.

27. Objecting partners to petition filed by one of the firm to have a partnership adjudged a bankrupt are entitled to a jury trial on the question of insolvency. In re Forbes, 128 F. 137.

28. He is not entitled to one with respect to whether the petitioners are in fact creditors. Morss v. Franklin Coal Co., 125 F. 998.

29. Cannot be extended to intervening creditors contesting such issues. In re Herzikoff [C. C. A.] 121 F. 544.

30. Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. [C. C. A.] 120 F. 736.

31. An involuntary petition by three creditors will not be dismissed by two of them upon the application of the third, on the sole ground that the two "desire and consent that the said petition and proceedings be missal is awarded on the ground that the defendant is not subject to bankruptcy proceedings, the court can make no order awarding costs.[32]

The adjudication can be made by the referee only when the judge is absent.[33] Objection to the jurisdiction of the court may be taken after adjudication by an application to set it aside, where the want of jurisdiction did not appear from the pleadings, but it should be done promptly upon the facts appearing from the evidence introduced.[34]

§ 6. Protection and possession of the property pending the appointment of trustee; receivers.[35]—The bankruptcy court has the power when necessary for the preservation of the estate, to have the bankrupt's property seized by a marshal or special master immediately upon the filing of the petition in bankruptcy,[36] to have such officer retain the same until the petition is dismissed or the trustee qualifies,[37] and after reasonable notice to the claimant to determine the right of ownership,[38] but it has no ancillary jurisdiction to appoint receivers for the property of a debtor against whom a petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed in another district.[39] While a bankrupt cannot convey his property after filing his petition in bankruptcy,[40] the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings does not terminate his contract with the government, nor affect the latter's rights thereunder.[41] A receiver in bankruptcy is a mere custodian of the property,[42] he cannot transfer title to any of the bankrupt's property,[43] nor determine any question of ownership or title,[44] without an order of the court. His possession being that of the court, the latter has jurisdiction to determine the ownership of the property.[45] As he takes the title of the bankrupt as of the date of the filing of the petition,[46] valid liens may be enforced against him.[47] One receiving goods from a receiver submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court for all purposes properly connected with proceedings to compel him to restore the property or its value,[48] and if he claims to be the owner the court has jurisdiction to determine the question of ownership and settle the whole matter.[49] The powers of a receiver pendente lite, appointed before adjudication, to protect the estate, are the same as that given ordinary receivers;[50] he is not the "legal representative" of the bankrupt,[51] and dismissed." The court states that such a petition would be insufficient even though no objection were interposed. In re Lewis, 129 F. 147. An alleged involuntary bankrupt, admitting his insolvency in his answer, reserving in his answer the right "to move to dismiss for irregularities and want of notice," is too indefinite to be considered by the court. Brinkley v. Smithwick, 126 F. 686.

32. In re Philadelphia & L. Transp. Co., 127 F. 896.

33. Where the adjudication was by the referee, in an action by the trustee in a state court there must be affirmative proof that the judge was absent. Page v. Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 52.

34. In re Niagara Contracting Co., 127 F. 782.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 315.

36. American Trust Co. v. Wallis [C. C. A.] 126 F. 464; In re Moody, 131 F. 525.

37. Act 1898, § 2, subd. 8. McNulty v. Feingold, 129 F. 1001.

38. This being a proceeding in bankruptcy as distinguished from a controversy at law or equity. In re Moody, 131 F. 525.

39. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co., 124 F. 403; In re Williams, 123 F. 321.

40. Muschel v. Austern, 87 N. Y. S. 235.

41. The government is entitled to recover damages for the nonfulfillment of the contract and it makes no difference that such breach occurred before or after the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Stoever, 127 F. 394.

42, 43. Muschel v. Austern, 87 N. Y. S. 235.

44, 45. In re Leeds Woolen Mills, 129 F. 922.

46. First Nat. Bank v. Pennsylvania Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 968.

47. Bank loaned money to steel company taking as security a quantity of steel billets which were left on the steel company's land marked as the bank's property, bank having bill of sale. Part of loan was paid and four months later the same amount was reloaned. Held, lien valid as against receiver or general creditors. First Nat. Bank v. Pennsylvania Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 968.

48, 49. In re Leeds Woolen Mills, 129 F. 922.

50. To obtain possession of property claimed adversely. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co., 124 F. 403.

51. Cannot take the place of the bankrupt and as such be examined under oath as to only when expressly authorized may make proof of loss, under a fire insurance policy, for the bankrupt.[52]

Suits by and against receivers.—A receiver in bankruptcy has only such authority to sue as the court appointing him chooses to give, and unless authorized, he cannot leave the court of original jurisdiction and sue elsewhere.[53]

§ 7. Creditors' meetings; appointment of trustee; removals.[54]—A creditor's proof of claim must be adequate in all particulars in order to allow him to participate in the creditors' meeting.[55] An attorney must have express authority from a creditor,[56] and if the latter is a partnership the person making the letter of attorney must make oath that he is a member of the firm,[57] in order to vote on the latter's behalf at the creditors' meeting. In order to participate, the power of attorney must be produced,[58] and accident does not constitute an excuse.[59] The creditors' selection of a trustee is not to be interfered with unless it clearly imperils the fair and efficient administration of the estate.[60] The fact that some of the votes cast were for a candidate who could not be approved by the court does not render those votes void so that the opposing candidate must be declared elected.[61] Creditors failing to elect a trustee at the first meeting are entitled to a reasonable adjournment,[62] and upon their failure to elect according to the provisions of the act the referee may make a selection,[63] or the court may appoint the trustee, and lapse of time does not affect this right.[64] If at the first meeting all claims offered for proof are in dispute and it is impracticable at that time to settle the same the referee may, in his discretion, appoint a trustee.[65]

§ 8. Compositions.[66]—The holders of contingent claims are not necessary nor proper parties to the composition.[67] There must be a strict compliance with the law as to the mode of composition and procedure;[68] promises to pay money or merchandise at a future day cannot be substituted for money;[69] the money cannot loss by fire of the bankrupt's property. Sims v. Union Assur. Soc., 129 F. 804.

52. Sims v. Union Assur. Soc., 129 F. 804.

53. In re National Mercantile Agency, 128 F. 639. This rule is not peculiar to receivers in bankruptcy proceedings but applies to all receivers. Id.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 316.

55. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619. See post, § 15B. Proof of Claims.

56. Voted at election of trustee without a proxy or special power for that purpose. In re Lazoris, 120 F. 716.

57. Such statement being sworn to in the proof of debt accompanying the letter, though not in the letter itself is sufficient. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619.

58. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619.

59. Was mislaid and not produced until the meeting was over, held the attorney was properly refused the right to participate. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619.

60. The fact that the one who was chosen as trustee advised the voluntary assignment under the state law and was the assignee thereunder does not render him incompetent as trustee. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619. Nor does the fact that he had a law office with an attorney who represented certain alleged creditors whose claims were to be contested, and that these alleged creditors were former clients of his and put their claims into his associate's hands at his suggestion, and that he was elected trustee with their aid, render him incompetent. Id.

A stockholder in a corporate creditor is not ineligible to act as trustee in bankruptcy. In re Lazoris, 120 F. 716.

Where the trustee chosen was not only a stockholder in the bankrupt corporation, but was closely associated, as attorney and legal advisor, with those who had been previously in control, and whose management was not only subject to criticism but might call for action upon the part of the trustee to hold them personally responsible, he should not be permitted to act over the objections of a minority. In re Gordon Supply & Mfg. Co., 129 F. 622.

61. In re Machin, 128 F. 315.

62. A request that the referee adjourn the meeting for 24 hours held reasonable. In re Nice, 123 F. 987.

63. In re Machin, 128 F. 315.

64. No assets appearing, no trustee was appointed, and referee reported estate closed. Over a year thereafter a creditor applied for the appointment of a trustee claiming that the bankrupt had died leaving assets fraudulently transferred, held, the court had jurisdiction to open the proceedings and appoint a trustee. Clark v. Pidcock [C. C. A.] 129 F. 745.

65. In re Cohen, 131 F. 391.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 316.

67. Mortgagees of unforeclosed mortgages on bankrupt's property. Their absence is no objection to the confirmation of the composition. In re Kahn, 121 F. 412.

68. In re Frear, 120 F. 978.

69. Act 1898, § 12b. In re Frear, 120 F. 978.

be deposited by a referee in a place selected by himself,[70] subject to his own order,[71] nor distributed by him.[72] A court has no power to confirm an irregular composition.[73] A composition cannot be confirmed if the bankrupt has been guilty of any of the acts, or failed to perform any of the duties which would be a bar to his discharge,[74] and this is true without regard to whether or not the creditors would be benefited thereby,[75] or that a majority of the creditors are in favor of accepting the same.[76] A composition will be set aside for fraud,[77] but fraud known to the petitioner before the confirmation cannot be so used,[78] and the creditor is not bound by statements as to the nonexistence of fraud in the order of confirmation.[79] The burden is upon the petitioner to show the fraud,[80] and while it is not absolutely necessary, it is desirable that the petition set forth all the details thereof.[81] The verification of a petition, being in the usual form for a bill in equity, is sufficient;[82] but the allegations of the petition being made on information and belief, the verification must be made by one having personal knowledge of the facts.[83] A creditor is not precluded from maintaining the petition by commencing an action against the bankrupt.[84] Assenting creditors are necessary parties to an appeal from an order confirming a composition.[85] The setting aside of a composition will not ordinarily have the effect of invalidating pro rata payments made in pursuance of such composition.[86] A creditor failing to claim his share of a composition, the amount thereof inures to the benefit of the bankrupt.[87] An order confirming a composition serves as a discharge.[88] An action cannot be maintained upon a new promise made after composition.[89] One holding composition notes as collateral security cannot sue thereon until default by his principal debtor.[90]

§ 9. Property and rights passing to trustee. A. Particular kinds of proper-

70. Place of deposit must be designated by the judge. Act 1898, § 12b. Judge does not include referee. Id. § 1. In re Frear, 120 F. 978.

71. Must be subject to order of judge. Act 1898, § 12b. In re Frear, 120 F. 978.

72. Must be distributed upon confirmation, as the judge directs. Act 1898, § 12e. In re Frear, 120 F. 978.

73. Although the motion for an order confirming the composition is unopposed. In re Frear, 120 F. 978.

74. Failed to keep books of account or records from which his true financial condition might be ascertained. In re Godwin, 122 F. 111.

75. In re Godwin, 122 F. 111.

76. Only one actively objected. In re Godwin, 122 F. 111.

77. A false statement by a bankrupt as to the condition of his estate made in a sworn schedule, if relied upon by a creditor in agreeing to a composition, is fraud in procuring the composition and sufficient to set it aside. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645.

78. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645.

79. Recitals in the order confirming a composition that it appears that the bankrupt has not been guilty of any acts, or failed to perform any of the duties, which would be a bar to his discharge, and that the offer and its acceptance were made in good faith and have not been procured by any means, promises or acts contrary to the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645.

80. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645.

81. A petition held to state a case for relief, though in some respects too general in its allegations of fraudulent acts on the part of the bankrupt. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645. A petitioner alleging that he had no knowledge of the fraud prior to the date of confirmation need not allege the time or manner in which his knowledge was acquired. Id.

82. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645.

83. Verification made by an agent held insufficient. In re Roukous, 128 F. 648.

84. In re Roukous, 128 F. 648.

85. Majority had received amounts to which they were entitled. A representative number is sufficient. Marshall Field & Co. v. Wolf & Bro. Dry Goods Co. [C. C. A.] 120 F. 815.

86. The petition is not demurrable for failure to aver that the petitioner restored, or offered to restore, the consideration immediately on discovery of the fraud, and because it does not tender the same into court. In re Roukous, 128 F. 645.

87. Not to the other creditors. Hence bankrupt may object to the allowance from such surplus of claims offered for proof more than one year after adjudication. In re Lane, 125 F. 772.

88. Taylor v. Skiles [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1258.

89. No consideration. Taylor v. Skiles [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1258.

90. Composition notes executed by a bankrupt under an agreement that all should become due if one note should be in default, a creditor assigning his claim, but retaining the composition notes as collateral security for the payment of his assignee's notes, cannot sue thereon until default in his assignee's notes. Willey v. Browne, 206 Pa. 322, 55 A. 1029.

ty or rights.[91]—A liquor license,[92] membership in a chamber of commerce,[93] policies of insurance which are assignable,[94] including a semi-tontine insurance policy payable to the bankrupt, his assigns or legal representatives,[95] special deposits,[96] the good will of the bankrupt's business,[97] and the right to call for unpaid stock subscriptions,[98] all pass to the trustee. A vested remainder interest passes to the trustee of the remainderman.[99] The interest of the bankrupt as a tenant by the curtesy,[1] and alienable, beneficial interests in trust funds[2] pass to the trustee, and he may enforce an insurer's liability for goods destroyed.[3] The legal title to property obtained by crime having passed to the bankrupt, the property is assets of his estate,[4] and the creditors are not estopped by the representations of one not a bona fide purchaser.[5] The trustee takes only the rights of the bankrupt under a contract of the latter.[6] Property held by the bankrupt under a conditional sale, which is void for want of record, passes to the trustee.[7] The trustee in bankruptcy has the option to abandon or accept a lease held by the bankrupt;[8] if he accepts it, he is bound by its conditions to the same extent as the bankrupt was.[9] Partnership assets do not pass to the trustee of one of the members of the firm.[10] A bankrupt's incorporeal interest in an alleged invention for which a patent has been applied for does not pass to the trustee,[11] nor does a claim for alimony, made by a married

91. Section 70a of the act of 1898 is an enumeration of those properties, the title to which passes to the trustee by operation of law. Section 67f provides for such rights as shall vest in the trustee by order of court. In re Baird, 126 F. 845. See 1 Curr. L. 317.

92. Though transferable only with the approval of the body that granted it, and not subject to seizure on execution. In re Olewine, 125 F. 840.

93. In re Neimann, 124 F. 738.
Evidence as to whether or not certain seats in a stock exchange belonged to a partner or to the partnership, some of them being mentioned in the partnership articles and some not, held insufficient to warrant a finding that they belonged to the partnership. Burleigh v. Foreman [C. C. A.] 130 F. 13. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 10.

94. Fuller v. New York Fire Ins. Co., 184 Mass. 12, 67 N. E. 879. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 11, 12.

95. Does not have a cash surrender value. In re Mertens, 131 F. 972.

96. Lynam v. Belfast Nat. Bank [Me.] 57 A. 799. A bankrupt having a bank account in his own name as manager, but from which he paid after filing the petition a sum for his private purposes, it will be presumed that the amount so expended was his personal money, and he will be required to pay over such sum to his trustee. In re Kurtz, 125 F. 992.

97. Sale of all the assets of a firm's estate, including stock, fixtures, etc., the intent being to sell whatever interest the bankrupts had in the property, confers on the purchasers the right to advertise as the successors of the firm. Freeman v. Freeman, 86 App. Div. 110, 83 N. Y. S. 478.

98. Hence, directors by refusing to issue a call, cannot relieve the stockholders from liability. Rathbone v. Ayer, 84 App. Div. 186, 82 N. Y. S. 235. The right of action of a corporation for unpaid stock subscriptions passes to the corporation's trustee in bankruptcy. Commercial Bank of Augusta v. Warthen, 119 Ga. 990, 47 S. E. 536.

99. Loomer v. Loomer [Conn.] 57 A. 167. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 14.

1. Elmore v. Symonds, 183 Mass. 321, 67 N. E. 314.

2. Beneficial interests in a trust created by will, which are left wholly unrestrained and under the control of the beneficiaries, pass to the trustee in bankruptcy of such beneficiaries. Loomer v. Loomer [Conn.] 57 A. 167. In states where the surplus income of a trust fund is inalienable by the beneficiary, title thereto does not vest in the latter's trustee in bankruptcy. Butler v. Baudouine, 84 App. Div. 215, 13 N. Y. Ann. Cas. 188, 82 N. Y. S. 773.

3. Goods were destroyed after adjudication and before appointment of receiver. Fuller v. New York Fire Ins. Co., 184 Mass. 12, 67 N. E. 879.

4. Obtained under circumstances amounting to larceny. Lord v. Seymour, 85 App. Div. 617, 83 N. Y. S. 88.

5. Money was loaned to a firm who falsely represented that it was money a special partner had contributed to the firm. Lord v. Seymour, 85 App. Div. 617, 83 N. Y. S. 88.

6. Pattern contract provided that old patterns would be exchanged for new ones; held, trustee was not entitled to return patterns on hand to be credited to the bankrupt's account. In re Nichols, 122 F. 299.

7. In re Tweed, 131 F. 355; In re Butterwick, 131 F. 371.

8. Summerville v. Kelliher [Cal.] 77 P. 889.

9. At least so far as the payment of rent is concerned. Summerville v. Kelliher [Cal.] 77 P. 889.

10. Where one trustee was appointed for all individual partners as a result of simultaneous cases instituted by the same creditor against all the partners. In re Mercur [C. C. A.] 122 F. 384. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 16, 17.

11. The words "interests in patents, patent rights," etc., as used in the Act of 1898, § 70a, cl. 2, should be construed as referring to rights acquired under a patent to a third party. And such a right does not pass to woman in a suit for divorce, which was pending at the time of her bankruptcy.[12] The trustee may recover usurious interest paid a national bank by the bankrupt.[13] There is a conflict as to whether or not a trustee can maintain an action for a tort committed against the bankrupt.[14] In Michigan, the right of a father to recover for the wrongful death of his child constitutes an asset belonging to his estate in bankruptcy.[15]

The beneficiary of trust funds may follow the same into the hands of a trustee in bankruptcy and can recover such as can be identified,[16] though it has been held that such beneficiary is only entitled to share with other creditors in the estate.[17] The time and place for claiming a misappropriated trust fund in the hands of a trustee in bankruptcy is at the audit where the fund into which such trust fund entered is being distributed,[18] and the right to recover trust funds may he lost by laches.[19] One voluntarily paying money to a bankrupt upon condition is entitled to have the money refunded by the trustee upon the nonfulfillment of the condition;[20] but where such funds are not demanded before the filing of the petition, interest cannot be recovered.[21]

Property fraudulently conveyed.[22]—Property fraudulently conveyed by the bankrupt passes to the trustee.[23] The latter or the creditors, where no trustee is appointed,[24] may maintain an action to set it aside, though the transfer was made more the trustee as a transferable right under the same clause, although Rev. St. § 4895 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3386] permits the inventor to transfer the same. In re Dann, 129 F. 495.

12. In re LeClaire, 124 F. 654. Is not a property right. Id.

13. Lasater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1054; Id., 96 Tex. 345, 72 S. W. 1057.

14. That he may sue: Can sue on claim of bankrupt for conversion where the bankrupt had assigned the claim and the assignee thereof had reassigned the claim to the bankrupt. Brunnemer v. Cook & Bernheimer Co., 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. S. 964. The trustee of a bankrupt corporation can maintain an action against the directors of a corporation for money wrongfully converted to their own use. Rathbone v. Ayer, 84 App. Div. 184, 82 N. Y. S. 239.

That he cannot: Cannot maintain an action for conspiracy for driving the bankrupt out of business, even though the action was pending at the time. Cleland v. Anderson [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1075; reversing Cleland v. Anderson [Neb.] 96 N. W. 212.

15. In re Burnstine, 131 F. 828.

16. Money received by the trustee in compromise of a judgment obtained by him, declaring a conveyance of trust funds by the bankrupt fraudulent, may be recovered by the beneficiary. Welch v. Polley, 177 N. Y. 117, 69 N. E. 279; reversing Welch v. Polley, 86 App. Div. 260, 83 N. Y. S. 819. Where, under Laws of Washington, 1901, p. 222, c. 109, § 1, a seller of goods in bulk gives a list of his creditors, held, the latter are entitled to priority of payment out of the buyer's bankrupt estate for the amount of the unpaid purchase price, after paying pro rata the expenses of the bankruptcy proceeding, in so far as such estate represented the stock remaining at the time of bankruptcy, or was capable of being segregated from the other assets of the bankrupt. In re Gaskill, 130 F. 235. Where goods are by mistake shipped to the wrong party, who sells the same and upon his becoming bankrupt the proceeds of said sale are placed in the bankrupt estate, the owner of the goods is entitled to the value thereof. In re Woods, 121 F. 599.

17. Father advanced sum of money to daughter and her husband for purchase of a lot, lot to be deeded to daughter; latter died before this was done, and it was agreed between her father and husband to sell the premises and treat the fund so realized as an advancement for the latter's infant daughter. This was done. Held, a valid trust and beneficiary could share with other creditors in her father's bankrupt estate. In re Upson, 123 F. 807.

18. In re Wilkesbarre Furniture Mfg. Co., 130 F. 796.

19. Creditors of a bankrupt firm, a member of which misappropriated firm money while acting as trustee for a bankrupt corporation, taking no steps to stay the distribution of the funds of the corporation pending the bankruptcy proceedings against the firm, nor to follow the firm's funds so misappropriated, are not entitled to claim that such funds awarded to a lien creditor of the corporation constituted a preference which the firm's trustee was entitled to recover. In re Wilkesbarre Furniture Mfg. Co., 130 F. 796.

20. Stockholders of a bankrupt corporation subscribed for additional stock upon the condition that every stockholder should so subscribe or the money would be returned, thus hoping to pay off outstanding claims. In re North Carolina Car Co., 127 F. 178.

21. In re North Carolina Car Co., 127 F. 178.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 317. See, also, Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. L. 116, for what constitutes.

23. The equitable title to property fraudulently conveyed passes to the trustee as part of the estate. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 84 App. Div. 129, 82 N. Y. S. 80. There must be fraud. In re Brumbaugh, 128 F. 971. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 21.

than four months prior to the filing of the petition,[25] except where the fraudulent transferee has transferred it to a bona fide purchaser.[26] The action may be maintained though no claim against the bankrupt has been reduced to judgment,[27] nor is this rule changed by the fact that such deed is recorded prior to the appointment of the trustee.[28] Whether or not fraudulent in fact, a deed of general assignment is constructively fraudulent, and property so conveyed within four months prior to the filing of the petition belongs to the trustee.[29] The trustee need not tender the amount paid to the bankrupt in order to recover the property,[30] but the money paid the bankrupt having been distributed to the creditors, the property cannot be recovered.[31] Whether concerned in the fraud or not, the grantee is liable to the trustee for the property and the profits thereof,[32] and, the conveyance being fraudulent in fact and made within four months prior to the filing of the petition, the grantee is not entitled to have his account against the insolvent,[33] nor the cash paid by him at an inadequate valuation,[34] credited thereon.

(§ 9) B. Nature of trustee's title in general.[35]—The trustee takes the same but no better title than the bankrupt had,[36] to all property not exempt which the bankrupt could by any means have transferred, or which might have been levied upon and sold under judicial process against him,[37] whether mentioned in the bankrupt's schedules or not.[38] He takes the legal title,[39] and while he takes subject to all valid liens existing at the date of adjudication,[40] there is a conflict as to

24. In re Toothaker, 128 F. 187. A trustee being appointed, he cannot. Act 1898, §§ 23a, 23b, do not authorize such a suit. Viquesney v. Allen [C. C. A.] 131 F. 21.

25. Friedman v. Verchofsky, 105 Ill. App. 414; Carton v. Booze [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1029; Cox v. Wall, 132 N. C. 730, 44 S. E. 635; Joseph v. Raff, 82 App. Div. 47, 81 N. Y. S. 546. May take advantage of it the same as a judgment creditor. In re Carpenter, 125 F. 831. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 23.

26. Friedman v. Verchofsky, 105 Ill. App. 414.

A debtor fraudulently conveying property to a firm creditor, a corporation composed of the firm only and who took the goods of the firm without consideration and with full notice, is liable therefor. Nor in such a suit are the members of the firm necessary parties. Holloway v. Brame [Miss.] 36 So. 1. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 24.

27. Bill considered and held not demurrable. Beasley v. Coggins [Fla.] 37 So. 213.

28. Beasley v. Coggins [Fla.] 37 So. 213.

29. In re Knight, 125 F. 35.

30. Johnson v. Forsyth Mercantile Co., 127 F. 845.

31. A creditor electing to sue for the proceeds of property fraudulently conveyed by the bankrupt, and the proceeds of such sale being recovered and disbursed by the trustee, the creditor receiving a dividend, he is estopped from subsequently suing to recover the property. McWilliams v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 596; Sharood v. Jordan, 90 Minn. 249, 95 N. W. 1108.

32. A voluntary grantee under a fraudulent conveyance though he has no knowledge of the fraud, is liable to the trustee in bankruptcy of the grantor, not only for the property but also for the amount that he should have received for rents and profits. Gray v. Chase, 184 Mass. 444, 68 N. E. 676. The transferee being concerned in the fraud, is regarded as a trustee ex maleficio for the creditors defrauded. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 84 App. Div. 129, 82 N. Y. S. 80.

33, 34. Holloway v. Brame [Miss.] 36 So. 1.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 317.

36. In re Beede, 126 F. 853; Bradley, Clark & Co. v. Benson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 670. Where bankrupt could not have canceled an assignment of an insurance policy on his life, made in good faith, his trustee in bankruptcy cannot have it canceled. King v. Crain [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1049. The creditors having notice that the bankrupt holds as an agent, the trustee does not take title to the property. Bills v. Schliep [C. C. A.] 127 F. 103.

Bankrupt treated money paid him by his mother as advances, trustee, years after, claims that by will they were not to be so treated, held, could not recover. Hunt v. Osborn, 86 App. Div. 464, 83 N. Y. S. 879. Evidence held insufficient to sustain a claim of ownership, by sheriff's sale, in property taken by trustee, the claimant having exercised few if any acts of dominion, and having for many years allowed the bankrupt to have possession and take all the rents and profits. In re Howard, 123 F. 991. See 1 Curr. L. 317, n. 26.

37. In re Galt, 120 F. 443. An agreement to bid in property of a bankrupt and sell the same, turning the profits over a specified amount, if any, over to the bankrupt, the bankrupt agreeing not to bid at the sale, is without consideration, except as to the agreement not to bid which is void, in that the bankrupt had parted with all title to the property and had no further interest therein. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012.

38. Fleming v. Courtenay [Me.] 57 A. 592.

39. If equities are equal he therefore prevails. Elmore v. Symonds, 183 Mass. 321, 67 N. E. 314. To property scheduled by the bankrupt as his own. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

40. In re Beede, 126 F. 853. As to what liens are valid, see next subdivision. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 28.

whether or not he takes as a bona fide purchaser for value,[41] most courts holding that he occupies a position similar to that of a judgment creditor,[42] his rights being determined by the local law.[43] A purchaser from the trustee takes the title of the bankrupt.[44] The title vests in the trustee as of the date of the adjudication,[45] no matter where the property is situated,[46] but it has been held that there was no "transfer" contrary to the terms of an insurance policy, where loss occurred after adjudication, but while custody was still in a receiver.[47] He does not take property acquired after adjudication,[48] though he may recover back payments made by the bankrupt after adjudication with funds belonging to the estate at the date of adjudication.[49] The trustee may demand claims owing the bankrupt,[50] and recover any of the latter's property which a creditor might,[51] the creditor's right being thus transferred to the trustee, the former is prevented from exercising it.[52] He represents only creditors who were such at the time of filing the petition.[53] Property in his hands is liable to state taxation.[54]

(§ 9) C. The trustee takes title free from liens[55] acquired by legal proceedings,[56] in a state or Federal court,[57] within four months prior to the filing of the petition,[58] in voluntary or involuntary proceedings,[59] by levy,[60] attachment,[61] judg-

41. That he does not: Omission to file conditional sale under which goods were sold to the bankrupt is immaterial under New York Laws 1897, c. 418, § 112, providing such unrecorded sales shall be void as to subsequent purchasers, etc., in good faith. Hewit v. Berlin Mach. Works, 194 U. S. 296, 24 S. Ct. 690.

That he does: Unrecorded deed of trust ineffectual as against him. In re Thorp, 130 F. 371.

42. May set aside fraudulent conveyances. Beasley v. Coggins [Fla.] 37 So. 213; In re Butterwick, 131 F. 371.

43. In re Butterwick, 131 F. 371.

44. A purchase of the bankrupt's interest in a contract for the conveyance of land. Harriman v. Tyndale, 184 Mass. 534, 69 N. E. 353.

45. The clause in § 70a, Act of 1898, reading "property which, prior to the petition, he could by any means have transferred" refers to the class of property that passes. Gray v. Chase, 184 Mass. 444, 68 N. E. 676; In re Beede, 126 F. 853.

46. In re Wilka, 131 F. 1004.

47. Fuller v. New York Fire Ins. Co., 184 Mass. 12, 67 N. E. 879.

48. In re Parish, 122 F. 553.

49. May maintain an action for money had and received for this purpose. Elmore v. Symonds, 183 Mass. 321, 67 N. E. 314.

50. Where right to paid up policy must have been demanded within a reasonable time, fact that assured was adjudged a bankrupt within that time is no excuse as trustee could have demanded it. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Warren Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 839, 76 S. W. 391.

51. Brunnemer v. Cook & Bernheimer Co., 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. S. 954. May assert the right of creditors to property as against the bankrupt's mortgagee. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249; Hibbard v. Henderson [Or.] 75 P. 889.

52. A judgment creditor of the bankrupt, after the latter's discharge, cannot levy on and sell the bankrupt's property because of fraud in securing the discharge, a trustee should be appointed to maintain a suit to recover such property. Hibbard v. Henderson [Or.] 75 P. 889.

53. Cannot represent creditors who made a prior composition which they have not sought to avoid. Batchelder & Lincoln Co. v. Whitmore [C. C. A.] 122 F. 355. Under the laws of New York, an unfiled mortgage is void as to creditors who have reduced their claims to judgment and had execution issued thereon; but one who was a creditor during the time the mortgage remained unfiled may assert its invalidity on obtaining judgment and execution although the mortgage has been filed in the meantime, such judgment and execution being only essential to the enforcement of the right. Held, that where a mortgage was given prior to the four months' period, but was not recorded until within that period, the trustee of the vendor cannot claim such invalidity for one who was a creditor at the time of the giving of the mortgage, but who reduced his claim to judgment and issued execution thereon within the four months' period. In re Beede, 126 F. 853.

54. Swarts v. Hammer, 194 U. S. 441, 24 S. Ct. 695; In re Prince, 131 F. 546.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 318.

56. Taking possession of mortgaged property through a public officer is the obtaining of a lien through legal proceedings. In re Haynes, 123 F. 1001.

57. Applies to attachments sued out in state as well as Federal courts. Wood v. Carr, 24 Ky. L. R. 2144, 73 S. W. 762; Thompson v. Ragan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1684, 78 S. W. 485.

58. Crane Co. v. Pneumatic Signal Co., 42 Misc. 338, 86 N. Y. S. 711. Liens created by assignment executed for benefit of creditors within four months prior to the filing of the petition are void. In re Slomka [C. C. A.] 122 F. 630. Liens obtained more than four months prior to the filing of the petition are valid. Where a receiver for a judgment debtor was appointed more than four months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy against a judgment debtor and thus under the New York Code obtained as of the date of his appointment a lien as against the latter judgment debtor, the latter's discharge ment,[62] by execution issued on judgment,[63] also the levy and sale thereunder.[64] Some courts hold that the judgment is not annulled, the lien only being destroyed,[65] others that the judgment becomes null and void, its invalidity relating back to the time of its entry.[66] Also a lien obtained by garnishment,[67] or by writ of replevin,[68] also statutory liens, enforceable only by legal proceedings,[69] are rendered null and void as against the trustee, such as mechanic's liens.[70] There being a valid attachment of land standing in the bankrupt's name, but claimed by his wife, the trustee will be subrogated to the attaching creditor, both consenting.[71] It is the time of the creation of the lien that is the controlling date,[72] not the date of its enforce-in bankruptcy did not impair this lien. Pickert v. Eaton, 81 App. Div. 423, 81 N. Y. S. 50. Where property of a bankrupt is subject to two liens one attached thereto prior and the other subsequent to four months before the filing of the petition, the first lien being valid the property is properly held thereunder, and does not pass to the trustee. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11.

59. McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433; Mohr & Sons v. Mattox [Ga.] 48 S. E. 410. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 31.

60. Covers a seizure on a writ of replevin in a suit to recover property sold and delivered on credit under a contract which the plaintiff claims the right to rescind on the ground of fraud. In re Weinger, Bergman & Co., 126 F. 875. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 33.

61. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. The bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to order a sheriff holding property of a bankrupt under attachment levied within four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy to deliver the same, or where the property has been sold, to turn the proceeds over to the trustee in bankruptcy. Alexander v. Wilson [Cal.] 77 P. 706. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 38.

62. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910; Mohr & Sons v. Mattox [Ga.] 48 S. E. 410. The obtaining of the judgment being the act of bankruptcy complained of, the adjudication is not conclusive against the creditor's right to property acquired by said judgment. Pepperdine v. Bank of Seymour, 100 Mo. App. 387, 73 S. W. 890. A court may restrain a creditor from obtaining a judgment against a bankrupt until after the adjudication. In re Eastern Commission & Importing Co., 129 F. 847. Where property is sold under execution and the judgment satisfied prior to the filing of the petition, there is no judgment lien to be released and the trustee is not entitled to recover from the creditor the proceeds of the property so sold. Greene v. Montana Brewing Co., 28 Mont. 380, 72 P. 751. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 32.

63. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910.

64. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910; Cox v. State Bank of Chicago, 125 F. 664. Proceeds realized from a sale under execution are released from the claim of the execution creditor by the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against the debtor within four months after the judgment is rendered. Clarke v. Larremore, 188 U. S. 486, 23 S. Ct. 363, 47 L. Ed. 555.

65. In South Dakota, where a judgment is not a lien upon land unless filed in the county where the land is situated, the filing of the petition simply destroys the lien if one exists, and hence the assignee of such judgment creditor having had execution issued on said judgment and goods levied and sold thereunder, the proceeds being applied to satisfying the judgment, the judgment creditor is not liable on account thereof to the trustee in bankruptcy thereafter appointed. Davis v. Jewett Bros. [S. D.] 97 N. W. 16.

66. Judgment creditor is not entitled to a rule absolute against a sheriff for a failure to make the money issued on such a judgment. Mohr & Sons v. Mattox [Ga.] 48 S. E. 410.

67. Though the judgment upon which the garnishment proceedings were instituted was rendered several years before. Armour Packing Co. v. Wynn, 119 Ga. 683, 46 S. E. 865. See Curr. L. 318, n. 37.

68. In re Haynes, 123 F. 1001; In re Hymes Buggy & Implement Co., 130 F. 977.

69. A statutory lien enforceable without legal proceedings is not dissolved by adjudication. Livery stable keeper's lien. In re Mero, 128 F. 630. Lien given keeper of livery stable by 17 Delaware Laws, c. 620, p. 920. In re Pratesi, 126 F. 588.

70. Where the notice is not given until within the four month period the lien is void. In re Roeber [C. C. A.] 121 F. 449; reversing In re Roeber, 121 F. 444; Garretson v. Clark, [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 414. Where petition and adjudication were made on the same day, what the effect of a notice given between the two would be, quaere. Garretson v. Clark [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 414. A complaint to enforce a mechanic's lien which latter was not filed until after the adjudication, will be dismissed. Crane Co. v. Pneumatic Signal Co., 42 Misc. 338, 86 N. Y. S. 711. The right a claimant acquires by serving a stop notice under the mechanic's lien law of New Jersey (P. L. 1898, p. 538, § 3) is not invalidated by the bankruptcy law, though such service be made within four months of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. Fehling v. Goings [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 642. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 42.

71. In re Merrow, 131 F. 993.

72. An attachment lien being created by the levy, the lien is valid as against the trustee where the levy is made more than four months prior to the filing of the petition, though judgment is entered within that period. Pepperdine v. Bank of Seymour, 100 Mo. App. 387, 73 S. W. 890; Grandin v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 70. An equitable lien upon partnership assets being created by a transfer of an interest in the partnership estate 18 months prior to the filing of the petition, it is superior to the title of the trustee, though the judgment of the state court establishing the validity of the lien ment.[73] The filing of the petition is notice to all the world of the pendency of the proceeding, and in effect an attachment of the bankrupt's property, and an injunction against all persons prohibiting them from intermeddling with it.[74] This section does not apply to cases where the property or its proceeds are no longer held under the writs.[75] This provision of the national bankruptcy act does not impair the obligation of a contract,[76] nor divest the attaching creditor of a vested right,[77] and applies only as to liens sought to be asserted against the trustee or those claiming under him.[78] The trustee takes title free from secret liens,[79] such as unrecorded conditional sales,[80] or unrecorded contracts to sell,[81] and from liens contrary to public policy.[82] The bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to determine the validity of the lien asserted,[83] but may in its discretion allow it to be determined in the state court,[84] but in so doing it may reserve the right to have the property sold in the bankruptcy proceedings, the proceeds to remain in the trustee's hands to await the decision of the state court.[85] The petition must show upon its face that the petitioner is entitled to a lien,[86] and the petitioner not being able to maintain the suit on account of the bankruptcy proceedings, he may abandon it and sue in tort if he has such a cause of action.[87]

(§ 9) D. Whether chattel mortgages[88] executed by the bankrupt are valid

was rendered within the four months period. In re English, 122 F. 113. Where under the statutes of Massachusetts (Rev. Laws, c. 159, § 3, cl. 7 [Pub. St. 1892, c. 151, § 2, cl. 11]) a suit brought more than four months prior to adjudication to reach certain assets of the debtor, though judgment is not rendered until within two months of the adjudication, creates a valid equitable lien on the property in question. Snyder v. Smith [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1089.

73. Owen v. Brown [C. C. A.] 120 F. 812. Attachment. In re Snell, 125 F. 154; Hurlbutt v. Brown [N. H.] 55 A. 1046. Chattel mortgage. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11.

74. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507.

75. Does not apply when a writ of attachment has been fully executed and the proceeds paid over to the creditor, the latter not having reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent and that a preference was thereby intended. Johnson v. Anderson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 339.

76. Attachment lien sued out of state court [Act 1898, § 67, subd. f]. Wood v. Carr, 24 Ky. L. R. 2144, 73 S. W. 762.

77. Wood v. Carr, 24 Ky. L. R. 2144, 73 S. W. 762.

78. McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433. Bankrupt filed a voluntary petition and forcibly took property from sheriff who held it under an attachment issued five days before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, trustee did not take possession of property, held attachment was valid as against bankrupt after discharge. Rochester Lumber Co. v. Locke [N. H.] 54 A. 705.

79. Conveyance of partnership property by dormant partner void as against trustee of visible partner. White v. Farnham [Me.] 58 Atl. 425. A secret lien for improvements placed upon the premises is void as against the trustee. Elmore v. Symonds, 183 Mass. 321, 67 N. E. 314.

80. Under the Virginia Code c. 109. Chesapeake Shoe Co. v. Seldner [C. C. A.] 122 F. 593. Where bankrupt redelivered possession to seller a few days before the filing of the petition, held, title passed to trustee. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Wells, 99 Mo. App. 641, 74 S. W. 878. An agreement by which title to goods sold to be resold in the due course of business, title to the proceeds of such resales to remain in the seller until the original vendor is paid, is invalid as a mortgage as against the vendee's trustee in bankruptcy. In re Carpenter, 125 F. 831; In re Gall, 120 F. 443. Also under Code Va. 1887, § 2877. Chesapeake Shoe Co. v. Seldner [C. C. A.] 122 F. 593. Evidence considered and held that the sale of a machine to the bankrupt was unconditional and that objections to it offered by the bankrupt were made in bad faith and hence did not affect delivery. In re Simpson Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 307. The seller upon a conditional sale must show the utmost good faith in the transaction, and the burden is upon him to establish the fact that he remains the owner by a preponderance of the testimony. and that he did not become a seller and creditor. In re Leeds Woolen Mills, 129 F. 922.

81. Under the statutes of Virginia, unrecorded contracts of sale and conveyances are void as to lien creditors. In re Baird, 126 F. 845.

82. The bankruptcy court will not enforce a claim on a liquor license contrary to the policy of the board issuing it. In re McArdle, 126 F. 442.

83. Creditor claimed an equitable lien on money bankrupt claimed exempt. In re Lucius, 124 F. 455.

84. Validity of the lien of a chattel mortgage. In re Johnson, 127 F. 618.

85. In re Johnson, 127 F. 618.

86. One furnishing material to a sawmill is entitled to a lien under the laws of Georgia. A sash and door factory is not a sawmill, petition alleged that the sawmill was engaged in manufacturing sashes, etc., held demurrable. In re Gosch, 121 F. 604.

87. Vendor may sue on the ground that the goods were obtained by fraud. Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Alexander [S. C.] 47 S. E. 711.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 318.

liens must be determined by the law of the state where they were executed.[89] Chattel mortgages being valid as against all lien creditors and bona fide purchasers or mortgagees, they are valid as against the trustee,[90] but being void as against the trustee unless followed by possession, the mortgagee must take possession without knowledge of the mortgagor's insolvency.[91] A chattel mortgage given more than four months prior to the filing of the petition is valid as against the trustee, though not recorded until within such four-month period.[92]

(§ 9) E. Preferential transfers.[93]—In order to render a transfer of property voidable by the trustee as a preference, it must have been made by the bankrupt[94] while insolvent,[95] within four months prior to the filing of the petition[96] to a creditor,[97] or some one in his behalf,[98] the party so receiving it,[99] or the one to be benefited thereby,[1] having reasonable cause to believe that a preference was thereby intended.[2] He need not have actual knowledge of the debtor's insolvency,[3] though

89. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 46.

90. Hall v. Keating Implement & Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1054. Void as to a judgment creditor is void as to trustee. Gove v. Morton Trust Co., 89 N. Y. S. 247. Where the mortgage is void as against attaching creditors and valid as between the parties, the trustee will not be subrogated to the rights of an attaching mortgage in order to enable him to defeat the mortgage. In re Sentenne & Green Co., 120 F. 436.

91. In re Ball, 123 F. 164. See 1 Curr. L. 318, n. 47.

92. First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Neb.] 94 N. W. 837; Davis v. Turner [C. C. A.] 120 F. 605. See 1 Curr. L. 319, n. 50, 52-54.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 319.

94. Payment by a volunteer is not a preference. Wife paid out of her separate property what the bankrupt owed as treasurer of a lodge; held not a preference. Goode v. Elwood Lodge, No. 166, K. P., 160 Ind. 251, 66 N. E. 742. The fact that directors of a corporation borrow money which is used by the corporation, and later when the corporation is insolvent pay the debt with their individual notes, secured by a mortgage on their individual property, does not constitute a preference on the part of the corporation. Keegan v. Hamilton Nat. Bank [Ind.] 71 N. E. 647.

95. The debtor must have been insolvent at the date of the transfer. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998; In re Mandel, 127 F. 863; Kimball v. Dresser [Me.] 57 A. 787; Empire State Trust Co. v. William F. Fisher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 502. See 1 Curr. L. 319, n. 59.

96. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863; Gamble v. Elkin, 205 Pa. 226, 54 A. 782; Joseph v. Raff, 82 App. Div. 47, 81 N. Y. S. 546; Allen v. Hollander, 128 F. 159. Real estate of the subsequent bankrupt was sold on foreclosure and bid in for mortgagor; bidder conveyed to defendant in this case to secure a debt of the mortgagor's, recorded more than four months before the filing of the petition; held, not a preference and valid as against the trustee. Pratt v. Christie, 88 N. Y. S. 585. It being undisputed that the transfer was within the prohibited period, a finding of fact that the property was sold within four months of the filing of the petition is unnecessary. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998. See 1 Curr. L. 319, n. 57.

97. A surety is a creditor. Goldberg v. Harlan [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 707. An indorser on the obligation of a bankrupt is a creditor. In re Lyon [C. C. A.] 121 F. 723.

98. In re Levin, 127 F. 886. Agent. Gamble v. Elkin, 205 Pa. 226, 54 A. 782. Bankrupt owed firm; latter arranged with a purchaser of the stock of the bankrupt, whereby such purchaser assumed the indebtedness of the firm, paying part in cash and part by giving individual obligations therefor; held a preference. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 675. A creditor will not be permitted to obtain a preference indirectly by a transfer of his account, procuring a third party to loan money to the debtor for payment of such creditor. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822.

99, 1. Gamble v. Elkin, 205 Pa. 226, 54 A. 782.

2. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863; Gamble v. Elkin, 205 Pa. 226, 54 A. 782; Crawford v. Rumpf, 205 Pa. 154, 54 A. 709. Must be an express finding in this regard. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11; Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243; Whitson v. Farber Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 327; Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 36 So. 65; Cullinane v. State Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 887. To recover property transferred by bankrupt to wife. Hackney v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 94 N. W. 805. Payment of money. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822.

What constitutes reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended: This is a question of fact (Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822), and the facts and circumstances with reference to the debtor's financial condition, which are brought home to the creditor, being such as would put an ordinarily prudent man upon inquiry, are sufficient to constitute reasonable cause to believe a debtor insolvent (Bardes v. First Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa, 443, 98 N. W. 284). He is chargeable with notice of such facts as a reasonable inquiry, in view of the facts with respect to the debtor's condition, which were brought home to him, might reasonably be expected to disclose. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822.

Illustrations: One may rely upon the decisions of the highest court of the state wherein he resides (Jacobs v. Van Sickel, 123 F. 340), and also upon the fact that the individual estate of each partner is primarily liable for the payment in full of his individ-having reasonable ground to believe a debtor insolvent, he is chargeable with notice of intent to prefer,[4] and a preference must have actually resulted,[5] the effect of the preference must be to prefer one creditor over others of the same class,[6] and to do this, actual value must have passed.[7] Whether an intent to prefer on the part of the bankrupt is essential is the subject of conflicting decisions.[8] The trustee ual debts (Id.). A creditor having reasonable ground to believe a debtor insolvent and the obvious effect of the receipt of money or property is to give him a preference, he is chargeable with notice of intent to prefer. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 675. Mere knowledge that the debtor had other liabilities, or of circumstances which might create a suspicion of possible insolvency, will not necessarily suffice. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822. Knowledge that a debtor's liabilities were slightly less than $30,000 and his assets more than $40,000, but that he was in need of money, does not show that the creditor knew or had reasonable cause to believe a debtor insolvent. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121. Chattel mortgagee, under a mortgage executed more than seven years prior to the enactment of the bankruptcy law, took possession of property within four months from the time of filing the petition; held, in the absence of an express finding of reasonable cause to believe a preference given, there was no preference. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. Creditor procured securities of insolvent debtor at considerable expense; held, had reasonable cause to believe a preference intended. Crawford v. Rumpf, 205 Pa. 154, 54 A. 709. A trust company through its agent and attorney loaned a merchant a sum of money, taking a chattel mortgage upon his goods; the money was paid by said agent and attorney directly to the merchant's creditors, some of whom were clients of the agent; the next day the company tried to sell defendant out; held, mortgage was void. In re Pease, 129 F. 446. Debtor had notes for about $6,000 in bank, all overdue; cashier found out that debtor had forged indorsements on notes, went to debtor who paid the forged notes; cashier did not know that it took all debtor's property to do so; held, bank did not have "reasonable cause to believe" debtor insolvent. Gnichtel v. First Nat. Bank [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 508. Where a bank did not advance, in the particular transaction alleged to be a preference, the usual percentage upon the accounts given by the bankrupt as security, evidence considered and held that the bank had reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863. That the bankrupt passively allowed a creditor to institute an attachment suit against him, obtain judgment by default, and sell the property, does not constitute reasonable cause to believe a preference was intended. Johnson v. Anderson [Neb.] 97 N. W. 339. Where a banker went 30 miles with a debtor on a Sunday night for the purpose of enabling him to make a sale of his property at a great discount in order that the proceeds might be appropriated to the payment of the bank's indebtedness, held sufficient to cause the banker to have "reasonable" cause to believe that a preference was thereby intended. Bardes v. First Nat. Bank, 122 Iowa, 443, 98 N. W. 284. The cashier of a bank knew that a debtor owed other debts and that the money paid the bank upon its debt was her only assets. Held, the bank had reasonable ground to believe a preference intended. Harris v. Second Nat. Bank, 110 Tenn. 239, 75 S. W. 1053. The fact that a creditor receives payment upon a debt past due and which he has been urging the debtor to pay is not sufficient to charge him with reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent, and that a preference was intended. In re Goodhile, 130 F. 471. See 1 Curr. L. 319, n. 60, 61.

3. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822; Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank v. Wilson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 609. Debtor had no knowledge of insolvency; held preference could not be recovered back. Townes v. Alexander [S. C.] 48 S. E. 214. He must have reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent, but this proposition is involved in the one that he must have reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243. An affidavit of defense denying knowledge of insolvency and reasonable cause to believe transaction a preference is sufficient. Gamble v. Elkin, 205 Pa. 226, 54 A. 782. Knowledge of a clerk of a bankrupt firm of its insolvency is not binding upon a preferred creditor who subsequently hires said clerk to take charge of goods transferred to said creditor as a preference. Whitson v. Farber Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 327.

4. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822.

5. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863; Kimball v. Dresser [Me.] 57 A. 787; Brittain Dry Goods Co. v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 75 P. 1027.

6. This is done where, after such payment, there is not sufficient property remaining in the hands of the insolvent to pay an equal percentage to other creditors of the same class. Baden v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 74 P. 639. Where the bankrupt transferred insurance policies to a bank, for a part cash consideration, and partly in payment of a debt, held not a preference where through the failure of one of the insurance companies, the bank only collected the amount actually paid by it to the bankrupt at the time of the transfer. Engel v. Union Square Bank, 87 N. Y. S. 1070. Company hired laborers, insolvent operated stores and supplied the men; company deducted cost of supplies given each man and sent check for total to insolvent within four months of filing the petition in bankruptcy, and while the defendant owed them $20,000, the company withheld $2,210.73, owing to the insolvent. Held, a preference. Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 129 F. 728.

7. Mere fictitious book entries are not sufficient. In re Steam Vehicle Co., 121 F. 939.

8. That he must: Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243; Whitson v. Farber Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 327; cannot avoid a sale to a bona fide purchaser[9] for a present, fair consideration,[10] but the burden is on the purchaser to show that he purchased in good faith for a present fair consideration.[11] The filing of a petition in bankruptcy, being a caveat to all the world and in effect an attachment and injunction,[12] one acquiring title thereafter is not a bona fide purchaser.[13] An exchange of securities of equal value is not a preference,[14] and the value being unequal, the transfer is void only to the extent of the excess given by the bankrupt over that received by him.[15] Security given in good faith for a present loan is valid,[16] but a transfer to secure the payment of an old obligation is void,[17] though there seems to be a conflict upon this

Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 36 So. 65.

That he need not: Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 129 F. 728; Benedict v. Deshel, 177 N. Y. 1, 68 N. E. 999. If the effect of a transaction is inevitably a preference, then it is conclusively presumed that a preference was intended. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 675. See 1 Curr. L. 319, n. 58.

9. A purchaser in good faith is one who did not participate in the fraudulent intent or act of the bankrupt in making the sale, or have knowledge of such intent. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998; Bonnie & Co. v. Perry's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1560, 78 S. W. 208; Friedman v. Verchofsky, 105 Ill. App. 414; Unmack v. Douglass, 75 Conn. 633, 55 A. 12; Coolidge v. Ayers [Vt.] 57 A. 970. An absolute transfer of an account against the insolvent debtor in good faith, without any agreement or understanding that the purchaser of the account is to be protected by the creditor in any way, does not constitute a preference to the extent of the money he received on sale of his claim. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822. Where plaintiff claimed land under a purchase at an execution sale, and defendant claimed under a deed from the execution debtor, the rights of the respective parties becoming fixed by the delivery of their respective deeds, and the recording of defendant's deed, they are unaffected by subsequent bankruptcy proceedings in which the debtor is discharged. Mason v. Perkins [Mo.] 79 S. W. 683. A claim being transferred in good faith by the bankrupt prior to the adjudication, the trustee can only recover the same by returning the amount paid therefor. In re Burnstine, 131 F. 828.

10. Friedman v. Verchofsky, 105 Ill. App. 414; Hall v. Keating Implement & Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1054; Unmack v. Douglass, 75 Conn. 633, 55 A. 12; Coolidge v. Ayers [Vt.] 57 A. 970. A fair consideration is one that is honest and free from suspicion; mere inadequacy is insufficient. Myers v. Fultz [Iowa] 100 N. W. 351.

Illustrations: Where a stock of goods invoiced at one time at $1,775, but were not worth more than fifty cents on the dollar at the time of the transfer, and the property given therefor was worth about $800, held a fair consideration. Myers v. Fultz [Iowa] 100 N. W. 351. Rents paid by bankrupt to another, on account of improvements put on premises, after adjudication can be recovered by the trustee. Elmore v. Symonds, 183 Mass. 321, 67 N. E. 314. A mortgage for $1,500 given by the bank within four months of filing the petition, the consideration being $1,310 in cash, the remainder being for additional interest and bonus, is for a "present, fair consideration" and the transaction being in good faith, the mortgage is valid. In re Sawyer, 130 F. 384. Where a creditor upon her claim becoming due advanced more money and took a mortgage upon the debtor's property for the whole sum in good faith and without notice of the debtor's insolvency, which mortgage was recorded the next day, held a valid lien for a present consideration, though given within four months of filing the petition. Phillips v. Kahn, 89 N. Y. S. 250. Where property of a bankrupt of the value of $500 which had been attached before the petition was filed was sold subsequent to the filing of the petition to a son of the attachment plaintiff for $50, held, the son was not a bona fide purchaser for value without notice. In re Goldberg, 121 F. 578. A court finding that the property was purchased in good faith without intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, and for a certain cash sum, and that, as a conclusion of law, the purchase was bona fide and for a present fair consideration, a further finding of fact as to whether the consideration was a "present fair" one is unnecessary. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

11. Answer alleging such facts is not impertinent or scandalous. McNulty v. Wiesen, 130 F. 1012.

12. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910; Chesapeake Shoe Co. v. Seldner [C. C. A.] 122 F. 593; In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249; In re Rodgers [C. C. A.] 125 F. 169; In re Beede, 126 F. 853; Logan v. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. [Neb.] 93 N. W. 1128.

13. In re Goldberg, 121 F. 578.

14. Anniston Iron & Supply Co. v. Anniston Rolling Mill Co., 125 F. 974; In re Manning, 123 F. 181.

15. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863; In re Manning, 123 F. 181.

16. Farmers' Bank v. Carr & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 690. Chattel mortgage. Davis v. Turner [C. C. A.] 120 F. 605. At the inception of a loan a life insurance policy was assigned as security; held, creditor was only required to account for and credit its value. In re Busby, 124 F. 469; Kennedy v. Pierce's Loan Co., 100 Mo. App. 269, 73 S. W. 357. A firm purchased stock and held the same as security for the money advanced in so purchasing; they sold the stock within four months of their principal's bankruptcy; held, such sale did not create a preference requiring them to surrender the same in order to prove their claim. In re Filer, 125 F. 261. See 1 Curr. L. 321, n. 77.

17. Stewart v. Hoffman [Mont.] 77 P. 689; In re Busby, 124 F. 469. Chattel mortgage. Pollock v. Jones [C. C. A.] 124 F. 163.

point in that the courts differ in their construction of the words "present consideration"[18] A sale to a bona fide purchaser is not rendered void because it is upon credit,[19] though made within four months prior to the filing of the petition. Whether or not one is a bona fide purchaser is a question for the jury.[20] The taking of security by a creditor is not evidence that the creditor believes the debtor insolvent.[21] A conveyance operating to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, made within four months prior to filing the petition in bankruptcy, may be avoided by the trustee,[22] and under the laws of some states, a transfer made within such period of four months without consideration, being void as to creditors, may be avoided by the trustee.[23] An assignment of exempt property is not fraudulent as to creditors.[24] Neither depositing money, while insolvent, in a creditor bank upon open account subject to check,[25] nor retaking of property sold under a conditional sale not filed until within four months of the filing of the petition, constitute a preference,[26] nor does the payment of interest upon a lien on realty of the bankrupt.[27] Giving a deed within the four-month period, to complete a valid, bona fide contract therefor, executed before such four-month period, does not constitute a preferential transfer.[28] An assignment for the benefit of creditors,[29] executing a written release,[30] and identifying the chattels to which the lien of a mortgage is to attach,[31] when done within four months prior to the filing of the petition, constitute preferential transfers. With respect to the date of the transfer of property, it is when the instrument conveying the property is recorded,[32] or when possession is taken,[33] or

18. A mortgage given to secure a pre-existing debt is not rendered invalid by the words "for a present consideration" in § 67, subsec. d. Empire State Trust Co. v. Fisher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 502; Farmers' Bank v. Carr & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 690.

19. A transfer of property by a bankrupt a few weeks before the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings, whereby the transferee agrees to pay the balance of the purchase price due the original vendor, is as valid as though the amount thus assumed by the transferee had been paid by him to the bankrupt in cash. Unmack v. Douglass, 75 Conn. 633, 55 A. 12.

20. Coolidge v. Ayers [Vt.] 57 A. 970.

21. Empire State Trust Co. v. Fisher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 502.

22. Sherman v. Luckhardt, 67 Kan. 682, 74 P. 277; In re Rodgers [C. C. A.] 125 F. 169. An allegation that a transfer "was for the purpose of preventing" the "creditors from collecting any indebtedness due them by" the bankrupt is equivalent to an allegation that it was with intent to "hinder or delay his creditors." Gray v. Brunold, 140 Cal. 615, 74 P. 303. Where, in a suit to recover a preferential payment on the ground that it was made with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, there is evidence that the payment was made bona fide in the satisfaction of a just debt secured by an unrecorded mortgage, and that there were no other lien creditors, and that it did not appear that any of the creditors extended credit after the date of the mortgage; held sufficient evidence to support a verdict for defendant. Dickenson v. Stults [Ga.] 48 S. E. 173. A contract by a bankrupt commission firm, some years before its bankruptcy, by which it agreed to do all its business through another firm, obtaining the benefit of the latter's credit, held not invalid as a scheme to hinder, delay or defraud creditors. Rytenberg v. Schefer. 131 F. 313.

23. In California, it is not necessary for a trustee to prove in an action to set aside a transfer by an insolvent debtor without consideration, that it was done with intent to delay or defraud the bankrupt's creditors. Gray v. Brunold, 140 Cal. 615, 74 P. 303.

24. Assigned to daughter, without consideration, right to fund payable on insurance policy on life of assignor, if the latter died before expiration of endowment period. Pulsifer v. Hussey, 97 Me. 434, 54 A. 1076.

25. Though the bank may set off its debt against such deposit. New York County Nat. Bank v. Massey, 192 U. S. 138, 24 S. Ct. 199; In re George M. Hill Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 315; In re Scherzer, 130 F. 631.

26. As no title passes. Bradley v. Benson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 670.

27. The lien for statutory dower and interest having attached to realty years before the bankruptcy, payment by the bankrupt of accrued interest within four months of bankruptcy is not a preference. In re Riddle's Sons, 122 F. 559.

28. Mercer's Trustee v. Mercer, 24 Ky. L. R. 2469, 74 S. W. 285.

29. In re Slomka [C. C. A.] 122 F. 630.

30. Coolidge v. Ayers [Vt.] 57 A. 970.

31. First Nat. Bank v. Johnson [Neb.] 94 N. W. 837.

32. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863. This provision refers to transactions originally intended as preferences, or which at their inception constituted such as a matter of law. Bradley, Clark & Co. v. Benson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 670.

33. A bankrupt from time to time assigned accounts due to a bank, receiving advances thereon under an agreement that any surplus collected on such accounts should be applied to any other indebtedness which might at the time be due the bank; held that such agreement related to the time when it became effective as to any particular accounts by their delivery thereunder, notice is otherwise brought home to the creditors of the bankrupt,[34] that is controlling. The question of delivery being raised by the trustee in bankruptcy, it does not require as positive a change of possession as where the question is raised by a subsequent bona fide purchaser for value, or a subsequently attaching creditor in good faith.[35] Only existing creditors at the time of the transfer can object thereto,[36] and a creditor's right to property acquired from the bankrupt is not concluded by his resistance of the involuntary proceedings instituted against his debtor.[37] Though preferences are void under the bankruptcy act, yet the trustee cannot treat them as such for all purposes; he must first establish their invalidity in proceedings instituted to have them set aside;[38] nor does the former dismissal of involuntary proceedings based on said transfer bind a trustee in this regard.[39] The action by the trustee to recover a preference is against the transferee,[40] and he cannot pursue the property into the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value from such creditor.[41] He must sue sufficiently long before the expiration of one year from the adjudication to give the preferred creditor a reasonable time within which to surrender the preference and exhibit his claim against the estate.[42] The preferred creditor must return to the trustee the property,[43] or its full value,[44] eventhough he has paid part to other creditors,[45] and is not entitled to recover the amount actually turned over by him to the debtor.[46]

(§ 9) F. Preferential payments.[47]—A payment of money is a transfer of property,[48] and hence the rules as to what constitutes a preference are the same.[49] The payment of reasonable fees,[50] or giving security therefor[51] to an attorney for services then and thereafter to be rendered to the bankrupt, is not a preference, but such payments are valid only in so far as subsequently approved by the court;[52] nor is the giving of post-dated checks,[53] or a secret advantage to one creditor in a composition.[54] Payment by an insolvent, within four months prior to the filing and accounts assigned and delivered by the debtor when insolvent, and within four months of the filing of the petition, the application of the surplus realized therefrom over the amount advanced to a prior indebtedness constituted a preference. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863. In the case of a preference by way of an unrecorded chattel mortgage, the transfer dates from the acquisition of possession under the mortgage. Tatman v. Humphrey, 184 Mass. 361, 68 N. E. 844; In re Ball, 123 F. 164.

34. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863.

35. Marking and setting aside is sufficient. Allen v. Hollander, 128 F. 159.

36. Partnership used firm assets to pay individual debts of one of the partners. Merchants' Bank v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 121 F. 306.

37. Pepperdine v. Bank of Seymour, 100 Mo. App. 387, 73 S. W. 890.

38. Where a policy of fire insurance is assigned after a fire in order to prefer a creditor, the bankrupt cannot sue thereon unless reassigned, though it is surrendered to him by the creditor. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Mann, 118 Ga. 381, 45 S. E. 426.

39. A judgment dismissing a petition in involuntary bankruptcy on the ground that an alleged preferential transfer of property is not sustained is not an adjudication which could bind a trustee subsequently appointed on an adjudication made by another court, in a suit brought by him against the alleged preferred creditor to recover the property. In re Sears, Humbert & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 275.

40. Not against the bankrupt. Gray v. Brunold, 140 Cal. 615, 74 P. 303; Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822.

41. Property fraudulently transferred by bankrupt to his wife, held could not be recovered from a bona fide vendee of the wife. Hackney v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 412.

42. Swartz v. Frank [Mo.] 82 S. W. 60.

43, 44. Hackney v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 412.

45. Whitson v. Farber Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 327.

46. Bonnie & Co. v. Perry's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1560, 78 S. W. 208.

47. See 1 Curr. L. 321.

48. Dickenson v. Stults [Ga.] 48 S. E. 173.

49. See ante, "Preferential transfers," for elements.

50. Swartz v. Frank [Mo.] 82 S. W. 60; Pratt v. Bothe [C. C. A.] 130 F. 670.

51. Mortgage. Furth v. Stahl, 205 Pa. 439, 55 A. 29.

52. In re Morris, 125 F. 841.

53. Transfer takes place at the time of actual payment. In re Lyon [C. C. A.] 121 F. 723. But see 1 Curr. L. 321, n. 81.

54. Note was given by debtor to creditor besides allowing latter to share with other creditors. Transaction took place several years before debtor's bankruptcy and before the passage of the bankruptcy act of 1898, but the court holds this makes no difference. Batchelder & Lincoln Co. v. Whitmore [C. C. A.] 122 F. 355. See 1 Curr. L. 321, n. 82.

of the petition in bankruptcy, of notes, is a preference,[55] and the trustee may recover such payments from the payee, though there were solvent indorsers on the note.[56] Such a preference must be considered as having been given at the date of the payment of the note, not at the date of its delivery.[57] Payments upon loans made previous to the first of such payments are also preferences.[58] A payment made by a third party to a creditor of a bankrupt is not a preference to such creditor,[59] and the trustee cannot recover as a preference sums collected within four months prior to the filing of the petition by a creditor from third persons, under a contract which had been in force between the bankrupt and the creditor for a number of years.[60] Payments by a bankrupt, within four months prior to the filing of the petition, upon a running account, and extension of new credits to him in good faith and the usual course of business by the vendor, the net result being a gain to the estate, do not constitute preferences,[61] but the result not so being, only the sum which is the direct loss to the estate constitutes the amount of the preference.[62] A suit in equity by a bankrupt's trustee to recover a preferential payment cannot be objected to on the ground of the existence of an adequate remedy at law.[63]

§ 10. Collection, reduction to possession, and protection of property. A. Discovery.[64]—The examination of third persons concerning the bankrupt's estate lies in the discretion of the court.[65] A court of bankruptcy cannot make an order on the application of the trustee of a bankrupt, whose estate is being administered in another district, requiring persons residing in the district to appear before the referee for examination concerning the acts, conduct, or property of the bankrupt,[66] though the contrary has been held.[67] The court having charge of the administra-

55. Notes were in the hands of indorsee. In re George M. Hill Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 315. See 1 Curr. L. 322, n. 91.

56. Harris v. Second Nat. Bank, 110 Tenn. 239, 75 S. W. 1053. See 1 Curr. L. 322, n. 92.

57. In re Wolf, 122 F. 127.

58. It is immaterial that all the loans were made during insolvency, and within the four-month period. In re Colton Export & Import Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 663.

59. See ante, "Preferential transfers." Keegan v. Hamilton Nat. Bank [Ind.] 71 N. E. 647; Goode v. Elwood Lodge, No. 166, K. P., 160 Ind. 251. 66 N. E. 742. See 1 Curr. L. 319, n. 86.

60. Ryttenberg v. Schefer, 131 F. 313.

61. "The law does not demand the segregation of the purchases into independent items so as to create distinct pre-existing debts." Jaquith v. Alden, 189 U. S. 78, 23 S. Ct. 649, 47 Law. Ed. 717; Yaple v. Dahl-Millikan Grocery Co., 193 U. S. 526, 24 S. Ct. 552; In re Sagor [C. C. A.] 121 F. 658. But where notes are given by a debtor to pay for goods purchased, and while still unpaid the creditor sells other goods to the debtor, who thereafter pays the notes when insolvent and within four months of filing the petition in bankruptcy, such payment constitutes a preference, which must be surrendered before the last account can be proved. In re Jones, 123 F. 128. Prior to the amendment of 1903, all indebtedness of a bankrupt to a particular creditor existing four monthe before the filing of the petition was to be treated as one claim, and any payment made and received even in good faith by both parties during the four-month period and while the debtor was insolvent was a preference; this rule has now been changed. In re Delling, 124 F. 852. See 1 Curr. L. 321, n. 88, 89.

62. Bankrupt borrowed money of bank and also obtained a discount of customers' notes, the bank also discounted notes given by the bankrupt to third parties, the net result of the transactions within four months of filing the petition being to decrease the bankrupt's direct indebtedness on its own notes given to the bank and to third parties, and to increase its contingent indebtedness on indorsements of customers' notes. Held, the latter should not be considered in determining the amount of preferences received by the bank, but that the excess of payments over new credits on both the other items of direct indebtedness, taken together, constituted a preference, which must be surrendered in order to prove a claim against the estate. In re George M. Hill Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 315. Under a pattern contract providing for the exchange of old patterns for new ones, patterns returned for exchange by the bankrupt within four months preceding the bankruptcy cannot be deemed a preference, the creditor being required to surrender as a preference only the excess of cash payments received during that time over the value of the patterns shipped during the same time. In re Nicholas, 122 F. 769.

63. Such suit is analogous to a suit by a judgment creditor to set aside a fraudulent conveyance. Pond v. New York Nat. Exch. Bank, 124 F. 992.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 322.

65. Creditor has not an unqualified right to such an examination. In this case third party was bankrupt's common-law assignee. In re Andrews, 130 F. 383.

66. In re Williams, 123 F. 321.

67. In re Sutter Bros., 131 F. 654.

tion of the bankrupt estate has the power to order the taking of the deposition of any person having knowledge concerning the acts, conduct, or property of the bankrupt, but who resides beyond the district or state, and more than 100 miles from the court,[68] and to compel, by proper process, the persons, so ordered to be examined, to testify fully in regard thereto.[69] When necessary the bankrupt's wife may be examined.[70]

(§ 10) B. Compelling surrender by bankrupt.[71]—The bankruptcy court, in the absence of fraud or concealment, can only order the bankrupt to deliver to the trustee such property as he has in his possession, or under his control,[72] and that he has such property in his possession or under his control must appear by almost incontestable proof.[73] Denial by the bankrupt under oath is not conclusive,[74] it appearing that the bankrupt had property shortly before the adjudication, of which no account nor credible explanation is given, the court may consider the property or its proceeds as being still in the possession or under the control of the bankrupt,[75] and the court can enforce obedience to such order by imprisonment for contempt,[76] but before committing the bankrupt the court should give him an opportunity to prove his inability to comply with the order.[77] The commitment of the bankrupt for refusal to surrender property is not imprisonment for debt,[78] and the bankrupt may be imprisoned for knowingly and fraudulently concealing from his trustee property belonging to his bankrupt estate.[79] The obtaining of an order requiring a bankrupt to pay over or surrender certain property should ordinarily be by a mo-

68, 69. In re Williams, 123 F. 321.

70. There being reasonable ground therefor a bankrupt's wife may be examined to determine whether a business conducted in her name is in fact hers or the bankrupt's, and may be asked such questions as are pertinent to that inquiry. In re Worrell, 125 F. 159.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 322.

72. In re Gerstel, 123 F. 166. In re Kane, 125 F. 984.

73. Proof that defendant had not been seen gambling, at which he claimed to have lost part of the money, and that if a statement made to a commercial agency was true he should have more on hand. the bankrupt denying the truth of this statement is not sufficient to warrant such an order. In re Adler. 129 F. 502; In re Felson, 124 F. 288. Cannot order him to turn over money collected from his debtor after he had received notice or knowledge of the filing of the petition by creditors to have him adjudged a bankrupt, which money has since passed into the possession of others and is not under the control of the bankrupt, there being no fraud whatsoever. American Trust Co. v. Wallis [C. C. A.] 126 F. 464.

74. If the court from the evidence finds that he has the property in his possession or under his control it may require him to surrender it or commit him for contempt in spite of such denial. Schweer v. Brown [C. C. A.] 130 F. 328. On answer of a bankrupt to a rule to show cause. In re Gerstel, 123 F. 166.

75. In re Gerstel, 123 F. 166. See 1 Curr. L. 323, n. 6. It is not a sufficient accounting of money traced into a bankrupt's hands for him to say that he gave it to his wife, who spent it for the benefit of himself and family, it not appearing that such sum was necessary to their maintenance. In re Kane, 125 F. 984. Bankrupt's testimony in explanation of disposition of funds being uncorroborated, although if true it apparently could easily have been corroborated, held sufficient to justify order requiring him to turn over the money. In re Henderson, 130 F. 385. A bankrupt claimed to have paid the assets in question to certain creditors but, though given every opportunity, failed to corroborate his statement as to such payments by producing such creditors, held an order directing him to pay to his trustee the amount so alleged to have been paid to the creditors not produced was proper. In re Leinweber, 128 F. 641. Where the bankrupt, a merchant in a town of 100 inhabitants, at the beginning of the four months' period, had a stock of goods worth $5,000 and $1,000 in money and accounts, within that time he bought goods of the value of over $27,000, these latter goods he sold immediately and failed to account for the proceeds except to say that he had gambled it away, held sufficient to justify court to find that he had the proceeds under his control or in his possession. Schweer v. Brown [C. C. A.] 130 F. 328.

76. In re Gerstel, 123 F. 166. This is the sole purpose of a contempt proceeding against a bankrupt. In re Kane, 125 F. 984; In re Goldfarb Bros., 131 F. 643. See 1 Curr. L. 322, n. 4.

77. In re Hausman [C. C. A.] 121 F. 984 See 1 Curr. L. 322, n. 5.

78. Schweer v. Brown [C. C. A.] 130 F. 328.

79. Evidence that a bankrupt had received from three or four persons, who owed him money at the time his voluntary petition was filed, several small sums on account of their debt, and that he applied the money so received to the payment of two of his own creditors held insufficient to establish a fraudulent concealment of assets. U. S. v. Lowenstein, 126 F. 884.

tion for a rule upon him to show cause,[80] sometimes by a mere affidavit,[81] and never by a formal petition and pleadings, as in a suit in equity, unless the purpose is to bring to the notice of the court some outside party who is not bound or ready to take notice of the proceedings in bankruptcy, or some outside matter that does not appear by the ordinary record.[82]

(§ 10) C. Property in possession of officers appointed by state courts.[83]—A state court acquiring jurisdiction over a bankrupt's property more than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, its right to control and administer the property for the purposes for which it acquired jurisdiction, is superior to the bankruptcy court,[84] but if the suit in the state court was begun and seizure made within such four month period,[85] or after the filing of the petition,[86] the right of the bankruptcy court over the property is superior to, and after adjudication[87] exclusive of the state court, and, after the adjudication, the bankruptcy court will not permit any person, even though he be an officer of a state court acting under its process,[88] to interfere with the property in its custody or in the possession of its officers. Actions in the state court, if not stayed, continue, and the debtor, even though a bankrupt, may be compelled to observe and obey all lawful orders of the state court,[89] and an application to restrain a state court from punishing a bankrupt for contempt may be treated as an application for a stay of the proceedings in the state court.[90] A court of bankruptcy has no power to enjoin the plaintiffs, in suits against the bankrupt in the state courts, from collecting their judgments from the surety upon the bankrupt's bail bond.[91] A court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to compel an assignee for the benefit of creditors of the bankrupt, under an assignment constituting an act of bankruptcy, to turn over to the trustee or account for the property which came into his hands under the assignment,[92] and the trustee is bound to bring an action to recover property so held,[93] which action may be brought in a court of bankruptcy,[94] and a purchaser at a sale by an assignee for the benefit of creditors, having made no payment, acquires no title to the property purchased as against the trustee in bankruptcy of the assignor subsequently appointed on an adjudication based on the assignment.[95] A bankruptcy court will not summarily dispossess the receiver or other officers of a state court,[96] but only by formal proceedings taken by its own receiver or trustee for that purpose,[97] and 80, 81, 82. In re Adler, 129 F. 502.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 323.

84. General assignment for the benefit of creditors. In re Knight, 125 F. 35; Bloch v. Bloch, 42 Misc. 278, 86 N. Y. S. 1047.

85. It is immaterial that the suit in the state court was for the enforcement of a valid lien created before the four month period. In re Knight, 125 F. 35. A state court cannot by the appointment of a receiver because of insolvency obtain priority of jurisdiction to administer the property of a debtor to the exclusion of a court of bankruptcy. Id.

86. In re Weinger, Bergman & Co., 126 F. 875. Action to foreclose a mortgage. In re Kellogg [C. C. A.] 121 F. 333. A creditor recovering property under a writ of replevin in a state court before the adjudication in bankruptcy the state court has jurisdiction to continue the replevin action. McFarlan Carriage Co. v. Wells, 99 Mo. App. 641, 74 S. W. 878.

87. In re Knight, 125 F. 35. State court is without jurisdiction to determine the right to the possession of the property in a suit instituted after the adjudication (In re Reynolds, 127 F. 760); or to determine conflicting claims as to the title and right of possession (Mishawaka Woolen Mfg. Co. v. Powell, 98 Mo. App. 630, 72 S. W. 723). An action of replevin cannot be commenced and maintained against the trustee to recover property in the possession of and claimed by the bankrupt at the time of the adjudication and in the possession of the referee at the time the action is commenced. Crosby v. Spear [Me.] 57 A. 881.

88. Cannot be taken by a sheriff under a writ of replevin issuing out of a state court. Mishawaka Woolen Mfg. Co. v. Powell, 98 Mo. App. 530, 72 S. W. 723; In re Reynolds, 127 F. 760.

89. Proceedings supplementary to execution are proceedings in the action. In re William E. De Lany & Co., 124 F. 280.

90. No fine having been imposed, and it being evident that no actual contempt was intended. In re William E. De Lany & Co. 124 F. 280.

91. Jaquith v. Rowley, 188 U. S. 620, 23 S. Ct. 369, 47 Law. Ed. 620.

92. In re Thompson, 122 F. 174.

93, 94, 95. In re Knight, 125 F. 35.

96. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co., 124 F. 403.

97. Will not interfere with the possession the state court, upon proper application being made pursuant to an order of the bankruptcy court, will order its receiver to turn over the assets of the bankrupt to the bankruptcy receiver or trustee,[98] and the state receiver must apply to the bankruptcy court for the allowance of his commissions and expenses.[99] The bankruptcy court can only compel the state court's receiver to turn over such assets of the bankrupt as the latter's creditors are entitled to share in,[1] a state court having jurisdiction to complete pending mortgage foreclosure proceedings, its receiver is entitled to the possession of the property covered by the mortgage,[2] but as to the surplus arising from the mortgage sale,[3] or a sale upon execution,[4] the trustee in bankruptcy is entitled to possession.

(§ 10) D. Summary proceedings against third persons; jurisdiction.[5]—A court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to summarily require a third person to pay over money or surrender property in his possession, and to which he claims an adverse right as against the bankrupt's estate,[6] except where such court finds it absolutely necessary for the preservation of the estate to take the possession of the property from the adverse claimant by means of its officers.[7] The court, or a referee, has jurisdiction to summarily determine the question of the validity of the claim of a third party to a lien upon, or an interest in, property, or the proceeds of property, lawfully in the custody of a trustee in bankruptcy,[8] but the court has no jurisdiction of a plenary suit in equity for that purpose, brought by the trustee against the creditor, where the latter is a foreign corporation, and does not consent nor appear,[9] but it has jurisdiction if the property is in the hands of the bankrupt at the time of filing the petition.[10] The court may determine whether a real or pretended adverse claim exists,[11] the claim being adverse the issues are only determinable by a plenary suit,[12] but if it finds such claim to be colorable it has power to summarily place its receiver or trustee in bankruptcy in pos-of the state court until after an application to the state court by the receiver or trustee of the bankruptcy court for the surrender of the possession to him and the unwarranted refusal of the state court to recognize the jurisdiction and authority of the bankruptcy court. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co., 124 F. 403.

98, 99. Bloch v. Bloch, 42 Misc. 278, 86 N. Y. S. 1047.

1. Cannot compel him to turn over the share of a solvent tenant in common in the proceeds of the sale of common property. In re English [C. C. A.] 127 F. 940.

2. Merry v. Jones, 119 Ga. 643, 46 S. E. 861. This is true though the mortgagee also pays for relief usually incident to state insolvency proceedings, though this is not true of the converse of this statement. Merry v. Jones, 119 Ga. 643, 46 S. E. 861. See 1 Curr. L. 323, n. 12.

3. Merry v. Jones, 119 Ga. 643, 46 S. E. 861. See 1 Curr. L. 323, n. 13.

4. A constable is liable to a debtor's trustee in bankruptcy for any surplus received, or which he failed to collect, from a sale of the debtor's property upon execution. In re Geiser, 129 F. 237.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 323.

6. In re Flynn & Co., 126 F. 422; In re Knickerbocker, 121 F. 1004; In re Teschmacher & Mrazay, 127 F. 728; In re Rochford [C. C. A.] 124 F. 182. Has jurisdiction where not held under an adverse claim. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910. See 1 Curr. L. 323, n. 15.

7. Such a seizure and the determination of the issue thus raised between the trustee and the adverse claimant is a proceeding in bankruptcy as distinguished from a controversy at law or in equity and hence within § 23 of the act of 1898. In re Rochford [C. C. A.] 124 F. 182.

8. In re Rochford [C. C. A.] 124 F. 182. May try and determine the title to property found in the possession of the bankrupt, which had been purchased and delivered to him. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507. An agreement between a creditor and a trustee in bankruptcy, whereby a creditor turns over a fund claimed by him to the trustee to be held by him for the creditor's benefit, subject to the bankruptcy court's order, gives that court authority to determine by a summary proceeding the right to the fund. Havens & Geddes Co. v. Pierek [C. C. A.] 120 F. 244.

9. Havens & Geddes Co. v. Pierek [C. C. A.] 120 F. 244.

10. In re Leeds Woolen Mills, 129 F. 922.

11. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910. The referee may so do. In re Knickerbocker, 121 F. 1004; In re Teschmacher, 127 F. 728. Claim of seizure or process from a state court. In re Weinger, Bergman & Co., 126 F. 875; In re Kane, 131 F. 386. See 1 Curr. L. 323, n. 16-18.

12. Pleadings verified. In re Kane, 131 F. 386. The petition not alleging that the respondent's claim is colorable only, and respondent promptly objecting to the form of the proceeding, the bankruptcy court has no jurisdiction to determine the matter except by plenary suit. In re Scherber, 131 F. 121.

session of the property.[13] As to whether or not the court may acquire jurisdiction to summarily determine an adverse claim upon its merits by consent, there is a conflict in the decisions.[14] An adverse claim, to defeat these proceedings, must be a holding of the property at the time the petition was filed under a bona fide claim of ownership,[15] a mere lien,[16] or a claim by bailors,[17] are not such adverse claims, but a creditor's title to the proceeds of a sale upon execution,[18] the right of a surety on the bankrupt's bail bond to property left with him by the bankrupt to indemnify him for his liability,[19] and that of a buyer claiming under an executed sale from the bankrupt,[20] are such adverse claims, as is the claim of a party to whom it is alleged the bankrupt has fraudulently conveyed property,[21] and that of one claiming to have received a preference without reasonable cause to believe that a preference was thereby intended.[22] Where property is claimed adversely to a trustee the latter must proceed to obtain possession like any other owner,[23] and by regular proceedings in courts having jurisdiction,[24] the state and Federal courts having concurrent jurisdiction in this regard.[25]

(§ 10) E. Actions to collect or reduce the property to the trustee's possession.[26]—The trustee may bring an action in the state[27] or Federal[28] courts, at any time within two years of the date when the estate was properly closed,[29] without first obtaining an order to do so from the court of his appointment.[30] Denial of the trustee's appointment and qualification raises a material issue which must be determined before he is entitled to judgment.[31] The trustee in bankruptcy

13. Where property was taken after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy on a writ of replevin which described other property than that seized, the court has the power to order its surrender by the person in possession to the receiver or trustee in bankruptcy. In re Weinger, Bergman & Co., 126 F. 875; In re Kane, 131 F. 386.

14. That it may. In re Adams, 130 F. 788. That it cannot. In re Teschmacher & Mrazay, 127 F. 728. Of course if such claimant went on with the summary proceedings to the very end and only objected to the jurisdiction after a decision against him, the objection is not likely to receive much consideration, but a seasonable exercise of his right to object is entitled to protection. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 323, n. 17.

15, 16. In re Breslauer, 121 F. 910. Has jurisdiction to determine, in summary proceedings before the referee, the validity of a mortgage on property of the bankrupt of which the trustee has obtained the possession and legal title. In re Kellogg [C. C. A.] 121 F. 333.

17. Bailors permitting their goods, in the hands of an insolvent bailee becoming bankrupt, to pass into the custody of the receivers or trustees in bankruptcy cannot occupy the attitude of adverse claimants in determining the jurisdiction of the court. In re Leeds Woolen Mills, 129 F. 922.

18. A creditor's title to the proceeds of an execution, issued against the bankrupt within four months of filing the petition, which have been actually paid to the creditor by the sheriff. In re Knickerbocker, 121 F. 1004.

19. It is not necessary that the surety should claim to be the absolute owner of the property in his possession, it is sufficient if his liability has not been determined or satisfied. Jaquith v. Rowley, 188 U. S. 620, 23 S. Ct. 369, 47 Law. Ed. 620.

20. In re Flynn & Co., 126 F. 422.

21. McNulty v. Feingold, 129 F. 1001; In re Hartman, 121 F. 940.

22. In re Adams, 130 F. 788.

23. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co., 124 F. 403.

24. Must make necessary persons parties, serve proper process, and file proper pleadings. Ross-Meeham Foundry Co. v. Southern Car & Foundry Co., 124 F. 403; In re Knickerbocker, 121 F. 1004; In re Teschmacher & Mrazay, 127 F. 728.

25. An adverse claimant may bring suit in the state court, and try title to the property, but after the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court has attached he cannot take the property in specie out of the possession of the court or any of its agents. Crosby v. Spear [Me.] 57 A. 881. Receiver cannot enjoin trover brought in the state court. If the action was replevin, quaere. In re Kanter [C. C. A.] 121 F. 984.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 324.

27. See next subdivision, Jurisdiction of Courts. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.

28. See next subdivision, "Jurisdiction of Courts."

29. Estate had been improperly closed and then re-opened, held action could be brought at any time within two years of final closing. Bilafsky v. Abraham, 183 Mass. 401, 67 N. E. 318.

30. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Mann, 118 Ga. 381, 45 S. E. 426. Need not have written authority. McLanahan v. Blackwell, 119 Ga. 64, 45 S. E. 785.

31. Prevents judgment on the pleadings. Denial that alleged trustee is or ever was "the duly elected, appointed, qualified or acting trustee" of said bankrupt estate held sufficient. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 143 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

may maintain an action against a creditor whose name did not appear in the list of creditors, and who had no notice of the bankruptcy proceeding, to recover money collected in fraud of creditors,[32] and he need make no demand in order to recover property unlawfully transferred by the bankrupt.[33] An action to recover a preference is one at law not in equity,[34] but the trustee's action to recover the value of a preference should be one in equity for an accounting,[35] and he should also use a bill in equity to have a fraudulent conveyance set aside.[36] An action by the trustee to set aside a conveyance by the bankrupt, made with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, is an action for relief on the ground of fraud,[37] and hence is governed by the statute of limitations as to such actions,[38] but an action to recover a preferential payment is not an action for fraud.[39] In a suit to set aside a transfer by the bankrupt as fraudulent, and as a preference, the case should not be referred to a jury until it appears on trial that it is necessary or desirable that the issues be so determined.[40] The defense of usury is available to the trustee in bankruptcy against a mortgage given by the bankrupt, the trustee having title to the property.[41] A judgment for defendant in an action by the trustee to determine the ownership of property is a bar to a subsequent action by the trustee to recover the proceeds thereof on the same grounds,[42] and this is true though the judgment in the first case was not given upon the merits.[43]

Jurisdiction of courts.[44]—The trustee taking actual possession of property, although it be in another state, it is in the custody of the bankruptcy court administering the estate.[45] In a suit by a trustee to recover a fund for the estate, defendant appearing generally and answering to the merits, the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction by consent.[46] As to whether or not a Federal court has jurisdiction, in the absence of consent, of an action by the trustee to set aside an alleged fraudulent transfer of property there is a conflict in the decisions.[47] Since the amendatory act of 1903 the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction of suits for the recovery of preferences.[48] The trustee may bring an action against a foreign corporation to collect a demand due the bankrupt, in the district where the bankrupt's family resides, though the bankrupt has absconded.[49] A state court has jurisdiction of an action by a trustee to collect an assessment levied upon the stockholders of a bankrupt corporation.[50]

Parties.[51]—In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside an alleged fraudulent chattel mortgage, subsequent mortgagees of the same property are not

32. Roberts v. Fernald [N. H.] 55 A. 942.
33. Goldberg v. Harlan [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 707.
34. Hodges v. Kohn [S. C.] 45 S. E. 102.
35. Houghton v. Stiner, 92 App. Div. 171, 87 N. Y. S. 10.
36. Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 36 So. 65.
37, 38. Harrod v. Farrar [Kan.] 74 P. 624.
39. Baden v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 74 P. 639.
40. Bare statement that a jury of business men is better qualified to pass on the questions to be presented is insufficient. Evans v. National Broadway Bank, 88 App. Div. 549, 85 N. Y. S. 101.
41. In re Kellogg [C. C. A.] 121 F. 333.
42. First action was to determine ownership of insurance policies, alleged to have been fraudulently transferred by the bankrupt, second action to recover fund realized therefrom. Engel v. Union Square Bank, 87 N. Y. S. 1070.
43. Entered upon a dismissal of the complaint for failure of proof. Engel v. Union Square Bank, 87 N. Y. S. 1070.
44. See 1 Curr. L. 324.
45. Referee has jurisdiction to order its sale free from liens. In re Wilka, 131 F. 1004.
46. Ryttenberg v. Schefer, 131 F. 313.
47. See 1 Curr. L. 324, n. 41.
That it has. McNulty v. Feingold, 129 F. 1001. Has concurrent jurisdiction with the state court. Johnston v. Forsyth Mercantile Co., 127 F. 845.
That it has not. Gregory v. Atkinson, 127 F. 183.
48. Section 8 of the Ray bill (Act Feb. 5, 1903) amending § 23b of the bankruptcy act of 1898, so as to give the bankruptcy court jurisdiction of suits for the recovery of certain preferences, is qualified by § 19 of the amendment of 1903, which provides that the provisions of the act shall not apply to pending cases. In re Hartman, 121 F. 940.
49. Sims v. Union Assur. Soc., 129 F. 804.
50. In such an action the validity of the assessment cannot be questioned. Clevenger v. Moore [N. J. Law] 58 A. 88.
51. See 1 Curr. L. 324, n. 39, 40.

necessary parties,[52] and a so-called separate answer of the bankrupt alleging such facts, and that such persons had not been made parties to the action, is properly considered as a demurrer for a defect of parties.[53] In an action to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance, all who were parties to the fraud, or who have acquired part of the property claiming title thereto are proper defendants.[54] A trustee in bankruptcy of a judgment debtor in a creditor's bill in a state court may not be substituted as complainant in the absence of an order of the Federal court that the lien be preserved by the trustee for the benefit of the estate,[55] and the petition of a trustee in bankruptcy asking to be substituted as party plaintiff in a creditor's bill filed by a creditor of the bankrupt, who has filed his claim before the referee in bankruptcy, must allege that such creditor has waived his security.[56]

Pleading.[57]—The pleadings are governed by the equity rules as to pleadings.[58] The complaint in an action to recover a preference must allege insolvency at the date of the transfer,[59] that the preference was given within the four months immediately preceding the filing of the petition,[60] and that the creditor had reasonable cause to believe that a preference was thereby intended.[61] In a suit to recover property fraudulently transferred, the general rule that where fraud is relied upon the facts and circumstances upon which reliance is had must be clearly and concisely set out applies.[62] A bill in equity to recover property alleged to have been fraudulently conveyed will not be dismissed though it alleges that the property was obtained by fraud, through a conspiracy, and that an accounting is necessary.[63] The complaint in an action by a trustee to recover money belonging to the bankrupt must allege nonpayment.[64] An allegation of conspiracy on the part of the bankrupt and defendants is sustained by proof that any two of the defendants so conspired.[65]

Evidence.[66]—The competency of a witness before the bankruptcy court must be determined by the laws of the state in which the proceedings are pending.[67] Copies of the proceedings in bankruptcy in order to be admissible in evidence in another court must be certified according to the provisions of the national bankruptcy law,[68] and where introduced at the trial of a suit by a trustee in the state court to prove a fact collateral to the main issue, it is unnecessary to support them

52. In this case subsequent mortgagees had not filed their mortgages as required by law. Shanks v. National Casket Co., 88 N. Y. S. 839.

53. Shanks v. National Casket Co., 88 N. Y. S. 839.

54. Sexton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372.

55. Kinmouth v. Braeutigam [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1013.

56. Mere allegation of the filing of the creditor's claim and its allowance is insufficient. Kohout v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 96 N. W. 173.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 324.

58. The petition alleging that the property was not assigned for a present fair consideration, an answer denying this allegation need not set forth in detail all the circumstances connected with the facts alleged in the answer. McNulty v. Wiesen, 130 F. 1012.

59. It will not be presumed in the appellate court. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

60. Greene v. Montana Brewing Co., 28 Mont. 380, 72 P. 751.

61. Greene v. Montana Brewing Co., 28 Mont. 380, 72 P. 751. See 1 Curr. L. 324, n. 43.

62. A bill by a bankrupt's trustee to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent to creditors alleging that the goods were sold at a grossly inadequate price (stating the figures) and that the sale was conducted at night, and before business hours, and with great secrecy, and that the purchaser knew of the bankrupt's condition and, paying for the goods before an inventory could be taken, paid too large an amount, part of which was refunded, held sufficient to withstand demurrer for indefiniteness. Johnson v. Forsyth Mercantile Co., 127 F. 845.

63. Lyon v. Clark [Mich.] 100 N. W. 611.

64. Where the bankrupt had make an assignment for the benefit of creditors prior to bankruptcy, it must allege nonpayment to the trustee, assignee, or bankrupt. Cohen v. Wagar, 87 App. Div. 255, 84 N. Y. S. 377.

65. Saxton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372.

66. See 1 Curr L. 324.

67. In re Josephine, 121 F. 142. In those states where a husband cannot testify against his wife without her consent, the petition and schedule thereto attached are inadmissible in evidence against the wife of the bankrupt without her consent. Action by trustee to recover property fraudulently conveyed. Halbert v. Pranke [Minn.] 97 N. W. 976.

68. A. Lehmann & Co. v. Rivers, 110 La. 1079, 35 So. 296.

by establishing the jurisdiction of the Federal court over the bankrupts.[69] A copy of the testimony given by the bankrupt before the referee, and which he states to be true, is inadmissible in a suit by his trustee to set aside an alleged preference.[70] The testimony of officers of a bankrupt corporation taken under either section 7, cl. 9, or section 21a, being reduced to writing, is admissible in a subsequent proceeding against them to recover property alleged to be in their possession or under their control,[71] but the testimony of one other than the bankrupt, or if a corporation, other than an officer or stockholder thereof, not being directed to any defined issue is inadmissible in such proceeding.[72] In an action to recover an alleged preference, the burden of proof is upon the trustee to prove all the essentials of a preferential transfer;[73] he must prove the payment or transfer by the debtor to the creditor,[74] that the debtor was insolvent at the time of the transfer,[75] that the preference was given within the four months immediately preceding the filing of the petition,[76] that the creditor had reasonable cause to believe a preference was thereby intended,[77] that a preference actually resulted,[78] and in those courts where it is held that the bankrupt must intend a preference, that fact must be proven by the trustee.[79] In an action to set aside a fraudulent conveyance the burden of proof is upon the trustee to prove the fraud,[80] and where he seeks to recover the value of property reconveyed by a vendee under a fraudulent conveyance from the grantor, the value of the goods so reconveyed.[81] The uncontradicted testimony of the creditor receiving the alleged preference that he did not know of the debtor's insolvency is sufficient to defeat a recovery.[82] Evidence that defendant's attorney was present at the bankruptcy proceedings is admissible to show defendant's knowledge thereof.[83] Acts of the bankrupt, in which the purchaser did not participate, occurring after the sale and payment are not competent evidence on the question of the purchaser's intent or knowledge.[84] Fraud may be proved by circumstantial evidence.[85] It has been held that the adjudication in bankruptcy conclusively establishes that a preference was intended.[86] Though evidence showing the due appointment of a trustee be admitted without objection, its sufficiency may be afterwards questioned.[87] Facts determined in the bankruptcy proceedings are not ad-

69. Properly certified copies of the adjudication and of the order of the referee approving the bond of the trustee are admissible in an action by the latter to recover a fraudulent preference, without showing the bankrupt had been served with a subpoena or had appeared before adjudication. Whitson v. Farber Bank [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 327.

70. Bankrupt embodied it as part of a deposition. Bonnie & Co. v. Perry's Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1560, 78 S. W. 208.

71, 72. In re Alphin & Lake Cotton Co., 131 F. 824.

73. Dickenson v. Stults [Ga.] 48 S. E. 173.

74. Kimball v. Dresser [Me.] 57 A. 787.

75. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863; Kimball v. Dresser [Me.] 57 A. 787. See 1 Curr. L. 324, n. 46.

76. Baden v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 74 P. 639; Greene v. Montana Brewing Co., 28 Mont. 380, 72 P. 751; In re Mandel, 127 F. 863.

77. Greene v. Montana Brewing Co., 28 Mont. 380, 72 P. 751; Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 35 So. 55; Baden v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 74 P. 639.

78. Baden v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 74 P. 639; Kimball v. Dresser [Me.] 57 A. 787; In re Mandel, 127 F. 863.

79. Baden v. Bertenshaw [Kan.] 74 P. 639.

80. Halbert v. Pranke [Minn.] 97 N. W. 976. Under the laws of North Carolina the grantee under a fraudulent conveyance, claiming as a bona fide holder, must show that he is a purchaser for a valuable consideration and without notice of the grantor's fraud. Cox v. Wall, 132 N. C. 730, 44 S. E. 635. Action by trustee to recover certain stocks alleged to have been fraudulently carried by the bankrupt in his own name as trustee, evidence held sufficient to show that the bankrupt was the true owner, and insufficient to show that other stockholders or the company were parties to the fraud. Fowler v. Jenks, 90 Minn. 74, 95 N. W. 887.

81. Wallace v. Boggan, 137 Ala. 535, 34 So. 824.

82. Wife testified she did not know of husband's insolvency when he made payment to her, held sufficient. Townes v. Alexander [S. C.] 48 S. E. 214.

83. Calkins v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank, 99 Mo. App. 509, 73 S. W. 1098.

84. That the bankrupt secreted the money received for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

85. Sexton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372.

86. Calkins v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank, 99 Mo. App. 509, 73 S. W. 1098.

87. Page v. Roberts, J. & R. Shoe Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 52.

missible in an action by the trustee against one not a party to the bankruptcy proceedings nor bound thereby.[88]

Insolvency.[89]—The adjudication of bankruptcy,[90] the books of the bankrupt,[91] the inventory,[92] the schedules,[93] and the appraisement,[94] are all admissible to prove insolvency though as to their value as proof there is a conflict. That a debtor made an assignment upon which he was declared a bankrupt is not proof of insolvency prior thereto.[95] Judgments existing against a debtor do not necessarily prove insolvency.[96]

Trial and judgment.[97]—Where a trustee is suing for the value of an alleged preference, an instruction that the verdict, if for the plaintiff, should be for the value of the "property, money or both" given the creditor, is too broad.[98] The trustee obtaining a judgment upon a theory not urged by him is upon reversal entitled to have the trial court pass upon the theories urged by him.[99]

Costs.[1]—It is competent for a state court, in a suit by a trustee, to set aside a fraudulent conveyance to allow the innocent vendee, under such conveyance, expenditures made in preserving the property,[2] but it is otherwise after the vendee has voluntarily surrendered the property to the trustee.[3] Trustees in bankruptcy are liable for the costs of a suit instituted by them to recover assets rejected by them as valueless.[4] Damages and costs are properly included in a judgment awarded against a receiver in bankruptcy, so as to render the sureties on the receiver's recognizance personally liable therefor.[5]

88. Testimony of the referee as to the fact of the debtor's insolvency as determined in the bankruptcy proceedings is inadmissible in a suit by the trustee, to recover a preference from a creditor who was not a party to the bankruptcy proceedings, and was not bound thereby. Cullinane v. State Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 887.

89. See ante, § 3.

90. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 675. An adjudication of bankruptcy adjudging one insolvent as of the date of the filing of his schedule of liabilities is proof of his insolvency a short time prior thereto. One month. Sexton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372. That 17 days after the transfer the debtor was adjudged a bankrupt does not establish his insolvency at the date of transfer. Kimball v. Dresser [Me.] 57 A. 787. The adjudication conclusively establishes the bankrupt's insolvency. Calkins v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank, 99 Mo. App. 509, 73 S. W. 1098. The adjudication in a bankruptcy proceeding that the bankrupt was insolvent at the time a judgment was obtained against her, less than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, held conclusive in an action by the trustee to recover the proceeds of a sale of the bankrupt's property under execution. DeGraff v. Lang, 92 App. Div. 564, 87 N. Y. S. 78. The adjudication in bankruptcy is a judicial finding of the fact of insolvency. In re Jones, 123 F. 128.

91. One not conclusive. In re Docker-Foster Co., 123 F. 190.

92, 93. In re Docker-Foster Co., 123 F. 190. Are admissible as evidence of the same class or character as the books of the bankrupt. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 675.

The verified schedules of a bankrupt are competent evidence on the question of insolvency, not only at the date of filing but within a reasonable time prior thereto, they are competent evidence in a suit to set aside a preferential transfer of property, of insolvency three weeks prior to filing of petition. In re Mandel, 127 F. 863.

Contra: They are not competent evidence of insolvency two weeks prior to the filing of the petition. Halbert v. Pranke [Minn.] 97 N. W. 976. Three months before such proceedings were instituted. Hackney v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 94 N. W. 822. Schedules filed in bankruptcy proceedings showing an indebtedness of nearly $10,000, while they might justify an inference of insolvency six weeks prior thereto, are not sufficient to require a finding of insolvency. Summerville v. Stockton Mill Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

94. In re Docker-Foster Co., 123 F. 190.

95. Swartz v. Frank [Mo.] 82 S. W. 60.

96. Summerville v. Stockton Mill Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 325.

98. Page v. Roberts, J. & R. Shoe Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 52.

99. The trustee suing to recover a preference, and obtaining judgment on the theory that the transfer was in fraud of creditors, a theory not urged by the trustee; on reversal the trustee is entitled to have the trial court pass on the question of preference and the appellate court will not order judgment for defendant. Cullinane v. State Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 887.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 325.

2. Paid liens on property bought. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855.

3. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855.

4. Rejected life insurance policy, wife kept it up, bankrupt died before discharge, held trustees could not recover amount paid on policy and were liable for the costs of the suit. In re Josephson, 121 F. 146.

5. Action of replevin brought by receiver

(§ 10) F. Claims not reduced to possession by the trustee.[6]—The trustee may, subject to the control of the bankruptcy court, refuse to take possession of properties that will be burdensome rather than profitable to the estate;[7] he must elect, within a reasonable time, whether or not he will take any particular property of the estate,[8] and if he does not do so it is deemed an election to reject,[9] and the action of the district court, many years after the assignee's discharge, in allowing him to sell the assets does not change this, no reference being made to this claim.[10] When he elects to reject, the title to the asset remains in the bankrupt;[11] thus the latter may recover usurious interest paid a national bank, his trustee in bankruptcy not reducing the claim to possession,[12] and the property being abandoned as valueless to the estate, the trustee is generally precluded from using the same upon its becoming valuable.[13] Trustees turning over property to the bankrupt as valueless, without an order of the court, the court, when that is made to appear, will approve such action nunc pro tunc.[14]

While the legal title to property not scheduled remains in the bankrupt after discharge, yet he holds it in trust for the creditors to be administered by a trustee.[15] Failure by a bankrupt to schedule a claim and notify the trustee of its existence will preclude him from suing thereon.[16]

§ 11. Protection of trustee's title and possession. A. Restraining interference.[17]—Courts of bankruptcy have power to enjoin all persons within their respective jurisdictions,[18] although strangers to the proceeding,[19] from doing any act that will interfere with or prevent the due administration of the bankrupt estate, it cannot enjoin proceedings in a state court in an action against the bankrupt for fraud,[20] and the proceedings being in a state court, no rule of comity requires the United States court to compel persons whose rights are seriously jeopardized by the proceedings in the state court to resort thereto for protection.[21]

(§ 11) B. Actions affecting the trustee's title.[22]—A state court has jurisdiction of an action of trover brought against a trustee or receiver in bankruptcy to recover the value of the property alleged to have been converted by him as a part of the assets of the estate.[23] No leave is necessary to sue a trustee in bankruptcy.[24] A bankrupt is not an indispensable party to a suit against his trustee by one claim-in bankruptcy with permission of Federal court. Unmack v. Douglass, 75 Conn. 633, 55 A. 12.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 324.

7, 8. Fleming v. Courtenay [Me.] 57 A. 592.

9. Forbearance to claim an asset while acting as assignee and for 22 years thereafter held to show an intent to reject it. Fleming v. Courtenay [Me.] 57 A. 592.

10. His petition to the court for license to sell set forth that no assets of any value had come into his possession, and that he had an offer of $100 for all assets of whatsoever their nature belonging to the estate. The particular asset in question was an unliquidated claim. Petition was made 22 years after discharge. Fleming v. Courtenay [Me.] 57 A. 592.

11. Fleming v. Courtenay [Me.] 57 A. 592.

12. Lasater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1054; Id., 96 Tex. 345, 72 S. W. 1057.

13. Where an ordinary life insurance policy of a bankrupt, having no cash surrender value, is turned over to him as valueless by the trustees without an order of the court, and he, keeping it up, dies before his discharge, the court will not require that the proceeds be turned over to the trustees. The rule is probably otherwise with endowment, tontine, or other investment policies having a determinable value [Act 1898, § 70, cl. 5]. In re Josephson, 121 F. 142; affirmed in Meyers v. Josephson [C. C. A.] 124 F. 734.

14. Turned over life insurance policy having no cash surrender value. In re Josephson, 121 F. 142.

15. Though omitted from the schedules in good faith and by advice of counsel. Rand v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 212.

16. Atwood v. Bailey, 184 Mass. 133, 68 N. E. 13; Rand v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 212.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 325.

18, 19. In re Hornstein, 122 F. 266. Restraining a claimant from prosecuting a suit for conversion against the trustee. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507.

20. In re Wollock, 120 F. 516.

21. In re Hornstein, 122 F. 266.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 326.

23. In re Spitzer [C. C. A.] 130 F. 879.

24. Motion for leave to sue, petitioner proposing to bring an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien on the property of the bankrupt, denied. In re Smith, 121 F. 1014.

ing an interest in property scheduled by the bankrupt as his own.[25] A lienor having intervened in a bankruptcy proceeding is bound by the questions adjudicated there.[26] The decree of adjudication being regular on the face of the records, it cannot be collaterally attacked.[27] The filing of a suggestion of the bankrupt's death, without any further action, is insufficient to entitle his widow to dower as against the trustee.[28] A reclaiming creditor is entitled to an inspection of the bankrupt's accounts and papers in the hands of the trustee.[29]

§ 12. Rights of trustee in pending actions by and against bankrupt; jurisdiction of state courts.[30]—The adjudication in bankruptcy does not abate an action pending against the bankrupt,[31] or take away the right of the state court to decree and enforce a specific lien upon the property.[32] A trustee in bankruptcy may intervene in a suit brought by the bankrupt before the adjudication in bankruptcy,[33] and he may appeal from the order denying his petition of intervention,[34] but he is not bound to intervene,[35] the suit does not abate upon his failure to have himself substituted as plaintiff,[36] nor is the bankrupt's debtor thereby discharged from liability,[37] but the suit may still be prosecuted by the bankrupt,[38] and this is so though no trustee is appointed.[39] In case the bankrupt ultimately recovers in such suit, and any question arises as to the right of the trustee or creditors to the money, or as to defendant's being protected in paying it to the proper party, both may be secured by subsequent steps taken for that purpose.[40] A bankrupt continuing to prosecute or defend a suit after adjudication, he cannot subsequently object to a judgment obtained therein on the ground that the trustee should have been substituted for him.[41] The trustee in bankruptcy voluntarily appearing in a proceeding against the bankrupt, without being made a party, has no standing in court, where he fails to prove either the fact or the date of the bankruptcy,[42] but being made a party he stands in the same position as the defendants with respect to the litigation.[43] A conditional discharge in bankruptcy providing that it should not affect

25. Suit by bankrupt's wife against his trustee in bankruptcy to enforce a resulting trust of real estate scheduled by the bankrupt as a part of his assets. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

26. Is bound by finding of debtor's insolvency, and cannot claim otherwise in suit by trustee to recover an alleged preference. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121.

27. Roberts v. Fernald [N. H.] 55 A. 942.

28. Suit by trustee in bankruptcy to have a deed by the bankrupt to his wife set aside as fraudulent. Gray v. Chase, 184 Mass. 444, 68 N. E. 676.

29. In re Saur, 122 F. 101.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 326.

31. Suit to foreclose a chattel mortgage given by the bankrupt. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121. In states having statutes providing that no action shall abate by the transfer of any interest therein during its pendency, bankruptcy proceedings by the plaintiff do not operate to abate an action [Code, § 3476]. Wilsey v. Jewett Bros. & Co., 122 Iowa, 315, 98 N. W. 114.

32. May foreclose a chattel mortgage given by the bankrupt. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121.

33. Griffin v. Mut. L. Ins. Co., 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870. May intervene and contest the validity or existence of the lien sought to be enforced and in case the validity of the lien be denied he may be awarded the property. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 121. May intervene in a suit to enforce an equitable lien against the bankrupt's property. Snyder v. Smith [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1089. Sections 11b and 11c simply provide for the taking care of suits already begun prior to the adjudication, and is not a limitation upon the right of a trustee to appear in any suit, but rather provides the manner of procedure with reference to suits already begun, and which may affect the estate of the bankrupt. Friedman v. Verchofsky, 105 Ill. App. 414.

34. Snyder v. Smith [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1089.

35, 36, 37. Griffin v. Mut. L. Ins. Co., 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870.

38. Griffin v. Mut. L. Ins. Co., 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870; Wilsey v. Jewett Bros. & Co., 122 Iowa, 315, 98 N. W. 114.

39, 40. Griffin v. Mut. L. Ins. Co., 119 Ga. 664, 46 S. E. 870.

41. Where pending a suit to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance of land the judgment debtors were adjudged bankrupts, and they were permitted to set up such fact in such suit by supplemental answer, but failed to urge therein that the action should have been prosecuted in the name of the trustee, such objection cannot be subsequently considered. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 84 App. Div. 129, 82 N. Y. S. 80.

42. Cannot question the validity of an attachment issued against such defendant. A. Lehmann & Co. v. Rivers, 110 La. 1079, 35 So. 296.

43. It is not necessary that the pleadings state a cause of action as against him.

a certain pending suit until final judgment therein, and that as to such judgment the discharge should have the same force that it would have if the judgment had been recovered after the application for the discharge, and before the granting of the same, permits the prosecution of such suit.[44]

§ 13. Management of the property and reduction to money.[45]—The courts of bankruptcy have the power to collect, reduce to money, and distribute all property in the possession of the debtor when the proceedings are instituted,[46] and they are not limited to the resultant interest of the bankrupt therein.[47] A bankruptcy court having in its possession a fund touching which there is a dispute may, by virtue of its inherent powers, determine the right to the fund thus in its possession;[48] it may marshal assets in the hands of a trustee,[49] compel the assignee under a void state assignment to render an account,[50] and the court may, in its discretion, turn over the property of a bankrupt to a lienor whose lien is equal to the value thereof.[51] An insurer is entitled to have the property taken care of and proof of loss made.[52] Being an officer of the court, and as such subject to its direction in all matters concerning money or property which may have come into his possession by virtue of his office,[53] the trustee may, under the direction of the court, make the necessary payments to mature a tontine life insurance policy payable to the bankrupt, his assigns or legal representatives, it being clearly for the benefit of the estate to so do.[54] A bankrupt's receiver and trustee taking possession of property in the hands of the bankrupt at the time of filing the petition are not liable in conversion to the seller to the bankrupt by selling the same under order of the court, such seller not electing to rescind for fraud until after the institution of the bankruptcy proceedings.[55] A trustee in bankruptcy is liable upon a reversal of a judgment recovered by him for a fund paid him under such judgment, and that his attorney retained a part thereof for fees and disbursements is no defense,[56] but the court of bankruptcy cannot summarily require him to pay a judgment for costs rendered against him in another jurisdiction, there being no funds of the estate in his hands.[57] A state court has jurisdiction to appoint an auditor to distribute the fund arising on foreclosure of the real estate of a bankrupt.[58]

Latimer v. McKinnon, 85 App. Div. 224, 83 N. Y. S. 315. He can raise no issue the bankrupt could not raise, and is bound by the issues tendered by the latter in his answer. The trustee cannot admit away by his answer any defense the bankrupt had. Id. In New York, the supplemental complaint bringing in as a party defendant's trustee in bankruptcy may demand the "same judgment as the original complaint" there being no answer in the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 1207]. Id.

44. Standard Sewing Mach. Co. v. Alexander [S. C.] 47 S. E. 711.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 326.

46. In re Union Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 937.

47. May sell the property free from incumbrances. In re Union Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 937.

48. This rule is not peculiar to bankruptcy courts. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249. Receiver obtained peaceable possession of property of the bankrupt, though a warehouseman claimed to be in actual possession thereof and had issued receipts therefor to the bankrupt who had transferred the same, such property was sold by order of the court, the holders of the warehouse receipts agreeing thereto by stipulation, held, court had jurisdiction to determine the ownership of the fund. In re Rodgers [C. C. A.] 125 F. 169.

49. As between a partnership and individual creditors. Burleigh v. Foreman [C. C. A.] 125 F. 217.

50. Where he appears and submits his account and enters upon a hearing without objection, the court does not lose jurisdiction to require him to turn over the property to the trustee because he asserts title to a part of such property in himself. In re Thompson [C. C. A.] 128 F. 575.

51. The entire assets of a bankrupt being mortgaged for more than their value, the bankruptcy court will permit them to be turned over to the mortgagee, without prejudice to the right of the trustee, or the creditors of the bankrupt, to contest the validity of the mortgage by suit or otherwise in any court having jurisdiction. Equitable Loan & Security Co. v. Moss & Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 609.

52. Fuller v. N. Y. Fire Ins. Co., 184 Mass. 12, 67 N. E. 879.

53. In re Howard, 130 F. 1004.

54. In re Mertens, 131 F. 972.

55. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507.

56, 57. In re Howard, 130 F. 1004.

58. In this case the attorneys consented,

Sale by trustee.[59]—The sale by a trustee is a judicial one.[60] A court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to order the sale of the nonexempt property of the bankrupt, free from incumbrances,[61] the lienor should be notified,[62] though he may waive such requirement.[63] In the absence of some special direction in the order of sale of real estate of a bankrupt, the trustee sells only the interest of the bankrupt therein,[64] one claiming an adverse interest to the bankrupt, and who is a stranger to the proceedings, is not affected by the sale,[65] and has no interest in the proceeds,[66] nor has the bankruptcy court, after the property has been sold and conveyed, jurisdiction to adjudicate the rights of such claimant therein,[67] nor are such facts grounds for setting aside the sale.[68] The referee has discretionary power to direct a private sale of the bankrupt's estate,[69] without notice to the creditors,[70] and such action of the referee ought not to be disturbed unless it clearly appears that his discretion was improvidently exercised.[71] An agreement to refrain from bidding at the sale, profits to be divided, is void.[72] A proper sale by a trustee in bankruptcy is a condition precedent to a valid conveyance.[73] Whenever practicable the property must be sold subject to the court's approval,[74] in such cases no title passes until the sale is confirmed,[75] and the purchaser has the burden of proving that it was impracticable to make the sale subject to the court's approval.[76] This approval need not always be formal,[77] acquiescence,[78] or use of the proceeds,[79] may meet the requirements of the statute. Confirmation of a sale by a trustee is equivalent to a prior order.[80] The disapproval of a sale by a referee where no attempt is made to review it is equivalent to disapproval by the court.[81] A court of bankruptcy has the power to set aside, in its discretion a sale of the bankrupt's property,[82] as where more can be obtained therefor,[83] or where parties are prevented from bidding without fault upon their part,[84] and this is so though the order of the referee to sell held that while this would estop them still it made no difference. Furth v. Stahl, 205 Pa. 439, 55 A. 29.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 327.

60. As to payment of taxes realized by a "judicial sale" of the property. In re Harvey, 122 F. 745.

61. Where a mortgage thereon is of such an amount as to render it doubtful whether the equity of redemption is of any value. The questions between the trustee and mortgagee being such as could not be settled for a long time, and the expense of keeping the property large, a sale of the entire property without prejudice to the conflicting claims of the mortgagee and the trustee to the proceeds is justifiable. In re Union Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 937.

Even though a mortgage has been given on such assets to secure its bonds. In re Shoe & Leather Reporter [C. C. A.] 129 F. 588. Where by a prompt sale, accruing interest and taxes would be saved, and the sale could be made by the trustee for less expense than by the sheriff, and the estate could be settled more promptly, and the wife of the bankrupt had deeded to the trustee her dower interest in the land, held such sale properly ordered. In re Keet, 128 F. 651; In re Prince, 131 F. 546. See 1 Curr. L. 327, n. 84.

62. Lienor resided in another state. In re Wilka, 131 F. 1004.

63. By making no objection to the sale on the hearing of the petition for confirmation. Keyser v. Wessel [C. C. A.] 128 F. 281.

64, 65, 66, 67, 68. In re Muhlhauser [C. C. A.] 121 F. 669.

69, 70, 71. In re Hawkins, 125 F. 633.

72. Agreement was entered into after some bids had been made and sale was still open. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012.

73. Proper sale of equity of redemption is necessary before suit to redeem can be maintained. Davis v. Ives, 75 Conn. 611, 54 A. 922.

74. Even though it brings more than 75 per cent of the appraised value. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153. The express prohibition in § 70 against selling for less than 75 per cent without such approval does not by implication qualify the preceding words so that on a sale for more than that approval need not be sought. Davis v. Ives, 75 Conn. 611, 54 A. 922.

75. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153.

76. Davis v. Ives, 75 Conn. 611, 54 A. 922.

77, 78, 79. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153.

80. In re Harvey, 122 F. 745.

81. Davis v. Ives, 75 Conn. 611, 54 A. 922.

82. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153.

83. Where would-be bidders were prevented, without fault on their part, from bidding at the sale, the court may set the sale aside upon their agreeing to bid three times the amount realized, though the sale was for the full appraised value, and in such a case it is not necessary that the court find that the property was worth more than the sum realized. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153. Will not be set aside at the instance of one who has no other interest than the desire to become the purchaser at a resale and who offers to make a higher bid. In re Belden, 120 F. 524.

84. Seasonably advised officer of their in-did not require the sale to be made subject to the approval of the court,[85] and such action of the court is not reviewable unless there is a clear abuse of power.[86] A decree of the bankruptcy court cannot be attacked in a collateral proceeding.[87]

§ 14. Claims against the estate and proof and allowance. A. Claims provable.[88]—Claims may be provable, but not allowable.[89] A debt in order to be provable must be a fixed liability, absolutely owing at the time of the filing of the petition against the bankrupt.[90] Contingent liabilities are not provable.[91] An annuity dependent upon life may be proven in bankruptcy,[92] but not where dependent upon a contingency which may or may not happen.[93] Attorneys' fees provided for in a bankrupt's note which is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection before the filing of the petition against the bankrupt are provable claims,[94] as is a stockholder's liability after being established by a decree.[95] Claims arising in tort, but which may also be treated as arising upon an implied contract,[96] those arising from transactions in which the bankrupt is the undisclosed principal,[97] and rent due upon a lease, are provable claims.[98] In states allowing a wife to contract with her husband for compensation for her services rendered in her husband's business outside the family relation, the wife of a bankrupt may prove a claim for services rendered under such a contract against his estate in bankruptcy.[99] Notes signed by a bankrupt firm which include claims on which one of the partners is not primarily liable are prima facie debts, provable against the firm's estate.[1] Damages for breach of a contract, the breach occurring at or before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, may be proven,[2] but no damage being sustained, stipulated tention, but he failed to notify them of time of sale. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153. Upon their giving security to make a substantially higher bid for the property at a resale. In re Shea, 122 F. 742.

85. In re Shea, 122 F. 742.

86. In re Shea [C. C. A.] 126 F. 153.

87. Courts will not partition land contrary to the bankruptcy court's decree. Trumbo v. Fulk [Va.] 48 S. E. 525.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 327.

89. In re Hornstein, 122 F. 266. That a debt may be defeated by the plea of limitations does not render it nonprovable. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Hudson [C. C. A.] 122 F. 232.

90. In re Keeton, Stell & Co., 126 F. 426, 429.

NOTE. Fixed liabilities—Judgments other than for alimony: There are very few decisions on this point, there being a direct conflict between them. In re Alderson, 98 F. 588, held that a judgment imposing a fine for unlawful retailing was a provable debt, while in In re Moore, 111 F. 145, the court expressly refused to follow the preceding case. See, also, In re Baker, 96 F. 954; In re Hubbard, 98 F. 710, and In re Lipman, 94 F. 353.—From note to Cobb v. Overman [U. S.] 54 L. R. A. 369. See 1 Curr. L. 327, n. 97.

91. Contingent liability on bond. Leader v. Mattingly [Ala.] 37 So. 270.

92. Dunbar v. Dunbar, 190 U. S. 340, 23 S. Ct. 757, 47 Law. Ed. 1085.

93. Annuity to divorced wife "during her life or until she remarries," held nonprovable. Dunbar v. Dunbar, 190 U. S. 340, 23 S. Ct. 757, 47 Law. Ed. 1085.

94. Merchants' Bank v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 121 F. 306. Note not placed in the hands of a lawyer for collection until after the filing of the petition, though due at the time of such filing, held, attorney's fees not provable. In re Keeton, Stell & Co., 126 F. 426, 429.

95. Where, by suit, the indebtedness of an insolvent corporation was fixed at about 2-3 of its stock and a judgment was rendered against it for that sum and against the stockholders severally for an amount equal to the par value of the stock held by each, held that, as against a nonresident stockholder not a party to nor appearing in the suit, the decree being rendered prior to his being adjudged a bankrupt, made the claim against him on account of such stockholder's liability a provable debt. Dight v. Chapman [Or.] 75 P. 585.

96. In re Filer, 125 F. 261.

97. Bankrupt who was in the employ of a firm of brokers caused them to purchase stock on fictitious orders purporting to have been given by customers, such purchases being in fact intended for his own benefit. In re Filer, 125 Fed. 261.

98. In re Hinckel Brewing Co., 123 F. 942.

NOTE. Leases, rent: Excepting Pennsylvania, the courts all hold that rent which has not accrued at the time of the adjudication is not provable. In re Arnstein, 101 F. 706; In re Mahler, 105 F. 428; Atkins v. Wilcox [C. C. A.] 105 F. 596, 53 L. R. A. 118. But see In re Gerson, 2 Am. Bankr. R. 170, 8 Pa. Dist. R. 277; In re Goldstein, 2 Am. Bankr. R. 603.—From note to Cobb v. Overman [U. S.] 54 L. R. A. 369.

99. Pennsylvania P. L. 1893, 344. In re Domenig, 128 F. 146.

1. Merchants' Bank v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 121 F. 306.

2. In re Adams, 130 F. 381; In re Frederick L. Grant Shoe Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 881. See 1 Curr. L. 327, n. 98.

damages cannot be proven,[3] nor damages contingent upon a lessor's re-entry, or re-letting premises leased by the bankrupt.[4] The liability of a surety is not provable until the principal's liability is fixed,[5] nor is the contingent liability of a bankrupt to his surety provable.[6] An annual license fee imposed by a state on corporations is not provable against the estate of a bankrupt corporation before the fee for the year is assessed or collectible,[7] nor is the unliquidated liability of the bankrupt on a deficiency judgment provable.[8] A creditor whose claim is secured or partly paid by an accommodation indorser may prove his claim to the full amount, and exclude from the bankrupt estate the avails of such security or part payment.[9] In states where the separate property of a married woman is liable in equity for obligations incurred in business in which she is engaged on her own account, such obligations are provable against her estate in bankruptcy.[10] A partner's individual debt cannot become an obligation of the firm unless the creditor assents thereto, so as to preclude the latter from proving it against the individual's bankrupt estate.[11] It may be shown that a note signed and sealed by the individual members of a bankrupt partnership was given for money lent to the firm and used in the firm business, and, as such, provable against the partnership estate in bankruptcy;[12] also parol evidence is admissible to show that partner's joint notes are in fact firm debts.[13] A claimant for goods fraudulently obtained by a bankrupt cannot file a claim for goods sold and delivered under the contract and at the same time file a claim for a return of the goods sold remaining in the bankrupt's possession at the time of the filing of the petition.[14] A surety for a bankrupt who has discharged the debt either before or after the bankruptcy of his principal is subrogated to the rights of the creditor.[15] A loan made by a wife to her husband from her separate estate is provable as a debt against his bankrupt estate, without regard to its enforceability under the law of the state, the contract being valid in equity.[16] Unliquidated claims arising upon a contractual obligation or promise of the bankrupt may be liquidated and then proven;[17] this does not include statutory liabilities,[18] and refers only to claims whose

3. Northwest Fixture Co. v. Kilbourne & Clark Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 256.

4. A lessor is not entitled to prove a claim for damages against the lessee's bankrupt estate for breach of a covenant in the lease, that in case of the latter's bankruptcy the lessor might re-enter and the lessee would be liable for damages sustained by the lessor on account of the premises being unleased or being let for the remainder of the term for less rent. In re Shaffer, 124 F. 111.

5. Bankrupt as surety. In re Wiseman, 123 F. 185. An orphan's court in Pennsylvania entering a decree nisi and later confirming it absolute, adjudicating the account of an administrator and ordering a distribution, which latter part was later suspended and the administrator ordered to hold the balance, fixes the liability of the administrator and his sureties so that a subsequent administrator may prove the same against a surety's bankrupt estate. Hibberd v. Bailey [C. C. A.] 129 F. 575.

6. Under Act 1898, § 57i, it is the creditor's claim only that is provable. Insley v. Garside [C. C. A.] 121 F. 699.

7. Is not a contractual obligation attaching by implication from the inception of the company, and hence is not provable under Act 1898, § 64, cl. 4, including debts founded on contracts express or implied. In re Danville Rolling Mill Co., 121 F. 432.

8. In re Kahn, 121 F. 412.

9. In re Noyes Bros. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 286.

10. Florida. MacDonald v. Tefft-Weller Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 381.

11. The debt was entered on the books of the firm as a firm debt and payments made thereon by firm checks. In re Wiseman, 123 F. 187. See 1 Curr. L. 328, n. 13-16.

12. Davis v. Turner [C. C. A.] 120 F. 605. See 1 Curr. L. 328, n. 13-16.

13. In re L. B. Weisenberg & Co., 131 F. 517. Evidence that though the notes were signed by all the partners, the money was divided among them individually, held sufficient to show the debt not a firm debt, also that the testimony of the cashier of the bank making the loan was not admissible on the question. Id.

14. Bankrupt made false representations as to solvency. The seller by filing for goods sold and delivered under the contract and not for the possession of the goods obtained by fraud or for their value as damages, where possession could not be obtained, elected to affirm the contract and thereafter could not split his demand. In re Hildebrant, 120 F. 992.

15. Livingstone v. Heineman [C. C. A.] 120 F. 786.

16. James v. Gray [C. C. A.] 131 F. 401. But this is not true where the property transferred was received from the husband as a gift. In re Tucker, 131 F. 647.

17. Old Colony Boot & Shoe Co. v. Parker-amount is uncertain.[19] A creditor having a provable debt, though the amount is unliquidated, having filed a petition against his debtor, and a jury trial being demanded thereon, the petitioner's claim may be determined and liquidated upon the same trial.[20] Claims for an indebtedness arising between the filing of an involuntary petition and adjudication cannot be proven.[21]

(§ 14) B. Proof of claims.[22]—The proof of claims is not an "action" or "suit" against the bankrupt.[23] No proof of debt can be made after the expiration of one year after the adjudication, except in those cases where the period is extended by the act to not exceeding one year and six months[24] and this is true, though the debt is unscheduled, the creditor having no notice of the bankruptcy proceedings, and the estate being still undistributed,[25] nor is this time extended by the fact that a composition is effected.[26] This provision is a statute of limitations,[27] and hence is not binding upon the United States.[28] The claim of an assignee under an assignment for the benefit of creditors for his expenditures need not be proved within one year after adjudication in order to be allowed.[29] Taxes accruing after adjudication need not be proved like ordinary debts.[30] Holders of notes of a bankrupt partnership, also indorsed by the individual partners, may at their election prove the same as individual debts of one of the partners.[31] Taking a new promise after proof of debt does not preclude the creditor from maintaining his proof, while at the same time proceeding against the bankrupt personally on the new promise, so long as he receives but one satisfaction for the debt,[32] nor is the seller of goods estopped to bring an action for fraud by proving the notes given for the purchase price.[33] The separate proof of an unsecured claim does not debar a creditor from subsequently proving a balance due on a secured claim after the security has been exhausted.[34] Choses in action which have been assigned before a petition is filed should be proved by the assignee as the real party in interest.[35] A creditor may in good faith sell and dispose of an account or other obligation held against a bankrupt debtor, regardless of the question of insolvency or notice thereof.[36]

A claim may be proven by filing a petition in the bankruptcy proceedings.[37]

Sampson-Adams Co., 183 Mass. 557, 67 N. E. 870.

18. Liability of a director of a corporation. Old Colony Boot & Shoe Co. v. Parker-Sampson-Adams Co., 183 Mass. 557, 67 N. E. 870.

19. The claim of a surety for a bankrupt is not "liquidated by litigation" where the litigation is between the principal creditor and the surety to determine the latter's liability, the amount not being in controversy. In re E. O. Thompson's Sons, 123 F. 174. A claim against the estate of a bankrupt for sums obtained from his employers by forging indorsements on checks and cashing same, by taking cash from the drawer, and by inducing them to purchase stocks on false and fictitious orders, is not unliquidated where the amounts taken from and paid out by the claimants are certain. In re Filer, 125 F. 261.

20. In re Frederic L. Grant Shoe Co., 125 F. 576.

21. Claims for labor and materials furnished between such dates in pursuance of a contract entered into before filing the petition, but being executory at that date, held could not be proved. In re Adams, 130 F. 381.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 328.

23. In states where a wife cannot sue her husband except for divorce or to recover her separate property after his desertion, she may nevertheless prove a claim against his bankrupt estate [Pennsylvania statute of 1893 (P. L. 345, § 3)]. In re Domenig, 128 F. 146. Statutes forbidding a husband and wife from testifying against each other do not render the testimony of a wife incompetent in support of a claim filed by her against her husband's bankrupt estate. Id.

24. In re Paine, 127 F. 246.

25. His remedy is an action at law to recover upon the debt. Santa Rosa Bank v. White, 139 Cal. 703, 73 P. 577; In re Muskoka Lumber Co., 127 F. 886.

26. In re Brown, 123 F. 336.

27, 28. In re Stoever, 127 F. 394.

29. It is a controversy arising out of the settlement of the estate of the bankrupt. In re Levitt, 126 F. 889.

30. In re Prince, 131 F. 546.

31. Buckingham v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 192.

32. Dowse v. Hammond [C. C. A.] 130 F. 103.

33. Standard Sew. Mach. Co. v. Alexander [S. C.] 47 S. E. 711.

34. In re Ball, 123 F. 164.

35. Leighton v. Kennedy [C. C. A.] 129 F. 737.

36. Hackney v. Hargreaves Bros. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 675.

37. Petition filed by bankrupt's wife

In the proof of a claim, absence of a date is a fatal defect,[38] but failure to have the title of the court at the head thereof is not fatal.[39] Items of the account constituting the consideration should be specified,[40] and sworn to in the proof,[41] and if the creditor's claim is based on notes, they should be produced and filed.[42] A notary public may administer the oath to a proof of claim,[43] and the signature and seal of the notary are prima facie sufficient authentication, whether he be a notary of the state where the bankruptcy proceedings are pending or not.[44] The proof of claims may be amended subsequent to one year after the adjudication,[45] and such amendments may be substituted, with the trustee's consent, for the defective original proof, although an appeal has been taken by the trustee from a decree of the bankruptcy court permitting the owners of the claim to prove as creditors.[46] One cannot by the amendment of prior proofs introduce proof of an entirely new claim upon a separate contract,[47] nor will a claim unconditionally withdrawn prior to the expiration of the year serve as a basis for filing a claim as an amendment thereof.[48] The petition of the trustee for an order for a re-examination of a claim need only allege facts which if true are a sufficient cause for the re-examination of the claim.[49] A referee may, in an order for the examination of a nonresident creditor, permit him to appear before the referee in the district in which he resides.[50]

(§ 14) C. Contest of claims.[51]—One having submitted himself and his claim to property in the possession of the bankrupt to the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court, he is bound to prosecute his claim in such court.[52] Disputes as to the validity of certain claims arising at the first meeting of creditors, the right to continue the hearing of such contests is within the discretion of the referee.[53] The bankrupt may object to the allowance in composition of claims offered for proof more than one year after the adjudication,[54] but he cannot prevent the allowance of a claim against the bankrupt and his trustee to enforce a resulting trust claimed by the petitioner in property which the trustee was about to sell. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

38. Will prevent such creditors from participation in the creditors' meeting. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619.

39. So as to prevent the creditor's participation in the creditors' meeting. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619.

40. Statement that claim is for "printing done for said bankrupt at his request heretofore, to wit, in September, 1903, as per bill rendered," is insufficient. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619. That claim is for "goods, wares and merchandise sold and delivered by claimant to bankrupt at its request, consisting of green truck and vegetables, amounting to said sum of $140, with interest from * * *, being the balance now due on said claim on book account," is insufficient. Id. That claim is for "2,500 jar tops at $2.00 per 1,000=$50," [so in opinion] "1-3 blue, 1-3 white, 1-3 red," is sufficient. Id. Statement that claim is for "goods and merchandise sold," as evidenced by two notes, is insufficient. If the creditor intended to stand on the account he should have given the items; if on the notes, they should be produced and filed. Id.

41. Construing § 57. In re Brett, 130 F. 981.

42. In re Blue Ridge Packing Co., 125 F. 619.

43. In re Pancoast, 129 F. 643.

44. Claim sworn to in New Jersey and presented in Pennsylvania. In re Pancoast, 129 F. 643.

45. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co., 190 U. S. 552, 23 S. Ct. 778, 47 Law. Ed. 1179; Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584. Proof of claim was unverified. In re Roeber [C. C. A.] 127 F. 122. See 1 Curr. L. 329, n. 18.

46. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co., 190 U. S. 552, 23 S. Ct. 778, 47 Law. Ed. 1179.

47. A creditor who proved a claim based upon a promissory note against the bankrupt estate of a partnership cannot after the expiration of the year from adjudication add a claim against the estate of one of the partners based upon his indorsement on the note. In re McCallum & McCallum, 127 F. 768. See 1 Curr. L. 329, n. 19.

48. In re E. O. Thompson's Sons, 123 F. 174.

49. Need not aver facts which if proved would defeat the claim. In re George Watkinson & Co., 130 F. 218.

50. Reconsideration of a claim. In re George Watkinson & Co., 130 F. 218. Conflicting evidence as to whether goods were purchased and paid for examined and held to establish the debt of an alleged bankrupt to the petitioning creditor as claimed. In re Ferguson, 127 F. 407.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 329.

52. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507.

53. In re Cohen, 131 F. 391.

54. Some creditors did not claim their share of composition. preferred creditor tried to prove his claim in the surplus thus created. Claim was unavoidably and in good faith omitted from the bankrupt's schedule. In re Lane, 126 F. 772.

offered for proof after the expiration of such time where the delay was caused by his own fraud.[55] Any creditor of a bankrupt may interpose the defense of limitations to a claim presented for allowance against the estate.[56] In Iowa, creditors of a bankrupt cannot set up the defense of usury against another creditor's claim.[57] The creditor of a bankrupt cannot institute, without the concurrence of the trustee, a proceeding to re-examine the allowed claims of other creditors,[58] and if the trustee should without sufficient reason refuse to examine such claims, the court by its order can compel him to do so or remove him for disobedience.[59] No formal writing is required to assign a claim proved and allowed.[60] Under the act of 1867, the assignee purchasing a claim in good faith, it would be given effect.[61] Failure to file an answer to a petition seeking to expunge a claim justifies a decree pro confesso, carrying with it the ordinary incidents and consequences of such a decree.[62] The trustee may be precluded by reason of laches from having an allowance reviewed.[63] The disallowance of a claim by a court of bankruptcy constitutes a bar to a subsequent suit against the bankrupt on the same cause of action in another jurisdiction.[64]

(§ 14) D. Surrender of preferences and effect thereof.[65]—A creditor must surrender all preferences received[66] within the four months prior to the filing of the petition,[67] in order to prove his claim, and this disability inheres in the claim and operates against the holder into whose hands it may come, whether by assignment or subrogation,[68] but a bona fide holder of negotiable paper of the bankrupt is permitted to prove the same free from the taint of preferences received by the payee.[69] As to whether or not the creditor must have reasonable cause to believe that a preference was thereby intended in order to compel its surrender there is a conflict.[70] Preferred creditors are entitled to have proof of their claims allowed where the agreement to surrender their preferences is reached within one year after the adjudication, though the actual surrender of the property to the trustee does not occur until a short time thereafter.[71] A secured creditor, whose

55. Fraud in misstating facts in his schedule so as to make it appear that there was no estate for distribution. No objection being made by any other creditor of the trustee, it being conceded that the creditors who had proved their claims were to be paid in full before the petitioner received anything. In re Towne, 122 F. 313.

56. In re John J. Lafferty & Bro., 122 F. 558.

57. In re Worth, 130 F. 927.

58, 59. In re Lewensohn [C. C. A.] 121 F. 538.

60. Indorsement on notes held sufficient. Case was decided under Act 1867. Court stating rules to be the same under Act 1898. In re Sweetser, 131 F. 567.

61. In re Sweetser, 131 F. 567.

62. In re Docker-Foster Co., 123 F. 190.

63. Claim of lessor for rent of premises occupied by receiver down to date of adjudication was filed against the estate and allowed without objection, and so stood until after the discharge of the receiver; held could not be reviewed. In re Hinckel Brewing Co., 123 F. 942.

64. If the judgment was erroneous, the remedy was by appeal. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Hudson [C. C. A.] 122 F. 232.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 329.

66. Creditor received preferences on separate and distinct debts, held, could not prove other claims until such preferences were surrendered. Act 1898, § 57g, deals with the creditors not with their claims. Dunn v. Gans [C. C. A.] 129 F. 750; Livingstone v. Heineman [C. C. A.] 120 F. 786; In re Flynn & Co., 126 F. 422; In re Busby, 124 F. 469.

67. Prior to the amendment of 1903, it was immaterial when the preference was given, provided the debtor was insolvent. In re Busby, 124 F. 469. A payment received more than four months before filing the petition need not be surrendered. In re Girard Glazed Kid Co., 129 F. 841.

68. Surety of bankrupt succeeding to rights of creditor whom he has paid. Livingstone v. Heineman [C. C. A.] 120 F. 786.

69. Bank discounting note, by crediting the payee with the amount of the discount, in the usual course of business and without knowledge of the insolvency of the maker is such a bona fide holder. In re Levi, 121 F. 198.

70. That he must. In re Goodhile, 130 F. 471.

That he need not. Harris v. Second Nat. Bank, 110 Tenn. 239, 75 S. W. 1053.

71. Creditors of a bankrupt who had collected their claims in suits begun within four months of the filing of the petition are entitled to have the proof of their claims allowed, upon paying the amount collected, to the trustee, though payment for the convenience of counsel, was delayed for a day or two beyond one year after the adjudica-security is insufficient, disclosing his security in proving his claim before the referee may retain his security and share in the dividends as to the overplus,[72] but one holding a mortgage upon exempt property is not entitled to receive a dividend on his entire claim and resort to the security only to satisfy an unpaid balance.[73] A sale creating a new and separate debt may be proved by the debtor without surrendering a preferential payment of a previous debt.[74] A preferential payment affects the entire indebtedness due the creditor at the time of payment, though parts of the indebtedness accrued at different periods, and hence must be surrendered to entitle the creditor to prove his account.[75] A creditor holding two notes given by the bankrupt at the same time cannot prove and be allowed his claim upon one upon which no preference was received, without surrendering a preference received upon the other.[76] A note being given partly for a valid consideration and partly as a preference the amount of the preference should be deducted before the note is allowed.[77]

Mutual debts and credits accruing more than four months before filing the petition in bankruptcy may be set off against each other;[78] credits to the insolvent accruing subsequent to that time, which constitute voidable preferences, cannot be set off against debts which accrue prior to that date,[79] but mutual debts and credits accruing within four months prior to the filing of the petition, and which do not constitute voidable preferences, may be set off against each other,[80] as well as against the respective debts and credits accruing more than four months before the petition is filed,[81] but the debts or credits must be provable claims,[82] and it must be shown that the estate was benefited in some way by the payment.[83] A debt upon which a preferential payment is made cannot be set off against such payment.[84] The allowance of set off of new credits against a preference applies only to preferences recoverable by the trustee.[85] A bank may set off money deposited by an insolvent upon an open account subject to check,[86] but a bank having notice that a deposit is specific, it cannot set it off against the bankrupt depositor's account.[87] A bank, not having received a preference, is entitled to apply the amount of the tion. Hutchinson v. Otis, 190 U. S. 552, 23 S. Ct. 778, 47 Law. Ed. 1179.

72. Kohout v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 96 N. W. 173.

73. In re Lantzenheimer, 124 F. 716.

74. A creditor receiving payment in full from his debtor within four months prior to the latter's bankruptcy and without knowledge of his insolvency, and afterwards selling him other goods, which are not paid for at the time of bankruptcy may prove the latter debt without surrender of the money received in payment of the previous debt. In re Wolf, 122 F. 127. See 1 Curr. L. 329, n. 37-40.

75. In re Lyon [C. C. A.] 121 F. 723. See 1 Curr. L. 329, n. 37-40.

76. Note first maturing was paid within four months prior to bankruptcy and during insolvency. In re E. O. Thompson's Sons, 121 F. 607. See 1 Curr. L. 329, n. 38.

77. Batchelder & Lincoln Co. v. Whitmore [C. C. A.] 122 F. 355.

78. Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 129 F. 728. See 1 Curr. L. 330, n. 44.

79, 80, 81. Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 129 F. 728.

82. Harris v. Second Nat. Bank, 110 Tenn. 239, 75 S. W. 1053.

NOTE. Set-offs: One of the requirements of a set-off is that it must be provable against the bankrupt estate. Act 1898, § 68b, and this requirement refers to the nature of the claim at the moment when it is sought to be set off, and not to its nature at the beginning of the bankruptcy proceedings. Morgan v. Wordell, 178 Mass. 350, 59 N. E. 1037, 55 L. R. A. 33. To allow a set-off in bankruptcy the debts must be mutual and be in the same right. Sawyer v. Hoag, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 610, 21 Law. Ed. 731.—From note to Morgan v. Wordell, 55 L. R. A. 33.

83. Tredway v. Kaufman, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 256.

84. Harris v. Second Nat. Bank, 110 Tenn. 239, 75 S. W. 1053.

85. In re Jones, 123 F. 128.

86. New York County Nat. Bank v. Massey, 192 U. S. 138, 24 S. Ct. 199. See Banking and Finance, 1 Curr. L. 289.

87. Where a company was insolvent and had ceased to be a going concern and all its efforts and those of its creditors being to obtain an equal distribution of its assets, pending the result of these efforts it deposited a fund in a creditor bank with the intention that it should be held for its trustee in bankruptcy when appointed, though no notice of this was given the bank, held from all the circumstances it had notice of the character of the deposit. Lynam v. Belfast Nat. Bank [Me.] 57 A. 799.

general account of a depositor on a note of the latter held by the bank.[88] An order of the referee permitting the defendant to retain certain alleged preferences, and allowing the creditor's claim for the balance is an adjudication that the items so permitted to be retained by the creditor are proper set-offs.[89] A trustee may appeal from an order denying his motion to expunge a claim allowed, unless further preferences were surrendered and directing a return of a preference previously surrendered by the creditor.[90]

(§ 14) E. Priorities.[91]—Claims of the United States are entitled to priority whether proved in the bankruptcy proceeding or not.[92] Taxes legally due and owing by the bankrupt to the United States, the state, county, district, or municipality are given priority over the payment of dividends to creditors,[93] where the bankrupt is personally liable for the taxes.[94] The liability of the bankrupt for taxes being merely contractual, a claim therefor is not entitled to priority of payment as taxes legally owing by the bankrupt.[95] A trustee should not pay taxes which are secured where such payment would operate to the advantage of one third party against another.[96] One paying taxes legally due from a bankrupt is not thereby subrogated to the rights of the taxing power so as to be entitled to priority of payment.[97] The highest court of a state having declared that an annual charge imposed upon corporations is not a tax, the state is estopped to claim in the bankruptcy court that nevertheless it is included within the term "tax" as used in the bankruptcy act.[98] Costs of administering the estate rank third in the list of priorities.[99] Wages due workmen, clerks, or servants, which have been earned within three months before the date of the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings, not to exceed three hundred dollars to each claimant, are by the terms of the act given priority.[1] This includes wages owing at the date of bankruptcy, even though, by

88. In re Scherzer, 130 F. 631.

89. Clendening v. Red River Val. Nat. Bank [N. D.] 94 N. W. 901.

90. Livingstone v. Heineman [C. C. A.] 120 F. 786.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 330.

92. In re Stoever, 127 F. 394.

93. A city's claim against a bankrupt for taxes assessed against him, and legally due and owing, is entitled to priority of payment by the trustee, though the property on which the taxes were levied never came into the hands of the trustee. City of Waco v. Bryan [C. C. A.] 127 F. 79. Taxes as a class are given priority over everything. In re Prince, 131 F. 546.

94. There being a personal liability for assessments levied for local improvements they are entitled to preferred payment. In re Stalker, 123 F. 961. Value of property exceeded the amount of the taxes but was of less value than the mortgage debt and the taxes, property was sold under foreclosure decree subject to such taxes, held not entitled to priority of payment. Id. A tax being a charge upon the property alone it is not enforceable as a preferential claim against the bankrupt estate. In re Broom, 123 F. 639. Real property of a bankrupt being sold, delinquent municipal taxes must be paid from the fund realized from the sale, before any dividends are allowed in favor of the general creditors. In re Harvey, 122 F. 745. A city having a lien for an unpaid municipal tax on property of a bank is not, with reference to such taxes, a secured creditor within the meaning of the bankruptcy law. Id.

95. Claim for taxes assessed by a municipality against property of which the bankrupt was the lessee and which by his lease he contracted to pay. In re Broom, 123 F. 639.

96. In re Brinker, 128 F. 634.

97. Firm property was sold, about 10 years before the bankruptcy proceedings, taxes thereon were unpaid, of which fact the grantee had no knowledge and upon being forced to pay them obtained a judgment over against the firm and members thereof one of whom is the bankrupt. The grantee now claims to be subrogated to the rights of the city and hence entitled to priority of payment. Held a general creditor of bankrupt and not entitled to priority. Cooper Grocery Co. v. Bryan [C. C. A.] 127 F. 815. The purchaser at a foreclosure sale, having full knowledge of tax liens, is not entitled to demand relief by payment of the taxes, ostensibly to the municipality, but which in reality inures solely to his benefit, and when it may fairly be assumed that he bid in the incumbered property subject to existing liens for unpaid taxes and assessments. In re Brinker, 128 F. 634.

98. In re Danville Rolling Mill Co., 121 F. 432.

99. Cost of running hotel, maintaining good will, etc. In re Prince, 131 F. 546.

1. Act 1898, § 64b (4). In re B. H. Gladding Co., 120 F. 709; In re Harmon, 128 F. 170. Priority allowed wages is governed exclusively by § 64, cl. 4, of the Act of 1898, § 64, cl. 5, does not apply to wages. In re Slomka [C. C. A.] 122 F. 630. Laws N. Y. 1897, p. 772, c. 624, § 29, allowing wages, contract between the wage earner and bankrupt, payment is to be deferred to a date later than the date of bankruptcy.[2] This clause merely limits the priority to wages owing and which have accrued within the three months' period,[3] and hence includes vacation pay.[4] "Piece-workers" are entitled to this priority.[5] In order to give a claim for wages priority it must be due the wage earner,[6] if such wage earner assign his claim after proving it, the assignee will be subrogated to this priority,[7] but not if the claim is assigned before proof.[8] One cannot schedule his claim as an unsecured debt and then claim it as a priority.[9] One having a valid lien on land of the bankrupt need not prove his claim in order to preserve the lien,[10] and a creditor mistakenly waiving his lien is entitled to have such lien allowed, where no one has changed his position on the faith of such waiver.[11] Property being sold free from liens, money realized therefrom, undiminished by anything except the costs of the sale, goes to satisfy valid liens on such property according to their priority.[12] The proceeds of a sale of the bankrupt's property covered by an unrecorded mortgage being insufficient to pay the claims of creditors, who became such after the execution of the mortgage, the fund should be distributed exclusively among such subsequent creditors.[13] A materialman's inchoate interest or lien is superior to, and not cut off by, voluntary bankruptcy proceedings occurring after the materials were furnished, but before notice of the lien is filed.[14] A partnership being declared a bankrupt the net proceeds of the partnership property are appropriated to the payment of the partnership debts, and the net proceeds of the individual estate of each partner to the payment of his individual debts,[15] but joint debts of the partners cannot be proved against the partnership estate so as to share on an equality with firm creditors.[16] Where there are no partnership assets, and no solvent partner, firm creditors share pari passu with the individual creditors in the separate estate of a bankrupt partner,[17] and the creditors have the right, after applying the firm assets to the payment of their debts, to look to the earned within one year, priority, applies only where the assets are distributed under a general assignment. Id. Rev. St. Ohio 1890, §§ 3206a and 6355, are not inconsistent, the latter section dealing only with the funds in the hands of an assignee or trustee, and applies only to such laborers as are operatives. In re City Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 706. Under Rev. St. Ohio, § 6355, the claims of operatives of a bankrupt are not entitled to priority in the distribution of its estate as against a mortgage executed in good faith to secure bonds issued for money loaned, and a bona fide assignment of the bankrupt's equity in the bonds, executed more than six months before bankruptcy to secure a valid debt. Id.

2. Vacation payments withheld until the following January. In re B. H. Gladding Co., 120 F. 709.

3, 4. In re B. H. Gladding Co., 120 F. 709.

5. In re Gurewitz [C. C. A.] 121 F. 982.

6. One advancing money to an insolvent for the payment of pay rolls of the latter is not entitled to a priority. In re N. C. Car Co., 127 F. 178.

7. In re N. C. Car Co., 127 F. 178. A large number of laborers assigned their claims to two of their number in order to save costs in prosecuting suits against the bankrupt to recover such wages, the assignees agreeing to account to their assignors for the amount due each when collected. In re Harmon, 128 F. 170.

8. In re North Carolina Car Co., 127 F. 178.

9. Attorney representing bankrupt scheduled his claim for fees as an unsecured debt having priority by agreement, held, could not be allowed as a priority, though Act 1898, § 64, enacts that an attorney's fee provided for is a priority to be paid in full. In re Morris, 125 F. 841.

10. Lien of a city for municipal taxes. In re Harvey, 122 F. 745.

11. Creditors mistakenly supposed they had collected their claims by valid attachments. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co., 190 U. S. 552, 23 S. Ct. 778, 47 Law. Ed. 1179.

12. In re Prince, 131 F. 546.

13. In re Cannon, 121 F. 582.

14. Voluntary bankruptcy proceedings on the part of building contractors do not affect the right of materialmen to thereafter file and enforce their liens. Crane Co. v. Smythe, 87 N. Y. S. 917.

15. Where one partner a short time before bankruptcy of the partnership assumed all the debts of the partners and took the firm property, creditors cannot claim that firm creditors assenting thereto became individual creditors of such partner, and at the same time repudiate the transaction so far as relates to a transfer of firm property. In re Worth, 130 F. 927. Firm property goes primarily to pay firm debts. In re Groetzinger [C. C. A.] 127 F. 814.

16. In re L. B. Weisenberg & Co., 131 F. 517.

17. Conrader v. Cohen [C. C. A.] 121 F. 801; In re Janes, 128 F. 527.

surplus of the assets of the individual partners.[18] The mortgagee of a homestead is a secured creditor.[19] A surety discharging his obligations as surety to a bankrupt becomes an unsecured creditor.[20] Under the bankruptcy law creditors for the purchase price of goods stand on the same footing and share pro rata with other creditors.[21] One having a secret lien must, in order to retain priority, establish his claim by proof under the bankruptcy act the same as other creditors.[22] A lienor permitting, without objection, the property upon which he has a lien to be sold with other property of the bankrupt for a lump sum, he cannot assert a lien upon the proceeds where it is impossible to determine what part of the proceeds was produced by the property upon which he had a lien.[23]

(§ 14) F. Expenses of the proceeding.[24]—A receiver for an involuntary bankrupt continuing in the occupation of leased premises until the time of adjudication, the lessor is entitled to an allowance of his claim for rent until that time.[25] If, however, on the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, the bankrupt abandons leased premises, the lessor may take possession, and is limited in his recovery of rent to the date of the filing of the petition.[26] The allowance of an attorney's fee is in the discretion of the judge,[27] and whether it is reasonable or not is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal court,[28] the reasonableness of the amount to be determined upon evidence of the service performed and of its value,[29] or, in the absence of evidence of its value, by the court from knowledge of its worth.[30] A voluntary bankrupt's attorney can recover only the reasonable value of the services actually required, irrespective of the services rendered,[31] he cannot recover for clerical work.[32] The attorney for petitioning creditors is entitled to a reasonable fee as of right.[33] The attorneys for unsecured creditors are not en-

18. Gray v. Brunold, 140 Cal. 615, 74 P. 303.

19. Within the definition of the act making the term include a creditor who has security on property of a nature to be assignable thereunder. Fenley v. Poor [C. C. A.] 121 F. 739.

20. Livingstone v. Heineman [C. C. A.] 120 F. 786.

21. In re Campbell, 124 F. 417.

22. Lien of a landlord, for rent due him, on property of the tenant, the amount being, at the time of the tenant's bankruptcy, unadjudicated. In re Hayward, 130 F. 720.

23. Landlord had right to distrain stock and fixtures of a saloon for rent, allowed the stock and fixtures to be sold with the license, the latter a valuable asset, and was present in court when the sale was confirmed making no objection. In re Smith, 123 F. 188.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 331.

25. In re Hinckel Brewing Co., 123 F. 942. On the bankruptcy of a tenant of a farm on shares his trustee occupied the farm buildings until the crops were sold, held the landlord was entitled to compensation for the trustee's use and occupation thereof. In re Luckenbill, 127 F. 984.

26. In re Hinckel Brewing Co., 123 F. 942.

27. In re Morris, 125 F. 841. See 1 Curr. L. 331, n. 71.

28. Swartz v. Frank [Mo.] 82 S. W. 60.

29. Elements of value are these, "The nature of the service, time necessarily employed therein, the amount involved, the responsibility assumed, and the result obtained." Quoted from In re Curtis [C. C. A.] 100 F. 785, 786, and approved and concurred in in Smith v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 120 F. 230.

Illustrations: A fee of $1,000 allowed to attorneys, who obtained an order adjudging a debtor a bankrupt in involuntary proceedings, and brought proceedings to have the property of the debtor in the hands of a receiver in insolvency appointed by a state court turned over to the trustee in bankruptcy which proceeding was carried to the United States supreme court. Finally a compromise was effected whereby $2,500 was turned over to the trustee. Held not excessive. Smith v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 120 F. 230. An allowance of $75 is sufficient to attorneys for a voluntary bankrupt for services, consisting principally in preparing and filing the petition and schedules, the estate being worth $7,500. In re Lang, 127 F. 755. Where the bankrupt estate exclusive of exemptions did not exceed $5,500, payment by assignee for benefit of creditors and trustee in bankruptcy of $125 attorney's fees and $21.75 for serving notices and mileage is sufficient. Further payments properly disallowed by referee. In re Byerly, 128 F. 637.

30. Smith v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 120 F. 230.

31. In re Connell & Sons, 120 F. 846; In re Goldville Mfg. Co., 123 F. 579. May be allowed for services actually rendered in good faith for the real purpose of impartially administering the estate. Represented bankrupts at examination. In re Rosenthal, 120 F. 848. [The opinion by what is apparently a typographical error refers to the proceeding as an involuntary one.]

32. Posting bankrupt's books, writing extra copies of the schedules. In re Connell & Sons, 120 F. 846.

33. Smith v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 120 F. 230. See 1 Curr. L. 331, n. 73 titled to compensation, for services rendered in unsuccessfully contesting the validity of security given other creditors, from a fund realized by the sale of such security.[34] Where two involuntary petitions, filed by attorneys representing different creditors, are consolidated by order of the court, a single attorney's fee should be divided between such attorneys according to the relative value and amount of work done by each.[35] A creditor being re-examined as to his claim, he is entitled to reasonable traveling expenses if his claim is finally allowed, but not his counsel fees.[36] Property subject to liens being sold by consent of the lienors, the referee and trustee are entitled to commissions on the purchase price in full,[37] and the same is true where it is sold free from incumbrances.[38] A referee is not entitled to commissions on a fund belonging to secured creditors.[39] Under the act of 1898 the bankruptcy court had power to allow extra compensation to referees in cases where matters in litigation were referred to them as special masters.[40] A referee refusing to allow expenditures made by a trustee, the latter is the only one that can except thereto.[41] Where the methods of creditors cause a confusion of the claims the trustee should not be charged with the costs of a proceeding to determine issues arising out of such confusion.[42] Costs arising from the contest of a claim waged for the purpose of controlling the election of the trustee will not be allowed from the estate.[43]

(§ 14) G. Expenses of receivers and assignees appointed prior to bankruptcy proceedings.[44]—The court making the first adjudication in bankruptcy is the proper court to compensate a receiver appointed in another district pending action upon an involuntary petition therein.[45] The appointment of a receiver being erroneous or void, and being successfully contested, the receiver's compensation and the expenses of administration should be taxed to the parties who applied for the appointment,[46] if, however, the appointment is sustained, the items of expenses growing out of the receivership are proper charges against the unsuccessful contestant, and are chargeable and payable from his property in the possession of the court.[47] The referee is entitled to commissions on all moneys which are disbursed to creditors by the trustee,[48] this includes all sums which would have been paid through the trustee but for an outside agreement between the parties and their attorneys,[49] but prior to the amendment of 1903 this included only such sums as were paid to creditors having provable and allowed claims.[50] The only extra allowances allowable to a referee are for expenses necessarily incurred, a detailed account thereof being kept and returned to the court, verified by the oath of the referee that they were necessarily and actually incurred, with proper vouchers when procurable.[51] Referees cannot be allowed postage for notices sent in penalty envelopes.[52] A re-

34. In re Goldville Mfg. Co., 123 F. 579.
35. In re McCracken & McLeod, 129 F. 621.
36. In re George Watkinson & Co., 130 F. 218.
37. In re Sanford Furniture Mfg. Co., 126 F. 888.
38. Even though purchased by the party holding the incumbrance. In re Sanford Furniture Mfg. Co., 126 F. 888.
39. Mortgage. In re Goldville Mfg. Co., 123 F. 579.
40. It seems that by the amendment of 1903 to § 40a this rule has been abrogated. In re Goldville Mfg. Co., 123 F. 579.
41. Expenditures for counsel fees partially rejected. Held counsel could not except thereto. In re Byerly, 128 F. 637.
42. Dowse v. Hammond [C. C. A.] 130 F. 103.
43. In re Worth, 130 F. 927.
44. See 1 Curr. L. 332.
45. In re Sears, Humbert & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 275.
46. Expenses for feed and care of stock are "expenses of the receivership." Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 513.
47. Beach v. Macon Grocery Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 513.
48. In re Sanford Furniture Mfg. Co., 126 F. 888.
49. Agreement to sell the property free from a deed of trust. In re Sanford Furniture Mfg. Co., 126 F. 888.
50. Did not include money paid to satisfy fixed liens on realty sold by him though property was sold free from incumbrances and the liens satisfied from the proceeds. In re Hinckel Brewing Co., 124 F. 702.
51, 52. In re Daniels, 130 F. 597.

ceiver having charge of an involuntary bankrupt's estate before adjudication may be awarded the full maximum fixed for the compensation of a trustee, without reference to the compensation afterwards awarded to the latter.[53] The assignee under a bona fide[54] assignment for the benefit of creditors made prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy has a lien on the assets of the estate for his necessary disbursements and reasonable compensation for such services as were beneficial to the estate,[55] and the surrender by him of all the assets to the trustee in bankruptcy does not deprive him of the right to apply to the bankruptcy court for the payment of the amount of such lien.[56] That the assignee is appointed the trustee makes no difference.[57] Claims for services rendered to the assignee may be allowed to the same extent as if the assignee had paid them.[58] An attorney is only entitled to compensation for such services, rendered a state receiver, as are beneficial to the estate,[59] but he will not be allowed for such services as were beneficial, where as a whole, his services cost the estate and general creditors several times that amount in increased expenses of administration.[60] A charge for the preparation of the deed of assignment constituting the act of bankruptcy may be proved as an unpreferred claim.[61] An attachment being dissolved by subsequent proceedings in bankruptcy the sheriff is nevertheless entitled to his fees and outlay in preserving the property up to the time title passed to the trustee.[62]

§ 15. Distribution of assets.[63]—The administration and distribution of the property of a bankrupt is a proceeding in equity.[64] The statute of limitations of the state of a bankrupt's residence, and in which he is adjudged a bankrupt, governs and determines the rights of creditors in the administration of the bankrupt's estate.[65] One receiving money as the result of an audit after hearing will be protected by the order of the referee until it is set aside by proceedings taken directly for that purpose.[66] The distribution of the proceeds of a sale of real estate made by a trustee in bankruptcy is reviewable by the circuit court of appeals by a petition for review.[67]

§ 16. Exemptions.[68]—Under the national bankruptcy act, bankrupts are allowed the exemptions prescribed by the laws of the state in which the petition is filed, they having been domiciled in said state for the six months immedi-

53. Is not limited to an amount to be deducted from the trustee's maximum in proportion to the relative services rendered. In re Richards, 127 F. 772.

54. An assignment containing no secret trust and being without fraud in fact, and made in an honest attempt to have the property administered for the benefit of the creditors, and the assignee acting honestly and carefully, though constituting an act of bankruptcy is not fraudulent in law. Summers v. Abbott [C. C. A.] 122 F. 36.

55. In re Chase [C. C. A.] 124 F. 753; Randolph v. Scruggs, 190 U. S. 533, 23 S. Ct. 710, 47 Law. Ed. 1165; In re Levitt, 126 F. 889; In re Congdon, 129 F. 478.

56. In re Chase [C. C. A.] 124 F. 753.

57. In re Byerly, 128 F. 637.

58. Compensation for legal services rendered in unsuccessfully resisting an adjudication in bankruptcy are not allowable. Randolph v. Scruggs, 190 U. S. 533, 23 S. Ct. 710, 47 Law. Ed. 1165.

59. Is not entitled to compensation for services rendered the effect of which was to aid certain creditors in retaining preferences in violation of the bankruptcy law. In re M. Zier & Co., 127 F. 399. An attorney procuring a general assignment resulting in a detriment to the estate, and which was not only in law but in fact a fraud upon the bankruptcy law, is not entitled to compensation for services rendered therein. In re Congdon, 129 F. 478.

60. In re M. Zier & Co., 127 F. 399.

61. The deed being avoided by an adjudication in bankruptcy of the assignor. Randolph v. Scruggs, 190 U. S. 533, 23 S. Ct. 710, 47 Law. Ed. 1165.

62. Sheriff given a lien for such fees and expenditures by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 709, 3307, 3343, subd. 12. In this case the trustee came into the action pending in the state court. Wilkinson v. Raymond, 80 App. Div. 378, 81 N. Y. S. 82.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 327.

64. When authorized by act of Congress, it becomes a branch of equity jurisprudence. In re Rochford [C. C. A.] 124 F. 182.

65. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Hudson [C. C. A.] 122 F. 232.

66. In re Wilkesbarre Furniture Mfg. Co., 130 F. 796.

67. In re Groetzinger & Sons [C. C. A.] 127 F. 124.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 332.

ately preceding the filing of the petition,[69] the enumeration of exemptions in § 70 applying only to property not exempt by the state laws.[70] The bankruptcy court has exclusive jurisdiction to determine claims of bankrupts to their exemptions,[71] though the trustee can set apart the exemption and pass upon such objections as may be made by creditors to his so doing,[72] and in setting aside, after appraisal, property claimed by the bankrupt as exempt, the trustee acts ministerially.[73] The court of bankruptcy, being a court of equity, will construe exemption laws liberally.[74] In states where life insurance policies are not exempt, only the surrender value at the date of bankruptcy goes to the creditors, and the bankrupt by securing the payment of an equal sum may hold the policy free from claims of creditors.[75] The surrender value referred to in § 70 refers only to the contract right of surrender;[76] nor does § 70 include policies payable to a wife or kindred of the assured.[77] An exemption in bankruptcy is of no avail as against the holder of a purchase-money mortgage or judgment therefor, when the holder of such mortgage or judgment does not prove his debt in bankruptcy.[78] A bankrupt cannot claim an exemption out of a preference that has been recovered back by the trustee.[79] A bankrupt occupying land as a homestead under a contract of purchase, the trustee is entitled to redeem the land and subject such portion thereof as does not constitute the bankrupt's homestead to the payment of his debts.[80] The time and manner of claiming such exemptions, and of setting apart and awarding them, are regulated by the bankruptcy act.[81] It is therein provided that the bankrupt shall claim his exemptions in his schedules,[82] and the trustee must set off such property to him and report the items, with their estimated value, to the court for approval;[83] the assent of the creditors cannot dispense with these formalities.[84] A bankrupt's schedules containing a waiver of his exemptions may be amended so as to allow him to claim them where he shows the waiver to have been the subject of accident or mistake,[85] and the application for leave to amend is made seasonably.[86] A bankrupt having properly claimed his exemption, it can-

69. See title Exemptions, 1 Curr. L. 1192, for what constitutes.
Act of 1898, § 6. Pulsifer v. Hussey, 97 Me. 434, 54 A. 1076; In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990; In re Kane [C. C. A.] 127 F. 552. The only question to be determined by the bankruptcy court upon an application by a bankrupt for his exemptions is whether or not he is entitled to the same as against general creditors. In re Brumbaugh, 128 F. 971. See 1 Curr. L. 332, n. 80, 81.

70. Pulsifer v. Hussey, 97 Me. 434, 54 A. 1076.

71. Has jurisdiction of a claim of a creditor asserting an equitable lien on property, the bankrupt claims exempt. In re Lucius, 124 F. 455; Thompson v. Ragan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1684, 78 S. W. 485.

72. Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 150.

73. No presumption arises that property so set aside has been paid for. In re Campbell, 124 F. 417.

74. In re Kane [C. C. A.] 127 F. 552.

75. This construction harmonizes §§ 6 and 70. Pulsifer v. Hussey, 97 Me. 434, 54 A. 1076.

76. By terms of policy, cash surrender value was determined, and if desired, allowed only at the termination of five-year periods; held not to refer to a custom of the company of allowing this to be done at the expiration of yearly periods. Pulsifer v. Hussey, 97 Me. 434, 54 A. 1076.

77. Pulsifer v. Hussey, 97 Me. 434, 54 A. 1076.

78. Camp v. Young, 119 Ga. 981, 47 S. E. 560.

79. In re Coddington, 126 F. 891.

80. Duffield v. Dosh [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1074.

81. In re Kane [C. C. A.] 127 F. 552; In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990. Though a state law may require a bankrupt to claim his exemption out of the property before the sale, the bankruptcy court may allow him to take it from the proceeds after sale. In re Stein, 130 F. 629. A state statute required a debtor to select the specific personal property he claims as exempt; a court of bankruptcy is not bound to require such selection where it is for the best interest of all concerned, and where specific property being mortgaged cannot be selected and set apart as exempt, it may properly permit such property to be sold as an entirety, and award the bankrupt his exemption from the proceeds. In re Kane [C. C. A.] 127 F. 552.

82. In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990; In re Lucius, 124 F. 455; In re Coddington, 126 F. 891; In re Prince, 131 F. 546. See 1 Curr. L. 332, n. 82.

83, 84. In re Prince, 131 F. 546.

85. Parol evidence is admissible to show this. In re White, 128 F. 513.

86. Where eleven months elapsed, he must show a sufficient excuse for the delay, parol evidence being admissible to prove the cause of the delay. In re White, 128 F. 513.

not be diminished by, or put aside in favor of, the costs and expenses made in the proceedings,[87] even where the latter have been taken to preserve the property.[88] The burden of proof is upon the bankrupt to show that he is entitled to the exemptions.[89] Any party having an interest in the result may object to the allowance of an exemption.[90] No issue as to the bankrupt's right to exemptions arises until exceptions are filed to the trustee's report.[91] Lack of verification to an exception to the report of a trustee setting apart the bankrupt's exemptions is not jurisdictional.[92] The bankruptcy court in some cases will direct that a receiver set aside and preserve specific property which a bankrupt wishes to claim as exempt, and which otherwise would be sold,[93] and may, upon his giving a bond for its return, authorize its delivery to such bankrupt pending the determination of his right thereto.[94] A discharge will be withheld so as to enable a debtor to test his right to the bankrupt's exemption in the state courts.[95]

A bankruptcy court acquires no right to administer upon or distribute exempt property, even though its aid may be required to set it aside,[96] and this is true, though the creditor has agreed to waive the exemption as to a particular creditor,[97] and any attempt to do so is made in the course of a bankruptcy proceeding and is reviewable on petition to revise.[98] The bankrupt may become estopped to deny this power in the bankruptcy court.[99] The trustee in bankruptcy acquires no title to exempt property duly claimed.[1]

§ 17. Death of bankrupt pending proceedings.[2]—The allowance to the widow and children of a bankrupt dying during the proceedings is governed by the laws of the state of the bankrupt's residence,[3] and may be made by the bankruptcy

87. In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990. See 1 Curr. L. 333, n. 95.

88. As where it is perishable, a sale is ordered and made by a receiver. In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990.

89. Under the Virginia statute, must prove that such property has been paid for. In re Campbell, 124 F. 417.

90. Under the Virginia statute, not allowing a bankrupt to claim unpaid property as an exemption, any creditor may object to the allowance of such property as an exemption, without showing that his claim is for the purchase price of any of such property. In re Campbell, 124 F. 417. Creditors having claims for the unpaid purchase price of exempt property, and claiming the right to have it sold and the proceeds applied to such claims, are the proper persons to present such question. In re Boyd, 120 F. 999.

91. In re Campbell, 124 F. 417.

92. Where objection is not made on hearing before the referee, objection cannot be made on a review of his decision before the court. It is doubtful if such exception comes within the term "pleadings" as used in the act of 1898, § 18c, requiring all pleadings to be verified. In re Campbell, 124 F. 417.

93. In re N. Shaffer & Son, 128 F. 988; In re Joyce, 128 F. 985. His exemption being properly made, a sale by a receiver before adjudication made because of the perishable character of the goods will not deprive the bankrupt of his right to the proceeds. In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990.

94. In re N. Shaffer & Son, 128 F. 986.

95. Judgment obtained in a tort action against which exemptions were nonavailable. In re Brumbaugh, 128 F. 971. Where the exemption is waived, the creditor's remedy is in a court of equity. In Georgia, the property being of a perishable nature, the court will appoint a receiver to take charge of it until the judgment in rem is obtained. Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 150.

96. In re Le Vay, 125 F. 990; McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433; Lockwood v. Exch. Bank, 190 U. S. 294, 23 S. Ct. 751, 47 Law. Ed. 1061. Trustee cannot administer the property exempt. Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 150.

97. Lockwood v. Exch. Bank, 190 U. S. 294, 23 S. Ct. 751, 47 Law. Ed. 1061. Has no power to order sale of homestead, exempt under the state laws, because a particular creditor may have the right under such laws to subject it to the payment of his debt. Ingram v. Wilson [C. C. A.] 125 F. 913. Trustee cannot determine the rights of creditors asserting waivers against it. Bell v. Dawson Grocery Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 150.

98. Under Act 1898, § 24, it is not a case where an appeal is expressly authorized by § 25 of that act. In this case bankruptcy court directed sale of exempt property. Ingram v. Wilson [C. C. A.] 125 F. 913.

99. A bankrupt invoking the benefits of the bankruptcy law and thereby precluding the seller of exempt property from obtaining a judgment and levying execution thereon is estopped to object that the court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to order such property sold, and the proceeds applied to the unpaid purchase price, on the ground that no judgment had been recovered or execution levied as required by the Iowa statute. In re Boyd, 120 F. 999.

1. McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 333.

3. Act 1898, § 8. In re Newton, 122 F. 103. See 1 Curr. L. 333, n. 7.

court from the bankrupt's estate in accordance with the state statutes.[4] The widow of a bankrupt is entitled to dower out of land conveyed by her husband to his "assignee" in bankruptcy, she not having joined in the deed nor received anything in lieu thereof.[5]

§ 18. Referees, proceedings before them and review thereof.[6]—Referees in bankruptcy are judicial officers,[7] and their orders made in the course of bankruptcy proceedings are entitled to the respect and credit due to officers who act judicially.[8] A proceeding before a referee in bankruptcy to recover a debt is analogous to an action brought for the same purpose.[9] In proceedings for contempts before a referee, the latter must certify the facts to the judge.[10] A witness is not subject to attachment for failing to appear and testify before a referee in obedience to a subpoena, unless his mileage and one day's attendance fees are paid or tendered to him.[11] A bankrupt is not exempt from prosecution for an offense growing out of a transaction concerning which he testified before the referee,[12] and may refuse to answer criminating questions.[13] The jurisdiction with which a referee is invested is made expressly subject to review by the judge of a court of bankruptcy,[14] and this power of review in the latter is exclusive.[15] Upon a proper petition for a review of any order, the referee should forthwith certify to the judge the question presented, a summary of the evidence relating thereto, and his finding or order thereon.[16] A referee in bankruptcy has power to rule on the admissibility of evidence offered before him,[17] and is bound to personally hear the evidence unless his presence is waived by the parties.[18] Evidence taken before him to be available on appeal must be included in the record certified to the district court, and the certificate of the referee must show that it is the evidence so taken before him.[19] A referee's findings of fact will not be reversed upon appeal unless they are flagrantly against the weight of the evidence,[20] and the burden of proof is upon the objectors to show the facts to be as they insist.[21] Docket entries of a referee are the best evidence of matters therein stated,[22] and the record of a referee, in so far as it shows what was adjudicated, is conclusive

4. In Connecticut, they are entitled to such an amount as is necessary for their support. In re Newton, 122 F. 103.

5. That husband was paid his homestead exemption which he applied to wife's use makes no difference. It seems as though the court used the term "assignee" in place of "trustee." Cravens v. Shippen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1322, 77 S. W. 929.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 333. See, also, ante, § 14 B, Sale by trustee.

7. Clendening v. Red River Val. Nat. Bank [N. D.] 94 N. W. 901.

8. Adjudications upon the allowance or rejection of the claims of creditors. Clendening v. Red River Val. Nat. Bank [N. D.] 94 N. W. 901.

9. Legislature by an act cannot effect the reversal of a judgment already rendered. In re Stalker, 123 F. 961.

10. A witness failing to attend an application for an attachment in the first instance, without such certificate from the referee, is irregular. In re Kerber, 125 F. 653.

11. In re Kerber, 125 F. 653. See 1 Curr. L. 334, n. 12.

12. Burrell v. Mont., 194 U. S. 572, 24 S. Ct. 787.

13. Questions as to accuracy of a creditor's proof and the identifying of his signature to notes and his checkbook, held must be answered. In re Levin, 131 F. 388.

14. Brown v. Persons [C. C. A.] 122 F. 212.

15. State courts are without authority to review, revise or reverse adjudications of the referee. Clendening v. Red River Val. Nat. Bank [N. D.] 94 N. W. 901.

16. Transmitting to the clerk the notes of the testimony, his own opinion and the creditors' petition for a review is not a compliance with Bankr. Rule 27. In re Kurtz, 125 F. 992.

17, 18. In re Wilde's Sons, 131 F. 142.

19. Where the certificate of the referee is silent as regards any evidence, and a subsequent certificate attached to certain evidence sought to be made a part of the record was not certified to the district court until six days after it had affirmed the findings and judgment of the referee, held, such evidence not properly in record and not before appellate court. In re French, 13 Okl. 549, 75 P. 278; In re Cohen, 131 F. 391.

20. A finding that a private banker was engaged chiefly in farming. Couts v. Townsend, 126 F. 249. Finding of referee refusing discharge. In re Shriver, 125 F. 511; In re Williams, 120 F. 542. See 1 Curr. L. 334, n. 22-25.

21. Finding of a referee that certain moneys are the proceeds of property pledged to a lienholder. In re Williams, 120 F. 542.

22. Davis v. Ives, 75 Conn. 611, 54 A. 922.

and cannot be contradicted by parol evidence.[23] Papers used in a proceeding before a referee in bankruptcy may be certified either by the referee or clerk.[24]

§ 19. Modification and vacation of orders of bankruptcy court.[25]—In the absence of statutory prohibition, a court of bankruptcy has, generally, power to amend its decrees in its discretion,[26] and hence a judge of a court of bankruptcy has the power to vacate an order discharging a trustee.[27]

§ 20. Appeal and review in bankruptcy cases.—An appeal must be taken within ten days after the rendition of judgment,[28] which fact must appear in the record,[29] the record on appeal must be filed within the time allowed by law,[30] or an application for an extension must be made before the expiration of that time,[31] and the record must be complete,[32] or the appeal will be dismissed. Neither the bankruptcy act nor any rule of court limits the time within which a petition for review in bankruptcy may be filed,[33] but it has been held that no appeal or petition for review being taken from a final decree for over a year it becomes final and cannot be set aside or modified on motion.[34] A rehearing will not be granted upon the pretense of reconsidering the merits of the case, where the real purpose is to revive the petitioner's right of appeal,[35] but the district court cannot entertain a motion for a rehearing so long as an appeal is pending.[36] The circuit courts of appeal have power to summarily revise territorial district courts within their respective circuits as to matters of law arising in bankruptcy proceedings.[37] An intervening petition to reach a fund in the bankruptcy court, being incident to the claim, is a bankruptcy proceeding,[38] but a decree thereon is not an independent ground of appeal, where it is not "a judgment allowing or rejecting a debt or claim of $500 or over."[39] Whenever, in a suit in which a bankruptcy court is marshaling and distributing assets, any intervening party raises a distinct and separable

23. Testimony of a referee that he did not undertake to adjudicate a creditor's claim is inadmissible, it being directly contradictory to the necessary legal effect of his written order allowing said claim. Clendening v. Red River Val. Nat. Bank [N. D.] 94 N. W. 901.

24. Is not error to admit such papers in evidence when certified by the referee. McLanahan v. Blackwell, 119 Ga. 64, 45 S. E. 785.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 334.

26. In re Bimberg, 121 F. 942.

27. Where an order of a district court sustaining a claim of privilege of a witness is reversed by the circuit court of appeals and remanded for further proceedings, the district court properly vacated an order previously made by the referee discharging the trustee. Brown v. Persons [C. C. A.] 122 F. 212.

28. Act 1898, § 25a. From a decree granting a discharge. Williams Bros. v. Savage [C. C. A.] 120 F. 497. Where a district court disapproved a finding of fact by a referee on the disallowance of a claim, but entered no order in the matter, afterwards the referee entered an order allowing the claim, which was approved and confirmed by the court, held that an appeal taken within 10 days of the confirmation of the order allowing the claim was proper. Rush v. Lake [C. C. A.] 122 F. 561.

29. Williams Bros. v. Savage [C. C. A.] 120 F. 497.

30. Appeal from an order allowing a claim. In re Alden Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 415.

31. In re Alden Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 415.

32. Must contain all the papers, exhibits, depositions, and other proceedings necessary to the hearing in the appellate court. Williams Bros. v. Savage [C. C. A.] 120 F. 497.

33. Ordinarily by analogy such petition ought to be filed within six months, but that it is not is not conclusive ground for dismissal. Where owing to the unavoidable disappearance of important evidence, the judge below made two orders extending the time for filing the record in the appellate court, a reasonable excuse is afforded. In re Groetzinger & Sons [C. C. A.] 127 F. 124.

34. In re Hoyt & Mitchell, 127 F. 968.

35. If entitled to relief for that purpose the facts must be shown in the petition. In re Girard Glazed Kid Co., 129 F. 841.

36. First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 430.

37. The summary revisory power of the circuit court of appeals for the eighth circuit extends to questions of law arising in the progress of bankruptcy proceedings in a district court of Oklahoma territory, which is assigned to the eighth circuit, although jurisdiction by appeal or writ of error is vested in the territorial supreme court. Plymouth Cordage Co. v. Smith, 194 U. S. 311, 24 S. Ct. 725.

38. Petition filed by creditors asserting a lien upon proceeds of a seat in a stock exchange which had not been insisted upon because they mistakenly supposed they had collected their claims by valid attachments. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co., 190 U. S. 552, 23 S. Ct. 778, 47 Law. Ed. 1179.

39. Act of 1898, § 25a, 3. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co., 190 U. S. 552, 23 S. Ct. 778, 47 Law. Ed. 1179.

issue or controversy involving substantial pecuniary rights, an appeal lies from an order entered thereon.[40] An appeal cannot be taken from a decision of a circuit court of appeals, allowing or rejecting a claim, to the United States supreme court, except upon a certificate of a justice of the supreme court,[41] or where the amount involved exceeds $2,000, and the questions are such as might have been taken up from the highest court of a state.[42] An appeal lies to the United States supreme court from a judgment of a circuit court of appeals entered upon an appeal from a judgment of a court of bankruptcy, sustaining a title to property in the possession of a trustee in bankruptcy, asserted by intervention raising a distinct and separable issue.[43] A judgment creditor may become a "party aggrieved" and therefore entitled to prosecute a petition for review of an order of the bankruptcy court.[44] Orders and decrees in a bankruptcy proceeding cannot be reviewed by writs of error.[45] The power of the appellate court to review, by original petition, the ruling of the bankruptcy court extends only to an order made in the bankruptcy proceedings proper, and does not embrace proceedings in suits by the trustee in bankruptcy,[46] and the appellate court cannot entertain a petition to revise in matter of law, where questions of fact are involved therein.[47] An appeal duly taken from an order in bankruptcy may be treated as a petition for revision, where the latter is the proper mode of review and only a question of law is presented.[48] Certiorari is the proper method of obtaining a review, in the supreme court of the United States, of a decision of the circuit court of appeals upon a petition for revision of an order of the district court allowing an exemption.[49] An assignment of error must be filed in the court below before an appeal is allowed,[50] and such assignment operates as a limitation upon such appeal.[51] On an appeal from an order dismissing an involuntary petition, an appeal bond must be given, approved, and filed in the trial court,[52] and such fact must appear upon the record,[53] but the appeal being taken within the time prescribed by the bankruptcy act, failure to file a bond and serve the citation until a few days after the expiration of that time does not invalidate the appeal.[54] The record on an appeal in bankruptcy not clearly setting forth facts necessary to a determination of the questions involved, it will be remanded to the district court, with directions to have the facts fully reported to

40. The case then presenting a controversy within the meaning of § 24a of the Act 1898. Issue was as to whether a partnership or an individual partner owned the property. Burleigh v. Foreman [C. C. A.] 125 F. 217.

41. Construing Act 1898, §§ 24a, 25b. and § 6, Act March 3, 1891, 26 Stat. 828, c. 517 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 549], creating the circuit court of appeals. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 14.

42. Hutchinson v. Otis, Wilcox & Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 14.

43. Hewit v. Berlin Mach. Works, 194 U. S. 296, 24 S. Ct. 690.

44. Assignee of a judgment creditor who alone proved his claim against the bankrupt estate applied to have the estate reopened, on the ground that assets had been fraudulently conveyed, the court below discharged a restraining order and refused an injunction to restrain a further transfer, but appointed a trustee, none having been previously appointed, held could prosecute a petition for review. Clark v. Pidcock [C. C. A.] 129 F. 745.

45. A bankruptcy proceeding is a proceeding in equity. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 128 F. 279.

46. Mortgagee in possession of property of the bankrupt turned the same over to the trustee to sell, the proceeds to be turned into the registry of the bankruptcy court, the right of property to follow the fund, held, action of bankruptcy court in determining mortgagee's rights reviewable by appellate court. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249.

47. Whether a court of bankruptcy erred in ordering a sale of property free from incumbrances. In re Union Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 937.

48. Chesapeake Shoe Co. v. Seldner [C. C. A.] 122 F. 593.

49. The revising order is not a final decision allowing or rejecting a claim within the meaning of § 25b, of the Act of 1898. Holden v. Stratton, 191 U. S. 115, 24 S. Ct. 45.

50. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584; Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 128 F. 279.

51. Points not covered by assignment of error cannot be reviewed. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

52, 53. In re Miller, 13 Okl. 557, 75 P. 1128.

54. No material prejudice was shown. Columbia Ironworks v. National Lead Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 99.

it and to pass on same.[55] An appeal lying under the bankruptcy act, the dissatisfied litigant may appeal both as to law and facts,[56] or may, where a question of law is concerned, raise that alone by a revisory petition. On a petition to revise a court of bankruptcy in a matter of law, findings which involve a distinct proposition of law or a substitute therefor are necessary.[57] A petition for review being filed, the proceeding must be prosecuted to a hearing and determination with reasonable diligence.[58] In order to maintain on appeal an objection that a claim was not allowed within one year, and therefore its allowance was erroneous, the transcript must show the date of the adjudication.[59] The circuit court of appeals may on appeal review a question of fact,[60] but it will not reverse a finding of fact by a referee and affirmed by the district court, unless manifestly against the weight of the evidence.[61] The appellate court upon a petition to review cannot challenge the facts, or an inference of fact, found by the court below,[62] it can only consider and rule upon questions of law.[63] Objections to the jurat on the specifications of objection to a bankrupt's discharge,[64] or that the goods of the bankrupt have not been properly inventoried,[65] cannot be made for the first time upon a petition to review. Appellate courts will not interfere in administrative matters where no substantial interests are concerned.[66] An order of dismissal will not be reversed upon appeal because of an immaterial departure from the technical rules of procedure.[67] Sufficient facts being alleged and proved to warrant the adjudication, the latter will not be set aside upon appeal because other acts alleged were neither properly pleaded nor sufficiently proved.[68]

§ 21. Trustee's bonds; actions thereon.[69]—An action upon a trustee's bond must be brought in the name of the United States,[70] it may be brought without first obtaining leave,[71] in a state court,[72] and the defaulting trustee being a fugitive from justice he is not a necessary party.[73] Payments made by a trustee in bankruptcy in violation of the rules, and without an order therefor, being disallowed,

55. Devries v. Shanahan [C. C. A.] 122 F. 629.

56. Burleigh v. Foreman [C. C. A.] 125 F. 217.

57. Cannot be supplied by the opinion of the court. In some cases involving issues of a substantial character justice might require the relaxation of the above rule. In re Boston Dry Goods Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 226.

58. Allowing two years and nine months to pass from the time of the filing of the petition before any real effort to prosecute the proceeding is made is such laches that the petition will be dismissed. In re Koenig, 127 F. 891.

59. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

60. As to whether or not a claim should have been allowed. Rush v. Lake [C. C. A.] 122 F. 561.

61. In re Noyes Bros. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 286. Action to recover a preference. Hodges v. Kohn [S. C.] 45 S. E. 102. Findings on an accounting of rent. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584. There being no distinct findings upon a question of fact by either the referee or the bankruptcy court, the appellate court is not aided in its consideration of the case by the weight which ordinarily attaches to findings of courts of the first instance. Burleigh v. Foreman [C. C. A.] 130 F. 13.

62, 63. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249.

64. Godshalk Co. v. Sterling [C. C. A.] 129 F. 580.

65. In re Shoe & Leather Reporter [C. C. A.] 129 F. 588.

66. Will not interfere with an order of the district court fixing the minimum bid for the sale of assets of the bankrupt, and that a certain proportion of such price might be paid in bonds secured by a mortgage upon said assets. In re Shoe & Leather Reporter [C. C. A.] 129 F. 588.

67. Verdict of jury being advisory only, and the case being tried upon its merits, that immaterial issues were submitted to the jury is not sufficient for reversal. Oil Well Supply Co. v. Hall [C. C. A.] 128 F. 875.

68. In re Lynan [C. C. A.] 127 F. 123.

69. See 1 Curr. L. 334.

70. Cannot be brought in the name of the succeeding trustee, though in a state where actions must be brought in the name of the real party in interest. Alexander v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co., 89 App. Div. 3, 85 N. Y. S. 282.

71. Alexander v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co., 89 App. Div. 3, 85 N. Y. S. 282.

72. The supreme court of New York, having general jurisdiction, has jurisdiction of such an action. Alexander v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co., 89 App. Div. 3, 85 N. Y. S. 282.

73. Though a proper one. Alexander v. Union Surety & Guaranty Co., 89 App. Div. 3, 85 N. Y. S. 282.

the trustee and his bondsmen are liable therefor, though the court might have authorized such payments had the trustee applied for authority to make them.[74]

§ 22. Discharge of bankrupt; its effect and how availed of. A. Procedure to obtain discharge and vacation thereof.[75]—The failure of a bankrupt to apply for a discharge within the time allowed by law renders the question of his right to a discharge from those debts in a proceeding under a subsequent petition res adjudicata.[76] A bankrupt being allowed to file his petition for a discharge more than a year after adjudication, the only question open is whether or not he is entitled to a discharge,[77] creditors seeking to oppose it being confined to statutory objections,[78] and the court entertaining such a petition upon an insufficient showing, the remedy is a motion to vacate.[79] A bankrupt filing a petition for his discharge and taking no further steps in the matter for over a year is chargeable with an abuse of the bankruptcy proceedings for the purpose of delaying creditors, and on petition by a creditor his application for discharge will be dismissed.[80]

Notice of petition for discharge must be sent to creditors at their respective addresses.[81] An objecting creditor has no right to enter an appearance after the return day, and should not be allowed to do so, except for good cause shown in excuse of the delay.[82] The burden of proof is upon the opposing creditor to establish the ground for refusing the discharge by satisfactory and sufficient evidence.[83] Upon the hearing of the petition for a discharge and specifications in opposition thereto, the testimony of the bankrupt given at the first meeting of creditors is admissible,[84] but not the testimony of other witnesses taken at that time,[85] and the taking of the testimony by the referee of witnesses other than the bankrupt, upon petition for discharge and specifications in opposition thereto, before returning the same to the court is an irregularity,[86] but the bankrupt appearing and cross-examining the witness the testimony so taken will not be stricken out.[87]

By making an order of discharge it will be presumed that the court investigated the objections made thereto, and overruled the same on their merits.[88] An order of a bankruptcy court dismissing an application for discharge for want of prosecution is, in substance and effect, one denying a discharge.[89] A bankrupt having been refused a discharge cannot, a few months thereafter, prosecute a new application for a discharge upon the same facts.[90] An order denying a discharge is reviewable by appeal.[91] A discharge is not subject to collateral attack.[92]

74. In re Hoyt, 127 F. 968.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 335.

76. Kuntz v. Young [C. C. A.] 131 F. 719.

77. In re Haynes & Sons, 122 F. 560. See 1 Curr. L. 335, n. 34.

78. In re Haynes & Sons, 122 F. 560.

79. It is too late to contest the matter on the hearing of the petition. In re Haynes & Sons, 122 F. 560.

80. In this case the bankrupt also obtained an injunction staying proceedings by the creditor for the collection of a debt, held, injunction would be vacated. In re Lederer, 125 F. 96.

81. Where judgment creditor died before the filing of the petition for a discharge by the bankrupt, and her executrix and sole legatee had not proved her will, held proper to send the notices addressed to the creditor at her last place of residence. Such notice held sufficient to sustain motion by discharged bankrupt for cancellation of judgment under Code Civ. Proc. § 1268. Lent v. Farnsworth, 87 N. Y. S. 1112.

82. In re Ginsburg, 130 F. 627.

83. In re Chamberlain, 125 F. 629. See 1 Curr. L. 335, n. 51.

84. In re Goodhile, 130 F. 782. See 1 Curr. L. 335, n. 53.

85, 86, 87. In re Goodhile, 130 F. 782.

88. Affirmed the referee's report. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carley [C. C. A.] 127 F. 686.

89. In re Kuffler [C. C. A.] 127 F. 125.

90. Refused because of fraudulent concealment of assets from the trustee. In re Fiegenbaum [C. C. A.] 121 F. 69.

91. In re Kuffler [C. C. A.] 127 F. 125.

92. That the plaintiff, a discharged bankrupt, did not schedule the pending action as part of his assets is no defense thereto. Wilsey v. Jewett Bros. & Co., 122 Iowa, 315, 98 N. W. 114. Claiming that a discharge does not bar a particular claim is not a collateral attack. Sutherland v. Lasher, 41 Misc. 249, 84 N. Y. S. 56. A plea of discharge can be met by showing that the debt was excepted from the operation thereof, without the reply amounting to a collateral attack on the bankruptcy decree. Santa Rosa Bank v. White, 139 Cal. 703, 73 P. 577.

A court of bankruptcy may on its own motion vacate a discharge, in the furtherance of justice, before the expiration of a year after it was granted.[93] A creditor of a bankrupt who has failed to file or prove his claim within a year after adjudication may nevertheless move, as a party in interest, to vacate the discharge.[94] A creditor petitioning for a revocation of a bankrupt's discharge must not have been guilty of undue laches.[95] A petition for the revocation of a discharge in bankruptcy, setting out the facts, need not allege the legal conclusion that the facts did not warrant a discharge.[96]

(§ 22) B. Grounds for refusal.[97]—Provisions regulating the conditions on which bankrupts may be discharged are remedial in their nature, with respect to the bankrupts or to their creditors, or to both, and the strict rules of construction or interpretation appropriate to retroactive or retrospective laws are inapplicable to them.[98] A judgment denying a debtor a discharge from a debt, under a state insolvency law, is not an adjudication of his right to a discharge from such debt in bankruptcy, where it does not appear upon what grounds such judgment was based.[99] The provision of the bankruptcy act forbidding a discharge if the bankrupt has, in voluntary proceedings, been granted a discharge within six years is not retroactive as applied to cases where the first proceedings were had prior to its enactment, but merely adds a new condition of discharge in cases instituted after the amendment.[1] A discharge granted to a bankrupt in partnership proceedings instituted by himself is granted in voluntary proceedings, and prevents his obtaining a discharge within six years upon an individual voluntary petition.[2] A court undoubtedly has power to refuse a discharge, the entire proceeding being a palpable fraud upon the creditors.[3]

Commission of an offense.[4]—A false oath, to be available as a bar to a discharge, must have been knowingly and fraudulently false.[5] Omission of property from his schedules is sufficient to warrant the refusal of a discharge on the ground of his making a false oath,[6] and the bankrupt's right to a discharge is not restored by listing the property concealed after the making of the false oath is discovered.[7]

Destruction of or failure to keep books of account.[8]—Destruction of books of account prior to the contracting of indebtedness does not warrant the refusal of a discharge.[9] Prior to the amendatory act of 1903 it had to be satisfactorily shown that the failure to keep books was with fraudulent intent to thereby conceal his financial condition, and in contemplation of bankruptcy.[10] Failure to keep a complete set of books will not of itself bar a discharge.[11]

93, 94. In re Bimberg, 121 F. 942.

95. Creditor who had opportunities to examine bankrupt, appeared in opposition to discharge, and was given time to file specifications of objection, but failed to do so, and permitted the discharge to be granted without further objection, is guilty of undue laches. In re Upson, 124 F. 980.

96. In re Toothaker Bros., 128 F. 187.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 336.

98. In re Scott, 126 F. 981.

99. In re Bybee, 124 F. 1011.

1. Act 1898, § 14b, as amended by Act 1903, c. 487, § 4. In re Carleton, 131 F. 146.

2. In re Carleton, 131 F. 146.

3. That creditors opposing the discharge discontinue their opposition, and the referee in a supplemental report refuses a certificate of conformity, are sufficient to create a presumption or suspicion that some act has been done by or on behalf of the bankrupt to secure the discontinuance of the opposition, justifying a refusal of the bankrupt's discharge pending a further report by the referee. In re Sanborn, 131 F. 397.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 336.

5. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carley [C. C. A.] 127 F. 686; In re Breiner, 129 F. 155.

6. In re Garley [C. C. A.] 127 F. 538; In re Toothaker Bros., 128 F. 187.

Effect of omission of creditors, see 1 Curr. L. 336, n. 61.

7. In re Breiner, 129 F. 155.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 336.

9. Bankrupt inherited $155,000 from his father and lost the same in gambling and speculation, in the latter part of the year 1901 he destroyed his checkbook and passbook; having no account in the bank. Of the $9,304.54 total liabilities over $7,600 was for money borrowed, and of this only one item $11 seems to have been borrowed in 1901, the rest in 1902. Held, destruction of books not with fraudulent intent to conceal true financial condition, and not in contemplation of bankruptcy. In re Studebaker [C. C. A.] 127 F. 951.

10. Bankrupt kept no complete set of books, but used contracts of sale to aid those

Obtaining property upon false statements.[12]—A bankrupt obtaining property on credit upon a materially false statement in writing cannot be discharged,[13] such statement having been made for the purpose of obtaining such property.[14]

Concealment or transfer of property.[15]—The right to a discharge is forfeited if the bankrupt knowingly conceals his property.[16] In order to bar a discharge, a transfer of property to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors need not be knowingly and fraudulently made,[17] though it must have been made within four months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.[18] His right to a discharge is not restored by listing the property concealed after the attempt to conceal the same has been discovered.[19] A bankrupt who does not surrender his estate to the trustee is not entitled to a discharge, even though he may have scheduled it and otherwise complied with the statute.[20] Where he, as beneficiary of a trust fund, is entitled to the interest and income thereof, he must assign his interest in the income and interest to his trustee in bankruptcy,[21] but where his right to the principal rests in the option of the trustee this right need not be so assigned.[22] In order to prevent a discharge on the ground of concealment of property it must appear that the property still belongs to the bankrupt estate.[23] Failure to schedule a pending claim for alimony,[24] or refusal to convey property claimed as an exemption, do not constitute a concealment of property preventing a discharge.[25]

he kept, no fraud being shown, held, no ground for refusing a discharge. In re Chamberlain, 125 F. 629; In re Allendorf, 129 F. 981. Failure to enter certain loans on the books induced by the fear that if a certain creditor knew that he was borrowing money he might "close him (the bankrupt) up," and that, as business was improving, he fully thought that he would be able to pay, does not justify a presumption that such failure to keep proper books was in contemplation of bankruptcy. Van Ingen v. Schophofen [C. C. A.] 129 F. 352. One who three years before bankruptcy inherited $150,000, which he testified he had lost in gambling, who at the time of the application for his discharge received a salary of $3,600, lived on a liberal scale, paying $2,000 a year for rent of apartment, and who during the year before the adjudication destroyed his bank book and check book, which action was never explained, held, that the inference was justified that the bankrupt destroyed such books with fraudulent intent to conceal his true financial condition and in contemplation of bankruptcy. In re Studebaker, 124 F. 945.

11. In re Allendorf, 129 F. 981.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 336.

13. Act of 1898, § 14b, as amended by the act of 1903. So held in a case where the statement was made more than four months prior to the date of the amendatory act, and about six months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. In re Scott, 126 F. 981. Section 14, subd. b., cl. 3, deals solely with a condition precedent to the discharge of bankrupts in future cases, it does not undertake to provide for the recovery of any property, or to set aside or otherwise affect any transaction. Id. A bankrupt obtaining property upon a written statement to a wholesale house, for the purpose of getting credit, in which was listed an asset valued at $1,400 which she did not possess, is not entitled to a discharge. In re Goodhile, 130 F. 782.

14. Statement made, property obtained and paid for, 8 months later other property bought on credit, held did not defeat discharge. In re Allendorf, 129 F. 981.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 336.

16. Knowingly concealed an interest in the estate of his grandfather. In re Breiner, 129 F. 155. In the absence of a clear misstatement by the bankrupt with regard to the ownership of property upon which he resided, the title to which stood in the name of his father, and to which the bankrupt was the prospective heir, there is no concealment of assets or a false oath so as to bar a discharge. In re Brumbaugh, 128 F. 971. The fact that a merchant's stock did not amount to the balance left after deducting the amount of the sales from the amount purchased is not sufficient of itself to bar a discharge on the ground of concealed property, it being shown that the bankrupt's methods of business were careless, and that he kept no complete set of books. In re Allendorf, 129 F. 981.

17. In re Gift, 130 F. 230. Where prior to the amendment (Act 1903, § 4) of Act 1898, § 14, subd. b., a bankrupt transferred property by a deed absolute on its face but without consideration, and not limited by any agreement retaining an interest in the grantor held there was as to such property no concealment of property by the bankrupt from the trustee. In re Dauchy, 122 F. 688.

18. In re Brumbaugh, 128 F. 97.

19. In re Breiner, 129 F. 155.

20, 21, 22. In re Fleishman, 120 F. 960.

23. Where it was alleged that property was fraudulently conveyed more than 2 years prior to bankruptcy, in order to constitute a fraudulent concealment, held, it must be shown that a secret lien exists in favor of the grantor. In re Dauchy [C. C. A.] 130 F. 532.

24. In re Le Claire, 124 F. 654.

25. Property awarded as alimony subsequent to bankruptcy claimed as a homestead. In re Le Claire, 124 F. 654. See 1 Curr. L. 336, n. 68.

(§ 22) C. Liabilities released.[26]—A state court is bound to take notice of a discharge in bankruptcy when properly pleaded as a defense.[27] A person seeking to avail himself of a discharge in bankruptcy as a defense must plead the discharge,[28] must show in which one of the United States district courts the petition was filed,[29] and allege facts showing that the court in which the proceedings were taken had jurisdiction of the parties or subject-matter,[30] though this has been held unnecessary,[31] but he must show that the debts sued on were scheduled in time for proof and allowance,[32] and that he received his certificate,[33] failing in any of these regards the answer is amendable.[34] He is not required to show that the claims sued on were provable,[35] nor that the debt is not within any of the classes excepted from the operation of the bankruptcy law,[36] though there is conflict on this latter point.[37] The state courts have jurisdiction to determine the effect of a discharge.[38]

The discharge of a bankrupt is but a personal release,[39] it does not release the property of the debtor from a valid lien attaching thereto, such lien not being expressly annulled by the provisions of the bankruptcy act.[40] Nonprovable debts are not released.[41] State acts allowing discharged bankrupts to obtain a cancellation of judgments against themselves are not generally intended to enlarge the scope of the Federal bankruptcy act,[42] and generally entitle the bankrupt to such cancellation as a matter of right.[43]

Debts created by fraud, embezzlement, or misappropriation in whatever capacity or relation the bankrupt was acting, are not released by the bankrupt's discharge,[44] the words "while acting as an officer or in any fiduciary capacity," as used in section 17, subd. 4, apply only to a defalcation.[45] "Debts created in any fiduciary

26. See 1 Curr. L. 337.

27. Wood v. Carr, 24 Ky. L. R. 2144, 73 S. W. 762. The petition of an intervenor in attachment claiming the property under a conveyance from the debtor, and alleging that since the judgment in the lower court the debtor has been declared a bankrupt and discharged from bankruptcy, and that plaintiff has proved his claim and participated in the distribution of the estate must allege the date of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. House v. Johnson [Colo. App.] 76 P. 743.

28. Action on an account. Bailey v. Kraus, 39 Misc. 845, 81 N. Y. S. 492; Fowler v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 321.

29. Bailey v. Kraus, 39 Misc. 845, 81 N. Y. S. 492.

30. Otherwise answer is insufficient to admit proof. Bailey v. Kraus, 39 Misc. 845, 81 N. Y. S. 492; Fowler v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 321.

31. Bailey v. Gleason [Vt.] 56 A. 537.

32. Since there is no discharge as to a creditor not connected with the proceedings by the schedule. Bailey v. Gleason [Vt.] 56 A. 537.

33. Fowler v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 321.

34. Bailey v. Kraus, 39 Misc. 845, 81 N. Y. S. 492.

35, 36. Bailey v. Gleason [Vt.] 56 A. 537.

37. Fowler v. Michael [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 321.

38. The Colorado court of appeals has jurisdiction to determine the effect of a discharge in bankruptcy pending an appeal or writ of error set up by a supplemental petition. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986.

39. Mallin v. Wenham, 209 Ill. 252, 70 N. E. 564.

40. Mallin v. Wenham, 209 Ill. 252, 70 N. E. 564. See 1 Curr. L. 337, n. 83-92.

41. Contingent liability of the principal on a bond given to indemnify a constable against such damage as might result from levying an execution. Leader v. Mattingly [Ala.] 37 So. 270.

42. New York Code Civ. Proc. § 1268, does not render void a lien acquired in good faith more than four months prior to the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings. Pickert v. Eaton, 81 App. Div. 423, 81 N. Y. S. 50.

43. Action on contract, defendant after issue joined discharged from bankruptcy, then obtained leave to set up such discharge in his answer on certain conditions but declined to avail himself of the privilege, held entitled to cancellation of judgment. Hussey v. Judson, 87 N. Y. S. 499.

44. In re Butts, 120 F. 966; Hyde & Sons v. Lesser, 87 N. Y. S. 878. Fraud. Crawford v. Burke, 201 Ill. 581, 66 N. E. 833. See 1 Curr. L. 337, n. 93; Id. 338, n. 8.

45. In re Butts, 120 F. 966; Hyde & Sons v. Lesser, 87 N. Y. S. 878; Crawford v. Burke, 201 Ill. 581, 66 N. E. 833. A complaint alleging that defendant did "wrongfully and fraudulently embezzle and misappropriate the plaintiff's money" the legal import of these words being that he became possessed of the money in a fiduciary capacity, his answer setting up a discharge in bankruptcy is demurrable. Watertown Carriage Co. v. Hall, 176 N. Y. 313, 68 N. E. 629. The court holds that under the circumstances of the case, it is unnecessary to decide the proposition stated in the text. Id.

Contra, by inference it would seem as though Field v. Howry [Mich.] 94 N. W. 213, took the opposite view.

capacity" include only technical trusts, and not trusts implied by law from contracts of agency,[46] or bailment.[47] Conditions as to settlement do not convert a contract of sale into one creating a trust and establishing a fiduciary relation between the parties,[48] nor render the debt from the bankrupt on account of goods sold and not paid for one created by fraud, embezzlement, misappropriation, or defalcation, while acting in a fiduciary capacity,[49] so as to prevent its release by a discharge in bankruptcy. Both a trustee for creditors[50] and a receiver appointed by the court[51] hold the funds in a fiduciary capacity. The relation between a broker and his patrons is not such a fiduciary one.[52] Obligations incurred by one selling goods on commission and retaining the proceeds constitute debts created while acting in a fiduciary relation within the meaning of the bankruptcy act.[53] Failure by a debtor to turn over wages collected by him in pursuance to an assignment of his future earnings is a defalcation while acting in a fiduciary capacity.[54] Since the amendment of 1903 a bankrupt is not released by his discharge from claims based on fraud though not reduced to judgment.[55]

A discharge in bankruptcy does not release the debtor from judgments obtained in actions for wilful and malicious injuries to the person or property of another.[56] Judgments for malicious prosecution,[57] slander,[58] or criminal conversation,[59] are not released. Judgments in a suit of trespass to try title,[60] in an action of trover and conversion,[61] or for breach of promise to marry,[62] are released by the discharge of the judgment debtor. A final money judgment being obtained upon an order requiring a putative father to support his child, the debt evidenced thereby is not released by a discharge of the judgment debtor,[63] nor is an order upon a father to support his child of tender years,[64] but the obligation to reimburse a 46. Agent owing his principal money is not a fiduciary debtor. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986. See 1 Curr. L. 338, n. 99.

47. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986.

48. Conditions on back of contract provided that buyer should hold in trust and separate for the settlement of the seller's account all goods unsold and everything received for goods sold. In re Butts, 120 F. 966.

49. In re Butts, 120 F. 966.

50. Loaning the money to a firm of which he was a member is such misappropriation, though he expected the loan would be repaid. Field v. Howry [Mich.] 94 N. W. 213.

51. The successor in office of the receiver did not by proving the claim for misappropriation of the debtor's funds against the receiver's estate in bankruptcy elect to treat it as an ordinary debt, rather than as a fiduciary obligation, and thereby waive his right to question the discharge in bankruptcy. Field v. Howry [Mich.] 94 N. W. 213.

52. A bankrupt broker is released by his discharge from liability upon a debt incurred by his failure to return to a customer securities deposited with him as collateral against loss. Crosby v. Miller, Vaughn & Co., 25 R. I. 172, 55 A. 328.

53. Laundry agent in country town solicited and sent laundry to laundry in city, on the latter's returning it the agent would deliver the packages, collecting therefor and sending the total collected, less his commission, to his principal, held, discharge in bankruptcy will not avail him as against his principal's claim for money not turned over. Shipley v. Platts [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1.

54. Mott Iron Works v. Toumey, 87 N. Y. S. 1020.

55. Construing together clauses 2 and 4 of § 17, Act 1898. In re Wollock, 120 F. 516.

Prior to the amendment the contrary rule prevailed. Smith & W. Co. v. Lambert, 69 N. J. Law, 487, 55 A. 88; Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Hudson [C. C. A.] 122 F. 232; Quaker City Watch Co. v. Lamoreaux, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 493. "Fraud" as used in § 17, cl. 2, prior to the amendment, meant positive fraud, or fraud in fact, involving moral turpitude or intentional wrong. Crosby v. Miller, Vaughn & Co., 25 R. I. 172, 55 A. 328.

56. Stefanini v. Sroka, 88 N. Y. S. 167. Malice as here used means a wrongful act done intentionally without just cause or excuse. Tinker v. Colwell, 193 U. S. 473, 24 S. Ct. 505.

57. Mason v. Perkins [Mo.] 79 S. W. 683.

58. Sanderson v. Hunt, 25 Ky. L. R. 626, 76 S. W. 179.

59. A judgment for damages arising from the criminal conversation of the bankrupt with the judgment creditor's wife is not released. Tinker v. Colwell, 193 U. S. 473, 24 S. Ct. 505.

60. Imhoff v. Whittle [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 814.

61. Is not an action for fraud within the meaning of § 17, cl. 2. Crosby v. Miller, Vaughn & Co., 25 R. I. 172, 55 A. 328. See 1 Curr. L. 338, n. 13, for contra case.

62. In re Brumbaugh, 128 F. 971.

63. Whether the same rule would apply since the amendment to § 17, subd. 2, by the act of 1903, quaere. McKittrick v. Cahoon, 89 Minn. 383, 95 N. W. 223.

64. Rush v. Flood, 105 Ill. App. 182. An stranger for past support of the child is released by such a discharge.[65] The stay of a suit, as to the personal liability of the bankrupt, in a state court, ordered pending discharge, will not be continued after the discharge has been granted, but the temporary stay should be vacated without prejudice to the rights of the bankrupt under the discharge.[66]

A discharge in bankruptcy does not terminate a lease nor change the legal relation of landlord and tenant unless the landlord re-enters or the trustee assumes the lease.[67] The maker of a note is released from liability thereon by a discharge in bankruptcy.[68] As to whether or not a debt can escape the operation of the discharge by being secured by an assignment of future earnings there is a conflict.[69] The lien of a judgment rendered more than four months prior to the filing of the petition is not released by a discharge of the judgment debtor in bankruptcy, when the holder of such judgment does not prove his debt in the bankruptcy proceedings.[70] A discharge in bankruptcy does not release a lien upon exempt property, though obtained within four months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.[71] obligation of a bankrupt to his divorced wife for the support of their minor children is not released. Dunbar v. Dunbar, 190 U. S. 340, 23 S. Ct. 757, 47 Law. Ed. 1084.

An unscheduled provable debt is not released by the discharge unless the creditor,[72] or his agent,[73] had notice or actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings, and the burden is upon the bankrupt to show that the creditor had such notice or knowledge.[74] An incorrectly described claim is equivalent for this purpose to an unscheduled one.[75] Failure to schedule a claim through ignorance of its existence does not render the discharge a bar thereto.[76] The assignee of a claim of a bankrupt is not bound by a settlement, of which he has no knowledge, in the bankruptcy court.[77] A provable claim not being proved, the creditor hav-

Alimony: See 1 Curr. L. 338, n. 9.

65. Obligation to recompense divorced wife for expenditures made after remarrying. Rush v. Flood, 105 Ill. App. 182.

66. In re Flanders, 121 F. 936.

67. Witthaus v. Zimmerman, 91 App. Div. 202, 86 N. Y. S. 315.

68. Blackwell v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 454.

69. That they cannot. In re West, 128 F. 205.

That such a debt is not superseded. Mallin v. Wenham, 209 Ill. 252, 70 N. E. 564.

70. Mortgage. Camp v. Young, 119 Ga. 981, 47 S. E. 560.

Where but for a fraudulent transfer a judgment would have been a lien upon the real property of the debtor the discharge of the judgment debtor in bankruptcy does not affect the lien of the judgment as against such real property. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 84 App. Div. 129, 82 N. Y. S. 80.

71. Does not discharge the lien of a judgment obtained within four months prior to the adjudication of bankruptcy, upon a note waiving the homestead exemption allowed by the laws of Georgia upon lands set aside by the bankrupt court as exempt. McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433.

72. Reynolds v. Whittemore [Me.] 58 A. 415; Columbia Bank v. Birkett, 174 N. Y. 112, 66 N. E. 652. Constructive notice is insufficient. Santa Rosa Bank v. White, 139 Cal. 703, 73 P. 577. Stockholder's liability for a corporate debt. Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. Y. 404. A petition by a discharged bankrupt to restrain the collection of an unscheduled provable debt alleging that the creditor had notice or actual knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings is sufficient. Jones v. Walter, 24 Ky. L. R. 2459, 74 S. W. 249; Karter v. Fields [Ala.] 37 So. 204.

73. Atkinson v. Elmore [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 492. Knowledge of bankruptcy proceedings acquired by the cashier of a bank which is a creditor of the bankrupt will be imputed to the creditors of an insolvent corporation of which the bankrupt is a stockholder, the cashier, having no personal interest, being appointed the receiver to enforce and collect the amount of the liability of the stockholders. Dight v. Chapman [Or.] 75 P. 585.

74. Wineman v. Fisher [Mich.] 98 N. W. 404.

75. The scheduling of a bond and mortgage by a bankrupt as having been given by his wife alone excepts the claim from the discharge, where the bond and mortgage were given by the bankrupt and his wife. Fifth Ave. Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Goldberg, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 197. A voluntary bankrupt inserting an erroneous street number as the residence of a judgment creditor, when he did not know such residence, his motion to vacate the judgment and an execution issued thereon will be denied, where the creditor had no notice of the bankruptcy proceedings until such motion. Sutherland v. Lasher, 41 Misc. 249, 84 N. Y. S. 56.

76. Santa Rosa Bank v. White, 139 Cal. 703, 73 P. 577.

77. Bankrupt, a building contractor, assigned a claim against a property owner to pay the assignee for services, materials, etc.

ing knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings is absolutely barred by the discharge,[78] and though the creditor holds a waiver of exemption, it cannot be collected from the property set aside to the bankrupt as exempt.[79] In order to entitle a partner, filing a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, to a discharge from firm debts his petition must show the partnership assets and liabilities,[80] and the firm creditors must be notified,[81] but the petition failing in this regard it may be amended.[82]

The discharge of a bankrupt does not affect the liability of a co-debtor,[83] or guarantor.[84]

An unequivocal promise given after bankruptcy to pay a debt barred thereby is valid.[85] The promise to pay a debt discharged in bankruptcy must be clear, distinct, and unequivocal.[86] In most states an agreement to revive a debt discharged in bankruptcy, in order to be valid, must be in writing,[87] and where such promise is given the creditor may sue on the debt and need not sue on the new promise.[88] The discharge being proved, the burden is upon the plaintiff to show that the new promise was made both after the discharge was granted, and before the suit on the account was brought,[89] though it has been held that such a promise made after adjudication but before the discharge is binding.[90] A conditional promise to pay a debt discharged by bankruptcy must be accepted.[91]

A trustee failing to dispose of property previous to the bankrupt's discharge, the bankrupt's title remains unaffected by the bankruptcy proceedings,[92] and is subject to valid, undischarged liens acquired before the bankruptcy proceedings.[93]

Bankruptcy proceedings do not affect debts owing the bankrupt, except to make the trustee the payee.[94]

(§ 22) D. Pleading and evidence.[95]—Two or more creditors seeing fit to adopt the same specifications of objection may do so by signing the same paper.[96] Specifications of objection are amendable in matters of substance, after the time within which objections are required to be filed, only where the amendment is simply an held, assignee could recover though property owner had settled with contractor's trustee in bankruptcy, assignee having no notice or knowledge of such proceedings. Rudner v. Bath [Mich.] 97 N. W. 685.

78, 79. Claster v. Soble, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 631.

80. Schedule disclosed individual and partnership debts, held not entitled to a discharge from firm debts, though the firm had been dissolved and was without assets, and the firm debts were barred by limitation. In re Morrison, 127 F. 186.

81, 82. In re Morrison, 127 F. 186.

83. Witthaus v. Zimmerman, 91 App. Div. 202, 86 N. Y. S. 315. Surety. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986; Leader v. Mattingly [Ala.] 37 So. 270. See 1 Curr. L. 338, n. 15.

84. Guarantor of the payment of the rent reserved in a lease was not discharged from liability on the guaranty by the tenant's discharge in bankruptcy before the end of the term. Witthaus v. Zimmerman, 91 App. Div. 202, 86 N. Y. S. 315.

85. In re Sweetser, 128 F. 165; Blackwell v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 454.

86. Where two persons testified that bankrupt promised to pay the debt, which bankrupt denied, and another that the debtor had told him he intended to pay, and had promised to do so, held to show an unconditional promise to pay the debt. Brooks v. Paine, 25 Ky. L. R. 1125, 77 S. W. 190.

87. Laws 1897, p. 507, c. 417. Bair v. Hilbert, 84 App. Div. 621, 82 N. Y. S. 1010. Indorsed on bill for goods sold: "This account is O. K. * * * I will pay it. Owen Treanor" held sufficient. Gruenberg v. Treanor, 40 Misc. 232, 81 N. Y. S. 675.

88. New promise was not pleaded. Gruenberg v. Treanor, 40 Misc. 232, 81 N. Y. S. 675.

89. Thornton v. Nichols & Lemon, 119 Ga. 50, 45 S. E. 785.

90. Gruenberg v. Treanor, 40 Misc. 232, 81 N. Y. S. 675.

91. Debtor offered to pay the original debt in installments, creditor refused to accept payment in that manner, held the debt was not revived. Court says that if creditor had not answered to the proposition, an acceptance would probably be implied. International Harvester Co. v. Lyman [Minn.] 96 N. W. 87.

92. Rochester Lumber Co. v. Locke [N. H.] 54 A. 705.

93. Attachment lien and mortgage. Rochester Lumber Co. v. Locke [N. H.] 54 A. 705.

94. Kudner v. Bath [Mich.] 97 N. W. 685.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 338.

96. There is nothing joint about the paper, it is simply a device to avoid the multiplication of copies. In re Milgraum & Ost, 129 F. 827. See 1 Curr. L. 335, for this subject.

amplification of the charges which are stated in the original.[97] Leave to amend can only be granted by the judge,[98] and the privilege may be lost by laches.[99] There seems to be a conflict as to whether or not the specification of objection needs to be verified,[1] but in courts holding it necessary, the right to object to the specifications for lack thereof may be lost by allowing the cause to proceed,[2] and in those courts the verification may be made by the creditor's attorney,[3] and the verification being sworn to "to the best of the affiant's knowledge, information, and belief," it is sufficient.[4] The verification being held necessary it may be supplied by amendment.[5]

A specification of objection on the ground that the bankrupt failed to keep books knowingly and fraudulently concealing property should state the nature of the ground relied on,[6] a description of the property concealed from the trustee,[7] the names of the parties holding the title,[8] the time of the transfer,[9] and any other facts necessary to identify the transaction,[10] and that the bankrupt "knowingly and fraudulently" disposed of or concealed the property.[11] Specifications of objection on the ground of the bankrupt's making of a false oath must set out the facts relied on,[12] and must allege that such oath was "knowingly and fraudulently made."[13] A specification of an objection on the ground that the bankrupt failed to keep books of account, and thus fraudulently concealed his true financial condition, is sufficient if alleged in the language of the act,[14] though the contrary has been held,[15] such courts holding that a specification of objection, for any cause, in the language of

97. Supplying the details of alleged fraudulent transfers. In re Gift, 130 F. 230. See 1 Curr. L. 335, n. 44.

98. Not by a referee. In re Peck, 120 F. 972.

99. Leave to amend objections to a bankrupt's discharge, by incorporating therein objections urged by another creditor, 19 months after the objections were filed, and 15 months after its case was closed, is properly refused on the ground of laches. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carley [C. C. A.] 121 F. 822.

1. That it need not: Is not a pleading within the meaning of Act 1898, § 18c. In re Jamieson, 120 F. 697.

Contra, see In re Peck, 120 F. 972; In re Milgraum, 129 F. 827; In re Gift, 130 F. 230.

2. After submission of the case to the court upon evidence which fully supports and verifies certain of the specifications, an objection to the specifications for lack of verification is too late, and cannot be considered as a sufficient ground for dismissing the specifications and granting the discharge. In re Robinson, 123 F. 844.

3. In re Peck, 120 F. 972. Specifications of objection to the bankrupt's discharge should not ordinarily be signed and sworn to by attorneys in fact or in law, though they may be under exceptional circumstances. In re Milgraum, 129 F. 827.

4. In re Peck, 120 F. 972; In re Milgraum, 129 F. 827.

5. In re Gift, 130 F. 230.

6. An objection to the effect "that the bankrupt in consideration of bankruptcy, had conveyed his real property by written assignment to strangers, for an inadequate consideration, for the purpose of defrauding his creditors; that said pretended conveyance is merely in trust, to be reconveyed as soon as his petition for discharge is granted" is insufficient. In re Parish, 122 F. 553. A specification of objection that within four months of filing the petition the bankrupts transferred, removed, destroyed, or concealed their property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, in that at certain stated times they did transfer to and conceal in certain stated places their property with such intent, is sufficient. In re Milgraum, 129 F. 827.

7. In re Parish, 122 F. 553. Specification of objection that defendant transferred "some of his property" is too vague; must specify what property. Godshalk Co. v. Sterling [C. C. A.] 129 F. 580.

8, 9, 10. In re Parish, 122 F. 553.

11. In re Patterson, 121 F. 921.

12. In re Ginsburg, 130 F. 627. Specifications of objection that the bankrupt made a materially false statement must set forth such statement. Godshalk Co. v. Sterling [C. C. A.] 129 F. 580.

13. In re Patterson, 121 F. 921.

14. In re Ginsburg, 130 F. 627; In re Patterson, 121 F. 921. That the bankrupt with intent to conceal his financial condition failed to keep books of account or records from which such condition might be ascertained is sufficient. Godshalk Co. v. Sterling [C. C. A.] 129 F. 580. That the bankrupt destroyed canceled checks and the stubs thereof, from which his financial condition might have been ascertained, is sufficient. Need not set forth the dates of the checks and other particulars. Id.

15. In re Peck, 120 F. 972. A specification of objection "that said bankrupts have, with intent to conceal their financial condition, destroyed, concealed, or failed to keep books of account, or records from which such condition might be ascertained" is insufficient. In re Milgraum, 129 F. 827.

the statute, is wholly insufficient, no evidence being receivable thereunder,[16] nor do they afford any basis for amendment.[17]

The proceeding to obtain a discharge is not a criminal one in any sense,[18] and hence a fair preponderance of satisfactory evidence is sufficient.[19]

§ 23. Reopening, grounds and effect.[20]—The discharge is not conclusive evidence that the bankrupt has accounted for all his property,[21] and a court of bankruptcy has power, in its discretion, to reopen the estate of a bankrupt to permit a trustee to maintain an action for concealed assets.[22] A referee has jurisdiction of a petition to reopen an estate.[23] No time is fixed within which the discharge of a bankrupt may be reopened,[24] laches will authorize the court to refuse to reopen the estate,[25] hence the rule is that a reasonable time, under all the circumstances of each case, should be allowed.[26]

A former trustee cannot seek to have the case reopened,[27] and as to whether or not creditors who have not proved their debts can file such a petition there is a conflict.[28] The right to have the case reopened may be lost by allowing the hearing of objections to a bankrupt's discharge to proceed without offering evidence therein.[29] The appointment of a trustee by the court upon the reopening of a bankrupt estate, without prior action on the part of the creditors, will not be considered void in a collateral action.[30]

Where a bankrupt estate is reopened, the effect, so far as the bankrupt and his creditors are concerned, is to place the parties in the same relation before the court as they were before the estate was closed and the bankrupt discharged.[31] A creditor who failed to file or prove his claim within a year after adjudication, upon obtaining a vacation of the discharge, is entitled to collect his claim from any property acquired by the bankrupt after bankruptcy.[32]

BASTARDS.

§ 1. Legal Elements and Evidences of Illegitimacy (496).
§ 2. Rights and Duties of and In Respect to Bastards (497).
§ 3. Procedure to Ascertain Paternity and Compel Support (498).
§ 4. Legitimation, Recognition, Adoption (499).

§ 1. Legal elements and evidences of illegitimacy.[33]—The civil law denomi-

16, 17. In re Peck, 120 F. 972.
18, 19. In re Dauchy, 122 F. 688.
20. See 1 Curr. L. 336, n. 58-60.
21. Rand v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 212.
22. In re Goldman [C. C. A.] 129 F. 212. A bankrupt inherited from his father the income of a trust fund valued at $7,600, within one week he transferred his interest therein, receiving a loan of $1,000, within a month of his father's death he filed a voluntary petition and was adjudged a bankrupt, three months later he was discharged, two months and a half later the transferee of the income of the trust fund transferred it to the bankrupt's wife, who paid him $300, the balance due on the loan. Held such facts warranted setting aside the discharge on the ground that failure to disclose such trust fund in his schedules amounted to a fraudulent concealment of assets. In re Paine, 127 F. 246.
23. Bilafsky v. Abraham, 183 Mass. 401, 67 N. E. 318.
24. A petition to reopen is not a "suit" within the meaning of § 11d, of the act of 1898, providing that "suits shall not be brought by or against a trustee of a bankrupt estate subsequent to two years after the estate has been closed. In re Paine, 127 F. 246.
25, 26, 27. In re Paine, 127 F. 246.
28. That they cannot. In re Paine, 127 F. 246. Proof of the debt of a creditor being tendered and filed with the clerk of the bankruptcy court, after the case was closed in the referee's office, but prior to the discharge, and was never formally allowed, there being no assets, held, such proof was prima facie sufficient to entitle the creditor to apply to have the estate reopened on the ground that the bankrupt had fraudulently concealed assets applicable to creditors. Id.
That they can. In re Bimberg, 121 F. 942.
29. Where the referee proceeds with the taking of evidence on objections to a bankrupt's discharge, notwithstanding the objection of a creditor, the latter having had full opportunity to offer any evidence desired cannot subsequently be heard on a petition to reopen the case for the purpose of offering additional evidence. Kentucky Nat. Bank v. Carley [C. C. A.] 127 F. 686.
30. Fowler v. Jenks, 90 Minn. 74, 95 N. W. 887.
31. Title to concealed and nonscheduled nates as "natural children" illegitimate children who have been acknowledged by their father; those not acknowledged or whose parents were incapable of contracting marriage at the time of the conception, are bastards.[34] The presumption of legitimacy of a child born during matrimonial cohabitation is sometimes held to be conclusive,[35] except where the husband is shown to be impotent,[36] but in some states, proof of nonaccess is admitted.[37] The legitimacy of children is presumed, and one claiming the contrary has the burden of proof,[38] which is not met by slight evidence.[39] The issue of Indians who cohabit as husband and wife according to the custom of Indian life is deemed legitimate.[40]

§ 2. Rights and duties of and in respect to bastards.[41]—At common law, a bastard or his issue cannot inherit from his mother's collateral kindred,[42] and they have no greater capacity to take under dispositions causa mortis.[43] The mother's legal duty is only to support the child until he becomes self supporting, and in case she is able to do so.[44] An agreement by the mother of an illegitimate child to care for and support him until a certain date is sufficient consideration to support a promise by the putative father to settle a sum of money on him on that date.[45] A legitimated bastard has all the rights of a child born in lawful wedlock,[46] but this does not affect his relation to his mother.[47] The illegitimate sister property does not revest in the bankrupt after his discharge so as to deprive the court of jurisdiction upon the reopening of the estate. Fowler v. Jenks, 90 Minn. 74, 95 N. W. 887.

32. In re Bimberg, 121 F. 942.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 339.

34. Mother a colored person. Succession of Vance, 110 La. 760, 34 So. 767.

35. Town of Canaan v. Avery [N. H.] 58 A. 509.

36. Bunel v. O'Day, 125 F. 303.

37. Kennington v. Catoe [S. C.] 47 S. E. 719; State v. Liles, 134 N. C. 735, 47 S. E. 750.

Note: The rule formerly was that the presumption of legitimacy of a child born in wedlock was conclusive, but the modern decisions make it a question of fact to be determined on evidence of impotence or nonaccess. Woodward v. Blue, 107 N. C. 407, 12 S. E. 453; Shuman v. Shuman, 83 Wis. 250, 53 N. W. 455. If the parents cohabited and the husband was not impotent, neither parent is a competent witness, however, to show illegitimacy (Shuman v. Shuman, 83 Wis. 250, 53 N. W. 455; Inhabitants of Abington v. Duxbury, 105 Mass. 290; Scanlon v. Walshe, 81 Md. 118, 31 A. 498), and statutes making interested parties competent to testify do not change this rule (In re Mills' Estate, 137 Cal. 298, 70 P. 91; Egbert v. Greenwalt, 44 Mich. 245, 6 N. E. 654; Tioga County v. South Creek Tp., 75 Pa. 436).

38. Lewis v. Sizemore, 25 Ky. L. R. 1354, 78 S. W. 122.

39. Child born in 1821, few living witnesses who knew the facts of his birth or parentage. Testimony vague. Lewis v. Sizemore, 25 Ky. L. R. 1354, 78 S. W. 122. Declarations that a child was declarant's daughter, together with the fact that he was never married until several years after the child's birth, warrant an inference of illegitimacy. In re Heaton's Estate, 139 Cal. 237, 73 P. 186. Evidence of legitimacy held sufficient on prosecution of father for incest. People v. Koller, 142 Cal. 621, 76 P. 500. In a bill for partition, the legitimacy of the petitioner was denied and evidence of a marriage certificate claimed to have been her father's, though the name was different, and the acknowledgment by her father and his treatment of her since her birth, held sufficient to establish petitioner's legitimacy. Dailey v. Frey, 206 Pa. 227, 55 A. 962. Evidence held to show that child was born in wedlock, though its parents had previously cohabited illicitly. Tracy v. Frey, 88 N. Y. S. 874. Father died "few days" after the New Year. The child born when the "leaves began to fall." At the trial, it was "four snows" old; held legitimate. Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 74 P. 491. Proof of unchastity of wife after birth of child is not admissible. Kennington v. Catoe [S. C.] 47 S. E. 719.

40. To determine descent of land. Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 74 P. 491. Evidence held to show marriage of an Indian couple according to the custom of their tribe. Id. Evidence held to show that an Indian woman had been divorced from her husband according to the custom of her tribe, before the marriage resulting in the birth of this child. Id.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 339.

42. This is not changed by statute providing that "the heirs of a bastard, in the ascending and collateral lines, shall be the mother and her heirs, and the bastards and their heirs shall be heirs of the mother." Reynolds v. Hitchcock [N. H.] 56 A. 745.

43. Succession of Vance, 110 La. 760, 34 So. 767.

44, 45. Rosseau v. Rouss, 91 App. Div. 230, 86 N. Y. S. 497.

46. Inherits realty as an heir and receives personalty as next of kin, both lineally and collaterally. Scott v. Wilson, 110 Tenn. 175, 75 S. W. 1091.

47. Property inherited by him from his father descends to his mother and not to heirs at law of his father. Scott v. Wilson, 110 Tenn. 175, 75 S. W. 1091. Under Texas statute, the entire estate of a bastard passes to his mother to the exclusion of his putative father. Ford v. Boone [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 353.

of a bastard takes as his heir in the right of their mother to the exclusion of the next of kin of the father.[48] The mother is not "a party interested in the event" of an action brought by the child against the estate of the putative father to enforce a contract.[49] The putative father is entitled to the custody of the child after the mother's death.[50] A bastard child, being entitled to support from its father, may sue under the civil damage act for injury to support.[51]

§ 3. Procedure to ascertain paternity and compel support.[52]—At common law, there was no legal obligation on the part of a putative father to support his illegitimate child.[53] Bastardy proceedings to compel a putative father to support the child now generally provided by statute are usually held to be civil proceedings.[54] The proceeding will lie, though the child was born outside the state.[55] A proceeding under the bastardy act is not barred for six years in South Dakota.[56] A complaint in the words of the statute is sufficient.[57]

Evidence.[58]—Intercourse at the time of conception must be shown.[59] Evidence of intercourse with others at about the time of conception will be considered according to its probable effect.[60] The chastity of the mother cannot be questioned.[61] The child must be brought into court.[62] By statute in several states, declarations of paternity by the mother are admissible if she remains constant therein,[63] and testimony of the mother to paternity is admissible to show constancy in accusations made in travail.[64] Declarations of paternity by the mother to her physician are not privileged communications.[65] Offer by defendant to have an abortion per-

48. In re Lutz's Estate, 43 Misc. 230, 88 N. Y. S. 556.

49. Rosseau v. Rouss, 91 App. Div. 230, 86 N. Y. S. 497.

50. Aycock v. Hampton [Miss.] 36 So. 245. Note: The mother of an illegitimate child is prima facie entitled to its custody. Wright v. Bennett, 7 Ill. 587; Copeland v. State, 60 Ind. 394; State v. Stigall, 22 N. J. Law, 286; Marshall v. Reams, 32 Fla. 499, 14 So. 95. The putative father is ordinarily entitled to the custody as against third persons. Pote's Appeal, 106 Pa. 574. But the claims of both will be disregarded by the courts in establishing custody if the best interests of the child demand it. Sheers v. Stein, 75 Wis. 44, 43 N. W. 728; State v. Noble, 70 Iowa, 174, 30 N. W. 396; Marshall v. Reams, 32 Fla. 499, 14 So. 96.

51. Goulding v. Phillips [Iowa] 100 N. W. 516.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 339.

53. Bastard being nullius filius. State v. Tieman, 32 Wash. 294, 73 P. 375.

54. Proceedings under a criminal statute reversed. State v. Tieman, 32 Wash. 294, 73 P. 375; State v. Liles, 134 N. C. 735, 47 S. E. 750.

55. State v. Patterson [S. D.] 100 N. W. 162.

56. It is "an action on a liability created by statute other than a penalty or forfeiture." State v. Patterson [S. D.] 100 N. W. 162.

57. A complaint by a person that she was unmarried, that she had been delivered of a child, and that a certain person was its father, held sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty. Campion v. Lattimer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 290. Habeas corpus proceeding in which 97 N. W. 290 is affirmed. In re Campion [Neb.] 97 N. W. 443.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 340.

59. A complaint alleged that the child was begotten from June 24 to July 9. Evidence and date of birth showed that child must have been begotten in May. The conviction was reversed. People v. Wilson [Mich.] 99 N. W. 6. Evidence of the state showed that a child was begotten in October while prosecutrix was working for the accused. Evidence established the fact that prosecutrix worked for him only from August 25 to September 14. A finding of guilty was reversed. State v. Lowell [Iowa] 99 N. W. 125. Evidence of intercourse in September, and birth of fully developed child the third of June following, held sufficient to establish paternity. Ankeny v. Rawhouser [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1053.

60. Where intercourse with another than accused took place the night following the date of conception, evidence of the precautions to prevent conception was explained to the jury. Evidence held sufficient to establish the paternity. Guthrie v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 243. Evidence that prosecutrix was unduly intimate with another some 9 years prior to the conception of the child held inadmissible. Stahl v. State, 67 Kan. 864, 74 P. 238.

61. Testimony that about the time the child was begotten the reputation of the mother for chastity was bad is inadmissible on the question of paternity. People v. Wilson [Mich.] 99 N. W. 6.

62. Error in refusing to require the child to be brought into court is cured by its subsequent exhibition to the jury. Stahl v. State, 67 Kan. 864, 74 P. 238.

63. Evidence that the mother had accused a certain person of being the father of a child "from the first," and that her mother had not heard her accuse any other person, held admissible under statute to show the constancy of the accusation. Burns v. Donoghue [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1060.

64. Admitted over an objection that it was a mere conclusion. Baxter v. Gormley [Mass.] 71 N. E. 575.

ormed is admissible as an admission.[66] Prosecutrix is not an accomplice within he rule requiring corroboration.[67]

Instructions.[68]—Instructions as to the purpose of the statute,[69] and that false ssertions by the mother that the intercourse was forcible, are not necessarily fatal o the prosecution,[70] have been held not prejudicial.

Argument.—It is not error to allow counsel to call attention to the appearance f the child, where defendant introduced a photograph.[71]

Judgment.[72]—The award will not be disturbed unless manifestly excessive.[73] An undertaking given in justice court will not prevent an order after judgment in he circuit court on appeal that defendant be committed till he give security for ompliance with the judgment.[74]

§ 4. Legitimation, recognition, adoption.[75]—The law of the father's domicile it the time of the legitimating act will determine the status.[76] A bastard is legitimized by the subsequent marriage of his parents.[77] Statutes providing how a bas:ard may be legitimized must be literally complied with.[78] The criterion of treatment accorded an illegitimate child received into the family is the treatment usually accorded legitimate children.[79]

BETTING AND GAMING.[80]

§ 1. The Offense and Criminal Prosecutions (500).
A. The Offense (500).
B. Indictment or Information and Trial Procedure (502).

§ 2. Penalties and Seizure of Implements (505).
§ 3. Recovery Back of Money Lost (505).

The validity of wagering contracts is specifically treated elsewhere.[81]

65. People v. Abrahams, 88 N. Y. S. 924.

66. Gatzmeyer v. Peterson [Neb.] 94 N. W. 974.

67. Her interest in the event of the suit only may be considered. Gatzmeyer v. Peterson [Neb.] 94 N. W. 974.

68. Instruction that character of prosecutrix was not material held not misleading, other instructions indicating that her character in respect to chastity, not in respect to veracity, was referred to. Suckow v. State [Wis.] 99 N. W. 440.

69. An instruction that the proceeding is to compel the father to assist in supporting the fruits of his immoral act and indemnify the public against such burden is not objectionable as inviting a conviction. Stahl v. State, 67 Kan. 864, 74 P. 238.

70. A court instructed that it was a common thing for a woman to cling to the story that the connection by which the child was begotten was rape, that the fact that this was untrue did not necessarily show that the accusation that a certain person was the father was untrue. Held no error. Burns v. Donoghue [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1060.

71. State v. Patterson [S. D.] 100 N. W. 162.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 340.

73. Gatzmeyer v. Peterson [Neb.] 94 N. W. 974. Judgment for $2,250.00 is not excessive, the father being worth $9,000.00 to $12,000.00. Stahl v. State, 67 Kan. 864, 74 P. 238.

74. State v. Patterson [S. D.] 100 N. W. 162.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 340.

76. Petitioner and respondent were children of a common father, a slave. The father lived in Massachusetts, where intermarriage and acknowledgment were necessary. The petitioner in Virginia, where acknowledgment was sufficient. Father and mother had ceased to cohabit before the passage of the Virginia act legitimating children born of slave parents. Irving v. Ford, 183 Mass. 448, 67 N. E. 366.

77. A child of a common-law marriage, illegitimate because born while the first wife of his father was alive, is legitimized by the fact that the relation continued after the death of the first wife, and is entitled to a distributive share of his mother's estate with the children of the first marriage. In re Schmidt, 42 Misc. 463, 87 N. Y. S. 428.

78. Under Code providing that the father by publicly acknowledging a child as his own and receiving it into his home, etc., thereby adopts it, a will recognizing a child which remained in possession of testator's brother was not an acknowledgment within the statute. In re De Laveaga's Estate, 142 Cal. 158, 75 P. 790. Nor was a witnessed instrument declaring the one executing it to be the father of a certain child, "living as the foster son of another." Id. Nor the fact that the father paid for his support where the child never lived with him at his home. Id. Mere reference in casual conversation to a child as his is not proof of acknowledgment. Succession of Vance, 110 La. 760, 34 So. 767.

79. The fact that the father has no legitimate child, the treatment of which may be compared, is immaterial. In re Heaton's Estate, 139 Cal. 237, 73 P. 186.

80. See 1 Curr. L. 340.

81. See Gambling Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 129.

§ 1. The offense and criminal prosecutions. A. The offense.[82]—Every act of exhibiting a device for the purpose of gaming is an offense,[83] and a single bet or wager may be a violation of a statute against bets and wagers.[84] By statute an accessory before the fact in gaming may be punished as the principal.[85] One who acts as agent for parties out of the state, and who receives a commission on each transaction, is not guilty of buying and selling futures,[86] and receiving money in one state to be wagered by telegraph in another is not carrying on a gambling business in the former state.[87]

Validity of regulations.[88]—Legislation has been held valid which made it illegal to knowingly have in possession papers or property used in policy playing,[89] or to bet upon a horse race,[90] or to engage in pool selling outside of a race track authorized by law,[91] or to lease premises to be used for pool room purposes,[92] or to transmit messages to pool rooms for betting purposes,[93] or to play specified games of chance,[94] or to deal in futures,[95] or to keep a place where the pretended sale of stocks and provisions is indulged in,[96] or to bet upon an election,[97] likewise of legislation providing for the destruction of gaming implements;[98] but the giving of trading stamps is not a lottery which may be prohibited by the legislature.[99] In New York it is illegal to offer property for distribution, the title to which is to be determined by chance or lottery.[1] In the absence of express authority, a town cannot regulate gaming,[2] and a municipal ordinance against the conducting of a "bunco business" and in conflict with the statute upon gambling, is invalid.[3] An

82. See 1 Curr. L. 340.
83. Dalton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 25.
84. Rev. St. 1899, § 4157, declares that words importing plural number shall include single transactions. State v. Villines [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 212.
85. Rev. St. 1899, § 2364. State v. Edgen [Mo.] 80 S. W. 942.
86. Held, that defendant merely received offers for purchases or sales. Scales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 947.
87. McQuesten v. Steinmetz [N. H.] 58 A. 876.
88. See 1 Curr. L. 340.
89. Such a statute is not class legislation. Pen. Code, § 344A, Laws 1901, p. 431. People v. Adams, 176 N. Y. 351, 68 N. E. 636; People v. Adams, 85 App. Div. 390, 83 N. Y. S. 481; Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.
90. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225.
91. People v. Shannon, 87 App. Div. 32, 83 N. Y. S. 1061.
92. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225.
93. City of Louisville v. Wehmhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1924, 79 S. W. 201.
94. Slot machines, faro, roulette, monte, or any other game played with cards, dice, or other devices of whatever nature, for money, checks, credits, or other representatives of value [Laws 1901, c. 65]. State v. Cahill [Wyo.] 75 P. 433. A "sitting" may include many hands. All that transpires in playing the game of draw poker from the time certain players begin playing together on any one occasion until they cease playing together on that occasion is one transaction, and players are winners or losers according to final results. Zellers v. White, 208 Ill. 518, 70 N. E. 669.
95. Art. 377, Pen. Code. Fullerton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 534.
96. Defendant convicted though the business was done through an agent in another town than where defendant lived [Rev. St. 1899, § 2339]. State v. Kentner [Mo.] 77 S. W. 522. Art. 377, Pen. Code. Fullerton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 534.
97. Com. v. Leak, 25 Ky. L. R. 761, 76 S. W. 368. An election guessing contest is a wager. Hence violates Rev. St. § 4269. Hobing v. Enquirer Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 205.
98. State v. Klondike Machine [Vt.] 57 A. 994; Kite v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 886; Furth v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 759; Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 275.
99. Such a scheme is but a species of advertising, and a statute forbidding it is unconstitutional. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983.

NOTE. Trading stamps: The decision above cited is in line with the great weight of authority. To the same effect see City of Winston v. Beeson [N. C.] 47 N. E. 457, citing State v. Dalton, 22 R. I. 77, 46 A. 234; Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327; Ex parte McKenna, 126 Cal. 429, 58 P. 916; State v. Shugart, 138 Ala. 86, 35 So. 28; People v. Dycker, 72 App. Div. 308, 76 N. Y. S. 111; Com. v. Emerson, 165 Mass. 146, 42 N. E. 559; Com. v. Sisson, 178 Mass. 578, 60 N. E. 385; People v. Gillson, 109 N. Y. 389, 17 N. E. 343; Long v. State, 74 Md. 565, 22 A. 4. In Lansburgh v. District of Columbia, 11 App. D. C. 512, a trading stamp scheme was held to be a gift enterprise within a statutory definition of the term. See, also, Lotteries, 2 Curr. L. 764.

1. Pen. Code, § 328. Such an offense being a misdemeanor the supreme court had no jurisdiction. People v. Pickert, 89 N. Y. S. 183.
2. State v. Godfrey [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 185.
3. Clark v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 722.

ordinance requiring a license fee of $250.00 for each pool table is not an unreasonable regulation.[4] The Arkansas gambling law of 1901 was not constitutionally enacted in that the acts which passed the respective houses of the legislature did not correspond.[5] The New York statute making the possession of policy slips presumptive evidence of guilt against all except officers of the law is valid.[6]

Cards and other table games.[7]—It is not essential that a "table" be used to bring a gambling device within a statute prohibiting games of a like kind to certain table games,[8] or that there should be the principle of the one against the many.[9] A turkey raffle may constitute a table or bank game where the exhibitor is certain of a profit.[10] Craps is a table or bank game where one person sits behind a table and takes the bets of all others,[11] and is not within a statutory exception allowing certain dice games at a private residence.[12] The change of name of any of the games forbidden will not prevent conviction for playing them.[13] In Texas the mere exhibiting of a table or bank for gaming purposes is illegal,[14] and it is immaterial whether money or anything of value was bet.[15]

Racing and race tracks.[16]—The general rule is that betting on a horse race is gaming, and it is immaterial that the race is conducted elsewhere;[17] but betting on a horse race is not "gaming" in Kentucky.[18] Pool selling and book making outside the race course authorized by law are illegal in New York,[19] and the principal is liable for the acts of his agent in conducting a forbidden business,[20] but one who makes a bet, as agent for the bettor, is not guilty of "taking or accepting a bet" on a horse race.[21] The business of conducting a pool room or turf exchange may lawfully be discriminated against, though the business is thereby rendered unprofitable.[22] Recording of bets by "mechanical or other means" will include the registering of bets upon cards by use of initials.[23]

Slot machines.[24]—The keeping or exhibiting of any slot machine for gaming purposes is illegal in Texas.[25] A slot machine on which a cigar is guaranteed for each play is illegal as a table or bank game.[26] Where the statute enumerates cer-

4. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 3541, the city had power to regulate, restrain, license, or prohibit pool tables. Wysong v. Lebanon [Ind.] 71 N. E. 194.

5. Acts 1901, p. 114. Rogers v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 169.

6. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 341.

8. A slot machine is within this statute [Code 1899, § 151]. State v. Gaughan [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 210.

9. Dalton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 25.

10. The exhibitor made from 30 to 50 cents on each raffle and the turkey was seldom taken by the winner, being sold to a confederate of the exhibitor. Dalton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 25. See, also, Lotteries, 2 Curr. L. 764.

11. Pen. Code 1895, art. 388. Faucett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 548. The playing of craps is illegal in Florida. Parkhill v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 170. See 1 Curr. L. 341, n. 8.

12. Faucett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 548.

13. Ky. St. 1899, § 1961. Miller v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1236, 77 S. W. 682.

14. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, arts. 682, 683. The state need not show that any betting was done. Brogden v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 378.

15. Carroll v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 294.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 341.

17. Thrower v. State, 117 Ga. 753, 45 S. E. 126. The selling of pools upon horse races is gambling. Moores v. State [Neb.] 99 N. W. 249.

18. Though punishable under a statute against wagering. City of Louisville v. Wehmhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1924, 79 S. W. 201.

19. Const. art. 1, § 9; Pen. Code, § 351. People v. Corballs, 86 App. Div. 531, 83 N. Y. S. 782; People v. Shannon, 87 App. Div. 32, 83 N. Y. S. 1061; People v. McCue, 87 App. Div. 72, 83 N. Y. S. 1088.

20. People v. Canepl, 87 N. Y. S. 773.

21. Acts Leg. 1903, p. 68, c. 50, p. 1. Windsor v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 312.

22. Act No. 206, p. 397 of 1902, confers on municipalities power to regulate or suppress poolrooms. City of Shreveport v. Schulsinger [La.] 36 So. 870.

23. "Mechanical" comprehends all of that class, and "other means" is meaningless unless it comprehends some means other than mechanical. State v. Villines [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 212.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 341.

25. Clark v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 617.

26. A player was entitled to five cents in trade for every nickel he lost, though a loser seldom called for such reward. Meeks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 910. In West Virginia a slot machine is a banking game like A. B. C. tables, faro, etc., if it tain devices, a device not enumerated must be shown to be ordinarily used in gambling to bring it within a general clause of the statute.[27]

Gaming at public place.[28]—The playing a game of cards or dice in a public place is forbidden in Alabama.[29] Under a statute forbidding gaming except at a private residence occupied by a family, a tent may constitute such an exception,[30] and a game within 10 feet thereof was held to be "at the residence."[31] A private residence commonly resorted to for gaming is not within the exception,[32] nor a dug-out adjacent to a residence and occasionally used by the family,[33] but a room securely locked and accessible only to those engaged in the play is not a public place or place of public resort,[34] nor are an officer's living rooms in a county jail.[35] The testimony of one witness is sufficient for a jury to find that it was a "public place."[36]

Keeping a gaming place.—Keeping and maintaining a gaming house was a nuisance and punishable at common law[37] even before any sort of game was prohibited.[38] One may be guilty of keeping a gaming house, who maintains a place for people to congregate for betting purposes,[39] or who maintains a place where the public is invited to buy pools,[40] or who keeps a room where gaming is conducted, though such fact be unknown to him.[41] That the bets were consummated in another state is not a good defense in a prosecution for keeping a gaming house.[42] Each person participating in the keeping of a gaming house may be guilty of the offense though each performed but one of the subdivided duties.[43]

(§ 1) B. Indictment or information and trial procedure.[44]—Gaming and allied offenses being statutory, an indictment charging any of them is sufficient if it follows the statute and the latter sets forth all the facts which constitute the offense;[45] it need not allege the intent of the defendant,[46] nor state with particugives unequal chances, in favor of the exhibitor. State v. Gaughan [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 210.

27. Com. v. Schatzman [Ky.] 82 S. W. 238.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 341.

29. Code 1896, § 4792. Dennis v. State [Ala.] 35 So. 651.

30. Arts. 379b, 381, Acts 1901, p. 26. The owner, who had been divorced, lived with one son in a tent which constituted their only home. Hipp v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 28.

31. Hipp v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 28.

32. Art. 379, Pen. Code 1895, as amended by Acts 1901, p. 26, c. 22. Evidence that parties went there six or eight times in six months held sufficient to sustain a finding that it was commonly resorted to. Floeckinger v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 303.

33. Such a place is an outhouse and not a private residence. Huse v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 618.

34. So held where the play was in the room of an hotel. State v. Kyer [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 694.

35. Though the building be owned by the public, it is not a public house within the statute. A public house is one which is commonly open to the public, either for business, pleasure, religious worship, the gratification of curiosity, or the like. Lewis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 99.

36. Testimony of one witness that he had played craps in this same fence corner, off and on for four or five years, and the place was known as "The Old Crap Ground." Dennis v. State [Ala.] 35 So. 651.

37. State v. Morgan, 133 N. C. 743, 45 S. E. 1033.

38. Thrower v. State, 117 Ga. 753, 45 S. E. 126.

39. Though the betting be not unlawful. Jones v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 561. One who conducts gambling in a house which he had rented out would be in possession of the place and guilty of keeping a gaming house. Bryan v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 574.

40. Moores v. State [Neb.] 99 N. W. 249.

41. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 2173. Christ v. State [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 269.

42. The decisive point is that the money was hazarded in the house kept by the accused, though supposedly subject to acceptance or rejection by one in another state. Jones v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 561.

43. Bryan v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 574.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 341.

45. State v. Kentner [Mo.] 77 S. W. 522; Com. v. Schatzman [Ky.] 82 S. W. 238. Code Cr. Proc. §§ 284, 285. People v. Adams, 85 App. Div. 390, 83 N. Y. S. 481; People v. Corballs, 86 App. Div. 531, 83 N. Y. S. 782. It is not sufficient to follow the wording of the statute where the latter so far fails to individualize the offense as to properly notify defendant of the crime he is tried for; an information for conducting a place for the pretended sale of stocks must allege who permitted such acts and knowledge thereof by the defendants. State v. Runzi [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 36. An indictment for playing a game prohibited by statute need not aver the manner in which the game was played, or who participated therein, or that money or property was bet or won or lost thereon. State v. Edgen [Mo.] 80 S. W. 942.

larity the place where the offense was committed.[47] In the absence of statute the information or indictment must name the parties who were permitted to play or allege that they were unknown.[48] An indictment is fatally defective which fails to allege that defendant had charge of a "place" where gaming was conducted,[49] or that some one played upon the slot machine complained of and won or lost something of value,[50] or that does not charge both the crime and the act constituting it,[51] or where the charge is of being a common gambler, that does not specify the kind of gaming indulged in.[52] An indictment for selling futures need not allege the specific sales relied upon,[53] nor one for keeping a gaming house, that games of chance were there played.[54] That one did feloniously engage in "pool selling and selling pools" is sufficient,[55] but a defective indictment for playing in an hotel or tavern cannot be held good for playing in a public place.[56] Where an offense may be committed by doing one or more of several things, the indictment may in a single count allege them together,[57] and conviction may be had on proof of commission of any one of the things, without proof of the commission of the others.[58] Under a statute making each day of conducting the business of dealing in futures a separate offense, such different occasions should be set out in distinct counts.[59] Counts under the statute against gaming, and counts for the common-

An indictment following the statute, naming one of the bettors, and the time and place where the race in question was run, is sufficient. State v. Villines [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 212.

46. The intent is not an ingredient of the offense. State v. Kentner [Mo.] 77 S. W. 522.

47. It is sufficient to locate it in a certain county. Parkhill v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 170; State v. Runzi [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 36. Designation as "The Loveland House" held sufficient. Com. v. Coleman, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220; Com. v. Wood, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220; People v. Corbalis, 86 App. Div. 531, 83 N. Y. S. 782.

48. Code Cr. Proc. 1901, § 217. Moore v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 196; Christ v. State [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 269. Under the statute involved, parties need not be named. Com. v. Wood, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220; Com. v. Coleman, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220. In Kentucky, the indictment must be direct and certain as to the party charged, the offense charged, the county in which the offense was committed, the particular circumstances of the offense charged, if they be necessary to constitute a complete offense [Cr. Code Prac. § 124]. Miller v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1236, 77 S. W. 682.

Contra, the exhibition was made to be seen by the public and it was wholly immaterial who saw it or who was induced to deal thereby. State v. Runzi [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 36.

49. The indictment alleged that defendant had charge and control of a gaming table but not of a "place" under Rev. St. 1892, § 2644. Bravo v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 161. If defendants' ownership of the premises is alleged in the accusative part, it need not be repeated in the descriptive part of the indictment. Com. v. Schatzman [Ky.] 82 S. W. 238.

50. Com. v. McCarty, 25 Ky. L. R. 294, 74 S. W. 1046.

51. Code Cr. Proc. § 275, requiring a plain and concise statement of threats constituting the crime is not complied with by a substantial repetition, purporting to be the facts of the acts alleged as the crime. People v. Corbalis [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 106.

52. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 218. Bickell v. State [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 548.

53. Pen. Code, art. 377, makes such selling a misdemeanor and declares each day of the business to be a separate offense. Fullerton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 534. An indictment for dealing in futures need not allege an actual sale. Scales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 947.

54. An allegation that defendant kept a common gaming house is sufficient, the word gaming having a definite meaning in law i. e. gambling, the playing of games for stakes or wagers. State v. Morgan, 133 N. C. 743, 45 S. E. 1033. There is a difference between gambling and gaming. Gaming refers to contests in which money has been wagered, although there may be no sport, no skill, no element of contest, between those betting. Thrower v. State, 117 Ga. 753, 45 S. E. 126.

55. People v. Corbalis, 86 App. Div. 531, 83 N. Y. S. 782.

56. The words "in the hotel of Lahen Nutteo," are descriptive merely and not of the essence of the offense. State v. Kyer, [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 694.

57. Bickell v. State [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 548; People v. Corbalis, 86 App. Div. 531, 83 N. Y. S. 782. The different parts or stages of the same offense may be joined in one count. One who knowingly suffers money or other property to be raffled for in such house, shop, or building, and to be won there by thowing or using dice or any other game of chance, is guilty of but one offense. Com. v. Coleman, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220.

58. People v. Corbalis, 86 App. Div. 531, 83 N. Y. S. 782. One may be convicted for keeping a place prohibited by law though he was in control of only a part of the building. Com. v. Wood, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220; Com. v. Coleman, 184 Mass. 198, 68 N. E. 220.

59. Failure to set out as above is not law offense of keeping a gaming house, may be joined in the same indictment.[60] The accusation may charge any offense included in the affidavit.[61]

At common law gambling was a nuisance for which a right of trial by jury did not exist.[62]

In Mississippi one indicted for a violation of the gaming laws may be tried thereunder for any antecedent violation not barred by the statute of limitations.[63]

In New York the possession of policy slips is presumptive evidence against all but public officers,[64] and the admission of defendant's private papers, wrongfully seized, is not equivalent to compelling him to be a witness against himself.[65] Cases involving the admissibility[66] and sufficiency of evidence in gambling cases are discussed below.[67]

It is error to say to the jury that although evidence as to defendant's good character is admissible it does not amount to much in a gaming case.[68] One charged with playing and betting on a card game on Sunday is entitled to an instruction that there must be proof beyond a reasonable doubt of the betting as well as the playing,[69] and as to whether defendant bet is a question for the jury.[70] cured by confining the prosecution to one day. Pen. Code, art. 377. Scales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 947.

The recognizance on appeal must be in strict compliance with the statute.[71]

60. The offenses are of the same nature and a similar judgment might be passed in each case. State v. Morgan, 133 N. C. 743, 45 S. E. 1033. The information should be verified or supported by affidavit of a person competent to testify. But such a defect will not be considered when raised for the first time on appeal after conviction. State v. Runzi [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 36.

61. The accusation cannot be broader than the affidavit, but as the greater includes the lesser, if the affidavit is general, the accusation can be specific. Glass v. State, 119 Ga. 299, 46 S. E. 435.

62. Furth v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 759.

63. Code 1892, § 1431. But an indictment charging a number of defendants with individual offenses was bad. Howard v. State [Miss.] 35 So. 654.

64. Such a statute is not unconstitutional as allowing any public official to hold policy slips, for it relates only to cases where slips are seized and are in the custody of the officers of the law. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.

65. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.

66. That a house was knowingly rented for gaming purposes may be shown only by facts and inferences therefrom. Evidence admissible that the renter was generally known as a gambler, and as to the past use of the house. Rivers v. State, 118 Ga. 42, 44 S. E. 859. Evidence that defendant's name was on a building in which gaming was being conducted is admissible to show his control of the premises. Evidence that defendant was reputed to be the owner of the place and business is inadmissible. Crippen v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 372. It is reversible error to admit evidence of another offense than that charged in the information. Defendant was charged with allowing a minor to play pool upon defendant's premises, and the court admitted evidence of such conduct at another time than as charged. State v. Meadows [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 463. The husband of a woman indicted jointly with another defendant is not incompetent to testify on the separate trial of such other defendant, though his testimony may tend to incriminate his wife. In case of a joint trial, his testimony would be incompetent. Rivers v. State, 118 Ga. 42, 44 S. E. 859. In a prosecution for dealing in futures, defendant should be allowed to put in evidence the charter of the corporation he represented. The charter permitted a sale of cotton, etc., unless actual delivery was contemplated. Scales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 947.

67. Evidence that defendant and others each had cards in his hands, and money in front of him, and upon discovery attempted to escape, held sufficient to sustain verdict of guilty of playing and betting at a game played with cards for money. Harmon v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 547. Need not show the character of the game nor which of the players won or lost. Arnold v. State, 117 Ga. 706, 45 S. E. 59. That defendant and others were arranged in a circle with money in the center, and one of the party shuffling a deck of cards, is sufficient to sustain conviction for playing and betting at cards. Frost v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 901. A charge of keeping and maintaining a gaming house is sustained by evidence of guilt of either keeping or maintaining. Bryan v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 574. The jury must believe beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant was present or permitted a minor to play pool upon defendant's tables to convict under Rev. St. 1899, § 439. State v. Meadows [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 463. In a prosecution for dealing in futures the state must show an agreement not to have an actual delivery. Scales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 947.

68. Civ. Code 4334. Turner v. State, 118 Ga. 756, 45 S. E. 598.

69. Russ v. State, 138 Ala. 1, 35 So. 107.

70. That one of the witnesses testified that the game being played could not be played without betting on it did not conclude the jury in that particular. Russ v. State, 138 Ala. 1, 35 So. 107.

71. Recognizance would be fatally defective which omitted "in this case," and "of the

The court will not reverse a conviction for gaming where the finding of the jury was fully supported by the evidence.[72]

§ 2. Penalties and seizure of implements.[73]—Laws punishing gaming are remedial and are to be construed liberally, not liberally for the culprit, but for the suppression of evil.[74] Gaming instruments may be seized and destroyed upon summary proceedings, without a jury trial,[75] and it is no defense that the instrument might have been used for lawful purposes, if in fact it was used for gambling.[76]

§ 3. Recovery back of money lost.[77]—At common law, one wagering money could recover it at any time before a determination of the wager;[78] but by statute one may recover his wager from a stakeholder before or after the funds leave the latter's hands,[79] and such a claim is assignable by parol.[80] Recovery may be had of one for money lost to his agents or servants.[81] In Kentucky one who induces another to enter or play in a gaming place is liable to penalty and responsible to such other's creditors for the sum lost,[82] but this does not permit a part owner of the resort to recover of his partners.[83] In New York one may recover money lost on a wager on a horse race.[84] It is no defense that the game was played for chips,[85] or that defendant received part of plaintiff's stakes from others to whom they had been lost.[86] That the money secured on a mortgage was used to support a gaming place will not invalidate the mortgage in the hands of an innocent third party,[87] and a bona fide purchaser before maturity may recover on a note given in transfer for other notes executed in consideration of gambling debts.[88] Plaintiff cannot recover on checks given to pay a gaming debt contracted in his hotel and with his same" court. Meeks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 910.

72. Protbro v. State, 118 Ga. 73, 44 S. E. 802.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 342.

74. Fuller v. State [Miss.] 35 So. 214. A Florida statute prescribing a penalty for maintaining gaming apparatus held not repealed by a later statute prescribing a penalty for setting up or promoting games of chance and an information under the former was good. Dardem v. State [Fla.] 32 So. 924.

75. The right of trial by jury does not exist in such cases. Kite v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 886. Sand. & H. Dig. § 1618; Acts 1901, p. 114. Furth v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 759. Statute authorizing seizure and destruction of gaming table is not unconstitutional. Code 1899, § 1, c. 151. Such property may be destroyed only after conviction in the circuit court. Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 275. In Vermont a justice of the peace may order the destruction of a Klondike machine and no appeal lies from such an order [Acts 1898, p. 92, No. 121, § 2]. State v. Klondike Machine [Vt.] 57 A. 994.

76. Improper use without the knowledge of mortgagee. Kite v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 886.

77. See 1 Curr. L. 342.

78. When the losing party to an illegal contract remains silent until the contract is executed by the determination of the result upon which the wager was made, he cannot recover his part of the stake. Dooley v. Jackson [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 330. As to recovery back of money obtained by fraud in procuring wager on pretended foot race, see Wright v. Stewart, 130 F. 905.

79. 1 Rev. St. (1st Ed.) p. 662, pt. 1, c. 20, tit. 8, § 8; 1 Birdseye's Rev. St. (3d Ed.) pp. 299, 300. Bernstein v. Horth, 85 N. Y. S. 263. 1 Rev. St. p. 662, §§ 8, 9. This right is in no way affected by section 17 of Laws 1895, p. 377, c. 570. Mendoza v. Rose, 88 N. Y. S. 938; Dooley v. Jackson [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 330. But after determination of the result demand must be made previous to expiration of time agreed upon for determination of act, and action must be brought in three months of the accruing of the right [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 3430-3432]. White v. Gilleland, 93 Mo. App. 310.

80. Bernstein v. Horth, 85 N. Y. S. 263.

81. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 38, § 132. Zellers v. White, 208 Ill. 518, 70 N. E. 669.

82. Ky. St. § 1969. Stapp v. Mason, 24 Ky. L. R. 1680, 72 S. W. 11.

83. The statute was enacted for the protection of the community against gamblers and not for their protection. Wife of one partner not permitted to recover of other partners, money held by her husband belonging to her and lost in the business. Stapp v. Mason, 24 Ky. L. R. 1680, 72 S. W. 11.

84. Laws 1895, p. 377, c. 570, § 17. Though he went to the race course with the intention of suing if he lost. Moulton v. Westchester Racing Ass'n, 42 Misc. 487, 84 N. Y. S. 871.

85. The chips were merely markers, the money being actually deposited with the gaming house keeper. Zellers v. White, 208 Ill. 518, 70 N. E. 669.

86. Defendant won from all and was held liable for plaintiff's entire loss. Zellers v. White, 208 Ill. 518, 70 N. E. 669.

87. Birdsall v. Wheeler, 173 N. Y. 590, 65 N. E. 1114.

88. Higginbotham v. McGready [Mo.] 81 S. W. 883.

knowledge,[89] and in Colorado an assignment of note or other evidence of debt is void where any part of the consideration is a gambling debt.[90] A statute permitting a defense that an obligation was based on a gambling transaction, though such obligation shall have been transferred, is not unconstitutional.[91]

BIGAMY.

The offense.[92]—One may be guilty of bigamy, though he believes his first wife to be dead, or is ignorant of her being alive for less than seven years.[93] It is a complete defense that the first marriage alleged in the indictment is void by reason of a prior lawful marriage, still existing;[94] but restraint of marriage for a limited time because of divorce does not so invalidate a marriage during that time, subsequently ratified by cohabitation, that a third marriage does not constitute polygamy.[95] In Missouri, the statute of limitations does not run against the offense of bigamy during the pendency of an indictment subsequently quashed.[96]

Indictment[97] may be based on a voidable marriage,[98] and need not allege the legality of the former nor the illegality of the second marriage, nor the time and place of the celebration of the former marriage.[99]

Evidence and instructions.[1]—The burden is on the prosecution to prove both marriages and that the first wife was living at the time of the second marriage, but it falls upon defendant to prove that for seven years prior to his second marriage he did not know his first wife was living.[2] The previous marriage may be proven by circumstantial evidence,[3] or the uncorroborated admissions of the defendant,[4] and proof of the celebration of a marriage raises a presumption of the existence of every fact necessary to the validity thereof.[5] The testimony of the second wife, as to the second marriage, is admissible, but the incompetency of a lawful wife as a witness cannot be waived.[6] The introduction in evidence of a contract for

89. Jones v. Akin [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 385.

90. Bank not compelled to honor a certificate of deposit which had been assigned in gambling; such an assignment is of no greater force than a forgery [Mills' Ann. St. § 1344]. Western Nat. Bank v. State Bank [Colo. App.] 70 P. 439.

91. Rev. St. 1899, § 3427. Higginbotham v. McGready [Mo.] 81 S. W. 883.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 342. Com. v. Josselyn [Mass.] 71 N. E. 313.

93. Absence of a wife driven away by the husband will not excuse him from inquiry even after seven years. State v. Goulden, 134 N. C. 743, 47 S. E. 450.

94. Lane v. State [Miss.] 34 So. 353.

95. By statute, defendant, upon divorce proceedings, was forbidden to marry for two years; St. 1895, p. 476, c. 427, providing a marriage improper because of a former spouse living, shall become valid upon termination of the impediment. Such a statute is not unconstitutional as retrospective. Commonwealth v. Josselyn [Mass.] 71 N. E. 313.

96. Rev. St. 1899, § 2422. State v. Hansbrough [Mo.] 80 S. W. 900.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 342.

98. Intoxication at the time of marriage will not render it void, but only voidable. Barber v. People, 203 Ill. 543, 68 N. E. 93.

99. Ferrill v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 220.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 343.

2. State v. Goulden, 134 N. C. 743, 47 S. E. 450.

3. State v. Pendleton, 67 Kan. 180, 72 P. 527. A valid marriage will be deemed proven, in the absence of rebutting testimony, from proof of marriage in fact followed by cohabitation and birth of children. Ferrell v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 220. Circumstances are admissible as tending to prove the marriage, though not sufficient to constitute a marriage. While a common-law marriage required no particular form or ceremony, enough had to be said and done to make a contract; proof of cohabitation and the public recognition of each other as husband and wife for twenty years held not sufficient to show a contract. State v. Hansbrough [Mo.] 80 S. W. 900.

4. McSein v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 544. Evidence was properly received that about two weeks previous to his second marriage, defendant was challenged with the existence of his first wife and replied that he wished he would hear of her death so that he would be free. State v. Goulden, 134 N. C. 743, 47 S. E. 450.

5. But such presumption is not conclusive. Barber v. People, 203 Ill. 543, 68 N. E. 93. But statutory provisions of New York, prohibiting marriage within three years after divorce in certain cases, is inadmissible as evidence, where divorce procured elsewhere. State v. Bentley, 75 Vt. 163, 53 A. 1068.

6. Barber v. People, 203 Ill. 543, 68 N. E. 93.

marriage because of seduction was not error where evidence tending to prove the same had been admitted without objection.[7]

An instruction is not improper which charges the jury that a mistake as to whether the first spouse was living is not a good defense unless proper care to ascertain the facts be shown.[8]

BLACKMAIL.

Blackmail consists in extorting or attempting to extort money by threats, as of violence,[9] or of arrest.[10]

An indictment in the language of the statute without stating the words of the threat is sufficient.[11] The use of "maliciously" instead of the statutory word "willfully" is not fatal.[12] An averment that defendant threatened a certain person with intent to extort money from him sufficiently imports that the threat was made in the hearing of such person.[13]

Evidence of the previous relations of the parties is admissible to characterize the language used in the transaction in question.[14]

BONDS.

§ 1. The Instrument; Essentials and Validity (507).
§ 2. Rights of Parties and Transferees (510).
§ 3. The Terms and Conditions in General; Interpretation, Legal Effect, Breach (511).
§ 4. Remedies and Procedure (514).

Scope of title.—Questions relating to negotiable bonds,[15] to indemnity,[16] and to suretyship, are treated elsewhere,[17] as are matters peculiar to various bonds given in the course of legal proceedings.[18]

§ 1. The instrument; essentials and validity.[19]—A statutory bond running to the wrong party,[20] or containing provisions not required by the statute,[21] while not good as such, may be enforced as a voluntary or common-law obligation, if not repugnant to the letter or policy of the law.[22] A bond not required by statute,

7. Welch v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 50.

8. The court need not specify the sources of information which led to the alleged mistake. Welch v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 50.

9. Any form of expression causing a fear of death is sufficient to constitute a "threat to kill," and it is not material that defendant was not in fact armed, if the person threatened thought he was. Glover v. People, 204 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 464.

10. Extortion by impersonating an officer and threatening arrest held blackmail, not false pretenses. Jackson v. State, 118 Ga. 125, 44 S. E. 833.

11, 12, 13. Glover v. People, 204 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 464.

14. Though it tends to prove an independent crime by defendant. Glover v. People, 204 Ill. 170, 68 N. E. 464.

15. See Municipal Bonds, 2 Curr. L. 931; Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Corporations, 1 Curr. L. 710.

16. See Indemnity, 2 Curr. L. 198.

17. See Suretyship, 2 Curr. L. 1776.

18. See Attachment, 1 Curr. L. 239; Appeal and Review, 1 Curr. L. 85; Injunction, 2 Curr. L. 397, and like titles.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 343.

20. Dudley v. Rice, 119 Wis. 97, 95 N. W. 936. A contractor's bond running to the city instead of to the state, as required by statute, is a good common-law obligation. Pacific Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 33 Wash. 47, 73 P. 772. An official bond running to a named person, described as mayor, and to his successors in office, instead of to the mayor and council of the municipality as required by law, is not a good statutory bond, but may be enforced as a voluntary or common-law obligation. Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211, 45 S. E. 28. In such case, the obligee named therein, or his personal representatives, are the only persons who can maintain an action thereon. Neither the person to whom the law requires the bond to be given nor his personal representatives can do so. Id. To county treasurer for county instead of to county. Buhrer v. Baldwin [Mich.] 100 N. W. 468. Constable's bond running to county judge instead of the governor. Hines v. Norris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 791.

21. Dudley v. Rice, 119 Wis. 97, 95 N. W. 936. A bond given to the United States by a collector of internal revenue, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties by all deputies, is valid and enforceable, although the statute only requires one for the performance of the collector's own duties [U. S. Rev. St. § 3143, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2041]. Laffan v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 333.

22. Dudley v. Rice, 119 Wis. 97, 95 N. W. 936. Even if an administrator's bond, which if given voluntarily for a valid consideration, is binding at common law, unless repugnant to the letter or policy of the law;[23] but one unlawfully exacted by a court or officer,[24] or given pursuant to an unconstitutional statute,[25] unless supported by a consideration independent thereof,[26] is void and cannot be enforced for any purpose. To render a bond void for want of conformity to a statute, it must be made so by express enactment, or must be intended as a fraud on the obligors, by color of law, by an evasion of the statute.[27] Mere irregularities[28] or clerical errors do not affect the validity of the instrument.[29]

A security for costs on appeal, which does not set out the amount for which the makers agree to become responsible, is invalid.[30]

The formal approval of bonds required in certain legal proceedings may be waived,[31] and where the bond was voluntarily given to procure an advantage to the principal obligor, neither he nor his surety can object that it was not entered does not state that it is payable for the benefit of all concerned, and which was never approved by the ordinary, has no sureties, and the conditions of which are not in the exact terms of the statute, is not a valid statutory bond; it is good as a voluntary obligation. Awtrey v. Campbell, 118 Ga. 464, 45 S. E. 301.

23. Dudley v. Rice, 119 Wis. 97, 95 N. W. 936. A bond of the guardian of a lunatic, conditioned that such guardian would pay over the amount found due on a settlement, either with the court or with the ward if found of sound mind, is enforceable as a common-law obligation, though the court had no jurisdiction of the guardianship proceedings, so that it was invalid as a statutory bond. The statute limiting the time within which an action can be brought against the sureties thereon (Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3968) became a part of the contract, though it does not apply as a statute. Id. A court of equity has power to accept from defendant, as a condition of the discharge of a receiver for its property, a bond conditioned for the performance of the final decree, and to render judgment thereon against both principal and surety for the amount of complainant's ultimate recovery. Such bond is good as a common-law obligation, and the obligor, after receiving the benefits resulting from its execution, is estopped from denying its validity. Twin City Power Co. v. Barrett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 302.

24. In such cases there is no consideration, the obligor being entitled to every right claimed without bond, and hence securing nothing by giving it. Dudley v. Rice, 119 Wis. 97, 95 N. W. 936.

25. Bond given by a contractor under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1203. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 P. 964.

26. As bond given on appeal in action of forcible entry and detention, conditioned on payment of rent, where obligor has retained possession of premises thereunder, and statute allowing appeal has afterwards been declared unconstitutional. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Ettenheimer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 652.

27. Meador v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 238.

28. Bond running to treasurer for use of county instead of to county. Buhrer v. Baldwin [Mich.] 100 N. W. 468. If the penalty of a statutory bond, voluntarily given, be greater than that prescribed by said statute, the bond is valid and enforceable to the amount of the statutory penalty, and void only as to the excess. Bond for sale of malt liquors under Tex. Rev. St. 1895, art. 5060g, as amended by Laws 1901, c. 136. Meador v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 238. The fact that an official bond is joint instead of joint and several as required by statute cannot be availed of by the obligors as a defense in an action thereon, but the bond is good to the extent it complies with the statute in that regard. Wilcox v. Perkins County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 236. An action on an administrator's bond, from which the amount of the penalty has been omitted, may be maintained without a reformation of the instrument. McManus v. Harrigan, 41 Misc. 615, 85 N. Y. S. 220. The omission from a receiver's bond of a certificate to the effect that the officer who took the acknowledgment of the surety was a notary public is a mere irregularity. Such a bond is properly received in evidence in an action by the receiver. Livingston v. Eaton, 90 App. Div. 251, 85 N. Y. S. 500. The validity of an attachment bond is not affected by the fact that the names of two of the sureties, who signed it at the bottom, do not appear in its body, nor by defects in the affidavit for attachment. McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45. A redelivery bond in attachment, providing that, in case plaintiff recovered judgment in the action, defendant would, on demand, pay to plaintiffs the amount of said judgment, with the costs and disbursements of the action, is a substantial compliance with a statute requiring a bond "to the effect that the sureties will pay to plaintiff the amount of the judgment that may be recovered against the defendant in the action," and is enforceable as a statutory bond [Hill's Ann. Laws Or. 1892, § 159]. Ebner v. Heid [C. C. A.] 125 F. 680.

29. Where an appeal bond states that the sureties are worth "$200, not subject to execution over and above all liabilities," the word "not" will be regarded as a clerical error. Jones v. Herrick, 33 Wash. 197, 74 P. 332.

30. The affidavit of the sureties thereon that each is worth a specified sum does not cure the defect. Under S. C. circuit court rule, No. 10. Taylor v. Dempsey, 66 S. C. 513, 45 S. E. 78.

31. Plaintiff may waive formal approval of statutory bond to discharge attachment [approval required under Iowa Code 1897, § 3907]. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Bowen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 897.

into before the proper officer.[32] A bond partially conditioned for the performance of a contract farming out a portion of the fees of a paid office is invalid as to such portion.[33] The validity of a receiver's bond, or its execution, cannot be raised collaterally in defense of an action brought by him to foreclose a mortgage.[34]

Consideration.[35]—A bond under seal imports a consideration.[36] If the guaranty and the contract guarantied are a part of the same transaction, the consideration for the latter supports the former;[37] but if they are not one transaction, the bond must be supported by an independent consideration.[38] There is sufficient consideration to support a contractor's bond, where, prior to the execution of a building contract, the obligee demanded a bond from the contractor, and signed the contract in consideration of his promise to furnish one, even though one was not required by such contract.[39] The dissolution of an attachment is sufficient consideration to support a bond given to secure the release of the attached property.[40] Where, on appeal, an undertaking is given beyond that required by statute, it cannot be enforced as to such excess unless a consideration aliunde exists therefor.[41] A statutory obligation has its consideration in the attainment of the object allowed by the statute.[42] One who executes a bond under circumstances which would estop him to assert its invalidity for want of consideration cannot, in an action thereon, avoid liability on the ground that plaintiff is estopped to assert that there was any consideration.[43]

Execution.[44]—A stipulation in a bond that it shall not be valid unless countersigned is binding, and absence of the countersignature renders it invalid;[45] but this stipulation may be waived,[46] as may provisions requiring fidelity bonds to be signed by the employe whose fidelity is thereby insured.[47]

32. Where writ issued on replevin bond and property taken under it, fact that it was not entered into before magistrate issuing writ, as required by statute (Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 1057), no defense. Douglass v. Unmack [Conn.] 58 A. 710.

33. Bond of a deputy sheriff for the faithful performance of his duties, embodying a reference to a contract with the sheriff for the portion of the fees, cannot be enforced as to the sum specified in the contract to be paid by the deputy to the sheriff, but is valid as to public funds collected by him by virtue of his office and the sheriff can maintain an action against him thereon, even though such contract rendered the appointment invalid. White v. Cook, 51 W. Va. 201, 41 S. E. 410, 57 L. R. A. 417.

34. Livingston v. Eaton, 90 App. Div. 251, 85 N. Y. S. 500.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 343.

36. Graham v. Middleby [Mass.] 70 N. E. 416; Considine v. Gallagher, 31 Wash. 669, 72 P. 469. Appeal bond. Gein v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

37, 38. Considine v. Gallagher, 31 Wash. 669, 72 P. 469.

39. Sweeney v. Aetna Indemnity Co. [Wash.] 74 P. 1057.

40. The fact that the property was not in the name of the defendant when the bond was executed does not render it without consideration. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Bowen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 897. A bond to release an attachment, which is under seal, and recites as a consideration the release of all the property attached and the discharge of the attachment, is based on a sufficient consideration to render it enforceable as a common-law obligation. Ebner v. Heid [C. C. A.] 125 F. 680.

41. Agreement to pay notes, if unsuccessful, held supported by sufficient consideration. Gein v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

42. No consideration need be expressed to avoid statute of frauds. Appeal bond. Gein v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

43. Bond on appeal in action of forcible entry and detainer given under void statute. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Ettenheimer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 652.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 343.

45. Pacific Nat. Bank v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 428, 74 P. 590.

46. Where the general agent of the bonding company personally induced the guarantee to incur the obligation, gave the bond as indemnity and signed and delivered it himself, having secured the signature of his subordinate agent thereto as a mere matter of form, held, that the bond was executed by such general agent, and the signature of such subordinate was not necessary to give it validity, though it contained a stipulation, inserted by such general agent and not by the company, that such signature was necessary to give it validity. Pacific Nat. Bank v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 428, 74 P. 590. The countersigning of a bond by an agent of the bonding company, who also acted as agent of the principal, held to have been with the consent of the company, and not to have rendered the bond invalid on the theory that such agent acted for both parties. Id.

47. Receipt of premiums therefor and for two renewals, with knowledge that such signature was lacking, works estoppel.

Delivery.[48]—An order of the court discharging an attachment, reciting that it was made upon all the records filed in the case and upon the execution of a good and sufficient undertaking, is conclusive evidence of the delivery of such undertaking to the court and its acceptance by him as a delivery bond for the release of the property, where the bond has been approved by the court and filed with the clerk.[49] Notice of acceptance of a guaranty bond is not necessary.[50] The beneficiary of a bond guaranteeing the acts of another may assume that the premium therefor has been paid.[51] Changes in the contract to secure the performance of which the bond is given, made at the instance of one of the obligors without the knowledge or consent of the obligee, do not affect the validity of the bond.[52]

§ 2. Rights of parties and transferees.[53]—One who has the obligation of two different bonds for the performance of the same contract may enforce either at his election.[54]

A surety bond for the faithful performance of a contract passes under an assignment of such contract, and the assignee may maintain an action thereon in his own name.[55] The assignment of a liquor tax certificate does not release the parties to the bond given to secure it, unless the certificate was presented to the proper authorities for cancellation, or the assignment was consented to by them, as required by statute.[56] A substitution of bonds may be ratified by the obligee therein named.[57] A redelivery bond in attachment is not merged in a supersedeas bond given on appeal, where it is subsequently determined that the appellate court has no jurisdiction in the matter.[58] A bond to secure the faithful performance of his duties by an agent and conditioned to be void if he pays all obligations existing or to arise to his principal may be revoked as to future transactions, at the will of the obligor.[59] A demand by the obligor for his release, and Proctor Coal Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 124 F. 424.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 343.

49. Ebner v. Heid [C. C. A.] 125 F. 680.

50. Where the signers of a bond, guaranteeing the faithful performance of his duties by an employe, delivered it to such employe for delivery to the obligee, with knowledge that the obligee had agreed to accept it, the obligee was not required to give them notice of its acceptance, but it became binding and enforceable on delivery to him. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Freerks [N. D.] 98 N. W. 705.

51. The guarantor is estopped to deny such payment as against the beneficiary who has, in good faith, parted with value, relying thereon, especially where there is no recital therein that such payment is a necessary prerequisite to its validity. Pacific Nat. Bank v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 428, 74 P. 590.

52. The fact that a bonding company furnished a contractor's bond only because of a change in the contract, consented to by an architect acting without authority, and hence not binding on the obligee, did not render the bond void, it having been furnished by the contractor as a consideration for the contract, and delivered to the obligee without notice of the change. Sweeney v. Aetna Indemnity Co. [Wash.] 74 P. 1057.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 343.

54. National Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 294. A proposal bond securing the performance of a mail route contract, and a bond afterwards taken from the contractor for the same purpose, are independent undertakings, and the dismissal of a suit brought on the first bond is no defense to an action on the second. Id.

55. Contract and bond assigned by receivers of a railroad on reorganization thereof. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866. The fact that such bond was executed by a bonding company and that such contracts are held, in a sense, to be insurance contracts, does not render it nonassignable by the obligee. Id. The fact that the contract provided that it might be canceled for a breach of its terms and provided for liquidated damages therefor would not prevent a recovery on a bond given to secure its faithful performance. Id. The fact that the contract to secure the performance of which a bond is given has been assigned is no defense to an action on the bond brought by the obligee. Graham v. Middleby [Mass.] 70 N. E. 416.

56. Cullinan v. Kuch, 177 N. Y. 303, 69 N. E. 597.

57. The action of a sheriff in substituting a new delivery bond in attachment for one previously given, and releasing the sureties on the first one, is ratified by the obligee bringing suit on the second one, with full knowledge of the facts and such obligee is thereby estopped to sue on the first bond, though the sheriff had no authority to take the original bond, and release the property attached. Hesser v. Rowley, 139 Cal. 410, 73 P. 156.

58. Ebner v. Heid [C. C. A.] 125 F. 680.

59. Under California Code (sec. 2814), defining a continuing guaranty as one relating to a future liability of the principal un-consent thereto by the obligee's agent, are sufficient, no formal release being necessary.[60] Suit can be maintained on an official bond only for such wrongful acts of the official as occur during the term of office for which he is chosen.[61] The fact that money received by a public officer by virtue of his office, was collected without authority is no defense to an action on his bond.[62] The obligee in a bond, it seems, gains no rights in a sum deposited to protect the surety.[63] A fund deposited to indemnify a surety does not fall under an equitable lien to the obligee, when the condition of the bond has been fulfilled.[64]

§ 3. The terms and conditions in general; interpretation, legal effect, breach.[65]—A bond will be most strongly construed against the person preparing it;[66] and when given pursuant to an order of court, in the light of and in connection with such order.[67]

A recital in a bond that it was given by virtue of a certain statute is not conclusive, but is simply prima facie evidence of the fact,[68] and when the fact that it is given by virtue of a particular statute is apparent otherwise than by recital, it is as available for all purposes as if recited.[69] A bond will generally be construed as penal in character, even when it expressly recites that the sum named therein is stipulated damages, unless such a construction would tend to defeat its essential object.[70] This import, however, may be overcome by other parts of the instrument.[71] Legislative acts imposing additional duties on a public officer, and expressly making him liable on his bond for a breach thereof, become a part of the bonds thereafter entered into by such officers.[72] der successive transactions; (sec. 2844), providing that a surety has all the rights of a guarantor; (sec. 2815) and that a continuing guaranty may be revoked at any time by the guarantor, as to future transactions. Such a contract is technically one of suretyship. White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Courtney, 141 Cal. 674, 75 P. 296. Where an agent, whose liability to his principal was secured by a bond, had goods of the principal in his possession for sale when the bond was revoked, and the principal thereafter sold the goods to the agent, taking his note therefor, the obligation on the note was a new one, for which the surety was not liable. Id.

60. White Sew. Mach. Co. v. Courtney, 141 Cal. 674, 75 P. 296.

61. State v. Greer, 101 Mo. App. 669, 74 S. W. 881. Where there was no evidence to prove that a public administrator's defalcation occurred during his first term of office, but his annual settlements showed that the balance sued for was still in his hands during his second term, the sureties on his second bond were the parties liable therefor. Id.

62. Money collected from gambling houses and brothels and turned over to city treasurer. City of Philipsburg v. Degenhart [Mont.] 76 P. 694.

63. Malicki v. Bulkley, 206 Ill. 249, 69 N. E. 87.

64. It makes no difference that the liability secured has finally and in another way become fixed and that the principal is insolvent. Malicki v. Bulkley, 206 Ill. 249, 69 N. E. 87. The facts were that an appeal bond was given, that appellant was successful but was defeated on the second trial. Id.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 344.

66. City Trust, S.-D. & S. Co. v. Lee, 204 Ill. 69, 68 N. E. 485. Under a bond guaranteeing an employer against loss sustained through "the dishonesty or any act of fraud" of a collector "amounting to larceny or embezzlement" the bonding company was liable for a conversion of rent collected by him, though this did not amount to larceny or embezzlement, since the words "amounting to embezzlement" did not qualify the word "dishonesty." Id.

67. A bond conditioned to pay damages in the event that a certain cause should be decided in favor of the defendant is not breached because many of the issues were decided in his favor, when the decree of the court was against him and he recovered little or nothing. Baer v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 94. A bond conditioned to pay such damages "as the court might determine" had been sustained by reason of a deposit in court, held to refer to the court then having jurisdiction of the case. Id.

68. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 P. 964.

69. Contractor's bond held to have been given under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1203, although it did not so recite, and hence to be void. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 P. 964.

70. The fact that the amount was intended as liquidated damages and its reasonableness must be affirmatively shown. Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501; Ellis v. Ft. Bend County, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 596, 74 S. W. 43. A bond conditioned for the observance of the liquor law is in the nature of a contract for the observance of such law, and the sum named therein is not a penalty, but liquidated damages (under New York liquor tax law). Cullinan v. Burkhard, 86 N. Y. S. 1003.

71. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

72. Ga. Acts 1872, p. 57, relating to sales of state lands by ordinary. State v. Henderson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 334.

The official bond of a public officer covers all acts of his assistants and deputies within the scope of their authority, the same as if performed by himself personally, though he may be ignorant of their conduct.[73] A bond conditioned that the obligor will observe a liquor license law renders him liable for acts of his clerk while in the performance of his business.[74] The ordinary rules for the construction of written instruments apply.[75] A trust deed given to save harmless the sureties on an official bond inures to the benefit of persons having valid claims against the county on default of such officer.[76]

Renewal bonds take the place of the original bond, and the liability of the maker is not increased thereby, unless it appears that the parties so intended.[77]

73. Bond of a city clerk covering the entire administrative duties of his office covers the acts of his second assistant, the latter being a bonded officer and exempt from the operation of the civil service law of Milwaukee [Laws 1895, c. 313, § 6, p. 633]. Butler v. Milwaukee, 119 Wis. 526, 97 N. W. 185.

74. N. Y. liquor license law. Cullinan v. Burkhard, 86 N. Y. S. 1003.

75. Bonds construed: In a suit on a liquor dealer's bond conditioned that he would not allow minors to "enter and remain" in his place of business, there could be no recovery for entry "or" remaining, but the two must concur [Rev. St. Tex. 1895, art. 5060g, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 314, c. 136, construed]. Minter v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 312. Where the entry and remaining was only for a time sufficient to purchase and drink a glass of beer, and the sale was made in good faith and on reasonable grounds of belief that the person was an adult, there could be no recovery for permitting such entering and remaining. Id. An administrator's bond construed and held to render him liable thereunder to the ordinary, for the benefit of those interested, for whatever damages they might have sustained by his failure to administer the estate according to law. Awtrey v. Campbell, 118 Ga. 464, 45 S. E. 301. A bond running to persons about to reorganize a railroad company, which bound the obligors to pay all indebtedness of the company in excess of a certain sum, held to have been made solely for the benefit of the reorganized company which, after an assignment thereof to it, was entitled to recover the damages suffered by it by reason of a breach of the conditions thereof. Moundsville, B. & W. R. Co. v. Wilson, 52 W. Va. 647, 44 S. E. 169. Surety bond construed and held to contain an unequivocal promise to indemnify the obligee for all loss arising out of any indebtedness then due it from its agent. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v. Prigge, 90 Minn. 370, 96 N. W. 917. The operation of a sewage plant by the city held not to have affected its right to recover on a bond given by the construction company for the faithful performance of its contract, taking into consideration the terms of the contract and the necessity of the use. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097. A bond was given to secure the performance, without delay, of a contract to sell certain property and deposit the proceeds in bank in two installments of equal amount and on specified dates. Held that a failure to deposit either of the installments on the dates named was a breach of the contract, though there was no evidence that the property had been sold. Carpenter v. Fulmer, 118 Wis. 454, 95 N. W. 403. A provision in a bond, given to secure the performance of a contract that any action thereon must be brought within six months after a breach of the contract is a reasonable one. Is a complete defense by the surety to an action brought against it more than six months after such breach, but is not available to the contractor as a defense. Marshalltown Stone Co. v. Louis Drach Const. Co., 123 F. 746. The filing of an amended and substituted petition, merely to supply omissions in the original petition, and to state a cause of action with more certainty, does not constitute the commencement of a new action for the purpose of a defense of such limitation. Id.

76. Jennings v. Taylor [Va.] 45 S. E. 913.

77. A fidelity bond recited that the insurer would make good to the employer, to the extent of $7,000, all loss occasioned by the dishonesty of the employe occurring during the continuance of the bond or any renewal thereof. The liability of the bond was limited to default occurring during one year. A renewal for the following year was given, which recited that it was a renewal bond subject to the conditions of the original bond. Held that the renewal bond was a new contract only so far as it extended the indemnity of the original contract to another year, but there was in effect one bond, with one penalty, viz. $7,000, and the guarantor was liable for that amount only. First Nat. Bank v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 110 Tenn. 10, 75 S. W. 1076. A fidelity bond bound the guarantor to make good any loss sustained by the guarantor occurring during the continuance of the bond or any renewal thereof, and discovered during such continuance or within six months thereafter, and provided that on the issue of any subsequent bond or renewal, liability on bonds previously issued should cease, and that it was the intention of the parties that only the last bond should be in force at any one time. Held that the bond and renewals did not constitute a continuous contract of suretyship, but that each renewal was a separate and distinct contract, and that the original contract and each renewal stood for the malfeasance of the employe during the continuance of each, and discovered within six months after the termination of each, the purpose being to avoid double liability on the part of the company. Proctor Coal Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 124 F. 424.

The official bond of a tax collector conditioned that his sureties will make good all moneys that may come into his hands, that he does not faithfully account for, embraces all such moneys previously received and on hand when the bond was executed, and all moneys subsequently collected, but not prior defalcations, unless the money had then been or was subsequently restored.[78] County warrants issued against funds in the hands of the treasurer, and duly registered as required by law, constitute an equitable assignment of so much of the funds as is necessary to meet their payment, and the treasurer and his sureties become liable therefor.[79] A bond given by a contractor for a public improvement, conditioned on his payment for labor and material furnished, is made for the benefit of laborers and material men, and they may maintain actions thereon.[80] A statutory bond for the hire of convicts furnishes security for the payment of the amount of hire agreed on only, and recovery cannot be had thereon for inhuman treatment of the convicts, or for the breach of any other condition thereof.[81] Requirement that a bond shall be given to secure performance of the contract does not require the owner to accept a bond requiring him to perform additional acts for the protection of his sureties.[82]

A replevin bond is breached by allowing the action to abate.[83]

Where bonds are given during the course of legal proceedings to indemnify parties thereto, the judgment in such proceedings is conclusive as to their breach and the amount of damage resulting therefrom.[84] One who gives an undertaking

78. Lake County v. Neilon [Or.] 74 P. 212.

79. Code Va. 1887, § 2920, relating to limitation of actions on contracts does not apply. No limitation as to principal, and only the ten year limitation as to sureties. Jennings v. Taylor [Va.] 45 S. E. 913.

80. A provision in such bond authorizing its assignment to laborers and material men, and stipulating that in such case it shall inure to the benefit of all of them, does not prevent a material man from suing thereon as a contract for his benefit and without such assignment, where he is the only creditor of the contractor. Buffalo Forge Co. v. Cullen & S. Mfg. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1024. May be joined as coplaintiffs in action brought by city. Town of Gastonia v. McEnlee-Peterson Engineering Co., 131 N. C. 363, 42 S. E. 858. Under a contract for the building of a school house which required the contractor to provide all the materials and perform all the work necessary, and a bond running to the school district alone conditioned that the contractor should provide the materials and all labor necessary and for the delivery to the district of the school house "free and clear from any liens or claims of any kind" and that he should pay any sum of money that the district might be compelled to pay to remove any liens, incumbrances, or claims against the building which might be claimed against the district, the bondsmen were not liable to materialmen for labor and material furnished, the bond being for the benefit of the district alone. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist., 121 Iowa, 663, 97 N. W. 72. A bond exacted from a city contractor for the protection of subcontractors and persons furnishing material for city work is taken for the protection of the city's own interests as well. City of Philadelphia v. Neill, 206 Pa. 333, 55 A. 1032. The statute of California (Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1203), requiring building contractors to secure their contracts by bonds inuring to the benefit of all persons furnishing materials to be used in the building, is unconstitutional as being an unreasonable restriction on the power to make contracts. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 P. 964.

81. Under Rev. St. Tex. 1895, art. 3745, providing that hirers of convicts shall execute a bond in the amount of hire agreed upon, conditioned that he will pay the amount mentioned in the bond when due, that he will treat the convicts humanely, etc. Ellis v. Ft. Bend County, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 596, 74 S. W. 43.

82. The owner need not accept a bond requiring him to give immediate notice in writing to the surety of default by the principal and to institute any suit on the bond within six months after the work is completed. Brown v. Levy, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 389, 69 S. W. 255.

83. An action may be maintained on a replevin bond without the return of an execution, where plaintiff suffers the action to abate after the property has been seized. Laws N. Y. 1902, c. 580, p. 1531 and Code Civ. Proc. § 1731, do not apply to such cases. Not necessary to have case marked dismissed. Verra v. Costantino, 84 N. Y. S. 222. The parties to a replevin bond conditioned for the return of the property if the action is discontinued are liable thereon, if plaintiff fails to appear in the replevin action and retains the property, though no judgment is entered requiring a return of the property, or for its value in case no return is made. No judgment at all having been entered, a statute (Laws N. Y. 1902, c. 580, § 126; Code Civ. Proc. § 1733) providing that after final judgment has been rendered, no action can be maintained until after the return of an execution, does not apply. Rogers v. U. S. Fidelity & Guarantee Co., 84 N. Y. S. 203.

84. Recovery of judgment in action of to procure the discharge of garnishment proceedings cannot, in an action thereon, question whether the garnishee held anything belonging to defendant,[85] nor can one who gives a supersedeas bond to hold in force, pending an appeal, an attachment and garnishment discharged by the trial court be heard, in an action on such bond, to say that the person to whom such bond was given had no interest in the attached property, or that the attachment proceedings were invalid because of irregularity.[86] But one who successfully attacks such appellate proceedings upon the ground that they are unauthorized by law and wholly void is estopped from afterwards asserting that they are in any respect valid, and therefore cannot maintain an action on the appeal undertaking by which they were begun.[87]

Recovery cannot be had on a bond given on the issuance of a temporary injunction, where such injunction is rightfully awarded, but is afterwards properly dissolved because of matters done or arising subsequent to its issuance.[88]

The principal and sureties upon an undertaking in an appeal, prosecuted under a void statute, to a court to which in fact no appeal lies are liable thereon if the court, without objection, entertains the appeal and renders judgment adverse to appellant which is acquiesced in by him.[89]

An indemnity bond given a constable, after an illegal levy under an execution, to induce him not to return the property is enforceable against the sureties.[90]

The fact that county funds are deposited with a partnership in the banking business instead of with a corporation, as required by statute, is no defense to an action thereon.[91]

§ 4. Remedies and procedure.[92]—At common law an action on a bond could only be brought by the obligee named therein, but this rule has been generally modified by statute so as to allow an action to be maintained by the person for whose benefit it was given, he being the real party in interest.[93] Hence it has been held that a person belonging to a class for whose benefit an official bond has been given, and who has been injured by such official's negligence or misconduct, may sue upon the same in his own name.[94] Indemnitors cannot be impleaded by the sureties.[95]

claim and delivery conclusive proof of breach of redelivery bond and amount of resulting damage under S. C. Code, §§ 232, 238. Parish v. Smith, 66 S. C. 424, 45 S. E. 16. A judgment in favor of defendant in an attachment suit is conclusive of the liability of the obligors upon an attachment bond for the payment of all costs and damages defendant may sustain by reason thereof, if the same be wrongful or without sufficient cause. The good faith of plaintiff and the sureties on the bond is immaterial. Defendant is not estopped to maintain an action thereon by giving a bond to release the attachment. Anvil Gold Min. Co. v. Hoxsie [C. C. A.] 125 F. 724. In a suit on a bond given on the issuance of a temporary injunction, the final decree in the injunction suit is res adjudicata as to all matters therein decided. Scott v. Frank, 121 Iowa, 218, 96 N. W. 764. See, also, titles Former Adjudication, 2 Curr. L. 60; Estoppel, 1 Curr. L. 1130.

85. Wilkinson v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 119 Wis. 226, 96 N. W. 560.

86. Whether he is estopped to assert that the proceedings are void for want of jurisdiction not decided. Metcalf v. Bockoven [Neb.] 96 N. W. 406.

87. Void as statutory obligation. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Ettenheimer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 227.

88. Where a temporary injunction was issued restraining the taking of certain land under void condemnation proceedings, and was dissolved after a recondemnation no action on the bond will lie. Scott v. Frank, 121 Iowa, 218, 96 N. W. 764.

89. McVey v. Peddie [Neb.] 96 N. W. 166. See, also, Estoppel, 1 Curr. L. 1130; Suretyship, 2 Curr. L. 1776.

90. Hines v. Norris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 791.

91. Mich. Local Acts 1879, p. 217, No. 393. Buhrer v. Baldwin [Mich.] 100 N. W. 468.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 344.

93. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548. Under Burns' Rev. St. 1894, § 253, the county is the party interested so that the board of commissioners of the county is the proper relator in an action by the state on the bond of a county auditor to recover money alleged to be due the county. Nowlin v. State, 30 Ind. App. 277, 66 N. E. 54.

94. Under Neb. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 29, 643, providing for official bonds, and that they must be joint and several. Suit by heirs on bond of county judge who appropriated money belonging to estate. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548.

NOTE. Right of third person to sue on bond: In New York, the tendency is not to hold obligors liable to third parties, the

An action on an administrator's bond will lie at any time after breach.[96] The authorities are in conflict as to whether an action at law can be maintained on the bond of an officer or fiduciary before settlement of his accounts.[97] Equity has no jurisdiction of a suit by a single creditor of a decedent on the bond of the administrator of his estate, on a legal demand, where such administrator has made the settlements required by law, unless the bill seeks to surcharge or falsify such accounts.[98] Where an act provides that suit on an officer's bond shall be brought in the name of the state, an action so brought is not demurrable, though the bond is made payable to the governor.[99] The fraudulent concealment by a notary of a false acknowledgment certified by him postpones the running of the statute of limitations against an action on his official bond.[1] An action on a bond given to secure the performance of a contract, and conditioned to be void if it was performed, is not an action on a contract for the direct payment of money, within a statute authorizing attachment.[2] In order to make a parol promise that a bond third parties not being the principal ones to be benefited. So where, upon the dissolution of a firm, one partner executes to another a bond with a surety, conditioned for the payment by the partner executing it of all the firm debts, the liability of the obligors is to the obligee only, not to the firm creditors, and an action cannot be maintained thereon by a firm creditor to recover his indebtedness of the obligors. Merrill v. Green, 55 N. Y. 270; Hurd v. Johnson Park Inv. Co., 13 Misc. 643, 34 N. Y. S. 915. And in Buffalo Cement Co. v. McNaughton, 90 Hun, 74, 35 N. Y. S. 453, where a contractor gave a bond to a city, the sureties on which covenant that the contractor shall pay for all materials which he shall purchase and use about the work, and that, in case he fail so to do, the materialmen may bring an action on the bond in their own names to recover for their materials, it was held that materialmen could not sue, in the absence of proof that they knew of the bond and its provisions and furnished the material, relying on the bond; and that the doctrine of Lawrence v. Fox, 20 N. Y. 268, could not apply because the city (the promisee) was under no obligation to the materialmen. The rule in Pennsylvania is strict, since the general doctrine is confined within narrow limits. Morrison v. Beckey, 6 Watts, 349. In Minnesota, it would seem that a third party might sue sureties if the promisee were under some obligation to such third party. Jefferson v. Asch, 53 Minn. 446, 55 N. W. 604, 39 Am. St. Rep. 618. As holding the same rule, see Montgomery v. Rief, 15 Utah, 495, 50 P. 623. The Kansas courts are liberal in permitting a third party to sue sureties. Hardesty v. Cox, 53 Kan. 618, 36 P. 985. The Nebraska courts are even more liberal, and in Lyman v. Lincoln, 38 Neb. 794, 57 N. W. 531, materialmen were allowed to sue sureties on a bond given by a contractor to a city, even though the city (the promisee) seems to have been under no obligation to the materialmen (third parties). See Kaufmann v. Cooper, 46 Neb. 644, 65 N. W. 796; Fitzgerald v. McClay, 47 Neb. 816, 66 N. W. 828, which hold the same doctrine. Missouri courts, on the other hand, and especially as distinguished from New York, hold that a city is under such an obligation to laborers and materialmen who furnish work and materials on public buildings that they can sustain an action against sureties on a bond given to the city. Devers v. Howard, 144 Mo. 671, 46 S. W. 625; School Dist. v. Livers, 147 Mo. 580, 49 S. W. 507; City of St. Louis v. Von Phul, 133 Mo. 561, 34 S. W. 843, 54 Am. St. Rep. 695. The Oregon courts, which insist that some fund must be placed in the hands of the promisor to which the third party has some equitable claim in order to sustain an action by a third party, would naturally deny a third party a right of action against a surety. Parker v. Jeffery, 26 Or. 186, 37 P. 712; Brower Lumber Co. v. Miller, 28 Or. 565, 43 P. 659, 52 Am. St. Rep. 807.—From exhaustive note on right of persons benefited by contract to sue thereon. 71 Am. St. Rep. 169.

95. In an action on a sheriff's bond for failure to turn over taxes collected by him, where no theft or embezzlement was charged, the sureties could not bring in as party defendant and file a petition against a guaranty company which had given them a bond indemnifying them against embezzlement on the part of the sheriff. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fossati [Tex.] 80 S. W. 74.

96. The fact that the claims of the interested parties have not been perfected before suit or judgment is immaterial. Judge of Probate v. Lee [N. H.] 56 A. 188.

97. A county may maintain a common-law action against the sureties on the bond of a county treasurer who fails to pay over to his successor a balance shown by his books to be due the county, though the county auditor may not as yet have settled and adjusted the treasurer's accounts. The Pennsylvania Act (P. L. 545, § 48) providing for the auditing of such accounts and a statement of the balance due from county officers is for the protection of the public and not of the officer or his sureties. Lancaster County v. Hershey, 205 Pa. 343, 54 A. 1038. An action at law cannot be maintained on a guardian's bond until there has been an account or settlement, as provided by law, showing a balance in his hands. Pinnell v. Hinkle [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 171.

98. Thompson v. Mann, 53 W. Va. 432, 44 S. E. 246.

99. State v. Henderson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 334.

1. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 8836, such action must be brought within three years after the cause of action accrues. State v. Hawkins [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 98.

2. Neither the default nor the amount to be paid is certain [Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § given to secure deferred payments for land was not to be paid until an outside interest in such land had been released a defense to an action thereon, it must appear that the purchaser was induced to buy the land and give the bond on the faith of such promise, and would not have done so without it.[3]

Pleading.[4]—A breach of the bond,[5] and resultant damage must be pleaded.[6] A general averment of nonpayment of the penalty is sufficient.[7] Averments of notice to defendant of facts constituting a breach of the conditions of the bond are not necessary where it appears that they are actually or presumptively known to him.[8] A complaint which sets out the bond in full, showing that it is an instrument under seal, is not demurrable for failure to allege that the bond was based on a sufficient consideration.[9] In an action on a forthcoming bond in attachment, an order of court directing the sale of the attached property must be alleged and proved.[10]

Evidence.[11]—To entitle the obligee to recover more than nominal damages he must show the actual damage suffered by him through a breach of the conditions of the bond.[12] Where it is difficult or impossible to show such actual damage, he must show that he has sustained some actual loss, and that the amount of the bond is not unreasonable.[13] A statement of the account of a public officer from the books of the treasury department, properly certified and showing a balance due the United States, is sufficient prima facie evidence of a breach of his bond in failing to account for public money or property.[14] Evidence that plaintiff sold 890]. Ancient Order of Hibernians v. Sparrow [Mont.] 74 P. 197.

3. Stewart v. New York & C. Gas Coal Co., 207 Pa. 220, 56 A. 435.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 345.

5. A complaint on a contractor's bond, setting out the bond in full, including the contract the performance of which it was given to secure, and averring that such contract was unperformed in certain particulars from which the damages claimed resulted, and that settlement had been demanded and refused, sufficiently alleges a breach of the bond, and states a cause of action. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Robertson, 136 Ala. 379, 34 So. 933.

6. An allegation, in an action on a penal bond, that plaintiff is "endamaged in the sum of one thousand dollars," is not such a specific allegation of fact as to be admitted on demurrer, but it is sufficient to entitle him to an inquiry as to his actual damages, where his cause of action has been admitted by demurrer. Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501. In an action on an attachment bond, allegations in the answer that the property was released shortly after it was seized are relevant and material on the question of damages and good on demurrer. Anvil Gold Min. Co. v. Hoxsie [C. C. A.] 125 F. 724.

7. The words in a declaration on a penal bond that defendants "the same to pay hath hitherto wholly neglected and refused, and still do neglect and refuse," held a sufficient allegation of nonpayment of the penalty on general demurrer. Moundsville, B. & W. R. Co. v. Wilson, 52 W. Va. 647, 44 S. E. 169.

8. Moundsville, B. & W. R. Co. v. Wilson, 52 W. Va. 647, 44 S. E. 169.

Sufficiency of pleadings in general: Petition in action on administrator's bond held to state a cause of action, treating the instrument as a voluntary obligation. Awtrey v. Campbell, 118 Ga. 464, 45 S. E. 301. Complaint in action on official bond of clerk of council held sufficient on demurrer. Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211, 45 S. E. 28. Petition in action by heir, to recover on bond of county judge who wrongfully appropriated money belonging to estate and paid into court, held to state cause of action. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 648.

9. The bond imports a consideration, and a want of it, if available at all, is a matter of defense. Considine v. Gallagher, 31 Wash. 669, 72 P. 469.

10. Given under Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 206. Young v. Joseph Bros. & Davidson [Neb.] 99 N. W. 522.

11. See 1 Curr. L. 345.

12. Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501; Ellis v. Ft. Bend County, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 596, 74 S. W. 43. The words "penal sum" in that part of a bond providing for the consequences of a breach thereof are ordinarily to be construed strictly, and as meaning a penalty, requiring actual damage to be shown in order to recover thereunder. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097. No recovery can be had on a voluntary bond given to cover damages arising out of certain orders of court issued in an equity suit, which would otherwise have been damnum absque injuria, since no damages can be proved. Baer v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 94.

13. Disosway v. Edwards, 134 N. C. 254, 46 S. E. 501. In an action on a bond, conditioned for the performance of an agreement not to engage in a certain business at a certain place and for a specified period, held error to enter judgment for the full amount thereof, on overruling a demurrer to the complaint, in the absence of specific allegations of damage, or showing that the amount of the bond was reasonable, no proof having been taken on the subject. Id.

14. Laffan v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 333.

and furnished brick to a city contractor, and that the latter used them in carrying out his contract, brings him within the terms of a bond exacted by the city from such contractor for the purpose of protecting subcontractors and persons furnishing material for city works.[15] A statement of an officer of a corporation which sold material to a city contractor, that he did not think the transaction was within the terms of a bond exacted by the city from such contractor for the protection of subcontractors and persons furnishing materials for the work, does not amount to a waiver of the benefit of such bond.[16] Schedules of property attached to a bond and signed by sureties and pleaded as exhibits to plaintiff's petition are admissible as tending to show that the sureties signed the bond.[17] Reports of an officer which are required by law are admissible in evidence against the sureties on his official bond and are prima facie true.[18] The pleadings and judgment in a former action against the obligor of a bond for acts amounting to a breach of its conditions are admissible in an action on the bond against his sureties.[19] Under a complaint against sureties alleging that the obligee had recovered judgment against the principal for moneys advanced to him during the life of the bond, and that it had not been paid, recovery can be had only on proof of such judgment and not on proof of independent liability under the bond.[20] The defense of want of consideration may be raised by sureties though not pleaded, where the complaint does not allege that the bond was under seal.[21] The burden is on the defendant to rebut the presumption of consideration raised by the fact that the instrument is under seal.[22]

15, 16. City of Phila. v. Neill, 206 Pa. 333, 65 A. 1032.

17. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fossati [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1038.

18. City of Philipsburg v. Degenhart [Mont.] 76 P. 694.

19. Inadmissible in action on bond of U. S. marshal for failure to pay over money, where it does not appear in the judgment that the former action had anything to do with such failure or the subject-matter of the bond, and there is nothing in the pleadings tending to show that the items on which the judgment was based were chargeable against him during the life of the bond. U. S. v. Meade [Ariz.] 76 P. 467.

20. U. S. v. Meade [Ariz.] 76 P. 467.

21. Gein v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

22. Appeal bond. Evidence insufficient. Gein v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

Sufficiency of evidence: City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097. Evidence in an action on an official bond held sufficient to authorize the court to direct a verdict for plaintiff. Wilcox v. Perkins County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 236. Bond to secure payment of alimony. Crew v. Hutcheson, 119 Ga. 142, 45 S. E. 971. Where, in an action on a redelivery bond in attachment after judgment for plaintiff, it appeared that all defendant's property had been sold by execution under the judgment and bought by plaintiff, and that defendant was insolvent and had no property within the jurisdiction of the court, and that he had resisted plaintiff's collection of the judgment, such proceedings amounted to a demand for the payment of the judgment on which the action on the bond would be based, and defendant's insolvency rendered a further demand unnecessary. Ebner v. Heid [C. C. A.] 125 F. 680.

Admissibility of evidence in general: In an action on a bond securing performance of a mail route contract, a single letter of the auditor of the postoffice department to the effect that on a similar contract defendant would only be liable in case the sureties on the proposal bond, given to secure the performance of the same contract, should fail to pay the damage caused by a breach thereof, was irrelevant and inadmissible. National Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 294. A copy of a bond certified to by the acting secretary of the treasury is admissible in evidence in a suit on such bond by the United States, under a statute (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 670, 671) providing that such copies are admissible when certified to by the "secretary or assistant secretary." Laffan v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 333. In an action by a surety against a state officer for breach of a contract to repay to the surety money paid on the bond of the chief clerk of such officer in lieu of a liability which has been discovered by the examiner of public accounts, evidence that the examination had been made was relevant, though not the examiner's official report, if there was nothing in the statutes providing for such report giving it effect as evidence. Culver v. Caldwell, 137 Ala. 125, 34 So. 13. Evidence as to false entries made by the commissioner may be admissible as showing whether there was an indebtedness of the chief clerk. Id. Where defendant, sued as principal on a bond, is allowed to withdraw an answer to the effect that he signed as surety only, and to file one pleading non est factum, the original answer, if signed or sworn to by him, may be proved against him as an admission. Wyles v. Berry, 25 Ky. L. R. 606, 76 S. W. 126. In an action against the principal on a bond for money loaned by order of court, plaintiff may show the financial condition at the time of the loan of a third person for whom the money was actually borrowed. Id.

Rulings and instructions.[23]

Judgment and damages.[24]—For a breach of an administrator's bond there can be only one judgment, and that must be for the whole penalty and stand as security for all parties interested, whether they are parties to the suit or not.[25] Only the actual loss sustained by the breach of the bond may be recovered.[26] It is no objection to the recovery, at least as against the principal debtor, that the verdict which is less than the penal sum with interest exceeds the sum named on the face of the bond.[27] There can be no recovery on a penal bond with collateral condition in excess of the penalty of the bond.[28] Statutes in some states provide that interest on the amount recovered cannot be allowed, where the bond is conditioned for the performance of an act, and not for the payment of money.[29]

BOUNDARIES.

§ 1. Rules for Locating or Identifying (518).
§ 2. Riparian or Littoral Boundaries (521).
§ 3. Establishment by Agreement of Adjoiners (522).
§ 4. Establishment by Acquiescence or Estoppel (522).
§ 5. Establishment by Arbitration, Action, or Statutory Mode. Right of Action (523).

§ 1. Rules for locating or identifying.[30]—A line described in clear and unambiguous terms is the controlling call in the title.[31] When reliable indications fail, the rule is to reach the objective point by the line of shortest distance.[32] The location of a block of surveys may be established by a single undoubted monument found on the ground.[33] The marks of a block of land consist of the marks of every tract of the block, and if originally intended as corners, become marks for establishing the entire block.[34] If marks for interior corners be found they establish the lines for interior tracts.[35] Processioners must respect possession existing at the time lines are marked.[36] A call "to" a strip of land does not carry the line over or into the strip.[37]

23, 24. See 1 Curr. L. 345.

25. Judge of Probate v. Lee [N. H.] 66 A. 188.

26. A contractor purchased premises from plaintiff giving him a purchase money mortgage, and also executed to him a building loan mortgage, to secure the payment of money advanced for the erection of a building thereon, and a bond to secure the erection of such building. The building was not finished, and plaintiff foreclosed the building-loan mortgage, bid in the property, and entered a deficiency judgment against the contractor. He then completed the building. In an action to recover the penalty of the bond, held that, as the property was worth the amount of the purchase money mortgage and the amount of plaintiff's bid at the sale, the purchase operated as a payment to that extent, and he could recover only the amount of the deficiency judgment. In such cases the bond indemnifies only from loss and damage which flows from a breach of the principal contract. Westcott v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 87 App. Div. 497, 84 N. Y. S. 731.

27. U. S. v. Walker, 128 F. 1012.

28. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 471. Bond to secure performance of contract to install heating apparatus in school-house. Board of Education of St. Louis v. National Surety Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 70.

29. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1915. Westcott v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 87 App. Div. 497, 84 N. Y. S. 731.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 346.

31. A strip immediately west of and adjoining another definite tract. Kellog v. McFatter, 111 La. 1037, 36 So. 112.

32. In establishing a line never indicated otherwise than on paper. Leonard v. Smith, 111 La. 1008, 36 So. 101.

33. Knupp v. Barnard, 206 Pa. 280, 55 A. 981.

34. A block consists of a quantity of land entered by one for several. Knupp v. Barnard, 206 Pa. 280, 55 A. 981.

35. Though it may change exterior line. Knupp v. Barnard, 206 Pa. 280, 55 A. 981.

36. Civ. Code 1895, § 3248. But not mere naked possession. Riddle v. Sheppard, 119 Ga. 930, 47 S. E. 201.

37. Whether it be shore line or upland. Dunton v. Parker, 97 Me. 461, 54 A. 1115. Where a survey and warrant offered in evidence show a beginning at the S. W. point on a lake and a final call for a stake on the edge of the lake at the N. W. corner, as there is no evidence of any marks or monuments on the ground, showing a west line other than the bank of the lake, the line is to be run on the bank. Wilcox v. Snyder, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 451. Where a call is thence to a point on the shore "20 feet above low water mark, thence along the said shore about 20 feet above low water mark to a point" the grantee at most is only entitled to a line parallel with low water mark and twenty feet distant therefrom. Lynch v. Troxell, 207 Pa. 162, 56 A. 413.

The true location is a question of fact,[38] resting in the intention of the parties,[39] to be established by a preponderance of evidence.[40]

Surveyors.[41]—The duty of a surveyor is to go upon the land with a copy of the field notes, search for and survey its lines and corners and report the result of his work.[42] A survey establishes a line but does not determine title.[43]

Monuments control courses, distances,[44] and quantity,[45] but they must have been officially established,[46] and be so described that they can be found with absolute certainty,[47] so a location by monument will control the distance,[48] and where a natural boundary is called for, it should be reached by extending the line according to the course.[49] Where monuments have been lost or removed their

38. That it had become fixed by acquiescence cannot be declared as a matter of law. Broll v. Wishert [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1089. Between partitioned estates where the indenture of partition was so ambiguous as to require parol evidence to explain it. Graves v. Broughton [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1083. Where the location of two adjoining tracts of a block depends upon the position of the interior line of the block, and the evidence is conflicting. Knupp v. Barnard, 206 Pa. 280, 55 A. 981. Where a call terminates at a swamp, the question whether the edge or run of the swamp is meant is for the jury. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. C. 433, 45 S. E. 830. Where one took government land between two surveys evidence held for the jury as to the location of the boundaries. Taylor v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 634.

39. By description in a patent a patentee got more land than he entered. He conveyed a part by course and distance to another. Held, a question for the jury whether the grantee took the entire tract. Marcy v. Brock, 207 Pa. 95, 56 A. 335.

40. Evidence held to show that parties to a conveyance understood one of the boundaries to be a certain fence. Dows Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Emerson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 724. Evidence sufficient to sustain findings locating boundary. Asher v. Howard, 24 Ky. L. R. 2118, 72 S. W. 1105. Finding that timber was not cut on the wrong side of a boundary line sustained. Garred v. Blackburn [Ky.] 82 S. W. 234. Sufficiency of evidence to show that a call beginning at a tree on the top of a cliff. and following the cliff with its meanders, should be taken literally, and not follow a precipice between the cliff and the river, especially as it was impossible to run the calls upon the precipice. Cincinnati Southern R. Co.'s Trustee v. Society of Shakers' Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 1339, 78 S. W. 130.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 350, n. 69-71; Id. 347, n. 21-27.

42. Report held sufficient though containing statements outside his instructions. Broll v. Wishert [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1089.

43. After title acquired by adverse possession. Helton v. Fastnow [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 230.

44. Tarvin v. Walkers Creek Coal & Coke Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2246, 80 S. W. 504. Deed conveying a certain frontage also stated that it began at a certain corner and ran to the corner of another lot. Bird v. Noon [Ariz.] 76 P. 692. The actual monuments with reference to which a conveyance is made. Dows Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Emerson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 724. Marks made by surveyors. Kaiser v. Dalto, 140 Cal. 167, 73 P. 828. Monuments fixed by an original government survey. Schmidtke v. Keller [Or.] 74 P. 222. A call for a stake near Cumberland Gap does not mean in Cumberland Gap; within five miles might be reasonably spoken of as near. Creech v. Johnson, 25 Ky. L. R. 666, 76 S. W. 185. Boundaries in the general description fixed by government monuments and a natural object prevail over an erroneous description by metes and bounds. Patton v. Fox [Mo.] 78 S. W. 804. A way referred to as a boundary is a monument. McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1076. Evidence held to show that a monument had not been moved. Dowling v. Linburg [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1035. A line as shown by monuments and as platted by city authorities acquiesced in for many years cannot be overthrown by measurements. Kaiser v. Dalto, 140 Cal. 167, 73 P. 828. See 1 Curr. L. 346.

45. "East half" and "West half" controlled by a blazed line. People v. Hall, 43 Misc. 117, 88 N. Y. S. 276.

46. Warehouse built on the assumption that a line was in a certain place. Anderson v. Wirth [Mich.] 96 N. W. 926.

47. Description of a corner held insufficient. Summerfield v. White [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 154. Lines and boundaries cannot be controlled by objects found on the ground where there are no calls for such objects. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781.

48. Where the call is thence 110 feet to an alley, the line of the alley governs, though only 105 feet from the last corner. Alley is a monument. McCutcheon's Heirs v. Rawleigh, 25 Ky. L. R. 549, 76 S. W. 50. Where a grant from the Commonwealth described a boundary as "314 perches to a corner; thence by parts of lots Nos. 12 and 11 North 67½ deg. East 54 perches to a corner" etc., and to reach the latter corner the line would have to be extended 66½ perches, the grantee was entitled to the excess as against the commonwealth. Marcy v. Brock, 207 Pa. 95, 56 A. 335. When the corners as actually located are established, the calls of the deed must give way to the marked objects found on the ground, and the lines must be run to the established corners. McCormick v. Applegate, 25 Ky. L. R. 914, 76 S. W. 511.

49. Extended to run of a swamp, though the call was to its edge. Rowe v. Cape Fear Lumber Co., 133 N. C. 433, 45 S. E. 830.

location may be established by parol,[50] but parol evidence cannot establish another monument in the place of the call for the original monument there contained.[51] If they cannot be established, courses and distances control the description,[52] and where there are no original monuments or other evidence, the field notes of the original survey must be resorted to.[53] The line as actually run on the ground in making the original survey controls the distance given in the surveyor's notes,[54] unless the contrary appears to be the intention of the parties.[55] Where a line has been recognized for a long period and old marks are found thereon, it has preference to another line on which no marks are found.[56]

Conflicts between plats and maps and monuments.[57]—In some states it is provided by statute that maps referred to control when inconsistent with other particulars,[58] and a plat referred to in a deed makes it a part thereof,[59] but a reference to a map merely to designate a block in which a lot is located,[60] or a boundary indicated by marginal words on a plat with reference to which lots are sold cannot control the express terms of the deed.[61]

Government surveys.[62]—Established government corners control courses and distances,[63] and the beginning corner of a survey is of no higher importance than any other,[64] but where a corner is not found or its location satisfactorily proven, the field notes of the government survey control, and are prima facie evidence of the true line.[65] Corners in surrounding surveys do not control conflicting calls.[66] Lost meander corners may be restored by running the line from the nearest corner the direction and distance called for by the notes of the original survey.[67] Contiguous lands set apart as distinct bodies on the maps of the United States may serve as boundaries, though their limits have never been marked and they belong to the vendor.[68] A mistake of a surveyor in recording a survey could not change a boundary.[69]

50. By preponderance of evidence. Resurrection Gold Min. Co. v. Fortune Gold Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 668. When the marks or monuments are gone, proof of their former location may be supplied. Rock v. Greenewald, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 641.

51. Round stake with figures written thereon with lead pencil does not fill description of a post four inches square with figures cut into it. Resurrection Gold Min. Co. v. Fortune Gold Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 668.

52. Resurrection Gold Min. Co. v. Fortune Gold Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 668.

53. Where re-establishment of township line in courses and distances agreed with field notes of original survey, it would control over another claimed line which mentioned certain monuments not mentioned in the field notes. U. S. v. McKee, 128 F. 1002.

54. Killgore v. Carmichael, 42 Or. 618, 72 P. 637.

55. But lines marked on a survey do not control the calls in a deed, in case of a variance, in the absence of a mistake. Elliott v. Jefferson, 133 N. C. 207, 45 S. E. 558.

56. Tarvin v. Walkers Creek Coal & Coke Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2246, 80 S. W. 504.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 347.

58. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2077, where a patent referred to a certain state survey. Miller v. Grunsky, 141 Cal. 441, 75 P. 48. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2077, it was not prejudicial error to admit state surveys, inconsistent with a United States plat under which one claimed. Surveys made prior to his application to purchase. Id.

59. Establishes the boundaries of the land thereby conveyed. Snooks v. Wingfield, 52 W. Va. 441, 44 S. E. 277.

60. Width of street had been changed leaving a strip in front of the lot. Donahue v. Keystone Gas Co., 90 App. Div. 386, 85 N. Y. S. 478.

61. Fisk v. Ley [Conn.] 56 A. 559.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 347.

63. Creech v. Johnson, 25 Ky. L. R. 666, 76 S. W. 185. Where beginning corner was admitted the survey should be located by beginning there and following calls, and courses called for in the patent should yield to marked boundaries, made at time of survey. Whitehouse Cannel Coal Co. v. Wells, 25 Ky. L. R. 60, 74 S. W. 736.

64. Courses may be reversed. Creech v. Johnson, 25 Ky. L. R. 666, 76 S. W. 185.

65. Knoll v. Randolph [Neb.] 94 N. W. 964. United States survey field notes when applied to disputed line by a surveyor held sufficient to take case to the jury, though former owner testified to another location of the line. Baty v. Elrod [Neb.] 97 N. W. 343.

66. They are to be considered in connection with other evidence. Masterson v. Ribble [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 358.

67. Entire controversy turned upon location of this corner. Simmons v. Jamieson, 32 Wash. 619, 73 P. 700.

68. In a sale per aversionem. Randolph v. Sentilles, 110 La. 419, 34 So. 587.

69. Will not vest in one land not patented to him. Bryant v. Kendall, 25 Ky. L. R. 1859, 79 S. W. 186.

Conflicts between surveys or descriptions of different date.[70]—A junior survey is subservient to a senior.[71] It being necessary to disregard one of two sets of calls in the field notes of office surveys, calls made under a mistake as to the relative position of the surveys may be disregarded and effect may be given to the intention of the person who made the field notes.[72]

Highways, streets, or ways as boundaries.[73]—A boundary on a way includes the soil to the center thereof,[74] with an easement over the other half,[75] unless an intention to the contrary appears.[76] In this respect there is no distinction between country highways and city streets.[77]

§ 2. Riparian or littoral boundaries.[78]—Where the boundary line between two states is the center line of the main channel, the line is a changing one and follows the usual course of navigation.[79] The owner of upland adjoining tide water prima facie owns to low water mark,[80] unless this presumption is rebutted by proof,[81] and a riparian proprietor on a navigable stream owns to the center thereof subject to public rights,[82] but whether a patentee of the United States to land bounding on a non-navigable lake belonging to the United States takes title to the adjoining submerged land is determined by the law of the state where the land lies.[83] A deed conveying a bank of a stream is presumed to carry title to the thread thereof,[84] and it will include land subsequently added by artificial causes,[85] but where a river by avulsion changes its channel the boundary is not changed.[86]

70. See 1 Curr. L. 347.

71. Lands conveyed simultaneously by a common grantor overlapped in description. Adams v. Wilson, 137 Ala. 632, 34 So. 831.

72. Sellman v. Sellman [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 48.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 348.

74. Description "to a stake near an old road, thence by said road." McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1076. Evidence held insufficient to show a contrary intention. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co. v. Fischer Foundry & Mach. Co., 208 Pa. 73, 57 A. 191. Under Comp. Laws, 3252, unless the fee is expressly reserved. Sweatman v. Bathrick [S. D.] 95 N. W. 422. Description "along said street" does not show an intention to reserve. Id. Since there is a strong presumption that a grantor in conveying land with reference to a way intended to include the way. McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1075. A state grant of land bordering on a highway is presumed to convey title to the center thereof. Paige v. Schenectady R. Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 213.

75. An owner blocked up one-half the street. Healey v. Kelly, 25 R. I. 581, 54 A. 588.

76. Bounded by northerly side of said road shows contrary intention. McKenzie v. Gleason, 184 Mass. 452, 69 N. E. 1076.

77. Paige v. Schenectady R. Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 213. And it is immaterial whether the street was used under common law or statutory dedication. Sweatman v. Bathrick [S. D.] 95 N. W. 422. Where proprietor of land and maker of a plat sells lots fronting on a street dedicated to the public by common law dedication. Owen v. Village of Brookport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 348.

79. Mississippi River between Minnesota and Wisconsin. Franzini v. Layland [Wis.] 97 N. W. 499.

80. Colonial ordinance of 1641-47. Dunton v. Parker, 97 Me. 461, 54 A. 1115.

Note: Where a boundary is the "bank of a stream," a grantee will not take to the thread (Bradford v. Cressey, 45 Me. 9; Rockwell v. Baldwin, 53 Ill. 19); but to low water mark (Yates v. Van De Bogert, 56 N. Y. 526; Lamb v. Rickets, 11 Ohio, 311; Murphy v. Copeland, 58 Iowa, 409, 10 N. W. 786); but it has been held to carry to the thread (Ex parte Jennings, 6 Cow. [N. Y.] 518). There is a diversity of opinion whether lines running "along the shore" extend to the thread, Starr v. Child, 20 Wend. [N. Y.] 149, and Sleeper v. Loconia, 60 N. H. 201, holding that it does; and Child v. Starr, 4 Hill [N. Y.] 369; Stevens v. King, 76 Me. 197; Storer v Freeman, 6 Mass. 435, and Handly's Lessee v. Anthony, 5 Wheat. [U. S.] 384, holding the contrary.—Note to Allen v. Weber [Wis.] 27 Am. St. Rep. 51.

81. Description "to the shore" "thence by the shore" may be considered in determining whether the grant included the strip between high and low water mark. Evidence held to show that it was the intention that grantee should take riparian rights. Dunton v. Parker, 97 Me. 461, 54 A. 1115.

82. An unsurveyed island passes with the land to which it is appurtenant. Franzini v. Layland [Wis.] 97 N. W. 499. See Navigable Waters, 2 Curr. L. 989; Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.

83. By Illinois law he does not. Hardin v. Shedd, 190 U. S. 508, 23 S. Ct. 685, 47 Law. Ed. 1156.

84. Including a dam. Roberts v. Decker [Wis.] 97 N. W. 519. And this is not rebutted by a covenant that the grantee should help defray the expenses of keeping the dam in repair. Id. A street located along a river front extends to the middle of the river. Owen v. Village of Brockport, 208 Ill. 35, 69 N. E. 952.

85. Filling in. Block v. Diver [Kan.] 74 P. 1123.

86. Remains thread of original channel.

Meander lines.[87]—The stream and not the meander line is the boundary of a riparian owner,[88] where the government issues a patent for fractional subdivisions abutting on a meander line.[89]

§ 3. Establishment by agreement of adjoiners.[90]—Adjoining owners may by parol agreement establish a boundary which, when followed by possession, will be binding upon them,[91] both in law and equity,[92] and upon their successors,[93] even though they be innocent purchasers,[94] and the period of acquiescence falls short of the time required for gaining title by adverse possession.[95] But the terms of the agreement must be settled between them,[96] and be entered into before limitations have run in favor of one of the parties.[97] It is the policy of the law to give stability to such an agreement,[98] and rights thereunder are not affected by a subsequent agreement to modify it.[99] Such adjustment may be shown as well by circumstances and recognition as by direct evidence of a formal agreement.[1] Such an agreement does not preclude the admission of evidence to establish the real boundaries.[2]

§ 4. Establishment by acquiescence or estoppel.[3]—A boundary may be established by acquiescence,[4] or by a holding under a mistake as to the true line,[5] if it is between contiguous lands of the parties,[6] especially where it is recognized for the period necessary to acquire title by adverse possession.[7] As so established it will control over a plat.[8]

Rodriguez v. Hernandez [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 343.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 349.

88. Evidence held to show that a surveyor's line was a meander line and not an independent boundary. Leonard v. Wood [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 827. Lands between the meander line of navigable lakes and the line of ordinary high water belong to the upland owner. Johnson v. Brown, 33 Wash. 588, 74 P. 677.

89. Legal subdivisions under sec. 2395, Rev. St. U. S. (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1471). Johnson v. Hurst [Idaho] 77 P. 784.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 349.

91. Not an agreement passing title. Steinhilber v. Holmes [Kan.] 75 P. 1019.

Note: Where boundary is fixed by mutual agreement it is binding though not acquiesced in for the statutory period (Jones v. Pashby, 67 Mich. 459, 35 N. W. 152; Eiden v. Eiden, 76 Wis. 435, 45 N. W. 322; Lagow v. Glover, 77 Tex. 448, 14 S. W. 141; Glover v. Wright, 82 Ga. 115, 8 S. E. 452), and acts and admissions are evidence of its location (Davidson v. Arledge, 97 N. C. 172, 2 S. E. 378, and note to Johnson v. Archibald [Tex.] 22 Am. St. Rep. 27). Line of an old fence agreed upon by the parties. Rook v. Greenewald, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 641. Agreement in writing to abide by a line to be established by a surveyor. Surveyor placed no monuments and abandoned the survey before its completion. McCormick v. Applegate, 25 Ky. L. R. 914, 76 S. W. 511. Where by deed poll one released to another a strip of land under a brick wall, the boundary was established by such deed. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563. Original boundary indefinite and unascertained. Sherman v. King, 71 Ark. 248, 72 S. W. 571. The disputed question is a sufficient consideration for the agreement. Gardner v. White, 24 Ky. L. R. 2444, 74 S. W. 206. Pol. Code, c. 13, §§ 3250-3259, amended by Sess. Laws 1901, p. 139, providing what are legal fences, do not prevent an adjoining owner from building a division fence partly on the land of his neighbor. Hoar v. Hennessy [Mont.] 74 P. 452. A stone wall is not an unreasonable fence. Id. See Fences, 1 Curr. L. 1206.

92. Evidence held to show that parties agreed to a survey and acquiesced therein. Brown v. Bowerman [Mich.] 97 N. W. 352.

93. Acquiescence for 25 or 30 years in a boundary agreed upon by parol is binding on the successors of the parties making the agreement. Campbell v. Combs, 25 Ky. L. R. 1643, 77 S. W. 923. Evidence held to show that a boundary was established by agreement between the grantors of the parties to this action. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48.

94. Without notice of such agreement. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48.

95. Steinhilber v. Holmes [Kan.] 75 P. 1019. Such an agreement is not within the Statute of Frauds; it may be parol. Farr v. Woolfolk, 118 Ga. 277, 45 S. E. 230.

96. Parties never came to any definite agreement. Geoghegan v. Turner [Ky.] 82 S. W. 244.

97. Batly v. Elrod [Neb.] 97 N. W. 343.

98. Most satisfactory way of determining the true boundary and prevents litigation. Hoar v. Hennessy [Mont.] 74 P. 452.

99. One of the parties refused to execute the modification. Masterson v. Bockel [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 42.

1. Evidence held to show an agreement. Hoar v. Hennessy [Mont.] 74 P. 452.

2. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 349, n. 59-71.

4. A practical location of boundaries as acquiesced in for a number of years will not be disturbed. People v. Hall, 43 Misc. 117, 88 N. Y. S. 276.

5. Continued for statutory period. See Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51. Williams v. Shepherdson [Neb.] 95 N. W. 827.

6. Cavanaugh v. Wholey [Cal.] 76 P. 979.

7. Occupancy for the statutory period is such acquiescence in a boundary line as es-

Estoppel.[9]—A boundary may result from an estoppel.[10] Such estoppel may be established by parol and it is not necessary to show an intent to mislead.[11]

§ 5. Establishment by arbitration, action, or statutory mode. Right of action.[12]—A court of equity has no jurisdiction to settle a disputed boundary,[13] unless objection to the jurisdiction be waived.[14] In Minnesota only persons owning land adjoining the plaintiff need be made parties.[15] A complaint alleging possession only and not a right thereto, and praying that an existing boundary be maintained, states an action in boundary.[16]

In adjudicating title to land of a foreign state, the same rules should be applied as are applied elsewhere in the state.[17]

Burden of proof.[18]—In a boundary suit the burden is not on either party to establish the location of his land.[19] Where the description is vague and uncertain the burden rests upon those claiming under it to show to what it applies.[20] The onus lies on a party appealing from a survey made by the county surveyor to show that the survey is incorrect.[21]

Admissibility of evidence.[22]—A latent ambiguity in the calls of a deed may be dispelled by parol evidence[23] in an action to establish the boundary.[24] Evidence aliunde is admissible where there is doubt as to the true location of a sur-tablishes a practical location. Kennedy v. Niles [Iowa] 96 N. W. 772. Division fence jointly built by coterminous owners and acquiesced in for 10 years. Nance County v. Russell [Neb.] 97 N. W. 320. Acquiescence by adjoining owners for 7 years by acts or declarations, under Civ. Code § 3247. Farr v. Woolfolk, 118 Ga. 277, 45 S. E. 230. Cannot be affected by a subsequent survey. Helton v. Fastnow [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 230. Grantor and grantee recognized a certain fence as the line for 10 years. Dows Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Emerson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 724. Where a line was recognized and acquiesced in for 10 years. Rattray v. Talcott [Iowa] 100 N. W. 36. The existence of a fence for 15 years is better evidence of a boundary between lots than the computation of surveyors, on the supposition that the lots were of like proportions. Kennedy v. Niles [Iowa] 96 N. W. 772. The fact that the area of one's land falls short of amount called for by the original survey is no ground for changing a line when he has acquiesced in it for 15 years. Klinkefus v. Vanmeter, 122 Iowa, 412, 98 N. W. 286.

8. Plat referred to in a deed conveying land to a city. Dows Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Emerson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 724.

9. See 1 Curr. L. 350. n. 65-69.

10. Where vendee improved land according to what he and vendor supposed the true boundary. Parrish v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1097. By conveying by a different description than that by which one acquired title the later deeds cannot be used as evidence of the location of the disputed line. Summerfield v. White [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 154. By inducing a purchase by representations as to the line. Thompson v. Borg, 90 Minn. 209, 95 N. W. 896. Where monuments have been lost and parties living in the vicinity improved with reference to a corner established by a surveyor appointed by a court commissioner. Brutsche v. Bowers [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1076. Occupancy in accordance with a fence recognized as a division line between plaintiff's land and a highway for more than fifteen years, and acquiescence in such line by the defendant, who built a fence on his side of the highway, estops one from questioning the boundaries of the highway. Klinkefus v. Vanmeter, 122 Iowa, 412, 98 N. W. 286. Charged with notice of inconsistent surveys. Bryant v. Main, 25 Ky. L. R. 1742, 77 S. W. 680.

11. Thompson v. Borg, 90 Minn. 209, 95 N. W. 896.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 350.

13. Eakin v. Taylor [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 992.

14. By prayer in answer that line be established. Killgore v. Carmichael, 42 Or. 618, 72 P. 637.

15. Proceedings under Gen. St. §§ 5823-5829, complaint making all persons interested in adjoining land parties, held to state a cause of action. Rock v. Donora Min. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 889. It is discretionary with the court to stay proceedings when persons not interested in the land originally involved are not made parties [Gen. St. 1894, § 5825]. Id.

16. Not a possessory action. Heidman v. Sequin, 110 La. 449, 34 So. 599. Where the answer sets up title and both parties introduce evidence thereof, the action ceased to be possessory, even if it was such originally. Id.

17. River changed its channel by avulsion. Rodriguez v. Hernandez [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 343.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 351.

19. Charge to this effect was improper. Masterson v. Ribble [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 358.

20. Peery's Adm'r v. Elliott, 101 Va. 709, 44 S. E. 919.

21. Evidence held insufficient to show that a survey was incorrect. Watkins v. Havighorst, 13 Okl. 128, 74 P. 318.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 351.

23. Arising when an effort is made to apply them to the land. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48. To ascertain the meaning of terms in a deed of partition. Graves v. Broughton [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1083.

24. Resort to equity unnecessary. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48.

vey,[25] but not to change lines and corners, where the field notes are not ambiguous.[26] Evidence that a certain point is generally reputed to be a corner is admissible,[27] if it appear to have been of such interest in the neighborhood as to have provoked discussion.[28]

Instructions.[29]—Where boundaries of land conveyed by patent are in question the court should instruct as to the effect of marked lines as called.[30] It is no error to refuse to instruct against the weight of evidence,[31] or on a point which there is no evidence to support.[32]

Verdict and finding.[33]—A decree in statutory proceedings to determine a boundary is conclusive, if not appealed from, or the issue of title raised.[34] So a finding that a boundary has been acquiesced in for ten years will not be disturbed on appeal,[35] but a verdict which establishes a boundary against the weight of the evidence will be set aside.[36] One not a party to a suit is not bound therein as to any determination made therein as to the boundary.[37]

BOUNTIES.

The Minnesota sugar bounty act is unconstitutional,[38] and no obligation rests on the state to pay bounties on sugar whose culture was induced by the act.[39]

25. Trust deed did not describe the land by courses and distances. Nothing to show that it was intended to embrace a mill tract. Peery's Adm'r v. Elliott, 101 Va. 709, 44 S. E. 919. Where the calls when applied to the land, disclose a latent ambiguity. Sloan v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 48.

Surveys and opinions of surveyors: Where a survey begins and ends on a river with other corners in a prairie, adjoining surveys made subsequently by different surveyors, in which the prairie corners are identified upon the ground by artificial objects called for in the subsequent field notes, but not in the original field notes, are inadmissible. Matthews v. Thatcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 61. But where the beginning corner on a river cannot be identified on the ground because of changes in the river, subsequent adjoining surveys identifying the prairie corners are admissible to identify the beginning corner. Id. Declarations of a person not shown to be in a position to know the location of a boundary inadmissible. Id. A surveyor who made experimental surveys may by way of introduction state that corners were pointed out to him as beginning corners and may detail conditions disclosed by his survey. Id. Where a survey must be construed on its calls for courses and distances, evidence that surveys made about the same time contained excessive acreage is inadmissible. Id.

26. Jamison v. New York & T. Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 969. Where dispute was as to location of a north and south line a question as to a quarter line was immaterial. Pugh v. Schindler [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1056.

27. Witness may state that a spot was pointed out to him as, and was generally reputed to be, the corner. Matthews v. Thatcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 61. That a corner was referred to in subsequent adjoining surveys and its east line made a county boundary by legislative act is admissible on the issue of local public interest. Id.

28. A surveyor, who has made a survey after suit, based on corners pointed out by defendant, cannot state that other surveys would be affected by changes proposed by the plaintiff, though he may detail the conditions and distances disclosed by his survey. Matthews v. Thatcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 61. Evidence of a county surveyor that his office records recognized a corner as claimed by defendant is inadmissible. Id.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 352.

30. Whitehouse Cannel Coal Co. v. Wells, 25 Ky. L. R. 60, 74 S. W. 736.

31. A refusal to charge that a crooked fence is better evidence than a recent survey is proper, especially where there were traditions and alleged agreements on the assumption that it was not the true line. Pugh v. Schindler [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1056. An instruction authorizing the location of a corner of a subsequent survey by reference to the corner of a prior survey was improper under the evidence. Matthews v. Thatcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 61. An instruction that "it will not do to permit boundaries to be disturbed and moved, upon a survey made from an assumed starting point, without some proof, as I have said, of its being a true line located and fixed by the government survey" is not objectionable if the jury have previously been instructed that the plaintiff's case must be established by a preponderance of evidence. Pugh v. Schindler [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1056.

32. An instruction that the location of a stake as a corner was the controlling inquiry, and if the jury found where the original surveyor placed it, it would end the controversy, is error, as the call for the stake could not control the distance from the beginning corner. Matthews v. Thatcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 61.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 352.

34. Laws 1893, p. 44, c. 22, providing for establishment of boundaries by special proceedings. Parker v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 103, 45 S. E. 473.

35. Being a question of fact. Oster v. Devereaux [Iowa] 98 N. W. 579.

36. Where the jury did not regard the

The action of a state auditor refusing to issue bounty warrants is quasi judicial and may be reviewed by certiorari.[40] The statute governing grant of new trials generally applies to suits against the state for coyote scalp bounties.[41]

BREACH OF MARRIAGE PROMISE.

The promise.[42]—A proposal by one party and an acceptance by the other, both being free to marry, shows a promise.[43] A promise can be shown from the character of correspondence,[44] or oral declarations,[45] but the language must be clear.[46] An oral contract to marry is within the statute of frauds, unless excepted by the terms of the statute.[47] The promise is binding according to all its terms.[48] A promise of marriage in consideration of illicit sexual intercourse is void.[49] A law prohibiting marriage within one year after divorce does not prohibit a contract to marry.[50]

Breach and defenses.[51]—After a distinct refusal, the woman is not obliged to again offer herself in order to maintain an action.[52] Where one of the parties without excuse fails to perform his agreement at the time fixed for the ceremony, the other party may rescind and maintain an action for damages.[53] Where one of the parties to a marriage contract discovers that the other is of immoral character, he may sever the relation with impunity;[54] but if he enters into the contract with knowledge of all the facts, he may not do so,[55] and illicit relations induced by a promise to marry will not justify a breach of promise[56] nor the fact that the woman was guilty of apparently unseemly conduct.[57] That a woman evidence of an ancient boundary fence. Saunders v. Sutton [N. J. Law] 55 A. 652.

37. A city. Dows Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Emerson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 724.

38. It infringes § 5, art. 9, prohibiting the state from contracting debts except as therein allowed, and § 10, art. 9, prohibiting the state from lending aid to any private individual. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454.

Note: Similar acts have been declared unconstitutional in Michigan (Mich. Sugar Co. v. Dix, 124 Mich. 674, 83 N. W. 625), and the District of Columbia (U. S. v. Carlisle, 5 App. D. C. 138).

39, 40. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454.

41. The act makes the general rules of civil procedure applicable. San Francisco Law & Collection Co. v. State, 141 Cal. 354, 74 P. 1047.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 353.

43. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

44. Evidence, letters and conduct, presentation of ring, etc., held sufficient to show a promise of marriage. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249; Id., 204 Ill. 418, 68 N. E. 467.

45. In February, 1901, the parties had agreed to marry in March, 1902. In June, 1901, the man said, "I intend to marry you as I promised. In March we will go to the farm and live right." Held to constitute a new promise, and not a mere rehearsal of the terms of a contract void under the statute of frauds. Parrish v. Parrish, 67 Kan. 323, 72 P. 844.

46. Evidence of correspondence held not sufficient to sustain a promise of marriage. Johansen v. Modahl [Neb.] 94 N. W. 532.

47. By the terms of the contract, the marriage was not to take place for three years. Haslam v. Barge [Neb.] 96 N. W. 245. Evidence of correspondence, etc., held not to establish a written contract to marry. Id.

48. Ceremony to be performed according to rules and customs of a particular church. Waneck v. Kratky [Neb.] 96 N. W. 651.

49. No recovery can be had for breach. Edmonds v. Hughes, 24 Ky. L. R. 2467, 74 S. W. 283.

50. Buelna v. Ryan, 139 Cal. 630, 73 P. 466.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 253, n. 2, 3.

NOTE. Previous engagement or marriage: That defendant was at the time of making the promise affianced to another (Roper v. Clay, 18 Mo. 383; Albertz v. Albertz, 78 Wis. 72, 47 N. W. 95), or was then married to another is no defense, if plaintiff was ignorant of such fact at the time of accepting the promise (Kelley v. Riley, 106 Mass. 339; Pollock v. Sullivan, 53 Vt. 507).

52. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

53. It was agreed that marriage was to be performed at a certain date and hour. The groom failed to appear. Waneck v. Kratky [Neb.] 96 N. W. 651.

54. Williams v. Fahn, 119 Iowa, 746, 94 N. W. 252; Welker v. Metcalf [Pa.] 58 A. 687; Edmonds v. Hughes, 24 Ky. L. R. 2467, 74 S. W. 283. No proof of specific acts of immoral nature is necessary. Williams v. Fahn, 119 Iowa, 746, 94 N. W. 252.

55. A gentleman 74 years old contracted to marry a deaf and dumb woman aged 45, of shady character. She was allowed to recover $1,500.00. Williams v. Fahn, 119 Iowa, 746, 94 N. W. 252.

56. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

57. That the woman visited houses of subsequent to the contract became incapable of procreation is a defense.[58] A petition[59] which states that plaintiff was at the place designated during the month the ceremony was to be performed and was ready to carry out her part of the agreement is sufficient.[60] A complaint need not allege that plaintiff was willing to marry defendant up to the time of the filing thereof.[61]

Limitations run against the action from the time of breach and not from the time of making the contract.[62]

Damages; aggravation and mitigation.[63]—Evidence of seduction is admissible, though not charged in the declaration.[64] In computing damages, the jury are entitled to consider the entire course of conduct of the parties,[65] a subsequent offer to marry, made in good faith, together with the circumstances under which the breach occurred,[66] where, in the trial of the case, the man seeks to blacken the character of the woman,[67] and it need not be shown that he was actuated by malice in making the charge.[68] The general reputation for wealth as distinguished from the actual circumstances is not a proper matter to be taken into consideration in estimating damages.[69] The measure of damages to be recovered is a sum sufficient to compensate for the breach of contract and for any mortification of feelings suffered.[70] assignation is no defense if she visited them for a moral purpose. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

58. Edmonds v. Hughes, 24 Ky. L. R. 2467, 74 S. W. 283.

NOTE. Fraudulent concealment of facts as defense: In the case of Van Houten v. Morse, 162 Mass. 414, 38 N. E. 705, 44 Am. St. Rep. 373, it was held that although a woman is under no obligation on accepting an offer of marriage to voluntarily disclose the circumstances of her past life, if she assumes to do so, any concealment operates as a fraud, justifying the man in refusing to perform. Citing Short v. Currier, 153 Mass. 182, 26 N. E. 444; Burns v. Dockray, 156 Mass. 135, 30 N. E. 551; Atwood v. Chapman, 68 Me. 38; Devoe v. Brandt, 53 N. Y. 462. Applying this rule, it was held that failure to fully disclose the circumstances of a previous divorce and the fact that her family had some negro blood justified a breach, though in the absence of such concealment, such facts would not be a justification.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 354, n. 8, 9.

60. The ceremony was to take place at Middlesborough, in July, date not mentioned. Plaintiff remained there the entire month. Grubbs v. Pence, 24 Ky. L. R. 2183, 73 S. W. 785. The fact that an order in favor of plaintiff had been paid at a different place was inadmissible to show that she was not at Middlesborough. Id.

61. Alleging that defendant refused to marry up to that time is sufficient. Buelna v. Ryan, 139 Cal. 630, 73 P. 466.

62. Buelna v. Ryan, 139 Cal. 630, 73 P. 466.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 354, n. 10-14.

64. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249. It is not error to admit evidence of a previous contract, void as being within the statute of frauds, to corroborate testimony of a new promise. Parrish v. Parrish, 67 Kan. 323, 72 P. 844. But it is discretionary with the court as to how much of this previous intercourse is to be admitted. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 354, n. 9.

65. That the man had her announce the engagement, and after assurance of marriage seduced her. His disregard for the virtue of a woman who trusted him. Poehlmann v. Kertz, 105 Ill. App. 249.

66. After the complaint was served, defendant renewed his offer to marry and stated as his reason for not keeping the promise that his son had gone blind and that he could not give plaintiff the attention she deserved as his wife. McCarty v. Heryford, 125 F. 46.

67. By charges of unchastity. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

Note: To the same effect see Kelley v. Highfield, 15 Or. 277, 14 P. 744; Reed v. Clark, 47 Cal. 203; Davis v. Slagle, 27 Mo. 603; Thorn v. Knapp, 42 N. Y. 475.

68. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

69. Johansen v. Modahl [Neb.] 94 N. W. 532. Where evidence of settlement and the benefits claimed by defendant was conflicting, a verdict for plaintiff was not disturbed. Williams v. Fahn, 119 Iowa, 746, 94 N. W. 252.

70. Grubbs v. Pence, 24 Ky. L. R. 2183, 73 S. W. 785. Man 74 years old promised to marry a deaf and dumb woman of 46. Verdict of $1,500.00 not disturbed. Williams v. Fahn, 119 Iowa, 746, 94 N. W. 252. Verdict for $22,500.00 held excessive where defendant was worth only $50,000.00, especially where offer of marriage was renewed after commencement of the action, and where the only matter in aggravation of damages was seduction, which was not made until after the renewal offer, and this was not sustained by the evidence. McCarty v. Heryford, 125 F. 46. Defendant was a railway mail clerk and his only property was a house, not paid for. Verdict for $25,000.00 was excessive. Broyhill v. Norton, 175 Mo. 190, 74 S. W. 1024.

NOTE. Exemplary damages: Actions for breach of promise of marriage form an exception to the rule that exemplary damages are recoverable only in case of tort. Chellis v. Chapman, 125 N. Y. 214, 26 N. E. 308; McPherson v. Ryan, 59 Mich. 33, 26 N. E. 321. The breach must have been wanton or malicious or accompanied by circumstances of Liability of third person inducing breach.—A parent is not liable to his son's fiance for inducing him to break his contract to marry her.[71] Her remedy against the parent is an action for slander.[72]

BRIBERY.

Nature and elements of offense.[73]—Bribery is the giving, offering, or receiving of anything of value, or any valuable service, intended to influence a public officer or agent, de facto,[74] or de jure, in the discharge of his legal duty;[75] the true test being whether the matter is before the officer in his official capacity, or is one that may be brought before him in such capacity.[76] An analogous offense is created by the Federal statute prohibiting Federal officers from receiving private compensation for services in respect to any matter in which the United States is interested.[77] Bribery was an indictable offense at common law,[78] and there was no difference in liability between the giver and the receiver.[79] Under the Missouri statute, an offer to give a bribe is as illegal as the giving of one,[80] and one may be guilty as an accessory who knowingly assists in the escape of one guilty of bribery.[81] The Indiana constitutional provision rendering ineligible for office one who gives or offers an election bribe does not refer to a primary election.[82] The Federal statute on bribery for a valuable consideration covers only some valuable thing like money, property, or notes.[83]

Indictment.[84]—The indictment must be direct and definite,[85] and must, on aggravation. Dupont v. McAdow, 6 Mont. 226, 9 P. 925.

71. Leonard v. Whetstone [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 197.

72. The parents made false and slanderous charges against her. Leonard v. Whetstone [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 197.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 354.

74. A de facto officer may be bribed. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560.

75. Pen. Code, § 72. People v. Van De Carr, 87 App. Div. 386, 84 N. Y. S. 461. A justice of the peace who receives money in consideration of not instituting a prosecution is guilty of bribery, where a legal duty existed to begin such prosecution. Morawietz v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 997.

76. People v. McGarry [Mich.] 99 N. W. 147; State v. Lehman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1118. The test of one's being an officer is that the incumbent in his independent capacity is clothed with some part of the sovereignty of the state, to be exercised in the interest of the public and required by law. Barker v. State [Ohio] 68 N. E. 575. An attempt to influence one's vote on a question which could not lawfully come before him does not constitute bribery. The St. Louis board of health has no authority to let a contract of the disposal of garbage [Rev. St. 1899, § 2089]. State v. Butler [Mo.] 77 S. W. 560. One is not guilty of bribery as a "member of Congress," before he has been accepted as a member thereof and assumed his duties. Where the prosecution's opening statement admits a fact which must prevent a conviction, the court may on its own motion direct a verdict for the accused. U. S. v. Dietrich, 126 F. 676. A Federal Indian agent may be guilty of bribery as an officer of the United States [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3709]. Sharp v. U. S., 13 Okl. 522, 76 P. 177. An accountant employed by a board of revision is a city employe and may be guilty of bribery as such [Rev. St. 1892, § 6900]. Barker v. State [Ohio] 68 N. E. 575. A city attorney is punishable under a statute on bribery of judicial and executive officers [Comp. Laws, § 11,312]. People v. Salsbury [Mich.] 96 N. W. 936.

77. Rev. St. § 5480. An inquiry by the postoffice department as to the propriety of issuing a "fraud order" is within the statute. U. S. v. Burton, 131 F. 552.

78. In the early days it was limited to judicial officers or those engaged in the administration of justice, but was later extended to all public officers. People v. Van De Carr, 87 App. Div. 386, 84 N. Y. S. 461. Bribery at election of members of parliament was a common-law offense and so probably at municipal elections. Doyle v. Kirby, 184 Mass. 409, 68 N. E. 843.

79. Pub. St. 1881, c. 7, §§ 60, 61; Gen. St. c. 7, § 31. Doyle v. Kirby, 184 Mass. 409, 68 N. E. 843.

80. There need be no actual tender nor an offer to give any definite amount [Rev. St. 1899, § 2043]. State v. Woodward [Mo.] 81 S. W. 857.

81. One charged as an accessory has the burden of proving himself within the class of persons exempt under Rev. St. 1899, § 2365. State v. Miller [Mo.] 81 S. W. 867.

82. Const. art. 2, § 6. Under section 2327 Burns' Rev. St. 1901, on bribery at a primary election, a conviction is necessary before one is ineligible for office. Gray v. Seitz [Ind.] 69 N. E. 456.

83. A non-negotiable instrument, made invalid by statute, is not "property" nor "valuable consideration" [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212]. U. S. v. Miller, 125 F. 520; U. S. v. Driggs, 125 F. 520.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 354.

85. Const. art. 1, § 6; Gen. St. 1894, § 7241; Gen. St. 1894, § 7247. State v. Ames [Minn.] 98 N. W. 190.

its face, by plain allegations, not by inference merely, charge some act constituting bribery,[86] but if it substantially follows the language of the statute it is sufficient.[87] It will not be uncertain because it states that part of the money was paid by persons unknown to the grand jury,[88] nor bad for duplicity because it alleges that several persons contributed to the fund used as a bribe,[89] nor defective in charging bribery of a city attorney in a matter which might properly come before him.[90] An indictment for corruptly agreeing with others to vote in a specified manner need not charge the defendants separately,[91] and an allegation that defendant had not been a resident of or usually resident within the state since the commission of an offense, properly raises an avoidance of the bar of limitations, and is not defective as pleading in the alternative.[92]

Evidence.[93]—All testimony tending to show the receiving of the bribe is admissible as bearing on the corpus delicti,[94] likewise evidence that defendant attempted to suppress testimony or induce perjury,[95] and evidence of other crimes by the accused is admissible where there is a logical connection with the offense charged.[96] The voluntary admissions of defendant may be received,[97] and conversations in furtherance of a bribery conspiracy are admissible though held in defendant's absence,[98] or though in defendant's presence and a conspiracy be not proven.[99] On a charge of corruptly forming a voting agreement with others, the state need not show the guilt of each of the alleged conspirators.[1]

Trial and instructions.[2]—The accused is not entitled to a separate trial on the issue of limitations.[3]

The court may charge the jury to consider defendant's interest, in weighing his testimony,[4] and it is sufficient that the court charged a consideration of all the evidence and that certain testimony as to defendant's good character was

86. It should charge with certainty and precision all the facts necessary to constitute the offense and must conform to the language or state all the facts which bring it within the terms of the statute. State v. Schnettler [Mo.] 79 S. W. 1123. The indictment should possess sufficient certainty to apprise the defendant of the offense with which he is charged. Sharp v. U. S., 13 Okl. 522, 76 P. 177. The indictment for bribery on election must express the exact legal status of the position the person seeks. Held fatal that the indictment charged bribery on an election "for the office of congress," there being no such office. Allison v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 1065. Indictment of United States senator for receiving compensation for services for client in inquiry before postal department held sufficient. U. S. v. Burton, 131 F. 552.

87. An indictment charging bribery in connection with leases need not describe the land, give the number of the lease, name of the lessee, quantity of each nor condition of contract. Sharp v. U. S., 13 Okl. 522, 76 P. 177.

88, 89. State v. Ames [Minn.] 98 N. W. 190.

90. It was the duty of the city attorney to advise properly regarding the contract, and it is immaterial that the council could not lawfully have entered upon such a contract. People v. McGarry [Mich.] 99 N. W. 147.

91. Rev. St. 1899, § 2531, provides that an indictment shall not be invalid for defects therein unless tending to substantially prejudice defendant's rights. State v. Lehman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1118.

92. Rev. St. 1899, § 2421. State v. Snyder [Mo.] 82 S. W. 12.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 355.

94. People v. McGarry [Mich.] 99 N. W. 147.

95. People v. Salisbury [Mich.] 96 N. W. 936.

96. State v. Schnettler [Mo.] 79 S. W. 1123. Evidence of other crimes is admissible when it tends directly or indirectly to establish the defendant's guilt of the crime charged in the indictment on trial or some essential ingredient of such offense. State v. Ames, 90 Minn. 183, 96 N. W. 330.

97. A valuable discussion on voluntary admissions. State v. Woodward [Mo.] 81 S. W. 857.

98. There being abundant evidence of the conspiracy of bribery and defendant's connection with it, the court properly admitted evidence of the actions of the other conspirators before defendant's complicity was shown. People v. McGarry [Mich.] 99 N. W. 147; State v. Ames, 90 Minn. 183, 96 N. W. 330.

99. State v. Lehman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1118.

1. Hence it is immaterial whether one of those accused was a de jure or a de facto officer. State v. Lehman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1118.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 355.

3. Bribery is within the three-year limitation imposed by Rev. St. 1899, § 2419. State v. Snyder [Mo.] 82 S. W. 12.

4. State v. Ames, 90 Minn. 183, 96 N. W. 330.

competent.[5] The issues should be clearly presented,[6] but an instruction that one may commit bribery in the interests of a company only if employed by its directors was properly refused.[7]

BRIDGES.

§ 1. Regulation and Control (529).
§ 2. Establishment and Location by Public Agencies (529).
§ 3. Contracts and Construction (530).
§ 4. Public Liability for Cost and Maintenance (530).
§ 5. Establishment, Construction, and Maintenance by Private Enterprise (531).
§ 6. Injuries from Defective Bridges (531).
§ 7. Injuries to Bridges (535).

§ 1. Regulation and control.—Until congress acts, the power of the state over bridges over its navigable streams is plenary,[8] and congress did not intend by the river and harbor act of 1899 to deprive the states of their right to say what structures should be built in navigable streams wholly within their limits,[9] nor deprive the owner of a bridge, previously erected, of the right to make repairs.[10] A railroad by the mere fact of its incorporation is not empowered to bridge a navigable stream without consent of the legislature.[11] A bridge cannot be construed to be a ferry, but it may well be a substitute for a ferry when it was manifestly so intended.[12] A statute providing for the setting aside of the tolls of a bridge connecting two towns for the purpose of building a free bridge is invalid where it mentions only one of the towns, they being joint owners of the tolls.[13]

§ 2. Establishment and location by public agencies.[14]—A petition of resident tax payers is the usual means of setting in motion the procedure for building bridges by public authority,[15] and a limit on the amount that may be expended without the authority of the electors interested, expressed by vote, is frequently set.[16] Statutes often require that plans and specifications be adopted in advance of the letting of the contract,[17] and the advertisement and contract must be based upon such plans.[18] The approval of the general plan of a bridge by the proper boards or bodies does not prevent changes in detail thereafter.[19]

5. The court need not specifically say that the jury must consider the evidence as to defendant's good character. State v. Ames, 90 Minn. 183, 96 N. W. 330.

6. Instructions that the jury need not consider whether defendant was an inhabitant of the state, and that the fact of his being an inhabitant thereof and having a home therein had no bearing as to whether he was usually a resident thereof, are misleading where an issue is made as to the exception to the limitation. Rev. St. 1899, § 2421, provides that the statute of limitations shall not run while the defendant is not an inhabitant of or usually resident within the state. State v. Snyder [Mo.] 82 S. W. 12.

7. The evidence was clear that he was a criminal agent of the company under orders of its president. State v. Faulkner, 175 Mo. 546, 75 S. W. 116.

8. Power of congress over bridges over navigable waters. Cummings v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 410, 23 S. Ct. 472. In the absence of congressional legislation, a state may authorize the building of a bridge over a navigable interstate stream. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Wiygul [Miss.] 33 So. 965. See Navigable Waters, 2 Curr. L. 994.

9. Under existing legislation, the right to erect a bridge or other structure in a navigable water of the United States, wholly within the limits of a state, depends upon the concurrent or joint assent of the state and national governments. River & Harbor act of 1899. Cummings v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 410, 23 S. Ct. 472, 47 Law. Ed. 525; Calumet G. & E. Co. v. Chicago, 188 U. S. 431, 23 S. Ct. 477, 47 Law. Ed. 532.

10. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Wiygul [Miss.] 33 So. 965.

11. Dundalk, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177, 54 A. 628.

12. Where so substituted, it will be charged with a license or privilege of free passage resting on the ferry. Du Pont v. Charleston Bridge Co., 65 S. C. 524, 44 S. E. 86.

13. City of Shreveport v. Tidwell [La.] 36 So. 312.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 355.

15. Where a petition for the construction of a bridge is presented to a board of supervisors at a regular session and denied, a new petition may be presented and granted at an adjourned session without reconsidering the former action. Ionia County Sup'rs v. Ionia Circuit Judge [Mich.] 96 N. W. 497.

16. A statutory provision that when it is necessary to raise a sum in excess of $2,000 for building any bridge in a township, the question shall be submitted to a vote of electors, does not apply to the construction of bridges partly within two townships. Ionia County Sup'rs v. Ionia Circuit Judge [Mich.] 96 N. W. 497.

17, 18. Clark v. Lancaster County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 593.

§ 3. Contracts and construction.[20]—As in the case of other public contracts, it is usually prescribed by statutes that contracts for bridges shall be let only upon competitive bids;[21] where, however, express authority to so build a bridge is given, competitive bidding is not necessary.[22] A board of supervisors having contracted for the erection of a bridge, it could contract without advertising for new bids for extra work found necessary during its construction, where it pertained to a necessary part of the bridge.[23] In Nebraska, no authority exists for repairing by annual contract, and where a repair job amounts to more than $100, it must be done by advertising for bids, based upon plans and specifications previously adopted.[24]

Since the presumption is that public officials observe and obey the law, a complaint need not allege that the bridges, to recover compensation for which suit is brought, were such as could be lawfully erected by the defendant board,[25] but an instruction that if the plaintiffs built the bridge on a public road, they were entitled to recover its reasonable value, though the county had not entered into any contract for its construction, is erroneous.[26]

§ 4. Public liability for cost and maintenance.[27]—The question which of two municipalities or in what proportion they shall bear the expense of maintaining a bridge most frequently arises with relation to bridges over streams forming the boundary between counties,[28] towns,[29] or cities,[30] and bridges on highways forming the boundary line.[31] This joint liability is statutory, and proceedings to enforce it must follow the statute;[32] but where the liability exists, it is imma-

19. Sanborn v. Lindenthal, 41 Misc. 564, 85 N. Y. S. 206.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 355.

21. Clark v. Lancaster County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 593. County commissioners can exercise no powers not expressly given by statute, and statutory requirements relative to advertising for bids must be complied with. State v. Snyder, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 261. The cost of the substructure must be estimated in determining the cost of the bridge. Under Rev. St. § 796. When cost of bridge was less than $1,000.00 county commissioners could let contract without advertising for bids. Cost of substructure was not figured in. Id. See Public Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 1285, n. 87.

22. Knowles v. New York, 176 N. Y. 430, 68 N. E. 860.

23. Fenders, or clusters of piles above and below the bridge, but totally disconnected therefrom are not such a necessary part of the bridge. Marion County v. Foxworth [Miss.] 36 So. 36.

24. Clark v. Lancaster County [Neb.] 96 N. W. 593.

25. Bayne v. Wright County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 1, 95 N. W. 456.

26. Howard County v. Lambright [Ark.] 80 S. W. 148.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 355.

28. State v. Thomas [Mo.] 82 S. W. 106; Queen Anne's County Com'rs v. Talbot County Com'rs [Md.] 57 A. 1; In re Newark Plank Road and Bridges, 63 N. J. Eq. 710, 53 A. 5. When the legislature refers to streams which divide counties, it must be understood as meaning streams in which are situated the boundary lines which divide the counties. Dodge County v. Saunders County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 617. Where a bridge over a stream which divides two counties is a charge upon each, it is the duty of the county board of either county, when notified in writing by the other, to join in a contract for the repairs of the bridge, to either comply with the notice by joining in the contract or unequivocally refuse to do so. Iske v. State [Neb.] 100 N. W. 315. See 1 Curr. L. 356, n. 20 et seq.

29. Town of East Fishkill v. Wappinger, 89 N. Y. S. 599.

30. A toll bridge between two cities divided by a river, being converted into a highway, must be maintained by the two cities. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114, 56 A. 589.

31. A county can become obligated to contribute towards the expenses of building a bridge over a stream upon a boundary line between itself and another county, either by entering in the first instance into a joint contract for the construction of such bridge in the manner prescribed by statute, or by subsequently ratifying a contract for that purpose. Saline County v. Gage County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 583. When the county boards of adjoining counties have attempted to enter into a joint contract for the purpose of building a bridge, but by reason of the neglect of requisite formalities one of such counties fails of becoming obligated thereby, and the other in good faith and pursuant to the contract builds and pays for the bridge, the former may ratify and confirm the contract by allowance in behalf of the latter of a claim for one-half the contract price of the structure, and a taxpayer cannot defeat or annul such ratification by appealing from the order of allowance. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 356.

32. Iske v. State [Neb.] 100 N. W. 315; Saline County v. Gage County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 583. The fact that a resolution passed by the board of one of two adjoining counties calling upon the other to join in makterial whether the boundary stream lies half in each county or wholly in one county, the boundary line being one bank of the stream.[33] The duty of adjoining municipalities to repair, when clear, may be enforced by mandamus;[34] but the rule as to original construction is otherwise, and where statutes provide that a bridge between two counties shall be built upon the determination of both counties, such determination once made is the exercise of a discretion which mandamus will not lie to review,[35] and generally speaking, courts will not substitute their judgment for that of the township authorities in relation to how the bridges of the township shall be maintained, nor decide the cost of repairs where there is an honest dispute as to what expenditure will be required.[36]

In Iowa, the duty of keeping in repair a bridge within the corporate limits of a city rests upon the city and not upon the county,[37] but in Kentucky, though a bridge may be wholly within the limits of a city, yet if in fact it is a county bridge, that is, part of a county highway, it becomes the duty of the county to replace it on its destruction.[38] Provisions in a statute for the levy of taxes for repairing bridges must be strictly complied with.[39]

§ 5. Establishment, construction, and maintenance by private enterprise, is more fully treated elsewhere.[40] A municipality may grant to a corporation the right to build bridges across its basins to the extent that the municipality is concerned,[41] and the legislature of Missouri has power to confer on foreign corporations the right of eminent domain, to be exercised in the construction of a toll bridge for public use.[42] The incorporation of a railroad does not of itself confer on it the right to cross navigable waters of the state without the consent of the legislature.[43] The approach to a bridge is a part thereof, so that an attempted conveyance of such approach by a company chartered to build and operate the bridge is ultra vires.[44] The dedication of a bridge by a railroad company to a town for the public use, and the complete and formal acceptance thereof by the town, releases the railway company from all responsibility to the public in the premises.[45] The fact that the upper portion of a bridge is used as a railroad bridge does not prevent a toll bridge license being required.[46]

§ 6. Injuries from defective bridges.[47]—The right of navigation being paramount, it is incumbent on the owner of a bridge to so construct it that it may be readily opened to permit the passage of vessels, to place it in charge of persons competent to operate it, to equip it with lights and signals giving warning of its ing bridge repairs designates two bridges, while, after the latter's refusal, a contract is let and recovery sought as to one only is not fatal. Dodge County v. Saunders County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 617.

33. Dodge County v. Saunders County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 617; In re Newark Plank Road & Bridges, 63 N. J. Eq. 710, 53 A. 5. Where a stream between two towns does not form the boundary line between them, being almost wholly within the limits of the one town, and yet might properly be said to be upon the boundary in such a manner that the construction of bridges would involve the soil or territory of both towns, the towns were not liable by force of the statute alone to share equally the expense, though they might be equitably liable to do so. Town of East Fishkill v. Wappinger, 89 N. Y. S. 599.

34. Iske v. State [Neb.] 100 N. W. 315.

35. State v. Thomas [Mo.] 82 S. W. 106.

36. Kingsley v. Nylan [Mich.] 99 N. W. 744.

37. Freeman v. Independence [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1083.

38. Leslie County v. Wooten, 25 Ky. L. R. 217, 76 S. W. 208.

39. People v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 206 Ill. 594, 69 N. E. 51; Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 565, 69 N. E. 628.

40. See Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Toll Roads and Bridges, 2 Curr. L. 1872.

41. Capdevielle v. New Orleans & S. F. R. Co., 110 La. 904, 34 So. 868.

42. Southern Ill. & M. Bridge Co. v. Stone, 174 Mo. 1, 73 S. W. 453.

43. Dundalk, S. P. & N. P. R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177, 64 A. 628.

44. Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Dodd, 24 Ky. L. R. 205, 72 S. W. 822.

45. Hicks v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 888.

46. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629, 37 So. 85.

47. See 1 Curr. L. 357.

position in opening and closing, and to give timely warning to approaching vessels if it cannot be opened, and for a failure of duty in this respect if injury result the owner is liable.[48]

Where the owner of a private bridge knowingly leaves open his property under circumstances calculated to lead others to think that they are invited to use it, he assumes an obligation to see that it is kept in reasonable repair,[49] but where there is no invitation, express or implied, to use it, he is not liable to one injured because of its defective condition.[50]

By the common law of some states municipalities are required to keep bridges in a reasonably safe condition for travel, and are liable for injuries resulting from failure so to do;[51] the general rule, however, is that the liability is entirely statutory,[52] but whatever its source, the liability is not that of an insurer,[53] and there can be no recovery where officials having in charge the care and maintenance of a bridge had no notice of its defective condition, and had used due diligence in its care and maintenance.[54] But where the defect is of a nature that proper inspection would have discovered it, and has existed so long that the authorities must be presumed to have known of it, the municipality cannot defend on the ground of lack of notice.[55] A township which elects to maintain its highways and bridges by the labor of its inhabitants instead of a system of general taxation, cannot escape liability for personal injuries for its negligence in failing to repair a bridge.[56]

Officers are not liable for injuries unless willfully and grossly negligent.[57]

Defective construction.[58]—The builder of a bridge must use reasonable care to avoid the flowage of lands by reason of his abutments and embankments,[59] but he is not required to anticipate and use precautions against extraordinary or unprece-

48. Clement v. Metropolitan West Side El. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 271.

49. Lawson v. Shreveport Waterworks Co., 111 La. 73, 35 So. 390.

50. Carson Lime Co. v. Rutherford's Adm'r [Va.] 46 S. E. 304.

51. City of Connersville v. Snider, 31 Ind. App. 218, 67 N. E. 555; Buechner v. New Orleans [La.] 36 So. 603.

52. Hackney v. Coweta County, 117 Ga. 327, 43 S. E. 725. A county is not liable, unless made so by statute, though the law requires it to keep the highway in repair, and gives it power to provide means with which to do so. Schroeder v. Multnomah County [Or.] 76 P. 772. In Georgia no remedy, statutory or common law, exists for injuries caused by a defective bridge built across a stream between two counties. Paxton v. Berrien County, 117 Ga. 891, 45 S. E. 266.

53. Warren County v. Evans, 118 Ga. 200, 44 S. E. 986; Comstock v. Georgetown Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 788.

54. Robe v. Snohomish County [Wash.] 77 P. 810. No recovery can be had where it does not appear that the board was aware of the defect, or that it had existed for so long a time that reasonable inspections would have caused it to have been disclosed. Creighton v. Board of Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 57 A. 870. If the defect in a bridge is a latent defect, not discernible from the ordinary tests and examinations usually made to ascertain its condition, and if those charged with such examination have not been negligent in their duty in that regard, no liability results for damage caused by such latent and undiscovered defect. Johnson County v. Carmen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 502.

55. Where a defect in a bridge in a populous part of the city consisted of a hole two or three feet long and six inches wide, which had existed three or four months, the city was chargeable with notice. City of Connersville v. Snider, 31 Ind. App. 218, 67 N. E. 555. If a bridge becomes weakened to the point of danger from natural decay, and the exercise of reasonable care and inspection would have revealed the condition the county cannot rely on a want of notice. Perry v. Clarke County, 120 Iowa, 96, 94 N. W. 454. See, also, Walker v. Ontario, 118 Wis. 564, 95 N. W. 1086. It is negligence for the supervisors of a county to fail to inspect a bridge under their control, knowing the use of traction engines to be general, where its floor timbers have not been renewed for fifty-five years. Smith v. Muncy Creek Tp., 206 Pa. 7, 55 A. 757.

56. Pearl v. Benton Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 188.

57. Schooler v. Arrington [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 468.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 357.

59. Kipp v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 392, 85 N. Y. S. 855. Whoever proposes to build a bridge over a stream, before placing his piers or other erection tending in any degree to dam the water or divert it from its natural flow, must study the country through which it flows, its usual freshets, and occasional great floods, which are not usual but which experience teaches may occur at any time, and use reasonable care and skill to avoid producing or increasing damage from these sources. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188.

dented floods,[60] and a landowner, in giving a deed to a railway company for a right of way over his lands adjacent to a proposed bridge, must be held to have had in view all damage coming to his property from a reasonably skillful and proper construction of the bridge.[61] The builder is liable for injuries resulting from his negligence during the process of construction.[62]

Proximate cause of injury.[63]—A municipality cannot be held liable, as for defective construction, for an injury that does not occur on the bridge itself and is not chargeable to any defect therein.[64] Delinquency in complying with a statute requiring that a bridge be spanned with plank before a traction engine is driven over it is no defense, unless there is some direct causal relation between the failure and the accident.[65]

Contributory negligence.[66]—One who puts a bridge to a use for which it was not intended,[67] or uses it with knowledge of its defective condition,[68] or is otherwise negligent in his use of a bridge, cannot recover;[69] and a boy, partially blind, who after being warned goes on a bridge, and while the draw is open walks off, is guilty of contributory negligence.[70]

60. Whether a flood falls within one or the other of these classes is a question of fact for the jury. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188. In an action for the negligent construction of a bridge whereby water is backed upon plaintiff's premises it is error for the court to charge that if the bridge was carefully constructed plaintiff would still have a remedy for obstructing the stream. Kipp v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 392, 85 N. Y. S. 855.

61. But this does not authorize the company to locate piers at such an oblique angle to the natural flow of the stream as to present a much greater surface and obstruction to the current, diverting the water to the damage of the adjacent soil. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188. Nor may it allow large cribs or pens filled with stone and used in building a temporary bridge to remain after the completion of the permanent structure, to the injury of the adjacent owner. Id.

62. It is not negligence per se for a county, while repairing a bridge, to regularly pile plank on the bridge, leaving room for teams to pass opposite the pile, which remained from May 29 over Decoration Day to morning of May 31, and from which injury resulted. Karl v. Juniata County, 206 Pa. 633, 56 A. 78.

A person who has contracted with a county to build a new bridge, and during the course of construction to provide and maintain a temporary foot bridge, assuming all risks pertaining thereto, is not liable to a person injured under circumstances from which it might be inferred that the injuries were caused by a failure to light the temporary footbridge. Styles v. F. R. Long Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 448.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 358.

64. It being plain that the plank bridge off one end of which the plaintiff's wheel fell, causing the injury, was not a part of the traveled path, but outside of it, and constructed solely for the purpose of facilitating access to and from the traveled path to a private way, which opened into the highway, and from which the plaintiff was driving, he could not recover. Felch v. West Brookfield, 184 Mass. 309, 68 N. E. 227.

The mere fact that a person traveling upon the highway after dark mistakes the wing wall of a bridge for a footpath, and after getting upon it falls off and is injured, affords no ground for concluding that the bridge was improperly constructed. Weeks v. Board of Chosen Freeholders, 68 N. J. Law, 622, 54 A. 826.

65. Walker v. Ontario, 118 Wis. 564, 95 N. W. 1086; Tackett v. Taylor County [Iowa] 98 N. W. 730. For further cases where traction engines have broken through bridges, see Schooler v. Arrington [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 468; Smith v. Muncy Creek Tp., 206 Pa. 7, 55 A. 767; Perry v. Clarke County, 120 Iowa, 96, 94 N. W. 454; Johnson County v. Carmen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 502; Comstock v. Georgetown Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 788. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 358, n. 40; Id., 360, n. 74. A complaint for injuries to a traction engine by the breaking of a bridge is insufficient, where it appears that the engine weighed more than seven tons, and it is not alleged that plaintiff took the precautions prescribed by Rev. St. 1898, § 1347b, requiring persons crossing bridges with such engines to span the bridge with planks. Stone v. Tilden [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1026.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 358.

67. Plaintiff sat down and leaned against railing to rest. Knowles v. Central of Ga. R. Co., 118 Ga. 795, 45 S. E. 605.

68. A bridge being found unsafe was barricaded by the supervisors, but after some repairs, was thrown open and was in constant use. The supervisors had a notice posted on it that it was unsafe for travel. Plaintiff's knowledge of the notice was held not conclusive that he was negligent in using the bridge, he having been personally advised by the supervisors that it had been repaired and was safe. Jones v. Shelby County [Iowa] 100 N. W. 520.

69. A charge that it was the duty of a person in crossing a bridge with a traction engine to use ordinary care, and that ordinary care under these circumstances was such as should be suitable to or commensurate with the hazard or risk which would naturally attend the crossing, sustained. Walker v. Ontario, 118 Wis. 564, 95 N. W. 1086. See, also, Perry v. Clarke County, 120 Iowa, 96, 94 N. W. 454.

Remedies.[71]—A statute which requires the filing of a statement of claim as a condition precedent to a right of action should receive a reasonable construction, and requires but a substantial compliance.[72]

Though highway commissioners of certain towns were given control and direction of a bridge between the towns, an action for injuries thereto must be brought in the names of the towns, and not in the names of their highway commissioners.[73]

Pleading and evidence.[74]—It is not necessary to use the term "proximate cause" in the complaint. An averment that the defect complained of caused the injury is sufficient,[75] but a complaint against a bridge commissioner which does not charge that his action, in reporting a bridge as properly constructed and safe for travel, was instigated by willfulness is insufficient.[76]

Where in an action against a railroad company to recover for obstructing the flow of a navigable stream, during a freshet, causing damage to plaintiff's land, it was claimed that the damage resulted from an unprecedented flood, the burden of proof of such fact was on the defendant.[77]

It is competent for the plaintiff to show that while the bridge was in the same condition, accidents of a similar nature had occurred at the same place a short time prior thereto,[78] and that there were other defects in the bridge than the defects that caused the accident, also to prove its general defective condition.[79] The fact that the town board settled with the owner of the engine cannot affect the case of one suing for personal injuries, and testimony to that effect is not admissible.[80] While the weight of the testimony is entirely for the jury, yet mere speculation and conjecture must not be confused with legitimate testimony.[81]

Interrogatories.—A special interrogatory in an action for injury from a defective bridge, as to whether plaintiff saw the notice of its unsafe condition posted on it, is objectionable as not limiting the jury to the time of the accident.[82]

Questions for jury.[83]—The question of negligence in taking a tank full of 70. Desure v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 988.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 359.

72. Eggleston v. Chautauqua, 90 App. Div. 314, 86 N. Y. S. 279; Bayne v. Board of County Com'rs, 90 Minn. 1, 95 N. W. 456. The fact that a statement of claim was called a "petition" instead of a "notice" does not render it insufficient. Perry v. Clarke County, 120 Iowa, 96, 94 N. W. 454. Verification by an agent is sufficient. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 359, n. 63.

73. Town of Palatine v. Canajoharie Water Supply Co., 90 App. Div. 548, 86 N. Y. S. 412.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 359.

75. City of Franklin v. Davenport, 31 Ind. App. 648, 68 N. E. 907.

76. Schooler v. Arrington [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 468.

77. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188.

78. City of Kingfisher v. Altizer, 13 Okl. 121, 74 P. 107. See 1 Curr. L. 360, n. 71.

79. This class of testimony is competent for the purpose of showing that the authorities had knowledge of the defective condition, or that the defects had existed for such a length of time that by the exercise of reasonable care they could have been repaired. City of Kingfisher v. Altizer, 13 Okl. 121, 74 P. 107.

80. Comstock v. Georgetown Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 788.

81. In an action against a town for negligent death alleged to have been caused by the absence of any railing on a bridge, whereby plaintiff's intestate, when intoxicated, in attempting to cross the bridge in the dark fell into the water, evidence that deceased was found dead in the water a short distance from the bridge, that some articles belonging to him were found on the other side of the bridge about 75 feet from his body, and that an overcoat which he had on when last seen was also found a few feet away from the body, was insufficient to justify submission to the jury of the issue as to whether deceased fell off the bridge. Armstrong v. Cosmopolis, 32 Wash. 110, 72 P. 1038. In an action against a county for death alleged to have been negligently caused by the absence of a guard railing on a bridge, evidence held not sufficient to sustain a verdict against the county. Reidhead v. Skagit County, 33 Wash. 174, 73 P. 1118. Evidence held sufficient to show that boy fell through hole in bridge. Buechner v. New Orleans [La.] 36 So. 603. Evidence, in an action by a railroad for damage to its bridge trestle by defendant's barges breaking loose from their moorings and drifting against the trestle, examined and held sufficient to sustain finding that the barges were not left in charge of a watchman. Astoria & C. R. R. Co. v. Kern [Or.] 76 P. 14.

82. Jones v. Shelby County [Iowa] 100 N. W. 520.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 360.

water upon a bridge with an engine,[84] whether it was negligent for the driver of a threshing engine to remain on the engine while crossing a bridge,[85] and of the sufficiency of barricades as a warning of dangerous conditions, are questions of fact and for the jury.[86] Whether a pedestrian crossing a bridge on a dark night was negligent in turning to cross the street, where he tripped over a chain,[87] and whether a flood by which plaintiff's lands were damaged was one which the builder of a bridge should have foreseen and provided against is a question of fact.[88]

§ 7. Injuries to bridges.[89]—If a bridge is unfavorably affected by a dam below only in extraordinary and unusual freshets, which occur but seldom in a long series of years, the dam is not of unlawful height as to the bridge.[90] On trial of an indictment for maliciously destroying a bridge, malice is for the jury.[91]

BROKERS.[92]

§ 1. Employment and Relation in General (535).
§ 2. Mutual Rights, Duties, and Liabilities (538). Scope of Authority (539). Ratification (540). Revocation of Authority (540). Damages (540). Remedies and Procedure (541).
§ 3. Rights and Liabilities as to Third Persons (541).
§ 4. Compensation and Lien (542). Sale Agent (545). Good Faith (546). Complaint (547). Evidence (548). Instructions (549).

§ 1. Employment and relation in general.[93]—The agreement must contain all essential elements of a contract,[94] and may be established by correspondence between the parties;[95] but the fact that one accepts the benefits of the endeavors of a broker does not establish the relation,[96] because a mere volunteer acquires no

84. Comstock v. Georgetown Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 788. See 1 Curr. L. 360, n. 74.

85. Perry v. Clarke County, 120 Iowa, 96, 94 N. W. 454.

86. Feldkamp v. Kansas City [Kan.] 75 P. 464.

87. Milliken v. St. Clair [Mich.] 99 N. W. 7.

88. Jones v. Seaboard A. L. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 188.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 360.

90. It is not necessary that a freshet be unprecedented or higher than any preceding freshet within memory to constitute it an extraordinary and unusual freshet within the above rule. Inhabitants of Palmyra v. Waverly Woolen Co. [Me.] 58 A. 674.

91. Evidence of malice held sufficient as against contention that defendant believed bridge was on private grounds. People v. Myring [Cal.] 77 P. 975.

92. See, also, Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68; Factors, 1 Curr. L. 1200, and as to brokers engaged in dealings in futures, Gambling Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 129.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 360.

94. Agreement to sell town lots at such terms as might be deemed advantageous, to receive 10 per cent, etc. was valid. Albany Land Co. v. Rickel [Ind.] 70 N. E. 158. Where broker was to receive his commissions from vendor, evidence held to show he was the vendor's agent. Gough v. Loomis [Iowa] 99 N. W. 295. A contract giving one the exclusive privilege of selling land is a contract of agency, not an option. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1171. Where a daughter of a principal gave a broker a sole agency, evidence held to show he was such. Sylvester v. Johnson, 110 Tenn. 392, 75 S. W. 923. Contract agreeing to pay an agent a certain amount on sale of land to himself or anyone else was an agreement to pay commission. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227. Contract construed that brokers were to have commissions on all fish sold out of an entire catch except 15 per cent thereof. Emerson v. Pacific Coast & Norway Packing Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 365. Where evidence held to sustain verdict that relation of principal and broker existed. Camp v. Minnesota Canning Co., 89 Minn. 252, 94 N. W. 687. Evidence held to show authority from owner for broker to sell land. Steidl v. McClymonds, 90 Minn. 205, 95 N. W. 906. Evidence examined and held to sustain finding of the trial court. Gallagher v. Bell, 89 Minn. 291, 94 N. W. 867.

95. In reply to broker's letter asking if principal would sell, the latter wrote that he would accept $250, and this with the correspondence following held to amount to the giving of authority to broker. West v. Mills, 83 App. Div. 629, 82 N. Y. S. 473. Employment held to be shown by correspondence. Steidl v. McClymonds, 90 Minn. 205, 95 N. W. 906. An owner employed a broker to procure a purchaser within 30 days; at the expiration he wrote making enquiry and directing him to sell within the next 30 days. Held, the contract was extended. Johnson Bros. v. Wright [Iowa] 99 N. W. 103. Correspondence leading up to employment admissible to show it. Veale v. Green [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 731. Letter written by broker to an owner inquiring price, and a reply stating it, is not on its face authority. Johnson v. Whalen, 13 Okl. 320, 74 P. 503.

96. Circumstances indicated that broker was working for purchaser. Downing v. Buck [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388. Held that where plaintiff acted for third person in making a sale of the latter's property to defendant, rights.[97] Authority will be presumed from long acquiescence in the acts of a broker.[98]

Whether the relation exists is a mixed question of law and fact.[99] It cannot be proved by declarations of the agent,[1] nor by proof of general reputation.[2] Acceptance of offer of employment may be shown by evidence of attempts to effect the transaction.[3] A statement to a broker that if he or any one else would procure a purchaser by a certain date, the land might go, constituted an ordinary revocable authority.[4] Assent by the principal to an assignment is an agreement to substitute the assignee as agent,[5] or an assignment of the contract may be ratified.[6] Penal provisions in the contract are strictly construed.[7]

Authority to contract relative to real estate must be in writing;[8] but an agency to purchase real estate may be established by parol,[9] and a contract with reference to the sale of lands may be constituted of an employment to sell land for another.[10] In Nebraska, the contract must be in writing subscribed by both parties, describing the land and setting forth the amount of compensation.[11] Correspondence is sufficient,[12] whose promise was only to pay the price of the property sold no inference could be drawn that there was an express or implied agreement on defendant's part to pay commission. Moses v. Beverly, 137 Ala. 473, 34 So. 825. Nothing in their dealings from which an owner could infer that a broker was acting for him. Downing v. Buck [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388. Evidence held insufficient to show that a broker was employed to make a lease. Brady v. American Mach. & Foundry Co., 86 App. Div. 267, 83 N. Y. S. 663. Where written contract read for the sale of mining property in Ures district and the actual sale of such property was in Arispe district, held, that agent was not entitled to commissions. Wulff v. Lindsay [Ariz.] 71 P. 963. Broker had authority to sell one of two named tugs. Purchaser secured by broker took neither, but without bad faith purchased a third tug from principal. Held, that broker was not entitled to compensation. Samuels v. Luckenbach, 205 Pa. 428, 54 A. 1091.

97. A mere volunteer acting without authority, who brings parties together, is not entitled to compensation for his services. Samuels v. Luckenbach, 205 Pa. 428, 54 A. 1091. Where broker offered reward to have borrowers brought to him, the fact that some third party sends a borrower to him, but fails to state that he is relying on reward, cannot authorize such person's recovering any commission. Van Vlissingen v. Manning, 105 Ill. App. 255. Where a principal denies the employment of a broker, evidence of the employment of other brokers is admissible. Hunn v. Ashton, 121 Iowa, 265, 96 N. W. 745.

98. After 60 years without repudiation of a deed made by an agent. Tarvin v. Walkers Creek Coal & Coke Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2246, 80 S. W. 504.

99. Gough v. Loomis [Iowa] 99 N. W. 295. Where terms of employment and nature of services rendered were in dispute, error to direct verdict for commissions. Ryan v. Page [Iowa] 92 N. W. 768. It is error to dismiss case on ground that the relation of principal and broker did not exist, when the evidence tends to show that the principal had reasonable cause to believe that the broker was instrumental in bringing about the sale. Henninger v. Burch, 90 Minn. 43, 95 N. W. 578. Evidence held for the jury as to whether a broker was authorized to sell. Father and son had an interest in the land; authority given by father. Phillips v. Hazen, 122 Iowa, 475, 98 N. W. 305. Evidence held for the jury as to whether an attorney in fact of the owner executed and delivered to a broker a writing with the intention of authorizing him to sell land. Cody v. Dempsey, 86 App. Div. 335, 13 Ann. Cas. 322, 83 N. Y. S. 899.

1. Eastland v. Maney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 574. Declarations thereof inadmissible. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227.

2. Reputed to be the agent. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227.

3. To sell the land. Veale v. Green [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 731. Where a broker had been requested to list property and did nothing further until he notified the customer that he had found a purchaser, evidence held to show an employment. Sandefur v. Hines [Kan.] 76 P. 444.

4. Could be revoked before such date. Milligan v. Owen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 792.

5. Broker partnership dissolved. Albany Land Co. v. Rickel [Ind.] 70 N. E. 158.

6. Accepting reports, proceeds of sales and executing papers to the assignee in his name. Albany Land Co. v. Rickel [Ind.] 70 N. E. 158

7. That owner could withdraw the land or raise the price on paying the broker two per cent on stipulated price. Tracy v. Abney, 122 Iowa, 306, 98 N. W. 121.

8. Verbal promise by owner to carry out contract made by broker not so authorized is not binding. Kesner v. Miesch, 204 Ill. 320, 68 N. E. 405; Covey v. Henry [Neb.] 98 N. W. 434. Civ. Code, § 1624. Jamison v. Hyde, 141 Cal. 109, 74 P. 695.

9. Rathbun v. McLay [Conn.] 56 A. 511.

10. This would not be a contract for the sale of land. Ivy Coal & Coke Co. v. Long, 139 Ala. 535, 36 So. 722.

11. Comp. St. 1901, § 74, c. 73. Correspondence held insufficient, where letter accepting was not written until after the sale. Danielson v. Goebel [Neb.] 98 N. W. 819.

12. Comp. St. 1903, § 74, c. 73. Setting forth terms. David Bradley v. Bower [Neb.] 99 N. W. 490.

and such a contract may be modified by parol as to such provisions as are not required to be in writing.[13] A writing signed by an attorney in fact is sufficient to relieve the broker from the provisions of a statute making it a misdemeanor to offer real estate for sale without written authority,[14] but a memorandum was held insufficient,[15] and where such a statute applies to particular localities, it is unconstitutional.[16]

That the sales are conducted by one partner of a firm of brokers is not a breach,[17] nor is the fact that an owner offers to sell to another during the continuance of an option,[18] or sells after appointing an exclusive agent.[19]

Brokers may be regulated by means of an annual tax and be required to make a sworn statement that all their orders were executed on their respective exchanges.[20] Where a statute requires a broker to be licensed and imposes a penalty for a violation, a contract in violation thereof is not void.[21]

An executor has power to employ a broker,[22] or ratify an agreement by one assuming to act for him;[23] but he cannot delegate discretion as to terms of the sale,[24] and a president of a corporation who owns nearly all the stock and in whom is confided the general management of the business has no authority to contract to pay commissions for the sale of his own stock.[25]

Double agency.[26]—If both parties are aware of the circumstances, there is no impropriety in a double agency;[27] but if not, the contract arranged thereby is void,[28]

13. Terms of sale. David Bradley v. Bower [Neb.] 99 N. W. 491.

14. Pen. Code, § 640d (Laws 1901, c. 128). Cody v. Dempsey, 86 App. Div. 335, 13 Ann. Cas. 322, 83 N. Y. S. 899.

15. Pencil memorandum, "Property 76 Mangin Street; $9,000, no less," insufficient compliance with Laws 1901, c. 128, § 640d, to authorize a sale at any price. Cohen v. Boccuzzi, 86 N. Y. S. 187.

16. Pen. Code, § 640 (Laws 1901, c. 128), applying to cities of first and second classes. Cody v. Dempsey, 86 App. Div. 336, 13 Ann. Cas. 322, 83 N. Y. S. 899.

Constitutional in first department. Charles v. Arthur, 84 N. Y. S. 284. A criminal statute, making it a misdemeanor for real estate broker to sell property without written authority, is a reasonable exercise of the police power of the state and does not infringe any property rights. Whiteley v. Terry, 83 App. Div. 197, 82 N. Y. S. 89.

17. Selling town lots at a different town. Albany Land Co. v. Rickel [Ind.] 70 N. E. 168.

18. Contingently on the failure of the option holder to comply with its terms. Smith v. Lawrence, 98 Me. 92, 56 A. 455.

19. Not negativing the right of the principal to sell. Ingold v. Symonds [Iowa] 99 N. W. 713. Authority to sell land "until sold" does not create an exclusive agency. Revoked by sale by principal or another broker. Kidman v. Howard [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1104. Notification that if sale was made by a certain date, a reduced price would be accepted did not operate to give exclusive agency until such date. The property had been listed with several brokers. White v. Benton, 121 Iowa, 354, 96 N. W. 876.

20. Broker applying for license refused to make the sworn statement. Belding v. Rector, 71 Ark. 463, 76 S. W. 1066. Comp. Laws, § 11572, providing that when an agent misappropriates money delivered to him with written instructions as to its use, he shall be guilty of a felony, includes brokers. People v. Karste [Mich.] 93 N. W. 1081.

21. Penalty is all that is required. Ober v. Stephens [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 195.

22. To find purchaser for land of the estate, also to contract to pay him a specified commission. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227.

23. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227.

24. As to commission of subagent. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227.

25. Demarest v. Spiral Riveted Tube Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 161.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 362.

27. Brokers had regular customers for whom they bought and others for whom they sold. Lincoln v. Levi Cotton Mills Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 866. A broker acting in a double capacity without the knowledge of the parties cannot recover commissions (Collins v. McClurg, 1 Colo. App. 348; Cottom v. Holliday, 69 Ill. 176; Rice v. Wood, 113 Mass. 133; Murray v. Beard, 102 N. Y. 508, 7 N. E. 553; Hall v. Gambril, 92 F. 32), unless the party negotiating the transaction is not in the occupation of an agent (Lyle v. University Land & Inv. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 30 S. W. 723), or his only business is to bring the parties together (Atkinson v. Pack, 114 N. C. 697, 19 N. E. 628; Papé v. Wright, 116 Ind. 502, 19 N. E. 459; Barry v. Schmidt, 57 Wis. 172, 16 N. W. 24, and note to Leathers v. Canfield [Mich.] 45 L. R. A. 33; Brackenridge v. Payne [Tex.] 43 L. R. A. 593, and Lunney v. Healey [Neb.] 44 L. R. A. 593, where the cases on the rights to compensation are collected and discussed; Red Cypress Lumber Co. v. Perry, 118 Ga. 876, 45 S. E. 674, citing other cases). Uncontradicted evidence showed that a seller had knowledge of the fact. Darrow Inv. Co. v. Breyman, 32 Wash. 234, 73 P. 363.

28. Seller had no knowledge of his agency for purchaser. McClure v. Ullman, 102 Mo. App. 697, 77 S. W. 325.

and the broker cannot recover his commissions.[29] That a broker advanced money to the purchaser does not make him his agent.[30] The burden is on the principal to show that there was a double agency, and such fact was not known to him.[31] A contract made thereunder is not ratified by a retention of the money paid, when its source is unknown.[32]

§ 2. Mutual rights, duties, and liabilities.[33]—The broker may be discharged at will,[34] unless done for the sole purpose of defeating his right to commissions,[35] and in the absence of custom the rights of the broker end with his discharge.[36]

Where stocks are actually bought and sold there is no wagering contract.[37]

It is the duty of a stock broker when so ordered to act promptly.[38] Mere silence cannot be construed as an order to brokers to sell stock held on a margin.[39] Where brokers sell stock on margin the legal title is in the vendee.[40] All demands by a stock broker on his customer for margins must be specific, definite, and certain, and the customer is entitled to a reasonable time within which to comply,[41] and if he does not comply the broker may take steps to protect himself.[42] The failure of a purchaser to put up further margins where notified to do so does not relieve from the duty of giving notice of time and place of sale by a pledgee.[43] Where a broker, after breach of the contract between the customers, refuses to disclose to the one who the other is he is personally liable.[44] In the absence of cus-

29. Rutledge & K. Realty Co. v. Neely, 97 Mo. 384, 73 S. W. 359.

30. Agent for seller advanced money so purchaser could buy. Goodson v. Embleton [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 22.

31. Red Cypress Lumber Co. v. Perry, 118 Ga. 876, 45 S. E. 674.

32. Several purchasers. McClure v. Ullman, 102 Mo. App. 697, 77 S. W. 325.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 362.

34. Employment does not give broker any reasonable time to procure tenant or purchaser. Cadigan v. Crabtree [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1033. The principal has a right to withdraw land from the market at any time before acceptance of offer. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326.

35. Camp v. Minnesota Canning Co., 89 Minn. 252, 94 N. W. 687. Where principal sold land to purchaser at a price in violation of his agreement with broker. Baker v. Murphy, 105 Ill. App. 151. Revoked after owner had been put in communication with the purchaser. Gibson v. Hunt [Iowa] 94 N. W. 277.

36. Two months after authority was revoked, broker effected a lease. Cadigan v. Crabtree [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1033. A notice of sale sent by the broker by telegraph must be received prior to the signing of another contract. Owner had listed with other brokers and reserved right to sell. Johnson Bros. v. Wright [Iowa] 99 N. W. 103.

37. Stat. 1890, p. 479, though certificates were not delivered to the purchaser. Post v. Leland, 184 Mass. 601, 69 N. E. 361. On the question whether or not a certain contract is void as a wager, the burden of proof is on him who alleges it. Boyle v. Henning, 121 F. 376.

38. Note: A broker may be directed to sell at any time and he must obey or he is personally liable for any resulting loss. Allen v. McConihe, 124 N. Y. 342, 26 N. E. 812; Johnston v. Miller, 67 Ark. 172, 53 S. W. 1052. What is a reasonable time within which to sell is a question of law (Davis v. Gwynne, 57 N. Y. 676), and if he has agreed not to sell until a certain time he may not, though margins held have run out (Morgan v. Jaudon, 40 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 366; Rogers v. Wiley, 131 N. Y. 527, 30 N. E. 582), and in any event he has no right to sell until he has made a demand for more margins (Gruman v. Smith, 81 N. Y. 25; Stenton v. Jerome, 54 N. Y. 480, and note to Van Dusen-Harrington Co. v. Jungeblut, 74 Am. St. R. 463). Purchase; report the transaction; receive the stock and have the certificates ready for delivery whenever the purchaser shall pay for them. Tuell v. Paine, 39 Misc. 712, 80 N. Y. S. 956. Question whether certain telegrams passing between principal and broker amounted to authority to buy certain stock held question for the jury. Boyle v. Henning, 121 F. 376.

39. Brokers wrote to a customer asking him to put up margins; he did not reply and some days thereafter they sold. He brings action to recover for the highest price obtainable the day after the letter requesting margins. Lynch v. Simmonds, 87 N. Y. S. 420. No error for court to read from a prior opinion a statement of law relative to right to recover margins under Stat. 1890, p. 479. Post v. Leland, 184 Mass. 601, 69 N. E. 361.

40. Brokers are pledgees for the repayment of advances made by them. Rothschild v. Allen, 90 App. Div. 233, 86 N. Y. S. 42. A broker is not relieved from his duty to deliver stock sold on margin by the fact that one to whom he pledged it sold it on the broker's suspension of business. Id. Failure of a broker to deliver to a customer stock sold on margin is a conversion. Id.

41. No demand is specific unless it mentions a particular amount of money, or states facts from which a particular amount of money can be ascertained. Boyle v. Henning, 121 F. 376.

42. Purchase stock to replace that borrowed to cover a short sale for his principal. Boyle v. Henning, 121 F. 376.

43. Rothschild v. Allen, 90 App. Div. 233, 86 N. Y. S. 42.

44. Brokers sold certain yarn for a custom, brokers are not liable if they fail to require a lender to put up margins to secure the borrower against a decline.[45]

Acting in good faith and with full knowledge of the principal the broker may purchase.[46] The fact that a broker made a sale to himself of a certain block of stock does not invalidate sales by him in good faith to other parties,[47] and where property is to be sold at a fixed price it is no defense that the broker was interested as a purchaser.[48] General customs of brokers,[49] or rules of a stock exchange cannot be received against a client of a broker who is ignorant of them,[50] on the ground that they constitute a custom of the business.[51]

A broker is entitled to a deed running to himself when it is shown that it is for his security in advancing money to make the purchase.[52] His bondsmen are liable for a breach of his contract.[53] Where brokers purchase stock on false orders of an employee they may treat him as principal.[54] The admissibility of evidence to show rights is treated in the note.[55]

Instructions.[56]—A charge that if the broker had cause to believe that a customer did not intend that he should purchase stocks was proper.[57]

Scope of authority.[58]—Authority to make a loan is not authority to collect either principal or interest,[59] nor is authority to collect rents authority to procure a purchaser,[60] nor authority to sell at a certain price authority to agree to deferred payments.[61] A broker cannot accept a check in payment.[62] If he is authorized to accept earnest money he cannot accept foreign coin.[63] Authority to sell oil is authority to stipulate how much shall be put in the buyer's tanks.[64] Where a broker does not reside where the land to be sold is situated he is presumed to have authority to appoint a subagent.[65] Depositing money subject to the check of a broker after tomer which the purchaser refused to accept. Lincoln v. Levi Cotton Mills Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 865. Where a broker notifies his customer that the purchaser has refused to carry out the contract there is an unconditional breach. Id. The measure of damages is the profit he would have received if the buyer had fulfilled his contract, less the profit received from a sale to others. Id.

45. Borrowed to cover a short sale. Morris v. Jamieson, 205 Ill. 87, 68 N. E. 742. Evidence held insufficient to establish such a custom. Id.

46. After purchase tract of land was found to be larger than principal believed. He could not rescind. Teal v. McKnight, 110 La. 256, 34 So. 434.

47. Evans v. Wrenn, 93 App. Div. 346, 88 N. Y. S. 617.

48. Selover v. Isle Harbor Land Co. [Minn.] 98 N. W. 344.

49. Employ subagents in sale of mining property. Chilberg v. Lyng [C. C. A.] 128 F. 899.

50. In an action to recover money deposited as margins. Newman v. Lee, 87 App. Div. 116, 84 N. Y. S. 106.

51. Newman v. Lee, 87 App. Div. 116, 84 N. Y. S. 106.

52. Goodson v. Embleton [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 22.

53. Where a broker failed to remit proceeds of sales to his principals. Merkley & Son v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2308, 73 S. W. 1126.

54. Collect the amount from his estate in bankruptcy. In re Filer, 125 F. 261.

55. Under Stat. 1890, p. 479, providing for a recovery of money paid for margins, evidence that a customer did not understand what a notice that stock had been bought on his account meant was inadmissible. Post v. Leland, 184 Mass. 601, 69 N. E. 361. Letters written by brokers to customer's wife also inadmissible. Refusal to allow cross-examination as to other transactions no error. Not referred to on direct examination. Bertelson v. Hoffman [Wash.] 77 P. 801.

56. See 1 Curr. L. 362.

57. No error to refuse to give a requested instruction in the language submitted [Stat. 1890, p. 479]. Post v. Leland, 184 Mass. 601, 68 N. E. 361.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 362.

59. Where principal requested the broker to notify the debtor when interest was due, evidence held insufficient to show authority to collect. Ortmeier v. Ivory, 208 Ill. 577, 70 N. E. 665.

60. Action brought for commissions. Hunn v. Ashton, 121 Iowa, 265, 96 N. W. 745.

61. Staten v. Hammer, 121 Iowa, 499, 96 N. W. 964; Edwards v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 48. In answer to a request for margins a customer telegraphed, "I will have to let my stock go." Held an authorization to sell, not inconsistent, however, until notice of its execution, with other orders to a subagent who executed the orders. Evans v. Wrenn, 93 App. Div. 346, 88 N. Y. S. 617.

62. Purchase price of land. Ormsby v. Graham [Iowa] 98 N. W. 724.

63. Mexican money. Edwards v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 48.

64. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas O. & R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961.

65. Eastland v. Maney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 574.

the principal has approved the application for a loan does not give a broker authority to make a loan.[66]

Ratification.[67]—An agency is ratified by adopting the contract made by the agent,[68] and an execution of a contract of exchange by a wife is a ratification by her of the broker's acts of procuring an exchange authorized by her husband.[69] One joint owner may ratify the contract between his co-owner and the broker by assisting at the sale to the customer procured.[70] There can be no ratification without full knowledge of the facts,[71] and an owner's execution of a deed in ignorance of the terms made by an agent is not a ratification.[72] Advancement in value is ground for refusal to ratify an unauthorized contract.[73] Where a purchaser from a broker asserts ratification he must prove it.[74]

Revocation of authority[75] to collect rents is a revocation of the authority to procure a purchaser.[76] Authority to sell is revoked by a sale by the owner,[77] especially where he reserves the right to sell,[78] or if the contract does not negative such right,[79] and the manner in which it is accomplished is immaterial.[80] Authority to sell is not revoked by his giving an option,[81] but is by notice of the exercise of an option.[82] A contract limited to a definite period terminates at the expiration thereof.[83]

Damages.[84]—An agency coupled with an interest is revoked subject to liability for damages suffered by reason of its termination contrary to the terms of the contract creating it.[85] If the principal refuses to carry out his contract the broker may rescind and recover on a quantum meruit.[86] On breach of contract between principal and broker the measure of damages is the loss of profits as shown by the evidence excluding uncertain and conjectural profits,[87] and such damages may be 66. Brokers exacted commission making note usurious. Barksdale v. Security Inv. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 943.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 363.

68. An owner intrusted land to her brother to sell; he employed a broker. Hurt v. Jones [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 486. Where a principal completed a sale after he knew it was procured by brokers and was notified that they would claim their commission, evidence held to show a ratification. Decker v. Widdicomb [Mich.] 100 N. W. 573.

69. Charles v. Cook, 88 App. Div. 81, 84 N. Y. S. 867.

70. Assisting in getting title papers in order, etc. McKinnon v. Hope, 118 Ga. 462, 45 S. E. 413.

71. Judgment against a principal compelling him to repay the amount of a first payment under an unauthorized contract to the agent insufficient to show a ratification. Fleming v. Burke, 122 Iowa, 433, 98 N. W. 288.

72. Broker had agreed to deferred payments. Edwards v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 48.

73. Staten v. Hammer, 121 Iowa, 499, 96 N. W. 964.

74. Edwards v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 48.

75. See 1 Curr. L. 367.

76. Even if the first authorized the second. Hunn v. Ashton, 121 Iowa, 265, 96 N. W. 745.

77. Notice unnecessary. Wallace v. Figone [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 492.

78. White v. Benton, 121 Iowa, 354, 96 N. W. 876; Johnson Bros. v. Wright [Iowa] 99 N. W. 103. After listing property the owner withdrew it from the market, but stated that he would offer it for sale after he made some changes. Held, broker's authority was revoked. George B. Loving Co. v. Hesperian Cattle Co., 176 Mo. 330, 75 S. W. 1095. Principal had a right to revoke it. Id.

79. Broker had exclusive agency to procure loan. Mott v. Ferguson [Minn.] 99 N. W. 804. Where one notified the brokers that if a sale was consummated by a certain date a reduced price would be accepted, it did not suspend his right to sell, though the brokers notified him that they would make a sale by that date. White v. Benton, 121 Iowa, 354, 96 N. W. 876.

80. After giving agency to procure a loan to cancel a mortgage the principal secured a renewal. Mott v. Ferguson [Minn.] 99 N. W. 804.

81. Wallace v. Figone [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 492.

82. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1171.

83. For sale made after that time no commission can be recovered. La Force v. Wash. University [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 209. Evidence held not to show an implied renewal. Id.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 363.

85. Milligan v. Owen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 792.

86. To pay a share of profits for obtaining a partner. Boyd v. Vale, 84 App. Div. 414, 82 N. Y. S. 932.

87. Not a matter for the discretion of the jury. Emerson v. Pac. Coast & N. Packing Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 365. Award for breach of contract to sell fish not sustained by evidence. Id. That a broker could have procured a purchaser after the revocation of his recovered by an accounting in equity.[88] Where an agent fails to show that he could have made a sale, nominal damages only can be recovered for a revocation of his authority.[89] Refusal to enter judgment for nominal damages is not reversible error.[90]

Remedies and procedure.[91]—An action on the common counts cannot be maintained for a breach of duty.[92] The defendant may be entitled to a bill of particulars.[93]

§ 3. Rights and liabilities as to third persons.[94]—Where brokers, at the instance of a customer, purchase stock which they hold as security, its sale within four months prior to his bankruptcy did not create a preference.[95]

Broker's liability to third persons.—A broker is individually liable for unauthorized acts,[96] or for false representations without regard to the liability of his principal.[97] It is immaterial whether his representations were intentionally false.[98] When sued by a third person he may show that it was customary to use a different form of words when contracting in his own name than when contracting subject to confirmation.[99] A real estate broker cannot charge a prospective purchaser with the expenses of a trip and his services in showing him the property.[1] A principal is liable to third persons for acts of the broker within the apparent scope of his authority,[2] or for his negligence,[3] but not for acts beyond it,[4] unless authority is admissible on an issue of damages for revocation. Milligan v. Owen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 792.

88. Tuell v. Paine, 39 Misc. 712, 80 N. Y. S. 956.

89. Milligan v. Owen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 792.

90. For revocation of authority. Milligan v. Owen [Iowa] 98 N. W. 792.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 364.

92. Failure to require a lender of stock to put up margins. Morris v. Jamieson, 205 Ill. 87, 68 N. E. 742. If it amounts to a breach of contract and not a tort. Id.

93. As to nature of agreements, whether oral or written, date, and whether made directly or through an agent. Treadwell v. Greene, 87 App. Div. 289, 84 N. Y. S. 354.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 364.

95. In re Filer, 125 F. 261.

96. Absolute sale of tomatoes. McKown v. Gettys, 25 Ky. L. R. 2070, 80 S. W. 169. President of corporation employing a broker. Groeltz v. Armstrong [Iowa] 99 N. W. 128. It was a question for the jury whether a president of a corporation induced a broker to believe that he had authority to bind the corporation. Id. A broker is liable to a corporation for selling its bonds on forged authority. Treasurer of a corporation, on forged authority, had bonds held by the company transferred to his name and he took them to a broker to sell. Jennie Clarkson Home for Children v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 41 Misc. 214, 83 N. Y. S. 913. And the buyer may sue on the contract. McKown v. Gettys, 25 Ky. L. R. 2070, 80 S. W. 169.

97. A. acting as agent for B. to sell 120 acres of land induced C. to enter into a contract for sale of such land, on representations that title was clear. Held that A. was liable in damages. Riley v. Bell, 120 Iowa, 618, 95 N. W. 170.

98. If the other party is not chargeable with knowledge of his want of authority. Groeltz v. Armstrong [Iowa] 99 N. W. 128.

99. McKown v. Gettys, 25 Ky. L. R. 2070, 80 S. W. 169.

1. Hale v. Knapp [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1060. Where one item in an account against a prospective purchaser was illegal, the fact may be considered in determining the status of the other items. Id.

2. Broker had authority to sell oil and plaintiff bought it. Set up that broker did not have authority to sell that grade of oil. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co., 111 La. 387, 35 So. 610. In a contract for the sale of tanks of oil to contain "about" 135 barrels, the word "about" would not excuse the seller from filling them to their capacity. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas O. & R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961. Actual value of the property may not be shown where the disparity between it and the price received is not so great as to show improbability of the contract being made. Bertelson v. Hoffman [Wash.] 77 P. 801. Specific performance will lie against principal for transfer of real estate where authorized broker sells land to a third party. West v. Mills, 83 App. Div. 629, 82 N. Y. S. 473. A purchaser has acquired the property with regard to the seller as soon as there exists an agreement for the object, and the price thereof, although the object has not yet been delivered nor the price paid. Teal v. McKnight, 110 La. 256, 34 So. 434.

3. Broker employed to obtain tenants and authorized to conduct them through the premises. Customers sustained an injury while examining premises. Boyd v. U. S. Mortg. & Trust Co., 94 App. Div. 413, 88 N. Y. S. 289.

4. In an action on the common counts to recover money paid by a purchaser to an agent, evidence held not to show authority in him to collect, therefore principal was not liable. Rohde v. Marquis [Mich.] 97 N. W. 53. Broker had authority to sell for 60 days. Time of payment was extended beyond such time. Contract could not be enforced. Smith v. McCann, 205 Pa. 57, 54 A. 498. Where a purchaser buys on terms which he knows are beyond the scope of the authority of the broker to make, he cannot enforce the con-ratified by him,[5] nor by a contract for a sale of real estate made by an agent individually and under his own seal.[6] If the acceptance is subject to confirmation by the seller no contract is created until confirmation,[7] and a demand for security by the intending purchaser is not a waiver of the requirement of confirmation.[8] The principal need not set up excess of authority in an action for specific performance.[9] Knowledge of a broker is not knowledge of his principal.[10] Where a broker's contract was silent as to the capacity of tank cars in which oil was to be delivered, an oral agreement to this effect may be shown.[11]

§ 4. Compensation and lien.[12]—If he procures a customer ready and able to carry out the transaction according to the terms submitted to him by his principal,[13] and the burden is on him to prove his readiness and ability,[14] he is entitled to his commissions,[15] though the transaction is never consummated,[16] and especially so where a binding contract is entered into,[17] but where a contract was not entered into he must have procured a valid obligation and tendered it, or have brought the parties together so that a contract might have been entered into had his principal so desired.[18]

tract. Fleming v. Burke [Iowa] 98 N. W. 288. Sale after term of employment expired. Smith v. McCann, 205 Pa. 57, 54 A. 498.

5. Where a contract to purchase, signed by the proposed purchaser, is presented to the vendor to decide whether the purchaser is acceptable, and he then executes the contract or ratifies the unauthorized act of his agent, it is binding upon him. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326. Unauthorized contract held ratified by correspondence. Sleeper v. Murphy, 120 Iowa, 132, 94 N. W. 275.

6. Blanchard v. Archer, 87 N. Y. S. 665.

7. By local custom both buyer and seller confirmed each other in writing. Johnston v. Fairmont Mills [C. C. A.] 129 F. 74.

8. Before confirmation the seller became insolvent. Johnston v. Fairmont Mills [C. C. A.] 129 F. 74.

9. Staten v. Hammer, 121 Iowa, 499, 96 N. W. 964.

10. Insurance broker had knowledge of facts which would render the policy void when made. Held the conditions were not not waived. McGrath v. Home Ins. Co., 88 App. Div. 153, 84 N. Y. S. 374.

11. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Dallas O. & R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 961. Letters written between broker and seller were admissible to show agreement as to capacity of tanks. Id. An answer by a broker that he had an understanding with the seller that cars of oil sold should contain 135 barrels is a conclusion. Id. An answer as to custom of filling oil tanks is not responsive to a question as to the capacity of the tanks. Id.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 365.

13. Where an owner represented to the broker that a lot was 76 feet deep, and purchaser refused to take it because it proved to be but 66 feet, no commissions could be recovered. Hausman v. Herdtfelder, 81 App. Div. 46, 80 N. Y. S. 1039. Where sale was completed by an executor on different terms than proposed by testator to the broker. Trickey v. Crowe [Ariz.] 71 P. 965. Where deal was declared off simply because the owner insisted that purchaser should pay taxes accruing during the time necessary for the latter to look up title, broker is not entitled to his commissions. Sheinhouse v. Klueppel, 80 App. Div. 445, 81 N. Y. S. 116. Facts properly submitted on this proposition. Brockenbrow v. Stafford [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 576. Would not as to payment in sale of mining property. Brown v. Keegan [Colo.] 76 P. 1056. Where after considerable bickering between seller and purchaser the seller had to purchase an adjoining lot and throw it in, no commission could be recovered. Tooker v. Duckworth [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 963. Purchaser rejected a deed because description of property was type written. Park v. Hogle [Iowa] 99 N. W. 185. The same rule applies to the holder of an option. Smith v. Lawrence, 98 Me. 92, 56 A. 455. If a principal is doubtful of the proposed purchaser's ability to carry out the contract he may accept conditionally. That he proves able. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326.

14. Instruction presuming that purchaser was able was erroneous. Colburn v. Seymour [Colo.] 76 P. 1058. A contract signed by the purchaser is prima facie evidence of his willingness to buy, but no evidence of his ability to perform its conditions. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326.

15. Error in the contract, if the owner does not refuse to sell on account thereof and the purchaser stands ready to correct it, is no ground for thereafter refusing to sell. Johnson Bros. v. Wright [Iowa] 99 N. W. 103. It is immaterial whether there was a consideration to support the option when the intending purchaser is willing to accept the offer. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649.

16. Lewis v. Simpson [Iowa] 98 N. W. 508; Collins v. Padden, 120 Iowa, 381, 94 N. W. 905. And that the purchaser afterwards fails to carry out his agreement makes no difference. Seabury v. Fidelity Ins., T. & S. D. Co., 205 Pa. 234, 54 A. 898. Broker found a party able and willing to exchange after first agreeing to make the deal. His customer backed out. He was entitled to commissions. Suydam v. Healy, 87 N. Y. S. 669.

17. Though the contract is never carried

A slight modification of the terms will not defeat his right.[19] All his expenditures are at his own risk, to be recouped only in case of success.[20]

If his endeavors have been the procuring cause of the transaction,[21] the burden of which is on him to show,[22] he is entitled to his commissions,[23] even though out. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326. Though the third party subsequently refuses to carry it out. Charles v. Cook, 88 App. Div. 81, 84 N. Y. S. 867.

18. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326. If a principal accepts a proposed purchaser conditionally, or if the purchaser withdraws his offer before acceptance, the broker is not entitled to commissions, unless it is shown that the purchaser was able, ready and willing to purchase at the time of tender to the principal. Id. A broker, who in accordance with his contract, brings the purchaser and principal together, is entitled to his compensation when these latter parties arrive at a definite understanding, in relation to such contract, acceptable to both. Seabury v. Fidelity I., T. & S. D. Co., 205 Pa. 234, 54 A. 898.

19. Where broker was authorized to sell for $4,500, and the owner sold to the purchaser procured for $4,300; broker was entitled to commission. Smith v. Truitt [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 686. Broker procured purchaser, for the sale of an automobile, who was ready and willing to carry out his contract with exception of first payment. This being waived by principal, held that broker was entitled to his commission. Veeder v. Seaton, 85 App. Div. 196, 83 N. Y. S. 159. Where a broker was employed to rent one floor of a building and the owner availed himself of his services in renting another, he was entitled to commission. Snydam v. Vogel, 84 N. Y. S. 915. Broker was authorized to sell tract of land for $70,000 cash. Purchaser finally refused to pay all cash, but did make deal whereby he paid part cash and secured the rest up to $70,000. Court left it for jury to say whether principal had waived his right to insist on provision for cash as against broker. S. E. Crowley Co. v. Myers, 69 N. J. Law, 245, 55 A. 305. Broker acting for principal secured a loan of $20,000, his commission to be a certain per cent of amount, at certain times, remaining unpaid. Principal borrowed $5,000 more and then cancelled both these notes and gave a new note for $25,000. Held that broker could still recover his commission. Clay v. Lakenan, 101 Mo. App. 563, 74 S. W. 391. Where price finally agreed upon is less than that at which the broker was instructed to sell, he is entitled to commission. Martin v. Fegan, 88 N. Y. S. 472. Modified and carried out. Broker had waived his right to commissions if the sale was not consummated. Cody v. Dempsey, 86 App. Div. 335, 13 Ann. Cas. 322, 83 N. Y. S. 899. His right to commission is not affected by a change in an agreement relative to the purchase of other interests. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354.

20. Smith v. Lawrence, 98 Me. 92, 56 A. 455. Procuring an abstract to be extended to date. Sale never consummated. Park v. Hogle [Iowa] 99 N. W. 185.

21. That a broker did not inform his principal before the sale that a purchaser was his customer was not controlling as to whether he was the procuring cause. Metcalfe v. Gordon, 86 App. Div. 368, 83 N. Y. S. 808. A broker who mentions parties to principal saying that they are his customers, but who does not see the one who buys the property until after the sale, is not entitled to commission. Whiteley v. Terry, 83 App. Div. 197, 82 N. Y. S. 89. Purchaser was not able to buy on the terms of owner. Harmon v. Enright [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1180. Evidence held insufficient to show that the owner agreed to find a lessee for the purchaser and guarantee payment of rent. Brokers recommended a customer with whom they, the brokers, could not deal. Transaction was arranged with this party subsequently, by another broker. The first broker was not entitled to commissions. Sampson v. Ottinger, 87 N. Y. S. 796. Where a customer asked a broker about a certain farm, and the broker saw the owner, but his authority was subsequently revoked and a sale made by owner the broker was not the procuring cause. McCrory v. Kellogg [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 465. Evidence of correspondence held insufficient to show that a sale was effected through the broker's agency. Hunn v. Ashton, 121 Iowa, 265, 96 N. W. 745. Evidence held to show an intervening cause. Studer v. Byson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 90. An instruction that principal would be liable for commissions where he sold the land himself, and there was nothing in the contract against such right, held error. Evans v. Gay [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 575.

22. Client asserted that deal was carried through by another broker. Schatzberg v. Groswirth, 84 N. Y. S. 259. On conflicting evidence as to whether a broker was the procuring cause, the question was for the jury. Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683, 73 P. 788. As to whether correspondence of broker was the procuring cause of a sale of land, evidence held for jury. Donovan v. Weed, 86 App. Div. 630, 83 N. Y. S. 682.

23. Where a broker introduced a probable customer who subsequently became a purchaser, he was the procuring cause. Martin v. Fegan, 88 N. Y. S. 472. Though at the time the agent solicited the purchaser to buy he was not able. Marlatt v. Elliott [Kan.] 77 P. 104. Proper to so instruct. Jaeger v. Glover, 89 Minn. 490, 95 N. W. 311. A verdict for plaintiff in an action for commissions as a broker involving the question of his employment by defendants and his being the procuring cause of the sale held not against the weight of evidence. Abraham v. Burstein, 89 App. Div. 631, 81 N. Y. S. 937. Where broker took party of landseekers to view the premises and one bought. White v. Collins, 90 Minn. 165, 95 N. W. 765. Broker procured purchaser to buy land but the price being too high, purchaser sent his own agent to principal and succeeded in buying the land for $1,000 less. Held, that broker was entitled to his commission. McCormack v. Henderson, 100 Mo. App. 647, 75 S. W. 171. Though he procures the transaction was not completed until after the termination of his authority;[24] but he is not entitled to commissions for a sale made to his customer after his discharge,[25] nor for a sale under a revoked contract of agency.[26] He must do something more than get authority to sell,[27] though he need not conduct the transaction to a final conclusion,[28] and he is not entitled to commissions for unsuccessful efforts.[29]

The performance of the contract is a prerequisite to the right to commissions,[30] but negotiating a conditional sale is sufficient,[31] and he may be entitled to recover on the quantum meruit for part performance.[32]

his purchasers through the assistance of other agents. Henninger v. Burch, 90 Minn. 43, 95 N. W. 578. Correspondence held to show that broker was procuring cause. Steidl v. McClymonds, 90 Minn. 205, 95 N. W. 906. Where brokers advertised the property and prepared for its sale at auction, but the owner sold it at private sale the day before the auction. Donald v. Lawson, 87 N. Y. S. 486. Evidence held to show that one had by correspondence, etc., procured a purchaser. Sandefur v. Hines [Kan.] 78 P. 444. Evidence held to show that a broker had procured a purchaser and was entitled to a five per cent commission, though there had been another settlement. Summers v. Summers [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1164. Where a principal stated to a broker after the sale that he was entitled to his commissions, evidence held to show that he was the procuring cause of the sale and was not limited to procuring a purchaser at a certain price. Metcalfe v. Gordon, 86 App. Div. 368, 83 N. Y. S. 808. Where one purchased directly from owner, evidence held to show that broker was procuring cause. Veale v. Green [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 731. Evidence held to show a broker entitled to commissions for sale of leasehold. Steer v. Dwyer [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 738. Where a buyer's attention was called to the property by an advertisement of a broker. Kiernan v. Bloom, 86 N. Y. S. 899. "If the property sold is brought to the attention of the purchaser by the broker, and the principal carries on the negotiations himself or agrees to an exchange instead of sale, or allows the purchaser a certain time to agree to his terms, and before the expiration of the time allowed, sells to another, the broker is entitled to his commissions." Showaker v. Kelly, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 390. Evidence held to show that an agreed compensation was $650 instead of $160. Cuperman v. Stern, 88 N. Y. S. 147.

24. Jaeger v. Glover, 89 Minn. 490, 95 N. W. 311; Crowley Co. v. Myers, 69 N. J. Law, 246, 55 A. 305.

25. Sale made to a customer with whom the broker unsuccessfully negotiated. Leonard v. Eldredge, 184 Mass. 594, 69 N. E. 337. A sale by the owner to one with whom a broker had negotiated without authority does not entitle him to commission. Negotiated after his authority had been revoked. George B. Loving Co. v. Hesperian Cattle Co., 176 Mo. 330, 75 S. W. 1095. Conversation between broker and purchaser subsequent to revocation inadmissible. Id.

26. Evidence held to show a written contract had been superseded by a new oral contract. Kidman v. Garrison [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1078.

27. Sale was negotiated by the owner. Scherer v. Colwell, 87 N. Y. S. 490.

28. Marlatt v. Elliott [Kan.] 77 P. 104.

29. Where a sale was consummated by the principal two months after negotiations by the broker with the purchaser, evidence held to show that the broker was not the procuring cause. Phinney v. Chesebro, 87 App. Div. 409, 84 N. Y. S. 449.

30. Not error to so instruct where there was no proof from which value of services outside the special contract could be found chargeable. Ivy Coal & Coke Co. v. Long, 139 Ala. 535, 36 So. 722. Instructions to a real estate broker to list lands for sale at $40 per acre, $1,600 to $2,000 cash and the balance in annual payments of $600, with interest payable annually, the crop of the current year to be reserved to the vendor, are not fulfilled by carrying out agreement with exceptions of interest—postponed 9½ months, notes payable on or before date and no crop reservation. Sleeper v. Murphy, 120 Iowa, 132, 94 N. W. 275. Purchaser defaulted. Lassen v. Bayliss [C. C. A.] 125 F. 744. One brought the parties together but no terms were agreed upon, subsequently another broker effected an agreement between them on different terms. De Zavala v. Royaliner, 84 N. Y. S. 969. One employed to procure a loan is entitled to compensation only in case he procures it. Demarest v. Spiral Riveted Tube Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 161. Lender backed out after he had agreed to make it. Ashfield v. Case, 87 N. Y. S. 649. Procurement of option not sufficient where he was to effect a sale. Lawrence v. Pederson [Wash.] 74 P. 1011. Where contract called for the sale of an entire tract, sale of part of it is insufficient. Shinn v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1027. Where the contract is for a sale, no commission can be recovered until a sale is effected, unless the principal acts in bad faith. Parker v. National Mut. Bldg. & L. Ass'n [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 811. Where commission is to be paid on sale, producing purchaser is not sufficient. Ormsby v. Graham [Iowa] 98 N. W. 724. Contract construed and held not to entitle broker to commissions for trying in good faith to sell the land without success. Sherburne Land Co. v. Eells [Minn.] 99 N. W. 419.

31. Receipt for part of purchase price $1,000 of $30,000, signed by owner, indicates conditional sale. Merriman v. Wickersham, 141 Cal. 567, 75 P. 180.

32. The owner sold to a purchaser found by the broker, a portion of the land listed. Delta & Pine Land Co. v. Wallace [Miss.] 36 So. 263.

Where a condition is annexed to the transaction, it must be performed before commissions can be recovered,[33] and where right to commissions was limited to the time the vendor received payment, no recovery thereof could be had until such time;[34] but where payment of commissions does not depend on the payment of the entire purchase price, he is entitled to receive them as installments are paid.[35]

A sale agent is entitled to commission on all sales,[36] except those made by the owner,[37] especially where he reserves a right to sell.[38]

Arbitrary refusal of the principal to consummate the transaction does not defeat the right to commissions,[39] nor does his inability to give a clear title[40] or immediate possession,[41] nor a mistake in listing as to the description,[42] nor notice to the broker of a defect in the title acquired after he has procured a purchaser,[43] nor the sale by the principal to one with whom the broker has negotiated,[44] and that he has a cause of action against his customer for fraud is no defense.[45] He may recover, though he knew that the principal did not have the amount of stock he employed him to sell.[46]

33. Was to acquire property free from taxes which he did not, though he procured a warranty deed. Rice v. Omberg, 25 Ky. L. R. 531, 76 S. W. 15. Agreement to take loan on condition that he got title to the property. Frye v. Schwarz, 87 App. Div. 611, 83 N. Y. S. 1070.

34. Payment was reserved until it was shown a certain amount could be realized on the business sold. Hart v. Garrett Co., 87 N. Y. S. 574.

35. Frank v. Bonnevie [Colo. App.] 77 P. 363.

36. Whisky broker. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp, 25 Ky. L. R. 1134, 77 S. W. 194. Sold to one with whom he had negotiated. Sylvester v. Johnson, 110 Tenn. 392, 75 S. W. 923.

37. Where owner sold, though the broker had the exclusive agency under a contract which did not negative the owner's right to sell. Ingold v. Symonds [Iowa] 99 N. W. 713. Contract did not negative principal's right, and he procured a loan before the broker did. Mott v. Ferguson [Minn.] 99 N. W. 804.

38. Tracy v. Abney, 122 Iowa, 306, 98 N. W. 121. Nor does the fact that the contract provides for a penalty to be paid the broker in case the price is raised or the land taken out of the market entitle him to the penalty on a sale by the owner. Id.

39. By failing to furnish an abstract after the broker procured one to make a loan. Rundle v. Staats [Colo. App.] 73 P. 1091. When broker produces purchaser able and willing to purchase. Merriman v. Wickersham, 141 Cal. 567, 75 P. 180. Where he has found a purchaser. Gwinnup v. Sibert [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 589. Where the principal refused to make a deed as to a certain fractional section. Heaton v. Clarke, 122 Iowa, 716, 98 N. W. 597; Ward v. McQueen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 253. He must accede to reasonable terms under the contract. Allowance of six months in which to pay $1,000.00. Wendle v. Palmer [Conn.] 58 A. 12. Whether during the continuance of an option the owner offered to sell to another at a less price, the statement of his proposed purchaser is hearsay. Smith v. Lawrence, 98 Me. 92, 56 A. 455. It is error to instruct that the commission was not to be paid unless the sale were consummated and that the risk of failure was wholly on the broker. Bruce v. Hurlbut, 81 App. Div. 311, 81 N. Y. S. 54. Evidence of interviews between an owner and a customer of a broker who held an option held insufficient to show that the owner dissuaded the customer from purchasing. Smith v. Lawrence, 98 Me. 92, 56 A. 455.

40. Part of land in adverse possession. Bruce v. Wolfe, 102 Mo. App. 384, 76 S. W. 723. Lien on property. Smye v. Groesbeck [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 972; Finck v. Bauer, 40 Misc. 218, 81 N. Y. S. 625. Contention that he was entitled to a reasonable time to perfect his title is no avail. Nor is fact that owner offered to perfect his title. Vendee not obliged to accept. Bruce v. Wolfe, 102 Mo. App. 384, 76 S. W. 723. Implied condition that title should be perfect. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649. If a sale falls through because of a defect in the vendor's title. Cusack v. Aikman, 87 N. Y. S. 940. A receipt by the owner, reciting that he has received earnest money on purchase of certain land which is to be returned if title fails, is not varied by parol evidence of the purchaser's willingness to take it when title is shown to be satisfactory. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649. Nor does such a receipt require the purchaser to have the land surveyed. Id.

41. Putter v. Berger, 88 N. Y. S. 462.

42. Tyler v. Justice [Ga.] 48 S. E. 328.

43. McKinnon & Eve v. Hope, 132 Ga. 1149, 45 S. E. 413.

44. Though this terminates the agency. Sylvester v. Johnson, 110 Tenn. 392, 75 S. W. 923. Broker, in a sale of land, was to receive all above a certain price per acre as his commission. After securing purchaser, the principal connived with such purchaser to sell him the land at the marginal price. Held, that broker could recover what his services were worth. Baker v. Murphy, 105 Ill. App. 151.

45. By collusion between customer and vendee, the deed was made to a third party. Martin v. Fegan, 88 N. Y. S. 472.

46. Error to make his recovery depend on guaranty that the other members of the firm would authorize the sale. Enright v. Ford [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 291.

Where a principal sold his entire tract to one who agreed to pay commissions on applications sent in by his agents, the agent could collect at the rate fixed by his contract,[47] though the question of his fair dealing and the consequent validity of the contract for commissions may be for the jury.[48]

Where a broker gave his receipt for commissions to the lessee to be used by her as payment of rent he could not recover from his principal.[49] A broker may be precluded from recovering his commissions by becoming an officer of a purchasing corporation,[50] because of the fiduciary relation he sustains.[51] Failure of a broker to comply with an ordinance requiring a license will not preclude him from recovering a commission,[52] especially where such ordinance is not enforced.[53]

Good faith.[54]—If he fails to make a full disclosure of the facts,[55] or makes misrepresentations to his principal, he cannot recover commissions, though the contract becomes binding.[56]

A local custom to pay brokers who negotiate a deal cannot fasten upon a property owner any liability.[57] Whether the broker has complied with his contract is a question of law.[58]

In some states an authorization to sell real estate must be in writing in order that the broker may recover his compensation,[59] and in such case the broker cannot recover on a quantum meruit,[60] while in others an agent's authority to procure a purchaser need not be.[61] The statute of frauds cannot be invoked for the protection of a broker to secure commissions.[62] A part of the New York courts hold that

47. The fact that it had been represented to the purchaser that the rate had been reduced is immaterial. Heaton v. Clarke, 122 Iowa, 716, 98 N. W. 597.

48. Goldshear v. Barron, 42 Misc. 198, 85 N. Y. S. 395.

49. Irrespective of novation, any private agreement between broker and lessee as to use of the receipt would not affect rights of lessor. Davis v. True, 89 App. Div. 319, 85 N. Y. S. 843.

50. Corporation to which sale was made was not in existence when contract was made, but when sale was effected he was a director. Goldshear v. Barron, 42 Misc. 198, 85 N. Y. S. 395.

51. A. was authorized to sell land. F. made an agreement with him whereby he was to sell land and receive half the profits. F. formed a corporation and sold to them at a greatly advanced price. Held, that brokers were in a fiduciary relation to corporation and hence could not recover excess in price. Tegarden Bros. v. Big Star Zinc Co., 71 Ark. 277, 72 S. W. 989.

52. Where it is not shown that both parties agreed to violate the ordinance. Tooker v. Duckworth [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 963.

53. Ordinance, City of Guthrie. Where city refused to accept the tax, failure to pay it could not be set up as a defense in an action for commissions. Wicks v. Carlisle, 12 Okl. 337, 72 P. 377.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 370.

55. Making changes in a contract without authority, even though the principal was not prejudiced thereby. Humphrey v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 432, 46 S. E. 953; Jeffries v. Robbins, 66 Kan. 427, 71 P. 852.

56. As to purpose for which lots sold were to be used. Whaples v. Fahys, 87 App. Div. 518, 84 N. Y. S. 793.

57. For effecting a lease. Brady v. American M. & F. Co., 86 App. Div. 267, 83 N. Y. S. 663. Proof of custom to pay commissions is insufficient to warrant a recovery. King v. Hammond, 84 N. Y. S. 121. Circumstances indicated that the broker was working in the interests of the purchaser. Downing v. Buck [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388.

58. Error to submit it to the jury. Goodson v. Embleton [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 22.

59. Gen. St. p. 1604, § 10. Leimbach v. Regner [N. J. Law] 57 A. 138. A subsequent promise to pay is without consideration. Stout v. Humphrey, 69 N. J. Law, 436, 55 A. 281. Gen. St. p. 1604, § 10. Kent v. Phenix Art Metal Co., 69 N. J. Law, 532, 55 A. 256; Wulff v. Lindsay [Ariz.] 71 P. 963. Gen. St. p. 1604, § 10. Indivisible contract for sale of both real and personal property. Kent v. Phenix Art Metal Co., 69 N. J. Law, 532, 55 A. 256.

60. Leimbach v. Regner [N. J. Law] 57 A. 138. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 6629a. Beahler v. Clark [Ind. App.] 68 N. E. 613. Civ. Code, § 1624. Jamison v. Hyde, 141 Cal. 109, 74 P. 695. Comp. St. 1903, § 74, c. 73. Blair v. Austin [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1040.

61. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3418. Gwinnup v. Sibert [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 589. After they accept purchase money, they are estopped to assert that there was no sale, and that broker's services consisted merely in procuring a purchaser, where the sale was subsequently rescinded. Id. If he produces a purchaser, he is entitled to recover. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649. Broker at customer's request bought real estate, taking title in his own name and afterwards conveying it to the customer when the customer agreed to pay him a certain commission. Huff v. Hardwick [Colo. App.] 75 P. 593. Between purchaser and seller. Goodson v. Embleton [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 22.

62. Broker had agency to procure a loan to cancel a mortgage. The principal pro-commission for sale of land cannot be recovered unless made under written authority,[63] while the contra is maintained in other courts of the same state.[64]

Amount of commission depends upon the agreement of the parties,[65] or, where there is no controlling agreement, upon what the services are reasonably worth.[66]

A principal is liable for the compensation of a subagent.[67]

Agreement for commissions for a sale or a lease furnishes a cause of action for both.[68]

A principal cannot refuse to accept services on one ground and payment of commissions on another.[69]

The complaint[70] must allege what the broker was employed to do and that it had been accomplished,[71] but the acts constituting the efforts to effect the transaction need not be set forth.[72] It may set forth a single claim in several counts,[73] and does not fail to state a cause of action because not alleging that the broker communicated to the owner the name of a proposed purchaser.[74] In a real estate cured an oral promise of renewal. Mott v. Ferguson [Minn.] 99 N. W. 804.

63. Pen. Code, § 640d. Adler v. Schaumberger, 84 N. Y. S. 235. Pencil memorandum held insufficient. Cohen v. Boccuzzi, 86 N. Y. S. 187. Question of waiver of written authority cannot be raised. Kronenberger v. Quinn, 86 N. Y. S. 139. No written authority is a valid defense to an action for commission. Davis v. Kidansky, 86 N. Y. S. 6. No written authority from wife who owned land, though there was from her husband. Charles v. Arthur, 84 N. Y. S. 284. He must prove written authority. Borgio v. Gange, 87 N. Y. S. 538; Peck v. Antes, 84 N. Y. S. 252.

64. The right to recover commissions for a sale of land without written authority is not prevented by a statute making such a sale a misdemeanor [Pen. Code, § 640d (Laws 1901, c. 128)]. Cody v. Dempsey, 86 App. Div. 335, 13 Ann. Cas. 322, 83 N. Y. S. 899.

65. Where amount of commission was fixed by a tacit understanding between the parties. Armstrong v. Cleveland [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 789.

66. Boyd v. Vale, 84 App. Div. 414, 82 N. Y. S. 932. An employment to procure an option, which principal did not take advantage of. Boardman v. Hanks [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1012.

67. Where broker has authority to employ him. Eastland v. Maney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 574. Petition by a subagent for compensation, alleging that agent was nonresident and that subagent was a resident of county where land was located, permits proof of agent's authority to employ a subagent. Id. Where an agent agreed with a subagent to sell at a certain price if the owner would take it, the subagent took the risk of getting his commissions in making a sale at that price. Id.

68. Goldshear v. Barron, 42 Misc. 198, 85 N. Y. S. 395. Where a broker procured options on a number of lots of different owners and they agreed to pay him a commission for selling them, and a formal contract was signed by them severally, the price being fixed at a gross sum, there was not a joint liability for commissions. Whaples v. Fahys, 87 App. Div. 518, 84 N. Y. S. 793.

69. Refusal to accept loan because commission asked was excessive, and demand for commission defended on ground that lender had incorporated a new condition in the application. Hotchkiss v. Kuchler, 86 App. Div. 265, 83 N. Y. S. 710. Refused sale because he did not need the money, defended on ground that he never employed the broker. Sandefur v. Hines [Kan.] 76 P. 444.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 372.

71. Complaint held insufficient. Fenwick v. Watkins, 25 Ky. L. R. 1962, 79 S. W. 214. A complaint states a cause of action if it alleges an agreement whereby a purchaser was to be procured for defendant's land at a certain price per acre for which services the plaintiffs were to receive a certain specified sum of money from defendant as commission; that they procured and sent such a purchaser, and that he bought the land at the price fixed. Lemon v. De Wolf, 89 Minn. 465, 95 N. W. 316. Complaint held to allege contract to pay commissions where brokers authorized purchaser to offer a sum less than demanded by the owner. Blake v. Austin [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 571. Complaint alleging authority to sell for a fixed price and on request of the owner, the broker gave him the name of a party who would purchase at a less price and who bought the property, held to state a cause of action on a quantum meruit. Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683, 73 P. 788. A petition alleging that a broker procured a purchaser with whom his principal entered into negotiations and consummated a sale is good against general demurrer. Brockenbrow v. Stafford [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 576. Statement held sufficient in justice court. Smith v. Truitt [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 686. Petition by subagent for commission insufficient, as it did not show that the agent had authority to agree to pay a stipulated commission. Dyer v. Winston [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 227. Modification of an oral agreement made on discovery of a mutual mistake becomes part of the contract. Properly pleaded as such. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354.

72. Alleging employment and sale held sufficient. Yarborough v. Creager [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 645.

73. So as to meet all possible proofs which will appear at the trial. Spotswood v. Morris [Idaho] 77 P. 216.

74. It not appearing that it was demanded or refused or that injury was suffered transaction that the contract has been signed must be alleged.[75] An allegation of willingness, readiness, and ability, to purchase is an allegation of fact,[76] and must be set forth where the transaction is not consummated.[77] Where the petition counts on a contract there can be no recovery on a quantum meruit,[78] nor as for a breach thereof,[79] nor can one declare on a written contract and recover on proof of a sale under an oral one,[80] but under an allegation for a commission for two and one half per cent, eleven and one half per cent may be proved and recovered,[81] and a cause should not be dismissed because the broker fails to prove that he was the procuring cause of the sale.[82] Where the petition alleged that the contract bound the defendant individually, recovery could not be had on proof that the corporation of which he was president was bound.[83] An actual cause of action must exist at the time of bringing the suit, and no cause of action subsequently arising can be introduced by amended or supplemental complaint,[84] but it is not error to allow an amendment where it does not change the cause of action.[85] Where a petition sought interest, a filing thereof was a demand, and it was properly allowed from date of such filing.[86] An allegation for sums expended in procuring an abstract was proper.[87] Petition for commissions properly alleged agreement between owner and purchaser settling the failure to sell.[88]

Evidence[89] which goes to show the amount due,[90] and acts which one would naturally do in the usual course of business are admissible,[91] and the broker may testify that he advertised in a certain newspaper,[92] and where action is on a quan-because of it. Berteleson v. Hoffman [Wash.] 77 P. 801.

75. Petition set out copies of letters constituting contract, no signatures shown. David Bradley v. Bower [Neb.] 99 N. W. 490.

76. Not a conclusion. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649.

77. Purchaser did not buy the land. Armstrong v. Cleveland [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 789.

78. No proof of employment, though there was proof that a buyer was procured. McDonnell v. Stephenson [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 766. Evidence held to show express contract. Armstrong v. Cleveland [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 789. Where action for commission is on an express contract, the reasonable value of the broker's services cannot be shown. Where contract fixed right to compensation, it was held error to submit issue as to reasonable value of broker's services. Evans v. Gay [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 575.

79. Evidence thereof not admissible. Cosgrove v. Leonard M. & R. Co., 175 Mo. 100, 74 S. W 986.

80. Written contract had been revoked. Braly v. Barnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 965.

81. Not a variance. Hightower v. Kitchens, 118 Ga. 277, 45 S. E. 267.

82. Under Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, §§ 248, 249). Wakefield v. Street, 86 App. Div. 630, 83 N. Y. S. 765.

83. Groeltz v. Armstrong [Iowa] 99 N. W. 128.

84. Nonsuit had been granted because option had not matured, pending motion for new trial purchaser complied with option, error to grant new trial to permit plaintiff to allege completion of sale. Lawrence v. Pederson [Wash.] 74 P. 1011.

85. Inserting name of person having an interest. Title not in issue. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354. Where plaintiff's evidence failed to show a written authority, it was not error to permit defendant to amend his answer, making it a denial instead of an admission of the contract [Civ. Code, § 1624]. Jamison v. Hyde, 141 Cal. 109, 74 P. 695.

86. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp, 25 Ky. L. R. 1134, 77 S. W. 194.

87. Error to strike it out when there was nothing to show that it was not included in his obligation to procure a purchaser. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649.

88. Showing purchaser had been procured. Wilson v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 649.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 373.

90. In a sale of mining claims for a customer, other interests were sold and each was not separately valued; evidence that all were of equal value, and what the total acreage was, was admissible. Huff v. Hardwick [Colo. App.] 75 P. 593. Broker was entitled to recover if it could be shown what proportion should be credited to claims in which he was interested. Id. Value of services may be proved by evidence of customary real estate commissions. No compensation agreed upon, owner had ratified and accepted benefit of his services. Hurt v. Jones [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 486. Evidence held not to sustain a judgment for commissioners where a sale was effected under a substituted agreement. Jones v. Pendleton [Mich.] 96 N. W. 574.

91. Sending bill 20 days after discharge. Bradley v. Gorham [Conn.] 58 A. 698.

92. No effort being made to prove the contents of the advertisement. Yarborough v. Creager [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 645. A newspaper advertisement is admissible as showing what a broker did in an endeavor to sell. Decker v. Widdicomb [Mich.] 100 N. W. 573.

tum meruit it is proper to show the reasonable value of his services.[93] Conversations between broker and agent relative to the subject-matter,[94] or between the principal and a third party are admissible,[95] but statements made by a principal's husband to a broker's agent,[96] or statements of the broker that he had the land in his hands for sale are inadmissible, when they do not specify the time and place.[97] Evidence which will reveal an undisclosed principal is properly excluded.[98] Where a broker had the sole agency contracts made by the owner with other agents are immaterial.[99] Evidence of an express contract is inadmissible under a general denial.[1]

Instructions.[2]—On an allegation that the broker sold the land it is error to instruct that he is entitled to recover if he was trying to sell.[3] An instruction requiring proof of matters not in issue is error.[4] Where the ultimate facts entitling to recovery have been instructed upon it is error to refuse to instruct the negative.[5] It is not error to refuse to restrict a right to recover to a finding of an express promise to pay, where it is alleged that the broker became entitled to his commission and the principal promised to pay.[6] A charge that if the purchasers were accepted by the owner as satisfactory the broker is entitled to his commission, but if not it must appear that they were able and willing to purchase, is inconsistent with a charge that the contract had been ratified by the owner.[7] An instruction, "you will have to determine from the testimony whether Mr. Showaker was the man who consummated and carried through that deal between Kelly and the others," held proper.[8] An instruction, seeming to assume a sole agency where there was not one, was not prejudicial to a principal where it was plainly an attempt to charge on his theory of an abandonment.[9] A clause in an instruction "If you believe that his own efforts to procure a purchaser had been abandoned" is not objectionable as making the right to recover dependent on two states of facts, the jury having also been charged as to the effect of his inability to procure a purchaser.[10]

93. Evidence of reasonable value of broker's services in a suit on a quantum meruit for commissions held admissible. Boyd v. Vale, 84 App. Div. 414, 82 N. Y. S. 932.

94. As to purchases made by a certain party. Richardson v. Babcock, 119 Wis. 141, 96 N. W. 554. It is not error to admit testimony as to what took place at a public sale of land, at which time it was alleged that the parties made the oral agreement sued on. Borden v. Isherwood, 120 Iowa, 677, 94 N. W. 1128.

95. To show that broker had procured a purchaser. Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354.

96. Statements made by a principal's husband to a broker's agent that he was entitled to commissions, inadmissible. Winans v. Demarest, 84 N. Y. S. 504.

97. Bradley v. Gorman [Conn.] 58 A. 698.

98. Downing v. Buck [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388.

99. Error to submit their existence to the jury. Yarborough v. Creager [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 645.

1. Broker brought quantum meruit for services. Reishus-Remer Land Co. v. Benner [Minn.] 98 N. W. 186.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 373.

3. Yarborough v. Creager [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 645.

4. Employment of broker not in issue, but only whether he was the procuring cause. Anderson v. Bradford, 102 Mo. App. 433, 76 S. W. 726. Error in charging that several defendants owned land in certain proportions, there being no evidence to that effect, was not prejudicial where it was not considered. Eastland v. Maney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 574.

5. Bruce v. Wolfe, 102 Mo. App. 384, 76 S. W. 723. No error to refuse an instruction that if broker had not requested an abstract of title, he could not recover, where the evidence showed that an abstract had been requested and the sale fell through because it was refused. Id.

6. Bertelson v. Hoffman [Wash.] 77 P. 801. Remark by the court that if a broker had no more business honesty than that he ought not to recover, held not prejudicial under the circumstances. Metcalfe v. Gordon, 86 App. Div. 368, 83 N. Y. S. 808. Instruction of evidence as to whether purchaser was procured by a broker held proper. Donovan v. Weed, 86 App. Div. 630, 83 N. Y. S. 682.

7. Flynn v. Jordal [Iowa] 100 N. W. 326.

8. Showaker v. Kelly, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 390.

9, 10. Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill. Co., 32 Wash. 683, 73 P. 788.

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS.

§ 1. The Contract, Sufficiency and Interpretation (550).
§ 2. Performance of Contract (551).
§ 3. Modification of Contract (553).
§ 4. Changes in Plans and Specifications (553).
§ 5. Extra Work (553).
§ 6. Delay in Performance (554).
§ 7. Termination or Cancellation of Contract (555).
§ 8. Completion by Owner or Third Person (556).
§ 9. Architect's and Other Certificates of Performance (556).
§ 10. Arbitration of Disputes (556).
§ 11. Acceptance (557).
§ 12. Payment (557).
§ 13. Subcontracts (558).
§ 14. Bonds (558).
§ 15. Remedies and Procedure (559).

§ 1. The contract, sufficiency and interpretation.[11]—Matters common to all contracts,[12] or peculiar to contracts for public works,[13] are elsewhere treated. A contract to erect a building in violation of a city ordinance is void;[14] but failure to sign plans and specifications, as required by statute, is not fatal.[15]

Interpretation.[16]—The ordinary rules for the construction of contracts apply. Particular terms and provisions construed will be found in the notes.[17]

Plans, specifications and detail drawings.[18]—An annexed drawing[19] or one

11. See 1 Curr. L. 374.
12. See Contracts, 1 Curr. L. 626.
13. See Public Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 1280.
14. Contractor cannot recover on cause of action arising out of contract to erect a building of combustible materials within the fire limits of the city, in violation of a city ordinance. Finding that building was to be constructed of fireproof materials, erroneous. Chimene v. Pennington [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 63.
15. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1183½, providing that contract shall otherwise be void, intended to protect subcontractors, materialmen and laborers. Sullivan v. Cal. Realty Co., 142 Cal. 201, 76 P. 767.
16. See 1 Curr. L. 375, n. 6-7.
17. In a contract whereby plaintiff agreed to pay a third person a certain price per yard for the removal of gravel "as designated by the city engineer," the latter words held to refer to the amount to be removed and not to its location. Normile v. Ballard, 33 Wash. 369, 74 P. 566.
"Payments to be made as iron is used as per my contract," held to require payment only for such iron as was actually used in the work, including temporary work. Burden on plaintiff to show delivery and progress of work to point where payment became due. Weber v. Farrell, 84 N. Y. S. 272. Estimates of a resident engineer in immediate charge of construction under direction of engineer in charge held to have been made by the "engineer in charge of construction." American B. & T. Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.
Agreement to transport materials held to mean transportation to station nearest to the place where they were to be used. American B. & T. Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866. A contract providing for lathing and plastering at a specified rate per square yard requires compensation to be fixed in accordance with the measured area, and it is error to allow the jury to fix it in accordance with the number of lath used, under a local custom. Smith v. Colloty, 69 N. J. Law, 365, 55 A. 805.
"Price for excavated material" held to mean material excavated, loaded and carted to a certain road, and not material used on premises. Duncan v. Jacobs, 184 Mass. 123, 68 N. E. 38. Contract between defendant and a construction company that the construction company would protect adjacent walls, held an adjacent landowner who is no party to the contract could not compel the defendants to take measures to protect his walls from damage. Carpenter v. Reliance Realty Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1004. Provision for a claim in writing by the contractor to the architect for any delay caused by any "act" of the owner or architect, does not apply to extra work required of the contractor. Reardon v. Cushing, 90 Minn. 360, 96 N. W. 1126. A contract which provided "I to furnish all foundations and common labor" does not preclude the idea that the same party was to direct the construction. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 983. Calling an architect to inspect work held within provision that owner may terminate contract if evident to architect that builder is not complying with its terms, there being no regular architect employed. Hay v. Bush, 110 La. 575, 34 So. 692. Under an agreement to complete a building by September 1, and to pay damages for each day's delay after September 15, the former date is the time fixed for its completion. National Surety Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 125 F. 887. Where a party builds a house on the lot of another at cost, the agreement being that the property should then be sold and the net profits divided equally, but no purchaser can be found, the builder held to be entitled to half the difference between the value of the lot as unimproved, plus the cost of improvements, and the market value of the property. Davis v. Kellar, 25 Ky. L. R. 279, 74 S. W. 1100. Parties held to have entered into separate contracts for construction of two houses, though subcontracts were let for work on both jointly. Separate agreements with the purchasers of two lots on which they were to be built. Smith v. Wilcox [Or.] 74 P. 708. Provision giving company right to make changes in dimensions of tunnel, construed. Daly v. Busk Tunnel R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 513.
18. See 1 Curr. L. 375.
19. Where there is a drawing annexed to specifications for construction of a sewer, referred to[20] is part of the contract, and it is for jury to say in case of doubt which of two plans is the one referred to.[21]

Fraud, misrepresentation, or mistake.[22]—A contractor knowing the contents of a contract, but misled as to its meaning, cannot avoid for fraud.[23] If it is shown that part of the agreement was omitted because of mistake of the parties or fraud on the part of the plaintiff, then the jury should assess damages at what the work is reasonably worth.[24]

§ 2. Performance of contract.[25]—The defective performance of a contract constitutes a breach,[26] but in the absence of a guaranty, the contractor is only required to do the work in a workmanlike manner, and is not responsible for results.[27] He will be held to have contemplated natural obstructions which may arise, and will not be excused from performance in a good and workmanlike manner by reason thereof.[28]

Where a notice to commence work is received after the date fixed therein, the contractor is required to begin work within a reasonable time thereafter.[29]

The question of proper performance concerns only the parties thereto, and a collateral incumbrancer cannot complain of incomplete performance, for the owner is entitled to waive such if he choose.[30]

Deviation from specifications.[31]—Substantial performance may warrant a recovery on the contract, with deductions for unfinished work;[32] but in such case, the contractor must show both that the defects and omissions were unsubstantial and unintentional, and must also show the amount necessary to make them good.[33]

If the architect or owner is given power to reject defective material, his failure to do so constitutes a waiver of such defects.[34] If part of the rejected showing probable line of rock and the specifications state that bidders must satisfy themselves as to the location of rock, there is no warranty as to the location of rock. Kelly v. New York, 87 App. Div. 299, 84 N. Y. S. 349.

20. Where it clearly appears that specifications under which work was done were the ones intended by the contract, the parties are bound by them, though they are not identified as the contract seems to require. Signed by architect alone. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014.

21. Cook v. Littlefield, 98 Me. 299, 56 A. 899.

22. These subjects are fully treated in separate topics. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104; Mistake and Accident, 2 Curr. L. 903. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 376.

23. Nesbit v. Jencks, 81 App. Div. 140, 80 N. Y. S. 1085.

24. Contract to construct stairway did not contain what defendant claimed was the agreement as to dimensions. Voss v. Schebeck, 25 Ky. L. R. 481, 76 S. W. 21.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 376.

26. Machinery called for by contract not delivered until after the stipulated time, and then in a defective condition. Payne v. Amos Kent B. & L. Co., 110 La. 750, 34 So. 763.

27. Under a contract for drilling a well, there is no implied undertaking to obtain water or as to quantity or quality to be obtained. Butler v. Davis, 119 Wis. 166, 96 N. W. 561.

28. Contract to build a church in a cemetery where soil was soft because of use for interment. Zimmerman v. Conrad [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 139.

29. Where work was to commerce upon a day to be designated, a notice to commence work upon May 9th, which is received May 10th, is sufficient to require contractor to commence within a reasonable time. Masterson v. New York, 87 App. Div. 622, 84 N. Y. S. 312.

30. Nolt v. Crow, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 113.

31. See 1 Curr. L. 377.

32. Woods v. Robertson, 85 N. Y. S. 338. The fact that a small sum will be required to complete the building will not prevent a recovery on the contract, where it has been substantially performed, and the contractors have offered to complete any work that might be incomplete, and to make such slight repairs or corrections as might be necessary. Windham v. Independent Tel. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 936.

33. Cannot do so if neglect is willful. Norton v. U. S. Wood Preserving Co., 89 App. Div. 237, 85 N. Y. S. 886. General noncompliance sufficient to prove intentional deviation and preclude recovery. Braseth v. State Bank of Edinburg [N. D.] 98 N. W. 79. Where the contractor abandons the work, he is not entitled to recover on the ground of substantial compliance, unless he has completed the building without any omissions so substantial as to call for damages, except in subordination to the part of the contract permitting the owner to complete the building at his expense. Rowe v. Gerry, 86 App. Div. 349, 83 N. Y. S. 740.

34. Provision that contractor should submit to judgment of architect all work and materials and architect frequently saw his work. Siebert v. Roth, 118 Wis. 250, 95 N. W. 118. Not entitled to make deductions for alleged unsatisfactory material and work material is good, but there is no data to determine the respective amounts, the builder is not entitled to credit for any of the material furnished,[35] nor can the owner recover for additional expense incurred partly through his fault and partly through that of the builder, when it is impossible to separate it.[36]

Whether the contract has been executed in accordance with the plans and specifications,[37] and whether such requirements have been waived, are questions for the jury.[38]

Liability for failure to perform.[39]—If the contract is without reservation, the contractor cannot excuse nonperformance on account of storms,[40] but if the owner, by his conduct, induces the contractor not to erect the building, he cannot recover damages for failure to perform.[41]

Damage to finished work.[42]—The general rule is that if the premises are destroyed without fault on either side, both parties are excused from further performance of the contract, and neither has a right of action against the other, unless a contrary intention appears;[43] but this is not the case where one has bound himself to erect a building of a specified description.[44]

Abandonment.[45]—The innocent party may treat a contract as abandoned for failure to perform, when he is thereby deprived of the benefit that would have furnished by a subcontractor, where the architects had authority to compel the removal thereof during the progress of the work. G. A. Fuller Co. v. Young Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 343.

35. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014.

36. Owner did over most of the woodwork, but was not justified in so doing as to most of it. This necessitated a further expense for heating and watchmen. Held, owner could recover no damages. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014.

37. As to meaning of "Blanco P. Carrara" marble. G. A. Fuller Co. v. Young Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 343.

38. Woarms v. Becker, 84 App. Div. 491, 82 N. Y. S. 1086.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 377.

40. Contract to supply materials to owner of lot with which to construct house. Payment to be made when roof on. Shingles not furnished on account of storms. Woolf v. Shaefer, 41 Misc. 640, 85 N. Y. S. 205.

41. Agreement to rescind. Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 377.

43. Building destroyed by fire before completion of contract to build annex. Krause v. Crothersville School Trustees [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264. Owner could not impose obligation on contractor to complete the work by offering to restore the old building. Id. Where contractor has expended more than he has received under the contracts, the payments made will be treated as an execution pro tanto and the loss left where it falls. Id.

NOTE. Completion prevented by destruction of building. A contractor to do a work which depends on the owner's co-operating work or on the continued existence or integrity of an existing structure is discharged if performance of his undertaking is made impossible by destruction of the existing structure: So held where a main building was destroyed, preventing completion of an addition. Krause v. Crothersville School Trustees [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264, 65 L. R. A. 111. Following Butterfield v. Byron, 153 Mass. 521, 27 N. E. 667, 25 Am. St. Rep. 656 with note, 12 L. R. A. 672 with note. The criterion seems to be whether the contractor was accountable by the terms of the contract despite any such casualties, whether he assumed the risk. He does not do so where the principal structure is not wholly his or he undertakes regardless of the risk. It is a question of interpretation. Butterfield v. Byron, supra.

It is not necessary in such case to reconstruct the main building. Neither is the contractor denied the protection of the rule because it appears that he could have completed sooner, or because the owner offers to restore the main building. Krause v. Crothersville School Trustees, supra.

A stipulation protecting the owner from liability for loss does not of itself cast a liability on the contractor. Krause v. Crothersville School Trustees, supra.

If the contract be entire and performance is prevented by destruction of the subject-matter without fault of either party, neither can recover on the contract, and the contractor cannot recover on a quantum meruit unless some benefit has resulted to the owner. Krause v. Crothersville School Trustees, supra. In Butterfield v. Byron, supra, the value of unused and unconsumed materials was recovered of the owner, who took them after the fire. As to this question, consult Implied Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 285.

44. Barn to be built upon foundations furnished by the owner. Held not work upon a building of another party, but plaintiff had bound himself to build a barn. Vogt v. Hecker, 118 Wis. 306, 95 N. W. 90. Immaterial that the owner agreed to furnish the lumber unless there is a breach of duty to supply it. Id. Contract for construction of dam held to require loss resulting from destruction before completion to fall on contractor. W. A. Chapman & Co. v. Montgomery W. P. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 372. See Contracts, 1 Curr. L. 626.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 377.

arisen from performance,[46] and impossibility of performance, caused by the owner does not relieve him from liability under the contract.[47] The contractor has a right to abandon the contract as soon as the owner's acts render it impossible for him to perform it within the time specified, time being of the essence of the contract,[48] or upon the nonpayment of instalments due thereunder.[49]

Whether the contract was abandoned is a question for the jury.[50]

Equity will restrain a subcontractor, who has abandoned his contract, from removing such part of his plant as is necessary to preserve the work until a reasonable time elapses for the substitution of another plant.[51]

§ 3. Modification of contract.[52]—A written contract not under seal may be modified by a parol agreement before breach,[53] or by the acts of the parties;[54] but a contract to modify a previous one must be supported by a new consideration.[55]

Unless specially authorized to do so, an architect has no authority to alter or modify the building contract.[56]

§ 4. Changes in plans and specifications.[57]—If the engineer has power to annul one portion of the contract without releasing the contractor from performing the other portions, a change in the plans and specifications of the work on one section beyond the power to change reserved in the contract does not release the contractor as to other portions.[58]

The question as to whether changes in the plans and specifications are material and whether they were within the contemplation of the parties when the contract was made is one of fact for the jury.[59]

§ 5. Extra work.[60]—A contractor is entitled to recover the reasonable value of all extra labor or material in excess of that required by the contract furnished by him, by the owner's direction,[61] or with his knowledge and consent,[62] though

46. Delay in completing stairway may operate to destroy the benefit which prompted the owner to contract. Koerper v. Royal Inv. Co., 102 Mo. App. 543, 77 S. W. 307.

47. Failure to procure right of way. Measure of damages is profits contractor prevented from earning. Altoona Electrical, E. & S. Co. v. Kittanning & F. C. St. R. Co., 126 F. 559.

48. A cause of action accrues to a contractor, and the statute of limitations begins to run on issuance of injunction restraining continuance of work because of city's failure to properly assess damages and benefits. Ash v. Independence [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 104.

49. Lawrence Bros. v. Heylman, 89 App. Div. 620, 85 N. Y. S. 789.

50. Plaintiff contended delay was forced by refusal of defendant to pay him, while defendant contended that it was causeless and inexcusable. Koerper v. Royal Inv. Co., 102 Mo. App. 543, 77 S. W. 307.

51. McCabe v. Hunt, 40 Misc. 466, 82 N. Y. S. 664.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 377.

53. Time of making payments. Eagle Iron Works v. Farley, 83 App. Div. 82, 82 N. Y. S. 603.

54. Requirement that builder purchase hardware modified by owner purchasing it with his consent. Cline v. Shell, 43 Or. 372, 73 P. 12.

55. A new agreement to proceed with work under terms different from those in the original contract, which had been rescinded, is supported by a sufficient consideration. Koerper v. Royal Inv. Co., 102 Mo. App. 543, 77 S. W. 307. See Contracts, 1 Curr. L. 626.

56. Provisions inserted in contract by architect, who is made agent for the owner for purposes of the contract, for purpose of inducing surety company to furnish bond, not binding on owner without notice. Sweeney v. Aetna Indemnity Co. [Wash.] 74 P. 1057.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 378.

58. American B. & T. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.

59. Change of plans and specifications for railroad betterments. American B. & T. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 378.

61. Architects may recover reasonable value for extra work if the owner promised before the work was done to pay for it, or if ordered by him. Contract called for a $500 fee for $5,400, but the work amounted to $50,000 before finished. Baker v. Pulitzer Pub. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 585.

62. Contract for 3,000 feet of lumber and 12,000 furnished. Libby v. Deake, 97 Me. 377, 54 A. 856. Reasonable value of all labor and materials furnished and accepted in the construction of work not covered by the contract. City of Chicago v. McKechney, 205 Ill. 372, 68 N. E. 954. Where a contractor does extra work which the owner testifies he did not authorize, it is error for the court to instruct the jury that the owner would be liable for the reasonable value of the extra work and materials, as it destroys the effect of the owner's evidence. William-the contract stipulates that the builder shall not charge for extra work unless ordered in writing.[63] He may also recover extra compensation for doing over his original work if not necessitated by any neglect of his contractual duty,[64] but not for work within the intendment of the contract.[65] A provision that compensation for the extra work can be had only upon written order of the engineer implies that work so ordered will be paid for.[66] The refusal of the architect to include the cost thereof in his final estimate does not preclude recovery, where he is not made arbiter of disputes.[67]

§ 6. Delay in performance.[68]—Where no time is fixed for completion, the work must be done within a reasonable time, taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances of the case.[69]

A contractor is not liable for delay caused by the owner, or his agents or servants,[70] even though the contract provides that the owner's request for alterations shall in no way affect or make void the contract;[71] but he cannot escape liability for delay because of extra work, when such delay was caused by lack of facilities for carrying it on concurrently with the original work.[72]

Waiver of delay or extension of time.[73]—Contractors consent to delay by son v. Smith & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 61.

63. Not binding when both parties agree on changes. Hay v. Bush, 110 La. 575, 34 So. 692. May be waived by architect as agent for owner. Langley v. Rouss, 85 App. Div. 27, 82 N. Y. S. 1082.

64. Sewer pipes properly laid settled, and it was necessary to relay them. Allen v. Melrose, 184 Mass. 1, 67 N. E. 1060.

65. Additional excavation and masonry below depth marked on plan of bridge piers held not extra work for which contractor entitled to compensation beyond that fixed in the contract, the measurements on the plans being approximate only, and the price fixed being so much per cubic yard. Geary v. New Haven [Conn.] 56 A. 584. Contract to build sewer held to be contract to do work as plan then was or might thereafter be changed, and lowering of grade held to be within power expressly given engineer and not to entitle contractor to extra compensation over the price per yard as fixed by the contract. Allen v. Melrose, 184 Mass. 1, 67 N. E. 1060. A subcontractor, who agrees to do the lathing and plastering called for by the plans and specifications cannot recover extra compensation for work done under the contract, though it was rendered necessary by imperfections in the work of the contractor. Graves Elevator Co. v. Parker Co., 92 App. Div. 456, 87 N. Y. S. 166.

66. Sheathing a trench made it necessary to widen it. Johnson v. Albany, 86 App. Div. 567, 83 N. Y. S. 1002.

67. Though payments are to be made upon his certificate. Jacob v. Weisser, 207 Pa. 484, 56 A. 1065.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 379.

69. Lang v. Menasha Paper Co., 119 Wis. 1, 96 N. W. 393; Koerper v. Royal Inv. Co., 102 Mo. App. 543, 77 S. W. 807.

70. Structure over sidewalk prevented putting up decorative iron work. Cornell v. Standard Oil Co., 91 App. Div. 345, 86 N. Y. S. 633. Defendants failed to disprove that performance was delayed by other work carried on by other people for the defendants themselves. New York Metal Ceiling Co. v. Raub, 86 N. Y S. 249. Failure to obtain rights of way as agreed. Altoona Electrical E. & S. Co. v. Kittanning, etc., R. Co., 126 F. 559. Evidence insufficient to show error in refusing to allow plaintiff anything for delay. Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014. Where parties assumed that it was the duty of the seller to superintend the building of the foundations for an irrigation pump and he sent a man for that purpose, he will not be allowed to claim that it was the duty of the buyer to construct them without supervision, and that the delay was caused by his failure to do so. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 983.

71. When contractor ready to plaster, owner decided to wire building for electric light. Steps were changed, and extra excavation done. Owner undecided as to color of paint. Small v. Burke, 86 N. Y. S. 1066.

72. Contract to do work on a boiler. Contractors later employed to do extra work on the steamship in connection with the work specified in the contract. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344.

73. NOTE. A stipulated penalty for delay will not be enforced in favor of the owner who has delayed performance by tardiness in preliminary construction work: This was held in King Iron Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. St. Louis, 43 F. 768, 10 L. R. A. 826, in which the city's delay in completing piers hindered the contractor in erecting the superstructure. The law is regarded as settled and the court cites Stewart v. Keteltas, 36 N. Y. 388; Weeks v. McCarty, 89 N. Y. 566; Starr v. Gregory Consolidated Min. Co., 6 Mont. 485, 13 P. 195; Mansfield v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386; Cape Fear & D. R. Navigation Co. v. Wilcox, 52 N. C. (7 Jones Law) 481; Dumke v. Puhlman, 62 Wis. 18, 21 N. W. 820; Jones v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 14 W. Va. 523. See, also, note to King Iron Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. St. Louis [U. S.] 10 L. R. A. 826 on provisions for penalties or stipulated damages. See 1 Curr. L. 379.

continuing the work,[74] and the owners by permitting them to do so without objection,[75] or by rendering them assistance.[76] But if the contractor can complete the work within the time fixed, plus the time occasioned by delays caused or assented to by the owner, he is liable for the damages provided for in the contract for each day's delay beyond that time.[77] A complaint founded on one breach may amount to a waiver of a similar prior breach,[78] and demand to complete a building which has not been finished within a reasonable time amounts to a virtual extension of time.[79]

Liquidated damages.[80]—Where a fixed sum is agreed upon as damages in case of a breach of the contract, it will be regarded as liquidated damages only in case the actual damage is incapable of exact determination, and the sum agreed upon is not on its face out of all proportion to the probable loss.[81] If such sum is grossly disproportionate to the probable value of the use of the building, the owner can recover only actual damages.[82] The burden of proof is upon the owner to show that a "penalty" is intended as liquidated damages if it is not so stated in the contract, and that the damage amounts approximately to the sum stated.[83]

An owner who takes possession and completes the work cannot recover the damages for delay stipulated for in the contract, but only his actual damage.[84]

§ 7. Termination or cancellation of contract.[85]—Failure to comply with the terms of the contract warrants rescission,[86] but one has no right to cancel for nonperformance when his own act is the cause thereof.[87] Where the owner wrongfully stops the work, the contractor may treat the contract as rescinded.[88]

A contract will not be canceled unless there is an offer by the plaintiff to pay the defendant for materials and labor furnished under it.[89]

74, 75. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344.

76. On subletting a grading contract, the principal contractor reserved right to place an additional force on the work if he was of the opinion that enough men were not being employed to complete it within the specified time and deduct the cost from the contract price. Held, putting on his own men and teams by the contractor was a waiver of delay of subcontractor. McArthur Bros. Co. v. Whitney, 202 Ill. 527, 67 N. E. 163.

77. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344.

78. Unnecessary delay in building an annex which with the original building was destroyed by fire. Complaint by owners for failure to complete after the fire waived a claim for delay prior to the fire. Krause v. Crothersville Trustees [Ind.] 70 N. E. 264.

79. Krause v. Board of School Trustees of School Town of Crothersville [Ind. App.] 66 N. E. 1010.

80. This subject is fully discussed in Damages, 1 Curr. L. 834; see, also, 1 Curr. L. 379.

81. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Eastern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 609. Will be regarded as penalty if it exceeds actual damage. Lee v. Carroll Normal School Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 65. In default of completion upon a certain day, $100 per month was to be paid until building finished; held liquidated damages. Carter & Co. v. Kaufman [S. C.] 45 S. E. 1017.

82. A contract was to construct a church for $3,400, the contractor to pay $3 per day damages for failure to complete at a certain date. In an action on the contract, there was no evidence as to the actual loss due to delay. Held, an instruction that no damages should be allowed for delay was erroneously refused. Zimmerman v. Conrad [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 139.

83. Held, court would not take judicial notice of the fact that rental value approximated penalty provided. Small v. Burke, 86 N. Y. S. 1066.

84. The contract provided for $5 per day for delay. Before the time stipulated for completion, the owner declared the contract forfeited and completed the building. Held, he cannot treat the contract binding as to this provision. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Robertson, 136 Ala. 379, 34 So. 933.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 380.

86. Defects in construction and delay held to warrant owner in terminating contract and completing the work himself. Hay v. Bush, 110 La. 575, 34 So. 692.

87. Owner could not cancel where contractor refused to proceed because of his failure to pay first instalment of price. Koerper v. Royal Inv. Co., 102 Mo. App. 543, 77 S. W. 307.

88. Requested to stop work for a few days but to remain on the premises and did so, but hears nothing further from the owner. Dobbling v. York Springs R. Co., 207 Pa. 123, 56 A. 349. Cannot thereafter be required to continue work under original contract. Cochran v. Yoho [Wash.] 75 P. 815.

89. Contract void because not recorded as required by Code. Sullivan v. California Realty Co., 142 Cal. 201, 75 P. 767.

§ 8. Completion by owner or third person.[90]—Where work is abandoned and the owner completes it under a provision in the contract, the contractor is entitled to any balance of the contract price above the cost of completion.[91] A surety who completes a contract abandoned by his principal is entitled to sums reserved from payments made to the original contractor.[92]

A provision that the engineer may take any measure he sees fit to complete the contract on time does not authorize him to take possession of the buildings and tools of the contractor for use in so doing.[93]

§ 9. Architect's and other certificates of performance.[94]—Provisions requiring the production of architect's certificates before recovery can be had will not be implied.[95] Where the contract provides that payment shall be made upon certificate of the architect that the work has been performed,[96] or that he shall certify as to the damages resulting from failure to complete the work, such certificate is a condition precedent to the right of recovery,[97] unless it appears that it was refused unreasonably, or in bad faith,[98] or that its production has been waived.[99]

Where the architect is one of contracting parties, a demand for payment constitutes a demand for his certificate.[1]

§ 10. Arbitration of disputes.[2]—Where the contract does not provide for the architect's decision upon disputed points, no such provision can be implied.[3] The agreement to submit differences to arbitration implies a promise to abide by the award,[4] and such disputes cannot afterwards be litigated by a party in the

90. NOTE. An election by the owner to complete the work estops him to forfeit for noncompletion: It being provided in the contract that if the contractor neglect to satisfactorily complete the work, the owner, after notice, may do so, and deduct the cost from the contract price, the latter availing himself of the privilege to so do, cannot assert a forfeiture in respect to the deficiency so supplied by him, but is simply entitled to deduct the expense incurred. Crouch v. Gutmann, 134 N. Y. 45, 31 N. E. 271, 30 Am. St. Rep. 608. See 1 Curr. L. 380.

91. Work deemed to be done under contract. White v. Livingston, 174 N. Y. 538, 66 N. E. 1118. See 1 Curr. L. 381, n. 77.

92. Would have been necessary for owner to expend the money to complete work before resorting to bond. St. Peter's Catholic Church v. Vannote [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1037.

93. Montgomery Water Power Co. v. William A. Chapman & Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 68.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 381.

95. Provision that work shall be satisfactory to architects, and that if subcontractor obtains architect's certificate performance will be conclusively presumed, does not make a failure to obtain it a bar to recovery. Fuller Co. v. Young Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 343.

96. McGlauflin v. Wormser, 28 Mont. 177, 72 P. 428.

97. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Gibson County [C. C. A.] 127 F. 671.

98. Facts sufficient to require determination by jury as to whether commissioner of highways acted in bad faith in refusing to give certificate as to delays caused by city. Masterson v. New York, 87 App. Div. 622, 84 N. Y. S. 312; Rowe v. Gerry, 86 App. Div. 349, 83 N. Y. S. 740. Refusal of certificate as to extra work without justification where work done under oral direction of architect. Langley v. Rouss, 85 App. Div. 27, 82 N. Y. S. 1082. Where contractor has power to terminate employment of subcontractor for failure to properly perform, on certificate of architect to that effect, and does so before receiving such certificate, such certificate is no defense, and the propriety of his action is for the jury. In case termination is wrongful, measure of damages is proportionate part of price for work done and profits he would have realized on rest. Sullivan v. Moffatt [N. J. Law] 56 A. 304.

In some states unreasonableness is not sufficient, and a contract which provides that final payment shall be made when work is satisfactory to the owner and architect gives the owner or architect absolute right to reject the work if he acts in good faith. Fairmont Plumbing Co. v. Carr [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 458. A whimsical refusal of an architect's certificate will not prevent a recovery where the building is substantially completed. Windham v. Independent Tel. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 936.

99. Where all but part of last payment made without certificate. Abrahamson-Engesser Co. v. McCafferty, 86 N. Y. S. 185. The architect's failure to furnish a certificate of completion is immaterial, where the owners have moved into and occupied the building with the understanding, on the announcement made by the architect and the contractor, that such act should constitute an acceptance. Windham v. Independent Tel. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 936.

1. Abrahamson-Engesser Co. v. McCafferty, 86 N. Y. S. 185.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 381.

3. Fuller Co. v. Young Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 343.

4. Somerset Borough v. Ott, 207 Pa. 539, 56 A. 1079.

courts until he has shown an offer to arbitrate and a refusal by the other party;[5] but an unreasonable delay in making an award relieves him from such agreement.[6] An agreement to arbitrate disputes does not prevent an action for damages for an unauthorized rescission of the contract.[7]

An agreement providing that the completion of the work specified therein will settle all disagreements precludes the owner from retaining a part of the contract price for defects existing prior thereto.[8] Decisions of an arbitrator may only be attacked for actual and intentional fraud on his part, or accident, mistake, or fraud practiced on him by which he was misled.[9]

§ 11. Acceptance.[10]—If a party accepts work as done, he cannot claim specific performance on the part of the builder as a condition precedent to payment, but is entitled to reduce the amount to be paid by the amount of damages he has sustained by failure to fully perform.[11] Payment of the contractor and disposal of remaining material by the owner constitutes a waiver of further performance,[12] but a mere naked use,[13] or a use from necessity, does not,[14] nor will the use of a temporary structure constitute an acceptance of the completed work.[15]

Acceptance is not a waiver of a guaranty of fitness.[16]

§ 12. Payment.[17]—Where payments are made without directions as to how they are to be applied, the creditor may make the application,[18] but it will be presumed that they were intended to pay the earlier rather than the later debts.[19] Where interest is not provided for in the contract, a demand is necessary for the exact amount.[20]

If the contract provides that final payment is to be made upon delivery with a full release of liens, such release is a condition precedent to payment.[21] Under a provision that the owner, upon the filing of a lien or notice of claim, may keep

5. Agreement that owner should fix damages for delay and if not satisfactory to the builder, an arbitrator to be appointed. Owner notified builder of amount he claimed as damages and the latter took no steps toward arbitrating. Held, he could not set up defenses that would have been open to him before an arbitrator, but was bound by sum fixed by owner. Childs Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 32 Wash. 250, 73 P. 353. A contract providing for acceptance by the directors of public works to be binding upon all parties leaves to the controller no discretion to refuse payment upon approval of the work by the director. Com. v. Pittsburg, 206 Pa. 379, 55 A. 1058.

6. Delay by commissioners of over three months authorizes contractor to sue. Johnson v. Albany, 86 App. Div. 567, 83 N. Y. S. 1002. An agreement that the engineer shall decide every question that may arise relative to the execution of the contract does not contemplate that he shall determine the damages caused by abandonment. Somerset Borough v. Ott, 207 Pa. 539, 56 A. 1079.

7. Action for damages for the loss of a contract and not for work done. Dobbling v. York Springs R. Co., 207 Pa. 123, 56 A. 349.

8. Pisani v. Jordan, 85 N. Y. S. 375.

9. Erroneous or unjust judgment not sufficient. Com. v. Pittsburg, 206 Pa. 379, 55 A. 1058.

10. See 1 Curr. L. 382.

11. Water tank not according to specifications, but upon an agreement by the plaintiff to change it, the defendant paid part of the agreed price and commenced using it. Gray v. New Paynesville, 89 Minn. 258, 94 N. W. 721.

12. Contractor did not bail out last part of an oil well nor case it, but owner made a payment and disposed of the casing. Texas Gulf Coast Land & Oil Co. v. Galveston-Chicago W. B. & D. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 974.

13. Unless accompanied by further acts or language implying acceptance. Question of fact in each case. Aarnes v. Windham, 137 Ala. 513, 34 So. 816.

14. Walking over steps and a walk from a man's house to the street. Gwinnup v. Shies, 161 Ind. 500, 69 N. E. 158. Use of defective lumber kiln and machinery in carrying on business. Payne v. Amos Kent Brick & Lumber Co., 110 La. 750, 34 So. 763.

15. Temporary bridge erected by contractors to avoid liability for delay in completion. Stimson Mill Co. v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 141 Cal. 30, 74 P. 357.

16. Repairs to boiler with a six months' guaranty against leakage. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 383.

18. Smith v. Wilcox [Or.] 74 P. 708.

19. Presumed to have been intended to pay for first three buildings completed and not the uncompleted ones. Kloepfer v. Maher, 84 N. Y. S. 138.

20. Excelsior Terra Cotta Co. v. Harde, 90 App. Div. 4, 85 N. Y. S. 732.

21. Releases dated after suit commenced. Titus v. Gunn, 69 N. J. Law, 410, 55 A. 735.

back an amount sufficient to pay the same, the builder may recover the balance.[22] The assignee of a builder's claim may recover for the work done if he is also assignee of all liens filed.[23]

§ 13. Subcontracts.[24]—A subcontractor who has notice of the terms of the original contract between the owner and builder is bound thereby.[25] An order of payment to a subcontractor, made by a contractor and referring to the original contract, must be construed with such contract.[26] The fact that a subcontractor refrains from filing a lien against the building is a sufficient consideration to support a promise of the owner to pay his claim.[27] A contractor who has accepted the work of a subcontractor, and has then obtained the architect's certificate that the main contract has been completed, and received the contract price, cannot claim that the subcontract was not completed in accordance with the terms of the original contract,[28] and the furnishing of such certificate is a sufficient compliance with the provisions of a subcontract requiring the architect's approval of the work done thereunder.[29]

Withholding payments for benefit of subcontractor.[30]—Under the Indiana statutes, a notice by a subcontractor to the owner that money is due him from the contractor and to withhold payment of that amount makes the owner personally liable for the full amount.[31]

Rights on default by subcontractor.[32]

§ 14. Bonds.[33]—A law requiring a bond is void as making a discrimination on the right to contract.[34]

Slight delay on the part of the owner in selecting material is not a breach going to the entire consideration of the contract so as to annul it, but only operates to relieve the contractor from liability for delay in completing the building and to give him a claim for loss occasioned by the enforced delay.[35]

If the bond refers to the contract, the two instruments are to be construed together.[36] Where the contract requires the builder to pay for materials furnished and the bond is conditioned on his completing the work according to contract, the guarantor is responsible for materialmen's liens.[37]

A bond given by a contractor to one employing him to build, stating that the building shall be delivered free of all claims, is not intended for the benefit of a subcontractor furnishing work or materials.[38]

A mere oral understanding as to times of payment differing from that in 22. Perry v. Levenson, 82 App. Div. 94, 81 N. Y. S. 586.

23. Cady v. Fair Plain Literary Ass'n [Mich.] 97 N. W. 680.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 383.

25. Subcontractor bound to do work satisfactory to architect. Stein v. McCarthy [Wis.] 97 N. W. 912. Where subcontractor makes a contract to furnish material, referring therein to the original contract, he is bound by provision therein requiring approval by architect. Woarms v. Becker, 84 App. Div. 491, 82 N. Y. S. 1086.

26. Payment to be made as per my contract. Weber v. Farrell, 84 N. Y. S. 272.

27. Culver v. Pocono Spring Water Ice Co., 206 Pa. 481. 56 A. 29.

28, 29. Graves Elevator Co. v. Parker Co., 92 App. Div. 456, 87 N. Y. S. 156.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 384.

31. Burns' Rev. St. 1894, § 7262. Roberts v. Koss [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 185.

32, 33. See 1 Curr. L. 384.

34. Code Civ. Proc. § 1203 held void. Snell v. Bradbury, 139 Cal. 379, 73 P. 150.

35. Does not relieve surety on contractor's bond. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327.

36. Closson v. Billman, 161 Ind. 610, 69 N. E. 449.

37. Closson v. Billman, 161 Ind. 610, 69 N. E. 449. Sureties guaranteeing the construction of a building in strict accordance with plan and specifications and terms of contract are not discharged until the building has been released of liens for labor and material. Mayes v. Lane, 25 Ky. L. R. 824, 76 S. W. 399. Where a contract provides for the retention of 15 per cent of the contract price until completion of the building free from liens, sureties upon the contractor's bond are not released because the owner pays out that amount to dispose of liens before the completion of the contract. Id.

38. Materialmen cannot recover thereon. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist., 121 Iowa. 663, 97 N. W. 72.

the contract will not release the surety.[39] An owner is under no obligation to sureties upon a contractor's bond to see to the application of payments to the discharge of debts due for material and labor.[40] After the lapse of two years, there is no presumption that defects are due to faulty construction.[41]

§ 15. Remedies and procedure.[42]—A provision giving the engineer power to annul the contract in case of failure to perform properly, and providing that in case he does so the amount then due shall be regarded as liquidated damages, does not provide an exclusive remedy for a breach, but in case of wrongful abandonment, action may be brought on the contractor's bond.[43]

Recovery in general assumpsit or on quantum meruit.[44]—Where the contract is fully performed except for payment, recovery may be had in indebitatus assumpsit.[45] The contractor cannot recover under his contract unless the work is completed, but if the owner accepts the building as constructed, recovery may be had under the common counts for work, labor, and materials furnished.[46] If the owner prevents the completion of the work,[47] or otherwise breaches the contract so as to justify an abandonment thereof, the contractor may recover the agreed value of the work done.[48]

Where no price is agreed upon, the builder is entitled to recover the reasonable value of his work.[49]

Pleading.[50]—The general rule that the complaint must contain a plain and concise statement of facts, which will not leave the defendant in doubt as to the cause of action, applies to actions on building contracts.[51]

Performance of conditions precedent to a right of recovery, or an excuse for their nonperformance, must be pleaded,[52] but a general allegation of performance is sufficient.[53]

39. Mere oral request and promise that the owner have five days' grace in paying instalments. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327.

40. Mayes v. Lane, 25 Ky. L. R. 824, 76 S. W. 399.

41. The liability of a surety under the Code arises should a building fall to ruin, either in whole or in part owing to the badness of the workmanship, but if at the end of two years after completion a defect arises, it must be shown that it is exclusively the fault of the principal in order to hold the surety. Police Jury of Parish of Vernon v. Johnson, 111 La. 279, 35 So. 560.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 384.

43. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 384.

45. McArthur Bros. Co. v. Whitney, 202 Ill. 527, 67 N. E. 163.

46. Owner moved into house before completed, the contractor agreeing to finish the same according to contract. Evidence that materials and construction were not as per contract. Aarnes v. Windham, 137 Ala. 513, 34 So. 816. Can recover nothing under the contract or on quantum meruit unless owner accepts and uses work. Construction of a walk lowest in the middle so as to collect rain water and steps unfinished. Gwinnup v. Shies, 161 Ind. 500, 69 N. E. 168. Owner may recoup damages for failure to perform. Contract to construct Turkish bath to satisfaction of owner. Tile was poor and floor uneven, so that water would not drain. Mosaic Tile Co. v. Chiera [Mich.] 95 N. W. 537.

47. And such profits as he would have realized from the work not done while owner may claim a rebate for loss caused by noncompliance with the contract. Wilson v. Borden, 68 N. J. Law, 627, 54 A. 815.

48. Lawrence Bros. v. Heylman, 89 App. Div. 620, 85 N. Y. S. 789.

49. Shmilovitz v. Bares, 75 Conn. 714, 55 A. 560.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 385.

51. Complaint for breach of contract to complete building, necessitating completion by plaintiff, held sufficient. Bryant v. Broadwell, 140 Cal. 490, 74 P. 33. Suit by contractor on subcontractor's bond, which made it his duty to save contractor from any loss. Complaint alleged that subcontractor had incurred indebtedness which contractor was compelled to pay and that the subcontractor on demand had refused to reimburse him. Pac. Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 33 Wash. 47, 73 P. 772. In an action on a bond against a surety for breach of contract by his principal, a supplemental complaint, alleging a further breach of the same contract may properly be filed, even though the time for bringing suit on the bond had expired. Id. A complaint in an action on a contractor's bond, setting out the bond and contract and alleging nonperformance in specified particulars resulting in damage for which a settlement had been demanded, sufficiently sets forth a breach of contract and states a cause of action. Failure to supply proper material and sufficient men. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Robertson, 136 Ala. 379, 34 So. 933.

52. Obtaining architect's certificate. Rowe v. Gerry, 86 App. Div. 349, 83 N. Y. S. 740.

A plea that the contractor was delayed by acts of his employer must state the extent of the delay so caused.[54]

Where a material part of a contract remains unperformed, a party cannot recover upon an allegation of full performance.[55]

Defendant cannot plead by way of counterclaim that plaintiff agreed to construct in a manner different from that provided in the contract, in the absence of an allegation that such contract failed to contain the whole agreement, or that the omission was due to mistake or fraud.[56]

Failure to execute in a workmanlike manner may be proved under a general denial.[57]

Variance.[58]—An allegation of performance does not authorize proof of nonperformance because of facts not pleaded.[59]

Evidence.[60]—If the compensation is not fixed in the contract, evidence as to the value of the services is admissible.[61]

Evidence of customs and usages is admissible for the purpose of showing the meaning of trade terms.[62]

Expert testimony is not admissible to show substantial compliance with the contract,[63] nor to show the proper classification of material, where such classification depends on the manner in which it was handled and witness did not see the work done.[64]

If an architect's certificate is required, its execution must be proved.[65] If the written contract is ambiguous, an independent verbal contract relating to the subject-matter, but not inconsistent with it, may be shown.[66] Where a requirement of written evidence to charge the owner for work done under alterations of the contract has been waived by oral directions for alterations acted on by the contractor, oral evidence of the alterations and their value is admissible in an action on the contractor's bond.[67]

Where contract requires architect's certificate, its execution or refusal must be alleged and proved. Beck v. N. Y. Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 85 N. Y. S. 323. Evidence of notice by owner of election to complete building, introduced as proof of extra services, inadmissible to excuse failure to produce architect's certificate, where such notice was not pleaded. Id.; Vanderhoof v. Shell, 42 Or. 578, 72 P. 126; McGlauflin v. Wormser, 28 Mont. 177, 72 P. 428.

53. Not necessary to state facts constituting performance of a condition precedent, but sufficient to state that all conditions have been performed. Under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 533. Acceptance of work by engineer. Vandegrift v. Bertron, 83 App. Div. 548, 82 N. Y. S. 153.

54. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Damskibsaktieselskabet Habil, 138 Ala. 348, 35 So. 344.

55. Excelsior Terra Cotta Co. v. Harde, 90 App. Div. 4, 85 N. Y. S. 732.

56. Agreement that stairs be large enough to admit of piano and book cases being carried up. Voss v. Schebeck, 25 Ky. L. R. 481, 76 S. W. 21.

57. Gwinnup v. Shies, 161 Ind. 500, 69 N. E. 158.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 386.

59. Rowe v. Gerry, 86 App. Div. 349, 83 N. Y. S. 740.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 386.

61. Suit upon a written contract which was not set out in the abstract of record and its terms unknown. Merriner v. Jeppson [Colo. App.] 74 P. 341.

62. "San Domingo mahogany." Snoqualmi Realty Co. v. Moynihan [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1014.

63. Zimmerman v. Conrad [Mo. App.] 74 S. W. 139.

64. Opinions of an expert that certain material should be classified as loose rock inadmissible, where it was formed from looking at the sides of the cut long after it was made and, by the terms of the contract, the classification depended on the manner in which the material was handled. American B. & T. Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.

65. Where plaintiff in an action for work, labor and materials under a contract failed to allege a notice of election by the defendant to complete the building, evidence of such notice introduced as proof of extra services, was inadmissible to excuse failure to produce architect's certificate. Beck v. N. Y. Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 85 N. Y. S. 323.

66. In action for extra work consisting of balustrades and lattice work on piazzas, an independent verbal agreement relating thereto is not inconsistent where they are shown on the plan referred to in the original contract. Cook v. Littlefield, 98 Me. 299, 56 A. 899. See Contracts, 1 Curr. L. 626; Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136.

67. Crowley v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 29 Wash. 268, 69 P. 784.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

§ 1. In General. Statutory Provisions (561).
§ 2. Membership and Stock (562).
§ 3. Loans and Mortgages (565).
A. In General (565).
B. Usury. Conflict of Laws (565).
C. Accounting with Borrower While Solvent (568).
D. Accounting after Insolvency (569).
§ 4. Termination and Insolvency. Voluntary Liquidation (571).

§ 1. In general. Statutory provisions.—The Iowa statute regulating the conduct of the building and loan business by unincorporated associations,[68] and the Louisiana act regulating the business of homestead associations,[69] are held constitutional. An association must comply with statutory requirements before doing business in a state other than that of its domicile.[70] Such statutes do not exempt corporations taking advantage thereof from the general rule requiring their contracts to be tested by the same rules as those of similar domestic corporations.[71] Contracts which by their terms are to become vested in numerical order, without regard to the amount paid thereon, are expressly forbidden by statute in Massachusetts.[72] In Louisiana, homestead associations may buy property for cash and resell to the original owner on credit, the second sale giving the association a vendor's lien.[73]

Charter and by-laws.[74]—A shareholder and member of an association is presumed to know its charter and by-laws.[75] Valid by-laws of an association to which a member agrees become a part of his contract.[76] But a by-law which changes a borrower's rights, after he effects a loan, is not binding upon him.[77] A borrower may be estopped to set up the invalidity of a by-law,[78] or to deny

68. Acts 29th Gen. Assem. p. 45, c. 77. Question arose in habeas corpus proceedings for release of one arrested for soliciting contracts for an unincorporated foreign association, which had not complied with statutory requirements. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

69. Act No. 115, p. 177, of 1888. American Homestead Co. v. Karstendiek, 111 La. 884, 35 So. 964.

70. A contract with a foreign loan association which has not complied with a statute requiring certificates of incorporation to be filed with the secretary of state, is void, and no action is maintainable thereon. Hoskins v. Rochester Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Mich.] 95 N. W. 566. A defense, in an action by a homestead association, to recover the price of property sold, that plaintiff has not complied with provisions of the homestead association law, not supported by proof, is not entitled to consideration. American Homestead Co. v. Karstendiek, 111 La. 884, 35 So. 964.

71. A bond for a loan executed by the wife alone is void, though a mortgage given to secure the loan is properly executed and is on her separate property [Rev. St. 1892, § 2208]. Equitable Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. King [Fla.] 37 So. 181.

72. Contracts of an association to enable purchasers to buy real estate, discharge incumbrances and pay for improvements, held to violate Rev. Laws, c. 73, because such contracts became vested in numerical order, without regard to amount paid thereon. Attorney General v. Pitcher, 183 Mass. 514, 67 N. E. 606. The business of a home buyers' association, the members whereof hold contracts for $1,000 each, requiring certain payments and becoming vested in numerical order so as to entitle holders to a loan is not a co-operative banking business within Rev. Laws, c. 114, § 1, prohibiting persons from transacting the business of accumulating the savings of members and loaning the same, unless incorporated in Massachusetts. Id. Rev. Laws, c. 73, forbidding negotiation and sale of certificates and obligations redeemable in numerical order, and providing a penalty of $50 for each offense, and for forfeiture of the franchise of a domestic corporation and of the right to transact business in the state by a foreign corporation, does not authorize the attorney general to maintain a suit in equity against individuals carrying on the prohibited business as co-partners. Id.

73. Act No. 115, p. 177, of 1888. American Homestead Co. v. Karstendiek, 111 La. 884, 35 So. 964.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 388, 389.

75. Coggeshall v. Sussman, 41 Misc. 384, 84 N. Y. S. 1097.

76. Provident Mut. Bldg. Loan Ass'n v. Davis [Cal.] 76 P. 1034.

77. Since the usury laws of the state cannot be changed either by such by-laws or by contract. Ga. State Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Grant [Miss.] 34 So. 84.

78. A loan made in accordance with by-laws dispensing with premium bids in open meeting, such by-laws being adopted before passage of a statute authorizing such procedure, is not usurious, for the reason that acting on the by-laws after the law was passed amounted to a readoption of them, and estopped the borrower from setting up their invalidity. Collins v. Cobe, 202 Ill. 469, 66 N. E. 1079.

the legal organization of the association as a corporation.[79] Oral or printed statements of officers or agents of an association, in direct contradiction of the by-laws or the terms of a contract of which the by-laws are made a part, cannot be made the basis of an estoppel unless such representations are fraudulently made.[80] An officer of a building and loan association is competent to discharge the duties of trustee in a trust deed given the association on a loan by it.[81] Documentary evidence[82] in proof of the charter or by-laws must be properly authenticated.

§ 2. Membership and stock.[83]—In the absence of prohibitory statutes, associations may lawfully issue paid up stock,[84] and include in its membership a borrowing and nonborrowing class, the latter being liable only for instalments on stock, not for premiums or interest.[85] The mere fact that there are different classes of stock with different rights and liabilities of stockholders does not necessarily destroy the company's character as a building and loan association.[86] A statute legalizing premiums, fees and fines, in addition to interest, does not authorize the issuance of preferred stock or discrimination between shareholders.[87] One who invests money in a loan association and receives a certificate of deposit, drawing annual interest, based on the earnings of the business, and a separate certificate of membership and ownership of stock, is a stockholder, and not a mere creditor of the association.[88] A stockholder can vote by proxy only when authorized by statute or the articles or by-laws of the corporation.[89] A member seeking to recover dues, in accordance with the terms of his certificate and the by-laws of the association, must allege and prove the existence of the fund out of which such dues are payable.[90] Fines for default in payments on stock will be allowed only when reasonable.[91]

79. Crete Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Patz [Neb.] 95 N. W. 793.

80. Noah v. German American Bldg. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 504, 68 N. E. 615.

81. McDonnell v. De Soto Sav. & Bldg. Ass'n, 175 Mo. 250, 75 S. W. 438.

82. In a foreclosure suit, the certificate of stock, with by-laws and other statements printed thereon, constituting the contract with the association, is admissible in evidence. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751. Certificates of stock admissible in action to cancel lien and declare debt usurious and for other relief against an association. American Mut. Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n v. Cornibe [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1026. Letter from association secretary relative to contract, admissible to show association was then doing business and that a five-year contract then existed between member and association. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751. A book containing printed by-laws used and recognized by members, there being no other copy of such by-laws, was admissible, though the book contained other matter. Star Loan Ass'n v. Moore [Del.] 55 A. 946. A paper purporting to be the charter of a corporation, which does not show that it is a certified copy of the recorded act, but merely purports to come from the secretary of state and to be recorded, is not admissible in evidence. Id. The affidavit of the secretary of a loan association that the paper annexed is the true copy of the original record of the account of a borrowing member is not admissible to prove the state of the account, under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 474, regarding proof of the acts of corporations by sworn copies of the records thereof. Coppes v. Union Nat. Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1022.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 389.

84, 85. Bell v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 237.

86. A plea properly stricken because not showing that different classes of stock existed when defendant became a member, nor that the alleged inequalities were such as to destroy the building and loan feature of the company. Rooney v. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 119 Ga. 941, 47 S. E. 345.

87. Laws 27th Gen. Assem. p. 32, c. 48. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120 Iowa, 485, 94 N. W. 1110. One who subscribed for and received preferred stock in a loan corporation, on which a loan was received, such preference being void as an unjust discrimination between shareholders, was not estopped to set up the invalidity of the contract by having made payments or delayed asserting such invalidity, where such acts did not prejudice the loan company. Id.

88. His rights are those of an owner of paid-up stock. Ottawa Mut. Loan & Sav. Ass'n v. Merriman, 67 Kan. 779, 74 P. 256.

89. Iowa Code, § 1900, in regard to the right to and method of voting in "elections," covers the action of stockholders in going into voluntary liquidation. A member having voted more than 10% of the stock at such "election," the action taken was invalid. McKee v. Howe Sav. & Trust Co., 122 Iowa, 731, 98 N. W. 609.

90. Ronca v. N. Y. Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 84 N. Y. S. 879.

91. Fines for default in payment of dues

Status of borrowing members.[92]—Borrowing and nonborrowing members of a loan association so far as stock and payments thereon are concerned, stand on an equal footing, and should equally receive the benefits and bear the burdens.[93] A borrowing member does not cease to be a member and stockholder by assigning his stock as collateral security for a loan.[94] on stock will not be allowed, without a showing being made as to their reasonableness and for what they were charged. Fidelity Sav. Ass'n v. Bank of Commerce [Wyo.] 75 P. 448. Where a certain fine per month on each share during the period of delinquency is provided for, the repeated imposition of the same fine, increasing each month in arithmetical progression, will not be permitted. Id.

NOTE. Fines; nature and validity: Whether or not fines will be sustained depends upon the view taken by the court of the nature of the fine. Thus some courts consider a fine to be in the nature of liquidated damages for default in payment or for nonperformance of a promise. Goodman v. Durant Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 71 Miss. 310, 14 So. 146; McGannon v. Cent. Bldg. Ass'n No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726. In North Carolina, fines are regarded as additional interest and within the provisions of the usury laws. Rowland v. Old Dominion Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 116 N. C. 878, 22 S. E. 8. In other states it is expressly declared by statute that neither premiums nor fines shall be deemed usurious. A Pennsylvania statute of that kind was held valid in Juniata Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Mixell, 84 Pa. 313. And in the many cases where fines are sustained and enforced, it is necessarily assumed that they do not come within the provisions of the usury laws.

For what imposed: Fines are most usually imposed for nonpayment of dues on stock, upon the ground that the success of the enterprise depends on prompt payment of such dues by members. Pfeister v. Wheeling Bldg. Ass'n, 19 W. Va. 676; McGannon v. Cent. Bldg. Ass'n No. 2, Id. 726; Parker v. U. S. Bldg., L. & L. Ass'n, Id. 744; Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n [Tenn. Ch. App.] 39 S. W. 546. Fines for nonpayment of interest are upheld in the last named case, supra, and in Clarksville Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Stephens, 26 N. J. Eq. 351. But in West Virginia and Ohio the imposition of such fines is held to be beyond the power of the association. See McGannon v. Cent. Bldg. Ass'n No. 2, and Parker v. U. S. Bldg., L. & L. Ass'n, supra; Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 25 Ohio St. 186; Forrest City United Land & Bldg. Ass'n v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208. As to the amount of fines, the general rule is that they must be reasonable. 25 Ohio St. 186 and 208, supra. For fines which have been held reasonable, see McGannon v. Cent. Bldg. Ass'n No. 2, 19 W. Va. 726; Parker v. U. S. Bldg, L. & L. Ass'n, 19 W. Va. 744; Ricks v. Durant Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Miss.] 18 So. 359; Clarksville Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Stephens, 26 N. J. Eq. 351; In re Middlesbrough Bldg. Soc., 54 Law J. Ch. 592. Pennsylvania has a statute limiting the amount of fines. Nat. Sav. Fund & Bldg. Ass'n v. Robinson, 19 Phila. [Pa.] 358.

By-laws requiring payment of fines are generally held not to make such fines cumulative. Monumental, Permanent Bldg. & Land Soc. v. Lewin, 38 Md. 445; Shannon v. Howard Mut. Bldg. Ass'n, 36 Md. 383; Ocmulgee Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Thomson, 52 Ga. 427; Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 25 Ohio St. 186; Forrest City United Land & Bldg. Ass'n v. Gallagher, 25 Ohio St. 208.

Secured by mortgage: It is not uncommon for mortgages to such associations to provide expressly for payment of fines as well as dues. Massey v. Citizens' Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 22 Kan. 624; Ingoldby v. Riley, 28 Law T. [N. S.] 55; Juniata Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Mixell, 84 Pa. 313; Rhoads v. Hoernerstown Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 82 Pa. 180. That security for fines may be included in the mortgage is expressly decided in Hagerman v. Ohio Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 25 Ohio St. 186. Fines are included where the mortgage is to secure compliance with all the by-laws and regulations. Setliff v. North Nashville Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n [Tenn. Ch. App.] 39 S. W. 546. See, also, McCahan v. Columbian Bldg. Ass'n, 40 Md. 226. That fines are not included unless the mortgage makes express provision therefor is held in Robertson v. American Homestead Ass'n, 10 Md. 397, 69 Am. Dec. 145, and Bowen v. Lincoln Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 51 N. J. Eq. 272, 28 A. 67.—From note in 35 L. R. A. 215.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 390.

93. Monier v. Clarke [N. M.] 75 P. 35.

94. He remains liable for premiums. (Authorities collected and doctrine discussed.) Fidelity Sav. Ass'n v. Bank of Commerce [Wyo.] 75 P. 448. A member who is in debt to the association cannot be considered as having withdrawn from membership until he has paid or tendered the debt. Yager v. Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 25 Ky. L. R. 1853, 79 S. W. 197. In the absence of fraud, a borrower, taking stock and assigning it as security is a stockholder. Stanley v. Verity, 98 Mo. App. 632, 73 S. W. 727. Since a borrower from an association is also a stockholder, premiums on the stock cannot be construed as premiums on the loan. Attempted in order to show contract inequitable and have it set aside. Pac. States Sav., L. & B. Co. v. Green [C. C. A.] 123 F. 43. An association which has accepted shares of its stock as a pledge for a loan may be estopped to claim that the issuance of the stock was a mere device to hide the real transaction, and that the subscriber is not a member of the association. The association here took no steps to enforce the lien or to apply the stock to the payment of the debt. Western Loan & Sav. Co. v. Garff [Utah] 75 P. 375.

Contra: In some states it is held that when a member borrows money and pledges his stock, he ceases to be a member, and becomes a mere debtor. Interstate Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Holland, 65 S. C. 448, 43 S. E. 978.

Maturity of stock.[95]—In the absence of any special agreement, stock matures only when the dues paid and earnings apportioned to it amount to the face value thereof.[96] As to the effect of an agreement that stock shall mature after a specified number of payments or in a specified time, the courts are not agreed, some holding that when an association so agrees and represents at the time the loan is made, stock matures when the required number of payments has been made, whether the dues and earnings were sufficient to mature it or not,[97] and that the stockholder cannot be required to pay more than the specified number;[98] others, that such an agreement works an estoppel;[99] and many that the agreement is ultra vires and void.[1] Representations of an association through its agents as to the amount or time required to mature stock are regarded as mere expressions of opinion and not fraudulent, though not verified.[2] An association is under no duty to mature the stock of a defaulting stockholder.[3]

95. See 1 Curr. L. 391.

96. Noah v. German American Bldg. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 504, 68 N. E. 615; Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120 Iowa, 485, 94 N. W. 1110. Where by-laws provide that liability for instalments shall be limited to a certain number, and others provide that stock shall not mature until the loan fund portion of instalments, with earnings, should equal the face value of the stock, such stock does not mature until the stock is worth its face value, notwithstanding the required number of payments has been made. Miller v. Wayne International Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 180.

97. Iowa Business Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Berlau [Iowa] 98 N. W. 766. A contract whereby an association agrees to mature stock at the end of a certain time, the member performing his contract, is enforceable. People v. N. Y. Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 88 N. Y. S. 850. Settlement under a contract to mature stock in five years held valid. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751. An absolute promise to mature stock in a specified time is not rendered conditional upon the success of the undertaking by the agreement by the stockholder to pay a certain monthly instalment on each share until maturity, or withdrawal, and the provision of the by-laws, accepted by him, that such instalments shall be paid until stock is fully paid. Eastern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Williamson, 189 U. S. 122, 23 S. Ct. 527, 47 Law. Ed. 735. An absolute promise to mature stock in a specified time is not affected by the fact that before a stockholder obtained a loan on such stock, the by-laws were amended to provide for the maturity of stock only when dues and earnings equalled the par value thereof. Id. A state court may place its own construction upon the effect of an absolute promise to mature stock in a specified time, and the effect thereon of the corporation's charter and by-laws, and the statutes and decisions of the state where the association was incorporated, without contravening the full faith and credit clause of the constitution. Id.

98. Certificate provided that payments on stock should not exceed a certain number. Noah v. German American Bldg. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 504, 68 N. E. 615. A borrowing member cannot avail himself of an agreement as to the number of payments which will mature stock, when that agreement is not embodied in his bond and mortgage. Id.

99. The defense that an absolute promise to mature stock in a specified time is ultra vires cannot be set up in a suit on such promise, by a stockholder who has fully executed the contract on his part. Eastern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Williamson, 189 U. S. 122, 23 S. Ct. 527, 47 Law. Ed. 735. Though the act of an association representing that a certain number of payments would mature stock is ultra vires, yet, when relied upon by a tranferee of property, charged with a loan secured by stock, the association may be estopped to claim a larger amount on such stock, before releasing a trust deed. Williams v. Verity, 98 Mo. App. 654, 73 S. W. 732.

1. The act of an association determining and representing that a certain number of payments would mature the stock is ultra vires. Williams v. Verity, 98 Mo. App. 654, 73 S. W. 732. A loan must be discharged by maturity of stock in the usual course of business, or by payments large enough to discharge the loan at once, regardless of an agreement as to maturity after a certain number of payments. Gary v. Verity, 101 Mo. App. 586, 74 S. W. 161. Such an agreement with one member is in contravention of the rights of other stockholders. Id. A building and loan association has no power to guarantee the maturity of stock after a certain number of instalments have been paid. A corporation attempting to guarantee stock in this way is not entitled to the benefit of preferential statutes applicable to building and loan associations. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120 Iowa, 485, 94 N. W. 1110. An agreement by an association that a certain number of payments should mature the stock of a stockholder is of no effect, unless expressly authorized by statute, because it violates the principle of mutuality among stockholders. Code 1896, §§ 1122-1137 does not authorize such a contract. Richter v. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 137 Ala. 521, 34 So. 562.

2. Where it appears that a borrowing member's stock will not be matured as rapidly as represented, on account of mismanagement in including a large class of non-borrowing members, the remedy is withdrawal in accordance with the by-laws, or appeal to the governing board or agents of the corporation before a resort to the court is had. Bell v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 237.

3. Motes v. People's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 137 Ala. 369, 34 So. 344.

§ 3. Loans and mortgages. A. In general.[4]—Where a building and loan contract is unenforceable as such because it is a discrimination between members, but the borrowing member treats it as enforceable as an ordinary loan, it may be so enforced.[5] An association is bound by a construction placed by the parties on an ambiguous note at the time of making the loan, where such construction is in accordance with representations made by the association.[6] Where a contract requires the expenditure of a portion of a loan on improvements on real estate, the borrower cannot set up nonliability for such portion, because it was for the benefit of the association.[7] A provision for attorney's fees in a loan association mortgage is enforceable.[8] Accrued fines for default in payment of dues on stock are an essential part of the liability of the member, but do not become a part of the mortgage debt, unless made so by the mortgage.[9] By statute in Utah, a borrowing member may repay loans at any time by complying with the charter and by-laws.[10] A payment to a local agent of a foreign loan association is a payment to the association.[11] It is no defense against a payment on a loan that a building and loan association has gone out of business as such.[12] A shareholder and member of an association cannot raise the defense of ultra vires when sued for a loan, on a contract executed by the association.[13] False representations of existing facts by officers of an association, fraudulently made, constitute a good defense against a mortgage foreclosure suit.[14] A grantee of premises mortgaged, by a borrowing member, who assumes and agrees to pay the mortgage, becomes liable for all the obligations secured, such as dues and premiums, besides principal and interest.[15] But it is held elsewhere that the additional liability must be expressly assumed.[16]

(§ 3) B. Usury. Conflict of laws.[17]—The contract of a borrowing member of a building and loan association is governed by the law of the place where it is incorporated and has its home office, and where subscriptions to, and instalments on, stock, and interest are payable, though the security is in another state.[18] But

4. A complaint of which the by-laws of an association were made a part, held to sufficiently allege when payments on stock were to be made, that stock had not matured, that defendants were in default and that the loan was due and unpaid. Miller v. Wayne International Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 180. See 1 Curr. L. 392.

5. Winegardner v. Equitable Loan Co., 120 Iowa, 485, 94 N. W. 1110.

6. Iowa Business Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Berlau [Iowa] 98 N. W. 766.

7. Motes v. People's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 137 Ala. 369, 34 So. 344.

8. Columbian Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63. Attorney's fees are properly allowed in foreclosure suit by receiver, the mortgage providing therefor. Ottensoser v. Scott [Fla.] 37 So. 161.

9. Fidelity Sav. Ass'n v. Bank of Commerce [Wyo.] 75 P. 448. Where fines for default in payments of dues on stock are by the by-laws made a lien on the stock, they will be allowed, if reasonable, in determining the withdrawal value of the stock, to be credited on the mortgage debt. Id.

10. One who made payments according to by-laws up to a certain time, and then paid the balance due in a single payment, was entitled to have the bond and mortgage securing the loan canceled, regardless of the conscionableness or unconscionableness of the contract [Rev. St. 1898, § 396]. Hiskey v. Pac. States Sav., L. & B. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 20.

11. Hoskins v. Rochester Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Mich.] 95 N. W. 566.

12. Motes v. People's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 137 Ala. 369, 34 So. 344.

13. Coggeshall v. Sussman, 41 Misc. 384, 84 N. Y. S. 1097; Noah v. German-American Bldg. Ass'n, 31 Ind. App. 504, 68 N. E. 615.

14. The answer sufficiently set out the defense, though it was not sustained by the evidence. No. 5 Fidelity Bldg. & Sav. Union v. Driver, 31 Ind. App. 691, 69 N. E. 177.

15. Miller v. Wayne International Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 180.

16. A stockholder in a building and loan association borrowed money from it on a vendor's lien note, assigning the stock as security and giving a bond for payment of dues, premiums, etc. He thereafter sold the land to defendant, who assumed the note, but nothing was said in the deed as to assuming liability on the bond. The association transferred the stock to defendant without his knowledge and accepted payments on the note. Held, defendant was not liable as a stockholder in the association. Manor v. Aldrich [C. C. A.] 126 F. 934.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 393.

18. Interstate Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Edgefield Hotel Co., 120 F. 422; Alexander v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 120 F.

if the contract is to be performed in a state other than that of the domicile of the corporation, the law of the place of performance governs.[19]

Exemption from usury laws.[20]—Building and loan associations are usually exempted from the operation of usury laws,[21] mutual participation in profits and losses being the basic principle underlying building and loan contracts, which renders them nonusurious.[22] Some courts hold that premiums and interest are payable under separate and distinct contracts, and are not to be confused so as to render the contract usurious.[23] A company cannot, by calling itself a building and loan association, acquire the privilege of charging more than the legal interest rate on ordinary loans, if it is not such an association in fact.[24] That a company bears the name of a building and loan association imports that it is such in fact, and the burden is on a member asserting the contrary to prove it.[25] Though the lender be a building and loan association, the contract must be shown to be a building and loan contract, and not a simple loan to one not a member.[26] If the relation of corporation and stockholder is a mere fiction, entered into for the purpose of effecting a loan, the contract will be construed as a simple loan.[27]

963; Pacific States Sav., Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Green [C. C. A.] 123 F. 43. A contract requiring all payments to be made at the home office of the association in Virginia, held a Virginia contract. Columbian Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63. A bond and mortgage given to a Minnesota association, payable at its home office, is a contract of that state, though real estate security is located in Idaho. Lewis v. Clark [C. C. A.] 129 F. 570.

19. A loan by a Missouri corporation, negotiated with its agent in Kansas, bond and mortgage being executed in Kansas by residents thereof, and mortgage security being situate therein and payment being there made, is a Kansas contract. Royal Loan Ass'n v. Forter [Kan.] 75 P. 484. It was held in Michigan that where a loan made by a foreign corporation, secured by a mortgage on property in Michigan, the premiums being payable to a local agent therein, the contract will be governed by the laws of Michigan. Hoskins v. Rochester Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Mich.] 95 N. W. 566. And a contract executed in Nebraska, secured by mortgage on property in Nebraska, was held a Nebraska contract, though the association was incorporated in New York and had its main office there. People's Bldg. Loan & Sav. Ass'n v. Parish [Neb.] 96 N. W. 243. After insolvency of an association, where evidences of indebtedness have passed into the hands of strangers, the rights of a borrowing member will be governed by the law of his domicile, not the domicile of the association. Spinney v. Chapman, 121 Iowa, 38, 95 N. W. 230.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 394.

21. Missouri. Stanley v. Verity, 98 Mo. App. 632, 73 S. W. 727. Iowa. Bacon v. Iowa Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 121 Iowa, 449, 96 N. W. 977. The fact that one not a member becomes a surety for a member of an association, securing a loan, does not take the contract out of the statute permitting building and loan associations to charge rates of interest higher than the legal rate. Wife gave note and mortgage on her separate property, securing loan, her husband signing as surety. Wife was a member of the association, husband was not. Le Mars Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. McLain, 120 Iowa, 527, 94 N. W. 1122. Rev. St. Ohio, § 3836, exempting such associations from the usury laws, is constitutional. Brooklyn Bldg. & L. Ass'n Co. v. Desnoyers, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 337. Premiums and fines, when imposed by building associations, are not usury if reasonable. Spies v. Southern Ohio Loan & Trust Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 103. A contract of a borrowing member of an association held not inequitable, owing to character and purpose of the organization. Pacific States Sav. Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Green [C. C. A.] 123 F. 43. A contract whereby the borrowing member received $1,500 and agreed to pay 6% interest, and premiums amounting to $108 annually, and dues on the stock, profits being credited to the stock, held not so inequitable and unconscionable that it will not be enforced. Fidelity Sav. Ass'n v. Bank of Commerce [Wyo.] 75 P. 448.

22. Rooney v. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 119 Ga. 941, 47 S. E. 345.

23. Motes v. People's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 137 Ala. 369, 34 So. 344. The loan contract of a borrowing member is separate from his contract as a stockholder, and payments on stock are not to be treated as payments on the loan. Suit to rescind certain contracts with association. Bell v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 237. Even though premiums be regarded as additional interest on the loan, they are not invalid unless they violate some usury statute. Fidelity Sav. Ass'n v. Bank of Commerce [Wyo.] 75 P. 448.

24, 25. Rooney v. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 119 Ga. 941, 47 S. E. 345.

26. Royal Loan Ass'n v. Forter [Kan.] 75 P. 484.

27. All payments will be credited on the loan. Hence borrowing stockholder not estopped to claim such application of payments on the ground that if the claim had been made earlier, the moneys received would not have been disposed of as they were. Johnson v. Washington Nat. Bldg. Loan & Inv. Ass'n [Or.] 77 P. 872. For a loan of $500, a note for $714 was given, to be paid in monthly instalments of $8.40, $2.50 monthly being also payable as interest, stock being issued. American Mut. Bldg.

The statutes of many states exempting building association loans from the usury statutes provide for a system of competitive bidding to determine the premiums on loans.[28] The provisions of such statutes must be strictly followed in order to bring the contract within the protection furnished,[29] and, where they exist, the charging of premiums arbitrarily fixed in amount, renders the contract usurious.[30] But the mere existence of a by-law fixing a minimum premium will not render a loan usurious, if it was in fact made after free competition, and the premium bid was higher than the fixed minimum.[31] Where competitive bidding is not required, the statute may permit the borrower and association to agree on a premium rate in addition to interest,[32] sometimes limiting the total amount charged.[33]

In some jurisdictions, building and loan contracts are subject to the usury laws,[34] and where regarded as usurious, all payments are credited on the principal and interest of the loan,[35] and if the amount so paid is in excess of the principal & Sav. Ass'n v. Cornibe [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1026. An answer setting up in substance that a contract was a building and loan contract in form only, to evade the usury laws, was not subject to demurrer on the ground that it attempted to set up usury and failed to allege facts showing the contract was not privileged. National Bldg. Ass'n v. Quin [Ga.] 47 S. E. 962.

28. Competitive bidding for the premium to be paid for the preference of priority of loans is an essential feature of the building society plan, with which foreign corporations doing business in Florida must comply [Laws 1893, c. 4158]. Skinner v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Fla.] 35 So. 67.

29. A premium of 20%, and 8% on the face of the loan, the agreement being fixed in private and not by competitive bidding as required by statute, is usurious. Assets Realization Co. v. Wightman, 105 Ill. App. 618.

30. Where the statute required competitive bidding, an association by-law authorizing the secretary and cashier to make loans at a premium not less than the average for the last three months, is illegal; and premiums thereunder illegal. Mutual Home & Sav. Ass'n v. Worz, 67 Kan. 506, 73 P. 116. A foreign building and loan association cannot charge a fixed premium and interest on loans to members in Florida, the contract being one made in and governed by Florida laws. Skinner v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Fla.] 35 So. 67. A by-law of a building association which fixes a minimum premium, higher than the rate of interest allowed by statute, is inconsistent with the statute requiring loans to shareholders to be made upon competitive bidding, and renders any loan made in accordance with it usurious. McDonnell v. De Soto Sav. & Bldg. Ass'n, 175 Mo. 250, 75 S. W. 438; Kittredge v. Chillicothe Loan & Bldg. Ass'n [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 147. Premium being exacted without competitive bidding, as required by statute, but included in a note, the note was held usurious to that extent, and the premium applied on the note as of its date [Rev. St. 1889, §§ 2812, 2814; Rev. St. 1899, § 3709]. Lewis v. Farmers' Loan & Bldg. Ass'n [Mo.] 81 S. W. 887.

31. A borrower, who obtains, after competitive bidding, a loan at a premium in advance of the minimum fixed by the bylaws of the association, cannot take advantage of the minimum so fixed. Daily v. Saginaw Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Mich.] 95 N. W. 326; Kittredge v. Chillicothe Loan & Bldg. Ass'n [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 147.

32. Where an association deducted from the amount of a loan to a member, certain monthly instalments of dues, payable in advance, and required in addition monthly payments, including premiums payable periodically, such exaction of a double premium was held not to be permitted by Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 4463l, allowing the borrower and association to agree on a premium rate in addition to interest, without bidding. Coppes v. Union Nat. Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1022. Corporations created under Laws 1892, c. 689 may charge both interest and premiums. Coggeshall v. Sussman, 41 Misc. 384, 84 N. Y. S. 1097. A contract of a loan association incorporated under Laws 1851, c. 122, compelling a borrower to pay both interest and premiums, is not usurious. Roberts v. Murray, 40 Misc. 339, 81 N. Y. S. 1023.

33. A stipulation in the bond of a borrowing member that, on maturity of the stock, total payments of instalments, interest and premiums shall not exceed the amount of the loan with the highest interest allowed by statute, entitles the borrower to the benefit thereof only on maturity of the stock. Georgia State Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Grant [Miss.] 34 So. 84.

34. People's Bldg. Loan & Sav. Ass'n v. Parish [Neb.] 96 N. W. 243. In Nebraska, the usury laws apply to contracts made by foreign associations before the passage of statutes permitting them to do business in the state. A loan contract calling for interest and dues, $660 having been paid and $495 actually received, held usurious. Clarke v. Woodruff [Neb.] 100 N. W. 314. A loan association contract requiring fixed monthly payments of interest, premiums and dues until stock is fully paid up is usurious. Harper v. Middle States Loan, Bldg. & Const. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 817. Such a contract is usurious because such payments are payable for an indefinite period. Prince v. Holston Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 708.

35. Prince v. Holston Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 708. In Utah, it and interest, the excess may be recovered,[36] in the absence of a statute to the contrary.[37] But it has been held that one who voluntarily pays usurious interest cannot recover any part thereof, in an action at law, but if the payment of such interest was induced by fraud, a suit in equity will lie.[38]

A valid compromise may be made of an alleged usurious debt.[39] A grantee of property mortgaged to secure a debt to an association, usurious as to an illegal premium, who knows nothing of the premium, which is not mentioned in the mortgage, may set up the usury against the association.[40] In an action to cancel a lien and declare a debt usurious, the court properly decreed cancellation of the stock given by defendant association, under the prayer for other and further relief.[41]

(§ 3) C. Accounting with borrower while solvent.[42]—A borrowing member of a going concern is only chargeable with his loan and legal interest, and should be credited with all payments, whether made as dues, premiums or interest,[43] and with the withdrawal value of his stock at the time he received the loan,[44] together with the dividends earned previous to the association's insolvency.[45] The value is held that borrowing members are entitled to have monthly payments of dues and premiums credited on the loan. Hiskey v. Pacific States Sav., Loan & Bldg. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 20. In Oregon, building and loan association contracts calling for interest, premiums and dues are held usurious as to all payments in excess of the stipulated rate of interest, and such payments in excess are applied in extinguishment of the debt and interest. Contract called for 6% interest annually, 6% annual premium, and $9.75 per month on 15 shares of stock pledged to secure the loan. Epping v. Washington Nat. Bldg., Loan & Inv. Ass'n [Or.] 74 P. 923.

36. Harper v. Middle States Loan, Bldg. & Const. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 817.

37. Contract being usurious, the receiver could recover only the principal, after deducting all payments made, neither costs nor interest being in such case recoverable [Rev. St. 1893, § 1390]. Carpenter v. Lewis, 65 S. C. 400, 43 S. E. 881.

38. Action to recover payments made to an association represented to be a mutual building association. Beach v. Guaranty Sav. & Loan Ass'n [Or.] 76 P. 16.

39. Association claimed debt valid under Minnesota law and borrower claimed it usurious under Kentucky law. Gray v. U. S. Sav. & Loan Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1120, 77 S. W. 200.

40. Lewis v. Farmers' Loan & Bldg. Ass'n [Mo.] 81 S. W. 887.

41. American Mut. Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n v. Carnibe [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1026. In an action to cancel a lien and declare a debt usurious, evidence connecting the person effecting the loan with a building and loan association, defendant, was admissible. Id.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 398-400.

43. National Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Frisbie, 25 Ky. L. R. 449, 76 S. W. 7; Yager v. National Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 25 Ky. L. R. 1853, 79 S. W. 197. Where by-laws provided for payment of 50 cents a month on each $100 of money borrowed, and a bond securing a loan, provided for a premium of 50 cents a month on each share of stock, the face value of which was $100, held, such payments under the bond should be treated as premiums by a borrowing member as such, and not dues on the stock. Miller v. Wayne International Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 180. Held, under a provision in the bond of a borrowing member, as to final settlement, he was to be charged with the amount actually advanced him, with interest at 8 per cent, and credited with instalments on stock and interest paid. Interstate Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Edgefield Hotel Co., 120 F. 422. But not with premiums for insurance on mortgaged premises. Alexander v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 120 F. 963. A provision of a by-law that where a contract is governed by statutes limiting the amount of premium and interest, only so much of the premiums will be taken as profits, as will, with interest, amount to the highest interest rate there allowed, the balance of premiums being used in settlement in reduction of the debt, means that the benefit allowed can be taken advantage of only on final settlement, after maturity of the stock. Georgia State Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Grant [Miss.] 34 So. 84. Applicant to a loan association for a loan of $40,000 was told that under the rules of the association as to fees, dues, etc., the initial payment would be $1,000. He accepted $39,000. Held, in suit to foreclose mortgage, the $1,000 payment was voluntary and defendant was not entitled to any credit therefor. State Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. O'Callaghan [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 496.

44. Interstate Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Holland, 65 S. C. 448, 43 S. E. 978. Upon winding up the affairs of an association, it is competent for the stockholders to determine the liability of a borrowing member by making a final estimate of the value of the stock and deducting this from the amount of his indebtedness. Star Loan Ass'n v. Moore [Del. Super.] 55 A. 946. But a payment of an amount so determined is not a discharge of the debtor, unless the estimate of the value of the stock is final, and not to be changed by subsequent disposition of property. Id.

45. Where a stockholder institutes a suit to pay off a loan and withdraw while the association is a going concern, his right to be credited with the value of his pledged of stock, surrendered to be credited on a loan, is determined by the assets and liabilities of the association at the time of the surrender, and not by the amount paid thereon.[46] A member is bound by by-laws fixing the withdrawal value of his stock, if such by-laws do not contravene any law.[47] A tender by a borrowing member, before the voluntary liquidation of the association, renders him liable only for his loan and interest, and not for losses, and entitles him to credit for all payments.[48] A borrowing member is not entitled to have credited on his loan admission fees, stock dues, and fines, paid before he became a borrower.[49] A borrowing member seeking to have his contract declared usurious cannot be credited, on the loan, with fines, withdrawal fees, and amounts paid on expense accounts as a stockholder.[50] Where a borrowing member has a final settlement with the association, while solvent, he may recover thereafter for usury paid the association, and is not chargeable with losses accruing after such final settlement.[51] Notice of settlement and withdrawal may be waived.[52] A withdrawing stockholder should be charged with interest on the full amount of the loan, since the deductions of premium, being illegal, were credited on the loan.[53] In Iowa, a borrower is charged with the full amount of the loan received by him, together with delinquent dues, interest, premium, and fines, and credited with the withdrawal value of the pledged stock, but no greater recovery can be had against him than the net amount of the principal actually received, with interest thereon at a rate not greater than twelve per cent.[54] After completed settlement and withdrawal, it is immaterial whether the contract was one which the association had power to make.[55]

(§ 3) D. Accounting after insolvency.[56]—Insolvency works a rescission of the contract between the association and its members, and loans made by it become stock and dividends, at the time he demanded a settlement, is not affected by the subsequent insolvency of the association. Reitz v. Hayward, 100 Mo. App. 216, 73 S. W. 374. A borrowing member, having pledged stock as collateral, was permitted, in a suit to foreclose a trust deed, to recover the difference between the principal of the note and the value of his paid-up stock and accumulated profits. Western Loan & Sav. Co. v. Garff [Utah] 75 P. 375.

46. Peal v. Citizens' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n's Assignee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1084, 77 S. W. 932. The credit to be allowed a withdrawing member, repaying his loan, on his pledged stock, is computed according to the actual value of the stock at the time of settlement. Reitz v. Hayward, 100 Mo. App. 216, 73 S. W. 374.

47. A deduction from first stock payment for reserve fund is not violative of Civ. Code, § 634, limiting an entrance fee to a smaller sum. Provident Mut. Bldg.-Loan Ass'n v. Davis [Cal.] 76 P. 1034.

48. National Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Frisbie, 25 Ky. L. R. 449, 76 S. W. 7.

49. Interstate Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Holland, 65 S. C. 448, 43 S. E. 978.

50. Georgia State Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Grant [Miss.] 34 So. 84.

51. Olliges v. Kentucky Citizens' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n's Assignee, 24 Ky. L. R. 1954, 72 S. W. 747.

52, 53. Reitz v. Hayward, 100 Mo. App. 216, 73 S. W. 374.

54. Bacon v. Iowa Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 121 Iowa, 449, 96 N. W. 977. In a suit to foreclose a mortgage securing a bond, which provided a greater rate of interest than 12%, the amount due was the amount received on the loan, with interest at 12%, less the withdrawal value of the stock, and interest already paid. Iowa Cent. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Klock [Iowa] 94 N. W. 1120.

55. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751.

56. NOTE. Effect of insolvency on borrowing members: The contract made by a borrowing member with the association is to the effect that he will pay dues, premiums, and fines, and that he will repay his loan as provided for in the note or other evidence of indebtedness given by him. Since, when an association becomes insolvent, a realization of the aims of the association and the expectations of members becomes impossible, the courts treat the contract as rescinded or terminated by insolvency, and refuse to enforce the obligations of the borrowing member thereunder, or enforce them in a manner equitable to borrowing and nonborrowing members alike. Low St. Bldg. Ass'n v. Zucker, 48 Md. 448; Knutsen v. Northwestern Loan & Bldg. Ass'n, 67 Minn. 201, 69 N. W. 889; Strohen v. Franklin Sav. Fund & Loan etc. Ass'n, 115 Pa. 273, 8 A. 843. Thus, after insolvency, neither the corporation nor its receiver can enforce subsequently accruing liabilities for dues or premiums. Curtis v. Granite State Provident Ass'n, 69 Conn. 6, 36 A. 1023. Low St. Bldg. Ass'n v. Zucker, 48 Md. 448. Loans become immediately due and collectible upon insolvency. Curtis v. Granite State Provident Ass'n, 69 Conn. 6, 36 A. 1023; Strauss v. Carolina Inter-State Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 117 N. C. 308, 23 S. E. 450, 53 Am. St. Rep. 585. In allowing credit upon the loan made to a borrowing member, the theory of the cases is to place borrowing and nonborrowat once due and payable, regardless of the terms of the contract.[57] The borrower is charged with the amount of his loan with interest.[58] Payments actually made, referable to the loan,[59] such as interest and premiums,[60] are credited thereon; but payments on the stock, such as dues, cannot be credited on a member's loan,[61] since credit therefor can be given only after final distribution by the receiver,[62] when all shareholders, borrowing and nonborrowing, will be paid pro rata from the fund for final distribution.[63] On final settlement, the borrowing member is entitled to be credited only with the actual value of his stock, not its face value.[64] Where a shareholder, after notice of withdrawal, borrows a sum less than the withdrawal value of his stock, he cannot, in an action by the receiver after insolvency to recover the loan, offset the withdrawal value of his stock.[65] After insolvency, caused by no fault of a borrowing member, the latter is not chargeable ing members on the same terms as stockholders. Consequently, the borrowing member, after insolvency, cannot be credited with dues on stock, since this would amount to a withdrawal, to the prejudice of nonborrowing members and creditors. The borrowing member, after insolvency, is therefore charged with the sum actually received on his loan, and interest thereon, and credited with all payments made as a borrower, but not credited with sums paid as a stockholder. Curtis v. Granite State Provident Ass'n, 69 Conn. 6, 36 A. 1023; Hekelnkaemper v. German Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 22 Kan. 549; Rogers v. Rains, 18 Ky. L. R. 768, 38 S. W. 483; Strohen v. Franklin Sav. Fund & Loan Ass'n, 115 Pa. 273, 8 A. 843. It has been held in Illinois, however, that the borrowing member should not be credited with premiums. Choisser v. Young, 69 Ill. App. 252; Towle v. American Bldg., Loan & Inv. Soc., 61 F. 446. In Maryland, the borrowing member is charged with interest at the legal rate only, and not the rate charged in the note and mortgage. Windsor v. Bandel, 40 Md. 172; Waverly Mut., etc. Ass'n v. Buck, 64 Md. 338, 1 A. 561. In North and South Carolina, the borrowing member is credited with all payments, including dues on the stock. Strauss v. Carolina Inter-State Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 117 N. C. 308, 23 S. E. 450, 53 Am. St. Rep. 585; Buist v. Bryan, 44 S. C. 121, 21 S. E. 537, 51 Am. St. Rep. 787.—From note to Curtis v. Granite State Provident Ass'n [Conn.] 61 Am. St. Rep. 24. See 1 Curr. L. 400.

57. Lewis v. Clark [C. C. A.] 129 F. 570. After a building and loan association has become insolvent and passed into the hands of a receiver, the borrowing member's obligation will be regarded as a simple loan, upon which payments actually made, except stock payments, will be credited, and the balance will be regarded as a debt at once due and payable. Spinney v. Chapman, 121 Iowa, 38, 95 N. W. 230. But premiums agreed to be paid cannot be charged against the borrower. Roberts v. Murray, 40 Misc. 339, 81 N. Y. S. 1023.

58. In settling a debt of a borrowing member to an insolvent building and loan association, interest at 6% is computed on the sum actually received and all payments are credited on the loan. Carman v. Carrico, 25 Ky. L. R. 2143, 80 S. W. 216. Upon foreclosure of a mortgage against a member after insolvency, the mortgagor should be charged with the amount of his loan, with interest, and credited with interest paid and interest on the installments of interest. Monier v. Clarke [N. M.] 75 P. 35. The interest chargeable on the loan should be at the legal rate, where the contract was made. 7% on Minnesota contract. Id. In Nebraska, a loan contract being usurious, the borrower, in foreclosure suit by receiver, was held only for amount actually received. Clarke v. Woodruff [Neb.] 100 N. W. 314.

59. The loan and stock contracts of a borrowing member are separate and distinct; and in the final accounting after insolvency all payments referable to the loan contract should be credited thereon. Riggs v. Capital Brick Co., 128 F. 491.

60. Steele v. New Park City Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 24 Ky. L. R. 2303, 74 S. W. 177. And for usurious premiums and interest thereon. Gary v. Verity, 101 Mo. App. 586, 74 S. W. 161. In foreclosure suit after insolvency, the borrower is chargeable with the amount of his loan, with interest, and credited with interest and premiums paid applied according to rule of partial payments. Riggs v. Capital Brick Co., 128 F. 491.

61. Sleeper v. Winkel, 122 F. 736; Peal v. Citizens' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n's Assignee, 25 Ky. L. R. 685, 76 S. W. 332; Yager v. National Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 25 Ky. L. R. 1853, 79 S. W. 197. In foreclosure suit after insolvency a borrowing member cannot have dues and premiums credited on the loan. Roberts v. Cronk, 88 N. Y. S. 103.

62. Roberts v. Murray, 40 Misc. 339, 81 N. Y. S. 1023.

63. Steele v. New Park City Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 24 Ky. L. R. 2303, 74 S. W. 177; Gary v. Verity, 101 Mo. App. 586, 74 S. W. 161. After the debts of an insolvent association have been paid, a borrowing member is entitled to a pro rata dividend with nonborrowing members on the stock. Monier v. Clarke [N. M.] 75 P. 35.

64. Ottensoser v. Scott [Fla.] 37 So. 161. In a suit by an assignee of claims against a borrowing member of an insolvent association, which had passed into the hands of a receiver, such debtor was credited with payments of interest and premiums and with the actual value of his stock, and charged with interest at 6% from the time the receiver was appointed, on the balance found due. Spinney v. Chapman, 121 Iowa, 38, 95 N. W. 230.

65. Gaskill v. Polhemus [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1048.

with earned premium, bid by him for priority of loan and deducted from the sum loaned.[66]

§ 4. Termination and insolvency. Voluntary liquidation.[67]—An association may go into voluntary liquidation and so defeat the right of a borrowing member to a settlement with it as a going concern.[68] Under a statute permitting corporations to go into voluntary liquidation by the written consent of the owners of a majority of the stock, a pleading setting up such liquidation of a building and loan association must allege that a resolution to go into liquidation was passed with the consent required by law.[69]

Receivership.[70]—A mere debtor of an association cannot maintain a bill to wind up its affairs and distribute its assets.[71] A borrowing member of an association cannot in a single bill in equity ask, as debtor, that his stock be declared illegal and his obligation on the loan canceled for usury, and also, as stockholder, ask to have the business of the association wound up and its assets distributed.[72] Upon the appointment of a receiver of an insolvent association, its business ceases and nothing remains but liquidation.[73] To authorize the court to enter judgment directing a receiver to proceed with winding up the affairs of the association, the report of the receiver must be reasonably certain and definite as to assets and liabilities of the association, and probable cost of settling.[74] Before judgment may be entered winding up the affairs of the association, proof must be heard on contested questions of fact raised by shareholders' exceptions to the receiver's report.[75] Only reasonable diligence is required of a receiver.[76]

Insolvency[77] of a building and loan association consists of its inability to perform the purposes for which it was created.[78] Insolvency is always a question of fact and is never presumed.[79] Mere deficiency of assets does not constitute insolvency, but merely a loss of capital stock and security, and depreciation of stock held by the members.[80] Payments on stock are liabilities in determining solvency.[81]

Rights of withdrawing shareholders.[82]—The directors of a building and loan association cannot require a member to withdraw his investment, except in pur-

66. Authorities pro and con cited. Ottensoser v. Scott [Fla.] 37 So. 161.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 403.

68, 69. Yager v. National Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 25 Ky. L. R. 1853, 79 S. W. 197.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 402.

71. Day v. Nat. Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 53 W. Va. 550, 44 S. E. 779.

72. Bill dismissed for multifariousness. Day v. Nat. Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 53 W. Va. 550, 44 S. E. 779.

73. Monier v. Clarke [N. M.] 75 P. 35.

74, 75. Steele v. New Park City Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 24 Ky. L. R. 2303, 74 S. W. 177.

76. Laws 1902, c. 60, § 3, requiring the receiver of a building association to "proceed immediately" to convert assets into cash, requires only reasonable diligence and speed, and does not require a sacrifice of the assets. People v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 41 Misc. 363, 84 N. Y. S. 844.

77. See 1 Curr. L. 402.

78. Lewis v. Clark [C. C. A.] 129 F. 570.

79, 80. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751.

81. So an association incorporated under Laws 1851, c. 122 is insolvent when unable to repay contributions of members for stock. People v. New York Bldg. Loan Banking Co., 41 Misc. 363, 84 N. Y. S. 844.

82. NOTE. Withdrawal: The rules of building and loan associations usually provide that stockholders may withdraw, on giving the proper notice, and that their claims will be paid in the order in which such notices mature. The status of a member after giving notice of withdrawal is the subject of much dispute. It has been held that on compliance with the conditions of a withdrawal, a shareholder becomes a creditor of the association and is no longer a member. Englehardt v. Fifth Ward, etc. Ass'n, 5 Misc. 518, 25 N. Y. S. 835; Id., 148 N. Y. 281, 42 N. E. 710, 35 L. R. A. 289; In re Norwich & N. Provident Bldg. Soc., 45 Law J. Ch. [N. S.] 785; U. S. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Silverman, 85 Pa. 394; Maloney v. Real Estate, Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 57 Mo. App. 384. But most cases indicate that membership may continue for some purposes after notice of withdrawal has been given. Thus it was held that their claims are very different from those of general outside creditors. Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. 184. See, also, Sibun v. Pearce, 44 Ch. Div. 354, 63 Law T. [N. S.] 123; Walker v. General Mut. Bldg. Soc., 36 Ch. Div. 777, 57 Law T. [N. S.] 574.

Rights of withdrawing members when association is insolvent: According to the English doctrine, members whose notices of withdrawal have matured before the date of a deed of dissolution, or order to wind up the affairs of the association, are entitled to priority over other members, but not suance of a valid by-law.[83] A borrowing member of an association who gives notice of withdrawal does not become ipso facto a creditor of the association for the withdrawal value of his shares, or for the excess thereof over his indebtedness, so as to exempt his stock from its share of the general indebtedness.[84] A member who withdraws at a time when the association is in fact, though not notoriously, insolvent, no legal steps having been taken to wind up its affairs, has only the right to a pro rata share in the distribution of assets, not the right of a creditor.[85] The fact that an agreement was made between the association and the withdrawing member, compromising the latter's claim, does not change the rule.[86] But where a stockholder serves notice of withdrawal of stock, in accordance with the constitution and by-laws, and the claim, though persisted in, is not paid, such claim, after insolvency and receivership of the association, becomes a preferred one.[87] Where a member of a building and loan association has made full settlement and withdrawn therefrom, such settlement and withdrawal cannot be set aside by the association without a showing of fraud or bad faith.[88]

BUILDINGS AND BUILDING RESTRICTIONS.

§ 1. Public Regulation (572).
§ 2. Private Regulation. Restrictive Covenants (574).
§ 3. Liability for Unsafe Condition of Premises (576).
§ 4. Liability for Negligent Operation of Elevators (576).

§ 1. Public regulation.[89]—An ordinance prohibiting construction does not over outside creditors of the association. Barnard v. Tomson [1894] 1 Ch. 374; Walton v. Edge, 10 App. Cas. 33, 54 Law J. Ch. [N. S.] 362, 52 Law T. [N. S.] 666; In re Middlesbrough, R. S. & C. Dist. Permanent Ben. Bldg. Soc., 53 Law T. [N. S.] 203. But there is no such right of priority, when at the time of giving or maturity of such notices, the association was known to be insolvent. In re Sunderland 36th Universal Bldg. Soc., 24 Q. B. Div. 394.

The American cases adopt a different doctrine and hold that when an association is in fact insolvent, a withdrawing member has the right to a pro rata share only, even though he believed the association solvent when he gave his notice. Chapman v. Young, 65 Ill. App. 131. An order for the amount of his claim does not make him a general creditor. Christian's Appeal, 102 Pa. 184; In re National Sav. Loan & Bldg. Ass'n's Estate, 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. 79. A judgment for the amount of his claims cannot be enforced by execution so as to cut out creditors or stockholders, but may stand as the basis on which to compute his pro rata share on final distribution. Hanney v. Enterprise Sav. Fund & Bldg. Ass'n, 16 Wkly. Notes Cas. 450. See 1 Curr. L. 402.

83. A by-law permitting the directors to require the withdrawal of a member, to be designated at their pleasure, such selection not being based on any equitable principle or rule of general application, is invalid and inoperative as to one who was a member when the by-law was passed. Ottawa Mut. Loan & Sav. Ass'n v. Merriman, 67 Kan. 779, 74 P. 256.

84. Coggeshall v. McGrath, 89 N. Y. S. 334. A member, appearing as a claimant upon the estate of an insolvent association, "upon the ground of his stock interest, is to be treated as a member, and not as a creditor." Walker v. Terry, 138 Ala. 428, 35 So. 466.

85. Colin v. Wellford [Va.] 46 S. E. 780. It is immaterial that the fact of insolvency was not known to the shareholder. Reitz v. Hayward, 100 Mo. App. 216, 73 S. W. 374.

86. Colin v. Wellford [Va.] 46 S. E. 780.

87. Silvers v. Merchants' & M. Sav. Fund & Bldg. Ass'n [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 294.

88. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751.

89. NOTE. Validity of regulations: Building restrictions being justifiable only as an exercise of the police power (as to which see Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. L. 576 and Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 967), they must not only be designed to serve some end of public welfare, but must be reasonable in their character. Thus requirement of a building permit is usually sustained (Hasty v. Huntington, 105 Ind. 540, 5 N. E. 559), but arbitrary power to deny the same must not be vested in the officer charged with their issuance (Bostock v. Sams, 95 Md. 400, 52 A. 665, 93 Am. St. Rep. 394 [with note]; City of Sioux Falls v. Kirby, 6 S. D. 62, 60 N. W. 156; State v. Tenant, 110 N. C. 609, 14 S. E. 387).

To sustain a regulation as to the height of buildings a very clear case of public necessity must appear. Parker v. Com., 178 Mass. 199, 59 N. E. 634.

Requirement of noncombustible materials within reasonable fire limits is generally sustained. Canepa v. Birmingham, 92 Ala. 358, 9 So. 180; Ex parte Fiske, 72 Cal. 125, 13 P. 310; Ford v. Thralkill, 84 Ga. 169, 10 S. E. 600; King v. Davenport, 98 Ill. 305; First Nat. Bank v. Sarlls, 129 Ind. 201, 28 N. E. 434; City of Salem v. Maynes, 123 Mass. 372; Alexander v. Greenville, 54 Miss. 659; Hubbard v. Medford, 20 Or. 315, 25 P. 640; Klingler v. Bickel, 117 Pa. 326, 11 A. 555; Brady v. N. W. Ins. Co., 11 Mich. 425; State v. Johnson, 114 N. C. 846, 19 S. E. 599. As have regulations requiring fire escapes (Arms v. Ayer, 192 Ill.

prohibit repair,[90] but under a statute prohibiting enlarging of buildings, no substantial change will be permitted.[91] A city council cannot be vested with discriminatory power in granting building permits,[92] nor can it deny lawful permits,[93] nor forbid the erection of a negro church on the ground that it is a nuisance,[94] nor during the life of a general ordinance, cancel a building permit granted in conformity with its provisions.[95] The inadvertent omission of a word in a permit will not be allowed to negative the authority therein granted.[96] Increased danger of fire and general depreciation of value of neighboring property are not grounds for injunctive relief against the erection of a building.[97] A city granting a building permit does not render itself liable for the negligent act of the builder.[98]

The supervision of construction of buildings by public authorities is regulated by statute.[99]

A certificate issued by the building inspector that a statute relative to fire escapes has been complied with relates to the building and is available to succeeding owners;[1] it is conclusive as to compliance, and relieves the owner from any liability,[2] but it must affirmatively appear that inspection has been made.[3] The 601, 61 N. E. 861; Willy v. Mulledy, 78 N. Y. 316; Scbott v. Harvey, 105 Pa. 222); or the maintenance of water closets, sewers, etc. (Sprigg v. Garrett Park, 89 Md. 406, 43 A. 813; Com. v. Roberts, 155 Mass. 281, 29 N. E. 522); or the maintenance of a water supply on each floor of a tenement building (Health Dept. v. Rector, 145 N. Y. 32, 39 N. E. 833).

Regulations for the public health or safety may be made applicable to buildings in existence at the time of the enactment. Com. v. Roberts, 155 Mass. 281, 29 N. E. 522; Health Dept. v. Rector, 145 N. Y. 32, 39 N. E. 833.—From note to Bostock v. Sams, 95 Md. 400, 52 A. 665, 93 Am. St. Rep. 394. See 1 Curr. L. 404.

90. That no building shall be "constructed or reconstructed" except of incombustible material does not prohibit the repair of wooden buildings [Ordinance No. 907, city of Bradford]. Contas v. Bradford, 206 Pa. 291, 55 A. 989.

91. Under Stat. 1900, c. 321, requiring buildings erected or enlarged for use as a hotel to be of first class construction, the term "enlarged" would embrace a carrying up of the walls of a building with a slanting roof, though the height of the roof was not changed. Murdock v. Swasey, 183 Mass. 573, 67 N. E. 671.

92. An ordinance giving the common council discriminatory power to issue building permits or to determine when a structure is injurious to the reasonable enjoyment of adjacent owners is unconstitutional. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

93. Ky. St. 1899, § 3290 sought to prevent erection of a negro church. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

94. Ky. St. § 3290. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

95. Gallagher v. Flury [Md.] 57 A. 672.

96. The word "stable" in a permit for "carriage house, stable and coal shed." Gallagher v. Flury [Md.] 57 A. 672.

97. A stable. It will not be presumed that filth will be allowed to accumulate. Gallagher v. Flury [Md.] 57 A. 672. The proximity of such buildings is an incident of city life. Id.

98. Material dropping on pedestrians in the street below. Copeland v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 415, 74 P. 582.

99. The fact that the public buildings law of New York makes it the duty of the state architect to prepare plans for state buildings and exact construction in conformity thereto does not take public buildings from the operation of the law requiring descriptions and drawings of plumbing and drainage of public and private buildings in New York City to be filed in the department of buildings and approved by the superintendent of buildings before work is commenced thereon [Laws 1896, p. 1055, c. 803, § 5. Public Buildings Law, § 8, as amended by Laws 1902, p. 579, c. 212]. City of New York v. Burleson Hardware Co., 89 App. Div. 222, 85 N. Y. S. 763.

Laws 1897, c. 415, as amended by Laws 1899, c. 192, requires contractors to floor buildings under construction to within three stories below the one under construction, where the filling between the floors is to be of fireproof material, otherwise within two stories. Holzman v. Katzman, 87 N. Y. S. 478.

Under charter 1901, one building a tenement house, is not required to leave an open area or vault in front of it, so digging a vault without written permission is a voluntary construction, and is a violation of Laws 1895, c. 567. City of New York v. Madison Ave. Real Estate Co., 42 Misc. 535, 85 N. Y. S. 1118.

1. P. L. 1879, 128. Bonbright v. Schoettler [C. C. A.] 127 F. 320.

Note. A master is not required to furnish fire escapes (Jones v. Granite Mills, 126 Mass. 84; Schwandner v. Birge, 33 Hun [N. Y.] 186), unless required by statute (Willy v. Mulledy, 78 N. Y. 314; McLaughlin v. Armfield, 58 Hun [N. Y.] 376, 12 N. Y. S. 164; Lee v. Smith, 42 Ohio St. 458; Schott v. Harvey, 105 Pa. 222; Keely v. O'Conner, 106 Pa. 321; Pauley v. Steam Gauge & L. Co., 131 N. Y. 90, 29 N. E. 999, 42 N. Y. St. Rep. 636; Rose v. King [Ohio] and note 15 L. R. A. 160). Failure to construct fire escape must be the cause of the injury (Weeks v. McNulty, 101 Tenn. 495, 48 S. W. 809, 43 L. R. A. 185).

2. Damages or penalty. Bonbright v. Schoettler [C. C. A.] 127 F. 320. A fire superintendent of buildings of New York City, and not the state factory inspector, has exclusive jurisdiction in regard to fire escapes on factories within the city.[4] Under the statute forbidding the obstruction of passageways in theaters by persons occupying them during a performance, a manager is liable for the penalty imposed when he permits people to stand in the space necessarily used as a passageway by those entering through a side entrance.[5]

§ 2. Private regulation. Restrictive covenants.[6]—Restrictive covenants run escape that was sufficient under Act 1879 (P. L. 128), is sufficient under Act 1885 (P. L. 68). Id. P. L. 128, providing that "nothing in this act shall interfere with fire escapes now in use and approved," does not relieve an owner from providing the number of fire escapes required by the act. Snyder v. Bonbright, 123 F. 817.

3. Certificate of inspection of ropes and chains no proof of inspection of stairways. Snyder v. Bonbright, 123 F. 817.

4. History of legislation on subject reviewed. City of New York v. Trustees of Sailors' Snug Harbor, 85 App. Div. 355, 83 N. Y. S. 442.

5. Laws 1897, pp. 263, 272, c. 378 (Charter §§ 762, 773). Sturgis v. Hayman, 84 N. Y. S. 126.

6. NOTE. Building restrictions in deeds: The purpose of these is generally to prevent the erection of such buildings as will impair the value of the residue of the land belonging to the grantor or conveyed to others. So long as the restriction is reasonable and in accord with public policy, no valid objection to it is discernible. These restrictions assume various forms. Some of them are directed toward the height, material, or value of buildings that may be constructed on the land conveyed. See Quatman v. McCray, 128 Cal. 285, 60 P. 856; Hobson v. Cartwright, 93 Ky. 368, 20 S. W. 281; Keening v. Ayling, 126 Mass. 404; Frink v. Hughes [Mich.] 94 N. W. 601; Clark v. Martin, 49 Pa. 289. Others place limitations on the building line, requiring that no building shall be located less than a certain specified distance from the street or approach to within a certain distance of the boundary of the land. See Ewertsen v. Gerstenberg, 186 Ill. 344, 57 N. E. 1051; Herrick v. Marshall, 66 Me. 435; Linzee v. Mixer, 101 Mass. 512; Att'y Gen. v. Gardiner, 117 Mass. 492; Sanborn v. Rice, 129 Mass. 387; Nowell v. Boston Academy, 130 Mass. 209; Payson v. Burnham, 141 Mass. 547, 6 N. E. 708; Hamlen v. Werner, 144 Mass. 396, 11 N. E. 684; Att'y Gen. v. Ayer, 148 Mass. 584, 20 N. E. 451; Att'y Gen. v. Algonquin Club, 153 Mass. 447, 27 N. E. 2; Smith v. Bradley, 154 Mass. 227, 28 N. E. 14; In re Welsh, 175 Mass. 68, 55 N. E. 1043; Best v. Nagle, 182 Mass. 495; 65 N. E. 842; Sutcliffe v. Eisele, 62 N. J. Eq. 222, 50 A. 69. A piazza attached to a house, whether covered by its own roof or by an extension of the roof of the house, if it projects beyond the line prescribed, violates the restriction or condition against the construction of buildings nearer than a specified distance from the street. Bagnall v. Davies, 140 Mass. 76, 2 N. E. 786; Reardon v. Murphy, 163 Mass. 501, 40 N. E. 854. So does a bay window, one story high and built up from the foundation wall (Kirkpatrick v. Peshine, 24 N. J. Eq. 206), and a porch built upon brick foundations, roofed and permanently attached to the whole front of the house (Ogontz Land & Imp. Co. v. Johnson, 168 Pa. 178, 31 A. 1008). Compare Hawes v. Favor, 161 Ill. 440, 43 N. E. 1076; Graham v. Hite, 93 Ky. 474, 20 S. W. 506. Others forbid the erection of any other buildings on the land conveyed, except dwelling houses and the necessary outbuildings. See Duncan v. Cent. Pass. R. Co., 85 Ky. 525, 4 S. W. 228; Hopkins v. Smith, 162 Mass. 444, 38 N. E. 1122; Fuller v. Arms, 45 Vt. 400. Such conditions or restrictions are violated by putting up a tent, fitted up with a stove and furniture, to be lived in in the daytime temporarily in the summer (Blakemore v. Stanley, 159 Mass. 6, 33 N. E. 689); or by using a portion of the building for a grocery or a meat and vegetable store (Dorr v. Harrahan, 101 Mass. 531, 3 Am. Rep. 398; Cornish v. Wiessman, 56 N. J. Eq. 610, 35 A. 408); or by converting a dwelling into a public eating house (Parker v. Nightingale, 6 Allen [Mass.] 341, 83 Am. Dec. 632); or by carrying on a photograph gallery (Frink v. Hughes [Mich.] 94 N. W. 601). And a condition that only one single dwelling house shall be erected is broken by the erection of a building containing several tenements designed for separate families. Gillis v. Bailey, 17 N. H. 18, 21 N. H. 149. And a condition that no dwelling house should contain more than two tenements, or be constructed for more than two families is broken by the erection of a building with capacity for three families. Ivarson v. Mulvey, 179 Mass. 141, 60 N. E. 477. A condition that the property shall be used for residence purposes only does not prohibit the building of an apartment house, with flats, each complete for housekeeping, but with a large dining room for the use of such occupants as desire it instead of their private dining rooms. McMurtry v. Phillips Inv. Co., 19 Ky. L. R. 2021, 45 S. W. 96. If a building is maintained as a single dwelling house, but is used also as a private institution for the treatment of persons suffering from the liquor and kindred habits, who are boarded and lodged there during treatment, a restriction in the deed conveying the land, that no building other than one single dwelling house shall be maintained on the lot, is not violated. Stone v. Pillsbury, 167 Mass. 332, 45 N. E. 768.

Effect of change in neighborhood: When the conditions of cities greatly change, it is not for the interest of the community that restrictions put upon land in reference to the quiet of residential streets should continue, when the neighborhood is entirely given up to business, unless they are so expressed as plainly to be binding. Boston Baptist Social Union v. Trustees of Boston University, 183 Mass. 202, 66 N. E. 714. If the purpose of restrictive covenants inserted in a conveyance is to make the locality a with the land[7] and are strictly construed.[8] Nothing will be regarded as a violation thereof that is not in plain disregard of its terms;[9] thus, a covenant against the erection of tenement houses does not forbid the erection of a modern apartment house,[10] nor does a covenant against the erection of a building restrict the erection of a wall.[11] A restrictive covenant in a lease is not violated by a subletting for the forbidden use.[12] They will not be enforced against trivial violations, especially where there has been a substantial violation which has been allowed to remain unmolested;[13] they are terminated when the occasion for them ceases,[14] and are waived by a failure to enforce them,[15] but not by making a more favorable covenant to subsequent grantee of lots in same plat,[16] nor by accepting payment of rent.[17] That restrictive conditions may be available to other grantees of lots in the same plat, a general scheme whereby restrictions were to apply to all the lots must be shown,[18] and such a covenant cannot be enforced by one not an owner within the plat.[19] A covenant which does not pass any estate may be a general scheme which when acted upon will be binding on those joining therein,[20] and a grantee suitable one for residence, but owing to the general growth of the city and the present use of the whole neighborhood for business, this purpose can no longer be accomplished, no matter how rigidly the restriction is enforced, it is oppressive and inequitable to give effect to it, and equity will not enjoin its violation, though when there is no remedy at law the bill may be retained for the purpose of assessing damages. Jackson v. Stevenson, 156 Mass. 496, 31 N. E. 691, 32 Am. St. Rep. 476. See too Roth v. Jung, 79 App. Div. 1, 79 N. Y. S. 822. Equity will refuse to enforce a covenant not to devote a certain property to business purposes where there bas been such a change in the character of the neighborhood by the building of an elevated railway and the increase of business houses, as to defeat the object of the agreement, and render it inequitable to deprive the owner of the privilege of using his property as its surroundings required. Trustees of Columbia College v. Thacher, 87 N. Y. 311, 41 Am. Rep. 365. And so where there is a covenant against the erection of cheap buildings, if conditions so change that only such buildings are suited to the vicinity, the covenant will not be enforced. Page v. Murray, 46 N. J. Eq. 325, 19 A. 11.—From note to Wakefield v. Van Tassel, 95 Am. St. Rep. 208. See 1 Curr. L. 404.

7. A condition that a deed shall be void if intoxicants are sold on the premises. Jetter v. Lyon [Neb.] 97 N. W. 596. Covenant in a lease against selling liquor. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Green [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

8. That nothing but a dwelling house should be erected south of the railroad track. Later the track was moved farther north. The covenant did not apply to the strip thus added. Stein v. Lyon, 91 App. Div. 593, 87 N. Y. S. 125. Restrictive building covenants in deeds are to be construed most strongly against the covenantor, but in accordance with the intent of the parties as expressed or implied from surrounding circumstances. Deeves v. Constable, 87 App. Div. 352, 84 N. Y. S. 592.

9. That no dwelling house should be erected not violated by an addition to a church which contained a study and living rooms. Crofton v. St. Clement's Church [Pa.] 57 A. 570. A restriction that no building should be built on the rear 10 feet of a lot is not violated if there is nothing built on it. Id.

10. Laws 1867, c. 9, defining a tenement house, is inapplicable. Kitching v. Brown, 92 App. Div. 160, 87 N. Y. S. 75.

11. Clark v. Lee [Mass.] 70 N. E. 47.

12. Selling liquor. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

13. Bay window in an upper story encroached. Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 994.

14. A grantor sold adjoining land with a restrictive covenant that no building should be built within 20 feet of his residence. His successors tore down the residence and put up business building. Held, covenant terminated. Deeves v. Constable, 87 App. Div. 352, 84 N. Y. S. 592.

15. That business would not be carried on on the premises on Sunday. Ocean City Ass'n v. Chalfant [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 801.

16. A condition on the breach of which the land is to revert to the grantor or his heirs is not waived where in other deeds of lots in the same vicinity the condition referred to the grantor only. Jetter v. Lyon [Neb.] 97 N. W. 596.

17. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

18. Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 994. Restrictions in a deed were solely for the grantor's benefit, and there was no mutual covenant on his part to similarly restrict lands remaining in the block. The land of a grantee, released from restrictions, was not subject to an easement in favor of the land of other grantees in the same block. Gebhard v. Addison, 87 App. Div. 375, 84 N. Y. S. 418.

19. Not by a grantee of a lot on the other side of the street. Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 994. Where a grantor conveyed by deed containing a restrictive covenant, land on the opposite side of the street from his residence lot, it was held the restriction did not inure to the benefit of his lot. Id.

20. No words of grant in a covenant by which beach front owners permitted the city to build a board walk, with aiding covenant against the erection of building on the ocean side. Atlantic City v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 729.

with actual notice thereof will be restrained from violating it, though his deed was recorded first.[21]

§ 3. Liability for unsafe condition of premises.[22]—A municipal corporation is exempt from liability for injuries sustained through its negligence in the management of a building operated by it in its governmental capacity,[23] but private owners[24] and occupants must use ordinary care to keep their premises in such condition that those who come there by invitation may not be exposed to danger,[25] and are liable, though they did not know of the defect, if they could by the exercise of due diligence have discovered it.[26] Where a construction company is engaged in repairing a building which the owner continues to use, the construction company must use reasonable care to protect the employes of the owner.[27] The only duty owed a trespasser is to refrain from willfully injuring him.[28]

It is negligence to leave debris scattered over a yard,[29] or to leave obstacles in such a position that they are liable to fall,[30] but it is not negligence to leave the door of a vacant house open,[31] nor to leave a vacant house without inspection for a month.[32]

Evidence showing the dangerous condition of the premises,[33] or notice thereof,[34] is admissible. The question of contributory negligence is ordinarily for the jury.[35]

§ 4. Liability for negligent operation of elevators.[36]—Liability for accidents falls on the party who has control of the elevator.[37]

21. Several beach front owners covenanted that they would not build on the ocean side of a board walk which the city was allowed to build under such covenant. Atlantic City v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 729.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 406.

23. School building. Ernst v. West Covington, 25 Ky. L. R. 1027, 76 S. W. 1089.

Note: Counties are not liable for injuries caused by negligence in construction or maintenance of public buildings. Kincaid v. Hardin County, 53 Iowa, 430, 5 N. W. 589; Hamilton County Com'rs v. Mighels, 7 Ohio St. 109; Sheppard v. Pulaski County, 13 Ky. L. R. 672, 18 S. W. 15; Vigo County Com'rs v. Daily, 132 Ind. 73, 31 N. E. 531; Hill v. Boston, 122 Mass. 344; Eastman v. Meredith, 36 N. H. 284; Hughes v. County of Monroe, 147 N. Y. 49, 41 N. E. 407, 39 L. R. A. 33, note.

24. Stair broke down and injured prospective lessee. Smith v. Jackson [N. J. Law] 56 A. 118.

25. Injury by the breaking of rapidly moving belt in a creamery, which the owners knew was quite liable to break. True v. Meredith Creamery [N. H.] 55 A. 893. Where there was no fault in the construction of a cellar door in the sidewalk, the owner of the premises not in possession is not liable for injuries sustained by one falling into it. Fehlhauer v. St. Louis [Mo.] 77 S. W. 843. Licensee fell down an unguarded cellarway. McHugh v. Kerr [Pa.] 57 A. 520. Injury by breaking of platform scales. McIntyre v. Pfaudler Vacuum Fermentation Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 527.

26. Evidence held to show that he should have discovered a defect in platform scales. McIntyre v. Pfaudler Vacuum Fermentation Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 527.

27. Gile v. Bishop Co., 184 Mass. 413, 68 N. E. 837.

28. One fell into an excavation. Frederburg v. Bear, 89 Minn. 241, 94 N. W. 683.

29. Where debris, sticks, and stones were lying in a yard, evidence held to show a dangerous condition. Wesener v. Smith, 89 App. Div. 211, 86 N. Y. S. 837.

30. Door taken from its hinges and leaned against a wall fell without being touched, and injured one. Klitzke v. Webb [Wis.] 97 N. W. 901. Chimney had been seen to sway a year before it fell; was not supported or secured in any manner to a nearby wall. Travers v. Murray, 87 App. Div. 552, 84 N. Y. S. 558.

31. Child playing therein was injured by her companion letting a window sash drop on her. O'Connor v. Brucker, 117 Ga. 451, 43 S. E. 731.

32. Gas leakage caused explosion. Consol. Gas Co. v. Getty, 96 Md. 683, 54 A. 660. Where a policeman presented a lighted candle at a cellar opening in a vacant house, thereby causing an explosion of gas, any negligence was not imputable to the owner. Id.

33. A diagram showing location of a cellar door in a store is admissible. Franklin v. Engel [Wash.] 76 P. 84. Where all testimony was that stringers would last for five years, an instruction that ordinary experience ought to have advised a prudent man that they would not last so long was erroneous. McIntyre v. Pfaudler Vacuum Fermentation Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 527.

34. That the trap door had been open many times and the proprietor of the store had been told to look out for it. Franklin v. Engel [Wash.] 76 P. 84.

35. Where one fell over debris scattered in a yard. Wesener v. Smith, 89 App. Div. 211, 85 N. Y. S. 837. Customer, with defective eyesight, as proprietor knew, was told to go to back of store for goods, and fell through trap door. No sufficient warn-

Some courts seem to hold that operators of elevators must use that degree of care required of common carriers of passengers,[38] but others require only the highest degree that a prudent person would exercise under the same circumstances,[39] and others merely the exercise of ordinary care,[40] and this only toward those on the premises by invitation.[41] Where an occupant directs one on his premises by invitation to use an unsafe elevator, he is liable for injuries sustained.[42] The operator must give a passenger a reasonable opportunity to alight,[43] and negligence in attempting to alight is no defense where the passenger is injured through the subsequent gross negligence of the operator.[44]

Elevator shafts in rooms where customers or visitors are liable to go must be guarded;[45] but to show negligence it must appear that the opening was so situated as to be dangerous,[46] and that persons injured were on the premises by the express or implied invitation of the owner.[47] The questi^n of negligence is ordinarily one for the jury.[48]

While it is ordinarily true that one who walks into an open elevator well is guilty of contributory negligence,[49] the contrary may be shown,[50] and it is generally a question for the jury.[51]

ing. Held no contributory negligence. Brown v. Stevens [Mich.] 99 N. W. 12.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 409.

37. Where an owner of a building took care of the elevators, testimony of a lessee of a part of the building held sufficient to show that the elevator was within his control. Humphreys v. Portsmouth T. & G. Co., 184 Mass. 422, 68 N. E. 836. The grantor in a deed of trust who constitutes the trustee his attorney in fact to take charge of the building remains the principal of an elevator operator employed by the trustee. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035.

38. Where an iceman was directed to use a freight elevator, petition for injuries held not to allege the relation of passenger and carrier, and owner was liable only for ordinary care. Downs v. Seeley [Conn.] 56 A. 602.

39. Where a passenger was caught in the door of an elevator and injured by its moving up and down, evidence held to show negligence. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035.

40. Burgess v. Stowe [Mich.] 96 N. W. 29.

41. Not to one on his premises doing business with his servants. Muench v. Heinemann, 119 Wis. 441, 96 N. W. 800. Whether opening the gate and calling "elevator" was an invitation to enter was a question for the jury. Burgess v. Stow [Mich.] 96 N. W. 29.

42. Ford v. Crigler, 25 Ky. L. R. 66, 74 S. W. 661.

43. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035.

44. Caught between the roof of the car and floor of the building. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608. 76 S. W. 1035.

45. Shaft in a dark storage room. Evidence held sufficient to show negligence. Reid v. Linck, 206 Pa. 109, 55 A. 849. Evidence that other persons had previously fallen down the shaft was admissible. Id. Employe fell through and was killed. Hillebrand v. Standard Biscuit Co., 139 Cal. 233, 73 P. 163. Where an employe of a tenant of a building was injured by falling down the shaft of an elevator, the door of which was open, the landlord being obligated by lease to carry tenants only, held, the landlord owed the employe the duty of exercising reasonable care in guarding the shaft. Breuer v. Frank, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 69. Trapdoor over elevator shaft in middle of store floor left open, people standing round and plaintiff, a customer, not sufficiently warned. Held negligence. Brown v. Stevens [Mich.] 99 N. W. 12. Elevator in dark corner of hotel office, almost impossible to see into shaft in daytime, door partly open and car down, sufficient to show negligence. Bremer v. Pleiss [Wis.] 98 N. W. 945. Where a boy five years old fell down an open elevator shaft in a store building, evidence held to show negligence. Hayes v. Pitts-Kimball Co., 183 Mass. 262, 67 N. E. 249.

46. Goods in dimly lighted room in wholesale house, arranged to leave passageway to elevator. Evidence sufficient to show negligence. Wilsey v. Jewett Bros. & Co., 122 Iowa, 315, 98 N. W. 114. Where a strange boy opened the door of an elevator shaft, and a licensee fell down it, evidence showed that the negligence of having an elevator shaft, the door of which was often open, was not the proximate cause of this injury. Cole v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 113. Statutes requiring signals to be attached to elevators not so protected as to be inaccessible from without is inapplicable where injuries were caused by pushing open a trap door. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 108. Gallowshaw v. Lonsdale Co. [R. I.] 66 A. 932.

47. Retail clerk came to wholesale house to get goods. Not a trespasser and used ordinary care. Wilsey v. Jewett Bros. & Co., 122 Iowa, 315, 98 N. W. 114.

48. Where the operator's testimony was that he saw the passenger caught in the door, it was not error to refuse to direct a verdict. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035. A finding that one was invited to pass over an automatic trap door was not justified. Connors v. Merchants' Mfg. Co., 184 Mass. 466, 69 N. E. 218.

49. Humphreys v. Portsmouth T. & G. Co., 184 Mass. 422, 68 N. E. 836. Evidence showed hotel guest familiar with elevator guilty of contributory negligence in going into a

Points already covered need not be made the subject of a subsequent instruction.[52]

Admissions of the owner of the way in which the accident was caused are admissible,[53] but it was no error to refuse a question relative to signals, where the statute requiring them was recently enacted and the person injured had no notice of it.[54] To hold an owner liable on imputed knowledge, the facts constituting it must be clearly alleged, especially where he suffers a default.[55]

BURGLARY.

§ 1. What Constitutes (578).
§ 2. Indictment and Proof Thereunder (579).
§ 3. Evidence. Sufficiency (581).
§ 4. Instructions and Verdict (582).

§ 1. What constitutes.[56] Breaking and entry.[57]—To constitute a breaking, defendant's acts must have made an entry possible.[58] Unlocking[59] or otherwise unfastening doors[60] is sufficient. An entry which is not in itself a trespass may be sufficient, if made with felonious intent.[61] shaft when car was not there. Bremer v. Pleiss [Wis.] 98 N. W. 945. Where a servant was injured by the automatic opening of a trap door covering an elevator shaft, evidence held to show contributory negligence. Connors v. Merchants' Mfg. Co., 184 Mass. 466, 69 N. E. 218.

50. Where a five-year-old boy, visiting a store with his grandmother, went away from her and fell down an open elevator well, evidence held insufficient to show contributory negligence. Hayes v. Pitts-Kimball Co., 183 Mass. 262, 67 N. E. 249. Where a new employe fell down an open elevator well, located in a dark place, evidence held to show that be was in the exercise of due care. Humphreys v. Portsmouth T. & G. Co., 184 Mass. 422, 68 N. E. 836.

51. Whether an employe was guilty of contributory negligence in stepping on a trap door over an elevator shaft was for the jury. Hillebrand v. Standard Biscuit Co., 139 Cal. 233, 73 P. 163. A submission of all the evidence of contributory negligence is sufficient, and it is no error to refuse to charge certain parts thereof. Hayes v. Pitts-Kimball Co., 183 Mass. 262, 67 N. E. 249. Whether one who stepped into an elevator well when the owner opened the gate and called "elevator" was guilty of contributory negligence was for the jury. Burgess v. Stowe [Mich.] 96 N. W. 29.

52. Relative to operator's and passenger's duty. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035. It was not error to refuse to instruct that recovery could not be had because of the defective shaft, where the court had already instructed that recovery could not be had unless entrance to the elevator was made at the owner's invitation. Burgess v. Stowe [Mich.] 96 N. W. 29.

53. Manner in which a pulley was attached to the ceiling. Muench v. Heinemann, 119 Wis. 441, 96 N. W. 800.

54. Stat. 1901, c. 439. Connors v. Merchants' Mfg. Co., 184 Mass. 466, 69 N. E. 218.

55. Downs v. Seeley [Conn.] 56 A. 502.

56. Note: Burglary is an offense against the security of the dwelling house or habitation. It is the possession that is invaded, and the crime is not against the buildings as property. State v. Toole, 29 Conn. 342, 76 Am. Dec. 602; Anderson v. State, 48 Ala. 665, 17 Am. Rep. 36. The rule may of course be changed by statute, as in Wisconsin, where the offense is held to be affecting real estate. Neubrandt v. State, 53 Wis. 89, 9 N. W. 824. Citations from People v. Richards [N. Y.] 2 Am. St. Rep. 383. See 1 Curr. L. 411.

57. Note: The breaking may be actual or constructive. Clarke v. Com., 25 Grat. [Va.] 908. Among acts which have been held to constitute a sufficient breaking are: pushing open closed door (State v. Reid, 20 Iowa, 413); opening door secured by chain hooked to nail (State v. Hecox, 83 Mo. 531); opening closed blinds (Com. v. Stephenson, 8 Pick. [Mass.] 354); pushing up trap door (Harrison v. State, 20 Tex. App. 387, 54 Am. Rep. 529). See also, State v. Boon, 35 N. C. (13 Ired.) 244, 57 Am. Dec. 555; Rolland v. Com., 85 Pa. 66, 27 Am. Rep. 626; Walker v. State, 63 Ala. 49, 35 Am. Rep. 1. For cases holding there was no breaking, see: Com. v. Strupney, 105 Mass. 588, 7 Am. Rep. 556; State v. Kennedy, 16 Mo. App. 287; Green v. State, 68 Ala. 539; Timmons v. State, 34 Ohio St. 426, 32 Am. Rep. 376. Citations from People v. Richards [N. Y.] 2 Am. St. Rep. 385, 386. See 1 Curr. L. 411.

58. Removing window strip only. Gaddie v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1585, 78 S. W. 162.

59. With intent to steal personalty therein. State v. Peebles [Mo.] 77 S. W. 518.

60. Removing a button from an outer, and a slab from an inner, door of a chicken house. State v. Helms [Mo.] 78 S. W. 592.

61. Entry of a store during business hours with intent to commit larceny. The statute read: "Every person who enters * * * with intent," etc. People v. Brittain, 142 Cal. 8, 75 P. 314.

Note. The following are somewhat novel cases: Where defendant, in the nighttime, bored holes through the walls of a granary so that wheat was forced through by its own weight, the defendant taking away and selling the grain, it was held that there was a sufficient entry, and an intent to steal within the granary was sufficiently shown. State v. Crawford, 8 N. D. 539, 80 N. W. 193, 46 L. R. A. 312. A servant having a right to lodge in his master's house is guilty

Intent.[62]—Felonious intent in breaking and entry is essential.[63] Such intent may be inferred from the breaking, entry and carrying away of property.[64]

The degree of the offense is made by statutes to depend on the time of, or special circumstances attending, its commission,[65] and on this issue the mental condition of defendant, such as intoxication, is irrelevant, being relevant only on an issue of intent.[66]

Accomplices.[67]—One who aids or abets in the breaking and entry,[68] or in concealment of the stolen property,[69] will be treated as an accomplice. Mere receipt of stolen goods without knowledge of the theft will not make one an accomplice in the burglary.[70] The accomplice of one who breaks and enters a building may be convicted of an attempt to break and enter a building.[71]

Nature and situation of building.[72]—One charged with burglary of a dwelling house may be convicted on proof of burglary of a barn within the curtilage.[73] A hotel is a building within the meaning of a statute defining burglary as a breaking or entering a dwelling house "or other building."[74] To constitute the offense of burglary of a private residence,[75] the family need not be personally present at the time of the burglary.[76] A flat car is not a "railroad car" within the meaning of a burglary statute.[77]

§ 2. Indictment and proof thereunder.[78]—The sufficiency of the indictment[79] will of course be determined by reference to the statute under which it was drawn.[80] If an indictment charging larceny from the house is good under either of burglary if he opens a closed door or raises a sash and enters the building, not for the purpose of using the house as a lodging place, but with intent to steal his master's goods. State v. Howard, 64 S. C. 344, 42 S. E. 173, 58 L. R. A. 685.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 411.

63. State v. Tough [N. D.] 96 N. W. 1025. Intent to commit rape. State v. Worthern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 330.

64. State v. Peebles [Mo.] 77 S. W. 518.

65. Day or nighttime in California. People v. Dowell, 141 Cal. 493, 75 P. 45. Breaking into a chicken house is burglary in the second degree, regardless of the purpose for which the chickens were kept there. State v. Helms [Mo.] 78 S. W. 592.

66. People v. Dowell, 141 Cal. 493, 75 P. 45.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 829, n. 87-92.

68. State v. Peebles [Mo.] 77 S. W. 518. An accomplice must have been present and must have known the unlawful intent of the principal. Glenn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 757. Conviction for breaking and entering an office, not adjoining to or occupied with a dwelling house, in the nighttime, affirmed, the proof showing accused aided and abetted in commission of the offense. People v. McDonald [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1064.

69. A sister who assisted in hiding stolen goods after the burglary. McDaniel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 301.

70. Though the circumstances were such as to put him on inquiry. Short v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 451, 76 S. W. 11.

71. Sufficiency of instruction on the point. State v. Mahoney [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1089.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 411.

73. A statute (Pub. Acts 1899, No. 34, p. 50), providing punishment for burglary of barn or outbuilding, did not change the common law of burglary. People v. Griffith [Mich.] 95 N. W. 719.

74. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417, 69 N. E. 24.

75. The punishment for burglary in the daytime is not changed by the fact that the building burglarized was a private residence. Holland v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 763.

76. Under White's Ann. Pen. Code, art. 485c. Handy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 526.

77. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 7104. Wheat loaded on a flat car and covered with a tarpaulin fastened to sides of car was stolen. Held, not burglary. State v. Petit, 32 Wash. 129, 72 P. 1021.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 411.

79. Indictment held to sufficiently charge the intent to commit rape. State v. Staton, 133 N. C. 642, 45 S. E. 362.

80. An indictment charging that defendant, in the nighttime, having in his possession certain implements of burglary, did attempt to commit the crime of burglary while unlawfully attempting to break and enter a store, charges an attempt, and not merely an intent, to commit the crime [2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 7106, 7437]. State v. Garbe [Wash.] 75 P. 993. An indictment for breaking and entering a dwelling with intent to commit a felony therein is not duplicitous for charging in the same count that accused was armed with a dangerous weapon and made an actual assault upon a person who was lawfully in the dwelling (Davis v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 76), nor is such indictment had on motion to quash, though the allegations as to the dangerous weapon are insufficient, if the assault is sufficiently set out [Acts 1895, c. 4405, p. 167] (Id.). If the building is a permanent and substantial structure, the indictment need not allege that it was especially constructed to keep the goods stolen [Code, § 4417 construed]. Smith v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 157. Under a statute defining burglary generally and fix-of two sections of the statute, the court may treat it as drawn under either.[81] No distinction need be made in the indictment between defendants who are principals.[82] An indictment which, after stating the county, alleges that defendant did "then and there," commit the offense, sufficiently alleges the venue of the burglary.[83] An indictment to meet anticipated proof may charge night and day burglary in different counts.[84] Ownership of the building burglarized must be alleged and proved[85] unless it is otherwise sufficiently described, so that defendant cannot be misled.[86] Where the complaint and information both identify a building by street and number, there is no variance, though the terms of the description are not otherwise identical.[87] Where two or more persons own the property in common or jointly, the ownership may be alleged as in either or all.[88] An indictment for burglary of community property must allege ownership in the husband.[89] Ownership of the property in the building, which it is charged accused intended to steal, need not be alleged;[90] but, if alleged, must be proved as laid, and a failure to do so constitutes a fatal variance.[91]

Sufficiency of proof; variance.[92]—Proof of commission of the crime on a day other than that charged is sufficient if the defendant is not thereby prejudiced.[93] Occupancy and possession is all that is required to prove ownership in burglary.[94] A slight variance between the allegations of the indictment or information and the proof as to the description[95] or ownership[96] of the premises burglarized will be disregarded if the defendant is not thereby prejudiced.[97] Where defendant is charged with an attempt to break and enter a building, proof of an actual breaking and entry is not a variance, but establishes the attempt.[98] There may be a conviction under an indictment charging a statutory burglary, though the evidence shows the greater offense of common-law burglary, since such conviction would sustain a plea of former jeopardy upon an indictment for burglary based on the ing a punishment therefor, with a proviso for longer minimum imprisonment if the crime is committed at night, there is no variance between an indictment alleging the crime generally and proof of its commission at night. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417, 69 N. E. 24. An indictment for burglary for breaking and entering a railroad car with intent to steal will sustain a conviction for entering a railroad car with intent to steal. Under Rev. Codes 1899, §§ 7406, 7411. State v. Tough [N. D.] 96 N. W. 1025.

81. The offense being a misdemeanor and punishable as such [Penal Code 1895, §§ 178, 179, 182]. Heard v. State [Ga.] 48 S. E. 311.

82. One who actually breaks and enters a house and steals therefrom, and his confederate, who stands near and watches these acts, are principals in the second degree. McWhorter v. State, 118 Ga. 55, 44 S. E. 873.

83. Cabellero v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 1014.

84. Miller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 800.

85. An allegation that the building was the depot of a named railway without alleging it was a corporation which owned the depot, insufficient. State v. Horned [Mo.] 76 S. W. 953. Ownership of hotel by partners held sufficiently established. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417, 69 N. E. 24.

86. Street number given. People v. Price [Cal.] 77 P. 73.

87. People v. Price [Cal.] 77 P. 73.

88. No variance where alleged to be in one and proven to be jointly in two [Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 445]. Mass v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 45.

89. Where indictment alleged ownership in wife and evidence showed community property, there was a fatal variance. Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 630.

90, 91. Crosky v. State [Fla.] 35 So. 153.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 411, 412, n. 26, 27.

93. State v. Rogers [Mont.] 77 P. 293. 18th or 19th of March. State v. Bates [Mo.] 81 S. W. 408.

94. Scoville v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 717.

95. Indictment charged burglary of a private residence and proof showed burglary of a room in a hotel used as a private residence. Holland v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 763. A low partition divided a room into two and each had a front door, and the information charged burglary of one side and the proof showed entry on that side and taking goods from the other. State v. Peebles [Mo.] 77 S. W. 518. Where an information sufficiently described the place of the burglary without the number of the room, proof of the number was unnecessary, though included in the information. People v. Kelso, 142 Cal. 336, 75 P. 904.

96. Proof that two brothers occupied a house burglarized, and one paid the rent, will support an allegation of ownership in either. Scoville v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 717.

97. State v. Rogers [Mont.] 77 P. 293.

98. State v. Mahoney [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1089.

same facts.[99] Where burglary of a private residence in the daytime and nighttime are made separate offenses and an indictment alleges both in different counts, but the evidence clearly showed burglary in the nighttime, it was error to submit the issue of burglary in the daytime.[1]

§ 3. Evidence. Sufficiency.[2]—Recent unexplained possession of goods shown to have been feloniously taken by means of a burglary is prima facie evidence of guilt of burglary,[3] providing the jury find that the breaking and entering and stealing of the goods were parts of the same transaction.[4] This prima facie showing is not a presumption requiring, but only authorizing, conviction,[5] and it may be overcome by a reasonable explanation of his possession.[6] Mere possession of recently stolen property, without evidence of a breaking, is not sufficient.[7] But the evidence need not show immediate, actual possession of the goods at the time when defendant was taken.[8] Proof of the possession of stolen property by defendant places on him the burden of explaining his possession,[9] and the giving of a reasonable explanation does not place on the state the burden of proving such explanation false.[10] The identity of the stolen goods, having no distinctive earmarks, may be established by coincidence in quantity and kind.[11] The elements of the crime,[12] the fact of its commission by defendant,[13] and the fact that it was committed within the limitation period,[14] may be shown by circumstantial evidence. For sufficiency of evidence in particular instances, see cases cited in note.[15]

Admissibility.[16]—Evidence as to the location of stolen property,[17] or as to keys,[18] or other property found in defendant's possession at time of arrest,[19] and of his conduct and statements at that time,[20] is competent, and the property itself

99. State v. Staton, 133 N. C. 642, 45 S. E. 362.

1. Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 530.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 412.

3. Instruction upheld and conviction affirmed. People v. Lang, 142 Cal. 482, 76 P. 232.

4. State v. Brady, 121 Iowa, 561, 97 N. W. 62.

5. State v. Brady, 121 Iowa, 561, 97 N. W. 62. Conviction sustained when possession of stolen goods traced to defendant. Short v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 451, 76 S. W. 11. Possession of a pocketbook stolen at same time watch was taken by burglar. State v. Hullen, 133 N. C. 656, 45 S. E. 513. Evidence circumstantial and main circumstance being recent, possession of the stolen property will not prevent sustaining conviction. Davis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 919.

6. Lovelace v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 756. If the jury believe the explanation by defendant of his possession of such property is reasonably and probably true, they should acquit him. McCoy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 46.

7. Strickland v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 689.

8. Perry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 513.

9. Evidence sufficient to support conviction. State v. Raphael [Iowa] 99 N. W. 151.

10. Instruction disapproved. Dyer v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 456.

11. Conviction affirmed. Jordan v. State, 119 Ga. 443, 46 S. E. 679.

12. The breaking and entry as well as the intent may be shown by circumstantial evidence. State v. Peebles [Mo.] 77 S. W. 518.

13. Circumstantial evidence sufficient. Jones v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 2062, 79 S. W. 1183. Circumstantial evidence showing possession of stolen goods and other circumstances sufficient. Brown v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 936.

14. Where, on a trial in December, 1903, there was evidence that "recently during the first week in November" the store of the witness was broken and entered and goods stolen, it was sufficiently shown. Jordan v. State, 119 Ga. 443, 46 S. E. 679.

15. Evidence held to sustain conviction. Miller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 800. Evidence insufficient to connect defendant with the crime. State v. King, 174 Mo. 647, 74 S. W. 627. Where evidence was hearsay and uncorroborated testimony of accomplice, conviction not sustained. Frazier v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 461, 76 S. W. 28.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 411.

17. Testimony that witness told prosecutor where money was placed was properly admitted, witness not stating what was said. Washington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 810.

18. Where burglary of a hotel was charged, evidence of possession of keys to rooms in two other hotels and to a room in the hotel burglarized was admissible. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417, 69 N. E. 24.

19. Kennedy v. State [Neb.] 99 N. W. 645. On the trial of one of three men arrested for the same burglary, it is competent to show what property was found on the persons of all three. People v. Wilson [Mich.] 95 N. W. 536. Evidence of the possession of property taken from another defendant, associated in committing the crime with defendant, it being shown that the property was originally taken from the premises at the time of the burglary, was so found is admissible.[21] Evidence of other similar offenses is inadmissible unless some connection with the offense charged is shown.[22] But where there were two or more burglaries at about the same time, evidence as to one may be admitted on trial of another when a part of the res gestae and tending to connect defendant with the offense charged.[23] The condition of the house at the time defendant was seen leaving it may be shown,[24] but evidence by prosecuting witness that since the burglary he put a lock on the door and carried the key is inadmissible to show he had control at the time of the burglary.[25] A confession is admissible if not extorted by fear and violence.[26]

§ 4. Instructions and verdict.[27]—The defendant is entitled to an instruction to the jury on the definition of the crime he is charged with intending to commit.[28] Instructions based on defendant's testimony,[29] or statements testified to by another witness,[30] or on defendant's theory of the case,[31] should usually be given. As to propriety of instructions on particular issues,[32] or the necessity of a charge based on circumstantial evidence,[33] see cases cited in the notes.

One indicted for burglary and larceny may be convicted of larceny only,[34] or may be convicted of burglary and acquitted of the accompanying larceny.[35] A verdict of 30 years confinement for burglary of a private residence is not a "cruel and unusual punishment."[36] The value of the property stolen is immaterial in fixing the punishment.[37] A verdict that "the jury find defendant guilty as charged in the indictment, assess his punishment in the penitentiary for two years," is suffiadmissible. Mass v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 46.

20. Evidence held to sustain verdict of guilty. Kennedy v. State [Neb.] 99 N. W. 645.

21. Johnson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 925.

22. Subsequent burglary, not shown to have any connection with the offense charged. McCoy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 47. That the same house had been broken into before. Glenn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 757.

23. Bits taken from blacksmith shop used in gaining entrance to storehouse and bits and property taken from storehouse found close together and where defendant was seen. Perry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 513. Evidence that a store was entered by the use of bits of the same size as those taken from another building and later found near where defendant had been seen with stolen property, admissible. Conviction sustained. Id. On trial for burglary and larceny, evidence of other offenses by defendant in the same town on the same day is admissible to show defendant's presence in the town and to identify him. State v. Bates [Mo.] 81 S. W. 408.

24. Washington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 810.

25. Johnson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 76 S. W. 925.

26. Accused was taken to the store; he was charged with burglarizing, and kept there a day and a half, and confessed on the way to jail. State v. Robertson, 111 La. 35, 35 So. 375.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 412.

28. Breaking and entering with intent to "steal." State v. Tough [N. D.] 96 N. W. 1025.

29. Error to refuse an instruction based on testimony regarding defendant's explanation of his possession of stolen property. Gather v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 717. Sufficiency of instruction on defendant's testimony. Fields v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 309.

30. Proper to instruct as to consideration of statements of defendant testified to by a witness. State v. Chappell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 585.

31. Instruction presenting defendant's theory of the case not given. Simmons v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 762.

32. An instruction charging that defendant must show he came into possession of stolen goods "honestly and fairly" is erroneous, since he need only show he acquired them by some means not connected with the crime charged. State v. Brady, 121 Iowa, 561, 97 N. W. 62. An instruction that the venue must be proven and that it must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant broke and entered with intent to commit the crime of rape therein was proper. State v. Worthen [Iowa] 100 N. W. 330. A charge on defendant's alibi which assumed the house had been burglarized was not prejudicial where the jury had been instructed to find all the elements of burglary before finding defendant guilty. Davis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 919.

33. Held not necessary. Holland v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 763; Fields v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 74 S. W. 309.

34. State v. Bates [Mo.] 81 S. W. 408.

35. State v. Helms [Mo.] 78 S. W. 592.

36. Under White's Ann. Pen. Code, art. 485c., and Const. art. 1, § 13. Handy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 526.

37. Acts 1895, c. 285, p. 365, providing imprisonment for not more than one year for larceny, when the value of the property is less than $20, has no application to "larceny from the dwelling by breaking and ciently intelligible.[38] Where the indictment charges day and night burglary in different counts, a verdict of guilty will be imputed to the count justified by the evidence.[39]

CANALS.[40]

The right of eminent domain when given to a canal company is, as in all cases, strictly limited in its exercise to the terms of the grant.[41] Where a canal is a public highway, the abandonment of a part of it will not affect the status of what remains in use.[42] By observing certain conditions, railroad companies have the right to bridge canals,[43] but the fact that such conditions will be violated cannot be raised on an appeal from an order granting the right to erect the bridge.[44] The transferee of the state succeeds to the duties of the state with respect to the canal.[45]

A canal company is liable for damages by flooding the lands of abutting owners,[46] though the work be not negligently done,[47] and such damages are not awarded in condemnation proceedings.[48] Liability for negligence does not arise from a failure to guard a canal.[49]

Whether the exercise by a transferee of a franchise granted to the original company is ultra vires is a question between the state and purchaser.[50] entering in the daytime." State v. Hullen, 133 N. C. 656, 45 S. E. 513.

38. Cabellero v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 1014.

39. Miller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 800; State v. Lewis [Mo.] 79 S. W. 671.

40. Franchise by compact between states: Where a compact entered into between Virginia and North Carolina (2 Rev. St. p. 225) declared canal franchises granted to be irrevocable without the consent of both states, a Virginia corporation to which such franchises had been granted without the consent of North Carolina could not justify an enterprise thereunder. Pinnix v. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co., 132 N. C. 124, 43 S. E. 578.

41. Act 1790, § 10 provided that a canal company might condemn a right of way not exceeding a certain width. Held, where it did not appear what amount was condemned, it was limited to the extent of its use. Pinnix v. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co., 132 N. C. 124, 43 S. E. 578.

42. A company by authority of Laws 1899, c. 469, sold a portion of its canal and abandoned the remainder. New York Cement Co. v. Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 451. Patrons have the same rights in the portion in use as they had prior to abandonment. Id.

43. Where a railroad company is authorized to condemn easements of crossings, it should be permitted to institute proceedings without interference from the trustees appointed by the court having control of the canal. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. v. Western Md. R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 34.

44. The canal was under control of the circuit court and the company would have been in contempt had it instituted condemnation proceedings without the order. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. v. Western Md. R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 34. The right to build bridges across her basins may be granted to the extent that the city is concerned. Capdevielle v. New Orleans & S. F. R. Co., 110 La. 904, 34 So. 868.

45. To maintain bridges over the canal, as P. L. 75, made this the duty of the canal commissioners. Book v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 207 Pa. 138, 56 A. 352.

46. In widening its canal, it filled up plaintiff's ditch, caused large amounts of mud and sand to be thrown on his land. Pinnix v. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co., 132 N. C. 124, 43 S. E. 578. Evidence held sufficient to authorize a recovery of damages by a landowner by reason of a flood caused by insufficient opening in an aqueduct. Greeley v. State, 88 N. Y. S. 468. On a claim for damages caused by leakage, evidence held to show that some damage was sustained. Crowley v. State, 90 App. Div. 613, 85 N. Y. S. 1027. Laws 1894, c. 338, providing that damages resulting from management of canals may be recovered from the state, renders the state liable for its failure to provide opening in an aqueduct across a stream of sufficient capacity to meet extraordinary conditions. Greeley v. State, 88 N. Y. S. 468.

In an action for injuries to land, evidence that the superintendent told plaintiff, whose land had been injured, that he could not drain into the canal unless he sold some land to the company, was admissible. Bullock v. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co., 132 N. C. 179, 43 S. E. 593. Effect of improvements on land adjoining that which was injured, immaterial. Id.

47. Pinnix v. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co., 132 N. C. 124, 43 S. E. 578.

48. Evidence thereof was inadmissible where the condemnation proceedings were not pleaded. Turpen v. Turlock Irr. Dist., 141 Cal. 1, 74 P. 295.

49. Maintenance of unguarded canal is not negligence so as to render the company liable for death of a child five years old, who was drowned therein. McCabe v. American Woolen Co., 124 F. 283.

50. New York Cement Co. v. Consolidated R. Cement Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 451.

CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS.[51]

§ 1. Nature of Remedy (584).
§ 2. Cause of Action and Grounds for Relief (585). Conditions Precedent (587). Laches (588). Effect of Death of Party (589). Evidence and Proof (589).
§ 3. Procedure (590). Pleading (590). Parties (590).

§ 1. Nature of remedy.[52]—The suit for cancellation or annulment of instruments or contracts is a purely equitable remedy,[53] and cannot be maintained or brought in a court of law.[54] Having acquired jurisdiction in a suit for cancellation, the equity court will retain it to settle the equities between the parties,[55] and may grant relief upon both equitable and legal rights,[56] providing legal relief is asked for in the prayer,[57] and necessary facts are pleaded.[58] But the court cannot grant relief inconsistent with the cause of action pleaded,[59] or based on findings unwarranted by the evidence or the prayer for relief.[60] On the other hand, cancellation may be granted in a suit brought for another purpose, the prayer being for general relief and the proof warranting such a decree.[61]

51. The title includes cases in which cancellation of such instruments as deeds or mortgages of real property, leases, chattel mortgages, insurance policies and promissory notes has been sought, or in which the annullment or rescission of contracts has been the relief sought.

The titles Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. L. 116; Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104, and Mistake and Accident, 2 Curr. L. 903, respectively treat of the nature, elements and effect of fraud such as will avoid a transfer to defeat creditors and purchasers in good faith, of fraud or undue influence having a like effect between the parties, and of mistake and accident having that effect.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 413.

53. Where the execution of many notes grew out of the same transaction, equity had jurisdiction to entertain suit by all the makers for their cancellation. Notes by 57 persons fraudulently obtained by railway corporation about to build through the town. Mobile, J. & K. C. R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 82. Equity has jurisdiction to cancel promissory notes for total failure of consideration and to enjoin an action at law thereon. Womelsdorf v. O'Connor, 53 W. Va. 314, 44 S. E. 191. Federal court has jurisdiction as a court of equity to cancel a policy of insurance, notwithstanding a Missouri statute (Rev. St. 1899, § 7890), declaring that misrepresentation in procuring a policy shall be a question for the jury. Union Life Ins. Co. v. Riggs, 123 F. 312.

54. Replevin will not lie to correct, modify or cancel a contract. Cattle sought to be recovered, which had been wrongfully sold by one in possession under a written contract. Penton v. Hansen, 13 Okl. 450, 73 P. 843. Cancellation of mortgage notes was asked in a court of law, and refused. Twogood v. Allee [Iowa] 99 N. W. 288. Under the Georgia statutes, a city court, having no jurisdiction to grant affirmative equitable relief, cannot entertain a suit to set aside an assignment. Ehrlich & Bro. v. Shuptrine, 117 Ga. 882, 45 S. E. 279.

55. Property conveyed in consideration of love and affection and support by grantee, the only daughter of grantor. Grantee died and her husband refused to further perform. The court refused to rescind, but took charge of the property so as to insure support for the grantor, and preserve residue, if any, for her daughter's children. Keister v. Cubine, 101 Va. 768, 45 S. E. 285. An old couple conveyed land for the consideration of care being taken of them by their children. The deed was set aside for incompetency, but the grantees were permitted to recover their expenditures, the contract not being inequitable or fraudulent. Bollnow v. Roach [Ill.] 71 N. E. 454. Under the California statute, the court, on dismissing on the merits a suit for the cancellation of a contract, may enter judgment for defendant on a cross claim, although the amount of the latter is below the amount fixing the jurisdiction of the court. Sullivan v. California Realty Co., 142 Cal. 201, 75 P. 767. In a suit to set aside a conveyance, where the right of possession is in issue, it is the duty of the court to determine that issue, and if all parties are before the court, to put the party entitled thereto in possession. Albin v. Parnell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 646.

56. In a suit to cancel a deed of mining interests, it was held reformation was the proper remedy, but that in either form, an amendment should have been allowed so as to cover judgment for damages for improvements placed on the land. Gillis v. Arringdale [N. C.] 47 S. E. 429.

57. Where, in an equitable suit to cancel a deed, no legal relief is asked, damages cannot be awarded. Rubie Combination Gold Min. Co. v. Princess Alice Gold Min. Co., 31 Colo. 158, 71 P. 1121.

58. A suit to set aside a conveyance cannot be considered one to remove cloud on title when possession is not alleged to be in complainants, and there is no proof of such possession. Boddie v. Bush, 136 Ala. 560, 33 So. 826.

59. In a suit instituted to cancel an agreement in writing, on the ground that it is invalid for fraud, jurisdiction cannot be retained to construe the instrument and grant an injunction based thereon, since the latter relief, if proper, is inconsistent with the cause of action stated in the bill. Kerr v. Southwick [C. C. A.] 120 F. 772.

60. In suit to cancel deed for fraud and undue influence, court erroneously found that grantor had a life estate and right to possession. Butler v. Carvin, 33 Wash. 621, 74 P. 813.

61. If a petition states a good cause of action for cancellation, that relief may be

It was held in California that, within the meaning of statutes of limitation, a suit to set aside a conveyance for fraud was a suit for the recovery of real property;[62] in Kansas, the limitation statute governing actions for fraud was held to apply.[63]

Adequacy of remedy at law[64] will, as in other cases, oust equity jurisdiction.[65] If the averments of the bill show the instrument to be absolutely void, it will not be set aside in equity, as plaintiffs have in such case a complete and adequate remedy at law.[66] Suit will not lie for cancellation of an instrument which is a mere receipt, since its terms may be contradicted or varied by parol, thus giving an adequate remedy at law.[67]

A Federal court of equity will not take jurisdiction of a suit for the delivery up and cancellation of a policy when misrepresentations and concealment can be perfectly well established in a defense at law in an action on the policy.[68] The rule is not altered by the fact that suit has been, or may be brought, in a state court, where such defense cannot be made, if the right of removal to the Federal court exists;[69] and it is immaterial that such removal will result in a forfeiture of the company's license to do business in the state, since such forfeiture is the result of the company's own act.[70]

§ 2. Cause of action and grounds for relief.[71]—Equity will ordinarily grant granted, though the prayer be for specific performance and other and further relief. Oil and gas lease canceled as to portion of lands covered. Coffinberry v. Sun Oil Co., 68 Ohio St. 488, 67 N. E. 1069. Deed from mother to son in consideration of $500 and agreement to support, consideration having failed. Suit was for balance of price, and cancellation was granted. Stephenson v. Stephenson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1873, 72 S. W. 742.

62. Not governed by statute limiting actions on ground of fraud or mistake, where fraud and undue influence were the grounds for relief. Murphy v. Crowley, 140 Cal. 141, 73 P. 820.

63. Under the Kansas statute, an action to set aside a deed on the ground of fraud is barred on the expiration of two years after the discovery of the fraud, and the filing of the deeds in the registry is equivalent to such discovery. Rogers v. Richards, 67 Kan. 706, 74 P. 255.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 413.

65. Allegations of bill held insufficient to warrant equity intervention. Handley v. Sprinkle [Mont.] 77 P. 296. Held, plaintiff had adequate remedy at law to recover ground rent, and hence bill to cancel agreement to reduce ground rent would not lie. Norris v. Crowe, 206 Pa. 438, 55 A. 1125. If an action in ejectment is available, a suit to set aside a conveyance will not lie. Purchaser at execution sale could not set aside a prior conveyance, alleged to have been fraudulent and void, when defendants were in possession. Ropes v. Jenerson [Fla.] 34 So. 955. Must be as complete and as adequate, as sufficient and as final, as the remedy in equity. Cable v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 191 U. S. 288, 24 S. Ct. 74, 48 Law. Ed. 188. It must be a remedy which may be resorted to without impediment created otherwise than by act of the party. Id. It was held that the defense of fraud which might be asserted in an action on an insurance policy in a state court was an adequate remedy which would preclude maintenance of a suit to cancel the policy in a Federal court, since the assertion of that defense could not be said to depend on the will of the adverse party. Riggs v. Union Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 207. Must be capable of being asserted without rendering the party asserting it liable to the imposition of heavy penalties or forfeitures. Cable v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 191 U. S. 288, 24 S. Ct. 74, 48 Law. Ed. 188. In the Federal courts the remedy must exist on the law side of the same court. Where the rights of all claimants could not be determined in the law action, held not a bar. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Blair, 130 F. 971. When there is an adequate remedy at law, a Federal court will not retain jurisdiction simply because the law as there administered is more favorable to petitioner than in a state court. Applied in insurance company case to cancel a policy. Cable v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 191 U. S. 288, 24 S. Ct. 74, 48 Law. Ed. 188.

66. Boddie v. Bush, 136 Ala. 560, 33 So. 826. Equity would not cancel insurance policies where bill failed to allege fraud but set up facts showing policies were never delivered. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Amos [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1018. Bill for cancellation dismissed where deed was a forgery, and even if not forged, had never been delivered. Green v. Brown [Miss.] 34 So. 147.

67. Fraud inducing the settlement for which it was given may be shown in a law action. Such v. Bank of State of New York, 127 F. 450.

68. Cable v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 191 U. S. 288, 24 S. Ct. 74, 48 Law. Ed. 188.

69. Cable v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 191 U. S. 288, 24 S. Ct. 74, 48 Law. Ed. 188; Riggs v. Union Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 207.

70. The company signs an agreement for a license in order to do business. Cable v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 191 U. S. 288, 24 S. Ct. 74, 48 Law. Ed. 188; Riggs v. Union Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 207.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 414.

NOTE. When patent to land will be canceled: "First. where the government, being relief when the instrument or contract sought to be canceled or set aside was procured by fraudulent misrepresentations[72] or other fraud,[73] or duress,[74] or undue influence, especially when the parties to the transaction stand in a fiduciary relation.[75] Relief on the ground of fraud will not be granted if it appears that the fraud was not directly connected with the transaction,[76] or that the petitioner has not suffered injury or cannot show some special ground for equitable relief,[77] or that the fraud was made possible by plaintiff's agent, the other party acting in good faith.[78]

A mistake of fact is ground for the remedy, whether mutual,[79] or unilateral,[80] but a mistake of law, unaccompanied by special circumstances, such as misrepresentation, undue influence, or misplaced confidence, is not.[81]

Conveyances made[82] or recorded[83] without authority may be set aside. Fail-the only party interested, the patent is charged to have been obtained by fraud in representations or conduct; second, where the land by appropriate reservation is not subject to patent, but is nevertheless erroneously patented; third, where the land, though subject to patent in the ordinary administration of the land office, is patented to the wrong person, either through fraud or by reason of mistake or inadvertence." U. S. v. Bell Tel. Co., 167 U. S. 239, 17 S. Ct. 809, 42 Law. Ed. 144. Quoted in Lynch v. U. S., 13 Okl. 142, 73 P. 1095.

72. Misrepresentations as to purchaser, a Catholic corporation, against which seller was prejudiced. Thompson v. Barry, 184 Mass. 429, 68 N. E. 674. False representations and promise of marriage by married man held sufficient ground for setting aside conveyance. Harris v. Dumont, 207 Ill. 583, 69 N. E. 811. A false representation that defendant would take up and cancel two other mortgages if plaintiff would execute to him a new mortgage, and failure of the mortgagee to carry out the agreement is sufficient ground for cancellation of such mortgage. Hill v. Gettys [N. C.] 47 S. E. 449. A railway company fraudulently represented that it would build through a rival town if certain notes were not given, when in fact, it had already contracted to build through plaintiff's town. Notes given were canceled. Hightower v. Mobile, J. & K. C. R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 82. A petition seeking cancellation of conveyance and alleging fraudulent misrepresentations as to value of mineral leases given in exchange for deed of land, states a cause of action. Cooper v. Maggard [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 607.

73. Evidence held to show defendant's agent knew of and participated in fraud in procuring deed, which is set aside. Schreckhise v. Wiseman [Va.] 45 S. E. 745. Where one who has promised to leave property to a person at his death conveys it to a third person in fraud of the promisee, a cause of action at once arises to set the conveyance aside. Teske v. Dittberner [Neb.] 98 N. W. 57.

74. A married woman who makes a conveyance in consequence of a threat that her husband will be prosecuted for forgery and a promise that he will be protected if the conveyance is made is not debarred from relief under the maxim in pari delicto, since the parties are not in an equal position, and the conveyance may be set aside for duress. Turner v. Overall, 172 Mo. 271, 72 S. W. 644.

75. Where a lawyer induced his ignorant, feeble-minded foster sister to convey, there was found to be a fiduciary relation, and deed was set aside. Walker v. Shepard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422. Where a wife executed a declaration of trust, carrying out the provisions of her husband's will as to the proceeds of life insurance policies, it was held there was no such fiduciary relation as that equity, presuming the transaction invalid, would annul the declaration. Rogers v. Rogers, 97 Md. 573, 55 A. 450. Evidence held to show undue influence in procuring execution of deed; but deed allowed to stand on condition that grantee accept land as his full share of father's (grantor's) estate. Krause v. Krause [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1095.

76. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699.

77. Applied in suit by United States to cancel land patent. Lynch v. U. S., 13 Okl. 142, 73 P. 1095.

78. Gray Cloud Land Co. v. Clay, 89 Minn. 166, 94 N. W. 552.

79. A mutual mistake of fact, if material, is ground for rescission or cancellation of the contract by either party. Lease canceled on showing of mutual, material mistake as to condition of premises. Barker v. Fitzgerald, 105 Ill. App. 536. Where the instrument intended by both parties to embody a contract of conditional sale was executed in the form of a chattel mortgage, the instrument was canceled, in suit for replevin of piano sold. Kimball Co. v. Deaton, 102 Mo. App. 45, 74 S. W. 427.

80. But the court said that when the mistake is mutual, the remedy is reformation. Deed conveying property to order rescinded for unilateral mistake. Wirsching v. Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 713.

81. Norris v. Crowe, 206 Pa. 438, 55 A. 1125.

82. Contract of exchange of lands set aside because made without authority from plaintiff church corporation. North Louisiana Baptist Ass'n v. Milliken, 110 La. 1002, 35 So. 264. In foreclosure action, the mortgage and note were ordered delivered up and canceled because void, having been executed without authority, after revocation, by death, of power of attorney. Brown v. Skotland [N. D.] 97 N. W. 543.

83. Where deeds, not intended to be and not in law delivered are put on record by the grantees, so as to be a cloud on grantor's title, he may have them canceled. Bunn v. Stewart [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1091.

ure to record is not ground for cancellation.[84] Inadequacy of consideration is not alone a sufficient ground for setting aside a conveyance,[85] but if coupled with circumstances tending to show oppression or undue influence or mental incapacity, relief will be granted.[86] Complete failure of consideration seems to be sufficient.[87]

Where a grantor conveys land in consideration of an agreement by the grantee to support the grantor during his or her natural life, failure of the grantee to carry out the agreement is ground for cancellation of the conveyance.[88] This is on the theory that there was fraud in the inception of the contract, and does not apply when failure to perform is by the grantee's heirs.[89] When this ground is relied upon, plaintiff must plead a re-entry or demand for possession,[90] and demand for performance,[91] or facts showing that demand for performance would have been unavailing.[92]

Where cancellation is sought on the ground of incompetency of the parties on one side, it will not be granted if any of the parties on that side appear capable of contracting.[93]

The right to rescission of a contract of conveyance is not affected by the fact that title was in a third person for the plaintiff's benefit.[94] Where cancellation of a deed by defendant to a third person is sought, plaintiff must show a right to specific performance of, or damages for breach of, an agreement relating to the same land.[95]

Conditions precedent.[96]—It is the general rule that a party seeking to have a contract canceled must show himself ready to place the other party in statu quo,[97]

84. A bill to cancel plaintiff's signature to a deed releasing restrictions on lots will not lie on the ground simply that another grantee, to whom the deed was conditionally delivered to sign refuses to record it. Wentworth v. Eichorn [Mass.] 69 N. E. 366.

85. But where a fiduciary relation exists, gross inadequacy is evidence of fraud. Walker v. Shephard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422. Mere inadequacy of consideration no ground to set aside conveyance. Booker v. Booker, 208 Ill. 529, 70 N. E. 709. Mere inadequacy, without showing of fraud, insufficient to set aside conveyance. Hagan v. Ward, 86 App. Div. 620, 83 N. Y. S. 436. Want of consideration, such as failure to perform promises, is not alone sufficient to warrant setting aside a bond or mortgage. Hill v. Gettys [N. C.] 47 S. E. 449. Adequacy of consideration is immaterial in absence of circumstances showing other equitable grounds for relief. Jacobson v. Nealand, 122 Iowa, 372, 98 N. W. 158. Inadequacy of price and negligence of attorney held not sufficient ground for setting aside sheriff's deed, especially since sale had been confirmed by court at the time. Crebbin v. Powell [Kan.] 74 P. 621.

86. Hardy v. Dyas, 203 Ill. 211, 67 N. E. 852.

87. Deed from father to daughter set aside where she had paid no part of expressed consideration and had been fully compensated for services to parents. Stringfellow v. Hanson, 25 Utah, 480, 71 P. 1052.

88. Stebbins v. Petty, 209 Ill. 291, 70 N. E. 673. Doctrine recognized but held inapplicable as facts did not show failure to carry out agreement to support. Pittenger v. Pittenger, 208 Ill. 582, 70 N. E. 699. Plaintiff and husband deeded land to son and wife in consideration of furnishing them a home. The agreement was carried out for 15 months and parties then agreed to rescind because all were dissatisfied. Rescission was prevented by sickness and death. Held, sufficient ground for equitable relief and contract rescinded. McDowell v. McDowell, 24 Ky. L. R. 2270, 73 S. W. 1022.

89. Stebbins v. Petty, 209 Ill. 291, 70 N. E. 673.

90, 91. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson [Ind.] 70 N. E. 881.

92. As when grantee, having promised to support grantor, drove her away. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson [Ind.] 70 N. E. 881.

93. One of three parties to a lease did not appear from the evidence to be incompetent. Barlow v. Strange [Ga.] 48 S. E. 344.

94. Thompson v. Barry, 184 Mass. 429, 68 N. E. 674.

95. Relief refused. Pruslecke v. Ramzinski [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 771.

96. See 1 Curr. L. 416.

97. Cheuvront v. Cheuvront [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 233. Where mother was granted cancellation of a deed for nonperformance by the son, of an agreement to care for her, he was entitled to recover $20 paid her on the price. Stephenson v. Stephenson, 24 Ky. L. R. 1873, 72 S. W. 742. Where deed was canceled, defendant being allowed to retain certain property, held, he was sufficiently compensated for expense incurred while contract was in force. McDowell v. McDowell, 24 Ky. L. R. 2270, 73 S. W. 1022. Cancellation of building contract refused when plaintiff did not offer to pay defendant for work done and materials furnished thereunder. Sullivan v. California Realty Co., 142 Cal. 201, 75 P. 767.

Note: Since "he who seeks equity must do equity," the court will ordinarily refuse to cancel contracts unless the parties be placed in statu quo. Worthington v. Collins.

as by tendering back benefits received under the contract,[98] and relief may be denied where the parties,[99] or innocent third parties,[1] cannot be so placed. The tender of benefits received must be absolute and made in good faith;[2] but may be sufficient if made in the bill.[3] But where the other party has been guilty of fraud or unconscionable conduct, equity may grant relief without an offer to place him in statu quo.[4] Such tender may be unnecessary where all performance is denied.[5] In Louisiana, tender of the price received is not a condition precedent to the bringing and maintenance of an action to rescind a sale for lesion beyond moiety.[6]

Laches.[7]—Unexplained delay for an unreasonable period bars the remedy.[8] But if the delay is not unreasonable,[9] or is caused by ignorance of rights,[10] it will not preclude relief. Laches of a grantor will not bar suit by his heir to set aside a conveyance.[11] The plaintiff may be precluded from maintaining suit for cancellation by an equitable election.[12]

39 W. Va. 406, 19 S. E. 527; Christian v. Vance, 41 W. Va. 754, 24 S. E. 596. This is the general rule where the transaction is purely of a commercial nature, or applies solely to property rights, and the doctrine has been carried so far that a court of equity has refused relief, though a party has been unable to restore what he has received on account of misfortune. But where a fiduciary relation exists between the parties and the one in whom confidence has been reposed has been guilty of fraud, deceit, overreaching, or unconscionable conduct, relief may be granted without a return of benefits received by the petitioner. See Cheuvront v. Cheuvront [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 233.

98. Payments made under an antenuptial agreement. Russell v. Russell, 129 F. 434. In suit to cancel deed fraudulently delivered while in escrow, plaintiff was required to repay a portion of consideration received. Rubie Combination Gold Min. Co. v. Princess Alice Gold Min. Co., 31 Colo. 158, 71 P. 1121. Cancellation of a deed will not be decreed without a tender by plaintiff of the consideration received. Alaska & C. Commercial Co. v. Solner [C. C. A.] 123 F. 855.

99. A cancellation of a chattel mortgage will not be decreed unless the original status of the parties can be restored. Anderson v. Anderson Food Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 489.

1. Though a patent was obtained by fraud, the government cannot have it canceled, when the land has been used for townsite purposes and the rights of innocent holders have intervened. Lynch v. U. S., 13 Okl. 142, 73 P. 1095.

2. Alaska & C. Commercial Co. v. Solner [C. C. A.] 123 F. 855.

3. Failure to do so before filing the bill is material only on the question of costs. McLeod v. McLeod, 137 Ala. 267, 34 So. 228.

4. Tender of an amount received in a settlement is unnecessary in order to maintain a suit for cancellation of a receipt given, when by fraud, defendant overstated the amount paid out by him. Price v. Stout, 84 App. Div. 334, 82 N. Y. S. 935. An offer to return part of the land and cash received from an exchange induced by fraud held a sufficient tender under the facts. Harris v. Dumont, 207 Ill. 583, 69 N. E. 811. Grantee took deed for inadequate price, taking advantage of grantor's incompetency, and the confidence reposed in him. Return of consideration not required. Hardy v. Dyas, 203 Ill. 211, 67 N. E. 852. A wife was granted cancellation of a separation contract procured by fraud, though she was unable to repay money given her to induce her to agree to the contract. Cheuvront v. Cheuvront [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 233.

5. There need be no tender of consideration or offer to reimburse when all performance is denied by plaintiff, who sets up fraud in the other party. Whether there must be reimbursement cannot be determined from the pleadings in such case. Sheehan v. Allen, 67 Kan. 712, 74 P. 245.

6. Ware v. Couvillion, 112 La. 43, 36 So. 220.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 416.

8. Booker v. Booker, 208 Ill. 529, 70 N. E. 709. Plaintiffs sought cancellation of deed on ground of incompetency and fraud 41 years after right of action accrued, no excuse being given for delay, and original parties being long since dead. Wilkes v. Phillips [Ga.] 48 S. E. 113. Where there was a failure of plaintiff's grantor to repudiate a deed given by her without joining her husband, for 19 years, plaintiff, acquiring title from woman after a divorce, was barred by laches. Dickman v. Dryden, 90 Minn. 244, 95 N. W. 1120.

9. A suit by a widow to set aside an antenuptial agreement for fraud is not barred by laches where commenced at once after the unsuccessful termination of a prior suit for its reformation, which was commenced within a year after her husband's death, she at all times asserting the invalidity of the agreement. Russell v. Russell, 129 F. 434.

10. Delay in bringing suit to set aside an unreasonable settlement will not bar relief when caused by ignorance of rights, and the other parties have not been placed in a position rendering an assertion of the claim unreasonable. James v. Aller [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 476.

11. Donnelly v. Rees, 141 Cal. 56, 74 P. 433.

12. Where plaintiff's property was given to defendant by a donor who at the time gave plaintiff other property which he accepted and received, making no objection for four years after reaching majority, he had elected. Barrier v. Kelly [Miss.] 33 So. 974.

Effect of death of party.—After a loss on the policy by death of the insured, such a suit cannot be maintained, in the absence of special circumstances invoking equity jurisdiction;[13] but before such loss it may be maintained,[14] and jurisdiction, when acquired, is not affected by death of the insured after commencement of the action.[15] The grantor's heirs may have cancellation of a conveyance for nonperformance of a condition to provide support.[16]

Evidence and proof.[17]—The allegations setting out the grounds on which relief is sought must be substantially and clearly proven.[18] But in a suit to set aside a conveyance between parties between whom a fiduciary relation exists, the burden is on the grantee to show the transaction free from fraud or undue influence.[19] A certificate of acknowledgment is not evidence of a grantor's mental

13. The misrepresentation and concealment being an adequate defense in an action on the policy. Riggs v. Union Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 207. Reversing circuit court below as to this proposition. See Union Life Ins. Co. v. Riggs, 123 F. 312; Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Blair, 130 F. 971; Des Moines Life Ins. Co. v. Seifert [Ill.] 71 N. E. 349.

14. Riggs v. Union Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 207; Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Blair, 130 F. 971.

15. Riggs v. Union Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 207. A plea in bar alleging the insured's death, and the bringing and pendency of an action at law, held not available to present the objection that the bill was not sustainable for want of equity. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Blair, 130 F. 971.

16. Man and wife conveyed to two children in consideration of support, care, medical attendance, etc. After the grantor's death, other heirs brought bill to cancel conveyance on ground of failure to perform any of the conditions of the agreement. A demurrer to the bill was held to have been erroneously sustained. Fluharty v. Fluharty [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 199.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 419.

18. Evidence insufficient to show incompetency, undue influence, or failure of support by grantees. Pamment v. Warner [Mich.] 97 N. W. 692. In action to set aside assignments of mortgages, evidence held to show a delivery before death of assignor, and decree for assignee affirmed. Peirson v. McNeal [Mich.] 100 N. W. 458. Cancellation of deed refused, when there was evidence as to circumstances surrounding its execution, no evidence that consideration was not paid, or of fraud or undue influence. Fink v. Van Fassen, 206 Pa. 362, 55 A. 1054. In suit to set aside conveyance by widow to daughter, other children being excluded, where it appeared the grantee cared for grantor for 17 years faithfully, it was held there was no presumption of undue influence, and evidence did not show any ground for setting deed aside. Vance v. Davis, 118 Wis. 548, 95 N. W. 939. A public contract will not be annulled unless the municipality can show that the contractor has not performed the conditions of his contract. City of El Reno v. El Reno Water Co. [Okl.] 76 P. 126.

Fraud must be proven by clear and satisfactory evidence. Grantor held competent and transaction free from fraud. Burnham v. Burnham, 119 Wis. 509, 97 N. W. 176. Cancellation of contract refused evidence not sustaining allegations of fraud. Perkins v. Blanchard Co., 81 App. Div. 635, 82 N. Y. S. 1080. Evidence held insufficient to show participation in fraud by defendant in suit to set aside mortgage. Mohr v. Griffin, 137 Ala. 456, 34 So. 378. Proof of fraud insufficient in suit by government to cancel land patent. U. S. v. Detroit Timber & Lumber Co., 124 F. 393. Held that an agreement for a license under a patent could not be canceled, as it was not invalid for fraud, though inchoate and incomplete. Kerr v. Southwick [C. C. A.] 120 F. 772. The burden is on the party asserting it. Moore v. Baker [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 106.

Forgery must be substantially and clearly proven. Grantor's testimony will not overcome certificate of acknowledgment, ordinarily. But held, in this case, that forgery was established. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Hutson, 198 Ill. 389, 65 N. E. 93. Evidence held to show signatures to mortgage and note not forged. Colbert v. Moore [Mass.] 70 N. E. 42.

Mental incapacity of grantor held not to have been shown. Hayman v. Wakeham [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1062.

19. Deed and transfer of promissory notes to Dowie, head of religious sect, by an old lady, a member, set aside, because the burden not met by defendants. Dowie v. Driscoll, 203 Ill. 480, 68 N. E. 56. Contract by old, weak-minded, ignorant woman to sell set aside, though no active fraud in vendee was shown, the contract being almost entirely executory, price inadequate, and circumstances such as to give vendee an undue advantage. Wilkie v. Sassen, 123 Iowa, 421, 99 N. W. 124. Evidence held to require a decree canceling, on the ground of fraud, a conveyance of land, with a reservation of a life estate, made for an inadequate consideration by an aged negro woman to her physician. Norfleet v. Beall [Miss.] 34 So. 328. Conveyance by old man to housekeeper held free from undue influence. Crooks v. Smith [Iowa] 99 N. W. 112. Where a fiduciary relation exists between the parties, proof of gross inadequacy becomes evidence of fraud. Walker v. Shephard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422.

Attorney and client: Where attorney bought land of a client, who had consulted him about it, the attorney must show the utmost good faith and that the client was not overreached. Young v. Murphy [Wis.] 97 N. W. 496.

Husband and wife: In a suit by a wife to cancel a separation contract, alleged to have been procured by fraud, the burden was on capacity,[20] nor is a record in a former suit to set aside another conveyance admissible on that issue.[21]

§ 3. Procedure.[22]—Since the action is equitable, the court tries all questions of fact and should make findings thereon.[23] The statutes granting new trial of right in actions affecting title to land apply to a suit to cancel a conveyance.[24]

Pleading.[25]—The bill must set out facts sufficient to constitute fraud when that is the ground of the relief prayed for.[26] But only the result of undue influence, not the particular acts constituting it, need be alleged.[27] The bill must show a sufficient tender of the property received,[28] and must show complainant's title to that transferred.[29] A bill to cancel a conveyance by a common donor to defendant of plaintiff's property, which shows that the donor at the same time made a gift of other property to plaintiff, must disclose the value of the property received by plaintiff.[30] A petition by the United States to annul a patent for fraud must, under the code, contain all the material averments essential to a good bill in equity under the chancery practice.[31] Equitable considerations, which it is claimed warrant the court in refusing to annul a mortgage without restoration of the consideration, must be presented by answer and cannot be raised on demurrer.[32] In a purely equitable action to cancel a contract, a mere allegation that plaintiff has an adequate remedy at law is not good as a defense under the code.[33]

Parties.[34]—All persons interested in the subject-matter of the contract sought to be canceled are necessary parties.[35] In suit to cancel an agreement to pay commissions, the other party to the contract, for procuring which the commission is sought, is not a necessary party.[36] In suit for cancellation of a policy of insurance on the ground of a fraudulent conspiracy between the insured and others, brought after the death of the insured, the co-conspirators may be made parties defendant with the executors or beneficiaries for the purpose of having liability for costs adjudicated.[37]

the husband to show she acted with full knowledge and that the transaction was fair. Cheuvront v. Cheuvront [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 233. In a suit by the wife to cancel a conveyance by her to her husband, the burden is on defendants to show the contract fair and equitable. Evidence held not sufficient. Harraway v. Harraway, 136 Ala. 499, 34 So. 836.

20. It is evidence only of those facts to which the notary is required to certify. Walker v. Shepard [Ill.] 71 N. E. 422.

21. Defendants not having been parties to the former action. Bollnow v. Roach [Ill.] 71 N. E. 454.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 416.

23. Action to set aside conveyance for fraud sent back for retrial because improperly tried by jury and court omitted to make findings. Flanigan v. Skelly, 89 App. Div. 108, 85 N. Y. S. 4.

24. Krise v. Wilson, 31 Ind. App. 590, 68 N. E. 693. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1076. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson [Ind.] 70 N. E. 881.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 417.

26. To cancel bill of sale of stock for fraud. Bill held demurrable. Wetherell v. Johnson, 208 Ill. 247, 70 N. E. 229. Allegations of fraud held to be sufficient. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson [Ind.] 70 N. E. 881.

27. McLeod v. McLeod, 137 Ala. 267, 34 So. 228.

28. Alaska & C. Commercial Co. v. Solner [C. C. A.] 123 F. 855.

29. Cancellation of a lease being sought the bill must allege title to the lands in plaintiff. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Sexton, 31 Ind. App. 575, 68 N. E. 692.

30. Especially if he does not offer to return it. An election is involved and he must do equity. Barrier v. Kelly [Miss.] 33 So. 974.

31. The United States in such suit has no rights superior to any other suitor. Lynch v. U. S., 13 Okl. 142, 73 P. 1095.

32. Lange v. Geiser, 138 Cal. 682, 72 P. 343.

33. Contract for royalties on songs to be published, plaintiff alleging publisher did not intend to publish them, but made contract to prevent competition. Edmonds v. Stern, 89 App. Div. 539, 85 N. Y. S. 665.

34. See 1 Curr. L. 417, with annotations.

35. In a suit to cancel a patent, every person having an interest in the land covered by the patent is an indispensable party, without whom equity will not proceed. Lynch v. U. S., 13 Okl. 142, 73 P. 1095. Where a municipality made a contract for construction of a system of waterworks, authorizing the contractor to mortgage the same to secure loans to enable him to proceed with the work, the mortgagees are necessary parties in a suit by the municipality to cancel the contract. City of El Reno v. El Reno Water Co. [Okl.] 76 P. 126.

36. Warren v. Miller [Iowa] 99 N. W. 127.

37. Union Life Ins. Co. v. Riggs, 123 F. 312.

CARRIERS.

Part I. In General (591).

§ 1. Definitions and Distinctions (591).

§ 2. Duty to Undertake and Provide Carriage (592). Charges (592). What Constitutes Discrimination (593). Statutory Provisions Against Discrimination (593). Remedies (593).

§ 3. Rights and Relations Between Carrier and Connecting Carrier, Draymen, or Transfer Men (594).

Part II. Carriage of Goods (594).

§ 4. Delivery to Carrier and Inception of Liability (594).

§ 5. Special Contracts for Carriage, and Bills of Lading (595). Bills of Lading (595). Interpretation. (596). Indorsement and Transfer (596).

§ 6. The Duty to Furnish Cars (596).

§ 7. Forwarding and Transporting Goods (596).

§ 8. Loss of or Injury to Goods (597).

§ 9. Delivery by Carrier and Storage at Destination (598). Acceptance and Unloading (599). Refusal by Consignee (599). Storage at Destination (599). Liability for Conversion (599).

§ 10. Liability of Carrier or Connecting Carrier (600). Exemption and Limitation of Liability (601). Loss or Injury (601). Statutory Remedies (601).

§ 11. Limitation of Liability (601).

§ 12. Public Records of Traffic (603).

§ 13. Remedies and Procedure. Timely Notice or Suit (603). Persons Who May Sue (603). Particular Remedies Available (604). Venue (604). Pleading, Proofs, and Evidence (604). Instructions (605). Damages (606).

§ 14. Freight and Other Charges (606).

Part III. Carriage of Live Stock (608).

§ 15. Duty to Carry and Contract of Carriage Generally (608).

§ 16. Care Required of Carrier (608).

§ 17. Delivery (610).

§ 18. Liability of Carrier or Connecting Carrier (610).

§ 19. Limitation of Liability (610). Limitations as to Amount (610). Consideration (611). Assent to Limitation (611). Provision that Shipper Shall Accompany and Care for or Load and Unload Stock (611). Provisions for Notice of Injury (612). Waiver of Limitation (612).

§ 20. Procedure in Actions Relating to Carriage of Stock (612).

§ 21. Damages (616).

Part IV. Carriage of Passengers (617).

§ 22. Who are Passengers (617). Persons on Other Than Passenger Trains (618). When Relation Begins (619). When Relation Ceases or is Interrupted (620).

§ 23. Duty to Receive and Carry Passengers (620). Through Trains (621). Stops Must be Made at Flag Stations (621). Ejection of Passengers (621). Tender of Fare to Avoid Expulsion (623). Manner of Ejection (623). Injuries Caused by Resistance (623). Elements and Measure of Damage (624). Remedies and Procedure for Ejection (625). Delays (626).

§ 24. Rates and Fares, Tickets and Special Contracts (627). Penalties for Overcharge (628). Tickets and Contracts (628). Conditions and Limits (628). Mileage Books and Credential Contracts (629). Property, Ownership and Redemption of Tickets (629). Dealing in Nontransferable Special Rate Tickets (630). Cash Fares (630). The Duty of Furnishing Transfers (631). Limitation of Liability (631).

§ 26. Means and Facilities of Transportation (633).

§ 27. Operation and Management of Trains and Other Vehicles (634).

§ 28. The Duty to Protect Passengers (636).

§ 29. Taking on or Setting Down Passengers (637).

§ 30. Duty to Persons Other Than Passengers (641).

§ 31. Liability for Personal Injuries (641). A. General Principles (641). B. Contributory Negligence of Passenger (644). C. Remedies and Procedure (649).

Part V. Carriage of Baggage and Passengers' Effects (661).

§ 32. Rights, Duties and Liabilities (661).

§ 33. Care of Baggage and Effects (661).

§ 34. Limitation of Liability (662).

§ 35. Damages (663).

§ 36. Remedies and Procedure (663).

Part I. In General.[38]

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[39]—Street railway companies[40] and persons maintaining or operating passenger elevators,[41] especially in a public building, are within the term common carriers.[42]

Irrigation companies are regarded as quasi-public servants, analogous to common carriers,[43] and so are telegraph companies.[44]

38. This topic treats only of the laws relating to common carriage of persons or goods. That relating to corporations engaged in carriage (see Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Shipping and Water Traffic, 2 Curr. L. 1648), is pertinent to other topics specifically devoted to it. Likewise the relations between the carrier and its employes are those of Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801. The rules peculiar to water carriage are treated in Shipping and Water Traffic, 2 Curr. L. 1648.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 422.

40. Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197.

41. See article Buildings, 1 Curr. L. 404, for a complete treatment of their duties and liabilities. Luckel v. Century Bldg. Co., 177 Mo. 608, 76 S. W. 1035; Springer v. Schultz, 105 Ill. App. 544. Passenger elevator in an office building. Goldsmith v. Holland Bldg. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1112.

42. Fox v. Philadelphia, 208 Pa. 127, 57 A. 356.

But in Michigan, there is a deviation from this rule. Burgess v. Stowe [Mich.] 96 N. W. 29.

43. Gould v. Maricopa Canal Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 598. See Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.

44. See article Telegraphs and Telephones, 2 Curr. L. 1843. Cogdell v. W. U. Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 431, 47 S. E. 490.

Validity of incorporation is immaterial in fixing the duties of a carrier.[45]

A common carrier may become a private carrier or bailee for hire, when he undertakes to carry something which it is not his business to carry.[46] In such case he has a right to limit or release himself from liability by contract.[47]

§ 2. Duty to undertake and provide carriage.[48]—The carrier must undertake carriage and may be penalized for a refusal.[49] A common carrier may make such reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as it may deem necessary.[50] It is subject to such reasonable regulations as each state or the United States may under the constitution establish.[51]

There must be no unequal discrimination[52] against those seeking to use regular trains, even in favor of a patron who has voluntarily expended more than his share in procuring such service.[53]

Charges.[54]—The common law prevents unjust or unreasonable discriminations.[55] Rates must also conform to such rates as the states on local and the United States on interstate business[56] respectively prescribe, and as the charter contemplates.[57]

A railroad sending its cars over a branch must not discriminate against any shipper thereon,[58] and where it has acquired terminal rights, must not make discriminatory charges for use thereof.[59] A statutory permission to charge expenses of maintenance to owners of private sidetracks does not authorize an arbitrary charge imposed on shipments from such tracks.[60]

45. Express company. Adams Exp. Co. v. State, 161 Ind. 328, 67 N. E. 1033.

46. Wilson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 F. 774.

47. Wilson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 F. 774. A railroad company is not required, as a common carrier, to transport a circus train belonging to a circus company, a part of which is loaded with wild animals, over its line on a schedule to be arranged by the circus company. Contract releasing railroad from liability for injury or damage to employes or property of circus company in consideration of reduced rate held valid. Id.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 422.

49. Where a car of lumber was properly loaded, the carrier was liable for the penalty under Code 1883, § 1964, as amended by Laws 1903, c. 444, for refusing to receive the same, though it was to be shipped out of the state. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654.

NOTE. Effect of strikes on carriers' liability: A carrier was held not to be relieved from its duty to receive freight from a connecting line by its fear that a strike on its own line might result from so doing. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Burlington, C. R. & N. R. Co., 34 F. 481. In Kentucky, it was held that a failure to supply cars to individual shippers, caused by a strike of coal miners in a certain district, was excusable, since it was more important to continue its general freight and passenger business than to carry the coal of an individual shipper. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Queen City Coal Co., 18 Ky. L. R. 126, 35 S. W. 626.—From note to Empire Transp. Co. v. Phila. & R. C. & I. Co., 35 L. R. A. 623.

50. Lewis v. Weatherford, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 111. See, also, post, § 27. Rules pertinent to particular matters are treated in the section dealing with that to which the rules relate. See following sections.

51. See Commerce, 1 Curr. L. 538. Constitutional provisions against discrimination held not self-executing [Const., §§ 15, 22]. N. W. Warehouse Co. v. Or. R. & Nav. Co., 32 Wash. 218, 73 P. 388.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 422, n. 6-9.

Newspapers are entitled to equal rights on a scheduled train, notwithstanding it has been established and supported by the enterprise of one to secure quick delivery of its papers. In an action to compel acceptance of other papers as freight, the equities between the papers as to expenses incurred cannot be worked out on cross bill. Memphis News Pub. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 110 Tenn. 684, 75 S. W. 941.

53. Where a train has been established at the expense and by the enterprise of a single newspaper, the carrier cannot impose as a condition a sharing of the expense voluntarily assumed by the first. Memphis News Pub. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 110 Tenn. 684, 75 S. W. 941.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 422. See post, § 14, for general treatment of freight charges. See Commerce, 1 Curr. L. 538, for Interstate Commerce Act.

55. Injunction may be had. Tift v. Southern R. Co., 123 F. 789.

56. Evidence held to show that on transshipment a shipment lost its character as interstate commerce. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. State [Tex.] 78 S. W. 495.

57. By reincorporation under a general act, a railroad is estopped to contest the validity of regulations of rates contained therein. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Osborn, 193 U. S. 17, 24 S. Ct. 310.

58. Kellogg v. Sowerby, 93 App. Div. 124, 87 N. Y. S. 412.

59. Question of fairness of charge does not enter when exacted of but one shipper. Ohio Coal Co. v. Whitcomb [C. C. A.] 123 F. 359.

60. Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 1802. Ohio Coal Co. v. Whitcomb [C. C. A.] 123 F. 359.

What constitutes discrimination.[61]—Conditions must be similar to establish discrimination,[62] and unfairness of a long haul rate does not depend on actually greater mileage.[63] A carrier may make a difference in rates to competitive points,[64] hence a charge of lower rates for a longer haul due to competition is not an unjust discrimination if a greater rate for a shorter haul is not unreasonable,[65] and a through rate may be less than the sum of local rates.[66] A contract to maintain rates from one point to competitive points, not exceeding the rates from two other places, is not discrimination within the meaning of the Inter State Commerce Act,[67] neither is a milling in transit agreement.[68]

Carriage at established rates to pay a legal and determined debt is not a discrimination,[69] and where not a blind to cover a low rate, a carrier may buy a commodity and sell it for delivery at another point at less than cost plus established freight charges.[70]

In a proceeding for discrimination between localities or charging more for a shorter haul, it need not be shown that more than commission rates are charged.[71]

Statutory provisions against discrimination[72] may require the carrier to forward freight in the order received and impose a liability for ensuing damages,[73] and penal provisions are construed strictly.[74]

Under certain statutes, triple damages and attorney's fees are recoverable.[75]

Remedies.[76]—The existence of a remedy against the person favored does not absolve the carrier.[77] An agreement to pay an extra charge reserving legal rights does not waive remedies for discrimination.[78] Each act of discrimination need 61. See 1 Curr. L. 423. See Commerce, 1 Curr. L. 538, for discussion of effect of Interstate Commerce Act.

62. Held lawful: Refusal to furnish cars to be loaded with coal from wagons as had been done. Harp v. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 445. To charge greater rate for car lot made of small lots combined by a forwarding agent, than for the car lot of a single owner [24 Stat. 379, § 2]. Lundquist v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 121 F. 915.

63. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1133, 1134. Cohn v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 961.

64. A mere possibility of competition will not make a greater rate to a point obnoxious to the long and short haul clause of Interstate Commerce Act. Rates from New Orleans to La Grange, Ga., based on Atlanta as a competitive point, held proper. Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 190 U. S. 273, 23 S. Ct. 687, 47 Law. Ed. 1047. Lower rates from Chicago and western points to Norfolk and Richmond, Va., than to Wilmington, N. C., held justified by conditions. Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Cincinnati, P. & V. R. Co., 124 F. 624.

65. Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 800.

66. Const. § 215. Within this meaning, a contract may be through, though there is no express agreement between the connecting carriers. Southern R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1078, 77 S. W. 207.

67. Laurel Cotton Mills v. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 134.

68. Laurel Cotton Mills v. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 134. And in an action for breach of such contract, the burden is not on the plaintiff to show that the contract rate had been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission and approved by the State Railroad Commission. Id.

69. Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 128 F. 59.

70. Contract held to show violation of § 3 of Interstate Commerce Act. Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 128 F. 59.

71. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1133, 1134. Cohn v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 961.

72. Rev. St. 1899, § 1126, is not repealed by § 1124. McGrew v. Mo. Pac. R. Co., 177 Mo. 533, 76 S. W. 995. See 1 Curr. L. 423.

73. Rev. St. 1895, arts. 4537, 4539. Hill v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 874.

74. Penalties provided by Acts 1887, p. 110, c. 120, are not extended by the rearrangement in Rev. St. 1895, so as to be applicable to additional cases such as violations of Acts 1883, p. 69, c. 70, providing a liability for damages for failure to forward freight in the order received. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hill [Tex.] 80 S. W. 368. In proceedings to recover the penalty, the case must be brought clearly within the statute. Only actual damages are awarded where proof failed to show receipt of goods "in the warehouse or depot" [Rev. St. 1895, art. 4537]. Hill v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 874. [On rehearing in this case it was held sufficient to show delivery on the station platform.]

75. Rev. St. 1899, § 1140. Cohn v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 961.

76. Penalties and Indictments, see 1 Curr. L. 424, n. 33-38.

77. Railroad agreed with an association of elevators to add an elevator charge to its freight rate and pay the amount so collected to the association. Kellogg v. Sowerby, 93 App. Div. 124, 87 N. Y. S. 412.

78. Ohio Coal Co. v. Whitcomb [C. C. A.] 123 F. 359.

not be made a separate cause of action.[79] In statutory and penal actions, the acts coming within the statute must be well pleaded.[80] Quo warranto will not lie for a discrimination which affects private interests only,[81] but if a franchise be violated, it can be remedied only by public suit.[82] The United States may maintain a suit in equity to restrain discrimination.[83]

§ 3. Rights and relations between carrier and connecting carrier, draymen, or transfer men.[84]—A railroad is bound to accept freight from another carrier at its published rate.[85] By statute generally it is required that other carriers be treated with equal fairness.[86] It is not an unreasonable preference under the interstate commerce act for a railroad to refuse shipments of cattle for delivery at a stockyards on a different line, with which, however, it has physical connection, if it maintains at the same city of general destination a stockyards on its own line.[87] The carrier may give one transfer agent the exclusive right of soliciting business on its trains,[88] and may exclude soliciting draymen from its depot grounds, where not employed by passengers and when passengers are afforded reasonable facilities of egress.[89]

Statutes imposing penalties for not stopping passenger trains at junction points, being penal, are to be strictly construed.[90]

PART II. CARRIAGE OF GOODS.

§ 4. Delivery to carrier and inception of liability.[91]—A carrier has the right to make reasonable rules concerning the classification and suitable preparation of

79. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1133, 1134. Cohn v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 961.

80. A complaint alleging that goods were tendered at a certain depot on a certain date and that the carrier refused to receive the same is a sufficient allegation of tender. In an action for a penalty under Code 1883, § 1964, as amended by Laws 1903, c. 444. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654. Petition for discrimination under Rev. St. 1899, § 1113, held sufficient statement of manner of plaintiff's injury. Cohn v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 961. Code 1883, § 1964, amended by Laws 1903, c. 444, imposing a penalty for a refusal to receive goods for transportation, is a public statute and need not be pleaded. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654.

By what name sued: The Adams Express Co., a copartnership, is properly sued in that name by the state to recover a penalty for discrimination. Adams Exp. Co. v. State, 161 Ind. 328, 67 N. E. 1033.

81. Reconsignment charges in transferring cars from one switch back to another. Rev. St. 1899, c. 12, arts. 2, 4 provides a remedy in the Railroad Commission. State v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 176 Mo. 687, 75 S. W. 776.

82. Maximum rate clause. Millcreek Tp. v. Erie Rapid Transit St. R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 613.

83. Elkins act permits a suit in equity for violations of Interstate Commerce Act prior to its enactment [Act Feb. 19, 1903 (32 Stat. 847, c. 708)]. United States v. Mich. Cent. R. Co., 122 F. 544. Injunction held properly granted against coal shipments under contract of sale by carrier affording discrimination. Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 128 F. 59.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 424. See Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 140, for duty to make transfer connections.

85. There need not be an agreement for a joint through rate. A combination of local rates need not have been charged by the initial carrier. The fact that the cars of other companies were loaded, on which the carrier would have to pay mileage, is not material, nor is the fact that the initial carrier, in consideration of a given per cent of the consignor's shipments, has agreed to give as low a rate as any other road. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Tex. Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 567.

86. Acts requiring express companies to furnish equal accommodations to all other like companies are held constitutional. See Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. L. 569. Adams Exp. Co. v. State, 161 Ind. 328, 67 N. E. 1033. A complaint alleging that defendant, an express company, refused to accept a described package, complete its transportation and collect charges, as was its custom and usage at that point with other express companies, is sufficient under Act March 7, 1901, Acts 1901, p. 149, c. 93; Burns' Rev. St. 1901, §§ 3312b-3312f, imposing a penalty on express companies refusing equal privileges to other express companies. Adams Exp. Co. v. State, 161 Ind. 328, 67 N. E. 1033.

87. See Commerce, 1 Curr. L. 538. Cent. Stock Yards Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 192 U. S. 568, 24 S. Ct. 339.

88. Such regulation does not violate Texas anti-trust law [Rev. St. 1895, art. 5313]. Lewis v. Weatherford, M. W. & N. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 111.

89. Hedding v. Gallagher [N. H.] 57 A. 225.

90. Sufficiency and admissibility of evidence under Rev. St. 1899, § 1075, considered. State v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 714.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 425.

articles for shipment,[92] and the place where it will receive articles for carriage,[93] and may change and modify rules on reasonable notice to the public.[94] Liability may accrue without issuance of bill of lading or intent to ship at once.[95] Whether entire and exclusive custody of goods has been given the carrier, imposing liability as such, is a question for the jury.[96]

§ 5. Special contracts for carriage,[97] and bills of lading.[98]—It is not essential that every detail shall be predetermined.[99] Within the scope of apparent or disclosed authority, the carrier's agent may make binding contracts.[1] An undisclosed principal is bound by the terms agreed to by his agent.[2] Words will be taken as the parties intended.[3] A written contract merges a previous oral one,[4] but under certain circumstances an action may be maintained on a verbal contract, although a written contract may subsequently have been entered into.[5] Rebilling and fixing destination at a transfer point does not necessarily make a new contract.[6] Where a contract for preferential rates was for the benefit of a shipper and his assigns, it did not pass to a legatee under the will of the shipper.[7]

Bills of lading.[8]—A carbon copy of a bill of lading designed for filing is not a duplicate requiring a revenue stamp.[9]

Between the carrier and parties entitled to receive the property at its hands,

92. The question is one of law. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Colby [Neb.] 96 N. W. 145. Where a car has a defective draw bar, the carrier waives such objection by agreeing to haul it by the sound draw bar at the rear of a train. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Byrne, 205 Ill. 9, 68 N. E. 720.

93, 94. Where carrier designated siding where coal would be received, which was not an unreasonable place, shipper could not compel it to receive coal at siding where other merchandise was received merely because it was more convenient to him. Robinson v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 753. Shipper restrained from dumping coal at other siding, taking possession of cars and blocking siding with teams, thus creating public nuisance. Id.

95. As where goods are delivered to and received by a carrier for shipment. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Beard [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 253.

96. Bottles and cases deposited on depot platform, it being contended that defendant had no notice they were ready for shipment. Stapleton v. Grand Trunk R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 739. Evidence held insufficient to show custom to regard goods on platform awaiting shipping instructions as in custody of carrier. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Beard [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 253.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 425.

98. See 1 Curr. L. 426.

99. A contract to furnish a train may be complete, though the time is left to be determined. Outland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 350, 46 S. E. 735. Final destination not fixed. Soper v. Tyler [Conn.] 58 A. 699.

1. A general freight agent has power to bind the company by an agreement to furnish a train. Outland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 350, 46 S. E. 735. A station agent has no power to contract for a discriminatory rate. Myar v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 71 Ark. 552, 76 S. W. 557.

Disclosure of limitations: A statement by agent that his routing would probably be disregarded prevents his act in accepting freight, routed in a particular way, from being binding. Bessling & Co. v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 639. The carrier is liable for contracts of a traveling freight agent who contracts without disclosing limitations on his general authority to solicit business. Baker v. Chicago Great Western R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 650.

2. The action may sound in tort. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. James, 117 Ga. 832, 45 S. E. 223.

3. A contract to furnish "a train" to haul fifty cars of freight construed to mean trains sufficient. Outland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 350, 46 S. E. 735.

The intention of the parties to make an open contract or one requiring acceptance before shipment is a question for the jury. Baker v. Chicago Great Western R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 650.

4. Where the written contract of shipment states that it is not agreed to deliver for a particular market, evidence of a prior oral agreement is inadmissible, especially where the original shippers were not parties; nor does the joinder of the parties thereto as plaintiffs render it admissible. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Wilson & Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 340.

5. Shipment of stock. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1032.

6. Single bill of lading was issued and at a subsequent transfer point the ultimate destination was to be fixed. Soper v. Tyler [Conn.] 58 A. 699.

7. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694.

8. Bills of lading are quasi-negotiable. See Negotiable Instruments, 2 Curr. L. 1013. By means of a transfer of them a sale of the goods shipped is often effected. See Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1527. As to the liabilities of banks on drafts with bills of lading attached, see Banking, etc., 3 Curr. L. 403. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 426.

9. 30 Stat. 448, Act June 13, 1898, c. 448. Wright v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 843.

bills of lading are symbols of title.[10] A shipper is bound by the conditions of a bill of lading which he accepts at the time the shipment is made, though he does not receive it, or agree to it in writing,[11] and it will not be presumed that a deviation was assented to.[12] Parol evidence of the forwarding route is admissible where the bill of lading is silent,[13] but a mere instruction in writing to forward by a certain route has no effect.[14]

Interpretation.[15]—Names written on the bill have such significance as the parties intended,[16] and the force and meaning to be given words may be shown by extrinsic evidence.[17] Meaningless blanks are not to be considered.[18] An apparent good order receipt refers only to the outward appearance of the package.[19]

Indorsement and transfer,[20] as affecting rights between the carrier and the owner or holder of the bill of lading, will be treated in succeeding sections. As affecting title to the goods or rights respecting attached drafts, it is not germane to this title.

§ 6. The duty to furnish cars[21] does not require provision for an unusual amount of freight offered occasionally and at long intervals.[22] In case of scarcity, cars may be fairly apportioned.[23] Where there is an agreement to furnish cars, the shipper is not bound to cease the preparation of freight on finding that the carrier may not be able to furnish the cars.[24] Unreasonable neglect in providing cars is usually a question for the jury,[25] though seventy-five or eighty days' delay has been held unreasonable as a matter of law.[26]

§ 7. Forwarding and transporting goods.[27]—The transportation must be with reasonable expedition, unless there is notice of necessity for unusual haste.[28] A

10. Ryan v. Great Northern R. Co., 90 Minn. 12, 95 N. W. 758.

11. Not bound by conditions written into it which he does not read or accept, or authorize or assent to, as to delivery to any connecting carrier, where shipping receipt specified carrier. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

12. The burden is on the carrier to show that the shipper assented to the billing of goods to a place other than that designated in the shipping receipt. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

13. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Duncan & Orr, 137 Ala. 446, 34 So. 988.

14. Bessling & Co. v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 639.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 427.

16. Writing of name of consignee in margin of bill of lading held to be with intention to prevent delivery without production of the bill. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1094.

17. Deposition of ship's mate held admissible to show custom to receipt for cotton as in good condition, where apparently so or not damaged too much. Bath v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 993. May be shown that word "notify" in bill of lading is among carriers regarded as meaning that the party to be notified is entitled to the shipment on presentation of the bill accompanied by the draft to which it is attached. Stoner v. Zachary [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1098.

18. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1094.

19. Plaintiff must show by affirmative proof that contents were in good order. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 175.

20. See 1 Curr. L. 427; also consult Banking, etc., 1 Curr. L. 289; Negotiable Instruments, 2 Curr. L. 1013; Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1527.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 426, n. 59-63.

22. State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 309. In the absence of notice of urgent necessity, the carrier need not put forth unusual efforts to move hay. Strough v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 584, 87 N. Y. S. 30.

23. In fair proportion to the amount of each shipper's business. See ante, § 2, as to discrimination. One shipper may thus receive fewer cars than another. State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 309. An allotment of cars between mines should not be arbitrarily made, but should be based on all the different factors in the daily output. Factors pointed out and facts held to show discrimination. U. S. v. West Virginia Northern R. Co., 125 F. 252.

24. Outland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 350, 46 S. E. 735.

25. Strough v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 584, 87 N. Y. S. 30.

26. Not palliated by reasonable efforts to procure foreign cars. Outland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 350, 46 S. E. 735.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 428.

28. Choctaw & M. R. Co. v. Walker, 71 Ark. 671, 76 S. W. 1058.

NOTE. Liability for delays from strikes, etc.: The carrier was said to be liable for a complete failure to deliver goods caused by the depredations or the violence of mobs, rioters, strikers, thieves and the like. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Nevill, 60 Ark. 375, 30 S.

code provision requiring freight to be forwarded in five days under penalty does not remit the common-law liability.[29] The consignee must use ordinary care in ascertaining and removing causes of delay.[30] What is proper diligence is a question of fact for the jury.[31]

Delivery to succeeding carrier.—If no forwarder be specified the initial carrier may select it.[32] Otherwise does so at its own risk.[33]

When the connecting carrier refuses a shipment, the initial carrier should use the same care that the owner, being a man of ordinary care and prudence, would have exercised under the same knowledge in forwarding.[34] It is the duty of the initial carrier to give notice to the consignor unless the property is of such character that injury will result from the time consumed.[35]

§ 8. Loss of or injury to goods.[36]—A carrier is not liable for loss of goods not in its possession or under its control, or in no way attributable to its negligence.[37] If in its custody, it is not absolved by the fact that the act of its agent representing a third person caused the loss,[38] nor does the shipper's knowledge always excuse the carrier's negligence.[39] The carrier may be responsible for the burning of goods placed on its platform.[40] It is not negligence for a carrier to fail to take precautions against loss by fire of cars on a siding in the open country,[41] and it is not liable for loss by unprecedented storm, though had cars been delivered promptly they would have been previously unloaded,[42] the question of negligence in such cases being for the jury.[43] Nondisclosure of value or the signing of a clear receipt may wholly or partially release the carrier.[44]

W. 425, 28 L. R. A. 80. The carrier is held liable for delay in transporting goods caused by a strike of its employes, unaccompanied by violence or intimidation. Central R. & Banking Co. v. Georgia Fruit & Vegetable Exch., 91 Ga. 389, 17 S. E. 904; Pittsburgh, Ft. W. & C. R. Co. v. Hazen, 84 Ill. 36, 25 Am. Rep. 422; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Levi [Tex. App.] 14 S. W. 1062; Read v. St. Louis, K. C. & N. R. Co., 60 Mo. 199. But the carrier is generally relieved from liability for delay caused by mob violence of strikers which cannot be overcome by reasonable efforts. Geismer v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co., 102 N. Y. 563, 55 Am. Rep. 837; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Tisdale, 74 Tex. 8, 11 S. W. 900, 4 L. R. A. 545; Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Bennett, 89 Ind. 457; Haas v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 81 Ga. 792, 7 S. E. 629; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bell, 13 Ky. L. R. 393.—From note to Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia & R. Coal & Iron Co. [U. S.] 35 L. R. A. 623.

29. Code, § 1964. Parker v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

30. Nonprepayment of freight, $?59 damages sustained. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Bottorff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1324, 77 S. W. 920.

31. Roth Clothing Co. v. Maine S. S. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 25.

32. Bessling & Co. v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 639.

33. A car line taking freight for a point "Care M. P. R. R." must deliver to that road, and is liable for an intermediate carrier. It was liable for delay in doing so on the part of a transportation company to which it delivered them. James S. Davis Clothing Co. v. Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 226.

34. Selection of circuitous route held negligent. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Duncan, 137 Ala. 446, 34 So. 988.

35. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Duncan, 137 Ala. 446, 34 So. 988.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 428.

37. Not liable for cotton burned while in possession of compress company, though cost of compression was included in the freight and paid by carrier. Edwards & Co. v. Tex. Midland R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 800. Where a horse became frightened while in the custody of the carrier and ran away, but no fault was attributable to the carrier, he was not liable. Kaplan v. Midland R. Terminal Co., 88 N. Y. S. 945.

38. Where an express agent at request of the owner attempts to select and forward the owner's goods, the company is liable as for a conversion of goods belonging to others erroneously forwarded. Edwards v. American Exp. Co., 121 Iowa, 744, 96 N. W. 740.

39. A carrier is not relieved from liability for furnishing a refrigerator car improperly iced, by the fact that the shipper discovers such fact before his goods are loaded, if he has no opportunity to remedy the situation or honestly believes they will travel safely. Whether discovered in time to remedy the condition and impose liability on the shippers is for the jury. Johnson v. Toledo, S. & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 724.

40. It is not in itself negligence to store cotton on the platform unless the shipper has notice that locomotives are so equipped or operated as to be dangerous. Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 138 Ala. 510, 35 So. 561. Evidence held to show liability for firing cotton placed for shipment. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Beard [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 253.

41. Siding maintained for benefit of planters in that locality. Charnock v. Tex. & P. R. Co., 194 U. S. 432, 24 S. Ct. 671.

42. Hunt Bros. v. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 69.

43. Evidence that a car containing explo-

§ 9. Delivery by carrier and storage at destination.[45]—In the absence of a special contract or custom to the contrary, the duty of a common carrier of goods is not completed upon their mere arrival at destination, but includes their delivery to the consignee,[46] or their deposit in depot or warehouse, and notice given,[47] though there is a custom not to notify;[48] but a custom may remove the necessity of giving notice on particular days.[49] Where the contract contemplates delivery upon the carrier's premises at the place of destination, and no time for their arrival or delivery is stipulated for, the carrier is bound to allow the consignee a reasonable time in which to make inquiries as to their arrival,[50] or else to give him notice of such arrival.[51] In either case, the consignee is entitled to a reasonable time and opportunity, after notice of their arrival, in which to take the goods away.[52] What is a reasonable time depends upon all the circumstances of the case, and is a question of fact.[53] A well known custom that the carrier shall notify the consignee by mail is to be considered as part of the contract of transportation.[54] Demand for delivery and tender of charges may not be essential.[55] The consignees are not bound to make inquiry if they have reason to think a shipment overdue.[56] Misinformation in response to an inquiry may make a liability, though the notice had been sent.[57]

After refusal to deliver, the carrier is liable for subsequent damages.[58]

Presentation of the shipping receipt or bill of lading properly indorsed is essential on a shipment to consignor's order,[59] and usage and custom will not dispense therewith,[60] nor will the shipper's direction to deliver without it.[61] A right to presentation of a shipping bill is waived by refusal to deliver on ground of unpaid freight.[62]

A statute punishing the delivery of goods without production of the bill of lading, unless non-negotiable, cannot be made a basis of recovery by one induced to take the bill through a forgery rendering it apparently negotiable.[63]

Liability for delivery of goods at a wrong station is waived by direction of sives, so placarded, was allowed to stand 3 or 4 days on a transfer track, is for the jury. Phoenix Powder Mfg. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 442, 74 S. W. 492.

44, 45. See 1 Curr. L. 429.

46. Burr v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 609.

47. Pa. R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124. Especially where there is a custom. Ala. & V. R. Co. v. J. M. & C. B. Pounder [Miss.] 35 So. 155.

48. Liability exists for freight destroyed by fire in depot. Gulf & C. R. Co. v. Fuqua [Miss.] 36 So. 449.

49. July 4th. One who ships goods to that destination is bound by the custom. Pa. R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124.

50, 51. Burr v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 609.

52. Plaintiff learned of arrival of goods at 8 p. m., paid charges and arranged for delivery to expressman the next morning. Goods stolen that night. Company held liable. Burr v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 609.

53. Burr v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 609. It is not an unreasonable delay to fail to deliver goods at Denver, July 10th, which had been shipped from New York July 2d. Brooks v. Del., L. & W. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 961.

54. Roth Clothing Co. v. Maine S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 987.

55. Where a consignee refused to accept goods and the consignor informed the carrier to return them and an agent of the carrier called on the consignor, looked at his receipt and said he would trace the goods. Hirsch v. Platt, 89 N. Y. S. 362.

56. Pa. R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124.

57. Where the agent of the consignee inquires for freight, it is negligence to fail to inform him of its arrival, though notice has been mailed the consignee and the car number given by the agent is erroneous. Ala. & V. R. Co. v. J. M. & C. B. Pounder [Miss.] 35 So. 155.

58. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 513, 87 N. Y. S. 345.

59, 60. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1904. But see Clegg v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 148, 47 S. E. 667.

61. And after notice by the shipper to a final carrier that he holds the bills of lading and not to deliver, the carrier is not liable for delay in insisting on the production of the bills of lading or freight receipts by the person entitled to delivery, though it has meantime been notified by the shipper to deliver without them. Schlichting v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 121 Iowa, 502, 96 N. W. 959.

62. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Seitz, 105 Ill. App. 89.

63. Pen. Code, § 633. Mairs v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 175 N. Y. 409, 67 N. E. 901.

the consignee to forward to another and acceptance there.[64] The carrier may demand its production of the bill of lading as a condition to a diversion of the shipment.[65] Whether the setting of a car at an agreed point is a delivery is a question of fact.[66]

Delivery to duly authorized agent of consignee is sufficient.[67] The person rightfully entitled to possession,[68] or an officer of the law under a prima facie valid authority,[69] may claim delivery from the carrier, but the carrier must show that such delivery is binding on the consignee.[70] The carrier may be justified in delivering goods to the actual purchaser, though he be not named in the bill of lading and does not produce it.[71]

Acceptance and unloading.—Mere payment of transportation charges does not amount to acceptance of delivery, the goods not having been removed.[72]

For damages resulting from delay in unloading, the consignee may be liable.[73]

Refusal by consignee.[74]—The shipper should be notified in a reasonable time of refusal,[75] but to prevent loss the carrier may sell unaccepted perishable goods.[76]

Storage at destination.—The extraordinary liability as a carrier continues until the consignee has had a reasonable opportunity to inspect and remove the goods during business hours,[77] or until the consignee accepts.[78] Thereafter if proper storage facilities do not exist at destination, the carrier may store unclaimed freight elsewhere.[79] The happening of an injury does not raise presumptive negligence as against a warehousing carrier.[80]

Liability for conversion.[81]—There must be an absolute denial of the right to the goods or the excuses for nondelivery must be unreasonable, inconsistent or made in bad faith to constitute a conversion.[82] Misdelivery of goods is deemed a conver-

64. Hayman v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 728.

65. Not sufficient that person be consignee. Ryan v. Great Northern R. Co., 90 Minn. 12, 95 N. W. 758.

66. Whether the consignee has a right to assume that it is so placed with the purpose of delivering it to him. Brown v. Pontiac, O. & N. R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 1050.

67. Brunswick & W. R. Co. v. Rothchild & Co., 119 Ga. 604, 46 S. E. 830.

68. Where the shipper has not had rightful possession, the carrier must surrender on demand of the rightful owner at any time before delivery to the consignee. An action of replevin in such case need not allege that the defendant's line passes through the county in which suit is brought as required in an action for injury to person or property. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Jordon Stock Food Co., 67 Kan. 86, 72 P. 533. So it may deliver to a mortgagee entitled to possession on condition broken. Johnston v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 479. A carrier must deliver goods to the true owner, claiming under the consignee, when it has notice of his rights, and the bill of lading has already been surrendered. Certified orders for cars of grain held notice of the right of the bank, to whom they had been delivered. National Newark Banking Co. v. Del., L. & W. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 311. Notice to the agent of the carrier charged with the duty of delivering freight of the right of one claiming under the consignee to have the goods delivered to him is notice to the carrier. Id.

69. Southern R. Co. v. Heymann, 118 Ga. 616, 45 S. E. 491.

70. Delivery to barkeeper at casino is not justified by addressing consignee at the casino. Charles Schlesinger & Sons v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 372.

71. Where such had been the course of dealing between the parties. Bernstein v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 971.

72. Burr v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 609.

73. Evidence held insufficient to show damage to boat frozen in before unloading. Scott v. International Paper Co., 86 N. Y. S. 785.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 431.

75. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Jenkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 428.

76. Fish not called for in 54 hours, after 2 notices and affording indications of decay is properly sold [Laws 1899, p. 1924, c. 582]. Leech v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 40 Misc. 654, 83 N. Y. S. 166.

77. Liability exists for loss by fire without negligence. Mo. Pac. R. Co. v. Newberger & Bro., 67 Kan. 846, 73 P. 57.

78. The carrier is not liable for the destruction of goods by fire not due to his negligence, where the consignee has assumed control and instead of removing them promptly allowed them to remain until a more convenient time. Stapleton v. Grand Trunk R. Co. [Mich.] 94 N. W. 739.

79. Facts held not to show liability where it was carried back 14 miles to Galveston and there destroyed by an unprecedented storm. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. North Tex. Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 567.

80. Evidence held insufficient to show wetting of goods. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 175.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 430.

82. Facts held not to show conversion.

sion of them, the same as a total failure to deliver them;[83] but mere delay is not a conversion.[84] A demand by the owner upon the carrier for goods in its possession, and a refusal on its part to deliver them, constitute a conversion, in the absence of a sufficient legal ground for such refusal.[85] The right or duty to demand a bill of lading controls the question of whether a refusal to surrender without its production is a conversion.[86] A conversion is not excused by mistake,[87] or the fact that the property is susceptible of unlawful use.[88] A tender of the goods to the owner, where there has been no previous demand and refusal, is a defense to an action for their conversion,[89] but an offer to return freight is not, though it may go in mitigation of damages.[90] A lien for freight must be pleaded to go in mitigation of damages for wrongful taking.[91]

An assignment to the carrier of the shipper's interest in goods wrongfully delivered confers on the carrier the right to sue the person to whom delivery has been made for conversion.[92]

§ 10. Liability of carrier or connecting carrier.[93]—At common law and where there is not a through or joint contract, one carrier is not liable for the negligence of another.[94] Such liability is not assumed by a mere agreement to

Rubin v. Wells Fargo Exp. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 1108.

83. Delivery to wrong person or at wrong place. Defendant disregarded directions as to destination and connecting carrier to which they were to be delivered. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

84. There must be a demand where the goods have been safely kept. Ryland v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 923. Coffins delayed. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Tyler Coffin Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 826.

85. Evidence held not to show demand for shipment of coffins or refusal to deliver them. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Tyler Coffin Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 826. Refused on the sole ground that owner would not pay the amount of freight demanded which was excessive. Meanwhile goods were frozen. Clegg v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 148, 47 S. E. 667.

86. Delivery on a bond without presentation of a bill of lading and payment of draft attached is a conversion. Marshall & M. Grain Co. v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co., 176 Mo. 480, 75 S. W. 638. Refusal is a conversion where the demand is not justified. First Nat. Bank v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex.] 77 S. W. 410.

NOTE. Notify shipment; rights of party notified: A railroad company refused to deliver perishable goods to a consignee in a "notify" shipment, because he would not pay excessive charges. In a suit by the consignee for injury caused to the goods by the delay, it was held he could recover in spite of the fact that at the time he demanded the goods the bill of lading had not been transferred to him by the bank to which it had been sent. Clegg v. Southern R. R. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 667.

An action would lie against the carrier in favor of the bank, on the facts of the principal case for wrongful delivery without production of the bill of lading. Hirskell v. Farmers Nat. Bank, 89 Pa. 155. Delivery in such case amounts to a conversion. Furman v. R. R., 106 N. Y. 579; North Pa. R. R. v. Commercial Bank, 123 U. S. 627. The word "notify" implies that such a party is a stranger to the transaction until he receives title from the real consignee, the bank; for otherwise, notice would be given to him without specific direction. Hutchinson, Carriers [4th Ed.] § 131b. It is difficult, then, to see how his rights are violated by the refusal to deliver until he secures the indorsement of the bank, irrespective of whether the carrier knows that he does not hold the bill of lading.—IV Columbia Law Rev. 509.

87. A conversion of coal to its own use by a carrier. Frazier v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 679.

88. That a nickel in the slot machine is capable of being used as a gambling device is not a defense to conversion in the absence of proof that it was so used. Edwards v. American Exp. Co., 121 Iowa, 744, 96 N. W. 740.

89. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Tyler Coffin Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 826.

90. Marshall & M. Grain Co. v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co., 176 Mo. 480, 75 S. W. 638.

91. Haebler v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 509.

92. Johnson v. Gulf & C. R. Co. [Miss.] 34 So. 357.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 431.

94. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Dorsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 20; Thomas v. Frankfort & C. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1051, 76 S. W. 1093. Where there is no joint contract, two railroad companies cannot be sued for the distinctly separate wrong of one because property has been transported over the connecting lines of the two [Laws 1899, p. 214, c. 125, does not apply]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex.] 75 S. W. 486. An initial carrier, by delivery of a refrigerator car iced properly and in good condition to a connecting carrier, discharges its liability in the absence of special contract. Insertion of words "Ice when needed" in bills does not make a special contract. Farnsworth v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 88 App. Div. 320, 84 N. Y. S. 658. Error in waybill given to connecting carrier excuses it for failure to deliver at proper destination. Hayman v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 728.

deliver to the other,[95] or by receipting for an extra terminal point,[96] except perhaps to one on a line operating under a traffic agreement.[97] An initial carrier accepting goods for shipment beyond its line and undertaking to keep the car in condition is liable,[98] and it is liable for foreign damage resulting from the defective condition of the car furnished and its unsuitableness for the purpose intended.[99]

The initial carrier is bound to obey the instructions given him by the shipper, and to communicate them to the connecting carrier.[1] The connecting carrier is bound by the bill of lading issued by the initial carrier only so far as it is a contract.[2]

Exemption and limitation of liability.[3]—A limitation of liability to the carrier's own line may be effective, though the connecting point is not specified.[4] A connecting carrier cannot have the benefit of a limitation of time to present claims in favor of initial carrier.[5]

A statute forbidding a carrier to relieve itself from the negligence of a carrier by whom it undertakes to complete a through contract is valid.[6]

Loss or injury.[7]—It is presumed that injury occurred in the hands of the final carrier, though by statute liability is imposed on the first carrier also,[8] or though the goods are in a sealed car,[9] and a local expressman is a common carrier in such a sense that delivery of freight to him in good condition raises a presumption of delivery in good order to a railroad acting as connecting carrier.[10] This presumption of negligence may be rebutted by a showing of proper handling on its part and of improper loading by the shipper or initial carrier.[11]

The initial carrier is relieved by a showing of safe delivery to a station in control of the successor.[12]

Statutory remedies.[13]—The Georgia tracing act is held not to deny the equal protection of laws to initial and connecting carriers doing business within the state.[14]

A statute providing that the last of connecting carriers to receive goods shall be liable to the consignee for all damage, the ultimate liability to be settled among the carriers, is not in violation of the commerce clause of the Federal constitution.[15]

§ 11. Limitation of liability.[16]—The carrier cannot exempt itself from lia-

95. Cannot recover from the first carrier where the goods are taken from the final carrier in replevin. American Hay Co. v. Bath & H. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 341.

96. Does not import a contract to carry to the final destination. Farnsworth v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 88 App. Div. 320, 84 N. Y. S. 658.

97. Issuance of bill of lading to point on line of road with which the carrier has a joint traffic arrangement, held a through contract within Rev. St. 1899, § 944. Western Sash & D. Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 177 Mo. 641, 76 S. W. 998.

98. Johnson v. Toledo, S. & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 724.

99. Agent informed that plaintiff intended to ship bees in car. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Aten [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 346.

1. As to destination and manner of shipment. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

2. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 343.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 432.

4. Was left blank. Nenno v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 24.

5. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1094.

6. Rev. St. 1899, § 5222 invalidates a contract limiting liability to line of carrier. Contract for through shipment from Missouri to a point beyond its line in Arkansas. Marshall & M. Grain Co. v. Kan. City, Ft. S. & M. R. Co., 176 Mo. 480, 75 S. W. 638.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 433.

8. Civ. Code, § 2176. Willett v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 93.

9. Beede v. Wis. Cent. R. Co., 90 Minn. 36, 95 N. W. 454.

10. Willett v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 93.

11. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 343.

12. Evidence of plaintiff. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 513, 87 N. Y. S. 345.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 433.

14. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 2317, 2318. Southern R. Co. v. Ragsdale [Ga.] 47 S. E. 179.

15. Civ. Code 1895, § 2298. Kavanaugh & Co. v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 526. This remedy may be waived and the carriers proceeded against on their common-law liability. Id.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 434.

bility for negligence,[17] but may be invoked when an affirmative act of wrongdoing is not shown.[18] Limitations, however, may have the effect of shifting the burden of proof of negligence.[19] An express company taking a draft for collection cannot limit its liability to that of an ordinary carrier.[20] In the absence of a statement of value, a limitation thereof is valid,[21] and having limited amount of its liability, the carrier cannot by its bill of lading secure the benefit of insurance on the excess value of the goods.[22] An exemption from liability for damages by fire, expressed in the bill of lading, is valid.[23] Any deviation from the terms of the contract of carriage will deprive the carrier of the benefits of limitations of liability therein.[24]

A limitation, valid in the state where the contract is made, will be recognized in the state in which action is brought.[25] In refusing to recognize[26] or allow[27] contracts limiting liability, a state does not regulate interstate commerce.

17. Paul v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 139. Clause "Subject to delay" in contract of shipment of perishable goods cannot be given such effect. Parker v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658. Limitation respecting operation of side track held not one as carrier. Mann v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 721. Such an exemption is invalid, though there is a statute imposing a penalty for failure to transport in a certain time in the absence of agreement [Code, § 1967]. Parker v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

18. Hirsch v. New York Dispatch & D. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 198.

19. Injury from wet. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 513, 87 N. Y. S. 346. A contract exempting liability for wet places on the shipper the burden of establishing a specific act of negligence on the part of the carrier, the proximate cause of the injury. Id., 84 N. Y. S. 175. Showing of loss by fire in freight house is not sufficient. Van Akin v. Erie R. Co., 92 App. Div. 23, 87 N. Y. S. 871. Contract "Subject to delay" does not shift the burden from the carrier of showing due diligence. Parker v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

20. Cannot limit amount of liability for taking check instead of cash. Gowling v. American Exp. Co., 102 Mo. App. 366, 76 S. W. 712.

21. Wilson v. Platt, 84 N. Y. S. 143. Express receipt stamped by messenger "value asked and not given" effectively limits value to amount stated therein. Limitation to $50 unless greater value is stated and in absence of gross negligence or fraud becomes effective. Bernstein v. Weir, 40 Misc. 635, 83 N. Y. S. 48.

22. Pa. R. Co. v. Burr [C. C. A.] 130 F. 847.

23. Though the option to ship under the common-law liability was not presented to the shipper. Cau v. Tex. & P. R. Co., 194 U. S. 427, 24 S. Ct. 663.

24. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

25. Limitation of liability for fire in contract made in Illinois to carry to Kentucky will be recognized in Kentucky, though invalid under Const. § 196, the loss having occurred in Illinois. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Druien [Ky.] 80 S. W. 778. A contract for shipment from Illinois to Missouri made in Illinois is to be construed by the law of that state. Nenno v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 24.

NOTE. Conflict of laws as to carriers' contracts limiting liability: The validity of a stipulation limiting the carrier's common-law liability, in a contract of carriage from one state or country to another, is to be determined by the law of the place where the contract was made and the transportation commenced, without reference to the law of the place of destination, or of the place where the alleged breach of contract or loss or injury occurred. This rule is said to have been applied in the following cases where the question was as to the right of a common carrier to limit its common-law liability by excepting losses or injuries not due to negligence. The Henry B. Hyde, 82 F. 681 (valid); Hale v. N. J. Steam Nav. Co., 15 Conn. 546, 39 Am. Dec. 398 (invalid); Camp v. Hartford & N. Y. Steamboat Co., 43 Conn. 340 (valid); Western & A. R. Co. v. Exposition Cotton Mills, 81 Ga. 522, 7 S. E. 916, 2 L. R. A. 102 (valid); St. Joseph & G. I. R. Co. v. Palmer, 38 Neb. 463, 56 N. W. 957, 22 L. R. A. 335 (invalid).

The same rule has been applied as to stipulations limiting liability for negligent loss or injury, though in the cases here cited it seems to have been tacitly assumed that such stipulations were not so opposed to the public policy of the forum that enforcement would be refused, even though valid where made. Liverpool & G. W. Steam Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 Law. Ed. 788 (invalid); Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Jackson [C. C. A.] 118 F. 549; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Beebe, 174 Ill. 13, 50 N. E. 1019, 43 L. R. A. 210 (invalid). But the Federal courts refuse to enforce such stipulations, without regard to their validity where the contract was made, on the ground that they are opposed to the public policy of the United States. The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 Law. Ed. 190; The Iowa, 50 F. 561; The Hugo, 57 F. 403 (affirmed in 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, without passing on point in question); The New England, 110 F. 415. It is unnecessary to invoke the public policy of the United States in passing on stipulations to which the Harter act applies, as in such case that act governs. See Knott v. Botany Worsted Mills, 179 U. S. 69, 21 S. Ct. 30, 45 Law. Ed. 90.

The same general rule, first stated in this note, has also been applied in cases passing

Necessity and sufficiency of agreement between carrier and shipper.[28]—Limitations in the bill of lading must be distinctly brought to the shipper's notice in order that a contract may result from his nondissent.[29] Where the shipper has possession of and fills out his own shipping receipts, there is a special contract.[30] A limitation of common-law liability must be on consideration,[31] which is not presumed,[32] but a lack of independent consideration expressed in the bill will not avoid such provision if the contract be entire.[33]

§ 12. Public records of traffic.—The names and addresses of consignor and consignee are "marks" which must be recorded by carriers before delivering liquors to nonlicensè towns in Massachusetts.[34]

§ 13. Remedies and procedure.[35] Timely notice or suit.—Provisions in bills of lading, requiring notice of claims to be presented and actions for damages to be brought within a certain time, are generally held to be valid conditions precedent,[36] but this rule does not apply to cases where there has been a conversion of the goods.[37] Provision for timely claim is waived by acceptance of informal notice and refusal of payment on other grounds.[38]

Persons who may sue.[39]—A consignee who is injured may sue on a contract with his consignor,[40] and must sue when title has passed to him.[41] Bankers to whom a draft with bill of lading attached is forwarded for collection, by becoming responsible for the freight, are entitled to complain of a conversion by the carrier,[42] but the consignors on election to hold the bank, for negligence in surrendering control of the shipment, cannot.[43] An action for a breach of a special rate contract during lifetime of the promisee could be maintained only by his executors on the validity of stipulations limiting the amount of the carrier's liability. Pac. Exp. Co. v. Foley, 46 Kan. 457, 26 P. 665, 12 L. R. A. 799 (valid); Ohio & M. R. Co. v. Tabor, 98 Ky. 503, 32 S. W. 168, 36 S. W. 18, 34 L. R. A. 685, 688 (invalid). The general rule will be defeated where the court takes the position that the limitation passed upon is contrary to the public policy of the forum and hence invalid. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Gardiner, 51 Neb. 70, 70 N. W. 508. None of the cases cited in this note in support of the general rule makes any distinction based on the place of the loss or injury, and in some it expressly appeared that the loss or injury occurred outside the jurisdiction of the state in which the contract was made and the transportation commenced. For other citations and full discussion see note to Hughes v. Pa. R. Co. (202 Pa. 222, 51 A. 990) in 63 L. R. A. 513.

26. Limitation of amount of liability for negligence in a contract of interstate carriage. Pa. R. Co. v. Hughes, 191 U. S. 477, 24 S. Ct. 132.

27. Limitation of liability beyond its line on entering into a through contract [Rev. St. 1899, § 914]. Western Sash & D. Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 177 Mo. 641, 76 S. W. 998.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 435.

29. Limitation of value recoverable stamped across face. Doyle v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 126 F. 841. No contract arises from receipt where the shipper cannot read and his attention is not called to a limitation of amount, the receipt being merely handed to him. Pompilj v. Manhattan Delivery Co., 84 N. Y. S. 230.

30. Bernstein v. Weir, 40 Misc. 635, 83 N. Y. S. 48; Wilson v. Platt, 84 N. Y. S. 143.

31. Limitation of liability for fire where not in consideration of less rate, or no rate is agreed on, there was held to be no consideration. Phoenix Powder Mfg. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 442, 74 S. W. 492. Where the rate is the usual one, "owner's risk," an additional exemption under a clause "subject to delay" is without consideration. Perishable fruit. Parker v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

32. Phoenix Powder Mfg. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 442, 74 S. W. 492.

33. Principal consideration suffices, though the carrier may have had but one rate. Cau v. Tex. & P. R. Co., 194 U. S. 427, 24 S. Ct. 663.

34. Rev. Laws, c. 100, § 50. Com. v. Shea [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1066.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 436.

36. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685. Such is not available to a connecting carrier. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1094.

37. Provision requiring claim to be made within ten days rendered invalid by misdelivery of goods Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

38. Frankfurt v. Weir, 40 Misc. 683, 83 N. Y. S. 112.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 436.

40. Burriss v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1042.

41. Frankfurt v. Weir, 40 Misc. 683, 83 N. Y. S. 112.

42, 43. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. North Tex. Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 567.

as personal representatives.[44] Statutory remedies avail only the parties within the statute.[45]

Particular remedies available.—When a carrier having possession declines to deliver to the person having title, replevin will lie.[46] Under the Code in North Carolina, it is not material whether suit is brought in assumpsit or in case for loss from delay in transmission.[47] The penalty for delay in paying damage is now abolished in South Carolina.[48]

Venue[49] in the absence of statute is determined by ordinary rules.[50] By some statutes, connecting carriers on through contracts may be sued jointly in a county where any one is found.[51] The venue of an action in Georgia for failure to trace freight, or to inform the owner by which of connecting carriers it was lost, is the county where the principal place of business of the initial carrier is located.[52]

Pleading, proofs, and evidence.[53]—The complaint must not declare on alternatively distinct causes of action against the defendant as through carrier and connecting carrier.[54] In an action against a railroad company to recover for violation of its duty as a common carrier, plaintiff is not required to plead or prove the written contract under which the shipment was made.[55] If a special contract be declared on, the existence of the consideration therein stated cannot be denied,[56] the party being bound by a bill of lading as set out unless he avoids such result by his pleading,[57] but a suit on a contract evidenced by a bill of lading does not prevent denial of validity of restrictive clauses.[58] When the suit is tortwise, the duty to carry must be well pleaded.[59] Plaintiff in trover must show title.[60] Negligence must be pleaded to a legal conclusion,[61] but not by setting out facts.[62]

Under general denial to the consignee's action, freight cannot be allowed nor money paid the consignor recouped.[63]

44. Sullivan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 Ala. 650, 35 So. 694. Such a contract is one for the performance of services and not for the payment of money. Id.

45. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 5943, only the consignee, his heirs or assigns can recover for shortage of grain shipped. Owner and consignor cannot. Weber v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 533. See Railway Co. v. Simonson, 64 Kan. 802, 68 P. 653.

46. Pub. St. 1901, c. 241, § 2. Hart v. Boston & M. R. R. [N. H.] 56 A. 920. See article Replevin, 2 Curr. L. 1514.

47. Parker v. Atl. Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

48. Code 1902, § 1711, providing that carriers shall be liable for breakage, and if they refuse to pay for 60 days, for a penalty in addition, was repealed by Acts 1903, p. 81. Johnson v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 260.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 436.

50. See article Venue, 2 Curr. L. 2000, especially p. 2002, n. 29-34, p. 2003, n. 52-62.

51. Plea containing practical denial of a through contract held sufficient to entitle defendant, one of connecting carriers, to be sued in another county [Rev. St. 1895, art. 331a]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex.] 75 S. W. 486. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 2004, n. 62.

52. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 2317, 2318. McCall v. Central of Ga. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 157.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 436.

54. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Duncan, 137 Ala. 446, 34 So. 988.

55. Is matter of defense. Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 129 F. 480.

56. In an action on a contract of carriage, providing for release from liability in transportation of a circus train in consideration of a reduced rate, an allegation that the statement therein that such reduced rate was given is false, is demurrable. Wilson v. Atl. Coast Line R. Co., 129 F. 774.

57. Complaint in action for damages to machinery due to misdelivery, held sufficient on demurrer, there being an allegation that the bill of lading on which carrier relied was not delivered until after the loss. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

58. Phoenix Powder Mfg. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 442, 74 S. W. 492.

59. In an action in tort for injuries to such train, a petition alleging such contract as a matter of inducement only, and that the same was void, and that it was a part of the railroad's duty as a carrier to transport circuses, is demurrable. Carrier not obliged to transport such trains and hence may contract against liability. Wilson v. Atl. Coast Line R. Co., 129 F. 774.

60. "Was then and always has been property of plaintiff" suffices. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

61. Petition held insufficient to fix liability for failure of carrier to inform connecting carriers that goods were consigned to the shipper's order. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 43.

62. Unreasonable and long delay of freight. Ala. & V. R. Co. v. Pounder [Miss.] 35 So. 155.

63. Frazier v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 679.

The plaintiff must, according to his allegations,[64] prove every material issue[65] by evidence legally sufficient,[66] and the carrier must do the same as to defenses.[67] Cases illustrating these general rules are cited. The burden is cast on carrier by a showing of good condition on delivery to it and damage while in its possession.[68] A presumption of ownership of goods arises from production of a bill of lading with draft attached bearing an unrestricted indorsement.[69] The consignee, if a buyer, need not show payment of purchase price in order to sue for conversion.[70] To avail of a limitation the carrier must prove such freedom from fault as it exacts.[71]

The ordinary rules[72] as to admissions, hearsay,[73] and best evidence,[74] apply. Obvious conditions are relevant to show negligence,[75] but customs bearing on a matter posterior to the wrong are immaterial.[76]

Instructions.[77]—Recent holdings on form and sufficiency,[78] and the appropriateness or necessity[79] of particular charges, are collected in the note.

64. Variance: Allegation of negligent destruction of a package and evidence of destruction by a fire not attributable to negligence. Farr v. Adams Exp. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 183. Complaint in the Code form on a bill of lading, proof of a bill containing special limitations, not a variance. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Cody, 137 Ala. 597, 34 So. 1003.

65. Where it was alleged that the carrier received goods, but neither delivered them to the consignee nor returned them to the consignor, a general denial put both receipt and nondelivery in issue. Brooks v. Del., L. & W. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 961. Proof of date of consignee's refusal is essential in action for failure to notify of refusal. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Jenkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 428.

66. Sufficiency of evidence: To show negligence of final carrier. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 513, 87 N. Y. S. 345. To show injury from frost due to negligence of last of connecting carriers. Beede v. Wis. Cent. R. Co., 90 Minn. 36, 95 N. W. 454. To support recovery for freight burned. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 611. To show negligence in failing to give notice of arrival and failing to place goods in cold storage. Pa. R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124.

To prove contract: Written contract to ship to St. Louis is not conclusive against contract established by other evidence to carry to East St. Louis, the petition alleging such a contract, but not stating whether written. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Storey [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 847.

To prove misdelivery: Injury to machinery due to misdelivery. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

To prove failure to notify: Statements by the carrier's clerk that he had mailed three notifications are not rebutted by the simple statement of the consignee's clerk that he had never received notification. Roth Clothing Co. v. Me. S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 987.

67. Proof of occasional acceptance of bills of lading by a shipper cannot overcome positive proof of the nonacceptance of the bill in question. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

68. Pa. R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124. Where a carrier receives property in good condition and returns it broken, he has the burden to show no negligence. Hoffberg v. Bumford, 88 N. Y. S. 940.

69. Willard Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133 N. C. 630, 45 S. E. 1026.

70. To impose such burden it must be first shown that title could not pass until payment. Evidence held to authorize suit. Frazier v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 679.

71. Liability for damage caused by fire. Cau v. Tex. & P. R. Co., 194 U. S. 427, 24 S. Ct. 663.

72. See generally, Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136. Consult Negligence, 2 Curr. L. 996. Evidence of damage see post, this section. Where an insurer sues for goods burned, it cannot be shown that the plaintiff with other companies had made a level rate on the shed in which the goods were stored, together with other sheds as an admission by plaintiff of the absence of negligence. Judd v. New York & T. S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 7. A letter from the agent of an initial carrier is not evidence against a connecting carrier of the good condition of goods on delivery to it. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 175.

73. Statements of watchmen after fire and termination of employment by defendant, as to cause of fire, are not admissible as res gestae. Marande v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 42.

74. Press copies of way bills are not best evidence unless originals are shown to be destroyed or the person making the copies and original is dead. Act between third persons. Haas v. Chubb, 67 Kan. 787, 74 P. 230.

75. On negligence in storing goods in an unsafe place, condition of neighboring buildings may be shown, together with city ordinance prohibiting smoking in the vicinity. Judd v. New York & T. S. S. Co., 130 F. 991.

76. In an action for conversion, where the carrier has regained possession and stored the freight, evidence of a custom so to store is immaterial. Marshall & M. Grain Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 176 Mo. 480, 75 S. W. 638.

77. See 1 Curr. L. 438.

78. Instructions held properly to submit the effect of a statute (3 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896 [2nd Ed.] p. 3277), prohibiting attaching of burden cars to rear of passenger trains on contract to haul car of scenery. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Byrne, 205 Ill. 9, 68 N. E. 720. In-

Damages.[80]—Damages for delay may be measured by diminution in value[81] or value of use.[82] On wrongful delivery, the measure of damages is the market value less charges, also any special damage which might have been foreseen.[83] On failure to give shipper notice of a refusal, the carrier is liable for decline in the market value from the time at which by ordinary care it could have given notice to the consignor,[84] or when notice is not until unreasonable time after return, for the difference in value at time of notice and at time and place when delivery should have been made.[85] If settlement is to be on terms made by an intermediary, his decision and not ordinary rules governs.[86] Value and damages are proved as in other cases.[87] Newspapers admitted to show "the condition of the market" may be read to show existence of a strike and acts of the carrier with regard to it.[88]

§ 14. Freight and other charges.[89]—The power of a state to regulate rates does not extend to rates on interstate commerce.[90] In the absence of special contract, an agreement for usual freight rate is implied.[91] After classification and ac-

struction as to when liability of carrier terminated held properly refused as assuming matter in dispute. Pa. R. Co. v. Naive [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 124. Instructions in an action for goods lost, which imply that a bill of lading not assented to or accepted by the shipper and consigning the goods to a different point than that designated by him is binding on him, are erroneous. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

79. Evidence held not to require instruction as to liability for delivery without production of bill of lading. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Jenkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 428. A charge that cars are to be furnished within a reasonable time is not harmful, though there is no evidence that cars were to be furnished as needed as averred in the complaint. Outland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 350, 46 S. E. 735. Instruction as to duty of carrier to ship in reasonable time held not required by pleadings or evidence in action for failure to notify of refusal by consignee. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Jenkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 428. Where there are two theories of liability for fire, one based on the care required of defendant as a railroad, and one as carrier, defendant is entitled to have the issue of contributory negligence submitted. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Beard [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 253. Where an indorsement of a bill of lading "subject to delay" is without legal effect, it is not prejudicial to the carrier to submit whether the goods were shipped under special contract. Parker v. Atl. Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

80. See generally, article Damages, 1 Curr. L. 833.

81. Difference in condition on arrival and condition in which they should have arrived. Potatoes. Admissibility of evidence considered. Garlington v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 368. Is the difference between the value at the time they ought to have been delivered and at the time of delivery. Merchandise. Roth Clothing Co. v. Me. S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 987.

82. Household goods. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Clifton [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 386.

On failure to haul theatrical scenery in time for a performance, the nature of plaintiff's business and his profits for a reasonable time prior to the time of violation of the contract may be considered on the question of damages. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Byrne, 205 Ill. 9, 68 N. E. 720.

83. Thus in case of knowledge of a contract to be fulfilled. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1094.

84. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Jenkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 428.

85. Roth Clothing Co. v. Me. S. S. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 25.

86. Agreement whereby party made agent of carrier settle for damages suffered by consignee on account of nondelivery of goods. held to take case out of general rule as to damage for loss of goods, and to bind carrier to pay amount agreed upon in addition to value of goods. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts & Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 685.

87. See Damages, 1 Curr. L. 833. On market value, price at which goods were actually sold is admissible. Garlington v. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 368. In action for injuries to bees in transportation, plaintiff, who was engaged in the business, held competent to testify as to the amount of damages sustained. International, etc., R. Co. v. Aten [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 346.

88. Perishable fruit. Parker v. Atl. Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 335, 45 S. E. 658.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 439, for Evidence of establishment of rates, Rebates, Persons liable, Advances. 1 Curr. L. 440, for Actions for freight and charges.

90. A state railroad commission is without power to require railroad to abolish "proportional tariffs" applying only to interstate or foreign shipments, adopted with approval of Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent stopping of export shipments of grain in transit for purposes of cleaning, grading, etc. Rosenbaum Grain Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 46. See full treatment Commerce, 1 Curr. L. 538.

91. A receiving carrier is not bound to transport for a lower rate agreed on by an initial carrier, by the mere fact that it accepts the shipment which under the law it cannot refuse. Thomas v. Frankfort & C. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1051, 76 S. W. 1093. Where a shipment is consigned to the shippers, no contract as to rates is shown by ceptance of freight at a given rate, the carrier cannot recover a greater rate without notice on a reclassification,[92] but notice of increase in accordance with the interstate commerce act is waived by payment without protest.[93] A shipper is not protected against an increase in rates by the fact that he has a quantity of goods on hand for shipment.[94]

The consignor is primarily liable for freight.[95]

Demurrage.[96]—A state regulation of storage car service and demurrage charges is not void, though it incidentally affects interstate commerce.[97]

Reasonable demurrage charges are enforceable.[98] It is not discrimination to charge demurrage for particular classes of freight and not others.[99] The distance freight has to be hauled from cars does not bear on reasonable time for removal.[1] When demurrage rules provide that in case the proper siding is full, delivery shall be regarded as of the time it would otherwise have been made, it is not material that the siding be occupied with cars of other consignees having equal rights thereon.[2] Notice in addition to notice of arrival is not necessary to impose liability for demurrage.[3]

Liens and enforcement.[4]—A carrier can have a lien only on articles toward which services are rendered,[5] but when several cars of a shipment are subject to demurrage, the lien of the entire charge may be asserted against one or more.[6] The lien is not assignable.[7] It extends to demurrage charges,[8] advances to preceding carrier,[9] or duties on the goods paid at a port of entry to secure their possession.[10] A lien cannot be had where goods are damaged in excess of charges.[11] In enforcing liens, statutory conditions must be complied with.[12] When a sale is otherwise made, the carrier is liable as for conversion.[13]

Recovery of overpayment.[14]—One who pays transfer charges under protest the fact that a purchaser had required information as to rates. Myar v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 71 Ark. 552, 76 S. W. 557.

92. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Seitz, 105 Ill. App. 89.

93. Act Congress Feb. 4, 1887, c. 104, § 6 (24 Stat. 380). Strough v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 584, 87 N. Y. S. 30. The reasonableness of a rate need not be submitted where voluntarily paid and there is no proof. Id.

94. Strough v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 584, 87 N. Y. S. 30.

95. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & F. M. Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

96. See 1 Curr. L. 439.

97. Rules I to XX of the Corporation Commission under Const. 1902, § 155, and Act May 16, 1903; Acts 1902-03-04, p. 392. Atl. Coast Line R. Co. v. Com. [Va.] 46 S. E. 911.

98. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. George & Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 193. May be imposed for failure to unload bulk freight from cars within a reasonable time. Schumacker v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 207 Ill. 199, 69 N. E. 825.

99. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. George & Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 193.

1. Schumacker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 207 Ill. 199, 69 N. E. 825.

2, 3. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. George & Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 193.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 439.

5. Lien for charges for hauling other goods does not extend to a trap driven to the depot by the owner. Taylor v. Smith, 87 App. Div. 78, 84 N. Y. S. 13.

6. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. George & Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 193.

7. Assignment to an attaching creditor is not a defense to wrongful attachment. Rosencranz v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co., 175 Mo. 518, 75 S. W. 445.

8. Schumacker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 207 Ill. 199, 69 N. E. 825. A statutory lien for freight and storage [Code 1892, § 2108]. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. George & Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 193.

9. Thomas v. Frankfort & C. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1051, 76 S. W. 1093.

10. This lien extends to a final carrier who has advanced such payments to a preceding carrier and is not defeated because the initial carrier wrongfully changed the bonded destination, occasioning loss when the contract of carriage stipulated that the carriers should be liable only for losses on their own lines and that there should be no joint liability. Wabash R. Co. v. Pearce, 192 U. S. 179, 24 S. Ct. 231.

11. Public cartman's statutory lien. Browning v. Belford, 83 App. Div. 144, 13 Ann. Cas. 154, 82 N. Y. S. 489.

12. Cartman must send notice to bureau of licenses and place property in store as designated. Construing N. Y. City ordinance. Browning v. Belford, 83 App. Div. 144, 13 Ann. Cas. 154, 82 N. Y. S. 489; Taylor v. Smith, 87 App. Div. 78, 84 N. Y. S. 13.

13. Rev. St. 1895, art. 328. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. North Tex. Grain Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 567. Oats are not perishable freight, subject to sale for charges on five days' notice under Rev. St. 1895, art. 331. Id.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 440.

cannot recover them back when he had other means of reaching cars consigned to him.[15]

PART III. CARRIAGE OF LIVE STOCK.

§ 15. Duty to carry and contract of carriage generally.[16]—A carrier, though bound to furnish cars in pursuance of a contract,[17] is not bound to furnish the particular kind of cars demanded when others are suitable,[18] but on demand of a particular kind of cars, it is not bound to furnish other suitable ones.[19] Demand must be written to impose liability for a statutory penalty.[20] Nine days may be assumed to be a reasonable time.[21]

Signature of the contract by the carrier is not essential where the contract has been acted on.[22]

A contract of carriage of cattle is not void as contemplating a violation of a quarantine law, unless it is shown that the regulations of such law could not have been complied with.[23]

Receipt of stock in the carrier's pens,[24] or in cars,[25] initiates its liability. Where the contract provides that liability shall end at the terminus named, a parol agreement for shipment farther does not extend the liability.[26]

§ 16. Care required of carrier.[27]—The carrier is liable only for a violation of duty, statutory or otherwise,[28] not for injury necessarily incurred,[29] or due to the peculiar nature and propensities of animals,[30] or the shipper's negligence.[31]

Liability exists for negligence concurring with act of God.[32]

15. Bernhardt v. Carolina & N. W. R. Co., 135 N. C. 258, 47 S. E. 427.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 440. See ante, §§ 4, 6, for related matter in carriage of ordinary freight.

17. Evidence held to show negligence in failing to procure cars. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 86.

18. Failure to furnish stable cars does not subject to penalty under Sayles' Civ. St. 1897, art. 4497. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Barrow [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 643.

19. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Barrow [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 643.

20. Sayles' Civ. St. 1897, art. 4497. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Barrow [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 643.

21. Rev. St. 1895, §§ 4497-4500. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 614.

22. Duplicate contract held binding, though the name of the carrier was affixed only by rubber stamp, where it appeared by the consignee's signature thereon that he had accepted a pass issued by the carrier in accordance with its stipulations. Burriss v. Mo. Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1042.

23. Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Pittman [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 847.

24. Lackland v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 101 Mo. 420, 74 S. W. 505. Instruction as to degree of care a carrier must exercise toward cattle in its pens held proper. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Waggoner Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1050.

25. Where hogs are watered and loaded just prior to the scheduled time for the arrival of the train on which they are to be shipped as directed by defendant's agent, there is a delivery imposing the duty of transporting without unreasonable delay. McCrary v. Mo., etc., R. Co., 99 Mo. App. 518, 74 S. W. 2. In tort no recovery can be had for damages prior to the loading. Cattle. Instruction held proper. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 440.

28. So an action for damages will lie for failure to comply with the United States statutes as to unloading and resting. Where a local statute provides that a statutory penalty shall not remove a right of action for damages, a shipper may have an action for damages [Ky. St. 1903, § 466]. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Gregg, 25 Ky. L. R. 2329, 80 S. W. 512.

There is no distinction as to negligence in the failure to perform statutory and other duties. The latter must be established, however. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Beery, 31 Ind. App. 556, 68 N. E. 702.

29. Charge held erroneous. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 28. Shippers of live stock assume the risk of unavoidable accidents and delays. Delays due to washouts. McKenzie v. Mich. Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 260.

30. Lewis v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 128. Injury to mule occasioned by his kicking and catching his foot in slats of car door is from inherent viciousness. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. James, 117 Ga. 832, 45 S. E. 223.

31. Shrinkage due to cattle being placed in pens by shipper sooner than reasonably necessary to have them in position for loading held not recoverable (International, etc., R. Co. v. Earnest [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 29), but where a carrier invites the delivery of cattle to it for shipment, it cannot assert that the shipper is negligent in adopting the means offered. Held for jury whether shade or shelter should have been provided for hogs awaiting shipment. Lackland v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 420, 74 S. W. 505.

Rest and feeding.—The shipper need not demand a rest.[33] The carrier is not, however, under an absolute duty to unload stock for rest, feed and water on the shipper's request.[34] It is no defence for exceeding the statutory period of confinement that part of the period was while the cattle were in the hands of an antecedent carrier.[35]

Unreasonable delay.[36]—In the absence of special contract,[37] delivery must be in a reasonable time,[38] which is a jury question.[39] There must be evidence of the time requisite and that actually consumed.[40] Judicial notice of increase in traffic may be taken.[41] The carrier is not liable for delay anticipated by the shipper,[42] or caused by him,[43] or by act of God;[44] but the carrier is not freed from liability for delay caused by Act of God, where with knowledge it accepts cattle without informing the shipper.[45]

Time necessarily occupied by stops as required by the Federal statute must not be considered as delay,[46] or time required to give attention to cattle.[47]

32. Jones v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 893. No liability where train is snowbound in blizzard and cattle frozen in the absence of concurring negligence. Id.

33. Southern Pac. Co. v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 75.

Contra, a carrier is not chargeable with the neglect to afford an opportunity to feed and water live stock, accompanied by a caretaker, until it has been requested by him to do so and has refused. McKenzie v. Mich. Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 260.

34. The demand must be reasonable [Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 326; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2995, § 4386]. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 827. Where failure to feed or water stock or take them from the cars to rest was not alleged as a cause of their injury and there was no evidence that such failure contributed to their injury, it was not error to refuse to charge that if injuries resulted from their being left in the cars for 28 hours the verdict should be for defendant. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lovelady [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1040. Where no charge presenting the defense of inherent weakness of the cattle was requested, the carrier could not complain of the failure of the court to present it. Id.

35. Rev. St. U. S. § 4386, punishing confinement of cattle more than 28 hours. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Gregg, 25 Ky. L. R. 2329, 80 S. W. 512.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 441.

37. Where a carrier had agreed that cattle should be delivered at its pens on a certain day, it was liable for injuries to them because of its negligence, though it did not have notice that the cattle had been placed in the pens. Evidence held for the jury as to whether the cattle were lost. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Waggoner Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1050.

38. Bosley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 613; Southern R. Co. v. Railey Bros. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 786. A common carrier is bound to transport live stock only with reasonable dispatch. Delays due to washouts. McKenzie v. Mich. Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 260. It is the duty of a carrier to transport live stock with reasonable dispatch, in view of the character of the shipment and its liability to injury from detention. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hunt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 322. A charge that if the carrier used ordinary care to transport stock with reasonable dispatch, ignoring the question whether it was properly handled, the failure to use ordinary care in the latter respect being one of the acts of negligence alleged, was erroneous. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lovelady [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1040.

39. Bosley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 613. Unreasonableness of delay and cause of shrinkage of cattle. Chinn v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 576, 75 S. W. 375. Whether delay was due to unavoidable shortage of cars. Id.

40. Johnston v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 479.

41. Action for unreasonable delay in carriage of cattle. Chinn v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 576, 75 S. W. 375.

42. Where hogs are shipped at the earliest practicable scheduled time, the carrier is not liable, though there is a delay of four hours which it was known to the shippers would occur. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031.

43. A mortgagor shipper cannot recover for delays occasioned by his attempt to ship contrary to the obligations of his mortgage. Johnston v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 479. Carrier is not liable for delay occasioned by statements of its agent that a final carrier would accept the shipper's check. Louisville & A. R. Co. v. Bennett, 25 Ky. L. R. 834, 76 S. W. 408.

44. Storm is act of God. Herring v. Chesapeake & W. R. Co., 101 Va. 778, 45 S. E. 322. Though a carrier may be liable for a delay in forwarding cattle, it is not liable for injury, the proximate cause of which was exposure to severe storm and cold after it was en route. Id.

45. Blizzard. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

46. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Carlisle [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 553.

47. A delay of 12 hours while a cow included in the shipment is receiving attention in calving is not negligence, especially where 5 hours' delay was imposed by law on that length of run. Lewis v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 128.

§ 17. Delivery.[48]

§ 18. Liability of carrier or connecting carrier.[49]—A carrier undertaking the carriage of cattle as agent of another is held to reasonable care.[50] In the absence of special contract, the initial carrier discharges its liability for cattle to be transported beyond its line by delivery to the connecting carrier.[51]

The fault is with the initial carrier in not forwarding a way bill, where the connecting carrier's agents refuse a shipment for that reason under their rules, though they might have obtained necessary information from other sources.[52] Where freight has been transported by successive carriers and is damaged en route, the presumption is, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the injury occurred upon the line of the last carrier through whose hands it passed.[53]

Through contracts.[54]—When the undertaking is joint, all of the connecting carriers are liable for the negligence of each.[55] The initial carrier is liable for damages sustained on the connecting line, with a right of judgment over against such line.[56] A way bill to a particular destination does not show through contract.[57]

Limitation of liability.[58]—Where the carrier limits its liability to its own line, it cannot be held for negligence of connecting carriers, where there is no evidence of partnership or agency.[59]

Delay.[60]—A connecting carrier is liable for delay occasioned by defect in a car which it accepts from another.[61]

§ 19. Limitation of liability.[62]—The carrier cannot by contract free itself from liability for negligence,[63] or the duty to furnish a fit car,[64] save that the shipper may waive patent defects.[65] These principles are applicable to express companies.[66]

Limitations as to amount.[67]—A carrier cannot limit the amount of its liability for losses caused by its negligence,[68] though it has been held that it may agree

48. No cases for this section, but see 1 Curr. L. 441; and for related matter, see ante, § 9.

49. Rights where separate bills of lading are taken, see 1 Curr. L. 442. Rights where quarantine arises en route, see 1 Curr. L. 442, n. 10.

50. Southern Kan. R. Co. v. Crump [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 335.

51. Pa. Co. v. Dickson, 31 Ind. App. 451, 67 N. E. 538. Liability exists for injury while its employes are loading animals into car of connecting carrier. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Mathews [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 607.

52. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. 674, 75 S. W. 782.

53. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Shanley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1014. In such case the burden is on the last carrier to show that the damage occurred before it received the goods, and, if it does so, the burden is then cast upon the next preceding carrier to acquit itself in the same way, and so on. Id. Initial carrier held not a joint wrongdoer with connecting carrier, so as to preclude its recovering against the latter for its liability to plaintiff for damages due to. delay in shipping cattle. Tex. Cent. R. Co. v. Cauble [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1022.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 441.

55. Chicago, etc.. R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 140.

56. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 390.

57. Stock. Herring v. Chesapeake & W. R. Co., 101 Va. 778, 45 S. E. 322.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 442. See, also, ante, §§ 11, 12 for related matter.

59. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Startz [Tex.] 77 S. W. 1. Limitation to own line prevents liability for delays on connecting lines. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Earnest [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 29.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 442.

61. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Carlisle [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 553.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 443. See, also, ante, § 12, for related matter.

63. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 789; Botts v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 976. Delay [Civ. Code, §§ 2876, 2877, 2912]. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642; Paul v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 139. "Delay incident to ordinary transportation" must be delays consistent with ordinary care. Southern Pac. Co. v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 75.

64. Defects which are hidden are not excused by condition requiring shipper to inspect and select car. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Holland [Ind.] 69 N. E. 138.

65. Space between slats of a car door, rendering it possible for a mule to catch his hoof between them, is a patent defect, waived by a contract showing acceptance of the car by the shipper. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. James, 117 Ga. 832, 45 S. E. 223.

66. Code, § 2165. McMillan v. American Exp. Co., 123 Iowa, 236, 98 N. W. 629.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 443.

68. Paul v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 139.

in advance as to value of stock,[69] which agreed value or limitation merely limits recovery beyond such amount,[70] and a rising market causing stock, though damaged, to sell on arrival at more than the agreed valuation, will not prevent recovery of actual damages up to the amount of valuation.[71] The valuation must be reasonable.[72] The shipper must show that an agreed valuation is not binding.[73]

Consideration.[74]—Limitations of common-law liability must be on consideration[75] other than the original contractual relation of the parties,[76] hence if stipulated rates be exceeded, the limitation will not avail,[77] but a consideration is not needed to support a limitation of liability to the carrier's own line,[78] or a stipulation that cattle shall be valued at the place of shipment.[79]

A shipper need not be tendered the option to hold the carrier to his common-law liability, but the carrier must be in readiness to issue a common-law bill of lading.[80]

Assent to limitation.[81]—A limitation of liability not in the contract cannot be raised by custom,[82] though a custom to sign similar contracts raises a presumption of knowledge of the shipper.[83]

Though a shipper has objected to a car furnished under a special contract, he reaffirms the contract if it is deemed to be abrogated, by insisting on other of its provisions.[84]

Provision that shipper shall accompany and care for or load and unload stock.[85]—A contract imposing on the shipper the duty to feed and water is valid,[86] in the absence of statute,[87] but failure to accompany stock as provided in a way bill does not prevent recovery for neglect of the actual duty of transportation.[88] A custom

A contract that in case of delay the measure of damages shall be the cost of food and water while the cattle are detained will not relieve against negligence. Bosley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 613; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 105 Ill. App. 54.

69. Hill v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 33 Wash. 697, 74 P. 1054.

70. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

71. U. S. Exp. Co. v. Joyce [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1015.

72. A valuation of hogs at $5.00 each is unreasonable. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031.

73. U. S. Exp. Co. v. Joyce [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1016.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 443.

75. Rice v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 974. Where a contract is not for a reduced rate, a limitation of liability is without consideration. Summers v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 481.

76. Value. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Kevekorder [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1022.

77. Charging larger rate for shipment of live stock than that stipulated for, due to fact that carrier turned car over to another company. Hendrix v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App]. 80 S. W. 970.

78. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031.

79. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 782.

80. Evidence that person who had shipped for years never had one is admissible to show they had never been offered a common-law contract. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 443.

82. McMillan v. American Exp. Co., 123 Iowa, 236, 98 N. W. 629.

83. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031.

84. Objection as to preparation of floor waived by demand of free transportation. Gilleland v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 119 Ga. 789, 47 S. E. 336.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 443.

86. Lewis v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 128; Paul v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 139. By the giving of a reduced rate and free transportation to the shipper, the carrier may relieve itself from the duty of caring for stock. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. James, 117 Ga. 832, 45 S. E. 223. Instruction as to duty of carrier to feed and water, is error where shipper has assumed duty. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Musick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 673. Where plaintiff was bound to feed and water, he cannot show a request to defendant's agent to water and feed while in pens of a connecting carrier, the defendant's liability being limited to its line. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 588.

87. Under Const. § 196 against restriction of common-law liability, a carrier is not relieved from the duty of caring for stock by a bill of lading requiring shipper to unload, feed and water and send a person in charge. Such a clause simply shifts burden of proof of negligence. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Sanders, 25 Ky. L. R. 2333, 80 S. W. 488.

88. Failure to drench hogs, the appliances being in charge of the trainmen and the duty performed by them. Wallace v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 750.

to ship without a person accompanying is not admissible where the contract stipulates for such accompaniment.[89]

The burden of showing cause of death is not placed on the shipper by the fact that his agents accompany the shipment,[90] and an injury to stock through defective car flooring is not covered by an agreement by the shipper to assume care in transit.[91]

Provisions for notice of injury.[92]—A requirement of a verified claim for loss or damage within five days from removal of stock is valid.[93]

Waiver of limitation.[94]—A carrier which undertakes the duty of feeding and watering cattle without consent of the shipper who is bound to take care of them under the contract, is liable for negligent performance.[95]

Time of filing claim is waived by a refusal to settle based on other grounds,[96] and a defective claim is waived by failure to object,[97] or by denial of liability.[98]

§ 20. Procedure in actions relating to carriage of stock. Right of action; parties; venue.[99]—An action in tort based on violations of the carrier's common-law duty may be maintained though a special contract has been entered into, but a complaint in such an action cannot be amended to authorize recovery on the special contract.[1]

Owners of a joint shipment may join in a suit to recover damages sustained by each.[2] The owner may sue for stock shipped in the name of an agent.[3]

Statutes often make the carrier suable in any one of several counties where it may be found.[4] Such statutes extend to shipments beyond the state boundary.[5]

Pleading.[6]—The facts showing negligence should be averred[7] and causal connection shown between the breach of duty and the injury.[8] Gross negligence

89. Needy v. Western Md. R. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 489.

90. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

91. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Holland [Ind.] 69 N. E. 138.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 444.

93. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 105 Ill. App. 54.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 444.

95. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 782.

96. Wallace v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 750.

97. Notice by letter not objected to. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642. No objection for absence of an affidavit and negotiations opened for settlement. Summers v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 481.

98. A refusal to investigate and denial of all liability is a waiver of written notice. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 782.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 444. A special contract pleaded and established in defense does not prevent its maintenance. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

1. A declaration sounding in tort for failure to furnish a suitable car cannot be amended by setting up a special contract for the equipment of the car. Gilleland v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 119 Ga. 789, 47 S. E. 336.

2. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 390.

3. Code Civ. Proc. § 540. Summers v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 481.

4. Under Laws 1899, p. 214, c. 125, a non-resident corporation may be sued in a county where another road, with which it has entered into a through contract, has an agent. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. White & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 947. Under statutes providing that any or all of connecting carriers may be sued in any county in which either extends, it is not material that the shipper has accompanied the stock [Gen. Laws 26 Leg. p. 214, c. 125, § 1]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953. Consult Venue, etc., 2 Curr. L. 2000.

5. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 445.

7. Where the action is ex delicto, the contract need not be set out, but where the question is properly raised by special demurrer should set up the facts constituting a breach of duty and also that loss was sustained thereby. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Cody, 119 Ga. 371, 46 S. E. 429. An averment that "the injury to plaintiff's horses was caused wholly on account of the negligence of defendants" is insufficient no reference being made to any act of negligence before mentioned. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Beery, 31 Ind. App. 556, 68 N. E. 702.

Contra, negligence is sufficiently alleged by an averment of death of horses during transportation and while in defendant's possession by and through its negligence. Smith v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 99 N. W. 47.

8. A complaint in an action based on failure to give an opportunity to unload cattle must aver facts showing that such was the cause of the injury. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Beery, 31 Ind. App. 556, 68 N. E. 702.

supervening a limitation of liability must be pleaded if relied on.[9] An action may be brought on a written contract of shipment without adopting a clause limiting value, the invalidity of which is set up in the complaint,[10] though a declaration on a special contract cannot be amended to aver that the contract set out is not binding.[11] Where special damages are claimed, facts showing them to have been within the contemplation of the parties must be alleged.[12]

The pleading will be taken as in tort or on contract according to the legal effect of its allegations.[13] The fact that a complaint sets up a special contract does not necessarily render the cause of action ex contractu.[14]

Under the codes, a reply to a defense of overloading is not necessary.[15] An averment that it was the carrier's duty to place a car of stock in position to be unloaded immediately on arrival is admitted by demurrer making its neglect negligence.[16] A contract limiting liability is admissible under the general issue in case.[17] It is a variance if negligence[18] or a cause of injury[19] or damage[20] substantially different from that pleaded, be proved.

Burden of proof and evidence.[21]—The shipper has the burden of showing compliance with conditions precedent to recovery.[22] It cannot be assumed that injuries are due to the fault of the carrier rather than to the natural propensities of the animals where the causes are of equal probability.[23] The shipper must establish negligence concurring with an overpowering cause when such cause is established.[24]

Proof of loss establishes a prima facie case[25] in the absence of particular limitations.[26] When, if the loss is from an excepted cause, the burden is on the ship-

9. Cattle. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 105 Ill. App. 54.

10. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Kevekordes [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1022; Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Holland [Ind.] 69 N. E. 138.

11. Southern R. Co. v. Parramore, 119 Ga. 690, 46 S. E. 822.

12. Where the price of cattle per pound is contracted to be paid on delivery, damages for shrinkage are special and it must be shown by the pleadings that they were contemplated by the carrier on acceptance for shipment. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 580.

13. A complaint averring that a shipper of live stock had no choice in rates, that there was no reduction in the usual charges, and no consideration for a waiver of defendant's liability, is not on the special contract. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Holland [Ind.] 69 N. E. 138.

An action against connecting carriers for delay in transmission of cattle held to be on contract and hence within Code, § 363, providing that an action on contract may stand for trial against one defendant and be continued as to co-defendants. Louisville & A. R. Co. v. Bennett, 25 Ky. L. R. 834, 76 S. W. 408.

14. Complaint in action for delay of cattle held to be in tort, the facts alleged being violation of common-law duty. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

15. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 641.

16. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Beery, 31 Ind. App. 556, 68 N. E. 702.

17. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 105 Ill. App. 54.

18. Proof of delay is inadmissible unless pleaded. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. James, 117 Ga. 832, 45 S. E. 223. Damage from tracks being out of repair cannot be submitted where not pleaded or supported by evidence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Carlisle [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 553. Evidence that horses were injured by drinking too much water at a stop is admissible though not pleaded where their action is due to a failure to water prior thereto, which was the neglect pleaded. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1080.

19. Evidence of a cause of injury not pleaded is admissible where drawn out on cross-examination of plaintiff by one company sued and damage occurred on line of other. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953.

20. Death of cattle not alleged in petition cannot be recovered for. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 390.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 445, n. 51-65, 73, 74.

22. Rule applies where the condition appears from the evidence as well as where pleaded. Notice of injury to cattle. Kalina v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 438.

23. Dead calf and calf with broken leg. Lewis v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 A. 128.

24. Jones v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 893.

25. Proof that horses were in good condition when shipped, that the car in which they were was derailed and thrown down an embankment, that they bore marks of the accident and were since unserviceable, timid, and difficult to handle, presents a prima facie case. Keyes-Marshall Bros. Livery Co. v. St. Louis & H. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 53.

26. A contract to load and take care of hogs, to unload and also to inspect the condition of the car, and to see that doors and windows are kept fastened, prevents the per to show negligence,[27] the carrier has burden of showing that loss falls within the exemption,[28] and has burden of showing assent to a limitation,[29] a presumption of which arises from the signature of the shipping contract.[30] A shipper alleging want of consideration for a limitation of value has the burden.[31]

There is no presumption that the time scheduled to be made by cattle trains is reasonable.[32]

Admissibility[33] and sufficiency[34] of evidence are discussed in illustrative cases burden of proof of freedom from negligence passing on mere proof of failure to deliver the number of hogs loaded. Needy v. Western Md. R. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 489.

27. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031.

28. Kalina v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 438.

29. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Patton, 203 Ill. 376, 67 N. E. 804.

30. Limitation of value. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Kevekordes [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1022.

31. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Kevekordes [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1022.

32. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Currie [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 810.

33. Testimony of plaintiff to terms of an alleged oral contract of carriage is admissible where the question was whether shipment was under oral or written contract. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1241. A claim is not an offer of compromise and the admissions therein may be used to contradict the plaintiff's evidence as to the amount of damage. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 28. Held not error to admit evidence of a custom as to which of two connecting carriers should furnish cars "properly cleaned and suitable for shipping," on question of their liability inter se. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020.

Record of cars furnished is best evidence. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 614. Evidence of opinions of persons present as reasonable necessity of leaving cattle train to clear obstructed road held incompetent, as also statements of engineer concerning blockade. Southern Kan. R. Co. v. Crump [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 335. Statement that schedule of rates had been filed is not best evidence of its filing in the office of the secretary of state. Summers v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 481.

Error in exclusion of evidence of limitations, which would be void if established, is harmless. McMillan v. American Exp. Co., 123 Iowa, 236, 98 N. W. 629.

Admissions of employes [a conductor] as to negligence with regard to matters not within his employment are inadmissible. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Carlisle [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 553. Statements of depot agent as to when delivery would be made is admissible as bearing on reasonableness. Southern R. Co. v. Railey Bros. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 786. Evidence tending to show that a person with knowledge of defendants acted in their joint interest and in their common benefit is admissible to show a common undertaking. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 140.

Admissible on damages. Plaintiff may testify as to value of cattle at destination had they been delivered in the condition they should have been. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Mathews [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 607.

Market value of cattle, dead and injured, is admissible though the contract limits the value where it is necessary to leave the validity of such contract to the jury. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031. Witness may testify to value "in good condition." Tex. & P. R. Co. v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 641.

Account of sales or telegrams sent plaintiff by third persons are hearsay. International, etc., R. Co. v. Startz [Tex.] 77 S. W. 1. Witness held qualified to give opinion that condition of cattle was caused by bad handling and delay. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. White & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 947. Evidence that cattle arrived too late for a particular market, causing loss, is admissible though there is no agreement to deliver on that market. Bosley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 613.

Statement that cattle were damaged $3.25 per head held admissible as a short method of stating the proper measure of damage which witness had already given. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 140. In an action for injuries to cattle, testimony of experts as to the transportable condition of the cattle, the effect of delay and bad treatment received during transportation, held admissible. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020. Also as to what constituted overloading and what was a reasonable time to transfer them from one carrier to another. Id. Also competent to prove the condition, history, and shortage of the cattle placed in pasture at their destination. Id. Admission of evidence as to freight charged harmless, though it was immaterial. Id.

34. Held sufficient to establish: To support verdict for plaintiff. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lovelady [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1040; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1032. Negligence of carrier in transporting live stock. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 789. Negligent delay and exposure of livestock to heat. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1031. That negligence in permitting jack to remain down in a crate contributed to his death. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Emerson, 101 Mo. App. 62, 74 S. W. 132. Injury from released causes such as inherent viciousness or defect in car. Ragsdale v. Southern R. Co., 119 Ga. 627, 46 S. E. 832. Liability for unusual delay. Bosley v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 613. Against two carriers for delay and rough handling of cattle. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Batte [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 813.

That carrier failed to provide stock cars cited. Testimony as to market value at a certain place and on a certain day is admissible even though acquired from market reports and newspapers.[35] Nonsuit cannot be directed in an action for failure to promptly furnish cars though there is no proof of value at destination.[36] Evidence that cattle were sold at an established market in the usual manner is sufficient to establish sale at market value.[37] Where an initial carrier delayed stock during the most trying time of day, the jury may infer that the injury occurred on that rather than a connecting line.[38]

Instructions.—The rules usual in civil actions are applicable.[39] Where the carrier's liability is limited to its own line, a special charge must be given on dam-suitable for shipping and to warrant submission of question as to which of two connecting carriers was liable for such failure. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020. Unreasonable delay, damaging hogs, over contention that it was excused by hot boxes on new cars. McCrary v. Mo., etc., R. Co., 99 Mo. App. 518, 74 S. W. 2. Negligence in billing cattle to connecting carrier. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 782.

Whether cattle shipment contract was executed on false representation of agent that initial carrier assumed through liability. Louisville & A. R. Co. v. Bennett, 25 Ky. L. R. 834, 76 S. W. 408. Unwarranted delay and failure to shower hogs. Wallace v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 750.

35. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1241.

36. Plaintiff entitled to at least nominal damages. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Musick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 673.

37. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. White & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 947.

38. Wallace v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 750.

39. See generally article Instructions, 2 Curr. L. 461; also specifically consult 1 Curr. L. 446.

Questions for jury see 1 Curr. L. 446, n. 66-72. Instructions in action for damages for injuries to cattle held not objectionable as tending to confuse the jury. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1032. Question submitted just as requested. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020. As to counterclaim for negligent killing of jack, held covered by other instructions in action to recover for his transportation. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Emerson, 101 Mo. App. 62, 74 S. W. 132. That failure to transport stock on regular stock train was not negligence [refused as outside issues]. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lovelady [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1040.

Particular instructions: An instruction that the carrier would not be liable for the rough handling of cattle if done in the usual and customary manner held erroneous. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020. In an action for injuries to cattle where defendant claimed that they were weak from prior lack of care, instruction failing to require that plaintiff's prior treatment of cattle must have proximately caused or contributed to cause the injuries in order to preclude recovery, held erroneous. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Alexander [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1015. As to liability of carrier for injuries to cattle hooked by other cattle in course of transportation. [Covered by general charge.] Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 789. As to liability for delay caused by unloading cattle for food, water, and rest. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Alexander [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1015. As to burden of showing which of several carriers was liable for injuries to horses,—erroneous. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Shanley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1014.

Instructions in action for damage and delay in shipment of cattle, approved. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Batte [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 813. "Reasonable prudent" instead of "reasonably prudent" is harmless. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 28. Charge as to effect of agreement by shipper to care for stock need not be given where it appears opportunity was not afforded him. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1080. Construed together held not to assume that cars were demanded in reasonable time. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 86. Properly refused as relieving defendant from liability for negligence of its own employes in feeding, watering, or hauling delayed cattle. Southern Kan. R. Co. v. Crump [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 335. That plaintiff was entitled to designate connecting carrier held error as not supported by evidence. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 782. Instruction that it was the duty of the carrier to transport live stock "with such dispatch as was reasonably necessary," held substantially correct. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hunt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 322.

Damages: Where jury are instructed that they can only charge defendant with such damages as were proximately caused by its negligence, it is not error to refrain from giving an affirmative instruction that it would not be liable for injuries caused by inherent weakness or vice of the stock. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lovelady [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1040. Instruction that a connecting carrier is not liable for damages sustained on a connecting road which only became apparent or developed while the freight was in its hands, held not required by the evidence. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953. Held not misleading as permitting assessment against one carrier of damages occasioned by negligence of connecting carrier. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Currie [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 810. Criticised but held not misleading as allowing double damages. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Storey [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 847. Instruction as to damage for delay in furnishing cars for cattle held error as allow-ages which the evidence shows to be due to delay by a connecting carrier, though a general charge is given.[40] Defendant is entitled to have submitted the issue of injury being proximately caused by condition of cattle and not delay.[41]

§ 21. Damages.[42]—The measure of damages is usually the difference between the market value at the time and in the condition they arrive and the value at the place, time, and in the condition in which they should have arrived,[43] and necessarily added expense,[44] but only such as is reasonably necessary.[45] Value at final destination controls.[46] Where expense of feeding at point of delivery and also shrinkage is recovered, the weight should be taken after feeding.[47] Interest from time of demand of damages may be awarded.[48] The measure of damage for cattle dying en route is reasonable net value at destination.[49] A carrier guilty of negligence or unreasonable delay proximately causing injury is liable though the results may have been more disastrous than had the cattle been in good condition.[50] In the absence of notice of a special contract of sale, it does not bear on damages.[51] A contract, silent as to time, does not exclude special damage from failure to reach a market in time.[52] The carrier tardy in furnishing cars is responsible for loss occasioned by failure to reach a particular market though connecting carriers also delayed the shipment, and had they not done so the market would have been reached.[56]

ing double damages. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Musick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 673. Not erroneous as authorizing recovery for natural shrinkage. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Currie [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 810. Instruction as to measure of damages in action for injuries to live stock not erroneous for failure to inform jury that carrier would not be liable for injuries caused by their inherent weakness. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lovelady [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1040. Instruction in action for damage to and delay in shipment of stock erroneous as precluding recovery for delays and rough handling en route. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Alexander [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1015. Instructions limiting amount of recovery to that fixed by contract, erroneous, where delay due to carrier's negligence. Botts v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 976. Instruction as to measure of damages for delay in shipping cattle erroneous as stating wrong rule, and as deciding a question of fact in issue. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1241. Under evidence and contract, instruction that carrier was not liable for damages for failure to feed and water stock at station, approved. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hunt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 322.

40. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 588.

41. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 235.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 447. General questions of damages are treated in the article Damages.

43. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1241; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ware [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 961. Charge held not prejudicial. St. Louis, etc., R. v. Barnes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 104. Market value means price cattle will bring when market is opened after their arrival. Southern Kan. R. Co. v. Crump [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 335. Evidence as to proceeds of sale a month later is immaterial. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Patton, 203 Ill. 376, 67 N. E. 804. Mares may be shown to have lost their foals after arrival. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Murtishaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 953. There is harmless error in allowing the jury to fix market value at a point a few miles distant from the actual destination. 101 Live Stock Co. v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 674, 75 S. W. 782.

44. In action for delay of carrier in transporting cattle, plaintiff is entitled to recover for extra feed necessitated thereby and for difference in value of cattle as received from value they would have had if there had been no delay. Hendrix v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 970. Where cars are not furnished within a reasonable time, the expenses of holding cattle may be recovered. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 614.

45. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 86.

46. Where the agreement is to deliver at defendant's terminal for transportation to destination. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 641.

47. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 72 P. 642.

48. Breach of contract to transport with reasonable care. Southern Pac. Co. v. Arnett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 75. It is proper to allow the jury to consider the question of interest on the value as a part of the measure of damages. Instruction approved. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Batte [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 813.

49. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 104.

50. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 235.

51. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Musick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 673.

52. Though the contract is not to catch a particular market, failure to do so may be alleged without varying a written contract where the complaint avers that the carrier had knowledge of the market which the shipper intended to reach and that it could have been reached by transportation with

The shipper must not be negligent in preventing further damage.[54] A shipper of cattle for sale is not bound to hold and feed them in order to obviate the effect of a carrier's negligence, but may dispose of them at once and sue for the difference between the market value and what it would have been if they had been properly transported.[55] Evidence on damages and instructions on same have already been discussed.[56]

Part IV. Carriage of Passengers.

§ 22. Who are passengers.[57]—A passenger is one who travels in some public conveyance, by virtue of a contract, express or implied, with the carrier.[58] A contract will be implied from knowledge and consent of the conductor,[59] and from the boarding of a car with intent to pay fare,[60] or in good faith.[61] Passengers include all those who solicit the services of the carrier.[62]

The possession of a ticket is not essential,[63] and the person may be on the reasonable dispatch. Pa. Co. v. Dickson, 31 Ind. App. 451, 67 N. E. 538.

53. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 614.

54. Facts held not to warrant application of rule. Hogs. Lackland v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 420, 74 S. W. 505.

55. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hunt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 322.

56. See ante, § 20.

57. Who are common carriers, see ante, § 1. See 1 Curr. L. 448, 449.

58. An employe of the shipper accompanying live stock, whose transportation has been included in the price paid as freight, is a passenger within meaning of act exempting railroad company from liability for injuries to anyone not a passenger [Act April 4, 1868; 2 Purd. Dig. p. 1604, pl. 6]. Rowdin v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 623, 57 A. 1125.

NOTE. When one becomes a passenger: The relation of passenger and carrier is commonly to be implied from circumstances which must be such as to warrant the implication that the one has offered himself as a passenger and the other has accepted him. Ordinarily the carrier will not be deemed to have accepted one as a passenger unless he has presented himself to be carried in a proper condition, in a proper manner and at a proper place. The previous purchase of a ticket is not a controlling circumstance. Thus one who had a ticket and was running across the railway premises outside the station to catch a train, and was struck by an incoming train, was held not a passenger. Webster v. Fitchburg R. Co., 161 Mass. 298, 37 N. E. 165, 24 L. R. A. 521. On the other hand, a person may under certain circumstances be entitled to the rights of a passenger, though he has not yet purchased a ticket. So where one goes to a station in good faith at a reasonable hour to take a train (Grimes v. Pa. Co., 36 F. 72); or who goes to station to take a train in case he found a friend on board (Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Best, 66 Tex. 116, 18 S. W. 224); or is on his way to the station in a stage managed by the company (Buffett v. Troy & B. R. Co., 40 N. Y. 168); or one who has not bought a ticket because told by the agent to pay on the train (Allender v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa, 264). The relation ordinarily commences at least as soon as a ticket is purchased with the immediate purpose of taking the cars as soon as they are ready. Johns v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 39 S. C. 162, 17 S. E. 698, 20 L. R. A. 520; Warren v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Allen [Mass.] 227, 85 Am. Dec. 700. See other cases cited in note to Webster v. Fitchburg R. Co., 24 L. R. A. 521.

59. Mooted as to whether person accustomed to be carried free and who rendered occasional assistance to employes was a passenger. Chaney v. Louisiana & M. R. Co., 176 Mo. 598, 75 S. W. 595.

60. Had not paid his fare when he sought to alight and was injured. Dallas Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Payne [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1085.

61. Defendant held liable for injuries to special policeman who boarded car believing he had a right to ride thereon, but who was ready and willing to pay his fare if it had been demanded of him. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 780.

62. One who solicits services of licensed hackman is a passenger within meaning of city ordinance, making it unlawful to refuse to carry passengers, though he has not entered the vehicle or been accepted by the carrier. Atlantic City v. Brown [N. J. Law] 58 A. 110.

63. Person crossing tracks to take train with intention to pay fare is a passenger. Albin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 153.

NOTE. A newsboy who is permitted to jump on and off the cars for the purpose of selling his papers, according to the weight of authority, is neither a passenger nor a trespasser, but occupies the position of a mere licensee. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Thurston, 43 Ill. App. 587; Raming v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 157 Mo. 477, 57 S. W. 268; Padgitt v. Moll, 159 Mo. 143, 60 S. W. 121; Fleming v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 1 Abb. N. C. 433, affirmed 74 N. Y. 618; Phila. Traction Co. v. Orbann, 119 Pa. 37, 12 A. 816; Blackmore v. Toronto St. R. Co., 38 U. C. Q. B. 172. In Amato v. Sixth Ave. R. Co., 9 Misc. 4, 29 N. Y. S. 51, nothing was said as to the custom of the railroad in allowing newsboys to sell their papers on their cars, but the court apparently recognized no middle ground, and said: "We assume that, in boarding the defendant's car, not intending to become a passenger, the plaintiff, for the time being, was a trespasser." In Padgitt v. Moll, 159 Mo. 143, 60 S. W. 121, the court wrong train,[64] though a person who offers to pay fare only to a station for which the train does not receive passengers becomes a trespasser.[65] One entitled to carriage in a particular manner may be a trespasser if he fail to comply with the agreement.[66] The same person may be both an employe and a passenger.[67]

One riding on a pass which was void because declared so by statute can, it has been held, recover for injuries sustained.[68]

Persons stealing rides[69] or attempting to evade payment of fare are trespassers,[70] and such acts are made criminal in some states.[71]

Persons on other than passenger trains.[72]—Ordinarily one is not a passenger who boards a train not designed for such traffic,[73] but a person of authority may permit one to so become a passenger.[74] Mere belief in his authority does not suffice,[75] nor does silent acquiescence of a conductor in a person's riding on an engine at the engineer's invitation make him a passenger.[76] said: "A newsboy jumping on and off a moving street car to sell his newspapers, not hailing to stop the car to receive him, nor signaling to stop to allow him to alight, not asking or receiving permission, either express or tacit, not asking or waiting for leave or license, but jumping on and off under circumstances that clearly indicate no purpose to pay fare, and no aim to be transported, but only to avail himself of the presence of persons on the car likely to buy his papers. is in no sense a passenger." It has also been held that he is in no better position if he is ready to pay fare if called upon. Raming v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 157 Mo. 477, 57 S. W. 268. The cases are not in accord as to the degree of care required of the company under these circumstances. In North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Thurston, 43 Ill. App. 587, it was held that the plaintiff could not recover unless he could prove that the company wantonly or willfully inflicted an injury upon him, and in Fleming v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 1 Abb. N. C. 433, affirmed 74 N. Y. 618, the court said: "The complaint proceeds upon the theory that, by permitting newsboys to traffic with the passengers on the cars, the defendant becomes charged with the duty of looking after their safety, of seeing that they do not run into danger, and of stopping and slackening the speed of the car for them to leave, whether requested to do so or not. I do not think the railroad company can fairly be said to have assumed any such obligation. Of course the driver had no right to do anything which would recklessly or needlessly expose this boy to danger." In Padgitt v. Moll, 159 Mo. 143, 60 S. W. 121, it was held that, while the plaintiff was in no sense a passenger, and the carrier was not under any obligation to observe towards him the same degree of care which it was obliged to show its passengers, nevertheless the law did require, under such circumstances, the exercise of ordinary care. If a newsboy is allowed on a car, and is then ordered to get off when he can do so with safety, he is a trespasser if he remains on the car, and protected from willful injury only (Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hockett [Ind. App.] 64 N. E. 633), but he must hear the order (Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hockett, 161 Ind. 196, 67 N. E. 106).—From Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law [2d Ed.] § 11.

64. Is entitled to the same care. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Pruitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 598.

65. Flood v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2135, 80 S. W. 184.

66. A newsboy on running board is a trespasser when his sole rights were under a contract to enter and leave by rear platform and only when car was at rest. Albert v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 52.

67. Telegraph lineman riding to and from his work and having nothing to do with the operation of the train. Carswell v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 118 Ga. 826, 45 S. E. 695.

68. Laws 1891, c. 320, § 4, making it an unjust discrimination. McNeill v. Durham & C. R. Co., 135 N. C. 682, 47 S. E. 765. Conditions on the back of such pass are of no effect. Id. Authorities collected and discussed on the doctrine of pari delicto. Dissenting opinion by Clark, C. J., concurred in by Montgomery, J., holds that the traveler must either found his action on a riding without fare, which is unlawful, or on a contract [advertising pass], which is void. Id.

69. See Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1742, for a discussion of the carrier's duties toward them. Pledger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1057; Klenk v. Or. Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 214; Johnson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 224, 98 N. W. 642; Bjornquist v. Boston & A. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 53; McKeon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 183 Mass. 271, 67 N. E. 329; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Kimbrough, 24 Ky. L. R. 2409, 74 S. W. 229.

70. Evidence held not to show liability toward person injured while alighting. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 110 Tenn. 197, 75 S. W. 711.

71. Acts 1897, p. 116. Drunkenness is no excuse [Pen. Code, § 39]. Brazzell v. State, 119 Ga. 559, 46 S. E. 837.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 449.

73. One who intrudes himself on a freight train not carrying passengers, without knowledge or consent of employes, is a trespasser. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 365.

74. One riding on a freight train under direction of the trainmaster to the conductor is a passenger, though the rule of the company confines the authority to grant permits to the general superintendent. Dysart v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 228.

75. One boarding a freight train under

A continued and open and notorious disregard of rules by employes may amount to a waiver.[77] It will not be presumed that a brakeman on a freight train has authority to make an agreement to carry a passenger,[78] even though the carrier knows they have previously done so,[79] or that one becomes a passenger by getting on a coal car[80] not open to passengers.[81] The burden is on plaintiff to prove that such is the case.[82] Caretakers of live stock in transit are passengers for hire,[83] and the freight contract need not bear their names.[84]

When relation begins.[85]—The passenger may be such though he has not yet paid his fare,[86] or have actually boarded the car or train provided he has indicated his intention,[87] but until some offer is made to become a passenger, the conductor is not bound to anticipate such intention,[88] and the purpose of becoming a passenger must be so evinced that the conductor or carman could or should have observed it.[89] The character attaches when the intending passenger passes over the carrier's premises in his approach to the car,[90] even though he mistakes his car.[91]

The intending passenger's coming must be a reasonable time before departure of the train,[92] and he must remain in the station and places provided the belief that a track superintendent had the right to authorize him to ride thereon, is a trespasser, but not a willful one. Ala. & V. R. Co. v. Livingston [Miss.] 36 So. 256.

76. Radley v. Columbia So. R. Co. [Or.] 75 P. 212.

77. Carriage of passengers on freight trains. Greenfield v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 546.

78. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Huff [Tex.] 81 S. W. 525.

79. Does not raise an inference that they have authority to do so. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Huff [Tex.] 81 S. W. 525. In action for injuries received while riding on coal car in freight train, where plaintiff claimed to have paid his fare to a brakeman, instruction as to plaintiff's right to assume brakeman's authority in the premises held erroneous for authorizing such presumption and for excluding from consideration evidence that such practice was pursued by brakemen in spite of efforts to prevent it. Not cured by other instructions. Id.

80. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Huff [Tex.] 81 S. W. 525.

81. One who intruded himself on a freight train not for passengers without the knowledge of the carrier was not a passenger. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 365.

82. Questions for jury. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Huff [Tex.] 81 S. W. 525.

83. Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1034. Freight includes fare. Passenger within meaning of act exempting railroads from liability for injury to persons not passengers [Act April 4, 1868; 2 Purd. Dig. p. 1604, pl. 6]. Rowdin v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 623, 57 A. 1125.

84. One who, with the knowledge and consent of the agents of the carrier and of the conductor of the train, accompanies a shipment of live stock as an attendant, is a passenger, notwithstanding the fact that his name did not appear on the written contract as one of such attendants. American Exp. Co. v. Ogles [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1023. Testimony of plaintiff, in such case, that no one complained of his presence on the car, held admissible, there being evidence that the express company's agents and conductor of the train consented to his presence. Id.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 448.

86. As where he intends to and is prepared to pay. Dallas Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Payne [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1085.

87. Contractual relation between passenger and carrier begins as soon as the passenger comes within the sphere of peril incident to street cars, where the car has been signalled and has stopped to take on passengers. Injured before coming in actual contact with the car by the falling of a broken trolley pole. Holzenkamp v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 157. One attempting to board a car which has slowed in obedience to his signal at a proper place is a passenger, though he may be negligent. O'Mara v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 202, 76 S. W. 680.

88. Allegation that person was engaegd in or about becoming a passenger on said car is not sufficient. Birmingham R. & Elec. Co. v. Mason, 137 Ala. 342, 34 So. 207.

89. One who intending to become a passenger approached the car from the rear and was in such a position that the conductor looking out for passengers could not have seen her was not a passenger. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995. Employes are bound to exercise only ordinary care to ascertain whether a person standing in the street desires to become a passenger. Id. A person does not become a passenger by making an attempt to board a car at a place where he is not expected and where the car men are ignorant of his presence. Attempt to board a car stopped to throw a switch. McCarty v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 7.

90. A person with a drovers' pass is a passenger while walking along the tracks to reach the caboose. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Hotchkiss, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 431.

91. One is not a trespasser in approaching a train which does not carry passengers under erroneous direction of station agent to take passage thereon. Albin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 153.

92. Question properly left to the jury where she was present five hours prior to for his accommodation.[93] Whether the relation exists is for the jury on a conflict of evidence.[94]

When relation ceases or is interrupted.[95]—The relation exists from starting point to usual stopping place at final disposition,[96] and during the period needed for a safe exit.[97] The arriving passenger is entitled to remain at the station such time as is reasonably necessary to prepare for departure.[98] It does not cease when one goes on the platform to change cars[99] or recheck baggage.[1]

After alighting from a street car in the street, passenger becomes at once a traveler on a public thoroughfare;[2] otherwise during unnecessary departures from his car while en route.[3] The fact that a passenger assumes a dangerous position on the car does not alter his character as a passenger.[4]

Where a person is injured while riding on a train at a distance from a station, his status as a passenger is not determined by the relation he may have borne to the carrier at the station.[5] One who, having once disembarked from a train, returns for the purpose of using it as a mode of crossing the track, is a mere trespasser.[6]

§ 23. Duty to receive and carry passengers.[7]—A railroad as a common carrier must permit all who pay the regular fare to travel on their trains,[8] unless their condition is such as to render them dangerous to the safety or comfort of other passengers,[9] or their known purposes in traveling are unlawful.[10] If departure. Holcombe v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 6, 44 S. E. 68.

93. Holcombe v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 6, 44 S. E. 68.

94. Citizen's St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 448.

96. One does not as a matter of law cease to be a passenger on leaving a train on which he is riding in charge of property at a temporary stop before it was placed at a spot to be unloaded and returning next morning. Hardin v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 431.

97. Is entitled to the highest degree of care. Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314. Carrier liable if, after plaintiff started to leave street car, but before she reached platform, it was suddenly started and she was thereby thrown down and injured. Kroner v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 915.

98. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wallace [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 581.

99. One having a through ticket, who is required to go upon a platform in order to change cars. Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152.

1. Where, with knowledge, the carrier permits a passenger to alight to recheck baggage. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 16.

2. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Tenner [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1044; Louisville R. Co. v. Meglemery, 25 L. R. 1587, 78 S. W. 217; Id., 25 Ky. L. R. 2062, 79 S. W. 287. See Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law (2d Ed.) 7, 8.

3. One who leaves a through train on which he is a passenger at a temporary stop for the purpose of getting a drink is not a passenger, and his negligence in attempting to cross a track ahead of a train bars any recovery for injuries [Comp. St. 1901, c. 72, art. 1, § 3]. Sattler v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 663.

4. Standing on a projection outside the vestibule of a crowded car. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Bynum, 139 Ala. 389, 36 So. 736.

5. Radley v. Columbia Southern R. Co. [Or.] 75 P. 212.

6. Injured by stumbling over water hose and sudden jerking of train. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 453-459.

8. The fact that a passenger has been drunk on previous occasions does not justify his exclusion when in fit condition. Code 1883, § 1963, is mandatory as to duty to transport. Story v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349. Nor can the carrier show intoxication at a later date. Id. A news agent subject to the rules of the carrier, though not in its employ, on being ejected for an infraction of the rules, is entitled to ride on tender of fare. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Hill, 110 Tenn. 396, 75 S. W. 963. A person engaged in ticket scalping cannot for that reason be refused passage on payment of fare. Ford v East Louisiana R. Co., 110 La. 414, 34 So. 585.

9. A lunatic may be refused passage, though in charge of attendants, and secured in case he is cursing and using obscene language. Owens v. Macon & B. R. Co., 119 Ga. 230, 46 S. E. 87. Drunken passenger, though he has a ticket. Story v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349.

10. NOTE. Duty towards persons prosecuting illegal pursuit: In a recent case (Godwin v. Carolina Tel. & T. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 636), judicial aid to compel installation of a telephone in a bawdy house was refused. The ground was that the courts would not require the rendition of a public service for an unlawful use. It was said that while a carrier could not refuse to transport the keeper of such a house, it could refuse to haul a car used for such a purpose; also that it might reject an intending passenger it is necessary that a violent lunatic be transported, the carrier is entitled to notice to make proper arrangements.[11] A carrier is not required to take a passenger on a train which is not a passenger train.[12] Punitive damages for a wanton or aggravated exclusion,[13] and special damages in contemplation of the parties,[14] may be recovered.

Through trains may be run, not stopping save at schedule stations,[15] but there must be no discrimination in receiving and refusing differently ticketed passengers.[16] Stops[17] are obligatory, at customary places only.[18] They must be such as to enable one to board.[19]

Stops must be made at flag stations on proper signal,[20] if seen and understood[21] by the engineer or trainmen,[22] else the carrier will be liable both for compensatory[23] and punitive damages,[24] if the failure to stop was willful.[25]

Ejection of passengers.[26]—A passenger failing to produce a ticket good on its face,[27] or a transfer slip,[28] or other indicia of right, or to pay fare, may be expelled. It is no excuse that he has lost it,[29] or has entrusted it to another whom it knew to be traveling for the execution of a crime.

11. A carrier cannot be bound to transport a lunatic in a baggage car. Owens v. Macon & B. R. Co., 119 Ga. 230, 46 S. E. 87.

12. One rode out on an emergency train. The conductor refused to carry him back. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Du Bose [Ga.] 47 S. E. 917.

13. When, in the presence of a large crowd, the conductor pushes back an intending passenger, telling him he was drunk and a nuisance, there is evidence of "wantonness, insult or other aggravation." Story v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349.

14 To be an element of damages for exclusion, the sickness of plaintiff or his family must have been known to the conductor. Story v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 133 N. C. 59, 45 S. E. 349. $1,000 reduced to $100 for discrimination and refusing to transport passenger, damages being alleged to be augmented on account of suffering from snake bite. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S W. 426.

15. Petition for failure to stop interurban electric car held demurrable. Battle v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. F. 337. See, also, Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1410.

16. A carrier in according through passengers from outside the state over roads connecting with its lines at a particular point, the right to be carried therefrom on a particular train and denying those holding continuous passage tickets over its own lines the same right, violates the Interstate Commerce Act. Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 104, 24 St. 380, may be made the basis of a civil action by the person aggrieved. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 426.

17, 18. See, also, post, § 26C, Taking on Passengers. When the carrier is in the habit of receiving passengers. Creech v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 66 S. C. 528, 45 S. E. 86.

19. Failure to stop a sufficient time to permit plaintiff to board authorizes recovery for time lost, expense incurred or personal inconvenience. Verdict for punitive damages on ground of abuse held unsupported. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471.

20. Instruction as to effect of signal by third person held confusing. Southern R. Co. v. Lanning [Miss.] 35 So. 417.

21. The instructions must require the engineer to understand the signal. Southern R. Co. v. Lanning [Miss.] 35 So. 417.

22. The question of whether employes other than the engineer saw the signal should not be submitted in the absence of evidence. Southern R. Co. v. Lanning [Miss.] 35 So. 417.

23, 24. When the employes are not in fault, there is no ground for recovery, and merely compensatory damages may be awarded when there is mere negligence. Southern R. Co. v. Lanning [Miss.] 35 So. 417. To render a company liable for special damages, the facts from which they arise must have been known to it. Pleading held sufficient and evidence insufficient to support recovery for mental anguish in being unable to reach bedside of dying child. International, etc., R. Co. v. Sammon [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 854.

$3,333.33 reduced to $2,000 for failure to stop at flag station. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Faust [Miss.] 34 So. 356.

25. Where the fireman testified that he also was keeping a lookout for signals, the right to punitive damages should not be limited to the failure of the engineer to see and stop. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell [Miss.] 35 So. 339.

In an action of this kind an employe who is not a party cannot testify to his previous character in obeying signals. Reeves v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 543.

Instructions should specify acts required to be found willful or capricious. Southern R. Co. v. Lanning [Miss.] 35 So. 417; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell [Miss.] 35 So. 339.

Instructions in action for willfully refusing to stop at station held proper. Reeves v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 543. See, also, article Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1410.

26. On refusal to pay extra charge, see 1 Curr. L. 454. Place of ejection, see 1 Curr. L. 455.

27. Brown v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 925.

28. A rule that a person transferring from one line to another must produce either a transfer or fare is reasonable. Crowley v. Fitchburg, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 56.

29. Ticket was blown from plaintiff's who fails to board the train.[30] Though the carrier was first in the wrong by refusing a proper transfer[31] or ticket,[32] the attempt to travel without paying the demanded fare will subject one to ejection;[33] but where a passenger boards the first train he is given an opportunity to, he cannot be ousted because the limit of his ticket has expired[34] by reason of the carrier's delay.[35] One who is on a car without right to free passage, and refuses to pay his fare, may be ejected[36] after demand of ticket or fare and refusal.[37] Disorderly conduct will justify expulsion,[38] but not merely ungracious language and demeanor.[39]

If a ticket is invalid, the traveler's good faith in assuming to ride does not protect him,[40] unless the carrier or its agent sold a defective ticket and he had no notice.[41] Similarly, the holder of a transfer slip which is defective by the carrier's fault is entitled to ride[42] on proper explanation.[43] He need not have examined it,[44] but a transfer may be properly refused after expiration of the hand. Harp v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 206.

30. Nutter v. Southern R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1700, 78 S. W. 470.

31. One cannot recover for ejection for refusal to pay fare on a return trip, though he has been refused a transfer and instead of getting off remained on the car to the end of the line. Hoelljes v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 133.

32. Where a passenger refused an exchange ticket for his interchangeable mileage by the station agent, gets on the train knowing that by the terms of his contract his mileage would not be accepted, he cannot recover damages for his ejection. Schmidt v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 11, 74 S. W. 674.

33. NOTE. Duty of passenger to pay fare wrongfully demanded to avoid expulsion or lessen damages: There is a conflict of authority on this proposition. In some states it is held that where a passenger is already entitled to transportation, he need not pay, though able to do so. Sprenger v. Tacoma Traction Co., 15 Wash. 660, 47 P. 17, 43 L. R. A. 706; Head v. Ga. Pac. R. Co., 79 Ga. 358, 7 S. E. 217; Pa. Co. v. Bray, 125 Ind. 229, 25 N. E. 439; Calloway v. Mellett, 15 Ind. App. 366, 44 N. E. 198; Ellsworth v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 95 Iowa, 98, 63 S. W. 584, 29 L. R. A. 173; Krueger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 68 Minn. 445, 71 N. W. 683; Cherry v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co., 52 Mo. App. 499; Yorton v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 62 Wis. 367, 21 N. W. 516, 23 N. W. 401. In other states it is held that he must pay or leave the train. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Trimble, 54 Ark. 354, 15 S. W. 899; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Reed, 75 Ill. 125, 20 Am. Rep. 232; Western Md. R. Co. v. Stocksdale, 83 Md. 245, 34 A. 880; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cole, 29 Ohio St. 126, 23 Am. Rep. 729. Others hold that the passenger must pay if he has been negligent in starting so that he has failed to secure a proper ticket, or if he has notice of the infirmities of his ticket, or if he gets on a train without a transfer. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Hogue, 50 Kan. 40, 31 P. 698; Bradshaw v. South Boston R. Co., 135 Mass. 409, 46 Am. Rep. 481; White v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., 107 Mich. 681, 65 N. W. 521. Many cases have held that where failure to have a proper ticket is the fault of the ticket agent, the passenger is under no duty to pay. Head v. Ga. Pac. R. Co., 79 Ga. 358, 7 S. E. 217; Murdock v. Boston & A. R. Co., 137 Mass. 293, 50 Am. Rep. 307; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Rather, 3 Tex. Civ. App. 72; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Breckinridge, 99 Ky. 1, 34 S. W. 702. Others, that, though the ticket agent was at fault, the passenger should pay to avoid trouble. Mosher v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 23 F. 326; Peabody v. Or. R. & N. Co., 21 Or. 121, 26 P. 1053, 12 L. R. A. 823; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, 68 Ill. 499. See exhaustive note to Sprenger v. Tacoma Traction Co. (15 Wash. 660, 47 P. 17) in 43 L. R. A. 706, from which these citations are taken.

34. Marx v. Louisiana Western R. Co., 112 La. 1085, 36 So. 862.

35. Trains within the limit did not stop. Marx v. Louisiana Western R. Co., 112 La. 1085, 36 So. 862.

36. Braymer v. Seattle, etc., R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 495.

37. Though permission was withdrawn on the ground that plaintiff was engaged in ticket scalping. Ford v. East Louisiana R. Co., 110 La. 414, 34 So. 585.

38. Facts held to justify expulsion of passenger becoming abusive in altercation over retained pass. Gallegly v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 420. Drunkenness warrants ejection. Korn v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 897.

39. Plaintiff's conduct in refusing to unfold his transfer and otherwise held not such as to justify conductor in ejecting him from a street car. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Alderete [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1246. "Damned if I will unfold it, unfold it yourself" held neither profane nor obscene. Id.

40. Passenger was informed that his ticket was invalid and that he must either pay fare or get off. Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 31 Wash. 658, 72 P. 477.

41. Ticket valid on its face. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546. Carrier is liable for the ejection of a passenger due to mistake of its agent in giving him a wrong ticket. The conductor, however, may rely on the ticket and his act does not entail personal liability if not accompanied by unreasonable or unnecessary force or insult. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 25 Ky. L. R. 2087, 79 S. W. 1187.

42. Not charged with negligence of transferring conductor. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Graves, 110 Tenn. 232, 75 S. W. 729.

43. Instruction approved. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Clark [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 53.

44. Laws 1890, c. 565, p. 1082. Moon v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 363.

time limited on its face.[45] The passenger must show the carrier at fault in giving an expired transfer,[46] and when he has opportunity or occasion, he should demand a new transfer before leaving his car.[47] One conductor's statement to another will not take the place of a transfer.[48]

A mistaken passenger on a wrong train should be transported back or left at a proper place until it is done.[49] But if one knowingly boards a train not for passengers,[50] or requiring pay for extra accommodations which he refuses,[51] or not scheduled for his station,[52] he may be expelled.

Tender of fare to avoid expulsion.[53]—After expulsion begins, tender of fare is ordinarily,[54] but not always, too late.[55] The carrier was in a late case held bound to accept tender of fare by fellow passengers after threat of expulsion and refusal to pay.[56]

Manner of ejection.[57]—The act of ejection must be with no unnecessary force,[58] and at a proper place[59] and with respect to obvious or known conditions.[60] The carrier must be foresighted to guard an apparently helpless person from danger after ejection.[61]

Injuries caused by resistance.[62]—Injuries occasioned by undue resistance,[63]

45. Passenger must pay his fare, but may have an action against the company in case the fault is the company's. Garrison v. United R. & Elec. Co., 97 Md. 347, 55 A. 371.

46. Hornesby v. Ga. R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 339.

Note: The numerical weight of the decisions favors the rule that he may rely on what has been given him. Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law, § 83.

47. Time limit expires through delay of the car on which he is riding. Held, that passenger who voluntarily left the car and attempted to reach the transfer point before the time limit expired could not recover, though a company's custom was not to issue new transfers in case of delay. Hornesby v. Ga. R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 339.

48. Conductor of connecting line failed to furnish a transfer and informed the receiving conductor that the fare was paid. A passenger refusing to pay under such circumstances is evading payment of fare within Rev. Laws, c. 111, § 251, and his arrest is justified. Crowley v. Fitchburg & L. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 56.

49. Evidence held for jury as to negligence in putting off female passenger without money at a point requiring many hours wait. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Pruitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 598. Instruction held not erroneous as stating that it was negligence to refuse to carry a person boarding the wrong train to a particular station where she had relatives. Id. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 72.

50. Waiver of rules: Where rules against carriage of passengers are openly and habitually violated, and for such time that the officers by use of ordinary care might have known thereof, they are presumed to be abrogated. The same rule applies to authority of employes to invite passengers to board and to collect fares. Evidence held sufficient. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Huff [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 249.

51. Ticket not good except in hands of purchaser of berth. Ames v. Southern Pac. Co., 141 Cal. 728, 75 P. 310.

52. A person who goes on a train with knowledge that it does not stop at his destination and does not get off at the previous stop, refusing to pay fare to the next regular stop, may be ejected at any reasonably safe place. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Willing, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 474.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 454, n. 89.

54. Where passenger has had reasonable time and opportunity. Garrison v. United R. & Elec. Co., 97 Md. 347, 55 A. 371.

55. Facts in controversy over credit certificate on credential contract held to justify such tender. Holt v. Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 174 Mo. 524, 74 S. W. 631.

56. Randell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 455.

58. A conductor may expel a boisterous passenger, but if assaulted by him must use only the force requisite to self-defense. Ickenroth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 597, 77 S. W. 162.

59, 60. Facts held to justify ejection of drunken passenger in a lighted place 300 yards from station. Korn v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 897. Evidence held not to show that drunken passenger ejected from train was in such a condition that he would probably not be able to take care of himself, and to justify peremptory instruction to find for defendant. Tuttle v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 802. In ejecting a drunken passenger for refusal to pay his fare, due care under the circumstances must be used to select a place where he can protect himself, or others can protect him, from danger from passing trains or otherwise. Id. His condition must be such as would reasonably indicate that he, on account of such condition and the surrounding circumstances, would be liable to such injury. Proximate cause of injury held to be whiskey. drunk after ejection from train. Id.

61. Facts held insufficient to show that station agent had knowledge that an intending passenger was helpless from cocaine, thus imposing liability for his death after ejection from a train by the conductor. Korn v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 897.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 456.

beyond that which is incidental to a removal by force and compulsion,[64] will not be compensated, and where violent and unnecessary force is used, contributory negligence of the passenger in resisting need not be submitted.[65]

Failure to afford an opportunity to purchase a ticket will not authorize a passenger to invite an assault and recover damages therefor by resistance to expulsion for failure to pay added charge.[66] Where one explains why he did not take the first train, expulsion should be stayed until the truth of his statements is ascertained.[67]

Elements and measure of damage.[68]—Damages as alleged may include[69] physical pain, if appreciable, and bodily or mental suffering naturally resulting.[70] Indignity[71] and other elements of mental suffering may be included, though the expulsion was not actuated by malice or willfulness.[72] Recovery may be had for mental suffering alone.[73] The passenger is entitled to at least nominal damages if ejected from a moving train contrary to statute requiring a stop.[74] Mere provocative or abusive language will not have the effect of mitigating the actual or compensatory damages recoverable by plaintiff on account of being forcibly ejected from a moving car.[75]

Where the expulsion of a passenger is willful and wanton, he is entitled to recover punitive damages,[76] but cannot be had in an action for breach of con-

63. Randell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493.

64. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546. A passenger who has tendered lawful money in payment of fare does not forfeit his right to damages by reasonable resistance to his expulsion. Breen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 479, 77 S. W. 78.

65. Randell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493.

66. Cannot sue for assault and battery. Monnier v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 281, 67 N. E. 569.

67. First train did not stop. Marx v. La. W. R. Co., 112 La. 1085, 36 So. 862.

68. See article Damages, 1 Curr. L. 833, for a complete treatment of this topic. $350 held not excessive. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 25 Ky. L. R. 2087, 79 S. W. 1187. $250 held not excessive. Marx v. La. Western R. Co., 112 La. 1085, 36 So. 862. $250 held not excessive for ejection at about sundown, entailing a walk of six miles and a night's delay, together with insulting and humiliating language. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McNeel [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 206. $250 not excessive for ejection of news agent. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Hill, 110 Tenn. 396, 75 S. W. 963. Evidence held to support verdict for $1,000 for assault by conductor on boy of 16. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Gaines [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1104. Damages for loss of time cannot be based on a mere showing that plaintiff was a lawyer, without a showing of his income or of what a lawyer of his standing might be reasonably expected to earn. Pa. Co. v. Scofield [C. C. A.] 121 F. 814. Proof of expenses and length and value of time spent in litigation must be adduced to permit a recovery therefor. Id. Evidence that conductor took plaintiff by shoulder will warrant recovery for display of superior force. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 458.

69. In an action for ejection, where the passenger does not count for unused fare or request it at time of expulsion, he cannot have an instructed verdict pro tanto. Gallegly v. Kan. City, etc., R. Co. [Miss.] 35 So. 420. Where negligence in leaving an intoxicated passenger on a platform after ejection is not counted on, it cannot be made a basis of recovery. Moore v. Nashville, etc., R.. 137 Ala. 495, 34 So. 617.

70. Breen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 479, 77 S. W. 78. Evidence that plaintiff was jerked from train authorizes instruction on physical suffering. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Hill, 110 Tenn. 396, 75 S. W. 963. Compensation for mental distress may be given, and for injuries, if any, sustained in walking to a place to secure lodging, provided a reasonably prudent man under the circumstances would have done so. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McNeel [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 206. A person wrongfully put off may recover for an injury sustained by walking on a cattle guard in the dark on his way to his destination. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Willing, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 474.

71. An expression of opinion that fare tendered is counterfeit is not element of damages. Breen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 479, 77 S. W. 78.

72. Coine v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 134.

73. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Tarwater [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 937.

74. Rev. St. 1899, § 1074 requires a stop. Holt v. Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 174 Mo. 524, 74 S. W. 631.

75. Mahoning Valley R. Co. v. De Pascale [Ohio] 71 N. E. 633. In an action for wrongfully ejecting plaintiff from a moving car, where the jury is restricted to the allowance of compensatory damages, it is improper to charge that the jury may consider plaintiff's abusive language in mitigation thereof. Id.

76. Dagnall v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 97. Where a conductor knew that there was a mistake in the limit of a ticket and required additional fare under threat of expulsion, evidence held for the jury on a claim for exemplary damages. Chiles v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 252.

tract growing out of an expulsion for defect in a transfer.[77] They may be awarded where the conductor refuses to accept a female passenger's explanation that she has been directed by a station agent to take that particular train, and ejects her alone and in the night.[78]

Remedies and procedure for ejection.[79]—Wrongful expulsion from a train is not only a breach of contract but also a tort.[80] For wrongful ejection, the cause of action arises where the ejection occurs,[81] and if plaintiff seeks to recover for the physical and mental pain, the action is one for personal injuries, and venue is so fixed.[82] The action is ex contractu when the negligence was in defectively punching the return portion of a ticket.[83] The municipal court of New York has jurisdiction of an action for wrongful ejection.[84]

An action on a violation of a contract of carriage and one for excessive force in ejection cannot be joined,[85] nor can negligence of a ticket seller and wrongful ejection be pleaded in the same count.[86] Allegations of inducement that plaintiff purchased a ticket do not sound in tort.[87] Actual ejection must be pleaded.[88] An averment that an assault was committed by a carrier through its employes is sufficient.[89] A plea that a conductor was acting as a police officer in ejecting a passenger is insufficient without alleging ground for so acting.[90] Where disorderly conduct is set up in justification of ejectment, it must be averred that only such force was used as was reasonably necessary.[91] Where it is alleged that excessive force was used, variance between an allegation that plaintiff was a passenger and proof that she was a trespasser is immaterial.[92]

The carrier must establish refusal to pay fare,[93] and contributory misconduct on the part of plaintiff,[94] but there is no presumption that a person riding on the blind baggage is a passenger.[95] The general rules as to admissibility of evidence are applicable as illustrated below.[96] In the absence of directions in

77. Moon v. Interurban St. R. Co., 85 N. Y. S. 363.

78. Though his conduct is free from insolence. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Harper [Miss.] 35 So. 764.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 456, n. 11-29.

80. Elements of damages include compensation for mental suffering arising from humiliation. Marx v. La. Western R. Co., 112 La. 1085, 36 So. 862.

81. Not where the ticket was purchased (Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Pearson [Ga.] 47 S. E. 904), but where the company has no office in the county where the ejection took place, the company can be sued in the county of its residence (Id.).

82. Laws 1901, p. 31, c. 17. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex.] 75 S. W. 486.

83. Tort will not lie. Western Md. R. Co. v. Schaun, 97 Md. 563, 55 A. 701. Evidence that the conductor punching the return ticket was the same who refused it is not sufficient to impose liability in such form of action. Id.

84. The municipal court may have jurisdiction where the acts complained of while constituting an assault are also a breach of the duty owing to the public and passengers. Fallon v. Interurban St. R. Co., 40 Misc. 687, 83 N. Y. S. 171. Municipal court has jurisdiction where passenger is thrown from car by conductor on alleged nonpayment of fare. Kearns v. New York, etc., R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 179.

85. Complaint held demurrable [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4942]. Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 31 Wash. 658, 72 P. 477.

86. Count held to state two causes of action. Southern R. Co. v. Bunnell [Ala.] 36 So. 380.

87. Action for violent ejection. Southern R. Co. v. Bunnell [Ala.] 36 So. 380.

88. A complaint alleging that the conductor threatened to eject him and did assault and beat him but did not allege that he was actually put off the car states a cause of action for assault, but not for ejection. Damages for unlawful ejection could not be recovered. Ray v. United Traction Co., 89 N. Y. S. 49.

89. Ejection of passenger having wrong transfer. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Clark [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 53.

90, 91. Moore v. Nashville, etc., R., 137 Ala. 495, 34 So. 617.

92. Randell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493.

93. Ejection. Holt v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 174 Mo. 524, 74 S W. 631.

94. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Alderete [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1246.

95. He had a ticket, but the conductor who put him off did not know it. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 264, 47 S. E. 758.

96. Held admissible: Evidence that defendant had waived conditions against transfer in a ticket and had encouraged scalping, introduced to support cause of action for breach of contract, should be excluded when the breach of contract is eliminated from issues. Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 31 Wash. 658, 72 P. 477. Plaintiff may testify he purchased a ticket to a certain place without violating the rule as to parol evidence.

the ticket, plaintiff, in an action for ejection, may show declarations of ticket agents and conductors as to proper routes.[97] Evidence of plaintiff's good character is not admissible.[98] Accepting a ticket sold by another company is evidence that the selling company acted as agent for the road accepting the same.[99] Instances of sufficiency of evidence,[1] and holdings as to the propriety of particular instructions will be found in the footnotes.[2]

Delays.—By the sale of a ticket, a carrier impliedly contracts to transport the passenger to his destination without unreasonable delay,[3] on schedule time.[4] The burden is on the carrier to show the cause of a delay, and that it was excusable.[5] For delay the passenger may recover such actual damages as the Coine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 134. As explaining failure to produce tickets taken up, one with knowledge may testify to a custom to destroy them. Shealey v. South Carolina & G. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 119. Where passenger was negligently put off train to await the proper one to transport her, she may testify as to telling the conductor of her circumstances. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Pruitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 598.

Held inadmissible: Evidence as to remedies applied to plaintiff after ejection. Southern R. Co. v. Bunnell [Ala.] 36 So. 380. That plaintiff asked conductor to lend him the sum necessary to purchase ticket farther than the one issued him by mistake. Id. That plaintiff asked his son for a loan or that persons outside the car were cursing. Moore v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 137 Ala. 495, 34 So. 617. Evidence of a custom of conductors to permit such men to ride free where plaintiff in action for ejection had tendered fare but was an old trackman. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Tarwater [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 937. Ticket agent cannot be asked as to previous mistakes in issuing tickets. Southern R. Co. v. Bunnell [Ala.] 36 So. 380. Where a ticket was alleged to have been carelessly issued to a wrong destination, the conductor cannot be asked as to his efforts to secure its return from the general office. Id. Where one is ejected for refusing to pay his fare, evidence of the general character of the conductor was inadmissible. Braymer v. Seattle, etc., R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 495. Especially where the action was based on breach of contract of carriage and the employment of an incompetent conductor was not alleged. Id.

Res gestae: Statement of conductor after ejection of passenger and while the car was proceeding without stopping is not. Gotwald v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 492, 77 S. W. 125. Statement 5 or 10 minutes after ejection and after plaintiff had walked 50 yards is not. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Tarwater [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 937.

97. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Harper [Miss.] 35 So. 764.

98. Breen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 479, 77 S. W. 78.

99. Chiles v. Southern R. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 252. A general passenger agent may testify that in selling a ticket his company acted as agent for another. Id.

1. Evidence held to justify ejection on account of drunken and obscene conduct. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 964. Evidence held for jury on use of excessive force willfully or wantonly in expelling female passenger with aid of negro policeman. Randell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 342, 76 S. W. 493. Evidence held to support finding of negligence causing plaintiff to alight under the circumstances. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Huff [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 249. Question of reasonableness of time afforded an intoxicated passenger to pay fare held for jury under the evidence. Huba's Estate v. Schenectady R. Co., 85 App. Div. 199, 83 N. Y. S. 157.

2. See article Instructions, 2 Curr. L. 461. Instruction held proper. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Alderete [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1246. Instruction as to ejection of passenger erroneous as failing to state the duty of the brakeman, the rule by which jury was to determine when he ceased to act in performance of his duty, and as giving impression that if plaintiff was pushed onto platform defendant would be liable for results of his falling off in any event. Battis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 543. Charge as to damages from ejection held proper. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Hill, 110 Tenn. 396, 75 S. W. 963. Instruction held not erroneous as placing the burden of proof on defendant. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Alderete [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1246. Where unnecessary violence is not averred, an instruction as to its effect is error. Huba's Estate v. Schenectady R. Co., 85 App. Div. 199, 83 N. Y. S. 157. Instruction as to effect of conductor acting maliciously while not in management of car should not be given in the absence of evidence that he was not at some time in the management of the car. Schwartzman v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 84 App. Div. 608, 82 N. Y. S. 890. Instructions held not to place on defendant the burden of negativing plaintiff's right to recover. Coine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 134. Instruction as to unusual force in ejection held supported by pleadings. Gotwald v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 492, 77 S. W. 125.

3. Delay of 24 hours prima facie unreasonable. International, etc., R. Co. v. Harder [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 356. Where a train was delayed 10 hours and no information was given the passengers as to the cause or probable length of delay, a nonsuit should not be granted. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. Negligence is essential. Id.

4. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99.

5. Where it was caused by a wreck, it will not be presumed, in the absence of evidence, that the carrier was in no way responsible therefor, or that it used due diligence to repair the damage. International, etc., R. Co. v. Harder [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 356.

carrier might reasonably have anticipated would result,[6] but not punitive damages unless the carrier's conduct was willful, wanton and malicious.[7] Wanton disregard of duty is not shown by the detaching of an engine from a train for the purpose of forwarding a Pullman car in pursuance of orders issued on account of a wreck.[8] Allegations that defendant "wrongfully and unlawfully" refused to convey plaintiff according to its schedule are to be disregarded, since they do not assign specific legal character to the acts of defendants.[9]

§ 24. Rates and fares, tickets and special contracts.[10] Right of public to supervise rates.[11]—Except where it has been lawfully bargained away,[12] the state or its authorized subdivisions[13] may regulate fares and rates in a reasonable degree,[14] especially when so reserved or fixed in charter or franchise.[15] A statute fixing the rate per mile does not require the charge to be divided for distance less than a mile.[16] The statutes of New Jersey give railroad companies an uncontrolled discretion to fix such rates as their own interests may from time to time require, subject only to the maximum rates therein specified, and to the reserved right of repeal and modification by the legislature.[17] The courts may decide whether a particular rate is reasonable or unreasonable, or a given statutory rate confiscatory, but they have no power to declare in general what rates shall not be exceeded.[18] An injunction pendente lite may be granted by a Federal court against the enforcement of an order of a state railroad commission unwarrantedly reducing rates.[19] It is not a discrimination[20] to refuse the United States the benefit of a

6. Verdict excessive where no evidence of time lost and little as to physical comfort and inconvenience. International, etc., R. Co. v. Harder [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 356. Not for inconvenience, loss of time or fatigue, unless it has produced pecuniary damage or personal loss. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. Mere inconvenience, annoyance and delay cannot be recovered for on breach of contract for through transportation. Miller v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 457, 85 N. Y. S. 883.

7. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. Where a train was delayed 10 hours and no information given the passengers, a charge that the company was not liable for punitive damages was properly refused Id.

8, 9. Aaron v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 556.

10. See 1 Curr. L. 449, and consult redemption of tickets, 1 Curr. L. 452; round trip tickets, 1 Curr. L. 451; stop over privileges, 1 Curr. L. 452.

11. 1 Curr. L. 450, n. 28-34.

12. Impairing contract or vested rights: Acceptance of a location granted by a town does not cause conditions as to fares to become a contract or validate them. Keefe v. Lexington, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 37. The acceptance of an ordinance securing the public the benefit of a five cent fare created a contract right to charge such fare which could not be reduced under a right reserved to regulate fares. Such a contract does not violate Bates' Ohio Ann. St. 1897, § 2502. Cleveland v. Cleveland City R. Co., 194 U. S. 517, 24 S. Ct. 756; Cleveland v. Cleveland Elec. R. Co., 194 U. S. 538, 24 S. Ct. 764.

13. The legislature has the right to regulate the rates of fare to be charged by a street railway company, in the absence of any provision in its charter relinquishing it. Company cannot assert invalidity of act compelling street railroad companies to give half fare to school children (Acts 28th Leg. [1903] c. 116, p. 182), in view of constitutional provision that all franchises are subject to legislative control. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106. The power to regulate rates to be charged by carriers belongs to the legislature. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332. Under a general permission to stipulate for conditions conducive to public interest on granting locations, town authorities cannot limit fares [Pub. St. 1882, c. 113, § 43 (Rev. Laws, c. 112, § 69); Stat. 1898, p. 743, c. 578, § 13]. Keefe v. Lexington & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 37.

14. Must not work a practical destruction of carrier's property. No evidence in mandamus to compel street railway company to give half fare rates to school child under statute (Acts 28th Leg. [1903] p. 182, c. 116) that rate was not such as to give company fair income on its investment after paying for repairs. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106.

15. Chartered under a provision reserving power of alteration. Construing statutes. Topham v. Interurban St. R. Co., 42 Misc. 503, 86 N. Y. S. 295. A village franchise fixing a rate of fare to points outside the village is binding. Vining v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 542.

16. Act March 11, 1880; Gen. St. p. 2701, § 270. Hunter v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 139.

17. Gen. St. p. 2643. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332.

18. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332.

19. May be granted on a showing that the rates previously charged did not earn interest on amount invested. Joint operation does not prevent the road being regard-

"ten party" rate in the transportation of soldiers.[21] An agreement between a railroad company and a competitor, that during a limited period the former will not reduce passenger rates unless required by law to do so, is not contrary to public policy.[22]

Penalties for overcharge.[23]—A mistake in good faith as to the right to make an increased charge because of grades overcome is within an exception from penalty of those acting by mistake.[24] A penal action is one founded on a "statute," and hence each statute declared on must in New Jersey be indorsed on the process.[25]

Tickets and contracts.—Except as there has been an express agreement, the contract is implied from circumstances and the duty of carriage, and not from subsequent statements of employes,[26] or mere coincidences.[27] The contract may exist on payment of fare by a stranger,[28] but the fact that one purchases a ticket for another does not constitute a contract between the purchaser and the carrier.[29] In so far as the ticket is a mere voucher or receipt,[30] parol evidence is admissible to show the terms of the contract,[31] but the terms of a contract ticket, signed by the passenger cannot be so varied.[32]

Conditions and limits.—The carrier may exact as a condition to a reduced rate excursion ticket that the holder identify himself by signature, and if this is not satisfactory, by other proofs.[33] A ticket torn in two pieces is not a "mutilated" one and therefore void.[34] A passenger has a right to ride on a first class ticket for which he has paid full fare, at any time.[35] The validity of a ticket cannot be lim-ed as a single line where the road is credited with increased business and reduced expenses. The value of the property returned for taxation is not conclusive. The railroad commission of Florida is not exempt from injunction as a judicial body. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 123 F. 946.

20, 21. See ante, § 2. The rate being established for parties traveling for the giving of exhibitions, limited closely as to time, payable in cash in advance and actuated by the hope of securing return passage and other concurrent public travel, none of which essentials are incident to transportation of soldiers. U. S. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 785.

22. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 332.

23. See 1 Curr. L. 424, n. 33-38.

24. Laws 1899, p. 1096, c. 565, §§ 37, 39. Goodspeed v. Ithaca St. R. Co., 88 App. Div. 147, 84 N. Y. S. 383.

25. In qui tam action to recover penalty under Gen. St. p. 2673, § 149; Act of March 11, 1880; Gen. St. p. 2701, § 270, must also be indorsed on the process. Hunter v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 139.

26. Where one got onto a car that ran only to an intermediate point and there was no system of transfers to the cars that ran further, there was no contract of carriage beyond such point. A statement by the superintendent who was on the car that he would have the through car pick him up did not constitute such a contract. Braymer v. Seattle, etc., R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 495. Nor did a statement made by him the next day that he intended to have the conductor pick him up but had forgotten. Id.

27. Where a street car bound only for an intermediate point was boarded by a through passenger and there was no system of transfers, the fact that the through car left at about this time was immaterial on the question of the contract of carriage. Braymer v. Seattle, etc., R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 495.

28. Where there was evidence from which a jury might have found an implied contract to carry in consideration of payment for tickets by a third person, nonsuit was properly denied. Mims v. Seaboard Air Line R. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 269. Failure to prove contract did not render denial erroneous. Id.

29. Where a husband purchased a ticket for his wife, she alone could maintain an action for breach of the contract to carry. Ga., etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Ga.] 47 S. E. 942.

30. Ames v. Southern Pac. Co., 141 Cal. 728, 75 P. 310, and authorities there cited.

31. May be shown that compliance with certain regulations as to securing berths was necessary to passage. Ames v. Southern Pac. Co., 141 Cal. 728, 75 P. 310. Dissenting opinion that specification of certain train excluded an implied condition that berth must be purchased. Id.

32. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex.] 80 S. W. 1139.

33. Where validating agent is not satisfied with signature, the plaintiff must have offered additional proofs. The question of the reasonableness of the act of the agent is for the jury. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hudson, 25 Ky. L. R. 2154, 80 S. W. 454. Proof of identity must be such as would satisfy the mind of a reasonably conscientious and prudent man. Id.

34. Within the meaning of a stipulation thereon that it shall be void if mutilated. Young v. Central of Ga. R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 556.

35. His attention was not called to conditions printed on the back. Dagnall v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 97. Question as to whether he knew of conditions on back of ticket properly excluded. Id.

ited by custom, rule or notice not brought home to the passenger;[36] e. g., a rule that the most direct of several routes must be taken.[37]

Mileage books and credential contracts.[38]—Refusal to issue an exchange ticket for interchangeable mileage, for passage over any part of the road, held out as a portion of its system, whether used under right of absolute ownership, leasehold or special permit, renders a carrier liable.[39] The measure of damages is the value of plaintiff's time, his expenses and loss directly occasioned thereby.[40] An obligation to buy tickets under a credential contract at the station may be waived by allowing conductors to customarily issue credit slips on cash fares.[41] Mileage good only for a trip wholly within a state may be used on a trip, beginning outside the state, but covered by other tickets until the state line is crossed.[42]

Property, ownership and redemption of tickets.[43]—Unused mileage goes to personal representatives of the owner and cannot be used for the transportation of the remains of the owner.[44]

If the ticket be lost or taken up by any agent of the carrier who had authority to take it, the carrier is responsible.[45] The passenger may purchase another and sue for the price.[46] A husband may recover the amount paid for his wife's ticket, though she does not join or assign.[47]

Generally speaking, the carrier or its legal successor[48] must honor or redeem outstanding or unused tickets. This may be compelled by statute[49] under reasonable penalties.[50] In an action for such penalty, proof must show a sale of the ticket by the carrier,[51] but not of the degree required in criminal cases.[52]

A conductor is not a proper party to an action for refusal to honor a ticket.[53] Where a second fare was paid under protest to prevent further abuse and insult from a conductor, the passenger's recovery cannot be limited to the fare so paid.[54]

36. Carvey v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 716.

37. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Harper [Miss.] 35 So. 764.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 450, n. 35-37.

39. Facts held to impose liability for refusal. Schmidt v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 11, 74 S. W. 674.

40. Schmidt v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 11, 74 S. W. 674.

41. Holt v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 174 Mo. 524, 74 S. W. 631.

42. Horton v. Erie R. Co., 86 App. Div. 379, 83 N. Y. S. 733.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 451, n. 46-49; Id., 452, n. 57.

44. Minnish v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 342, 47 S. E. 432.

45. A carrier is responsible for the proximate consequences of a baggage agent in losing or misplacing a passenger's ticket. Cannot be held for injuries from ejection on boarding train without ticket and refusing to pay fare. So a person allowing his wife to board a train without ticket or money is negligent, and whether he had money to pay fare is immaterial. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 642. Taken up. Stewart v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 377.

46. Stewart v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 377.

47. Miller v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 457, 85 N. Y. S. 883.

48. Purchasers of a railroad on foreclosure subject to outstanding obligations of the receivers must honor outstanding and unused tickets issued by them. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546.

49. Where a provision in a statute making it a misdemeanor to sell an unused railroad ticket was unconstitutional, it did not invalidate a provision in the same statute for a penalty for refusal to redeem unused tickets [Batts' Ann. St. arts. 4560a, 4560b]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047. Batts' Ann. St. arts. 4560a, 4560b, prescribing a penalty for refusal to redeem an unused passenger ticket, is not unconstitutional. Id.

50. A penalty not exceeding $500.00 for refusal to redeem unused passenger tickets is not unreasonable [Batts' Ann. St. arts. 4560a, 4560b]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047.

51. Where one purchased a ticket from a person at the window and such person refused to redeem the ticket, evidence held sufficient to show that he was the agent of the carrier. In an action to recover the penalty for refusal to redeem. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047.

52. In an action to recover a penalty under Batts' Ann. St. arts. 4560a, 4560b, for refusal to redeem an unused ticket, the same degree of proof is not required as in a criminal prosecution. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047.

53. His joinder as a defendant renders a complaint for breach of contract of carriage and excessive violence in ejection demurrable. Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 31 Wash. 658, 72 P. 477.

54. Strull v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 678, 76 S. W. 181.

Dealing in nontransferable special rate tickets has been restrained,[55] despite the invalidity of an agreement from which the rate resulted;[56] but there must be no adequate legal remedy,[57] and other equitable circumstances must coexist.[58]

Lien for charges.—A carrier has no lien for fare on the baggage of a wife, where, without her knowledge, it refunds to her husband the money paid for the passage and allows him to retain the prepaid certificate.[59]

Cash fares must be in legal tender.[60] An extra charge for cash fares[61] cannot be imposed where the fare thereby exceeds the statutory maximum.[62] A higher charge by a street car company is not justified unless tickets are on sale at all points where it receives passengers.[63]

55. See 1 Curr. L. 451, n. 42-46. An injunction may be obtained to prevent ticket brokers dealing in special tickets which recite on their face that they are issued at reduced rates and not transferable. Facts and pleadings held to authorize such a writ with regard to excursion tickets to Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Schubach v. McDonald [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1020.

56. An agreement between carriers to make a low rate, though contrary to public policy, will not prevent one of them having an injunction against scalpers dealing in the return portions of such low rate tickets. Kinner v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 69 Ohio St. 339, 69 N. E. 614.

57. Company is not without other adequate remedies. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, 41 Misc. 490, 85 N. Y. S. 28.

58. Bill to enjoin numerous brokers having no connection with each other is multifarious. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, 41 Misc. 490, 85 N. Y. S. 28. Injunction on the ground of conspiracy to defraud will be denied unless facts are alleged. Id.

59. Moszkowitz v. International Nav. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 297.

60. NOTE: The question as to what is legal tender for car fare, both as to the quality and the amount of the sum offered, has risen several times. A genuine silver coin of the United States (a half dollar of 1824), distinguishable as such, though somewhat rare, and differing in appearance from other coins of this government of like denomination and of later dates, is nevertheless a legal tender for car fare, and a passenger ejected for refusal to make payment otherwise than by tendering such coin is entitled to an action for damages. Atlanta Consol. St. R. Co. v. Keeny, 99 Ga. 266, 25 S. E. 629. Similarly, a genuine silver coin worn smooth by use, not appreciably diminished in weight, and distinguishable, is a legal tender for car fare, and a passenger ejected for refusal to make other payment can maintain an action for such ejection. Mobile St. R. Co. v. Watters, 135 Ala. 227, 33 So. 42; Jersey City & B. R. Co. v. Morgan, 52 N. J. Law, 60. Where a passenger tenders the exact fare in legal coin, he is wrongfully ejected, even though the coin is so worn that the conductor honestly believes it is not good. Ruth v. St. Louis Transit Co., 98 Mo. App. 1, 71 S. W. 1055. A dollar bill, however, from the upper left-hand corner of which a piece one inch and a half by one inch and a quarter has been torn, is not legal tender for car fare, and the conductor may eject a passenger who refuses to make other payment. He is not bound to accept a bill which is substantially mutilated. North Hudson County R. Co. v. Anderson, 61 N. J. Law 248, 68 Am. St. Rep. 703. A passenger upon a street railroad is not bound to tender the exact fare, but must tender a reasonable sum, and the carrier must accept such tender, and furnish change to a reasonable amount. Barrett v. Market St. R. Co., 81 Cal. 296, 15 Am. St. Rep. 61; Barker v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 237, 56 Am. St. Rep. 626; Muldowney v. Pittsburg & B. Traction Co., 8 Pa. Super. Ct. 335. The authorities are not in harmony as to what is a reasonable sum. In California, it has been held that the tender of a five-dollar gold piece is reasonable. Barrett v. Market St. R. Co., 81 Cal. 296, 15 Am. St. Rep. 61. The court said: "It does not follow, if it be established as a rule that five dollars is a reasonable amount to be tendered to a conductor that twenty dollars or fifty dollars is also a reasonable amount, and must be accepted. The fears of the appellant are based upon the assumption that passengers generally will contumaciously, to avoid payment of fare, and require the companies to carry them free, offer a coin of a large denomination; but these fears, we think, can safely be set aside upon the theory that a question like this will settle itself by a spirit of mutual accommodation between carrier and passenger. It is a well known fact that the five-dollar gold piece is practically the lowest gold coin in use in this section of the country." In New York, on the contrary, it has been held that a rule of a street car company in a large city, requiring its conductors to furnish change to passengers to the amount of two dollars, is reasonable, and a tender of a five-dollar bill is unreasonable, and need not be accepted. Barker v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 237, 56 Am. St. Rep. 626. In commenting upon the California case just cited, the court said: "It is quite possible that there existed local reasons for the decision in California, as the judge writing the opinion suggested that the five-dollar gold piece was practically the lowest gold coin in use in that section of the country." In Pennsylvania, also, it has been held that the tender of a five-dollar bill for a five-cent fare is unreasonable as matter of law, and the conductor is not bound to receive it. Muldowney v. Pittsburg & B. Traction Co., 8 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.—From Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law (2d Ed.) § 74.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 453.

62. Even though there was opportunity to get tickets. Fulmer v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 196.

The duty of furnishing transfers may be imposed on urban carriers which consolidate or extend their privileges,[64] even though there is another route over which plaintiff might travel for one fare,[65] or though undue crowding of streets at transfer points would ensue.[66] The corporation need not be within city if railroad is.[67] Corporations organized under the Stock Corporation Law are amenable.[68] A statute requiring the giving of transfers for continuous rides does not prevent their being limited as to time of use,[69] which must cover the passage of a car and convenient time to board it.[70] Liability is not removed by the fact that conductor has no transfers, or that the passengers who are boys are skylarking,[71] or that the passenger has been riding to collect penalties.[72] A franchise condition requiring the issuance of transfers between lines within the city does not require them to lines in another city, though owned and operated in common;[73] but a right to carriage on transfers within city limits extends to after-acquired municipal territory.[74] Penalties for refusal have been prescribed,[75] which the passenger is the party entitled to recover under the New York law for refusing a transfer.[76] A penalty cannot be recovered for not giving a transfer where it is not shown that plaintiff took the proper car or that had he taken the transfer, it would have been refused, though it was refused on the car he boarded.[77]

Limitation of liability.[78]—A stipulation limiting the liability for injuries to a passenger for hire to an arbitrary sum is void.[79] One is bound by the express conditions on a thousand-mile ticket accepted by him, that the company selling it assumes no responsibility thereon beyond its own lines.[80]

The common-law liability toward a newsboy cannot be avoided by a condition imposed for his transportation.[81] A limitation in the contract with an express company may relieve the carrier from liability for negligent injury of an express messenger.[82]

63. Kennedy v. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co., 138 Ala. 225, 35 So. 108.

64. A consolidation under the New York railroad law carries with it the obligation to give transfers. Topham v. Interurban St. R. Co., 42 Misc. 503, 86 N. Y. S. 295.

Statutes requiring corporations contracting for mutual use of roads wholly within municipal limits to furnish transfers are upheld. Under Laws 1890, p. 1114, c. 565, §§ 78, 105, the Interurban Street Railway Company must give transfers over all its lines within New York City for single fare. Blume v. Interurban St. R. Co., 41 Misc. 171, 83 N. Y. S. 989. Law includes leases of roads as well as traffic agreements. Topham v. Interurban St. R. Co., 42 Misc. 503, 86 N. Y. S. 295.

65, 66, 67, 68. Topham v. Interurban St. R. Co., 42 Misc. 503, 86 N. Y. S. 295.

69. Act Assem. 1900, c. 313, p. 463. Garrison v. United R. & Elec. Co., 97 Md. 347, 55 A. 371.

70. Hornesby v. Ga. R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 339.

71. Evidence held to show willful refusal. Rosenberg v. Brooklyn Heights R, Co., 91 App. Div. 580, 86 N. Y. S. 871.

72. Leave to appeal was granted to have the question determined and also that of whether more than one penalty could be had. McLean v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 135.

73. City of Montpelier v. Barre & M. T. & Power Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 278.

74. Ind. R. Co. v. Hoffman, 161 Ind. 593, 69 N. E. 399.

75. Under Laws 1892, p. 1406, c. 676, a passenger can recover the penalty thereby provided for refusal of a lessee company to issue him a transfer from one leased line to another. O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 41. But this statute has no application to leases made prior to May, 1891. Topham v. Interurban St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 298.

76. Under Railroad Law, § 104; Laws 1890, c. 565, p. 1082; Amended Laws 1892, c. 676, pp. 1405, 1406, he is the aggrieved party. A minor may sue by guardian ad litem [Code Civ. Proc. § 468]. Fox v. Interurban St. R. Co., 42 Misc. 538, 86 N. Y. S. 64.

77. Weinstein v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 731.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 482.

79. Limiting liability for injuries to one accompanying live stock. Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1034. A carrier cannot contract against its own or its servant's negligence. Release for injuries to driver accompanying live stock. Rowdin v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 623, 57 A. 1125.

80. Seller not liable for ejection of passenger from train of another carrier. Motions for nonsuit and to direct verdict for defendant improperly denied. Spiess v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 116. Error to submit to the jury the question whether plaintiff believed he had a right to use the ticket on such road. Id.

81. Boy employed by corporation [Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 319, 320]. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Fenwick [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 548.

82. Contract construed and messenger

The United States supreme court has held that a stipulation in a free pass may relieve a carrier from liability for the ordinary negligence of its servants toward one using it with knowledge of the condition.[83] In this it is at variance with certain state courts,[84] the decisions of which are sometimes based on local statutes.[85]

Notice of the stipulation need not have been brought home to the passenger,[86] and a wife using a pass obtained by her husband is bound by its conditions, though she has not authorized him to agree thereto.[87] It may be shown that a pass was issued on a mutual consideration and not as a gratuity, though the pass recites that it is complimentary.[88]

§ 25. Condition and care of premises.—Only ordinary care to preserve the lives, health and persons of passengers who are awaiting at stations the arrival of trains is required.[89] The carrier must provide reasonable accommodations at its stations for passengers for a reasonable time before and after departure of trains[90] scheduled to stop.[91] Rules as to care of station apply to any point where it is made necessary or proper by the acts of the carrier to go to board the trains.[92] Failure to keep a station warm is not excused because the station agent sometimes invited passengers into his office,[93] or because the passenger was cold when he arrived.[94]

The carrier must keep its platforms safe[95] from obstructions,[96] or apparently dangerous conditions,[97] and safe to alight upon,[98] and must not lead passengers into held charged with notice. Long v. Lehigh Valley R. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 870.

83. Provision that company "shall not be liable under any circumstances, whether of negligence of agents or otherwise, for any injury to the person. Northern P. R. Co. v. Adams, 192 U. S. 440, 24 S. Ct. 408; Boering v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co., 20 App. D. C. 500.

84. Condition in free pass causing user to assume all risk is invalid. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106.

85. A stipulation in a free pass against liability is void. [Comp. St. c. 72, art. 1, § 3]. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Collier, 1 Neb. Unoff. 278, 95 N. W. 472.

86. Boering v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co., 193 U. S. 442, 24 S. Ct. 515.

87, 88. Boering v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co., 20 App. D. C. 500.

89. Sickness resulting from exposure at station. Ga., etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Ga.] 47 S. E. 942.

90. Need not keep a station comfortable all night. Brown v. Ga., etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 88, 46 S. E. 71. Where a station is closed on arrival, a passenger may recover for damages resulting from exposure to the weather during the time reasonably necessary to secure accommodations. Rev. St. 1895, art. 4521 requires stations to be kept open one hour before and after arrival and departure of trains. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wallace [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 581.

91. Where a mistake is made by the carrier in directing a passenger to take a train not stopping at his destination, the passenger cannot recover because the station there is closed, if on being informed of the mistake he remains on the train after a request to get off at the preceding station. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wallace [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 581. Where the train on which a passenger is entitled to carriage does not stop and plaintiff suffers damage from the unheated condition of the waiting room, such damage is resultant on the failure to transport. Brown v. Ga., etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 88, 46 S. E. 71.

92. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Turney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 256.

93. Where the weather was inclement. Such custom cannot be shown. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 232.

94. Increased or continued cold occasioned by the condition of a waiting room. Instruction held error as allowing recovery also for cold in riding to station. Tex. Midland R. Co. v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 958.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 463; Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152. Failure to furnish a railing for an elevated platform is not material where not the proximate cause of injury. Jury found as a fact that cause was an attempt to board the train after start and close of gates. Lautorer v. Manhattan R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 540.

96. Question held for jury as to whether permitting skids to remain on platform was negligence. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 660. Passenger falling over freight on platform. Mattheison v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 51.

97. Maintenance of a box on platform for use of alighting passengers does not impose liability to person at station and injured by stumbling against it, no similar accident having previously happened and it being in plain sight. Pitkin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 906. Must keep the platform unobstructed with trucks, etc., within a reasonably safe distance in anticipation of passenger leaving or boarding moving train. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 16.

98. Held for jury, negligence in leaving danger from passing trains,[99] by overcrowding,[1] or injure them by careless movement of baggage.[2] These rules apply where the carrier is but a licensee of the premises,[3] and even to structures on premises of others which it knows are used by passengers,[4] and to abutting streets[5] or paths.[6]

§ 26. Means and facilities of transportation,[7] such as tracks with their appliances,[8] platforms,[9] cars[10] and couplings,[11] and the vestibules,[12] or passageways from one car to another,[13] and engines or motive power,[14] must be maintained in safe condition by the highest degree of care,[15] lack of which must be the cause of the injury.[16] Cars must be kept reasonably comfortable and well conditioned.[17] It is the duty of a common carrier of passengers to see that due care is taken in filling the gas tanks on its cars.[18] It must use proper appliances to prevent escape of sparks and cinders and ensuing injury.[19] Where the engine is properly equipped

space of 10 or 12 inches from lower step of car to platform. Randolph v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1170.

99. Platform so constructed that cars overlap it 13 or 14 inches furnishes question for jury. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dupont [C. C. A.] 128 F. 840. A passenger waiting on a platform may recover when struck by the body of a brakeman climbing the side of a passing freight car, and who "humped" his body out just before reaching plaintiff. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Russell [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 569.

1. Dittmar v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 91 App. Div. 378, 86 N. Y. S. 878.

2. Trunk on platform. Holcombe v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 6, 44 S. E. 68.

3. Pavilion constructed on the street. Leveret v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 399, 34 So. 579.

4. A stile erected by a third person to afford access to pleasure grounds owned by him, though the defective portion is on ground on which the carrier had no right to enter. Cotant v. Boone Suburban R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 115.

5. A railroad company is bound to use ordinary care to keep the approaches from the street to its station in a reasonably safe condition. Liable to one intending to become passenger who is injured by slipping on snow and ice which it has knowingly allowed to accumulate on steps, though such accumulations do not amount to an obstruction to travel. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Keegan [Ill.] 71 N. E. 321.

6. Ice allowed to accumulate in a path which, to its knowledge, is customarily used as a means of egress from its depot grounds, though it has provided another safe way. Lemon v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 22.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 465.

8. Evidence that a car running from 12 to 20 miles an hour was derailed at a curve where crushed rock had been permitted to accumulate is sufficient to go to the jury on averments of negligence in operation and construction and maintenance of track. Smith v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & L. Co., 119 Wis. 336, 96 N. W. 823. Utmost human skill and foresight with regard to tracks and switches. Klinger v. United Traction Co., 92 App. Div. 100, 87 N. Y. S. 864. It may be negligence to leave a street car switch unfastened and run over it at high speed, it being located so that it is apt to be tampered with by children. Evidence held to warrant submission of question. Leslie v. Jackson & S. Traction Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 580.

9. Where a passenger stepped from a slowly moving train and slipped on a greasy platform, evidence as to negligence of the carrier was for the jury. Newcomb v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1069.

10. A high degree of care and diligence must be exercised with regard to rolling stock. Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406.

11. A carrier is not liable if cars come uncoupled without apparent cause or discoverable defect. Instruction to such effect held improperly refused. Holland v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 508.

12. Fact that vestibule door is open while train is at high speed discloses negligence. Robinson v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 689. Negligence in regard to defective fastenings of vestibule doors is not confined to failure to repair in a reasonable time after discovery. Id.

13. Use of a plank "walk way" from coach to coach coupled with chains, held negligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Keitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 311.

14. Carrier must use as to engines and appliances the high degree of care which a very prudent and cautious person would use in similar circumstances. "Proper" care not too onerous. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106.

15. Must exercise the highest degree of practical care to provide a safe roadbed, sound cross ties and safe cars. La. & N. W. R. Co. v. Crumpler [C. C. A.] 122 F. 425.

16. No liability exists for a cold incurred, not the result of neglect to properly warm a coach. Tyler v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1075.

17. Evidence held to controvert alleged uncomfortable condition and temperature of a coach. Tyler v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1075.

18. Railroad company and gas company both liable for injuries to plaintiff from explosion of gas occurring while tanks were being filled by gas company's servant, either by reason of his negligence or because of defective appliances. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Rhodes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 869.

19. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Parks [Tex.] 76 S. W. 740. Must use the highest degree of care to prevent injury compatible with the reasonable execution of its business. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Parks [Tex.] 76 S. W. 740.

and operated, the fact that a coach door is opened does not impose liability for an injury from cinders.[20] Where street cars are equipped with inner footboards, it is not negligence to omit to post notices warning passengers to keep off of them.[21] If the cause of collision is the failure of the company to restore a street to its former safe condition, a street car company is liable.[22] The use of usual and approved appliances and methods,[23] not the most improved in use,[24] is essential. The duty of inspection has been held not to require the carrier to find and remove from car steps mud gathered en route.[25]

In case of the common use of the line by several roads, the responsibility of the carrying company is the same as if it alone used it, and it is bound to use due care for the maintenance of the whole line in proper condition.[26] In the discharge of such obligation, the other companies and their agents are to be deemed the subordinate agents of the carrying company.[27] Where a dining car is placed at the rear of a train and passengers invited to it, the carrier is bound to provide a safe passage, and is responsible for defects in intervening Pullman cars hauled by it.[28] The liability that in the ordinary transaction of business in a freight yard, cars would escape and run down onto the main line, held one which reasonable foresight would have perceived, and hence it was duty of carrier to make adequate provision against it, though such yard was used in common with other companies.[29]

Separate accommodations for white and colored passengers.—A complaint for compelling plaintiff to ride in the negro car must aver that she was entitled to ride with the white passengers and negative her color.[30]

Indictments must follow the statute,[31] and the case be brought within the section relied on.[32]

§ 27. Operation and management of trains and other vehicles.[33]—That high degree of care which skillful and practical railroad operatives would exercise under similar circumstances must be exercised.[34] This may include a reasonable degree of presence of mind in the presence of danger.[35] High speed[36] coupled with other

20. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Orton, 67 Kan. 848, 73 P. 63.

21. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142.

22. Because of an obstacle in the street, a truck collided with a car. Freeland v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 132, 88 N. Y. S. 264.

23. Selection of "one of the best approved appliances" is not sufficient. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Parks [Tex.] 76 S. W. 740. Cars and appliances are to be measured by those which have proved most efficacious in known use in the same business. Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49.

24. Most improved pattern of headlight in use imposes too great a duty. Ala. Midland R. Co. v. Guilford, 119 Ga. 523, 46 S. E. 655. It is not bound to select or exercise the highest degree of care to select the best spark arrester in use. Need only exercise the high degree of care due a passenger to secure the best or most approved spark arrester. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 94.

25. Liability does not exist in the absence of knowledge of their condition. Evidence held to require nonsuit in action for slipping on muddy steps. Vancleve v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 706.

26, 27. Dunn v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 164.

28. In this case certain Illinois decisions are construed not contra. Robinson v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 689.

29. Dunn v. Pa. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 164.

30. Southern R. Co. v. Thurman, 25 Ky. L. R. 804, 76 S. W. 499.

31. Indictment under Ky. St. 1899, § 796, for discrimination, must allege that car in which colored passenger was compelled to ride was set apart for the use of such passengers. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1442, 78 S. W. 167.

32. A separate coach or coach with separate compartments for white and colored passengers need not be provided on a freight train carrying a combination car used as a caboose [Ky. St. 1899, § 801]. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1442, 78 S. W. 167. Conviction for failure to furnish separate coaches cannot be had under Ky. St. 1899, § 795, on facts showing discrimination in convenience or accommodations in separate cars furnished, punishable under § 796. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 295, 74 S. W. 1076.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 467.

34. Heyde v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 537, 77 S. W. 127. Evidence held to sustain findings that plaintiff's injuries were due to the negligence of defendant's motorman in taking street car past a burning building. Citizens' R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 558.

dangerous conditions is negligence. Jerks or bumps incidental to mixed trains, when operated with proper care, are not a basis of liability.[37] Street railways are bound to extraordinary care at crossings.[38] Where a passenger is injured by a collision with a wagon, it has been held that the paramount right of the car must be exercised in a reasonable manner.[39] Passengers on the steps must be protected in passing other cars[40] or wagons[41] too closely. Motormen must recognize the fact that alighting passengers are apt to cross tracks behind cars, and the carrier must exercise reasonable care as to cars on other tracks.[42] Running a special train past a platform on which are passengers for a regular train, at a high speed and without notice to the station master, is not negligence per se.[43] Cars must be adequately warmed.[44]

Reasonable regulations on travelers may be adopted.[45] A rule of a street railway forbidding the carriage of dogs,[46] or cumbersome packages,[47] are reasonable, and the decision of a conductor as to what is "cumbersome" should be sustained unless unreasonable.[48] Overcrowding cars may be negligence.[49] The 35. Motorman. Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406.

36. Ordinance forbidding "engineer," etc., held to apply to railroads. Southern R. Co. v. Jones [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 275. Evidence that a train was run down grade around a curve with apparently rotten cross ties is sufficient to go to the jury on recklessness. Injury to passenger. Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 77, 44 S. E. 562. Running street car at high rate of speed down grade toward curve, causing derailment, held negligence. South Covington. etc., R. Co. v. Constans, 25 Ky. L. R. 158, 74 S. W. 705.

37. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Vinson, 25 Ky. L. R. 652, 76 S. W. 167; Id., 25 Ky. L. R. 38, 74 S. W. 671.

38. Richmond Traction Co. v. Williams [Va.] 46 S. E. 292.

39. Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 485, 86 N. Y. S. 1018. High speed in a dense fog may be negligence, although the motorman sees the danger as soon as possible and then does all in his power to avert accident. Fisher v. Union R. Co., 86 App. Div. 365, 83 N. Y. S. 694. See Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law (2d Ed.) §§ 53, 54.

40. When a passenger on a step is injured by a car of another company on a curve, such other company should not be relieved by an instruction from liability, though its car has come to a stand. Parks v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 108, 77 S. W. 70.

41. Negligence of motorman in moving car forward past a vehicle in such a manner that its hub passed over the car steps, held for jury, where he had knowledge that passengers were standing on the steps. Seller v. Market St. R. Co., 139 Cal. 268, 72 P. 1006.

42. Reed v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 427, 84 N. Y. S. 454.

43. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dupont [C. C. A.] 128 F. 840.

44. Where a passenger was injured by the "trailer" car while boarding a train, it was held that an ordinance requiring a fender and a conductor and a motorman on each car did not apply to "trailers." Von Diest v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 632.

45. The question of the propriety or reasonableness of a rule is for the court. O'Gorman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 589.

46. Such a rule excludes all dogs. O'Gorman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 589.

47. A cage two and one-half feet high and two feet square is cumbersome. Ray v. United Traction Co., 89 N. Y. S. 49.

48. Ray v. United Traction Co., 89 N. Y. S. 49.

49. NOTE: It is not negligence, as a matter of law, to crowd street cars or the platforms of street cars, but the question is generally left to the jury: Holloway v. Pasadena & P. R. Co., 130 Cal. 177; Chicago City R. Co. v. Young, 62 Ill. 238; Burns v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 66 N. E. 418; Brusch v. St. Paul City R. Co., 52 Minn. 512; Pray v. Omaha St. R. Co., 44 Neb. 167, 48 Am. St. Rep. 717; East Omaha St. R. Co. v. Godola, 50 Neb. 906; Lehr v. Steinway, etc., R. Co., 118 N. Y. 556; Graham v. Manhattan R. Co., 149 N. Y. 336; Cattano v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 173 N. Y. 565; Mt. Adams, etc., R. Co. v. Reul, 4 Ohio Circ. R. 362; Anderson v. City R. Co., 42 Or. 505, 71 P. 659. In Meesel v. Lynn & B. R. Co., 8 Allen [Mass.] 234, the court said: "The seats inside the car are not the only places where the managers of the train expect passengers to remain; but it is notorious that they stop habitually to receive passengers to stand inside until the car is full, and then to stand upon the platforms till they are full, and continue to stop and receive them even after there is no place for them to stand except on the steps of the platform. Neither the officers of these corporations nor the managers of the cars nor the traveling public seem to regard this practice as hazardous, nor does the experience thus far seem to require that it should be restrained upon the ground of its danger." Where a woman with a child on her arm alighted when there was ice on the steps. and a passenger stood so that she could not get hold of the rail, the case was held to be for the jury. Neslie v. Second & Third Sts. Pass. R. Co., 113 Pa. 300, 6 A. 72. In an action for negligent overcrowding of a car, evidence that the plaintiff stood alone on the platform, and was pushed off by passengers leaving, will not support the action. Randall v. Frankford & S. Pass. R. Co., 8 mere fact that a passenger is compelled to stand on a steam car platform is not ground for recovery.[50] Where passengers are riding on the rear platform, there is a duty imposed of handling the car with increased care.[51] Young children should not be allowed on platforms.[52] As to adults on platforms and running board, negligence is usually a question for the jury.[53]

§ 28. The duty to protect its passengers[54] renders a carrier, though a corporation, liable for a willful assault by a conductor on a passenger.[55] It is liable for acts of injury by an employe in the course of his employment, though in departure from the authority conferred or implied;[56] but when the person is not a passenger, the carrier is not liable for an assault unless by its authority or under its direction.[57] Where a conductor's manner is insolent and abusive, a passenger who pays fare twice to avoid such abuse may recover for the tort.[58]

Damages cannot be recovered where the passenger himself provokes the wrong,[59] but abusive or opprobrious language alone will not justify an assault by a conductor,[60] nor will a statement by a passenger that he will have to be put off if another is.[61] An assault is not justified by the mere fact that it is in an honest and proper effort to eject a passenger, unless in self-defense.[62]

The carrier not being an insurer[63] is not liable for unanticipated acts of fellow passengers.[64] It may be liable to one injured by being crowded into a car.[65] Lia-

Pa. Co. Ct. R. 277. Where a passenger testified that he stood with one foot on the platform and one on the step, with articles in both hands, and that he was crowded between two men and fell from the car while it was in ordinary motion, there was held to be no evidence of negligence. Barry v. Union Traction Co., 194 Pa. 576. It is lack of due care, as a matter of law, for a passenger to get upon the front platform on a very stormy night, when the car is too crowded for him to ride in safety (Tregear v. Dry Dock, etc., R. Co., 14 Abb. Pr. [N. S.; N. Y.] 49), and where a passenger who made his way from the car onto the crowded platform was pushed off, it was held that, even assuming negligence on the part of the company in permitting such crowding, nevertheless the passenger knew that the crowd was there, and could not recover for the injury (Chicago City R. Co. v. Considine, 50 Ill. App. 471). Where the company allows its car to be greatly overcrowded without objection, and then runs a car so near the intersection of a switch of the main track that cars cannot pass without injury to passengers, it is gross negligence. Topeka City R. Co. v. Higgs, 38 Kan. 375, 5 Am. St. Rep. 754. Where a passenger in a crowded car stood in the gripman's aisle, and was struck by a brake, it was held that, when a street railway company allows its car to be crowded, they are not to be relieved from using the high degree of care required of them because a passenger lightly disobeys a rule, unless he is warned of the danger so that he appreciates it. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Johnson, 77 Ill. App. 142, affirmed 180 Ill. 285. It has been held that a street railway company must use greater care than usual when it allows its cars to become crowded. Geddes v. Metropolitan R. Co., 103 Mass. 391; Archer v. Ft. Wayne, etc., R. Co., 87 Mich. 101; Kinkade v. Atlantic Ave. R. Co., 9 Misc. 273, 29 N. Y. S. 747; Anderson v. City R. Co., 42 Or. 505, 71 P. 659; Sandford v. Hestonville, etc., R. Co., 136 Pa. 84, 20 A. 799; McCaw v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. 271, 54 A. 893.—From Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law (2d Ed.) § 49.

50. There must also have been negligence. Rolette v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 431.

51. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158.

52. Front platform. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 320. Negligence of motorman in allowing a boy seven years and eight months old to ride on platform is for the jury. Parker v. Wash. Elec. St. R. Co., 207 Pa. 438, 56 A. 1001.

53. See post, § 31 B.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 473.

55. O'Donnel v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 315.

56. Striking passenger. Moritz v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 162. Act need not be in the scope of his employment [Civ. Code, § 2790]. Taillon v. Mears [Mont.] 74 P. 421. Assault and injury by the servants of carrier. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Clark [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 53; Garvik v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 498. Where it is averred that plaintiff was a passenger, it need not be averred that an assault was within the scope of the servant's duty. Birmingham R. & Elec. Co. v. Mason, 137 Ala. 342, 34 So. 207. Petition held to state cause of action which alleged an assault without provocation by a conductor on one attempting to board a car stopped to receive passengers. Strauss v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 644, 77 S. W. 156.

57. Birmingham R. & Elec. Co. v. Mason, 137 Ala. 342, 34 So. 207.

58. Strull v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 678, 76 S. W. 181.

59. Instruction held erroneous as authorizing actual damages. Freedman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 486, 85 N. Y. S. 986.

60, 61, 62. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614, 35 So. 701.

63. See post, § 31A.

64. Assault. Stutsky v. Brooklyn

bility does not exist to a passenger preparing to alight, who is injured by a person attempting to board before the train stopped, though the conductor was momentarily inattentive.[66] Where a passenger is jostled from a platform, it should be shown that it was the result of defendant's negligence.[67]

The carrier must use ordinary care to protect its passengers while in its stations,[68] or on its trains,[69] or even after alighting,[70] against assaults and insults of which it knew or might have known or foreseen.[71]

§ 29. Taking on or setting down passengers.[72] Taking on.[73]—Trains must stop a sufficient time to allow passenger to board with safety,[74] but it has been held that elevated trains need not be held until all persons on the platform get aboard.[75] A carrier by street railroad is bound to extraordinary care to avoid injuring passengers boarding or alighting from its cars at stops at regular places,[76] but it is not an insurer, even as to a cripple.[77] It is negligence to increase the passenger's peril by coming in contact with him on mounting the step,[78] or jerking the car when the conductor knows one is attempting to board,[79] and it may be so to prevent one from boarding who does not know that the signal has been given to start.[80] Some indication of readiness to start should be manifest.[81] In starting, the conductor should not signal from a point whence he cannot see the platform steps or passengers attempting to board,[82] but it is not negligence for street car to start

Heights R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 358. Premature starting of a car in consequence of a signal given by another passenger. McDonough v. Third Avenue R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 609. Falling over a broken ticket box which the crowd had broken down. Wagner v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 791.

65. Elevated road. Viemeister v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 91 App. Div. 510, 87 N. Y. S. 162.

66. Fritz v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 829, 44 S. E. 613.

67. Rolette v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 431.

68. Carrier liable where those in charge of depot knew, or by exercise of ordinary care, could have known, of wanton injuries inflicted on passenger therein. Tate v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 309, 341, 81 S. W. 256. Evidence of knowledge or reason to know held for jury. Id. Failure to light a station cannot be held proximate cause of an assault on a female passenger therein. Allegation of such neglect is not aided by averment that carrier should have foreseen the danger. Prokop v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 101.

69. Must not expose female to indecent language. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 565.

70. Spangler v. St. Joseph & G. I. R. Co. [Kan.] 74 P. 607. Where the employes have knowledge of an impending pistol duel on the platform, they must warn alighting passengers. Penny v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. C. 221, 45 S. E. 563. Liability exists for transporting colored persons to the carrier's park with knowledge of a conspiracy of third persons to injure them and without exercising care to prevent such injury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Dawson, 31 Ind. App. 605, 68 N. E. 909.

71. Notice to station porter, who exercises no authority and is not charged with the duty of looking after passengers, is not notice to the carrier of wanton injuries being inflicted on a passenger. Tate v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 309, 341, 81 S. W. 256. Car stopped at regular station for a short period, none of the employes were in the coach, which was lighted; held, that an assault on a woman by a negro entering the car could not be contemplated by a prudent person, and verdict was properly instructed for defendant. Segal v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 233.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 464, 470.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 464.

74. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471.

75. Notwithstanding Laws 1890, c. 565, p. 1126, and Penal Code, § 419, requiring a stop until all persons on a platform desiring to board are permitted to do so. Lauterer v. Manhattan R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 540.

76. Richmond Traction Co. v. Williams [Va.] 46 S. E. 292. Conductor and porter ought to have seen that passenger was attempting to board train when they gave signal to start. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Cannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 778.

77. Instruction making the carrier an insurer until a cripple had taken his seat was erroneous. Shadletsky v. New York City R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1014.

78. Conductor saw passenger's position. Fleming v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 217, 74 S. W. 382.

79. Fremont v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 App. Div. 414, 82 N. Y. S. 307.

80. Passenger was pushed from car. Ferris v. Interurban St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 361, 85 N. Y. S. 806.

81. Liability for starting a train without notice is not removed by the fact that the passenger is not attempting to board in the manner customary at that place. Passenger tried to board at car steps instead of crossing a plank from station into baggage car and thence to his coach, having no notice of the custom. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Anderson, 118 Ga. 288, 45 S. E. 271.

82. Liability exists where car starts while person is boarding, though there is a conflict as to whether the attempt was made after a signal to start. McGill v. Cent.

while passenger is passing from the platform into the car.[83] It is the duty of the motorman to keep a lookout for those who may desire to ride, and when this is manifest, to give them a reasonable opportunity to get on in safety;[84] but a motorman who obeys the signal of the conductor and does not know that it will result in an injury to a passenger is not negligent.[85]

Slowing a car in obedience to a signal is an invitation to board it,[86] though not to board it while in motion.[87] So stopping a crowded car is an implied invitation to take passage unless warning or notice is given.[88] Where a car has stopped to receive passengers, the question of who gave the signal to stop does not affect the duty to passengers getting on board.[89] Employes are not bound to prevent a person from attempting to board a moving car.[90] One who signals a street car coming around a curve has no right to assume that it will stop at any particular point on such curve, and until he has been given to understand by some act of the conductor or motorman that he can safely attempt to board it, or until the conditions are such that he can do so, the company owes him no duty.[91] The fact that one voluntarily assumes a position of danger relative to a passing street car, and not the sudden acceleration of the speed of the car, is the proximate cause of the injury to such person by being struck by the overhang of such car.[92] The care required is the same at any point made proper by the acts of the carrier as it is at a station.[93]

Setting down.[94]—It is the duty of a carrier to set passengers down safely at a station at the termination of their journey.[95] Railway passengers should be apprised of approach to their stations,[96] and trains should not start up suddenly after slowing.[97] If, after such announcement, the train makes its next stop short of or beyond the station, that fact must also be announced.[98] Street car passengers should be warned if a stop, made after a transfer point is called, is not to discharge

Crosstown R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 477. Where a conductor looks to see if any one is boarding or is desirous to board the car, it is not negligence for him to signal to start. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995. It is negligence for a conductor to start his car when he could have seen that a passenger was in the act of boarding it. Id.

83. Sharp v. New Orleans City R. Co., 111 La. 395, 35 So. 614. From the running board into the car. Canavan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 491.

84. Jaques v. Sioux City Traction Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1069.

85. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995.

86. Where motorman is looking at intending passenger when he signals to stop the car, a slackening of speed may be an invitation to enter. Mulligan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 207, 85 N. Y. S. 791. Liability exists for misleading passenger into belief that car is slowing to receive him, unless he is contributorily negligent. Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838. Where a car has been slowed down in obedience to a signal at a usual stopping place, the motorman must use a high degree of care such as would be exercised by a skillful and careful motorman under like circumstances, to so manage the car as to allow plaintiff to safely get on the car and reach a place of safety. Eikenberry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 360.

87. The fact that a car slackens speed at a street crossing is not a notice of intention to stop or an invitation to board while in motion. Fremont v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 App. Div. 414, 82 N. Y. S. 307.

88. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. One boarding a crowded car under implied invitation may assume that he will be given a reasonable opportunity to reach a place of safety before it is put in motion. Id.

89. Stoddard v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 33.

90. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 273.

91, 92. Garvey v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 456.

93. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Turney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 256.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 470.

95. Englehaupt v. Erie R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 154.

96. Announce the name of the station on the approach of the train. Englehaupt v. Erie R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 154. A failure to announce a station does not impose liability toward a passenger not misled. Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 118 Ga. 227, 45 S. E. 23.

97. Held for jury as to whether it was proximate cause. Moorman v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1098.

98. Liable for injuries to passenger who fell through bridge because of unexpected stoppage. Englehaupt v. Erie R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 154. Question of defendant's negligence in unexpected stoppage of train and plaintiff's contributory negligence in alighting held for jury on conflicting evidence. Id.

passengers.[99] To slacken speed after a stop signal is given, and then increase it, is evidence of negligence in not stopping.[1] It may be negligence for conductor to direct passenger to get up and go on platform while car is in motion.[2] A motorman must exercise reasonable care in listening for signals to stop, given by passengers intending to alight.[3] A departing passenger should signify his intention to alight.[4]

The train must stop a time reasonably sufficient to enable passengers to alight at the station of their destination in safety,[5] by the usual mode of egress from its cars,[6] and not be negligently carried by a station after notice.[7] Having done so, its duty is discharged in the absence of notice of special conditions.[8] The announcement of a station is not an invitation for passengers to alight before the train is brought to a standstill.[9] A stool should be furnished where the platform is low.[10] A custom of conductors to lend special assistance to alighting female passengers is not binding unless the carrier has knowledge of it.[11]

The duty of street car company as to length of stop is no greater than that of a steam railroad,[12] but the company must use great care while the passenger is alighting.[13] Sufficient time must be given,[14] and passengers allowed to get to safe

99. United R. & Elec. Co. v. Woodbridge, 97 Md. 629, 55 A. 444.

1. Dallas Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Payne [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1085.

2. Hennessy v. Muskegon T. & Lighting Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 36.

3. Fuller v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 940.

4. Where a conductor has no notice of a passenger's intention to alight, there is no liability for an injury caused by starting the car. McCarthy v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 388. A conductor who has no notice that a passenger intends to leave the car cannot be charged with negligence in starting the car. Brown v. Interurban St. R. Co., 43 Misc. 374, 87 N. Y. S. 461.

5. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 764; Englehaupt v. Erie R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 154; Shealey v. South Carolina & G. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 119. Reasonable time under the usual and ordinary circumstances must be given. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armes [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 77. Sudden start while passenger is alighting before a reasonable time is afforded is negligence. Rutledge v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 94. Instruction held to properly state law. Crump v. Davis [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 887; Southern R. Co. v. Bandy [Ga.] 47 S. E. 923.

6. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566. A railroad company has a right to designate certain doors and steps by which passengers shall leave the train, and to reserve others for the performance of its necessary work. Vestibule on coach, where plaintiff was hurt by tripping over hose, not open on station side and opened on other side only for purpose of conveying water into car. Id.

7. Infirmity required longer stop. Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 118 Ga. 227, 45 S. E. 23. Notice to carrier is not necessary to render it liable for injuries resulting from a person carried beyond her destination being of delicate health and thinly clad. Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 5. Where a female passenger poorly clad is set down a mile beyond her station, and compelled to walk back in a sleet storm, possible error in a charge extending the carrier's liability to her as a passenger is not prejudicial. Id.

8. It is not bound to know whether other passengers are in the act of alighting or on platforms for such purpose. Shealey v. South Carolina & G. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 119. It is not bound to care of "very cautious person" in starting again. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 255. Evidence held to show that passenger had time to alight, but awaited special attention from the conductor. Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 118 Ga. 227, 45 S. E. 23.

9. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 1006.

10. Failure to furnish customary stool and have porter present is negligence toward passenger alighting in dark from step 23 inches above ground. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 25 Ky. L. R. 10, 74 S. W. 700.

11. Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 118 Ga. 227, 45 S. E. 23. Since a carrier is not ordinarily under any duty to assist passengers to alight, it is not liable for a failure of a conductor to fulfil a promise to give such assistance to a passenger not entitled to claim it as a matter of right or to a passenger who, though he needs assistance, fails to inform the conductor who has no notice of the fact. Id.

12. Boone v. Oakland Transit Co., 139 Cal. 490, 73 P. 243. Must stop cars long enough to allow time to alight. Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 198, 76 S. W. 660. To suddenly start a car while a person is alighting after a stop for that purpose is negligence. Indianapolis St. R. v. Brown [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 407. Negligent sudden start of car throwing alighting passenger in front of car on parallel track held proximate cause of injury. Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 198, 76 S. W. 660.

13. For a conductor to start the car when he is standing on a lady's skirt and she is endeavoring to alight is evidence of negligence. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Shepherd, 65 N. E. 765, 29 Ind. App. 412. See Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law (2d Ed.) §§ 60, 64.

NOTE. Alighting from street car: Pas-place before starting.[15] The conductor must see that no one is in act of alighting before starting.[16] Where a person is accompanied by a child, the stop must be long enough to permit her to assist the child to alight.[17] The stop need not have been at a usual point if a passenger is endeavoring to alight with knowledge of the employes.[18] The servants must have reason to suppose that passenger intends to alight.[19] A motorman is not bound to anticipate that a passenger will attempt to alight between crossings, though he has seen her signal for a stop at the preceding crossing and has slackened speed.[20] Even though a car did not stop to discharge passengers, plaintiff can recover if those in charge thereof suddenly started it forward when they knew, or by the exercise of proper care could have known, that she was alighting therefrom.[21] Negligence in not stopping a car will be assumed where the signal to stop was given and the speed of the car was at first lessened and then increased.[22] Carriage of passenger beyond destination is not proximate cause of injury sustained from fall on sidewalk while going back to her destination.[23]

The carrier is bound to provide a safe place for the passenger to alight[24] at any point where it stops to discharge passengers,[25] but it is not liable for accidents sengers upon street cars are entitled to sufficient time to get off, and the duty of the carrier is not discharged until the passenger is free from the car. The relation of passenger and carrier certainly exists while the passenger is in the act of alighting. Atlanta Consol. St. R. Co. v. Bates, 103 Ga. 333; Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Morvilius, 31 Ind. App. 464, 68 N. E. 304; Louisville R. Co. v. Park, 96 Ky. 580; Jacobs v. West End St. R. Co., 178 Mass. 116; Finn v. Valley City St. & Cable R. Co., 86 Mich. 74; Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314. After the passenger has stepped from the car into the street, however, it is held that he is no longer upon the premises of the railway company, but upon a public place, where he has the same rights with every occupier, and over which place the company has no control. His rights are those of a traveler upon the highway, and not of a passenger, for the relation of carrier and passenger has ceased. Hanson v. Urbana, etc., R. Co., 75 Ill. App. 474; West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Walsh, 78 Ill. App. 595; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Tenner [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1044; Conway v. Lewiston, etc., R. Co., 87 Me. 283, 90 Me. 199; Central R. Co. v. Peacock, 69 Md. 257, 9 Am. St. Rep. 425; Creamer v. West End St. R. Co., 156 Mass. 320, 32 Am. St. Rep. 456; Bigelow v. West End St. R. Co., 161 Mass. 393; Gargan v. West End St. R. Co., 176 Mass. 106; Platt v. Forty-second St., etc., R. Co., 2 Hun [N. Y.] 124; Wells v. Steinway R. Co., 18 App. Div. [N. Y.] 180; Smith v. City R. Co., 29 Or. 539; Finseth v. Suburban R. Co., 32 Or. 1; Buzby v. Phila. Traction Co., 126 Pa. 559, 12 Am. St. Rep. 919; St. R. Co. v. Boddy, 105 Tenn. 666. If a passenger alights for a mere temporary purpose, this must be understood by those in charge of the car, if the relation of carrier and passenger is to be held to continue.—From Clark, St. Ry. Acc. Law (2d Ed.) § 7.

14. Sudden start before time to alight. Kroner v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 915.

15. Street car company is bound to highest care. Norfolk & A. Terminal Co. v. Morris' Adm'x, 101 Va. 422, 44 S. E. 719

16. After stop to receive or discharge passengers. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Shaw, 110 Tenn. 467, 75 S. W. 713.

17. Hannon v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 216, 77 S. W. 158.

18. Must afford reasonable opportunity. Jacobson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 309. Where a car has stopped close to a crossing, it is negligence to start it while a passenger is alighting. [40 or 50 feet from corner.] United R. & Elec. Co. v. Hertel, 97 Md. 382, 55 A. 428.

19. Grabenstein v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 261. Liability does not exist where passenger at end of line does not attempt to get off till car is reversed and the persons in charge have no notice of his intention. Spaulding v. Quincy & B. St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 470, 69 N. E. 217.

20. Root v. Des Moines R. Co., 122 Iowa, 469, 98 N. W. 291.

21. Houghton v. Louisville R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 393, 81 S. W. 695.

22. Passenger injured when alighting. Dallas Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Payne [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1085.

23. Haley v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 77 S. W. 731.

24. It is negligence for a railway company to stop its train on a dark night in an unlighted place when they must step down a distance imperiling personal safety. Ellis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 942. Question held for jury as to allowing ice to gather. Harris v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 407. Evidence held for jury as to care in permitting elderly female passenger to alight on yielding gravel. Joslyn v. Milford, etc., R. Co., 184 Mass. 65, 67 N. E. 866. Compare § 25, ante.

25. Where it is agreed to set down a passenger at a water tank, the same care must be used as at a station. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Topping, 25 Ky. L. R. 1390, 78 S. W. 135. Where the carrier stops a freight caboose a distance from the station, it is bound to furnish drovers in charge of stock a safe means of access. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Troyer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 308. It is the duty of a street car company to select a reasonably safe place for landing passenwhich cannot be reasonably anticipated.[26] If a passenger selects the place to alight, he assumes the risk incident thereto.[27]

A street car company must guard the passenger from injury from the dangerous condition of the highway where it stops to discharge him or warn him of the danger where it has notice and he has not,[28] and if it is negligent in stopping the car at the place it did and not assisting a passenger to alight, the city which has excavated the street at that point is not liable for injury.[29] Failure to stop at crossing is not the proximate cause of injury to a passenger alighting at the point where the car stops.[30]

An elevated road should have an employe at the rear of its cars to see that gates are not closed before admission of passengers to the station.[31]

§ 30. Duty to persons other than passengers.—These usually fall within the category of employes[32] or licensees, trespassers, and strangers.[33] To persons boarding cars by permission to assist passengers, the same duty is owing as to passengers.[34] Such are not trespassers,[35] and must not be ejected from a moving train.[36] The carrier is bound to use ordinary care and diligence for the safety of one not a passenger who boards its car for a lawful purpose and on the implied invitation of its servants.[37] A carrier owes no duty to trespassers on its trains except not to hurt them if discovered in a position of peril.[38]

Toward a passenger in the cars of another company, a street railroad is bound only to reasonable and ordinary care.[39] Where unnecessary force is used in ejecting one from a street car, he is entitled to recover for the assault, irrespective of whether he is entitled to the rights of a passenger or not.[40]

§ 31. Liability for personal injuries. A. General principles. What law governs.[41]—In a common-law action for injuries received in another state, the common law of the forum governs.[42] gers. Track on a public road. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Vining [Ga.] 48 S. E. 232.

26. Adult passenger who secured the stoppage of the train for his own accommodation cannot recover for an injury sustained by stepping on a cinder and falling, the place being perfectly safe and the ground in full and plain view. Bascom v. Wabash R. Co., 102 Mo. App. 430, 76 S. W. 697. Carrier is not liable for strain sustained by passenger in alighting at a point off a crossing, but without apparent risk to alighting passengers. Lynch v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 630, 77 S. W. 100. Recovery cannot be had where a female passenger misjudges the distance she can safely step from a standing car and falls, she not being misled or misdirected and the conditions being perfectly apparent and the track conforming to the highway. Scanlon v. Phila. Rapid Transit Co., 208 Pa. 195, 57 A. 521.

27. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Vining [Ga.] 48 S. E. 232.

28. Leaving car at night and stepping into excavation. Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Morvilius, 31 Ind. App. 464, 68 N. E. 304. Should not stop at dangerous points. Levceret v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 399, 34 So. 579.

29. Yecker v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 780.

30. Lynch v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 630, 77 S. W. 100.

31. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Hanson, 67 Kan. 256, 72 P. 773.

32. See Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801. Consult 1 Curr. L. 448, and ante, § 22.

33. See Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1742.

34. Conductor should see that he is given time to get off. Bishop v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1363, 77 S. W. 1099.

35. One accompanying his sister to a train to assist her to board it and going on board. Morrow v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 92, 46 S. E. 12.

36. Where one escorted passengers onto a train which moved out before he got off and the conductor put him off while it was moving, he was entitled to recover. Southern R. Co. v. Merritt [Ga.] 47 S. E. 908.

37. One boarding car for purpose of inducing those in charge of it to make an extra trip, as it sometimes did, injured by being thrown off by its being suddenly started. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219.

38. One using train as means of crossing track. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566.

39. Klinger v. United Traction Co., 92 App. Div. 100, 87 N. Y. S. 864. See titles Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1742.

40. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Clark [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 63. Evidence held to show that plaintiff was ejected from car operated by defendant. Id.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 459.

42. Error to require highest degree of care and diligence known to skilled persons engaged in the business. Ala. Midland R. Co. v. Guilford, 119 Ga. 623, 46 S. E. 655.

Degree of care required.[43]—A carrier of passengers is not an insurer of their safety,[44] but is bound to a very high degree of care which is variously defined,[45] and this rule applies equally to street railroads,[46] cabs, and the like.[47] This duty arises only from the relation of passenger and carrier,[48] and the servants of a carrier cannot be held to personal liability under the same rules as the carrier,[49] being liable only for negligence or excess of duties.[50] It does not follow that the trainmen performed all the duties which they owed travelers from the fact that they performed all that were required of them by the company.[51]

Negligence must be proximate cause of injury,[52] but a carrier is liable for injury from its negligence concurring with that of another.[53] The question of

43. See 1 Curr. L. 459.

44. Must exercise the care a very cautious, prudent, and competent person would exercise under the circumstances. Tyler v. Tex. & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1075; Carrier by stage. Taillon v. Mears [Mont.] 74 P. 421. Street railroad. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. A carrier owes its passengers a high degree of care but is not absolutely bound to furnish them reasonably safe cars or to operate the same in a safe manner. Citizene' R. Co. v. Sinclair [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329. A carrier need not guard against accidents not reasonably to be expected. Not liable where passenger put his hand through glass swinging door of a kind long in use. Fahner v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 86 App. Div. 488, 83 N. Y. S. 815. Not liable for an assault by one passenger upon another which it had no reason to anticipate. Stutsky v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 358.

45. Carriers are bound to know or exercise the highest degree of care consistent with the proper and prudent conduct of their business to ascertain and remove causes which may derail their cars. Louisville R. Co. v. Hartlege, 25 Ky. L. R. 152, 74 S. W. 742. In making coupling if defendant used a degree of care or caution, less in however small a degree than the utmost care of very cautious railroad men under the circumstances it is liable. Mathew v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 271. All that human care and vigilance reasonably can do to prevent the injury. Brunnchow v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 656. Not "the utmost care that human imagination can conceive." Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158. Highest degree of care consistent with the practical conduct of its business. Johnson v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 677. The highest degree of care. International, etc., R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 N. W. 1189. Highest degree of care reasonably practicable under the circumstances. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995. Common carriers are required to do all that human care, vigilance, or foresight can reasonably do, consistent with the character and mode of conveyance adopted and the practical prosecution of the business, to prevent accidents to passengers. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. To exercise such a high degree of foresight as to possible dangers, and of prudence in guarding against them, as would be used by very cautious, prudent, and competent persons under similar circumstances. International, etc., R. Co. v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 821.

46. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Polkey, 203 Ill. 225, 67 N. E. 793; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Brown [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 407; Crump v. Davis [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 886. "Highest degree of care." Tillman v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 553, 77 S. W. 320. Highest degree of practical care and diligence consistent with the means of transportation adopted. Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49. High degree of care such as should be exercised by careful, skillful railroad employes under similar circumstances. Robinson v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 493. "Utmost skill and care" in management. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Hanson, 67 Kan. 256, 72 P. 773. Degree of care which very cautious, prudent and competent persons usually exercise under the same or similar circumstances. St. John v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 235. Reasonable care, considering the nature of its business and the responsibilities attaching to the carrying of human beings. Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 485, 86 N. Y. S. 1018. "Highest" degree of care not required in avoidance of collision with vehicle. Kelly v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 159, 85 N. Y. S. 842. "Utmost skill, diligence and foresight consistent with the business." Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197. The rule that operators of a car are charged only with the duty of exercising reasonable care applies as to teams in the street but not as to passengers. Zvonik v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 399. Reasonable care to prevent collisions. Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 485, 86 N. Y. S. 1018.

47. Stiner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 285.

48. See ante, § 22.

49. Collision. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 125 F. 958.

50. Unnecessary force in ejecting passenger. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, 25 Ky. L. R. 2087, 79 S. W. 1187.

51. Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1034.

52. Runaway. Taillon v. Mears [Mont.] 74 P. 421. The driver's negligence in causing horses to fall is not the proximate cause of injury to a passenger kicked while they are being released. Roedecker v. Metropolitan St. Co., 87 App. Div. 227, 84 N. Y. S. 300. Fact that plaintiff was compelled to ride on mixed train, though he had a first class ticket, held not the proximate cause of injury resulting from his stepping on banana peel and train making sudden lurch. Error to admit evidence on this issue, and submit it to jury. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Gragg [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 93.

proximate cause is one of fact.[54] There is no liability for casualties which cannot be reasonably guarded against or anticipated.[55] Violation of a statute or ordinance is negligence per se.[56] There are no degrees of negligence.[57]

Gross negligence may also impose criminal liability.[58]

Carriage of passengers on freight trains.[59]—Passengers on freight and mixed trains assume the risks necessarily incident to that means of transportation,[60] but the carrier is nevertheless held to the utmost care[61] consistent with practical operation.[62]

Duty toward intoxicated, infirm, or delicate persons.[63]—Though the carrier has no notice of the infirm condition of a passenger, he is entitled to the same high care which is the right of other passengers,[64] and if the carrier has such notice the care must be such[65] and only such[66] as is appropriate to the condition.

Liability of carrier or connecting carrier.[67]—Under an agreement to divide through business on a mileage basis, connecting roads are liable as partners.[68] The initial carrier is liable, under an agreement for the use of one car, for an entire trip over two roads, for failure to furnish a car which is capable of being made comfortably warm.[69] But it is the duty of the connecting carrier, in such case, to use the highest degree of care to preserve the comfort of its passengers, and the 53. Louisville & E. Mail Co. v. Barnes' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. A. 2036, 79 S. W. 261; Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 485, 86 N. Y. S. 1018.

54. Harris v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 407.

55. Conductor's transfer punch fell from his pocket and hit a passenger in the eye. Cheyne v. Van Brunt, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 626. A passenger standing on running board swung back so as to come in contact with the pillar of an elevated railway. Canavan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 491. A carrier is not an insurer and is not liable for injuries which might have been anticipated if the means necessary to prevent it would have amounted to a practical prohibition of its business. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995.

56. Ordinance requiring conductors on street cars. Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197. Violation of an ordinance requiring the motorman to stop before crossing a railroad track. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Holt, 30 Tex. App. 330, 70 S. W. 591.

57. "Slightest neglect" should be avoided in instructions. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158.

58. See Corporations, 1 Curr. L. 710; Homicide, 2 Curr. L. 223. An interesting illustrative case of liability for homicide is State v. Young [N. J. Law] 56 A. 471.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 460.

60. Jerks reasonably incident. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Vinson, 25 Ky. L. R. 38, 74 S. W. 671; Id., 25 Ky. L. R. 652, 76 S. W. 167; Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Jordan, 25 Ky. L. R. 574, 76 S. W. 145. Liability does not exist for a sudden jolt not shown to be the result of negligent handling of the train or defect in track or appliances. Portuchek v. Wabash R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 52, 74 S. W. 368. Passenger on mixed train does not assume risk of jars occasioned by parting of coupling, though no greater than usual. Holland v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 508.

61. Hardin v. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 431.

62. Highest practicable degree of care practically consistent with the operation of such a train. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Jordan, 25 Ky. L. R. 574, 76 S. W. 145. One traveling on a shipper's or drover's ticket is entitled to the care due a passenger, regard being had to the means of transportation necessarily adopted. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Troyer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 308.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 461.

64. In case the carrier does not exercise such care, she may recover for an aggravation of an existing ailment. Mathew v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 271.

65. Where a passenger becomes sick or unconscious, reasonable and ordinary care must be employed in looking after and protecting him. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Parry, 67 Kan. 515, 73 P. 105. Where a depot master allows a passenger apparently just recovering from a fit to go on a street near the tracks, a jury may be justified that his negligence is the proximate cause of an injury four hours later after the passenger has wandered five miles on the track. Id. Old and apparently infirm passengers are entitled to greater care. Should be assisted to alight if necessary. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Shaw, 110 Tenn. 467, 75 S. W. 713.

66. A carrier is not bound to escort a passenger to the proper car of a vestibuled train, she not being ill to such a degree as to require assistance. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Harper [Miss.] 35 So. 764.

67. See 1 Curr. L. 482, n. 94.

68. Injury at station. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dupont [C. C. A.] 128 F. 840.

69. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex.] 80 S. W. 1139. A carrier agreeing to furnish a through car is liable for negligence in failing to supply proper heating apparatus though the injury occurs while the car is in the hands of the connecting carrier. Liability is not removed by a limitation on a coupon ticket that the selling company acted as agent only and was not responsible beyond its line. Id. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1036.

initial carrier is not liable for its failure to do so.[70] An express company is liable for injuries to a passenger on a train employed by it for purposes of transportation, though such train belonged to, and was operated by, the agents of and over the line of, a railroad company, and the injuries were caused by the negligence of the latter company.[71] In such case, the railroad company is the agent of the express company and the latter is strictly responsible for its acts,[72] and an action will lie in favor of the injured passenger against either or both of such companies.[73]

(§ 31) B. Contributory negligence of passenger.[74]—A passenger is required to exercise such reasonable care for his own safety as persons of ordinary prudence and intelligence would ordinarily exercise under the same circumstances,[75] though by statute in some states this duty is modified;[76] but a city ordinance that conductors shall not allow women and children to leave moving cars does not abrogate rules as to contributory negligence.[77] The character of the train is an element.[78] His negligence must proximately contribute to the injury,[79] but the amount of influence which it exerts cannot be considered.[80] Reckless or wanton conduct of the carrier may prevent its assertion,[81] but the duty of the carrier to use every means in its power to prevent injury to one who has, by his own negligence, exposed himself to injury, does not arise until his peril is discovered.[82] If they do not know of it, no duty is imposed on them, even though, by the exercise of ordinary care, they might have discovered it.[83] The passenger never assumes the risk of the carrier's negligence, there being a distinction between assumption of risk and contributory negligence.[84]

The negligence of a carrier is not imputed to a passenger who is injured by

70. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex.] 80 S. W. 1139.

71, 72, 73. American Exp. Co. v. Ogles [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1023.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 474.

75. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. A carrier is not required to guard against heedlessness of personal safety by passengers or disregard of its reasonable rules. Lauterer v. Manhattan R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 540. Contributory negligence is usually a matter of defense. Negligence in leaving train after call of station, held matter of defense. Coe v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1679, 78 S. W. 439; Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Jolly, 25 Ky. L. R. 1735, 78 S. W. 476. A passenger traveling in a street car is not bound as a person approaching a dangerous crossing to keep all his senses alert and be on the lookout for danger. He may assume that the carrier will exercise the care toward him required by law. Jones v. United Railways & Elec. Co. [Md.] 57 A. 620.

76. Contributory negligence no defense for injury by kicking switch in municipal limits, but this statute does not apply outside such limits. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Humphrey [Miss.] 36 So. 154.

77. Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 846.

78. Held for jury when woman on mixed train was injured by a jolt, she being then standing in aisle talking to a friend. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Humphrey [Miss.] 36 So. 154.

79. Instruction to such effect is proper. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 340; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Cannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 778. Injury from sudden start while alighting. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armes [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 77.

80. Error to charge that it must have contributed in a "material sense." Root v. Des Moines R. Co., 122 Iowa, 469, 98 N. W. 290. Any want of care, however slight, contributing proximately to the injury, defeats a recovery. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Bynum [Ala.] 36 So. 736. An instruction that the contribution must have some bearing on the act charged and be a direct and proximate contribution to that act was proper. Nelson v. Ga., etc., R. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 722.

81. Question held for jury in case of passenger standing on step of front platform outside the gate and struck by car passing on a curve in violation of rules. Parks v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 178 Mo. 108, 77 S. W. 70. Motorman accelerated speed with knowledge that a person is trying to board his car. Eikenberry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 360. Though a passenger is attempting to board at an unusual place, the carrier must use ordinary care to keep a hand rail in good repair. McCarty v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 7. Where a passenger has a clear chance to avoid the result of the carrier's negligence, but failed to avoid the danger, he cannot recover. Passenger stepped from moving train after seeing the signal to start. Simmons v. Seaboard Air Line R. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 570.

82. Passenger jumping off train. Harris v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1023.

83. Harris v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1023.

84. Plea attempting to set up assumption of risk held insufficient. Parks v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 178 Mo. 108, 77 S. W. 70.

the concurrent negligence of the carrier and another, and he may recover against both,[85] nor does negligence of the driver of a vehicle collided with affect the passenger.[86] Where a child is not guilty of negligence, no negligence of his mother may be imputed.[87]

Acts due to impulse of sudden danger.[88]—Reasonable efforts to prevent injury are not negligent,[89] such as jumping from a car in well grounded fear of imminent danger.[90]

Acts done at direction of employes.[91]—Directions of the carrier's employes, unless involving obvious danger,[92] may prevent an imputation of negligence,[93] and it is not a want of due care if a passenger prudently uses the means which the company affords him for disembarking;[94] but a protest by an employe against a passenger's act does not render it negligent per se.[95]

Approaching car.[96]—A passenger must use ordinary care to discover the situation of the platforms and approaches,[97] and of the car which he seeks to enter.[98]

Boarding moving train or cars.[99]—Negligence in attempting to board a moving train is usually a question for the jury,[1] unless the surrounding facts are such 85. Louisville & C. Packet Co. v. Mulligan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1287, 77 S. W. 704.

86. Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 486, 86 N. Y. S. 1018.

87. Child jolted from car. Nashville R. Co. v. Howard [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1098.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 475.

89. Evidence of efforts of woman to protect herself from falling on sudden start of car while she was alighting, held not to show contributory negligence. Brazis v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 224, 76 S. W. 708.

90. Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49; Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406. Where smoke and flames appeared in different parts of a car, causing a panic, and a passenger was injured while attempting to escape, evidence held sufficient to justify an inference of negligence. Dorff v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 463.

91. See 1 Curr. L. 476.

92. Alighting from moving train. Southern R. Co. v. Bandy [Ga.] 47 S. E. 923.

93. Where planks are placed between coaches for use, a passenger is not negligent per se in attempting to cross, though he notices their shaky condition. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Keitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 311. An intending passenger is not negligent per se in going on a narrow platform just before passage of a special at the direction of a station master. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dupont [C. C. A.] 128 F. 840. Where the duty to announce is statutory, the passengers may assume, unless warned, that the first stop after the announcement is at the station. Coe v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1679, 78 S. W. 439. A passenger does not assume the risk in an attempt to alight at a place selected by the employes. Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314. Where one alighted from a moving train, evidence held to show that the carrier was negligent in that the porter told the passenger to alight. Newcomb v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1069. If by direction of a conductor a passenger alights from a moving train, the company is liable. Southern R. Co. v. Bandy [Ga.] 47 S. E. 923.

94. Southern R. Co. v. Bandy [Ga.] 47 S. E. 923.

95. Getting off train in motion. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. McKinney, 118 Ga. 535, 45 S. E. 430.

96. See 1 Curr. L. 476.

97. An intending passenger, unaware of the fact that passing trains overlap the platform, may assume that they do not, but must use the platform with ordinary care and prudence. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dupont [C. C. A.] 128 F. 840. A person in charge of cattle, approaching the caboose between tracks, is negligent in not seeking a place of safety on the approach of a train on the parallel track, if he has reasonable opportunity. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Hotchkiss, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 431. One waiting to board an approaching car, who takes a position which is safe with reference to the ordinary cars used by the company, and not knowing that the approaching one was larger, is not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law, and does not assume the risk of its striking him. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 865.

98. One attempting to board a car not in service is not negligent unless he saw such fact or could have seen it by the exercise of due care. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 273. Company not liable for injuries received by one who, after signaling car about to round curve to stop, places himself so near the track that he is bound to be hit by the overhang of the car. Garvey v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 456.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 476.

1. South Chicago City R. Co. v. Dufresne, 102 Ill. App. 493; Schmidt v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 72; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 16. Train moving three miles an hour. Creech v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 66 S. C. 528, 45 S. E. 86. Car which had slackened speed in obedience to signal. Clinton v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 91 App. Div. 374, 86 N. Y. S. 932. Car which had almost stopped. Mulligan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 207, 85 N. Y. S. 791. Car moving slowly. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 273; Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.

that the court may say that it would not be undertaken by a reasonably prudent person,[2] although there is no complete unanimity of authority.[3] The person attempting to board assumes risks from acceleration of speed, if not seen by the persons in charge.[4] It is not negligence, as a matter of law, for a woman with an armful of bundles to attempt to get on a standing street car.[5] A passenger may, in the exercise of due care, grasp something to prevent himself falling.[6]

Boarding crowded car.[7]—An attempt to board a crowded car is not negligence per se,[8] but a passenger on such a car must exercise the care customary to ordinary prudent persons under the circumstances.[9]

Riding in dangerous position.[10]—It is as a rule negligence to ride in a dangerous position with knowledge, or in disobedience to known rules of the carrier,[11] but one in the baggage car through necessity and with permission of the conductor is not negligent per se,[12] nor is it negligence for a passenger to temporarily leave his seat for a legitimate purpose, though he is compelled to stand on his return, it having been taken by another;[13] nor to ride by an open window;[14] but attempting to pass from one coach to another while the train is going at full speed is contributory negligence.[15]

Riding on platform or running board of street car.[16]—Negligence is not by the App.] 78 S. W. 835. Active man of 38, attempting to board a car rounding a curve at from 5 to 6 miles per hour at a usual stopping place and with which he is familiar. Eikenberry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 360. Car moving rapidly. Fremont v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 752. One attempting to get on a street car in motion, and being thrown and injured by the car giving a sudden lurch, held not guilty of negligence. South Chicago City R. Co. v. Dufresne, 102 Ill. App. 493.

2. Not negligence per se to attempt to board a car which has slowed in obedience to signal, unless speed is such that negligence is manifest or the person is infirm or encumbered. O'Mara v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 202, 76 S. W. 680. An attempt to board a moving elevated train after the gates are closed is negligence. Lauterer v. Manhattan R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 540.

3. One attempting to board a car which has slackened speed to stop in obedience to his signal is negligent. Hunterson v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. 568, 55 A. 543. Failure to stop a reasonable length of time does not justify an attempt to board a moving train to prevent being left. Ricks v. Ga. Southern & F. R. Co., 118 Ga. 259, 45 S. E. 268. One who came toward a car from the rear and attempted to board it as it was moving was guilty of contributory negligence. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995. One who attempts to board a moving car is guilty of contributory negligence. Id. Where one boarding a moving car was struck by an obstacle near the track, there was no negligence on part of the carrier. Allen v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 204. Where one is injured while attempting to board a moving train, there is no presumption of negligence on part of the carrier. Id.

4. Fremont v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 App. Div. 414, 82 N. Y. S. 307.

5. Jaques v. Sioux City Traction Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1069.

6. Evidence sufficient to warrant finding that passenger had reason to suppose that car might start suddenly and that he was justified in grasping jamb of doorway with his thumb in slot in which door slides. Carroll v. Boston & N. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 89. Evidence sufficient to warrant finding that the conductor knew, or, by the exercise of due care, would have known, that plaintiff's thumb was in the slot, and hence was negligent in closing the door as he did. Id. Where a cripple grasped the jamb of a door and his hand was injured by the conductor's closing the door, the cripple was not guilty of contributory negligence. Shadletsky v. New York City R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1014.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 477.

8. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935.

9. Instruction that he does not assume any increased risk held error. Zimmer v. Fox River Valley Elec. R. Co., 118 Wis. 614, 95 N. W. 957.

10. See 1 Curr. L. 477.

11. Riding on the locomotive is negligence per se. Radley v. Columbia So. R. Co. [Or.] 75 P. 212. A passenger is not justified in climbing to the top of a car by the fact that all the seats are taken. The rule is not altered by the fact that a written prohibition is not posted in accord with Rev. St. 1899, § 1080. Chaney v. La. & M. R. Co., 176 Mo. 598, 75 S. W. 595.

12. Custodian of lunatic compelled to ride with his charge in such car because of inability to take into a coach the chair in which the lunatic was. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Jordan, 25 Ky. L. R. 574, 76 S. W. 145.

13. Holland v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 508. Negligence to stand in caboose in disobedience to posted warning is not aided by fact that passenger has risen to get a drink and is waiting for water to cool. Krumm v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 71 Ark. 590, 76 S. W. 1075.

14. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106.

15. Dougherty v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 699.

weight of authority legally inferred from riding on a platform or footboard of a street car, though a seat can be obtained;[17] but one so riding accepts the additional risks.[18] The use of a footboard is not restricted to boarding and alighting,[19] and one using a footboard along an open car is not negligent per se, nor is his failure to look around.[20]

Riding on platform of railroad train.[21]—It is not negligence per se to be on the platform of a moving train in the absence of conditions making the act dangerous,[22] but the passenger must obey or endeavor to obey direction to go inside,[23] and though he cannot find a seat, the passenger is not justified in standing on the platform if there is standing room inside.[24]

Allowing body to project from car.—As to whether a passenger is negligent per se in allowing his body to project beyond the car line is a matter of conflict,[25] though there appears to be an increasing tendency to submit the question to the jury.[26] The fact that a passenger in an open car rests his elbow on a side rail without allowing it to project does not establish his negligence.[27]

Acts preparatory to alighting.[28]—The usual acts of a passenger preparatory to leaving a train or car as it nears his destination are ordinarily not held negligent per se,[29] so it is not negligence per se for him to leave his seat and go forward as

16. See Curr. L. 477.

17. Kre...elmann v. Jourdan [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 323. One who could obtain seat on side of car away from parallel track, but nevertheless goes on the inside footboard, is not negligent per se, especially when knowledge of the first vacant seat is not shown. Id. Question for jury in sitting on body of open car and resting feet on running board in case of boy of 13. Seller v. Market St. R. Co., 139 Cal. 268, 72 P. 1006. Whether it was contributory negligence for a passenger to stand on the inner footboard of a street car was a question for the jury. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142. A passenger standing on the rear platform must exercise the degree of care the increased danger entails. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158. It is not negligence per se for a passenger upon an electric street car to ride upon the platform thereof. Brunnchow v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 656. The rules which govern riding on the platforms of steam railroads apply to an interurban car running in the open country, and it is lack of due care for a passenger to ride on the rear platform against the rule of the company and the request of the conductor when there are vacant seats inside. Cincinnati, etc., St. R. Co. v. Lohe, 68 Ohio St. 101, 67 N. E. 161. Question of contributory negligence in one riding on rear platform of a car, standing on a projection outside the vestibule, car crowded, was for the jury. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Bynum [Ala.] 36 So. 736.

18. Vogler v. Cent. Crosstown R. Co., 83 App. Div. 101, 82 N. Y. S. 485. Plaintiff assumes the risk of ordinary motion in riding on step. Evidence held not to show unusual condition with respect to roadbed or management. Moskowitz v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 89 App. Div. 425, 85 N. Y. S. 960. Evidence held to warrant finding of absence of negligence on part of passenger on step of crowded platform thrown off at curve. Zimmer v. Fox River Valley Elec. R. Co., 118 Wis. 614, 95 N. W. 957. One riding on a platform who with knowledge of the danger places his arm within the sweep of a revolving brake handle is negligent. Brewer v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1021.

19. Passengers may pass along it to seats. Kreimelmann v. Jourdan [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 323.

20. When he does not know that tracks are in dangerous proximity and is going to a seat, there being no precautions taken against such use. Kreimelmann v. Jourdan [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 323.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 478.

22. Such as infirm condition of the passenger or high speed of train. Augusta So. R. Co. v. Snider, 118 Ga. 146, 44 S. E. 1005. If the car is overcrowded, it is not, as a matter of law, negligence. Question held for jury. Pa. Co. v. Paul [C. C. A.] 126 F. 157.

23. The passenger is not bound to push his way inside by main force. Whether he can reach a place within the car by reasonable effort is a question for the jury. Rolette v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 431.

24. Rolette v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 97 N. W. 431.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 478. One protruding head and shoulders from window of a car moving 40 or 45 miles an hour is guilty of gross negligence. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Roeser [Neb.] 95 N. W. 68. Voluntarily protruding any part of the person beyond the sides of a moving car is negligence as a matter of law. Huber v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 478.

26. Allowing arm to extend beyond window sill. McCord v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 53, 45 S. E. 1031. Head and arm coming in contact with gate of stock pen. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 793.

27. Jones v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 57 A. 620.

28. Failure to seek assistance, see 1 Curr. L. 479.

29. Question of contributory negligence in going on platform at call of conductor train slows at destination,[30] but the passenger must not expose himself to unnecessary danger.[31]

Leaving moving train or car.[32]—Negligence in alighting from a moving train or car is in general a question of fact for the jury,[33] as is the speed at which the train is moving.[34] The jury should not be charged that a warning not to alight given by a bystander too late to be acted on rendered the passenger negligent.[35]

Alighting at unusual place.[36]—The absence of a conductor may confer a greater discretion on the passenger as to where to attempt to alight.[37] A notice that cars stop at near sides of cross streets is not sufficient alone to charge a person attempting to alight elsewhere with negligence.[38] The attempt may be excused by custom,[39] or by misleading acts of the carrier.[40] held for the jury. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Jean [Md.] 57 A. 540. A boy seven years and eight months old is not negligent in going on and remaining on a front platform to tell the motorman where he wished to get off. Parker v. Wash. Elec. St. R. Co., 207 Pa. 438, 56 A. 1001. Negligence in stepping through open gates of slowly moving car about to stop and standing on step, after notifying motorman to stop, is for the jury. Paganini v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 128. Facts held not to make prima facie case of contributory negligence of passenger slipping on slippery deck. Gillum v. New York & T. S. S. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 232. Woman is not negligent in attempting to alight with a grip, it not being shown that she was unable to carry it. Weight of 60 pounds. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armes [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 77. Not negligence per se to fail to take hold of hand rail. Crump v. Davis [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 886.

30. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Topping, 25 Ky. L. R. 1390, 78 S. W. 135. Question of contributory negligence in standing in aisle on approach to destination is for jury, though the injury is due to an unusual jerk; if the jerk is incident to proper care, he cannot recover. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Jolly, 25 Ky. L. R. 1735, 78 S. W. 476.

31. One standing up at the extreme edge of the car and riding backward cannot recover for a sudden stop in obedience to his signal, though he is thrown off. Jennings v. Union Traction Co., 206 Pa. 31, 55 A. 765. Leaving seat and stepping down on running board and remaining there while the car is in motion is negligent. Bainbridge v. Union Traction Co., 206 Pa. 71, 55 A. 836. Not negligent per se to prepare to alight from car slowed to 3 miles per hour in obedience, as the passenger supposed, to his signal, preventing recovery for a jerk. Dawson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 277, 76 S. W. 689.

32. See 1 Curr. L. 479.

33. Bishop v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1363, 77 S. W. 1099. Jumping from train moving 5 miles an hour to avoid being carried by. Harris v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 407. Attempt to alight from car which is moving slowly and has started after female passenger has reached lowest step of platform. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Massay [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 585. Passenger alighting in dark and not noticing train is in motion. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Loewe [Kan.] 74 P. 234. Attempt to leave car moving 3 miles per hour. Dawson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 277, 76 S. W. 689. Not per se, female attempting to leave moving street car. Crump v. Davis [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 886. For woman to get off while street car is in motion is contributory negligence; otherwise if it started while she was alighting after a stop. Richmond Traction Co. v. Williams [Va.] 46 S. E. 292. The act of a passenger in voluntarily alighting from a moving train is not necessarily negligence. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 1006. Ordinarily alighting from a passenger train before it is brought to a standstill at a station is contributory negligence. Id. The question depends on the attendant circumstances, and is for the jury, unless the conditions disclosed are such as exclude the inference of non-negligence. Id. Whether a person is guilty of contributory negligence in alighting from a slowly moving train is a question for the jury. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1069. The fact that one was not contributorily negligent in alighting from a moving train does not entitle him to recover unless the carrier was at the time guilty of negligence. Simmons v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 570. Where one alighted from a car, passed back of it and onto a parallel track without looking, she was guilty of contributory negligence. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Ryan [Kan.] 77 P. 267. Where a passenger alighted from a rapidly moving car, he was guilty of contributory negligence. Pearl v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 915.

34. Bishop v. Ill. Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1363, 77 S. W. 1099.

35. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armes [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 77.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 480.

37. Attempt to alight at a second stop a car length after a preceding stop held for jury. Gillespie v. Yonkers R. Co., 87 App. Div. 38, 83 N. Y. S. 1043.

38. United R. & Elec. Co. v. Hertel, 97 Md. 382, 55 A. 428; United R. & Elec. Co. v. Woodbridge, 97 Md. 629, 55 A. 444.

39. Where a habit to alight at a stop on the near side of the street is well known to the carrier, one is not guilty of negligence in attempting to leave a car at such point after it has come to a full stop. Richmond Traction Co. v. Williams [Va.] 46 S. E. 292.

40. Where, after a transfer point has been called, the car stops, though not on the crossing, it is not negligence per se to attempt to alight. United R. & Elec. Co. v. Woodbridge, 97 Md. 629, 55 A. 444.

Care required after alighting.[41]—One who is old, crippled and deaf is not negligent in traveling alone and without arranging to be met at her destination.[42] One passing along tracks to a station from a freight caboose on which he is riding may rely on the exercise of the utmost care by the carrier, and need guard only against known and apparent peril.[43]

After alighting from a street car, a passenger becoming a mere traveler must look and listen for cars on parallel tracks.[44] If he looks and listens before he passes on the parallel track, he is not per se negligent in not looking after he passes the car from which he alighted.[45]

(§ 31) C. Remedies and procedure.[46]—The measure of damages differing in no respect from that in other cases of personal injury, it is elsewhere treated.[47] No notice of the injury need be given to the carrier.[48]

Pleading.[49]—The pleading should show that plaintiff was a passenger,[50] and that defendant's breach of duty was the proximate cause of injury.[51] When one or more facts are essential to a cause of action and any one of them is not sufficiently alleged, the complaint is bad.[52] It is usually held that negligence may be alleged in general terms,[53] though specific averments are sometimes required,[54] and where the use of offensive language is the gravamen of the action, the words

41. See 1 Curr. L. 480.

42. May recover for injury sustained in falling over a cattle guard, the exit provided being a stile over a barbed wire fence, which by reason of the darkness, she did not see. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Reid [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 99.

43. Evidence held not to show negligence. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Troyer [Neb.] 97 N. W. 308.

44. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Tenner [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1044.

45. Reed v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 427, 84 N. Y. S. 454.

46. See topics treating of practice generally, 1 Curr. L. 484.

47. See Damages, 1 Curr. L. 833.

48. Rev. Laws, c. 112, § 44, does not require notice of the time, place, and cause of injury where injury results from unsafe condition of ground near track on defendant's private property on which plaintiff alighted. Joslyn v. Milford, etc., R. Co., 184 Mass. 65, 67 N. E. 866.

49. See articles on Negligence and Pleading for general rules.

50. Pleading held sufficient prima facie. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. A complaint alleging a direction by a tenant to an ice man to deliver ice by means of a freight elevator controlled by the tenant does not show him a common carrier. Downs v. Seeley, 76 Conn. 317, 56 A. 502.

51. An allegation held sufficient to show that a sudden stop was the proximate cause of an injury from a passenger being thrown against another. McCauley v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 376. Complaint in action against street railway company for injuries to passenger by derailment of car, held to sufficiently aver that defendant's negligence was the proximate cause of the injury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 201.

52. Complaint in action for injuries to passenger on freight train due to collision, alleging that such collision was due to negligence in not having a proper and efficient brake, and in running in excess of the speed limit fixed by a city ordinance, held defective for failure to allege that such ordinance was in force when the injury occurred. Southern R. Co. v. Jones [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 275.

53. Allegation in general terms is sufficient though passenger has knowledge of the particular act of negligence. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 977. "Solely by the fault, carelessness, and negligence of the defendant, and its servants and employes as aforesaid," is sufficient to aver negligence. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935. Pleading held to present issue of failure of motorman to use ordinary care to hear a signal to stop. Fuller v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 940. Petition alleging injury from sudden jerk held good against general demurrer. Mack v. Savannah & S. R. Co., 118 Ga. 629, 45 S. E. 509. Petition alleging injury from sudden jerk held sufficient as against a general exception. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 856. An averment "that defendant, through and by its servant in charge of said car, negligently ran said car," etc., sufficiently avers that such servant was acting within the scope of his employment. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 201.

54. Averment of "insufficient brakes and other appliances to stop said car" is too general without specific averments of the particular appliance causing the injury and whether injury was received by falling, jumping, being struck, or otherwise. Newton v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 55 A. 2. A complaint alleging that the plaintiff was a passenger on defendant's train, that it was derailed, and that he was injured thereby, sufficiently states a cause of action, and is not subject to a motion to make it more definite and certain. Burden on company to disprove negligence. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966.

need not be set out.[55] On the other hand, the averments of fact may dispense with the necessity of characterizing defendant's conduct,[56] but recital of evidentiary facts will not supply an averment of willfulness.[57] An act characterized in a count as both negligent and willful will support both actual and punitive damages.[58]

Under an ordinance prohibiting conductors from allowing women and children to alight while cars are in motion, a petition which alleges that the motion was imperceptible may be amended to make it imperceptible to her.[59] A complaint showing that plaintiff was injured while doing what is negligence per se is bad.[60]

Conformity of pleadings and proof and variance.—As in all pleadings,[61] the proof must conform substantially to the averments but immaterial variance may be disregarded,[62] and evidence not conforming to the averments is not admissible.[63] Where several acts of negligence all essential to recovery are alleged, all must be proven,[64] but an election is not required where the same facts support more than one imputation of negligence.[65]

Presumptions and burden of proof.[66]—The showing of an injury to plaintiff while a passenger from a cause within the carrier's control or incident to the carriage raises a presumption of negligence. Illustrations of this rule are grouped in the notes.[67] The rule that negligence is implied from the happening of the acci-

55. Permitting use of offensive language in presence of female. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 565.

56. Other facts alleged may remove the necessity of an averment that the place of a stop was "unsafe" or "dangerous." Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314.

57. To recover for a willful injury, it is not sufficient to allege the willful starting of a car without alleging that defendant intended willfully and purposely to injure plaintiff. Union Traction Co. v. Lowe [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 1021.

58. Act 1898 (22 Stat. 693). Steedman v. South Carolina, etc., R. Co., 66 S. C. 542, 45 S. E. 84.

59. Petition held to state cause of action. Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 846.

60. A complaint disclosing the fact that plaintiff, voluntarily and without reason, left the train while it was in motion, under circumstances rendering such action dangerous, as he must have known, is demurrable. Complaint alleged that on account of darkness plaintiff believed train had stopped. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 1006. It is not necessary for a declaration for injury to a passenger riding on the platform of an electric street car to show that it was necessary for plaintiff to stand there. Not per se negligence. Brunnchow v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I] 58 A. 656.

61. See Pleading, 2 Curr. L. 1178.

62. Immaterial: Between averments of negligence and proof of an assault where the complaint discloses all the circumstances. Moritz v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 162. Where place of accident is stated, erroneous averment of the particular one of the defendant's lines on which it was. Powell v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 88 App. Div. 133, 84 N. Y. S. 337. Allegation that bearings were overheated and proof that plate over wheel was overheated. Id. Between an allegation of failure to afford time to alight and proof that plaintiff individually had time to alight but injury was occasioned by a pause to assist a child with her. Hannon v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 216, 77 S. W. 158. Proof that car suddenly started held not variant from petition. Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 846.

Material: Proof of a smooth start before gates were closed does not support allegation of sudden and violent start throwing plaintiff to platform. Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Shaw, 203 Ill. 39, 67 N. E. 374.

63. Negligence: Evidence that just as plaintiff attempted to step from the car, the train gave a lurch, tends to support an allegation that the train was, as plaintiff was about to alight, suddenly and violently moved. Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Shaw, 203 Ill. 39, 67 N. E. 374.

Contributory negligence: Where contributory negligence is not pleaded, evidence that plaintiff, having a weak ankle, was negligent in alighting, is inadmissible. Bailey v. Seattle & R. R. Co., 32 Wash. 640, 73 P. 679.

Nature and extent of injuries: Under allegation of inflammation of the ovaries, evidence of its effect on other organs may be introduced. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. McCutcheon [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 232. Evidence of special paralyzing effects may be given under averment of permanent injury to spine. Grady v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 212, 76 S. W. 673.

64. Petition held to require proof of all acts of negligence alleged. Williams v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45. Where the petition charges two acts of negligence jointly, both must be proved. Raising water hose in car door and starting train suddenly. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566.

65. Complaint averring failure to stop according to ordinance and acceleration of speed as plaintiff attempted to board, and in another count a stop and start suddenly on his attempt to board does not require an election. Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838.

66. See 1 Curr. L. 486.

dent does not apply where happenings are ordinarily incident to the prosecution of the carrier's business in the usual manner or accidents not such as do not usually occur without negligence,[68] and the rule applies only to passengers.[69] The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur may be relied on though there is an unsuccessful attempt to prove the precise cause.[70] Where the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur does not apply, plaintiff must prove negligence and in some states absence of contributory negligence.[71]

The burden of establishing facts raising the presumption is on plaintiff,[72] and thereafter the carrier has the burden of showing contributory negligence or excepted

67. City & S. R. Co. v. Svedborg, 20 App. D. C. 543; Rowdin v. Pa. R. Co., 208 Pa. 623, 57 A. 1125; Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197; Fitch v. Mason City, etc., Traction Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 618.

Facts raising presumption: Jerk while passenger was boarding and before she had time to reach a place of safety. Stoddard v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 33. That a hand rail gives way while being used by a person attempting to board. McCarty v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 7. Collision of two trains running in opposite directions on the same track. Hedrix v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 495. Car of another company taking the wrong track at a switch operated by the company in whose car plaintiff was riding causing a collision. Klinger v. United Traction Co., 92 App. Div. 100, 87 N. Y. S. 864. Collision due to defective appliance on another car of the same company. Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49. Acts inducing a passenger to jump on well grounded fear of injury from an impending collision. Id. Derailment. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 349, 98 N. W. 884; International, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 439. Proof of freedom from contributory negligence of injury from derailment. Heyde v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 537, 77 S. W. 127. That platform gate swung open allowing plaintiff to fall. Aston v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 999. Heating by friction of a plate in car floor. Powell v. Hudson Valley R. Co., 88 App. Div. 133, 84 N. Y. S. 337. Falling of trolley pole. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087. Evidence that burning out of fuse produced a flame greater in intensity and duration than could have resulted had it been in proper condition. Cassady v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 156, 68 N. E. 10. Injury from mailpouch hanging beside track. McCord v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 134 N. C. 53, 45 S. E. 1031. Slip on an asphalt pavement while alighting at night in train shed. Barnes v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 42 Misc. 622, 87 N. Y. S. 608. Breaking of a plank in platform. Leveret v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 110 La. 399, 34 So. 579. Start while passenger is alighting after stop. Denver Consol. Tramway Co. v. Rush [Colo. App.] 73 P. 664. That train failed to stop a sufficient length of time to allow plaintiff to get on board and was started with a sudden jerk while plaintiff was on the lower step of the platform. St. John v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 235. That plaintiff, a passenger, desiring to transfer after notice to change was given and the car had stopped apparently to permit such change, was injured by its sudden starting. United R. & Elec. Co. v. Woodbridge, 97 Md. 629, 55 A. 444. Evidence of negligence of horse-car driver held for jury where horses swerved and upset car. Doolin v. Omnibus Cable Co., 140 Cal. 369, 73 P. 1060. Plaintiff thrown from electric car by sudden jerk or lurch. Fitch v. Mason City, etc., Traction Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 618. Collision of car, running at high speed, with wagon. Thurston v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 395. Passenger on street car injured while attempting to alight. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. The fact that a collision results from cars being run in opposite directions on the same track is prima facie evidence of negligence. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158. Contra, Palmer v. Warren St. R. Co., 206 Pa. 574, 56 A. 49. Derailment of car. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126; Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 201. Train breaking in two. Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1034.

68. Not implied where passenger on mixed train was thrown down while coupling is being made in the ordinary way. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Humphrey [Miss.] 36 So. 154. Burning out of fuse. Cassady v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 156, 68 N. E. 10. The burden, in an action for personal injuries resulting from collision of two street cars, is on plaintiff to make out his case by a preponderance of the evidence. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856. To shift burden, plaintiff must show that accident occurred through defendant's fault. Injury while alighting from car. Peck v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 617, 77 S. W. 736. The fact that a passenger is injured by something under the control of the carrier is not necessarily prima facie evidence of negligence. Struck by an obstacle near the track. Allen v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 204.

69. Not to one boarding car to induce those in charge to make extra trip. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219.

70. Burning out of fuse. Cassady v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 156, 68 N. E. 10. Where a portion of the counts charge general negligence, a prima facie case arises from proof of the injury though negligence specifically alleged has not been established. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087.

71. Action by passenger in coach. Taillon v. Mears [Mont.] 74 P. 421.

72. Instructions held to state the rule properly. Kefauver v. Phila. & R. R. Co., 122 F. 966.

cause unless plaintiff's proof tends to show such defenses.[73] The burden on defendant is discharged by showing that the injury complained of was caused by plaintiff's want of care.[74]

Statutory provisions that proof of injury inflicted by the running of locomotives or cars is prima facie evidence of negligence do not apply to injuries to passengers.[75]

Admissibility of evidence.[76]—Decisions as to the admissibility of evidence in actions by passengers for personal injuries are collected in the footnotes.[77]

73. Boone v. Oakland Transit Co., 139 Cal. 490, 73 P. 243. Where one is injured in getting on or off a moving car, he has the burden of showing why the case should go to the jury as an exception. Hunterson v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. 568, 55 A. 543. In Indiana, the burden is on defendant to show contributory negligence, and does not shift [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 359a] (Harris v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 407), and the burden of proof of assumption of risk is on defendant (Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 935; Rowdin v. Pa. R. Co., 208 Pa. 623, 57 A. 1125).

74. City & S. R. Co. v. Svedborg, 20 App. D. C. 543.

75. Rev. Code 1892, § 1808. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Humphrey [Miss.] 36 So. 154.

76. See 1 Curr. L. 487.

77. Prior and subsequent occurrences and conditions: Evidence of prior assaults and newspaper accounts of occurrences at its park are admissible to show negligence of carrier toward a colored person assaulted at its amusement park. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Dawson, 31 Ind. App. 605, 68 N. E. 909. Sudden jolts at the same point in the track on prior occasions. Nashville R. R. v. Howard [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1098. Breaking of rails at other and nearby points on the road. Whittlesey v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa, 597, 97 N. W. 66. Previous condition of gate. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 793. Evidence as to difficulty in starting a sliding car door on the same or similar cars is incompetent where the injury was not shown to have been from the difficulty of starting, or that the cars were in the same condition. Williams v. Citizens' Elec. St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 437, 68 N. E. 840. Condition of track 13 months after accident is inadmissible. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 884. Evidence as to whether other passengers were injured in the collision. Mullin v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1021. Evidence of the condition of a switch eight days after the accident. Logan v. Metropolitan St. Ry. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126. That another passenger had fallen at the same place is admissible. Holzhauser v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 145, 88 N. Y. S. 269. It was proper for a witness who had worked for the company to testify how often coupling had become uncoupled or broken. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Bynum, 139 Ala. 389, 36 So. 736. Evidence that many persons had previously ridden on seat where plaintiff was sitting when thrown off electric car admissible to show that plaintiff was using seat provided for passengers or used by them with defendant's consent. Fitch v. Mason City & C. L. Traction Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 618. Where a passenger was injured by falling on a greasy platform, evidence that shortly afterwards great crowds departed from the platform in safety was inadmissible. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1069. Where one was injured while standing on an inner footboard by a car going in the opposite direction, reports to the carrier of other accidents from the same cause are hearsay. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142.

Rules, regulations, and records of carrier: Rules directing method of operation of which complaints are made are admissible. Frizzell v. Omaha St. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 176. A company rule in violation of a city ordinance pleaded is inadmissible. Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838. Regulations and customs of which plaintiff does not know are inadmissible. Custom to stop away from crossing. United R. & Elec. Co. v. Hertel, 97 Md. 382, 55 A. 428. On an issue as to whether a car was stopped when plaintiff began to board it, a rule previously adopted requiring cars to stop there is admissible, as also evidence of previous stops. Nassau Elec. R. Co. v. Corliss [C. C. A.] 126 F. 355. Evidence that the carrier had no record of the accident was admissible. Shadletsky v. New York City R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1014.

Opinions. See Evidence, 1 Curr. L. 1136. Persons accustomed to railroad travel may give opinions as to speed of a car. Aston v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 999. Not a subject of expert testimony whether a heavy car when derailed would disturb the alignment of the rails. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 349, 98 N. W. 884. Error in admission of evidence as to distance in which train might be stopped is harmless where the undisputed evidence showed that the train could not have been stopped in time to prevent the collision. International, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 439. Of nonexperts as to physical condition of plaintiff after injury, admissible. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. That he appeared to be suffering. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774. A medical expert may give his own opinion, in view of the statement of facts, that the injury was the cause of the disease or condition found in the injured person. Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152. Of nonexperts as to speed of car, admissible. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. Where the jury saw the plan of the car, the dimensions and distances between the track, expert evidence as to whether it was dangerous for passengers to stand on an inner footboard was inadmissible. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142.

Statements of employes: Statements by Sufficiency of evidence.[78]—The presence or absence of due care must be determined from all the facts and circumstances appearing in the particular case, and is usually for the jury.[79] Cases in which the sufficiency of evidence to establish particular grounds of recovery, or to authorize submission of the question to the jury, has been considered, are grouped in the footnotes.[80] Where a street is ob-conductor after returning to the car after having gone back half a block to a fallen passenger are not res gestae. Boone v. Oakland Transit Co., 139 Cal. 490, 73 P. 243. Declaration of brakeman showing that rounding of curve caused plaintiff's hand to be caught in door held res gestae. Trumbull v. Donahue [Colo. App.] 72 P. 684. Evidence as to what was said and done by the conductor is admissible where plaintiff alleges that she was negligently carried by her destination and that the conductor treated her rudely and on her return trip wantonly carried her beyond her stopping place. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Shaw, 110 Tenn. 467, 75 S. W. 713. Statements by car starter after the accident and when not engaged in the company's business are inadmissible. Wimmer v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 258, 86 N. Y. S. 1052. That plaintiff asked conductor to let her off at certain place and that he said he would, admissible. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. Declarations made by a conductor immediately after the injury were not res gestae. Nelson v. Georgia, etc., R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 722.

Remarks of bystanders: Statements of passengers in response to request to ring a signal to stop are immaterial. Boone v. Oakland Transit Co., 139 Cal. 490, 73 P. 243. Statements of injured party made to physicians in course of treatment. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774. Complaints and expressions of pain made by passenger forcibly ejected from train held admissible. Battis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 543. In an action for personal injuries it is competent to prove expressions of pain or suffering or the indication of such condition by groans or inarticulate cries. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 201. Error in allowing plaintiff's husband to state that she made complaints, immaterial. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28.

Contributory negligence: Possession of accident policy does not show contributory negligence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106. Warrant for plaintiff's arrest, of which she is not shown to have had knowledge, is inadmissible to show an attempt to leave the train before it reached the station. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 340. That passenger was warned of danger of standing or walking in the aisle is improperly excluded. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Humphrey [Miss.] 36 So. 154. An altercation with motorman over fare is admissible in action for failure to obey signal to stop as justifying plaintiff's attempt to leave the car while in motion believing he would be carried farther. Fuller v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 940. In action for injury to his hand by closing of door, plaintiff may show crowded condition of the train causing him to assume the position he was in. Trumbull v. Donahue [Colo. App.] 72 P. 684. In an action for injury by contact with a stone on a wagon passing a street car, evidence of the noise made by the stone striking the car before it reached plaintiff's seat is admissible. Jones v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 57 A. 620. Plaintiff may corroborate his evidence of his position by the evidence of others who noticed him. Trumbull v. Donahue [Colo. App.] 72 P. 684. City ordinance making it an offense for passengers to jump off moving cars held inadmissible. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 780.

Miscellaneous matters: Notice of defect in a street railroad is admissible without regard to the source. Notice from railroad commissioners is admissible though a statute provides that their advice shall not impair legal rights and duties [Laws 1890, p. 1131, c. 565, § 162, as amended by Laws 1892, p. 1416, c. 676]. Baruth v. Poughkeepsie City, etc., R. Co., 89 App. Div. 324, 85 N. Y. S. 822. A failure to maintain a fence may be shown as bearing on negligence where injury was caused by collision with cattle. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 439. Age, height, and weight of plaintiff may be shown in action for assault. Birmingham R. L. & P. Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614, 35 So. 701. Plaintiff may show how many times conductor cursed as part of res gestae in action for assault. Id. Where evidence of a violent jerk is introduced without objection, it cannot be withdrawn where the averment was that the car was negligently started so as to throw plaintiff against it and injure her. Plum v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 827.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 488.

79. Of passenger injured by falling over freight on platform. Matthieson v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 51.

80. Taking on passengers: Pushing passenger from train. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Holcomb, 25 Ky. L. R. 1444, 78 S. W. 205; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Tems [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 230. Negligent striking of wharf boat throwing intending passenger into water. Louisville & E. Mail Co. v. Barnes' Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 2036, 79 S. W. 261. Negligent and premature start of railroad train. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Loewe [Kan.] 74 P. 234. Negligence in striking intending passenger standing on the platform there having been ample space provided and no accidents during three years' heavy use. State v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 56 A. 789. Start while boarding. Deutschmann v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 503, 84 N. Y. S. 887; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Goodman, 119 Ga. 234, 45 S. E. 969. While boarding horse car. Benjamin v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 458. Slipping on icy steps. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Keegan [Ill.] 71 N. E. 321. Defective platform. Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 152. Car backed as plaintiff was getting on. Jaques v. Sioux

structed it is a question for the jury whether a motorman is justified in assuming that he can operate his car and that a driver will use reasonable care to get out of his way.[81] Plaintiff's evidence alone may be sufficient,[82] but not when shown to

City Traction Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1069. Where a passenger alighted from a crowded car to let other passengers off and in attempting to regain his place was injured by the sudden starting of the car, evidence of negligence and contributory negligence was for the jury. Michelson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 501.

Means of transportation: Negligence in maintenance of automatic coupling. Holland v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 508. Ineffective repair of brake. Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406. Defect in car wheel. Greenfield v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 546. Diligence in guarding against broken wheel flanges. Carswell v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 118 Ga. 826, 45 S. E. 695. To show greater flame than should attend burning out of fuse in proper condition. Cassady v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 156, 68 N. E. 10. Failure to lock switch. Heyde v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 537, 77 S. W. 127. Proper loading of logs where a fall of one derailed the train. Greenfield v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 546. Failure to provide proper coupling pin. Birmingham R. L. & P. Co. v. Bynum [Ala.] 36 So. 736. Absence of fenders and conductor. Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197. Whether gate of stock pen which swung loose and struck arm of passenger in passing train was unfastened by a stranger. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 793. Passenger knocked from running board by pillar. Canavan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 491; Cusick v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 758.

81. Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 485, 86 N. Y. S. 1018. Leaving a side foot board open when passing cars render it dangerous. Kreimelmann v. Jourdan [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 323. The question of whether a jerk of a mixed train is unusual or extraordinary in degree is for jury. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Jordan, 25 Ky. L. R. 574, 76 S. W. 145.

Care en route: Question for the jury whether the street was maintained in a safe condition. Freeland v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 132, 88 N. Y. S. 264. Collision between two companies at switch held to impose liability on both. Klinger v. United Traction Co., 92 App. Div. 100, 87 N. Y. S. 864. Negligence of motorman in collision with truck. Smith v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 213, 86 N. Y. S. 1087. Excessive speed of horse car on curve. Vogler v. Central Crosstown R. Co., 83 App. Div. 101, 82 N. Y. S. 485. Causing plaintiff to be thrown from street car at curve. Zimmer v. Fox River Valley Electric R. Co., 118 Wis. 614, 95 N. W. 957. Breaking in two of train. Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1034. Plaintiff thrown by sudden jar. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 132 N. C. 291, 43 S. E. 840. Severe jerk throwing passenger from body of car to street. Ilges v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 529, 77 S. W. 93. Exposing passenger to crowding by intoxicated smoking and disorderly passengers. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Bratcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 531. Misleading passenger as to time to alight. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Jean [Md.] 57 A. 540. Allowing one train to approach another so as to cause imminent danger of collision. Williams v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45. Derailment of street car. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 201. Passenger in elevator, caught between the floor and the top of the door in the elevator cage. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Collins [Ill.] 71 N. E. 396. Passenger's dress caught on an obstruction protruding from an elevator shaft. Goldsmith v. Holland Bldg. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1112. Collision between street car and wagon. Thurston v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 395. Throwing passenger from running board. Sheeron v. Coney Island & B. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 338, 85 N. Y. S. 958. Evidence that plaintiff on approaching the open rear door of the rear coach was thrown through it by a sudden jerk presents an issue of negligence. Field v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 433, 55 A. 241. Running around curve without slackening speed authorizes recovery by passenger compelled to stand on rear platform and thrown therefrom. Gatens v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 App. Div. 311, 85 N. Y. S. 967. Facts held not to show negligence in causing plaintiff to fall from platform by natural or inevitable swing of car rounding curve. Moser v. South Covington & C. St. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 154, 74 S. W. 1090. Valise fell on a passenger. Held insufficient to show negligence. Whiting v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 584. Where a passenger was standing on the running board and was injured by the conductor's dropping a guard rail on his hand, the question of negligence was for the jury. McDonald v. Savannah Elec. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 547. Evidence held to warrant finding that motorman operating larger car than customary was guilty of negligence in allowing it to strike intending passenger. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 865. Motorman set brake unprotected and unguarded so that it came loose and struck passenger. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Shrader [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1094. Evidence in action for injuries received from being thrown off street car by electric shock held sufficient to show defendant's negligence and that plaintiff was not guilty of contributory negligence. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 780. Evidence sufficient to show that decedent's death was due to collision caused by defendant's negligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774. Evidence held for jury in action for assault by third persons at station. Seawell v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 132 N. C. 856, 44 S. E. 610. Whether conductor was negligent in closing sliding door on passenger's hand. Egnstfeld v. Central Crosstown R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 148. Not per se negligent to permit passenger to ride on the running board. Injury through striking tunnel. North Chicago be false in some respects,[83] and the question of where car stopped may be for jury though plaintiff is contradicted by two of her own witnesses;[84] but plaintiff's evidence wholly uncorroborated and contradicted by disinterested witnesses will not sustain a verdict.[85]

St. R. Co. v. Polkey, 203 Ill. 225, 67 N. E. 793. Where a passenger was injured while standing on the inner footboard of a street car, evidence of the carrier's negligence was for the jury. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142. Evidence that a woman, 75 years old, was thrown down by a violent lurch of the car is in the absence of evidence of contributory negligence sufficient to take the question of negligence to the jury. Harty v. New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 422. Negligence becomes a question for the jury when a freight train is started so that a person with a drover's pass is injured while trying to reach the caboose thereon on which he is to ride by being compelled to pass between moving trains, the engineer knowing of his presence, and all other facts concerning the approach of the other train. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Hotchkiss, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 431.

Starting or jerking while passenger is alighting: Evidence held for jury. Koues v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 App. Div. 611, 83 N. Y. S. 380; Gunn v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 241; Fox v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 754; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch [Miss.] 35 So. 941; Meade v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 197; Baker v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 9; City & S. R. Co. v. Svedborg, 20 App. D. C. 543; Kramer v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 33; Bente v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. 213, 86 N. Y. S. 85; Andrews v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 63, 86 N. Y. S. 338; Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28; Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 484; Duffy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 831. Evidence that conductor caused the car to move forward is not necessary though the sole negligence alleged is in starting while passenger was alighting. Jacobson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 309. Question of reasonableness of time afforded to alight is for the jury though plaintiff fell 75 ft. from place of stop since such fact is not conclusive that he jumped off. Lucas v. Marquette City, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 980.

Contributory negligence: Attempting to board a car without knowledge of the position of the gates. Ganz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 579. Attempting to alight to avoid imminent collision. Williams v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45. Attempt to alight before stop. Grabenstein v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 727; Champane v. La Crosse City R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 334; Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406; Lynch v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 935; Maloney v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 638. Alighting in disregard of warning before car stopped. Clancy v. Yonkers R. Co., 88 App. Div. 612, 84 N. Y. S. 789. Stepping off moving train. Rutledge v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 94; Denison & S. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 780. Attempting to alight on uneven ground. Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314. Attempt to alight from a street car as it was starting after a stop. Lee v. Elizabeth, etc., R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 607, 55 A. 106. Passenger thrown in front of car on parallel track. Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 198, 76 S. W. 660. Attempting to use a stile in place of other means of egress from a carrier's grounds. Cotant v. Boone Suburban R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 115. Question of whether intending passenger could have seen ditch and of negligence in failing to warn him, held for jury. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Turney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 256. Evidence of passenger that he was unaware of danger from stone on a passing wagon is not overcome by evidence that the noise made by the stone in striking the car before it reached plaintiff should have been heard. Jones v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 57 A. 620. Where there is no evidence that reasonable time was given plaintiff to reach a place of safety after stopping the car to receive passengers, her contributory negligence need not be submitted. Stoddard v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 33.

Proximate cause: Mere showing that car started is insufficient without showing how it was started or that it caused plaintiff to fall while boarding. Meyerowitz v. Interurban St. R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 233. Evidence held to show that spinal trouble resulted from physical hurts other than an electric shock for the injuries from which recovery could not be had. Perry v. Detroit United R. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 17. Evidence held insufficient to connect injury to passenger's finger from defective door with his subsequent fainting and falling from train, or to show that injury was occasioned by the door. Williams v. Citizens' Elec. St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 437, 68 N. E. 840. Evidence held sufficient in action for injuries from collision to establish cause of injury. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Stancel, 118 Ga. 142, 44 S. E. 975. Question held for jury as to whether accident was result of sudden start as passenger was alighting or of intoxication from morphine or whiskey. Miller v. South Covington, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 207, 74 S. W. 747. Conflicting evidence as to cause of injury being attempt to leave moving car or sudden start held for jury. Scamell v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 1021.

82. That the car started while she was alighting. Koues v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 App. Div. 611, 83 N. Y. S. 380. Where it is the only positive evidence of the manner of the accident. Field v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 433, 55 A. 241.

83. Where evidence conflicted and a passenger falsely testified that he was in a certain coach where injured a verdict for him will not be permitted to stand. Chiavarelli v. New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 869. On contradictory evidence as to cause of passenger falling, a judgment for him could not be sustained. Mullarkey v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 699.

84. Gold v. Dry Dock, etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 1017.

Where a passenger was last seen going out of a car toward the next which he did not enter, there being no evidence of intent to commit suicide, it is a fair inference that he was thrown from the train by a lurch.[86]

Where evidence is undisputed tending to show possession of a transfer, failure to produce it at the trial is not fatal.[87] Slight evidence, uncontradicted, is sufficient to support ownership by defendant where not an issue but an inducement to the general charge of negligence averred.[88]

On trial of an action to recover for use of indecent language, the plaintiff must state the particular language used by other passengers as near as possible; it is not sufficient that she state they cursed, and used vulgar and obscene language.[89]

Confusing and misleading instructions.[90]—Instructions as to paramount right of defendant to use of tracks are properly refused where liability on collision with vehicles has been correctly stated.[91] Decisions as to the definiteness and clearness of instructions or their contradictory character are grouped in the notes.[92]

Instructions as to burden of proof.—Proper instructions as to the burden of proof are indicated in the notes.[93]

85. Start while alighting. Manning v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 1122. Verdict set aside on contradiction in plaintiff's evidence in action for injuries in boarding street car. Northington v. Norfolk R. & L. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 476.

86. Robinson v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 689.

87, 88. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087.

89. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 565.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 490.

91. Frank v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 App. Div. 485, 86 N. Y. S. 1018.

92. Not erroneous: To allude to fact that defendant is not a corporation while holding him to the liability of a common carrier. Crump v. Davis [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 887. A reference to collecting fares in a charge as to the duty of a conductor toward a passenger about to board the car was not objectionable. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995. To allow conductor to be included in instruction as to burden of proof of negligence being on plaintiff though there was no evidence that the conductor was negligent. City & S. R. Co. v. Svedborg, 194 U. S. 201, 24 S. Ct. 656. As to effect of having no conductor on a street car criticised. Root v. Des Moines R. Co. [Iowa] 98 N. W. 291. Modification of instruction as to relative rights of street car and private vehicle held not prejudicial. Doolin v. Omnibus Cable Co., 140 Cal. 369, 73 P. 1060.

Misleading: A charge that the negligence relied on was a sudden jerk sufficient to throw the passenger from the train need not add "thus causing the injury resulting in his death." Pa. Co. v. Paul [C. C. A.] 126 F. 157. Stating that carriers are not "absolute" insurers is not erroneous as warranting inference that they are in some degree insurers. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 349, 98 N. W. 884. As fixing liability on showing of collision and consequent injury. Houston Elec. Co. v. Nelson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 978.

Conflicting: As to when liability as carrier began. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Beard [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 253. Instruction modified as to cessation of liability to passenger as such. Louisville R. Co. v. Meglemery, 25 Ky. L. R. 2062, 79 S. W. 287.

Not conflicting: As to rule of care, burden of proof of defendant's ownership and presumption of negligence. Chicago City R. Co. v. Carroll, 206 Ill. 318, 68 N. E. 1087. Where the causes of a jerk as alleged are summed up, it is misleading for the court to add "or for any other cause which could have been guarded against by the exercise," etc. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Jolly, 161 Ind. 80, 67 N. E. 936. Imposing duty of holding street car until passengers were seated. Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838.

93. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 349, 98 N. W. 884; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Brown [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 407. Held not to throw burden of proof in whole case on plaintiff without distinguishing contributory negligence alleged in the answer. Peck v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 617, 77 S. W. 736. Held not to impose on plaintiff burden of showing that the sudden starting of a car could have been prevented by the high degree of care incumbent on the carrier. Reagan v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 435. Held error as placing the proof of absence of contributory negligence on plaintiff. St. John v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 236. Instruction, "with a reasonable degree of certainty," that decedent's death was due to the injury received, held erroneous as requiring too high a degree of proof. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774. As to burden of proof approved. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856; Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. Instructions as to burden of proof not uncertain in referring to claims of plaintiff, or as to "circumstances" which jury might consider in support of presumption as to negligence, and approved. Fitch v. Mason City, etc., Traction Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 618. Instructions as to burden of proof in action for death through negligence in operating street car, approved. Lincoln Traction Co.

Instructions invading province of jury.[94]—The existence of negligence or facts in issue should not be assumed.[95] The charge should not assume mitigating circumstances.[96] A special interrogatory does not assume the fact of injury by requiring a finding of whether a defective condition of a track contributed to the injury of plaintiff.[97] On the other hand, questions of law should not be submitted.[98]

Instructions emphasizing or omitting particular facts.[99]—Where facts are grouped in an instruction all that are material should be considered and prominence given to none.[1]

v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197. In action for injuries to passenger, charge that plaintiff started with undertaking on him to prove negligence includes request that if collision was not due to defendant's negligence, plaintiff could not recover. Savage v. Marlborough St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 531. In an action for injuries caused by collision, where defendant offers no explanation of the accident, an instruction that the mere fact of the collision was not evidence of negligence is improper. Id. Instruction as to presumption of negligence arising from plaintiff's injury, approved. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126. Proper to give such instruction though the cause of the accident was known. Id.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 490.

95. Should not assume plaintiff's drunkenness where controverted. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614, 35 So. 701. Must not exclude from jury question of whether runaway was unavoidable. Taillon v. Mears [Mont.] 74 P. 421. Error to instruct as to facts rendering the sufferance of a tree to stand where it might fall across the track negligence, unless such as to constitute negligence per se. Ala. Midland R. Co. v. Guilford, 119 Ga. 523, 46 S. E. 655. An instruction assuming absence of negligence cannot be given where the question is properly for the jury. City & S. R. Co. v. Svedborg, 194 U. S. 201, 24 S. Ct. 656. Should not assume an issue of fact as to distance plaintiff was compelled to walk through failure to stop car. Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 535.

Held proper: As not assuming that car was stopped when plaintiff attempted to alight. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 415. As to liability toward person boarding car held not to withdraw defendant's negligence as a question of fact. Doering v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 42 Misc. 192, 85 N. Y. S. 400. In action by person pushed off of train held good on criticisms that it was on the facts and failed to submit contributory negligence. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Tems [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 230. Held not to inform the jury that they should find for plaintiff as a matter of law in case his version of an accident while alighting from a car was true. Bente v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 App. Div. 213, 86 N. Y. S. 85. Held not to assume that speed was dangerous. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Constans, 25 Ky. L. R. 158, 74 S. W. 705. Instruction as to alighting from moving train not bad as assuming that an admitted fact was a material issue. Harris v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1023.

Held improper: Instruction as to negligence of passenger in exposing himself to cinders. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Flood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1106. Instruction that mere fact of collision with wagon does not show liability. Houston Elec. Co. v. Nelson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 978. Charge that fact that passenger was "compelled to walk" and the "discomforts, inconvenience, and expense which are shown by the proofs in this case." Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Hooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 113. Where the defendant has introduced evidence tending to show that it has used proper care to avoid the accident, a charge that the fact of injury is prima facie evidence of negligence which the defendant must rebut by a showing of such care. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Parks [Tex.] 76 S. W. 740.

96. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614, 35 So. 701.

97. Cronk v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 349, 98 N. W. 884.

98. As to liability for injuries due to sudden starting of car when plaintiff was about to alight, not objectionable as submitting a question of law to be determined as one of fact. Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 484.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 491.

1. Instructions approved in action for defective gate. Aston v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 999. Instructions as to duty to find by preponderance of evidence that plaintiff's attempt to alight before stop caused injuries held not to ignore other issues as to contributory negligence. Kennedy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 77. Held not to give undue prominence to stop of car. Peck v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 617, 77 S. W. 736. Held error as omitting question of whether conductor in mounting car displaced plaintiff's footing. Fleming v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 217, 74 S. W. 382. Held not erroneous as withdrawing question of plaintiff's intoxication. Lawson v. Seattle & R. R. Co., 34 Wash. 500, 76 P. 71. Where only evidence of contributory negligence was in passing vacant seat such fact may be made the basis of an instruction without giving it undue prominence. Pelly v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 542. Where there is no evidence of contributory negligence, it is not error to ignore the question in instructions. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158. Instruction attempting to limit effect of evidence as to time when ticket office was opened to point as to whether plaintiff exercised sufficient care in boarding train. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Cannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 778. Instruction as to contributory negligence of plaintiff in getting off moving train not objectionable as singling out and giving prominence to an uncontroverted fact. Harris v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1023.

Conformity of instructions with evidence.[2]—The instructions must be justified by the evidence.[3]

Conformity of instructions with issues.[4]—The issues must be defined,[5] and instructions must not be given as to matters not in issue,[6] but issues should not be ignored.[7]

2. See 1 Curr. L. 491.

3. A count unsupported by the evidence should be withdrawn from consideration. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Polkey, 203 Ill. 225, 67 N. E. 793. Where plaintiff's evidence is confined to a fall from catching her foot in a hole under defendant's rail, it is proper to confine the jury to such issue. Howland v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 683.

Instructions held supported by evidence: Alluding to "wreck and derailment." San Antonio Traction Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 977. That negligence must be direct and proximate cause of injury. Pelly v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 542. As to attempt to board being at conductor's direction. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Turney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 256. As to negligence in care of tracks and switches. Heyde v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 537, 77 S. W. 127. As to humiliation and disgrace in assault case. Sonnen v. St. Louis Transfer Co., 102 Mo. App. 271, 76 S. W. 691. As to exemplary damages for failure to stop car. Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 535. As to contributory negligence. Williams v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45. Evidence held to require issue of contributory negligence in boarding crowded train and in not holding baby himself in action for failure to furnish seat, compelling wife to stand and hold child. Tex., etc., R. Co. v. Rea [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 939. Instruction not erroneous in assuming that motorman of street car was under direction of conductor. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219.

Instructions held unsupported: Imposing liability in case plaintiff was thrown from a train by other than defendant's agents or if they negligently permitted other persons to do so. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Board, 25 Ky. L. R. 2180, 80 S. W. 218. That plaintiff assumed a position of peril on car steps at a stop for his convenience in getting off at a point farther on. Fleming v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 217, 74 S. W. 382. As to effect of extraordinary demand for transportation as excusing failure to furnish proper cars. Tex. & P. R. Co. v. Bratcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 531. As to duty to protect premises away from station. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Turney [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 256. As to remote and proximate cause in injury to passenger from striking gate of stock pen. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 793. As to duty being only to exercise such diligence in providing extra accommodations under the circumstances as a very prudent person would exercise under similar circumstances. Tex., etc., R. Co. v. Rea [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 939. As to injury being caused by natural lateral motion on curve and not sudden jerk. Eikenberry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 360. Instructions as to duty as to alighting from moving car need not have been given where there is a finding that the car was at a stand. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Brown [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 407. Instruction as to duty not to start while passenger is alighting is not proper on evidence of a sudden start before coming to a full stop. Boone v. Oakland Transit Co., 139 Cal. 490, 73 P. 243. Issue of discovered peril is not presented by information by passenger to conductor on entering the car that she was sick and needed assistance. Pelly v. Denison & S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 542. Charge as to contributory negligence of passenger getting on train, erroneous because no evidence of the facts therein stated. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Cannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 778. Instruction as to negligence of motorman in starting car, erroneous as assuming existence of facts contradicted by the evidence. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 491.

5. Petition merely alleged that plaintiff was a passenger and was injured, but did not refer the accident to any negligence of the carrier. Instructions for carrier withdrew every phase of case on which negligence could be predicated. Instructions given for plaintiff were indefinite. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142.

6. Plea of negligence in leaving moving car will not support instruction on assuming dangerous position. Fleming v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 101 Mo. App. 217, 74 S. W. 382. Error to instruct as to duty to provide competent men and proper cars when not in issue. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Vinson, 25 Ky. L. R. 38, 74 S. W. 671. It is error to instruct on willful injury as removing liability for contributory negligence, where the issues and evidence do not present such theory. Jacobson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 309. Instruction held not objectionable as allowing a recovery for a sudden stop after a start not pleaded. Hastings v. Boland [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1017. Where a passenger was pushed off the platform because of a panic immediately before a collision, an instruction based on the theory that he was injured by the collision was not erroneous. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158. It is proper to refuse an instruction on the issue of discovered peril, when such issue is not raised by the evidence. Harris v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1023.

7. Defendant held entitled to instruction as to duty toward passenger in moving car forward after alighting passenger had cleared it. Louisville R. Co. v. Meglemery, 25 Ky. L. R. 1587, 78 S. W. 217. Instruction in assault case held not erroneous as omitting theory of self-defense on part of conductor. Sonnen v. St. Louis Transfer Co., 102 Mo. App. 271, 76 S. W. 691. Negligence alleged in failing to have an employe in attendance

Instructions as to the extent of the carrier's liability,[8] where the decisions appear to be based on the form, are considered in the notes. The substantive law of liability has already been treated.[9] An abstract definition of the degree of care to assist in alighting should not be ignored. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armes [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 77. Where complaint was founded on negligence of defendant's employes in suddenly raising a water hose which passed through a car door and in suddenly starting the train, instruction held not erroneous for failure to include negligence in placing the hose in such position. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 491.

9. See ante, § 23 et seq.

Approved: As to effect of arm being outside of street car, without additional charge that it was negligence in the passenger to allow his arm to protrude. Zeliff v. New Jersey St. R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 541, 56 A. 96. As to effect of failure to see intending passenger's signal. Clinton v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 91 App. Div. 374, 86 N. Y. S. 932. As to duty of carrier and passenger as to mail pouch suspended by the track. McCord v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 53, 45 S. E. 1031. That cars should stop at certain point held not to impose duty without regard to whether there were intending passengers. Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838. Use of word "slowly" in instruction as describing speed of car. Dawson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 277, 76 S. W. 689. Use of "stopped still" instead of "stopped" is not error. Peck v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 617, 77 S. W. 736. "Human skill and foresight" need not be defined where the instructions required the carrier to keep tracks only in "reasonably safe condition." Nashville R. R. v. Howard (Tenn.) 78 S. W. 1098. Failure to define "utmost care, skill and vigilance." Fillingham v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 573, 77 S. W. 314. Failure to define "highest degree of care." Ilgee v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 529, 77 S. W. 93. Striking from instruction of phrase as to implied invitation from slowing car. Eikenberry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 360. Held not to make the carrier an insurer of the condition of a car. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1036. Held not to include elements not necessary to discharge of defendant's liability. Champane v. La Crosse City R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 334. Jury may be instructed that there can be no recovery for injury from alleged defective premises at a station, if the conditions were usual and the usual conditions were safe. Howland v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 683. Instructions as to duty to furnish information as to where a passenger would find his train and as to failure to make inquiry for a train held proper. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1069. As to degree of care required of carrier, approved. International, etc., R. Co. v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 821. Charge requiring jury to find for plaintiff if train was negligently started while she was getting aboard, approved. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Cannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 778. Instruction as to negligence of defendant not erroneous for failure to require that it must have "proximately" contributed to the injuries complained of. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566. Instruction as to degree of care on part of carrier not objectionable as calculated to mislead jury as to the decisive issue which it was called upon to determine. Abbitt v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 484. Defining negligence in action for injuries resulting from being struck by brake handle, approved. Kentucky, etc., R. Co. v. Shrader [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1094. As to negligence of motorman in action for injuries resulting from collision of two street cars, not objectionable as failing to specify which was meant. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856. As to degree of care required of carrier, approved. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. Instruction as to speed of electric cars, approved. Fitch v. Mason City & C. L. T. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 618. Instructions as to degree of care required of defendant, approved. Not objectionable as making defendant insurer, or as assuming that defendant was negligent in not providing guard for seat. Id. Instruction as to liability for assault on passenger by employe, approved. Garvik v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 498. Instruction in regard to right to recover if defendant was negligent and plaintiff was not, approved. Matthieson v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 51. Definition of proximate cause, approved. Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1034. Instructions as to kind of care owed by carrier to passenger about to alight and the care which she should have exercised, held proper. Houghton v. Louisville R. Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 696.

Disapproved: In an action against a street railway company for personal injuries to a passenger who was thrown down when the car rounded a curve, it was proper to refuse to instruct that if the jury found that the car was not going at an improper speed they should find for defendant, since irregularity of motion might have caused the accident. Brierly v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 451. Error to charge that liability as to elevators is same as other carriers, without stating what that is. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Collins [Ill.] 71 N. E. 396. Instruction making negligence to depend on whether room enough was left for passengers on platform, and whether plaintiff could have discovered obstruction had she looked, improper. Matthieson v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 51. As rendering initial carrier liable for failure of connecting carrier to warm car furnished by former, disapproved. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison [Tex.] 80 S. W. 1139. That it was the duty of the carrier to provide reasonably safe cars and to cause them to be operated in a reasonably safe manner, erroneous. Citizens' R. Co. v. Sinclair [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329. Instruction in action for injuries to passenger resulting from starting car when she was about to get off, held erroneous, as precluding recovery unless car stopped for purpose of letting off passengers. Houghton v. Louisville R. Co., required of the carrier in setting down passengers is not requisite where the duty under the particular facts is stated.[10] Defendant is entitled to have the issue of proper care submitted to the jury in terms.[11] An instruction as to care due an alighting passenger must not omit element of notice to carrier of his intention.[12]

Instructions as to contributory negligence[13] should not be given where the issue is not presented.[14] As to the propriety of particular instructions, see the footnote.[15]

Instructions cured by other instructions.[16]—The instructions are to be construed as a whole,[17] and defects may be so cured.[18]

26 Ky. L. R. 393, 81 S. W. 695. Instructions making a failure of the passenger to exercise ordinary care a bar to recovery, without the condition that it must have contributed to the injury, are erroneous. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Cannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 778. It is error to submit the question of negligence without instructing as to what constitutes. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1158. An instruction that the duty of the motorman and conductor is to exercise toward passengers the highest degree of care consistent with the proper discharge of their other duties is erroneous. Foster v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 995.

10. Henning v. Louisville R. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2419, 74 S. W. 209.

11. Houston Elec. Co. v. Nelson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 978.

12. Texas Southern R. Co. v. Long [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 114.

13. See 1 Curr. L. 492.

14. In the absence of plea of contributory negligence, jury need not be instructed that issue is not in case. Duffy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 831. Where plaintiff claimed that she was shoved from a train and defendant denied that, or that she even fell therefrom, an instruction as to contributory negligence is not justified. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Halcomb, 25 Ky. L. R. 1444, 78 S. W. 205.

15. Approved: Shealey v. South Carolina & G. R. Co. [S. C.] 45 S. E. 119. Leaving moving train, approved. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Massay [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 585. Held not to require contributory negligence to be sole cause of injury. Louisville R. Co. v. Neglemery, 25 Ky. L. R. 1587, 78 S. W. 217. Held not to require plaintiff to be justified in attempting to escape apparent danger to be in imminent danger of losing his life or of receiving great bodily injury. Williams v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45. Held not to charge that certain facts constituted contributory negligence. Id. Held not to give undue prominence to defense. Id. Held not erroneous as not limiting speed at which passenger might attempt to board car apparently slowing to receive him, when evidence showed it was moving slowly. Maguire v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 838. Held not to require finding that plaintiff was negligent in addition to fact of sufficient stop in order to relieve defendant, when plaintiff was injured while attempting to board train. International, etc., R. Co. v. Anchonda [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 557. Instruction submitting to the jury the question of whether an attempt to alight while the train was in motion necessarily contributed to plaintiff's fall, held not prejudicial. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armes [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 77. As to contributory negligence of plaintiff in attempting to leave moving car, approved. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 780. As to degree of care required of passenger, approved. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28. Defendant entitled to instruction that failure to stop street car and give plaintiff an opportunity to alight did not give plaintiff right to jump from moving car. McDonald v. City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 592.

Disapproved: That high care which a person of ordinary prudence, etc., places too great a duty on plaintiff as a charge on contributory negligence. St. John v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 235. Instruction held erroneous as directing finding for plaintiff, unless they found an absence of all care in alighting after the train started, after a stop at her station. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Coons, 25 Ky. L. R. 509, 76 S. W. 45. Particular form of instruction as to contributory negligence in boarding train in motion held properly refused. International, etc., R. Co. v. Anchonda [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 557. Instruction as to voluntary assumption by plaintiff of danger in boarding car which had made its last regular trip, erroneous. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219. Instruction as to duty of carrier to allow sufficient time to alight from street car, and as to contributory negligence in jumping from moving car, held misleading, and not cured by subsequent instruction as to contributory negligence. McDonald v. City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 592. Instruction making question of contributory negligence depend wholly on whether plaintiff looked where she was stepping, properly refused. Mattheson v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 51.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 492.

17. Instruction as to contributory negligence need not be repeated in one as to recovery for mental anguish. International, etc., R. Co. v. Anchonda [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 557.

18. Instruction failing to postulate knowledge of relationship before award of damage for anguish of plaintiff in being separated from her children by being thown from train while attempting to board it, held cured by previous instructions. International, etc., R. Co. v. Anchonda [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 557. Refusal to give abstract instruction as to duties concerning passenger on a log train held cured by other instructions. Greenfield v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 546. Instructions held to cover requested instruction that defendant was not liable if accident resulted from

Part V. Carriage of Baggage and Passengers' Effects.

§ 32. Rights, duties, and liabilities.[19]—A contract to carry a reasonable amount of personal baggage is implied in the contract of carriage,[20] but this implied obligation is limited to such articles as are reasonably required for the comfort or convenience of the passenger and his family having regard to his circumstances, the length of the journey, etc.,[21] and the carrier may refuse to carry other articles except as freight,[22] though there is a statutory provision entitling a passenger to a certain weight of baggage.[23] At common law, there is no fixed limit to the value of baggage, the reasonableness of the quantity for which liability exists being for the jury.[24] Where no partnership or special contract is shown between connecting carriers, one could not be held liable for a loss of baggage by the other.[25]

§ 33. Care of baggage and effects.[26]—The general liability is that of an insurer,[27] but where a passenger does not intend to accompany his baggage, the carrier is in the absence of a special contract liable only as a gratuitous bailee,[28] though a defect in trucks not discoverable by the exercise of the utmost care, skill and diligence. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. Crumpler [C. C. A.] 122 F. 425. Omission of contributory negligence idea held cured by other instructions. Louisville R. Co. v. Meglemery, 25 Ky. L. R. 1587, 78 S. W. 217. Refusal to instruct that if a passenger had failed to exercise the degree of care required of him while standing on an inner footboard, he should not recover, was not cured by charging that if he exercised ordinary care he could recover. Allen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1142. Not error to refuse charge as to proximate cause which was sufficiently covered in main charge. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774. Requested instruction as to contributory negligence covered by that given. Fitch v. Mason City & C. L. T. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 618. Failure to charge what liability rests on "other carriers" cured by instructions enumerating facts which must have been proved. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Collins [Ill.] 71 N. E. 396. As to care required in keeping track in safe condition in action for injuries due to derailment of street car at switch. Any generality therein cured by other instructions. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 493.

20. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 599.

21. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. The term baggage cannot be accurately defined since what it includes depends largely on the circumstances of each particular case. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 599. Woman's clothing and that of her children, fancy work, and miscellaneous ornaments, savings bank and contents, zither key, and small amount of her husband's clothing, all in her trunk, held baggage, where family was moving. Id.

Stage costumes, scenery, furniture, etc., of a traveling theatrical company is not baggage. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. A woman's jewelry and every article pertaining to her wardrobe that may be necessary or convenient to her traveling is baggage. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234. Whether heavy winter clothing is proper baggage on short trip in summer is for the jury. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Meck [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 317. Whether mechanic's tools were proper baggage held for jury. Id. Household goods and articles that generally go as freight such as bedding, lamps, dishes, etc., when family is moving from one state to another, are not ordinarily included, where the carrier has no notice that they are being transported. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 599.

22. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. The fact that the manager of a theatrical troupe bought a ticket for eighteen instead of the fourteen persons he expected to carry does not imply any agreement in respect to free carriage of articles not proper baggage. Id.

23. Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, §§ 708, 709, does not cover butcher's tools to be used in starting in business. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Zwirtz, 13 Okl. 411, 73 P. 941.

24. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234.

25. No evidence that the second had ever received it from the initial carrier. Romero v. McKernan, 88 N. Y. S. 365.

26. Steamship held liable for baggage thrown overboard by officer. De Felice v. Compagnie Francaise De Navigation, 83 App. Div. 73, 82 N. Y. S. 552. See 1 Curr. L. 493.

27. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. The carrier is liable for hand baggage taken into a Pullman car as an insurer unless the passenger in same denies the custody of the employes. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Lillie [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1055. A carrier received a trunk from an expressman, but when the passenger wished to check it it could not be found. The baggage man gave her a check and told her it would be forwarded. Held, the company's relation was that of carrier not warehouseman. Williams v. Central R. Co., 93 App. Div. 582, 88 N. Y. S. 434.

28. Such liability exists where the baggage is checked in the ordinary way in the expectation that it will be accompanied by the owner. Wood v. Me. Cent. R. Co., 98 Me. 98, 55 A. 457. Where the carrier is a mere gratuitous bailee, it is not liable for theft from a trunk deposited in an ordinarily constructed baggage room with the doors a husband may join with his wife in suing on the general liability as to her baggage though not himself a passenger.[29]

The fact that baggage given Pullman porter is not returned shows negligence,[30] but as to hand luggage taken into a day coach, the carrier is not an insurer.[31]

The passenger need not inform carrier at time of delivery to it, of the specific articles contained in baggage,[32] but must exercise good faith to impose liability for unusual or improper articles.[33] The carrier is not liable as bailee for storage of articles improperly shipped as baggage.[34]

§ 34. Limitation of liability.[35]—The carrier may contract for a reasonable limitation of its common-law liability for loss or damage to baggage not resulting from its negligence,[36] or, as a condition, a free pass may require the passenger to assume all risk as to baggage,[37] but a statute permitting limitation does not apply to baggage lost by theft at the station of departure before the passenger had an opportunity to check it.[38]

A statute prohibiting limitation of common-law liability for property is applicable to interstate shipments.[39] A contract in general terms will be construed consistently with law not to release liability for negligence.[40] The passenger must consent to a limitation of liability,[41] and must have notice in such a way as to afford an opportunity for acceptance or rejection.[42] and windows secured in the ordinary manner. Id.

29. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Baldwin [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 599.

NOTE. Liability for baggage not accompanied by passenger: It was recently held in Michigan that one who purchases a railroad ticket for the sole purpose of checking his baggage upon it, with no intention of becoming a passenger on the train, can hold the carrier liable only as a gratuitous bailee of the baggage, and cannot recover in case it is stolen from the baggage room, unless the carrier is guilty of gross negligence. Marshall v. Pontiac, etc., R. Co., 126 Mich. 45, 55 L. R. A. 650. Says the writer of a note to this case in the L. R. A.: "The decision is * * * unexpected and * * * much at variance with the common supposition that the carrier accepts liability for a trunk when it accepts it as baggage and regularly checks it upon a valid ticket, without regard to the owner's transportation on the same train." The writer claims that the authorities most nearly in point are clearly opposed to the decision in the Michigan case and go far to support the contrary doctrine. Among the cases cited by him are: Beers v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 67 Conn. 417, 34 A. 541, 32 L. R. A. 535; Fairfax v. New York, etc., R. Co., 73 N. Y. 167, 29 Am. Rep. 119; Warner v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 22 Iowa, 166, 92 Am. Dec. 389; Black v. The Trent, 18 La. Ann. 664. Two cases cited by the court in the Michigan decision are said not to support that decision: The Elvira Harbeck, 2 Blatchf. 336, Fed. Cas. No. 4,424 and Wilson v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 56 Me. 50, 96 Am. Dec. 435 and 57 Me. 138, 2 Am. Rep. 26. "The reason of the matter seems very clear, in view of the modern development of baggage transportation in this country. * * * Baggage is checked when taken into the carrier's possession and kept in the carrier's exclusive custody and control until it reaches" its destination. Carriers frequently refuse to carry baggage on certain trains. There seems to be no reason for requiring the owner of a ticket to get upon the train which carries his baggage, since he has no control over it. The writer concludes that both reason, based on modern transportation methods, and authority are contrary to the Michigan decision. See case and note in [Mich.] 55 L. R. A. 650.

30. Umbrella. Irving v. Pullman Co., 84 N. Y. S. 248. Where a porter told a passenger he could safely leave his baggage in his berth, and it was stolen while he was absent, evidence held for the jury as to the negligence of the carrier. Arthur v. Pullman Co., 88 N. Y. S. 981.

31. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Lillie [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1055.

32. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234.

33. Liability exists for merchandise accepted with notice and without deception. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15.

34. Liability as warehouseman is not greater than that as carrier. Mo., etc., R. Co. v. Meek [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 317.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 494.

36. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. Passenger held bound by limitation printed on excursion ticket. Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 208 Pa. 535, 57 A. 982. Limitation of carrier's liability for loss of a passenger's baggage to 150 pounds at $1 a pound, unless special agreement be made, held reasonable. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 494.

37. Holly v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 188.

38. Williams v. Central R. Co., 93 App. Div. 582, 88 N. Y. S. 434.

39. Limitation of liability for baggage to $100 held invalid where loss occurred on initial line. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234.

40. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. Limitation in amount does not ap-

§ 35. Damages.[43]—The measure of damages is the value of baggage at destination and not at point of connection.[44] The value of wearing apparel and articles of daily use is not governed by market value.[45]

§ 36. Remedies and procedure.[46]—Where delivery in good condition to the first carrier is shown, it is presumed to continue while in his possession and liability is imposed on the succeeding carrier.[47] A derailment causing damage raises a presumption of negligence.[48]

CASE, ACTION ON.

Case lies for consequential injuries resulting indirectly from a wrongful act,[1] as for injuries resulting from negligence,[2] or for wrongful act committed by one's servant without his orders for which he as principal is responsible.[3]

Plaintiff must declare on a wrong and not on a promise.[4] A count in trespass cannot be joined in an action brought in case.[5] A release may be proved under the general issue, though made after issue joined.[6]

CAUSES OF ACTION AND DEFENSES.

This article deals only with abstract and fundamental principles. The specific applications of the rules governing the joinder and splitting of causes are pertinent to Pleading,[7] the joinder of parties to Parties,[8] and the consolidation and severance of trials to Trial.[9]

Relatively to the law of pleading, a cause of action is some particular right of the plaintiff against the defendant, together with some definite violation of that right,[10] and is for the purposes of the suit, whatever the plaintiff declares it to be in his pleadings.[11] The "gist of the action" is the cause for which the ply to loss by negligence unless so stated. Tewes v. North German Lloyd S. S. Co., 89 App. Div. 148, 85 N. Y. S. 994.

41. Assent is not shown when emigrant is given receipt containing limitation in language she does not understand. Engberman v. North German Lloyd S. S. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 201. Acceptance of special contract as receipt without knowledge of limitations does not limit. Valuation of baggage. Malone v. Metropolitan Exp. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 1039.

42. Where a theatrical advance agent is informed that a ticket purchased by him entitles free carriage of scenery, etc., and has no knowledge of conditions as to limitation of liability, such conditions cannot be imposed as a condition to carriage without a new consideration. Knowledge of a property man cannot be imputed to him. Question of assent held for jury. Saunders v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 15. Evidence as to whether a notice limiting liability for loss of baggage had been conspicuously posted, held for the jury. Williams v. Central R. Co., 93 App. Div. 582, 88 N. Y. S. 434. Where plaintiff neither read the receipt nor had his attention called to it he is not bound. Strong v. Long Island R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 911. In the absence of proof to the contrary, the presumption is that one who purchases a ticket reads it. Limitation of liability for baggage. Jacobs v. Central R. Co., 208 Pa. 635, 57 A. 982.

43. See article Damages, 1 Curr. L. 833.

44, 45. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234.

46. See 1 Curr. L. 495.

47. Baggage. Evidence held not to overcome presumption. Strong v. Long Island R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 911.

48. Instruction for loss of baggage held erroneous as making fact of wreck conclusive as to liability. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234.

1. One deprived of his possession by acts tending to inspire one with apprehension of violence. His camp outfit destroyed. Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941.

2. Case lies against the master of an assaulting servant when the master was merely negligent; trespass lies if he directed the assault. Smith v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 1056.

3. Smith v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 1056.

4. A declaration for "unskillfully and negligently" doing what was "undertaken" sounds in case and not assumpsit. Mullin v. Flanders, 73 Vt. 96, 50 A. 813.

5. Smith v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 1056.

6. Papke v. Hammond Co., 192 Ill. 631, 61 N. E. 910.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1178.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1092.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1907.

10. City of Columbus v. Anglin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 318; Fogarty v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 973.

11. Fogarty v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 973; Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941; Penoyer v. People, 106 Ill. App. 481.

action lies.[12] A legal right in plaintiff,[13] and a violation of that right[14] are essential. The omission of a duty does not constitute the foundation of an action unless it results in injury to one for whose protection the duty was imposed.[15] Abstract questions of law cannot be made the subject of litigation.[16]

To maintain an action for the use of another, there must be a legal right of action in the party bringing suit.[17]

The same legal right may be violated more than once, and each violation may give rise to a new and distinct cause of action.[18] A wrong, in a legal sense, is a violation of only one right,[19] and from a single wrong but one cause of action can arise.[20] All of a series of acts having in view the consummation of a single fraudulent purpose, being parts of one subject-matter, which is the primary subject of the action or an incidental part of a subject of controversy, may be brought into a single action for adjudication.[21] In some states, certain crimes give rise to two statutory actions, one the criminal action, the other a civil action for a penalty.[22] A person having a legal right needing judicial enforcement or judicial protection is entitled to be accorded a legal remedy.[23]

Causes of action are ex contractu[24] or ex delicto.[25] Whether a cause of action is one arising out of contract or by a tort becomes material in applying certain remedies.[26]

Defenses.[27]—One possessing a right may enforce it notwithstanding his motive,[28] but the court will refuse to hear collusive suits.[29] The question of collusion will not generally be determined on demurrer.[30] Prematurity in bringing the action is a defense.[31] That others are liable or culpable with defendant is no

12. Penoyer v. People, 105 Ill. App. 481.

13. Legal title to a promissory note is sufficient, though such owner has no beneficial interest. Manley v. Park [Kan.] 75 P. 557.

A private citizen cannot in a civil action try the issue as to whether or not a corporation is violating the law. MacGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. Private citizen cannot challenge validity of ordinance unless he shows some injury peculiar to himself. Unger v. Fanwood Tp., 59 N. J. Law, 548, 55 A. 42. Cannot enjoin public improvements without special injury being shown. Ray v. Colby [Neb.] 97 N. W. 591. See 1 Curr. L. 496, n. 30.

14. City of Columbus v. Anglin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 318.

15. Erie R. Co. v. McCormick [Ohio] 58 N. E. 571. Declaration must show such duty. Hortenstine v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co. [Va.] 47 S. E. 995.

16. Where, before trial in a suit to reform an instrument, the parties executed a contract embodying the provisions sought to be inserted, there is no occasion for the court to act. Daugherty v. Curtis [Iowa] 97 N. W. 67. A controversy is settled by a conveyance to one who effects a settlement pending appeal, agreeing that it shall not be affected by the appeal. Wedekind v. Bell, 26 Nev. 395, 69 P. 612. See 1 Curr. L. 496, n. 31.

17. State v. Bank of Quitman, 117 Ga. 849, 45 S. E. 236.

18. City of Columbus v. Anglin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 318. A single transaction causing one item of damage is a single cause of action. Otoe County v. Dorman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1064.

19. The same act may violate any number of rights, but each such violation would constitute a different wrong. A single wrong may, however, be composed of numerous elements and shown by various facts. City of Columbus v. Anglin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 318.

20. City of Columbus v. Anglin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 318; Otoe County v. Dorman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1064; Pakas v. Hollingshead, 42 Misc. 287, 85 N. Y. S. 550.

21. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

22. One is barred by limitations, though the other be commenced before. Com. v. Elkins, 25 Ky. L. R. 485, 75 S. W. 25.

23. Citizens' Bank v. Marr, 111 La. 501, 35 So. 780.

24. An employer failing to provide medical attendance for an employe as promised, the cause of action is for breach of contract. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Hennigan [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 452.

25. Failure of railway ticket agent to correctly punch plaintiff's ticket gives rise to a cause of action ex contractu, while ejectment from train by reason of such wrong ticket gives rise to one in tort. Southern R. Co. v. Bunnell [Ala.] 36 So. 380.

26. For examples, see Assumpsit, 1 Curr. L. 235. Also to determine whether attachment will issue as on a claim "arising out of contract," see Attachment, 1 Curr. L. 239.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 496.

28. MacGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. See 1 Curr. L. 495, n. 38.

29. A collusive suit will be dismissed by the court suo motu. Robinson v. Lee, 122 F. 1010.

30. Mills v. Chicago, 127 F. 731. See 1 Curr. L. 497, n. 47.

31. Action brought for breach of lease be-defense.[32] In an action for a joint tort, a separate defense may defeat a joint recovery.[33] In matter of substance, the distinction between legal and equitable defenses is preserved.[34] An agreement of warranty independent of a complete written agreement can only be availed of by way of counterclaim.[35]

CEMETERIES.

Public control.[36]—Cemeteries are subject to regulation or suppression by the exercise of the police power.[37]

Acquisition of land for cemetery purposes.[38]—Cemeteries are among the purposes for which land may be dedicated in the United States,[39] and no particular form or ceremony is necessary to such dedication.[40] The legislature may lawfully condemn land for a public burial ground, to be maintained by a public or private corporation or voluntary association;[41] but private use of land by a private corporation, though it may be in a sense a public convenience and necessity, is not strictly a public use justifying condemnation of land for the purpose.[42] The legislature may authorize one cemetery association to take land already owned by another association, providing the latter has condemned or appropriated the land for the purpose of preventing its use for the public purpose, and not to carry out the avowed purposes of its organization.[43] A provision in a grant to a municipality that the land is to be used forever as a public burial place will not be construed as a condition subsequent unless there is a provision for re-entry or reversion to the grantors or their heirs or representatives.[44] The city of Denver, Colo., acquired an absolute, alienable title to land, under a patent to its mayor in trust, fore date of its taking effect. Neilsen v. Mayer, 85 N. Y. S. 1069. An action for fraud in the sale of property does not arise until the property is purchased. Hutchinson v. Young, 87 N. Y. S. 678. Damages subsequent to bringing the action cannot be recovered. Jones v. Kramer & Bros. Co., 133 N. C. 446, 45 S. E. 827. The commencement of an action is a sufficient demand for the amount of the claim. Hopkins v. International Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 181, 73 P. 1113. See 1 Curr. L. 497, n. 46.

32. City of Kewanee v. Otley, 204 Ill. 402, 68 N. E. 388.

33. Fogarty v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 973.

34. The defense of purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice is always equitable in its nature. Maxwell v. Foster [S. C.] 45 S. E. 927. One cannot base an equitable defense on a contract which he has failed to perform. Howard v. Hewitt, 139 Cal. 614, 73 P. 414.

35. Atwater v. Orford Copper Co., 85 N. Y. S. 426.

36. See 1 Curr. L. 497.

37. Ordinance prohibiting burials within city or county of San Francisco valid, and not in conflict with certain other statutes. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 497.

39. Wormley v. Wormley, 207 Ill. 411, 69 N. E. 865.

40. Express setting apart of land for such purpose, staking out land and permitting burials therein, and notorious use for 20 years, cited as examples of dedications. In case at bar, the cemetery was recognized as such over 50 years and owner and relatives had used it for burial purposes. Held a dedication. Wormley v. Wormley, 207 Ill. 411, 69 N. E. 865. A church which allowed members to bury their dead on its lot for twenty years, the church officers exercising general oversight and control, dedicated such part of its lot for burial purposes. Little v. Presbyterian Church [S. C.] 47 S. E. 974.

41. Use as public burial ground a public use. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467.

42. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467.

43. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467. 13 Sp. Laws Conn. p. 321 authorized plaintiff association to apply for condemnation of so much of the land owned by defendant association as the superior court should deem necessary, providing it was first found that defendant association was organized to prevent plaintiff's acquisition of the land, and not to carry out its declared purpose to use the land as a public cemetery. It was held that the special law did not violate the provisions of the declaration of rights prohibiting monopolies and gratuities or securing equality before the law; that the law required all the steps essential to due process of law; that the grantor of defendant association was not a necessary party to such condemnation proceedings; that the law did not provide a forfeiture of defendant's corporate franchise; and the law was valid. Id.

44. Intention must be clear that land was to be used literally in perpetuity for burial purposes only. Thornton v. Natchez [C. C. A.] 129 F. 84. Representatives barred by laches from maintaining action for recovery of lands granted for burial ground and converted into park. Id.

authorized by act of Congress, which provided that the land was to be held and used for a burial place.[45]

Under a law authorizing the board of health of a township to purchase land for cemetery purposes and hold it in trust for the township, the township is a proper party in a suit to enforce rights arising from the holding of such property.[46]

Rights of lot owners; trespass.[47]—The owner of a burial lot in a public cemetery, with exclusive right of burial therein, has no title to the soil, but only a mere easement or license,[48] but when a cemetery association or church sells particular lots in a cemetery, the purchaser becomes the owner of the soil,[49] and his right to its possession protects interments made by him from disturbance.[50] The public may confirm a parol grant by ordinance,[51] and thereafter cannot convey to another nor disturb the first grantor's possession. If it attempts to convey the lots to others, who have notice of the first grantee's possession, they, disturbing his possession, are mere trespassers.[52] Equity will enjoin the owner of land from defacing or meddling with graves on land dedicated to the puhlic for burial purposes at the suit of any person having deceased relatives or friends buried therein.[53]

Acts of trespass in cemeteries is made a penal offense in Texas.[54]

Cemetery associations.[55]—An exemption of cemetery corporations from the general laws relating to liability for corporate debts will not relieve stockholders from liability for their unpaid stock, when there are no corporate assets.[56]

CENSUS AND STATISTICS.

Census.[57]—Courts will take judicial notice of the population of a county as shown by the United States census.[58] A trifling omission in a census in proceedings to incorporate a town will be disregarded,[59] and the use of initials for Christian names in the enumerating list will not vitiate such census.[60] An assessor's census of a town and a school census of the entire school district, including the town and some adjacent territory, is a sufficient compliance with an act requiring a school census before an election to issue waterworks bonds.[61]

Statistics.[62]—The title "An act to provide for the registration of marriages, 45. Wright v. Morgan, 191 U. S. 55, 24 S. Ct. 6.

46. Board may be joined by amendment on timely objection. Oneida Tp. v. Allen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 441. Land dedicated as an approach to a cemetery held to be subject to an easement in original owner and grantee. Id.

47. See 1 Curr. L. 498, 499, n. 71-75, 80, 85.

48. He cannot maintain ejectment. Stewart v. Garrett. 119 Ga. 386, 46 S. E. 427.

49, 50. Little v. Presbyterian Church [S. C.] 47 S. E. 974.

51. Where one, under parol grant, enters into possession of burial lots in the free part of a public cemetery, and the city afterwards quits his possession by ordinance, any disturbance of such possession by the city is unlawful. Wilkinson v. Strickland [Miss.] 35 So. 177.

52. Wilkinson v. Strickland [Miss.] 35 So. 177.

53. Wormley v. Wormley, 207 Ill. 411, 69 N. E. 865.

54. The word "wrongfully" must be included in instructions on the elements of the offense, and court should instruct on meaning of "inclosure" when requested, the statute applying to inclosed graveyards only. Bird v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 25.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 497.

56. A statute exempting proprietors of burying grounds from the laws providing for chancery proceedings against officers and property of corporations held not to apply to stockholders in a cemetery corporation. Little Co. v. Woodward Ave. Cemetery Ass'n [Mich.] 97 N. W. 682.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 499.

58. Whitley County Com'rs v. Garty, 161 Ind. 464, 68 N. E. 1012.

59. Failure to list the head of one family of three in a population of 1,131, substantial compliance, even though statute be deemed mandatory. Stembel v. Bell, 161 Ind. 323, 68 N. E. 589.

60. Stembel v. Bell, 161 Ind. 323, 68 N. E. 589.

61. Act of March 4, 1898, c. 35, § 1 (30 Stat. 252). Ter. v. Whitehall [Okl.] 76 P. 148.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 499.

births and deaths" is sufficient to warrant the inclusion in the act of provisions requiring physicians to keep a record of and report births or deaths at which they attend professionally.[63] Statutes requiring such records and reports are within the police power,[64] and are not unconstitutional because not providing for compensation to the physicians.[65] An indictment against a physician for failing to comply with such a statute must allege that he was a practicing physician during the period for which it is alleged he did not do his duty,[66] and that he attended professionally at births or deaths.[67] An act requiring a record of marriages and births to be kept and a report thereof to be made within ten days, on penalty of a fine of $100, is penal in nature and cannot be enlarged by judicial construction.[68] Mailing a birth notice is a sufficient compliance with a provision requiring report of births by physicians assisting therein professionally.[69] The superintendent of state prisons cannot be compelled by mandamus to return photographs and Bertillon measurements of a prisoner, though the conviction is subsequently reversed and he is acquitted.[70] By statute in Vermont, no public record of births, marriages or deaths, required by law to be kept, nor any certified copy thereof, is competent to prove any fact stated therein, except the fact of birth, marriage or death.[71]

CERTIORARI.[72]

§ 1. Nature, Occasion and Propriety of the Remedy (667). Ancillary Certiorari (670). Prerogative Writ (670).
§ 2. Right to Certiorari; Parties (670).
§ 3. Procedure for Writ; Writ, Service and Return (671). The Statutory Bond and Prepayment of Costs (672). The Writ (672). Notice of Writ to Parties in Original Cause (672). Service of Writ (673). The Return (673). Objections and Amendments (673). Quashal or Dismissal (673).
§ 4. Hearing and Questions Which May Be Raised or Settled (674).
§ 5. Judgment (675).
§ 6. Costs (676).
§ 7. Review of Certiorari (676).

§ 1. Nature, occasion and propriety of the remedy.[73]—From a common-law remedy to superintend proceedings assailed for defective jurisdiction, the remedy has been variously enlarged and restricted by statutes, and special forms of certiorari established in many of the states.[74] In some of the western Code states it is known as the writ of review.[75] It lies to remove to a superior court for review the record and proceedings[76] of an inferior court, officer, tribunal or board exercising judicial functions.[77] Its revisory nature is not destroyed by statutory enlargements of its scope to admit of trials of fact.[78]

63. Acts 1873-74, p. 13, c. 134. Com. v. McConnell, 25 Ky. L. R. 552, 76 S. W. 41.

64, 65, 66, 67. Com. v. McConnell, 25 Ky. L. R. 552, 76 S. W. 41.

68. New York City Charter, § 1239. Department of Health v. Owen, 42 Misc. 221, 85 N. Y. S. 397.

69. New York City Charter, §§ 1237, 1239. Department of Health v. Owen, 42 Misc. 221, 85 N. Y. S. 397.

70. In re Molineux, 41 Misc. 154, 83 N. Y. S. 943.

71. No. 44, Acts of 1902, p. 49, changing law of 74 Vt. 147, 52 Atl. 438, which held that cause of death could be shown by such records. The statute is constitutional, merely changing a rule of evidence. McKinstry v. Collins [Vt.] 56 A. 985.

72. Compare Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167.

73. See 1 Curr. L. 499.

74. See note to 40 Am. St. Rep. 29. Matters reviewable on certiorari and the cases there collected.

75. Its office is the same. McAnish v. Grant [Or.] 74 P. 396.

76. The writ will not bring up the evidence, but only the record, from an inspection of which jurisdiction and the correctness of the judgment are to be determined. McAnish v. Grant [Or.] 74 P. 396.

77. A civil service commission, created by a city charter, is such a tribunal whose action, judicial in character, will be reviewed on certiorari. Corbett v. Civil Service Comm., 33 Wash. 190, 73 P. 1116. An award by a board of revision of assessment, made in the exercise of a discretion vested in it, is not judicial. People v. Phillips, 88 App. Div. 560, 85 N. Y. S. 200. Action of board of supervisors of a county in the matter of incorporation of a city is legislative and ministerial. Borchard v. Ventura County Sup'rs [Cal.] 77 P. 708. Except where a writ of certiorari is used in an ancillary proceeding, it has no legitimate use except to try the validity, on jurisdictional grounds, of some judicial or quasi judicial determi-

It is not essential, however, that the proceedings should be judicial in the sense that the word is used when applied to a court of justice; they may be only quasi-judicial,[79] such as the removal of public officers or servants,[80] the issuance of liquor licenses,[81] the action of tax commissioners in fixing an assessment,[82] or the passage of a resolution at a township meeting, fixing the sum of money to be raised for lighting purposes.[83]

In order that this remedy may avail, three requisites are indispensable,[84] namely, the action complained of must have been in excess of or without jurisdiction,[85] there must be no right of appeal,[86] adequate to afford relief,[87] nor any nation. In Wisconsin, it is now considered that where there is jurisdiction to hear proceedings upon habeas corpus, error in deciding the questions involved is judicial, and not jurisdictional, error, and certiorari will not lie. State v. Whitcher, 117 Wis. 668, 94 N. W. 787. The action of the state auditor, ex officio commissioner of lands, in refusing to grant an application for a mineral lease, is ministerial. State v. Iverson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 91. See 1 Curr. L. 499, n. 94.

NOTE. Certiorari to proceedings of a judicial nature forming the basis of executive action. In People v. Hoffman, 166 N. Y. 462, 64 L. R. A. 597, it is said that there is grave doubt whether the courts could compel the governor to make return to a writ of certiorari [citing People v. Morton, 166 N. Y. 136, 41 L. R. A. 231]. Such a writ was directed against the governor in People v. Hill, 126 N. Y. 497, but the question was not raised. In People v. Hoffman, supra, the writ though issued to the governor was not served, but it was served on the adjutant general, as custodian of the record of a military tribunal which the writ sought to review; and it was held, sustaining the writ, that the review was not a review of executive action, but of the judicial proceedings resulting in findings upon which the governor removed a militia officer from his command. The court said, "While we cannot touch the person of the governor, we can pass upon the effect of his acts and decide whether they are valid or invalid." The military tribunal having acted without jurisdiction, the removal based upon its findings was a nullity. People v. Hoffman, supra.

78. The special statutory certiorari of New York does not cease to be a writ of review by reason of the enlarged scope in the proceedings, which may be had thereunder. It possesses all of the requisites of the common law and code writs, and in addition thereto, authorizes a rehearing on the question at issue and the introduction of additional proofs bearing thereon. People v. Feitner, 92 App. Div. 518, 87 N. Y. S. 304.

79. The perplexity of determining whether or not certiorari will lie in any given case arises out of the difficulty in distinguishing between legislative, executive or ministerial acts, and those of a judicial nature in which an officer or special tribunal is called upon to act in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity. Minn. Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454. If the determination of the tribunal or the officer called upon to act affects the rights or property of a citizen, analogous to the manner in which they are affected by proceedings or decisions of courts acting judicially, the proceedings in question are of a judicial nature, and the writ will lie. Id. If they do not so affect rights or property, the determination in question must be considered as ministerial, legislative or administrative, as the case may be and so treated by the courts. Id.

80. Held judicial: Removal of police captain by police commissioner. People v. Greene, 89 App. Div. 296, 86 N. Y. S. 866. Removal of members of police force by mayor and aldermen. Gill v. Brunswick, 118 Ga. 85, 44 S. E. 830. Removal without hearing of deputy tax commissioner who has served the time required by law in the volunteer fire department. People v. Wells, 86 App. Div. 270, 83 N. Y. S. 789.

Removal of a fire commissioner by the mayor of a municipality held not judicial. In re Carter, 141 Cal. 316, 74 P. 997.

Note: The remedy generally lies to review a removal when it may be made only for cause upon an inquiry after notice and a hearing which cause did not exist or which inquiry was not made in due process. But when the power of removal is at pleasure or is purely executive, certiorari will not lie. See note 40 Am. St. Rep. 45, and cases there cited.

81. Certiorari is the proper method for determining the validity of dramshop licenses, when the facts necessary to such a determination appear of record. Cooper v. Hunt [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 483.

82. People v. Barker, 84 App. Div. 469, 83 N. Y. S. 33. In New York, one aggrieved by the failure to tax persons liable to taxation has a remedy by certiorari [Laws 1897, p. 324, c. 378, § 906, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 386, c. 466]. City of New York v. Tucker, 91 App. Div. 214, 86 N. Y. S. 509. Under the New York statute that if it appear on the return to a writ of certiorari to review an assessment of taxes that the assessment complained of is illegal or erroneous, the court may order such assessment stricken from the roll or corrected in whole or in part, such order is a final order, and review of a reassessment must be by new proceedings [Laws 1896, p. 883]. People v. Wells, 87 App. Div. 284, 84 N. Y. S. 277.

83. Brown v. Street Lighting Dist. No. 1, 69 N. J. Law, 485, 55 A. 1080.

84. State v. Dist. Court, 28 Mont. 445, 72 P. 867; State v. Dist. Court [Mont.] 74 P. 200; City Council of Cripple Creek v. Hanley [Colo. App.] 75 P. 600.

85. Allen v. Printup, 118 Ga. 630, 46 S. E. 911; Inhabitants of South Berwick v. York County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 56 A. 623; Caudell v. Southern R. Co., 119 Ga. 21, 45 S. E. 712. An order of a judge made in a recount under an election law cannot be re-other plain, speedy and adequate remedy.[88] It is also essential that a final order or determination shall have been made,[89] or some action taken.[90] Want of other remedy and judicial finality may in emergencies and exceptional cases be non-essentials.[91] The writ will not reach mere error, either of fact or of law, in the viewed upon certiorari, unless in the proceedings the justice has exceeded his jurisdiction. Kehoe v. Stagmeier [N. J. Law] 66 A. 262.

Illustrations: In forcible entry and detainer. Johnson v. Booge [N. J. Law] 56 A. 238. On discharge of prisoner by circuit court commissioner on habeas corpus. Longstaff v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 900. On appointment of receiver for a corporation pendente lite. Gibbs v. Morgan [Idaho] 72 P. 733. Failure of assessors to make "a careful, particular and thorough comparison" of tax duplicates as required by statute is jurisdictional. Borough of Woodstown v. Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 56 A. 124. Allowance of a claim against an estate, barred by the statute of limitations, is in excess of jurisdiction. Farrow v. Nevin [Or.] 75 P. 711. Where a motion is made which the trial court has power to entertain, and the party the right to present, the action of the court on the motion cannot be reviewed. Motion to set aside a judgment in a divorce case. Grannis v. Super. Court [Cal.] 77 P. 647.

86. Kent v. Crenshaw [Iowa] 94 N. W. 1131; State v. Leche [La.] 36 So. 868; State v. Denney, 34 Wash. 56, 74 P. 1021. An order granting an amendment to a statement upon motion for a new trial is not an appealable order, and hence certiorari lies to review such an order. Fountain Water Co. v. Super. Court, 139 Cal. 648, 73 P. 590. In New Jersey, certiorari is the only remedy for the review of proceedings in a district court in forcible entry and detainer and tenancy cases. Act of 1902, giving appeal, does not apply. Johnson v. Booge [N. J. Law] 56 A. 238. Certiorari and not appeal is the proper method of obtaining a review in the supreme court of the United States of a decision of the circuit court of appeals, made in the exercise of its jurisdiction to revise an order under the Bankruptcy Acts of 1898, § 24b. Such revising order is not appealable as a decision allowing or rejecting a claim under § 25b. Holden v. Stratten, 191 U. S. 115, 24 S. Ct. 45. See 1 Curr. L. 500, n. 2.

87. The proper method to review a proceeding adjudging a party guilty of criminal contempt is not by appeal, but by certiorari. In re Teitelbaum, 84 App. Div. 351, 82 N. Y. S. 887. Certiorari is the proper remedy to vacate a judgment of a United States commissioner, whether he had either lost jurisdiction of the subject-matter or of the defendant. If appeal should be taken in the former case, it would be dismissed, if in the latter it would be an appearance. Franklin v. Bottoms [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 287.

NOTE. Review of contempt proceedings by certiorari: The propriety of certiorari in contempt cases and the matters reviewable thereby are discussed in the cases cited in notes 22 Am. St. R. 420, 422, 40 Am. St. R. 36.

88. Hegenbaumer v. Heckenkamp, 202 Ill. 621, 67 N. E. 389. Contested election. Kehoe v. Stagmeier [N. J. Law] 56 A. 252. Auditing claims. People v. Cross, 87 App. Div. 56, 83 N. Y. S. 1083. The delays and annoyances incident to an appeal do not affect the adequacy thereof. State v. Denney, 34 Wash. 56, 74 P. 1021; State v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 248, 75 P. 809. For the trial of controversies between rival claimants to office, quo warranto and not certiorari is the proper remedy. MacFall v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 136; Schwarz v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 394. Where the party whose title is assailed is already inducted into office, certiorari can in no event lie, quo warranto is only remedy; but where he has not yet gained possession, there is conflict as to appropriateness of certiorari. MacFall v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 136.

Primary remedies not exhausted: Not every order which is not appealable is the subject of the writ of review. No emergency being shown why the questions presented for review may not as effectively be determined after final judgment, the writ will not be granted. State v. Super. Court, 34 Wash. 248, 75 P. 809. It is not the proper remedy to review an order of the county court granting administrators the right to use mortgaged stock, where the threatened injury is from acts of the administrators and not from the order. Stafford & Co. v. Dunovant's Estate [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 65.

NOTE. The propriety of reviewing habeas corpus and other legal remedies which are sometimes regarded as quasi criminal and sometimes as civil in their nature, may depend on which character is given to the proceeding in the particular state: Thus, habeas corpus to determine the custody of an infant has been regarded as a civil suit, reviewable by appeal, like other civil suits, although in the case of a habeas corpus to secure discharge from illegal imprisonment, there might be a doubt as to whether the ordinary remedies were available. People v. Court of Appeals [Colo.] 61 L. R. A. 105.

89. Singer Mfg. Co. v. McNeal Paint & Glass Co., 117 Ga. 1005, 44 S. E. 801. Mere arrest for violation of an ordinance is not sufficient; certiorari will not lie until after conviction. Unger v. Inhabitants of Fanwood Tp., 69 N. J. Law, 548, 55 A. 42. See, also, Cent. R. Co. v. Elizabeth [N. J. Law] 57 A. 404. A fine levied by a town board of health in an ex parte proceeding in relator's absence, for failure to comply with an order directing him to repair a sewer in front of his premises which he had destroyed, is not conclusive upon him. People v. Board of Health, 83 App. Div. 671, 82 N. Y. S. 21. See 1 Curr. L. 499, n. 95.

90. Not the proper remedy to restrain the threatened enforcement of an ordinance. Bill Posting Sign Co. v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 342.

91. Interlocutory orders may be annulled on certiorari for the reason that the injury which the complaining party may suffer will have been done long before review can be had upon appeal from final judgment. State v. Dist. Court, 28 Mont. 445, 72 P. 867; State v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 693, 73 P. 779.

exercise of a rightful jurisdiction,[92] or where the writ can accomplish nothing.[93] In New York, a refusal to exercise jurisdiction may be thus reviewed.[94]

Ancillary certiorari.[95]—Sometimes the writ issues as ancillary to another proceeding, as habeas corpus.[96] Certiorari issues in aid of an appeal only when diminution of the record is suggested.[97] The circuit court of appeals has power to issue writs of certiorari only in aid of its appellate jurisdiction, and cannot issue such a writ to review an order of a circuit court which is not appealable.[98]

A prerogative writ[99] will issue from a court having a general superintendence and control over inferior jurisdictions newly created and not otherwise reviewable.[1] In New Jersey, the supreme court is, excepting one instance, the sole depositary of the prerogative writ.[2]

§ 2. Right to certiorari; parties.[3]—Review by certiorari is a matter of grace resting in the discretion of the court allowing the writ.[4]

So too if the exigency is of such an extreme nature as obviously to justify and demand the interposition of the extraordinary superintending power of the court of last resort, certiorari will issue. Commitment to a home for feeble minded is not such an exigency. In re Mielke [Wis.] 98 N. W. 245.

92. McAnish v. Grant [Or.] 74 P. 396; Farrow v. Nevin [Or.] 75 P. 711; People v. Court of Appeals [Colo.] 75 P. 921; People v. Court of Appeals [Colo. App.] 75 P. 407. Question of fact involved, no appeal to a jury having been entered. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Falls [Ga.] 45 S. E. 723.

NOTE. Certiorari will not review the decision of a board as to who is the lowest and best bidder on a public contract, if there is any rational basis of fact to support the determination reached in making the award. If there is such a basis, the evidence will not be weighed in order to review the decision reached. McGovern v. Board of Public Works, 57 N. J. L. 580; Sheffbauer v. Karney, 57 N. J. L. 588, cited in note 50 Am. St. R. 495.

93. As where a claim has been audited and allowed and the record thereof has passed on in its regular order to another body. People v. Cross, 87 App. Div. 56, 83 N. Y. S. 1083. See 1 Curr. L. 500, n. 99.

94. Where commissioners appointed to assess damages caused by changes of grade of streets dismissed claim of a landowner for damages on ground that they had no jurisdiction, the remedy of the claimant was not by application to them to reopen the case, but certiorari to review the decision. People v. Leonard, 87 App. Div. 269, 84 N. Y. S. 341.

95. See 1 Curr. L. 501.

96. As distinguished from habeas corpus, certiorari reaches and requires the production of a judicial or quasi-judicial record, but never the body of any person, while habeas corpus reaches the latter, but not the former. When the latter writ is used for its general purpose, the former may, in aid of it, be used for its particular purpose. State v. Whitcher, 117 Wis. 668, 94 N. W. 787. In New York, the writ of certiorari as a writ of review in criminal cases has been abolished. In case of a conviction, it may issue to inquire into the cause of detention, in which event its use is designed to reach those cases only where the production of the body is unnecessary to the decision of the question presented. People v. Van De Carr, 86 App. Div. 9, 83 N. Y. S. 245.

97. West v. Richmond R. & Elec. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 330. Certiorari does not lie from the court of appeals to correct the record of cause on appeal claimed to have been altered since it was heard in the circuit. Bowman v. Ray [Ky.] 80 S. W. 200.

98. U. S. v. Circuit Court [C. C. A.] 126 F. 169.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 501.

1. When a new jurisdiction is created by a statute which gives no remedy for the revision of its exercise, and the court or officer exercising it proceeds in a summary mode, or in a course different from the common law. Home Sav. & Trust Co. v. Dist. Court, 121 Iowa, 1, 95 N. W. 522.

NOTE. For a court to radically misconceive a well settled law on a given subject, or to ignore it, is not an excess of jurisdiction which the court of last resort will correct by means of its superintending power to issue certiorari. A "general superintending control" of inferior courts does not include such power, especially when the highest court is declared to be one of appellate jurisdiction only. People v. Court of Appeals [Colo.] 51 L. R. A. 105, following People v. Richmond, 16 Colo. 285; Ingersoll v. Minge, 50 La. Ann. 748. The grounds on which prerogative jurisdiction will be exercised over a court of intermediate appeal are enumerated as follows: First, when the intermediate court is without jurisdiction to review the judgment in question. Second, when in a clear case it refuses to be guided or controlled by the law as laid down in prior decisions of the court of last resort. Departure from the settled rules of law is not the same as repudiation of a prior decision of the court of last resort. People v. Court of Appeals, supra.

2. Art. 10, § 1, Const. with the exception noted in Dufford v. Decue, 31 N. J. Law, 302. City of East Orange v. Hussey [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1086.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 501.

4. P. L. 1902, p. 565 gives appeal as a right, certiorari remaining concurrent. Marcus v. Graver [N. J. Law] 58 A. 564. It was held improper to allow it to relieve an individual whose injury was trifling, the rights of the general public being adverse. The proceeding attacked was one to fix water rates. It was fair and the irregularity was simply that it did not originate with the

To entitle one to a writ of review, he must have been a party to the suit or matter in controversy,[5] or show some interest[6] or injury peculiar to himself.[7] He may lose the right through tardiness in seeking the remedy.[8]

The taxpayers in townships of a disorganized county are proper parties and may join.[9]

Judgment below may not be amended at the request of respondent in certiorari who does not otherwise complain.[10]

So far as certiorari reviewing a municipal ordinance is a proceeding in rem, the governmental authorities of the town, being custodians of the record, are the only necessary parties.[11] The contractor, to pay whom a board of supervisors ordered the levy of a tax, is not a necessary party in proceeding to test the legality of such order.[12] Any person or body, however, beneficially interested in the determination to be reviewed, may, in the discretion of the court, be admitted to defend.[13] Persons may be brought in whose interests have attached pendente lite.[14]

§ 3. Procedure for writ; writ, service and return.—Application[15] must be timely,[16] contain proper allegations,[17] specifically assign errors of law,[18] and affirmatively show necessary jurisdictional facts.[19] Where the remedy by certiorari is proper body, but this was remediable. State v. Gosnell, 116 Wis. 606, 93 N. W. 542, 61 L. R. A. 33.

5. Wash. County Abstract Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 74 P. 955. See 1 Curr. L. 501, n. 20.

6. One suing as a public officer cannot maintain certiorari where his only interest is that of an individual taxpayer. People v. Cross, 87 App. Div. 56, 83 N. Y. S. 1083. A prosecutor's lack of interest in the controversy is not affirmatively shown by the mere fact that the return brings up an ordinance instead of a conviction under it. Cent. R. Co. v. Elizabeth [N. J. Law] 57 A. 404. On final hearing, it will be assumed that the prosecutor in certiorari has sufficient interest to give him a standing in court unless his interest has been previously challenged. Lantry v. Sage, 69 N. J. Law, 560, 55 A. 34. See 1 Curr. L. 501, n. 21.

7. Unger v. Inhabitants of Fanwood Tp., 69 N. J. Law, 548, 55 A. 42.

8. Five years' delay. Hopewell v. Board of Trustees, 69 N. J. Law, 597, 55 A. 653. Delay of two months in sending papers to judge for settlement of case. Stroud v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 253, 45 S. E. 592. See 1 Curr. L. 501, n. 24.

9. Fitch v. Board of Auditors of Claims [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952.

10. Ware v. Couvillion, 112 La. 43, 36 So. 220.

11. Schwarz v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 394; MacFall v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 136.

12. Tod v. Crisman, 123 Iowa, 693, 99 N. W. 686.

13. People v. Leonard, 89 App. Div. 643, 82 N. Y. S. 1110. Where, in a certiorari to a state board of tax commissioners, a city or local board of assessors is to be affected, such city or board is entitled to be made a party. People v. Priest, 41 Misc. 545, 85 N. Y. S. 235. See 1 Curr. L. 502, n. 30.

14. Judgment may be deferred to bring in additional parties. Allen v. Board, etc., of Hunterdon County [N. J. Law] 58 A. 346.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 502, n. 31.

16. Five years' delay too long. Hopewell v. Trustees of Flemington, 69 N. J. Law, 597, 55 A. 653. Two months' delay in sending papers. Stroud v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 253, 45 S. E. 592. In New York, the time to apply for a writ of certiorari to review the determination of commissioners laying out a highway does not begin to run until the order laying out the highway is recorded in the town clerk's office. People v. Vandewater, 83 App. Div. 60, 82 N. Y. S. 626.

17. There must be substantial compliance with statutory provisions, if any. Farrow v. Nevin [Or.] 75 P. 711. A petition for certiorari to review a tax assessment is only required to contain conclusions of fact without supporting evidence. In re Cathedral of Incarnation in Diocese of Long Island, 91 App. Div. 543, 86 N. Y. S. 900. A petition which sets out part of the evidence given on the trial, but does not negative every phase of the evidence and facts which would justify the judgment, is insufficient. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Kinney [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 18.

18. Inhabitants of South Berwick v. County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 56 A. 623; Savannah, F. & W. R. Co. v. Gill, 118 Ga. 737, 45 S. E. 623. A petition for certiorari which does not plainly and distinctly set forth an assignment of error on any ruling, decision or judgment of an inferior judicatory is void; and being void, no renewal thereof can be had within six months. Citizens' Banking Co. v. Paris, 119 Ga. 517, 46 S. E. 638. Where a petition to review a judgment of a justice of the peace does not aver that the justice had no jurisdiction, it will be presumed that he had. Hegenbaumer v. Heckenkamp, 202 Ill. 621, 67 N. E. 389. An assignment of error in a petition for the writ that a certain named statute is unconstitutional is too indefinite to raise any question for determination, and it cannot be cured by averments in the bill of exceptions. Newkirk v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 426. See 1 Curr. L. 502, n. 36.

19. Or be properly supplied by the answer. Inhabitants of South Berwick v. County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 56 A. 623. Presumption favors it. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 502, n. 34.

independent of the one by appeal, it is not necessary that the application for the writ show cause why the applicant did not appeal.[20] While exceptions to the judgments in two separate and distinct cases cannot be embraced in one petition for certiorari, it is proper to embody in one such petition exceptions to every ruling or judgment rendered during the progress of a single case, adverse to the party against whom the final judgment is rendered.[21] A petition is not defective because not entitled in a particular court as a complaint in an ordinary action,[22] or because of the incorrect statement of the name of the court.[23] Verification may be by the authorized attorney of the applicant.[24]

Where an application for a writ of review is not sufficiently specific, defendant's remedy is by motion to make it more definite and certain, and not by demurrer.[25]

In Louisiana, a rule of the supreme court requires that an applicant shall file an application for a rehearing in the court of appeal, which must be acted upon finally, before the applicant will be entitled to apply for certiorari or review.[26]

The statutory bond[27] and prepayment of costs[28] are prerequisite to the issuance of the writ,[29] and with the certificate for the payment of costs should be filed with the petition.[30] Prepayment of fees is necessary if demanded.[31] The applicant for the writ is required to pay only the costs accrued on the trial resulting in the judgment to which he excepts.[32]

The writ[33] is sufficient if issued by order of the court, though attested and sealed by the clerk.[34] Failure to issue the formal writ may be waived.[35] It must run to the court of whose proceedings review is sought,[36] and where it runs to a board or body other than a court having no official name, it must be directed to the members thereof by name.[37]

Notice of writ to parties in original cause[38] must be within the time prescribed by statute or rule of court.[39] Where public interests are attacked, notice of the writ must be served on the proper officer representing such public interests.[40]

20. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Keel [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1082.

21. Odum v. Macon & B. R. Co., 118 Ga. 792, 45 S. E. 619.

22. Farrow v. Nevin [Or.] 75 P. 711.

23. Adams v. Kelly [Or.] 74 P. 399.

24. People v. Leonard, 83 App. Div. 643, 82 N. Y. S. 1110. See 1 Curr. L. 502, n. 32.

25. Corbett v. Civil Service Comm., 33 Wash. 190, 73 P. 1116.

26. If the ruling of the court of appeals does not show that the rehearing was refused because the applicant had failed to insist upon his motion for a rehearing, the supreme court will not assume that such is the fact. Harrison v. Ottman, 111 La. 730, 35 So. 844.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 504.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 809.

29. Where a partnership, alleged to be composed of two named persons, was sued, and only one of them was served, who pleaded that he was not a member of the partnership, and a verdict was found for the defendant, a certiorari bond given by the plaintiff should have been made payable to the individual served. John M. Miller Co. v. Anderson, 118 Ga. 432, 45 S. E. 365.

30. Writ issued before bond filed is void. Cole v. Thurman, 119 Ga. 55, 45 S. E. 718.

31. I X L Lime Co. v. Superior Court [Cal.] 76 P. 973.

32. Where there had been successive trials and both parties had paid costs, one in justice court and the other on appeal. Johns v. Lewis Drug Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 127.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 503.

Effect of writ, see 1 Curr. L. 504. Compare Transfer of jurisdiction on appeal, etc., 3 Curr. L. 200.

34. Corbett v. Civil Service Comm., 33 Wash. 190, 73 P. 1116.

35. In an action brought in the circuit court to quash orders of the county court calling in warrants, copies of all records of county court were admitted in evidence and no objection was made for the failure to issue the writ. Nevada County v. Williams [Ark.] 81 S. W. 384.

In Georgia, the clerk must issue the writ and enter the same on his docket, but need not hand it to the sheriff for service [Civ. Code, §§ 5547, 4643]. Tucker v. Graysville [Ga.] 47 S. E. 523.

36. Relator could test the validity of the judgment of the court of appeal by certiorari directed to the court of appeal, not by certiorari to the district court. State v. Foster, 111 La. 241, 35 So. 536.

37. People v. Leonard, 83 App. Div. 643, 82 N. Y. S. 1110. See 1 Curr. L. 503, n. 47.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 503.

39. Failure to give written notice within the time prescribed cannot be excused on the ground of unavoidable cause when it appears that counsel took no steps towards serving notice for three months after writ was issued. Southern R. Co. v. Carr, 118

[To be concluded.]

Copyright 1904, by Keefe-Davidson Co.

CERTIORARI—Cont'd.

Service of writ.[41]—In Georgia, the plaintiff must have the writ served upon the officer whose judgment is sought to be reviewed.[42] If the clerk at the request of the petitioner undertakes to perform any act in connection with the service of the writ, he does so as the agent of the petitioner.[43]

The return,[44] in order to supply jurisdictional matter, must not only be under oath, but should set out facts conferring jurisdiction which were actually adjudicated, but by inadvertence omitted from the record.[45] When made by a board or body composed of two or more persons, it should be in the name of the board or body, and be executed by a majority of the members thereof.[46] Proper practice requires that the lower court should be called on to certify the facts found. If it is unable to certify the facts, depositions may be taken to determine what facts were found.[47] Where the petition attacks the judgment on the ground that it is contrary to evidence, the record must state the facts on which the judgment was based.[48] If the return is false in fact, the remedy is in an action for false return; if insufficient in form, by compelling a further and more specific return.[49] The special statutory certiorari of New York does not require the comptroller to return the grounds of his refusal to revise or readjust the account for taxes.[50] Payment of the fees for preparing and certifying the record is a condition precedent to the right to have it sent up.[51]

Objections and amendments.[52]—Findings of fact not objected to in the trial court will be accepted by the reviewing court as conclusive.[53]

Quashal or dismissal.[54]—Mere irregularities in procedure do not necessitate a dismissal,[55] but such as prevent a transfer of the cause are fatal.[56] The writ must be prosecuted with reasonable diligence.[57] The failure of the trial judge

Ga. 355, 45 S. E. 409; Southern R. Co. v. Hornsby, 118 Ga. 358, 45 S. E. 410.

40. Tippett v. McGrath [N. J. Law] 56 A. 134. County commissioners who as a court pass judgment in a road tax proceeding are not the original parties who must be notified. Either the state's attorney or the road overseer must be notified. Notice to the members of the court which rendered the judgment complained of is not sufficient. Sheppard v. Walker, 118 Ga. 47, 44 S. E. 801.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 503, n. 49-51.

42. Civ. Code 1895, § 4644. Tucker v. Graysville [Ga.] 47 S. E. 523.

43. Not as agent of the law. Civ. Code 1895, § 5125. Tucker v. Graysville [Ga.] 47 S. E. 523.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 503.

NOTE. What the record is, and what is extrinsic to it, and whether the evidence is a part of the record, depends on and varies with the character of the original tribunal. If the original court be one of record, all the matters essential to a memorial of the proceedings and such as have been specially made a part of the record may be considered and no others. See 3 Curr. L. 206, Appeal and Review, § 9. The contents of the record of inferior courts or those of summary jurisdiction and the mode of making up the same for return to a writ of certiorari is pointed out in Farmington, etc., Co. v. County Com'rs, 112 Mass. 206.

45. Inhabitants of South Berwick v. County Com'rs, 98 Me. 108, 56 A. 623.

46. A return by a minority cannot be considered. People v. Eno, 176 N. Y. 513, 68 N. E. 868.

47. Coles & Sons Co. v. Blythe, 69 N. J. Law, 666, 55 A. 816.

48. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Potter [Ga.] 47 S. E. 924.

49. People v. Eno, 176 N. Y. 513, 68 N. E. 868.

In Georgia, if the answer is not satisfactory, the law (Code 1895, § 4647) provides a method by which to test its sufficiency and correct any errors. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Potter [Ga.] 47 S. E. 924.

50. People v. Miller, 92 App. Div. 116, 87 N. Y. S. 341.

51. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1070, 1071. St. 1895, c. 207, pp. 267, 268. I X L Lime Co. v. Superior Court for Santa Cruz County [Cal.] 76 P. 973.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 503.

53. Corbett v. Civil Service Comm., 33 Wash. 190, 73 P. 1116.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 504.

55. While the original papers in a case tried in justice court and the originals of the documentary evidence submitted upon the trial should not be attached to a petition for certiorari, the fact that they were so attached is not cause for dismissal. Brannon v. Dunahoo, 118 Ga. 225, 44 S. E. 991.

56. A writ, void because issued before the applicant has given the bond required by the statute, must be dismissed, it not being competent to amend the bond. Miller Co. v. Anderson, 118 Ga. 432, 45 S. E. 365.

57. Where the proceeding was prosecuted in good faith six months from date of issue to return, held not ground for dismissal. Warren v. Superior Court of San Francisco [Cal.] 77 P. 910. Where, through mistake of to file a proper answer is not sufficient reason to dismiss the certiorari,[58] but it is proper where no move is made to correct an unresponsive return.[59] The objection that the officer allowing the writ had no authority so to do can be raised only by motion to dismiss and not by the return.[60] Where the impropriety of certiorari was decided after the return, the cause was allowed to stand as on appeal.[61]

§ 4. Hearing and questions which may be raised or settled.[62]—Ordinarily, the questions presented by this writ are only such as go to the jurisdiction of the inferior tribunal, or to the legality of its action;[63] but where there is no other remedy for reviewing the action of the inferior tribunal, it is frequently provided by statute that the court may investigate and decide the questions involved on their merits, even to the extent of considering the facts.[64] Ordinarily, however, the clerk, the writ is not served within the time required by law and the officer fails to answer, the writ must be dismissed. Tucker v. Graysville [Ga.] 47 S. E. 523.

58. Not filed on first day of the term, but during such term and before motion to dismiss was filed. Sutton v. State [Ga.] 48 S. E. 342.

59. Tyner v. Leake, 117 Ga. 990, 44 S. E. 812.

60. Tweddle v. Judge of Superior Court of Grand Rapids [Mich.] 96 N. W. 22.

61. A case in a circuit court on a writ of certiorari to a judgment of a justice of the peace awarded before the decision of Richmond v. Henderson, 48 W. Va. 389, 37 S. E. 653, and within the requisite period of time, will upon request be treated as being in said court on appeal. Schaffer v. McJunkin [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 153.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 504.

63. The court, on certiorari to review the action of a city council in an election contest for the office of alderman, cannot consider whether the evidence before the council justified its action, but is confined to the sole question of jurisdiction. City Council of Cripple Creek v. Hanley [Colo. App.] 75 P. 600. Where no irregularity is disclosed, the writ should be dismissed without considering any other question. Appeal of Plains Tp., 206 Pa. 556, 56 A. 60. In Pennsylvania, the proceedings being entirely statutory and without appeal, the findings of facts or the merits of the case cannot be reviewed; but under the general supervisory powers of the court it is entitled on certiorari to inspect the whole record to ascertain whether the court below exceeded its jurisdiction or its proper legal discretion. Independence Party Nomination, 208 Pa. 108, 57 A. 344.

NOTE. Errors which are reviewable in certiorari under the varying scope which that remedy has in different states. Where the common law function of a certiorari remains unchanged, it will of course reach only jurisdictional and not judicial errors. See cases collected in exhaustive note, 40 Am. St. R. 29, also Territory v. Dunbar, 1 Ariz. 510; State v. LaBlanc, 42 La. Ann. 1190; State v. Judge, 42 La. Ann. 1089; Barber v. Harris, 6 Mackey, 586; Brown v. Robertson, 123 Ill. 631; Sayers v. Super. Ct., 84 Cal. 642. Cited in Note 2, 23 Am. St. R. 108. In many states the writ has been broadened so that it is analogous to a writ of error. It will reach errors of law, and for this purpose the evidence may be examined in order to ascertain whether it was legally sufficient to support the findings of an essential fact. McAlilley v. Wharton, 75 Ala. 491; Central P. R. Co. v. Placer Co., 43 Cal. 365; Jackson v. People, 9 Mich. 111, 77 Am. Dec. 491; Rayner v. State, 52 Md. 368; Lapan v. Com'rs, 65 Me. 160; State v. Davis, 48 N. J. L. 112; Ex parte Madison Tea Co., 62 Ala. 93; Rosson v. McElvaine, 49 Mich. 194; State v. Whitford, 54 Wis. 150; Gerdes v. Champion, 108 Ill. 137; People v. Smith, 45 N. Y. 776; People v. Betts, 55 N. Y. 600; Duggan v. McGruder, 12 Am. Dec. 529, 537 (note). Cited in note 23 Am. St. R. 108. Both in the strict original scope and in the broadened scope of the remedy, the errors specified must be such as appear wholly in the record brought up. Extrinsic matter cannot be offered either to show the existence of errors or a transcendence of jurisdiction. Fore v. Fore, 44 Ala. 478; Alexander v. Archer [Nev.] 24 P. 373; Miller v. McCullough, 21 Ark. 426; North v. Joslyn, 59 Mich. 624; Gallaway v. Corbett, 52 Mich. 60; Tuxberry v. Com'rs, 117 Mass. 563; Barclay v. Bradston, 49 N. J. L. 629; Emery v. Bran, 67 Me. 39; Lees v. Drainage Com'rs, 125 Ill. 47; People v. Talmadge, 46 Hun, 606; State v. Kemen, 61 Wis. 494; People v. Fire Com'rs, 73 N. Y. 437; Hannibal & St. J. R. Co. v. State Ward, 64 Mo. 296. Cited in note 23 Am. St. R. 108. Also Richardson v. Smith, 59 N. H. 517; Matthews v. Otsego Co., 48 Mich. 587; In re McCandless Turnpike Co., 110 Pa. 605; Beer v. Com'rs of Highways, 109 Ill. 379; Hyslop v. Finch, 99 Ill. 171; Campden v. Bloch, 65 Ala. 236; Dicus v. Bright, 23 Ark. 107; De Pedrorena v. Super. Ct., 80 Cal. 144; Menden v. Worcester, 5 Allen, 13. Cited in note 40 Am. St. R. 35.

64. Home Sav. & Trust Co. v. District Court of Polk County, 121 Iowa, 1, 95 N. W. 522. In New York, under a provision that the determination of the State Board of Equalization may be reversed where there is such a preponderance of proof against it that a verdict of a jury affirming the existence thereof in an action in the supreme court would be set aside as against the weight of evidence, the preponderance should be so great that the error would clearly appear to authorize a reversal [Code Civ. Proc. § 2140]. People v. Priest, 85 N. Y. S. 481. In certiorari to review an assessment, the return is not conclusive; the evidence may be considered. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. 168, 82 N. Y. S. 621. And the proceeding is substantially a new trial, admitting of additional proof. People v. Wells, 84 App. Div. 330, 82 N. Y. S. 564. See 1 Curr. L. 505, n. 91.

the findings of the lower court,[65] and the denials and allegations of a return, so far as they put in issue the material allegations of a petition, must be taken as true.[66] The mere allegation that a trial judge is biased, without a rule to take testimony as to such bias, cannot be considered.[67] Only the proceedings as they existed at the time of the adjudication can be reviewed.[68] Certiorari, in reviewing the action of a board of review, reaches only the judgment of the board, not the manner in which it was executed,[69] but the opinion as well as the judgment may, if necessary, be considered.[70]

§ 5. Judgment.[71]—Where certiorari is overruled, it is not erroneous to order that the judgment of the lower court proceed,[72] but final judgment may not be entered where certiorari is sustained,[73] though a former certiorari in the same case, complaining of a similar verdict, may have been sustained;[74] unless under no view of the case could there be a recovery against the petitioner.[75] The case may be remanded, however, to the justice court with instructions.[76] When the sole question is legal insufficiency of proof, it should not be rendered.[77] An injunction will not be set aside in proceedings for certiorari.[78]

Where it appears that the necessary consequence of a judgment such as the prosecutor seeks will be to injuriously affect the interest of third parties, or public interests not already represented in court, it is within the discretion of the court to defer judgment until those who are interested in sustaining the proceeding under review are made parties.[79]

In New Jersey, the legislature may confer upon a single justice of the supreme court power to hear and determine, after return and upon notice, any proceedings in certiorari, and direct that the order and determination of such justice therein shall be entered as the judgment of the supreme court.[80]

65. Appeal of Welsh, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 392. The appellate court will not review findings of fact, if there is any evidence to support the findings. Coles & Sons Co. v. Blythe, 69 N. J. Law, 666, 55 A. 816. The confirmation of an assessment for benefits or damages will not be reversed on certiorari where there are facts in the record returned to sustain the finding of the court that the assessment violated no legal principle. City of Newark v. Weeks [N. J. Law] 56 A. 118.

66. People v. Eno, 176 N. Y. 513, 68 N. E. 868; State v. Aucoin, 110 La. 959, 35 So. 141. At the hearing nothing can be considered but the petition and the answer, unless both parties agree that the court may consider facts not appearing in the record. Tyner v. Leake, 117 Ga. 990, 44 S. E. 812.

The return to a writ of review may not be contradicted by affidavits of the petitioner. Borchard v. Board of Sup'rs of Ventura County [Cal.] 77 P. 708.

Agreed facts: The court cannot act upon an agreement that the petition and answer shall be taken as true where not conflicting. It involves a comparison of two different statements and tends to create conflict where clearness is required. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Potter [Ga.] 47 S. E. 924.

67. State v. De Maio [N. J. Law] 55 A. 644.

68. A board of supervisors had been enjoined from levying a tax, to pay for a ditch. An amendment of its record made after submission of the injunction suit was sought to be availed of. Tod v. Crisman, 123 Iowa, 693, 99 N. W. 686.

69. State v. Lewis, 118 Wis. 432, 95 N. W. 388.

70. In certiorari to review summary proceedings, no review on the merits being permissible, and as a mere inspection of the docket would show nothing, the appellate court can look to the opinion as well as the action of the court to see whether it exceeded its jurisdiction or its proper legal discretion. Independence Party Nomination, 208 Pa. 108, 57 A. 344.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 505.

72. Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Giddens, 117 Ga. 799, 45 S. E. 67.

73. Bryan v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 117 Ga. 827, 45 S. E. 72.

74. Patterson v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 117 Ga. 827, 45 S. E. 250.

75. Widgeon v. Southern Exp. Co., 118 Ga. 841, 45 S. E. 679.

76. Patterson v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 117 Ga. 827, 45 S. E. 250.

77. Where the only error alleged in a petition for the writ is that the verdict was contrary to the evidence, the writ should be sustained but final judgment should not be entered, though the evidence demanded the writ and there is no conflict. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Blue [Ga.] 47 S. E. 569.

78. State v. Leche [La.] 36 So. 868.

79. MacFall v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 136. Judgment on the writ may be deferred in order to permit third parties to be brought in, who had acquired contractual rights under resolutions of a board of chosen freeholders. Allen v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hunterdon County [N. J. Law] 58 A. 346.

§ 6. Costs[81] are not ordinarily to be taxed against a board, officer or judge who it is alleged has exceeded lawful jurisdiction, but against the person procuring the order adjudged illegal to be entered.[82] The discretion lodged by the statutes in the court in the matter of costs is not revisable.[83]

§ 7. Review of certiorari.[84]—Error lies to the refusal of a certiorari,[85] and to review the action of the court below on the hearing.[86] All presumptions, however, are in favor of the judgment of the court below,[87] and questions which might have been made in the inferior judicatory, but which are not referred to in the petition for certiorari,[88] and questions not raised by the pleadings, will not be considered.[89] Neither will assignments of error and recitals of fact in a petition for certiorari not affirmatively verified in the answer.[90] In Georgia, where certiorari is the remedy for reviewing a justice's judgment on the merits, the grant of a first new trial, where the evidence conflicts and does not as a matter of law imperatively demand the verdict rendered, will not be reviewed.[91] Neither, where there is substantial evidence to support the verdict or finding, will the appellate court interfere with a judgment overruling the writ;[92] but where there is no sufficient evidence to support the verdict, a certiorari setting up such want of evidence should be sustained.[93]

80. Brown v. Street Lighting Dist. No. 1, 69 N. J. Law, 485, 55 A. 1080.

81. See 1 Curr. L. 505.

82. If not a party to the action, he may be brought in for this purpose by proper notice. Coffey v. Gamble [Iowa] 94 N. W. 936.

83. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Solomon, 138 Ala. 151, 34 So. 1025.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 506.

85. Lenney v. Finley, 118 Ga. 718, 45 S. E. 593.

86. Longstaff v. State [Wis.] 97 N. W. 900.

87. Where the answer of the justice of the peace does not set forth the evidence introduced on the trial of the case, nor verify that contained in the petition for certiorari, and where none of the assignments of error can be properly considered and determined without a reference to the evidence, an affirmance of the judgment overruling the certiorari necessarily results. Ballard v. Parker, 119 Ga. 803, 47 S. E. 171. When, upon the trial of a certiorari case, none of the assignments of error made in the petition for the writ can be determined without considering the evidence introduced in the lower court, and the answer of the judge of such court fails to disclose in any way what the evidence was, the judge of the superior court cannot do otherwise than to overrule the same. Colbert v. State, 118 Ga. 302, 45 S. E. 403. Where exception is taken to a judgment overruling a certiorari from a justice court in a case in which the decision of that court turned on the question of the priority of certain contesting liens, and the record fails to show the dates of the liens, the dates being material, the court must affirm the judgment, since it cannot be determined whether the decision in the justice court was erroneous or correct. Peak v. Simmons, 119 Ga. 63, 45 S. E. 698. Where the petition presents questions of both law and fact and the superior court sustains the writ without indicating the ground, and grants a new trial, the judgment will not be reversed in the absence of an abuse of discretion by the trial court. Goodman v. Butler, 119 Ga. 54, 47 S. E. 910.

88. Perry v. Brunswick & W. R. Co., 119 Ga. 819, 47 S. E. 172. A ground for reversal, not alleged in the petition, but urged for the first time on the hearing in the appellate court, will not be considered. Holz v. Rediske, 119 Wis. 563, 97 N. W. 162.

89. Where the declaration is not returned with the record and without it it is impossible to determine whether superior court committed error in his ruling on certiorari, an affirmance must follow. Ross v. Mercer, 118 Ga. 905, 45 S. E. 787. The plea of a defendant not having been embodied and returned in the certiorari record, the appellate court cannot pass upon the sufficiency of a demurrer thereto. Hodges v. Smith, 118 Ga. 789, 45 S. E. 617.

90. Shirling v. Kennon, 119 Ga. 501, 46 S. E. 630; Taylor v. Sandersville, 118 Ga. 63, 44 S. E. 845. Certain facts having been verified by the answer, it was not error to sustain certiorari. Thompson v. Hays, 119 Ga. 167, 45 S. E. 970.

91. Lovingood v. Lovingood, 119 Ga. 26, 45 S. E. 697; Flanders v. Wood, 113 Ga. 635, 38 S. E. 975; Ferry & Co. v. Mattox, 118 Ga. 146, 44 S. E. 1005; Shirley v. Swafford, 119 Ga. 43, 45 S. E. 722; Walker v. Hillyer, 119 Ga. 225, 46 S. E. 92; Lovvorn v. Jones, 119 Ga. 229, 46 S. E. 92. See 1 Curr. L. 506, n. 6.

92. Lovvorn v. Jones, 119 Ga. 229, 46 S. E. 92; Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Giddens, 117 Ga. 799, 45 S. E. 67; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Woolsey, 117 Ga. 838, 45 S. E. 267; Ramsey v. Rogers, 118 Ga. 868, 45 S. E. 693. Where the evidence is sufficient to warrant the finding of a justice of the peace, the superior court did not err in overruling a petition for certiorari. Mitcham v. Cochran, 119 Ga. 184, 45 S. E. 989. Where there was some conflict in the evidence, there was no error in refusing a certiorari, the only assignment of error being that the verdict was contrary to law and the evidence. Macon, D. & S. R. Co. v. Hightower, 119 Ga. 243, 46 S. E. 103.

93. Hudgins v. Lampkin, 118 Ga. 842, 45

CHAMPERTY AND MAINTENANCE.

A grant of land held adversely by one in the actual occupancy thereof[94] under a claim of title is void.[95] There must, however, be an ouster of possession.[96] In some states, however, such sale not coming within the statutory definition of "litigious rights," the sale is valid.[97] This rule against conveyances of land held adversely does not apply to judicial sales,[98] nor to a purchase-money mortgage given by the purchaser at such sale,[99] though by statutes in some states it applies to execution sales.[1] In states where the deed is void as to the adverse possessor only, an action cannot be maintained against the latter in the name of the grantee,[2] though one may be maintained against such claimant in the name of the grantor for the grantee's use.[3] The "adverse possession" intended by the Kentucky statute seems to be the same as that which might ripen into a title.[4]

Contingent fees are not champertous,[5] if no interest in the cause of action passes,[6] but it being shown that they are obtained from the suitor by any undue influence of the attorney over the client, or by any fraud or imposition, or that the compensation is clearly excessive, so as to amount to extortion, the court will protect the aggrieved party.[7] In New York, however, an agreement for a contingent fee, the attorney to advance all court costs, is champertous.[8] An agreement whereby an attorney is to be paid nothing for his services and disbursements in case of failure,[9] nor to have a debt for the same in case of success,[10] is cham-

S. E. 679. It appearing from the recitals of fact and the brief of the evidence set forth in the petition for certiorari that on the trial thereof in the justice court in which it was brought the defendants failed to establish by evidence any of the special defenses relied on by them, save only that they were entitled to a small credit upon the note sued on, but that the jury nevertheless returned a general verdict in their favor, the judge of the court below erred in refusing to sanction the plaintiff's petition for certiorari. Carter & Dorough v. Minton, 119 Ga. 474, 46 S. E. 658.

94. Tarvin v. Walker's Creek Coal & Coke Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2246, 80 S. W. 504. Life tenant does not hold adversely to reversioner. Lewis v. Lewis [Conn.] 57 A. 735. A conveyance, by a purchaser at a foreclosure sale, while the land is in the actual adverse possession of the mortgagor's lien, is champertous. Stovall v. Haynes, 25 Ky. L. R. 1789, 78 S. W. 895. See 1 Curr. L. 506, n. 19, 20.

95. Schneller v. Plankinton [N. D.] 98 N. W. 77. Will not support an action of ejectment against the adverse claimant. Smith v. Klay [Fla.] 36 So. 54. See 1 Curr. L. 506, n. 13.

96. That there is an overhanging structure does not render the conveyance void [Gen. St. 1902, § 4042]. Norwalk Heating & Lighting Co. v. Vernam, 75 Conn. 662, 55 A. 168.

97. Sanders v. Ditch, 110 La. 884, 34 So. 860.

98. De Garmo v. Phelps, 176 N. Y. 455, 68 N. E. 873.

99. Given the same day he obtained the deed. De Garmo v. Phelps, 176 N. Y. 455, 68 N. E. 873.

1. Ky. St. 1899, § 210. Farmers' Bank v. Pryse, 25 Ky. L. R. 807, 76 S. W. 358.

2, 3. Schneller v. Plankinton [N. D.] 98 N. W. 77. See 1 Curr. L. 507. n. 26.

4. If several grants be conveyed as one tract and the grantee's tenant leases all but occupies only one, there is a possession of all adverse to a hostile claimant of the unoccupied tract. Such claimant's deed is void as to all. Scott v. Mineral Development Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 497.

5. A contract with an attorney to prosecute claims for 10 per cent of the amount collected held legal. Williams v. Phila., 208 Pa. 282, 57 A. 578. An agreement whereby one agrees to look up and collect all taxes on property which had escaped taxation, he standing all expenses and receiving a percentage of the amount collected, is not champertous. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 507, n. 28, 29.

7. Swiss immigrant badly injured, contingent fee was ½ of amount recovered, which amounted to $10,000, which was voluntarily paid; held, the condition of the client and fairness of the transaction were for the jury. Muller v. Kelly [C. C. A.] 125 F. 212.

NOTE. Disbarment of attorney: An attorney making a champertous agreement is guilty of a flagrant breech of professional duty and is thereby rendered amenable to the summary jurisdiction of the court, which may disbar him therefor. In re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L. R. A. 952.

8. Taylor v. Enthoven, 88 N. Y. S. 138.

9. Begly v. Weddigen, 86 App. Div. 629, 83 N. Y. S. 805.

10. Gargano v. Pope, 184 Mass. 571, 69 N. E. 343; Robertson v. Cayard [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1056.

NOTE. Agreement to pay judgment: An agreement by an attorney to pay any judgment that should be finally rendered against his client in a certain suit, in consideration of the latter appealing the case and paying the attorney a fee for conducting the same, is void as against public policy and cannot pertous,[11] and such contract providing that it should cover services rendered or to be rendered, its invalidity is not affected by the fact that services were rendered prior to its execution.[12] An assignment of an allowed claim to secure fees is not a "buying * * * in order to bring action."[13] In Washington, the doctrine of champerty respecting fees to be paid out of the recovery has been abrogated.[14]

Contracts by litigants[15] with others in consideration of aid given to share in the fruits of the litigation are not void.[16] An agreement by one having any interest in the subject-matter, whether it be legal or equitable, great or small, vested or contingent, certain or uncertain, to prosecute the suit is not champerty or maintenance.[17] A wife assisting her husband financially in prosecuting a suit to judgment is not guilty of champerty.[18]

A bona fide sale or assignment of a right of action is not champertous, even though legal proceedings may be necessary to reduce it to possession,[19] nor is such an assignment of an interest in a pending action, each party to pay his proportionate share of the expenses of the litigation, maintenance.[20] The assignment of an interest in the cause of action to one's attorney is not barratry where the attorney did not induce the employment by personal solicitation nor by loans or promises thereof.[21] In states where an attorney is prohibited from purchasing choses in action, a bona fide assignee of an attorney purchasing such a claim may enforce the claim;[22] but the attorney cannot maintain an action on a claim assigned to him for the purpose of bringing an action in the county.[23]

Champerty is a defense[24] only where the champertous agreement is sought to be enforced.[25] Equity has jurisdiction to relieve one from a champertous contract on the ground of constructive fraud,[26] and the aggrieved party is not debarred from such relief on the ground that he is in pari delicto and does not come into equity with clean hands.[27]

CHARITABLE GIFTS.

§ 1. Nature and Essentials; Validity (678).
§ 2. Capacity of Donee or Trustee (680).
§ 3. Interpretation and Construction (680).
§ 4. Administration and Enforcement (681).

§ 1. Nature and essentials; validity.[28]—To come within the rule of charitable be enforced by either attorney or client. Adye v. Hanna, 47 Iowa, 264, 29 Am. Rep. 484.—From note to Bowman v. Phillips, 13 Am. St. Rep. 292, 299.

11. Note: But there are numerous authorities holding that a contract to pay the attorney a percentage of the recovery, contingent upon his success in the suit, is not champertous but valid (McDonald v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 29 Iowa, 170; Newkirk v. Cone, 18 Ill. 449; Jewell v. Neidy, 61 Iowa, 299, 16 N. W. 141; Stewart v. H. & T. C. R. Co., 62 Tex. 246; Jeffries v. Mut. L. Ins. Co., 110 U. S. 305, 4 S. Ct. 8); unless some unfair advantage is taken of the client (Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81).—From note to Shirk v. Neible, 83 Am. St. Rep. 150, 170.

12. Gargano v. Pape, 184 Mass. 571, 69 N. E. 343.

13. Pen. Code, § 161. In re Cummins' Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 479.

14. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5165. Agreement to sue for a third and pay all disbursements is valid. Smits v. Hogan [Wash.] 77 P. 390.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 507.

16. As against public policy. Fenn v. McCarrell, 208 Pa. 615, 57 A. 1108.

17. An agreement whereby an assignor who retains a contingent interest in the property agrees to prosecute for an alleged trespass for the benefit of the assignee at the latter's expense is not champertous nor in violation of Pen. Code, § 320. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 P. 123.

18. Ex parte Hiers [S. C.] 45 S. E. 146.

19. Assignment of claim for damages, consisting only of attorney's fees to attorney, held valid. Lacey v. Davis [Iowa] 98 N. W. 366.

20. Mills' Ann. St. § 1299. O'Driscoll v. Doyle, 31 Colo. 193, 73 P. 27.

21. Mo., K. & T. R. Co. v. Bacon [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 572.

22. Holding that Code Civ. Proc. §§ 73, 74, 75, does not render the purchase by the attorney void, but simply denies to him the use of the courts for the purpose of prosecution. Beers v. Washbond, 86 App. Div. 582, 83 N. Y. S. 993.

23. Sugarman v. Mandolia, 88 N. Y. S. 393.

24. See 1 Curr. L. 507.

25. Debtor cannot object in suit by as-uses, the gift must be to a public charity;[29] thus a Young Men's Christian Association,[30] or a gift to a school district, to be devoted to the education of poor children,[31] or a devise to the pastors and deacons in trust for a church,[32] or a devise to furnish homes to industrious girls at the least possible cost to them, and providing that others so inclined might add to it,[33] but not a railroad relief department maintained by sums deducted from the wages of employes,[34] nor a devise for the purpose of educating the descendants of two persons named,[35] is public. There must be a sufficiently defined property or fund given.[36] No trustee is necessary.[37] In most of the states, it is regarded inherent in a public charity that the beneficiaries be somewhat uncertain, and in these it suffices if a purpose be indicated and the ultimate beneficiaries be capable of selection or ascertainment in administering it.[38] Where the doctrine of charitable gifts is not in force, the essentials of a private express trust must be found.[39] Thus a definite beneficiary,[40] and a trustee capable of taking, are essential.[41] If a particular donee be indicated, it must at least be ascertainable.[42] A vested[43] gift for charity is not within the signee. Lacey v. Davis [Iowa] 98 N. W. 366. Not in the original action. Forbes v. Mohr [Kan.] 76 P. 827. Does not bar the original suit. Robertson v. Cayard [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 1056.

26. Contingent attorney's fee. Gargano v. Pape, 184 Mass. 571, 69 N. E. 343.

27. Gargano v. Pape, 184 Mass. 671, 69 N. E. 343.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 510.

29. Historical and antiquarian society which permitted visitors but was not obliged to do so, held not charitable so as to be exempt from inheritance tax. In re Landis' Estate [N. J. Prerog.] 56 A. 1039.

Note: A gift to charity is one that extends to the rich as well as the poor. (Mitford v. Reynolds, 1 Phill. Ch. 185; Coggshall v. Pelton, 7 Johns. 292; Perrin v. Carey, 24 How. 465; Kain v. Gibboney, 101 U. S. 362), and must confer a public benefit open to an indefinite number of persons (Festorazzi v. St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 104 Ala. 327, 53 Am. St. Rep. 48), and may be applied to anything that tends to promote the well doing or well being of man (Ould v. Washington Hospital, 95 U. S. 303; Protestant, etc., Soc. v. Churchman, 80 Va. 718), thus schools (Curling v. Curling, 8 Dana, 38, 33 Am. Dec. 475; Gerke v. Purcell, 25 Ohio St. 229; Magee v. O'Niell, 19 S. C. 170), libraries (Maynard v. Woodward, 36 Mich. 423; Duggan v. Slocum, 83 F. 244; Hinckley's Estate, 58 Cal. 457) and the relief of the poor and unfortunate (Camp v. Crocker, 52 Conn. 412; Darcy v. Kelly, 153 Mass. 433.—From note to Hoeffer v. Clogan, 63 Am. St. Rep. 248.

30. Property exempt from taxation. Com. v. Y. M. C. A., 25 Ky. L. R. 940, 76 S. W. 522.

31. Though the surplus if any was to go to the district. Com. v. Pollitt, 25 Ky. L. R. 790, 76 S. W. 412.

32. Osgood v. Rogers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 306.

33. In re Daly's Estate, 208 Pa. 58, 57 A. 180.

34. Liable for negligence in selecting a physician. Haggerty v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424, 74 S. W. 456.

35. Within the rule against perpetuities. Johnson v. De Pauw University, 35 Ky. L. R. 950, 76 S. W. 851.

36. Gidley v. Lovenberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 831. A devise of the rents of a building carries the building itself [Rev. St. 1895, art. 624]. Id.

37. Where an executor was to use a certain fund to organize a charity and he was also "detainer" of the estate until the provisions of the will were carried out, the bequest was not void for want of a trustee. Gidley v. Lovenberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 831.

38. See 5 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 905.

Illustrations: A devise to an executor to be distributed "to the poor in his discretion," under Ky. St. 1899, § 317. Thompson's Ex'r v. Brown, 25 Ky. L. R. 371, 75 S. W. 210. Gift to an executor to be disposed of in such proportions as he may deem wise for the aid of certain religious societies [Ky. St. 1903, § 317]. Leak's Heirs v. Leak's Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1703, 78 S. W. 471. Devise for the benefit of the unfortunate widows and orphans of a certain town or the indigent Israelites of a certain city. Gidley v. Lovenberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 831. To furnish homes for industrious girls. In re Daly's Estate, 208 Pa. 58, 57 A. 180. For the benefit of the white public schools, or for a city hospital as the city authorities should elect, is certain. City of Huntsville v. Smith, 137 Ala. 382, 35 So. 120.

39. See Trusts, 2 Curr. L. 1924.

40. The beneficiary must be definite. Devise to an unincorporated association is void. Laws 1893, p. 1748, c. 701 was not in effect when this devise was made. Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316, 70 N. E. 870. Nor could it take affect as a power in trust. Id. A devise to a class is sufficiently definite. To those suffering from destruction of property by storms, floods and fire and other accidental natural causes, who are fairly entitled to relief. Kronshage v. Varrell [Wis.] 97 N. W. 928.

41. Prior to 1893, a gift to an unincorporated body was void in New York. Nor was a gift in trust for such body valid. 1 Rev. St. (1st Ed.) pt. 2, c. 1. Murray v. Miller, 85 App. Div. 414, 83 N. Y. S. 591. Laws 1893, c. 701, are not retroactive. Id.

42. Gift to be divided between Indian and Domestic missions of the United States, nothing to show that any society was to take the bequest. Bowman v. Domestic & Foreign Missionary Soc., 42 Misc. 574, 87 N. Y. S.

rule against perpetuities.[44] Such rule, however, defeats a trust in those states where charitable trusts are not recognized,[45] but not a gift direct without any trust.[46] The doctrine of charitable uses does not exist in Michigan[47] nor Wisconsin,[48] and formerly not in New York,[49] but does in Massachusetts.[50]

The validity of a charitable gift in a will depends on the law of the state where the testator was domiciled and the lands devised are situated.[51] Where the instrument creating the gift is required to be attested, the attestation must be legal.[52]

§ 2. Capacity of donee or trustee.[53]—The donee's capacity is measured at the time when the gift must vest,[54] hence nonexistence of a contemplated corporate donee is not an objection.[55] A limitation in the charter of a corporation as to the amount of property it may hold is for the benefit of the general public, and heirs cannot object,[56] nor can the state up to that amount.[57] Where charitable trusts are not recognized if the donee is not empowered to take at the death of the testator, the gift is void.[58] A legislative "sanction" of such gifts may be read in a general charter power to take real estate.[59]

§ 3. Interpretation and construction.[60]—The ordinary rules of interpretation apply.[61] A few specific instances follow.

Where the trustee or donee is designated by ambiguous terms, that construction will be adopted which seems to accord with the intention of the donor.[62]

621. Domestic and foreign missionary society not entitled to take. Id.

43. It has no application where a postponement respecting the gift goes only to its form or mode. It is vested. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

44. Accumulations can be directed beyond lives. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

45. Gift to officer of unincorporated society, being in trust to be applied to the use of such body, was invalid as in violation of the rule against perpetuities. Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316, 70 N. E. 870. As creating a passive trust. Id. Nor could it take effect as a power in trust. The trust being void, the power in trust would also be. Id.

46. A gift of personalty to an incorporated association to be invested and the proceeds applied for its own benefit is a gift absolute and valid. Not a trust. Statute against perpetuities does not apply. In re Daniels' Estate, 41 Misc. 299, 84 N. Y. S. 684.

47. A gift to establish a bed in perpetuity in a hospital and income of another sum to be applied to relief of certain needy poor is void. Hopkins v. Crossley [Mich.] 96 N. W. 499.

48. A devise to trustees to be conveyed to a city for specified purposes held to convey absolute title. Hence not in violation of the rule. Danforth v. Oshkosh, 119 Wis. 262, 97 N. W. 258. Strong dissenting opinion discusses origin of the doctrine. Id.

49. Murray v. Miller, 85 App. Div. 414, 83 N. Y. S. 591.

50, 51. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

52. Under P. L. 322, one witness signed a will before the testator and the other without seeing the testator sign. Appeal of Appley, 206 Pa. 1, 55 A. 795.

53. See 1 Curr. L. 512.

54. A gift limited after a life estate to a person who shall be known at the death of the testator as the treasurer of an unincorporated body vested at the testator's death. The treasurer of an incorporated body could not take. Murray v. Miller, 85 App. Div. 414, 83 N. Y. S. 591. Could not be affected by subsequent legislation. Id.

55. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

56. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796. See 1 Curr. L. 512, n. 11.

Note: Whether a gift is void as to any excess above its legal capacity to take, there is a conflict. In re McGraw's Estate, 111 N. Y. 66, 7 Am. St. Rep. 684, n., 2 L. R. A. 255, n.; Wood v. Hammond, 16 R. I. 98, holding that it is and Farrington v. Putnam, 90 Me. 405, 38 L. R. A. 339; Hanson v. Little Sisters of the Poor, 79 Md. 434, 32 L. R. A. 293, n.; Hamsler v. Hamsler, 132 Ill. 273, 8 L. R. A. 556; Jones v. Habersham, 107 U. S. 174, holding that such gifts can only be attacked in a direct proceeding by the state. See Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

57. Where a state has authorized a particular corporation to hold property to a certain amount, it cannot object to its taking by devise up to such amount. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

58. Cannot be affected by subsequent legislation. Murray v. Miller, 85 App. Div. 414, 83 N. Y. S. 591.

59. Charter creating "Sisters of Charity" empowered to acquire real estate satisfies Declar. Rights, art. 38. Rogers v. Sisters of Charity, 97 Md. 550, 55 A. 318.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 512.

61. See Deeds of Conveyance, 1 Curr. L. 908; Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076. A bequest of all personal property, to be sold and the proceeds devoted to a charity did not carry money on deposit at date of donor's death. City of Huntsville v. Smith, 137 Ala. 382, 35 So. 120.

62. By will a bequest was left to the

Where the corporate name was "The mayor and aldermen of the city of Huntsville," a gift to the "City of Huntsville" was certain.[63] Words defining the number of beneficiaries will mean so many each year if revenue is to be applied annually.[64] A bequest for the benefit of the poor of a certain district is not for the exclusive benefit of the paupers of such district.[65]

A deed of feoffment to a society able to take land, for the use of another passes title to the latter under the statute of uses.[66] Under a devise to a school district unless testator's son should return, the district took a defeasible fee.[67] A gift is not contingent merely because the executor may die before the charity is organized to which he is to transfer the property.[68] Different charities do not necessarily hold a gift in severalty because it was given in "parts."[69]

§ 4. Administration and enforcement.[70]—Only trustees legally appointed may act,[71] and long acquiescence by the clerical managers in the actions of others did not give such others the right to act.[72] Where the original trustees die, others may be appointed in their stead,[73] and persons who by the language of the will would have been suitable to the donor should be appointed.[74] The trust must be accepted.[75] The board of managers may act by the concurrence of a majority of its members.[76]

The gift must be administered according to the directions of the donor,[77] but when it becomes impossible to administer it according to his directions, the general purpose should be carried out as nearly as practicable.[78] Where a beneficiary

Baptist church and society of K. This description was equally applicable to two societies, one of which the donor had at times attended. Preston v. Foster, 75 Conn. 709, 55 A. 558. A devise to create a charity and directing the executors to obtain a charter constituted them trustees until the corporate organization was completed. No failure as to trustee. In re Daly's Estate, 208 Pa. 58, 57 A. 180. A provision appointing as managers of a fund the ministers of the oldest Episcopalian, Congregational and Presbyterian churches, means three ministers. City of Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, 68 N. E. 851. Where the minister of the oldest Congregational church was named as trustee, "Congregational" referred to that well known denomination. Id.

63. City of Huntsville v. Smith, 137 Ala. 382, 35 So. 120.

64. A judgment in a suit to construe a will, directing the executor to loan money, and collect interest annually and appropriate it to the education of four poor children, to be selected by him, meant that four children were to be selected each year, not that only four were to be educated. Gray v. Gray's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 848, 70 S. W. 46.

65. Though it was to be administered by the overseers of the poor. Brookville Borough v. Startzell, 207 Pa. 347, 56 A. 938.

66. Conveyance to the Sisters of Charity for the use of an orphan asylum. Rogers v. Sisters of Charity, 97 Md. 550, 55 A. 318.

67. Com. v. Pollitt, 25 Ky. L. R. 790, 76 S. W. 412.

68. Where, after the death of a life tenant, the executors were to apply the property to a charity and the executors died before the life tenants, the devise was valid. Gidley v. Lovenberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 831.

69. Where only the income was to be used, they took as tenants in common. Osgood v. Rogers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 306.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 512.

71. Where selectmen were named as managers of a fund and the office was abolished and the mayor and aldermen became their successors as officers of the city, they did not become managers of the fund. City of Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, 68 N. E. 851.

72. Three ministers and the board of selectmen were appointed by the will. The office of selectmen was abolished and the mayor and aldermen for some time acted with the ministers. City of Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, 68 N. E. 851.

73. Loyd v. Webster, 117 Ga. 775, 45 S. E. 77.

74. In one clause it said "It is presumed that there will always be virtuous and benevolent citizens." City of Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, 68 N. E. 851. Rev. Laws, c. 149, § 1, in relation to the giving of bond by trustees, is not applicable to managers of a fund devised to charity. Id.

75. There was a sufficient acceptance where a town at a legally warned meeting voted to accept a bequest. Bequest for an academy and providing that the town should appoint a board of trustees. This was done at the meeting. Bellows Free Academy v. Sowles [Vt.] 57 A. 996.

76. City of Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, 68 N. E. 851.

77. Body of persons appointed to administer the fund had no power to establish a pay pupil department. Rankine v. De Veaux College, 41 Misc. 655, 85 N. Y. S. 239. A bequest to erect a building upon a certain lot unless some other person donated a lot cannot be located on a lot acquired by the board of trustees. State v. Chickering [N. H.] 56 A. 937.

78. The office of selectmen who were appointed trustees was abolished. The will made no other provision. City of Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, 68 N. E. 851, and cases cited.

church established another and then went out of existence, the case was a proper one for the application of the cy pres doctrine.[79] A trustee cannot compromise with those contesting the validity of a bequest and accept less than the amount thereof,[80] and an agreement entered into by his attorney without his consent with a part of the heirs is not binding.[81] Under a bequest of certain corporate stock, the dividends of which were to be reinvested in the same stock until the fund reached a certain amount, the trustees had power to sell the stock when its market value would realize such amount.[82] Where a town was the real trustee, it was the proper party to maintain an action for an interference with the fund.[83] The fact that the trustees incorporated does not constitute an attempt to divert funds contrary to the provisions of the will.[84]

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.[1]

§ 1. What Constitutes a Chattel Mortgage (682).
§ 2. Subject-Matter. What may be Mortgaged (683).
§ 3. Consideration (684).
§ 4. Fraudulent Conveyances (685).
§ 5. Form, Execution, and Delivery (686). Acknowledgment, Affidavit and Extension (687).
§ 6. Filing or Recording and Notice of Title or Rights (687). Notice of Title or Rights (690).
§ 7. Title and Ownership (690).
§ 8. Right of Possession (691).
§ 9. Liens and Priorities; Waiver; Duration of Mortgage Lien (693).
§ 10. Disposal and Use of the Property by the Mortgagor (694).
§ 11. Assignment of the Mortgage (695).
§ 12. Payment and Discharge (695).
§ 13. Redemption (696).
§ 14. Foreclosnre (696).
§ 15. Remedies as Between the Parties (698).
§ 16. Remedies Against Third Persons (698).

§ 1. What constitutes a chattel mortgage.[2]—The essential element of a chattel mortgage is that it be given to secure a debt.[3] No particular form is necessary;[4] there must, however, be a present conveyance of the property,[5] and an express or implied defeasance.[6] If possible, the intention of the parties will be given effect;[7] thus bills of sale,[8] conditional sales, title remaining in the vendor,[9] leases,[10] deeds of trust,[11] and a written assignment of an insurance policy as col-

79. Osgood v. Rogers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 306. The supreme judicial court in a case pending before it has power to frame a scheme for administration under the cy pres doctrine. Id.

80, 81. Lake v. Hood [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 323.

82. Bellows Free Academy v. Sowles [Vt.] 57 A. 996.

83. Regardless of the fact that trustees appointed by it had incorporated. Bellows Free Academy v. Sowles [Vt.] 57 A. 996.

84. A will provided that trustees appointed by the town should have charge of the fund. A private act was passed under which they incorporated. Nothing has been done or attempted contrary to the provisions of the will. Bellows Free Academy v. Sowles [Vt.] 57 A. 996.

1. See Bankruptcy, 1 Curr. L. 311, for chattel mortgages as preferences or fraudulent transfer under bankruptcy act. See Limitation of Actions, 2 Curr. L. 746, for operation of limitation laws on chattel mortgage. See Fraudulent Conveyances, 2 Curr. L. 116, for mortgage in fraud of creditors.

2. See 1 Curr. L. 513.

3. First Nat. Bank v. Taylor [Kan.] 76 P. 425. The existence of this element is not implied in a provision that a bill of sale shall be void if the grantors shall pay a certain sum of money by a certain day. Smith v. Hope [Fla.] 35 So. 865. See 1 Curr. L. 513, n. 36.

4. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115.

5. A negotiable promissory note containing a statement that a piano was given as collateral security for its payment, joined with a power of sale, held not a mortgage of the piano, nor was this changed by the recording of the note. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115.

6. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115. See 1 Curr. L. 513, n. 37.

7. Smith v. Hope [Fla.] 35 So. 865.

8. Thompson v. Dyer [R. I.] 55 A. 824; Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978; Dickinson v. Oliver, 89 N. Y. S. 52; Denton Bros. v. Shields [Ga.] 48 S. E. 423; Miller v. Campbell Commission Co., 13 Okl. 75, 74 P. 507. See 1 Curr. L. 514, n. 39, 40.

9. Not only as against third persons, but also between the parties to the instrument. Hall v. Keating I. & Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1054; In re Carpenter, 125 F. 831. See 1 Curr. L. 513, n. 38.

10. Ward v. Rippe [Minn.] 100 N. W. 386; Dickinson v. Oliver, 89 N. Y. S. 52. A lease assumed to be an equitable mortgage. Thurlough v. Dresser, 98 Me. 161, 56 A. 654. See 1 Curr. L. 514, n. 41.

11. To secure creditors. Smead v. Chandler & Co., 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066.

lateral security for a note,[12] have been held chattel mortgages. A bill of sale absolute upon its face may be shown by parol testimony to be a chattel mortgage,[13] but if the circumstances which render a conditional sale a mortgage in law do not appear from the bill, they must be set up by plea or answer.[14] A statute providing that a conveyance absolute on its face, the maker parting with the possession of the property, cannot, in the absence of fraud, be shown to be a mortgage, applies only to tangible property.[15] The test to distinguish a mortgage from an assignment for the benefit of creditors is: whether the intention at the time of execution was to divest the debtor of the title, and so make an appropriation of the property affected to the raising of a fund to pay debts, or merely was to secure the payment of debts.[16]

§ 2. Subject-matter. What may be mortgaged.[17]—Any property which may be sold, is, as a general rule, capable of being mortgaged.[18] An alienable contingent interest[19] may be mortgaged, and a mortgage on future acquired property is valid in equity;[20] thus a manufacturer may make a valid mortgage of raw material to be purchased in the future, and of the product to be made therefrom.[21] Growing crops,[22] and crops to be grown,[23] may be mortgaged, the lien attaching, as between the parties, upon the property coming into the possession of the mortgagor,[24] and, as between such parties, it relates back to the date of the mortgage,[25] and it makes no difference whether the crops are raised by the mortgagor or his sublessee.[26] In some states it is a crime to mortgage personal property held under conditional purchase.[27]

Title and interest of mortgagor.[28]—The mortgagor must have title to the property.[29]

Description of property.[30]—The description must be such as, aided by the inquiries which the mortgage itself indicates and directs, will enable third persons to identify the property.[31] One being in possession of facts from which he must,

12. Manhattan L. Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

13. Miller v. Campbell Commission Co., 13 Okl. 75, 74 P. 507.

14. In such a case the conditional sale will not be held a mortgage upon demurrer. Smith v. Hope [Fla.] 35 So. 865.

15. Rev. Code 1892, § 4233 does not embrace the transfer of life insurance policies during the life of the assured. Armstrong v. Owens [Miss.] 35 So. 320.

16. Smead v. Chandler & Co., 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066.

17. Sec 1 Curr. L. 514.

18. For exceptions see 1 Curr. L. 514, n. 42, 43. A diamond ring. Salabes v. Castelberg [Md.] 57 A. 20.

19. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946. Such a mortgage is presumed to be bona fide. Id.

20. Mortgage of a stock of drugs and fixtures and the property to be placed on the premises by way of replenishment, held valid. Stoll v. Sibson [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 710; Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. Covers property whether acquired by original mortgagor or purchaser. Stoll v. Sibson [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 710.

21. Logs and the lumber to be made therefrom. Morton v. Williamson Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 235.

22. Hayes v. First State Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 423.

23. The planting and growing being provided and stipulated for in such mortgage [St. 1893, c. 48, art. 1, § 8]. Eckles v. Ray, 13 Okl. 541, 75 P. 286. An agreement to execute a mortgage upon crops to be grown in the future will be enforced in equity if sufficiently definite in its terms and clearly established, and the situation of the parties and property is such that justice and equity call for such a remedy. Sporer v. McDermott [Neb.] 96 N. W. 232, 659; Ryan v. Donley [Neb.] 96 N. W. 234.

24. Morton v. Williamson Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 235.

25. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11.

26. The lessee of real estate for cash rent gave a mortgage upon crops to be planted and grown on the leased premises as security for the contracted rental value. Eckles v. Ray, 13 Okl. 541, 75 P. 286.

27. Under Pen. Code 1895, § 673, it is necessary to show that the mortgage was given "with intent to defraud the vendor," and if the mortgagor is ignorant of the fact that the title has been reserved, he cannot properly be convicted of the offense. Miley v. State, 118 Ga. 274, 45 S. E. 245.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 514.

29. A chattel mortgage by a husband covering separate property of the wife cannot be foreclosed as to such property. Parish v. Austin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 583. See 1 Curr. L. 514, n. 45.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 514.

31. Salabes v. Castelberg [Md.] 57 A. 20. A chattel mortgage covered 482 head of steers, two and three years old past, all as a person of ordinary intelligence, know that certain chattels are included in a mortgage, the description is sufficient as to him, though slightly incorrect.[32] Parol evidence is always admissible to identify the property included in a chattel mortgage.[33] A mortgage given to cover only a part of a lot or mass of chattels of the same kind and description is valid.[34] A statute requiring the description to be in writing or typewriting, but not printed on the face of the instrument, is not unconstitutional.[35] A mortgage covers only property included in its terms,[36] and does not extend to substituted property.[37]

§ 3. Consideration.[38]—A mortgage may be given to secure one on a contingent liability,[39] it may be given to secure future advances,[40] but no advances dehorned, and all branded with a certain brand, and recited that they were owned by the mortgagor and were in his possession on certain described premises, it being shown that the mortgagor had on the premises described but 471 head of steers of the ages specified, held to convey such 471 head although some of them were not dehorned or branded. George Adams & Frederick Co. v. South Omaha Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 123 F. 641. A mortgage upon growing grass, stipulating that it shall cover the hay in stacks, is good on the hay in stack against an execution creditor, the mortgagor being still in possession. Hayes v. First State Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 423. Property described in a mortgage as "all the dry goods, etc., kept in stock at the storehouse and warerooms," of the mortgagor "at L," is sufficiently identified by proof that there is but one store at L. Rice v. Sally, 176 Mo. 107, 75 S. W. 398. A chattel mortgage describing all the property of the mortgagor of certain kinds "now being and remaining" in his possession is sufficient. In re Beede, 126 F. 853.

Illustrations as to specific chattels: Cattle; description held sufficient. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 F. 543; Goff v. Byers Bros. & Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1037; Greer v. Crenshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 589; Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081. Description held insufficient. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 F. 543; Packers Nat. Bank v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 503, 98 N. W. 310.

Crops: Description held sufficient. Becker v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 45. Held insufficient. Thurlough v. Dresser, 98 Me. 161, 56 A. 654.

Diamond ring: Description held sufficient. Salabee v. Castelberg [Md.] 57 A. 20.

Contractor's outfit: Description held sufficient. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819.

Description of livery property, together with all after-acquired property, held sufficient. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 351, 56 A. 11.

32. Described cattle as being branded on left hip instead of on the right hip. Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo [Okl.] 77 P. 46. Mortgage on specifically described cattle said to be on the mortgagor's farm, "section 6, town 44," etc., in J. county. The land described was in P. county, into which the mortgagor's farm extended; held, defect not fatal. Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081.

33. Becker v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 45.

34. Whether it discloses that only a part of the lot is embraced is immaterial. Sparks v. Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 1481, 78 S. W. 171.

NOTE. Validity of such mortgage in general: Cases collated by O'Rear, J. The authorities are not uniform as to whether such mortgage is void. As between the parties to it, it is generally held to be valid. Call v. Gray, 37 N. H. 428, 75 Am. Dec. 141; Williamson v. Steele, 3 Lea [Tenn.] 527, 31 Am. Rep. 652; Stephens v. Tucker, 14 N. J. Law, 600. In some cases it has been held valid as against purchasers or creditors when the parties to such mortgage, conceded to be invalid, have designated the property to be included by setting it apart, or separating it from the general bulk, or by the mortgagee's taking possession of a part which the parties thereby show an intention to designate as the part embraced by the mortgage. Parsons Sav. Bank v. Sargent, 20 Kan. 576; Brittain Dry Goods Co. v. Blanchard, 60 Kan. 253, 56 P. 474; Pruett v. Warren, 87 Mo. App. 556; Inter-State Galloway Cattle Co. v. McLain, 42 Kan. 680, 22 P. 728. The reason for holding these mortgages valid may be found in the following cases: Heyward's Case, 2 Co. Litt. 145; Bacon's Abr. "Election" (B); Mervyn v. Lyds, Dyer, 90a; Wofford v. McKinna, 23 Tex. 36, 76 Am. Dec. 53; Call v. Gray, 37 N. H. 428, 75 Am. Dec. 141; Oxsheer v. Watt, 91 Tex. 124, 41 S. W. 466, 66 Am. St. Rep. 863. It is called the doctrine of selection or election, for by such instrument the grantor impliedly invests his grantee with the right to select the stated number or quantity from the greater. Injustice to neither mortgagor, purchaser nor creditor can result from this rule; for, unless the election is made before the rights of the purchaser or creditor intervene, the latter will be entitled to at least the average of the whole, or maybe to themselves have choice, leaving enough of the average of the whole to satisfy the mortgage. See Sparks v. Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 1481, 78 S. W. 171.

35. Civ. Code 1902, § 3002 does not violate the 14th amendment to the Federal constitution, nor the constitution of South Carolina, 1895, art. 1, § 5. Rose v. Harllee [S. C.] 48 S. E. 541.

36. Mortgage covered goods enumerated in an annexed schedule, held not to include goods not enumerated in said schedule, which were sold to mortgagor and replevied by the vendor. Lembeck & B. E. Brew. Co. v. Hatch, 88 N. Y. S. 1068.

37. Vinall v. Hendricks [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 682.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 515.

39. To secure the mortgagee against loss being made thereunder, no lien attaches to the property described therein.[41] The sufficiency of the description of the debts, obligations, and undertaking intended to be secured by a chattel mortgage, are governed by the rules applicable to real estate mortgages.[42] The affidavit of mortgagee stating the consideration, though annexed to the mortgage, is not conclusive thereof.[43] In some states it is unlawful for the mortgagee to require the mortgagor to pay taxes on the interest covenanted to be made.[44]

§ 4. Fraudulent conveyances.[45]—A mortgage permitting the mortgagor to retain and sell the mortgaged property in the ordinary course of trade[46] is valid as between the parties,[47] though fraudulent as to creditors[48] unless, by the terms of as surety on a debt of the mortgagor. Gee v. Van Natta-Lynds Drug Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 288.

40, 41. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 73 P. 342.

42. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. A common-law chattel mortgage conditioned to secure the mortgagee for the payment of all that the mortgagor then owed the mortgagee, or might thereafter owe him by note, book account, or in any other manner, is sufficient to include a subsequent indebtedness arising for rent of buildings (Id.), and the liability of the mortgagee as surety on one of the mortgagor's notes to a bank (Id.). A mortgage given to secure a $1,000 note and renewals thereof, and all other advances by the mortgagee "now made or to be hereafter made" is sufficiently specific to put a subsequent mortgagee with notice of it on inquiry and enable him to ascertain the exact amount secured. First Nat. Bank v. Reid, 122 Iowa, 280, 98 N. W. 107. Evidence as to knowledge of mortgagor of business methods examined and held to show that a third chattel mortgage did not include the sums secured by the prior mortgages. Miller v. De Yoe [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 179.

43. Miller v. Gourley [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1083.

44. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 81, § 146d, as amended by Acts 1902, p. 33, c. 26, obliging a mortgagee to make affidavit that he has not required and will not require the mortgagor to pay the tax on the interest covenanted to be paid, does not apply to a purchase-money chattel mortgage, interest not being covenanted for, or, so far as appears, secretly or indirectly provided for. Salabes v. Castelberg [Md.] 57 A. 20.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 516.

46. A mortgage on the goods of a corporation allowing it to conduct its usual business and sell such property in the usual course thereof, held to allow it to deposit part of such goods in warehouses outside of the state where located and use the warehouse receipts as collateral for its commercial paper. Anderson v. Anderson Food Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 489.

47. Skilton v. Coddington, 86 App. Div. 166, 13 Ann. Cas. 298, 83 N. Y. S. 351.

48. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249; Gee v. Van Natta-Lynds Drug Co. [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 288; Brinker v. Ashenfelter, 1 Neb. Unoff. 793, 95 N. W. 1124. See 1 Curr. L. 516, n. 71.

NOTE. Effect of a provision allowing the mortgagor the possession with the power of sale: The agreement allowing the mortgagor to dispose of the property for his own benefit, it is conclusively fraudulent as to creditors, and it is immaterial whether the agreement is apparent on the face of the mortgage or not. Russell v. Winne, 4 Abb. Pr. [N. S.] 388, 37 N. Y. 595, 97 Am. Dec. 755; Southard v. Pinckney, 5 Abb. N. C. 196; Southard v. Benner, 72 N. Y. 425; Horton v. Williams, 21 Minn. 191; Stein v. Munch, 24 Minn. 391; Aiken v. Pascall, 19 Or. 493, 24 P. 1039; Saunders v. Waggoner, 82 Va. 322. As to the effect of a stipulation vesting the mortgagor with possession with power of sale, the courts are in conflict; some courts hold that such a provision is as vicious as though he was expressly given power to sell for his own benefit and that, therefore, the mortgage is void as a matter of law. Logan v. Logan, 22 Fla. 562; Lyon v. Council Bluffs Sav. Bank, 29 F. 581; Leser v. Glaser, 32 Kan. 552, 4 P. 1026; Price v. Pitzer, 44 Md. 527; Lodge v. Samuels, 50 Mo. 204; Leopold v. Silverman, 7 Mont. 266, 16 P. 580; Hedman v. Anderson, 6 Neb. 399; Wagner v. Jones, 7 Daly [N. Y.] 375; Collins v. Myers, 16 Ohio, 547; Willer v. Kray, 73 Tex. 534, 11 S. W. 540. Other courts hold that such a provision does not conclusively show fraud, that it may be capable of explanation and consistent with an honest purpose, and that, therefore, an opportunity to explain should be given and the question passed on as one of fact for the jury. Lister v. Simpson, 38 N. J. Eq. 438; Fletcher v. Powers, 131 Mass. 333; Blanchard v. Cooke, 144 Mass. 226, 11 N. E. 83; Muncie Nat. Bank v. Brown, 112 Ind. 481, 14 N. E. 358; Googins v. Gilmore, 47 Me. 15; Cheatham v. Hawkins, 76 N. C. 336; Gay v. Bidwell, 7 Mich. 521. The courts are in conflict as to how far the invalidity extends; some courts hold that the mortgage is valid as to property of which no sale is contemplated. Hayes v. Westcott, 91 Ala. 143, 8 So. 337, 11 L. R. A. 488; Garrettson v. Pegg, 64 Ill. 111; Davenport v. Foulke, 68 Ind. 382; Bullene v. Barrett, 87 Mo. 186; Rocheleau v. Boyle, 11 Mont. 451, 28 P. 872; In re Kahley, 2 Biss. 383, Fed. Cas. No. 7,593. Others hold that the invalidity relates to all property purported to be covered by the mortgage. Russell v. Winne, 37 N. Y. 595, 97 Am. Dec. 755; In re Burrows, 7 Biss. 526, Fed. Cas. No. 2,204; Harman v. Hoskins, 56 Miss. 148; Bank of Rome v. Haselton, 15 Lea [Tenn.] 216; Claflin v. Foley, 22 W. Va. 434; Dodds v. Johnson, 3 T. & C. [N. Y.] 215; Smith v. Kenney, 1 Mackey [D. C.] 12; Harbison v. Tufts, 1 Colo. App. 140, 27 P. 1014; Gallagher v. Rosenfield, 47 Minn. 507, 50 N. W. 696.—From note to Ephraim v. Kelleher, 18 L. R. A. 604.

the agreement, the proceeds of such sale are to be applied to the payment of the mortgage debt.[49] The presumption of good faith raised in the latter case is only prima facie.[50] The clause permitting the sale of goods by the mortgagor, if not made with a fraudulent intent, does not render the mortgage void as to the goods unsold, but its only effect is to withdraw the goods sold from the operation of the mortgage.[51] Rights of a mortgagor because of having been induced by fraud to execute a chattel mortgage do not pass to one purchasing the chattel from him.[52] A mortgagee of a fraudulent vendee, without knowledge of the fraud, is protected and treated as an innocent purchaser, to the extent of the mortgage debt.[53] The open and admitted inclusion of a small claim of another creditor in a chattel mortgage given to secure a bona fide indebtedness will not of itself render such mortgage fraudulent and unlawful as against attaching creditors.[54] In some states a chattel mortgage made by a corporation when insolvent, or in contemplation of insolvency, is void.[55] Consent by a creditor to the giving of a mortgage does not estop him from attacking the validity of the mortgage given.[56]

§ 5. Form, execution, and delivery.[57]—Like other contracts, a chattel mortgage is invalidated by duress[58] or fraud.[59] A verbal chattel mortgage is binding on the parties and those having knowledge of its existence.[60] The execution of the mortgage, though attested by subscribing witnesses, may be proved by the maker,[61] and, though such mortgagor signs by mark, it is not necessary to show by what means he knew that he signed that particular writing,[62] though the statute requiring the attestation of a witness who can and does write his name, the execution of the mortgage must be proved by proving both the signature of the witness and the mark of the maker.[63] In the absence of proof of the date of an undated chattel mortgage, it cannot be assumed that it was executed prior to the date when it was proved by the subscribing witness,[64] or recorded.[65] In Illinois the failure of

49. Dugan v. Beckett [C. C. A.] 129 F. 56; Skilton v. Coddington, 86 App. Div. 166, 13 Ann. Cas. 298, 83 N. Y. S. 351. Allowing him to sell property as agent of mortgagee. Morton v. Williamson Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 235. See 1 Curr. L. 516, n. 72.

50. Aleshire v. Lee County Sav. Bank, 105 Ill. App. 32. The permission to sell being included in a parol contemporaneous agreement, such agreement may be shown. Id.

51. In re Ball, 123 F. 164. If the purchaser is a bona fide purchaser for value and without notice. Aleshire v. Lee County Sav. Bank. 105 Ill. App. 32.

52. Soule v. Harrington [Mich.] 97 N. W. 357.

53. Sparks v. Galena Nat. Bank [Kan.] 74 P. 619.

54. Taylor v. Harle-Haas Drug Co. (Neb.) 96 N. W. 182.

55. Gen. St. p. 2113, § 4. Miller v. Gourley [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1083.

56. Brinker v. Ashenfelter, 1 Neb. Unoff. 793, 95 N. W. 1124.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 516.

58. Where no threats were made but mortgagee refused to sign the mortgage for several hours, finally signing on the insistence of the mortgagor and mortgagee's brother that a valid trade had been made and that certain consequences would result, held no duress. Knight v. Brown [Mich.] 100 N. W. 602. See 1 Curr. L. 517, n. 91; and see Duress, 1 Curr. L. 962.

59. Where clause in a mortgage was introduced, after discussion of attorneys for both parties, by the mortgagor's attorney who retained the mortgage in his possession for some time before it was executed, and its contents were made known to the mortgagor's representatives who executed the mortgage, held no fraud shown. Anderson v. Anderson Food Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 489. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 2 Curr. L. 104.

60. First Nat. Bank v. Taylor [Kan.] 76 P. 425. See 1 Curr. L. 516, n. 86.

61. Code 1896, § 1797. Ballow v. Collins. 139 Ala. 543, 36 So. 712. An identification by the mortgagor that he knew he had signed the mortgage offered because the mortgagee had told him so, and that he had given but one mortgage to such mortgagee, held insufficient. Id.

62. Ballow v. Collins, 139 Ala. 543, 36 So. 712.

63. Ballow v. Collins, 139 Ala. 543, 36 So. 712. Error in admitting such mortgage in evidence without testimony that the persons whose names appeared as attesting witnesses had signed their names is not reached by objection that the witnesses were not called, and that it was not shown in what manner the witness identified the mortgage. Id.

64. Metropolitan Store & S. Fixture Co. v. Albrecht [N. J. Law] 56 A. 237.

65. A mortgage reciting that it was executed "this ——— day of August, 1892," and registered on the 20th day of that month, is a valid mortgage as of the latter date as against third persons. Becker v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 45.

a note secured by a chattel mortgage to state upon its face that it is so secured does not render it void as between the parties, if possession of the mortgaged property is taken before the lien of a third party attaches.[66] The mortgage is collateral to the debt represented by the notes which constitute the primary contract and which must govern where there is an irreconcilable contradiction between them and the mortgage.[67] An oral agreement made prior to the execution of the mortgage is inadmissible to vary the terms of the mortgage.[68] In order to attack a chattel mortgage for failure to file or for the conditions therein, a creditor must, by judgment, execution, or other process, have obtained a specific lien and claim against the property involved.[69] A receiver in supplementary proceedings may bring an action to avoid a chattel mortgage made by the judgment debtor on the ground that it is not properly filed.[70] Such an action is a suit in equity.[71] A mortgagor by accepting benefits under the mortgage is not thereby estopped to deny its invalidity,[72] though a corporation by so doing is estopped to deny that it was unauthorized.[73]

A mortgage is governed by the laws of the state where the note, for which it is security, is payable,[74] though in an action to enforce the mortgage against third persons the lex fori governs.[75] A federal court in determining the validity of chattel mortgages is governed by the settled law of the state in which they were given.[76]

Acknowledgment, affidavit, and extension.[77]—The acknowledgment must conform to the laws of the state where made.[78] In California, an unacknowledged chattel mortgage is not void as against creditors of a subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged property who assumed the mortgage debt.[79] An affidavit is not required to a common-law chattel mortgage.[80] The affidavit refers to the mortgage and they must be read together.[81] An affidavit stating that a lump sum is due is not rendered defective by the mortgage showing that such sum is payable in instalments.[82] A mortgage is valid as between the parties though an affidavit of good faith is not filed as required by statute.[83]

§ 6. Filing or recording and notice of title or rights.[84]—The recording of a chattel mortgage and the effect thereof are governed by the law of the state where

66. Construing Laws 1895, p. 260. Springer v. Lipsis, 209 Ill. 261, 70 N. E. 641.

67. Conflict as to the date upon which the debt falls due. Ferris v. Johnson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1014.

68. Oral agreement for extension of time of payment. Connersville Buggy Co. v. Lowry [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 771.

69. Skilton v. Coddington, 86 App. Div. 166, 13 Ann. Cas. 298, 83 N. Y. S. 351.

70. Brunnemer v. Cook, 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. S. 954.

71. An appeal from the judgment therein is governed by the chancery rule that exceptions which do not affect the merits are disregarded. Brunnemer v. Cook, 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. S. 954.

72. Rose v. Harllee [S. C.] 48 S. E. 541.

73. Miller v. Gourley [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 1083.

74. As to usury laws. Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081.

75. Smead v. Chandler & Co., 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066.

76. Bankruptcy court. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249; In re Beede, 126 F. 853. The law on the subject being regarded as a rule of property. Dugan v. Beckett [C. C. A.] 129 F. 56.

77. See 1 Curr. L. 517.

78. Tweto v. Horton, 90 Minn. 451, 97 N. W. 128.

79. Construing Civ. Code, § 2957. Mortgagors formed corporation to whom mortgaged property was transferred, it assuming the mortgage, and agreeing with the creditors of the mortgagor to pay them all. Mortgagee assented to the arrangement but would not release his lien. Corporation failed to pay the debt, held estopped from claiming the property free from the mortgage though the latter was unacknowledged. Talcott v. Hurlbert [Cal.] 76 P. 647.

80. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 66 A. 11.

81. In determining the consideration. Metropolitan Store & S. Fixture Co. v. Albrecht [N. J. Law] 56 A. 237.

82. Metropolitan Store & S. Fixture Co. v. Albrecht [N. J. Law] 56 A. 237. The word "due" held to signify the present existence of a debt payable thereafter. Id.

83. Rev. St. 1898, § 150. No affidavit of mortgagee. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 P. 737.

84. See 1 Curr. L. 518. See, also, Notice and Record of Title, 2 Curr. L. 1053.

the property is situated.[85] A mortgage is valid between the parties, though unrecorded,[86] and failure to file raises no presumption of fraud,[87] though it renders the mortgage void as to third parties who, not having actual notice of the mortgage,[88] have acquired adverse rights or suffered prejudice during the interval between execution and recording or taking possession by the mortgagor;[89] it is only void, however, to the extent to which such creditors have been damaged by such action,[90] and this rule applies to equitable as well as legal mortgages.[91] In some states, however, the mortgage is valid as to debts contracted after its execution, if recorded before seizure.[92] One accepting and relying on a chattel mortgage which is, by its terms, subject to a prior one, cannot question the validity of the prior mortgage on the ground that it was unrecorded.[93] Mortgagees of a crop, whose mortgage is recorded, are not obliged to take immediate possession of the crop after it has been harvested in order to preserve their lien.[94] In some states, mortgages for supplies furnished in raising a crop take priority over older judgments irrespective of record.[95] An administrator, as trustee for the creditors, may insist that a chattel mortgage executed by the decedent is void, as against existing creditors, for want of record.[96] A chattel mortgage being executed on property in one state, and duly filed for record, it will be binding on the property after its removal to another state,[97] though it will not be given priority over the liens of attaching creditors

85. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819.

86. Maker cannot attach the property when in the hands of a transferee of the mortgage, in an action by the maker against the mortgagee. Thompson v. Dyer [R. I.] 55 A. 824. Considering the law of Wisconsin. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249. Though it covers personalty and realty. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946. Though unaccompanied by any change of possession. Skilton v. Coddington, 86 App. Div. 166, 13 Ann. Cas. 298, 83 N. Y. S. 351. See 1 Curr. L. 518, n. 13.

87. In re Beede, 126 F. 853; Summerville v. Kelliher [Cal.] 77 P. 889.

88. Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450; Cowden v. Finney [Idaho] 75 P. 765. There being a direct and substantial conflict on the question of actual notice, the appellate court will not disturb the findings of the trial court. Id.

89. Creditors. Summerville v. Kelliher [Cal.] 77 P. 889. Considering the law of Wisconsin. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249; News Pub. Co. v. Tyndale, 2 Neb. Unoff. 256, 96 N. W. 125; First Nat. Bank v. Reid, 122 Iowa, 280, 98 N. W. 107; Skilton v. Coddington, 86 App. Div. 166, 13 Ann. Cas. 298, 83 N. Y. S. 351; Harrison v. South Carthage Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1160.

90. First Nat. Bank v. Tolerton [Neb.] 97 N. W. 248. By the statutes and decisions of New York, an unfiled mortgage is void only as against creditors who have reduced their claims to judgment, and had execution issued thereon; but one who was a general creditor during the time the mortgage remained unfiled may assert its invalidity on obtaining judgment and execution, although it has been filed in the meantime. In re Beede, 126 F. 853.

Purchaser at execution sale under a judgment against the mortgagor. Johns v. Kamarad, 2 Neb. Unoff. 157, 96 N. W. 118.

Subsequent mortgagees: Though the prior mortgagee takes possession of the property before the subsequent mortgage is recorded. Sheets v. Poff, 123 Iowa, 714, 99 N. W. 573. Such prior mortgagee's claim will not be preferred on the ground that he is a creditor of the mortgagor, and took possession before notice of the subsequent mortgage. Id. In Wisconsin, the second mortgagee's knowledge of the first mortgage or the intent of the mortgagor to hinder or delay creditors, is immaterial. Dornbrook v. Rumely Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 493.

Innocent purchasers. Cowden v. Finney [Idaho] 75 P. 765; Iowa Loan Co. v. Kimball Piano Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 576. A mortgagee under an unrecorded chattel mortgage, surreptitiously seizing the property without authority of law or consent of the mortgagor, and who, in replevin by a holder of a subsequent unrecorded mortgage, denies that the property was seized by virtue of his mortgage, is not an innocent purchaser, even though when he seized the property he canceled a book account held against the mortgagor. Id.

91. Thurlough v. Dresser, 98 Me. 161, 56 A. 654.

92. Harrison v. South Carthage Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1160. In these states it is held valid as against a judgment rendered against the mortgagor on claims arising both before its execution and afterwards, but before it is recorded, when recorded before seizure under the judgment. Id.

93. First Nat. Bank v. Reid, 122 Iowa, 280, 98 N. W. 107.

94. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

95. Acts 1899, p. 78; Van Epps' Code Supp. § 6592 makes such mortgage superior to the lien of an older common-law judgment, though not recorded until after the levy of the fi. fa. on the matured crop. Franklin v. Callway [Ga.] 47 S. E. 970.

96. Blackman v. Baxter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 75.

97. Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo [Okl.] 77 P. 46.

in the latter state,[98] nor mortgagees of property for which it was exchanged.[99] The registration of the assignment of a mortgage is wholly the creature of statute, and, the statute not requiring its registration, the assignee is not guilty of negligence in failing to so do,[1] and such assignee, though he has no record title, will be protected against subsequent purchasers and incumbrancers in good faith.[2] A chattel mortgage executed, acknowledged, and recorded in one state is not, under the statute law of some states, entitled to registration in the latter sister states.[3]

In some states the mortgage must be recorded in the county where the mortgagor resides;[4] that the residence is temporary is immaterial the mortgagor having possession of the property.[5] Generally the recital in the mortgage of the place where the mortgagor resides is not evidence of his place of residence,[6] though the recital being in both a first or second mortgage, it is prima facie evidence of such residence in a suit by the first mortgagee, or his assigns, against the second mortgagee.[7] The mortgage being duly executed in the state and recorded in the county where the property is actually situated and in the possession of the mortgagor, it is presumed that the latter resides in such county.[8] In other states it must be filed in the county where the property is located,[9] and this is especially true where the mortgagor is a nonresident.[10] Under the United States statutes, a mortgage on a vessel must be recorded in the office of the collector of customs at the port nearest the owner's place of residence.[11] In most states, a mortgage including real estate and chattels must be recorded both as a chattel and a real estate mortgage in order to be valid as against creditors of the mortgagor,[12] though

98. Snyder v. Yates [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 796.

99. The owner of personal property, which is claimed and recorded as a homestead, moving to another county and exchanging the property, the mortgagee of the property received in exchange the mortgage reciting that it is free from incumbrances, has a valid lien upon such property as against the beneficiaries of the homestead. Ford v. Fargason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 180.

1. Declaring the rule in Kansas. Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo [Okl.] 77 P. 46. The formal assignment and transfer of the note is all that is necessary. Webb's Ann. St. of Kansas, Vol. 2, c. 120, § 9, does not require the recording of such assignment. First Nat. Bank v. National Live Stock Bank, 13 Okl. 719, 76 P. 130. The fact that a mortgagee in Kansas, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, owns the legal title to the property mortgaged, does not require an assignment of such mortgage to be placed of record, there being no statute imposing such a duty. Id.

2. May recover against them in a replevin action involving the property included in his mortgage. First Nat. Bank v. National Live Stock Bank, 13 Okl. 719, 76 P. 130.

3. So as to give notice to creditors of the mortgagor. Snyder v. Yates [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 796.

4. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819. In Indiana must be recorded in county where mortgagor resides, and within 10 days after its execution [Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1901, § 6638]. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855. See 1 Curr. L. 518, n. 18, 22.

5. Railroad contractor temporarily in county performing work. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819.

6. Code Iowa, § 2906. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819.

7. Tweto v. Horton, 90 Minn. 451, 97 N. W. 128; Nickerson v. Wells-Stone Mercantile Co., 71 Minn. 230, 73 N. W. 959, 74 N. W. 891, distinguished.

Admissibility of evidence: On the question of residence, a contract made between a chattel mortgagor and mortgagee prior to the execution of the mortgage is admissible to show the mortgagor's residence at the time of its execution. Brunnemer v. Cook, 89 App. Div. 406, 85 N. Y. S. 954. Evidence that the mortgagor told a supervisor that he had a homestead in F., and that he made and delivered to such supervisor a statement of his taxable property in that township is relevant. Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450. On the same issue, evidence that the day after the mortgage was given, the mortgagor appeared before the registration board at F., and claimed himself to be a resident of that township, entitled to vote there, and that he registered and voted there is admissible. Id.

8. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819.

9. First Nat. Bank v. Hesser [Okl.] 77 P. 36. See 1 Curr. L. 518, n. 20.

10. Mortgage executed by a nonresident, which includes an account due from a resident, must be recorded in the county where the debtor resides [Sand. & H. Dig. § 5090]. Smead v. Chandler & Co., 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066.

11. Rev. St. U. S. §§ 4141, 4192. Recording in any other place is ineffectual to impart constructive notice. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855. Coal barges used on an inland river are such vessels. Id.

12. Construing Gen. St. p. 2113, §§ 4, 5.

in Missouri, it being recorded as a real estate mortgage, it constitutes constructive notice of the incumbrance on the chattels.[13] In order to be guilty of collusion with the mortgagor in misleading a mortgagee as to the mortgagor's place of residence, one must have knowledge of the latter's intent to defraud or of a prior unrecorded mortgage.[14] The effect of a statute prescribing a time limit for the recording of instruments is that, if the instrument is recorded within that time, the record, and consequently the notice imparted thereby, relates back to the time of the execution of the instrument. Record after the expiration of that time will not be invalid, but it is only notice from the time that the record is made, and does not relate back to the time of execution.[15] A chattel mortgage left for record, but returned unrecorded, has not been recorded.[16] As soon as the mortgage is deposited, it is presumed to have been transcribed, and this presumption continues until the mortgage is taken away unrecorded.[17] A record being defective, a subsequent valid recording is ineffectual as to antecedent creditors,[18] though an improper filing or failure to take possession may be cured by the subsequent delivery of possession before creditors have obtained a lien on the property.[19]

Notice of title or rights.[20]—The record of a mortgage conclusively imputes notice of its contents, and of the mortgagee's rights thereunder, irrespective of the question of actual notice,[21] third persons not being, however, chargeable with notice of more than they can ascertain from the record or from being put upon inquiry thereby.[22] As far as notice is concerned, actual notice of the instrument[23] or knowledge of facts sufficient to put one on inquiry,[24] or possession by the mortgagee,[25] are just as efficacious as filing. The beginning of an action to enforce a lien may be equivalent to actual possession, thus dispensing with record.[26] In order to impart constructive notice, the description must be adequate,[27] and the instrument must be properly acknowledged.[28]

§ 7. Title and ownership.[29]—The general rule, following the common law, is that the mortgagee takes the legal title subject to be defeated on the perform-

Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 409.

13. This though the statute requires chattel mortgages to be recorded in separate books. Long v. Gorman [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 180. [The court admits the evil of this rule, but bases its decision on stare decisis.]

14. Dornbrook v. Rumely Co. [Wis.] 97 N. W. 493.

15. Construing Civ. Code 1895. § 2726. Armitage-Herschell Co. v. Muscogee Real Estate Co., 119 Ga. 562, 46 S. E. 634.

16, 17. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 409.

18. First record was in wrong office. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 855.

19. In Wisconsin, it seems the lien must be acquired by execution or attachment. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249.

20. See 1 Curr L. 519.

21. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 76 P. 1067; Morton v. Williamson Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 235.

22. Notice of the mortgage of a crop to be planted in 1899 is not notice of a mortgage on a crop planted or to be planted in 1900. Thurlough v. Dresser, 98 Me. 161, 56 A. 654.

23. Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450; Salmon v. Norris, 88 N. Y. S. 780. See 1 Curr. L. 519, n. 38.

24. An attachment creditor having notice of a levy under a writ of attachment, such notice is sufficient to put him on inquiry as to the existence of a mortgage. Cassidy v. Willis [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 40.

25. Springer v. Lipsis, 209 Ill. 261. 70 N. E. 641; Thompson v. Fairbanks. 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. See 1 Curr. L. 518, n. 17.

26. Ryan v. Donley [Neb.] 96 N. W. 234.

27. A description of property sought to be included in a chattel mortgage as "all other personal property" now owned. or which the mortgagor might acquire during the life of the mortgage, held not sufficiently specific. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Stockdale. 121 Iowa, 748, 96 N. W. 732. Where the mortgage, after describing the chattels included, contained a recital that all of the property was in a certain section, township, and range of a particular county, "and in other places in said county," held insufficient to include property in the county, but not in the designated section, as against a subsequent mortgagee having only the notice imparted by the record. Id.

28. The mortgage must not be acknowledged before a notary having an interest in the same. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Stockdale, 121 Iowa, 748, 96 N. W. 732. Release. First Nat. Bank v. National Live Stock Bank, 13 Okl. 719, 76 P. 130.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 520.

ance of the conditions,[30] but the courts are not all in harmony with this rule.[31] After default, the mortgagee, having by the terms of the mortgage the right of possession, the mortgagor has no general or special property right in the chattels sufficient to sustain an interplea in attachment as against the mortgagee's attaching creditor.[32] The possession taken by a mortgagee upon default in order to be effectual must be actual, and of such a character as to give notice to the public that the mortgagee has become the owner.[33] Though the mortgage includes the good will of a business, the mortgagee cannot enjoin the mortgagor's wife from carrying on the business in her name and with her property, with her husband as agent.[34] The mortgagor being in possession of the property, he is entitled to the rents and profits thereof, the mortgagee being entitled to them only from the time that he has a receiver appointed to save them for him.[35] A purchaser from the mortgagor,[36] or the mortgagee,[37] does not, by reason of such purchase, or the mortgage, admit the mortgagor's title.

§ 8. Right of possession.[38]—The mortgagee is entitled to possession after default by the mortgagor,[39] though he may by agreement be entitled to possession prior to default;[40] a provision authorizing the mortgagee upon named contingencies to take possession of the property being valid;[41] and upon the happen-

30. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11. On his taking possession, such title operates against the creditors of the mortgagor. Id. The liens created respectively by mortgage and execution, against the mortgagor, on the same chattels, are essentially different, and cannot co-exist. Osborne & Co. v. Hughey [Okl.] 76 P. 146. Before the lien of such execution can attach, the officer must pay off or tender the amount of any existing mortgage liens, or deposit the amount of the mortgage debt with an officer authorized by law to receive the same. Id. (This case is apparently in conflict with Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo [Okl.] 77 P. 46; see post next note.) Under Code 1896, § 1064, a mortgage of unplanted crops made on or after January 1st of the year in which they are to be grown, conveys the legal title. Gaston v. Marengo Imp. Co., 139 Ala. 465, 36 So. 738.

31. The execution of a chattel mortgage creates a mere lien upon the property (Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 73 P. 342); the mortgagor retaining such a title thereto that he may sell or further incumber it (Id.).

As against all persons, except the mortgagee, the mortgagor is regarded as the owner of the property mortgaged, and as having, therefore, the right to maintain an action against a third person for its conversion. Stephens v. Head, 138 Ala. 455, 35 So. 565. As a general rule, a mortgagee and his assignee acquire only a lien on the interest of the mortgagor in the property mortgaged. Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo [Okl.] 77 P. 46. (This case is apparently in conflict with Osborne & Co. v. Hughey [Okl.] 76 P. 146.) A mortgagee of cattle not being in possession thereof is not liable for trespasses committed by them. Is not the owner within the meaning of Comp. St. 1901, c. 2, art. 3. Goff v. Byers Bros. & Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1037. A chattel mortgage does not pass title to the mortgagee, or give him a right to possession of the mortgaged property before the debt becomes due, unless the mortgage so provides. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243. After condition broken, but prior to demand by a mortgagee for the possession of chattels, and prior to his taking possession, the mortgagor may maintain an action for their conversion by a stranger. Converted by a warehouseman with whom they were stored. Bigler v. Leonori [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 324.

32. Connersville Buggy Co. v. Lowry [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 771. If the court however should erroneously allow him to interplead, he cannot show that the mortgage note has been transferred to and is owned by another than defendant mortgagee. Id.

33. The estate owning the building in which the mortgaged chattels were located, the executor telling an employe of the mortgagor to take charge of the property for the estate, is insufficient as a change of possession. Ankele v. Elder [Colo. App.] 75 P. 29.

34. Vinall v. Hendricks [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 682.

35. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co.'s Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1739, 78 S. W. 113.

36. Karter v. Fields [Ala.] 37 So. 204.

37. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 520.

39. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 73 P. 342. Where the debts are due when the mortgage is executed, the covenant to pay debts is broken as soon as made, and in that sense the mortgagor is in default, thus giving the mortgagee the right to take possession at any time. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243. See 1 Curr. L. 520, n. 54.

40. An allegation of possession under a chattel mortgage by agreement with the mortgagor renders it unnecessary to allege demand of payment of demand notes secured by the mortgage in order to show the mortgagee's right of possession. Taylor v. Harle-Haas Drug Co. [Neb.] 96 N. W. 182. Evidence considered and held sufficient to sustain plaintiff's claim that he is a mortgagee in possession. Meyer v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 682.

41. First Nat. Bank v. Steers [Idaho] 77 P. 225. A covenant allowing the mortgagee

ing of such contingency, the mortgagee may, in some cases, maintain an action of claim and delivery to recover possession of the mortgaged property.[42] A mortgagee, having the right to take possession of the property whenever he deems himself insecure, must act in good faith, and not arbitrarily, in determining whether he is insecure,[43] and as to whether or not he acted in good faith is for the jury to determine from all the facts of the case.[44] A mortgage designating the mortgagee and his assigns as the only persons allowed to take possession of and sell the property, the right is limited to them.[45] The right to rescind the contract under which the mortgaged property has been delivered to the mortgagee because of breach of the agreement by the latter may be lost by laches,[46] and the mortgagor not living up to his part of the agreement cannot rescind on the ground that the mortgagee did not perform his part.[47] An agreement to extend the time for payment of a debt secured by chattel mortgage does not postpone the mortgagee's right to the possession of the mortgaged property for failure to pay the debt at the time originally agreed on.[48] In some jurisdictions, the mortgagee securing possession after condition broken, the mortgagor's title is not extinguished, but continues until the lien is foreclosed and he is divested of such title in the manner prescribed by law,[49] and such mortgagee cannot keep, treat, or dispose of the property as his own,[50] the right given the mortgagee to take possession of the mortgaged property after condition broken being for the purpose of foreclosure only;[51] but this holding is not universal.[52] A mortgagee prematurely taking possession of the chattels, the mortgagor may maintain replevin,[53] and the plaintiff cannot be limited in his right of recovery to the price for which defendant may have sold the same,[54] but is entitled to recover damages,[55] though it is error to allow damages for the value of the use of the property after the time to take any steps necessary to protect the mortgaged property gives him an equal right with the mortgagor to the possession of the property for the purpose of protecting it. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

42. Held proper where possession was sought to be recovered from an officer claiming the property under a writ of attachment issued and levied subsequent to the mortgage lien, and who refused to deliver up the property upon demand of the mortgagee, or to pay the mortgage debt. First Nat. Bank v. Steers [Idaho] 75 P. 225.

43. Feller v. McKillip [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 641.

NOTE. Right to take possession under an insecurity clause: The courts are in conflict as to how far the mortgagee can go in taking possession under a "danger," "safety," or "insecurity" clause in a chattel mortgage. One class of decisions allow him to arbitrarily take possession. Hill v. Merriman, 72 Wis. 483, 40 N. W. 399; Werner v. Bergman, 28 Kan. 60, 42 Am. Rep. 152; Braley v. Byrnes, 21 Minn. 483. This case is, however, no authority in Minnesota as the rule has been changed by statute. Deal v. Osborne & Co., 42 Minn. 102, 43 N. W. 835. The majority of the courts refuse, however, to recognize a doctrine so extreme as the above, and limit the rights of the mortgagee more or less. Generally the rule may be stated as follows: He must have just cause based upon the actual existence of facts constituting a reasonable ground for believing himself insecure. Woods v. Gaar, 93 Mich. 143, 53 N. W. 14; Barret v. Hart, 42 Ohio St. 41, 51 Am. Rep. 801; Newlean v. Olson, 22 Neb. 717, 36 N. W. 155; Rector-Wilhelmy Co. v. Nissen, 35 Neb. 716, 53 N. W. 670; Roy v. Goings, 96 Ill. 361, 36 Am. Rep. 151.—From note to Robison v. Gray, 23 L. R. A. 780.

44. Feller v. McKillip [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 641.

45. Mortgagee, not having assigned it, marked it paid, and mailed it to the mortgagor's surety, held the surety acquired no right to take possession of the property. Mardis v. Sims [Ala.] 37 So. 243.

46. Lost where the completeness of his title was not questioned for three and one-half years. Ward v. Sherman, 192 U. S. 168, 24 S. Ct. 227.

47. Ward v. Sherman, 192 U. S. 168, 24 S. Ct. 227.

48. Connersville Buggy Co. v. Lowry [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 771.

49, 50, 51. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 72 P. 976, 73 P. 342.

52. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419. In such an action a charge to find for plaintiff, if he was the owner of the property and defendant had knowledge of his rights, is erroneous as ignoring the question of plaintiff's right to possession. Id.

53. Ferris v. Johnson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1014.

54. Cowden v. Finney [Idaho] 75 P. 765.

55. The situation of the property, the interest of the parties, and the mortgagee's right to possession after default, are all circumstances bearing on the question of damages. Ferris v. Johnson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1014.

when, under the terms of the mortgage, the mortgagee was lawfully entitled to its possession,[56] and the mortgagee cannot offset his lien against the value of the use of the property to the time such right of possession would have accrued.[57] In replevin by a mortgagee against a prior mortgagee, the latter's lack of notice of the subsequent mortgage is immaterial and does not justify his seizure of the property, he denying in his answer that he took it by virtue of his mortgage.[58] One seizing the property of another under a wrongful and fraudulent chattel mortgage is liable to the owner of the property for the damages sustained.[59]

§ 9. Liens and priorities; waiver. Duration of mortgage lien.[60]—The lien of a mortgage on future-acquired property attaches as soon as the property is acquired by the mortgagor,[61] and in the case of a crop, the lien continues after the same is harvested,[62] though it is lost where the crop, after severance, is removed by the mortgagor or by some third person from the mortgagor's land.[63]

Conflicting liens.[64]—A chattel mortgage duly filed takes precedence of a later agister's claim,[65] a demand not being necessary to entitle the mortgagee to maintain replevin against persons claiming possession under such a lien.[66] A written mortgage takes precedence over a prior verbal mortgage not coupled with possession by the mortgagee.[67] A chattel mortgage is not protected against a prior unrecorded contract of conditional sale where the debt secured by the mortgage was contracted previous to the sale.[68] A purchaser at a sale under a trust deed who takes possession has the right to the growing crop as against a chattel mortgagee thereof having actual knowledge of the trust deed, the mortgage being executed subsequent to the latter, though prior to the sale.[69] Advancements for supplies are under certain circumstances entitled to priority of payment.[70] A writ of execution lying inactive, at the instance of a creditor or his attorney, in the officer's hands, its lien is subordinated to that of a mortgage executed and recorded before the levy of the writ.[71]

Waiver of liens.[72]—The mortgagee taking possession in pursuance of the terms of the mortgage, his lien is not extinguished where he does not claim to hold otherwise than as mortgagee.[73]

56. Ferris v. Johnson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1014.

57. Frappiea v. Johnson [Vt.] 56 A. 100.

58. Iowa Loan Co. v. Kimball Piano Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 576.

59. Tootle v. Kent, 12 Okl. 674, 73 P. 310. Where the owner's store is closed, it may include loss of profits, depreciation in value of goods, and damage to his financial standing and credit, so long as the damages are not remote, speculative, or conjectural. Id.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 521.

61. Stoll v. Gibson [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 710.

62. Is superior to the lien of a levy under execution issued upon a judgment against the mortgagor, made at a time when it is apparent that the harvested crop is of the annual crop described in the mortgage. Hayes v. First State Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 423.

63. It is not lost where the mortgagee, in pursuance of the terms of the mortgage, removes the crop for his better security [Civ. Code, § 2972]. Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

64. See 1 Curr. L. 521, n. 75.

65. Though the mortgagee has knowledge that pasturage is being furnished. Beh v. Moore [Iowa] 100 N. W. 502. See 1 Curr. L. 521, n. 75.

66. Beh v. Moore [Iowa] 100 N. W. 502.

67. Muller v. Parcel [Neb.] 99 N. W. 684.

68. First Nat. Bank v. Reid, 122 Iowa, 280, 98 N. W. 107.

69. Penryn Fruit Co. v. Sherman-Worrell Fruit Co., 142 Cal. 643, 76 P. 484.

70. Advancements made to enable the mortgagor to harvest the crop are entitled to priority of payment from the proceeds, there being an oral agreement to that effect, over a subsequent mortgagee with knowledge of the advancement, and over an assignee of a mortgagee assenting to such agreement. Dickenson v. Columbus State Bank [Neb.] 98 N. W. 813.

71. Ankele v. Elder [Colo. App.] 75 P. 29.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 522, n. 86-89.

73. Summerville v. Kelliher [Cal.] 77 P. 889. A mortgage of crops giving the mortgagee power to take possession and store the crops, his act in so doing, where he does not claim to hold otherwise than as mortgagee, does not amount to a conversion under Civ. Code § 2910, providing that a lien is extinguished by the wrongful conversion of the property by the lienor (Summerville v. Stockton Mill. Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243), even though such taking possession was not authorized by the terms of the mortgage (Id.).

§ 10. Disposal and use of the property by the mortgagor.[74]—In some states, the unlawful disposition of mortgaged property is a crime.[75] In general, the mortgagor cannot dispose of the mortgaged property except with the knowledge[76] or consent[77] of the mortgagee. In the absence of such knowledge or consent, the mortgagee may maintain an action against the purchaser, the latter having either actual or constructive notice of the mortgage,[78] or against an agent of the mortgagor, the sale violating the terms of the mortgage, of which fact the agent had constructive notice,[79] and this right of action is not lost, though the mortgagee accepts part of the proceeds in payment of another debt owed him by the mortgagor, he having no knowledge of the source of the money,[80] and under such circumstances he need not return the money in order to maintain such action.[81] The mortgagee consenting to the sale, the purchaser takes title free from the lien,[82] unless expressly reserved from the consent,[83] and such permission is a defense to an action against the mortgagor for fraud in selling the property.[84] The evidence on the question of consent being conflicting, the question is for the jury.[85] Property purchased with the proceeds of a sale of mortgaged property by the mortgagor is not impressed with a trust in favor of the mortgagee, unless the proceeds can be specifically traced into the property purchased.[86] In an action to establish such a trust, the burden is on plaintiff to identify the property into which the proceeds of the sale passed,[87] and the question of registration of the mortgage cannot affect the question of ownership of the proceeds of the sale.[88] The mortgagee consenting to the sale of a part of the mortgaged property by the mortgagor, such consent does not render the mortgagee liable for the mortgagor's breach of contract.[89] The mortgage providing that a rescission of conditions should only be valid when

74. See 1 Curr. L. 522.

75. Larceny in Iowa. In re Renshaw [S. D.] 99 N. W. 83. The Iowa statute covers the case of a sale in Iowa of personalty mortgaged to residents of that state, though the mortgage was executed, delivered, and filed in another state by nonresidents of Iowa. Id.

V. S. 2259, providing that a mortgagor shall not sell the chattels without the written consent of the mortgagee indorsed on the mortgage and on the record thereof, does not apply to an action on the case for fraud brought by the purchaser of mortgaged chattels against the mortgagor on the ground that the sale was induced by the mortgagor's fraudulent statement that the property was free from incumbrances. Colston v. Bean [Vt.] 58 A. 795.

In such a prosecution, it may be shown that defendant offered to pay the mortgage, also evidence of other debts of the defendant is admissible, but the disposition of the property received by one claiming to be the agent of defendant is inadmissible in the absence of proof of his authority, nor is it competent to show that defendant had formerly committed a similar offense. Owens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 575.

See 1 Curr. L. 522, n. 94, 95.

76. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057. The contract of sale containing a guaranty by the mortgagee of the performance of the mortgagor's contract of sale is admissible to show the mortgagee's knowledge of such sale, though signed only by the mortgagor. Burroughs v. Butler-Ryan Co., 121 Iowa, 215, 96 N. W. 750.

77. Greer v. Newland [Kan.] 77 P. 98; Gosnell v. Webster [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1060; Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057. An allegation that plaintiff "waived and surrendered the alleged claim of the mortgage upon the said hops" is a conclusion of law. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

78. Gosnell v. Webster [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1060. Evidence held sufficient to authorize the court to assume that the purchaser had notice of the mortgage before purchasing. Soule v. Harrington [Mich.] 97 N. W. 357.

79. Greer v. Newland [Kan.] 77 P. 98.

80, 81. Gosnell v. Webster [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1060.

82. Colston v. Bean [Vt.] 58 A. 795; Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057. See 1 Curr. L. 522, n. 92.

83. Mortgagee agreed to sale subject to mortgage. Fields v. Jobson Wagon Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 636.

84. Colston v. Bean [Vt.] 58 A. 795.

85. Burroughs v. Butler-Ryan Co., 121 Iowa, 215, 96 N. W. 750. Evidence being uncontradicted the issue is properly withdrawn from the jury. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

86. Where personalty, different parts of which were mortgaged to different persons, was sold by the mortgagor, all the proceeds being put into his business and used to pay debts and purchase other property, held, the property purchased was not impressed with a trust in favor of the mortgagees. Tex. Moline Plow Co. v. Kingman Tex. Implement Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1042.

87, 88. Tex. Moline Plow Co. v. Kingman Tex. Implement Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1042.

89. Burroughs v. Butler-Ryan Co., 121 Iowa, 215, 96 N. W. 750.

in writing, a third party obtaining possession of the chattel through a violation of such conditions cannot, in an action by the mortgagee for conversion, set up an oral rescission of such conditions by the mortgagor and mortgagee.[90] A mortgagee of a gambling device incapable of being used for any other purpose, permitting the mortgagor to retain and use the same, cannot object to its destruction by the state on the ground that he did not consent to its wrongful use.[91]

§ 11. Assignment of the mortgage.[92]—The assignment and transfer of a note secured by a chattel mortgage carries the security without a formal assignment of the mortgage.[93] An assignment of a distinct part of an indebtedness secured by mortgage carries with it a pro tanto interest in the mortgage, and a lien in common to the extent of the respective interests.[94] A purchaser from a chattel mortgagee is subrogated to the rights of his grantor with respect to his property purchased.[95] The provision for commission for selling the mortgaged property commonly found in chattel mortgages taken by commission merchants does not constitute the mortgagee the agent for an assignee of the note or mortgage for the purpose of selling the cattle for the assignee's benefit.[96]

§ 12. Payment and discharge.[97]—Payment is a defense which may be interposed to any suit based upon the mortgage,[98] being legal as well as equitable in its nature.[99] In order to constitute payment and discharge, there need be no formal delivery of the property in which payment is made; it is sufficient if the mortgagee receives the property.[1] Possession of the notes by the mortgagee is prima facie evidence of nonpayment,[2] and it seems as though the mortgagor regaining possession of the property from the mortgagee, a presumption of payment arises.[3] The time of payment may be extended by agreement,[4] but the extension should be for a definite period of time.[5] The mortgagee is not bound to look for payment to one voluntarily promising to pay the same, but may recover of the mortgagor funds realized by the latter from the mortgaged property, though the mortgage has been released and discharged of record.[6] The property being sold at a foreclosure sale under a second mortgage, the interest of the first mortgagee being

90. Salabes v. Castelberg [Md.] 57 A. 20.

91. Roulette wheel. Kite v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 886.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 523.

93. Tweto v. Horton, 90 Minn. 451, 97 N. W. 128; First Nat. Bank v. National Live Stock Bank, 13 Okl. 719, 76 P. 130. Kansas rule. Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo [Okl.] 77 P. 46. Such assignee may purchase the mortgaged property from the mortgagor in payment or part payment of the debt secured by the mortgage. Hall v. Keating Implement & Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 1054. Where the note contained the following indorsement: "The mortgage securing this note bears the amount of revenue stamps required by law, duly canceled." State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 F. 543. See 1 Curr. L. 523, n. 98.

94. Miller v. Campbell Commission Co., 13 Okl. 75, 74 P. 507.

95. Although there is no contract of assignment between him and his grantee. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419.

96. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 F. 543.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 523.

98. Dorman v. McDonald [Fla.] 36 So. 52.

99. Payment being alleged, equity will not intervene unless it appears that from the nature of the proof or from lapse of time this defense will fail if not adjudicated at once, or that there is reason to apprehend many or vexatious suits by the mortgagor, or that some other recognized ground of equitable intervention exists. Dorman v. McDonald [Fla.] 36 So. 52.

1. Took cattle by force. Drumm-Flato Commission Co. v. Gerlach Bank [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 503.

2. Action of replevin by mortgagee. Heagney v. Case Threshing Mach. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 260.

3. Any presumption of payment of a crop mortgage from possession of the crops by the mortgagor is overcome by evidence showing that the mortgagor got possession of the crops from the mortgagee's warehouse, and shipped them without the mortgagee's knowledge or consent. Zorn v. Livesley [Or.] 75 P. 1057.

4. That mortgagor endeavored to find a purchaser for the property after the time of payment had expired, held admissible to show extension. Lemon v. McBride [Mich.] 96 N. W. 453.

5. An agreement between a wholesale milliner and a retail milliner, extending time of payment until the fall season, is an agreement for the extension of the mortgage for a definite period. Feller v. McKillip [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 641.

6. Cal. Wine-Makers' Corp. v. Sciaroni, 139 Cal. 277, 72 P. 990.

transferred by agreement to the proceeds, he cannot recover more than the sum due on his mortgage, though the agreement states a larger sum to be due him.[7] A renewal mortgage is not a new contract, though a different rate of interest and additional sum for attorney's fees are provided therein.[8]

Tender, by a junior mortgagee, of the amount due on a prior mortgage, entitles him to compel the senior mortgagee to cancel his mortgage on payment of the debt, and authorizes an injunction against the foreclosure of the senior mortgage;[9] and if the amount is in dispute, he should pay into court the amount tendered with an affidavit offering present payment of such sum and security for the balance in dispute.[10] A chattel mortgagee prior to bankruptcy, but after a general assignment, who accepts a part of the mortgaged property in full satisfaction of his debt, loses his lien on the remainder.[11] Novation, by the substitution of a new debtor, does not discharge the mortgage, nothing being said about releasing it.[12]

One creditor being secured by mortgage on several pieces of property, while another creditor is secured by a junior mortgage on only a part of the property, the prior creditor, when chargeable with actual notice of the rights of the junior creditor, is bound to exhaust his security on the property not covered by the junior lien, and must account to the junior lienholder if he releases his security on, or pays over to the mortgagor the proceeds of, the property not covered by the lien of the junior mortgagee, after actual notice of the junior lien.[13]

§ 13. Redemption.[14]—A mortgagor losing by breach of the conditions of the mortgage all title and right of possession still has an equity of redemption.[15] The sale of the property by the mortgagee, with the mortgagor's consent, operates at the common law as a formal foreclosure of his equitable right of redemption.[16] A court of equity has jurisdiction of a suit to redeem property from a mortgage after default in the payment of the mortgage debt, and the mortgagor has no adequate remedy at law.[17] The question of tender is ordinarily one for the jury.[18]

§ 14. Foreclosure.[19]—The statutory provisions must be followed,[20] though this method is not exclusive,[21] a court of equity having power to foreclose the mortgage.[22] To be entitled to the remedy of foreclosure, there must be an ascertained debt;[23] if the obligation be unliquidated, the mortgagee must resort to some appropriate judicial proceeding to enforce his lien, in which the amount of his debt must be ascertained, and the rights of the parties declared and enforced.[24]

7. Blumberg v. Marks, 87 N. Y. S. 512.

8. Vollmer v. Reid's Estate [Idaho] 77 P. 325.

9, 10. Bernheimer & S. P. Brew. Co. v. Koehler, 42 Misc. 377, 86 N. Y. S. 716.

11. Cannot thereafter transfer it to one fellow creditor to the exclusion of others. In re Thompson [C. C. A.] 128 F. 575.

12. Purchaser of mortgaged chattels agreed to pay the debt. Held, mortgage not discharged, nor was the purchaser the mortgagor as to his creditors [Construing Civ. Code, §§ 1531, 2957]. Talcott v. Hurlbert [Cal.] 76 P. 647.

13. First Nat. Bank v. Taylor [Kan.] 76 P. 425.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 524.

15. Fishel v. Hamilton Storage Warehouse Co., 42 Misc. 532, 86 N. Y. S. 196.

16. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11.

17. Manhattan L. Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

18. Lemon v. McBride [Mich.] 96 N. W. 453. See 1 Curr. L. 524, n. 23, 24.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 524.

20. A chattel mortgagee bringing suit, under municipal court act (Laws 1902, p. 1532, c. 580) §§ 137, 139, to foreclose a lien will be deemed a lienholder, and not the owner of the chattels, though a default has vested in him the absolute title and right of possession, and hence must join the mortgagor. Fishel v. Hamilton Storage Warehouse Co., 42 Misc. 532, 86 N. Y. S. 196.

21. Momrich v. Schwartz [Neb.] 96 N. W. 636.

22. Though a foreclosure by advertisement is stipulated. Momrich v. Schwartz [Neb.] 96 N. W. 636.

23. Construing B. & C. Comp. § 5636. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 73 P. 342.

24. Backhaus v. Buells, 43 Or. 558, 73 P. 342.

The suit for foreclosure may be joined with an action for conversion of mortgaged property.[25] An injunction being necessary to the successful foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, it will be granted.[26] The complaint must allege the ownership of the debt by plaintiff,[27] and must conform to the ordinary rules of pleading.[28] Neither the corporation, alleged to be the owner of the mortgaged chattels, nor its receiver having ever been in actual or constructive possession of the property, it is not necessary for the mortgagee to obtain leave of court before beginning proceedings to foreclose the mortgage as against the receiver.[29] A mortgagee having the right of redemption left is a necessary party to an action to foreclose.[30] Any person interested may intervene in the foreclosure proceedings and set up facts showing that the mortgagee has no right to foreclose.[31] The pendency of an action for the foreclosure of an alleged chattel mortgage, and in which a temporary injunction has been procured restraining the sale or disposition of the property by the alleged mortgagor, places the property in constructive custody of the law.[32] On foreclosure it is competent for a court of equity to refuse to retain more of the property than is necessary to discharge the amount due.[33]

After forfeiture the mortgagee has the right to sell the property in satisfaction of his debt,[34] and in exercising this right he must sell the property for the best price obtainable, which must be fair and reasonable, and failing to do so he is liable to the mortgagor.[35] The mortgagee selling the property, consisting of various articles, en masse, is prima facie evidence of unfairness.[36] The purchaser at foreclosure proceedings of a contingent interest takes absolute title upon its becoming vested in the mortgagor.[37] It being ordered that the sale should be confirmed unless the mortgagee should show that his security was thereby endangered,

25. Cassidy v. Willis [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 40.

26. Momrich v. Schwartz [Neb.] 96 N. W. 636.

27. A complaint in a suit to foreclose alleging that the note and mortgage were made and delivered by defendant to the payee, who afterwards, before maturity, and for a valuable consideration, assigned and delivered the same to plaintiff, who has ever since been the owner and holder of the same, and that the note is due and wholly unpaid is sufficient to withstand a general demurrer. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 P. 737.

28. That one sues for a greater amount than the mortgage was given to secure, and alleges in his complaint that the mortgage was given to secure the indebtedness due him by the defendant mortgagor, does not constitute a variance preventing his showing that as to the amount recited in the mortgage the debt sued for was secured by it, and foreclosing for that amount. Becker v. Bowen [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 45.

29. Kidder v. Beavers, 33 Wash. 635, 74 P. 819.

30. Fishel v. Hamilton Storage Warehouse Co., 42 Misc. 532, 86 N. Y. S. 196.

31. But one alleging that he desires to contest such mortgage, because the mortgaged property is largely in excess of the mortgage debt, and that he does not know whether the mortgage is valid or how much is due upon the debt and is unable to find out these facts is not entitled to have the foreclosure proceedings restrained [2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5876]. Kidder v. Beavers, 33 Wash. 635, 74 P. 819.

32. Withdraws the property from pursuit by general creditors of the alleged mortgagor in another court by means of the ordinary procedure of an action at law, judgment, and execution. Ryan v. Donley [Neb.] 96 N. W. 234.

33. Momrich v. Schwartz [Neb.] 96 N. W. 636.

34. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 75 Vt. 361, 56 A. 11.

35. Smitton v. Seibert [Mich.] 99 N. W. 381; Johnson Bros. v. Selden [Ala.] 37 So. 249. Private sale. First Nat. Bank v. Wright [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 686. In an action for an unpaid balance of the loan, the mortgagee may, under a plea of set-off, show that the mortgaged property was sold for less than its value. Johnson Bros. v. Selden [Ala.] 37 So. 249.

36. Johnson Bros. v. Selden [Ala.] 37 So. 249.

37. Where if a remainderman died without children and before the termination of the particular estate, his share was to go to the survivors or their children, held, where one remainderman purchased at foreclosure sale the interest of another, that such purchaser's title was not affected by his death without children before the termination of the particular estate, but passed to his heirs, and became vested in them on the termination of the particular estate during the life of the mortgagor. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946.

no such showing being attempted, the sale is binding.[38] In New York, failure to procure an order confirming the referee's report of sale does not invalidate the title of a purchaser at the sale who has paid the consideration and received the referee's deed.[39] A resale being ordered, the purchaser at the invalid sale should be permitted to bid at the resale, and to apply on the purchase price so much of the sum paid by him on the first purchase as remained after deducting what he received from sales of the assets while in his hands.[40] A purchaser at a sale by the mortgagee, the mortgagor consenting and agreeing that the proceeds should go to pay the mortgage debt, has no right to deduct from the amount bid any indebtedness due him by the mortgagor,[41] and the proceeds, being less than the amount due the mortgagee, become the latter's absolute property.[42] In Georgia, unless the execution issued upon foreclosure be arrested by counter-affidavit, it is final process,[43] and the only persons authorized to file such counter-affidavit are the mortgagor, his special agent or legal representative, and a creditor of the mortgagor.[44] When such an execution is levied upon the mortgaged property, and a claim is interposed thereto, the claimant, upon the trial of the claim, cannot amend the same by alleging that the mortgagor is not indebted to the mortgagee.[45] On appeal by plaintiff in a suit for foreclosure, holders of mortgage liens on the property, and the assignor of notes on which suit was brought, and who was made a defendant by a cross-complaint for the foreclosure of a prior mortgage, are properly made appellees,[46] and, the evidence not being before the appellate court, it will assume that the attorney's fees allowed by the trial court are reasonable and justified by the proof.[47]

§ 15. Remedies as between the parties.[48]—The mortgagor, or his legal representative, is entitled to recover in trover for the sale of more of the property than is sufficient to pay the debt secured by the mortgage.[49] A mortgage will not be canceled unless the mortgagor places the mortgagee in statu quo by redelivering the property purchased,[50] the mortgagee being a necessary party to the suit.[51] There being a mutual mistake, the mortgage will be reformed, but the evidence thereof must be clear.[52] An assignee of the mortgagee, under an unambiguous written assignment, cannot show by parol that he purchased the property outright and in good faith.[53]

38. Purchasers are liable on their sale bond. Georgetown Water Co. v. Fidelity Trust & S. V. Co.'s Trustee, 25 Ky. L. R. 1739, 78 S. W. 113.

39. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946.

40. Smitton v. Seibert [Mich.] 99 N. W. 381.

41. Williams v. Corker [Cal.] 77 P. 1004. Evidence considered and held sufficient to warrant the finding that the auctioneer selling the property was the mortgagee's agent, and that the entries in the auctioneer's book were sufficient to point out what part of the mortgaged property was sold. Id.

42. By reason of the agreement between the parties, and not by reason of the lien of the mortgage attaching to the proceeds of the sale. Williams v. Corker [Cal.] 77 P. 1004.

43, 44. Ford v. Fargason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 180.

45. Ford v. Fargason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 180. Nor can he introduce evidence tending to show such fact. Id.

46. Vinall v. Hendricks [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 682.

47. Johnson v. Hibbard [Utah] 75 P. 737.

48. See 1 Curr. L. 525.

49. Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978.

50. Purchase money mortgage. Anderson v. Anderson Food Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 489.

51. Cannot be canceled in an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside a sale of the bankrupt's property, the proceeds of which sale were applied to the discharge of an unrecorded chattel mortgage of the bankrupt's, the mortgagee not being a party to the action. Bonnie & Co. v. Perry's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 1560, 78 S. W. 208.

52. Evidence considered and held not to show clearly that the phrase "stock manufactured, or unmanufactured, and in process of manufacture" was included in the mortgage by mutual mistake. Anderson v. Anderson Food Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 489.

53. Action for conversion, he having sold more of the property than was sufficient to pay the indebtedness secured. Haynes v. Hobbs [Mich.] 98 N. W. 978. Evidence held sufficient to justify a finding that the assignee received $850 for the property. Id.

§ 16. Remedies against third persons.[54]—One wrongfully seizing and selling mortgaged property is liable to the mortgagor for conversion,[55] the measure of damages being the value of the property irrespective of the mortgage debt, the difference being the subject of an accounting between the parties to the mortgage,[56] the question of interest being in some states one for the jury,[57] or he may be held accountable in an action on the case for the money realized on the sale.[58] One purchasing mortgaged property from the mortgagee, with constructive notice of the mortgage, before maturity of the debt, is liable in conversion to a prior assignee of the mortgage.[59] The rights of a mortgagee being interfered with by attachment proceedings, he may assert his right and lien to the property attached by interpleading in the attachment proceedings.[60]

In an action of conversion by the mortgagor against a purchaser from the mortgagee, the mortgagee is not a necessary party to give defendant complete protection against plaintiff.[61] The mortgagee bringing an action of conversion he must allege (1) that at the date of the conversion he was the owner and holder of the notes; (2) that the notes had not been paid, or, if paid in part, the amount then due; (3) that he had some property interest in the chattels converted, either general or special, and was either in actual possession or entitled to the possession thereof; and (4) the value of the property converted.[62] Plaintiff's affidavit is not admissible, in such an action, to show the amount of advances made under the mortgage.[63] The evidence being conflicting, the question is one for the jury.[64] In this action, the defense that the note secured by the mortgage is usurious and that hence the mortgage is void is, in some states, open to defendant,[65] and when allowable is provable under a general denial.[66]

CITIZENS.[67]

An alien cannot be estopped by an erroneous allegation of citizenship in a pleading, from showing his true citizenship.[68] A state statute providing that a nonresident cannot act as administrator does not make an administrator appointed therein a citizen of the state for the purpose of the jurisdiction of a Federal court.[69]

54. See 1 Curr. L. 525.
55. Sold chattels on execution against the mortgagor after he was in default. Biehler v. Irwin, 84 N. Y. S. 574.
56. Biehler v. Irwin, 84 N. Y. S. 574.
57. Bigler v. Leonori [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 324.
58. George Adams & Frederick Co. v. South Omaha Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 123 F. 641.
59. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 F. 543.

NOTE. Personal liability of purchaser: The purchaser of personal property subject to the lien of a chattel mortgage can never become personally liable to the holder of the mortgage by the simple fact of such purchase, but only when he does some act interfering with, or destroying, the lien, i. e., some act which may be said to amount to a conversion. Hull v. Carnley, 11 N. Y. 501, 17 N. Y. 202; Goulet v. Asseler, 22 N. Y. 225; Hall v. Sampson, 35 N. Y. 274, 91 Am. Dec. 56; Manning v. Monaghan, 23 N. Y. 539, 28 N. Y. 585. Such purchaser may in good faith transfer such property, previous to the forfeiture of the condition of the mortgage, or a demand from the holder thereof. Same cases.—From note to Rogers-Ruger Co. v. Murray, 59 L. R. A. 737.

60. Miller v. Campbell Commission Co., 13 Okl. 75. 74 P. 507.
61. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419.
62. Harrington v. Stromberg-Mullins Co. [Mont.] 74 P. 413.
63. Sand. & H. Dig. § 2972 does not authorize its admission. Loewenberg v. Gilliam [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1064.
64. As to the identity of the property. Ladd v. Williams [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 511.
65. Rev. St. 1899, § 3710. Defendant claimed to be the true owner of the chattels, and that they had been fraudulently mortgaged to the mortgagee. Davis v. Tandy [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 457.
66. Davis v. Tandy [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 457.
67. See Aliens, 1 Curr. L. 67; Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. L. 569; Domicile, 1 Curr. L. 954; Elections, 1 Curr. L. 981.
68. Bill with erroneous allegation dismissed, another filed. Marthinson v. Winyah Lumber Co., 125 F. 633.
69. McDuffie v. Montgomery, 128 F. 105.

CIVIL ARREST.

§ 1. Privilege from Arrest (700).
§ 2. Arrest on Mesne Process. When Allowable (700).
§ 3. Execution Against the Body. Occasion and Propriety (701).
§ 4. Supersedeas Bail or Discharge from Arrest. Final Process (701).

§ 1. Privilege from arrest.[70]—A bankrupt is exempt from arrest on civil process issuing from a state court, except on a debt or claim for which his discharge in bankruptcy would not be a release.[71] This exemption, unless vacated or suspended by the court, extends until the final adjudication.[72] In some states, attorneys are exempt from civil arrest when actually in attendance in court.[73]

§ 2. Arrest on mesne process. When allowable.[74]—In order to have a debtor arrested on the ground of a fraudulent disposition of property, there must be an actual intent to defraud.[75] The constitutional prohibitions against arrest for debt include all contractual obligations, but not those of a penal or quasi-penal character.[76]

Procedure to obtain order of arrest.[77]—In most states, the arrest may be ordered upon affidavits;[78] but in New York, a complaint being filed, it must state a cause of action.[79] In the affidavit certainty to a certain intent in general is sufficient.[80] The affidavit in most states should contain a statement of the facts claimed to justify the belief,[81] and such statement should be such that, if uncontradicted, the court can see that the defendant is guilty of the charge alleged.[82] A mere inference will not justify the granting of the order.[83] The rules of pleading as to statement of facts apply.[84] The existence of the oath or affidavit justifying the issuance of the certificate may in some cases be presumed.[85]

70. See 1 Curr. L. 526.

71. Bankruptcy Act 1898, § 9a, subd. 2. In re Dresser, 124 F. 915.

72. Is not restricted to the particular occasions when his physical attendance in court is required. In re Dresser, 124 F. 915. The bankruptcy court may require him to furnish a bond to obey the orders of the court and not depart from the jurisdiction during the continuance of such exemption from arrest. Id.

73. Construing Code, §§ 641, 1367, 1735. Greenleaf v. People's Bank, 133 N. C. 292, 45 S. E. 638.

NOTE. Exemption of lawyers from arrest: Cases and laws collated by the Hon. Chief Justice Clark. This exemption is an old English custom and has been adopted in only a few of the states and in some of those where it has been adopted it has been modified or repealed. It seems to have been repealed in England. See Greenleaf v. People's Bank, 133 N. C. 292, 45 S. E. 638.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 527.

75. That the sale is constructively fraudulent in that it violates a statute is not sufficient. Mann v. Chrestopulos, 87 App. Div. 222, 84 N. Y. S. 372. See 1 Curr. L. 527, n. 82.

76. NOTE. Constitutional prohibitions against imprisonment for debt: Debts arising from contract fall within the statutory prohibition (In re Wheeler, 34 Kan. 96, 8 P. 276; Kennedy v. People, 122 Ill. 649, 13 N. E. 213; Ex parte Hardy, 68 Ala. 303); but the debt being contracted by fraud, the debtor is deprived of the protection of the provision (Moore v. Mullen, 77 N. C. 328; Ex parte Clark, 20 N. J. Law, 648; State v. Becht, 23 Minn. 411). The prohibition does not apply to proceedings in tort (Rich v. People, 66 Ill. 513; Long v. McLean, 88 N. C. 3; Cotton v. Sharpstein, 14 Wis. 228); nor is it applicable to defendant's obligation to pay costs of criminal prosecution (Caldwell v. State, 55 Ala. 133; Kennedy v. People, 122 Ill. 649, 13 N. E. 213; Smith v. State, 23 Ind. 132); nor to the obligation of a putative father to pay for the support of his child (Musser v. Stewart, 21 Ohio St. 353; Ex parte Cottrell, 13 Neb. 193, 13 N. W. 174; Lower v. Wallick, 25 Ind. 68). But see Holmes v. State, 2 G. Greene [Iowa] 501.—From note to State v. Brewer, 37 Am. St. Rep. 752, 758.

77. See 1 Curr. L. 527.

78. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 549, 557-559. Lewis v. Pollack, 85 App. Div. 577, 83 N. Y. S. 287.

79. A defective complaint being amended, the arrest will not be vacated [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 549, 557-559]. Lewis v. Pollack, 85 App. Div. 577, 83 N. Y. S. 287.

80. Where the affidavit alleged that the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt and set forth the facts justifying the belief, held sufficient. Lyhrig Coal Co. v. Ludlum, 69 Ohio St. 311, 69 N. E. 562.

81. But not the evidence of such facts [Rev. St. § 5492]. Lyhrig Coal Co. v. Ludlum, 69 Ohio St. 311, 69 N. E. 562. Fraudulent transfer. Mann v. Chrestopulos, 87 App. Div. 222, 84 N. Y. S. 372.

82. An affidavit for arrest of defendants in an action for obtaining goods on a false statement as to their financial condition is insufficient, it not showing that affiant had any personal knowledge that defendants made or signed the statement or ever saw the original. Prices v. Levy, 93 App. Div. 274, 87 N. Y. S. 740.

83. Price v. Levy, 93 App. Div. 274, 87 N. Y. S. 740.

84. Lyhrig Coal Co. v. Ludlum, 69 Ohio St. 311, 69 N. E. 562.

§ 3. Execution against the body. Occasion and propriety.[86]—An execution against the body is an extraordinary civil remedy;[87] it can only be invoked where the ordinary execution against property is shown to be unavailing on account of the debtor's fraud,[88] and the creditor bringing himself within the prescribed conditions, it is claimed and issued as a matter of right.[89] A successful defendant is not entitled to body execution to secure his costs if the plaintiff would have been denied the writ if successful.[90] In New York, wage earners suing for wages earned are entitled to an execution against the person of their former employer.[91] In states where an order of arrest cannot be served until after final judgment, failure to enter judgment for a year after verdict does not preclude the plaintiff from obtaining such an order.[92] A close jail execution will not be granted where there are no facts showing that a certificate ought to have been granted.[93]

The order and writ.[94]—The writ must recite the issuing and return of an execution against the property, specifying the county to which it was issued.[95]

Arrest and return.—A sheriff cannot arrest under an execution against the body outside of the county of which he is an officer.[96] The return on the execution is conclusive, as between the parties and their privies, that the debtor was duly arrested and duly admitted to bail.[97]

§ 4. Supersedeas bail or discharge from arrest.[98] Final process.[99]—In New York, the proceedings for the discharge are not commenced until the petition, schedules, and affidavit with due proof of fourteen days service are presented to the court.[1] Statutes providing that the defendant shall be discharged from custody if plaintiff neglects to enter judgment within ten days after it is in his power to do so, the days are to be computed from the date of granting or execution of the order of arrest,[2] and defendant must show in his affidavit for an order to show cause why he should not be discharged that the time has elapsed.[3] In some states, one imprisoned for debt may be released upon taking the "poor debtor's oath,"[4] and generally the word "debt" as here used does not include liability for personal injuries to the plaintiff.[5] Concealment of property at the time of the application for the oath is a ground for refusal.[6] A special justice has no power to take a poor debtor's recognizance except while sitting as a court in the absence of the standing justice, and this fact should appear of record,[7] though failing to so ap-

85. Where four executions were issued and the arrest was made on the fourth, also a certificate of arrest was made by the court and attached to the second execution, and the debtor making no objection when arrested, held, existence would be presumed. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 528.

87. Joyce v. Everson, 161 Ind. 440, 69 N. E. 135.

88. Joyce v. Everson, 161 Ind. 440, 69 N. E. 135. Will not issue without the previous issue and return of an execution against his property to the county where he resides. Fisher v. Young, 41 Misc. 552, 85 N. Y. S. 115.

89. Joyce v. Everson, 161 Ind. 440, 69 N. E. 135.

90. Defendant being a woman and not subject to such writ, she could not have one. Allen v. Becket, 84 N. Y. S. 1009.

91. Laws 1902, p. 1569, c. 580. This includes a female domestic servant. Greenberg v. Laeov, 84 N. Y. S. 930.

92. Construing Code Civ. Proc. § 551. Wasserman v. Benjamin, 88 App. Div. 1, 84 N. Y. S. 489.

93. Chase v. Watson, 75 Vt. 385, 56 A. 10.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 528.

95, 96. Fisher v. Young, 41 Misc. 552, 85 N. Y. S. 115.

97. An escape cannot be shown. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46.

98, 99. See 1 Curr. L. 529.

1. Code, § 2205 applies, not § 780. In re Quick, 92 App. Div. 131, 87 N. Y. S. 316.

2. Construing Code Civ. Proc. § 572. Wasserman v. Benjamin, 88 App. Div. 1, 84 N. Y. S. 489.

3. Wasserman v. Benjamin, 88 App. Div. 1, 84 N. Y. S. 489.

4. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 260, § 1. Taylor v. Bliss [R. I.] 57 A. 939.

5. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 260, § 1. Does not include liability to husband for alienation of wife's affections. Taylor v. Bliss [R. I.] 57 A. 939.

6. Pub. St. 1891, c. 236, § 6. Statute does not contemplate refusal of oath because debtor was concealing property at the time of his arrest. Mass. Breweries Co. v. Colburn [N. H.] 57 A. 653.

7, 8, 9, 10, 11. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46.

pear, the record is amendable.[8] Such recognizance need not state the facts which gave the special justice jurisdiction,[9] nor is it rendered invalid by failure to refer to the amendment to the act authorizing it.[10] In an action on a poor debtor's recognizance for breach of condition to deliver himself up for examination, it is a fair inference that he did not submit to such examination from evidence that plaintiff had no notice or information of such examination.[11] In some states, the debtor must be imprisoned for a certain time before being entitled to his discharge; nominal custody as under bonds for jail limits is not such imprisonment.[12] Statutes providing for the discharge of defendant if plaintiff unreasonably "delays" the trial do not apply to neglect to proceed.[13] Defendant not appealing from an order denying his motion to vacate an order of arrest, the sufficiency of the affidavit cannot be reviewed upon appeal from the judgment.[14]

CIVIL RIGHTS.[15]

Civil rights have no relation to the establishment, support, or management of the government.[16] Congress has the right to legislate against individuals[17] and protect citizens in the enjoyment of fundamental rights.[18] It is a violation of a constitutional right to exclude citizens from sitting as jurors on the sole ground of race or color.[19] Where separate but unequal accommodations were furnished by a carrier, a prosecution for failing to furnish "separate" coaches must fail.[20]

CLERKS OF COURT.

§ 1. General Powers and Duties (702).
§ 2. Fees and Compensation; in General (703).
§ 3. Liability on Bond (704).

§ 1. General powers and duties.[21]—The clerk of a court is essentially a ministerial officer, having nothing to do with the character or purpose of papers tendered to him to be filed,[22] or with the purpose for which a search of the records is requested.[23] When suit is ordered or process directed to be issued, it is his duty to comply if the party is prima facie entitled to it,[24] provided his fees are paid or tendered,[25] but this applies only to fees incident to his office,[26] and he cannot insist on prepayment from the state.[27] He is liable for the damages resulting from 12. Comp. Laws 1897. §§ 9701-9713. Rusiewski v. Michalski [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1.

13. Failure to file a note of issue or serve notice of trial is not such a delay. Goff v. Charlier, 89 N. Y. S. 722. See 1 Curr. L. 530, n. 24.

14. Anker v. Smith, 87 N. Y. S. 479.

15. See 1 Curr. L. 530.

16. Winnett v. Adams [Neb.] 99 N. W. 681. Equity will not undertake to manage a political party for the protection of a political right. Id.

17. 13 Amend. U. S. Const. U. S. v. Morris, 125 F. 332.

18. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1262. U. S. v. Morris, 125 F. 332. The right to lease and cultivate land is a constitutional right [Rev. St. U. S. § 5508]. Id. Conspiracy to deprive negroes of this right. Id.

19. Binyon v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 265.

20. The prosecution should have been under Ky. St. § 796, instead of section 795. Ill. Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 296, 74 S. W. 1076. As to exclusion of persons of defendant's race or nationality from jury in criminal prosecution, see Jury, 2 Curr. L. 633.

21. See 1 Curr. L. 531, § 1.

22. U. S. v. Bell, 127 F. 1002.

23. The clerk of court is required to search the judgment records on tender of his fee, and cannot refuse because the information is intended to be used generally in an abstract business. State v. Scow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 382.

24. U. S. v. Bell, 127 F. 1002.

25. A clerk is justified in refusing to print a portion of a record embodying evidence in an equity case, until the costs thereof are paid him. Allis v. Hall, 76 Conn. 322, 56 A. 637. To justify his action in withholding a transcript of appeal, the clerk must make certain that the amount he demands is correct, prepare an itemized bill and have it approved by the court. State v. Wells, 111 La. 463, 35 So. 641.

26. Clerk had paid sheriff his costs for making service of citations of appeal. State v. Wells, 111 La. 463, 35 So. 641.

27. As against a parish tax-collector. State v. Estorage, 110 La. 479, 34 So. 643.

his refusal to perform a duty of his office,[28] and mandamus will lie to enforce such duty.[29] The clerk has no authority to retain money paid him in his official capacity on a judgment in order to apply it on a judgment for costs in favor of the county and against the one for whom the money was paid.[30] In Texas, it is not his duty to receive money due on a judgment, and he is not liable as an officer of the court for its conversion.[31] When the term of the clerk expires, his successor takes up the office where his predecessor set it down,[32] and an ad interim clerk appointed by the court becomes functus officio on the commissioning of his successor,[33] and mandamus lies to compel him to surrender the records of the office.[34] Where the law conferring the authority to appoint deputies is silent as to any limitation of the right of removal, it may be exercised at pleasure.[35] A contract by which a deputy is to continue as such for the entire term is void as against public policy, when the law does not limit his continuance in office.[36] In Texas deputies are invested with all the power of the principal clerk.[37]

§ 2. Fees and compensation; in general.[38]—Statutes providing for fees will not be extended beyond their letter.[39] A statute making provision for fees does not include compensation for ex officio services.[40] In Indiana, the salaries of county clerks are graded according to population and services required in the various counties.[41] The fees required in Pennsylvania to be paid to the clerk of the court of quarter sessions by applicants for liquor licenses belong to the county and not to the clerk, in counties containing more than 150,000 inhabitants.[42] In Louisiana, the clerk of court cannot collect his fees from the parish, in criminal cases where a conviction is secured.[43] Texas laws limiting the amount of fees to be retained by the clerk and requiring the excess to be paid to the county treasurer is constitutional.[44] A chancery clerk is entitled to be furnished with the postage necessary in the business of his office.[45] The clerk of a territorial district court is not entitled in all cases to the fees allowed by statutes of the United States, but in cases in which the United States is not a party, the legislature may fix the compensation.[46] The clerk of the supreme court of New Mexico is entitled to fees for services in a suit by a county to collect taxes.[47] A clerk of district court in Minnesota is entitled, on search of the judgment records, to fifty cents for each

28. Clerk of federal circuit court refused to issue summons in assumpsit in response to a praecipe. U. S. v. Bell, 127 F. 1002.

29. Search of judgment records. State v. Scow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 382.

30. May v. State [Ind.] 69 N. E. 999.

31. He had appropriated such money to payment of costs. City of Whitesboro v. Diamond [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 540.

32. He may collect outstanding fees and apply them to the conduct of the office; they need not be paid into the state treasury. Chinn v. Shackelford, 25 Ky. L. R. 1813, 78 S. W. 908. Acts 1893, p. 1157, does not apply to this office. Id.

33, 34. State v. Givens [Fla.] 37 So. 308.

35. Rev. St. 1899, § 527. Horstman v. Adamson, 101 Mo. App. 119, 74 S. W. 398, citing other cases.

36. Rev. St. 1899, § 527. Horstman v. Adamson, 101 Mo. App. 119, 74 S. W. 398.

37. Code 1858, § 4050. Privy examination of married woman. Wilkerson v. Dennison [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 765.

38. See 1 Curr. L. 531.

39. Acts 1896-97, p. 1461 and Acts 1900-01 does not apply to Cleburne County. Reese v. Cleburne County, 139 Ala. 299, 35 So. 879.

40. Reese v. Cleburne County, 139 Ala. 299, 35 So. 879. Acknowledgment of tax deeds not being necessary, the clerk is not entitled to fees for taking same unless the acknowledgment was requested by the holder. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf (Ill.) 71 N. E. 340.

41. State v. Shutts, 161 Ind. 590, 69 N. E. 397.

42. Schuylkill County v. Shoener, 205 Pa. 592, 55 A. 791.

43. Act No. 99, 1876. He must look to the convicted defendant. Parish Board of Directors v. Hebert, 112 La. 467, 36 So. 497.

44. Gammels' Laws Tex. vol. 10, p. 1445. Tarrant County v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 656.

45. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 296, providing for "stationery" and "all other articles necessary." Downing v. Hinds County [Miss.] 36 So. 73.

46. Pima County v. Martin, 3 Ariz. 59, 73 P. 399.

47. Seno v. Bernalillo County [N. M.] 78 P. 46.

judgment certified and fifty cents for certifying to the nonexistence of judgments against any one person.[48]

United States courts.[49]—Moneys collected by a clerk of a federal court belong to the government, subject to the payment of his compensation and fees and necessary office expenses.[50] Under the federal statutes only "moneys" to be paid into court or to its officers must be deposited with a depositary so as to entitle the clerk of court to commissions thereon.[51] A clerk of a circuit court is not entitled to fees in addition to cost for printing the record in a case for the circuit court of appeals,[52] although the clerk of the court of appeals is entitled to such fee,[53] and is required to accept any portion of such record which has been properly printed.[54] A clerk of the circuit court is entitled only to the reasonable cost of such printing, and cannot tax the increased cost for hastening the work when unnecessary and incurred on his own responsibility.[55] A clerk of a district court is not entitled to a commission on prize money paid, by agreement of the parties, into the registry of the court instead of to an assistant treasurer of the United States as provided by statute.[56] A clerk is entitled to the allowance of a proper fee for a service performed under an order of the court,[57] but not otherwise.[58]

§ 3. Liability on bond.[59]—In an action on the bond of a clerk of court to enforce liability for moneys appropriated by him, it must be shown that the moneys came into his hands as clerk and that failure to account for the same was a breach of official duty.[60] Hence, there is no liability on his bond for money paid as compensation for unofficial acts directed by the court, whether or not the court had authority to direct such acts.[61] There is a liability for all fees or moneys which he is directed by law to receive and account for.[62] Where there has been a breach of official duty by a clerk of a federal court, resulting in substantial injury, suit may be brought on the clerk's bond in the name of the United States, to the use of the party injured.[63] Where such action is for failure to issue summons, complainant must show a good cause of action against those whom he sought to sue, and also more than nominal damages.[64] The ordinary in Georgia is both judge and clerk

48. State v. Scow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 382.

49. See 1 Curr. L. 532.

50. Cost of printing forms in bankruptcy proceedings under direction of judge for use of referees, so far as necessary, were proper "office expenses." U. S. v. Mason [C. C. A.] 129 F. 742.

51. Rev. St. § 995 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 711). Curtice v. Crawford County Bank, 124 F. 919.

52. Thornton v. Insurance Cos., 125 F. 250.

53. Rule 31, § 7; Page's Rules, p. 169.

54, 55. Thornton v. Insurance Cos., 125 F. 260.

56. The Adula, 127 F. 849.

57. Issuing subpoenas. Services in connection with affidavits of defendants in criminal cases of inability to pay costs [U. S. Rev. St. §§ 828, 878 (25 Stat. 655)]. U. S. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 528, 24 S. Ct. 561. Charges for transcript of record on writ of error, ordered by court on behalf of an indigent criminal defendant. Administering oaths and affixing jurats. Id. A clerk of the circuit court is entitled to charge 15 cents per folio of 100 words for making up and certifying a record and return to the court of appeals in response to a writ of error. Thornton v. Insurance Cos., 125 F. 250.

58. Furnishing certificates to copies and copies of orders. Administering oaths and affixing jurats to accounts of United States marshals. U. S. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 528, 24 S. Ct. 561. Charges for administering oaths on the voir dire of grand and petit jurors cannot be justified under U. S. Rev. St. § 828. Id.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 633.

60. State v. Flynn, 161 Ind. 554, 69 N. E. 159.

61. Not liable for money paid for preparation of hand-bar dockets for printing, for use of bench and bar. State v. Flynn, 161 Ind. 554, 69 N. E. 159; State v. Shutts, 161 Ind. 590, 69 N. E. 397. No liability on bond for compensation paid him by board of commissioners for reproducing a public record. State v. Shutts, 161 Ind. 590, 69 N. E. 397.

62. Sheriff's fees in actions must be paid either to the sheriff or his successor or the county. State v. Flynn, 161 Ind. 554, 69 N. E. 159. Under Texas laws, fees paid to the clerk for making new indexes to records, are official fees for which he is required to account to the county [Rev. St. 1895, art. 1143, and Gammels' Laws, vol. 10, p. 1445]. Tarrant County v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 656. County clerk in Indiana may retain per diem for attending sessions of court. State v. Flynn, 161 Ind. 554, 69 N. E. 159; State v. Shutts, 161 Ind. 554, 69 N. E. 397.

63. U. S. v. Bell, 127 F. 1002.

64. A mere claim for the amount for which of the court of ordinary, and is liable on his official bond for ministerial but not for judicial acts.[65]

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.[66]

The fact that an institution is authorized to take and hold land[67] does not render it a corporation for pecuniary benefit.[68] Where a college locates in a certain place in consideration of endowments contributed by the citizens, it cannot subsequently remove if special injury would result to the subscribers.[69] There is no constitutional limitation which restrains a legislature from establishing a college to promote substantial classes.[70]

The statute creating the University of Louisiana did not incorporate into that constitution the corporation known as the "Faculty of the Medical College of Louisiana," but only the school itself,[71] and the corporation was ipso facto dissolved thereby.[72] The State University of Nebraska is a state institution and its board of regents an agent of the state,[73] as is the North Dakota State Normal School;[74] therefore mandamus will not lie to compel them to issue certificates for salaries to professors.[75]

The legislature may control the property of educational institutions which constitute a part of the state educational system.[76] A note and mortgage running to Creighton University, trustee for Creighton College, is enforceable, though Creighton College is not incorporated.[77] The state board of agriculture has power to employ a professor in the state agricultural college on contract for a reasonable term.[78]

A student who has been wrongfully expelled, without notice, is entitled to mandamus to compel his restoration, whether the school be organized for profit or not.[79] An action at law would not furnish adequate relief.[80]

he sought to hold defendants in the desired action is not enough. U. S. v. Bell, 127 F. 1002.

65. Additional ministerial duties imposed by statute. State v. Henderson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 334.

66. Exemption from taxation is treated in Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

67. Under its charter of 1810, Columbia College is empowered to take and hold realty of the value therein mentioned, exclusive of the value of realty it was entitled to hold under the charter to King's College. Land acquired prior to 1810; land acquired under special acts, Laws 1790, c. 38; Laws 1802, c. 105; Laws 1857, c. 132; Laws 1860, c. 51, and mortgages not included. Phoenix v. Trustees of Columbia College, 87 App. Div. 438, 84 N. Y. S. 897. The University of Washington is not precluded by its enabling act to participate in a grant of land for charitable, educational and penal institutions. 25 Stat. 680 grants land to the state for a university. 25 Stat. 681 grants land for charitable, educational, and penal institutions. State v. Callvert, 34 Wash. 58, 74 P. 1018.

68. McLeod v. Lincoln Medical College (Neb.) 96 N. W. 265.

69. P. L. 1360. Packard v. Thiel College, 207 Pa. 280, 56 A. 869. Where the act of incorporation provides that a college shall be "permanently" located at a place to be determined by the trustees, one who contributed funds after the location was made may enjoin removal. Id. [Pa.] 58 A. 670.

70. Agriculture. Trustees of Rutgers College v. Morgan [N. J. Law] 57 A. 250. Art. 4, § 7, State Const. prohibits legislature from appropriating school fund to any free public school to which all children are not admitted. Id.

71, 72. Succession of Hutchinson, 112 La. 656, 36 So. 639.

73. Von Forel v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 648, following State v. Moore, 46 Neb. 379, 64 N. W. 975.

74. Laws 1903, c. 49, authorizing issuance of bonds to "build" a school, and providing for repayment out of revenues dedicated to "support" of the school, is void. State v. McMillan [N. D.] 96 N. W. 310.

75. Ministerial act. Von Forel v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 648.

76. Authorize a lease of property of an academy which was created by the state and not by private effort. Trustees of Carrick Academy v. Clark [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 64.

77. Donee sufficiently definite. Goddard v. Clarke [Neb.] 96 N. W. 350.

78. One year is a reasonable term. State Board of Agriculture v. Meyers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 372.

79. Night law student. Baltimore University v. Colton [Md.] 57 A. 14.

80. Baltimore University v. Colton [Md.] 57 A. 14.

COMBINATIONS AND MONOPOLIES.

§ 1. Combinations Violative of the Federal Anti-Trust Act (706).
§ 2. Combinations Violative of State Anti-Trust Acts and of the Common Law (708).
§ 3. Grants of Privileges by Statute, Ordinance and Contracts with Municipalities Tending to Create Monopolies (710).

§ 1. Combinations violative of the Federal anti-trust act.[81]—Under its power to regulate commerce among the several states and with foreign nations, congress has power to establish rules by which interstate and international commerce shall be governed, and by the anti-trust act has prescribed the rule of free competition among those engaged in such commerce.[82] The act is not at all new in trade and commerce, since when congress declared contracts, combinations, and conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce to be illegal, it did nothing more than apply to interstate commerce a rule that had long been applied by the several states when dealing with combinations that were in restraint of their domestic commerce.[83] Although the act has no reference to the mere manufacture or production of articles or commodities within the limits of the several states,[84] it embraces and declares to be illegal every contract, combination or conspiracy in whatever form, of whatever nature, and whoever may be parties to it, which directly or necessarily operates in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations.[85] A combination, however, which promotes, or but incidentally or indirectly restricts, competition, while its main purpose and chief effect are to foster the trade and to increase the business of those who make and operate it, is not a contract, combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade within the true interpretation of the act, and is not subject to its denunciation.[86] The natural effect of competition is to increase commerce, and an agreement whose direct effect is to prevent this play of competition restrains instead of promotes trade and commerce.[87] Whence restraint of trade is not dependent upon any consideration of reasonableness or unreasonableness, in the combination averred. The Federal statute looks solely to competition and to the giving of competition full play, by making illegal any effort at restriction upon competition.[88]

Railroad carriers engaged in interstate or international trade or commerce are embraced by the act,[89] and every combination or conspirary which would extinguish competition between otherwise competing railroads engaged in interstate trade or commerce and which would in that way restrain such trade or commerce is made illegal.[90] Whence the establishing of a holding corporation and the transfer thereto of the stock of railroad companies owning competing lines is in violation thereof.[91]

Combinations even among private manufacturers or dealers whereby interstate or international commerce is restrained are equally embraced by the act,[92] but a

81. See 1 Curr. L. 535.
82. Act July 2, 1890, c. 647 (26 Stat. 209). Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436. The constitutional guarantee of liberty of contract does not prevent congress from prescribing the rule of free competition for those engaged in interstate and international commerce. Id.
83. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436.
84. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436; Robinson v. Suburban Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 804.
85. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436; Phillips v. Iola Portland Cement Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 593; Whitwell v. Continental Tobacco Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 454, citing many cases.
86. Whitwell v. Continental Tobacco Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 458, citing many cases; Phillips v. Iola Portland Cement Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 593.
87. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436.
88. U. S. v. Swift & Co., 122 F. 529; Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436.
89. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436; State v. Northern Securities Co., 123 F. 692.
90, 91. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436.
92. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436. An agreement of packing companies to refrain from bidding against each other in the purchase of cattle, combination by the owners of patents on machines adapted to a similar purpose, to control the business, is not illegal, the very object of the patent laws being to create a monopoly.[93] In determining whether or not a combination is in violation of the Federal anti-trust law, as in restraint of interstate commerce, the true inquiry is whether it tends directly to appreciably restrain interstate trade; if it does, it is within the statute;[94] nor does the anti-trust act of July 2, 1890, extend to contracts which may incidentally or in some remote way come into relation with, or become the source of interstate commerce.[95] There is a clear distinction between the aggregation of properties by purchase when the seller no longer retains an interest in the property, and a combination of owners and properties under one management, where each owner's interest is continued in the combination.[96] and to bid up prices temporarily to stimulate shipments, intending to cease from bidding when shipments have arrived, is an unlawful combination under the Sherman act. U. S. v. Swift & Co., 122 F. 529. A combination of tile, mantel and grate manufacturers and dealers residing in several states, to deprive supply dealers not members of the association, is within the statute. Montague & Co. v. Lowry, 193 U. S. 38, 24 S. Ct. 307. The restriction of its own trade by a corporation to those dealers who will buy only of it is not violative of the act. Whitwell v. Continental Tobacco Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 454. A contract of sale by a manufacturer to a jobber of some of its product to be shipped across the state line to the jobber, under an agreement that the jobber will not resell to parties outside the state, is not violative of the law. Phillips v. Iola Portland Cement Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 593.

93. U. S. Consol. Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin [C. C. A.] 126 F. 364.

94. A combination between all the lumber manufacturers of a city to raise and maintain the price to local consumers, and to refuse to sell to consumers who purchase any part of their supplies from outside mills, some of such mills being in another state, is within the act. Ellis v. Paulsen & Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 182. It is immaterial that such is not its ultimate object, nor is it material to ascertain what proportion the resulting restraint of interstate commerce bears to other results. Id. A city ordinance requiring the use of Trinidad lake asphalt for paving does not violate the provisions of such instruments, because this particular kind of asphalt is a product of a foreign country, and there are deposits in several of the United States from which suitable asphalt can be had. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 24 S. Ct. 784. An agreement between carriers to pay a percentage of all freights earned to competitors, no provision being made as to maintaining rates or preventing competition, no prices being fixed and dealings not being confined to any combination of persons, does not violate c. 647, 26 Stat. 209. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 93 App. Div. 593, 87 N. Y. S. 811.

NOTE. Test of an illegal trust: To form an illegal trust, it is not necessary that a pure monopoly be effected. The test is whether the contract or combination in its apparent purpose and natural consequence places such a restriction upon competition as tends to create a monopoly. Addyston P. & S. Co. v. U. S., 175 U. S. 211, 20 S. Ct. 96; Tex. Standard Oil Co. v. Adoue, 83 Tex. 650, 19 S. W. 274, 29 Am. St. Rep. 690. In this last case it was said that "the agreement may be illegal if the natural or necessary consequences of its operation are to prevent competition and create fictitious prices, independent of the law of demand and supply, and to such an extent as to injuriously affect the interests of the public, or the interests of any particular class of citizens who may be especially interested, either as producers or consumers, in the articles or staples which are the subject of the restrictions imposed by the contract." It is not the mere sale of the right to compete in a particular business or calling which is invalid, for such an agreement may be entered into if the rights of the public are not affected. Cowan v. Fairbrother, 118 N. C. 406, 24 S. E. 212, 54 Am. St. Rep. 733. It is the tendency to create a monopoly that renders the agreement void, and makes an illegal trust out of a combination. Fishburn v. Chicago, 171 Ill. 338, 49 N. E. 532, 63 Am. St. Rep. 236. The mere consolidation of firms for the purpose of reducing competition between them is not in itself illegal. Oakdale Mfg. Co. v. Garst, 18 R. I. 484, 28 A. 973, 49 Am. St. Rep. 784; Cohen v. Berlin & J. Envelope Co., 38 App. Div. 499, 56 N. Y. S. 588. But this rule should not be carried to such an extent as to require the courts to assume to say how much competition is desirable, as has been attempted in some cases. Leslie v. Lorillard, 110 N. Y. 519, 18 N. E. 363. The reason for this rule is pointed out in U. S. v. Addyston P. & S. Co. [C. C. A.] 85 F. 271, it there being said that "the manifest danger in the administration of justice according to so shifting, vague, and indeterminate a standard would seem to be a strong reason against adopting it."—From note to Harding v. American Glucose Co., 74 Am. St. Rep. 189, 240.

95. 26 Stat. 209, c. 647. Davis v. Booth & Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 31. There is no objection to the enforcement of a contract in the consideration and performance of which nothing illegal inheres, that it may incidentally aid one of the parties in evading or violating the anti-trust act. Ingraham v. Nat. Salt Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 676.

96. Davis v. Booth & Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 31. An agreement ancillary to a sale of a corporation's business, by which the stockholders who received the purchase price agreed that they would not either directly or indirectly engage in the same business within certain distinct limits for a period of 10 years, is not void as against public policy nor as an unreasonable restraint of competition in trade at common law. Id.

A municipal corporation engaged in operating water, electric lighting or similar plants from which revenue derived is as to such matters a business corporation, and may maintain suit under the anti-trust statute for injury to its business,[97] and every member of the illegal combination is liable for the damages, and the fact that the plaintiff had no contractual relations with defendant is immaterial.[98]

§ 2. Combinations violative of state anti-trust acts and of the common law.[99]—Contracts intended to restrain trade, as by stifling competition or monopolizing business, are void and unenforceable by statute in most states and by the common law.[1] At the common law and under those statutes which are merely declaratory of it, an exception is made in favor of agreements not to engage in a particular business for a limited time in a certain place or district. Such agreements are most frequently met with as covenants in contracts of sale of business and good will,[2] and a contract restraining the prosecution of a certain business is valid in South Dakota only when made in connection with the sale of the good will of a business.[3]

A city's contract for lights for a stated period within its power to make is not invalid by reason of exclusiveness, since exclusiveness is natural to such contracts.[4]

An association which by assessing fines against its members compels them to cease business relations with another to his injury is liable to him for the damage caused.[5]

In several states statutes of more or less recent date, called anti-trust laws, have been enacted in most cases punishing acts that were merely invalid under the common law or prior statutes, and enlarging the powers of the courts to prevent 97, 98. City of Atlanta v. Chattanooga F. & Pipe Works [C. C. A.] 127 F. 23.

NOTE. What are not defenses to an illegal trust: It is no defense to an illegal trust to say that its monopoly has in fact resulted in the reduction of the price of the commodity. Richardson v. Buhl, 77 Mich. 632, 43 N. W. 1102; State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 Ohio St. 137, 30 N. E. 279, 34 Am. St. Rep. 541; People v. Milk Exch., 145 N. Y. 267, 39 N. E. 1062, 45 Am. St. Rep. 609. The anti-trust laws equally discredit such defense. San Antonio Gas Co. v. State, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 118, 54 S. W. 289. Again it is no defense that a complete monopoly has not been established. U. S. v. E. C. Knight Co., 156 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 249; Addyston P. & S. Co. v. U. S., 175 U. S. 211, 20 S. Ct. 96, affirming 85 F. 271. Nor is it a defense that the public is not injured by the agreement. Anheuser-Busch Brew. Ass'n v. Houck [Tex. Civ. App.] 27 S. W. 692; Cent. Ohio Salt Co. v. Guthrie, 35 Ohio St. 666; State v. Portland Natural Gas Co., 153 Ind. 483, 53 N. E. 1089; Anderson v. Jett, 89 Ky. 375, 12 S. W. 670; Judd v. Harrington, 139 N. Y. 105, 34 N. E. 790. Though some of the courts seem to have gone astray on this proposition. See Cent. Shade Roller Co. v. Cushman, 143 Mass. 353, 9 N. E. 629; Rafferty v. Buffalo City Gas Co., 37 App. Div. 618, 56 N. Y. S. 288.—From note to Harding v. American Glucose Co., 74 Am. St. Rep. 189, 271.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 536.

1. Detroit Salt Co. v. Nat. Salt Co. [Mich.] 96 N. W. 1; State v. Continental Tobacco Co., 177 Mo. 1, 75 S. W. 737; Booth & Co. v. Davis, 127 F. 875; Troy Buggy Works Co. v. Fife [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 956; Simmons v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1103. Two newspapers agreeing to bid maximum price for county printing and divide fee. Division refused enforcement. Pendleton v. Asbury [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 651. The sale and transfer by a corporation of its property and good will to another corporation, such sale being within its powers, cannot be repudiated on the ground that the purchaser acquired the property for the purpose of obtaining a monopoly of the business and in pursuance of an illegal combination in restraint of trade. Metcalf v. American School Furniture Co., 122 F. 115. Cf. McGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. Suit on a contract to sell the output of a factory at 5 per cent. less than the prices quoted by another manufacturer cannot be met by an averment that the methods of the other manufacturer are unfair, and that the prices quoted by him are less than the cost of manufacture. Matthews Glass Co. v. Burk [Ind.] 70 N. E. 371. The rules of a cemetery association giving its superintendent a practical monopoly of the opening of graves in the cemetery are not in restraint of trade. Roanoke Cemetery Co. v. Goodwin, 101 Va. 605, 44 S. E. 769. The fact that a ferry company is engaged in an illegal pool and combination is no defense to an action by it to enjoin trespass on its lands. Wilson v. Sullivan, 25 Ky. L. R. 1110, 77 S. W. 193.

2. A covenant in a contract by which the owners of manufactories conveyed them to a corporation in exchange for its stock, binding the sellers not to engage in the same business within a radius of 50 miles for ten years, is valid. Robinson v. Suburban Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 804; Booth & Co. v. Davis, 127 F. 875. See, also, Contracts, 1 Curr. L. 648.

3. Civ. Code, § 1277. Prescott v. Bidwell [S. D.] 99 N. W. 93.

4. Davenport Gas & Elec. Co. v. Davenport [Iowa] 98 N. W. 892.

5. Martell v. White [Mass.] 69 N. E. 1085.

the forming of combinations and monopolies and prevent their operation when formed. Cases founded on such enactments are discussed below.[6] A contract by a telephone company with a customer, to put in a telephone on condition that the customer will not use another system, is void because of its tendency to stifle competition and create a monopoly.[7] That unincorporated associations and individuals are absolutely prohibited from engaging in the building and loan business does not create a monopoly so long as the business is open to all corporations complying with reasonable statutory regulations.[8] A contract for the sale of a business, the seller not retaining any interest in the property, is not void under state statutes.[9] A monopoly in order to be illegal must restrain one from the free pursuit of his lawful business.[10] The test as to the illegality of a combination is its tendency to endanger the public by controlling prices, limiting production and suppressing competition so as to restrain trade and create a monopoly.[11] Allegations as to a combination to regulate and control the quantity and price of supplies to the damage of plaintiff are good at common law, without regard to the constitutionality of Valentine anti-trust act (Ohio).[12] A corporation accumulating, in the course of its principal business, a by-product in which it does not deal, may lawfully agree to sell its entire output of such by-product to another company.[13]

6. The purchase by one manufacturing corporation of the plant and business of another in the same business is not within the statute in Missouri [Sess. Acts 1897, p. 208, § 1]. State v. Continental Tobacco Co., 177 Mo. 1, 75 S. W. 737. An agreement by a publisher's association, ostensibly to maintain the price of copyrighted books, but effected by excluding dealers who undersell, from the sale of books of all kinds, copyrighted or not, is invalid and contrary to the anti-trust act of New York [Laws 1899, p. 1514, c. 690]. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 177 N. Y. 473, 69 N. E. 1107; Id., 85 App. Div. 446, 83 N. Y. S. 271. And measures taken by the association to enforce the agreement will be enjoined. Id., 92 App. Div. 350, 86 N. Y. S. 1091. The anti-trust law of Minnesota is in substantially the same language as the Sherman anti-trust law, and in the Federal court receives a similar construction [Minn. Laws 1899, p. 487, c. 359; Act July 2, 1890, c. 467 (26 Stat. 209)]. State of Minn. v. Northern Securities Co., 123 F. 692. The Federal and Minnesota anti-trust acts apply to railroads, and any contract or arrangement between railroad companies for the purpose and having the effect of preventing competition by fixing rates to be maintained by the parties, is in violation of their provisions; but contracts or combinations which do not directly and necessarily affect transportation or rates therefor are not in restraint of trade or commerce, nor within the statute, even though they may remotely and indirectly appear to have some probable effect in that direction. State of Minn. v. Northern Securities Co., 123 F. 692. Cf. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436. Refusal to supply cars to be loaded with coal on the railroad's own tracks, and furnishing them to be loaded on the tracks of miners who have provided themselves with private spur tracks, is not an undue preference under the Arkansas statute. Harp v. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 445. The Michigan act of 1899 is prospective in its operation only and does not affect a contract made prior to its enactment which was valid when made [Laws 1899, p. 409, No. 255]. Booth & Co. v. Davis, 127 F. 875. The anti-trust law of Texas of 1899 is constitutional against the objection that it imposes excessive fines and that it compels a witness to incriminate himself, the latter provision being separate from the body of the act [Acts 1899, p. 251, c. 146]. State v. Laredo Ice Co., 96 Tex. 461, 73 S. W. 951. Under the anti-trust law of 1899 in Texas, a contract by a manufacturer with a dealer not to sell any of his product to another in certain cities is void. Troy Buggy Works Co. v. Fife [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 956; Simmons & Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1103.

Note: A "corner" when accomplished by confederation, to raise or depress prices and operate on the market, is a conspiracy, if the means be unlawful. Morris Run Coal Co. v. Barclay Coal Co, 68 Pa. 173; People v. Melvin, 2 Wheeler Cr. Cas. 262.—From note to People v. North River Sugar Refining Co. [N. Y.] 2 L. R. A. 33.

7. Gwynn v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460.

8. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

9. Construing Law of Michigan [3 How. Ann. St. § 9354j]. Davis v. Booth & Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 31.

10. A carrier may make a regulation giving one individual the exclusive right to solicit on its trains the transfer business of its passengers. Lewis v. Weatherford, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 111.

11. Needles v. Bishop & Babcock Co., 2 Ohio N. P. [N. S.] 77. To render a combination illegal as against public policy, evil intent or actual injury to the public need not be shown. Id.

12. Needles v. Bishop & Babcock Co., 2 Ohio N. P. [N. S.] 77.

13. Is not an unlawful combination. State v. St. Paul Gaslight Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 216. That the seller is a public service corporation makes no difference. Id.

Constitutional provisions prohibiting monopolies in general,[14] and constitutional and statutory provisions against the consolidation of competing railroads, are common;[15] such a provision has been held to apply only to railroads proper and not to street railroads.[16] An inhibition against the consolidation of parallel or competing railroads does not apply to companies owning lines of railroads used alone in terminal business.[17] An answer to a suit to set aside an alleged fraudulent combination in restraint of trade is not objectionable on the ground that defendants denied facts, of which they had knowledge, on information or belief.[18] In such a suit, the complaint alleging that a certain person "is the manager of said corporation," an answer verified sometime after the service of the complaint, alleging that such person "is not now" the manager, is not objectionable as evasive,[19] but the complaint alleging that plaintiff had been requested to join such combination, an answer admitting that plaintiff had been invited to buy goods from the defendant on like terms with others is evasive and should be stricken out.[20] Irresponsive and insufficient allegations are set forth below.[21]

§ 3. Grants of privileges by statute, ordinance and contracts with municipalities tending to create monopolies.[22]—Cities have not the power to grant exclusive franchises, unless expressly granted in their charters,[23] and an ordinance granting the right to a corporation to build and operate an electric light plant, and containing no provision that the franchise so granted is exclusive, will not be so considered, and the city cannot be restrained from building and operating a plant of its own.[24] The Illinois statute authorizing the consolidation of gas companies

14. N. C. Const. art. 1, § 31. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729, 46 S. E. 401. The provision of the constitution of Washington, denouncing monopolies, is not self-executing, and the statutes passed in accordance therewith must be examined to determine what is illegal. Where there are four grain warehouses at a railroad station belonging to different parties, there is no monopoly of such business. N. W. Warehouse Co. v. Or. R. & Nav. Co., 32 Wash. 218, 73 P. 388. To make a combination unlawful under the constitution and statutes of Montana, there must exist a specific intent, or necessary tendency to accomplish the prohibited result of regulation of price or production [Const. art. 15, § 20; Pen. Code, § 321]. McGinniss v. Boston & M. Consol. C. & S. Min. Co. [Mont.] 75 P. 89. The keeping of sailors' boarding houses is not of itself such an illegal or injurious business as to authorize the legislature to grant a monopoly of it, and the board of commissioners of Oregon are not authorized to so construe the act organizing the board [Const. art. 1, § 20; Laws 1903, p. 238]. White v. Mears [Or.] 74 P. 931. The medical registration or license law of North Carolina is unconstitutional, as intended not solely to confer protection on the public, but to confer a monopoly on the method of treatment of diseases by doctors of medicine [Const. art. 1, § 31; Act 1903, p. 1074, c. 697, amending Code, § 3122]. State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729, 46 S. E. 401.

15. S. C. Act 1894 (21 Stat. p. 812); Const. 1895, art. 9, § 8. Complaint for penalty against railroad offending held sufficient. Edwards v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 277, 44 S. E. 748.

16. Const. art. 10. § 5. Scott v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex.] 75 S. W. 7.

17. State v. Terminal Ass'n of St. Louis [Mo.] 81 S. W. 395 (By a divided court). An information alleging that by the consolidation the respondent acquired a parallel bridge for the purpose of handling the terminal business of a city, and failing to show that the lines acquired had equal facilities for handling the terminal business of the city with those possessed by respondent at the time of consolidation, is insufficient. Id.

18, 19, 20. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 89 N. Y. S. 172.

21. Where a complaint set forth and the answer admitted that "they have maintained the plans and rules of the American Publishers' Association as the same have from time to time been amended," the answer is irresponsive to the complaint and should be stricken out, and a general denial interposed, unless the plans and rules of the association, together with the dates of their adoption and their nature, are specifically alleged. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 89 N. Y. S. 172. The complaint charging that defendants established a system of espionage in the store of plaintiffs, and otherwise, to secure information as to plaintiff's business and the source from which they obtained book supplies, an answer admitting that defendant association had by lawful means endeavored to ascertain how plaintiffs obtained supplies of copyrighted books is irresponsive and insufficient. Id. The complaint alleging that defendant adopted a resolution to prevent the reduction of the price of books published by them, an answer admitting the adoption of "certain resolutions" and denying that their purport is correctly set forth is insufficient. Id.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 538. See, also, Contracts, 1 Curr. L. 626, and Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 940.

23. Ter. v. De Wolfe, 13 Okl. 454, 74 P. 98.

24. Joplin v. Southwest Mo. Light Co., 191 U. S. 150, 24 S. Ct. 43.

in the same city is not invalid as tending to create a monopoly.[25] A statute providing for the purchase by a foreign railroad company of a road within the state, provided that parallel lines shall not be consolidated, prohibits the purchase of a state line parallel to the foreign line of the purchasing company.[26]

COMMERCE.

§ 1. Public Regulation in General (711). Hawkers' and Peddlers' Licenses (712). Regulations of Foreign Corporations in General (712). Regulation of Telegraph and Telephone Companies (713). Regulation of Railroads and Other Carriers (713). Discrimination in Rates Under Interstate Commerce Act (713). Offenses against Regulatory Acts (714). Regulation of Traffic in Intoxicating Liquors (714). Adulteration of Articles of Food and Drink (715). Quarantine Laws (715). State Burdens on Foreign Commerce (715).

§ 2. Domestic and Interstate or Foreign Commerce (716).

§ 3. Regulation of Intrastate Commerce (717).

§ 1. Public regulation in general. Meaning of term and general limitations of federal and state powers.[27]—In a general sense, interstate commerce consists of trade and traffic between citizens of different states, and includes the transportation of persons and property, as well as the purchase, sale and exchange of commodities;[28] but the law includes the intercourse, all the initiatory and intervening acts, instrumentalities and dealings.[29] The commerce clause confers exclusive jurisdiction upon congress, and the silence of that body amounts to an assertion that the subject shall be left free and untrammeled,[30] but only such regulations as directly interfere with the freedom of interstate commerce are prohibited to the states.[31] The test of interstate commerce is that the transaction, as an entirety, including each part calculated to bring about the result, reaches into two or more states, and that the parties dealing with reference thereto deal from different states.[32] Under its police power, a state may reasonably regulate the relative rights and duties of all persons or corporations within its jurisdiction, though incidentally affecting interstate commerce,[33] but a prohibition of the possession of fish during a certain season, though brought from without the state, is an interference.[34]

25. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 495. People v. People's G. & Coke Co., 205 Ill. 482, 68 N. E. 950.

26. Ill. Laws 1899, p. 116. Ill. State Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 208 Ill. 419, 70 N. E. 357.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 538.

28. U. S. v. Slater, 123 F. 115.

29. Com. v. Hogan, etc., Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 41, 74 S. W. 737; U. S. v. Swift & Co., 122 F. 529.

30. Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co., 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294; Southern Exp. Co. v. Goldberg, 101 Va. 619, 44 S. E. 893; Atl. & Pac. Tel. Co. v. Phila., 190 U. S. 160, 23 S. Ct. 817.

31. Crossman v. Lurman, 192 U. S. 189, 24 S. Ct. 234; Field v. Barber Asphalt Paving Co., 194 U. S. 618, 24 S. Ct. 784.

32. It is none the less interstate commerce because local incidents of purchases are to be regarded as outside the interstate commerce character of the transaction. U. S. v. Swift & Co., 122 F. 529.

33. Rules relative to storage and demurrage, adopted by corporation commission, sustained. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Commonwealth [Va.] 46 S. E. 911. By local ordinance, the transmission to pool rooms of messages to be used in pool selling was made illegal. City of Louisville v. Wehmoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1924, 79 S. W. 201. Refusal to limit the carrier's liability for negligence to the valuation agreed upon in contract for shipment. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Hughes, 191 U. S. 477, 24 S. Ct. 132.

NOTE: Constitutionality of laws affecting interstate commerce in interdicted articles: [For the purposes of this note, the cases showing the development of the intoxicating liquor law have alone been taken, as all interstate traffic in interdicted articles is governed by the same rules.] A state may constitutionally pass legislation prohibiting the manufacture of spirituous or other intoxicating liquors within the state to be there sold or bartered for general use as a beverage. Mugler v. Kansas, 123 U. S. 623. But the state cannot pass a law forbidding common carriers from bringing intoxicating liquors into the state from any other state or territory, unless furnished with an official certificate from a state official, such a law being unconstitutional as forbidding interstate commerce in the article. Such law cannot be upheld as an inspection, nor a quarantine law; the quarantine power does not allow a state at its mere will to declare what articles are entitled to admission; if it invoked such power, the state might forbid all, and thus nullify the commercial power altogether. Bowman v. Railroad, 125 U. S. 415. In Kidd v. Pearson, 128 U. S. ——, it is held that a state statute which provided first, that foreign intoxicating liquors may be imported into the state and there kept for sale by the importer, in the original packages, or for transportation in such packages and sale beyond the limits of the state; and second, that intoxicating liquors may be manufactured and sold within the state for mechanical, medicinal, culinary and sacramental purposes, but for no other, and not even for the purpose of transportation beyond the state, was not an undertaking to regulate commerce among the states. Following the law as decided by the last case, the supreme court, in Leisy v. Hardin, 135 U. S. 100, held that a statute, of a state, prohibiting the sale of any intoxicating liquor, except for pharmaceutical, medicinal, chemical, or sacramental purposes and under a license from a county court of the state, was, as applied to a sale by the importer, and in original packages or kegs, unbroken and unopened, of such liquors manufactured in and brought from another state, unconstitutional and void as repugnant to the commerce clause of the Federal constitution. The rule is stated by Tucker as follows: "Where the package is broken by the importer, or the unbroken package is sold by him, the transitus is complete and the property passes under state power; but it seems if the consignee chooses to transport the unbroken package to another state, he may do so." 2 Tucker, Const. 549.

Hawkers' and peddlers' licenses.[35]—A tax may lawfully be exacted from hawkers and peddlers who are the actual owners of the goods at the time of delivery.[36]

Regulations of foreign corporations in general.[37]—A statute requiring foreign corporations to file copies of their charters and obtain a certificate authorizing them to do business within the state is not an interference with interstate commerce,[38] but such a statute in Texas does not apply to a corporation selling goods through an agency in the state.[39] A single transaction by a foreign corporation may constitute doing business within the state.[40]

In 1890, congress passed the act known as the "Wilson Bill" [26 Stat. 313, c. 728], enacting that all fermented, distilled or other intoxicating liquors or liquids transported "into" any state or territory, or remaining therein for use, consumption, sale, or storage, shall "upon arrival in" such state or territory be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such state or territory, enacted in the exercise of its police power, to the same extent and in the same manner as though such liquids or liquors had been produced in such state or territory, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced therein in original packages or otherwise. The supreme court in In re Raher, 140 U. S. 545, held this act to be a valid and constitutional exercise of the legislative power conferred upon congress, and that after such act took effect, such liquors or liquids being introduced into a state or territory from another state, whether in original packages or otherwise, became subject to the operation of such of its then existing laws as had been properly enacted in the exercise of its police powers.

The provisions of the "Wilson Bill were not intended to and did not cause the power of the state to attach to an interstate commerce shipment whilst the merchandise was in transit under such shipment and until its arrival at the point of destination and delivery there to the consignee." Rhodes v. Iowa, 170 U. S. 412, 426. "It is reasonable to infer that the provisions of the act [The Wilson Bill] were intended by congress to cause the legislative authority of the respective states to attach to intoxicating liquors coming into the states by an interstate shipment, only after the consummation of the shipment, but before the sale of the merchandise, that is, that the one receiving merchandise of the character named should, whilst retaining the full right to use the same, no longer enjoy the right to sell free from the restrictions to sell created by state legislation, a right which the decision in Leisy v. Hardin, 135 U. S. 100 [decided just previous to the passage of the Wilson Bill] had just previously declared to exist." Rhodes v. Iowa, 170 U. S. 412, 423.

"Original packages are such as are used in bona fide transactions carried on between the manufacturer and wholesale dealer residing in different states. Where the size of the package is such as to indicate that it was prepared for the purpose of evading the law of the state to which it was sent, it will not be protected as an original package against the police laws of that state." Austin v. Tennessee, 179 U. S. 343. [Cigarette case.]

34. Laws 1902, p. 487, c. 194, § 141. People v. Booth & Co., 42 Misc. 321, 86 N. Y. S. 272.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 538.

36. Laws of 1903, c. 165. In re Lipschitz [N. D.] 95 N. W. 157. Where goods were shipped to the soliciting agent in bulk, as his property, and were by him delivered, there is no act of interstate commerce, though the agent received his wares from a foreign corporation. In re Pringle, 67 Kan. 364, 72 P. 864; City of Muskegon v. Zeeryp [Mich.] 96 N. W. 502.

37. See 1 Curr. L. 539.

38. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 1025, 1026. Appellant was held to be engaged in business in Missouri. Fay Fruit Co. v. McKinney [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 160; John Deere Plow Co. v. Wyland [Kan.] 76 P. 863. Section 571, Ky. St. 1903 has no reference to sales by drummers or correspondence or otherwise than through agents at an established place for conducting business in the state. Com. v. Parlin & Orendorff Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 58, 80 S. W. 791. The sale of whisky located in another state and to be subsequently shipped, notes being given in payment therefor, is not within Const. La. 1898, art. 264, forbidding a foreign corporation from doing business in Louisiana, except on compliance with certain regulations. Julius Kessler & Co. v. E. F. Perilloux & Co., 127 F. 1011.

39. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 857; De Witt v.

Regulation of telegraph and telephone companies.[41]—A municipality may impose an occupation tax on telegraph companies if the ordinance fairly excludes interstate business,[42] or it may require the payment of a reasonable license fee for the enforcement of local governmental supervision.[43] In estimating the taxable value of property within the state and belonging to a foreign telegraph company, it may be regarded as part of an interstate system.[44]

Regulation of railroads and other carriers.[45]—A state cannot prescribe the rates to be charged by common carriers of interstate commerce,[46] and a state railroad commission cannot compel the cancellation of "proportional tariffs" applied to interstate traffic, nor prohibit the stoppage in transit for cleaning purposes, of export shipments.[47] In the absence of congressional legislation, a state may require an interstate carrier to use great care,[48] and to be liable for the whole loss due to its negligence;[49] it may lawfully prohibit express companies from unjustly discriminating against other companies of like nature, and may provide a forfeiture penalty therefor.[50] It is the legal duty of railroad companies under the federal statute to furnish freight cars for interstate commerce without unjust discrimination.[51] The safety appliance act of congress applies to a locomotive tender,[52] and a temporary suspension of transit of a car used in an interstate shipment does not terminate the necessity of automatic couplers.[53] But a carrier conducting an intrastate business and refusing to issue through bills of lading is not within this statute.[54]

Discrimination in rates under interstate commerce act.[55]—The interstate commerce commission is not vested with authority to fix rates, maximum or minimum,[56] such a power being legislative and not judicial.[57] A railroad company is Berger Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 334.

40. John Deere Plow Co. v. Wyland [Kan.] 76 P. 863.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 539.

42. The ordinance in question, however, was held invalid as a tax on business of the United States. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Wakefield [Neb.] 95 N. W. 659.

43. Atl. & Pac. Tel. Co. v. Phila., 190 U. S. 160, 23 S. Ct. 817.

44. The state was not precluded from taxing the property because the state had not conferred a franchise on the company or because it derived rights under the act of 1866, or was engaged in interstate commerce. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Mo., 190 U. S. 412, 23 S. Ct. 730, 47 Law. Ed. 1116.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 539.

46. Section 1215, Code 1887, held void. So. Exp. Co. v. Goldberg, 101 Va. 619, 44 S. E. 893.

47. Proportional tariffs adopted with the approval of the interstate commerce commission. J. Rosenbaum Grain Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 46. The Florida railroad commission has legislative, executive and judicial powers, but its action may be reviewed by the courts, and they alone can enforce the commission's orders. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 123 F. 946.

48, 49. Pa. R. Co. v. Hughes, 191 U. S. 477, 24 S. Ct. 132. A state may prohibit a carrier from limiting its liability by stipulations in the bill of lading, though interstate business is in some degree affected. So long as congress has not legislated upon the subject, such statutes will be deemed to be in aid of commerce. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 234. A statute placing a full responsibility for loss or damage upon the initial carrier, which issues the bill of lading, is not an interference with interstate commerce, though the shipment be to a point without the state [Rev. St. 1889, § 944]. Western Sash & Door Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 177 Mo. 641, 76 S. W. 998. Statute fixing the responsibility for goods lost or damaged upon the carrier last receiving them in good order held valid [Civ. Code 1895, § 2298]. Kavanaugh & Co. v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 526.

50. Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 3312 et seq. are not unconstitutional as depriving one of property without due process of law, or as an interference with interstate commerce or as providing a penalty not proportionate to the offense. Adams Exp. Co. v. State, 161 Ind. 328, 67 N. E. 1033.

51. The number of cars being limited, they should be furnished proportionately, considering the number of workings, the number and capacity of mine cars, the number of mine openings, miners, etc. United States v. West Va. Northern R. Co., 125 F. 252.

52. 27 Stat. 531. Phila. & R. R. Co. v. Winkler [Del.] 56 A. 112.

53. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3174. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Voelker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 522.

54. United States v. Geddes [C. C. A.] 131 F. 452.

55. See 1 Curr. L. 540.

56. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 124 F. 624.

57, 58. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 123 F. 946.

entitled to charge reasonable rates, earning the usual and legal rate of interest on the actual value of its property,[58] and the question of reasonableness is peculiarly one for judicial investigation and decision.[59] The interstate commerce act adopts the common-law rule requiring common carriers to carry for all, without unjust discrimination.[60] Carriers are not bound to establish through routes and joint tariffs, but if established, it must be without condition subjecting particular persons or localities to undue disadvantage.[61] On a through shipment, a carrier may charge less than the sum of the local rates,[62] and a discrimination in through rates to two places equally distant, in favor of the one where active competition for connecting business exists, is not necessarily unreasonable.[63] A refusal to accept through freight, routed at the desire of the shipper, is violative of the interstate commerce act.[64] Polling and rebating are both illegal, and one cannot be employed as a preventive of the other.[65] Doubts as to the lawfulness of an order of the commission will be resolved in its favor, especially where the hearing is on demurrer;[66] but action by the interstate commerce commission, on a matter which might properly come before it, is not a prerequisite to a remedy at law or equity.[67] Under a complaint for unjust rates in carrying coal, the commission may compel the production of contracts under which the coal was transported and payment made; also of contracts under which a road purchases collieries whose proprietors were about to construct a competing line;[68] but evidence as to combinations and contracts for the purchase and sale of coal is irrelevant.[69] A sworn return of a road's value for taxation purposes is not conclusive on the company in a proceeding to determine the reasonableness of a rate.[70]

Offenses against regulatory acts.[71]—A state may inflict a penalty upon a carrier for wrongfully refusing to transport goods, though their destination be a point without the state;[72] or may impose a personal liability on the agent of an insurance company not complying with the laws of Pennsylvania, though the property insured is out of the state, the contract being made through an agent therein;[73] or may forbid a foreign corporation doing business within the state from using the state courts, unless the proper reports have been filed.[74] It is no defense that other participants in the unlawful act are not joined in the suit.[75]

Regulation of traffic in intoxicating liquors.[76]—A municipality may require all dealers in liquors to procure a license, whether the business be wholesale or retail,[77] though the effect of the license law may be to favor a local producer.[78] The

59. But where the reasonableness of a rate is pending before the interstate commerce commission, and no irreparable injury is being done, the court will await the ruling of the commission. Tift v. Southern R. Co., 123 F. 789.

60. Tift v. Southern R. Co., 123 F. 789.

61. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 597.

62. Const. 215, held not to apply under the evidence. Southern R. Co. v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1078, 77 S. W. 207.

63. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 124 F. 624.

64. Under the common law, the initial carrier may designate the route, but this will not permit the execution of a pooling agreement [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3156]. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 597.

65, 66. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 597.

67. Tift v. Southern R. Co., 123 F. 789.

68. This does not compel one to furnish evidence against himself, nor permit unreasonable searches. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Baird, 194 U. S. 25, 24 S. Ct. 563.

69. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Phila. & R. R. Co., 123 F. 969.

70. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 123 F. 946.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 541.

72. Code 1883, § 1964, amended Laws 1903, p. 788, c. 444. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654.

73. Act Pa. May 1, 1876, § 48. Adler-Weinberger S. S. Co. v. Rothschild & Co., 123 F. 145.

74. Gen. St. 1901, § 1283. John Deere Plow Co. v. Wyland [Kan.] 76 P. 863.

75. Interstate Commerce Com. v. Southern Pac. Co., 123 F. 597.

76. See 1 Curr. L. 541.

77. Duluth B. & M. Co. v. Superior [C. C. A.] 123 F. 353.

78. Such an ordinance is not discriminative within the fourteenth amendment, nor a violation of the right of congress to regstatute forbidding the shipping of wines or spirits under any other than the trade name applies only to distillers, dealers in spirits, etc.,[79] and does not refer to a shipment without any designation whatever.[80] A state may tax the retailing of liquors upon a vessel plying between ports within and without the taxing state.[81]

Adulteration of articles of food and drink.[82]—A state may forbid the selling of adulterated food within its borders, though such adulteration be not injurious to health;[83] but it can not prohibit the sale of oleomargarine, it being a lawful subject of commerce under the acts of congress.[84]

Quarantine laws.[85]—Under the commerce clause, congress may make it a misdemeanor to transport or drive from one state to another stock known to be diseased,[86] but the courts may inquire whether an alleged quarantine regulation is in fact such, or is an attempt to give a monopoly of grazing grounds.[87] A statute requiring the carcasses of calves shipped from any point within the state to be properly tagged is not an interference with interstate commerce.[88]

State burdens on foreign commerce.[89]—A state cannot tax the privilege of engaging in foreign commerce,[90] but in the absence of Federal legislation, a state may provide for a lien upon either foreign or domestic vessels for nonperformance of their contracts.[91] No state can compel a party or corporation to pay for the privilege of engaging in interstate commerce,[92] but this immunity does not prevent ulate commerce, it appearing that the enactment was under the police power. Duluth B. & M. Co. v. Superior [C. C. A.] 123 F. 353.

79. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2277. The information must allege the shipper to be one forbidden by statute to ship by other than its true name. U. S. v. Twenty Boxes of Corn Liquor. 123 F. 135.

80. A package marked only "Glass; this side up with care" has no designation of its contents. U. S. v. Twenty Boxes of Corn Liquor, 123 F. 135.

81. Acts Tenn. 1903, p. 615, c. 357, § 4. Harrell v. Speed [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 840. The sale of liquor on a vessel within the state limits is not interstate commerce, though the vessel be engaged in such commerce. Foppiano v. Speed [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 222.

82. See 1 Curr. L. 541.

83. Coffee beans colored by a yellow wash. Crossman v. Lurman, 192 U. S. 189, 24 S. Ct. 234.

84. Chap. 8, p. 12, Acts 1891, Code 1899, p. 1115, held unconstitutional. State v. Bruce [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 146.

85. See 1 Curr. L. 541.

86. U. S. v. Slater, 123 F. 115 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 299]. This liability is irrespective of whether a quarantine has been established or whether the state from which the stock came has been declared an "infected district." Id. An order of the department of agriculture, giving notice of the existence of scabies among sheep, and warning against the transportation of such sheep, need not specify particular districts under quarantine. Id. An information for driving from one state to another, stock known to be infected with a contagious disease, need not set out the particular rule or regulation violated. Id.

87. Restraining injunction allowed where the bill showed an almost complete absence of disease, easily curable, and the driving of such sheep across the state had been prohibited under a so-called quarantine. Smith v. Lowe, 121 F. 753.

88. Laws 1902, p. 59, c. 30, §§ 70e, 70f. People v. Bishopp, 89 N. Y. S. 709.

89. See 1 Curr. L. 542.

90. A license tax upon a cotton buyer, who only fills orders from abroad, is invalid as a tax on exports. State v. E. Allgeyer & Co., 110 La. 839, 34 So. 798.

91. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. Wash. §§ 5953, 5954. The Energia, 124 F. 842.

92. Atl. & Pac. Tel. Co. v. Phila., 190 U. S. 160, 23 S. Ct. 817, 47 Law. Ed. 995. A license tax for engaging in business in the state is invalid as applied to a foreign corporation selling a single machine within the state by mail order and shipped C. O. D. [N. C. Laws 1901, p. 116, § 52]. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Sims, 191 U. S. 441, 24 S. Ct. 151. The cars of a corporation (not a railroad company) foreign to Illinois, but in transit therein, are engaged in interstate commerce and not there taxable. In re Union Tank Line Co., 205 Ill. 347, 68 N. E. 504. Receipts from express business, originating and transferred within the state for delivery in another state or shipped outside the state for delivery within, are exempt from taxation as being derived from interstate commerce. People v. Miller, 88 N. Y. S. 373. The transportation of railroad cars across a stream forming a boundary between two states is interstate commerce and not subject to taxes. Ill. Rev. Laws 1874, c. 55, made the granting of the license discretionary and compelled the licensee to conduct a general ferry business; even assuming that a state may regulate a ferry upon a navigable boundary stream, such a statute is invalid. St. Clair County v. Interstate Sand & Car Transfer Co., 192 U. S. 454, 24 S. Ct. 300. Otherwise of the storing and transferring of freight in Buffalo. Laws 1896, p. 857, c. 908, § 184; Laws 1881, p. 484, c. 361, § 6. The business of defendant was held to be incidentally connected with interstate commerce, but not of itself such commerce. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. 174, 82 N. Y. S. 582.

a state from imposing ordinary property taxes upon property having a situs within its territory, and employed in interstate commerce,[93] and where goods, the property of a resident of one state, are shipped from that state to the owner's place of business in another state, there to be stored and offered for sale in open market by his agent, the business of selling them is not interstate commerce, but is subject to taxation by the state,[94] though it is otherwise where the goods are shipped direct to fill orders previously secured.[95] A state may include in the basis of taxation of an interstate road, the income from interstate business, proportioned according to the length of the road within the state,[96] and a state tax upon the intangible property of an express company, proportioned according to the mileage within that state, is not unlawful.[97] A franchise is a part of the taxable property, unless derived from the Federal government.[98] That a toll bridge is part of a structure used in interstate commerce does not prevent its taxation.[99] An ordinance requiring a license for vehicles used within the city does not apply to vehicles of merchants of another state delivering goods to customers in such city.[1] The clause is not infringed by an act taxing insurance companies on business transacted within the state, where it applies impartially to both domestic and foreign companies,[2] but a tax on land, timber and mill business, and exempting operators who do not ship out of the state, is an interference.[3] A statute requiring any action upon a written instrument to be commenced within two years does not interfere with interstate commerce,[4] nor does the designation by a municipal council of a certain kind of asphalt for pavement obtainable only from abroad.[5] An ordinance requiring that all hay, oats, etc., intended for consumption within the corporate limits be weighed at the city market, is not unreasonable.[6]

§ 2. Domestic and interstate or foreign commerce.[7]—A freight car sent from one state to another, loaded and to be returned with freight in the opposite direction, is engaged in interstate commerce and cannot be reached by attachment or garnishment.[8] Goods have "arrived" and are subject to state regulation when deposited in a freight house awaiting call by the consignee.[9]

93. Atl. & Pac. Tel. Co. v. Phila., 190 U. S. 160, 23 S. Ct. 817. A state may tax the terminal cab service of an interstate carrier, where such service is wholly within the taxing state. While the cab service may be rendered at the beginning or conclusion of an interstate transportation, it is no part thereof (People v. Knight, 192 U. S. 21, 24 S. Ct. 202), and may levy an annual tax upon sleeping car companies carrying one or more passengers within the state. In Tennessee, a carrier may decline all local business if it sees fit [Shannon's Code, § 3046] (Allen v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 191 U. S. 171, 24 S. Ct. 39), but a specified tax on each car operating within the state is illegal for the reason that no distinction was made as to cars engaged in interstate traffic (Id.).

94. Kehrer v. Stewart, 117 Ga. 969, 44 S. E. 854. Laws 1903, p. 339, c. 247, § 56, sustained. Lacy v. Armour Packing Co., 134 N. C. 567, 47 S. E. 53. Goods brought into one state from another are not imports, and after reaching their destination are subject to taxation, though still in the original package. American Steel & Wire Co. v. Speed, 192 U. S. 500, 24 S. Ct. 365. A state may lawfully tax a foreign corporation upon its goods stored within the state for distributing purposes. When so stored, the goods were no longer in transit, but had reached their destination and were there held for sale. Id. A license imposed on business of a nonresident within the state is not a regulation within the interstate commerce clause of the constitution of the United States [Acts 1898, p. 192, No. 127]. State v. Hammond Packing Co., 110 La. 180, 34 So. 368.

95. Kehrer v. Stewart, 117 Ga. 969, 44 S. E. 854.

96. Act of June 4, 1897. Wisconsin & M. R. Co. v. Powers, 191 U. S. 379, 48 Law. Ed. 229.

97. Ky. St. 1903, § 4077 et seq. Coulter v. Weir [C. C. A.] 127 F. 897.

98. Atl. & Pac. Tel. Co. v. Phila., 190 U. S. 160, 23 S. Ct. 817.

99. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell [Ala.] 37 So. 85.

1. Dooley v. Bristol [Va.] 46 S. E. 296.

2. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982.

3. Act 1900, p. 44, c. 43, § 8, held invalid. Adams v. Mississippi Lumber Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 68.

4. Code Civ. Pro. § 339. Higgins v. Graham, 143 Cal. 131, 76 P. 898.

5. The constitution prohibits only that which directly interferes with interstate or foreign commerce. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 24 S. Ct. 784.

6. State v. Smith, 123 Iowa, 654, 96 N. W. 899.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 542.

Original packages.[10]—States have no power to tax directly, or by license upon the importer, goods imported from other states or countries, while in their original packages, or before they have become commingled with the general property of the state and lost their distinctive character as imports.[11]

Sales by orders taken by agent of nonresident.[12]—The selling from samples of goods to be shipped direct to the purchaser is interstate commerce,[13] likewise of sales through orders subject to the approval and shipment of a foreign corporation,[14] or goods shipped in care of the agent and delivered in the original package.[15] But one who delivers the goods at the time of the order is not engaged in interstate commerce, though acting for a foreign corporation.[16]

§ 3. Regulation of intrastate commerce.[17]—Regulation of common carriers,[18] sale of unmarked or falsely marked food packages,[19] and inspection,[20] and license laws,[21] are elsewhere treated. The Kentucky act requiring fertilizer to be labeled with the manufacturer's name is for the benefit of the purchaser, and is satisfied by the attaching of labels with his consent after shipment to him.[22] A statute forbidding the sale of bottles, boxes, etc., bearing the owner's trademark unless he consent in writing to the sale, is unconstitutional.[23]

COMMON LAW.[24]

In general.[25]—The common law on a given subject, not having been expressly repealed or displaced, or altered by any statute, remains in force.[26]

Statutes in derogation.[27]—A city having power to enact ordinances not in conflict with the laws of the state, it may enact ordinances changing common-law rules not subject of statutory enactments.[28]

Construction of statutes enacting common law.[29]—In some states, the common law of England has been adopted by statute as the law of the state.[30] The term

8. Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co., 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294.

9. Intoxicating liquors. Construing Act Cong. Aug. 8, 1890, c. 728. Southern R. Co. v. Heymann, 118 Ga. 616, 45 S. E. 491.

10. See 1 Curr. L. 542.

11. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Sims, 191 U. S. 441, 24 S. Ct. 151. Goods shipped in care of an agent and delivered in the original packages [Pub. Laws 1903, p. 333, c. 247]. Wrought Iron Range Co. v. Campen, 135 N. C. 506, 47 S. E. 658.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 543.

13. In re Lipschitz [N. D.] 95 N. W. 157. Act March 16, 1901, is unconstitutional as applied to an agent selling stoves by sample, the orders being forwarded to the foreign corporation which shipped direct to the purchaser. In re Kinyon [Idaho] 75 P. 268. Appellant sold stoves from a sample, the orders were filled by a foreign corporation and shipped direct to the purchaser, and delivered to him in unbroken packages; appellant not liable under Gen. Laws 1899, p. 201, c. 116. Harkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 26. Orders were secured by defendant, who forwarded them to an Illinois corporation. Comp. St. of 1903, § 52, art. 1, c. 77 was held valid and not to apply to the above facts. Menke v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1020.

14. Defendant not liable under Ky. St. 1899, § 571, prohibiting a foreign corporation from doing business without designating an agent on whom process might be served. Commonwealth v. Hogan, McMorrow & Tieke Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 41, 74 S. W. 737.

15. Pub. Laws 1903, p. 333, c. 247. Wrought Iron Range Co. v. Campen, 135 N. C. 506, 47 S. E. 658.

16. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 155. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621.

17. See 1 Curr. L. 57, n. 41, 43.

18. See Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 592, § 2; Id. 603, § 12.

19. See Food, 2 Curr. L. 10.

20. See Inspection Laws, 2 Curr. L. 460.

21. See Licenses, 2 Curr. L. 730.

22. B. F. Beard & Co. v. Goodman, 25 Ky. L. R. 1566, 78 S. W. 191.

23. It is special legislation and not justified as an exercise of the police power. Norwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938.

24. The determination of what is the common-law rule on particular subjects and how far it has been modified by statute is excluded to the titles dealing with the subjects involved. As to adoption of the common law of Hawaii. See 1 Curr. L. 865, n. 6.

25. See 1 Curr. L. 543.

26. Harper v. Middle States Loan, Bldg. & Const. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 817. New York city ordinance as to licensed cabs. Cargill v. Duffy, 123 F. 721.

27. See 1 Curr. L. 543.

28. Cargill v. Duffy, 123 F. 721. See, also, Statutes, 2 Curr. L. 1707.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 543.

30. In Colorado (2 Mills' Ann. St. § 4184),

"common law," as here used, does not include the judicial decisions of England rendered subsequently to the independence of America,[31] though such decisions are entitled to respect as evidence of what the common law, as so adopted, is, and in particular cases may properly be regarded as conclusive.[32] Such portions of the common law as are inapplicable to the particular conditions of the various states are not the law of such states.[33] The common law being in force, an adjudication settling a principle in a manner expressly regretted by the English judges must be followed until changed by legislative enactment.[34]

The Federal courts have no common-law jurisdiction,[35] but as to matters within their jurisdiction, the common-law rules of the state where the controversy arises are applied in the absence of a controlling statute.[36] In these courts, in the absence of a Federal statute, the common-law rules as to the reception and consideration of evidence govern.[37] A state statute conferring on a state court equitable jurisdiction, which neither the state nor Federal courts had previously exercised, is recognized by the Federal courts as giving them like jurisdiction.[38]

Presumption of prevalence of common law in a sister state.[39]—In the absence of proof to the contrary, it is presumed that the common law prevails in a sister state.[40] But the common law is not presumed to be in force in any state or country where English institutions have not been established.[41] Statutory modifications must be pleaded and proven.[42] The judgment of another state is presumptive evidence of the unwritten or common law of such other state.[43]

Repeal.—A statute declaratory of[44] or superseding[45] a common-law rule, being repealed, the common-law rule remains in force or is revived.

COMPOSITION WITH CREDITORS.[46]

The promises of the different creditors form a sufficient consideration for the composition agreement.[47] Such an agreement being entered into, it supersedes held to include the statute of uses. Teller v. Hill [Colo. App.] 72 P. 811.

31. Johnson v. Union Pac. Coal Co. [Utah] 76 P. 1089. See 1 Curr. L. 543, n. 16.

32. Johnson v. Union Pac. Coal Co. [Utah] 76 P. 1089.

33. Common-law rule as to percolating waters held inapplicable to state of California. Katz v. Walkinshaw, 141 Cal. 116, 74 P. 766. See 1 Curr. L. 543, n. 17.

34. State v. Forbes, 111 La. 473, 35 So. 710.

35. Pa. v. Wheeling & B. Bridge Co., 13 How. [U. S.] 518, 14 Law. Ed. 249. See, also, Jurisdiction, 2 Curr. L. 604.

NOTE. In the United States courts and territories: There is no common law of the United States as distinguished from the individual states. People v. Folsom, 5 Cal. 374; Wheaton v. Peters, 8 Pet. [U. S.] 658, 8 L. Ed. 1079; Forepaugh v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 128 Pa. 217, 5 L. R. A. 508. The common law is the rule of decision in the Federal courts, even when sitting in a territory, in the absence of statutes repealing or modifying it. Pyeatt v. Powell, 10 U. S. App. 200, 51 F. 551. There are no common-law offenses against the United States. United States v. Eaton, 144 U. S. 677, 36 Law. Ed. 591.—From note to McKennon v. Winn, 22 L. R. A. 501.

36. There being no statutory rule in the state where the accident occurred, the common-law rule in relation to the law of fellow-servants will be applied. Pa. Co. v. Fishack [C. C. A.] 123 F. 465.

37. As to testimony of accomplices. Hanley v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 849.

38. Conklin v. U. S. Shipbuilding Co., 123 F. 913.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 544.

40. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Hollenbeck, 161 Ind. 452, 69 N. E. 136; Rosemand v. Southern Ry., 66 S. C. 91, 44 S. E. 574; Wells v. Gress, 118 Ga. 566, 45 S. E. 418; Columbian B. & L. Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63; Price v. Clevenger, 99 Mo. App. 536, 74 S. W. 894; State v. Clark, 178 Mo. 20, 76 S. W. 1007. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, it is presumed that the law of a sister state is the same as the common law of the forum. Hazen v. Mathews, 184 Mass. 388, 68 N. E. 838. Law of Indian tribe presumed to be the same. Ricknor v. Clabber [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 271.

41. Banco De Sonora v. Bankers' Mut. Casualty Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 532.

42. Wells v. Gress, 118 Ga. 566, 45 S. E. 418.

43. Bath Gas Light Co. v. Rowland, 84 App. Div. 563, 82 N. Y. S. 841.

44. Harper v. Middle States Loan, Bldg. & Const. Co. [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 817.

45. Donaldson v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1029.

46. See Accord and Satisfaction, 1 Curr. L. 8; also for compositions in bankruptcy proceedings see Bankruptcy, 1 Curr. L. 311.

the original claim, and thereafter, until some default is made by the debtor, the creditor can sue and recover only on the composition agreement.[48] A creditor leaving the amount of his claims blank, he is bound for all the claims he has.[49] A creditor signing a composition agreement cannot reserve to himself any secret advantage, nor impose any conditions not apparent on the face of the instrument,[50] but the taking of a secret preference by a creditor does not nullify the composition, the debtor and creditor both remaining bound by its terms.[51] The preference, however, is void, a valid composition not being essential to this invalidity; if executory, it is nonenforceable, and if executed, may be rescinded by the nonpreferred creditors.[52] A creditor rescinding for fraud or otherwise, the release given in pursuance of the composition must return the money received.[53] Mere failure to read such release, he being able and having an opportunity to do so, does not render it ineffectual as to him,[54] nor does the fact that another creditor makes an erroneous statement as to the legal effect of the release.[55]

CONFESSION OF JUDGMENT.

A circuit clerk is without jurisdiction to enter a judgment by confession, where no default has been taken, no declaration filed, no summons addressed or delivered to a sheriff or other proper officer to serve, and plaintiff appears to have taken no part in proceedings. A judgment so entered is void.[56] A judgment by confession depends for its validity entirely upon the statute, the provisions of which must be strictly complied with.[57] In Arkansas, confession of judgment cannot be made by attorney, but only by the one against whom the cause of action exists personally.[58] But where defendants executed a power authorizing plaintiff's attorney to waive service of summons, enter appearance and consent to judgment, and judgment is confessed by the attorney acting under the power, such judgment is in the nature of a judgment by consent and is valid in the absence

47. Where a formal release was executed, held supported by pro rata distribution and agreement by debtor to procure release of certain preferences. McNealey v. Baldridge [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1031.

48. Cannot complain on appeal that the jury only rendered a verdict for the amount he is entitled to under the agreement. Talcott v. Janasson, 85 N. Y. S. 833.

49. That he intended not to include a note makes no difference, even though held by a bank as collateral. Metcalf v. Morse Ironworks & Dry Dock Co., 84 N. Y. S. 582.

50. Metcalf v. Morse Ironworks & Dry Dock Co., 84 N. Y. S. 582.

51. Glens Falls Nat. Bank v. Van Nostrand, 41 Misc. 526, 85 N. Y. S. 50.

NOTE. Effect of giving one creditor a secret advantage: Giving a secret advantage to one creditor does not render the composition entirely void (Hanover Nat. Bank v. Blake, 142 N. Y. 404, 40 Am. St. Rep. 607, 27 L. R. A. 33, n.), though such a preference being given a creditor not guilty of fraud may recover on the original claim, ignoring the general composition. Cobb v. Tirrell, 137 Mass. 143; Saul v. Buck, 72 Ga. 254; Kullman v. Greenebaum, 92 Cal. 403, 27 Am. St. Rep. 150. Contracts, notes, securities and obligations given a creditor to induce him to sign the composition, giving him a secret advantage over other creditors are void, whether made before or after the composition, by the debtor or his agent. Brown v. Nealley, 161 Mass. 1; O'Shea v. Collier White Lead & Oil Co., 42 Mo. 397, 97 Am. Dec. 332; Bliss v. Matteson, 45 N. Y. 22; McFarland v. Garber, 10 Ind. 151, 71 Am. Dec. 305; In re Clement's Appeal, 52 Conn. 464. A creditor perpetrating a fraud upon other creditors in obtaining a secret preference cannot recover on the note or contract for the balance. Willis v. Morris, 63 Tex. 458, 51 Am. Rep. 655; Ex parte Oliver, 4 De G. & S. 354. And, generally, such preferred creditor may be required to return the preference to the debtor, though the latter is to a certain extent a participant in such fraud. Gilmour v. Thompson, 49 How. Pr. 198; Estabrook v. Scott. 3 Ves. Jr. 456. A creditor cannot avoid a composition that is not general because other creditors not parties thereto may have obtained an advantage. Eaton v. Lincoln, 13 Mass. 424; Argall v. Cook, 43 Conn. 160, 21 Am. Rep. 641; Chevcrout v. Tentor, 53 Md. 295.—From note to Hanover Nat. Bank v. Blake [N. Y.] 27 L. R. A. 33.

52. Guaranty. Glens Falls Nat. Bank v. Van Nostrand. 41 Misc. 526, 85 N. Y. S. 50.

53, 54, 55. McNealey v. Baldridge [Mo. App.] 78 S. W. 1031.

56. Wilhelm v. Locklar [Fla.] 35 So. 6.

57. Houpt v. Bohl, 71 Ark. 330, 75 S. W. 470.

58. Under Sand. & H. Dig., § 5872, but this was not true under former law, Gould's Dig. c. 133, § 137. Houpt v. Bohl, 71 Ark. 330, 75 S. W. 470.

of fraud or ignorance of the facts by defendants.[59] A judgment entered by stipulation of the parties is a judgment by consent, of which a party to the agreement cannot complain.[60] A waiver of citation and confession of judgment made in a note, simultaneous with its execution, are without effect;[61] but waiver of citation and confession of judgment, made after maturity of the note, will warrant a judgment thereon,[62] though the circumstances under which this was done may give rise to an action of nullity for fraud.[63] Equity may restrain proceedings at law to collect a judgment entered by virtue of warrant of attorney for confessing judgment contained in a bond procured by fraud.[64]

CONFLICT OF LAWS.

§ 1. Contracts in General (720).
§ 2. Effect of Status or Domicile (722).
§ 3. Matters Relating to Personal Property (722).
§ 4. Effect of Public Policy (723).
§ 5. Protection of Citizens in State of Forum (723).
§ 6. Contracts Respecting Realty (723).
§ 7. Application of Remedies (723). Recovery for Wrongful Death (724). Statutes of Limitations (724). Presumptions and Judicial Notice Regarding Foreign Laws (725).
§ 8. Torts (725).

§ 1. Contracts in general.[65]—The construction, validity and enforcement of contracts are governed by the law of the state where made,[66] unless they are to be performed in another state, when they are governed by the laws of the latter.[67] This rule is not changed by the taking of foreign security,[68] and the security being a mere incident of the debt, it is governed by the same laws as the latter;[69] but it has been held that the place of payment will not determine the law where to do so would render the contract usurious, as the parties will not be presumed to have contracted with reference to a law which would render their contract illegal.[70] The parties may by stipulation make the laws of a place, other than

59. Houpt v. Bohl, 71 Ark. 330, 75 S. W. 470.

60. Corby v. Abbott, 28 Mont. 523, 73 P. 120.

61. But the note itself is not annulled. Kiernan v. Jackson, 111 La. 645, 35 So. 798.

62, 63. Kiernan v. Jackson, 111 La. 645, 35 So. 798.

64. But evidence held to show a loan actually made and transaction free from fraud. Norwood v. Richardson [Del.] 57 A. 244.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 559.

66. Building and loan association contract. National Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Retzman [Neb.] 96 N. W. 204; People's Bldg. Loan & Sav. Ass'n v. Parish, 1 Neb. Unoff. 505, 96 N. W. 243; Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081. As to rate of interest. Monier v. Clarke [N. M.] 75 P. 35. A contract made in New York by residents thereof for the sale to residents of another state of coffee to be shipped from a foreign country to New York city by a designated steamer, the buyers to have free storage and fire insurance for the first month after the arrival of the steamer, held a New York contract. Crossman v. Lurman, 192 U. S. 189, 24 S. Ct. 234. See, also, Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89. See 1 Curr. L. 559, n. 54-55.

NOTE. Which law governs: The United States supreme court in Scudder v. Union Nat. Bank, 91 U. S. 406, 23 Law. Ed. 245, lays down the following rules for determining the governing law of a contract: First, "Matters bearing upon the execution, the interpretation, and validity of a contract are determined by the law of the place where the contract is made." Second, "Matters connected with its performance are regulated by the law prevailing at the place of performance." Third, "Matters respecting the remedy, such as the bringing of suits, admissibility of evidence, statutes of limitation, depend upon the law of the place where the suit is brought."

67. Daniels v. Boston & M. R. Co., 184 Mass. 337, 68 N. E. 337. Building and loan contract secured by mortgage on property in South Carolina, all money to be paid at the home office in Virginia, held a Virginia contract. Columbian Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63. See 1 Curr. L. 561 n. 62.

68. Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081. A contract with a building and loan association is governed by the place of payment, though secured by a mortgage upon real estate in another state. Pacific States Sav. Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Green [C. C. A.] 123 F. 43. See 1 Curr. L. 564, n. 91-92.

69. Resident of Missouri executed in Kansas a note payable in the latter state, secured on a mortgage on property in Missouri; held both note and mortgage Kansas contracts. Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081.

70. Whitlock v. Cohn [Ark.] 80 S. W. 141.

that indicated by these rules, controlling,[71] though a general stipulation will not be effectual as to matters expressly provided for in a way which is contrary to the laws of the designated state.[72] Under these rules it is held that the validity of,[73] and the rate and allowance of interest,[74] and liability upon[75] a negotiable instrument, are determined by the law of the place of payment, though it has been held that there being no express legislation in such state, the decisions of its courts are not binding on the Federal courts.[76] An order for goods being taken in one state and approved and filled in another, the law of the latter state governs.[77] Statutes on the subject of usury, in the state wherein the contract was made, govern,[78] though the Federal law governs a controversy respecting usurious interest paid on a note held by a national bank, though the collateral note and mortgage were executed in favor of the bank president for the benefit of the bank.[79] The law of the place of sale, not that of original publication, governs the effect of a publication of literary property.[80] In the absence of stipulations to the contrary, insurance policies are governed by the laws of the state where the policy is delivered and the premiums paid.[81] A contract void at the place where made is illegal

71. English marine insurance policy provided that salvage should be payable per rules of port of discharge; held, law of such port governed. International Nav. Co. v. Sea Ins. Co., 124 F. 93. As to rate of interest in building contract, it being made subject to the laws of Florida. Skinner v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Fla.] 35 So. 67.

72. Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. Hill, 193 U. S. 551, 24 S. Ct. 538.

73. Agent lived in Massachusetts, principal in Wisconsin; met in New York, and in furtherance of a sale of land in Florida, executed, on Sunday, certain promissory notes payable in Massachusetts; held, law of latter state governs. Brown v. Gates [Wis.] 97 N. W. 221. A note made and payable in one country is governed by the laws of that country. Merchants' Bank of Canada v. Brown, 86 App. Div. 599, 83 N. Y. S. 1037. See 1 Curr. L. 561, n. 62.

74. No rate of interest was fixed in the note. Simpson v. Hefter, 42 Misc. 482, 87 N. Y. S. 243.

NOTE. Conflict of laws as to interest and usury: In determining what law governs as to usury, it is necessary to arrive at the intention of the parties as to the real situs of the contract, and as to what state they had reference to in fixing the rate of interest. Jackson v. American Mortg. Co., 88 Ga. 756, 15 S. E. 812. A court of one state will not administer the mere penal exactions of foreign law by forfeiture, but when by those laws the contract is void in such foreign state, it is void everywhere, and the courts of another state will not enforce it, though it might have been valid if made under the law of the forum. McAllister v. Smith, 17 Ill. 328, 65 Am. Dec. 651; Akers v. Demond, 103 Mass. 318; Houghton v. Page, 2 N. H. 42, 9 Am. Dec. 30; McGarry v. Nicklin, 110 Ala. 559, 17 So. 726; Clague v. Their Creditors, 2 La. 115, 20 Am. Dec. 300.—From note to United States Sav. & Loan Co. v. Beckley [Ala.] 62 L. R. A. 33.

75. Smith v. Myers, 207 Ill. 126, 69 N. E. 858. Note payable in Kentucky, signed by the principal debtor and delivered in Ohio, signed on the back by a party in Kentucky and by one in Pennsylvania, held governed by laws of Kentucky. Montana Coal & Coke Co. v. Cincinnati Coal & Coke Co., 69 Ohio St. 351, 69 N. E. 613.

76. On the question of negotiability. State Nat. Bank v. Cudahy Packing Co., 126 F. 543.

NOTE. Rule in the Federal courts: The Federal courts assert their right, in the absence of a local statute, to determine questions relating to negotiable paper upon what they deem to be the general principles of the law merchant, and do not consider themselves bound by the decisions of the courts of a state, the law of which, if statutory, would concededly govern. As to whether a pre-existing indebtedness constitutes a valuable consideration. Swift v. Tyson, 16 Pet. [U. S.] 1, 10 Law. Ed. 865; Oates v. First Nat. Bank, 100 U. S. 239, 25 Law. Ed. 580; Brooklyn City & U. R. Co. v. National Bank, 102 U. S. 14, 26 Law. Ed. 61. As to liability of parties on note. First Nat. Bank v. Lock-Stitch Fence Co., 24 F. 221; Phipps v. Harding [C. C. A.] 70 F. 468, 30 L. R. A. 513; Van Vleet v. Sledge, 45 F. 743.—From note to Spies v. National City Bank [N. Y.] 61 L. R. A. 193.

77. Also the order being filled in the state where taken, it is governed by the laws of that state. Succession of Welsh, 111 La. 801, 35 So. 913.

78. Trower Bros. Co. v. Hamilton [Mo.] 77 S. W. 1081. See 1 Curr. L. 560, n. 58.

79. Schuyler Nat. Bank v. Gadsden, 191 U. S. 451, 24 S. Ct. 129.

80. Wagner v. Conried, 125 F. 798.

81. Plaut v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 94. A policy of life insurance issued to a resident of Iowa, premiums being payable in New York, held governed by the laws of the latter state in the absence of proof of the place of actual delivery. Summit v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 123 Iowa, 681, 99 N. W. 563. The application for a policy of insurance being made in Kentucky, the policy accepted in Kentucky and the premiums paid there held a Kentucky contract. Carrollton Furniture Mfg. Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 25. Life insurance policy held, under its terms, made in the state where delivered to insured and first payment was made. Grevenig v. Washington Life Ins. Co., 112 La. 879, 36 So. 790. Statutes on the subject of insurance and void everywhere,[82] and its illegality being a violation of a statutory enactment of the state where made, the construction placed upon the statute by the courts of such state must control.[83] Disqualifications of a penal character have no extraterritorial effect, and comity does not require a recognition of them in other states.[84] Federal courts will recognize an equity and enforce it by way of equitable lien which the state statutes do not recognize.[85]

§ 2. Effect of status or domicile.[86]—The law of the domicile of a decedent governs the distribution of his personal property,[87] and the validity of a charitable gift in a will depends upon the law of the state where the testator was domiciled, and the lands devised are situated,[88] though the necessity of formalities in the execution of a will are governed by the law of the state where presented for probate.[89] A corporation is not bound by the laws of states other than its domicile, except as by its acts it has subjected itself to them and as to whether it has is a question of general, not local, law.[90] For the purposes of descent and distribution of property, the status acquired by adoption in a state or country having jurisdiction will be recognized in other states and countries.[91]

§ 3. Matters relating to personal property.[92]—The validity of a chattel mortgage is governed by the settled law of the state in which it is given,[93] though its are only applicable to transactions within the state. Grevenig v. Washington Life Ins. Co., 112 La. 879, 36 So. 790; Washington Life Ins. Co. v. Glover, 25 Ky. L. R. 1327, 78 S. W. 146. See 1 Curr. L. 560, n. 69.

NOTE. Application of law of the state where insured property is located: An action being brought upon a contract of property insurance in the state where the property is situated, the court will apply a statute of the state which either expressly, or by construction, extends to all contracts of insurance upon property within the state, although the contract may have been made and the loss payable in another state (see Ross v. Kimberly & C. Co., 89 Wis. 545, 62 N. W. 526, 27 L. R. A. 556); but in the absence of such a statute, or when the action is brought in some state other than that where the property is situated, the location of the insured property does not furnish the criterion of the governing law (Clay F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huron Salt & Lumber Co., 31 Mich. 346; Merchants' & M. Ins. Co. v. Linchey, 3 Mo. App. 588). But the state where the property is situated may, as to some provisions of the policy, be the place of performance, and as such its law governs; thus it will control in the construction of a provision with reference to the precautions to be observed by the insured. King Brick Mfg. Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 164 Mass. 291, 41 N. E. 277.—From note to Johnson v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 63 L. R. A. 833, 856.

82, 83. Alleghany Co. v. Allen, 69 N. J. Law, 270, 55 A. 724.

84. Statute prohibiting foreign corporation from transacting business in the state until conforming to certain requirements. Alleghany Co. v. Allen, 69 N. J. Law, 270, 55 A. 724.

85. Howard v. Delgado & Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 26.

86. See 1 Curr. L. 551.

87. In re Barandon's Estate [Misc.] 84 N. Y. S. 937. See 1 Curr. L. 561, n. 67.

88. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, 126 F. 796.

89. Necessity of attestation by the subscribing witnesses in the presence of the testator. In re Jones' Will, 85 N. Y. S. 294.

90. Frawley, Bundy & Wilcox v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co., 124 F. 259.

91. McColpin v. McColpin's Estate [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 238.

NOTE. Adoption: In most cases in which foreign adoption has been recognized, the child and the adoptive parents were domiciled in the state where the decree was rendered. Renz v. Drury, 57 Kan. 84, 45 P. 71, 57 Am. St. Rep. 312. See, also, Foster v. Waterman, 124 Mass. 594, In Wolf's Appeal [Pa.] 12 Cent. Rep. 426, 13 A. 760; Van Matre v. Sankey, 148 Ill. 536, 36 N. E. 628, 39 Am. St. Rep. 196, 23 L. R. A. 665. These last two cases hold that under the Pennsylvania statute, temporary residence of the adoptive parents is sufficient. On the question whether the recognition of such decree may be compelled by the requirement of the Federal constitution requiring each state to give full faith and credit to the judicial proceedings of every other state, the following cases will be of interest: Smith v. Derr, 34 Pa. 126, 75 Am. Dec. 641; McCreery v. Davis, 44 S. C. 195, 22 S. E. 178, 51 Am. St. Rep. 794, 28 L. R. A. 655; Keegan v. Geraghty, 101 Ill. 26; Sunderland's Estate, 60 Iowa, 732, 13 N. W. 655. These courts have none of them referred to the constitutional provision, but have regarded the question as one of comity depending upon principles of private international law. The proposition stated in the text has been expressly applied to the descent of real property by Van Matre v. Sankey, 148 Ill. 536, 36 N. E. 628, 39 Am. St. Rep. 196, 23 L. R. A. 665; Gray v. Holmes, 57 Kan. 217, 45 P. 596, 33 L. R. A. 207; Ross v. Ross, 129 Mass. 246, 37 Am. Rep. 321; Melvin v. Martin, 18 R. I. 650, 30 A. 467. —From note to Irving v. Ford [Mass.] 65 L. R. A. 177, 186.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 562.

93. In re Antigo Screen Door Co. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 249.

record and effect thereof are governed by the law of the state where the property is situated.[94] A contract affecting personal property, being made within the state within which the property is at the time situated, is governed by the laws of such state, though the property be subsequently moved elsewhere.[95]

§ 4. Effect of public policy.[96]—The courts of a state will not enforce a law of a foreign state which is contrary to pure morals, or to abstract justice, or to enforce which would be contrary to the public policy of the former state.[97] Contracts free from usury because falling under the laws of another state will be enforced.[98]

§ 5. Protection of citizens in state of forum.[99]—While a contract is to be construed according to the lex loci contractus, a court will not, in a question of priority, set aside its own statutes and rules to the prejudice of its own citizens.[1] The statutes of a state have of themselves no extraterritorial force,[2] and whatever effect they have in foreign states is by virtue of the laws of such state, or under the doctrine of comity.[3] An owner undertaking to mortgage, according to the laws of one state, personal property situated in another state, and the mortgagee attempting to enforce the mortgage in the state of the actual situs of the property against third persons domiciled there, the law of the forum governs.[4] An action upon a foreign judgment is regulated by the law of the state where the action is brought.[5]

§ 6. Contracts respecting realty.[6]—The law of the sovereignty in which real property is situated governs as to transfers of such property, whether conveyed absolutely or by way of mortgage.[7] A covenant being personal, its validity is determined by the law of the state where made.[8]

94. In re Brannock, 131 F. 819.

95. A contract to furnish materials for the construction of a dock, reserving a lien thereon to the seller, being made in Indiana, in which state the dock was at the time a mere chattel, the right of the seller to enforce such lien on the dock which had been placed in the Ohio river and within the jurisdiction of the Kentucky courts must be determined by the laws of Indiana. Arnold v. Eastin's Trustees, 25 Ky. L. R. 895, 76 S. W. 865.

See monograph—The Locus of Sales C. O. D.—IV Columbia Law Rev. 641.

96. See 1 Curr. L. 562, § 4; Id. 663, § 6.

97. The law of Canada that contributory negligence does not constitute a bar to an action for damages for injuries, though contrary to the law of Vermont, will be enforced in the latter state. Morisette v. Canadian P. R. Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 1102.

NOTE. What laws will be so enforced: Some states decline to administer foreign laws unless closely analogous to their own. Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Jackson, 89 Tex. 107, 33 S. W. 857, 59 Am. St. Rep. 28, 31 L. R. A. 276; Anderson v. M. & St. P. R. Co., 37 Wis. 321; Richardson v. N. Y. C. R. Co., 98 Mass. 85. But the majority of the courts will not, in otherwise proper cases, refuse to adopt and apply the law of a foreign state, however unlike the law of its own, unless it be contrary to pure morals, or abstract justice, or unless the enforcement would be of evil example, and harmful to its own people, and therefore inconsistent with the dignity of the government whose authority is invoked. Herrick v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 31 Minn. 11, 16 N. W. 413, 47 Am. Rep. 771; Higgins v. R. Co., 165 Mass. 180, 29 N. E. 534, 31 Am. St. Rep. 544; Dennick v. R. Co., 103 U. S. 11, 26 Law. Ed. 439; McLeod v. R. Co., 58 Vt. 727, 6 A. 648; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Rouse, 178 Ill. 132, 52 N. E. 951, 44 L. R. A. 410. See Morisette v. Canadian P. R. Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 1102.

98. Columbian Building & Loan Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 563.

1. A chattel mortgage executed and recorded in Illinois on property afterwards transferred to Tennessee will not be given priority in the courts of the latter state over the liens of local attaching creditors. Snyder v. Yates [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 796.

2. Recording laws. Snyder v. Yates [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 796. Insurance laws. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Bailey, 25 Ky. L. R. 2251, 80 S. W. 452. Exemption laws. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hollenbeck, 161 Ind. 452, 69 N. E. 136. See 1 Curr. L. 663, n. 86.

3. Snyder v. Yates [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 796.

4. This rule only applies when the actual situs of the property and the forum are the same. Smead v. Chandler, 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066.

5. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Smith [Mass.] 70 N. E. 426.

6. See 1 Curr. L. 564.

7. Bowdle v. Jencks [S. D.] 99 N. W. 98. See 1 Curr. L. 564, n. 90.

8. Though the contract involve the purchase of land in another state. Robinson v. Suburban Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 804.

§ 7. Application of remedies.[9]—The lex fori governs in all matters relating to the remedy,[10] except where created by statute with and as a part of the right,[11] and the course of procedure.[12] It determines whether an action for the damages for injury to land is local or transitory,[13] the question of the party to be sued,[14] though through comity the courts may follow the method of procedure sanctioned by the domicile of the defendant.[15] The rules of pleading and evidence, including presumptions and the burden of proof, are governed by the lex fori,[16] as is the sufficiency of a notice to take depositions as to time of service and not by the law of the state where the depositions are to be taken.[17] The items of damage that may be recovered are governed by the lex fori.[18] The presentation of claims against estates of decedents is governed by the law of state where the estate is being probated.[19] Congress having legislated generally upon the subjects of pleading, the rules of the state practice are superseded in so far as they affect the Federal courts,[20] and state statutes governing the reception and consideration of evidence do not control in proceedings in the Federal courts.[21]

Recovery for wrongful death.[22]—A right of action for wrongful death is governed by the law of the place where the cause of action arose,[23] and the proceeds of such suit will be distributed according to the law of such place,[24] the law of the forum applying only as showing that the foreign statute is not against the policy of the law of such state,[25] though the amount recoverable is governed by the statutes of the state where the action is brought.[26] Such foreign law must, however, be proved.[27]

Statutes of limitation.[28]—In some states, the statute of limitations of the state where the cause of action arose governs,[29] though generally the law of the forum governs,[30] except where the right is created by a statute which allows only

9. See 1 Curr. L. 564.

10. Waters v. Spencer, 89 N. Y. S. 693; Brand v. Brand, 25 Ky. L. R. 987, 76 S. W. 868.

11. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

12. As to plaintiff's right to bring the action in his own name. Waters v. Spencer, 89 N. Y. S. 693.

13. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1.

14. Unincorporated association. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 899.

15. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 899.

16. Death by wrongful act. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923. The evidence by which a contract is sought to be proved is governed by the lex fori. Marvel v. Marvel [Neb.] 97 N. W. 640.

17. In re Wogan [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 490.

18. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918. See 1 Curr. L. 565, n. 99.

19. Action cannot be maintained in the Federal court to enforce a claim against such estate after the time allowed by the statute of such state has expired. Schurmeier v. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 865.

20. Lange v. Union Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 338.

21. Testimony of accomplices. Hanley v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 123 F. 849.

22. See 1 Curr. L. 565.

23. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191. Under Wyoming statutes, the action must be brought within that state. Sanbo v. Union Pac. Coal Co., 130 F. 52.

24. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191; Sanbo v. Union Pac. Coal Co., 130 F. 52.

25. Leman v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 F. 191.

26. A statute of another state, providing for recovery of damages for wrongful death of a citizen of such state in such state, will be enforced in Ohio, but the amount recoverable will be governed by Ohio statute. Schell v. Youngstown Iron & Sheet Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 172. See 1 Curr. L. 566, n. 99.

27. NOTE. Proof of law of state where cause of action arose: In an action to recover damages for the wrongful death of a person in another state, it is generally held to be necessary to prove that such a right of action is given by the law of the state where the occurrence took place. Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Lacy, 43 Ga. 461; Hamilton v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Kan. 56; Hyde v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa, 441, 47 Am. Rep. 820; State v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 45 Md. 41; Debevaise v. New York, etc., R. Co., 98 N. Y. 377, 50 Am. Rep. 683; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Eakin, 6 Cold. [Tenn.] 582; Needham v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 38 Vt. 294.—From note to Attrill v. Huntington [Md.] 14 Am. St. Rep. 344, 354. See post, Presumptions and judicial notice regarding foreign laws.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 565.

29. Action against indorser on a note [Code Civ. Proc. § 390a]. Holmes v. Hengen, 85 N. Y. S. 35.

30. Damages for an alleged illegal execution on the property of plaintiff. Montague v. Cummings, 119 Ga. 139, 45 S. E. 979; Ross a specified time for its enforcement.[31] A judgment rendered on the plea of the statute of limitations in one jurisdiction does not bar an action in another jurisdiction having a different statute of limitations.[32]

Presumptions and judicial notice regarding foreign laws.[33]—It is only in the absence of something to the contrary[34] that the law of the sister state is presumed to be the same as the lex fori.[35] In the absence of proof, it is presumed that the common-law rule exists in a sister state.[36] The presumption, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that the law of a foreign state is like the lex fori, does not extend to positive statutory law.[37] Courts will not take judicial notice of the statutory provisions of a foreign state;[38] to be available, they must be alleged[39] and proven.[40] Such laws not being pleaded nor proven, the law of the forum prevails.[41] The law of the foreign state being alleged as a fact, it need only be proved substantially as alleged.[42]

§ 8. Torts.[43]—The right to sue for a tort,[44] the liability of the perpetrator,[45] and the defenses that he may plead, are, with few exceptions, governed by the law of the place where the cause of action arose,[46] and the right of action may be pursued in any court having competent jurisdiction over the subject-matter and the parties.[47] United States admiralty courts having jurisdiction of cases of tort arising between an American and a foreigner, on a foreign vessel on the high seas, the general maritime law of this country governs.[48] Whether municipal corporations are responsible for negligence in any stated case is a matter of local law, which the Federal court must follow.[49] The right of action being statutory, the statutes of the sister state must be pleaded and proved.[50]

v. Kansas City R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 626; Taylor v. Union Pac. R. Co., 123 F. 155. See 1 Curr. L. 565, n. 1.

31. Nor is this rule changed by the fact that the railroad invoking its aid is incorporated in another state from that in which the statute exists, it being liable to suit in the latter state. Ross v. Kansas City R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 626.

32. Brand v. Brand, 25 Ky. L. R. 987, 76 S. W. 868.

33. See 1 Curr. L. 566.

34. In requisition proceedings, an indictment being founded upon the law of the sister state, the law of such state will not be presumed to be the same as that of the forum, where under the laws of the latter, the indictment is insufficient. In re Renshaw [S. D.] 99 N. W. 83.

35. McMillan v. American Exp. Co., 123 Iowa, 236, 98 N. W. 629; Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89. In the absence of proof of the law of a sister state, the court will apply the law of its own state in interpreting a decree of a court of the sister state. Fred v. Fred [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 611. As the common law of the forum. Hazen v. Mathews, 184 Mass. 388, 68 N. E. 838. See 1 Curr. L. 566, n. 10-11.

36. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hollenbeck, 161 Ind. 452, 69 N. E. 136. Hence no legal limitation on the rate of interest in such state. Columbian Building & Loan Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63. See 1 Curr. L. 566, n. 12.

37. Waters v. Spencer, 89 N. Y. S. 693.

38. Insurance laws. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Smith, 139 Ala. 303, 35 So. 1004. Will not take judicial notice of the laws of an Indian tribe. Rowe v. Henderson [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 250. See 1 Curr. L. 566, n. 15, 16.

39. Columbian Building & Loan Ass'n v. Rice [S. C.] 47 S. E. 63.

40. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Smith, 139 Ala. 303, 35 So. 1004.

41. Indian tribal law. Rowe v. Henderson [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 250; Ricknor v. Clabber [Ind. T.] 76 S. W. 271.

42. Morisette v. Canadian P. R. Co. [Vt.] 56 A. 1102.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 566.

44. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

45. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918. Liability of master for injury to servant so held, though contract of employment was entered into in another state. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fishack [C. C. A.] 123 F. 465. Fraudulent representations. Stratton's Independence v. Dines, 126 F. 968. Where injury to servant of railway happened in Iowa, but suit was brought in Missouri, Iowa decisions formed the precedents of the case. Mitchell v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 411, 76 S. W. 647. Death being caused by the alleged negligence of a railroad in Illinois in an action in Indiana for damages, held plaintiff entitled to benefit of Illinois statute relative to the use of whistles and bells on locomotive engines. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923.

46. Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank [Iowa] 98 N. W. 918.

47. International Nav. Co. v. Lindstrom [C. C. A.] 123 F. 475.

48. Elder Dempster Shipping Co. v. Pouppirt [C. C. A.] 125 F. 732.

49. City of Denver v. Porter [C. C. A.] 126 F. 288.

50. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ryan, 31 Ind. App. 597, 68 N. E. 923.

CONSPIRACY.

§ 1. Civil Liability (726). Particular Conspiracies (726). Actions (727).
§ 2. Criminal Liability (727). Indictable Conspiracies (728). Defenses (728). Who Liable (729). Indictments (729). Evidence (729). Trial (730).

§ 1. Civil liability.[51]—Conspiracy cannot be made the subject of a civil action unless something in pursuance of the conspiracy has been done, occasioning an injury[52] not too remote or uncertain for estimation.[53] Actual damage, however, need not be shown where the injury clearly appears.[54] Pursuit of a lawful thing,[55] though influenced by vindictiveness, is not actionable.[56]

Particular conspiracies.[57]—Workmen may lawfully combine to withdraw in a body from their employment, for the purpose of obtaining an advance in wages, a reduction of the hours of labor, or any other legitimate advantage, even though they may know that such action will necessarily cause injury to the business of their employers; but the abandonment of service must not be in violation of any continuing contract, must be conducted in a lawful manner, without any attempt at coercion by means of threats or intimidation, and under such circumstances as not to wantonly or maliciously inflict injury to person or property.[58] Employers also have the right to combine to refuse employment to any kind or class of workmen precisely as employes have the right to combine to refuse to be employed,[59] and since in the absence of a contract for employment for a definite period, the employer may discharge his employes at any time, there can be no such thing as an unlawful conspir-

51. See 1 Curr. L. 566.

52. The mere allegation that the defendants conspired and confederated together is of no consequence unless it also appears that they so did to do an unlawful act or a lawful act in an unlawful manner. Bitzer v. Washburn, 121 Iowa, 462, 96 N. W. 978. A mere conspiracy to cheat and defraud amounts to nothing; the fraud and injury must be connected. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, 86 N. Y. S. 28.

53. Bitzer v. Washburn, 121 Iowa, 462, 96 N. W. 978.

54. In an action for conspiracy to ruin plaintiff's business by slanderous reports, an instruction that neither conspiracy nor acts done in pursuance thereof constitute a basis of recovery unless actual damage results and is affirmatively shown, is erroneous. Brown v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 824.

55. Conspiracy to defeat the collection of a judgment. Bitzer v. Washburn, 121 Iowa, 462, 96 N. W. 978. Exclusion of member from seat in a church convention. Cranfill v. Hayden [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 573. Where either the assignor or assignee of mining leases might have prosecuted an alleged trespass, the fact that the assignment required that the assignor should prosecute for the benefit of the assignee, who agreed to pay the expenses of the litigation, did not render it void as a conspiracy to maintain any suit. Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548, 73 P. 123.

56. Action by a priest of the Protestant Episcopal Church against the bishop of his diocese and members of his congregation for conspiracy resulting in his deposition from office. Irvine v. Elliott, 206 Pa. 152, 56 A. 859.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 566.

58. State v. Stockford [Conn.] 58 A. 769; People v. McFarlin, 89 N. Y. S. 527. Accordingly if members of a trades union combine to prevent members of a rival union from obtaining work by threats of a strike, they combine to accomplish an unlawful purpose. Erdman v. Mitchell, 207 Pa. 79, 56 A. 327. And a preliminary injunction against a trades union will not be vacated where the strike had been ordered against the employer not on any question of wages, but merely because he had refused to agree to employ only union men. Davis Mach. Co. v. Robinson, 84 N. Y. S. 837. The language or conduct which will constitute the unlawful use of threats or means to intimidate need not be such as to induce a fear of personal injury. Any words or acts which are calculated and intended to cause an ordinary person to fear an injury to his person, business or property are equivalent to threats. State v. Stockford [Conn.] 58 A. 769. Acts amounting to a boycott constitute a conspiracy, and may be restrained by injunction. Gray v. Building Trades Council [Minn.] 97 N. W. 663. A boycott is a combination of several persons to cause a loss to a third person by causing others against their will to withdraw from him their beneficial business intercourse through threats that unless a compliance with their demands is made, the persons forming the combination will cause loss or injury to him; or an organization formed to exclude a person from business relations with others by persuasion, intimidation, and other acts which tend to violence, and thereby cause him through fear of resulting injury to submit to dictation in the management of his affairs. Id. See 1 Curr. L. 566, n. 22; also, 1 Curr. L. 667, annotation.

59. Atkins v. Fletcher Co. [N. J. Eq.] 65 A. 1074. It is not a conspiracy to report to other employers, members of an association, the names of employes who have left employment without an agreed notice. There was an agreement not to employ such. Wills v. Muscogee Mfg. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 177.

acy to destroy a labor union by discharging its members or refusing to employ them.[60] A street railway company may be liable for transporting colored passengers without warning to a place where they are assaulted pursuant to a conspiracy which its employes knew to exist.[61] A conspiracy to ruin plaintiff's business by circulating slanderous reports is actionable.[62]

Actions.[63]—Each conspirator is responsible for the acts and representations of all the others within the scope of the conspiracy.[64] An action cannot be maintained by a stockholder for conspiracy to injure and ruin the corporation.[65]

The averment of conspiracy adds nothing in legal effect to the other averments of a pleading.[66] A bill of particulars may be required.[67]

In a civil action, an allegation of conspiracy is supported by proof of a mere illegal agreement to act.[68] Direct proof is not required; like any other fact it may be proved by any facts or circumstances which satisfy the mind of its existence,[69] and when there is any evidence to warrant a finding, the question is for the jury.[70] After the introduction of competent evidence tending to prove a conspiracy, evidence of conversations between plaintiff and either of defendants, relating to the transaction, is competent and binding on the others, though they were not present.[71] In an action against a railway company for transporting colored passengers without warning to a place where they were assaulted pursuant to a conspiracy which its employes knew to exist, evidence of prior assaults committed on colored persons at the same place, and articles published in daily papers describing the occurrences, are admissible.[72]

A judgment against several parties for a liability arising out of a fraudulent conspiracy should be against them jointly and severally.[73]

§ 2. Criminal liability.[74]—A combination of persons for the accomplishment

60. Boyer v. Western Union Tel. Co., 124 F. 246.

61. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Dawson, 31 Ind. App. 605, 68 N. E. 909.

62. Brown v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 985.

63. See 1 Curr. L. 567.

64. Conspiracy to injure business. Brown v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 985. Conspiracy to cheat by false representations inducing exchange of land. Miller v. John, 208 Ill. 173, 70 N. E. 27. Where a conspiracy to publish a libel is shown, all conspirators are responsible for all of the publications, though no one of them was concerned in all. Cranfill v. Hayden [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 573.

65. The remedy for such a wrong is through a suit by the corporation or through a bill in equity if the corporate officers refuse to act. Converse v. United Shoe Machinery Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 444.

66. Converse v. United Shoe Machinery Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 444. Allegations in a bill to restrain the sale of round-trip tickets by ticket brokers, of a malicious conspiracy to defraud plaintiff, are insufficient to justify equitable relief where it is not stated in what the conspiracy consists. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, 85 N. Y. S. 28.

67. Where it is alleged that the defendant company by and through its officers, agents and servants did conspire to defraud plaintiff, the defendant is entitled to a bill of particulars setting out the names of such agents. Riker v. Erlanger, 87 App. Div. 137, 84 N. Y. S. 69.

68. Saxton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372.

69. Saxton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372; Owens v. State [Ga.] 48 S. E. 21. Action by trustee to set aside alleged fraudulent conveyance of bankrupt's property. Saxton v. Sebring, 89 N. Y. S. 372.

70. McNaughton v. Smith [Mich.] 99 N. W. 382. Evidence held to show fraudulent conspiracy to suppress a will and deprive devisees of benefit thereof. Anderson's Adm'r v. Smith [Va.] 48 S. E. 29.

71. Miller v. John, 208 Ill. 173, 70 N. E. 27.

72. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Dawson, 31 Ind. App. 605, 68 N. E. 909.

73. Anderson's Adm'r v. Smith [Va.] 48 S. E. 29.

74. See 1 Curr. L. 567.

Note. The general holding is that, as defrauding a person of his property is not necessarily a crime. an indictment charging a conspiracy to defraud must aver unlawful means by which this object was to be accomplished. State v. Williams, 48 Me. 218; Com. v. Shedd, 7 Cush. [Mass.] 514; Oderman v. People, 4 Mich. 414; March v. People, 7 Barb. [N. Y.] 391. The contrary rule prevails in Pennsylvania. Com. v. McKisson, 8 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 420, 11 Am. Dec. 630. A combination to secrete or dispose of the property of a debtor for the purpose of defrauding his creditors is indictable (Hull v. Eaton, 25 Vt. 458; Heine v. Com., 91 Pa. 145; Ellzey v. State, 57 Miss. 827), as is a combination by which goods are to be purchased on credit from a third person, and concealed to avoid payment of the price (Com. v. Ward, 1 Mass. 473). A general charge of conspiracy to cheat a municipal corporation imports an indictable defense on account of character of

of a particular object may be criminal, either because the object itself is criminal in its character,[75] or because the means by which a lawful object is to be effected are criminal.[76] It is not necessary to show that the conspirators actually come together, or that they are acquainted with each other.[77]

Indictable conspiracies.[78]—A conspiracy between two or more persons to prevent negro citizens from exercising the right to lease and cultivate land is indictable;[79] likewise a conspiracy to commit adultery.[80] In Pennsylvania, a combination to enforce the payment of a debt from the wages of labor is indictable.[81] Cases involving the Federal statute are discussed below.[82]

Defenses.[83]—It is immaterial whether the object of the conspiracy is effectuated; the gist of the offense lies in the unlawful agreement.[84] corporation. State v. Young, 37 N. J. Law, 184. See cases collected in note [Mich.] 51 Am. Dec. 82. See, also, 1 Curr. L. 568, annotation.

75. A combination which contemplates the use of force, threats, or intimidation to induce workmen to abandon together the service of their employers is criminal. State v. Stockford [Conn.] 58 A. 769. The object being unlawful, the offense is complete the moment the conspiracy is made. Com. v. Stambaugh, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 386.

76. Attempt to pass state medical examination by procuring beforehand copies of the proposed questions. State v. Stewart, 32 Wash. 103, 72 P. 1026. So when members of an organization, no matter how commendable the purpose for its existence may be, endeavor to compel a man to join by threatening him that unless he does so they will not only refuse to labor with him, but that in order to prevent him from obtaining work at his trade, they will utilize the entire power and enginery of the association to turn custom from and promote hostility toward any one who does employ him, then the members of such association, who are cooperating by such means to bring about such a result, are guilty of the crime of conspiracy. People v. McFarlin, 89 N. Y. S. 527.

77. Use of a go-between. State v. Stewart, 32 Wash. 103, 72 P. 1026.

NOTE. General elements of conspiracy: It is not necessary that the parties should have been previously acquainted with each other (People v. Mather, 4 Wend. [N. Y.] 229, 21 Am. Dec. 122), or that they should have agreed upon the particular manner in which the conspiracy was to be carried out (United States v. Rindskopf, 6 Biss. 259), or that the object of the conspiracy should have been in itself criminal (State v. Rowley, 12 Conn. 101; Smith v. People, 25 Ill. 17, 76 Am. Dec. 780). Cases collected in note [Mich.] 51 Am. Dec. 82.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 567, n. 27-32.

79. U. S. v. Morris, 125 F. 322.

80. State v. Clemenson, 123 Iowa, 524, 99 N. W. 139.

81. Com. v. Stambaugh, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 386.

82. The Federal statute Rev. St. § 5440 provides that if two or more person conspire, either "to commit an offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States in any manner or for any purpose," and some overt act be done, all the parties to the conspiracy shall be liable, etc. This statute applies with equal force to rights of the United States, created subsequent to its passage, as well as those previously existing. Curley v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 1. The term "defraud" as used in this statute should not be construed as limited only to frauds respecting property right, but to include the deprivation of a right by deception or artifice. Id. False impersonation of another at civil service examination. U. S. v. Curley, 122 F. 738. But an agreement between a member of congress and another, the one to receive a bribe for aiding to procure an office and the other to pay the same, constitutes a substantive offense, and cannot be made the basis of an indictment for conspiracy under this statute. U. S. v. Dietrich, 126 F. 664. An indictment charging that defendant, a contractor, conspired with certain postal officials, one of whom was charged with the duty of procuring supplies through contracts let after advertisements or in open market at reasonable prices, to defraud the United States, by having let to him a contract without competition, at exorbitant prices, for articles for which there was no immediate necessity, in pursuance of which the articles were purchased from defendant thereafter, and the voucher approved, states an indictable conspiracy within Federal statutes. In re Runkle, 125 F. 996. The object of the conspiracy must be to commit some offense against the United States in the sense only that it must be to do some act made an offense by the laws of the United States. Scott v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 429. A conspiracy to deceive an agent appointed to examine the affairs of national banks by causing false entries to be made in books of bank. Id. Straw bail. Radford v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 49. Defrauding customs. U. S. v. Rosenthal, 126 F. 766.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 567.

84. State v. Stewart, 32 Wash. 103, 72 P. 1026; Moore v. People, 31 Colo. 336, 73 P. 30. In a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud the United States by the execution of straw bail, it was not necessary that the government should prove that the accused did not appear on the day required, since the government was defrauded when the accused were released on the strength of a recognizance apparently good but worthless in fact (Radford v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 49), and it is no defense to an indictment for conspiracy to defraud the customs revenue of the United States that if the practice prescribed by the statute had been followed, the object of the alleged conspiracy could not have been accomplished (U. S. v. Rosenthal, 126 F. 766).

Who liable.[85]—Mere membership in a firm, it not appearing that such connection was used or such relation assumed for the purpose of subserving the conspiracy, is not enough to render the partner liable.[86] While the common-law offense of conspiracy has not been incorporated in the Penal Code of Georgia, conspiring with another to commit an offense may be an element in the guilt of one charged as accessory before the fact.[87]

Indictments[88] passed on are collected in the note.[89] An information for conspiracy to defraud by means of forged checks need not give a particular or minute description of the checks.[90] An indictment of a man for conspiracy to commit adultery need not allege that he knew that the woman was married.[91] The objection to the form of an indictment that it charges not only conspiracy but false pretenses as well, in violation of the Code,[92] can only be taken by demurrer.

Evidence.[93]—Conspiracy may be proved by facts and circumstances, and the weight and sufficiency of the evidence is for the jury.[94] The acts and declarations of a conspirator, in furtherance of the common purpose, are evidence against himself, and are also evidence against his associates when they are made during the performance of the fraudulent transactions which constitute the crime charged.[95] Proof of acts of unchastity on the part of one of the defendants is not admissible in a prosecution for conspiracy to defraud legatees under a will.[96] Where, in a prosecution for conspiracy, the court held that certain evidence introduced was admissible

85. See 1 Curr. L. 568.

86. Conspiracy to defraud the customs revenue. U. S. v. Cohn, 128 F. 615.

87. Bishop v. State, 118 Ga. 799, 45 S. E. 614.

88. See 1 Curr. L. 568.

89. Sufficient indictments: An indictment charging that "defendants did willfully conspire to cheat and defraud" sufficiently defines the offense, within a code provision requiring an indictment to name the crime with which a defendant is accused, or if it have none, then to give a brief description of it. People v. Rathbun, 89 N. Y. S. 746. Under a code provision that no agreement except to commit felony amounts to a conspiracy unless some act in addition to the agreement be done to effectuate the object thereof, an indictment which alleges a conspiracy to obtain money from the public by false pretenses and alleges overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy and also the obtaining a sum of money by such false pretenses, is sufficient. People v. Weichers, 87 N. Y. S. 897. So an information, charging a conspiracy to obtain from a member of a state medical examining board, a set of questions to be used at the examination held by such board, is good. State v. Stewart, 32 Wash. 103, 72 P. 1026. An indictment for conspiracy to deprive the government of land which alleges that the lands sought to be acquired were "public lands" and that defendants had conspired to defraud the United States of such land is not demurrable for failure to allege other facts showing that the land is in fact public land. U. S. v. McKinley, 126 F. 242. And an indictment which charges a conspiracy to defraud by "dealing and pretending to deal" in green goods so called, is not bad for repugnancy. Lehman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 41.

Defective indictments: An indictment that defendants conspired to injure certain persons "in the free exercise and enjoyment of a right and privilege secured to them," without specifying in what the right consisted, is defective. McKenna v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 88. So an indictment for conspiracy to defraud the United States of sums to become due to it as customs duties must allege, to some extent at least, the means intended to be used. U. S. v. Grunberg, 131 F. 137. It being a statutory offense to knowingly and willfully retard or obstruct the passage of the mails, an indictment charging conspiracy, but omitting to allege that it was done "knowingly and willfully" is defective. Conrad v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 798.

90. Moore v. People, 31 Colo. 336, 73 P. 30; People v. Rathbun, 89 N. Y. S. 746. It is, however, the better practice, when it can be done, to set out the means intended to be employed, with sufficient certainty to identify the offense charged. Moore v. People, 31 Colo. 336, 73 P. 30. An indictment which does so does not thereby charge more than one crime. People v. Rathbun, 89 N. Y. S. 746. See, also, People v. Weichers, 87 N. Y. S. 897.

91. Such knowledge is necessarily included in the allegation of a conspiracy to perpetrate that particular crime. State v. Clemenson, 123 Iowa, 524, 99 N. W. 139.

92. Code Crim. Proc. § 323, subd. 3. People v. Weichers, 87 N. Y. S. 897.

93. See 1 Curr. L. 568.

94. Conspiracy to rob. People v. Lawrence, 143 Cal. 148, 76 P. 893. Conspiracy to murder. People v. Moran [Cal.] 77 P. 777. In a prosecution for unlawfully confederating for the purpose of intimidating, alarming, disturbing, and injuring another, evidence held to justify a submission of defendant's guilt to the jury. Gambrel v. Com. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 808.

95. Com. v. Stambaugh, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 386.

96. State v. Hendrick [N. J. Law] 56 A. 247.

as against one of the conspirators only and called the government attorney's attention explicitly to the fact that it was inadmissible against the others, the admission of such evidence was not subject to exception on the part of the other defendants.[97]

Trial may proceed against the only defendant under arrest, though others are indicted.[98]

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW.

§ 1. Adoption and Amendment of Constitutions (730).
§ 2. Operative Force and Effect (732).
§ 3. Interpretation and Exposition (732).
A. When Called For (732).
B. General Rules of Interpretation (734). Statutes (735). Scope of Federal and State Power (738).
§ 4. Executive, Legislative and Judicial Functions (740).
A. Executive Functions (740).
B. Legislative Functions (740).
C. Judicial Functions (743).
§ 5. Relative Powers of Federal and State or Other Subordinate Governments (746).
§ 6. Police Power in General (746). Public Health (748). Public Safety (749). Public Morals (749).
§ 7. Liberty of Contract and Right of Property (750).
§ 8. Freedom of Speech and of the Press (753).
§ 9. Personal and Religious Liberty (753). "Imprisonment for Debt" (754). Right to Choose Employment (754).
§ 10. Equal Protection of Law (755). Inspection Fees and Licenses (756). Taxation (757). Local Improvement (757). Regulations of Business, Trades and Professions (757). Operation of Railroads (768). Criminal Laws and Procedure (759). Civil Remedies and Proceedings (759).
§ 11. Privileges and Immunities of Citizens (760).
§ 12. Grants of Special Privileges and Immunities; Class Legislation (761). Licenses, and Privilege and Occupation Taxes (762). Taxation (763). Regulations of Business, Trades and Professions (763). Insurance (764). Liquor Traffic (764). Relations of Master and Servant (764). Criminal Laws and Procedure (765). Civil Remedies and Proceedings (765).
§ 13. Laws Impairing the Obligations of Contracts (765). What is a Contract (766). State or Municipal Contracts (768). Corporate Charters and Franchises (768). Public Service Franchises (769). Tax and Assessment Laws (769). Regulations of Remedies (769).
§ 14. Retroactive Legislation; Vested Rights (770). Taxes, Licenses and Public Rights (771). Laws Affecting Corporations (771). Regulation of Procedure (771).
§ 15. Deprivation Without Due Process of Law, or Contrary to Law of the Land (772). Liberty (774). Regulations of Business and Occupations (774). Taxation (776). Civil Remedies and Proceedings (776). Criminal Offenses and Procedure (777).
§ 16. Compensation for Taking Property (778).
§ 17. Right to Justice and Guaranty of Remedies (779).
§ 18. Jury Trials Preserved (780).
§ 19. Crimes, Prosecutions, Punishments and Penalties (780).
§ 20. Searches and Seizures (783).
§ 21. Suffrage, and Elections (784).
§ 22. Frame and Organization of Government; Courts; Officers (784).
§ 23. Taxation and Fiscal Affairs (786). Equality and Uniformity (787). Double Taxation (788). Exemption Clauses (789). Levy, Assessment, Collection, and Equalization (790). Public Improvements (790). Debt Limit, and Limit of Levy (790). Subdivision of Question of Indebtedness (791). Provision for Payment of Debts (791). Public Aid, Donations and Loans of Credit (792).
§ 24. Schools and Education; School Funds (792).
§ 25. Commerce (792).
§ 26. The Enactment of Statutes (793).
§ 27. Miscellaneous Provisions Other Than Foregoing (793). Right to Require Information by Compulsion (793). Usury Laws (793). Liquor Traffic (793). Homesteads and Other Exemptions (794). Regulation of Carriers (794). Wrongful Death (795). Claims Against State (795). Master and Servant (795). Public Lands (795). Water (795).

§ 1. Adoption and amendment of constitutions.[1]—The making of a constitution is but legislation; legislation, however, of the most solemn character.[2] Manifestly, a court cannot inquire into the legality of a constitution to which it owes its own life and existence;[3] the regularity of the adoption of amendments may be questioned, however, and whether an amendment has been regularly proposed, adopted and ratified is a question for the courts and not for the political department of the government.[4]

97. Radford v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 49.

98. Com. v. Stambaugh, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 386.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 569.

2. Shirley v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835.

3. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710. The Virginia constitution of 1902, though ordained and promulgated by a constitutional convention without submission to the people, having been acquiesced in by all three branches of the government and by the voters registering and voting under it, and being in fact the organic law of the state, must be so regarded irrespective of whether it was legally adopted. Taylor v.

In submitting an amendment, the legislature acts not in its legislative capacity, but as a constitutional convention, and is not bound by constitutional provisions regarding the enactment of statutes.[5] It is generally provided, however, that bills and joint resolutions submitting amendments be passed with certain formalities,[6] and enrolled and entered in full on the journal of each house.[7] Such provisions are not mandatory,[8] for the popular adoption may cure irregularities of this kind,[9] and an irregularity going merely to the mode of declaring the vote should not defeat the public will.[10] In Oregon, a proposed amendment must be agreed to by two successive legislatures before submission to the people, and while one is pending, no other can be acted upon;[11] but if the second legislature fails to act, the proposal lapses and another may be proposed, notwithstanding the prohibition.[12] If not restrained by the constitution, statutes directing the manner in which amendments shall be submitted to vote,[13] and providing for a canvass thereof, are valid.[14] Amendments may not be submitted, the subject of which is not embraced in the article sought to be amended, but new articles may be added to the constitution embodying subjects not mentioned in the original.[15] A provision that if more than one amendment is submitted, opportunity shall be given to vote on each separately, does not require that each section of a single amendment shall be so submitted,[16] and a provision against submitting amendments to more than six articles of the constitution at one time has reference only to direct amendments, and not to amendments by construction or implication.[17] Publication must be according to the rule prescribed.[18] A title, while not necessary, is proper to identify the amendment;[19] but the fact that the title of a proposed amendment, as published prior to election, was misleading, is no objection to the validity of the amendment in the absence of a showing that any voter was deceived.[20] The full text of the proposed amendment need not be printed on the ballot, the substance thereof being sufficient.[21] Only a majority of the electors voting thereon is necessary for adoption.[22]

The initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution of Oregon does not conflict with the Federal guaranty of a republican form of government[23] and

Com., 101 Va. 829, 44 S. E. 754. Cf. Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347.

4. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

5. Local and special laws, subjects and titles of acts and the like. Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347.

6. A constitutional provision that amendments shall be "read" three times in the legislature is understood not in its usual popular signification, but according to its received meaning and interpretation among legislative bodies. Saunders v. Board of Liquidation of City Debt, 110 La. 313, 34 So. 457.

7. Piecemeal entry is sufficient [Const. art. 20, § 1]. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

8. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369. 74 P. 167.

9. The will of the people legitimately expressed should not be thwarted by the design or carelessness of an employe of the legislature. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167.

10. A constitutional amendment cannot, after long acquiescence (16 years), be set aside on the ground that the statute providing for a canvass of the votes therefor was irregularly passed, there being no attempt to show that the amendment did not in fact receive a majority of votes. Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347.

11. Const. art. 17, §§ 1, 2. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

12. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

13. The statute of Ohio providing for the submission of constitutional amendments through the machinery of political parties is valid. State v. Laylin [Ohio] 68 N. E. 574. Where a constitution merely provides that constitutional amendments be submitted to the electors, the method of submission is left to the legislature. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

14. Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347.

15, 16, 17. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167.

18. A constitutional amendment published in a paper which prints its news, politics and policies in German, with a supplement of miscellaneous matter in English, is published in a German newspaper. State v. Slater, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 101.

19. Saunders v. Board of Liquidation of City Debt, 110 La. 313, 34 So. 457.

20. People v. Sours. 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167.

21. Const. art. 20, § 1. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

22. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167. Some states require a majority of all voting at the election. Id.

23. Merely reserving to the people a larger share of legislative power. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

was regularly proposed, ratified and adopted in accordance with the provisions of the Oregon constitution.[24]

The date of the taking effect of a constitutional amendment cannot be established by admission or agreement of counsel.[25]

§ 2. Operative force and effect.[26]—Constitutional prohibitions on the passage of certain laws operate prospectively only and do not repeal existing statutes,[27] and a constitutional provision abolishing the distinction between sealed and unsealed instruments does not repeal or modify a law in force at its adoption, except as to the seal.[28]

Self-executing provisions.[29]—A constitutional provision is self executing if it supplies a sufficient rule by means of which the right given may be enjoyed and protected, or the duty imposed may be enforced, and it is not self executing when it merely indicates principles without laying down rules by means of which those principles may be given the force of law.[30] But where the constitutional convention itself construes a section as not self executing, by providing for the enactment of laws for its enforcement, it is the duty of courts to adopt that interpretation.[31] Provisions requiring an election to be held,[32] one reserving power to regulate public service charges,[33] and one requiring assessment of damages by free holders,[34] have been construed as self executing. The Missouri amendment dispensing with unanimity in verdicts of juries is self executing in so far as it applies to grand juries and juries in courts of record in civil cases, but not as applicable to juries in courts not of record.[35] A constitutional provision that the highest court may have jurisdiction in certain cases does not ex proprio vigore confer that jurisdiction,[36] nor is jurisdiction conferred on a court by a provision which needs legislation to give it effect.[37]

Constitutions, like statutes, have no extra-territorial effect.[38]

§ 3. Interpretation and exposition. A. When called for.[39]—Courts refuse to pass on the constitutionality of a statute unless absolutely necessary to a decision of the case,[40] and cannot attempt, prior to an actual controversy, to pass upon

24. Not in violation of art. 17, § 1, providing that when an amendment is proposed, it shall be referred to the next session of the legislature, and, if approved by them, then submitted to popular vote, or of section 2, prohibiting the proposal of any additional amendment while one is awaiting action. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

25. City Council of Denver v. Adams County Com'rs [Colo.] 77 P. 858.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 570.

27. Statute limiting damages recoverable for wrongful death. Mestas v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co. [Wyo.] 76 P. 567. A special law in force at the adoption of a constitutional provision prohibiting the enactment of such laws continues until repealed. Special charter. Ulbrecht v. Keokuk [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1082. A special act incorporating a taxing district is not repealed by the adoption of a constitutional provision against the passage of special laws and repealing inconsistent laws. City of Covington v. District of Highlands, 24 Ky. L. R. 433, 68 S. W. 669.

28. Daniel v. Garner, 71 Ark. 484, 76 S. W. 1063.

29. See 1 Curr. L. 570.

30. Cooley, Const. Lim. [7th Ed.] p. 121. Sharp v. National Biscuit Co. [Mo.] 78 S. W. 787.

31. The provision of the constitution of Washington against monopolies and discrimination by railroads is not self executing. Northwestern Warehouse Co. v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 32 Wash. 218, 73 P. 388.

32. May be held at the required time without special legislation providing therefor. State v. Moores [Neb.] 96 N. W. 1011.

33. Self executing so far as it prohibits the bartering away of that power, and becomes a part of every public service contract subsequently made. City of Tampa v. Tampa Waterworks Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 631.

34. Taking property for public use [Mo. Const. art. 2, § 21]. Shively v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835.

35. Acts 1899, p. 382, amend. Const. art. 2, § 28. Sharp v. National Biscuit Co. [Mo.] 78 S. W. 787.

36. Flanary v. Kane [Va.] 46 S. E. 312.

37. The provision of the Texas constitution giving the district court jurisdiction over election contests is not self executing, and such jurisdiction can be exercised only as authorized by statute [Const. art. 5, § 8, amended 1891]. Mercer v. Woods [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 15.

38. Constitutional inhibition against limitation of common-law liability is not effective as to contract made out of state [Const. § 196]. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Druien [Ky.] 80 S. W. 778.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 570.

40. Jack v. Grangeville [Idaho] 74 P. 969;

the validity of provisions that may never be properly questioned.[41] The validity of a statute cannot be questioned by one to whom it has no application,[42] or who is not injured thereby,[43] or who has voluntarily met its requirements,[44] and a person accused cannot question a provision of the statute beneficial to him, the benefits of which he may avail himself of or not as he elects.[45] The constitutionality of a statute making it the duty of police officers to search persons suspected of carrying concealed weapons cannot be raised by one on trial for assault on an officer engaged in that duty.[46] One who has invoked the aid of a statute cannot question its constitutionality,[47] but an importer whose goods are seized on reim-

Bray v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 250; State v. King, 28 Mont. 268, 72 P. 657; State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575. Although declination involves declination of jurisdiction and decision of case on merits. Gregg v. Board of Com'rs of Lake County [Colo.] 76 P. 376. Whether statute is invalid as depriving electors of right to choose officers not determined on mandamus to compel calling of election. People v. Potter, 88 App. Div. 239, 85 N. Y. S. 460. Not when case can be decided on other grounds. Weir v. State, 161 Ind. 435, 68 N. E. 1023. Not when relators are not aggrieved whether statute be valid or not. Green v. Doerwald [Neb.] 96 N. W. 634. See 1 Curr. L. 570, n. 69.

41. In advance of any attempt to exercise controverted powers, the courts will not pass upon separate and independent clauses which if void will not interfere with the main purpose of a statute. Toney v. Macon, 119 Ga. 83, 46 S. E. 80. The court cannot attempt, prior to an actual controversy arising, to direct the officers charged with the enforcement of a law relating to their duty in putting it into operation. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063.

42. Davidson v. Von Detten, 139 Cal. 467, 73 P. 189; State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575. Validity of statute allowing entry by plaintiff in condemnation proceedings before payment of damages cannot be raised by one awarded no damages. Marks v. Bradshaw Mountain R. Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 470. An alien cannot question a statute on the ground that privileges and immunities of the citizens of the state are not extended to the citizens of the several states [U. S. Const. art. 4, § 2]. In re Johnson's Estate, 139 Cal. 532, 73 P. 424. Those who are excluded from this country cannot assert the rights in general obtaining in favor of citizens, such as the rights of free speech and press, the right to petition, etc. (Anarchist case). U. S. v. Williams, 194 U. S. 279, 24 S. Ct. 719. One not a physician cannot question a statute on the ground that it discriminates between different classes of physicians. Local option law. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766. The constitutionality of an act prohibiting the selling and giving away of intoxicants cannot be attacked on the ground that it fails to discriminate in favor of the household use of intoxicants, by one who has been convicted of both selling and giving away. Parker v. State [Md.] 57 A. 677. A suggested invalidity of a liquor law for failure to exempt certain sales cannot be taken advantage of by one not prosecuted for such a sale. In re O'Brien [Mont.] 75 P. 196. Constitutionality of statute authorizing formation of drainage district cannot be raised by one outside the district. Laguna Drainage Dist. v. Charles Martin Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 933.

43. Courts do not listen to a party whose objection to a law is not that his own rights are affected, but that the rights of some other party, who is not complaining, are. Cooley, Const. Lim. [5th Ed.] 216. Anti-compact law affecting insurance companies. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Perkins, 125 F. 502. The only person who can complain that a law impairs the obligation of contracts is one who has an interest in the enforcement of the obligation of the contract said to be impaired. Templeton v. Horne, 82 Ill. 491; Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327. An alien who does not show that any of his rights were affected by the repeal of a statute conferring on aliens the right to take property by descent cannot question the constitutionality of such repeal. Donaldson v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1029. A national bank cannot raise the question that proceedings to tax the shares of its stock are violative of the fourteenth amendment; the stockholders alone are interested in that question. Com. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158. Successful bidders for an issue of school bonds, who refuse to take the bonds because of their invalidity and are refused return of their deposit thereon, have an interest entitling them to raise the question of the constitutionality of the statute authorizing the issue. School City of Rushville v. Hayes [Ind.] 70 N. E. 134. Whether a statute defining an incompetent is invalid as a legislative attempt to define and construe prior statutes cannot be raised by one found incompetent in regular proceedings, not referring to the statute objected to, though the finding of his incompetence adopts the language of the statute. In re Daniels, 140 Cal. 335, 73 P. 1053. Any male inhabitant of the state over 21 years old may sue to test the constitutionality of a statute apportioning senators and representatives, though the wrong complained of does not exist in his own district. Brooks v. State [Ind.] 70 N. E. 980.

44. The constitutionality of a law requiring the bond of an officer to be a lien on the real estate of the officer and his sureties cannot be attacked by persons voluntarily executing such bond. City of Mt. Vernon v. Kenlon, 89 N. Y. S. 817.

45. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087, 35 So. 300.

46. Keady v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 892.

47. Act providing for interlocking devices at railroad grade crossings. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gowrie, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 543, 99 N. W. 181. Persons made heirs and devisees by a statute cannot question provision for setting apart widow's share. Otto portation is not estopped to deny the constitutionality of the law by which they are seized, because on a former seizure he gave a bond to carry them out of the country and not reimport them.[48] Petitioners for a local improvement prosecuted in strict compliance with the law cannot, after completion of the work, question the constitutionality of the statute,[49] nor, where they have failed to seek the remedy provided by the statute, can they question the constitutionality of the assessment therefor.[50] Since a foreign corporation has no right to do business in a state, it cannot question the constitutionality of the statute imposing conditions on its privilege to do business there.[51] Objections to a statute must point out what provision of the constitution is violated,[52] and the manner of its violation,[53] and the objector must show facts sufficient to bring himself within the protection of the clause invoked.[54] Defendant, in an action to condemn land, may raise the question that plaintiff is an alien and disentitled to hold lands in the state,[55] and quo warranto proceedings to determine constitutionality are frequent.[56] The constitutional question must have been raised below,[57] and decided adversely to the appellant.[58]

(§ 3) B. General rules of interpretation. Constitutions.[59]—The framers of constitutions and the people who adopt them must be understood to have employed words in their natural sense, and to have intended what they said.[60] The intention of the framers, however, must prevail, whatever language may have been used to express it,[61] whence all parts of a constitution relating to the same subject must be construed together, and if possible under any reasonable construction, made to harmonize, and every part rendered effective.[62] Debates of the members of the convention which framed the constitution are frequently consulted with a view to

v. Long [Cal.] 77 P. 885. An agreement by lot owners that a local improvement was legally prosecuted, made for the purpose of obtaining a market for the sale of bonds by the municipality to enable it to make the improvement, estops them from alleging the unconstitutionality of the statute under which the assessment is made. Shepard v. Barron, 194 U. S. 553, 24 S. Ct. 737.

48. U. S. v. Seven Packages of Tea, 126 F. 224.

49. Shepard v. Barron, 194 U. S. 553, 24 S. Ct. 737.

50. Estoppel to object that other lands should have been included in the assessment district and that lot owner is therefore denied the equal protection of the law. O'Dea v. Mitchell [Cal.] 77 P. 1020.

51. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Perkins, 125 F. 502.

52. Brown v. State, 114 Ga. 60, 39 S. E. 873; State v. Wilson [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1060; Morton v. Nelms, 118 Ga. 786, 45 S. E. 616; Sayer v. Brown, 119 Ga. 539, 46 S. E. 649; State v. Brockmiller [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 214. An objection to an act as "not being a constitutional exercise of legislative authority" is too vague. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172.

53. A lot owner objecting to a local assessment on the ground of inequality of protection must show what other lands should have been included in the district; a mere general allegation that others should have been included is not enough. O'Dea v. Mitchell [Cal.] 77 P. 1020.

54. A person on trial objecting to the constitutionality of a statute on the ground that it was not enacted as the constitution directs must present the facts he relies on to the trial court, and include them in his bill of exceptions on error or they will not be considered. Peckham v. People [Colo.] 75 P. 422. A city making no showing as to its income cannot assert the invalidity of a statute under which a debt was contracted, on the ground that a debt greater than its income is created contrary to the constitution. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph [Mo.] 82 S. W. 64.

55. State v. Superior Court for Stevens County, 33 Wash. 542, 74 P. 686.

56. Quo warranto is maintainable to test the constitutionality of a statute authorizing the consolidation of competing corporations. People v. People's Gaslight & Coke Co., 205 Ill. 482, 68 N. E. 950. An answer to a petition in quo warranto, alleging that respondents are holding office by virtue of a certain statute, is sufficient to put the constitutionality of the statute in issue. State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657.

57. General demurrer to petition does not raise the question of the constitutionality of the statute on which the action is based. State v. Henderson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 334.

58. State v. Brockmiller [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 214.

59. See 1 Curr. L. 571.

60. Per Ch. J. Marshall, in Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. [U. S.] 1, 6 Law. Ed. 23; Ex parte Heyman [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 349; Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327.

61. And the meaning of general words will be restricted when necessary to carry out that intention. State v. Eldredge [Utah] 76 P. 337.

62. Gibbs v. Gibbs, 26 Utah, 382, 73 P. 641; State v. Eldredge [Utah] 76 P. 337.

determining the meaning of doubtful provisions,[63] and contemporaneous construction by co-ordinate branches of the government, long continued in, is entitled to great weight in determining the meaning of doubtful provisions.[64] Such aid, however, is to be resorted to only when ambiguity is found, or the meaning is doubtful.[65] The rule applying where a statute of one state is re-enacted in another applies to constitutions,[66] but the court will not presume that a constitutional provision existing in several states was adopted from any particular one of them so as to bind itself to the construction adopted by that state.[67] Technical words must be construed according to their legal definition, in the absence of anything to clearly indicate that the words were not intended to be so used.[68] That the validity of a constitutional amendment is not free from doubt is of itself a sufficient reason for sustaining it.[69]

Federal courts usually follow the state court's interpretation.[70]

Statutes.[71]—Whenever a legislative enactment is clearly in the least degree contrary to the constitution, the duty of the courts to give effect to the organic law as the supreme will of the people is unquestionable,[72] the maxim "de minimis non curat lex" having no application where the violation of a constitutional right is in question.[73] They are not, however, at liberty to set aside an act of the legislature because in their opinion it is opposed to a spirit supposed to pervade the constitution, but not expressed in words,[74] though it is said the constitution may be as effectively violated by an act contrary to its spirit, as by one contrary to its letter;[75]

63. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327. The contrary rule obtains, however, in Virginia, the court relying for authority on cases holding that parliamentary debates are not examinable to determine the meaning of statutes. Funkhouser v. Spahr [Va.] 46 S. E. 378. See 1 Curr. L. 571, n. 81.

64. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327; Linton v. Lucy Cobb Institute, 117 Ga. 678, 45 S. E. 53; City Council v. Board of Com'rs [Colo.] 77 P. 858. The contemporaneous construction of a clause of the constitution, acquiesced in for more than a century by the legislative, executive and judicial branches of the government, places it beyond debate or question. Const. art. 1, § 8. Right of state courts to admit qualified aliens to citizenship. Levin v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 826. See 1 Curr. L. 571, n. 82.

65. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327.

66. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 P. 246. See 1 Curr. L. 571, n. 80.

67. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208.

68. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784.

69. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

70. See Stare Decisis, 2 Curr. L. 1698.

NOTE. Federal courts. Interpretation of state statutes: Suit was brought in a Federal court by citizens of Pennsylvania to enforce a mechanic's lien given by an Ohio statute. The materials were furnished before the Ohio supreme court had passed on the constitutionality of the statute. Subsequently, but before the institution of this suit, that court declared the statute repugnant to the Ohio constitution. Held, the Federal court should decide the constitutionality independently of the Ohio decision. Great Southern Fire Proof Hotel Co. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 532. In general, the Federal courts will follow the decisions of the state courts in interpreting statutes and constitutions. Post v. Supervisors, 105 U. S. 667. Though originally Federal courts followed the changes of opinion in the state courts (Green v. Neal, 6 Pet. [U. S.] 291), it is now settled that they will not allow the rights of parties to be changed where relations were entered into on the basis of a former interpretation (Douglass v. County of Pike, 101 U. S. 677). For similar reasons, it would seem, the Federal courts will interpret according to their own opinion a statute unadjudicated upon when the rights of the parties were fixed, notwithstanding a contrary result reached in the meantime by the state court. Burgess v. Seligman, 107 U. S. 20; Anderson v. Santa Anna, 116 U. S. 356. The Federal courts are reluctant to run counter to state decisions, however, and it would seem justly, for the result is to establish different rules of law for citizens of different states, a result directly contrary to the purpose of giving jurisdiction in cases of diverse citizenship. The principal case must depend on the doctrine that some sort of rights can be acquired under an unconstitutional statute (see U. S. v. Realty Co., 163 U. S. 427), since decisions announced before the fixing of rights of parties will be followed (Fairfield v. County of Gallatin, 100 U. S. 47, 52).—IV Columbia Law Rev. 509.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 571.

72. For an exhaustive discussion of the right and duty of the courts to declare statutes in conflict with the constitution invalid, see Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 P. 640. Criticising the dissenting opinion in In re Davis, 58 Kan. 368, 49 P. 160.

73. Spring Valley Waterworks v. San Francisco, 124 F. 574, 602.

74. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488. See 1 Curr. L. 571, n. 83.

75. State v. Kohnke, 109 La. 838, 33 So. 793.

nor have they authority to interfere on the ground of natural justice and right,[76] or inquire whether an act conserves a wise or reasonable public policy, so long as the legislature does not pass the limits fixed by the constitution.[77] The manner in which favorable consideration by the legislature was obtained for an act is not open to inquiry.[78] Neither is their motive in passing it,[79] the courts being bound to assume that the law making body acted with good faith and a desire to promote the public good.[80] A statute will not be declared void on the presumption that it will be used as a basis to assert an unjust or illegal claim to the property of the state.[81]

Every presumption must be indulged in favor of the validity of a statute,[82] and its validity sustained until it is clearly shown to be violative of some constitutional restriction.[83] A reasonable doubt as to the constitutionality of a law stamps it as constitutional,[84] since all such doubts must be resolved in favor of the law.[85]

In cases of doubtful terms or meaning, that construction will be applied which upholds the act, if possible, without violence to the manifest legislative purpose,[86]

76. Tiedeman, Lim. Pol. Powers, § 3; Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22; Com. v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 2027, 79 S. W. 287; Viemeister v. White, 88 App. Div. 44, 84 N. Y. S. 712; Kerr v. Perry School Tp. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 246.

77. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436; Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22; City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785; Atkin v. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207, 24 S. Ct. 124; People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373; City of Danville v. Hatcher, 101 Va. 523, 44 S. E. 723. Statute compelling vaccination of school children. French v. Davidson [Cal.] 77 P. 663. Sunday law prohibiting sale of meat and permitting sale of confectionery and tobacco. State v. Justus [Minn.] 98 N. W. 325. Questions of the wisdom, policy and expediency of the laws are for the legislature to determine, and not the courts. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1. It is the duty of courts, after a law has been enacted, to determine, in a proper proceeding, whether it conflicts with the fundamental law, and to construe and interpret it so as to ascertain the rights of the parties litigant, but they have no authority to consider the question of its necessity or expediency. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710. The reasonableness of a municipal ordinance is not a matter for the courts to any greater extent than it would be if a statute were under consideration. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149.

78. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785.

79. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785; Odd Fellows Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987; In re Smith [Cal.] 77 P. 180; Dodge v. Woolsey, 18 How. [U. S.] 371; Manigault v. Ward & Co., 123 F. 707; McCray v. U. S., 195 U. S. 27, 24 S. Ct. 769. Intent of legislature in abolishing city office during term cannot be inquired into. Downey v. State, 160 Ind. 578, 67 N. E. 450. Rule applies to municipal ordinances. Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 P. 970.

80. Bohmer v. Haffen, 161 N. Y. 390, 55 N. E. 1047; People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373; Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327.

81. Statute purchasing compiled statutes for use of legislature and state officers. Marsh v. Stonebraker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699.

82. Buttfield v. Stranahan, 192 U. S. 470, 24 S. Ct. 349; Manigault v. Ward, 123 F. 707; Sanders v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1165, 77 S. W. 358; Ex parte Loving, 178 Mo. 194, 77 S. W. 508; State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569; State v. Hyman [Md.] 57 A. 6; Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359. Until the contrary is shown, it will be presumed the legislature kept within the constitutional limit in the levy of taxes. Stein v. Morrison [Idaho] 75 P. 246. The public interests imperatively demand that legislative enactments should be recognized and enforced by the courts as embodying the will of the people, unless they are plainly and palpably beyond all question in violation of the fundamental law. Per Justice Harlan, in Atkin v. Kan., 191 U. S. 207, 24 S. Ct. 124, 48 Law. Ed. 207; State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569; In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463; State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657; Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359; Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982; Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 72 P. 659.

83. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1; Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358. Repugnancy to the constitution must be so clear, plain and palpable as to leave no reasonable doubt or hesitation upon the judicial mind. State v. Polk County Com'rs, 87 Minn. 325, 92 N. W. 216, 60 L. R. A. 161.

84. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488; Soper v. Lawrence Bros. Co., 98 Me. 268, 56 A. 908; State v. Ide [Wash.] 77 P. 961.

85. Ex parte Loving, 178 Mo. 194, 77 S. W. 508; Olds v. State Land Office Com'r [Mich.] 96 N. W. 508; Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982; People v. Rose, 203 Ill. 46, 67 N. E. 746.

86. Com. v. Barney, 24 Ky. L. R. 2352, 74 S. W. 181; Ex parte Loving, 178 Mo. 194, 77 S. W. 508; State v. Hyman [Md.] 57 A. 6; Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. 245, 86 N. Y. S. 49; People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373; People v. Rose, 207 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 762; In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463. See 1 Curr. L. 572, n. 86.

and both the statute and the constitution will be liberally construed with a view to sustaining legislative action.[87] A territorial income tax law is not invalid for not expressly exempting the salaries of judicial officers, since if the constitution requires their exemption, the exemption will attach as though expressly made in the law itself.[88]

A statute containing invalid provisions yields only to the extent of its repugnancy to the constitution,[89] and a part may be unconstitutional without rendering the whole statute bad, if the invalid part be so independent of the remainder that it may be eliminated without invalidating the other provisions,[90] unless the invalid portion was manifestly an inducement to the passage of the remainder.[91] The presumptions, however, favor the unconstitutionality of the remaining portions,[92] and where the unconstitutional portion is essentially and inseparably connected in substance with that which is constitutional, the whole must be rejected.[93] Where,

87. Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 72 P. 659.

88. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772.

89. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Sprague [Neb.] 95 N. W. 46; State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063; State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36. A provision in the charter of New Orleans (La. Acts 1902, No. 216, p. 445, § 22), authorizing the mayor to fill vacancies caused by the death of city officers, is unconstitutional in so far as it provides that such appointees shall hold office during the whole of the unexpired term, but it will be enforced to the extent of allowing them to hold office until a successor to the deceased officer may be elected [Const. art. 319]. Watson v. McGrath [La.] 36 So. 204.

90. State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657; Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982; Toney v. Macon, 119 Ga. 83, 46 S. E. 80; In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621; Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 845; Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172; Watson v. McGrath [La.] 36 So. 204; State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575; Com. v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790. Provision that damages for taking property be assessed by "householders," constitution requiring "freeholders." Shively v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835. An income tax law is not rendered invalid by failure to exempt a salary which by the constitution is exempt, nor by incorporating therein unconstitutional provisional remedies for the better enforcement of the law. Peacock v. Pratt [C. C. A.] 121 F. 772. Only those provisions not germane to the title need be eliminated. City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24; Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812. Adverse possession of wild lands. Soper v. Lawrence Bros. Co., 98 Me. 268, 56 A. 908. Statute providing for discharge of superintendent of prison. Corscadden v. Haswell, 88 App. Div. 158, 84 N. Y. S. 597. Where a provision of the statute for the creation of a corporation which is regarded as unconstitutional as requiring a person to give evidence against himself may be stricken from the act without impairing the general purposes thereof, the act is not unconstitutional as a whole. Section 8 of Act 1899, p. 248, c. 146, providing that failure of the corporation to answer an inquiry from the secretary of state shall be prima facie evidence that it is transacting business in the state, and has violated the provision of the act. State v. Laredo Ice Co., 96 Tex. 461, 73 S. W. 951. Statute providing for expenditure of money for public improvement, containing illegal provision for assessment on abutters. Edwards v. Bruorton, 184 Mass. 529, 69 N. E. 328, citing many cases. Statute punishing desecration of national flag. People v. Van De Carr, 91 App. Div. 20, 86 N. Y. S. 644. Exception in agricultural law in favor of farmers making vinegar. People v. Windholz, 92 App. Div. 569, 86 N. Y. S. 1015. Statute authorizing local option elections in municipalities other than those named in constitution [Art. 16, § 20]. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766. Sewer assessment act. White v. Gove, 183 Mass. 333, 67 N. E. 359. Unjust discrimination between physicians in Texas local option law. Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 F. 655. A general revenue law will not be declared unconstitutional on account of discriminative provisions which may be rejected without impairing the enforcement of the valid provisions. State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063. Wash. Laws 1899, p. 295, c. 141, § 12 (Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 1740a), relating to taxation, construed and held that the unconstitutionality of a proviso allowing deductions in certain cases does not affect the validity of the balance of the act. Nathan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 76 P. 521. Unconstitutionality of prohibition against selling unused railroad tickets does not impair remainder of statute requiring redemption of unused tickets. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047.

91. State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36; Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis & Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 72 P. 982.

92. In such case the court must be satisfied that it was the legislative intent that the valid portions stand as the law independent of the invalid parts. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Austin, 67 Kan. 208, 72 P. 850.

93. Law exempting funds due from mutual benefit societies from seizure on garnishment, etc., but excepting certain named societies from its provisions [Act May 12, 1899, Supp. Sayles' Civ. St. 1899-1900, tit. 49a]. Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661. See, also, Id. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 18. School law based on invalid classification of districts. Riccio v. Hoboken, 69 N. J. Law, 649, 55 A. 1109.

in its application to any particular contract, a statute is found to impair the obligation of contracts, it may be declared inoperative as to that contract without holding it unconstitutional in other respects.[94] Where the attempted extension of a local law over the entire state is ineffectual for defect of title, a clause in the act repealing the existing general law on the same subject will not be upheld.[95] The enactment of an invalid amendment to a law will not invalidate the whole law, though the whole act as amended is re-enacted in accordance with the constitutional provision.[96] An act invalid as an amendment of a prior act for failure to set it out may be sustained as an independent statute on the same subject.[97]

Scope of Federal and state power.—The government of the United States was formed with enumerated powers which must be broad enough to embrace the power exercised,[98] but the power of the state legislature cannot be denied unless we find in the constitution of the United States or of the state, that it is prohibited,[99] though the constitution may take from the legislature the power of legislation, by implication as well as by express prohibition.[1] Where a grant of power is given, all the means necessary to effectuate the power pass as incidents to the grant.[2] A power will be implied only when without its exercise an express duty or authority would be nugatory,[3] and a prohibition of the exercise of a power will be implied only when, looking to the language and purpose of the constitution, it is evident that without such an implication the will of the people as illustrated by a careful consideration of all its provisions cannot be given effect.[4] Acquiescence for no length of time can legalize a clear usurpation of power.[5]

Law impeding sale of patented articles and patent rights. Union County Nat. Bank v. Ozan Lumber Co., 127 F. 206. Law creating additional judges for circuit and providing for their election at a time and for a term unauthorized by the constitution. People v. Olsen, 204 Ill. 494, 68 N. E. 376. Invalid exemption held controlling. Kellyville Coal Co. v. Harrier, 207 Ill. 624, 69 N. E. 927. Law relative to county seat and providing for building court house. Board of Com'rs v. State, 161 Ind. 616, 69 N. E. 442. One part of a statute may be held void and another good only where the portions are clearly separable and susceptible of separate enforcement; but when it is apparent that the entire faulty enactment is designed to constitute a complete whole, and that one part would not have been enacted except in connection with the other, if a part is found to be bad, the entire statute must fall. Gen. St. Kan. 1901, c. 57b, relating to libel, held in conflict with section 18 of the Bill of Rights, and hence void. Hanson v. Krehbiel [Kan.] 75 P. 1041. Invalid sections of an act limiting its application to certain cities cannot be rejected and the rest sustained where the effect would be to thereby render it applicable to cities not intended to be included in the legislative scheme [Gen. St. N. J. p. 465]. In re Fagan [N. J. Law] 57 A. 469. Statute submitting issue of municipal debt with other issues foreign thereto. Cain v. Smith, 117 Ga. 902, 44 S. E. 5.

94. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

95. People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598.

96. People v. Butler St. Foundry & Iron Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349.

97. State v. Scott, 32 Wash. 279, 73 P. 365.

98. Trustees of Rutgers College v. Morgan [N. J. Law] 57 A. 250; In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1.

99. Cooley, Const. Lim. 223; Maxwell v. Goetschius, 40 N. J. Law, 383, 29 Am. Rep. 242; Trustees of Rutgers College v. Morgan [N. J. Law] 57 A. 250; Hinton v. Board of Sup'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 565; In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1; Wallace v. Reno [Nev.] 73 P. 528; In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463. The state legislature may exercise every legislative function not denied it by the constitution and not delegated by it to some other department of the state government. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327. The legislature may declare desertion of wife and children a misdemeanor. State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087, 35 So. 300.

1. It is necessarily implied that the legislature has not the power to submit to the voters questions as to incurring indebtedness, in connection with issues entirely foreign to the debt. Cain v. Smith, 117 Ga. 902, 44 S. E. 5.

2. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946; U. S. v. Morris, 125 F. 322; Levin v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 826.

3. Brown v. Galveston [Tex.] 75 S. W. 488; City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24. Power to legislate in reference to the location of county seats does not imply power to provide for and regulate the building of a court house, that being "county business" within the inhibition of Const. art. 4, § 22, prohibiting local or special laws regulating county business. Board of Com'rs v. State, 161 Ind. 616, 69 N. E. 442.

4. Lytle v. Halff, 75 Tex. 132, 12 S. W. 610; City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24.

The court cannot consider evidence aliunde, but is confined to the consideration of the law itself, and facts and circumstances surrounding it of which judicial notice can be taken.[6]

Where the words of a statute are plain, specific and unambiguous so as to call for no construction, the meaning which the words import must be conclusively presumed to be the meaning which the legislature intended.[7] A statute should be so construed that, if it can be prevented, no clause, sentence or word shall be superfluous, void, or insignificant, but every sentence and word shall, if possible, be given its ordinary meaning and acceptation.[8] The several sections of a statute must be construed together and harmonized if possible,[9] and all statutes in pari materia must be taken together and construed as if they were one enactment, and, if possible, effect given to every provision.[10] A construction will not be adopted which renders some portions meaningless, or which results in an absurdity, unless the language is so plain and unequivocal as to permit of no other interpretation,[11] and a suggested construction of a state statute which would lead to a manifest absurdity, and which has not, and is not likely to receive judicial sanction, will not be accepted by the supreme court of the United States as the basis of declaring the statute unconstitutional, when the courts of the state have given it the only construction consistent with its purposes and under which it is constitutional.[12] An election law will not be held invalid on the ground that it may be so construed as to result in the disfranchisement of electors, where such is not the natural and necessary construction.[13]

A statute copied from a similar statute of another state is presumed to be adopted with the construction it had already received.[14] The presumption, however, is not conclusive,[15] and where the same provision exists in several states, there is no presumption that the construction of any particular state was in view.[16]

One of the offices of a proviso is to qualify the generality of the body of the sentence of which it is a part, though it can have no potency to enlarge the scope or force of the enactment.[17]

The title is ordinarily no part of a statute and cannot be used to set at naught its obvious meaning;[18] or deprive it of its real and intended character;[19] it may, however, be considered as a key to the correct interpretation thereof, where the

5. Ex parte Heyman [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 349.

6. Use of school sinks in tenement houses. Tenement House Department v. Moeschen, 89 App. Div. 526, 85 N. Y. S. 704. Prohibition of burials in city and county of San Francisco. Odd Fellows Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987.
Contra: Erection of gas works. In re Smith [Cal.] 77 P. 180.

7. State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36.

8. Crozer v. People, 206 Ill. 464, 69 N. E. 489; Funkhouser v. Spahr [Va.] 46 S. E. 378.

9. State v. Nolan [Neb.] 98 N. W. 657.

10. Fisher v. Betts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 132; Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812.

11. Logan County v. Carnahan [Neb.] 95 N. W. 812.

12. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.

13. Applied to Brannock Law. Jeffrey v. State of Ohio, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 494.

14. James v. Appel, 192 U. S. 129, 24 S. Ct. 222.

15. State v. Mortensen, 26 Utah, 312, 73 P. 562, 633; Coulam v. Doull, 4 Utah, 267, 9 P. 568; Dixon v. Ricketts, 26 Utah, 215, 72 P. 947; Matthews v. Jensen, 21 Utah, 207, 61 P. 303.

16. A constitutional provision. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208.

17. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327. The effect of a proviso is to carve special exceptions only out of the enacting clause. U. S. v. Dickson, 15 Pet. [U. S.] 165; Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327.

18. Patterson v. The Eudora, 190 U. S. 169, 23 S. Ct. 821, 47 Law. Ed. 1002, citing U. S. v. Fisher, 2 Cranch [U. S.] 358, 386; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Thomas, 132 U. S. 174, 188; U. S. v. O. & C. R. Co., 164 U. S. 526, 541; Price v. Forrest, 173 U. S. 410, 427; Endlich, Interp. Stat. §§ 58, 59.

19. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373.

intent is otherwise ambiguous.[20] The compiler's headlines to a chapter of an act are no part of its title.[21] That a statute might with more propriety have been inserted in the Code of Procedure, rather than the Civil Code cannot affect its validity.[22] In considering whether the title to an act reasonably indicates its subject, the language used in the title must be liberally construed, but cannot be given a meaning directly the reverse of the usual acceptance of the words used.[23]

The punctuation of an act or its title is not controlling in construing it for the purpose of ascertaining its real meaning.[24]

A statute passed in contravention of the constitution is void, conveys no rights and binds no man, and cannot be ratified by acquiescence on the part of the state,[25] nor can any moral obligation on the part of the state arise from it.[26]

§ 4. Executive, legislative and judicial functions.[27]—The three phased division of government is coupled in Arkansas with a provision disabling one to hold offices under different departments.[28]

(§ 4) A. Executive functions.[29]—The executive power of the governor is compatible with an ex officio membership of a levee board.[30] The pardoning power is not invaded by the indeterminate sentence law of Kansas.[31] It is the exclusive province of the governor to determine whether an occasion for an extra session of the legislature exists, and his conclusion is not reviewable by the courts.[32] His acts are not subject to judicial supervision, though he may perhaps be compelled to perform a purely ministerial duty enjoined by law.[33] The governor in effect ratifies a legislative appointment by approving the bill by which it is made, since by vetoing it he might if he chose prevent its passage on the ground that it interfered with his prerogative of appointment.[34]

(§ 4) B. Legislative functions.[35]—"Acts of Parliament derogating to the power of subsequent Parliaments bind not."[36]

State legislatures have all the powers not expressly or by necessary implication withheld by the state and Federal constitutions,[37] and in the absence of constitutional restrictions, may invest municipal corporations with the police power of the state in whole or in part.[38] Instances of the exercise of legislative power are collected below.[39]

20. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. 245, 86 N. Y. S. 49.
21. State v. Graham, 34 Wash. 81, 74 P. 1058.
22. De Yoe v. Superior Court, 140 Cal. 476, 74 P. 28.
23. State v. Coffin [Idaho] 74 P. 962.
24. Quotation marks are punctuation marks. State v. Banfield, 43 Or. 287, 72 P. 1093.
25. Ellinger v. Com. [Va.] 45 S. E. 807.
26. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson [Minn.] 97 N. W. 454.
27. See 1 Curr. L. 572.
28. Const. Ark. art. 4, §§ 1, 2. Peterson v. Culpepper [Ark.] 79 S. W. 783.
29. See 1 Curr. L. 572.
30. Does not give him power not appertaining to the executive. Dehon v. Lafourche Basin Levee Board, 110 La. 767, 34 So. 770.
31. State v. Stephenson [Kan.] 76 P. 905. See 1 Curr. L. 573, n. 4.
32. State v. Fair [Wash.] 76 P. 731.
33. Issuance of commission to legally appointed judge, compelled by mandamus. Traynor v. Beckham, 25 Ky. L. R. 283, 74 S. W. 1105. Consult Mandamus, 2 Curr. L. 771. See, also, annotation, 3 Curr. L. 668, n. 77, holding that judicial acts on which executive power depends may be reviewed by certiorari. And see 1 Curr. L. 573, n. 1.
34. Thomas v. State [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1011. See 1 Curr. L. 572, n. 96 et seq.
35. See 1 Curr. L. 573.
36. Bl. Com. 90; Cooley, Const. Lim. [4th Ed.] p. 152 (*126, n. 3), and the fact that the subsequent legislature failed to require petition and notice before passing a private bill as prescribed by the prior one cannot invalidate the act, since such failure is either a declaration of independence or a repeal pro tanto. Manigault v. Ward, 123 F. 707. One legislature has no power to prohibit a subsequent legislature from the full performance of its duties in the enactment of such laws as in its judgment are demanded for the safety or general welfare of the public. Board of Education v. Phillips, 67 Kan. 549, 73 P. 97. See 1 Curr. L. 573, n. 6.
37. Trustees of Rutgers College v. Morgan [N. J. Law] 57 A. 250; Hinton v. Perry County Sup'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 565; In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1; Wallace v. Reno [Nev.] 73 P.

The legislature is necessarily invested with certain discretionary powers, with the exercise of which the courts cannot interfere so long as the legislature does not transcend constitutional limitations.[40] Among such powers is that of determining under what circumstances and to what extent the power of eminent domain may be exercised, and to provide the manner of its exercise.[41] Where laws "necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety" are exempted from the initiative and referendum of a constitution, the question of necessity is legislative.[42] The power to impose taxes is legislative,[43] and the judiciary cannot legitimately question the policy or refuse to sanction the provisions of any taxing law not inconsistent with the fundamental law of the state.[44] Likewise the imposition of a license is particularly a legislative function, not to be interfered with except in cases of clear illegality.[45] Whether a special act is necessary is a matter within the discretion of the legislature,[46] and is not affected by the fact that a general law has been passed on the same subject.[47] Nor is evidence admissible to show that an exercise of the police power of the state in favor of the health and safety of persons employed in certain work is unnecessary.[48] It is held, however, in South Carolina, that the question

528; In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463; Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327; State v. Cucullu, 110 La. 1087, 35 So. 300; Cain v. Smith, 117 Ga. 902, 44 S. E. 5.

38. Regulation of sale of liquors. City of Danville v. Hatcher, 101 Va. 523, 44 S. E. 723. An ordinance fixing the rate of hire for hacks and imposing fine and imprisonment for refusal to pay such rate is within the legislative authority of a municipality authorized to regulate such conveyances. Bray v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 250.

39. An act extending the time of a private bridge company to take tolls is within the legislative power. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114, 56 A. 589. Authority to the water commissioners of a city to borrow money for the purpose of extending the waterworks and securing it by mortgage is within the power of the legislature. Brockenbrough v. Board of Water Com'rs, 134 N. C. 1, 46 S. E. 28. A statute prescribing the procedure for changing venue cannot be successfully attacked on the ground that it authorizes one court to control or compel action by the clerk of another. Dudley v. Birmingham Ry., L. & P. Co., 139 Ala. 453, 36 So. 700. It is within the power of the legislature to give to an appeal to the superior court, by any party to a judgment, the effect of vacating that judgment as to every other party as well as himself, and transferring the cause for trial de novo. Matz v. Arick, 76 Conn. 388, 56 A. 630. Where it is provided that counties may be subdivided into districts as the legislature directs, the legislature itself may subdivide [Const. art. 6, § 15]. Grainger County v. State [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 750. Where, by the constitution, married women are vested with the power of disposing of their personal property that power cannot be taken away from them by any act of the legislature. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784.

40. Viemeister v. White, 88 App. Div. 44, 84 N. Y. S. 712.

41. Samish River Boom Co. v. Union Boom Co., 32 Wash. 586, 73 P. 670. Whether proposed use is public is a judicial question in Washington. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681. The question of the necessity, propriety or expediency of resorting to the exercise of the power of eminent domain, in the absence of constitutional or statutory provisions to the contrary, is legislative, and not judicial. Zircle v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 46 S. E. 802.

42. Kadderly v. Portland [Or.] 74 P. 710.

43. State v. Guilbert [Ohio] 71 N. E. 636; Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874.

44. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874. Under a power to levy a license tax on any business which cannot be reached by the ad valorem system, whether a business can be so reached or not is a legislative question. Gordon Bros. v. Newport News [Va.] 47 S. E. 828.

45. State v. Hammond Packing Co., 110 La. 180, 34 So. 368.

46. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777, citing Boyd v. Bryant, 35 Ark. 73, 37 Am. Rep. 6; Davis v. Gaines, 48 Ark. 371, 3 S. W. 184; State v. Sloan, 66 Ark. 579, 53 S. W. 47, 74 Am. St. Rep. 106; Smith v. Grayson County [Tex. Civ. App.] 44 S. W. 921; City of Dallas v. Western Elect. Co., 83 Tex. 244, 18 S. W. 552; City of Indianapolis v. Navin [Ind.] 47 N. E. 525, 41 L. R. A. 337; Williams v. Nashville, 89 Tenn. 487, 15 S. W. 364; Ex parte Falk, 42 Ohio St. 638; State v. Powers, 38 Ohio St. 54; Clarke v. Jack, 60 Ala. 278; People v. McFadden, 81 Cal. 489, 22 P. 851, 15 Am. St. Rep. 66.

City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24, citing Owners of Land v. People, 113 Ill. 315; Wichita v. Burleigh, 36 Kan. 34, 12 P. 332; City of St. Louis v. Shields, 62 Mo. 247; Dillon, Mun. Corp. § 48.

Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571; Weston v. Ryan [Neb.] 97 N. W. 347.

47. City of Oak Cliff v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 24, citing Smith v. Grayson County [Tex. Civ. App.] 44 S. W. 921; City of Dallas v. Western Elect. Co., 83 Tex. 244, 18 S. W. 552; City of Indianapolis v. Navin [Ind.] 47 N. E. 525, 41 L. R. A. 337.

48. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569.

is one for the courts to determine,[49] and in New York, the legislative determination as to what is a proper exercise of the police power is not final, but is subject to the supervision of the courts.[50] The rule that whether the exercise of a special power granted the legislature is necessary is one of legislative discretion applies to the exercise of such powers by municipalities when within the powers granted to them.[51]

The judicial department cannot prescribe to the legislative department limitations upon the exercise of its acknowledged powers,[52] but the courts, by granting injunctions against ticket brokers, restraining them from dealing in nontransferable excursion tickets, do not infringe upon the powers of the legislature.[53]

The legislature may delegate to a municipality legislative authority over its own municipal affairs,[54] and may invest in it all or any portion of the state's police power.[55] There is no delegation of legislative power by an act allowing parts of different municipalities to vote whether they will join to create a new town,[56] and under a constitution providing for general laws for the incorporation of cities and towns, it is not an objectionable delegation to authorize the governor to pass upon the right of any municipality to incorporate.[57] A statute requiring a court to detach territory from a city on proof of certain facts, giving the court no discretionary powers, is not a delegation,[58] but a statute providing that landowners by petition may cause lands to be removed from the limits of a city is invalid as a delegation to the petitioner.[59]

Neither the Federal statute empowering the secretary of the interior to make forestry regulations and providing punishment for their breach,[60] nor the one conferring on the postmaster general authority to prevent the use of the mails to distribute printed matter which has been declared nonmailable, is invalid as a delegation.[61]

A law providing two methods to enforce payment of taxes and permitting the county board to pursue either method does not delegate legislative power,[62] nor does a statute granting them a discretion as to the institution of any proceedings,[63] and a statute giving the county commissioners a discretion as to which tracts of land on which are unpaid taxes, they will sell for taxes, is valid.[64]

Local option liquor laws are upheld.[65]

Legislative power is not granted by an ordinance prohibiting the use of fire crackers except on permission of the mayor,[66] nor by a statute requiring the ap-

49. State v. Hammond, 66 S. C. 219, 44 S. E. 797.

50. Tenement House Dept. v. Moeschen, 84 N. Y. S. 577.

51. Gordon Bros. v. Newport News [Va.] 47 S. E. 828.

52. Gray, J., in Spencer v. Merchant, 125 U. S. 345, 8 S. Ct. 921, 31 Law. Ed. 763; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

53. Schubach v. McDonald [Mo.] 78 S. W. 1020.

54. Town council. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785. An irrigation district is a municipal corporation and as such may receive a delegation of power with respect to the purposes of its organization. Const. art. 11, § 13 prohibits delegation of public powers to private individuals. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist. [Cal.] 77 P. 937.

55. City of Danville v. Hatcher, 101 Va. 523, 44 S. E. 723; Bray v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 250.

56. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785.

57. Const. Miss. § 88. City of Jackson v. Whiting [Miss.] 36 So. 611.

58. Town of Edgewater v. Liebhardt [Colo.] 76 P. 366.

59. City of Hutchinson v. Leimbach [Kan.] 74 P. 598.

60. Dent v. U. S. [Ariz.] 76 P. 455; Dastervignes v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 30.

61. Missouri Drug Co. v. Wyman, 129 F. 623.

62. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

63. Picton v. Cass County [N. D.] 100 N. W. 711.

64. Baker v. Atchison County Com'rs, 67 Kan. 527, 73 P. 70.

65. In re O'Brien [Mont.] 75 P. 196; In re McGonnell's License [Pa.] 58 A. 615.

66. City of Centralia v. Smitt [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 488.

proval of the executive council of the plan of building and loan associations before granting them a license.[67] The barber's license law is not invalid for failure to prescribe the necessary qualifications for license and leaving them to be determined by the examiners.[68] An excise board does not derive its powers by delegation from the council of a city by reason of the fact that the council is empowered to determine whether or not such a board is necessary.[69]

(§ 4) C. Judicial functions.[70]—Judicial duties may not be imposed upon nonjudicial officers,[71] nor nonjudicial duties on the judiciary.[72]

Judicial powers are not conferred on nonjudicial officers by a statute for licensing dentists that requires applicants to furnish the board satisfactory evidence of graduation from a reputable school,[73] nor by one authorizing the county auditor to assess omitted personal property after hearing,[74] nor by an act conferring on the representatives of a political party exclusive jurisdiction to determine factional disputes within the party,[75] nor one conferring the powers of a justice of the 67. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

68. State v. Briggs [Or.] 77 P. 750.

69. Schwarz v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 394.

70. See 1 Curr. L. 574.

71. Determination of right of Chinese aliens to enter U. S. In re Sing Tuck, 126 F. 386. A statute providing for the purchase by a city of a private lighting plant and for the appointment of a commission to carry out the scheme by appraisal of the property, etc., is not invalid as conferring judicial powers on the commission, since they are empowered only to do what the statute directs and are not a court. Norwich Gas & Elec. Co. v. Norwich, 76 Conn. 565, 57 A. 746. Statute providing for board to audit accounts of and adjudication of claims against disorganized county confers judicial powers, and is not validated by provision for review by courts. Fitch v. Board of Auditors of Claims [Mich.] 94 N. W. 952. Delegation of power to all officers empowered to administer oaths, to punish for contempt in not answering, refusing to be sworn, etc., is invalid. Burns v. Superior Court of San Francisco, 140 Cal. 1, 73 P. 597. The coroner is not a judicial officer in Idaho. In re Sly [Idaho] 76 P. 766. The board of aldermen of a city, while sitting on the trial of charges preferred against the mayor, is not a court, but an administrative body. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

72. Counting names to local option petition. Board of Sup'rs of Election v. Todd, 97 Md. 247, 54 A. 963. Detaching territory from a city. Town of Edgewater v. Liebhardt [Colo.] 76 P. 366. Statute placing care of court house, etc., in crier of court. Prince George's County Com'rs v. Mitchell, 97 Md. 330, 55 A. 673.

NOTE. An act delegating to courts or judges the power of making appointments to office is valid if the power to appoint or provide an appointing power is vested in the legislature, and if nonjudicial powers are not conferred on the court as a judicial body: It is said that the power of appointing or electing to office does not necessarily and ordinarily belong to either the executive, legislative or judicial department. In the absence of any constitutional provision, the legislature may control it as a part of the law making power and may delegate it to any person or persons whom it may choose. If the power has been committed to the executive, it then becomes an executive function. If to the legislature, it is legislative, and if "to any member or members of the judiciary," then it is "a judicial function or at least the function of a judge." See note to People v. Freeman [Cal.] 13 Am. St. Rep. 122, 130. In State v. Barker, 116 Iowa, 96, 89 N. W. 202, 93 Am. St. Rep. 222, the exact question arose under a law authorizing the district court to appoint trustees for city waterworks in certain classes of municipalities. The act in question conferred the appointing power upon the "district court," which is a constitutional court. Deemer, J., in an extended opinion, collects the cases supporting the proposition that nonjudicial powers cannot be conferred upon a constitutional court, and cites numerous instances of such powers. It was held accordingly that "the appointment of trustees to manage and control a system of waterworks belonging to a municipal corporation in advance of litigation or of any dispute concerning their management or control is * * * not a judicial function." In the note to State v. Barker [Iowa] 93 Am. St. Rep. 235, is cited State v. Hocker, 39 Fla. 477, 63 Am. St. Rep. 174, wherein a statute authorizing the supreme court to appoint a board of examiners to grant certificates for admission to the bar was declared unconstitutional.

The power of the judicial branch to make appointments has been generally upheld but is denied by some of the courts which hold it to be executive. 6 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] 1062.

It is suggested that the cases may be grouped thus: (1) Those where appointing power is not regarded as exclusively legislative, executive, or judicial. (2) Those where it is legislative in which class power of appointment may in a limited degree be delegated to "judges" but not to "courts." (3) Those where the power is executive in which case judicial appointment cannot be authorized. [Editor.]

73. Ex parte Whitely [Cal.] 77 P. 879.

74. Clark v. Horn, 122 Iowa, 375, 98 N. W. 148.

75. People v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 74 P. 896; Allen v. Burrow [Kan.] 77 P. 555.

peace on town clerks;[76] nor by a statute providing that town councils shall by ordinance provide a substitute police judge,[77] nor by a statute authorizing proof of a bill of exceptions by the affidavits of bystanders.[78] A statute providing for refusal of a liquor license, where a remonstrance signed by a majority of the voters of the township is presented, is not objectionable as conferring judicial power on the citizens,[79] and a statute providing a special tribunal for the settlement of disputes regarding nominations for public office and making its decisions final is not invalid as granting judicial powers to executive officers, or as impairing the original jurisdiction of the supreme court.[80] A statute providing that a probate judge cannot commit one to an insane asylum without the certificate of two reputable physicians, merely establishes a rule of evidence, and is not invalid for making the order of the court depend on the action of nonjundicial persons.[81]

Nonjudicial functions are not imposed upon a court by a statute authorizing the appointment by a justice of the peace of a person to take charge of insane persons committed by such justice,[82] nor by a statute authorizing the district court to establish and provide for the construction of ditches to drain wet and overflowed land, where the same extends into two or more counties,[83] and power to the supreme court to reduce an excessive sentence in a criminal case and impose such as the circumstances warrant does not invest the judiciary with executive power.[84] Authority to appoint county park commissioners may be conferred upon a justice of the supreme court in New Jersey,[85] and authority to appoint excise commissioners,[86] and commissioners of equalization of taxes, may be conferred upon the judge of the court of common pleas.[87] The New Jersey act for the protection of railway crossings is not invalid as conferring upon the judiciary powers belonging exclusively to the legislature.[88]

The legislature may not interfere in litigation before the courts,[89] but a statute validating previous contracts, executed without certain statutory formalities, is not an invasion,[90] and the legislature may authorize a county to pay a demand not legally enforceable, but for which it has received a valuable consideration, and which in good conscience it ought to pay, although the supreme court has enjoined its payment without deciding it to be illegal.[91] A statute requiring that all proceedings relative to an assessment for a local improvement be taken 76. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whiting, 161 Ind. 228, 68 N. E. 266.

77. Town of Grayson v. Bagby, 25 Ky. L. R. 44, 74 S. W. 659.

78. Sand. & H. Dig. § 5849. Boone v. Goodlett, 71 Ark. 577, 76 S. W. 1059.

79. Hoop v. Affleck [Ind.] 70 N. E. 978.

80. Allen v. Burrow [Kan.] 77 P. 555.

81. Grinky v. Durfee [Mich.] 100 N. W. 171.

82. Board of Com'rs of Madison County v. Moore, 161 Ind. 426, 68 N. E. 905.

83. State v. Crosby [Minn.] 99 N. W. 636.

84. Palmer v. State [Neb.] 97 N. W. 235.

85. Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders, 69 N. J. Law, 291, 55 A. 310.

86. Schwarz v. Dover [N. J. Law] 57 A. 394.

87. New Jersey Zinc Co. v. Sussex County Board [N. J. Law] 56 A. 138.

88. Exkert v. Perth Amboy & W. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 438.

89. Act of April, 1904, relieving county treasurers, was not a legislative interference with a judgment of a court. State v. Gibson, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 433. A statute imposing additional duties upon grade crossing commissioners previously appointed by the court is not an interference in judicial proceedings. Lancy v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 302. A statute confirming a report of grade crossing commissioners and substituting another procedure after confirmation for the one previously prescribed is not the exercise of judicial functions by the legislature. Providence, etc., Steamboat Co. v. Fall River, 183 Mass. 535, 67 N. E. 647.

90. Steger v. Traveling Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 208 Ill. 236, 70 N. E. 236; State v. Gunn [Minn.] 100 N. W. 97. The legislature has power to validate an issue of bonds invalid because of the omission of a duty that could have been omitted in the original enabling act, notwithstanding a previous adjudication of invalidity on that ground. Givens v. Hillsborough County [Fla.] 35 So. 88.

91. Act of April, 1904, authorizing payment for collecting forfeited taxes. State v. Gibson, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 221.

in vacation, except the hearing of exceptions and entry of judgment, does not violate the provision vesting judicial power.[92]

The constitutional powers of the courts are not invaded by a statute which overrules motions for new trials, unless acted upon at the same term at which made,[93] nor by one limiting the defenses that may be made to a tax sale,[94] nor by a statute forbidding divorced persons to remarry within a limited time, and providing that a decree shall not be absolutely effective for a certain period,[95] nor by statutes regulating the right to change of venue,[96] and providing for the disqualification of judges on filing an affidavit.[97] That jurisdiction in equity cases is conferred on certain courts by the constitution does not deprive the legislature of power to regulate the practice in such courts of granting preventive relief, including injunctions.[98] The indeterminate sentence law of Kansas is valid,[99] and a statute fixing a minimum but no maximum fine for an offense is not an encroachment on the judiciary by withdrawing from it power to punish the offense according to circumstances.[1] The legislature may say what is prima facie evidence of a fact, but it is not within its power to declare what shall be conclusive evidence, as that would be an invasion of the province of the judiciary.[2] The anti-trust law of Illinois, requiring answers to questions relative to its violation. and providing a penalty for failure to comply, is not an assumption of judicial power.[3] The recommendation of persons qualified for admission to the bar is a power of the supreme court of New Jersey, antedating the constitution and confirmed by it, and an attempted regulation thereof by the legislature is invalid.[4] A statute providing that election officers shall be confirmed by the court, and that they shall thereupon become officers of the court, subject to punishment for contempt, is valid.[5]

While the legislature has certain discretionary powers with the exercise of which the courts will not interfere,[6] there are certain other questions regarded as purely judicial, in regard to which the courts will brook no interference by the legislature; among these are whether the legislature in creating a new county has complied with the constitutional provision respecting the area and population of new counties and those from which the territory is taken,[7] and whether the discretion in apportioning senators and representatives vested in the legislature has been abused by being exercised in defiance of the constitutional limitations thereon.[8] Whether or not a proposed use of property to be taken is public is a judicial question under the constitution of Washington, which the court approaches unaffected by any presumption arising from the legislative assertion.[9] The question of what mortuary assessment rates fraternal insurance associations must adopt

92. Const. art. 6, § 1. City of St. Joseph v. Truckenmiller [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1116.

93. James v. Appel, 192 U. S. 129, 24 S. Ct. 222.

94. Downey v. People, 205 Ill. 230, 68 N. E. 807.

95. Durland v. Durland, 67 Kan. 734, 74 P. 274.

96. Dudley v. Birmingham Ry. L. & P. Co., 139 Ala. 453, 36 So. 700.

97. State v. Clancy [Mont.] 77 P. 312.

98. Wright v. Superior Court of Santa Clara County, 139 Cal. 469, 73 P. 145.

99. State v. Stephenson [Kan.] 76 P. 905.

1. $300 for liquor selling. State v. Constantine [Vt.] 56 A. 1101.

2. A statute providing that failure by a corporation to make certain reports and pay certain fees shall be prima facie evidence of nonuser and shall work a forfeiture of its franchise is not invalid as providing for legislative or administrative forfeiture of corporate franchises. People v. Rose, 207 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 762.

3. People v. Butler St. Foundry & Iron Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349.

4. In re Branch [N. J. Law] 57 A. 431.

5. Const. art. 6, § 18 gives the county court jurisdiction in certain specified matters and such other jurisdiction as may be provided by law. Sherman v. People [Ill.] 71 N. E. 618.

6. See ante, § 4B, "Legislative functions."

7. Const. § 63. Zimmerman v. Brooks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2284, 80 S. W. 443.

8. Brooks v. State [Ind.] 70 N. E. 980.

9. Const. art. 1, § 16. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681.

may be determined by the legislature, and is not necessarily one of evidence to be weighed by the courts,[10] and in Louisiana, the question of benefit vel non to particular property arising from a local improvement is legislative and not judicial.[11]

§ 5. Relative powers of Federal and state or other subordinate governments.[12]—The New York statute, as construed by the courts of that state, permitting the enforcement of liens for repairs made on canal boats in that state, infringes the exclusive admiralty jurisdiction of the Federal courts.[13]

The authority of congress over bankruptcy matters is exclusive whenever it chooses to exercise it, and the bankruptcy act of 1898 ipso facto suspended the operation of all state laws on the subject.[14]

Congress may lawfully empower the courts of the states to admit qualified aliens to citizenship, and the courts of the states may legally exercise this power without legislative authority or permission from the states which created them.[15]

The provisions of a state law cannot affect rights acquired under a patent of the United States,[16] and a state statute impeding the sale of patent rights by regulations not applied to other property is invalid.[17]

§ 6. Police power in general.[18]—The fourteenth amendment was not intended to interfere with the exercise of police power by the states,[19] since all property and personal rights are held subject to that power,[20] but neither the legislature nor a municipality can under guise of regulation arbitrarily invade

10. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies [Wash.] 77 P. 500.

11. Moody & Co. v. Spotorno, 112 La. 1008, 36 So. 836.

12. See 1 Curr. L. 576.

13. N. Y. Laws 1897, c. 418, §§ 30, 35. Perry v. Haines, 191 U. S. 17, 24 S. Ct. 8.

14. In re Hall Co., 121 F. 992.

15. Const. art. 1, § 8. Levin v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 826.

16. U. S. Consol. Seeded Raisin Co. v. Griffin & Skelley Co. [C. C. A.] 126 F. 364.

17. Negotiable paper not to be taken. Pegram v. American Alkali Co., 122 F. 1000; Union County Nat. Bank v. Ozan Lumber Co., 127 F. 207.

NOTE. Validity of a statute requiring every obligation given in consideration of the sale of a patent right to so state on its face: "The supreme court of the United States has never considered the validity or invalidity of such legislation. The decisions of other courts are not uniform. Some of them deny and others affirm the constitutionality of such statutes; the earlier adjudications being mainly of the former class, and the later ones generally of the latter class. Among the cases in which the denial is made are Ex parte Robinson, 2 Biss. 309, Fed. Cas. No. 11,932; Helm v. First Nat. Bank, 43 Ind. 167, 13 Am. Rep. 395; Hollida v. Hunt, 70 Ill. 109, 22 Am. Rep. 63; Cranson v. Smith, 37 Mich. 309, 26 Am. Rep. 514; Crittenden v. White, 23 Minn. 24, 23 Am. Rep. 676; Woollen v. Banker, 2 Flipp. 33, Fed. Cas. No. 18,030, 22 Am. Rep. 69 note. And those making the affirmative are Breckhill v. Randall, 102 Ind. 528, 1 N. E. 362, 52 Am. Rep. 695; New v. Walker, 108 Ind. 365, 9 N. E. 386, 58 Am. Rep. 40; Tod v. Wick Bros., 36 Ohio St. 370; Haskell v. Jones, 86 Pa. 173; Herdic v. Roessler, 109 N. Y. 127, 16 N. E. 198; Tilson v. Gatling, 60 Ark. 114, 29 S. W. 35; Mason v. McLeod, 57 Kan. 105, 45 P. 76, 57 Am. St. Rep. 327, 41 L. R. A. 548. If necessary, other cases of each line might be cited. Ex parte Robinson, 2 Biss. 309, Fed. Cas. No. 11,932, which stands at the head of those cases declaring legislation of this kind violative of the Federal constitution, and upon whose authority most of them seem to be rested, is believed by some courts to have been overthrown by the reasoning of the supreme court of the United States in Patterson v. Kentucky, 97 U. S. 501, 24 Law. Ed. 1115; Reeves v. Carring, 51 F. 774; Breckhill v. Randall, 102 Ind. 528, 1 N. E. 362, 52 Am. Rep. 695. But a different view of that reasoning was expressed and the doctrine of Ex parte Robinson applied, in Castle v. Hutchinson, 25 F. 394. See State v. Cook, 107 Tenn. 499, 64 S. W. 720, 62 L. R. A. 174.

18. Definition of police power. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373; Sanders v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1165, 77 S. W. 358; California Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 F. 29; Com. v. Alger, 7 Cush. [Mass.] 84; Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359. See 1 Curr. L. 576.

19. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373, citing many cases; Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359. Liquor traffic is not one of the privileges or immunities guarantied. City of Danville v. Hatcher, 101 Va. 523, 44 S. E. 723. Pool rooms and turf exchanges may be regulated, though the effect of the regulation may be to render the business unprofitable. City of Shreveport v. Schulsinger [La.] 36 So. 870.

20. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987.

City of St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876, citing State v. Addington, 12 Mo. App. 217, 77 Mo. 110; St. Louis v. Meyrose, etc., Co., 139 Mo. 560, 41 S. W. 244, 61 Am. St. Rep. 474; State v. Beattie, 16 Mo. App. 145; City of Chillicothe v. Brown, 38 Mo. App. 609.

Internal and domestic commerce are subject to the police power of the state. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621.

personal or property rights.[21] Such laws, however, are not unconstitutional because they may incidentally operate to deprive individuals of their property or its use without compensation, or interfere with their personal liberty, nor because they may give one person a monopoly of a certain business, private rights being required to yield in such cases to the public good,[22] it being of the essence of the exercise by the legislature of its police power that citizens may, for the public good, be constrained in their conduct, even in respect to matters otherwise right.[23]

The legislative determination as to what is a proper exercise of the police power is not final, but is subject to the supervision of the courts;[24] unless, however, the court can see that the regulation has no just relation to the object which it purports to carry out, and no reasonable tendency to protect the public health, safety, comfort or morals, the decision of the legislature is conclusive.[25] In determining the question, the courts will hear evidence aliunde the regulation itself,[26] but will not consider the motives that prompted its enactment.[27] If there is a doubt as to the unreasonableness of a police ordinance, the fact that the doubt exists is a sufficient reason for the court to decline to adjudge the ordinance invalid.[28] That a statute does not in terms state that the mischief sought to be remedied by it is contrary to public morals does not prevent its being sustained on that ground, since the law must be sustained unless clearly unconstitutional.[29]

Where authorized by law, business licenses may be revoked by the municipality granting them, whenever there is reason to believe that the business is a nuisance, a menace to public health, or detrimental to peace or morals;[30] but a state or municipality cannot impose a license tax under cloak of its police power that is so far in excess of the cost of any reasonable inspection as to amount to a source of revenue.[31]

A statute modifying the rule of fellow servant as applied to the servants of railroad companies is within the police power of the state,[32] and statutes prescribing the time and manner of paying laborers are upheld in Kentucky[33] and Indiana,[34] but not in Missouri.[35]

21. And when such regulations are called in question, the test should be whether they have some relation to health and safety, and whether such is in fact the end sought to be attained. California Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works of San Francisco [C. C. A.] 126 F. 29; People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373; Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327. See 1 Curr. L. 576, n. 60.

22. Ordinance creating garbage monopoly. California Reduction Co. v. Sanitary Reduction Works [C. C. A.] 126 F. 29. Anti-sweat shop law of Maryland. State v. Hyman [Md.] 57 A. 6. A police regulation, obviously intended as such, and not operating unreasonably beyond the occasions of its enactment, is not invalid because it may affect incidentally the exercise of some right guarantied by the constitution. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149.

23. Control over primary elections. Hopper v. Stack, 69 N. J. Law, 562, 56 A. 1.

24. Prohibition of use of school sinks in tenement houses. Tenement House Department v. Moeschen, 84 N. Y. S. 577; Id., 89 App. Div. 526, 85 N. Y. S. 704. Use of docked horses. Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359. Prohibition of gas works in prescribed district. In re Smith [Cal.] 77 P. 180.

25. Regulation prohibiting burials within city and county of San Francisco. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987. Regulation of building and loan associations. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

26, 27. In re Smith [Cal.] 77 P. 180.

28. In re Wilshire, 103 F. 620; Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987; Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359.

29. Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359.

30. Wallace v. Reno [Nev.] 73 P. 528.

31. Postal Teleg. Cable Co. v. Taylor, 192 U. S. 64, 24 S. Ct. 208. A showing that the cost of inspection is much less than the amount authorized to be charged is insufficient to establish the invalidity of the statute on such ground. Territory v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 74.

32. Froelich v. Toledo & O. C. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359.

Contra, the same statute. Kane v. Erie R. Co., 128 F. 474.

33. A statute providing that laborers in mines be paid on certain days is a proper exercise of the police power. Commonwealth v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2027, 79 S. W. 287.

34. A statute prohibiting the assignment of wages to become due to employes, and in-

Game laws[36] and laws to protect and promote the shellfish industry, are proper.[37] Building and loan associations may be regulated,[38] but the occupation of horseshoeing may not,[39] and a statute authorizing a public officer to bring suit to settle private rights to the use of water is unauthorized.[40] Taking possession by a special administrator of a living person's property on the supposition that he is dead is not a valid exercise of the police power,[41] neither is the building of a dock at the expense of an abutting owner,[42] nor a statute restricting the fees of employment agents.[43]

Public health[44] may be conserved by statutes and ordinances regulating the practice of certain professions, trades, and occupations having a direct relation thereto, such as dentistry[45] and plumbing.[46] Regulations of dairies,[47] cemeteries,[48] gas works,[49] smoke[50] and weeds,[51] are sustained.[52] A requirement that children shall be vaccinated as a condition of attending the public schools is proper.[53] Statutes limiting the hours of labor in certain occupations not considered healthful are upheld,[54] as are statutes prohibiting the manufacture of clothing under certain unsanitary conditions.[55] The pollution by riparian owners of streams used for domestic water supply may be prohibited,[56] and a statute requiring physicians to keep without compensation a registry of births and deaths at validating any agreement whereby an employer is relieved from weekly paying to his employe his full wages, is within the police power. International Text Book Co. v. Weissinger, 160 Ind. 349, 65 N. E. 521.

35. A statute prohibiting payment of wages in anything but lawful money or tokens redeemable in money cannot be sustained as an exercise of the police power. State v. Missouri Tie & Timber Co. [Mo.] 80 S. W. 933.

36. Hornbeke v. White [Colo. App.] 76 P. 926.

37. Brooks v. Tripp, 135 N. C. 159, 47 S. E. 401.

38. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

39. People v. Beattie, 89 N. Y. S. 193.

40. Bear Lake County v. Budge [Idaho] 75 P. 614.

41. Clapp v. Houg [N. D.] 98 N. W. 710. Such a proceeding has been enacted and applied in Indiana, but its validity seems to have been unquestioned. See Romy v. State [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 998.

42. Lathrop v. Racine, 119 Wis. 461, 97 N. W. 192.

43. Ex parte Dickey [Cal.] 77 P. 924.

44. See 1 Curr. L. 577, n. 69.

45. State v. Chapman, 69 N. J. Law, 464, 55 A. 94. Legislation prescribing regulations under which only those persons possessing proper qualifications shall be admitted to the practice of any profession or calling requiring special skill is a valid exercise of the police power of the state for the protection of the public against unskillful and incompetent persons. Dentists. Ex parte Whitley [Cal.] 77 P. 879.

46. State v. Justus, 90 Minn. 474, 97 N. W. 124.

47. A prohibition of unauthorized dairies within city limits is a proper police regulation. Fischer v. St. Louis, 194 U. S. 361, 24 S. Ct. 673.

48. A prohibition of future burials in a city, even in established cemeteries, may be valid. Odd Fellows' Cemetery Ass'n v. San Francisco, 140 Cal. 226, 73 P. 987.

49. Ordinance limiting the district within which gas works may be erected is proper. Dobbins v. Los Angeles, 139 Cal. 179, 72 P. 970. In California, the manufacture of gas may be regulated, but not prohibited, the constitution giving gas companies the right to use streets [Const. art. 11, § 19]. In re Smith [Cal.] 77 P. 180.

50. Regulations of the smoke nuisance in cities are valid. City of St. Paul v. Haugbro [Minn.] 100 N. W. 470.

51. A statute declaring certain noxious weeds nuisances and compelling their destruction is a valid exercise. State v. Boehm [Minn.] 100 N. W. 95. Constitutional and statutory powers to abate and prevent nuisances authorize a city to provide by ordinance against allowing growth of weeds on city lots. City of St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876.

52. NOTE. Power to regulate the sale of food products: The following may be stated as the general propositions governing this subject: First, the legislature cannot forbid or wholly prevent the sale of a wholesome article of food. Second, legislation intended and reasonably adapted to prevent an article being manufactured in imitation or semblance of a well known article in common use, and thus imposing upon consumers or purchasers, is valid. Third, in the interest of public health the legislature may declare articles of food, not complying with a specified standard, unwholesome, and forbid their sale. People v. Marx, 99 N. Y. 377, 2 N. E. 29, 52 Am. Rep. 34; People v. Arensberg, 105 N. Y. 123, 11 N. E. 277, 59 Am. Rep. 483; People v. Kilber, 106 N. Y. 321, 12 N. E. 795; People v. Girard, 145 N. Y. 105, 39 N. E. 823. See People v. Biesecker, 169 N. Y. 53, 61 N. E. 990, 57 L. R. A. 178.

53. Viemeister v. White, 88 App. Div. 44, 84 N. Y. S. 712; French v. Davidson [Cal.] 77 P. 663.

which they have attended professionally, and deposit a copy thereof is within the police power.[57] A statute prohibiting the sale of bottles and other empty packages without consent of the owner is not within the police power, being designed for the protection of the owner rather than the public.[56]

Public safety is a proper ground for the exercise of the state's police power, either by the legislature or municipalities, and so long as the regulations have a fair tendency to accomplish a useful purpose, they will be sustained.[59] Ordinances prohibiting the explosion of fire crackers,[60] and compelling the removal or sanding of ice and snow on sidewalks, are proper,[61] but the police power of a city will not extend to the prohibition of the erection of a brick church with a slate roof therein, merely because the people erecting it, being negroes, are likely to conduct their services in a noisy manner.[62] Railroads may be required to fence their right of way,[63] and to carry streets over their tracks by bridges.[64] As a measure conducive to public safety, the "stealing" or "attempting to steal" rides on railroad trains may be made penal, irrespective of whether a "ride" may be the subject of larceny or not.[65] Reasonable regulation of bill boards is proper in New Jersey,[66] but in New York, their erection on unimproved or vacant land cannot be prohibited.[67] In states where irrigation is necessary, the legislature has a right to enact laws to prevent the waste of water so long as vested rights are upheld.[68] Primary elections may be regulated.[69] A prohibition against selling articles of provisions temporarily, while a fair is in progress within one mile thereof without consent of the managers, is within the police power.[70]

Public morals.—There is no question but that the state in the exercise of its police powers can absolutely or conditionally, as it sees fit, prohibit the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors within its territory,[71] or throw around the 54. Mines, smelters and ore mills. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1. Persons employed beneath ground in mines. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569. Bakery employes. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373, citing many cases. For a note on the power of the state to limit the hours of labor, see 65 L. R. A. 33.

55. The sweat-shop statute of Maryland has a substantial relation to the public health, so as to be within the scope of the police power. State v. Hyman [Md.] 57 A. 6.

56. Sprague v. Dorr [Mass.] 69 N. E. 344.

57. Acts 1873-4, p. 13, c. 134. Commonwealth v. McConnell, 25 Ky. L. R. 552, 76 S. W. 41.

58. Horwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938.
Contra: Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790.

59. Statute prescribing no test of efficiency, arbitrarily says who may and who may not labor at a given employment, fails to provide for safety of the public and unequally affects property of same kind and use, is unconstitutional. C., etc., R. Co. v. State, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 126.

60. City of Centralia v. Smith [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 488.

61. State v. McMahon, 76 Conn. 97, 55 A. 591.

62. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen of Frankfort, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

63. Sanger v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 750. A statute requiring railroad companies to fence their rights of way, and allowing the adjoining owner after notice to fence and recover from the company its cost and reasonable attorney's fees, is within the police power. Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Salmon, 161 Ind. 131, 67 N. E. 918.

64. A statute empowering a city to require railroad companies to bridge their tracks at street crossings, being referable to the police power, applies to railroads whose tracks were constructed before the street was built or the city incorporated, and to the case of tracks laid in a cut 20 feet below the grade of the crossing street. City of Harriman v. Southern R. Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 213.

65. Pressley v. State, 118 Ga. 315, 45 S. E. 395.

66. City of Passaic v. Paterson Bill Posting, A. & S. Painting Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 343; Bill Posting Sign Co. v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 342.

67. People v. Green, 85 App. Div. 400, 83 N. Y. S. 460.

68. Nash v. Clark [Utah] 75 P. 371.

69. Hopper v. Stack, 69 N. J. Law, 562, 56 A. 1.

70. State v. Reynolds [Conn.] 58 A. 755.

71. Bowman v. State, 38 Tex. Cr. R. 14, 40 S. W. 796, 41 S. W. 635; Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766; Mugler v. Kan., 123 U. S. 623, 8 S. Ct. 273; Rippey v. Tex., 193 U. S. 504, 24 S. Ct. 516; August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 F. 655; City of Danville v. Hatcher, 101 Va. 523, 44 S. E. 723.

NOTE. Police power; acts of discretion: The plaintiff applied for a writ of mandamus to compel the city council of New Orleans to give him a barroom license. The council refused the license on the ground that there were already enough barrooms in the neighborhood. Held, a writ of mandamus should traffic such safeguards of the morals of the people as to the state may seem best.[72] Likewise, pool rooms and turf exchanges may be regulated.[73] Regulations facilitating the detection of larceny,[74] and impeding its commission,[75] and the commission of frauds, are proper.[76] A law may be valid as an inspection law, though its purpose is not to improve the quality of the goods, but to aid in the detection and punishment of crime or fraud against the industry,[77] and though interstate shipments are to be inspected.[78] Anti-trading stamp laws have been held invalid as an exercise of the police power on the ground that they prohibit schemes in the nature of a lottery, there being no element of chance in the trading stamp scheme,[79] neither is it valid on the ground that the scheme is unlawful, as demoralizing to legitimate business.[80] A statute prohibiting the mutilation of the national flag is a proper exercise,[81] and a statute prohibiting the use of unregistered docked horses is valid, though it permits the use of those registered within 90 days after the passage of the act.[82]

§ 7. Liberty of contract and right of property.[83]—The liberty guarantied by the constitution is not restricted to mere freedom from imprisonment, but embraces religious, civil, political and personal rights, including the right of each citizen to purchase, hold and sell property in the same manner and to the same be issued, for the refusal of the license is an arbitrary and unjust exercise of the police power. State v. New Orleans [La.] 36 So. 999.

It lies within the police power of a state to regulate the liquor traffic, even to prohibiting it altogether. Crowley v. Christensen, 137 U. S. 86. In the absence of express legislative authority, the licensing board is vested with no discretion and so must issue a license to anyone complying with the statutory requirements. City of Rome v. Duke, 19 Ga. 93; Henry v. Barton, 107 Cal. 535. Where discretion is granted by the legislature, however, it cannot be arbitrarily exercised. Appeal of Kelminski, 164 Pa. 231. But the decision of the licensing board must be the outcome of an examination and a consideration of the relevant facts as to the requirements of the public and the suitableness of the place. United States v. Douglass, 19 D. C. 99; Perry v. Salt Lake City, 7 Utah, 143. If the board has acted in good faith, although its decision is apparently wrong, the court will not interfere. Lanck's Appeal, 2 Pa. Super. Ct. 53. While the refusal of a license to one applicant and the issuing of it to another, without a valid reason for the discrimination, is an abuse of discretion (Ex parte Levy, 43 Ark. 42, 51 Am. Rep. 550; People v. Commissioners, 4 Misc. [N. Y.] 330), a refusal on the ground that there are a sufficient number of licensed barrooms in the neighborhood is a sound exercise of discretion and a valid use of the police power (People v. Board of Excise, 16 N. Y. S. 798; Perry v. Salt Lake City, 7 Utah, 143; Hillsboro v. Smith, 110 N. C. 417; People v. Murray, 38 N. Y. S. 177).—IV. Columbia Law Rev. 511.

72. Exclusion of women from saloons. Cronin v. Adams, 192 U. S. 108, 24 S. Ct. 219. Hours of closing, and prohibition of screens. City of Danville v. Hatcher, 101 Va. 523, 44 S. E. 723.

73. City of Shreveport v. Schlusinger [La.] 36 So. 870. An ordinance prohibiting the transmission of telegraphic messages to the operators of pool rooms is a valid exercise of the police power. City of Louisville v. Wehmoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 1924, 79 S. W. 201.

74. A police regulation, the effect of the enforcement of which is to require a junk dealer to record and report to the police the purchase of a sheet of copper, a metal bell, a water spigot, a lead pipe, and a gas jet, for all of which he paid 28 cents. is not unreasonable on its face, but it is competent for a dealer charged with violating its provisions to show its unreasonableness. Ullman v. District of Columbia. 21 App. D. C. 241. Mere assertion by the accused that it is impossible to keep a record of such articles is insufficient to show that the regulation was unreasonable. Id.

75. A statute making it a crime to transport seed cotton by night in a certain county is valid. Jenkins v. State, 119 Ga. 430, 46 S. E. 629.

76. A statute making sales of stocks of goods by merchants not in the usual course of trade fraudulent where not surrounded by certain formalities is not a proper exercise of the police power. Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22.

Contra: Walp v. Mooar, 76 Conn. 515, 57 A. 277; Squire & Co. v. Tellier [Mass.] 69 N. E. 312; Miller v. Crawford [Ohio] 71 N. E. 631.

77, 78. Laws 1901, p. 96, c. 45, providing for the inspection of the hides of slaughtered animals. Territory v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 74. Laws 1901, p. 96, c. 45, requiring the hides of slaughtered animals to be kept 30 days for inspection, for which a charge of 10 cents a hide is required to be paid by the owner, is a valid exercise of the police power. Id.

79. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983. See, also, Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327.

80. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983. Laws 1899, p. 298, c. 60, §§ 1, 2. State v. Ramseyer [N. H.] 58 A. 958.

81. People v. Van De Carr, 91 App. Div. 20, 86 N. Y. S. 644.

82. Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 577.

extent as every other citizen.[84] Liberty of contract cannot be arbitrarily invaded. Thus a statute that attempts to define a sale of liquor and fix its locus regardless of the known rules of law is beyond the legislative power,[85] and the Iowa statute prohibiting fire insurance companies doing business in the state from agreeing with each other as to rates, etc., on pain of forfeiture of their license, is invalid;[86] but a similar statute of South Dakota was held by the Federal court of that circuit to be unimpeachable by a foreign company because, having the power to refuse a foreign company license for any or no reason, the company could not question the reason.[87] Statutes limiting public officers and contractors doing public work to the employment of citizens,[88] providing for the payment of laborers in lawful money only,[89] making it unlawful to discharge an employe for membership in a labor union,[90] and restricting the fees chargeable by employment agents are invalid as an undue interference with the right of private contract;[91] but a statute prohibiting the assignment of future wages and invalidating contracts, whereby employers are relieved from weekly payments in full, is not an unreasonable restraint upon the liberty of the citizen,[92] and the employment contracts of sailors are exceptional, and an act of congress nullifying advance payments to seamen on account of wages to be earned does not interfere with the right of contract guar-

84. Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22.

85. James v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 951.

86. Code, § 1754. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 F. 121. Of a similar statute in South Dakota. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Perkins, 125 F. 502.

87. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Perkins, 125 F. 502.

88. City of Chicago v. Hulbert, 205 Ill. 346, 68 N. E. 786.

NOTE. Right of legislature to fix by statute compensation which a city must pay for labor or other service: Cases collated by Dowling, J.: The liberty to contract, subject only to such limitations as may be imposed by the legislature in the legitimate exercise of the police power for the public welfare is not only secured by the constitution of nearly every state, but is undoubtedly within the protection of the Federal constitution and covered by the 14th amendment thereof [U. S. Const. art. 14, § 1]. People v. Marx, 99 N. Y. 377, 2 N. E. 29. 52 Am. Rep. 34; Hooper v. California, 155 U. S. 648, 662, 15 S. Ct. 207, 39 Law. Ed. 297, 303; Bailey v. People, 190 Ill. 28, 60 N. E. 98, 83 Am. St. Rep. 116, 54 L. R. A. 838; Kuhn v. Detroit, 70 Mich. 537, 38 N. W. 470; People v. Rosenberg, 138 N. Y. 410, 416, 34 N. E. 285; People v. Coler, 166 N. Y. 1, 21, 59 N. E. 716, 52 L. R. A. 814; Palmer v. Tingle, 55 Ohio St. 423, 45 N. E. 313. Corporations both private and public are entitled to the benefit of this provision for the preservation and protection of their right to make contracts affecting their local affairs. In re Parrott, 6 Sawy. 349, 1 F. 481; Butchers' Union, etc., Co. v. Crescent City, etc., Co., 111 U. S. 746, 764, 4 S. Ct. 652, 28 Law. Ed. 585, 589; Blythe v. State, 4 Ind. 525; Howard County v. Pollard, 153 Ind. 371, 55 N. E. 87; Smyth v. Ames, 169 U. S. 466, 18 S. Ct. 418, 42 Law. Ed. 819. If the legislature has the right to fix the minimum rate of wages to be paid for common labor, then it has the power to fix the maximum rate. And if it can regulate the price of labor, it may also regulate the prices of flour, fuel, merchandise and land. But these are powers which have never been conceded to the legislature, and their exercise by the state would be utterly inconsistent with our ideas of civil liberty. Among the most odious and oppressive laws ever enacted by the English parliament, in the worst of times, were the statutes of labor of Hen. VI. and Edw. III. These enactments fixed a maximum rate of wages for the laboring man, prohibited him from seeking employment outside of his own county, required him to work for the first employer who demanded his services, and punished every violation of the statute with severe penalties. In the very nature and constitution of things, legislation which interferes with the operation of natural and economic law defeats its own object, and furnishes to those whom it professes to favor few of the advantages expected from its provisions. Statutes attempting to regulate such wages have been before the courts of many states and in nearly every instance have been held unconstitutional. People v. Coler, 166 N. Y. 1, 59 N. E. 716, 82 Am. St. Rep. 605, 52 L. R. A. 841; State v. Norton, 5 Ohio N. P. 183; Commonwealth v. Perry, 155 Mass. 117, 28 N. E. 1126, 31 Am. St. Rep. 533, 14 L. R. A. 325; Ramsey v. People, 142 Ill. 380, 32 N. E. 364, 17 L. R. A. 853; Jones v. Great Southern Fireproof Hotel Co., 79 F. 477; State v. Julaw, 129 Mo. 163, 31 S. W. 781, 50 Am. St. Rep. 443, 29 L. R. A. 257; Shaver v. Pennsylvania Co., 71 F. 931; Atkins v. Randolph, 31 Vt. 237; Palmer v. Tingle, 55 Ohio St. 423, 45 N. E. 313; Cleveland v. Clements Bros. Constr. Co., 67 Ohio St. 197, 65 N. E. 885, 93 Am. St. Rep. 670, 59 L. R. A. 775. See Street v. Varney Electrical Supply Co., 160 Ind. 338, 66 N. E. 895, 61 L. R. A. 154, 160.

89. Kelleyville Coal Co. v. Harrier, 207 Ill. 624, 69 N. E. 927; State v. Missouri Tie & Timber Co. [Mo.] 80 S. W. 933.

90. Coffeyville Vitrified Brick & Tile Co. v. Perry [Kan.] 76 P. 848.

91. Ex parte Dickey [Cal.] 77 P. 924.

92. International Text Book Co. v. Weissinger, 160 Ind. 349, 65 N. E. 521.

anteed by the fourteenth amendment.[93] An act making the breach of labor contracts or leases a penal offense is unconstitutional.[94] Liberty of contract is not invaded by a statute limiting the hours bakers shall work.[95] Whether the right of contract is infringed by a statute prohibiting the offer of real property for sale without written authority is undetermined in New York,[96] and the cases conflict on the validity of a statute invalidating as to creditors, sales of stocks of goods made otherwise than in due course of trade, unless conforming to certain regulations.[97] The constitutional guaranty of liberty of contract is not infringed by the enforcement of the Federal anti-trust act of July 2, 1890,[98] nor the anti-trust law of Kansas.[99] Liberty of contract is not interfered with by a mechanic's lien statute, giving those who furnish the contractor a lien regardless of the state of his account with the owner,[1] especially where he does not comply with the statute in making his contract,[2] and a statute prescribing a form of contract which must be used by mechanics and builders to entitle them and the property owners to the benefits of the act, but which does not prohibit them from using any other form, is valid;[3] but a statute requiring all who contract about erecting buildings to secure their contracts by bonds to enure to the benefit of all who furnish materials to be used in the building is unreasonable.[4]

Right of property[5] is not violated by an ordinance prohibiting the growth of noxious weeds on one's city lots,[6] nor by an ordinance requiring a garbage contract to be let, and forbidding all others but the contractor from transporting garbage through the streets,[7] nor by a statute making it unlawful to have in possession property used for gambling,[8] nor by a law declaring a spite fence a nuisance,[9] nor by a rule prohibiting riparian owners from polluting streams,[10] nor by a law prohibiting the use of unregistered docked horses,[11] nor by a statute requiring that the carcasses of calves shipped within the state be tagged.[12] A railroad company is not deprived of its right reasonably to control and manage its property by a state statute requiring it to establish stations on its line, where the state commission designates,[13] and a statute compelling every railroad to carry passengers between points on its line for a single fare is a proper exercise of the police power, and not invalid as tending to impair the salability of the railroad property or diminish its business.[14] The New Jersey statute regulating the practice of dentistry and prohibiting unlicensed persons is a reasonable regulation and does

93. Peterson v. Eudora, 190 U. S. 169, 23 S. Ct. 821, 47 Law. Ed. 1002.

94. Violates the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States, and also the constitution of Alabama. Construing and holding Acts 1900-01, p. 1208, unconstitutional. Toney v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 332, citing Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671.

95. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373.

96. Pen. Code, § 640d. Infringed. Cody v. Dempsey, 86 App. Div. 335, 13 Ann. Cas. 322, 83 N. Y. S. 899; Grossman v. Caminez, 79 App. Div. 15, 79 N. Y. S. 900.

Contra: Charles v. Arthur, 84 N. Y. S. 284; Whiteley v. Terry, 83 App. Div. 197, 82 N. Y. S. 89. See 1 Curr. L. 578, n. 83.

97. Valid. Squire & Co. v. Tellier [Mass.] 69 N. E. 312. See, also, Walp v. Mooar, 76 Conn. 515, 57 A. 277.

Contra: Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22; Miller v. Crawford [Ohio] 71 N. E. 631.

98. Northern Securities Co. v. U. S., 193 U. S. 197, 24 S. Ct. 436.

99. State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.

1. Ohio statute. Great Southern Fire Proof Hotel Co. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 532, 24 S. Ct. 576.

2, 3. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb [Colo. App.] 74 P. 786.

4. San Francisco Lumber Co. v. Bibb, 139 Cal. 192, 72 P. 964; Snell v. Bradbury, 139 Cal. 379, 73 P. 150.

5. See 1 Curr. L. 578.

6. Const. art. 2, § 4. City of St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876.

7. People v. Gardner [Mich.] 100 N. W. 126.

8. People v. Adams, 176 N. Y. 351, 68 N. E. 636.

9. Horan v. Byrnes [N. H.] 54 A. 945.

10. Sprague v. Dorr [Mass.] 69 N. E. 344.

11. Const. art. 2, § 3. Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359.

12. People v. Bishopp, 89 N. Y. S. 709.

13. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Minnesota, 193 U. S. 53, 24 S. Ct. 396.

14. Blume v. Interurban St. R. Co., 41 Misc. 171, 83 N. Y. S. 989.

not take nor destroy property, though a calling, business or profession chosen and followed is property.[15] The manufacture of artificially colored oleomargarine may be prohibited, and hence may be taxed by a free government without the violation of fundamental rights.[16] A law prohibiting the possession during the closed season of trout taken outside the state is void as depriving citizens of the rights of property and liberty guarantied by the constitution.[17] A statute prohibiting the use of trading stamps is unconstitutional, as depriving a citizen of the means of acquiring and possessing property.[18]

Private property cannot be taken for private use,[19] nor for a public and private use,[20] and any legislation authorizing the diversion to private use of property acquired for public use is void.[21] A use is public when it will promote the public interest, and tend to develop the resources of the state,[22] but the condemnation of private lands for a logging road is for a private use and cannot be authorized in Washington.[23] A railway may exercise the right of eminent domain in acquiring property necessary for the construction of a branch track to reach a private industrial enterprise, if the track is to be used by the company in furtherance of its individual business.[24]

Aliens cannot acquire land by purchase in Washington.[25]

§ 8. Freedom of speech and of the press.[26]—The clause of the Federal constitution prohibiting the abridgment of freedom of speech and the press deals with the speech of persons in the United States, and has no bearing upon the question what persons shall be allowed to enter therein,[27] whence the anarchist exclusion act is not invalid as abridging the exercise of religion or freedom of speech.[28] Neither is this guaranty violated by a statute that prohibits the distribution of written or printed hand bills in public places.[29]

§ 9. Personal and religious liberty.[30]—The thirteenth, unlike the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, operates directly upon persons as well as upon the states, and it is within the powers of congress to enact a law protecting citizens in their rights guarantied thereby against the acts of individuals, as well as of

15. State v. Chapman, 69 N. J. Law, 464, 55 A. 94.

16. McCray v. U. S., 195 U. S. 27, 24 S. Ct. 769.

17. People v. Booth & Co., 42 Misc. 321, 86 N. Y. S. 272.

18. Laws 1899, p. 298, c. 60, §§ 1, 2. State v. Ramseyer [N. H.] 58 A. 958.

19. Nash v. Clark [Utah] 75 P. 371. Const. Mo. art. 2, § 20. Statute granting power to purchase or erect lighting plant to furnish public and private consumers is valid. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868. A cemetery operated by a private corporation is not a public use. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467. An ordinance prohibiting growths of weeds on a city lot does not. City of St. Louis v. Gait [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876. A taking of land for a private road, open to the public, is not objectionable. Madera County v. Raymond Granite Co., 139 Cal. 128, 72 P. 915. Considering several sections of the constitution together, it is determined that private property shall not be taken for private use, without consent of the owner, except in cases where this power is conferred upon corporations by the general assembly, and then only upon just compensation. Boyd v. Winnsboro Granite Co., 66 S. C. 433, 45 S. E. 10. Whether the use is public or private is a judicial question in Washington. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681. Presumptions favor the determination of the legislature. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001.

20. Gaylord v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 204 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 522.

21. Sanborn v. Van Duyne, 90 Minn. 215, 96 N. W. 41.

22. Taking water to irrigate a farm is for a public use in this sense. Nash v. Clark [Utah] 75 P. 371. In Maine, the taking of private property under the mill act is sustained on the ground that such taking is an exercise of the power of eminent domain. Ingram v. Maine Water Co., 98 Me. 566, 57 A. 893.

23. Healy Lumber Co. v. Morris, 33 Wash. 490, 74 P. 681.

24. Zircle v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 45 S. E. 802.

25. Easement acquired by eminent domain is prohibited [Const. art. 2, § 33]. State v. Superior Court for Stevens County, 33 Wash. 542, 74 P. 686.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 578.

27. United States v. Williams, 126 F. 253.

28. Act Mch. 3. 1903. United States v. Williams, 126 F. 253.

29. Anderson v. State [Neb.] 96 N. W. 149.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 578.

states;[31] and the guaranty against involuntary servitude is infringed by the Alabama statute preventing laborers who have broken a contract of employment from obtaining employment elsewhere.[32] The statute providing for the arrest and summary trial of persons within the United States on affidavit that they are Chinese is unconstitutional.[33]

A statute prohibiting the use of the national flag as an advertisement for merchandise,[34] and the anti-trading stamp law of Virginia, are denounced as an invasion of personal liberty.[35]

The Texas local option law is not an interference with the religious practices of the Jews in regard to wine drinking, the prohibition being against the sale of liquors and not against the use of wine in worship,[36] and a statute making it a misdemeanor to fail to furnish medical attendance to a minor is not unconstitutional as interfering with the belief of those who rely on prayer.[37] The constitution and by-laws of a mutual benefit society, providing for forfeiture of membership for failure to remain communicants of a certain church, do not interfere with liberty of conscience or freedom of worship.[38]

"Imprisonment for debt"[39] is accomplished by the Alabama statute making it unlawful for a laborer to hire to another employer after breach of a contract of hire, or for another employer to hire such a laborer[40] but not by imprisonment under an ordinance fixing a rate of hire for hacks, etc., and imposing a fine or imprisonment for refusal to pay such rate.[41] A statute punishing as common cheats and swindlers those who obtain money or value in advance on a contract of hiring without intent to perform the service contracted for is valid.[42]

Right to choose employment.[43]—A person's business, occupation or calling is aside from the chattels or money employed therein, property, within the meaning of the law, and entitled to its protection,[44] and a person living under the Federal

31. United States v. Morris, 125 F. 322.

32. Act Mch. 1, 1901. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671. See, also, Toney v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 332.

33. Sec. 13 of the Act of Sept. 13, 1888, c. 1015, 25 Stat. 479. United States v. Coe, 128 F. 199.

34. People v. Van De Carr, 91 App. Div. 20, 86 N. Y. S. 644.

35. Young v. Commonwealth, 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327. See, also, State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983; State v. Ramseyer [N. H.] 58 A. 958.

36. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766.

37. Const. art. 1, § 3. People v. Pierson, 176 N. Y. 201, 68 N. E. 243.

NOTE. Constitutionality of statutes requiring the furnishing of medical attendance to minors: Freedom from restraint on the exercise of religion does not permit one to break the law because his unlawful acts were in the exercise of his religion, or according to the dictates of his conscience. Reynolds v. U. S., 98 U. S. 166. The peace and safety of the state involve the protection of the lives and health of its children, as well as the obedience to its laws. The law of nature, as well as the common law, devolves upon the parents the duty of caring for their young in sickness and in health, and of doing whatever may be necessary for their care, maintenance, and preservation, including medical attendance; and any omission to do this is a public wrong, which the state under its police powers may prevent. The legislature is the sovereign power of the state. It may enact laws for the maintenance of order by prescribing a punishment for those who transgress. Barker v. People, 3 Cow. [N. Y.] 686-704, 15 Am. Dec. 322; Lawton v. Steele, 119 N. Y. 226-236, 23 N. E. 878, 16 Am. St. Rep. 813, 7 L. R. A. 134; Thurlow v. Massachusetts, 5 How. [U. S.] 504-583, 12 Law. Ed. 256-291. Hence, though religious beliefs differ as to the correct mode of healing the sick, the legislature may prescribe the mode to be practiced on minors, and a court of law has nothing to do with these variances in religious beliefs, and have no power to determine which is correct. See People v. Pierson, 176 N. Y. 201, 98 Am. St. Rep. 666, 63 L. R. A. 187.

Adults: Statement by the Hon. Judge Cullen. As to an adult (except possibly in the case of a contagious disease which would affect the health of others), I think there is no power to prescribe what medical treatment he shall receive, and that he is entitled to follow his own election, whether that election be dictated by religious belief or other consideration. See concurring opinion in People v. Pierson, 176 N. Y. 201, 98 Am. St. Rep. 666, 63 L. R. A. 187.

38. Barry v. Order of the Catholic Knights, 119 Wis. 362, 96 N. W. 797.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 578.

40. Act Mch. 1, 1901. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671.

41. Bray v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 250.

42. Lamar v. State [Ga.] 47 S. E. 598.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 579.

44. Gray v. Building, Trades & Council [Minn.] 97 N. W. 663.

constitution is at liberty to adopt and follow such lawful industrial pursuits as he sees fit, and has a right to the full exercise and enjoyment of his faculties in a lawful pursuit or calling in a proper manner, subject only to such restraints as are necessary for the common welfare.[45] Under this rule, the anti-trading stamp act of Vermont is invalid,[46] and a statute providing for the licensing and examining of horseshoers is an arbitrary interference with personal liberty and private property.[47] Likewise a license tax on peddlers, exempting certain classes, the classification being founded on no reasonable distinction, is invalid,[48] but a license tax on transient merchants is upheld.[49] In Pennsylvania, a combination among workmen to prevent others from obtaining work or to prevent an employer from employing others by threats of a strike violates the letter and spirit of the Declaration of Rights.[50]

§ 10. Equal protection of laws.[51]—The fourteenth and fifteenth amendments of the Federal constitution have reference solely to actions of the state and not to any action of private individuals, though it is immaterial whether the state acts by its legislative, executive or judicial authority.[52] Whence the discriminatory execution of a valid law may invade constitutional rights,[53] and equal protection is denied a person of the African race, whenever persons of his race are for that reason excluded from the grand jury finding an indictment against him.[54] Equal protection of the laws requires that the law shall have equality of operation, but that does not mean equality of operation on persons merely as such, but on persons according to their relations.[55] The discrimination contemplated by the clause is a discrimination between persons coming within the same class,[56] and equal protection is not denied by treating different classes of persons in a different way, if it be a way not inappropriate to the class, and the class be set apart from others on reasonable grounds,[57]

45. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983.

46. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983. See, also, Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327.

47. People v. Beattie, 89 N. Y. S. 193.

48. State v. Whitcom [Wis.] 99 N. W. 468.

49. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172.

50. Erdman v. Mitchell, 207 Pa. 79, 56 A. 327.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 579.

52. United States v. Reese, 92 U. S. 214; United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U. S. 542; Virginia v. Rives, 100 U. S. 313; Ex parte Virginia, 100 U. S. 339; Civil Rights Cases, 109 U. S. 3, 3 S. Ct. 18; United States v. Harris, 106 U. S. 629, 1 S. Ct. 601; James v. Bowman, 190 U. S. 127, 23 S. Ct. 678; United States v. Morris, 125 F. 322.

53. Arbitrary refusal of building permit to negroes desiring to build church. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

54. Rogers v. Alabama, 192 U. S. 226, 24 S. Ct. 257. Failure to draw negroes on the grand and petit juries, in a county where one-fourth the population eligible is of that race, is a discrimination against a negro on trial. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 453. Merely that no negro was drawn on the grand or petit jury does not show discrimination against a negro on trial for a crime, there must be an omission to draw them because of their race. Thompson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 449.

55. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies [Wash.] 77 P. 500, citing many cases.

56. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225. See 1 Curr. L. 579, n. 5.

57. Norwich Gas & Elec. Co. v. Norwich, 76 Conn. 565, 57 A. 746; Cotting v. Kan. City Stock Yards Co., 183 U. S. 79, 111, 22 S. Ct. 30, 46 Law. Ed. 92. A statute allowing mileage to county officers at different rates in different classes of counties is not objectionable in the absence of a showing that it will result in unequal reimbursement, considering the difference in cost of travel in the respective counties. Henry v. Thurston County, 31 Wash. 638, 72 P. 488.

NOTE. Equality in laws affecting different classes: Section 1, art. 14, of the United States constitution, providing that "no state shall make or enforce any law which shall * * * deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws," does not preclude state legislation applicable only to a particular class of persons, if there be a reasonable ground for treating such class of persons differently from the general mass. That constitutional provision was so construed by the supreme court of the United States early after its adoption and the construction steadfastly adhered to up to the present time. Soon Hing v. Crawley, 113 U. S. 703, 5 S. Ct. 730, 28 Law. Ed. 1145; Barbier v. Connolly, 113 U. S. 27, 5 S. Ct. 357, 28 Law. Ed. 923; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Humes, 115 U. S. 512, 6 S. Ct. 110, 29 Law. Ed. 463; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Mackey, 127 U. S. 205, 8 S. Ct. 1161, 32 Law. Ed. 107; Bell's Gap R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 134 U. S. 232, 10 S. Ct. 533, 33 Law. Ed. 892. The rules of classification which generally prevail are as follows: First, all classification must be based nor is there any inhibition against prescribing different penalties for different acts or different classes of the same act.[58]

Equal protection of the laws is not denied by rules and regulations of the department of the interior, prohibiting the grazing of sheep on forest reservations, except under special circumstances,[59] nor by a statute limiting the fees a justice of the peace may receive for criminal cases from the county in any one month,[60] nor by a statute requiring vaccination of children as a condition of their attendance on the public schools,[61] nor by a law prohibiting the use of unregistered docked horses,[62] nor by the provision of the civil service law that veteran volunteer firemen in public service shall be entitled to notice and a hearing before discharge, other public servants not being so protected,[63] nor by a statute operating only on special charter cities,[64] nor by a statute annexing territory to a municipality and providing sanitary regulations differing from those in force in the original city,[65] nor by the homestead association law of Louisiana, by which it is provided that a sale of a homestead for cash to the association and a resale on credit to the original owner gives rise to a vendor's lien.[66] That a local option statute discriminates in favor of those who vote for prohibition will not invalidate it.[67] An ordinance compelling the removal or sanding of snow and ice on sidewalks is not invalid for inequality as applying only to owners of land,[68] but an ordinance giving the council arbitrary power to refuse permission to erect buildings is void.[69] A statute providing for the purchase by a city of a private lighting plant does not deny the equal protection of the laws, the duty being cast upon all municipalities in similar circumstances and owing equally to all corporations similarly situated.[70] The Arkansas statute making void negotiable instruments not showing on their face that they were given for a patented article, but excepting dealers selling patented articles in the usual course of business, is invalid as a denial of the equal protection of the laws.[71]

Inspection fees and licenses.[72]—A license law is not invalid because operative only on pawnshops, loan offices and second-hand stores,[73] and a license or privilege tax imposed on foreign corporations as a condition of doing business in the state is valid.[74] A license tax on liquor dealers is unobjectionable,[75] and a statute licensing upon substantial distinctions which make one class really different from another. Second, the classification adopted must be germane to the purposes of the law. Third, the classification must not be based upon existing conditions only; it must not be so constituted as to prevent additions to the number included within the class. Fourth, to whatever class a law may apply, it must apply equally to each member thereof. Johnson v. Milwaukee, 88 Wis. 383, 60 N. W. 270; Julien v. Model Bldg., L. & I. Ass'n, 116 Wis. 79, 92 N. W. 561, 61 L. R. A. 668. Whether any particular classification made by the legislature satisfies these requisites is primarily a legislative question. The field covered by its discretionary power in the matter is very broad. It is, of course, not above judicial control, but it is safe from restraint so long as any reasonable ground can be discovered to support it. The court can apply no test to the matter except the constitutional test. That of the mere wisdom of the measure is exclusively for legislative consideration. See Julien v. Model Bldg., L. & I. Ass'n, 116 Wis. 19, 92 N. W. 561, 61 L. R. A. 668.

58. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225.

59. Dastervignes v. United States, 122 F. 30.

60. Herbert v. Baltimore County Com'rs, 97 Md. 639, 55 A. 376.

61. Viemeister v. White, 88 App. Div. 44, 84 N. Y. S. 712.

62. Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359.

63. People v. Folks, 89 App. Div. 171, 85 N. Y. S. 1100.

64. Ulbrecht v. Keokuk [Iowa] 97 N. W. 1082.

65. Toney v. Macon, 119 Ga. 83, 46 S. E. 80.

66. American Homestead Co. v. Karstendiek, 111 La. 884, 35 So. 964.

67. Rippey v. Texas, 193 U. S. 504, 24 S. Ct. 516; August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 F. 655.

68. State v. McMahon, 76 Conn. 97, 55 A. 591.

69. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

70. Norwich Gas & Elec. Co. v. Norwich, 76 Conn. 565, 57 A. 746.

71. Union County Nat. Bank v. Ozan Lumber Co., 127 F. 206.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 580.

73. City of Butte v. Paltrovich [Mont.] 75 P. 521.

74. State v. Hammond Packing Co., 110 La. 180, 34 So. 368.

75. Parsons v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 666.

transient merchants is valid.[76] An ordinance licensing oil dealers, except such as deal in oils on which the license tax has been paid, does not deny equal protection.[77]

Taxation.[78]—The fourteenth amendment was not intended to compel the states to adopt iron rules of equal taxation, or subvert the systems of the states pertaining to general and specific taxation,[79] neither does it forbid the classification of property or persons for the purposes of taxation, but merely compels the equal application of the law to all members of the same class, when the classification is based upon reasonable ground, and not an arbitrary selection.[80] A statute taxing the personal property of a domestic corporation in the state of its domicile, regardless of where the property is situated, does not deny the equal protection of the laws though the property is also taxed at its actual situs,[81] and this, notwithstanding the property is composed of railway cars, and domestic railroad companies are not taxed on cars in use outside the state, a different mode of taxation having been adopted for railroads.[82] A taxpayer whose tax is correct is not denied the equal protection of the laws by an exemption of certain other property from the tax, either wholly or in part,[83] and an inheritance tax law, exempting charitable institutions, is not invalid, though construed to exempt only such institutions as are organized within the state;[84] but taxation by a state board of equalization of the property of railroad companies at its full cash value, while other property is assessed at only 80 per cent., denies the companies the equal protection of the law.[85] Equal protection of the laws is not denied where a tax is levied on debts due from solvent debtors, on the theory that debts due from insolvent debtors are favored,[86] and an excise tax which operates uniformly throughout the state and bears uniformly upon all persons standing in the same category, is unobjectionable.[87] A statute making an agent liable for the taxes on funds he holds for investment does not deny him the equal protection of the law.[88] The cigarette tax of Iowa, of similar nature to the mulct liquor tax, is not invalid for failure to similarly provide that its payment will bar prosecutions.[89]

Local improvements.[90]—Equal protection is not denied by assessment by the front foot and not according to benefits.[91]

Regulations of business, trades and professions.[92]—A general police regulation, subject to exceptions, does not, as to those not favored by the exception, deny equal protection of the law,[93] and the "four-mile law" of Tennessee, relative to liquor sales,

76. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172.

77. Standard Oil Co. v. Spartanburg, 66 S. C. 37, 44 S. E. 377.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 580.

79. Cass Farm Co. v. Detroit, 181 U. S. 396, 21 S. Ct. 644, 645; Glozza v. Tiernan, 148 U. S. 657, 13 S. Ct. 721. A vehicle tax is not void because exempting street cars, automobiles and the carriages of nonresidents. Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027.

80. Tax on packing houses is valid. Lacy v. Armour Packing Co., 134 N. C. 567, 47 S. E. 53, citing many cases. The legislature may provide one method for determining the value of the property of corporations of one class, and a different method for determining the value of property of a different class. Taxation of capital stock of certain corporations by State Board of Equalization, others by local assessor, held constitutional. The Hub v. Hanberg [Ill.] 71 N. E. 826.

81, 82. Commonwealth v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 490.

83. Missouri v. Dockery, 191 U. S. 165, 24 S. Ct. 53; State v. Fleming [Neb.] 97 N. W. 1063. A law taxing savings banks, but exempting religious, charitable and beneficial institutions, is not invalid, though the charter of the bank recites that it is enacted for a beneficent purpose, i. e. encouraging habits of industry and economy. People v. Miller, 84 App. Div. 168, 82 N. Y. S. 621.

84. Humphreys v. State [Ohio] 70 N. E. 957.

85. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Coulter, 131 F. 282.

86. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044.

87. State v. Guilbert [Ohio] 71 N. E. 636.

88. Heinz v. Board of Equalization, 121 Iowa, 445, 96 N. W. 967.

89. Hodge v. Muscatine County, 121 Iowa, 482, 96 N. W. 968.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 581.

91. Ross v. Kendall [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1107.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 581.

93. Prohibition of dairies in city limits. Fischer v. St. Louis, 194 U. S. 361, 24 S. Ct. 673; Schefe v. St. Louis, 194 U. S. 373, 24 S. Ct. 676.

is not invalid because it excepts sales by manufacturers in wholesale packages or quantities.[94] A local option law prohibiting the sale of liquors, except upon the prescription of a physician, denies no one the equal protection of the law,[95] but a limitation of the right to prescribe to those physicians making the practice of medicine their "principal calling" is invalid.[96] It has been held that a Federal right is invaded by a statute prohibiting fire insurance companies from agreeing with others as to rates, agents' compensation, manner of transacting business, etc., on pain of forfeiture of license;[97] on the other hand, a similar statute was held unimpeachable by a foreign corporation, on the ground that as the state has the power to entirely withhold its permission to do business in the state, its grounds for withholding are not questionable.[98] A retaliatory or reciprocal tax on foreign insurance companies is not invalid.[99] Statutes regulating the hours of employment for bakery employes,[1] and workers in mines, smelters and ore reduction mills, are unobjectionable,[2] and a law requiring that 8 hours shall constitute a day's work on public work does not, as applied to one contracting for such work after its passage, deny him the equal protection of the laws.[3] A statute providing for payment of wages only in lawful money, but excepting farmers and their servants, is invalid.[4] A statute prohibiting the adulteration of foods, but providing an exception in favor of coloring pure butter, is not objectionable.[5] A statute licensing peddlers, but exempting certain specified classes, the classification being founded upon no reasonable basis, is invalid.[6] The anti-trust law of Kansas does not deny the equal protection of the laws.[7]

Operation of railroads.[8]—Railroads are recognized as proper subjects of classification and many statutes applicable only to them are upheld. Thus a law directed solely against railroad companies and imposing a penalty for allowing certain weeds to go to seed upon their rights of way is not regarded as denying them the equal protection of the laws,[9] nor is a statute rendering a railroad company liable for damage by fire, communicated from its right of way,[10] and a statute requiring railroad companies, and no other carriers, to redeem unused tickets and parts of tickets, under penalty, is valid.[11] A statute modifying the rule of fellow-servant as to certain of the servants of railway companies does not deny railroads the equal protection of the law, because not applying to other employers,[12] nor does it bear unjustly on servants because not extended to all the servants of railway companies.[13] A statute penalizing railroad companies for failure to trace shipments, though of no extra-territorial effect, does not for that reason deny railroads within the state the equal protection of the laws,[14] nor is equal protection denied by a judgment for damages against a railroad by the owner of land abutting on a street it has occupied necessarily, in

94. Webster v. State [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 179.
95. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766.
96. August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 F. 655.
97. Iowa Code, §§ 1754, 1755. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 F. 121.
98. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Perkins, 125 F. 502.
99. State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36.
1. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373. Statutes limiting hours of labor. People v. Orange C. R. Construction Co. [N. Y.] 65 L. R. A. 33, note.
2. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1.
3. Atkin v. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207, 24 S. Ct. 124.
4. Kellyville Coal Co. v. Harrier, 207 Ill. 624, 69 N. E. 927. Contra: Johnson, Lytle & Co. v. Spartan Mills [S. C.] 47 S. E. 695.
5. People v. Hinshaw [Mich.] 97 N. W. 758.
6. State v. Whitcom [Wis.] 99 N. W. 468.
7. State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.
8. See 1 Curr. L. 582.
9. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. May, 194 U. S. 267, 24 S. Ct. 638; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 794.
10. Brown v. Carolina Midland R. Co. [S. C.] 46 S. E. 283.
11. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047.
12. Froelich v. Toledo & O. C. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359. See contra as to the same statute, Kane v. Erie R. Co., 128 F. 474.
13. Froelich v. Toledo & O. C. R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359.
14. Southern R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 119 Ga. 773, 47 S. E. 179.

making a change of grade ordered by the legislature.[15] A statute requiring the separation of the races in street railway cars is valid,[16] and equal protection is not denied by a regulation of the rate of fare on a street railroad not shown to be unreasonable.[17]

Criminal laws and procedure.[18]—If a statute against pool selling be so construed as to permit the owner of a building to sell pools therein, and punish him if he permitted another to do so, it would not for that reason violate the fourteenth amendment.[19] A statute punishing bettors or buyers of pools and bookmakers or pool sellers with unequal severity is not for that reason invalid,[20] and that one of three conspirators was sentenced to seven while the others were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment is not a denial of equal protection of the laws.[21] A law punishing unlicensed peddlers except civil war veterans is discriminative,[22] but that a statute, making possession of gambling paraphernalia prima-facie evidence of guilt, excludes police officers from its operation, is not a denial of equal protection.[23] The Michigan local option law is not invalid because it discriminates between druggists doing business in local option counties, as compared with those doing business elsewhere,[24] and a jury commission law for a single county does not deny equal protection to one convicted by a jury drawn thereunder.[25] A statute punishing male persons living with or accepting the earnings of prostitutes is unobjectionable.[26] The Alabama act penalizing laborers and renters for breaking contracts of employment denies them the equal protection of the laws.[27] A statute making the possession of registered bottles and other empty packages prima facie unlawful is unconstitutional, as authorizing conviction of such persons on evidence that would not warrant the conviction of others.[28]

Civil remedies and proceedings.[29]—The fourteenth amendment safeguards fundamental rights and not the mere forum which a state may see proper to designate for their enforcement and protection,[30] but this clause confirms to citizens of other states the same right to maintain suits against foreign corporations that citizens of the state of the former have,[31] though a statute of limitations, operative only on instruments executed outside the state, is valid.[32]

A law exempting funds due from mutual benefit societies from seizure on execution or other process, and not extending the same protection to other life insurance companies, is not based on an unreasonable classification,[33] nor does an exception of certain named societies of similar nature from its provisions invalidate it.[34]

A statute requiring employes suing their employers for negligent injuries to 15. Knapp & C. Mfg. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 76 Conn. 311, 56 A. 512.

16. State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575.
17. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106.
18. See 1 Curr. L. 583. Quare, whether the juvenile court act of Pennsylvania does not violate the fourteenth amendment. Mansfield's Case, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 224.
19. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225.
20. Ex parte Hernan [Tex. Cr. App.] 77 S. W. 225.
21. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49.
22. State v. Shedroi, 75 Vt. 277, 54 A. 1081.
23. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.
24. People v. Shuler [Mich.] 98 N. W. 986.
25. People v. Gardner [Mich.] 100 N. W. 126.
26. State v. Graham, 34 Wash. 81, 74 P. 1058.
27. Act Mch. 1, 1901. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671. See Toney v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 332.
28. Horwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938.
Contra: Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790.
29. See 1 Curr. L. 584.
30. Statute providing for change of venue where one party is a corporation having more than 50 stockholders. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Snell, 193 U. S. 30, 24 S. Ct. 319.
31. Kidd v. New Hampshire Traction Co. [N. H.] 56 A. 465.
32. Higgins v. Graham, 143 Cal. 131, 76 P. 898.
33. Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661; Id. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 18.
34. Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661.

give notice thereof, if applied to the common-law rights of action in existence before its passage, is invalid, as a denial of the equal protection of the law to the servant,[35] and a statute abrogating the rules of fellow-servant, and assumption of risk in favor of the employes of corporations, denies to corporations the equal protection of the law.[36]

A statute dispensing with the prolix method of pleading in actions on insurance policies is not invalid because relating only to insurance.[37]

A statute authorizing the recovery of actual damages only against the publishers of newspapers for libel, in case retraction has been published, is not invalid as a denial of equal protection of the laws.[38]

A statute extending to plaintiffs in mechanic's lien cases a right to recover attorney's fees not extended plaintiffs in other cases, nor the defendants in these cases, is invalid in Kansas and Colorado.[39] Such a statute has been sustained, however, in Idaho and several other states,[40] and a statute allowing suitors in proceedings under a special statute to recover their full costs is not unconstitutional, because suitors under other statutes are denied that right.[41] A statute authorizing an allowance for counsel fees to successful complainants in chancery cases does not deny defendants the equal protection of the laws.[42]

§ 11. Privileges and immunities of citizens.[43]—That section of the Federal constitution guarantying to citizens of each state all privileges and immunities of citizens of the several states operates only on discriminations made by the state in its capacity of a sovereign, not upon the acts of individuals;[44] it extends no protection to aliens or citizens of the United States who are citizens of a territory,[45] and a corporation is not a "citizen" within this section.[46] The privileges and immunities guarantied by it are only such as are lawful in their character, and it does not extend to matters that are against public policy and subject to police regulation,[47] neither does it confer on nonresidents any other or greater privileges and immunities than are granted to residents of a state.[48] A state statute extending a certain special privilege to citizens of the state is not for that reason invalid, the constitution being effective to extend it also to the citizens of the several states.[49] A civil right is a right accorded to every member of a district, community or nation, while a political right is a right exercisable in the administration of government.[50] A stat-

35. Rosin v. Lidgerwood Mfg. Co., 89 App. Div. 245, 86 N. Y. S. 49.

36. Ballard v. Mississippi Cotton Oil Co., 81 Miss. 507, 34 So. 533, 62 L. R. A. 407; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Schraag [Miss.] 36 So. 193.

37. Hersey v. Northern Assur. Co., 75 Vt. 441, 56 A. 95.

38. Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 628, 47 S. E. 811.

39. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 P. 640; Davidson v. Jennings, 27 Colo. 187, 60 P. 354, 83 Am. St. Rep. 49, 48 L. R. A. 340.

40. Thompson v. Wise Boy Mill. & Min. Co. [Idaho] 74 P. 958, and cases cited.

41. La Goo v. Seaman [Mich.] 99 N. W. 393.

42. McMullin v. Doughty [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 284.

43. See 1 Curr. L. 584.

44. Const. art. 4, § 2. United States v. Morris, 125 F. 322, citing Paul v. Virginia, 8 Wall. [U. S.] 168; Ward v. Maryland, 12 Wall. [U. S.] 418; Slaughterhouse Cases, 16 Wall. [U. S.] 36; Blake v. McClung, 172 U. S. 239, 19 S. Ct. 165.

45. In re Johnson's Estate, 139 Cal. 532, 73 P. 424.

NOTE. Equality of privileges and immunities does not belong to citizens of territories: This interstate citizenship is only granted to citizens of a state, not to citizens of the United States. Prentiss v. Brennan, 2 Blatchf. 162, Fed. Cas. No. 11,385; United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U. S. 542, 23 Law. Ed. 588; Picquet v. Swan, 5 Mason, 35, Fed. Cas. No. 11,134. It is plain, therefore, that unless a law deprives the inhabitants of a territory of some property or vested right, or of personal liberty, without due process of law, congress has plenary power of legislation over them. Wharton Crim. Law, § 461; Sutherland, Stat. Constr. § 23; Thompson v. Utah, 170 U. S. 349, 18 S. Ct. 620, 42 Law. Ed. 1066; Cole v. Cunningham, 133 U. S. 107, 10 S. Ct. 269, 33 Law. Ed. 538. See McFadden v. Blocker [Ind. T.] 58 L. R. A. 894.

46. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brigham [Ga.] 48 S. E. 348.

47. Act punishing male persons living with or accepting earnings of prostitutes. State v. Graham, 34 Wash. 81, 74 P. 1058.

48. Brown v. Birmingham [Ala.] 37 So. 173.

49. In re Johnson's Estate, 139 Cal. 532, 73 P. 424.

ute providing for substituted service on nonresidents does not violate,[51] and there is no discrimination against nonresidents in a law that gives them four weeks' notice of a tax sale by publication, and gives residents 20 days' personal notice, though the general statutes of the state provide a longer notice to nonresidents in ordinary proceedings.[52] Nonresidents are not discriminated against by a statute providing for the enforcement of claims against nonresident decedents by attachment of their property in the state, against nonresident executors,[53] nor by a license tax on foreign corporations levied as a condition of doing business within the state,[54] nor by a statute of limitations operative only on instruments executed outside the state,[55] nor by a state statute providing that local improvements shall not be made if a majority of resident property owners shall protest.[56] It is not one of the privileges of a citizen of the United States to bring an action in any state against any person upon whom service can be made therein, regardless of their or his residence, or of the nature of the cause of action, or where it arose.[57] The legislature of a state has power to prohibit nonresidents from hunting or fishing within its territory, license so to do not being one of the privileges or immunities of citizens,[58] and the right to organize trade unions, though a fundamental right of a citizen of all free governments, is not a right, privilege or immunity granted or secured to citizens of the United States by its constitution or laws, but is left solely to the protection of the states.[59]

§ 12. Grants of special privileges and immunities; class legislation.[60]—Whether or not classifications of municipalities are reasonable or unjust and arbitrary frequently arises with reference to whether statutes infringe the provision against local or special laws. This question will be fully treated in the topic Statutes q. v. Reference is made below to some of the cases bearing on this question.[61]

It is not the purpose of the fourteenth amendment to prevent the states from classifying the subjects of legislation and making different regulations as to the property of different individuals differently situated. The provision is satisfied if all persons similarly situated are treated alike in privileges conferred or liabilities imposed.[62] A law which is uniform in its operation is not rendered invalid merely because of the limited number of persons who will be affected by it.[63] Special privi-

50. Equity will not interpose for the protection of political rights. Winnett v. Adams [Neb.] 99 N. W. 681.

51. Guenther v. American Steel Hoop Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 795, 76 S. W. 419.

52. Johnson v. Hunter, 127 F. 219.

53. Manley v. Mayer [Kan.] 75 P. 560.

54. State v. Hammond Packing Co., 110 La. 180, 34 So. 368.

55. Higgins v. Graham, 143 Cal. 131, 76 P. 898.

56. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 24 S. Ct. 784.

57. Collard v. Beach, 87 N. Y. S. 884.

58. Brooks v. Tripp, 135 N. C. 159, 47 S. E. 401.

59. United States v. Moore, 129 F. 630.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 585.

61. Statute operating on cities and towns whose boundaries are not more than one mile apart, there being but two. City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785. Statute operative only on counties having more than a certain population, there being but two. Ex parte Loving, 178 Mo. 194, 77 S. W. 508. An act operative on only cities of the first class, there being but one. City of Louisville v. Wemhoff, 25 Ky. L. R. 995, 76 S. W. 876. A statute applying only to counties expending $7,000 for court house purposes is invalid. Hetland v. Norman County Com'rs, 89 Minn. 492, 95 N. W. 305. Cities of 10,000 which have owned waterworks, but have sold them, reserving the right to repurchase. Thomas v. City of St. Cloud, 90 Minn. 477, 97 N. W. 125. A jury law applicable to counties of 200,000 population and over is not arbitrary. State v. Ames [Minn.] 98 N. W. 190. A bill providing that it shall apply to all counties having a population of from 120,000 to 150,000 people by the last or any succeeding Federal census is not unconstitutional, as class legislation and partial laws. Archibald v. Clark [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 310.

62. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 24 S. Ct. 784. Classification and discrimination among citizens, if reasonable, is a recognized legislative prerogative. As to what are and what are not residence portions under the Brannock local option law. City of Columbus v. Jeffrey, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 85.

63. Law affecting sales by retail dealers of their stocks otherwise than in due course of trade. Walp v. Mooar, 76 Conn. 515, 57 A. 277. A statute authorizing the consolidation of gas companies generally is not special, beleges are granted by an act relieving certain registered law students from the necessity of a scholastic examination,[64] but not by a statute providing for the purchase by the city of a private lighting plant,[65] nor by a statute authorizing the publication of a compilation of the statutes of the state and purchasing sufficient copies thereof for the use of the state,[66] nor by a statute authorizing a particular cemetery association to apply for the condemnation of land belonging to another,[67] nor by a law exempting a building and loan association from the operation of the usury laws.[68] The Nebraska irrigation law, while giving the appropriator an exclusive right to the water so long as he applies it to a beneficial use, and thereby creating a monopoly, does not grant such a privilege as to conflict with the constitution,[69] and the homestead association law of Louisiana, by which it is provided that a sale of a homestead to the association for cash and a resale to the original owner for credit shall give rise to a vendor's lien, confers no special or exclusive right or privilege on such associations.[70] A waiver of a forfeiture of street railway's franchise for failure to build is not the granting of a new right within a provision against granting privileges.[71]

An exception of sidewalks from a local improvement act is not class legislation,[72] nor is a statute permitting a majority of the landowners along a public highway to initiate proceedings to improve it;[73] neither is a statute prescribing different mileage fees for county officers of counties of different classes,[74] nor a statute repealing the charter of the state agricultural society, and erecting a state department of the same name.[75] But a proclamation excluding cattle imported from all other states for breeding and dairy purposes without a certificate of nonreaction to a tuberculin test, but allowing free importation for slaughter or other purposes, is invalid,[76] and so is an ordinance declaring that particular switch tracks are a nuisance and ordering their removal.[77]

Licenses, and privilege and occupation taxes.[78]—Statutes providing for the licensing of occupations as a means of regulation do not confer arbitrary power on the licensing boards to grant or refuse licenses at will, but require them to grant licenses to all who comply with the reasonable regulations imposed. In this sense, they cannot be said to confer special privileges on licensees.[79] A cause it may be taken advantage of only by the companies of a certain city. People v. People's Gaslight & Coke Co., 205 Ill. 482, 68 N. E. 950. A vaccination statute is not class legislation merely because operative only on school children. French v. Davidson [Cal.] 77 P. 663.

64. In re Branch [N. J. Law] 57 A. 431.

65. Not conferred on owner of plant. Norwich Gas & Elec. Co. v. City of Norwich, 76 Conn. 565, 57 A. 746.

66. Not on the publisher. Marsh v. Stonebraker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 699.

67. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467.

68. Construing Rev. St. of Ohio, § 3836. Brooklyn Bldg. & L. Ass'n Co. v. Desnoyers, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 337. The Ohio statute (§ 3836), declaring that dues, fines, premiums or other assessments imposed by building and loan associations shall not be deemed usury, although in excess of the legal rate of interest, is not unconstitutional. Spies v. Southern Ohio Loan & Trust Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 103.

69. Comp. St. 1903, c. 93a, art. 2, § 28. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286.

70. American Homestead Co. v. Karstendick, 111 La. 884, 35 So. 964.

71. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co. [Va.] 47 S. E. 839.

72. Gage v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 26, 67 N. E. 477.

73. Bowlin v. Cochran, 161 Ind. 485, 69 N. E. 153.

74. Henry v. Thurston County, 31 Wash. 638, 72 P. 488.

75. Berman v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 732.

76. Pierce v. Dillingham, 203 Ill. 148, 67 N. E. 846.

77. It should be by general ordinance, applying to all tracks similarly situated. People v. Blocki, 203 Ill. 363, 67 N. E. 809.

78. See 1 Curr. L. 584, n. 87 et seq.

79. Barbers. State v. Briggs [Or.] 77 P. 750. Dentists. Ex parte Whitely [Cal.] 77 P. 879. Exemption of persons engaged in the practice at the time of its enactment is not fatal. Id. A statute providing for the licensing of transient merchants applying to residents and nonresidents alike. Levy v. State, 161 Ind. 251, 68 N. E. 172. The sailors' boarding-house law of Oregon does not authorize the board to arbitrarily refuse to license tax law, though applicable only to cities of a certain class, is not for that reason invalid, because persons engaged in the same business in cities of other classes are not subject to the tax.[80] An exception in an act licensing peddlers, in favor of those dealing in nursery stock and agricultural products, is not class legislation,[81] nor is a statute licensing automobiles, but excepting from its provisions those kept in stock in course of manufacture, for sale, repair, or storage,[82] nor is an ordinance imposing a vehicle tax, but exempting street cars, automobiles and the vehicles of nonresidents.[83] A privilege tax discriminating between banks and other money lenders is not unjust,[84] neither is an ordinance taxing oil dealers, except such as deal in oils on which the tax has been paid, unlawfully discriminative,[85] but a law requiring journeymen plumbers to pass an examination not required of master plumbers, and limited in its operation to cities of 10,000 and upward having a system of waterworks, is arbitrary.[86]

Taxation.—A statute providing for the assessment and taxation of fugitive traders coming into the state after the general assessment has been made, and taxing them at the same rate other property pays for the current year, is unobjectionable,[87] but a proviso allowing a rebate to such as remain until the next regular assessment is levied is invalid.[88] An inheritance tax law exempting charitable institutions is valid, though construed to exempt only those organized within the state.[89] A provision in the constitution of a state forfeiting tracts of land of 1,000 acres and over for nonpayment of tax, and not applying to tracts of smaller area, is invalid.[90]

Regulations of business, trades and professions.—The exemption of building and loan and homestead associations from the anti-trust law does not render it invalid, there being an essential difference between these associations and other corporations,[91] but an exception in favor of combinations to raise wages grafted by way of amendment on the act is invalid.[92] A statute imposing other and more onerous regulations on unincorporated building and loan associations than upon incorporated ones is not objectionable.[93] Regulations restrictive of the practice of dentistry[94] and medicine are valid.[95] A statute attempting to restrict runners for wholesale houses to taking orders from merchants only is invalid,[96] and the anti-trading stamp law of Vermont is an unlawful interference with the rights of citizens.[97] A statute prohibiting the sale of bottles and other empty packages without consent of the owner is special legislation,[98] though a license any applicant, hence is not class legislation, nor does it tend to create a monopoly. White v. Mears [Or.] 74 P. 931; White v. Holman [Or.] 74 P. 933.

80. Livery stable keepers. Ex parte Jackson [Cal.] 77 P. 457.

81. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621; People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598; In re Watson [S. D.] 97 N. W. 463.

Contra: State v. Whitcom [Wis.] 99 N. W. 468.

82. People v. MacWilliams, 91 App. Div. 176, 86 N. Y. S. 357.

83. Kersey v. Terre Haute, 161 Ind. 471, 68 N. E. 1027.

84. Cowart v. City Council of Greenville [S. C.] 45 S. E. 122.

85. Standard Oil Co. v. Spartanburg, 66 S. C. 37, 44 S. E. 377.

86. State v. Justus, 90 Minn. 474, 97 N. W. 124.

87, 88. Nathan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 76 P. 521.

89. Humphreys v. State [Ohio] 70 N. E. 957.

90. King v. Hatfield, 130 F. 564.

91, 92. People v. Butler St. Foundry & Iron Co., 201 Ill. 236, 66 N. E. 349.

93. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

94. Gothard v. People [Colo.] 74 P. 890; Ex parte Whitely [Cal.] 77 P. 879.

95. The California medical practitioner's law, providing for qualifications equal to those required in a certain school, does not discriminate in favor of that school. Ex parte Gerino [Cal.] 77 P. 166. And no unlawful privilege or immunity is granted by a statute granting to medical societies the power to appoint the members of the State Board of Medical Examiners. Id.

96. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621.

97. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983. Cf. Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327.

98. Const. art. 4, § 22. Horwich v. Walker-Gordon Laboratory Co., 205 Ill. 497, 68 N. E. 938.

statute prohibiting the filling of such bottles is upheld in Massachusetts.[99] A statute, invalidating as to creditors, sales of stocks of goods otherwise than in due course of trade unless made in conformity with specified regulations, is within the police power, and is not objectionable as class legislation.[1]

Railroad companies are endowed with such powers and their business is of such nature that the placing of them in a class by themselves is not arbitrary.[2] A statute requiring a separation of the races in street railway cars is valid.[3]

Insurance.—There is such a difference between insurance and other kinds of business that a classification separating them is justifiable,[4] and a classification separating the mutuals from the stock companies is not arbitrary.[5] Special privileges are not granted to fraternal insurance associations previously formed by a statute requiring those subsequently formed to adopt certain assessment rates.[6] Statutes prohibiting combinations between fire insurance companies doing business in the state is not violative of the state constitution,[7] and a law providing for reciprocal exactions from foreign insurance companies organized in states, the laws of which discriminate against foreign companies, is not founded on an arbitrary or unreasonable classification.[8]

Liquor Traffic.—The local option liquor law is not class legislation in that it discriminates in favor of those who favor prohibition of the traffic,[9] and the "four mile" liquor law of Tennessee is not invalid because it exempts sales by manufacturers at wholesale.[10] No special privilege is granted by a law providing that, on remonstrance of a majority of the voters of a township, a liquor license shall be refused, though such remonstrances are authorized to be signed by an attorney empowered to act for his principals in all cases.[11] An ordinance imposing a tax on the maintenance of a depot for the distribution of liquors in the city, and not on brewers manufacturing there, is not discriminative,[12] and an ordinance imposing a license fee on wholesale liquor dealers who were required to pay none before, and imposing no further license on dramshop keepers, though they might also sell at wholesale, is not invalid.[13]

Relations of master and servant.—Laws limiting the hours of labor in certain unhealthy employments,[14] regulating payment of wages and preventing black-

99. Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790.

1. Walp v. Mooar, 76 Conn. 515, 57 A. 277; John P. Squire & Co. v. Tellier [Mass.] 69 N. E. 312.

Contra: Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22; Miller v. Crawford [Ohio] 71 N. E. 631.

2. Statute abrogating rule of fellow-servant, in part. Froelich v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 24 Ohio Circ. R. 359. Special tax law for railroads. Com. v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 490.

3. State v. Pearson, 110 La. 387, 34 So. 575.

4. Statute punishing refusal in bad faith to pay loss by imposing penalty in form of attorney's fee [Acts 1901, p. 248, c. 141, §§ 1, 2]. Continental Fire Ins. Co. v. Whitaker [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 119, citing many cases. Tillis v. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. [Fla.] 35 So. 171; Farmers' & Merchants' Ins. Co. v. Dobney, 189 U. S. 301, 23 S. Ct. 565; Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Redding [Fla.] 37 So. 62. Statute requiring them to pay losses in full to the amount of the policy and invalidating agreements to the contrary. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brigham [Ga.] 48 S. E. 348.

5. Continental Fire Ins. Co. v. Whitaker [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 119. A law exempting from execution funds due on mutual benefit certificates and not on other life insurance policies is not unreasonable. Supreme Lodge United Benev. Ass'n v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 661; Id. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 18. A statute providing that no misrepresentation shall avoid an insurance policy unless made with intent to deceive or effective to increase the risk is not class legislation, though it applies only to fire insurance companies not operating on the mutual or assessment plan. Continental Fire Ins. Co. v. Whitaker [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 119.

6. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies [Wash.] 77 P. 500.

7. Iowa Code, §§ 1754, 1755. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 F. 121. S. D. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 183, c. 158. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Perkins, 125 F. 502.

8. State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 36.

9. Sweeney v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 766.

10. Webster v. State [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 179.

11. Hoop v. Affleck [Ind.] 70 N. E. 978.

12. Duluth Brewing & Malting Co. v. Superior [C. C. A.] 123 F. 353.

13. Strauss v. Galesburg, 203 Ill. 234, 67 N. E. 836.

listing, are upheld,[15] but the Alabama statute imposing a penalty on both the employer and employe entering into a contract of employment, where the employe has broken a similar contract with another, is invalid, it being limited in its application to laborers and renters.[16]

Criminal laws and procedure.—As respects grazing on the public domain, sheep and goats are naturally in a class by themselves and a law or regulation limiting the right of pasturing them on forest reservations is not an unjust or illegal discrimination against their owners.[17] A statute prohibiting the keeping open of butcher shops on Sunday while permitting confectionery and tobacco to be sold in an orderly manner on that day is not class legislation.[18] A statute prohibiting the use of the national flag for advertising merchandise, but excepting certain uses,[19] and a law defining adulterated vinegar and punishing its sale, but excepting from its provisions farmers making vinegar from apples raised on their own farms, are invalid as unlawfully discriminative.[20] The juvenile court act of Pennsylvania, separating citizens over 16 years of age and those under that age who are confined in institutions from those under that age not so confined, makes an arbitrary classification.[21]

Civil remedies and proceedings.—Suit for divorce, being a proceeding sui generis, is a legitimate subject for legislative classification,[22] and a statute changing the common-law rule applicable, where a tenant holds over, though only applicable to urban real estate, is not founded on an arbitrary classification.[23] Statutory regulations of the right to a review upon appeal or otherwise, as regards costs and security for costs, cannot be condemned as class legislation merely because it is more burdensome for some persons than for others to comply therewith.[24] A statute imposing attorney's fees and expenses as costs on defendants in mechanic's lien cases, treating all such defendants alike, is not class legislation,[25] though the contrary has been held in Kansas and Colorado,[26] and a statute authorizing an allowance for counsel fees to successful complainants in chancery cases is not invalid as a local or special law granting an exclusive benefit to an individual.[27]

§ 13. Laws impairing the obligations of contracts.[28]—The law in force at the time a contract is made becomes a part of it and cannot be changed to the detriment of either of the contracting parties by subsequent legislation,[29] but

14. A statute limiting the hours of labor of workers in mines, smelters and ore reduction works is unobjectionable. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1. A law prohibiting the employment of miners more than 8 hours a day is not class legislation, the health and safety of such employes being promoted thereby [Laws 1901, p. 211]. State v. Cantwell [Mo.] 78 S. W. 569.

15. Commonwealth v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2027, 79 S. W. 287.

16. Act Mch. 1, 1901. Peonage Cases, 123 F. 671.

17. Dastervignes v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 30.

18. State v. Justus [Minn.] 98 N. W. 325.

19. People v. Van De Carr, 91 App. Div. 20, 86 N. Y. S. 644.

20. People v. Windholz, 92 App. Div. 569, 86 N. Y. S. 1015.

21. Mansfield's Case, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 224.

22. Deyoe v. Superior Court of Mendocino County, 140 Cal. 476, 74 P. 28.

23. Stees v. Bergmeier [Minn.] 98 N. W. 648.

24. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

25. Thompson v. Wise Boy Mill. & Min. Co. [Idaho] 74 P. 958, citing many cases.

26. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 P. 640; Davidson v. Jennings, 27 Colo. 187, 60 P. 354, 83 Am. St. Rep. 49, 48 L. R. A. 340.

27. McMullen v. Doughty [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 284.

28. Statutes limiting hours of labor. People v. Orange County Road Construction Co. [N. Y.] 65 L. R. A. 33, note. See 1 Curr. L. 586.

29. Fisher v. Betts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 132; May v. Cass County [N. D.] 96 N. W. 292. Where a mortgage has already been renewed under the existing law by extending the note which it secures, no subsequent enactment prescribing a different manner of renewal can invalidate the renewal already accomplished. Wilson v. Pickering, 28 Mont. 435, 72 P. 821.

NOTE. Impairment of obligation. General rules: First and most primary among these is that an act which in any degree, no matter how slightly, modifies the obliga-

the section cannot be invoked against a mere change of decision with regard to a statute enacted prior to the making of the contract in question,[30] and the fact that a valid public statute has the incidental effect to abrogate a contract between two individuals cannot invalidate it.[31] Decisions merely construing contracts do not impair their obligation,[32] and a statute binding the parties to a contract previously attempted to be made, but which was invalid for defective execution, is not objectionable.[33] Statutes requiring instruments to be recorded and invalidating them in favor of instruments subsequently executed and properly recorded, in case they are not so recorded, are not unconstitutional with respect to pre-existing instruments.[34] A statute providing that before any amendment to, or alteration in, the constitution or by-laws of a fraternal beneficiary association shall be of force, it shall be filed in the office of the auditor of public accounts, is not invalid as applied to benefit certificates issued before its passage.[35] The obligation of a contract is not impaired by a statute providing that laborers in mines be paid on certain dates,[36] and giving laborers in manufacturing establishments a lien superior to that of mortgagees.[37] A statute providing proceedings to compel banks to pay lost certificates of deposit and avoiding them in the hands of all holders is invalid.[38]

What is a contract.[39]—The provisions of special charters under which corporations are organized are generally regarded as contractual,[40] though the rule is otherwise as to provisions of a general incorporation law, in which power to alter or amend is reserved,[41] and a state statute authorizing the change by an tion of the contract by attempting to relieve the one party from any duty by the contract assumed, is repugnant to the constitutional prohibition. This rule only applies to "legislation which affects the contract directly and not incidentally, or only by consequence." Von Hoffman v. Quincy, 4 Wall. [U. S.] 553. Another general rule early established is that over mere remedial procedure the power of the legislature is absolute; that laws regulating it involve so much the consideration of public convenience and welfare that individuals cannot be conceded vested rights therein. Comell v. Hichens, 11 Wis. 368. See Oshkosh W. W. Co. v. Oshkosh, 109 Wis. 208, 85 N. W. 376, 95 Am. St. Rep. 870. [This case contains a fine collection and discussion of the various cases on the second rule stated above.]

30. National Mut. Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Brahan, 193 U. S. 635, 24 S. Ct. 532, citing Lehigh Water Co. v. Easton, 121 U. S. 388, 7 S. Ct. 916; New Orleans Waterworks Co. v. Louisiana Sugar Refining Co., 125 U. S. 18, 8 S. Ct. 741; Central Land Co. v. Laidley, 159 U. S. 103, 16 S. Ct. 80. See, also, Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140; Price v. Toledo, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 57. Previous decisions of the state court are a part of the contract of purchase of bonds issued under statutory authority, the subsequent overruling of which cannot be permitted. Graves v. Moore County Com'rs, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134.

31. Act authorizing building of dam which individuals had agreed not to build. Manigault v. Ward, 123 F. 707.

32. Shepherd's Point Land Co. v. Atlantic Hotel, 134 N. C. 397, 46 S. E. 748.

33. But statute cannot operate to deprive third persons of vested rights. Steger v. Traveling Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 208 Ill. 236, 70 N. E. 236.

34. Knights of Maccabees of the World v. Nitsch [Neb.] 95 N. W. 626, citing Jackson v. Lamphire, 3 Pet. [U. S.] 280; Vance v. Vance, 108 U. S. 514, 2 S. Ct. 854; Weil v. State, 46 Ohio St. 450; Bird v. Keller, 77 Me. 270; Stafford v. Lick, 7 Cal. 479; Varick v. Briggs, 6 Paige [N. Y.] 323.

35. Knights of Maccabees of the World v. Nitsch [Neb.] 95 N. W. 626.

36. Commonwealth v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2027, 79 S. W. 287.

37. Graham v. Magann, Fawke Lumber Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 799.

38. In re Cook, 86 App. Div. 586, 83 N. Y. S. 1009.

39. See 1 Curr. L. 586.

40. The acceptance of a special charter by an educational institution, exempting its property from taxation, constitutes a contract. State v. Westminister College Trustees, 175 Mo. 52, 74 S. W. 990. An exemption from taxation for a term of years contained in the charter of a railroad company constitutes a contract. Bancroft v. Wicomico County Com'rs, 121 F. 874. A water company incorporating under a special act fixing the maximum charge it may make cannot escape the burden of its charter by renouncing the benefits it confers and accepting a subsequent general incorporation act. White Haven Borough v. White Haven Water Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 159.

41. A provision in the general railroad law of a state authorizing the incorporation of purchasers of a road on foreclosure sale does not constitute a contract with the bondholders. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Osborn, 193 U. S. 17, 24 S. Ct. 310. A provision in the general tax law of a state that railroads building under certain conditions shall be exempt from taxation for a term of years does not constitute a contract with roads coming under its provisions.

assessment insurance organization to the regular premium plan impairs the obligation of no contract, the policy holder having no contract right in the particular plan.[42] The rights granted to municipalities by their charters or the general law are not contractual,[43] but an irrigation district organized under a law making all the property in the district liable for its indebtedness confers on the residents an interest that is violated by a statute authorizing the directors without consent of the taxpayers to pledge its property for the payment of its bonds, thus subjecting them to the possibility of losing it.[44] The rule that contract rights acquired under an interpretation of the law made by the supreme court are not divested by a subsequent contrary decision does not apply to the claims of public officers to fees or salaries established by law, as such officers have no vested interest in the offices and their right to such fees and salaries is not founded on contract.[45] The right of the board of control of a state institution to sue and be sued is not a part of a contract made by it, and the statutory taking away of the corporate powers of the board affects the remedy merely and does not violate the obligation of the contract.[46] The rights of a school teacher who has accepted the provisions of a statute providing for retirement on pay after a certain length of service are founded on contract and cannot be violated by subsequent legislation,[47] but though a statute providing pensions for policemen scales down their salaries and puts the sum thus withheld into a fund for that purpose, a policeman does not acquire contractual rights to the pension which cannot be infringed by subsequent legislation.[48] An authorization to build tracks on a street, on condition of maintaining paving between Wisconsin & M. R. Co. v. Powers, 191 U. S. 379, 24 S. Ct. 107. A provision in a general statute authorizing the incorporation of water companies, that boards of supervisors might fix rates but not reduce them below a certain rate does not amount to a contract so that the legislature may not subsequently authorize the fixing of a lower rate. Stanislaus County v. San Joaquin & K. River Canal & Irrigation Co., 192 U. S. 201, 24 S. Ct. 241.

42. Wright v. Minnesota Mut. L. Ins. Co., 193 U. S. 657, 24 S. Ct. 549.

43. A statute authorizing townships to adopt a township road system and relieving them of contribution to the county road tax on their adoption thereof does not constitute a contract and a subsequent local act establishing a county road system for the county is not invalid as an impairment. Board of Sup'rs of Saginaw County v. Hubinger [Mich.] 100 N. W. 261. A statute providing for the annexation of certain territory to a city and limiting the rate of taxation in such territory to the rate assessed by the county is not a contract which the city is interested in, and a subsequent statute construing the prior one cannot be considered as an impairment. Joesting v. Baltimore, 97 Md. 589, 55 A. 456. A statute abolishing school districts and transferring their property to the towns in which they are situated is not objectionable as violating the obligation of contracts, the undertaking of towns and school districts to provide for the education of children not arising out of contract, but as a duty required of them by law. In re School Committee of North Smithfield [R. I.] 58 A. 628.

44. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist. [Cal.] 77 P. 937.

45. Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140.

46. Wheeler v. Board of Control of State Public School [Mich.] 100 N. W. 394.

47. Ball v. Board of Trustees of Teachers' Retirement Fund [N. J. Law] 58 A. 111.

48. State v. Board of Trustees of Policemen's Pension Fund [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. See 1 Curr. L. 587, n. 34.

NOTE. Impairment of immature pension or bounty rights is not invalid: The relator's husband was a member of the police force. By statute, a portion of his salary was withheld so as to be used for a pension fund for his widow, if he died while serving the city. A statute subsequently destroyed this pension right. The relator's husband having since died, she attacks the statute and seeks to force the enrollment of her name on the pension list. Held, there was no vested right in relator, and the legislature impaired no contractual right of relator in withdrawing the right to the pension. State v. Board of Trustees of Policemen's Pension Fund [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954. An office is a creature of law and not a contract. Butler v. Pennsylvania, 10 How. [U. S.] 402. The legislature may increase or decrease the salary attached thereto or altogether destroy it without disturbing any contract right. Commonwealth v. Bacon, 6 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 320. Pension rights have been regarded by the courts in the same light. Pennie v. Reis, 132 U. S. 464. Salary already earned has been held to give a quasi-contractual right that the legislature could not destroy. Fisk v. Jefferson Police Jury, 116 U. S. 131, and conceivably, under the facts of the principal case, there should be a remedy on that theory. The courts seem to deny recovery as a matter of policy. See I Columbia Law Rev. 55.—IV Columbia Law Rev. 510.

tracks with a certain material, does not preclude the city from subsequently paving with a different material and assessing its proportion of the cost against the street railway company,[49] and a liquor license confers no contract rights and may be revoked at any time by the authority granting it, so far as any inhibition in the Federal constitution is concerned.[50]

State or municipal contracts.[51]—The valid contract of a municipal corporation is just as sacred from legislative interference or destruction as one between individual citizens,[52] and where a municipality has entered into a contract which it has power to make, no subsequent act of the legislature withdrawing the subject from its control can relieve it of its liability on the contract;[53] but ultra vires contracts are not protected,[54] and the inhibition does not apply to contracts made by parties dealing with a department of the government, concerning the future exercise of powers conferred for public purposes by legislative acts, where the subject-matter of the contract is one which affects the safety and welfare of the public.[55] A contract between a municipality and a water company for a supply of water is made subject to a reserved power in the constitution to regulate the charges for public service, and such a regulation, though operative on contracts previously made, is not violative of the obligation of the contract.[56]

Corporate charters and franchises.[57]—All reasonable regulations of corporations are upheld where there is a provision, general or special, reserving to the legislature the right to alter, amend or repeal charters or the general incorporation law,[58] and additional powers conferred upon a corporation subsequent to

49. Binninger v. New York, 177 N. Y. 199, 69 N. E. 390.

50. Wallace v. Reno [Nev.] 73 P. 528, citing many cases.

51. See 1 Curr. L. 587.

52. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa, 383, 94 N. W. 941; May v. Cass County [N. D.] 96 N. W. 292. A statute organizing a police board and empowering them to appoint a janitor is inoperative in so far as it impairs a valid contract of a janitor previously employed by the city. Wiggin v. Manchester [N. H.] 58 A. 522. A constitutional amendment destroying and abolishing certain townships which have issued bonds is invalid in so far as it operates to defeat payment of the bonds. Ex parte Folsom, 131 F. 496. A joint resolution directing the state treasurer to write off the books certain past due bonds and no longer carry them as debts of the state refers to a mere matter of bookkeeping, affects no owner of such bonds, and does not impair the obligation of the contract. Smith v. Jennings [S. C.] 45 S. E. 821. Rights which have become vested under a contract resting for its validity upon a statute cannot be impaired or annulled by a repeal of such statute. May v. Cass County [N. D.] 96 N. W. 292.

53. City of Ludlow v. Peck-Williamson Heating & Ventilating Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 831, 76 S. W. 377.

54. Contract by city for water running forever. Westminister Water Co. v. Westminister [Md.] 56 A. 990.

55. Agreement not to issue more bonds until those already issued are paid is void. Board of Education of City of Leavenworth v. Phillips, 67 Kan. 549, 73 P. 97.

56. City of Tampa v. Tampa Waterworks Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 631.

57. See 1 Curr. L. 587.

58. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Osborn, 193 U. S. 17, 24 S. Ct. 310; Wisconsin & M. R. Co. v. Powers, 191 U. S. 379, 24 S. Ct. 107; Stanislaus County v. San Joaquin & K. River Canal & Irrig. Co., 192 U. S. 201, 24 S. Ct. 241. Adoption or acceptance of amendment to charter embodying such provision brings a corporation under the power. Yates v. People, 207 Ill. 316, 69 N. E. 775. A statute providing for annual reports and payment of fees by corporations on pain of forfeiture of franchise is not invalid as to those previously organized under a statute reserving to the legislature the power of amendment and regulation. People v. Rose, 207 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 762. Where power is reserved in the charter of a street railway company to alter, amend, or repeal it at will, a statute requiring it to extend its road along certain streets does not impair the obligation of a contract. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421. Public franchises and charters are granted subject to the provisions of the constitutions under which they are granted, and regulations within the scope of such provisions are not violative of the obligation of contracts. Water companies. City of Tampa v. Tampa Waterworks Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 631. Street railways. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106. Where power is reserved by the constitution to the legislature to alter, amend, or repeal laws for the chartering of corporations, no stockholder can complain of a change of the law relative to the power of corporations to dispose of their property. Allen v. Ajax Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 47. The reservation of a power to add to, alter, amend, or repeal a charter, authorizes the proper legislative its original charter are to be interpreted in accordance with the law then existing, and not in accordance with the law existing at the time of the original grant.[59]

Public service franchises.[60]—An exclusive franchise by a city to a water company for a term of years is a contract which may not be impaired either by revocation or by the city's entering into competition,[61] and the right arising to a telephone company by a construction of its lines on the streets by authority of a city is one that cannot be impaired by a subsequent grant of permission to move a building along the street.[62] A statute authorizing municipalities to install electric plants to supply both the public and private consumers is not violative of the obligation of a contract, though the franchise under which a private corporation is operating a plant in a certain city has several years yet to run.[63] A reduction of water rates to an amount paying six per cent. on the actual value of the property is not confiscation.[64]

Tax and assessment laws.[65]—A statute imposing a tax on certain occupations, made operative the year after its passage, is not violative of the obligation of contracts.[66] No subsequent legislation can repeal the law in force when a tax sale was made, so as to change the effect of the deed as evidence in matters of substance.[67]

Regulations of remedies.[68]—Laws affecting the remedy only for the enforcement of a contract are unobjectionable,[69] but a statute which is designed, and if enforced, would be effectual to deprive the obligees of existing contracts of an important and efficient remedy for their enforcement, is violative of the Federal constitution.[70] Impairment does not result from a statute invalidating, notwithstanding assignment, bills and notes for money won at gaming,[71] nor from a construction applying to existing debts a statute exempting the proceeds of a sale of a homestead from garnishment for a limited period,[72] and a statute providing that negotiable instruments may contain a provision for at-body to make any addition, alteration, or amendment which does not impair vested rights or substantially interfere with the accomplishment of the main purposes of the charter. Right to compel permission of use of railroad bridge by another company. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 230, citing Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U. S. 700; New York & N. E. R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 439.

59. Phoenix v. Trustees of Columbia College, 87 App. Div. 438, 84 N. Y. S. 897.

60. See 1 Curr. L. 588.

61. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

62. Northwestern Tel. Exch. Co. v. Anderson [N. D.] 98 N. W. 706.

63. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868.

64. Stanislaus County v. San Joaquin & K. River Canal & Irrig. Co., 192 U. S. 201, 24 S. Ct. 241.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 588.

66. Does not interfere with contract between employer and employe engaged in taxed occupation. Kehrer v. Stewart, 117 Ga. 969, 44 S. E. 854.

67. Fisher v. Betts [N. D.] 96 N. W. 132.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 589.

69. Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 72 P. 761. A law changing the rules of evidence relates to the remedy and is not within the constitutional inhibition. Ky. St. 1903, § 679, providing that by-laws of an insurance company shall not be received in evidence unless attached to the policy and made a part of it. Hunziker v. Supreme Lodge K. P., 25 Ky. L. R. 1510, 78 S. W. 201. The statute of North Carolina substituting the insurance commissioner in place of the secretary of state as the person to be served with process in a suit against a foreign insurance company, changed the remedy merely, and therefore does not impair the obligation of contracts as respects policies previously issued. Johnston v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ins. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 438.

70. Denial of deficiency judgment to mortgagees. Burrows v. Vanderbergh [Neb.] 95 N. W. 57. A state statute forfeiting the estate of a mortgagee in possession under purchase at foreclosure, in case he fails to obtain a sheriff's deed within a certain time, construed in the state court to cut off the mortgagee's rights and reinvest title in the mortgagor without payment of his debt, violates the obligation of a contract where the foreclosure occurred prior to the enactment of the statute [Ill. Act March 22, 1872, § 30]. Bradley v. Lightcap, 195 U. S. 1, 24, 24 S. Ct. 748, 753.

71. Higginbotham v. McGready [Mo.] 81 S. W. 883.

72. Lewis v. Goldthwaite Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 797.

torney's fee is valid, though applying to notes given prior to its enactment.[73] Statutes changing the rate of interest on judgments are valid, even as applying to judgments previously entered,[74] and usury statutes do not affect the obligation of the contract, but pertain to the remedy only, by giving to the debtor the privilege of avoiding his contract when usurious, and their repeal without a saving clause takes away such privilege even as to contracts previously made.[75]

§ 14. Retroactive legislation; vested rights.[76]—Save under those constitutions which forbid retroactive laws, they may be passed so long as other constitutional limitations are untouched.[77] Thus contract rights acquired under a prior interpretation of the law cannot be divested by a subsequent reversal of that interpretation,[78] and a statute validating previously made contracts cannot divest ad interim acquired rights of third persons.[79] Under a reserved right to amend, an insurance charter may by statute be changed to allow a different plan of insurance,[80] but a beneficiary's right cannot be destroyed by the assured without consent.[81] It is not retroaction to recognize an existing claim or condition,[82] and prescribe remedies,[83] but rights acquired must not be unfixed.[84] Purely statutory rights,[85] such as the right of disposal by will,[86] do not become irrepealably vested. The right to office[87] and expectant pension benefits to an incumbent[88] are not vested, but rights under a contract for public service[89] are. The enforcement of a statute providing that laborers in mines be paid on certain dates is not an interference with vested rights.[90] The power of congress over foreign commerce being absolute, no one can have a vested right to trade with foreign nations.[91]

73. Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 72 P. 761.

74. Stanford v. Coram, 28 Mont. 288, 72 P. 655.

75. Petterson v. Berry [C. C. A.] 125 F. 902.

76. See 1 Curr. L. 589.

77. Though not prohibited in terms by the constitution, is nevertheless invalid if vested rights be destroyed and property taken without due process of law. Ordinance providing for reassessment of unauthorized local improvement. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 99 N. W. 557. A statute repealing the existing provisions for deficiency judgments of foreclosure of mortgages does not take away or impair the right of a mortgagee to such a judgment in any case where his mortgage was given prior to the time of its enactment. Burrows v. Vanderbergh [Neb.] 95 N. W. 57.

78. Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140; Graves v. Moore County, 135 N. C. 49, 47 S. E. 134. See, also, National Mut. Building & L. Ass'n v. Brahan, 193 U. S. 635, 24 S. Ct. 532. Statutes applying to the city of Toledo, under which assessments were made for local improvements, were subsequently held unconstitutional as special legislation. Price v. City of Toledo, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 57.

79. Steger v. Traveling Men's Building & Loan Ass'n, 208 Ill. 236, 70 N. E. 236.

80. Change from the assessment to the regular premium plan. Assessments became larger as to those who retained old policies. Wright v. Minnesota Mut. L. Ins. Co., 193 U. S. 657, 24 S. Ct. 549.

81. Sangunitto v. Goldey, 88 App. Div. 78, 84 N. Y. S. 989.

82. Moral claim involved in past transactions. State v. Gibson, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 433.

83. The Ray bill, forbidding a discharge in bankruptcy if the bankrupt has in voluntary proceedings been granted a discharge within six years, is not retroactive because applying to cases in which the first discharge has already been granted [Act Feb. 5, 1903, c. 487, 32 St. 798]. In re Carleton, 131 F. 146.

84. Statute legalizing organization of a school district where the controversy had not been decided. State v. Van Huse [Wis.] 97 N. W. 503.

85. Right to recover money paid on wagering contracts. Wilson v. Head, 184 Mass. 515, 69 N. E. 317.

86. Provision limiting the right of a wife to dispose of her property by will applies to property acquired by her prior to its enactment. Spurlock v. Burnett [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1221.

87. An officer appointed for a definite term has no vested property interest therein which may not be taken away by the legislature. Mial v. Ellington, 134 N. C. 131, 46 S. E. 961. Overruling the previous decisions of the court for 70 years.

88. Policeman by reason of holding office after the enactment of a statute pensioning policemen and their widows. State v. Board of Trustees of Policemen's Pension Fund [Wis.] 98 N. W. 954.

89. Right of a physician to compensation for his services by contract with a township board of health under the law in existence when the contract was made and the services performed. Kapp v. Board of Auditors of Washtenaw County [Mich.] 100 N. W. 603.

90. Commonwealth v. Reinecke Coal Min. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2027, 79 S. W. 287.

91. Buttfield v. Stranahan, 192 U. S. 470, 24 S. Ct. 349.

Interests in realty[92] once fixed cannot be diminished, but may be regulated,[93] while mere expectancies[94] or preferences[95] may be taken away. A privilege or franchise in a street is not an interest in the continued existence of the street.[96]

Taxes, licenses and public rights.[97]—A statute providing for the taxation, when discovered, of omitted property for all the years of its omission, is not objectionable as retrospective,[98] nor is a law authorizing the reassessment of further sums necessary to complete a local improvement already begun and assessed.[99] A statute imposing a tax on certain occupations, taking effect the year following its passage, cannot be objected to as retrospective or ex post facto.[1] The legislature may take away liquor licenses at pleasure.[2]

Laws affecting corporations.[3]—Whether a statute or ordinance reducing the rates to be charged by a public service corporation deprives it of its property without due process of law, denies it the equal protection of the law, or abridges its privileges and immunities, are questions to be determined by the court upon original independent investigation, and not by an examination of the proceedings before the legislative body to ascertain what evidence it had before it and the sufficiency thereof.[4] A mortgagee or purchaser acquires nothing which the mortgagor had not, and acquires no vested rights distinct from those of the corporation, as against the legislature.[5] Compliance with existing statutes by a foreign express company does not give it a vested right to do business subject only to such law, and exempt it from all future legislative control.[6] A statute making failure of a corporation to make reports evidence of nonuser of its franchise, such failure not being prior to that time, evidence of anything is not for that reason invalid.[7]

Regulation of procedure.[8]—No vested right in a particular remedy,[9] or rule of evidence, exists,[10] and a change in the law whereby a wrongdoer may have

92. See 1 Curr. L. 590. Purposes of and occasions for sale of land in course of administration cannot be changed after death of decedent. In re Newlove's Estate [Cal.] 75 P. 1083. Change of dower interest to the detriment of the widow's heirs after it has vested. Bottorff v. Lewis, 121 Iowa, 27, 95 N. W. 262. A statute enacted after a lease took effect cannot be applied in considering its terms. Caley v. Thornquist, 89 Minn. 348, 94 N. W. 1084.

93. Rights to the use of water acquired by prior appropriation. Willey v. Decker, 11 Wyo. 496, 73 P. 210.

94. Right of nonresident aliens to inherit real estate in the state. Donaldson v. State [Ind.], 67 N. E. 1029.

95. The preferential right given to a successful contestant of a claim to public land by the Federal statutes [24 Stat. 140]. Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808.

96. A statute requiring the removal of all overhead wires in streets and giving the option of placing them in conduits gives the owners no vested right against vacating streets wherein the conduits were built. Boston Elec. Light Co. v. Boston Terminal Co., 184 Mass. 566, 69 N. E. 346.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 590.

98. State v. Vogelsang [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1087. A statute merely providing for the listing for taxation and the collection of taxes on property that has escaped taxation in previous years interferes with no vested right. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 F. 830.

99. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

1. Kehrer v. Stewart, 117 Ga. 969, 44 S. E. 854.

2. Wallace v. Reno [Nev.] 73 P. 528, citing many cases.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 590.

4. Spring Valley Waterworks v. San Francisco, 124 F. 574.

5. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 230, citing Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Iowa, 94 U. S. 155.

6. Adams Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1033.

7. People v. Rose, 207 Ill. 352, 69 N. E. 762.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 591.

9. Statute providing that negotiable instruments may contain provision for attorney's fee may properly apply to existing contracts. Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 72 P. 761. Suit begun before adoption of constitutional amendment dispensing with unanimity of verdict. Roenfeldt v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 79 S. W. 706. Suit to determine water rights. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

10. The law of evidence is a part of the remedy and is subject to legislative control. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Limitation of purpose for which public record of birth, marriage or death may be shown. McKinstry v. Collins [Vt.] 56 A. 985.

contribution from his joint tort feasors, since it relates only to the remedy, is void, though it applies to torts committed before its enactment.[11] The Minnesota statute providing for the enforcement of stockholders' liability for corporate debts does not by reason of its construction as applicable to corporations organized before its enactment, contravene any provision of the Federal constitution.[12] Proceedings at an unauthorized meeting of a state board may be legalized.[13]

Statutes of limitation[14] affecting existing rights are not invalid if a reasonable time is given for the commencement of an action before the bar takes effect.[15] Whether or not the right to plead the statute of limitations is a vested property right, or merely remedial, is in many jurisdictions unsettled,[16] but a city being a mere agency of the state, a statute removing the state's claim against the city for its share of license money from the operation of the statute is not objectionable.[17]

§ 15. Deprivation without due process of law, or contrary to law of the land.[18]—The fourteenth amendment adds nothing to the rights of any citizen against another, but merely furnishes additional guaranties against any encroachment by the states upon the fundamental rights which belong to every citizen as a member of society.[19]

Due process of law does not necessarily require the interference of the judicial power,[20] though as applied to proceedings in court it means according to the settled course of judicial proceedings as regulated by the laws of the state wherein the proceedings are had.[21] It is satisfied by notice and a right to be heard,[22] and opportunity to enforce and protect one's rights.[23] It need not provide for 11. First Nat. Bank of Independence v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786.

12. Robinson v. Brown, 126 F. 429.

13. Tax commissioners. First Nat. Bank v. Isaacs, 161 Ind. 278, 68 N. E. 288.

14. See 1 Curr. L. 591.

15. Adverse possession of wild lands. Soper v. Lawrence Bros. Co., 98 Me. 268, 56 A. 908, citing Terry v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 632.

16. State v. City of Aberdeen, 34 Wash. 61, 74 P. 1022. The right of a judgment creditor to rebut the presumption of payment from lapse of time is a vested one, which the legislature cannot by subsequent legislation disturb or impair. Chiles v. School Dist. of Buckner [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 82.

17. State v. Aberdeen, 34 Wash. 61, 74 P. 1022.

18. See 1 Curr. L. 591.

19. United States v. Moore, 129 F. 630.

20. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 24 S. Ct. 789.

21. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49, citing Walker v. Sauvinet, 92 U. S. 90, 23 Law. Ed. 678; Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 Law. Ed. 565; Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701, 4 S. Ct. 663, 28 Law. Ed. 569; Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. [U. S.] 518, 4 Law. Ed. 629; Andrus v. Fidelity M. L. Ins. Ass'n, 168 Mo. 162, 67 S. W. 582; Cooley, Const. Lim. (6th Ed.) p. 431; City of St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876; Hibben v. Smith, 191 U. S. 310, 24 S. Ct. 88.

22. Hibben v. Smith, 191 U. S. 310, 24 S. Ct. 88; In re Sing Tuck, 126 F. 386; Johnson v. Hunter, 127 F. 219. Taxation proceedings. Godfrey v. Bennington Water Co., 75 Vt. 350, 55 A. 654. Notice outside the state may be sufficient. White v. White [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 A. 739. Notice of every step is not necessary. Adams v. Roanoke [Va.] 45 S. E. 881.

23. Provision in city charter requiring presentation of claims to council, and providing for appeal either by claimant or taxpayer to court is valid. State v. District Court, 90 Minn. 457, 97 N. W. 132.

Note: Constitutional or organic modes of procedure are a part of due process only where such guarantees reach. Thus, in Hawaii, an unanimous verdict of a jury is not necessary in criminal trials. Hawaii v. Edwards, 11 Haw. Rep. 571. In the Philippines, no jury at all is requisite or guaranteed. Door v. United States, 24 S. Ct. 808, 3 Mich. L. R. 56.

The right of a Chinaman to remain in the United States may be altogether submitted to the discretion of an administrative immigration commissioner. Chinese Exclusion Cases, 24 S. Ct. 621, 3 Mich. L. R. 57.

In a recent Kansas case (Hanson v. Krehbiel [Kan.] 75 P. 1041, 64 L. R. A. 790) was construed an act of the Kansas legislature providing that in the event of libel by a newspaper, the injured party should be restricted to "actual" damages if the defendant, after notice, made a full and fair retraction in a conspicuous place in the paper. It was held that to take away the right to recover general damages usual in libel cases was a deprivation of the remedy, and the act was declared to be unconstitutional. The court, in speaking of the "due course of law" secured by the Bill of Rights, said: "Whatever these terms may mean they do mean due and orderly procedure of courts in the the adjudication of all differences if other remedies are available.[24] Notice is necessary,[25] but a jury trial is not in all cases.[26] To arbitrarily exclude a person from a society because of his political affiliations and refuse reinstatement is not due process.[27]

Property[28] within this clause does not include the right to trade with foreign lands.[29] It does not consist in an exemption from regulation tending to safety[30] or public convenience[31] or necessary to public supervision of public service.[32]

The property of municipal corporations is the property of the state and may be taken from one and given to another at the will of the legislature so long as it is not thereby diverted from the public use for which it was acquired.[33] But the legislature cannot alter or extend the dedication of a public square as against an abutting owner who has purchased with reference to it,[34] and an irrigation district is not a municipal corporation to the extent that the legislature ascertainment of damages for injury to the end that the injured one 'shall have remedy,'—that is, proper and adequate remedy,—thus to be ascertained." This holding is supported by some authority. Park v. Detroit Free Press Co., 72 Mich. 560, 40 N. W. 731, 16 Am. St. Rep. 544, 1 L. R. A. 599; McGee v. Baumgartner, 121 Mich. 287, 80 N. W. 21. And it may be argued with reason that due process of law is not alone satisfied with notice and hearing. Even these safeguards would be empty forms if the suitor were to have no results from his litigation. It affects the remedy. The supreme court of Minnesota, construing a like statute differs. Allen v. Pioneer Press Co., 40 Minn. 117, 41 N. W. 936, 12 Am. St. Rep. 707, 3 L. R. A. 532. The opinion states: "After all the consideration that we are able to give to the subject, we are unable to say that the legislature has transcended its constitutional powers in imposing these restrictions and limitations upon the legal remedy of plaintiffs in actions for libel."—3 Mich. Law R. 61.

24. Refusal of a co-operative telephone service for nonpayment of tolls, though subscriber claims a set-off against the company of an amount greater than his indebtedness. Irvin v. Rushville Co-Operative Telephone Co., 161 Ind. 524, 69 N. E. 258.

25. Beebe v. Magoun, 122 Iowa, 94, 97 N. W. 986; In re New York, 89 N. Y. S. 6. Due process of law requires personal service of summons when practicable, and authorizes constructive service only when personal service is impracticable. Bear Lake County v. Budge [Idaho] 75 P. 614. Proceedings to sell land for nonpayment of tax, being in rem, personal notice to the owner is not necessary. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092. Published notice to all interested is not sufficient notice to a living person supposed to be dead, to justify special administration on his property. Clapp v. Houg [N. D.] 98 N. W. 710.

26. Summary proceedings to abate liquor nuisance. Kirkland v. State [Ark.] 78 S. W. 770.

27. Membership corporation, organized for social and literary purposes, pledged by its constitution to support a party. Stein v. Marks, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 591.

29. An act of congress prohibiting the importation of certain goods does not violate the due process clause. Buttfield v. Stranahan, 192 U. S. 470, 24 S. Ct. 349.

30. Law requiring railroad to keep its right of way clear of dry vegetation and undergrowth [Rev. St. 1889, § 2614]. McFarland v. Mississippi River & B. T. R. Co., 175 Mo. 423, 75 S. W. 152.

31. Statute requiring railroad to establish stations on its lines wherever the state commission directs. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Minnesota, 193 U. S. 53, 24 S. Ct. 396.

32. Regulation of the rate of fare on a street railroad not shown to be unreasonable. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106. Regulation of a water company requiring it to charge only reasonable rates. City of Tampa v. Tampa Waterworks Co. [Fla.] 34 So. 631. A reduction of water rates to an amount paying six per cent. on the actual value of the property is not confiscation. Stanislaus County v. San Joaquin & K. River Canal & Irr. Co., 192 U. S. 201, 24 S. Ct. 241.

33. Statute abolishing school districts and vesting property in towns is valid. In re School Committee of North Smithfield [R. I.] 58 A. 628. The legislature may transfer the possession and control of police station houses and other police property from the city to a board of commissioners, such transfer not being a diversion of the use to which it is dedicated. Wiggin v. City of Manchester [N. H.] 58 A. 523. That a constitutional amendment erecting a new county within the limits of an old one transfers the title to the property of the old county to the new is no objection to it. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 74 P. 167.

A statute authorizing the detaching of territory from one municipality and attaching it to another and making no provision as to municipal property and debts does not take property without due process of law and without compensation (City of Little Rock v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 79 S. W. 785), and a statute requiring a city having waterworks to furnish water to another contiguous city or town having none is valid (Chicago v. Cicero [Ill.] 71 N. E. 356); but a statute providing that money accruing from city licenses shall be divided between the state, county and city is not (State v. Boyd [Nev.] 74 P. 654).

34. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272.

may dispose of its property as it pleases, but as to its water it is a private owner and entitled to due process of law.[35]

The right to the use of the mails is a statutory privilege only and its withdrawal by the postmaster general for fraud is not a deprivation without due process of law.[36]

Liberty.—An alien unlawfully here has no liberty to remain.[37]

Reasonableness of regulations is not measured by any individual case.[38] It is dependent on public necessity or public welfare in view of the evil sought to be remedied.[39] A regulation must not take away the right to use the property.[40]

Regulations of business and occupations.[41]—Laws regulative of business that cannot be prosecuted without license,[42] prescribing hours of labor in certain unhealthy occupations,[43] and on public work,[44] and providing for the payment of laborers, are upheld.[45]

Due process is not denied by an ordinance prohibiting unauthorized dairies within the city limits,[46] nor by a prohibition of selling milk from cows fed on still slops.[47] Statutes prohibiting the use of trading stamps are invalid,[48] but a law prohibiting the sale by retailers of their stocks of goods without writing and record, and limiting the title of the purchaser, is not invalid as a deprivation without due process.[49] The anti-trust law of Kansas is not violative of the guar-

35. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist. [Cal.] 77 P. 937.

36. Missouri Drug Co. v. Wyman, 129 F. 623; Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 24 S. Ct. 789. The statute is not unconstitutional in that it authorizes the return to the senders of remittances sent to the debarred persons; such act is not a confiscation of the property of the addressee, but a mere refusal of the facilities of the postoffice department. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 24 S. Ct. 789. The statute authorizing the postmaster general to seize and detain all mail matter addressed to persons excluded from the use of the mails because of fraudulent practices is not unconstitutional because it may include letters in no way connected with the fraud. Id.

37. Deporting does not deprive him without due process of law [Act March, 1903, 32 St. 1213]. United States v. Williams, 194 U. S. 279, 24 S. Ct. 719.

38. A law requiring the substitution of individual water closets for school sinks in tenement houses is not a deprivation of property though in an individual instance the expense of making the change exceeds the owner's equity in the property. Tenement House Dept. v. Moeschen, 89 App. Div. 526, 85 N. Y. S. 704.

39. Held reasonable. Prohibiting the use of unregistered docked horses. Bland v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 359. Vaccination of children as a condition of their attendance at the public schools. Viemeister v. White, 88 App. Div. 44, 84 N. Y. S. 712.

40. An ordinance conferring on the council arbitrary power to refuse building permits is void. Negro church. Boyd v. Board of Councilmen, 25 Ky. L. R. 1311, 77 S. W. 669.

41. See 1 Curr. L. 592.

42. A law prohibiting hackmen from permitting their horses and vehicles to stand on any public street for hire, or from walking or driving through the streets soliciting patronage is not invalid as a deprivation without due process, since they have no right to conduct business in the public street except as licensees. People v. Sewer, W. & S. Commission, 90 App. Div. 555, 86 N. Y. S. 445. The sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors not being a matter of right, but subject to state regulation or prohibition, the enactment of a prohibitory law is not invalid on the ground that it deprives a dealer or manufacturer of his property without due process of law. August Busch & Co. v. Webb, 122 F. 655.

43. Statutes limiting hours of labor. People v. Orange County Road Construction Co. [N. Y.] 65 L. R. A. 33, note. A statute limiting the hours of labor in bakeries and confectionery manufactories is valid. People v. Lochner, 177 N. Y. 145, 69 N. E. 373. A statute limiting the hours of labor of workers in mines, smelters, and ore reduction mills is unobjectionable. In re Boyce [Nev.] 75 P. 1.

44. A statute providing that 8 hours shall constitute a day's work on public work does not, as applied to one contracting for such work after its passage, deprive him of his property without due process of law. Atkin v. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207, 24 S. Ct. 124.

45. A statute prohibiting the assignment of future wages, and agreements relieving employers from paying weekly in full, is not a deprivation without due process. International Text-Book Co. v. Weissinger, 160 Ind. 349, 65 N. E. 521. A statute prohibiting the issuance by any employer of any token not redeemable in current money at its face value on demand, violates the due process clause. State v. Missouri Tie & Timber Co. [Mo.] 80 S. W. 933.

46. Fischer v. St. Louis, 194 U. S. 361, 24 S. Ct. 673.

47. Sanders v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 1165, 77 S. W. 358.

48. State v. Dodge [Vt.] 56 A. 983; Young v. Com., 101 Va. 853, 45 S. E. 327; State v. Ramseyer [N. H.] 58 A. 958.

49. Walp v. Mooar, 76 Conn. 515, 57 A.

anty,[50] and a statute providing a penalty against an express company unjustly discriminating against another company in the same business does not deprive it of its property without due process of law on the theory that it has a right to demand prepayment of charges of whom it will.[51]

Statutes creating a liability may be valid,[52] and the mechanic's lien law of Ohio does not, in providing a lien for subcontractors and others who furnish the contractor, deprive the owner of his property without due process of law.[53] A statute may provide for an attorney's fee in certain cases as a penalty for delay in payment of a legal claim until suit brought.[54]

Local assessments for improvements[55] require notice[56] and an opportunity to be heard before the assessing body, but no appeal.[57] One who has a mere right to purchase public lands so assessed need not be notified.[58] Pecuniary interest in assessing officers must be such as to incapacitate them or the levy is valid.[59] Where power is reserved in the charter of a street railway company to alter, amend, or repeal it at will, proceedings under a statute requiring it to extend its road along certain streets, and assessing it with benefits for widening such streets, does not deprive it of property without due process of law.[60] Assessments by the front foot rule are not necessarily invalid,[61] unless out of all proportion to benefits conferred,[62] or assessed regardless of special benefits conferred.[63] Those who petition under an invalid law cannot complain that it deprives them.[64]

Drainage acts[65] satisfy the requirement of due process where the land owner has notice of the assessment[66] though no appeal is provided for,[67] but notice is necessary,[68] though a further assessment of sums necessary to complete a local improvement is not invalid for want of notice.[69]

277; Squire & Co. v. Telller [Mass.] 69 N. E. 312.

Contra: Block v. Schwartz [Utah] 76 P. 22; Miller v. Crawford [Ohio] 71 N. E. 631.

50. State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.

51. Adams Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 67 N. E. 1033.

52. See 1 Curr. L. 593.

53. Great Southern Fire Proof Hotel Co. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 532, 24 S. Ct. 576, citing many cases.

54. Foreclosure of lien based on assessment for local improvement. Brown v. Central Bermudez Co. [Ind.] 69 N. E. 150. Recovery from railroad company on suit to recover the cost by an adjoining owner of fencing its right of way. Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Salmon, 161 Ind. 131, 67 N. E. 918.

55. A scheme of taxation for drainage purposes held not violative of the constitution. Burguieres v. Sanders, 111 La. 109, 35 So. 478. See 1 Curr. L. 593.

56. In re City of New York, 89 N. Y. S. 6. Notice to abutters will not sustain assessments against other owners of land in vicinity. Beebe v. Magoun, 122 Iowa, 94, 97 N. W. 986. Notice by publication of the boundaries of the assessment district is sufficient. City of St. Joseph v. Truckenmiller [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1116.

57. Such hearing may be conclusive. Hibben v. Smith, 191 U. S. 310, 24 S. Ct. 88. That the right of appeal is given in case of property in cities assessed for a local improvement, and not in favor of property in towns does not render the statute invalid. Deane v. Indiana Macadam & Construction Co., 161 Ind. 371, 68 N. E. 686. Notice of every step is not necessary if taxpayer is given opportunity to be heard before the assessment is finally determined upon. Adams v. Roanoke [Va.] 45 S. E. 881; City of St. Joseph v. Truckenmiller [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1116. Due process is not denied by local improvement statutes and proceedings providing notice and a hearing to all interested persons. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874.

58. Expense to be a lien on adjacent tide lands owned by the state which adjacent owners of uplands have the first right to purchase. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 845.

59. That a majority of the commissioners owned property benefitted by the improvement does not so incapacitate them. Hibben v. Smith, 191 U. S. 310, 24 S. Ct. 88.

60. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Macfarland, 20 App. D. C. 421.

61. Deane v. Indiana Macadam & Const. Co., 161 Ind. 371, 68 N. E. 686; Adams v. Roanoke [Va.] 45 S. E. 881; Ross v. Kendall [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1107.

62. McMillan v. Butte [Mont.] 76 P. 203.

63. Lathrop v. Racine, 119 Wis. 461, 97 N. W. 192.

64. Shepard v. Barron, 194 U. S. 553, 24 S. Ct. 737.

65. See 1 Curr. L. 594.

66. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

67. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Grayson [Ark.] 78 S. W. 777.

68. Notice to abutters will not support assessment against other owners in vicinity. Beebe v. Magoun, 122 Iowa, 94, 97 N. W. 986.

69. Stone v. Little Yellow Drainage Dist., 118 Wis. 388, 95 N. W. 405.

Taxation.[70]—A taxing act which exceeds the power of the legislature is void and proceedings thereunder do not constitute due process of law.[71] The right of a taxpayer to be heard is constitutional, and the legislature cannot in the first instance, nor by a curative statute, deprive him of it,[72] but notice to the owner of the assessment and levy of a tax is not necessary where a writ of error is provided for review of the assessment.[73] A state does not infringe the rights of a taxpayer by exempting a corporation from a tax wholly or in part,[74] and due process of law is not denied by the Federal statute taxing oleomargarine, because congress has not seen fit to tax natural butter.[75] A statute making an agent personally liable for the taxes on funds he holds for investment does not deprive him without due process,[76] but a statute imposing a privilege tax on the business of advertising in cars, depots, etc., and providing that the railway company leasing the privilege shall be liable for the tax, is invalid.[77] A statute imposing a tax on real estate where the manufacture or sale of cigarettes is carried on is valid though not providing for notice of its assessment, and providing for collection by summary method,[78] but a statute providing that a building within 500 feet of a hydrant may be assessed for fire protection, if water from the waterworks is not used therein, is invalid.[79]

A statute forfeiting title to lands ipso facto for nonpayment of taxes, without any judicial determination, is invalid,[80] but proceedings to foreclose a tax lien are not without due process for want of notice where in accordance with the state law publication is made and any one interested has a right to appear and defend,[81] and notice by publication is sufficient though addressed to a person other than the owner and the owner is nonresident.[82]

Civil remedies and proceedings.[83]—Statutes of limitation are not open to the objection that they deprive persons of their property without due process of law.[84] Notice ordinarily necessary is not so if it could work no benefit.[85] Service of foreign corporations[86] and nonresidents[87] may be upon the persons of

70. See 1 Curr. L. 594.

71. Connecticut inheritance tax law is valid. Appeal of Nettleton, 76 Conn. 235, 56 A. 565.

72. Godfrey v. Bennington Water Co., 75 Vt. 350, 55 A. 654.

73. Nathan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 76 P. 521.

74. Missouri v. Dockery, 191 U. S. 165, 24 S. Ct. 53.

75. McCray v. U. S., 196 U. S. 27, 24 S. Ct. 769.

76. Heinz v. Board of Equalization of City of Davenport, 121 Iowa, 445, 96 N. W. 967.

77. Knoxville Traction Co. v. McMillan [Tenn.] 77 S. W. 665.

78. Hodge v. Muscatine County, 121 Iowa, 482, 96 N. W. 968.

79. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539.

80. Parish v. East Coast Cedar Co., 133 N. C. 478, 45 S. E. 768. State constitutions or statutes that attempt to divest the title of the owner of lands and vest it in another for nonpayment of taxes, without any judicial proceeding and do not provide for redemption, or for a sale and return of the proceeds over and above the taxes and fees, violate the provision requiring due process of law. King v. Hatfield, 130 F. 564; Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co., 135 N. C. 742, 47 S. E. 757.

81. Leigh v. Green, 193 U. S. 79, 24 S. Ct. 390. Four weeks' notice by publication of the sale of lands for nonpayment of a tax is not unconstitutional as unreasonably short. Johnson v. Hunter, 127 F. 219.

82. Williams v. Pittock [Wash.] 77 P. 385.

83. See 1 Curr. L. 695.

84. Linton v. Heye [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1040. A statute limiting the time within which possession can be claimed or defended under a tax deed is one of limitations. St. Mary's Power Co. v. Chandler-Dunbar Water Power Co. [Mich.] 95 N. W. 654.

85. That no notice to a litigant of the filing of an affidavit disqualifying the trial judge is required by a statute is no ground of invalidity, since the mere filing of the affidavit accomplishes its purpose and notice to the adversary would not benefit him. State v. Clancy [Mont.] 77 P. 312.

86. Service of process on the secretary of a foreign corporation maintaining its principal place of business in a state in accordance with the state statute is sufficient [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4875]. Smith v. Empire State-Idaho Min. & Development Co., 127 F. 462.

87. The Massachusetts statute providing for service in a cross action on the attorney appearing for a nonresident plaintiff is valid [Rev. Laws, c. 170, §§ 2, 3]. Arkwright Mills v. Aultman & T. Machinery Co., 128 F. 195.

their officers and representatives, and service outside the state may suffice.[88] A statute providing for the appointment of a guardian for a minor child without notice to the parent is not a deprivation of the parent of any valuable right, the state having a right to provide for the custody and control of children.[89]

Recent statutes permitting amendment of the statement for mechanic's lien after suit brought,[90] authorizing an inspection of mines in an action to determine adverse claims thereto,[91] authorizing a directed verdict,[92] and providing that plaintiff in forcible entry proceedings shall, on filing bond, be entitled to a writ of restitution before judgment,[93] have been sustained, while a law attaching conclusiveness to a tax receipt[94] has been held invalid.

Recovery against the master alone in a tort action against master and servant jointly does not deprive the master of his property without due process of law on the theory that he is thereby deprived of his right of reimbursement from the servant.[95]

The right to a new trial after judgment is not specifically granted by the constitution, nor a right essential to due process of law, but is a statutory privilege granted to an aggrieved party on statutory conditions which must be complied with.[96]

A statute providing that tender of the amount of the debt shall divest the title of the purchaser at foreclosure sale does not unjustly deprive him,[97] but due process of law is denied by a statute which divests the title of a mortgagee in possession under purchase at foreclosure for failure to obtain a sheriff's deed within a stated time.[98]

A statute authorizing special administration on the estates of persons believed to be dead is invalid when applied to the estate of a living person,[99] but a statute providing for administration of the estates of persons presumed to be dead by reason of their long absence does not deprive such persons of their property without due process of law, being strictly in rem and all rights of the owner being preserved.[1]

The rents of a married woman's separate estate being community property, she is not deprived thereof without due process of law by the appointment of a receiver for rents of property mortgaged by herself to secure a debt of her husband, she having joined in an assignment of the rents.[2]

Criminal offenses and procedure.[3]—To constitute due process of law in a criminal case, there must be a law describing the offense, an accusation informing the accused of the nature of the offense must be presented, he must have his day in court, and his trial must proceed according to established procedure consisting of rules of pleading and practice before a court of competent juris-

88. Notice of proceedings for an increase of the allowance for the support of children of divorced parents. White v. White [N. J. Err. & App.] 55 A. 739.

89. In re Lundberg [Cal.] 77 P. 156.

90. Atkinson v. Woodmansee [Kan.] 74 P. 640.

91. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist., 28 Mont. 528, 73 P. 230.

92. Where evidence demands and there is no conflict. Tilley v. Cox, 119 Ga. 867, 47 S. E. 219.

93. Morris v. Healy Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 451, 74 P. 662.

94. Making the possession of a tax receipt conclusive evidence that all prior taxes have been paid takes the county's property without due process. Harris v. Stearns [S. D.] 97 N. W. 361.

95. Southern R. Co. v. Carson, 194 U. S. 136, 24 S. Ct. 609.

96. Etchells v. Wainwright, 76 Conn. 534, 57 A. 121.

97. Leet v. Armbruster [Cal.] 77 P. 653.

98. Bradley v. Lightcap, 195 U. S. 1, 24, 24 S. Ct. 748, 753.

99. Clapp v. Houg [N. D.] 98 N. W. 710. See, also, Romy v. State [Ind. App.] 67 N. E. 998.

1. Cunnius v. Reading School Dist., 206 Pa. 469, 56 A. 16.

2. De Berrera v. Frost [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 637.

3. See 1 Curr. L. 595.

diction.[4] An erroneous decision by a state court as to what the common law of a subject is, if violative of no fundamental right, or specific constitutional provision, does not deny him due process of law.[5] A statute authorizing the seizure and summary destruction of only such property as is made and kept solely for gambling[6] or other unlawful purposes does not deprive the owner without due process,[7] but property of a nature innocent in itself cannot be so destroyed without hearing merely because it has been put to an unlawful use.[8] A statute defining and punishing incest, though not making knowledge of the relationship an element of the crime is not for that reason invalid,[9] and a statute providing for the summary punishment of election officers for contempt of court is valid;[10] but a statute prohibiting the use of the national flag for advertising and label purposes in so far as it applies to articles manufactured before its enactment is invalid.[11] A statute limiting the fees a justice of the peace may receive from the county in criminal cases in any one month cannot be considered as depriving the citizen of his liberty on the ground that by convicting one accused of crime the justice might increase his fees.[12] The conviction in regular manner of a city lot owner of a violation of an ordinance prohibiting growths of weeds on city lots is due process.[13]

The Federal supreme court will not inquire whether the indictment on which the accused was convicted in the state court sufficiently charged an offense,[14] and a statute providing for the indictment of an accessory before the fact in similar terms to a principal is not a deprivation.[15]

The due process clause is not violated by a statute making the possession of policy slips prima facie evidence of guilt,[16] and the reading of the deposition of an absent witness does not deprive the accused on trial in a state court of his liberty without due process of law.[17] Proceedings before the district court of Kansas to take testimony under the Anti-Trust Law of that state are judicial and constitute due process.[18]

§ 16. Compensation for taking property.[19]—The power of eminent domain is inherent in every independent government; it is not conferred by the constitutions of the American states, the provisions therein being limitations merely on the exercise of the power.[20] The constitutional provision that private property shall not be taken nor damaged for public use without just compensation[21]

4. Jamison v. Wimbish, 130 F. 351.

5. West v. La., 194 U. S. 258, 24 S. Ct. 650. The decision of a state court that certain acts constitute an offense at the common law presents no Federal question. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49. Where the highest court of a state holds that an instruction in a criminal case correctly defining reasonable doubt is sufficient without reference to the presumption of innocence, an instruction following the rule cannot be regarded by the Federal supreme court as a denial of due process. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49; Howard v. North Carolina, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49.

6. Sand. & H. Dig. § 1618. Garland Novelty Co. v. State, 71 Ark. 138, 71 S. W. 257. Code 1899, c. 151, § 1. Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 275.

7. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505.

8. Guns, etc., used in violating game law. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505.

9. State v. Glindemann, 34 Wash. 221, 75 P. 800.

10. Sherman v. People [Ill.] 71 N. E. 618.

11. People v. Van De Carr, 178 N. Y. 425, 70 N. E. 965.

12. Herbert v. Baltimore County Com'rs, 97 Md. 639, 55 A. 376.

13. City of St. Louis v. Galt [Mo.] 77 S. W. 876.

14. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 24 S. Ct. 49.

15. People v. Nolan [Cal.] 77 P. 774.

16. Adams v. New York, 192 U. S. 585, 24 S. Ct. 372.

17. West v. Louisiana, 194 U. S. 258, 24 S. Ct. 650.

18. State v. Jack [Kan.] 76 P. 911.

19. See 1 Curr. L. 696. See extended treatment in Eminent Domain, 1 Curr. L. 1002.

20. Shively v. Lankford, 174 Mo. 535, 74 S. W. 835. The power of eminent domain is a power recognized but not granted by the constitution, it being inherent in the government. Samish River Boom Co. v. Union Boom Co., 32 Wash. 586, 73 P. 670.

21. Gaylord v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 204 Ill. 571, 68 N. E. 522; Juvinall v. Jamesburg Drainage Dist., 204 Ill. 106, 68 N. E.

