7. Burns' Ann. St. 1894, § 5646, repealing an assessment lien within two years does not extend the life of the lien after the expiration of the two years as against a purchaser not made a party.[8] A lien for an assessment cannot be foreclosed pending an appeal by property owners from the action of a common council approving the assessment.[9]

The Kansas City charter provision requiring plaintiff in a suit to enforce a special tax bill to file a statement with the city treasurer showing the tax bills sued on, when and in what court, and against whom the suit has been brought, is constitutional, except so far as it attempts to penalize failure to file the statement.[10] Such statement being filed before the two-year lien of the tax bill had expired, and stating that suit had been brought, was sufficient to continue the lien during proceedings though it did not state when suit was brought.[11]

When the legal and illegal portions of the cost of a work, represented by a tax bill, are separable, the bill may be enforced as to the legal portion only.[12] Where on trial of a suit on a special tax bill, the theory adopted by plaintiff was that the work was done as required, he could not recover on a quantum meruit for actual work done, but he must recover full value or nothing.[13] The circuit court of Missouri may, in condemnation proceedings, order the damages allowed to be paid into court, and retained to satisfy special tax bills previously issued against the property condemned.[14] The money so paid into court represents the land and an assignee of a special tax bill has the same right thereto as he would have had against the land.[15]

In Missouri, a general judgment may be recovered against a city on special tax bills for the city's share of the cost of a street improvement.[16] Such judgment may properly bear interest.[17] The city's liability for improvements does not arise out of contract but out of the benefit to its property; hence it cannot urge the invalidity of the contract for the improvement in an action on tax bills against it.[18] The statute authorizing such judgment does not conflict with the constitutional provisions exempting the property of municipal corporations from taxation,[19] nor with that prohibiting the general assembly from imposing taxes on cities for county, city, town, or other municipal purposes.[20] A city cannot urge that the statute providing for such judgment conflicts with the constitutional provision limiting indebtedness to the amount of the yearly income and revenue when there is no evidence as to the amount of such income and revenue.[21]

Owners of street improvement bonds, issued in Indiana for the purpose of anticipating the collection of assessments, may sue thereon to enforce collection by foreclosure or otherwise.[22] There need be no resolution of the city council author-former laws. Ellison v. Branstrator [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 146.

8. Street Improvement Act, § 9, provides the lien shall continue two years. Page v. Chase Co., 145 Cal. 578, 79 P. 278.

9. Under Acts 1901, c. 231, §§ 4, 5. City Bond Co. v. Bruner [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 711. The same is true though the appeal is taken by property owners affected, other than those against whom the assessment lien is sought to be foreclosed. City Bond Co. v. Wells [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 713.

10, 11, 12. Haag v. Ward [Mo.] 85 S. W. 391.

13. St. Louis Charter, art. 6, § 25, authorizing unworkmanlike work to be pleaded in reduction held not applicable. Heman v. Larkin [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1019.

14. This procedure does not violate the constitutional provision as to compensation for property condemned. Ross v. Gates, 183 Mo. 338, 81 S. W. 1107.

15. Ross v. Gates, 183 Mo. 338, 81 S. W. 1107.

16. Rev. St. 1899, § 5682. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64.

17. Ten per cent under direct provisions of Rev. St. 1899, § 5664. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64.

18. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64.

19. Const. art. 10, § 6. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64.

20. Const. art. 10, § 10. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64.

21. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64.

22. Burns' Ann. St. 1894, §§ 4296, 4290, izing the suit, nor is a demand upon the city to pay or collect the bonds a prerequisite to the bringing of the action to enforce the lien of the assessment.[23] In such action an averment that the city failed and refused to pay the amount of the assessments is merely formal and no proof thereof is required.[24]

Notice[25] of the proceeding by publication is due process of law.[26] Parties who appear and offer objections to an application for sale, waive a defect in the notice consisting of a mistake in their names, and the court has jurisdiction.[27] The warning order required in Arkansas need not be entered of record nor on the complaint.[28]

Limitations[29] against a valid assessment[30] is tolled by a suit against proceeds of the land as well as against the land itself.[31] The Kentucky statute limiting liability for assessments to five years applies to the collection of the assessment by distraint as well as to suits to enforce the lien.[32]

Pleading and proof.[33]—A complaint in an action to foreclose an assessment lien need not include, by reference or otherwise, the preliminary proceedings, when the assessment itself is included therein, and a general allegation states that the proper steps have been taken.[34] Where a city, in proceedings to enforce liens for sidewalk improvements, relies on the acquiescence of the owners in the making of the improvement, the issue of acquiescence should be tendered in the complaint.[35] Plaintiff makes a prima facie case in an action to foreclose the lien of an assessment by introducing in evidence the assessment, diagram, warrant, return, and engineer's certificate.[36] While suit to enforce a tax bill may be against any person having an interest in the property, the bill is not prima facie evidence of liability against anyone except the person named therein as owner.[37] A city seeking to enforce a sidewalk assessment against a lot, must prove the making and filing of a special tax list against the lot[38] and due service of the tax warrant.[39]

4294. Scott v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 548, 70 N. E. 879.

23, 24. Scott v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 548, 70 N. E. 879.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1356.

26. Acts 1895, p. 88, c. 71, relative to the action to enforce levee taxes, providing for notice by publication, affords due process of law. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252. A sworn complaint in proceedings for sale of property for levee taxes, stating which defendants were nonresidents, is sufficient to authorize notice to such defendants by publication, without an affidavit [Acts 1895, p. 89, c. 71]. Id. Certificate of publication of notice of application for judgment of sale held not defective. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 410, 72 N. E. 1084.

27. Dickey v. People, 213 Ill. 51, 72 N. E. 791.

28. Acts 1895, p. 89, c. 71, providing for suits to enforce levee taxes, does not so require; if it had so required, proceedings could not be collaterally attacked for want of it, unless it was made jurisdictional. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1356.

30. Failure to fix a grade before assessment, in violation of a charter, did not exempt the land from taxation within the meaning of § 1189, Rev. St. 1898, providing that the limitation statute does not apply where the land assessed is not liable to taxation. Hamar v. Leihy [Wis.] 102 N. W. 568. Nor did the fact that land was assessed with land belonging to another have the effect of rendering the tax certificate void within the meaning of that statute. Id.

31. Where by charter the lien of a special tax bill continues for one year after the last instalment of the tax falls due, an action within such time to recover payment on a tax bill from a fund reserved from the proceeds of a condemnation proceeding against the land is in time though no suit has been brought against the land. Ross v. Gates, 183 Mo. 338, 81 S. W. 1107.

32. City of Lexington v. Crosthwaite, 25 Ky. L. R. 1898, 78 S. W. 1130.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1357.

34. Helm v. Witz [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 846. Complaint in action to foreclose lien of assessment, containing copy of assessment, and referring to estimate of engineer, held to sufficiently describe the property. Id.

35. Town of Greendale v. Suit [Ind.] 71 N. E. 658.

36. Dowling v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc., 143 Cal. 425, 77 P. 141. Resolution of intention to improve a street held to have been sufficiently identified in the records to sustain a prima facie case in an action to foreclose an assessment lien. Id.

37. City of St. Joseph v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 84 S. W 98. The owner of property, within the meaning of a statute requiring tax bills to state the owner's name, is the person having the record title, in the absence of knowledge to the contrary. Rev. St. 1899, § 5686, construed. Id.

38. 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 857, c. 24. People v. Record, 212 Ill. 62, 72 N. E. 7.

One objecting to an assessment on the ground of irregularity in the proceedings must prove facts to sustain his objection.[40] The burden is on defendants to show portions of a tax bill invalid, because involving costs not properly charged to the owner.[41]

Defenses.[42]—Delay in issuing tax bills, caused by litigation, is no defense in an action thereon.[43] The doctrine concerning bona fide purchasers for value cannot be relied on in a suit to enforce the lien of an assessment.[44] Where land is erroneously described in the assessment roll, the owner may defend an action to foreclose a tax lien thereon on the ground that his land has not been taxed.[45] That part of the work done was repair work, chargeable to the city, was no defense to an action on a tax bill for reconstruction when the evidence showed that the city had paid for the repairs.[46] That the work as completed is substantially different from that authorized by the ordinance is a good defense, if the cost has been thereby materially increased;[47] but changes in the plan with permission of the proper authorities is not a defense, if the cost is not increased.[48] A general taxpayer cannot object to payment for a street improvement, completed under a valid resolution, out of the general fund.[49] Irregularities do not constitute a defense in the absence of proof that the objectors were prejudiced thereby.[50] Errors

39. Handing a bill of costs to the marshal, and service of it by him, is not the issuance and service of a warrant for a tax as required by 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, and ordinance pursuant thereto. People v. Record, 212 Ill. 62, 72 N. E. 7. Nor is the handing of such bill to the clerk with the oral statement that, after demand, the marshal had been unable to collect, a sufficient return. Id.

40. Objection that proceedings to let contract were not taken in time held not sustained. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 347, 72 N. E. 1062. In an action to enforce the lien of a tax bill, the burden is on defendant to prove the ordinance providing for the improvement was invalid. Dollar Sav. Bank v. Ridge, 183 Mo. 506, 82 S. W. 56.

41. Haag v. Ward [Mo.] 85 S. W. 391.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1355.

43. Where tax bills were required to be issued within twenty days after completion of the work, but the law provided that delay should not render the same invalid, a delay of five years, caused by long litigation, was held not fatal to the tax bills. Dollar Sav. Bank v. Ridge, 183 Mo. 506, 82 S. W. 56.

44. One who purchased land after an assessment had been declared void, and before a reassessment was made, could not raise that defense. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44.

45. City of Rochester v. Farrar, 44 Misc. 394, 89 N. Y. S. 1035.

46. Perkinson v. Schnake [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 301.

47. As where grade was changed in street improvement. Eustace v. People, 213 Ill. 424, 72 N. E. 1089.

48. A street which was being improved crossed a railroad at an acute angle, and by agreement, the road put in the crossing at a right angle, necessitating a deflection in the roadway. Held, this was not a deviation from the contract such as to invalidate the assessment, no greater burden being thereby placed upon the property owners. Orth v. Park & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1910, 79 S. W. 206. Nor did the fact that the clerk of the board of public works failed to enter the order providing for the change defeat the lien of the assessment. Id. Changes may be made in the plan of work, upon the written agreement of the board of public works, with the consent of the contractor, after the contract has been let. Such changes are no defense to an action on apportionment warrants, so long as they do not increase the cost, as where street grade, as fixed by ordinance, was changed, so as to reduce the cost under Ky. St. 1903, § 2830. Lindenberger Land Co. v. Park & Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 213.

49. Especially after permitting the work to be completed without objection. Shelby v. Burlington [Iowa] 101 N. W. 101.

50. The objection that an assessment is void because certain land owners by agreement with the contractors waived their statutory right to take the contract in consideration of a 25% reduction in their assessment is unavailing if the objectors do not show that they were prejudiced by such agreement. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661. That an ordinance and contract provided for pavement on both sides of a street cannot be objected to by a property owner unless he can show he was prejudiced thereby. Langan v. Bitzer, 26 Ky. L. R. 579, 82 S. W. 280. The defense that an apportionment was not legally or correctly made cannot be relied on in the absence of proof that under a correct apportionment the charge against the objector's property would be lessened. Baldrick v. Gast, 25 Ky. L. R. 1977, 79 S. W. 212. The invalidity of an apportionment on one side of a street which is to bear one-half the cost of an improvement cannot affect the validity of the apportionment on the other side, which bears the other half. Lindenberger Land Co. v. Park & Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 213. Failure to publish an ordinance providing for an improvement for the required time after it became effective will not invalidate the assessment for the improvement in the absence of a showing that some property owner was thereby prejudiced. Burke v. Wapakoneta, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482.

cured by statute cannot be relied on,[51] but statutes designed to prevent property owners from taking advantage of technical defenses do not authorize recovery of an assessment for work done pursuant to a wholly void contract.[51a]

Waiver and estoppel to urge defenses.[52]—The trend of recent decisions involving questions affecting the validity of assessments for local improvements is to be less technical than formerly, and to require owners whose property may be assessed to be at least reasonably diligent in protecting their rights before the improvements are completed,[53] and objections, not jurisdictional, but going merely to irregularities in proceedings, cannot be first raised in an action to enforce an assessment.[54] Thus, it is held that owners who stand by until a public work is completed and accepted, without availing themselves of opportunities to object before the tribunals provided by law, cannot, when suit is brought to enforce assessments, object to the regularity of the assessment.[55] Such conduct has been held to estop the owner from objecting that the ordinance providing for the work was irregularly adopted,[56] that the work was not done in accordance with the ordinance,[57] that the letting of the contract was irregular,[58] that a member of the council was interested in the contract, in violation of the statute, no actual fraud being shown,[59] that provisions of a contract, which did not increase the cost of the work, were invalid,[60] or that property has been unjustly omitted from the assessment district.[61] But where an improvement is unauthorized and the tax therefor void, a property owner is not barred from contesting a tax lien by not having objected to proceedings before the council.[62] Property owners who have petitioned for a street improvement are estopped to urge the invalidity of proceedings or the assessment, unless the city council never had jurisdiction, or so far departed from

51. A mistake in the christian name of the owner of property in an apportionment warrant is cured after completion of the work by Ky. St. 1903, § 2834. Langan v. Bitzer, 26 Ky. L. R. 579, 82 S. W. 280.

51a. Code Iowa 1873, §§ 478, 479, not available as against defense that contract was void. Allen v. Davenport [C. C. A.] 132 F. 209.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1355.

53. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142.

54. City of Aberdeen v. Lucas [Wash.] 79 P. 632.

55. Ferry v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 652, 76 P. 277. After the completion of an improvement and a long lapse of time, most assessments having been paid, an assessment will not be held invalid unless the language of the statute clearly requires it. Wells v. Street Com'rs of Boston [Mass.] 73 N. E. 554. On application for a judgment of sale for an assessment, no objection which could have been raised in the proceedings for making or confirming the assessment will be heard [Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 24, § 572]. Goldstein v. Milford, 214 Ill. 528, 73 N. E. 758; Harman v. People, 214 Ill. 454, 73 N. E. 760. On such application want of jurisdiction to enter the judgment of confirmation must appear on the face of the record; it cannot be shown by extraneous evidence. Goldstein v. Milford, 214 Ill. 528, 73 N. E. 758. Owners of property in front of which water pipes were laid in the street without objection from them, and who used the water so supplied, will not be heard to complain of mere informalities in regard to the ordering of the work. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16.

56. Objection was that an ordinance authorizing an improvement, and another ordinance for a street improvement were both passed on the same day without objection. City of Louisville v. Gast, 26 Ky. L. R. 412, 81 S. W. 693.

57. Baldrick v. Gast, 25 Ky. L. R. 1977, 79 S. W. 212.

58. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122. An objection that a contract was not let within the time provided by law cannot be first raised on application for judgment of sale for the assessment, in the absence of any showing of injury. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 468, 72 N. E. 1108. On appeal from a judgment of sale it will be presumed, in the absence of contrary evidence, that the first step to let a contract for a street improvement was taken within 90 days after expiration of the term at which the assessment was confirmed. Id. Tax bills will not be held void for acts of the contractor's agent in securing the contract, in the absence of proof of fraud or collusion, especially after full performance of the contract. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 48 Law. Ed. 1142.

59, 60. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542.

61. Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126; City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114; O'Dea v. Mitchell, 144 Cal. 374, 77 P. 1020. Failure of a property owner to object to the limits of an assessment district made by the council is a waiver of the objection and makes the action of the council conclusive. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661.

62. Carter v. Cemansky [Iowa] 102 N. W. 438.

established methods as to oust it of jurisdiction.[63] A property owner cannot acquiesce in the mode of payment adopted by a city council until the lapse of the limitation period and then rely upon limitations in bar of the city's claim against him.[64]

The defense that an improvement was made under an unconstitutional law is not precluded by conduct of the owners.[65]

Property owners are not barred by laches from showing invalidity of assessments because of want of notice of a hearing on the improvement, though such objection is first raised when suit is brought for sale of the land.[66]

A charter provision that no objection can be urged in an action on a tax bill unless such objection has been filed with the board of public works within sixty days after issuance of the bill is a denial of due process of law.[67]

Payment of part of an original assessment estops a subsequent grantee from denying the validity of the obligation,[68] unless the assessment was void.[69] But one claiming under a tax deed may object to prior special assessments notwithstanding the fact that owners prior to the sale paid part of the taxes without objection.[70] Estoppel arises against a grantee seeking to escape a street assessment when it appears that the assumption of that particular assessment constituted a part of the purchase price,[71] and that he purchased after the resolution declaring the necessity for the improvement and the ordinance ordering the improvement were passed, but before the passage of the ordinance assessing the property.[72] Estoppel does not arise against a grantee where the provision in the deed as to payment of the assessment does not specify any particular assessment on any particular street.[73] A conveyance "subject to all incumbrances of record" does not estop the grantee from attacking the validity of an assessment on the land.[74]

The judgment.[75]—As there is no personal liability for a street assessment, there can be no deficiency judgment in an action for its foreclosure.[76] Interest and a reasonable attorney's fee are properly included in a judgment in an action under the Indiana law by the holders of street improvement bonds to enforce the lien of assessments.[77] Interest is recoverable on an apportionment warrant, when no new apportionment has been necessary.[78]

If a court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter and owners of property affected, a judgment for an assessment is valid, and any defense against the assessment by reason of errors or irregularities in the proceedings prior to the judgment is res judicata.[79] Where, in a suit against a property owner for the recovery of a tax, it has been finally adjudged that the tax is invalid and no recovery thereon

63. City of Aberdeen v. Lucas [Wash.] 79 P. 632.

64. City of Lexington v. Bowman [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1161.

65. The fact that property owners petitioned for consideration of a street improvement by the board of public improvements, and later permitted the work to be completed without objection, did not estop them from contesting the validity of the tax. Perkinson v. Hoolan, 182 Mo. 189, 81 S. W. 407.

66. Auditor General v. Calkins [Mich.] 98 N. W. 742.

67. Kansas City Charter, art. 9, § 23, is unconstitutional. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062; Schibel v. Merrill [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1069.

68. Gilfeather v. Grout, 91 N. Y. S. 533.

69. Payment of an instalment of a void assessment by one through whom plaintiff claimed title, did not estop plaintiff from contesting the lien of the assessment. Carter v. Cemansky [Iowa] 102 N. W. 438.

70. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City [Iowa] 101 N. W. 268.

71, 72, 73. Waldschmidt v. Bowland, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 99.

74. Carter v. Cemansky [Iowa] 102 N. W. 438.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1357.

76. Page v. Chase Co., 145 Cal. 578, 79 P. 278.

77. Scott v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 548, 70 N. E. 879.

78. Langan v. Bitzer, 26 Ky. L. R. 579, 82 S. W. 280.

79. As objection that there was no proper petition. Hanse v. St. Paul [Minn.] 102 N. W. 221.

can be had, no subsequent legalizing statute will operate to nullify such judgment, and subject the property owner to another suit for recovery on the same demand.[80] A decree of a court of competent jurisdiction is not subject to collateral attack because lands were sold thereunder for illegal penalties and costs.[81] The validity of a judgment of sale for prior delinquent instalments may not be questioned on application for sale for the fourth instalment.[82]

The order of sale follows the language of the statute and need not contain anything which it does not require.[83] The obtaining of jurisdiction by notice need not be recited in the statutory form, when jurisdiction was obtained by appearance of the parties and the entering of objections.[84] A judgment of sale is fatally defective if it is not certain in amount or does not find a sum of money due for taxes and costs,[85] but a slight error in the name of the board making the assessment is not cause for reversal.[86] Two judgments cannot be entered against the same lot for the same assessment,[87] but a regular, signed judgment of sale is not rendered void by another judgment of sale on the same assessment which is not signed.[88]

The sale and redemption.[89]—In some states it is the law that special assessments are certified to the officer charged with collection of general taxes and if they become delinquent the lands are sold to pay the two kinds of taxes according to the mode of sale for delinquent general taxes. A full treatment of the law of tax sales will be found elsewhere.[90] The assessment and levy of special taxes having been made with opportunity to owners to be heard, no other notice than that which the law itself gives of the enforcement and collection of the tax by sale is necessary.[91] The fact that no further notice is required does not render the statute governing such sale unconstitutional because providing for the taking of property without due process of law.[92] A sale under a judgment foreclosing a tax lien cannot pass title to a tract of land other than that described in the assessment roll.[93] A purchaser at a sale for taxes and special assessments takes the property free from special assessments as well as taxes.[94] Where an assessment is wholly void, a purchaser at the sale cannot recover from the owner the value of the improvements on the theory of benefits conferred.[95] The right to refundment of money paid by a purchaser at a tax sale, after the sale has been held invalid, is statutory.[96] The existence of a bond constituting a lien on land for 80. McManus v. Hornaday, 124 Iowa, 267, 100 N. W. 33.

81. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252.

82. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 410, 72 N. E. 1084.

83. Method of sale of lots for assessments having been changed by Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 1428, the order of sale need not now contain the statutory words "or so much of each of them as shall be sufficient." Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 347, 72 N. E. 1062.

84. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 347, 72 N. E. 1062.

85. Judgment defective when there was nothing to show figures meant dollars and cents. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 347, 72 N. E. 1062.

86. Board of West Chicago Park Commissioners described as Board of West Park Commissioners. Cummings v. People, 213 Ill. 443, 72 N. E. 1094.

87. A judgment of sale was entered but was not signed by the judge. A second judgment was properly entered which did not purport to be an amendment or correction of the first. Held, power of court was exhausted by first judgment. Dickey v. People, 213 Ill. 51, 72 N. E. 791.

88. Cummings v. People, 213 Ill. 443, 72 N. E. 1094.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1357.

90. See the topic Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

91. Where land is sold for taxes under Sess. Laws 1903, c. 76, p. 519. City of Beatrice v. Wright [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1039. The notice given as required by the general revenue law (Comp. St. 1903, art. 1, c. 77, § 193 et seq.), for the sale of realty for taxes is not a notice of sale under the special provisions of Sess. Laws 1903, c. 76, p. 519. Id.

92. City of Beatrice v. Wright [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1039.

93. City of Rochester v. Farrar, 44 Misc. 394, 89 N. Y. S. 1035.

94. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City [Iowa] 101 N. W. 268.

95. Carter v. Cemansky [Iowa] 102 N. W. 438.

96. The right is not contingent, under the St. Paul charter, upon the bringing of an a street improvement, after a sale of the land for unpaid instalments, does not affect the right to redeem from the sale; hence mandamus will not lie to compel cancellation of the bond by the treasurer until the owners redeem.[97]

The purchaser at a sale alone may question the redemptioner's right; other owners liable to contribute cannot.[98]

(§ 8) K. Remedies by injunction or other collateral attack, and grounds therefor.[99]—In general, collection of an assessment will be enjoined only when proceedings are wholly void,[1] as for want of notice of the intention to assess.[2] Mere irregularities, to which property owners have failed to object when opportunity to do so was afforded, cannot be made the ground for relief in equity,[3] as by injunction,[4] or by a decree annulling the assessment.[5] Relief against an excessive assess-action to test the validity of the proceeding within three years from the date of sale. The right to refundment exists when the proceedings have been held invalid in any form of action, before or after the running of the limitation statute. Otis v. St. Paul [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1066.

97. Ellis v. Workman, 144 Cal. 113, 77 P. 822.

98. Drainage assessments. Ellison v. Branstrator [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 146.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1358.

1. Proceeding being wholly void and not merely irregular, suit to enjoin collection of assessment certificates will lie. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542. Suit to enjoin sale for assessment not barred by failure to appear and object when assessment was void. Gallaher v. Garland [Iowa] 101 N. W. 867. Collection of a special assessment will not be enjoined unless the assessment is void, or levied without authority of law, or the property assessed is exempt. Lyman v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 209, 71 N. E. 832. That the improvement is not being made in conformity with the provisions of the ordinance is not ground for an injunction; the remedy is by mandamus. Id. A court of equity will not enjoin an assessment when the benefits conferred equal the amount of the assessment. A court after hearing the evidence may say it will enjoin if assessments exceed a certain amount, otherwise not, and so practically fix the assessment. Thornton v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 31.

2. A property owner who has no notice of an intention to assess his property for grading does not waive objections by seeing the work done. Gallaher v. Garland [Iowa] 101 N. W. 867. The owner of property, 700 feet from a sewer, who had no notice of an intention to assess such property for the sewer, until it was completed was not estopped to set up the invalidity of the proceedings by suit to enjoin collection. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

3. Before parties aggrieved by an assessment levied under a fixed rule which appears to be reasonable and likely to proximate an equality of assessments can appeal to a court of equity to relieve them from an alleged excess, or because their property was not in fact benefited, they must at least first apply for such relief to the special tribunal which the law has provided to settle these questions. Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126. Thus, the objection that a sewer is an improvement of such nature that the cost should be borne by the city and not by a district cannot be first raised in a court of equity. Id.

4. Objection that itemized estimate of cost was not included in resolution cannot be made the basis of suit to enjoin collection of assessment. Lyman v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 209, 71 N. E. 832. Collection of an assessment in full will not be enjoined on the ground that it includes more than the council was authorized to incur, when there is no question that the expense charged was actually and properly incurred and property owners had full knowledge of what was being done. City of Akron v. France, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 496. The making of an improvement will not be enjoined on the ground that the assessment therefor was to be by the front foot, where the property owner has opportunity to object to the assessment in the course of the proceedings. McKee v. Pendleton, 162 Ind. 667, 69 N. E. 997.

5. The objection that there was no valid judgment confirming a special assessment cannot be raised in a proceeding to set the assessment aside, when such objection could have been raised on the hearing of an application for judgment of sale for delinquency. Lyman v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 209, 71 N. E. 832. After completion of paving without objection, property owners could not have lien annulled on ground of invalidity of contract. Bacas v. Adler, 112 La. 806, 36 So. 739. An improvement being patent to all who saw the lots, and the fact that assessments thereon were unpaid being easily ascertainable, a claim by petitioners to vacate assessments that they purchased without notice of such unpaid assessments is without merit. In re Hollister, 96 App. Div. 501, 89 N. Y. S. 518. Where a remonstrator to a public work alleged generally that proceedings were void, but did not raise the point that the petition was improperly signed by executors of deceased owners instead of the heirs, that objection could not be raised as ground to set aside the assessment. Stewart v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 613. Complainant not entitled to have assessment set aside when he resided on the street but made no objection to the improvement. Farr v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 19. Property owners who have failed to object cannot be heard to say that their property was in fact injured and not benefited, in an action to annul the assessment. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114. A property owner is not estopped to attack, through suit to set aside a tax bill, the formation of an assessment district for a street improvement by allowing work to be completed, where the only objection open to ment will not be granted unless the amount justly due is tendered,[6] except where the entire assessment is illegal as substantially in excess of benefits.[7] The grantee of land subject to special assessments, who has agreed to assume and pay such assessments as a part of the consideration, cannot maintain a suit in equity to enjoin collection.[8] Where in a proceeding to enjoin collection of special taxes, the city relies on a waiver of the thirty days' notice to property owners to designate paving materials, such waiver must be pleaded.[9] Proceedings of a council altering and amending an estimate and a report by a city engineer on an assessment, after the commencement and during pendency of a suit to enjoin collection of the assessment, cannot validate the assessment, or affect the rights of a party to such suit.[10]

A suit to quiet title as against the lien of a void assessment will not be barred by laches since, the original assessment being void, there could be no reassessment.[11] Where in a proceeding to set aside an assessment on a lot as a cloud on title, the complaint did not set up the irregularity in the proceedings, but evidence of the facts constituting the same was admitted without objection, the omission in the complaint was immaterial.[12] Suits questioning the validity of assessments,[13] such as an action to cancel a tax certificate or set aside a sale,[14] must be brought within the time prescribed by statute for such proceedings.

(§ 8) L. Appeal and other direct review. Appeal.[15]—Where in a proceeding to confirm a special assessment, the order allowing an appeal provides for a joint appeal only, a single property owner is not entitled to maintain a separate appeal.[16] Appeals from final order to the county court under the levee act lie to him was as to "the proposed improvement" and "the kind of material and manner of construction." Collier's Estate v. Western Pav. & Supply Co., 180 Mo. 362, 79 S. W. 947.

6. The court should determine the amount justly due, by computation or from proof offered, and require the payment of such amount as a condition of granting relief against the excess. Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675. Though an assessment is excessive, the property owner is not thereby relieved from the payment of any tax; he must pay what is equitable, and a tender of such amount is a condition precedent to the maintenance of an action to annul an assessment. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117; City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122. Property owners cannot, in a suit to annul an assessment, complain that the city auditor has added interest, and that the assessment had been prematurely declared due without tendering the amount they consider due. Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126. A property owner cannot, after his property has received the benefits of an improvement, the contract for which contained illegal provisions, refuse to pay his proportionate share of the just cost, and at the same time have the city perpetually enjoined from collecting anything on account of the improvement, where it appears that the cost was within the assessment of benefits. Treat v. Chicago [C. C. A.] 130 F. 443.

7. Iowa Pipe & Tile Co. v. Callanan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 141. Erroneous action by a board of equalization causing an excessive and unjust assessment upon a particular piece of property will not defeat the whole tax, in equity, where the prior proceedings have been regular. Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675.

8. Eddy v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 25. When in foreclosure sales, tax liens are deducted from the appraisal, a purchaser who buys under such appraisal is presumed to have assumed and agreed to pay the liens, unless something to the contrary appears in the record. Id. Such a purchaser is estopped to contest the validity of special assessments on the land in a proceeding to enjoin collection. Id.

9. Eddy v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 25.

10. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

11. Carter v. Cemansky [Iowa] 102 N. W. 438.

12. Harriman v. Yonkers [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 493.

13. Section 34 of Denver Charter, art. 7, precluding maintenance of a suit questioning the validity of an assessment on any but constitutional grounds, after 30 days from publication of the assessing ordinance, and § 62 limiting the period in which an action may be brought to impeach an assessment on any ground, are not in conflict. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142. Section 34 is not invalid as special legislation, nor does it conflict with § 6 of the Bill of Rights guarantying remedies in court for injuries to person or property. Id.

14. Rev. St. 1898, § 1210h, that no action to cancel tax certificates or set aside a tax sale shall be brought after one year from the date of the sale applies to sales for municipal street improvements. Hamar v. Leihy [Wis.] 102 N. W. 568.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1360.

16. Construing 4 Starr & C. Ann. St. p. 201, c. 24, par. 132, relating to the allowance of appeals. Lingle v. Chicago, 210 Ill. 600, 71 N. E. 590.

the circuit court and not to the appellate court.[17] A writ of error from a judgment confirming an assessment will be dismissed unless accompanied by an affidavit as to the time when notice of the delinquency and confirmation of the assessment came to the applicant for the writ.[18] The final order of confirmation of the report of the commissioners of estimate and assessment for the opening of a street can be attacked only by an appeal or a direct action to set it aside.[19] An estimate by a city engineer on a paving contract is a claim against the city such that a taxpayer may appeal from the order of the council approving and allowing it to the district court.[20] Pending such appeal the comptroller is not required to deliver the warrant for the payment of the estimate to the claimant.[21] The review of an assessment made by drainage commissioners is properly imposed upon a court of chancery.[22]

PUIS DARREIN CONTINUANCE; PURCHASE-MONEY MORTGAGES, see latest topical index.

QUESTIONS OF LAW AND FACT.

Province of Court and Jury in General (1165). | Particular Facts or Issues (1166).

Scope of topic.—Only the general principles are here treated, with a few illustrative applications. Whether particular facts or issues are questions of law or fact is considered as germane to the particular subject involved, and is treated in the topic referring thereto.[23] The propriety of taking a case from the jury is also elsewhere treated.[24]

Province of court and jury in general.[25]—In general, all issues of fact are to be tried and determined by the jury,[26] while questions of law are to be determined solely by the court.[27] When there is no jury, the findings of fact by the court, or master or referee,[28] are distinct from the findings of law, and have somewhat the same force as a verdict.[29] The court cannot invade the province of the jury by instructions[30] on the weight or credibility of the evidence,[31] or by instructions assuming as proved facts in issue.[32] But though the weight[33] and credibility[34]

17. Where confirmation of special assessments is involved, the appeal is to the supreme court. In re Petition of McCaleb, 105 Ill. App. 28.

18. Lingle v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 512, 72 N. E. 677.

19. Greater New York charter. In re Opening of Whitlock Ave., 101 App. Div. 539, 92 N. Y. S. 18.

20. Within the meaning of § 33 of the Omaha charter. Lobeck v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 247.

21. Lobeck v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 247.

22. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141.

23. See such titles as Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805; Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764; Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533; Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Street Railways, 2 Curr. L. 1742; Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593; Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

24. See Directing Verdict and Demurrer to Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1093; Discontinuance, Dismissal, and Nonsuit, 3 Curr. L. 1097.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1361.

26. Hehir v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 246. Binding instructions cannot be given when there is nothing in a case but a question of fact. Blue v. Hunt, 208 Pa. 248, 57 A. 576.

27. An instruction that "defendant is liable, if without good cause and validity under the law, he repudiated his contract," is erroneous because submitting an issue of law to the jury. Harmison v. Fleming, 105 Ill. App. 43. Whether an official was entitled, under the law, to compensation for collecting taxes is a question of law. City of Oakland v. Snow, 145 Cal. 419, 78 P. 1060.

28. See Masters in Chancery, 2 Curr. L. 867; Reference, 2 Curr. L. 1484.

29. See Verdicts and Findings, 2 Curr. L. 2019; Masters in Chancery, 2 Curr. L. 867; Reference, 2 Curr. L. 1484; Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 271.

30. See Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133.

31. Weight of the evidence is exclusively for the jury, and instructions thereon are erroneous. Harman v. Maddy Bros. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1009. Erroneous instruction on weight to be given contradictory statements of witness. Bradley v. Gorham [Conn.] 58 A. 698. Error to instruct jury to ignore testimony regarding mental healing as contrary to well established laws of nature. Post v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1.

32. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

33. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dick, 25 Ky. L. R. 1831, 78 S. W. 914; Bissell v. York of evidence are solely for the jury, the probative tendency of evidence is for the court.[35] Thus where a foundation is needful to render testimony admissible, sufficiency of the evidence to that end is for the court.[36] The jury must pass upon material issues of fact upon which the evidence is conflicting,[37] or such that more than one reasonable inference may be drawn therefrom.[38] But if the facts are undisputed,[39] and such that reasonable men in the exercise of an unprejudiced judgment could draw but one conclusion therefrom,[40] a question of law only is presented. Generally speaking, if there is evidence tending to show the plaintiff's right to recover, the case should go to the jury.[41]

Particular facts or issues.[42]—The existence of a contract,[43] the adequacy of consideration,[44] and whether an undertaking is original or collateral, so as to be without or within the statute of frauds,[45] are held questions of fact. Ordinarily, the legal effect[46] and construction[47] of written instruments is for the court. But if the language used is ambiguous and uncertain, letting in extraneous evidence,

[Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 282; Woodard v. Cooney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 598; Meyers v. Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 347.

34. Bradley v. Gorham [Conn.] 58 A. 698; Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94; Glasscock v. Swofford Bros. Dry Goods Co., 106 Mo. App. 657, 80 S. W. 364; Sternaman v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 94 App. Div. 610, 87 N. Y. S. 904. Whether a witness was corroborated. Haggerty v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 336. Where the credibility of a sole witness is questioned, the jury should pass on the issues. Payne v. Union Life Guards [Mich.] 99 N. W. 376. Reasonableness of witness' explanation of contradictory statements on stand for jury. Piehl v. Piehl [Mich.] 101 N. W. 628. Jury properly permitted to pass on the credibility and value of testimony as to the law of another state, consisting of a deposition of an attorney as to what he believed it to be. Hancock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 952.

35. The probative tendency of evidence is for the court; its probative force for the jury. Southern Loan Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435. Whether there is evidence legally tending to prove a fact alleged is for the court; its weight, and the ascertaining where the preponderance is, is for the jury. Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099. Whether there is evidence in the case legally sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to recover is a question of fact for the court, sitting as a jury, to pass on. Leviness v. Kaplan [Md.] 59 A. 127.

36. See Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.

37. Booth v. Fordham, 91 N. Y. S. 406; Coolidge v. New York, 90 N. Y. S. 1078; Kehl v. Abrahm, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347. Evidence conflicting as to location of division line between lots. Daley v. Wingert [Pa.] 59 A. 982. It is the peculiar province of the jury to reconcile conflicting evidence, and in so doing they may call into exercise their own experience and general knowledge. Young v. Irwin [Kan.] 79 P. 678.

38. Though evidence is undisputed, if it is such as to afford ground for opposing inferences of fact in the minds of reasonable men, it is for the jury. Tracy v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 Vt. 313, 57 A. 104.

39. Hendley v. Globe Refinery Co., 106 Mo. App. 20, 79 S. W. 1163. Facts being undisputed, whether a contract of sale was performed was for the court. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144.

40. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. De Clow [C. C. A.] 124 F. 142.

41. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50. There being evidence tending to support plaintiff's claim, the character of property seized on execution, and whether exempt, should have been submitted to jury. O'Reilly v. Erlanger, 92 N. Y. S. 56. Evidence being admitted without objection, it should go to the jury, though incompetent as not the best evidence. Wilson v. Wilson, 106 Mo. App. 501, 80 S. W. 711. There is a case for the jury where there is a conflict of evidence with testimony admitted without objection which supplies material averments of the petition. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Tehan, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145. See Directing Verdict and Demurrer to Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1093; Discontinuance, Dismissal, and Nonsuit, 3 Curr. L. 1097.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1363.

43. Existence of special contract between shipper and carrier. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodward [Ind.] 73 N. E. 810. Time of signing contract. Klosterman v. United States Elec. Light & Power Co. [Md.] 60 A. 251.

44. Whether consideration for note transferred by husband to wife was adequate. Southern Loan Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435.

45. East Baltimore Lumber Co. v. K'nessett Israel Anshe S'phard Congregation [Md.] 59 A. 180.

46. In the absence of fraud the effect of documents as muniments of title is a question of law. Brewer v. White [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 641.

47. Norton v. Shields, 132 F. 873; Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386. Duty of court to construe all written papers, acts of the assembly, and minutes of city council. Bedenbaugh v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 53. Construction of unambiguous letters and telegrams containing instructions to real estate broker, and authority thereby conferred, for court. Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071.

the interpretation of the language, and intention of the parties, is for the jury.[48] Comparisons of genuine signatures with alleged spurious signatures are for the jury.[49]

It is the province of the jury to determine between what parties the relation of agency existed;[50] the proper amount of an assessment against property;[51] the dedication of land for a highway;[52] whether an alleged telephone conversation took place;[53] whether a bankrupt was insolvent at the time of giving an alleged preference, and whether the creditor had reasonable cause to believe that it was intended thereby to give a preference.[54] The application of ordinances[55] and what constitutes an estoppel[56] are for the court.

The existence of negligence[57] or fraud,[58] the question of proximate cause in personal injury actions[59] or other actions for damages,[60] of probable cause for attachment,[61] and what damages, if any, are recoverable by a passenger in a suit against a carrier,[62] are ordinarily questions for the jury. But when only one inference can reasonably be drawn from undisputed facts, negligence is a question of law.[63] Whether a given state of facts, if found to exist by a jury, constitute a nuisance, is ordinarily a question of law, or at least a mixed question of law and fact.[64]

QUIETING TITLE.

§ 1. Chancery and Statutory Remedies and Rights. Nature and Office. Form or Nature of Proceedings (1168). Title and Possession (1168). Possession (1169). Defenses (1170).
§ 2. What Is a Cloud or Conflicting Claim (1170).
§ 3. Procedure (1171).
A. Quieting Title and Statutory Equivalents. Petition for an Issue (1171). Jurisdiction, Venue, and Place of Trial (1171). Service of Process (1172). Parties (1172). Sufficiency of Bill, Complaint, or Petition (1172). An Answer (1173). Dismissal and Judgment on the Pleadings (1173). Jury Trial (1174). Evidence (1174). Burden of Proof (1175). Variance (1175). Harmless Error (1175). Findings, Decree, or Judgment (1175). Costs (1176). An Occupying Claimant (1176).
B. Determination of Conflicting Claims to Real Property (1176).

---

48. Norton v. Shields, 132 F. 873. Whether a deed, absolute on its face, was intended as a mortgage. Reich v. Dyer [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 922. Language in deed being ambiguous, intention of parties is for jury. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781. A timber contract being sufficient to pass title, but ambiguous and uncertain as to what was conveyed, that question was for jury, parol evidence being admissible to explain the ambiguity. Ward v. Gay [N. C.] 49 S. E. 884. When there is a disputed question of fact as to the intention of a grantor in a deed, the description being ambiguous, the question is for the jury. Leverett v. Bullard, 121 Ga. 534, 49 S. E. 591.

49. Groff v. Groff, 209 Pa. 603, 59 A. 65.

50. Whether a person was the agent of plaintiff or defendant held a mixed question of law and fact. Gough v. Loomis, 123 Iowa, 642, 99 N. W. 295.

51. Whether property has been assessed more than it will be benefited, and more than its proportionate share of the cost of an improvement. Clark v. Chicago, 214 Ill. 318, 73 N. E. 358.

52. Gerhards v. Johnson, 105 Ill. App. 65.

53. Whether or not a telephone conversation took place as alleged. McCarthy v. Peach [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1029.

54. Verdict of jury thereon conclusive on supreme court. Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33.

55. The fact that such ordinances were in force being admitted. Barton v. Odessa [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1119.

56. Daley v. Wingert [Pa.] 59 A. 982.

57. Price v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co., 92 Minn. 238, 99 N. W. 887. Unless standard of ordinary care is fixed, contributory negligence is for the jury. Lebeau v. Dyerville Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 1092. Whether a servant, kicked by a horse, was handling the animal in a horseman-like manner. Hagen v. Ice Delivery Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 592.

58. McMillan v. Reaume [Mich.] 100 N. W. 166. Whether transfer was made with actual intent to defraud creditors. Mowry v. Reed [Mass.] 72 N. E. 936.

59. Brewster v. Elizabeth City [N. C.] 49 S. E. 885.

60. Cause of damage to shipment of stock. Southern R. Co. v. Railey Bros., 26 Ky. L. R. 53, 80 S. W. 786.

61. Where the attorney is falsely informed as to the facts, or is not informed as to all the facts, the question of probable cause for attachment is for the jury. Voss v. Bender, 32 Wash. 566, 73 P. 697.

62. Whether passenger was put to expense, inconvenience, and discomfort by being compelled to walk between street car stops. Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Hooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 113.

63. Maine Water Co. v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co. [Me.] 59 A. 953; Stein-

§ 1. Chancery and statutory remedies and rights. Nature and office. Form or nature of proceedings.[65]—The proceeding to quiet title is equitable, and to entitle the complainant to relief he must do equity.[66] It is analogous to ejectment in that the complainant must recover, if at all, on the strength of his own title,[67] but differs from it in that it is equitable and unless otherwise provided by statute complainant must be in possession,[68] and from forcible entry and unlawful detainer[69] in that title is involved. The proceeding may be maintained without the plaintiff having first established his title at law,[70] and is properly brought though the issues to be determined are legal.[71] A cloud constituting a defense at law may be removed.[72] A suit to set aside a decree may be maintainable as one to remove a cloud,[73] and is not in its nature a bill of review.[74] An action to remove an option to purchase which plaintiffs had prior to the commencement of the suit declared forfeited is not an action to declare a forfeiture.[75] The legal capacity of a grantee in a chain of title will not be determined.[76] Where one who has agreed to indemnify another against a certain claim, acquires by assignment a judgment based on such claim, the other may, as against him, maintain an action to have the judgment canceled as a cloud.[77]

Title[78] and possession in the complainant are essential, both in the suit in dorff v. St. Paul Gaslight Co., 92 Minn. 496, 100 N. W. 221.

64. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1366.

66. Where one seeks to quiet his title against a vendor's lien, he is not entitled to relief if the consideration on account of which the lien exists is not paid, though an action to recover it is barred by limitations. Cassell v. Lowry [Ind.] 72 N. E. 640. A grantee who assumes an apparent lien as part of the purchase price cannot quiet title against it on the ground that it is not enforceable against his grantor. McGregor v. Eastern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Neb.] 99 N. W. 509. In an action to remove an option to purchase as against an assignee, a payment made by the assignee to his assignor and by him turned over to plaintiff need not be returned to the assignee. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519.

67. See post, this section. See, also, Ejectment, 3 Curr. L. 1157.

68. See post, this section "Possession."

69. See Forcible Entry and Unlawful Detainer, 3 Curr. L. 1435.

70. Where plaintiff is the owner and in possession and there is an outstanding claim which appears to impair his title which may be shown by extrinsic proof to be void. Greenfield v. U. S. Mortg. Co., 133 F. 784.

71. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 11. Chenault v. Eastern Ky. Timber & Lumber Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1078, 83 S. W. 552.

72. A fraudulent conveyance. Wood v. Fisk [Or.] 77 P. 128.

73. Where the decree constitutes a cloud. Jewett v. Boardman, 181 Mo. 647, 81 S. W. 186.

74. Suit to cancel a judgment as a cloud. Smith v. Nelson [Or.] 78 P. 740.

75. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519.

76. Whether a corporation was properly organized to authorize it to engage in the business it was pursuing cannot be raised by objection to the admissibility of its deed. Thomas v. Wilcox [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1072.

77. Evidence held to show such an agreement. Smith v. Nelson [Or.] 78 P. 740.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1368. The action cannot be maintained by one having no present legal or equitable interest in the land. Stockton v. Craig [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 386. Weakness of the title of the adversary will not sustain the bill. Mills v. Henry Oil Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 157.

Title sufficient: Absolute title claimed in good faith accompanied by adverse possession for the period prescribed by limitations is sufficient. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862. A purchaser from a mortgagor who redeemed from foreclosure sale has title. Evidence held to show that the mortgagor redeemed from the sale. Alexander v. Goetz [Ala.] 37 So. 630. Evidence held to show that one claiming title under a sheriff's deed was not guilty of fraud in the transaction out of which the claim on which the judgment was based arose. Relender v. Riggs [Colo. App.] 79 P. 328.

Evidence sufficient to show title in plaintiff as heirs of one who acquired by adverse possession. O'Neal v. Bellevue Imp. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1028. That land deeded for reclamation purposes only had never ceased to be used for such purposes. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638. That plaintiff was owner of a leasehold and rightfully in possession and that defendant had no title or right thereto or thereon. Fitchette v. Victoria Land Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 655. That plaintiff (grantor) never authorized the delivery of a deed deposited in escrow, except on condition that the grantee should survive him. Skinner v. Kelley [Mich.] 101 N. W. 205. Title in one claiming under a contract to support his grantor as against one claiming under a will. Best v. Gralapp [Neb.] 99 N. W. 837. That one holding under a sheriff's deed claimed title in good faith. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862. To show plaintiffs to be bona fide purchasers without notice of defendant's equity under a equity and the statutory equivalents,[79] unless otherwise expressly provided[80] or the land is vacant and unoccupied,[81] and complainant must recover on the strength of his own title and not on the weakness of the title of his opponent.[82] A mere claim of title is insufficient.[83] The plaintiff must establish a title superior to that of his opponent.[84] He may show a claim connecting himself with the state,[85] build up title by adverse possession,[86] or show a title superior to that of his opponent under a common grantor.[87] If both claim from a common source, plaintiff need do no more than establish his own title as derived from such source,[88] but if they do not he must connect himself with the paramount title.[89] Where title is derived from the foreclosure of a lien, compliance with statutory requirements must be shown.[90]

In some states the action will lie relative to any interest or estate of which the law takes cognizance.[91] Whence, one having a lien by virtue of a mortgage has an "estate or interest,"[92] but even here it will not lie relative to a portion of the public domain by one who has not filed a possessory claim and has never had possession.[93]

Possession.[94]—The proceeding being in the nature of a suit in slander of title,[95] as a general rule, both in equity and under the statutes of most of the states, a bill either to quiet title or remove a cloud can be maintained only where the plaintiff is in actual possession,[96] and if the defendant is in possession, equity contract of sale. Alexander v. Goetz [Ala.] 37 So. 630.

Evidence insufficient to show title in the defendant. Townsend v. Trustees of Freeholders & Commonalty of Brookhaven, 97 App. Div. 316, 89 N. Y. S. 982. To establish a parol boundary agreement. Moore v. Mauney, 25 Ky. L. R. 2274, 80 S. W. 458. Agency and tenancy of one claiming under a sheriff's deed held a disability on the part of the grantee. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862. Evidence held to show no title or interest in one claiming by virtue of homestead rights in his ancestor. Saddlemire v. Stockton Sav. & Loan Soc., 144 Cal. 650, 79 P. 381. Uncorroborated though not directly contradicted testimony as to a lost lease held discredited by circumstances. Plaintiff held to have title by adverse possession. Howatt v. Green [Mich.] 102 N. W. 734.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1367. Where plaintiff's title is void and he is not in actual possession, he is not entitled to judgment though defendant has no title. Nolen v. Hall, 26 Ky. L. R. 773, 82 S. W. 418. Complaint alleging possession of mining claim held to show possession of extralateral rights. United States Min. Co. v. Lawson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 769.

80. See post, § 3, "Jurisdiction." Rev. St. 1899, § 650. Spore v. Ozark Land Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 556.

81. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622.

82. Nix v. Pfeifer [Ark.] 83 S. W. 951; Krotz v. Beck Lumber Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 273; Townsend v. Trustees of Freeholders & Commonalty of Brookhaven, 97 App. Div. 316, 89 N. Y. S. 982. Where the issues are the same as in an ordinary action of ejectment. Williams v. Northwest Quarter, Section Four, etc. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 316.

83. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141. A claim by adverse possession not based on color of title is insufficient upon which to maintain the action or require an exhibition of the nature of the adversary's claim. Muckle v. Good [Or.] 77 P. 743.

84. Code, § 4184, relative to recovery of real property has no application. English v. Otis [Iowa] 101 N. W. 293; Di Nola v. Allison, 143 Cal. 106, 76 P. 976.

85, 86, 87. Marshall v. Corbett [N. C.] 50 S. E. 210.

88. English v. Otis [Iowa] 101 N. W. 293.

89. Where parties do not claim from a common source and defendant is in possession. Harmon v. Goggins [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1088.

90. Where title depends upon the validity of statutory liens and the proceedings which followed thereon. Krotz v. Beck Lumber Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 273.

91. Rev. St. 1887, § 4538. Johnson v. Hurst [Idaho] 77 P. 784. One having a colorable title. Johnson v. Hurst [Idaho] 77 P. 784; Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 391.

92. An owner of a note secured by a trust deed may maintain the action against parties claiming adverse to the deed, under Code Civ. Proc. § 675, providing that the action may be maintained by any person against another claiming adversely to his interest. Battelle v. Wolven [S. D.] 102 N. W. 297.

93. Where it appears that the plaintiff or his predecessor has never occupied nor filed a possessory claim as required by Rev. St. 1887, § 4552. Branca v. Ferrin [Idaho] 77 P. 636.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1367.

95. Patterson v. Landru, 112 La. 1069, 36 So. 857.

96. Tarwater v. Going, 140 Ala. 273, 37 So. 330; Mills v. Henry Oil Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 157. Legal title and actual possession are essential under Ky. St. 1903, § 11. Floyd v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2147, 80 S. W. 204; Annis v. Butterfield has no jurisdiction unless some other ground of equitable cognizance appears.[97] The fact that the answer fails to state that the complainant has an adequate remedy at law does not confer jurisdiction.[98] The possession must be so open, notorious, and exclusive as to inform persons seeing the property that it is appropriated by some person who is occupying it as his own.[99] Possession by a tenant under a written lease is sufficient,[1] and where peaceable possession is required, it means peaceable as against the defendant and not as against third persons.[2] The question of actual possession may be waived by stipulation,[3] and though the plaintiff be not in possession if defendant by cross complaint seeks to quiet his own title to a portion of the premises, the court has jurisdiction of the entire controversy.[4] An undelivered deed fraudulently obtained from the grantor may be canceled though plaintiff is not in possession.[5]

Defenses.[6]—A conveyance by one estops him to assert title but does not estop his wife who did not join, from setting up her contingent dower interest.[7] In a proceeding against a married woman, a defense based on the invalidity of her deed in that her husband did not join must be specially pleaded.[8] Laches in bringing suit is no defense to a suit to quiet title against a void municipal assessment where no reassessment could be made.[9]

§ 2. What is a cloud or conflicting claim.[10]—A cloud is an apparent but

[Me.] 58 A. 898. One out of possession who has merely an equitable title cannot maintain the action against one in possession under a tax title between whom and himself no privity exists. Glenn v. West [Va.] 49 S. E. 671. One out of possession cannot maintain the action whether his title is legal or equitable. Id. The holder of the equitable title suing to procure the outstanding title of his trustee may not implead an adverse claimant in possession in in order to quiet title against his claim. Id.

Evidence sufficient to show possession: Allegation of possession is established by proof that when complainant received his deed, part of the land was fenced; that he occasionally visited the property, had a new fence built around it, went on the land with another to whom he executed a paper whereby such other was to keep possession for him. Glos v. Dyche, 214 Ill. 417, 73 N. E. 757. An allegation that plaintiff is entitled to the immediate possession does not necessarily show that he has not possession. McKinley v. Morgan, 36 Wash. 561, 79 P. 45. Undisputed evidence that plaintiff is in possession claiming title in fee by virtue of a certain deed and judicial proceedings, is sufficient to justify recovery against one who failed to establish any title in himself. Weeks v. Cranmer [S. D.] 101 N. W. 32.

Note: As to necessity of possession, see note to Helden v. Hellen [Md.] 45 Am. St. Rep. 375.

97. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 208 Ill. 623, 70 N. E. 715. Equity has no jurisdiction unless the complainant is in possession. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622.

98. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 208 Ill. 623, 70 N. E. 715.

99. Glos v. Archer, 214 Ill. 74, 73 N. E. 382.

1. Possession of the tenant is possession of his lessor. Moran & Co. v. Palmer, 36 Wash. 684, 79 P. 476. A lease of vacant premises is insufficient proof of possession by the lessor. Glos v. Archer, 214 Ill. 74, 73 N. E. 382.

2. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 105.

3. Where premises were occupied by a tenant, an agreement to allow payment of rent to be suspended pending result of the suit and then paid to the prevailing party amounts to such a stipulation. Moran & Co. v. Palmer, 36 Wash. 684, 79 P. 476.

4. Relender v. Riggs [Colo. App.] 79 P. 328.

5. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1369.

7. Cunningham v. Cunningham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 470.

8. Jasper County v. Sparham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 134.

9. Carter v. Cemansky [Iowa] 102 N. W. 438.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1369, for definition.

NOTE. What constitutes a cloud has provoked a well defined conflict of authority. By the rule in New York which has the sanction of the weight of authority, the plaintiff must fail if the claim of the defendant is void on its face or if, although valid on its face, it would inevitably fall through evidence which the defendant would be compelled to introduce. Washburn v. Burnham, 63 N. Y. 132. Moreover, prima facie validity will not suffice if the claimant's case could be destroyed by a mere reference to the record. Thus, where both claim under the same grantor and the defendant's deed is subsequent. Bockes v. Lansing, 74 N. Y. 437. In California, the existence of a cloud is made to depend on whether the plaintiff in an action by the defendant would have to offer any evidence to overthrow his claim. Pixley v. Huggins, 15 Cal. 127. Since the basis of this jurisdiction is to clear title from a claim which renders it less marketable, the question should be not whether the claim fulfills certain technical unfounded semblance of title or claim of interest, e. g., an extinguished tax lien;[11] the recorded transfer of a mortgage;[12] a plat improperly recorded which introduces confusion as to titles based on an original plat with which it conflicts and which it appears to supersede;[13] an adverse claim[14] or a claim to an easement.[15] A deed re-delivered for a valuable consideration to the grantor becomes a cloud when apparent rights are asserted under it,[16] but mere words denying the right of plaintiff to possession which afford him no right to test the substance of those claims at law do not destroy the peaceableness of his possession.[17]

A failure to pay royalties is not a cloud on an inventor's title to a patent.[18]

§ 3. Procedure. A. Quieting title and statutory equivalents.[19] Petition for an issue.—In Pennsylvania the court cannot on an application to frame an issue determine summarily the title to the property.[20] If the petition contains sufficient averments as to title and right of possession and exclusive possession is sustained by proof, the issue prayed for should be granted.[21]

Jurisdiction, venue, and place of trial.[22]—Unless authorized by the constitution, the legislature cannot confer on a court of equity jurisdiction to determine the nature of the title of one in possession.[23] The fact that an adverse claimant sets up a remainder in fee expectant on a life estate does not confer it.[24] Though a court of equity will restrain trespass which would result in irreparable injury where defendant is in possession it will not entertain a bill where the sole purpose is to determine title.[25] Where a state law authorizes the suit regardless of possession, a federal court of equity sitting in the state is a court of competent jurisdiction.[26] The proceeding cannot be maintained in a probate court.[27] A suit requirements, but whether it is of a character to frighten the average purchaser. Bishop v. Moorman, 98 Ind. 1. Upon this analysis it would seem that Moran v. Palmer [Wash.] 79 P. 476, which allowed the bill to be maintained as against an oral claim, is correct, but it must be admitted that the authorities have not gone so far. Parker v. Shannon, 121 Ill. 452. But see City of Lafayette v. Wabash R. Co., 28 Ind. App. 497, holding under a statute that the defendant's claim need not be described.—From 18 Har. L. R. No. 7, p. 527.

NOTE. As against sewer assessment: The owner or occupant cannot compel the city to prosecute at law its claim under an invalid sale to satisfy a special sewer assessment whereby his title is clouded, but he may maintain a bill under the statute to quiet his title. Chaffee v. Detroit, 53 Mich. 573, 19 N. W. 199.—From note to Waterbury v. Platt Brothers & Co. [Conn.] 60 L. R. A. 243.

11. Clark v. San Diego, 144 Cal. 361, 77 P. 973.

12. Recorded after purchase of the land by plaintiff. Winnerman v. Angell [R. I.] 58 A. 882.

13. Cranston v. McQuiston [Iowa] 102 N. W. 785.

14. An adverse claim is the expressed assertion of a right by a claimant of suitable age and sufficient intelligence. Harding v. Harding [Or.] 80 P. 97.

15. An unfounded claim by the owner of stone cutting rights to the right to use a side track built by the owner of the land. Bedford-Bowling Green Co. v. Oman, 134 F. 441; Oman v. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 64.

16. Where grantee fraudulently obtains possession of it and has it recorded. Arnold's Heirs v. Arnold, 26 Ky. L. R. 884, 82 S. W. 606.

17. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 105.

18. Henderson v. Dougherty, 95 App. Div. 346, 88 N. Y. S. 665.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1370.

20. Proceeding under Act June 10, 1893 (P. L. 415). Titus v. Bindley [Pa.] 59 A. 694. Where an adverse claimant relies on possession to oust the court of jurisdiction, he must establish it without requiring the court on an application for the issue to determine the validity of his title. Under Act June 10, 1893 (P. L. 415). Id.

21. Titus v. Bindley [Pa.] 59 A. 694.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1370.

Note: The right to remove a cloud is, in the absence of statute, purely equitable in its nature. Hence, relief must be sought in equity. Loring v. Downer, 1 McAll. 360; Downing v. Wherrin, 19 N. H. 9, 49 Am. Dec. 139; Huntington v. Allen, 44 Misc. 654; Standish v. Dow, 21 Iowa, 363; Eldridge v. Smith, 34 Vt. 484; Walker v. Peay, 22 Ark. 103. The jurisdiction is an independent source or head of jurisdiction not requiring any accompaniment of fraud, mistake, accident, trust, account or any other basis of equitable intervention. Dull's Appeal, 113 Pa. 510.—From note to Helden v. Hellen [Md.] 45 Am. St. Rep. 374.

23. Pub. St. c. 205, § 2 (Laws 1883, p. 29, c. 33) does not. Harvey v. Harvey [N. H.] 59 A. 621.

24. Harvey v. Harvey [N. H.] 59 A. 621.

25. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 208 Ill. 623, 70 N. E. 715.

26. Rev. St. U. S. § 2326 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1430), where neither party is in against a nonresident claimant may in a proper case be removed to the United States circuit court,[28] as where suit is against a resident and nonresident and the resident disclaims.[29]

Service of process.[30]—Where summons is by publication as to several defendants, the fact that the affidavit is sufficient as to some is immaterial as to the question of its sufficiency as to others.[31]

Parties.[32]—If the action is to quiet title as to all the world, all holders of the record title should be made parties,[33] and the bill should allege that they are holders of the record title.[34] One who has no interest need not be joined.[35] The vendor is not a necessary party in a suit by his vendee against a third person.[36] In California a married woman may sue alone.[37] In Oregon the action may be maintained against any person of suitable age and intelligence asserting an adverse claim.[38] Statutes providing the remedy are generally made applicable to unknown as well as to known claimants.[39]

Sufficiency of bill, complaint, or petition.[40]—A complaint to quiet title and to have a judgment quieting title in defendant declared void as to plaintiff states but one cause of action.[41] The complaint must allege plaintiff's title[42] and pos-possession. Willitt v. Baker, 133 F. 937. Right of action to quiet title given by Rev. St. Utah, §§ 2915, 3511, without previous adjudication of title, and without reference to possession, may be enforced in a Federal court of equity if there is no adequate remedy at law. United States Min. Co. v. Lawson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 769.

27. Best v. Gralapp [Neb.] 99 N. W. 837.

28, 29. Day v. Oatis [Miss.] 37 So. 559.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1371; see, also, Process, 4 Curr. L. 1070.

31. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1371.

Note: That a purchaser at execution sale may maintain the proceeding to remove as a cloud a prior fraudulent conveyance by the judgment debtor is the established doctrine in most states, see Gerrish v. Mace, 9 Gray [Mass.] 235; Frakes v. Brown, 2 Blackf. [Ind.] 295; Wagner v. Law [Wash.] 15 L. R. A. 784, and cases cited in the brief and opinion. The court remarks in this last case that the authorities in favor of it are overwhelming. Contra, see Cranson v. Smith, 47 Mich. 189, 647; Thigpen v. Pitt, 54 N. C. 49; Wagner v. Law [Wash.] 15 L. R. A. 784 and note.

33. One seeking to establish title by adverse possession under D. C. Code, § 111. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141.

34. Proceeding under D. C. Code, § 111, to establish title by adverse possession. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141.

35. One who has conveyed. Cunningham v. Cunningham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 470.

36. Where terminal tracks were sold to the owner of the land and the owner of stone cutting rights on the land asserted a right to use them. Oman v. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co., 134 F. 64.

37. Female complainant need not allege whether she is married or single. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

38. B. & C. Comp. § 516. Harding v. Harding [Or.] 80 P. 97.

39. Act Cong. March 3, 1899, applies to heirs, devisees, and alienees. Gwin v. Brown, 21 App. D. C. 295.

NOTE. Actions against unknown persons to quiet title may be maintained. Hardy v. Beaty, 84 Tex. 562, 19 S. W. 778, 31 Am. St. Rep. 80. An equitable suit to remove a cloud may be brought against unknown claimants under a statute allowing publication of summons against such persons, if there are any unknown claimants. One who claims as an only heir cannot maintain the proceeding by publication against the heirs of the intestate. Cashman v. Cashman, 123 Mo. 647, 27 S. W. 549. The proceeding is not an action in personam, but an action for land, and the judgment effects title, hence a statute may authorize such an action against unknown owners. Sloan v. Thompson, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 419, 23 S. W. 613.—From note to McClymond v. Noble [Minn.] 87 Am. St. Rep. 366.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1371.

Complaint held sufficient: O'Neal v. Bellevue Imp. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1028. Complaint held to sufficiently allege as against general demurrer a holding of possession under color of title. Jones v. Herrick, 35 Wash. 434, 77 P. 798. Complaint alleging plaintiff's ownership, the description of the land, defendant's claim of an adverse interest, a prayer for the determination of defendant's claim, the establishment of plaintiff's title and for an injunction to prevent waste is good under Comp. Laws 1897, § 4010, as against demurrer challenging jurisdiction. Marquez v. Maxwell Land Grant Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 40. Complaint by grantor in a deed deposited in escrow and delivered prior to performance of conditions held sufficient. Skinner v. Kelley [Mich.] 101 N. W. 205.

41. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

42. Complaint insufficient under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1082. Seymour Water Co. v Seymour [Ind.] 70 N. E. 514; Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714; Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546; Holderby v. Hagan [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 437. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 11. Goff v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2176, 80 S. W. 219.

session[43] unless possession is not necessary;[44] or that the premises are vacant and unoccupied;[45] that the claim asserted by the defendant is adverse to his title.[46] or is unfounded and a cloud thereon,[47] but need not allege such fact as a conclusion.[48] It need not contain a formal statement as to the nature of defendant's claim or of its relation to or effect upon complainant's title where the general facts alleged supply such allegations.[49] It must contain a definite description of the land.[50] The source of complainant's title need not be alleged[51] unless required by statute.[52] In some states it is sufficient to allege ownership[53] and possession,[54] and that defendant claims an adverse right, and a complaint is not rendered bad because stating the period of ownership and possession.[55] One seeking to remove a void tax deed as a cloud must allege and prove in what respect the deed is invalid.[56] A complaint to remove a lease must negative rights claimed under it.[57] Where it is sought to quiet title in complainant and set aside an alleged fraudulent judgment quieting title in defendant, plaintiff must allege a meritorious defense to the prior action and that the judgment was fraudulently procured.[58] A bill for partition and to remove a cloud which fails as to partition because the complainant is the owner of all the land cannot be regarded as seeking the removal of the cloud as incidental relief.[59]

An answer[59a] pleading title through execution sale need not detail proceedings relative to the sale.[60]

Dismissal and judgment on the pleadings.[61]—Where it appears that defendant has not violated any rights of the plaintiff, the bill is properly dismissed.[62]

43. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714; Glos v. Archer, 214 Ill. 74, 73 N. E. 382; Tarwater v. Going, 140 Ala. 273, 37 So. 330; Goff v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2176, 80 S. W. 219; Annis v. Butterfield [Me.] 58 A. 898.

44. Complaint under Rev. St. 1899, § 650, held sufficient. Spore v. Ozark Land Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 556.

45. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714; Glos v. Archer, 214 Ill. 74, 73 N. E. 382.

46. Complaint insufficient because not showing that defendant claimed an interest. Seymour Water Co. v. Seymour [Ind.] 70 N. E. 514; Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546.

47. Seymour Water Co. v. Seymour [Ind.] 70 N. E. 514; Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546.

48. Complaint to set aside a decree is not insufficient because lacking such an averment. Jewett v. Boardman, 181 Mo. 647, 81 S. W. 186.

49. Seymour Water Co. v. Seymour [Ind.] 70 N. E. 514.

50. Complaint praying to have title quieted to a certain tract "except a half acre tract surrounding each of said three wells" is insufficient. Carr v. Huntington Light & Fuel Co., 33 Ind. App. 1, 70 N. E. 552.

51. Code 1896, § 810, does not expressly require it. Love v. Coker, 140 Ala. 249, 37 So. 92. Where complainant alleges that he is the owner, it is immaterial whether further allegation concerning possession allege title by prescription. Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546.

52. Complaint held insufficient under Rev. Code 1892, § 501. Jackson v. Port Gibson Bank [Miss.] 38 So. 35.

53. Complaint not objectionable because alleging defendant's claim to be different from that set up in the answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 1310]. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519. Complaint alleging that plaintiff "claims to be the owner" and "claims title in fee" and that defendant "claims" an interest adverse, is not objectionable for the first time on appeal, as not alleging a better title in plaintiff than in defendant. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1310. Pollock Min. & Mill. Co. v. Davenport [Mont.] 78 P. 768.

54. An allegation that the "orator is the owner and in the peaceable possession" is sufficient. Love v. Coker, 140 Ala. 249, 37 So. 92.

55. That he has been the owner and in possession for 15 years. Love v. Coker, 140 Ala. 249, 37 So. 92.

56. Not sufficient to allege that the deed is void. Langlois v. People, 212 Ill. 75, 72 N. E. 28.

57. No allegation that lease or rights under it were not in force. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Lee [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 492. A lease sought to be removed which is made an exhibit but which is not the basis of the suit cannot be considered to aid the averments of the complaint. Id.

58. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007. Allegations that plaintiff was prior to the commencement of the former action, the owner in fee of the premises, and that defendant's allegations in that action that he was the owner were false, and known by him to be so, show a meritorious defense to the prior action. Id.

59. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622.

59a. See 2 Curr. L. 1376, n. 42.

60. Averments of the judgment execution thereon, confirmation and recording of the marshal's deed, is sufficient. Held v. Ebner [C. C. A.] 133 F. 156.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1373.

Jury trial.[63]—The proceeding being in equity, neither party is entitled to a jury trial as a matter of right,[64] and a statutory right to have the action removed to the law docket for a jury trial of legal issues may be lost by laches.[65]

Evidence.[66]—In suits relative to mining claims, no presumptions of fact as to title arise.[67] In Louisiana the plaintiff does not admit that the muniment of title casting the cloud of which he complains is sufficient on its face to show title.[68] Where ownership[69] or possession[70] is alleged, it must be proved, even though it is neither admitted nor denied.[71] A showing that premises were vacant and unoccupied two years before the bill is filed is insufficient to show that they were vacant at the time of filing the bill.[72]

On an issue of ownership assignments of mortgages to one claimant are irrelevant,[73] but where plaintiff claims under foreclosure sale, the record of the foreclosure action, writ of assistance, and sheriff's return showing delivery to him are competent proof of the transfer of title.[74] In an action relative to a part of the public domain where it appears that defendant is in possession and the plaintiff or his predecessors in interest never filed a possessory writ, foreclosure records through which plaintiff claims are inadmissible.[75] A deed conveying the premises to plaintiff's predecessor in interest who is shown to have owned the land is admissible without proof that the grantor was possessed of title at the time of the conveyance,[76] but the inventory and appraisement filed in the matter of his estate is not admissible to show that during his lifetime he exercised acts of ownership over the property.[77] If "possession" is not used as "seisin" a question as to who was in possession does not call for a conclusion.[78] A party may testify that he derived property from his son who died without other heirs.[79] Documentary evidence insufficient to show title deraigned from the United States or a common grantor is admissible to show the location of the premises occupied by plaintiff under claim of ownership.[80] The statements by a former owner in disparagement of his title made subsequent to its sale on foreclosure are inadmissible in an action by subsequent purchasers except to impeach such former owner as a wit-

62. Browning v. Wayland [Ky.] 85 S. W. 211.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1373.

64. Action to quiet title to a leasehold under Rev. St. 1887, § 4538, by a lessee in possession. Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 391.

65. Right under Civ. Code Prac. § 12, lost by two years' delay. Chenault v. Eastern Kentucky Timber & Lumber Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1078, 83 S. W. 552.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1373.

67. Under Rev. St. § 2326 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1430). Title and right of possession must be established. Willitt v. Baker, 133 F. 937.

68. Patterson v. Landru, 112 La. 1069, 36 So. 857. The affidavit of recordation is no evidence as a muniment of title. Id.

69. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714. Evidence that complainant paid taxes on vacant and unoccupied property for seven years is insufficient to show title where it is not shown that the premises were vacant during the entire period, or that possession was thereafter taken. Id. A tax deed not witnessed as required by statute is not prima facie evidence of title. Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1049. A deed alone, without possession, is insufficient. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714. Certificate of title made by a title company purporting to show that title in fee was given to a person at a specified time is not, if objected to, equivalent to proof of such title. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141. Where plaintiff sought to quiet title and set aside an alleged fraudulent judgment quieting title in defendant, proof that defendant's allegations of title in the former action were false warranted a finding that they were willfully false; defendant, having the ability to show whether they were or not, remaining mute. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

70. Glos v. Archer, 214 Ill. 74, 73 N. E. 382. That possession is under a claim of right may be shown by exercise of acts of ownership without declaration. Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546.

71, 72. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714.

73. Harmon v. Goggins [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1088.

74. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

75. Branca v. Ferrin [Idaho] 77 P. 636.

76, 77, 78. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

79. English v. Otis [Iowa] 101 N. W. 293.

80. Weeks v. Cranmer [S. D.] 101 N. W. 32.

ness.[81] Such statements are insufficient to destroy his evidence as to the character of his occupancy.[82]

Burden of proof.[83]—Where title is denied or the adverse claimants are infants, plaintiff must prove his title.[84] If plaintiff holds the paper title, defendant has the burden of proving adverse possession.[85] If the premises are wild and unoccupied, the plaintiff must establish a superior paper title.[86] Where one seeks to quiet title in himself and set aside a judgment quieting title in defendant, proof that prior to the rendition of the prior judgment he became vested with the title and had never disposed of it imposed on defendant the burden of showing transfer of title to him.[87] The prior judgment is inadmissible for this purpose it having been shown that plaintiff had no notice of such action.[88]

Variance.[89]—Under a complaint alleging that defendant holds his apparently absolute title as security only, proof that he holds it as a mere passive trust is not a variance.[90]

Harmless error.[91]—If evidence of every defense, legal or equitable, can be given under a general denial pleaded, it is not error to sustain a demurrer to a special paragraph of the answer though it alleges a valid defense,[92] and such ruling cannot be converted into an available error by withdrawing the general denial at a subsequent stage of the case and refusing to plead further.[93] An incorrect ruling on an immaterial defense is harmless.[94]

Findings, decree, or judgment.[95]—A finding that the land had been found exempt in bankruptcy is warranted by a finding to such effect by the referee.[96] Special findings depending on a tax deed should state that it was signed, witnessed, and acknowledged as required by statute.[97]

The decree has no more force than a conveyance of the same date,[98] and is not binding on persons not parties.[99] Rights which claimant has should be exempted from the operation of the decree.[1] A judgment that bars a defendant from claiming an interest in the premises so long as impressed with a homestead character does not prejudice him where he asserts no claim while the premises are so impressed.[2] That the decree is irregular does not entitle the party against whom it is rendered to have it set aside, without notice to the prevailing party,[3] and where set aside without such notice mandamus will lie to compel its reinstatement.[4]

In North Carolina an order allowing a party who claims in good faith to cut timber pending trial as against one whose claim is not made in good faith must be based on a finding of fact by the court and incorporated in the order that the 81, 82. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1373.

84. Holderby v. Hagan [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 437.

85. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

86. Skidmore v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1163.

87, 88. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1373.

90. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310.

91. See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

92. Such evidence is authorized by Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 1067, 1082, 1083. Beasey v. High, 33 Ind. App. 689, 72 N. E. 181.

93. Beasey v. High, 33 Ind. App. 689, 72 N. E. 181.

94. Other defenses clearly sufficient to support the judgment. Jones v. Herrick, 35 Wash. 434, 77 P. 798.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1373.

96. McKinley v. Morgan, 36 Wash. 561, 79 P. 45.

97. Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1049.

98. Jasper County v. Sparham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 134.

99. A judgment lien holder. Jasper County v. Sparham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 134.

1. One had stone cutting rights but no right to use a side track built by the owner of the land. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. v. Oman, 134 F. 441.

2. Miller v. Stuck [Kan.] 77 P. 552.

3, 4. Vincent v. Benzie Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 369.

claim of one is not made in good faith, and that the claim of the other is and is based on prima facie title.[5]

Costs.[6]—Costs may be awarded against defendant in an action to remove a tax deed where prior to filing the bill the complainant tendered him the amount paid at the tax sale,[7] but where it is not shown that defendant violated any rights of plaintiff he is not liable for costs.[8] Costs cannot be recovered against a defendant who files a disclaimer,[9] but he must disclaim as to the entire premises.[10] A defendant filing a disclaimer cannot recover costs in excess of the amount necessary to enable him to file it.[11] Where he files a disclaimer but is obliged to continue the case because another defendant filed a cross-complaint against him, he is entitled to recover costs against the cross complainant.[12] In Iowa if prior to commencement of suit the complainant requests a defendant disclaiming any interest to execute a quitclaim deed, and tenders the expenses of such execution, he is entitled to recover costs.[13]

An occupying claimant must have entered in good faith, under color of title in fee for which he gave a valuable consideration and have made improvements of permanent value to the land.[14] All improvements of permanent value to the land are within the scope of the law,[15] but ordinary repairs are not.[16] When plaintiff in his pleadings, makes no claim for improvements, he is not entitled to recover for them when his title is declared void.[17] The measure of recovery is the increase in the value of the premises, not the cost of the improvements.[18]

(§ 3) B. Determination of conflicting claims to real property.[19]—In the code action the defendant may claim affirmative relief by way of reformation of the description in a quitclaim deed and have the same foreclosed as a mortgage.[20] Such claim may be set up by way of amended answer though at the time the original was filed the defendant had notice of all the facts.[21]

A complaint[21a] conforming to the statute is sufficient.[22]

Findings, judgment, or decree.[23]—A finding on the ultimate issues renders unnecessary a finding on matters of evidence.[24]

In some states, the judgment does not conclude unknown minor parties,

5. Under Laws 1901, p. 900, c. 666. Johnson v. Duvall, 135 N. C. 642, 47 S. E. 611.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1375.

7. Writing accompanying the tender stating that it was in full payment and for redemption held not to render the tender conditional. Glos v. Dyche, 214 Ill. 417, 73 N. E. 757.

8. Browning v. Wayland [Ky.] 85 S. W. 211.

9. Summerville v. March, 142 Cal. 554, 76 P. 388.

10. Where defendant claims to be the owner and entitled to possession of a portion of the premises and disclaims as to the residue, he is not entitled to the benefit of a statute providing that if he disclaims any interest plaintiff shall not recover costs [Mills' Ann. Code, § 256]. Relender v. Riggs [Colo. App.] 79 P. 328.

11, 12. Summerville v. March, 142 Cal. 554, 76 P. 388.

13. Tender held sufficient. Shay v. Callanan, 124 Iowa, 370, 100 N. W. 55. Tender by draft cannot be objected to after it has been retained for six months. Id.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1374, n. 24. Evidence held to show one entitled to rights under Occupying Claimant's Act. Northern Inv. Co. v. Bargquist [Minn.] 100 N. W. 636.

15. Northern Inv. Co. v. Bargquist [Minn.] 100 N. W. 636.

16. Gen. St. 1894, § 5853. Northern Inv. Co. v. Bargquist [Minn.] 100 N. W. 636.

17. Blackburn v. Lewis [Or.] 77 P. 746.

18. Gombert v. Lyon [Neb.] 100 N. W. 414, following Lothrop v. Michaelson, 44 Neb. 633, 63 N. W. 28.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1375.

20. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 675. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614.

21. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614.

21a. See 2 Curr. L. 1375.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1375, n. 38 et seq. The provision in the South Dakota statute of 1903, requiring an allegation that defendants are proper parties, need not be complied with in an action brought under the prior statute, since the act of 1903 purports to afford a cumulative remedy against unknown persons, none of whom are made parties. Buckham v. Hoover [S. D.] 101 N. W. 28.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1376.

24. Fitcbette v. Victoria Land Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 655.

jurisdiction of whom was obtained by publication,[25] and who came in with a meritorious defense within the prescribed period after attaining majority.[26]

New trial as of right.[27]—The substance of the action as disclosed by the pleadings and not its form controls in determining whether a party is entitled to a new trial.[28] Where title and right to possession are involved either party is entitled to a new trial as a matter of right though other issues are presented by the pleadings upon which both parties are concluded by the first trial.[29]

The object and purpose of the "Torrens Act" was to provide a speedy and summary method of determining rights in real property, and to authorize a court to hear and determine all controversies respecting title and by proper decree definitely fix those rights.[30] The existence and validity of mechanics' liens may be determined and decreed but not their foreclosure.[31] A party asserting a mechanic's lien in proceedings under this act must prove that at the time of the trial the lien was a valid and existing one.[32]

QUO WARRANTO.

§ 1. Nature, Function, and Occasion of the Remedy (1177).
§ 2. Parties and Right to Prosecute (1177).
§ 3. The Information or Complaint (1178).
§ 4. Answers and Other Pleadings and Motions to Quash or Dismiss (1179).
§ 5. Trial and Judgment (1180).
§ 6. New Trial and Review (1180).

§ 1. Nature, function, and occasion of the remedy.[33]—Quo warranto is the appropriate remedy to try title to a public office,[34] but not to install any person into such office.[35] It will lie to test the right of a foreign-born citizen to occupy a public office,[36] and is the proper remedy when the question of eligibility of a person to an office held by another under a claim of right turns on the construction of statutes,[37] or to determine whether certain officers are performing governmental functions.[38] It will not lie against a public official for conduct of his predecessor in which he did not participate,[39] nor for his own misconduct until he has been formally charged therewith and given an opportunity to be heard.[40] It is the appropriate remedy for an inquiry into the validity of proceedings to organize

25. Relief authorized by Gen. St. 1894, §§ 5842, 5267, providing for opening of default judgments by persons who were minors when it was entered, applies to actions to determine adverse claims in which jurisdiction was obtained by publication over parties described as unknown. Hoyt v. Lightbody [Minn.] 101 N. W. 304.

26. In Minnesota a minor heir may upon good cause shown be allowed to defend his interest involved in such an action within two years after becoming of age where jurisdiction was obtained by publication and he was without actual notice of the pendency of the action prior to judgment entered [Gen. St. 1894, § 5842]. Hoyt v. Lightbody [Minn.] 101 N. W. 304.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1376.

28, 29. Gray Cloud Land Co. v. Security Trust Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 605.

30, 31, 32. Reed v. Siddall [Minn.] 102 N. W. 453.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1377.

Note: As to proceedings to question corporate existence, see Clark & M. Corp., § 93; to try title to corporate office, § 668; to attack ultra vires acts, § 207.

34. At common law (Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620), the purpose of the proceeding is to oust from a public office one unlawfully holding it (Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719).

35. A judgment directing the defendant to deliver to the relator the books and articles pertaining to the office is beyond the scope of the proceeding. Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719.

36. Seat in a municipal council. State v. Collister, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 33.

37. People v. Hinsdale, 43 Misc. 182, 88 N. Y. S. 206.

38. The question of the legality of the transfer of the Original State Agricultural Society and its acceptance by the state can only be inquired into by the original society or the state on quo warranto. Berman v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 732.

39. Where a county judge dies pending proceeding against him, his successor cannot be substituted as respondent in his stead. State v. Gower [Neb.] 102 N. W. 674. Whether it lies against a county judge, who under color of office, has usurped functions and powers in excess of the jurisdiction conferred upon him by law is not decided. Id.

40. State v. Gower [Neb.] 102 N. W. 674.

a municipal corporation,[41] or to set aside a franchise irregularly or fraudulently granted where the party to whom it has been granted is in the exercise of the privileges conferred,[42] and a statute making it the proper remedy when an association acts as a corporation without being duly incorporated includes persons who act as officers of such association.[43] It cannot be maintained where the ultimate object is to assail the judgment of a court.[44] Since the proceeding affects a public right, the doctrine of estoppel does not apply.[45]

§ 2. Parties and right to prosecute.[46]—The attorney general ex officio has the right to bring an information to try title to a public office and is not required to ask leave of the court,[47] but a private individual, in the absence of statute and without the intervention of the attorney general, may not, either as of right or by leave of court.[48] A proceeding to determine title to a public office brought on behalf of the state and not on behalf of one who claims title to it should be brought by the attorney general,[49] and cannot be maintained by a private individual not claiming title and not showing that the attorney general has refused to allow the use of

41. As to the validity of the petition and qualifications of the petitioners. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423. The corporate existence of a municipal or public corporation in the defacto exercise of corporate life must be challenged by the state itself by an information in the nature of quo warranto and is not subject to collateral attack. State v. Birch [Mo.] 85 S. W. 361. Commissioners for the organization of drainage districts have not final jurisdiction to determine what lands will be benefited by a certain ditch and their findings on this question does not preclude quo warranto proceedings to test the validity of the organization. McDonald v. People, 214 Ill. 83, 73 N. E. 444.

42. Clark v. Interstate Independent Tel. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 977.

43. Under Code 1896, c. 94, § 3420, intendant and aldermen of an unincorporated town. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423.

44. Judgment organizing a drainage district. People v. Waite, 213 Ill. 421, 72 N. E. 1087.

45. In a proceeding against drainage commissioners on the ground that the drainage district was not lawfully organized, the fact that the relator was present at some of the meetings of the commissioners and acquiesced in the proceedings does not prevent maintenance of it. People v. Burns, 212 Ill. 227, 72 N. E. 374.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1378.

NOTE. Statute of limitations in quo warranto proceedings; Whatever the proceeding by information in the nature of a quo warranto may have been originally, it is now regarded as in the nature of a civil remedy. People v. Boyd, 132 Ill. 60, and a statute which limits the prosecution of an information under any penal law does not apply to it. Commonwealth v. Birchett, 2 Va. Cas. 51.

The principle that acts of limitation do not bind the state applies to proceedings by quo warranto, the rule being that, in the absence of any statutory period of limitation the attorney general may file an information on behalf of the state at any time; and that the lapse of time constitutes no bar to the proceeding. Catlett v. People, 151 Ill. 16; King v. Stacey, 1 Term R. 2, 3; Commonwealth v. Allen, 128 Mass. 308; State v. Pawtuxet Turnpike Co., 8 R. I. 521, 94 Am. Dec. 123. "The lapse of time," says Gray, C. J., in Commonwealth v. Allen, 128 Mass. 308, between the defendant's assumption of office and the institution of this proceeding, whatever effect it might have as against a private person cannot bar the right of the commonwealth suing by its Attorney General. But there are cases holding that laches may be imputed to the state as well as to an individual. Commonwealth v. Bala, etc., Turnpike Co., 153 Pa. 47; State v. Bailey, 19 Ind. 452; State v. Gordon, 87 Ind. 171.

In Illinois the statute requiring all civil actions to be commenced within five years next after the cause of action accrued has been applied to a quo warranto proceeding to compel school directors to show by what right they claimed to hold their office. People v. Boyd, 132 Ill. 60. Under the Ohio statute, regulating proceedings in quo warranto, an action against a corporation for forfeiture of its charter must be brought within five years after the act complained of was committed (State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 Ohio St. 137, 34 Am. St. Rep. 541, 15 L. R. A. 145; State v. Railroad Co., 50 Ohio St. 239), but the right of the state to bring an action for the purpose of ousting a corporation from the exercise of a power or franchise under its charter is not barred until such power or franchise has been exercised for twenty years (State v. Standard Oil Co., 49 Ohio St. 137, 34 Am. St. Rep. 541, 15 L. R. A. 145). A court may refuse a writ even before the statute has run when the object sought is to enforce private rights and in some other proper cases where public policy requires that the writ should not issue. People v. Boyd 132 Ill. 60.—From note to McPhail v. People [Ill.] 52 Am. St. Rep. 312. Later cases applying limitations to quo warranto will be found collected in note to Bannock County v. Bell [Idaho] 101 Am. St. Rep. 141, at page 187.

47. Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620.

48. An individual is not authorized to do so by Acts 1893, p. 55, c. 66, § 1, and Pub. St. 1901, c. 240. Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620. Statutes 4 & 5 W. & M., c. 18, and 9 Anne, c. 20, modifying the practice in England is not a part of the common law of New Hampshire. Id.

49, 50. Ney v. Whiteley [R. I.] 59 A. 400.

his name on behalf of the state.[50] In Alabama any person who will give the required security for costs may institute proceedings to annul the charter of a corporation.[51] Where a county increases the number of commissioners to the number to which it is entitled, the regularity of the proceedings will not be inquired into at the instance of a private individual.[52]

Joinder of parties.[53]—In a proceeding to try title to an office held by another under a claim of right, the people of the state and the incumbent of the office are necessary parties.[54] A joint action cannot be maintained to try title to office where it appears that one of the defendants is not the successor of one of the alleged illegally appointed members.[55] In a proceeding against the officers of a purported municipal corporation all the inhabitants need not be joined.[56] In Alabama by statute an informant must join as plaintiff with the state.[57]

§ 3. The information or complaint.[58]—An information[59] challenging one's right to an office on the ground that the statute under which he was appointed is unconstitutional must set out in direct and traversable form the facts relied on to render it so.[60] In proceedings to vacate the organization of an independent school district, grounds for invalidating the incorporation must be alleged.[61] The complaint must contain the averments required by statute.[62] No complaint other than the information is necessary.[63] Though an information is defective for want of a joinder of the informant with the state, it is sufficient to begin the suit when filed.[64] The general rules as to amendment of pleadings apply to an information.[65] The mere allowance of an amendment does not call for new security for costs.[66]

§ 4. Answers and other pleadings, and motions to quash or dismiss.[67]—The defendant must either disclaim the office, which he is charged with usurping, or justify.[68] If he justifies he must show on the face of his plea that he has title to the office.[69] In a proceeding against a purported municipal corporation, a plea that does not show incorporation is demurrable.[70] In proceedings to vacate the organization of an independent school district on the ground that the presiding officer at the election was disqualified, such contention does not raise the question of the validity of his election as trustee of the district.[71] In a proceeding against a corporation to require it to show by what authority it is conducting the business in which it is engaged, the defendant's answer is not necessarily to be taken as true.[72]

51. Code 1896, §§ 3417, 3418. State v. U. S. Endowment & Trust Co., 140 Ala. 610, 37 So. 442.

52. People v. Long [Colo.] 77 P. 251.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1380.

54. People v. Hinsdale, 43 Misc. 182, 88 N. Y. S. 206.

55. County commissioners. People v. Long [Colo.] 77 P. 251.

56. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423.

57. Code 1896, § 3426. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1380.

59. Information to review the establishment of a drainage district organized under 4 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1902, c. 42, pp. 470, 471, held sufficient against demurrer. People v. McDonald, 208 Ill. 638, 70 N. E. 646.

60. Attorney-General v. Fox [N. J. Law] 60 A. 60.

61. How or to what extent it encroached on other districts, whether the encroachment was assented to by such other districts, and whether relator was inconvenienced. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

62. In a proceeding to inquire into the legality of an election, the complaint must state the number of legal votes cast for relator and defendant [Rev. St. 1898, § 3468]. State v. Rosenthal [Wis.] 102 N. W. 49.

63, 64. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423.

65. Insertion of name of informant as plaintiff. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423. Refusal of an offered amendment which did not obviate the objection to the question in controversy, held not error. McDonald v. People, 214 Ill. 83, 73 N. E. 444.

66. Information amended by inserting name of informant as plaintiff. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1380.

68. People v. Burns, 212 Ill. 227, 72 N. E. 374.

69. Allegations in plea by drainage commissioners held sufficient where it was charged that the drainage district was not lawfully organized under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 740, c. 42, § 11. People v. Burns, 212 Ill. 227, 72 N. E. 374.

70. West End v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 423.

71. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

72. It is not like the answer of a judicial

§ 5. Trial and judgment.[73]—An application for leave to file quo warranto which sets forth facts which entitle the petitioner to recover is sufficient.[74] In Virginia the writ is not returnable at a special term.[75] Where the information contains two separate and distinct counts, they must on demurrer be considered independently of each other.[76] In an action to remove a county attorney, the issue of primary importance is his good faith in official conduct.[77] In a proceeding to inquire into the legality of an election, the question to be submitted for special verdict is the number of legal votes cast for relator and defendant respectively.[78] In New Hampshire it is a civil remedy though criminal in form, and the procedure is governed by the rules of the common law.[79]

It is presumed that a public official acts in good faith,[80] and the burden is on the state to show otherwise by a preponderance of evidence.[81] In an action to remove a county attorney for failure to prosecute violations of the prohibitory liquor law, evidence that saloons were run openly in his county is relevant.[82] Where it is shown that the defendant did not receive the number of votes stated in his certificate of election, he has the burden to establish the fact that he received a plurality by other evidence.[83] Declarations of persons claiming to have voted that they were not legal voters at the time are admissible.[84]

The court has a discretion as to declaring forfeiture of a corporation charter for an act not expressly made ground of forfeiture.[85] Such discretion will be exercised in favor of the corporation when it appears that the violation of its charter is doubtful and no public interest requires forfeiture.[86] At common law a judgment for fine, ouster, and costs could be awarded against the defendant.[87]

An injunction may issue to protect those having a prima facie right during pendency of the proceedings.[88]

§ 6. New trial and review.[89]—At common law, the expiration of the term of the office involved pending the determination of the cause does not work a dismissal of the writ of error from the judgment of ouster.[90] tribunal to a writ of certiorari. Attorney General v. Preferred Mercantile Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 669.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1381.

74. Application for leave to file quo warranto, reciting that applicant received a majority of votes cast at an election which fact was duly certified by the proper authorities, that notwithstanding his opponent was given a commission by the governor and was unlawfully exercising the functions of the office, held sufficient. Hathcock v. McGoulrk, 119 Ga. 973, 47 S. E. 563.

75. Under Code 1904, § 3024, p. 1612, providing that where the petition is sufficient the writ shall be returnable at the next term of the court, "next term" means the next regular term. Stultz v. Pratt [Va.] 49 S. E. 654.

76. One count denied the jurisdiction of drainage commissioners to organize a district and the second a general charge of usurpation. People v. McDonald, 208 Ill. 638, 70 N. E. 646.

77. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

78. State v. Rosenthal [Wis.] 102 N. W. 49.

79. Rev. St. 1842, c. 171, § 3, and Pub. St. 1901, c. 204, §§ 2, 4, and Laws 1901, p. 563, c. 78, § 2, authorizing the issuance of writs but not prescribing the procedure. Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620.

80. County attorney. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

81. Evidence insufficient to warrant the removal from office of a county attorney. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

82. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

83, 84. State v. Rosenthal [Wis.] 102 N. W. 49.

85. State v. United States Endowment & Trust Co., 140 Ala. 610, 37 So. 442.

86. State v. U. S. Endowment & Trust Co., 140 Ala. 610, 37 So. 442. The charter will not be declared forfeited for a failure for a limited time after organization to keep its books at the place it is required to maintain its principal office, nor for failure of the president through mistake to make the first annual report to the state as required by the charter. Id.

87. Statute of 9 Anne is a part of the common law of New Mexico. Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719.

88. A court, though without original jurisdiction of a suit for an injunction may, in an original action in quo warranto to determine the right of rival boards to exercise official functions, grant an ancillary injunction. State v. Deputy State Sup'rs of Cuyahoga County, 70 Ohio St. 341, 71 N. E. 717.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1381.

90. Statute of 9 Anne. Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719.

RACING.[91]

RAILROADS.

§ 1. Railroad Companies (1181).
§ 2. Public Regulation (1183).
§ 3. Fees, Licenses and Taxes (1183).
§ 4. Aids and Bonuses (1183).
§ 5. Franchises, Public Grants, and Right of Way. Certificate of Public Convenience (1184). Grants in Highways and Streets (1184). Consent of Abutting Owners (1185). Rights in Public Lands (1185). Right of Eminent Domain (1185). Private Grants (1186). Conditions and Reservations in Private Grants (1187). Enforcement of Conditions (1187). Rights as against Subsequent Grantees (1187). Disposal of or Use of Right of Way by Company (1187). Abandonment of Right of Way (1187). Adverse Possession by or against Railroad (1188). Appropriation of Right of Way for Other Public Use (1188).
§ 6. Location of Road, Termini and Stations. Filing, Location, Profile, etc. (1188).
§ 7. Construction and Maintenance. Private and Farm Crossings (1189). Public Crossings (1190). Damages from Negligent Construction (1190). Establishment of Crossings (1191). Abolition and Prevention of Grade Crossings (1191). Damages for Change of Grade (1192). Crossings with Other Railroads, Street Railroads and Canals (1192). Duty to Make Transfer Connections (1193). Cattle Guards (1193). Fences (1193). Drainage and Disposal of Surface Water (1194). Obstruction of Watercourses (1194). Miscellaneous Matters (1194). Construction Contracts (1194).
§ 8. Sales, Leases, Contracts and Consolidation Lease or Joint Use of Privileges (1194). Consolidation (1195). Duties and Liabilities After Sale or Lease (1195). Contracts for Use of Bridges (1196).
§ 9. Indebtedness, Insolvency, Liens, and Securities. Mechanics' and Materialmen's Liens (1196). Bonds and Mortgages (1196). Property Covered by Mortgages (1197). Priorities (1197). Priorities Between Mortgages and Operating Expenses (1197). Foreclosure of Mortgages (1197). Sale and Proceeds (1198). Receivership (1198).
§ 10. Operation of Railroad (1199).
A. Duty to Operate, Statutory and Municipal Regulations, and Care Required in Moving Trains in General (1199). Keeping Stations Open (1199). Operation on Sunday (1199). Equipment of Cars (1199). Speed Regulations (1199). Precautions at Highway Crossings (1200). Obstruction of Crossings (1200). Stops at Railroad Crossings (1200). Maintaining Telegraph Offices (1200).
B. Injuries to Licensees and Trespassers. General Rules (1200). Employes or Other Roads and of Independent Contractors (1202). Persons at Stations (1203). Persons Having Relation to Passenger (1203). Persons Loading and Unloading Cars (1203). Children on Tracks (1203). Adults Walking on Tracks (1203). Persons Along or Between Tracks (1205). Persons Standing, Sitting, or Lying on Track (1205). Persons on Bridges or Trestles (1206). Persons Near Crossings (1206). Persons Crossing Tracks Away From Established Crossings (1206). Persons in Switch Yards (1206). Persons Under Cars (1206). Persons Stealing Rides (1206). Persons Using Hand Cars or Railroad Tricycles (1207).
C. Accidents to Trains (1207).
D. Accidents at Crossings (1207).
1. Care Required on Part of Company (1207).
2. Contributory Negligence (1207).
3. Procedure (1214).
E. Injuries to Persons on Highway or Private Premises Near Tracks (1218).
F. Injuries to Animals on or Near Tracks (1219). How Far Liability Extends (1220). Place of Entry on Right of Way (1220). Duty to Maintain Fences (1221). Gates (1222). Cattle Guards (1222). Contributory Negligence of Owner (1223). Pleading (1223). Burden of Proof (1224). Admissibility and Sufficiency of Evidence (1224). Instructions (1225). Double Damages and Attorney's Fees (1225).
G. Fires (1225).
§ 11. Offenses Relating to Railroads (1230).

The duties and liabilities of railroad companies as common carriers,[92] their liabilities to employes[93] and matters common to all corporations,[94] are elsewhere treated.

§ 1. Railroad companies.[95]—The general law of corporations applies except in so far as rules specially applicable to railroads are prescribed.

Incorporation and existence.[96]—Statutes authorizing the formation of railroad companies are construed liberally.[97] Failure by a railroad to perform its 91. No cases have been found during the period covered by this volume. But see Betting and Gaming, 3 Curr. L. 499.

92. See Carriers, 1 Curr. L. 421, 3 Curr. L. 591.

93. See Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801, 4 Curr. L. 533.

94. See Corporations, 1 Curr. L. 710, 3 Curr. L. 880.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1383.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1383.

97. Deepwater R. Co. v. Lambert, 54 W. Va. 387, 46 S. E. 144.

public duties may be ground for forfeiture of its franchise,[98] and failure to construct a road within the time limited by the charter may forfeit it, but in the absence of evidence to the contrary, compliance with the charter will be presumed.[99]

Powers of corporation and authority of officers.[1]—The franchises granted to a railroad corporation must be exercised by that corporation alone.[2] The discretion of the officers, if exercised in good faith within the limits of the corporate powers, will not be reviewed by the courts.[3] The power of directors to extend a railroad includes the power to acquire a use of terminal facilities of other companies in another state by action of the directors.[4] Power to do all acts incidental to the maintenance of the road includes the right to lay conduits in the right of way.[5] Continued acquiescence by a board of directors may confer power on an executive committee to purchase needful supplies.[6]

Actions by and against companies.[7]—A statute providing that in certain cases companies leasing their property may be liable for claims against the lessee does not make service of process upon the agent of the lessee equivalent to service upon the lessor.[8] In general, suits against railroad corporations should be brought in the county where the cause of action arose,[9] and actions for killing stock in some states must be brought in the county or township in which the stock is killed.[10] A statute of Illinois giving single damages by way of compensation for the killing of stock by a railroad may be sued in Missouri,[11] and a Georgia corporation transacting business in another state may be sued in Georgia for injuries inflicted in such other state.[12] That a railroad of another state in the transfer of its business to and from roads within the state runs its cars and engines across the state line does not give the state courts jurisdiction of it.[13] The words "railroad" and "railway" are synonymous in the name of a railroad company,[14] and process omitting the word "company" from defendant's corporate name has been held good, and a return of service on its agent, the president, or other chief officer not being found in the county is sufficient.[15] Some states allow an attorney fee if there be a recovery for more than tendered by the company, and it failed to pay after the statutory notice before service of process.[16] A

98. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001.

99. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 23 App. D. C. 587. Suspension of work for several years will not work a forfeiture of charter where the project was not abandoned but was pushed to completion as soon as funds could be procured. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1385.

2. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001.

3. Price v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 81, 58 A. 137.

4. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 230.

5. City of Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 266.

6. Roebling's Sons Co. v. Barre & M. Traction & Power Co., 76 Vt. 131, 56 A. 530.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1387, n. 16-24.

8. Acts 1899, pp. 54, 55, § 1. Perry v. Brunswick & W. R. Co., 119 Ga. 819, 47 S. E. 172.

9. Acts 1889, p. 362 does not give the plaintiff the right to elect in what county suit may be brought. Le Croix v. Western & A. R. Co., 118 Ga. 98, 44 S. E. 840. An action for personal injuries should be brought in the county where the cause of action originated. Civ. Code 1895, § 2334. Coakley v. Southern R. Co., 120 Ga. 960, 48 S. E. 372.

10. Question of lack of proof of venue may be first raised on appeal. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gray [Ark.] 80 S. W. 748. Venue must affirmatively appear from record where action is before justice of the peace. Shaw v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 611; Atlantic Coast R. Co. v. Du Pont [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103.

11. Stonebraker v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 631.

12. Savannah, F. & W. R. Co. v. Evans, 121 Ga. 391, 49 S. E. 308.

13. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. J. H. White & Co., 97 Tex. 493, 80 S. W. 77.

14. Black v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 96.

15. Brassfield v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1032.

16. Gen. Laws, c. 187, § 34. Smallwood v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 314 statute authorizing the recovery of attorneys' fees where a railroad violates a statute does not include a case where a passenger recovers for injuries from a railway servant, no statute being violated.[17] Consolidation of actions for killing animals is within the discretion of the court.[18]

Foreign corporations.[19]—Statutes may require the appointment of some resident on whom process may be served.[20]

§ 2. Public regulation.[21]—Railroads by reason of their quasi-public nature are subject to regulation which usually takes the form of rate revision[22] and safety provisions,[23] but must not transcend constitutional limitations.[24] When a charter provision reserves a permissive power of regulation, it will be relinquished by the public if a new charter silent in this respect be granted before exercise of the power.[25]

Control by railroad commissions.[26]—That a railroad commission is given jurisdiction of certain cases does not necessarily bar common-law remedies therefor.[27] An order requiring a railroad company to build a side track for a private individual is invalid.[28]

§ 3. Fees, licenses and taxes.[29]—The construction of a railroad under municipal consent required by statute and upon conditions for the payment of an annual license fee per car is a contractual obligation.[30] The Indiana law providing for recovery from railroads of earnings in excess of certain amounts under charters long since surrendered is unconstitutional.[31] Local assessments for the cost of public improvements may in some cases be laid on railroads, depending statutes, the existence of a corresponding benefit, and circumstances. The cases are at variance.[32] General taxes are levied according to statutory modes more or less peculiar to each of the several states.[33]

§ 4. Aids and bonuses.[34]—Public land grants to railroads[35] and municipal aid bonds[36] are treated elsewhere.

Subscriptions.[37]—One who subscribes on condition that the road be built to a point outside the state is estopped to deny his obligation after the road is built on the ground that such building was ultra vires.[38] Where the subscription is conditioned on running a train into a certain town on a certain date, the mere fact that a train was run, is enough. Its equipment is immaterial.[39]

17. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Marx [Ark.] 80 S. W. 579.

18. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Du Pont [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1386. See, generally, Foreign Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 1455.

20. V. S. 3948. Gokey v. Boston & M. R. Co., 130 F. 994.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1387.

22. See Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 592; Commerce, 3 Curr. L. 711.

23. See post, §§ 4, 7, 8.

24. See Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730.

25. A provision in a railroad charter that the legislature may so regulate tolls that not more than a certain income be paid over to stockholders and that the surplus be paid over to the state treasurer for the use of schools is permissive only, not mandatory, and until the legislature acts the company may do as it will as to tolls, and by surrendering its charter and accepting another containing no such provision, before the legislature has acted, it escapes such regulation. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. v. State of Indiana, 194 U. S. 579, 48 Law. Ed. 1124.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1387.

27. Gen. St. 1901, § 5998. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. State [Kan.] 77 P. 286.

28. Railroad Comm. of Texas v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. of Texas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 102; Railroad Commission of Texas v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. of Texas [Tex.] 80 S. W. 1141.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1386.

30. Defendant may plead statute of limitations in an action on such an obligation. Jersey City v. Jersey City & B. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 15.

31. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. v. Indiana, 194 U. S. 579, 48 Law. Ed. 1124; afg. 159 Ind. 438, 65 N. E. 401, cited 2 Curr. L. 1386.

32. See Public Works and Improvements, § 8C, ante, p. 1146.

33. See Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1383.

35. See Public Lands, 4 Curr. L. 1106.

36. See Municipal Bonds, 4 Curr. L. 766.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1385.

38, 39. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899.

§ 5. Franchises, public grants, and right of way.[40] Certificate of public convenience.[41]—In determining the question of public convenience, the future growth in population and the fact that the local authorities consent to the construction should be considered.[42] The certificate should be refused where a line parallel to the one proposed affords all needed transportation facilities,[43] but the fact that a franchise has been granted for a line through the territory in question, under such conditions as to render construction prohibitive, should not control.[44] A certificate according to the matter set forth in the articles of incorporation is proper.[45] That the road has been staked out to a point beyond that specified in its articles and the certificate, will not invalidate the certificate nor is it ground for refusing the same.[46]

A charter authority to acquire "land for the track of said road not to exceed 150 feet wide" is not a grant of right of way.[47]

Grants in highways and streets.[48]—Power to cross any public road or way refers to municipal streets as well as country highways.[49] Where a road is to pass over the streets of a city, the consent of the council must be obtained and the route of the road defined.[50] The right given by a statute to railroad companies to construct tracks across or along streets is not interfered with by the power given to municipalities to regulate the use of locomotives within the city and to control the location of tracks.[51] Municipalities may grant railroad companies a reasonable use of the streets for the construction and operation of roads for public transportation,[52] but grants in highways and streets are subject to the prior easement of the public and will not be permitted to injure or destroy the rights of abutters.[53] The placing of a steam railway track on a public street imposes an ad-

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1389. Sale, lease or transfer of franchise, see post, § 8.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1383.

42. In re Wood, 99 App. Div. 334, 91 N. Y. S. 225. A certificate should not be granted where an overwhelming majority of the public, as represented by the owners and occupants of property along the line of the proposed road, are opposed to the building thereof. People v. State Board of R. Com'rs, 95 App. Div. 38, 88 N. Y. S. 522.

43, 44. In re Wood, 99 App. Div. 334, 91 N. Y. S. 225.

45. Not according to a map filed. People v. State Board of R. Com'rs, 99 App. Div. 85, 91 N. Y. S. 375.

46. Publication held sufficient. People v. Board of R. Com'rs of New York, 91 N. Y. S. 977.

47. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 37 So. 490.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1390.

49. Temporary obstruction of a street not a nuisance. City of Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 266.

50. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155.

51. In re Milwaukee Southern R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 401.

52. Switch track held not to be for private purposes. Stockdale v. Rio Grande W. R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 849.

53. Tennessee Brewing Co. v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 864. A company allowed the use of a street cannot unreasonably obstruct the street or interfere with travel. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. City of Montezuma [Ga.] 49 S. E. 738. A municipal council can grant no authority to a railroad company to interfere with the private property rights of others without compensation. Cincinnati, R. & M. R. Co. v. Miller [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 827. A company cannot, even under municipal ordinance authorizing it so to do, lay its tracks in a street so narrow that if so occupied there would not be room for vehicles to pass. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Middleton, 139 Ala. 610, 36 So. 782. The maintenance of an elevated railroad will be enjoined where the pleadings admit that the necessary easement or right of property was not acquired. Answer failing to controvert such allegations of the complaint, they must be taken as true [Code Civ. Proc. § 522]. Driscoll v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 146, 88 N. Y. S. 745. Erection of a depot and warehouse is not a taking of or proximate injury to a lot located at some distance therefrom entitling the owner to compensation or injunctive proceedings under eminent domain provisions, where access to complainant's lot is afforded not only by way of private street which defendant has agreed to keep open, but also by a public street and its connections. Dennis v. Mobile & M. R. Co., 137 Ala. 649, 35 So. 30. An injunction would not lie to enjoin building of a railway trestle longitudinally along an unimproved and impassable street, when the city had consented to the construction and the abutting owner, suing for the injury, could show no material injury. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati & I. W. R. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 237. An ordinance permitting a railroad to obstruct a street for not to exceed 30 minutes at a time is unditional burden upon it, for which the abutting owners are entitled to compensation.[54] The right of action for damages accruing to a landowner because of the construction of a railway in the street before his premises belongs to him personally and his grantees take the land subject to the burden, notwithstanding the traffic becomes heavier.[55] Where between platting and acceptance of dedication a track is laid along a platted street, the company acquires more than a revocable license, but can retain its track only on paying damages to adjoining owners.[56] For grading down a street for a railway so as to cut off access to abutting property the owner may have damages.[57]

Consent of abutting owners.[58]—Authority to occupy a portion of the street and sidewalk does not permit the construction of a track onto other property to the irreparable injury of the adjoining owner.[59]

Rights in public lands.[60]—In Louisiana a purchaser of land from the state is not entitled to damages from a railroad company for a road constructed before his purchase, though the company has paid nothing for its right of way.[61]

Right of eminent domain.[62]—To authorize eminent domain proceedings, the taking must be for a necessary,[63] public,[64] purpose; and certain lands, such as cemeteries, homesteads,[65] and the right of way of other roads,[66] are usually exempt. A company may increase its existing right of way to the statutory limit.[67] The Arkansas constitution prohibits the exercise of eminent domain except by domestic corporations,[68] but a corporation of another state by complying with the statute relative to filing its articles with the proper authorities so far becomes a domestic company as to give it the right of eminent domain.[69] Proceedings for the taking of private property must be in strict compliance with the statute.[70] Payment of compensation before possession can be taken is generally required,[71] though this is not necessary unless there is an express constitutional provision to that effect,[72] and such payment gives no priority over the holder of an unrecorded conveyance.[73] The mere commencement of proceedings confers no right to control or possession.[74] A merely temporary taking may entitle the owner to reasonable and will be restrained as a nuisance. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

54. Though the track is on one side of the street, owners on both sides are "abutting owners" within this rule. Herzog v. Cincinnati, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 17.

55. Kakeldy v. Columbia & P. S. R. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 205.

56. Koch v. Kentucky & I. R. & Brldge Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 216, 80 S. W. 1133.

57. Restetsky v. Delmar Ave. & C. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 665.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1391.

59. Shaking of ground, noise and smoke entitle such owner to compensation. Stockdale v. Rio Grande W. R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 849.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1391.

61. Friedrichs v. New Orleans Belt & Terminal Co. [La.] 38 So. 32.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1391.

63. Condemnation to widen right of way is not authorized where there has been no increase of business. O'Leary v. Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 164. Under Ohio statutes a railroad proposing to appropriate the land of another railroad company longitudinally must establish an urgent necessity for the land. Steubenville & T. R. Co. v. Cleveland & P. R. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 45. Where it appears that a company can conveniently build between its termini without crossing a public park, no necessity is shown for taking part of the park. In re Milwaukee S. R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 401.

64. A branch railroad track is for a public purpose if it is to be open to all without discrimination. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 A. 1001. A belt line may be a public necessity. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 155.

65. In Pennsylvania a company may, for the purpose of widening an established way, condemn a homestead [Act March 7, 1869]. Dryden v. Pittsburg, V. & C. R. Co., 208 Pa. 316, 57 A. 710; O'Leary v. Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 164.

66. Chicago & M. El. R. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 211 Ill. 352, 71 N. E. 1017; Steubenville & T. R. Co. v. Cleveland & P. R. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 45.

67. Chicago & M. El. R. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 211 Ill. 352, 71 N. E. 1017.

68. Russell v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 71 Ark. 451, 75 S. W. 725.

69. Acts 1899, p. 43, c. 34. Russell v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 71 Ark. 451, 75 S. W. 725.

70, 71, 72, 73, 74. Atlanta K. & N. R. Co. v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 657.

compensation,[75] though such taking be in obedience to a command of the state.[76] Abandonment of condemnation proceedings and construction thereunder revokes a statutory license and makes the railroad company a trespasser ab initio.[77] A company dismissing condemnation proceedings and abandoning construction thereunder will not be permitted to question the validity of such dismissal in an action for trespass by the land owner.[78] A railroad company appropriating a city alley and making a deep excavation therein is liable to the adjoining owner for injury by reason of access to and egress from his property being cut off.[79] The fact that a railroad seeking to condemn right of way through a city has no license to cross or traverse the streets is no defense to property owners.[80] The right acquired by condemnation proceedings dominates all right of possession except as to the owner of the fee;[81] and he may use only that portion not in immediate use by the company and not necessary in the safe and convenient use of that which is in actual service.[82] Cases discussing the elements of damage are cited in the note.[83]

Private grants.[84]—A lessee of property is a necessary party to negotiations and contracts for a right of way thereon.[85] Where a deed of right of way fails to locate the route, occupancy by mutual consent will locate and indentify the route.[86] A right of way belonging to a railroad company is private property as to an adjoining owner, and the latter has no easement thereon of light, air and view.[87] A voluntary conveyance of land for right of way gives a company no greater rights as to the use of the land than it could acquire by proceedings under the statutes.[88] A grant of a right of way carries with it the right to use without further compensation all the suitable materials within the lines of the way.[89] For the necessary support an embankment slope may extend beyond the right of way, but for this additional compensation may be demanded,[90] as also for ma-

75. The fact that occupancy of a street is merely temporary is to be regarded only as going to the amount of compensation. McKeon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 75 Conn. 343, 53 A. 656.

76. McKeon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 75 Conn. 343, 53 A. 656.

77. Measure of damages for such a trespass considered. Enid & A. R. Co. v. Wiley, 14 Okl. 310, 78 P. 96.

78. Enid & A. R. Co. v. Wiley, 14 Okl. 310, 78 P. 96.

79. A landowner suffers no damages reroverable at law for injury to the lateral support of his property until the earth is so much disturbed that it slides or falls. Kansas City N. W. R. Co. v. Schwake [Kan.] 78 P. 431.

80. Dowie v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 354.

81, 82. Kansas & C. P. R. Co. v. Burns [Kan.] 79 P. 238.

83. The measure of damages is the difference in the fair cash value of the property before and after the construction of a subway and the closing of a street. Village of Winnetka v. Clifford, 201 Ill. 475, 66 N. E. 384. The fact that the injury continues only while the work of construction is in progress is immaterial in case of special damage. Bailey v. Boston & P. R. Corp., 182 Mass. 537, 66 N. E. 203. Remote and speculative damages cannot be awarded. East & W. I. R. Co. v. Miller, 201 Ill. 413, 66 N. E. 275. In the absence of statute, loss of business cannot be considered. Taking for right of way. Bailey v. Boston & P. R. Corp., 182 Mass. 537, 66 N. E. 203. Diminished rental value may be recovered where distinguishable from the damage suffered by the public generally. Id. On condemnation of a right of way, damages are to be awarded as of the time of entry. Van Husen v. Omaha Bridge & T. R. Co., 118 Iowa, 366, 92 N. W. 47. Only the damages arising from lawful and proper construction are recoverable in eminent domain proceedings, the damages from negligent and improper construction being recoverable only in another suit. Gulnn v. Iowa & St. L. R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 94.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1392.

85. Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 96 App. Div. 539, 89 N. Y. S. 92.

86. Gaston v. Gainesville & D. Elec. R. Co., 120 Ga. 516, 48 S. E. 188. Evidence held to show a conveyance of a right of way when the line might be finally located. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 P. 1124.

87. Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217.

88. Right to erect buildings amounting to nuisance as to adjoining lands. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Mott [Tex.] 81 S. W. 285. Land granted for a "right of way" cannot be used for a switch yard. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781.

89. Stautory exception of timber in Pa. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. 256, 58 A. 486.

90. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. 256, 58 A. 486.

terials taken from a point outside of the right of way.[91] A mere license for the construction of a railroad over land of the licensor may be revoked at the latter's option.[92] In determining the reasonableness of a grant of right of way, prospective advantages may be considered.[93]

Conditions and reservations in private grants.[94]—Where a clause requiring the road to be finished within a certain period is a covenant and not a condition, failure to so finish does not forfeit the grant.[95]

Enforcement of conditions.[96]—A grant of right of way may be lost by failure to comply with a condition requiring construction within a specified time.[97] Covenants to maintain crossings and gates other than as required by law may be enforced by the covenantee[98] or his grantee.[99] Where a grant of right of way contains a covenant for a crossing and a grade crossing is subsequently made impossible through no act of the company, a tunnel costing more than the lands to be benefited are worth will not be ordered, but the land owner will be relegated to his action at law for damages.[1]

Rights as against subsequent grantees.[2]—Covenants to maintain fences and farm crossings as partial consideration for a deed of right of way run with the land.[3]

Disposal of or use of right of way by company.[4]—The right of way may be devoted to any use indispensable to or which will facilitate the objects of the railroad's operation.[5] An ordinance authorizing a company to construct and maintain a railroad in a street does not include a use thereof for drilling, switching or transferring cars.[6] The laying of another line of road upon the same right of way by a company already having one line thereon is not a violation of a constitutional prohibition of the construction of parallel or competing lines.[7] A trespasser frequently riding a tricycle upon a company's track may be perpetually enjoined.[8]

Abandonment of right of way.[9]—The track on an abandoned right of way reverts with the soil to the owner of the fee.[10]

91. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. 256, 58 A. 486. Not liable for double damages for the taking of sand [Act May 8, 1876]. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. 263, 58 A. 488.

92. Evidence held not to show a contract. Stratton's Independence v. Midland Terminal R. Co. [Colo.] 77 P. 247.

93. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 P. 1124.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1392. Contract for special switching rates in consideration of grant of right of way construed and held not to be uncertain and ambiguous. Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 96 App. Div. 539, 89 N. Y. S. 92. Evidence held not to show an agreement to begin construction at a given point within 90 days as a material inducement of the contract. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 P. 1124.

95. Krueger v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 898.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1393.

97. Peterson v. Atlantic & B. R. Co., 120 Ga. 967, 48 S. E. 372. Whether the construction of a railroad has been with "reasonable dispatch" depends upon the character and magnitude of the work, and the surrounding circumstances. The lapse of 2½ years in the construction of 5 miles of road costing $7,000,000 during the financial depression of 1893 not unreasonable. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 P. 1124.

98. Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. McEwen [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 926.

99. Measure of damages is cost of completion of crossing and compensation for loss of use. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 666.

1. Speer v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 197.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1393.

3. Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. McEwen [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 926; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 666.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1393.

5. May lay water conduits upon the right of way and cross streets therewith. City of Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 266.

6. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Montezuma [Ga.] 49 S. E. 738.

7. A company may lay as many tracks upon its right of way as it deems fit. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 211 Ill. 352, 71 N. E. 1017.

8. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spaulding [Kan.] 77 P. 106.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1394.

10. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bradbury, 106 Mo. App. 450, 79 S. W. 966.

Adverse possession by or against railroad.[11]—By statute undisturbed possession may for a specified period give a railroad company title to land occupied by it,[12] but the building of a road over land by mere permission gives the company no rights in the land outside the roadbed embankment.[13] Permissive use of a company's right of way confers no rights upon the public,[14] or an abutting fee owner,[15] and the use by an individual of parts of a railroad right of way for grain elevators, granaries, coal sheds and other structures incident to a business connected with shipping, will not be regarded as adverse to the company except on clear proof of notice of claim of right.[16] An adjoining owner may acquire a prescriptive right to a farm crossing.[17] Adverse user by the public for the statutory period may imply a dedication of railroad lands for highway purposes.[18]

Appropriation of right of way for other public use.[19]—Unless forbidden by their charters, railroad corporations may dedicate as a public highway lands conveyed to them for railroad purposes,[20] and under the general authority to establish streets, a city or village may establish streets across lands which are subject to the franchises of a railroad, provided the second use is reasonably consistent with the former.[21] One railroad company cannot for right of way purposes condemn longitudinally the right of way of another.[22] Telegraph companies are not entitled to enter upon or occupy any part of the right of way of railroads under the power of eminent domain.[23]

§ 6. Location of road, termini and stations. Filing, location, profile, etc.[24]—In order to constitute a location, a selection and adoption of a line by the officers of the company is necessary.[25] Statutes requiring the designation of the termini of a road for the construction of which a company is formed are liberally,[26] and those regulating the construction of parallel lines are strictly, con-

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1394.

12. Laws 1854-55, p. 274, c. 229, § 11. Barker v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 115; City of Hickory v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 202.

13. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 37 So. 490. Title by prescription extends only to so much as is actually occupied. Floyd v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2147, 80 S. W. 204. Company not entitled to recover land occupied by it for 40 or 50 years, to the extent of 100 feet on each side of the center of track, such land having been in the exclusive occupancy of its owners during such period. Jones v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 677.

14. The passageway may at any time be fenced by the railroad company. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Waldrop, 24 Ky. L. R. 2127, 72 S. W. 1116; Wilmuth's Adm'r v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 671, 76 S. W. 193. On closing up a passageway permitted to be used by the public on a right of way, the obstruction should be safe and sufficient for a reasonable time to notify the public of the revocation of consent to such use. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Waldrop, 24 Ky. L. R. 2127, 72 S. W. 1116.

15. The temporary and occasional placing of gates in trestle work by a stock raiser for his own convenience does not amount to an assertion of rights therein. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hammond, 210 Ill. 187, 71 N. E. 576. Use by the fee owner of a passage under a trestle for the passage of his stock does not raise a presumption of adverse user. Continuous use by railroad of its right of way. Id.

16. Roberts v. Sioux City & P. R. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 60. Scales. Michigan Mill. Co. v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 574.

17. Zook v. Illionis Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2194, 80 S. W. 211.

18. Southern Pac. Co. v. Pomona, 144 Cal. 339, 77 P. 929.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1395.

20. Company bound by dedication of its agent. Southern Pac. Co. v. Pomona, 144 Cal. 339, 77 P. 929.

21. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Urbana, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583.

22. This rule does not extend to property beyond the right of way. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 211 Ill. 352, 71 N. E. 1017. Under the Ohio statutes where it is absolutely necessary for a railroad to have the land it seeks to appropriate in order to build its road, and the railroad owning it will not need it for a long time to come, the right to appropriate it exists. Steubenville & T. R. Co. v. Cleveland & P. R. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 45.

23. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 133.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1388.

25. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 2.

26. Substantial compliance is sufficient. Deepwater R. Co. v. Lambert, 54 W. Va. 387, 46 S. E. 144.

strued.[27] "Location" has been interpreted as the physical location of the track.[28] A priority in location may be lost by laches in a further prosecution of construction;[29] but where a railroad has located, surveyed and staked out its route over land before the incorporation of the city, including such land within its limits, the subsequent incorporation of the city cannot deprive the railroad of its priority of location.[30] The staking out of a location different from that adopted by regular corporate action cannot form the basis of condemnation proceedings.[31] It is essential to name the termini in the charter in Tennessee, but the route need not be definitely described.[32]

Alteration and changes.[33]—A statute authorizing the widening of railroads is not unconstitutional in failing to provide a specific limit of width.[34] A railroad may obtain the power to extend its road over new and additional routes by procuring an amendment to its charter, describing the proposed additional routes.[35]

Compulsory maintenance of stations, sidings, etc.[36]—The public has an interest in the location of depots and the time and place at which trains must stop for freight and passengers,[37] and in Kansas the judgment of the court below ordering a station will not be reversed on disputed questions of fact.[38]

§ 7. Construction and maintenance. Private and farm crossings.[39]—The fee owner of land subject to a right of way is entitled to a private crossing of such way if necessary for convenient use of his two parcels of land, and such crossing will not unreasonably interfere with the railroad's operation,[40] and the right to a farm crossing may be acquired by prescription[41] or given by the statutes.[42] A railroad company should provide fastenings for a gate from a public highway over a farm crossing.[43] A right to a private crossing is not barred by the statute of limitations in that possession of a right of way is adverse to the rights of the owner of the fee.[44] Where the statute requires suitable and convenient farm crossings, their suitability and convenience is to be considered with due reference to the inconvenience and expense to the company, and under such a statute an under grade crossing may sometimes be required;[45] but there is no rule requiring a grade crossing if the crossing be adequate.[46] The legal duty of a railroad company to maintain such farm crossings as the court may determine to be suitable may be enforced by mandamus.[47]

27. That a proposed line will parallel an existing line for a short distance is not material. Wheelwright v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 647.

28. City of Hickory v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 202.

29. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Belington & N. R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 460.

30. Dowie v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 214 Ill. 49, 73 N. E. 354.

31. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Belington & N. R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 460.

32. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1388. Evidence held not to show a case for preliminary injunction restraining a relocation of road rendering it more dangerous. Baldwin Tp. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 478.

34. Dryden v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 208 Pa. 316, 57 A. 710.

35. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1388.

37. But the public is not concerned in a company's covenant to build a spur track. Butler v. Tifton, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 817, 49 S. E. 763.

38. Procedure on appeal. Board of Railroad Com'rs v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 53.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1396.

40. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974.

41. Zook v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2194, 80 S. W. 211.

42. Mandamus will lie to compel such crossing without first petitioning the railway commissioners [Code, § 2022]. Swinney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 219, 98 N. W. 635.

43. That the adjoining owner does not require such fastenings does not relieve the company of its statutory duty. Bumpas v. Wabash R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 202, 77 S. W. 115.

44. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974.

45. Undergrade crossing held required in instant case [Rev. St. 1898, § 1810]. State v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 16.

46. Gulnn v. Iowa & St. L. R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 94.

47. State v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 16.

Public crossings.[48]—By statute railroad companies may be compelled to construct and keep in good and safe condition all highway crossings,[49] and this duty is the same whether the highway was established before or after the railroad was built;[50] such laws are constitutional though enacted after construction of the road.[51] The duty to erect a crossing necessarily implies the duty to maintain it,[52] with its approaches,[53] and the duty extends to foot passengers as well as vehicles.[54] In the manner of crossing the companies must keep pace with the times, with the increase in travel, change of methods and improvements of highways.[55] Railroad companies are liable for all damages arising from failure to comply with statutes requiring them to restore streets to their original condition.[56] A railroad company may be liable to one injured in crossing a track on an insufficient public crossing,[57] but failure to exercise ordinary care in driving over a known defective crossing may constitute such contributory negligence as to bar a recovery.[58] No liability arises from the injury by being jolted from his wagon of one who attempts to cross a railway at a place where there is neither a public or private crossing.[59] In an action for injuries from a descending crossing gate, the question of contributory negligence should be confined to the care exercised at and after the gate arm began to descend.[60]

Damages from negligent construction.[61]—A company is liable where it cuts and leaves timber on its right of way in such a manner as to constitute a menace to adjoining land in case of inundation reasonably to be expected.[62] A railway company cannot under its general powers to erect necessary buildings erect stock pens on its right of way in a town that would be a nuisance,[63] nor can it establish switchyards in a residence neighborhood without liability to adjoining owners for the discomfort and depreciation of property occasioned thereby.[64] For illegally

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1397.

49. Company not entitled to damages. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Shelley [Ind.] 71 N. E. 151. Relates to bridge approaches (Southern Ind. R. Co. v. McCarrell [Ind.] 71 N. E. 156), but does not require company to construct or maintain public highways of the county other than where interfered with by the construction of the roadbeds and to perform the grading required for a convenient approach to such crossing (Id.). Statutes may require railway companies establishing crossings to restore the highway to its former or as good condition [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 5153]. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Leachman, 161 Ind. 512, 69 N. E. 253. Must restore highway to its full width—narrow strip insufficient. Evansville & I. R. Co. v. Allen [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 630. Provision as to notice of defective crossing by municipal officials does not affect the company's liability. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106. Where a defect in a crossing was the result of ordinary use and wear, and was plainly visible, an instruction that the company had notice thereof is not erroneous. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897. May be required to keep crossings in such condition that the highway may be safely and conveniently used by the traveling public generally [Code 1892, § 3555]. Gulf & C. R. Co. v. Sneed [Miss.] 36 So. 261.

50, 51. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Shelley [Ind.] 71 N. E. 151.

52, 53. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106.

54. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897.

55. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. McCarrell [Ind.] 71 N. E. 156.

56. International, etc., R. Co. v. Haddox [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1036; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Leachman, 161 Ind. 512, 69 N. E. 253; International, etc., R. Co. v. Butcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 819. One knowing of a defective crossing but having reasonable grounds for believing that it may be safely crossed by the exercise of ordinary care and not believing as a reasonably prudent person that it was imprudent to undertake its passage, was under no obligation to take another road. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106.

57. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 476. Other defects than those alleged cannot be shown. Lowenstein v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 625. That other cause of injury concurred is immaterial. Evansville & I. R. Co. v. Allen [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 630.

58. Teamster standing up on loose dump boards of his wagon. Reynolds v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 801.

59. Sanders v. Texas Mexican R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 871.

60. Sager v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 132.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1398.

62. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Moore, 26 Ky. L. R. 859, 82 S. W. 624.

63. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Mott [Tex.] 81 S. W. 285.

64. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781; Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Lellyett [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 881.

maintaining a ditch along its track in a public street, in which water stagnates and which cuts off access to abutting property, the landowner may have damages against a railroad company.[65]

Establishment of crossings.[66]—Statutes and ordinances may prescribe the manner in which crossings shall be made and provide for penalties and damages for failure to comply.[67] Where a right of way for a highway is condemned across a railroad company's right of way, it is entitled to damages for direct expenses but not to compensation for the observance of public regulations requiring the opening of crossings when obstructed by trains.[68] Before the passage of the New York grade crossing law, the manner of crossing rested primarily with the railroad companies;[69] but thereafter the question was exclusively within the power of the railroad commission as to cases therein mentioned.[70] In New Jersey the regulation of conflicting easements at crossings is exclusively a chancery power;[71] but a crossing agreement between a railroad company and a traction company is not void because made without the sanction of the chancellor.[72] The courts may at the instance of a railroad company compel municipal authorities to comply with the statutes relative to the establishment of grade crossings.[73]

Abolition and prevention of grade crossings.[74]—Statutes requiring railroad companies to bridge streets, being referable to the police power, apply to roads and crossings built before their enactment.[75] Many states require that all crossings constructed after the enactment of the statute shall be above or below grade unless permission for a crossing at grade be secured,[76] but in the absence of a statute providing otherwise, a company chartered to construct a line between ascertained termini may, by implication, cross at grade all streets on highways intervening,[77] and if a crossing at grade is authorized by law, its construction cannot be enjoined as a nuisance.[78]

A municipality has the right in the exercise of its police power to require a railroad company to elevate its tracks so as to avoid grade crossings over public streets.[79] Under general powers over railroad crossings, a city may compel railways to reduce their crossings to the level of the streets at their own expense.[80] Authority to prescribe the manner in which crossings shall be abolished implies the right to take additional land.[81] Upon the taking of land for the abolition of grade crossings, a full compliance with the statute is requisite to the changing of title.[82] An ordinance on the bridging of streets by railroads need not contain 65. Cane Belt R. Co. v. Ridgeway [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 496.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1398.

67. Hughes v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 773.

68. Village of Plymouth v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 947.

69, 70. People v. Delaware & H. Co., 81 App. Div. 335, 81 N. Y. S. 478.

71. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 303.

72. P. L. 1895, p. 462. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex & S. Traction Co., 70 N. J. Law, 732, 58 A. 332.

73. Act June 7, 1901. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bogert, 209 Pa. 589, 59 A. 100.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1398.

75. City of Harriman v. Southern R. Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 213.

76. P. L. 1903, p. 659. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 303.

77, 78. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 303.

79. Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217.

80. The exercise of such power is under the police power and is not the exercise of a taxing power, nor of the power of eminent domain. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Dallas [Tex.] 84 S. W. 648. It is no objection to such an ordinance that it would also require the reduction of the railroad grade between crossings. Id. On application for mandamus to compel such action, an answer showing the impracticability of complying is not demurrable. Id.

81. St. 1896, p. 268, held constitutional. Lancy v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 302.

82. St. 1900, p. 471, c. 472, construed. Providence, F. R. & N. Steamboat Co. v. Fall River [Mass.] 72 N. E. 338.

the details for construction.[83] Municipal plans and specifications for a required separation of grade crossings must be reasonable and practicable.[84]

Under the New York grade crossing law, the railroad commissioners have exclusive authority in enumerated cases of determining the manner of crossing,[85] and the time when the work shall be prosecuted;[86] but they have no authority to determine whether a town shall be liable to an abutter for damages from a change of street grade.[87] For violation by a railroad commission of its contract relative to a grade crossing, a railroad company has an adequate remedy at law by contesting the tax levied thereunder.[88] In Massachusetts commissioners may apportion the expense in changes of crossings,[89] and in Connecticut the assessment of benefits to a railroad company upon a change of grade crossing is within their jurisdiction.[90] A contract between the Buffalo grade crossing commissioners and the railroad company for the abolition of certain grade crossings and the postponement of action on others must be complied with by the commissioners before proceeding with the postponed construction.[91]

A contract for the permanent maintenance of specified grade crossings is subject to the railroad company's duty to the public.[92]

Damages for change of grade.—In order that an abutting owner may recover damages for a change in grade it is not necessary that his property abut on a portion of the street which is changed.[93] He cannot recover on the sole ground that his use of the street is made less convenient and easy.[94] Recovery may be had where access to property is shut off for several months while making a change in grade.[95] Recovery may be had for a direct and physical injury of private property by the lowering of a street grade for a subway,[96] but depreciation of rental and market values from the diversion of customers cannot be recovered.[97] A railroad company changing its grade and that of a public street without proper authority by municipal ordinance is liable as a trespasser for the damages resulting to adjacent property.[98]

Crossings with other railroads, street railroads and canals.[99]—The crossing of the right of way of one company by the track of another amounts to an easement.[1] It may be done according to such plans as the statutes permit.[2] A stat-

83. Ordinance not void for uncertainty. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. People [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1026.

84. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. People [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1026.

85. Laws 1897, c. 754. People v. Delaware & H. Co., 81 App. Div. 335, 81 N. Y. S. 478.

86. Their determination not subject to review unless fraud charged or they act beyond the purview of their authority. Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo, 96 App. Div. 458, 89 N. Y. S. 122.

87. Smith v. Boston & A. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. S. 412.

88. Equity will not enjoin the letting of the contract for the improvement. Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo, 96 App. Div. 458, 89 N. Y. S. 122.

89. In re City of Taunton, 185 Mass. 199, 70 N. E. 48.

90. A city has no authority to assess such benefits. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven [Conn.] 59 A. 737.

91. Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 26. A stipulation regarding a temporary undercrossing held not to be a contract requiring its construction. People v. Delaware & H. Co., 81 App. Div. 335, 81 N. Y. S. 478.

92. Injunction forbidding removal of the crossings denied where the public and railroad authorities determined them to be dangerous. Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 939.

93. Pub. St. c. 112, § 95. Putnam v. Boston & P. R. Corp., 182 Mass. 351, 65 N. E. 790.

94, 95. Putnam v. Boston & P. R. Corp., 182 Mass. 351, 65 N. E. 790.

96, 97. City of Chicago v. McShane, 102 Ill. App. 239.

98. United New Jersey R. & Canal Co. v. Lewis [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 227.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1400.

1. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

2. In West Virginia grade crossings are neither prohibited nor discriminated against. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746. Under Ohio statutes steam railways and electric railways are not in the same class, and statutes regulating and relating to one are not applicable to the other. Dayton & Union R. Co. v. Dayton & M. T. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 329.

ute relative to crossings of railroads is not a police regulation in that it requires an interlock if the companies elect not to stop all trains at the crossing.[3] One railroad company asking for a crossing over the tracks of another may be required to pay the cost of installation of an interlocker.[4] Whether a crossing is necessary and practicable is a matter of almost pure fact dependent upon the evidence.[5] By various statutes the courts are empowered to determine the place and manner of the crossing of two railroads if the parties thereto cannot agree.[6] Where the court decrees a crossing substantially different from the one demanded before the institution of suit, a decree for costs against the plaintiff is proper.[7] An injunction restraining one railroad company from crossing the tracks of another in a street incidental to laying its tracks along the street under a void ordinance is not a deprivation of the constitutional right to condemn a crossing.[8] Appeal does not lie to a judgment of the common pleas dismissing the application by a railroad company to define the manner in which another company may cross its tracks.[9]

A railroad company may on proper showing be authorized to construct bridges over a canal in the custody of an officer of the court.[10]

Duty to make transfer connections.[11]

Cattle guards.[12]—The statutes requiring cattle guards are sustained under the police power of the state and for that reason cannot be objected to as depriving the companies of their property without due process of law.[13] The owner may recover for injuries to stock caused by attempting to cross defective cattle guards.[14] That the company acquired its right of way through plaintiff's land by warranty deed does not relieve it of its duty to maintain cattle guards.[15]

Fences.[16]—Statutes may require a railroad company to construct and maintain stock proof fences,[17] and authorize the abutting landowner to construct such a fence at the company's expense if it is negligent therein.[18] Double damages are given in some states for damages resulting from failure to fence.[19] Where de-

3. Company electing an interlock cannot attack constitutionality of interlock section. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gowrie & N. W. R. Co., 123 Iowa, 543, 99 N. W. 181.

4. Code, § 2063. Cost of maintenance may be pro-rated by the court [Code, § 2065]. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gowrie & N. W. R. Co., 123 Iowa, 543, 99 N. W. 181.

5. Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

6. Crossing may be decreed other than that petitioned for [Code 1899, c. 52, § 11]. Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

7. Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

8. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 849.

9. This is not a civil action. It is provided by statute that the order from which an appeal is sought must be made in a civil action in which the court has original jurisdiction. Dayton & U. R. Co. v. Dayton & M. T. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 329.

10. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. v. Western Md. R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 34.

11, 12. See 2 Curr. L. 1401.

13. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington [Miss.] 37 So. 1016.

14. Saine v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 487.

15. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wetz [Tex.] 80 S. W. 988.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1402.

17. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5323. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Croy, 33 Ind. App. 461, 71 N. E. 671. To be maintained in a manner sufficient to answer the purpose for which it was constructed. Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Erdell [Ind.] 71 N. E. 960.

18. Statutory notice before constructing fence [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5323]. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Croy, 33 Ind. App. 461, 71 N. E. 671. Failure of landowner to repair for two years after giving notice works no injury to defendant and does not affect right to compensation. Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Earhart [Ind.] 73 N. E. 711. Where all of the materials in the fence were unfit for further use, a new fence may be built and the cost thereof recovered. Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Erdell [Ind.] 71 N. E. 960; Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Salmon [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 268.

19. Tenant of a portion of the field not adjoining the track may recover. Brannock v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 379, 80 S. W. 699; Phillips v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 926. In an action for double damages to crops for failure to erect and maintain fences and cattle guards, the defense of insufficient time after construction of the road to fence must be pleaded and proved by defendant. Wilkerson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 336, 80 S. W. 308.

fendant has provided fences and gates, one seeking to recover damages to crops from stock entering through a gate provided by himself and used by the public generally must prove that entry was through the negligence of the company.[20]

Drainage and disposal of surface water.[21]—A railroad company is liable for damages to persons and property resulting from its failure to erect and maintain sufficient culverts and sluices through its embankments to carry off natural surface water.[22] One is not barred from an action for damages from surface water by reason of the fact that his acquirement of the property was after the construction of the railroad.[23]

Obstruction of watercourses.[24]—At common law a railroad crossing a watercourse must be so constructed as not to interfere with the public use of the watercourse,[25] though the flow be increased by artificial means.[26] In an action for damages from the maintenance of an embankment on a river, the fact that plaintiff acquired title after its construction is no defense.[27]

Miscellaneous matters.[28]—Depreciation of property from operation of a railroad without negligence is damnum absque injuria, and gives rise to no cause of action.[29] Damages are not recoverable for the elevation of its tracks by a railway company on its own right of way,[30] and a railroad company having a right to elevate its track without liability to adjoining owners, the city cannot be made liable for requiring such elevation for the public safety.[31] Adjoining landowners can recover for injuries resulting from growths of noxious weeds negligently permitted, and where the statutes so provide may recover without showing negligence.[32] An agreement to build a siding to a warehouse if the owner will remove it to a more convenient site and remodel it is founded on sufficient consideration, though the owner did not promise to remove the building.[33]

Construction contracts.[34]

§ 8. Sales, leases, contracts and consolidation. Lease or joint use of privileges.[35]—Where a railroad company has built a switch over private lands, it owes no duty in respect thereto to the public and may sell it to the landowner on such terms as it sees fit.[36] A lease of all of a company's property to hold and enjoy all the rights, 20. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Tucker [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 461.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1402.

22. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Barry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 634. The statutory duty of a railroad to put necessary culverts and sluices through its embankments extends also to the maintenance of them in proper condition. Id. Failure to construct culverts with the engineering knowledge and skill ordinarily applied in the erection of such works renders the company liable for resulting damage. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378. A company is liable for damage resulting from the negligent construction of a culvert. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968.

23. Richards v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 385.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1403.

25. This is a continuing duty. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

27. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 569.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1403.

29. Consequential damages, smoke, etc. Cincinnati Connecting Belt R. Co. v. Burski, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 98; Ross v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 565.

30. City of Chicago v. McShane, 102 Ill. App. 239.

31. Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217.

32. Johnson grass. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Terhune [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 74. Statute is constitutional. International, etc., R. Co. v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 794; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. May, 194 U. S. 267, 48 Law. Ed. 971.

33. Thomas v. South Haven & E. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1009.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1404. Railroad company laying spur on another's land held under contract to be entitled to a conveyance of right of way only for the duration of the contract and not unlimited as to time and general railway purposes. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wright Lumber Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1034.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1404.

36. Persons who have no property rights in a private switch over another's land cannot compel the latter to permit the railroad to receive and ship their freight over the switch to the railroad's own track. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. v. Oman, 134 F. 441.

powers and franchises includes all the powers and franchises the lessor held.[37] A railroad company cannot divest itself of its franchises and exempt itself from liability by lease to a foreign corporation.[38] Recovery of rent cannot be had upon a lease void as against public policy.[39]

Consolidation.[40]—Consolidation cannot take place unless the power to so consolidate is expressly conferred upon both consolidating corporations.[41] Unanimous consent of the stockholders is in general necessary,[42] and statutes authorizing consolidation upon the consent of a majority is in effect an exercise of the power of eminent domain.[43] Consolidations defeating competition are frequently prohibited,[44] but the consolidation of companies doing a terminal business only is not within the constitutional prohibition against the consolidation of competing and parallel lines.[45] The purchase of a railroad may be shown by oral testimony, and the court will take notice of a statute authorizing a consolidation.[46] Where extensive interests are involved, laches may bar an action for dissolution of a consolidation.[47] The state, stockholders and parties alone can attack the contract of a railroad corporation as ultra vires or in restraint of trade; bondholders cannot.[48]

Duties and liabilities after sale or lease.[49]—A statute providing that the purchaser of a railroad shall take the same subject to all the vendor's debts does not apply to foreclosure sales and in such case the purchaser takes the property discharged of all liabilities except prior liens.[50] Neither a mortgagee nor a purchaser at foreclosure sale acquires title free from the use imposed under reservation in the charter.[51] A purchase on foreclosure, subject to all outstanding contracts incurred by the receiver, binds the purchaser to accept valid outstanding tickets.[52] A covenant by a lessee to "pay all taxes now or hereafter imposed by law upon the property demised and the earnings from or business thereof" does not cover the shares of capital stock of the lessor, or the property or franchises upon which the valuation of such shares was made after the lease for purposes of taxation.[53] In general the lessor and lessee of a railway track are jointly and severally liable to the public for a negligent operation on that track,[54] and a company may be liable for injuries resulting from defects in its track sustained by the servant of another company using the road.[55] A railroad company is not relieved from liability for an accident from negligent operation of an engine on its

37. City of Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 266.

38. Brooker v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1022, 83 S. W. 117.

39. Cox v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 371.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1405.

41. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. and Raleigh & Gaston R. Co. held to have authority to consolidate. Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 96.

42, 43. Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 96.

44. The completion by one company of a railroad formerly owned by another does not lessen or defeat competition but creates it where none before existed. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

45. Mo. Const. art. 12, § 17. State v. Terminal Ass'n of St. Louis, 182 Mo. 284, 81 S. W. 395.

46. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 82.

47. Spencer v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 96.

48. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1405.

50. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. King [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1131.

51. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 230.

52. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546.

53. Erie & P. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 506, 57 A. 980.

54. Held to apply to an employe of the lessee for negligence of the lessee. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hart, 209 Ill. 414, 70 N. E. 654. A statute making the lessor company liable for the acts of the lessee as though it operated the road itself extends to injuries to servants. Markey v. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 61. In Missouri a domestic corporation which has leased its road to a foreign corporation is liable for injuries inflicted by the lessee in the operation of the road. Keller v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 F. 202.

55. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1038.

road, though the engine is owned and operated by another company that it has allowed to use the road.[56] The lessee may assert rights as a bondholder of the leased road.[57]

Contracts for use of bridges.[58]

§ 9. Indebtedness, insolvency, liens and securities. Mechanics' and materialmen's liens.[59]—The Washington statute allowing a lien to materialmen and those furnishing "provisions" has been held unconstitutional as embracing more than one subject.[60] Explosives used in blasting are materials entitling the furnisher to a lien,[61] but coal furnished for use of a steam shovel used by a contractor is not.[62] The keeper of the contractor's commissary is not entitled to a lien,[63] and a subcontractor is not entitled to a lien in Texas for that portion of the work he contracts to others.[64] The lien cannot be obtained on a portion of the road, but must cover all;[65] and a person furnishing ties in another state which were used outside Missouri cannot have a lien on the property in Missouri.[66] Matters of procedure are discussed in the note.[67]

Bonds and mortgages.[68]—A clear case must be made out by stockholders to restrain the issue of bonds or securities.[69] Mortgages by railroad companies of after-acquired property have been universally sustained.[70] In general a trustee is not entitled to the rents and profits of mortgaged property until he takes possession or possession is refused.[71] The legality of a change of trustee, in apparent conformity with a mortgage, cannot be attacked collaterally.[72]

56. Ray v. Pecos & N. T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 112.

57. A trustee, in a suit for the benefit of all bondholders, sued a railway company for breach of contract for failure to keep in repair the roadbed of a leased road. The company was a bondholder but did not allege its ownership in the suit, but instead denied breach of the contract, and paid the judgment in full. Held, it was not precluded from claiming its pro rata share of the judgment as a bondholder. First Nat. Bank v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2051, 79 S. W. 280.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1406.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1407.

60. Laws 1893, p. 32, c. 24, § 1. Armour & Co. v. Western Const. Co., 36 Wash. 529, 78 P. 1106.

61. Hercules Powder Co. v. Knoxville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 354.

62. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Shera [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 293.

63. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Ark.] 79 S. W. 794.

64. He may recover for that portion of the work he does with his own laborers and teams. Eastern Tex. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 883.

65, 66. Bagnell Timber Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 180 Mo. 420, 79 S. W. 1130.

67. In Tennessee a principal contractor may enforce a lien against a railroad either in the circuit or chancery court [Acts 1883, p. 296, c. 220, as amended by Acts 1891, p. 215, c. 98]. Noll v. Cumberland Plateau R. Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 380. Where a railroad subcontractor, in a suit to enforce a lien, was permitted on trial without objection to amend his bill and introduce evidence thereunder to prove an amount due greater than that claimed in the notice filed, defendant could not object to such proceeding on appeal. Id. Notice given within the statutory limit after the last entry on a running account is good as to the whole account (Hercules Powder Co. v. Knoxville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 354), and refusal to deliver the last shipment because of insolvency of the purchaser does not affect the seller's right to a lien for what he has furnished (Id.). In an action by a laborer to enforce a lien for labor furnished a contractor, the contractor is a necessary party. Substituted service on nonresident held insufficient. Eastern Tex. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 883. In a proper case a plaintiff failing to establish his lien may have a general judgment against the company. Personal judgment reversed for faulty instruction including liability on lien. Bagnell Timber Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 180 Mo. 420, 79 S. W. 1130. In South Dakota it is proper that the decree include the "right of way" and "all franchises and privileges incident to defendants' ownership and the ownership of the right of way." Crouch v. Dakota, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 101 N. W. 722.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1407.

69. The issue of securities will not be restrained at the instance of stockholders in a profitable road, though thereby they claim that the deficit of another road will take up profits, if necessarily the purchasers of such securities must take with notice of and subject to all equities. Kissel v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Misc. 156, 89 N. Y. S. 796.

70. Such a mortgage held to include an after-acquired city lot adjacent to the company's main line and adapted to use in its business. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Graham [Mich.] 99 N. W. 408.

71. Cox v. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 371.

72. Bowling Green Trust Co. v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 132 F. 921.

Property covered by mortgages.[73]—Leased lines operated in connection with the main road are within a mortgage clause on after-acquired property "connected with" the railroad.[74]

Priorities.[75]—A promise by a railroad company to pay a claim in a certain way out of a fund which never came into existence does not create a lien upon the property entitled to priority over a subsequent mortgage.[76]

Priorities between mortgages and operating expenses.[77]—Statutes requiring receivers to pay employes out of the first receipts and earnings do not give such claimants priority over mortgagees.[78] As against a mortgagee of net earnings, such expenses as rents, taxes and betterments are chargeable to capital rather than to operating expenses.[79] Tort liabilities antedating a receiver's custody are not prior to a mortgage.[80]

Foreclosure of mortgages.[81]—A suit by trustees being not in the name of the bondholders, the suit does not abate by a bondholder's death,[82] nor need the title to particular bonds be proved before decree.[83] Intervening bondholders take the case as they find it and their right to raise objections is limited accordingly.[84] A court will be slow to interfere with a trustee in foreclosing a mortgage in the apparently lawful discharge of its duty.[85] A Federal court will refuse jurisdiction of suit by a car trustee when a pending state court receivership can afford full relief.[86] A suit in a different jurisdiction to restrain brokers from transferring the stock of a principal road until event of a foreclosure suit against a subsidiary road or until deposit of a guaranty fund to protect the mortgagee bondholders is not ancillary or supplemental to the foreclosure suit.[87] Laches, changes in value, and the accruing of rights of innocent third parties, will bar an impeachment of foreclosure proceedings.[88] Where bondholders also bore a stock liability, a set-off may be allowed and the equities adjusted.[89]

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1407.

74. Lien also embraced capital stock of another corporation, and a branch line but not a hotel. Guaranty Trust Co. v. Atlantic Coast Elec. R. Co., 132 F. 68.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1407.

76. Roberts v. Central Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 882.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1408.

78. B. & C. Comp. § 1083. Security Sav. & Trust Co. v. Goble, etc., R. Co., 44 Or. 370, 75 P. 697.

79. Losses of some years cannot be set off as against profits of prior years. Schmidt v. Louisville, etc., R. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 314.

80. A judgment obtained against a railroad company, after its property was placed in the hands of a receiver in a suit to foreclose a mortgage, for a tort committed prior to receivership, is not entitled to priority of payment over the mortgage debt. Hampton v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 662. Nor is this priority given by North Carolina statute. Id.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1408.

82. Where bondholders are represented by trustees under a mortgage, a suit in which such bondholders intervene does not abate by the death of one of them, nor is it necessary to have the deceased bondholder's representative made a party. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

83. Where trustees under a mortgage represent the bondholders, it is unnecessary for the bonds to be proved before final decree of foreclosure. Any question of ownership may be determined by reference to a master under order of the court. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

84. In a suit to foreclose a mortgage securing bonds, an intervening bondholder could not object to a stockholder dismissing its exceptions to an auditor's findings, nor use the exception as a basis for an original assignment of error on appeal. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

85. Bowling Green Trust Co. v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 132 F. 921.

86. Security Trust Co. v. Union Trust Co., 134 F. 301.

87. Raphael v. Trask, 194 U. S. 272, 48 Law. Ed. 973.

88. Raphael v. Rio Grande W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 12.

89. Where, in a suit to foreclose a mortgage securing bonds, a contract is construed as a sale of bonds at 90 with stock as a bonus, the purchaser thereby becomes liable as for unpaid subscriptions, but liability therefor would be barred in six years, under Civ. Code 1895, § 2891, as would also any claim for forfeiture for excessive interest. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885. Intervening bondholders in such a suit have no cause to complain of the allowance of a set-off to such purchasers for cash advanced, since they must be paid, having a first lien, before such set-off can be satisfied. Id. In a suit to foreclose a mortgage securing bonds, the fact that some bonds were endorsed and others not did not

Sale and proceeds.[90]—The sale of terminal tracks by a railroad company does not violate the public obligations of such company.[91] A purchaser on mortgage foreclosure takes the rights previously acquired by adverse possession.[92] A holder of bonds guaranteed by a mortgagor company must exhaust his legal remedies against the guarantor before he may in equity pursue the mortgagor's property in the hands of one who bought it on foreclosure.[93] He cannot join with such a suit one to compel a depositary to surrender the bonds to him.[94] Moneys realized from a sale of personalty covered by a mortgage is applicable to the payment of the mortgage indebtedness the same as proceeds of the sale of real estate.[95]

Receivership.[96]—Receivers are allowed a reasonable time to determine and elect whether they will assume executory contracts, such as leases.[97] A general agent of receivers of a railroad company ordered to continue its business has the same authority to make contracts of carriage that he would have if he were acting for the company.[98] Earnings during receivership are not subject to an equitable lien for the misappropriation of moneys prior thereto.[99] A judgment obtained against a corporation, after its property has been placed in the hands of receivers in a suit to foreclose a mortgage thereon, for a tort committed prior to the appointment of the receivers, is not entitled to priority of payment over the mortgage from the earnings of the receivership.[1] A claim for ties furnished within six months before the receiver was appointed is not entitled to priority over a previous mortgage, though the receiver used them,[2] and a claim for equipping cars with air brakes required by act of congress is not entitled to preference over any other claim for necessary equipment or supplies.[3] A railroad in the hands of a receiver is not liable for penalties prescribed against companies for failure of their servants to give signals at crossings,[4] but receivership is no defense where injury arises from make the doctrine of two funds applicable, the endorsement not being a lien, nor equally accessible, nor even a liability of the common debtor, and the collateral not being the property of the common debtor. Id.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1409.

91. Hence the motives for sale will not be examined into. Oman v. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 64.

92. Barker v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 115. Rights transferred by foreclosure sale, see, also, ante, § 8.

93, 94. Sawyer v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 100.

95. Security Sav. & Trust Co. v. Goble, etc., R. Co., 44 Or. 370, 75 P. 697.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1409.

97. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932.

98. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. American Trading Co., 25 S. Ct. 84.

99. Cox v. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 371.

1. Hampton v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 662. This rule is not altered by Code N. C. § 1255, giving judgments for torts priority where the mortgage was given by the lessor and the judgment was against the lessee, the latter's rights being extinguished by the appointment of the receivers and sale of the property for less than the mortgage debt. Id. Code N. C. § 1255, which gives judgments for torts priority over mortgages, does not apply to a judgment against a lessee of a railroad so as to render it a lien superior to a mortgage given by the lessor prior to the lease. Id. Property purchased at a sale under a decree foreclosing a mortgage on all a railway company's property and franchises is not rendered liable to sale for satisfaction of a judgment recovered for a tort committed by the mortgagor, by reason of North Carolina Code, making liens for torts superior to mortgages of incorporated companies. Julian v. Central Trust Co., 193 U. S. 93, 48 Law. Ed. 629. Corporate property of a North Carolina railway company, covered by an authorized mortgage, does not continue liable for the debts of such company accruing after the sale in foreclosure proceedings because of failure of the purchasing company to exercise the privilege conferred by statute of organizing a domestic corporation to operate the purchased property. Id. A determination by a state court that property of a railroad company covered by a mortgage remains liable, after sale under foreclosure at the decree of a Federal court, for debts thereafter accruing against the mortgagor, is not conclusive on the Federal supreme court in determining the rights of the purchaser under such sale. Id. Judgments for injuries to third persons not employes are not to be classed as operating expenses, and hence not entitled to priority of payment over mortgages. Property of corporation was placed in the hands of receivers subsequent to the date of the injuries. Atlantic Trust Co. v. Dana [C. C. A.] 128 F. 209.

2. Gregg v. Metropolitan Trust Co., 25 S. Ct. 415.

3. State Trust Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 129 F. 455.

4. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. v. State [Ark.] 79 S. W. 773.

neglect of duties, the performance of which would in no way have interfered with the receivership.[5]

§ 10. Operation of railroad. A. Duty to operate, statutory and municipal regulations, and care required in moving trains in general.[6]—A railroad company is entitled to the uninterrupted and exclusive possession and occupancy of its tracks and all its right of way necessary for conducting its business, except where built on public highways or over public crossings.[7] The right of a railroad company to operate its trains is subject to the restrictions imposed by law and reasonable prudence,[8] and violations of ordinances regulating the movement of locomotives and cars, proximately resulting in injury may constitute negligence per se.[9] At places where it is expected that persons will be rightfully found on a railroad track, ordinary care under the circumstances must be exercised to keep a lookout for them.[10] A company backing an engine toward a passenger depot may be required to send a servant in advance to give warning;[11] but the taking of that precaution will not relieve it of liability for the negligence of its servants managing the train.[12] A railway company is not liable for damage resulting from the operation of a car or locomotive on its tracks by a mere trespasser.[13] An ordinance forbidding the escape of any cinders, smoke, etc., from the burning of soft coal or any other substance, is unreasonable and void.[14]

Keeping stations open.[15]

Operation on Sunday[16] is sometimes made penal.[17]

Equipment of cars[18] engaged in interstate commerce has been the subject of congressional legislation. Only roads engaged in interstate commerce are within the act,[19] but a car laden in one state and destined for another is within the act as to the initial carrier who does not take it out of the state.[20] The act applies to the function of coupling as well as that of uncoupling,[21] and where a car cannot be successfully coupled by impact or uncoupled without men going between the ends of the cars, the car is unsafe and should not be used.[22] That proper appliances were originally provided and reasonable care exercised in inspecting is no defense.[23] Where the inspectors found nine defective cars in one train, it cannot be said the company used reasonable care and diligence to discover and remedy the defects.[24]

Speed regulations.[25]—A railroad company may be a "person" within a statute

5. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. v. State [Ark.] 79 S. W. 772.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1410.

7. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spaulding [Kan.] 77 P. 106. It is not only the right but the duty of a railroad company to keep its tracks clear. May enjoin use of railway tricycle. Id.

8. Nichols v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 229, 70 N. E. 183.

9. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250. A belt line railroad may be within the Indiana statute requiring switch lights, etc. [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5173a]. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Bond [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 647. Failure to ring bell within city limits as required by ordinance. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Levy [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 879.

10. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Brock [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 422.

11. Code 1892, § 3549, construed. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Metcalf [Miss.] 36 So. 259.

12. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Levy [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 879.

13. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5313. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Wasson, 33 Ind. App. 316, 70 N. E. 821.

14. Jersey City v. Abercrombie [N. J. Law] 58 A. 73.

15, 16. See 2 Curr. L. 1411.

17. Seale v. State, 121 Ga. 741, 49 S. E. 740.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1411.

19. United States v. Geddes [C. C. A.] 131 F. 452.

20. United States v. Southern R. Co., 135 F. 122.

21. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Voelker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 522.

22. United States v. Southern R. Co., 135 F. 122.

23. "M. C. B. defect card" on car is immaterial. United States v. Southern R. Co., 135 F. 122.

24. United States v. Southern R. Co., 135 F. 122.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1411.

regulating the speed of locomotives or cars.[26] In the absence of regulations the excessiveness of speed is a question of fact.[27]

Precautions at highway crossings.[28]—Municipal ordinances may require railroad companies to maintain at crossing lights equivalent to and operated under rules similar to those governing the municipal street lights,[29] and an agreement whereby a city contracts to keep in repair a certain street crossing does not relieve a railroad company from its statutory duty in regard thereto.[30] A higher degree of care is required of a railroad company in running its trains over crossings where the view is obstructed or where the surroundings make it unusually difficult to see the train or observe the signals.[31] Ordinances and statutes requiring signals at crossings may be relied on by others than those at legally established crossings.[32] Failure to signal may be indictable.[33]

Obstruction of crossings.[34]—Statutes prohibiting railroad company from obstructing a highway crossing for more than five minutes does not forbid an engine from standing that length of time within the highway if it does not obstruct the crossing.[35] An unreasonable obstruction of city streets by a train renders the owning company liable to one exercising due care, injured in attempting to go around the train.[36] The actual occupancy of a track by a railroad is, so long as it lasts, a revocation of any right the public may have to cross the track.[37]

Stops at railroad crossings.[38]—Statutes may require engineers and conductors to stop and "know the way is clear" before crossing the tracks of another railroad.[39]

Maintaining telegraph offices may be enforced by statute, but failure to comply with the statute cannot be the basis of recovery for a personal injury where a strict compliance would not have avoided the accident.[40]

(§ 10) B. Injuries to licensees and trespassers. General rules.[41]—A railroad company owes to all persons along its tracks, whether licensees or mere trespassers, the duty of refraining as to them from active misconduct, and wanton and willful injury.[42] It is not generally responsible for mere negligence toward trespassers,[43] but is not absolutely relieved from precautions against their injury.[44]

26. Southern R. Co. v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 333, 71 N. E. 275.

27. It is not negligence for a company to run its trains at a speed of 50 or 60 miles an hour where there is no public crossing and where the company is not bound to anticipate persons or property on the track. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Williams Buggy Co., 121 Ga. 293, 48 S. E. 939.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1412.

29. It is no defense that the ordinance prevents the use of a certain automatic light. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crawfordsville [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1025.

30. Butin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 909.

31. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Griffith [Kan.] 76 P. 436.

32. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Levy [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 879.

33. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. State [Ark.] 85 S. W. 85.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1412.

35. C. L. 1897, § 6234. Hirchman v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 277. Municipal ordinance. Crowley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1016.

36. Obstruction for 40 minutes. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Owen, 121 Ga. 220, 48 S. E. 916.

37. Wagner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 360, 98 N. W. 141.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1413.

39. Code 1896, § 3441. Southern R. Co. v. Bonner [Ala.] 37 So. 702.

40. Driver's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 1000.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1413.

42. Dotta v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 36 Wash. 506, 79 P. 32. Explosion of sulphuric acid tank in freight depot. Means v. Southern California R. Co., 144 Cal. 473, 77 P. 1001. Licensee falling through a trestle on which he was walking. McConkey v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 35 Wash. 55, 76 P. 526; Greene v. New York, etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 424. Trespasser must not be treated without some regard to the dictates of humanity. Sentell v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 215; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris [Ala.] 37 So. 794. Running a train at night without a headlight may constitute wanton negligence. For the jury. McKeown v. South Carolina & G. Extension R. Co., 68 S. C. 483, 47 S. E. 713. A special finding that a trespasser on the track was discovered by an engineer in time to have stopped the train held warranted under the evidence. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578. Willfulness of injury for the jury. Chicago G. W. R. Co. v. Troup [Kan.] 76 P. 859.

43. A railroad company owes a trespasser of mature age no duty beyond refraining from acts willfully injurious to him. Ken-

Failure to sound the statutory signals[45] or otherwise observe statutory regulations may be negligence,[46] but does not import a wantonness or willfulness by the company's servants,[47] and generally the duty to give such signals is for the benefit of the travelers upon the highway and does not extend to licensees on the right of way.[48] Failure of the operatives to warn by whistle or bell is not actionable where the person sustaining the injury was fully cognizant of the approach of the train and stayed in the endeavor to remove his team from the track.[49] A licensee is entitled to ordinary care.[50] In some states it is the duty of engineers and firemen to watch out for every danger,[51] while in others they are under no obligation to be on the lookout for trespassers on the track.[52] But in all after discovery of a tresdall v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 793, 76 S. W. 376; Kendrick v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 121 Ga. 775, 49 S. E. 762; Powell v. Erie R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 290, 58 A. 930; Fitzgibbons v. Manhattan R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 341. Injury from falling of a pile of ties upon defendant's right of way. Smith v. Hopkins [C. C. A.] 120 F. 921. Whether one is a trespasser is for the jury. McKeown v. South Carolina & G. Extension R. Co., 68 S. C. 483, 47 S. E. 713. No duty to trespasser to provide reasonably safe and proper appliances, nor as to rate of speed or schedule of time for running, nor as to whistle signals at crossings. Hortenstein v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 102 Va. 914, 47 S. E. 996. Trespasser stealing a ride. Klenk v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 27 Utah, 428, 76 P. 214. The rule given by a railroad company to its employes to "use great care" cannot change the degree of care the law requires toward a stranger. Heck v. New York, etc., R. Co., 94 App. Div. 562, 88 N. Y. S. 154. A boy eight years of age who climbed on a box car to watch a sale of stock in an adjacent yard is a trespasser. Jordan v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co., 162 Ind. 464, 70 N. E. 524. A trespasser is not required to allege or prove that the injury was willful except when he seeks to recover exemplary damages. Klenk v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 27 Utah, 428, 76 P. 214. One riding on a work train, after notice prohibiting such actions, is carried at his own risk. Failure by employes to enforce the rule does not alter the question of liability. Pennsylvania Co. v. Coyer [Ind.] 72 N. E. 875. The law does not require the company to search the cars for trespassers before moving the cars. Jordan v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co., 162 Ind. 464, 70 N. E. 524. Those using a roadway on a right of way after sufficient notice of withdrawal of consent to such use are trespassers. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Waldrop, 24 Ky. L. R. 2127, 72 S. W. 1116.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1413, n. 56. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123. A company is charged with the duty of being in a state of expectancy as to the probable presence of persons upon the track at places where travel thereon is known to be customary and frequent. McConkey v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 35 Wash. 55, 76 P. 526.

45. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 446, 47 S. E. 723.

46. A licensee may recover for injuries under the Mississippi statute imposing a liability on railroad companies for every injury inflicted by the backing of trains into depot grounds, not preceded by a servant to give warning [Code 1892, § 3549]. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Metcalf [Miss.] 36 So. 259.

47. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris [Ala.] 37 So. 794.

48. Batchelder v. Boston & M. R. Co., 72 N. H. 528, 57 A. 926; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049.

49. Carpenter v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 758.

50. Whether one is a licensee is for jury. McKeown v. South Carolina & G. Extension R. Co., 68 S. C. 483, 47 S. E. 713; Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 55, 78 P. 133. One who has alighted from a train and then walked about a depot and the right of way for purposes of his own is a licensee. Quantz v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 79; Sentell v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 215. Continuous use of track by pedestrians without objection from company may amount to license. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123; Booth v. Union Terminal R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 147. Contra, St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Shiflet [Tex.] 83 S. W. 677.

51. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Breton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123; Davis v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 446, 47 S. E. 723. It is the duty of both engineer and fireman to look forward along the track. Jordan v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co., 162 Ind. 464, 70 N. E. 524. By statute a railroad company may be required to always keep a lookout on a locomotive and to sound an alarm whistle for any one on the track, and to do all things possible to avoid an accident [Code, §§ 1574-1576]. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 127 F. 933. Shannon's Code, §§ 1574-1576. Southern R. Co. v. Simpson [C. C. A.] 131 F. 705. Employes must be on a reasonable lookout for trespassers or licensees. McConkey v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 35 Wash. 55, 76 P. 526. Trainmen should exercise that degree of care in keeping a lookout, which men of ordinary intelligence and prudence engaged in the same line would have exercised under similar circumstances. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897.

52. Wilmuth's Adm'r v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 671, 76 S. W. 193; Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 55, 78 P. 133. Rule applies to children. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Logsdon's Adm'r [Ky.] 81 S. W. 657. Failure to keep a constant lookout is not necessarily negligence. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897.

passer on the track, ordinary care should be used to avoid injury,[53] and failure to use the whistle on discovering a child on the track may be negligence.[54] Failure of the engineman to keep a proper lookout can only be considered the proximate cause of injury when it appears that a proper lookout would have prevented it.[55] Mere proof of an unexplained killing and impairment of the engineer's vision does not rebut the presumption that a proper lookout was kept.[56] A railroad company is liable for injuries negligently inflicted by the servants of another company using the track by consent.[57] A railroad company owning a track passing through an elevator is not liable for injuries to an employe of the elevator company caused by other employes of that company moving a car by hand.[58] Defendant's liability for injury to trespassers on its right of way is not affected by the fact that it has no title to the right of way.[59] A railroad is not chargeable with negligence in failing to reduce the speed of its trains at the point where deceased, a contractor, was working, where the work was not of such a character as to interrupt the ordinary operation of trains.[60]

Employes of other roads and of independent contractors.[61]—A railroad company owes an employe of an independent contractor engaged in raising the track the duty of using reasonable care to avoid injuring him.[62] A company must exercise ordinary care for the safety of a person carried gratuitously.[63] An express messenger is not a mere licensee,[64] but his relation to the railway company is analagous to that of one of its own employes.[65] Reasonable care is the measure of duty of one railroad company to an employe of another road.[66] Where two companies are by agreement using a common track, each owes the operatives of the other the duty to avoid injury to them.[67] A railway company is not liable to an

53. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1109; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123; Wilmuth's Adm'r v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 671, 76 S. W. 193; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Logsdon's Adm'r [Ky.] 81 S. W. 657; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Ramsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 825; Kendrick v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 121 Ga. 775, 49 S. E. 762; Kendall v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 793, 76 S. W. 376; Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761; Dotta v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 36 Wash. 506, 79 P. 32; Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 55, 78 P. 133; McConkey v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 35 Wash. 55, 76 P. 526. From the time an engineer sees another's perilous position, he must use diligence and care to avoid injury (Fitzgibbons v. Manhattan R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 341), but greater care must be exercised where the situation of the trespasser is known in time to prevent injury (Jordan v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co., 162 Ind. 464, 70 N. E. 524). In an action by a trespasser, the declaration must show that after discovery of his peril, the company by ordinary care could have avoided injury. Hortenstein v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 102 Va. 914, 47 S. E. 996. Testimony of trainmen is not conclusive as to the time of discovering deceased's peril. Circumstances may show they discovered it sooner than they admit. Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761.

54. Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761.

55, 56. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049.

57. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1109. Presumption of defendant's ownership of engine held not overcome by evidence. Id. [Tex.] 83 S. W. 182.

58. Sauls v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 89.

59. Dorsey's Adm'x v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 232, 80 S. W. 1131.

60. Carpenter v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 758.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1414.

62. Company not liable to such employe injured by a stone left on the track by the contractor and forcibly thrown against plaintiff by a passing train. Reilly v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 525, 98 N. W. 464.

63. Pennsylvania Co. v. Coyer [Ind.] 72 N. E. 875. To recover for injuries received while traveling upon a work train, it must be shown that the person was rightfully on board and that the company owed the duty of carrying him safely. Id.

64, 65. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. O'Brien [C. C. A.] 132 F. 593.

66. Heck v. New York, etc., R. Co., 94 App. Div. 562, 88 N. Y. S. 154. In an action for the death of a fireman of another company, the negligence of the engineer on whose engine deceased was employed, in relying on signal lights and not watching for a train, does not affect the right of recovery. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Vipond, 212 Ill. 199, 72 N. E. 22.

67. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Martin [Ala.] 36 So. 426. An engineer, in the absence of knowledge or notice to the contrary, may assume that the track is clear. Failure to give crossing signals cannot form employe of another company switching cars under contract, for injuries received while operating upon former company's tracks.[68]

Persons at stations.[69]—In the absence of an invitation express or implied, one going upon depot premises after the office is closed for the night and all lights put out assumes the risk consequent thereto.[70] Defects in the track which cause a licensee or trespasser thereon to fall create no liability on the part of the company, especially if a safe way was open.[71]

Persons having relation to passenger.[72]

Persons loading and unloading cars[73] are entitled to the exercise of reasonable care and skill on the part of the railroad,[74] but intermediate carriers are under no duty to the consignee or his servants as regards inspection of cars.[75] The customary rules of contributory negligence apply.[76] The servant of a consignee assumes the risk of known defects in equipment,[77] but a shipper unloading a car does not assume the risk of injuries caused by a train backing against the car without warning.[78] It is not necessarily negligent for one of a gang of men unloading cars to sit in the shade of one of them during the noon hour.[79]

Children on tracks.[80]—A railroad company may assume that no children are playing about or under its cars unless it knows or has reasonable grounds to anticipate their presence;[81] but where children are allowed to play on and around empty cars standing on siding, it may be negligence to violently bump such cars without warning or keeping lookout so as to throw a child to the ground and injure him.[82] Children picking flowers upon a company's right of way are trespassers.[83] Though a child is too young to be chargeable with contributory negligence, he may be a trespasser within the law,[84] but circumstances which would render an adult a trespasser will not necessarily have that effect as to children.[85] Negligence of the a basis for defense of contributory negligence. Id.

68. Ederle v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 112 La. 728, 36 So. 664.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1414.

70. Sullivan v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 90 Minn. 390, 97 N. W. 114.

71. Archer v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 934.

72, 73. See 2 Curr. L. 1415.

74. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Kennemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 802; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 755. The question of negligence in moving a train without signaling to one unloading a car was for the jury. Hartford v. New York, etc., R. Co., 184 Mass. 365, 68 N. E. 835. To leave a car with brakes not set, at the top of a grade on a spur track where shippers were accustomed to move cars by hand, is negligence. Car set in motion by wind. Pratt v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 328. Where defendant's pleadings admit possession of the engines, tracks, etc., the plaintiff need not prove that the particular engine causing injury was operated by defendant's employes. Allen v. Palmer, 91 N. Y. S. 731. One who is unloading a car at a point where it has been placed for that purpose by defendant is not obliged to be in a state of continual apprehension, but has a right to assume that he will not be subjected to injury in person or property by defendant's negligence. Train on side track unloading car of grain. Bachant v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 642.

75. Sykes v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 693, 77 S. W. 723.

76. Plaintiff held not negligent in standing on elevator chute. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Kennemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 802. An employe of a shipper engaged in moving a freight car by a lever and on an unfrequented siding is not guilty of negligence in going between the rails to accomplish such undertaking. Pratt v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 328. Warning to plaintiff of intention to move cars may charge him with negligence. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 29. Knowledge of custom of company may be. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 755. For the jury to decide whether one unloading live stock was guilty of contributory negligence in failing to observe an approaching train. Brown v. Pontiac, etc., R. Co., 133 Mich. 371, 94 N. W. 1050, 10 Det. Leg. N. 173.

77. Sykes v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 178 Mo. Sup. 693, 77 S. W. 723.

78. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Kennemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 802.

79. Employe of contractor held not a trespasser. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. McDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 493.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1416.

81. Wagner v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 122 Iowa, 360, 98 N. W. 141.

82. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Ollis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 850.

83. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578.

84. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris [Ala.] 37 So. 794; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Logsdon's Adm'r [Ky.] 81 S. W. 657.

85. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex.

child's parent may be a defense,[86] but in the absence of such negligence defendant's liability is governed by the acts of its servants in keeping a proper lookout rather than by what they did after discovery of the child's danger.[87] The duty of a railroad company with reference to young children on its track is not to keep a reasonable lookout but to exercise ordinary care under all the circumstances existing, with reference to keeping a lookout.[88] Whether sounding the whistle on discovering a child of two years on the track would have been proper or improper as tending to frighten him into inaction is properly left to the jury.[89] It is for the jury to say whether a child during its minority is capable of understanding and avoiding the danger to be encountered upon railroad tracks.[90]

Adults walking on tracks.[91]—To walk upon a railroad track is in some states such negligence as to bar a recovery for an injury resulting therefrom,[92] unless from custom or otherwise the injured person can claim rights as a licensee,[93] or the operatives of the train saw the trespasser in time to have avoided the injury by the exercise of ordinary care.[94] Contributory negligence does not excuse a railroad company from compliance with statutory requirements,[95] and is no defense to an action for willful or wanton injury.[96] In Texas one walking along the track after making proper observation as to approaching train is not necessarily negligent,[97] and in such case the principle of discovered peril applies.[98] A person walking

Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123. Child held not trespasser. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Ball [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 456.

86. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591.

87. Instruction stating otherwise held error. Olivaras v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 981. Where a child three years old could have been seen by the exercise of ordinary care at a distance of 450 yards and the train could have been stopped in 300, the company was held responsible. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Logsdon's Adm'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 1656, 78 S. W. 409. Evidence as to the distance within which a train could have been stopped is admissible. As a matter of common knowledge and observation, the jury could take notice thereof without evidence. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591. Evidence of experiments as to engineer's ability to see on similar curve held admissible. Olivaras v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 981.

88. Olivaras v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 248.

89. Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761.

90. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Russell [Neb.] 100 N. W. 156.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1418.

92. Carter v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 498, 47 S. E. 614; Koegel v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 379, 80 S. W. 905. Evidence insufficient to attach liability on company. Southern R. Co. v. Hall's Adm'r, 102 Va. 135, 45 S. E. 867; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Shiflet [Tex.] 83 S. W. 677; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 804. Railroad tracks are known places of danger. Wagner v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 122 Iowa, 360, 98 N. W. 141. One whose hearing is defective is charged with greater vigilance in such a situation. Hamlin v. Columbia & P. S. R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 991.

93. That one pedestrian may frequently and others occasionally use a railroad track as a footpath is insufficient to establish an implied license to pedestrians to use the track. Kendrick v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 121 Ga. 775, 49 S. E. 762. One on his own errand walking on a path between two railroad tracks in general use by the public, is a mere licensee. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Metcalf [Miss.] 36 So. 259. A license to the public to travel on a path between tracks will not be inferred unless such use be coupled with express or implied consent by the company. That regular walks are provided for the public rebuts an inference of the company's consent to the public use of a path between tracks. Wagner v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 122 Iowa, 360, 98 N. W. 141. Though the public make general use of a path between tracks, a person is not authorized to be at any other place than those so used or to be under the cars or between the rails. Id. Trespasser can claim no rights to walk on switch yard where notices forbidding it are posted. Koegel v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 379, 80 S. W. 905. Frequent use held not to amount to license. Hamlin v. Columbia & P. S. R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 991. Unless a clear right to be on a track is shown, a footman thereon is a trespasser. Dotta v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 36 Wash. 506, 79 P. 32.

94. Koegel v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 379, 80 S. W. 905. There can be no recovery for injuries to one run over by a train while walking on the track in the absence of evidence that the trainmen saw the trespasser and failed to use ordinary care thereafter. Manning v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 565.

95. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 933; Southern R. Co. v. Simpson [C. C. A.] 131 F. 705.

96. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341; Koegel v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 379, 80 S. W. 905.

97. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1109.

98. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ.

along the right of way of a double track railroad, though under such circumstances that he is not a trespasser, has no right to presume that only the right hand track will be used for cars going in the same direction with him.[99] The mere fact that a man is found in an injured condition near the track is not sufficient evidence to establish actionable negligence on the part of the railroad company.[1] The ejection of a trespasser in a drunken condition from a signal tower will not render the company liable for a subsequent injury to him by a train.[2]

Persons along or between tracks.[3]—Where a track is laid along a public highway, the rights of the public and the railroad company are equal and the company is charged with greater care to avoid injury to travelers.[4] A person walking along railroad tracks maintained in a public street by permission of the city council is not a trespasser,[5] and has a right to presume that trains thereon will not exceed the city speed ordinance, and that due warning will be given.[6] The law imposes no duty on a locomotive engineer during daytime to give signals to a pedestrian on the track who is apparently in possession of his faculties,[7] and an engineer may presume that a pedestrian at the side of the track will remain there or step back when he sees the train;[8] but the rule that an engineer or motorman may act upon the theory that a person on or near the track who sees the train or car approaching will get out of the way of danger has no application after it becomes reasonably apparent that this will not be done.[9] A pedestrian who without looking steps from a safe position outside a railroad track on to another track in front of an approaching train is negligent.[10] Evidence held to justify an inference of negligence and not to warrant a directed verdict for defendant.[11]

Persons standing, sitting, or lying on track.[12]—Sitting or lying upon a railroad track is contributory negligence;[13] but failure to stop a train, after discovery of a person in that position where it was within the power of the engineer to stop and avoid injury, renders a company liable,[14] and under such circumstances the doctrine of last clear chance applies.[15] Previous knowledge of deceased's condition may charge the company with constructive knowledge.[16]

App.] 79 S. W. 1109. Evidence held sufficient to raise the issue of proper lookout. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 669. Evidence held insufficient to raise the issue of last clear chance. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Johnson's Adm'r [Va.] 50 S. E. 268.

99. Stewart v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 22 App. D. C. 496.

1. Southern R. Co. v. Back's Adm'x [Va.] 50 S. E. 257.

2. Southern R. Co. v. Back's Adm'x [Va.] 50 S. E. 257; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Marr's Adm'x [Ky.] 85 S. W. 188.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1420.

4. Scullin v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 760.

5. Especially where over 100 people a day have used the way for many years. Illinois Terminal R. Co. v. Mitchell, 214 Ill. 151, 73 N. E. 449.

6. Illinois Terminal R. Co. v. Mitchell, 214 Ill. 151, 73 N. E. 449.

7, 8. Pharr v. Southern R. Co., 133 N. C. 610, 45 S. E. 1021.

9. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 865.

10. Pharr v. Southern R. Co., 133 N. C. 610, 45 S. E. 1021. There can be no recovery where one in the possession of his faculties walking in a place of safety suddenly steps upon the track, there being no opportunity to stop the train. Randolph v. Brunswick & B. R. Co., 120 Ga. 969, 48 S. E. 396.

11. Boy on track. Wilmuth's Adm'r v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 671, 76 S. W. 193. Man on highway used by railroad company. Scullin v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 760.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1421.

13. Carter v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 498, 47 S. E. 614. Person asleep. Maysville, etc., R. Co. v. McCabe, 26 Ky. L. R. 532, 82 S. W. 233. Company held not negligent in failing to have headlight at rear of backing train. Gilliam v. Texas & P. R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 166.

14. Green's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co., 102 Va. 791, 47 S. E. 819. Issue of discovered peril held not raised by the evidence. Dorsey's Adm'x v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 232, 80 S. W. 1131.

15. Carter v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 498, 47 S. E. 614.

16. Where the servants of the company knew deceased was in its yards in a drunken condition, it is liable, though he fell asleep between the rails. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Marr's Adm'x [Ky.] 85 S. W. 188.

Whether the place where deceased was sitting had been so long used by the public as to make deceased a licensee was for the jury.[17] A licensee who has been accustomed to board a switch engine in the usual way to ride to and from work cannot recover where on flagging the engine he received no response, and though he knew the engine was not slowing down, remained on the track until too late to escape.[18]

Persons on bridges or trestles.[19]—A right to use of a trestle by pedestrians can only be acquired by use so definite and long existing as to clearly impute acquiescence on the part of the railroad company.[20]

Persons near crossings.[21]

Persons crossing tracks away from established crossings.[22]—The duty of a railroad to give signals at a crossing is owed to those using the crossing and not to persons at other places along the track.[23] Where the long continued and frequent use of a pathway crossing is acquiesced in by a railroad, warning signals should be given by trains approaching such crossing.[24] There is no presumption that deceased was negligent.[25]

Persons in switch yards.[26]

Persons under cars.[27]—One going under a car to avoid rain and there falling asleep is a trespasser, to whom the company owes no duty save that of refraining from willful injury,[28] and one recklessly going beneath cars without proper notice to the trainmen is guilty of contributory negligence.[29] Car repairers having a right where they are, are under a different rule, and where the employes of another master negligently fail to observe danger signals set by the repairers and injure them, their master is liable.[30]

Persons stealing rides.[31]—A person injured while jumping on or off a train in motion,[32] or riding between freight cars in violation of the company's rules, cannot recover.[33] That the conductor of a freight train sees a boy riding on the top of a freight car, and knows that the caboose is a place of greater safety, does not render the doctrine of discovered peril applicable.[34] One attempting to steal a ride may be ordered off or his attempt may be resisted with reasonable force.[35]

17. Sentell v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 215.

18. Gallagher v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 942.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1422.

20. Dotta v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 36 Wash. 506, 79 P. 32.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1422.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1423.

23. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049.

24. Keller v. Erie R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 236.

25. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049. Person looking and listening shortly before crossing track held not negligent. Booth v. Union Terminal R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 147.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1423.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1424.

28. Kendall v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 793, 76 S. W. 376.

29. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pettit, 209 Ill. 452, 70 N. E. 591. Boy running after hat. Wagner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 462, 100 N. E. 332. Defendant is entitled to an affirmative presentation of its theory that defendant was hurt while crawling under a car. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex.] 81 S. W. 4.

30. Kentucky, etc., R. Co. v. Sydnor, 26 Ky. L. R. 951, 82 S. W. 989.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1424.

32. Powell v. Erie R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 290, 58 A. 930. One who goes on the road bed of a railroad and seizes and attempts to board a moving car and is injured is barred by his negligence from recovery, and the fact that an employe of the company saw him is immaterial, the issue of discovered peril not being raised. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133.

33. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1101.

34. Boy held to have sufficiently comprehended danger to make him responsible for negligence. Cockrell v. Texas, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 529.

35. Powell v. Erie R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 290, 58 A. 930. A railroad company may lawfully prevent access by a trespasser to its cars, and if access be gained may lawfully expel the trespasser, using for that purpose only necessary force in view of all the circumstances, and resorting to no means which unnecessarily menace the life or limb of the trespasser. Klenk v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 27 Utah, 428, 76 P. 214.

A brakeman on a freight train has implied authority to eject a trespasser thereon, so that the company is liable for injuries sustained by such trespasser resulting from the brakeman's improper manner of ejection, though the acts were wanton and reckless if unaccompanied by an independent malicious purpose of his own.[36] Where a petition states that at the time it injured plaintiff, defendant's engine was in charge of defendant's servants, who were respectively engineer and fireman, it by implication alleges that the fireman had authority to eject trespassers therefrom.[37] The number of the engine injuring plaintiff is not essential, though the number is testified to, and it is not error to refuse to limit the inquiry to that particular engine.[38]

Persons using hand cars or railroad tricycles[39] without consent of the company are trespassers and entitled only to a trespasser's rights.[40] As to them the rule of discovered peril applies.[41] A licensee injuring himself by lifting a heavy car from the track alone, made necessary by defendant's failure to signal, is not necessarily barred from recovery.[42]

(§ 10) C. Accidents to trains.[43]—A licensee running trains on another's road cannot recover for a collision with the owner's train where he was running without orders or flag as required by his license.[44] The negligence of one company causing its train to collide with that of another at a crossing will not give a right of action to a person injured while stealing a ride on the train of the non-negligent company.[45] An action by one company for contribution according to agreement for losses sustained through a collision is based on contract.[46] The servant of one company injured through the negligence of the servants of another at a crossing is not barred of recovery by reason of negligence as of fellow-servants.[47] In an action for the death of an engineer by the negligence of another railroad at a crossing, it was for the jury to determine the questions of contributory negligence and willfulness of the injury.[48]

(§ 10) D. Accidents at crossings. 1. Care required on part of company. General rules.[49]—The care requisite at crossings is that which is commensurate with the dangers,[50] and the management of a train must be conducted with due regard to the statutory provision for safety.[51] Greater vigilance and care is required at street crossings in a populous city neighborhood than in sparsely settled and unfrequented places,[52] and parallel tracks on which trains run in opposite directions require greater care.[53] It is not negligence for a company to maintain upon its right of way buildings reasonably necessary for the prosecution of its business.[54] A railroad company owes a person standing on a street crossing the

36. Dixon v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 943.

37. Chicago G. W. R. Co. v. Troup [Kan.] 80 P. 30. Whether he was a fireman or some one temporarily engaged to do the work is immaterial. Id.

38. Chicago G. W. R. Co. v. Troup [Kan.] 80 P. 30.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1425.

40, 41. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Ramsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 825.

42. Duty to signal on curves is for the jury. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Goodman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 492.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1425.

44. Provisions in contract requiring plaintiff's operatives to be satisfactory to defendant and to work under his orders does not render them defendant's servants. Roganville Lumber Co. v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 816.

45. Wickenburg v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 713.

46. Southwest Mo. Elec. R. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 966.

47. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Vipond, 212 Ill. 199, 72 N. E. 22.

48. Southern R. Co. v. Bonner [Ala.] 37 So. 702.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1426.

50. Ringing of bell, sounding of whistle, or maintenance of flagman may not be sufficient. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985.

51. Day v. Boston & M. R. R., 97 Conn. 528, 55 A. 420.

52, 53. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985.

54. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Clements, 32 Ind. App. 659, 70 N. E. 554.

same duty it owes the public in general, reasonable care and diligence to avoid injury.[55] A train has the preference and right of way at crossings,[56] and an engineer may assume that a man walking upon the tracks will use reasonable care for his own safety;[57] but where the dangerous situation is apparent, the train should be stopped as soon as possible.[58] Street railway passengers injured through the negligence of railway operatives are entitled to damages from the railway.[59] Negligence must be alleged and proved,[60] and the mere fact that a person was killed at a railroad crossing by being struck by a train is not sufficient to warrant a verdict;[61] but if by the exercise of ordinary care plaintiff's peril could have been discovered and the injury prevented, the defendant is liable.[62] Liability for negligent operation rests upon the company owning the railway and franchise.[63] Where plaintiff's horse fell on a railway crossing and could not be removed, and his wagon was injured by an engine, the railway company was not liable in the absence of evidence of negligence.[64] An engineer seeing a traveler on the highway at a distance from the crossing slowly approaching has a right to assume he will stop and is not required to check the train.[65]

Towards whom care must be exercised.[66]—The duty to give signals or maintain flagmen at crossings is not alone to protect persons from actual collisions,[67] but also to enable travelers in vehicles drawn by animals to secure them against taking fright.[68] Statutes on warning signals are not only for the benefit of travelers at the crossing, but also those who are approaching for the purpose of crossing;[69] but not for trespassers[70] nor for persons at work in adjoining fields or neighboring highways.[71] An engineer is not bound to stop a train simply because boys are in the highway and close to the train though not in places of danger, until he sees some act on their part indicative of an intent to board the cars.[72] A car repairer's invitation to a boy to assist in moving a car held not to be the proximate cause of the boy's death at a nearby crossing over an hour later.[73] A railroad employe may assume that a person apparently of full age walking upon a track some distance before an engine will leave it in time

55. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Reilly, 212 Ill. 506, 72 N. E. 454.

56. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 654. A train is not required to stop and give precedence to a team approaching upon a highway, except in cases of manifest danger, when it is apparent that a collision cannot be otherwise avoided. Day v. Boston & M. R. Co., 97 Me. 528, 55 A. 420.

57. Savage v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 484. Trainmen may assume that an adult driving across a track is possessed of the ordinary faculties of sight and will leave the track before encountering danger. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lewis [Ala.] 37 So. 587.

58. Savage v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 484. Issue of discovered peril held raised by evidence. Central Tex. & N. W. R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 862. Negligence in failing to discover one's peril is not the equivalent of discovered peril. Hawkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 52. Where one is injured by a train in crossing a track where he had a right to cross, an instruction that if those in charge of the train saw or by the exercise of ordinary care could have seen his danger in time to stop the train, the railroad company is liable, is proper. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dick, 25 Ky. L. R. 1831, 78 S. W. 914. A railroad is liable for killing cattle at a public crossing where its servants saw or by the exercise of due care might have seen the cattle upon or approaching the crossing in time to have safely stopped the train. Atterbury v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 114.

59. Snider v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 530.

60. Queen Anne's R. Co. v. Reed [Del.] 59 A. 860; Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 413, 57 A. 529.

61. Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 413, 57 A. 529.

62. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Matherly [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 589.

63. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050.

64. Voehl v. Delaware, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1034.

65. Lambert v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 873.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1427.

67, 68. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fertig [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 834.

69, 70, 71. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 654.

72, 73. Horn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 281, 99 N. W. 1068.

to avoid injury,[74] and assume that one in a place of safety will remain there.[75] One having an opportunity by the exercise of proper care to avoid injuring another must do so, notwithstanding the latter has placed himself in a position of danger by his own negligence.[76]

Duty to signal.[77]—Statutes may require every locomotive to be equipped with a bell and whistle and that they be sounded under specified conditions,[78] and though not required by statute, a failure to give reasonable warning of the approach of a locomotive may render the company liable.[79] Failure to give the statutory signals at crossings is negligence per se,[80] even as to dumb animals killed by reason of such failure;[81] but the duty does not extend to private crossings,[82] and the duty to signal 80 rods from a crossing does not extend to a train which starts from a point less than 80 rods from the crossing.[83] In a city or town in Iowa where the crossings are less than 60 rods apart, the bell must be rung continuously till all crossings are passed.[84] Failure to signal after discovering peril is negligence, though the train could not be stopped.[85] Statutes requiring signals at crossings are not only to prevent collisions of trains but to protect pedestrians at such places.[86] It has been held negligence to so give signals when the engineer knows that plaintiff's team has become frightened.[87] Where plaintiff actually saw the train while he was 450 feet from the crossing, defendant's failure to signal had no causal connection with the injury.[88] Whistle and bell signals are not sufficient warning for backing over a public crossing or closing an opening left near a crossing through which the public has been invited by the act of the company to pass.[89]

Speed.[90]—Excessive speed even with statutory signals[91] may be some evidence of negligence,[92] but does not prevent the application of rules of contribu-

74, 75, 76. Green v. Los Angeles T. R. Co., 143 Cal. 31, 76 P. 719.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1427.

78. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5307. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 654. Evidence held to show that statutory signal was given. Frank v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [N. J. Law] 55 A. 691.

79. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 654.

80. Reed v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 919; Tucker v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 943; Pennsylvania Co. v. Fertig [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 834; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Matherly [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 589; Esler v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73; Hawkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 52; McKerley v. Red River, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 499; Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Clements, 32 Ind. App. 659, 70 N. E. 554. When approaching a crossing the company must give due and timely warning. Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 413, 57 A. 529. In an action for an injury at a crossing, negligence in failure to give signals cannot be shown by showing habitual failure to do so at that point. Stewart v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 979. Failure to give statutory signals is some evidence of negligence, but is not negligence per se. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clinebell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 839.

81. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Crutcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 341. Whether failure to signal was proximate cause of injury to stock being driven across, held question for jury. Kuehl v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 512.

82. Nicholas v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1115.

83. In such case the failure to signal as negligence is a question for the jury. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133.

84. Golinvaux v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 465.

85. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 240.

86. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 71.

87. Where a complaint for injuries received by a collision charged failure to give signal, it was no error to charge that if the engineer saw the unmanageable team and realized that the signal would tend to increase the fright, it was his duty to refrain from giving it; but if the train could not be stopped and he had reached the point where the signal should be given, he must give it. Nichols v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 229, 70 N. E. 183.

88. Lambert v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 873.

89. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Russell [Neb.] 100 N. W. 156.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1428.

91. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985; Golinvaux v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 465. Without signals is gross negligence. Gruebel v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 170.

92. Garlich v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C.

tory negligence.[93] High speed over crossings at points remote from towns or stations is not negligent,[94] but speed in cities or towns in excess of the statutory or municipal regulations is negligence per se.[95] Without evidence on the subject a court will not presume any particular method of operating motor cars on railroad tracks to be the usual and ordinary method.[96]

Gates.[97]—The raising of crossing gates when unsafe and the subsequent closing of them while travelers are crossing the tracks is negligence per se.[98] A pedestrian injured by the negligence of a gateman in closing crossing gates may recover.[99]

Flagmen.[1]—There is no duty on a railroad to maintain a watchman at a crossing in a small village,[2] but the absence of a flagman from his accustomed place may be negligence.[3]

Headlights.[4]—An experienced locomotive engineer may testify how far a headlight could be seen.[5]

Switching and backing trains.[6]—Statutes may require a watchman or other person on the rear of trains running backward.[7] The propelling of cars across a city street, with no one upon or in control of them,[8] and backing cars towards and upon a crossing,[9] especially while another train is passing, without giving due notice of their approach, are negligent.[10] It is not necessarily negligent for an engine to closely follow a train across a crossing.[11]

(§ 10D) 2. Contributory negligence. General rules.[12]—Whether or not a traveler upon a public highway who is killed at a grade crossing is guilty of contributory negligence depends upon the circumstances of each case.[13] A traveler has the same right over the public highway that a railway has over its tracks,

A.] 131 F. 837; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Quinones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 757; McKerley v. Red River, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 499. Speed at a crossing must be regulated according to the danger. Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 413, 57 A. 529. Where the law does not limit the speed, it is in the discretion of the company, reasonable precaution being taken for the security of life and property. Id.

93. Garlich v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 837.

94. Parkerson v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2260, 80 S. W. 468.

95. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Matherly [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 589; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Ball [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 456.

96. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Scheffner, 209 Ill. 9, 70 N. E. 619.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1429.

98. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 664.

99. O'Keefe v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 308; Sager v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 132.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1429.

2. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Clements, 32 Ind. App. 659, 70 N. E. 554.

3. Montgomery v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 477, 79 S. W. 930.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1429.

5. Southern R. Co. v. Bonner [Ala.] 37 So. 702.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1429.

7. Burns' Ann. St. 1894, § 3541. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250. Railroad company held not to have been guilty of willfulness and wantonness in backing train without watchman or signals. Id.

8. Unless resulting from causes beyond the company's control. Corbally v. Erie R. Co., 97 App. Div. 21, 89 N. Y. S. 577; Montgomery v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 477, 79 S. W. 930; Id., 181 Mo. 508, 79 S. W. 938.

9. Reed v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 919.

10. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 105 Ill. App. 111. The backing of an engine at night across a highway without light or signal while a train is passing on another track is such negligence as will authorize recovery for resulting injuries. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hays' Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 338. Plaintiff's contributory negligence held to bar recovery in such a case. Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157.

11. Barnum v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1022.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1430.

13. Held question for the jury where there was an obstruction of the view, failure of the approaching train to blow whistle or ring bell, and distraction from headlight and escaping steam of locomotive standing on sidetrack. Hine v. Erie R. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 7. Where one goes upon a crossing in such close proximity to an approaching train that it cannot be stopped in time to avoid an injury, he cannot recover. St. Louis, S. W. R. Co. v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 71. Crossing a railway with knowledge that a train is approaching is not alone contributory negligence, regardless of the rate of speed and manner in which the train is running. Id.

both being bound to exercise care and caution to avoid collision.[14] When a traveler has reached a point where he cannot extricate himself and vigilance on his part will not avert the injury, his negligence in reaching that position becomes the condition and not the proximate cause.[15] Mere intention to board a train when not a passenger does not render one a trespasser who is rightfully at a public crossing.[16]

Who may be charged.[17]—The care required of an infant is such as may be reasonably expected of one of his age, intelligence and experience.[18]

Acts required of traveler.[19]—The law regards a railroad crossing as a place of danger,[20] and a track on a level with the highway as a warning of danger.[21] All persons competent to exercise care for their own protection about to cross a railroad track must use their faculties of sight and hearing,[22] strictly observe the law as to crossing,[23] act upon the assumption that engines or trains may be expected to pass in either direction at any moment,[24] and exercise care proportionate to the dangerous nature of the place.[25] Many courts hold that a traveler upon a highway approaching a crossing must stop, look and listen,[26] but the better

14. Esler v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. Where the place where a person was struck and killed by a train was a public street, or path used by the public, deceased was not a trespasser or guilty of contributory negligence by reason of being there. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 71.

15. French v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 Vt. 441, 58 A. 722.

16. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1431. The negligence of the driver is not imputable to one riding in the buggy as the driver's guest. Duval v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 331, 46 S. E. 750; Central Texas & N. W. R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 862.

18. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985. See, also, Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 774.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1432.

20. Rogers v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 945; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 654; Queen Anne's R. Co. v. Reed [Del.] 59 A. 860; Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053; Garlich v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 837; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250; Savage v. Southern Ry. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 484.

21. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Clements, 32 Ind. App. 659, 70 N. E. 554. Presence of another train on parallel track and backing of train without warning do not relieve pedestrian of ordinary care for his own safety. Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157.

22. Green v. Los Angeles T. R. Co., 143 Cal. 31, 76 P. 719; Quinn v. Chicago & E. R. Co., 162 Ind. 442, 70 N. E. 526; Rogers v. Boston & M. R. R. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 945; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Lovelace, 121 Ga. 487, 49 S. E. 607. One who goes on a railroad crossing where the view of the track is unobstructed for several hundred feet in the direction from which a train is coming, so that he must have seen the train had he looked, is guilty of contributory negligence. Dolfini v. Erie R. Co., 178 N. Y. 1, 70 N. E. 68. On approaching a crossing, a traveler is bound to look, and if he cannot see, to stop and listen. One hurrying on a bicycle to catch a passenger train and injured by a switch engine held to be an ordinary traveler under the above rule. Smith v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 15.

23. Wolfe v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 335.

24. Quinn v. Chicago & E. R. Co., 162 Ind. 442, 70 N. E. 526; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Coggins, 212 Ill. 369, 72 N. E. 376. A person going upon the tracks of a railroad must listen and keep a lookout in each direction. Savage v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 484. A traveler's duty to look when approaching a crossing is not performed by looking in one direction when he could see in both. Harvey v. Erie R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 691.

25. Crossing in the timber. Reed v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 413, 57 A. 529. One about to cross railroad tracks must exercise a reasonable degree of caution. Plaintiff negligent. Stack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 575, 89 N. Y. S. 112; Van Riper v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 26; Dolfini v. Erie R. Co., 178 N. Y. 1, 70 N. E. 68. One about to cross a railroad track must use ordinary care under the surrounding circumstances. Contributory negligence of plaintiff. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Andrews [C. C. A.] 130 F. 65; Coleman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 264; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250; Garlich v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 837. Crossing at grade. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Clements, 32 Ind. App. 659, 70 N. E. 554. A driver who stopped, looked, and listened and waited for the train to pass 240 feet is not guilty of contributory negligence in then crossing, though struck by a train rapidly approaching from the opposite direction without signals. Wolfe v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 335. One approaching a crossing upon a bicycle should have his wheel under control. Waddell v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 239.

26. Failure to do so negatives a right of recovery. Canfield v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 208 Pa. 372, 57 A. 763; Cromley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 445, 57 A. 882; Queen rule seems to be that whether he must stop in addition to looking and listening depends on the facts of each case.[27] In Texas mere failure to look and listen, though it would have resulted in avoidance of the injury, does not bar recovery.[28] Where no law regulates the speed of trains, a reasonably careful person should guard himself from the danger of excessive speed before moving into a place of danger.[29]

Duty where view of track is obstructed.[30]—A person whose hearing[31] or vision is temporarily obstructed by some supervening condition should take the greater care,[32] and if possible await its passing away.[33]

Parallel tracks.[34]—One approaching a crossing of many tracks must continue to exercise due care for each track.[35] One waiting at a crossing is negligent in proceeding upon the further track after one train has passed without waiting to see if other trains were approaching.[36] One run down by a backing engine on a sidetrack while waiting for a train to pass on the main track is not necessarily negligent.[37]

Right to rely on crossing signals, stops, gates, flagmen, etc.[38]—The failure of a gateman or other person to perform his duty in the giving of signals does Anne's R. Co. v. Reed [Del.] 59 A. 860. Failure to do so is negligence per se. Ihrig v. Erie R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 686; Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 687; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250; Wands v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 96, 80 S. W. 18. One who in going on a railway track does not look and listen is guilty of contributory negligence. Evidence held not to support a finding that there was no contributory negligence. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Wyatt [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 349. One who stops, looks and listens when about 50 feet from a track and thereafter only looked out of the glass in the back of his carriage top, from which but a small portion of the track was visible, is guilty of contributory negligence. Proper v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 283.

27. Unmanageable team. Nichols v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 229, 70 N. E. 183; Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053. Dark night, reliance on custom to keep crossing watchman, and backing train without signals. Montgomery v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 477, 79 S. W. 930. A person slowly approaching a track in a noiseless vehicle is not required to stop, look and listen. Esler v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. Whether under the evidence one should have stopped as well as looked and listened was properly submitted to the jury. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Brock [Kan.] 77 P. 86; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dolson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 444.

28. Frugia v. Texarkana & Ft. S. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 814.

29. Green v. Los Angeles T. R. Co., 143 Cal. 31, 76 P. 719.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1433.

31. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pulliam, 208 Ill. 456, 70 N. E. 460.

32. Golinvaux v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 465; Stack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 575, 89 N. Y. S. 112; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Griffith [Kan.] 76 P. 436; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Satterwhite [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 106; Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Great China Tea Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 500. Plaintiff's negligence held to bar recovery. West v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 254. It is a question for the jury whether one who has stopped, looked and listened should again do so before crossing a track, the view of which is obstructed. Confer v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 425, 58 A. 811. Plaintiff whose view was obstructed was not negligent where he stopped 30 feet from the track, and though he heard a train, went on being assured by another that it was on another road. Neither was he negligent in not stopping again and in not asking bystanders in a position to see if a train was coming. Coffee v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 953. Whether plaintiff should have alighted from his wagon and gone forward to where he could see held a question for the jury. Elliott v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 105 Mo. App. 523, 80 S. W. 270.

33. Stack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 575, 89 N. Y. S. 112. One whose view is obstructed by smoke and steam should stop until he is able to see whether trains are approaching. Keller v. Erie R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 236. Where the view is obstructed, one about to cross a track should stop until he can ascertain whether he can pass in safety. Waddell v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 239; Rogers v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 945.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1433.

35. Coleman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 264; Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157. Whether plaintiff exercised proper care in the crossing of parallel tracks some of which held cars obstructing the view, was for the jury. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bryant [Ala.] 37 So. 370. Four roads converged at place where deceased was killed, and a number of trains were running thereon, which might distract his attention. Such evidence held to support finding of no contributory negligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 71.

36. Stack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 575, 89 N. Y. S. 112.

37. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hays' Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 338.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1433.

not absolve a traveler on the highway from the use of independent observation for his own protection,[39] but a traveler on the highway is not required to await a signal of safety from a flagman, since he may to some extent rely on his duty to give signals of danger.[40] Open gates tended by a keeper are an affirmative assurance of safety in crossing,[41] and the raising of crossing gates after the passing of a train is an invitation for a pedestrian to proceed across the tracks.[42] But where the traveler knows that the gates are not being operated, he cannot rely on their being up.[43] Where the gate is customarily left down during the night, it is not necessarily negligent for a pedestrian having knowledge of the custom to pass under it.[44]

Duties as to standing, switching, and backing trains.[45]—An attempt to pass between cars blocking a city street will not preclude recovery, though plaintiff, a minor, knew there was some danger.[46] To place one's self on a railroad track or in a position to be struck by a moving car when no necessity exists therefor, and to resign into unwatching listlessness, is such contributory negligence as to bar a recovery.[47] A reviewing court will not say as a matter of law that because others saw a locomotive backing toward a crossing on a dark night without any headlight, that one who was standing on the crossing and did not see it was guilty of contributory negligence.[48]

Intoxication.[49]—Intoxication may be such contributory negligence as to bar recovery, though decedent's team went upon the track at a point where the statutory fence was lacking.[50] Evidence that deceased who had been drinking was seen approaching a railroad crossing and thereafter sitting or lying on or near the track, held to show contributory negligence.[51]

39. West v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 254; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250; Van Riper v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 26. Under the evidence, plaintiff's intestate had some reason to believe it was safe to cross. Brusseau v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 348. Upon conflicting testimony in an action for the wrongful death of one invited to cross a track by defendant's employes, the verdict will not be disturbed. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Henson, 121 Ga. 462, 49 S. E. 278. Failure to sound the statutory signals does not relieve a traveler from the duty to use his senses to learn of approaching trains. McSweeney v. Erie R. Co., 93 App. Div. 496, 87 N. Y. S. 836; Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Clements, 32 Ind. App. 659, 70 N. E. 554; Garlich v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 837; Day v. Boston & M. R. Co., 97 Me. 528, 55 A. 420. One who drives onto a railroad crossing in front of a train, when at any time within 40 feet of the track he could have seen or heard an approaching train, is guilty of contributory negligence, though no signals were given. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. West [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 1017. Statute making contributory negligence a matter of defense does not relieve a traveler of his duty. Id. The failure of railway servants to signal on approaching a street crossing does not relieve pedestrians of the necessity of exercising ordinary care for their own safety. Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157. Negligence in driving stock on crossing held question for jury. Kuehl v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 512.

40. Montgomery v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 181 Mo. 477, 79 S. W. 930; Id., 181 Mo. 508, 79 S. W. 938.

41. Sager v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 132.

42. For the jury whether pedestrian then justified in crossing without looking and listening. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050. Gates standing open. Not required by statute. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Votaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 130. Raising of gates when unsafe is negligence per se. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 664; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. State [Md.] 60 A. 19. Open gates are an invitation to cross. Stegner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 205.

43. Stack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 575, 89 N. Y. S. 112.

44. Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Landrigan, 20 App. D. C. 135.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1434.

46. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Grisom [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 671. A person climbing over the bumpers of a train at a crossing and injured by a sudden movement of the train cannot recover without showing knowledge of his dangerous position by some employe in control of the train's movements. Russell v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 119 Ga. 705, 46 S. E. 858.

47. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Withers [Kan.] 77 P. 542; Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157.

48. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Fagin, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 30.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1435.

50. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Smith [Neb.] 99 N. W. 813.

Racing with train.[52]—One deliberately going upon a track in front of an approaching engine and injured by reason of a miscalculation of speed cannot recover.[53]

Acts after realization of danger[54] are not regarded strictly, and movements in cases where the peril is great may not be negligent, though clearly dangerous.[55] Where two ways are open to a person, one of which is obviously safe and the other plainly dangerous, and he voluntarily chooses the latter, he ordinarily does so at his peril.[56] But if one be placed in peril by the negligence of another, and through consequent bewilderment makes an injudicious choice of escape, contributory negligence cannot be ascribed to him as a matter of law.[57] One in a perilous situation but able to help himself must make a vigilant use of his eyes, ears, and physical strength to avoid injury.[58] The duty of exercising care to avoid the consequences of another's negligence does not arise until such negligence exists and is either apparent or the circumstances are such that an ordinarily prudent person would apprehend its existence.[59] A company negligent in failing to sound the statutory signals is liable to one who exercises ordinary care and diligence to escape the consequences of the company's negligence.[60] In order to relieve a person injured from the exercise of ordinary care on the ground of real or apparent danger, inducing an imprudent act, there must be either a real danger or the circumstances as they appear to the party at the time must be such as to create in his mind a reasonable apprehension of danger.[61]

(§ 10D) 3. Procedure.[62]—By statute the officials of a railroad company may be examined before trial to ascertain what train inflicted the injuries complained of,[63] but not as to the authority for operating upon a certain street, that being a matter of statutory regulation.[64]

Pleading.[65]—The allegations of negligence should be specific,[66] and a demurrer to allegations of negligence in general terms will be sustained unless such allegations be made more specific by amendment.[67] But a general allegation of negligence is sufficient to withstand a demurrer for want of facts, unless absence of negligence appears from the facts pleaded.[68] One relying on a foreign statute, in an

51. Stewart v. North Carolina R. Co., 136 N. C. 385, 48 S. E. 793.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1435.

53. Thomas v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 121 Ga. 38, 48 S. E. 683. Where one attempted to cross a track ahead of an oncoming train which he must have seen, evidence held to show contributory negligence as a matter of law. Day v. Boston & M. R. Co., 97 Me. 528, 55 A. 420.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1435.

55. Gruehel v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 170.

56, 57. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brock [Kan.] 77 P. 86.

58. French v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 Vt. 441, 58 A. 722. By statute recovery may be barred to one who by ordinary care could have avoided the consequence to himself of another's negligence [Civ. Code 1895, § 3830]. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818.

59. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Lovelace, 121 Ga. 487, 49 S. E. 607; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818.

60. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. McLendon, 119 Ga. 297, 46 S. E. 106.

61. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Booth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 121.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1435.

63. Code Civ. Proc. § 872. Muldoon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 98 App. Div. 169, 91 N. Y. S. 65.

64. Muldoon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 98 App. Div. 169, 91 N. Y. S. 65.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1435.

66. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818. Complaint for injury by backing train held sufficient. Birmingham Belt R. Co. v. Gerganous [Ala.] 37 So. 929. A petition which does not allege negligence in terms or equivalent terms nor facts constituting negligence as a matter of law nor that the injury resulted from any act of defendant, does not state a cause of action. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Clinebell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 839. An allegation in a complaint for damages for being hit by a train at a crossing, that it was due to the negligent, careless, and reckless management of the train, was sufficient notice that the manner of operating the train would be brought in issue at the trial. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dick, 25 Ky. L. R. 1831, 78 S. W. 914.

67. Russel v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 119 Ga. 705, 46 S. E. 858.

68. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 33 Ind. App. 219, 71 N. E. 250.

action for negligence, must plead such statute specially,[69] and a complaint for injuries resulting from a violation of city ordinance must allege the ordinance to have been in effect at the time of the accident.[70] A count relying on the willful acts of defendant's servants is in case,[71] and one averring that defendant willfully and wantonly ran its train against plaintiff is in trespass.[72] In those states in which by statute or otherwise contributory negligence is matter of defense, freedom therefrom need not be averred by the plaintiff;[73] but if the complaint discloses contributory negligence, it will be demurrable.[74] A count charging a willful and wanton injury, not alleging it to be the act of a servant, is in trespass, not in case, and requires proof of actual participation by defendant.[75] Where the cause of action is alleged as failure to give warning of the approach of a train and in running at a high rate of speed, the question of negligence in permitting buildings and cars to be so placed as to obstruct the view should not be submitted to the jury.[76] A variance between an allegation that an engine struck plaintiff's vehicle whereby plaintiff was thrown out and injured, and proof that a car struck the vehicle and the horse ran away throwing plaintiff out is fatal.[77] A complaint averring that the train could have been stopped within a foot and that defendant's servants could have seen plaintiff had they looked does not charge a willful and wanton injury.[78]

Burden of proof.[79]—As a general rule the burden is on plaintiff not only to show negligence on the part of the defendant,[80] but also to show his own freedom from contributory negligence;[81] the rule is otherwise, however, by common law or statute in some states, and in such states[82] it is for the defendant to show contributory negligence, if any, as a defense,[83] though where plaintiff's evidence itself discloses it, 69. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 121 Ga. 391, 49 S. E. 308.

70. Southern R. Co. v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 333, 71 N. E. 275.

71. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341.

72. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Freeman, 140 Ala. 581, 37 So. 387.

73. Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. La Porte, 33 Ind. App. 691, 71 N. E. 166; Nichols v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 289, 71 N. E. 170.

74. Complaint showing plaintiff to have been run down by backing train on one track while waiting for train to pass on another held demurrable as disclosing contributory negligence. Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157.

75. Birmingham Belt R. Co. v. Gerganous [Ala.] 37 So. 929; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Freeman, 140 Ala. 581, 37 So. 387.

76. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Griffith [Kan.] 76 P. 436.

77. Unless cured by amendment. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2.

78. Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1436.

80. Coolbroth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 433, 58 A. 808; Stewart v. North Carolina R. Co., 136 N. C. 385, 48 S. E. 793. Circumstances may raise a presumption of want of proper care by a railroad company. Corbally v. Erie R. Co., 97 App. Div. 21, 89 N. Y. S. 577. Proof of injury to one driving across a track is not evidence of actionable negligence. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis [Ala.] 37 So. 587. Facts held not to raise a presumption of negligence in loading or managing a car of lumber. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reilly, 212 Ill. 506, 72 N. E. 454.

81. Wilson v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 210 Ill. 603, 71 N. E. 398; Rogers v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 945; Waddell v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 239; Coleman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 264. Evidence held insufficient to show that a man killed at a crossing where the view of the track was unobstructed was free from contributory negligence. Meinrenken v. New York, etc., R. Co., 92 App. Div. 618, 86 N. Y. S. 1075. Though the railroad company was running its train at an unusually high rate of speed and violating an ordinance, the burden is still on plaintiff to show ordinary care on his part. The doctrine of comparative negligence does not obtain in Illinois. Imes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. App. 37.

82. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks [Miss.] 38 So. 40.

83. Brusseau v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 348; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. La Porte, 33 Ind. App. 691, 71 N. E. 166; Coolbroth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 433, 58 A. 808; Pennsylvania Co. v. Fertig [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 834; McDonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 186 Mass. 474, 72 N. E. 55; Nichols v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 229, 71 N. E. 170; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985; Queen Anne's R. Co. v. Reed [Del.] 59 A. 860. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 359. Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053. Under Indiana statute providing that burden of proof to show contributory negligence shall be on he cannot recover.[84] The presumption that deceased used due care may be negatived by the physical facts, such as unobstructed view, familiarity with the crossing, etc.;[85] and where deceased's acts are fully covered by direct evidence during the whole time he was within the zone of danger, the presumption of due care arising from the instinct of self-preservation does not apply.[88] Where the injury arises from the sudden backing of a train without warning, the burden is on the company to show contributory negligence.[87] The burden is on plaintiff to prove the lack of statutory signals and not upon defendant to prove that they were given.[88] Where the injury at a crossing and failure to signal is shown, the burden is on defendant to show that the want of signals was not the cause of the injury.[89] The law will assume that a traveler saw what he could have seen had he looked, and heard what he could have heard had he listened.[90] One suing for personal injuries from a train need not make formal proof of ownership; common reputation is sufficient.[91] That a locomotive was lettered with a railroad company's initials and managed by its servants raises a prima facie case of its ownership.[92]

Admissibility of evidence[93] is controlled by the customary rules as to competency, materiality, etc. In the footnotes some peculiar decisions are noted,[94] and a few cases are cited involving the sufficiency of the evidence.[95]

the railroad company an allegation that a decedent killed at a crossing was without fault is not necessary (Nichols v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 229, 70 N. E. 183), and an instruction calculated to impress upon the jury that the burden of the issue of contributory negligence was on plaintiff is erroneous (Id.). There is no presumption of negligence against a traveler from the mere fact that the injuries occurred at a railway crossing. Nichols v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 289, 71 N. E. 170. In the absence of all evidence, the court will presume that the traveler stopped, looked, and listened. Cromley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 445, 57 A. 832; Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 687; Queen Anne's R. Co. v. Reed [Del.] 59 A. 860. Evidence held not to overcome the presumption. Patterson v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 318. Contra, McSweeney v. Erie R. Co., 93 App. Div. 496, 87 N. Y. S. 836. In action for injuries from a failure to provide a statutory crossing, the burden of showing contributory negligence is on the defendant. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106.

84. Van Winkle v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 157.

85. Tomlinson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 233.

86. Golinvaux v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 465.

87, 88. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133.

89. Atterberry v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 114.

90. Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053.

91. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050.

92. East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Altgen, 210 Ill. 213, 71 N. E. 377.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1436.

94. As to whether signals were given at crossings other than where injury occurred is irrelevant. But on cross-examination could test a conductor's memory by this question. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818; Stewart v. North Carolina R. Co., 136 N. C. 385, 48 S. E. 793. On the issue whether defendant's train ran over a "blocked" crossing, it is proper to show that at the time a parallel track was blocked, it being protected against the intersecting road by a semaphore controlled by the same lever which operated the semaphore on defendant's tracks. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vipond, 212 Ill. 199, 72 N. E. 22. Failure of persons near the place of accident to notice or hear signals is competent for the jury's consideration. McDonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 186 Mass. 474, 72 N. E. 55. Evidence as to boys, other than deceased, playing on a railroad crossing is incompetent on the question of contributory negligence. Williams v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 369, 47 S. E. 706. Declarations by a person injured as to the manner of accident, made immediately thereafter, are admissible as part of the res gestae. Id. That plaintiff was in the habit of drinking is inadmissible on the question whether he was sober when injured. Bedenbaugh v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 53. Testimony that a path generally used in crossing a railroad is less dangerous than a neighboring street crossing is inadmissible. Likewise of testimony on general knowledge of the dangers incident to crossing where deceased was killed. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 121 Ga. 391, 49 S. E. 308. An invalid city ordinance requiring a railroad company to construct a safety gate upon the township side of a line crossing is not admissible to prove the dangerous character of the crossing. Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 687. A provision in a contract between a city and a railway company limiting the rate of speed on the streets is admissible in evidence, equally with a violation of an ordinance, to show negligence. Duval v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 331, 46 S. E. 750. Evidence as to what occurred at the time of an accident, including the acts of decedent's companion, is admissible as res gestae. Proper v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 283. In an action by one injured in passing between a stationary car and a freight train which obstructed a crossing, evidence is admissible to show that it was a custom of the company to leave such a space for pedestrians, and also evidence to show that others had preceded him in such passage. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Russell [Neb.] 100 N. W. 156. A city ordinance requiring signals is admissible. Reed v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 919. Evidence only on the exact negligence charged is admissible under allegations of negligence peculiar in their nature. Wirstlin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 170, 99 N. W. 697.

Instructions[96] must conform to the usual rules as to applicability to the issues, invading province of jury, etc. The form and subject-matter of a few are discussed below.[97]

Directing verdict.[98]—While defendant's negligence[99] and plaintiff's contributory negligence is ordinarily a question for the jury,[1] and always is on a conflict

95. A jury need not consider as conclusive the testimony of the engineer operating a train causing injury. Farrell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 690, 99 N. W. 578. Upon conflicting testimony as to whether a signal was sounded, the law gives a preference to positive over negative evidence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brock [Kan.] 77 P. 86. While evidence of persons that they did not hear a bell rung is of less probative value than that of others that the bell was rung, the jury are not authorized to entirely disregard the negative evidence. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. State [Md.] 60 A. 19. That plaintiff did not see the train, if it could have been seen, may be a circumstance tending strongly to establish contributory negligence, but the extent to which, if any, it is established is for the jury. Morse v. New York, etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 657. In the absence of direct evidence, deceased's custom to stop, look, and listen, and his familiarity with the crossing may be shown and may be sufficient to support a finding of due care. Tucker v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 943. Evidence that defendant ran an extra freight train by which deceased was killed, at an unusual time of night through a thickly eettled part of town, at a rapid rate of speed over frequent street crossings without giving any signals, is sufficient to sustain a finding of negligence. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks [Miss.] 38 So. 40. Case involving conflict of evidence on bad condition of crossing, speed of train, obstruction of view, defective vision of plaintiff, held properly for jury. Emmons v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 92 Minn. 521, 100 N. W. 364. Evidence in action by street car passenger held to establish negligence on part of railroad, but not on part of street car company. Snider v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 530. Deaf and dumb child killed at crossing. Evidence held sufficient to support recovery, the issue being negligence and contributory negligence of child and parents. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 240.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1437.

97. A railway company requesting an instruction that reasonable care "at the time of the accident" was requisite to a recovery cannot complain of the court's use of the words "immediately before and at the time of the accident." Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Coggins, 212 Ill. 369, 72 N. E. 376. An instruction that plaintiff must have used reasonable care "to ascertain whether any train was approaching" was properly refused. Id. A jury should be clearly instructed to reduce the verdict if they find plaintiff failed to exercise proper care. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818. In an action for the death of a child at a crossing, it is proper to refuse an instruction predicating defendant's freedom from liability on the inability of the engineer to stop in time to prevent an accident, if decedent suddenly ran on the track in front of the engine. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson [Ala.] 37 So. 431. A court may properly refuse an instruction that "if decedent was drunk and in a helpless condition on or near the track and was unable to realize the dangerous position he was in, then decedent would not be guilty of contributory negligence." Stewart v. North Carolina R. Co., 136 N. C. 385, 48 S. E. 793. Under Indiana statutes providing that the burden of proof of contributory negligence for an accident at a crossing shall be on the railroad company, an instruction that it is presumed of law that an injury received from a collision at a crossing was due to the negligence of the injured party is erroneous. Nichols v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 229, 70 N. E. 183. An instruction that plaintiff must have used ordinary care to avoid an accident is proper. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Zapp, 209 Ill. 339, 70 N. E. 623. An instruction implying that nothing less than foolhardiness would constitute contributory negligence is erroneous. Hinchman v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 277. Instruction on plaintiff's failure to stop, look, and listen, held prejudicial to defendant. Wands v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 96, 80 S. W. 18. A charge on discovered peril is harmless, though not justified by the evidence where the issue is contributory negligence which the jury found in plaintiff's favor. Reed v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 919.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1438.

99. Whether an accident occurred at a highway crossing is generally for the jury. Tereszko v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 615, 88 N. Y. S. 561. Upon conflicting testimony it is for the jury to say whether the statutory signals were given. McDonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 186 Mass. 474, 72 N. E. 55; Brusseau v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 348.

1. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pettit, 209 Ill. 452, 70 N. E. 591; McDonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 186 Mass. 474, 72 N. E. 55; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pulliam, 208 Ill. 456, 70 N. E. 460; Cromley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. 445, 57 A. 832; Wolfe v. Pennsylvania of evidence,[2] if the undisputed evidence shows the accident to have resulted from plaintiff's negligence, verdict for the defendant should be directed.[3] Culpable negligence is a matter of law.[4]

Special findings.[5]

(§ 10) E. Injuries to persons on highway or private premises near tracks.[6]—A railway company may be liable to one in a highway for injuries caused by objects protruding[7] or falling from a train lawfully operating in a part of such highway.[8] To impose a liability upon the company, the injury complained of must have resulted from its negligence.[9] A carrier is responsible only for those acts of strangers which might have been reasonably anticipated.[10] A boy standing in a public street and injured by a piece of ice kicked from a passing train is not negligent.[11]

Accidents from derailed trains.[12]

Injuries from frightened horses.[13]—A railway company is not liable for the consequences of such noises on or in the vicinity of public streets made by its locomotives or engines as are incident to the ordinary management thereof,[14] but failure to sound the statutory signals until so near the crossing that a team is in dangerous proximity to it before knowledge of its presence may render the company liable for injuries resulting from the fright of the team.[15] That a team is frightened by the blowing of a signal whistle or other noise of train imposes no liability upon the company unless an unusual and unnecessary noise was made;[16]

R. Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 335. Whether a pedestrian may cross without looking and listening, immediately after the raising of railroad gates is for the jury. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050.

2. Where the evidence tended to show the exercise of due care by the plaintiff, the question of his contributory negligence was for the jury. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Scheffner, 209 Ill. 9, 70 N. E. 619. Where there is conflicting testimony as to whether a person stopped to look and listen, the question is for the jury. Coolbroth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 433, 58 A. 808.

3. Garlich v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 837; Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Andrews [C. C. A.] 130 F. 65; Wilson v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 210 Ill. 603, 71 N. E. 398; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pettit, 209 Ill. 452, 70 N. E. 591; McDonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 186 Mass. 474, 72 N. E. 55. A nonsuit is proper where the plaintiff approached a crossing without stopping, looking, and listening. Canfield v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 208 Pa. 372, 57 A. 763.

4. Green v. Los Angeles T. R. Co., 143 Cal. 31, 76 P. 719.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1438. Tennessee statute providing that a railroad company shall keep some one on the locomotive always on the lookout and sound the alarm whistle in case any one appears on the track, and for failure to do so contributory negligence shall be considered only in mitigation of damages, the jury need not mitigate to nominal damages in case the person on the track was grossly negligent. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 127 F. 933.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1438.

7. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Thrasher [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 829.

8. Evidence of user of that part of the highway by the public and that improvements thereon had been made by the county is admissible. Turney v. Southern Pac. Co., 44 Or. 280, 76 P. 1080.

9. Nonsuit in an action for death of a person last seen upon the highway near a defective bridge. Morgan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 25, 58 A. 116.

10. Injury to passenger by employe of another company using the same depot. Miller v. West Jersey & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 13.

11. Willis v. Maysville, etc., R. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 716.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1438.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1438. Instructions in a case where it was alleged plaintiff drove upon the track with the reins so loose as not to be in control of his team held bad both as to negligence and contributory negligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hall [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786.

14. Escape of steam by engine partially in highway. Crowley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1016. But see Hinchman v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 277.

15. Woman attempting to alight from wagon. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Booth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 121. Negligence will not be imputed from a failure to give the statutory signals where the doing so would probably have increased the fright of a horse beyond control. Fares v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 230.

16. Chalkley v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 120 Ga. 683, 48 S. E. 194. A railroad company is liable to travelers upon a highway parallel with the right of way, or in the neighborhood thereof, for injuries arising only from unusual and unnecessary causes, attributable to negligence or willfulness. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Martin [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 654. Evidence that plaintiff's team was frightened but it is culpable negligence for an engineer to sound a locomotive whistle while passing under a bridge upon which he sees a vehicle crossing.[17] Authority to erect and maintain the necessary buildings and machinery for the conducting of the railroad business does not protect a company in so using a shop whistle as to frighten horses.[18] After discovery of the perilous position of one on an adjacent highway the company must refrain from any heedless or wanton act tending to increase the danger.[19] A railroad company may use its right of way in any lawful manner, but it must use all precautions necessary to prevent obstructions to a view of the track from the crossings from becoming dangerous.[20] A company is not liable for injuries from a horse becoming frightened at an object in the road after safely making a crossing,[21] and there can be no recovery for a horse killed in running away from fright at escaping steam which was neither unusual nor unnecessary.[22] Allowing steam to escape from an engine partially upon a crossing when a nervous horse is passing may constitute negligence.[23] A railroad company may be liable for injuries from frightened horses where it leaves a locomotive on a crossing for an unreasonable time.[24] The presence of a freight car at the margin of a street crossing is not a nuisance rendering the railroad company liable for injuries from a horse becoming frightened thereat,[25] or at a hand car which unexpectedly crosses the street in front of a team.[26] A railroad may be constructed through a canyon, though it runs very close to a highway.[27] A railroad company is not required to keep a special lookout for travelers upon a highway in close proximity to the tracks, but ordinary care should be used.[28] In an action for injuries from a team becoming frightened by a railroad shop whistle, evidence that another team had been frightened thereby was admissible.[29]

(§ 10) F. Injuries to animals on or near tracks.[30]—At places where stock are frequently encountered, employes must exercise more care than elsewhere,[31] and the law requires that those in charge of a locomotive keep a lookout for stock,[32] even in counties where stock is not allowed to run at large,[33] though the per-by noise made necessarily in starting a train up a grade, the engineer not seeing plaintiff or the team, does not show negligence on part of railway employes. St. John v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 603. The moving of an engine without unnecessary or extraordinary noise is not negligence per se, though it frighten a horse. Fares v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 230.

17. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. David, 105 Ill. App. 69.

18. Powell v. Nevada, etc., R. Co. [Nev.] 78 P. 978.

19. Fares v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 230.

20. A person was injured by her horse becoming frightened at the blowing off of steam from engines standing near a crossing. At this point the view of the track was obstructed and the horseman did not notice the engines until they began to blow off. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Witherspoon [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1052.

21. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Sneed [Miss.] 36 So. 261.

22. Southern R. Co. v. Duckett, 121 Ga. 511. 49 S. E. 589.

23. Hinchman v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 277.

24. Contributory negligence of driver going on crossing and negligence of company for jury. Welborne v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 653. Declaration and verdict held inconclusive. Butler v. Easton & A. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 218.

25. Hohman v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 882. Where two companies use tracks, only the one leaving the car is liable if either. Jolly v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 837.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Neb.] 101 N. W. 2.

27. Fares v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 230.

28. Need not exercise same care as at crossing. Fares v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 230.

29. Powell v. Nevada, etc., R. Co. [Nev.] 78 P. 978.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1440.

31. For the jury whether the train was running at an improper speed. Rafferty v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 32 Wash. 259, 73 P. 382.

32. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Swann, 120 Ga. 695, 48 S. E. 117; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Burgess [Ky.] 84 S. W. 760; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bowen [Ark.] 84 S. W. 788.

33. Davis v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. E. 446, 47 S. E. 723. Contra in Texas. Red River, etc., R. Co. v. Dooley [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 566.

formance of important and necessary duties about an engine may constitute a sufficient excuse for nonperformance of the duty.[34] In Texas, if a railroad company fences its road, it is liable only for injuries resulting from a want of ordinary care.[35] No liability arises from the killing of stock suddenly running upon the track, the engineer keeping a lookout ahead and promptly using all the appliances of a well equipped engine to stop after discovery of the stock.[36] Failure to signal at crossings as required by statute is as to animals killed at crossings negligence per se;[37] but failure to signal for a crossing is immaterial as to stock not killed at a crossing.[38] An averment that a passenger train was running at a speed exceeding 60 miles an hour does not per se charge negligence.[39] The owner of land adjoining a railroad right of way is not liable for injuries to a neighbor's stock which comes upon his land without his negligence and through an open right of way fence strays upon the track.[40]

How far liability extends.[41]—The general rules applying to injuries to licensees and trespassers extends to the live stock of such persons, upon the right of way under similar conditions.[42] If stock break a lawful fence to get upon the track, the railroad company is not liable, whether the fence be its own or that of an adjoining proprietor,[43] but if there is no lawful fence to stop them, the company is liable, though they were trespassing at the point where they entered.[44] In Virginia the liability extends to a stock owner who owns no land on the road either at the place where the stock went on or at the place where they were killed.[45] Geese are not within the ordinary rules regarding the killing of stock.[46] By statute in some states injuries arising from fright of stock getting on the right of way through the company's negligence may be recovered for.[47]

Place of entry on right of way.[48]—Where stock get upon the track at a point where there is no duty to fence, there can be no recovery without proof of negligence, though they are killed at a point where fences are required;[49] but a railroad company is liable for damage to stock securing access to the right of way over an insecure and insufficient cattle guard.[50] Defendant is not liable for injuries to stock going upon track through a defective gate which the owner has 34. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Swann, 120 Ga. 695, 48 S. E. 117.

35. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Bradshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 897.

36. Southern R. Co. v. Hoge [Ala.] 37 So. 439; Alabama & V. R. Co. v. Boyles [Miss.] 37 So. 498.

37. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Crutcher [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 341.

38. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 274; Nicholas v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1115.

39. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeler [Kan.] 79 P. 673.

40. Strobeck v. Bren [Minn.] 101 N. W. 795.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1441.

42. See ante, § 10B1. Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 55, 78 P. 133.

43. Farmers' Bank v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 76.

44. Rinehart v. Kansas City So. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 910; Farmers' Bank v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 76; Litton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 978. Plaintiff must show that adjoining owner's fence was defective. Seidel v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 77.

45. Acts 1897-8, c. 283. Sanger v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 102 Va. 86, 45 S. E. 750.

46. A goose is not an "animal or obstruction" within the meaning of Tennessee Code, requiring every possible means to be used to stop a train to prevent an accident. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [Tenn.] 78 S. W. 1050. In the absence of recklessness or common-law negligence, a railroad company is not liable for the killing of geese permitted to run at large. Id.

47. Evidence must show fright from train. Circumstances held insufficient. Shaw v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 611. Where the statute gives a right of action for injuries to stock on the track arising from being frightened by any locomotive or train, a gasoline motor hand car is not within the statute. Henson v. Williamsville, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 597.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1441.

49. Redmond v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 104 Mo. App. 651, 77 S. W. 768. It is the place where animals get upon the tracks and not where they are killed that fixes a company's liability. Bumpas v. Wabash R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 202, 77 S. W. 115; Chicago, etc., R. Co. Sevcek [Neb.] 101 N. W. 981.

50. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 33 Ind. App. 603, 71 N. E. 908.

covenanted to maintain.[51] A railroad company is not liable for killing an animal entering on its track in a county where the stock law is in force, where it used the utmost care to stop the train as soon as the danger was discovered.[52] The presumption that stock was killed where it is found dead is not conclusive.[53]

Duty to maintain fences.[54]—Statutes may require railroad companies to erect and maintain fences of sufficient height and strength to turn stock,[55] when necessary to prevent stock from reaching the right of way,[56] and abutting landowners have a right to assume that they will do so.[57] Failure to repair upon notice or within a reasonable time is a failure to fence within the meaning of such statutes.[58] In the absence of an agreement whereby the abutting landowner is to maintain a fence, the duty to provide a statutory fence rests upon the railroad company.[59] That a railroad company has compensated the abutting owner for making and keeping in repair the necessary fencing does not relieve the company from its statutory duty therein.[60] The voluntary construction of a fence by an abutting owner does not relieve the company from its statutory duty relative to fences,[61] unless at its construction the fence was sufficient and at the time complained of was in a fair state of repair.[62] Though adjoining landowners may by agreement relieve the company from its statutory duty to maintain fences, they cannot waive that duty in behalf of third persons whose stock is killed through failure to fence.[63] Failure to comply with the statute renders the company liable for resulting damages.[64] There is no duty to fence at stations where to do so would hinder the proper operation of the road,[65] but failure to fence is excusable

51. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 62.

52. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Atlas Press Brick Works [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 792.

53. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 33 Ind. App. 603, 71 N. E. 908.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1442.

55. Code 1887, § 1258. Sanger v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 102 Va. 86, 45 S. E. 750; Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 760. The Virginia fencing statute is valid as an exercise of the police power [Code 1887, §§ 1258-9; Acts 1897-8, c. 250, 283]. Sanger v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 102 Va. 86, 45 S. E. 750. A "good and sufficient" fence to restrain domestic animals must be such as will restrain the kind of animals kept on the adjacent property. Fence sufficient to restrain cattle not sufficient for sheep [Rev. St. 1883, §§ 36, 37, c. 51]. Cotton v. Wiscasset, etc., R. Co., 98 Me. 511, 57 A. 785. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5323, requiring fences, does not change a company's liability for killing of stock. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 33 Ind. App. 603, 71 N. E. 908. Duty to fence extends to switch track used only by private person. Duncan v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 661. Montana statute on fences held to be an attempted adoption of § 485 of Cal. Code and to be construed accordingly. Beaudin v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 303. Instruction on duty to maintain fence held sufficiently favorable to defendant. Klay v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 526. Statutes may require railroad companies to fence their right of way if the adjoining owner fence all other sides of his land. Lessee is not an "owner" under this statute [Civ. Code, § 542]. Crary v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 18.

56. Need not fence in City of New York where a highway intervened between adjoining lands and right of way [Laws 1892, § 32, c. 676, p. 1390]. Lee v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 97 App. Div. 111, 89 N. Y. S. 652. Code, § 2055. Dailey v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa, 254, 96 N. W. 778.

57. It is not contributory negligence for an owner to permit animals to remain in a pasture after discovery that the fence was inadequate to restrain them. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bourne, 105 Ill. App. 27.

58. Dailey v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa, 254, 96 N. W. 778.

59. Craig v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Iowa, 471, 96 N. W. 965.

60. Such compensation is a matter of defense in an action by the compensated owner. Sanger v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 102 Va. 86, 45 S. E. 750.

61, 62. Craig v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Iowa, 471, 96 N. W. 965.

63. Rinehart v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 910.

64. Lee v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 97 App. Div. 111, 89 N. Y. S. 652. Under Texas statutes a railroad company that has not fenced its track is absolutely liable for the killing or injuring of livestock on its tracks. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Swan [Tex.] 78 S. W. 920. Under this statute a track is not fenced unless it is entirely enclosed and the company is liable for a mule killed where the track was fenced if the track was open a short distance away. Id.

65. Redmond v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 104 Mo. App. 651, 77 S. W. 768. No duty rests upon a railroad company to fence at stations. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sevcek [Neb.] 101 N. W. 981; Beaudin v. Oregon S. L. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 303. A place where there is no agent is not a station, though passengers are taken up and set down there and only to an extent sufficient to afford the public and the railroad company necessary facility for transacting the business reasonably to be expected at the locality.[66] Where a right of way is parallel to a highway, the erection of a fence is required unless its erection would destroy the use of the highway as such.[67] A company putting in a fence gate for the convenience of an adjoining landowner is not responsible for injury to stock occasioned by the careless use of such gate by persons not in its employ.[68] The stock law in Missouri does not relieve railroad companies of their duty to fence where their roads run through cultivated or uninclosed fields.[69] The platting of lands through which the road runs will not relieve it of its duty to fence.[70] In New Mexico, failure to fence is not negligence per se but only places on defendant the burden of proving that the stock was not killed as a result of its negligence.[71] That a railroad company constructs a fence does not estop it from showing that it was not required to do so and that plaintiff had no right to assume the fence would be maintained in good repair.[72]

Gates.[73]—Ordinary care and prudence must be exercised in the construction of gates;[74] to provide such gates as are reasonably sufficient to prevent live stock of ordinary disposition from going upon the tracks.[75] Trivial defects in gates at farm crossings impose no liability on the railroad,[76] and no liability arises for defective gates of original proper construction until actual notice of the defects, or the company ought in the exercise of reasonable care to have had notice, and a sufficient time has elapsed in which to make the repairs.[77] A railroad company must exercise reasonable care in keeping gates closed to farm crossings.[78] Where parallel adjoining rights of way cross a farm, failure to maintain gates between the rights of way of a private crossing is not negligent.[79]

Cattle guards.[80]—Statutes may require railroad companies to maintain proper and sufficient cattle guards.[81] A cattle guard should be reasonably adapted for the intended purpose, and need not be such a one as may not under any circumstances be crossed by an animal.[82] Statutes may provide that a cattle guard approved by the state railroad commissioner shall be sufficient;[83] but the approval of a device will not relieve defendant of liability for loss of stock getting upon the right of way, through a space between the guard and a glance fence,[84] though the fence could not be built closer and allow the passing of trains. Evidence that a cattle guard was of the style in general use by first class railroads does not necessarily show a compliance with the statute thereon.[85] In Michigan cattle guards freight is sometimes thrown off for accommodation of consignees. Duncan v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 661. Sawmill near track. Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 972.

66. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sevcek [Neb.] 101 N. W. 981.

67. Sanger v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 102 Va. 86, 45 S. E. 750.

68. Dailey v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa, 254, 96 N. W. 778.

69. Rinehart v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 910.

70. Iola Elec. R. Co. v. Jackson [Kan.] 79 P. 662.

71. Pecos Valley & N. E. R. Co. v. Cazier [N. M.] 79 P. 714.

72. Crary v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 18.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1443.

74, 75. Wirstlin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 170, 99 N. W. 697.

76. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Bradshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 897.

77. Wirstlin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 170, 99 N. W. 697.

78. Bumpas v. Wabash R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 202, 77 S. W. 115. Contra, Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Bradshaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 897.

79. Fowbel v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1121.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1443.

81. Code, § 2055. Boyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 248, 98 N. W. 764.

82. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124 Iowa, 248, 99 N. W. 1061.

83. Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 760; Clement v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 999.

84. Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 744; Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 760.

85. Pennsylvania Co. v. Newby [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1043.

must be sufficient to turn sheep and hogs as well as cattle.[86] The sufficiency of a cattle guard is ordinarily for the jury.[87] Railroad companies must use due care to maintain the efficacy of their cattle guards.[88] Fences and cattle guards should be placed at the highway line of a crossing.[89] A company is not required to place cattle guards at crossings where they would endanger the railway's employes in performing their necessary duties, as switching, etc.[90] A specified pattern of surface guard cannot be judicially declared to be a compliance with the statute because less dangerous to the traveling public than the pit guard, though less effective in turning cattle.[91]

Contributory negligence of owner[92] is a defense,[93] but the fact that one's stock was trespassing upon a right of way is not a bar to his action for damages to stock.[94] In Texas the mere fact that stock is at large in a county where the stock law is in force makes their owner negligent, and it is immaterial whether he knew it or whether the railway fence was sufficient, the company having in fact fenced.[95]

Pleading.[96]—The acts of negligence complained of should be specifically alleged,[97] a general allegation being insufficient as against a special demurrer.[98] It is generally not necessary to allege that plaintiff owned the field from which the cattle went on the track or that the cattle were lawfully in the field;[99] but a petition under the Montana statute must allege plaintiff's ownership or possession of the land through which the railroad runs, and that the stock was killed at such place. But there need be no allegation of negligence.[1] Under an allegation of negligence in the operation of a train, a failure to provide cattle guards may be shown,[2] and an allegation that a horse entered upon a right of way "where the same was not securely fenced in" is sustained by proof of entry over a cattle guard that was not sufficient to turn stock.[3] A petition alleging that the track not enclosed by a fence is not supported by proof that the stock went on the track through an open gate, though defendant's servants left the gate open.[4] Contributory negligence of the owner is only in issue when pleaded.[5]

86. Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 760.

87. Pennsylvania Co. v. Newby [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1043.

88. Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 760. A cattle guard so out of repair for two months that stock could pass over it constitutes negligence as a matter of law on the part of the railroad company. Id. Sheet iron cattle guards held insufficient. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Hubbard [Miss.] 37 So. 1011.

89. Craig v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Iowa, 471, 96 N. W. 965.

90. Whether cattle guards can be placed at a railroad crossing without danger to the company's employes is not for determination of the company alone, but is triable as a question of fact. Gilpin v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 77 S. W. 118.

91. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Harrington [Miss.] 37 So. 1016.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1443.

93. Plaintiff camped for night with drove of cattle on public highway alongside unfenced track. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 250.

94. Sanger v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 102 Va. 86, 45 S. E. 750.

95. Red River, etc., R. Co. v. Dooley [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 566.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1444.

97. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart, 120 Ga. 890, 48 S. E. 354. Averments of negligence held sufficient. Southern R. Co. v. Hoge [Ala.] 37 So. 439; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley, 121 Ga. 781, 49 S. E. 780. The complaint must allege whether the negligence complained of was failure to provide or maintain proper fences and gates, or whether it was in permitting a gate to remain open. Litton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 978. A complaint alleging that on or about a certain date defendant, in operating a train of cars, negligently, carelessly, and wrongfully struck and killed certain stock, states a cause of action. Jones v. Great Northern R. Co., 12 N. D. 343, 97 N. W. 535.

98. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Anson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 785.

99. Wages v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 104.

1. Civ. Code, § 950. Beaudin v. Oregon S. L. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 303.

2. Rafferty v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 32 Wash. 259, 73 P. 382.

3. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 33 Ind. App. 603, 71 N. E. 908.

4. Stonebraker v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 631; Litton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 978.

Burden of proof.[6]—To support a recovery it must appear that the animal was killed upon the right of way.[7] Proof of failure to fence and injury to stock raises a prima facie case of negligence.[8] By the statute in some states proof of the killing of stock by a train raises a presumption of negligence on the part of the railroad company,[9] which must be overcome by evidence of the exercise of due care.[10] Where animals are killed at a point where the company is not required to fence, the burden is on plaintiff to show negligence.[11]

Admissibility and sufficiency of evidence.[12]—The admissibility of evidence in these cases is governed by the customary rules. A few illustrative cases are cited below.[13] Cases involving the sufficiency of the evidence to support recovery are discussed in the note.[14]

5. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Philpot [Ark.] 77 S. W. 901. Plea of contributory negligence in that the stock injured were running at large contrary to the stock law held demurrable. Southern R. Co. v. Hoge [Ala.] 37 So. 439.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1444.

7. Lee v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 97 App. Div. 111, 89 N. Y. S. 652.

8. Craig v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Iowa, 471, 96 N. W. 965.

9. Code 1883, § 2326. Baker v. Roanoke & T. R. Co., 133 N. C. 31, 45 S. E. 347. Where the statute (Code, § 2326) provides that a prima facie case of negligence against a company for killing stock shall be made by showing the killing and ownership of the animal, where suit is brought within six months, defendant is not entitled to a nonsuit by rebutting by one witness the prima facie case so made. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 300, 46 S. E. 515; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley, 121 Ga. 781, 49 S. E. 780; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Weathers, 120 Ga. 475, 47 S. E. 956; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Swann, 120 Ga. 695, 48 S. E. 117. Where stock is killed on a railroad track, the law raises a presumption of negligence on the part of the railroad company. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Burgess [Ky.] 84 S. W. 760; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Moore [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1144.

10. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Burgess [Ky.] 84 S. W. 760. A railroad company is liable for any damage to stock by the running of its trains unless the company make it appear that its agents exercised all ordinary and reasonable care and diligence. Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Jones, 121 Ga. 822, 49 S. E. 729. Where no precautions were taken to prevent striking a horse, it was incumbent on the company to show that its failure in this respect did not bring about the injury. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Williams, 120 Ga. 1042, 48 S. E. 404. Where the killing of stock is admitted, the company must show by a preponderance of evidence its exercise of "ordinary and reasonable care and diligence," to escape liability. Verdict for plaintiff sustained. Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Young, Inv. Co., 119 Ga. 513, 46 S. E. 644. Presumption held overcome by evidence that the killing could not have been averted by the exercise of ordinary care. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Dich, 121 Ga. 65, 48 S. E. 683. See, also, Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Williams Buggy Co., 121 Ga. 293, 48 S. E. 939; Western & A. R. Co. v. Clark, 121 Ga. 419, 49 S. E. 290; Southern R. Co. v. Cook, 121 Ga. 416, 49 S. E. 287. The presumption is overcome if uncontradicted evidence shows that the negligence did not occur as alleged. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley, 121 Ga. 781, 49 S. E. 780. On conflicting testimony, it is for the jury to decide whether the presumption is overcome. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. McWhorter, 121 Ga. 465, 49 S. E. 264.

11. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 296.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1445.

13. Evidence as to value of dog killed held competent. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Philpot [Ark.] 77 S. W. 901. Defendant has a right to introduce evidence to show the value of the cattle. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Lane [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 534. Speed of train two miles distant held inadmissible. Evidence showing custom as to speed held admissible. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Anson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 785. Testimony based on an observation of the animal's tracks, that it was running, is admissible, as also testimony relative to depressions showing where the animal was struck. Craig v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Iowa, 471, 96 N. W. 965. That defendant's servants have worked the track since the accident may be considered with reference to their testimony as to where the killing occurred and their claim that no tracks were seen at the point where plaintiff claims it occurred. Klay v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 526. An expert witness, as a roadmaster, may testify as to the sufficiency of a cattle guard to turn stock. Johnson v. Detroit & M. R. Co. [Mich.] 97 N. W. 760. Testimony as to the condition of a cattle guard the day after an accident is admissible where it is subsequently shown that its condition had not been altered meanwhile. Id. Farmers and stockmen may testify as to whether the mare killed was with foal. Boyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 248, 98 N. W. 764. Evidence as to the value of the animal as a brood mare and the character of her foals is admissible upon the question of damages. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124 Iowa, 248, 99 N. W. 1061. Where the negligence alleged is failure to maintain sufficient fences, if the cattle entered over a cattle guard, plaintiff cannot recover and defendant should be allowed to show that fact. Clement v. Pere Marquette R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 999.

14. Circumstantial evidence of negligence of company's servants in killing horse held sufficient. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 841. Where Instructions[15] are governed by the usual rules.[16] A verdict can be directed only in case there is no conflict of evidence.[17]

Special findings.[18]

Double damages and attorney's fees.[19]—Double damages may be allowed in Iowa for failure to pay within thirty days for stock killed.[20] The notice required as a prerequisite to the recovery of double damages must advise the company with reasonable certainty of the claim.[21] A jury returning a verdict of damages for the killing of stock may retire and thereafter render a verdict of double damages according to statute.[22]

(§ 10) G. Fires.[23]—At common law independently of statute, the owner of property could recover damages arising from fire communicated by a locomotive through negligence.[24] Whether a high rate of speed constitutes negligence depends on the surrounding circumstances,[25] and statutes imposing liability for non-negligent fires communicated from their right of way are upheld.[26] A railroad com-

positive testimony showed that employes could not have prevented, by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence, the killing of an animal on the track, a verdict against the company for the killing should have been set aside. Southern R. Co. v. Harrell, 119 Ga. 521, 46 S. E. 637. The question of negligence was for the jury where an engineer saw a buggy on the track when he was 100 yards distant and sounded no alarm and made no effort to stop the train because he did not know there was a horse attached to the buggy and knew it would be impossible to stop the train in time. The horse was killed. Mitchell v. New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 1. The tracks of the animal and other evidence held sufficient to justify a verdict for the plaintiff. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Dozier, 117 Ga. 793, 45 S. E. 67; Klay v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 526. Evidence sufficient to justify a verdict of negligence by the company. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Swann, 120 Ga. 695, 48 S. E. 117; Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Wisenbacker, 120 Ga. 656, 48 S. E. 146. That no means are shown by which stock passed a right of way fence is not sufficient to rebut a prima facie case of negligent killing. Dailey v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa, 254, 96 N. W. 778. Death of steer held sufficiently shown. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 274. For the jury whether a defective cattle guard was the occasion of stock being on the right of way. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984. Evidence held sufficient to go to jury on question whether train frightened horse into culvert, breaking his leg. Carlos v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 574, 80 S. W. 965. Evidence held insufficient to show a killing by engine or cars. Beaudin v. Oregon S. L. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 303. Engineer's testimony as to when he saw the cattle and how soon he stopped, and that it was a quick stop under the circumstances, being uncontradicted, held sufficient on which to direct verdict for defendant. Carman v. Montana Cent. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 690. Evidence held insufficient to warrant submission of negligence in killing stock to the jury. Crary v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 18.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1445.

16. Charge erroneous as on weight of evidence. Plaintiff camped for night with drove of cattle near unfenced track. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 250. Instructions on prima facie case considered and held not misleading. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Weathers, 120 Ga. 475, 47 S. E. 956.

17. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Larkins [Ala.] 37 So. 660. Upon conflicting testimony, it is for the jury to decide whether the engineer did all within his power to stop the train after discovering stock upon the track. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Sport [Ala.] 37 So. 344. Upon conflicting evidence an instruction that the engineer was keeping a lookout was properly refused. Id.

18, 19. See 2 Curr. L. 1445.

20. Tender in court of the value of stock does not relieve the company from liability for double damages [Code § 2055]. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

21. Where the notice alleged failure to fence, and the petition a defective cattle guard, as the cause of an injury to a mare, held, the variance did not prevent recovery of double damages [Iowa Code, § 2055]. Boyer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa, 248, 98 N. W. 764. A demand of pay for stock killed, properly served, but in one of several places using the term "Railway Company" instead of "Railroad Company," defendant's legal name, is sufficient. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

22. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124 Iowa, 248, 99 N. W. 1061.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1446. For the general rules relating to liability for negligent fires, see Fires, 3 Curr. L. 1425.

24. Dyer v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 994.

25. Norwich Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 1025.

26. Dyer v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 994. Code Laws 1902, § 2135, making a railroad company liable for damages occasioned by fire communicated from its premises, is not unconstitutional as being in violation of article 14, § 1, amendments of the United States constitution. Brown v. Carolina Midland R. Co., 67 S. C. 481, 46 S. E. 283. The words "right of way" as used in Code Laws 1902, § 2135, do not refer to the title of the railroad company, but are used to designate pany furnishing a defective engine to an independent contractor is liable for fires set by it.[27] A railroad company is liable to third persons for the negligence of a shipper,[28] and where a fire is caused by the joint negligence of a railroad company and a shipper, the negligence of one is no defense to the other;[29] but as between themselves, a company may rely on the undertaking of a shipper assuming control of a car, to use reasonable care in the heating thereof.[30] A railroad company cannot absolve itself from keeping its right of way and its adjacent property free from combustible material by leasing such property.[31] An insurance company paying for a fire loss resulting from a railroad company's negligence may maintain an action against the company therefor,[32] notwithstanding the statute entitling the railroad company, held responsible for destruction by fire, to the benefit of the insurance upon the property destroyed.[33] Where the value of the property destroyed exceeds the insurance paid, an action against the railroad company must be brought in the name of the owner.[34] Where a railroad company sets fires on its right of way, it is incumbent on it to guard the fires as long as they exist.[35] Where plaintiff discovered the fire and with others partially subdued it, and believing it to be so under control as to be without capacity for further injury, retired, when it broke out afresh and destroyed property, it cannot be said as a matter of law that the negligence in starting the original fire was not the proximate cause of the loss.[36] The maintenance of a dilapidated shingle roof building close to its tracks by a railroad company may be evidence of negligence for the jury.[37]

Duty as to equipment and operation of engines.[38]—The law requires a high degree of care to prevent the escape of fire,[39] and spark arresters are generally required by statute;[40] but the adoption and maintenance in good condition of the device generally recognized as the best for suppression of fire is sufficient.[41] The general rule seems to be that a railroad company must adopt the most approved mechanical inventions and appliances to prevent the escape of fire.[42] This duty is the locality from which the fire may originate to render the company liable. Id. It is immaterial whether the fire originate from locomotive sparks or from an overheated journal box. Clark v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 142 Cal. 614, 76 P. 507.

27. Brady v. Jay [La.] 36 So. 132.

28. Fire originating from stove in shipper's car. Boston & M. R. Co. v. Sargent, 72 N. H. 455, 57 A. 688.

29, 30. Boston & M. R. Co. v. Sargent, 72 N. H. 455, 57 A. 688.

31. Sprague v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 828.

32. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036; Manchester Assur. Co. v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 79 P. 60; Dyer v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 994; Norwich Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 1025. Owner may also maintain suit, though insurance company has paid loss and is subrogated. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Keahey [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 1102.

33. P. L. 1895, c. 75, p. 77, applies only to non-negligent fires for which liability is created by statute. Dyer v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 994.

34. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Blaker & Co., 68 Kan. 244, 75 P. 71.

35. Fires on right of way adjacent to buildings. An inspection at 6 o'clock in the evening at which it was determined by the employes that there was no danger, is insufficient. Brister & Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 142.

36. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. League [Kan.] 80 P. 46.

37. Knickel v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 690.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1446.

39. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks [Ind.] 72 N. E. 636; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561. Care commensurate with the danger in case of drought or wind is necessary. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429.

40. Rev. St. § 3365. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Wahlers, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 310. "Safe" and "sufficient" are relative terms when applied to spark arresters. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 552.

41. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Crabb [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 408; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks [Ind.] 72 N. E. 636; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561. Compliance with a statute on spark arresters is a good defense. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Wahlers, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 310. It is not the duty of railroad companies to equip their engines with the "best approved" spark arresters, but merely such approved appliances as are in general use. Bottoms v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 348; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jordan [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 791; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Laforge [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1072; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hopkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 414.

42, 43, 44. Anderson v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 119.

fulfilled when the company has exercised reasonable diligence and precaution in obtaining and putting such appliances into actual use.[43] A railroad company is not accountable for unusual or unavoidable consequences of the operation of its locomotives.[44] In a time of drought, special care should be exercised in running an engine emitting large sparks past a barn very near the tracks,[45] and at times when the danger of fire is great, a high rate of speed may amount to negligence.[46]

Contractual exemptions from liability.[47]—A release from damages for burning property on the right of way will not relieve from negligently burning connected property.[48] Where the terms of a release from liability for fire are general, it will not be limited to fires caused by engines on a private spur.[49] One who has released the company from liability for injuries to property on the right of way cannot recover, though the fire was the consequence of the company's negligence.[50] That owners of property in a warehouse destroyed by fire were stockholders in the warehouse company under contract exempting a railroad company from liability for fire does not relieve the company from liability to such owners.[51]

Contributory negligence.[52]—An owner of lands adjoining a railroad is required to take such care of his property to protect it from fire as a man of ordinary prudence would employ under the circumstances, and if through neglect to take such care or such negligence proximately contributing with the negligence of the railroad a fire occurs, he cannot recover.[53] Plaintiff is not negligent in storing baled cotton on an open platform 50 feet distant from track.[54] In an action for personal injuries from fire, it is no defense that plaintiff, a child of five years, was removed from the burning house but was injured after returning to the inside.[55] Negligence in the setting of a fire communicated to plaintiff's property is the proximate cause of the injury, though plaintiff had allowed combustible material to accumulate.[56] Plaintiff's efforts at subduing a fire, his retirement believing it subdued, and its subsequent breaking out and destroying property, are, as contributory negligence, matters for the jury.[57]

Pleading.[58]—A railroad company is entitled to a specific statement as to the time when the fires complained of occurred,[59] but the complaint need not negative contributory negligence.[60] Where the negligence counted on is failure to provide spark arresters, negligence in overloading and handling the engine is not in issue.[61] The sufficiency of several complaints is discussed below.[62] A complaint alleging 45. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 552. Instructions held bad as imposing too high a degree of care. Ft. Worth. etc., R. Co. v. Dial [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 22.

46. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Fritts [Va.] 49 S. E. 971.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1447.

48. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Blaker & Co., 68 Kan. 244, 75 P. 71.

49. Railroad released from liability for damages if it would run a spur to a certain icehouse. Richmond v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 767.

50. Provision to this effect in a lease of a part of the right of way. Woodward v. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 893. Verbal reservation cannot limit effect of lease. Id.

51. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1447.

53. Whether leaving barn window open is negligent is for the jury. Owner need not discontinue ordinary beneficial use of his property, though hazardous. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Crabb [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 408. Stacks too close to right of way. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Dial [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 22.

54. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Short, 110 Tenn. 713, 77 S. W. 936.

55. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635.

56. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Gentry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 844.

57. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. League [Kan.] 80 P. 46.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1448.

59. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968.

60. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635.

61. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Moss [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 281.

62. Complaint held to sufficiently allege negligence in the operation of a locomotive. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 552. Allegations that a railroad company allowed fire to remain so near its buildings that a railroad company willfully, carelessly, and negligently allowed fire on its right of way to escape therefrom to adjoining property, from which damage resulted, states a cause of action at common law.[63] An allegation of improper and negligent management of an engine renders admissible testimony as to the care and caution exercised.[64] That an engine setting a fire was going in the opposite direction from that alleged in the complaint is not a fatal variance.[65] Contributory negligence and acts of God must be pleaded to be available as defenses.[66]

Burden of proof and presumptions.[67]—A railroad company is presumed to obey the law in running its trains,[68] and the burden is on the plaintiff to prove negligence in equipment and operation.[69] Fire caused by sparks from a locomotive is prima facie proof of negligence, however, and throws upon the railroad company the burden of proof of approved appliances and careful handling.[70] The burden of proving contributory negligence is upon the party alleging it, as in other cases.[71] Proof of the use of proper and necessary spark arresters and that the engine was carefully operated will overcome a prima facie case.[72]

Admissibility of evidence[73] is controlled by the usual rules as to relevancy, materiality, etc.; a few cases involving questions peculiar to these actions are grouped below.[74] A witness may testify how the quantity of sparks thrown by a particular engine compared with those emitted by other engines along the same road.[75] Loco-that they caught and such fire was communicated to plaintiff's property are sufficient under Code Laws 1902, § 2135, making a railroad company liable for damages occasioned by fires originating on their right of way. Brown v. Carolina Midland R. Co., 67 S. C. 481, 46 S. E. 283. In an action for negligent fire, an amendment to the petition alleging that litter was "carelessly" allowed to accumulate along the right of way is not improper. Southern R. Co. v. Horine [Ga.] 49 S. E. 285. Allegations that defendant negligently selected and maintained an engine in an improper and defective condition and negligently and improperly managed such engine whereby plaintiff was damaged by fire, held sufficient. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635.

63. Clark v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 142 Cal. 614, 76 P. 507.

64. Norwich Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 1025.

65. Reishus v. Willmar & S. F. R. Co., 92 Minn. 371, 100 N. W. 1.

66. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1448.

68. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks [Ind.] 72 N. E. 636.

69. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks [Ind.] 72 N. E. 636; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561.

70. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Fritts [Va.] 49 S. E. 971; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Needham, 105 Ill. App. 25; Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Wahlers, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 310; Southern R. Co. v. Johnson [Ala.] 37 So. 919. The starting of a fire by sparks from a locomotive is presumptively negligent. Olmstead v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 27 Utah, 515, 76 P. 557. That fire is communicated from an engine raises a presumption of negligent construction, equipment, or management. Dyer v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 994. Though plaintiff makes out a prima facie case by proving that defendant's engine set the fire, the burden of proof on the whole case does not shift. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Moss [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 281. Proof of damage resulting from fire communicated by a locomotive raises a prima facie case. Anderson v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 119.

71. Clark v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 341.

72. Olmstead v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 27 Utah, 515, 76 P. 557.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1449.

74. The time of admission of evidence of the effect of a fire is in the discretion of the court. Spink v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 499. Evidence on the speed of the train two miles distant from the fire is irrelevant. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Briggs [Va.] 48 S. E. 521. Evidence that the sparks were of unusual size and that witness "had never seen it throw out fire that way before" is admissible. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635. Evidence tending to show that owner intentionally set the fire is admissible. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jordan [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 791.

Expert evidence: An experienced locomotive engineer familiar with spark arresters may testify as to whether sparks sufficient to ignite property near the right of way could escape from an engine properly equipped. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Blaker & Co., 68 Kan. 244, 75 P. 71. Expert evidence of the distance a locomotive will throw sparks of a sufficient size to fire a building is admissible. That an engine going up grade will throw sparks 50 feet. Gibbs v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 104 Mo. App. 276, 78 S. W. 835.

75. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036. Testimony that sparks escaped in large showers or in large and unusual size or were carried to a great height or in unusual volume or quantities is admissible. Anderson v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 119.

motive inspectors may refresh their memories by the original memoranda made at the time of inspection, or by copies thereof if the originals be lost.[76] To show that a spark arrester in use by defendant was of the kind recommended by the Master Mechanics' Association, the records of such association should be introduced.[77]

Sufficiency of evidence.[78]—Courts seldom require direct and positive evidence that the fire complained of escaped from a locomotive,[79] and circumstances may justify the conclusion that the fire originated from locomotive sparks.[80] That a railroad company's employes aided in putting out a fire raises no presumption that the company set the fire.[81] Where a statute makes the causing of a fire by a railway company prima facie negligence, it becomes a question of fact whether such case is overcome by evidence for the defendant.[82] Proof that cinders escaped which could not have done so had the spark arrester been in repair and that the same locomotive had started other fires is sufficient to take the case to the jury.[83] If a jury find that those in charge of a locomotive were "usually" negligent in such management, they may conclude negligence in the case at bar.[84]

Instructions[85] are governed by the customary rules. A few illustrative ones are cited below.[86]

76. Manchester Assur. Co. v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 79 P. 60.

77. Parol evidence of member not admissible. Norwich Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 1025.

Other fires: Other fires by defendant's locomotives may be shown. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429. Evidence as to fires in the same vicinity set by locomotives of other companies is irrelevant. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Briggs [Va.] 48 S. E. 521. Evidence of fires set by other of the defendant's locomotives of the same description is competent. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Short, 110 Tenn. 713, 77 S. W. 936. Evidence of other fires set by the same company is inadmissible without showing they originated from the particular engine complained of. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Briggs [Va.] 48 S. E. 521. Where a particular engine is alleged to have set a fire and the question is whether a locomotive would throw igniting sparks and to that distance, evidence that other of defendant's engines similarly constructed and under similar circumstances had thrown igniting sparks that distance is admissible. Sprague v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 828.

Condition of equipment: Evidence as to the condition of machinery that causes an accident must refer to a time approximately near the time of the accident. Fire from locomotive sparks. Evidence that during the preceding winter the spark arresters were defective is entirely too remote. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Needham, 105 Ill. App. 25. Upon evidence that all of defendant's engines were substantially in the same condition, testimony that other engines than that complained of had thrown sparks 100 feet was admissible. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

Ownership of engine: Testimony that engines which went by immediately before the fire were attached to regular trains of the defendant is prima facie proof that they were defendant's engines. Spink v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 499.

Value of property: Evidence as to the value of a stock of goods one day prior to their destruction by fire is proper. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Briggs [Va.] 48 S. E. 521. In an action for burning trees, evidence of the value of the wood "if put to its best use" is admissible. Spink v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 499. In an action for the destruction of trees, it is proper to ask a witness the value of the farm before the fire and immediately after. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561. Where the claim is for permanent injury to a meadow, it may be shown that other lands burned over at the same time were not injured. Castner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 499. Prior admissions of less damage may be shown unless made to effect compromise. Id.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1450.

79. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561.

80. No fire before and no probable cause for fire except locomotive; wind blowing and appearance of fire directly after passage of train. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561; Wright v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 927. Evidence examined and held sufficient to sustain a verdict based on negligence in setting a fire. Reishus v. Willmar, etc., R. Co., 92 Minn. 371, 100 N. W. 1.

81. Clarke v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 245.

82. Gen. St. 1901, § 5923, makes it evidence and not merely presumption of negligence. Atchison, T. etc., R. Co. v. Geiser, 68 Kan. 281, 75 P. 68. Statutory presumption held not rebutted by the evidence that the latest and best appliances had been adopted, it not appearing that they were then in use. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968.

83. Olmstead v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 27 Utah, 515, 76 P. 557.

84. Norwich Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 1025.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1451.

86. An instruction limiting the damages to "the outcome of the fire" is proper. Spink v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 499. Instruction held bad as on weight of evidence

Special findings.[87]

Damages.[88]—The measure of damages for burning a meadow is the cost of reseeding and the rental value of the land while rendered unproductive, together with interest.[89] Damages for the destruction of fruit trees may be based on their value as a distinct part of the land, if capable of measurement, or the difference in the land value before and after their destruction.[90] Statutes may allow treble damages for negligently allowing fire to escape from one's own property.[91]

§ 11. Offenses relating to railroads.[92]—Statutes may provide a penalty for leaving a freight train across a street,[93] for failure to maintain street lights at crossings,[94] and may require the posting in a conspicuous place of notices as to the lateness of passenger trains, and provide a penalty for a failure so to do.[95] An ordinance forbidding the digging up of any street without a license does not apply to a railroad crossing.[96] Railroads are subject to indictment in some states for failure to sound statutory signals at crossings,[97] for running trains on Sunday,[98] and where obstruction of the highway is a public offense, railroads may be liable.[99] The offense of maliciously shooting into a car on which there are or may be passengers is committed by shooting at a car containing passengers, whether they are of the kind ordinarily known as passenger cars or not.[100] Malicious obstruction of railway tracks is generally punished by statute.[101] For a boy stealing a ride to inno-and for error in defining negligence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1187. Where a railroad company permitted fires on its right of way to be communicated to adjacent property and the insurers thereof brought action, an instruction that if "the owners in any way contributed to the fire by their negligence," a recovery could not be had, was erroneous. Buster & Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Miss.] 36 So. 142. Also an instruction that if the employes of the mill might by the exercise of reasonable care have prevented the burning, there could be no recovery, because the contributory negligence must have been predicated on knowledge of the fire. Id. Where the court charged that defendant's negligence must appear by a preponderance of the evidence, it was not error to refuse to charge that it must appear by affirmative evidence. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Heikens [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1038. Instruction held not erroneous as predicating a high rate of speed. Norwich Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 1025. Where the particular engine setting a fire is not identified by the evidence, the instruction as to equipment should not be limited to one engine. Manchester Assur. Co. v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 79 P. 60.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1452. The district judge found that the fire was caused by sparks from a passing locomotive not equipped with a spark arrester, and that the railway company knew the danger of using engines not so equipped. The trial court's findings were sustained. Brady v. Jay [La.] 36 So. 132.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1452. See also Fires, 3 Curr. L. 1426.

89. Black v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 122 Iowa, 32, 96 N. W. 984.

90. Atchison, R. Co. v. Geiser, 68 Kan. 281, 75 P. 68.

91. Under the evidence, actual damages only allowed [Pol. Code, § 3344]. Clark v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 142 Cal. 614, 76 P. 507.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1452.

93. A cut of cars held to be within the statute [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2291]. Becker v. State, 33 Ind. App. 261, 71 N. E. 188.

94. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crawfordsville [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1025.

95. A trial under this statute does not involve a Federal question of citizenship [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5186]. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

96. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 557.

97. Indictment held open to motion to make more specific. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. State [Ark.] 85 S. W. 85.

98. An indictment for running a train on Sunday need not allege that the particular train was not within any of the statutory exceptions [Pen. Code 1894, § 420]. Seale v. State [Ga.] 49 S. E. 740. On the trial of one indicted for running a freight train on Sunday, proof of any Sunday before the finding of the bill and within the statute of limitations is sufficient. Id. Where the accused was responsible for a schedule, the compliance with which necessitated a violation of the law, it is not error to charge that he might justify himself by proof that the employes of the company acted in direct violation of his orders. Id.

99. Indictment held sufficient. Every obstruction is a separate offense. Commonwealth v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 672, 82 S. W. 381. Indictment for maintaining bridge and approach held so uncertain as to be demurrable. Commonwealth v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 493, 82 S. W. 231.

100. Burkhart v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1245, 83 S. W. 633.

101. An indictment for placing obstructions on track, referring in subsequent clauses to "said railway track," is sufficient. Furlow v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 232. Under the statute of Wisconsin, the willful, wanton, and malicious placing of an obstruction on a track is a complete offense, irrespective of whether defendant was prompted by an incently turn an air cock on the car, setting the brakes, is not a willful and malicious act that might upset the car or throw it from the rails, though setting the brake might have that effect.[102]

RAPE.

§ 1. Nature and Elements (1231).
A. In General (1231).
B. Female Under Age of Consent (1231).
C. Attempts and Assault with Intent to Commit Rape (1231).
§ 2. Indictment and Prosecution (1232).
A. Indictment or Information (1232).
B. Evidence (1232).
1. Admissibility (1232).
2. Weight and Sufficiency (1233).
C. Instructions (1234).
D. Trial and Punishment (1234).

Matters of criminal law and procedure common to other crimes,[1] and civil liability for ravishment,[2] are elsewhere treated.

§ 1. Nature and elements. A. In general.[3]—Rape at common law is the carnal knowledge of a woman forcibly and against her will despite her utmost resistance,[4] but compliance from fear induced by threats of violence is sufficient, there need not be physical force,[5] and carnal knowledge of a woman unconscious from chloroform is rape though the drug was administered for a lawful purpose.[6] Statutes in some states cover rape by fraud. There must be some trick or strategem to constitute an offense against such statutes.[6a]

(§ 1) B. Female under age of consent.[7]—It is universally provided by statute that carnal knowledge of a female under a specified age shall be rape irrespective of her consent.[8] In some states it is required that defendant be above a certain age, and when so required it is part of the corpus delicti[9] and must be distinctly proved.[10] A statute forbidding the "unlawful" carnal knowledge of a female under the age of 16 sufficiently defines the offense, the word "unlawfully" being used in view of the right of females below that age to contract a lawful marriage.[11] Another phase of the same crime is presented by statutes such as that in Missouri punishing carnal intercourse with minor females by any person to whose care such a female has been confided. Such a statute has been held to apply to the relation of teacher and pupil, and to prohibit such intercourse at any time during the period of such relation.[11a]

(§ 1) C. Attempts and assault with intent to commit rape.[12]—There must be a specific intent to have intercourse with the woman without her consent, overcoming all resistance,[13] but this intent may be inferred from the nature of the assault,[14] and is a question for the jury.[15] That the offense was not consummated does not show absence of intent.[16] tent to endanger life or prevent the safe running of trains. State v. Bisping [Wis.] 101 N. W. 359.

102. Thacker v. Com. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1096.

1. See Criminal Law, 3 Curr. L. 979, and Indictment and Prosecution, 4 Curr. L. 1.

2. See Assault and Battery, 3 Curr. L. 319.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1453.

4. Devoy v. State [Wis.] 99 N. W. 455.

5. Smith v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1229, 83 S. W. 647.

6. Harlan v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 792.

6a. Huffman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 625.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1454.

8. Consent is immaterial. State v. Barrett [Del.] 59 A. 45; State v. Clark [Vt.] 58 A. 796.

9. That defendant is over sixteen years old, being part of the corpus delicti, cannot be proved by a confession. Wistrand v. People, 213 Ill. 72, 72 N. E. 748.

10. The jury cannot fix his age by his appearance in court. Opinions of witnesses from appearance is admissible. Wistrand v. People, 213 Ill. 72, 72 N. E. 748.

11. Plunkett v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 845.

11a. Rev. St. 1899, § 1845. State v. Hesterly, 182 Mo. 16, 81 S. W. 624.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1455.

13. Mason v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 689; Franey v. People, 210 Ill. 206, 71 N. E. 443. Mere persuasion is not sufficient to constitute the crime of assault with intent to rape a female under the age of consent. State v. Riseling [Mo.] 85 S. W. 372.

14. State v. Riseling [Mo.] 85 S. W. 372.

15. State v. Clark [Vt.] 58 A. 796.

16. State v. Sheets [Iowa] 102 N. W. 415.

§ 2. Indictment and prosecution. A. Indictment or information.[17]—In Vermont, statutory rape may be prosecuted by information.[18] Statutory rape is sufficiently alleged in the language of the statute,[19] and averments in addition thereto may be treated as surplusage.[20] Two counts on the same act, one for statutory rape and one for rape by force, may be joined.[21] Rape by force may be shown under an indictment for statutory rape,[22] but an indictment for rape by force will not sustain a conviction of statutory rape.[23] It must be averred that the female was not defendant's wife,[24] but it has been held sufficient if it appears by implication.[25]

(§ 2) B. Evidence. 1. Admissibility.[26]—The prosecuting witness may testify to her own age.[27] Family record is not admissible where the person making the entry is in court,[28] or where it is not fully identified,[29] or when the source of information from which it was made is doubtful.[30] Express[31] or implied admissions by defendant are competent.[32] Complaint by the prosecutrix is admissible,[33] and delay in making it goes only to its weight,[34] though prosecutrix is too young to testify.[35] Statements in answer to questions are not admissible[36] unless part of the res gestae.[37] It is only the fact of complaint which may be proved, not the details thereof unless it is so connected with the offense as to be part of the res gestae.[38] Declarations of prosecutrix inconsistent with her testimony are not admissible as original evidence.[39] On a prosecution for statutory rape, the rules of evidence are akin to those obtaining in prosecutions for seduction and accordingly improper familiarities,[40] promise of marriage,[41] and prior and subsequent acts of intercourse,[42]

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1456. Indictment for assault with intent to carnally know child under age of consent held sufficient. State v. Riseling [Mo.] 85 S. W. 372. Averment of resistance held sufficient. People v. Jailles [Cal.] 79 P. 965. Conviction of included offenses see Indictment and Prosecution, 4 Curr. L. 18.

18. State v. Leach [Vt.] 59 A. 168.

19. State v. Tourjee [R. I.] 58 A. 767.

20. The indictment charging in the language of the statute that defendant did carnally know and abuse a certain woman, the additional words "and did unlawfully have carnal knowledge of her" may be rejected as surplusage. State v. Cannon [N. J. Law] 60 A. 177. Where carnal knowledge of a female under the age of consent is alleged, an averment of force is to be treated as surplusage. State v. Anderson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 201.

21. People v. Jailles [Cal.] 79 P. 965.

22. State v. Carl [Ohio] 73 N. E. 463.

23. Munoz v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 11. But if all the essentials of statutory rape are alleged averments of force may be rejected as surplusage. State v. Anderson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 201.

24. An averment that the crime was committed on a certain day with a woman named "a female person under the age of sixteen years, and not the wife of" defendant sufficiently alleges that she was not his wife at the time of the offense. People v. Miller [Cal.] 78 P. 227.

25. The averment that defendant "feloniously did carnally know and abuse" a certain woman sufficiently negatives that she was his wife, as the intercourse would not otherwise have been unlawful. Garner v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 623.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1457.

27, 28. State v. Miller [Kan.] 80 P. 51.

29. Admission of unidentified family record held harmless where evidence as to age was clear. Robbins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 690.

30. School register held inadmissible on issue of age where teacher did not remember how information therein relative to prosecutrix was obtained. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 320.

31. Letters of defendant to prosecutrix corroborating her testimony are admissible. State v. De Witt [Mo.] 84 S. W. 956.

32. Evidence that shortly after the offense, defendant's wife was crying and that defendant sat silent is not admissible. Humphrey v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 187. That defendant, not being under arrest, was silent when accused of the crime is admissible. Id.

33, 34. State v. Bebb [Iowa] 101 N. W. 189.

35. Thomas v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 823. See note 65 L. R. A. 316.

36. Cannot be received either as a complaint or as corroboration. Cunningham v. People, 210 Ill. 410, 71 N. E. 389. A complaint made only in answer to a demand for an explanation of pregnancy is not admissible. State v. Bebb [Iowa] 101 N. W. 189.

37. Declarations of child to her mother in answer to questions twenty minutes after the offense held part of the res gestae. Thomas v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 823.

38. State v. Harness [Idaho] 76 P. 788. Question asked of prosecutrix, "Did you tell what he had done to you to anybody?" is improper. Oakley v. State, 135 Ala. 29, 33 So. 693. Identification of defendant by prosecutrix is not admissible. State v. Egbert [Iowa] 101 N. W. 191.

39. State v. Brady [N. J. Law] 59 A. 6.

40. Blair v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 17; are admissible; but unchastity of the woman with other men is not,[43] even to contradict her denials thereof,[44] except where her pregnancy is shown[45] or where the statute makes her previous chaste character essential.[46] Subsequent pregnancy and childbirth may be shown,[47] as may an attempt by accused to procure abortion,[48] but such evidence is not admissible where defendant admits the intercourse and the only issue is as to consent.[49] On a trial for rape by force, defendant is entitled to show his general reputation for peace,[50] but where the woman is below the age of consent, only repute for chastity and morality is admissible.[51] Where the statute provides that previous unchastity is a bar to a prosecution for statutory rape, general repute is not admissible.[52] But where rape by force is charged general repute is admissible and not specific acts of unchastity.[53] Where the issue was as to consent, evidence as to what an eye witness did in consequence of what he saw is admissible.[54]

(§ 2B) 2. Weight and sufficiency.[55]—In some states, corroboration of prosecutrix is required by statute,[56] while the decisions are in conflict as to the necessity of corroboration in the absence of statute.[57] Corroboration when necessary must, it is ordinarily said, go to the fact of crime and to defendant's connection therewith.[58] In the footnote will be found decisions discussing the sufficiency of evidence in particular cases.[59]

Henard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 655.

41. Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114. Evidence that prosecutrix did not know that defendant was married is admissible. Id.

42. Sykes v. State [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 185; State v. Lancaster [Idaho] 78 P. 1081; Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114; State v. Cannon [N. J. Law] 60 A. 177.

Contra: Other acts of intercourse cannot be shown (Wiggins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 821), and it does not authorize such evidence that defendant claims that the prosecution was inspired by malice (Id.).

43. State v. Smith [S. D.] 100 N. W. 740; Plunkett v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 845.

44. Plunkett v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 845.

45. Though the prosecution is for statutory rape, if the prosecutrix appears to be pregnant, evidence of intercourse with others is admissible, for the purpose, it is said in Iowa, of counteracting sympathy by reason of her condition. State v. Bebb [Iowa] 101 N. W. 189. It would seem that a better reason is that given in Illinois (Shirwin v. People, 69 Ill. 55, that the condition of the prosecutrix establishes that she has had intercourse with some man, to that extent corroborating her testimony and that defendant is therefore entitled to show an explanation of the condition consistent with his innocence. [Editor.]

46. Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114.

47. State v. Miller [Kan.] 80 P. 51; State v. Walke [Kan.] 76 P. 408; Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114.

48. Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114.

49. Darrell v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 541, 82 S. W. 289.

50. Horton v. State [Miss.] 36 So. 1033.

51. State v. Brady [N. J. Law] 59 A. 6.

52. Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114. Evidence of the reputation of the house where prosecutrix lived is inadmissible to rebut proof that she had contracted a venereal disease from defendant (James v. State [Wis.] 102 N. W. 320), nor is evidence of the repute of one with whom prosecutrix associated (Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114).

53. Black v. State, 119 Ga. 746, 47 S. E. 370. Nor is evidence that she has had a venereal disease admissible. State v. Smith [S. D.] 100 N. W. 740.

54. State v. Huff [N. C.] 49 S. E. 339.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1460.

56. State v. Icenbice [Iowa] 101 N. W. 273; State v. Egbert [Iowa] 101 N. W. 191; People v. Green, 92 N. Y. S. 508; Smith v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1229, 83 S. W. 647.

57. Corroboration necessary. Davis v. State, 120 Ga. 433, 48 S. E. 180. No corroboration is required. Brenton v. Territory [Okl.] 78 P. 83; State v. Patchen [Wash.] 79 P. 479.

58. Confession by defendant is sufficient corroboration on the question of his identity. State v. Icenbice [Iowa] 101 N. W. 273. Complaint by prosecutrix and flight of defendant held sufficient corroboration. Smith v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1229, 83 S. W. 647. Not sufficient corroboration. No complaint or marks of violence. People v. Green, 92 N. Y. S. 508. That prosecutrix and defendant were seen near the same place on the afternoon of the alleged assault is not sufficient corroboration. State v. Egbert [Iowa] 101 N. W. 191. The condition of prosecutrix and complaints by her are insufficient for they go only to the fact of crime and not to defendant's connection therewith. Id. Prompt complaint, marks of violence or similar circumstances, suggested as adequate corroboration. Davis v. State, 120 Ga. 433, 48 S. E. 180.

59. Evidence held sufficient: State v. De Witt [Mo.] 84 S. W. 956; Henard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 655. Evidence of statutory rape held sufficient. Prosecutrix corroborated. Rodgers v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 1041. Evidence of prosecu-

(§ 2) C. Instructions.[66]—No definition of carnal knowledge need be given,[61] and if one were needful use of it as interchangeable with sexual intercourse is sufficient.[62] Evidence of subsequent acts of intercourse and of attempts by defendant to procure an abortion should be confined by instruction to their effect as corroboration.[63] It is not error to refuse an instruction that the charge of rape "is easily made hard to prove and harder still to disprove."[64] Instructions not applicable to the evidence need not be given.[65] While on points of conflict the instructions should be specific.[66]

(§ 2) D. Trial and punishment.[67]—It is not error to allow the prosecutrix to have her child with her in the court room.[68]

RATIFICATION, see latest topical index.

REAL ACTIONS.

Real actions include all those brought for the specific recovery of lands, tenements or hereditaments.[69] The actions now commonly used are elsewhere spetrix, weakened by proof of bad character but corroborated by person witnessing struggle from a distance, held sufficient. Black v. State, 119 Ga. 746, 47 S. E. 370. Evidence held to sustain conviction of assault with intent to rape woman under influence of chloroform. Harlan v. People [Colo.] 76 P. 792. Evidence held to sustain conviction of statutory rape. Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114; Crocker v. People, 213 Ill. 287, 72 N. E. 743. Evidence held to sustain conviction in a case where prosecutrix was too young to testify. Thomas v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 823. Evidence of prosecutrix, a female under age of consent, held to show assault. State v. Riseling [Mo.] 85 S. W. 372.

Evidence insufficient: Uncorroborated evidence of prosecutrix held insufficient to convict of statutory rape against defendant's denial and proof of his good character. Cunningham v. People, 210 Ill. 410, 71 N. E. 389. An affirmative answer by prosecutrix to a question whether defendant "had intercourse" with her is not of itself sufficient. People v. Howard, 143 Cal. 316, 76 P. 1116. Testimony of woman weakened by inconsistent declarations held insufficient. Rushing v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 527. Evidence held insufficient. No complaint or indicia of violence. Harvey v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 481. Evidence of rape by fraud insufficient; impersonation of husband. Huffman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 625.

Intent: Intent may be inferred from nature of the assault. State v. Riseling [Mo.] 85 S. W. 372. Evidence of solicitation held not to show intent to rape. Quinn v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 505; Franey v. People, 210 Ill. 206, 71 N. E. 443. Evidence of assault held to show intent to rape. Perkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 619; State v. Miller, 124 Iowa, 429, 100 N. W. 334. Evidence of assault held not to show intent to ravish. State v. Smith [N. C.] 49 S. E. 336. That the offense was not consummated does not show absence of intent. State v. Sheets [Iowa] 102 N. W. 415. Evidence of entry of woman's bedroom at night held insufficient to show intent to rape. Taylor v. State [Miss.] 37 So. 498; Mason v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 689; Price v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 185.

Age of prosecutrix: Finding on conflicting evidence that prosecutrix was under age of consent sustained. State v. Callahan [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1100.

Penetration: Proof of penetration is essential. People v. Howard, 143 Cal. 316, 76 P. 1116. Penetration may be shown by direct or circumstantial evidence. State v. Newman [Minn.] 101 N. W. 499. Evidence of penetration held sufficient. Id. Ambiguous answer held to warrant finding of penetration. Bradburn v. State, 162 Ind. 689, 71 N. E. 133. A medical examination of prosecutrix is not indispensable. Harmon v. Territory [Okl.] 79 P. 765.

Resistance: Evidence held insufficient to show that utmost possible resistance was made. Devoy v. State [Wis.] 99 N. W. 455. Testimony of prosecutrix that she fought all the while is a mere conclusion of no probative force. Id. That prosecutrix made no outcry and no subsequent complaint and continued on friendly terms with defendant is not conclusive as to consent. Darrell v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 541, 82 S. W. 289.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1461. Instruction as to effect of evidence of bad character of female sustained. Black v. State, 119 Ga. 746, 47 S. E. 370.

61, 62. State v. De Witt [Mo.] 84 S. W. 956.

63. Woodruff v. State [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1114.

64. Harmon v. Territory [Okl.] 79 P. 765; Black v. State, 119 Ga. 746, 47 S. E. 370.

65. An instruction as to the duty to make outcry hypothesizing the nearness of a house to the scene of the crime is properly refused where the nearest house was a quarter of a mile away. Misenheimer v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 494.

66. Where there is conflict as to age of prosecutrix there should be full instructions as to the necessity of proving it. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 320.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1462. Sentence of 8 years for assault with intent to commit rape reduced to 5 years. State v. Miller, 124 Iowa, 429, 100 N. W. 334.

68. Plunkett v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 845.

cifically discussed.[70] In real actions the demandant is sometimes allowed to recover mesne profits and the terre tenant to recover for betterments.[71] In no event, however, may he recover without actually proving damages.[72]

A statutory action to recover real property is prescribed in North Carolina and a bond to pay costs, rents, and profits is required of defendant else plaintiff will be entitled to judgment as prayed; but it is required only of the defendant in possession,[73] and not of co-defendants out of possession[74] against whom, therefore, no judgment will be entered on default of bond.[75] Neither will incidental relief be allowed against defaulting parties when the result would be to cloud the answering defendant's possible title.[76] The court has discretion to allow a filing of the bond after answer[77] and to increase it if defendant seeks delay.[78]

A new trial of right is allowable in some states in all actions for recovery of land.[79]

REAL COVENANTS, see latest topical index.

REAL PROPERTY.

Definitions (1235).
The Rule in Shelley's Case (1236).
Entails are Generally Abolished (1237).
Covenants Run with the Land (1237).
Possession (1237).
Merger of Estates (1237).
Forfeiture and Abandonment (1238).

The scope of this title is narrow. It is confined to definitions and to such parts of the law of real property as by the infrequency of their appearance and recurrence would not warrant a separate treatment. Ordinarily the law of a particular branch or division of the real property will be found treated by name in a separate topic.[80]

Definitions.[81]—"Real estate" includes the soil and everything so attached to it that by intention it is given the immovable character of the land. It becomes in law a part of the land by the doctrine of fixtures.[82] Emblements and crops are also of the soil till severed.[83] Minerals in place such as oil and gas are real property, but by reservation or exception they may be made a separate hereditament.[84] A right to be exercised at a particular locality or incident to soil ownership is real property. Thus the right to a ferry landing is a hereditament,[85] and a water right appurtenant to land is real estate.[86] The right to kill game on one's own land has

69. Stephen Pl; 3 Cyc. Law Dict. "Real Actions."

70. They go to the right like Petitory Actions (4 Curr. L. 979), or to the possession like Forcible Entry and Unlawful Detainer (3 Curr. L. 1435). Ejectment (3 Curr. L. 1157) was originally wholly possessory but now is in some jurisdictions both possessory and droitural. See 3 Curr. L. 1157, and 7 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 262 et seq. Trespass is now adopted to the trial of title in Texas (see Trespass, 2 Curr. L. 1891). The codes have provided various remedies to determine conflicting claims to real property. These partake largely of the nature of suits to quiet title and remove clouds. See Quieting Title, 4 Curr. L. 1167.

71. See Ejectment, 3 Curr. L. 1157; Trespass (to try title), 2 Curr. L. 1903.

72. Rollins v. Blackden [Me.] 58 A. 69.

73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78. Carraway v. Stancill [N. C.] 49 S. E. 957.

79. See New Trial, etc., § 2I, p. 821.

80. Consult the latest topical index where all the well known real property headings will be found with a reference to the place of treatment.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1462.

82. See Fixtures, 3 Curr. L. 1432. This can not be where a reservation of a chattel ownership negatives such an intention. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646. And one who plants oysters on another's lands does not make them part of the land though it may be he commits trespass or nuisance. Vroom v. Tilly, 99 App. Div. 516, 91 N. Y. S. 51.

Permanent improvements are realty. In re Long Beach Land Co., 91 N. Y. S. 503. Boilers, machinery, and the like held part of realty. In re City of New York, 92 N. Y. S. 8. Derrick built for oil lessee subjects "lease" to mechanic's lien. It is not personalty. Showalter v. Lowndes [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 448.

83. See Emblements and Natural Products, 3 Curr. L. 1187.

84. Preston v. White [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 236.

85. Parsons v. Hunt [Tex.] 84 S. W. 644.

86. Talcott v. Mastin [Colo. App.] 79 P. 973.

recently been held to be an incident of soil ownership.[87] Burial lots have been held to be an inalienable hereditament.[88] The repeated use of an open common may give or indicate a right of common and not evince a dedication.[89]

The common-law doctrine that estates for years howsoever many are chattel interests[90] is so changed in Ohio that leases perpetually renewable are real estate,[91] and in New York all leases for more than three years are real estate.[92]

The law of the place governs lands and all interests therein.[93]

The rule in Shelley's case is in force in North Carolina,[94] among other states, and applies whenever the word "heirs" is technically used or other words equivalent to its technical meaning.[95] In Michigan the rule is abrogated by a statute making 87. State v. Mallory [Ark.] 83 S. W. 955, and see Fish and Game Law, 3 Curr. L. 1431.

Note: The annotator of the Columbia Law Review states that this is the first case to regard game killing as a property right. He points out that it was in its origin a public or common right which became restricted as the right of enclosure and possession of lands grew up and as reservations for forests and the like began to be made by the early kings of England. Franchises to hunt and chase were royal grants which by an implied negation restricted the public rights in like manner. Continuing he states, "In general these principles were transplanted here by our ancestors and underlie the American law. Geer v. Connecticut, 161 U. S. 519, 40 Law. Ed. 793. Such property as there is in wild game is in the state or public. Geer v. Connecticut, 161 U. S. 519, 40 Law. Ed. 793; State v. Theriault, 70 Vt. 617, 67 Am. St. Rep. 695, 43 L. R. A. 290. No individual has such a right to take game that it cannot be controlled by the State (1 Columbia L. R. 548) or completely taken away. Ex parte Maier, 103 Cal. 476, 42 Am. St. Rep. 129. It is said the only right of an individual to take game is by permission of the State (Magner v. People, 97 Ill. 320), though no special privileges as English franchises may be granted here (1 Schouler, Pers. Prop. § 49)."—From note 5 Columbia L. R. 241.

That no property in animals ferae naturae can be created save by bringing them into individual power and control was recently reiterated in State v. Shaw, 67 Ohio St. 157, 60 L. R. A. 481, with exhaustive note on "Right to Fish." Distinct from property in wild game or fish is the proprietary right to hunt or fish on land. It belongs to one's exclusive dominion over his own soil. See 3 Curr. L. 1431; L. Realty Co. v. Johnson, 92 Minn. 363, 100 N. W. 94. It is so far distinct from mere possession that the fee owner of a highway may exclude others from shooting thereon at game which passes over. Id. The same kind of a right is recognized in Rockefeller v. Lamora, 85 App. Div. 254, 83 N. Y. S. 289; Id., 96 App. Div. 91, 89 N. Y. S. 1, where it is decided that by consenting to the stocking of a stream with fish by the State, it becomes public to a certain degree. Like recognition is found in Albright v. Sussex County Lake & Park Com. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 146. In that case the power to condemn private waters for public sport or pastime in fishing was held invalid. Finally the principal case (State v. Mallory [Ark.] 83 S. W. 955) does not deny but adheres to the doctrine of public ownership in wild game. It declares the public ownership to be for the sole end of protecting and preserving game for common use, which public ownership is compatible with an individual's proprietary right to hunt on his own land. The individual right is subject to regulation but the right of a nonresident proprietor cannot be taken away solely because he is a nonresident, whilst it is allowed to remain to resident landowners. The distinction between the rights in wild game and the right to hunt is well drawn and the history of the doctrines stated in State v. Mallory [Ark.] 83 S. W. 955.

88. One Waldron died leaving a will in which his widow was made residuary legatee. No mention was made of a burial lot in which two previous wives and a child of the testator were buried. The question arose as to whether it passed to the widow under a residuary clause or to the daughter as heir at law. Held, that it descended to the daughter. In re Waldron [R. I.] 58 A. 453.

Note: Because of long recognized sentiment and religious teaching, property in burial lots is subject to many limitations. An executor empowered to sell all the real estate cannot, in the absence of express direction, sell a burial lot where the testator's wife is buried. Derby v. Derby, 4 R. I. 414. Nor can the owner of such lot mortgage it, in case members of his family have been interred therein. Thompson v. Hickey, 59 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 434. It has been held otherwise where no bodies have been buried at the time the mortgage was given. Loutz v. Buckingham, 4 Lans. [N. Y.] 484, 4 Colum. L. R. 604.

Consult Corpses and Burial, 3 Curr. L. 939; Cemeteries, 3 Curr. L. 665.

89. McKay v. Reading, 184 Mass. 140, 68 N. E. 43.

90, 91. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

92. Westchester Trust Co. v. Kelly, 92 N. Y. S. 482.

93. Perpetually renewable lease for years held real estate and not personalty in Ohio. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470. See, also, Conflict of Laws, 3 Curr. L. 720.

94. Tyson v. Sinclair [N. C.] 50 S. E. 450.

95. Tyson v. Sinclair [N. C.] 50 S. E. 450; Thompson v. Crump [N. C.] 50 S. E. 457. The rule in Shelley's case does not apply where a remainder is devised to an unborn child of the devisee of a life estate, though the child is spoken of in the will as the heir of such devisee. Kesterson v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 97. It should be noted that usually the contention is that the "heirs" take as purchasers when the estate is given to their ancestor for life remainder to heirs.[96]

Entails are generally abolished though still recognized in Rhode Island,[97] and may be barred by a deed in common form,[98] and statutes now provide in most states that fees tail shall be regarded as fees simple[99] taking effect as such when all conditions precedent to vesting are fulfilled[1] either as a fee in the first taker[2] or as life estates in the first taker and fees in the first issue entitled.[3]

Covenants run with the land as it is said when they are part of the estate in the lands to which they relate and are inseparable from it. It is not essential that heirs be expressly bound or charged.[4] Such are covenants to pay rent[5] and covenants for title.[6] Covenants for the benefit of land may become discharged by impossibility of performance,[7] the value of the right to performance being justly compensated.[8]

Possession presumably follows ownership.[9] No constructive possession of vacant lands is drawn to a grantee from those who are strangers to the title,[10] nor has a void judicial sale any effect.[11] Possessory rights of an entry-man on public lands are valuable rights.[12] In California the possessory right to a mining claim is real estate.[13]

Merger of estates results when a lesser estate comes to one in the same right as that wherein he holds a greater estate or when they are united in one person.[14] In law, a union of a legal and an equitable estate merges the latter.[15] In equity it words do or do not have that meaning thus raising a question not of estates but of construction. For these cases consult Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056; Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

96. Fullagar v. Stockdale [Mich.] 101 N. W. 576.

97. In re Tillinghast's Account [R. I.] 55 A. 879.

98. Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703.

99. Applied to conveyance to a wife and her heirs by her then husband. Schrecongost v. West [Pa.] 59 A. 269. To devise to son of rents and profits of land, the fee over if he should die without issue, otherwise to "him and his heirs." McCullough v. Johnetta Coal Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 984.

1. See McCullough v. Johnetta Coal Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 984.

The rules determinative of vesting in the first taker are discussed in topics Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056; Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

2. Fee simple in devisee (devise not only to him but also to heirs of his body). Rhodes v. Bouldrey [Mich.] 101 N. W. 206.

3. Thompson v. Crump [N. C.] 50 S. E. 457. Entails being recognized in Rhode Island, the statutory rule that when a gift is to one for life and to his "heirs" in fee, the heirs of the first taker have a fee is inapplicable. Permissible in R. I. Gen. St. 1896, c. 202, § 21; c. 201, §§ 5, 9; c. 129, § 6; c. 203, §§ 2, 8, 10. In re Tillinghast's Account [R. I.] 55 A. 879.

4. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

5. See Landlord and Tenant, 4 Curr. L. 389.

Rent reserved in a perpetual lease. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

6. See Covenants for Title, 3 Curr. L. 973.

7, 8. Covenant to maintain grade crossing made physically impossible because of elevation of tracks in obedience to law. Speer v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 197. Performance by under grade held not according to covenant, hence not enforceable in specie. Id.

9. Ewers v. Smith, 90 N. Y. S. 575; Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249; Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 341.

10. Terhune v. Porter, 212 Ill. 595, 72 N. E. 820.

11. Tax sale. Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 341.

12. Waring v. Loomis, 35 Wash. 85, 76 P. 510; Holloway v. Miller [Miss.] 36 So. 531. See, also, fuller discussion in Public Lands, 4 Curr. L. 1106.

13. Pol. Code, § 3617. Bakersfield & Fresno Oil Co. v. Kern County [Cal.] 77 P. 892.

14. Forfeiture of senior title for nonpayment of taxes and redemption by junior owner. State v. Jackson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 465. The union of life estate vested remainder and reversion merges all estates and destroys all contingent remainders. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. The devise of a life estate coupled with a devise of the residue to the same beneficiary, there being no intervening life estates, merges the two and vests a fee in the devisee. A mother willed her daughter a life estate and a subsequent clause gave her all the residue of her estate if she [daughter] survived her [mother]. Spencer v. Kimball, 98 Me. 499, 57 A. 793.

15. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97, 99 Am. St. Rep. 145, with note "Merger of Estates" pp. 152-171, from which this and the following note are quoted.

NOTE. "Merger is the annihilation of one estate in another, and takes place usually when a greater estate and a less coincide and meet in one and the same person without any intermediate estate, whereby the depends on circumstances and the intention of parties.[16] It will not take place contrary to the intention of parties.[17] If a purpose be expressed it will be prevented so far only as that purpose goes.[18] A way of necessity extinguished by a union of seisin is not revived by severance, but a new way is granted by implication if the necessity continues.[19]

Forfeiture and abandonment.[20]—Where common-law titles prevail, a fee simple cannot be lost by mere abandonment.[21] A forfeiture of title is not favored.[22]

REASONABLE DOUBT; RECEIPTORS, see latest topical index.

RECEIVERS.[23]

§ 1. Nature, Grounds, and Subjects of Receivership (1239).
§ 2. Appointment, Qualification, and Tenure of Receivers (1242).
A. Proceedings for Appointment and Qualification (1242).
B. Who May be Appointed (1243).
C. Tenure of Receiver (1243).

less is immediately merged, that is, sunk or drowned in the greater."

"The general rule at law is that equal estates will not merge in each other, but to this rule are well-established exceptions, and even when estates are theoretically equal the first in order of succession may merge in the next vested remainder. Thus, an estate at will may merge in an estate for years, and estates for years may merge into each other or in estates for life, and estates for life may merge into each other. Boykin v. Ancrum, 28 S. C. 486, 6 S. E. 305, 13 Am. St. Rep. 698. The rule at law is inflexible that when a greater and less estate meet in the same person, without any intermediate estate, the less estate at once merges into the greater. Fox v. Long, 8 Bush [Ky.] 551; Bassett v. O'Brien, 149 Mo. 381, 51 S. W. 107; Welsh v. Phillips, 54 Ala. 309, 25 Am. Rep. 683; James v. Morey, 2 Cow. [N. Y.] 246, 14 Am. Dec. 475; Jackson v. Roberts, 1 Wend. 478; Little v. Bowen, 76 Va. 724. To constitute a merger, it is necessary that the two estates be in one and the same person, at one and the same time, and in one and the same right. Reed v. Latson 15 Barb. 9; Garland v. Pamplin, 32 Grat. [Va.] 305. When two or more titles unite in one person, they are merged at law, and a conveyance of one title by such person passes them all. Logan v. Steele, 7 T. B. Mon. [Ky.] 101."

"A merger as to a portion of the premises, the legal titles to which have become united in the same person, may take place pro tanto, although no union takes place as to the residue. Fox v. Long, 8 Bush [Ky.] 551. Merger never takes place by the greater estate sinking into a smaller estate. If either perishes by merger, it must be the smaller estate. Collamer v. Kelly, 12 Iowa, 325."—From note 99 Am. St. Rep. 153.

16. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, 69 N. E. 97, 99 Am. St. Rep. 145.

NOTE: "The doctrine of merger is never regarded with favor in a court of equity, nor allowed therein, except for special reasons, and to carry out the intention of the parties. Estates in equity are always kept distinct when the interest of either party or a creditor requires it. Clark v. Clark, 56 N. H. 105; Mechanics' Bank v. Edwards, 1 Barb. [N. Y.] 272. Merger is not favored in equity, and if a term for years and the fee meet in the same person, the former will not be merged in the latter, if the continuance of the term is necessary to the protection of the owner of the inheritance though the term would be merged at law. Dougherty v. Jack, 5 Watts [Pa.] 456, 30 Am. Dec. 335. In equity, a merger never takes place, contrary to the intention of the parties or the requirements of justice. Sheldon v. Edwards, 35 N. Y. 279. The doctrine of merger will not be applied by a court of equity to the union of two estates in the same person, when it will conflict with the intention, or be against the interest of such person. Sater v. Hunt, 66 Mo. App. 527. Equity will keep the lesser estate alive, or consider it merged and extinguished as will best serve the purposes of justice and the actual intention of the parties. Goulding v. Bunster, 9 Wis. 466, 513. Equity will, when justice requires, prevent a merger of the legal and equitable estates. Gleason v. Carpenter, 74 Vt. 399, 52 A. 966. Although the well-settled rule at law is that where the equitable and legal estate unite in the same person, the equitable estate is merged in the legal, this does not necessarily follow in equity. Worcester Nat. Bank v. Cheeney, 87 Ill. 602; Cole v. Beale, 89 Ill. App. 427; Hinchman v. Emans, 1 N. J. Eq. 100; Whythe v. Arthur, 17 N. J. Eq. 521. Although the equitable and legal estates unite in the same person, merger thereof will not take place, if he has a beneficial interest in keeping the estates distinct. Lockwood v. Sturdevant, 6 Conn. 373. And a merger of such estates does not take place if justice requires that they shall be kept separate. Earle v. Washburn, 7 Allen [Mass.] 95. A court of chancery will generally relieve from the legal consequences of a merger, where equity requires it. Slocum v. Catlin, 22 Vt. 137."—From note 99 Am. St. Rep. 158.

17. Deed between widow and heirs recognizing her dower and making mutual conveyances subject thereto. Howells v. McGraw, 97 App. Div. 460, 90 N. Y. S. 1.

18. Coon v. Smith, 43 Misc. 112, 88 N. Y. S. 261.

19. Bates v. Sherwood, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 63.

20. Compare Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51; Easements, 3 Curr. L. 1148.

21. Barrett v. Kansas & Tex. Coal Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 150.

§ 3. Title and Rights in and Possession of the Property (1244).
A. Title in General (1244).
B. Rights as Between Receivers, Claimants or Lienors (1244).
C. Possession and Restitution (1245).
§ 4. Administration and Management of the Property (1245).
A. Authority and Powers in General (1245).
B. Payment of Claims Against Receiver or Property (1247). Debts Created by Receiver and Expenses of Administration (1247). Counsel Fees (1247). Procedure to Obtain Payment (1248).
C. Sales by Receiver (1248).
D. Actions by and Against Receivers (1249).
§ 5. Accounting by Receivers (1251).
§ 6. Compensation of Receivers (1251).
§ 7. Liabilities and Actions on Receivership Bonds (1252).
§ 8. Foreign and Ancillary Receivers (1253).

Rules peculiar to receivers of foreign[24] or domestic[25] corporations, and to those appointed in mortgage foreclosure[26] or supplementary[27] proceedings, are treated elsewhere.

§ 1. Nature, grounds, and subjects of receivership.[28]—Proceedings for the appointment of a receiver are ancillary in nature and, as a general rule, the appointment will not be granted in a suit brought solely for that purpose.[29] The appoint-

22. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638.

23. For definition and law on subject see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. ch. 27, p. 479.

24. See Foreign Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 1455.

25. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880.

26. See Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 3 Curr. L. 1438.

27. See Supplementary Proceedings, 2 Curr. L. 1774.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1465.

See Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 460; Clark & M. Corp. § 785 et seq.

29. Smiley v. Sioux Beet Syrup Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 253. Equity will not, on the petition of persons suing in tort, appoint a receiver for a corporation in order to preserve its property and have it ready to turn over to satisfy such judgments as may be obtained in the actions at law. Slover v. Coal Creek Coal Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1131. See 2 Curr. L. 1465, n. 45, 46.

NOTE. Can a suit be maintained solely for the purpose of obtaining the appointment of a receiver: The general and well-nigh universal rule is that receiverships are only provisional, or auxiliary to the main purpose of an action; and that, if the jurisdiction exist to make the appointment of a receiver the chief purpose of the action it is rarely exercised. Villa v. Grand Island, etc. Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 613, 63 L. R. A. 791; State v. Ross [Mo.] 25 S. W. 947, 23 L. R. A. 534; Whitney v. Hanover Nat. Bank [Miss.] 15 So. 33, 23 L. R. A. 531; Wallace v. Pierce Wallace Pub. Co. [Iowa] 70 N. W. 216, 63 Am. St. Rep. 389, 38 L. R. A. 122; French Bank Case, 53 Cal. 495; Jones v. Bank of Leadville, 10 Colo. 465, 17 P. 276; Neall v. Hill, 16 Cal. 145, 76 Am. Dec. 508. The most notable exception to the above rule is the Wabash Case, 29 F. 618. The nature and origin of which is stated in the opinion of Treat, J. to be as follows:

"In order that this matter may not be misunderstood, for it is important in its vast reaching consequences, it should be stated that it was not an application by a mortgagee to foreclose. It was an application by the corporation itself. * * * The application was originally made to myself in this circuit, which is limited in extent. I hesitated. I found that Judge Shipman, a very learned and able judge, had gone over in extenso that class of thought. After further consideration with respect thereto, I reached the conclusion that his views were correct, to wit: 'Here is a vast system extending through many states and through many judicial districts. A default it was certain would have been made in a few days. What should be done? The interests of all concerned required that some judicial action should be had for conservation of these interests—stockholders, bondholders, creditors at large,' etc."

The cases of Miner v. Belle Isle Ice Co. [Mich.] 53 N. W. 218, 17 L. R. A. 412; State v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct. [Mont.] 39 P. 316, 48 Am. St. Rep. 682, 27 L. R. A. 392; Columbia Athletic Club v. State [Ind.] 40 N. E. 914, 52 Am. St. Rep. 407, 28 L. R. A. 727, and Supreme Sitting of the Order of Iron Hall v. Baker [Ind.] 33 N. E. 1128, 20 L. R. A. 210, have sometimes been referred to as falling within the exception, but we hardly think that all of these cases can be so classed. The first was a case where a court of equity assumed jurisdiction to wind up a corporation at the suit of a minority stockholder, and, as incidental thereto, to appoint a receiver with an order for an accounting, where the corporation had utterly failed of its purpose.

The second case cited is nearer the point. The proposition announced in that case was that a receiver of a corporation might be appointed on the application of minority stockholders, pending the investigation of charges of outrageous frauds on the part of the minority stockholders and managers in a suit for an injunction against the negotiation of enforced or fraudulent obligations created by them, and for other relief, although the latter did not extend to the winding up of the corporation.

In Columbian Athletic Club v. State [Ind.] 40 N. E. 914, 52 Am. St. Rep. 407, 28 L. R. A. 727, it appears that a bill was filed for the dissolution of a corporation on the ground that it had forfeited its franchise, and for an injunction to restrain in the meantime the exercise of the franchises claimed and for a receiver to ment of a receiver is a matter resting in the sound discretion of the court.[30] The appointment will not be made unless necessary as a protective measure.[31] Insolvency is generally a sufficient[32] and essential[33] element. The assignee of an assigned estate being discharged, a receiver may be appointed to enforce uncollected accounts.[34] In South Dakota, a judgment debtor refusing to apply unexempt prop-take charge of the property until the further order of the court.

The case of Supreme Sitting of the Order of Iron Hall v. Baker [Ind.] 33 N. E. 1128, 20 L. R. A. 210, went off on a construction of an Indiana statute, and need not be further referred to. There is, however, a valuable note (20 L. R. A. 210-214) appended to this case, containing a large collection of authorities. In this note the annotator recognizes the prevailing doctrine as above stated, but cites certain exceptions thereto, as follows, viz.: That the appointment of a receiver may be made the main purpose of an action when a corporation ceases to exist, or abandons its business, and neglects to elect its officers, and there is no one to administer or care for its effects (citing Smith v. Danzig, 64 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 320; Lawrence v. Greenwich F. Ins. Co., 1 Paige [N. Y.] 587; Crumlish's Adm'r v. Shenandoah Valley R. Co., 28 W. Va. 623; Finney v. Bennett, 27 Grat. [Va.] 365; Buck v. Piedmont & A. L. Ins. Co., 4 Hughes, 415, 4 Fed. 849; Stark v. Burke, 5 La. Ann. 740; St. Louis & S. Coal & Min. Co. v. Edwards, 103 Ill. 472; Consolidated Tank Line Co. v. Kansas City Varnish Co., 43 F. 204); or where there is such a dispute among the members of a governing body as prevents the affairs being carried on properly (citing Featherstone v. Cooke, L. R. 16 Eq. 298; Trade Auxiliary Co. v. Vickers, L. R. 16 Eq. 303; Shepherd v. Oxenford, 1 Kay & J. 491); or for the protection of creditors where there is danger of irreparable loss, and a receiver is necessary to protect their rights (citing Wayne Pike Co. v. Hammons, 129 Ind. 368, 27 N. E. 487; Conro v. Gray, 4 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 166; Sage v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 361, 31 Law. Ed. 694; Kennedy v. St. Paul & P. R. Co., 2 Dill. 448, Fed. Cas. No. 7,706). It has been held that a court of chancery has power to appoint a receiver until administration can be granted, where the right of administration is in litigation, or other impediment exists. Smiley v. Bell, Mart. & Y. [Tenn.] 378, 380, 17 Am. Dec. 813. It has also been held that pending litigation over the probate of a will and during the interval before an executor or administrator is appointed, a court of equity may appoint a receiver of personal property and of the rents and profits of the realty, where there is danger of loss, misuse or misapplication. 23 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] p. 1015, and cases cited; or for the estate of an infant when there is no guardian or trustee (Id. p. 1016); or for the estate of an idiot or lunatic, pending the return or decision upon the inquisition of lunacy (Id.). Thus it appears that, while there are some exceptions, both as respects corporations and the estates of private individuals, to the rule that the appointment of a receiver in equity is merely auxiliary to a pending litigation, and that such action may occasionally be the object of the suit itself, and that as to corporations the power may, under some peculiar states of fact, be invoked in behalf of creditors, yet such creditors must generally be judgment or lien creditors (Wallace v. Pierce-Wallace Pub. Co. [Iowa] 70 N. W. 216, 63 Am. St. Rep. 389, 38 L. R. A. 122; Union Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Union Mills Plaster Co., 37 F. 286, 3 L. R. A. 90, 94; Thomps. Corp. § 6839), or at least creditors by contract (5 Thompson, Corp. § 6840; 2 Morawetz, Corp. §§ 797, 860).—See Slover v. Coal Creek Coal Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1131. See, also, comment in 18 Harv. L. R. 398.

30. Rowland v. Auto Car Co., 133 F. 835. See 2 Curr. L. 1467, n. 76, 77.

31. Where, in a suit by a bankrupt's trustees, it appearing that there is no money in defendant association's possession, and that the latter's claim of set-off might wipe out the indebtedness sued for, held a receiver would not be appointed. Rowland v. Auto Car Co., 133 F. 835. Where plaintiff asked for a sufficient amount of funds in the hands of a sheriff to satisfy his demand, the appointment of a receiver is unnecessary. Hardy v. Pecot [La.] 36 So. 992. Where loan by brewing company to saloonkeeper had been repaid and the latter had been released from an agreement to purchase beer of the former, the company being merely a surety for the saloonkeeper, held company's application for a receiver should be denied. Seattle Brewing & Malting Co. v. Jensen, 36 Wash. 462, 78 P. 1007.

32. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 1302, before its repeal, a judgment creditor of an insolvent corporation, after the return of an execution unsatisfied, was entitled to the appointment of a receiver by application in the original action. Consolidated Barb Wire Co. v. Stevenson [Kan.] 79 P. 1085. A building and loan association is insolvent when its financial condition is such that it is unable to carry to completion the purpose of its creation. Gunley v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417. See 2 Curr. L. 1465, n. 55.

33. A court of equity has no power to appoint a receiver for a solvent concern for the purpose of preventing its creditors from maintaining actions against it. Smiley v. Sioux Beet Syrup Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 253. Where the applicant was neither a creditor nor stockholder. State v. Dearing [Mo.] 84 S. W. 21. Where plaintiff's right to recover was doubtful and defendant was financially responsible held order appointing receiver was too drastic. Stern v. Shapiro, Remick & Co., 99 App. Div. 405, 91 N. Y. S. 249. Dissolution of partnership, appointment denied where existence of partnership was denied and there was no proof that the fund was in danger or the firm or its members insolvent. Rowland v. Auto Car Co., 133 F. 835. See 2 Curr. L. 1465, n. 49.

34. Andrews v. Wilson's Assignees, 26 Ky. L. R. 658, 82 S. W. 391. If the court cannot find a competent person to accept such position, it may assign the duty to the master commissioner. Id.

erty to the satisfaction of the judgment, a receiver may be appointed.[35] A receiver will not be appointed if the party has an adequate remedy at law,[36] or where a temporary injunction,[37] or the giving of a bond[38] will afford complete protection; and, so long as the case is pending, it lies within the discretion of the court to order the strengthening of the bond, or in default thereof, the appointment of a receiver.[39]

The appointment of a receiver pendente lite will only be made, as against one in possession, in a case showing an immediate necessity for preserving some particular property.[40] This rule has been applied to actions to enforce a lien,[41] to recover money obtained by extortion,[42] and to partnership dissolution proceedings.[43] The receiver may be appointed though answer has been served and the defendant is solvent.[44] To warrant the reversal of an order appointing a temporary receiver, the complaint must show that the complainant has no cause of action.[45]

Acquiescence in the appointment of a receiver[46] and the giving of a bond to dissolve the same[47] constitute an admission of the power of the court to make the appointment.

Liability for wrongful appointment.[48]—Persons wrongfully procuring the appointment of a receiver become, after the appointment is judicially declared void, trespassers ab initio, and liable for the damages caused by their wrongful acts,[49] and, in some states, an action to recover such damages may be brought against an executor.[50] It is not necessary that the wrongful appointment be procured maliciously and without probable cause.[51] In such an action the opinion of the supreme court reversing the order of appointment is admissible.[52] The measure of recovery

35. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 102 N. W. 604.

36. In an attack on a fraudulent conveyance held attachment afforded a complete and adequate relief. Booth & Co. v. Mohr & Sons [Ga.] 50 S. E. 173. See 2 Curr. L. 1465, n. 49-51.

37. So held in an action under Code Civ. Proc. § 1781, against the director of a foreign corporation for an accounting and the appointment of a receiver to prevent the threatened disposal of corporate property. Acken v. Coughlin, 92 N. Y. S. 700. See 2 Curr. L. 1465, n. 53.

38. Cordele Ice Co. v. Sims, 120 Ga. 428, 48 S. E. 12. Where, in an action to recover realty, it is alleged that the interests of a guardian are adverse to those of the ward, held error for the court before the trial of the issue to appoint a receiver to take charge of the property and apply the rents to the benefit of the minor. Phillips v. Williams, 26 Ky. L. R. 654, 82 S. W. 379. See 2 Curr. L. 1468, n. 86.

39. Held no abuse of discretion. Cordele Ice Co. v. Sims, 120 Ga. 428, 48 S. E. 12.

40. Belding v. Washington Cornice Co., 36 Wash. 549, 79 P. 37; Lemker v. Kalberlah, 105 Ill. App. 445. Insolvency of the person in possession is not of itself a sufficient ground, at least in case of real estate. Lemker v. Kalberlah, 105 Ill. App. 445.

41. Complaint alleging that one has a lien on certain hay for cutting, stacking and baling the same, and that the owner was wrongfully disposing of such hay and refused to pay the lien, held to warrant the appointment of a receiver pendente lite. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069. Receiver appointed to preserve property pending suit to foreclose certain railroad liens. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 227, construed. Crouch v. Dakota, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 101 N. W. 722.

42. Evidence of payments by old man to prostitute held insufficient to warrant appointment of receiver. Platt v. Elias, 91 N. Y. S. 1079, overruling 44 Misc. 401, 89 N. Y. S. 1015.

43. Receiver appointed where one partner was denied participation in partnership business. Redding v. Anderson [Wash.] 79 P. 628. See Partnership, 4 Curr. L. 908.

44. Receiver to preserve lien. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

45. That it is defective and subject to demurrer is insufficient. Belding v. Washington Cornice Co., 36 Wash. 549, 79 P. 37.

46. Failure of one to object to the appointment of a receiver, or if his objection is overruled, to prosecute an appeal, prevents his questioning its propriety upon the final hearing of the cause. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263. Attorney for insurance company agreeing to the appointment of a receiver, held the company was bound by order appointing receivers. Monumental Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Wilkinson [Md.] 59 A. 125.

47. Booth & Co. v. Mohr & Sons [Ga.] 50 S. E. 173.

48. See Malicious Prosecution, etc., § 1B, 4 Curr. L. 470.

49. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10.

50. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2733, providing that any person may sue an executor or administrator of a decedent who in his lifetime wasted, destroyed, or converted the goods of plaintiff. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10.

51, 52. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10.

is largely affected by statutes,[53] and the amount of a good and collectible account which was lost by reason of the receivership may be shown as an item of damage.[54] Plaintiff not claiming interest, prospective profits, nor exemplary damages, allegations in the complaint concerning the extent of the business and malice and fraud of defendant will be treated as surplusage.[55]

§ 2. Appointment, qualification, and tenure of receivers. A. Proceedings for appointment and qualification.[56]—Statutory provisions respecting corporation[57] and bankruptcy[58] receivers must be followed. The court must have jurisdiction over the property affected.[59] The courts of a state have jurisdiction to appoint a receiver to preserve the assets of a foreign corporation whose principal place of business is within the state,[60] but the order of appointment should be limited to property within the state.[61] Courts generally have not the power in vacation to render the appointment of a receiver permanent.[62] The court first appointing a receiver has exclusive jurisdiction.[63] Generally, notice of the application is essential,[64] though this requirement may be waived by appearance.[65] That a discharged receiver who never took charge or control of any property was appointed without notice is immaterial.[66] Creditors of the insolvent, while proper, are not necessary parties.[67] One alleging irreparable injury must allege facts showing same.[68] In some states a receiver is required to give a bond.[69] Creditors stipulating for the conditional waiver of their

53. The measure of damages is defined by Civ. Code, §§ 4270, 4330, 4333, and 4334. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10. Under Civ. Code, §§ 4333, 4334, the fact that accounts and bills belonging to a corporation were taken under attachment to satisfy the corporation's indebtedness does not affect the measure of the corporation's damages for the wrongful receivership. Id.

54. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10. Evidence of loss of account by limitations held admissible though no action had been brought to collect it. Id.

55. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1468.

Form of order of appointment, see Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 471, 472. For requisites and form of bill, see §§ 462, 463.

57. Under P. L. p. 58, the ordering of a statutory injunction is a condition precedent. Gallagher v. Asphalt Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 403. Under Corporation Act, § 66, providing for the summary appointment of a receiver, a mere restraining order or preliminary writ of injunction, limited in its operation, is insufficient to authorize the appointment of a receiver. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelt. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880.

58. See Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434.

59. Court having sole power to determine validity of will has no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver. Burgess v. Sullivant, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 327.

60. Reusens v. Manufacturing & Selling Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1010. Bill by stockholder alleging that entire control had been given over to one director, that the corporation's principal place of business was within the state, as were its books and assets, and alleging waste and unlawful payments held not demurrable. Id.

61. Action for an accounting and the appointment of a receiver under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1781, 1788. Acken v. Coughlin, 92 N. Y. S. 700. See 2 Curr. L. 1468, n. 92. See topic Foreign Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 1455.

62. Order to show cause held void. State v. Dearing [Mo.] 84 S. W. 21.

63. A state court will not appoint a corporate receiver to bring suit against stockholders where a Federal receiver has been previously appointed, no application having been made to the Federal court to permit the filing of a bill and use of the Federal receiver's name to enforce the stockholder's liability. Gallagher v. Asphalt Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 403. The same rights to property in the hands of a receiver in one court cannot be taken jurisdiction of in a new suit in another court. Harper v. Printing-Telegraph News Co., 128 F. 979. See 2 Curr. L. 1468, n. 96.

64. See State v. Dearing [Mo.] 84 S. W. 21. Necessity and form of notice, see Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 467, 468.

65. Consolidated Barb Wire Co. v. Stevenson [Kan.] 79 P. 1085. [In this case the court states that it is doubtful if any notice was necessary under Gen. St. 1901, § 1302; this section has since been repealed.]

66. Wilkie v. Reynolds [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 179.

67. That defendant's answer was sufficient to overcome the evidence, that the court was not justified in finding the fraud and mismanagement charged in the bill, and that other persons alleged to have been indebted to the corporation ought to have been made parties does not affect the jurisdiction of the court to appoint a receiver for the corporation. Town of Vandalia v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 209 Ill. 73, 70 N. E. 662.

In the New Jersey summary proceedings under Corporation Act, § 66, others besides the corporation and its stockholders are not proper parties. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Min. & Smelt. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

68. Union Boom Co. v. Samish Boom Co., 33 Wash. 144, 74 P. 53.

69. The purpose of Code 1896, §§ 801, 802, claims if a receiver would be appointed are bound thereby, the court granting their request.[70] A receiver dying before the completion of his trust, a successor will be appointed.[71] The court having jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter, the regularity[72] or necessity[73] of the appointment cannot be collaterally attacked, and it has been held that an appointment by a court of general jurisdiction is not subject to collateral attack on the ground that the court did not have jurisdiction of the insolvent.[74] In the absence of statutory provisions an order appointing a receiver is not appealable.[75] Where an adequate supersedeas bond was given pending an appeal from an order of appointment, the receiver will not be reinstated on affirmance, but the bond will be allowed to stand as security.[76]

(§ 2) B. Who may be appointed.[77]—The discretion of an inferior court in the selection of a receiver should not be interfered with unless objections of the most serious character are shown, or some fatal objection on principle in the person named.[78] The mere fact that one was formerly an officer and director[79] or a creditor of and stockholder in[80] the insolvent corporation, and that he is related to some of the parties in interest,[81] or that he is attorney for a party,[82] is not of itself sufficient to disqualify him.

(§ 2) C. Tenure of receiver.[83]—The distinctions between the vacating of the appointment and the removal and the discharge of the receiver should be kept in mind.[84] The receivership must be terminated by a formal order of the court.[85] requiring a bond on the appointment of a receiver, with condition to pay all damages sustained by the appointment if it is vacated, is to afford indemnity to those who suffer damage by reason of the appointment of the receiver and avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the statutes to have the appointment vacated. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263. Receiver's bond and form thereof, see Fletcher's Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 475, 476.

70. Gibson v. Standard Automatic Gas Engine Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 799.

71. In re Townsend, 44 Misc. 415, 89 N. Y. S. 1012.

72. Gunby v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417. Statutory requirements being substantially complied with. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 102 N. W. 604.

73. Bowman v. Hazen [Kan.] 77 P. 589.

74. Blue Mountain Iron & Steel Co. v. Portner [C. C. A.] 131 F. 57.

75. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263; Town of Vandalia v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 209 Ill. 73, 70 N. E. 662. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 226, c. 22, § 52, an order appointing a receiver cannot be reviewed by the supreme court on a subsequent appeal from a different interlocutory order prior to the rendition of final judgment. Id. Considered by itself the order appointing a corporation receiver in a summary proceeding as authorized by Corporation Act, § 66, is an interlocutory order. Pierce v. Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 319.

Statutory changes: Code 1896, §§ 429, 800. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263. Code, art. 5, § 25. Monumental Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Wilkinson [Md.] 59 A. 125.

76. Oudin & B. Fire Clay Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Conlan [Wash.] 80 P. 283.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1469.

See Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 461.

78. In re Eckhardt Mfg. Co. [La.] 38 So. 78.

79. Appointment was opposed by a small minority, and even they did not deny his fitness for the position. Bowling Green Trust Co. v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 133 F. 186. See 2 Curr. L. 1470, n. 24.

80. In re Eckhardt Mfg. Co. [La.] 38 So. 78.

81. Bowling Green Trust Co. v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 133 F. 186.

82. While the attorney of a party will not usually be appointed, such an appointment will not be disturbed unless there is a showing of personal unfitness. Fisher v. Southern Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1470.

84. To "vacate" the appointment is to set aside the order of appointment because improvidently made, the motion for which is based on the circumstances and conditions attending the appointment. The term "remove" as applied to a receiver means simply a change in the personnel of the receivership, which remains unaffected. The effect of the removal is only to substitute one person for another in the office. The cause of the removal of a receiver is some personal objection to him. The "discharge" of a receiver relates to the termination of the receivership, and is asked and ordered for the reason that, because of the state of the suit, there is no longer any necessity for continuing the receiver. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263.

A final decree on the merits, dismissing complainant's bill, does not operate to vacate the appointment of a receiver appointed in the action, within the meaning of Code 1896, § 801, providing for an action on the applicant's bond upon the "vacation" of the receivership. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263.

85. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263. Decree of dismissal held insufficient to ipso facto discharge receiver. Id. Removal and discharge of receivers, law and forms, see Fletcher's Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 479-482.

Any creditor may of his own motion, and without bringing in other creditors or the original parties to the suit, petition the court to set aside its order of discharge.[86] The overruling of a motion to set aside a discharge will not bar a proper application by petition.[87] A creditor moving to set aside a receivership, the issues formed are much broader than if he had appealed from the order of appointment.[88] A receiver cannot individually complain of an order of removal,[89] though he can of an order sustaining an application to set aside his discharge.[90] A receiver being appointed pending a suit, whether or not a discharge follows the termination of the suit depends upon the exigencies of the case.[91] The setting aside of an order of discharge lies in the discretion of the court.[92] No appeal lies from an order removing or discharging[93] or refusing to remove or discharge[94] the receiver, though an appeal from an order discharging him has been recognized.[95]

§ 3. Title and rights in and possession of the property. A. Title in general.[96]—A receiver is merely a custodian for those who may be found entitled to the property; he is entitled to possession, but his appointment extinguishes no titles.[97] The order of appointment cannot affect vested rights.[98] Orders purporting to vest the receiver with the authority and control of property and funds not involved in the litigation in which the receiver was appointed are absolutely void,[99] and the receiver taking such property without the consent and contrary to the wishes of the owner, he and all co-operating with him are trespassers, and are liable for the property and funds so wrongfully taken with interest,[1] and that the use was beneficial to the wronged party is no defense.[2]

(§ 3) B. Rights as between receivers, claimants or lienors. Receivers.[3]—A state court having first acquired the right of control of the property, the receiver of a Federal court taking possession of the same must surrender it to the receiver of the state court who is subsequently appointed.[4]

Claimants or lienors.[5]—In the absence of statutory provisions[6] a receiver takes the property subject to all valid and existing liens thereon at the time of his appointment.[7] The registry of a judgment after the appointment of a receiver produces no legal effect.[8]

86, 87. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277.

88. In re Eckhardt Mfg. Co. [La.] 38 So. 78.

89. State v. Interstate Fisheries Co., 36 Wash. 80, 78 P. 202.

90. See Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277, where, although the question was not discussed, an appeal by a receiver from such an order was recognized.

91. Receiver being appointed pending an appeal from an order removing an executrix, held reversal of order and entry of judgment on appeal did not ipso facto discharge the receiver. In re Kayser's Estate [Minn.] 100 N. W. 214.

92. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277.

93. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263.

94. Pagett v. Brooks, 140 Ala. 257, 37 So. 263; Monumental Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Wilkinson [Md.] 59 A. 125.

95. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277. In this case the appeal was from an application to set aside the order of discharge and, while the court did not discuss the validity of the appeal, it held that the discretion of the trial court in the matter would not be disturbed. Id.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1470.

Receiver's title and possession, see Fletcher's Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 477.

97. Commonwealth v. Overholt, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

98. Where in foreclosure proceedings receiver was appointed to collect rents held not to affect rights of tenant who had paid rent in advance. Thorpe v. Mindeman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 417.

99. May be collaterally attacked. Bowman v. Hazen [Kan.] 77 P. 589.

1, 2. Bowman v. Hazen [Kan.] 77 P. 589.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1471.

4. Louisville Trust Co. v. Knott [C. C. A.] 130 F. 820.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1471.

Mode of asserting claims against a receiver. Fletcher's Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 478.

6. Mortgagees, bondholders and lienors of a New Jersey corporation take subject to the effect of insolvency proceedings which may be subsequently commenced, and in which a receiver may be appointed of all corporate assets. Lembeck v. Jarvis Terminal Cold Storage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 565.

7. Attachment lien. Bories v. Union Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 141 Cal. 74, 74 P. 552. Receiver's certificates for expenses cannot be so issued as to disturb existing liens.

(§ 3) C. Possession and restitution.[9]—The possession of a receiver not being essential to the protection of creditors, it will not be protected so as to wrongfully deprive a third party of the possession of his property.[10] A petition for an order on a receiver to turn over certain property to petitioners is simply an application for incidental administrative relief, and is not adapted to the determination of substantive issues.[11] All persons affected by the proceedings should be made parties.[12] Receivers are not entitled to appeal from an order ordering them to deliver over property if such order does not affect the estate or the receivers personally,[13] though it is otherwise as to parties affected by the decisions.[14] Where, as between the receiver and an attaching creditor, the right to the possession of the debtor's property depends on the latter's solvency, the question may be raised by an order to show cause issued to the sheriff and attaching creditor.[15] A tenant not a party to foreclosure proceedings is not guilty of contemptuous interference with the receiver's possession in refusing to attorn to him.[16]

§ 4. Administration and management of the property. A. Authority and powers in general.[17]—A receiver is an officer of the court appointing him,[18] and through him the court has possession of the property, though its custody is temporary only and for the purpose of conserving the property, if not sold, until the creditors are paid.[19] The power of a receiver is limited by the terms of his appointment,[20] and his duties are generally wholly of an administrative character.[21] In administering a receivership trust, the ordinary advisory orders may properly be granted ex parte, and the fact that they are so granted is not evidence tending to show infidelity on the part of the receiver.[22] A misstatement of facts by fraud, negligence or mistake, included in a petition for judicial advice, reasonably calculated to influence action to the prejudice of creditors and which has that effect,

Fisher v. Southern Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592.

8. In re Immanuel Presbyterian Church, 112 La. 348, 36 So. 408.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1472.

10. Where in dispute between husband and wife as to which was lessee of premises, husband was appointed receiver, held, no creditors being involved, the landlord was entitled to possession, there having been a failure to pay rent. Foster v. Foster, 98 App. Div. 24, 90 N. Y. S. 451.

11. The only question to be determined is whether the petitioners have shown such title to the property, that the court ought, in justice, to direct the receiver to turn it over to them. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Mill. & Export Co., 135 F. 146. In such a case subscribers to an underwriting agreement which has been assigned as collateral to the petitioner cannot set up defenses on the merits, to the enforcement of the agreement against them. Id.

12. Prayer by one holding an underwriting agreement as collateral security to have receivers turn over stock of insolvent corporation so that it could enforce such agreement against the subscribers will not be granted until the latter are made parties. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Mill. & Export Co., 135 F. 144.

13. Where one holding an underwriting agreement as collateral sued the receiver for stock admittedly worthless, in order that he might enforce the agreement against the subscribers, held the receiver could not appeal. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Mill. & Export Co., 135 F. 151.

14. Where one holding an underwriting agreement as collateral sued the receiver for stock in order that he might enforce the agreement against the subscribers, held, latter could appeal. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Mill. & Export Co., 135 F. 151.

15. State v. Superior Court of King County, 36 Wash. 91, 78 P. 461.

16. American Mortg. Co. v. Sire, 92 N. Y. S. 1082.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1472.

18. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698. Common pleas court is without jurisdiction over receivers appointed by the probate court to take care of property involved in common pleas suit. American Engineering Specialty Co. v. O'Brien, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 550.

19. Receivers being appointed in creditors' suits against lessor and lessee, court has no power to compel lessor to execute a new lease materially differing from the old. Guaranty Trust Co. v. North Chicago St. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 801.

20. Judgment creditor suing to have a fraudulent transfer by his debtor set aside and having a receiver appointed to sell the lands and apply the proceeds to the indebtedness, such receiver takes no title to the real estate, nor acquires any rights in the land for the benefit of creditors generally. Hillyer v. Le Roy [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 237.

21. Corporate receiver. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

22. Such advisory orders are usually ex parte. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

is a sufficient ground in the same jurisdiction to support an application by such creditors, seasonably made while the court has control of the matter, for relief.[23] Oral evidence as to judicial advice in the administration of a receivership matter is not necessarily to be rejected or condemned as false.[24]

Receivers represent their principals and have no greater rights than they have.[25] A corporate receiver is the representative of creditors, the corporation and stockholders.[26]

A receiver may never speculate with trust property,[27] but, subject to the approval of the court, he may properly burden his trust fund with expenses of converting into money choses in action or other property in which he has only an equitable title, creditors of the insolvent having the property as collateral, though no surplus is obtainable therefrom, if, under the circumstances, that seemed for the best interests of general creditors.[28] A receiver acting in good faith may properly conserve an equity belonging to the trust at his own expense, where the court with knowledge of the facts will not permit the trust fund to be burdened to save it,[29] and when he so acts he has an equitable lien upon the property conserved for the amount of his reasonable expenditures, any profits obtained to inure to the trust fund.[30] Receivers are allowed a reasonable time to determine and elect whether they will assume any of the corporation's executory contracts.[31] They may properly be allowed to finish uncompleted contracts of the insolvent, when that, at the time of action in regard thereto, seems for the best interests of general creditors,[32] but the court will not as of course order them to complete unfinished contracts of the insolvent unless necessary to save investments already made, or save encumbered property, and such completion is clearly required in the interests of general creditors.[33] Where the business requires the attention of an expert, the receiver may in certain cases employ one of the parties to the suit.[34]

23, 24. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

25. Fitzner v. Noullet [La.] 38 So. 94. Receiver of a firm seeking to rescind a contract of purchase entered into by the firm occupies the same position as the firm, or rather its members, would have done. City of Ironwood v. Wickes, 93 App. Div. 164, 87 N. Y. S. 554. A contract being nonassignable, a receiver of one of the parties thereto cannot transfer it so as to confer rights on the transferee. Sargent Glass Co. v. Matthews Land Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 474.

26. Directors diverting the assets of the company to themselves while the corporation was solvent, the receiver may sue them for an accounting Hayes v. Pierson, 65 N. J. Eq. 353, 58 A. 728. May inquire into actions of the directors to the same extent that stockholders might do. Id. As representative of the corporation is entitled to recover funds to defray expenses of receivership from directors who have diverted assets of corporation to themselves. Id. One agreeing to pay a certain sum when and as required by the directors, a receiver levying the assessment may recover the same. French v. Millville Mfg. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 214. But see Clark & M. Corp. § 820, for receiver's right to enforce stockholder's liability. The receiver of a corporation is the proper party to sue stockholders of an insolvent corporation to recover corporate money fraudulently divided among them. Mitchell v. Jordan, 36 Wash. 645, 79 P. 311. A receiver of an insolvent corporation in a creditors' action to administer its affairs for their benefit is a trustee of corporate assets in the right of the corporation for such creditors, and for the latter in their right as to all liabilities to which they may properly resort as a class, not enforceable by the corporation. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. The interests of creditors of an insolvent corporation holding valid securities is not adverse to the interests of the receiver or general creditors, the property which is the basis of the security being in the receiver's hands. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1473, n. 83, 84.

27, 28, 29, 30. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

31. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932. Where within 41 days receivers of railroad paid rent which had matured before their appointment, which rent the lessor accepted, held lease would not be forfeited, even though notice to that effect had been given. Id.

32. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

33. In other cases the court and its receivers act according to their judgment of the probabilities as to general interests. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Where a manufacturing business with stock, partly built machinery and partly performed contracts, was placed in the hands of a receiver, and investments had been made on such contracts, and contract liabilities assigned as security, and the court ordered a temporary continuance of the busi-

(§ 4) B. Payment of claims against receiver or property.[35]—A receiver being required[36] to pay "all sums due employes," he must pay wages earned both prior and subsequent to his appointment.[37]

Debts created by receiver and expenses of administration.[38]—As a general rule the expenses of the receivership are to be satisfied out of the property or funds coming into the hands of the receiver,[39] and property which should not have been brought within the jurisdiction or taken possession of by a receiver should not be appropriated to the payment of the expenses of the receivership.[40] In such cases the receiver must look for his compensation to the portion of the fund which was properly brought within his jurisdiction, or, if there is no such fund, then to the plaintiff on whose application the receivership was secured.[41] The receivership of a corporation being necessary for the conservation of several funds, the expense should be borne by the whole in proportion, as regards the different interests, to the benefits received.[42] The object being to preserve the property pending a determination of the rights of the parties to the litigation with reference to such property or the proceeds thereof, the successful party, availing himself of the fruits of the litigation, must take subject to the costs of the receivership.[43] But this rule is properly applied only where the contest is as to the disposition of the proceeds of the property or funds, and not where it is as to the regularity or legality for the proceedings for the appointment of the receiver.[44] In the latter case the appointment being resisted and the result showing that it was erroneous, the expenses of the receivership should be charged to the party at whose instance the receiver was appointed;[45] but in no case can such expenses be satisfied out of the property or funds as against an intervener asserting and establishing his right to the property in hostility to the entire receivership proceeding.[46] A receiver collecting from a stockholder in the insolvent corporation more than is necessary to pay the debts and costs of administration, and to equalize the rights and liabilities of stockholders, he is bound to return the excess.[47]

The power to issue receiver's certificates rests largely in the discretion of the court, and in the absence of an abuse of this discretion, the exercise of the power will not be reversed on appeal.[48] They will issue in order that the receiver may bring an authorized suit to obtain property belonging to the insolvent.[49]

Counsel fees.[50]—A receiver is entitled as a matter of right to the benefit of ness, giving the receiver power to borrow for the purpose, on the credit of the trust fund, held, the court's order impliedly authorized the receiver, when in his judgment the general interests so demanded, to complete the contracts. Id.

34. Where it required a skilled man to run the business and such men were unavailable, held, the employment by the receiver of one of the parties to the suit, and the salary paid him, were justified, and the amounts so paid were properly allowed in the receiver's account. Oudin & B. Fire Clay Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Cole, 35 Wash. 647, 77 P. 1066.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1474.

36. Parties consenting to jurisdiction and making no objection to appointment of receiver or decree, held receiver could not refuse to pay wages, none exceeding $300 in amount. Dickinson v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 129 F. 16.

37. Dickinson v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 129 F. 16.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1475.

39, 40, 41. Frick v. Fritz, 124 Iowa, 529, 100 N. W. 513.

42. In re Immanuel Presbyterian Church, 113 La. 911, 37 So. 873.

43. It is immaterial whether the plaintiff has succeeded in asserting his rights in aid of which the receivership has been asked, or whether defendant has established the invalidity of defendant's claims. Frick v. Fritz, 124 Iowa, 529, 100 N. W. 513.

44, 45. Frick v. Fritz, 124 Iowa, 529, 100 N. W. 513.

46. Chattel mortgagees. Frick v. Fritz, 124 Iowa, 529, 100 N. W. 513.

47. In re New Iberia Cotton Mills Co., 113 La. 404, 37 So. 8.

48. Town of Vandalia v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 209 Ill. 73, 70 N. E. 662. See 2 Curr. L. 1474, n. 97.

49. Town of Vandalia v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 209 Ill. 73, 70 N. E. 662.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1476.

counsel when the nature of the trust requires it,[51] and it is for the court to determine both the necessity for counsel and the compensation to be allowed therefor.[52] Expenses allowed a receiver for legal assistance are such as are reasonably necessary, assuming proper discharge by the receiver of his personal duties, the amount paid the attorney being at the rate ordinarily paid for similar services in official life.[53] Order awarding counsel fees should run to the receiver rather than to the attorney.[54] Where a receiver pays an attorney the sum allowed by the court for his services, there is an implied promise to repay any excess should the allowance be reduced by a subsequent adjudication, and hence interest on such excess runs from the time of payment.[55] A general attorney for a receiver rendering services of a general and continuous character need not keep an itemized account thereof, as the court customarily allows such sum as is reasonable for the services performed.[56] The court having personal knowledge as to the extent of the attorney's services, it is not necessary that it should hear evidence respecting the amount it should allow.[57] The order of appointment being void, an order awarding counsel fees is void.[58] Receivers' counsel fees are not "costs" within the meaning of statutory provisions on the latter subject.[59] Legal services rendered a secured creditor are not inconsistent with such services rendered at the same time for the receiver.[60]

Procedure to obtain payment.[61]

(§ 4) C. Sales by receiver.[62]—The judgment of sale is not subject to collateral attack because made in a suit other than that in which the receiver was appointed and to which the receivership had not been extended,[63] and the parties treating the receivership as extended, the sale is valid.[64] In the absence of a showing of great injustice, mere inadequacy of price[65] is of itself insufficient to warrant a refusal to confirm the sale.[66] Confirmation being refused for mere inadequacy of price the applicants for a resale will be required to give some security or assurance that at such resale a higher purchase price will be bid for the property.[67] A sale will not be confirmed where the terms show an intent to stifle competition,[68] or where the court has not been fairly dealt with.[69] A provision in the

51. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

52. Receiver cannot make any contract in this regard that will be binding on the court. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

53. The court will consider the time consumed, the grade of service required, efficiency of that rendered, results accomplished, fidelity to trust, and all other enlightening circumstances. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Attorney's services being constantly sought for a considerable period of time, an allowance of $150 held reasonable. Ondin & B. Fire Clay Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Cole, 35 Wash. 647, 77 P. 1066.

54. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537. See 2 Curr. L. 1476, n. 32.

55. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

56. The amount allowed should depend on results accomplished, though a reasonable expense account may also be allowed. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

57. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

58. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537.

59. Within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 1038, providing that costs against the state must be paid out of the state treasury. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537.

60. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

61, 62. See 2 Curr. L. 1476.

63, 64. Gila Bend Reservoir & Irrigation Co. v. Gila Water Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 990.

65. A bid being less than one-half of the value of the property at forced sale, as estimated by a competent expert, it is inadequate. Strickland v. National Salt Co., 43 Misc. 172, 88 N. Y. S. 323.

66, 67. Porch v. Agnew Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 726.

68. In view of the fact that a new corporation was a majority stockholder in the insolvent one, held terms of sale, providing that property should be offered in parcels and then as a whole, and if the price bid at the latter offer exceeded the aggregate price bid for the parcels, the property should be struck off to the bidder for the whole, must be regarded as stifling competition. Strickland v. National Salt Co., 43 Misc. 172, 88 N. Y. S. 323.

69. Confirmation refused where order of sale was obtained without disclosing to the court a prior order for the same relief. Strickland v. National Salt Co., 43 Misc. 172, 88 N. Y. S. 323.

terms of sale being applicable to only one person, it shows a design to favor such person.[70] Superior liens being discharged by a sale, the court, when confirmation is asked, will consider the equities of such lienholders.[71] The property being sold in bulk and title to a portion failing, the purchaser is entitled to a reduction in the purchase price equal to the amount that the price was enhanced by the inclusion of such property; such sum to be ascertained by finding what proportion its actual value is to the value of the whole property sold.[72] The appointment of the receiver and the order authorizing the sale being reversed on appeal, the purchaser becomes an involuntary trustee for the alleged insolvent and the receiver occupies the same relation towards the purchaser,[73] and the alleged insolvent by taking such appeal is deemed to elect to have the property restored to him or applied to his benefit,[74] and the fact that it is applied to the payment of his debts does not prevent the purchaser from recovering the purchase price.[75] An order of court directing a party to convey to the purchaser the property to which he holds title does not require him to warrant such title.[76] The general rules of construction apply to recitals in the judgment of sale.[77] Objection that sale should be conducted by the sheriff and not by the receiver should be made by an attack on the decree, and not on the order confirming the sale.[78]

(§ 4) D. Actions by and against receivers.[79]—In the absence of statutory authority, a receiver cannot bring a suit without first obtaining leave to so do from the court appointing him;[80] failure to obtain such leave is not, however, a jurisdictional defect,[81] and the order granting such leave may be entered nunc pro tunc.[82] A receiver in one state cannot maintain suit in the courts of other states as a matter of absolute right, but the courts of other states may in the exercise of their sound discretion, as a matter of fact or comity, permit such receiver to bring and maintain such suits.[83] This doctrine of comity is almost universally applied, except in the single exception where some well established right of a citizen of the state intervenes.[84] A receiver being a nonresident, the appointment of a resident as his successor destroys diversity of citizenship.[85] A corporation being continued, after dissolution, for the purposes of suits by and against it, a receiver thereof, being authorized, may sue in the name of the corporation.[86]

70. Strickland v. National Salt Co., 43 Misc. 172, 88 N. Y. S. 323.

71. Porch v. Agnew [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 726.

72. Cypress Lumber & Shingle Co. v. Tillar [Ark.] 84 S. W. 490.

73. Civ. Code, §§ 2958, 2959 construed. Lutey v. Clark [Mont.] 77 P. 305.

74. Lutey v. Clark [Mont.] 77 P. 305. Otherwise might sue for damages for conversion. Id. Applying the property to judgments recovered against the alleged insolvent constitutes an application of the property to his benefit. Id.

75. Lutey v. Clark [Mont.] 77 P. 305.

76. Cypress Lumber & Shingle Co. v. Tillar [Ark.] 84 S. W. 490.

77. Judgment of sale reciting that it was made by the agreement of all stockholders, both in their individual and corporate capacities, it should be construed that the corporation entered its appearance and was bound by the order of sale. McNeill v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1145.

78. Crouch v. Dakota, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 101 N. W. 722.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1477.

80. Hubert v. New Orleans [C. C. A.] 130 F. 21. Receiver having authority to demand and receive sums due, held not authority to sue therefor. Id. Averment in complaint in an action by a foreign receiver "that he brings this action by order of said court," held sufficient, after verdict, to show his authority. Minnich v. Swing [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 271. See 2 Curr. L. 1477, n. 59.

81. Is not a bar to the jurisdiction of a court of law and no defense to an otherwise legal action. Manker v. Phoenix Loan Ass'n, 124 Iowa, 341, 100 N. W. 38.

82. De La Fleur v. Barney, 45 Misc. 515, 92 N. Y. S. 926.

83. Special receiver to whom securities had been assigned allowed to maintain suit thereon in Federal court in another state. Lewis v. Clark [C. C. A.] 129 F. 570.

84. Lewis v. Clark [C. C. A.] 129 F. 570.

85. A receiver being a nonresident and his authority to sue in the Federal court being annulled, the Federal court has no authority to permit the continuance of the suit by a resident who was appointed such receiver's successor. Hubert v. New Orleans [C. C. A.] 130 F. 21.

86. Writ of error. Laws of Michigan construed. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

A receiver can be sued only in the court of appointment,[87] though this rule has been modified by statute so far as the Federal courts are concerned, by permitting a receiver appointed by those courts to be sued in another jurisdiction in cases where his act is drawn in question in transactions connected with the property in his hands.[88] It rests in the discretion of the court whether it will permit an independent action to be brought against the receiver or compel the applicant to intervene in the suit in which the receiver was appointed, and such discretion will not be interfered with unless manifestly abused.[89] The general rule that one must obtain leave to sue a receiver does not seem to apply to suits respecting property of which the receiver is in neither actual nor constructive possession.[90] The statute allowing Federal receivers to be sued without leave in respect to their "acts or transactions" does not authorize suit without leave to condemn a grade crossing over property in the receiver's hands.[91] In granting leave to sue a receiver, the court may specify the forum in which such suit shall be brought.[92] Leave to sue a receiver improvidently granted may be modified or revoked.[93] Failure to obtain leave is a mere irregularity not going to the jurisdiction,[94] and in a collateral proceeding it will be presumed that leave was granted where the suit was in the court which appointed the receiver.[95] A Federal court appointing an ancillary receiver, a bill by the latter to foreclose a mortgage on property within the district is within its jurisdiction without regard to the citizenship of the parties or the amount in controversy.[96] No person can bring an action against a corporation after a receiver has been appointed, without the consent of court, but, in the absence of an injunction or legislative provision to the contrary, actions pending at the time of the appointment of the receiver can go on to judgment even without making the latter a party.[97] It is the privilege of the receiver to be substituted for the corporation, if he so desires, and makes application for that purpose.[98] The receiver is a necessary party to a suit by a creditor to have the former turn over property in the possession of the corporation, which suit is contested by a judgment creditor.[99] A receiver voluntarily appearing and submitting to the jurisdiction of the court, it will be presumed that he is authorized to defend,[1] and he cannot thereafter question the jurisdiction of the court.[2] A receiver will not be required to file security for costs merely on the ground of insolvency; it is necessary to show that the action was brought in bad faith, or that plaintiff will probably not succeed.[3] No action can be maintained against a receiver, as such, after his discharge.[4] A complaint against a receiver to recover a trust fund must allege that such fund came into the hands of the receiver.[5]

87. See Coster v. Parkersburg Branch R. Co., 131 F. 115.

88. Above act held not to apply to a suit against the receiver of a railroad by another railroad to condemn a grade crossing. Coster v. Parkersburg Branch R. Co., 131 F. 115.

89. Stephens v. Augusta Tel. & Elec. Co., 120 Ga. 1082, 48 S. E. 433.

90. A receiver loaning money on property in a state other than the one of his appointment, the borrower on paying the loan is entitled to bring an action against the receiver to cancel an unsatisfied mortgage given as security, without obtaining leave of the court appointing the receiver. Egan v. North American Sav., Loan & Bldg. Co. [Or.] 76 P. 774. See 2 Curr. L. 1477, n. 61-63. An action to recover deposits will not lie against a bank receiver appointed at the instance of creditors, the remedy is by petition in the original action. Crutchfield v. Hunter [N. C.] 50 S. E. 557.

91. U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 582. Buckhannon & N. R. Co. v. Davis, 135 F. 707.

92, 93. Buckhannon & N. R. Co. v. Davis [C. C. A.] 135 F. 707.

94, 95. Payson v. Jacobs [Wash.] 80 P. 429.

96. Gunley v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417.

97, 98, 99. Cooper v. Philadelphia Worsted Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 733.

1, 2. Manker v. Phoenix Loan Ass'n, 124 Iowa, 341, 100 N. W. 38.

3. De La Fleur v. Barney, 45 Misc. 515, 92 N. Y. S. 926.

4. Ansley v. McLoud [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 908.

5. Allegation that it went to increase the assets of the insolvent bank held sufficient.

§ 5. Accounting by receivers.[6]—It is the duty of a receiver to transact his business in such a manner, and to keep his books and vouchers in such shape, that he may be ready for examination at any time,[7] and a court, within the boundaries of judicial discretion, may make its own rules as regards the time and manner in which its receiver's account shall be examined and passed upon.[8] A receiver pendente lite, continuing in office after the termination of the action, cannot deny the jurisdiction of the court to call him to account for his acts in connection with the trust.[9] Whenever the order of appointment is reversed, it becomes the receiver's duty to immediately render his final report and demand his formal discharge.[10] Although not required by statute, a court has the inherent power to require the giving of a notice of the filing of a final report or of the time fixed for the hearing thereof.[11] Such notice is insufficient if not directed to anyone or signed by anyone.[12] Order fixing the time for hearing on a receiver's final report and for publication of notice thereof has no force or validity until entered of record.[13] In some states the filing of the report and the rendition of such orders must be noted on the motion docket.[14] In the absence of opposition, the account of the receiver is presumed to be correct, and it may be confirmed upon the testimony of the receiver.[15] Expenses of a receiver in the settlement of his account, caused by creditors contesting matters in respect thereto, which he reasonably incurs, may properly be allowed to him as legitimate charges against the trust fund.[16] Items of expense not accompanied by sworn vouchers cannot be allowed.[17] Matters which could have been urged against the decree of insolvency are concluded thereby and cannot be made the subject of objections to the receiver's report.[18] The receiver should not be discharged until it appears whether all the debts have been paid and whether all collectible assets have been realized.[19]

§ 6. Compensation of receivers.[20]—The compensation allowed a receiver must be reasonable, and the amount thereof is not increased because he is employed by the court,[21] and, in the absence of statutory provisions,[22] the amount allowed is governed by the subject-matter of the administration, the care exercised, the degree of success attained, the manner of the accounting, and all other considera-

Oswego Milling Co. v. Skillern [Ark.] 84 S W. 475.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1478.

7. Hickey v. Parrot Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

8. A reference of an account is not governed by statutes or rules regarding references of actions for trial. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. So the court may discharge his referee, and may himself consider the account, in the light of proceedings before the referee, and of other aids which he may use to assist him. Id. The mere pro forma, ex parte settlement of an important receiver's account, where creditors are dissatisfied therewith, held to be an indiscretion. Id.

9. In re Kayser's Estate [Minn.] 100 N. W. 214. Where receiver was appointed pending an appeal from an order removing an executrix, evidence held sufficient to show that he continued as receiver after reversal of order and not as the representative of the executrix. Id.

10. See Hickey v. Parrot Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

11. Discharge secured without compliance with such order will be set aside. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277.

12. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277.

13. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277. Order discharging receiver is void if based on such unrecorded order. Id.

14. In Polk county, Iowa, the receiver should note on the motion docket the filing of his final report and petition for discharge, and the order of the court fixing the time of hearing thereon and directing publication of notice thereof. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277.

15. In re New Iberia Cotton Mills Co., 113 La. 404, 37 So. 8.

16. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

17, 18, 19. Strauss v. Casey Mach. & Supply Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 402.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1479.

21. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698. See 2 Curr. L. 1479, n. 91.

22. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1740, a receiver whose sole duties consist in receiving and disbursing moneys is entitled to $3 for each day he is actually engaged, and such statute is conclusive on the subject. Fidelity Nat. Bank's Receiver v. Youtsey, 26 Ky. L. R. 340, 81 S. W. 263.

tions bearing on the actual value of such services, the rate to be that characterizing somewhat similar services in official life.[23] The compensation allowed by the court is conclusively presumed to be adequate, and the receiver is not entitled to any additional remuneration for his work,[24] any contract having such an end in view being void as against public policy.[25] The order allowing compensation being made through inadvertence and mistake, it will be set aside.[26] Where a receiver is legally appointed, he is entitled to compensation for services actually rendered, though the order of appointment be vacated or reversed.[27] If he be improperly appointed, the party procuring his appointment is liable for his compensation.[28] For acts done beyond the scope of the receivership, the receiver has no claim or lien upon the funds or property in his possession,[29] but if entitled to any compensation, he must look to the party benefited thereby.[30] He is not entitled to compensation or allowances for any new business transacted after the termination of the receivership,[31] unless he acted under the orders of the court.[32]

§ 7. Liabilities and actions on receivership bonds.[33]—A receiver is expected to apply to the execution of his trust the discretion of an ordinarily careful business man in business of a similar nature, and will not be liable for losses caused by mere mistakes of judgment,[34] though he is liable for losses created through his mismanagement[35] or negligence.[36] Damages for injuries to persons or property during the receivership, caused by the torts of the receiver's agents and employes, are classed as operating expenses.[37] A beneficiary of the receivership settling a claim, with which a receiver is charged on his accounting, for less than its full value, thereby releases the receiver from liability thereon, it not being shown that the full amount could not have been collected.[38] A receiver may be compelled to perform his duty by beneficiaries of a trust fund under his control, the court to whom he is accountable granting them permission to bring the action.[39] The court may permit a receiver charged with wasting or misappropriating a trust fund for creditors to be made a defendant in a creditor's suit, and his liability as a wrongful holder of trust funds determined and enforced.[40] A receiver collusively appointed to carry out the fraudulent designs of adversaries of the creditors may

23. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909; National Exch. Bank v. Woodside [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 715; Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698; Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 1061. Where receiver continued to operate factory, held 4% of amount administered was not an excessive allowance for costs and fees of receiver and his counsel. Lembeck v. Jarvis Terminal Cold Storage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 565. Receiver of insolvent corporation bringing suit on behalf of stockholders and general creditors, such suit being practically a suit to foreclose a mortgage, held receiver was entitled to the same compensation as if the suit had been one to foreclose. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1479, n. 88-90.

24. National Exch. Bank v. Woodside [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 715.

25. Contract whereby receiver was to be paid for allowing purchaser of assets to use his name to collect the same held void. National Exch. Bank v. Woodside [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 715.

26. Order being made in the last few hours of the judge's term of office and before the time set in the notice of the application, the amount being excessive in that the court failed to remember that the receiver had been superseded before discharged, held order would be set aside. Joralmon v. McPhee [Colo.] 76 P. 922.

27, 28. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

29, 30. In re Kayser's Estate [Minn.] 100 N. W. 214.

31. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698. See 2 Curr. L. 1479, n. 93.

32. Forrester v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 1061.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1480.

34. In ordinary matters and in details he is expected to act upon his own judgment. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

35. Morehead v. Striker, 132 F. 943.

36. Costs. Hickey v. Parrott Silver & Copper Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 698.

37. Judgment for personal injury to employe is entitled to priority over receiver's certificates for current expenses, or mortgage or other debts existing when the receiver was appointed. Robinson v. New York & S. I. Elec. Co., 99 App. Div. 509, 91 N. Y. S. 153.

38. Morehead v. Striker, 132 F. 943.

39. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

40. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909, overruling Board v. Mutual be regarded as the agent of such adversaries and made defendant in the main action or other action by the creditors.[41]

§ 8. Foreign and ancillary receivers.[42]

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS.

§ 1. Nature and Elements; Other Crimes Distinguished (1253). | § 2. Indictment and Prosecution (1253).

§ 1. Nature and elements; other crimes distinguished.[43]—Receiving of stolen goods is an offense distinct from larceny,[44] and receipt of goods which have been embezzled is in Missouri an offense distinct from receiving stolen goods.[45] The goods need not have been received from the thief,[46] nor is it necessary that the goods should have been stolen in the same state.[47]

§ 2. Indictment and prosecution. Indictment.[48]—The information need not allege that defendant received the goods with intent to aid the thief or to defraud the owner.[49] In Wyoming the information need not state the name of the person who stole the goods or of the person from whom defendant received them.[50] Indictment for receiving a "hog" is fatally variant from proof of the receipt of the carcass of a hog.[51] One charged in the alternative with receiving or concealing stolen goods may be convicted if he concealed them with guilty knowledge, though he received them without it.[52]

Evidence.[53]—It is error to receive in evidence other property stolen at the same time, but not received by defendant.[54] Guilty knowledge may be inferred from the circumstances under which the goods were received,[55] but possession of stolen goods by defendant does not alone warrant an inference that he received them with guilty knowledge.[56] The thief is not an accomplice, and conviction may be had on his uncorroborated testimony.[57]

Instructions.[58]—Defendant is entitled to a specific instruction as to the necessity of showing identity of the property received by him with that stolen.[59]

RECITALS, see latest topical index.

RECOGNIZANCES.[60]

A recognizance is a debt of record[61] and it is conclusive that it was regularly

Fire Ass'n, 116 Wis. 155, 90 N. W. 1086, 94 N. W. 171, 61 L. R. A. 918.

41. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

42. Suits by and against foreign and ancillary receivers, see ante, § 4D. See 2 Curr. L. 1480.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1480.

44. Waiver of examination as to one will not sustain information for the other. State v. Fields [Kan.] 78 P. 833.

45, 46. State v. Fink [Mo.] 84 S. W. 921.

47. Curran v. State [Wyo.] 76 P. 577.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1481. Indictment held sufficient under Federal statute. Bise v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 921.

49. State v. Richmond [Mo.] 84 S. W. 880.

50. Curran v. State [Wyo.] 76 P. 577.

51. Hutchinson v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 331.

52. Rowland v. State, 140 Ala. 142, 37 So. 245.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1481.

Evidence held sufficient: Birdsong v. State, 120 Ga. 850, 48 S. E. 329; Delahoyde v. People, 212 Ill. 554, 72 N. E. 732; State v. Richmond [Mo.] 84 S. W. 880; Curran v. State [Wyo.] 76 P. 577.

54. Schultz v. People, 210 Ill. 196, 71 N. E. 405.

55. Birdsong v. State, 120 Ga. 850, 48 S. E. 329; Blumenthal v. State, 121 Ga. 477, 49 S. E. 597; Delahoyde v. People, 212 Ill. 554, 72 N. E. 732.

56. State v. Richmond [Mo.] 84 S. W. 880.

57. Birdsong v. State, 120 Ga. 850, 48 S. E. 329.

58. Instruction as to inference of guilty knowledge from circumstances sustained. Birdsong v. State, 120 Ga. 850, 48 S. E. 329; Blumenthal v. State, 121 Ga. 477, 49 S. E. 597.

59. Schultz v. People, 210 Ill. 196, 71 N. E. 405.

60. This title includes only the law of recognizances as obligations and their general enforcement. The general law of bail is elsewhere shown. See Bail, Civil, 3 Curr. L. 394; Bail, Criminal, 3 Curr. L. 395.

acknowledged.[62] It is not essential that the accused sign a recognizance unless the statute so provides.[63] A forfeiture need not be entered on appearance day if the recognizance is to appear from day to day and term to term.[64]

Ordinarily only the court where the breach took place should enforce the recognizance,[65] and especially so when a statutory procedure and special powers are prescribed for the enforcement of recognizances and the court is named.[66] Scire facias lies on a forfeited bail bond[67] in the Federal district courts,[68] the common law procedure being followed.[69] In an action on a recognizance taken by a special justice, the records of the court taking it may be amended to show his authority to do so.[70] In such action the return on the execution that the debtor was duly arrested and admitted to bail is conclusive, so that it cannot be shown that there had been an escape, which continued when the recognizance was taken.[71] A poor debtor's recognizance, reciting that he has been arrested by virtue of a certain statute, is not void because making no reference to amendments thereof, even if such amendments materially affect his rights.[72] It is not necessary that such recognizance taken by a special justice or the declaration in an action thereon, state the facts which gave such justice jurisdiction.[73] A breach[74] of the recognizance occurs when the person recognized fails to appear or be produced by bail.[75] The United States cannot be sued even jointly with its marshal to prevent improper enforcement of judgment on a recognizance.[76]

RECORDARI; RECORDING DEEDS AND MORTGAGES, see latest topical index.

RECORDS AND FILES.

§ 1. What are Records (1254).
§ 2. Keeping and Custody (1255).
§ 3. Publicity and Access (1255).
§ 4. Proof of Records (1256).
§ 5. Crimes Relating to Records (1257).

This topic is confined to the nature and public characteristics of records. The element of constructive notice is elsewhere treated.[77]

§ 1. What are records.[78]—A public record is a written memorial by a public officer.[79] Records kept by a public official of his own volition, though at public expense, are not public records,[80] nor is a memorandum kept by him while engaged in a private enterprise.[81] In Michigan unverified tax statements erroneously accepted by the supervisor are records,[82] notwithstanding an intention to amend 61, 62. Commonwealth v. Gray, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 110.

63. State v. Quattlebaum, 67 S. C. 203, 45 S. E. 162.

64. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

65, 66. State v. Quattlebaum, 67 S. C. 203, 45 S. E. 162.

67, 68, 69. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331. See also Scire Facias, 2 Curr. L. 1618; Id., 4 Curr. L. ——.

70. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46.

71. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46. Evidence sufficient to warrant the court in assuming that there was an oath or affidavit justifying the issuance of the certificate of arrest. Id.

72. Mass. Pub. St. 1882, c. 162. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46.

73. Under Mass. Rev. Laws, c. 160, § 41. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46.

74. Evidence sufficient to show breach of poor debtor's recognizance. Bent v. Stone, 184 Mass. 92, 68 N. E. 46; Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

75. See Bail, Civil, 3 Curr. L. 394; Bail, Criminal, 3 Curr. L. 395.

76. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

77. See Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1482.

79. Poll books of a special election, under special act of the legislature, deposited in the office of the clerk of the county court, are public papers under Code 1899, c. 117, §§ 3, 5, though the special act calling the election be unconstitutional. Payne v. Staunton, 55 W. Va. 202, 46 S. E. 927.

80. Not open to inspection as a matter of right. State v. Reed, 36 Wash. 638, 79 P. 306.

81. Books of a city engineer containing field notes of surveys made by him while in the employ of private individuals are not public records. Leffingwell v. Miller [Colo. App.] 79 P. 327.

82. Comp. Laws, § 3843. People v. Jewell [Mich.] 101 N. W. 835.

by substituting another therefor, especially where the amendment is never prepared.[83]

Papers are deemed filed when delivered to the official for that purpose,[84] and the fact that the filing fee is not advanced does not deprive them of their character as public records from such date.[85]

A court has inherent power to correct clerical misprision on the face of its records.[86] This right extends to criminal as well as civil cases.[87] It is not lost by mere lapse of time,[88] nor by an appeal if the correction does not affect substantial rights.[89] A court may by nunc pro tunc order correct the record of a pending case to conform to the facts, and may proceed on satisfactory evidence,[90] but the evidence must be furnished by the records of the court,[91] and to justify such an amendment there must be something to amend by.[92]

§ 2. Keeping and custody.[93]—An official lawfully elected is entitled to possession of the records of his office.[94] He has such an interest as entitles him to refuse an inspection when it is not called for by law.[95] He may not maintain at public expense a set of records different from the system prescribed by law,[96] and may be restrained from doing so, notwithstanding the records are a public utility and their abolition will cause a greater expense than their maintenance.[97]

§ 3. Publicity and access.[98]—As a general rule public records are open to inspection of the public as a matter of right. The right to inspect, however, is

83. People v. Jewell [Mich.] 101 N. W. 835.

84. Papers in a pending trial delivered to the clerk of court. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957. An entry is entitled to be marked as filed the day on which it was offered, though the clerk of court was absent at that time, and it was not in fact filed until his return the following day. Jenkins v. Columbus, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 535.

85. Papers in condemnation proceedings. Dowie v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 214 Ill. 49, 73 N. E. 354.

86. Superfluous initial to a name in a decree. Fay v. Stubenrauch, 141 Cal. 573, 75 P. 174. A misdescription in a decree directing a sale of land properly described in the bill for partition is a clerical misprision correctible by the record itself and is no excuse for a long delay in appealing. Farmer v. Allen [Miss.] 38 So. 38.

In its specific application to judgment records this power is discussed in Judgments, 4 Curr. L. 287.

87, 88. People v. Ward, 141 Cal. 628, 75 P. 306.

89. Fay v. Stubenrauch, 141 Cal. 573, 75 P. 174.

90. Clark v. Bank of Hennessey [Okl.] 79 P. 217. Where it does not appear that substantial rights are prejudiced, the court may properly refuse to strike a referee's report from the files because the defeated party is not notified of the finding of the referee. Id.

91. Jett v. Farmers' Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 817, 76 S. W. 385.

92. Where there is no record to show that a former order existed, a court cannot enter a judgment or order nunc pro tunc as of a prior date. Gagnon's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 10. A nunc pro tunc order is to supply on the record something which has actually occurred, but it cannot supply omitted action by the court. Jett v. Farmers' Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 817, 76 S. W. 385.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1482.

94. May maintain an action to recover them from his predecessor. In re Brearton, 44 Misc. 247, 89 N. Y. S. 893.

95. Payne v. Staunton, 55 W. Va. 202, 46 S. E. 927.

96. County auditor keeping tract indices. Dirks v. Collin [Wash.] 79 P. 1112.

97. Dirks v. Collin [Wash.] 79 P. 1112.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1483.

Note: Under statutory provisions or charter authorizing any person or abstractor to have inspection of the records, they are entitled to a reasonable use of the same. Under such provisions it is also held that other persons, though not abstractors, are entitled to the same privileges. Stockman v. Brooks, 17 Colo. 248; State v. Rachac, 37 Minn. 372; People v. Rielly, 38 Hun [N. Y.] 429; Hanson v. Eichstad, 69 Wis. 538; Johnson v. Wakulla County, 28 Fla. 720; State v. Long, 37 W. Va. 266; In re Chambers, 44 F. 786; Burton v. Tuite, 78 Mich. 363, 7 L. R. A. 73; Day v. Button, 96 Mich. 600.

What is a reasonable use: A restriction in the use of the office to three employes of the abstract company is held reasonable. People v. Richards, 99 N. Y. 620. A surveyor has no right to desk room in the recorder's office to copy all the field notes of all the surveys in the county. Phelan v. State, 76 Ala. 49. Use of records allowed six hours a day when not used by the commissioners and two hours per day when they are, is reasonable. Upton v. Catlin, 17 Colo. 546, 17 L. R. A. 282. But where statutes have not been particularly for the benefit of abstractors, they have been refused the privilege to use the office where they had no special interest in the record at the time (Bean v. People, 7 Colo. 200; Buck v. Collins, 51 Ga. 391, 21 Am. Rep. 236; Ran-not a vested one. The person seeking to inspect must have an interest in the record of which inspection is sought, and the inspection must be for a legitimate purpose.[99] One seeking to compel inspection by mandamus must have a pecuniary interest,[1] and in order that a demand may be made the basis of a mandate, it must specify the records and be made at such time and in such manner as not to interfere with the reasonable dispatch of public business.[2] Several persons who unite in a common application and are refused may unite in mandamus to compel such inspection.[3] In Washington, county auditors are not public abstractors and are not, on demand, required to make a complete list of all liens and transfers affecting particular tracts, but are required only to search for such instruments as their attention is directed to.[4]

§ 4. Proof of records.[5]—The records themselves are the best evidence of what they contain,[6] but are evidence of nothing more,[7] and a statute providing for the admission in evidence of certified copies does not affect the admissibility of the original.[8] In the absence of the original the proper evidence is a duly authenticated copy,[9] and not written statements of the contents.[10] Copies properly certified by the custodian are admissible,[11] and are prima facie evidence of facts therein recited,[12] and are not rendered inadmissible by the fact that the official dolph v. State, 82 Ala. 527, 60 Am. Rep. 761; Cormack v. Wolcott, 37 Kan. 391); but they are entitled to use them if they have a present interest (Boylan v. Warren, 39 Kan. 301, 7 Am. St. Rep. 551).—From note to In re Caswell [R. I.] 27 L. R. A. 82.

99. Papers in county clerk's office. Payne v. Staunton, 55 W. Va. 202, 46 S. E. 927.

1. Payne v. Staunton, 55 W. Va. 202, 46 S. E. 927. Mandamus will not lie to compel inspection by a private individual for the sole purpose of getting evidence for the institution of a criminal prosecution. Id.

2. State v. Reed, 36 Wash. 638, 79 P. 306.

3. Payne v. Staunton, 55 W. Va. 202, 46 S. E. 927.

NOTE. Mandamus to enforce right of inspection: It may be stated as a general rule that mandamus is the proper remedy to compel permission to examine and inspect public records and documents. State v. King, 154 Ind. 621, 57 N. E. 535; Hawes v. White, 66 Me. 305; Brown v. County Treasurer, 54 Mich. 132, 19 N. W. 778, 52 Am. Rep. 800; State v. Hobart, 12 Nev. 408. It will not issue, however, to compel the clerk of court to permit an abstractor of titles to examine and copy a file in an action relating to land between private parties, where the petition negatives constructive notice of the pendency of the action, and does not assert actual notice, nor state that the examination and copying are necessary to the interests of his employer. Burton v. Reynolds, 110 Mich. 354, 68 N. W. 217.—From note to State v. Gardner [Wash.] 98 Am. St. Rep. 875.

4. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 417. Dirks v. Collin [Wash.] 79 P. 1112.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1483. See, also, Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.

6. Court records are the best evidence as to who dropped proceedings to revoke the probate of a will. Spencer v. Spencer [Mont.] 79 P. 320. Parol evidence of the judgment of a court is inadmissible against objection. Carhart v. Oddenkirk [Colo. App.] 79 P. 303.

7. A custom in the office of the clerk of court to copy into a writ of replevin the value of the property as stated in the replevin affidavit is not competent proof of the contents of the affidavit. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011. Loss of patent certificates had been plausibly accounted for but no witnesses had ever seen it. Arbuckle v. Matthews [Ark.] 83 S. W. 326. It will be presumed that claims against an estate of a decedent presented to the probate court and lost from its files were properly verified. Gutierrez v. Scholle [N. M.] 78 P. 50.

8. Rev. St. 1895, art. 2252 is cumulative, not restrictive. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957.

9. Transcript of final judgment "Now April 16, 1901, on motion (of counsel) the court directs judgment for want of appearance * * *. Whereupon judgment is entered," etc., is sufficient. Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703. A book introduced in evidence held to show a compliance within an insurance policy that the insured should keep books. Other books had been destroyed by fire. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Masterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 49.

10. Written statements of the register of a United States land office and of the state land commissioner as to the contents of the records of their offices are inadmissible. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249. A certificate of a county clerk as to what appears from the records of his office, being a mere statement of his conclusions, is inadmissible. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 698, 78 P. 277.

11. An objection that the copy would not prove the capacity of the person who executed it goes to its effect not to its admissibility. State v. Allen, 113 La. 705, 37 So. 614.

12. Copy of tax judgment sale. Tifft v. Greene, 211 Ill. 389, 71 N. E. 1030. A record in a proceeding to sell land as forfeited to the state for nonpayment of taxes is prima facie evidence as against strangers to the states as a conclusion that there is nothing more in the record pertaining to the issues involved in the proceeding in which they are to be used.[13] Copies should be certified by the official from whose office they come.[14] A signature to a transcript containing only the initials of the Christian name of the official certifying is sufficient.[15] A recital in a certificate to a transcript that a record contained "inter alia" the records there set out does not show that the record was incomplete, but that other matters were recorded there.[16]

The published records of congress are unimpeachable.[17] A recorded deed is evidence of a conveyance as beween the parties, though it was not entitled to record because not acknowledged.[18]

§ 5. Crimes relating to records.[19]—That abstraction or destruction may constitute a crime, it must be done with criminal intent.[20] In New York the stealing of records is larceny,[21] and that bribery be also employed does not alleviate the offense.[22] Such also constitutes unlawfully removing files.[23]

REDEMPTION; RE-EXCHANGE, see latest topical index.

REFERENCE.

§ 1. Definitions and Distinctions, Master and Referee, Referee and Umpire or Arbitrator (1257).
§ 2. Occasion for Reference (1257).
§ 3. Time and Stage of Proceedings (1259).
§ 4. Motion and Order for Reference, and Stipulations or Consents on Voluntary Reference (1259).
§ 5. Selection and Qualifications of the Referee; His Oath and Induction Into Office (1259).
§ 6. General Scope of Reference and Powers of Referees or Masters (1259).
§ 7. Appearance Before Referee, Hearing and Adjournments, Trial and Practice Thereon (1259).
§ 8. The Report, Its Form, Requisites, and Contents, and Return and Filing (1260).
§ 9. Revision of Report Before the Court. Objections and Exceptions (1261).
§ 10. Decree or Judgment on the Report; Confirmation or Overruling, Recommittal or Additional Findings; Modification, Conformity of Judgment with Report (1262).
§ 11. Appellate Review (1263).
§ 12. Compensation, Fees and Costs (1264).

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions, master and referee, referee and umpire or arbitrator.[24]—The reference here meant is the Code analogue of the reference to a master in chancery,[25] and the reference to state an account allowed in actions at law. Referees and references so called are provided by statute in certain proceedings[26] and in bankruptcy.[27] record of the fact of forfeiture and that the person against whom forfeiture was declared was the owner. State v. Jackson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 465.

13. Glos v. Dyche, 214 Ill. 417, 73 N. E. 757.

14. The offices of clerk of the county court and county clerk, though held by the same person, are distinct. Copies of the records of each office should be certified by the incumbent of that office. Tifft v. Greene, 211 Ill. 389, 71 N. E. 1030.

15. Transcript of judgment under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 458. Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703.

16. Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624.

17. Not by showing that they were approved by the president on a date different from that recited in the record. Gibson v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 131 F. 39.

18. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364; Schultz v. Tonty Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 353.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1483.

20. Under Comp Laws, § 11361, making willful abstraction or destruction a misdemeanor. People v. Jewell [Mich.] 101 N. W. 835.

21. An attempt to steal them is an attempt to commit the crime. People v. Mills, 178 N. Y. 274, 70 N. E. 786, afg. 91 App. Div. 331, 86 N. Y. S. 529, cited 2 Curr. L. 1483, n. 59.

22. People v. Mills, 178 N. Y. 274, 70 N. E. 786.

23. Bribing a representative of the district attorney's office to secure possession of indictments violates the statute prohibiting unlawful removal of a paper filed in a public office. People v. Mills, 178 N. Y. 274, 70 N. E. 786.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1484.

25. See Masters and Commissioners, 4 Curr. L. 614. Arbitrators are sometimes called "referees." See Arbitration and Award, 3 Curr. L. 303.

26. For reference in particular proceedings see such topics as Garnishment, 3 Curr. L. 1550; Supplementary Proceedings, 2 Curr. L. 1774, etc.; Estates of Decedents, 3 Curr. L. 1238; Divorce, 3 Curr. L. 1127.

27. See Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434.

§ 2. Occasion for reference.[28]—References under special statutes are governed by the terms thereof, and the code reference analogous to that in chancery is governed by principles similar to chancery.[29] Accordingly the reference of a case rests largely in the discretion of the court, and unless abused, the exercise of this discretion will not be disturbed;[30] but this fact does not render an erroneous refusal to grant an application for a reference harmless.[31] Error in referring a case is waived where the party asserting the error, on the court's offering to set aside the reference, objects thereto, and insists on a decision on the report.[32] Reference is not of right where the statute merely enables the court to grant it.[33] A real question of a referable kind is necessary to support a reference.[34] It being argued in opposition to a motion for a reference that difficult questions of law will have to be decided, the party opposing the motion must specifically point out the questions to be raised unless they appear on the face of the pleadings.[35] In some states and cases the consent of the court[36] or parties[37] is essential.

Statutory reference as under codes;[38] accounts.—Statutes generally authorize a reference when the examination of a long account is necessary.[39] To justify a compulsory reference, the long account must be the immediate object of the suit or ground of defense, and directly involved;[40] but the mere fact that issues outside the account are raised is not of itself sufficient to defeat the right to a reference.[41] When a long account is brought into the case by a counterclaim setting up a distinct and independent cause of action, and which is not an element in the proof of the plaintiff's cause of action, a reference cannot be ordered;[42] but where a defense necessarily involving a long account is interposed, then a reference may be ordered, although the cause of action set up in the complaint appears on its face to be nonreferable.[43]

Other statutory grounds include convenience of parties and witnesses where

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1484.

29. Compare Masters and Commissioners, 4 Curr. L. 614.

30. Teasley v. Bradley, 120 Ga. 373, 47 S. E. 925. Action by widow against son-in-law for conversion of certain notes held erroneously referred for findings of fact and conclusions of law. Stroup v. Bridger, 124 Iowa, 401, 100 N. W. 113.

31. Hart v. Godkin [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1057.

32. Stroup v. Bridger, 124 Iowa, 401, 100 N. W. 113.

33. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2864, providing that "all or any of the issues in question * * * may be referred," a party is not entitled to a reference as a matter of right. Hart v. Godkin [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1057.

34. A reference to an auditor is erroneous if no adjudication is necessary to determine the matter referred. Apportionment of inheritance tax where there was no "contingent legacy." Burkhart's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 514.

35. Lee Coal Co. v. Meeker, 43 Misc. 162, 88 N. Y. S. 190. See, also, Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98.

36. Under Code 1883, §§ 398, 416, 420, and Const. art. 4, § 13, the amount of damages in an action for trespass cannot be referred without the consent of the court. J. L. Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 946.

37. Under Rev. St. § 5215, an order of reference by the probate court of a complicated guardian's account is void where the estate objects thereto, and the estate cannot be amerced for costs therefor. In re Gorman, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 667.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1484.

39. Rev. St. 1899, § 698. Citizens' Coal Min. Co. v. McDermott [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 459. Held, reference should be allowed where account involved determination of amount of profits of a business for over 13 years. Boisnot v. Wilson, 95 App. Div. 489, 88 N. Y. S. 867. The services of an attorney rendered in an action or actions under a single or different retainers, which merely involve charges in connection with the various steps in the litigation, do not constitute a long account. Prentice v. Huff, 90 N. Y. S. 780. Where the accounting consisted in adding sums due on certain notes, with interest, and subtracting certain credits, held no necessity for a reference. Bond v. Wilson [N. C.] 49 S. E. 89. See 2 Curr. L. 1484, n. 65.

40. Lee Coal Co. v. Meeker, 43 Misc. 162, 88 N. Y. S. 190. Examination denied where it was merely collateral and would only serve as evidence upon which plaintiff might rely to fix the amount of his recovery. Id.

41. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98; Boisnot v. Wilson, 95 App. Div. 489, 88 N. Y. S. 867.

42, 43. See Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98, citing Irving v. Irving, 90 Hun, 422, 35 N. Y. S. 744, afd., without opinion, 149 N. Y. 573, 43 N. E. 987.

they are numerous,[44] the equitable character of the action,[45] the taking of necessary proofs where no issue is joined.[46]

§ 3. Time and stage of proceedings.[47]

§ 4. Motion and order for reference, and stipulations or consents on voluntary reference.[48]—Notice should be given all parties of record affected by the motion, but while all who file claims in a proceeding previous to the entry of an order of reference are entitled to notice of the application, such notice may be given nunc pro tunc when the claim is filed intervening the application and order.[49] The parties by consenting to a reference consent to all the incidents of such a proceeding.[50] An order of reference founded on the expressed opinion of the judge, not followed by the sentence of the law thereon, is not complete.[51] The denial of an application for a compulsory reference is not res judicata on a subsequent application for the same relief before a different judge called in to try the cause on a change of venue.[52]

§ 5. Selection and qualifications of the referee; his oath and induction into office. Removals and substitutions.[53]—The referee must not only be impartial but the relations between him and the parties or their representatives must be such that there will be no chance for his judgment to become even unconsciously biased.[54]

§ 6. General scope of reference and powers of referees or masters.[55]—The powers of the referee are limited by the order of appointment.[56] The court may order additional evidence taken if the scope of the reference is not thereby enlarged.[57]

§ 7. Appearance before referee, hearing and adjournments, trial and practice thereon.[58]—A party to the action is entitled to notice of all proceedings therein before the referee, and may appear and protect any interest he may have without obtaining leave from the court to intervene.[59]

Evidence being received conditionally, the question of its competency must be raised at some later stage of the case, and passed on before its reception will be held to be erroneous.[60] Written evidence noticed to be produced should be presented when called for by the party noticing, and a refusal so to produce is a ground of objection to its production after secondary evidence has been put in.[61] A party being allowed to refer to his books to refresh his recollection, and in connection with such testimony, to designate what appears upon his books in relation

44. Under Ann. Code Civ. Proc. 1901, § 4493, a referee may be appointed to take testimony in an action where the parties are numerous and the convenience of the witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted thereby. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

45. Under Clark's Code, § 421, subsec. 5, providing for a reference where questions of fact arise in an action of which the courts of equity had exclusive jurisdiction prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1868, a reference is properly ordered where the question is whether or not certain land was by mistake omitted from a certain deed. Pinchback v. Bessemer Min. & Mfg. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 106.

46. Code Civ. Proc. § 1544 refers only to defaults, or where an infant defendant has served a formal answer which makes no issue. Fairweather v. Burling [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 565; afg. 90 N. Y. S. 516.

47, 48. See 2 Curr. L. 1485.

49. Construing supreme court rule 64. Schieck v. Donohue, 44 Misc. 425, 90 N. Y. S. 36.

50. Waive jury trial. Williams v. Weeks [S. C.] 48 S. E. 619.

51. Hill v. Cronin [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 132.

52. Hart v. Godkin [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1057.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1485.

54. Disagreement between attorney and referee as to latter's compensation held sufficient to warrant appointment of a new referee. Smith v. Dunn, 94 App. Div. 429, 88 N. Y. S. 58. See 2 Curr. L. 1485, n. 81.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1485.

56. Bond v. Wilson [N. C.] 49 S. E. 89. See 2 Curr. L. 1485, n. 83.

57. Davidson v. Copeland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 33.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1486.

59. Ingersoll v. Weld, 91 N. Y. S. 1037.

60. Breitkreutz v. National Bank of Holton [Kan.] 79 P. 686.

61. Merritt v. Jordan [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 183.

to the matter, it is proper for the referee to have shown him whatever the witness used under the claim that it aided his recollection.[62] Failure to object to the admission of evidence waives it.[63] As a general rule objections to the admissibility of evidence cannot be taken by way of exception to the referee's report.[64] Admissions of counsel may become binding on the referee.[65]

That the legal questions involved are difficult forms no reason for the referee to refuse to decide the same.[66] An auditor may for good cause open the case for further proof after argument.[67]

§ 8. The report, its form, requisites, and contents, and return and filing.[68]—Tested by custom, it is not improper for a referee to delegate to an interested attorney the preparation of findings of fact or conclusions of law for the approval of the referee or judge.[69] Essential facts must be specifically found,[70] and are generally required to be stated separately from the conclusions of law,[71] failure to so do being ground for a motion to recommit.[72] Unless requested by the parties or directed by the court, it is not usual for a master, to whom a question of damages in an action at law has been referred after default, to append the evidence to his report;[73] whether or not it will be required on a subsequent motion therefor rests in the discretion of the court,[74] and the court will not ordinarily grant the motion after the filing of the report.[75] In New York the report of a referee upon the trial of a demurrer must direct the final or interlocutory judgment to be entered thereon, but it is not necessary to make any findings of fact.[76]

In the absence of prejudice, the fact that the defeated party was not notified of the finding and conclusions of the referee is not ground for striking the report from the files.[77]

The referee's report must be filed[78] within the time set by the order of appointment,[79] though this time may, upon good cause being shown within the time limited, be extended by the court,[80] but not by the parties or their counsel.[81] Testimony, if it can be clearly identified, may be filed after the death of the referee.[82] The referee having made and delivered his report, his functions and powers with reference to the case are ended,[83] and in some states the point that the referee at

62. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

63. Where on the hearing before the referee defendant did not object to evidence on the ground that it was inadmissible under the statute of frauds, such objection is waived. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

64. So held, where, except as to one item, no evidence was received against defendant's objection. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

65. Admission held not binding on auditor where on motion to recommit and in a supplemental report the basis of the admission was done away with. Hudson v. Baker, 185 Mass. 122, 70 N. E. 419.

66. Construction of will in partition case. Dwight v. Lawrence, 90 N. Y. S. 970.

67. Rhinesmith's Case, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 300.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1486.

69. Mr. Justice Marshall expresses personal disapproval of the custom. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

70. Consideration of mortgage. Alcock v. Davitt, 179 N. Y. 9, 71 N. E. 264.

71. Held not erroneous for referee to refuse to answer list of interrogatories answerable only by "Yes" or "No." Breitkreutz v. National Bank of Holton [Kan.] 79 P. 686.

72. Jones v. Nolan, 120 Ga. 588, 48 S. E. 166. It is not ground for an exception of law to his report. Id.

73, 74. Trustees of Dartmouth College v. International Paper Co., 132 F. 89.

75. Motion granted where evidence was at hand, report was not submitted to counsel, and case was important. Trustees of Dartmouth College v. International Paper Co., 132 F. 89.

76. Code Civ. Proc. § 1021. Rowe v. Rowe, 92 N. Y. S. 491.

77. Clark v. Bank of Hennessey, 14 Okl. 572, 79 P. 217.

78. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1010, 1019, upon the trial of an issue of law, the report of a referee must be filed. Rowe v. Rowe, 92 N. Y. S. 491.

79. Peavy v. McDonald, 119 Ga. 865, 47 S. E. 203. But see 2 Curr. L. 1487, n. 98.

80. Clark v. Bank of Hennessey, 14 Okl. 572, 79 P. 217.

81. Peavy v. McDonald, 119 Ga. 865, 47 S. E. 203.

82. Davidson v. Copeland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 33.

83. Neither he nor the court at special term has any power to alter or change the decision in any matter of substance. Union Bag & Paper Co. v. Allen Bros. Co., 94 App.

the time he filed his report had lost all control over the case may be raised by way of exception to the report,[84] though the better practice would seem to be to present an independent objection to its consideration by the court by way of a motion to disregard it, based on the ground that it amounted to a mere nullity, and should be treated as such.[85]

§ 9. Revision of report before the court. Objections and exceptions.[86]—The office of exceptions to a referee's report is to assign reasons why it should not be adopted and made the judgment of the court.[87] If an auditor's report fails to find all the facts or to cover all the issues, advantage should be taken by motion to recommit.[88] The exception must be clear and intelligible. Generally the exceptions must clearly and distinctly specify the errors complained of.[89] The exceptions must be complete in themselves; they should state the ruling complained of, the evidence on that point, and of what and wherein there was error.[90] The grounds upon which the exceptions are based must be verified by reference to the auditor's report; and if the report affords no means of verification, the exceptions cannot be considered, unless otherwise certified by the auditor.[91] In a law action in Georgia, however, an exception which distinctly points out the finding of the auditor on a given issue, and then avers that such finding is "contrary to the evidence," or "without evidence to support it," is sufficiently definite.[92] An exception of fact being clearly erroneous, it is properly overruled.[93] Exceptions of fact and of law should be separately classified, and while a failure to observe this rule is amendable, yet in the absence of such amendment it is ground for a motion to dismiss or strike such exception.[94]

It is too late, after the report has been passed upon by the trial court and the judgment affirmed on appeal to raise the question of jurisdiction by a petition for an injunction seeking to restrain the enforcement of the judgment.[95] An objector may withdraw his exceptions without hindrance from a co-party who has no joint interest in them or has not joined in them.[96] It is within the discretion of the court to allow or reject new exceptions after the time for filing them has expired; but the right to so file them should be denied unless good cause for the

Div. 595, 88 N. Y. S. 368. See 2 Curr. L. 1487, n. 99.

84. Peavy v. McDonald, 119 Ga. 865, 47 S. E. 203; Hart v. Manson, 120 Ga. 481, 47 S. E. 929.

85. Peavy v. McDonald, 119 Ga. 865, 47 S. E. 203.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1488.

87. Peavy v. McDonald, 119 Ga. 865, 47 S. E. 203. Objections to the admissibility of evidence cannot be taken by way of exception to the referee's report. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

88. Rather than by an exception, which, if sustained, would leave the matter where it began. Weldon v. Hudson, 120 Ga. 699, 48 S. E. 130.

89. Civ. Code 1895, § 4589. Exceptions failing to set out the ruling complained of, or the question, answer or evidence objected to is insufficient. Green v. Valdosta Guano Co., 121 Ga. 131, 48 S. E. 984; Perkins v. Castleberry [Ga.] 50 S. E. 107. A general objection to the rejection of a set of conclusions of fact is unavailable if any of the conclusions were rightfully rejected. Breitkreutz v. National Bank of Holton [Kan.] 79 P. 686.

90. Weldon v. Hudson, 120 Ga. 699, 48 S. E. 130.

91. Waycross Air Line R. Co. v. Offerman & W. R. Co., 119 Ga. 983, 47 S. E. 582. Failure to do so is sufficient reason for refusing to approve the exceptions of fact and for overruling the exceptions of law. Butler, Stevens & Co. v. Georgia & A. R. Co., 119 Ga. 959, 47 S. E. 320; Perkins v. Castleberry [Ga.] 50 S. E. 107.

92. Anderson v. Blair, 121 Ga. 120, 48 S. E. 951. Exception that the auditor's general finding in favor of the plaintiff was contrary to the evidence is sufficient in form. Green v. Valdosta Guano Co., 121 Ga. 131, 48 S. E. 984.

93. Tippin v. Perry [Ga.] 50 S. E. 35. It is proper to overrule an exception complaining of the admission of evidence when it appears that the auditor found for the excepting party on every issue to which such evidence related. Jones v. Nolan, 120 Ga. 588, 48 S. E. 166.

94. Tippin v. Perry [Ga.] 50 S. E. 35.

95. Hart v. Manson, 120 Ga. 481, 47 S. E. 929.

96. Gilbert v. Washington Ben. Endowment Ass'n, 21 App. D. C. 344.

delay is shown.[97] The time to move to strike out exceptions is at the time of the settlement of the case.[98] A recommittal makes immaterial exceptions to matters ruled differently on the second hearing.[99]

In Georgia exceptions to an auditor's report need not be submitted to a jury if the case be equitable[1] or if by the pleadings and prayers it has become so.[2]

§ 10. Decree or judgment on the report; confirmation or overruling, recommittal or additional findings, modification, conformity of judgment with report.[3]—The report of the referee is merely advisory to the court and may be adopted, modified or rejected by the latter as it sees fit;[4] but the testimony being conflicting, it has the weight of a verdict and is not to be set aside unless clearly erroneous,[5] and the reference being by consent and the referee being given the power to finally decide all questions, his findings, so far as they are within his jurisdiction, are conclusive;[6] but the case being one wherein a compulsory reference would have been proper, the court has power to enter a contrary judgment without retrying the cause.[7] By consenting that the referee's findings be submitted to the court for determination on the merits, parties are precluded from assigning error to the court's ruling substituting its own findings for those of the referee.[8]

The court may by its judgment correct any error of law[9] or of fact[10] apparent on the face of the report.

Presumptions are in favor of rather than against the referee's[11] or auditor's[12] report.

An auditor being appointed under the usual rule and his report being merely evidence, the question of recommittal is one of discretion,[13] and the decision of the

97. Tippin v. Perry [Ga.] 50 S. E. 35.

98. Motion being made at special term and before any judgment had been entered, and before any case had been offered for settlement held premature. Underwood v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 45 Misc. 62, 90 N. Y. S. 832.

99. Bakshian v. Hassanoff [Mass.] 71 N. E. 555.

1. Partnership accounting without dissolution but where one partner excludes the other from his rights. Hogan v. Walsh [Ga.] 50 S. E. 84.

2. Claim case in which claimant filed petition for equitable relief in aid of his claim. Austin v. Southern Home Bldg. & L. Ass'n [Ga.] 50 S. E. 382.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1489.

4. Report of referee on the account of an executor. In re Courtney's Estate [Mont.] 79 P. 317; Sullivan v. Sullivan [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1022. Where evidence reported was uncertain and insufficient and findings did not seem to cover all the issues and seemed to be contrary to undisputed evidence, held not an abuse of discretion to vacate report and order a new trial before itself. Id.

5. Trustees of Dartmouth College v. International Paper Co., 132 F. 89.

6. Electric Supply & Maintenance Co. v. Conway Elec. Light & Power Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 983.

7. West v. Bank of Caruthersville [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 601.

8. Hodges v. Graham [Neb.] 98 N. W. 418. In such a case the appellate court will only consider the correctness of the findings, and judgment of the trial court. Id.

9. It makes no difference that no exceptions of law have been filed, or if filed, have been withdrawn. Wade v. Peacock, 121 Ga. 816, 49 S. E. 826.

10. Thus the sufficiency of evidence to support the master's findings may be considered if he returns it, though the reference did not require him to do so and though a special order to do so was refused. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

11. Where it appeared that referee could hardly have reached the conclusion he did unless he took notice of a certain fact, held error to assume that he did not so do. In re Muller, 96 App. Div. 619, 88 N. Y. S. 673.

12. Equity case. Burden is on party assigning error to show that it was unsupported by evidence. Fowler v. Davis, 120 Ga. 442, 47 S. E. 951.

13. Tripp v. Macomber [Mass.] 72 N. E. 361. Where defendant was out of the country and letters telling him of litigation failed to reach him, held denial of a motion to recommit was erroneous. Harmon v. Stuart [Ky.] 84 S. W. 524. Plaintiff entering up judgment on the referee's report in violation of a stipulation between the parties, whereby defendant was to be allowed time for filing a brief, is ground for referring the case back, though the stipulation be not brought to the attention of the referee. Mercantile Nat. Bank v. Sire, 91 N. Y. S. 419. Held error to recommit, the report not being objectionable as being "of matters not at issue, and not within the submission." Electric Supply & Maintenance Co. v. Conway Electric Light & Power Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 983.

court upon it is not open to exception;[14] but when an auditor's finding is to be final on questions of fact, it has a different function, and is to receive other treatment than a report made under the usual rule.[15] A report being recommitted for further evidence and the referee dying before reporting, an order providing that the case shall be heard on the report made by the first referee and additional evidence taken is erroneous,[16] and an order appointing another referee to take further evidence and report is appealable.[17] An auditor's report will not be recommitted as indefinite if complete though brief.[18]

The settling of a decree based on a referee's report devolves upon the court at special term,[19] and the latter's power is confined to making the decree conform to the referee's decision.[20] When the report is set aside an opinion should be filed stating reasons.[21] There being omissions in the decree upon the referee's report, a party's remedy is by motion to amend,[22] and on such motion the desired amendments should be clearly specified.[23]

The ruling of the judge leaves all the findings of the referee in force except as overruled or modified thereby.[24] The report being set aside, the case stands as though it had never been referred,[25] and a recital in the judgment that the report was set aside is presumptively correct.[26] The decision of confirmation cannot determine rights not before the referee or court.[27] Failure of the judge to formally approve the exceptions of fact before submitting the case to the jury is a mere irregularity.[28]

§ 11. Appellate review.[29]—A refusal to recommit is not appealable.[30] Findings will not be reviewed unless the evidence is brought up,[31] and unless the evidence is reported the findings are presumed to have been supported thereby.[32] Exceptions must be taken below.[33] The findings of fact of a consent referee are not reviewable on a writ of error further than to ascertain if they are sufficient to warrant the judgment of the court.[34] The decision of the referee as to a question of fact will not be disturbed on appeal unless greatly against the weight of the evidence.[35] Where the referee's report is to be final on the facts, the appellate

14, 15. Tripp v. Macomber [Mass.] 72 N. E. 361.

16, 17. Davidson v. Copeland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 33.

18. Fowler v. Davis, 120 Ga. 442, 47 S. E. 951.

19. Union Bag & Paper Co. v. Allen Bros. Co., 94 App. Div. 595, 88 N. Y. S. 368. Not upon the referee. Id.

20. Union Bag & Paper Co. v. Allen Bros. Co., 94 App. Div. 595, 88 N. Y. S. 368.

21. Horn & Brannen Mfg. Co. v. Steelman, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 126; Furth v. Stahl, 205 Pa. 439, 55 A. 29.

22. Union Bag & Paper Co. v. Allen Bros. Co., 94 App. Div. 595, 88 N. Y. S. 368. Not by motion to vacate. Id.

23. Union Bag & Paper Co. v. Allen Bros. Co., 94 App. Div. 595, 88 N. Y. S. 368.

24. The rulings of the judge affecting only the referee's conclusions of law, his findings of fact remain in force. Ramsey v. Browder, 136 N. C. 251, 48 S. E. 651.

25. Court has no right to try the issues of fact, and should either refer it again, if the parties so agree, or submit the issues to a jury. Stroup v. Bridger, 124 Iowa, 401, 100 N. W. 113.

26. Stroup v. Bridger, 124 Iowa, 401, 100 N. W. 113.

27. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Hoffman House, 96 App. Div. 301, 89 N. Y. S. 281.

28. Civ. Code 1895, § 4596. Malette v. Wright, 120 Ga. 735, 48 S. E. 229.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1490.

30, 31. Bakshian v. Hassanoff [Mass.] 71 N. E. 555.

32. In such a case held an objection that various items were allowed without evidence will not be reviewed. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

33. Bakshian v. Hassanoff [Mass.] 71 N. E. 555. In the absence of objection, the legality of an allowance made by an auditor is not open on appeal. May's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 267.

34. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Hampton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 734.

35. Curnen v. Reilly, 90 N. Y. S. 974; Taylor v. Folz, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 1; Union Trac. Co. v. Grubb, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 345; W. & T. Allen & Co. v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 242. Where there were no objections. Citizens' Coal Min. Co. v. McDermott [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 459. Findings of a referee on oral testimony, as well as depositions, confirmed by the court, will be given the same weight and effect on appeal as a verdict. Chancellor v. Teel [Ala.] 37 So. 665. The findings of fact by a consent referee have the same conclusiveness as the verdict of a jury, or the findings of fact by a court sitting as a jury. Greenhaw v. Combs [Ark.] 85 S. W. 768.

court may regard an unexplained refusal to recommit as equivalent to a ruling that there was no error with the referee's dealings with the questions of evidence.[36] If the decree on a report and the exceptions thereto are too complicated to admit of decision and correction of errors, without restating an account, the decree may be reversed with directions to recommit.[37]

§ 12. Compensation, fees and costs.[38]—In the absence of statute the amount of the referee's compensation rests in the discretion of the court,[39] and if abused such discretion cannot be reviewed.[40] In New York one waiving the statutory fees must fix the compensation to be paid.[41] Referee's fees being part of the costs, they are not preferred debts.[42] A motion by a referee for the payment of his fees is a motion in the cause.[43] Stenographer's compensation forming part of the referee's fees, that the latter were taken in bulk and at less than their face value does not prevent the stenographer from recovering the reasonable value of his services,[44] and in such a case evidence of the referee as to how much he received, and of the party who made the payment to the referee as to how much he paid, was admissible.[45] The referee having discretion as to the award of costs,[46] the only method by which its exercise can be challenged is by an appeal from the judgment.[47] The fee of an auditor fixed by himself may become conclusive if not seasonably objected to,[48] especially if leave to except nunc pro tunc be refused.[49]

REFORMATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

§ 1. The Remedy (1264).
A. Nature and Office (1264).
B. Right to Remedy (1265).
C. Instruments Reformable (1267).
§ 2. Procedure (1267).
A. Jurisdiction and Form of Proceeding (1267).
B. Parties (1268).
C. Pleading and Evidence (1268).
D. Trial and Judgment (1270).

§ 1. The remedy. A. Nature and office.[50]—Reformation is the equitable remedy whereby written instruments, which, through mutual mistake of fact, or mistake on one side accompanied by fraud on the other, fail to express the real agreement of the parties, are made to conform to such agreement.[51]

36. Especially where the questions of evidence were of such a nature as to have had an effect upon his findings. Tripp v. Macomber [Mass.] 72 N. E. 361.

37. Clark v. Hendricks Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 455.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1491.

39. Allowance of $2,150 to referee for 30 days' services held excessive and reduced to $1,000. Jordon v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 396.

40. Under Clarke's Code [3d Ed.] § 533, providing that the fees of the referee shall be fixed by the court and taxed against either party, or apportioned as seems right to the court, the apportionment is a final judgment both as to the amount and the apportionment (Cobb v. Rhea [N. C.] 49 S. E. 161), and rests in the discretion of the judge making the allowance, subject to exception and review by appeal in case of abuse. Such order cannot be changed by a subsequent coordinate judge (Id.).

41. Code Civ. Proc. § 3296. Stipulation "that referee shall not be confined to the statutory compensation, but may charge and be paid a reasonable compensation for the services performed" is invalid. New York Mut. Sav. & L. Ass'n v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 710.

42. Under Clarke's Code [3d Ed.] § 533, such fees not being paid in advance by an administrator judgments therefor, including the part of the referee's fees adjudged against the estate, take no greater pro rata than the judgment of which they are a part. Cobb v. Rhea [N. C.] 49 S. E. 161. The fact that funds derived from a sale of realty to make assets in another proceeding are in the hands of the clerk does not authorize the court to order payment of such fees out of those funds as a preferred debt. Id.

43. Where motions were made in separate actions between the same parties but which were consolidated, held appeal from decision rendered should be entitled by the name of the first action in which the motion was made. Cobb v. Rhea [N. C.] 49 S. E. 161.

44. Poucher v. Faber, 92 N. Y. S. 870. But see Poucher v. Faber, 90 N. Y. S. 385, where the opposite is held.

45. Poucher v. Faber, 90 N. Y. S. 385.

46. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1836, providing that if a claim has been unreasonably resisted or neglected costs may be awarded against an executor or administrator, the award of costs is discretionary with the referee. Domeyer v. Hoes, 90 N. Y. S. 1074.

47. Code Civ. Proc. § 1836, providing for costs against an administrator, construed. Domeyer v. Hoes, 90 N. Y. S. 1074.

48, 49. McHenry v. Finletter, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 636.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1492.

(§ 1) B. Right to remedy.[52]—While a pure mistake of law is not a ground for equitable relief,[53] reformation may be had where the parties through mutual mistake as to the legal effect and operation of the language used have failed to make the writing express their intended agreement.[54] A unilateral mistake of fact is ground for rescission and cancellation of a contract but not for reformation.[55] But reformation will be decreed where the mistake is mutual[56] or where there is a mistake on one side and the other party has been guilty of fraud or inequitable conduct.[57] Mutual mistake frequently arises where the scrivener makes an error in reducing the agreement of the parties to writing,[58] as where a deed is not made to convey the intended estate.[59] A mutual mistake as to the land conveyed is ground for reformation, even though the parties intentionally used the descriptive terms employed, when such terms do not in fact apply to the land sought to be conveyed.[60]

Where a deed of gift expresses the donor's intention at the time of its execu-

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1492, and cases cited under § 1B.

52, 53. See 2 Curr. L. 1492.

54. Conner v. Baxter, 124 Iowa, 219, 99 N. W. 726; Norris v. Belcher Land Mortg. Co. [Tex.] 82 S. W. 500; Zieschang v. Helmke [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 436. Error as to the sufficiency of language to put in legal form a transaction upon which the minds of the parties have met is ground for equitable relief. Rowell v. Smith [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1. Where the evidence clearly showed a mutual mistake as to the effect of language used in a clause in a deed calling for construction of a pass, the deed should be reformed so as to call for a pass under the tracks of the size agreed upon. Owens v. Carthage & W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 987. Where parties to a note intended to bind only the corporation, but the language used made the directors personally liable, they were entitled to have it reformed to express the intention of both parties. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. McMillen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 512.

55. Coleman v. Illinois Life Ins. Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 616. Reformation on ground that description included more than grantor intended to convey, refused where it appeared that grantee believed she was buying all the land included in the description, and was not guilty of fraud. Greenhaw v. Combs [Ark.] 85 S. W. 768.

56. If land is excepted from the description in a deed by mutual mistake of the parties, equity will correct the deed. Pinchback v. Bessemer Min. & Mfg. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 106. Evidence and conduct of parties held to warrant reformation of lease by striking therefrom certain words inserted by mutual mistake. Fox v. Coggeshall, 95 App. Div. 410, 88 N. Y. S. 676. Evidence held to show that warranty that premises were used exclusively for dwelling purposes was inserted in policy by mistake, and to warrant reformation by striking such warranty out. Schuessler v. Fire Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 649. Where both parties thought a lot reconveyed was the same one formerly conveyed by the grantee to the grantor, but the description was of lot 4 instead of lot 3, there was a mutual mistake. Metcalfe v. Lowenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 362. Insurance policy, covering a stock of goods reformed, where the evidence was sufficient to show that the goods were, by mutual mistake, described as being in a building other than where they were located. Warner, Moore & Co. v. Western Assur. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 499. Equity will reform a written contract so as to express the real intention of the partiee, as disclosed by their negotiations, though the evidence does not show fraud, accident or mistake. Stelpflug v. Wolfe [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1130.

57. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180; Duke v. Stuart, 45 Misc. 120, 91 N. Y. S. 885. Where defendant procured the execution of a written compromise which omitted a provision for payment of plaintiff, such conduct was a fraud on plaintiff, for which equity would reform the instrument by inserting the provision for payment and a lien as intended by the parties. Davy v. Davy, 90 N. Y. S. 242. Lease reformed so as to include provision permitting removal of improvements, when it appeared that plaintiff took advantage of defendant's belief that the lease contained such provision, and of his situation and illiteracy. Daly v. Simonson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 780. A deed procured by fraud expressed a consideration of $500, while that agreed on was $3,000. Held, reformation proper remedy. Gillis v. Arringdale, 135 N. C. 295, 47 S. E. 429.

58. As where a conveyance located an easement on the wrong property. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. Evidence sufficient to show that real contract was not embodied in writing, by mistake of scrivener and oversight of parties. Kitchens v. Uery, 121 Ga. 294, 48 S. E. 945.

59. Nutall v. Nutall, 26 Ky. L. R. 671, 82 S. W. 377. Description in deed incorrect, the vendor, vendee and scrivener all participating in the mistake. Slack v. Craft [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1014. Evidence sufficient to prove intention of grantor to be to convey only a life estate, and not a fee, subject to a life estate, and that the scrivener made a mistake. Newland v. First Baptist Church Soc. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 612.

60. Miles v. Miles [Miss.] 37 So. 112.

tion, the fact that he subsequently changed his mind will not warrant reformation of the deed so as to include a revocation clause.[61]

Where a lease, made under a decree in a suit to settle boundary and title to land, contains a line or boundary different from that authorized by the decree, omitting a part of the tract, either through fraud or mistake, the lessee being ignorant of the physical effect of the line, as a fact, equity will reform the lease.[62]

A contract within the statute of frauds, defectively reduced to writing, cannot, in the absence of fraud, be reformed by equity so as to conform to the statute,[63] and to the agreement of the parties, unless part performance of the agreement is established whereby it is taken out of the statute.[64]

A mortgage having become extinct by foreclosure, the omission of property by mistake in the execution of the instrument is no ground for reformation either of the mortgage or the decree of foreclosure.[65] But the fact that a mistake in the description in an instrument creating a mechanic's lien was not discovered until after suit had been brought on the contract, and judgment obtained foreclosing the lien, cannot defeat the right of the lienors to have the mistake corrected and to have foreclosure of their lien upon the property intended to be described in the contract.[66]

As a general rule, equity will not decree reformation of an instrument at the instance of a mere volunteer who is not a party to the instrument.[67] While equity

61. Deed was executed, giving children fee subject to donor's life estate, the donor knowing the provisions of the deed. Thirteen years thereafter he brought suit to reform the deed by inserting a revocation clause, which he alleged had been omitted by mistake of the scrivener, but it appeared that he had changed his mind owing to family dissensions. Held, relief denied. Van Houten v. Van Houten [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 555.

62. Le Comte v. Carson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 238.

63. Collateral contract of guaranty. Rowell v. Smith [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1.

64. An instrument not purporting to be a lease because not containing a sufficient description of the premises, and not being signed by lessees, cannot be reformed as a lease without proof of part performance. Browder v. Phinney [Wash.] 79 P. 598.

Note: As to the reformation of contracts within the statute of frauds, it is said in a note to Williams v. Hamilton [104 Iowa, 423], 65 Am. St. Rep. 501, that "notwithstanding some little diversity of opinion on the subject, especially with respect to executory contracts, it is clear that, in most of the cases, courts of equity reform contracts, both executed and executory, irrespective of the statute of frauds. In other words, the statute does not prevent a court from reforming the written evidence of a contract within the statute, by enlarging or restricting the terms or the subject-matter of the contract, so as to make it express the real agreement whenever it is clearly shown that, by reason of fraud or mistake, either the terms or the subject-matter of the contract, as it was intended and understood by the parties to it, is not embraced in the writing." Citing Noel v. Gill, 84 Ky. 241, 249; Ruhling v. Hackett, 1 Nev. 360, 365; Judson v. Miller, 106 Mich. 140; Conaway v. Gore, 24 Kan. 389; Blackburn v. Randolph, 33 Ark. 119; Morrison v. Collier, 79 Ind. 417; Thompson v. Marshall, 36 Ala. 504, 76 Am. Dec. 328. In granting such relief the statute of frauds is said not to be violated, but "uplifted," that it may not perpetrate the fraud that the legislature designed it to prevent. Noel v. Gill, 84 Ky. 241, 249. A contract required by the statute to be in writing cannot, of course, be enforced until it is in writing. Kidd v. Carson, 33 Md. 37, 42; Carskaddon v. South Bend, 141 Ind. 596. But the statute does not interfere with the power of a court of equity to reform deeds or other instruments in which the parties intended to comply with the statute, but were prevented by fraud, accident or mistake. Blackburn v. Randolph, 33 Ark. 119; Petesch v. Hambach, 48 Wis. 443.

In the case of executory contracts, there are a few authorities which hold that oral testimony cannot be received in equity to reform the written contract on account of fraud or mutual mistake, and to specifically enforce it as reformed. Macomber v. Peckham, 16 R. I. 485; Davis v. Ely, 104 N. C. 16, 17 Am. St. Rep. 667; Elder v. Elder, 10 Me. 80, 25 Am. Dec. 205; Glass v. Hulbert, 102 Mass. 24, 3 Am. Rep. 418; Osborn v. Phelps, 19 Conn. 63, 48 Am. Dec. 133.

See discussion of cases in McDonald v. Yungbluth, 46 F. 836; note to Gillespie v. Moon [N. Y.] 7 Am. Dec. 567-569; also discussion by Judge Marshall in the recent case of Rowell v. Smith [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1.

65. Stewart v. Wilson [Ala.] 37 So. 550.

66. Where plaintiffs offered to do equity by reconveying the property obtained under the other foreclosure, equity would set aside that foreclosure and foreclose the lien on the intended property. Silliman v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 651.

67. Gould v. Glass, 120 Ga. 50, 47 S. E. 505.

will not reform a deed at the instance of a voluntary grantee,[68] yet where parties derive title from a common source and the real intent of the common grantor is in dispute, such intent being ascertained, equity will enforce it by the remedy of reformation.[69]

As in the case of other equitable remedies, the existence of an adequate remedy at law bars relief by reformation.[70]

Laches; limitations; bar of other action.[71]—Equity will not grant relief by reformation to persons who have been guilty of laches, negligence or inequitable conduct,[72] especially when a change in the situation would injuriously affect the rights or status of innocent third parties.[73] Slight circumstances excusing failure to examine a deed before accepting it are sufficient to prevent a finding of negligence on the part of the grantee as a matter of law.[74]

The statute of limitations does not begin to run against a suit for reformation on the ground of mistake until the mistake has been discovered.[75] The statute of limitations relative to actions on written contracts, and not that governing actions for relief on the ground of fraud, applies to a suit in equity to reform an instrument and to recover on it as reformed.[76]

An unsuccessful action at law on a contract, unreformed, is not a bar to a suit in equity to reform the instrument and recover on it as reformed.[77]

(§ 1) C. Instruments reformable.[78]—The remedy is applicable to any written instrument which purports to express an agreement.[79]

§ 2. Procedure. A. Jurisdiction and form of proceeding.[80]—The court of claims has jurisdiction to reform a contract for public work in the District of Columbia in order to determine the amount due the contractor thereunder.[81] The Texas county court, sitting as a court of probate, and the district court on appeal, having jurisdiction to hear evidence as to a mistake in reducing a contract to writ-

68. Miles v. Miles [Miss.] 37 So. 112. Part of the consideration for a conveyance of certain lands to plaintiffs being the purchase of an interest in the grantor's estate, such grantees were not mere volunteers so as to preclude relief by reformation. Id.

69. As where a deed from a grantor to his son was part of a family settlement, and part of the consideration passing to the grantor for dividing the property was the purchase by such son of his brother's interest, the parties occupying the same position as though they had undertaken to divide inherited property and a mutual mistake had occurred. Miles v. Miles [Miss.] 37 So. 112.

70. Action for breach of contract, held not adequate remedy so as to bar equitable relief including reformation. Loyd v. Phillips [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1092.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1493, 1494, as to laches.

72. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705. Where no claim to land was made for 10 years, equity would not grant relief for mistake in description in deed. Moore v. Crump [Miss.] 37 So. 109.

73. Reformation of contract and deeds running to complainant and another, so as to make former sole grantee, refused, complainant having been negligent after discovery of mistake. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705. A purchaser who knew of mistakes in his deed and a deed to adjoining lots, but took no steps to remedy the defects, but, instead, took down his line fence and put up a building partly on land not intended to be conveyed, took the risk of a subsequent reformation of his deed. Slack v. Craft [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1014. Where grantee accepts deed and goes into possession and grantor changes position on strength of acceptance, mutual mistake cannot be urged by grantee. Kruse v. Koelzer [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1072.

74. Plaintiff held to have been justified in relying on execution of a deed by grantor's wife in accordance with her promise. Loyd v. Phillips [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1092.

75. Same rule as to cancellation, under direct provisions of Code, § 3448. Bottorff v. Lewis, 121 Iowa, 27, 95 N. W. 262.

76. As to reform insurance policy by inserting provision consenting to concurrent insurance. Grand View Bldg. Ass'n v. Northern Assur. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 246.

77. Reformation of insurance policy to make it express consent to concurrent insurance. Grand View Bldg. Ass'n v. Northern Assur. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 246.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1494.

79. See cases cited under § 1B. Also 2 Curr. L. 1494. The rule that equity will correct a misdescription due to a mutual mistake applies to an instrument whereby a man and wife seek to create a mechanic's lien on their homestead. Silliman v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 651.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1495.

81. By District of Columbia claims act of June 16, 1880. District of Columbia v. Barnes, 25 S. Ct. 401.

ing, in classifying claims against an estate, have also power to grant the appropriate relief.[82] Where married women are authorized by law to devise and convey their lands as if unmarried, equity has jurisdiction to reform the deed of a married woman conveying her own land.[83]

In a Federal court a written contract cannot be reformed in an action at law.[84] Under the mixed system of jurisprudence prevailing in some states, which permits the interposition of equitable defenses in common-law actions, reformation of an instrument may be had in an action at common law.[85] But proof of the ground on which reformation is so sought must be sufficient to satisfy the conscience of a chancellor.[86] A suit to reform a deed of gift on the ground that a revocation clause was omitted by mistake of the scrivener is within the original jurisdiction of the chancery court.[87] The bill for reformation being in such case tried as an equity cause, it is immaterial that it contains allegations required by statute in actions to quiet title.[88] A contract may be reformed in a suit for specific performance,[89] but equity will not compel a party to sign a contract and then enforce specific performance of the contract as reformed.[90]

(§ 2) B. Parties.[91]—The general rule is that in a suit to reform a deed the grantor in the deed, or, if dead, his heirs, and those claiming under him, are necessary parties.[92] Hence persons under whom defendants claim by deeds of warranty made since the mistake or accident is alleged to have occurred must be made parties.[93] But where the title of a grantee in the deed sought to be reformed has been acquired by complainants without warranty, such grantee is not a necessary party to the bill.[94] In a suit to correct the description in a trust deed and foreclose the same, the holder of a second trust deed on the same property, containing the same errors, is entitled to be made a party and to have the same relief as to his deed.[95] A description in a mortgage will not be corrected to the prejudice of creditors without notice.[96] A corporation for which a contract of lease was procured may sue for reformation of the contract after the rights of the person procuring it have been assigned to the corporation.[97] If reformation of a contract is necessary to sustain a petition in bankruptcy against a corporation, the corporation should be made a party to the proceeding to reform, notwithstanding a previous default as to the petition, and though the petition did not ask for reformation.[98]

(§ 2) C. Pleading and evidence.[99]—A bill for reformation of a written instrument must show a mutual mistake, the agreement actually made, and that which the parties intended to make.[1] In an action to cancel a note and mort-

82. Ziechang v. Helmke [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 436.

83. Const. 1874. Mills v. Driver [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1058.

84. York City School Dist. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 131 F. 131.

85. Where plaintiff sued for loss by fire, and defendant interposed a release, plaintiff was entitled in the same action to show fraud, and reform the release so that it should cover only uninsured property. Highlands v. Philadelphia & R. Co., 209 Pa. 286, 58 A. 560.

86. Highlands v. Philadelphia & R. Co., 209 Pa. 286, 58 A. 560.

87. Such suit is not within 3 Gen. St. p. 3486, providing for an action to determine claims to realty and quiet title. Van Houten v. Van Houten [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 555.

88. Van Houten v. Van Houten [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 555.

89. Pleading held to warrant reformation, and decree held to have included reformation, by necessary implication. Conner v. Baxter, 124 Iowa, 219, 99 N. W. 726.

90. Thus, where a writing did not purport to be a contract between two persons, but recited dealings of the signer with himself, the owner of the land concerned could not be required to sign. Kaster v. Mason [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1083.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1495.

92, 93, 94. Indian River Mfg. Co. v. Wooten [Fla.] 37 So. 731.

95. Scott v. Gordon [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 550.

96. German National Bank v. Bode, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 30.

97. Pittsburgh Amusement Co. v. Ferguson, 91 N. Y. S. 666.

98. In re Imperial Corporation, 133 F. 73.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1496.

1. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180.

gage for an alleged breach of warranty in a deed, the defendant may seek reformation of the deed and mortgage in one paragraph of his answer and cancellation in another.[2] A petition containing only general allegations of mistake is insufficient; it should state how the mistake was made, and whose mistake it was or what brought it about.[3]

The proof must show substantially as alleged in the pleadings that there was in fact a valid agreement sufficiently expressing in terms the real intention of the parties;[4] that there was in fact a written contract which failed to express such real intention;[5] and that this failure was due to mutual mistake, or to mistake of one side and fraud or inequitable conduct of the other.[6] Proof of fraud or mistake must be by competent evidence which is consistent, clear and convincing;[7] a mere preponderance of evidence is not enough.[8] Direct and positive proof that an instrument does not express the intention of the parties may not be necessary if the acts and conduct of the parties, as clearly shown by the evidence, justifies an inference necessary to enable the court to grant relief.[9] There is a strong presumption that an instrument examined and deliberately signed by the parties is what they intended it to be.[10] Parol evidence is competent to show and explain the mistake, and to show what was the real contract.[11] A mutual mistake of parties whereby certain land is excepted in the description in a deed may be shown by extrinsic evidence.[12] But if such mistake is shown by discrepancies between essential recitals in the deed and the description, equity will make the correction upon inspection of the deed.[13]

2. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 350, permitting a defendant to set up all his defenses of whatever nature. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180.

3. Gould v. Glass, 120 Ga. 50, 47 S. E. 505.

4. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705. There must be an actual agreement. Conner v. Baxter, 124 Iowa, 219, 99 N. W. 726.

5. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705. There must be a writing purporting to express a contract. Kaster v. Mason [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1083.

6. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705 (citing 2 Curr. L. 1492, 1493).

7. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705 (citing 2 Curr. L. 1497). Proof must be clear, convincing, and satisfactory. If there be a substantial doubt, plaintiff must fail. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 502. Must be clear evidence of mutual mistake. Kruse v. Koelzer [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1072. Trial court held not to have overruled defendant's claim that plaintiff must prove his case beyond reasonable doubt. Jenner v. Brooks [Conn.] 59 A. 508. Proof need not be indubitable in the sense that there must be no opposing testimony, but in the sense that it must carry a clear conviction of its truth. Highlands v. Philadelphia R. Co., 209 Pa. 286, 58 A. 560.

Evidence insufficient to show mistake whereby note and mortgage read $200 instead of $250. Denny v. Barber [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1055. Direct conflict in testimony as to mutuality of mistake held conclusive as against reformation. Coleman v. Illinois Life Ins. Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 616. Evidence insufficient to prove erroneous description in contract of sale through mutual mistake whereby there was an alleged shortage in land conveyed. Albro v. Gowland, 90 N. Y. S. 796. Evidence insufficient to support finding that conveyance should have included certain mining property, where property had been sold by a receiver according to descriptions in the inventory. Joswich v. Faber [Minn.] 101 N. W. 614.

Evidence sufficient to reform a release for fraud. Highlands v. Philadelphia & R. Co., 209 Pa. 286, 58 A. 560. Evidence of mutual mistake held to be clear and convincing beyond a reasonable doubt so as to warrant reformation. Schaefer v. Mills [Kan.] 76 P. 436.

8. Fritz v. Fritz [Minn.] 102 N. W. 705 (citing 2 Curr. L. 1497); Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Murphy [Iowa] 101 N. W. 441; Duke v. Stuart, 45 Misc. 120, 91 N. Y. S. 885.

9. Evidence held sufficient to warrant reformation of deed. Jenner v. Brooks [Conn.] 59 A. 508.

10. Duke v. Stuart, 45 Misc. 120, 91 N. Y. S. 885.

11. Parol evidence admissible to show that by mistake of scrivener deed did not convey intended estate. Nutall v. Nutall, 26 Ky. L. R. 671, 82 S. W. 377. In a suit in equity to correct a deed for mutual mistake, parol evidence of a preliminary agreement between the parties is admissible. Lehew v. Hewett [N. C.] 50 S. E. 459. Parol evidence is competent to show that a note which is so drawn as to render directors personally liable was intended to bind only the corporation. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. McMillen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 512. Parol evidence is admissible to show the real contract, and that by mistake of the scrivener and oversight of the parties the writing did not express the entire agreement. Kitchens v. Usry, 121 Ga. 294, 48 S. E. 945.

12, 13. Pinchback v. Bessemer Min. & Mfg. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 106.

(§ 2) D. Trial and judgment.[14]—The usual rules as to instructions apply.[15] In a suit for a conveyance or reformation of a deed, a prayer for a conveyance warrants a decree that the deed should have a seal,[16] even though no one had yet questioned plaintiff's title, and though plaintiff had also a good title by adverse possession.[17] Though a complaint did not seek a money judgment, where the verdict found fraud in inserting a consideration less than that agreed on in a deed, it was error in a suit for reformation to refuse leave to amend so as to admit a money judgment.[18]

REFORMATORIES; REGISTERS OF DEEDS; REHEARING; REJOINDERS, see latest topical index.

RELEASES.

§ 1. Nature, Form and Requisites (1270).
§ 2. Parties to Release (1271).
§ 3. Interpretation, Construction and Effect (1271).
§ 4. Defenses to or Avoidance of Release (1273).
§ 5. Pleading, Proof and Practice (1274).

This topic treats only of formal releases, relegating settlements and the effect of the release as an accord and satisfaction to appropriate topics.[19]

§ 1. Nature, form and requisites.[20]—A release is the giving up or abandoning a claim or right to the person against whom the claim exists, or the right is to be exercised or enforced.[21] It is based on the principles applicable to contracts,[22] and must be definite in its terms,[23] mutually assented to, without fraud,[24] or duress,[25] executed[26] by parties competent to contract,[27] and supported by a consideration.[28] A written release imports a consideration.[29] The consideration, however, need not

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1498.

15. The word "impression" held equivalent to "mistake" in an instruction in substance that plaintiff was entitled to reformation if both parties were under the impression that other property was described by the deed. Metcalfe v. Lowenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 362.

16. Since under Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 4029, a conveyance is a writing "sealed by the grantor." Jenner v. Brooks [Conn.] 59 A. 508.

17. Since under his agreement with defendant he was entitled to a valid deed. Jenner v. Brooks [Conn.] 59 A. 508.

18. Gillis v. Arringdale, 135 N. C. 295, 47 S. E. 429.

19. See Accord and Satisfaction, 3 Curr. L. 17. Seaman's release, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 2 Curr. L. 1648.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1498.

21. Cyc. Law. Dict. 786.

22. See Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805.

23. Conversation between a member of a partnership and a creditor of the firm relative to a release of such partner from liability to which the creditor said "All right" held not to constitute a release. Isaac Goldman Co. v. Wilkes, 88 N. Y. S. 390.

24. Whether false representations inducing the execution of a release were made is a question for the jury. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 248; State v. Stuart [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 471. Evidence as to whether a claim agent in procuring a release for damages for personal injuries and property lost, concealed the real nature of the transaction held a question for the jury. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682. Release of damages for injuries procured from a passenger held void for fraud. International, etc., R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189. Fraudulent promise of employment to procure release. Rapid Tr. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 86 S. W. 322.

25. Evidence held insufficient to show that a release was executed through fear of imprisonment. Naretti v. Scully, 133 F. 828.

26. Evidence held for the jury as to whether there had been a release of the contract sued on. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234. Evidence held to establish the execution of a release. Sterling v. Chapin, 92 N. Y. S. 904.

27. Release of damages for personal injuries obtained while one was suffering great pain, was locked up in a car with a number of injured persons, and after he had been given whisky, held obtained by fraud. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 83 S. W. 332. Testimony of four witnesses that one signing release for personal injuries was conscious at the time of signing and that he comprehended its contents held to show full mental capacity at the time. Laird v. Union Traction Co., 208 Pa. 574, 57 A. 987. Mental or physical infirmity. State v. Stuart [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 471.

28. Evidence insufficient to show want of consideration. Naretti v. Scully, 133 F. 828. Evidence as to whether a release was executed on an employer's agreement to pay for lost time held for the jury. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Minter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 477.

29. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, a consideration is presumed. Adams v. Hopkins, 114 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

be adequate in value,[30] but if it fails entirely, the legal effect of the release is destroyed.[31]

A writing in form a receipt may be a release,[32] but will not be given such effect unless so intended.[33]

An agreement that all the rights of parties under a contract shall cease amounts to a release of a right of action growing out of such contract,[34] and is not deprived of its effect because of a clause stating that the contract is abrogated "in consequence of the notice heretofore given," although such notice was ineffectual to terminate the contract.[35] A release is technically a specialty, though parol accords and satisfactions are sometimes called releases.[36]

A release of a mere personal obligation need not be recorded, though it rests on consideration of a conveyance.[37]

§ 2. Parties to release.[38]—A general agent with power coextensive with the business has power to make a contract of release with an employe.[39] A principal who acquiesces in such release and complies for a considerable time with its terms thereby ratifies it.[40] A cause of action for unlawful death given to relatives in lieu of the right in the deceased had he lived may be released by the person injured during his lifetime.[41]

§ 3. Interpretation, construction and effect.[42]—A valid release is binding according to its terms,[43] which will be given a fair construction,[44] and is a bar to any action on the cause to which it refers.[45] It inures to the benefit of the party released, though delivered to another,[46] and the fact that the claim is still carried on

30. Sufficiency of particular considerations. See 2 Curr. L. 1498, n. 47. Forbs v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 107 Mo. App. 661, 82 S. W. 562. "For and in consideration of re-employment for such time only as may be satisfactory" to the employer is sufficient. Id. Contra, Re-employment for such time as might be satisfactory to the employer is not. Missourl, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 81 S. W. 22. "Employment for such time and in such capacity as may be satisfactory to the employer and not longer or otherwise" is void. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Minter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 477.

Compromise of a colorable claim is a sufficient consideration. Rutherford v. Rutherford, 55 W. Va. 56, 47 S. E. 240. One dollar and future employment is sufficient. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Minter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 477. Release for wrongful ejectment from a train for two dollars. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Heath, 26 Ky. L. R. 19, 80 S. W. 502. A mortgage cannot be released by a simple agreement that it shall be no longer of force. Lynn v. Bean [Ala.] 37 So. 515.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1498, n. 48. An action may be maintained on the cause released where the consideration was re-employment and the day after the servant executing the release resumed work he was discharged without cause under a design conceived prior to the execution of the release. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Keebler [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1167.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1498, n. 45.

33. A receipt "in full of all demands" executed and given for wages and a doctor's bill which the company had agreed to pay held not a release of damages for injuries sustained. Davis v. Diamond Carriage & Livery Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 596.

34, 35. Swarts v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 77.

36. See Accord and Satisfaction, 3 Curr. L. 17; 1 Curr. L. 8. If rights under a release may terminate within one year, it is not within the statute of frauds. See Frauds, Staute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527. A release in consideration of wages, nurse hire, doctor's bills and employment after recovery. Party releasing might have died within a year. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608. A release accepted by the party procuring it becomes binding on him, though he does not sign it and it contains no promise to pay the consideration mentioned. Id.

37. Obligation to support. Rutherford v. Rutherford, 55 W. Va. 56, 47 S. E. 240.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1499.

39. See Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68. Superintendent of quarry with authority to employ and discharge men. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608.

40. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608.

41. See Death by Wrongful Act, 3 Curr. L. 1034. Thompson v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 97 Tex. 590, 80 S. W. 990.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1499.

43. Instruction approved. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682.

44. An agreement to pay wages "during disability" is not limited to the period during which a nurse and doctor are required. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608.

45. Release of claims for support of a bastard child held not procured by fraud. Conlon v. Hearn, 96 App. Div. 608, 88 N. Y. S. 570.

46. A release of a claim for money advanced to purchase a membership in a stock on the books of the releasor cannot alter its effect.[47] If it relates to a cause of action it will be construed as applying to all claims arising therefrom,[48] but a release of one cause will not be construed as applicable to another,[49] nor a release of rights arising by virtue of a relationship as applying to a cause issuing from a foreign source.[50] Prospective releases will not be extended to injuries not contemplated by their terms.[51] A promise of employment cannot be added by parol proof to a release in consideration of a sum certain and the payment of medical expenses,[52] but the procuring of a release by promise to employ releasor without intention of doing so is fraudulent.[53]

A release of one of two joint contractors releases both.[54] There is a conflict as to whether a release of one joint tort feasor, independent of the question of full satisfaction, releases all.[55] If the release contain no reservation of rights against the others, it discharges them;[56] but if it does it is construed, not as a technical release, but as a covenant not to sue the party in whose favor it runs,[57] and the fact that an indemnity bond is given to the party released does not alter the character of the transaction,[58] but in an action against the others they are entitled to have the amount received for the release deducted from the full amount necessary to satisfy the claim.[59] A satisfaction by one discharges all.[60] exchange, delivered and filed with the stock exchange in conformity to its rules inures to the benefit of the party for whose benefit the membership was purchased. Sterling v. Chapin, 92 N. Y. S. 904.

47. Sterling v. Chapin, 92 N. Y. S. 904.

48. Release reciting that "his throat and breast were injured by falling on a peg and that he released the master from all claims arising from contract or tort" held sufficiently broad to cover an injury to sight when he subeequently became blind. Quebe v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 20.

49. A release of a statutory right of action against saloon keepers who sold the liquor to an intoxicated person who was injured is no bar to an action against the party whose negligence caused the injury. Fox v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 624. A release by the parent of an injured infant of his claim to one jointly liable is no bar to an action by the infant against the other. Nagle v. Hake [Wis.] 101 N. W. 409. A deed of property to a city for street purposes is not a release of damages for possible injury to property retained where it does not appear that the grantor has any reason to apprehend that the street will be so improved as to render it impossible to construct approaches to remaining property. City of Houston v. Bartels [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 323.

50. On termination of the relation of principal and agent, a stipulation that neither should have any claim against the other with respect to any matter arising out of the agency did not bar an action for a cause not arising out of the agency. Brown v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1056.

51. General words of exemption in case of shipments of glass and the words "owner's risk." Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co. v. New York, 99 App. Div. 327, 91 N. Y. S. 131. Release of prospective damages by killing of animals on a side track held not to apply to injuries on adjoining main track. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Stringer [Ark.] 86 S. W. 280.

52, 53. Rapid Tr. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 86 S. W. 322.

54. Rutherford v. Rutherford, 55 W. Va. 56, 47 S. E. 240.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1500, n. 65.

NOTE: Release of one joint tort feasor as release of all when there is a reservation of rights as against others than the one released. On this question there is a conflict of authority. Some courts are disposed to hold, and have held, that such a reservation is repugnant to the release in that it defeats or attempts to defeat the natural effect of the instrument, and should therefore be ignored. McBride v. Scott [Mich.] 93 N. W. 243, 61 L. R. A. 445; Abb v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 68 P. 954, 58 L. R. A. 293 and cases there cited. Other courts hold, however, that such an instrument should be given effect according to the obvious intent of the person executing it, and should not be treated as a technical release operating to destroy the cause of action against all the others, but rather as a covenant not to sue the party in whose favor the instrument runs. Gilbert v. Finch [N. Y.] 66 N. E. 133, 61 L. R. A. 807; Matthews v. Chicopee Mfg. Co., 3 Rob. [La.] 712; Ellis v. Esson, 50 Wis. 138, 6 N. W. 518, 36 Am. Rep. 830; Hood v. Hayward, 124 N. Y. 1, 16, 26 N. E. 331; Sloan v. Herrick, 49 Vt. 327; McCrittis v. Howes, 38 Me. 566; Miller v. Beck [Iowa] 79 N. W. 344; Price v. Barker, 4 El. & Bl. 760, 776. See Carey v. Bilby, 129 F. 203. See, also, note to Abb v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 58 L. R. A. 293.

56. Walsh v. Hanan, 93 App. Div. 580, 87 N. Y. S. 930.

57. Carey v. Bilby [C. C. A.] 129 F. 203; Walsh v. Hanan, 93 App. Div. 580, 87 N. Y. S. 930; Robertson v. Trammell [Tex.] 83 S. W. 1098. Dismissal of cause as to one and a release to him only which does not show a release of the cause of action or full satisfaction of the claim does not release the others. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258.

58. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex.] 83 S. W. 1098.

A release which constitutes a fraudulent conveyance cannot be impeached by the administrator of the party who executed it.[61]

§ 4. Defenses to or avoidance of release.[62]—A release procured from one mentally incompetent to transact business is not binding[63] unless subsequently ratified.[64] The releasor's state of health may be considered in determining mental capacity.[65] If procured by fraud either as to nature and extent of injuries,[66] or as to the nature of the instrument,[67] as by misreading it to the party from whom it is procured,[68] or in inducing one to sign without reading,[69] or upon collateral promises made without intention to perform them,[70] it is void, notwithstanding the fraud was not the sole inducement to its execution,[71] unless the party signing was negligent.[72] On conflicting evidence, whether a release was procured by fraud,[73] or whether

59, 60. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258.

61. See Fraudulent Conveyances, 3 Curr. L. 1535. Hayes v. Fry [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 772.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1500.

63. See ante, § 1. Bertrand v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 70, 82 S. W. 1089; Johnson v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1197.

From one under the influence of liquor to such a degree that he does not know what he is doing. Merril v. Pike [Minn.] 102 N. W. 393. Release executed while injured person was suffering pain and did not know what she was doing. Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain, 211 Ill. 589, 71 N. E. 1103.

Note: Where a release is procured while one is suffering from his injuries, etc., the question as to his capacity to execute is for the jury (Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 73 Miss. 110, 55 Am. St. Rep. 488; 1 Union Pac. R. Co. v. Harris, 158 U. S. 326, 39 Law. Ed. 1003; Gibson v. Western, etc., R. Co., 164 Pa. 142, 42 Am. St. Rep. 586; Och v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 130 Mo. 27; Bliss v. New York, etc., R. Co., 160 Mass. 447, 39 Am. St. Rep. 504), as is also the question of ratification (Jones v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 72 Miss. 22; Gibson v. Western, etc., R. Co., 164 Pa. 142, 44 Am. St. Rep. 586). A finding that the release was procured by fraud will not be disturbed where the evidence shows that it was signed by the releasor when he was incapable of transacting any important business or exercising an intelligent judgment on any subject. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips, 66 F. 35; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Harris, 63 F. 800; Northwestern Ins. Co. v. Woods, 54 Kan. 663; Jones v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 72 Miss. 22; Sanford v. Royal Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 653.—From Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Jones and note thereto 73 Miss. 110, 55 Am. St. Rep. 510.

64. One who uses money received for a release for personal injuries, with full knowledge of where the money came from, ratifies. Laird v. Union Traction Co., 208 Pa. 574, 57 A. 987.

65. Johnson v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1197.

66. A release of damages for injuries executed by a passenger who relies on the false representations of the carrier's physician as to the extent of the injuries is void for fraud. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189. False representations of a railroad company's physician are binding on the company. Id. Release procured by representations to an injured party that her injuries were slight; that the injured person's medical attendant had told the party procuring the release that she would be out in a day or two; that party procuring release was in a great hurry and could not wait until the physician could be sent for, held procured by fraud. Fleming v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 95 App. Div. 110, 88 N. Y. S. 732. Counsel by the company's physician that his injuries were slight, it appearing that the counsel was not given for the purpose of procuring the release, held insufficient to show fraud. Quebe v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 20.

67. Fraudulent representations that it was a receipt. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Goodwin, 120 Ga. 83, 47 S. E. 641.

68. New Omaha Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 102 N. W. 475, afg. 93 N. W. 966, cited 2 Curr. L. 1500, n. 73.

69. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 248. Where one is induced to execute a release by fraudulent representations as to her injuries, etc., the fact that she signs without reading is immaterial. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189.

70. Promise of employment. Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 86 S. W. 322.

71. Party executing was sorely in need of funds. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189.

72. "Release" written in capital letters at the top of the instrument. Hartley v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 398. One who can read and executes a release without reading it cannot be relieved from its effect because of want of knowledge of its contents. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 248; Rutherford v. Rutherford, 55 W. Va. 56, 47 S. E. 240. But a passenger who relies on the false representations of the carrier's physician as to the extent of her injuries is not negligent in failing to advise with others and further investigate the truth of the statements. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189.

73. One signing release testified that she was induced to sign by fraud and in ignorance of its contents; the released party testified to the contrary. Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain, 211 Ill. 589, 71 N. E. 1103. As to whether one was induced to sign a release by representations that it was a receipt. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill.

one executing without reading it is negligent,[74] are questions for the jury. Inadequacy of consideration is of itself insufficient,[75] but if grossly inadequate, it imports fraud.[76] It is not void because executed solely out of motives of kindness,[77] and the fact that injuries not apparent at the time are not foreseen is insufficient to avoid it for mistake.[78] The defense of fraud is not precluded by the fact that an employe executing a release to his employer remains in his employ.[79]

A release procured by fraud is no defense to[80] and may be impeached at the trial of an action founded on the claim to which it applies,[81] and the consideration received need not be returned as a condition precedent to the maintenance of such action,[82] and if tendered in the petition it need not be tendered in court.[83]

§ 5. Pleading, proof and practice.[84]—A fraudulent release may be set aside in an accounting in equity.[85] A release procured by fraudulent representations as to the nature of the instrument may be assailed at law,[86] but where the representations go to collateral matters or as to the nature and value of the consideration, resort must be had to equity.[87] A statutory right to tender issue of fraud by reply being remedial may be availed of in an action pending when the act was passed.[88] When so pleaded it is defensive by confession and avoidance and not an affirmative application for relief,[89] hence limitations stop when the action is begun, not when the reply is filed.[90] Under such a statute the complaint need not allege the release and impeach it for fraud.[91]

The defense of release pleaded by copy need not be under oath,[92] and is not bad because not containing the names of the witnesses, the answer stating that they are unknown.[93]

An instruction which eliminates a material defense[94] or issue[95] is bad.

174, 72 N. E. 195; Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Buzis, 213 Ill. 341, 72 N. E. 1060. Fraudulent representations of a physician and a representative of the company. Bjorklund v. Seattle Elec. Co., 35 Wash. 439, 77 P. 727.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 248.

75. See ante, § 1. Quebe v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 20.

76. Release of a one-half interest in an estate worth $2,700 for $200 held procured by fraud. Toomey v. Whitney, 94 App. Div. 154, 88 N. Y. S. 216. Evidence held to show that a claim agent and physician made fraudulent representations and procured a release for an inadequate consideration. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189.

77. Conductor wrongfully put a passenger off a train and she released him and the company for a nominal sum from all claim for damages so he would not lose his job. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Heath, 26 Ky. L. R. 19, 80 S. W. 502.

78. Quebe v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 20.

79. Bjorklund v. Seattle Elec. Co., 35 Wash. 439, 77 P. 727.

80. Release of damages for personal injuries. Bjorklund v. Seattle Elec. Co., 35 Wash. 439, 77 P. 727.

81. Fleming v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 95 App. Div. 110, 88 N. Y. S. 732.

82. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 83 S. W. 332; Jaques v. Sioux City Traction Co., 124 Iowa, 257, 99 N. W. 1069; Bjorklund v. Seattle Elec. Co., 35 Wash. 439, 77 P. 727.

83. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Shuford [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1189.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1501.

85. Partnership accounting. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170.

86. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195. That a release was procured by fraudulent representations that the instrument was a receipt may be shown at law. It is not necessary to return the consideration or resort to equity for cancellation of the instrument. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Buzis, 213 Ill. 341, 72 N. E. 1060.

87. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195. At law a release cannot be impeached for fraud not affecting the execution of the instrument but going only to the consideration. Hartley v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 398.

88. Rev. St. 1899, § 654. State v. Stuart [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 471.

89, 90. The 10-year period had elapsed when reply was filed. State v. Stuart [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 471.

91. State v. Stuart [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 471.

92, 93. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234.

94. Question of fraud not presented. Johnson v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1197.

95. Where one claimed that an amount received from a claim agent was a mere charity and not a consideration for a release, an instruction on the effect of the release excluding the issue of gift was properly refused. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682. Fraud. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 248.

In admiralty if the evidence fails to sustain the answer but tends to support another defense, an amendment will be allowed to set up such defense.[96] If executed after libel has been filed, it cannot be filed in satisfaction of a default judgment except on payment of costs.[97]

RELIEF FUNDS AND ASSOCIATIONS, see latest topical index.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.[1]

§ 1. Organization as a Corporation, and Status of Society (1275).
§ 2. Membership and Meetings (1275).
§ 3. Ministers (1276).
§ 4. Powers and Liabilities of Society in General (1276).
§ 5. Property and Funds (1276).
§ 6. Jurisdiction of Courts (1276).
§ 7. Actions By or Against Society or Members (1277).

§ 1. Organization as a corporation, and status of society.[2]—Statutes authorizing the incorporation of the trustees of religious societies do not confer upon such corporation any power or authority to interfere with matters relating strictly to spiritual concerns,[3] and under such statutes members of the congregation are not members of the corporation.[4] The members of an insolvent or dormant religious corporation may organize a new corporation for the promotion of the same purposes to which the old one was dedicated without becoming chargeable with its debts or obligations, but they must act in good faith, and not convert the assets of the old corporation to the prejudice of its creditors.[5] The legal identity of the new corporation with the old ordinarily depends upon the intention of the incorporators.[6] A "congregation" is a "worshipping assembly."[7] The right of a congregation to elect its officers, being derived from the Scriptures, ecclesiastically the right must remain with the congregation so long as the authority of the Scriptures is recognized, whether the congregation stands within or without the pale of denominational unity.[8]

§ 2. Membership and meetings.[9]—The right of a member of a faction to participate in the control of the church property is not property.[10] Independent

96. Answer set up want of consideration for a release. The release showed on its face that there was a consideration, but the evidence tended to show duress. Naretti v. Scully, 131 F. 399.

97. Rev. St. U. S. § 983. Naretti v. Scully, 133 F. 828.

1. Consult: Associations and Societies, 3 Curr. L. 346; Charitable Gifts, 3 Curr. L. 678; Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805; Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880, etc.

2. See 2 Curr. Law. 1502.

3. Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1889, art. 23, § 205. Shaeffer v. Klee [Md.] 59 A. 850.

4. Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1889, art. 23, § 205, construed. Shaeffer v. Klee [Md.] 59 A. 850. Under Rev. Laws, c. 36, §§ 44-46, no persons but the trustees have any part or voice in the corporate doings. Enos v. Harkins [Mass.] 72 N. E. 253.

5. Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808. [The above rule is not peculiar to religious corporations. Ed.]

6. Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808. The mere change in the name of the corporation has no effect upon its legal status or upon the rights of creditors. Id. The fact that the new organization embraces the old membership is immaterial, and in itself affords no reason why it should be held liable for the debts of the old corporation. Id. [The above rules are not peculiar to religious corporations. Ed.]

7. In common acceptation, as well as by the express declaration of the Synod of Dort. Pulis v. Iserman [N. J. Law] 58 A. 554.

8. Pulis v. Iserman [N. J. Law] 58 A. 554 (Day v. Bolton, 12 N. J. Law, 206, distinguished). Rules of True Reformed Dutch Church construed and held to sanction the right of each congregation to withdraw from the classis and synod with which it had been connected, and become independent, without loss of ecclesiastical or civil function. Id. Classis to which a congregation, which by the unaminous vote of its members has thus withdrawn, was previously subordinate, has no power to remove officers of congregation and civil corporation elected by the congregation. Id.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1502.

10. Will not descend to his children. Suit against representatives of a minority faction to obtain control of church property held properly dismissed as to a defendant dying pendente lite. Gipson v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 226.

of proof it is presumed that meetings of religious societies are conducted in an orderly manner and according to the rules, customs and usages of all deliberative bodies.[11]

§ 3. Ministers.[12] Their powers.—The pastor of a church may bind the latter as to acts performed within the apparent scope of his authority,[13] but he is not, because of his position, capable of binding the church corporation.[14]

§ 4. Powers and liabilities of society in general.[15]—A congregation is not liable for acts of its officers beyond the apparent scope of their authority.[16] In Virginia the trustees of a church have no power of their own volition and in their capacity as trustees to either alien or incumber church realty.[17] A creditor of a church corporation is not the creditor of the members of the church, and has no right of action against them as such.[18]

§ 5. Property and funds.[19]—It is within the power of any religious society to devote its general funds to the aid of other churches or religious societies or to home or foreign missions.[20] Where the articles of a church corporation composed of members of two nationalities provide for the alternate use of the church property by either nationality, members of one nationality are entitled to such use of the church property without application to the corporate board of trustees by any organized portion of the corporate stockholders or members.[21] A deed to a religious society's trustees and their successors in fee, without restriction or limitation, does not create a trust.[22] A fund for the use of the poor of the church cannot be applied to the payment of its debts.[23] A testator bequeathing the residuum of his estate to several incorporated religious societies, and one of such societies being subsequently dissolved and a receiver appointed, the remnant of the fund in the hands of the receiver should be delivered to the remaining associations.[24]

§ 6. Jurisdiction of courts.[25]—The right of civil courts to interfere in ecclesiastical matters exists only where there are conflicting claims to church property or funds, or the use of them, or where civil rights are involved.[26]

11. Congregations of Baptist churches. Gipson v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 226. Evidence held sufficient to show that a certain work on parliamentary law was customarily used by the church. Id.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1502.

13. In the absence of proof to the contrary the rector of an Episcopal church has no implied authority to bind the church by agreements with architects in relation to drawing plans for a church edifice. Cann v. Rector, Wardens & Vestrymen of Church of The Redeemer [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 994. Evidence held insufficient to show that rector had been given authority by the vestry to bind the church by contracting with the architects. Id. Architects being required to draw plans to the satisfaction of the vestrymen, such terms restrict any authority the rector of the church might have as such. Id.

14. Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1503.

16. Where a committee had been appointed to rebuild a church edifice, held congregation was not liable on contract of its president for lumber furnished. East Baltimore Lumber Co. v. K'nessett Israel Anshe S'phard Congregation [Md.] 59 A. 180. See, also, ante, § 3, Ministers.

17. Under Va. Code 1904, p. 773, § 1398, p. 774, § 1399, p. 776, § 1405, and p. 775, § 1402. a judgment against such trustees for the price of pews is binding on them individually, but not on the church real estate, or the proceeds of a sale thereof. Globe Furniture Co. v. Trustees of Jerusalem Baptist Church [Va.] 49 S. E. 657.

18. Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1503.

20. Incorporated Roman Catholic Church may give part of its general funds to a Catholic parish. Enos v. Harkins [Mass.] 72 N. E. 253.

21. Peterson v. Christianson [S. D.] 101 N. W. 40.

22. Shaeffer v. Klee [Md.] 59 A. 850.

23, 24. In re Immanuel Presbyterian Church, 112 La. 348, 36 So. 408.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1504.

26. Westminster Presbyterian Church v. Findley, 44 Misc. 173, 89 N. Y. S. 801. In the absence of fraud a civil court will not review a parliamentary decision by the presiding officer of a church meeting. Gipson v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 226. Court refused to restrain change of language in which service was conducted in the absence of an allegation as to what the particular denomination required in respect

§ 7. Actions by or against society or members.[27]—The general rules of parties,[28] evidence,[29] and instructions,[30] apply to actions by or against the society or its members.

REMAINDERS; REMEDY AT LAW; REMITTITUR, see latest topical index.

REMOVAL OF CAUSES.

§ 1. Right to Remove from State to Federal Court (1278).
§ 2. What is a "Suit" or "Action" so Removable (1278).
§ 3. Nature of Controversy or Subject-Matter and Existence of Federal Question (1278).
§ 4. Diversity of Citizenship and Alienage of Party (1278).
§ 5. Prejudice and Local Influence and Denial of Civil Rights (1280).
§ 6. Amount in Controversy (1280).
§ 7. Procedure to Obtain and Effect the Removal (1281).
§ 8. Transfer of Jurisdiction and Other Consequences of Removal (1282).
§ 9. Practice and Procedure after Removal; Remand or Dismissal (1282).
§ 10. Transfers Between Courts of the Same Jurisdiction (1283).

The nature and extent of Federal jurisdiction is specifically treated elsewhere.[31] to the language to be used in the services. Shaeffer v. Klee [Md.] 59 A. 850. See 2 Curr. L. 1504, n. 22; Id. 1505, n. 28.

NOTE: Jurisdiction of civil courts when property or civil rights are involved: In considering whether or not civil courts will entertain jurisdiction over church matters or church disputes and as between warring factions, it must be borne in mind that if no property rights are involved a civil court has no jurisdiction to interfere to quell religious disturbances. Ferraria v. Vasconcellos, 31 Ill. 25; Grimes v. Hannon, 35 Ind. 201, 9 Am. Rep. 690; Bird v. St. Mark's Church, 62 Iowa, 568, 17 N. W. 747; Watson v. Garvin, 54 Mo. 354. The power of the civil courts to adjudicate property disputes between warring church factions is limited to an examination of the rules of the church organization for the purpose of ascertaining the church law, and if that is not in conflict with the law of the land, all they can do is to protect the rights of the parties under the law which they have made for themselves. Long v. Harvey, 177 Pa. 473, 35 A. 869, 55 Am. St. Rep. 733, 34 L. R. A. 169. See, also, Trustees of Lutheran Church v. Halvorson, 42 Minn. 503, 44 N. W. 663. And it is a general rule that if the right of property in the civil court is dependent on the question of doctrine, discipline, ecclesiastical law, or church government, and that question has been decided by the highest church tribunal within the organization to which it belongs, the civil court will adopt such decision as conclusive, and be governed by it in its application to the case before it. Watson v. Jones, 13 Wall. [U. S.] 680, 20 Law. Ed. 666; Goff v. Greer, 88 Ind. 122, 45 Am. Rep. 449; Trustees of Lutheran Church v. Halvorson, 42 Minn. 503, 44 N. W. 663. In the ascertainment of the rights of property devoted to church purposes as between contending factions, the civil courts will give effect to the usages and regulations of the church itself, if not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the land (Prickett v. Wells, 117 Mo. 502, 24 S. W. 52); and if the membership of a church is divided into factions, each claiming to be the true church, civil courts have jurisdiction to determine that the title to the church property is in that faction, even though it be the minority, which is acting in harmony with the doctrine and practices which were accepted and adopted by the church before the division took place (Ferraria v. Vasconcellos, 31 Ill. 25; Smith v. Pedigo, 145 Ind. 362, 33 N. E. 777, 44 N. E. 363, 19 L. R. A. 433; Gibson v. Armstrong, 7 B. Mon. [Ky.] 491; Canadian Ass'n v. Parmenter, 180 Mass. 415, 62 N. E. 740; Mont Helm Baptist Church v. Jones, 79 Miss. 488, 30 So. 714; Schlicter v. Keiter, 156 Pa. 119, 27 A. 45, 22 L. R. A. 161; Gipson v. Morris, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 555, 67 S. W. 433).—From note to Morris St. Baptist Church v. Dart [S. C.] 100 Am. St. Rep. 734, 743. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1504, § 6.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1505.

28. In an action by members of a church corporation composed of two nationalities to restrain other members from preventing plaintiffs from occupying the church edifice one-half of the time for separate religious services, as provided by by-laws, the corporation is not a necessary party. Peterson v. Christianson [S. D.] 101 N. W. 40. Under Laws 1902, pp. 334, 335, c. 97, § 40, subds. 6, 7, the temporalties of a Presbyterian church are managed by trustees elected by those qualified to vote; held, ruling elders and members of the session could not maintain in their own name an action to enjoin certain trustees from acting as such on the ground that they had been suspended as communicants. Westminster Presbyterian Church v. Findley, 44 Misc. 173, 89 N. Y. S. 801.

29. In a suit against the minority of a church to obtain control of the church property, held not erroneous, on an issue as to how the members voted, to permit a witness to state how many persons were present at the meeting. Gipson v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 226. On such an issue a list of members compromising the minority faction was immaterial. Id.

30. In a suit against representatives of a minority faction to obtain control of church property, a charge held not prejudicially erroneous, in failing to name all the plaintiffs and all the defendants. Gipson v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 226.

31. See Jurisdiction, 4 Curr. L. 324.

§ 1. Right to remove from state to Federal court.[32]—The cause must be within some Act of Congress as to the jurisdiction of the Federal courts.[33] A cause may be removed though it could not originally have been begun in that particular Federal court.[34] A state statute revoking an insurance company's license for removing a case is not in violation of the Federal constitution.[35]

§ 2. What is a "suit" or "action" so removable.[36]—A prosecution by a state against a Federal official,[37] or a condemnation proceeding instituted by a railroad, is a "suit of a civil nature, at law or in equity," and is removable;[38] but a proceeding for mandamus, though damages may be awarded, is a special proceeding and not a suit and is not removable.[39]

§ 3. Nature of controversy or subject-matter and existence of Federal question.[40]—A suit against a corporation created under Federal laws is one arising under the laws of the United States and is removable where all of the defendants join in the petition;[41] but the fact that plaintiff is a receiver appointed by a Federal court will not authorize the removal of a case.[42] A proposition definitely determined by the supreme court of the United States ceases to be a Federal question.[43] The complaint must show that a Federal question is really involved.[44]

§ 4. Diversity of citizenship and alienage of party.[45]—Where all of the defendants are citizens of different states from the state of which plaintiff is a citizen, the cause is removable by any one defendant because of the diversity of citizenship.[46] Some courts will remove a cause though neither party is an inhabitant of the district;[47] but others will not assume jurisdiction without the consent of both parties,[48] or will refuse it because a suit could not have been begun in the Federal court.[49] A state is not a citizen within the meaning of the statute authorizing the removal of causes from the state to the Federal court on the ground of

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1506.

33. Where congress had created the Southern District of Texas out of part of the Eastern and provided that the pending cases should be transferred, except those in which evidence had been taken before the present judge, a case in which testimony had been taken by deposition before special examiners would be transferred. Baldwin v. Rice, 44 Misc. 64, 89 N. Y. S. 738.

34. Suit by a citizen of Pennsylvania appointed receiver by a Federal court in Massachusetts in a state court of Massachusetts against a citizen of New York. Pepper v. Rogers, 128 F. 987.

35. Prewitt v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ky.] 83 S. W. 611.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1506.

37. Prosecution of a U. S. deputy marshal for murder committed in the exercise of his duties. Virginia v. Felts, 133 F. 85.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1056, n. 34, 35. The suit is civil in its nature, though using the state's power of eminent domain. Madisonville Traction Co. v. St. Bernard Min. Co., 130 F. 789. It is a suit involving a controversy between citizens of different states; four justices dissent, as the power of eminent domain can only be exercised under the authority of the state. Madisonville Traction Co. v. St. Bernard Min. Co., 25 S. Ct. 251.

39. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5765. Kelly v. Grand Circle, Women of Woodcraft, 129 F. 830. The jurisdiction was not necessary for the exercise by it of a jurisdiction which was otherwise previously acquired. Mystic Milling Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 132 F. 289.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1506.

41. Suit in Texas against a Texas corporation and one created by laws of United States to hold them for joint negligence may be removed where both join in petition. Martin v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 134 F. 134.

42. Pepper v. Rogers, 128 F. 987.

43. Judiciary act of 1887 was intended to limit the jurisdiction of the Federal courts. Arkansas v. Choctaw & M. R. Co., 134 F. 106.

44. Must be set up in good faith. Arkansas v. Choctaw & M. R. Co., 134 F. 106.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1507.

46. Although it involves but a single controversy. Munford Rubber Tire Co. v. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co., 130 F. 496. In 25 U. S. Stat. 433, "nonresidents of that state" construed as equivalent to "not being citizens of that state." Madisonville Traction Co. v. St. Bernard Min. Co., 130 F. 789. Where jurisdiction is acquired over a foreign corporation by attachment, either the defendant or the garnishee may remove the cause. Greevy v. Jacob Tome Institute, 132 F. 408.

47. 25 U. S. Stat. 433. Rome Petroleum & Iron Co. v. Hughes Specialty Well Drilling Co., 130 F. 585.

48. Both foreign corporations. Gebbie & Co. v. Review of Reviews Co., 134 F. 150.

49. Suit by a citizen of Colorado in New York against a citizen of New York and a citizen of New Jersey, both served in New York, cannot be removed by either. Appel Suit & Cloak Co. v. Baggott, 132 F. 1005.

diversity of citizenship,[50] and an action brought by a state for a penalty cannot be removed on the ground that some one else is to receive the penalty.[51] As regards the question of Federal jurisdiction, a corporation incorporated in several states[52] is a citizen of each state, unless the obligation on which the plaintiffs seek to recover was incurred in its capacity as a corporation of one particular state.[53] A partnership has no citizenship apart from that of its members.[54] A cause cannot be removed to the Federal courts where any one defendant is a citizen of the same state as the plaintiff,[55] and there is no separable controversy,[56] though no recovery is had against him,[57] unless he entirely disclaims any interest.[58] But if there is a separable controversy as to the nonresident defendant, as where there is a distinct charge of negligence against the nonresident defendant alone sufficient to constitute a cause of action,[59] or there is an allegation of acts of negligence which are essential to cause of action with which the co-defendant has no concern,[60] or one of the defendants is liable merely as the employer of the other defendants, the cause is removable by such nonresident.[61] There is no separable controversy in a suit by stockholders to enforce the stockholders' liability,[62] or in suits where concurrent acts of negligence are charged in the petition,[63] or where 50. Commonwealth v. Ayer & L. Tie Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1068, 77 S. W. 686.

51. The state is the real party in interest in an action to recover the penalty from a railroad for failure to post delayed trains, though the prosecuting attorney and the county were entitled to the penalties recovered. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1507, n. 53, 54.

53. Defendant was formed by the consolidation of an Indiana and an Illinois railroad corporation, and alleged that the contract sued on was made in its capacity as an Indiana corporation; but in the absence of such an averment in the complaint, the fact that one of the plaintiffs was a citizen of Illinois prevented a removal. Dodd v. Louisville Bridge Co., 130 F. 186.

54. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

55. No jurisdiction of a suit against a foreign and a domestic corporation, where no separable controversy is claimed to exist. Keller v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 F. 202.

56. In a suit by a mortgagee against the mortgagor and his creditor, the latter has no separable controversy. Weldon v. Fritzlen, 128 F. 608. An equitable petition by a judgment creditor against his debtor and a lien creditor of the latter to subject encumbered property to the payment of the judgment does not present a separable controversy as to the lien creditor. Palmer v. Inman [Ga.] 50 S. E. 86. No separable controversy in a suit brought in Louisiana by a Missouri corporation for materials furnished against the contractors, citizens of Texas, the owners of the building, a Louisiana corporation, and a surety company, a Maryland corporation. Union Iron & Foundry Co. v. Sonnefield, 113 La. 436, 37 So. 20. Distinct causes of action on each of which a separate suit could have been maintained are separable. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

57. Though if defendant had been sued alone the diversity of citizenship would have authorized a removal. Southern R. Co. v. Carson, 194 U. S. 136, 48 Law. Ed. 907. It is immaterial that at the trial a peremptory instruction for the resident defendant was given. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harris [Miss.] 38 So. 225.

58. Suit to remove a cloud from title against a resident and a nonresident, and the former disclaimed, thereby retiring from the suit. Day v. Oatis [Miss.] 37 So. 559. In ejectment one was joined as being in possession of the land, but disclaimed after removal, but court held there might be liability for mesne profits. Davies v. Wells, 134 F. 139.

59. Complaint against railway and employes alleged that latter ran cars at dangerous speed, and also that defendants were negligent in maintaining a steep grade close to a switch, and was held to be separable. McIntyre v. Southern R. Co., 131 F. 985.

60. Also alleged that engineer was joined as defendant with railway to fraudulently prevent removal. Henry v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 132 F. 715.

61. Action against foreign railway corporation and several of its employes who were citizens of same state as plaintiff for wrongful death of plaintiff's intestate, where the only negligence alleged was that of the employes, presents a separable controversy as to the railway. Sessions v. Southern Pac. Co., 134 F. 313. An action for services against the employer and his agent who made the contract is not severable. Lathrop-Shea & Henwood Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. 135 F. 619.

62. Where no separable controversy, all the defendants must join in the petition. Miller v. Clifford [C. C. A.] 133 F. 880.

63. Foreign railroad corporation and a resident of the state were made defendants. Weaver v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 125 F. 155. Where an action for tort lies against several jointly, the controversy is not separable. Joint action for personal injuries against employer and another railroad using same switching facilities. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harris [Miss.] 38 So. 225. Master and servant both made defendants. Roberts v. Shelby Steel Tube Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 729.

the injury was caused by the joint tortious acts of both,[64] or because defendants might present separate and different defenses.[65] A fraudulent joinder of a resident defendant will not defeat the right to removal where the court finds the averments as to joint liability are palpably untrue,[66] but a petition merely alleging that co-defendants were fraudulently joined to defeat the jurisdiction is insufficient to procure a removal.[67] Whether there is a separable controversy must be determined by the state of the pleadings at the time of making the motion for removal,[68] but only indispensable parties will be considered.[69] In determining removability the position assigned to parties by the pleader may be disregarded and the parties considered according to their real interests.[70] The determination by the state court that the plaintiffs had a right to sue in their individual capacity determines the defendants' right of removal.[71] In suits by stockholders, the corporation is to be aligned with one or the other of the parties according to the facts.[72]

§ 5. Prejudice and local influence and denial of civil rights.[73]—A cause cannot be removed for prejudice or local influence where one of defendants is a citizen of the same state as plaintiff.[74] The interposition of a counterclaim does not make the original plaintiff a defendant so as to entitle him to remove for local prejudice.[75]

§ 6. Amount in controversy.[76]—A cause is not removable unless the amount claimed against each defendant is more than $2,000,[77] excluding the interest prayed for.[78] The allegation of value, if controverted, must be established by proof.[79] In actions for unliquidated damages, the amount in controversy is what the plaintiff in good faith demands,[80] and where no amount is stated in the complaint,

64. Plaintiff seeks to enjoin defendant corporation from practicing a secret process owned by plaintiff and communicated to defendant by the breach of trust of another defendant, a citizen of another state and who had been an employe of plaintiff. Vulcan Detinning Co. v. American Can Co., 130 F. 635.

65. A complaint for wrongful death of intestate against his employer, a foreign corporation and fellow employes, citizens of same state as himself, alleging a defective electric crane, and that the employes were negligent in operating it, did not state a separable controversy, as there were concurring acts of negligence. American Bridge Co. v. Hunt [C. C. A.] 130 F. 302.

66. The engineer of the train that killed plaintiff's intestate was joined with the railroad as defendants, though it was clear there was no expectation of recovery against the engineer and that the sole purpose of joining him was to defeat the right to removal. Crawford v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 130 F. 395. Joinder of engineer of train and foreign railway company. Dishon v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 471.

67. Mere conclusions and not facts showing a separable controversy in a suit against a railroad and its employes. Rutherford v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 199.

68. It must appear that each party is the citizen of some state. Laden v. Meck [C. C. A.] 130 F. 877. The separable character of the controversy is to be determined from the complaint in the absence of an averment of a pretense to defeat Federal jurisdiction. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harris [Miss.] 38 So. 225.

69. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650. Parties improperly joined and sham causes of action may be disregarded without evidence aliunde if the facts are apparent of record. Id.

70. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

71. Notwithstanding an averment that they sued as stockholders, and the recovery they sought was for the sole benefit of a Kentucky corporation. Dodd v. Louisville Bridge Co., 130 F. 186.

72. The corporation is an indispensable party. Groel v. United Elec. Co., 132 F. 252.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1509.

74. Weldon v. Fritzlen, 128 F. 608. A nonresident defendant may remove for local prejudice, though plaintiff and some of the defendants are residents. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

75. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 135 F. 837.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1509.

77. Suit against two railroad companies where no joint liability was alleged, for $1,999, against one, and $971 against the other, could not be removed. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Dishman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 319.

78. Where plaintiff sued insurance company to recover $1,527.25 assessments with interest, and prayed for judgment for $2,346.50 and interest on this last from Sept. 1, 1900, he did not convert the interest into principal, though he had asked for compound interest. Gilson v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 129 F. 1003.

79. Davies v. Wells, 134 F. 139.

80. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Kan.] 79 P. 655.

an allegation in the petition for removal will be insufficient to oust the state court of jurisdiction.[81] An action by a nonresident for a sum less than $2,000, where a counterclaim is filed for a greater sum, may be removed by the plaintiff;[82] but whether the amount of the counterclaim shall be added to plaintiff's claim in determining the jurisdiction is doubtful under the authorities.[83] It is sufficient if the requisite amount in controversy exists at the time of removal.[84]

§ 7. Procedure to obtain and effect the removal.[85]—The filing of the requisite petition and bond for removal instantly operates to transfer the case,[86] and it is the duty of the state court to proceed no further.[87] These must be filed at or before the time the defendant is required to answer or to plead to the declaration,[88] or the plaintiff is required to plead to the counterclaim that may have been filed,[89] but it may be after a party has filed notice of intention to suffer a default,[90] or after he has filed a motion to dissolve a preliminary injunction and had a hearing thereon.[91] After a judgment has been rendered in the state court and affirmed as to plaintiff's cause of action but reversed as to a counterclaim, the cause is not subject to removal.[92] In the case of a criminal prosecution they need not be filed until after the indictment of defendant.[93] The time is not extended where the case may be appealed to another court to try de novo.[94] The jurisdictional facts stated in the petition for removal may be denied, in which case the court will receive evidence on the issue,[95] where not denied, they are taken to be true,[96] and where one demurs to the petition for removal, he cannot aid himself by reference to what the evidence will show.[97] An amendment to the petition for removal may with the consent of the parties be permitted in the circuit court of appeals for an inadvertent though fatal omission.[98] Where jurisdiction depends on citizenship, such citizenship must be distinctly alleged,[99] and not merely their resi-

81. Complaint to compel a railroad to deliver coal on a private siding, and the latter alleged that the matter in controversy, involving the right of the railroad to manage its large interstate commerce without interference, largely exceeded the sum of $2,000. State v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 81, 47 S. E. 221.

82. Price v. Ellis & Co., 129 F. 482.

83. Claim of $1,022.61, counterclaim of $3,500, and jurisdiction refused as the case was doubtful. Crane Co. v. Guanica Centrale, 132 F. 713.

84. Suit to recover $2,025 and cross bill for $1,700, after removal complainant dismissed his bill, but court retained jurisdiction. Kirby v. American Soda Fountain Co., 194 U. S. 141, 48 Law. Ed. 911.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1511.

86. Plaintiff cannot defeat the right afterwards by amending his petition so as to reduce the amount of his demand below $2,000. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Kan.] 79 P. 655.

87. But if removal ordered on an insufficient petition, the aggrieved party may appeal to the appellate court of the state. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jones' Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 31, 80 S. W. 484.

88. Where one of the heirs of a decedent appeared in the probate court and filed objections to the allowance of a claim, he had no right to subsequently petition for a removal. Mayer v. Schneider, 212 Ill. 286, 72 N. E. 436.

89. Nonresident sued for a sum less than $2,000 and on the filing of a counterclaim for over that amount he was allowed to remove the cause. Price & Hart v. Ellis & Co., 129 F. 482.

90. Johnson v. Bridgeport Deoxidized Bronze & Metal Co., 125 F. 631.

91. Where his petition was presented before the time when by the laws of the state he was required to plead. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 657.

92. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 135 F. 837.

93. Rev. St. § 643, authorizes removal into "the circuit court next holden in the district," and where there are several places of trial in the district, the petition may be filed at the place where the next term is to be held, though filing at a different place is not a ground for remanding the case. State v. Felts, 133 F. 85.

94. Madisonville Traction Co. v. St. Bernard Min. Co., 25 S. Ct. 251.

95. But it will not remand the case on plaintiff's affidavit denying the allegations of the petition. Weaver v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 125 F. 155.

96. Allegation of fraudulent joinder of co-defendant to prevent removal. Dishon v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 471.

97. Day v. Oatis [Miss.] 37 So. 559.

98. Failure to aver the citizenship of the plaintiff. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13.

99. Insufficient where it was alleged that defendant was a "resident" of a state other than that of which plaintiff was a citizen, and was not a "citizen or resident" of the

dence.[1] The petition should allege specifically the states of which each of the parties are respectively citizens,[2] even though there is a very large number of them;[3] but amendment may be permitted when this is omitted.[4] An allegation that defendant is a citizen of another state is not equivalent to an allegation of nonresidence.[5] Where a separable controversy is claimed, the petition must be founded on that.[6] It has been held that a plaintiff, when he has been made in effect a defendant by the filing of a counterclaim, may remove the cause.[7] Petitions for removal are to be decided not on doubts but on a fair preponderance of the facts,[8] and the fact that an erroneous removal may be reviewed on certificate in the Federal supreme court while a remand cannot be is to be considered.[9]

§ 8. Transfer of jurisdiction and other consequences of removal.[10]—The filing of a petition ousts the jurisdiction of the state court if a removable cause is disclosed by the record.[11] The Federal court acquires complete jurisdiction and is not concluded by any proceedings of the state court before removal.[12] It takes the case on removal in the condition in which it stood in the state court at the time of removal,[13] thus proceedings do not have to be repeated,[14] and motions pending[15] or the attachment by which the suit was begun are transferred to the Federal court for determination.[16] To protect its jurisdiction the Federal court may enjoin further proceedings in the state court by the plaintiff.[17]

§ 9. Practice and procedure after removal; remand or dismissal.[18]—The removal itself does not extend the time for answering,[19] but a motion to remand does extend the time until the first rule day after the determination thereof.[20] On removal of an equity case, the complaint must be redrafted to conform to the state of which plaintiff was a citizen. Laden v. Meck [C. C. A.] 130 F. 877. An averment that plaintiff is a citizen of another state is insufficient where it appears that it is a partnership and there is no showing of the citizenship of its members. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

1. Allegation that plaintiff was a resident of Louisiana is insufficient. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13.

2. Thompson v. Stalmann, 131 F. 809.

3. Not sufficient to allege a diversity of citizenship in general terms, where there were over 3,000 defendants who were doing business together without incorporation. Jones v. Adams Exp. Co., 129 F. 618.

4. Petition alleged diverse citizenship and that the amount in controversy exceeded $2,000. Thompson v. Stalmann, 131 F. 809.

5. In a suit in Oregon, petition alleged that defendant was a citizen of Washington and a nonresident of Oregon. Irving v. Smith, 132 F. 207.

6. Petition against a domestic and foreign corporation failed to make any such claim. Keller v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 F. 202.

7. Price v. Ellis & Co., 129 F. 482.

Contra: A nonresident sued in trespass to try title, and defendant filed a cross plea to quiet his title and demanding affirmative relief, but plaintiff was not allowed to remove the case. Smithers v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 646.

8, 9. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1513.

11. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

12. Defendant did not have notice of a condemnation proceeding until his land was condemned, when he removed the case, and the Federal court held it had the right to consider the plaintiff's right to the land, as well as the amount of compensation. Madisonville Traction Co. v. St. Bernard Min. Co., 130 F. 789.

13. A lien obtained by attachment in the state court is not lost or terminated, but will be enforced by the Federal court. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

14. Where defendant in state court had filed notice of his intention to suffer a default, he is not required to file a second notice in the Federal court. Johnson v. Bridgeport Deoxidized Bronze & Metal Co., 125 F. 631.

15. Motion to make complaint more definite and certain. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966.

16. Rule to show cause why attachment should not be dissolved. Commonwealth Trust Co. v. Frick, 120 F. 688.

17. Notwithstanding Rev. St. § 720, which limits the right to enjoin state courts to bankruptcy proceedings. St. Bernard Min. Co. v. Madisonville Traction Co., 130 F. 794.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1513.

19. Except that the period from the date of removal until the record reaches the Federal court is not counted. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966.

20. Where default was made because of pendency of motion to make complaint more definite, the judgment will be set aside on terms. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966.

practice of the Federal courts,[21] but a judgment rendered where the pleadings were not recast, though erroneous, is not void and cannot be collaterally attacked.[22] In the trial of a criminal prosecution, state practice will be followed in substantive matters,[23] and the sentence will be in accordance with state law, and the prisoner will be delivered to the state officials for punishment;[24] but where the state fails to prosecute, the court will direct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.[25] On a motion to remand, the jurisdiction must be clear in order to justify the court in retaining the case,[26] for it is its duty to remand where jurisdiction is doubtful,[27] and this it must do at any stage of the proceedings and of its own motion, when any defect in the jurisdiction appears.[28] The rule is the same in the appellate courts.[29] There can be no waiver of the right to remand where plaintiff immediately moves to remand on the removal of the case.[30] After a case has been removed, defendant may appear specially and move to dismiss on the ground that the court had not obtained jurisdiction of defendant's person.[31] No dismissal will be granted because a suit was begun by attachment and not by personal service,[32] and such attachment granted in the state court before removal will not be vacated by the Federal court.[33] Plaintiff may dismiss his case after removal and begin again in the state court[34] and sue there for a smaller sum.[35] The court of appeals will review a removal on appeal of a removed cause, though no objection is made.[36]

§ 10. Transfers between courts of the same jurisdiction.[37]—Acts authorizing the transfer of cases from city to county courts are constitutional.[38] In Indiana

21. Complaint alleged a cause of action at law, and one in equity. Motley Co. v. Detroit Steel & Spring Co., 130 F. 396. Equity rule 94 that a bill by a stockholder against a corporation shall be verified cannot be applied to a bill filed in a state court and subsequently removed. Maeder v. Buffalo Bill's Wild West Co., 132 F. 280.

22. Money judgment in an equity suit. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

23. Such as impaneling and charging the jury, the number of challenges allowed, the competency of witnesses, and in confining the jurors during trial. State v. Felts, 133 F. 85.

24. To be executed or imprisoned, or kept in custody until his fine is paid, as the case may be. State v. Felts, 133 F. 85.

25. State v. Felts, 133 F. 85.

26. It will be assumed that under state laws plaintiffs had the right to sue in their own names, and that the pleadings were appropriate, until the contrary is shown. Dodd v. Louisville Bridge Co., 130 F. 186. It cannot determine whether the cause is sufficiently stated. Mystic Milling Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 132 F. 289.

27. In stockholders' suits the corporation is aligned with plaintiffs or defendants as the persons controlling are in favor of one or the other. Groel v. United Elec. Co., 132 F. 252. Doubtful if counterclaim can be added to claim to determine the amount in controversy. Crane Co. v. Guanica Centrale, 132 F. 713. Federal question decided by United States Supreme Court. State v. Choctaw & M. R. Co., 134 F. 106.

28. Case remanded by court of appeals as not presenting a separable controversy. American Bridge Co. v. Hunt [C. C. A.] 130 F. 302.

29. When the court is without jurisdiction, the judgment of the circuit court will be reversed and costs awarded against the removing party. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13.

30. Subsequent appearance. Pepper v. Rogers, 128 F. 987.

31. A New Hampshire insurance corporation was sued in Maine, the insurance commissioner being served with process, though the corporation was not licensed to do business there. Greenleaf v. National Ass'n of R. Postal Clerks, 130 F. 209. Defendant's secretary was induced fraudulently to go to another state, where he was served with process. Cavanagh v. Manhattan Transit Co., 133 F. 818. No jurisdiction over defendant's person. Gebbie & Co. v. Review of Reviews Co., 134 F. 150.

32. Hubbard v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 135 F. 256.

33. Though it may never be effective if no personal service is had, as service by publication is not provided for in Federal practice in actions such as this. Blumberg v. Shaw Co., 131 F. 608.

34. If within 12 months of the accrual of his cause of action, the first action was for $20,000, the second for $2,000. Nipp's Adm'x v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2335, 80 S. W. 796.

35. Action against a domestic and foreign corporation which was removed to the Federal court because the former was fraudulently joined and was then dismissed, and plaintiff sued again in the state courts for less than $2,000. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Needham [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 22. See 2 Curr. L. 1514, n. 42, 43.

36. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1510.

38. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 369, authorizing transfer from city court of Bessemer to a case may be transferred from the appellate to the supreme court, where the opinion of the former contravenes a ruling of the latter, or a new question of law is involved and is erroneously decided.[39] In New York a defendant may, after issue is joined and before an adjournment, remove the case from the municipal to the city court[40] on the filing of a proper bond with the application.[41] The pleadings remain the same after removal unless amendment is allowed,[42] or the pleadings are ordered to be reduced to writing.[43] A motion made to reduce the amount claimed will defeat defendant's right to a removal.[44] If the judgment demanded exceeds $100, defendant may remove from a justice in any town in the county of Kings to the county court thereof.[45] Where a justice of a municipal court is disqualified, the cause may be transferred to an adjoining district.[46]

RENDITION OF JUDGMENT; REPLEADER; REPLEGIANDO, see latest topical index.

REPLEVIN.

§ 1. Nature and Form of Action—Distinctions (1284).
§ 2. Right of Action and Defenses (1285).
§ 3. Jurisdiction and Venue (1288).
§ 4. The Affidavit (1288).
§ 5. Plaintiff's Bond (1288).
§ 6. The Writ and Its Execution (1288).
§ 7. The Pleadings and Parties to the Action (1289).
§ 8. Trial (1290).
§ 9. Judgment (1291).
§ 10. Costs (1293).
§ 11. Review (1293).
§ 12. Liability on Bonds and of Receiptors, etc. (1293).

§ 1. Nature and form of action—distinctions.[47]—Replevin, or claim and delivery as it is sometimes called,[48] is an ancient common-law proceeding,[49] and is one of several remedies[50] allowed the owner of personal property[51] wrongfully taken or withheld from his possession, its object being to recover such possession,[52] circuit court of Jefferson county, was not bad as a special law, or as interfering with the court's power as to the venue of cases, or as vesting authority in one court to control the clerk of another. Dudley v. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co., 139 Ala. 453, 36 So. 700.

39. The supreme court cannot examine the record to see if the reasons for the transfer are sustained, but can only look at the opinion of the appellate court, and a denial of the transfer merely approves the opinion in respect to the reasons assigned for a transfer. City of Huntington v. Lusch [Ind.] 71 N. E. 647.

40. An oral answer is insufficient. Hinrichs v. Interurban St. R. Co., 43 Misc. 654, 88 N. Y. S. 193. Too late where case had been adjourned on the joint consent of the parties. Syms v. American Automobile Storage Co., 43 Misc. 395, 87 N. Y. S. 484.

41. Where the bond in one place omitted the letter "s" after defendant, though in all other places it referred to them in the plural number, it was not objectionable. New York Lumber & Storage Co. v. Noone, 92 N. Y. S. 349.

42. A demurrer to new matter in answer is an additional pleading and not entitled to consideration. Vail v. Blumenthal, 89 N. Y. S. 287.

43. But such order will not authorize the filing of new pleadings. Halloran v. Coney Island Jockey Club, 81 N. Y. S. 143.

44. Though defendant simultaneously moved to remove the cause, the denial may be reviewed on appeal, even if there was no supplemental answer and plea to the jurisdiction of the court. Sherwood v. New York Tel. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 387.

45. May remove from the municipal court in the borough of Brooklyn to the county court. Raynes v. Bloom, 44 Misc. 81, 89 N. Y. S. 732.

46. Where the only motion was to transfer to the district in which defendant lived, and which was denied, defendant cannot complain that the case was not transferred. Lesser v. Adolph, 91 N. Y. S. 705.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1514.

48. Cyc. Law Dict. "Replevin."

49. Three States Lumber Co. v. Blanks [C. C. A.] 133 F. 479.

50. The owner of goods wrongfully taken from his possession may proceed in tort to recover damages, or waive the tort and sue for the value of the goods upon the fiction that the property was sold, or replevin the property in case it can be reached. Harter v. Pearson, 5 Ohio C. C. [N. S.] 304.

51. A building being regarded as personal property, replevin will lie to recover it. Adams v. Tully [Ind.] 73 N. E. 595. Fact that it is personalty must be alleged in the complaint. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1514, n. 46. An owner may maintain replevin for timber cut on his land. Mine La Motte Lead & Smelting Co. v. White [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 356. As to fixtures, see Bronson, Fixt. § 110.

52. Summerville v. Stockton Milling Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243; Three States Lumber Co. v. Blanks [C. C. A.] 133 F. 479.

and consequently the issue is which of the parties was entitled to possession at the commencement of the action.[53] As a general rule replevin will not lie for the recovery of an undivided part of personal property,[54] though an exception is sometimes made where the property sought to be replevied consists of a part of a larger mass of the same nature and quality, which can be easily divided into aliquot parts.[55]

§ 2. Right of action and defenses.[56]—In order to maintain his action plaintiff must plead and prove the following facts: (1) that he is the owner of, or has a special interest in the property in controversy;[57] (2) that he is entitled to the immediate possession thereof;[58] (3) that defendant wrongfully detains the same,[59] though it has been held that a party is liable in replevin if concerned in the wrongful sale of the property, even though he had no possession thereof.[60] As corollaries to the first and second elements it is held that plaintiff must recover on the strength of his own title,[61] and this title must be such as to give him the legal right to possession.[62] The special property conferred by possession,[63] espe-

53. Cunningham v. Stoner [Idaho] 79 P. 228; Bartlett v. Ridgley Nat. Bank [Kan.] 78 P. 414. Plaintiff's wrongdoing in relation to the property after the commencement of the action cannot be litigated therein. Id. In replevin to recover stock seized by mortgagee, held proper to permit an amendment to the petition setting up that the mortgage was procured by fraud and was without consideration. Sylvester v. Ammons [Iowa] 101 N. W. 782. See 2 Curr. L. 1514, n. 45.

54. Schwarz v. Lee Gon [Or.] 80 P. 110.

55. Replevin will lie for lumber though it cannot be identified, because of its being intermixed with other lumber of the same kind and value. Mine La Motte Lead & Smelting Co. v. White [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 356. Exception held not to apply to an action to recover an undivided interest in a certain number of bales of hops, which vary in weight and quality. Schwarz v. Lee Gon [Or.] 80 P. 110.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1514.

57. Robb v. Dobrinski, 14 Okl. 563, 78 P. 101. Where a third person transferred his right in timber to plaintiff prior to replevin, it is immaterial to defendant that part of the timber was cut from the land of such third person, and it was impossible to distinguish it. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a verdict in favor of plaintiff where she testified that she was the owner of the property, and had notified defendant not to receive or advance money on any article of personalty brought to his place of business by her husband. Mariotte v. Bremer, 33 Ind. App. 701, 71 N. E. 250. Evidence held insufficient to show that transfer of certificates of deposit was without consideration and void. Sather v. Sexton [Minn.] 101 N. W. 654. Evidence held sufficient to sustain verdict for plaintiff. Day v. Ferguson & Wheeler [Ark.] 85 S. W. 771. Evidence held sufficient to show plaintiff's ownership as a matter of law. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076.

58. Robb v. Dobrinski, 14 Okl. 563, 78 P. 101; Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115.

59. Robb v. Dobrinski, 14 Okl. 563, 78 P. 101. Defendant must have actual or constructive possession. Id. Where complaint affirmatively showed that when the action was commenced defendant had sold and disposed of the property, held not to state a cause of action for replevin. Glass v. Basin & Bay State Min. Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 302. One cannot maintain replevin for property in his own possession. Clute v. Everhart [Mich.] 100 N. W. 124. In an action against a constable for the wrongful seizure of property, the sureties on his official bond are improperly made defendants where they are in no manner concerned in the seizure and detention of the property. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583. An instruction authorizing a verdict for defendant unless the sale under which plaintiff claimed was followed by "an actual and continued change of possession," held improperly modified by striking out the words "and continued." Id.

60. Tyler v. Young, 92 N. Y. S. 818.

61. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115; Bierman v. Reinhorn [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1083; Robb v. Dobrinski, 14 Okl. 563, 78 P. 101. Trover to recover certain personalty. Central Bank of Oakland v. Georgia Grocery Co., 120 Ga. 883, 48 S. E. 325. An instruction authorizing a verdict for plaintiff if there were some particular defects in the justification relied upon by defendant is erroneous. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583. See 2 Curr. L. 1514, n. 50.

62. An equitable right is insufficient. Fisher v. Alsten, 186 Mass. 549, 72 N. E. 78. Where plaintiff claimed to be the winner of a voting contest, the judges having decided otherwise, held, his title was insufficient to maintain replevin. Fisher v. Alsten, 186 Mass. 549, 72 N. E. 78; Clerks' Benev. Union v. Knights of Columbus [S. C.] 50 S. E. 206. A chattel mortgagee taking possession after default, the mortgagor has no longer any legal title to the property and cannot maintain replevin. Though the sale was not made in strict conformity with Rev. St. 1898, § 2316a, relative to foreclosure sales. John O'Brien Lumber Co. v. Wilkinson [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1050. See 2 Curr. L. 1514, n. 51.

63. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

cially where the possessor asserts a claim of ownership,[64] is sufficient to support replevin against a trespasser. As to things severed from the realty, the possession of the land at the time determines the right of possession to such things,[65] with this single exception, that where neither party has actual possession of the land at the time of the severance, the right to the possession must be determined by the title to the land,[66] and in this connection it should be remembered that possession of a part is possession of the whole.[67] A vendor rescinding a sale for fraud may retain replevin to regain the goods,[68] and if the sale is conditional and the conditions are not complied with, the seller may maintain replevin even as against a bona fide purchaser.[69] As to whether or not defendant was in possession at the commencement of the action is largely a question of fact for the jury,[70] and may be inferred from other facts.[71] By pleading title in himself defendant waives the technical defense that he was not in possession at the commencement of the action,[72] and by giving a forthcoming bond estops himself to deny such possession;[73] but he is not thereby estopped to deny plaintiff's title to the property.[74] The fact that defendant admits the execution of the instrument under which plaintiff claims does not preclude him from attacking its validity.[75] The courts do not view with favor a defense that one was not technically in possession at the commencement of the action.[76]

Plaintiff never having been in actual possession, defendant may defeat the action by showing title in a third party,[77] but defendant's possession being referable to a wrongful taking from plaintiff, he must connect himself with such superior title of the third party.[78]

64. The owner of a tax deed fair on its face having acquired possession through an agent has a sufficient title to maintain replevin against a mere trespasser. Dresser v. Lemma [Wis.] 100 N. W. 844.

65, 66. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

67. See Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258; also Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51.

68. Kuh, N. & F. Co. v. Glucklick, 120 Iowa, 504, 94 N. W. 1105. Proof of the fraud is part of the seller's case in chief. Id. Written statements, furnished seller at his request, showing purchaser's assets and liabilities, held admissible. Id. Purchaser's cash book held admissible. Id. See Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1568 et seq.

69. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646.

70. Where plaintiff let 4 turkeys loose and his evidence tended to show that they went toward defendant's place and never returned home, the question as to whether they were in defendant's possession and subject to replevin is for the jury. Clute v. Everhart [Mich.] 100 N. W. 124.

71. Defendant admitting that the property was stored in his name, it may be inferred that he controlled the possession. Tyler v. Young, 92 N. Y. S. 818.

72. In this case he had also made a general denial. McGinley v. Wirthele [Neb.] 101 N. W. 244.

73. Strahorn-Hutton-Evans Commission Co. v. Heffner [Ark.] 85 S. W. 784; Hochberger v. Baum, 85 N. Y. S. 385; Boyce v. Augusta Camp, No. 7,429, 14 Okl. 642, 78 P. 322. Where defendant gave a forthcoming bond and his possession was not disputed, held instruction requiring plaintiff to prove such fact was harmless. Id.

74. That it was not covered by plaintiff's mortgage. Strahorn-Hutton-Evans Commission Co. v. Heffner [Ark.] 85 S. W. 784. That title to the property is in a third person and that he held it as agent for such third party at the commencement of the suit. Boyce v. Augusta Camp, No. 7,429, 14 Okl. 642, 78 P. 822. Admission in a redelivery undertaking of the identity of the goods will not justify exclusion of evidence as to circumstances of the defendants' possession. Hochberger v. Baum, 85 N. Y. S. 385.

75. That bill of sale was fraudulent, intended as a mortgage and improperly executed to operate as such. Culver v. Randle [Or.] 78 P. 394.

76. The fact that the property was taken under a void writ and that a second writ was issued, which under Rev. St. 1899, § 3850, constituted the commencement of the suit, held not to affect the probative force of the return to the first writ, as showing that defendants were in possession of the property when suit was instituted. American Nat. Bank v. Strong [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 639.

77. Robb v. Dobrinski, 14 Okl. 563, 78 P. 101. See, also, Dresser v. Lemma [Wis.] 100 N. W. 844.

78. Raber v. Hyde [Mich.] 101 N. W. 61; Dresser v. Lemma [Wis.] 100 N. W. 844. Lumber being taken from the possession of plaintiff, it is immaterial that the land from which it was cut was in the possession of a stranger to an action. Id. See, also, Levy v. Hohweisner, 91 N. Y. S. 552, where defendants alleging title in a third party were held entitled to offer evidence thereof and

No demand and refusal need be shown where the defendant places his defense upon his right of possession at the time of the commencement of the action.[79] As a general rule chattel mortgagees cannot maintain replevin against the mortgagor after default or conditions broken without demand for the possession,[80] but a prior demand is not necessary to support replevin of property held under a conditional sale, whereby the title remained in plaintiff.[81] Where the goods of an execution debtor and a stranger to the action are so intermingled that they cannot be readily distinguished, and the stranger fails to designate his portion, the officer may levy on the whole, and demand is a condition precedent to the bringing of replevin by the stranger,[82] but the designation being made, such a demand is not requisite to the maintenance of such action.[83] A demand is unnecessary where it would be futile or unavailing.[84] A party breaking a contract under which he holds property, the other party is entitled to maintain replevin without performing his part of the contract.[85]

An equitable defense may be interposed to a replevin suit.[86] A champertous deed is no defense to an action to recover timber cut from land.[87]

That one brings a suit on a replevin bond does not constitute an election of to call the person, so alleged to have title, as a witness, irrespective of the fact that he has not availed himself of his right, under Municipal Court Act, § 115a, to appear and defend.

79. Sellers v. Catron [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 742; Bartlett v. Ridgley Nat. Bank [Kan.] 78 P. 414.

NOTE: Demand and refusal are necessary to sustain replevin where the defendant came lawfully into the possession of the property, or where his possession is not wrongful. Oleson v. Merrill, 20 Wis. 462, 91 Am. Dec. 428; Galvin v. Bacon, 11 Me. 28, 25 Am. Dec. 258; Fleischman v. Glaser, 28 Misc. 555, 59 N. Y. S. 686; Combs v. Bays, 19 Ind. App. 263, 49 N. E. 358; Adams v. Wood, 51 Mich. 411; Keller v. Robinson, 153 Ill. 458, 38 N. E. 1072. Thus, if goods have been sold, the title being reserved in the vendor as security for the payment of the purchase money and payments have been made in instalments and received, the vendor cannot, after the final day for completing payment, where the vendee is in default, retake the goods without notice or demand. People's, etc., Carpet Co. v. Crosby, 57 Neb. 282, 77 N. W. 658, 73 Am. St. Rep. 504; Grand Rapids Chair Co. v. Lyon, 73 Mich. 438, 41 N. W. 497. Contra, Forbes v. Martin, 7 Houst. [Del.] 375, 32 A. 327. In such a case, a tender on demand of the amount remaining due is sufficient, however, to retain the right of possession in the vendee. People's, etc., Carpet Co. v. Crosby, 57 Neb. 282, 77 N. W. 658, 73 Am. St. Rep. 504. No demand is necessary to sustain replevin where the possession of the property was originally acquired by tort. Sargent v. Sturm, 23 Cal. 359, 83 Am. Dec. 118; Guthrie v. Olson, 44 Minn. 404, 46 N. W. 853; Oleson v. Merrill, 20 Wis. 462, 91 Am. Dec. 428; Breitenwischer v. Clough, 111 Mich. 6, 69 N. W. 88, 66 Am. St. Rep. 372; Galvin v. Bacon, 11 Me. 28, 25 Am. Dec. 258; Richey v. Ford, 84 Ill. App. 121; Cottrell v. Carter, 173 Mass. 155, 53 N. E. 375. A demand is not necessary in replevin where it would be futile or unavailing (Barton v. Mulvane, 59 Kan. 313, 52 P. 883; Bunce v. McMahon, 6 Wyo. 24, 42 P. 23), as where defendant admits he has disposed of the property (Torres v. Rogers, 28 Misc. 176, 58 N. Y. S. 1104), or where he sets up title in himself (Triplett v. Rugby Distilling Co., 66 Ark. 219, 49 S. W. 975; Barton v. Mulvane, 59 Kan. 313, 52 P. 883). No demand is necessary where the only issue is the taking. Woodward v. Edmunds, 20 Utah, 118, 57 P. 848. If property sought to be replevied is in the possession of an agent, a demand upon him binds the principal. Udell v. Slocum, 56 Ill. App. 216; Congdon v. Bailey, 121 Mich. 570, 80 N. W. 369. The only effect of a failure to make a demand is to prevent a maintenance of the present suit. Webster v. Brunswick-Balke, etc., Co., 37 Fla. 433, 20 So. 536.—From note to Sinnott v. Feicock [N. Y.] 80 Am. St. Rep. 736, 753 et seq.

80. Black v. Pidgeon, 70 N. J. Law, 802, 58 A. 372.

81. Norman Printers' Supply Co. v. Ford [Conn.] 59 A. 499.

82. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722. Where the goods consisted of women's and men's wearing apparel, held not so intermingled as to necessitate their being distinguished by the stranger to the process. Id.

83. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

84. A principal repudiating an exchange made by his agent and demanding a return of the property from the transferee, which demand is refused, need not tender a return of the property received by the agent before commencing replevin. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076. See supra, Note: Demand and refusal.

85. Where property was held as security, held pledgor need not tender amount due as a prerequisite to maintaining replevin, the pledgee having broken the contract. Sellers v. Catron [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 742.

86. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Futrall [Ark.] 84 S. W. 505.

87. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

remedies, precluding plaintiff from maintaining an action of re-replevin,[88] but the defeated party in a replevin suit cannot bring re-replevin except where some illegality prevents the matter from being res judicata.[89]

§ 3. Jurisdiction and venue.[90]—In cases of concurrent jurisdiction, the court first obtaining it will have precedence.[91]

§ 4. The affidavit.[92]—The affidavit should clearly advise the defendant of the nature and extent of plaintiff's claim, but in this connection it may be read with reference to the petition.[93] It should describe and give the value of each article, but failure to observe this rule may be remedied by subsequent pleadings.[94] Statutes requiring plaintiff to make an affidavit of value apply only to actions wherein immediate possession is sought.[95] Nonprejudicial, clerical errors will be disregarded.[96] A practice or custom in the clerk's office is incompetent to prove the contents of a lost affidavit.[97]

§ 5. Plaintiff's bond.[98]—The necessity for plaintiff's bond is statutory.[99] The omission of the date in the bond is immaterial,[1] but a bond purporting to be given by a corporation, but being signed only by an individual, is defective.[2] A motion to dismiss for a defective bond must be filed at the first term and is waived by pleading to the merits before the motion is filed.[3] The plaintiff and his surety are estopped to take advantage of defects in their bond, the writ having been issued on it, and the property having been taken under the writ.[4]

§ 6. The writ and its execution.[5]—A release of the goods levied on or seized under the writ is an abandonment thereof, and invalidates the levy.[6] The defendant being adjudged a bankrupt in a proceeding, the petition in which was filed within four months of the seizure of the property under the writ in replevin, the lien obtained thereby is rendered void.[7] Plaintiff having obtained actual pos-

88. Douglass v. Galwey [Conn.] 58 A. 2.

89. Ginsburg v. Morrall, 105 Ill. App. 213.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1516.

91. The circuit court may not take by writ of replevin goods in the hands of an assignee appointed by the county court. Hillis v. Asay, 105 Ill. App. 667.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1516.

93. Affidavit by chattel mortgagee, alleging ownership of property by plaintiff, is sufficient where the mortgage contains no stipulation retaining title in the mortgagor, especially where verified petition sets out the exact nature of the claim. Bartlett v. Ridgley Nat. Bank [Kan.] 78 P. 414.

94. The affidavit describing each article and giving the total value, and an amended bill of particulars giving the value of each article, held case would not be reversed. Boyce v. Augusta Camp, No. 7,429, 14 Okl. 642, 78 P. 322.

95. Code Civ. Proc. 1903, § 185, subd. 5. Johnson v. Hillenbrand [S. D.] 101 N. W. 33.

96. That the replevin affidavit described plaintiff as "Charles Oleson," but was signed "Charley Olson," held immaterial where the justice who issued the warrant thereon certified that the affidavit was subscribed and sworn to before him. Olson v. Peabody, 121 Wis. 675, 99 N. W. 458. Where affidavit gave first name of defendant as "Wimmian" instead of "William" as it appeared in the warrant, held immaterial where defendant appeared and made an affidavit of removal. Id.

97. Custom was of copying into the writ of replevin the value of the property as stated in the affidavit. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011. Where the finding of the jury was justified by other evidence, the admission of such evidence was held harmless. Id.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1516.

99. The scope of the undertaking given under Code Civ. Proc. § 1699 is more comprehensive than an undertaking given for security for costs under § 3268, and the former includes all the objects covered by the latter, hence a foreign corporation having given a bond under § 1699 cannot be required to give one under § 3268. Vulcanite Portland Cement Co. v. Williams, 92 N. Y. S. 574.

1, 2. Kimball Co. v. Tasca [R. I.] 59 A. 919.

3. Bond purporting to be given by a corporation was signed by an individual. Kimball Co. v. Tasca [R. I.] 59 A. 919.

4. Where the defects were that the surety was the magistrate who afterwards signed the writ, and that the recognizance was entered into before a magistrate who did not sign the writ. Douglass v. Unmack [Conn.] 58 A. 710.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1516.

6. Where sheriff surrendered property to receiver in bankruptcy. In re Hymes Buggy & Implement Co., 130 F. 977.

7. Bankr. Act § 67f applies to a seizure of property on a writ of replevin. In re Hymes Buggy & Implement Co., 130 F. 977.

session of the property under his replevin writ, he is estopped to say that the writ was wrongly issued or executed, or to contradict the return of the marshal.[8]

§ 7. The pleadings[9] and parties to the action.—The petition being in the statutory form, it is sufficient.[10] It should definitely describe the property,[11] and allege that plaintiff was the owner or entitled to the possession thereof at the commencement of the action,[12] and such allegations must not be mere conclusions of law.[13] Plaintiff need only allege the value of his interest in the property, or the damages sustained by the wrongful detention thereof.[14] The complaint in an action to recover possession of a dwelling house must allege that it is personalty.[15] It need not allege facts whose existence is presumed.[16] General allegations by defendant of ownership or right of possession are sufficient.[17] Under a general denial, defendant may show title in himself[18] and, in those cases wherein plaintiff had not prior actual possession, may disprove plaintiff's title even by showing title in a stranger.[19] In some cases a supplemental answer may be filed.[20] In Iowa a counterclaim cannot be filed in a replevin suit.[21] A denial that a cross complainant at the time of filing a cross complaint had the right of possession puts the question of the right in issue, and defendant may show that the right of possession was in himself or a third party.[22] A slight variance between the description in the petition and that in the mortgage under which defendant claims is immaterial where it is clearly shown that the property described in both is the same.[23]

Where the whole possessory right is in one of the plaintiffs, it is immaterial to defendants if he joins others with him in the suit,[24] and the fact that he has transferred part of his interest is immaterial if his transferee is made a party.[25]

8. Three States Lumber Co. v. Blanks [C. C. A.] 133 F. 479.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1516.

10. The declaration being in the statutory form, it cannot be treated as a complaint under the practice act (Gen. St. 1902, §§ 607, 1058) and required to be made more specific as to the nature of plaintiff's title and its right to possession. Norman Printers' Supply Co. v. Ford [Conn.] 59 A. 499.

11. Description of horses, farming utensils and crops held sufficient. McNorrill v. Daniel, 121 Ga. 78, 48 S. E. 680.

12. Allegation that "plaintiffs were the owners thereof as hereinbefore stated" is not an allegation of ownership at the time the allegation was commenced within Code Civ. Proc. § 1720. Burdick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13. In Oregon a chattel mortgagee after breach of condition can maintain replevin under an allegation of absolute ownership. B. & C. Comp. § 5636 construed. Culver v. Randle [Or.] 78 P. 394.

13. Allegations that when defendant wrongfully and unlawfully took the property plaintiffs were the owners thereof, as before stated in the complaint and were entitled to immediate possession, held mere conclusions of law. Burdick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13.

14. Johnson v. Hillenbrand [S. D.] 101 N. W. 33. Need not allege the value of the property. Id.

15. Adams v. Tully [Ind.] 73 N. E. 595. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 379, requiring that allegations be liberally construed, such an allegation is sufficient to overcome the presumption that the building is realty. Id.

16. Where defendant mortgaged to plaintiff a stock of goods, he to render a true account of all sales made, etc., held, complaint in an action of replevin, defendant having failed to render the account for two months, need not allege that any sales were made during such months. Johnson v. Hillenbrand [S. D.] 101 N. W. 33.

17. Summerville v. Stockton Milling Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243.

18. Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397, 77 P. 725.

19. May show that a sale under which plaintiff claimed was void. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583. See Dresser v. Lemma [Wis.] 100 N. W. 844. Also ante, § 2, Right of action and defenses.

20. Where plaintiff sued to recover crops seized under a lien warrant, and defendant filed a supplemental answer alleging the setting aside of the first warrant, the issuance of another, the insolvency of plaintiff and that defendant had made advances on the lien which had not been paid, held supplemental answer was properly filed. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61.

21. Sylvester v. Ammons [Iowa] 101 N. W. 782.

22. Summerville v. Stockton Milling Co., 142 Cal. 529, 76 P. 243. [See case for authorities pro and con.]

23. Saenz v. Mumme & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 59.

24. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

25. Where, in replevin of timber, plaintiff joins his grantee in the suit, it is immaterial to defendant that plaintiff conveyed a portion of the land, and the timber

§ 8. Trial.[26]—The cause may be removed for prejudice on the part of the court.[27] In North Carolina the action is properly triable in the county in which the property is situated,[28] and being begun in another county, defendant is entitled to a removal as a matter of right, he having made the motion in writing and in apt time;[29] the court refusing to grant the motion, an appeal lies.[30] The general rules of evidence apply,[31] and the action being for articles severed from land, the deeds to the latter may be referred to for the purpose of defining the possession,[32] and such deeds constitute prima facie evidence of title to the property sought to be recovered.[33] The burden is on plaintiff to establish his right to recover by a preponderance of the evidence,[34] but the party alleging fraud must prove it.[35] Plaintiff obtaining possession of the property and defendant claiming no title therein, a third party interposing a claim to the property will be allowed to interplead.[36] In Georgia a claim cannot be filed and successfully entertained by a third person to property seized by a sheriff under bail-trover proceedings.[37] Defendant bonding the property and a claimant interpleading, plaintiff may take a nonsuit, and in such case the interpleader cannot recover a judgment, other than for costs, against him.[38] The general rules as to instructions[39] and harmless and prejudicial error[40] apply, special applications being collected in the notes. Questions of fact are for the jury.[41] may have been cut from such portion. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1516.

27. An affidavit by defendant of prejudice on the part of a justice of the peace is sufficient for the removal of the cause to the county court. Olson v. Peabody, 121 Wis. 675, 99 N. W. 458.

28. Code, § 190 (4), as amended by Laws 1889, p. 232, c. 219. Brown v. Cogdell, 136 N. C. 32, 48 S. E. 515. This is true whether the ancillary remedy of claim and delivery is resorted to or not, since the latter is simply to obtain possession of the property before judgment, or security for its being forthcoming if the plaintiff obtains judgment. Id.

29. Must be made before the time for answering expires. Brown v. Cogdell, 136 N. C. 32, 48 S. E. 515.

30. Brown v. Cogdell, 136 N. C. 306, 48 S. E. 515.

31. In replevin for a ring, plaintiff claiming that he gave it to his son to show to a customer and that the customer ran off with it and pawned it, evidence that plaintiff's business methods were discreditable held incompetent and improper. Gumberg v. Goodstein, 95 App. Div. 101, 88 N. Y. S. 423. See Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.

32. Replevin to recover logs cut from land. Lieberman v. Clark [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 258.

33. Hence an instruction that the burden was on defendant to either establish fraud or qualify the legal effect of the deed so as to impose a trust on the grantee was proper. Dresser v. Lemma [Wis.] 100 N. W. 844.

34. Kerfoot v. State Bank of Waterloo, 14 Okl. 104, 77 P. 46. The plaintiff alleging ownership and the answer denying the allegation, the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove such allegation. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583. The action being one for property wrongfully seized by a constable under an execution, where plaintiff claimed title from the execution defendant, the burden of proof was not shifted by mere proof of notice of claim to the constable at the time of the levy. Id.

35. Where in replevin against a sheriff the latter alleged that sale to plaintiff was fraudulent. Williams v. Finlayson [Fla.] 38 So. 50. In such a case held proper to instruct that if sale was fraudulent verdict should be for defendant, and vice versa. Id.

36. Where third party made his claim while the property was in the possession of the sheriff. Wright Steam Engine Works v. New York Kerosene Oil Engine Co., 44 Misc. 580, 90 N. Y. S. 130.

37. Central Bank of Oakland v. Georgia Grocery Co., 120 Ga. 883, 48 S. E. 325.

38. Dawson v. Thigpen [N. C.] 49 S. E. 959.

39. In replevin of cattle claimed by plaintiff under a mortgage, an instruction that the cattle "levied on" under the writ were included in the mortgage is not defective where the court afterward referred to the description in the mortgage. National Bank of Boyertown v. Schufelt [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 927. See Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133.

40. Where plaintiff submitted the issue of his ownership, he cannot object on appeal that such issue should not have been submitted because his ownership was admitted of record. Walker v. Robertson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1183. In replevin against a sheriff a charge that the execution plaintiff was the real party in interest, though not formally substituted as a party in interest, held harmless, the defense being in every respect as though a substitution had been made. Hackler v. Evans [Kan.] 79 P. 669. In replevin to recover stock seized by mortgagee, plaintiff claiming that the mortgage was without consideration and that issue being stated to the jury, a statement that plaintiff claimed further credit on the note because of fraud is not prejudicial error. Sylvester v. Ammons [Iowa] 101 N. W. 782.

Verdicts.[42]—Where the return of a part of the property is authorized, the jury should be required to find the separate value of each article.[43] The defendant failing to claim the property or damages, failure of the jury to assess the value of the property or to fix any damages is not prejudicial.[44] Where plaintiff has obtained possession of the property and there is no evidence as to its value, and defendant recovers a verdict, the jury may adopt as such value the amount alleged in the complaint.[45] Plaintiff recovering a verdict for the return of the property, and assessing its value, it is error to set aside the verdict as to the value on the ground that the evidence does not show that the property could not be delivered, and refuse to enter judgment for the value until after the return of an execution unsatisfied.[46] The verdict being irregular in form through the fault of the court, and being rendered against the objection of plaintiff, a claim that plaintiff consented thereto is without merit.[47]

§ 9. Judgment.[48]—The judgment must conform to the verdict[49] and the evidence,[50] though mere clerical mistakes will be disregarded.[51] A general verdict warrants a judgment in the alternative.[52] The refusal to enter the judgment upon the verdict is generally held to be the denial of a substantial right and appealable.[53] The right to an alternative judgment may be determined from the pleadings and agreements of the parties.[54] As a general rule where the successful party claims less than the full interest in the property replevied, the value of his interest should be fixed.[55] Plaintiff obtaining possession of the property, there is a conflict as to whether defendant by establishing his ownership becomes entitled to a judgment for the return of the property or its value if he does not pray for such affirmative relief,[56] and in those states that hold that he must pray for

See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

41. Under the evidence held plaintiff's right to sole possession was for the jury. Beatty v. Clarkson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1033.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1517.

43. The articles having been sequestered by plaintiff and replevied by defendant who gave a replevy bond held proper under Rev. St. 1895, art. 4877, authorizing the return of all or a part of the property, to give an instruction directing the jury to find the separate value of each article. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 776. On rehearing opinion, 81 S. W. 777, this case is distinguished from that of Byrne v. Lynn, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 253, 44 S. W. 311, 544.

44. Rev. St. 1899, § 4473 construed. Walker v. Robertson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1183.

45. North Star House Furnishing Co. v. Rinkey, 92 Minn. 80, 99 N. W. 429.

46. Globe Oil Co. v. Messick Grocery Co., 136 N. C. 354, 48 S. E. 781.

47. Hitchcock v. Wimpleberg, 45 Misc. 293, 92 N. Y. S. 298.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1518. See Judgments, 4 Curr. L. 287.

49. There being no evidence and no finding by the jury of the value of the articles, it is error to give the value in the judgment. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 776.

50. Where several actions to recover logs levied on were consolidated and one of the writs and the bond covered pilings as well as the logs, but there was no evidence that plaintiff was the owner of the piling, held a judgment awarding him the piling was erroneous. Day v. Ferguson [Ark.] 85 S. W. 771.

51. The findings showing that seven head of cattle were taken under the writ, a statement in the judgment as to the "six head" held a mere clerical error and immaterial. Olson v. Peabody, 121 Wis. 675, 99 N. W. 458.

52. Hitchcock v. Wimpleberg, 45 Misc. 293, 92 N. Y. S. 298. Motion to amend judgment by striking out the provision for the return and for costs on the ground that plaintiff consented to a change in the action from replevin to conversion, by accepting the verdict, denied. Id.

53. So held where court set aside that part of the verdict which related to the value of the property. Globe Oil Co. v. Messick Grocery Co., 136 N. C. 354, 48 S. E. 781.

54. Held entitled to an alternative judgment where it was asked for and there was an agreement as to interest if the value should be recovered. Globe Oil Co. v. Messick Grocery Co., 136 N. C. 354, 48 S. E. 781.

55. Verdict and special finding construed and held sufficient to sustain judgment. Muller v. Parcel [Neb.] 99 N. W. 684.

56. That he is entitled to its return or its value [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5020, does not prescribe a different rule]. Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397, 77 P. 725.

In the absence of the plea authorized by § 117 of the Municipal Court act, and of any proof that the defendants had required a return of the chattel, the final judgment cannot award possession to the defendants. Levy v. Hohweisner, 91 N. Y. S. 552. The such judgment, it is held that failure to do so does not preclude him from maintaining a subsequent action to regain possession.[57] If the defendant has only a special interest in the property and such interest is terminated pending suit, he is entitled, if he prevails, only to a judgment for costs and expenses.[58] It appearing that there is not sufficient property to satisfy certain claims, the failure of the court to determine the respective rights of such claimants is harmless error.[59] No property having been found and none taken by the writ, an error in the judgment in awarding both damages and a return of the property is harmless.[60] The judgment must be satisfied in the way indicated by its terms.[61] Plaintiff taking a nonsuit and the cause continuing between defendant and an interpleader, plaintiff is bound by the result as privy to the suit.[62]

Damages.[63]—Where plaintiff in replevin desires to proceed for the value of the goods instead of by writ of de retorno habendo to recover the specific chattels, he must first resort to the statutory writ of inquiry for the assessment of damages.[64] Generally a mere prayer for damages is of itself insufficient to warrant a recovery.[65] The value of the property is to be determined from the evidence offered.[66] As a general rule, in the absence of fraud or malice, one is only entitled to actual damages.[67] Where plaintiff sues for the recovery of his property and in the alternative for its value, if the property cannot be recovered the measure of damages is the value of the property at the time of trial,[68] or, where there is a writ of restitution, at the time of refusal to comply with the writ.[69] Plaintiff having the option to recover the property or its value and electing to take the latter and treating the conversion as completed at the time of the trial, he is entitled to recover damages for the detention of the property;[70] but if he elects to treat the property as converted at the time it was taken from him, he should not be permitted to recover damages for its detention thereafter.[71] Damages for depreciation in value judgment erroneously awarding such possession, it may be awarded on appeal. Id. Such § 117 is not limited by § 115a, providing that where title is in a third person the latter may appear and become a party to the action. Id.

57. Levy v. Hohweisner, 91 N. Y. S. 552. If in the replevin action he pleads the title of a third person, his subsequent recovery must be subordinate to such title. Id.

58. Sheriff. Culver v. Randle [Or.] 78 P. 394.

59. Summerville v. Kelliher, 144 Cal. 155, 77 P. 889.

60. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

61. The judgment reciting that plaintiff recover the value of specified articles if they or any part thereof cannot be found, it cannot be satisfied without a delivery or tender of the entire property recovered or the payment of its value, as stated in the judgment. Pauls v. Mundine [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 43.

62. Dawson v. Thigpen [N. C.] 49 S. E. 959.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1518.

64. Painter v. Snyder, 22 Ra. Super. Ct. 603.

65. Under Rev. St. 1898, §§ 3165, 2960, defendant desiring damages for the taking and detention of the property, he must set up his claim by a statement of the facts, a mere clause in the prayer for relief asking for damages is insufficient. Shafer v. Russell [Utah] 79 P. 559.

66. No witness estimating the value of the article at more than $35, a judgment on a verdict for $60 cannot be sustained. Nolen v. Sevine [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 990.

67. Where property was allowed to remain in defendant's possession until sale, when part of it was purchased by defendant, the replevin suit terminating in favor of defendant, he is entitled to the price paid for the goods bought together with the actual value of the remainder at the time of sale. Pure Oil Co. v. Terry, 209 Pa. 403, 58 A. 814. It is erroneous to assess the full value of the property involved in favor of a defendant whose rights therein are confined to a special interest. Gaston v. Johnson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 276. A defendant testifying that he had never taken possession of the replevied property and the jury returning a verdict "for plaintiff to retain said goods and to recover * * * no damages," held erroneous for the judge to direct them to return a verdict for "some damages." Norman Printers' Supply Co. v. Ford [Conn.] 59 A. 499.

68. Nolen v. Sevine [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 990.

69. Nolen v. Sevine [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 990 [dicta].

70. Newberry v. Gibson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 428.

71. Colean Implement Co. v. Strong are not recoverable unless pleaded.[72] To comply with an alternative judgment for the return of the property, it must be returned in substantially the same condition and without deterioration in value.[73] There being a judgment for return and only a part of the goods being returned and those being injured, the measure of damages is the value of the goods not returned with legal interest from the time of the replevin, and deterioration in value of those returned resulting from such injury, with legal interest thereon from the date of their return.[74] Where the property in controversy has a usable value, the value of the use of such property during the time of its wrongful detention may be recovered as proper damages.[75] The action being brought by a mortgagee, the measure of his damages in case return of the goods cannot be had is the value of the goods up to the amount of the indebtedness, with accrued interest.[76] The defendant coming rightfully into possession, plaintiff must demand the chattel before he can recover damages for the detention thereof.[77] Judgment being rendered for a return of the goods, and a demand therefor being refused, an action for nominal damages for such refusal to deliver will lie, though the goods be subsequently delivered, and the damages and costs recovered paid.[78] The defendant is not entitled to a verdict for the value of the property in controversy merely on the ground that he did not have possession of it when the suit was begun.[79]

§ 10. Costs.[80]—In New Jersey a bailee of the property may become liable for costs if he fail to obtain a written statement from the bailor to the effect that the latter is the sole owner of the property.[81]

§ 11. Review.[82]—The general rule of appellate procedure, that questions cannot be raised for the first time on appeal, applies.[83]

§ 12. Liability on bonds and of receiptors, etc.[84]—Unless authorized by its terms, the remedy upon a nonstatutory bond is by separate action.[85] On breach of a condition to duly prosecute the action, defendant is entitled to recover the value of the property taken with interest[86] and nominal damages.[87] Plaintiff's bond being conditioned to pay defendant such sums as may be adjudged against the [Iowa] 102 N. W. 506. Also 2 Curr. L. 1518, n. 9.

72. Jermyn v. Hinter, 93 App. Div. 175, 87 N. Y. S. 546.

73. Having depreciated in value, an action may be brought to recover the depreciation. Fair v. Citizens' State Bank [Kan.] 76 P. 847; MacRae v. Kansas City Piano Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 94.

74. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011. In such a case an instruction allowing damages for depreciation held not erroneous. Id.

75. Where the property consisted of a flock of sheep, the measure of damages was held to be the sheep and their increase, or their value, and the value of the wool shorn, defendant being entitled, as an offset thereto, to the reasonable cost of shearing the sheep and marketing the wool, but he is not entitled to the cost of keeping the sheep except from the date of the judgment below until the termination of the retrial after the appellate decision. Cunningham v. Stoner [Idaho] 79 P. 228.

76. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

77. Hall v. Bassler, 96 App. Div. 96, 88 N. Y. S. 1039.

78. Douglass v. Galwey [Conn.] 58 A. 2.

79. Clute v. Everhart [Mich.] 100 N. W. 124.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1519.

81. In an action of replevin, a warehouseman who, by demanding for storage more than is due him, has lost his lien, if he has failed to obtain from his bailor a statement in writing under the supplement to the replevin act (P. L. 1893, p. 451), is liable for costs in case he appears and defends the replevin suit. Stephenson v. Lichtenstein [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1033.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1519.

83. Plaintiff recovering only a part of the articles sued for, defendant cannot for the first time raise the question on appeal of his right to judgment against plaintiff and his sureties on the bond for the remaining articles replevied. Beatty v. Clarkson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1033.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1519.

85. Bond conditioned that if defendant should be condemned in the action he or some other person would return property, etc., not being a statutory bond, the court was not authorized to render a summary judgment against the sureties. Mariany v. Lemaire [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 215.

86. Kentucky Land & Immigration Co. v. Crabtree, 26 Ky. L. R. 283, 80 S. W. 1161.

87. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011.

plaintiff and the costs of the action, defendant is not entitled, in an action thereon, to recover anything not adjudged against defendant,[88] nor do such terms permit defendant to recover for loss of time and expenses incurred in defending the action, together with an attorney's fee.[89] A forthcoming bond being conditioned that the defendant shall perform the judgment of the court in the action, the sureties are not liable thereon until after final judgment.[90]

Breaches.[91]—The conditions that plaintiff shall prosecute his writ with effect and will return the goods if return is ordered are separate and distinct, the penalty of the breach of either being the forfeiture of the bond.[92] Defendant giving a redelivery undertaking, the burden rests upon him to restore possession to the plaintiff upon the latter recovering judgment, and not upon the plaintiff to demand or enforce possession.[93]

Defenses.[94]—The obligation of the plaintiff being an alternative one, it does not become impossible of performance by the loss or destruction of the goods replevied.[95] That the plaintiff in the replevin action had title and right to the immediate possession of the property is only a partial defense to an action on the bond for breach of the condition to return if the action should be dismissed.[96] The suit having been dismissed, there is no liability on the part of the surety for the nonreturn of the chattels replevied, unless such return was demanded by the defendant in the action.[97]

REPLICATION; REPORTED QUESTIONS; REPORTS; REPRESENTATIONS; RES ADJUDICATA; RESCISSION; RESCUE; RES GESTAE; RESIDENCE; RESPONDENTIA; RESTITUTION, see latest topical index.

RESTORING INSTRUMENTS AND RECORDS.

§ 1. Evidence and Proof of Loss and of Contents (1294).
§ 2. Proceedings In Equity or Otherwise to Restore Lost Papers or Instruments (1295).
§ 3. Procedure In Equity or Under the Burnt Records Act to Restore Records (1295).

§ 1. Evidence and proof of loss and of contents.[1]—In order to prove the former existence of an instrument, it is necessary to prove its execution and contents[2] by such a degree of proof as amounts to a practical reproduction of[3] the substance and contents of the instrument.[4] Vague and uncertain recollections con-

88. Plaintiff dismissing the action and the court not adjudging either a return of the property or the payment of any sum, the fact that plaintiff has not returned the property or paid the value thereof does not authorize an action on the bond. Kentucky Land & Immigration Co. v. Crabtree, 26 Ky. L. R. 283, 80 S. W. 1161.

89. Kentucky Land & Immigration Co. v. Crabtree, 26 Ky L. R. 283, 80 S. W. 1161.

90. Hence they are not liable for the costs of an appeal; plaintiff having dismissed his case on remand to the trial court, on reversal of judgment for defendant. Spencer v. Davidson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 731.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1519.

92. Pure Oil Co. v. Terry, 209 Pa. 403, 58 A. 814.

93. MacRae v. Kansas City Piano Co. [Kan.] 77 P. 94.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1519.

95. Shannon's Code Tenn. § 5144. Three States Lumber Co. v. Blanks [C. C. A.] 133 F. 479. Where lumber was replevied on barge, latter sank, plaintiff saved same and sold it for salvage, held sale at its own instance could not be set up as a defense to defeat a judgment for its value. Id. But see Bobo v. Patton, 6 Heisk. [Tenn.] 172, 19 Am. Rep. 593, where it is held that the death of an animal replevied, without fault, relieved the plaintiff from his obligation to either return or pay value.

96. Freeman v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 87 N. Y. S. 493. Hence, under Code, § 508, must be pleaded as such a defense. Id.

97. Freeman v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 87 N. Y. S. 493.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1520.

2. Under the Montana statute. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 55.

3. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 55.

4. Evidence held insufficient to establish a deed. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 55.
Evidence held sufficient to establish the execution of certain powers of attorney. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 698, 78 P. 277. To establish the execution of a lost note. Day v. Long [Ky.] 80 S. W. 774. The contents of an answer in an action may be established by parol where it is shown to have cerning the stipulations are insufficient.[5] "Contents" includes all the substantial parts of the instrument,[6] and cannot be established by proof of the negotiations, conversations and acts of the parties at the time of and after the execution.[7]

The establishment of a lost note is no bar to any defense that might be set up as against the original.[8]

§ 2. Proceedings in equity or otherwise to restore lost papers or instruments.[9]

§ 3. Procedure in equity or under the burnt records act to restore records.[10] —The proceeding under the Illinois burnt records act is a suit in equity,[11] and may be maintained, though questions as to title involving tax deeds subsequent to the destruction of the records are involved.[12] In such proceedings the holder of a tax title has the burden of showing its validity,[13] which is not sustained by merely introducing the tax deed in evidence,[14] and if he does not attempt to show its validity, but merely offers it in evidence, if he desires to be reimbursed money paid in procuring it, he must prove the amount.[15] Proof of possession in good faith under color of title and payment of taxes for the statutory period and the destruction of the records is sufficient proof of title under the burnt records act.[16] On collateral attack all presumptions will be indulged in favor of the decree.[17] Objections to the report of an examiner of titles cannot be reviewed on appeal unless incorporated into the exceptions to the report and renewed in the trial court.[18]

Retraxit; Returnable Package Laws; Returns; Revenue Laws; Reversions; Review; Revival of Judgments; Revivor of Suits; Revocation, see latest topical index.

REVOCATION OF AGENCY BY OPERATION OF LAW.

[Special Article.*]

§ 1. In General (1295).
§ 2. By a Change in the Law (1296).
§ 3. By a Change in the Subject-Matter or Circumstances (1296).
§ 4. By a Change in the Condition of the Parties (1297).
§ 5. By Death (1297).
A. Of the Principal (1297).
B. By Death of the Agent (1302).
§ 6. By Insanity (1303).
A. Of the Principal (1303).
B. Insanity of the Agent (1305).
§ 7. By Bankruptcy (1306).
A. Of the Principal (1306).
B. Of the Agent (1307).
§ 8. By Marriage (1307).
§ 9. By War (1308).

§ 1. In general. —Besides a termination by the intentional acts, express or been taken from the records to be used as evidence in another case and cannot be found. Meyer v. Purcell [Ill.] 73 N. E. 392.

5. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 55.

6. Consideration of a deed, if it is mentioned therein. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 55.

7. Capell v. Fagan [Mont.] 77 P. 55.

8. Payment prior to the judgment establishing it may be pleaded. Jenkins v. Forbes, 121 Ga. 383, 49 S. E. 284.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1520.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1521.

11. Can be reviewed only by appeal or writ of error. Bennett v. Roys, 212 Ill. 232, 72 N. E. 380. Petition held to show on its face that it was under the Burnt Records Act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 1484, c. 115), and not to remove a cloud. Glos v. Kelly, 212 Ill. 314, 72 N. E. 378.

12, 13, 14. Glos v. Kelly, 212 Ill. 314, 72 N. E. 378.

15. Evidence insufficient to show amount, under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 120, § 224. Glos v. Kelly, 212 Ill. 314, 72 N. E. 378.

16. Glos v. Mulcahy, 210 Ill. 639, 71 N. E. 629.

17. Where after a decree for possession defendant was removed under a writ of assistance, his subsequent motion for a writ of restitution and to quash the writ of assistance is a collateral attack on the decree. Bennett v. Roys, 212 Ill. 232, 72 N. E. 380.

18. Objections that certain abstracts were received in evidence without proof that the original deeds had been lost held not sufficiently specific. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 222, 72 N. E. 1.

*From Clark and Skyles on Agency, Copyright 1905, Keefe-Davidson Co.

implied, of the parties to the relation,[19] there may be cases in which the contracts of agency are discharged by law, and perhaps contrary to the real intention of the parties. This is what is known as termination by operation of law, and occurs in those cases where by reason of changes in the condition of affairs, either of the parties or affecting the subject-matter, it is inconsistent, impossible, or contrary to public policy for the relation to continue. Whereupon the law steps in and terminates or dissolves the contract that cannot be performed whether such is the intention of the parties or not. These changes and conditions that cause a termination of the relation by operation of law may be divided into three general heads, so far as concerns contracts in which personal service is to be performed: (1) A change in the law itself, (2) a change in the subject-matter of the contract, (3) a change in the conditions of the parties to the contract.

§ 2. By a change in the law.—If one enters into a contract of agency to perform certain acts, and the law is afterwards changed so as to make the performance of such acts illegal, this operates as a termination of the agency, as to the future performance of such acts. This is but an application of the principle of contracts, that one is discharged from the performance of a contract when by a change in the law, performance becomes impossible or illegal.[20] It has been seen heretofore that an agency cannot be created for an illegal purpose, or for the performance of illegal acts;[21] for the same reason, as there given, an agency cannot exist for the performance of such, though such acts were legal, and capable of being performed by an agent when the agency was first created.

§ 3. By a change in the subject-matter or circumstances.—Where a contract of agency is entered into in contemplation of the continued existence of the subject-matter or circumstances as they were when the contract was made, a change permanently affecting the condition of such subject-matter or circumstances may operate to terminate the agency, although contrary to the real intention of the parties.[22] Although a party to an absolute executory contract is not excused by inability to execute it, caused by unforeseen accident or misfortune, but must perform or pay damages unless he has protected himself by a stipulation in the contract, there may be in the nature of the contract an implied condition by which he will be relieved from such unqualified obligation, and, when in such case, without his fault, performance is rendered impossible, it may be excused. Such an implication arises when it inherently appears to have been known to the parties to the contract, and contemplated by them when it was made, that its fulfillment would depend upon the continuance or existence, at the time for performance, of certain things or conditions essential to its existence.[23] Any change in conditions must take place without any voluntary act on the part of the principal or his agent, as where the property is destroyed by fire,[24] for if such change or disposition of the subject-matter is caused by the voluntary act of either one of the parties, it effects a termination by implication from the acts of the parties, as has been seen in a previous section.[25] Whether or not the prevalence of a contagious disease at the place where an agent is to perform his services will operate as a termination of the agency and excuse the agent from performing his contract is not definitely settled. It has been held that where such disease renders it unsafe

19. See Clark and Skyles, Agency, 381 et seq.

20. See Hammon, Cont. 829.

21. See Clark and Skyles, Agency, § 38, p. 78.

22. Turner v. Goldsmith [1891] 1 Q. B. 544, Huffc. Cas. 137; Dexter v. Norton, 47 N. Y. 62, 7 Am. Rep. 415; Stewart v. Stone, 127 N. Y. 500; People v. Bartlett, 3 Hill [N. Y.] 570.

23, 24. Stewart v. Stone, 127 N. Y. 500.

25. See Clark and Skyles, Agency, § 170, p. 409.

and unreasonable for men of ordinary care and prudence to remain there, it is a sufficient cause for not performing the agency.[26]

§ 4. By a change in the condition of the parties—In general.—So a termination of agency by operation of law may be effected by a change in the condition of one of the parties to the relation. If the condition of one of the parties becomes such that it is impossible for the contract of agency to be further performed, the law steps in and terminates the relation. This condition of affairs may be brought about (1) by the death of one of the parties; (2) by the insanity of one of the parties; (3) by the illness of one of the parties; (4) by bankruptcy of one of the parties; (5) by war; or (6) by marriage of one of the parties. These different conditions and their effects will be fully treated in the following sections.

§ 5. By death. A. Of the principal—In general.—As we shall see presently, an agency which is coupled with an interest in the subject-matter is not terminated or revoked by the death of the principal; and even when an agency is not coupled with an interest, the act of the agent after the principal's death may be binding on the latter's heirs and personal representatives, if the act is done in ignorance of such death. Except in these cases the general rule is that an agency is terminated or revoked, ipso facto, by the death of the principal, and that acts or contracts done or made by the agent on behalf of the principal after his death are not binding on the principal's heirs or representatives;[27] and this is true although the power is such that it could not have been revoked by the principal during his lifetime,[28] as where it was given for a valuable consideration, or as security. It is also true, although the agent may have been employed for a definite

26. Lakeman v. Pollard, 43 Me. 463, 69 Am. Dec. 77. Compare Dewey v. Alpena School Dist., 43 Mich. 480, 38 Am. Rep. 206.

27. England: Palmer v. Reiffenstein, 1 Man. & G. 94; Smout v. Ilbery, 10 Mees. & W. 1; Campanari v. Woodburn, 15 C. B. 400.

United States: Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. 174, 5 Law. Ed. 589; Boone's Ex'r v. Clarke, 3 Cranch, C. C. 389, Fed. Cas. No. 1,641; Long v. Thayer, 150 U. S. 520, 37 Law. Ed. 1167; Pacific Bank v. Hannah, 90 F. 72; McDonald v. Hannah, 51 F. 73, 75; McClaskey v. Barr, 50 F. 712.

Alabama: Scruggs v. Driver's Ex'rs, 31 Ala. 274; Saltmarsh v. Smith, 32 Ala. 404.

Arizona: Tuttle v. Green, 48 P. 1009.

California: Ferris v. Irving, 28 Cal. 645; Travers v. Crane, 15 Cal. 12; Judson v. Love, 35 Cal. 463; Krumdick v. White, 92 Cal. 143; Id., 107 Cal. 37.

Florida: McGriff v. Porter, 5 Fla. 373.

Georgia: Wellborn v. Weaver, 17 Ga. 267, 63 Am. Dec. 235; Jones v. Beall, 19 Ga. 171.

Illinois: Garber v. Myers, 32 Ill. App. 175; Risley v. Fellows, 10 Ill. 531; Turnan v. Temke, 84 Ill. 286.

Indiana: Harness v. State, 57 Ind. 1.

Iowa: Dorr v. Dorr, 59 Iowa, 81; Furenes v. Eide, 109 Iowa, 511, 77 Am. St. Rep. 545.

Kentucky: Clark's Ex'rs v. Parrish's Ex'rs, 1 Bibb, 547; Campbell's Representatives v. Kincaid, 3 T. B. Mon. 68.

Maine: Harper v. Little, 2 Greenl. 14, 11 Am. Dec. 25; Staples v. Bradbury, 8 Greenl. 181, 23 Am. Dec. 494.

Massachusetts: Lincoln v. Emerson, 108 Mass. 87; Marlett v. Jackman, 3 Allen, 287; Gleason v. Dodd, 4 Metc. 333; Farnum v. Boutelle, 13 Metc. 159; Brown v. Cushman, 173 Mass. 368.

Mississippi: Clayton v. Merrett, 52 Miss. 353.

New Hampshire: Gale v. Tappan, 12 N. H. 145, 37 Am. Dec. 194; Wilson v. Edmonds, 24 N. H. 517.

New Jersey: Durbrow v. Eppens, 65 N. J. Law, 10.

New York: Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Wilson, 139 N. Y. 284, 36 Am. St. Rep. 696; Smith's Ex'rs v. Wyckoff, 3 Sandf. Ch. 77; Putnam v. Van Buren, 7 How. Pr. 31.

North Carolina: Doe d. Smith v. Smith, 46 N. C. [1 Jones Law] 135, 59 Am. Dec. 581; Duckworth v. Orr, 126 N. C. 674; Wainwright v. Massenburg, 129 N. C. 46.

Ohio: McDonald v. Black, 20 Ohio, 185, 55 Am. Dec. 448, 453; Easton's Adm'x v. Ellis, 1 Handy, 70; Johnson v. Johnson's Adm'rs, Wright, 594; Lessee of Wallace v. Saunders, 7 Ohio, 173.

Pennsylvania: Appeal of Given, 16 A. 75; In re Kern's Estate, 176 Pa. 373.

Tennessee: Jenkins v. Atkins, 1 Humph. 294, 34 Am. Dec. 648.

Texas: Cleveland v. Williams, 29 Tex. 204, 94 Am. Dec. 274; Primm v. Stewart, 7 Tex. 178.

Vermont: Gifford v. Thomas' Estate, 62 Vt. 34; Michigan State Bank v. Leavenworth's Estate, 28 Vt. 209; Davis' Adm'r v. Windsor Sav. Bank, 46 Vt. 728; Michigan Ins. Co. v. Leavenworth's Estate, 30 Vt. 11.

Virginia: Huston's Adm'r v. Cantril, 11 Leigh, 136; Triplett v. Woodworth's Adm'r, 98 Va. 187.

Compare Kelly v. Bowerman, 113 Mich. 446.

28. Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 174, 201, 5 Law. Ed. 589, Huffc. Cas. 146; McGriff v. Porter, 5 Fla. 373.

time, and no recovery can be had against the principal's estate upon the contract of agency.[29] If, however, the agency has been wholly executed before the death of the principal, such death cannot terminate the authority so as to affect rights that have been acquired under such agency. Or if it has been partly executed before the death of the principal, such death will not terminate the unexecuted part as to the other contracting party,[30] unless the agency was a severable one and the part already executed could be separated from the unexecuted part without affecting the other party's rights. Thus, except where the power is coupled with an interest, the principal's death terminates an agent's power to collect a debt;[31] or to make a sale of personal property;[32] or to make a sale and conveyance of real property;[33] and deeds made thereafter by the agent are null and void. So one claiming under a power of attorney to recover land whereby he is to have one-half of what he recovers has not an interest coupled with the power which prevents death from terminating the agency.[34] Where a party litigant dies after verdict, or at any time pending action, the authority of his attorney to act for him is thereby determined, and he can neither give nor receive a motion for a new trial, or appeal, or conduct any other proceeding by virtue of his original authority.[35] The attorney of the ancestor does not become the attorney of the heirs, without a new appointment;[36] and when an attorney revives a suit, after the death of his principal, and acts for the representatives, his claim is on his engagement with them, and not as attorney for the deceased.[37] But where such suit is revived in the name of the heirs, the counsel employed by the deceased principal will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be continued as counsel in the cause.[38] The general rule that a power of attorney, though irrevocable by the principal during his life, is extinguished by his death, is not affected by the circumstance that testamentary powers are executed after the death of the testator. The power in such case is necessarily to be executed after the death of the person who makes it and cannot exist during his life. It is the intention of the parties that it shall be executed after his death.[39]

Reason for the rule.—The general rule is based upon the theory that a person acting through an agent acts by himself—qui facit per alium, facit per se—and since it is impossible for him to act for himself after his death, it is likewise im-

29. Yerrington v. Greene, 7 R. I. 589, 84 Am. Dec. 578; Friend v. Young [1897] 2 Ch. Div. 421, 66 Law J. Ch. 737; Tasker v. Shepherd, 6 Hurl. & N. 575; Burnet v. Hope, 9 Ont. Rep. 10. But see Fereira v. Sayres, 5 Watts & S. [Pa.] 210, 40 Am. Dec. 496, where a contrary doctrine is held upon the death of one of the partners, who were principals.

30. Garrett v. Trabue, 82 Ala. 227.

31. Gale v. Tappan, 12 N. H. 145, 37 Am. Dec. 194; Long v. Thayer, 150 U. S. 520, 37 Law. Ed. 1167. And see cases cited supra.

32. McDonald v. Black's Adm'r, 20 Ohio, 185, 55 Am. Dec. 448; Scruggs v. Driver's Ex'rs, 31 Ala. 274; Campanari v. Woodburn, 15 C. B. 400; Brown v. Cushman, 173 Mass. 368. See cases cited supra.

33. Ex parte Welch, 2 N. B. Eq. 129; Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 201, 5 Law. Ed. 589, Huffc. Cas. 146; Pacific Bank v. Hannah, 90 F. 72; McClaskey v. Barr, 50 F. 712; Saltmarsh v. Smith, 32 Ala. 404; Travers v. Crane, 15 Cal. 12; Ferris v. Irving, 28 Cal. 645; Coney v. Sanders, 28 Ga. 511; Lewis v. Kerr, 17 Iowa, 73; Harper v. Little, 2 Greenl. [Me.] 14, 11 Am. Dec. 25; Clayton v. Merrett, 52 Miss. 353; Gaston's Adm'x v. Ellis, 1 Handy [Ohio] 70; Primm v. Stewart, 7 Tex. 178; Huston's Adm'r v. Cantrill, 11 Leigh [Va.] 136.

34. Wainwright v. Massenburg, 129 N. C. 46.

35. Judson v. Love, 35 Cal. 463; Adams v. Nellis, 59 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 385; Pool v. Pool, 58 Law J. Prob. 67.

36. Putnam v. Van Buren, 7 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 31; Turnan v. Temke, 84 Ill. 286; Risley v. Fellows, 10 Ill. 531; Gleason v. Dodd, 4 Metc. [Mass.] 333. And see Clark & Skyles, Agency, § 743, p. 1615.

37. Campbell's Representatives v. Kincaid, 3 T. B. Mon. [Ky.] 68; Clark's Ex'rs v. Parrish's Ex'rs, 1 Bibb [Ky.] 547; Adams v. Nellis, 59 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 385. And see Clark & Skyles, Agency, § 743, p. 1615.

38. Wilson v. Smith, 22 Grat. [Va.] 494. See Clark & Skyles, Agency, § 743, p. 1615.

39. Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 206, 5 Law. Ed. 589, Huffc. Cas. 150; McGriff v. Porter, 5 Fla. 373, 381.

possible for an agent to act for him.[40] As has been said: "It seems founded on the presumption that the substitute acts by virtue of the authority of his principal, existing at the time the act is performed; and on the manner in which he must execute his authority, as stated in Combes' Case, 9 Co. 766. In that case it was resolved, that 'when anyone has authority as attorney to do any act, he ought to do it in his name who gave the authority.' "[41] Now as an agent can only do that which the principal might do, it is evident that he cannot do that which the principal, by reason of his death, cannot do.

Where power is coupled with an interest.—There is an exception to the above general rule, however, where the agent has a power coupled with an interest in the subject-matter of the agency, as has been seen heretofore in the case of a revocation by the principal. When the authority of a person to act as agent for another is coupled with an interest in the subject-matter of the agency, it is not revoked or terminated by the principal's death, and an execution of the authority after the principal's death is good, and binds the principal's heirs and personal representatives.[42] Where, however, such a power is expressly conditioned to be performed in the principal's lifetime, it will be terminated by the principal's death.[43] Thus, where a bond executed by a son to his father for the maintenance of the latter, in consideration of a conveyance of the father's farm to his son, conditioned to account for and deliver to the father on demand, the cattle on the farm, or other cattle as good, imports no power to sell the cattle and substitute others, or if it does, the power must be executed in the father's lifetime, and ceases at his death.[44]

What is a sufficient interest.—The same question arises here as in case of an attempted voluntary revocation[45] by the principal, as to what is a sufficient interest to make the power with which it is coupled irrevocable by the death of the principal. It need only be said here that it must be an interest in the subject-matter of the agency itself and which may be executed in the name of the agent;

40. Ish v. Crane, 8 Ohio St. 520; Weber v. Bridgman, 113 N. Y. 600.

41. By Marshall, C. J., in Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 174, 5 Law. Ed. 589, Huffc. Cas. 146.

42. Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 174, 5 Law. Ed. 589, Huffc. Cas. 146; Norton v. Whitehead, 84 Cal. 263, 18 Am. St. Rep. 172; Travers v. Crane, 15 Cal. 12; Gilbert v. Holmes, 64 Ill. 548; Merry v. Lynch, 68 Me. 94; Kelly v. Bowerman, 113 Mich. 446; Durbrow v. Eppens, 65 N. J. Law, 10; Bergen v. Bennett, 1 Caines Cas. [N. Y.] 1, 2 Am. Dec. 281; Knapp v. Alvord, 10 Paige [N. Y.] 205, 40 Am. Dec. 241; Hess v. Rau, 95 N. Y. 359; Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Wilson, 139 N. Y. 284, 36 Am. St. Rep. 696; Grapel v. Hodges, 112 N. Y. 419; Houghtaling v. Marvin, 7 Barb. [N. Y.] 412; Stevens v. Sessa, 50 App. Div. [N. Y.] 547; Wilson v. Stewart, 5 Pa. Law J. 450; Cleveland v. Williams, 29 Tex. 204, 94 Am. Dec. 274; Carleton v. Hausler, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 275. But the doctrine in England seems to be contra. As was said by Ld. Ellenborough: "A power coupled with an interest cannot be revoked by the person granting it; but it is necessarily revoked by his death. How can a valid act be done in the name of a dead man?" Watson v. King, 4 Camp. 272; Wallace v. Cook, 5 Esp. 117. So it was held in a late Canadian case, that a power of attorney from a mortgagor authorizing the attorney to receive any surplus realized from a foreclosure sale of the mortgaged premises, to be applied on any debt due him from the mortgagor, is revoked by the mortgagor's death before the sale. Ex parte Welch, 2 N. B. Eq. 129.

The reason for this exception is this: "The interest or title in the thing being vested in the person who gives the power, remains in him, unless it be conveyed with the power, and can pass out of him only by a regular act in his own name. * * * But if the interest or estate passes with the power, and vests in the person by whom the power is to be exercised, such a person acts in his own name. The estate being in him passes from him by a conveyance in his own name. He is no longer a substitute, acting in the place and name of another, but is a principal acting in his own name, in pursuance of powers which limit his estate. The legal reason which limits a power to the life of the person giving it exists no longer, and the rule ceases with the reason on which it is founded."—By Marshall, C. J., in Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 174, 5 Law. Ed. 589, 204, Huffc. Cas. 148.

43, 44. Staples v. Bradbury, 8 Greenl. [Me.] 181, 23 Am. Dec. 494.

45. See full discussion Clark and Skyles, Agency, § 165, p. 400.

and not merely an interest in the proceeds of the power.[46] Thus, a power of sale contained in a mortgage deed, on default of payment, is a power coupled with an interest, and is not terminated by the death of the mortgagor,[47] unless there is a statute in the particular state, giving a mortgage the effect of mere security for a debt, passing no estate or title to the mortgagee, in which case the power of sale would be revoked by the mortgagor's death.[48] Nor does the death of the principal terminate the agent's power to sell for the purpose of paying certain notes indorsed by the agent and others for the principal,[49] or to collect to pay advances made by the agent.[50] So where negotiable paper is indorsed to an agent for collection, he may sue thereon in his own name; and as the indorsement for such purposes passes the legal title in trust, the authority to collect is not revoked by the death of the principal.[51]

Where principal's death is unknown.—Whether an act of an agent after his principal's death is binding when both of the parties were ignorant of the death is a question upon which there has been some conflict of opinion. On some points, however, the law is clear. All of the authorities agree that an act done by an agent after the death of his principal is not binding, but a mere nullity, although both parties may have been ignorant of the principal's death, if the act was one which could only be done in the name of the principal, such as the execution of a conveyance of land or other instrument under seal.[52] The distinction as to notice between revocation and termination by death of the principal has been stated thus: "In the case of a revocation, the power continues good against the principal, till notice is given to the agent (and to third persons); but the instant the principal dies the estate belongs to his heirs, or devisees, or creditors; and their rights cannot be divested or impaired by any act performed by the attorney after the death has happened; the attorney then being a stranger to them, and having no control over their property."[53] Some courts hold that if the act is of such a character that it need not be done in the principal's name, it will be binding if done after his death, though the parties were ignorant thereof.[54] But the preponderance of authority holds that as to mere acts in pais of an agent of a deceased principal, the agent's authority, if not coupled with an interest, is instantly terminated by the death of the principal, whether the parties have notice of the death or not.[55]

46. "The power and the estate must be united and coexistent." Clark and Skyles, Agency, § 165, p. 400, citing Chambers v. Seay, 73 Ala. 378; Ralelgh v. Atkinson, 6 Mees. & W. 670; Mansfield v. Mansfield, 6 Conn. 559; Nevitt v. Woodburn, 82 Ill. App. 649; Bonney v. Smith, 17 Ill. 531; Black v. Harsha, 7 Kan. App. 794.

Must be a power "engrafted on an estate in the thing itself." Marshall, C. J., in Hunt v. Rousmanier's Adm'rs, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 175, 5 Law. Ed. 589.

47. Bergen v. Bennett, 1 Caines Cas. [N. Y.] 1, 2 Am. Dec. 281; Wilson v. Troup, 2 Cow. [N. Y.] 195, 14 Am. Dec. 458; Conners v. Holland, 113 Mass. 50; Varnum v. Meserve, 8 Allen [Mass.] 158; Harvey v. Smith, 179 Mass. 592; Hudgins v. Morrow, 47 Ark. 515; Berry v. Skinner, 30 Md. 567; Beatie v. Butler, 21 Mo. 313. But see Ex parte Welch, 2 N. B. Eq. 129.

48. Wilkins v. McGehee, 86 Ga. 764; Johnson v. Johnson, 27 S. C. 309, 13 Am. St. Rep. 636. Compare Reilly v. Phillips, 4 S. D. 604.

49. Knapp v. Alvord, 10 Paige [N. Y.] 205, 40 Am. Dec. 241; Merry v. Lynch, 68 Me. 94.

50. Norton v. Whitehead, 84 Cal. 263, 18 Am. St. Rep. 172.

51. Boyd v. Corbitt, 37 Mich. 52; Moore v. Hall, 48 Mich. 143; Deweese v. Muff, 57 Neb. 17.

52. Galt v. Galloway, 4 Pet. [U. S.] 331, 7 Law. Ed. 876; Travers v. Crane, 15 Cal. 12; Ferris v. Irving, 28 Cal. 645; Coney v. Sanders, 28 Ga. 511; Home Nat. Bank v. Waterman, 134 Ill. 461; Lewis v. Kerr, 17 Iowa, 73; Harper v. Little, 2 Me. 14, 11 Am. Dec. 25; Weber v. Bridgman, 113 N. Y. 600; Doe d. Smith v. Smith, 46 N. C. [1 Jones] 135, 59 Am. Dec. 581; Watson v. King, 4 Camp. 272; Wallace v. Cook, 5 Esp. 117.

53. Harper v. Little, 2 Me. 14, 11 Am. Dec. 27.

54. Cassiday v. McKenzie, 4 Watts & S. [Pa.] 282, 39 Am. Dec. 76; Garrett v. Trabue, 82 Ala. 227; Dick v. Page, 17 Mo. 234, 57 Am. Dec. 267; Ish v. Crane, 8 Ohio St. 520; Id., 13 Ohio St. 574; Deweese v. Muff, 57 Neb. 17, 42 L. R. A. 789.

55. Campanari v. Woodburn, 15 C. B. 400; Smout v. Ilbery, 10 Mees. & W. 1; Blades v. Free, 9 Barn. & C. 167; Houstoun v. Robertson, 6 Taunt. 448; Farrow v. Wilson, L. R.

Under the civil law, acts done after the principal's death in good faith and before notice are upheld.[56] But this equitable principle does not prevail in the English law, and the death of the principal is an instantaneous and absolute revocation of the authority of the agent, unless the power be coupled with an interest.[57]

Statutory provisions.—In view of the fact that this common-law rule was seen to work great hardships in many cases, the legislatures in some states have passed statutes making valid acts of the agent after his principal's death and in ignorance thereof, even though they are such acts as must be executed in the principal's name.[58]

By death of partner or joint principal.—Where authority is given to an agent by a partnership, the death of one of the partners will thereby terminate the agent's authority, unless it is a power coupled with an interest;[59] and it is held to be immaterial whether the dissolution was known or not.[60] But it has been held that authority of an agent to draw out and apply the money of such firm to the uses thereof continues in a qualified form after the death of one of the members of such firm; as where an agent of a firm, authorized to draw its moneys from the bank and apply the same to the uses of the firm, continues to do so after the death of one of the members without knowledge on his part or on the part of the bank, of such death, he acts within the scope of his authority, and his acts

4 C. P. 744; Bank of Washington v. Peirson, 2 Cranch, C. C. 685, Fed. Cas. No. 953; Galt v. Galloway, 4 Pet. [U. S.] 331, 7 Law. Ed. 876; Long v. Thayer, 150 U. S. 522; Rapp's Estate v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 113 Ill. 390, 55 Am. Rep. 427; Royal Ins. Co. v. Davies, 40 Iowa, 469, 20 Am. Rep. 581; Lewis v. Kerr, 17 Iowa, 73; Green v. Young, 8 Me. 14, 22 Am. Dec. 218; Clayton v. Merrett, 52 Miss. 353; Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Wilson, 139 N. Y. 284; Jenkins v. Atkins, 1 Humph. [Tenn.] 294, 34 Am. Dec. 648; Rigs v. Cage, 2 Humph. [Tenn.] 350, 37 Am. Dec. 559; Cleveland v. Williams, 29 Tex. 204, 94 Am. Dec. 274; Michigan Ins. Co. v. Leavenworth's Estate, 30 Vt. 11; Davis v. Windsor Sav. Bank, 46 Vt. 728; Michigan State Bank v. Leavenworth's Estate, 28 Vt. 209. Thus, the power of an agent to collect and receive rents falling due to his principal ceases upon the death of the latter, unless the agency is coupled with an interest, and payment made thereafter does not bind the estate of the principal, although made in ignorance of such death. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Wilson, 139 N. Y. 284.

56. Pothier says: "Although the commission terminates by the death of the person giving it, and there appears a repugnancy in supposing me to contract by the ministry of another, who after my death contracts in my name; yet if he contracts in my name after my death, but before it could be known at the place where the contract is made, such contract shall oblige my successor as if I had actually contracted by the ministry of this agent." Pothier, Obl. [81].

57. Cleveland v. Williams, 29 Tex. 204, 94 Am. Dec. 279.

58. See Cal. Civ. Code, § 2356; Dak. Civ. Code, §§ 1150, 1151; Md. Rev. Code 1878, p. 388, art. 44, § 31; Voorhees' Rev. Civ. Code La. 1875, arts. 3032, 3033; S. C. Gen. St. 1882, § 1302; 2 Kent, Comm. 646.

Under the Maryland statute: "All payments of money, transfers of property, or other dealings made or had, to or with, any person acting under a power of attorney, or other agency, duly executed or created, by any person within this state, which would be binding on the party giving such power of attorney, or agency, if the same was in full force and unrevoked at the time of such payment, transfer or other dealings, shall be equally binding and obligatory upon the representatives or other assignees of such party, although at the time aforesaid said party may be dead, or may have assigned his interest in such money, property, or dealing; provided, that the person paying, transferring, or having such dealings with the person acting under such power of attorney, or agency, had not at the time notice of the death of the party giving such power or creating such agency." Md. Rev. Code 1878, p. 388, § 31.

So in Georgia the fifth section of the act of 1875 declares that sales of lands, made under powers, shall be good, if made before the agent "has notice of a countermand, revocation, or death of the constituent." Coney v. Sanders, 28 Ga. 511. The court, however, in that state gave it as its opinion that that section applied only to powers created in other states than Georgia, and as the power in question had been created in Georgia it was held to be revoked by the death of the principal. Id.

In Louisiana, the statute provides that, "If the attorney, being ignorant of the death or of the cessation of the rights of his principal, should continue under his power of attorney, the transactions done by him, during this state of ignorance, are considered as valid." Voorhees' Rev. Civ. Code La. 1875, art. 3032.

59. McNaughton v. Moore, 2 N. C. [1 Hayw.] 189; Easton's Adm'x v. Ellis, 1 Handy [Ohio] 70; Friend v. Young [1897] 2 Ch. 421, 66 Law J. Ch. 737; Tasker v. Shepherd, 6 Hurl. & N. 575.

60. Easton's Adm'x v. Ellis, 1 Handy [Ohio] 70.

bind the firm.[61] And again it has been held that, if the agent has been expressly employed for a definite time, the death of one of the partners does not terminate the agency, so as to defeat the agent's claim for compensation for the full time.[62] The same applies when two principals jointly appoint an agent to take charge of some matter in which they are jointly interested, and a severance of such interests afterwards occurs by the death of one of the joint principals.[63] Where, however, the principals are joint and several and the power given to the agent is both joint and several, the death of one of the principals does not terminate his authority.[64]

Effect of principal's death on subagent.—For the same reason that the principal's death terminates the agent's authority, it also terminates the subagent's authority, whether such subagent has been appointed by the principal's authority or not. If he has been appointed by the authority of the principal, the latter's death terminates his authority, for what the principal cannot do neither can the agent. And if he derives his authority directly from the primary agent, as the principal's death terminates the latter's authority, it also terminates the subagent's.

(§ 5) B. By death of the agent. In general.—As has been seen heretofore, the relation of principal and agent presupposes the existence of two parties—a principal and an agent. If for any reason the agent ceases to exist, or, as we shall see presently, becomes incapable of performing his duties, the relation forthwith ceases, subject to an exception which we shall see hereafter. It is a general rule of law, then, subject to one exception, that the death of an agent terminates the agency; and especially is this so where his duties were such as to require the exercise of personal skill, judgment and discretion. The principal having selected him by reason of his peculiar ability to transact the particular business, would perhaps not consent that such duties should devolve upon the agent's personal representatives, of whom he knew nothing and who perhaps did not possess the required skill, judgment, and discretion.[65] And this is true, although the contract of agency was for a definite time, which had not expired at the time of the agent's death.[66] Thus, upon the death of an agent, money due for goods sold by the agent for his principal shall be paid to the principal and not to the administrators of such agent.[67] If, however, the agent has the money in his possession at the time of his death, it shall be looked upon as the agent's estate, and must first answer the debts of a superior creditor, etc., for in that regard money has no earmarks, and equity cannot follow that in behalf of the principal.[68] But if the agent, before his death, had invested the money in other goods, or had the original goods in his possession at the time of his death, these goods shall be taken as part of the principal's estate, and not the agent's,[69] and the agent's executor cannot lawfully dispose of the goods, although he may retain them for the agent's lien.[70]

61. Bank of New York v. Vanderhorst, 32 N. Y. 553.

62. Fereira v. Sayres, 5 Watts & S. [Pa.] 210, 40 Am. Dec. 496. But see Friend v. Young [1897] 2 Ch. 421, 66 Law J. Ch. 737; Tasker v. Shepherd, 6 Hurl. & N. 575; Burnet v. Hope, 9 Ont. 10.

63. Rowe v. Rand, 111 Ind. 206, Huffc. Cas. 126.

64. Milson v. Stewart, 5 Clark [Pa.] 450.

65. Merrick's Estate, 8 Watts & S. [Pa.] 402; Adriance v. Rutherford, 57 Mich. 170; Shiff v. Lessep's Succession, 22 La. Ann. 185; Gage v. Allison, 1 Brev. [S. C.] 495, 2 Am. Dec. 682; Jackson Ins. Co. v. Partee, 9 Heisk. [Tenn.] 296; Mills v. Union Cent. L. Ins. Co., 77 Miss. 327, 78 Am. St. Rep. 522.

66. Mills v. Union Cent. L. Ins. Co., 77 Miss. 327, 78 Am. St. Rep. 622.

67. Merrick's Estate, 8 Watts & S. [Pa.] 402; Whitecomb v. Jacob, 1 Salk. 160; Burdett v. Willett, 2 Vern. 638.

68. Whitecomb v. Jacob, 1 Salk. 160.

69. Whitecomb v. Jacob, 1 Salk. 160; Adriance v. Rutherford, 57 Mich. 170.

70. Gage v. Allison, 1 Brev. [S. C.] 495, 2 Am. Dec. 682.

Where agent's power is coupled with an interest.—The same exception obtains here as in the case of a principal's death, and if an agent has acquired not only a power but also connected with it an interest in the subject-matter of the agency, his death will not terminate the power, but it may be exercised after his death by his personal representatives and assigns.[71] Thus, where a trust deed, or a mortgage, executed to secure the payment of a sum of money, confers upon the grantee, his administrator and assigns, the power to sell the premises, upon nonpayment of the debt, the power is irrevocable, and does not cease with the death of the grantee;[72] and if this is not by virtue of the instrument itself, it may be by statute.[73]

Death of a joint agent.—When authority is conferred upon two or more agents, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, it is usually understood to be a joint agency and the power must be exercised by all of them acting together. Where such is the case the death of one of the joint agents necessarily terminates the authority of the others, for as they could only execute their powers by acting jointly, the death of one makes this impossible and operates to terminate the agency,[74] unless there is a subsequent recognition by the principal of the survivor as agent.[75] But this is in effect a new appointment. Thus, where A. delivered a note to B. & C. for collection, taking their receipt therefor, B. having died, the agency was thereby terminated, and B.'s estate could not be charged for C.'s subsequent misconduct.[76] So where a firm is employed as agents, their authority is determined by the death of one partner,[77] for whilst the firm may act by one of its members alone, yet it is the act of the firm, and upon his death the firm is dissolved and they cannot then act jointly. Where, however, the agency is joint and several, the same rule would apply as in the case of joint principals and the death of one agent would not terminate the agency.[78]

Effect of agent's death on subagents.—Where the authority of the subagent comes directly from the principal, or in other words where there is a privity of contract between the principal and subagent, although the appointment is made by the primary agent, the subagent's authority is held not to be terminated by the death of the primary agent.[79] Where, however, the subagent derives his authority directly from the agent, there is no privity of contract between the principal and subagent, and the agent's death terminates the subagent's authority,[80] although the primary agent may have been expressly authorized to appoint such subagent.[81]

§ 6. By insanity. A. Of the principal. General rule.—As we have seen elsewhere, a principal cannot authorize another to do that which he cannot do himself, on in other words what the principal cannot do himself, an agent cannot do for him. There is, as it were, a constant stream of authority flowing from the principal to the agent throughout the performance of anything for the principal. If, then, for any reason, the principal becomes incapable of himself doing the particular thing authorized, this stream of authority must likewise cease. The

71. Lewis v. Wells, 50 Ala. 198; Merrin v. Lewis, 90 Ill. 505; Collins v. Hopkins, 7 Iowa, 463; Harnickell v. Orndorff, 35 Md. 341.

72. Collins v. Hopkins, 7 Iowa, 463, and see cases cited above.

73. Lewis v. Wells, 50 Ala. 198.

74. Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Wilcox, 57 Ill. 180; Rowe v. Rand, 111 Ind. 206, Huffc. Cas. 126; Johnson v. Wilcox, 25 Ind. 182; Martine v. International L. Ins. Soc., 53 N. Y. 339, 13 Am. Rep. 529.

75. Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Wilcox, 57 Ill. 180.

76. Johnson v. Wilcox, 25 Ind. 182.

77. Martine v. International L. Ins. Soc., 53 N. Y. 339, 13 Am. Rep. 529.

78. See ante, § 5a.

79. Smith v. White, 5 Dana [Ky.] 376.

80. Jackson Ins. Co. v. Partee, 9 Heisk. [Tenn.] 296.

81. Watt v. Watt, 2 Barb. Ch. [N. Y.] 371; Peries v. Aycinena, 3 Watts & S. [Pa.] 64; Lehigh Coal & Nav. Co. v. Mohr, 83 Pa. 288, 24 Am. Rep. 161.

fountainhead being destroyed, the stream must necessarily cease to flow. It is a general rule of law, therefore, subject to certain exceptions, as we shall see presently, that if a principal becomes insane, to such an extent that he is incapable of exercising his own will, after he has appointed an agent to act for him, such insanity thereby terminates or suspends the agency by operation of law.[82] But although the agent's power ceases during the principal's insanity, yet, if on his recovery he manifests no will to terminate the agent's power, it may be considered as merely suspended, and acts done by the agent during the suspension will be inferred to be assented to, if he does not dissent from them, when they come to his knowledge.[83] Thus, where a wife who had been the general agent of her husband for years past, on the day of his death, when he was entirely senseless and no hopes of his recovery were entertained, turned over to another in settlement of a debt owing by the husband a note which the husband held against such other, it was held that the agency of the wife was revoked by the situation and the transaction invalid.[84]

Where power is coupled with an interest.—Where, however, an agent has a power coupled with an interest in the subject-matter of the agency, the after-occurring insanity of the principal will not terminate it.[85] Thus, the lunacy of a mortgagor does not in any manner affect or interfere with the mortgagee's right to execute the power of sale, and foreclose the right of redemption, in the mode and manner stipulated by the parties.[86] It has been said that it is a quaere as to whether or not this rule applies to the case of a power which is given as part of a security or for a valuable consideration;[87] but as these are in effect powers coupled with an interest, no reason appears why it should not apply to them as well as to other powers coupled with an interest.

82. Drew v. Nunn, 4 Q. B. Div. 661, Huffc. Cas. 24, Wamb. Cas. 967; Bunce v. Gallagher, 5 Blatchf. 481, Fed. Cas. No. 2,133; Davis v. Lane, 10 N. H. 156; Matthiessen & W. Refining Co. v. McMahon's Adm'r, 38 N. J. Law, 536; Hill's Ex'rs v. Day, 34 N. J. Eq. 150; Berry v. Skinner, 30 Md. 567; Motley v. Head, 43 Vt. 633; Blake v. Garwood, 42 N. J. Eq. 276.

83. Davis v. Lane, 10 N. H. 156; Hill's Ex'rs v. Day, 34 N. J. Eq. 150; Drew v. Nunn, 4 Q. B. Div. 661, Huffc. Cas. 24, Wamb. Cas. 967.

84. Davis v. Lane, 10 N. H. 156. As was said in this case: "It would be preposterous, where the power is in its nature revocable, to hold that the principal was, in contemplation of law, present, making a contract or acknowledging a deed, when he was in fact lying insensible on his deathbed, and this fact well known to those who undertook to act with him and for him. The act done by the agent, under a revocable power, implies the existence of volition on the part of the principal. He makes the contract; he does the act. It is done through the more active instrumentality of another, but the latter represents his principal and uses his name. Further, upon the constitution of an agent or attorney to act for another, where the authority is not coupled with an interest and not irrevocable, there exists at all times a right of supervision in the principal, and the power to terminate the authority of the agent at the pleasure of the principal. The law secures to the principal the right of judging how long he will be represented by the agent and suffer him to act in his name. So long as, having the power, he does not exercise the will to revoke, the authority continues. When, then, an act of Providence deprives the principal of the power to exercise any judgment or will on the subject, the authority of the agent to act should thereby be suspended for the time being; otherwise the right of the agent would be continued beyond the period when all evidence that the principal chose to continue the authority had ceased; for after the principal was deprived of the power to exercise any will upon the subject, there could be no assent, or acquiescence, or evidence of any kind to show that he consented that the agency should continue to exist. And, moreover, a confirmed insanity would render wholly irrevocable an authority, which, by the original nature of its constitution, it was to be in the power of the principal at any time to revoke." "An authority to do an act for and in the name of another pre-supposes a power in the individual to do the act himself, if present. The act to be done is not the act of the agent, but the act of the principal; and the agent can do no act in the name of the principal which the principal might not himself do, if he were personally present. The principal is present by his representative, and the making or execution of the contract or acknowledgment of a deed, is his act or acknowledgment."

85. Berry v. Skinner, 30 Md. 567; Davis v. Lane, 10 N. H. 156; Hill's Ex'rs v. Day, 34 N. J. Eq. 150; Matthiessen & W. Refining Co. v. McMahon's Adm'r, 38 N. J. Law, 536.

Where insanity is unknown.—There seems to be another exception to the general rule, where, in the absence of a formal adjudication of insanity, the third person is ignorant of the principal's insanity. Where the principal has not been judicially declared insane, persons who deal with the agent in ignorance of the principal's insanity will be protected, on the ground that between two equally innocent parties he who has made the loss possible must bear it. Whilst the principal and third party may both be innocent, the principal by conferring the authority on the agent has made the loss possible and must bear it.[88] Thus, where a purchase of real estate from an insane person is made, and a conveyance is obtained in perfect good faith, before an inquisition and finding of lunacy, for a fair and reasonable consideration, without knowledge of the insanity, and no advantage is taken by the purchaser, the conveyance cannot be avoided by the insane person, or by one representing him, if the consideration has not been returned to the purchaser, and no offer has been made to return the same.[89] If, however, the principal has been judicially declared insane, the decree or order of the court or commission will be notice to all of such insanity, and a third party cannot plead his ignorance as a protection to himself for acting with the agent.

What insanity is sufficient.—As has been stated before, the insanity should be such as renders the principal incapable of exercising his own will. Whether or not it is necessary that the insanity be established by an inquisition is not fully settled. It has been held that a power of attorney executed by one, whose sanity was in question, is not terminated until the lunacy has been established by an inquisition.[90] But the weight of authority seems to hold that if the insanity is such as to affect the principal's exercise of his will, it will effect a termination or suspension of the agent's authority, although there has been no inquisition.[91] An inquisition de lunatico inquirendo simply makes a prima facie case. Where there is no reason to suspect fraud, the test in cases where mental incapacity is charged is: Did the person whose act is challenged possess sufficient mind to understand, in a reasonable manner, the nature and effect of the act he was doing or the business he was transacting?[92] And even where one was sent to an insane asylum under a special guardian for treatment for an uncontrollable appetite for liquor, it was held that the agency of the wife appointed before his going there does not thereby terminate, it not appearing that the insanity was of that character which disqualified a person from entering into a valid contract.[93]

(§ 6) B. Insanity of the agent. General rule.—The insanity of the agent also constitutes a natural termination of the agency, for it cannot be presumed that the principal intends one to act for him and to bind him when that one is incompetent to understand or to transact the business for which he was employed. Especially is this true where the agent is one selected for his mental abilities, as where performance of his duties requires the exercise of skill, judgment, and discretion. Where, therefore, during continuance of the agency, the agent becomes insane to such an extent as to incapacitate him from the further execution of his

86. Berry v. Skinner, 30 Md. 567.
87. Davis v. Lane, 10 N. H. 156.
88. Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8; Young v. Stevens, 48 N. H. 133; Davis v. Lane, 10 N. H. 156; Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. Hunt, 79 N. Y. 541; Hill's Ex'rs v. Day, 34 N. J. Eq. 150; Matthiessen & W. Refining Co. v. McMahon's Adm'r, 38 N. J. Law, 536; Drew v. Nunn, 4 Q. B. Div. 661, Huffc. Cas. 24, Wamb. Cas. 967.
89. Gribben v. Maxwell, 34 Kan. 8; Young v. Stevens, 48 N. H. 133; Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. Hunt, 79 N. Y. 541.
90. Wallis v. Manhattan Co., 2 Hall [N. Y.] 495; 2 Kent, Comm. 645.
91. Matthiessen & W. Refining Co. v. McMahon's Adm'r, 38 N. J. Law, 536; Bunce v. Gallagher, 5 Blatchf. 481, Fed. Cas. No. 2,133; Drew v. Nunn, 4 Q. B. Div. 661, Huffc. Cas. 24, Wamb. Cas. 967.
92. Hill's Ex'rs v. Day, 34 N. J. Eq. 150.
93. Motley v. Head, 43 Vt. 633.

authority, it will be terminated or suspended during such insanity, unless he has an interest in the subject-matter of the agency. Mere partial derangement, however, or monomania will not terminate or suspend his authority, unless it happens to be on the particular subject of the agency, or otherwise unfits him for transacting the business of his agency.[94]

Where insanity is unknown.—Where the agent's insanity is of such a nature as not to be readily apparent, and a third person was ignorant thereof, and has dealt with him in good faith, taking no advantage of his mental incapacity, and the contract has been so far executed that the parties cannot be placed in statu quo, the agent's insanity will have no effect on such executed transactions. Where, however, the agent has been judicially declared insane, it is sufficient notice to third persons and any dealings had with him thereafter will be at their own risk.

Insanity of a joint agent.—In case of the insanity of one of two or more joint agents, the same rule applies as in case of the death of one of the joint agents. If the agency is a joint one, all the agents must act jointly in executing it, and where one of them becomes insane to the extent of incapacitating him from joining in the execution of the agency, it would necessarily be thereby terminated.[95] Where, however, the agency was joint and several, the insanity of one does not prevent the others from executing it.

As to subagents.—Whether or not the insanity of an agent terminating his authority also terminates the authority of a subagent depends upon whether the latter is the agent of the primary agent or of the principal. If he is appointed by the agent with or without the authority of the principal, and derives his authority wholly from the primary agent, then the latter's insanity also terminates such subagent's authority. But if the subagent derives his authority directly from the principal although appointed by the agent, he is the agent of the principal and the primary agent's insanity would not affect his authority. Of course if the subagent, in the latter case, himself becomes insane, the same rules would apply to him as to the original agent.

§ 7. By bankruptcy. A. Of the principal. General rule.—Where the principal enters into bankruptcy, either voluntarily or involuntarily, the agent's authority is thereby terminated, by operation of law, as to all rights of property of which the principal was divested by reason of his bankruptcy.[96] The reason for this rule is that by the bankruptcy the principal is divested of any control over his property, and cannot in any manner dispose of it, or transfer a good title thereto. And since the agent has no higher power or authority over the property than the principal himself has, and cannot do what the principal cannot do, and as the principal cannot dispose of or give a title to the property, neither can the agent do so. Thus, if a bankrupt previous to his bankruptcy has given a power of attorney to another, to receive sums of money due to him in consideration of engagements entered into by such person on account of the bankrupt, money received under such power after the bankruptcy may be recovered by the assignees.[97] But a factor may, after his principal has become bankrupt, enforce his lien, for sums for which he has become surety, against his principal's property, and thus collect for goods of the principal sold by him.[98] Or where the agent has funds

94. See Story, Agency, § 487; Mechem. Agency, § 259.

95. Rowe v. Rand, 111 Ind. 206, 210, Huffc. Cas. 127; Salisbury v. Brisbane, 61 N. Y. 617.

96. Parker v. Smith, 16 East, 382; Ex parte Snowball, 7 Ch. App. 534; Minett v. Forrester, 4 Taunt. 541; In re Daniels, 6 Biss. 405, Fed. Cas. No. 3,566; Ogden v. Gillingham, Baldw. 38, Fed. Cas. No. 10,456.

97. Hovill v. Lethwaite, 5 Esp. 158.

98. Drinkwater v. Goodwin, Cowp. 251.

of the principal paid into his hands, he may, after bankruptcy of the principal, apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the debt due to him from the principal.[99] But the bankruptcy of the principal does not prevent the agent from performing a mere formal act, which the bankrupt himself might have been compelled to execute notwithstanding his bankruptcy.[1]

Mere insolvency does not terminate agent's authority.—The agent's authority, however, will not be terminated by operation of law upon the mere insolvency of the principal, or from the mere fact that he is unable to meet his obligations when due. To have that effect the principal must have been legally declared a bankrupt, whether voluntarily or involuntarily. Until such is the case, the principal does not lose control of his property, and may delegate to another to do with it anything that he himself may do.

Where power is coupled with an interest.—But where the agent's power is coupled with an interest in the subject-matter of the agency, the same exception exists here as we have seen before, and the bankruptcy of the principal will not operate to terminate the agent's authority.[2] Thus, a power of sale in the mortgagee contained in a mortgage is not terminated by the bankruptcy of the mortgagor.[3]

Where bankruptcy is unknown.—Although the adjudication of the court is held to relate back to the time of the act of bankruptcy, yet if third persons, subsequent to such act, but in ignorance thereof, and prior to the adjudication of the court, deal in good faith with the agent, they will be protected.[4] And so if the agent receives money after an act of bankruptcy by the principal, but before the date of the receiving order, without notice of the act of bankruptcy, the money may be set off by the agent as against the trustee in bankruptcy.[5]

(§ 7) B. Of the agent.—When one appoints another to act as his agent, it is generally presumed, especially in cases where the handling of funds or property is necessary, that he appoints a certain one because he believes the latter responsible for any loss or damage sustained by his misconduct or neglect of duty. For this reason it is a general rule of law that an agent's authority is usually terminated by the bankruptcy of such agent.[6] Of course, there may be circumstances in particular cases, that would permit the agent to exercise his authority notwithstanding his bankruptcy and notwithstanding his duties involved responsibility, as where it was expressly agreed that the agent should be relieved from all responsibility, or where the principal, knowing of his bankruptcy, permits him to continue in his capacity of agent. If, however, the act to be performed by the agent is merely a formal one, and not such a one as involves much responsibility, his bankruptcy would not terminate his authority to do such acts.[7]

§ 8. By marriage.—Although, as a general rule, marriage of the principal does not terminate the relation of principal and agent, yet if the continuance of such relation would impair rights growing out of the marriage relation, the mar-

99. Alley v. Hotson, 4 Camp. 325.

1. Dixon v. Ewart, 3 Mer. 322.

2. Hall v. Bliss, 118 Mass. 554; Alley v. Hotson, 4 Camp. 325.

3. Hall v. Bliss, 118 Mass. 554.

4. Ex parte Snowball, 7 Ch. App. 548. "We are of the opinion," said Lord Justice Mellish, "that though, no doubt, as a general rule, a power of attorney must be treated as revoked by an act of bankruptcy committed by the giver of the power as against the trustee under a subsequent bankruptcy, still if after the act of bankruptcy, but before adjudication, property is conveyed under the power of a bona fide purchaser who has no notice of the act of bankruptcy, the purchaser may hold the property as against the trustee." Id.

5. Elliott v. Turguand, 7 App. Cas. 79. And see Ogden v. Gillingham, Baldw. 38, Fed. Cas. No. 10,456.

6. Hudson v. Granger, 5 Barn. & Ald. 27; Scott v. Surman, Willes, 400; Audendried v. Betteley, 8 Allen [Mass.] 302.

7. Hudson v. Granger, 5 Barn. & Ald. 27; Robson v. Kemp, 4 Esp. 233.

riage of the principal would have this effect. Thus, where a single man gave a power of attorney to sell his land, and before such sale could be effected he married, as the wife thereby acquired certain interests in the land which could not be impaired without her consent, the marriage operated to terminate the agent's power of attorney.[8] At common law the marriage of a feme sole gave to her husband the control over all of her property, and thus the authority of any agent she may have appointed was thereby terminated,[9] and the same is true now where the execution of the agency would affect any property interests or rights acquired by the husband by reason of such marriage.[10] A submission of any matter to arbitration by a woman is terminated by her marriage before award is made.[11] Where, however, the agent has a power coupled with an interest, it would not be terminated by the subsequent marriage of the feme sole.[12] Thus, if a feme sole gives a warrant of attorney to confess judgment on her bond, and afterwards marries, judgment may be entered against husband and wife.[13] The modern statutes in some states have given to a married woman the right to hold and control property as if she were unmarried, and of course in such cases, her agent's authority would not be terminated by her subsequent marriage.[14]

§ 9. By war. General rule.—There has been some controversy since the Civil War as to what effect war has upon agencies; and the authorities conflict somewhat on this subject. It seems, however, to be the general rule in America, although there are cases to the contrary, that war between the state or country of the principal and that of the agent, terminates ipso facto any agency that contemplates commercial intercourse or communication between them through the hostile lines, and makes unlawful any further commercial intercourse between them in the prosecution of the agency.[15] Contracts between alien enemies have frequently been held to be void; consequently as they cannot contract themselves, it would be impossible for them to appoint an agent to contract for them or to even continue in employment one previously appointed to transact business between them.[16]

Reason for the rule.—This rule is based upon the principle that during a state of war between different states or countries, trading or commercial intercourse between those states or countries, directly or indirectly, which may in any

8. Henderson v. Ford, 46 Tex. 627. But see Joseph v. Fisher, 122 Ind. 399.

9. McCan v. O'Ferrall, 8 Clark & F. 30; Charnley v. Winstanley, 5 East, 266; Anonymous, 1 Salk. 399.

10. Judson v. Sierra, 22 Tex. 365; Wambole v. Foote, 2 Dak. 1; Linton v. Minneapolis & N. Elevator Co., 2 N. D. 232.

11. McCan v. O'Ferrall, 8 Clark & F. 30; Sutton v. Tyrrell, 10 Vt. 91.

12. Wambole v. Foote, 2 Dak. 1.

13. Eneu v. Clark, 2 Pa. 234, 44 Am. Dec. 191. Contra, Anonymous, 1 Salk. 399.

14. Reynolds v. Rowley, 2 La. Ann. 890; Edgecomb v. Buckhout, 146 N. Y. 332; Joseph v. Fisher, 122 Ind. 399.

15. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Davis, 95 U. S. 425, 24 Law. Ed. 453, Wamb. Cas. 962; United States v. Lapene, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 601, 21 Law. Ed. 693; Ward v. Smith, 7 Wall. [U. S.] 447, 19 Law. Ed. 207; Hanger v. Abbott, 6 Wall. [U. S.] 532, 18 Law. Ed. 939; The William Bagaley, 5 Wall. [U. S.] 377, 18 Law. Ed. 583; Howell v. Gordon, 40 Ga. 302; Kershaw v. Kelsey, 100 Mass. 561, 1 Am. Rep. 142; Conley v. Burson, 1 Heisk. [Tenn.] 145; Maloney v. Stephens, 11 Heisk. [Tenn.] 738; Small's Adm'r v. Lumpkin's Ex'r, 28 Grat. [Va.] 832; Hale v. Wall, 22 Grat. [Va.] 430; Billgerry v. Branch & Sons, 19 Grat. [Va.] 393, 100 Am. Dec. 679.

Thus, in a case growing out of the late Civil War, it was said: "If the power of attorney was given prior to the war, it was revoked by the war, as the principal was a citizen of Massachusetts, and the agent a resident or citizen of Georgia, and no act of revocation or renunciation by the parties was necessary. Whenever the parties became alien enemies, by the laws of war, the agency was at an end. It ceased by operation of law."—By Brown, C. J., in Howell v. Gordon, 40 Ga. 308.

16. Fretz v. Stover, 22 Wall. [U. S.] 198, 22 Law. Ed. 769; United States v. Grossmayer, 9 Wall. [U. S.] 72, 19 Law. Ed. 627; Hanger v. Abbott, 6 Wall. [U. S.] 532, 18 Law. Ed. 939; The William Bagaley, 5 Wall. [U. S.] 377, 18 Law. Ed. 583; Conley v. Burson, 1 Heisk. [Tenn.] 145; Blackwell v. Willard, 65 N. C. 555, 6 Am. Rep. 749.

way tend to aid the enemy, whether by transmission of goods or money, or orders for the delivery of either, is prohibited except so far as may allowed by the sovereign authority.[17]

Exceptions to general rule.—But the mere fact of the breaking out of a war does not necessarily and as a matter of law revoke every agency. Whether it is revoked or not depends upon the circumstances surrounding the case and the nature and character of the agency.[18] As may be seen from the reason for the general rule in the preceding section, such rule was specially made to terminate such agencies as required for their existence an intercourse or communication between the principal and agent, and a transmission of goods or funds through the hostile lines. If then these circumstances are not present in any given case, the rule would seem to no longer apply. Thus, recognized exceptions to the general rule are: That if the agent has property of the principal in his possession or control, good faith and fidelity to his trust will require him to keep it safely during the war and to restore it at its close; and that debts may be paid by the debtor to the agent of an alien enemy, where the agent resides in the same state or country with the debtor, provided there is no intention of transmitting such property or funds to the principal during the continuance of the war.[19]

REWARDS.

§ 1. Nature and Definition (1309).
§ 2. The Offer (1309).
§ 3. Earning Reward (1310).

§ 1. Nature and definition.[20]

§ 2. The offer.[21]—An offer must be made by one with authority.[22] As between two claimants where the money is paid into court, the offer alleged in the complaint will be considered as the one made.[23] County or municipal officials have no authority aside from statute to offer rewards for the apprehension of offenders against the criminal laws of the state.[24]

17. Kershaw v. Kelsey, 100 Mass. 561, 1 Am. Rep. 142; United States v. Grossmayer, 9 Wall. [U. S.] 72, 19 Law. Ed. 627; Montgomery v. United States, 15 Wall. [U. S.] 395, 21 Law. Ed. 97; Jecker v. Montgomery, 13 How. [U. S.] 498, 14 Law. Ed. 240; Id., 18 How. [U. S.] 110, 15 Law. Ed. 311; Small's Adm'r v. Lumpkin's Ex'x, 28 Grat. [Va.] 832; Potts v. Bell, 8 Term R. 561.

"The law of nations, as judicially declared, prohibits all intercourse between citizens of the two belligerents, which is inconsistent with the state of war between their countries; and this includes every kind of trading or commercial dealing or intercourse, whether by transmission of money or goods, or orders for the delivery of either, between the two countries, directly or indirectly, or through the intervention of third persons or partnerships, or by contracts in any form looking to or involving such transmission, or by insurances upon trade with or by the enemy." By Gray, J., in Kershaw v. Kelsey, 100 Mass. 561, 1 Am. Rep. 142, 152.

18. Williams v. Paine, 169 U. S. 55, 42 Law. Ed. 658.

19. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Davis, 95 U. S. 425, 24 Law. Ed. 453, Wamb. Cas. 964; Conn v. Penn, 1 Pet. C. C. 496, Fed. Cas. No. 3,104; Denniston v. Imbrie, 3 Wash. C. C. 396, Fed. Cas. No. 3,802; United States v. Grossmayer, 9 Wall. [U. S.] 72, 19 Law. Ed. 627; Ward v. Smith, 7 Wall. [U. S.] 447, 19 Law. Ed. 207; Bartow County Com'rs v. Newell, 64 Ga. 699; Buford v. Speed, 11 Bush [Ky.] 338; Monsseaux v. Urquhart, 19 La. Ann. 482; Shelby v. Offutt, 51 Miss. 128; Murrell v. Jones, 40 Miss. 565; Buchanan v. Curry, 19 Johns. [N. Y.] 141, 10 Am. Dec. 200; Sands v. New York Life Ins. Co., 50 N. Y. 626, 10 Am. Rep. 535; Clarke v. Morey, 10 Johns. [N. Y.] 73; Jones v. Harris, 10 Heisk. [Tenn.] 98; Darling v. Lewis, 11 Heisk. [Tenn.] 125; Maloney v. Stephens, 11 Heisk. [Tenn.] 738; Hale v. Wall, 22 Grat. [Va.] 424; Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Warwick, 20 Grat. [Va.] 614, 3 Am. Rep. 218; Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Atwood, 24 Grat. [Va.] 497, 18 Am. Rep. 652; New York Life Ins. Co. v. Hendren, 24 Grat. [Va.] 536; King v. Hanson, 4 Call [Va.] 259.

20, 21. See 2 Cnrr. L. 1521.

22. Evidence as to an agent's authority held for the jury. Cornwell v. St. Louis Transit Co., 106 Mo. App. 135, 80 S. W. 744.

23. Atwood v. Armstrong, 92 N. Y. S. 596.

24. County commissioners. Felker v. Elk County Com'rs [Kan.] 78 P. 167.

NOTE: The right of a town or city to offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of a criminal is affirmed in Codding v. Mansfildt, 7 Gray [Mass.] 272; Crenshaw v. Roxbury, 7 Gray [Mass.] 374; Janvrin v.

§ 3. Earning reward.[25]—A reward "for information leading to the arrest" of a fugitive is earned by giving such information,[26] but not by giving information that does not lead to the arrest[27] and a reward "for the arrest" of a fugitive is not earned by merely giving information which leads to the arrest.[28] A statutory offer for "delivering a murderer up for trial" is not earned by conveying information to a sheriff who makes the arrest.[29] A police officer[30] or sheriff[31] who makes an arrest in the performance of his official duty does not earn a reward, but otherwise if he is not acting in his official capacity and the services performed are not a part of his official duty.[32]

RIGHT OF PROPERTY, see latest topical index.

RIOT.

To constitute riot, there must be not only a conspiracy of two or more persons to act in a violent and tumultuous manner, but concert of action in pursuance thereof.[33] Violent conduct by an individual not acting in concert with others is not a riot.[34]

RIPARIAN OWNERS.

§ 1. Persons who are Riparian Owners, and Title to Lands Under Water (1311).
§ 2. Rights Attendant on Change in Bed of Stream or in Shore Line (1312).
§ 3. Rights Incidental to Riparian Ownership (1314).
§ 4. Subjection to Public Easements (1316).
§ 5. Actions for Protection of Riparian Rights (1316).

Scope of title.—What are navigable waters, and the right to use them for purposes of navigation,[35] matters relating to navigation,[36] and consuming uses of water, are treated elsewhere.[37]

Exeter, 48 N. H. 83; York v. Forscht, 23 Pa. 391; but is denied in Murphy v. Jacksonville, 18 Fla. 318, 43 Am. Rep. 323; Lee v. Flemingsburg Trustees, 7 Dana [Ky.] 28. In Indiana it is held that county commissioners cannot offer such rewards. Grant County Com'rs v. Bradford, 72 Ind. 455, 37 Am. Rep. 174.—From note to Daggett v. Colgan [Cal.] 14 L. R. A. 480.

Note: In the absence of express statutory provisions this power is generally denied. Hanger v. City of Des Moines, 52 Iowa, 193, 2 N. W. 1105, 35 Am. Rep. 266; Gale v. Inhabitants of South Berwick, 51 Me. 174; Board of Commissioners v. Bradford, 72 Ind. 455, 37 Am. Rep. 174; Mountain v. Multnomah County, 16 Or. 279, 18 P. 464; Abel v. Pembroke, 61 N. H. 359; Crofut v. Danbury, 65 Conn. 294, 32 A. 365; Patton v. Stephens, 77 Ky. 324; Murphy v. Jacksonville, 18 Fla. 318, 43 Am. Rep. 323; Baker v. Washington, 7 D. C. 134. See Felker v. Board of County Com'rs of Elk County [Kan.] 78 P. 167.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1521.

NOTE: Statutes offering rewards must be strictly complied with. Hence a reward offered for the arrest of a person who shall have stolen any mare, horse or gelding is not earned by arresting one who stole a mule. Commonwealth v. Edwards, 10 Phila. 215. An offer for the arrest of a fugitive is not earned by his arrest several years later when he is not a fugitive. State v. Clark, 61 Mo. 263. A reward offered by the governor for an arrest and conviction means a conviction in the state court and is not earned by a conviction in a Federal court. Sias v. Hallock, 14 Neb. 332.—From note to Houston v. State [Wis.] 42 L. R. A. 63, 64.

26, 27. Atwood v. Armstrong, 92 N. Y. S. 596.

28. McClaughrey v. King, 135 F. 195.

29. For the reason that "he did not deliver him up for trial." Gould v. Chickasaw County [Miss.] 37 So. 710.

30. Atwood v. Armstrong, 92 N. Y. S. 596.

31. Sheriff is not entitled to the reward offered by Rev. Code 1892, § 1387, for arresting a fleeing murderer. Gould v. Chickasaw County [Miss.] 37 So. 710.

Note: The policy of the law forbids a public officer or those called to aid him in the discharge of a public duty, receiving for his or their services any reward or compensation beyond that allowed by law. Hence persons acting as a posse comitatus, and as special deputies and under the immediate direction and control of a sheriff, and who, while acting in the discharge of their duty, arrest persons for whose arrest and conviction a reward has been offered, are not entitled to such reward. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Grafton, 51 Ark. 504, 14 Am. St. Rep. 66.—From note to Robinson v. State [Ga.] 44 Am. St. Rep. 140.

32. Deputy sheriff looking up evidence to secure a conviction after his term of service has ended. Cornwell v. St. Louis Transit Co., 106 Mo. App. 135, 80 S. W. 744.

33. Jemley v. State, 121 Ga. 346, 49 S. E. 292.

34. Turner v. State, 120 Ga. 312, 48 S. E. 312.

35. See Navigable Waters, 4 Curr. L. 757.

§ 1. Persons who are riparian owners, and title to lands under water.[38]—A municipality buying a piece of land on a non-navigable stream several miles distant from its corporate limits does not thereby become entitled as riparian owner to take from the stream a supply of water for its inhabitants.[39]

At common law the fee of all land covered by navigable waters was in the king, subject only to the public right of fishing and navigation.[40]

Absolute property in, and dominion and sovereignty over, the soils under the tide waters in the several states belongs to the states in which such lands are situate.[41] In New Jersey land between high and low water mark becomes vested in a shore owner reclaiming it,[42] subject, however, to the easement of an existing highway reaching to the high-water mark before the reclamation.[43]

There is a conflict of authority as to the ownership of the soil under non-tidal navigable waters lying wholly within a state.[44] In some states it is held to belong to the state, to be controlled by it for the benefit of the public.[45] The riparian proprietor ordinarily owns to high-water mark only,[46] but by statute in 36. See Shipping and Water Traffic, 2 Curr. L. 1648.

37. See Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1522. See, also, Waters and Water Supply, § 2, 2 Curr. L. 2035; Navigable Waters, § 2, 4 Curr. L. 758.

39. City of Elberton v. Hobbs, 121 Ga. 749, 49 S. E. 779.

40. No one had right to erect or maintain wharf or other structure below high-water mark. Trustees of Town of Brookhaven v. Smith, 90 N. Y. S. 646; San Francisco Sav. Union v. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823. Had right to grant land to riparian owners subject to public easement of navigation. Smith v. Bartlett [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 63.

41. Pacific Ocean. San Francisco Sav. Union v. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823. Va. Code 1887, § 1338 not self-servient declaration, but declaratory of common law. Taylor v. Commonwealth, 102 Va. 759, 47 S. E. 875. The title between low-water mark and the line of navigability is in the state for the benefit of its citizens, and the riparian owner merely has certain rights therein, as the right of access, to build wharves, and the like. Id. Lands under the Atlantic Ocean below high-water mark. Evans v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 191. Hudson River. Woodcliff Land & Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44. An owner of lands bordering on high-water mark cannot charge lands in front of his property and below high-water mark, the title to which he has not acquired from the state, with restrictions as to their use. Restriction against erecting building nearer than 27 feet to certain street not binding on subsequent grantee from state. Evans v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 191. Restrictions charged on the lands conveyed do not apply to land subsequently added thereto by natural accretion. Evans v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 191. Columbia River. Muckle v. Good [Or.] 77 P. 743. A littoral proprietor has no absolute right to build a wharf on the submerged soil. Trustees of Town of Brookhaven v. Smith, 90 N. Y. S. 646.

See, also, Tiffany, Real Prop. p. 590.

42. Under the N. J. Wharf Act of 1851 (Gen. St. p. 3753), §§ 1, 11, land between high and low-water mark becomes vested in a shore owner reclaiming it. Attorney General v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 348.

43. Attorney General v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 348. The question of the existence of a highway on the shore of a navigable water prior to the grant of the locus in quo by the riparian commissioners (Id.), whether such grant was ultra vires because neither of the grantees were riparian owners of the lands included within the lines of the alleged highway (Id.), and whether such grant operated to terminate the existence of the highway, are questions to be determined in a pending action at law, rather than in a suit in equity to determine the validity of such grant (Id.). Delay of state in instituting suit to determine validity of grant of tide land in front of highway until death of all officers executing it not of itself sufficient to deprive it of equitable relief, but will prevent it from insisting on rule of evidence as basis for deciding that it must be conclusively presumed that such grant was induced by fraudulent representations as to termination of highway. Id.

44. See Tiffany, Real Prop., p. 593.

45. Waters under Lake Michigan. Cobb v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 202 Ill. 427, 67 N. E. 5, 63 L. R. A. 264, and note; Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44. Meandered waters. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52. Land covered by navigable waters is not subject to entry. Grant of such land void. State v. Twiford, 136 N. C. 603, 48 S. E. 586. Under stream legally and technically navigable. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782. Va. Code 1887, § 1338. Taylor v. Commonwealth, 102 Va. 759, 47 S. E. 875. The state of Alabama, when admitted to the Union, acquired title to the soil below high-water mark, under the navigable waters within the limits of the state, not previously granted. City of Mobile v. Sullivan Timber Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 298.

46. Meandered waters. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52. Navigable streams. Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New some states such ownership is extended to low-water mark.[47] The rights of abutting owners on the drying up of such waters cannot be extended beyond the boundaries fixed by the original patents, except by accretion or reliction.[48]

In other states the riparian proprietors own the soil to the center of the stream, subject to the right of navigation.[49] Hence a grant of riparian lands vests in the purchaser the title to any unsurveyed islands lying between the bank and the thread of the stream, in the absence of a provision therein to the contrary.[50] His rights are not affected by the fact that his own land is surrounded by two channels of the river.[51]

The question of the title of a riparian owner is one of local law,[52] and grants of the government for lands bounded by streams and other waters, without any reservation or restriction of terms, are to be construed as to their effect according to the law of the state in which the lands lie.[53]

A riparian proprietor may convey the bank of a stream so as to sever the title thereto from the bed, putting the ownership of the latter in one and of the former in another.[54] A devise of land bordering on a navigable stream conveys all that the testator owns.[55]

The beds of unmeandered streams[56] and streams navigable only in the ordinary sense belong to the riparian owners.[57] If a non-navigable stream is the boundary of lands, the title extends to its center or thread,[58] in the absence of a clearly expressed intention to the contrary in the grant or deed.[59]

§ 2. Rights attendant on change in bed of stream or in shore line.[60]—Land formed by gradual and imperceptible accretion, or by gradual recession of the water, belongs to the owner of the contiguous land to which the addition is Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44. On tidal river, whether tide land or not. Muckle v. Good [Or.] 77 P. 743. Where board of school land commissioners found land to be tide land, and conveyed it as such, held that grantees took good title as against plaintiffs. Id.

47. Va. Code 1887, § 1338. Taylor v. Commonwealth, 102 Va. 759, 47 S. E. 875.

48. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

49. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist., 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118; Sliter v. Carpenter [Wis.] 102 N. W. 27; West Chicago St. R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 9, 73 N. E. 393. Owner of the bank presumably owns the bed to the thread of such stream, subject to public rights. Walls v. Cunningham [Wis.] 101 N. W. 696. Clear evidence to the contrary is necessary to rebut such presumption. Id. Mere evidence of the conveyance of all of a certain tract of land on a specified side of such stream, or of land giving its meander line as a boundary, is insufficient for that purpose. Evidence insufficient to show severance, and parties held adjoining owners within Wis. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 1391, 1395, relating to division fences. Id. In Nebraska owns to center of stream. Whitaker v. McBride, 25 S. Ct. 530.

50. Sliter v. Carpenter [Wis.] 102 N. W. 27. Takes title to unsurveyed island as against one claiming to enter it as homestead, where omission to survey it not due to fraud or mistake, and subsequent application for survey has been refused by land department. Whitaker v. McBride, 25 S. Ct. 530. He takes title to unsurveyed islands existing when patent is issued, in the absence of an expressed intention on the part of the government to treat them as a part of the public domain. Accretions had established sand bar between island and shore of lake when action was commenced. Webber v. Axtell [Minn.] 102 N. W. 915. His rights become established at the time of his patent. Id. Such title cannot be subsequently divested by any acts of the government. Subsequent patent to island passes no title. Id. Plaintiff not estopped to assert title against defendant. Id.

See, also, Tiffany, Real Prop., p. 1038.

51. Has rights of riparian owner in channel opposite his banks. Whitaker v. McBride, 25 S. Ct. 530.

52, 53. Whitaker v. McBride, 25 S. Ct. 530.

54. Walls v. Cunningham [Wis.] 101 N. W. 696.

55. Where owned land under water of river, separate devises of land on each bank carry title to thread of stream, though river is navigable one in which tide ebbs and flows. Smith v. Bartlett [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 63.

56. Monroe Mill Co. v. Menzel, 35 Wash. 487, 77 P. 813.

57. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782.

See, also, Tiffany, Real Prop., p. 595.

58. Navigable in ordinary but not technical sense. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782.

59. Deeds held to convey title merely to low-water mark of lake. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782. For fuller discussion see Boundaries, 3 Curr. L. 518.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1523.

[To be concluded.]

made,[61] and this is true though it occupies a space formerly occupied by the land of another which has been washed away.[62] But in case of an avulsion, or sudden and perceptible change in the course of a stream, title to the land remains in the original owner.[63]

In order to render applicable the rules of law in regard to accretion and reliction, there must be a lake or stream,[64] and a gradual deposit on, or addition to,[65] visible lands owned by the claimant or his grantors.[66] The true test as to what is gradual and imperceptible is whether witnesses could see the process while it was going on.[67] Land formed by the gradual filling in of a space between a detached bar or island and the mainland, or by a gradual recession of the waters, is not an accretion to the mainland.[68]

The running of a meander line does not conclusively establish the character of the area beyond it.[69] Thus the mere fact that a body of water is meandered does not make it a lake so as to render applicable the doctrine of accretion and reliction.[70]

The question whether the grantee of a surveyed tract of land bordering on a river takes accretions depends upon whether the line run by the surveyor was the meander line of the river or an independent boundary.[71] If the former, a conveyance bounded by it is a conveyance bounded by the river, and land made by accretion belongs to the grantees.[72] If the latter, title to such land remains in the grantors.[73] The meander line of a body of water is not, strictly speaking, a boundary line.[74] If a meander line is run around a lake, which is properly mean-

See, also, Tiffany, Real Prop., p. 1034.

61. Topping v. Cohn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 372; Widdecombe v. Chiles, 173 Mo. 195, 73 S. W. 444. Gradual advance or retreat of river carries owner's line with it. Nix v. Pfeifer [Ark.] 83 S. W. 951. Thread of stream continues to be dividing line. Witt v. Willis [Ky.] 85 S. W. 223. The right to accretions is an incident to all riparian ownership. Based on right of access, which is fundamental riparian right, on which all others depend. Webber v. Axtell [Minn.] 102 N. W. 915. Evidence held to authorize submission to jury of question whether tract of land was formed as island in river, or as an accretion to one of its banks. Instructions approved. Chinn v. Naylor, 182 Mo. 583, 81 S. W. 1109.

62. Widdecombe v. Chiles, 173 Mo. 195, 73 S. W. 444. All lines submerged by the encroachments of a river cease to exist. Id. Hence, if an intervening tract separating a remote tract from a river is gradually washed away until the remote tract is washed by the river, such latter tract becomes riparian (Id.), and subsequent accretions become a part of it. Fractional section, not patented, between defendant's land and river, gradually washed away, and river flowed through defendant's land. River then rebuilt to defendant's land more than had been washed away, and plaintiff thereafter received patent to fractional section. Held, that plaintiff took no title. Id.

63. Old water line remains the boundary line. Nix v. Pfeifer [Ark.] 83 S. W. 951. Where a stream changes its course so as to perceptibly cut off a point of land and leave it beyond the thread of the stream. Witt v. Willis [Ky.] 85 S. W. 223. The shifting of the channel of a river, which is the boundary between two counties, from one side of an island to the other, does not change the boundary. Id.

64. Body of water held not a lake. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

65. Widdecombe v. Chiles, 173 Mo. 195, 73 S. W. 444. Evidence insufficient to show imperceptible additions. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

66. Widdecombe v. Chiles, 173 Mo. 195, 73 S. W. 444.

67. Not necessary that it be indiscernible by comparison at two distinct points of time. Nix v. Pfeifer [Ark.] 83 S. W. 951.

68. Nix v. Pfeifer [Ark.] 83 S. W. 951.

69. As to whether it is river, lake, marsh, or unsurveyed land. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

70. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

71. Leonard v. Wood, 33 Ind. App. 83, 70 N. E. 827.

72. Evidence held to show that line was meander line, and hence purchaser at foreclosure sale entitled to land formed by change in course of river. Leonard v. Wood, 33 Ind. App. 83, 70 N. E. 827. A deed conveying a described tract and "all accretions and riparian rights belonging to said lands" covers accretions to the lands described, though not within the metes and bounds. Chinn v. Naylor, 182 Mo. 583, 81 S. W. 1109.

73. Leonard v. Wood, 33 Ind. App. 83, 70 N. E. 827.

74. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52. Is line designed to point out sinuosity of bank or shore, and a means of ascertaining the quantity of land in the fraction which is to be paid for by the purchaser. Whitaker v. McBride, 25 S. Ct. 530.

dered, the title of the abutting owners extends to the actual water line.[75] But if there is no body of water corresponding to the meander line to which such ownership can extend, then such line limits the extent of the land conveyed.[76] Where the bank of a river forms a boundary of a grant from the United States, subsequent accretions attach to and become a part of it,[77] and pass under a subsequent conveyance by lot numbers.[78]

Where a river flowing over government land changes its course, the abandoned bed becomes a part of the surrounding land and passes by a subsequent patent.[79] No claim of adverse possession can, of course, be made to the bed of a dried-up body of water, which is owned by the state or the Federal government,[80] or to accretions to land so owned.[81]

§ 3. Rights incidental to riparian ownership.[82]—A riparian proprietor upon either a navigable or a non-navigable stream or lake is entitled to have the water flow or remain in its natural condition, undiminished[83] and unpolluted.[84]

He is also entitled to a reasonable use of the water flowing over his premises,[85] what is a reasonable use depending upon the size and velocity of the stream, and the attending circumstances.[86] He may use it for domestic purposes,[87] to furnish power to run machinery,[88] and to irrigate his land, when the amount so used is not out of proportion to the size of the stream,[89] and may create ponds for fish and fowl, so long as they are not large enough to materially diminish the flow of the stream by evaporation.[90] His rights are, however, subject to the like rights

75. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52; Webber v. Axtell [Minn.] 102 N. W. 915.

76. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

77. Formed by gradual recession of bank. Topping v. Cohn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 372.

78. Topping v. Cohn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 372.

79. Boglino v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612.

80. Carr v. Moore, 119 Iowa, 152, 93 N. W. 52.

81. Topping v. Cohn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 372.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1523. See, also, Waters and Water Supply, § 3, 2 Curr. L. 2035, § 4, 2 Curr. L. 2040.

83. No one has right to drain lake. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782. The fact that a stream for some distance flows through a swamp, without well defined banks, does not change the rights of the riparian owners above and below such swamp, or authorize an owner above it to unreasonably interfere with its flow to the injury of an owner below it. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603. A riparian proprietor has no right to erect dams and float logs by means of artificial freshets during a season of the year when the stream is not navigable. Matthews v. Belfast Mfg. Co., 35 Wash. 662, 77 P. 1046. Lower proprietor not estopped from objecting to obstruction of stream by dam because assisted upper proprietor in clearing stream of obstructions, and used water stored by such dam for two years. Monroe Mill Co. v. Menzel, 35 Wash. 487, 77 P. 813. May enjoin maintenance of dam and release of water so stored in large quantities at intervals for purpose of floating shingle bolts, etc. Id.

Riparian rights in canals. See note, 61 L. R. A. 877.

84. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782. It is immaterial whether the refuse matter is discharged directly into the stream, or reaches it through a ditch, flume, reservoir, or race, so long as the water is actually polluted thereby. United States Board & Paper Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 487. Under Mass. St. 1867, c. 106, p. 541, authorizing city of Worcester to discharge sewerage into creek, and St. 1886, c. 331, p. 309, requiring it to establish purification plant within four years, held city not negligent in failing to purify sewerage prior to establishment of plant, in absence of showing that it could have done so by any reasonable and incidental construction and careful management, without establishing such plant. Harrington v. Worcester, 186 Mass. 594, 72 N. E. 326.

See, also, Nuisance, § 2, 4 Curr. L. 839.

85. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799; Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24; Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603.

86. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799. An injunction will not issue to restrain the use of the water in the absence of a finding that the use is unreasonable under the circumstances. Not authorized by finding merely that dams increased evaporation and absorption. Id. Each action to be governed by facts of particular case. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24.

87. In house and barn, and to water stock, etc. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799. Including farming purposes. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24.

88. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799.

89. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799. After the natural wants of all the riparian proprietors have been satisfied, each is entitled to a reasonable use of the waters for irrigation purposes. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603. For a full discussion of this subject, see Waters and Water Supply, § 13, 2 Curr. L. 2046.

of the other riparian owners on the stream below, which he may not prejudice.[91] Thus he has no right to divert the stream and lessen the volume of water, to their detriment, annoyance, or future disadvantage or injury,[92] or to use the water for commercial purposes.[93] Several owners of distinct tracts of land who, by a concert of action, cause waters from a swamp to run into a stream where they have never run before, thereby make such waters tributary to such stream, and, after the running of limitations, subject to the rules of law applicable to riparian ownership.[94]

A riparian owner may construct levees and embankments on his own land, outside the channel of a watercourse, in order to protect it from overflow, though the embankment constructed by an opposite owner is thereby endangered.[95] The proprietor of lands upon navigable waters may also construct landings, wharves, or piers for his own use, or that of the public, subject to such rules and regulations as the legislature may see proper to impose.[96] The rights of the riparian owner and the state should be so exercised as not to interfere with each other.[97]

Riparian rights are property and are inseparably annexed to the soil and parcel of the land itself.[98] The proprietor of lands upon navigable waters is entitled to the right of access to their navigable parts,[99] and anything which obstructs or interferes with it is a private nuisance as to him.[1] Each owner, as against the others, is entitled to his proportion of the line bounding navigable water, and to a direct course over intervening shallows for the construction of piers or other structures to connect the shore with such navigable line.[2]

The control of navigable water is not appurtenant to the ownership of the shore.[3]

90. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799.

91. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782. Not absolute ownership. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799. Lower owner takes subject to lawful uses and conveniences of upper. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24.

92. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24.

93. May not divert water into reservoir for purpose of selling ice there formed. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24.

94. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603.

95. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625.

96. See Navigable Waters, 4 Curr. L. 757; Wharves, 2 Curr. L. 2074.

97. Taylor v. Com., 102 Va. 759, 47 S. E. 875. Va. Acts 1899-1900, p. 797, c. 757, leasing tract under York River below low-water mark, including artesian well thereon, not objectionable as interfering with rights of adjacent riparian proprietor. Id.

98. Taylor v. Com., 102 Va. 759, 47 S. E. 875. Cannot be arbitrarily or capriciously destroyed or impaired. Littoral proprietor's right of access to navigable part of tide water. San Francisco Sav. Union v. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823. The secretary of war cannot interfere with such rights by granting them to a stranger. Letter from secretary of war held, at most, a statement that that department would not object to such works, provided navigation was not interfered with. Id. The right to have the waters of a non-navigable stream come to his land in the natural and usual flow. City of Elberton v. Hobbs, 121 Ga. 749, 49 S. E. 779. Comes within the constitutional provision prohibiting the taking of private property without just and adequate compensation first being paid. Id. The rights are incidents of property in the land and not an appurtenance to it. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782.

99. Thousand Island Steamboat Co. v. Visger, 179 N. Y. 206, 71 N. E. 764. A littoral proprietor whose lands abut on tide water. San Francisco Sav. Union v. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823. Right to accretions based on right of access. Webber v. Axtell [Minn.] 102 N. W. 915.

1. Cal. Civ. Code, § 3479. Defendants enjoined from maintaining works for purpose of boring for oil in front of plaintiff's property between high and low water mark. San Francisco Sav. Union v. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823.

2. This is the dominant rule, and all rules for apportionment and division are subject to such modification as may be necessary to accomplish substantially this result. Thomas v. Ashland, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 993. Where irregularities of shore are such that lines cannot be drawn at right angles to shore to accomplish this, then whole cove is to be treated as a unit of the shore line by drawing such vertical lines from its two boundary points or headlands to the line of navigability, and apportioning the whole intervening boundary line of navigable water to the whole shore line of the cove between such headlands, and by drawing straight lines from the two termini of navigable water line to the respective termini of shore line pertaining to each owner. Id.

3. State v. Twiford, 136 N. C. 603, 48 S. E. 586.

A lower riparian proprietor cannot show an adverse use of the water against an upper proprietor, in the absence of proof of recognition of his right by such upper proprietor.[4] Nor is the use of water from a spring, which has never been tributary to the stream in which the lower proprietor claims rights, adverse to the latter.[5]

§ 4. Subjection to public easements.[6]—Though the riparian proprietor owns the bed of the stream, he holds it subject to a public easement therein for purposes of navigation and commerce.[7] He is entitled to no compensation for injuries resulting from either the navigation itself, or from work done for the purpose of improving it.[8]

A party using a navigable stream is confined to its limits and may not go upon the lands of an adjoining owner without his permission.[9] The use of the water when it is above the line of mean high tide is not a use of the adjoining land if the land itself is not trespassed upon.[10]

§ 5. Actions for protection of riparian rights.[11]—Equity will enjoin the pollution,[12] or obstruction of a stream,[13] or the diversion of its waters for commercial purposes, though the damages caused thereby are merely nominal.[14] Injunction will also issue to restrain the draining of the waters of a lake at the instance of a riparian proprietor injured thereby.[15] Such proprietor may also recover damages for the injuries which he has sustained.[16] Injunction will also issue at the instance of a littoral proprietor to prevent interference with his right of access to the ocean.[17]

4. Use for less than statutory period gives no rights. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603.

5. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1524. See, also, Navigable Waters, § 3, 4 Curr. L. 760.

7. Public right paramount. Tunnel held obstruction. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 9, 73 N. E. 393. Even if a grant of land under a navigable stream passes title, such title is subject to the right of navigation. State v. Twiford, 136 N. C. 603, 48 S. E. 586. Stream navigable in ordinary sense. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782. Own the bed of an unmeandered stream subject to the right of driving timber products over it. Monroe Mill Co. v. Menzel, 35 Wash. 487, 77 P. 813.

8. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist., 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118. Applies only where work done for purpose of improving stream itself, or body of water emptying into it or into which it naturally empties. Id. Entitled to compensation where waters are taken and their general level reduced for purpose of making navigable an artificial canal, as where water in canals connecting with Chicago River was lowered by construction of drainage canal. Id.

9. Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 36 Wash. 198, 78 P. 904. Driving logs. Monroe Mill Co. v. Menzel, 35 Wash. 487, 77 P. 813.

10. Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 36 Wash. 198, 78 P. 904.

See, also, Navigable Waters, 4 Curr. L. 757.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1524.

12. Mass. St. 1886, p. 309, c. 331, provides for construction of sewerage purification plant by city of Worcester, so that sewage discharged in creek should not create nuisance. Held that provision for its enforcement by injunction was for benefit of public health, and could only be enforced by boards of selectmen of towns, and not by riparian proprietors, and city not liable to them for failure to erect adequate plant. Harrington v. Worcester, 186 Mass. 594, 72 N. E. 326.

13. Depositing debris in stream. Where obstruction has taken place, must show continuing injury attended with substantial and serious damage. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625. The detention of water by means of a dam and its subsequent release for the purpose of facilitating navigation. Monroe Mill. Co. v. Menzel, 35 Wash. 487, 77 P. 813. To float logs. Decree not too sweeping. Matthews v. Belfast Mfg. Co., 35 Wash. 662, 77 P. 1046.

14. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24. Will enjoin a municipal corporation from wrongfully taking a water supply from a stream. Interlocutory injunction properly granted. City of Elberton v. Hobbs, 121 Ga. 749, 49 S. E. 779.

15. Webster v. Harris [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 782.

16. May recover damages for the depreciation of the value of his land caused by a city depositing its sewage in the stream, for the destruction of its comfortable use and occupation, and for his actual loss of rents. Smith v. Sedalia, 182 Mo. 1, 81 S. W. 165. In action for damages resulting from discharge of sewage into stream, not required to show special damages in order to recover at least nominal damages. Id.

17. Private nuisance. San Francisco Sav. Union v. R. G. R. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823. One of several owners of lots fronting on beach, who have conveyed easement to city to construct board walk over their property, with covenant that no buildings should be erected on ocean side, may restrain another of such grantors from ROBBERY.

§ 1. Nature and Elements (1317).
§ 2. Indictment and Prosecution (1317).
A. Indictment (1317).
B. Evidence (1318).
C. Instructions (1318).

§ 1. Nature and elements.[18]—Robbery is larceny by force or intimidation,[19] and to constitute it there must be actual violence, or such a demonstration of threats as will create reasonable apprehension of bodily injury, if the victim resists,[20] and an intent to deprive the owner of his property.[21] To snatch a watch from the person of the owner with sufficient force to break the chain is robbery.[22] A statute defining robbery is not repealed by one providing the death penalty for assault with intent to rob a train.[23]

The intent to rob in a charge of assault with intent to rob sufficiently appears where defendant drew a gun on prosecuting witness and ordered him to halt and throw up his hands, but prosecuting witness immediately broke and ran.[24]

§ 2. Indictment and prosecution. A. Indictment.[25]—Intent being a substantive element of the crime, it must be directly alleged,[26] but a charge that defendant "unlawfully, wrongfully, and feloniously did take and carry away," includes a taking with intent to steal the property taken.[27] Robbery being larceny by force or intimidation, it is sufficient to charge it in either form.[28] Ownership of the property must be alleged.[29]

The same particularity not being required in charging attempted acts as in charging a completed crime, it is not necessary in an indictment for assault with intent to rob to specify what accused intended to take, to aver that he intended to deprive the owner of its value,[30] or allege ownership, possession being sufficient.[31] An information charging an assault and an attempt will sustain a conviction of assault with intent to rob.[32] Under an information charging robbery, there may be a conviction of an attempt to rob,[33] an assault with intent to rob, or simple assault,[34] and in the absence of evidence of violence or putting in fear, there may be a conviction of larceny from the person.[35] Amendment of the information by the insertion of unnecessary and immaterial averments is not prejudicial.[36] An information charging that the property was taken by force and putting in building a structure on ocean side of walk on land subsequently acquired from state. Evans v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 191.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1524.

19. Traver v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 615. "An aggravated form of larceny." State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125.

20. Ramirez v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 391; State v. Donohue [N. J. Law] 59 A. 12; State v. Alexander [Mo.] 83 S. W. 753. It is not robbery to obtain personal property from another without force or putting in fear. Cutting rope attaching jug to saddle horn. Bowlin v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 838. Where defendant armed with a dangerous weapon struck prosecutor and took property from his person by force and violence, a conviction was proper. State v. Duffy, 124 Iowa, 705, 100 N. W. 796.

21. State v. Graves [Mo.] 84 S. W. 904; State v. Fordham [N. D.] 101 N. W. 888. In North Dakota statute defining robbery, the word "wrongful" should be construed as synonymous with "felonious." Id. There can be no robbery where one takes property under a bona fide belief that it is his own. State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125.

22. Perry v. Commonwealth [Ky. L. R.] 85 S. W. 732.

23. Pen. Code Ariz. § 319, not repealed by Laws 1889, p. 19, No. 2. Smith v. Territory, 4 Ariz. 95, 78 P. 1035.

24. Long v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 384.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1525.

26, 27. State v. Fordham [N. D.] 101 N. W. 888.

28. Traver v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 615.

29. State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125; Traver v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 615.

30, 31. Traver v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 615.

32. Smith v. State [Neb.] 100 N. W. 806.

33. State v. Franklin [Kan.] 77 P. 588.

34. State v. Duffy, 124 Iowa, 705, 100 N. W. 796.

35. And it is not error to so instruct. State v. Donohue [N. J. Law] 59 A. 12; State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125.

36. Where statute does not make the value of property stolen an essential element in the offense, it is not necessary to allege its value "in current United States silver coin." State v. La Chall [Utah] 77 P. 3. And the statutory words "and against his will" are unnecessary. Id.

fear and that it was taken from the person and possession and from the immediate presence of a certain specified person does not charge more than one offense.[37]

(§ 2) B. Evidence.[38]—The presumption of guilt arising from the recent possession of stolen property applies in robbery as well as in larceny.[39] Admissibility of evidence is governed by the usual rules,[40] and such circumstances as defendant's prior impecuniosity and subsequent affluence may always be shown.[41] Cases involving the sufficiency of the evidence are cited in the note.[42]

(§ 2) C. Instructions.[43]—As in other crimes, the instructions should define the issues raised by the pleadings and evidence.[44] An instruction for conviction if the jury believed that defendant did assault prosecuting witness with intent to rob and did rob him with intent to convert property to his own use, is good.[45] Where the evidence demands, it is proper to instruct as to included offenses,[46] but where there is no evidence tending to support a conviction of any but the offense charged, instructions as to lower degrees are uncalled for.[47]

RULES OF COURT; SAFE DEPOSITS, see latest topical index.

SALES.

§ 1. Definition; Distinction from Other Transactions (1319).
§ 2. Contract Requisites of a Sale (1320).
§ 3. Modification, Rescission and Revival (1323).
§ 4. General Rules of Interpretation and Construction (1324).
§ 5. Property Sold (1326).
§ 6. Transition of Title, Meaning and Effect of Contract (1327). Separation and Des-

37. State v. Howard [Mont.] 77 P. 50.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1526.

39. State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125.

40. Evidence of attempt to rob a train and in prosecution of which mail clerk was robbed for which prosecution was made, admissible as part of res gestae. State v. Howard [Mont.] 77 P. 50. The attempt of defendant to induce prosecuting witness not to appear is admissible. State v. Alexander [Mo.] 83 S. W. 753. That woman very intimate with accused was in possession of an article stolen the morning after the robbery may be shown. Clay v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 56.

41. People v. Sullivan, 144 Cal. 471, 77 P. 1000. Accused while gambling the night before the robbery had stated that he was "broke" and the day following the crime had money. State v. Franklin [Kan.] 77 P. 588.

42. Accomplice held sufficiently corroborated. People v. Sullivan, 144 Cal. 471, 77 P. 1000. Evidence held sufficient to support conviction. People v. Kelly [Cal.] 79 P. 846; State v. Alexander [Mo.] 83 S. W. 753; State v. Swisher [Mo.] 84 S. W. 911; State v. Davis [Mo.] 85 S. W. 354. Possession of property is sufficient evidence of ownership to sustain conviction. State v. Howard [Mont.] 77 P. 50. Evidence of larceny from person without force or intimidation held insufficient. Ramirez v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 391. Conflicting statements of witnesses intoxicated at time of alleged offense held to leave guilt in doubt. State v. Wain [Idaho] 80 P. 221.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1526.

44. Robbery accomplished by force and no evidence as to putting in fear, trial judge need not instruct as to fear. People v. Modina [Cal.] 79 P. 842. Failure to read an amendment to the statute defining the offense (snatching) is immaterial in a case not within the amendment. Clay v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 56. Judge should instruct jury to acquit defendant if they believed his testimony, where he testified as to the facts showing that he did not commit the crime as charged. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 712.

45. State v. Alexander [Mo.] 83 S. W. 753. Instruction omitting felonious intent is bad (State v. Fordham [N. D.] 101 N. W. 888) and is not cured by one properly defining robbery (State v. Graves [Mo.] 84 S. W. 904). An instruction that if defendant forcibly took money from prosecutor and that a struggle then took place for its possession and defendant took it with intent to steal it, there was robbery, is unhappily expressed, the struggle being immaterial. State v. Graves [Mo.] 84 S. W. 904. Where all the evidence tended to show robbery by force and violence which was properly charged, an error respecting robbery by putting in fear is immaterial. State v. Davis [Mo.] 85 S. W. 354.

46. State v. Franklin [Kan.] 77 P. 588; State v. Donohue [N. J. Law] 59 A. 12. Where request is not made, not error for trial judge to omit instructions. People v. Modina [Cal.] 79 P. 842. Where defendant struck prosecutor, an omission to charge on assault and assault with intent to rob was error. State v. Duffy, 124 Iowa, 705, 100 N. W. 796.

47. State v. Clough [Kan.] 79 P. 117. Charge on aggravated assault held not required in prosecution for assault with intent to rob. Long v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 384.

ignation of the Goods (1327). Payment (1328). Delivery and Acceptance (1328). Revesting Title (1330).

§ 7. Delivery and Acceptance Under Terms of Contract (1330).

A. Construction and Operation of Contract (1330).
B. Sufficiency of Delivery; Actual, Constructive, Symbolical (1332).
C. Acceptance; Necessity; Time; What Is (1332).
D. Excuses For and Waiver of Breach (1333).

§ 8. Warranties and Conditions (1334).

A. In General (1334).
B. Express and Implied Warranties and Fulfillment or Breach Thereof (1335).
C. Conditions and Fulfillment or Breach (1338).
D. Conditions on a Warranty (1338).
E. Waiver of Warranties and Conditions; Excuse for Breach (1338).
F. Remedies (1341).

§ 9. Payment, Tender, and Price as Terms of the Contract (1342).

§ 10. Remedies of the Seller (1343).

A. Rescission and Retaking of Goods or Action for Conversion (1343).
B. Stoppage in Transit (1344).
C. Lien (1344).
D. Resale (1345).
E. Action for Price or on Quantum Valebat (1345).
F. Actions for Breach (1352).
G. Choice and Election of Remedies (1352).

§ 11. Remedies of Purchaser (1353).

A. Rescission (1353).
B. Action to Recover Purchase Money Paid (1355).
C. Actions for Breach of Contract (1355).
D. Action for Breach of Warranty (1356).
E. Recovery of Chattel; Replevin or Conversion (1357).
F. Lien for Price Paid (1357).
G. Recoupment and Counterclaim (1357).
H. Choice and Election of Remedies (1357).

§ 12. Damages for Breach of Sale and Warranty (1358).

A. General Rules (1358).
B. Breach by Seller (1358).
C. Breach by Purchaser (1360).
D. Breach of Warranty (1362).
E. Evidence as to Damages (1363).

§ 13. Rights of Bona Fide Purchasers or Other Third Persons (1363).

§ 14. Conditional Sales. Definition, Validity and Formation (1364).

§ 1. Definition; distinction from other transactions.[48]—A sale is a transfer of the absolute or general property in a thing for a price in money.[49] Sales may be either executed or executory, the passing of title being the distinguishing feature of an executed sale.[50] An option, while closely related to a sale, is distinct therefrom.[51] If the alleged seller has the right to compel return of the thing sent, it is a bailment and not a sale.[52] Shipments on trial, the consignee having

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1527.

49. Cyc. Law Dict., "Sale," p. 821; "Money," compare topic, Exchange of Property, 3 Curr. L. 1396. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1528, n. 35. One agreeing to purchase stock and good will of business and lease store, held a sale and not merely a contract containing covenants. Schott Co. v. Stone, 35 Wash. 252, 77 P. 192.

50. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432; Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. See post, § 6, Transition of title. A written agreement, commonly called a "permit," whereby a licensee is authorized to enter on land, cut and remove logs and timber, paying stumpage therefor, is an executory contract to sell the timber after cutting, as personal property, coupled with a license to enter and cut. Pierce v. Banton, 98 Me. 553, 57 A. 889. The employment of the word "sell" in the memoranda of the initiatory part of a contract is not conclusive, as a matter of law, as to the nature of the contract as executed or executory. Pacific Export Lumber Co. v. North Pacific Lumber Co. [Or.] 80 P. 105. Contract in the following form: "Contract. * * * We this day enter you on contract for the following: Article * * * Cod Oil. Quantity * * *. Price * * *. Terms * * *. Deliveries: To be delivered in lots as wanted prior to April 1, 1903. * * * Accepted * * *," held not an absolute sale, especially in view of plaintiff's burden of proof. Carter v. Dodd [Mass.] 71 N. E. 803.

51. A contract providing that upon the execution of a certain license to defendant by a patentee plaintiff would sell defendant all its personal property "then on hand" for a specified sum, held a mere option. New York Pelton Floor Co. v. Tucker, 43 Misc. 429, 89 N. Y. S. 410. Contract whereby the party of the first part agreed to sell to no one but the party of the second part and agreed to deliver two machines a month and failing to so deliver the said party of the second part should be at liberty to have the machines built by a responsible concern, held not to constitute an option allowing the party of the first part to build the machines or not as it chose, but that the other party could hold him to his agreement to sell to no one else and under the circumstances indicated could purchase the machines elsewhere. Myers v. Steel Mach. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1080. See topics Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805; Gambling Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 1546; Vendors and Purchasers, 2 Curr. L. 1976.

52. One making advances and selling the goods on commission held to hold the goods as bailee. In re Flanders [C. C. A.] 134 F. 560. Defendant agreeing to pipe plaintiff's oil into defendant's storage tanks and issuing tickets therefor held to constitute a bailment. Guffey Petroleum Co. v. Glass Oil Co. [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 281. Proof of sale at a certain price held not fatally variant from allegation of bailment with agreement to sell at that price. Linden v.

the right to return the goods if they prove unsuitable or unsatisfactory, are generally held to be bailments,[53] though they may be converted into sales by retention after the trial period,[54] or by the bailee treating the property as his own, as by selling it to a third person.[55] Such shipments on trial must be distinguished from what is known in the law as a contract of "sale or return," in which the title passes to the party to whom the goods are delivered, he having a right to return them independent of any consideration other than his mere will or desire.[56] It is not incompatible with the notion of an agency that the compensation of an agent to sell goods shall be the difference between the amount of purchase money received by him and the price fixed by the principal.[57]

§ 2. Contract requisites of a sale.[58]—The sale being a contract, it must contain all the requisites thereof relative to parties,[59] consideration,[60] mutuality,[61] and Thieriot, 96 App. Div. 256, 89 N. Y. S. 273. A shipment of goods to be paid for when sold, there being nothing in the contract in regard to commissions, held a sale and not a bailment. In re Martin-Vernon Music Co., 132 F. 983. See 2 Curr. L. 1528, n. 30-33.

53, 54. O'Donnell v. Wing, 121 Ga. 717, 49 S. E. 720.

55. O'Donnell v. Wing, 121 Ga. 717, 49 S. E. 720. Hence such subsequent purchaser acquires a good title as against the original owner. Id.

56. In re Miller, 135 F. 868.

57. Contract by which corporation appointed one its agent to receive, keep and sell farm implements, the corporation to retain title to all goods and the contract providing for the rendering of accounts, the agent's compensation to be made by selling implements at an advanced price, held one of agency. Commonwealth v. Parlin & Orendorff Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 58, 80 S. W. 791. See Clark and Skyles, Agency, §§ 8-11, pp. 16-28, for a full discussion of the distinction between contracts of agency and sale. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1527, n. 29.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1529. See, also, Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805.

59. Manufacturer selling through broker and shipping direct to buyer held to constitute a contract of sale between manufacturer and buyer. Tuthill Spring Co. v. Holliday [Ind.] 72 N. E. 872. Where the question was whether goods were sold to defendant firm or to its successor, a corporation of the same name, held, where goods were ordered by and charged to the corporation, that a verdict against the firm was erroneous. Esher v. Meeker [N. J. Law] 60 A. 35. Defendant failing to disclose existence of corporation and making payments on goods, held personally liable therefor. Cook v. Williams, 85 N. Y. S. 1123. A mere stockholding corporation accepting, through its vice president and general manager, an offer to sell a boiler to another company, in which the accepting officer held the same positions as in the stockholding company, all payments being made by the company actually using the boiler, held boiler belonged to it though stockholding company's name was painted thereon. Tilford v. Atlantic Match Co., 134 F. 924. Held a question for the jury as to whether contract was made with a party individually or with a corporation of which he was president. Alden Speare's Sons Co. v. Hubinger [C. C. A.] 129 F. 538. See 2 Curr. L. 1529, n. 38.

60. A party is not precluded from asserting his right to property as between himself and another by the mere fact that he knew the other was appropriating such property and made no objection. Watson v. Gross [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 104. Satisfaction of judgment held consideration for sale whether any attempt had been made to enforce the judgment or not. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 776. Contract to purchase a piano, payment to be made partly in cash, partly in advertising, held the seller having furnished matter for the advertising, he incurred an obligation to pay therefor according to the contract, which amounted to a valuable consideration. Mail & Times Pub. Co. v. Marks [Iowa] 101 N. W. 458. Failure of expressions of opinion to come true held not to constitute failure of consideration for purchase-money notes. Shiretzki v. Kessler & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 422.

61. Agreement to sell and buy as much as one party shall want, there being no agreement that he shall want any quantity whatever, is void for lack of mutuality. Higbie v. Rust, 211 Ill. 333, 71 N. E. 1010. There being no consideration other than the mutual promises of the parties, and the seller reserving the right to cancel the agreement, the contract is void for lack of mutuality of engagement, though the seller has acted under it. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Kennedy [Va.] 48 S. E. 868.

Contract specifying that the buyer might change the sizes from those specified, and, in the event of an emergency, might cancel such portions of the order as had not been taken in work by the seller, held not lacking in mutuality. Semon, Bache & Co. v. Coppes, Zook & Mutschler Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 41. A provision whereby upon the happening of a certain contingency the manufacturer and seller was to have the option to perform or practically close his factory, held not to render the contract unilateral. Allen v. Field [C. C. A.] 130 F. 641. Contract to purchase a piano, payment to be made partly in cash, partly in advertising, the advertising contract was assigned, held the contract was not void for want of mutuality between the buyer and the assignee. Mail & Times Pub. Co. v. Marks [Iowa] 101 N. W. 458. Contract whereby one agreed to purchase wire for every 70 rods of fence, at 58 cents per rod, to be paid for before a certain date, the seller agreeing to stretch the wire, held not void for want of mutualfraud.[62] The minds of the parties must meet[63] and hence all the terms of the contract must be agreed upon,[64] or be capable of ascertainment.[65] An offer to sell or to buy is revocable at any time before acceptance,[66] and the acceptance, to create a valid contract of sale, must be an unconditional[67] acceptance of all the terms of the offer,[68] and must be made within the time specified therein,[69] or, if no time is

ity. Mohr Hardware Co. v. Dubey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 127. A contract by which a producer sells hops of a certain quantity and quality, the purchaser to have the privilege of taking the hops, or enough to cover advances made, and to exercise his judgment as to whether they are of the quality contracted for, held not wanting in mutuality. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.

Note: In this last case the defendants urged that if the hops were not of the quality agreed upon, "according to the judgment" of plaintiffs, they were given the privilege of taking the hops or not subject to their mere will or caprice—thus nullifying the promise to purchase, and rendering it of no binding effect upon them. The purchaser of a commodity has the right of inspection before acceptance, but he exercises it at his peril, and must act in good faith and with honesty of purpose, and cannot be heard to express dissatisfaction which is wholly feigned or simulated. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Brydon, 65 Md. 198, 9 A. 126, 57 Am. Rep. 318; 1 Mechem, Sales, §§ 663-668; Campbell Printing Press Co. v. Thorp, 36 F. 414, 1 L. R. A. 645. Nor is it contrary to public policy for parties that the decision of one or the other shall be conclusive. Campbell Printing Press Co. v. Thorp, supra. These cases support the contract in the principal case, and Livesley & Co. cannot arbitrarily or capriciously exercise their judgment. If they violate their duty in this regard, a recovery may be had, in the absence of their approval, for the nonacceptance of the hops furnished.—From 3 Mich. L. R. 154.

62. A buyer's illiteracy does not relieve him from the obligation to inform himself of the contents of the contract by having it read to him by some one whose interests are not antagonistic to his own. Wilson, Close & Co. v. Pritchett [Md.] 58 A. 360. Even though the seller be not bound, as a matter of contract, by fraudulent statements of their salesman, still they cannot be permitted to profit by his fraud. Id. Instruction that jury should find for the seller unless the buyer was induced to sign the contract by the former's fraud, held correct. Id. Party's signature being not that of an inexperienced penman and there being no pretense that he could not read, held bound by contract. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Greenberger, 90 N. Y. S. 361. See 2 Curr. L. 1529, n. 39. See, also, Fraud and Undue Influence, 3 Curr. L. 1520.

63. Letters with reference to sale of railroad rails construed and held not to constitute a contract of sale. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205. Where mistake in order and acceptance was corrected by the agent of the seller, and through mistake the buyer took the order and the seller's agent kept the acceptance, held insufficient as a matter of law to show that no contract had been made. Delafield v. Armsby Co., 90 N. Y. S. 998.

64. Terms of payment. Brophy v. Idaho Produce & Provision Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 493. See post, § 9.

65. A sale of a specified number of tin cans, deliveries to be made as buyer ordered during season, and the buyer to specify the style wanted monthly, held a completed contract, and the failure of the buyer to make the selection is a violation thereof. Kirwan v. Roberts [Md.] 58 A. 32. An accepted order for paper, specifying the amount, general kind and quality of the paper to be furnished, the price and terms of payment, with other details relating to shipment and delivery, is not incomplete or indefinite in its substantial provisions and requirements because the size and weight was left undetermined. Single Paper Co. v. Hammermill Paper Co., 96 App. Div. 535, 89 N. Y. S. 116. Order and memorandum held to constitute a contract for a breach of which damages might be recovered, irrespective as to the subsequent correspondence, as to credit. Talcott v. Freedman [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 128, 103 N. W. 535. See 2 Curr. L. 1530, n. 55; Id., 1531, n. 58-60.

66. Huggins v. Southeastern Lime & Cement Co., 121 Ga. 311, 48 S. E. 933; Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241; Mueller Furnace Co. v. Meiklejohn, 121 Wis. 605, 99 N. W. 332.

Order given traveling salesman is not binding on seller or purchaser until after acceptance by the former and hence may be revoked at any time before such acceptance. Becker Co. v. Alvey [Ky.] 86 S. W. 974; Merchants' Exch. Co. v. Sanders [Ark.] 84 S. W. 786. A request to hold until further notice does not constitute a countermand of the order. National Cash Register Co. v. Hill, 136 N. C. 272, 48 S. E. 637. Agreement to sell at a specified price within a specified time held a mere offer, revocable at any time before acceptance. Worthington v. Herrmann, 89 App. Div. 627, 88 N. Y. S. 76. See 2 Curr. L. 1529, n. 42, 43.

67. Written order. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241. See 2 Curr. L. 1530, n. 46.

68. Johnston v. Fairmont Mills [C. C. A.] 129 F. 74. Buyer wrote seller: "You may ship us * * * one car straights and one car culls," and the seller replied: "We will fill your order for * * *, and will wire you price before shipping." Held a contract of purchase and sale. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084. An order for choice potatoes is not an acceptance of an offer to sell "nice white potatoes (Peerless stock)." Brophy v. Idaho Produce & Provision Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 493. Nor is such offer accepted where the order required the seller to select the stock and send no small ones. Id. An offer to sell 10 car loads of potatoes is not accepted by an order requiring the cars to average 30,000 specified, within a reasonable time.[70] What is a reasonable time depends upon the situation of the parties and the subject-matter of the negotiations,[71] the question being one of law for the court where it arises in such commercial transactions as happen in the same way, day after day, and present the question upon the same data in continually recurring instances, and where the time taken is such that there can be no reasonable doubt as to the answer;[72] otherwise the question is one for the jury.[73]

The fact that one has regularly sold goods to another does not bind him to continue to do so.[74] Unless revoked, an offer will remain open for a reasonable time.[75] Acceptance of an offer to sell may be shown by an order,[76] and of an offer to buy by shipment and acceptance of the goods.[77] The whole transaction being by mail, the contract is complete when the acceptance is mailed.[78] Where an offer to sell is made on Sunday with the understanding that it will expire on the following day, Sunday is included in calculating the time limit.[79] Upon acceptance, the contract of sale comes into existence as a binding agreement,[80] unless the acceptance be subject to existing conditions precedent.[81] One is liable for goods furnished, received, and appropriated, even though not ordered.[82] pounds. Id. Nor is a proposal to sell 10 cars of potatoes for winter use accepted by an order of 8 cars for winter storage. Id. Where offeror refused to accept warranty added by buyer, held no contract. Wood v. Ellsworth, 91 N. Y. S. 24. There is no contract where offer to sell oil of a gravity of 15 degrees is "accepted" with the qualification that the 15 degrees gravity is to be at a temperature of 60 degrees. Four Oil Co. v. United Oil Producers, 145 Cal. 623, 79 P. 366. Acceptance fixing time of delivery, which term was rejected by seller and then entire offer withdrawn, held no contract. Bringham v. American Bridge Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 788. See 2 Curr. L. 1530, n. 49.

69. A letter containing an offer requiring an answer by return mail, the acceptance must be sent by the next post. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199. See 2 Curr. L. 1530, n. 47, 48.

70. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

71. Where price of commodity changes from day to day, held offer made at a subsequent business day was too late. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

72. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199. Where offer by mail was accepted within three days thereafter held court could not say as a matter of law that the offer had lapsed by reason of the delay. Id.

73. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

74. Penn Shovel Co. v. Phelps, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 595.

75. An offer being made during a personal interview, it is supposed to continue, unless revoked, to the close of the interview and negotiations upon the subject. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

76. Huggins v. Southeastern Lime & Cement Co., 121 Ga. 311, 48 S. E. 933. Even though a contract be unenforceable because not binding on the buyer, the seller is nevertheless bound to furnish goods to the extent that they are ordered before the offer to sell is withdrawn. Semon, Bache & Co. v. Coppes, Zook & Mutschler Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 41.

77. Written order. National Cash Register Co. v. Dehn [Mich.] 102 N. W. 965. A merchant soliciting generally the shipment to him of goods at a stated price is under an implied contract to pay that price to one who, acting upon solicitation, ships goods to him which are accepted. Robinson v. Leatherbee Tie & Lumber Co., 120 Ga. 901, 48 S. E. 380. Shipper may recover, at least upon a quantum valebat, for the goods proven to have been shipped and received in accordance with the circulars sent out. Id.

78. Mueller Furnace Co. v. Meiklejohn, 121 Wis. 605, 99 N. W. 332. Notice of withdrawal must be received before acceptance is mailed. Id. Evidence held sufficient to support finding that notice of withdrawal reached seller before acceptance was mailed. Id.

79. Ropes v. Rosenfeld's Sons, 145 Cal. 671, 79 P. 354.

80. Offer and acceptance of a contract for the sale of yarn held to constitute a valid executory contract. Cherokee Mills v. Gate City Cotton Mills [Ga.] 50 S. E. 82. Where defendant agreed to buy a quantity of tea at a designated price per pound and the tea was delivered and accepted, held a binding sale. Hathaway v. O'Gorman Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 397. An option being exercised, a binding obligation is imposed on both parties—on the part of the vendor to sell and deliver, and on the part of the vendee to accept and pay the stipulated price. Kirwan v. Roberts [Md.] 58 A. 32.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that the buyer's order had been accepted. Single Paper Co. v. Hammermill Paper Co., 96 App. Div. 535, 89 N. Y. S. 116. Evidence held sufficient to establish a prima facie case of the making of the contract. Brockman Commission Co. v. Kilbourne [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 275.

81. If a bargain be made by an agent subject to his principal's approval, there is no contract of sale until such approval is obtained. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ.

Whenever required by the statute of frauds, the contract must be in writing.[83]

A bill of sale is a written agreement, either under seal or not under seal, by which one person transfers his right to or interest in personal chattels to another.[84]

A sale being made through a broker who represented both parties and who failed to make a memorandum of the sale, the bought and sold notes together, if they agree, establish the contract between the parties,[85] but the contrary is true where they differ materially,[86] unless such material variance can be explained by a custom or usage.[87]

§ 3. Modification, rescission and revival.[88]—It is competent for the parties by mutual[89] consent to change the character[90] or terms[91] of the contract, and this modification may be by parol, though the contract contains a stipulation to the contrary;[92] but the modification must be executed and not lie wholly in a promise to modify.[93] In the absence of authority, an agent's consent is of no effect.[94] There being a conflict in the evidence, the questions of modification[95] and of an agent's authority to consent thereto,[96] are for the jury.

The consent of both parties is essential to a rescission.[97] The contract may provide for its cancellation upon the happening of a contingency,[98] but after

App.] 80 S. W. 648. Where an offer by a broker to sell cotton for future delivery was accepted subject to confirmation by his principal, as customary in the trade, and before confirmation the seller became insolvent, a demand for security by the intending purchaser was not a waiver of the requirement of confirmation. Johnston v. Fairmont Mills [C. C. A.] 129 F. 74.

82. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 227. Where goods were not as ordered. Nugent v. Armour Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 506; Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753. Buyer is bound to return excess in amount delivered or pay for the same. So held where articles sold were labels that had the buyer's name on them. Levino v. Moore Co., 97 App. Div. 109, 89 N. Y. S. 573.

83. See Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527.

84. Berry v. Robinson [Ga.] 60 S. E. 378. A conditional sale evidenced by a promissory note is not a bill of sale to secure a debt within the meaning of Acts 1899, p. 82 [Van Epps' Code Supp. §§ 6631, 6632]. Id.

85. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

86. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430. Sale of tomatoes. Sale ticket contained no guaranty of swells or quality, while the bought ticket contained the "usual guaranty against swells and qualities." The latter also contained the words "terms regular" which the former did not. Held variance immaterial. Id.

87. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1534. For general rules, see Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805.

89. Where buyer was to give shipping orders but failed to do so, the seller, in the absence of acquiescence, cannot rely on notice sent the buyer that unless he gave such orders shipment would be made without notice, and this is true, though one shipment was made and accepted without notice. Kellogg v. Frohlich [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1057. See 2 Curr. L. 1534, n. 91.

90. Default in payment, sale changed to a conditional one. Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. Executory contract of sale changed to a bailment by parol, it being subsequently reduced to writing. In re Naylor Mfg. Co., 135 F. 206.

91. The contract being modified so as to enable the machine to do certain work, it is immaterial whether the original contract called merely for a plant of a certain kind or for a plant of a certain working capacity. Boothe v. Squaw Springs Water Co., 142 Cal. 573, 76 P. 385. Facts held to sustain finding that time of payment had been changed. Allum v. Nolle, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 220. Buyer's compliance with seller's request for an inspection held not to change the contract, where the latter did not provide for an inspection. Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64.

92. General Elec. Co. v. National Contracting Co., 178 N. Y. 369, 70 N. E. 928. Party held estopped to deny such modification by allowing other party to rely thereon. Id.

93. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241.

94. The contract providing that no modifications should be made without the consent of the home office, a sales agent at the place of delivery has no authority to make a material change. Larson v. Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co., 92 Minn. 62, 99 N. W. 623.

95. Modification of contract price. McAfee v. Dix, 91 N. Y. S. 464. Where, as against the denial of plaintiff, defendant testified that he modified the contract by attaching a printed slip thereto. McArdle v. Thames Iron Works, 96 App. Div. 139, 89 N. Y. S. 486.

96. Delafield v. Armsby Co., 90 N. Y. S. 998.

97. Hathaway v. O'Gorman Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 397.

98. Contract providing, "Prices guaranteed against decline, and in event of receiving lower quotations" the seller to have the privilege of meeting the same or cancelling further orders, held privilege of canbreach an agreement to cancel and waive performance must be supported by a consideration moving from the party in default.[99]

The contract being terminated, it cannot be revived without the consent of both parties.[1] Unless a second agreement in terms purports to rescind the former one, or unless the entire subject-matter of the earlier agreement is covered by the later one, or the later one is so inconsistent with the former one that both cannot stand together, there is no rescission of the former.[2]

§ 4. General rules of interpretation and construction.[3]—A contract with reference to the title of tangible chattels is construed according to the law of the state of the situs of the chattels.[4]

The general rule that the court will give effect to the intention of the parties applies,[5] and this intention may be ascertained from the conduct of the parties,[6] and from the customs and usages of the trade,[7] for, in the absence of terms to the contrary,[8] the parties are presumed to have contracted with reference to known and established customs,[9] hence proof of such customs is admissible to explain the contract,[10] but not to vary or contradict its terms[11] or established rules of law,[12] cellation was dependent on decline in prices, receipt of lower quotations, and election not to meet decline. Semon, Bache & Co. v. Coppes, Zook & Mutschler Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 41.

99. Brockman Commission Co. v. Kilbourne [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 275.

1. Failure to deliver after notice and demand held to terminate the contract so that buyer was not liable for goods subsequently shipped. Camden Ironworks v. Masterson, 93 N. Y. S. 754.

2. Where a contract required a stallion to be sound and in good condition and warranted him to be a good foal-getter, held the giving of a note for the purchase price conditioned that it should be void unless the stallion was sound did not abrogate the warranty. Berkey v. Lefebure & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 710. Furnishing additional measurements and requesting another quotation on prices held to abrogate former contract for the sale of parts of a machine. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1535.

4. Lees v. Harding, Whitman & Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 352. A contract of sale made in one state, the goods to be shipped to the buyer in another state, is a contract of the former state. Brockman Commission Co. v. Kilbourne [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 275. See Conflict of Laws, 3 Curr. L. 720.

Note: See note, Conflict of Laws, as to sales of personal property, 64 L. R. A. 823.

5. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Gerer's Bakery, 14 Okl. 258, 78 P. 115.

6. Union Trust Co. v. Webber-Seeley Hardware Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 784.

Evidence of buyer's unexpressed intentions in making the contract and writing a letter held inadmissible. Nugent v. Armour Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 506.

7. See Customs and Usages, 3 Curr. L. 988.

8. Instruction as to custom held properly modified by adding unless there was a special contract between the parties different from the custom. Delaware & H. Canal Co. v. Mitchell, 211 Ill. 379, 71 N. E. 1026. Where corsets were offered in job lots and defendant refused the offer but offered to take three of the lots as specified, held acceptance of defendant's offer made a contract on express stipulations. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144.

9. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430. In a sale of tomatoes words "usual guarantee against swells and quality" held implied. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430; Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. Allegation in an answer that contracts were made in recognition of an alleged custom held sufficient and not to aver a separate parol contract. Id. Sale of distillery slops held to contemplate that distillery should supply feeding lot with troughs, tanks, etc. Id. That buyer misunderstood meaning of term held not to alter seller's rights. Soper v. Tyler [Conn.] 58 A. 699. Term "via H. R." interpreted according to its meaning in the Boston grain trade. Id. It being an established custom in the cotton trade that a sale made by a broker shall be confirmed in writing by both the buyer and seller, held acceptance by one party was subject to withdrawal at any time before such confirmation. Johnston v. Fairmont Mills [C. C. A.] 129 F. 74. On the Chicago tomato market the words "regular terms" mean that the buyer has a credit of 60 days, with the privilege of 1½ per cent. discount in case cash is paid within 10 days from date of invoice, and also that there is a six months' guaranty on swells. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

10. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144; Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. In a sale of distillery slops a provision giving the buyers of the slop the privilege of using troughs and tubs which the seller was to place in the feeding lot held not to exclude evidence of custom requiring seller to so do. Id. Terms "cash basis, note at 60 days from shipment of each 100 bales, interest added," held ambiguous and evidence of a trade custom is admissible to show that purchaser and either party may rely upon such custom.[13] The custom must be certain and definite.[14] Evidence of prior[15] or contemporaneous[16] parol agreements is inadmissible to vary or alter the terms of a written instrument[17] of sale, though it may be admitted to explain ambiguous terms in the contract,[18] or to show that the contract was obtained through fraud.[19] Where there is an express contract of sale, nothing is implied.[20] A written enumeration of conditions precedent is presumed to be exclusive.[21] The constructions placed upon words and phrases in particular contracts are stated in the notes.[22] could pay either in cash or by a note drawn to his order and indorsed by him. Morris v. Supplee, 208 Pa. 253, 57 A. 566.

11. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430; Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. Custom requiring consignee to designate a berth for the discharge of a ship's cargo cannot prevail over terms of contract requiring delivery "at the wharf" and "on the wharf as customary." Moore v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 202.

12. See Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

13. Where custom was to open a few boxes of fruit and make the purchase of the entire lot upon the showing made by such samples, held no lack of diligence in not examining all the boxes. Abel v. Murphy, 43 Misc. 648, 88 N. Y. S. 256.

14. A usage that, in sales of job lots of goods the buyer is not obligated if the variation in the quantity delivered is considerable, and that it rests with the buyer to determine whether the discrepancy is reasonable or unreasonable, no definite test being recognized, is invalid for uncertainty. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144. For general rules, see article Customs and Usages, 3 Curr. L. 988.

15. All previous verbal negotiations respecting the terms of sale are merged in a subsequent written contract, and are inadmissible to vary or contradict the writing. Arnold v. Malsby, 120 Ga. 586, 48 S. E. 132. Facts stated in conversation and not included in written contract held incompetent. American Electrical Works v. New England Elec. R. Const. Co., 186 Mass. 546, 72 N. E. 64. Evidence held inadmissible to show parol negotiations prior to the date of the sale, whereby a larger quantity of the same article was sold at a less price than that named in the contract. Hatfield v. Thomas Iron Co., 208 Pa. 478, 57 A. 950. In the absence of fraud or mistake such evidence is inadmissible to show representations. American Home Sav. Bank Co. v. Guardian Trust Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 1108.

16. Helper v. MacKinnon Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 804; Cluster Gaslight Co. v. Baker, 90 N. Y. S. 1034; Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Objection that jury should have found that statements of agent were as of facts or an opinion, held without merit. Id. Contract for the sale of potatoes being in writing, evidence of oral statements as to how long the potatoes would keep is immaterial. Id. Evidence of a separate agreement with salesman in violation of terms of contract held inadmissible. Walter Pratt & Co. v. Meyer [Ark.] 87 S. W. 123. Where the contract provided that: "We [the purchasers] will pay the freight charges, as agreed upon between you and I, the above prices being f. o. b." held parol evidence that the seller agreed to pay any freight in excess of a certain rate is inadmissible. Minnesota Sandstone Co. v. Clark, 35 Wash. 466, 77 P. 803.

17. Memorandum of sale on which seller's name did not appear held not an instrument. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

18. Evidence held admissible to show that word "currently" meant that goods were not to be shipped before a certain date. Semon, Bache & Co. v. Coppes, Zook & Mutschler Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 41. Evidence admitted to explain phrase "all scrap material" seller "might receive" for a stated period. Helper v. MacKinnon Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 804. Contract for sale of ties "needed during the year 1899" held might be explained by parol to require the tie company to furnish only so many ties as might be needed by the railroad company that year in building contemplated extensions. Laclede Const. Co. v. Moss Tie Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 76. Evidence that defendant was engaged in the business of rerolling rails held admissible as tending to show that the contract actually made was for the sale only of rails fit for rerolling. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205. In such a case letters relating to a former and distinct transaction, stating that rails were to be free from switch, guard, and frog rails, held admissible as showing that plaintiff knew the character of defendant's business. Id. Phrase "in accordance with plans acceptable to engineer, held not ambiguous and explainable by parol. United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351.

19. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 857; Wilson, Close & Co. v. Pritchett [Md.] 58 A. 360. This can be done notwithstanding the fact that the evidence contradicts declarations of the defendant embodied in the written contract. Id.

20. Beck & C. Iron Co. v. Holbeck [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1128.

21. United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351.

22. Where contract provided that granite should be furnished from the quarries of "G. & S. and J. L. G.," held "and" should be construed as meaning "or." United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351. Contract for pottery machinery construed, and kiln doors held part of the "machinery." Thomas China Co. v. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25. One selling hay in stacks to be baled before taken away, the buyer to furnish the baler and the seller to assist in the balling, held, buyer

The entirety of the contract depends upon the intention of the parties,[23] and not upon the divisibility of the subject,[24] and the question of intent is one for the jury.[25] A separable illegal provision, free from the imputation of malum in se, may be rejected.[26]

§ 5. Property sold. Amount, kind, nonexistence and failure of consideration.[27]—One may contract to sell property to be acquired in the future.[28] He may make the obligation conditional upon his being able to acquire title from some one else,[29] but if he contracts absolutely, he will be bound by the terms of the agreement.[30]

The kind and quality,[31] the identity,[32] and the quantity,[33] of property pur-had the right to direct the order of baling. Fowles v. Rupert [Mich.] 101 N. W. 202. A "bought and sold note" for the sale, at a stated price, of tobacco in bond, provided for the delivery of all the tobacco and payment therefor within five months, and contained a stipulation that the buyer should pay the duty, expressed in the following language: "Terms Duty Cash 70c. if appraised at less, Diffce to be allowed." Held the buyer could not recover excessive duties paid by him and recovered by the seller on the ground that the appraisement was illegal. Solomon Tobacco Co. v. Cohen, 95 App. Div. 297, 88 N. Y. S. 641.

23. Barnett v. Becker, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 22; Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860. The fact that separate prices were named for different machines sold held not to render the contract severable where it expressly provided that "all of said machines are to be to the full satisfaction" of the buyer before payment will be required. Id. Contract to deliver coal, shipments to be made when ordered, payments to be made the next succeeding month, is divisible. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 134 N. C. 574, 47 S. E. 116. Contract to deliver all castings required during period of three years, deliveries to be paid for 60 days after date of delivery, held an entirety which the seller might terminate on the buyer's failure to make payment according to the contract. Ross Meehan Foundry Co. v. Royer Wheel Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 167.

24, 25. Barnett v. Becker, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 22.

26. So held with regard to a provision for the payment over of rebates. Minnesota Sandstone Co. v. Clark, 35 Wash. 466, 77 P. 803.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1535.

Sales of corporate stock, see articles Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880; Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527; also Helliwell, Stock and Stockholders, §§ 179-190. Sale of returnable packages see Commerce, 3 Curr. L. 711, "Can and Bottle" acts.

28. Northington-Munger Pratt Co. v. Farmers' Gin & Warehouse Co., 119 Ga. 851, 47 S. E. 200. Whether a sale of a crop to be grown is of any validity in Nebraska as a sale of things not in esse, query. Robinson v. Stricklin [Neb.] 102 N. W. 479. See 2 Curr. L. 1535, n. 6, 7.

29. Northington-Munger Pratt Co. v. Farmers' Gin & Warehouse Co., 119 Ga. 851, 47 S. E. 200.

30. Northington-Munger Pratt Co. v. Farmers' Gin & Warehouse Co., 119 Ga. 851, 47 S. E. 200. A written offer for a described gin outfit "and to pay for same upon the other party giving possession and a good title," when duly accepted, is an absolute contract of bargain and sale. Id. The purchaser is bound to pay if within a reasonable time the seller delivers the property and tenders good title. Id.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1536, n. 21.

Contract providing that rails should be fit for rerolling, the seller cannot recover for refusal of the buyer to accept rails not fit for rerolling. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205. Since shaddocks are not grape fruit for commercial purposes, a delivery of shaddocks is not compliance with an order for grape fruit. Abel v. Murphy, 91 N. Y. S. 26. An order for boards, clear stock without knots does not prohibit the gluing together of boards to meet the required dimensions. Herrmann Lumber Co. v. Heidelberg, Wolf & Co., 92 N. Y. S. 256. Where the sale was of clay "suitable for the manufacture of cement," held the buyer was not obliged to accept clay which could only be so used by being mixed with other clay. Coburn v. California Portland Cement Co., 144 Cal. 81, 77 P. 771. The terms "footing" or "dimension" stone are synonymous, but neither term is the synonym of "rubble." Nugent v. Armour Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 506. Seller of sausages to be "dry enough for export" held liable for damages sustained by reason of refusal of foreign authorities to permit the sausages to be landed owing to their containing excessive fat. James v. Libby, 92 N. Y. S. 1047.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1536, n. 22.

Where the agreement was to take the entire output of iron mine held shipment of iron of the same kind and quality but from other mines was not a compliance with the contract. Shackelford v. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 1005. Where contract of sale required the seller of a ship to deliver "unexpired insurance fully paid" without specifying any policies, held the seller was not required to vest the purchaser with the title to the particular policies then covering the ship, but only title to equivalent policies. Livermore v. Brauer [C. C. A.] 128 F. 265.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1536, n. 20.

Contract to purchase business held not to cover return premiums on unexpired insurance. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58. In such case the seller was held not entitled to recover return premiums on unexpired policies assigned to the buyer. Id. The seller chased depend upon the terms of the contract. The circumstances surrounding the transaction and the value of the property may be looked to in determining the property sold.[34]

§ 6. Transition of title. Meaning and effect of contract.[35]—The question whether title has passed is in part the question whether the sale is executed or executory. If the former, title has passed, if the latter, it has not;[36] but an entire executory contract of sale may be divisible in the execution thereof, so as to vest title to parts of the property in the vendee as they are delivered; and whether in any case such partial transfer of title takes place is a question of intent.[37] The time when title passes depends upon the intention of the parties,[38] and this intention is a question of fact for the jury,[39] to be gathered from the terms and purposes of the contract, the nature, condition and situation of the property, and the circumstances surrounding the parties when made.[40] Unless a contrary intent is shown, the seller is deemed to have parted with the title when he permits the purchaser to change the character of the property by spending money and labor on it.[41] Where the bill of lading is taken to the seller's order or his assigns, the mere fact that the buyer is named as consignee will not pass title to him.[42] Where goods are shipped by a vendor to a vendee, the former taking a bill of lading in which he himself is named both as consignor and consignee, which bill is endorsed in blank and attached to a draft for the purchase price drawn on the vendee, title remains in the vendor and does not pass to the vendee until the drafts are paid.[43] of a herd of cattle guarantying the number of cattle to be 500, held entitled to judgment on purchase-money note on executing bill of sale for 514. Barnett v. Pyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1093. Contract to furnish all granite required for bridge approaches held entitled to furnish so much as is necessary to construct such approaches but no more. United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351. Contract providing that none of the goods were to be shipped except as might be specified and ordered by the buyer from time to time as his requirements might demand, held to require the buyer to take the goods, except in case its requirements should not demand them. Semon, Bache & Co. v. Coppes, Zook & Mutschler Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 41. Under a contract to sell such ties as might be needed for the construction of proposed new lines, neither party is bound unless the lines are built, and then only to the extent of the number needed for that purpose. Laclede Const. Co. v. Moss Tie Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 76. Contract held the same, though buyer's rights were transferred. Id. Evidence held sufficient to show that defendant purchased the quantity alleged. Horner v. Hughbanks [Neb.] 100 N. W. 947.

Separation and designation of the goods.[44]—As between buyer and seller the

34. There being a contract for the sale of machinery and the sunken hull of a vessel, the seller claiming that the hull was not included in fixing the price, expert evidence is admissible to show that the machinery without the hull was of much less value than the purchase price named in the contract. McRae v. Lonsby [C. C. A.] 130 F. 17.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1536.

36. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432; Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. See 2 Curr. L. 1536, n. 25. As to what contracts are executory, see ante, § 1, Definition and distinctions.

37. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432. Sale of timber to be cut and removed, and measured and paid for each month and before removal, held title vests in purchaser as timber is cut down. Id.

38. Roberts v. McWatty [Wis.] 102 N. W. 18. Civ. Code, § 1540. Adlam v. McKnight [Mont.] 80 P. 613. Evidence held insufficient to show passage of title where there was a dispute as to quantity, and when, prior to delivery, the buyer promised to retain part of the purchase money and pay it to a creditor of the seller. Id.

39. Adlam v. McKnight [Mont.] 80 P. 613; Wesoloski v. Wysoski [Mass.] 71 N. E. 982.

40. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432; Roberts v. McWatty [Wis.] 102 N. W. 18. Contract for the sale of goods to apply on land at a price to be "fixed by an invoice to be made * * * the balance of the purchase price to be paid as soon as the invoice is completed," held indefinite as to time when title passed, and that the intent must be ascertained from the circumstances of the case. Id. Where the correspondence and accountings between a foreign shipper and his consignee show that the parties did not intend title to pass, the fact that in the invoices, custom house entries and shipping declarations, the transaction is referred to as a sale, is immaterial. Deburghraeve v. Autenrieth, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 267.

41. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432.

42. Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1094.

43. Liable for freight where vessel is lost. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & F. Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1537.

general rule is that title passes when the terms of the sale are agreed upon and everything the buyer has to do with the matter has been done.[45] In the absence of evidence showing an intent to the contrary, title does not pass where there is no identification or selection out of a common mass.[46] Measurement[47] and weighing,[48] if required by the terms of the contract, must be performed before title passes, though this rule does not apply to the sale of an entire mass where the object of such conditions precedent is to determine the amount to be paid.[49] It is perfectly competent for the parties to change any of these rules.[50]

Payment.[51]—In the absence of an agreement to the contrary,[52] payment is not essential to the passage of title in any sale other than one for cash,[53] and nothing being said as to the time of payment, the sale is treated as one for cash;[54] but, in such case, the buyer failing to pay at the time of the sale, the seller may treat the title as having passed.[55] The mere fact that payment is deferred until the time of shipment, and is to be made against the shipping receipts, does not show that title is not to pass until shipment.[56] In some states the subject is regulated by statutes.[57] As to whether payment is a condition precedent is a question of intention, and this question is one for the jury.[58]

Delivery and acceptance.[59]—Complete delivery is not essential to the passage

45. Fromme v. O'Donnell [Wis.] 103 N. W. 3.

46. Kellogg v. Frohlich [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1057; Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432. Where goods were to be subsequently selected from samples, held contract was executory. Huguenot Mills v. Jempson & Co., 68 S. C. 363, 47 S. E. 687. Purchaser of oranges on trees held, under Civ. Code § 1141, to take title. Bill v. Fuller [Cal.] 79 P. 592. Rule applied to a sale of a crop to be grown, the crop to come up to a certain standard. Robinson v. Stricklin [Neb.] 102 N. W. 479. See 2 Curr. L. 1537, n. 28, 29.

47. Where logs had to be scaled and measured before delivery could be made. State v. Meehan, 92 Minn. 283, 100 N. W. 6. Where a trustee in a deed was empowered to convey title to timber after the purchase price was paid, upon a proper measurement, title and possession could not pass to vendee until these things were done.. Porter v. Bridgers, 132 N. C. 92, 43 S. E. 551. See 2 Curr. L. 1537, n. 30.

48. Where onions were to be screened and weighed, held title did not pass. Wesoloski v. Wysoski [Mass.] 71 N. E. 982. Hay being sold at $8 per ton, "baler's weights," and being received by the buyer in his yard, held title passed. Colorado Trading & Transfer Co. v. Oliver [Colo. App.] 78 P. 308.

49. Where a written contract of sale is made of an entire crop of standing hay at an agreed price per ton, part payment is made, and the purchaser takes possession of the crop, cuts and stacks it, and bales and carries away part of it, the title to the crop passes to him. Allen v. Rushfort [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1028.

50. Title held to pass where delivery was tendered as per contract, postponement requested, and partial payment made. Mayberry v. Lilly Mill Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401. On sale of paving blocks, title held to pass, though quantity to be paid for was to be subsequently determined. Fromme v. O'Donnell [Wis.] 103 N. W. 3.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1537.

Payment and tender as terms of the contract, see post, § 9.

52. Payment at place of delivery being a condition precedent, title does not pass until then. Town of Canton v. McDaniel [Mo.] 86 S. W. 1092.

53. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432. See 2 Curr. L. 1537, 36, 37.

54. The price must be paid either before or concurrently with the passing of the title. Hughes v. Knott [N. C.] 50 S. E. 586.

55. Richardson v. Insurance Co. of North America, 136 N. C. 314, 48 S. E. 733.

56. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722.

57. California: Under Civ. Code § 1140, title passes to the buyer whenever the parties agree upon a present transaction and the thing is identified, whether it is separated from other things or not; hence it is not essential to a valid sale of corporate stock that the stock certificates be delivered simultaneously with payment. Mason v. Lievre, 145 Cal. 514, 78 P. 1040.

Georgia: The provisions of Civ. Code 1895, § 3546, providing among other things that title to certain commodities shall not pass until paid for, are applicable only to planters and commission merchants. Butler, Stevens & Co. v. Georgia & A. R. Co., 119 Ga. 959, 47 S. E. 320. A planter as used in that section, is one who is engaged in the business of producing crops from the soil; and it is immaterial whether he sows and reaps with his own hand, the hand of a tenant, a cropper or of a hired laborer. Id. A planter may avail himself of the protection of the above section in any cash sale of cotton which may be made by him, without reference to whether it was produced by him or acquired from another. Id.

58. Where entire price was agreed on, part paid and the final settlement was to depend on an inventory being taken, held question for the jury whether title passed. Richardson v. Insurance Co. of North America, 136 N. C. 314, 48 S. E. 733.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1538.

of title,[60] for, as between the parties, the sale may be complete whether possession be delivered or not.[61] In the absence of evidence of an intention to the contrary, the sale being executory, title does not pass until the property is delivered and accepted,[62] generally at the place designated in the contract,[63] though the buyer is not obliged to wait until the property has been delivered at such place before receiving and accepting it.[64] The sufficiency of delivery is to be determined by the law of the place where the article is to be manufactured and delivered,[65] particular instances being shown in the notes.[66]

In the absence of an express or implied agreement to the contrary, it is a general rule, subject to exceptions, that a delivery to a common carrier is a delivery to the consignee,[67] and this is especially true where the carrier has been designated by the buyer,[68] though the seller, in accordance with the contract, prepays the charges,[69] or where such delivery is accompanied by a delivery of the bills of lading, properly indorsed, to the buyer.[70] The buyer being designated in the bills of lading as consignor and consignee, and such bills of lading being indorsed in blank and attached to drafts drawn on the buyer, title does not pass until such drafts are paid.[71] Where the contract requires delivery at a designated place, title does not pass until delivery is there made,[72] and, in some cases, until the 60. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432. See 2 Curr. L. 1538, n. 41.

61. Driscoll v. Driscoll, 143 Cal. 528, 77 P. 471.

62. La Vie v. Tooze [Or.] 79 P. 413. The buyer accepting the goods but refusing to remove them from the cars of a common carrier, the seller is not required to accept the proceeds of a sale of the goods made by the carrier, but is entitled to sue for and recover the contract price. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

63. Hunter Bros. Milling Co. v. Kramer Bros. [Kan.] 80 P. 963.

64. La Vie v. Tooze [Or.] 79 P. 413. Where hops were inspected, weighed, branded and paid for by the purchaser, held title passed though hops were not at place specified in the contract as the place of delivery. Id.

65. Where controversy was between purchaser of a bankrupt and the latter's trustee. In re Pease Car & Locomotive Works, 134 F. 919.

66. Sale of locomotives: Purchaser's name was painted on engines, the latter were inspected, accepted and paid for, but purchaser retained possession owing to shipment being delayed by high water; held, under the law of Illinois, there was a sufficient delivery to pass title. In re Pease Car & Locomotive Works, 134 F. 919. Where range stock is the subject of sale, title passes when the stock is taken charge of by the purchaser, or his agents or employes, and driven from the pasture of the seller and placed in the pasture of the purchaser; and if some of the stock afterwards escapes and strays back to its former range without the knowledge or connivance of the purchaser, it will not defeat his title. Woods v. Faurot, 14 Okl. 171, 77 P. 346.

67. Butts v. Hensey [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1011; Greif & Bro. v. Seligman [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 533. Though the contract be silent as to the person or mode by which the goods are to be sent. Id. Where fruit is delivered to carrier in good merchantable condition, packed or otherwise protected in the manner customary in the trade, the seller's responsibility ends. United Fruit Co. v. Bisese, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 170. Sale held complete at time of delivery to carrier, it being followed by an acceptance by the purchaser. Schwab & Sons Co. v. Frieze [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1174. Where principal filled order of agent and sent article to him for delivery to the purchaser. James v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 78 S. W. 951. Evidence that vendor had sold goods to vendee, loaded them on a car and shipped them to him, and had taken a check for the price, held to warrant a finding of a sale on credit and a delivery to the common carrier, and therefore title had passed to vendee. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134. See 2 Curr. L. 1538, n. 50; Id. 1539, n. 55. See, also, Intoxicating Liquors, 4 Curr. L. 252, 270, where the late cases dealing with the sale of intoxicants will be found.

Note: Where is contract made? See 4 Curr. L. 270.

68. Third Nat. Bank v. Smith [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 215; State v. Intoxicating Liquors, 98 Me. 464, 57 A. 798.

69. State v. Intoxicating Liquors, 98 Me. 464, 57 A. 798.

70. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134; Mitchell v. Baker, 208 Pa. 377, 57 A. 760. The carrier becomes the agent of the buyer and bound to deliver the goods to him. Id. Where order was countermanded after expiration of time for delivery and after car had been loaded, but before sent, the bill of lading being retained by the seller, held no delivery. McKelvey v. Perham [Mont.] 79 P. 253.

71. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & F. Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

72. Greif & Bro. v. Seligman [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 533. That seller is to pay freight and furnish property at destination for a specified price is evidence tending to show an agreement to deliver at such place, and that title is not to pass until delivery buyer has been afforded a reasonable time within which to inspect and accept the goods.[73]

Revesting of title.—Failure to pay the purchase price does not divest the buyer of title.[74]

§ 7. Delivery and acceptance under terms of contract. A. Construction and operation of contract. Necessity, time, place, amount, etc.[75]—The intention of the parties at the time delivery is claimed determines whether delivery was made or not.[76] Unless delivery according to terms be waived[77] or prevented by the acts of the other party,[78] it is ineffectual unless it corresponds to the terms of the contract[79] respecting place,[80] amount,[81] mode and manner of shipment,[82] and time,[83] but no time being specified, a reasonable time is implied.[84] In no case need delivery be made before the expiration of the time specified or implied,[85] though a statement by the seller that he will not deliver within such time may is so made. Hunter Bros. Milling Co. v. Kramer Bros. [Kan.] 80 P. 963.

73. Lummis v. Millville Mfg. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 219. Where vendee accepted goods and gave a check therefor, held liable for subsequent loss. Id.

74. Where buyer procured bill of lading in his own name as shipper and owner. Also held not to affect title of assignee of bill of lading. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1539.

76. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241.

77. Where buyer did not insist on time limit, held waived. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753. Acceptance and payment without protest waives premature delivery. Bill v. Fuller [Cal.] 79 P. 592. The contract specifying the terms of delivery, delivery held not shown by pointing out the property in a deliverable condition, nothing being said or done to show a waiver of the conditions. Reeves & Co. v. Bruening [N. D.] 100 N. W. 241. Where delivery was to be made f. o. b. on cars at A, held under circumstances of case, that the seller complied with the contract, though he shipped such cars to B, the buyer's place of business, consigned to himself. Naas v. Welter, 92 Minn. 404, 100 N. W. 211. Where buyer modified contract so as to include additional machinery, giving 60 days additional time within which to manufacture the same, and all the machinery was delivered within the time as extended, the buyer is not entitled to demurrage for delay in delivering the machinery first contracted for. Washington Iron Works v. McNaughton, 35 Wash. 10, 76 P. 301. On a sale of job lots, the buyer was held not to waive a material variance in the quantities delivered by his requesting a correction in his order, which correction the seller refused to permit him to make. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144.

Evidence that extension of time of delivery was not communicated to seller until after his default held insufficient to support a finding that before the expiration of the time limited for the performance of the contract, the time for delivery was extended, and the original contract modified. Birkett v. Nichols, 90 N. Y. S. 257.

78. Morel v. Stearns, 43 Misc. 639, 88 N. Y. S. 416.

79. A refusal to deliver except on different terms imposing an additional burden on the buyer is, at the buyer's election, equivalent to an absolute refusal. Morris v. Supplee, 208 Pa. 253, 57 A. 566.

80. The buyer having designated a place, the mere arrival of goods at a wharf within the limits of the city where delivery was to be made does not constitute a delivery to the buyer. Morel v. Stearns, 43 Misc. 639, 88 N. Y. S. 416.

81. "4,644 tons of coal" is not "about 5,000 tons." Moore v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 202. Where defendant purchased three job lots of corsets represented on plaintiff's stock list as containing 251 10/12 doz., 204 11/12 doz. and 80 9/12 doz., and the deliveries offered contained 266⅔ doz., 267 1/12 doz. and 78 doz., the variance was substantial, and entitled the buyer to refuse acceptance. Kalamazoo Corset Co. v. Simon, 129 F. 144.

82. Where goods were to be delivered f. o. b. New York, proof of delivery to express company consigned to defendant at Baltimore, charges of carriage to be collected, was insufficient. International Money Box Co. v. Southern Trust & Deposit Co., 93 App. Div. 309, 87 N. Y. S. 881.

83. Tender of goods on June 1st is not a delivery within the terms of a contract providing for delivery in May. Morel v. Stearns, 43 Misc. 639, 88 N. Y. S. 416. Contract requiring cars to be shipped "as early as possible in September," the seller has until the expiration of the last day in the month in which to make shipment. Chattanooga Car & Foundry Co. v. Lefebvre, 113 La. 487, 37 So. 38.

84. In the manufacture of articles seller must use reasonable diligence, no time being specified. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052. One contracting absolutely to sell property to be acquired in the future must tender title and make delivery within a reasonable time. Northington-Munger Pratt Co. v. Farmers' Gin & Warehouse Co., 119 Ga. 851, 47 S. E. 200. Even though impossibility of obtaining title would prevent specific performance. Id. Is liable where he conveys to third party. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1539, n. 62.

85. The contract providing for delivery upon the payment of the balance of the purchase price, failure to deliver until such balance is tendered does not constitute a breach of the contract, even though the seller agreed amount to a repudiation of the contract.[86] A contract providing that "deliveries are to be made as wanted until further agreement" binds the purchaser to accept them within a reasonable time.[87] In the absence of any designation in the contract as to the place of delivery, portable goods must be delivered at the buyer's place of business,[88] or at such other place, not less accessible, as the buyer may designate.[89] Provisions for weighing, etc., generally indicate the place of delivery.[90] In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the seller is not bound to send or carry the goods to the vendee, but fulfills his obligations by leaving or placing them at the latter's disposal, so that he may remove them without lawful obstruction,[91] and the buyer has a reasonable time within which to remove the goods.[92] Failure to deliver being due to a difference of opinion as to how shipments should be made, the case does not come within an "unavoidable contingency" clause,[93] nor, except in the case of a quasi-public corporation can such a clause compel the buyer to prorate with other patrons of the seller.[94] In all the cases mentioned, what is a reasonable time is a question for the jury,[95] as is the question whether or not the delivery conformed to the terms of the contract.[96] In some cases delivery may be inferred from part payment,[97] and from a return without explanation.[98]

The term "f. o. b." means "free on board" at the designated place,[99] and the courts will take judicial notice of such interpretation,[1] and will not allow this meaning to be changed by reference to extrinsic evidence or circumstances.[2] In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the phrase implies that the weights are to be determined at the point of delivery,[3] and that the buyer will designate the carrier by whom and the point to which the goods shall be shipped,[4] as to whether or not it imposes a duty on the seller to furnish the cars there is a conflict.[5] to assist the buyer in selling the article. Whitaker v. Sterling [Mich.] 99 N. W. 880.

86. Where seller of coal was given one hour within which to decide whether he would deliver coal, and at the expiration of such time stated that he would not deliver it, held a repudiation of the contract, even though time set in contract for delivery had not expired. United States v. New York Cent. Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 312.

87. Dunn v. Mayo Mills [C. C. A.] 134 F. 804.

88, 89. Morel v. Stearns, 43 Misc. 639, 88 N. Y. S. 416.

90. Where bills of lading with draft attached were sent to consignee through a bank at the consignee's place of residence, the contract provided for reweighing and reclassifying at the latter place, held contract provided for delivery at such place. Callender, Holder & Co. v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 366.

91. Davis v. Alpha Portland Cement Co., 134 F. 274. Benjamin on Sales (7th Am. Ed.) § 679.

92. Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bros. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 88.

93. Union Trust Co. v. Webber-Seeley Hardware Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 784.

94. Contract binding plaintiff to sell to defendant all the coal it may require during a specified period and promptly ship the same when ordered, unless prevented by strikes or other causes beyond its control. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 134 N. C. 574, 47 S. E. 116.

95. Dunn v. Mayo Mills [C. C. A.] 134 F. 804; Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bros. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 88.

96. As to whether delivery was within contract time. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. v. Jackson Architectural Ironworks, 92 N. Y. S. 1056.

97. Where, in an action for a balance due, it appeared that the buyer had exercised its option and made part payment, held to warrant a finding that the seller had made all deliveries called for under the contract. American Electrical Works v. New England Elec. R. Const. Co., 186 Mass. 546, 72 N. E. 64.

98. Where goods were delivered and returned without explanation, held sufficient to support a finding of a delivery. O'Connor v. Hitzler [Colo. App.] 80 P. 474.

99. Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820. An agreement to sell "f. o. b." at a distant place implies that the seller will ship and place the property on the cars at the designated point free of any expense to the buyer. Hunter Bros. Milling Co. v. Kramer Bros. [Kan.] 80 P. 963.

1, 2. Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820.

3. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

4. Hughes v. Knott [N. C.] 50 S. E. 586.

5. That it does not. Evanston Elevator & Coal Co. v. Castner, 133 F. 409. This view is not altered by a further provision guarantying a maximum freight rate. Evanston Elevator & Coal Co. v. Castner, 133 F. 409; Davis v. Alpha Portland Cement Co., 134 F. 274. Where seller always obtained cars, held a construction of the contract

These ordinary meanings cannot be changed except by clear and satisfactory evidence of a custom to the contrary, known to both parties to the transaction at the time of the making of the contract.[6]

(§ 7) B. Sufficiency of delivery; actual, constructive, symbolical.[7]—Where manual delivery cannot be made, delivery of an order on a warehouseman may be sufficient.[8] Where delivery is to be by transfer of the bill of lading and stoppage in transit, the buyer, after a transfer of the bill of lading to him, must take the necessary steps to procure a delivery.[9]

(§ 7) C. Acceptance; necessity; time; what is.[10]—A positive and unequivocal refusal to accept constitutes a breach of the contract.[11]

A reasonable time is allowed for inspection after delivery of goods sold by sample,[12] or for a particular purpose,[13] or of a specified quality, they not being in existence or ascertained at the time of sale.[14] The goods not being as ordered, the buyer should promptly[15] reject the entire shipment,[16] or store them, on notice, at the seller's expense.[17] What constitutes a rejection depends upon the subject-matter of the sale and the circumstances of the case.[18] After acceptance, the placing the duty so to do upon the seller. Id.

That it does: Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820.

6. Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820.

NOTE. Effect of contract to ship f. o. b. Duty to furnish cars: The term "f. o. b." implies that the vendor must bear the expense of conveying the goods to or upon the vehicle or conveyance specified, or to the point named (Ex parte Rosevear China Clay Co., L. R. 11 Ch. Div. 565, 48 L. J. Bankr. N. S. 100, 40 L. T. [N. S.] 730, 27 Weekly Rep. 591, 4 Asp. Mar. L. Cas. 144; Burgess Sulphite Fibre Co. v. Broomfield, 180 Mass. 283, 62 N. E. 367), including all port and harbor charges, canal dues, wharfage, etc., at the place of shipment (George v. Glass, 14 U. C. Q. B. 514), as well as the expenses of an inspection, where that was stipulated to be had at the works of the maker who had agreed to deliver the goods f. o. b. at the point of shipment (Silberman v. Clark, 96 N. Y. 522).

Unless express provision is otherwise made in the contract, under an agreement to deliver f. o. b. at the initial point of shipment, the vendor is under no duty to provide the transportation facilities (Sutherland v. Alhusen, 14 L. T. [N. S.] 666; Baltimore & L. R. Co. v. Steel Rail Supply Co., 123 F. 655; Howland v. Brown, 13 U. C. Q. B. 199; Marshall v. Jamieson, 42 U. C. Q. B. 115), nor even to make any attempt to deliver until cars or ships are provided or named, by the vendee, unless the time or place of delivery is within the option of the vendor, in which event he must give notice of his readiness to deliver, or specify the place where, as the case may be, then the vendee must on his part provide or specify the vehicles of conveyance for the goods (Dwight. v. Eckert, 117 Pa. 490, 12 A. 32).—From note in 62 L. R. A. 795. The Wisconsin case (Vogt v. Schienebeck, 100 N. W. 820) is contrary to the general weight of authority. The court argues that supplying cars is but a means to the end which the seller must accomplish. The annotator in 18 Harv. L. R. 233, points out that the rule that the buyer must furnish the cars "proceeds upon the theory that as the buyer is to pay the freight, he is the one to make all arrangements for the carriage of the goods. Ordinarily to-day, however, where transportation is to be by rail, this circumstance has little force; for rates are generally uniform and shipment is possible over only one railroad. The Wisconsin rule seems, therefore, thoroughly consistent with modern business conditions. See Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Consolidated, etc., Co., 7 W. L. Bul. 200."

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1540.

8. Salmon v. Brandmeier, 93 N. Y. S. 271.

9. Jones-Pope Produce Co. v. Breedlove [Ark.] 83 S. W. 924.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1541.

11. Notification by brokers that customer would not receive any more goods on account of quality of goods previously delivered, held such notice constituted an unconditional breach of the contract. Lincoln v. Levi Cotton Mills Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 865.

12. Kanrich v. Wise, 92 N. Y. S. 790. See 2 Curr. L. 1541, n. 91.

13. Sale of a machine. Reasonable time held to include time enough to put machinery in motion and see if it operated properly. Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. Allowing machine to remain, in its original wrappings, in the factory for some months, held not to constitute an acceptance as a matter of law. Id.

14. Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64.

15. Herrmann Lumber Co. v. Heidelberg, Wolf & Co., 92 N. Y. S. 256. 22 days' delay in returning goods sold by sample held unreasonable and to amount to an acceptance. MacEvoy v. Aronson, 92 N. Y. S. 724.

16. A buyer cannot retain a part of the goods and reject the rest. Herrmann Lumber Co. v. Heidelberg, Wolf & Co., 92 N. Y. S. 256.

17. Herrmann Lumber Co. v. Heidelberg, Wolf & Co., 92 N. Y. S. 256.

18. It is not presumed that fixtures purchased for a store have been accepted where they differed in quality, value and kind from those contracted for, and there was a contemporaneous refusal to accept followed by goods cannot be rejected,[19] and being delivered and accepted in part performance of the contract, they must be paid for even though the seller subsequently fails to perform,[20] the damages sustained by such breach being available as a set-off, but not as a bar to such suit.[21] Selling part of the goods constitutes an acceptance,[22] but retention of possession on assurances of the seller to remedy the defect does not,[23] nor does holding the property as security for a loan to the seller.[24] In many cases the question of acceptance is one for the jury.[25] An acceptance after a refusal to so do waives the latter.[26]

(§ 7) D. Excuses for and waiver of breach.[27]—The seller must use all reasonable efforts to procure and ship the articles sold.[28] An act of God rendering delivery impossible,[29] refusal by the purchaser to accept,[30] or his failure to designate mode and manner of shipment as required by the contract,[31] or to make payment,[32] except for an instalment of a severable contract,[33] justify refusal to deliver. Acquiescence in breach does not warrant subsequent breaches of the same nature.[34] The party claiming the breach must not be in default.[35]

Delivery being subject to strikes, accidents, or other causes delaying or preventing shipments, the existence of such conditions does not avoid the contract but only suspends the operation of the same during their pendency.[36] A shortage a notice to reconstruct them to conform to the contract. Loeper v. Haas, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 184. Supplemental affidavit of defense held sufficient to prevent judgment. Id.

19. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753. Hats accepted after inspection cannot be returned a week later because crushed, bent and "off color." Kanrich v. Wise, 92 N. Y. S. 790.

20, 21. Gibboney v. Wayne & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 436.

22. Where sale was before discovery of breach of warranty. Lenz v. Blake-McFall Co., 44 Or. 569, 76 P. 356.

23. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753.

24. Holding machines as security for money loaned the seller by the buyer does not constitute an acceptance after rejection. Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860.

25. Where, following a custom in the trade, the buyer gave the messenger in charge of the goods a receipt, stating that they were in good condition, held to warrant submission to the jury of the question of acceptance. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

26. Where the purchaser refused to accept on the ground that the price was incorrect, held a subsequent acceptance in fulfillment of the contract entitled the seller to recover on the theory of a delivery and acceptance pursuant to the contract. Manda v. Etienne, 93 App. Div. 609, 87 N. Y. S. 588.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1542.

28. That the seller had contracts for a supply does not excuse him from an effort to secure cars to ship the coal in, or to procure the article sold; if, as a matter of fact, they could have with reasonable expenditure of money, purchased it in the open market, or secured the cars. Haff v. Pilling, 134 F. 294.

29. Where delivery could have been made by land, failure to deliver in time owing to an act of God rendering waterway impassible held no excuse. Fleishman v. Meyer [Or.] 80 P. 209.

30. Levy v. Glassberg, 92 N. Y. S. 50. Where meat was bought on "buyer's option," and the buyer evidenced an intention not to receive it, held delivery was not necessary. Bonds v. Lipton Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 805. See 2 Curr. L. 1543, n. 19.

31. Where sale was made f. o. b. cars at a certain point and buyer failed to designate the mode and place of delivery. Hughes v. Knott [N. C.] 50 S. E. 586.

32. Default in payments. Mason v. Edward Thompson Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 507. Instalment payment. Contractors & Builders' Supply Co. v. Alta Portland Cement Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 225.

33. Campbell & Cameron Co. v. Weisse, 121 Wis. 491, 99 N. W. 340. A contract to furnish brick to be paid for monthly as delivered and used is severable, and the failure of the purchaser to pay an instalment does not release the seller from the contract. Iowa Brick Mfg. Co. v. Herrick [Iowa] 102 N. W. 787.

34. The buyer of the output of a certain mine by accepting ore from other mines held not to bind him to continue to receive such ore in performance of the contract. Shackelford v. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 1005. The acceptance of shipments of less than the contract amount does not justify the seller in continuing such shipments, nor bar the buyer from taking advantage of such subsequent shipments to terminate the contract. United States Iron Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 173.

35. Buyer of ice held in no position to claim waiver of condition of time of delivery. Fish v. Spicer [Conn.] 60 A. 696.

36. Contract for deliveries of coal, held where strike occurred, damages could only be recovered for refusal to deliver coal after restoration of normal conditions at the mines. Cottrell v. Smokeless Fuel Co., 129 F. 174.

of cars comes within the meaning of the phrase "other causes."[37] One contracting to manufacture and sell certain machinery is not entitled to refuse performance on the ground that the machinery contracted for would infringe outstanding patents.[38]

The contract stating that the goods shall be to the full satisfaction of the buyer, dissatisfaction of the latter in good faith, though unreasonable, authorizes its refusal to accept.[39] A buyer is not justified in refusing to take goods when they are in the same condition as when he bought them.[40]

Whether the purchaser has waived delivery at the specified time,[41] or the seller has waived refusal to accept,[42] is to be determined from their respective acts and declarations.

§ 8. Warranties and conditions. A. In general. Nature and distinctions. Descriptions and representations.[43]—Warranties are collateral to the contract of sale,[44] resting upon an express or implied agreement between the parties,[45] and must be either as to the title, quality or quantity of the thing sold.[46] A contract of indemnity is to reimburse one for a loss; a contract of warranty asserts the existence of certain conditions.[47] Representations[48] of material subsisting facts,[49] as distinguished from mere expressions of opinion,[50] may constitute warranties as to

37. Hatfield v. Thomas Iron Co., 208 Pa. 478, 57 A. 950. If of such proportion as to render the fulfillment of all the seller's contracts impossible, and in such case the seller must make delivery to all customers ratably, and is bound to put forth all reasonable and proper exertion and to pay any additional reasonable expense to obtain cars. Jessup & M. Paper Co. v. Piper, 133 F. 108.

38. Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51.

39. Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860.

40. Heller v. Altman, 91 N. Y. S. 769.

41. Austin Mfg. Co. v. Snouffer [Iowa] 102 N. W. 128. Telegram from purchaser directing shipment after time specified for delivery is strong evidence of waiver of the time stipulated. Id.

Subsequent dealings "in no way to be connected" with former ones held not to waive breach of latter. Nebraska Bridge Supply & Lumber Co. v. Owen [Iowa] 103 N. W. 122.

42. Where on refusal to take, the seller continued to treat the goods as his own, and acted in accordance with a letter in which defendant repudiated the terms of its original agreement, held, he waived his rights under the contract. American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1543.

44. Dean & Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230. Buyer may sue on warranty as collateral to contract of sale. Parker v. Fenwick [N. C.] 50 S. E. 627.

45. Warranty held not a part of the agreement between the parties, but instead a warranty which the buyer, as agent, was authorized to make on behalf of the original seller upon reselling the article. Osborne & Co. v. Josselyn, 92 Minn. 266, 99 N. W. 890.

Consideration: A warranty by a pledgee selling forfeited pledge is supported by consideration of his interest in the chattel. State Bank of Commerce v. Dody [Kan.] 79 P. 1092.

46. Mason v. Thornton & Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1048.

47. A contract whereby the vendor of sausages agreed to make good any claim for too much fat, held a contract of indemnity and not one of warranty. James v. Libby, 44 Misc. 210, 88 N. Y. S. 812.

48. Where an option for the purchase of corporate stock recited that the corporation's assets and liabilities were as shown in annexed schedule, held to amount to a representation. Worthington v. Herrmann, 89 App. Div. 627, 88 N. Y. S. 76. Where such schedule was accompanied by explanatory notes explaining date of figures in schedule, that the indebtedness had been increased, etc., held recital, schedule and explanatory notes did not amount to a warranty. Id.

49. Sauerman v. Simmons [Ark.] 86 S. W. 429; Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 317, 81 S. W. 261. Sale of machinery. Northwestern Lumber Co. v. Callendar, 36 Wash. 492, 79 P. 30; National Cash Register Co. v. Townsend Grocery Store [N. C.] 50 S. E. 306. Representations that a cash register will save the expense of a bookkeeper, that the books could be kept in half the time, and that the machine could be operated by one of ordinary intelligence, held not representations as to material facts. Id. Where on a sale of a horse the buyer asked if he was perfectly sound and the seller replied "in every particular," and the buyer said, "If that is the case I will take your word for it and I don't care for any receipt," held to show a warranty of soundness. Faust v. Koers [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 278. See 2 Curr. L. 1543, n. 21.

50. Sauerman v. Simmons [Ark.] 86 S. W. 429; Holt v. Sims [Minn.] 102 N. W. 386; Lander v. Sheehan [Mont.] 79 P. 406. Statements by wholesale liquor dealer that whisky would meet the wants of the retailer's trade held mere expressions of opinion. Shiretzki v. Julius Kessler & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 422. Representations that seller's bid for the work was as low as it could be done, and that there was no profit in it at the price bid, held mere expressions of opinion. Wor all facts covered thereby,[51] and it is for the jury to determine whether or not a warranty is to be inferred from the representations made.[52] The buyer must rely upon the representations[53] and must not have been negligent in so doing.[54] The naked averment of a fact is neither a warranty of itself nor evidence of it.[55] The buyer relying to his injury upon false and fraudulent misrepresentations made by the seller with intent to deceive, the latter is liable for such damage.[56]

(§ 8) B. Express and implied warranties and fulfillment or breach thereof.[57]—The rule of caveat emptor does not apply where there is no opportunity for examination.[58] As to whether there is an express warranty is largely one of fact[59] for the jury,[60] who may consider prior negotiations and agreements,[61] but an express warranty, although in the form of advertisements or letters, cannot be read into a subsequently executed written contract of sale.[62] A warranty not expressed in or implied from the terms used in a written contract of sale cannot be added to by implication of law or parol proof.[63] An article being sold with an express warranty of title by the seller, who at the time has no title, his subsequent acquirement of title inures to the benefit of the buyer by estoppel.[64] As a general rule, an express warranty excludes implied warranties,[65] though some cases refuse to extend the doctrine to matters concerning which the writing is silent.[66]

rell v. Kinnear Mfg. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 988. See 2 Curr. L. 1543, n. 22.

51. An auctioneer announcing that "everything should be as represented, or no sale," and no specific article being excepted therefrom, the representation covers all articles sold. Bailey v. Manley [Vt.] 59 A. 200. The contract providing that the price shall be based upon the cost marks on the goods, it amounts to a representation by the seller that such marks truly state the price he paid for the goods. Mason v. Thornton & Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1048.

52. Phillips v. Crosby [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 142; Sauerman v. Simmons [Ark.] 86 S. W. 429; Lander v. Sheehan [Mont.] 79 P. 406.

53. See Sauerman v. Simmons [Ark.] 86 S. W. 429.

54. Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding that buyer was not negligent in relying on representations. Harwood v. Breese [Neb.] 103 N. W. 55. Where the representations were concerning an alleged newly patented complicated machine, the buyer is not bound to make inquiry as to their truth or falsity, and is entitled to rescission if fraudulent. Mulholland v. Washington Match Co., 35 Wash. 315, 77 P. 497.

NOTE. Doctrine of reasonable inquiry.—The doctrine announced in the principal case is undoubtedly sound (Speed v. Hollingsworth, 54 Kan. 436; Faribault v. Sater, 13 Minn. 223; Cottrill v. Krum, 100 Mo. 397, 18 Am. St. Rep. 549), though the facts would almost seem to warrant an application of the rule, that where the exercise of ordinary prudence would have prevented deception, no relief will be given). Moore v. Turbeville, 2 Bibb. 202, 5 Am. Dec. 642; Morrill v. Madden, 35 Minn. 493). The doctrine of caveat emptor does not apply to the purchase of the right to sell an invention (Heater Co. v. Heater Co., 32 F. 723), nor need the vendee inspect the public records to ascertain what is covered by a patent (David v. Park, 103 Mass. 501; Rose v. Hurley, 39 Ind. 77; McKee v. Eaton, 26 Kan. 226). Where, however, an opportunity is given the vendee to test a machine, and he relies on statements made by the vendor concerning such test, he is bound thereby. Machine Works v. Meyer, 15 Ind. App. 385, 44 N. E. 193.—3 Mich. L. R. 161.

55. Krauskopf v. Pennypack Yarn Finishing Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 506.

56. Mason v. Thornton & Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1048. Defense to action on purchase notes. Custer v. Harmon, 105 Ill. App. 76. See topic Deceit, 3 Curr. L. 1045.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1544.

58. Armour & Co. v. Gundersheimer, 23 App. D. C. 210. See 2 Curr. L. 1544, 28-32.

59. Where contract called for "400 bush. s'k'd' potatoes," held there was no express warranty, but that the contract was merely for "good" potatoes. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066.

60. Whether warranty made during prior negotiations entered into contract as finally made held a question for the jury. Powers v. Briggs [Mich.] 103 N. W. 194.

61. Negotiations. Powers v. Briggs [Mich.] 103 N. W. 194. Agreement to furnish good title being followed by a bill of sale to the property, held in effect a warranty of title. Barnum v. Cochrane, 143 Cal. 642, 77 P. 656.

62. Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. See 2 Curr. L. 1545, n. 39, 40.

63. Rollins Engine Co. v. Eastern Forge Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 382. See Curr. L. 1545, n. 39, 40.

64. Coolidge v. Ayers, 76 Vt. 405, 57 A. 970.

65. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143. A written warranty that "it is understood that the goods are warranted only against breakage caused by manifest defects in material" excludes all other warranties of quality, express or implied. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Mahon [N. D.] 101 N. W. 903. Under a written contract of sale of machinery, specifying the terms and conditions of the contract, a sale by sample cannot be shown. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1545, n. 43, 44.

66. Ideal Heating Co. v. Kramer [Iowa] 102 N. W. 840. Phrase that the writing "shall

Except in those states where implied warranties are prohibited by statute,[67] a manufacturer[68] impliedly warrants that the article sold is merchantable,[69] free from latent defects not discoverable upon ordinary examination,[70] and if ordered for a special purpose, that it is reasonably fit for such purpose,[71] unless the article be known, described and defined,[72] or there is an opportunity for inspection,[73] and these implied warranties override provisions in the contract providing for an exchange of the goods if unsatisfactory, waiver of failure of consideration or noncompliance with order, unless the buyer exhausts the terms of warranty and exchange.[74] Such warranties do not extend to a sale of second-hand articles not manufactured by the seller.[75] The implied warranty that articles sold for food are wholesome does not extend to food stuffs for cattle.[76] Property sold by sample[77] or by description[78] is impliedly warranted to conform thereto, but such warranty does not survive acceptance with full knowledge of all the conditions affecting the character and quality of the articles.[79] Intent to deceive is not a necessary element of an implied warranty.[80] fully express the agreement between the parties" merely excludes parol evidence to vary its terms, and does not exclude an implied warranty. Id.

67. Under Civ. Code § 1764, a sale does not imply a warranty. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722.

68. One engaged in putting up apples in cans for sale is a manufacturer within the meaning of the above rule. Nixa Canning Co. v. Lehmann-Higginson Grocer Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 141.

69. Main & Co. v. Deering [Ark.] 84 S. W. 640. Sale of ice. Campion v. Marston [Me.] 59 A. 548. See 2 Curr. L. 1546, n. 58.

70. Nixa Canning Co. v. Lehmann-Higginson Grocer Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 141. Held liable where defect in canned apples was due to the method employed in the preparation. Id. Where forge company agreed to purchase steel and forge rod, held not liable on an implied warranty for defects in the rod either in respect to the steel or as to its make or manufacture, if such defects were not discoverable by the use of ordinary care. Rollins Engine Co. v. Eastern Forge Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 382.

NOTE. Reason for and application of above rule: The great weight of authority rests the rule that the manufacturer impliedly warrants or agrees to deliver an article, made for a special purpose, free from latent defects, upon the presumed superior knowledge of the manufacturer and the purchaser's reliance upon the knowledge and skill of the maker. Rollins Engine Co. v. Eastern Forge Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 382. Whether the presumption is justifiable in a particular case is a question of fact. Id. Whether any other reasonable inference can be drawn from the facts in evidence is a question of law. Id.

71. Main & Co. v. Deering [Ark.] 84 S. W. 640; Beck & C. Iron Co. v. Holbeck [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1128; Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. Eggs furnished baker. Armour & Co. v. Gundersheimer, 23 App. D. C. 210. That goods sold for resale are merchantable and reasonably fit for the purposes of the trade for which they are purchased. Bunch v. Weil Bros. [Ark.] 80 S. W. 582. Sale of cattle for breeding purposes, seller must deliver cattle suitable for such purpose. Redhead Bros. v. Wyoming Cattle Inv. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 144. The money value of the animal is not the standard by which compliance with the contract is to be determined. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1545, n. 50; Id. 1545, n. 58, 60.

Heating apparatus cases. Conflict: One agreeing to install a heating plant "in a good and workmanlike manner" undertakes not only to do a good job of pipe fitting, but to have the apparatus operate with reasonable success in heating the house. Ideal Heating Co. v. Kramer [Iowa] 102 N. W. 840. Upon the sale of a heating apparatus to be placed in a building, there is no implied warranty that it will heat such structure to any certain degree of temperature, or so as to render it sufficient in that respect. Holt v. Sims [Minn.] 102 N. W. 386. Where a heating plant of better capacity than that agreed to be furnished was furnished, held a legal and substantial compliance with the contract therefor. Id.

72. American Home Sav. Bank v. Guardian Trust Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 1108.

73. National Cotton Oil Co. v. Young [Ark.] 85 S. W. 92. See 2 Curr. L. 1544, n. 32.

74. Main & Co. v. Deering [Ark.] 84 S. W. 640.

75. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753. See 2 Curr. L. 1546, n. 59.

76. National Cotton Oil Co. v. Young [Ark.] 85 S. W. 92.

77. Alabama Steel & Wire Co. v. Symons [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 78. Act of April 13, 1887, P. L. 21. Barnett v. Becker, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 22. Shade of bricks. Washington Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Sinnott, 92 N. Y. S. 504. One purchasing grape fruit by sample, held there was an implied warranty that all the fruit was grape fruit. Abel v. Murphy, 43 Misc. 648, 88 N. Y. S. 256. Evidence held to show that sale of by-products of oil mill was made by sample. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co. v. Friedlander, 112 La. 1059, 36 So. 853. See 2 Curr. L. 1546, n. 51, 55.

Buyer's agent taking and submitting samples held not a sale by sample so as to raise an implied warranty. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722.

78. Bowman Lumber Co. v. Anderson, 70 Ohio St. 16, 70 N. E. 503; Timken Carriage Co. v. Smith & Co., 123 Iowa, 554, 99 N. W. 183; Lenz v. Blake-McFall Co., 44 Or. 569, 76 P.

An assertion of ownership[81] or a sale by one in possession[82] constitutes a warranty of title which estops the seller from setting up title in himself unless subsequently acquired.[83] The seller warranting title, being notified by his purchaser of an action brought against him and refusing to have anything to do with it, the refusal excuses a formal demand to defend,[84] renders the seller liable for the reasonable costs of the action[85] and bound by the result thereof, so far as concerns the value of the chattel.[86]

The contract providing that the seller's inspection should be conclusive, his inspection can only be set aside for fraud.[87] While the method prescribed in the contract should generally be followed in determining the breach or fulfillment of the warranty,[88] still such method is not always held exclusive,[89] and the evidence being conflicting as to whether or not such test was made, the question is for the jury.[90]

A warranty will be limited to the matters[91] imported by its terms,[92] which terms will be construed with reference to each other and the circumstances of the case.[93] In the absence of fraud a general warranty does not cover obvious defects,[94] nor does an implied warranty of quality cover latent defects developing 356; Beck & C. Iron Co. v. Holbeck [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1128. See 2 Curr. L. 1546, n. 52, 56.

79. Bowman Lumber Co. v. Anderson, 70 Ohio St. 16, 70 N. E. 503.

80. Abel v. Murphy, 43 Misc. 648, 88 N. Y. S. 256.

81. To logs which one gave another the license to cut. Pierce v. Banton, 98 Me. 553, 57 A. 889.

82. Deatz & Sterling's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 355.

83. Deatz & Sterling's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 355. The forcible seizure by the seller of property which he has sold to the party in possession is a breach of the contract of sale. Id.

84, 85, 86. Schnurmacher v. Kennedy, 88 N. Y. S. 943.

87. Beck & C. Iron Co. v. Holbeck [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1128; Camden Ironworks v. Masterson, 93 N. Y. S. 754.

88. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. Hudson County Consumers' Brew. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 649, 58 A. 296.

89. Where an engine is sold upon a warranty that it is capable of developing 25 horse power when tested according to a designated system, a finding that there was a breach of such warranty may be sustained by evidence that, in actual use under ordinary conditions, it could not develop more than 15 horse power, where no test was ever made according to the prescribed method. Kinnard Press Co. v. Stanley [Kan.] 79 P. 661.

90. Underfeed Stoker Co. v. Hudson County Consumers' Brew. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 649, 58 A. 296.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1546.

92. The warranty implied in a written contract for the sale of "good" potatoes is that those delivered will be of the kind agreed on as regards imperfections not discoverable at the time of delivery, by ordinary inspection. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Breach of implied warranty held made out by finding that those delivered were not such as the agreement called for. Id. Where an article is sold for a specific use, "quality guaranteed," the legal effect is a warranty that the article shall be salable or marketable for the designated use. Union Selling Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 128 F. 672.

Word "machinery" in warranty of derrick held sufficiently broad to include the whole of the derrick and appliances furnished by the seller. Miller v. Patch Mfg. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 870. A representation that a jack is as sure a foal getter as ordinary jacks in this climate and country warrants the ability of the animal to render reasonable service as a foal getter. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751. Evidence held insufficient to show breach of warranty of secondhand threshing machine, the warranty being that it would do the work "if properly operated." Crenshaw v. Looker [Mo.] 84 S. W. 885. Where there is a warranty of the quality of oil at the place of delivery, and it is possible for the oil to deteriorate during transit, held shipper was not entitled to have samples of the oil taken before shipment considered in settling the controversy. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co., 112 La. 838, 36 So. 750. See 2 Curr. L. 1546, n. 61, 62.

93. One purchasing oranges to be delivered when wanted implied warranty of merchantableness, if any, only warranted merchantableness of fruit on trees and that when gathered it should be handled and delivered with care. Bill v. Fuller [Cal.] 79 P. 592. One knowing that the engine bought was to be used in a sawmill and warranting the one delivered to have the same capacity as the engine contracted for, held the warranty would be construed as applying to its capacity as used in the sawmill. Critcher v. Porter-McNeal Co., 135 N. C. 542, 47 S. E. 604.

94. Scott v. Gelser Mfg. Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 955. Representations as to condition of secondhand threshing machine held not to cover obvious defects, the purchaser being experienced in handling such machines. Id. Where the purchaser of mules inspected them before purchase, held he is presumed to have knowledge of water seeds and wire scratches. Doyle v. Parish [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 646. See 2 Curr. L. 1547, n. 68.

after delivery to and acceptance by the buyer, both parties having equal means of knowledge.[95] A warranty of machinery does not cover unreasonable or careless use by the buyer.[96]

(§ 8) C. Conditions and fulfillment or breach.[97]—Conditions must be substantially complied with,[98] but a technical compliance will not be required where to do so would work a hardship.[99] Breach of a condition is a breach of the contract.[1] The time for performance not being specified, a reasonable time is implied.[2] Interpretations given particular conditions are stated in the notes.[3] In proving a condition, the probability of its existence may be considered,[4] and the general rules as to parol evidence apply.[5]

(§ 8) D. Conditions on a warranty.[6]—Unless waived,[7] all conditions upon the warranty must be complied with,[8] or it cannot be enforced; but failure to comply with conditions does not waive frauds practiced by the seller.[9] Notice of the kind[10] required by the contract must be given within the time stipulated therein;[11] but the seller waives his right to a notice in the manner prescribed, by acting on the notice received.[12]

(§ 8) E. Waiver of warranties and conditions; excuse for breach.[13]—An express warranty survives acceptance,[14] even though the defects could have been

95. Implied warranty that oysters were merchantable held not to extend to latent defects developing after buyer had accepted them. Farren & Co. v. Dameron [Md.] 58 A. 367.

96. Miller v. Patch Mfg. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 870. See 2 Curr. L. 1547, n. 69.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1548.

98. A contract for delivery equal to sample at buyer's place of business is broken or not according to conformity with samples on delivery at buyer's place of business. Union Carpet Lining Co. v. Miller & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 651. Under contract requiring seller to give bond satisfactory to a third party, held latter's notification of satisfaction must be given buyer. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Cooley [S. C.] 48 S. E. 267. See 2 Curr. L. 1548, n. 81.

99. Though contract required that notice be given a third person, held notice to the seller was sufficient where notice to such third party would simply have allowed him to send a repair man to the seller who in turn would send him to the buyer. Kenney Co. v. Anderson, 26 Ky. L. R. 367, 81 S. W. 663. See 2 Curr. L. 1548, n. 82.

1. Failure of butter to come up to sample and failure to put same in 60 pound tubs as required by the contract held to constitute a breach thereof. Brockman Commission Co. v. Kilbourne [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 275. See 2 Curr. L. 1549, n. 87.

2. Time within which seller was to give a bond. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard, 140 Ala. 252, 37 So. 106.

3. One agreeing to furnish a certain amount of granite and to be permitted to use certain specified places for piling it, held he was entitled only to such portion of the named space as he needed. Degnon-McLean Const. Co. v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1029. The contract calling for a complete, fully equipped printing press, the fact that the plates are worn out in trials of its efficiency warrants its rejection by the buyer. Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860.

4. Evidence that the purchase of a store for $2,100 was on condition that the gross receipts were $100 a day is not so improbable that it may not be credited. Machson v. Syrop, 91 N. Y. S. 12.

5. Where contract provided that seller should furnish bond to be approved by bank after knowledge that seller and sureties were satisfactory, held, parol evidence was admissible to show that notification by bank was written without knowledge of the responsibility of the principal and sureties. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Cooley [S. C.] 48 S. E. 267.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1549.

7, 8. Osborne & Co. v. West [Iowa] 103 N. W. 118. Where contract of sale of thresher provided for its return to place of delivery, failure to so do and request for a renewal of purchase-money note held to prevent recovery on breach of warranty. Nichols-Shepard Co. v. Rhoadman [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 62. Warranty providing that five days continuous use without complaint shall be conclusive evidence of fulfillment of warranty, a retention without complaint for five days after its first use, without continuous use, does not have such effect. Kinnard Press Co. v. Stanley [Kan.] 79 P. 661.

9. Failure to give notice of breach of warranty within five days after delivery as required by the contract. Folkes v. Walter Pratt Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 224.

10. Written notice being required, an oral one is insufficient. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Caldwell, 26 Ky. L. R. 136, 80 S. W. 1099; Davis v. Case Threshing Mach. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 235, 80 S. W. 1145.

11. Walter Pratt & Co. v. Meyer [Ark.] 87 S. W. 123; Walter Pratt & Co. v. Langston Mercantile Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 134.

12. Advance Thresher Co. v. Curd [Ky.] 85 S. W. 690; Kenney Co. v. Anderson, 26 Ky. L. R. 367, 81 S. W. 663.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1550.

14. Where a machine is sold upon an express warranty that it will perform certain work. Tansley v. Higgins, 88 N. Y. S. 1005. Warranty that a derrick would have a lifting capacity of fifty tons, with a factor of discovered upon an examination before delivery,[15] though it has been held that the rule does not apply where an inspection is actually made and the acceptance is not accompanied by a renewal of the warranty manifesting an intention to have it survive.[16] As a general rule an implied warranty is waived by acceptance where the defects are patent,[17] otherwise if latent,[18] though, it being possible to return the goods, retention after discovery will waive the latter.[19] The implied warranties of suitableness for a particular purpose,[20] merchantable quality,[21] and conformity to description,[22] or sample,[23] survive acceptance until inspection,[24] or until a reasonable time has elapsed therefor.[25] What is a reasonable time is a question of fact.[26] When the defect is ascertained, the buyer is bound either to elect to rescind the contract, so far as possible, or to treat it as a subsisting one, and sue on the warranty.[27] In such case the right of rescission must be exercised not only promptly but unequivocally,[28] and such a rescission includes a return of the thing sold within a reasonable time after inspection,[29] or, what amounts to the safety of five. Miller v. Patch Mfg. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 870.

15. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143; Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 317, 81 S. W. 261, citing Cook v. Gray, 2 Bush [Ky.] 121; Lichtenstein v. Rabolinsky, 90 N. Y. S. 247. That bill of lading allows inspection does not supersede a warranty of quality in the contract. Marlboro Wholesale Grocery Co. v. Brooke [S. C.] 50 S. E. 186.

16. James v. Libby, 44 Misc. 210, 88 N. Y. S. 812. But see 2 Curr. L. 1550, n. 5.

17. Where by the exercise of ordinary care defects could have been discovered before delivery. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143; Casselli v. Mosso, 90 N. Y. S. 371. See 2 Curr. L. 1551, n. 14.

18. Crane Co. v. Collins, 93 N. Y. S. 174. See 2 Curr. L. 1551, n. 13.

19. Crane Co. v. Collins, 93 N. Y. S. 174. Cannot in such case charge buyer with the expense of putting property in proper condition. Id.

20. Notwithstanding a written contract containing no warranty. Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69.

21. An acceptance of ice may be evidence of the release or waiver of an implied warranty of merchantable quality, but does not of itself necessarily constitute such release or waiver. Campion v. Marston [Me.] 59 A. 548.

22. Parker v. Fenwick [N. C.] 50 S. E. 627.

Note: In executory contracts of sale, where it is alleged that a warranty of quality has been made, it is sometimes difficult to decide whether the words which constitute the alleged warranty are words of description or of warranty. Where the words are descriptive of the goods, even though indicating quality, they do not make up a warranty of quality of such a nature that the buyer can recover for a breach thereof if he has had an opportunity to inspect the goods and has afterwards converted them to his own use, provided an examination would have disclosed the existing defect. Neff v. McNeeley [Neb.] 96 N. W. 150; Maxwell v. Lee, 34 Minn. 511, 27 N. W. 196; McClure v. Jefferson, 85 Wis. 208, 54 N. W. 777; Reed v. Randall, 29 N. Y. 358, 86 Am. Dec. 305. When goods are sold by description, although there is no warranty of fitness for a particular purpose, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be of the kind described. Gregg v. Page Belting Co., 69 N. H. 247, 46 A. 26; Jarechi Mfg. Co. v. Kerr, 165 Pa. 529, 30 Atl. 1019, 44 Am. St. Rep. 674; Diebold Safe & Lock Co. v. Huston & Breeding, 55 Kan. 104, 39 P. 1035, 28 L. R. A. 53; Peoria Grape Sugar Co. v. Turney, 175 Ill. 631, 51 N. E. 587; Kleeb v. Bard, 7 Wash. 41, 34 P. 138; Wisconsin Red Pressed Brick Co. v. Hood, 67 Minn. 329, 69 N. W. 1091, 64 Am. St. Rep. 418. But where, in an executory contract for the sale of personal property, the seller warrants the quality of the goods and the vendee, after receiving them, discovers that there has been a breach of the warranty, the vendee is not required to return the goods, but may retain them and recover upon the warranty. First Nat. Bank of Kansas City v. Grindstaff, 45 Ind. 158; Day v. Pool, 52 N. Y. 416, 11 Am. Rep. 719; Zabriskie v. The Central Vermont R. R. Co., 131 N. Y. 72; Underwood v. Wolf, 131 Ill. 425, 19 Am. St. Rep. 40; Halley v. Folsom, 1 N. D. 325.—3 Mich. L. R. 335.

23. Spiegelberg v. Karr, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 339.

24. Where both parties had long experience in the trade, and the sale was by description, delivery being made, the goods inspected and accepted, the buyer is liable for the price. Casselli v. Mosso, 90 N. Y. S. 371.

25. Failure to inspect within such time waives breach. Boessneck v. William Taylor & Son Co., 91 N. Y. S. 360; Spiegelberg v. Karr, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 339. See 2 Curr. L. 1551, n. 16.

26. Boessneck v. William Taylor & Son Co., 91 N. Y. S. 360. Six months' delay held to waive implied warranty. Id.

27. Spiegelberg v. Karr, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 339. Buyer may keep the chattel even after knowledge of defects and rely on the breach of warranty in diminution of the contract price. Alabama Steel & Wire Co. v. Symons [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 78.

28. Mere complaints as to quality of goods while exercising dominion over them inconsistent with ownership in the seller are not sufficient. Spiegelberg v. Karr, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 339.

29. Cooper v. Payne, 93 N. Y. S. 69. Two years use after discovery of defects held to same thing, a reasonable time after receipt,[30] and what is a reasonable time is a mixed question of law and fact,[31] though if the facts are undisputed it is purely one of law.[32] The buyer is responsible for delay in inspection by his agent.[33] If the seller states that he will not accept the goods, the buyer need not return them.[34] Where there is an express warranty, the right to damages for the breach survives acceptance, and an offer to return on account of the breach is neither necessary nor permissible,[35] unless the sale be on "trial,"[36] in which case, if no time is stipulated, the chattel must be returned within a reasonable time;[37] but the seller trying to remedy the breach waives a provision that acceptance after a specified time constitutes an acceptance.[38] Buyer wishing to be relieved from the duty of inspection and fully protected should demand a warranty.[39] The fact that the buyer pays the purchase price[40] or resells at a profit,[41] does not waive the buyer's right to damages for the breach of an express warranty. He cannot recover on a warranty of title while remaining in the undisputed possession of the property.[42] Breach of warranty may be waived by a new agreement.[43] The breach being caused by the negligence of the buyer, he cannot recover therefor,[44] and the seller alleging such fact must prove it.[45] The buyer notifying the seller of the breach of the warranty and specifying certain defects is deemed to waive all others.[46]

Conditions.[47]—In the absence of fraud,[48] acceptance,[49] after an opportunity to waive same. Parker v. Fenwick [N. C.] 50 S. E. 627.

30. Offer to return seven months after receiving the goods and after most of them had been resold held too late. Vogel v. Moore [Ky.] 84 S. W. 557. Retention of shingles for over a month held to waive a defect of quality. Sisson Lumber & Shingle Co. v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 946.

31. Hess v. Corwin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 141.

32. Spiegelberg v. Karr, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 339. Five months' delay where goods were Madras shirtings held unreasonable. Id.

33. So held where goods were sent to an examiner. MacEvoy v. Aronson, 92 N. Y. S. 724.

34. Abel v. Murphy, 43 Misc. 648, 88 N. Y. S. 256.

35. Billson v. Hall & G. Const. Co., 43 Misc. 620, 88 N. Y. S. 245.

36. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Caldwell, 26 Ky. L. R. 136, 80 S. W. 1099.

37. Nearly two months' delay in returning threshing machine held not unreasonable. Powers v. Briggs [Mich.] 103 N. W. 194.

38. Westinghouse Co. v. Meixel [Neb.] 101 N. W. 238.

39. Parker v. Fenwick [N. C.] 50 S. E. 627.

40. Dean Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230. Giving of note for price on date set in contract and after trial held not to waive breach of warranty. Kinnard Press Co. v. Stanley [Kan.] 79 P. 661.

41. Dean & Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230.

42. Barnum v. Cochrane, 143 Cal. 642, 77 P. 656.

NOTE. Remedy for breach of warranty of title: The question when a warranty of title is so broken as to give a cause of action is in square conflict, but the view taken by the court, that the vendee can sue only after he has been dispossessed or otherwise injured, is supported by the weight of authority. McGiffin v. Baird, 62 N. Y. 329. Some courts, however, uphold the other position that the vendee is entitled to sue at once. Grose v. Hennessey, 3 Allen [Mass.] 389. The former view seems the better in principle, as under the latter a vendee might recover full damages at once for failure of title when, if never dispossessed, his damage would be only nominal. Furthermore under this latter theory the vendee might be barred by the statute of limitations, although he were unaware of any defect in his title until his remedy was lost. The present decision requiring actual dispossession follows the analogy in the law of real property that a covenant of warranty is not broken until there has been an actual ouster. Gilman v. Haven, 11 Cush. [Mass.] 330.—18 Harv. L. R. 152.

43. Breach of warranty of quality held waived where buyer, at the time he received the goods, knew that they were not of the quality agreed upon, and then accepted them under a new agreement to pay a less price. Hogue v. Simonson, 94 App. Div. 139, 87 N. Y. S. 1065.

44. Plaintiff alleging and proving breach of warranty, in that jack was not a sure foal getter, defendant could show as a defense that such incapacity was due to lack of proper care or treatment on the part of plaintiff. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751. But proof that such treatment rendered the jack less efficient does not overcome proof of actual inefficiency. Id.

45. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751.

46. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1552.

48. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722.

49. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722; Yeiser v. Russell & Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1151, 83 S. W. 574; Crane Co. v. Collins, inspect,[50] and without an offer to return,[51] is generally held to waive nonconformity with the contract, though in some states it is held to be at most mere evidence of compliance,[52] the seller retaining the right to damages,[53] and its weight as evidence is a question for the jury.[54] In this connection acceptance of a part is not an acceptance of the whole.[55] In the states where it is held that such acceptance waives the breach, it is nevertheless competent for the parties to change the rule by agreement, as where the buyer demands and receives a contract of indemnity.[56] Where goods are bought on condition of approval by a third person, the condition is waived by acceptance and payment without such approval.[57] The benefit of a forfeiture clause may be waived by acquiescence,[58] and equity will not permit the perversion of such a clause to a use or purpose for which it was never intended.[59] Waiver by an unauthorized agent is ineffectual.[60] Tender becomes unnecessary when it is reasonably certain that the offer will be refused.[61] Unless waived,[62] only those breaches which are relied on at the time acceptance[63] or retention is refused can be taken advantage of. Given circumstances may have more weight upon a question of waiver of nonessentials than upon a question of waiver of essentials.[64]

(§ 8) F. Remedies[65] on the warranty and breach of condition have been reserved for other parts of this title,[66] together with damages for breach[67] and rights of assignees and subsequent purchasers.[68]

93 N. Y. S. 174. Where price was fixed by contract. Krauskopf v. Pennypack Yarn Finishing Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 506. In an action for the price of machinery which has been accepted, retained and used by the buyer, it is not necessary to allege and prove compliance with a provision requiring the seller to submit plans for approval. Thomas China Co. v. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25. It appearing that the machine broke down on trial but was repaired, accepted and used, evidence as to the cause of the original breakage is immaterial. Boothe v. Squaw Springs Water Co., 142 Cal. 573, 76 P. 385.

50. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82. That staves were not of the contract width. Dinwiddie & Co. v. Nash [Ky.] 86 S. W. 517.

51. So held where one ordered 5 barrels of catsup and received warehouse order for 50 barrels, though he notified broker of mistake. Salmon v. Brandmeier, 93 N. Y. S. 271.

52, 53, 54. Watson v. Bigelow Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 741.

55. Coburn v. California Portland Cement Co., 144 Cal. 81, 77 P. 771.

56. James v. Libby, 92 N. Y. S. 1047.

57. Hano v. Simons, 92 N. Y. S. 337.

58. Forfeiture clause in contract for the sale of timber to be cut held waived by silence while large expenditures, etc., were being made. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432.

59. Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432.

60. Statement by unidentified agent that buyer need not insure the property as provided by a provision in the contract of conditional sale, held insufficient to establish waiver of such provision. Gordeen v. Pearlman, 91 N. Y. S. 420. See 2 Curr. L. 1552, n. 28.

61. Where there was an agreement to repurchase and the seller on being asked to comply therewith stated that he did not believe there was any such agreement, but if there was he would live up to it, and he failed to notify the buyer that he would not repurchase until after the time for tender, held tender was excused. Pierce v. Lukens, 144 Cal. 397, 77 P. 996.

62. Buyer refusing to receive goods, but subsequently ordering and receiving same, held to constitute only a waiver of its right to stand on its first refusal, and did not constitute a new contract. Helper v. MacKennon Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 804.

63. The seller, in violation of the terms of the agreement, refusing to perform unless the purchaser gave security, held the breach was waived where the purchaser subsequently refused to accept the goods on the ground that the price stated in the invoice was incorrect. Manda v. Etienne, 93 App. Div. 609, 87 N. Y. S. 588. Such refusal held to also waive any breach of contract because of consignment not having been made through broker named in the contract. Id. Purchaser of fruit refusing fruit solely on ground that it was frozen on its arrival, he cannot subsequently allege as a ground for refusal to pay that the quantity sent was excessive. United Fruit Co. v. Bisese, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 170. Noncompliance, with a condition not being made a ground for refusal to accept nor taken advantage of on trial, held there was a waiver of the question whether the condition was complied with or not. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

64. Campion v. Marston [Me.] 59 A. 548.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1552.

66. See post, § 10, Remedies of the seller; § 11, Remedies of the purchaser.

67. See post, § 12.

68. See post, § 13.

§ 9. Payment, tender, and price as terms of the contract.[69]—The contract being silent as to the time of payment, delivery and payment are presumed to be concurrent acts,[70] and the seller is entitled to demand cash on delivery,[71] and to refuse to make delivery until bills previously incurred have been paid.[72] Neither party to such a contract can maintain an action for a breach by the other without showing performance of the conditions upon his own part, or an offer to perform, even though it is not certain from the terms which is to do the first act.[73] The time of payment being deferred on condition, failure to perform such conditions renders the price payable at once.[74] Payment is not due until conditions precedent have been complied with.[75] Interest does not start until the payment is due.[76] The contract being severable, the seller may recover for the goods delivered, though they constitute only a part of those sold.[77] The contract being silent as to the mode of payment, it is competent to prove a general custom as to the method of payment among dealers in the commodity sold.[78] The seller contending that the buyer was unable to pay in cash, evidence of a custom allowing payment in checks is admissible,[79] the fact that the buyer could have within a reasonable time converted his checks into currency is sufficient to sustain a finding that he was ready and able to perform.[80] A cash sale is not converted into a credit sale by the merchant receiving and depositing a check for the purchase money, drawing against the account thus increased and marking the bill "Paid."[81] A sight draft accompanying the bill of lading is not equivalent to the payment of cash on delivery.[82] The buyer accepting the goods is bound to pay the contract price and cannot limit the seller's recovery to the actual value of the goods delivered.[83]

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1552.

Payment as necessary to pass title, see ante, § 6. Conditional sales, see post, § 14.

Criminal liability for fraudulent purchase of goods on credit, see False Pretenses and Cheats, 3 Curr. L. 1419. See, also, Payment and Tender, 4 Curr. L. 955.

70. Livermore v. Brauer [C. C. A.] 128 F. 265; Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314. See 2 Curr. L. 1553, n. 41-43.

71. Bauer v. Blaha, 88 N. Y. S. 933. See 2 Curr. L. 1553, n. 41-43.

72. Bauer v. Blaha, 88 N. Y. S. 933.

73. Livermore v. Brauer [C. C. A.] 128 F. 265.

74. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

75. Where an option to purchase hides required the performance of certain conditions, held, the buyer was not required to pay the price in advance of the performance of such acts by the seller. Kibler v. Caplis [Mich.] 103 N. W. 531. Contract calling for a certain quantity of axes at a certain price, payment to be made a certain time after shipment, held, payment was not due until all the goods were shipped. Union Trust Co. v. Webber-Seeley Hardware Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 784. The contract providing that the goods should be shipped to a distant point and there resold, the buyer agreeing to pay therefor on the receipt of the money from the resale, the seller cannot recover the price without proof that the goods had arrived at their destination and that the buyer had received the money therefor. Machale v. Leber, 88 N. Y. S. 958.

76. The contract of sale providing that the property should become the buyer's on a certain date, but that the purchase price should not be paid until a subsequent date, the seller is not entitled to interest on the amount between these two dates. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58.

77. Contractors' & Builders' Supply Co. v. Alta Portland C. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 225; Racine Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Badger Mfg. Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1044. The buyer buying for resale and the contract providing that he should pay for the goods as soon as he received pay for the same or any part thereof, held the contract was severable. Racine Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Badger Mfg. Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1044; Campbell & Cameron Co. v. Weisse, 121 Wis. 491, 99 N. W. 340. Letter "We propose to accept your offer of $5.00 per cord for 200 cords, more or less, of hemlock bark * * * bark to be measured * * * and measurements of each car reported to us at once. * * * Terms spot cash within 10 days from receipt of cars." This offer was accepted. Held contract was apportionable. Campbell & Cameron Co. v. Weisse, 121 Wis. 491, 99 N. W. 340.

78. Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bros. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 88.

79, 80. Hughes v. Knott [N. C.] 50 S. E. 586.

81. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Pope [Ga.] 50 S. E. 374. In such case, the check being dishonored, the title of the commission merchant, by the terms of Civ. Code 1895, § 3546, is good as against the purchaser, the railroad to whom the cotton sold is delivered, and the bona fide holder of the bill of lading. Id.

82. Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 64.

83. Brown v. Harris [Mich.] 102 N. W. 960.

The effect of particular terms for payment is matter for construction[84] generally by the court.[85] "Cost price" is a relative term, necessarily depending for its meaning on the situation of the parties and the circumstances under which it is used.[86] As applied to a retail stock of goods, it usually has reference to the cost at wholesale.[87] The contract providing that the seller should give the purchaser credit for freight, the seller is only entitled to claim such credit as a set-off to an action for the price,[88] and this only after the freight has been paid.[89] The seller may waive the terms of payment[90] or part payment,[91] or the parties may modify them without otherwise disturbing the contract.[92]

A tender of goods to be effectual under a contract must comply in all material respects with the contract, both as to time of delivery and description of the goods.[93] The seller refusing to deliver tender of the price is waived.[94]

§ 10. Remedies of the seller. A. Rescission and retaking of goods or action for conversion. Rescission.[95]—Fraud,[96] and especially fraudulent statements by the buyer as to his solvency,[97] warrant rescission by the seller, and if he elects to so do, he must act promptly on discovering the fraud,[98] neither the breach of another separate contract,[99] nor an attempt by the buyer to change the terms of the

84. Illustrations: Where one agreed to sell flower bulbs at a specified sum less than the price of competitors, held, where price offered by seller was based on the market price of bulbs in his region, that there was no breach of contract. Manda v. Etienne, 93 App. Div. 609, 87 N. Y. S. 588. Contract price being a certain sum less than market value, the latter to be ordinarily determined by the last official quotation of the day, held, latter quotation was not conclusive, and that seller could not be made to take a sum based on less than the actual value of the commodity. American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117. Contract providing for sale of gunstocks of specified dimensions, 30 cents each of the price to be paid "on consignment," and the balance on receipt of the "inspector's report," held if stock consigned conformed to description, seller was entitled to the 30 cents each, though some were rejected on inspection. Cady v. Turnbull [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. One agreeing to pay market price at certain place, evidence of market price at place 10 miles distant therefrom held inadmissible. Bacon Fruit Co. v. Blessing [Ga.] 50 S. E. 139. Where a running account was kept, goods being sold on 30 days' time, the 30 days begins to run, as to each article sold, at the date of invoice. People v. Grant [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1006. The seller writing the buyer that he would sell at the price offered and take stock "in either the G. or D. roads," held, that this did not necessarily mean that the option was to be exercised by the buyer. Aldrich v. Bay State Const. Co., 186 Mass. 489, 72 N. E. 53. See 2 Curr. L. 1553, n. 46.

85. Where one agreed to sell flower bulbs at a specified sum less than the prices of competitors, held, where price offered by seller was based on the market price of bulbs in his region, the question of breach of contract was one of law. Manda v. Etienne, 93 App. Div. 609, 87 N. Y. S. 588.

86, 87. Sylvester v. Ammons [Iowa] 101 N. W. 782.

88, 89. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard, 140 Ala. 252, 37 So. 106.

90. The seller by directing the sale of cotton at 9 cents held to waive his rights under a contract entitling him to the market value of the cotton on the day of sale, and which on such day was 9⅛ cents. American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117.

91. Contract to purchase a piano, payment to be partly in cash, partly in advertising, held, buyer could not repudiate obligation to receive piano and recover cash for advertising done, by reason of the fact that all the advertising contemplated was not done; defendant waiving his right to the balance. Mail & Times Pub. Co. v. Marks [Iowa] 101 N. W. 458.

92. Verbal agreement changing time of payment held simply to modify contract, and that seller might, after latest date for payment mentioned in original agreement, bring suit upon original invoices based upon his book account. Weiss v. Marks, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 602.

93. Books marked with a purchaser's monogram do not comply with a contract not calling for a monogram. Barrie v. King, 105 Ill. App. 426.

94. Hughes v. Knott [N. C.] 50 S. E. 586.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1554.

96. Seller being old and feeble, held bill of sale not conforming to his intention and executed under a misapprehension of its effect would be set aside. Stites v. Stites [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 751.

97. Fraudulent representation as to amount of debts. Zeeman v. Saleburg, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 423. Fraudulent intent is essential. Mere erroneous statement is not ground for rescission. Brown v. Mentzer, 209 Pa. 477, 58 A. 863. An intention even of an insolvent buyer at the time of the purchase not to pay will not amount to fraud, unless some false representation, trick or artifice or conduct which involves a false representation, be added. Reed v. Felmlee, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 37. See 2 Curr. L. 1554, n. 64.

98. Zeeman v. Saleburg, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 423.

99. That purchaser had not paid for goods previously sold. Southern Car Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Scullin-Gallagher Iron & Steel Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 845.

sale,[1] authorize rescission. The seller acquiescing in a continuing breach cannot make the same grounds for a sudden, unconditional, and absolute rescission,[2] but must first give notice of his intention to insist upon compliance with the terms of the contract.[3] The buyer being a bankrupt at the time of rescission, the seller must appear and try the title in the bankruptcy court,[4] and the bankrupt's receiver, taking possession of the property prior to the rescission, is not liable to the seller for conversion if he sells the same under order of the court of bankruptcy.[5] What constitutes a rescission is largely a question of fact.[6] When the seller refuses to take back the property, a tender is not necessary.[7]

Recovery of chattel; replevin.[8]—If the buyer lawfully obtains possession, the property must be demanded before possession can be recovered.[9]

(§ 10) B. Stoppage in transit.[10]—Goods being delivered to a carrier for shipment to the buyer, the seller has the right to stop them in transit in the event of the buyer's insolvency before payment of the purchase price,[11] and if the rights of third persons have not intervened.[12] The exercise of the right of stoppage in transitu does not rescind the sale but simply restores the seller to his right of possession and lien.[13]

(§ 10) C. Lien.[14]—An unpaid vendor has a lien upon the goods so long as they remain in his possession,[15] but in the absence of an express or implied contract

1. John Single Paper Co. v. Hammermill Paper Co., 96 App. Div. 535, 89 N. Y. S. 116.

2. Where purchaser failed to make payments weekly and was solvent. Portland Ice Co. v. Connor, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 493.

3. Portland Ice Co. v. Connor, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 493.

4, 5. In re Mertens, 131 F. 507.

6. Where smoked meat was bought on "buyer's option," held sale by seller of unsmoked meat for the buyer's account was not a rescission of the sale, it being shown that meat was smoked only when it had to be shipped. Bonds v. Lipton Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 805.

7. Bailey v. Manley [Vt.] 59 A. 200.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1556.

9. Boyd v. McArthur, 120 Ga. 974, 48 S. E. 358.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1556.

11. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

NOTE. Right of stoppage in transitu where goods are shipped f. o. b.: No strict rule exists in regard to the right of stoppage in transitu under f. o. b. contracts, as this right depends upon whether the title to the goods has entirely passed from the vendor to the vendee prior to the desired exercise of the right. If the vendor consigns the goods to the vendee upon delivery f. o. b., this in the absence of stronger evidence to the contrary, will be deemed sufficient to pass the title to the vendee at that time, and prohibit any further interference with the goods by the vendor. Cowas-jee v. Thompson, 5 Moore P. C. C. 165, 3 Moore Ind. App. 422. But, on the other hand, if the vendor retains the bill of lading within his own control, or does some other act indicative of an intent to retain the title, it has been held that he has the right of stoppage under proper circumstances. Craven v. Ryder, 6 Taunt. 433, 2 Marsh. 127, Holt, 100, 16 Revised Rep. 644; Ruck v. Hatfield, 5 Barn. & Ald. 632, 24 Revised Rep. 507. A somewhat different theory is presented in Ex parte Rosevear China Clay Co., L. R. 11 Ch. Div. 565, 48 L. J. Bankr. (N. S.) 100, 40 Law T. (N. S.) 730, 27 Week. Rep. 591, 4 Asp. Mar. L. Cas. 144, to the effect that the right of stoppage in transitu remains so long as the goods are in the hands of a common carrier, as such carrier is an intermediate between vendor and vendee until the latter actually receives the goods. See, also, Berndston v. Strang, L. R. 4 Eq. 481, 36 L. J. Ch. (N. S.) 879, 16 Law T. (N. S.) 583, 15 Week. Rep. 1168. However, in all cases, it seems to be a question of the intention of the parties as to the passing of the title to be deduced from the facts in the case, including the language of the contract, manner of delivery, form of bill of lading, etc.

In the only American decision found on this point (Neimeyer Lumber Co. v. Burlington & M. River R. Co., 54 Neb. 321, 74 N. W. 670, 40 L. R. A. 534) it was held, after weighing all the facts in the case, that, under the contract, the title passed upon delivery to the common carrier at the point of shipment, and that, therefore, the vendor thereafter had no control over the goods sufficient to give him any right to a stoppage in transitu. —From note to Lawder & Sons Co. v. Mackie Grocery Co. [Md.] 62 L. R. A. 795, 805 et seq.

12. Where seller has parted with title to the goods sold and has delivered them to a common carrier for the buyer, he has no right of stoppage in transitu after the vendee has transferred the title to another by an assignment of the bill of lading. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

13. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1556.

15. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210; In re Portuondo Co., 135 F. 592; Buskirk Bros. v. Peck [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 432. Where contract for the sale of timber provided for the payment of the

to the contrary,[16] this lien is divested by a voluntary[17] delivery.[18] The indorsement and delivery of a bill of lading is sufficient to divest it.[19] A lien being waived by the extension of credit, it is immediately revived if the seller retains possession after the expiration of the time granted by the extension.[20] Until the seller has relinquished his right of possession to the purchaser, the latter cannot communicate any title to the property so as to defeat the lien.[21] The lien is superior to the title passing to the buyer's trustee in bankruptcy.[22]

A vendor's privilege[23] (recognized in Louisiana) exists only in favor of the owner.[24]

(§ 10) D. Resale.[25]

(§ 10) E. Action for price or on quantum valebat.[26] Right of action and conditions precedent.[27]—The cause of action accrues when the price becomes due,[28] or when conditions precedent have been complied with,[29] but, except where the purchase price is payable irrespective of delivery, repudiation and refusal to accept by the buyer while the contract is still executory does not authorize the action,[30] though the contrary is held in some states.[31]

The contract being executed by delivery and acceptance, the seller may recover the price in indebitatus assumpsit.[32] The count for goods sold and delivered is not applicable to a case where the defendant is a subsequent buyer and there has not been a novation.[33] An agent bringing the action as an individual cannot purchase price before removal, held seller had a lien on property. Id.

Evidence in an action to foreclose a vendor's lien held insufficient to show that defendant ever had any interest in or possession of the chattel. Rosenthal v. Cristal, 91 N. Y. S. 15.

16. Offer of evidence to prove seller's lien held properly excluded, there having been a delivery and there being no offer to prove an agreement to continue the lien. Meyers v. McAllister [Minn.] 103 N. W. 564.

17. Where seller had exercised his right of stoppage in transitu, and the buyer by fraud obtained possession of the property, held, the buyer's transferee did not take legal title to the property. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210.

18. Meyers v. McAllister [Minn.] 103 N. W. 564.

19. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

20. In re Portuondo Co., 135 F. 592.

21. McGill v. Chilhowee Lumber Co. [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 210.

22. In re Portuondo Co., 135 F. 592.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1556.

24. No vendor's privilege arises from the execution by a pledgee under a bill of sale of a counter bill of sale retransferring the pledged property to the owner. Elstner-Martin Grocery Co. v. Lament, 113 La. 894, 37 So. 868.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1557.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1557. Recoupment and counterclaim by purchaser, see post, § 11D.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1557.

28. The contract providing for payment after delivery, the seller is not entitled to recover the price without showing a delivery or refusal to accept. Southern Car Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Scullin-Gallagher Iron & Steel Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 845. Letter by purchaser that if the goods to be manufactured were ready he would take them, though he would prefer not to do so, held not a refusal to accept. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1557, n. 6.

29. One contracting to purchase when an inventory shall have been taken and matters adjusted, he is not liable for the purchase price until the taking of the inventory and the adjustment. Bressler v. Kelly [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 613. Where nursery stock was accepted upon the condition that the buyer would not be liable unless it proved as hardy as certain other stock, action brought within 10 days after delivery is premature. Backes v. Erickson [S. D.] 103 N. W. 21. Buyer of smoke consumer held not liable for the price, notwithstanding good faith of seller. Reed Smokeless Furnace Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 615.

30. Only remedy is an action for damages for breach of contract. Sherman Nursery Co. v. Aughenbaugh [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1101.

31. Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860.

32. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084. See 2 Curr. L. 1558, n. 12.

33. So held in a case where the subsequent buyer assumed a mortgage given by the original buyer for the purchase price, which mortgage had been foreclosed and the subsequent buyer had promised to pay the balance due in consideration of which the seller forebore for a time to take possession of the goods. Miller v. Wilbur, 76 Vt. 73, 56 A. 280. The fact that the seller had fully performed would not affect the case, since general assumpsit, on the theory that plaintiff had fully executed a contract and defendant has nothing to do but pay, applies only where the service performed by plaintiff raises an implied promise to pay therefor, which a mere forbearance to take possession of the goods will not do. Id.

recover.[34] Where the seller bases his right to recover for a balance due upon an express contract, he can only recover by showing performance of the contract on his part, or that the buyer accepted a partial performance as full performance of the contract.[35]

Defenses and election between them.[36]—The seller's default if caused by the buyer is no defense,[37] unless the effect of the buyer's acts has been waived; and extension of the time of performance constitutes such a waiver,[38] and is an acknowledgment that the seller has not completed his contract.[39] The contract being apportionable, the seller is entitled to enforce payment for the quantity delivered regardless of his intention to fully perform his obligation to deliver the remainder.[40] The seller who fails to perform his contract in full may recover compensation for the part performed, less the damage occasioned by his failure,[41] and this is particularly true where the contract is divisible.[42]

A plea of breach of warranty should be one of set-off or recoupment,[43] unless the buyer disaffirms the contract and offers to return the chattel,[44] though a return is unnecessary if the article be valueless.[45] "Valueless" in this connection does not mean that the property is valueless for the particular purpose for which it was bought; it must be intrinsically of no value.[46] Of course, the rule of restoration or offer to so do has no application where the use of the property, in testing its qualities, destroys it or renders it impossible to return it to the seller.[47] In some cases use shows benefit.[48] In the absence of stipulations excluding them,[49] one may rely on damages caused by false representations either by way of defense or recoupment.[50] The rule that the purchaser of a defective article which has

34. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

35. Mead v. Rat Portage Lumber Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 299. Petition in an action to recover for logs sold and delivered held to proceed as upon an express contract. Id. An offer by the purchaser to retain part of the goods not being accepted cannot be made the basis of a recovery for such portion in an action on the entire contract. American Art Metal Novelty Co. v. Bosselman & Co., 91 N. Y. S. 722.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1558.

37. Letters of seller complaining of difficulties interposed by the buyer's agent held incompetent in an action on the contract, because if the things complained of were prejudicial to the seller and were the acts of the buyer proving them, it is sufficient. Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860. See 2 Curr. L. 1558, n. 21.

38, 39. Inman Mfg. Co. v. American Cereal Co., 124 Iowa, 737, 100 N. W. 860.

40. Campbell & Cameron Co. v. Weisse, 121 Wis. 491, 99 N. W. 340. See 2 Curr. L. 1558, n. 23. See ante, § 9, Payment and tender of price as terms of the contract.

41. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 134 N. C. 574, 47 S. E. 116; Mead v. Rat Portage Lumber Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 299.

42. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 134 N. C. 574, 47 S. E. 116; Campbell & Cameron Co. v. Weisse, 121 Wis. 491, 99 N. W. 340.

43. Eastern Granite Roofing Co. v. Chapman & Co., 140 Ala. 440, 37 So. 199. The buyer accepting the goods before discovering the breach of warranty is only entitled to a counterclaim for such damages as naturally result from the breach. Lenz v. Blake-McFall Co., 44 Or. 569, 76 P. 356. See 2 Curr. L. 1558, n. 25.

44. Cluster Gaslight Co. v. Baker, 90 N. Y. S. 1034. Leaving threshing machine at roadside and telling neighbor to tell seller if he saw him, held not a tender or return of the property. Crenshaw v. Looker [Mo.] 84 S. W. 885.

45. Eastern Granite Roofing Co. v. Chapman & Co., 140 Ala. 440, 37 So. 199; Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 857.

46. Eastern Granite Roofing Co. v. Chapman & Co., 140 Ala. 440, 37 So. 199; Crenshaw v. Looker [Mo.] 84 S. W. 885; Heimann v. Hatcher Mercantile Co., 106 Mo. App. 438, 80 S. W. 729.

47. Eastern Granite Roofing Co. v. Chapman & Co., 140 Ala. 440, 37 So. 199 [dicta].

48. In an action for the price of an electric light plant, there being evidence that the buyer had used the same for several months, held proper to refuse defendant's prayer that there was no legally sufficient evidence that he had derived benefit therefrom. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753.

49. The contract stipulating that the sale was made under representations therein expressed and no others, the buyer cannot defend on the ground that he was induced to enter into the contract by the false representations of the seller's agent, there being nothing to show that the buyer was deceived as to the contents of the contract. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Biggers, 121 Ga. 381, 49 S. E. 271.

50. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753.

been accepted after inspection will not be allowed to set up failure of consideration will not be extended to a case where the purchaser could have but did not inspect the article.[51] Unless the seller aids or participates in the illegal purpose, mere knowledge on his part that the property sold will or may be used for an illegal purpose is no defense.[52] Failure of title is no defense where the chattel is taken from the buyer under a default judgment, it not appearing that the seller was notified of the action or that there was any defect in the title acquired at the sale.[53] That the buyer was persuaded to make an improvident purchase,[54] or negligence of seller in sending the bill of lading,[55] is not a defense.

The complaint.[56]—An allegation, in general terms, of an indebtedness in a sum certain[57] for goods sold and delivered[58] at the place specified,[59] and according to the terms of sale, is a sufficient statement of a cause of action.[60] Defects in pleading an acceptance or tender may be cured by the answer.[61] An allegation

51. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 148.

52. Intoxicating liquor sold keeper of a house of ill fame. Washington Liquor Co. v. Shaw [Wash.] 80 P. 636.

NOTE. Illegal use of the property as a defense: In order to invalidate the sale, there must be a union of intent between the vendor and vendee. It is not sufficient that the vendor was indifferent and did not care what was the intent of his vendee, or was put upon inquiry concerning it, or that he had actual knowledge of it. Dater v. Earl, 3 Gray [Mass.] 482; Gaylord v. Soragen, 32 Vt. 110, 76 Am. Dec. 154; Tracy v. Talmange, 14 N. Y. 162, 67 Am. Dec. 132; Labbe v. Corbett, 69 Tex. 503; Tuttle v. Holland, 43 Vt. 542; Braunn v. Keally, 146 Pa. 519, 28 Am. St. Rep. 811. At least in all cases in which the property might be lawfully resold in the state into which it is shipped, no presumption will be indulged, in the absence of evidence on the subject, that the vendor united with the vendee in any illegal purpose or intent. Wagner v. Breed, 29 Neb. 720-733; King v. Fries, 33 Mich. 275. But the fact that the vendor had knowledge of the vendee's unlawful intent may properly be taken into consideration by the jury in connection with other evidence as tending to prove that the vendor participated in the illegal purpose of his vendee. Tegler v. Shipman, 33 Iowa, 194, 11 Am. Rep. 118. The vendor cannot be held to have participated in the unlawful intent, and the acts required to carry it out, from the fact that he did acts necessary to complete the sale and deliver the property, and that, as a result therefrom, it necessarily followed that the property reached the vendee, and he was thereby enabled to effectuate the known illegal intent with which the purchase was made. Hill v. Spear, 50 N. H. 253, 9 Am. Rep. 205; Tuttle v. Holland, 43 Vt. 542; Feineman v. Sachs, 33 Kan. 621, 52 Am. Rep. 547; Jameson v. Gregory, 4 Metc. [Ky.] 363; Webber v. Donnelly, 33 Mich. 469; Kerwin v. Doran, 29 Mo. App. 397; Braunn v. Keally, 146 Pa. 519, 28 Am. St. Rep. 811. In harmony with these decisions are those determining that if property is sold with knowledge that the purchaser intended to use it in a house kept by him for purposes of prostitution (Mahood v. Tealza, 26 La. Ann. 108, 21 Am. Rep. 546); or to engage with it in the military service of the Confederate States during the Rebellion (Wallace v. Lark, 12 S. C. 576, 32 Am. Rep. 516; Tedder v. Odom, 2 Heisk. [Tenn.] 68, 5 Am. Rep. 25; Id., 4 Heisk. [Tenn.] 668; McGavock v. Puryear, 6 Cold. [Tenn.] 34; Hedges v. Wallace, 2 Bush [Ky.] 442, 92 Am. Dec. 497; Brunswick v. Valleau, 50 Iowa, 120, 32 Am. Rep. 119); or to employ it in a gambling house when the conducting of such house is forbidden by law (Michael v. Bacon, 49 Mo. 474, 8 Am. Rep. 138; Beckel v. Sheets, 24 Ind. 1; Rose v. Mitchell, 6 Cold. [Tenn.] 102, 45 Am. Rep. 520). Possibly the decisions respecting the sale of property known to be intended for use by the enemy during the Rebellion were not well considered, for it is doubtless the judgment of the Federal courts that this was a practical aiding and abetting of a crime of so heinous a nature that no action can be sustained in any of our courts founded upon a contract connected with it. Hanauer v. Doane, 12 Wall. [U. S.] 342, 20 Law. Ed. 439; Lightfoot v. Tenant, 1 Bos. & P. 551, 556; Wood v. Stone, 2 Cold. [Tenn.] 368, 88 Am. Dec. 601.—From note to Graves v. Johnson [Mass.] 32 Am. St. Rep. 446.

53. Maul v. Pfeiffer, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 280.

54. Powell v. Price [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 924.

55. Greif & Bro. v. Seligman [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 533.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1559.

57. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314. Complaint must allege value or agreed price. Macksond v. Dildarian, 93 N. Y. S. 382. Reference to a bill of particulars in which it is alleged are "detailed certain payments" held not to amount to an allegation of value. Id.

58. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314. See 2 Curr. L. 1559, n. 30.

59. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Midvale Min. & Mfg. Co., 105 Mo. App. 644, 80 S. W. 13.

60. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

61. So held where the answer showed that refusal to receive was not based on violation of agreement to deliver at a certain place. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Midvale Min. & Mfg. Co., 105 Mo. App. 644, 80 S. W. 13. Tacit admission in answer that terms of agreement were fully agreed upon held to cure any defect in the petition in that it failed to allege acquiescence by plaintiff in the terms of defendant's acceptance. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1559, n. 31.

that defendant received and accepted the goods carries with it the implication that the goods were of the kind and quality warranted.[62] In the absence of objection or injury, the fact that an allegation in the complaint does not properly describe the transaction does not preclude recovery.[63]

Answer, counterclaim and reply.[64]—The answer setting up breach of contract must show that such contract is the one sued on.[65] Breach of warranty being set up, the answer must allege in what respect the goods were defective.[66] If plaintiff alleges a failure to pay, a denial of such allegation is proper as part of a defense of payment.[67] In order to recover damages, defendant must claim and prove them.[68]

Unliquidated damages growing out of the alleged breach of a contract other than that sued upon and in no wise connected therewith cannot be set up as a counterclaim.[69] In Iowa the demurrer to a defensively pleaded breach of warranty must specify the grounds of objection.[70]

Affirmative matter in an answer which tends merely to deny the allegations of the complaint is not new matter requiring a reply.[71] Failure to reply may be waived by proceeding to trial.[72]

The general rules as to departure,[73] irrelevancy,[74] pleading conclusions of law,[75] and sufficiency of affidavits of defense,[76] apply. Sufficiency of pleadings in particular cases are stated in the notes.[77]

Proof.[78]—To warrant a judgment in his favor, the seller must prove either an agreement to pay a specific price, or the fair market value of the goods.[79] An

62. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Midvale Min. & Mfg. Co., 105 Mo. App. 644, 80 S. W. 13.

63. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1559.

65. Mere coincidence of date is insufficient. Seelav v. McKenzie, 92 N. Y. S. 350.

66. Vogel v. Moore [Ky.] 84 S. W. 557.

67. Flournoy v. Osgood, 90 N. Y. S. 972.

68. Where no counterclaim was interposed, and the amount of damages sustained by defendant was not shown, he was properly refused an instruction that he was entitled to have furnished him materials of good, substantial character. Kertscher v. Picken, 88 N. Y. S. 384.

69. Higbie v. Rust, 211 Ill. 333, 71 N. E. 1010.

70. Under Code, § 3562, a demurrer to an answer in an action for the price, the answer setting up breach of warranty and rescission, "that said alleged defense contains no allegations which entitle the defendants to rescind said contract," held insufficient. Timkem Carriage Co. v. Smith & Co., 123 Iowa, 554, 99 N. W. 183.

71. The complaint alleged the sale and delivery to defendant of goods of the "agreed and reasonable value of $124." The answer admitted the sale and delivery but denied that the agreed value was $124, alleging that such value was $50, held not new matter requiring a reply. King v. Burnham [Minn.] 101 N. W. 302.

72. By proceeding to trial without replying to counterclaim for damages for delivery of defective goods, held defendant waived failure to reply. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066.

73. The complaint alleging an indebtedness in a sum certain for goods sold, and the replication setting out an agreement for an extension of time and for security, and defendant's failure to give security, such allegations do not amount to a departure. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

74. A paragraph in the answer denying that certain property was excluded from the property paid for, held not subject to a motion to strike on the ground of irrelevancy. Flournoy v. Osgood, 90 N. Y. S. 972. Such property being described in the complaint as "merchandise," held proper to deny that they were merchandise. Id.

75. The contract requiring the giving of a bond, a plea that plaintiff had not given the "bond mentioned" held demurrable as a conclusion of law. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard, 140 Ala. 252, 37 So. 106.

76. Plaintiff's statement not alleging delivery, the affidavit of defense need not deny that defendant received the goods. Friel v. Custer, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 466. Affidavit of defense alleging that liquors sold were impure and that defendant suffered damage because thereof is sufficient. Rheinstrom v. Wolf, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 559. Affidavit of defense setting up breach of warranty held sufficient. Rakestraw v. Woodward, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 165.

77. Counterclaim setting up breach of contract held insufficient in that it did not show that the seller was obliged to continue to sell to defendant. Hughes Paint & Glass Co. v. Wright [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 919. Plea that contract was obtained through misrepresentation held not objectionable in that it failed to allege that misrepresentation was of a material fact, and was relied on to defendant's injury. Brenard Mfg. Co. v. Citronelle Mercantile Co., 140 Ala. 602, 37 So. 509. Replication to answer alleging false representations held demurrable. Id.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1560.

79. Meyer v. Jewell, 88 N. Y. S. 972.

offer by the purchaser to compromise the claim involves an admission of the delivery of the goods and of their value, up to the amount of the offer;[80] hence, in the absence of other evidence of value, the recovery cannot exceed the amount of the offer.[81]

Variance.[82]—In an action for the price, the seller cannot recover on a quantum valebat.[83] The plaintiff is not generally held to strict proof as to the date of sale as set forth in the bill of particulars.[84] Where defendant pleads that the article was not to be delivered until called for, he cannot contend that the order had been countermanded.[85]

Presumptions and burden of proof.[86]—Only those presumptions of fact are recognized which are immediate inferences of facts proved.[87] Where the sale or the performance thereof is evidenced by letters, the usual presumption that they were received without alteration applies,[88] and the burden rests on the party alleging the mailing to show by a preponderance of evidence that the letter was in fact sent.[89] Defendant not being the purchaser, the seller must prove his liability.[90] The purchaser[91] must prove his allegations of fraud,[92] breach of warranty,[93] and failure of consideration.[94] If he relies on a false representation, he must prove its falsity and materiality.[95]

Evidence; admissibility and sufficiency.[96]—As the familiar rules of evidence[97] determine the questions of relevancy and competency, illustrations only are given.[98] A witness may refresh his memory as to the price of a commodity at a giv-

80, 81. Hopkins v. Rodgers, 91 N. Y. S. 749.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1561.

83. The buyer reselling a few goods before discovering that they were inferior to sample, and the seller suing for breach of contract to recover the entire price is not entitled to recover the value of the few articles sold by defendant, on failure to recover the whole sum. Hess v. Corwin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 141.

84. Buckeye Buggy Co. v. Dickey [Ga.] 50 S. E. 66. But see 2 Curr. L. 1562, n. 90.

85. National Cash Register Co. v. Hill, 136 N. C. 272, 48 S. E. 637.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1562.

87. In an action for the breach of a contract for the purchase of oranges, evidence that some dwarfed and immature fruit had dropped from the trees and decayed on the ground, and had been picked up by plaintiff, does not warrant an inference that such fruit had been delivered to defendant under the contract. Bill v. Fuller [Cal.] 79 P. 592.

88. That printed modification was still attached to contract. McArdle v. Thames Iron Works, 96 App. Div. 139, 89 N. Y. S. 485; Merchants' Exch. Co. v. Sanders [Ark.] 84 S. W. 786. Evidence held insufficient to overcome such presumption. Id.

89. Brown v. Harris [Mich.] 102 N. W. 960.

90. Must show a connection between him and purchaser. Hardeman v. Bell, 120 Ga. 342, 47 S. E. 919.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1562.

92. National Cash Register Co. v. Townsend Grocery Store [N. C.] 50 S. E. 306.

93. Purity Ice Co. v. Hawley Furnace Co., 22 App. D. C. 573. B. & C. Comp. § 799. Lenz v. Blake-McFall Co., 44 Or. 569, 76 P. 356. Must prove the making and breach thereof. Dean Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230.

94. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 227.

95. Brenard Mfg. Co. v. Citronelle Mercantile Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 509.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1562.

97. See Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.

Parol evidence, see ante, § 4.

98. The contract simply calling for "good" potatoes, evidence as to whether potatoes were of good, sound, white stock held inadmissible. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Also evidence of what kind of soil they were grown in held inadmissible. Id. Where beets were sold by plaintiff to defendant by the ton and there was a dispute as to correctness of weighing, and it was agreed that next year's cars should be weighed and be determinative, but at such time the defendant refused to take the cars as improperly loaded, held evidence of the condition of the scales the first year was admissible. Oliver v. Oregon Sugar Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1086. Conceding that the compromise agreement admitted the inaccuracy of the scales, the admission of the testimony is harmless. Id. Where hay was sold according to "baler's weights," held proper to exclude evidence showing weight of hay on buyer's scales. Colorado Trading & Transfer Co. v. Oliver [Colo. App.] 78 P. 308.

The material question being conformity of goods to order, held evidence that it was impossible for defendants to use certain small pieces of the goods delivered was irrelevant. Brown v. Harris [Mich.] 102 N. W. 960.

Books of account held admissible to show real purchaser. Love v. Ramsey [Mich.] 102 N. W. 279. Corporation's cash book and ledger held inadmissible for same purpose. Cook v. Williams, 85 N. Y. S. 1123. Order book held admissible to show existence of order. Oltarsh v. Lewis, 88 N. Y. S. 127. Unsigned carbon copy of contract held admissible against person dictating same. Pacific en time by reference to a newspaper proven to be recognized by tradesmen as the standard authority on the price of such commodity.[99]

The evidence must preponderate[1] to establish the sale between the parties,[2] its terms,[3] warranties and representations,[4] the performance or breach thereof,[5] or any defense set up,[6] the cases cited being illustrative of this rule.

Export Lumber Co. v. North Pacific Lumber Co. [Or.] 80 P. 105.

Petition in another suit held admissible as an admission, though prepared by counsel and not signed by defendant. Greif & Bro. v. Seligman [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 533.

The question in controversy being delivery and acceptance, evidence as to overtures of compromise and an attempt to settle after delivery is inadmissible. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

Custom: In an action for the purchase price of tobacco, defendant introducing evidence that tobacco was improperly dampened by water, held proper for plaintiff to show in rebuttal that it was a common practice to so treat tobacco and that it was not prejudicial to its quality or condition. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

Where seller was required to give a bond, held erroneous to permit defendant to testify that cashier of bank told him no bond had been filed with the bank, the declaration not being in the usual course of business. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard, 140 Ala. 252, 37 So. 106. Where defense was failure to file a bond and credit freight as required by the contract, evidence that defendant notified plaintiff of the rescission of the contract held immaterial. Id. Where defense was breach of warranty, held error to permit witness to testify that he had set up other machines of the same make and character as that sold and never had any complaints. Haynie v. Plano Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 532. Defense in an action for the price of decalcomanias being that the goods were defective, it is competent to show that the same goods when skilfully handled at another factory were satisfactory. Blair v. Ford China Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 374. Evidence of what the buyer paid others under contracts for similar stone held inadmissible as not tending to prove market price at place of delivery. Nugent v. Armour Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 506.

On an issue as to the value and contract price, evidence that bills were rendered the buyer and retained by him without objection, and of the price at which such merchandise sold on the exchange, is admissible. Blanding v. Cohen, 101 App. Div. 442, 92 N. Y. S. 93.

Evidence that third party simply claimed interest in the proceeds and that his claim had been satisfied was admissible. Randall v. Ditch, 123 Iowa, 582, 99 N. W. 190. In an action for the price of an electric plant, held proper to permit expert witness to state of his own knowledge the character of the dynamo and the amount of lights it was capable of lighting. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753. Also held proper to permit the seller to ask his experts in rebuttal as to their opinion on what defendant's experts had declared to be defects. Id. In such a case where defendant's experts testified that the coupling was too short, held proper on cross-examination to ask if the room was large enough for a larger coupling, though it appeared that the room had been selected by plaintiff. Id.

Testimony of agents: Evidence that agent of plaintiffs, who was connected with the business of defendant to protect plaintiffs' interests, that an abbreviation in the name of the consignor stood for a firm other than plaintiffs, held admissible. Campbell v. Emslie, 91 N. Y. S. 1069. Defense being false representations, held proper to allow witness to testify to representations of traveling salesman. Brenard Mfg. Co. v. Citronelle Mercantile Co., 140 Ala. 602, 37 So. 509. Testimony of seller's salesman that goods complained of were not those sold by him held competent. Vogel v. Moore [Ky.] 84 S. W. 557.

See 2 Curr. L. 1562, n. 7.

99. Blanding v. Cohen, 101 App. Div. 442, 92 N. Y. S. 93.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1563.

2. Evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that the goods were not sold by plaintiffs, but that they were consigned to defendant by another firm. Campbell v. Emslie, 91 N. Y. S. 1069. See 2 Curr. L. 1564, n. 9.

3. Evidence held sufficient to show a sale on approval. Leiffer v. Post, 88 N. Y. S. 1007. Evidence held insufficient to show a sale on approval. Chester Gaslight Co. v. Baker, 88 N. Y. S. 389. Evidence held sufficient to show that defendant contracted to buy a certain quantity of articles, plaintiff to have up to a certain time to make delivery. Jaques & Son v. Parker Bros. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 301. Evidence held sufficient to support a finding that an extra pump head was furnished under an agreement that there should be no extra charge for it. Boothe v. Squaw Springs Water Co., 142 Cal. 573, 76 P. 385. See 2 Curr. L. 1564, n. 10.

4. Evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that purchase-money notes were executed in reliance on seller's agent's statement that he would make everything right. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Caldwell, 26 Ky. L. R. 136, 80 S. W. 1099. See 2 Curr. L. 1564, n. 11.

5. The fact that the buyer resold at a profit may be considered by the jury on the question of whether or not there was a breach of warranty. Dean Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230. Evidence held insufficient to entitle defendant to go to the jury on the defense of breach of warranty that threshing machine outfit was new, free from defects, etc. Davis v. Case Threshing Mach. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 235, 80 S. W. 1145. That persons to whom staves had been resold rendered bills for scaling the same on account of their narrowness is not evidence that the staves were not of contract width. Dinwiddie & Co. v. Nash [Ky.] 86 S. W. 517. Contract for the construction of a tank, evidence held insufficient to support a judgment for plaintiff. Isseks v. Nelson, 91 N. Y. S. 756. Evidence held sufficient to sustain a

Trial and instructions.[7]—The general principles of trials[8] and instructions[9] are treated elsewhere. Particular cases hereunder discuss the applicability of the instructions to the case as defined by its issues,[10] and their sufficiency to fairly present such issues[11] without misleading the jury.[12] Questions to the jury must not be multifarious.[13]

Questions of fraud,[14] existence of agreement to pay,[15] and terms of the contract,[16] are generally for the jury,[17] unless there is no conflict in the evidence.[18] The general rule applies that findings must be consistent,[19] and not based on conjecture.[20]

The evidence tending strongly to show fraud on the part of the seller, it is error to direct a verdict for him.[21] There being sufficient evidence to make a prima facie case, at least as to some of the articles alleged to have been sold, it is error to grant a nonsuit.[22] finding that the buyer broke the contract. Fish v. Spicer [Conn.] 60 A. 696. Evidence held sufficient to show that the purchaser gave shipping directions. Goldstein v. Nathan, 88 N. Y. S. 980. See 2 Curr. L. 1564, n. 12.

6. In an action to recover for goods sold and delivered, evidence held sufficient to sustain the defense of payment. Hawver v. Ingalls [Minn.] 101 N. W. 604.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1564.

8. See Trial, 2 Curr. L. 1907.

9. See Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133.

10. The answer specifically setting forth the requirements of the horses sold, it is not error to fail to charge that, in accordance with the terms of the contract, they must compare favorably with those previously sold. Stafford v. Christian [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 595. Where the defense is framed to the measure of damages for breach of warranty of the fitness of the article sold, it is misleading to instruct the jury on the measure of damages for the breach of a warranty of quality. Lander v. Sheehan [Mont.] 79 P. 406. Held error to submit an issue as to whether goods should be examined on arrival and accepted or rejected before taken from car, where written contract contained no such agreement. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Instructions as to the proper course to be pursued by a buyer who has accepted goods and afterwards discovered that they were not of the quality contracted for were not inapplicable. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084. See 2 Curr. L. 1564, n. 17.

Counterclaim setting up damages for breach of contract, held defendant's indebtedness to plaintiff was properly submitted to the jury. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 134 N. C. 574, 47 S. E. 116.

11. In an action for the price due under an alleged sale of a business to a partnership, held instructions fairly presented the issues. Borum v. Allen [Ky.] 84 S. W. 760.

12. Plaintiff contracted to sell a quantity of rubblestone to defendant, and at defendant's request furnished a different kind of stone. In an action to recover for this stone, plaintiff testified that he had been paid for the rubble furnished, and the court charged that, if plaintiff recovered, he was entitled to the reasonable market value of the stone so furnished; held not misleading. Nugent v. Armour Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 506.

13. In an action for the purchase price of potatoes, the question submitted to the jury: "Were all the potatoes furnished by plaintiff to defendant of the kind and quality agreed to be furnished?" was not multifarious. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066.

14. Question as to whether by fraud or mistake the contract sued on did not contain the whole agreement between the parties held one for the jury. Becker Co. v. Alvey [Ky.] 86 S. W. 974.

15. As to whether there was any agreement to pay for gravel held a question for the jury. Douglas v. New York, etc., R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 723.

16. Upon a sale of beets by the ton, the amount delivered being disputed and a compromise agreement being affected, whereby the cars were to be reloaded and weighed, held a question for the jury whether a certain car was intended as a substitute for one of the cars specified in the agreement. Oliver v. Oregon Sugar Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1086.

17. Evidence held to warrant submission of case to the jury. Catlett v. Brookhaven Lumber Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 329.

18. Where hay was sold according to "baler's weights," and according thereto was of the quantity alleged in the complaint, the payments made were as therein stated, and the balance due was as therein claimed; held there was no question for the jury. Colorado Trading & Transfer Co. v. Oliver [Colo. App.] 78 P. 308.

19. The contract being modified, a finding that the work was completed according to the original contract held harmless. Boothe v. Squaw Springs Water Co., 142 Cal. 573, 76 P. 385.

20. Where counterclaim sets up loss occasioned by the delivery of potatoes which soon rotted and ruined good potatoes with which they were placed, held, seller could not complain that a verdict that 50 bushels so lost was based on conjecture, because the undisputed evidence showed that 75 bushels were so destroyed. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066.

21. Cox v. Indiana Drug & Specialty Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 835.

22. Buckeye Buggy Co. v. Dickey [Ga.] 50 S. E. 66.

(§ 10) F. Action for breach.[23]—To recover damages the vendor must show that he has complied with the terms of the contract,[24] unless the buyer refuses to perform his part before the time of performance by the seller has arrived, in which case the latter need not tender performance,[25] though he must show that he was able to have performed the contract if the buyer had not repudiated it.[26]

That plaintiff bases his right to recovery upon an erroneous theory does not necessarily bar his right of recovery.[27] Plaintiff claiming as part of his damages the loss sustained by compliance with a provision restricting the sale to defendant is not required to serve a bill of particulars specifying the names and addresses of the different dealers whose trade was thus lost.[28] Instructions requiring seller to prove nonexistence of any defect in addition to proof of a rejection regardless of defects are erroneous.[29] The general rules as to instructions,[30] the admissibility[31] and sufficiency[32] of evidence, apply; illustrations alone are given.

(§ 10) G. Choice and election of remedies.[33]—On breach of a contract of sale by the buyer, the seller is entitled, after everything necessary to vest title in the buyer has been done, to store or retain the goods for the buyer's benefit, and recover the contract price;[34] or he may resell them, his recovery in such case being the difference between the contract price and the net proceeds of the resale;[35] or if he does not care to adopt either of these courses, he is entitled to recover the difference between the contract price and the market price or

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1566.

24. Shreveport Cotton Oil Co. v. Friedlander, 112 La. 1059, 36 So. 853. Contract for the sale of by-products of oil mill held not indivisible, so that the seller could withhold part of the output and obtain damages from the buyer for not accepting the remainder. Id. Contract construed and refusal of the seller to recognize an assignment by the buyer, held not to constitute a breach thereof so as to preclude him from recovering for the buyer's subsequent breach. Allen v. Field [C. C. A.] 130 F. 641. Evidence held sufficient to show performance by the plaintiff of his part of the contract within the specified time. Wright v. Thomas & P. Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 462.

25. Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43; Kinkead v. Lynch, 132 F. 692; Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64.

26. Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43. Where it appeared that the buyer had contracts for the goods which his sellers were able to perform held sufficient. Id. Plaintiff may show that though he did not have the goods he was able to procure them. Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64.

27. Where a complaint was erroneously framed on the theory that the contract was not one of sale but was one containing covenants, but contained an allegation of damages based on the rule applied to breach of a contract of sale, held, plaintiff was entitled to recover such damages. Schott Co. v. Stone, 35 Wash. 252, 77 P. 192.

28. Armstrong v. Heide, 90 N. Y. S. 372.

29. Parkins v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1013.

30. Where the buyer refused to accept the property and two tenders were made, the evidence, in an action for damages, being directed entirely to the sufficiency of the second tender, an instruction authorizing a recovery on the first is erroneous. Redhead Bros. v. Wyoming Cattle Inv. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 144. See Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133.

31. Where buyer refused to carry out sale of ties, held evidence that some of the ties that defendant afterwards purchased were a part of the lot plaintiff had bought to fill defendant's order was inadmissible, it not being contended that there were not some good ties in the lot. Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64. In an action for damages for buyer's failure to accept the goods, evidence as to the manner in which the seller removed the goods held irrelevant. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Steel & Iron Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205.

32. In an action for damages for buyer's refusal to accept part of the goods, evidence held sufficient to justify submission to the jury of defendant's right to a set-off for failure of goods received to conform to contract requirements. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1567. See, also, Election and Waiver, 3 Curr. L. 1177.

34. Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43; American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117; Levy v. Glassberg, 92 N. Y. S. 50; Mayberry v. Lilly Mill Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401; Schott Co. v. Stone, 35 Wash. 252, 77 P. 192. See 2 Curr. L. 1567, n. 69.

Evidence held to show that the seller had elected to retain the goods as the property of the purchaser. Levy v. Glassberg, 92 N. Y. S. 50.

35. Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43; American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117; Levy v. Glassberg, 92 N. Y. S. 50; Mayberry v. Lilly Mill Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401; Schott Co. v. Stone, 35 Wash. 252, 77 P. 192.

value at the time and place of delivery fixed by the contract.[36] If the seller elect to resell, the weight of authority is to the effect that notice to the buyer is necessary.[37] The seller having a lien on the property may waive the same and sue for the price.[38] When the buyer refuses to receive the property, a claim to recover the contract price and one to recover damages for breach of the contract are consistent and concurrent remedies.[39] The title being retained by the seller and the property delivered, he may waive the provision as to title and elect to sue for the purchase price,[40] and the bringing of an action for the purchase price is such a waiver.[41] Title not having passed, the giving of a notice to store and resell does not preclude an action for the breach.[42] Suit for the purchase money on a contract of sale is an affirmance of the sale and a waiver of any claim that the seller was induced to part with the property by fraud,[43] but such action being one wherein owing to peculiar conditions recovery could not be had, it will not bar the action in tort,[44] nor is such action in tort barred by the retention of past-due notes,[45] or by proving such notes in bankruptcy proceedings against the buyer.[46] One who brings an action of attachment against a party accused of fraud in obtaining goods affirms the sale to him and waives the tort.[47]

§ 11. Remedies of purchaser. A. Rescission.[48]—Fraud[49] or false material representations[50] in the procurement of the contract is ground for rescission by the buyer, but the fraud must be clearly alleged and, if denied, fully sustained by proof.[51] Breach of warranty is also a ground for rescission,[52] even though part of the goods sold have been disposed of,[53] and the contract provides that upon such breach the article may be returned and exchanged;[54] but all conditions

36. Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43; American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117; Levy v. Glassberg, 92 N. Y. S. 50; Mayberry v. Lilly Mill Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401; Schott Co. v. Stone, 35 Wash. 252, 77 P. 192. See 2 Curr. L. 1567, n. 70.

37. Kellogg v. Frohlich [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1057; Mayberry v. Lilly Mill Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401.

Contra, Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43.

38. Provision that hay was to be paid for before removed held to create a lien in favor of the seller, which lien was waived by assent to a violation of its conditions. Allen v. Rushfort [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1028.

39. Seller suing to recover the price may amend his petition so as to state an action for damages. Redhead Bros. v. Wyoming Cattle Inv. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 144.

40. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Mahon [N. D.] 101 N. W. 903. Rev. Codes 1899, § 4988, is not applicable to such a case. Id.

41. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Mahon [N. D.] 101 N. W. 903.

42. Habeler v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 43.

43. See Standard Sew. Mach. Co. v. Alexander, 68 S. C. 506, 47 S. E. 711.

44. Where judgment could not be obtained therein because of bankruptcy proceedings. Standard Sew. Mach. Co. v. Alexander, 68 S. C. 506, 47 S. E. 711.

45, 46. Standard Sew. Mach. Co. v. Alexander, 68 S. C. 506, 47 S. E. 711.

47. Ermeling v. Gibson Canning Co., 105 Ill. App. 196.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1568.

49. Conde Implement Co. v. Grigsby & Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 768, 82 S. W. 458. Mere silence on the part of a seller as to defects of which he knows the bidder is ignorant is not such fraud as would avoid the contract of sale; but silent acquiescence in the false statement of an auctioneer makes it a false averment of the seller, and the rule of caveat emptor does not apply. Disease of cattle. Dayton v. Kidder, 105 Ill. App. 107. Where answer in an action for the price failed to allege fraud or that the property was worthless, held error to submit question of rescission to the jury. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co. v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1063. See 2 Curr. L. 1568, n. 86.

50. Though made in ignorance of falsity. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co. v. Nolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 821. That seller had not sold similar goods to anyone else in town. Id. Notwithstanding provision in contract that separate agreements with salesman were not binding on seller. Pratt v. Darling [Wis.] 103 N. W. 229. See 2 Curr. L. 1568, n. 85.

51. Wilson v. Maxon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 123.

52. Timken Carriage Co. v. Smith & Co., 123 Iowa, 554, 99 N. W. 183; Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 317, 81 S. W. 261. The purchaser of goods on receiving the last instalment, finding that they are not according to sample, has a right to rescind the agreement. American Art Metal Novelty Co. v. Bosselman & Co., 91 N. Y. S. 722.

53. Where there was an implied warranty and the buyer was under no obligation to inspect the goods. Burch v. Weil Bros. & Bauer [Ark.] 80 S. W. 582.

54. Berkey v. Lefebure & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 710.

precedent, such as notice,[55] must be complied with. The buyer being in default, he has no right to rescind for the refusal of the seller to perform.[56] It being agreed that the chattel, if unsatisfactory, might be returned within a specified time, the purchaser is entitled to the whole of the last day.[57]

Unless the article be entirely worthless,[58] rescission involves the obligation to return the property to the seller,[59] with reasonable promptness after discovery of the fraud or breach,[60] unless the buyer before the time for return declares that he will not receive the goods,[61] or the buyer retains possession on the promise of the seller to remedy the defect.[62] The buyer's long delay puts the burden upon him to show why the defect in the goods had not been sooner discovered, and the goods promptly returned.[63] The contract providing for the return of the chattel but failing to specify any place, the implication is that it must be offered to the seller at the place where the purchase was effected.[64]

The buyer surrendering all his right, title and interest in the property to the seller, there is a complete rescission,[65] but if the seller refuse to accept, the buyer need not abandon the property, but may do such acts as are necessary to preserve and keep it.[66] When the contract is rescinded, it must be upon equitable terms, and as far as practicable, the court must place the parties in statu quo,[67] and the parties cannot by previous contract alter this rule,[68] but, though the buyer cannot place the seller in statu quo, he is, nevertheless, entitled to com-

55. Where contract provided for notice. Larson v. Minneapolis Threshing Machine Co., 92 Minn. 62, 99 N. W. 623.

56. Mason v. Edward Thompson Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 507.

57. A return between 9 and 10 o'clock P. M. of the last day held sufficient. Cornell v. Fox, 95 App. Div. 71, 88 N. Y. S. 482.

58. Harris v. Daly, 121 Ga. 511, 49 S. E. 609; Rumsey v. Shaw, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 386.

59. Harris v. Daly, 121 Ga. 511, 49 S. E. 609; Rumsey v. Shaw, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 386. Disregard of this rule held to warrant a new trial. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1569, n. 94.

60. Pound v. Williams, 119 Ga. 904, 47 S. E. 218; Blair v. Ford China Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 374. Retention and use of an article after discovery of fraud by which the sale was induced precludes a rescission. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 857. In such case his only remedy is to sue for breach of warranty, or to interpose the latter claim by way of counterclaim in an action for the price. Thomas China Co. v. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25. Two month's use of heating apparatus warranted to heat the house to a certain temperature in the coldest weather held not to preclude rescission for breach of warranty. Economy Furnace Co. v. Blachley [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1123.

61. Cornell v. Fox, 95 App. Div. 71, 88 N. Y. S. 482. See 2 Curr. L. 1569, n. 97-99.

62. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Caldwell, 26 Ky. L. R. 136, 80 S. W. 1099.

63. Blair v. Ford China Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 374.

64. Cornell v. Fox, 95 App. Div. 71, 88 N. Y. S. 482.

65. Milner & Kettig Co. v. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co., 139 Ala. 645, 36 So. 765. A complaint alleging the sale, warranty and that if warranty was broken, the article could be returned and another demanded, and also alleging the breach of the warranty, return of the article and demand for the other, and that there was a failure of consideration, held to allege, in effect, a rescission. Berkey v. Lefebure & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 710. Complaint alleging that plaintiff returned a horse which he had purchased from defendant and demanded a return of his money on the ground of misrepresentations, and that the defendant accepted and retained the horse and promised to repay the money, which he has failed to do, held to show a complete rescission and to state a cause of action for the price paid. Kendall v. Hardebeck [Ind.] 71 N. E. 957. A return of the goods to an authorized agent of the seller and the latter's receipt held insufficient to show an agreement to rescind or right or election of the purchaser to rescind. Keystone Mfg. Co. v. Hampton [Ala.] 37 So. 552. See 2 Curr. L. 1572, n. 46.

66. Where horse sold was placed in livery stable on seller's refusal to accept his return, held occasional use by the buyer did not waive effect of rescission. Faust v. Koers [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 278. Where, upon breach of a warranty in a sale of a horse, the buyer returned the same but the seller refused to take it, threatening to turn it loose, and thereupon the buyer retained possession, held to show a rescission. Berkey v. Lefebure & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 710.

67. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Caldwell, 26 Ky. L. R. 136, 80 S. W. 1099. Upon rescission by the purchaser, held, profits made with machine bought and damages to such machine should be credited against the value of the old machine taken by the seller in part payment. Id.

68. Where contract provided that in case of breach of warranty the seller should not be liable for an old machine taken in part payment, held, such a provision was not binding in determining the right of the parties on rescission. Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Caldwell, 26 Ky. L. R. 136, 80 S. W. 1099.

pensation for injuries received.[60] The contract being rescinded for fraud, the purchaser is entitled to recover actual damages.[70] The buyer misunderstanding a judgment ordering the return of the chattel and repayment of the purchase price, and selling the property, should account to the seller for its value at the time of the disposal of it.[71]

(§ 11) B. Action to recover purchase money paid.[72]—A buyer rescinding a contract on discovering breach of warranty[73] or fraud on the part of the seller[74] is entitled to sue and recover the purchase money paid, and the fact that he sues in deceit instead of for money had and received does not constitute an election between inconsistent remedies.[75] The contract providing that on such breach of warranty the seller will refund the consideration, the buyer is entitled to such repayment before delivering possession;[76] but it is otherwise if the contract provides that the buyer may return the chattel and receive back the consideration.[77] The seller desiring to claim noncompliance with conditions precedent must plead the same.[78]

(§ 11) C. Actions for breach of contract.[79]—The seller must have performed all conditions precedent.[80] The violation being positive and not passive,[81] or the seller admitting his inability to conform to the contract,[82] it is unnecessary to put him in default, and no tender of the price is necessary if he refuses to deliver,[83] though the buyer must show that he was able to comply with his part of the contract.[84] He is not required to go into the market and buy other goods in order to recover for the breach.[85] Retention and use of an article after discovery of fraud does not prevent a recovery of the damages resulting therefrom.[86] Acceptance of part of the goods after the time for delivery does not bar recovery for damages for failure to deliver the rest.[87]

Parties entitled to a joint interest in the contract are entitled to maintain a

69. Rumsey v. Shaw, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 386.

70. Where the fraudulent representations had reference to a sunken vessel, buyer was held entitled to recover the reasonable expense incurred by them in endeavoring to raise the hull before its true condition was discovered. McRae v. Lonsby [C. C. A.] 130 F. 17. See topics Deceit, 3 Curr. L. 1045, and Fraud and Undue Influence, 3 Curr. L. 1520.

71. Kenney Co. v. Anderson, 26 Ky. L. R. 1217, 83 S. W. 581.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1570.

73. Is not confined to his right to recover damages. Ruby Carriage Co. v. Kremer, 26 Ky. L. R. 274, 81 S. W. 251.

74. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 857; Fellows v. Judge, 72 N. H. 466, 57 A. 653.

75. Conceding that deceit is not the proper remedy, the buyer may after verdict amend by adding a count for money he had received, and thereupon have judgment on the verdict. Fellows v. Judge, 72 N. H. 466, 57 A. 653.

76. Kenney Co. v. Anderson, 26 Ky. L. R. 367, 81 S. W. 663.

77. Haynie v. Plano Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 532.

78. Westinghouse Co. v. Meixel [Neb.] 101 N. W. 238. Where the petition alleged breach of warranty, and the answer denied that the terms of the warranty and the conditions of the trial were as stated, held, defendant could not prove and rely as a defense upon certain conditions in the written contract. Id.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1570.

80. Where the seller agreed to repair or replace defective parts and the buyer gave him an opportunity so to do, there is a sufficient performance by the purchaser so that he can maintain an action. Timken Carriage Co. v. Smith & Co., 123 Iowa, 554, 99 N. W. 183. See 2 Curr. L. 1571, n. 27, 28.

81. Chattanooga Car & Foundry Co. v. Lefebevre, 113 La. 487, 37 So. 38.

82. Inability of the seller to make shipment within the time specified, it being shown that such time is of the essence of the contract. Chattanooga Car & Foundry Co. v. Lefebevre, 113 La. 487, 37 So. 38. See 2 Curr. L. 1571, n. 29.

83. Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bros. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 88. See 2 Curr. L. 1571, n. 30.

84. Before plaintiff in an action for nondelivery of cotton can recover, he must show that when he demanded it he was able to pay for it in the method fixed by the custom among cotton dealers. Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bros. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 88.

85. Where contract provided that deliveries were to be made when needed. Delaware & H. Canal Co. v. Mitchell, 211 Ill. 379, 71 N. E. 1026.

86. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 857.

87. Sun Mfg. Co. v. Egbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 667.

joint action for its breach.[88] In Alabama an assignee for the benefit of creditors cannot maintain an action, in his own name, for the breach of a contract of sale of goods to his assignor.[89]

Pleading.[90]—The complaint must allege the consideration for the contract.[91]

Proof.[92]—Defendant alleging rescission must prove the same by a preponderance of the evidence.[93] Plaintiff must prove his damages measured by the rules of law applicable to the case.[94] The ordinary rules as to the admissibility,[95] relevancy,[96] and sufficiency[97] of evidence, apply.

Questions for the jury and instructions.[98]—Whether the goods delivered complied with the contract,[99] and whether the terms of the contract have been modified,[1] are for the jury.

(§ 11) D. Action for breach of warranty.[2]—Where, on an executed sale, there is a breach of warranty, the purchaser may retain the article and sue for the breach,[3] though there be an agreement to repurchase.[4] All conditions precedent must be performed,[5] and the contract providing for the replacement of defective warranted parts, such new parts must be demanded before the action can

88. Where mother, brother and sister of deceased bought coffin for him. Dunn & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 576. In such case held no defense that portion of money paid came from decedent's estate, there being no administration thereof. Id.

89. Code 1896, §§ 28, 876, relating to contracts for the payment of money, held inapplicable. Snead v. Bell [Ala.] 38 So. 259.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1571.

91. Alderman v. New Departure Bell Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 408.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1572.

93. Brockman Commission Co. v. Kilbourne [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 275.

94. Seaboard Lumber Co. v. Cornelia Planing Mill Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 121. See post, § 12.

95. Evidence that buyer was unable to pay for articles held inadmissible, there being no issue of that kind in the case. Iowa Brick Mfg. Co. v. Herrick [Iowa] 102 N. W. 787. Exclusion of question asking defendant's president as to whether or not a certain phrase was inserted in the contract by reason of any suggestion made by him, held proper. United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351.

In an action for nondelivery, held competent for plaintiff to state that when he went to get the goods he was prepared to pay for them. Blalock & Co. v. Clark & Bros. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 88. In an action for nondelivery, evidence that plaintiff bought the goods at an advance held competent. Id. If there was an error in admitting such evidence, held harmless where the evidence was ruled out on the issue of damages. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1572, n. 48.

96. That market price exceeded contract price and that the buyer continued to sell at the contract price, while irrelevant on the issue of the seller's liability for the breach of the contract, goes to show that the buyer is not standing upon a legal right, without merit. Haff v. Pilling, 134 F. 294. In an action for breach of contract in the construction of a 60 horse power boiler according to a plan furnished by the buyer, held evidence tending to show that plan was suitable for a smaller boiler was irrelevant. Watson v. Bigelow Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 741. Deduction in price held not an admission that the buyer's plan was a suitable one. Id. That seller had contracted for supply of article held to have no bearing on his liability for breach of contract, except as evidence that he had used every precaution to be prepared to deliver in compliance with the terms of the agreement, and was prevented from doing so solely by a shortage of cars. Hoff v. Pilling, 134 F. 294. See 2 Curr. L. 1572, n. 47.

97. Evidence held sufficient to show that seller accepted rejection of oil sold and thus waived buyer's duty to inspect on delivery and to authorize inspection by his foreign customers. Peck v. Will & Baumer Co., 90 N. Y. S. 272. Where a cheaper, smaller coffin than the one bought was furnished, evidence held sufficient to warrant a finding that seller knew of substitution. Dunn & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 576.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1573.

99. Evidence as to whether sausages were "dry enough for export" within the contract held to present a question for the jury. James v. Libby, 92 N. Y. S. 1047. Also the question as to whether they were properly manufactured. Id.

1. As to whether or not there was an extension of time for performance held a question for the jury. Bass v. Rublee, 76 Vt. 395, 57 A. 965.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1573.

3. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722; Pound v. Williams, 119 Ga. 904, 47 S. E. 218; Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 317, 81 S. W. 261; Miller v. Patch Mfg. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 870.

4. Where one warranted the value of stocks and agreed to repurchase them in case of breach of warranty, held, the remedy for the repurchase was not exclusive, but the purchaser might sue for breach of warranty. Crothers v. Dolph, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 652.

5. In an action for breach of an implied warranty, held no error in informing the jury that the plaintiff refused to permit a test to be made. Rollins Engine Co. v. Eastern Forge Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 382.

be maintained.[6] That purchaser warned bank not to take purchase-money note is no defense to his right of action for breach of warranty.[7]

Pleading, proof and issues.[8]—A petition alleging warranty and the falsity thereof sufficiently counts on a breach of warranty.[9] To be recovered, damages should be claimed in the petition.[10] A plea must be taken as confessing truth of represented facts when it does not allege their falsity, the same being traversable.[11] In this action the buyer is only required to prove the contract of warranty, breach thereof, and his damages.[12] Evidence that another article of the same kind was worthless is inadmissible.[13] The general rules as to the competency of evidence[14] and the examination of witnesses[15] apply.

(§ 11) E. Recovery of chattel; replevin or conversion.[16]—If the seller seizes the property without offering to put the buyer in statu quo, the latter may recover possession.[17]

(§ 11) F. Lien for price paid.[18]

(§ 11) G. Recoupment and counterclaim.[19]—The buyer retaining the article may interpose damages occurring from breach of contract[20] or breach of warranty[21] as a counterclaim to an action for the price.

(§ 11) H. Choice and election of remedies.[22]—The article not being in conformity with the contract, the buyer has three remedies: The first is to reject the article and give notice of such action to the seller;[23] the second is to accept the article and bring an action on the contract for damages;[24] the third is to set up such damages as a counterclaim in an action for the purchase money.[25] If he seeks to reject the article he must, after discovering its true condition, do nothing inconsistent with the seller's ownership thereof; hence, in order to rely on the rejection, he must not use the property for his own use.[26] On refusal to deliver, the buyer may purchase the article in open market, and failing in this may sue for breach of contract.[27] Upon breach of a warranty of quality, the buyer may require the seller to remove the article or, if he fails to do so, may remove it himself and recover the purchase price, or he may recover damages for the breach.[28]

6. Allen v. Tompkins, 136 N. C. 208, 48 S. E. 655.

7. Doyle v. Parish [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 646.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1574.

9. Although it is further specifically averred that defendant knew his statements to be false. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751.

10. Purchaser of stallion rescinding for breach of warranty, he cannot recover for the keep of the stallion and expense of returning him any greater sum than is claimed in the petition. Berkey v. Lefebure & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 710.

11. Phillips v. Crosby [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 142.

12. Parker v. Fenwick [N. C.] 50 S. E. 627.

13. Lander v. Sheehan [Mont.] 79 P. 406.

14. In an action for breach of warranty in that a jack is a sure foal getter, it is competent to show the actual, proved capacity of the jack in that respect after the purchase. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751.

15. Question as to market value of animal if he was as buyer "thought he was," held, while improper in form, not prejudicial, the witness understanding it to be predicated upon the seller's representations. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1575. Also Conversion as Tort, 3 Curr. L. 866; Replevin, 4 Curr. L. 1284.

17. Where there was a mistake on the part of the seller as to the identity of the property sold. Kenova Transfer Co. v. Monongahela River Consol. Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 452.

18, 19. See 2 Curr. L. 1576.

20. May interpose as a counterclaim that the machinery did not conform to blue prints and that additional expense was thereby incurred in rebuilding foundations. Thomas China Co. v. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25.

21. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722; Pound v. Williams, 119 Ga. 904, 47 S. E. 218; Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 317, 81 S. W. 261.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1577.

23, 24, 25. Graham v. Hatch Storage Battery Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 532.

26. Graham v. Hatch Storage Battery Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 532. Findings that one rejected article and then used it held not inconsistent. Id.

27. Where buyer gave notice that he would purchase the article held not to bar suit for damages. Iowa Brick Mfg. Co. v. Herrick [Iowa] 102 N. W. 787.

28. Long v. Chapman, 97 App. Div. 241, 89 N. Y. S. 841. Where seller agreed to remove chattel and refund money if there was a breach. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142. See post, § 12C.

Goods not being equal to sample, the buyer may return the articles or keep them and pay their value.[29] The contract often provides cumulative remedies.[30] There being a warranty, a provision to repair and replace broken parts is cumulative.[31] An unsuccessful action to recover the price paid on the theory of a rescission of the sale does not prevent action for a breach of warranty.[32] It being uncertain from the complaint which of several remedies plaintiff is pursuing, the defendant can protect himself against surprise by a motion before the trial to make the complaint more definite and certain,[33] or by a motion at the opening of the trial to compel the plaintiff to elect upon which theory he will proceed.[34]

§ 12. Damages for breach of sale and warranty.[35] A. General rules as to the measure of damages cannot be formulated so as to be applicable to all cases; and where the damages in a given case may be estimated in a variety of ways, that method will be adopted which is most definite and certain.[36] It being apparent that the damages which would result from a breach of the contract by either party would be uncertain, it is competent for them to stipulate for the payment of liquidated damages.[37]

(§ 12) B. Breach by seller.[38]—On the seller's failure to deliver[39] the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the market value at the time and place of delivery,[40] less any expense which the buyer, if the contract had been performed, would have been put to in delivering the goods at such place,[41] with interest on the residue from the date of the breach,[42] or if there be no market at the place of delivery, then the value in the nearest and most available market to which the buyer must resort in order to supply himself, with the cost of transportation and compensation for the time, trouble and expense of making the repurchase added,[43] and it is not necessary that the purchaser actually go into the market and obtain the goods.[44] The contract providing for monthly de-

29. Washington Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Sinnott, 92 N. Y. S. 504.

30. Where contract provided for shipment of specified number of tons of ore per day, and that upon failure to so deliver the buyer should have the right to buy elsewhere and charge the seller any excess over the contract price, held failure of seller to deliver justified buyer in terminating the contract. United States Iron Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 173.

31. Timken Carriage Co. v. Smith & Co., 123 Iowa, 554, 99 N. W. 183.

32. Zimmerman v. Robinson & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 814.

33, 34. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1578. See, also, Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997.

36. Kinkead v. Lynch, 132 F. 692.

37. Davis v. Alpha Portland Cement Co., 134 F. 274. Contract providing liquidated damages for failure to deliver, and further providing that the seller should make all shipments within 10 days after the receipt of orders, held stipulation covered both failure to deliver within 10 days from order and total failure to deliver. Id.

38, 39. See 2 Curr. L. 1578.

40. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168; Huggins v. Southeastern Lime & Cement Co., 121 Ga. 311, 48 S. E. 933; Iowa Brick Mfg. Co. v. Herrick [Iowa] 102 N. W. 787; Falkenberg v. O'Neill, 88 N. Y. S. 378; Morris v. Supplee, 208 Pa. 253, 57 A. 566; Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199; Woldert Grocery Co. v. Veltman [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 224; Nottingham Coal & Ice Co. v. Preas, 102 Va. 820, 47 S. E. 823; Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820. Contract for the sale and manufacture of machinery. Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51.

Where dealings are between wholesaler and retailer, wholesale market price should be taken. Righter v. Clark [Conn.] 60 A. 741. See 2 Curr. L. 1578, n. 25.

Contra: Where the seller failed to deliver the entire amount of lumber sold, held, the buyer was entitled to recover the fair market value of the amount not delivered. New York House Wrecking Co. v. Jarvis, 87 N. Y. S. 464.

41, 42. Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820.

43. Righter v. Clark [Conn.] 60 A. 741; Woldert Grocery Co. v. Veltman [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 224; Nottingham Coal & Ice Co. v. Preas, 102 Va. 820, 47 S. E. 823.

Where machinery was to be manufactured, damages are difference between contract price and the sum it would cost the buyer to have the machinery manufactured. Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51.

44. Need not buy them. Nottingham Coal & Ice Co. v. Preas, 102 Va. 820, 47 S. E. 823. Need not have them manufactured. Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51.

liveries, the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the market value on the last day of each month for each month's proportionate delivery.[45] The burden is on the buyer to show at what price he purchased.[46] Evidence as to market value being oral and conflicting, the question is one for the jury.[47]

Special damages[48] may be recovered where they are the usual and proximate result of the breach, and such as may be reasonably supposed to have been within the contemplation of the parties at the time they made the contract,[49] or the seller had notice of the special circumstances at or before the making of the contract.[50] Mere notice is not always sufficient, some cases holding that the circumstances must be such as to render it reasonable to believe that the seller tacitly consented to be bound for more than ordinary damages,[51] and in this connection the amount of compensation to be received is often material.[52]

45. Haff v. Pilling, 134 F. 294; Benton Fuel Co. v. Shipman Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 746. Instruction that the buyer was not entitled to purchase the commodity until the expiration of the entire contract held properly refused. Benton Fuel Co. v. Shipman Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 746. In an action for damages for failure to deliver, held court instructed that amount delivered should be deducted. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1578, n. 26.

46. Morris v. Supplee, 208 Pa. 253, 57 A. 566.

47. Boyd v. Merchants' & Farmers' Peanut Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 199.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1580, § 12D.

49. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168; Vogt v. Shienebeck [Wis.] 100 N. W. 820. See 2 Curr. L. 1580, n. 58.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Loss of profits may be recovered. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168; Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 648; Sun Mfg. Co. v. Egbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 667. May recover for profits lost on cash sales for immediate delivery as well as on binding contracts for future delivery. Sun Mfg. Co. v. Egbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 667.

Contra, Bliss Co. v. Buffalo Tin Can Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 51. In an action for damages for failure to deliver bricks to one having contract to build walks, held plaintiff was not entitled to profits on walks he might have built but for defendant's breach, where the orders to build them had not in fact been issued by the board of public works. Iowa Brick Mfg. Co. v. Herrick [Iowa] 102 N. W. 787. See 2 Curr. L. 1580, n. 59-61.

Loss of crop: Seller failing to ship apparatus for removing sugar cane within time specified in contract, held liable for damage caused by freeze. Chattanooga Car & Foundry Co. v. Lefebvre, 113 La. 487, 37 So. 38.

Loss of customers by retail dealer held not an element of damages. Righter v. Clark [Conn.] 60 A. 741.

Mental anguish: Where coffin was purchased and a cheaper one and one too small for the remains was furnished and used, held recovery could be had, by relatives purchasing same, for mental anguish. Dunn & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 576.

Shrinkage in value of goods bought in place of those not delivered held not recoverable. Righter v. Clark [Conn.] 60 A. 741. Plaintiff ordering a specified kind of coal for "school house use" held, in an action for damages for failure to deliver, that the sale was not merely for "schoolhouse use," and that plaintiff's damages were not limited to coal used for such purposes. Benton Fuel Co. v. Shipman Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 746. Failure to deliver food for cattle held to entitle buyer to recover damages resulting from additional outlays for food or labor or any other expense or injury to the cattle. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. The seller of building material to a building contractor is not liable for the penalty provided against the contractor for delay, in the absence of knowledge on the seller's part of the liability the buyer is under. Wendell v. Walker, 87 N. Y. S. 142. Where a manufacturer is entitled to recover special damages for the idleness of its plant, caused by delay in furnishing proper repairs for machinery, the measure thereof is the reasonable rental value of so much of the plant as is rendered idle for a period long enough for the manufacturer to secure proper repairs, and time lost in attempting to use the defective repairs cannot be considered. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052.

50. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052. Where buyer had contracted to resell goods. Woldert Grocery Co. v. Veltman [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 224; Huggins v. Southeastern Lime & Cement Co., 121 Ga. 311, 48 S. E. 933. Payments of wages to unemployed hands held not recoverable from seller in the absence of proof that he had notice that a stoppage of the plant would cause the manufacturer to make such payments. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052. Vendor of repairs held not chargeable with rental value of plant during time required to obtain substitute repairs from a distant place, there being nothing to show that he had notice that they could not be obtained in a near-by town. Id. The fact that one does not patronize a home industry does not prove that there are no home industries. Id.

51. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052.

52. Where profit on sale of parts for re-

For breach of other conditions, the buyer is entitled to recover actual damages.[53] Damages stipulated against are not recoverable.[54]

All of the above rules are subject to the qualification that the buyer must use all reasonable means to mitigate the damages.[55] In this connection the buyer may rely on the seller's promise to perform,[56] and the acceptance of goods after the time for delivery does not preclude recovery of damages.[57]

(§ 12) C. Breach by purchaser.[58]—There being a complete performance, the seller is only entitled to recover the contract price[59] with interest from the time that payment was due,[60] which in case of omission the court may add to the verdict on entering judgment.[61]

For non-acceptance.[62]—Except where the article has no market value,[63] the measure of damages for the refusal to receive goods is the difference between the contract price and the market value at the time and place of breach,[64] and cost of completing performance of the contract;[65] or the profits lost may be recovered less those made on resale.[66] The seller may determine the market value by selling pairing machinery amounted to $100 or $200, held seller not liable for special damages amounting to $5,450, resulting from shutting down of plant owing to delay in delivery Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052.

53. The measure of damages for breach of condition to keep parts for repair at a near-by place is the loss of profits on work for which the buyer had orders, and which he could have done during the time of the delay in furnishing such parts and which he could not do thereafter. Janney Mfg. Co. v. Banta, 26 Ky. L. R. 1089, 83 S. W. 130. One selling a perforating attachment for a printing press in violation of an agreement to sell only to another, the measure of damages is the difference between the profits made from the use of the machine with such attachment and those made by the use of presses without such attachment. New York Bank Note Co. v. Hamilton Bank Note Engraving & Printing Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 48. For breach of contract to furnish a certain quality of feed for cattle, the difference before and immediately after they became sick by reason thereof, plus a sum sufficient to compensate for loss of time, care and attention and other expenses caused by the sickness. Hartgrove v. Southern Cotton Oil Co. [Ark.] 77 S. W. 908.

54. Contract stipulating that seller should not be "liable for damages for delay by railroads," etc., held seller was not liable for damages caused by such delay. Arnold v. Malsby, 120 Ga. 586, 48 S. E. 132. See 2 Curr. L. 1580, n. 57.

55. Indian Mountain Jellico Coal Co. v. Asheville Ice & Coal Co., 134 N. C. 574, 47 S. E. 116; Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. Though seller knows that goods are bought for resale, he is not liable for lost profits where the buyer could easily have purchased goods in market but failed to do so. Righter v. Clark [Conn.] 60 A. 741. Where damages were caused by the buyer offering to sell at an advanced price, held not to come within the doctrine of avoidable consequences. Sun Mfg. Co. v. Egbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 667.

56. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. That he suffered greater loss than he reasonably should have by reliance on such promises does not preclude him from recovering such damages as were sustained before he himself should have taken the requisite step to save himself. Id.

57. Chattanooga Car & Foundry Co. v. Lefebvre, 113 La. 487, 37 So. 38.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1578.

59. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Midvale Min. & Mfg. Co., 105 Mo. App. 644, 80 S. W. 13; Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82. See 2 Curr. L. 1578, n. 34.

60. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Midvale Min. & Mfg. Co., 105 Mo. App. 644, 80 S. W. 13; McAfee v. Dix, 91 N. Y. S. 464. See Interest, 4 Curr. L. 241.

61. McAfee v. Dix, 91 N. Y. S. 464.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1579.

63. As where it is to be specially manufactured, see post, this subdivision.

64. Kellogg v. Frohlich [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1057; Huguenot Mills v. Jempson & Co., 68 S. C. 363, 47 S. E. 687; Falkenberg v. O'Neill, 88 N. Y. S. 378. Where such difference was $550, judgment and verdict for $200 reversed. Id. Time and place of delivery. Blair v. Ford China Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 374; Mohr Hardware Co. v. Dubey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 127. Taking time of delivery instead of time of notice of cancellation, if erroneous, is not prejudicial where difference in value on the respective days is slight, if any. Nebraska Bridge Supply & Lumber Co. v. Conway & Sons [Iowa] 103 N. W. 122. See 2 Curr. L. 1579, n. 38.

65. Contract to sell and install machinery; the seller may recover the difference between the contract price, less the cost of installing the machinery, and the price obtained at the sale, with interest on such sum. General Elec. Co. v. National Contracting Co., 178 N. Y. 369, 70 N. E. 928. For breach of a contract to purchase a crop, causing its loss, the damages are the value of the crop estimated at the contract price, less the cost of harvesting that portion which was left unharvested by reason of the breach. Avery v. Segura Sugar Co., 111 La. 891, 35 So. 967.

66. The seller is not, however, bound to take the difference between the sum realized at a resale and the contract price, but the goods[67] within a reasonable time after the breach,[68] reasonableness of time being for the jury,[69] and the fact that the buyer has some one representing him at the sale cannot be held to be an acquiescence in it.[70] The only difference between a public sale and a private one is that in the latter the burden is upon the seller to prove that he obtained the market value,[71] while a fair public sale is competent and ordinarily satisfactory evidence of the value of the thing sold.[72] The seller, refusing an offer by the buyer of less than the contract price and selling the goods for less than the price offered, can only recover the difference between the price offered and the contract price.[73] The burden is upon plaintiff to show that the goods have no market value,[74] and the evidence being conflicting, the question is one for the jury.[75] The article having no general market value, the seller may retain the property for the purchaser and recover the contract price,[76] or he may recover as damages the difference between the contract price and the cost of performing the contract,[77] together with incidental profits arising from the terms of the contract,[78] and this is true, though the contract extends over a number of years, is broken before its expiration and the seller does not thereafter perform his part,[79] though in the latter case the buyer is entitled to a reasonable deduction for the less time engaged and for the release from care, trouble, risk and responsibility attending a full execution of said agreement by the plaintiff,[80] and in this connection expert testimony is admissible.[81] If the seller continues to operate the factory after the breach, the buyer is entitled to have the profits actually made by him up to the time of trial set off against the damages.[82] The vendor of material to be used in the manufacture of an article is not a subcontractor within the meaning of the rule excluding supposed advantages of a subcontractor in computing profits in the sale of a manufactured article.[83] The buyer can only be charged with the goods he is required to take.[84] While the seller is obliged to make a reasonable effort to reduce damages, he is not bound to accept the buyer's offer to revive the contract.[85] The seller waiving his rights under the contract and may take the profits he would have received if the buyer had not refused to perform, less the profit actually received from the sale to others. Lincoln v. Levi Cotton Mills Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 865. See 2 Curr. L. 1579, n. 39.

67. May hold the buyer for any loss. Redhead Bros. v. Wyoming Cattle Inv. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 144; Heller v. Altman, 91 N. Y. S. 769; Mitchell v. Baker, 208 Pa. 377, 57 A. 760.

68. Alden Speare's Sons Co. v. Hubinger [C. C. A.] 129 F. 538; Redhead Bros. v. Wyoming Cattle Inv. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 144.

69, 70. Alden Speare's Sons Co. v. Hubinger [C. C. A.] 129 F. 538.

71, 72. Mayberry v. Lilly Mill Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401.

73. American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117.

74, 75. Blair v. Ford China Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 374.

76. Kinkead v. Lynch, 132 F. 692.

77. Worrell v. Kinnear Mfg. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 988; Coburn v. California Portland Cement Co., 144 Cal. 81, 77 P. 771. So held with regard to a contract for granite blocks. Broadnax v. United Engineering & Contracting Co., 128 F. 649, afd. 136 F. 351. In an action for breach of a contract to purchase dimension granite, evidence held insufficient to authorize an allowance for rubble backing as dimension granite to be furnished under the contract. Id. Where, in an action for breach of a contract to purchase granite, it appeared that no allowance was made for dressing the blocks, but that the mortar joints probably made up the difference, held, a verdict in favor of the seller would not be set aside on the ground that such joints were included in the measurement. Id.

78. Under a contract to sell articles to be manufactured during a series of years, the seller being entitled to compensation for storage, and there being a profit in such storage, he is entitled to recover damages for the loss thereof upon breach of the contract by the buyer. Allen v. Field [C. C. A.] 130 F. 641.

79. Allen v. Field [C. C. A.] 130 F. 641. Evidence as to average cost of manufacture of whisky and average price of grain used during a series of years held competent as furnishing a basis on which to estimate the probable cost during the remainder of the term. Id.

80, 81, 82. Allen v. Field [C. C. A.] 130 F. 641.

83. Worrell v. Kinnear Mfg. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 988.

84. Ready v. Fulton Co., 179 N. Y. 399, 72 N. E. 317.

85. An offer to take the goods on the leaving the property with the buyer, the latter is entitled to recover his expenses in caring for it.[86]

(§ 12) D. Breach of warranty.[87]—The warranty and its breach being proven, the plaintiff is entitled to nominal damages.[88] On retention of the property the measure of damages is the difference between the actual value of the chattel and its value as warranted[89] at the time and place of delivery;[90] but if he reject the property, he is entitled to recover the amount paid, less a fair rent for the use of the article.[91]

In either case he is entitled to recover all special damages which were within the contemplation of the parties at the time the contract was made,[92] and which the buyer by the use of ordinary care could not have prevented.[93] Whether he terms of the contract, being made after the expiration of the contract, is not one which the seller is obliged to accept. Kellogg v. Frohlich [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1057.

86. Is entitled to charge the seller storage, insurance and interest. American Cotton Co. v. Herring [Miss.] 37 So. 117.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1580.

88. Nonsuit is improper. Phillips v. Crosby [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 142.

89. Union Selling Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 128 F. 672; Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 317, 81 S. W. 261; Doyle v. Parish [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 646; McQuade v. Newman, 88 N. Y. S. 363; Long v. Chapman, 97 App. Div. 241, 89 N. Y. S. 841; Hano v. Simons, 92 N. Y. S. 337; Critcher v. Porter-McNeal Co., 135 N. C. 542, 47 S. E. 604; Parker v. Fenwick [N. C.] 50 S. E. 627; Aultman & T. Mach. Co. v. Cappleman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1243; Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Special finding held fatally defective. Id. In an action for breach of an implied warranty, held an instruction that the measure of damages was the difference between the value of the rod before it was broken and afterwards was properly refused. Rollins Engine Co. v. Eastern Forge Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 382. In an action for breach of warranty that jack was a sure foal getter, where purchase price was $400, a verdict for $300 was held not excessive. Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751. See 2 Curr. L. 1580, n. 50.

90. Seaboard Lumber Co. v. Cornelia Planing Mill Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 121, applying the rule as laid down in American Grocery Co. v. Brackett & Co., 119 Ga. 489, 46 S. E. 657; Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. See 2 Curr. L. 1580, n. 53.

91. Where defect was as to capacity of engine. Critcher v. Porter-McNeal Co., 135 N. C. 542, 47 S. E. 604.

92. Critcher v. Porter-McNeal Co., 135 N. C. 542, 47 S. E. 604. Breach of warranty on sale of refrigerator, held could recover for meat spoiled. Dean Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230. Loss of profits. Aultman & Taylor Mach. Co. v. Cappleman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1243. Breach of warranty on the sale of an engine to run a sawmill, held plaintiff could not recover loss of profits resulting from his inability to perform contracts. Critcher v. Porter-McNeal Co., 135 N. C. 542, 47 S. E. 604. Where plaintiff did not offer to show that he had sufficient logs to run the mill, or for what time the contracts for the sale of the output extended, held proper to exclude evidence that at the time of the purchase of the engine he had contracted for the sale of the output of the mill. Id. Also held entitled to interest on the amount invested in the mill for the time it was idle. Id. Loss occasioned by the delivery of potatoes which soon rotted and ruined good potatoes with which they were placed, held an element of damages. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Pledgee warranting that cattle are free from disease is liable for all losses sustained by the purchaser resulting from an infectious disease with which the cattle were affected when sold. State Bank of Commerce v. Dody [Kan.] 79 P. 1092. Where buyer continued to use machinery for making oil from cotton seed, on promise of seller to repair according to warranties, held seller was not liable for damages resulting from waste in kernel of the cotton seed in consequence of defects. Allen v. Tompkins, 136 N. C. 208, 48 S. E. 655.

For special damages, see 2 Curr. L. 1580, § 12 D.

93. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Where the goods delivered were decayed and were placed with undecayed goods and the purchaser did nothing except to sort a few from time to time for his trade, held, the cost of such sorting was not a basis of damages, but the reasonable cost of removing the goods on discovering their condition was the extent of the purchaser's damage on this score. Id. Where evidence was undisputed that purchaser soon discovered condition of perishable goods delivered but took no steps to avoid the loss, held, verdict freeing him from responsibility therefor was inconsistent and contrary to the evidence. Id. Testimony as to the best method of handling the goods in the condition of those in question held material. Id. Baker cannot recover for loss of cakes and custom due to bad eggs sold him, his foreman using the eggs with knowledge that they were bad. Armour & Co. v. Gundersheimer, 23 App. D. C. 210. Where bricks, instead of being a uniform color like sample, were of a mottled appearance, held seller was not liable for consequent decrease in value in the house, the buyer before using them failing to make some test to see whether the discoloration would wash off. Washington Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Sinnott, 92 N. Y. S. 504. Where the defective condition can be corused proper care is a question for the jury.[94] The purchaser is entitled to take any reasonably prudent and sufficient means to remedy the defect; and if he acts in good faith, he is entitled to charge the warrantor with the cost thereof,[95] and this remedy may be pursued, though the contract contain an agreement by the seller to replace any defective part.[96] Neither the buyer's right of recovery nor the measure of his damages is dependent upon a resale by him or upon the price obtained at such resale.[97] A test being made at the seller's request, the purchaser may recover the expenses thereof.[98] Where goods are sold on approval, damages may be recovered for breach of warranty occurring during the trial period.[99] On the return of a chattel sold on approval, the buyer being entitled to recover certain expenses incurred, he may recover storage expenses until such expenses are paid.[1]

Upon breach of implied warranty of quality, the buyer is entitled to go into market and purchase goods at most reasonable price and charge difference between such price and contract price to seller,[2] but he is not required to go beyond the local market for such purpose.[3]

Upon breach of warranty of title and consequent loss of the property, the measure of damages is the value of the property at the time and place they were taken from the buyer, plus all costs incident thereto, less the unpaid purchase price, on which balance interest should be paid from the date of the taking.[4]

(§ 12) E. Evidence as to damages.[5]—The evidence as to value must be definite.[6] In arriving at the value of the article when accepted, it is proper to show the value of certain portions which the buyer had used, and that the other portions were entirely worthless.[7] It is not material to a breach of warranty that the goods were such that the seller could not make and vend.[8]

§ 13. Rights of bona fide purchasers or other third persons.[9]—On a sale of property obtained through theft, the original owner may recover the same from any taker,[10] though not as against a bona fide taker where the seller obtained the goods rected by the expenditure of a small sum of money, the damages should not exceed this amount. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142. For special damages see 2 Curr. L. 1580, § 12D.

94. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066.

95. Thomas China Co. v. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25; Miller v. Patch Mfg. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 870. May recover reasonable value of such expenditures. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 227. Where parts furnished for machinery are defective, the purchaser is entitled to damages to the amount required to replace them, less any value received from the defective parts. Hooks Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052.

96. Thomas China Co. v. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25.

97. Union Selling Co. v. Jones [C. C. A.] 128 F. 672. At most, the price thus obtained may be some, but not conclusive, evidence of the actual value. Id.

98. In an action for breach of warranty that engine for use in a sawmill would develop a certain horse power, held plaintiff was entitled to recover expenses incurred in running the mill, at defendant's request, to enable him to make the engine develop the designated horse power. Critcher v. Porter-McNeal Co., 135 N. C. 542, 47 S. E. 604.

99. Where refrigerator was sold on 60 days' trial and warranted to keep meat for 3 weeks, held seller liable for loss of meat during the 60 days caused by breach of the warranty. Cincinnati Butchers' Supply Co. v. Steinmetz [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 950.

1. Cincinnati Butchers' Supply Co. v. Steinmetz [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 950.

2. Armour & Co. v. Gundersheimer, 23 App. D. C. 210.

3. Where seller was a nonresident. Armour & Co. v. Gundersheimer, 23 App. D. C. 210.

4. Pierce v. Baton, 98 Me. 553, 57 A. 889.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1582.

6. Testimony by buyer that he thought the damages resulting from breach of warranty were about $100, held insufficient. Dean Co. v. Standifer [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 230.

7. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142.

8. That article infringes a patent held material only on the question of damages for breach of contract. Graham v. Hatch Storage Battery Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 532.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1583. Necessity of record of conditional sale, see post, § 14.

10. Where a former lessee was allowed to keep certain personal property in the cellar of the building and to retain the keys to such cellar, held, he could recover from a bona fide purchaser of property, who purchased from a servant of the owner of the building, such servant having wrongfully through fraud.[11] But in order to be protected, the buyer must be a bona fide purchaser;[12] that is, he must have parted with value[13] before obtaining knowledge of the fraud,[14] or of facts sufficient to put him on inquiry,[15] and in the end the question is one for the jury.[16] In the absence of recordation, the burden is on the true owner to show notice brought home to the subsequent purchaser.[17] From this it will be seen that mere possession by the seller is of itself insufficient to protect the third party,[18] and this rule extends to an agent[19] who must have authority to sell in order to pass title.[20] In some states it is a crime to fraudulently dispose of goods bought on credit,[21] in others a sale in bulk is deemed fraudulent unless attended with certain formalities.[22] The transferee refusing to return the property he need not be put in statu quo or offer made to do so.[23] A third party having an interest in the proceeds, authorizing the sale, the buyer is not bound to see that the seller makes a proper division of the proceeds, and such third person cannot disaffirm the sale on the seller's failing to make such a division.[24] While a sale to one in his own name gives him title, he may agree with one who advanced the price that title shall stand in the lender's name.[25]

Brokers and pledges.[26]—One purchasing from a pledgee has no greater title or rights in the property than the pledgee.[27] As against third persons an absolute bill of sale will not be construed as a pledge.[28]

§ 14. Conditional sales. Definition, validity and formation.[29]—In a conditional sale the transfer of title to the purchaser, or the retention of it by him, depends upon the performance of some condition.[30] Such contracts are valid.[31] converted the same. McQuale v. North American Smelting Co., 208 Pa. 504, 57 A. 984.

11. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

12. Kops Bros. Co. v. Smith & Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 169. See general discussion of doctrine of bona fides in Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829.

13. One taking property in payment of past-due indebtedness is not a bona fide purchaser. Kops Bros. Co. v. Smith & Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 169; Logan v. Oklahoma Mill Co., 14 Okl. 402, 79 P. 103.

14. Maddox v. Reynolds [Ark.] 81 S. W. 603. Evidence held to sustain a verdict for the plaintiff. Pitz v. Kentucky & N. Distilling & Cattle Feeding Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 797.

15. That seller is known by buyer to be deeply indebted, or even insolvent, is not enough per se to charge the purchaser with a want of good faith. Sellers v. Hayes [Ind.] 72 N. E. 119. Attachment of goods held sufficient to put purchaser on inquiry. Maddox v. Reynolds [Ark.] 81 S. W. 603. The purchaser must prove a fair consideration not necessarily up to the full price, but a price that would not cause surprise. Babcock Printing Press Mfg. Co. v. Herbert [N. C.] 49 S. E. 349. Evidence that buyer required guaranty of title held admissible on question of good faith. Hogan v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 543.

16, 17. Hogan v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 543.

18. Gentry v. Singleton [C. C. A.] 128 F. 679.

19. The fact that an agent has possession of property raises no presumption that he has authority to dispose of it. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076.

20. Where traveling man sold samples. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. v. Stein [Or.] 78 P. 665.

21. See False Pretenses and Cheats, 3 Curr. L. 1419.

22. See Fraudulent Conveyances, 3 Curr. L. 1535.

23. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076.

24. Randall v. Ditch, 123 Iowa, 582, 99 N. W. 190.

25. Wright v. Ellwood Ivins Tube Co., 128 F. 462.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1584. See, generally, Brokers, 3 Curr. L. 535; Pledges, 4 Curr. L. 1243.

27. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115.

28. Millot v. Conrad [La.] 38 So. 139.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1584.

30. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488; Freed Furniture & Carpet Co. v. Sorensen [Utah] 79 P. 564. See 2 Curr. L. 1584, n. 9.

Illustrations: Personal property sold and delivered under the condition that title is to remain in the vendor until it is paid for is a conditional sale, not a mortgage. Alden v. Dyer & Bro., 92 Minn. 134, 99 N. W. 784. Title being reserved in the seller, the sale is a conditional one, though the buyer be permitted to resell. Bradley, Clark & Co. v. Benson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 670. A contract wherein title remained in the seller, and in case of default payments to be regarded as rent, held a conditional sale. Bronson v. Russell [Ala.] 37 So. 672. A contract whereby the owner of goods delivered them to another, the owner retaining title, and the one receiving the goods agreeing to sell them and pay the owner a specified portion of the selling price, held a mere

While technically distinct from chattel mortgages[32] and leases,[33] with an agreement to transfer title,[34] the classification of a given transaction is often difficult. In Kentucky the ordinary conditional sale is an absolute sale with a mortgage back to secure the price.[35] The words "all conditional contracts" as used in some recording acts do not name the particular form of instrument by which conditional sales must be made, but embrace the different kinds of instruments by which such sales may be made.[36] The sale being made in the state where the property is situated and between residents of such state, it should be construed according to the laws of such state.[37] A law requiring that the bill of sale shall specify the property on which it is to take effect does not require such a description as will identify the property without the aid of parol evidence.[38] Reservation of title by an agent inures to the seller.[39] The parties to a conditional sale by adjusting their accounts and giving a new contract note, worded and conditioned like the original, for the balance, do not convert the transaction into an absolute sale.[40]

Rights of parties to the contract.[41]—The parties to the contract[42] and the terms thereof[43] are largely matters of construction, the intent of the parties being the guiding rule. Upon refusal to accept or on default, the seller, having in good faith substantially performed all the requirements on his part,[44] may either treat agency, not a conditional sale. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488. A lease of property, under an agreement that on payment of a specified sum in instalments title shall pass to the lessee, amounts to a conditional sale. Kidder v. Wittler-Corbin Machinery Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 301. Orders whereby the purchaser agreed that the goods and the proceeds thereof should be held in trust subject to the seller's order until paid for, title remaining in the seller, held in effect conditional sales. In re Tweed, 131 F. 355. A purchase-money note reciting that the contract of sale reserved title in the seller until the note was paid, and that the seller could take possession of the property at any time, before or after maturity, and resell it, or retain it regarding the amount paid as compensation for the use, held not a conditional sale, but that seller might retake and sell and collect difference between amount obtained and the sum due from the maker. Van Den Bosch v. Bouwman [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832. Under the law of Utah a contract whereby no title passes until full payment, the purchaser being given possession, the seller having the right to retake possession on default and the obligation to pay is absolute, is a conditional sale. Studebaker Bros. Co. v. Mau [Wyo.] 80 P. 151; Freed Furniture & Carpet Co. v. Sorensen [Utah.] 79 P. 564.

31. In view of Pub. St. c. 140, § 23, providing for the recordation of conditional sales, such sales are not void as against public policy or the laws of the state. Michelson v. Collins, 72 N. H. 554, 58 A. 50. See 2 Curr. L. 1584, n. 11.

32. See Chattel Mortgages, 3 Curr. L. 682.

33. See Bailment, 3 Curr. L. 400.

34. See ante, § 1, "Options."

35. In re Ducker, 133 F. 771, afd. 134 F. 43.

36. Gen. St. 1902, § 4864, held to embrace a conditional sale in the form of an order given by the buyer. National Cash Register Co. v. Lesko [Conn.] 58 A. 967.

37. Studebaker Bros. Co. v. Mau [Wyo.] 80 P. 151.

38. Thomas Furniture Co. v. T. & C. Furniture Co., 120 Ga. 879, 48 S. E. 333. Where bill of sale specified articles sold as named articles of furniture, held sufficient. Id.

39. Where the title to property sold through an agent is shown to be in the seller, and the agency is established. Bronson v. Russell [Ala.] 37 So. 672.

40. Freed Furniture & Carpet Co. v. Sorensen [Utah] 79 P. 564.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1584, 1587. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1588, note, "Rights of parties to a conditional sale on default of payment."

42. The fact that plaintiff's husband purchased the property and signed the conditional sale does not irrevocably fix title in him as against his wife, she testifying that she owned it and made the payments as they became due. Canton v. Grinnell [Mich.] 101 N. W. 811.

43. Two written agreements, made at different times for the sale of distinct items of personal property, claimed by defendant to constitute one contract, construed and held that the property agreed to be transferred by one was not pledged as security for the payment of the debt created by the other agreement. North Star House Furnishing Co. v. Rinkey, 92 Minn. 80, 99 N. W. 429. Where same blank was used for contract of agency and for contract of sale, condition that title remained in seller held not to apply to sale to purchaser, though contract recognized "all conditions on the sheet." Oliver Chilled Plow Works v. Dolan [Mich.] 103 N. W. 186.

44. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Gerer's Bakery [Okl.] 78 P. 115. Where on a conditional sale of piano the seller temporarily exchanged the piano bought for another, and this over the objection of the buyer and upon promise to re-exchange, held seller could not recover possession in the absence of performance of the agreement to re-exchange. Heine Piano Co. v. Crepin, 142 Cal. 609, 76 P. 493.

the sale as absolute and sue for the contract price,[45] or retain or retake the property,[46] though the portion of the price remaining unpaid is less than the market value of the property,[47] and the purchaser cannot recover the amount paid,[48] though there is a conflict as to the correctness of this last proposition.[49] But the assertion of either right is an abandonment of the other.[50] Under contracts providing that the seller may take possession without legal process on default, seizure and removal of the property does not amount to a trespass.[51] In South Dakota the vendor's rights in case of breach of conditional sale by the buyer are fixed by stat-

45. Davis v. Millings [Ala.] 37 So. 737. Is not limited to damages for the breach. National Cash Register Co. v. Dehn [Mich.] 102 N. W. 965; National Cash Register Co. v. Hill, 136 N. C. 272, 48 S. E. 637.

NOTE. Remedy of vendor when title has not passed and vendee wrongfully refuses to pay: In the last case above cited, defendants contended that, as the contract was executory, they could not be sued for the price, but that the plaintiff could recover only damages for breach of the contract, which damages were the difference between the market price of the machine and the contract price. The court, however, said that when a manufacturer had fulfilled his part of a contract, it was unreasonable to compel him to send an agent to the point of shipment and there sell the property, or reship it to the place of manufacture, before bringing suit; that it was more just to compel the party in default to fulfill his contract and himself sell the property in case he thus desired to reduce his loss. There is a conflict of authority, as to the rights of the vendor, in cases where the contract is executory and the title to the property has not passed. Some courts hold that the vendor can, in such a case, maintain no action for the contract price, but must adopt, as his exclusive remedy, an action for damages. Collins v. Delaporte, 115 Mass. 159; Allen v. Jarvis, 20 Conn. 37; Tufts v. Weinfeld, 88 Wis. 647; Unexcelled Fire Works Co. v. Polites, 130 Pa. 536; Moody v. Brown, 34 Me. 107, 56 Am. Dec. 640; Indianapolis, P. & C. R. Co. v. Maguire, 62 Ind. 140; Tufts v. Bennett, 163 Mass. 398, 40 N. E. 172. Other courts take the position that the seller has a right to elect either to sue for the entire contract price, treating the vendee as the owner of the goods, or to bring an action for damages. Marvin Safe Co. v. Emanuel, 21 Abbott's N. C. [N. Y.] 181; Brewer v. Ford, 54 Hun, 116, 7 N. Y. S. 244; Carnahan v. Hughes, 108 Ind. 225; Shawan v. Van Nest, 25 Ohio St. 490, 18 Am. Rep. 313; Lincoln Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Sheldon, 44 Neb. 279. Some courts hold that if the vendee wrongfully refuses to receive and to pay for the goods, the vendor may resell them and recover, from the vendee, the difference between the proceeds of the resale and the contract price. West v. Cunningham, 9 Port. [Ala.] 104, 33 Am. Dec. 300; McCord v. Laidley & Co., 87 Ga. 221; Morris v. Wibaux, 159 Ill. 627; McLean v. Richardson, 127 Mass. 339; Williams v. Robb, 104 Mich. 242; Sands v. Taylor & Lovett, 5 Johns. [N. Y.] 395; Moore v. Potter, 155 N. Y. 481, 63 Am. St. Rep. 692. The vendor is not obliged to resort to his right of resale, but he may bring, against the vendee, a personal action for the full contract price. Darby v. Hall, 3 Penn. [Del.] 25; Hunter v. Wetsell, 84 N. Y. 549, 38 Am. Rep. 544; Lassing v. James, 107 Cal. 348. In Gardner v. Caylor, 24 Ind. App. 521, the court took the position that the vendor must exercise his right of resale so as to make the vendee's loss as light as possible.—3 Mich. L. R. 248.

46. Davis v. Millings [Ala.] 37 So. 737; Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646. The buyer, a corporation, becoming insolvent and making default, held resale by seller to brother of president of the corporation did not amount to fraud. Kidder v. Wittler-Corbin Machinery Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 301.

47, 48. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646.

49. Instruction that upon default all payments made became forfeited to the seller held properly refused as erroneous. Shafer v. Russell [Utah] 79 P. 559.

50. Davis v. Millings [Ala.] 37 So. 737. Bringing action for the price waives condition. Alden v. Dyer & Bro., 92 Minn. 134, 99 N. W. 784, following Keystone Mfg. Co. v. Cassellius, 74 Minn. 115, 76 N. W. 1028. Where a note, given for the purchase price, containing the condition, was sent to an attorney in another state and he brought action to recover on it, the property was relieved from the condition of the sale. Id. Cannot maintain an action to recover the purchase price unless the reservation is waived. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143; Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. White Rock Lumber & Hardware Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 854. The seller bringing an action of trover, it has the effect of rescinding the contract, and the seller having the buyer's note is not entitled to recover until he surrenders or accounts for the same. Id. Proof that at the time of the commencement of the action he had possession of the same, was still the owner of it, but had lost it, held prima facie sufficient. Id. The vendor under a conditional sale electing to retake the property absolutely, the consideration for obligations or security given for the purchase price fails, and he can neither collect upon the one nor enforce payment of the other. White v. Gray's Sons, 96 App. Div. 154, 89 N. Y. S. 481. This is true, though it be claimed that he took the property as trustee for the buyer, and in such case the buyer is entitled to have the value of the property offset against the balance of the purchase price remaining unpaid. Id.

51. Wilmerding v. Rhodes-Haverty Furniture Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 100. May seize and remove it while in the hands of an administrator of the buyer. Id.

ute.[52] By voluntarily surrendering the property and attending the sale without making complaint, the buyer does not waive irregularities therein.[53] The seller bringing an action of trover and electing to take a money judgment, the damages cannot exceed the value of the property at the time of the conversion with interest or hire, or the highest proved value between the conversion and the trial as the plaintiff may elect,[54] and in fixing such damages, interest should be calculated at the conventional rate, if the note containing the contract of sale so stipulates;[55] but in no event are attorney's fees part of the damages.[56] As a general rule the buyer cannot waive statutory requirements.[57] The seller may waive[58] or consent to breaches, but the consent in such case must be strictly construed.[59] The seller transferring the purchase-money note without recourse and without transferring title to the property to the purchaser of the note, the buyers of the property thereby become invested with the title thereto.[60] The constructions placed on various statutes are shown in the notes.[61]

Rights of third persons. Notice, record and filing.[62]—Except in those states where recordation is required,[63] the original seller may recover the property even from a bona fide purchaser.[64] Where by a conditional sale a resident purchases

52. Rev. Civ. Code, § 2303, providing the measure of damages to be recovered. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. White Rock Lumber & Hardware Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 854.

53. Acts 1899, p. 117, c. 81, construed. Massillon Engine & Thresher Co. v. Wilkes [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 316.

54. Though balance due on debt may be a large sum. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143.

55. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143.

56. Although there may be a stipulation to that effect in the note, and the evidence may disclose a state of facts which would authorize a recovery of attorney's fees if the suit had been directly upon the note and there had been a claim for such fees. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143.

57. A provision in the contract of sale that the buyer waived his right to a sale of the property at public auction in case of breach of the condition as required by Acts 1899, p. 117, c. 81, held not binding on the buyer. Massillon Engine & Thresher Co. v. Wilkes [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 316. An instrument by the buyer by which he waives the right given by Rev. Laws, c. 198, § 13, requiring the seller before taking possession on default to furnish a statement of the amount due, etc., held against public policy and void. Desseau v. Holmes [Mass.] 73 N. E. 656.

58. Removal of goods by vendee in a conditional sale and in violation of the terms of such sale held waived by the vendor mailing him at his new address a copy of the sale. Brown v. Goldthwait Furniture Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 71.

59. The seller consenting to a mortgage to a designated party, the buyer is not authorized to mortgage the property to another. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646.

60. McCullough v. Pritchett, 120 Ga. 585, 48 S. E. 148.

61. California: Under Civ. Code, §§ 3049, 3311, subd. 1, the purchaser under a conditional sale making default, the seller reselling the property is entitled to recover the balance due after crediting the amount received at the sale. Matteson v. Equitable Min. & Mill Co., 143 Cal. 436, 77 P. 144.

Massachusetts: St. 1898, p. 531, c. 545, in substance re-enacted in Rev. Laws, c. 198, § 13, which provides that the vendor in a conditional sale shall give 30 days notice, etc., to vendee before taking possession for default, applies only where the breach relied on is default in the payment of money. Brown v. Goldthwait Furniture Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 71.

Tennessee: Acts 1899, p. 117, c. 81, providing that if the seller take possession on default he must sell the goods at auction and account to the buyer for the proceeds less the amount due under the contract, is constitutional. Massillon Engine & Thresher Co. v. Wilkes [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 316.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1586.

63. Kentucky: The sale is governed by the laws relating to mortgages and must be recorded. In re Ducker, 133 F. 771, afd. 134 F. 43.

Massachusetts: St. 1894, p. 355, c. 326, requiring a conditional sale of street railway rolling stock to be recorded in order to be valid as against bona fide purchasers, held to mean the car and not its component parts, as the trucks, motors, trolley poles, etc. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646.

New Jersey: Holder of bonds secured by a trust mortgage executed prior to the conditional sale, held not such a subsequent purchaser or mortgagee. Tilford v. Atlantic Match Co., 134 F. 924.

Ohio: Under Rev. St. Ohio, § 4155-2, a conditional sale being unrecorded at the time of the bankruptcy of the purchaser, it is void as against his creditors, whether their claims arose before or after the contract was made. Dolle v. Cassell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 52.

Oregon: Bill of sale intended as a mortgage must be recorded. Culver v. Randle [Or.] 78 P. 394.

64. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646; Goodgame v. Sanders, 140 Ala. 247, 37 So. 200. Mere in-property of a nonresident for use in a foreign state, upon the property being subsequently brought into the state where the buyer resides, the contract of sale becomes subject to the recording acts of such state;[65] but the conditional sale being made in the state where the parties reside and where the property is situated and delivered, and without any agreement or intention that the property is to be removed to another state, upon such removal the lex loci contractus still governs the rights of the buyer.[66] While a trustee in bankruptcy is not a subsequent purchaser, pledgee, or mortgagee in good faith,[67] he nevertheless takes title to property sold the bankrupt under an unrecorded conditional sale in those states wherein such a sale is void as to creditors.[68] Where recordation is required but not complied with, the buyer must show that he is a bona fide purchaser.[69] The goods being sold with the intent that they should be resold, an innocent purchaser for value takes title superior to the original seller.[70] Where the sale must be recorded within a reasonable time, the day after delivery is sufficient.[71] A selling agent of the seller may take the buyer's acknowledgment.[72] In some states if the buyer be in possession, the bona fide purchaser is protected.[73]

SALVAGE; SATISFACTION AND DISCHARGE, see latest topical index.

SAVING QUESTIONS FOR REVIEW.

§ 1. Inviting Error (1368).
§ 2. Acquiescing in Error (1371).
§ 3. Mode of Objection, Whether by Objection, Motion or Request (1375).
§ 4. Necessity of Objection (1376).
§ 5. Necessity of Motion or Request. In General (1382). Motion for a Judgment or Nonsuit, or to Direct a Verdict (1383). Motion to Strike Out (1383). Motion for a New Trial (1384). Request for Instructions (1386). Request for Findings (1387).
§ 6. Necessity of Ruling (1388).
§ 7. Necessity of Exception (1388). Time of Taking Exceptions (1391).
§ 8. Form and Sufficiency of Objection (1392).
§ 9. Sufficiency of Exception (1396).
§ 10. Waiver of Objections and Exceptions Taken (1398).

Scope of title.—This title comprehends those things which must be done or left undone in the lower court, if an objecting party would keep his right to challenge the error averred, on a review of the resultant judgment. The manner of objecting to pleadings is treated elsewhere.[74]

§ 1. Inviting error.[75]—A party cannot complain of an error which he himself invites,[76] or is instrumental in bringing about,[77] or to which he contributes,[78]

ference held insufficient to overcome positive testimony that original seller retained title. Id. In Utah conditional sales are valid not only as between the parties to the contract, but also, in the absence of fraud, as to third parties, and do not fall within the chattel mortgage act. Freed Furniture & Carpet Co. v. Sorensen [Utah] 79 P. 564; Kidder v. Wittler-Corbin Machinery Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 301.

Alabama: Under Loc. Acts 1898-99, p. 1120, a conditional sale in Montgomery county need not be recorded. Bronson v. Russell [Ala.] 37 So. 672.

65. Cooper v. Philadelphia Worsted Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 733.

66. Lees v. Harding, Whitman & Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 352; Studebaker Bros. Co. v. Mau [Wyo.] 80 P. 151.

67. Hewit v. Berlin Mach. Works, 194 U. S. 296, 48 Law. Ed. 986.

68. In re Smith, 132 F. 301; In re Tweed, 131 F. 355. Pennsylvania rule. In re Butterwick, 131 F. 371.

69. Crumrine v. Reynolds [Wyo.] 78 P. 402.

70. South Bend Iron Works v. Reedy [Del.] 60 A. 698.

71. Gen. St. 1902, § 4864, construed. National Cash Register Co. v. Lesko [Conn.] 58 A. 967.

72. National Cash Register Co. v. Lesko [Conn.] 58 A. 967.

73. Illinois: Conditional sale may be asserted at any time where the rights of a judgment creditor or innocent purchaser have not intervened. Walkau v. Manitowoc Seating Co., 105 Ill. App. 130.

Iowa: The bona fide purchaser of the vendee in a conditional sale is entitled to the protection of Code, § 2905, providing that no conditional sale shall be valid as against any purchaser from the vendee in actual possession, unless the purchaser had notice, though the bona fide purchaser was in wrongful possession at the time of his purchase. Rock Island Plow Co. v. Maynard Sav. Bank, 123 Iowa, 640, 99 N. W. 298.

74. See Pleading, § 10, 4 Curr. L. 1031.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1590.

76. Error in rendering judgment on third count of declaration without disposing of or for which he is to blame.[79] Thus, he cannot complain of a ruling made,[80] or a declaration of law given, at his request,[81] of the admission or exclusion of evidence obtained at his instance,[82] of the introduction by his adversary of evidence which he has himself previously introduced,[83] or subsequently brings out on cross-examination,[84] of the submission of a question of law to the jury at his own request,[85] or of the submission of an issue raised by him,[86] of a verdict[87] or judgment rendered against him at his own request,[88] of a decree in conformity with the prayer of his pleadings,[89] or of a verdict in the exact sum which he in his answer admitted the damages to be,[90] question the admissibility of his own evidence,[91] nor object that a fact was not proved where proof was prevented by his own objection,[92] or issue made by first count. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Peers, 205 Ill. 531, 68 N. E. 1065. Errors invited, waived, or immaterial. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68. Where matters of inducement in answer are denied, error in admission of evidence tending to prove them is invited by pleadings. Fleishman v. Meyer [Or.] 80 P. 209.

77. Huddleson v. Polk [Neb.] 100 N. W. 802. Exercise of additional challenges in selection of struck jury. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242. Defendant cannot claim error in denying a motion to strike out certain evidence, where leave to withdraw it is subsequently denied upon his objection. Kahn v. Triest-Rosenberg Cap. Co., 139 Cal. 340, 73 P. 164. Of remarks made in reply to his own argument. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Goswick [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 423. A litigant may not defeat his opponent because the latter has omitted to do that which the former has made it impossible or futile for him to perform. Plattner Implement Co. v. International Harvester Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 376.

78. Of court's use of expressions requiring jury to find that defendant's negligence contributed to his injury, where his own requests contain same requirement. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. McAdams [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1076.

79. Where, after striking plaintiff's reply, court recalled its decision and defendant withdrew his objections to motion for leave to file same, but plaintiff failed to file it, he cannot object that court erred in striking same. Wilhite v. Coombs [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 772.

80. Ruling sustaining his objection to evidence. Holmes v. Seaman [Neb.] 100 N. W. 417; Drainage Com'rs of Drainage Dist. No. 2 v. Drainage Com'rs of Union Drainage Dist. No. 3, 211 Ill. 328, 71 N. E. 1007. That amendment sets up new cause of action. Butler v. Tifton, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 817, 49 S. E. 763. To determine question of title and right to redeem on motion to confirm judicial sale. Mercer v. McPherson [Kan.] 79 P. 118. Where plaintiff's objection to introduction of evidence as to conditions after certain date could not complain of subsequent similar limitation of his own evidence in rebuttal. Murray v. Butte [Mont.] 77 P. 527. Overruling motion for new trial. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 38.

81. Clough v. Stillwell Meat Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 580.

82. Of the exclusion of evidence which his own objections have assisted in keeping out of the record (Huddleson v. Polk [Neb.] 100 N. W. 802), or claim error in the admission or exclusion of evidence when he himself obtains the ruling (Id.). Brought out by his own suggestion. Hyland v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 879.

83. Letters. Eastland v. Maney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 574.

84. Beyer v. Isaacs, 93 N. Y. S. 312; Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. v. Monfort [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1029; Eastham v. Hunter [illegible] S. W. 323; Stowe v. La Conner Trading & Transportation Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 856. Cannot complain that witness had not shown himself qualified to give opinion, where he himself establishes his qualifications on cross-examination. Speck v. Kenoyer [Ind.] 73 N. E. 896.

85. Where he asked instructions on theory that it was question of fact and asked that special findings in regard to it be submitted. Walker v. Freeman, 209 Ill. 17, 70 N. E. 595. Or mixed question of law and fact. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49. Construction of contract. Creelman Lumber Co. v. De Lisle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 205.

86. Parties raising issue of legitimacy of appellee, thereby challenging her right to contest will, and having taken initiative in introducing proof thereon. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242.

87. Where counsel invites jury to return verdict for defendant if it finds that plaintiff is entitled to nominal damages, cannot complain of their doing so, where evidence would support verdict for such damages. Langdon v. Clarke [Neb.] 103 N. W. 62.

88. Where, on reversal of judgment in their favor, plaintiffs applied to court of appeals to render judgment against them, so that they could have ruling revised by supreme court. Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Lee [Tex.] 82 S. W. 1025.

89. Crawford v. Ft. Dodge Plaster Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 479.

90. Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 55, 78 P. 133.

91. Competency of his own witness (Barker v. Citizens' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 866), or the admissibility of his opinion called out by his own questions (Id.). As to meaning of term "winter season" in insurance policy. Id.

92. Hahl v. Brooks, 213 Ill. 134, 72 N. E. 727; Huddleson v. Polk [Neb.] 100 N. W. 802. Does not apply where the objection was that the testimony was not offered in chief and was not proper rebuttal, and not that it was incompetent or unnecessary.

where he admitted its truth on trial.[93] A party voluntarily suing in equity cannot thereafter claim that the action should have been brought at law, where the court has jurisdiction.[94] Where both parties are equally at fault, neither can complain of the common error.[95]

A party cannot complain of instructions given at his own request,[96] or substantially the same as those requested by him,[97] or adopting a theory urged by him.[98]

A requested instruction submitted after the general charge has left the judge's hands,[99] or one refused as having been given in the main charge,[1] or which is not

Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874. One who induces the court to exclude competent evidence of his opponent on the sole ground that no evidence in support of his claim is admissible cannot sustain the ruling on the ground that he did not offer to prove all the facts requisite to sustain his claim. Plattner Implement Co. v. International Harvester Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 376.

93. Where counsel admits that company is a mutual one, and claims that it has confessed that fact and urges the court to consider it. Wilson v. Union Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Vt.] 58 A. 799.

94. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244.

95. Where both introduce evidence as to value alone, without restricting it to market value. Schrodt v. St. Joseph [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 543.

96. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011; South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 86 S. W. 970; Esler v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. Or of inconsistencies and contradictions caused thereby. Deckerd v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 982. Because no evidence to support it. Wilkerson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 336, 80 S. W. 308. Because did not harmonize with court's oral charge, even though previously refused and then given by consent of other party. Birmingham Belt R. Co. v. Gerganous [Ala.] 37 So. 929. Partial compliance with request. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696. Because calculated to confuse. Manchester Assur. Co. v. Dowell & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2240, 80 S. W. 207. Cannot complain of modifications without which requests could not have been given. Pearlstine v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 4. Party at whose request instruction allowing three-fourths verdict is given cannot, on appeal, question validity of statute authorizing such verdict. Hugus & Co. v. Hardenburg [Colo. App.] 76 P. 543.

97. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234; Griffin v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 516; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 44. Cannot object to an instruction submitting a defense in the manner in which he has alleged it and in the manner in which he requested its submission in a special instruction refused by the court. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020.

Same as those given at his request. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Kothmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1089; Jacksonville & St. L. R. Co. v. Wilhite, 209 Ill. 84, 70 N. E. 583; Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011; Gerst v. St. Louis [Mo.] 84 S. W. 34. Where defendant requested instruction that failure to keep books in accordance with its provisions avoided insurance policy, could not question court's action in submitting issue of its violation to jury, nor its adverse finding thereon. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. Requested instruction refused by court held not to have invited error in instruction submitting issue of carrier's liability for goods lost. Bibb v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 663.

Given on behalf of his adversary. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561; Creelman Lumber Co. v. De Lisle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 205. Submitting same issues. Walker v. Robertson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1183. Announcing same rule of law. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 821. Submitting issue of discovered peril. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 248. Meaning of instructions as to quantum of proof the same. Woods v. Dailey, 211 Ill. 495, 71 N. E. 1068.

98. Where defendant requested and was granted instruction that plaintiff could not recover on note if defendant showed that it was without consideration, he could not complain of instruction that burden was on him to show want of consideration. Farnsworth v. Fraser [Mich.] 100 N. W. 400. Rule not changed by fact that defendant was administrator, and note was given by his intestate. Id. Where both parties submit instructions on the same theory and with reference to the same subject-matter, one cannot complain that the subject was not a proper matter to be submitted to the jury (Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark [Ill.] 73 N. E. 787), or that they were erroneous (Id.). Where defendants procured giving of instructions which did not require finding that reasonable time had elapsed within which it should have removed obstructions, could not contend that plaintiff's instructions were erroneous because omitting reference to question of time to remove them. City of Ottawa v. Hayne [Ill.] 73 N. E. 385. Defendant cannot complain of instruction that plaintiff could not recover unless he was using reasonable care "immediately before and at the time of the accident," where in drawing the first part of the instruction he himself used words "at the time of the accident." Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Coggins, 212 Ill. 369, 72 N. E. 376. That issues submitted vary from those raised by pleadings. McKinstry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1108.

99. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. McDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 493.

1. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex.] 81 S. W. 27. Error in charge as to mental anguish held not invited. Id.

called to the court's attention or passed upon, cannot be regarded as the basis of invited error.[2]

§ 2. Acquiescing in error.[3]—A party cannot complain of irregularities or errors to which he consented,[4] or in which he acquiesced.[5] Thus, he cannot appeal from or assign error upon a decree rendered by his consent.[6] One acquiescing in a course of procedure assuming the existence of a fact will be deemed to have admitted it, and cannot, on appeal, interpose any objection thereto not made on the trial.[7]

The province of the supreme court is to pass upon questions raised in and passed upon by the court below.[8] Hence all errors relied on must have been in

2. Plaintiff not estopped to complain of refusal of requested instruction that it was negligence not to give crossing signal by presence in record of his request to submit question whether it was negligence to jury, where it did not appear that latter request was called to court's attention or passed upon. Hawkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 52.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1591.

4. Of fact that one juror did not view premises, where expressly consented to view by eleven. Desverges v. Goette, 121 Ga. 65, 48 S. E. 693. Manner of certifying shorthand notes of evidence. Hofacre v. Monticello [Iowa] 103 N. W. 488. Submission of issue to jury. Dittel v. Bowsky, 90 N. Y. S. 365. Of juror's misconduct, where he consents to his discharge, and to proceed with eleven. Texarkana & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Tolliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 375. Cannot claim surprise by reason of the allowance of an amendment, where he fails to ask for a continuance on that ground. Helbig v. Grays Harbor Elec. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 612.

5. Where performed conditions precedent to setting aside a default judgment, could not complain of the conditions upon an appeal from a second judgment rendered against him. Doyle v. Burns, 123 Iowa, 488, 99 N. W. 195. Cannot urge that issues should have been tried by jury when he did not demand a jury and submitted the case to the court. West v. Bank of Caruthersville [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 601. Objection to refusal to give instructions cannot be considered where party acquiesces in court's statement that he thought he had already covered them, by failure to object thereto. Roth v. Slobodien [N. J. Law] 60 A. 59. Where misjoinder of causes of action was fairly before the court on a motion to compel plaintiff to separately state and number them, and defendants did not appeal from an adverse ruling thereon, they were not entitled to thereafter raise the objection by demurrer. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 92 N. Y. S. 525. Party deeming terms imposed as condition of allowing him to withdraw juror unsatisfactory should decline to accept order and proceed with trial. Rawson v. Silo, 93 N. Y. S. 416. Where he accepts them and takes affirmative steps to carry them into effect, as by asking permission to conform pleading to ruling. Easton v. Woodbury [S. C.] 50 S. E. 790. Objection to ruling on evidence waived by saying "That is all right, your honor," and stating that the witness had answered the question. Davis v. Collins [S. C.] 48 S. E. 469. A party accepting a bill of exceptions as signed by the judge cannot thereafter question its correctness. Collins v. George, 102 Va. 509, 46 S. E. 684. A party accepting the verdict as reduced cannot complain of the action of the court in requiring him to remit a part of it on penalty of having it set aside. Lynchburg Telephone Co. v. Bokker [Va.] 50 S. E. 148.

6. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89.

7. That plaintiff was damaged by reason of conditions existing at point of injury, and that conditions resulted from defendant's negligence. Keneally v. New York City R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 770. That agency was proved. Hopkins v. Rodgers, 91 N. Y. S. 749. Where case was tried on theory of liability under employer's liability act, and no objection to the sufficiency of the complaint to state a cause of action thereunder was made at the trial, the action will be treated as under the statute on appeal. Braunberg v. Solomon, 92 N. Y. S. 506. The correctness of an assumption made by the court and counsel upon the trial cannot be disputed where no question in reference thereto was raised on the trial and no request made to submit the case to the jury on any other theory. That person had authority to make contract for defendant. Fox v. New York, etc., R. Co., 95 App. Div. 132, 88 N. Y. S. 519. Held to construction of stipulated facts adopted below. Gurney v. Brown [Colo.] 77 P. 357. That amendment was not formally made where case was tried on theory that it was in and that matter therein was traversed. Balfe v. Hanley [Colo. App.] 78 P. 78. Instruction asked and given for defendant, leaving it to jury to determine whether defendant maintained certain telegraph pole, or "permitted it to exist," in its yard, estopped defendant from insisting on appeal that it was necessary for plaintiff to prove, in order to escape variance, that defendant had erected pole or permitted it to be erected. Illinois Terminal R. Co. v. Thompson, 210 Ill. 226, 71 N. E. 328. That there was no variance between the opposite party's pleading and proof. Where objection was made at opening of trial and bill of particulars was amended, after which objection was not renewed. Linsell v. Linsell [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1009. That cause of action was ex contractu. Logan v. Freerks [N. D.] 103 N. W. 426.

8. O'Connor v. Hitzler [Colo. App.] 80 P. 474; Phillips v. Heraty [Mich.] 100 N. W. 186.

some manner brought to the attention of the trial judge,[9] and as a general rule, questions not raised in the lower court will not be considered on appeal.[10] This acquiescence may apply to a right or claim not asserted below,[11] to the right to file an amended affidavit of service,[12] to a failure to file an amended pleading,[13] to defects of procedure,[14] to the form of the action and the mode and manner of trial,[15]

9. District of Columbia v. Dietrich, 23 App. D. C. 577; Van Alstyne v. Franklin Council, No. 41 [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 818; O'Donnell v. Weiler [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055. Absence of evidence as to agreed price of goods sold. O'Connor v. Hitzler [Colo. App.] 80 P. 474. That stipulated facts did not establish certain essential facts. Gurney v. Brown [Colo.] 77 P. 357. Statement in argument that claim for services might be filed against estate could not be objected to on ground that time for filing claims had expired, where no such answer suggested below. Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477. General demurrer to evidence cannot be used to inject into case questions not specifically called to attention of trial court, and upon which he did not rule. Chinn v. Naylor, 182 Mo. 583, 81 S. W. 1109. Where, on motion to dismiss at opening of case, parties rested their claims solely upon question whether plaintiff could recover under statute relied on or at common law, plaintiff could not complain of dismissal without permitting him to offer proof, unless he was entitled to maintain the action under the statute or at common law. Eckes v. Stetler, 90 N. Y. S. 473. Matters of omission. Failure to pass upon issue in conclusions. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 286. Where appellant in pleadings rested right to relief solely on ground that property was his rural homestead and did not suggest to court that he desired to select any portion of it if it was decided to be urban, and did not set up in motion for new trial that he would have selected different lots than court set apart for him, cannot complain of court's action in so doing. Harris v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1198. The court of appeals cannot certify to the supreme court a question not raised by the pleadings and not presented to or ruled upon by the court below. Nabours v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 153. Assignment complaining of overruling of demurrer will not be considered where does not appear that demurrer was called to court's attention or that ruling thereon was invoked. Smith v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 936. Where plaintiff sued to recover possession of lot and filed bill of particulars showing that he had lost title to a part of it by tax foreclosure sale, and demurrer to complaint was sustained, he was not precluded from obtaining reversal of judgment, because he did not call court's attention to fact that foreclosure did not include whole lot, in absence of actual deceit on his part. Morrison v. Berlin [Wash.] 79 P. 1114. The court's action in entering a default judgment without notice to defendant will not be reviewed in the absence of a motion to set such judgment aside. Walton v. Hartman [Wash.] 80 P. 196. Ordinarily a new trial will not be granted because of propositions which are afterthoughts, or which were not carefully and properly submitted to the jury during the course of the trial. Kenney v. Knight, 127 F. 403.

10. Cole v. Jerman [Conn.] 59 A. 425; Inhabitants of Verona v. Bridges, 98 Me. 491, 57 A. 797; Michigan Sanitarium & Benevolent Ass'n v. Battle Creek [Mich.] 101 N. W. 855. Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 802. Marsh v. Keating [Conn.] 60 A. 689. Questions not raised upon trial, urged on motion for new trial, or assigned as error in appellate court deemed waived. Dunn v. Crichfield [Ill.] 73 N. E. 386. Where defendant excepted to a ruling as to the declarations, but asked for no ruling on the declaration as amended, and, in his opening to the jury, stated that his only defense was a question of fact, he cannot contend that amended declaration did not set forth a cause of action. Gerrish v. Hayes [Mass.] 70 N. E. 42. Issue of fact which neither party submitted or sought to submit to the jury for their decision. Will not consider point that evidence is insufficient to show tender, where not raised below, and no instructions asked in regard to it. Bertrand v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1089. Unless fundamental. Evans v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 375. Trial court held to have properly refused to determine question of plaintiff's liability for part of expense of maintaining defendant's school. School Dist. No. 9 v. School Dist. No. 5 [Wis.] 101 N. W. 681.

11. Adverse possession. Shirey v. Clark [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1057. Contention that defendant had a right to remove school building. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999. A claim not made in the complaint, but advanced for the first time in the brief on appeal. Stein v. Waddell [Wash.] 80 P. 184. Failure to allow set-offs. Colston v. Miller, 55 W. Va. 490, 47 S. E. 268. On appeal from order granting preliminary injunction for infringement of copyright, court cannot consider argument that similarity of articles was due to their having been derived from common sources where no such suggestion was made in court below and no evidence in that regard was offered. Werner Co. v. Encyclopaedia Britanica Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 831.

12. State Board of Pharmacy v. Jacob, 92 N. Y. S. 836.

13. Mayo v. Halley, 124 Iowa, 675, 100 N. W. 529.

14. Appropriateness of cross bill. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89.

15. Whether action at law is maintainable for conversion of property pledged, when transaction is evidenced by bill of sale. Loftus v. Agrant [S. D.] 99 N. W. 99. That case tried in equity court was not one of equity jurisdiction. Gerstle v. Vandergriffe [Ark.] 79 S. W. 776; Jennie Clarkson Home for Children v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 348. Where such question the bill. Mortimer v. Potter, 213 Ill. 178, 72 was not raised by demurrer or answer to N. E. 817. Hearing proceedings to forfeit to the right of certain attorneys to take part in the trial,[16] to matters of defense,[17] to a variance between the pleadings and the proof,[18] to misconduct of the jury,[19] to the question whether a particular issue is for the court or the jury,[20] to the form of submission of issues,[21] to errors in the charge,[22] to the allowance of costs[23] or attorney's fees,[24] to a failure to award the relief to which a party is entitled,[25] to the form of the verdict,[26] and to the objection that the judgment is not in conformity to the decree.[27] liquor license at special term. State v. Barnett [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 460.

16. Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477.

17. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025; Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Bailey, 25 Ky. L. R. 1456, 78 S. W. 119. Title cannot be attacked on ground not raised by pleadings or proof. First Nat. Bank v. Waddell [Ark.] 85 S. W. 417. Question whether certain fruit was shipped from first steamer. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084. That bond was without consideration. Town of Hudson v. Miles, 185 Mass. 582, 71 N. E. 63. That plaintiff could not complain of fraud because had not returned stock which he was fraudulently induced to acquire. Smith v. McDonald [Mich.] 102 N. W. 738. Usury. Webb v. Downes [Minn.] 101 N. W. 966. That an ordinance regulating the speed of street cars did not apply to the street where the accident occurred. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140. That contract violated Federal anti-trust act. New York Bank Note Co. v. Hamilton Bank Note Engraving & Printing Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 48. Res judicata. Ex parte Landrum [S. C.] 48 S. E. 47. That plaintiff is not entitled to equitable relief because did not make tender. Finks v. Hollis [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 463. Error in rendering judgment because of insufficiency of a tender. Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & W. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 742. The constitutionality of a statute. Norwich Gas & Elec. Co. v. Norwich [Conn.] 57 A. 746; In re Andersen, 178 N. Y. 416, 70 N. E. 921. Constitutional points cannot be considered unless squarely raised below, the ruling thereon properly challenged and exceptions saved and preserved in a bill of exceptions, or unless embedded in the record proper. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. Ordinance. City of Excelsior Springs v. Ettenson [Mo.] 86 S. W. 255. Objections to special assessments for local improvements, except that the court has no jurisdiction over the subject-matter. That ordinance authorizing improvement required further legislation to make it operative, and that officer making assessment was not legally qualified to do so. Fisher v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680. Right of objector to tax to appear and be heard on ground of want of interest in lands. People v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 315. Where, in action for breach of contract to purchase granite, no allusion was made at trial to value of granite left in quarry which would have been removed if contract had been performed, verdict for plaintiff would not be set aside on ground that its value should have been deducted from damages. Broadnax v. United Engineering & Contracting Co., 128 F. 649.

18. Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240; Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50; Dawes v. Great Falls [Mont.] 77 P. 309. Question must be raised in statutory manner, and must be shown that party was prejudiced. Mere objection to evidence insufficient. Huey Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996.

See, also, Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980.

19. Werner v. Interurban St. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 592, 91 N. Y. S. 111. Irregularity in the answering of a question by a witness accompanying the jury on a view. Wood v. Moulton [Cal.] 80 P. 92. That juror slept. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

20. Existence of probable cause in action for malicious prosecution. Motions for nonsuit and direction of verdict based solely on insufficiency of evidence to show want of probable cause, question was treated as one for jury, and no exceptions to charge or refusal of requests. McFadden v. Lane [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 365. Cannot complain that a counterclaim was erroneously submitted to the jury where he made no motion to take the case from the jury and did not except to the instructions. Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505.

21. Stahl v. Askey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 79.

22. Schenck v. Griffith [Ark.] 86 S. W. 850; Vacca v. Martucci, 90 N. Y. S. 356; Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126. Cannot object to instruction as stating wrong measure of damages where did not object to evidence in regard thereto, or except to instruction, or request different ones. Story v. Nidiffer [Cal.] 80 P. 692. Language deemed misleading, if charge is otherwise clear and distinct on issues. Cody v. Duluth St. R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 397; Fox v. Ralston [Iowa] 102 N. W. 424. Narrating evidence. Place v. Place [Mich.] 102 N. W. 996. Errors in stating issues. Turner v. Lyles, 68 S. C. 392, 48 S. E. 301. Omission to state certain elements of damage. Stewart v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 310. Inadvertent expressions not affecting verdict. Mountain Copper Co. v. Van Buren [C. C. A.] 133 F. 1.

23. Provision for costs and allowance of execution in judgment. La Grange v. Merritt, 96 App. Div. 61, 89 N. Y. S. 32. By clerk. Guffey v. Alaska & P. S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 271.

24. Failure to include fees in judgment. Metz v. Winne [Okl.] 79 P. 223.

25. Plaintiffs cannot complain of failure of court to enforce lien in their favor for taxes paid by them on lands awarded to defendant, where did not request such relief. Wilcox v. Smith [Wash.] 80 P. 803.

26. Failure to recite certain facts there-

Change of theory.[28]—On appeal, the parties are confined to the same theory as that on which the case was tried below,[29] and to the grounds of objection there urged.[30] Nor can they assume a different position in the supreme court from that in. Evans v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 375.

27. Walker v. Cassels [S. C.] 49 S. E. 862.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1593.

29. Benton Land Co. v. Zeitler, 182 Mo. 251, 81 S. W. 193; Kennefick-Hammond Co. v. Norwich Union Fire Ins. Soc. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 694; Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson [Wash.] 80 P. 813. Where defendant did not question regularity of appointment of one as referee, or authority to act in that capacity, but merely objected to sufficiency of report, cannot claim error in treating report as that of referee because designated as master in chancery in order appointing him. Peabody v. Munson, 211 Ill. 324, 71 N. E. 1006. Where a judgment is pleaded only for the purpose of recovering costs in a former suit and to show disseisin, defendant, who did not plead it as a bar to the action, could not raise that question. Newburn v. Lucas [Iowa] 101 N. W. 730. Sufficiency of defense that property covered by contract of sale is homestead and wife of vendor did not join cannot be questioned where issues made and case tried below on theory that such facts constituted good defense. Ormsby v. Graham, 123 Iowa, 202, 98 N. W. 724. Request to charge held not to call attention to fact that objection was made because claim against city was not properly presented to council, and hence question could not be considered on appeal. Spier v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 101 N. W. 846. Where defendant's requests assumed that truckmen, alleged to have committed assault, were in their employ, could not claim that they were temporarily in employ of another. Canton v. Grinnell [Mich.] 101 N. W. 811. Objections to evidence insufficient to call attention to those urged on appeal. In re Condemnation of Lands in Ramsey County [Minn.] 100 N. W. 650. Where case tried on theory that defendant was guilty of negligence at common law, plaintiff cannot rely on statute not pleaded or relied on at trial. Glaser v. Rothschild, 106 Mo. App. 418, 80 S. W. 332. Where treated ordinance limiting speed of cars as applying to defendant's cars at point named and issue arising by virtue of it was submitted to jury at its request, defendant cannot contend that did not apply to its cars at point named. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140. Where appellant tried case below on theory that plaintiff owned shore land, must try it on same theory. Chinn v. Naylor, 182 Mo. 583, 81 S. W. 1109. Cannot urge different construction of agreement not suggested by motion or request. Ascheim v. Levinsohn, 91 N. Y. S. 157. Where complaint and judgment for plaintiff were based on theory that defendant refused to accept goods sold in accordance with modified contract extending time for delivery, he could not contend in defense of the judgment that defendant had waived his default in failing to deliver goods within time specified. Birkett v. Nichols, 90 N. Y. S. 257. Where, in assumpsit, the affidavit of defense denies the contract sued on, and the case is tried on that issue, cannot contend that the action was prematurely brought. Welch v. Miller [Pa.] 59 A. 1065. Where action tried as one to try title and judgment rendered for plaintiff on that theory, he cannot contend that it is one for forcible entry and detainer. Fifer v. Fifer [N. D.] 99 N. W. 763. Where on trial corporation claimed lien superior to mortgagee on whole proceeds of certain property, and introduced no evidence as to separate value of land and improvements for which it had furnished materials after execution of mortgage, could not claim priority in part of proceeds derived from improvements. Vaughan Lumber Co. v. Martin [Tex.] 81 S. W. 1. Where tried on theory that statute is unconstitutional, cannot contend that contract comes within exceptions thereof. Normile v. Thomson [Wash.] 79 P. 1095.

30. To evidence: Glos v. McKerlie, 212 Ill. 632, 72 N. E. 700; Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009; Williams v. Dittenhoefer [Mo.] 86 S. W. 242; Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10; Smithers v. Lowrance [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1088; City of Austin v. Forbis [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 29; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Birdwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1067; Beebe v. Redward, 35 Wash. 615, 77 P. 1052. Where admission of protest of note was objected to on ground that it was not competent because suit was against guarantor, could not raise question that protest could only be proved by certified copy of notary's record. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575. The urging of a single specific objection waives all others. Id. Objection held not to suggest claim that failure to remove deposits affected measure of damages. Neely v. Detroit Sugar Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 664. Where no reasons were suggested at trial for use of books of plaintiff's assignor which were not covered by plaintiff's admissions on record, defendant cannot contend that he was improperly denied right to use them on other grounds. Conroy v. Boeck, 91 N. Y. S. 80.

To amendment of a certificate of levy. People v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 315.

Grounds of demurrer: Cleland v. Hostetter [N. M.] 79 P. 801; Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Roberts [Va.] 49 S. E. 984.

Grounds for nonsuit (Warner v. Warner, 144 Cal. 615, 78 P. 24), or direction of verdict (Rawson v. Leggett, 97 App. Div. 416, 90 N. Y. S. 5). Rule does not apply where the defect is inherent and cannot be cured. Warner v. Warner, 144 Cal. 615, 78 P. 24. Grounds not assigned on motion to direct verdict should not, strictly speaking, be considered in support of judgment rendered pursuant thereto, but may be in view of practice in trial court to allow defendant, after motion to direct verdict has been overruled, to introduce evidence, and ask submission of all issues raised thereby. Brown v. Insurance Co., 21 App. D. C. 325. Motion having been based solely on the ground of contributory negligence, the question of the absence of negligence on the part of defend-taken in the appellate court.[31] So too when a case is tried on the theory that a certain issue is before the court, the point that it is not properly presented by the pleadings will not be heard on appeal.[32]

A party seeking to introduce evidence for a specific purpose cannot claim on appeal that it was admissible for a different purpose.[33] A party cannot avail himself of the testimony of an opposite party where, in order to do so, he will have to concede that his own evidence and the allegations of his pleadings are untrue, and that only a part of such testimony of the opposite party is true.[34]

§ 3. Mode of objection, whether by objection, motion or request.[35]—Defect of parties must be taken advantage of by demurrer or answer.[36] The objection that an amended petition states a new cause of action,[37] or that defenses are inconsistent, should be raised by motion to strike out.[38] ant cannot be considered. Zeliff v. New Jersey St. R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 541, 55 A. 96.

Ground for dismissing complaint: Zeisloft v. Blackburne Co., 91 N. Y. S. 8.

Grounds for new trial: Tillman v. International Harvester Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 71. Where a written motion is presented. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Chiaventone [Ill.] 73 N. E. 420. Submitting special interrogatories to jury without first submitting them to counsel. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark [Ill.] 73 N. E. 787. Grounds not insisted upon not considered. Knights Templar & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Crayton, 209 Ill. 550, 70 N. E. 1066. Motion for failure to give peremptory instruction will not enable court to review the failure to give other instructions. Muldoon v. Meriwether, 25 Ky. L. R. 2085, 79 S. W. 1183. Where notice of intention bases motion on ground of insufficiency of evidence to support findings, moving party cannot claim that making of findings was error of law. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

31. As to wording of letter. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

32. Parke & Lacy Co. v. San Francisco Bridge Co., 145 Cal. 534, 78 P. 1065; Schnitzer v. Cole, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 319. That estoppel is sufficiently pleaded. Willey v. Crocker-Woolworth Nat. Bank, 141 Cal. 508, 75 P. 106. Where tried on theory that right of interveners to equitable relief was sole question in case. Stelpflug v. Wolfe [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1130. That count stated cause of action under employer's liability statute, no demurrer being interposed or ruling on pleadings requested. Greenstein v. Chick [Mass.] 72 N. E. 955. Where issue of condonation in divorce case has been contested without objection, and condonation clearly appears, the court will deny relief, though such defense is not pleaded. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6. Material facts, though not pleaded, will be considered when proved by evidence received without objection. Alabama Steel & Wire Co. v. Symons [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 78. Where case is tried as though reply constituted denial of defenses in answer. Taussig v. St. Louis & K. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 378. Rule not changed by motion for peremptory instruction that plaintiff cannot recover under pleading and evidence where court's attention not directed to defects. Id. Cannot take exception to such a construction of pleadings in instructions. Carlson v. Hall, 124 Iowa, 121, 99 N. W. 571. Where plea and answer to bill are treated as interposing valid defenses not incompatible with each other by complainant, who files a general replication to both, and by chancellor, appellate court will so treat them, and hold that plea is not overruled by answer. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 56. In action in equity to obtain new trial of action at law, where petition is defective in not sufficiently showing nature of ruling in former action complained of, party offering evidence as to its nature cannot thereafter object to defect. Zweibel v. Caldwell [Neb.] 102 N. W. 84. Where an issue is tendered in the testimony without objection and evidence is offered thereon by both parties, the court may consider the pleadings amended to embrace it and submit it by instructions. Iverson v. McDonnell, 36 Wash. 73, 78 P. 202. Court not bound to instruct on issue not raised by pleadings, though evidence in regard thereto is admitted without objection. Thompson v. Bucholz [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 490.

33. Where, in action for malicious prosecution, sought to introduce it to show malice, could not claim that court erred in excluding it on ground that it was admissible in mitigation of damages. Adkin v. Pillen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 176. Where evidence is excluded as irrelevant, the court stating his understanding of its purpose, cannot claim that it was admissible to test the memory of the witness, such ground not having been called to court's attention. Bowick v. American Pipe Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 276.

34. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 346.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1594.

36. Defect of parties defendant; when sued he admitted that the warrants were issued to him but did not state that he was not the owner. Criswell v. Board of Directors of Everett School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420, 75 P. 984. Waived when objection is first made in the motion for a new trial. Mills' Ann. Code Colo. § 55. Applies to case originating in justice court, in which there were no written pleadings. Miller v. Kinsel [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1075.

37. Not by objection to reception of evidence. Phillips v. Barnes, 105 Mo. App. 421, 80 S. W. 43.

38. Not by request for an instruction. Harper v. Fidler, 105 Mo. App. 680, 78 S. W. 1034.

See, also, Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 1032.

Objections to the admission in evidence of a deposition on a ground going only to the time or manner of taking it must be presented by motion to suppress, and cannot be made for the first time on trial.[39]

Where a question depends altogether upon the evidence, it is properly raised by objection to the admissibility of testimony.[40] An objection that there is no evidence must be raised before verdict by a proper prayer for instructions to the jury.[41] Where the answer to an interrogatory is not sufficiently explicit, the remedy is by motion for a more explicit answer rather than by motion to dismiss.[42] Claims which might have been predicated on objections to evidence cannot be raised by exception to instructions on the ground of their materiality, where the question was properly submitted within the evidence received.[43] The proper way of correcting errors in the admission or rejection of evidence in a trial before a committee is by written remonstrance to the acceptance of its report, filed in the trial court.[44] General objections to the admissibility of evidence before a referee cannot be raised by exceptions to his report.[45]

An objection to the manner in which the bidding at a partition sale was conducted will not be considered where not raised by exceptions to the master's report, nor by assignments of error to the order of confirmation.[46]

Objection to the entering of a judgment on a general verdict which is inconsistent with special findings must be made in the lower court by a motion for judgment upon the special findings, notwithstanding the general verdict.[47]

The objection that the verdict is excessive is sufficiently raised by an exception to an instruction authorizing a recovery of the full amount claimed, and a motion for a new trial on the ground of such excessiveness.[48] Failure to object and except to the submission of specific questions to the jury is not cured by an exception to the direction of a general verdict based on their answers thereto.[49] Error in failure of jury to make finding on counterclaim is waived by failure to object when the verdict is returned, and, if not then corrected, by failure to call court's attention thereto by motion in arrest of judgment.[50]

§ 4. Necessity of objection.[51]—As a general rule in order that errors occurring at the trial or in the lower court may be saved for consideration upon appeal, objections thereto must be taken at the time, and if not so taken they will be deemed waived and will not be reviewed.[52] This rule applies to an objection to the form of the action,[53] or method of procedure,[54] to the sufficiency of motion papers,[55] to

39. Oliver v. Oregon Sugar Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1086.

40. Set-off by partner of partnership demand against himself individually, objection not mutual. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145.

41. N. C. Code, § 957, requiring supreme court to render such judgment as, on inspection of whole record, it appears ought to be rendered, does not change rule. Babcock Printing Press Mfg. Co. v. Herbert [N. C.] 49 S. E. 349.

42. Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601, 79 P. 209.

43. Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co. v. Burton [Minn.] 103 N. W. 335.

44. Geary v. New Haven, 76 Conn. 84, 55 A. 584.

45. Where no evidence was objected to. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

46. Black v. Black, 206 Pa. 116, 55 A. 847.

47. A motion for a new trial does not save the point. Drake v. Justice Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 75 P. 912.

48. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287.

49. Cooper v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 518.

50. Grier v. Strother [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 976.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1594.

52. Union Book Co. v. Robinson, 105 Ill. App. 236. That record on appeal from probate to district court failed to show which of two decrees was appealed from. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

53. Where cause is tried as equity case without objection, an appeal in accordance with equity practice cannot be objected to on ground that cause was in fact one at law, for which reason there should have been motion for new trial. Error in adopting kind of proceedings waived by failure to object at proper time [Mansf. Dig. § 4927; Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3132]. Howell v. Brown [Ind. T.] 83 S. W. 170. Where action to quiet title is tried on merits, without demurrer or objection, cannot contend that an order granting a change of venue,[56] to the admission,[57] exclusion,[58] or sufficiency facts as to possession showing no adequate remedy by ejectment do not appear from pleadings or evidence. McKinley v. Morgan, 36 Wash. 561, 79 P. 45.

54. That issues raised by pleas to the jurisdiction and to the merits were both submitted to the jury in the same trial. Padrosa v. High [Ga.] 50 S. E. 97. Irregularity of court's action in determining question of res judicata on motion that defendant be enjoined from pleading former judgment as defense. Vincent v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 963. May waive objections to remedies pursued in courts having jurisdiction of the subject-matter. Objection to reopening of decree on ground that petitioner was not party to it, having been improperly raised by answer instead of demurrer, and not having been insisted upon in court below, and case having been heard and determined on merits without reference thereto, held that a waiver resulted. Foster v. Phinizy, 121 Ga. 673, 49 S. E. 865. To permitting filing and litigation of counterclaim on trial of action for claim and delivery of personal property. Burt-Brabb Lumber Co. v. Crawford [Ky.] 86 S. W. 702.

55. Objection that do not comply with rules. Austrian Bentwood Furniture Co. v. Wright, 43 Misc. 618, 88 N. Y. S. 142.

56. Wright v. Kansas City [Mo.] 85 S. W. 452.

57. Ballow v. Collins, 139 Ala. 543, 36 So. 172; San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025; Marsh v. Bennett [Fla.] 38 So. 237; Fabian v. Traeger [Ill.] 74 N. E. 131; Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668; Reno v. St. Joseph, 169 Mo. 642, 70 S. W. 123; Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10; Goken v. Dallugge [Neb.] 101 N. W. 244; Lennox v. Interurban St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 230; Hyland v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 879; Shannon v. Marchbanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 860; Saenz v. Mumme & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 59; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601, 79 P. 209; Anderson v. Hilker [Wash.] 80 P. 848; Jefferson Hotel Co. v. Warren [C. C. A.] 128 F. 565. Where answer is responsive. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395. Must be regarded as correct. Schneider v. Sulzer, 212 Ill. 87, 72 N. E. 19. That proper foundation was not laid for impeaching evidence. Harrison v. Incorporated Town of Ayrshire, 123 Iowa, 528, 99 N. W. 132. That questions called for evidence of distinct prior acts of negligence. Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761. That evidence is irrelevant. Jordan v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 177, 99 N. W. 693. That it is parol and hence inadmissible to establish an express trust. Merritt-Allen Co. v. Torrence [Iowa] 102 N. W. 154. Not ground for reversal where not objected to and no motion to exclude it. South Covington & C. St. R. Co. v. Riegler's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 666, 82 S. W. 382. That confirmation of title, being by judgment, could not be shown by his testimony. Selleck v. Garland, 184 Mass. 596, 69 N. E. 345. That it was not admissible under the pleadings. Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450; Hellinger v. Marshall, 92 App. Div. 607, 86 N. Y. S. 1051. That defendants by introducing certain evidence denied allegations admitted by their pleadings to be true. Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. Objection, in ejectment, to master's deed in foreclosure, because files and records in foreclosure proceedings and order confirming sale were not introduced. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Graham [Mich.] 99 N. W. 408. It is not error to permit a question to be answered where the proper objection is not made and there is no motion to strike out the answer. Cameron v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 208; Young v. O'Brien, 36 Wash. 570, 79 P. 211. Parol proof of written contract. Wagner v. Ellis [Miss.] 37 So. 959. Objection to incompetency of witness waived by permitting her deposition to be read in probate court, and cannot be raised on trial de novo on appeal. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263. No reversal because court took it into consideration in his instructions, though was variance between it and pleadings. Spengler v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 312. That defendant was not entitled to allowance on ground that no claim therefor was pleaded, when objection not made to evidence. Bevier Black Diamond Coal Co. v. Watson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 287. Where evidence as to market value of cattle at real destination was not objected to and court, at defendant's request, submitted issue of damage based on value as proved. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1020. Except in case of incompetency of the witness, objections to declarations because not made in presence of defendant. Colston v. Miller, 55 W. Va. 490, 47 S. E. 268. Nonproduction of relevant letter, important as evidence, waived by failure to object to contents. Campbell v. Beard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 747. That transcript of judgment introduced in evidence was not properly certified. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636.

Incompetent testimony not objected to becomes competent. Hyland v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 879. Where fact proved is within issues. Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009. Becomes a part of the case, and may be considered. Webb v. Sweeney, 32 Ind. App. 54, 69 N. E. 200; Brightman v. Buffington, 184 Mass. 401, 68 N. E. 828; Secrist v. Eubank, 104 Mo. App. 113, 78 S. W. 315. Fact that evidence as to misrepresentations was received without objection held not to warrant finding that mortgage was wholly void, there being no such allegation in the pleadings, and the evidence being admissible on the issue of partial invalidity raised by the answer. Kittel v. Schmieder, 89 App. Div. 618, 85 N. Y. S. 977. Failure to object to evidence showing injuries to be permanent rendered the admission of mortality tables proper, though permanent injuries not pleaded. Fallon v. Rapid City [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1009. No error in permitting an answer to a question clearly calling for incompetent testimony. Robinson v. Halley, 124 Iowa, 443, 100 N. W. 328.

Hearsay evidence admitted without objection is before the jury, and cannot be ob-of the evidence,[59] to the form of a question,[60] or the responsiveness of an answer,[61] to variance between the pleading and proof,[62] to a failure to allow sufficient time for argument,[63] to misconduct of counsel,[64] to instructions,[65] to the submission of specific questions to the jury,[66] to an order limiting the number of instructions,[67] to the objection that an order violates a rule of court,[68] to the verdict,[69] judgment,[70]

jected to on appeal. Holder v. Cannon Mfg. Co., 135 N. C. 392, 47 S. E. 481. Is sufficient to support a finding based thereon. Receipt admitted against stranger. Beebe v. Redward, 35 Wash. 615, 77 P. 1052. Has all the probative force it would have had if not open to objection on that ground. Hatch v. 84 S. W. 246; City of Austin v. Forbis [Tex. Pullman Sleeping Car Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 29.

58. Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913.

59. As to condition of mine on dissolution of injunction. Quinn v. Baldwin Star Coal Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 552. To warrant instructions where no objection to the charge as given and no requests for counter instructions. District of Columbia v. Dietrich, 23 App. D. C. 577. To support judgment. Barker v. Citizens' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 866. Opinion evidence as to values sufficient in absence of objection to qualification of witnesses. Kaufman v. Abrams, 90 N. Y. S. 1068. Where defendant made no objection at trial that there was no proof of plaintiff's discharge, and question was submitted to jury, cannot contend that verdict was against weight of evidence for want of such proof. Zeisloft v. Blackburne Co., 91 N. Y. S. 8. Objection that there was no proof of assignment of claim to plaintiff not raised by general motion to dismiss complaint. Conroy v. Boeck, 91 N. Y. S. 80. Where the confession of a judgment is alleged in the bill and admitted in the answer, and proved by oral testimony without objection or exception, the question of the sufficiency of the proof of the existence of such judgment because the record thereof was not produced. Nuzum v. Herron, 52 W. Va. 499, 44 S. E. 257. A prosecutor in certiorari waives a complaint based on the insufficiency of the facts to support the judgment by bringing the cause to final hearing without procuring a return to a rule on the lower court to certify the facts found. Willett v. Morse [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 362.

60. Weinhandler v. Eastern Brewing Co., 92 N. Y. S. 792. Answer cannot be objected to as departing from proper sphere of expert testimony, where court's attention was not called to fact that question was not sufficiently restricted and no motion made to strike out answer. Lyon v. Grand Rapids, 121 Wis. 609, 99 N. W. 311.

61. Christensen v. Thompson, 123 Iowa, 717, 99 N. W. 591.

62. See, also, Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 1050. Illinois Terminal R. Co. v. Thompson, 210 Ill. 226, 71 N. E. 328; Osgood v. Skinner, 211 Ill. 229, 71 N. E. 869; Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain, 211 Ill. 589, 71 N. E. 1103; Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2; Moore Lime Co. v. Johnston's Adm'r [Va.] 48 S. E. 557. When not presented to lower court in manner provided by statute. Hartwell Bros. v. Peck & Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 958; Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491. Where defendant's instructions based on theory that gong was sounded before plaintiff was struck by car, no ground of reversal that instruction sanctioned recovery for delay in signaling, though cause of action relied on was failure to sound gong, where evidence tending to show that it was sounded at time of collision was not objected to, nor a variance charged. Brown v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 310. Supreme court will not, on rule to show cause, grant new trial for variance between negligence alleged and that proved, which might have been cured by amendment. Neutze v. Atlantic City R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1083.

63. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

64. Where it is such as could have been prevented, or the resulting prejudice could have been removed by instructions. Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761. Remarks in argument. Levidow v. Starin [Conn.] 60 A. 123; Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill, 209 Ill. 638, 71 N. E. 43.

65. Quinn v. Baldwin Star Coal Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 552; Collins v. George, 102 Va. 509, 46 S. E. 684; Southern Pac. Co. v. Maloney [C. C. A.] 136 F. 171. Allowing recovery of interest. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. Requests for instructions which could only have been based on evidence contrary to that warranting instructions given on plaintiff's behalf without objection are properly refused. Bentley, Shriver & Co. v. Edwards [Md.] 60 A. 283. To submission on theory that defendant was undisclosed principal of her husband. Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880. Charge on exemplary damages. Morning Journal Ass'n v. Duke [C. C. A.] 128 F. 657. If given without objection become the law of the case. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Ringle [Kan.] 80 P. 43.

66. Cooper v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 518.

67. The Fair v. Hoffman, 209 Ill. 330, 70 N. E. 622.

68. Allowing preference. Cohen v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 479.

69. That it is not unanimous. Wores v. Preston, 4 Ariz. 92, 77 P. 617. For failure to answer interrogatories. Mayo v. Halley, 124 Iowa, 675, 100 N. W. 529. That it is not for specific sum. Steinhart v. Enteen, 43 Misc. 388, 87 N. Y. S. 482. Where defendant objected to the admission of the testimony later made the subject of certain special findings, and also by special charges tried to show his phase of the case as different from the said special findings, and objected again in a motion for a new trial, held sufficient objections. White v. Simonton [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 621. Correctness of the findings of the jury as to the quantum of damages in the absence of an objection by motion to set aside the verdict or otherwise. Verdict subject to action of trial court on or decree,[71] to the sufficiency of a motion for a new trial,[72] and to the findings of a commissioner,[73] or assessor.[74] An objection in the court below will not, however, be held necessary where there is no occasion or opportunity therefor.[75]

A failure to object to the introduction of evidence does not prevent a party from attacking its sufficiency,[76] nor preclude him from objecting to an instruction erroneously allowing the jury to consider it as an element of damage,[77] nor does the mere fact that evidence on a collateral matter is received without objection justify the admission of evidence in rebuttal.[78] An instruction is not open to criticism as misleading where it exactly corresponds to the language of an issue submitted, to which no exception was taken.[79]

A party permitting evidence to be introduced without objection is not ordinarily entitled to have it stricken,[80] unless it appears that he had no opportunity to object before the question was answered,[81] or that the answer is not such as could reasonably have been anticipated.[82]

Matters not objected to[83] or considered in an intermediate court will not be considered on appeal to the supreme court.[84] demurrer to evidence. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378.

70. Where finding on value of property was not objected or excepted to, and sufficiency of the evidence is not brought before the supreme court, contention that judgment is excessive will not be considered. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998. That the court erred in fixing the date from which certain interest should be computed. Henderson v. Kibble, 211 Ill. 556, 71 N. E. 1091.

71. That it was prematurely entered before time to answer had expired. Patterson v. Johnson [Ill.] 73 N. E. 761. Decree in equitable partition proceeding will not be reopened on ground that debts on which it was based are not quite due, where plaintiff made no reference to that fact in petition, and no objection at hearing on that ground, and notes matured before bill of review was filed, or any effort was made to enforce decree. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322.

72. That moving party did not state the grounds relied on in writing, where no rule to compel him to do so is entered or applied for, and no objection. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 209 Ill. 444, 70 N. E. 659.

73. Objection to the finding of commissioners in partition that the land could not be divided must be made by objecting to their report and offering evidence in support of the objection, or it will not be reviewed on appeal. Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115.

74. Must take specific objections to them and request so much of the evidence to be reported as bears on the points covered by the exceptions. Cannot be reviewed on exceptions to order refusing to recommit. National Mach. & Tool Co. v. Standard Shoe Machinery Co. [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1038.

75. Where recovery was sought on ground of fraud only, and court found fraud, and plaintiff first claimed on appeal that judgment could be supported on ground of mistake, defendant could not be held to have waived variance. Connell v. El Paso Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 78 P. 677.

76. To show appointment of trustee in bankruptcy. Page v. Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., 103 Mo. App. 662, 78 S. W. 52.

77. Lennox v. Interurban St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 230.

78. Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009.

79. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. & Power Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226.

80. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594; Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103; Walker v. McCormick, 88 N. Y. S. 406; Hogen v. Klabo [N. D.] 100 N. W. 847.

81. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594.

82. Where question is susceptible of a competent answer, the remedy, in case the answer is actually incompetent, is by motion to exclude it, and not by objection to the question. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493.

83. That there was no evidence to sustain allegation that plaintiff was directed to go between cars, where he was injured. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. White, 209 Ill. 124, 70 N. E. 588. As to instructions and admission of evidence. Kehl v. Abram, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347. Instructions. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett, 210 Ill. 140, 71 N. E. 435. That issues were improperly limited. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Coggins, 212 Ill. 369, 72 N. E. 376. Where absence of original answer is waived in circuit court on appeal from county court, and case was tried on pleadings there filed, such absence cannot be relied on in court of appeals. Commonwealth v. Higgins' Trustee, 26 Ky. L. R. 910, 82 S. W. 601. An issue not raised by the pleadings or in argument in the trial court or court of appeal. Sintes v. Commerford, 112 La. 706, 36 So. 656. Objection that claimant filed two separate claims against estate on which separate decrees were rendered in probate court, and that record on appeal to district court failed to show which was appealed from not available in supreme court in absence of motion to dismiss in district court. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68. Confined to points made in court of civil appeals. Collum v. Sanger Bros. [Tex.] 83 S. W. 184. Point that damages were too

Jurisdiction.[85]—An objection to the jurisdiction of the court over the subject-matter may as a general rule be raised at any time,[86] but objections to jurisdiction of the person are generally held to be waived by appearing and answering without raising them.[87]

Parties.[88]—The objection that there is a defect[89] or misjoinder of parties,[90] or that plaintiff is a married woman and cannot sue in her own name, cannot be raised for the first time on appeal.[91]

To pleadings.[92]—Technical defects or insufficiencies, which could not have been corrected in the court below, cannot be objected to for the first time on appeal.[93] The rule applies to objections that the allegations are indefinite and small. Peden v. Crenshaw [Tex.] 84 S. W. 362.

84. Errors assigned in appellate court but not argued or brought to its attention. Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386; United States Wringer Co. v. Cooney, 214 Ill. 520, 73 N. E. 803; Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1600.

86. See, also, Appearance, § 3, 3 Curr. L. 302; Jurisdiction, § 14, 4 Curr. L. 356; Process, 4 Curr. L. 1070. Midler v. Lese, 91 N. Y. S. 148. B. & C. Comp. Or. § 72. Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 78 P. 332. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 685. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695. When answer accompanied by demurrer [Mansf. Dig. Ind. T. § 5054; Ann. St. 1899, § 3259]. Ansley v. McLoud [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 908. Arising from defect in proof of service of process. Skinner v. Jordan, 91 N. Y. S. 322. Trial of action elsewhere than at court house, without written stipulation provided for by statute. Armstrong v. Loveland, 90 N. Y. S. 711. Will not be considered where only urged in lower court by evidence offered in support of motion to set aside default. Gage v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 109, 71 N. E. 877. To judgment confirming special assessment because of defects in preliminary proceedings. Not waived by general appearance. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 209 Ill. 444, 70 N. E. 659. Duty of circuit court of appeals, on appeal in action removed from state court, to determine whether record exhibits a case properly removable, regardless of whether jurisdiction of Federal court objected to either in court below or on appeal. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

87. See, also, Appearance, § 3, 3 Curr. L. 302; Jurisdiction, § 14, 4 Curr. L. 356; Process, § 7, 4 Curr. L. 1083. School District No. 94 v. Gautier, 13 Okl. 194, 73 P. 954. Irregularity in service of process. Lesser v. Adolph, 91 N. Y. S. 705.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1600.

89. B. & C. Comp. Or. §§ 68, 71. Thompson v. Hibbs [Or.] 76 P. 778. Waived unless raised by answer or demurrer. Anderson v. Baughman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 38. May, however, be brought in by amendment, if necessary. Oneida Tp. v. Allen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 441. Party not indispensable. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

90. Osgood v. Skinner, 211 Ill. 229, 71 N. E. 869; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 445.

See, also, Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980.

91. That must sue by trustee or next friend. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1598.

For a full discussion of the mode of asserting objections to pleadings, and of the waiver of objections thereto and the cure of defects therein, see Pleading, §§ 10, 11, 4 Curr. L. 1031, 1038.

93. Complaint will be upheld if facts alleged, with all reasonable deductions that can be drawn therefrom, are sufficient to show cause of action. Boglino v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612. Sufficiency of plea of limitations as answer to action on statute prescribing penalty. Demurrer only on ground that action was not under statute. Davenport v. Lines [Conn.] 59 A. 603. That bill for infringement of patent insufficiently describes it, where did not demur or otherwise object thereto, but admitted existence of patent. Lane v. Levi, 21 App. D. C. 168. Nor can he question sufficiency of such allegations to give jurisdiction in equity. Id. Complaint sufficient in absence of special demurrer. Murry v. Nixon [Idaho] 79 P. 643. Where defendant answered after demurrer was overruled and did not, in answer, object that bill did not sufficiently allege plaintiff's ownership or occupancy of land in controversy. Glos v. Hayes, 214 Ill. 372, 73 N. E. 802. Must be total absence of essential averment, or presence of averment absolutely destroying plaintiff's right to recover. Ohio Oil Co. v. Detamore [Ind.] 73 N. E. 906; Thompson v. Jordan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1087. Good where facts omitted might be supplied by proof, and complaint sufficient to bar another action for same cause. Embree v. Emmerson [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 44; Crystal Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. Marion Gas Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 15; Perry-Matthews-Buskirk Stone Co. v. Speer [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 933. Complaint sufficient after verdict. Minnich v. Swing [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 271. May not object to answer as cross petition, or question right to have issues raised thereby determined. Page v. Southern Const. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1634, 78 S. W. 879. Not by one pleading to declaration without objection. Fowles v. Rupert [Mich.] 101 N. W. 202. Not raised in probate court or in petition for appeal. In re Alexander [Mich.] 99 N. W. 746. Where case was tried on pleadings of rival claimants and not on bill of interpleader, held too late to attack judgment for insufficiencies of such bill which could have been corrected before trial. Supreme Council of Legion of Honor v. Palmer, 107 Mo. App. 157, 80 S.

uncertain,[94] or are not sufficiently broad to admit certain evidence,[95] that causes of action are improperly joined in one count,[96] that different causes of action are jumbled together,[97] that a plea was filed too late,[98] that a pleading is not properly signed[99] or verified,[1] and to objections to allowing the filing of supplemental pleadings.[2]

An objection to the fundamental sufficiency of the complaint may, however, be made at any time.[3]

Time of objection.[4]—Objections to evidence,[5] or to a variance between the pleadings and the proof, must be taken when the evidence is offered,[6] to a question before it is answered,[7] to the jury panel before the jury is sworn,[8] to

W. 699. Must stand unless wholly fails to state cause of action, even defectively. Pence v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co., 106 Mo. App. 402, 80 S. W. 746. Petition sufficient after verdict. McKinstry v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 12, 82 S. W. 1108. Objection to defective statement of good cause of action in election contest. Lemaire v. Walsh [Nev.] 74 P. 801. Complaint held to sufficiently disclose that action was brought by individuals composing firm, in absence of special exception. Scott v. Llano County Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 301. Averments held sufficient to admit evidence as to custom, in absence of special demurrer. Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. v. Monfort [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1029. Where defendant did not object to evidence tending to show interstate character of commerce in which defendant was engaged when plaintiff was injured, or except to instructions applying Federal statute in regard to automatic couplers, could not object on appeal that petition did not allege that it was interstate commerce. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Voelker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 522.

94. Mere uncertainty or inadequacy. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247. Allegations as to ownership of property sufficient after judgment. Rodgers v. Western Home Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 369. That the declaration is not sufficiently specific. Quigley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 210 Pa. 162, 59 A. 958. That description of property in complaint to quiet title is insufficient. Thomas v. Wilcox [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1072. An objection that petition in action to enforce stockholder's liability is indefinite, in not disclosing whether corporate obligations were unconditional or were guaranties, and therefore conditional. Anglo-American Land, Mortg. & Ag. Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721.

95. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

96. Should be taken by demurrer or answer. Owens v. Carthage & W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 987.

97. McConnell v. Combination Min. & Mill. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 248.

98. Privilege. Leahy v. Ortiz [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 824. That defendant has waived its right to claim that the amended complaint set up a new cause of action. Mackey v. Northern Mill Co., 210 Ill. 116, 71 N. E. 448.

99. That complaint is not signed by plaintiff or his attorneys. Defendants voluntarily appearing and answering are bound by judgment. Mann v. Carson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 692.

1. Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240.

2. Hodges v. Price [Wash.] 80 P. 202.

3. Smiley v. Sioux Beet Syrup Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 253. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 602. Jackson v. Lincoln Min. Co., 106 Mo. App. 441, 80 S. W. 727. The total absence from the complaint of an averment of a fact essential to the existence of the cause of action. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247; Tomlinson v. Tomlinson, 162 Ind. 530, 70 N. E. 881. Where fails to state cause of action, and shows on its face that it cannot be made to do so by amendment. Harshman v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 412. A demurrer to a bill for want of equity may first be made on appeal, where the objection could not have been obviated if made in the lower court, is supportive and not subversive of the decree, and is a cause of demurrer on the record going to the whole bill. Weed v. Hunt, 76 Vt. 212, 56 A. 980.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1601.

5. Kemble v. National Bank of Rondout, 94 App. Div. 544, 88 N. Y. S. 246. That it is of an inferior or secondary nature. Thyll v. New York & L. B. R. Co., 92 App. Div. 513, 87 N. Y. S. 345. Remedy after answer is by motion to strike it out (Buckley v. Westchester Lighting Co., 93 App. Div. 436, 87 N. Y. S. 763; Frank v. Berry [Iowa] 103 N. W. 358), or by a request for an instruction directing the jury to disregard it (Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880). Cannot be first urged on motion for new trial. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Rabinowitz, 120 Ga. 864, 48 S. E. 326. As inadmissible under statute of frauds. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797. Objection to competency of witness waived by allowing deposition to be read, and cannot be thereafter renewed on trial de novo on appeal. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263.

6. See, also, Pleading, § 11, 4 Curr. L. 1042. Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain, 211 Ill. 589, 71 N. E. 1103; Hartwell Bros. v. William E. Peck & Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 958; Kemble v. National Bank of Rondout, 94 App. Div. 544, 88 N. Y. S. 246. Or by motion to strike. Between judgment pleaded and that shown by transcript. Schuler v. Schuler, 209 Ill. 522, 71 N. E. 16. Waived when first brought to attention of court by request to charge. Steele v. Crabtree [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808. Cannot be made for first time in arrest of judgment. Virginia & S. W. R. Co. v. Bailey [Va.] 49 S. E. 33.

7. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman misconduct of the jury when it is discovered,[9] to a defect of parties when disclosed by the evidence,[10] to pleadings,[11] or to the manner of instituting the proceedings,[12] or to a party's physical or mental inability to go to trial, before trial,[13] and to a verdict when it is received.[14]

Instructions must be objected to when given,[15] or, in some states, before verdict.[16]

The question of the sufficiency of the evidence to warrant a verdict for plaintiff must be raised before the evidence is closed.[17] Objection to an improper argument may be made at its close.[18] Questions as to alleged errors in taking depositions and in the report of a special master should be raised before judgment.[19]

§ 5. Necessity of motion or request. In general.[20]—In some states errors in a judgment are no ground for reversal in the absence of a motion to correct them in the lower court.[21] In West Virginia a motion to reverse, made in the lower court, is a condition precedent to the right to appeal from a decree against a party on a bill taken for confessed as to him.[22] The objection that a suit is improperly brought in equity is waived by failure to move to transfer it to a court of law,[23] and an objection that the summons was made returnable at chambers instead of at term is waived by failure to move to transfer the case to the proper docket.[24] If counsel desire the court to direct a witness to make responsive answers, they should request him to do so.[25] The fact that the court did not rule on a question in a particular manner cannot be assigned as error where he was not requested to do so.[26]

[Ala.] 37 So. 493; Tanzer v. New York City R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 334. Objection after questions have been asked and evidence is in record, "I object and take an exception to this line of examination," is of no force. Willett v. Morse [N. J. Law] 58 A. 72. Cannot take chances as to answer, and accept or reject it, as may seem advisable, after it is in. Id.

8. A party cannot after verdict take advantage of the fact the names of two jurors did not appear on the jury list, even though he was ignorant of the fact. Faulkner v. Snead [Ga.] 49 S. E. 747.

9. Cannot wait until after verdict and allege it for first time on motion for new trial. Olivares v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 248.

10. Cannot first be raised on motion for new trial. Young v. Stickney [Or.] 79 P. 345.

11. At the first term. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322. The objection that the attorney signing the papers on motion for a new trial is not the attorney of record is waived by admitting service without objection and serving papers in reply on him. Objection must be made when papers served. Smith v. Smith, 145 Cal. 615, 79 P. 275.

See, also, Pleading, § 11, 4 Curr. L. 1038.

12. Objection that contempt proceedings were not instituted by attachment or order to show cause is waived by failure to make it at special term. Maigille v. Leonard, 92 N. Y. S. 656.

13. Cannot ordinarily present it as ground for a new trial in case of dissatisfaction with the result. Chapman v. Pendleton [R. I.] 59 A. 928.

14. Wores v. Preston, 4 Ariz. 92, 77 P. 617.

15. Improper statement of nonessential parts of plaintiff's claim must be called to attention of court before case is finally submitted to jury. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668. As misleading or prejudicial. Olson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 449.

16. Collins v. George, 102 Va. 509, 46 S. E. 684.

17. Elwell v. Roper, 72 N. H. 585, 58 A. 507.

18. It is sufficient if objection is made to the judge and exception taken to his ruling. Not necessary to interrupt argument. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Pledger [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 755.

19. Too late to raise them by motion for rehearing, when are result of counsel's own negligence. Bracey-Welles Const. Co. v. Terry [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 846.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1602.

21. Ky. Civ. Code, § 763. Horn v. Carroll, 25 Ky. L. R. 2305, 80 S. W. 518.

22. Code 1899, c. 134. Morrison & Co. v. Leach, 55 W. Va. 126, 47 S. E. 237; Cipher v. Bowen [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 128. Does not apply to a decree reversing a decree on motion. Appeal lies direct in such case. Morrison & Co. v. Leach, 55 W. Va. 126, 47 S. E. 237. Appeal after such motion brings up all the errors of law in the decree. George v. Zinn [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 904.

23. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244.

24. Jones v. Madison County Com'rs, 135 N. C. 218, 47 S. E. 753.

25. Otherwise not entitled to reversal because answer is irresponsive. Brown v. Harris [Mich.] 102 N. W. 960.

26. Childs v. Bolton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 618.

Error in rendering judgment for costs must ordinarily be brought to the court's attention by motion for a new trial or for their retaxation;[27] but a motion for retaxation is not a necessary prerequisite to the consideration of the question on appeal, where the objection is to the taxation of any costs and not to the amount taxed.[28]

Motion for a judgment or nonsuit, or to direct a verdict.[29]—By failure to move to dismiss the complaint or for judgment at the close of plaintiff's case,[30] or for a nonsuit, defendant concedes that there is a question of fact for the court or jury to decide as between the parties.[31] Defendant's rights are preserved by moving for a nonsuit at the close of plaintiff's case, and for a dismissal of the complaint at the close of the evidence, if in no view of the evidence could plaintiff recover.[32]

The question whether a particular question is one of law and whether the court erred in submitting it to the jury may be raised on appeal, though appellant did not move for a directed verdict.[33] Where a motion to direct a verdict is sustained, the party making it will ordinarily be deemed to have waived his right to have questions of fact passed upon by the court or jury.[34] This rule is, however, based upon reason, and is governed somewhat by the circumstances of the particular case.[35] Where its strict application would work injustice, it may be waived or disregarded by the appellate court.[36] The supreme court cannot consider a contention that the verdict is not supported by the evidence where no effort was made to have the case withdrawn from the jury.[37]

Motion to strike out.[38]—A party cannot, on appeal, complain that an answer is not responsive to the question,[39] or of a voluntary statement of a witness, in the absence of a motion to strike it out,[40] made at the proper time.[41] The motion should call the court's attention to the particular objection relied on.[42]

To effect the exclusion of evidence material to only one of two counts in the complaint, and to avail himself of an adverse ruling thereon, defendant should

27. Cunningham v. McDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 871.

28. Guinn v. Iowa, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 94.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1606.

30. Rapp v. Hutchinson Stair Elevator Co., 87 N. Y. S. 459; Parker v. Homan, 88 N. Y. S. 137.

31. McDowell v. Syracuse Land & Steamboat Co., 44 Misc. 627, 90 N. Y. S. 148. Not strictly enforced in appeals from municipal court, and omission not obstacle to reversal in such case where judgment is clearly against weight of evidence. Engel-Heller Co. v. Dineen, 91 N. Y. S. 336.

32. Raymond v. Tallman, 91 N. Y. S. 670.

33. Question that the court should have held as a matter of law that certain papers did in effect constitute a chattel mortgage void as against plaintiff. Appellate division may review questions of law and fact and reverse when judgment is against weight of evidence. Dickinson v. Oliver, 96 App. Div. 65, 89 N. Y. S. 52.

34. Where he neglects specifically to request submission of issues of fact. Rosenstein v. Traders' Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 326.

35. Defendant's request held not to involve concession that there did not exist question of fact necessary to be settled in favor of plaintiffs before they could recover upon their theory. Rosenstein v. Traders' Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 326.

36. Rosenstein v. Traders' Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 326.

37. Can consider questions of law only [Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1903, c. 110, § 90]. Morgan v. McCaslin, 213 Ill. 358, 72 N. E. 1066.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1606.

39. Diamond Block Coal Co. v. Cuthbertson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 818; Hoffman v. Loud & Sons Lumber Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1010. Part of answer. Cashin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 185 Mass. 543, 70 N. E. 930. That witnesses improperly stated their conclusions in answer to proper questions. Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1051. Objectionable portion of answer to question, not calling for objectionable matter, no ground for reversal where question not objected to before answer, and no motion to strike it, or request for instruction to disregard it. Beyer v. Isaacs, 93 N. Y. S. 312.

40. Continental Casualty Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824.

41. Motion to strike out evidence relating to consequences of injury not pleaded and not shown to necessarily result from those pleaded held timely, though made at close of testimony. Wilkins v. Nassau Newspaper Delivery Exp. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 678.

42. Motion held to have sufficiently called court's attention to fact that retention of evidence was error. Date v. New York Glucose Co., 93 N. Y. S. 249.

move to strike it out after plaintiff's election of the count on which he will rely.[43] A motion to strike out the irrelevant parts of certain correspondence introduced in evidence is necessary, where a part of it is relevant.[44]

Motion for a new trial.[45]—In some states, in an action at law, a motion for a new trial is a condition prerequisite to a review of alleged errors occurring during the progress of the trial.[46] Such a motion is necessary to review a ruling on demurrer to a pleading,[47] or to the evidence,[48] an order allowing the filing of a pleading not filed in a lower court,[49] alleged errors in the admission,[50] or exclusion of evidence,[51] remarks of the trial court in overruling objections to evidence,[52] to save the objection that there is a variance between the pleadings and the proof,[53] that a party is entitled to a verdict under the undisputed evidence,[54] or that a verdict is not unanimous,[55] that the verdict,[56] findings,[57] or judgment, is not sustained by the evidence,[58] that the damages recovered are excessive,[59] or that the damages assessed by the court are too small,[60] that the court rendered judgment without hearing the evidence,[61] or to review an alleged error

43. Pringle v. King [Ariz.] 78 P. 367.

44. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Coutourie [C. C. A.] 135 F. 465.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1603.

46. Pringle v. King [Ariz.] 78 P. 367; Spolek Denni Hlasatel v. Hoffman, 105 Ill. App. 170; Blattner v. Metz [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 270; Taylor v. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, 106 Mo. App. 212, 80 S. W. 306; State v. Ellsworth [Neb.] 100 N. W. 314. Absence precludes consideration of errors for which a new trial might have been had. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50. Kan. Civ. Code, § 306. Coy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 844. A party complaining of rulings and charges by direct exception and failing to move for a new trial, stakes his right to a reversal on strictly legal grounds. Little v. Southern R. Co., 120 Ga. 347, 47 S. E. 953. Matters which are causes for new trial cannot be assigned as independent errors. Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000. Failure of party to file motion after verdict on plea in abatement in an attachment proceeding is a waiver of errors occurring at trial on plea, though he files motion on merits in main issue [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 407]. Alexander v. Wade [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 917. Where for want of a notice of intention, the court below was without authority to entertain motion, an appeal brings up the judgment alone. Under S. D. Comp. Laws 1887, § 5090, notice of intention to move for new trial necessary prerequisite. MacGregor v. Pierce [S. D.] 95 N. W. 281. Errors dependent upon evidence in jury trial [Utah Rev. St. 1898, § 3304, as amended by Sess. Laws 1901, p. 25, c. 27]. Touse v. Consolidated R. & Power Co. [Utah] 80 P. 506. Rulings of the court upon objections being excepted to, and incorporated in the motion for new trial as the grounds therefor, may be reviewed upon an appeal from the order overruling the motion. Stickney v. Hughes [Wyo.] 75 P. 945.

47. Overruling of demurrer to petition for misjoinder of causes of action. MacDonald v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1001.

48. Coy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 844.

49. Filing of counterclaim in circuit court not proffered in justice court from which case was appealed. Cedar Hill Orchard & Nursery Co. v. Heiney, 106 Mo. App. 302, 80 S. W. 278.

50. Mt. Nebo Anthracite Coal Co. v. Williamson [Ark.] 84 S. W. 779; Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1000; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050; Hartwell Bros. v. Peck & Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 958; Storer v. Markley [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1081. Allowing plaintiff in action against estate of decedent to testify in his own behalf. Green's Ex'r v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1007, 82 S. W. 1011; Johnson v. Songster [Neb.] 103 N. W. 274.

51. Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050; Johnson v. Songster [Neb.] 103 N. W. 274.

52. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 957.

53. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50.

54. Nabours v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 153.

55. Wores v. Preston, 4 Ariz. 92, 77 P. 617.

56. Schulte v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 191, 99 N. W. 714; Dodd v. Presley [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 73.

57. Where a finding is within the issues presented. Kisling v. Barrett [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 507.

58. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050; Dawes v. Great Falls [Mont.] 77 P. 309; Cassidy v. Collier [Neb.] 100 N. W. 802; Leavy v. Collier [Neb.] 100 N. W. 802; Johnson v. Songster [Neb.] 103 N. W. 274. Where is jury trial. Hausmann v. Trinity & B. V. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1052.

59. Hugus & Co. v. Hardenburg [Colo. App.] 76 P. 543.

60. Peden v. Crenshaw [Tex.] 84 S. W. 362.

61. That the court, in a partition suit, erred in refusing a trial of the issues joined on the pleadings, and in rendering judgment over objection without hearing evidence. Van Buskirk v. Stover, 162 Ind. 448, 70 N. E. 520.

in the refusal of the trial court to submit the cause to a jury,[62] or a judgment in habeas corpus proceedings.[63]

It is not necessary in order to raise the question whether the pleadings sustain the judgment,[64] to obtain a review of a judgment on the pleadings,[65] a judgment in an error proceeding affirming or reversing the decision of an inferior court or tribunal,[66] a probate order on the merits,[67] or a ruling directing a verdict.[68] Nor is it necessary to review errors apparent on the face of the record,[69] or to bring up the evidence in a suit in equity.[70] There is a conflict of authority as to whether it is necessary to a review of alleged errors in the giving[71] or refusing of instructions.[72]

In some states no such motion is necessary where the rulings complained of have been properly excepted to.[73]

The motion must be timely,[74] the grounds thereof must be stated, and the objections specifically pointed out.[75] Where it is based on matters outside the record, evidence must be offered in support of it.[76]

62. Meloy v. Weathers [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 924. Dismissal of complaint. Muratore v. Pirkl, 93 N. Y. S. 484.

63. Judgment upon application for writ, where trial was had and petitioner's right to be discharged determined. Kellar v. Davis [Neb.] 95 N. W. 1028.

64. To review judgment of dismissal, notwithstanding verdict for plaintiff because petition did not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 942. Motion to dismiss proceedings in error for failure to make motion for new trial will not be in such case Id. In the absence of motion, the only question open for review is the sufficiency of the pleadings to sustain the judgment. Bixby v. Jewell [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1026; Johnson v. Songster [Neb.] 103 N. W. 274.

65. Dunn v. Claunch [Okl.] 78 P. 388.

66. Judgment of the district court entered on the hearing of an appeal taken from an order of a license board granting or refusing a license to sell intoxicating liquors. In re Krug [Neb.] 101 N. W. 242.

67. Useless disposition of attorneys to inject the procedure of a motion for new trial into probate litigation. In re Geary's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 855.

68. If exception is taken. Wheeler v. Seamans [Wis.] 102 N. W. 28; Gerhards v. Johnson, 105 Ill. App. 65.

69. Will be considered though there is no bill of exceptions and no showing that a motion for a new trial or in arrest of judgment was made. Hill-O'Meara Const. Co. v. Sessinghaus, 106 Mo. App. 163, 80 S. W. 747.

70. Action on note by executrix and to foreclose mortgage securing same. List's Ex'x v. List, 26 Ky. L. R. 691, 82 S. W. 446. Rule not affected by the fact that the parties might have caused some question of fact in the case to be tried as an issue out of chancery. Id.

71. Held necessary. Pringle v. King [Ariz.] 78 P. 367; Kehl v. Abram, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347; National Bank v. Schufelt [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 927; Hoskins' Adm'r v. Brown [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767. To raise question of sufficiency of evidence to support them. Touse v. Consolidated R. & Power Co. [Utah] 80 P. 506.

Not necessary: Fact that instruction was attacked in motion on some grounds not waiver of right to attack it on others. Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Jamison [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 305.

72. Held necessary: Schenck v. Griffith [Ark.] 86 S. W. 850; Jennings v. Kansas City, 105 Mo. App. 677, 78 S. W. 1041. Modifying instructions. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50. Sufficiency of evidence to warrant refusal of instruction to return verdict for defendant. Touse v. Consolidated R. & Power Co. [Utah] 80 P. 506.

Not necessary if ruling excepted to. Schulte v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 191, 99 N. W. 714.

73. Assignment of error sufficient. Rowe v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co., 35 Wash. 101, 76 P. 529. Errors which were involved in the disposition of the case, and were fully presented to the court below, and rulings had thereon and exceptions taken. Crooker v. Pacific Lounge & Mattress Co., 34 Wash. 191, 75 P. 632. Rulings on evidence. Under Mills' Ann. Code Colo. § 393, providing that motion is not necessary where alleged errors have been once passed upon. Applies to appeals in eminent domain proceedings [Mills' Ann. St. § 1727]. Loloff v. Sterling, 31 Colo. 102, 71 P. 1113. Not necessary in condemnation proceedings in order to obtain review of alleged errors in exclusion of evidence of damage to lands not taken [2 Bail. Ann. Codes & St. § 5056]. Sultan Water & Power Co. v. Weyerhauser Timber Co., 31 Wash. 558, 72 P. 114.

74. Johnson Bros. v. Wright, 124 Iowa, 61, 99 N. W. 103. Appeal will not be dismissed for failure to serve and file motion, where paper was served and filed which was, without objection, treated by parties and court as such motion. Crooker v. Pacific Lounge & Mattress Co., 34 Wash. 191, 75 P. 632.

75. Court will not look beyond the motion or the assignment of error in the bill of exceptions. Georgia Northern R. Co. v. Hutchins, 119 Ga. 504, 46 S. E. 659. Must be complete in itself, or in connection with exhibits attached to motion. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. McClifford, 120 Ga. 90, 47 S. E. 590. Must set out testimony referred to. Robert Port-

Request for instructions.[77]—A party cannot ordinarily complain of the failure to give instructions for which he did not ask,[78] nor can he object to instructions, not affirmatively erroneous, for deficiencies therein unless he calls the court's attention thereto and requests an instruction embodying his views.[79] Thus, in the absence of a request, a party cannot complain that the court failed to comprehend all the issues in the instructions given,[80] or to submit a particular issue[81] or phase of the case,[82] or to restrict the effect of the evidence,[83] or to ner Brewing Co. v. Cooper, 120 Ga. 20, 47 S. E. 631. Judgment overruling motion based on general grounds only, affirmed where evidence was sufficient to support verdict. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley, 120 Ga. 614, 48 S. E. 179. Must clearly indicate the identity of the particular subject and ruling complained of. Continental Casualty Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824. Ground that verdict is contrary to law is too vague and indefinite. Hoskins' Adm'r v. Brown [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767; McClintock v. Frohlich [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1001. Objection to evidence too general. Id. It is unnecessary, under Minn. Laws 1901, p. 121, c. 113, dispensing with the necessity of exceptions, to embody in the notice of motion the general grounds specified in Gen. St. 1894, § 5398, except, perhaps, where mere reference to ruling complained of would not disclose the particular respects in which it is claimed to be erroneous. King v. Burnham [Minn.] 101 N. W. 302. Objection that court erred in allowing any salary to defendant does not raise question that amount allowed was excessive. Bevier Black Diamond Coal Co. v. Watson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 287. Must point out particular phase or issue on which judgment is assailed as not supported by evidence. Nabours v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 153. Motion on ground that verdict is excessive (International & G. N. R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Shults [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 45), or that verdict and judgment are contrary to the law and the evidence too general (Dodd v. Presley [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 73).

76. Shaw v. Goldman, 183 Mo. 461, 81 S. W. 1223.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1605.

78. Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738; Nadeau v. Sawyer [N. H.] 59 A. 369; Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 2; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 21; Hawkins v. Casey [Wash.] 80 P. 792. Requests must be in writing (Cooper v. Nisbet, 119 Ga. 752, 47 S. E. 173; Buchanan v. Ellison, 121 Ga. 772, 49 S. E. 724), and be signed by party or his attorney (Wren v. Howland [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 894).

79. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 957; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682. If conceives that instruction, correct in so far as applies to particular issue, may be misapplied. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242. A complaint that the court omitted to instruct the jury as to pertinent matters is not brought under review by an assignment that certain instructions excepted to were incorrect in that other proposition should have been charged in the same connection. Robert Portner Brew. Co. v. Cooper, 120 Ga. 20, 47 S. E. 631. Where whole theory of plaintiff's case was based on theory that contract was entirely in writing, court not bound of its own motion to give instruction on theory that it was partly in parol. Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205. Where evidence of a promise and its nonperformance is admitted on issue of fraud, defendant, if he wishes a charge that they do not of themselves constitute fraud, should prefer an appropriate request. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668.

80. Cornwell v. St. Louis Transit Co., 106 Mo. App. 135, 80 S. W. 744; Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913. Failure to fully state issues in preliminary part of charge, where all material issues raised by pleadings and evidence were covered. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735.

81. Kupferberg v. Central Crosstown R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 366; Raymond v. Tallman, 91 N. Y. S. 670; Boyles v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 936. Other questions. Spearman v. Sanders, 121 Ga. 468, 49 S. E. 296. Submitting question of plaintiff's social standing. City of South Omaha v. Sutliffe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 997. Where no request was made that court submit question whether conductor was acting within scope of employment in assaulting boy, question not raised by motion for dismissal after close of all the evidence on ground that, if plaintiff's claim was true, conductor's act was willful and without scope of his authority. Hewson v. Interurban St. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 112, 88 N. Y. S. 816. Provided those submitted are in themselves sufficient to dispose of the controversy, and enable the court to proceed to judgment. Falkner v. Pilcher & Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 945. Failure to instruct upon law of fellow-servant. Turrentine v. Wellington, 136 N. C. 308, 48 S. E. 739. Where charge contains no affirmative error, cannot complain of omission to submit one of elements of damage for which he might have recovered. St. Louis South Western R. Co. v. Bolton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 123. Rule not changed by Tex. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1316, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 55, c. 39, requiring judge to prepare and deliver written charge. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Votaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 130; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Hahl [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 27; Stewart v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 310. Matter of latent defect in coupling pin submitted on question of negligence. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Hahl [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 27. Failure to charge on issue in regard to contributory negligence. International & G. N. R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991.

define a particular term,[84] or to instruct the jury to return a verdict in his favor;[85] or that the charge was not applicable to the facts,[86] or was too general,[87] or not sufficiently full,[88] or exact.[89] A defense as to which no instructions were asked cannot be considered on appeal.[90]

A party is not, however, bound to tender issues which the court has announced that it will not submit,[91] nor does a failure to request a special instruction deprive him of the right to complain of an erroneous one on the same subject to which he has saved an exception.[92]

Requests for instructions should ordinarily be made before argument.[93]

Requests for findings.—Ordinarily a party cannot object to the absence of findings,[94] or to the refusal or failure to make certain findings, unless he requests them,[95] nor to insufficiencies[96] or defects in findings, in the absence of a

82. Thompson v. Bucholz [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 490.

83. San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025. To a particular party. Eastland v. Maney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 574.

84. "Adverse" and "claim of right." Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874. Though requested charge erroneous in some particulars, held sufficient to call court's attention to failure to define such terms, and to require charge covering same. Id. "Reasonable care and diligence." Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Williams, 120 Ga. 1042, 48 S. E. 404. "Ordinary care." Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 957.

85. Cook Bros. Carriage Co. v. National Bank of Cleburne [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1169. To withdraw question of fact from jury. International, etc., R. Co. v. Vanlandingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 847.

86. Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913.

87. Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913; Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. Where a rule of law is stated in a general way, failure to apply it specifically to the facts involved. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. McClifford, 120 Ga. 90, 47 S. E. 590. Party desiring further elaboration of his contentions. Little v. Southern R. Co., 120 Ga. 347, 47 S. E. 953. If desires court to specially charge how plaintiff could carry burden of proof, or to charge on subject of weight or preponderance of evidence (Powell v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 803, 49 S. E. 759), or further instructions on line of those given, must make timely request in writing (Id.). That it is not sufficiently specific. Parman v. Kansas City, 105 Mo. App. 691, 78 S. W. 1046; City of Lexington v. Kreitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 444. That charge as to the duty to exercise the highest degree of care is not applicable. Zvonik v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 399. Greater particularity. Turrentine v. Wellington, 136 N. C. 308, 48 S. E. 739. That it is not sufficiently distinct and explicit (San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 401), or is incomplete and not as full as desired (International & G. N. R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991). That should be more apt reference to particular facts. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856. Instructions as to negligence sufficient in absence of request for more specific one. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302. Where charge states correct rule of law applicable to evidence, cannot complain of failure to give qualifications which might have been applicable in view of certain evidence. Id. Of failure to explain fully measure of damages for permanent injuries, where court had charged correctly thereon in general terms. Red River, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1169. That elements of damage to be considered were not sufficiently defined. Southern Pac. Co. v. Maloney [C. C. A.] 136 F. 171.

88. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571; Wingate v. Johnson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 751; Nadeau v. Sawyer [N. H.] 59 A. 369. Not stating defensive matters as fully as allegations of petition. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735.

89. More exact definition of degree of care incumbent on plaintiff. Brown v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 310.

90. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

91. Need not offer evidence in support of them. Falkner v. Pilcher & Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 945.

92. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. & Power Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226. Failure to request proper charge on measure of carrier's liability for goods lost held not to constitute waiver of error in charge limiting liability to exercise of ordinary care. Bibb v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 663.

93. Where record does not disclose that they were so made, will be presumed that they were refused because not made in time. White v. Sun Pub. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 890.

94. Judgment will not be reversed unless party requests them at close of evidence and argument. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1114. Too late when made after findings were filed. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

95. Request must be in writing, and be made at close of evidence and argument, and must be entered on minutes of court. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6. Submission of written findings instead of requests held sufficient compliance [Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1114]. Quinlan v. Calvert [Mont.] 77 P. 428.

96. Failure to show what condition at-request for further findings.[97] But no request is necessary where the court states that he will make findings.[98] A failure to make special findings in accordance with the request will not be considered on appeal when not subsequently called to the attention of the trial court.[99]

§ 6. Necessity of ruling.[1]—In addition to an objection or motion, there must have been a ruling thereon by the trial judge.[2] Thus, issues ignored, and on which no ruling is sought, though raised by the pleadings,[3] motions which do not appear to have been disposed of,[4] the admissibility of evidence received subject to objection and not subsequently passed on,[5] and matters which the lower court expressly refused to pass on, and reserved for decision on fuller proof, cannot be considered on appeal.[6]

§ 7. Necessity of exception.[7]—Objections and rulings must ordinarily be accompanied or followed by exceptions, or they will not be considered on appeal,[8] tached to delivery of note was. Cannon v. McIntyre [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 63, 103 N. W. 530.

97. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1114. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6.

98. May presume that he will make them as to all material facts. Quinlan v. Calvert [Mont.] 77 P. 423.

99. Simon v. Simon [Kan.] 77 P. 571.

1. The "record" must show a ruling or decision made. See Appeal and Review, § 9, 3 Curr. L. 204.

2. Fenn v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103; Canton Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 57 Atl. 637; Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378. Judgment will not be reversed on account of misconduct of counsel, where no motion for mistrial was made at the time, and no ruling is complained of. Southern R. Co. v. Rollins, 121 Ga. 436, 49 S. E. 290. Propositions to submit the case without argument, made in the presence of the jury, are no ground for reversal where no ruling of the court is invoked in reference thereto, and opposing counsel accepts the proposition. Sullivan v. Padrosa [Ga.] 50 S. E. 142. Nothing to review where there is no ruling by the court during the trial, and no proposition of law held, refused, or modified. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank v. Pontiac, 212 Ill. 326, 72 N. E. 411. The validity of a statute. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 210 Ill. 453, 71 N. E. 340.

Admissibility of evidence. Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880; Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 56; Fabian v. Traeger [Ill.] 74 N. E. 131; Hoffman v. Loud & Sons Lumber Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1010. Must appear that court overruled objection, and that evidence was admitted. Saenz v. Mumme & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 59. As to whether witness was bound to produce certain papers. Exception to abstract statement of court as to letter afterwards produced and received without objection insufficient. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220. Motion to exclude a paper admitted in evidence. Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson, 212 Ill. 292, 72 N. E. 443.

3. As to plaintiff's incorporation. Allen-West Commission Co. v. People's Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1041. Sufficiency of notice of purchase at tax sale not passed on, and not offered in evidence or incorporated in bill of exceptions. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19.

4. To strike part of answer before reply filed. Vette v. Evans [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 504.

5. Naas v. Welter, 92 Minn. 404, 100 N. W. 211. Suit in equity. Donaldson v. Smith, 122 Iowa, 388, 98 N. W. 138. Objection that court erroneously refused to consider such evidence cannot be considered. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090.

6. Owens v. Owens' Estate [Miss.] 37 So. 149.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1607.

8. Stryker v. Pendergast, 105 Ill. App. 413; Froman v. Wilson [Colo. App.] 78 P. 615; Tillman v. International Harvester Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 71; Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374; O'Donnell v. Weiler [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055; Warden v. Tesla, 93 App. Div. 520, 87 N. Y. S. 853; Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond [C. C. A.] 128 F. 570. On appeal from order denying new trial, where no evidence was introduced, only errors at law occurring at trial and excepted to may be considered. Action of court in granting nonsuit. Green v. Duvergey [Cal.] 80 P. 234. On objections to special assessments for local improvements. Fisher v. City of Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680. Can only rule on exceptions taken to specific rulings. Mayo v. Halley, 124 Iowa, 675, 100 N. W. 529. Objection that limitations pleaded in amended answer were not applied by trial court unavailing where not made part of record by bill of exceptions or any order of court. Falls Branch Jellico Land & Imp. Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1028, 83 S. W. 108. Question not open to review where no findings of fact or conclusion of law, and no exception to ruling thereon. Employers' Liability Assur. Corp. v. Grand Rapids Bridge Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 975. Questions of law. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 992. Appeal from judgment brings up only questions of law raised by exception at trial, and appellate division cannot, in such case, review exclusion of evidence (Alden v. Supreme Tent, Knights of Maccabees, 178 N. Y. 535, 71 N. E. 104; Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880), or dismissal of complaint on facts where no exception was taken (Muratore v. Pirkl, 93 N. Y. S. 484). May review exclusion of evidence without exception when appeal is from order denying motion for new trial. Alden v. Supreme or on motion to set aside the verdict,[9] or for a new trial.[10] An exception must be taken to the granting of a severance,[11] to the overruling of a challenge to a juror,[12] to rulings on demurrer,[13] to the overruling of a motion to strike out a pleading,[14] or for a continuance,[15] to a ruling allowing the filing of an additional pleading on appeal,[16] to an order granting a change of venue,[17] to going to trial without a bill of particulars,[18] to remarks of the trial court,[19] or of counsel,[20] or, in some states, to the denial of a proper motion in regard to such remarks,[21] to the admission[22] or exclusion of evidence,[23] to the giving,[24] modification,[25] or re-

Tent, Knights of Maccabees, 178 N. Y. 535, 71 N. E. 104. In the absence of a certificate or stipulation that the appeal book contains all the evidence given at the trial, review is limited to exceptions taken by appellant. Jones v. Oppenheim, 91 N. Y. S. 343. In Pennsylvania the rules of equity practice provide for filing of exceptions to cover all objections to rulings on evidence, findings, and to the decree, and on appeal to the supreme or superior court, only such matters as have been excepted to and finally passed upon by the court are assignable as error [Sup. Ct. Rule 67]. Swope v. Snyder, 209 Pa. 352, 58 A. 669. Rules are mandatory, and rulings on evidence cannot be reviewed where no exceptions were filed to them, or to findings of fact and conclusions of law. Id. To holding that defendant abandoned homestead. Anderson v. Baughman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 38.

9. Nadeau v. Sawyer [N. H.] 59 A. 369.

10. Carpenter v. Rosenbaum [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1047. Kan. Code Civ. Proc. § 306. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Werner [Kan.] 78 P. 410.

11. Where, in trespass to try title, defendants' vendor was vouched in as warrantor and was granted severance, and no exception was taken thereto, overruling motion to set aside severance cannot be regarded as reversible error. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

12. Under Pierce's Code, § 5940. State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485, 76 P. 98.

13. Adams v. Board of Com'rs of Whitley County [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1029; Minnich v. Swing [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 271.

14. McCroskey v. Mills [Colo.] 75 P. 910.

15. Smith v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 936.

16. Allowing filing of counterclaim in circuit court not proffered in justice court from which case was appealed. Cedar Hill Orchard & Nursery Co. v. Heiney, 106 Mo. App. 302, 80 S. W. 278.

17. Wright v. Kansas City [Mo.] 85 S. W. 452.

18. Must show that its absence was called to the attention of the court, or that it was insisted upon before going to trial, or that exception was taken to going to trial without it. Block v. Sherry, 43 Misc. 342, 87 N. Y. S. 160.

19. Wilson v. Royal Neighbors of America [Mich.] 102 N. W. 957; Diamond v. Planet Mills Mfg. Co., 97 App. Div. 43, 89 N. Y. S. 635. On exclusion of evidence (Halverson v. Seattle Elec. Co., 35 Wash. 600, 77 P. 1058), or on overruling objections thereto (Lightfoot v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 30).

20. Decker v. Laws [Ark.] 85 S. W. 425; Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill, 209 Ill. 538, 71 N. E. 43; Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374. No reversal where no exception taken at the time, and court not given opportunity to correct error, unless prejudice clearly appears. Streeter v. Marshalltown, 123 Iowa, 449, 99 N. W. 114. To court's adverse ruling, or failure to interfere. Spengler v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 329, 83 S. W. 312. Must be shown by bill of exceptions and not brought to attention of trial court by affidavits in support of motion for new trial. Adler v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 948.

21. As, where wrong is not incurable, motion to admonish jury not to consider remarks. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Fine [Ind.] 72 N. E. 589. Failure to immediately admonish jury not to consider remarks not ground for reversal where not requested, and court stated that he would and did instruct jury to disregard them. Id.

22. Kehl v. Abram, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347; Fabian v. Traeger [Ill.] 74 N. E. 131; Selleck v. Garland, 184 Mass. 596, 69 N. E. 345; Stryker v. Pendergast, 105 Ill. App. 413; Lafferty v. Hilliker [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 910; National Bank v. Schufelt [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 927; Hausmann v. Trinity & B. V. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1052; City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329; Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880; Anderson v. Hilker [Wash.] 80 P. 848; Goken v. Dallugge [Neb.] 101 N. W. 244; Heenan v. Forest City Paint & Varnish Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 806. No exception taken when question asked, no bill of exceptions asked on the subject, and no mention of it in petition for writ of error. Norfolk R. & Light Co. v. Spratley [Va.] 49 S. E. 502.

23. Howard v. Town of Lamoni, 124 Iowa, 348, 100 N. W. 62. Waives right to rely on statute pleaded by failing to object to exclusive evidence and saving exceptions to ruling, and making offer of proof. Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913.

24. Birmingham Belt R. Co. v. Gerganous [Ala.] 37 So. 929; Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402, 77 P. 791; Baden Baden G. M. Co. v. Jose [Colo. App.] 78 P. 313; Auckland v. Lawrence [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1035; Story v. Nidiffer [Cal.] 80 P. 692; Hawkins v. Casey [Wash.] 80 P. 792; McCabe v. Whitman [Mass.] 73 N. E. 535; White v. Sun Pub. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 890; Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505; City of South Omaha v. Sutliffe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 997; Olson v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 449; Parkerson v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2260, 80 S. W. 468; Carpenter v. Rosenbaum [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1047; Bently, Shriver & Co. v. Edwards [Md.] 50 A. 283; Austin v. Fisher Tanning Co., 96 App. Div. 550, 89 N. Y. S. 137; Wright v. Fleischfusal to give instructions,[26] to a ruling limiting the number of instructions,[27] to the manner of submitting interrogatories,[28] to the direction of[29] or refusal to direct a verdict,[30] to the dismissal of the complaint,[31] to an order discharging a rule for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense,[32] to the findings of fact and conclusions of law made by the court,[33] to the verdict,[34] or judgment,[35] to the denial of a motion to set aside a verdict,[36] to an order referring the mann, 99 App. Div. 547, 91 N. Y. S. 116; Morning Journal Ass'n v. Duke [C. C. A.] 128 F. 657; Southern Pac. Co. v. Maloney [C. C. A.] 136 F. 171. Otherwise not a ground for new trial [Kan. Code Civ. Proc. § 306]. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Werner [Kan.] 78 P. 410. In the absence of exceptions will be presumed that the jury were fully and properly instructed. Higgins v. Shepard [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1014; Graves v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 136 N. C. 3, 48 S. E. 502. To submission of specific questions. Cooper v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 518. Defendant cannot predicate error on the denial of a motion to dismiss the complaint made at the close of the whole case, where no exception was taken to the charge. Hilgert v. Black, 90 N. Y. S. 1067.

25. Cannot be considered where exceptions do not include the modifications and no appeal is taken from the action modifying the prayers. Brish v. Carter, 98 Md. 445, 57 A. 210.

26. Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738; Carpenter v. Rosenbaum [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1047; Auckland v. Lawrence [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1035; Baden Baden Gold Min. Co. v. Jose [Colo. App.] 78 P. 313; Finkbinder v. Ernst [Mich.] 97 N. W. 684.

27. The Fair v. Hoffmann, 209 Ill. 330, 70 N. E. 622.

28. Because attached request that jury be required to answer them, and folder of both were also submitted, so that jury might have ascertained at whose request they were submitted. M. S. Huey Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996.

29. Barber v. Dewes, 91 N. Y. S. 1059; Del. Co. Tr. S. D. & Title Ins. Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. Exception should be taken to effective act and not to expression of opinion that there was no evidence warranting submission to jury. Exception held to apply to ruling under the circumstances. Wheeler v. Seamans [Wis.] 102 N. W. 28. Questions of fact may not be presented by one who neither requested their submission to the jury nor excepted to the direction of a verdict. Raymond v. Tallman, 91 N. Y. S. 670.

30. Baden Baden G. M. Co. v. Jose [Colo. App.] 78 P. 313.

31. Cannot review facts where appeal is from judgment only. Muratore v. Pirkl, 93 N. Y. S. 484.

32. Pa. Act April 18, 1874, P. L. 64. Commonwealth v. Cavett, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 57; Chambers v. McLean, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 551.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1610. Fleer v. Reagan, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 170. Defects in findings in case tried by court [Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1114]. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6. Where no exception is taken to finding that land covered by contract of purchase was subject to servitude cannot contend on appeal that it could not be assumed, in absence of proof, that agreement constituting servitude injuriously affected value of property, or that defendant would have bid less had agreement been mentioned in terms of sale. Scudder v. Watt, 90 N. Y. S. 605. Where findings not excepted to, question of sufficiency of evidence to sustain them cannot be raised by cross assignment on appeal. Buster v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1063. Though no findings are necessary in an equitable proceeding, yet, when they are made, they must be properly excepted to. Lilly v. Eklund [Wash.] 79 P. 1107. In absence of exception to findings, the only question open to review is the sufficiency of the findings to support the judgment. Poor v. Cudihee [Wash.] 79 P. 1105; Simmons Hardware Co. v. Baker [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 133, 103 N. W. 529. Exceptions to those proposed by defendants insufficient where they were materially altered by the court. Shaw v. Benesh [Wash.] 79 P. 1007. Findings of fact [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3070]. McGillivray v. Huschka [Wis.] 103 N. W. 250.

34. On review of proceedings to condemn land for street across railroad right of way, fact that no allowance was made for keeping crossing in repair will not be considered, in absence of exception to verdict on that ground. Village of Royal Oak v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 535. Where there is no exception to the verdict on one issue, a new trial will be confined to the other. Satterthwaite v. Goodyear [N. C.] 49 S. E. 205.

35. Rule not changed by fact that court attached statement to transcript that plaintiff's motion for voluntary nonsuit would have been granted if court had known that repeal of statute had deprived plaintiff of right to two trials. Smith v. Mock [Colo.] 79 P. 1011. A case cannot be taken to the supreme court by direct exceptions to a ruling made pendente lite, where there is no exception to any final judgment made at the trial. Kibben v. Coastwise Dredging Co., 120 Ga. 899, 48 S. E. 330. An objection to the finding and judgment of a lower court, not relating to the pleadings or appearing on the face of the judgment itself, can be preserved for review only by exception. Not by recital in transcript by clerk that, on judgment being entered, appellant prayed an appeal, which was allowed. Jones v. Village of Milford, 208 Ill. 621, 70 N. E. 598. Otherwise will be affirmed, though plaintiff was entitled to larger damages than she was awarded. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Potts [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 168. To secure a review of the sufficiency of a verdict claimed to be ambiguous, it must appear that there were exceptions not only to the rulings of the court on motions in arrest and for a new trial, but also that his attention was called to the insufficiency by proper objection and exception to the judgment. Gillespie v. Ashford [Iowa] 101 N. W. 649. N. C. Code, § 550. Appeal from judgment on referee's re-taxation of costs back to the clerk after an appeal therefrom,[37] to an order setting aside a default,[38] or to the denial of a motion for relief from a judgment entered through mistake or inadvertence.[39]

No exception is necessary to a review of errors appearing on the face of the record,[40] nor of error in permitting the jury to find for plaintiff for an amount in excess of that justified by his own evidence.[41] It is unnecessary to except to the conclusions of law, where appellant's contention is that the findings of fact do not justify the judgment or decree.[42] There seems to be some conflict of authority as to whether an exception must be taken to an order denying a motion for a new trial.[43]

By statute in some states no exception is necessary.[44] In others it is not necessary to except to the giving of or refusal to give instructions,[45] to a ruling or decision embodied in a written judgment, order, or journal entry,[46] or to an order necessarily affecting the judgment.[47] In New York no exception is necessary to enable the appellate division to review errors of law occurring at the trial,[48] nor is an exception to the report of a referee or a decision of the court necessary to enable it to review the facts on an appeal from a judgment entered thereon.[49]

Time of taking exceptions.[50]—Exceptions must ordinarily be taken at the time when the ruling, opinion, direction, or judgment is given.[51] A failure to port, overruling exceptions thereto, treated as exception to the judgment based on referee's conclusion of fact, as a case agreed or special findings by the court. Miller v. Coxe, 133 N. C. 578, 45 S. E. 940. Failure to include attorney's fees. Metz v. Winne [Okl.] 79 P. 223.

36. An exception to the denial of a motion to set aside a verdict as contrary to the evidence raises no question of law where there is some evidence to support it. Elwell v. Roper, 72 N. H. 585, 58 A. 507.

37. Smith v. Wenz [Mass.] 73 N. E. 651.

38. Defendant cannot object to the setting aside of a default entered for failure of plaintiff to file bill of particulars, where record does not show exception to ruling and order was acted on by defendant in amending his plea. Heenan v. Forest City Paint & Varnish Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 806.

39. Smith v. Mock [Colo.] 79 P. 1011.

40. Hill v. O'Meara Const. Co. v. Sessinghaus, 106 Mo. App. 163, 80 S. W. 747.

41. Spinner v. Klinger, 87 N. Y. S. 453.

42. Adams v. Washington Brick, Lime & Mfg. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 446.

43. No exception need be taken to an order denying a motion on the minutes for a new trial. Toohey v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 427. Incompetent testimony properly excepted to may be a ground of reversal, where no exception was taken to an order denying a new trial. Ginsburg v. Morrall, 105 Ill. App. 213.

Question of sufficiency of evidence to support verdict and judgment and errors in the admission or exclusion of evidence are not open to review unless a motion for a new trial is made and overruled, and exceptions to such ruling are taken and preserved by bill of exceptions. Chicago & E. S. R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050.

44. Minn. Laws 1901, p. 121, c. 113. King v. Burnham [Minn.] 101 N. W. 302.

45. In Montana the statute gives a party an exception to the refusal to give proper instructions submitted on the law feature of the case. Code Civ. Proc. § 1080, as amended by Sess. Laws 1901, p. 160. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

Michigan: Judgment must be reversed for error in charge, though first raised on appeal. Howell v. Lansing City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 406. Pub. Acts 1901, Act No. 52, p. 79. Though case submitted on appeal in ignorance of statute and on theory that exception was necessary, supreme court will consider assignments based on refusal to give requested instructions on attention being called to statute on motion for rehearing. Finkbinder v. Ernst [Mich.] 100 N. W. 180.

46. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5051. No exception is necessary to obtain review of a decree, based on findings of fact and conclusions of law, previously filed. Fisher v. Puget Sound Brick, Tile & Terra Cotta Co., 34 Wash. 578, 76 P. 107.

47. An order striking out a pleading is reviewable on appeal from a judgment of dismissal under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 956, providing that on such appeal court may review any intermediate order or decision excepted to which necessarily involves merits or affects judgment, except one from which an appeal might have been taken, and Id. § 647, providing that any decision or order necessarily affecting the judgment is deemed excepted to. Alpers v. Bliss, 145 Cal. 565, 79 P. 171.

48. Error in submitting question of law to jury. Dickinson v. Oliver, 96 App. Div. 65, 89 N. Y. S. 52.

49. In re Mosher's Estate, 93 N. Y. S. 123.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1610.

51. Jones v. Newton St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 114. Without exceptions pendente lite and an assignment of error thereon, a ruling made Aug. 10th cannot be reviewed under bill of exceptions tendered Feb. 27th following. Norman & Harrell v. Great Western Tailoring Co., 121 Ga. 813, 49 S. E. 782.

except at the proper time is not cured by a motion for a new trial.[52] Exceptions to evidence should be taken when it is offered.[53] Exceptions to rulings on evidence by a master or referee must be filed before him, and if overruled, renewed in the trial court.[54]

As a general rule exceptions to the giving and refusing of instructions must be taken when the rulings are made,[55] and before the retirement of the jury,[56] unless counsel is prevented from so doing.[57] They cannot ordinarily be taken before the instructions are given.[58] In some states they may be taken at any time before verdict,[59] and the time may be extended by stipulation, made in open court or with the court's consent, until the entry of judgment, but not beyond such entry.[60] In North Carolina errors upon the face of the charge may be excepted to at any time within ten days after adjournment for the term.[61]

A finding cannot be excepted to as unwarranted by the evidence after it has been made,[62] but, if it expressly includes a ruling of law not previously made, exceptions thereto may be alleged within a reasonable time after notice thereof.[63]

Exceptions to the conclusions of law must be taken when the decision is made.[64]

§ 8. Form and sufficiency of objection.[65]—Objections to pleadings must point out the particular grounds thereof.[66]

To evidence.[67]—Objections to the admissibility[68] or sufficiency of the evi-

52. Based on rulings on evidence not excepted to. Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738.

53. Exception to testimony taken after it has been given in answer to interrogatories is too late. Kenney v. Town of Hampton [N. H.] 58 A. 1046.

54. Applies to rulings by examiner of titles for registration. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 222, 72 N. E. 1.

55. Cannot be taken in first instance on motion for new trial. Barnes v. Columbia Lead Co., 107 Mo. App. 608, 82 S. W. 203. Mass. Super. Ct. Rule 48. Court cannot allow exception to refusal of request to instruct on hearing of allowance of bill of exceptions on counsel's statement that intended to save exception and supposed he had done so. Jones v. Newton St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 114. Exceptions to instructions taken on motion for new trial after return of verdict insufficient to raise any question where grounds of objection not set out [Iowa Code, § 3707]. Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505.

56. N. H. Super. Ct. Rule No. 47. Nadeau v. Sawyer [N. H.] 59 A. 369. Points of exception must be designated when exceptions taken. Improper practice to permit points of exception to be then noted, and specification of objection to be supplied later. Mountain Copper Co. v. Van Buren [C. C. A.] 133 F. 1.

57. Where court refused to comply with counsel's request to indicate, before jury retired, which of his requests had been given and which refused, he is entitled to be heard on exceptions to refusal of each separate request, identified by number, they being as specific as the situation permitted. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546.

58. Failure to object and except to court's statement as to how he would instruct on particular question does not prevent review, where exception taken after retirement of jury. Rowe v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co., 35 Wash. 101, 76 P. 529. Exception before instructions read to jury held sufficient where grounds of objection were specifically stated. First Nat. Bank v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 693.

59. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5053. Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126; Rowe v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co., 35 Wash. 101, 76 P. 529.

60. Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126.

61. Code, § 550 and Sup. Ct. Rule 27. Instruction of proposition of law without any evidence to support it. H. G. Williams & Co. v. Harris [N. C.] 49 S. E. 954.

62. Richards v. Appley [Mass.] 73 N. E. 555.

63. Mass. Sup. Ct. Rule 48. Must be made promptly. Richards v. Appley [Mass.] 73 N. E. 555. Mass. Rev. Laws, c. 170, § 106, requiring exceptions to be reduced to writing and filed within 20 days after notice of decision, where case is tried without jury, does not authorize exceptions to be first alleged on such filing. Id.

64. Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1610.

66. See, also, Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980. Exception on ground that does not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action too general. Carson v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 55, 46 S. E. 525. Objection that a party has no legal capacity to sue goes to his authority to maintain the suit at all, and will not include the objection that he is not the real party in interest. Logan v. Oklahoma Mill Co., 14 Okl. 402, 79 P. 103.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1611.

68. Thuis v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 141; Hogen v. Klabo [N. D.] 100 N. W. 847; Gwynn v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460; Thomas China Co. v. C. W. Raymond Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 25; Anderson dence must state the grounds thereof with definiteness and certainty,[69] and must be sufficiently specific to direct the attention of the trial court to the particular point complained of.[70] An objection for which no ground[71] or an improper ground is given cannot be considered on appeal.[72]

Objections on the ground that the evidence called for is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial,[73] or incompetent and immaterial,[74] or incompetent and ir-

v. New York Life Ins. Co., 34 Wash. 616, 76 P. 109. Must appear that reasons were presented to trial judge when evidence was offered. Not sufficient that they were assigned on motion for new trial. Powell v. Georgia F. & A. R. Co., 121 Ga. 803, 49 S. E. 759. Grounds of objection and exclusion must be stated in bill of exceptions. Volusia County Bank v. Bigelow [Fla.] 33 So. 704. Objection that authority to sign has not been shown is not sufficient to render inadmissible evidence as to whether a signature was that of an officer. Coney Island Automobile Race Co. v. Boyton, 87 App. Div. 251, 84 N. Y. S. 347. A general objection to the unfinished sentence: "My brother's wages would be ———," is aimed at the conjectural character of the answer and does not raise an objection to the finished answer as to the union scale of wages on the ground that there was no evidence that deceased was a union man. Nelson v. Young, 91 App. Div. 457, 87 N. Y. S. 69. Where a letter demanding part of the purchase price of land calculates the same on an assumption of the number of acres in the tract, an objection to the admission of the latter on the ground that the sum was not due, also raises the question whether defendant's liability was measured by the actual or the assumed acreage. Warden v. Tesla, 93 App. Div. 520, 87 N. Y. S. 853. Objection to question as to what occurred when administrator came to witness' house on ground that testimony involved personal transaction with deceased person, before any such evidence was given, and no motion being made to strike evidence in answer to such question on that ground, held insufficient to present its admissibility on appeal. In re Andrews, 97 App. Div. 429, 89 N. Y. S. 965. That proof offered is inconsistent with theory of action disclosed by complaint. Carmichael v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1033. Objection to a question that "the subject-matter of the examination, as inquired about, was not admissible," presents no question on the qualification of the witness to testify. Hathaway v. Goslant [Vt.] 59 A. 835. Objection to question as to cost price of producing certain granite blocks on ground that it was not proper way to establish measure of damages, insufficient to raise objection that it did not contain words "fair and reasonable." United Engr. & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351.

69. United Engr. & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351.

70. Weatherford v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1089; Stuart v. Mitchum, 135 Ala. 546, 33 So. 670; Conroy v. Boeck, 91 N. Y. S. 80; Enid & A. R. Co. v. Wiley, 14 Okl. 310, 78 P. 96; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instr. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167. Error in admitting mortgage signed by mark in presence of witnesses without testimony that latter had signed their names, not reached by objection that witnesses were not called, and that it was not shown in what manner the witness identified the mortgage. Ballow v. Collins, 139 Ala. 543, 36 So. 712. Evidence competent as against general objection. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614, 35 So. 701. Objection that facts assumed by hypothetical question are not in evidence must point out facts referred to. City of Aledo v. Honeyman, 208 Ill. 415, 70 N. E. 338. Objection to introduction of lien notices insufficient to raise question as to sufficiency of proof of service. L. A. Page & Son v. Grant [Iowa] 103 N. W. 124. Objection that question went to measure of damages not raised. Phillips v. Heraty [Mich.] 100 N. W. 186. Objection that statement not limited as to time not raised by motion to strike. Howe v. Chicago, K. & S. R. Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 185. Objection to competency of record insufficient to raise question of failure to require preliminary proof of its genuineness. Sampson v. Mayer, 90 N. Y. S. 379. In what particulars it is incompetent. Gwynn v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460.

71. Thuis v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 141; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Coutourie [C. C. A.] 135 F. 465. An objection that evidence has no relation to the issue should be taken on the ground of irrelevancy, and is not raised by objection that such matters are not averred in the declaration. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668. Invalid if the evidence might have been rendered unobjectionable by a change in the course of proceeding. Willett v. Morse [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 362. Objection not put upon any ground, and not ruled on, or excepted to. Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880.

72. Where question asked expert was not hypothetical and not so intended, an objection that it was not sufficiently broad and did not state a hypothetical question was not placed on proper grounds. Holloway v. Kansas City [Mo.] 82 S. W. 89. Objected to as "incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial," whereas it expressed a conclusion. Hellinger v. Marshall, 92 App. Div. 607, 86 N. Y. S. 1051.

73. Thuis v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 141. Does not raise personal disqualification of witness. Hence stipulation permitting taking deposition subject to such objection is waiver of incompetency of witness. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263. Hypothetical question. Longan v. Weltmer, 180 Mo. 322, 79 S. W. 655. Does not question the sufficiency of the certificate of the clerk attached to record objected to. Huber v. Ehlers, 76 App. Div. 602, 79 N. Y. S. 150. An objection to a question as "incompetent, immaterial and improper," in that plaintiff had stated that there had been improvement in a joint since a certain date, is insufficient to present the objection that the question did not confine the answer with-relevant,[75] or irrelevant and immaterial,[76] or incompetent,[77] or immaterial, are usually held to be too general and indefinite to present any available question,[78] if it is admissible for any purpose.[79] But an objection that evidence is "incompetent and immaterial" going to the merits has been held sufficient.[80] A request for a peremptory instruction is too general an objection to a declaration as insufficient to state a cause of action.[81] An objection to the admissibility of a document generally will not save the question whether it is binding on the objector as a party.[82]

An insufficient objection to the competency of a witness cannot be availed of as an objection to the competency or relevancy of his testimony.[83] A general objection to a question does not raise the point that a part of the answer is not responsive.[84] To properly determine the sufficiency of objections, they must be considered in connection with the testimony to which they are interposed.[85] Defendant's objection to plaintiff's evidence cannot be made to do service for an objection by plaintiff to defendant's evidence.[86] Where an objection is limited to a particular ground, the court need only pass on that ground.[87] Objections to the same point need not be multiplied.[88] in reasonable certainty. Nassau Elec. R. Co. v. Corliss [C. C. A.] 126 F. 355.

74. George v. St. Joseph, 97 Mo. App. 56, 71 S. W. 110. Objection to evidence that train causing accident was in vicinity when witness arrived, held not to raise question that, as witness was not present when accident occurred, he could not swear as to where train stopped. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Quinones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 757.

75. Does not raise the question that it is hearsay. Loeser v. Jorgensen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 450.

76. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Coutourie [C. C. A.] 135 F. 465.

77. Does not reach the defect that question asked expert is not sufficiently restricted to prevent the witness, when answering it, from going outside the field of scientific knowledge. Lyon v. Grand Rapids, 121 Wis. 609, 99 N. W. 311. Too indefinite to raise the question that no proper foundation has been laid for secondary evidence. Enid & A. R. Co. v. Wiley, 14 Okl. 310, 78 P. 96.

78. Objection that "it is immaterial as to why he quit, the witness having stated that he quit of his own volition. and that he was not discharged by defendant." Aetna Powder Co. v. Earlandson, 33 Ind. App. 251, 71 N. E. 185.

79. George v. St. Joseph, 97 Mo. App. 56, 71 S. W. 110. If it should be limited in its application, that purpose may be accomplished by appropriate instructions. Boddy v. Henry [Iowa] 101 N. W. 447. A general objection to evidence in whole and in part as incompetent and insufficient on a particular issue cannot be sustained unless it is apparent that the facts intended to be proved could have no weight in whatever form produced. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167.

80. If the objection had gone to a formal defect, it would have been necessary to have it more specific in order that the error might have been remedied. Bowdle v. Jencks [S. D.] 99 N. W. 98.

81. Action for death resulting from collision. On appeal defendant claimed declaration insufficient to state a cause of action in that it failed to state that defendant's servants were incompetent. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Schraag [Miss.] 36 So. 193. See, also, Pleading, § 10, 4 Curr. L. 1031.

82. Saenz v. O. F. Mumme & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 59.

83. Lincoln Supply Co. v. Graves [Neb.] 102 N. W. 457.

84. Cashin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 185 Mass. 543, 70 N. E. 930.

85. "I object," held sufficient in connection with other objections to same class of evidence. Iverson v. McDonnell, 36 Wash. 73, 78 P. 202.

86. Plaintiff not relieved from objecting to parol evidence offered by defendant by fact that court had previously taken under advisement a similar objection by plaintiff. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668.

87. Objection to question properly overruled, where, as limited, it shows no ground for excluding it. Luce v. Hassam [Vt.] 58 A. 725.

88. Objection to any examination touching appellant's admission to the bar because it was an admitted fact, made at beginning, sufficient. Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517, 77 P. 842. Where has once been distinctly raised and overruled, it need not be repeated to the same class of evidence. Omission to repeat it not a waiver. Schutz v. Union R. Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 491; Gabriel v. McMullin [Iowa] 103 N. W. 355. Where exception taken to announcement of court that it will receive certain class of evidence for purpose stated. Date v. New York Glucose Co., 93 N. Y. S. 249. Where testimony of one witness is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, and on ground that no foundation has been laid, statement of counsel that same objection is interposed to testimony of another witness, objectionable only because statements testified to by him have not been stated to witness to be impeached thereby, is not sufficient to call court's attention to distinction. Western

The objection of want of responsiveness in an answer is only available to the party asking the question.[89]

A general objection to specified evidence as a whole,[90] or a motion to strike it out as a whole, is properly overruled where a portion of it is admissible,[91] or where it is admissible as against one of the parties, though inadmissible as against the others.[92] So, too, an offer of evidence as a whole is properly rejected where part of it is inadmissible.[93] An objection to an entire series of interrogatories will be overruled if any of them are competent.[94]

To exclusion of evidence.[95]—To preserve an objection to the exclusion of evidence, an offer of proof must be made, showing the answer expected and the purpose of the testimony sought to be elicited,[96] unless such facts and its materiality are apparent on the face of the question,[97] or the evidence is excluded on the ground that the witness is not qualified to testify at all.[98]

To instructions.—Objections to instructions,[99] or to a failure to give certain instructions, must specifically point out the error complained of.[1] Objections to instructions en masse will not be considered where any of those so complained of are correct.[2]

Union Oil Co. v. Newlove, 145 Cal. 772, 79 P. 542.

89. Christensen v. Thompson, 123 Iowa, 717, 99 N. W. 591.

90. Arnold v. Cofer, 135 Ala. 364, 33 So. 539; Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Granite City Mfg. Co., 116 Ga. 176, 42 S. E. 415; McCrary v. Pritchard, 119 Ga. 876, 47 S. E. 341; Sweeney v. Sweeney, 119 Ga. 76, 46 S. E. 76; Hixon v. Asbury, 120 Ga. 385, 47 S. E. 901; Vedder v. Delaney, 122 Iowa, 583, 98 N. W. 373; Wilson, Close & Co. v. Pritchett [Md.] 58 A. 360; Sun Mfg. Co. v. Egbert & Guthrie [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 667; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 21; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 938. That all testimony of certain witnesses was in chief and not in rebuttal, not indicating the parts which were objectionable. Duckworth v. Duckworth, 98 Md. 92, 56 A. 490. To a series of documents. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10. Challenging sufficiency of description of property sought to be recovered. Weatherford v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1089. That the damages claimed were not the proximate results of the defendant's negligence where some of them might have been the result of such negligence. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Evans, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 252, 70 S. W. 351. To entire statement in deed. Wren v. Howland [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 894. Should limit objection to inadmissible portion, or request instruction that it is not to be considered. Consumers' Cotton Oil Co. v. Jonte [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 847. Declarations of deceased persons. Jamieson v. Dooley [Tex.] 82 S. W. 780.

91. Powley v. Swensen [Cal.] 80 P. 722; Appeal of Spencer [Conn.] 60 A. 289; Wilson, Close & Co. v. Pritchett [Md.] 58 A. 360.

92. Declarations against interest admissible against party making them. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467.

93. Farleigh v. Kelley, 28 Mont. 421, 72 P. 756; Mease v. United Traction Co., 208 Pa. 434, 57 A. 820. Documents. Burch v. Swift, 118 Ga. 931, 45 S. E. 698. Exclusion of an affidavit, the larger part of which is hearsay, there being no offer to omit the objectionable part. City of Ft. Scott v. Elliott, 68 Kan. 805, 74 P. 609. Where court offers to allow hypothetical question after exclusion of objectionable elements and offer is declined, whole question properly disallowed. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Goswick [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 423.

94. To interrogatories under Rev. St. Fla. § 1116. Volusia County Bank v. Bigelow [Fla.] 33 So. 704.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1613.

96. Leverett v. Bullard, 121 Ga. 534, 49 S. E. 591; Council v. Teal [Ga.] 49 S. E. 806; Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247; Millington v. O'Dell [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 949; Neff v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1041; Gooding v. Watkins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 913; Harrison v. Incorporated Town of Ayrshire, 123 Iowa, 528, 99 N. W. 132; Marshall v. Marshall [Kan.] 80 P. 629; Burt-Brabb Lumber Co. v. Crawford [Ky.] 86 S. W. 702; Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10; City of South Omaha v. Sutliffe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 997; Norman v. Hopper [Wash.] 80 P. 551. Bill of exceptions must show what answer would have been, or what party expected to prove by witness. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 957.

97. Marshall v. Marshall [Kan.] 80 P. 629. On face of record. Norman v. Hopper [Wash.] 80 P. 551.

98. Witness excluded because not an expert. Muskeget Island Club v. Inhabitants of Nantucket, 185 Mass. 303, 70 N. E. 61.

99. Jacksonville & St. L. R. Co. v. Wilhite, 209 Ill. 84, 70 N. E. 583. General objection insufficient. Mt. Nebo Anthracite Coal Co. v. Williamson [Ark.] 84 S. W. 779. Where it is a mere formal inaccuracy. General objection insufficient to reach inadvertent use of term "right of way." St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bowen [Ark.] 84 S. W. 788.

1. Failure to point out discrepancy between charges and request. Roth v. Slobodien [N. J. Law] 60 A. 59.

2. Mattern v. McCarty [Neb.] 102 N. W. 468.

To the reports of referees, etc.—A remonstrance to the report of a committee before whom a trial is had,[3] or objections to the report of a master or referee, must point out the grounds thereof with such clearness and certainty as to call the court's attention to the particular alleged error which it is desired to have reviewed.[4] A general objection to the refusal of a referee to adopt a set of conclusions of fact is of no avail if any of them were rightly rejected.[5]

§ 9. Sufficiency of exception.[6]—An exception is an objection taken to the decision of the court upon a matter of law.[7] No particular form of expression is necessary to properly save an exception, but it is sufficient if the purpose to do so is plainly manifested, and the court understands that it has been so taken.[8] Appellate courts should not seek to deprive a party of the benefit of an exception, where it appears that the lower court was fully appraised of the nature of the objection.[9] The question to what portion of an argument an exception relates is one of fact, to be determined by the trial court.[10]

Exceptions to evidence must be to its admission over objection and not to the overruling of a motion to strike it out.[11] The question of the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict is raised by an exception to an order overruling a demurrer to the whole of the evidence.[12]

It is not necessary to multiply exceptions upon the same point,[13] but no other grounds of exception will be considered than those raised in the court below.[14]

Several parties excepting jointly cannot severally assign errors based thereon.[15] The sufficiency of a single paragraph of the complaint cannot be considered under a joint exception to rulings on separate demurrers to each paragraph.[16]

Exceptions to instructions, or to the refusal to charge as requested,[17] to the

3. Remonstrance complaining, not of the rulings, but merely of the manner in which they were stated in the report, is insufficient. Geary v. City of New Haven, 76 Conn. 84, 55 A. 584.

4. Examiner of titles for registration. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 261, 72 N. E. 1. Objection that examiner erred in finding that plaintiff owned lots in fee does not raise question whether he erred in admitting secondary evidence without sufficient foundation having been laid therefor. Id. To master's report. Holdroff v. Remlee, 105 Ill. App. 671; Holdroff v. Remlee, 105 Ill. App. 671.

5. Breitkreutz v. National Bank of Holton [Kan.] 79 P. 686.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1613.

7. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 637. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Fine [Ind.] 72 N. E. 589.

8. Jones v. Newton St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 114.

9. Date v. New York Glucose Co., 93 N. Y. S. 249.

10. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

11. Continental Casualty Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824.

12. Though tried on a theory adopted by defendant. Kennefick-Hammond Co. v. Norwich Union Fire Ins. Soc. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 694.

13. Where plaintiff challenged juror for cause and, on challenge being overruled, exercised peremptory challenge, did not waive objection to four other jurors disqualified for same reason by failing to challenge them for cause or peremptorily, though had two peremptory challenges left. Martin v. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 656.

14. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Voelker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 522.

15. Special finding and joint exception to each conclusion of law. Coy v. Druckamiller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 195. The correctness of an order overruling a demurrer to an answer to a paragraph of the complaint as to which one of the plaintiffs was not a party cannot be questioned on appeal where the only exception taken was a joint one by all the plaintiffs. McCarty v. Snowbarger [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 606.

16. Where defendants jointly and severally demurred to each of two paragraphs of the complaint separately and severally, on ground that neither stated cause of action against defendants or either of them, an exception, on demurrers being overruled, to each of the rulings of the court, is sufficient to present each paragraph of the complaint for review. Acme Bedford Stone Co. v. McPhetridge [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 838.

17. Luce v. Hassam, 76 Vt. 450, 58 A. 725; United States v. Rossi [C. C. A.] 133 F. 380; Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546. Exception "to the instructions on the question of exemplary damages, and to the instruction that exemplary damages may be recovered in this case against both defendants," sufficiently raises the question whether the evidence warranted the jury in giving exemplary damages. Giddings v. Freedley [C. C. A.] 128 F. 355. If wish charge to be more full, must state precisely what they wish charged. Exception "to the instructions on the question of exemplary damages" held too indefinite. Id. Under the Colorado Court of Appeals Rule 11 (64 Pac. xiv), an exception that the "court erred in giving in-judgment,[18] or decree,[19] to an order overruling a special verdict,[20] or the findings and conclusions of a master,[21] to improper remarks of the trial judge,[22] and to rulings on evidence, must specify the particular points deemed objectionable,[23] and should be absolute and not qualified.[24]

Clerical errors in exceptions will be disregarded.[25]

To instructions.[26]—Exceptions to the charge must be publicly taken.[27] A general exception to several instructions, a part of which are correct,[28] or to the refusal of a number of requests to charge,[29] or to submit to the jury a number of special interrogatories, some of which are improper, raises no question for review.[30] An exception to a charge as given, which is conceded to be correct, does not entitle a party to complain of the refusal to charge as requested, or the omisstruction No. 1" is insufficient, where error is alleged only as to a portion of the instruction. City of Denver v. Strobridge [Colo. App.] 75 P. 1076. Where court refused to rule that writings evidenced contract, but left whole question to jury, authorizing them to find contract independently of oral negotiations, and defendant was refused special ruling on this point on ground that in substance such ruling had been given, though in fact it had not, and he excepted to refusal and charge so far as inconsistent therewith, held that he was entitled to complain of the instructions submitting the construction of the writings. Ellis v. Block [Mass.] 73 N. E. 475. Where instruction not erroneous per se. Van Blarcom v. Central R. Co. of New Jersey [N. J. Law] 60 A. 182. Exception sufficient. Diamond v. Planet Mills Mfg. Co., 97 App. Div. 43, 89 N. Y. S. 635; Date v. New York Glucose Co., 93 N. Y. S. 249; Hanau v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1086. The principal office of exception is to point out an error, if one exists, so that an opportunity may be afforded to rectify it. McKinley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 77 App. Div. 256, 79 N. Y. S. 213. An exception to each request which is refused or modified when taken in that form by permission of the court is sufficient to warrant the review of the modification of a certain requested instruction. Id. Hence by permission of the court an exception to a charge may be general. Id. That court erred in its charge to the jury, insufficient. Sigman v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. C. 181, 47 S. E. 420. A request to instruct that, on all the evidence, plaintiff is not entitled to recover, is, in effect, a motion for a verdict, and sufficiently states the grounds thereof so that, by excepting to the refusal to comply therewith, defendant reserves the question whether plaintiff is entitled to recover on the most favorable view of the evidence. French v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 76 Vt. 441, 58 A. 722. Exception "to the failure of the court to charge as requested," too general. Luce v. Hassam, 76 Vt. 450, 58 A. 725.

18. Exception sufficiently specific in view of form of decision and judgment. Brown v. Otis, 90 N. Y. S. 250.

19. Exceptions that decree was manifestly contrary to weight of evidence, too general. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675.

20. Exception too general. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675.

21. Kinard v. Proctor, 68 S. C. 279, 47 S. E. 390.

22. To comments in refusing prayers for instructions. Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co., 99 Md. 382, 58 A. 205.

23. Hyland v. Southern Bell Tel. & Teleg. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 879. Where defendant claimed that it was liable for premiums at the rate specified in the application for a policy rather than that specified in the policy itself, an exception to the admission in evidence of the original application raises such contention for review. Employers' Liab. Assur. Corp. v. Grand Rapids Bridge Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 975. Question raised by exception to allowance of experiment is merely whether evidence is relevant to any issue in case, and not whether it is likely to aid or confuse jury. Latter question one of fact. Healey v. Bartlett [N. H.] 59 A. 617.

24. Exception to failure of court to charge as requested, "so far as there was a failure," held bad. Luce v. Hassam, 76 Vt. 450, 58 A. 725.

25. Use of word "defendants" in exceptions to instructions. Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009.

26. See 2 Curr L. 1614.

27. Rule in Federal courts. So as to call court's attention thereto, and give him opportunity to correct errors. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546; Mountain Copper Co. v. Van Buren [C. C. A.] 133 F. 1.

28. Giddings v. Freedley [C. C. A.] 128 F. 355; Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546; Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13; United States v. Rossi [C. C. A.] 133 F. 380; Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1000; Adams Exp. Co. v. Aldridge [Colo. App.] 77 P. 6; Gallamore v. City of Olympia, 34 Wash. 379, 75 P. 978; Lowe v. Ring [Wis.] 101 N. W. 698. No exception lies to charge as a whole. Savage v. Marlborough St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 531. Even though exception to denial of motion for new trial be construed as exception to charge, cannot be reviewed, since it is a "broadside exception." Kelly v. Johnson, 135 N. C. 650, 47 S. E. 672. Exception to "charge as given," too general. Luce v. Hassam, 76 Vt. 450, 58 A. 725.

29. Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1000; Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546; Bean-Chamberlain Mfg. Co. v. Standard Spoke & Nipple Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 215; Southern Pac. Co. v. Hetzer [C. C. A.] 135 F. 272.

30. Coffeyville Vitrified Brick & Tile Co. v. Shanks, 69 Kan. 306, 76 P. 856.

sion to give further instructions.[31] It is not necessary to, except to the reason given by the court for refusing instructions.[32]

To the findings and judgment.[33]—The burden is on a party excepting to a decree to show in what respect the court erred,[34] which is not satisfied by merely showing that the court could have erred.[35] General exceptions to the findings of fact, conclusions of law, and decree, are insufficient and will not be considered unless each and all of the findings are erroneous.[36] Exceptions to findings of fact improperly taken present for review only the action of the court in excluding evidence.[37] Where plaintiffs request the court to find specifically certain damages, which are disallowed, exceptions to such refusals and to the findings in effect disallowing such damages are sufficient to entitle plaintiff to a review of the ruling.[38] An exception to an order overruling a motion for a new trial authorizes an attack on the findings of the court, though they were not specially excepted to.[39]

An exception to a conclusion of law admits, for the purpose of the exception, that the facts on which it was stated were correctly found,[40] but does not preclude the party making it from controverting such facts by a motion for a new trial.[41]

The sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the judgment is raised by an exception to the judgment.[42]

§ 10. Waiver of objections and exceptions taken.[43]—Counsel may upon the trial waive the rights secured by proper exceptions,[44] and, having done so, they are not thereafter available upon a motion for a new trial or to set aside a verdict.[45]

Waiver may be shown by a subsequent stipulation,[46] by a subsequent pleading over in compliance with the ruling,[47] by a failure to renew the objection,[48] or to press the matter further on an opportunity being given to do so,[49] or a failure to take advantage of an opportunity to cure the errors complained of.[50]

31. Hathaway v. Goslant [Vt.] 59 A. 835. Failure to charge as to a matter pertinent to a case cannot be taken advantage of by assigning error upon a charge correctly instructing the jury as to other matters involved. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Williams, 120 Ga. 1042, 48 S. E. 404.

32. Exception to instruction itself sufficient. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1616.

34. Staniels v. Whitcher [N. H.] 59 A. 934.

35. Staniels v. Whitcher [N. H.] 59 A. 934. Where plaintiff in foreclosure proceedings was declared to have first lien on two tracts of land and decree charged half of such lien on each tract, an exception on ground that he should be compelled to satisfy whole lien out of tract on which defendant had no claim, cannot be maintained in absence of showing that such tract was not worth enough to satisfy both. Id.

36. Lilly v. Eklund [Wash.] 79 P. 1107. Findings of fact. Robins v. Paulson, 30 Wash. 459, 70 P. 1113.

37. General exceptions. Statement of facts will not be stricken where it appears that some of the errors relied on are based on exclusion of evidence. Lilly v. Eklund [Wash.] 79 P. 1107.

38. Davelaar v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 361.

39. Temple v. Watkins Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1188.

40. Wilkinson v. Wilkinson, 33 Ind. App. 540, 71 N. E. 169. All which were within issues presented. Kisling v. Barrett [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 507; Reserve Loan Life Ins. Co. v. Hockett [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 842.

41. Reserve Loan Life Ins. Co. v. Hockett [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 842.

42. Berry v. Ryan [Colo. App.] 79 P. 977.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1616.

44, 45. Fox v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 App. Div. 229, 87 N. Y. S. 754.

46. The right to have alleged errors in the report of a referee, properly excepted to, considered on a motion for a new trial, and the granting or refusing of such motion reviewed on appeal is not waived by a stipulation that the report be in all things accepted and adopted. Stipulation merely waives right to question authenticity of report on settlement of bill of exceptions. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

47. Waiver of demurrers and other objections to pleading by pleading over and going to trial on the merits, see Pleading, § 11, 4 Curr. L. 1038.

48. Motion to make more definite and certain waived by failure to renew it after amendment. Hunter v. Lang [Neb.] 98 N. W. 690.

49. Where remarks of counsel in argument were immediately withdrawn on exception being taken thereto, and jury was instructed to disregard them and opposing counsel said nothing further in regard to the matter, right to object further will be deemed waived. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

An objection to evidence is waived by permitting other witnesses to testify to the same facts without objection.[51] Allowing improper evidence to be admitted, without objection, does not waive the right to object to subsequent testimony to the same effect,[52] nor is an objection and exception to testimony waived by the introduction of controverting evidence,[53] nor an objection to a question by the fact that the same witness subsequently reiterates the matter elicited thereby without objection.[54]

An objection to the exclusion of secondary evidence is waived by subsequently offering primary evidence on the same point,[55] and an exception to the exclusion of parts of a record as fragmentary, by the subsequent introduction of the whole of it.[56] So, too, any error in a ruling that plaintiff has not shown title by possession is waived by showing it by other means.[57] It is no answer to a challenge of the rejection of competent evidence, on the ground that no evidence is admissible in support of the claim, that all the evidence requisite to establish it was not presented or rejected.[58] A motion to exclude all the testimony of a witness does not forfeit the rights reserved by previous objections and exceptions to its admission.[59] Exceptions to the admissibility of evidence are not available where the pleadings are subsequently amended in such a way as to render it admissible.[60]

Seeking to limit, by requested instructions, the effect of evidence introduced over objection, is not a waiver of the exception reserved upon its introduction, or of an exception to a refusal of an instruction to entirely disregard it.[61] Error in sustaining a motion to require plaintiffs to state whether they adopted a memorandum book referred to therein as a part of a will sought to be probated by them is waived by an amendment to the petition alleging that such book was the one referred to and praying that the directions therein be considered as a part of the last will of the testator.[62] A party is not deprived of his right to have a wrong ruling reviewed because it is a repetition by a judge of co-ordinate jurisdiction of a previous erroneous decision of another judge in the same case.[63]

Failure of a notice to take depositions to name a party whose deposition is taken is waived by the adverse party appearing and cross-examining him,[64] but

50. Exceptions to the admission of evidence are waived by declining the court's offer to declare a mistrial, or to strike it out, where the error in admitting it can be cured in that manner. Fox v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 App. Div. 229, 87 N. Y. S. 754.

51. As to rules of railroad. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 401. Where other like evidence is admitted without objection. Galveston City R. Co. v. Chapman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 856. Error in permitting witness not present when accident occurred to state location of train when he arrived held waived by permitting him to answer previous question in regard to same matter without objection. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Quinones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 757.

52. Smith v. Sovereign Camp of Woodmen of the World, 179 Mo. 119, 77 S. W. 862.

53. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195; See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106.

54. As leading. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 37.

55. The right to insist that the overruling of a question, wherein a witness was asked if he did not describe a certain ditch in his application for a patent to a mining claim, was error, is waived by offering a certified copy of such application. Leggat v. Carroll [Mont.] 76 P. 805.

56. Southern Loan & Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435.

57. An error in the court's ruling that plaintiff had not shown title by possession is waived by showing title by other means. Field v. Tanner [Colo.] 75 P. 916.

58. Plattner Implement Co. v. International Harvester Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 376.

59. Even though some of evidence subject to motion was competent. Elliott v. Campbell, 25 Ky. L. R. 1841, 78 S. W. 1122.

60. General Elec. Co. v. National Contracting Co., 178 N. Y. 369, 70 N. E. 928.

61. Not by request for instruction that it could be considered only for purpose of impeachment, to be given only in case request to entirely disregard it was refused. Myers v. Manlove [Ind.] 71 N. E. 893.

62. Beebe v. McFaul [Iowa] 101 N. W. 267.

63. Plattner Implement Co. v. International Harvester Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 376.

64. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

such appearance is not a waiver of the right to suppress depositions for incompetency of the notary before whom they were taken.[65]

An exception to the refusal to give an instruction is not waived by proceeding with the trial after such refusal.[66] Defendant waives his demurrer to plaintiff's evidence,[67] or any error in overruling his motion for a nonsuit,[68] or in refusing a peremptory instruction in his favor, by subsequently introducing evidence in his own behalf,[69] and by failing to renew his motion at the close of all the evidence.[70] Error in the rejection of a prayer offered at the conclusion of plaintiff's case is waived by offering the same prayer at the conclusion of the whole case.[71]

A demurrer to the whole of the evidence,[72] or an exception to the denial of a motion for a peremptory instruction, is not waived by subsequently requested instructions submitting questions of fact.[73] Nor does one waive his right to a review of the refusal to give such an instruction because it is offered for the first time at the close of all the evidence.[74] A party is not estopped to object that a question should not have been submitted to the jury, where he has unavailingly done everything possible to prevent its submission under instructions asked by his adversary, by the fact that he asks instructions presenting it in a favorable aspect to himself.[75]

Where evidence is received subject to objection, the question of its competency must be subsequently raised and passed upon.[76] If evidence which has been excluded subsequently becomes admissible, it must be again offered.[77]

The right to object to the action of the court in regarding a case as one in equity and treating the findings of the jury as advisory is not waived by failure to demand a jury trial, or to submit the question of the right to it, or by endeavoring to maintain the claim under the theory which the party is compelled to adopt by reason of the ruling.[78]

The right to have an intermediate ruling reviewed on appeal from final judgment is not waived by failure to appeal from such ruling, an appeal being allowed.[79] Questions presented by a demurrer to the evidence at the close of plain-

65. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Gray [Ind.] 72 N. E. 869.

66. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

67. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co., 107 Mo. App. 109, 81 S. W. 219.

68. Gilmer v. Holland Inv. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1103.

69. Knights Templars' & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Crayton, 209 Ill. 550, 70 N. E. 1066. Prayers requesting the taking of the case from the jury. Keyser v. Warfield [Md.] 59 A. 189.

70. Exception to denial of motion for nonsuit (McDowell v. Syracuse Land & Steamboat Co., 44 Misc. 627, 90 N. Y. S. 148; Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49), or objection to denial of motion to direct a verdict, waived by introduction of evidence and failure to renew motion (Columbia, N. & L. R. Co. v. Means [C. C. A.] 136 F. 83). Rule applies even though defendant's evidence does not change the situation of the case. McDowell v. Syracuse Land & Steamboat Co., 44 Misc. 627, 90 N. Y. S. 148.

71. Wells & McComas Council No. 14 v. Littleton [Md.] 60 A. 22.

72. By requesting instructions on the theory of the case adopted by opposing counsel and the court. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co., 107 Mo. App. 109, 81 S. W. 219.

73. Though they in effect concede that there was evidence tending to establish plaintiff's case on issues presented. Motion raises question of law only. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Swift, 213 Ill. 307, 72 N. E. 737. Nor by requesting instructions as to the law of the case after its refusal. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Donnell, 211 Ill. 349, 71 N. E. 1015. Party compelled to submit case may assist in its proper submission without estopping himself to contend that verdict is not supported by evidence. Sorensen v. Sorensen [Neb.] 103 N. W. 455.

74. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Donnell, 211 Ill. 349, 71 N. E. 1015.

75. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 346.

76. Question reserved by referee. Breitkreutz v. National Bank of Holton [Kan.] 79 P. 686.

77. Where evidence excluded when offered in chief becomes competent in rebuttal. Appeal of Spencer [Conn.] 60 A. 289. Evidence excluded as not admissible under the pleadings must be again offered after they have been amended. Risdon v. Yates, 145 Cal. 210, 78 P. 641.

78. Right to jury can only be waived in manner specified by statute. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

tiff's case and by motion to dismiss at the conclusion of the entire testimony need not be again presented by prayers for instructions.[80]

Where plaintiff alleges an oral agreement as the basis of his action, and, in case he is mistaken in that, seeks to recover on a subsequent written one, he does not waive his right to complain of a ruling that the written contract must control by proceeding with the trial on such contract after excepting to such ruling.[81]

SAVINGS BANKS; SCANDAL AND IMPERTINENCE; SCHOOL LANDS, see latest topical index.

SCHOOLS AND EDUCATION.

§ 1. The School System in General (1401).
§ 2. Right, Privilege and Duty of Attendance (1401).
§ 3. School Districts, Sites and Schools (1402).
§ 4. Organization, Meetings and Officers (1404).
§ 5. Property and Contracts (1406).
§ 6. Funds, Revenues and Taxes (1408).
§ 7. Teachers and Instruction (1410).
§ 8. Control and Discipline of Scholars, and Regulation of Attendance (1412).
§ 9. Torts and Liability for the Same (1413).
§ 10. Decisions, Rulings and Orders of School Officers, and Review of the Same (1413).
§ 11. Actions and Litigation (1414).
§ 12. Libraries, Reading Rooms and Other Auxiliary Educational Institutions (1414).
§ 13. Private Schools (1415).

§ 1. The school system in general.[82]—The legislature has general control of the educational system of the state and may adopt such measures as they deem necessary to secure to the people the advantages of education,[83] provided the legislation is not special.[84] A uniform text-book law securing to the successful bidder the exclusive right to supply books to the public schools is constitutional,[85] and state boards of education may be authorized to contract for the revision of text-books.[86] A legislature may impose a payment on a school district without its consent.[87] A law will apply to an institution, though it is not exactly described,[88] but if the language is not imperative, it will not affect a pending suit in regard to the institution.[89]

§ 2. Right, privilege and duty of attendance.[90]—It is illegal to charge a tuition fee at a public school.[91]

79. Des Moines Sav. Bank v. Morgan Jewelry Co., 123 Iowa, 432, 99 N. W. 121.

80. Holder v. Cannon Mfg. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 681.

81. McNeill v. Galveston, H. & N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 32.

82. See the topic Common and Public Schools, 1 Curr. L. 544.

83. R. I. Const. art. 12, § 1; they may abolish school districts entirely. In re School Committee of North Smithfield [R. I.] 58 A. 628. Right to rearrange school districts on account of the creation of the county of Denver. School Dist. No. 1 v. School Dist. No. 98 [Colo.] 78 P. 693; School Dist. No. 1 v. School Dist. No. 35 [Colo.] 78 P. 690.

84. A law making cities of the third class one school district is not special. Commonwealth v. Middleton [Pa.] 60 A. 297.

85. It does not create a monopoly nor is it the grant of a special exclusive privilege, nor is it in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act. Dickinson v. Cunningham, 140 Ala. 527, 37 So. 345.

86. But the contract will not be enforceable though the publisher has performed work under it, unless the statutory requirements are exactly followed. Silver, Burdett & Co. v. Indiana State Board of Education [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 829.

87. For tuition of pupils in excess of its quota at a country high school. Boggs v. School Tp. of Cass [Iowa] 102 N. W. 796. A law imposing on school districts a liability to a parent of pupils residing more than three miles from a school house for their carriage to and return is constitutional; it does not contain more than one subject, nor does it appropriate public funds to a private use. School Dist. No. 3 v. Atzenweiler, 67 Kan. 609, 73 P. 927.

88. Where laws applicable to a certain city and certain educational institution refer to the latter as a "university," the laws will be construed as applying to the intended school, though it in fact is of lower grade than a "university." Waddick v. Merrill, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 103.

89. Where a new law relative to an educational institution was enacted after institution of a suit, the court refused to decree a change of management, under the law, near the close of the school year, since the law contained no imperative requirement of a change, and the change, if made, would demoralize the schools for the rest of the year. Section 217, School Code, and section 4105 of Rev. St., construed. Waddick v. Merrill, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 103.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 544.

NOTE: Admission of children to school may be compelled by mandamus (State v.

Separate schools for races.[92]—A board cannot sell a school used for colored children and use the proceeds to build an addition to a school used for white children.[93]

Vaccination of pupils.[94]—State laws excluding children not vaccinated from the schools are constitutional,[95] or a school board under its general powers may during an epidemic of smallpox make vaccination a prerequisite to a pupil's attendance.[96]

Duty to furnish school facilities.[97]—It is the duty of the trustees to rebuild a school that has been destroyed by fire.[98] The state may compel school districts to reimburse parents of pupils who live more than three miles from a school house.[99]

§ 3. School districts, sites and schools. Formation, alteration, consolidation, and dissolution of districts.[1]—School districts need not coincide with local municipalities or be within their boundaries unless the statute bears such a meaning,[2] and acts enabling incorporation for school purposes are separate and distinct from those enabling it for general municipal purposes.[3] A legislature may abolish all school districts and vest all their property in towns without the consent of either.[4] A law declaring that cities of a class shall constitute one school district is not special legislation.[5] In New Jersey the legislature may by special act establish or consolidate school districts, leaving their government to the general laws.[6] In Texas no local notice is necessary before enacting laws for the formation of school districts.[7] Where a city incorporated under a special law with a separate school system becomes incorporated under the general law, the provisions of the special law as to schools not being in conflict with the general law were not superseded.[8] Districts can only be extended,[9] divided,[10] or abandoned, Duffy, 7 Nev. 342, 8 Am. Rep. 713); but not admission of one [a negro] already provided for, to another school (People v. Easton, 13 Abb. Pr. [N. S.] 159), nor to compel admission to schools already full (In re Nicoll, 44 Hun, 340). A wrongfully expelled pupil may be reinstated by mandamus. Perkins v. Board of Directors, 56 Iowa, 476; In re Rebenack, 62 Mo. App. 8; Jackson v. State, 57 Neb. 183, 77 N. W. 662.

91. High school being a free common school cannot charge a tuition fee. Board of Education of City of Lawrence v. Dick [Kan.] 78 P. 812.

92. See 1 Curr. L. 544.

93. An injunction granted. Board of Education of City of Kingfisher v. Board of Com'rs of Kingfisher County, 14 Okl. 322, 78 P. 455.

94. See 1 Curr. L. 544.

95. Not in violation of requirement of free public schools, nor does it deny a citizen his rights and privileges, it being a reasonable health regulation and exercise of the police power. Viemeister v. White, 179 N. Y. 235, 72 N. E. 97.

96. Resolution not bad because it declared itself a permanent regulation, and it was applicable to a child, though her physical condition made it dangerous. Hutchins v. School Committee of Durham [N. C.] 49 S. E. 46. See note "Compulsory Vaccination," 2 Curr. L. 176.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 545.

98. Acts 1901, c. 97, authorizes the abandonment of school only with written consent of a majority of voters or when the school has a less daily attendance than twelve. Advisory Board of Washington Tp. v. State [Ind.] 73 N. E. 700.

99. School Dist. No. 3 v. Atzenweiler, 67 Kan. 609, 73 P. 927.

1. See 1 Curr. L. 545.

2. Under Batts' Ann. St. art. 3994, it is immaterial that agricultural land beyond the limits of the town was included, or parts of other common districts were included, providing the area did not exceed 25 square miles. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

3. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

4. It is not unconstitutional as being a taking of property, as it is devoted to no new use, nor as an impairment of contract, as the duty to educate did not arise out of contract, nor because no jury trial was provided to ascertain the value of the property involved. In re School Committee of North Smithfield [R. I.] 58 A. 628.

5. The City of Harrisburg having accepted the act, the city treasurer was ex officio school treasurer. Commonwealth v. Middleton [Pa.] 60 A. 297.

6. N. J. Const. art. 4, § 7, par. 11, only provides that no "local or special law providing for the management and support of free public schools" shall be passed, and an act declaring certain de facto districts should continue to exist was valid. Howe v. Board of Education of Landis Tp. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 518.

7. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

8. Where a village was annexed, the jurisdiction of the school board was accord-according to law.[11] It is the law in most states that only by consent of the local school officers[12] or on the initiative of a petition by voters or residents,[13] or on referendum to them,[14] can districts be changed or new ones be erected pursuant to statutes of an enabling character as distinguished from those which are self-executing upon the existence of given conditions. The board of education is the proper body to canvass the returns at a special election on the question of the creation of a new district, where it has general authority over school elections.[15] The fact that one of the judges of election was disqualified,[16] or that a clerk failed to act,[17] or that some territory beyond the legal limit without voting inhabitants was included,[18] will not invalidate the election. Until rights have changed or jurisdiction is lost, a board of county commissioners may reconsider its order establishing a new school district on proper notice or appearance of adverse parties.[19] Under a law that a district which exercises its prerogatives without dispute for a year shall enjoy the privileges of a district, a school district which allows another to enjoy such privileges over a part of its territory loses such territory.[20] On quo warranto because of encroachment on existing districts, the particulars of such encroachment and lack of consent must be pleaded.[21] In Missouri where the districts affected are not all in favor of change, the petitioners are entitled to appeal to the county commissioner,[22] who is to appoint arbitrators.[23] ingly extended. Phelps v. Board of School Inspectors [Ill.] 73 N. E. 412.

9. Proceedings taken under an act before it had gone into effect are void. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18. Annexation by city extends authority of school inspectors. Phelps v. Board of School Inspectors of City of Peoria [Ill.] 73 N. E. 412.

Contra: Under Rev. St. 1899, § 9898, the extension of the city limits does not by itself extend the school district. School Dist. No. 7, Tp. 57, R. 32 v. School Dist. of St. Joseph [Mo.] 82 S. W. 1082.

10. Rev. St. 1899, § 9747, allowing "any school district" divided by a county line to attach themselves to districts in the respective counties, does not apply to village but only to country school districts. State v. Fry [Mo.] 85 S. W. 328.

11. But where the town would be liable to the school teachers for breach of contract because of the abandonment, such was an indebtedness as would prevent the abandonment under the statute, and so the school treasurer was justified in not paying over the money. Hornbeck v. State, 33 Ind. App. 609, 71 N. E. 916.

12. A petition to establish a graded school district must be approved by a majority of the trustees of the common school districts included therein. A material alteration, as by changing the location of the school house, after the approval, is fatal to the validity of the proceedings. Waring v. Bertram, 25 Ky. L. R. 307, 75 S. W. 222.

13. A county superintendent has no power to change the boundaries of a school district by detaching part thereof except on a petition of the voters. Injunction is the appropriate remedy when there was no petition of 1-3 of voters or the statutory notice. School Dist. No. 44 v. Turner, 13 Okl. 71, 73 P. 952. Majority of resident freeholders. Jurisdiction at the hearing is not lost because the freeholders have so increased that the petitioners are no longer in the majority. The board has authority to establish the district, even though a majority of the freeholders do not concur therein. Gerber v. Board of Com'rs, 89 Minn. 351, 94 N. W. 886.

14. After a county superintendent has decided that the proposed change is for the best interests of the districts affected, the sole power to determine the matter is in the electors. The recording of the boundaries and a map thereof being purely ministerial acts may be enforced by mandamus. People v. Vanhorn [Colo. App.] 77 P. 978. The power of the county school commissioner to change boundaries is confined to propositions submitted to the voters. State v. Patton [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 537. Batts' Ann. St. art. 3938, requiring such consent applies to districts formed by the commissioners' court not to town or village districts incorporated under article 3994. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

15. Such elections do not come under the general laws as to the division of precincts; where no election commissioners were appointed by the proper tribunal, the voters present on election day may elect them. Rader v. Board of Education [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 240.

16. By running for the office of trustee he invalidated the election of officers but not the vote to incorporate. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

17. The judge selected another person to act as clerk with the consent of the voters, and the fact that he was trustee and that he alone, without the judge, signed the returns, did not invalidate the election. Collins v. Masden, 25 Ky. L. R. 81, 74 S. W. 720.

18. Collins v. Masden, 25 Ky. L. R. 81, 74 S. W. 720.

19. Provided no appeal has been granted or vested rights accrued. Tiley v. Board of Com'rs [Okl.] 79 P. 756.

20. Mills' Ann. St. § 4007. People v. Vanhorn [Colo. App.] 77 P. 978.

21. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

22. Where the vote was 10 to 8 in favor

Division of property on change of district.—The legislature may provide for compensation for property where the boundaries of a district have been changed, and the levy of a tax therefor may be compelled by mandamus;[24] the provisions of such an act requiring the appraisal of the value of the school property and the remittance thereof to the taxpayers of each district are mandatory.[25] So where a borough is carved out of a school district, the remainder, however small, is entitled to a share of the school property.[26] A tax voted before but collected after the formation of a new school district is a credit which must be apportioned.[27]

Establishment of high schools.[28]—Any school district may constitutionally maintain a high school,[29] as it is a part of the common school system, which means the free common schools of the state.[30] A legislature may require a district to pay tuition on pupils attending a county high school in excess of its quota,[31] or provide that no adjunct school district to a high school can be created unless all of the districts affected vote on the proposition.[32]

Sites.—The school meeting cannot delegate its authority to designate a site for a school.[33]

Schools.—School districts may erect buildings for the separate use of white and colored pupils.[34]

Use of building for other purposes.[35]—School buildings may not be used for outside purposes during term time.[36]

§ 4. Organization, meetings and officers.[37]—The election of trustees is not rendered void because persons not entitled to vote voted at the election;[38] and it may be valid though no notice was given, if there is nothing to show but what it was and it was shown 2 persons were not entitled to vote, but it was not shown how they voted, the facts were insufficient to show an unfavorable vote. State v. McClain [Mo.] 86 S. W. 135.

23. A certification of the appointment of "the following voters" does not show an appointment of "four disinterested men, resident taxpayers." State v. Wilson, 99 Mo. App. 675, 74 S. W. 404.

24. Change in districts resulting from the creation of the City and County of Denver. School Dist. No. 1 v. School Dist. No. 7 [Colo.] 78 P. 690. On reversal of a writ requiring payment out of the levy of 1903, on the ground that petitioner was not entitled to payment out of that levy, the writ would be amended by inserting the proper year, 1904. School Dist. No. 1 v. School Dist. No. 98 [Colo.] 78 P. 693.

25. A tax levied by a town without an appraisal is void. Tefft v. Lewis [R. I.] 60 A. 243.

26. In a proceeding to apportion debt and property, the title of the school directors to their office cannot be attacked. In re Old Forge School District's Indebtedness, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 239.

27. Action of money had and received is the proper remedy for the new district. School Dist. No. 9 v. School Dist. No. 5, 118 Wis. 233, 95 N. W. 148. Counterclaim based on an alleged agreement between the districts properly rejected where no evidence that it was more than dismissed. School Dist. No. 9 v. School Dist. No. 5 [Wis.] 101 N. W. 681.

28. See 1 Curr. L. 547.

29. Const. art. 8, § 1, requires an efficient system of free schools whereby all may receive a good common school education. Russell v. High School Board of Education, 212 Ill. 327, 72 N. E. 441.

30. A statute authorizing city high schools to charge a tuition fee is unconstitutional. Board of Education of Lawrence v. Dick [Kan.] 78 P. 812.

31. The act does not require the assent of the corporation. Boggs v. School Tp. of Cass [Iowa] 102 N. W. 796.

32. The law was held defective in that no officer had authority to submit the proposition. State v. Board of Com'rs [Neb.] 95 N. W. 6.

33. The appointment of a committee to locate it "as near as practicable to the center of the district," and the subsequent location ½ mile from such center, is illegal and will be enjoined. School Dist. No. 34 v. Stairs, 1 Neb. Unoff. 85, 95 N. W. 492.

34. Regardless of the question whether they have the legal right to prevent colored children from attending a white school. Board of Education of Kingfisher v. Board of Com'rs, 14 Okl. 322, 78 P. 455.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 547.

36. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5999, granting the right to use a school when "unoccupied for common school purposes," it was illegal to allow a religious organization to use a school house on Sundays and evenings during a school term. Baggerly v. Lee [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 921.

37. See Officers and School Meetings in 1 Curr. L. 547.

38. Persons voted who resided in territory supposed to have been, but not legally, annexed. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

a fair expression of the will of the voters.[39] A school district meeting may ratify the action of the board in incurring an indebtedness.[40] Candidates should not be election officers.[41]

A board of education can only legally act when a quorum is assembled after due notice;[42] but when all the members of the board are present, though there has been no notice or call, it has been held that they may hold a valid meeting.[43] The action of a board is legal, though it fails to make or preserve a record of it.[44] They have power to employ a janitor and to determine his salary,[45] or to regulate the compensation of clerks and subordinates, and to reduce the same, provided the reduction is not ex post facto.[46]

Selection of officers.[47]—An appointment cannot be made to fill a vacancy until the same occurs.[48] City officers may be ex officio officers of the school district.[49]

Qualification of officers.[50]—A truant officer appointed by a county board of education,[51] and school trustees, are officers who must take the constitutional oath of office.[52] Where the oath of office is taken, the fact that it is not on file will not deprive an officer of his office.[53]

Tenure of office.[54]—Officers usually hold over where no successor is elected or appointed.[55]

Salaries.—An act allowing mileage to county superintendents which is not uniform in all counties is constitutional.[56] A board of county commissioners acts ministerially and not judicially in auditing the salary of a county superintend-

39. It was held at the regular time and place, the voters selecting their own election officers who were not sworn and had no blanks. Buchanan v. Graham [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1237.

40. Voting a tax amounted to a ratification. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

41. Election may be void if candidate was an election officer. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

42. The action of two of three members, when no notice was given to the third is void. Cunningham v. Board of Education, 53 W. Va. 318, 44 S. E. 129. Notice of meeting at "6 o'clock the next morning" was insufficient where members received it different days. Shepherd v. Gambill, 25 Ky. L. R. 333, 75 S. W. 223. Proceedings not invalidated because an irregularly elected but de facto trustee participated therein. State v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 723.

43. Notwithstanding Rev. St. 1899, § 9761, requires each member to have notice. Decker v. School Dist. No. 2, 101 Mo. App. 115, 74 S. W. 390.

44. Settlement made with a contractor then present. Decker v. School Dist. No. 2, 101 Mo. App. 115, 74 S. W. 390.

45. A janitor may assign his salary which has been earned. Oberdorfer v. Louisville School Board [Ky.] 85 S. W. 696.

46. An attendance officer's salary was fixed at the first year at $1,000 and second at $1,100; he served 3 months on his second year, but was paid only at the rate of $1,000, and his salary was then reduced, and he was allowed to recover for his back salary. Black v. Board of Education, 92 N. Y. S. 118.

47. See 1 Curr. L. 547.

48. Because of failure to hold an election, the office of school trustee was to become vacant, but no valid appointment could be made until the incumbent's term of office expired, then an appointment would prevent his holding over. Shepherd v. Gambill, 25 Ky. L. R. 333, 75 S. W. 223.

49. By Act May 23, 1874, § 42 (P. L. 256) city treasurer of Harrisburg ex officio school district treasurer. Commonwealth v. Middleton [Pa.] 60 A. 297. In 1861 by special charter the council of the City of Galena was declared ex officio the city school directors; in 1879 in all such cases it was declared that the directors should be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council; a law relating to school directors in school districts, organized under special laws but maintaining schools under the general law, was held not to apply to Galena. Schmohl v. Williams [Ill.] 74 N. E. 75.

50. See 1 Curr. L. 547.

51. The statute is directory as to the time of the appointment and does not preclude a subsequent appointment. Featherngill v. State, 33 Ind. App. 683, 72 N. E. 181.

52. Must be done before they enter on discharge of duties; but where they were prevented it may be taken later. Buchanan v. Graham [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1237.

53. It appeared that the oath was duly signed and mailed to the county clerk. Click v. Sample [Ark.] 83 S. W. 932.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 548.

55. The county court appointed two directors to fill two vacancies, not designating which was to hold the longer term; at the next meeting a successor was elected for only one, though it appeared that the appointments were only effective until that meeting, and it was held that the other held over. Click v. Sample [Ark.] 83 S. W. 932.

56. Were allowed 5 cents a mile in counties under the eleventh class and in others 10 cents, but this was not a grant of special privileges, or a denial of the equal protection of the laws. Henry v. Thurston County, 31 Wash. 638, 72 P. 488.

ent.[57] Schools in special districts are not to be counted in computing the salary of a county superintendent, under the North Dakota law,[58] as they are not under his supervision, and the county cannot recover any excess payment unless it is against conscience for the superintendent to retain it.[59] An officer who qualifies and performs the duties of his office is entitled to the salary attached thereto pending an election contest,[60] unless he gives a bond to return it.[61]

§ 5. Property and contracts.[62]—A school township may condemn land for school purposes whenever necessary in the judgment of the trustees,[63] but it cannot condemn a street over its land without express legislative authority.[64] School buildings may be subject to materialmen's liens,[65] and those erected on leased land may be removed within a reasonable time after the closing of the school.[66] The legislature may make provision for the holding of trust funds.[67]

School lands.[68]—A legislature cannot dispose of school lands to which it has an absolute title except in the way authorized by the constitution.[69] Public lands with which the school funds are endowed are treated in another topic.[70]

Validity of contracts in general.[71]—The school township is only liable on contracts for needful and proper articles,[72] or for services.[73] A board of education empowered to maintain schools in connection with an academy may contract to lease part of its rooms and employ services of its principal.[74] Having been per-

57. Statute provides the minimum salary, and the number of days he is employed is left to his discretion. Chase County v. Kelley [Neb.] 95 N. W. 865.

58. Rev. Codes 1899, § 652, made the salary dependent on the number of schools, or departments of graded schools under his supervision the preceding year. Dickey County v. Denning [N. D.] 103 N. W. 422.

59. The county auditor in good faith but without authority of law included in the warrant amounts due to the clerks employed by the superintendent and which the latter duly paid to the clerks, but the county was not allowed to recover back the money. Dickey County v. Hicks [N. D.] 103 N. W. 423.

60. Pol. Code, § 936, applied to all offices. Wilson v. Fisher, 140 Cal. 188, 73 P. 850.

61. Where a clerk, whose office was contested, executed a bond to obtain payment of his salary, and he was subsequently defeated, the board was not estopped from suing on the bond to recover back the salary, nor was the bond without consideration. McLaughlin v. Board of Education of Covington, 26 Ky. L. R. 1126, 83 S. W. 568.

62. See 1 Curr. L. 549.

63. Power absolute and the courts have no power to review the exercise of the discretion, nor can the landowner show that a less amount of land would do. Richland School Tp. of Fulton County v. Overmyer [Ind.] 73 N. E. 811.

64. A public street is not such property as a state normal school corporation may take under the general power of eminent domain. In re South Western State Normal School, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 99.

65. But here it appeared that the contractor was paid according to the contract and that the district furnished the school because of the contractor's failure to do so, and that the subcontractors had no claim. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 84.

66. Where a school district asserted its right to remove a school within 5 days after the closing of the school and did remove the same within 20 days, there was no inference that it had abandoned the same; nor where the statute provided that no school should be erected on land leased for a shorter period than 50 years, without the privilege of removal, is the owner of premises leased for 50 years without any express reservation entitled to a school house on the termination of the lease. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999.

67. A statute providing for the holding of an educational trust fund is not unconstitutional for want of a corporate power to receive and execute the trust. State v. City of Toledo, 23 Ohio Circ. R. 327.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 549.

69. The legislature having accepted the terms of an Act of Congress as to indemnity school lands, and the commissioner of public lands and buildings having made selections which were approved by the interior department within the time limited, the title of the state was absolute, and an act authorizing a deed of relinquishment to certain persons who settled on and improved the land and claimed a preference was void as a breach of trust. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235.

70. See Public Lands, 4 Curr. L. 1106.

71. See 1 Curr. L. 549, and compare topic Public Contracts, 4 Curr. L. 1089.

72. The complaint in an action on the contract for the purchase of a heater for a school is insufficient where there is no allegation of the necessity of procuring the heater. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100.

73. District contracted with plaintiff, an architect, for his services for one year, and the breach being total, plaintiff was allowed to recover what he would have earned less his expenses. School Dist. v. McDonald [Neb.] 94 N. W. 829.

74. Trustees of Washington Academy in formed on one side, ultra vires cannot be urged,[75] and breach may be avoided by injunction.[76] Such a power specially given is not destroyed by a general law that boards generally or specially chartered may adopt academies on resignation of trustees.[77] The action of the board in making contracts cannot be reviewed on the ground that they have not acted prudently,[78] and if their act was within the apparent scope of their authority, the burden to prove an excess of power is on the one asserting it.[79] One may recover in quasi contract for money loaned to a school district,[80] or on a quantum meruit where one has not fully performed his contract in erecting a school building, or the board may make a settlement in such a case.[81] But where contracts of school districts are required to be in writing,[82] a recovery cannot be had on a quantum meruit.[83] A contract of a board not fully negotiated,[84] or with one of its members, is void.[85] The depriving of the contractor after he has made a contract of the right to sue the board is not an impairing of the obligation of a contract.[86]

Proposals.[87]—The advertising for bids by a building committee is a sufficient compliance with the requirement that the board shall advertise for bids.[88] An advisory board may attend to the letting of contracts, but cannot overrule the judgment of the county superintendent as to the advisability of rebuilding a school.[89]

Contracts for text books.[90]—Where a state board of education has entered into a contract with a publisher which the latter has faithfully performed, it will not be held invalid at the instance of a local board not parties thereto.[91] The requirements of a statute must be literally followed in order to obtain a binding contract to revise text books with a state board of commissioners.[92] A local board has no right to enter into contract with booksellers to sell text books at cost in consideration of certain payments from the contingent fund of the district.[93] A

Salem v. Cruikshank, 43 Misc. 197, 88 N. Y. S. 330.

75, 76, 77. Trustees of Washington Academy v. Cruikshank, 43 Misc. 197, 88 N. Y. S. 330.

78. In action on note for money lent to build a school, no defense that its erection was illegal, where the action had been authorized by the advisory board whose approval was now required by law instead of that of the county commissioners. Lincoln School Tp. v. Union Trust Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 623.

79. Officers contracted with one to haul a load of lumber to aid in the construction of a school, and it was no defense that no site had ever been lawfully designated. Martin v. Common School Dist. No. 61 [Minn.] 101 N. W. 952.

80. Evidence held not to show that money loaned to a trustee for the erection of a school was ever received by the school township. White River School Tp. v. Caxton Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 185.

81. Cannot be set aside except for fraud or mistake. Decker v. School Dist. No. 2, 101 Mo. App. 115, 74 S. W. 390.

82. Teachers' contracts. Lee v. York School Tp. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 956.

83. Plaintiff's written offer to do the work of superintendence for $25 a month, and the school records that plaintiff was elected to do the work for $50, did not show a contract. Perkins v. Independent School Dist. of Ridgeway, 99 Mo. App. 483, 74 S. W. 122.

84. School district not bound by an agreement with another district where its terms had been merely proposed and talked over, but the agreement had never actually been signed. School Dist. No. 9 v. School Dist. No. 5 [Wis.] 101 N. W. 681. Contract signed by president and secretary of state board of education are valid. Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420, 78 P. 1103.

85. In action by member to recover purchase price of goods sold to board for use of schools, it is not necessary that the plea setting up the illegality of the contract should show that it was prejudicial to the school district. Poling v. Board of Education of Philippi Independent Dist. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 148.

86. The act constituting the board a corporation and permitting it to be sued was repealed. Wheeler v. Board of Control of State Public School [Mich.] 100 N. W. 394.

87. See 1 Curr. L. 549.

88. Rev. St. 1887, § 3938. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

89. Mandamus allowed. Advisory Board of Washington Tp. v. State [Ind.] 73 N. E. 700.

90. See 1 Curr. L. 550.

91. Because of insufficiency of contractor's bond, or because the publisher's textbook in geography had been altered. Wagner v. Royal, 36 Wash. 428, 78 P. 1094.

92. Though the contractor had employed the persons designated by the board and expended much money, he was entitled to no relief on the board's letting the contract to another publisher. Silver, Burdett & Co. v. Indiana State Board of Education [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 829.

93. The statutory method allowed the board to contract for books and to keep publisher cannot sue in equity to restrain the breach of a contract where he has not fully performed,[94] or where his damage is merely nominal,[95] and in some jurisdictions it is held that his remedy at law is adequate.[96]

Ratification of action of officers.[97]—A school district may ratify a contract which was not formally authorized.[98]

Officers are not personally liable[99] on a school contract,[1] unless they join therein,[2] and the school district is not liable on the verbal promise of an officer.[3]

Contractors' bonds.[4]—The contractor's bond must be approved before the contract will be valid.[5] The county superintendent may recover on a publisher's bond conditioned that its prices for books shall not be greater than those made in other states.[6] A contract may be enforced by a school board which has been reorganized under a new name but was otherwise unchanged by action on the contractor's bond.[7]

§ 6. Funds, revenues and taxes.[8]—A school treasurer may deposit school funds in a solvent bank.[9]

Tuition and incidental fees.[10]—No tuition fee can be charged in the public schools.[11] them for sale or select persons to sell them at cost to the pupils. Any taxpayer was entitled to restrain the board irrespective of his motive or that he had been party to a similar contract. Ries v. Hemmer [Iowa] 103 N. W. 346.

94. Where a state board of education contracted with a person to revise certain text books, but reserving the right to reject, they will not be enjoined from contracting with others for books where it did not appear that the revised books were suitable. Silver, Burdett & Co. v. Indiana State Board of Education [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 667.

95. Here used the books the full number of years, but not the years required in the contract. Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 399, 78 P. 1096.

96. Under the law that text books once adopted shall not be changed for five years, a resolution of a city board of education authorizing the purchase of a certain arithmetic did not constitute a contract with the publisher, but it constituted a sufficient adoption of the book to preclude the board from changing it within 5 years of the date of the resolution. Attorney General v. Board of Education of Detroit, 133 Mich. 681, 10 Det. Leg. N. 314, 95 N. W. 746.

97. See 1 Curr. L. 550.

98. The district through its moderator entered a written contract with plaintiff for supplies and the goods were accepted and payments made thereon, and a warrant issued for the balance which was paid, and the payments approved by the district and plaintiff was here allowed to recover interest on the warrant. Haney School Furniture Co. v. School Dist. No. 1, 133 Mich. 241, 10 Det. Leg. N. 135, 94 N. W. 726.

99. See 1 Curr. L. 550.

1. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100.

2. But here the officers were released from liability on a warrant which they had guaranteed because of its felonious alteration by the cutting off of an annexed memorandum, notwithstanding that the instrument was easily susceptible of such alteration. First Nat. Bank v. Carter [Mich.] 101 N. W. 585.

3. The president of the board promised a subcontractor before he began work, that he would pay him. Moore v. Leonard Independent School Dist. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 324.

4. See 1 Curr. L. 551.

5. The state board of education consisted of the superintendent of public instruction, the secretary of state and the attorney general; the law provided that the assistant secretary of state might do the business of the office in the absence of the secretary of state, and it was held that such assistant and another member of the board might approve of a bond, though the secretary of state had not actually left town, but was on his way to. Commonwealth v. Ginn & Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 688. The bond was delivered to and filed with state superintendent of schools, who was president of state board of education, but was not formally approved by said board and the attorney general as required by law. Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420, 78 P. 1103.

6. Plaintiff who sold in Kentucky to retailers at 80% of list prices, who were bound to sell the books at list prices, entered into contract in Ohio to furnish books to township boards of education at 75% of list prices, who should arrange for sale to pupils at a price not exceeding a 10% advance. American Book Co. v. Wells, 26 Ky. L. R. 1159, 83 S. W. 622.

7. Contract to install an adequate heating plant. Board of Education of St. Louis v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70.

8. See 1 Curr. L. 551.

9. Code 1873, § 1747, by the word "hold," did not mean physical possession; nor was it a loan of funds so as to constitute embezzlement, or as to prevent the treasurer's recovering on a guaranty given by the bank. Hunt v. Hopley, 120 Iowa, 695, 95 N. W. 205.

10. See 1 Curr. L. 551.

11. A high school cannot charge a tuition fee. Board of Education of Lawrence v. Dick [Kan.] 78 P. 812.

Debt limit.[12]—Contracts let in excess of the debt limit will not avoid prior contracts.[13] The debt limit cannot be raised by creating another school corporation for the same district.[14] Contracts let for a greater sum than the debt limit will be valid if the board has property which it can sell to meet them.[15]

Levy and collection of taxes.[16]—The power to levy taxes may reside in the city authorities.[17] The validity of a tax is not affected by any informality in the election of the supervisors or failure to publish notice of their meetings,[18] or any irregularity in the certificate,[19] or for failure to fix the time when the tax should be paid.[20] Redemption may be made from school taxes,[21] and a sheriff is entitled to the same commission for collecting a school tax as for other taxes.[22] The county is liable for funds of a school city received by it in compromise of a defaulting treasurer's shortage.[23] In Louisiana, in elections for the purpose of levying taxes for school purposes, the property valuation of each voter must be marked on each ballot,[24] and the petition for election must state the amount proposed to be realized as well as the rate of the tax.[25]

School bonds.[26]—Bonds may be issued by de facto officers,[27] but only in the manner provided by law.[28] In Missouri the holder of school bonds has the burden of proving that they were authorized at an election and that they are within the debt limit;[29] but generally the recitals protect a purchaser in good faith.[30] A

12. See 1 Curr. L. 551.

13. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

14. Law making the high school board a separate corporation. Russell v. High School Board of Education, 212 Ill. 327, 72 N. E. 441.

15. Authorized to issue $25,000 bonds and found that to install a heating plant that sum would be exceeded, but it owned other property not required for school purposes and a balance in the treasury in excess of the extra cost. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

16. See 1 Curr. L. 552. For general rules of taxation, see Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

17. Priv. Laws 1857, p. 219, c. 11, giving the city council of Joliet the right to levy taxes for school purposes, held not to be impliedly repealed or altered by subsequent legislation giving certain powers to the school inspectors. People v. Mottinger [Ill.] 74 N. E. 150.

18. The notice being for the benefit of the tax payer is waived by him in paying the taxes. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Board of Education of Somerset [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1120.

19. The fact that certificate of levy of tax is not under seal might have been remedied on the application for judgment, and will not justify the restraint of the collection of the taxes. Schmohl v. Williams [Ill.] 74 N. E. 75.

20. Suit where no penalty was claimed. Collins v. Masden, 25 Ky. L. R. 81, 74 S. W. 720. Within ten days of the levy of a tax, the treasurer and county superintendent must make a list of persons liable to the tax. Id.

21. Pol. Code, § 3817. Palomares Land Co. v. Los Angeles County [Cal.] 80 P. 931.

22. Board of Education of Iredell County v. Board of Com'rs of Iredell County [N. C.] 49 S. E. 47.

23. Money was turned in to the general fund of the county. Demarest v. Holdeman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 714.

24. The tax must be carried by majority of voters and of property, and it is improper to mark in the valuations while canvassing the votes. Bennett v. Staples, 110 La. 847, 34 So. 801.

25. Otherwise a nullity; Const. art. 232. Bennett v. Police Jury [La.] 36 So. 891.

26. See 1 Curr. L. 553, and the title Municipal Bonds, 2 Curr. L. 931, and 4 Curr. L. 706.

27. Bonds not illegal because authorized at an election called by trustees whose election was irregular. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

28. An order that notice be posted calling a meeting of voters for the purpose of making an "appropriation" of 1% of assessed valuation, and a record that the voters assembled after due notice of 20 days and "considered the propriety of the loan as per notice," and that it was carried by vote of 17 to 2, does not show that bonds were authorized by a ⅔ vote at an election called for that purpose. Thornburgh v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81. A school warrant for $800 cannot be funded under a law providing that bonds may be issued in any denomination from $100 to $1,000 and that they must be in series running from 10 to 20 or 20 to 30 years. School Dist. No. 44 v. Baxter, 14 Okl. 374, 78 P. 386.

29. Recitals in bonds issued in violation of statute will not avail a purchaser in good faith before maturity, as they are not even prima facie proof and the bonds would be just as valid without them. Thornburgh v. School Dist. No. 3, 175 Mo. 12, 75 S. W. 81.

30. See 4 Curr. L. 717. Recitals will estop a district to claim bonds were not issued and used to refund a valid indebtedness where the bonds are in the hands of a bona fide holder. Gamble v. Rural Independent School Dist., 132 F. 514.

law authorizing a city to issue bonds to build school houses or to provide for additional play grounds,[31] and an act authorizing a school district to issue bonds which does not refer to it by its legal name, provided it is plainly designated, are valid.[32] The legislature cannot authorize several boards of education in the same territory to issue bonds up to the debt limit and so evade the constitutional limitation of indebtedness.[33] In an action to restrain levy of taxes to pay for bonds, the bondholders are necessary parties.[34]

Orders and warrants for payment of claims.[35]—Warrants can only be drawn pursuant to an order of the board and on a particular fund for a specific use.[36] One regularly drawn is valid, though the minutes of the board contain no record of the claim or of its allowance,[37] and though it is drawn on the wrong fund,[38] unless it exceeds the legal indebtedness of the district.[39] Officers may guarantee the payment of a warrant.[40] The treasurer may be compelled by mandamus to pay an order where he has the funds.[41]

Apportionment of funds.[42]—A county superintendent is sometimes required to apportion the school moneys among the several districts according to the school census.[43] Mandamus will not lie to compel a state treasurer to pay to an agricultural college funds where its right to them is not undisputed.[44]

§ 7. Teachers and instruction. Contracts of employment.[45]—Teachers' contracts with a district school board are subject to the power of the district at its next meeting to terminate the contract by inconsistent rulings as to length of term, sex of teacher, or payment of moneys.[46] The board may make a conditional contract with a teacher,[47] but they cannot in Ohio employ one for a term longer

31. The objection that education is a state affair and not a municipal affair is not sustained. Law v. San Francisco, 144 Cal. 384, 77 P. 1014.

32. District was created as School District No. 34, and thereafter at request of citizens was known as Gault School District, and was so designated in the tax books, and in the act of legislature authorizing the bonds. State v. Brock, 66 S. C. 357, 44 S. E. 931.

33. Constitutional limit 5% and bonds could not be issued in excess, though necessary to provide a high school by the device of creating a separate board of education for high schools. Russell v. High School Board of Education, 212 Ill. 327, 72 N. E. 441.

34. The regularity of the election of school trustees cannot be questioned in a proceeding to restrain a tax voted at an election called by the trustees. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

35. See 1 Curr. L. 554.

36. Where the order is lost, it is necessary to prove not merely that the order existed, but its contents; and where no use is mentioned, the warrant is void. Tunica County Sup'rs v. Rhodes [Miss.] 37 So. 1005.

37. The warrant valid, though not numbered or though its issue was not noted in the warrant stub-book. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

38. Warrant drawn on "contingent fund," in payment of school house, will be regarded as drawn on "school house" fund, the only other authorized fund being a "teachers'" fund. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

39. The burden to show this is on the district, and it is not shown by its appearing to be greater than 4% of the assessed valuation, where it appears that telegraph and railroad property is not included in the assessed valuation. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

40. Officers not liable on a warrant which they signed and guaranteed and which was easily susceptible of felonious alteration by the cutting off of the attached memorandum and which was so altered. First Nat. Bank v. Carter [Mich.] 101 N. W. 585.

41. The order was given for school supplies in due form and was included in the statement of indebtedness issued to validate bonds, the proceeds of which were in the treasurers' hands, but the treasurer claimed to have no knowledge of any contract or resolution authorizing the purchase of supplies. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 490.

42. See 1 Curr. L. 554.

43. In Nebraska the superintendent has no power to correct the census, though he may order a new one. State v. Wedge [Nev.] 72 P. 817.

44. Regents of Agricultural College v. Vaughn [N. M.] 78 P. 51.

45. See 1 Curr. L. 555.

46. But the district cannot by a mere resolution cancel the contract. Hemingway v. Joint School Dist. No. 1, 118 Wis. 294, 95 N. W. 116.

47. Before the annual meeting the teacher was employed for the ensuing year, provided the district was only bound for the five months required by law, or the further time that may be fixed at the meeting; the meeting fixed the school year at nine months and employed another teacher, but was held than that of any member of the board of education.[48] A school committee may delegate authority to hire teachers to the superintendent, or they may ratify his contracts.[49] A contract to employ a teacher to superintend two schools and to teach in both,[50] or one made with a teacher whose certificate is irregular, is good.[51] A teacher of gymnastics in the schools is a mere employe of the board and not an officer of the city and therefore may be appointed an attendance officer.[52] In Greater New York teachers are appointed by the board of education on the nominations of the board of superintendents from the promotion lists.[53]

Dismissal, suspension and reassignment.[54]—A teacher elected to a permanent position on the favorable report of the committee on classification cannot be removed except for cause.[55] A board having the power to reduce the number of classes may determine what teachers may be retired,[56] but a school board having authority to dismiss a teacher cannot arbitrarily exercise it, and its decision may be reviewed by a court or jury.[57]

Breach of contract.[58]—The discontinuance of a position to which a teacher has been elected and has accepted is a breach of contract.[59] In a teacher's suit for breach of contract the complaint need not state that she held a certificate.[60]

Payment of salary.[61]—To be entitled to a salary one must have taught under a valid contract.[62] Where contracts with school teachers are required to be in writing, there can be no recovery on a quantum meruit,[63] but the writing may be in several instruments if it is so definite as to be capable of specific performance.[64] liable to the first teacher. Norton v. Wilkes [Minn.] 101 N. W. 619.

48. Rev. St. 4017; purpose to prevent a teacher's appointment continuing after the personnel of the board was entirely changed. Board of Education of Canton v. Walker [Ohio] 72 N. E. 898.

49. Where plaintiff was engaged in the middle of the school year at the rate of the annual salary, it will be presumed that the contract was to end with the school year. Denison v. Inhabitants of Vinalhaven [Me.] 60 A. 798.

50. He may resort to mandamus to secure his salary. State v. McQuade, 36 Wash. 579, 79 P. 207.

51. The teacher was examined by the county superintendent at the request of the school district under Gen. St. 1894, § 3810, which was repealed prior to the issuance of the certificate. Snell v. Glasgow, 90 Minn. 111, 95 N. W. 881.

52. N. Y. charter provided that no person should hold two city or county offices, and that no officer should be interested in any contract with the city. Munnally v. Board of Education of New York, 92 N. Y. S. 286.

53. The making of such lists by the superintendents is a ministerial duty and may be enforced by mandamus, and Brooklyn teachers under the Greater N. Y. charter are entitled to have their names placed thereon. Brooklyn Teachers' Ass'n v. Board of Education of New York, 85 App. Div. 47, 83 N. Y. S. 1.

54. See 1 Curr. L. 556.

55. But the board of education may remove at will any teacher though in a permanent position who has not been favorably reported. Stockton v. Board of Education of San Jose, 145 Cal. 246, 78 P. 730. A rule in a private school forbidding teachers to enter a saloon, for violation of which he was discharged, was held a reasonable one as a matter of law. Koons v. Langum [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490.

56. Where one school had 12 teachers for 176 pupils and another the same number for 343 pupils, a reduction of teachers in the former school was warranted in the interest of economy. Bates v. Board of Education of San Francisco, 139 Cal. 145, 72 P. 907.

57. This though there was a provision in the contract that the teacher might be dismissed within six months if she failed to give satisfaction, and the law authorized dismissal by the board for certain stated reasons. School Dist. No. 94 v. Gautier, 13 Okl. 194, 73 P. 954.

58. See 1 Curr. L. 556.

59. Elected and accepted position of teacher in kindergartening in normal school, and when refused to be transferred to the training department, the kindergarten department was discontinued. MacKenzie v. State, 32 Wash. 657, 73 P. 889. Teachers employed by town are entitled to recover damages of the town for breach of contract resulting from the abandonment of the schools. Hornbeck v. State, 33 Ind. App. 609, 71 N. E. 916.

60. It will be presumed that the trustees employed only such as held a certificate; evidence as to teacher's misconduct at a previous term is irrelevant. Hughes v. School Dist. No. 37, 66 S. C. 259, 44 S. E. 784.

61. See 1 Curr. L. 556.

62. Where one taught not having a valid contract, he cannot recover, neither can one who had a valid contract, but had not taught. Shepherd v. Gambill, 25 Ky. L. R. 333, 75 S. W. 223.

63. Though the services were necessary, accepted and beneficial. Lee v. York School Tp. of Elkhart County [Ind.] 71 N. E. 956.

64. The statute requiring writing is mandatory, but it is sufficient if plaintiff is designated by her surname, but failure to fix the amount of salary will prevent plaintiff's

Instruction.[64a]—A state board of education has power to prepare the course of study and to adopt a uniform system of text-books for the use of schools throughout the state;[65] school directors must enforce such course of study,[66] and the use of the adopted text-books.[67]

§ 8. Control and discipline of scholars, and regulation of attendance.[68]—The power of school officers to make rules for government of schools and advancement of education includes power to require that pupils go directly home, and to enforce such rule.[69] The board of directors has power to expel a refractory pupil, after a full examination,[70] where he has a fair opportunity to be heard and written reasons are filed.[71]

Corporal punishment[72] in moderation is allowable,[73] and the teacher in applying it is not liable tortwise for resultant grave injuries unless they were such as might have been reasonably and probably foreseen.[74] recovering, though she had partly executed the contract by attending a summer training school. Taylor v. School Town of Petersburgh, 33 Ind. App. 675, 72 N. E. 159.

64a. See 1 Curr. L. 557, n. 35-37.

65. Such power is exclusive and books adopted cannot be supplanted during the life of the contract, and it is improper for the local board to use such books for another year than that prescribed, but it may be used for only a part of the year prescribed. Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 399, 78 P. 1096.

66. They cannot adopt a course of study in conflict therewith; but where they required all pupils to buy the plaintiff's geography, the plaintiff cannot complain because it is not used the whole year. Wagner v. Royal, 36 Wash. 428, 78 P. 1094.

67. The publisher of the history is entitled to a mandamus requiring such use. Eaton & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 435, 78 P. 1093. Where directors required each pupil in the first to fifth years to purchase readers and study the same until he was proficient, that was a sufficient compliance, but that had no authority to omit it for the sixth year altogether. Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420, 78 P. 1103.

68. See 1 Curr. L. 557.

69. Jones v. Cody, 132 Mich. 13, 92 N. W. 495, 62 L. R. A. 160.

Note: In an annotation to this case are cited the following American cases: Deskins v. Gose, 85 Mo. 485, 55 Am. Rep. 387 (swearing, quarreling and fighting ¾ mile from school house); Lander v. Seaver, 32 Vt. 114, 76 Am. Dec. 156 (disrespectful language to teacher after pupil had gone home and returned); Hutton v. State, 23 Tex. App. 386, 59 Am. Rep. 776 (fighting after school). These cases are set out more fully and others cited 62 L. R. A. 160 et seq.

70. The investigation of charges against a pupil may be delegated to a committee of the board when the report is afterwards reviewed by the full board. Miller v. Clement, 205 Pa. 484, 55 A. 32.

71. School committee no power to compel witnesses to testify, and mere errors in the admission or exclusion of evidence will not invalidate the decision. Morrison v. Lawrence, 186 Mass. 456, 72 N. E. 91.

72. See 1 Curr. L. 557.

73. Teacher liable criminally for excess. State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602.

74. Throwing pencil which struck and destroyed a pupil's eye. Drum v. Miller, 135 N. C. 204, 47 S. E. 421, 65 L. R. A. 890 (with note, "Liability of Teacher for Chastisement of Pupil"), 102 Am. St. Rep. 537 (with note "Powers and Liabilities of School Teachers in Relation to Pupils").

Note: The following extract from a recent monograph well states the rule. "'The better doctrine of the adjudged cases is, that the teacher is within reasonable bounds the substitute for the parent, exercising his delegated authority. He is vested with the power to administer moderate correction, with a proper instrument, in cases of misconduct which ought to have some reference to the character of the offense, the sex, age, size, and physical strength of the pupil. When the teacher keeps within this circumscribed sphere of his authority, the degree of correction must be left to his discretion, as it is to that of the parent, under like circumstances. Within this limit he has the authority to determine the gravity or heinousness of the offense, and to mete out to the offender the punishment which he thinks his conduct justly merits, and hence the parent or teacher is often said, pro hac vice, to exercise judicial functions.' Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 7 So. 268, 16 Am. St. Rep. 33."

Right of teacher generally to inflict reasonable punishment: It is everywhere admitted that a school teacher has a right to inflict reasonable punishment upon a pupil, for misconduct, by whipping or otherwise, for the purpose of maintaining the discipline and efficiency of the school. The law in all instances confides to teachers a discretionary power in the infliction of punishment upon their pupils, and will not hold them responsible, either civilly or criminally, unless the punishment inflicted is clearly excessive, or is inflicted merely to gratify malice or evil passions. Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 7 So. 268, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; Vanvactor v. State, 113 Ind. 276, 15 N. E. 341, 3 Am. St. Rep. 645; Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 37; Clasen v. Pruhs [Nev.] 95 N. W. 640; Haycraft v. Grigsby, 88 Mo. App. 354; State v. Pendergrass, 2 Dev. & B. [N. C.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; Bolding v. State, 23 Tex. App. 172, 4 S. W. 579; Hathaway v. Rice, 19 Vt. 102; Stephens v. State, 44 Tex. Cr. 67, 68 S. W. 281. Within the sphere of his authority the school teacher is the judge, and vested with a large discretion, as to when correction of the pupil is required, and of the degree of correction necessary. State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602. A school teacher may always enforce discipline by the imposition of reasonable corporal punishment upon his pupil. He may determine when and to what extent punishment is necessary, and he is not liable in any manner for an error of judgment when he has acted in good faith and without malice. Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 36; Heritage v. Dodge, 64 N. H. 297, 9 A. 722; Fox v. People, 84 Ill. App. 270; State v. Pendergrass, 2 Dev. & B. [N. C.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; Vanvactor v. State, 113 Ind. 276, 15 N. E. 341, 3 Am. St. Rep. 645. The fact that a pupil is over twenty-one years of age does not relieve him of the duty of obedience, nor restrict the schoolmaster's authority to punish him. State v. Mizner, 45 Iowa, 248, 24 Am. Rep. 769. And if such pupil in school hours intrudes himself into the desk assigned to the teacher, and refuses to leave it upon his request, he may be removed by the master, who for that purpose may use such force, and call to his assistance such aid, as is necessary to accomplish that subject. Stevens v. Fassett, 27 Me. 266. And if a pupil, seventeen years of age, brings a pistol to school and threatens to kill or shoot his teacher, the latter is entitled to use such force as is necessary to disarm his pupil, and punish him for his actions. Metcalf v. State, 21 Tex. App. 174, 17 S. W. 142. A school teacher may inflict reasonable punishment upon his pupil without liability, but in the exercise of the power of corporal punishment, he must not make such power a pretext for cruelty or oppression and the cause must be sufficient, the instrument suitable, and the manner and extent of the correction, the part of the person to which it is applied, and the temper in which it is inflicted, must be distinguished with the kindness, prudence and propriety which become the station of the teacher. Cooper v. McJunkin, 4 Ind. 290. The punishment inflicted by a teacher upon a pupil should not be cruel or excessive, and ought always to be apportioned to the gravity of the offense, and within the bounds of moderation, and when complaint is made, the calm and honest judgment of the teacher as to what the situation required should have weight, and the reasonableness of the punishment determined by the varying circumstances of the particular case. Vanvactor v. State, 113 Ind. 276, 15 N. E. 341, 3 Am. St. Rep. 645."

§ 9. Torts and liability for the same.[74a]—A pupil may recover for his wrongful exclusion where the committee is found not to have acted in good faith.[75] In the case of corporal punishment where the teacher grossly abuses his powers and uses his authority as a cover for malice or revenge, he is punishable criminally.[76] He may be liable civilly if he chastises or corrects a pupil, thereby producing grave injuries which he might have foreseen.[77] To enforce an order requiring children to go directly home is not a wrong, though a merchant thereby loses trade.[78]

§ 10. Decisions, rulings and orders of school officers, and review of the same.[79]—The refusal of school officers to put one on the teachers' promotion list,[80] or of a county superintendent to record and map the boundaries of a district,[81] or of a school board to restore a child expelled, may be reviewed on mandamus.[82] An injunction may be obtained to prevent a county superintendent from illegally changing the boundaries of a school district.[83]

"In inflicting corporal punishment, a teacher must exercise reasonable judgment and discretion and be governed, as to the mode and severity of the punishment, by the nature of the offense, the age, size, and apparent powers of endurance of the pupil. Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 7 So. 268, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 36; Dowlen v. State, 14 Tex. App. 66. If a parent has forbidden the child to pursue a certain study in school, and this fact is known to the teacher, he is not authorized to inflict corporal punishment upon the child for the purpose of compelling it to pursue the study so forbidden by the parent. Morrow v. Wood, 35 Wis. 59, 17 Am. Rep. 471. If a teacher is requested when taking charge of a school, to be more strict than a former teacher in enforcing discipline among his scholars, this does not vest in him any more authority by reason thereof than he otherwise would have possessed. State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602."—From note, "Powers and Liabilities of School Teachers in Relation to Pupils," to Drum v. Miller [N. C.] 102 Am. St. Rep. 537.

74a. See 1 Curr. L. 557, n. 38-44.

75. May submit to jury question if pupil had a fair hearing and whether committee acted in good faith in excluding certain evidence. Morrison v. Lawrence, 186 Mass. 456, 72 N. E. 91.

76. Teacher has no greater authority because the school had been ill managed and he was requested to be stricter, but the presumption is that he exercised correct judgment in whipping, and evidence of his general good character is admissible, but the jury may infer malice from the excessive punishment. State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602.

77. Drum v. Miller, 135 N. C. 204, 47 S. E. 421, 65 L. R. A. 890, with note, 102 Am. St. Rep. 528, with note.

78. Jones v. Cody, 132 Mich. 13, 92 N. W. 495, 62 L. R. A. 160, with note.

79. See 1 Curr. L. 557.

80. Brooklyn Teachers' Ass'n v. Board of Education of New York, 85 App. Div. 47, 83 N. Y. S. 1.

81. People v. Vanhorn [Colo. App.] 77 P. 978.

82. Will be refused where board had prop-

§ 11. Actions and litigation.—School boards are not usually exempt from suit,[84] but the state may deprive one of the right to sue them.[85] A general judgment may be entered on a warrant drawn against a special fund.[86] After a division one district may sue another for its share of the property.[87] A proceeding in the nature of quo warranto to determine the validitv of a school district is properly brought against the officers and may be entertained by the court in its discretion.[88] Whilst injunction may lie in some cases to prevent breach of contract,[89] a publisher cannot enjoin the breaking of a school book contract;[90] but a taxpayer may sue to restrain an illegal contract without regard to his motive, or that he has been a party to illegal contracts in the past.[91] The validity of the appointment of officers cannot be questioned in a suit to restrain the levy of taxes levied by them.[92] Upon certiorari to review a tax regularly levied by a de facto district, the court will not inquire into its legal existence.[93] Mandamus is the proper remedy to enforce the performance of ministerial acts,[94] unless there is a controversy[95] on questions of law and fact.[96]

§ 12. Libraries, reading rooms and other auxiliary educational institutions.[96a] —A new charter of a city will supersede the special provisions of a library act.[97] In Kentucky a city cannot accept a gift for a library building conditioned on the city's guarantying a fixed sum per year for maintenance without the assent of the voters.[98] A city may acquire lands for public parks to be used as children's playgrounds.[99] erly heard the question. Miller v. Clement, 205 Pa. 484, 55 A. 32.

83. School Dist. No. 44 v. Turner, 13 Okl. 71, 73 P. 952.

84. Ky. St. 1903, § 2949, authorizes suit and so it is no defense that it is an agent of the state. Suit by assignee of a janitor for salary. Oberdorfer v. Louisville School Board [Ky.] 85 S. W. 696.

85. By repealing act of incorporation. Wheeler v. Board of Control of State Public School [Mich.] 100 N. W. 394.

86. School district warrant drawn against a contingent fund. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

87. Action of money had and received proper for new district to secure taxes collected by old district. School Dist. No. 9 v. School Dist. No. 5, 118 Wis. 233, 95 N. W. 148. Old district may set up a special agreement between the districts as a counterclaim. School Dist. No. 9 v. School Dist. No. 5 [Wis.] 101 N. W. 681. In proceeding to apportion property, title of directors to office cannot be attacked. In re Old Forge School District's Indebtedness, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 239.

88. Where it appeared that the relator voted for the officers, the question was not reviewable. State v. McClain [Mo.] 86 S. W. 135.

89. Injunction to prevent breach of contract executed by plaintiff. Trustees of Washington Academy v. Cruikshank, 43 Misc. 197, 88 N. Y. S. 330.

90. The remedy at law is adequate. Attorney General v. Board of Education of Detroit, 133 Mich. 681, 10 Det. Leg. N. 314, 95 N. W. 746.

91. Suit by a taxpayer to restrain the execution of a contract with a rival bookseller. Ries v. Hemmer [Iowa] 103 N. W. 346.

92. Schmohl v. Williams [Ill.] 74 N. E. 75.

93. Howe v. Board of Education of Landis Tp. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 518.

94. A treasurer may be compelled by mandamus to pay an order. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 490. Mandamus is proper remedy to compel a county clerk to make an assessment for a school district, though the remedy of certiorari existed. State v. Patton, 108 Mo. App. 26, 82 S. W. 537. Publishers allowed mandamus against local school directors to compel use of their history prescribed by state board of education. Eaton & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 435, 78 P. 1093. A teacher may resort to mandamus where a school board refuses to draw a warrant for his salary, as he has not a speedy remedy at law. State v. McQuade, 36 Wash. 579, 79 P. 207.

Note: Mandamus will lie in cases of mismanagement of schools to enforce official duties as in other cases. See note 98 Am. St. Rep. 878, citing cases and applications of rules.

95. The district is entitled to a jury trial, and a teacher cannot compel a school director to sign a warrant for her salary. Davis v. Jewett, 69 Kan. 651, 77 P. 704.

96. Question whether salary of a janitor determined by N. Y. or Brooklyn rule, after the consolidation. People v. Board of Education of New York, 93 N. Y. S. 300.

96a. See 1 Curr. L. 555, n. 98.

97. In 1901 Atlantic City adopted the provisions of the library act of 1884, by which it could raise 1-3 mill on the dollar for library purposes, and in 1902 adopted the act of 1902 as to the government of cities, by which the council was authorized to raise the amount it deemed expedient for library purposes. Trustees of Free Public Library of Atlantic City v. City Council of Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1101.

98. Ky. St. 1903, § 3490, subd. 22, authorizes cities to establish and maintain local public libraries by taxation. Const. § 157

§ 13. Private schools.—The requirement of a private school attended by minors that teachers shall not frequent saloons is reasonable.[100] Schools entirely supported by tuition fees are not exempt from taxation as public charities.[101] A town is not liable to a private school for the tuition of a child residing with his parents in the town.[102]

SCIRE FACIAS.[103]

Scire facias is in the nature of an original action if in an ordinary civil case, but a writ to obtain an execution on a judgment is a judicial, not an original, writ,[1] and should issue from and be returnable to the court which rendered judgment and has possession of the records. In Pennsylvania a scire facias proceeding to foreclose a municipal lien is in rem.[2]

A court has inherent jurisdiction to issue the writ to obtain execution on its own judgments.[3] The Federal district court has jurisdiction to issue the writ to enforce a forfeited recognizance or bail bond.[4] In Missouri the writ to revive a judgment may be heard in a division of the circuit court other than the one in which the judgment was rendered.[5]

The writ is not necessary to revive a suit in equity in the name of a proper representative of a deceased plaintiff.[6]

Parties.—In a proceeding to revive a judgment against land which has been conveyed, the terre tenant must be made a party.[7] In Missouri if an assigned judgment can be revived after the death of the judgment creditor, it cannot be by a proceeding in the name of the dead man to the use of the assignee nor by the assignee in his own name.[8]

The writ in a proper case may issue as of course out of the office of the clerk of court without leave of court being first had.[9] In a proceeding to revive a judgment, it is not necessary that a petition accompany the writ,[10] and failure to sign the petition is a mere irregularity which may be amended by motion.[11]

Service.—Where issued on a forfeited recognizance, unless the surety has voluntarily submitted to the jurisdiction, he must be personally served in the district of the court issuing the writ.[12]

The return to the writ will be given a fair construction.[13] Where issued provides that no city shall become indebted to an amount exceeding its income without the assent of the voters. Ramsey v. Shelbyville, 26 Ky. L. R. 1102, 83 S. W. 116.

99. Law v. San Francisco, 144 Cal. 384, 77 P. 1014.

100. It was error to submit the question to a jury. Koons v. Langum [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490.

101. Though under the management of trustees who serve without compensation and though it had formerly received aid from the state and private persons. Harrisburg v. Harrisburg Academy, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 252.

102. It was expressly not decided whether the school district would be liable. Sanborn Seminary v. Town of Newton [N. H.] 59 A. 614.

103. See 2 Curr. L. 1618.

1. Kennebec Steam Towage Co. v. Rich [Me.] 60 A. 702.

2. Where at the time judgment is entered on an original scire facias, there is no registered owner, one who registers his title several years later need not be made a party to a proceeding to continue the lien. Philadelphia v. Peyton, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 350.

3. Rev. St. c. 79, § 75, which provides that the Kennebec superior court "has exclusive jurisdiction of scire facias on judgments and recognizances not exceeding $500.00," does not take away the inherent jurisdiction of that court over scire facias to obtain execution on its own judgments, though the debt and costs exceed such amount. Kennebec Steam Towage Co. v. Rich [Me.] 60 A. 702.

4. Rev. St. U. S. § 716 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 580). Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

5. After final judgment the record belongs to the whole court. Goddard v. Delaney, 181 Mo. 564, 80 S. W. 886.

6. Straight v. Ice [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 837.

7. Barrell v. Adams, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 635.

8. Statutes construed. Goddard v. Delaney, 181 Mo. 564, 80 S. W. 886.

9. Goddard v. Delaney, 181 Mo. 564, 80 S. W. 886.

10, 11. Polnac v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 381.

12. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

13. A return to a writ directed to three defendants that it was executed on three different dates is construed to mean that against bail the execution cannot be awarded against the defendant who has not been personally served with process until there have been two returns of nihil,[14] and the return of two nihils is deemed equivalent to personal service only where defendant is domiciled or found within the jurisdiction of the court when the writ issues.[15]

Procedure.—When the method of procedure is not provided by statute, the common-law course will be resorted to.[16] On a scire facias to revive a judgment, no defense can be made except one that has arisen since the judgment.[17]

The record cannot be contradicted by an answer to scire facias to enforce the forfeiture of a recognizance.[18]

In Pennsylvania on a scire facias sur mortgage a certificate in favor of the defendant cannot be properly entered.[19]

Appeal is governed by the rules with reference to procedure in civil cases,[20] and in a criminal case the state has no right of appeal from an adverse judgment.[21]

SEALS; SEAMEN, see latest topical index.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE.

§ 1. What is an Unreasonable Search and Seizure (1416).
§ 2. Procedure for Issuance and Execution of Search Warrants (1417).

§ 1. What is an unreasonable search and seizure.[22]—As a general rule a search or seizure cannot be made without a warrant,[23] and where authorized to be so made the officer making it is held to a strict compliance with the statutory requirements,[24] and a warrant, subsequently issued which does not conform to the statute will afford him no protection.[25] The person of one lawfully arrested, the place in which he is arrested and any other place to which lawful access can be had, may be searched for articles to prove the charge on which he is arrest-service was had on each. Polnac v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 381.

14, 15. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

16. Federal statutes do not indicate the practice to be followed on scire facias on a forfeited recognizance or bail bond. Kirk v. U. S., 131 F. 331.

17. Philadelphia v. Peyton, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 350.

18. The entry of forfeiture on a recognizance in a criminal case becomes part of the record. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.

19. Land Title & Tr. Co. v. Fulmer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 256.

20. Transcript must be filed within the period prescribed by law and contain an appeal bond. Wolf v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 17.

21. State v. French [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 1007.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1618.

23. The police department has no right to invade any one's house or place of business without a warrant. Hale v. Burns, 41 Misc. 1, 89 N. Y. S. 711.

Note: In no case, it is believed, has any person, even a peace officer, the right to search the private premises of another for evidence of crime except under authority of a search warrant. Reed v. Adams, 2 Allen [Mass.] 413. Perhaps after a person is alleged to have committed a crime, his premises may be searched for evidence thereof without a warrant by permission and with the assistance of the servant or agent of the owner, where the former is in charge of the premises. State v. Griswold, 67 Conn. 290, 34 A. 1046; Grim v. Robinson, 31 Neb. 540, 48 N. W. 388. A peace officer vested with authority to inspect certain places cannot without a warrant invade or search a house or place on his mere suspicion that misdemeanors are committed there. The power to "inspect" does not confer authority of visitation and search. People v. Glennon, 37 Misc. 1, 74 N. Y. S. 794. The most frequent use of the search warrant is to search for goods alleged to have been stolen (Stone v. Dana, 5 Metc. [Mass.] 98; State v. Mann, 5 Ired. [N. C.] 45), but may be used to seek out goods used as a means of committing a felony or which a person has in his possession with intent to use as a means of committing a crime (People v. Noelke, 29 Hun [N. Y.] 461; Langdon v. People, 133 Ill. 382, 24 N. E. 874; Boyd v. United States, 116 U. S. 616, 29 Law. Ed. 746). See note to McClurg v. Brenton [Iowa] 101 Am. St. Rep. 329.

24. Adams v. Allen [Me.] 59 A. 62. Where an officer seizes liquor without a warrant, a warrant subsequently issued should command the arrest of the person from whom the seizure was made. Id.

25. Adams v. Allen [Me.] 59 A. 62.

ed.[26] A provision requiring one who operates an automobile on the street to display thereon a number furnished by the municipality is not an unreasonable search.[27] Compelling the production of books and papers for the purposes of evidence is no unreasonable search and seizure if the subpoena be precise and definite as to the documents required;[28] e. g. where one as agent makes entries on the books of a corporation and those books are in the actual or legal control of another officer of the corporation or of the corporation itself,[29] or the examination of the books and papers in the hands of a trustee in bankruptcy of a banker alleged to have received deposits when his bank was insolvent.[30] Whether a search is lawful or unlawful cannot affect the admissibility of the evidence.[31] Of course if the documents would tend to incriminate the producer, he may claim his privilege.[32]

§ 2. Procedure for issuance and execution of search warrants.[33]—A description in a search warrant which points out or identifies the place with such reasonable certainty as will obviate any mistake in locating it is sufficient.[34] Sur-

26. Letters of an incriminating character taken. Smith v. Jerome, 93 N. Y. S. 202.

27. People v. Schneider [Mich.] 103 N. W. 172.

28. An order of a municipal assembly made in the exercise of its charter powers requiring the production before it of books of a corporation in aid of investigations as to evasion of license taxes by the corporation. Ex parte Conrades [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 150.

29. In re Moser [Mich.] 101 N. W. 588.

30. State v. Strait [Minn.] 102 N. W. 913.

31. Sheriff who searches a prisoner may testify that he found a pistol which it was unlawful to carry. Springer v. State, 121 Ga. 155, 48 S. E. 907.

32. See Witnesses, 2 Curr. L. 2163.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1619.

NOTE. Designation of place: If a search-warrant is issued upon probable cause supported by affidavit, and particularly describes the place to be searched and the property to be seized, it is sufficient (Langdon v. People, 133 Ill. 382, 24 N. E. 874); but a search-warrant, to be of any validity and to authorize a search, must describe the place to be searched, the person against whom the warrant issues, and the property sought with such certainty as to identify them (Reed v. Rice, 2 J. J. Marsh. [Ky.] 44, 19 Am. Dec. 122; Byrnside v. Burdett, 15 W. Va. 702; Ashley v. Peterson, 25 Wis. 621). Thus, a search-warrant based on an affidavit that on a specified date a certain amount of cotton seed was taken from the affiant's premises and that there is probable cause for believing such property to be on a certain plantation, occupied by two designated persons, is void for want of a certain description of the place to be searched. Thrash v. Bennett, 57 Ala. 156. It has been held, although we do not think it to be the prevailing rule, that the description in the warrant of the place to be searched should be as certain and specific as would be necessary in a deed of conveyance (Jones v. Fletcher, 41 Me. 254; State v. Bartlett, 47 Me. 388); but the place to be searched must be particularly designated in the search-warrant, and a warrant authorizing a search of any suspected place is too general to be of any validity (Frisbie v. Butler, Kirby [Conn.] 213; People v. Holcomb, 3 Park. Cr. Rep. 656). The warrant must specifically describe the goods, place, and person, and direct the officer to search such place and arrest such person, and if any of these preliminaries is omitted, or if the warrant is too general, the proceedings are coram non judice. Grumon v. Raymond, 1 Conn. 40, 6 Am. Dec. 200; Sandford v. Nichols, 13 Mass. 286, 7 Am. Dec. 151. A search-warrant commanding the officer to diligently search a certain house for stolen goods will not authorize him to force his way into an adjoining house and search it (Larthet v. Forgay, 2 La. Ann. 524, 46 Am. Dec. 554), and a warrant to search the dwelling-houses of a certain person only authorizes the officer to search the house in which such person lives, and if he searches a house hired and occupied by another, although owned by such person, he is guilty of a trespass (Humes v. Taber, 1 R. I. 464). A house or place where the contraband goods are believed to be concealed is sufficiently designated and described in the warrant by denominating it as the office of the person named in the warrant, and specifically designating the street and number of its location, although the person named and another occupy such office together. Commonwealth v. Dana, 2 Metc. [Mass.] 329. And a warrant to search the house of a particular person and the barn, outhouses, and grain stacks of such person, on the same farm, is sufficiently specific, and not void for uncertainty. Meek v. Pierce, 19 Wis. 318. Authority to search a house will justify the search of a shop on the premises if the goods under search are such as might reasonably be found in such shop. Dwinnels v. Boyington, 3 Allen [Mass.] 310. A warrant directing the officer to search the house of a certain named person authorizes the search of his dwelling-house situated on the premises designated in the warrant. Wright v. Dressel, 140 Mass. 147, 3 N. E. 6.—From note "Search of Premises of Private Persons," 101 Am. St. Rep. 328, 331.

34. Under Const. art. 1, § 8 and Code, § 5550, requiring the place to be searched to be particularly described. State v. Moore [Iowa] 101 N. W. 732. Warrant commanding immediate search of the person or the dwelling, plusage may be disregarded.[35] A search warrant irregular on its face is no protection to the officer who executes it.[36]

Resisting the warrant.[37]—An indictment for resisting the service of a search warrant which identifies the warrant alleged to have been resisted is sufficient.[38] A sentence of four months in the county jail is not excessive for violent resistance of the execution of a search warrant.[39]

SECRET BALLOT; SECURITY FOR COSTS, see latest topical index.

SEDUCTION.

§ 1. Nature and Elements of the Tort (1418).
§ 2. Civil Remedies and Procedure (1418).
§ 3. The Crime (1418).
§ 4. Indictment and Prosecution (1419).

§ 1. Nature and elements of the tort.[40]

§ 2. Civil remedies and procedure.[41]—A parent's cause of action for the seduction of his daughter arises when the act of seduction is complete, not when he discovers it.[42]

§ 3. The crime[43] consists generally in inducing an unmarried female of previous chaste character or good repute to submit to sexual intercourse by promise of marriage or other seductive means.[44] The exact amount or kind of seductive art necessary to constitute the crime cannot be defined. Every case must stand on its own peculiar circumstances; the condition of life, age, and intelligence of the parties.[45] Under some statutes the crime is committed though the house and barn or other outbuilding of defendant in a certain township, range and section sufficiently identifies the place. Id.

35. In a warrant directing the search of certain property for the discovery of grain, a provision commanding search of the person of the one against whom it is directed. State v. Moore [Iowa] 101 N. W. 732.

36. Warrant did not show that the justice who issued it had authority to do so. Casselini v. Booth [Vt.] 59 A. 833.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1619, n. 24.

38, 39. State v. Moore [Iowa] 101 N. W. 732.

40, 41. See 2 Curr. L. 1619.

42. Limitations run from such date. Davis v. Boyett, 120 Ga. 649, 48 S. E. 185.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1620.

44. See Cyc. Law. Dict. 835. Evidence sufficient to sustain a conviction for seduction under promise of marriage. State v. Meals [Mo.] 83 S. W. 442; State v. Phillips [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1080. False promise of marriage which defendant refused to perform. Caldwell v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 929. Evidence sufficient to establish the venue of the crime. Jordan v. State, 120 Ga. 864, 48 S. E. 352.

NOTE. A previous chaste character is an essential element in the crime of seduction. State v. Smith, 107 Ala. 139. There is a conflict of authority as to whether chaste character is presumed in the first instance or whether it must be proved by the state as an ingredient of the crime. In Iowa, chastity is presumed (Andre v. State, 5 Iowa, 389, 68 Am. Dec. 708; State v. Burns, 78 N. W. 681; State v. McClintic, 73 Iowa, 663), and the presumption is not overcome by testimony of the defendant that he had intercourse with her a week before the seduction took place (State v. Bauerkemper, 95 Iowa, 562). In some other states previous chastity is presumed when there is no evidence to the contrary. People v. Squires, 49 Mich. 487; People v. Brewer, 27 Mich. 134; O'Neill v. State, 85 Ga. 383. But when there is introduced evidence tending to show unchastity, reasonable doubt as to her chastity is fatal to a conviction. Ferguson v. State, 71 Miss. 805, 42 Am. St. Rep. 492; West v. State, 1 Wis. 209; State v. Eckler, 106 Mo. 585, 27 Am. St. Rep. 372. But in proving the previous chaste character the general reputation for chastity is admissible in corroboration of her own testimony. State v. Lockerby, 50 Minn. 363, 36 Am. St. Rep. 656; People v. Samoset, 97 Cal. 448. In some states a statute requires that the woman be of good repute. Bowers v. State, 29 Ohio St. 542; State v. Hill, 91 Mo. 423; State v. Bryan, 34 Kan. 63. In such case there is usually no presumption of good repute but it must be shown by the prosecution. Zabriskie v. State, 43 N. J. Law, 640, 39 Am. Rep. 610; Oliver v. Commonwealth, 101 Pa. 215, 47 Am. Rep. 704; State v. Hill, 91 Mo. 423; State v. McCaskey, 104 Mo. 644. A statute of this character has been held to bring in issue only the reputation of the woman and consequently evidence as to previous conduct is inadmissible and the proof must be confined to reputation. Bowers v. State, 29 Ohio St. 542; State v. Bryan, 34 Kan. 63. But see State v. Patterson, 88 Mo. 88, 57 Am. Rep. 374; State v. Wheeler, 94 Mo. 252.—From note to Bradshaw v. Jones [Tenn.] 76 Am. St. Rep. 679.

45. Evidence sufficient to sustain a conviction. Pike v. State, 121 Ga. 604, 49 S. E. 680. Combination of flattery, lovemaking and hypnotism is a sufficient predicate for a prosecution. State v. Donovan [Iowa] 102 N.

prosecutrix submits, relying solely on a conditional promise of marriage,[46] or though consent be obtained without other persuasion than repeating a prior promise.[47] It is not necessary that the promise of marriage be the exciting or producing cause,[48] or have been made or repeated at the time the seduction took place,[49] or be made by one competent to make a contract of marriage enforceable against him,[50] and that the defendant was married at the time is no defense.[51] The female seduced must have been of previous chaste character.[52]

§ 4. Indictment and prosecution.[53]—An indictment charging the offense in the language of the statute is sufficient.[54] If chastity of character of the female is not mentioned in the statute, it need not be alleged.[55] It need not be alleged that the defendant is unmarried.[56]

Revival of prosecution suspended by marriage.—A prosecution suspended by marriage cannot be renewed upon a separation by mutual consent unless the wife has offered to resume marital relations and her offer has been refused,[57] but can be revived if the separation was caused by wrongful conduct on the part of the husband with the intention of forcing the wife to agree to the separation.[58] On renewal of a prosecution after abandonment, grounds for divorce are immaterial.[59]

Burden of proof and evidence.[60]—The defendant has the burden of showing want of chastity.[61] Where the indictment is silent as to whether defendant is married or single, the state need not prove that he is unmarried.[62]

In most states the testimony of the injured female must be corroborated.[63] The sufficiency of the corroboration is always a question for the jury.[64]

The environment of the prosecutrix may be shown,[65] and where seduction is by means of hypnotism and other influences, it may be shown that defendant has operated on other subjects and the control exerted over them.[66] The child begotten may be brought into court.[67] Preparations for marriage, made by prose-

W. 791. That prosecutrix's mother was dead and that she lived with her step-mother was held admissible to show the extent of her protection from the persuasions of defendant. Pike v. State, 121 Ga. 604, 49 S. E. 680.

46. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 7066, making it a crime for any person to seduce an unmarried woman of previously chaste character. State v. O'Hare, 36 Wash. 516, 79 P. 39.

47. Evidence held to warrant a conviction. Hill v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 57.

48. De Yampert v. State, 139 Ala. 53, 36 So. 772.

49. Burnett v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 382.

50. The crime may be committed by a minor. State v. Brock [Mo.] 85 S. W. 595.

51. State v. Donovan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 791.

52. Evidence sufficient to support a finding of previous chaste character. State v. Smith, 124 Iowa, 334, 100 N. W. 40.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1621. See, also, Indictment and Prosecution, 4 Curr. L. 1.

54. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 1900, previous chastity of the female is not mentioned and need not be alleged. Caldwell v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 929.

55. Caldwell v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 929. But see Walton v. State, 71 Ark. 398, 75 S. W. 1, cited 2 Curr. L. 1621, n. 57.

56. Jordan v. State, 120 Ga. 864, 48 S. E. 352.

57. Under Acts 1899, p. 23, providing that marriage shall suspend a prosecution which shall be continued in case of subsequent desertion. Burnett v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 382.

58. Burnett v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 382.

59. Jury need not be instructed as to what constitutes. Keaton v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 911.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1621, n. 58 et seq.

61. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 1900, making it a felony to obtain carnal knowledge of a female by virtue of a marriage promise. Caldwell v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 929.

62. Marriage is no defense and it need not be alleged that he is single. Jordan v. State, 120 Ga. 864, 48 S. E. 352.

63. State v. Smith, 124 Iowa, 334, 100 N. W. 40.

64. State v. Smith, 124 Iowa, 334, 100 N. W. 40. Testimony of one witness that the defendant told him that he had promised prosecutrix to marry her is a sufficient corroboration of the marriage promise. State v. Phillips [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1080.

65. Extent of her protection from the persuasions of the defendant. Pike v. State, 121 Ga. 604, 49 S. E. 620.

66. State v. Donovan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 791.

67. It is not error to permit the prosecutrix's child to be brought before the jury and referred to by the district attorney as "this child" in their presence. People v. Tibbs, 143 Cal. 100, 76 P. 904.

cutrix some time after the seduction and not shown to have been brought to the attention of defendant, are not part of the res gestae and are inadmissible.[68] Whether other men came to see prosecutrix subsequent to the seduction is immaterial.[69]

Evidence of the moral character of the prosecutrix may be admissible for the purpose of impeaching her testimony.[70]

Instructions.[71]—Instructions must correctly describe the elements of the crime,[72] and if defined by statute, must conform to the statute.[73] The usual rules as to the relation of the charge to the evidence,[74] repetition[75] and construction of particular charges,[76] apply.

The punishment imposed must be that prescribed by the statute in effect when the crime was committed.[77]

SENTENCE; SEPARATE PROPERTY; SEPARATE TRIALS; SEPARATION, see latest topical index.

SEQUESTRATION.

Chancery has inherent and original jurisdiction to issue a writ of sequestration to impound property and hold it subject to the final decree of the court.[78] Such chancery power in respect to the property of an insolvent corporation is not affected by statutory regulations of power to dissolve a corporation,[79] but though they have judicial power to do so, courts of equity will not generally render a corporation incapable of performing its corporate functions by sequestering its property and taking charge of its affairs.[80] The statutory remedy by sequestration is merely a provisional remedy for use in an action which, except as to form, exists independently of the statute, and is in effect a substitute for the common-law writ.[81] That the affidavit for the writ does not conform to the statute is not fatal.[82] The bond may be amended so as to fulfill the requirements of the law.[83]

The legitimate expenses of a creditor in instituting and prosecuting proceed-

68, 69. People v. Tibbs, 143 Cal. 11, 76 P. 904.

70. Under Code, § 4614, providing that the general moral character of a witness may be proved for the purpose of testing his credibility. State v. Haupt [Iowa] 101 N. W. 739.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1622.

72. Language in an opinion of an appellate court held proper. Pike v. State, 121 Ga. 604, 49 S. E. 680.

73. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 190, there must be an express promise, false or feigned. Burnett v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 382. Where a statute requires corroboration of the prosecutrix as to promise of marriage and intercourse, the court should on request instruct the jury to this effect, and the mere reading of the statute is insufficient. Keaton v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 911.

74. Proper to assume admitted facts. Burnett v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 382. Instruction held not objectionable as undertaking to determine the sufficiency of evidence corroborating the prosecutrix. State v. Smith, 124 Iowa, 334, 100 N. W. 40. Referring to the flight of defendant is justified by evidence that he knew the condition of the prosecuting witness and of her claim that he was the cause of it. State v. Haupt [Iowa] 101 N. W. 739. Where there was evidence that the defendant pretended to exercise a hypnotic influence over prosecutrix, it is proper to instruct the jury to consider testimony relative to the exercise of such power. State v. Donovan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 791.

75. State v. Meals [Mo.] 83 S. W. 442.

76. Instructions when considered entire held to state all the elements of the crime. State v. Meals [Mo.] 83 S. W. 442.

Clerical errors not ground for reversal unless misleading. Use of "defendant" instead of "prosecutrix." State v. Meals [Mo.] 83 S. W. 442.

77. Ex parte Biela [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 739.

78. Dean v. Boyd [Miss.] 38 So. 297.

79. Authority of a court to dissolve a corporation does not apply to the question of its power in sequestration and winding up proceedings. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

80, 81. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

82. Error in not requiring it to be amended is not ground for reversal of a decree refusing to dismiss the proceedings. Dean v. Boyd [Miss.] 38 So. 297.

83. Dean v. Boyd [Miss.] 38 So. 297.

ings for sequestration and administration of an insolvent's property for the benefit of all creditors should be allowed as expenses of such administration.[84]

The remedy in Louisiana and Texas.—An affidavit and bond for a writ in aid of an action relative to property leased by one as lessor and agent of an undisclosed principal is properly made by such agent.[85] In an action to recover personal property consisting of several items sequestered by one and replevied by the owner who has given a replevy bond, there should be proof of the separate value of each article.[86]

In Louisiana a writ of sequestration must be based on conditions existing at the time of suing it out.[87] Judicial sequestration may be ordered after an appeal has been perfected.[88] Where the court ex officio orders the sequestration of real property, the defendant has the right to dissolve on bond as in ordinary sequestrations.[89] This right is, by statute, absolute, and embraces both movables and immovables,[90] except in cases of corporate or partnership property.[91] Where there has been an imperfect performance of a contract for the irrigation of a rice crop, only the excess of rent over the loss resulting from imperfect performance can serve as a basis for sequestration.[92]

In Arizona the power given an inspector or civil officer to seize and sequester certain unbranded cattle, the ownership of which is questioned, cannot be exercised unless the ownership is questioned in some reasonable manner,[93] and the fact that the ownership is questioned must appear from the record.[94] The statutory procedure relative to sequestration and sale must be strictly followed.[95]

Wrongful sequestration[96] is a conversion.[97] Actual damages may be recovered if sequestration is wrongfully sued out,[98] and exemplary damages if it is done maliciously.[99]

SERVICE, see latest topical index.

SET-OFF AND COUNTERCLAIM.

§ 1. Nature and Extent of Right in General (1421).
§ 2. To be Available as a Set-Off or Counterclaim, a Demand Must Have Been a Vested and Subsisting Cause of Action at the Time of the Commencement of Plaintiff's Suit, and the Parties Must Stand in the Same Right and Capacity (1422).
§ 3. To Admit of Set-Off or Counterclaim the Main Action Must be Similar in Form and Remedy to That Required for the Other (1425).
§ 4. Pleading and Practice (1427).

§ 1. Nature and extent of right in general.[1]—Though often used as equivalents, set-off and counterclaim are distinct.[2] In an action for goods sold and de-

84. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.
85. Hunter v. Adoue [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 622.
86. Rev. St. 1895, art. 4877, authorizing the return of all or a part of the replevied property as a full or pro tanto satisfaction. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 776.
87. See 2 Curr. L. 1623. Boimare v. St. Geme, 113 La. 898, 37 So. 869.
88. Where a lessor brought a possessory suit against his lessee, which was dismissed, whereupon the lessor perfected a suspensive appeal. Thereafter an oil well was bored for and a gusher struck. State v. De Baillon, 113 La. 572, 37 So. 481.
89. Ramos Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Sanders, 112 La. 614, 36 So. 625.
90. Code Prac. art. 279. Ramos Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Sanders, 112 La. 614, 36 So. 625.
91. Ramos Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Sanders, 112 La. 614, 36 So. 625.
92. Hunter Canal Co. v. Robertson's Heirs, 113 La. 833, 37 So. 771.
93. Under Laws 1903, p. 34, No. 26, § 5. Lacey v. Parks [Ariz.] 80 P. 367.
94. Lacey v. Parks [Ariz.] 80 P. 367.
95. Sale under Laws 1903, p. 34, No. 26, §§ 5, 7, held void because of noncompliance with the terms of the statute. Lacey v. Parks [Ariz.] 80 P. 367.
96. See 2 Curr. L. 1623.
97. See 2 Curr. L. 1622. Bledsoe v. Palmer [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 97.
98, 99. Bledsoe v. Palmer [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 97.
1. See 2 Curr. L. 1624.
2. See notes following and see 2 Curr. L. 1624.

livered by plaintiff's assignor, defendant's claim for damages for breach of the contract between himself and plaintiff's assignor is at most a set-off and does not entitle him to an affirmative judgment as for a counterclaim.[3]

A set-off must be in such condition and of such a character that the court may appropriate it to the demand.[4] Thus judgments against a person, deceased since their rendition, cannot be set off in a suit by the administratrix against the purchaser of the judgments, before the settlement of the estate.[5] Only a liquidated demand,[6] or one ascertainable by calculation,[7] is available.

The defense of set-off was unknown to the common law.[8] It and counterclaim are now statutory remedies.[9] In equity, insolvency or nonresidence of a party against whom a set-off is asserted is ground for relief.[10] Since a firm demand cannot be set off in a suit against one partner, where such suit is brought, and there exists a demand available as a set-off in a suit against the firm, but not available as the basis of an independent action because barred by limitations, equity will grant relief, and make such claim available as a set-off.[11]

In recoupment, defendant's claim must arise from the same transaction as the plaintiff's, and in this it is distinguished from set-off, which must arise in a distinct claim.[12]

Damages sought to be recouped against one of the parties must be limited to the amount of his interest in the bill.[13]

Counterclaim against counterclaim can only be had in New York by obtaining leave to amend the complaint.[14]

§ 2.[15] To be available as a set-off or counterclaim, a demand must have been a vested and subsisting cause of action[16] at the time of the commencement of

3. Levy v. Ash, 88 N. Y. S. 131.

4, 5. Ashworth v. Trammell, 102 Va. 852, 47 S. E. 1011.

6. To constitute a set-off, under the Missouri statute, a claim must be in the nature of a debt; hence a claim for unliquidated damages cannot be used as a set-off [Rev. St. 1899, § 4487]. Scarritt Estate Co. v. Schmelzer & Sons Arms Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 489.

7. Liebmann's Sons Brewing Co. v. De Nicolo, 91 N. Y. S. 791.

8. Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

Note: The primitive notion of an action did not admit the possibility of a defendant being an actor and interposing a claim against a plaintiff to be tried in the one suit. Pom. Code Rem. [3d Ed.] § 729; Waterman, Set-Off [2d Ed.] § 10. The defense was provided for in England by the statute of 2 Geo. II., c. 27, § 13, and this statute has been the model for state legislation in this country, the effect of which is the same as that of the English statute, though varying somewhat in phraseology. Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

According to common law mutual debts were distinct, and inextinguishable except by actual payment or release. Cyc. Law Dict. 844, citing 1 Rawle [Pa.] 293; Babington, Set-Off, 1. But chancery recognized the right and the statutes of set-off were passed mainly to obviate the necessity of a resort to chancery in every case of mutual independent claims upon both sides. See Blake v. Langdon, 19 Vt. 485, 47 Am. Dec. 701, cited in note in 47 Am. St. Rep. 578. Though the remedy exists in chancery independent of statute, courts of law are governed by the statutes defining and regulating the right. Cyc. Law Dict. p. 894.

9. Counterclaim is a term of statutory origin, and includes both set-off and recoupment and something more. It embraces all sorts of claims which a defendant may have against a plaintiff in the nature of a cross action or demand, or for which a cross or separate action would lie. Cyc. Law Dict. 844, citing 13 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 84.

10. Fitzgerald v. Wiley, 22 App. D. C. 329.

11. Fowler & Co. v. Bellinger [Ala.] 37 So. 225.

12. Cyc. Law Dict. 844.

As to recoupment, see Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997.

13. Fitzgerald v. Wiley, 22 App. D. C. 329.

14. Fett v. Greenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 736.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1624-1626.

16. Where railroads agreed to maintain a bridge, and to pay to the bridge company an amount equivalent to certain dividends on the bridge company's stock, but built and paid for a new span of the bridge ordered by the secretary of war, the cost of constructing such span was a money liability, which the roads could set off in an action to recover a deficit in dividends agreed upon. Louisville Bridge Co. v. Dodd [Ky.] 85 S. W. 683. In an action on a bond given by a tenant to a landlord on an appeal from a judgment of a justice of the peace, awarding possession of leased premises, the tenant may set off counterclaims against the rent demanded, since such set-offs could not have been used in the action before the justice for possession of the premises, and hence the judgment of common pleas affirming that plaintiff's suit,[17] and the parties must stand in the same right and capacity.[18]—Thus in an action on a note by a bona fide holder, the maker cannot offset a note made to him by the payee of the note in suit.[19] A counterclaim must, in general, be owned by the defendant in absolute right.[20] An agent, liable on a contract for the benefit of a third person, by reason of not disclosing his agency, cannot avail himself of a debt due by plaintiff to such person as a set-off.[21]

In respect to assignees, trustees, receivers and the like, the right to set-off and counterclaim by privity to the assignor, insolvent or decedent become fixed at the time of succession and demands then accrued may be offset,[22] but those subsequently accruing cannot be,[23] save on some ground of an equitable nature.[24]

By statute in Ohio, when cross demands have existed such that in a suit by one against the other a counterclaim or set-off could have been set up, neither can be deprived of the benefit thereof by assignment.[25] This statute applies even though of the justice was not res adjudicata of such set-offs. McMichael v. McFalls, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 256. A testator bequeathed to his deceased wife's children all his interest in a life insurance policy assigned by him to her in her lifetime, "without abatement on account of premiums" paid by him on the policy. Held, payment of premiums cannot be set off against a note held by her estate against him. Claypool v. Claypool, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 577.

A counterclaimed judgment cannot be collaterally attacked, no previous effort having been made to have it vacated. Couchman v. Bush, 26 Ky. L. R. 1277, 83 S. W. 1039. A widow recovered a judgment against her husband's estate for rents, after a codicil had been probated, increasing her rights. Subsequently the probate of the codicil was reversed, and an action brought to recover back the rents recovered by the widow. Held, her judgment not having been vacated, could in such suit be counterclaimed. Id.

17. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 528. Counterclaim must be one existing at the time of commencement of the action [Code Civ. Proc. § 438]. Provident Mut. Bldg. Loan Ass'n v. Davis, 143 Cal. 253, 76 P. 1034. Note not available as set-off when acquired by defendants six days after service of subpoena in suit. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 528. Since the equitable owner of money in the hands of another may recover by assumpsit for money had and received, he may offset the amount in an action against him by the holder. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

18. Where heirs of a tenant in common sued other tenants in common separately for a share of profits of the estate, defendants could not prove that decedent had received his share in his lifetime, since that would be a claim primarily against decedent's executors. Sieger v. Sieger, 209 Pa. 65, 58 A. 140. Under a statute authorizing as set-offs only mutual debts or demands, an administrator, who has acquired the interest of decedent's heirs in the estate, cannot set off a personal claim against the assignor of a claim against the estate, in a suit by the assignee on the claim [Pub. St. 1901, c. 223, § 7]. McCaffrey v. Kennett [N. H.] 60 A. 96. A counterclaim for use and occupation of premises let by defendant to plaintiffs cannot be interposed in an action in tort to recover for conversion of rents of premises collected by defendant as plaintiffs' agent. Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344. Since a counterclaim must be one existing against a plaintiff and in favor of a defendant, defendant, in an action on an assigned claim for rent, cannot counterclaim for damages for delay in the making of alterations and repairs by plaintiff's assignor [Rev. St. 1899, § 605]. Scarritt Estate Co. v. Schmelzer & Sons Arms Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 489.

19. Levy v. Avery, 91 N. Y. S. 67.

20. Variations of the rule may be allowable for the enforcement of certain equities existing in favor of a defendant and which would otherwise be irremediable. Gibboney v. Wayne & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 436.

21. Hence, where damages sought to be recouped are alleged as having been sustained, not by defendants, but by their alleged principals, who are not parties to the suit, the plea of recoupment is demurrable. Gibboney v. Wayne & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 436.

22. Where judgments were obtained against plaintiff in former actions between the same parties for a larger amount than that claimed by plaintiff, there could be no recovery by him or his assignees in insolvency, since such prior judgments constituted valid set-offs. Foster v. Central Nat. Bank, 93 N. Y. S. 603.

23. A debtor of an insolvent bank, in a suit by the receiver, cannot offset a claim against the bank acquired by assignment after it became insolvent. Schlesinger v. Goldberg, 93 N. Y. S. 592.

Note: For extended discussion of set-off after insolvency, see note to St. Paul, etc., Trust Co. v. Leck [Minn.] 47 Am. St. Rep. 578.

24. Where an assignee for creditors completes a contract unfinished by the assignor at the time of the assignment, and sues for the contract price, defendant may set off a claim growing out of dealings with the assignor before the assignment. Meeder v. Goehring, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 457. Holders of bonds of an investment company, after insolvency of the company, become creditors, and are entitled to set off the value of their bonds, according to what they have paid, against notes given for the bonds, though, at the time of insolvency, the bonds have not matured. New Farmers' & Traders' Bank v. Crowe, 26 Ky. L. R. 500, 82 S. W. 287.

25. Rev. St. § 5073. Oliver v. Canan [Ohio] 73 N. E. 466.

the assignee is ignorant at the time of the assignment of his assignor's indebtedness to plaintiff.[26] By agreement with an assignee a debtor may disentitle himself to his right of set-off.[27]

A materialman claiming a lien on a balance due under a contract is subject to all offsets good as against the entire contract.[28]

Claims barred by limitations cannot be set off.[29] But where a demand subsists at the time plaintiff's cause of action accrues, limitations do not run against it as a mutual demand or set-off, though an independent action thereon may then be barred.[30]

In a suit against two or more persons on a joint obligation, set-off is not available to less than the entire number of defendants.[31] If defendants are severally liable, so that separate judgments may be entered against them, it is held in some states that a cross demand in favor of any one of the defendants is available.[32] Thus in an action against the maker of a note and an indorser, the indorser may set off an individual claim against the plaintiff growing out of the transaction which gave rise to the execution of the note.[33]

26. As where a judgment debtor assigned his judgment, his assignee being ignorant of the assignor's indebtedness to the plaintiff. Oliver v. Canan [Ohio] 73 N. E. 466.

27. Where defendant agreed to pay bills to a bank, which thereupon advanced money to the assignor, no indebtedness of the assignor to defendant could be set off in an action by the assignee. Batavian Bank v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 887.

28. In an action by a subcontractor to enforce a claim for materials furnished on two bridges, as against an alleged unpaid balance of the contract price for either or both, the subcontractor having furnished materials under one contract and filed but one statement of account, a county is entitled to set off its entire damages for breach of its contracts for the two bridges, in determining whether there was money in its hands applicable to the subcontractor's demands. Modern Steel Structural Co. v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 536.

29. Sieger v. Sieger, 209 Pa. 65, 58 A. 140.

30. By Code 1896, § 3728. Fowler & Co. v. Bellinger [Ala.] 37 So. 225.

31. Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

32. So held in Georgia. Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

33. Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

NOTE. Set-off where defendants are jointly and severally liable: In some states it is flatly held that the defense of set-off is not available to less than the entire number of defendants. See Lemon v. Stevenson, 36 Ill. 49; Ryan v. Barger, 16 Ill. 28; Woods v. Harris, 5 Blackf. [Ind.] 585; Gordon v. Swift, 46 Ind. 208; Warren v. Wells, 1 Metc. [Mass.] 80; Brooks v. Stackpole, 168 Mass. 537, 47 N. E. 419; Jones v. Gilreath, 28 N. C. 338; Corbett v. Hughes, 75 Iowa, 282, 39 N. W. 500; Banks v. Pike, 15 Me. 268.

In Arkansas, the above doctrine was first held in Trammell v. Harrell, 4 Ark. 602, construing a statute providing for set-offs between persons "mutually indebted." The chief justice dissented, and in Leach v. Lambeth, 14 Ark. 668, the earlier decision was overruled, and it was held that, under the statute, a debt in favor of one of several defendants, sued together, but jointly and severally liable, was available to such defendant. See, also, Burke's Adm'r v. Stillwell's Ex'r, 23 Ark. 294. And for decisions of other states to a like effect, see Pitcher v. Patrick's Adm'rs, Minor [Ala.] 321, 12 Am. Dec. 54; Carson v. Barnes, 1 Ala. 93; Sledge v. Swift, 53 Ala. 110; Huddleston v. Askey, 56 Ala. 218; Riley v. Stallworth, 56 Ala. 481; Locke v. Locke, 57 Ala. 475; Childerston v. Hammon, 9 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 68; Robinson v. Beall, 3 Yeates [Pa.] 267; Miller v. Kreiter, 76 Pa. 78; Dunn v. West, 5 B. Mon. [Ky.] 377.

In Pom. Code Rem. [3d Ed.] § 755, the author says: "The provision found in nearly all the codes that the counterclaim must exist in 'favor of a defendant and against a plaintiff between whom a several judgment might be had in the action,' implies that whenever the single defendant or all the defendants jointly may recover against one or some of the plaintiffs, and not against all, or whenever one or some of the defendants, and not all, may recover against the single plaintiff or all the plaintiffs jointly, or whenever both of these possibilities are combined, a counterclaim may be interposed against the one or some of the plaintiffs, and not against all, and by the one or some of the defendants and not by all. Such a severance in the recovery is possible when the right sought to be maintained on the one side and the liability to be enforced on the other are not originally joint." After a full discussion of numerous cases bearing on the subject, the author, in section 761, lays down the following rules: "First. When the defendants in an action are joint contractors, and are sued as such, no counterclaim can be made available which consists of a demand in favor of one or some of them. Second. When the defendants in an action are jointly and severally liable, although sued jointly, a counterclaim, consisting of a demand in favor of one or some of them, may, if otherwise without objection, be imposed. Third. Since it is possible, pur-

§ 3.[34] To admit of set-off or counterclaim the main action must be similar in form and remedy to that required for the other. In general, a cause of action ex contractu cannot be counterclaimed against one ex delicto,[35] or vice versa,[36] unless both demands arise out of the transactions set forth in the complaint.[37] Because of the nature of the judgment demanded, actions of replevin[38] or forcible entry[39] do not, unless it be so provided, admit of this right. If an alternative judgment for the value be sought in replevin, a recoupment may be available on the damages.[40] A defendant cannot oust a magistrate of jurisdiction by bringing a cross suit for an amount beyond the jurisdiction of the magistrate.[41]

In code states, equitable defenses and counterclaims may be interposed in actions at law.[42] In equity, cross demands and counterclaims, whether arising out of the same or wholly disconnected transactions, and whether liquidated or unliquidated, may be enforced by way of set-off, whenever the circumstances are such as to warrant the intervention of equity.[43]

Under the New York statute, which has been followed by the legislatures of several other states, a counterclaim must embody a cause of action arising out of the contract or transaction set forth in the complaint as the foundation of the plaintiff's claim, or connected with the subject of the action.[44] The cause of action arises from the transaction set forth in the complaint when the combination of acts and events, circumstances and defaults, upon which the rights of the parties are based, when viewed in one aspect, result in plaintiff's right of action, and, when viewed in another aspect, result favorably to defendant.[45] "Transaction" is not necessarily limited by the facts stated in the complaint, but defendant may set up new facts, and show the entire transaction, and counterclaim upon suant to express provisions of all the codes, for persons severally liable to be sued jointly under certain circumstances in a legal action—that is, in an action brought to recover a common money judgment—a counterclaim in favor of one or more of such defendants may be pleaded and proved." In Roberts v. Donovan, 70 Cal. 108, 9 P. 180, 11 P. 599, it was held that one of two joint obligors could not set off an individual claim against the plaintiff's demand on the action; but in the opinion (page 114 of 70 Cal., page 182 of 9 Pac.) the following language was used: "The action was brought upon the joint bond of all the defendants. Were it a joint and several bond, no difficulty would arise; for where the cause of action is several, as well as joint, a several judgment may be entered without reference to the mere form of the action."—For discussion and authorities see Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1624-1626.

35. A judgment cannot be counterclaimed against an action of conversion. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 691. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419. A claim for goods sold and delivered cannot be counterclaimed in an action for libel. Action for libel for publication of name in St. Paul Produce Exchange as a "delinquent debtor." Thomssen v. Ertz [Minn.] 101 N. W. 304.

36. A counterclaim for tort cannot be interposed in an action on a lease for rent. Gerry v. Siebrecht, 88 N. Y. S. 1034. In an action on notes, damages for fraud in inducing defendant to advance money to plaintiff cannot be counterclaimed. Story v. Richardson, 91 App. Div. 381, 86 N. Y. S. 843.

37. If a counterclaim arises out of transactions set forth in the complaint, it is immaterial that it is based on contract and the plaintiff's cause of action is for a tort. King v. Coe Commission Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 667.

38. The filing of a counterclaim in a replevin suit is prohibited by statute in Iowa. Sylvester v. Ammons [Iowa] 101 N. W. 782.

39. The action for unlawful detainer, under the Idaho statute, is not subject to counterclaim or cross action. Claim for unliquidated damages arising out of breach of covenant by the lessor is not proper matter for counterclaim under Rev. St. 1887, §§ 4184, 4188. Hunter v. Porter [Idaho] 77 P. 434.

40. See Cunningham v. Stoner [Idaho] 79 P. 228, and see Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997; Replevin, 4 Curr. L. 1514.

41. Corley v. Evans [S. C.] 48 S. E. 469.

42. Crosby v. Scott-Graff Lumber Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 610.

43. Fitzgerald v. Wiley, 22 App. D. C. 329. Where mortgage on inventions and patents therefor is sought to be foreclosed, damages for loss of profits on sale of a foreign patent, the sale having failed of consummation through default of the mortgagees, are not too speculative or remote to be recouped. Id.

44. Code Civ. Proc. § 501, subd. 1. Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344. Same statute in Minnesota. King v. Coe Commission Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 667.

45, 46, 47. King v. Coe Commission Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 667.

that.[46] It refers not only to an occurrence or act but to commercial or business dealings or transactions with respect to the same business or subject-matter.[47] The words "the subject of the action" mean the facts constituting plaintiff's cause of action.[48] One slander cannot be counterclaimed against another, though both are uttered at the same time and place, and in the same conversation; each slander is a separate transaction.[49]

In Idaho a cross complaint must relate to or depend upon the contract or transaction on which the main case is founded, or affect property to which the action relates, but does not necessarily seek its relief against all or any of the original plaintiffs or defendants.[50] A counterclaim, in that state, while it must exist in favor of defendant and against plaintiff, may in other respects go further than a cross complaint, and, if the cause of action arose on contract, may set forth any other cause of action arising on a contract.[51]

Under statutes defining a set-off as a cause of action arising on contract, or ascertained by the decision of a court,[52] a judgment may be used as a set-off,[53] and it is immaterial that the judgment has become dormant.[54] Where contracts may be counterclaimed, an implied contract for money had and received is subject to counterclaims of an express contract.[55] In Illinois, in assumpsit for goods sold, defendant's claim of unliquidated damages for alleged breach of a contract entirely separate and distinct from the contract of sale can neither be offset nor recouped.[56]

Claims arising out of the same contract or transaction set forth in the complaint, being available, damages for breach of a contract may be counterclaimed in a suit to recover thereon,[57] or a claim for a balance due may be counterclaimed in an action for damages for breach.[58] While money paid to clear taxes may be

48. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419.

49. Within meaning of Rev. Codes 1899, § 5274, subd. 1. Wrege v. Jones [N. D.] 100 N. W. 705.

50, 51. Hunter v. Porter [Idaho] 77 P. 434.

52. Rev. St. § 5071. Oliver v. Canan [Ohio] 73 N. E. 466.

53. Kirkby's Dig. § 6101. Milner v. Camden Lumber Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 234.

54. Oliver v. Canan [Ohio] 73 N. E. 466.

55. Action against administratrix, in individual capacity to recover attorney's fee allowed by court; counterclaim on note of plaintiff held by defendant. Vaughn v. Walsh [Wis.] 100 N. W. 840.

56. Higbie v. Rust, 211 Ill. 333, 71 N. E. 1010, approving former cases.

57. A buyer of personalty may set off damages for breach of warranty in an action for the price. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722. Failure to perform a contract entitling the contractee to a modification or extinguishment of the contract price may be pleaded as a counterclaim, as well as a defense. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356. In an action on a contract for services as night watchman, defendant alleged that plaintiff carelessly and negligently performed his duties under the contract, permitting water in boilers to become low, thereby injuring the boilers to defendant's damage. Held, the answer did not set out a cause of action for tort, but on the contract, and was properly pleaded as a counterclaim. Hagin v. Cayauga Lake Cement Co., 93 N. Y. S. 428. In an action for failure of a telephone company to furnish connection over its system, the company may counterclaim damages for breach of contract. Such counterclaim is connected with subject of action within Code 1902, § 171. Gwynn v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460. If plaintiff claims damages growing out of a contract or transaction, the defendant may deny liability or default, and as a counterclaim allege and establish the liability and default of the plaintiff and recover damages. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448. In an action by a power company for electric power furnished during a certain month, an allegation in the answer that plaintiff ceased to perform its contract on a certain date, and has since refused to furnish power, constitutes a valid counterclaim. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179. In an action to recover for repairs on a locomotive engine, defendant may set off the rental value of the engine for the period covered by delay in making repairs according to the contract. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64. In a suit to recover for repairs to machinery, negligence in the making of the repairs may be considered as a ground for recoupment of damages. Electric Supply & Maintenance Co. v. Conway Elec. Light & Power Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 983.

58. In an action for damages for breach of a contract to furnish materials of a certain quality for a house, defendant may counterclaim an unpaid balance of the price of the materials. Crosby v. Scott-Graff Lumber Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 610.

counterclaimed against an action for the price of land sold with a covenant against incumbrances, since both arise out of the same transaction,[59] damages by breach of warranty in that mineral rights were outstanding cannot, it is held, be offset.[60]

The New York statute authorizing, in a suit for divorce or separation, a defense by way of counterclaim setting up a cause of action against plaintiff for divorce or separation, does not authorize a counterclaim upon facts which would warrant annulment of the marriage.[61]

§ 4. Pleading and practice.[62]—The rules of pleading applicable to the statement of a cause of action in a complaint apply also to a counterclaim.[63] Thus a counterclaim must contain every allegation necessary to constitute an original cause of action for the same matter,[64] in favor of defendant and against plaintiff,[65] or it will be subject to demurrer.[66] The pleading must show that the counterclaim existed at the time of the commencement of the action.[67] Each counterclaim must contain within itself all the allegations necessary to its sufficiency without reference to other allegations of the answer.[68] But since facts not expressly alleged which can reasonably be inferred from what is stated are to be regarded as well pleaded,[69] matter once stated in a complaint or answer may be reasonably regarded as incorporated into that part of the answer apparently devoted to the statement of a counterclaim, if referred to for that purpose, directly or circumstantially;[70] and when plaintiff, by replying, indicates that he considers them so incorporated, that view should prevail, unless the language of the counterclaim as a whole very clearly will not admit thereof.[71] A counterclaim for damages for breach of contract must set out the contract,[72] and must allege performance by defendant.[73]

A pleading cannot perform the office of both an answer and counterclaim.[74] Facts sufficient to constitute a counterclaim must be pleaded as such.[75] If they

59. Payments made to satisfy tax liens. Bullitt v. Coryell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 482.

60. Must look to his warranty. Joiner v. Trail [Ky.] 86 S. W. 980.

61. Durham v. Durham, 99 App. Div. 450, 91 N. Y. S. 295.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1627.

63. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

64. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718. Such substantive facts must be averred as will show a liability on the part of the plaintiff to the defendant, disclosing a complete right of action in his favor against the plaintiff growing out of the subject-matter alleged in the complaint. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. Counterclaim, in action to recover balance of price of wheat, for damages for failure to deliver a portion of that sold, held insufficient to state a cause of action against plaintiff because not alleging defendant's willingness to perform. Stoner v. Swift [Ind.] 74 N. E. 248.

65. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 350. Stoner v. Swift [Ind.] 74 N. E. 248.

66. Stoner v. Swift [Ind.] 74 N. E. 248. The sufficiency of facts to constitute a counterclaim is to be determined in the same manner as when a demurrer is interposed to a complaint on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987.

67. An allegation that plaintiff is indebted to defendant on a contract for the payment of money, that the money had not been paid, and that the same is due and payable, does not show that a counterclaim existed at the time of commencement of the action. Provident Mut. Bldg. Loan Ass'n v. Davis, 143 Cal. 253, 76 P. 1034.

68. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987.

69. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

70. Breaches of contract held well pleaded as counterclaim in action thereon. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

71. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

72. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987.

73. Answer alleging breach of contract to furnish electric power held insufficient as counterclaim. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179, rvg. 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448.

74. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. Answer and counterclaim or set-off distinguished. Stoner v. Swift [Ind.] 74 N. E. 248.

75. Where the statute allows a claim against an assignor after maturity of a bill or note to be used as a counterclaim against the assignee, it must be pleaded as such, and if properly pleaded, must be replied to. Hunter v. Fiss, 92 App. Div. 164, 86 N. Y. S. 1121.

are pleaded as a defense only,[76] no affirmative relief being asked,[77] the pleading cannot be regarded as setting up a counterclaim. But in Indiana, if the allegations show a cause of action against the plaintiff, the pleading will be treated as a counterclaim, though styled by the pleader an "answer by way of counterclaim."[78] A separate and distinct cause of action for damages remains a counterclaim, though called a set-off.[79] A reply setting up a counterclaim to a counterclaim is unauthorized by the New York Code.[80] The remedy for a plaintiff in such case is to move for leave to amend the complaint.[81]

Allegations of set-off in an affidavit of defense must be as specific as those used in a statement of claim, and averments in general terms are not to be regarded.[82] The Virginia statute treats payment and set-off together, and places them upon the same ground in prescribing the mode of relying on them as matters of defense.[83] Hence where the items of an account filed with a plea of payment, or nil debit, are so described as to give plaintiff notice of their character, defendants may prove the items as payments, though described generally in the account filed as offsets.[84] Failure to file a bill of particulars with a plea of set-off, required by statute in Florida, is waived by a plaintiff who proceeds to trial without objection by motion to strike the plea or have the bill of particulars filed.[85] Where, in an action for the recovery of the value of repairs to personalty, defendant files a plea containing proper subjects of set-off, a demurrer to the plea should be overruled, though other items contained in the plea were not proper subjects of set-off.[86]

After a valid plea of set-off has been filed, the plaintiff is not entitled to dismiss his action so as to interfere with the defendant's rights, except upon sufficient cause shown.[87] Where a counterclaim has been filed, defendant is entitled to proceed with the trial thereof, on plaintiff's failure to appear.[88] Where plaintiff institutes a suit to have a mortgage and lien on property canceled, but thereafter sells his interest and moves to discontinue the suit, a reconventional demand seeking to enforce such mortgage and lien, filed after the motion for discontinuance,

76. As where in action for rent of hotel, defendant pleaded fraudulent representations inducing execution of the lease, not as an equitable counterclaim, but as a separate answer and defense. Gilsey v. Keen, 93 N. Y. S. 783. Purely defensive allegations not warranting affirmative relief do not constitute a counterclaim. Stewart v. Gorham, 122 Iowa, 669, 98 N. W. 512. Answer attempting to plead a prior action by an assignee pending, but which failed to allege that an assignment was in fact made or an action brought, held insufficient as a counterclaim under Civ. Code, § 501. Cassidy v. Arnold, 91 N. Y. S. 570.

77. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448.

78. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180.

79. Liebmann's Sons Brewing Co. v. De Nicolo, 91 N. Y. S. 791.

80. Where complaint alleged breach of contract of employment, and answer set up a counterclaim for money advanced, a reply setting up services of a certain value as a set-off against defendants' counterclaim was not authorized. Fett v. Greenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 736.

81. Fett v. Greenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 736.

82. Penn Shovel Co. v. Phelps, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 595; McFetridge v. Megargee, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 501. General allegations of loss from failure to deliver goods, without specifying the number of articles of each kind and the price, insufficient to show set-off in action for price of goods. Carnahan Stamping & Enameling Co. v. Foley, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 643. Affidavit of defense in action to recover price of paper sold a publisher held insufficient to show set-offs, because uncertain, indefinite, and lacking in facts. Genesee Paper Co. v. Bogert, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 23.

83. 2 Code 1904, p. 1737. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

84. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

85. The statute (Rev. St. 1892, § 1069), requiring such bill, is for the benefit of plaintiff, and he may waive noncompliance therewith. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64.

86. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64.

87. Wilson v. Exchange Bank [Ga.] 50 S. E. 357.

88. But pleading held not a counterclaim, but purely defensive, though designated "an answer and cross petition," and hence defendant was not permitted to proceed [Code, § 3766]. Stewart v. Gorham, 122 Iowa, 669, 98 N. W. 512.

is not in time.[89] Plaintiff in reconvention is not entitled, in such case, to have other parties interested in the property brought into the suit and have his claim litigated, but must resort to another suit.[90]

Judgment and costs.—A judgment which makes no disposition whatever of a counterclaim filed in the action is not final and will not support an appeal.[91] Where, in an action for recovery of money only, a counterclaim or set-off is set up, there should be only one judgment, which should be for the party in whose favor the greater amount is found due, and should include the costs of such party.[92] The fact that plaintiff commenced his action in a justice court does not change the rule on trial de novo in the court of common pleas, where the claim of defendant was not due and could not be set up in the justice court.[93] Where defendant denies all liability, and puts plaintiff to the expense of a trial, plaintiff is entitled to costs, though a judgment used as a set-off by defendant exceeds in amount the verdict on plaintiff's demand.[94] A statute providing that where a defendant fails to avail himself of a claim against plaintiff by using it as a set-off, he cannot recover costs in a subsequent independent action thereon, does not apply to a claim for unliquidated damages.[95] A set-off consisting of several items should be credited to a defendant as of their respective dates.[96]

SETTLEMENT OF CASE; SETTLEMENTS; SEVERANCE OF ACTIONS, see latest topical index.

SEWERS AND DRAINS.

§ 1. State and Municipal Control (1429).
§ 2. Independent Organizations (1431).
§ 3. Cost and Provision for Same (1432). Local Assessments (1433). Review of Assessment Proceedings (1435).
§ 4. Public Contracts and Construction (1436).
§ 5. Management and Operation (1438).
§ 6. Private and Combined Drainage (1441).
§ 7. Obstruction of Drains (1441).

§ 1. State and municipal control.[97]—The drainage and reclamation of swamp or overflowed lands, to increase the area of cultivable lands,[98] or to promote the public health and welfare,[99] is a matter of general public utility and concern, for which the legislature may provide by the creation of local administrative organizations or political corporations.[1] In carrying on such work, or in establishing, maintaining and operating a drainage system to relieve natural streams of sewage, the legislature is not, in the absence of any constitutional limitation, required to delegate the work to existing municipalities, nor to establish a new municipality, but may act directly and through its own agencies.[2] Thus the statute creating the Passaic valley sewerage district is not unconstitutional as special and local legis-

89, 90. Lyons v. Fry, 112 La. 759, 36 So. 674.

91. Riddle v. Bearden [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1061.

92. Rev. St. §§ 5348, 5349. Gordon v. Steinmetz [Ohio] 73 N. E. 512.

93. Action for breach of warranty and note set up as set-off, such note not having been due at the time of first trial. Gordon v. Steinmetz [Ohio] 73 N. E. 512.

94. Costs should be credited with the amount of the verdict on the judgment. Milner v. Camden Lumber Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 234.

95. Construing Kirkby's Dig. § 6104. Milner v. Camden Lumber Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 234.

96. Goodell v. Sanford [Mont.] 77 P. 522.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1628, 1629, 1630, for corresponding matter.

98. St. 1885, p. 204, c. 158, providing for the formation of drainage districts each consisting of land susceptible of one mode of drainage, is constitutional. Laguna Drainage Dist. v. Charles Martin Co., 144 Cal. 209, 77 P. 933. Land taken for this purpose is taken for a public use, even though the district to be reclaimed and made cultivable comprises only 160 acres. Id.

99. Drainage of swamps. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141.

Creation of assessment districts, see post, § 3.

1. Comp. St. 1903, art. 4, c. 89, has a valid object. Neal v. Vansickel [Neb.] 100 N. W. 200.

2. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571, afd. 60 A. 214.

lation,[3] nor as an unlawful regulation of the internal affairs of local municipalities.[4] A statute incorporating a company for the drainage of swamp land and giving the company a lien for special assessments on property benefited is not unconstitutional as a grant of special privileges for which no public service is rendered.[5] An objection that the charter of such company is defective because it does not specifically locate the lands to be assessed cannot be heard, after the legislature has by subsequent legislation recognized the charter as valid.[6]

Local boards have only such powers relative to drains and sewers as are conferred by statute, and the power conferred must be exercised in the manner prescribed by law.[7] In the absence of statutory authority, a municipal corporation has no power to grant permission to use streets for private drains.[8] One department of a city authorized to perform certain work may delegate the actual work of construction to the department of public works.[9] County commissioners, in Ohio, are without jurisdiction or authority to locate and construct a county ditch within the limits of a municipal corporation, unless such municipality petitions for the same, or a ditch being constructed necessarily passes into or through it.[10] The Indiana statute providing for the tiling of public, open drains, in certain cases, does not authorize construction by commissioners of an entirely new drain by tiling.[11] Though the commissioners were without authority, under this act, only as to a portion of the drain, the entire proceedings were void, since they treated the work as an entirety.[12] The Michigan statute providing for the drainage of swamp or overflowed lands surrounding lakes or rivers, by laying or extending drains through such bodies of water, does not authorize a drain which would lower the water in a navigable lake or stream so as to impair navigation.[13] The acts of New Jersey under which the city of Paterson was authorized to empty its sewage into the Passaic river amount to a mere legislative license, revocable at the will of the legislature whenever the public health and safety require.[14] In Nebraska, a ditch constructed jointly by two counties having proved insufficient to properly drain the lands intended to be benefited, the county board of one of such counties has power to adopt a new system, of which the old ditch, altered and repaired, shall form a part, and assess the cost upon the lands benefited, proper proceedings being taken; and such action is not precluded by the fact that the board has failed to clean out the old ditch for several years.[15] In Minnesota, villages

3. Laws 1902, c. 48. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571, afd. 60 A. 14. Since the situation of the territory included in the district is exceptional and not likely to be paralleled elsewhere in the state, the act providing for its construction and maintenance by special commissioners is not special legislation in the constitutional sense. Id. The provision of the New Jersey constitution, prohibiting special laws conferring corporate powers, applies only to private corporations and does not render invalid the act creating the Passaic Valley sewerage district commission. Laws 1903, p. 777, does not violate Const. art. 4, §§ 4, 11. Id.

4. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 60 A. 214, afg., thus far, 58 A. 571.

5. Kentucky statutes creating the Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Company are valid. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141.

6. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141.

7. Village of Pleasant Hill v. Miami County Com'rs [Ohio] 72 N. E. 896.

8. Bennett v. Incorporated Town of Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349.

9. Park department of Buffalo may so delegate actual work of re-enforcing and diverting sewers in a public square. Locke v. Buffalo, 97 App. Div. 483, 90 N. Y. S. 550.

10. Only such authority as is conferred by Rev. St. c. 1, tit. 6, §§ 4483, 4485. Village of Pleasant Hill v. Miami County Com'rs [Ohio] 72 N. E. 896.

11. Construing Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5653a. Kemp v. Adams [Ind.] 73 N. E. 590.

12. Kemp v. Adams [Ind.] 73 N. E. 590.

13. Thornapple river is navigable, and a drain which would lower it 4 feet is not authorized by Comp. Laws, § 4339. Cole v. Dooley [Mich.] 100 N. W. 561.

14. Hence the act providing for the Passaic Valley sewerage system, which abolished the city's method of disposing of sewage, did not necessitate compensation to the city. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571.

organized under the general law have no power to construct or contract for the construction of sewers until the property owners have had an opportunity to perform the work themselves.[16] The Illinois statute which, as incidental to the erection of a sanitary district, in effect requires the city of Chicago to supply water to the town of Cicero, on application by the latter, is not unconstitutional as depriving the city of Chicago of property without due process of law, since the operation of a public system of waterworks is the exercise of a quasi-governmental function, subject to legislative control.[17] Furthermore, the city of Chicago should not be heard to urge the unconstitutionality of the act after enjoying the benefit of the system, provided by the act, a portion of the cost of which has been borne by the people of the town of Cicero.[18]

§ 2. Independent organizations.[19]—Illinois.—The "Levee Act" and the "Farm Drainage Act" are separate and distinct acts, and a district organized under one is subject only to the provisions of that act.[20] The section of the farm drainage act relating to the organization of districts where lands affected lie wholly in one township does not provide for notice and a hearing; hence the other sections of the act relative to such notice and hearing apply to the proceeding.[21] Since county courts have jurisdiction to organize drainage districts, a judgment of a county court organizing a district is presumptively valid,[22] and is not subject to collateral attack.[23] If township commissioners have jurisdiction, their finding as to what lands should be brought into a drainage district is conclusive in a quo warranto proceeding.[24] But they cannot finally determine the question of their jurisdiction; hence a finding that lands affected by a proposed system of drainage were all within their township is not conclusive.[25] The objection, raised by quo warranto, that township commissioners were without jurisdiction, since the lands affected by the proposed drainage ditches lay in two or more townships, is not obviated by a proposed amendment to the plea to the effect that relators were present and their objections heard at the organization, the nature of the objections, and whether the relators were heard on the merits, not being stated by such amendment. Hence, leave to so amend was properly refused.[26] A drainage district may avail itself of the right of eminent domain to obtain a right of way to construct a ditch across the lands of others.[27] The legislature has power, under the state constitution, to change the boundaries of an established sanitary district.[28]

15. Morris v. Washington County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 144.

16. Laws 1901, p. 215, c. 167. State v. Foster [Minn.] 103 N. W. 14.

17. Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 347, § 26, is valid. City of Chicago v. Cicero, 210 Ill. 290, 71 N. E. 356.

18. City of Chicago v. Cicero, 210 Ill. 290, 71 N. E. 356.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1628.

20. The repealing section of the Illinois farm drainage act does not make the levee act applicable to proceedings under the farm drainage act. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

21. Construing Farm Drainage Act, § 76 (Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 763, c. 42). McDonald v. People, 214 Ill. 83, 73 N. E. 444.

22. Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 1500, c. 42, gives such authority to county courts. People v. Waite, 213 Ill. 421, 72 N. E. 1087.

23. Such judgment cannot be attacked in a quo warranto proceeding on the ground that the court did not specifically find that the petition for organization of the district was signed by the requisite number of adult property owners, and the district was duly organized as provided by law. People v. Waite, 213 Ill. 421, 72 N. E. 1087. The legality of the organization of a drainage and levee district can be attacked and brought under judicial review only in a direct proceeding by quo warranto; it cannot be attacked in a proceeding to condemn land for a ditch. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Polecat Drainage Dist., 213 Ill. 83, 72 N. E. 684.

24. McDonald v. People, 214 Ill. 83, 73 N. E. 444.

25. The Illinois statute provides for three kinds of ditches: one where land lies in a single township; another where it lies in two; and a third where it lies in three or more. The commissioners of a single township have jurisdiction only as to the first class. McDonald v. People, 214 Ill. 83, 73 N. E. 444.

26. McDonald v. People, 214 Ill. 83, 73 N. E. 444.

27. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Polecat Drainage Dist., 213 Ill. 83, 72 N. E. 684.

28. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 113, § 1, is valid.

California.—Under the California statute providing for the sale of uncovered swamp lands which have accrued to the state by the recession or drainage of the waters of inland lakes, the purchasers of such lands may avail themselves of the provisions of law relating to the reclamation of swamp and overflowed lands.[29] When such purchasers have formed a reclamation district and reclaimed the land, they are absolutely entitled to recover payments made on the land.[30] The statute providing for such payments constituted a contract between the state and the purchasers, and a subsequent statute providing for performance of such contract by the state was not objectionable as a gift of public money.[31] This contract is not subject to the statute of limitations applicable to written contracts.[32] Under a deed of land to a reclamation district for reclamation purposes only, title to revert to the grantor if the land ceases to be used for such purposes, the district has no right to use the land principally for any other purpose, and if it or its assigns should do so, title would revert to the grantor.[33] A conveyance by the district reserving the right to use a part of a building on the premises for tools and appliances used for the purposes of reclamation does not of itself show that the premises had ceased to be used for reclamation purposes.[34] Such conveyance by the district, it void for want of power to make it, would not operate to place title in the grantor, but would leave title in the district, unless it had actually ceased to use the land for reclamation purposes.[35] A purchaser of the land with full knowledge of the district's rights under its prior deed cannot be heard to say that the use being made of the land by the district was not necessary for reclamation purposes.[36] Whether a reclamation district organized under the California law of 1867 be considered a quasi public corporation or a mere public agency of the state, it could not be sued until an action against it was authorized by law.[37] In order to maintain an action against it under the provisions of the act of 1885, subjecting such districts to the provisions of the Political Code, the petition must show that the district had been, and was at the time of passage of the act, prosecuting the objects for which it was formed.[38] Furthermore the act of 1885 did not affect debts incurred prior to 1873 nor change the sole existing remedy of mandamus to enforce payment of such debts, nor revive rights of action against a district barred by limitations prior to the passage of the act.[39] A reclamation district can have no property subject to execution.[40]

§ 3. Cost and provision for same.[41]—A sewer is a public improvement, within the meaning of the San Francisco charter, for which a bonded indebtedness may be created.[42] That charter provides two methods for the building of sewers, either of which may be used, in the discretion of the supervisors; one, by the use of funds derived from the general revenues, within the dollar limit; the other, where the sum required exceeds the amount which may be so reserved, by the issuance of bonds for the construction of a general system of sewerage and drainage.[43] The drainage of swampy lands within municipal limits may properly

City of Chicago v. Cicero, 210 Ill. 290, 71 N. E. 356.

29. St. 1893, p. 342, c. 229, § 6, makes Pol. Code, §§ 3446 to 3491, available to such purchasers. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104.

30. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104.

31. St. 1899, p. 182, c. 149, amending St. 1893, p. 341, c. 229, § 5, is valid. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104.

32. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104.

33. Evidence held sufficient to show that land had not ceased to be used for reclamation purposes. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638.

34, 35, 36. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638.

37, 38, 39, 40. San Francisco Sav. Union v. Reclamation Dist. No. 124, 144 Cal. 639, 79 P. 374.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1631.

42, 43. Law v. San Francisco, 144 Cal. 384, 77 P. 1014.

be deemed a public enterprise, the cost of which the legislature may properly place upon the municipalities benefited.[44] A private party having constructed a system of drainage under contract made by commissioners, the legislature has power to discharge the commissioners and provide for the payment of compensation by the municipalities benefited.[45]

The New Jersey statute providing for the Passaic valley sewerage system is unconstitutional as to the method therein provided of paying the cost, because it unlawfully delegates the power of taxation to executive commissioners, who have no governmental functions,[46] and because the taxation area and sewerage district provided for are not political divisions of the state.[47] Under the farm drainage act of Indiana, the owners of lands outside an established district, or another district, may connect with the ditches of the established district by paying such an amount as they would have been assessed had they been originally included in the district.[48]

Local assessments.[49]—The subject of local assessments is given a general and more extended treatment elsewhere.[50] Only the decisions peculiarly applicable to sewers and drains are here retained.

The cost of sewers in a city cannot be met by special assessments unless the power to assess is expressly conferred,[51] and such power does not retroact.[52] But sewer and drainage systems are usually held local improvements as to which such power exists.[53] Statutory authority to construct sewers and pay the cost by special as-

44. Drainage of swampy land in Hoboken and Weehawken. O'Neill v. Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50.

45. Commissioners appointed under act of April 4, 1866, were commissioners for Hoboken and Weehawken, within the meaning of the act of April 8, 1903, providing for payment of improvement certificates, and the act of 1903 is valid. O'Neill v. Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50.

46. Since the commissioners are given power to levy taxes to the amount of an indebtedness to be incurred by them in its judgment or discretion. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 60 A. 214, rvg. 58 A. 571.

47. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 60 A. 214, rvg. 58 A. 571.

48. Where an assessment was made on lands lying in two districts, and District No. 2 connected its ditches with a main ditch constructed by District No. 3, satisfaction of said assessment did not satisfy a claim of District No. 3 for benefit conferred by such main ditch on the assessed land lying exclusively in District No. 2. Construing Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 750, c. 42. Drainage Com'rs of Drainage Dist. No. 2 v. Drainage Com'rs of Union Drainage Dist. No. 3, 211 Ill. 328, 71 N. E. 1007.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1631.

50. See Public Works and Improvements, 4 Curr. L. 1124.

51. The city of Elkins has no authority under its charter act to levy assessments on abutting property for sewers in the streets. Cain v. Elkins [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 898.

52. Act Ind. March 4, 1893, relative to special assessments for sewer construction, applies only to sewers ordered and constructed after the act went into effect. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

53. Pumping station and sewer system. Fisher v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680.

NOTE. Property assessable: Local assessments being based on the theory of compensation for benefits derived from the improvement, property benefited by a sewer is properly assessed for the cost. Com. v. Woods, 44 Pa. 113; Wolf v. Philadelphia, 105 Pa. 25; Lipes v. Hand, 104 Ind. 503, 1 N. E. 871, 4 N. E. 160. But it must clearly appear that the property assessed is actually benefited. Chicago v. Adcock, 168 Ill. 221, 48 N. E. 155. Owners of land not actually benefited are entitled to relief against assessments. Paulson v. Portland, 16 Or. 450, 19 P. 450, 1 L. R. A. 673; Providence Retreat v. Buffalo, 29 App. Div. 160, 51 N. Y. S. 654. Nonabutting farm property cannot be assessed for a sewer where its drainage will not be improved thereby and no provision is made for the extension of the sewer so as to benefit such property. Bickerdike v. Chicago, 185 Ill. 280, 56 N. E. 1096. Assessments must be confined to lands abutting directly on the line of the improvement. Parker's Appeal, 169 Pa. 433, 32 A. 574. Unless the property is so placed as to admit of connection with the sewer. State v. Hoboken, 45 N. J. Law, 482. Title Guarantee & T. Co. v. Chicago, 162 Ill. 505, 44 N. E. 832. That surface water flowing over land finally reaches a drain will not sustain an assessment if the water would have flowed off the land without the drain. Beals v. James, 173 Mass. 591, 54 N. E. 245. Special benefits arising from construction of a ditch for which a landowner may be assessed, as distinguished from general benefits for which he may not be assessed, are whatever increase the value of the land. Lipes v. Hand, 104 Ind. 503, 1 N. E. 871, 4 N. E. 160; Dodge County v. Acorn, 61 Neb. 376, 85 N. W. 292; Illinois C. R. Co. v. East Lake Fork Special Drainage Dist., 129 Ill. 417, 21 N. E. 925. Making land more healthy. Beals v. Brookline, 174 Mass. 1, 54 N. E. 339. For discussion of liasessments does not authorize a grant to an individual of the right to construct and maintain sewers and charge rentals for their use.[54] Neither can a public body reimburse itself by assessment for reclamation work not comprehended by the statutes.[55] The provisions of the Nebraska drainage law authorizing the county board to provide funds for compensation to land owners whose property has been taken or damaged in the construction of drains do not provide for the taking of property without just compensation.[56] In Massachusetts, under the statute authorizing assessments on estates especially benefited by a new sewer, assessments may be levied where land has been taken for a new channel.[57] The fact that an assessment is not in fact levied is no reason for setting off the benefits against a claim for property taken.[58]

The power to assess being a continuing one admits of a second and additional assessment for necessary improvements and additions.[59] So also additional assessments from time to time to cover the expense of maintaining and keeping a ditch in repair may be authorized by statute.[60] A city having in good faith adopted and carried out plans for a sewerage system recommended by a competent sanitary engineer of high standing cannot be charged with the cost of additional or substituted improvements rendered necessary by the city's growth.[61]

In establishing a sewer district and determining its boundaries, a city council is exercising a legislative power, having its origin in the taxing power, for police purposes.[62] The exercise of this power by municipal authorities is discretionary and not subject to judicial review.[63] A city of general powers may create a new sewer district within the limits of a larger district and assess the cost of a new sewer on the property of such district according to special benefits.[64]

Sewer assessments are commonly apportioned according to frontage.[65] If required to be levied in proportion to benefits, they are void unless the property owner affected is notified or afforded an opportunity to be heard;[66] or if the amount assessed is in substantial excess of benefits.[67] An assessment roll prepared by a bility for expense of drainage, see note to Heffner v. Cass and Morgan Counties (193 Ill. 439) 58 L. R. A. 353. See, also, treatment of local assessments in Public Works and Improvements, and notes thereto, 4 Curr. L. 1124.

54. The invalidity of an ordinance granting such right may be raised in an action to recover rentals, though it has not been specially pleaded. Weaver v. Canon Sewer Co., 18 Colo. App. 242, 70 P. 953.

55. A city of New Jersey may not have an assessment levied, under the drainage and sewage acts, to reimburse it for the expense of constructing a drain, which is neither a sewer nor a street improvement, its object being the drainage of swampy land, such drain having been built by the township before its organization as a city, since the act of March 4, 1884, under which the drain was built, was repealed in 1900, and the improvement was not one included within the incorporation act, permitting completion of and assessments for certain improvements. City of East Orange v. Hussey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1060.

56. Cobbey's St. 1903, §§ 5500 to 5527, are valid. Morris v. Washington County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 144.

57, 58. Atkins v. Boston [Mass.] 74 N. E. 292.

59. Additional and larger pipes laid, the system first built having proved insufficient. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 53.

60. Laws 1901, p. 427, § 25, is valid. In re McRae [Minn.] 100 N. W. 384.

61. City held not negligent in adopting original plan. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 53.

62, 63. Wolff v. Denver [Colo. App.] 77 P. 364.

64. Assessment by frontage rule held not inequitable. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 53.

65. The cost of drain pipes and of filling in the construction of sidewalks must be apportioned on abutting property according to frontage. Moody & Co. v. Spotorno, 112 La. 1008, 36 So. 836.

66. Comp. St. 1903, art. 4, c. 89, § 12, is not open to this objection, since the board is given implied power to provide for due notice and hearing. Neal v. Vansickel [Neb.] 100 N. W. 200. Under P. L. 224, § 29, a property owner cannot be charged with costs of house connections with a sewer, in the absence of notice to the owner and default in compliance with the notice. Erie City v. Willis, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 459.

67. Iowa Pipe & Tile Co. v. Callanan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 141. Comp. St. 1903, art. 4, c. 89, § 14, is invalid because it authorizes assessments for drainage without regard to benefits. Neal v. Vansickel [Neb.] 100 N. W. 200.

jury who went on the land is prima facie evidence that the land assessed will be benefited to the extent of the assessments.[68] A statute authorizing assessments for sewers on property according to frontage, or according to the area of such property to a certain depth from the street or way, will be construed as limiting the amount of particular assessments to the special benefits conferred, and, as so construed, is constitutional.[69] Failure of a contractor to complete a drain according to contract specifications through certain lands does not exempt such lands from assessment after completion of the drain through renewed proceedings.[70] Under the Kentucky statute, providing for proceedings in the county court for the construction of drains, and the assessment of the cost on lands benefited, after the landowner has refused or neglected to do the work within a certain time after confirmation of the report of the viewers, a contract for work cannot be let until such neglect or refusal by the owner.[71] Hence no lien for the assessment exists until the contract has been let, and a purchaser after the work has been ordered but before the contract has been let cannot resist payment of the assessment on the ground that no notice of lis pendens had been filed by the contractor.[72]

Equity will enjoin collection of a sewer assessment levied without authority;[73] but the equitable principle that a person taxed will not be relieved of his just share of burdens is not applicable to an action of assumpsit to recover from a treasurer a drain assessment, erroneously spread, and paid under protest.[74] A sewer connection having been properly made in accordance with a permit, equity will enjoin a borough from cutting it off as a means of compelling the owner to pay an assessment for which he is not liable or which is enforceable in the mode prescribed by ordinance.[75]

Review of assessment proceedings.[76]—The establishment of taxing districts is legislative and not reviewable,[77] but the fixing of assessments is judicial.[78] Though, in New Jersey, the circuit court takes part in municipal proceedings to assess benefits for drainage, the action of the municipal authorities is reviewable in the supreme court by certiorari only, and not by writ of error.[79] In Illinois the order confirming an assessment is alone appealable, no other prior order of the court being final.[80]

A court of last resort cannot be deprived of its exclusive prerogative by giving a lower court power to review finally the action of assessment commissioners.[81]

68. Pinkstaff v. Allison Ditch Dist. No. 2, 213 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 715. May be rebutted. A finding by a jury that a tract of land would not be damaged held contrary to the evidence when it appeared conclusively that the excavated dirt from a ditch would form embankments necessitating construction of a bridge. Id.

69. Cheney v. Beverly [Mass.] 74 N. E. 306.

70. Pollock v. Sowers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 596.

71. Scherm v. Garrett's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 186, 80 S. W. 1103.

72. Construing Ky. St. 1903, §§ 2380, 2358. Scherm v. Garrett's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 186, 80 S. W. 1103.

73. Cain v. Elkins [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 898.

74. Murphy v. Dobben [Mich.] 100 N. W. 891.

75. Allen v. Swarthmore Borough, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 410. Borough authorities having placed blank permits in the hands of a sewer inspector, who issued one to a property owner, the latter paying therefor and making connection with a sewer in accordance therewith in good faith, the borough cannot object that the permit was not properly issued. Id. Permit to make sewer connection held to sufficiently describe premises; and the facts that point of connection designated was not directly opposite lot, and that owner conducted his drain over another's lot, held immaterial. Id.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1633.

77. Wolff v. Denver [Colo. App.] 77 P. 364.

78. Assessments for drainage ditch by county board [Comp. St. 1899, c. 89, art. 1]. Dodge County v. Acom [Neb.] 100 N. W. 136.

79. City of East Orange v. Hussey, 70 N. J. Law, 244, 57 A. 1086.

80. Commissioners of Lacey Levee & Drainage Dist. v. Langellier [Ill.] 74 N. E. 148.

81. N. J. Gen. St. p. 3639 construed as simply requiring the circuit court to take part in proceedings to assess benefits for drainage; the act does not make the action of the

From a judgment and orders of the county board in Nebraska, fixing drainage assessments, error will lie to the district court, whose judgment may be reviewed by the supreme court.[82] The judgment of the county board will not be reversed or set aside unless its findings are clearly wrong and unsupported by the evidence.[83] The board of review, in Michigan, in acting upon the drain commissioner's apportionment, has power to add lands to an assessment district for construction of a drainage ditch.[84]

§ 4. Public contracts and construction. Procedure.[85]—In general, the procedure prescribed by statute must be strictly followed, since the omission of any step necessary to constitute due process of law leaves the authorities without jurisdiction.[86] But failure to observe merely directory provisions as to the time within which certain action is to be taken will not be fatal to the proceedings, if the rights of property owners are not thereby injuriously affected.[87] No subsequent ratification or acquiescence of a city can cure a substantial defect or omission in the acts of a board of municipal officers acting judicially under statutory authority in the establishment of public drains and sewers.[88] Since the record of the proceedings of the board presumptively shows the full proceedings, parol evidence cannot extend, supply, or modify such record.[89]

When a petition of property owners is required, the presentation of such petition, signed as required by law, is a jurisdictional prerequisite.[90] The fact that a county owns land in a proposed drainage district, and that the chairman of the county board signed a petition for the district, does not disqualify the board so as to preclude its hearing the petition.[91] In the absence of fraud or mistake, an agreement between petitioners for a drainage ditch and a landowner that a private ditch maintained by the latter should not be interfered with between certain dates is valid.[92] A defendant in proceedings to condemn land for a drainage ditch, whose lands lie outside the assessment district, cannot assail the constitutionality of the law under which the district was formed and the proceedings instituted, on the ground that it does not provide for notice of the hearing on the petition for the district or of assessments on the land in the district.[93] An estimate of cost[94] and of the proportion of the expense to be borne by the municipality[95] is required by the Massachusetts statute before a plan for sewers may be adopted.

court on the report of the commissioners final. City of East Orange v. Hussey, 70 N. J. Law, 244, 57 A. 1086.

82, 83. Dodge County v. Acom [Neb.] 100 N. W. 136.

84. Murphy v. Dobben [Mich.] 100 N. W. 891.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1633. Compare Public Contracts, 4 Curr. L. 1089.

Note: See exhaustive treatment of "procedure for the establishment of drains and sewers," including discussion of acquisition of funds and contesting assessments, in note to State v. Board of County Com'rs [Minn.] 60 L. R. A. 161.

86. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

87. Failure of commissioners, in proceedings to establish a drainage ditch, to appoint viewers within the time prescribed by law, does not invalidate the proceedings, since such provision is merely directory, and its violation does not injuriously affect the rights of property owners; construing Laws 1901, c. 258, p. 413, as amended by Laws 1902, c. 38, p. 90. In re McRae [Minn.] 100 N. W. 384.

88. Deviation from adopted plan without authority could not be cured by subsequent ratification. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

89. Parol testimony inadmissible to show consent of city to deviation from original plan of sewer system, or to show presentation of a proper petition. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

90. Such fact must appear to show laying out of sewer to be legal. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

91. O'Connell v. Baker, 35 Wash. 376, 77 P. 673.

92. Tolin v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 423, 71 N. E. 678.

93. Laguna Drainage Dist. v. Charles Martin Co., 144 Cal. 209, 77 P. 933.

94. Pub. St. 1882, c. 50, § 7, held to have been complied with. Cheney v. Beverly [Mass.] 74 N. E. 306.

95. Where the proportion paid by a town is not less than ¼ nor more than ⅔ of the total cost, an assessment will not be set aside as void because it does not appear that the portion to be paid by the town was

Bids must be received for all materials to be used,[96] as designated by the statute.[97] Where individuals have a precedent option to construct their portions of drains, no contract can be made before a refusal of it.[98]

In Indiana, viewers must make the final report required by law, though they recommend that work for a ditch be let as an entirety instead of by allotment.[99] The board of county commissioners has no authority, after the filing of the viewers' report, to make an order allowing a credit for a part of a private ditch utilized in the work, since provision therefor, after completion of the work, is made by the statute.[1] But the fact that such unauthorized order is made does not affect the validity of their final order as a whole.[2] A report locating a ditch being held invalid and being referred back, the drainage commissioners were at liberty to change the location.[3] A remonstrance against a ditch as located by the viewers, on the ground of excessive assessment or insufficient damages, must be filed within the time specified by statute or the right thereto is lost.[4]

In Illinois, if a proper petition to abandon work is filed before the contract for a drainage system has been let, work must be abandoned; but this statute refers to the contract for the system as originally planned, and does not require the granting of a petition to abandon additional work petitioned for under the statute after the original contract has been let.[5] The Illinois act providing that land affected by additional drainage, which has been petitioned for after the contract for the system has been let, shall be organized into a subdistrict, does not apply where a petition was filed before the enactment of the statute.[6]

In Michigan the drain commissioner is authorized by statute to institute new proceedings to complete a drain after proceedings have been declared void for any cause except that the drain is unnecessary and not conducive to public health or welfare;[7] or after an assessment has been held invalid for any cause which would not deprive the commissioner of jurisdiction.[8]

Where petitioners for mandamus to compel commissioners to improve a drain had sought to secure better drainage and the commissioners had recognized their rights and taken steps to enforce them the suit for mandamus was not barred by limitations.[9] In a mandamus proceeding to compel commissioners to improve a drain so as to carry off water from the petitioner's land the question whether such lands had been increased in value by the drain as it existed was immaterial.[10] determined by the selectmen as required by Rev. Laws, c. 49, § 27. Cheney v. Beverly [Mass.] 74 N. E. 306. Certiorari to quash an assessment not granted on this ground when applied for several years after adoption of sewer plan. Id.

96. The drain commissioner must receive bids for sewer pipe for a part of a drain, under Pub. Acts 1899, p. 463, providing for the receipt of bids and letting contracts for drains. Kenyon v. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County [Mich.] 101 N. W. 851.

97. Comp. Laws, § 4338, authorizes use of sewer pipe in construction of drains when necessary. Kenyon v. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County [Mich.] 101 N. W. 851.

98. Scherm v. Garrett's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 186, 80 S. W. 1103.

99. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5670. Tolin v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 423, 71 N. E. 678.

1. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5657. Tolin v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 423, 71 N. E. 678.

2. Tolin v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 423, 71 N. E. 678.

3. A report of drainage commissioners being held invalid because not naming a railroad right of way crossed by the proposed ditch, and the railroad company owning the right of way, as required by Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5624, the commissioners were not bound (their report being referred back) to locate the ditch as in their first report, but could relocate it so as to terminate at the right of way. Turner v. Lay [Ind.] 71 N. E. 217.

4. Construing Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5665. Tolin v. Jones, 33 Ind. App. 423, 71 N. E. 678.

5. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 42, § 44. Soran v. Commissioners of Union Drainage Dist. [Ill.] 74 N. E. 129.

6. Soran v. Commissioners of Union Drainage Dist. [Ill.] 74 N. E. 129.

7. Comp. Laws 1897, § 4366. Pollock v. Sowers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 596.

8. Comp. Laws 1897, § 4369. Decision of circuit court did not hold an assessment void so as to preclude assessment for work after completion. Pollock v. Sowers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 596.

9, 10. Kreiling v. Northrup [Ill.] 74 N. E. 123.

Appeals.[11]—In Michigan, action of a drain commissioner in establishing a drain may be reviewed by certiorari, notice thereof being served on the commissioner within ten days after his final decision has been filed with the county clerk.[12] But this remedy is confined to defects existing at the time of such final order; hence where fatal defects occur more than ten days after such order, the board of supervisors may refuse to spread a tax for a drain, without first resorting to certiorari.[13] Under the Minnesota statute, a notice of appeal, otherwise specific, directed to the board of county commissioners, is sufficient in form, and after bond filed, operates to perfect an appeal to the district court from an order of the commissioners dismissing a petition for a ditch.[14] Upon appeal the district court is vested with jurisdiction to try all issues both of fact and law de novo.[15]

§ 5. Management and operation. Duty to properly construct, maintain and repair works and provide drainage.[16]—In devising a plan for the construction of public sewers, the public authorities discharge a quasi judicial duty, involving the exercise of judgment and discretion with regard to general convenience, which is not reviewable in a private suit for damages because of alleged error.[17] The public authorities do not owe an individual the duty of devising a plan which will afford him sufficient drainage.[18] In the absence of want of good faith, or negligence, there is no liability for damages resulting from a change in the course of a sewer.[19] The necessary destruction of a private drain in the construction of a street improvement is damnum absque injuria.[20] Nor is the contractor employed by the city liable unless he does the work in a negligent manner or in such a way as to create a nuisance.[21]

It is held in some states that in the absence of a general statute or special charter provisions, a city has no power in its corporate capacity to lay out and

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1635.

12. Pub. Acts 1899, p. 465. Kenyon v. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County [Mich.] 101 N. W. 851.

13. Under Comp. St. §§ 3860, 4356. Kenyon v. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County [Mich.] 101 N. W. 851.

14, 15. In re McRae [Minn.] 100 N. W. 384.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1636, 1637.

Note: The authorities are not in accord on the question of liability of municipal authorities for damages arising from the construction of sewers and drains. It is usually held that in devising plans for such works the authorities exercise a quasi judicial discretion and that the municipality is not answerable for an error of judgment, whereby the system proves insufficient to drain certain lands. Bates v. Westborough, 151 Mass. 174, 23 N. E. 1070, 7 L. R. A. 156; Garratt v. Canandaigua, 135 N. Y. 436, 32 N. E. 142; Paine v. Dehhi, 116 N. Y. 224, 22 N. E. 405, 5 L. R. A. 797; Denver v. Capelli, 4 Colo. 25, 34 Am. Rep. 62. But the contrary has been held. Litchfield v. Southworth, 67 Ill. App. 398. An action will lie for the imperfect, negligent, unskillful execution of the plan adopted. Little Rock v. Willis, 27 Ark. 572.

A city is liable where the construction and maintenance of an improper system in accordance with defective plans create a nuisance, resulting in special damage to a private owner. Seymour v. Cummins, 119 Ind. 148, 21 N. E. 549, 5 L. R. A. 126; King v. Kansas City, 58 Kan. 334, 49 P. 88. Particularly where the municipality has had notice of the defect and has failed to remedy it. Tate v. St. Paul, 56 Minn. 527, 58 N. W. 158; Selfert v. Brooklyn, 101 N. Y. 136, 4 N. E. 321, 54 Am. Rep. 664.

For negligence in carrying out a plan, a city is liable, since it then acts in a ministerial capacity. Montgomery v. Gilmer, 33 Ala. 116, 70 Am. Dec. 562; Chicago v. Seben, 165 Ill. 371, 46 N. E. 244; Thurston v. St. Joseph, 51 Mo. 510, 11 Am. Rep. 463.

For extended discussion of duty and liability of municipalities with respect to drainage, see note to Georgetown v. Com. [Ky.] 61 L. R. A. 673, from which the above citations are taken.

17. Owner who connected his cellar with sewer could not recover for flooding of cellar owing to lack of sufficient fall and capacity in the sewer. Harrington v. Woodbridge Tp., 70 N. J. Law, 28, 56 A. 141. The selection and adoption of the general plan of a system of drainage or sewage is a matter of discretion with municipal authorities; the exercise of such discretion does not render the municipality liable for damages, nor is it subject to judicial review. District of Columbia v. Cropley, 23 App. D. C. 232.

18. Harrington v. Woodbridge Tp., 70 N. J. Law, 28, 56 A. 141.

19. District of Columbia v. Cropley, 23 App. D. C. 232. The course of a sewer having long been established before the conveyance of certain lots on the Potomac river by the District of Columbia, the purchasers have no cause of action against the district for the discharge of sewage in the river, even though the discharge had been increased. Id.

20, 21. Bennett v. Incorporated Town of Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349.

construct drains and sewers in such a manner as to create any legal liability upon the city for a nuisance created thereby.[22] But other courts hold that municipalities are liable for construction of drains or sewers which cause an actual invasion of private property.[23] Where street commissioners, acting under statutory authority, built a conduit, not only to render a highway safe and convenient, but also to drain a tract of land privately owned, the city was liable for damages caused by surface water thrown on private land in the course of construction.[24] A property owner so injured is not prevented from maintaining an action in tort by the existence of the statutory remedy of petition to recover damages.[25] Whether conditions which arose in the course of construction of a conduit by sections, which resulted in damage to private owners, were such as could reasonably have been foreseen and provided against, is a question of fact for a jury.[26] The construction of a street in such a manner as to cause water to accumulate on private property does not render the city liable for personal injury and expense, the city being liable only for damage to property;[27] and the city is liable for damage of the latter kind only for negligent construction.[28] A municipality will not be permitted to carry out a scheme for the collection and diversion of surface water in such a manner as to certainly cast it upon lands of a private owner, to his great damage.[29]

A sanitary district is liable to riparian owners for damages caused by an improvement which lowers the water of a navigable stream.[30] The measure of damages recoverable in such case is the difference in the value of the abutting property before and after the making of the improvement.[31]

A city is liable in damages for failure to keep sewers in repair.[32] To entitle a plaintiff to a recovery of damages against a town for failure to maintain a public drain in a state of repair, under the Maine statute,[33] he must show that the drain in question was a public drain or sewer, legally established by act of the municipal officers;[34] that the plaintiff was a person entitled to drainage through it;[35] that the defendant had failed to maintain the sewer or to keep it in repair so as to afford sufficient and suitable flow for all drainage entitled to pass through it;[36] that the plaintiff suffered injury from the city's neglect.[37] Adverse, uninterrupted and exclusive use of a culvert by a city for a period of fifty years, the culvert being made an essential part of the sewer system, gives the city title and

22. No statute giving city such power in Maine, but Rev. St. 1903, c. 21, § 2, gives such power to municipal officers. Hence act of city ultra vires and created no liability. Atwood v. Biddeford [Me.] 58 A. 417.

23. See authorities cited in note, supra.

24. Where procedure is under St. 1897, p. 396, c. 426. Westcott v. Boston, 186 Mass. 540, 72 N. E. 89.

25. Provided by St. 1897, pp. 397, 398, c. 426, §§ 2-5. Westcott v. Boston, 186 Mass. 540, 72 N. E. 89.

26. Westcott v. Boston, 186 Mass. 540, 72 N. E. 89.

27, 28. Taylor v. Houston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 260.

29. Authorities enjoined from carrying out a proposed drainage scheme. Fuller v. Belleville Tp. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 176.

30. Defendant liable under Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 42, for lowering water in South Branch of Chicago River by connecting its drainage channels with said river. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118.

31. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118.

32. Overflow of sewer into cellar, caused by heavy rainfall. Burnside v. Everett [Mass.] 71 N. E. 82.

33. Rev. St. c. 21, § 18. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

34. Held that drain in question was not legally established. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

35. Not a mere trespasser, but one who had fulfilled the requirements of law which were conditions precedent to the enjoyment of the right of drainage. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

36. On this point it must be shown that the damage was caused by an actual failure to maintain, and not by a defect in the original system established by judicial act of the municipal authorities. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

37. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

places upon it the duty of maintaining it in a safe condition.[38] The fact that the collapse of the culvert was caused by the improper construction of a wall by another corporation does not excuse the city.[39] Nor is the city relieved from liability by showing that a prior owner of the property damaged would have been estopped to claim damages, or was guilty of contributory negligence, without further proof that by covenant in the chain of title, such estoppel or contributory negligence runs with the land.[40] The owner of land abutting on a public alley who builds a blind ditch in the alley for his own use, without the permission or consent of the public authorities, must keep it in repair; the duty to do so does not rest on the municipality.[41]

Liability for improper operation.[42]—A city which assumes control over a creek, using it as the main trunk of a sewer system, is liable for damages resulting from an overflow caused by want of due care to prevent such injury.[43] The city is not excused from liability on the ground that the overflow was caused by an act of God, though the overflow occurred during a freshet, when negligent use of the creek as a sewer contributed to the result.[44] Legislative permission to use the creek does not affect liability for its negligent use,[45] nor would the fact that the overflow resulted from an error of judgment by the officials in carrying out a plan of sewerage constitute a defense.[46] Damages recoverable for injuries caused by the overflow of a creek used as a trunk sewer by a city are not limited to such as accrued from the deposit of sewage on the land, but include such as were caused by the water independent of the use of the creek as a sewer.[47] A city is liable for damages caused by the overflow of a sewer as a result of adding territory to that intended to be drained by the sewer as originally constructed.[48] The measure of damages to property caused by the overflow of a sewer is the depreciation in rental value.[49] Damages for successive overflows are continuous and may be recovered in one action up to the time of commencement of the other action.[50]

A city which collects sewage and discharges it in a volume into a creek is liable to a lower riparian owner for damages thereby caused to his land.[51] Such owner is entitled to compensation for the depreciation in the market value of the land, and for the destruction of its comfortable use and occupation, and for actual loss of rents, if these several elements of damage are shown.[52] He is not required to prove special damages in order to recover at least nominal damages.[53] Under the statutes by which the city of Worcester is permitted to discharge its sewage into Mill Brook, the city is not liable to a riparian owner for failure to purify the sewage before so discharging it, in the absence of a showing that such purification could have been accomplished by careful construction, without the construction of a plant therefor.[54] Nor does the statute requiring construction of a plant for the purpose within four years create a liability for failure to construct a plant adequate to accomplish the purpose, since that statute imposes a governmental function.[55]

38. City of Richmond v. Gallego Mills Co., 102 Va. 165, 45 S. E. 877. Such acquisition is not forbidden by a charter provision authorizing the making of improvements in "streets, alleys or sidewalks," though the culvert is not within such limits. Id.

39, 40. City of Richmond v. Gallego Mills Co., 102 Va. 165, 45 S. E. 877.

41. Owner liable for injury to child caused by defect in covering of ditch. Covington Saw Mill & Mfg. Co. v. Drexilius [Ky.] 87 S. W. 266.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1637.

43, 44, 45, 46, 47. O'Donnell v. Syracuse, 102 App. Div. 80, 92 N. Y. S. 555.

48, 49, 50. Ahrens v. Rochester, 97 App. Div. 480, 90 N. Y. S. 744.

51, 52, 53. Smith v. Sedalia, 182 Mo. 1, 81 S. W. 165.

54. St. 1867, c. 106, p. 541. Harrington v. Worcester, 186 Mass. 594, 72 N. E. 326.

55. Under St. 1886, p. 309, c. 331, providing that the city should within four years erect a plant for the purification of sewage before its discharge into Mill Brook, to prevent creation of a nuisance or injury to the

A county has no right to collect surface water either on the public highway or from the lands of another, and discharge it upon the lands of one where it was not wont to go.[56] Persons whose lands are damaged by water so unlawfully cast upon them may abate the nuisance by filling up the ditch.[57] The owner injured is not estopped to take such action by his having previously enlarged the ditch, other owners having done nothing on the strength of such enlargement which they would not otherwise have done.[58] The act of the injured owner in filling the ditch being done during the period of limitations defeats the claim of an easement in the drain by adverse user.[59] A village which discharged sewage into a sink hole on private land under a license from the owners was not liable for resulting damages until after the license was revoked.[60]

The sanitary district of Chicago having been authorized by the state and the secretary of war to connect its drainage canal with the Chicago river, its use of the river is lawful, and the district is not liable for damages resulting from such use, so long as it is reasonable and within the authority conferred.[61]

Whether a claim for damages caused by improper operation of a sewer must be presented to the council before an action may be maintained,[62] and the sufficiency of the notice, when required, depends upon the local charter.[63]

§ 6. Private and combined drainage.[64]—It is provided by statute in Illinois that where the owner of lower lands connects a drain with one built by the owner of upper lands, the connected drain is one for the mutual benefit of all the lands interested, and none of the parties have the right, without the consent of the others, to fill up, interfere with, or obstruct, the drain so constructed.[65] The mutual license, consent or agreement under which such drain is constructed need not be in writing, but may be oral and may be inferred from the acquiescence of the parties interested.[66] The statute provides that the right to revoke a parol license shall be forever barred unless exercised within one year from the time that the statute went into effect.[67] One party having become vested with a perpetual right to have such drain maintained through failure of the other to exercise his right to revoke the license, that right cannot be lost or forfeited through a mere oral agreement.[68]

§ 7. Obstruction of drains.[69]—The right of drainage through a natural watercourse or natural waterway is a natural easement appurtenant to the land of every individual through whose land such watercourse runs, and every owner of land along such watercourse is bound to take notice of the easement possessed by other owners similarly situated.[70] There is a continuing duty resting upon railroads at common law to keep waterways over which they cross in such condition as not to interfere with public requirements.[71] This includes the duty of making public health. Harrington v. Worcester, 186 Mass. 594, 72 N. E. 326.

56, 57, 58, 59. Schofield v. Cooper [Iowa] 102 N. W. 110.

60. Sink hole held not to have been dedicated to village by co-tenants, but a license to use the same granted. Sherman Lime Co. v. Glens Falls, 91 N. Y. S. 994.

61. Creation of a current of 1¼ miles an hour in the river does not make district liable for delay in transportation at congested points in the stream. Corrigan Transp. Co. v. Sanitary Dist., 125 F. 611.

62. Not necessary in Rochester. Ahrens v. Rochester, 97 App. Div. 480, 90 N. Y. S. 744.

63. Notice of a claim for damages caused by overflow of a creek used as a trunk sewer was presented to the acting president and clerk of the common council of Syracuse within the time prescribed. Held, a sufficient compliance with § 461 of the charter requiring presentation to the council. O'Donnell v. Syracuse, 102 App. Div. 80, 92 N. Y. S. 555.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1638.

65. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 772, c. 42, pars. 187, 189. Dorman v. Droll [Ill.] 74 N. E. 152.

66, 67, 68. Dorman v. Droll [Ill.] 74 N. E. 152.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1639.

70, 71, 72, 73. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

changes in bridges or culverts to accommodate the increased flow in such waterways caused by artificial means.[72] Hence a statute requiring changes in railroad bridges to accommodate an increased flowage caused by improvements made under the farm drainage law is merely declaratory of a common law duty, and does not provide for the taking of property without due process of law or without compensation, within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition.[73] The provisions of the Illinois act giving assessors and county clerks power to impose penalties on lands whose owners have failed to remove impediments in waterways are unconstitutional because imposing judicial duties on ministerial officers and providing for the taking of property without due process of law.[74] One who has permitted a city to construct a sewer outlet on his land cannot obstruct the outlet and thereby injure persons who have connected their residences with it, on the faith of representations made by him and the city that they had a right to make such connections, even though the sewer is a nuisance, and was constructed under a promise that it would not be a nuisance.[75]

SHAM PLEADINGS; SHELLEY'S CASE; SHERIFF'S SALES, see latest topical index.

SHERIFFS AND CONSTABLES.

§ 1. The Office; Election or Appointment;
§ 2. Powers, Duties, and Privileges (1442).
§ 3. Compensation (1444).
§ 4. Deputies, Undersheriffs, and Bailiffs (1445).
§ 5. Liabilities (1445).
A. In General (1445).
B. Failure to Execute Process or Insufficient Execution (1446).
C. Failure to Return Process or False Return (1446).
D. Failure to Take Security (1447).
E. Wrongful Levy or Sale (1447).
F. Misappropriation of Proceeds (1448).
§ 6. Liability on Bonds (1448).

§ 1. The office; election or appointment; qualifications.[76]—A constable who performs official duties after the expiration of his term is a de facto officer until his successor is chosen and has qualified.[77] The presumption of regularity applies to the acts of de facto officer.[78] Failure to comply with a directory statute requiring filing of the appointment of a deputy sheriff does not invalidate his appointment nor official acts.[79] Constables appointed by a town may, according to the nature of the particular duty involved, be agents for whose acts the town is liable, or they may be simply public officers for whose acts the town is not liable.[80] In Florida, by statute, the sheriff of the county in which the supreme court is held is the sheriff of the court,[81] and all county sheriffs are ex officio his deputies,[82] and are required to execute all process to be executed in their respective counties.[83]

§ 2. Powers, duties, and privileges.[84]—The duties of a police department as

74. Drainage Act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 42), §§ 200, 201, are invalid. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 638, 72 N. E. 725.

75. Such owner is estopped from obstructing the outlet after such acts. City of Chillicothe v. Bryan, 103 Mo. App. 409, 77 S. W. 465.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1640.

77. After the expiration of his term where he acts officially under a colorable but invalid appointment. Hammondsport Law, L. & Coll. Ass'n v. Kinzell, 43 Misc. 505, 89 N. Y. S. 534.

78. Where a deputy sheriff is shown to have been at least a de facto officer, the presumption of regularity with reference to his acts attaches without proof of his appointment by official record. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837.

79. Orchard v. Peake, 69 Kan. 510, 77 P. 281.

80. Mains v. Inhabitants of Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87. In committing a prisoner to a town lockup as a place of detention, he acts for the state and not for the town from which he receives his appointment. Id. Police officers in the preservation of the peace are not agents of the borough; their powers and duties are derived from the state to which their primary responsibility is due, and the borough is not liable for their omissions or commissions, malfeasance or nonfeasance in the performance of their duties. Miller v. Hastings Borough, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 569.

81, 82, 83. Johnson v. Price [Fla.] 36 So. 1031.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1640.

NOTE. Officer paying judgment or exedefined by the general assembly cannot be restricted nor enlarged by a municipal corporation.[85] The right of the sheriff to the charge and care of the county jail and to the custody of the prisoners therein confined is a statutory and not a constitutional, common law, or immemorial right attached to the office.[86] A sheriff in possession of personal property by virtue of an order of attachment may retain possession until the lien acquired thereby is lost, the property disposed of by force of it, or the lien is satisfied;[87] but a right to maintain action for the possession of things attached by him cannot be invoked after the attachment is discharged.[88] In Colorado a constable alone can execute writs of execution issued by a justice of the peace in a civil action, unless another person is deputed by the justice to do so;[89] but he has no power to appoint a substitute or deputy to execute it,[90] and an execution by such deputy is void.[91] A de facto marshal of a municipal corporation may make an arrest.[92] A constitutional provision against deprivation of liberty without due process does not preclude a state police officer from making an arrest of a seaman on a foreign vessel for insubordination.[93] A police officer may be restrained cution: There are a number of cases holding that a judgment or execution cannot ordinarily be kept alive in the hands of the sheriff for his benefit when he has paid the same without any agreement or assignment. Boren v. McGehee, 6 Port. [Ala.] 432, 31 Am. Dec. 695; Roundtree v. Weaver, 8 Ala. 314; Whittier v. Heminway, 22 Me. 238, 38 Am. Dec. 309; Morris v. Lake, 9 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 521, 48 Am. Dec. 724; Reed v. Pruyn, 7 Johns. [N. Y.] 426, 5 Am. Dec. 287; Harwell v. Worsham, 2 Humph. [Tenn.] 524, 37 Am. Dec. 572. According to Lintz v. Thompson, 1 Head [Tenn.] 456, 73 Am. Dec. 182, the voluntary payment of an execution by the officer holding it, without a transfer of the judgment to him, operates not only as a satisfaction of the execution, but as an extinguishment of the judgment, notwithstanding the officer, by reason of his neglect, had rendered himself liable under the statute to a judgment on motion for the amount. But in Finn v. Stratton, 5 J. J. Marsh. [Ky.] 364, it is held that where an execution is paid by a sheriff who has rendered himself liable by his official defalcation in regard to it, he is entitled to the interest of the plaintiff in the demand, and may use the name of the plaintiff to enforce it against all the defendants in the execution. See, also, Allen v. Holden, 9 Mass. 133, 6 Am. Dec. 46; Denson v. Ham [Tex. App.] 16 S. W. 182; Hall v. Taylor, 18 W. Va. 544. In Heilig v. Lemly, 74 N. C. 250, 21 Am. Rep. 489, a sheriff neglected to enforce an execution until after it was spent, and then paid the amount due thereon, and took an assignment for his own benefit to a third person. It was held that the judgment was not extinguished, and that an alias execution might issue. The court, referring to the case of Reed v. Pruyn, 7 Johns. [N. Y.] 426, 5 Am. Dec. 287, which has been widely cited to a contrary doctrine, says: "We think that in the subsequent cases in New York, and others elsewhere that have followed this case, the opinion of the eminent judge (Kent) has been misconceived, and an extension given to it which was not intended, and which cannot be supported by reason. An opinion applicable to a special case has been converted into a general and arbitrary rule." When a sheriff, under a void execution, collects the amount of a valid judgment, and pays it to the judgment plaintiff, and afterward the judgment defendant recovers a judgment against the officer for the money so collected, the officer is subrogated to the rights of the first judgment creditor, and he may, at his option, have execution on the judgment or offset it against the one obtained against him. Gillette v. Hill, 102 Ind. 531, 1 N. E. 551. And when personalty is sold under execution after the judgment has been satisfied, the purchaser being chargeable with such satisfaction, the officer or his sureties may be entitled to the money bid or taken in at the sale, on being compelled by the debtor to repay the value of the property sold. Morgan v. Oberly, 85 Ill. 74. A sheriff, after satisfying a judgment recovered against him because of his deputy failing to pay money collected on execution, may be subrogated to the rights of the deputy in a judgment obtained by him against a bank for the sum collected on the execution and deposited in the bank, where the deputy and his sureties are insolvent. Downer v. South Royalton Bank, 39 Vt. 25. See note to American Bonding Co. v. National, etc., Bank [Md.] 99 Am. St. Rep. 505.

85. City of Cleveland v. Payne [Ohio] 74 N. E. 177.

86. Conferred by Rev. Code 1852, p. 421, c. 54, § 1. McDaniel v. Armstrong [Del.] 59 A. 865.

87. First Nat. Bank of Hennessey v. Hesser, 14 Okl. 115, 77 P. 36.

88. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 655. O'Brien v. Manhattan R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 69.

89. Mills' Ann. St. § 4668. Stacy v. Bernard [Colo. App.] 78 P. 615.

90, 91. Stacy v. Bernard [Colo. App.] 78 P. 615.

92. McDuffie v. State, 121 Ga. 580, 49 S. E. 708.

93. Arrest made at request of the consul of the foreign nation to which the vessel belonged, pursuant to treaty provision. Dallemagne v. Noisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

from performing an act in discharge of his duty which comes within the nature of a trespass.[94]

§ 3. Compensation.[95]—A sheriff may refuse to levy any attachment or writ until his fees are tendered or secured.[96] A constable appointed to attend the grand jury is entitled to his per diem for each day he performs any bona fide service for such body, whether the jury is in session or not.[97] An officer is not entitled to compensation from public funds for services performed for the benefit of a private enterprise,[98] nor to fees for a service he does not perform.[99] He is not entitled to any compensation for services rendered the public unless expressly so provided by statute.[1] Especially where he receives a salary in lieu of fees;[2] but generally his salary does not preclude him from the right to fees in civil cases.[3] Fees are purely the creature of statute, and an officer claiming them must show a claim within a statutory provision,[4] and where he accepts a provision for compensation which he has asked the court to make, he is precluded from making a claim for fees.[5]

Where a sheriff has notice that his office will be changed from a fee to a salary basis during his term, there is no violation of a provision against diminishing his salary during his term.[6]

A sheriff is entitled to charge his reasonable expenditures in caring for attached property,[7] or to make a reasonable charge for his own services if he performs the duty himself,[8] but he is entitled to no more.[9] One who contests the reasonableness of his charge has the burden to show that it is unreasonable.[10] Where he is under a duty to collect certain fees and turn them over to a city, he is entitled to recover from the city, money necessarily expended by him in an attempt to collect them.[11] In New York a sheriff is entitled to his poundage without an order of the court,[12]

94. Hale v. Burns, 91 N. Y. S. 929.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1641.

96. Under Mansf. Dig. § 3250 [Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 2234]. Tully v. Cutler [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 714.

97. Connors v. Shelby County [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 598.

98. Nerlien v. Village of Brooten [Minn.] 102 N. W. 867.

99. Under Act July 11, 1901 (P. L. 663), a mere offer to serve subpoenas does not entitle him to fees. Deitrick v. Northumberland Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 22.

1. In Minnesota he is not entitled to a fee for each execution issued upon a personal property tax judgment delivered to him and returned by him unsatisfied. Appeal of Justus [Minn.] 101 N. W. 943.

2. Act 1902, p. 1078, § 4, giving a sheriff a salary and repealing all acts inconsistent therewith, gives him a salary in lieu of fees. Gilreath v. Greenville County [S. C.] 50 S. E. 18.

3. A sheriff who receives a fixed annual stipend for services rendered the county and is also entitled to fees for services rendered in civil cases is not a salaried officer within the meaning of a statute entitling all but salaried sheriffs to a certain fee for each jury cause on the calendar. People v. Leech, 43 Misc. 435, 89 N. Y. S. 178.

4. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3246, allowing a sheriff $1.25 per day for keeping a prisoner while undergoing an examination preparatory to commitment, he is not entitled to that allowance for keeping one arrested under a capias and in jail awaiting trial. State v. Allen [Mo.] 86 S. W. 144. Under Act of 1868, a sheriff is not entitled to a fee of fifty cents for the discharge of prisoners other than vagrants, from his custody. Dougherty v. Cumberland, Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 610.

5. The sheriff procured an order of court fixing the wages of a keeper of malefactors which provided "this compensation covers all fees on the commitment of vagrancy." Held, the sheriff was not entitled to a statutory fee. Dougherty v. Cumberland County, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 610.

6. Statute enacted prior to election to take effect on the completion of a workhouse. McDaniel v. Armstrong [Del.] 59 A. 865.

7. Worley v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 794. A sheriff is entitled to his necessary expenses of keeping attached property until after the judgment. Alexander v. Wilson [Cal.] 79 P. 274.

8. Worley v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 794.

9. Charge held unreasonable. Worley v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 794.

10. Worley v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 794.

11. Laws 1890, p. 963, c. 523; Laws 1891, p. 645, c. 315; Laws 1892, p. 868, c. 418; Laws 1894, p. 959, c. 477, providing that poundage fees collected by the sheriff of New York county shall be paid by him monthly to the city treasurer. Dos Passos v. New York, 90 N. Y. S. 398. Money expended by the sheriff of New York County in an attempt to collect poundage fees which were to be paid into the city treasury of New York can be recovered only from the city. Id.

and may recover, after the expiration of his term, fees and poundage in an attachment concluded during his term;[13] but his right to retain property levied on until his fees and poundage are paid gives him no right of action for poundage.[14]

§ 4. Deputies, undersheriffs, and bailiffs.[15]—In an action by a sheriff on his deputy's bond, the complaint should distinctly allege wherein the deputy has failed in his duty.[16]

§ 5. Liabilities. A. In general.[17]—An officer is protected in the execution of process where it appears on the face of the process that the court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter, and the process in other respects shows no want of authority,[18] but not otherwise.[19] Thus, an officer is not liable for false imprisonment for making an arrest under a warrant,[20] but is if he makes an unjustifiable arrest without a warrant,[21] or on a warrant not fair on its face,[22] or if in making an arrest he commits an assault;[23] and where he seizes property without a warrant, he is held to a strict compliance with the law authorizing such proceeding.[24] His refusal to execute a warrant delivered to him for that purpose is indictable.[25] A sheriff is required to exercise only reasonable care in keeping safely property in his custody,[26] and is required to use at least reasonable diligence in executing writs.[27] By statute in Montana, a sheriff need not deliver property levied on to a third person who claims it if the execution plaintiff gives an indemnity bond.[28] Where title to property levied on is in dispute, he may require an indemnity bond prior to selling it.[29] Under a statute providing for an attachment bond to protect claimants of attached property, a sheriff cannot demand any indemnity beyond such bond as a condition of levying an attachment,[30] and where a counter affidavit is filed to the levy of a distress warrant, the only bond the levying officer may take is one for the eventual condemnation money.[31] If the bond taken is conditioned otherwise and loss is sustained by the plaintiff in the distress warrant, the officer is responsible.[32] Where, because of a sheriff's negligence in failing to file a deed of assignment to him, the

12. Under Laws 1890, p. 936, c. 523, § 17, subd. 2, as amended by Laws 1892, p. 868, c. 418. And the amount in attachment is governed by § 7. O'Brien v. Obel, 92 N. Y. S. 333.

13. O'Brien v. Obel, 92 N. Y. S. 333.

14. Under Laws 1890, p. 940, c. 523, as amended by Laws 1892, p. 868, c. 418. O'Brien v. Manhattan R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 69.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1642. Right of officer to act by deputy, see ante, § 2.

16. Berrie v. Taylor, 117 Ga. 56, 43 S. E. 411.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1643. See, also, False Imprisonment, 3 Curr. L. 1417.

18. To assess the costs of habeas corpus proceedings against a sheriff who has lawfully performed his duty when an order of discharge is entered thereon is erroneous. Magerstadt v. People, 105 Ill. App. 316. Process regular on its face is protection to the officer who executes it. Casselini v. Booth [Vt.] 59 A. 833.

19. Process showed want of jurisdiction. Casselini v Booth [Vt.] 59 A. 833. A warrant void on its face is no protection to him. Adams v. Allen [Me.] 59 A. 62.

20. Williams v. Sewell, 121 Ga. 665, 49 S. E. 732.

21. Evidence held to show that there was no necessity for or legality in the arrest made, and that plaintiff was entitled to some damages. Smith v. Dulion, 113 La. 882, 37 So. 864.

22. A warrant issued on complaint of one "in his own proper person and on oath of office," but not stating his office, is neither a complaint by an "officer" nor one by a "citizen." Casselini v. Booth [Vt.] 59 A. 833.

23. Is liable on his official bond in damages. Carlisle v. Silver Creek [Miss.] 37 So. 1015.

24. Adams v. Allen [Me.] 59 A. 62.

25. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383.

26. Question as to whether he had used reasonable care in failing to execute a writ of venditioni exponas held for the jury. O'Bryan Bros. v. Webb [Ala.] 37 So. 935. A complaint for failure to execute a writ of venditioni exponas must allege that the failure was negligent or wrongful. Id.

27. Johnson v. Price [Fla.] 36 So. 1031. Evidence that a sheriff had a reasonable time to execute a writ of venditioni exponas before the destruction of the property by fire establishes a prima facie case against him. O'Bryan Bros. v. Webb [Ala.] 37 So. 935.

28. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 906, 1220. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

29. Mayberry v. Whittier, 144 Cal. 322, 78 P. 16.

30. Tully v. Cutler [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 714.

31, 32. Hardy v. Poss, 120 Ga. 385, 47 S. E. 947.

property of the insolvent is lost to the creditors, the filing with and approval of claims by the county court is not a prerequisite to the maintenance of an action for his negligence.[33] The measure of damages in such case is the amount the creditor would have received had the assignment not been invalidated.[34] If properly pleaded it may be shown in mitigation that other creditors are entitled to participate in the assets of the insolvent.[35]

(§ 5) B. Failure to execute process or insufficient execution.[36]—An officer cannot justify a failure to execute a warrant by showing that the magistrate from whom it issued orally requested him not to execute it. Such fact, however, may be considered in mitigation.[37] A sheriff is not liable for failure to execute a judgment where the execution debtor was adjudged a bankrupt within four months of the rendition of the judgment,[38] even though declared so by statute.[39] A statute providing a summary remedy for failure to execute process is not void as depriving him of a right of jury trial.[40] The negligence of a sheriff by which an attempted levy of a writ was rendered ineffectual does not render him liable to one who has contributed to the result by his own negligence.[41]

In an action for failure to execute or return final process, there is a presumption that plaintiff has been damaged in an amount equal to the execution;[42] but in an action for damages for failure to execute an attachment or other mesne process, there is no such presumption.[43]

A release of the goods seized under writ is an abandonment thereof.[44]

(§ 5) C. Failure to return process or false return.[45]—The return of a sheriff showing or attempting to show constructive service of process is strictly construed.[46] A sheriff may sign a return of process served by his deputy,[47] and he may by leave of court amend a return after the expiration of his term.[48] A sheriff is not liable for a failure to return an execution if his omission to perform his duty is due to conduct or instructions of the attorney of the judgment creditor.[49] That the sheriff at first refused to levy an execution because of the failure of a judgment creditor to furnish an indemnity bond is no defense to an action for a false return of nulla bona to the execution.[50] Under a statute providing that execution may issue to any county, it is no defense to an action for a false return that two executions issued the same day and that the property was taken by the sheriff of the other county,[51]

33, 34, 35. Huddleson v. Polk [Neb.] 102 N. W. 464.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1644.

37. Police officer. People v. McAdoo, 90 N. Y. S. 669.

38. Mohr v. Mattox, 120 Ga. 962, 48 S. E. 410.

39. Though a statute requires a sheriff to execute all process and orders and renders him liable to a judgment creditor for failure to levy on or sell property of the debtor, he is justified in obeying an order of the bankruptcy court restraining a sale when the attachment was levied within four months of proceedings to declare the debtor bankrupt [St. 1897, c. 277, pp. 480, 481, and Nat. Bankr. Act 1898, c. 541, § 67]. Alexander v. Wilson, 144 Cal. 5, 77 P. 706.

40. Rev. St. 1892, § 1250. Johnson v. Price [Fla.] 36 So. 1031.

41. Or by the negligence of his attorney. Parrott v. McDonald [Neb.] 100 N. W. 132.

42. Defendant has the burden of showing that plaintiff was not injured. Beck & G. Hardware Co. v. Knight, 121 Ga. 287, 48 S. E. 930.

43. Plaintiff must allege and prove actual damages. Beck & G. Hardware Co. v. Knight, 121 Ga. 287, 48 S. E. 930.

44. Surrender to a receiver in bankruptcy of goods seized on a writ of replevin before he has made his return. In re Hymes Buggy & Implement Co., 130 F. 977.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1645.

46. Holtschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 107 Mo. App. 381, 81 S. W. 489.

47. Return of service signed by the sheriff when the service was made by a deputy is irregular but not invalid. Orchard v. Peake, 69 Kan. 510, 77 P. 281.

48. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

49. Under Kirby's Dig. § 3286, imposing a liability for a failure to return an execution on or before the return day. Bickham v. Kosminsky [Ark.] 86 S. W. 292.

50. Such a defense involves a contradiction of the return. People v. Finch [Colo. App.] 76 P. 1120.

51. Mill's Ann. St. § 2337. People v. Finch [Colo. App.] 76 P. 1120.

and under a statute declaring execution a lien when the writ is delivered to the officer, an officer who receives the writ and takes possession of the property cannot defend an action for a false return of nulla bona on the ground that a few days later a receiver was appointed for the debtor and ordered to take charge of all his property.[52] Failure of sureties on a bail bond to surrender their principal as provided by statute may be considered in mitigation of a sheriff's liability for a false return to an execution issued against the principal.[53] A recovery against the sheriff for a false return bars a suit to set aside a default judgment based on such return.[54]

(§ 5) D. Failure to take security.[55]

(§ 5) E. Wrongful levy or sale.[56]—An officer making an unlawful levy of attachment is a trespasser,[57] and is liable where he seizes property not subject to execution and which furnishes notice of such fact,[58] or which belongs to another,[59] or which is subject to a paramount lien,[60] and the fact that one injured by such wrongful levy may sue the creditor in whose favor the sale is made does not relieve him.[61] Where the taking amounts to a conversion and the goods are damaged while in possession of the officer, the owner is not bound to accept a return of them but may recover their value.[62]

Where an officer seizes property after being warned that it does not belong to the judgment debtor,[63] or where he seizes commingled goods after a stranger to the execution has designated the portion which belongs to him,[64] replevin may be maintained without a prior demand; but otherwise if the stranger does not designate his goods.[65] Failure to make a statutory demand is no defense if such demand would have been unavailing.[66]

A complaint in an action for wrongful levy need not particularize the property.[67]

A sheriff who seizes goods in the hands of a vendee on the ground that the sale to him was fraudulent has, in replevin by such vendee, the burden of proving the fraud;[68] but where one claiming to be the owner of goods at the time they were 52. The property levied on did not thereby pass to the receiver. People v. Finch [Colo. App.] 76 P. 1120.

53. Prividl v. O'Brien, 91 N. Y. S. 324.

54. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

55, 56. See 2 Curr. L. 1645.

57. When he levies an attachment after the return day. Jordan v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 961. A constable, who at the instance of a landlord breaks into the room of a boarder and seizes and sells a piano belonging to the boarder. Oliver v. Wheeler, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 5.

Evidence insufficient: In an action for conversion for selling exempt property, the plaintiff's own case held to show that there had been no sale of such property. Lester v. Addison [Mich.] 102 N. W. 643.

58. Cattle issued to an Indian by the United States and bearing the brand, "I. D." It is immaterial that the cattle were in the possession of the Indian woman's husband. McKnight v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659. In an action on a sheriff's bond to recover the amount of an exemption demanded by an execution debtor, evidence held sufficient to show that the defendant was sheriff when the sale was made. Fowler v. State, 99 Md. 594, 58 A. 444.

59. Evidence held to show that one's claim to property taken on execution against another was bona fide. State v. Steele & Co., 108 Mo. App. 363, 83 S. W. 1023. He is liable on a general clause in his bond "for the faithful discharge of his dutles" or equivalent general words for a levy on the goods of one person under an execution against another. Frankenstein v. Cummisky, 92 N. Y. S. 708. Evidence held to sustain a conversion by a sheriff of goods located in a houseboat levied on. Lucas v. Sheridan [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1077.

60. A constable who takes property under execution with notice that it is subject to a landlord's lien is liable for damages caused [Code 1896, § 3070]. Burton v. Dangerfield [Ala.] 37 So. 350.

61. Burton v. Dangerfield [Ala.] 37 So. 350.

62. Lucas v. Sheridan [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1077.

63. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

64. Evidence held to show that goods were sufficiently designated. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

65. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

66. Richey v. Haley, 138 Cal. 441, 71 P. 499.

67. Rasco v. Jefferson [Ala.] 38 So. 246.

68. Williams v. Finlayson [Fla.] 38 So. 50. Where the sheriff denies a claimant's levied on brings action against the sheriff, he has the burden of showing a valid sale from the execution debtor.[69] This burden is not shifted by a mere showing that the sheriff had notice of his claim at the time of the levy.[70]

An officer's notice of rights in the property superior to those of the judgment creditor may be shown by the fact that he was indemnified,[71] or by his own declarations at the time of making the levy.[72] All evidence tending to show in whom the ownership of the property rests is admissible,[73] and ownership is a fact to which a witness may testify.[74] Where an officer justifies on the ground that the property was taken on mortgage foreclosure, the mortgage and foreclosure proceedings are admissible.[75] Evidence not material to any issue and which tends to arouse the sympathy of the jury is inadmissible.[76]

Where he sells goods under execution with notice that they are subject to a superior lien, the measure of damages is the amount of the lien,[77] and where he sells goods which belong to another, the measure of damages is the value of the goods,[78] which may be shown by evidence of the market value of the goods levied on and similar goods at the time and place of levy;[78] but the sale under execution of a homestead does not render him liable except for the costs of removing an apparent cloud on title.[80]

(§ 5) F. Misappropriation of proceeds.[81]—One seeking to recover a penalty for failure of an officer to pay over funds received from sale of goods unlawfully attached must establish that the retention is willful and corrupt.[82]

§ 6. Liability on bonds.[83]—The official bond of a sheriff or constable must be executed and delivered.[84] A bond may be proved by a duly certified transcript of the record,[85] or by the testimony of the officer testifying in his own behalf.[86]

A constable's bond running to the county judge instead of to the governor as required by statute is enforceable, despite the defect,[87] and failure of the county ownership he may cross-examine claimant's agent as to the particulars of the sale under which he claims. State v. Stone [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 950.

69, 70. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

71. Burton v. Dangerfield [Ala.] 37 So. 350.

72. Declarations which go to show his knowledge that the property levied on belonged to a third person. McKnight v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659.

73. On the trial of an action against a marshall for wrongful seizure of money under execution, it is pertinent to interrogate the plaintiff as to the ownership of the money. Ginsberg v. Cohen, 38 Misc. 751, 78 N. Y. S. 823. In an action by one for property claimed to have been wrongfully seized on execution, the sheriff may show under a general denial of plaintiff's ownership that the sale under which he claims is void. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

74. "Whose property was that" is not objectionable as calling for a conclusion. Rasco v. Jefferson [Ala.] 38 So. 246.

75. Anderson v. Medbery, 16 S. D. 329, 92 N. W. 1087.

76. Testimony of plaintiff that she told the constable making the levy to look at her twelve babies. Rasco v. Jefferson [Ala.] 38 So. 246.

77. Burton v. Dangerfield [Ala.] 37 So. 350.

78. The value of property wrongfully taken on execution is shown by evidence of the cost of the property and its value at the time it was taken. State v. Steele & Co., 108 Mo. App. 363, 83 S. W. 1023. Question as to value of goods annexed to property taken under wrongful levy held admissible as tending to show the amount to be deducted from value of the property in its then condition. Perlberger v. Grell, 77 App. Div. 128, 78 N. Y. S. 1038.

79. This being the measure of damages recoverable. State v. Stone [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 950.

80. Johnson v. Twichell [N. D.] 101 N. W. 318.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1646.

82. Evidence held insufficient under Kirby's Dig. § 4487. Craig & Co. v. Smith [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1124.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1646.

84. Authority of a sheriff to deliver his official bond to the county court held a question for the jury. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

85. In an action on a constable's official bond, a transcript of the bond duly certified is admissible. Burton v. Dangerfield [Ala.] 37 So. 350. In Mississippi, by statute, if the execution of a bond is not denied, the record of it is admissible. Carlisle v. Silver Creek [Miss.] 37 So. 1015.

86. Carlisle v. Silver Creek [Miss.] 37 So. 1015.

87. Hines v. Norris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 791.

court to keep a record of the filing and approval of the sheriff's bond is not fatal to its enforcement.[88]

A bond indemnifies only acts, the faithful performance of which it is given to secure;[89] but if the language is ambiguous or susceptible of conflicting interpretations, the intentions of the parties may be ascertained by parol evidence of the circumstances which induced its execution.[90]

An action for breach of bond given to indemnify a constable against damages possible to result from a levy of attachment placed in his hands is ex contractu.[91]

The liability of the indemnitors to the officer is on the bond, but their liability to the person whose property is seized is that of a trespasser.[92] If an officer while attempting to execute some duty of his office abuses or exceeds his authority,[93] or if damages be recovered against him for a wrongful official act,[94] his bond is liable; but indemnitors who neither advise nor ratify a levy which amounts to a trespass are not.[95] An indemnity bond given a constable after the illegal levy of an execution to induce him not to return the property is enforceable against the sureties.[96] The sureties on a sheriff's bond may bind themselves without joining the sheriff.[97]

In Massachusetts, by statute, any person injured by breach of a constable's bond may sue the constable in the name of the town.[98] Where an attachment plaintiff is liable for custodian's fees on a bond given a United States marshal, the custodians may maintain an action in their own name.[99] Action may be maintained on a forthcoming bond in the name of the officer to whom it is made payable, though he has retired from office prior to the commencement of the action.[1] Claim and delivery cannot be maintained against a constable and sureties on his bond jointly, where it appears that the sureties were not in any manner concerned in the seizure and detention of the property.[2]

A complaint in an action on a bond to indemnify against damage possible to result from a levy of execution which alleges execution of the bond and recovery of judgment against the obligee is sufficient.[3] A release of sureties on such a bond must be specially pleaded,[4] and it is discretionary with the court whether to allow

88. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187. Delivery and acceptance of his bond may be shown by parol evidence where record of it does not appear in the records of the county court. Id.

89. Under Hill's Ann. Laws 1892, §§ 2390. 2392, 2395, 2793, 2794, a sheriff's ordinary bond did not cover his special duties as tax collector. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187. A bond indemnifying a marshal against actions and damages resulting from the execution of a writ of attachment does not secure fees of custodians of the attached property. Tully v. Cutler [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 714.

90. Sheriff's ordinary undertaking may be shown to have been intended as an additional bond covering his duties as tax collector. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

91. Leader v. Mattingly, 140 Ala. 444, 37 So. 270.

92. Where a petition does not allege that the giving of the bond induced the levy, there can be no recovery. Unsell v. Sisk [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 34. On appeal judgment rendered against them will be dismissed and affirmed as to those who are liable. Id.

93. State constable acting under the dispensary law is liable on his bond under Civ. Code 1902, § 595, providing that a party aggrieved may sue. Wieters v. May [S. C.] 50 S. E. 547.

94. Wrongfully killing a person while making an arrest. Black v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 867.

95. Jordan v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 961.

96. Hines v. Norris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 791.

97. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

98. Under Rev. Laws, c. 25, § 90, c. 149, § 20, and c. 26, § 14, where a person has recovered judgment which remains unsatisfied after demand, he may sue on the constable's bond in the name of the treasurer of the city. Crocker v. Buttrick [Mass.] 73 N. E. 650.

99. Mansf. Dig. §§ 4933, 4936. Tully v. Cutler [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 714.

1. O'Neill Mfg. Co. v. Harris, 120 Ga. 467, 47 S. E. 934.

2. Action will lie only against one in possession. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

3. Held sufficient to support a judgment for the plaintiff after verdict. Meyer v. Purcell, 214 Ill. 62, 73 N. E. 392.

4, 5. Leader v. Mattingly, 140 Ala. 444, 37 So. 270.

such plea to be filed during the trial.[5] In an action on a forthcoming bond, it is not necessary that the execution levied on the property for the production of which the bond was given be set out in the petition.[6]

The evidence must show a breach of the bond declared on.[7]

Where the obligors on a sheriff's indemnity bond had notice of an action for conversion against him and participated in the defense, they are bound by the judgment;[8] but where damages are recovered against a constable and his sureties in different amounts, judgment cannot be rendered against the sureties for the amount of the verdict against the constable.[9]

SHIPPING AND WATER TRAFFIC.

§ 1. Public Control and Regulation; Extent of State Jurisdiction (1450).
§ 2. Nationality, Registration and Enrollment (1451).
§ 3. Master and Officers (1451).
§ 4. Seamen (1452). Shipping Articles (1452). Wages and Subsistence (1452). Punishment of Seamen (1453). Injuries to Seamen (1454).
§ 5. Mortgages, Bottomry, Maritime and Other Liens on the Vessel, Craft, or Cargo (1455).
§ 6. Charter Party (1456).
§ 7. Navigation and Collision (1459).
A. Rules for Navigation and Their Operation in General (1459).
B. Lights, Signals and Lookouts (1461).
C. Steering and Sailing Rules (1462).
D. Vessels Anchored, Drifting, Grounded (1465).
E. Tugs and Tows, Pilot Boats, Fishing Vessels, etc. (1467).
F. Sole or Divided Liability, and Division of Damages (1470).
G. Ascertainment and Measure of Damages (1471).
§ 8. Carriage of Passengers (1472).
§ 9. Carriage of Goods (1474).
§ 10. Freight and Demurrage (1478).
§ 11. Pilotage, Towage, Wharfage (1480).
§ 12. Repairs, Supplies, and Like Expenses (1481).
§ 13. Salvage (1484).
§ 14. Loss and Expense (1486).
§ 15. General Average (1487).
§ 16. Wreck (1487).
§ 17. Marine Insurance (1488).
§ 18. Maritime Torts and Crimes (1491).

Matters relating to the obstruction of navigation are treated elsewhere.[10]

§ 1. Public control and regulation; extent of state jurisdiction.[11]—Except as adopted by statute, the general maritime law is not the law of the United States.[12]

A vessel is deemed a part of the territory of the state to which it belongs, and its territorial sovereignty extends to such vessel when on the high seas.[13]

Before a clearance will be granted to a vessel, the master is required to submit to the collector of customs a list of his crew, supported by an affidavit on his part as to its correctness.[14]

Tonnage tax and light money.—A tonnage tax is provided for, to be levied on foreign vessels,[15] and vessels coming from a foreign port or place which are entered in the ports of the United States,[16] including all foreign vessels entering from the Philippines.[17] The Philippines are not a foreign port or place within the meaning of these acts.[18]

6. Petition held sufficient. O'Neill Mfg. Co. v. Harris, 120 Ga. 467, 47 S. E. 934.

7. In an action on a bond alleged to have been executed one day prior to which the bond put in evidence bore date, the variance was fatal. Burton v. Dangerfield [Ala.] 37 So. 350.

8. Meyer v. Purcell, 214 Ill. 62, 73 N. E. 392. In an action on a sheriff's indemnity bond in attachment, it is proper to admit the judgment against the sheriff in conversion where the obligors had notice of the pendency of such action. Id.

9. Black v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 867.

10. See Navigable Waters, 4 Curr. L. 757.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1648.

12. The Sacramento, 131 F. 373.

13. Vessel subject to its laws: Suit in admiralty may be maintained for damages against vessel in fault for collision for loss of life occasioned thereby, where statutes of state to which both vessels belong give right of recovery for wrongful death. In re Clyde S. S. Co., 134 F. 95.

14. Fact of clearance held to prove that seamen were engaged when it was procured [Rev. St. § 4573]. Bark "Shetland" v. Johnson, 21 App. D. C. 416.

15. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

16. Rev. St. § 4219, as amended by Act June 26, 1884, c. 121, § 14, 23 St. 57 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 2850), and Act June 19, 1886, c. 421, § 11, 24 St. 81; Comp. St. 1901, p. 2850.

A duty of fifty cents a ton, to be denominated "light money," is levied on all vessels not of the United States, which may enter the ports of the United States,[19] except unregistered vessels owned by citizens of the United States, and carrying a sea letter or other regular document proving them to be American property.[20] In order to come within the exception the owner or master of an unregistered American vessel entering from a foreign port is required to make oath as to her ownership.[21] Such proof need not necessarily be made at the time of entry, but is sufficient if made shortly thereafter, and the law is complied with if the facts are shown to the collector by any competent evidence.[22]

Inspection.—The hull and boilers of every ferryboat, canalboat, yacht, or other small boat of like character propelled by steam, must be inspected, and no such vessel may navigate without a licensed engineer and pilot.[23] A penalty is provided for failure to comply with the inspection laws, to be collected by the government in a proceeding in rem by way of libel.[24] Such proceeding is in admiralty, and is not criminal.[25] The provisions for such penalty do not apply to vessels propelled by gasoline, and they are not subject to seizure and forfeiture therefor.[26]

§ 2. Nationality, registration and enrollment.[27]—Vessels of the United States are such as are registered pursuant to law, and those duly qualified to carry on the coasting trade, or fisheries.[28] American vessels are such as are owned by citizens of the United States.[29]

A vessel is domestic at the port where her owners are domiciled or reside, and foreign at other ports, irrespective of where she may be registered or enrolled,[30] though a foreign vessel may be regarded as domestic, or vice versa, where a materialman has been misled by the place of her enrollment.[31]

§ 3. Master and officers.[32]—In the absence of anything to the contrary in the contract, the master of a tramp steamer, who is not employed for any particular voyage or for any stated time, may be removed by the owners at any time, with or without cause.[33] Where the contract provides that he shall be returned to the port of shipment at the termination of his employment, and he is discharged in a foreign port, he is entitled to recover the expenses incurred by him in returning and wages for the time spent in doing so.[34] He is not, however, entitled to recover expenses incident to a sickness occurring at such foreign port after his discharge.[35]

Manlla not a "foreign port or place" within meaning of these acts. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

17. Act March 8, 1902, c. 140, § 3, 32 St. 54, Comp. St. Supp. 1903, p. 349. Vessels owned by Americans not foreign vessels, though not registered. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

18. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

19. N. S. Rev. St. § 4225, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2855. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

20, 21. Rev. St. § 4226, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2855. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

22. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

23. U. S. Rev. St. § 4426. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

24. Vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam which do not comply with statutory provisions in regard to inspection and the carrying of licensed engineers and pilots [U. S. Rev. St. § 4499, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3060]. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

25. Decree dismissing libel appealable. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

26. Act Jan. 18, 1897, c. 61, 29 St. 489. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3029, making all vessels above 15 tons burden carrying freight or passengers for hire, and propelled by gas, fluid, naphtha, or electric motors, subject to the provisions of Rev. St. § 4426, relating to inspection, etc., and to certain other sections relating to navigation, does not refer to § 4499, and hence latter section does not apply to such boats. Statute penal and will be strictly construed and not extended beyond plain meaning of words used. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1648.

28. Rev. St. § 4131, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2803. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

29. The Alta [C. C. A.] 136 F. 513.

30, 31. The New Brunswick [C. C. A.] 129 F. 893.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1648.

33, 34, 35, 36. Lombard S. S. Co. v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 568.

37. Evidence insufficient to show drunkenness or incompetency, and owners not entitled to recoup damages caused by grounding of vessel in action by him for wages. Lombard S. S. Co. v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 568.

The evidence to sustain a charge of incompetency against the master must be clear and satisfactory,[36] the burden of proof being on the owners.[37]

§ 4. Seamen.[38]—As a general rule, a sailor agreeing to serve on a ship, without specifying any particular time, ships for the voyage,[39] but this does not apply in case of a steamboat making daily trips between two ports.[40]

All shipments of seamen contrary to any act of congress are void.[41]

Shipping articles.[42]—The Federal statute requires an agreement in writing to be executed by a master of a vessel and the seamen who ship with him, before he starts on a voyage, to contain certain specified provisions,[43] among others being a statement of the time when each seaman is to be on board to commence work.[44] The master has no right to disregard the provisions of the act by leaving blank spaces and filling in certain of the required information after the execution of the articles before the shipping commissioner,[45] and his action in so doing is not binding on the seamen.[46] In case the evidence is evenly balanced as to the time when the seamen were required to report for duty, it is proper, where the master fails to insert such time in the articles, to find for the seamen.[47] The act does not preclude the insertion of other reasonable provisions not specified,[48] and when so inserted they are binding.[49]

Wages and subsistence.[50]—A seaman's right to wages is, by statute, to be taken to commence either at the time at which he commences work, or at the time specified in the agreement for his commencement of work, or presence on board, whichever first happens.[51] The act does not, however, deprive him of a right to contract that his wages shall commence at a different time.[52]

A seaman injured in the service of the ship is entitled to his wages for the term of his employment.[53] The fact that he is an escaped convict and liable to recapture as such does not deprive him of the rights which ordinarily arise from his employment,[54] but he is not entitled to wages after his recapture.[55] A seaman wrongfully discharged may recover a month's extra pay.[56]

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1649.

39, 40. The Express, 129 F. 655.

41. Rev. St. § 4523, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3075. The Alnwick, 132 F. 117. Seamen to whom advance is made can leave service at any time and recover wages for time served. Right not affected by waiver of any claim to recover sums advanced. Id.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1649, n. 27.

43. Rev. St. § 4511, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3068. Provisions made applicable to contracts for shipping crews for American vessels engaged in coastwise trade, and in trade with Canada by acts of Aug. 19, 1890, Feb. 18, 1895, and March 3, 1897 [Comp. St. 1901, p. 3076]. The Lillian, 131 F. 375.

44. Rev. St. § 4511. Bark "Shetland" v. Johnson, 21 App. D. C. 416.

45. Cannot be valid custom authorizing him to fill in time when seamen are to report for work after execution of articles, when it is definitely ascertained. Bark "Shetland" v. Johnson, 21 App. D. C. 416.

46. Bark "Shetland" v. Johnson, 21 App. D. C. 416.

47. Evidence held to entitle seamen to wages during time that departure was prevented by ice. Bark "Shetland" v. Johnson, 21 App. D. C. 416. Fact that vessel cleared from custom house held to prove that seamen were engaged when they claimed, since master required to submit list of seamen to collector before clearance will be granted [Rev. St. § 4573]. Id.

48. Agreement not to claim wages or provisions if vessel detained by ice is reasonable and valid. The Lillian, 131 F. 375. Where went on board and were given provisions and light work for a few days and were then told to go on shore and wait until ice would permit voyage to commence, held not entitled to wages for time they were on board. The Joseph B. Thomas, 136 F. 693.

49. Though seamen are wards of the nation, they are not entitled to repudiate any lawful and reasonable contract entered into by them with full knowledge of its meaning and effect. The Lillian, 131 F. 375.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1649, n. 33-37.

51. Rev. St. § 4524, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3076. The Lillian, 131 F. 375; Bark "Shetland" v. Johnson, 21 App. D. C. 416.

52. Applies only in absence of reasonable stipulation in articles of shipment. The Lillian, 131 F. 375.

53, 54, 55. McCarron v. Dominion A. R. Co., 134 F. 762.

56. Rev. St. § 4527, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3077. Does not apply where seamen not discharged, but directed to wait on shore until voyage should begin. Articles provided that should not claim wages while ship detained by ice. The Joseph B. Thomas, 136 F. 693.

The Federal statute imposes a penalty of one dollar a day for neglect to pay seamen's wages when due without sufficient cause.[57] It does not apply to a case where there is a fair question of controversy as to the amount due, if any.[58] A court of admiralty may, in its discretion, take jurisdiction of a suit by seamen to recover wages from a foreign ship.[59]

The payment of advance wages to seamen or to anyone in their behalf is forbidden,[60] and the act is made applicable to foreign vessels in the absence of conflicting treaty provisions.[61]

A scale of provisions to be served to the crew is fixed by statute,[62] and those furnished are required to be weighed in the presence of a witness.[63] Penalties are provided for violation of the act.[64]

Punishment of seamen.[65]—The master of a vessel at sea has power to imprison a member of the crew in the exercise of his authority to provide for the safety of the vessel and the protection of those on board.[66] He may imprison seamen for insubordination,[67] and may fine them a portion of their wages,[68] unless their conduct is justified.[69] But no deduction for misconduct will ordinarily be allowed unless the master makes an entry of the offense in the ship's log book on the day it is committed,[70] though it is made discretionary with the court to receive other evidence.[71]

Seamen who desert their ship thereby forfeit their right to wages theretofore earned,[72] and a seaman rightfully discharged by an American consul in a foreign port for insubordination is not entitled to wages for the return voyage.[73]

Both the master and the owner are liable for an abuse of the right of imprisonment by exercising it maliciously, or without probable cause.[74] The owner is not, however, liable for punitive damages in such case, in the absence of proof that he 57. Rev. St. U. S. § 4529; Act. Dec. 21, 1898, c. 28, § 4, 30 St. 756; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3077. Statute penal, intended to punish arbitrary refusal to pay. Libel should allege facts showing want of sufficient cause. The Express. 129 F. 655.

58. Where libelants, who were hired as deckhands on steamer making daily trips for a specified sum per month, quit without master's consent after six days, owner not liable for penalty, there being at least a reasonable ground for claim that contract was one from month to month. The Express, 129 F. 655. Justified in contesting liability where fine had been imposed for disobedience, but same was unavailing as defense because not entered on log book. The St. Paul, 133 F. 1002.

59. Will do so where they are American seamen, and strong case for immediate relief is shown, or where they invoke provisions of United States statutes. The Alnwick, 132 F. 117.

60. Act Dec. 21, 1898, c. 28, § 10a, 30 St. 763, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3079. The Alnwick, 132 F. 117.

61. Applies in case of shipment of seamen on British vessel in American port. The Alnwick, 132 F. 117.

62. U. S. Rev. St. § 4612, as amended by Act Dec. 21, 1898, c. 28, 30 St. 762, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3120. The Mary C. Hale, 132 F. 800.

63. Must have instruments for that purpose [Rev. St. § 4571, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3100]. The Mary C. Hale, 132 F. 800.

64. Evidence held to entitle each seaman to recover one dollar a day for failure to furnish provisions in accordance with scale, and of good quality. The Mary C. Hale, 132 F. 800.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1649, n. 38, 39.

66. Pacific Packing & Nav. Co. v. Fielding [C. C. A.] 136 F. 577.

67. For refusal to work. The Cora F. Cressy, 131 F. 144.

68. The Cora F. Cressy, 131 F. 144. Rev. St. § 4529, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3077. The St. Paul, 133 F. 1002.

69. Refusal to work. The Cora F. Cressy, 131 F. 144. The fact that the master fails to replace a second mate, who has been paid off at an intermediate port, is no excuse for the crew's disobedience. In violation of Rev. St. § 4516, as amended by Act 1898, c. 28, § 1, 30 Stat. 755, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3071. Id.

70. U. S. Rev. St. § 4597, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3115. Act must be strictly complied with. The St. Paul, 133 F. 1002; The Cora F. Cressy, 131 F. 144.

71. Deduction from wages of mate on small schooner for drunkenness held justified, though required entries not made. Vessel kept no log, as is often case with small coasting vessels. The Marjory Brown, 134 F. 999.

72. Evidence held not to show desertion. The Alnwick, 132 F. 117.

73. Discharge of seamen by United States consul at port where outward voyage terminated because of refusal to discharge cargo and insubordination held justified. The Annie, 133 F. 325.

74, 75. Pacific Packing & Nav. Co. v. Fielding [C. C. A.] 136 F. 577.

authorized or ratified the acts of the master.[75] The burden of proving a special defense that the confinement was rendered necessary and proper by reason of the fact that plaintiff had become mentally deranged is on the defendant.[76]

By the treaty between the United States and France, the local authorities are required, at the requisition of a French consul, to lend forcible aid in the arrest and imprisonment of seamen on French vessels whom such consul may deem it necessary to confine.[77] Under the act of congress passed for the purpose of carrying into effect treaties with respect to consular jurisdiction over the crews of foreign vessels in the ports of the United States, such arrest can only be made by a Federal marshal.[78] The imprisonment need not end with the departure of the vessel to which the seaman belongs,[79] but cannot continue for a longer period than two months.[80]

Injuries to seamen.[81]—The ship owner owes to the seamen a duty to use reasonable diligence to furnish them a safe place in which to work.[82] The vessel is not liable to its seamen for injuries sustained by them in the discharge of their duties,[83] except in cases arising from its unseaworthiness,[84] or a failure to supply and keep in order the proper appliances appurtenant to the ship.[85] It is, however, bound to furnish them with prompt medical and surgical aid in case they are injured while in the service of the ship, and is liable for a failure to do so.[86] Such liability does not terminate with the voyage, but continues until the cure is completed, so far as expenses necessarily incurred therefor are concerned.[87]

An action in tort against the owner for injuries cannot be joined with an action on contract, express or implied, to furnish a seaman with such care, nursing, and attendance at the expense of the ship.[88] The ordinary rules as to the master's liability for injuries caused by the negligence of fellow-servants apply to actions for injuries to seamen.[89]

76. Instruction to that effect approved. Not inconsistent with general charge that burden was on plaintiff to prove that restraint was unlawful, malicious, and without probable cause. Pacific Packing & Nav. Co. v. Fielding [C. C. A.] 136 F. 577.

77. Treaty of Aug. 12, 1853, art. 8, 10 St. at L. 992, 996. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

78. Rev. St. §§ 4079-4081, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2766. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422. Unauthorized arrest by state official does not entitle seaman to discharge on habeas corpus by Federal district court, since irregularity obviated by that court examining into the matter. Id. State police officer not forbidden to make such arrests by provision of state constitution against deprivation of personal liberty without due process of law. Id.

79. Treaty provides that they shall be held "during the whole time of their stay in the port, at the disposal of the consuls." Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

80. Rev. St. § 4081, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2766. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1649, n. 28-32.

82. Liable for injuries resulting from blowing up of oil tank through negligence of employe of contractor making repairs and changes. In re Michigan S. S. Co., 133 F. 577.

83. The Svaeland, 132 F. 932, afd. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 109. Ship is not liable for personal injuries sustained through master's failure to maintain proper discipline, and to protect crew from abuse at the hands of subordinate officers. Have right of action against them individually. The Astral, 134 F. 1017.

84. The Svaeland, 132 F. 932, afd. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 109.

85. The Svaeland, 132 F. 932, afd. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 109. Evidence held not to show that fall was due to unsound condition of gasket. The Shenandoah, 134 F. 304. Officers held to have exercised reasonable care in overhauling rigging and replacing defective ropes. Id.

86. For damages and expenses of cure. The Svaeland, 132 F. 932, afd. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 109.

87. McCarron v. Dominion Atl. R. Co., 134 F. 762.

88. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 34 Wash. 357, 75 P. 974. Where complaint states cause of action in tort only, for the negligent and wrongful acts of defendant, cannot recover on implied contract for medical care, etc. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 34 Wash. 357, 75 P. 974; Lambert v. La Conner T. & T. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 608.

89. An engineer on a steamship is a fellow-servant of an oiler in the engine room. McCarron v. Dominion A. R. Co., 134 F. 762. Injuries held not due to dangerous condition of engine room, but to negligence of engineer. Id. In matters relating to the ordinary navigation of the vessel, the master is the fellow-servant of the seamen, and hence the vessel is not liable for injuries sustained by one of them through his negligence. The Westport [C. C. A.] 136 F. 391, rvg. 131 F. 815.

The question of whether it is the duty of the captain to put into the nearest port to obtain assistance for an injured seaman depends upon the circumstances of each case,[90] he being only required to exercise a reasonable judgment in the matter.[91]

An alien seaman admitted to a hospital through the intervention of his consul is entitled to be discharged when he so desires, no matter how imprudent the step may be, nor how his health may be affected thereby, though the consul may disapprove, and though the captain of his vessel directed that he be detained until he could be returned to the port from which he came.[92]

§ 5. Mortgages, bottomry, maritime and other liens on the vessel, craft, or cargo.[93]—Mortgages on vessels are not maritime contracts, and no maritime lien or contract is created by recording them in conformity with the provisions of the Federal statutes.[94] State statutes are inoperative as to vessel mortgages which have been recorded pursuant to the acts of congress.[95] In admiralty an oral pledge is sufficient when duly established.[96]

The owners and mortgagors of a ship, who are allowed to remain in possession by the mortgagee, are at liberty in the meantime to make contracts for her employment.[97] When the mortgagee again takes possession, he is entitled to all freight then accruing, and succeeds to any liens therefor which the mortgagor has on the cargo.[98] He is not, however, entitled to freights which have theretofore become due and payable, and have been received by the mortgagor, though they are for the voyage then current.[99] Nor can he complain in case the owner and charterer agree to modify the charter in respect to the time of paying the freight.[1] The master, however, has no authority, as such, to receive advance payments in excess of the

90. The Erskine M. Phelps [C. C. A.] 131 F. 1. Taking into consideration the seriousness of the injury, the care that can be given him on shipboard, the proximity of the port, the consequences of delay to the interests of the owner, the direction of the wind and the probability of its continuing in the same direction, and whether a competent surgeon is likely to be found in such port. Ship not liable for failure to put into nearest port, 540 miles distant, where weather was bad, entrance to harbor very difficult, and seaman was cared for by mate who had some surgical skill and experience. Id. Ship held not at fault for failure to deviate from voyage, taking into consideration the time to be saved and the extent of the injury as it then appeared. The Svaeland, 132 F. 932, afd. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 109.

91. As to the extent of the injuries, and as to the necessity of putting into port. Not liable in case of error in judgment, where nature and extent of injury not apparent, and could only have been discovered by surgeon. The Shenandoah, 134 F. 304.

92. In re Carlsen's Petition, 130 F. 379.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1650.

Liens for supplies, repairs, etc., are treated in § 12, post.

94. Court of admiralty ordinarily has no jurisdiction over controversies in relation thereto. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963. Sole object of U. S. Rev. St. §§ 4192, 4193 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 2837) is to give priority in order of record. However, where court of admiralty has fund for distribution arising from sale of vessel, and all maritime liens have been satisfied, holder of recorded mortgage may prove claim and be paid therefrom in order of his priority. Id. Pendency of suit in state court to set aside mortgage, and temporary injunction restraining its foreclosure, held not to affect his right. Id.

95. Illinois statute providing that chattel mortgage given to secure note which does not, on its face, show that it is so secured, shall be void, does not affect mortgage on enrolled and licensed vessel, recorded at home port pursuant to Federal statutes. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963.

96. Time charterer of vessels, who rechartered same for particular voyages, borrowed money from bank to pay charter hire, under agreement that freights should stand pledged for its repayment. Indorsed subcharters to bank, agreeing that it might collect freights, or that he might do so as its agent. He collected rents, deposited them in his own name, and used part of money, and died. Held, that money was trust fund, which could be followed and identified as freight money. Bank of British North America v. Freights, etc., of the Ansgar, 127 F. 859. Proper proceeding by bank to enforce lien was by libel in admiralty against deposit as freight money. Id. Where pledgor drew check on deposit to pay charter hire on a third vessel, and before it was paid deposited in same account money received as freight from such vessel, held that such deposit should be applied to payment of check so far as it would go, leaving trust fund unimpaired except to extent of difference between deposit and check. Id.

97, 98, 99. Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of The Afton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 727.

1. Sanctions such transaction by permitting owner to retain possession. Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of The Afton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 727.

amount fixed by the charter, and though he does so, the mortgagee may recover all the freight due under its terms when he takes possession, in the absence of proof that the additional advances were required by the necessities of the vessel, or that the master's acts were theretofore authorized or ratified by the owners.[2]

Under the general maritime law, the owner of a cargo has no lien on the vessel for breach of a contract of affreightment unless it has been placed on board the vessel or delivered into the custody or control of her master or officers.[3] Mere delivery to the carrier or his agent, evidenced by a bill of lading, in the absence of the vessel and without knowledge thereof on the part of the master or officers, is not such a constructive delivery to the vessel as to bind her.[4] A state statute giving a lien on a vessel for breach of a contract of carriage is to be strictly construed.[5]

An unfinished vessel may be transferred by a verbal agreement made prior to her enrollment, and a full performance thereof.[6] A court of equity has jurisdiction of an action to have the plaintiff declared to be a tenant in common of a vessel, and for an accounting of her earnings.[7]

§ 6. Charter party.[8]—In order to be maritime, a contract must relate to the trade or business of the sea.[9]

The question as to the character in which the charterer is to be treated is in all cases one of construction.[10] If the entire vessel is let to him, with a transfer to him of its command and possession, and consequent control over its navigation, he will generally be regarded as owner for the voyage or service stipulated.[11] Where the owner retains control of the navigation, he is liable for injuries to the cargo resulting from the negligence of the master.[12]

As in the case of other contracts, in order to make a valid charter the minds of the parties must meet as to its terms.[13]

One affixing his signature to a charter party providing for the leasing of a vessel to a corporation of which he is the president, and delivering the instrument

2. Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of The Afton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 727.

3. Guffey v. Alaska & P. S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 271. Lien is stricti juris, and cannot be extended by analogy or inference. Id.

4. Guffey v. Alaska & P. S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 271. No lien where, at time goods were delivered on wharf under bill of lading reciting that they were to be shipped on vessel "now" at port of S., complainant knew that chartered vessel by which it was intended to ship them was at sea, and goods were never delivered to her master or officers. Id.

5. Guffey v. Alaska & P. S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 271. A statute giving lien for breach of a contract made by a master, owner, agent, or consignee, does not apply to a contract made by a charterer [2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5953]. Id.

6. Verbal contract providing that if promisee would lend his credit and help negotiate a loan, he should have third interest in unfinished vessel, vested title in him on performance by him. Misner v. Strong [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 965. Statute of frauds not available as defense after such performance. Id.

7. Misner v. Strong [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 965.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1650.

For matters relating to demurrage, see § 10, post.

9. As to what contracts are maritime so as to confer jurisdiction on a court of admiralty, see Admiralty, § 1, 3 Curr. L. 41. The Mary F. Chisholm, 129 F. 814. Must be essentially maritime in character, and provide for maritime services, transactions, or casualties. The James T. Furber, 129 F. 808.

10. Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 102 App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. S. 86.

11. Where provided that captain, though appointed by owners, should be under orders of charterers as regarded employment, agency, or other arrangements, and charterers agreed to indemnify owners from all liability arising from captain's signing bills of lading, charterers held owners as between themselves and shippers. Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 102 App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. S. 86.

12. Owner of scow chartered by day with man in charge held liable to charterer for loss of cargo of stone caused by her careening at end of pier. Duty of master to haul her into slip where she would have been protected, which he could have done without difficulty. High wind not proximate cause. Rodgers v. Bouker Contracting Co., 134 F. 702.

13. Steamer held to have been sent for wood under a misunderstanding and that minds of parties did not meet on any contract in regard to her, and hence defendant not liable for failure to furnish wood to load her. Nipigon Transit Co. v. Smythe [Mich.] 100 N. W. 275. Evidence held not to show the bookkeeper of purchaser was authorized to engage such steamer unconditionally. Id.

to the owner of such vessel, thereby makes himself a party and becomes bound as lessee, though his name is not recited in the body of the charter.[14]

The owner of a vessel is bound to see that she is seaworthy and suitable for the service in which she is to be employed,[15] and to provide proper fittings and equipment for the service in which she is engaged,[16] and proper appliances for handling the cargo.[17] Where the owners of the vessel are responsible for the proper stowage and safe carriage of the cargo, the master is justified in refusing to load goods which are liable to injure, or to be injured by, other goods previously loaded,[18] notwithstanding a provision of the charter party requiring the vessel to receive all such lawful cargo as the charterers may think proper to ship.[19] The charterer is bound to disburse the vessel and to protect her from liens, whether the charter expressly so provides or not.[20] He is also ordinarily bound to furnish a clean bill of health and is responsible for delay resulting from a failure to do so.[21] One hiring a boat is, as in the case of other bailments, bound to exercise ordinary care in its custody.[22]

The charterer is entitled to deduct from the hire items properly chargeable to the vessel.[23] In the absence of any speed warranty or provision in the charter for docking and cleaning, he is not entitled to a deduction because the speed of the vessel is retarded by the foul condition of her bottom of which he knew when the contract was made, or should have expected from the circumstances.[24] Under a provision that, in case of accident preventing the vessel from working for more than a specified period, the payment of hire shall cease until she is again in an efficient state to resume her service, the charterer is not liable for hire until the vessel is again in condition to be tendered under the charter.[25] This is true, though the charterer has had some benefit from her services in the carriage of the goods

14. Esselstyn v. McDonald, 90 N. Y. S. 518. Parol evidence that lessor declined to enter into contract until it was so signed is admissible to explain the ambiguity in the lease. Id. Evidence held to support finding to that effect (Id.), and also finding that dredge was in defendants' possession during whole period alleged in complaint (Id.). Case one for allowance of extra costs, where lessee failed to pay rent and allowed filing of libels, which plaintiff was compelled to pay. Id.

15. Smith v. Heinlein, 132 F. 1001. The owner of a barge chartering her to a lighterage company has no recourse against it to recover damages adjudged against her because of her unseaworthiness for the use to which she was put, where he knew of such use when the charter was made, and the charterer is not shown to have been otherwise negligent. The Willie, 134 F. 759.

16. Ship which went to Trinidad without objection to load cargo of asphalt bound to furnish special lining required to prevent its getting behind her permanent battens, and, where not provided, is liable for cost of taking off battens and removing asphalt from behind them. Dene Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 133 F. 589. Asphalt is a lawful cargo. Id.

17. Mahogany logs tendered held to have been of usual size in trade, and master's refusal to accept any but smaller ones not justified. Ship liable for resulting damages whether refusal due to unsuitableness of vessel, or want of proper tackle for loading. Smith v. Heinlein, 132 F. 1001.

18. Birt v. Hardie, 132 F. 61.

19. Master held justified in refusing to receive flour in sacks, where had already loaded a large amount of refined petroleum in tins. Birt v. Hardie, 132 F. 61.

20. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873.

21. Does not apply where it does not appear that the absence of such bill would have made any difference if vessel had not deviated from her course on account of injuries due to stranding. Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon, 129 F. 819.

22. City liable for injury to scow by ice while being moved to safer place by tug also employed by city. Tug not in fault. The Three Brothers, 134 F. 1001. Lessee of pullboat destroyed by fire held not liable to owner for its value. Destruction due to unavoidable accident. D'Echaux v. Gibson Cypress Lumber Co. [La.] 38 So. 476.

23. Deductions from hire due by charterer for exchange, coal, use of gear, and wages paid firemen for assisting in discharging cargo held improper. The Buckingham, 129 F. 975. Evidence held not to show any reason for opening settlement between charterer and master. Id.

24. Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v. Bacon, 132 F. 881.

25. Under charter requiring the vessel to be staunch, strong, and tight, and in every way fitted for service. Where vessel stranded and injured so that two of her holds containing cargo were partially filled with water, and remained so until end of voyage, charterer not liable after accident occurred. Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon, 129 F. 819.

after the accident.[26] He is, however, liable for the time spent in discharging the cargo.[27] A charterer who is required to take the vessel to a port where there are facilities for docking her is not relieved from liability for hire by reason of the fact that during a delay at a port, due to a lack of such facilities, the owners utilized the time to make repairs, where the vessel remained in condition to sail on short notice.[28]

The tender of a ship to a charterer on the Monday following the Sunday which would be, by the terms of the charter party, the last day for such tender, is in time, in the absence of some controlling custom of the port to the contrary.[29] It will be presumed that the parties knew that the last day was Sunday, and that the law of the port forbade loading on that day.[30]

A provision excepting detention resulting from dangers of navigation takes effect immediately upon the execution and delivery of the charter.[31]

The ordinary rules of construction apply.[32] Parol evidence is admissible to explain the terms of the charter, when such a course is necessary to its proper understanding.[33] Trade terms will be deemed to have been used in the sense in which they would be understood by persons engaged in the trade referred to,[34] and are

26. Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon, 129 F. 819.

27. On ground that vessel was in efficient state for that particular employment. Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon, 129 F. 819.

28. Actiesselskabet Albis v. Munson, 130 F. 32. Held duty of charterer under contract to determine when vessel should be docked and to take her to port where there were facilities, and that he was liable for delay caused by absence of facilities at port where he sent her. Id.

29. No custom of port of Philadelphia requiring tender to be made on Saturday. Manchester S. S. Co. v. Parr, 130 F. 999. Where freight was to be less unless steamer ready for cargo on certain date, arrival at port on morning of such date, ready for cargo, in time, though it was Sunday, and no tender was made until next day. Id.

30. Manchester S. S. Co. v. Parr, 130 F. 999.

31. Under a charter providing that the vessel shall after completing a contemplated prior voyage return to the port where the charter party is to begin, covers delays during the voyage before the ship was turned over to the charterers. Where vessel injured on outward voyage, and owing to strike in port of destination, was taken to another port for repairs, which were made in shortest possible time, charterers not entitled to refuse to accept and load vessel on her return to port, because of such delay, particularly where refused owners offer to furnish another vessel or to cancel charter. The Hercules, 129 F. 945. Deviation to another port for purposes of repairs, owing to strike at port of destination, not such deviation from contemplated prior voyage as released charterers or entitled them to damages for delay. Id.

32. For construction of provisions in regard to demurrage, see § 10, post. Charter period held to have commenced, in any event, on date when alterations in vessel were to be completed. Michigan S. S. Co. v. American Bonding Co., 93 N. Y. S. 805. Compliance with charterer's request for delay in conversion not such a modification as to release charterer's surety from liability for breach of charter. Id. Defense setting up alteration of charter held to state sufficient defense in action against charterer's surety. Id. Allegation that owner did not use proper diligence to recharter vessel insufficient when pleaded as complete defense in action against surety, though it would have been good as partial defense. Id. Contract for charter of vessel made by president of railroad company held binding on company, whether such was his intention or not, it being apparent that he must have known that such was the intention of the agent of the vessel. Quillan v. Brunswick & B. R. Co., 130 F. 216. Where charter party required charterer to load vessel to full capacity or pay dead freight, all matters of dispute in regard thereto to be settled on clearance, vessel cannot recover dead freight on claim that she was not fully loaded, where captain signed bill of lading and delivered them to charterer on chief officer's statement, after examination, that she was loaded to her marks, and charterer thereupon permitted her to sail on his own time, though he had sufficient cargo to supply any deficiency. West Hartlepool Steam Nav. Co. v. Vogemann, 134 F. 1008.

33. Where charter provided that vessel should receive full cargo of pipe, "say about 3,400 gross tons," correspondence between brokers and owners showing that latter were advised that charterer had agreed to deliver 3,400 tons and had represented that vessel would carry that amount, held admissible to explain charter, master having refused to accept more than 3,258 tons. Sewall v. Wood [C. C. A.] 135 F. 12. Charter construed as contemplating margin beyond 3,400. Id. Where charter describes capacity of ship as about certain number of gross tons and fixes freight at certain amount per ton of 2,240 pounds, representation as to capacity should be construed as referring to long tons. Id. Weight of cargo held to be as claimed by shippers. Id.

34. "Cuban invoice" in charter to transport timber held to mean same as "Cuban binding on the owners, though the agents negotiating the charter had no knowledge of such meaning.[35]

The charterer cannot take advantage of a breach of the contract which he was himself instrumental in causing.[36] It is a breach of the charter for the charterers to load cargo which, on account of its condition, is liable to deteriorate, and to procure from the master, over his protest, a clean bill of lading therefor.[37]

In an action against the charterer for a total breach of his contract, the measure of damages is the net amount that would have been earned thereunder, less the net amount earned, or which might with reasonable diligence have been earned, by the vessel during the time required for the performance of the voyage named in the charter.[38] The burden is on the party breaching the contract to prove in mitigation of damages that the owner could have, by the exercise of such diligence, prevented or reduced the damages complained of.[39] The owner may refuse other employment for the vessel until after the expiration of her lay days under the charter, though notified by the charterer of his intention not to perform the contract, there being no actual breach until that time.[40] Where the master refuses to receive the amount of cargo which the charter party obligates the vessel to carry, the shippers are entitled to recover any extra expense to which they were put in shipping the balance to its destination.[41]

§ 7. Navigation and collision. A. Rules for navigation and their operation in general.[42]—Vessels employed in lawful business on a navigable river are each entitled to its reasonable use,[43] but they thereby assume the ordinary risks of navigation.[44] Persons setting a scow adrift in a channel are liable for failure to warn approaching vessels of her presence.[45]

A vessel is bound to use care and precaution commensurate with the situation in which she finds herself,[46] but will not be held in fault for a mere mistake of judgment when in extremis.[47]

The propriety of a course of navigation is to be tested by the conditions under which it was decided upon,[48] and by the conditions in regard to another vessel in the same vicinity which are bound to be expected.[49]

A master seeing that a collision is imminent is bound to take such precautions to avoid it as may be made necessary by the special circumstances of the case.[50] A invoice measure," the term having a known meaning in the trade. Arenburg v. Grupe, 135 F. 238.

35. Arenburg v. Grupe, 135 F. 238.

36. Held that, under the facts shown, the charterer was not legally justified in refusing to accept vessel when tendered for loading. Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 448.

37. Loading wet lumber. Owner has cause of action in admiralty against them, judgment for damages because of condition of lumber when loaded, and failure to note it on bill, having been rendered against him in foreign court in action by him against indorsees of bill of lading for freight. Kennedy v. Weston & Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 166.

38. Duty of ship owner to protect himself. Cornwall v. Moore & Co., 132 F. 868.

39, 40. Cornwall v. Moore & Co., 132 F. 868.

41. Sewall v. Wood [C. C. A.] 135 F. 12.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1654.

43, 44. Kenova Transp. Co. v. Monongahela River Consol. C. & C. Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 844.

45. Collision between scow and steamer due to fault of libelant's employes in setting former adrift so that she was carried into and obstructed channel, in failing to give danger signal to approaching steamer, and in negligent use of searchlight. The Tarpon, 132 F. 277.

46. The Sitka, 132 F. 861. The master is only bound to exercise due care, having in view the extraordinary perils confronting him. Held to have exercised due care in anchoring in fog. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321.

47. Schooner not chargeable with contributory fault for collision with steamer, brought about by latter's gross fault in changing her course so as to cross schooner's bows, when they were approaching nearly head on, in failing to luff, there being little time for such maneuver and no certainty that it would have avovided collision. Chadwick v. Wiley, 131 F. 1003.

48, 49. The Prudence [C. C. A.] 134 F. 358.

50. Act March 3, 1885, § 24, c. 354, 23 St. 438-439. The Pierre Corneille, 133 F. 604. Tug in fault for failing to stop and back vessel which, while attempting to escape collision with another which is in fault, collides with a third, will not be considered in fault provided her pilot uses the care demandable of a man of good judgment and prudence under the circumstances.[51] A vessel voluntarily placing herself in a position where she is liable to be in extremity cannot plead the peril she thereby came into as an excuse.[52]

A vessel is responsible for the inexcusable errors of whoever for the time being has control of her movements.[53]

The mere happening of a collision does not give a right of action for the resulting damages except in cases where, under the navigation rules, one vessel is presumed to be in fault until she exonerates herself.[54] The burden is therefore upon the plaintiff, or the libelant, to show affirmatively by a fair preponderance of the evidence, some fault on the part of the vessel, or the existence of circumstances from which it will be legally inferred.[55]

A vessel violating the navigation rules has the burden of proving that the collision was directly attributable to the fault of the other vessel,[56] and that her own fault could not have been one of the causes thereof.[57] Local harbor regulations are necessary aids to commerce and must be obeyed like other statutory requirements.[58] The fact that the harbor master fails to enforce them is immaterial.[59]

A collision will be deemed to have been caused by the wrongful act, neglect, or fault of the vessel failing to stand by and rescue the passengers and crew of the other.[60]

There can be no recovery where the loss is occasioned by a vis major.[61] An in-when danger of collision became obvious. The Gladiator, 132 F. 876. Tug with car float on each side held in fault for collision with crossing steamer for failure to see or signal her until they were close together, and for continuing on course after second signal, though she could have stopped without danger. The Wallace B. Flint [C. C. A.] 130 F. 338.

51. Ferryboat P. not in fault for collision with N. so as to relive S. from full liability, the latter's fault in changing her course in violation of starboard hand rule without notice to P. being the proximate cause of the collision, P's fault, if any, in failing to avoid N. having been committed when in extremis, through prior fault of S. The Susquehanna, 134 F. 641.

52. Minnesota S. S. Co. v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 22. Two vessels racing up channel held at fault for sinking barge in tow, for coming up abreast so near the center of the channel, and one of them also held in fault for unnecessarily crowding the other toward the meeting vessels. Id.

53. Vessel in fault for choosing unsuitable place for anchorage, though it was designated by tug which brought her there. The Robert Rickmers, 131 F. 638.

54. Right even in such cases based on presumption of negligence. The Tarpon, 132 F. 277. The mere fact that one vessel strikes and damages another does not of itself make her liable for the injury, but the collision must in some degree be occasioned by her fault. Kenova Transp. Co. v. Monongahela River Consol. C. & C. Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 844.

55. Kenova Transp. Co. v. Monongahela River Consol. C. & C. Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 844. The burden is on the libelant to establish his case. Must show some negligence or infraction of duty on part of other vessel that contributed to collision. The Echo, 131 F. 622.

56. As to signals. The Sitka, 132 F. 861.

57. In anchoring in place forbidden by local harbor regulations. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673; The Edward Smith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 32. All reasonable doubts resolved in favor of other vessel. Foster v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 134 F. 964. Vessel having unlicensed mate contrary to Rev. St. § 4438, as amended by Act Dec. 21, 1898, c. 29, 30 St. 764, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3034. Presumed that it contributed to the collision, unless contrary is obviously apparent. The Eagle Wing, 135 F. 826.

58. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F 673.

59. Fact that he saw vessel anchored within prohibited zone and made no objection, or that habitually failed to enforce rule requiring permit to anchor there, is not the equivalent of a permit, and does not exonerate vessel from liability for consequences of its violation. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673.

60. Act Sept. 4, 1890, c. 875, § 1, 26 U. S. Stat. 425, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2902. The Trader, 129 F. 462. Failure of one to stand by other after she was beached, or to take off passengers, not violation of statute rendering it liable for collision, where extent of own injuries was unknown, and it was calm and was little danger to passengers, and captain returned with tug after reaching nearby port, and rescued passengers and crew. Id.

61. Collision between vessels forming part of passing tows held due to inevitable accident, they having been driven together by sudden windstorm. The Cornell, 134 F. 694.

evitable accident is something that human skill and foresight could not, in the exercise of ordinary prudence, have provided against.[62] The burden is on a vessel seeking to escape from liability on that ground to prove it.[63]

The persons in charge of the navigation of the respective vessels are best enabled to explain what took place, and their evidence is entitled to great weight,[64] and the failure to call those navigating a vessel when the collision occurs may be considered against her, in the absence of equivalent testimony.[65]

The court is not bound to accept the statement of any witness simply because his testimony is uncontradicted, if it is unreasonable and inherently improbable.[66]

(§ 7) B. Lights, signals and lookouts.[67] Lights.[68]—Vessels must carry the prescribed lights,[69] which must be placed in the prescribed manner,[70] but a vessel will not be held in fault for failure to do so where it appears that the collision would not have been prevented had she complied with the rules.[71]

Signals.[72]—Vessels must give the required passing signals,[73] and answer those given by other vessels;[74] but a vessel will not be held in fault where her failure to give proper signals in no degree contributed to the collision.[75]

A vessel should signal her intention to change her course.[76] Proper fog signals

62. Breaking of ship from moorings during severe storm, and drifting into collision with another moored vessel, held due to her negligence in not putting out more fastening lines when warned of approaching storm. The Drumcraig, 133 F. 804. Occurrence which party charged with the collision could not possibly have prevented by the exercise of ordinary care, caution, and maritime skill. Collision between barge, cut loose from tow in fog in order to save towboat, and moored wharfboat, held the result of inevitable accident. Kenova Transp. Co. v. Monongahela River Consol. C. & C. Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 844. Must establish that collision occurred without any fault on her part and notwithstanding the exercise of due care and caution and a proper display of nautical skill. Collision held result of negligent navigation by yacht by running too close to shore. The Surf, 132 F. 880. Evidence insufficient to show inevitable accident. Foster v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 134 F. 964; The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

63. The Drumcraig, 133 F. 804.

64. The Georgetown, 135 F. 854. The testimony of officers and crew as to what was done on their own vessel is entitled to greater weight than that of witnesses on other boats who form opinions from mere observations. The Sitka, 132 F. 861; The H. S. Beard, 134 F. 648. As to course on which vessel was running. Minnesota S. S. Co. v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 22.

65. Of navigating officers of tug, in suit for collision by tow with another vessel. The Gladys, 135 F. 601. The failure of the vessel against which the preponderance of evidence exists to call all those likely to know the circumstances, at least among its own officers and crew. The Georgetown, 135 F. 854.

66. Statement of pilot of steamer that launch, which was sunk by collision, suddenly changed its course and ran directly into steamer, where only persons on board it were drowned. The Dauntless [C. C. A.] 129 F. 715.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1655.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1655, n. 86.

69. Barge in fault for failure to carry running lights so as to be visible to approaching vessels [Inspectors' rule 11; Act June 7, 1897, c. 4, 30 St. 96; Comp. St. 1901, p. 2875]. Foster v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 134 F. 964. Running lights of tug obscured by barges. Id. Evidence held to show that vessel had regulation lights, which were not defective. The Trader, 129 F. 462. Vessel held in fault because lights were defective. Must be defective where ought to have been seen but were not. The Pierre Corneille, 133 F. 604. Tug held to have displayed proper lights. Pilot rules for Western waters, rule 10. The Echo, 131 F. 622, afd. In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557.

70. Tug in fault for failure to have towing lights placed one over the other. Art. 3, Inland Nav. Rules, 30 St. 97, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2877. Insufficient when carried horizontally. Foster v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 134 F. 964.

71. The Virginia Jackson, 130 F. 221.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1655, n. 89-91.

73. Steamer in fault for failure to give signals required by rule 4 of the pilot rules for the Great Lakes on leaving her berth. The Sitka, 132 F. 861. Steamer in fault for failure to give proper signals. The Echo, 131 F. 622, afd. In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557. Collision held due to suction of steamer and that she was solely in fault for attempting to pass yacht without giving signals required by Inland Navigation Rules, art. 18, rule 8. Act June 7, 1897, c. 4, § 1, 30 St. 101, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2882. The North Star, 132 F. 145.

74. Tug in fault. The C. R. Hoyt, 136 F. 671.

75. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321.

76. Vessel in fault where collision made inevitable by suddenly changing her course without indicating intention to do so by signal. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

must also be given.[77] Unless in extreme cases, to give signals not called for by the international rules may be a fault.[78]

In the case of steamers passing on rivers, the pilot of the ascending steamer is required to first indicate the side on which he desires to pass, and his signal is controlling, unless the descending steamer deems such passing dangerous and so indicates by danger signals and a contrary signal.[79] The passing signal should not be given by one of two vessels approaching each other until the course of the other has been ascertained.[80] Error in signaling prematurely to pass on the starboard side gives a steamer no right to insist on passing on that side when the conditions are such as to require adherence to the rule requiring them to pass on the port side.[81]

A vessel should stop and sound an alarm when an approaching vessel gives a wrong passing signal,[82] or fails to respond to her signals.[83] Steam vessels are required to give danger signals when they reverse and move backwards, even if done with a view of avoiding collision.[84]

A vessel should act on a signal to which she has acceded.[85]

Lookouts.[86]—It is the duty of every steamer navigating the thoroughfares of commerce to have a trustworthy lookout in addition to the helmsman, who should ordinarily be stationed in the bow,[87] and his absence is prima facie evidence that she was to blame for a collision.[88] A vessel will not, however, be condemned for the absence of a lookout where it appears that such fault in no way contributed to the collision.[89]

(§ 7) C. Steering and sailing rules.[90]—A steamer must ordinarily keep out of the way of a sailing vessel,[91] an unincumbered vessel out of the way of an in-

77. Evidence held to show proper fog signals to have been given by tugs. The Chicago, 134 F. 1013. Evidence held to show that there was no such fog as to require anchored ship to ring fog bell. The Cypromene, 135 F. 558.

78. Especially in thick fog, with numerous vessels in neighborhood. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433.

79. Rule 1, pilot rules. Steamer going down stream held solely in fault for collision. Hudson v. Monongahela River Consol. Coal & Coke Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 173.

80, 81, 82, 83. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

84. Art. 18, rule 3, art. 28, Inland Nav. Rules. Act June 7, 1897, c. 4, 30 St. 100, 102, Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2882, 2884. Failure to give signals held to indicate that vessel stopped with view of being taken into dock rather than to avoid collision. The Georgetown, 135 F. 854. Steamer at fault for collision for backing in channel, while attempting to turn around, without giving signals. The Deutschland, 129 F. 964.

85. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1655, n. 87-88.

87. The Dauntless [C. C. A.] 129 F. 715. Tug with car float. The Gladiator, 132 F. 876. Yacht in fault for collision with submerged scow in tow. Failure to maintain lookout contributing cause. The H. S. Beard, 134 F. 648. Steamer in fault for collision in fog, either because of immoderate speed, or failure to hear signals. Should have had lookout in bow instead of in crow's nest. The Vedamore, 131 F. 154. Tug in fault for collision with anchored yacht for failure to see and avoid it. The Idlewild, 129 F. 846. Steamer in fault. The Echo, 131 F. 622, afd. In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557 on other grounds; The Sitka, 132 F. 861; The John I. Brady & The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 131 F. 235; City of New York v. New York & E. R. Ferry Co., 130 F. 397. Collision with anchored vessel. The Cypromene, 135 F. 558. Two tugs, neither of which had lookout on duty or gave any signals, held in fault for collision between their tows. The Robert Burnett, 134 F. 700. Vessel coming out of harbor in fog. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433. Tug with three barges in tow on long hawser solely in fault for collision between last of them and schooner, which was tacking and on crossing course, because, though schooner was seen when crossing tug's bows on former tack, no proper lookout was kept for her return, and no measures were taken to avoid collision when she was again seen. The Prudence [C. C. A.] 134 F. 358. Tug and tow held in fault, particularly as they were on wrong side of channel. The Winfield S. Cahill, 130 F. 989. Steamer at fault for collision for backing in channel without having lookout in stern. The Deutschland, 129 F. 964.

88. Steamer at fault for failure to have proper lookout. The Dauntless [C. C. A.] 129 F. 715.

89. Absence of lookout held not to have caused collision. The Tarpon, 132 F. 277; The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321. Failure of tug to see lights of tow not fault contributing to collision, where it was her duty to keep her course and speed, which she did until in extremis. The Virginia Jackson, 130 F. 221.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1656.

91. The Anson M. Bangs [C. C. A.] 129 F.

cumbered one,[92] and a vessel sailing with the wind free out of the way of one sailing close hauled.[93] A sailing vessel, even with abundant sea room ahead, is not bound to run out her tacks when running in the vicinity of another vessel.[94]

It is the duty of a vessel overtaking another to keep out of her way,[95] and, when attempting to pass her, to keep far enough off the course of the latter to avoid the influence of suction.[96]

Steam vessels approaching each other head on are required to pass each other port to port.[97]

When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel having the other on her own starboard side must keep out of her way.[98] A steamer approaching a sailing vessel on a crossing course is bound to keep out of her way, and if necessary, to slacken speed, stop, or reverse, and to act in time to avoid risk of collision.[99]

In narrow channels a steam vessel is required, when it is safe and practical to do so, to keep to that side of the fair-way or mid-channel lying on her starboard side.[1]

In rivers the descending vessel is ordinarily required to keep in the center of

103. When ungovernable. Transfer tug with car floats in fault for collision with becalmed schooner, though she was rightfully on that side of channel and stopped in due time, where she did not get out of the way, though she had time to do so. The Transfer No. 11, 130 F. 1019.

92. See, also, § 7E, post. A steamer having easy and perfect command of her own movements is bound to keep out of the way of a cumbersome tow going slowly, where there is nothing in the way to prevent her doing so. The Echo [C. C. A.] 131 F. 622, afd. on other grounds, In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557. Bound to keep out of her way, and to avoid any risk of collision. Steamer solely in fault, evidence being insufficient to sustain her contention that her stopping was justified by sheering of barge. The Georgetown, 135 F. 854.

93. The Pierre Corneille, 133 F. 604. Art. 17a, Rules of Nav., c. 4, 30 St. 100, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2869. The Eagle Wing, 135 F. 826.

94. The Prudence [C. C. A.] 134 F. 358.

95. International Rules, art. 24. The Edward Smith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 32. Steamer with tow in fault for attempting to pass another steamer, which she overtook, without signals and so as to enter channel leading into St. Clair canal nearly abreast of her, in violation of rules. Id. Vessel in fault for not having seasonably signified her unwillingness that other should pass her, and in checking unreasonably and irrationally under conditions likely to subject her more strongly to influence of suction at stern of passing vessel. Id. Evidence held not to show that schooner was overtaking vessel. The Gladys, 135 F. 601.

96. The Edward Smith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 32.

97. Art. 18, rule 1, of rules of supervising inspectors [Act June 7, 1897, c. 4, § 1, 30 St. 100, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2881]. The John I. Brady & The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 131 F. 235. Evidence insufficient to show custom allowing tows to keep on westward side of channel. Id. Each is required to give way sufficiently to allow them to do so. Vessel in fault for signaling to pass on starboard side, and persisting in signal. The Trader, 129 F. 462. Tug in fault for failure to observe rule. The New York Central No. 2, 132 F. 167. Ascending tug held solely in fault for collision on ground that she attempted cross bows of meeting tug and pass starboard to starboard, when situation such as to render port to port passing proper, and contrary to proper signal given by descending tug. The Three Brothers, 136 F. 479. Passing of two meeting tugs with long tows starboard to starboard not a violation of the rule, where necessary to enable upbound vessel to safely pass through span of bridge, it being shown that such had been the custom since the bridge was built. The Cornell, 134 F. 694.

98. Art. 19, Inland Nav. Rules, 30 St. 101, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2883. Steamer wholly in fault for collision with ferry boat. The Steinway [C. C. A.] 135 F. 344. Evidence held to show that ferry and tug with barges were on crossing courses, and latter liable for collision. Duty of tug not to attempt to cross ahead of ferry, and if necessary to slow up or stop and reverse. Foster v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 134 F. 964. Tug with tows in fault for collision between another tug on a crossing course and her starboard barge. The Virginia Jackson, 130 F. 221.

99. Inland Nav. Rules, arts. 20-23, 30 St. 101, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2883. Presence of passing steamer renders observance all the more necessary. Donald v. Guy, 135 F. 429. Pilot of steamer solely in fault for collision for failure to change course or speed until collision was unavoidable. No right to assume that sailing vessel will keep her tack. Id.

1. Art. 25 of Inland Navigation Rules (Act June 7, 1897, c. 4, 30 St. 101; Comp. St. 1901, p. 2883). Rule not absolute, but to be considered in connection with other rules, and may be changed by circumstances. Steamer in fault for collision because of its violation. The Dauntless [C. C. A.] 129 F. 715. Steamer not in fault for collision with drifting scow [Pilot Rules, art. 25, p. 17]. The Tarpon, 132 F. 277.

the channel.[2] Vessels descending the St. Clair river have the right of way, and are required to signal on which side they will pass ascending ones.[3] Vessels ascending the Mississippi river near New Orleans are required to keep on the right hand side of the channel.[4] A vessel passing down a river on the wrong side of the channel takes the risk in so doing, and should take extra precautions to avoid collisions with vessels coming up.[5]

The mere fact that a tug with a tow, on meeting a steamer, gives the first passing signal, does not make the latter the privileged vessel.[6] Meeting vessels should give attention to each other,[7] and not approach too close for safety.[8] A vessel attempting to cross the bows of another should first ascertain whether there are any vessels on the other side.[9]

The privileged vessel is ordinarily bound to keep her course and speed,[10] at least until it is plain that the other cannot so maneuver as to avert the peril,[11] and must give full and fair notice of an intention to depart therefrom.[12] There is a presumption that she did so,[13] but when such presumption is overthrown, and a fault on her part, sufficient in itself to account for the collision, is established, she has the burden of proving fault on the part of the other vessel beyond a reasonable doubt.[14] A vessel undertaking to change the ordinary course which she is expected to take does so at her own risk.[15] A vessel suddenly sheering from her course will ordinarily be presumed in fault for a resulting collision.[16]

2. Tug coming down river with two car floats in fault for not being in center of channel as required by local statute. The Transit, 130 F. 996; The Echo [C. C. A.] 131 F. 622, afd. on other grounds, In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557.

3. Rule 24 of act relating to St. Clair river (28 St. 645, 649, Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2886, 2891) gives descending boat right of way and requires her to signal on which side she will pass ascending boat. The Yuma [C. C. A.] 132 F. 964. Descending steamer with tow not in fault for failure to keep on American side of channel in accordance with order of war department, where ascending steamer assented to her signal to pass starboard to starboard, and there was ample room to pass in that manner. Id.

4. Tug and tow held in proper place in river according to the customary course of navigation. The Echo [C. C. A.] 131 F. 622, afd. on other grounds, In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557.

5. The Wingfield S. Cahill, 130 F. 989.

6. The Georgetown, 135 F. 854. See, also, The Trader, 129 F. 462.

7. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

8. Steamer and tug with tows held equally in fault. The John I. Brady & The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 131 F. 235.

9. Tug in fault for attempting to cross bows of tug with car floats, without knowing that there was no vessel on other side. The Transit, 130 F. 996.

10. The Virginia Jackson, 130 F. 221. Sailing vessel. Donald v. Guy, 135 F. 429. Art. 21, Inland Nav. Rules. Steamer wholly in fault for collision with ferry boat. The Steinway [C. C. A.] 135 F. 344. Ferry boat in fault for collision. The Susquehanna, 134 F. 641. Sailing vessel solely in fault for collision because she changed course and ran across course of approaching sailing vessel, when it was too late for latter to avoid her, and after she had led latter to believe that she would keep her course. The Eagle Wing, 135 F. 826. A vessel sailing close-hauled is justified in maintaining her course as against an approaching vessel sailing free, in the absence of some clear indication that the latter will fail in her duty to keep out of the way. The Pierre Corneille, 133 F. 604. The pilot of the privileged vessel must continue his course without assuming that the obligated vessel will not yield to him in accordance with the signals already exchanged [23 St. 438, rule 22. Inland Pilot Rules, rule 1]. The C. R. Hoyt, 136 F. 671. Tug in fault for failure to slacken speed, or stop and reverse when danger of collision. Special circumstance under Rule 23. Id. The rule that a vessel which has come into collision had a right to proceed on the assumption that the other vessel would perform her duty has a limited effect, and is misleading unless carefully applied. Held not to apply under circumstances. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433. Steamer in fault for changing course after schooner was seen on nearly meeting course. The Chelsea, 135 F. 616.

11. Tug held solely in fault for collision with schooner on crossing course, for persisting in her course upon theory that schooner would not run out her tack, as she had a right to do. The Anson M. Bangs [C. C. A.] 129 F. 103.

12. The Susquehanna, 134 F. 641.

13, 14. The Eagle Wing, 135 F. 826.

15. Vessel undertaking to change rule of passing to right bound to exercise correct judgment in executing maneuver. Shortland Bros. Co. v. New York, 129 F. 973.

16. In ordinary weather, in a fairly ample space for navigation, and being under no special stress of circumstances occurring without her fault. Minnesota S. S. Co. v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 22. Steamer sheering toward course of meet-

A vessel directed to keep out of the way of another must, if the circumstances of the case permit, avoid crossing ahead of her.[17]

Passing vessels should allow sufficient space for the ordinary contingencies of navigation.[18]

Vessels should not proceed at excessive speed in harbors or other places where other vessels are liable to be encountered,[19] particularly in a fog.[20]

In a dense fog and in waters frequented by vessels, every reasonable precaution should be observed.[21] Vessels attempting to cross courses in a dense fog, when neither can see each other in time to avoid a collision, are both in fault.[22] A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog signal of a vessel, the position of which is not ascertained, is bound, in so far as the circumstances permit, to stop her engines, and then to navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.[23]

A steamer passing near a dock at such a high rate of speed as to cause dangerous swells is liable for the resulting damage.[24]

A ferryboat is entitled to the space requisite for her proper maneuver in leaving as well as in entering her slip.[25]

(§ 7) D. Vessels anchored, drifting, grounded.[26]—A moving vessel is ordinarily bound to keep out of the way of a vessel at rest;[27] or of one anchored or moored,[28] and, in case of a collision, there is a presumption that she was in fault.[29]

ing steamer and tow after passing former. The Yuma [C. C. A.] 132 F. 964.

17. Art. 22 Inland Nav. Rules. Steamer wholly in fault for collision with ferry boat. The Steinway [C. C. A.] 135 F. 344.

18. Tugs towing canal boats and tugs towing ship all held in fault. The Dictator, 132 F. 164. Steamer in fault for collision with launches, there being no necessity for passing so near them as to create hazard, and even if launches were in some respects careless, collision would not have occurred had proper care been taken on board steamer after their lights were seen. The Dauntless [C. C. A.] 129 F. 715. Steamer in fault for failing to sooner observe course of steamer and tow, and avoiding them by giving them more room. The Yuma [C. C. A.], 132 F. 964.

19. Steamer passing between meeting tows solely in fault for collision. American S. S. Co. v. American Steel Barge Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 65. Vessel in fault for coming out of slip too fast. Shortland Bros. Co. v. New York, 129 F. 973. Steamer not in fault for excessive speed. The Sitka, 132 F. 861. At night. The Cypromene, 135 F. 558.

20. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433. Steamer at fault for collision with anchored lighter. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321. Speed of 10 knots in fog excessive. The Chelsea, 135 F. 616. Schooner sailing at 6 knots not chargeable with contributory fault, where fog was not thick where she was, and she was reducing speed on entering thick part. Id. Six knots excessive speed for steamship in thick fog in frequented part of ocean. In re Clyde S. S. Co., 134 F. 95. Speed of tug excessive. The Gladiator, 132 F. 876. Ferry boats must proceed cautiously in a fog, particularly when other boats are known to be near. In fault for excessive speed, and failure to hear fog signals of tugs. The Chicago, 134 F. 1013.

21. The Vedamore, 131 F. 154. Must use extraordinary care in harbor. Steamer in fault for deviating from true course. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673. Vessel in track of vessels leaving port, in a fog and without necessity, may be in fault for collision, though would not have been had she been in line of voyage. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433.

22. Both of two ferryboats in fault, one for attempting maneuver, and other for assenting to it and changing course so as to swing nearer other, though she immediately stopped and reversed her engines. Hall v. North Pacific Coast R. Co., 134 F. 309.

23. Int. Nav. Rules, art. 16. Act Aug. 19, 1890, c. 802, 26 St. 326, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2868. Vessel in fault for failing to observe rule. In re Clyde S. S. Co., 134 F. 95.

24. Liable where swells damaged lighter and caused her to dump part of her cargo. The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, 134 F. 1012. Liable for resulting injuries to canal boat in tow, which was knocked against another boat in tow. The Asbury Park, 136 F. 269.

25. The Steinway [C. C. A.] 135 F. 344. Steamer at fault for keeping too close to shore while proceeding through Hell Gate, so as not to be able to see situation and avoid danger. Id.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1657.

27. The Col. John F. Gaynor [C. C. A.] 130 F. 856. A steamer which has stopped her engines, while lying at a quarantine station where it is not customary to anchor, and is moving only slightly with the tide and is without steerageway, has, as regards passing vessels, to a large extent the rights of a vessel at rest. Tug towing scows without rudders solely in fault for collision between one of them and steamer, in failing to keep at safe distance in passing, there being plenty of room to do so. Id.

28. When she can do so with reasonable practicability, having regard for her own safety. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co.,

The rule applies irrespective of whether or not the anchored vessel is in a proper and safe place.[30] It is, however, unlawful to tie up or anchor vessels or other craft in navigable channels in such a manner as to prevent or obstruct the passage of other vessels,[31] and a vessel anchoring outside the anchorage limits of a harbor, without sufficient excuse, will be held in fault for a resulting collision.[32]

A vessel not equipped with proper anchors, or not properly anchored, will be held in fault for a collision caused by her dragging her anchors and coming in contact with another anchored vessel.[33] The duty of an anchored vessel to change her position to avoid collision depends upon circumstances.[34]

By statute in New York all vessels are prohibited from lying at the end of any pier in the North or East river, and any vessel so lying cannot claim damages for any injury caused by another vessel entering or leaving any adjacent pier.[35] The statute is penal in character, and is not to be extended by construction.[36] The exemption extends only to injuries caused by such vessel obstructing the entrance to an adjacent pier.[37]

A barge rightfully lying at the end of a pier which refuses the offer of a steamship to remove her temporarily while such ship was making her berth and to return her afterwards, takes the risk of injury from the docking of such ship, if the latter is properly handled, and cannot recover therefor without proving fault.[38]

A vessel having another between herself and the dock must exercise proper care to prevent injury to her.[39] Where a vessel is fastened to another one lying at a dock, and the additional strain on the latter's moorings is obvious, it is incumbent on both to provide against it by additional moorings.[40]

It is the duty of one inviting vessels to his wharf to provide a safe berth

132 F. 174. Tug in fault for collision of tow with anchored steamer, for failure to make sufficient allowance for swing of tow, for which there was ample room. The Charles E. Matthews, 132 F. 143. Evidence held to sustain finding that injury to barge while lying at wharf was due to negligent navigation by steamboat towing raft of logs. Spencer v. Bertrand [C. C. A.] 133 F. 46.

29. Federal Ins. Co. v. Starin, 134 F. 1010. Burden on her to absolve herself from blame. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174. Tug with tow on long line solely in fault for collision between tow and steamer, which was about to anchor and had stopped her engines, though she might have been moving a little with tide. Britain S. S. Co. v. King Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 62. Vessel at anchor. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321.

30. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174. It will be presumed that she is in fault for collision with vessel moored outside of channel, unless it is affirmatively shown that the accident could not have been avoided by the exercise of human skill and precaution. Id.

31. Act March 3, 1899, c. 425, § 15, 30 St. 1152, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3543. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321. Does not condemn lighter compelled to anchor in Hudson river because of fog, which made her way to side on which were anchorage grounds as far as was considered safe, and anchored after taking soundings which indicated that she was within them. Id. Forbidden to anchor in channels except in cases of great emergency, and then must anchor as near the edge of the channel as possible, and remain only until they can procure assistance. Rules & Regulations relating to Anchorage of Vessels in the Port of New York, p. 7. Steamship in fault for remaining anchored in channel after necessity therefor had ceased. The Charles E. Matthews, 132 F. 143.

32. New York Bay. The Idlewild, 129 F. 846.

33. Vessel in fault for collision with anchored schooner. The Robert Rickmers, 131 F. 638.

34. Anchored schooner held not in fault for collision with another vessel which dragged her anchors and drifted against her in gale, either because of absence of captain or for failure to set her sails. The Robert Rickmers, 131 F. 638.

35. Laws 1897, p. 314, c. 378, § 879. The Chauncey M. Depew, 130 F. 59.

36. The Chauncey M. Depew, 130 F. 59.

37. Does not extend to case where canal boat lying at end of pier was struck by barge which tug was intending to leave at end of pier. The Chauncey M. Depew, 130 F. 59.

38. The Minneapolis [C. C. A.] 130 F. 111.

39. Steamship liable for breaking guard rail of barge between herself and dock, caused by pressing barge against dock, on ground that proper care was not exercised in adjusting booms so as to keep her off with changing tide. The Adelaide, 131 F. 1002.

40. Where, through failure to do so, they go adrift, salvage services rendered to inner one will be charged against both. McWilliams v. New York, 134 F. 1015.

thereat.[41] He is bound to know the condition of the bottom and the depth of the water on the premises,[42] and is responsible for injuries resulting from his failure to warn vessels using the wharf of obstructions on the bottom of which he has knowledge, or which he could have discovered by the exercise of proper care.[43] The defense of contributory negligence on the part of the libelants, when relied upon, must be affirmatively proven by a preponderance of evidence.[44]

(§ 7) E. Tugs and tows, pilot boats, fishing vessels, etc.[45]—An engagement to tow imposes on the tug neither the obligations of an insurer nor of a common carrier,[46] and she is therefore obligated to the exercise of reasonable diligence only.[47] Her master will not be deemed negligent where his course, though it proved not to have been the best, was justified by the conditions as they then appeared.[48]

The tug is ordinarily bound to exercise ordinary diligence to see that the tow is properly made up, and that the hawsers are of proper length,[49] and securely fastened, particularly when there is only one man on the tow.[50] She should not take a boat in tow in the absence of her master,[51] nor when the weather is too rough for safety.[52]

She is the pilot of the voyage, and responsible for the navigation of both ves-

41. Implied undertaking that he has taken reasonable care to ascertain that bottom is not in condition to cause injury to vessel. The Nellie, 130 F. 213. At fault for maintaining dangerous mooring place, bottom being uneven, and water, at low tide, insufficient for loaded boats to lie there safely. The Thomas Quigley [C. C. A.] 130 F. 336.

42. The Thomas Quigley [C. C. A.] 130 F. 336. Owner, having lighter brought to wharf on Sunday during temporary absence of master, assumes duty of having it so placed as to be safe, mooring place being dangerous at low tide. Id.

43. Liable for injuries to barge caused by submerged pile, whose existence was known to respondent's manager. The Nellie, 130 F. 213. Liable for injury to vessel by sunken pile, which could have been discovered and removed by exercise of fair degree of prudence. Barber v. Lockwood, 134 F. 985.

44. Boatmen using wharf not negligent because they made erroneous guess as to why certain fenders were placed on bottom, in absence of notice that they were for protection against submerged pile. The Nellie, 130 F. 213.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1659.

46. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632; Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174; Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546.

47. Means very great diligence in view of fact that tug is generally at home, while tow is stranger, and in view of nature of service. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546. Ordinary care and maritime skill. Tug held in fault for sinking of tow by striking obstructions in channel. The Inca, 130 F. 36. In releasing tow after she grounded. Id. Such caution and skill as prudent navigators ordinarily exercise in like employment. Tugs held solely in fault for collision between tow and moored vessel. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174. Ordinary care and skill, such as a reasonably prudent man would exercise under the circumstances. Care and diligence must be proportional to the magnitude of the peril. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632. Reasonable care and diligence. The Joseph Peene, 130 F. 489.

48. The Britannia, 134 F. 948. Tug with ship in tow overran course, owing to fog and snow, and finding herself near shore attempted to go to sea, but was unable to do so on account of strong wind, and ship stranded. Held, that she exercised skill and ordinary care required of her and was not liable for loss. Id.

49. Tug solely in fault for sinking of barge by striking cribbing of bridge while passing through draw, because she was towing with too long hawsers. The Maurice [C. C. A.] 135 F. 516. Cannot shift responsibility upon bridge owner on ground that if cribbing had been in perfect condition collision would not have injured barge. Id. Statements made by master of barge as to cause of collision not relevant as admissions because not authorized by libellant, and too remote to be part of res gestae. Id. Responsible for injuries resulting from negligence in so making up tow that canal boat was filled with water, and was struck by a scow. The Ganoga, 130 F. 399.

50. Tug held liable for damages to tow having only one man on board by collision, whether line was not properly fastened or became loose from effect of prior collision. The Lyndhurst, 129 F. 843. Cannot escape liability for failure to perform such duty by turning it over to the master of such boat. Is agent of tug in handling hawser. Id.

51. Temporary absence of master from lighter on Sunday held not such contributory negligence as to preclude him from collecting damages for its injury through fault of tug and cargo owner. The Thomas Quigley [C. C. A.] 130 F. 336.

52. Evidence held to show negligence in taking out tow in rough weather owing to the manner in which it was made up. The Ganoga [C. C. A.] 135 F. 747.

sels,[53] and is bound to know the accustomed waterways and channels, the depth of the water, and the nature and formation of the bottom, whether in its natural state or not.[54] If the peculiarities involve any special hazard, she must, in so far as by the exercise of due diligence she might have ascertained them, make them known to the tow,[55] and must exercise care and skill commensurate with the peril she assumes to encounter.[56] If she performs such duties she is not liable for injuries resulting to the tow, which could not have been prevented by the exercise of reasonable care and skill in the act of towing,[57] but is responsible for damages resulting from her negligence in the immediate act of towing, which could have been prevented by such care and skill, notwithstanding the hazards.[58] If she fails in such duties she is liable for the consequences, whatever amount of care she may have used in the act of towing.[59]

A tug undertaking to continue the voyage against the protest of the master of the tow is required to take every precaution for her safety.[60] It is also her duty to leave the tow in a safe place.[61] In case she takes a lighter in tow in the absence of her master, it is her duty to deliver her to the care of some competent person at her destination.[62] Where a tug fastens three barges together and supplies an anchor to the third, none of them having anchors of their own, the latter becomes the agent of the tug as to the other two, and its fault in the management of the anchor is that of the tug.[63]

The master of a boat offering her for towage represents her as sufficiently strong to withstand the ordinary perils to be encountered on the voyage,[64] and 53. The Joseph Peene, 130 F. 489. Must manage and direct the course of navigation of the tow. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632. Tugs in fault for stranding of tow in narrow and crooked channel unknown to captain of tow, for failing to seasonably direct her to start her engines forward. Id. Injury to barge chartered to respondent held due to negligence on part of respondent's tug in bringing her in violent contact with wharf. Blakeslee v. New York, etc., R. Co., 132 F. 153.

54. When all these conditions as they exist admit of safe towage, tug responsible for any negligence in failing to observe and be guided by them. The Inca, 130 F. 36. Obliged to have general knowledge of situation and its difficulties. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174. "Bound to know" means that she must exercise proper diligence in ascertaining condition. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546. Presumed to know channel and obstructions. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632. Evidence held to show that barge in tow did not strike on uncharted and unknown rock in center of channel so as to relieve tug from liability. The Triton [C. C. A.] 129 F. 698.

55. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546. Will not be excused where the danger could have been avoided by timely measures of precaution. Duty of tug knowing of obstructions unknown to those on tow to warn the latter, particularly when he believes that she is not being properly steered. The Inca, 130 F. 36.

56. The Inca, 130 F. 36. A tug exercising her own option as to the course pursued is bound to the strictest care, and will be charged with liability for loss due to tow striking a rock, in the absence of evidence to show that it was not properly following. Passing through narrow channel between two islands instead of taking safer course. The Triton [C. C. A.] 129 F. 698.

57. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546.

58. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546. Tugs negligent in persisting in efforts to pull vessel over bar after she grounded instead of drawing her off by stern. Id.

59. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546.

60. Tug liable to injuries to tow caused by ice. The Joseph Peene, 130 F. 489. Responsible for the loss of a tow which she failed to land, on request of her master, when the danger to her became apparent. The Ganoga, 130 F. 399.

61. Tug in fault for grounding of lighter, for leaving it in unsafe place, it being her duty to leave it in the best situation to cross the bar and enter the harbor. The S. C. Hart, 132 F. 536. Tug not in fault for sinking of barge, left at dock in accordance with custom, and injured by pile on bottom, the accident being due to the extraordinarily low tide, and the dock being a safe place under ordinary conditions. The Media, 132 F. 148. Tug, leaving three barges at anchor, two being fastened to third which was supplied with anchor by tug, none of them having anchors of their own, held negligent in leaving them without sufficient protection against conditions which might have been anticipated, though anchor was sufficient at time, and liable for half of damages due to dragging of anchor. The Flushing, 134 F. 757.

62. The Thomas Quigley [C. C. A.] 130 F. 336.

63. The Flushing, 134 F. 757.

64. Dady v. Bacon, 133 F. 986. Evidence the tug is absolved from liability for any loss caused by her unseaworthiness, unless the defects are obvious.[65]

The tow should be provided with an efficient crew,[66] and with sufficient anchors.[67] In case she is injured during the voyage she must notify the tug of that fact.[68] It is the duty of the tow to exercise all reasonable care.[69] She must follow the course of the tug,[70] and conform to and promptly obey her signals.[71]

The duties imposed on both the tug and the tow arise by operation of law and not from the contract of towage.[72]

The burden is generally on the tow to show a failure to perform the contract or unskillfulness in performance resulting in injury,[73] but there may be a presumption of negligence on the part of the tug where the injury occurs while attempting to navigate a well known channel.[74] Where a prima facie case of negligence is made out against the tug, she has the burden of exonerating herself from liability by showing that the accident occurred from some cause for which she was not in fault.[75]

A vessel is liable in damages for the consequences of the acts of the master of a tug, who knowingly violates a reasonable regulation prescribed by lawful authority, while in the service of such vessel as local pilot.[76]

Two tugs belonging to the same owner and co-operating in the towing service under one common direction are both liable for the fault of either.[77]

A tug with several tows on a long line will be regarded as one vessel, and is required to exercise extreme care to avoid collision,[78] particularly when in harbors.[79] held not to sustain contention that contract required towing vessel to keep along shore and to take unusual care of tow, in view of her age and condition. Id.

65. Barge unseaworthy because not in fit condition to tow safely in ordinary weather without special care. Damages divided because of negligence in taking her in tow and in not observing proper care in accordance with her condition. Dady v. Bacon, 133 F. 986. Collision between tow and anchored scow held solely the fault of former because steering gear had been out of order for some days, to knowledge of owner and master, by reason of which she failed to follow tug. Tug had no knowledge of defect, and was entitled to assume that she could be steered. The Alfred W. Booth [C. C. A.] 135 F. 519.

66. Libellant in fault for failure to provide such a crew for lighter. Might have been able to avoid grounding after it was left in unsafe place by tug. The S. C. Hart, 132 F. 536.

67. Barges in fault. The Flushing, 134 F. 757.

68. Of damage caused by being knocked into another tow by swells of passing steamer. The Asbury Park, 136 F. 269.

69. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174. Tow in fault for collision because of wrong maneuver. Fault not attributable to towing steamer. The Sitka, 132 F. 861.

70. Tow in fault. The Yuma [C. C. A.] 132 F. 964. On the question as to whether a tow was in fault the judgment of the responsible parties exercised on the spot must ordinarily prevail. Where captain of tug was able to see and comprehend situation perfectly, and made no signal to barge, but testified that he supposed she would clear rock, cannot contend that she was not steered properly. The Triton [C. C. A.] 129 F. 698.

71. Of pilot tug. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174. Signals and directions. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632.

72. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174.

73. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632.

74. Stranding of tow in channel. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632.

75. Burden on tug to account for apparently unnecessary grounding, and libellant held entitled to damages. Burr v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 248.

76. Anchoring her in harbor without permit in violation of harbor regulations. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673.

77. The W. G. Mason, 131 F. 632. Where employed generally by a single contract with the common owner to tow a steamer, both liable for any injury to another vessel resulting from a collision with the tow, due to the failure of one of them to properly perform the service. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174.

78. Tug with three tows on single line, the whole 4,000 feet in length, in fault for collision between one of them and schooner. The Gladys, 135 F. 601. When navigating New England coast. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433.

79. Tug solely in fault for collision between tow and schooner for failure to keep out of her way, schooner having properly held her course until danger of collision became imminent. The John Fleming, 136 F. 486.

Tugs with tows are not warranted in obstructing ferry slips for an unreasonable length of time, even in a fog,[80] or in loitering in front of the entrance to a harbor.[81]

Tugs towing a submerged scow must place a signal upon it, or give some notice to approaching vessels of its presence and position.[82]

Where the tug is employed by the master or owners of the tow as the mere motive power to propel her from one point to another, and both vessels are under the exclusive control, direction, and management of the master and crew of the tow, she is not responsible for the faults of the tow.[83]

(§ 7) F. Sole or divided liability, and division of damages.[84]—A vessel clearly shown to have been guilty of a fault adequate in itself to account for a collision has the burden of clearly proving contributory negligence on the part of the other vessel.[85] The skill, knowledge, and ability of the crews of the two vessels may be taken into consideration in fixing the fault.[86]

The owner may maintain a suit against the pilot to recover damages paid by him for a collision caused by the pilot's negligence, notwithstanding the fact that they were paid without suit.[87] Ordinarily his right of action will not be deemed barred by laches where suit is commenced within the time allowed by the state statutes to sue at law on similar claims.[88]

A decree against a part owner of a vessel for damages resulting from a collision must be limited to the proportion of the damage that his individual share of the vessel bears to the whole.[89]

A mere volunteer to whom claims for damages by collision have been assigned solely for purposes of suit, and who has no interest therein, has no standing to prosecute them in admiralty.[90]

80. Tugs in fault for not having sufficient power to handle tow with reasonable dispatch. The Chicago, 134 F. 1013.

81. Tug in fault for loitering with tows in front of harbor, and in failing to change her course, rule prohibiting change in fog not being applicable under circumstances. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433.

82. Sounding alarm signals and shouts of crew insufficient warning. Dangerous obstruction to navigation. The H. S. Beard, 134 F. 648.

83. Where tug lashed to vessel and in all things with respect to navigation of fleet is subject to orders of pilot on tow. In re Walsh [C. C. A.] 136 F. 557, afg. The Echo, 131 F. 622.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1661.

85. Burden of steamer to prove that lighter was anchored outside of anchorage grounds. Evidence insufficient. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321. The burdened vessel, having been found guilty of faults sufficient in themselves to account for the collision, has the burden of proving that they could not have caused or contributed to it, all reasonable doubts being resolved in favor of the other vessel. The Georgetown, 135 F. 854. Rule that other vessel to be presumed not in fault artificial and misleading, unless very carefully applied. May operate in reverse directions according to which vessel's faults first considered. The Admiral Schley [C. C. A.] 131 F. 433. Where her fault is palpable and adequate to account for a collision, she cannot impugn the management of another vessel for the purpose of apportioning the damages, without clear proof of contributing fault on its part. Evidence insufficient to show fault on part of steamer and barge in tow. American S. S. Co. v. American Steel Barge Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 65. Must overcome favorable presumption by preponderance of evidence. The Sitka, 132 F. 861. Steamer not in fault for collision with scow. The Tarpon, 132 F. 277. Steamer passing between meeting tows held solely in fault for collision, both because of her excessive speed, and her course after passing one of the towing steamers. American S. S. Co. v. American Steel Barge Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 65. Peculiarly applicable in case of vessel at anchor. The Newburgh [C. C. A.] 130 F. 321. Where vessel an offender in running into vessel at anchor, evidence as to fault of latter must be clear and convincing. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673. Vessel running into another at anchor on anchorage grounds must show necessity for latter to have given fog signals required by Act June 7, 1897, c. 4, 30 St. 99, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2880. Federal Ins. Co. v. Starin, 134 F. 1010. Evidence insufficient to charge anchored vessel with contributory fault. Id. Clear proof of contributory fault is required. Rebstock v. Gilchrist Transp. Co., 132 F. 174.

86. Where testimony as to what was done on one vessel is conflicting and uncertain, and as to other is clear and positive, or where witnesses of one are intelligent, experienced and apparently reliable, and those of other vessel are not. The Eagle Wing, 135 F. 826.

87, 88. Donald v. Guy, 135 F. 429.

89. Act June 26, 1884, c. 121, § 18, 23 St.

Where the collision is due to the fault of two or more vessels, the damages and costs will be divided.[91] In case the two in fault are both damaged, the one receiving the greater damage will be allowed to recover from the other one-half of the difference between the amounts of their respective losses.[92]

The right of a libeled vessel, held liable for all cargo damages in a suit for collision, to recoup one-half the amount so paid from another vessel held to be equally in fault, but which was not a party to the original suit, rests on the doctrine of contribution rather than on that of subrogation,[93] and hence the fact that the right of action against it by cargo owners is barred by limitations is no defense.[94]

(§ 7) G. Ascertainment and measure of damages.[95]—The measure of damages for the sinking of a vessel in a collision, when she is a total loss, is her value at the time of the loss, with interest,[96] to which may be added the necessary expenses of raising her, when such a course is necessary to determine whether she can be repaired advantageously,[97] and the expense of removing her from a place where she is liable to be an obstruction to navigation.[98] The fact that the wreck has been sold for a sum more or less considerable does not affect the rule, except that the wrongdoer will be credited with the price received.[99]

In case she is not a total loss, the measure of damages is the reasonable expense of raising and repairing her to an extent sufficient to put her in as good condition as she was before the collision,[1] including expenses incurred in securing a new rating,[2] dockage expenses,[3] the wages of a watchman while she is necessarily detained,[4] necessary and reasonable commissions paid agents by foreign owners for disbursing the amounts necessary to pay repair bills,[5] and a reasonable fee paid by them to the ship's agent for his services in arranging to obtain bids, drawing up contracts, and other like services in connection with the repairs.[6] In either case the burden is upon the owner to prove the amount of his loss.[7]

A respondent who is sought to be charged with the original value of the vessel may show in mitigation of damages that she can be restored, by repairs, to her original condition for a smaller sum, and may satisfy his liability by pay-

57, 1 Supp. Rev. St. p. 443, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2945. The Adelaide, 131 F. 1002.

90. Assignments merely colorable and nothing paid therefor. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

91. The Translt, 130 F. 996; The C. R. Hoyt, 136 F. 671. Yacht and submerged scow in tow. The H. S. Beard, 134 F. 648. Steamer and vessel anchored in harbor in fog and in violation of harbor regulations. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673. Tug in fault for insufficiently anchoring tow, and tow for not having anchor. The Flushing, 134 F. 757. Two steamers, one of which attempted to pass other, each liable for half of damages resulting from collision with tow of passing steamer. The Edward Smith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 32. Insurance company held entitled to recover for loss of cargo on canal boat injured by swells of passing steamer so that she sank. Damages to boat divided between owners and steamer. The Asbury Park, 136 F. 269. Damages caused by sinking of unseaworthy tow divided because of negligence in taking her in tow and in not observing proper care in accordance with her condition. Dady v. Bacon, 133 F. 986.

92. The C. R. Hoyt, 136 F. 671.

93, 94. The Conemaugh, 135 F. 240.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1662.

96. The Reno [C. C. A.] 134 F. 555. Value with interest, and net freight pending at time of collision. The Cumberland, 135 F. 234.

97, 98. The Reno [C. C. A.] 134 F. 555.

99. The Cumberland, 135 F. 234.

1. The Reno [C. C. A.] 134 F. 555. Items for painting, labor, dockage, etc., not made necessary by collision, disallowed. The Dorchester, 134 F. 564. Items for expenses incurred in procuring evidence for use at hearing of cross libels for collision disallowed. Id.

2, 3, 4. The Sequoia, 132 F. 625.

5. The Dorchester, 134 F. 564.

6. Especially where vessel is modern steel steamer, and repairs require special superintendence and knowledge of the responsibility of bidders. The Dorchester, 134 F. 564.

7. No allowance will be made for items not proven. Damages reduced. The Reno [C. C. A.] 134 F. 555. Evidence insufficient to establish amount of loss, after eliminating hearsay evidence. The Anson M. Bangs [C. C. A.] 129 F. 103.

ing the cost of such repairs.[8] So too, if the cost of repairs is greater than the loss of value, he may ordinarily satisfy his liability by paying the latter sum.[9]

The allowance of interest by way of damages in collision cases is ordinarily in the discretion of the court,[10] but this does not apply to a suit for personal injuries.[11] In case the recovery is for loss of value, interest will ordinarily be allowed from the date of the collision to the time of payment.[12] In case it is for the cost of repairs, the libellant is entitled to demurrage as compensation for the loss of the vessel's use during repair,[13] or, in case she is sold without repairing, but before repairs could have been completed, to demurrage up to the time of sale.[14] But where other substantial repairs of benefit to the vessel are made at the same time, which must have necessarily been made in the near future, a deduction should be made on account thereof from the amount recoverable.[15] He is not entitled to recover her probable earnings on a voyage voluntarily abandoned because of such detention, in order to be ready to enter on another charter previously made.[16]

A libellant recovering damages for a collision for which his own vessel was not in fault is, in the absence of a showing of fraud, entitled to costs, though the amount recovered is much less than that claimed.[17] Where the libeled vessel is held without fault for a collision and the libel dismissed, it is proper to allow respondent to tax all costs necessarily or properly incurred, including those incident to the bringing in of a new party.[18]

§ 8. Carriage of passengers.[19]—A carrier of passengers by sea is held to the greatest possible care and diligence,[20] but is not an insurer,[21] and does not warrant that the vessel is seaworthy.[22] It is bound to exercise the utmost care in regard to the machinery and appliances constituting the operative means of transportation and the management of the same,[23] but in regard to other machinery and appliances, need only exercise reasonable care in view of the dangers to be apprehended.[24] The vessel must be provided with a crew adequate in numbers, and competent for their duty with reference to all the exigencies of the intended route.[25] The ship is not liable for the errors, mistakes, or negligence of the ship's doctor in caring for a passenger, in the absence of a showing of negligence in selecting him.[26]

8, 9. The Cumberland, 135 F. 234.

10. Bethell v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 135 F. 445.

11. Burrows v. Townsdale [C. C. A.] 133 F. 250.

12. The Cumberland, 135 F. 234.

13. The Cumberland, 135 F. 234. Measure of damages for detention ordinarily is value of her use while she is necessarily so detained. The Sequoia, 132 F. 625.

14. The Cumberland, 135 F. 234.

15. Half the value of the use deducted. The Sequoia, 132 F. 625.

16. The Sequoia, 132 F. 625.

17. The Thomas M. Parsons, 129 F. 972.

18. The Maurice, 130 F. 634.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1663.

20. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609. A stevedore, who is required by his duties to live on the vessel and whose employment is continuous while en route, is not a passenger, and is only entitled to that degree of care required as to servants. Instructions approved. Lambert v. La Conner T. & T. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 608. Captain, having qualified as expert, held properly allowed to give opinion as to whether he could have prevented collision resulting in injury after he saw projection in bridge. Id. Evidence held to justify verdict for defendant. Id.

21. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609. Evidence held not to show that owners, officers, or agents sent vessel on voyage knowing that rudder was in defective condition. Id.

22. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

23. Ganguzza v. Anchor Line, 97 App. Div. 352, 89 N. Y. S. 1049.

24. Where steerage passenger injured by parting of wire rope used to hoist ashes, while he was leaning against jamb of door leading to "stokehole fidley" watching hoisting, and it was not usual for passengers to be in such a position, he was only entitled to exercise of ordinary care to guard him from injury. Ganguzza v. Anchor Line, 97 App. Div. 352, 89 N. Y. S. 1049.

25. Both under general maritime law and Rev. St. § 4463 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 3045). Must be competent to act in case of wreck. In re Pacific Mail S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 76. Chinese crew not efficient and

As in the case of other carriers, it is the duty of a steamboat company t keep its wharves or docks, on which passengers are invited for the purpose o embarking, in a reasonably safe condition,[27] and to furnish a reasonably saf means for discharging its passengers.[28] It is the duty of the carrier to provid suitable accommodations for the passengers,[29] to keep the vessel in a clean con dition,[30] and to supply her with sufficient food and provisions to meet the con tingencies of accident and the resulting delay in the voyage, from whatever caus such accident and delay may arise.[31] Under a contract that passengers will b supplied with good and sufficient food and lodging during the whole journey including any unavoidable delay, the carrier is liable for injuries to a passenger' health caused by its failure to provide them during a quarantine required b the government,[32] and it is not relieved from liability in this regard by a provisio exempting it from liability for delay from restraints of princes, rulers, and peo ples.[33]

A passenger wrongfully ejected is entitled to damages for the indignit thereby put upon him,[34] and also to recover his necessary expenses resultin therefrom, including the price of another ticket, with interest.[35] So too, on assaulted by the captain has a right of action against the company.[36] The bur den of proving facts alleged in justification of the assault is on the defendant.[3

The court may properly permit a large number of passengers to join in libel in rem against the vessel to recover damages from causes common to all.[3 In such case it is not essential that the damages of each should be separatel proved, or that each should testify.[39]

A provision in a ticket exempting the carrier from responsibility for it own or its agent's negligence, provided it has used due diligence to make th vessel seaworthy, is void as against public policy.[40] So too, is a provision ex empting the ship from liability for loss of a passenger's effects by theft or an act of neglect or default on the part of the owner's servants.[41] competent where only two could speak English, and where they had never been drilled in launching the life boats. Id.

26. The Napolitan Prince, 134 F. 159.

27. Carrier negligent in leaving unguarded hole in dock. White v. Seattle, E. & T. Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 281, 78 P. 909. Passenger not guilty of contributory negligence because she did not remain in waiting room (Id.), or because she deviated some 30 feet from a straight line between waiting room and entrance to slip (Id.).

28. Gang plank not reasonably safe. Burrows v. Lownsdale [C. C. A.] 133 F. 250. Evidence sufficient to justify amount of award. Id.

29. Evidence held not to show overcrowding. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609. Evidence insufficient to sustain allegations of libel by steerage passengers to recover damages for breach of contract for failure to furnish them with proper food, quarters, and bedding. The Centennial, 131 F. 816.

30. Vessel held not to have been kept clean. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

31. Evidence held to entitle passengers to damages on ground that food was insufficient in quantity and inferior in quality. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

32. Complaint held to state a cause of action. Larsen v. Allan Line S. S. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 181. Evidence held sufficient to show defendant's negligence (Id.), and that plaintiff's deafness was caused thereb (Id.).

33. Larsen v. Allan Line S. S. Co. [Wash. 80 P. 181.

34. Libellant was furnished with ticke under contract with third person, which wa subsequently extended by claimant. Wa subsequently canceled without notice to him and, on his presenting it to agent, it was ac cepted, and he was assigned berth and wen on board. Was ejected shortly before vesse sailed. Held, that he was entitled to dam ages, though excessive force not used. L Gascogne, 135 F. 577.

35. Expenses during delay. La Gascogne 135 F. 577.

36. Evidence held to authorize verdict fo plaintiff. Levidow v. Starin [Conn.] 60 A 123. Complaint sufficient after verdict t justify evidence of all attending circumstan ces of assault, including public insults. Id Evidence that it was customary to arous passengers at certain hour properly stricken Id.

37. Levidow v. Starin [Conn.] 60 A. 123.

38. For failure to keep vessel clean, an to supply suitable accommodations, and suf ficient wholesome food. The Oregon [C. C A.] 133 F. 609.

39. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

40. Even if applicable to shortage of pro visions. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

41. Valuing baggage at certain sum i

The carrier's liability for loss of a passenger's personal effects, taken from his cabin, is that of an insurer, in the absence of negligence on his part,[42] but it may limit its liability in this regard,[43] and require a notice of claim to be given within a certain time after landing.[44]

The Federal statutes require shippers of jewelry, when lading the same as freight or baggage, to give to the agent a written notice of its true character and value, and to have the same entered on the bill of lading, and limit the liability of the vessel to the value as stated in such notice.[45]

Passenger steamers are prohibited from carrying as freight certain articles, including petroleum products and other explosive products, except in certain cases and under certain restrictions.[46] They may, however, at their option, transport automobiles carrying gasoline or petroleum products as fuel, provided that all fire in such vehicles is extinguished before entering the vessel, and is not relighted until after leaving it.[47]

§ 9. Carriage of goods.[48]—It is the duty of the carrier to furnish a vessel seaworthy for a full load.[49]

The ship is liable for damages resulting from improper stowage, no matter by whom the stevedores are employed.[50] This is especially true where the master permits such stowage by stevedores wholly under his direction and control.[51] absence of bill of lading and payment of freight, and exempting ship from liability for jewelry under any circumstances unless declared and delivered to purser. The Minnetonka, 132 F. 52. Fact that passenger filled blanks in ticket containing such provisions under caption requiring information for government authorities does not make them binding on her, it appearing that she never read or adopted them. Id. Facts held to establish theft by ship's servants for which it was liable. Id. Not guilty of contributory negligence in leaving door open under circumstances. Id.

42. Evidence held not to show such negligence. Not bound to lock door. Hart v. North German Lloyd S. S. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 338.

43. Not liable in excess of limit, where passenger bought round-trip steamship ticket and checked trunk on return portion some months after using going portion. Lindsey v. Maine S. S. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 371.

44. Notice of claim for loss of jewels held to substantially comply with provision requiring it to be given within 48 hours after passengers landed. The Minnetonka, 132 F. 52.

45. Rev. St. § 4281, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2942. Does not apply where passenger was robbed of jewelry she was accustomed to wear before she could deposit it, and without fault on her part. The Minnetonka, 132 F. 52.

46. U. S. Rev. St. § 4472. The Texas, 134 F. 909.

47. U. S. Rev. St. § 4472, as amended by Act Feb. 27, 1877, c. 69, 19 St. 252, and Act Feb. 20, 1901, c. 386, 31 St. 799 [Comp. St. 1901, p. 3050]. Penalty provided by § 4499, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3060. The Texas, 134 F. 909. Gasoline in tank of automobile transported on ferry boat is freight, and automobile operated by gasoline engine carries fire while it is in motion from its own power. Hence carrying such machine a violation of the statute when it is run on and off vessel under its own power. Id.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1664.

49. Shipper entitled to cargo spaces. The William Power, 131 F. 136. Damage to cargo of hay held due to leakage caused by inability of canal boat to carry cargo for which she was chartered without straining. Id. Evidence held to show that damage to hay was due to defective covering rather than leaky condition of boat. Graham v. Planters' Compress Co., 129 F. 253. Barge held unseaworthy from the manner of her loading, and consequently liable for damage to cargo caused by her sinking. The G. B. Boren, 132 F. 887. Barge liable for dumping part of cargo of ore which she was unloading from vessel and for injury to vessel, on ground of unseaworthiness, due to weakness from long use in same business. The Willie, 134 F. 759. Sinking of carfloat and cars due to its unseaworthy condition, it being partly filled with water. Respondent not in fault, it not being its duty to inspect float, and it not being notified of its condition, and having removed cars in usual manner. Bush Co. v. Central R. Co., 130 F. 222.

50. Breaking open bales and storing licorice root in unusual places. Bethel v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 131 F. 129. Duty of the master to attend to the distribution of the cargo. The William Power, 131 F. 136. A provision in the charter party that charterers' stevedores are to be employed by the master and paid by him does not change the rule, since they are, in such case, held to be in his employ and under his direction and control as the representative of the owners. Charter provided that they were to be wholly under his direction and control. Bethel v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 131 F. 129. Evidence held to show that damage to skins was due to leakage of brine from barrels negligently stowed near them. Lazarus v. Barber [C. C. A.] 136 F. 534. Damage to sugar held due to sweat for which ship was not liable, and not to negligent stowage. The Niceto, 134 F. 655.

It is also responsible for the value of a part of the cargo eaten by rats during the voyage,[52] but not liable for damages to a deck cargo resulting from defective covers furnished by the shipper.[53] The consignee is not bound to receive cargo injured through the fault of the vessel.[54]

A vessel receiving merchandise in good condition and delivering it in damaged condition has the burden of showing that such damage was caused by a risk excepted in the bill of lading,[55] but when it is manifestly of the sort excepted, it need not show the promoting cause.[56] Where it is shown that the damage was occasioned by one of the excepted causes in the absence of some fault on the part of the vessel, the burden is on the libellant to show that it might have been prevented by reasonable skill and diligence.[57] Under a bill exempting the carrier from liability for loss or damage to goods on the wharf awaiting shipment, not happening through its fault or negligence, the burden is on the shipper to show such fault or negligence.[58] Negligence in the loss of the vessel will not be presumed, but must be proved by the party alleging it.[59]

One delivering goods to forwarders for shipment is not entitled to recover as against them for their loss at sea, where they were shipped on the first steamer leaving for the port of consignment, in accordance with the custom of the parties, and it does not appear that the vessel was unseaworthy at the time of her departure.[60]

A bill of lading issued by the master is prima facie evidence of, and, in the absence of proof to the contrary, establishes, the receipt on board of the goods therein described.[61] Bills of lading containing a formal recital of specific weights and also containing the clause "Weight, measure and contents unknown," are not conclusive upon the ship as to the number of pounds of freight shipped, but are open to explanation.[62] The delivery to and acceptance by the shipper of a bill of lading or receipt after the goods have been accepted by the carrier for transportation does not constitute it a binding contract.[63]

As in the case of other contracts, the bill of lading is to be construed according to the natural and usual import of the language used,[64] and cannot be varied or altered by parol evidence.[65] Ordinarily the shipper is bound to ex-

51. Bethel v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 131 F. 129.

52. Poppy and canary seed. The Seefahrer, 133 F. 793.

53. Hay. The M. C. Currie, 132 F. 125.

54. Condition of certain seed held such that consignees were not bound to receive it, and were justified in abandoning it to the vessel. The Seefahrer, 133 F. 793.

55. In absence of satisfactory proof, court justified in finding for libellant, though cause does not appear. The Patria [C. C. A.] 132 F. 971. The burden to show that damage was due to a cause for which she is not liable may be sustained by circumstantial evidence. The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 130 F. 521.

56. The Patria [C. C. A.] 132 F. 971.

57. Lazarus v. Barber [C. C. A.] 136 F. 534.

58. Loss by fire or flood. Washburn-Crosby Co. v. William Johnston & Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 273.

59. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

60. Fowle v. Pitt, 183 Mass. 351, 67 N. E. 343.

61. The Titania [C. C. A.] 131 F. 229.

62. Poppy and canary seed. The Seefahrer, 133 F. 793.

63. No consideration for subsequent agreement. Burns v. Burns [C. C. A.] 131 F. 238.

64. Shipping. Washburn-Crosby Co. v. William Johnston & Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 273. According to legal import of terms. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

Particular provisions construed: Clause providing that merchandise on wharf awaiting shipment or delivery shall be at shipper's risk of loss or damage by fire or flood applies where goods burned after being placed on wharf, but before shipment. Washburn-Crosby Co. v. William Johnston & Co. [C. C. A.] 125 F. 273. Provision requiring consignee "to tow vessel in and out of Back Bay free" is a contract to provide the towage and not merely to pay for it, and hence he is liable for injuries resulting from negligence of tug. Winslow v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546. Order for towage held to have come from consignee. Id.

65. Proof of custom not admissible to contradict it, where unambiguous. Portland amine it and is bound by its terms if he accepts it without objection.[66] Equity will, however, correct mutual mistakes therein.[67] Stipulations in bills of lading do not apply to cases arising during the forwarding of the goods from the first port of destination to their final destination on bills issued by the vessel taking them to the latter port, the forwarding being at the ship's expense, but subject to the stipulations, exceptions, and conditions in the latter bills.[68]

Provisions exempting the vessel from liability for damage caused by dangers of the sea, river, or navigation are binding, in the absence of negligence on her part.[69]

The question of the duty of the carrier as to delivery is to be determined by the bill of lading, and without regard to the charter party of which the shipper had no notice until after the terms of his contract with the ship have been unalterably fixed.[70] Actual delivery to the consignee is not necessary, delivery on the wharf being sufficient.[71] But to establish such a constructive delivery of the goods, the carrier must show that they were landed on the wharf, that they were segregated from the general bulk of the cargo so as to be conveniently accessible, and that notice was given to the consignee of their arrival and location, and a reasonable time allowed for their removal.[72] A provision requiring delivery to be "on wharf as customary" means as customary at the port of discharge.[73] A custom existing at the port of shipment in regard to designating a wharf for the discharge of cargo cannot control the express provisions of the contract of purchase.[74] The right of the carrier to compel the consignees to take goods from alongside is waived by unloading them onto the dock in accordance with the terms of the bills of lading and the custom of the port.[75]

The vessel is liable for damages caused by her failure to reasonably protect perishable goods while they remain on the dock and under her control.[76] A ves-

Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

66. Cannot set up ignorance of its contents, or resort to prior parol negotiations to vary it. Burns v. Burns [C. C. A.] 131 F. 238.

67. Where, by reason of a mutual mistake, fails to properly set out the actual contract with respect to the vessel upon which goods are to be shipped. Answer broad enough to open defense of mutual mistake. Fowle v. Pitt, 183 Mass. 351, 67 N. E. 343. Evidence held to show that insertion of name of steamer in bill by forwarders was mutual mistake, and that it was intention that goods were to be shipped on first steamer, in accordance with custom. Id.

68. That vessel shall have benefit of insurance on cargo. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Aitken, 25 S. Ct. 317.

69. Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. Peale, 135 F. 606. Barge injured by ice not negligent in starting. Injury caused by danger of river navigation, and not liable for delay incident thereto. Id. Loss of logs, which broke loose from raft by reason of high wind, after they had been towed out to steamer for loading in open sea, held due to a peril of the sea and vessel exempt from liability under bill of lading. Munson S. S. Line v. Steiger & Co., 132 F. 160.

70, 71. The Titania [C. C. A.] 131 F. 229.

72. Not sufficient to deposit entire cargo on wharf and inform inquiring owners that, if their goods arrived, they will be found somewhere in general mass. The Titania [C. C. A.] 131 F. 229. To discharge the carrier from his liability as such, delivery must ordinarily be made at the usual wharf of the vessel, and actual notice be given to the consignee, if he is known. Notice must be sufficient under the circumstances. Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 102 App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. S. 86. Though bill of lading provided that carrier's liability was to cease immediately when goods left ship's deck or tackle, liable for destruction of goods on pier on day after they were unloaded, where vessel had no usual place of landing, and notice of its arrival and location not given until afternoon of day before loss occurred. Id.

73. Moore v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 202, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 590.

74. Custom in San Francisco requiring consignee to designate berth for discharge of cargo cannot prevail over terms of contracts requiring delivery of coal to government "at the wharf" and "on wharf as customary" at Honolulu, at which place custom is to discharge on wharf, so as to render government liable for demurrage for delay in reaching berth by ships chartered by vendor, caused by conditions in harbor, and without fault of government. Moore v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 202, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 590. Same rule applies where delivery was to be made from vessel's tackles, it being impossible to deliver cargo at that port from tackles or otherwise without first arriving at wharf. Rosenfeld's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 608.

75. The Titania [C. C. A.] 131 F. 229.

76. Not relieved by provision in bill of sel detained after the expiration of the time for unloading by the act of the consignee is liable as a warehouseman only, for reasonable care in keeping the cargo.[77]

A provision requiring a claim for loss and damage to be presented within a specified time after the landing of or a failure to deliver the goods is valid,[78] but it may be waived.[79]

The Harter Act.[80]—Under the Harter Act the owners, agents, and charterers of a vessel, and the vessel itself, are exempted from liability for damage or loss resulting from faults or errors in her navigation or management, provided the owner has exercised due diligence to make her in all respects seaworthy, and properly manned, equipped, and supplied.[81] The limitation applies to faults primarily connected with the navigation or management of the vessel, and not with the cargo.[82] Thus, it does not exempt the vessel from liability for damages to the cargo from the sinking of the ship, due to hurried and imprudent unloading, which brings the center of gravity too high for safety.[83]

The burden is on the owner to establish the fact that the vessel was seaworthy when she sailed, or that due diligence had been exercised to make her so;[84] but there is a presumption in his favor in that regard, which is sufficient to support the burden of proof so imposed, until it is overthrown or controverted by some evidence.[85]

The owner is also exempted from liability for loss arising from the inherent defect, quality, or vice of the thing carried.[86]

The act makes it unlawful to insert in a bill of lading any clause relieving the ship from liability for damages arising from negligence, fault, or failure in proper loading, stowage, custody, care or proper delivery of merchandise or other property, and declares that any such clause shall be void.[87] lading requiring consignee to be ready to receive cargo as soon as vessel was ready to unload, in default of which she was authorized to land, warehouse, or lighter same at consignee's risk, where she refused to permit consignee's agent to remove them, though having no claim for freight. The Ainwick, 135 F. 884.

77. Delay due to seizure under legal process. The M. C. Currie, 132 F. 125.

78. Bills of lading generally exempt the carrier from liability for loss and damage unless a claim therefor is presented within a specified time after landing of, or a failure to deliver, the goods. Such provision does not preclude recovery, where ship placed cargo in store, taking receipts therefor, and consignee presented claim as soon as shortage came to his attention. The Niceto, 134 F. 655.

79. Agent of line in whose name bill of lading was issued held to have authority to make such waiver, though ship was sailing on owner's account. The Niceto, 134 F. 655.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1666.

81. Act Feb. 13, 1893, c. 105, § 3, 27 St. 445, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2946. The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 130 F. 521. Where vessel shown to have been seaworthy at time of loading, damage to cargo while it was being discharged, due to escape of water into hold by reason of valve having been improperly left open while water from river was being pumped into engine tank, held due to fault in management of vessel. Id. Owner not relieved from liability if, after proper manning and equipment, adopts course rendering both inefficient. Liable for loss due to sinking caused by ice while vessel was tied up at pier, where, according to custom, fires were banked, steam allowed to get cold, captain and engineer went ashore, and balance of crew went to sleep without keeping watch. The Valentine, 131 F. 352.

82. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Aitken, 25 S. Ct. 317.

83. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Aitken, 25 S. Ct. 317. If the damage is attributable to negligent unloading, it is immaterial whether the part unloaded or that remaining on the ship is injured. Id.

84. The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 130 F. 521.

85. May help to sustain it when controverted. Casting burden on him does not destroy presumptions in his favor. The Wildcroft [C. C. A.] 130 F. 521.

86. By § 3. Sweating of hay. The M. C. Currie, 132 F. 125.

87. By § 1. Notation on bill that vessel should not be responsible for broken or cut bales held of no effect. Bethel v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 131 F. 129. Damages to cargo from sinking of ship in port, due to hurried and improper unloading, which brings center of gravity too high for safety, is within this section. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Aitken, 25 S. Ct. 317. Evidence held to sustain findings of lower courts that loss was due to negligent unloading. Id. Fact that expert on spot did what, at the time, his judgment approved, did not relieve him from liability. Id.

The act does not affect the rights of parties under a charter party.[88] It will be applied to foreign vessels in suits brought in the United States.[89]

§ 10. Freight and demurrage. Freight.[90]—In the absence of a provision to the contrary, freight is not deemed earned until the voyage is completed and the goods are delivered or ready to be delivered at the point of destination;[91] but this rule may be changed by contract.[92]

The consignor is primarily liable for the payment of the freight, irrespective of whether he is the owner, or whether it is secured by a lien on the cargo.[93] Presumptively the master has no authority to collect freight payable under a charter in advance of the charter terms.[94]

Demurrage.[95]—A voyage begins when a ship sets about doing what is to earn freight for the owner.[96]

Under a charter requiring a vessel to deliver her cargo at a particular dock, the voyage is not completed, and the lay days for discharging do not commence to run until she reaches such dock and is in condition to discharge,[97] unless she is prevented from reaching it through the active fault of the charterer or consignee.[98] If the word "days" alone is used with reference to lay days or days for loading a ship, all the running or successive days, including Sundays and holidays, are counted.[99] If the term "working days" is used, all days are counted except Sundays and holidays.[1] In neither case are stormy days excluded.[2] Notice of a ship's readiness to receive cargo can be given only after she is ready, and at her proper place, for loading.[3]

Though the charter provides that dangers of the seas, etc., shall be mutually excepted, the charterer is not entitled to a deduction of demurrage on that ground in the absence of a showing that he was necessarily prevented by storms from properly loading.[4] The fact that a libellant, proceeding in rem against a vessel in good faith and under advice of counsel, is unsuccessful in establishing a lien, does not render him liable for demurrage or compensation to the owner other than the ordinary taxable costs.[5] The construction of particular contracts will be found in the note.[5]

88. Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon. 129 F. 819.

89. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Aitken, 25 S. Ct. 317. Where carrier sets up act and relies on § 3, cannot show limitations in bills of lading which are void under § 1. Id.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1667.

91. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

92. Provision in bill of lading "The several freight and primages to be considered as earned, steamer or goods lost or not lost at any stage of the entire transit," is valid and enforceable. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860.

93. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. British & Foreign Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 860. Where cargo was insured by shipper for sufficient to cover its value and freight, fact that, on wrecking of vessel, cargo was surrendered by master to insurer without notice to shipper, did not prejudice him, and no defense to action against him for freight. Id.

94. Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of The Afton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 727.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1668.

96. Voyage held to have begun at Seattle, though vessel stopped at other ports to take on cargo before proceeding to port of destination. The Buckingham, 129 F. 975. Under a contract to pay the market rate of freight, a vessel is entitled to the rate current when the voyage commences, though it is afterwards interrupted without her fault, through a cause excepted in the bill of lading. Voyage held to have begun when barge left, notwithstanding fact that she was injured by ice when she had proceeded a short distance and was delayed for repairs. Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. Peale, 135 F. 606.

97, 98. In re 2,098 Tons of Coal [C. C. A.] 135 F. 317.

99, 1. Hughes v. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 F. 435.

2. If desire to except them should use expression "weather working days," or "with customary dispatch," or the like. Hughes v. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 F. 435.

3. Under provision in charter that lay days should commence on notice of readiness by master. Dantzler Lumber Co. v. Churchill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 560.

4. Hughes v. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 F. 435.

5. Lien claimed for money advanced. The Alcalde, 132 F. 576.

The question of when and how far a consignee is liable for demurrage depends upon the particular facts of each case.[7] He is not liable if not interested in the cargo,[8] but a consignee who is interested in the cargo and accepts it under a charter party between the vessel and the consignor, which provides for demurrage, is liable therefor in case of his default.[9] A consignee receiving the goods under a bill of lading is ordinarily bound to pay the demurrage stipulated for therein, though payment is not exacted before delivery.[10] But this rule does not apply where he is the owner of the goods, and they have been transported under a different contract with him, and delivered without any new understanding.[11] Bills of lading requiring the consignee to pay freight do not obligate him to pay demurrage.[12]

In the absence of a stipulation in the charter or bill of lading as to the time of unloading and discharge, the vessel is entitled to reasonable dispatch under the circumstances then existing.[13]

The charterer or consignee is not an insurer and is not liable for delay caused by circumstances beyond his control,[14] as by war,[15] by the acts of the owner or his agents,[16] or by failure of the vessel to arrive as scheduled.[17]

6. Charter party for carriage of lumber providing that lay days for discharging should be "as customary" held not to make rule 7 of N. Y. Maritime Ass'n rules applicable, in absence of any reference thereto, especially in view of uncertainty of meaning of term "board measure" as used in such rule. Smith v. Sizer & Co., 134 F. 928. Under charter requiring discharge of a certain amount of cargo "per weather working day, ship to discharge according to custom of port," held that custom constituting 24 hours a day's work governed in computing demurrage. 24 hours, day or night, during which weather was such that work could safely proceed constituted "weather working day." Weir v. Northwestern Commercial Co., 134 F. 991. Evidence insufficient to show agreement on part of master not to charge demurrage, in consideration of respondent paying half of stevedores' charges. Smith v. Sizer & Co., 134 F. 928.

7, 8, 9. Graham v. Planters' Compress Co., 129 F. 253.

10. Burns v. Burns [C. C. A.] 131 F. 238.

11. Burns v. Burns [C. C. A.] 131 F. 238. Libellant held liable for demurrage only at rate stipulated in verbal agreement instead of that specified by provision in bill, inserted without his knowledge or consent. Id.

12. To pay balance of freight at rate agreed on in accordance with terms of charter party. Graham v. Planters' Compress Co., 129 F. 253.

13. In re 2,098 Tons of Coal [C. C. A.] 135 F. 317. Charterers impliedly agree to unload cargo within a reasonable time, and in accordance with the custom and usage of the port. Consignee liable for delay. McArthur Bros. Co. v. 622,714 Feet of Lumber, 131 F. 389. A contract to purchase cargoes to be delivered from ships, containing no provision in regard to the rate of discharge, binds the purchaser to receive them at a rate customary and reasonable under the circumstances (Furness, Withy & Co. v. Leyland Shipping Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 815), and, where he does so, he cannot be held liable for demurrage which the seller was bound to pay under charter parties requiring a more rapid discharge (Id.). Letters held to constitute complete contract. Id.

14. Such as presence of another vessel discharging at dock where delivery is to be made, and which is only one available, or temporary derangement of dock machinery for which he is not responsible, and which he could not prevent. In re 2,098 Tons of Coal [C. C. A.] 135 F. 317. Neither owner, consignee, or carrier liable for demurrage for delay in unloading cargo from barge, caused by her inability to deliver it at dock because of heavy load. Both carrier and libellant knew that she could not reach dock when she was loaded. Ronan v. 155,453 Feet of Lumber, 131 F. 345. Unsigned memorandum held not to preclude proof of parol agreement releasing carrier from liability. Barge not ready "to deliver" when could not reach dock, as libellant knew when she was loaded. Id. As a general rule, it is the duty of the consignee to procure a customhouse permit for the discharge. Delay due to fact that permit was mislaid by customs officer not chargeable to charterer, where he procured it soon after discharge was stopped, and did not appear that stevedore was ready to proceed when it arrived. 2,000 Tons of Coal ex The Michigan [C. C. A.] 135 F. 734.

15. Compliance with contract excused by hostilities between the government forces and revolutionists at the port of discharge, in so far as they render it practically impossible to receive cargo with the contemplated dispatch, either because of the intrinsic danger incident to unloading, or the inability to secure the necessary men to do the work, and the charterers are relieved from liability under a provision requiring them to pay demurrage for detention by default of themselves or their agent. Burrill v. Crossman [C. C. A.] 130 F. 763.

16. Where vessel's agent arranged for discharge at different dock than that selected by charterer, on ground that latter was unsuitable, charterer not responsible for delay due to its being occupied. 2,000 Tons of Coal ex The Michigan [C. C. A.] 135 F. 734. Evidence insufficient to show that fail-

A time charterer compromising a claim for demurrage against the consignee cannot assert a claim for the balance in dispute against the vessel on the ground that he could have recovered the balance in full but for the master's misconduct.[18]

The owner cannot recover demurrage from one repairing the vessel for delay, in the absence of a contract, or of evidence showing an actual loss of earning capacity, or what her earnings during the detention would probably have been.[19] An agreed rate of demurrage applicable to a class of vessels to which an injured vessel belongs may be taken as the basis for computing the damages recoverable for the delay while she was being repaired.[20]

The respondent vessel cannot maintain a cross libel for damages caused by her seizure and detention in a suit in rem for collision, where such suit was brought in good faith and there has been no abuse of the court's process.[21]

A consignee failing to take the cargo within a reasonable time after arrival is liable for damages arising from undue delay.[22] So too, the owner of the vessel is liable for damages resulting from unreasonable delay in transportation.[23] The allowance of interest on damages for delay in transportation depends on circumstances, and rests in the discretion of the court.[24]

§ 11. Pilotage, towage, wharfage. Pilotage.[25]—Ordinarily a pilot contracts to devote the whole day to the service of the ship and no more.[26] He is entitled to additional compensation for detention until the next day,[27] and for services rendered on such day.[28]

The master has authority to bind the ship to pay for extra pilotage services

ure to furnish sufficient lighters was due to fault of charterer. Id. Not liable for delay in discharging, which was done by employe of ship's agent. Id. Where delay was due to change in portholes so as to allow of reasonably convenient loading. Hughes v. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 F. 435. Evidence held to show that delay in loading was due to fact that stevedore, hired by master in accordance with charter provisions, did not have men to do the work, and not to failure of charterer to furnish cargo. Dantzler Lumber Co. v. Churchill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 560. Not where delay caused by the wrongful refusal of the master to receive the amount of cargo contracted for. Sewall v. Wood [C. C. A.] 135 F. 12. Delay held not due to vessel. Deductions from hire improper. The Buckingham, 129 F. 975.

17. By reason of which other vessels arriving in meantime were loaded first. McArthur Bros. Co. v. 622,714 Feet of Lumber, 131 F. 389. Vessels are entitled to be loaded in the order of their arrival at the dock. Id.

18. Time charterer compromising and settling claim for demurrage against consignee cannot assert claim for balance in dispute against vessel on ground that he could have recovered in full but for master's misconduct. The Buckingham, 129 F. 975.

19. The Mary N. Bourke, 135 F. 895.

20. Thompson v. Winslow, 130 F. 1001 afd. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546.

21. The Amiral Cecille, 134 F. 673.

22. Consignee improperly refusing to take part of cargo, though not liable for demurrage under bill of lading or charter party, is liable for damages according to ordinary rules of law governing in absence of specific agreement, including wharfage charges necessarily incurred during delay. Graham v. Planters' Compress Co., 129 F. 253. In action for damages for unreasonable failure to unload canal boat, in consequence of which it was alleged that boat and cargo were frozen in, held that no damage was proven, it appearing that boat would have been frozen in if it had been immediately unloaded, and that calking was necessary in the spring, whether boat was frozen in with load or not, and there was no showing that same repairs would not have been necessary if boat had been frozen in unloaded. Scott v. International Paper Co., 92 App. Div. 615, 86 N. Y. S. 785.

23. Award of damages on basis of ten days' delay in transportation of horses held reasonable, and damages not excessive. La Conner Trading & Transp. Co. v. Widmer [C. C. A.] 136 F. 177.

24. La Conner Trading & Transp. Co. v. Widmer [C. C. A.] 136 F. 177.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1669.

26. Day begins at 12 A. M. and ends at 12 midnight. Pilotage fee covers all services rendered on day of arrival in port. N. Y. City Consolidation Act, §§ 2101, 2105, 2107 (Laws 1882, p. 511, c. 410, and Laws 1853, p. 921, c. 467, relating to compensation of pilots in New York harbor, construed. The Cervantes, 135 F. 573.

27. Where brought in vessel in afternoon, and remained on board, at master's request, while she was anchored overnight, and took her to dock next afternoon, he is entitled to detention money and extra compensation for moving vessel. The Cervantes, 135 F. 573.

28. The Cervantes, 135 F. 573.

rendered at his request.[29] In pilotage cases, resort may be had to the vessel, the owner, or the master.[30]

State legislation concerning pilotage is not necessarily repugnant to the commerce clause of the Federal constitution.[31] No inherent rights guaranteed thereby are infringed by state statutes restricting the right to pilot to pilots appointed according to their provisions,[32] nor do they create any monopoly or combination forbidden by the Federal anti-trust laws.[33]

States are prohibited from adopting any regulations or provisions discriminating between the rate of pilotage or half pilotage charged vessels sailing between the ports of one state and those sailing between the ports of different states, or discriminating against steam vessels, or national vessels of the United States, and all existing provisions or regulations making such discriminations are annulled.[34] This prohibition does not have the effect of revoking the power of the states to legislate on the subject of pilotage, or to abrogate existing state laws, but only to abrogate the discriminatory provisions therein.[35] Whether such provisions may be eliminated without destroying the other provisions of the statute is a state and not a Federal question, and the Federal courts will follow the decisions of the state courts in that regard.[36]

Coastwise steam vessels are exempted from the operation of state pilotage laws.[37] The exemption of such vessels either by the Federal or state statutes does not concern vessels in the foreign trade, and hence does not operate to produce discrimination against British vessels engaged in foreign trade, and in favor of United States vessels in such trade.[38]

Wharfage[39] is the use of a wharf furnished in the ordinary course of navigation.[40] Claims for wharfage are of a maritime nature, and may be protected by maritime liens;[41] but a lease of a wharf, based solely upon the credit of the lessee rather than upon that of the vessel, the rent being payable whether the vessel ever uses the wharf or not, relates to real estate and is not maritime.[42]

§ 12. Repairs, supplies, and like expenses.[43]—Maritime liens for supplies are given as a basis of credit to enable the master, in the absence of the owner, to secure means to make the vessel seaworthy, so that she may proceed on her voyage without detention for lack of necessaries.[44] Hence the continued presence of the owner, even at a place other than his domicile, if known to the supplyman, defeats the power of the master to impress a lien on the ship.[45]

29. Detention money. The Cervantes, 135 F. 573.

30. The Cervantes, 135 F. 573.

31. Even though they are regulations of commerce, they are within that class of powers which may be exercised by states until congress sees fit to act upon subject. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

32. Not repugnant to 14th Amendment, since pilotage is subject to governmental control. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

33. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

34. U. S. Rev. St. § 4237, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2903. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52. Exempting clause of Texas Rev. St. 1895, arts. 3790-3794, 3796, 3803, is void in so far as it discriminates in favor of state vessels and state ports. Id.

35, 36. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

37. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52. This section interferes with state laws only in so far as they relate to the vessels referred to. Id.

38. State laws not in conflict with treaty with Great Britain providing that no higher or other duties or charges shall be imposed in any ports of the United States on British vessels than those payable in same ports by vessels of the United States. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1670.

40. The James T. Furber, 129 F. 808.

41. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873. Contract relating to wharfage. The James T. Furber, 129 F. 808.

42. Admiralty has no jurisdiction to enforce lien therefor given by state statute. The James T. Furber, 129 F. 808. Maine Rev. St. c. 93, § 7, giving lien for use of wharf, dry dock, or marine railway, only provides remedy under contract wholly and distinctly maritime. Use of wharf means wharfage. Id.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1670.

44. The Alcalde, 132 F. 576.

45. Place of business of owner in another state than that of its domicile, and officers there present. The New Brunswick [C. C. A.] 129 F. 893.

The master may bind the vessel for the necessary wharfage at ports other than the home port,[46] for the services of stevedores in loading or unloading the vessel,[47] and also for such provisions and other supplies as are necessary for immediate or every-day use in the navigation of the vessel,[48] without consulting the owners,[49] and this is true, though she is being navigated by a charterer who is bound to make all disbursements, and to protect the vessel from liens.[50]

There must be a maritime necessity for pledging the vessel,[51] and the actual receipt by the ship of the supplies and repairs, or the actual expenditure of the money for the benefit of the vessel, must be shown.[52] Where it appears that they were necessary and were furnished in good faith, the presumption is that the vessel is responsible, unless it appears that the master had funds on hand applicable to such purposes, which fact was known to those furnishing the supplies,[53] or that they had knowledge of facts sufficient to put them on inquiry, so that they could have ascertained, by due diligence, that the master had no authority to contract for such supplies on the credit of the vessel.[54]

One advancing money to disburse the ship is in same position as other creditors furnishing supplies and the like.[55] The equitable rule of subrogation does not ipso jure transfer existing liens to a mere volunteer advancing money to disburse a ship, when there is no stress of necessity.[56]

In order to raise a lien on the vessel for supplies furnished on the order of the owners, there must be a meeting of the minds so as to create an understanding or contract that such a lien shall exist as security.[57] This is true, though they are furnished in a foreign port,[58] or though the party furnishing them intended to rely upon the credit of the vessel.[59]

An owner who, being without funds, in person orders supplies or borrows money for the benefit and on the credit of the vessel in a foreign port, is estopped

46. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873.

47. Is maritime contract. The Worthington [C. C. A.] 133 F. 725.

48. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873. The master represents not only the owners, but also her passengers, cargo, and crew. As common agent must provide ordinary maritime necessities irrespective of stipulations between owners and charterers. Id. The law presumes that the owners consented that they should be obtained on the credit of the vessel. Id.

49. Provisions, etc. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873.

50. Immaterial whether those furnishing supplies knew of charter or its conditions. Is implied condition of every charter. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873.

51. Parties dealing with him are bound to take notice of such limitation on master's authority. The Worthington [C. C. A.] 133 F. 725. Money advanced to load vessel. Id. No such maritime necessity for loan used in disbursing ship as to give lien therefor. The Alcalde, 132 F. 576.

52. The Worthington [C. C. A.] 133 F. 725.

53. The Wyandotte, 136 F. 470. Their necessity being shown, everything else is presumed in favor of a lien. Burden on whomsoever disputes its validity. Presumed that they were furnished on credit of vessel. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873. Where charter provided that charterer's agents at foreign ports were to act as ship's brokers, and they procured libellants to purchase draft drawn by master to pay necessary and usual charges in port where cargo was received, which master was bound to, and did, pay from proceeds, owners were not entitled to offset against same, in hands of the holders in good faith, claims against charterers or their agents for dead freight or demurrage. The Wyandotte, 136 F. 470. Fact that charter provided that such disbursements should be advanced, payable from freight only, and that master was in possession of drafts for freight, when draft in suit was drawn, which he could have used, but which he later sent to owners, held no defense where purchaser had no knowledge of such facts. Id.

54. The Wyandotte, 136 F. 470.

55. The Alcalde, 132 F. 576. Sufficient showing of circumstances or exigency, of supplying of funds on credit of vessel, of necessity for credit, and of implied hypothecation. The Worthington [C. C. A.] 133 F. 725.

56. The Alcalde, 132 F. 576.

57. Evidence insufficient to show meeting of minds. The New Brunswick [C. C. A.] 129 F. 893.

58. Must show that the credit of the ship was pledged as security. The Reed Bros. Dredge No. 1, 135 F. 867. Where they are ordered by the owner, whether registered or pro hac vice, there are no presumptions in favor of a lien. The Surprise [C. C. A.] 129 F. 873.

59. Entries on their books only slight evidence of such intention. The Reed Bros. Dredge No. 1, 135 F. 867.

to say, as against the party furnishing them, that they were diverted from the purposes for which they were obtained, and not applied to the service of the ship.[60]

Where the vessel is in her home port, the parties are presumed to be dealing on the personal credit of the owners, unless the supplies are actually furnished on the credit of the vessel, and a lien therefor is given by the statutes of the state.[61]

State statutes giving a lien for supplies will be strictly construed, and cannot be sustained by construction, analogy, or inference.[62] The remedy is ordinarily limited to such articles as are for the benefit of the ship in aid of the voyage, and necessary to enable her to accomplish her undertakings.[63] A competent master must be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to have provided what is fit and proper for the service in which the vessel is engaged, and to have acted for the owners in so doing.[64]

A proceeding cannot be maintained to enforce a lien under a state statute for supplies furnished to a foreign vessel.[65] The rule is not changed by the fact that she was enrolled at the port where they were furnished in the absence of a showing that the person furnishing them was thereby misled into believing that she was a domestic vessel.[66]

Boats constructed in Oregon are subject to a lien for debts due by virtue of a contract, express or implied, with the owners or their contractors for materials or labor furnished in their construction.[67] All actions to enforce such liens must be commenced within one year after the cause of action accrues.[68]

In Louisiana there is no privilege accorded upon a dredge boat to one advancing money to repair the same.[69]

A state court has jurisdiction to construe a state statute relating to liens on water craft, and when the balance of purchase money for a boat is brought into court by the party owning it to direct to whom it shall be paid.[70] Where the lien is to 60. Money borrowed for purpose of loading vessel. The Worthington [C. C. A.] 133 F. 725.

61. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963. No lien under general maritime law. Fredericks v. James Reese & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 730.

62. The Mary F. Chisholm, 129 F. 814; The James T. Furber, 129 F. 808. Penn. Act 1858 (P. L. 363), giving lien for repairs or supplies on "all ships, steamboats, or vessels navigating" certain rivers, embraces only such vessels as are engaged in trade or commerce, and does not apply to dredge boat without motive power, and used only for supporting and moving dredging apparatus. Fredericks v. Rees & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 730.

63. Me. Rev. St. c. 93, § 7. The Mary F. Chisholm, 129 F. 814. Under statute giving lien for supplies furnished vessel for her use on order of master, owner, or part owner, there is no lien for provisions furnished to part owner living on vessel with family, while she is laid up in home port for winter, presumption being that they were furnished on his personal credit. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963; The Mary F. Chisholm, 133 F. 598. In order to make a sale of supplies maritime in character, they must be for the ship, in aid of the voyage. The Mary F. Chisholm, 129 F. 814. Clothing, tobacco, and other articles of personal use sold to fishermen about to start on a fishing voyage are not "supplies necessary for the employment of the vessel" within the meaning of Maine Rev. St. c. 93, § 7. Id. Is not a maritime transaction, and admiralty court has no jurisdiction though lien is claimed. Id. Where coal is furnished to a vessel part to be used thereon and part to be unloaded at a certain port for a known use, a lien will attach to the vessel for coal used in its navigation [Ohio St. § 5880]. Shaller v. Hanlon, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 401.

64. Milk, vegetables, canned goods, etc., held necessary supplies. The Mary F. Chisholm, 133 F. 598. Evidence insufficient to show custom requiring crew to pay for such supplies. Id. Prices charged for duck held reasonable. Id. The judgment of the master, acting in good faith, as to what food may be furnished to the men, must prevail. Id.

65. Vessel owned by foreign corporation. The New Brunswick [C. C. A.] 129 F. 893.

66. The New Brunswick [C. C. A.] 129 F. 893.

67. B. & C. Comp. § 5706. Barstow v. The Aurelia [Or.] 77 P. 835.

68. B. & C. Comp. § 5722. Limitations begin to run from the expiration of the credit allowed by the contract under which the material is furnished, and not from the furnishing of the material. Barstow v. The Aurelia [Or.] 77 P. 853.

69. Elstner-Martin Grocery Co. v. Lamont, 113 La. 894, 37 So. 868.

70. Ohio St. § 5880. Shaller v. Hanlon, 4 Ohio C. C. [N. S.] 401.

be enforced by a proceeding in rem, the jurisdiction of the Federal courts is exclusive.[71]

A contract with a shipyard for repairs to a vessel will, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed to have been made with reference to its known custom to add to the net measurement of the timber used an arbitrary percentage for wastage.[72] The production of bills claimed to have been paid, and the testimony of witnesses that they paid them is sufficient prima facie proof of the cost of repairs.[73]

§ 13. Salvage.[74]—Salvage is a reward or bounty, exceeding the full value of their services, given to those by means of whose labor, intrepidity, and perseverance a ship or her goods has been saved from shipwreck or other dangers of the sea.[75] Towing a disabled vessel on the high seas,[76] or from the vicinity of a fire, have been held to be salvage services.[77]

The services must be voluntary,[78] the test being whether they are rendered by those under no legal obligation to do so.[79] The master and crew of one vessel may recover salvage for services rendered another vessel belonging to the same owner,[80] but salvage cannot be claimed by the owners of the vessel through whose fault the services were rendered necessary.[81] This is true though she is afterwards libeled for the loss and her owners take advantage of the statutes relating to the limitation of liability in such cases.[82]

71. When to be enforced by proceeding in rem. Fredericks v. James Rees & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 730.

72. The Mary N. Bourke, 135 F. 895. Account for materials and labor furnished in making repairs adjusted. Id.

73. Finding of an assessor of cost of repairs to vessel made necessary by grounding through fault of charterer, based on itemized account and uncontradicted evidence that account was paid and repairs were necessitated by grounding, will not be disturbed. Thompson v. Winslow, 130 F. 1001, afd. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 546.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1671.

75. The Lottie E. Hopkins, 133 F. 405. There must be a marine peril. The Dumper No. 8 [C. C. A.] 129 F. 98.

76. The Lottie E. Hopkins, 133 F. 405.

77. Of a low order. Award of $100. The Fred E. Scammell, 133 F. 608. Libellants taking master and two deckhands to vessel moored to burning dock, and assisting in loosening and rescuing her from imminent peril, held to have performed salvage service. The America, 136 F. 510.

78. A salvor is one who, as a volunteer adventurer, without any particular relation to a vessel in distress, or any pre-existing contract that connects him with the duty of employing himself for its preservation, renders it useful service. The Dumper No. 8 [C. C. A.] 129 F. 98.

NOTE. Rights of seamen as salvors: As a rule seamen may not become salvors of their own vessel, since, by their contract of service, they engage to render any services necessary in its behalf. The rule has been held to apply to stevedores loading the ship (Kidney v. The Ocean Prince, 38 F. 259), to the one well seaman on board a ship infected with yellow fever, who was, on that account, compelled to perform extra services (Coffin v. The Akbar, 5 F. 456), to master and seamen refusing to go on board salving steamer (The D. W. Vaughan, 9 Ben. 26, Fed. Cas. No. 4,222), and to pilots (Mesner v. Suffolk Bank, 1 Law. Rep. 249, Fed. Cas. No. 9,493), or surgeons performing extraordinary services outside the line of their regular duties (Phillips v. M'Call, 4 Wash. C. C. 141, Fed. Cas. No. 11,104). An abandonment of the crew and ship by the master operates to dissolve the seamen's contracts, so that they are entitled to compensation for services thereafter rendered. The abandonment must, however, appear to have been without hope of return. See The Umatilla, 29 F. 252; Mason v. The Blaireau, Fed. Cas. No. 9,230, afd. 2 Cranch, 240, 2 Law. Ed. 266. Extra compensation in the nature of salvage will, however, sometimes be allowed seamen for meritorious services. From note to Gilbraith v. Stewart Transp. Co. [U. S.] 64 L. R. A. 193.

79. The Dumper No. 8 [C. C. A.] 129 F. 98. A contract by an owner of tugs to tow dumpers out to sea and back imposes no obligation on the master and crew of one of such tugs to go to the rescue of a dumper which has been abandoned by another tug and has drifted out to sea. Service voluntary, and entitled to salvage. Id. A tug is not released from a towage contract by the mere fact that her tow requires assistance which, under ordinary circumstances, would entitle those rendering it to salvage. The Pine Forest [C. C. A.] 129 F. 700.

80. Both vessels belonging to United States. Rees v. U. S., 134 F. 146.

81. By owners of tug liable for sinking of tow. The Pine Forest [C. C. A.] 129 F. 700. A towage contract cannot be converted into a salvage service under conditions brought about by the fault of the tug. Id.

82. Statute contains no suitable provision or machinery for working out any salvage compensation in such cases. Rule might be otherwise if vessel had been surrendered before services were rendered. The Pine Forest [C. C. A.] 129 F. 700.

Personal property of the United States on board vessels for transportation is liable to a lien for salvage services rendered in saving it.[83] A salvor of imported goods on which the duties have been paid, but which are still in the custody of the customs officers, is entitled to salvage on the amount of such duties at the same rate allowed against the goods themselves.[84] The amount of freight to be reckoned in the value of the salved property, where the services are rendered before the completion of the voyage, is the proportion thereof which has been actually earned at the time of the salvage service.[85]

A claim for salvage is based on an implied contract.[86]

All salvage cases are to be determined on their particular facts.[87]

The salvors are first entitled to recover the actual expenses incurred by them in performing the salvage services,[88] and compensation for delay at the rate of demurrage provided for in the charter.[89]

The amount awarded for salvage generally rests in the discretion of the court awarding it;[90] but such discretion must be exercised in the spirit of the decisions recognized and enforced by the appellate courts,[91] and the amount will be readjusted on appeal if the decree does not follow in the path of authority, even though no principle has been violated or mistake made.[92] A readjustment will more readily be made if the award below appears to have been enlarged through some misapprehension of the facts.[93]

The award should be sufficiently liberal to induce prompt and eager assistance,[94] without inflicting too heavy a burden on the salved property.[95] Fifty per cent. is frequently allowed in case the vessel saved is a derelict.[96]

83. Rees v. U. S., 134 F. 146.

84. Has interest to extent of such duty. Cornell Steamboat Co. v. U. S., 130 F. 480. Court will not make findings of law defining powers of secretary of treasury in respect to refunding duties under Rev. St. § 2984 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 1958), had sugar been destroyed. Id.

85. Item of freight wholly eliminated from award, the amount, if any, earned and saved to owners being inconsiderable. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140.

86. Cornell Steamboat Co. v. U. S., 130 F. 480.

87. The Theta, 135 F. 129. The court cannot follow any unvarying rule as to proportion in reference to values. The Lottie E. Hopkins, 133 F. 405.

88. The Theta, 135 F. 129; The Santurce, 136 F. 682. Value of hawser destroyed. The John Fleming, 136 F. 486.

89. The Santurce, 136 F. 682.

90. The Edith L. Allen [C. C. A.] 129 F. 209; The Santurce, 136 F. 682. Award charged five-twelfths against ship and seven-twelfths against cargo. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140. The amount will not be readjusted on appeal where there has been no mistake of fact or application of an unwarranted rule of compensation in arriving at it. Id. Will not be set aside on account of its amount or the method of its distribution, unless the appellate court is plainly convinced that the discretion of the trial judge has been manifestly abused. The Eliza Strong [C. C. A.] 130 F. 99.

91. The Edith L. Allen [C. C. A.] 129 F. 209. Not at liberty to render a mere arbitrary judgment upon individual discretion, but must be governed by the principles of the law of salvage. The Lottie E. Hopkins, 133 F. 405.

92. The Edith L. Allen [C. C. A.] 129 F. 209.

93. Award for rescue of stranded schooner reduced. The Edith L. Allen [C. C. A.] 129 F. 209. See note to this case showing percentage of salvage allowed for rescue of wooden vessel stranded on the Atlantic Coast.

94. The Lottie E. Hopkins, 133 F. 405; The Santurce, 136 F. 682.

Amounts awarded in particular cases: $100 for towing vessel from vicinity of fire, where danger was remote. The Fred E. Scammell, 133 F. 608. $10,000 for towing disabled vessel 240 miles in two and a quarter days. Value of salved vessel $210,000 with cargo, and of towing vessel $70,000. See this case for tables showing awards in similar cases. The Santurce, 136 F. 682. $1,175 for rescue of dumper, valued at $8,000 or $10,000, which had become derelict and would probably have been total loss, held reasonable, where service was entirely successful, and was performed at considerable personal risk. The Dumper No. 8 [C. C. A.] 129 F. 98. Award to two tugs for towing barge to place of safety in hurricane raised to $1,200. The Marcus Hook [C. C. A.] 135 F. 744. $200 for taking master and two deckhands to vessel moored to burning pier, and assisting in saving her. Vessel worth $18,500. The America, 136 F. 510. Evidence insufficient to show settlement (Id.), or larceny of shovel by libellants, so as to preclude recovery (Id.). $350 for rescuing scow which had gone adrift in New York Bay, after collision, in view of fact that scow was in some danger. The John Fleming, 136 F. 486. Towing disabled steamer 400 miles held mer-

In fixing the amount allowed, the value of both vessels,[97] the risk to which the salved ship is exposed,[98] the risk incurred by the salvors,[99] the success achieved,[1] and, in case the salved vessel is a derelict, the danger to navigation resulting from her remaining afloat, may be considered.[2]

A certain proportion of the award is generally divided among the officers and crew of the vessel rendering the services.[3]

In order to substitute for a salvage claim a different contractual relation between the owners of a rescued vessel and the persons performing the services, there must be proof of a contract distinct and specific in its terms, and providing for compensation in any event, whether the imperiled property is saved or not.[4] A contract for salvage or rescue services does not bar a court of admiralty from reaching the merits, or from applying the fundamental rules in regard thereto when circumstances justify it.[5]

The question of salvage is a judicial one, of which a court of admiralty only has jurisdiction.[6] The captain of a revenue cutter has no authority to determine it, in the absence of an agreement submitting it to him as arbitrator.[7] The Federal courts have jurisdiction to determine a salvage claim against the government.[8]

§ 14. Loss and expense.[9]—Under the Federal statutes the liability of a vessel owner for any act, matter, or thing, loss, damage, or forfeiture, done, occasioned, or incurred without his knowledge or privity, is limited to the amount or value of his interest in the vessel, and her freight then pending.[10] A court of admiralty itorious salvage service, though she was not in imminent danger of immediate destruction, and though towing vessel not exposed to great danger. Steamer in situation justifying signals of distress, and services were prompt, willing, and efficient. Award of $8,640 salvage on vessel without cargo, vessel and cargo being worth $200,000. The Cottage City, 136 F. 496. $200 to tug for towing disabled fishing vessel. The Lottie E Hopkins, 133 F. 405. $500 for services in saving property belonging to United States from wreck, where little of any danger connected therewith. Rees v. U. S., 134 F. 146. $1,000 for towing scow, picked up while drifting in harbor in moderate wind, by tug sent for it by its owners. Compensation allowed on basis of very low order of salvage and not that of rescue of property at sea in imminent peril of loss or deterioration. The Hughes Brothers & Bangs No. 49 [C. C. A.] 135 F. 746.

95. The Santurce, 136 F. 682.

96. The Theta, 135 F. 129.

97. The Theta, 135 F. 129; The Marcus Hook [C. C. A.] 135 F. 744.

98. The Theta, 135 F. 129; The Marcus Hook [C. C. A.] 135 F. 744; The Hughes Brothers & Bangs No. 49 [C. C. A.] 135 F. 746.

99. The Theta, 135 F. 129; The Marcus Hook [C. C. A.] 135 F. 744. Towing at sea always involves some peril. The Santurce, 136 F. 682.

1. The Theta, 135 F. 129; The Dumper No. 8 [C. C. A.] 129 F. 98.

2. The Theta, 135 F. 129.

3. Rees v. U. S., 134 F. 146. Twenty five per cent given to officers and crew, to be divided according to wages except that master received double share. The Santurce, 136 F. 682. Master and crew awarded fourth of salvage, master being given three parts, and mate and men who went on derelict two parts each. Division according to wages. The Theta, 135 F. 129.

4. Sufficiently shown by proving that parties intended that salvor was to be paid in any event. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Tice, 97 App. Div. 380, 89 N. Y. S. 1057. Evidence of attempt to secure settlement of some claim (Id.), and as to insurance carried on vessel held inadmissible (Id.). Complaint alleging that plaintiff furnished necessary equipment, etc., and pulled schooner off the ways and seeking to recover on quantum meruit held not to entitle it to recover for "materials used up on the job." Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Greene, 129 F. 969. Report of commissioner fixing value of services in raising dredge approved. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Morris & C. Dredging Co., 132 F. 154.

5. Agreement to pay tug salvage for raising tow ineffectual, where it is finally determined that she was responsible for her loss. The Pine Forest [C. C. A.] 129 F. 700. Compensation stipulated for in contract to get yacht off of shore held not excessive, especially in view of damage to tug. Amount not in excess of what would have been allowed in absence of contract. The Lasca, 133 F. 1005.

6. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

7. Evidence insufficient to show agreement. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

8. Where amount is under $1,000, suit may be brought in district court under Tucker Act (Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, §§ 1-7; 24 St. 505, 506; Comp. St. 1901, pp. 752-755), providing for suits on contract. Cornell Steamboat Co. v. U. S., 130 F. 480.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1673.

10. Rev. St. § 4283; Comp. St. 1901, p. 2943. In re Michigan S. S. Co., 133 F. 577; The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

has jurisdiction to limit liability only in case it could take original cognizance of a suit in rem or in personam to recover the loss or damage upon which the claim is made.[11] The right to a limitation does not depend upon the fact that the vessel is actually engaged in the prosecution of a voyage at the time of the doing of the act or the happening of the event against which it is sought.[12]

The owner is entitled to a limitation against the claims of passengers for damages growing out of a collision,[13] even though such owner is a railroad company operating the vessel in connection with its road, and the passenger was riding on a ticket entitling him to both land and water transportation,[14] and though the owner also owns the other vessel concerned in and partly in fault for the collision, which is not surrendered, where such ownership is not disclosed in the petition.[15] A decree limiting the liability of petitioner as owner of one of two vessels, equally in fault for a collision, is no bar to an action against it as owner of the other vessel for damages for wrongful death resulting from the same collision, though libellant appeared and presented a claim for such damages in the limitation proceedings.[16] The amount allowed him in such former proceeding will, however, be deducted from the award in the second suit.[17]

The owner is not entitled to a limitation of liability for damages to persons and baggage growing out of the loss of the vessel, where he fails to furnish a competent crew.[18]

A petition to limit the liability of a vessel and cargo for a collision must state the facts and circumstances by reason of which it is claimed, in order to entitle the petitioner to contest the question of fault on the part of the vessel;[19] but a failure to do so cannot be taken advantage of by the adverse parties, where by stipulation such proceedings have been consolidated with cross suits between the two vessels, in which the question of liability has been put in issue by the pleading.[20]

§ 15. General average.[21]—No one can make a claim for general average contribution if the danger, to avert which the sacrifice was made, arose from his own fault, or from the fault of those for whose acts he is responsible to the co-contributors.[22] Thus, the shipowner is not entitled to a general average contribution, where the loss was occasioned by the fault of the master or crew.[23]

§ 16. Wreck.[24]—One purchasing a sunken vessel takes it subject to the right

11. The San Rafael, 134 F. 749. Every species of tort, however occurring, and whether on board a vessel or not, if upon the high seas or navigable waters, is of admiralty cognizance. Id.

12. Applies to claims for personal injuries from blowing up of oil tank while vessel was being fitted to burn oil. In re Michigan S. S. Co., 133 F. 577.

13. Steam ferry boat. The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

14. The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

15. Decree will be restricted to adjudication of liability as owner of one referred to. The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

16. Two ferryboats, both owned by same corporation. Hall v. North Pacific Coast R. Co., 134 F. 309; The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

17. Hall v. North Pacific Coast R. Co., 134 F. 309. Evidence held to justify finding that deceased was passenger on vessel sunk in collision, and that he was drowned. Id.

18. Not entitled to limitation where loss results from violation of statute. U. S. Rev. St. § 4493 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 3058). Crew incompetent. In re Pacific Mail S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 76.

19. Admiralty rule 56. The Sacramento, 131 F. 373. Admiralty rule 56. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

20. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1674.

22. Tarabochia v. American Sugar Ref. Co., 135 F. 424.

23. Stranding of vessel on unmarked, charted reef, necessitating jettisoning a part of her coal and cargo, held, under evidence, to probably have been due to negligence or error of mate in overrunning course, and hence vessel not entitled to general average contribution from cargo. Tarabochia v. American Sugar Ref. Co., 135 F. 424. Failure to produce mate who was navigating vessel when accident occurred tends to show that master's orders in regard to course were not carried out. Id.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1674.

of the cargo owners to assert their lien for damages against it, and is bound to take notice of their rights.[25]

§ 17. Marine insurance.[26] The contract.[27]—As in the case of other insurance, the contract is one of indemnity.[28] An insurer paying the entire amount of the loss becomes subrogated, to the extent of such payment, to whatever interest the insured has in the property, and to the latter's right to proceed against one who has negligently caused the loss.[29] In case the insured thereafter recovers from the party causing the loss, the insurer is entitled to be reimbursed only to the amount actually paid out by it, with interest, any balance going to the insured.[30] This is true, though the policy is a valued one and the loss is total, and though the insured has abandoned the vessel to the insurer and conveyed her to it by bill of sale.[31]

The charterer of a vessel has an insurable interest in goods in his possession as carrier to the full extent of their value, against a loss for which it is possible that he may become responsible.[32] He has the right to insure against his own negligence, as well as against the necessity of being required to enter into the inquiry whether his own negligence was responsible for, or contributed to, the loss.[33] The question of his right to recover under the policy is not to be determined after the loss by inquiring whether he is then in fact liable to the owners of the property for the value thereof or for damage thereto.[34]

A ship's boats or launch, while being used in performance of the proper business of the vessel to which they belong, are considered to be a part thereof,[35]

25. Owner of cargo of brick which sank with barge held not to have lost right to lien for damages as against insurer, who had bought and raised her, by waiting to assert it until after she was raised and extent of loss could be definitely determined. Insurer knew that there would be damage to cargo, and was chargeable with notice of legal rights of owners. The G. B. Boren, 132 F. 887.

26, 27. See 2 Curr. L. 792.

28, 29. The Livingstone [C. C. A.] 130 F. 746.

30. Where insurance is paid, and insured recovers actual value of vessel, which is in excess of value stated in policy, without assistance from, and against opposition of insurer. The Livingstone [C. C. A.] 130 F. 746.

31. Such conveyance and abandonment does not vest in insurer right of action against vessel in fault for collision and consequent loss. The Livingstone [C. C. A.] 130 F. 746. The fact that the same insurance companies are liable under policies whereby they agreed to become responsible for any loss caused by the vessel at fault for the collision is immaterial. Id.

Note: This decision reverses the holding of the district court in the same case, 122 Fed. Rep. 278. While at first blush it may seem most equitable, it is certainly not in accord with the weight of authority. It is based on the propositions that the rights of the insurer to recovery are only such as he derives by subrogation to the rights of the insured; that the doctrine of subrogation springs from equity; and that it would be clearly inequitable to allow the insurer to recover more than his loss while insured recovered less than his. Some stress also seems to be laid on the fact that the petitioner sought to hinder rather than to assist in the prosecution of the libel. In North of England Ass'n v. Armstrong, L. R. 5 Q. B. 244, decided in 1870, a leading case and parallel to the one in point, where there had been a total loss and abandonment under a valued policy, it was held that the entire damages recovered belonged to the underwriters. This case seems to have been generally followed, the ground taken being that the value named in the policy is an absolute estoppel as between insurer and insured. P. & S. S. S. Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 89 N. Y. 559. The position taken in the principal decision is hardly supported even by the cases cited in its behalf. For the most part they are cases either where the loss was only partial or there was no abandonment (The St. Johns, 101 F. 469), or the policy was not a valued one. See 2 Am. & Eng. Enc. of Law [2nd Ed.] 367, note; Comegys v. Vasse, 1 Pet. [U. S.] 193, 7 Law. Ed. 529; Globe Ins. Co. v. Shirlock, 25 Ohio St. 50; Mason v. Marine Ins. Co., 110 F. 452.—From 3 Mich. L. R. 162. See, also, discussion of this question in 18 Harv. L. R. 383.

32. Against general average charges. Munich Assur. Co. v. Dodwell & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 410.

33. To stranding of vessel, jettison, and resulting general average charges. Munich Assur. Co. v. Dodwell & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 410.

34. Munich Assur. Co. v. Dodwell & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 410.

35. Naphtha launch held to be "of and in" a yacht, while being used in usual way as means of communication with shore, and to have been covered by policy on yacht. Dennis v. Home Ins. Co., 136 F. 481.

and, in the absence of an express provision to the contrary, the insured is entitled to recover for their loss while so engaged.[36]

Every underwriter is presumed to be acquainted with the practice of the trade he insures, and it must be supposed to be the intention of the contract to conform the indemnity to the known practice.[37] The ordinary rules of interpretation apply.[38] Words are to be given their ordinary meaning.[39]

The rule that the policy is to be construed most strongly against the insurer does not apply where the language used is that of the insured.[40] In such case it should be reasonably interpreted in the light of the surrounding circumstances.[41]

A policy is to be interpreted in accordance with the law of the place where it is made,[42] in the absence of a provision specifying the place of performance, in which case the law of the latter place controls. An underwriter on a British marine policy may stipulate that it shall be construed and applied, in whole or in part, in accordance with the law of any foreign state.[43]

A provision limiting the right to recover to losses incurred while the vessel is in certain specified waters is binding.[44] A policy insuring against risks incident to inland waters does not cover risks incurred in the open ocean, though within waters deemed inland for navigation purposes.[45]

Warranties and representations.[46]—The breach of an express warranty in a policy bars a recovery, whether it causes any injury or not.[47] The materiality of a spontaneous representation by the insured is a question of fact,[48] but a misrepresentation by the insured of a fact specifically inquired about by the insurer avoids the policy, whether actually material or not.[49] A representation once made in the progress of the negotiations continues in force until it is withdrawn.[50]

36. Dennis v. Home Ins. Co., 136 F. 481.

37. Launch covered by policy on yacht. Dennis v. Home Ins. Co., 136 F. 481.

38. See Insurance, 4 Curr. L. 169. Under a provision in a towage liability policy that $200 should be deducted from the amount of loss in all cases of claim, held that such sum was to be deducted from the share of the loss to be paid by the company, and not from the whole loss where there was concurrent insurance. Ronan v. Indemnity Mut. Marine Assur. Co., 127 F. 757. Marine policy insuring charterer as well in his own name "as for and in the name and names of all and every other person or persons to whom the subject-matter of this policy does, may, or shall appertain in part or in all," held to cover whole cargo, whether belonging to him or to others, and to entitle him to recover full amount of general average charges apportioned against cargo. Munich Assur. Co. v. Dodwell & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 410.

39. "Adjacent." Kirk v. Home Ins. Co., 92 App. Div. 26, 86 N. Y. S. 980. "Inland waters." Fulton v. Insurance Co. of North America, 127 F. 413.

40. Kirk v. Home Ins. Co., 92 App. Div. 26, 86 N. Y. S. 980.

41. Marine policy on dredge, providing "Warranted confined to the use and navigation of the waters of New Haven Harbor and adjacent inland waters," and that any deviation shall avoid policy, does not cover it when in use in inland waters adjacent to Bridgeport harbor, 17 miles distant. Kirk v. Home Ins. Co., 92 App. Div. 26, 86 N. Y. S. 980.

42. International Nav. Co. v. Sea Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 13, afg. 124 F. 93; Progresso S. S. Co. v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 967.

43. Under provision, "General average, salvage and special charges as per foreign custom," the settlement of salvage charges must be in accordance with the laws of the country in which the insured pays them. International Nav. Co. v. Sea Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 13, afg. 124 F. 93.

44. Houseboat held to have been lost within natural as well as statutory boundaries of inland waters of New York harbor, and covered by policy containing warranty that boat should be confined to inland waters of New York, New Jersey, and Long Island. Fulton v. Insurance Co. of North America [C. C. A.] 136 F. 182. Marine policy held not to cover injuries received by scow while on tributary to "North River." Hastorf v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 132 F. 122.

45. House boat. Atlantic ocean off Coney Island within limits established by acts of congress for application of inland navigation rules [28 St. 672 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2899, 2900)]. Fulton v. Insurance Co. of North America, 127 F. 413.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 793.

47. That vessel should at all times have competent watchman on board. Snyder v. Home Ins. Co., 133 F. 848.

48. Kerr v. Union Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 416.

49. Conclusively presumed to have been material. As to time of sailing. Kerr v. Union Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 415.

50. Construed to refer to time of completion of contract. Policy avoided where representation that vessel had not sailed was Extent of loss. Abandonment.[51]—A valuation in the policy is conclusive between the parties in the adjustment of either a total or partial loss, if the insured has some interest at risk.[52] Under a policy containing a suing and laboring clause and providing that the insurer will contribute to the expense incurred thereunder in proportion as the sum insured is to the whole sum at risk, the sum at risk is the valuation of the property as stated in the policy.[53] The rule is not changed because such sum happens to equal the sum insured, thus obligating the insurer to pay the whole of the expense.[54] A claim for expenses will be disallowed under a policy insuring against total loss only, where it does not appear that there was danger of a total loss.[66]

In the United States, under a valued marine policy covering salvage, the insured is entitled to recover ratably from the several underwriters a sum which bears the same ratio to the entire salvage he is compelled to pay as the amount of the policy bears to the policy value of the ship.[56] By the law of England he can recover only such part of said sum as bears the same ratio to the whole as the policy valuation bears to the valuation on which the adjustment was made.[57]

There is an actual total loss when the vessel is rendered valueless to the owner for the purposes for which he holds the same.[58]

A constructive total loss is one upon the happening of which the insured may abandon the subject-matter of the insurance.[59] Unless there remains something of value to pass to the underwriter, there is, as a matter of course, nothing to abandon, and no case for the operation of the doctrine of abandonment.[60] Hence there can be no abandonment, where, before it was attempted, the cargo has absolutely passed from the insured.[61] A salvage service is a loss by peril of the sea and the insured may, prior to a sale ordered to satisfy the lien of the salvors, abandon and claim as for a total loss.[62] Under a policy providing that the insurer shall be liable only in case the loss equals fifty per cent. of the sound value of the cargo at the port of delivery, there can be no recovery where there is no showing as to the amount of the damage, or the value of the salvage services.[63]

Policies generally provide that all claims paid shall reduce any further liability to the extent of the sum so paid, unless the amount is made good by additional insurance and an additional premium is paid.[64]

Risks and causes of loss.[65]—The insured is bound to minimize the loss as far as possible.[66] true when rate of insurance was inquired about, but sailed before contract was completed. Kerr v. Union Marine Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 415.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 793.

52. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 2736. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

53. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636. Where vessel or property is justifiably sold after damage by peril insured against and condemnation, it is a total loss without abandonment. Facts held not to constitute total loss without abandonment. Id.

54, 55. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

56, 57. International Nav. Co. v. Sea Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 13, afg. 124 F. 93.

58. Evidence held to justify finding that owner was deprived of vessels at port of destination, and that they were rendered valueless for purposes for which he held them, and hence that there was an actual total loss under Cal. Civ. Code, § 2704, subd. 3 & 4. So injured that could not proceed to place where were to be used. Progresso S. S. Co. v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 967.

59, 60. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

61. Where it has been sold. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

62, 63. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

64. Insurer held entitled to have amount paid on claim for schooner under towage liability policy deducted from amount of policy before determining its liability for damages to barge subsequently injured, though it admitted tug's liability in latter case, and directed insured to make settlement therefor without suit. Ronan v. Indemnity Mut. Marine Assur. Co., 127 F. 757.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 793.

66. Question whether insured used any

Under the statutes of California the insurer is not liable for loss occasioned by the willful act of the insured, but is not exonerated by the negligence of the insured, or that of his agents or others.[67]

Actions on policies.[68]—A provision limiting the time within which an action may be brought on the policy applies to an action against the agent under a statute making him personally liable on all contracts of insurance made by him on behalf of a foreign company which has not complied with the state statutes.[69]

A finding in an action by the owner of goods, lost while being transported in a scow, that the scow was unseaworthy, is not conclusive in an action by the scow owner against the insurer of the cargo.[70]

§ 18. Maritime torts and crimes. Torts.[71]—Ordinarily when the cargo is loaded or unloaded under the direction of an independent contractor or master stevedore, and pursuant to contract, the duty of the ship to the stevedores ends when it furnishes them a reasonably safe place to work, and a safe passage thereto.[72] It is, however, bound to properly inspect hatch covers[73] and other appliances, and is liable for defects therein;[74] but it is not liable for their reckless use by the stevedores.[75] So, too, the shipowner owes no duty to the employes of a contractor making repairs to see that they do not render the place in which they are working unsafe by reason of their own negligence in prosecuting such work.[76] Where the effort to adjust salvage or minimize loss held for jury. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

67. Civ. Code Cal. § 2629. Conduct of master in attempting to force vessel through ice so as to arrive at destination more quickly held to relieve insurer from liability for damages caused thereby. Doctrine of respondeat superior applies. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & Transp. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 794.

69. Pa. Act May 1, 1876 (P. L. 66) § 48. Rothschild v. Adler-Weinberger S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 866.

70. Does not estop plaintiff or defendant in latter action. Chesapeake Lighterage & Towing Co. v. Western Assur. Co., 99 Md. 433, 58 A. 16.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1674, § 17.

For duty of vessel to passengers, see § 8, ante. For duty to seamen, see § 4, ante.

72. The Saranac, 132 F. 936; The Elleric, 134 F. 146. The owners are bound to furnish a safe and suitable place for those performing maritime services for the vessel to work in. The Santiago, 131 F. 383. Thus, in the absence of a contract to the contrary with the head stevedore, they are bound to furnish lights to longshoremen working in the hold (Id.), and the vessel is liable for the failure of the watchmen, charged with that duty, to furnish such lights. Failure held proximate cause of injury to longshoreman (Id.).

73. Evidence insufficient to render vessel liable for injuries resulting from falling of hatch cover. The Saranac, 132 F. 936. Statement by mate, 10 minutes after accident, that covers never did fit, inadmissible as part of res gestae. Id.

74. Where charter provided that captain should render all customary assistance with tackle and boats, owner bound to furnish topping lift supporting boom necessarily used in discharging cargo, though clause requiring him to furnish ropes, falls, and slings for handling cargo was stricken out, and liable for injuries to stevedore resulting from defect therein. Connors v. King Line, 90 N. Y. S. 652. Servant selecting such topping-lift not guilty of contributory negligence in taking it instead of chain span. The King Gruffydd [C. C. A.] 131 F. 189. Not as matter of law. Connors v. King Line, 90 N. Y. S. 652. Master guilty of negligence in permitting use of topping lift after mere external inspection of splice, where it had been permitted to remain on deck, exposed to weather, for several voyages, and vessel liable for injuries to stevedore caused by its breaking. The King Gruffydd [C. C. A.] 131 F. 189. Owner liable, though not required by charter party to furnish it. Connors v. King Line, 90 N. Y. S. 652. Ship guilty of negligence in failing to remove tarred twine serving covering splice in cable, where it appeared that had this been done, defect would have been discovered, and liable for resulting injuries to stevedore. Cable only given visual inspection. The Tresco [C. C. A.] 134 F. 819. Evidence that libellant noticed that splice was not smooth and that wires projected from covering and failed to report same, held not to render him guilty of contributory negligence. Id.

75. Not for injuries resulting from placing hatch covers in wrong place. The Elleric, 134 F. 146. Fault on part of stevedores or contracting stevedore in employing but one fore-and-after not chargeable to ship. Id. Vessel not responsible for injury to stevedore resulting from putting cover in wrong place, where obvious that it did not belong there, and could have ascertained, by trying, where it did belong, though mate told foreman that covers would fit. Id. Duty of stevedores to ascertain by trying where hatch covers belonged, where numbers obliterated by repairs. Id.

76. In re Michigan S. S. Co., 133 F. 577.

ship has fulfilled her duty of furnishing the necessary appliances, there is no presumption that she is to blame for their being thereafter misplaced.[77] The vessel is also liable for injuries to a stevedore resulting from the negligence of a winchman in the employ of the ship.[78]

The negligence of the vessel must be the proximate cause of the injuries complained of,[79] the burden being on the libellant to affirmatively establish that fact.[80] The fact that the negligence of the injured party was of a lesser degree than that of the vessel cannot be taken into consideration in admiralty, unless the ratio was so overwhelming as to render his negligence trivial.[81]

The admiralty rule that damages arising from the concurrent fault of both parties will be divided applies in actions for injuries to parties lawfully on vessels.[82]

The owners of the vessel are responsible for the safety of passengers, visitors, or workmen from shore, unaccustomed to the regulation of the ship's internal economy and arrangement, who are either expressly or impliedly invited to be upon and go about the vessel in the vicinity of open hatches,[83] in the absence of contributory negligence, the burden of proving such negligence being on defendant.[84]

A person in a rowboat attempting to cross the bows of an approaching steamer, which he sees, or could have seen if he had looked, is guilty of contributory negligence, so as to ordinarily preclude a recovery for injuries caused by the resulting collision.[85] One going out in a rowboat with another is chargeable with the negligence of the latter, who does the rowing and has charge of the boat with his consent.[86]

77. Fore-and-afters. The Elleric, 134 F. 146.

78. Where a negligent person is placed by the master in a position requiring care and caution, he is incompetent, and the master is liable for injuries resulting from his negligence. The Elton, 131 F. 562. Injury held due to negligence of winchman. Injury to longshoreman, an employe of the stevedores, held due to negligence of winchman, an employe of barge. Award of $1,750. The City of San Antonio, 135 F. 879. A sailor placed at the winch by the officers of a vessel is not a fellow-servant of the employes of a stevedore. The Elton, 131 F. 562; The City of San Antonio, 135 F. 879.

79. Carelessness of employe of contractor, and not negligence of shipowner in filling oil tanks, held proximate cause of explosion. In re Michigan S. S. Co., 133 F. 577. Injury to workman employed by contractor to make repairs on vessel lying at dock, caused by fall of ladder on which he was attempting to climb from dock to deck, after being told to use gangway, held to be solely due to his own negligence. The Patria, 135 F. 255.

80. The Saranac, 132 F. 936. Evidence insufficient to show that falling of stanchion and consequent injury to libellant, who was engaged in discharging cargo, was due to its unsoundness or insecure fastenings. The Allison White, 131 F. 991.

81. Government inspector on dredge. The Steam Dredge No. 1 [C. C. A.] 134 F. 161.

82. The Steam Dredge No. 1 [C. C. A.] 134 F. 161, rvg. 134 F. 160. Divided where government inspector on dredge was injured by breaking of bitt on which he was sitting, due to negligence of person in charge of winch in failing to throw it out of gear, so that it was revolved before spuds were raised, and to contributory negligence of inspector in unnecessarily placing himself within bight of rope. Id.

83. Owner liable for death of quarantine physician who fell down unguarded and unlighted hatchway, while on vessel in night in performance of official duties. Vessel coaling, which was unusual in nighttime. Ward v. Dampskibselskabet Kjoebenhaven, 136 F. 502.

84. Mere notice that there was some danger, without appreciating its extent, not sufficient to preclude recovery. Warning insufficient. Ward v. Dampskibselskabet Kjoebenhaven, 136 F. 502.

85. One rowing boat who knew course of steamer and that it would soon be along, and who, on seeing it when 150 feet away, changed course and got in front of it, held guilty of contributory negligence. Yarnold v. Bowers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 799. Deceased held guilty of contributory negligence in attempting to cross bows of tug with tows, which he must have seen if he had looked, and could have avoided if he had looked in time and taken proper course. Klutt v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 133 F. 1003. Persons in charge of steamer held not guilty of negligence in colliding with small rowboat in darkness, where carried lights and did everything possible to prevent collision after rowboat was seen, and not liable for death of person standing up in rowboat and thrown overboard by collision. Yarnold v. Bowers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 799.

In the absence of a statute, there is no liability for death caused by collision,[87] but such a statute may apply to a collision on the high seas if the vessel in fault is of the state where such statute exists,[88] and it may be enforced in a collision case in admiralty if both vessels are of that state.[89] The statutes of California do not give a lien on a vessel for damages recoverable for death by wrongful act resulting from a collision, and a suit in rem therefor cannot be maintained in admiralty.[90]

The owner of a vessel is liable for injuries to a water pipe on the bottom of a river resulting from negligent navigation.[91]

Crimes.—Under the Federal statutes every captain, engineer, pilot, or other person employed on a vessel, by whose misconduct, negligence, or inattention to duty the life of any person is destroyed, and every owner, inspector, or other public officer, through whose fraud, connivance, misconduct, or violation of law, the life of any person is destroyed, is guilty of manslaughter.[92] The master may be indicted under this act for failure to exercise the requisite amount of care to know whether the vessel has been equipped with life preservers according to law, and some care with regard to their maintenance,[93] or for neglect of his duties in regard to the posting of station bills for the crew, and their exercise in fire drill and in the use of the fire apparatus and the boats.[94] So, too, an owner failing to comply with the statutory requirements in regard to life preservers and fire appliances is guilty of a violation of law, subjecting him to prosecution thereunder, where such violation results in death.[95] The offense may also be aided and abetted by third persons who may be properly charged in the indictment as principals, even though they were not present when the death occurred.[96] A corporation owner of a vessel may be guilty of the offense specified, notwithstanding the fact that it cannot be subjected to the punishment imposed, and the fact that it cannot be punished does not affect the right to prosecute individuals aiding and abetting it in the commission of the crime.[97] An indictment charging a violation of the statute and rules, in that a large number of the life preservers supplied for the 86. Yarnold v. Bowers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 799.

87, 88, 89. In re Clyde S. S. Co., 134 F. 95. See 5 Columbia L. R. 234, for note discussing this question.

90. Code Civ. Proc. § 813, making vessels liable for injuries committed by them to persons or property not applicable to § 377, giving right of action against the person causing the death. The Dauntless [C. C. A.] 129 F. 715.

91. Where captain of schooner taken in tow by tug knew that water pipe across river was in his path and where it was, and did not know how much anchor chain he had out when he started out, and took no precautions to prevent fouling pipe, and permitted vessel to be towed nearly to pipe, where hawser was cast off without notice or protest to captain of tug, and vessel drifted across pipe and fouled it, held that inference of negligence was so unmistakable that no reasonable inference could be drawn to the contrary. Maine Water Co. v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co. [Me.] 59 A. 953. When an injury is the result of concurring acts of two parties, one is not exempt from full liability although the other was equally culpable. No defense that tug was also negligently managed. Id.

92. Rev. St. Tit. 70, § 5344; Comp. St. 1901, p. 3629. United States v. Van Schaick, 134 F. 592.

93. United States v. Van Schaick, 134 F. 592. While it is not primarily his duty to equip vessel with life preservers or other appliances, it is his duty, before navigating, to exercise care to know whether ship has such equipment, and whether it is apparently sufficient and in accordance with law, and to exercise some care with respect to its maintenance. Id.

94. Imposed directly on him by rule 5, § 15, of the inspector's rules and regulations. United States v. Van Schaick, 134 F. 592. Such rule is within power conferred on board of inspectors by Rev. St. § 4405 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 3017), and is valid. Does not purport to create offense, but merely to prescribe duties, but breach of it, resulting from master's misconduct, negligence, or inattention, causing death, is manslaughter under § 5344. Id.

95. Either by supplying none, or by supplying unsuitable, inefficient and useless ones, not complying with inspector's rules. United States v. Van Schaick, 134 F. 592. Primary duty of owner to furnish life preservers (Rev. St. §§ 4482, 4488, 4489; Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3054-3056), and fire equipment (Rev. St. § 4471; Comp. St. 1901, p. 3049). Rules of board of supervising inspectors, § 18, rule 3, prescribes kind of preservers, and duties of inspectors. Id.

96. By officers of corporation owner. United States v. Van Schaick, 134 F. 592.

use of the passengers were useless, is not bad in failing to also charge a failure to supply the requisite number of good ones.[98]

SIGNATURES; SIMILITER; SIMULTANEOUS ACTIONS, see latest topical index.

SLAVES.

Peonage[1] is a status or condition of compulsory service based upon the indebtedness of the peon to his master.[2] Within the meaning of the act of congress making it an offense for any person to hold, arrest, return, etc., any person to a condition of peonage, it is a holding of any person to service or labor for the purpose of paying or liquidating any indebtedness due from the laborer or employe to the employer, when such employe desires to quit or leave the employment before the debt is paid off,[3] and it matters not whether the contract whereby the laborer is to work out an indebtedness is entered into voluntarily or not,[4] or whether made in consideration of a pre-existing indebtedness or for a loan advanced at the time the contract was made.[5] The act of congress prohibiting peonage in any state or territory of the United States is authorized by the 13th amendment to the Federal constitution,[6] whether or not the holding is sanctioned by state or municipal laws.[7] Under an indictment charging one with returning certain persons to a condition of peonage, evidence of a prior condition of peonage to which such persons were returned is essential to support a conviction.[8] "Crime," as used in Federal and state constitutions, forbidding involuntary servitude except as a punishment for crime, includes all offenses in violation of penal laws;[9] but it is a violation of the 13th amendment if persons, in jail not because of their conviction of any offense, are compelled to labor.[10]

Slave marriages.[11]—Statutes which infuse inheritable blood into the issue of slave marriages are generally held valid.[12]

SLEEPING CARS; SOCIETIES, see latest topical index.

SODOMY.

Penetration alone is sufficient to consummate the offense.[13] Owing to the indecency of the offense the rules as to particularity of averment are greatly relaxed.[14]

SPANISH LAND GRANTS; SPECIAL INTERROGATORIES TO JURY; SPECIAL JURY; SPECIAL VERDICT, see latest topical index.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

§ 1. Nature and Propriety of Remedy in General (1495).
§ 2. Subject-Matter of Enforceable Contract (1497).
§ 3. Requisites of Contract (1500).
A. Necessity of Contract (1500).
B. Mutuality of Contract (1501).
C. Definiteness of Contract (1502).

97, 98. United States v. Van Schaick, 134 F. 592.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1676.

2. Clyatt v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 429.

3. Rev. St. §§ 1990, 5526 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1266, 3715). Peonage Cases, 136 F. 707.

4, 5. Peonage Cases, 136 F. 707.

6. U. S. Rev. St. §§ 1990, 5526 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1266, 3715). Clyatt v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 429.

7, 8. Clyatt v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 429.

9. Stone v. Paducah [Ky.] 86 S. W. 531.

10. Persons committed for default of surety for good behavior or to keep the peace. Stone v. Paducah [Ky.] 86 S. W. 531.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1677.

12. Under ch. 4749, p. 135, Acts 1899, a child and grandchild tracing their relationship through a slave marriage may inherit the property of their ancestor who died subsequent to emancipation. Johnson v. Wilson [Fla.] 37 So. 179.

13. State v. McGruder [Iowa] 101 N. W. 646, collating the authorities.

14. Averment of copulation "in an opening of the body other than the sexual parts" sufficient. State v. McGruder [Iowa] 101 N. W. 646.

D. Legality and Fairness of Contract (1502).
E. Necessity of Written Contract (1503).
§ 4. Performance by Complainant (1504).
§ 5. Actions. Jurisdiction (1506). The Statute of Limitations (1507). Parties (1507). Defenses (1508). Pleading (1509). Evidence (1510). The Tender (1510). The Relief Granted (1510). A Decree (1511). Costs (1512).

§ 1. Nature and propriety of remedy in general.[15]—A suit for specific performance of a contract is an equitable proceeding,[16] and the court in granting or withholding the relief prayed for is influenced by equitable considerations;[17] presupposing of course the existence of the contract rights hereafter discussed.[18] Specific performance may be granted in any equitable action as to which it is appropriate general relief.[19] A contract may be enforced against transferees with notice,[20] and may be invoked by assignees.[21] It has been said that the basis of equitable interference in cases of specific performance is the want of an adequate remedy at law.[22] The remedy at law must, however, be as practical and efficient to the ends of justice and its prompt administration as is the relief afforded in equity,[23] and ordinarily, relief will not be granted where an award of damages would adequately redress the breach of the contract.[24] A clause for liquidated damages does not prevent enforcement in specie.[25] It is said that a recent case[26]

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1678.

16. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 528; International Paper Co. v. Hudson River Water Power Co., 92 App. Div. 56, 86 N. Y. S. 736. The granting of relief, by way of compelling specific performance of a contract, is peculiar to, and afforded alone by, a court of chancery. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Blair, 130 F. 971.

17. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030.

18. See post, §§ 2-4.

19. Decreed on a bill to cancel a contract where defendant disproves forfeiture and tenders the price. Shaw v. Benesh [Wash.] 79 P. 1007.

20. Coolbaugh v. Ransberry, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 97.

21. Blount v. Connolly [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 605.

22. Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 737.

23. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946. Note: Mr. Justice Fuller in Gormley v. Clark, 134 U. S. 338, 33 Law. Ed. 909, said: "The jurisdiction of equity attaches unless the legal remedy, both in respect to the final relief and the mode of obtaining it, is as efficient as the remedy which equity would afford under the same circumstances." The remedy is what is to be looked at, and equity will not decree specific performance where the contract lacks consideration or assent. Clark v. Flint, 22 Pick. [Mass.] 231, 33 Am. Dec. 733; Parker v. Garrison, 61 Ill. 250; Livesley v. Heise [Or.] 76 P. 952; Kaster v. Mason [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1083.—From 3 Mich. L. R. 155.

NOTE. "Adequacy of legal remedy in contracts for sale of land: The defendant, for valuable consideration, gave the plaintiff an option to buy a piece of land for the sum of nine thousand dollars. The plaintiff's bill for specific performance alleged that he had contracted to sell the land to a third person for fourteen thousand dollars. The defendant demurred. Held, that inasmuch as the plaintiff, on his own showing, has an adequate remedy at law, he must seek his remedy there. Hazelton v. Miller, 33 Wash. Law Rep. 217. Contracts to sell land which the seller has agreed to buy or on which he holds an option are of everyday occurrence. Yet no case has been found where the original seller has been allowed to set up his purchaser's contract for resale as a defense to a suit for specific performance. Originally of course, the jurisdiction of equity in contracts concerning real estate was based on the difficulty of a fair appraisal of the value of the land to the purchaser, but the relief has long since been allowed as a matter of course. See Story, Eq. Jur. [12th Ed.] §§ 717, 751. Contra in suits by the vendor. Porter v. Land Co., 84 Me. 195; Kauffman's Appeal, 55 Pa. 383. Sustaining a demurrer, therefore, in the principal case, where a plea ought to have been of no avail, seems unfortunate. The plaintiff did not even ask for an alternative remedy—specific performance or the value of his bargain. Compare Dowling v. Betjemann, 2 John. & H. 544. Moreover, the court entirely overlooked the fact that, by refusing the plaintiff relief, they were not only exposing him to an action by his purchaser, but also depriving the latter of his right to specific performance of his contract. Compare Shriver v. Seiss, 49 Md. 384."—18 Harv. L. R. 625.

24. Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 737. Equity will not specifically enforce a promise to convey land based on a past consideration, where the promisee has an adequate remedy at law and it would work a hardship on others to enforce the agreement. Brevator v. Creech [Mo.] 85 S. W. 527. Agreement to deliver stock for that of another corporation and also the resignations of corporate officers held remediable in damages at law. Butler v. Wright, 93 N. Y. S. 113. An agreement by a railroad to construct a passway under its tracks is not a "building contract" performable by any person, hence is enforceable in equity. Owens v. Carthage & W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 987.

25. Agreement to ship freight. Lone Star extends this remedy beyond contracts wanting an adequate legal remedy or the breach of which would be irreparably injurious. The general opinion is that it should be restricted to such equitable grounds,[27] except in case of contracts affecting land.[28] The granting or withholding of the relief is a matter of discretion to be exercised with reference to the equitable considerations incident to each case,[29] and will not work inequity by refusing relief.[30] Thus a court of equity will not decree the specific performance of an unconscionable contract,[31] or one procured by fraud or unfair methods,[32] or when the ability and knowledge of the contracting parties were so unequal as to result in one being overreached and his property sacrificed for an inadequate consideration,[33] nor where to do so would work a hardship on the defendant, though the oppressive character of a decree, if made,

Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

26. Note in 5 Columbia L. R. 153 on Andrews v. Kingsbury, 212 Ill. 97, 72 N. E. 11, wherein an agreement in reasonable restraint of trade was protected by injunction regardless of adequacy of the legal remedy or irreparability of a breach. Cited, as in accord, article by Prof. Langdell in 1 Harv. L. R. 383.

27. Note. See "Specific Performance of Negative Covenants" note 5 Columbia L. R. 153. Cases seeming to hold otherwise are either obiter dictum (Kimberly v. Jennings, 6 Sim. 340), or such as in reality present an inadequacy of legal remedy (Whittaker v. Howe, 3 Beav. 383). Where breach of negative covenants for benefit of a going business involves speculative damages, there is an inadequacy of legal remedy. Williams v. Montgomery, 148 N. Y. 519; Finley v. Aiken [Pa.] 1 Grant's Cas. 83. Where the law will assess present and prospective damages in one action (Tippin v. Ward, 5 Or. 450; Shaffer v. Lee, 8 Barb. [N. Y.] 412; Ennis v. Buckeye Pub. Co., 44 Minn. 105), it is said that a continuing covenant would be irreparable in damages. And on the other hand if successive actions might be threatened or necessary (Terry v. Beatrice Starch Co., 43 Neb. 866; Hunt v. Tibbetts, 70 Me. 221), avoidance of multiplicity would invoke equity. See Shimer v. Morris Canal Co., 27 N. J. Eq. 364.

28. The writer of the note (5 Columbia L. R. 154) suggests that even there the jurisdiction rests on the usual equitable grounds, citing Richmond v. Railroad, 33 Iowa, 422; Townsend v. Vanderwerker, 20 App. D. C. 197.

Note: It is doubtful if that case is intended as a precedent for the specific enforcement of contracts generally except on the ordinary equitable grounds. The opinion reads: "Courts of equity will and frequently do interpose by injunction thereby indirectly enforcing the performance of negative covenants." Andrews v. Kingsbury, 212 Ill. 97, 72 N. E. 11. The court cites Consolidated Coal Co. v. Schmisseur, 135 Ill. 371; Hursen v. Gavin, 162 Ill. 377, both of which were cases of injunctive relief against threatened breach of contracts relating respectively to a mineral lease and to re-engaging in a competitive business.

29. Law v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 327; Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755; Prusiecke v. Ramzinski [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 771; Tillery v. Land, 136 N. C. 537, 48 S. E. 824; Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 849; Cox v. Raider [Mich.] 101 N. W. 531; Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007; Brevator v. Creech [Mo.] 85 S. W. 527; Murray v. Harbor & Suburban Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 91 App. Div. 397, 86 N. Y. S. 799; Dreiske v. Joseph N. Eisendrath Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 379; Illingworth v. Bloemecke [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 566; Meyer Land Co. v. Pecor [S. D.] 101 N. W. 39; International Paper Co. v. Hudson River W. P. Co., 92 App. Div. 56, 86 N. Y. S. 736; Farady Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens, 26 Ky. L. R. 243, 80 S. W. 1171.

Equities must be clearly with complainant. Brown v. Widen [Iowa] 103 N. W. 158. Where the obvious purpose of a bill for specific performance is to enable the complainant to avail themselves of the fruits of an unlawful business, equity will not aid them. Illingworth v. Bloemecke [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 566.

30. Denial of relief would be inequitable where complainant railroad had performed by constructing its line on consideration of agreement for certain amount of traffic. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

31. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609; Rathbone v. Groh [Mich.] 100 N. W. 588; Ratterman v. Campbell, 26 Ky. L. R. 173, 80 S. W. 1155; Dreiske v. Eisendrath Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 379. Any trace of fraud or unfairness on the part of complainant will prevent specific performance. It requires a less flagrant case of fraud to prevent specific performance than to recover damages. Schneider v. Schneider [Iowa] 98 N. W. 159. It is not sufficient to justify a decree awarding specific performance that a legal contract has been entered into. In order to warrant a decree, the contract which is to be enforced must be based on a good consideration, be reasonable, just and equitable, entered into in open, fair, and honorable dealing, without oppression, unconscionable advantage, or under circumstances making its enforcement inequitable, and it is competent to show circumstances dehors the writing, making it inequitable to enforce it. Stubbings v. Durham, 210 N. Y. 542, 71 N. E. 586.

32. York v. Searles, 97 App. Div. 331, 90 N. Y. S. 37.

33. Welford v. Steele [Ky.] 84 S. W. 327; Ratterman v. Campbell, 26 Ky. L. R. 173, 80 S. W. 1155.

would arise from the relation of the parties independently of the contract.[34] Equity will not permit the right to have a specific performance of a contract evaded or denied by a mere technical or immaterial objection. It will look to the real substantial terms of the contract, and decree its performance with such variations as will effectuate the intentions of the parties.[35] Where the law has made performance impossible, the doing of a thing not agreed will not be compelled merely to compensate the promisee.[36]

A party to a contract may lose his right to its specific performance by laches in asserting his claim,[37] though the contract does not, by its terms, make the time of performance of the essence of the contract;[38] or by concealment of his right under such circumstances as will constitute an estoppel.[39]

Compensatory damages[39a] will not be allowed for inability to procure the authority to convey minor's property which the purchaser knew was necessary to make title.[40]

§ 2. Subject-matter of enforceable contract.[41]—The contract must relate to a definite subject-matter,[42] and be performable by acts which the court may coerce.[43] It will be denied where the performance of the provisions of the contract require the doing of numerous and continuously recurring acts, so that a final decree cannot be entered, but would require the constant supervision of the court and supplemental proceedings to enforce it,[44] especially where the acts are to be done in another state and the contract is indefinite as to the manner of their performance;[45] but may be enforced if it calls for ministerial acts only.[46] The fact that a contract produces sufficient business to keep a suitor solvent, and its breach might produce insolvency, will raise an equity.[47] It may be had against a trustee who is personally bound, notwithstanding he may by reason of the contract be accountable

34. Thus where defendants agreed to convey land in part payment for personal property and after he had made a considerable cash payment the complainant retook possession of the personal property under a provision of the contract allowing him to do so in case default should be made in the payment of the balance of the purchase price for such personal property and the value of the property retaken together with the payments made by defendant equaled the price agreed to be paid. Sanders v. Newton, 140 Ala. 335, 37 So. 340. Where complainant, having a contract for the purchase of land, stated to a subsequent negotiator therefor, that he had abandoned his contract and the subsequent negotiator entered into a contract with the owner for the purchase of the land and took possession and made improvements in reliance on such statement, equity will not decree specific performance against him. Cox v. Raider [Mich.] 101 N. W. 531.

35. Tillery v. Land, 136 N. C. 237, 48 S. E. 824; Hosmer v. Wyoming R. & Iron Co., 129 F. 883. While it will not make a new contract for the parties or interpolate stipulations not of their own selection, nevertheless it will distinguish between those provisions which pertain to the form and those which are of the substance of their agreement to the end that the former be not permitted to lead to an inequitable and unjust result. Hosmer v. Wyoming R. & Iron Co., 129 F. 883.

36. Railroad had been required to elevate tracks and agreement to afford crossing was not enforceable by compelling tunnelling. Speer v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 197.

37. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234. Delay of twenty-five months in bringing suit held not fatal. Pennsylvania Min. Co. v. Martin, 210 Pa. 53, 59 A. 436. Delay of one year after repudiation of contract by respondent held fatal. Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495.

See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1679.

38. Especially where he has been negligent in carrying out the terms of the contract by him to be kept and performed and the value of the land has increased. Findley v. Koch [Iowa] 101 N. W. 766; Wadge v. Kittleson, 12 N. D. 452, 97 N. W. 856.

39. Lozier v. Hill [Vt.] 59 A. 234.

39a. See 2 Curr. L. 1697, n. 76.

40. Eggert v. Pratt [Iowa] 102 N. W. 786.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1681.

42. Agreement to purchase house and at death leave it to promisee held indefinite. Leary v. Corvin [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 984.

43. See text and notes following.

44. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 129 F. 849; Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 737; Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495.

45. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932.

46. Traffic contract for 20 years. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

47. Traffic contract to ship enough to pay operating charges of railroad. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

for mismanagement.[48] A court of equity will not take jurisdiction to compel specific performance of a verbal agreement to make a valid contract of guaranty where it would not reform such a contract, through mutual mistake defectively reduced to writing.[49] A contract to issue an annuity contract to certain designated persons on the death of the insured may be specifically enforced.[50] An agreement to endow a professorship should one be established is enforceable against the promisor when irreparable loss will ensue to the promisee which has performed.[51]

Agreements which involve the procurement of another's action may be enforceable.[52]

The jurisdiction of equity to decree the specific performance of a contract is as ample when the contract relates to personalty as when it relates to realty.[53] The tendency of modern decisions is to enlarge the right to specific performance of contracts fairly entered into, as to both classes of property.[54] Ordinarily, equity will not decree the specific performance of a contract for the sale of personal property, since complainant has a speedy and adequate remedy at law, by an action for damages.[55] And it will not act if parties have agreed on the value of the chattels.[58] Equity will readily lend such relief whenever a case is presented where other relief than compensation is requisite or where an award of damages would be unavailing.[57] Mere insolvency is not such a case;[58] though such fact is of weight, where other grounds for the exercise of equitable jurisdiction exist.[59] It was also allowed where a seller's administrator having undertaken to complete a sale refused to continue, and the buyer having made large advances reserving a lien was in danger of loss if delivery was not promptly made.[60] If the chattels are of some special value to the purchaser, or they are unique, rare, or incapable of being compensated for by money damages, the contract may be specifically

48. He made a renewable lease at less than a proper rental. Weir v. Barker, 93 N. Y. S. 732.

49. Rowell v. Smith [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1.

50. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Blair, 130 F. 971.

51. Robb v. Washington & Jefferson College, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

52. Agreement to sell land and procure lessee to cancel lease thereof is enforceable. Jacobson v. Rechnitz, 93 N. Y. S. 173.

53. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946; Law v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 327.

54. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609.

55. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946; Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609; Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 737; Hendry v. Whidden [Fla.] 37 So. 571; Bay City Irr. Co. v. Sweeney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 545. An action to compel the specific performance of a contract to issue shares of stock to complainant cannot be maintained where there is no proof that the stock has any peculiar value or that the complainant could not recover in an action at law the damages he sustained. Kennedy v. Thompson, 97 App. Div. 296, 89 N. Y. S. 963. Equity will not specifically enforce a contract to convey personal property while the title of the defendant thereto is in litigation, occasioned by the wrongful acts of the complainant. Cowles v. Rochester Folding Box Co., 179 N. Y. 87, 71 N. E. 468. Fraudulent collusion by the seller of personal property with others to avoid his obligation to deliver the chattels is ground for the granting of specific performance. Livesley v. Heise [Or.] 76 P. 952.

56. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609.

57. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.

58. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946; Hendry v. Whidden [Fla.] 37 So. 571.

59. A purchaser of a crop of hops is entitled to specific performance of the contract and delivery of hops raised under the agreement where he has contributed towards the expense of making the crop and the seller is insolvent. The defendant cannot object that the crop is not up to the quality contracted to be delivered. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.

Note: It was urged a court of equity has no jurisdiction to decree specific performance, because it is generally considered the plaintiff has a plain, speedy, adequate remedy at law. Mr. Justice Fuller in Gormley v. Clark, 134 U. S. 338, 33 Law. Ed. 909, said, "the jurisdiction of equity attaches unless the legal remedy, both in respect to the final relief and the mode of obtaining it, is as efficient as the remedy which equity would afford under the same circumstances." The remedy is what is to be looked at, and equity will not decree specific performance where the contract lacks consideration or assent. Clark v. Flint, 22 Pick. [Mass.] 231, 33 Am. Dec. 733; Parker v. Garrison, 61 Ill. 250; Livesley v. Heise [Or.] 76 P. 952; Kaster v. Mason [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1083.—3 Mich. L. R. 154.

60. Purchase of wood which was in river being floated. Ridenbaugh v. Thayer [Idaho] 80 P. 229.

enforced.[61] That it would be inconvenient to show the value of the personal property is not a sufficient reason for decreeing specific performance.[62] Depletion and replenishment of merchandise stock is no cause for refusing to enforce exchange of it for other property.[63]

Contracts for the creation or transfer of an interest in specific lands[64] are enforceable, including easements,[65] and restrictive covenants,[66] leases[67] and covenants therein for renewal or purchase by the lessee,[68] mineral rights,[69] and homesteads.[70]

A marriage settlement[71] or a contract for separate maintenance of a wife, when not void as against public policy, may be specifically enforced.[72]

A contract to adopt a child or make it the heir of the promisor,[73] or to bequeath or devise money or property to another,[74] if the same be definite,[75] in

61. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609. Contract to convey shares of corporate stock not procurable on market and having no market value and value of which depends on ownership of patents by corporation which are incapable of valuation will be specifically enforced. Butler v. Murphy, 106 Mo. App. 287, 80 S. W. 337. Contract to furnish water for irrigation where complainant has rented land and put in crop in reliance on contract and crop will be lost without supply of water. Bay City Irr. Co. v. Sweeney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 545.

62. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609.

63. Gibson v. Brown [Ill.] 73 N. E. 578.

64. See Leary v. Corvin [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 984.

65. Where the owner of land plats the same into lots and streets, one to whom he sells lots by reference to such plat is entitled to the use of the streets shown by the plat as an appurtenance to his lot, and can maintain a suit for the specific performance of the contract for easement, and a mandatory injunction will lie to compel the person who owns the land platted to open for public use the streets shown on the plat with reference to which the lot was purchased. Edwards v. Moundsville Land Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 754.

66. Agreements restricting, within reasonable limits, the use of premises sold or demised, may be specifically enforced, irrespective of the fact that adequate relief may be had in an action for damages, e. g., alteration of premises in violation of terms of lease. Peer v. Wadsworth [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 379.

67. Carnegie Natural Gas Co. v. South Penn Oil Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 548. A contract to lease certain property can be specifically enforced at the suit of an assignee of the contract, where it was contemplated by the parties at the time they entered into the contract that it should be so assigned. Pittsburgh Amusement Co. v. Ferguson, 91 N. Y. S. 666. Lease by officer ratified by corporation enforced in favor of lessee who had expended large sums. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 419.

68. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

Covenant enforceable by assignee: A covenant of renewal in a lease runs with the land, and passes to an assignee of the term (when there is no restriction in the lease), and equity will compel the specific performance of the agreement to renew at the suit of the assignee. Where the lessor has brought unlawful detainer, equity will enjoin the prosecution of the legal action. Blount v. Connolly [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 605.

Provided the lease is a binding contract: An agreement in a lease providing "that the party of the second part shall have the right to purchase * * at any time before the expiration of six months upon the payment of the sum of * * during said time," the lease also providing as a condition precedent that the lessee shall give security for the performance of the covenants of the lease by him to be performed, cannot be specifically enforced when the lessee did not give the required security, since the lease was not in force and hence there was no consideration for the agreement to sell. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

69. Campbell v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 68 S. C. 440, 47 S. E. 716.

70. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens, 26 Ky. L. R. 243, 80 S. W. 1171.

71. Phalen v. United States Trust Co., 44 Misc. 57, 89 N. Y. S. 699.

72. Where a wife brings a suit for separate support in the probate court, the husband may interpose the making of such a contract with a trustee for the wife as a defense. Bailey v. Dillon [Mass.] 71 N. E. 538. Under some circumstances equity will enforce pecuniary agreements embodied in separation agreements, but not when the separation agreement is entered into contemporaneously with the marriage, looking to a possible or probable separation in the future, and in the nature of things tending to bring such a separation about. Sawyer v. Churchill [Vt.] 59 A. 1014. See title Husband and Wife, 3 Curr. L. 1669.

73. Grantham v. Gossett, 182 Mo. 651, 81 S. W. 895; Austin v. Kuehn, 211 Ill. 113, 71 N. E. 841.

74. Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616.

75. To buy "a house" and devise it, is indefinite. Leary v. Corvin, 86 N. Y. S. 1139. Where a certain and definite contract is clearly established, and is fair, even though it involves an agreement to leave property by will and it has been performed on the part of the promisee, equity will compel a specific performance. Rhoades v. Schwartz, 85 N. Y. S. 229.

consideration of personal services to be performed by the promisee, will be specifically enforced where the promisee has performed the contract, and to suffer it to go unenforced would work a fraud on the promisee.[76]

Contracts for personal services will not be specifically enforced,[77] nor will contracts requiring the exercise of skill, judgment, energy and integrity on the part of respondent.[78]

Stipulations between attorneys to an action may be enforceable.[79] An agreement to arbitrate a controversy is not.[80]

§ 3. Requisites of contract.[81] A. Necessity of contract.[81a]—To entitle one to specific performance of a contract, it must clearly appear that there was a valid contract between the parties;[82] that their minds met and agreed on all its terms;[83] and that there was a valuable[84] or adequate consideration for the promise sought

76. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49. See, also, infra, § 3.

77. Wood v. Iowa Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Iowa] 102 N. W. 410; Hayman v. Campbell, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 213. A contract to develop land for the purpose of determining whether or not it contains oil, involving the performance of personal labor and services, cannot be specifically enforced. Los Angeles & B. Oil & Development Co. v. Occidental Oil Co., 144 Cal. 528, 78 P. 25.

78. Contract of newspaper carrier to deliver paper to every subscriber in a designated district, increase subscription and secure advertising, cannot be specifically enforced, nor will the negative terms of such a contract be enjoined when so doing is tantamount to an attempt to decree specific performance. Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 737. Contracts requiring individual skill, personal labor, or cultivated judgment, will not be specifically enforced. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 849.

Manufacture and sale of machines: Myers v. Steel Mach. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1080.

79. Stipulation that final disposition of a case should abide the result of an appeal in another case involving same issues of law. Brown v. Arnold, 131 F. 723.

80. Schneider v. Reed [Wis.] 101 N. W. 682.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1682.

81a. See 2 Curr. L. 1682.

82. Campbell v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 68 S. C. 440, 47 S. E. 716; Jayne v. Brown, 93 App. Div. 617, 88 N. Y. S. 589; Davis v. Davis, 96 App. Div. 611, 88 N. Y. S. 998; Kaster v. Mason [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1083; Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 58 A. 766; Turner v. Burr [Mich.] 101 N. W. 622. The receiving in silence by defendant of an assertion by plaintiff of the existence of a contract between the two is not ground for a suit for specific performance. Schnitzer v. Cole, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 319.

Infants and married women: An infant's contract to sell land cannot be specifically enforced so long as he remains an infant, if after he becomes of age he ratifies the contract, it may be specifically enforced. In North Carolina a contract by a married woman to convey her real estate cannot be enforced by specific performance. Tillery v. Land, 136 N. C. 537, 48 S. E. 824. A court of equity will not compel parties to sign a contract and then decree specific performance of it. Kaster v. Mason [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1083. A mere agreement to execute a contract does not make the latter operative so as to entitle the promisee to its specific performance. Baltimore Humane Impartial Soc. & Aged Women's & Aged Men's Homes v. Pierce, 99 Md. 352, 58 A. 26.

83. Campbell v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 68 S. C. 440, 47 S. E. 716; Keene v. Lowenthal, 83 Miss. 204, 35 So. 341; Welsh v. Williams [Miss.] 37 So. 561; J. L. Gates Land Co. v. Ostrander [Wis.] 102 N. W. 558. When it appears from letters that have been exchanged that the parties intended to reduce their agreement to writing and that some of the terms of the sale had not been agreed on, specific performance cannot be decreed. Dreiske v. Eisendrath Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 379. A letter from one of the parties to a suit to a real estate broker offering to pay a certain price for certain land, and a letter from the owner to the broker offering to sell at the same price, is not a contract between the parties, neither letter referring to the other party to the alleged contract. Ratterman v. Campbell, 26 Ky. L. R. 173, 80 S. W. 1155. An option contract for the sale of designated tract of land which provides that if the option is accepted the sale is to be consummated by a survey of the land by a surveyor to be mutually agreed on, the selection of a surveyor and the making of a survey is not essential to the completion of the contract, but after acceptance by the holder of the option may be specifically enforced, though no surveyor has been selected. Howison v. Bartlett [Ala.] 37 So. 590. One purchasing at foreclosure sale under a notice which does not properly describe the land is not bound to take the property, and hence specific performance will not lie to compel him to do so. Jackson v. Binnicker, 106 Mo. App. 721, 80 S. W. 682.

84. Cowles v. Rochester Folding Box Co., 179 N. Y. 87, 71 N. E. 468. Specific performance does not lie to enforce the performance of a voluntary promise of a gift. Brevator v. Creech [Mo.] 85 S. W. 527. An agreement to pay a certain proportion of the cost of erecting a house on certain land is a sufficient consideration for a contract to convey it to the person so promising. Clark v. Hindman [Or.] 79 P. 56. A recited nominal consideration is insufficient to support the remedy. Berry v. Frisbie [Ky.] 86 S. W. 558.

to be enforced.[85] A contract made by an unauthorized agent may be specifically enforced after it has been ratified by the principal for whom the agent purported to act,[86] and an undisclosed principal may sue or be sued in his own name on a contract entered into for him by an agent who purported to act in his own name.[87]

(§ 3) B. Mutuality of contract.[87a]—The general rule is that to entitle a party to a contract to its specific performance it must be mutual in obligation, and if from the nature or form of the contract or for any other reason it cannot be specifically enforced against one of the parties, the other cannot have such relief, though he alleges his willingness to perform.[88] If, however, the party as against whom specific performance could not be decreed has fully performed his part of the contract, he is entitled to specific performance by the other.[89] The general rule has, however, been narrowed in its application by modern equity practice. If the contract is intended to bind both parties, or where it is of such form or nature that it contains mutual executory provisions, then the doctrine applies, and if for any reason one of the parties is not bound, the other cannot compel specific performance.[90] Such rule does not, however, apply to contracts unilateral in form, though bilateral in effect.[91] Thus as to contracts which the statute of frauds requires to be in writing, the tender of performance and filing of the bill for specific performance by the party who did not sign the contract is deemed to make it mutual, both as to obligation and remedy.[92] Such mutuality does not arise, however, if before the commencement of the suit the party who signed

85. Where for the purpose of preventing litigation over alleged conflicting rights to minerals in lands patented to respondent, the latter agreed to convey a two-thirds interest in such minerals to complainant who had located the same, in consideration of complainant's agreement to convey an undivided one-third interest to respondent, the agreement is without such consideration as will support specific performance under Mont. Civ. Code, § 4417, which provides that specific performance cannot be enforced against a person unless he has received an adequate consideration for the contract, the complainant as a matter of fact having no interest in the minerals. Traphaagen v. Kirk [Mont.] 77 P. 58. A cane of the value of $40.00 held sufficient consideration for agreement to bequeath $1,000. Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616.

86. A contract entered into by an agent, though the authority of the agent was not in writing, may be specifically enforced where the vendor with full knowledge of the terms and conditions of the sale ratified the same in writing, and the mere fact that the vendor did not know the purchaser's name is immaterial. Butman v. Butman, 213 Ill. 104, 72 N. E. 821. A corporation may maintain a suit for the specific performance of a contract entered into in its behalf by an officer of the corporation without special authority so to do, where his acts are subsequently ratified by the corporation, though not until after the vendor has repudiated the contract and the suit has been instituted. Washington State Bank v. Dickson, 35 Wash. 641, 77 P. 1067.

87. Randolph v. Wheeler, 182 Mo. 145, 81 S. W. 419.

87a. See 2 Curr. L. 1684.

88. Hayman v. Campbell, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 213; Law v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 327. Baltimore Humane Impartial Soc. & Aged Women's & Aged Men's Homes v. Pierce, 99 Md. 354, 58 A. 26; Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 737. Thus a contract within the statute of frauds and required to be in writing cannot be enforced against the party who signed it where complainant did not. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609; Berry v. Frisbie [Ky.] 86 S. W. 558.

Illustrations: An agreement that a traffic contract shall cease without notice when the promisee railroad and another existing road shall cease to compete is terminable on contingency and not at will. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355. A contract to purchase a crop of hops, the obligation to take being made dependent on their being of a proper quality and condition "according to the judgment of buyer," not wanting in mutuality. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946; Livesley v. Heise [Or.] 76 P. 952.

Contra: A mutually enforceable contract need not be mutually enforceable in specie. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355. [It was performed on one side. Editor.] Compare note following.

89. An agreement to care for and maintain another during his natural life in consideration of his agreement to convey certain land cannot be specifically enforced during the life of the latter, since not fully performed and not enforceable against the other. Prusiecke v. Ramzinski [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 771.

90, 91. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

92. Ellis v. Bryant, 120 Ga. 890, 48 S. E. 352; Engler v. Garrett [Md.] 59 A. 648; Cummins v. Beavers [Va.] 48 S. E. 891.

the contract has repudiated it and conveyed the land to another, though such conveyance was voluntary.[93] An optional contract based on a proper and sufficient consideration will be specifically enforced if accepted within the time limited.[94] Mutuality is not lacking if, though one sold that to which he did not at the time have title, the other assented after the title had been acquired and recognized the contract.[95] A contract that cannot be enforced as an entirety will not be enforced in part,[96] unless the stipulations sought to be enforced clearly and distinctly appear by the contract to stand by themselves, independent of and wholly unaffected by any others.[97]

(§ 3) C. Definiteness of contract.[97a]—To entitle it to specific performance the contract must be specific and distinct as to its terms, plain and definite in its meaning.[98] It must be certain as to the estate to be conveyed.[99] In contracts for the sale of lands, the description is sufficient to authorize specific performance if the land described in the contract can be identified with the aid of parol evidence.[1] Parol evidence may be resorted to, to fit the description given in the contract to the land, but where there is no description or an insufficient one, parol evidence is inadmissible to describe and then identify the land.[2]

(§ 3) D. Legality and fairness of contract.[2a]—No contract affected with illegality will, generally speaking, be enforced,[3] even where it has already been accom-

93. Nason v. Lingle, 143 Cal. 363, 77 P. 71.

94. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134; Pennsylvania Min. Co. v. Martin, 210 Pa. 53, 59 A. 436; Carnegie Natural Gas Co. v. South Penn Oil Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 548. A writing acknowledging the receipt of a certain sum of money as a part of the purchase price of land described therein and reciting that the person from whom the money is received shall have a designated time within which to pay a further specified sum which shall constitute the balance of the purchase price, is a contract to convey and not a mere option. Payment within the specified time not being made of the essence of the contract, specific performance will be decreed if tender of the balance is made within a reasonable time, though after the time fixed in the contract. Ellis v. Bryant, 120 Ga. 890, 48 S. E. 352.

95. Gibson v. Brown [Ill.] 73 N. E. 578.

96. Los Angeles & B. Oil & Development Co. v. Occidental Oil Co., 144 Cal. 528, 78 P. 25.

97. Hayman v. Campbell, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 213.

97a. See 2 Curr. L. 1685.

98. Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616; Powers v. Rude, 14 Okl. 381, 79 P. 89; Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118; J. L. Gates Land Co. v. Ostrander [Wis.] 102 N. W. 558; Welsh v. Williams [Miss.] 37 So. 561; Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609; Tillery v. Land, 136 N. C. 537, 48 S. E. 824; Henry v. Black, 210 Pa. 245, 59 A. 1070; McKee v. Higbee, 180 Mo. 263, 79 S. W. 407; Dreiske v. Eisendrath Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 379; Grantham v. Gossett, 182 Mo. 651, 81 S. W. 895. The acceptance by defendant of an offer by complainant which contained two propositions, is too indefinite to be specifically enforced. Welsh v. Williams [Miss.] 37 So. 561. A contract in which the terms of credit, time for performance, and character of security for deferred payments are left to future negotiations between the parties, is too uncertain to be specifically performed. Meyer Land Co. v. Pecor [S. D.] 101 N. W. 39. A contract to purchase land and pay what it is worth and if the parties cannot agree as to its value, the price to be determined by arbitrators, cannot be enforced, since too uncertain. Schneider v. Reed [Wis.] 101 N. W. 682.

"A fair valuation by appraisement" held sufficiently certain as to price to authorize specific performance. Lester Agricultural Chemical Works v. Selby [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 247. Traffic contract calling for routeing a proportion of freight shipments held certain. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

99. Powers v. Rude, 14 Okl. 381, 79 P. 89.

1. Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598; Henry v. Black, 210 Pa. 245, 59 A. 1070; Lester Agricultural Chemical Works v. Selby [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 247; Howison v. Bartlett [Ala.] 37 So. 590. Thus a contract to convey a quarter section in a designated section, town and range, but not designating whether the range is east or west or what particular quarter section, is sufficient where it is shown the vendor owned only one quarter in a section to which the description could possibly apply. Ruzicka v. Hotovy [Neb.] 101 N. W. 328. A decree for specific performance will not be refused merely because the contract does not state in what county or state the land lies, provided the description of the premises is not rendered altogether indefinite. Where the contract gives the street and number and the name of the inhabitant and the premises can be identified therefrom, a decree will be rendered. Engler v. Garrett [Md.] 59 A. 648.

2. Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118; Powers v. Rude, 14 Okl. 381, 79 P. 89.

2a. See 2 Curr. L. 1687.

3. Contract contrary to public policy will not be enforced. Cowles v. Rochester Folding Box Co., 179 N. Y. 87, 71 N. E. 468.

plished.[4] Equity will not decree the specific performance, by a corporation, of an ultra vires contract, nor one which it has no power to perform without the consent of a third person,[5] nor a contract to incorporate where, contrary to the policy of the law, a large proportion of the proposed incorporators is insolvent.[6]

The contract must be fair and just in its operation,[7] and a fraud may be followed through several transfers.[8] Any fact showing inequity and unfairness in the contract defeats the right.[9] The stipulation of damages for breach by one party only is not unequal or unfair if designed to secure performance and not to facilitate discharge.[10] Mere misstatement by a purchaser of his purpose in buying does not affect his equity to performance; otherwise if it be done as part of a scheme of fraud.[11]

(§ 3) E. Necessity of written contract.—An oral contract to convey land will be specifically enforced where there has been a part performance, and to refuse to enforce it would be a fraud on complainant.[12] One who purchases from the vendee in possession under such circumstances would likewise be entitled to specific performance against the original vendor.[13] Mere possession without acts creating an equity is not enough.[14] Where the contract is for the sale of an undivided interest, joint possession with the vendor's co-tenant, the other elements existing, is sufficient.[15] The acts relied on as a part performance must be exclusively referable to the parol contract and established by evidence free from doubt;[16] if reasonably explicable on some other ground, the relief will be refused.[17] The mere payment of the consideration will not constitute such part performance.[18]

4. If the contract looked toward an illegal thing, no relief will be given. Agreement to procure excessive issue of corporate stock and make over part of it to promisee. Volney v. Nixon [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 189.

5. Agreement by private corporation to pave street in front of complainant's property, to the doing of which consent of city necessary. Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755.

Note: Enforcement of ultra vires contracts of private corporations. See Clark & M. Corp. § 213.

6. The Illinois incorporation act clearly contemplates that subscribers to capital stock should be persons of financial responsibility. Hernreich v. Lidberg, 105 Ill. App. 495.

7. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609; Sanders v. Newton, 140 Ala. 335, 37 So. 340; Rathbone v. Groh [Mich.] 100 N. W. 588; Cox v. Raider [Mich.] 101 N. W. 531; Ratterman v. Campbell, 26 Ky. L. R. 173, 80 S. W. 1155; Dreiske v. Joseph N. Eisendrath Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 379; York v. Searles, 97 App. Div. 331, 90 N. Y. S. 37; Wolford v. Steele [Ky.] 84 S. W. 327.

8. Where fraud on creditors persists through several transactions, reconveyance to the fraudulent grantor will be refused. The grantee conveyed to one who was to reimburse his advances by procuring a new loan and then reconvey. He died and his heirs refused. McBrerty v. Hyde [Pa.] 60 A. 507.

9. Schneider v. Schneider [Iowa] 98 N. W. 159; Stubbings v. Durham, 210 Ill. 542, 71 N. E. 586. Mineral lease under which lessee bore no duty to work his discoveries. Berry v. Frisbie [Ky.] 86 S. W. 558. Traffic contract held not fraudulent because of personal interest of corporate officers. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

10. Agreement to route rail traffic. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

11. Miller v. Fulmer, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 106.

12. Coleman v. Dunton [Me.] 58 A. 430. Thus where complainant has entered into possession, made improvements, discharged encumbrances and the vendor is insolvent, specific performance will be decreed. McKay v. Calderwood [Wash.] 79 P. 629. Oral contract to convey land in consideration of marriage, followed by marriage, will be enforced. Allen v. Moore, 30 Colo. 307, 70 P. 682. Payment of consideration and entry into possession, in good faith, under contract, with consent of vendor and making of valuable improvements. Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118. A small expenditure for improvements not sufficient. Wisconsin & M. R. Co. v. McKenna [Mich.] 102 N. W. 281.

13. Kuteman v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 842.

14. It is not equities arising out of the contract but equities arising out of what has been done by way of executing it and in reliance upon it, with the acquiescence of the other party that courts act on in such cases. Wisconsin & M. R. Co. v. McKenna [Mich.] 102 N. W. 281.

15. McKay v. Calderwood [Wash.] 79 P. 629.

16. Seitman v. Seitman, 204 Ill. 504, 68 N. E. 461.

17. Gates Land Co. v. Ostrander [Wis.] 102 N. W. 558.

18. Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118; Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 434; Cooper v. Colson [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 337.

An agreement may suffice, though it was also intended as a declaration of trust or a gift as to which it was deficient.[19] In California the code entitles plaintiff, if he has performed or offers performance, to relief, though he has not signed a written contract signed by defendant.[20]

An oral agreement to devise land will be enforced, if reasonably certain as to its subject-matter and stipulations and there has been such part performance by the promisee as will take it out of the statute of frauds,[21] provided the situation of the parties is such that the consideration rendered by the promisee is such that it cannot be measured by and compensated for by pecuniary damages.[22] To entitle a party to specific performance of such an agreement, he must establish it by clear and convincing evidence,[23] as well as show that the services were rendered wholly in accordance with such agreement and in reference thereto.[24] While the lack of a writing is not disprobative, the failure to explain why there was none may be so. Declarations of promisor are weak proof.[25]

§ 4. Performance by complainant.[26]—One seeking the specific performance of a contract must show that he has performed his part of the contract or that he is able, willing and ready to perform.[27] He is not excused by showing that

19. Robb v. Washington & Jefferson College, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

20. Civ. Code, § 3388. Bird v. Potter [Cal.] 79 P. 970.

21. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656. A suit by the promisee against devisees of the promisor, to compel specific performance of such an agreement, is not a collateral attack on the judgment of the probate court admitting the will of the promisor to probate. Best v. Gralapp [Neb.] 99 N. W. 837.

An oral contract to adopt a child or make it an heir will be specifically enforced where it has been fully performed by the child and its parent, and to refuse to do so would work a fraud on the child. Grantham v. Gossett, 182 Mo. 651, 81 S. W. 895.

22. Best v. Gralapp [Neb.] 99 N. W. 837; Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598. Thus if the consideration be the rendition of labor and services that may be liquidated in money, specific performance will not be decreed. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656. Performance of oral agreement to render personal services as housekeeper and attendant during lifetime of another will not take contract out of statute of frauds, since such services are capable of pecuniary compensation. To entitle to specific performance it must appear that the services were of an exceptional character and that the parties not only did not intend that they should be measured by ordinary standards, but that they were of such peculiar character that it is impossible to estimate their value by any such standard. Cooper v. Colson [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 337.

23. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656; Grantham v. Gossett, 182 Mo. 651, 81 S. W. 895; Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234; McKee v. Higbee, 180 Mo. 263, 79 S. W. 407; Cooper v. Colson [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 337; Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598; Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 58 A. 766; Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49. An oral contract to devise lands will be specifically enforced only when the proof of the contract and its terms and conditions have been established by proof so cogent, clear and forcible as to leave no reasonable doubt in the mind of the chancellor, and it appears that the complainant has performed his part of the contract. Evidence held not to authorize specific performance of the contract. Asbury v. Hicklin, 181 Mo. 658, 81 S. W. 390. A parol contract to make one a legatee must be established by very clear proof that it was made, what were its terms, that it was on valuable consideration. Rosenwald v. Middlebrook [Mo.] 86 S. W. 200. A young physician who entered a partnership with an older one of high standing, able, and well equipped held to have parted with nothing. Id.

24. Cooper v. Colson [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 337; Rosenwald v. Middlebrook [Mo.] 86 S. W. 200. Attention to office work and to personal matters of the senior partner held attributable to their relations and not to the promise of a legacy. Id.

25. Rosenwald v. Middlebrook [Mo.] 86 S. W. 200.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1689.

27. Kuntz v. Schnugg, 90 N. Y. S. 933; Hutchinson v. Hutchinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 528. Where a provision of a contract was that the vendor should prosecute a suit to recover a portion of the land in possession of another, and in case title to that portion failed, it was to be appraised and the amount deducted from the purchase price. In an action for the performance of the contract, the suit against the third person was still pending and no steps had been taken to appraise the property. Held, the purchaser was not entitled to a decree providing for an appraisal. Wold v. Newgaard, 123 Iowa, 233, 98 N. W. 640. Complainant as part consideration agreed to pay a mortgage on the land and instead of so doing bought it in and caused foreclosure proceedings to be commenced, thereby compelling defendant to pay it. Held, not entitled to specific performance. Clay v. Mayer, 183 Mo. 150, 81 S. W. 1066. Vendee seeking specific performance must show payment of contract price or bring same into court, though action therefor by vendor barred by statute of limitations. De Hihns v. Free [S. C.] 49 S. E. 841. A car shortage at a season when crops were moving and after defendant had misinformed defendant was first in fault in refusing to perform,[28] nor by defendant's refusal to perform instanter when demand was arbitrarily made without opportunity to investigate and counsel.[29] He must show that he has the title which he contracted to convey.[30] If the contract is silent as to the title, he must offer a marketable title.[31] Ordinarily an offer of performance is a prerequisite to the maintenance of a suit,[32] unless the respondent has repudiated the contract, in which case an offer of performance in the bill is sufficient.[33] This rule is not rigorously enforced where it would be inequitable to do so,[34] and in at least one jurisdiction plaintiff as to its need for cars, held not to show inability because of equipment to perform agreement for carriage. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355. Plaintiff's agreement to procure loan on property to be exchanged held to have been substantially performed. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578.

28. Clay v. Mayer, 183 Mo. 150, 81 S. W. 1066.

29. Refusal to deliver deed during temporary absence of vendor's counsel from the room for the purpose of examining invoice of property to be exchanged held not a refusal to perform justifying rescission. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578. Tender and demand made during momentary delay to examine property tendered in exchange held in bad faith and rescission on refusal unjustified. Id.

30. The fact that respondent might, by reason of a defective registration of the instrument constituting the defect in complainant's title, acquire a good title, does not authorize specific performance. Eversole v. Eversole [Ky.] 85 S. W. 186. Where a party has contracted for title free from encumbrances, he is not required to accept a title subject to an inchoate right of dower. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097. Specific performance will not be decreed where complainant's title is based on a presumption of fact, unless it also appears that there is no reasonable ground for apprehending that the evidence to establish the presumption will not be available for the protection of the respondent in the future, and that there is no reasonable ground for apprehending that evidence to overcome the presumption can be adduced. Specific performance refused where complainant's title based on unexplained absence of her husband for such period as to raise presumption of death. Potter v. Ogden [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 673. Complainant is not entitled to a decree where it appears that at the commencement of suit he did not have title agreed to be conveyed. Kuntz v. Schnugg, 90 N. Y. S. 933; Brown v. Widen [Iowa] 103 N. W. 158. Furnishing satisfactory abstract and tendering of marketable title not shown. Id. Production of releases of mortgages held equivalent to performance of covenant against incumbrances. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578.

See, also, section 5, subdivision Defenses.

31. Scudder v. Watt, 90 N. Y. S. 605; Downey v. Seib, 92 N. Y. S. 431. Possibility of issue held to be a cloud and decree did not remove same. Id. "The test of a marketable title is, whether it is clear beyond a reasonable doubt and, will not expose the purchaser to litigation. If there is a considerable—a rational doubt," it is not marketable. Miller v. Bronson [R. I.] 58 A. 257. Dormant defects in title are no defense (nonjoinder of wife in mortgage presumptively for purchase price). Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578.

32. Vendee must tender price. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290. It is necessary to show that prior to the commencement of the suit plaintiff vendee made an unconditional and absolute tender of the purchase money. An offer to pay the purchase price on delivery of a properly executed deed is not an unconditional tender. Terry v. Keim [Ga.] 49 S. E. 736.

Tender of sufficient deed prerequisite to suit: Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568. A party seeking specific performance of a contract must aver and prove the performance, or an offer to perform on his part of every essential ingredient of the contract which is required of him by the terms of the agreement. He must show a tender of a deed in accordance with terms of contract. Id.

33. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007; Pittsburgh Amusement Co. v. Ferguson, 91 N. Y. S. 666; Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290; Payne v. Melton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 277; Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568; Kreutzer v. Lynch [Wis.] 100 N. W. 887.

Waiver: An answer which denies that the complainant has title to land which he seeks to compel purchaser to take does not constitute a waiver of his right to a tender of the deed by the vendor, since respondent might be willing to take deed and rely on covenants of warranty. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568. It is no defense to a suit for specific performance that the complainant demanded that a survey be made to determine the number of acres in the tract, where such survey is necessary to ascertain the price to be paid, and made his tender dependent on such surveys being made, where the vendor's refusal to convey, at the time of the offer of the vendee to perform, was not based on his demand for a survey. Cole v. Killam, 187 Mass. 213, 72 N. E. 947.

34. When time is not made an essential element of a contract for the sale of premises, and the parties have substantially progressed with performance, the rule requiring tender before institution of suit for specific performance is not of imperative application. Much depends on the equities of the particular case and whether the omission to proffer performance has resulted in a hardship or loss that cannot be readily remedied by the decree. Hosmer v. Wyoming R. & Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 883. Where complainant alleges that he has fully paid the purchase price and the court finds is regarded as merely affecting the question of costs.[35] Where time is not made of the essence of the contract,[36] specific performance will be decreed, though the purchase price was not paid or performance tendered at the exact time fixed by the contract,[37] if the complainant has acted in good faith and with reasonable diligence,[38] unless there has been such a change in the circumstances affecting the equities of the parties as would make it inequitable to do so.[39] A forfeiture must have been declared if plaintiff's default did not of itself determine the contract.[40] Even where time is essential, affirmative action to forfeit is required.[41]

Where one who has contracted to sell land conveys it to a third person who takes with notice of the contract, a tender to the vendor is sufficient to entitle the purchaser to maintain specific performance against the grantee of the vendor.[42] The vendor's grantee having accepted payments cannot say there was a default when the deed to him passed.[43]

§ 5. Actions. Jurisdiction.[44]—A suit for specific performance of a contract to convey land is one in personam and cannot be maintained without personal jurisdiction of the respondent; it may be brought in a jurisdiction other than that in which the land is situate.[45] A suit against a guardian for specific perform-against him as to the fact, and the contract has not been rescinded, the bill will not be dismissed without giving him an opportunity to pay the balance of the purchase price. Mason v. Atkins [Ark.] 84 S. W. 630. Where the amount complainant is under obligation to pay is uncertain, an offer in the bill to pay whatever complainant may be under obligation to pay is sufficient. International Paper Co. v. Hudson River Water Power Co., 92 App. Div. 56, 86 N. Y. S. 736. Where in a contract for the sale of land, the stipulations are that the purchaser shall pay the money and the vendor shall execute a conveyance and there is no provision that either is to be done first, the covenants are mutual and dependent; it is not necessary on the part of the purchaser to make a strict tender, it is sufficient that when the time comes for the transaction he is able and prepared to pay and demands the deed. Cole v. Killam, 187 Mass. 213, 72 N. E. 947.

35. In an action for specific performance, a failure to make either a tender or demand before suit would affect only the question of costs. A formal tender of the purchase price was not a prerequisite to maintenance of the suit for specific performance. Murray v. Harbor & Suburban Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 91 App. Div. 397, 86 N. Y. S. 799.

36. Specific performance will not be decreed when time is of the essence of the contract and complainant is not able to perform at time fixed by contract. Garcin v. Pennsylvania Furnace Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 793.

37. If the complainant has not shown any disposition to abandon the contract but on the other hand has shown that he is endeavoring to carry it out, a short delay is not fatal. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that the purchaser shall pay for the same in instalments and that if he shall default for 30 days in payment of instalments when due, payments already made shall be forfeited, equity will enforce the contract where after a large part of the price has been paid the purchaser defaults for 30 days, but the vendor thereafter receives money on the purchase price and at the time of the purchaser's offer to pay the balance no notice had been given the purchaser of the vendor's intention to terminate the contract. Murray v. Harbor & Suburban Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 91 App. Div. 397, 86 N. Y. S. 799. Slight tardiness in payment of a balance when not objected to is not a defense. Cosby v. Honaker [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 610. If there be no stipulation as to time, it is not of the essence and a reasonable time is allowed. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578. Agreement respecting purchase of coal rights held an option and enforcement refused for tardy performance by plaintiff. Standiford v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 991.

38. Wright-Blodgett Co. v. Astoria Co. [Or.] 77 P. 599. The court will not countenance delay, nor will it aid complainant if he is passive while the value of the land he seeks to obtain is stable or lessening, and he seeks performance only when it is increasing in value. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030. Delay for two years and increase in value of land, together with acquiescence in claim that contract abandoned precludes specific performance. Henderson v. Beatty, 124 Iowa, 163, 99 N. W. 716.

39. Where, at time agreed on, vendor did not have clear title, and purchaser, before the title was cleared, invested his money elsewhere and vendor was six months in clearing title, specific performance refused. Miller v. Bronson [R. I.] 58 A. 257.

40. Thompson v. Colby [Iowa] 103 N. W. 117.

41. Zeimantz v. Blake [Wash.] 80 P. 822.

42. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

43. Kuhn v. Skelley, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 185.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1691.

45. Silver Camp Min. Co. v. Dickert [Mont.] 78 P. 967. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 637, providing for service of summons on nonresident defendants by publication, has no application in actions strictly in perance of a contract to locate land may be brought in the county in which the guardian was appointed, though not the county in which the land is situate or in which the respondent resides.[46] Equity will not take jurisdiction of such an action if the complainant has an adequate remedy at law.[47] The court of general equity powers and not the probate court administering the estate of a party has jurisdiction to apply the remedy.[48] Where the title of respondent is defective and complainant sues for specific performance, with an abatement of the purchase price, the question of what amount shall be abated on account of the defect is for the chancellor and cannot be determined by a master.[49]

The statute of limitations does not commence to run against a cause of action for specific performance until the complainant is entitled to a conveyance.[50]

Parties.[51]—As a general rule, the only parties necessary to a suit for specific performance are the parties to the contract. If a party to the contract is not the real party in interest, but only allows the use of his name for the purchase of the land, the real party in interest should be joined.[52] One who takes a conveyance of land with notice that his grantor had previously contracted to sell it to another takes it subject to the latter's equities, and the latter can maintain a suit against the grantee for the specific performance of the contract.[53] The custodian of the deed is a necessary party if delivery of the deed is part of the relief sought.[54] All persons having or claiming an interest in the land derived from the vendor after the contract and with notice of the rights of complainant are necessary parties defendant.[55] So, too, a purchaser from the vendee can maintain the suit against the vendor or one to whom he has conveyed and who took with notice,[56] sonam, such as a suit for specific performance. Id. Domicile of parties and not situation of land gives jurisdiction. It may lie in another state. Rea v. Ferguson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 778.

46. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

47. An objection in a suit for specific performance that the complainant has a complete remedy at law is jurisdictional and may be enforced by the court on its own motion, though not raised by the pleadings or suggested by counsel. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609.

48. Tenney v. Turner [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 506. In Minnesota the probate court has no jurisdiction of an action to enforce an oral agreement entered into by a decedent. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656.

49. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097.

50. Suit for specific performance held not barred by statute of limitations where evidence does not show when the complainant's right to a conveyance accrued. Betzer v. Goff [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 671.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1692.

52. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097.

53. Cummins v. Beavers [Va.] 48 S. E. 891; Fortner v. Wiggins, 121 Ga. 26, 48 S. E. 694; Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030; Engler v. Garrett [Md.] 59 A. 648.

Practice: The proper practice is to direct a specific performance of the contract by the subsequent purchaser in whom resides the legal title. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

54. Rea v. Ferguson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 778.

55. International Paper Co. v. Hudson River W. P. Co., 92 App. Div. 56, 86 N. Y. S. 736. A mortgagee of property as to which specific performance is sought is a proper party to a suit. Id. In an action to compel the specific performance of a contract to devise lands, persons claiming under a voluntary conveyance from the decedent are proper parties defendant and the action can be maintained against them, but in such case the personal representative is not a necessary party defendant. One who has succeeded by inheritance to the interest of one of the voluntary grantees of the promisor is a proper party defendant. Rhoades v. Schwartz, 41 Misc. 648, 85 N. Y. S. 229. Where testator left property to a trustee to hold in trust, in violation of a prior contract entered into by him, and his executors have delivered the trust funds to the trustee, the executors are not necessary parties to a suit against the trustee, for the specific performance of the testator's contract. Phalen v. United States Trust Co., 44 Misc. 57, 89 N. Y. S. 699.

Actual notice necessary when: It will not be enforced against a third person who has purchased from the vendor, without actual notice, though chargeable with constructive notice by reason of the recording of the contract, when to do so would work an injustice on the purchaser. Rathbone v. Groh [Mich.] 100 N. W. 588.

56. Where an officer of a corporation takes an option to purchase land in his own name, but for the benefit of the corporation, a vendee of the corporation can enforce specific performance of his contract to purchase against the corporation, the officer and one to whom the officer has caused the land to be conveyed, where the latter took with and a purchaser from the vendor who takes with notice may require the vendee to pay the price agreed on and take the land.[57] In Missouri a contract for the conveyance of land by a married woman, entered into subsequent to the enactment of the married woman's act of 1889, can be specifically enforced against her.[58] In South Carolina she can maintain the suit without the joinder of her husband where it concerns her separate property.[59] A suit may be maintained by[60] or against[61] the personal representative of a deceased party to the contract. One of two parties to a contract to purchase cannot maintain a bill to compel the conveyance of the entire title to him,[62] but a bill may be maintained against two persons to compel the conveyance of a title which they have contracted to convey and which they can convey acting collectively, though neither alone could convey, where jurisdiction of both has been acquired.[63]

Defenses.[63a]—It may be proved defensively that any of the essentials already discussed is lacking.[64] Basing a refusal on specific acts of non-performance waives all others.[65] Default in payment cannot be set up by one who has repudiated the contract.[66] Impossibility of performance in specie, to-wit, that respondent has, prior to the commencement of the suit, sold and conveyed the land to a bona fide purchaser, constitutes a defense;[67] but the respondent cannot object that he cannot convey the title contracted for, since complainant is entitled to a conveyance of the title which he has, with an abatement of the purchase price to the extent of the diminution in value caused by the defect.[68] That the complainant has not title notice of complainant's equities. Henry v. Black [Pa.] 59 A. 1070.

57. Randolph v. Wheeler, 182 Mo. 145, 81 S. W. 419.

58. Clay v. Mayer, 183 Mo. 150, 81 S. W. 1066.

59. Under Code N. C. §§ 178, 183, providing that where a married woman is a party to an action her husband must be joined unless the action concerns her separate property, a married woman may sue for the specific performance of a contract to bequeath certain personal property in consideration of the performance of certain services by her, without joining her husband. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49.

60. An administratrix of a deceased vendor may maintain a suit against the heirs of the decedent to compel them to convey in accordance with his contract where it appears the purchaser is willing to complete the contract; she may join herself as one of the complainants in her individual capacity, and the fact that she will be entitled to all the proceeds as personalty but will not be entitled to all the real property is not a sufficient reason for refusing the relief. Butman v. Butman, 213 Ill. 104, 72 N. E. 821.

61. Where pending a suit for specific performance the respondent conveys the land to another under such circumstances that the complainant is not entitled to a decree for specific performance, and after such conveyance the respondent dies, the complainant may file a supplemental bill for damages and have the cause revived as against the personal representative of the respondent under Rev. St. Wis. 1898, §§ 3501, 3907. Fleming v. Ellison [Wis.] 102 N. W. 398.

62. Davis v. Pfeiffer, 213 Ill. 249, 72 N. E. 718.

63. Resnick v. Campbell [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 452.

63a. See 2 Curr. L. 1691.

64. See ante, §§ 1-4.

65. Gibson v. Brown [Ill.] 73 N. E. 578. An absolute denial of liability under the contract waives the defense of plaintiff in complete performance. Zeimantz v. Blake [Wash.] 80 P. 822.

66. Zeimantz v. Blake [Wash.] 80 P. 822.

67. Coleman v. Dunton [Me.] 58 A. 430; Weaver v. Snively [Neb.] 102 N. W. 77.

68. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097. It is no defense to a suit for the specific performance of a contract to convey "any interest which complainant may have" in certain land, that he cannot convey a good title thereto, when respondent at the time of making the contract knew of the defect alleged in his answer no fraud or undue influence being claimed. Ewart v. Bowman [S. C.] 49 S. E. 867. Where a married man has contracted to convey a good title to land and his wife has refused to release her dower interest, the vendor may maintain a suit for specific performance and retain from the purchase price the value of the wife's inchoate dower interest. Payne v. Melton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 277.

Compare Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097, holding that where the contract has not liquidated the value of the wife's inchoate right of dower no abatement can be made therefor, since incapable of valuation and that complainant must either rely on covenants of warranty or repudiate contract. Where one of several joint tenants contracts to sell his own interest in land together with the interest of the other joint tenants, and it is apparent that his willingness to sell his interest is dependent on the sale of the interest of his joint tenants, but it eventuates that he was not authorized to contract for the sale of his coto all the land which he contracted to convey or that he has not the title which he has contracted to convey is a defense to the suit, but the respondent may by cross bill require the complainant to convey such land or title as he has with a diminution of the purchase price to the extent of the defect.[69] Subsistence of a like contract to that sued on is not a defense if it be not shown that the two would exceed complainant's ability to perform.[70] That complainant intends to carry on an unlawful and immoral business on the premises sought to be conveyed is a good defense, but the relief will not be denied where the business is not necessarily so, but may become so only by reason of the manner of conducting it.[71]

Pleading.[72]—The bill need not allege that there is no adequate remedy at law, where such fact is apparent from the other allegations.[73] Nor need it allege that the respondent was the owner of the land at the time the contract was entered into.[74] It is not necessary to allege that the contract was in writing,[75] though part performance to take the case out of the Statute of Frauds must be pleaded,[76] likewise a parol implied trust.[77] If the contract was made by an agent, it is not necessary to allege that his authority was in writing.[78] Complainant need not plead that a thing purchased by him was in all respects according to seller's contract.[79] It will be presumed without pleading it that a seller of crops to be grown on another's land was a lessee entitled to grow and sell them.[80]

A general denial puts in issue all the facts alleged as entitling complainant to the relief.[81] Laches must be pleaded.[82] Defectiveness of title in that the vendor's wife will not join must be pleaded and proved defensively.[83] A denial that damage will be irreparable raises the issue of adequacy of legal remedy.[84] The want of a writing may be raised by denying that there was a written contract,[85] or by denying the making of one.[86] If, however, the making of the contract is admitted and other defenses are relied on to defeat the remedy, the statute must be pleaded.[87] tenants' interests, specific performance as to his own interest will not be decreed, since to do so would be to enforce a contract he did not make. Tillery v. Land, 136 N. C. 537, 48 S. E. 824. Unless the purchaser objects, the wife's nonjoinder in the contract of sale and deed is no defense. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.

69. Tillery v. Land, 136 N. C. 537, 48 S. E. 824. A vendee in possession under a contract to purchase cannot resist the vendor's suit for specific performance and payment of the purchase price, on the ground the vendor has not such a title as he agreed to convey, unless he surrenders possession and rescinds the contract. If the title is defective as to only a part, he may surrender as to such part and insist on specific performance as to the balance with an abatement of the purchase price. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568.

70. Agreements to route traffic via certain railroads. Lone Star Salt Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 355.

71. Hamilton v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 289. See, also, ante, § 3.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1692.

73. International Paper Co. v. Hudson River W. P. Co., 92 App. Div. 56, 86 N. Y. S. 736. Under Civ. Code Mont. § 4410, providing that specific performance of a contract may be granted where pecuniary compensation for its breach cannot be given an allegation of a breach of a contract to convey land raises a presumption that pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief; it is not necessary for plaintiff to allege special circumstances showing he has no adequate remedy at law. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007.

74. The fact that respondent cannot perform is a matter of defense. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007.

75. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932; also holding that where, on the argument of a demurrer, complainant admitted that a contract within the statute of frauds and required to be in writing was not so, an order sustaining the demurrer, will not be reversed.

76, 77. People's Min. & Mill. Co. v. Central Consol. Mines Corp. [Colo. App.] 80 P. 479.

78. The bill will be demurrable for such reason only when it affirmatively appears that the authority is not in writing. Butman v. Butman, 213 Ill. 104, 72 N. E. 821.

79. He may waive defects and enforce performance. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.

80. Livesley v. Johnston [Or.] 76 P. 946.

81. Southern M. & A. R. Co. v. Graves, 182 Mo. 211, 81 S. W. 405.

82. Thompson v. Colby [Iowa] 103 N. W. 117.

83. Campbell v. Beard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 747.

84. Butler v. Wright, 93 N. Y. S. 113.

85. People's Min. & Mill. Co. v. Central Consol. Mines Corp. [Colo. App.] 80 P. 479.

86. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234.

87. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007.

Evidence.[88]—One who seeks to enforce the specific performance of a contract is bound to establish clearly and satisfactorily the existence of the contract and its terms. If the testimony is contradictory or doubtful, a decree will be refused.[89] It is competent to show circumstances dehors the written contract which make it inequitable to enforce it,[90] and evidence that complainant intends to use the premises sought to be conveyed for an unlawful and immoral purpose is admissible, though not pleaded.[91] One resisting the specific performance of a contract to convey, on the ground of fraud or mistake in the contract sought to be enforced, has the burden of proving facts which relieve him from the obligation of the contract.[92] So the burden is on him to show a forfeiture.[93]

The tender in equity need not be in court, since the decree may and should direct execution and delivery of a deed on payment.[94]

The relief granted[94a] must be consistent with the allegations of the bill.[95] The court having acquired jurisdiction will settle all matters in controversy,[96] though in so doing it may be required to pass on questions cognizable at law.[97] Violations of the contract by either party pending the determination of the suit may be enjoined.[98] If by reason of the fault of respondent or any change of conditions, not due to the fault of complainant, specific performance cannot be decreed, the court may nevertheless give the complainant relief by way of damages for breach of the contract,[99] and in case complainant has paid all or a part of the purchase price, may decree a return thereof with interest,[1] and charge the land with a lien therefor.[2] Likewise it may award him compensation for permanent improvements made in good faith.[3] If the vendor's title has failed as to a part of the

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1694.

89. Deeds v. Stephens [Idaho] 79 P. 77. Evidence held to show executed exchange. Ford v. Smith, 121 Ga. 300, 48 S. E. 914.

90. Stubbings v. Durham, 210 Ill. 542, 71 N. E. 586.

91. Hamilton v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 289.

92. Cape Fear Lumber Co. v. Matheson [S. C.] 48 S. E. 111. In an action to compel the acknowledgment of a deed theretofore executed by defendant, the burden is on complainant to show that the execution was done under circumstances entitling him to the relief. Southern M. & A. R. Co. v. Graves, 182 Mo. 211, 81 S. W. 405.

93. Thompson v. Colby [Iowa] 103 N. W. 117.

94. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.

94a. See 2 Curr. L. 1696.

95. Levandowski v. Althouse [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786.

96. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568. In an action for the specific performance of a contract to exchange property, when the defense is that complainant made false and fraudulent representations as to the rentals of his property and that the same were relied on by defendant, the court may by its decree provide for the equalization of writs, interest, and taxes on each piece of property. Ragette v. Zimmer, 90 N. Y. S. 221. In an action for specific performance of a contract by the purchaser, the defendant cannot complain that the court by its decree required the plaintiff to secure the deferred payments by mortgage, since otherwise he would have had to rely on the purchaser's personal responsibility. Ruzicka v. Hotovy [Neb.] 101 N. W. 328. Where a contract for the purchase of land contemplates that interest on deferred payments shall run from the time the purchase was completed and possession given thereunder, a decree providing that the complainant shall within a specified time make and deposit notes and mortgages for such deferred payments, will be construed as requiring the notes to bear interest from their date, within the time limited by the decree and when the complainant is to have possession. Id.

97. Clinton v. Shugart [Iowa] 101 N. W. 785.

98. Pending a suit for specific performance of a contract, operations or acts by either party in violation of the contract may be enjoined to preserve the status quo, and obedience to the final decree may be compelled by prohibitory or mandatory injunction or both according to the exigencies of the case. Carnegie Natural Gas Co. v. South Penn Oil Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 548.

99. Findley v. Koch [Iowa] 101 N. W. 766; Fleming v. Ellison [Wis.] 102 N. W. 398; Farson v. Fogg, 205 Ill. 326, 68 N. E. 755. Where the complainant had practically abandoned the contract and neglected to insist on performance for such a length of time as precludes a specific performance at his suit, he is not entitled to any damages. Findley v. Koch [Iowa] 101 N. W. 766.

1. Wolford v. Steele [Ky.] 84 S. W. 327. But see Findley v. Koch [Iowa] 101 N. W. 766.

2. Clay v. Mayer, 183 Mo. 150, 81 S. W. 1066.

3. Schneider v. Reed [Wis.] 101 N. W. 682.

property, or it be found defective or encumbered, the purchaser may waive his right to repudiate the contract and have performance enforced as far as the vendor is able to perform, with suitable abatement from the contract price.[4] The measure of diminution in case of failure of title to part of the land is a pro rata reduction of the price.[5] The court may as a condition of granting a decree require the complainant to pay interest on the purchase price during the time he has unreasonably delayed suit, where no tender before suit was shown.[6] In case of an inability to deliver title because of the wife's refusal to join, the decree may order a reservation of one-third the price to await her joinder or the further order of court.[7] In Louisiana a demand for damages coupled alternatively with one for specific performance will fail if the specific performance be waived.[8] Where one who has contracted to convey land has made a voluntary conveyance to another, the court can decree the deed to such other to be null and void and decree specific performance against the grantor.[9] If the suit is against a grantee of the vendor, who has taken with notice of the complainant's equities, the grantee is entitled to reimbursement out of any money owing by complainant to the grantor for the consideration paid by him to the grantor.[10] A bill may pray for specific performance, or in the alternative, for a rescission of the contract, and all persons affected by either relief made parties, where the same transactions are to be considered in granting either remedy.[11] The decree need not give the vendor an election to refund payments made or complete a sale unless he in the pleadings seeks it,[12] and has previously taken necessary steps to declare a forfeiture.[13]

A decree[13a] entered pursuant to an offer of judgment must be in conformity with the pleadings and the terms of the offer.[14] The taking of an appeal and filing of a supersedeas bond by respondent extends the time within which complainant may comply with the decree.[15] A decree requiring specific performance of a contract to convey land, not appealed from or in any way superseded, passes the title, as to persons chargeable with notice, as fully as a deed of record.[16] The decree cannot affect the rights of joint owners of land who are not parties to the action.[17]

4. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097; Clinton v. Shugart [Iowa] 101 N. W. 785; Capstick v. Crane [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1045. Where the respondent sets up false and fraudulent representations by the complainant, relied on and affecting value of property or title contracted to be conveyed, he may waive his right to resist specific performance and have the purchase price reduced by amount of diminution in value caused by defect. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568.

Operation of rule: This rule will not be carried to the extent of making a new contract for the parties. Thus deduction from contract price will not be made for defective repair of premises, where by terms of contract vendor has a specified time after exchange of title within which to make repairs. Sokolski v. Buttenwieser, 96 App. Div. 18, 88 N. Y. S. 973.

5. The vendee is not entitled to a greater measure of reduction by reason of the fact that the land as to which complainant's title failed adjoined other land owned by respondent and was for that reason especially valuable to him for business purposes, where it does not appear complainant knew such facts at time contract was entered into. Capstick v. Crane [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1045.

6. Pennsylvania Min. Co. v. Martin [Pa.] 59 A. 436.

7. Thompson v. Colby [Iowa] 103 N. W. 117.

8. Honor Co. v. Stevedores' & Longshoremen's Benev. Ass'n [La.] 38 So. 271.

9. Payne v. Melton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 277.

10. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens, 26 Ky. L. R. 243, 80 S. W. 1171; Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134. If the deed was given as security for money used to clear the premises of a mortgage thereon at the time the contract was entered into, such debt may be paid from the purchase price. Payne v. Melton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 277.

11. International Paper Co. v. Hudson River W. P. Co., 92 App. Div. 56, 86 N. Y. S. 736.

12. Rea v. Ferguson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 778.

13. Code, §§ 4299, 4300. Rea v. Ferguson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 778.

13a. See 2 Curr. L. 1696.

14. Abel v. Bischoff, 90 N. Y. S. 990.

15. Where complainant pursuant to terms of a decree deposits a part of the purchase price in court he does not abandon his rights under the decree by withdrawing such deposit after the respondent has filed a supersedeas bond and taken an appeal. Ruzicka v. Hotovy [Neb.] 101 N. W. 32.

16. Kelly v. Bramblett, 26 Ky. L. R. 167, 81 S. W. 249. Hence it is not essential to Costs.[18]—In the Federal courts the costs in suits for specific performance may be apportioned on an equitable basis.[19]

SPENDTHRIFTS, see latest topical index.

STARE DECISIS.

§ 1. The Doctrine and Its Application (1512).
§ 2. Decisions and Obiter Dicta (1513).
§ 3. Rules of Property (1514).
§ 4. Courts of Different Jurisdictions (1514).
A. Inferior and Appellate (1514).
B. Federal and State Courts (1514).
C. Different Federal Courts (1516).
D. Different State Courts (1516).

§ 1. The doctrine and its application.[20]—Where a court has decided the legal result of a given state of facts, it has established a precedent, which, until the decision is reviewed and overruled, is bound to control any subsequent case in which the same question is presented on the same state of facts.[21] The doctrine applies to matters of law as distinguished from matters of fact which are rendered conclusive when ascertained by the rule of res adjudicata.[22] To overrule a decision deliberately made, a court should be convinced not merely that the case was wrongly decided, but also that less injury will result from overruling than from following it,[23] or that other circumstances intervene, as where the decision was obiter dictum, or where conflicting decisions have since been made by inadvertence or otherwise, so that the position of the court is already uncertain.[24] Comity and necessity require that the various judges, who sit in the same court, should not attempt to overrule the decisions of each other, especially upon questions involving rules of property and practice, except for the most cogent reasons, such as a certainty that a previous ruling was erroneous or that no conflict would arise and no injustice would result from disregarding it;[25] but where the court of last resort the validity of a deed executed by a married woman in pursuance of a decree that she should acknowledge it in the manner required by law for the acknowledgment of deeds by a married woman. Goldstein v. Curtis [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 639.

17. Where, after a decree of specific performance against a part only of several owners in common of land, one of the cotenants against whom no decree was rendered brings partition and the land is sold to one who had notice of the decree for specific performance, the complainant in the suit for specific performance cannot by a supplemental bill in the suit for specific performance have the sale in partition proceedings set aside unless they were of such a nature as to render the sale void. Tobin v. Larkin, 187 Mass. 279, 72 N. E. 985.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1698.

19. Kane v. Luckman, 131 F. 609. See, generally, Costs, 3 Curr. L. 940.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1698.

21. Where, in a suit on a bond, the surety set up the same defense as the principal in an earlier case and relied on the same facts to support it, the court followed its former decision. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Nisbet, 119 Ga. 316, 46 S. E. 444. The doctrine applies to a question of jurisdiction (Fisheries Co. v. Lennen [C. C. A.] 130 F. 533), or constitutionality of a statute (State v. Scampini [Vt.] 59 A. 201, 203), or construction of a contract (Akers v. Jefferson County Sav. Bank, 120 Ga. 1066, 48 S. E. 424).

22. Whether a railroad bridge is part of a "continuous line of road" (Comp. St. 1899, p. 954, c. 77, art. 1), is a question of law, and a prior determination is not conclusive. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cass County [Neb.] 101 N. W. 11. See, also, Former Adjudication, 3 Curr. L. 1476.

23. The court refused to alter its former rule applying the statute of limitations against municipal corporations, and it appeared that since the accrual of the rights by adverse possession relied upon, the rule had been reversed by statute, so that no further harm could come of it. City of Wahoo v. Netheway [Neb.] 102 N. W. 86.

24. A former construction of a married woman's statute was adhered to, regardless of how the matter would be decided were it res integra, the court saying that "certainty of the law is more essential to justice than absolute correctness." Lonstorf v. Lonstorf, 118 Wis. 159, 95 N. W. 961.

See, also, Bailey v. McAlpin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 388.

25. Fritter v. Bohl, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 365. "The rule itself and a careful observance of it are essential to prevent unseemly conflict, to the speedy conclusion of litigation and to the respectable administration of the law, especially in the national courts, where many judges are qualified to sit at the trials and are frequently called on to act in the same cases." Plattner Implement Co. v. International Harvester Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 376. Co-ordinate courts or judges should not on rules of property or practice overrule each other except for the most cogent rea-has decided that the questions decided in a decision of a lower court were not involved in the case, such decision is not a precedent for a co-ordinate lower court.[26] Not every decision is a binding precedent, as where, to satisfy a constitution which required the concurrence of the majority of a court for a decision, an evenly divided court affirmed the judgment below in order to end the litigation, the decision was held to have no force as a precedent;[27] also a prior decision may control a later one where the court was divided in its reasoning;[28] and so where the language used had not in view the matter as to which the case is invoked as a precedent,[29] or where a matter involved in a case passed without consideration.[30] and the same rule obtains as to "unofficial" opinions of supreme court commissioners;[31] but opinions of supreme court commissioners of Nebraska published "officially" are in all respects opinions of the court.[32] Where a court overrules its own decision and a defendant in a criminal case may have acted on the advice of counsel based on the law as laid down in the earlier decision, a new trial will be ordered under the rules of law formerly laid down, but the new construction will be followed in all subsequent cases.[33]

Law of the case.—A phase of the law often met is the adherence in a retrial to the law of the case as already decided.[34]

§ 2. Decisions and obiter dicta.[35]—A point may be considered and passed upon by the court which only comes in question incidentally and is not necessary to the determination of the case. In that event the decision, so far as it concerns that point, is merely obiter dictum and not entitled to the weight of a precedent.[36] Where a decision of any one of two or more questions presented would dispose of a case and the court decides them all, the decision is not mere obiter, but a binding precedent as to all points decided;[37] and where a court passes upon a question not necessarily involved in the decision, but deemed pertinent in deciding the case, its decision on that point is of persuasive force and not mere obiter dictum.[38] sons. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

26. Ex parte Conley [Tex. Cr. App.] 75 S. W. 301.

27. State v. McClung [Fla.] 37 So. 51.

28. Bailey v. McAlpin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 388.

29. Tarrant County v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 656; Flint v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 99 N. W. 825, 826.

30. The fact that the court entertained jurisdiction in a prior case, in the absence of any suggestion as to the want of it, renders the case not binding as a precedent. New v. Territory of Oklahoma, 25 S. Ct. 68. But where a court has enforced a statute repeatedly without discussion of its constitutionality, its decisions will be regarded as a rule of property binding as a precedent on the question of the validity of the statute. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511, 78 P. 30.

31. "The doctrine of stare decisis has no application to decisions of this character. The court is not necessarily bound by anything said therein, nor to the propositions of law enunciated on which the conclusions are predicated. It only approves the conclusions. * * * They [the decisions] rest on an altogether different footing from opinions published in official reports." Flint v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 99 N. W. 825; Hoagland v. Stewart [Neb.] 100 N. W. 133.

32. Lancaster County v. McDonald [Neb.] 103 N. W. 78.

33. State v. Bell [N. C.] 49 S. E. 163.

34. See full treatment Appeal and Review, § 15F, 3 Curr. L. 295. A ruling on demurrer may be vacated for error at any time during trial without violating the law of the case. De La Beckwith v. Superior Court of Colusa County [Cal.] 80 P. 717. A clearly erroneous ruling will be reversed on second appeal if no change of status or vesting of property has intervened. Board of School Directors of Buncombe County v. Asheville [N. C.] 50 S. E. 279.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1699.

36. First Nat. Bank v. Covington, 129 F. 792, 797; Southern R. Co. v. Simpson [C. C. A.] 131 F. 705. "It is not so much what a court says, in the decision of a case, as that which it actually does, that should be considered in applying the principles of the case as a precedent. Courts often use language in an opinion responsive to an argument of counsel, of which the reader of the opinion is not cognizant and thus general statements may be given undue weight." Flint v. Chaloupka [Neb.] 99 N. W. 825, 826. An inadvertent statement in the syllabus of decision on a point not in issue and not considered by the court is obiter dictum. Wilson v. Ulysses Tp. of Butler County [Neb.] 101 N. W. 986.

37. First Nat. Bank v. Covington, 129 F. 792, 799.

38. Where the question was whether a party instituting condemnation proceedings could dismiss them before the filing of the

§ 3. Rules of property.[39]—Where a court has recognized, without discussion, a statute as valid and has enforced its provisions, and its decisions have been generally considered and acted on as judicial recognitions of the validity of the statute, the decisions are considered rules of property and will be followed.[40] A decision, in reliance upon which rights of innocent purchasers have arisen, will not be overruled where the effect would be to disturb those rights.[41]

§ 4. Courts of different jurisdictions. A. Inferior and appellate.[42]—Inferior courts are bound by the decisions of appellate courts in their jurisdictions made either in a prior phase of the same case,[43] or in other cases involving similar facts,[44] even when there are questions involved, which were not raised or considered by the appellate court, if the cases are substantially alike.[45]

(§ A) B. Federal and state courts. When Federal courts follow state decisions.[46]—The Federal courts are bound by the decisions of state courts on matters of local but not of general or Federal law.[47] Hence they follow the construction put upon a state statute by the highest court of the state,[48] especially award, a statement that it could not dismiss after the filing of the award was held not to be mere obiter dictum. Sprague v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 842. A matter involved in the case and decided after argument is not dictum, though but indirectly involved in the turning point of the case. Lancaster County v. McDonald [Neb.] 103 N. W. 78.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1700.

40. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511, 78 P. 30. As to interpretation of state statute by state courts establishing a rule of property, binding on Federal courts, see post, § 4B.

41. Validity of municipal bonds. State v. Bristol, 109 Tenn. 315, 70 S. W. 1031.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1700.

43. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527; Hoagland v. Stewart [Neb.] 100 N. W. 133; New York Life Ins. Co. v. English [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 616, 619; Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180, 182. A prior decision of an appellate court in the same case is binding upon it as part of the law of the case, especially on a question of practice where the parties have acted upon the decision. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482, 483. A fuller discussion of the "law of the case" will be found in Appeal and Review, § 15F, 3 Curr. L. 295.

44. Carson v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 55, 46 S. E. 525, 529.

45. Ballou v. United States Flour Milling Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 331.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1701.

47. "The Federal courts follow state courts in cases depending on the laws of a particular state and not controlled by the constitution, laws or treaties of the United States or by the principles of the commercial or mercantile law or of general jurisprudence, of national or universal application." York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564, 567. The United States supreme court is concluded by a decision of the state court as to conspiracy to defraud as a common-law offense, no Federal question being involved. Howard v. Fleming, 191 U. S. 126, 48 Law. Ed. 121.

48. York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564, 567.

Illustrations: Decisions construing statute of limitations of action for land which have become rule of property. Scott v. Mineral Development Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 497. Statute as to issue of patents for land. Lockard v. Asher Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 689. As to constitutionality of bill increasing salaries of judges. Michell Co. v. Matthues, 134 F. 493. Rule of evidence based on statute. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Albro, [C. C. A.] 127 F. 281. As to validity and execution of local improvement statute. Treat v. Chicago [C. C. A.] 130 F. 443. Whether chattel mortgage is valid is local, though necessary to decide whether mortgagee in possession took thereby a preference in bankruptcy. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 25 S. Ct. 306. Construction of state "anti-trust" law. National Cotton Oil Co. v. Texas, 25 S. Ct. 379; Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Texas, 25 S. Ct. 383. Interpretation of state statute binding, though found only by implication from applications of it. Jacobson v. Commonwealth, 25 S. Ct. 358. Validity of county ordinance. Flanigan v. Sierra County, 25 S. Ct. 314; Wheeler v. Plumas County, 25 S. Ct. 316. Whether one was incompetent as witness under state law because a physician to the person against whom the testimony was sought. Supreme Lodge K. P. v. Meyer, 25 S. Ct. 754. Rights of policy holder under the insurance contract. Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273. Whether return of substituted service in Federal courts can be amended is a question as to which state decisions are binding. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. That a state statute gives damages regardless of contributory negligence of one injured by locomotive, the bell of which was not sounded. Rogers v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 573. State decision that board of equalization of taxes might levy in percentages. Paine v. Germantown Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 527. Validity of road bond act under state constitution. Rees v. Olmsted [C. C. A.] 135 F. 296.

When a cause of action is created by statute, the question when the right of action is brought into existence and what conditions authorize its enforcement are matters for judicial construction, as to which the decisions of the highest state court are controlling. Whitman v. Atkinson [C. C. A.] 130 F. 759.

where the construction of the statute is of such long standing and so firmly established as to constitute a rule of property,[49] and even where the state court ascertains the meaning and scope of the statute, as well as its validity, by pursuing a different rule of construction from that used by the Federal courts.[50] But the opinions of intermediate appellate state courts[51] and dicta of the highest courts[52] are persuasive merely. Where the question of the validity of a statute has never been passed upon by the highest state court and the weight of authority of the lower courts is in favor of the constitutionality of the act, the Federal court should hold it constitutional, if possible.[53] The correctness of the state court ruling is immaterial,[54] and the Federal court is bound to assume that when the question arose in the state court it was thoroughly considered by that tribunal, and that the decision rendered embodies its deliberate judgment thereon.[55] Where there are conflicting decisions of the state court, the Federal court will ordinarily follow the latest, unless contract rights have become vested under the earlier decisions.[56] The construction by a state court of a state statute is not binding upon the Federal courts where rights had become vested before the decision.[57] The state courts are not followed as to the construction of the state constitutions and laws as to rights under Federal laws or constitution,[58] or involving some rule of general[59] or com-

The question whether a state statute is separable so that part may be held a violation of the Federal constitution and part valid is one upon which the decisions of the state courts are binding on the Federal courts. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52, 54.

49. Statute of Frauds applied to real estate. York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564; Scott v. Mineral Development Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 497.

50. "The power to determine the meaning of a statute carries with it the power to prescribe its extent and limitations, as well as the method by which they shall be determined." Smiley v. Kansas, 25 S. Ct. 289, 290.

51. Anglo-American Land, Mortgage & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721, 741.

52. First Nat. Bank v. City of Covington, 129 F. 792, 797; Southern R. Co. v. Simpson [C. C. A.] 131 F. 705, 709.

53. Kane v. Erie R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 681.

54, 55. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Albro [C. C. A.] 127 F. 281.

56. Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205, 212.

57. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Sioux Falls, 131 F. 890, 909; Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180. As to rights antedating a state decision, the Federal courts are not bound. Wicomico County Com'rs v. Bancroft [C. C. A.] 135 F. 977. Decisions impairing or destroying contract rights previously acquired by citizens of different states. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 26.

58. Kibbe v. Stevenson Iron Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 147. Where a Federal statute forbade the admission in evidence of instruments not stamped as required by Federal statute, decisions of a state court admitting such instruments are not binding on the Federal courts. Sackett v. McCaffrey [C. C. A.] 131 F. 219. A Federal court, in construing the meaning of a state statute as to what contract is contained therein, and whether the state has passed any law impairing its obligation, is not bound by previous decisions in state courts, except when they have been so long and firmly established as to constitute a rule of property, but will decide independently, whether there is a contract, and whether its obligation has been impaired (Columbia Ave., etc., Trust Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152, 166), especially where the law in the state was unsettled at the time the contract was made, although it has been settled since that time (Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180).

59. Kibbe v. Stevenson Iron Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 147.

Illustrations: The right of collateral attack upon a judgment. Phoenix Bridge Co. v. Castleberry [C. C. A.] 131 F. 175. Return of replevied property. Three States Lumber Co. v. Blanks [C. C. A.] 133 F. 479. Construction of will. Russell v. United States Trust Co., 127 F. 445. Necessity of insurable interest in assignee of policy of life insurance. Gordon v. Ware Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 132 F. 444.

Contra: Where the highest state court has decided that an adjudication as to the taxes of one year is not a bar to the recovery of the taxes of another year, the Federal court will follow that rule. First Nat. Bank v. Covington, 129 F. 792.

"A well defined distinction exists between the establishment of a rule of property by means of the interpretation by the highest court of a state of the general principles of common law and the construction by such a court of a local statute. In the former case a settled course of decisions of the state court is generally requisite. A single decision, although always persuasive, may not be controlling." Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205. Whether special limitation of action by contract is compatible with public policy is general. Spinks v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 169. What presumptions will aid defective return of substituted service is general. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

mercial law.[60] Federal courts have refused to follow state decisions on the proposition that not even in equity do the statutes permit a married woman to contract with her husband respecting her sole property.[61]

When state courts follow Federal decisions.[62]—Decisions of the Federal courts are binding on the state courts as to the construction of the Federal constitution[63] or statutes.[64] On questions of general law, the decisions of the Federal courts do not control the state courts.[65]

(§ 4) C. Different Federal courts.[66]—Although the Federal courts in one circuit will follow, if possible, decisions in other circuits, they are not bound to do so, especially where the decisions in other circuits are inharmonious.[67] In regard to validity of patents, the decisions of other circuit courts of appeals will have especial weight.[68]

(§ 4) D. Different state courts.[69]—A state court will follow its own previous interpretation of the common law, and is not bound by that of the court of another state as to a contract made in that state,[70] or a will executed there, devising land in the state where the question arises.[71] The court of one state will not attempt in an action upon a judgment rendered by the court of another state, to correct an error of the foreign court in rendering the judgment.[72] The court of one state will follow the decision of the court of another state construing a local statute, but it need not follow a decision of said court as to the mode of procedure and practice in giving the remedies provided by the statute.[73]

STATE LANDS; STATEMENT OF CLAIM; STATEMENT OF FACTS, see latest topical index.

STATES.

§ 1. Boundaries and Jurisdiction (1516).
§ 2. Property (1517).
§ 3. Contracts (1517).
§ 4. Officers and Employes (1517).
§ 5. Fiscal Management (1519).
§ 6. Claims (1520).
§ 7. Actions By and Against (1521).

§ 1. Boundaries and jurisdiction. Boundaries.[74]—A boundary line variant

60. Kibbe v. Stevenson Iron Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 147. Existence of double insurance. Meigs v. London Assur. Co., 126 F. 781.

61. James v. Gray, 131 F. 401, applying Massachusetts Married Women's Act.

Note: The generally accepted rule is that no right is enforced save that recognized by the state courts, but that the remedy is outside this rule. Lippincott v. Mitchell, 94 U. S. 767, 24 Law. Ed. 315; Allen v. Massey, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 351, 21 Law. Ed. 542, which were cases relating to property rights; also, Meister v. Moore, 96 U. S. 76, 24 Law. Ed. 826; Maynard v. Hill, 125 U. S. 190, 31 Law. Ed. 654. The leading case so holding is Meade v. Beale, Taney, 393, wherein it is said that state decisions will be followed, though contrary to the generally accepted doctrines of equity. It is said that James v. Gray, 131 F. 401, while perhaps not so intended, transcends this limitation and affects matter of right.—From note 4 Columbia L. R. 589.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1702.

63. As to discrimination in liquor law within the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the Federal constitution. State v. Scampini [Vt.] 59 A. 201, 210. As to what constitutes a fugitive from justice within Federal constitution. In re Letcher, 145 Cal. 563, 79 P. 65.

64. Federal extradition laws. Ex parte Dennison [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1045. What is a preference under Bankruptcy Law. Stewart v. Hoffman [Mont.] 81 P. 3.

65. Decision of Federal court on fellow-servant doctrine not followed in subsequent suit for same cause of action in state court. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Patting, 210 Ill. 342, 351, 71 N. E. 371.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1702.

67. As to patents. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167.

68. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1703.

70. Akers v. Jefferson County Sav. Bank, 120 Ga. 1066, 48 S. E. 424.

71. The court declared that it had been repeatedly held that the courts of the respective states will construe for themselves wills and other instruments in writing affecting the titles to land situated within their state, by the law of their state. Folsom v. Board of Trustees of Ohio State University, 210 Ill. 404, 71 N. E. 384.

72. Blumle v. Kramer, 14 Okl. 366, 79 P. 215.

73. Clark v. Knowles, 187 Mass. 35, 72 N. E. 352.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1703.

from the original grant may be established by prescription if thereby the political power and influence of a state be not enlarged.[75] Avulsion has no effect on a boundary line. It remains in the center of the original channel.[76]

Jurisdiction.[77]—The jurisdiction of a state is co-extensive with its territorial boundaries,[78] but extends no further;[79] but the police power of a state, for certain purposes, extends over public lands of the United States within the state.[80]

§ 2. Property.[81]—Adverse possession does not run against the state.[82] A constitutional provision that the credit of the state shall not be given to a private individual is not violated by a statute providing for the giving of a lien on state tide lands where the state is not liable for the lien,[83] nor does such a statute contravene a provision against contracting a debt by or on behalf of the state where the land becomes liable after the state has parted with its title.[84]

§ 3. Contracts.[85]—The revocation of a waiver of its exemption from action against it is not an impairment of the obligation of a contract entered into when the waiver was in effect.[86] An estoppel may be created in favor of a state by statements made to one of its employes.[87]

§ 4. Officers and employes.[88]—Presidential electors are for certain purposes

75. Town of Searsburg v. Woodford, 76 Vt. 370, 57 A. 961.

76. Avulsion by Missouri River which forms the boundary between Missouri and Nebraska. Missouri v. Nebraska, 25 S. Ct. 155; Id., 25 S. Ct. 580.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1703.

78. Texas has jurisdiction over the Red River to the center of the stream. Parsons v. Hunt [Tex.] 84 S. W. 644.

79. Where low water mark of a river forms the boundary of a state, it has no jurisdiction beyond such mark. Evansville C. & H. Traction Co. v. Henderson Bridge Co., 134 F. 973. Its statutes have no extra-territorial effect. Holshouser Co. v. Gold Hill Copper Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 650.

80. Relative to the keeping of live stock. Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459.

NOTE. States as corporations: The different states and territories of the union are corporations. State v. Woram, 6 Hill [N. Y.] 33, 40 Am. Dec. 378; Dikes v. Miller, 25 Tex. 281; Michigan State Bank v. Hastings, 1 Doug. [Mich.] 225, 41 Am. Dec. 549; People v. St. Louis, 10 Ill. 351, 48 Am. Dec. 339; Territory v. Hilderbrand, 2 Mont. 426. A state was held not to be a corporation, however, within the meaning of an act of congress requiring payment of a duty by "every firm, corporation, etc., engaged in transporting persons for hire." State v. Atkins, 35 Ga. 315. Act Congress June 30, 1864, as amended by act March 3, 1865. See Clark & M. Corp. § 32.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1704.

82. See Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51. Topping v. Cohn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 372.

83, 84. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503, 77 P. 845.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1704.

86. See Public Contracts, 4 Curr. L. 1089.

The plaintiff had a contract with the defendant for installing a heating plant in a state public school. When the contract was made with the school board, the laws of the state had made the board a corporate body, with power to sue and be sued. After the contract was made the state deprived the board of the power to sue and be sued. Held, the power to sue and be sued, which the state gave the board, was no part of the contract, and can be revoked by the state without impairing any contract obligation. Wheeler v. Board of Control of State Public Schools [Mich.] 100 N. W. 394.

Note: Since the school board was a creature of the state, and in a sense its agent, the suit against it was in effect regarded as a suit against the state. The general doctrine is that a state cannot be sued against its consent (Railroad Co. v. Tennessee, 101 U. S. 337, 25 Law. Ed. 960); but that it may waive this immunity (Clark v. Barnard, 108 U. S. 436, 447, 27 Law. Ed. 780). As over against the right of the state, stands the prohibition of the United States Constitution against laws impairing contract obligations. It would seem as if the act of the state in the principal case did impair plaintiff's contract right. This would be a logical view to take, but the courts have not followed it. The notion that the state could not be sued against its consent, or unless it waived the privilege of sovereignty, was too strong to be overcome. See Beers v. Arkansas, 20 How. [U. S.] 527, 15 Law. Ed. 991. Cooley's Cons. Lim. p. 388.—4 Columbia L. R. 599.

87. Statements made to an architect of a public building employed by a state board. Fransen v. Regents of Education of South Dakota [C. C. A.] 133 F. 24.

Note: A state may make a valid contract in a like manner as a private individual may do so (State v. Bank, 29 Houst. [Del.] 99, 73 Am. Dec. 699), and in entering into a contract with its own citizens can claim no exemptions from the rules applicable to contracts between individuals. Patton v. Gilmer, 42 Ala. 548, 94 Am. Dec. 665. When it breaks its contracts it may be liable for prospective profits (Danolds v. State, 89 N. Y. 36, 42 Am. Rep. 277); but it cannot be sued except by its consent (Carter v. State, 42 La. Ann. 927, 21 Am. St. Rep. and note; Julian v. State, 122 Ind. 68). See note to Carr v. State [Ind.] 22 Am. St. Rep. 649.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1705. See, also, Officers and Public Employes, 4 Curr. L. 854.

regarded as state officers.[89] An officer receiving his appointment from a political subdivision is a state officer when he performs duties which affect the general public welfare.[90] Where a legal office is established without any specific provision for the appointment of a person to fill it, the governor may appoint,[91] and since the office may be filled by a de facto officer, the validity of the appointment and the right of the appointee to hold cannot be questioned in a habeas corpus proceeding.[92] A power in the legislature to provide for appointments to fill public offices may be delegated,[93] and this power not being for the benefit of the body to whom it is delegated, is not a right or privilege forbidden by the constitution.[94] The legislature has no power to provide for more justices of the peace than are provided for by the constitution.[95]

The deputation of an assistant is confined to the term of the official appointing; hence such deputy's bond does not extend beyond such term.[96]

Whether the discretion vested in the legislature to apportion senators and representatives has been abused is a judicial question,[97] and may be raised by any voting citizen in the state, whether or not the wrong complained of exists in his district.[98] The clerk, sheriff, and auditor of the county in which the action is brought are the only necessary parties.[99]

The governor is not a part of the law making body. His authority over the legislature is limited to the recommendation of such legislation as he deems expedient. The power of the legislature to enact such legislation is plenary.[1] A constitutional prohibition against increasing the governor's compensation during his term is not violated by an appropriation for an executive mansion,[2] unless part of the appropriation be used for the purchase of provisions to be used there.[3] A power in the legislature to determine a contested election to the office of governor does not give it power to adopt a report to the effect that frauds rendered it impossible to determine who had been elected, and declare a vacancy in the office.[4] The legislature may call on the supreme court for an opinion as to whether it may adopt such report and declare a vacancy.[5] In the absence of fraud or collusion, the acts of public officers within the limits of power conferred upon them are acts of the state.[6]

Where the state auditor acts in a quasi-judicial capacity and in a manner which affects rights of citizens analogous to the manner in which they would be affected by the decision of a court, his acts may be reviewed by certiorari.[7] The return to the writ is to be taken as a true statement of the facts relating to the audit.[8]

89. Within the meaning of a constitutional provision providing for the filling of a vacancy in an elective office at the next succeeding annual election. Donelan v. Bird, 26 Ky. L. R. 55, 80 S. W. 796.

90. A town constable committing a prisoner to a town lockup. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

91. Act Feb. 27, 1901, establishing a State Board of Medical Examiners. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166.

92. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166.

93. Under a constitutional provision that all officers whose offices may be hereafter created by law shall be appointed as the legislature may direct. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166.

94. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166.

95. In Tennessee two for each civil district outside of towns. Grainger County v. State [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 750.

96. Jackson v. Martin, 136 N. C. 196, 48 S. E. 672.

97. Brooks v. State, 162 Ind. 568, 70 N. E. 980. Acts 1903, p. 358, c. 206, apportions senators and representatives in an unequal manner and is a violation of Const. §§ 2-6. Id.

98, 99. Brooks v. State, 162 Ind. 568, 70 N. E. 980.

1. State v. Clancy [Mont.] 77 P. 312.

2, 3. Bailey v. Kelly [Kan.] 79 P. 735.

4, 5. In re Senate Resolution No. 10 [Colo.] 79 P. 1009.

6. State engineer acting under Laws 1902, p. 1125, c. 473, held not liable for trespass for entering on private property, though the statute did not in terms authorize the entry. The entry was necessary in order to make the survey. Litchfield v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 1016.

7. Refusal to pay a bounty because the statute providing it is unconstitutional.

Mandamus will not issue to compel a public officer to do a nugatory act.[9]

Under a constitutional provision that the attorney general shall perform such duties as are prescribed by law, he has no powers except such as are given him by statute,[10] and may not intervene on behalf of the state in any action other than those specified by law;[11] but his statutory powers can be limited only by a clear expression of the legislature to such effect.[12] Where he is party to a civil proceeding in court or an officer representing public interests he is bound by the action of his authorized attorney as any other party is.[13]

When the duty to prepare proposed legislation is vested in the legislature, the trustees of a state institution have no power to employ counsel to draft a revision of the laws relative to such institution.[14]

§ 5. Fiscal management.[15]—Scrip can be issued only in accordance with constitutional limitations.[16] State funds can be paid out of the treasury only on duly executed[17] and countersigned warrants.[18]

Though the care of the poor generally has been given over to the counties and cities, the state is not precluded from making an appropriation for their use.[19] An appropriation to a private corporation organized to care for a certain class of dependent poor is for a public purpose,[20] and is not repugnant to a constitutional provision against making a donation to any private corporation,[21] nor is it a loan of the credit of the state;[22] and since it is alterable both as to amount and manner of application, it constitutes a mere gratuity and does not create an indebtedness against the state.[23] An appropriation for the establishment and maintenance of a state fair is for a public purpose.[24] An appropriation to aid counties in constructing roads does not contravene a constitutional prohibition against giving aid to any individual, association, or corporation,[25] or one forbidding the general assembly

Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson, 91 Minn. 30, 97 N. W. 454.

8. People v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 639.

9. The state comptroller may withhold a warrant on the state treasurer until it can be honored. Trustees of Rutgers College v. Morgan [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 205.

10. Ark. const. art. 6, § 22. Railroad Tax Cases, 136 F. 233.

11. Kirby's Dig. art. 6, c. 62, enumerates in what actions he shall represent the state. Railroad Tax Cases, 136 F. 233.

12. Rev. Laws, c. 7, §§ 1, 9, giving him power to appoint assistants and employ such additional legal assistance as he deems necessary, held not to limit his previous power to give jurisdiction to the courts and to bind himself as a party representing the public. McQuesten v. Attorney General, 187 Mass. 185, 72 N. E. 965.

13. McQuesten v. Attorney General, 187 Mass. 185, 72 N. E. 965.

14. Trustees of Michigan asylum for the insane. Phelps v. Auditor General [Mich.] 99 N. W. 374.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1706.

16. Issue of revenue scrip under South Carolina Act of March 2, 1872, to relieve the state of its liability on railway bonds, authorized by act of September 15, 1868, when there was no outstanding liability, is prohibited by Const. April 16, 1868, art. 9, § 10, forbidding the issue of scrip except in redemption of an evidence of indebtedness previously issued. Lee v. Robinson, 25 S. Ct. 180.

17. Laws 1893, p. 45, c. 4121, providing a special method of disbursing funds by the state treasurer, does not conflict with Const. 1885, art. 4, § 24, and when a requisition is made by the clerk on the comptroller for money to be paid to jurors and witnesses, and the amount deemed by him necessary is endorsed on the requisition and countersigned by the governor, such requisition becomes an order on the treasurer and is authority for the transfer of the money to the clerk. State v. Croom [Fla.] 37 So. 303. The state comptroller is not authorized to draw his warrants for coyote bounties earned under St. 1891, p. 280, c. 198, until the claim has been approved by the state board of examiners. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 681, 78 P. 270.

18. The requisition must be countersigned by the governor. State v. Knott [Fla.] 37 So. 307.

19. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

20. Acts 1904, p. 33, c. 7, appropriating a sum for the benefit of a home for destitute children. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

21. The corporation being required to give bond and render annual accounts. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

22, 23. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

24. Act March 29, 1902, p. 243, c. 112. Kentucky Live Stock Breeders' Ass'n v. Hager [Ky.] 85 S. W. 738.

25. Acts 1904, p. 388, c. 225. Bonsal v. Yellott [Md.] 60 A. 593.

from involving the state in the construction of works of internal improvement, or granting any aid thereto.[26] A provision that adjacent state land shall be liable for its proportion of the cost of a public improvement in the same manner as the property of private individuals does not contravene a constitutional exemption from taxation of public property used for public purposes,[27] nor one forbidding any debt to be contracted on behalf of the commonwealth, except for specified purposes.[28] Unless forbidden by the constitution, the legislature may provide for its attendance in a body at a patriotic celebration in another state, and that the expenses be paid out of public funds,[29] and authorize a committee to make a contract for meals.[30] Such a provision does not violate a constitutional inhibition against increasing the compensation of legislators during their term.[31] In Kentucky the expenses of the militia when called into active service, which exceed the general appropriation, are payable out of the treasury without any special appropriation.[32]

Under a statute authorizing a revenue agent to investigate the collection and disbursement of public funds, he may bring action against a county judge to recover public moneys alleged to have been illegally paid over to him.[33] He may also maintain action to recover an unaccounted for balance paid over to such judge by the back tax attorney,[34] and though the district attorney general has power to look after the accounts of public financial officers, the revenue agent may without joining him institute proceedings to inquire into the settlement of county claims.[35] A limitation on the power of the legislature to create an indebtedness does not apply to the power of the people to create a liability at a general election.[36] Liabilities for which no provision has been made by appropriation are not debts.[37] A waiver of the defense of limitations is not a gift of state funds.[38]

§ 6. Claims.[39]—States not being subject to actions in their own courts have generally provided tribunals in which claims may be heard.[40] No moral obligation can be predicated on an unconstitutional statute.[41] A claim may be barred by limitations,[42] if not presented for allowance within the statutory period.[43] Mandamus will not issue to compel the issue of a warrant for or the payment of a claim if there is no fund to meet it,[44] nor to compel the allow-

26. Bonsal v. Yellott [Md.] 60 A. 593.

27. Ky. St. 1903, § 2833a. Hager v. Gast [Ky.] 84 S. W. 556.

28. Hager v. Gast [Ky.] 84 S. W. 556.

29. Legislature of Pennsylvania attending the dedication of the General Grant Monument in New York. Russ v. Com. [Pa.] 60 A. 169.

30. Resolution of the legislature held to give such power to the committee. Russ v. Com. [Pa.] 60 A. 169.

31. Russ v. Com. [Pa.] 60 A. 169.

32. Sweeney v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 877, 82 S. W. 639.

33. Act 1901, p. 373, c. 174. State v. Kelley [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 311.

34, 35. State v. Kelley [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 311.

36. Indebtedness of the state, represented by funded debt bonds issued under St. 1869-70, held not state debts within Const. art. 16, § 1, limiting state indebtedness. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 681, 78 P. 270.

37. Claim for coyote bounties under St. 1891, p. 280, c. 198, in the absence of an appropriation to pay the same, held not debts of the state within Const. art. 16, § 1. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 681, 78 P. 270. St. 1901, p. 280, c. 198, creating a coyote bounty, held not in violation of Const. art. 16, § 1, creating a legislative debt limit. Id.

38. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 681, 78 P. 270.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1706.

40. One whose lands were trespassed on by the state engineer may present his claim for damages in the court of claims [Code Civ. Proc. § 264]. Litchfield v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 1016.

41. Minnesota Sugar Co. v. Iverson, 91 Minn. 30, 97 N. W. 454. A contract made by the legislature in violation of the constitution does not create a moral obligation of the state to discharge it. Oxnard Beet Sugar Co. v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 80.

42. Where claimant does not apply for a recommendatory decision under § 10, art. 5, Const. for several years after it becomes due. Small v. State [Idaho] 76 P. 765.

43. The fact that a state has not made an appropriation for the payment of a claim does not excuse a creditor from presenting it for allowance within the statutory period. Lincoln Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Weston [Neb.] 101 N. W. 16.

44. Where a claim is payable only out of ance of a claim where such allowance lies in the discretion of a state board.[45] Where the claim arises out of a single transaction, it is proper to audit it in one item.[46] In auditing a claim the comptroller properly takes into consideration his own knowledge relative to value of services on which it is based,[47] and his judgment will not be overruled unless it is clear that he has erred.[48] In Michigan it is the duty of the auditor general to refuse to audit claims for unauthorized expenditures without regard to the motives or good faith which prompted them.[49] The state may not pay a claim to the original creditor where it has notice of its assignment.[50] Where the validity of a claim against the state has been determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, the act of the auditor of public accounts in drawing his warrant for the amount is ministerial.[51] He is not liable on his official bond for payment of a just claim, though paid on vouchers signed by persons wrongfully acting as governor and attorney general.[52]

§ 7. Actions by and against.[53]—A state is not subject to action or suit by a private individual, except by its consent, or unless it waives its sovereign right,[54] nor is one of its departments clothed with public duties.[55] In such case, relief can be granted only by the legislature,[56] and its immunity cannot be waived by the attorney general,[57] nor can he commit or bind the state by a proceeding, the result of which places the state in the attitude of a defendant.[58] Where a state waives its sovereign right, actions against it can be prosecuted only in the manner prescribed by statute.[59] A judgment for or against it is as binding as a judgment against a private individual.[60] Where one state sues another in its courts, it is ena specific appropriation which has been exhausted. Bosworth v. Shuck, 26 Ky. L. R. 324, 81 S. W. 240.

45. Where a state board is not required to entertain a second time a claim against the state once rejected by it unless upon such facts as between individuals would furnish ground for a new trial, mandamus will not lie to compel the allowance of a claim once rejected. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537. Counsel fees for an attorney for a receiver appointed by the state are not "costs" within a statute providing that in a suit where the state is a party and costs are awarded against it, they must be paid out of the state treasury. State Board of Examiners have a discretion in allowing such a claim. Id.

46. Claim by one employed to appraise several tracts of land and testify in regard thereto in a certain action, there having been but one employment and the testimony having all been given at one time. People v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 639.

47. People v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 639.

48. Not where audited at the same amount as fixed by the attorney general and state banking department whose duty it was to pass thereon. People v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 639.

49. Comp. Laws 1897, § 1207. Phelps v. Auditor General [Mich.] 99 N. W. 374.

50. It is no defense as against the assignee that it has made payment to the original creditor. Williams v. State, 94 App. Div. 489, 88 N. Y. S. 19.

51. State v. Weston [Neb.] 99 N. W. 520.

52. Expenses of militia called into active service. Sweeney v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 877, 82 S. W. 629.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1706.

54. Laws 1900, p. 1614, c. 755 is a waiver of this right, and an authority to the court of claims to award judgment against the state upon a state of facts warranting recovery against a private individual. Williams v. State, 94 App. Div. 489, 88 N. Y. S. 19. Under Rev. Laws, c. 128, § 31, relative to proceedings for registration of land titles, and providing that if the state has a claim adverse to the applicant, notice shall be given the attorney general, the state is a proper party to a proceeding to register title to land over which there is claimed to be a public landing place. McQuesten v. Attorney General, 187 Mass. 185, 72 N. E. 965.

55. The Minnesota State Agricultural Society is a department of the state under ch. 126, Laws 1903. Berman v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 732.

56. Assault and battery by servants of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society. Berman v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 732.

57. Under a constitutional provision that state shall not be made a party to any action or suit. People v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 210 Ill. 171, 71 N. E. 334.

58. By filing a cross petition in condemnation proceedings. People v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 210 Ill. 171, 71 N. E. 334.

59. Under Code Civ. Proc., providing that the supreme court may certify a cause to the circuit court with direction to submit issues of fact to a jury, the parties cannot by consent confer jurisdiction on the circuit court to determine the facts. Michel Brewing Co. v. State [S. D.] 103 N. W. 40.

60. State v. Cloudt [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 415.

titled to no greater consideration as regards the law of comity than an ordinary suitor.[61]

A bill asking that state officials be restrained from the misuse of public moneys or from applying such moneys to purposes not warranted by law is not a suit against the state.[62]

STATUTES.

§ 1. Enactment (1522).
§ 2. Special or Local Laws (1525).
§ 3. Subjects and Titles (1529).
§ 4. Amendments and Revisions. Amendments (1532). Reference to the Act Amended (1532). Effect (1533). Revisions (1533).
§ 5. Interpretation in General (1533). Every Presumption is in Favor of Validity (1534). Aids to Interpretation (1534). Laws in Parl Materia (1535). Whole Act is to be Considered (1535). General and Particular Provisions (1535). Words (1536). Punctuation (1536). Avoiding Hardship or Absurdity (1536). Presumption of Legislative Knowledge of the Law (1536). Mandatory or Directory Acts (1536). Revisions (1536). Codification (1537). Re-enacted Laws (1537). Strict or Liberal Constructions (1537). General Powers and Limitations of Legislature (1538). Partial Invalidity (1538).
§ 6. Retrospective Effect (1539).
§ 7. Repeal (1539).

§ 1. Enactment.[63]—A bill in order to become a law must be passed according to the procedure prescribed by the constitution.[64] A bill must be introduced while there remains time to pass it.[65] It is usually required that a bill must be read three times in each branch of the legislature,[66] and passed on three different days;[67] but it is always within the power of either branch of the legislature to suspend its rules and pass ordinary bills through their several readings on the same day.[68] The formal call of yeas and nays necessary on final passage does not apply to a motion to reconsider action taken on the passage of a bill,[69] and an amendment requires only a concurrence.[70] No law can be enacted unless both houses pass the same bill.[71] A report of a conference committee appointed by the house and senate must be concurred in by a majority of the conferees of each house,[72] and be adopted by both houses.[73] The adoption of the report by one house does not indicate con-

61. Holshouser Co. v. Gold Hill Copper Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 650.

62. Not within the prohibition of Const. 1870, art. 4, § 26, declaring that a state shall not be made a party to any action or suit. Burke v. Snively, 208 Ill. 328, 70 N. E. 327.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1707.

64. Held valid: Act relative to hawkers and peddlers held to have been validly passed. People v. DeBlaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598. Laws 1903, p. 584, c. 110, amending § 3a, art. 13, c. 83, Comp. St. 1901, relative to deposit of county funds, was constitutionally adopted. State v. Cronin [Neb.] 101 N. W. 325.

Held void: Loc. Acts Oct. 6, 1903, relative to transfer of causes from Lawrence county court to the circuit court, repealing Loc. Acts 1898-99, p. 836, held not passed in accordance with the constitutional provisions. Kumpe v. Irwin [Ala.] 36 So. 1024. Act Oct. 12, 1903 (Acts 1903, p. 566), held not passed according to the provisions of the constitution, and therefore not enacted as a law. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County v. Crow [Ala.] 37 So. 469. Acts 1901, p. 114, relative to gambling, was not passed in accordance with constitutional requirements. Rogers v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 169.

65. Amendments not germane to original title of bill as introduced are void. People v. Loomis [Mich.] 98 N. W. 262.

Note: The construction of constitutional limitations of time for the introduction of bills is the subject of a note in 67 L. R. A. 965.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1707, n. 4.

67. Duplicate bills being introduced in the house and senate, respectively, the substitution and final passage of the house bill on the third reading in the senate does not render the substituted bill obnoxious to the constitutional requisite that the bills shall be passed on three different days in the senate. Archibald v. Clark [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 310.

68. Bray v. Williams [N. C.] 49 S. E. 887.

69. Andrews v. People [Colo.] 79 P. 1031.

70. The substitution of a new bill by the house, instead of passing the bill which the senate had passed can be considered by the senate an amendment. Callison v. Brake [C. C. A.] 129 F. 196.

71. Under Const. art. 5, § 21, providing that no law shall be passed except by bill, and § 22, relative to voting on bills. Rogers v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 169. A bill must not be so altered or amended as to change its purpose. Acts 1900-01, p. 2598, as originally introduced and amended, held not to violate the constitutional provision that no bill shall be so altered or amended as to change its purpose. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629, 37 So. 85.

72. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County v. Crow [Ala.] 37 So. 469. Under Const. § 64 in order that a vote of the house adopting a report of a conference committee operate as a vote of concurrence in amendments proposed by the senate, it is necessary that the report recommend concurrence. Id.

73. Where the senate sends a bill back currence in any measures other than those contained in the report.[74] Bills must be signed by the presiding officer of each house,[75] and be approved by the governor,[76] and he must approve the same bill passed by the legislature,[77] and return it to the house in which it originated within the period prescribed by the constitution.[78] A bill takes effect as a law from date of approval by the governor,[79] and where the governor deposits a bill in the office of the secretary of state with his approval indorsed thereon, it passes beyond his control;[80] but the mere fact that he has signed a bill does not cause it to become a law while he retains it during the period he is given to consider it.[81] Where a special bill for the relief of a defendant in an action for a penalty is introduced, it is not necessary to notify the plaintiff of its introduction.[82]

The latest expression of the legislature on a given subject is the law concerning it.[83] Where an annual volume of laws contains two acts, identical except as to the penalty imposed, and both signed on the same day, it is competent for a reviewing court, having before it the case of an accused person sentenced under one of these acts, to determine whether the act under which sentence was pronounced was the one actually in force.[84] In determining such a question, resort will first be had to the journals of the two houses of the general assembly, and failing to thus establish which act was the last to be signed, the one which appears last in the printed volume, and to which the compiler of that volume has given the highest number, will be presumed to be the latest expression of the law-making power on that subject.[85]

A statute must be certain in its terms as to the territory which it affects.[86] An act "concerning private corporations" has been held broad enough to cover legislation respecting public service franchises to corporations.[87] to the house with amendments which are not concurred in, and a conference committee is appointed which recommends recession from specified amendments. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County v. Crow [Ala.] 37 So. 469.

74. That the house adopted a conference report which recommended recession by the senate from two amendments does not demonstrate a concurrence by the house in other amendments. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County v. Crow [Ala.] 37 So. 469. It is not even evidence of such concurrence. Id.

75. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 671, c. 157, relative to a monument of Abraham Lincoln, held void. State v. Mickey [Neb.] 102 N. W. 679.

76. Under Const. art. 3, § 30, where the governor inadvertently signs a bill and before it leaves his chamber erases his signature there is no approval. Commissioners of Allegany County v. Warfield [Md.] 60 A. 599. The fact that the governor signed it by mistake may be proved by his oral testimony. Id.

77. Enrolled bill signed by the governor (Acts 1900-01, p. 2154) was not the same bill passed by the legislature. Yancy v. Waddell, 139 Ala. 524, 36 So. 733.

78. A constitutional provision that all bills not returned by the governor to the house in which they originated within three days shall become laws means three days during which the house in which it originated is in session. State v. South Norwalk [Conn.] 58 A. 759.

79. Where two bills are passed, one dependent for its validity upon the prior enactment of the other, it is immaterial in what order they were introduced or put upon their final passage, so long as executive approval was in the proper order of priority. Wright v. Overstreet [Ga.] 50 S. E. 487.

80. He cannot thereafter get it and veto it. People v. McCullough, 210 Ill. 448, 71 N. E. 602.

81. Under constitutional provision relative to submission of bills to the governor. People v. McCullough, 210 Ill. 448, 71 N. E. 602. Evidence held to show that the governor vetoed a bill before filing it in the office of the secretary of state. Id.

82. Bray v. Williams [N. C.] 49 S. E. 887.

83. Where there are two conflicting sections in a code and both are derived from legislative acts, that section prevails which is derived from the later act. Berry v. Jordan, 121 Ga. 537, 49 S. E. 607. Date of legislative approval of a compilation held not to be regarded as the date of the approval of an act contained in the compilation. Beard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 824.

84, 85. Roswell Derby, Jr., v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 91.

86. Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21; Rev. St. tit. 60, c. 2, relative to irrigation, is not void, because not clearly designating the territory to which it applies. Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irrigation Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 461. Act Feb. 25, 1905, abolishing Watson judicial district, is not void for uncertainty. Waterman v. Hawkins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 844.

87. Gen. St. 1868, c. 23, and amendatory acts. Laws 1871, p. 168, c. 64; Laws 1876, p. 153, c. 58; Laws 1891, p. 149, c. 85; Laws 1899, p. 191, c. 95; Laws 1901, p. 240, c. 128, held

The journals.[88]—Legislative journals may be looked into for the purpose of ascertaining whether a law was properly enacted,[89] and if it affirmatively appears that it was not, it is void;[90] but if the journals are silent, it is presumed that the constitution was followed,[91] unless it is expressly provided that the journal shall be the only evidence,[92] or that it shall affirmatively appear that constitutional requirements were complied with.[93] The recitals of legislative journals, and the presumptions which attach through their silence, cannot be contradicted by parol.[94]

Special sessions.[95]—It is frequently provided that the business transacted at a special session of the legislature must be limited to the matters mentioned by the governor in calling the session.[96] A general law may be enacted at a special session.[97]

Submission to popular vote.[98]—In construing statutes requiring a majority of the votes cast at an election, it has been almost unanimously held that a majority of all the votes cast is required, and not merely a majority of those who voted on the particular bill.[99] The declaration of the canvassing officer that a provision submitted to popular vote was legally adopted is not conclusive.[1]

Presumptions and evidence of passage.[2]—An enrolled bill and the legislative journals alone can be looked to in order to establish what a law is.[3] An enrolled bill found in the office of the secretary of state, signed by the officers of both branches of the legislature and approved by the governor, is prima facie evidence of its enactment,[4] and in order to overthrow such bill it must affirmatively appear from the journals that it did not pass.[5] The authenticated published statutes of the United States cannot be impeached.[6]

Publication.[7]—The authority to designate the paper in which statutes shall be published is regulated by law.[8] Notice of an intention to apply for the enact-to be properly expressed in title. City of La Harpe v. Elm Tp. Gas, Light, Fuel & Power Co., 69 Kan. 97, 76 P. 448.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1709.

89. Colburn v. McDonald [Neb.] 100 N. W. 961.

90. Journal held not to show affirmatively that the constitutional requirements had not been complied with. Andrews v. People [Colo.] 79 P. 1031.

91. Andrews v. People [Colo.] 79 P. 1031. The silence of the legislative journals is not conclusive evidence of the nonexistence of a fact which ought to be recorded therein regarding the enactment of a law. Colburn v. McDonald [Neb.] 100 N. W. 961.

92. Waterman v. Hawkins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 844.

93. Under Const. § 64, it must affirmatively appear upon the journals that amendatory provisions of bills received the concurrence of each house, and what those amendments are; and any implication of an adoption of a report of a conference committee must be a necessary one. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County v. Crow [Ala.] 37 So. 469. Under Const. § 64, concurrence by the house in senate amendments must appear on the journal by aye and nay vote, and no presumption of a valid enactment arises from the enrolling of a bill as having been enacted with the amendments contained therein. Id.

94. Andrews v. People [Colo.] 79 P. 1031.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1708.

96. State v. Ciancy [Mont.] 76 P. 10; Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 F. 317. Act Dec. 10, 1903, amending Code Civ. Proc. § 180, held germane to the governor's call of a special session. State v. Ciancy [Mont.] 77 P. 312.

97. Act Dec. 10, 1903, amending Code Civ. Proc. § 180, is general, and it is immaterial that it was enacted at a special session called by the governor to relieve an industrial condition existing in three cities of the state. State v. Ciancy [Mont.] 77 P. 312.

98. Sec 2 Curr. L. 1709.

99. Under Const. Ark. 1874, art. 19, § 22. Knight v. Shelton, 134 F. 423.

1. Knight v. Shelton, 134 F. 423.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1709.

3. A law cannot be established by the certificates of the clerical officers of the senate and house of representatives, made after the adjournment of the legislature for the purpose of authenticating a purported act as having been passed. State v. Mickey [Neb.] 102 N. W. 679.

4, 5. Colburn v. McDonald [Neb.] 100 N. W. 961.

6. Cannot be shown to have been approved by the president on a date different from the one recited in the record. Gibson v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 131 F. 39.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1709.

8. Under County Laws (Laws 1892, p. 1749, c. 686, § 19), amended by Laws 1900, p. 933, c. 400, county supervisors may not designate for more than one year a paper to publish session laws and resolutions of the ment of a special law, if necessary,[9] must contain the substance of the proposed act,[10] and whether it does or not is a question for the court;[11] but after the law has been passed, publication is conclusively presumed.[12] It is not sufficient that the notice state the title of the act which gives but a faint conception of its substance.[13]

§ 2. Special or local laws.[14]—A law is special, in a constitutional sense, when by force of an inherent limitation it arbitrarily separates some persons, places, or things from those upon which, but for such separation it would operate.[15] Want of uniformity of provision does not make a law special.[16] Whether an enactment is general or local, public or private, is a question of law for the court,[17] and will not be declared special unless it is clearly so.[18] Its publication in the public or private statutes does not determine its character.[19] A special act is permissible where the subject is special and particular in its nature.[20] The legislature may by special act create school districts, leaving their government and fiscal affairs to be regulated by general laws.[21]

A temporary act may be either general or special.[22] An act which operates uniformly throughout the state but which is limited in operation to a specified period of time is temporary.[23] It is generally provided by the constitution that legislation must be by general laws whenever a law of a general nature can be made to apply,[24] and local or special laws relative to such subjects,[25] or to sub-legislature. In re Troy Press Co., 88 N. Y. S. 115.

9. Notice of an intention to apply for special legislation may be rendered unnecessary in certain cases by the constitution. Const. art. 7, § 3, as amended in 1883, relative to the formation of school districts. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

10. Publication of notice to apply for enactment of a special law (Acts 1903, p. 510, No. 511), held not to state the substance of the proposed act, and that therefore the law was void. Lancaster v. Gafford, 139 Ala. 372, 37 So. 108. Notice to apply for the enactment of Act Sept. 18, 1903 (Acts 1903, p. 255), held not to state the substance of the act. Hooton v. Mellon [Ala.] 37 So. 937.

11. Wallace v. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County, 140 Ala. 491, 37 So. 321. Affidavit of publisher that notice to apply for a local law had been published in his paper, held insufficient compliance with the constitutional provision requiring such publication. Kumpe v. Irwin [Ala.] 36 So. 1024.

12. The legislature being the sole judge as to whether it has or not. Waterman v. Hawkins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 844.

13. Wallace v. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County, 140 Ala. 491, 37 So. 321.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1710.

15. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571.

16. The Brannock Local Option Law does not fail for want of uniform operation. City of Columbus v. Jeffrey, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 85. A constitutional prohibition of special or local laws on certain subjects does not require uniformity of provision. Commonwealth v. Middleton [Pa.] 60 A. 297. A section of a general act repealing all inconsistent acts and containing a proviso which preserves existing conditions, contracts and obligations under existing laws, does not make such act special. Dickinson v. Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 220.

17. State v. Patterson, 134 N. C. 612, 47 S. E. 808.

18. Under a constitutional provision that the legislature shall pass general laws relative to matters of local concern intrusted to municipal corporations and all other matters which in its judgment may be provided by general laws. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571. Act relative to the oyster industry held not void. State v. Price [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1015.

19. State v. Patterson, 134 N. C. 612, 47 S. E. 808.

20. The legislature may by special act authorize the condemnation of particular property for a particular use. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467. In Texas stock laws applicable to portions of a county other than a political subdivision may be enacted and made applicable by a vote of the people of the district affected [Const. § 33]. Ex parte Thompkins [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 379.

21. P. L. 1904, p. 28, is not unconstitutional. Howe v. Board of Education of Landis Tp. School Dist. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 518. The provision of the constitution which preserves the local school system as it existed in 1877 forms a necessary exception to the uniformity of legislation relative thereto, required by the constitution [Civ. Code 1895, § 5906]. Barber v. Alexander, 120 Ga. 30, 47 S. E. 580.

22, 23. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1075.

24. Acts 1899, p. 231, fixing compensation of coal oil inspectors, is not violative of a provision that no special law shall be enacted where a general law can be made applicable. State v. Speed, 183 Mo. 186, 81 S. W. 1250. Acts Feb. 20, 1904 (Acts 1904, p. 33, c. 7), appropriating money for the benefit of destitute children of the state, does not violate a provision that no special law shall be enacted where a general one can be jects relative to which provision has been made by an existing general law,[26] are void.

made applicable. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

25. Taxation: See 2 Curr. L. 1714. Laws 1902, c. 3, § 21, relative to taxation, is uniform. In re Magnes' Estate [Colo.] 77 P. 853. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 938, subd. 7, providing for a poll tax, is void for nonuniformity. State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576, 77 P. 961. Act authorizing a township to contribute to the erection of a bridge to be built by the county, and authorizing a tax levy for the purpose of meeting such contribution, is not void for want of uniformity. McMillan v. Board of Com'rs of Payne County, 14 Okl. 659, 79 P. 898. Revenue Act (Acts 1901, p. 373, c. 174), § 81, providing for the appointment of revenue agents, held constitutional. State v. Kelly, 111 Tenn. 583, 82 S. W. 311. Rev. St. 1899, § 6275, does not violate a constitutional provision requiring taxes to be uniform. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868. Provision of Kansas City Charter relative to local assessments is not special legislation. Haag v. Ward [Mo.] 85 S. W. 391. Act to authorize county commissioners to issue certificates of indebtedness does not impose unjust and unequal taxation. State v. Gunn, 92 Minn. 436, 100 N. W. 97. Ky. St. § 4224, imposing a tax on oil, violates the constitutional provision of uniformity. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 985, 82 S. W. 1020.

Laws relating to courts: An act relating to taxation does not regulate the jurisdiction of a court, since assessment is not inherently a judicial proceeding. Does not violate a provision that laws relating to courts must be general. In re Philadelphia Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 93. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223, relative to public waters, does not confer judicial power on the state engineer, and is not special legislation relative to courts. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Act Oct. 9, 1903 (Acts 1903, p. 745), relative to the consolidation of the courts of a certain city, is a local law applying to a political subdivision. Wallace v. Board of Revenue of Jefferson County, 140 Ala. 491, 37 So. 321.

Regulating internal affairs: Act April 22, 1903, providing a scheme for the relief of the Passaic Valley Sewerage District from pollution, held a local law for the prosecution of a public work and not a law regulating the internal affairs of towns and counties. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 214. Laws 1903, p. 38, c. 27, § 3, amended by Laws 1903, p. 80, c. 49, held a local and special law regulating county affairs and void. Territory v. Gutierrez [N. M.] 78 P. 139. Laws 1903, p. 225, c. 119, § 12, relative to appointment of road supervisors, does not contravene a provision that a provision for the election of county officers must be uniform. State v. Newland [Wash.] 79 P. 983. Act relative to street railways held to violate a constitutional provision against a special act conferring corporate powers. Perrine v. Jersey Central Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 56 A. 374; People v. People's Gaslight & Coke Co., 205 Ill. 482, 68 N. E. 950. Act to relieve from pollution rivers and streams within Passaic Valley Sewerage District is not a special act conferring corporate powers. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571. Special laws granting corporate powers or authorizing expenditure of school money are invalid in Wisconsin. State v. Van Huse, 120 Wis. 15, 97 N. W. 503. Laws 1901, p. 1765, c. 712, is not a special act granting to a corporation the right to lay railroad tracks as the power is conferred on the city and not on a private corporation. In re City of New York, 45 Misc. 184, 91 N. Y. S. 987. Act 1903, p. 201, c. 105, providing for the consolidation of municipalities, is the creation of a corporation by special act and is unconstitutional. Town of Longview v. Crawfordsville [Ind.] 73 N. E. 78. Laws 1902, c. 3, relative to an inheritance tax, does not change the laws of descent, which under Const. art. 5, § 25, cannot be done by special law. In re Magnes' Estate [Colo.] 77 P. 853. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 369, relative to the transfer of causes from the city court of Bessemer to the circuit court, is not a local or special law for a change of venue. Dudley v. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co., 139 Ala. 453, 36 So. 700. Acts 1903, p. 140, c. 67, is not a local or special law relative to fees or salaries. Board of Com'rs of Perry County v. Lindemann [Ind.] 73 N. E. 912. Acts 1892, p. 392, c. 116, is a local law with regard to summoning and impaneling juries. Burt v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 233. Act Minn. April 10, 1901, relative to taxation for payment of the debts of disssolved municipalities. Pepin Tp. v. Sage [C. C. A.] 129 F. 657. In Illinois the charter of a municipal corporation cannot be amended by special act. Act May 11, 1903, and Act May 15, 1903, held a violation of this provision. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399.

Held not to be special laws: St. 1885, p. 110, c. 127, § 1, carried into St. 1901, p. 564, c. 175, § 1, regulating practice of dentistry. Ex parte Whitley, 144 Cal. 167, 77 P. 879. A statute providing a penalty for unjust discrimination by express companies is not violative of the provision restraining local or special laws for the punishment of crimes and misdemeanors, since the act does not define a crime, but gives a penalty recoverable only by civil action. Adams Exp. Co. v. State, 161 Ind. 328, 67 N. E. 1033. St. 1901, p. 646, c. 214, authorizing suits against the state for coyote bounties. Bickerdike v. State, 144 Cal. 681, 78 P. 270. Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 34, does not violate the constitutional inhibition against special legislation. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142. Acts 1871-72, p. 288, relative to establishment of county courts. Lamar v. Prosser, 121 Ga. 153, 48 S. E. 977. Acts 1901, p. 120, providing for an additional judge of the circuit court of Jasper county. State v. Dabbs, 182 Mo. 359, 81 S. W. 1148. 92 Ohio Laws, p. 277, is general. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Horstman [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1075. Act Feb. 25, 1905, abolishing Watson judicial district in Desha county. Waterman v. Hawkins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 844. Rev. St. § 3836-3 (Bates' Ann. St. p. 2130), relative to Building and Loan Associations. Cramer v. Southern Ohio

Classification.[27]—Classification is proper and often necessary in order to define the objects on which a general law is to take effect,[28] and in order to definitely apply and effectuate the purposes of the legislation;[29] but it must not be arbitrary, fictitious, or otherwise faultily made and used to evade constitutional limitations under the form of general legislation.[30] It must rest on peculiarities or characteristics that substantially differentiate the localities included from the localities excluded, and that render divergent legislation appropriate to the several localities respectively,[31] and may produce some diversity of result and yet be general if based on genuine distinctions.[32] Municipalities may be classified on the basis of population having a reasonable relation to the purposes of the legislation.[33] But a class cannot be arbitrarily made for the sole purpose of enabling certain munici-

Loan & Trust Co. [Ohio] 74 N. E. 200. Laws 1891, pp. 61, 63, no. 41, relative to exemption of railroads from taxation. Bennett v. Nichols [Ariz.] 80 P. 392. St. 1889, p. 32, relative to vaccination of school children. French v. Davidson, 143 Cal. 658, 77 P. 663. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223, relative to public waters. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Acts 29th Gen. Assem. p. 103, c. 137, relative to the applicability of the statute of limitations to judgments. Wooster v. Bateman [Iowa] 102 N. W. 521. Act ch. 161, Laws 1903, relative to enforcement of payment of taxes. Picton v. Cass County [N. D.] 100 N. W. 711. Act 1903, p. 170, c. 126, whereby the state is given control and title of the State Agricultural Association. Berman v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 732. Act to relieve from pollution, rivers and streams within the Passaic Valley sewerage District. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571. Act authorizing the appointment of road commissioners. Rees v. Olmsted [C. C. A.] 135 F. 296. Acts 1899, p. 231, fixing the compensation of coal oil inspectors, is not special because in effect applying only to the city of St. Louis. State v. Speed, 183 Mo. 186, 81 S. W. 1260.

26. Acts 1903, p. 273, relative to public schools, violates the constitutional provision relative to uniformity and forbidding special legislation where provision is made by an existing general law. Barber v. Alexander, 120 Ga. 30, 47 S. E. 580. Acts 1903, p. 588, establishing a school district, held a special law enacted in a case for which provision had been made by an existing general law. Neal v. McWhorter [Ga.] 50 S. E. 381. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 369, relative to the transfer of causes from the city court of Bessemer to the circuit court, does not violate a provision against enacting a special law in any case which is provided for by general law, there being no general law on the subject. Dudley v. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co., 139 Ala. 453, 36 So. 700.

27. Sec 2 Curr. L. 1710.

28, 29. Gentsch v. State [Ohio] 72 N. E. 900.

30. Gentsch v. State [Ohio] 72 N. E. 900. Law relative to insurance companies may exclude from its operation losses sustained because of the destruction of certain kinds of personal property. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brigham, 120 Ga. 925, 48 S. E. 348. A statute imposing on unincorporated companies conditions which are not imposed upon corporations in the same business is not class legislation unless the distinction made is unreasonable. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358. May discriminate between classes in regulating a business where the discrimination is based on a reasonable distinction involving public welfare. Id. A law may be enacted relative to one class of insurance so long as it is general in its terms as to that particular class of business. Idaho Mut. Co-op. Ins. Co. v. Myer [Idaho] 77 P. 628. Act providing for classification of property in cities of second class, for purposes of taxation, is not local or special. In re Philadelphia Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 93.

31. Municipalities cannot be classified as those created by special act and dissolved by its repeal and those created and dissolved under general laws. Pepin Tp. v. Sage [C. C. A.] 129 F. 657. Act classifying municipalities for the purpose of assessment for public improvement held special. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399. Classification based on counties about to erect a court house. Dickinson v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County [N. J. Law] 58 A. 182. Act to authorize county commissioners to issue certificates of indebtedness in certain cases is not special classification by counties which have established roads and issued orders for their construction. State v. Gunn, 92 Minn. 436, 100 N. W. 97. A substantial distinction exists between cities of 50,000 population or over which have or have not issued bonds for building an armory. State v. Rogers [Minn.] 100 N. W. 659. Laws 1901, p. 362, c. 174, § 12, does not make an unreasonable or arbitrary classification of corporations. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies, 35 Wash. 338, 77 P. 500. St. 1901, p. 564, c. 175, § 12, amended by St. 1903, p. 322, c. 244, regulating practice of dentistry, does not create an arbitrary classification. Ex parte Whitley, 144 Cal. 167, 77 P. 879. Acts 1903, p. 140, c. 67, relative to fees and salaries, is not class legislation. Board of Com'rs of Perry County v. Lindemann [Ind.] 73 N. E. 912. Act respecting the expenditure of money in cities of the second class, held local and special. Halsey v. Nowrey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 449.

32. Act May 23, 1874 (P. L. 254), relative to school districts, is not special. Commonwealth v. Middleton [Pa.] 60 A. 297.

33. Classification into two classes, one having 50,000 or less, the other having more, is valid. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399.

palities to enjoy special powers,[34] or for the purpose of conferring special privileges on their electors and property holders,[35] unless such municipalities may be regarded as comprising a separate and distinct class;[36] but the fact that there is only one municipality in a certain class does not render legislation special.[37] While a classification with a view to the enactment of general laws cannot be based on existing conditions only, yet a distinctive class may be based on existing circumstances where the purpose of the law is temporary only.[38]

Based on population.[39]—A bona fide classification based on a real and substantial difference in population is generally held valid,[40] and the rule that in determining the validity of a classification of municipalities on this basis, that municipalities afterwards growing into the class shall be brought within its operation, does not apply where conditions which necessitate certain legislation may not be anticipated as to other localities;[41] but the legislation must be applicable to all within the class.[42]

Local option laws[43] are generally held not to be within the objection of being local or special,[44] but statutes of local application to the liquor traffic cannot be enacted.[45]

Special privileges.[46]—In determining whether a law violates a constitutional

34. Act relating to local improvements held not a proper classification. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399.

35, 36. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399.

37. Ky. St. 1903, § 2833a, relative to public improvements in cities of the first class, is not special, though there is but one such city in the commonwealth. Hager v. Gast [Ky.] 84 S. W. 556. St. 1903, p. 93, c. 86, amending Municipal Corporation Act, § 862, held not special legislation because applicable to only one of six classes of municipal corporations. Ex parte Jackson, 143 Cal. 564, 77 P. 457. See 2 Curr. L. 1711, n. 54.

38. Involving large contracts for construction, and bond issues to raise necessary funds for erecting a court house. Dickinson v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County [N. J. Law] 58 A. 182.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1711.

40. § 2926a, Rev. St., relative to opening and closing of polls on election days, is general. Gentsch v. State [Ohio] 72 N. E. 900. Limitation to counties of a minimum population. Dickinson v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County [N. J. Law] 58 A. 182. Legislative determination of salaries in proportion to population and services under Const. art. 4, § 22, can only be set aside where in manifest defiance of the constitution. Board of Com'rs of Perry County v. Lindemann [Ind.] 73 N. E. 912. Laws 1901, p. 80, c. 55, relative to roads in counties of from 120,000 to 150,000 population, is not class legislation. Archibald v. Clark [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 310.

Held a reasonable classification: Statute limited in operation to counties expending $7,000 for court house purposes. Hetland v. Board of Com'rs of Norman County, 89 Minn. 492, 95 N. W. 305. Statute limited in operation to cities between 23,000 and 35,000 is not special. Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. Terre Haute, 67 Ind. 26, 67 N. E. 686. Jury law applicable to counties of 200,000 and over. State v. Ames, 91 Minn. 365, 98 N. W. 190. Acts 1903, p. 347, c. 198, § 1, relative to public schools in towns of a certain population. School City of Rushville v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 193, 70 N. E. 134. Act 1903, p. 201, c. 105, providing for the extension of corporate boundaries of cities operating under a special charter and of a population exceeding a certain number, held special. Town of Longview v. Crawfordsville [Ind.] 73 N. E. 78. Laws 1901, p. 73, relative to smoke, is not class legislation because not applicable to cities having less than 100,000 population. State v. Tower [Mo.] 84 S. W. 10. And the fact that it contains a provision that one charged with its violation may show by way of defense that there is no practicable device to prevent it does not render it so. Id. Nor because by implication it excludes steamboats and railroad engines. Id. Laws 1901, p. 73, relative to "smoke" and applicable to cities having a population of 100,000, applies to cities having a population of more than that number. State v. Tower [Mo.] 84 S. W. 10.

Held special: A classification of counties having a population of 50,000 according to the census of 1900. State v. Scott [Neb.] 100 N. W. 812. Violates a constitutional provision prohibiting local laws regulating township or county offices where a general law can be made applicable. Id.

41. Relative to permitting streams to become polluted. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571.

42. Act March 19, 1901 (P. L. 1901, p. 79), relative to acquisition of land and erection of public buildings, is special. Dickinson v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 220.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1713.

44. Local option act (Sayles' Rev. St. arts. 3384, 3399) is not unconstitutional. Hoover v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 859.

45. State v. Barrett [N. C.] 50 S. E. 506. Act 1897, p. 203, c. 72, relative to sale of intoxicating liquors, is not local or special. State v. Barber [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1078.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1715.

prohibition against granting any exclusive privilege, immunity, or franchise, the criterion is whether it relates to the recipients of the grant rather than to the territory within which the privilege is to be exercised.[47] Laws granting special privileges or immunities are void,[48] as also is class legislation;[49] laws creating a monopoly;[50] denying equal protection of the laws;[51] or violating other constitutional inhibitions.[52] A corporation is not a citizen within the provision of the Federal constitution which prohibits the abridgement of privileges or immunities.[53]

Police Power.[54]—Statutes relative to the health and safety[55] or general welfare of the people[56] are generally sustained as being within the police power.

§ 3. Subjects and titles.[57]—It is generally provided by the constitution that laws must be relative to but one subject and that must be expressed in the title.[58]

47. State v. Price [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1015.

48. Held not to grant a special privilege: Act relative to oyster and clam industry. State v. Price [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1015. Comp. St. 1903, c. 93a, art. 2, § 28, relative to irrigation. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286. St. 1901, p. 56, c. 51, relative to the appointment of members of the State Board of Medical Examiners. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166. Laws 1901, p. 362, c. 174, § 12, relative to fraternal insurance companies. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies, 35 Wash. 338, 77 P. 500. St. 1885, p. 110, c. 127, § 1, carried into St. 1901, p. 564, c. 175, § 1, regulating practice of dentistry. Ex parte Whitley, 144 Cal. 167, 77 P. 879. Laws 1903, p. 225, c. 119, § 12, relative to appointment of road supervisors. State v. Newland [Wash.] 79 P. 983.

49. Held class legislation: Sess. Laws 1901, p. 155, § 8, relative to peddlers, is class legislation. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621.

Held not class legislation: Comp. Laws 1897, c. 136, relative to hawkers and peddlers. People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 156, relative to peddlers and hawkers of farm products. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621. Acts 1903, p. 110, relative to building and loan associations. State v. Preferred Tontine Mercantile Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 1075. St. 1899, p. 101, c. 85, relative to a collateral inheritance tax. In re Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 674. Rev. Laws, c. 72, § 16, relative to unauthorized use of registered beverage bottles. Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790. Though it makes possession by a dealer in bottles, registered with the name of a manufacturer, with his written consent or purchase from him, prima facie evidence of unlawful traffic. Id.

50. Held not to create a monopoly: 13 Sp. Laws, p. 321, authorizing a cemetery association to apply for condemnation of land of another cemetery, does not violate a provision against monopolies. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467. The business of building and loan associations may be limited to corporations. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358. Uniform School Book Law (Acts 1903, p. 167), does not create a monopoly and grant a special privilege. Dickinson v. Cunningham, 140 Ala. 527, 37 So. 345. The fact that a statute imposes a condition which renders it impossible for some persons or associations to engage in the business does not render it void as conferring a monopoly. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358.

51. Batt's Ann. St. arts. 4560a, 4560b, relative to the redemption of unused railroad tickets, does not deny equal protection of the laws. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047.

52. St. 1899, p. 101, c. 85, imposing an inheritance tax, is not violative of the 14th amendment of the Federal constitution. In re Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 674. St. 1889, p. 32, relative to vaccination of school children, is not repugnant to the 14th amendment of the Federal constitution. French v. Davidson, 143 Cal. 658, 77 P. 663. Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 6, does not violate the Bill of Rights guarantying a remedy for every injury to person or property. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142.

53. Civ. Code 1895, § 2110 (Dodson Law), relative to insurance companies, is valid. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brigham, 120 Ga. 925, 48 S. E. 348.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1716.

55. St. 1889, p. 32, relative to the vaccination of school children. French v. Davidson, 143 Cal. 658, 77 P. 663. Relative to the practice of medicine. Ex parte Whitley, 144 Cal. 167, 77 P. 879.

56. Municipal Code, § 1841, relative to public meetings on the streets. Fitts v. Atlanta, 121 Ga. 567, 49 S. E. 793. Acts 1903, p. 110, relative to building and loan associations. State v. Preferred Tontine Mercantile Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 1075. Act requiring itinerant vendors to take out a license held not an arbitrary restriction on trade. State v. Feingold [Conn.] 59 A. 211.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1717.

58. Held to violate the provision: Laws 1895, c. 1, p. 57. Oxnard Beet Sugar Co. v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 80. Laws 1901, ch. 312, p. 524, § 1, re-enacted in Laws 1903, ch. 232, p. 337. In re Day [Minn.] 102 N. W. 209. Laws 1895, c. 1, p. 57, relative to the manufacture. Oxnard Beet Sugar Co. v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 80.

Held not to violate: Relative to lunatics, idiots, drunkards and spendthrifts. Lang v. Friesenecker, 213 Ill. 598, 73 N. E. 329; Browne v. Providence [La.] 38 So. 478. Laws 1901, p. 203, c. 106, § 8 (Gen. St. 1901, § 4205), relative to ill treatment of children. State v. Hahn [Kan.] 79 P. 670. Ch. 353, p. 612, Laws 1901 (Gen. St. 1901, § 6521), relative to charitable and reformatory institutions. Ex parte Schley [Kan.] 80 P. 631. Ch. 273, p. 653, Laws 1895, declaring certain weeds to be nuisances and providing for their destruction. State v. Boehm, 92 Minn. 374, 100 N.

Whether an act embraces more than one subject is to be determined from the body, not from the title,[59] and in construing this provision the courts hold that a subject embraced in the title includes all subsidiary details which are means for carrying into effect the object and purpose of the act disclosed in that subject;[60] hence the fact that the title contains more of a synopsis of the details of the act than is necessary does not make it obnoxious to the constitutional provision named, provided the subsidiary details are germane thereto, and necessary to carry the object of the act into effect;[61] but if the title be a restrictive one, carving out for consideration a part only of a general subject, the legislation must be confined within the same limits.[62] The title can embrace but one subject,[63] and should be sufficiently definite and comprehensive to indicate the scope and purpose of the act.[64]

W. 95. Ch. 153, p. 397, Sp. Laws 1871, relative to adoption and heirship. In re Atwell's Estate [Minn.] 101 N. W. 946. Relative to freight charges [Comp. St. 1903, c. 72, art. 5]. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1019. Laws 1897, pp. 210, 211, c. 72, §§ 11, 16, relative to sale of intoxicating liquors. Garrigan v. Kennedy [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1081. The special act for Screven county (Acts 1874, p. 403), regulating the grant of licenses to sell liquor. Kemp v. State, 120 Ga. 157, 47 S. E. 548. Ch. 382, p. 690, Laws 1903, relative to public improvements. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. East Grand Forks [Minn.] 102 N. W. 703. Acts 27th Gen. Assem. p. 48, c. 84, relative to county schools. Boggs v. School Tp. of Cass, Guthrie County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 796. Insolvency Act (Laws 1890, p. 88), § 15. Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams, 35 Wash. 161, 76 P. 934. Act March 23, 1893 (St. 1893, p. 233, c. 188), relative to building and loan associations. Provident Mut. Bldg-Loan Ass'n v. Davis, 143 Cal. 253, 76 P. 1034. Acts 1903, p. 110, relative to building and loan associations. State v. Preferred Tontine Mercantile Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 1075. Laws 1901, p. 356, c. 174, relative to fraternal beneficiary orders. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies, 35 Wash. 338, 77 P. 500. Comp. Laws 1897, § 10,421, relative to bringing actions of assumpsit in certain cases. First Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786. Title to Ch. 104, p. 151, Laws 1885 (§§ 1251, 1252, Gen. St. 1901), relative to formation of telephone companies. City of Wichita v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 886. Laws 1893, p. 32, c. 24, § 1, relative to liens for labor and material. Armour & Co. v. Western Const. Co., 36 Wash. 529, 78 P. 1106.

Uniform Text-Book Law (Act March 1903, p. 167). Dickinson v. Cunningham, 140 Ala. 527, 37 So. 345. Act April 1, 1903 (Acts 1903, p. 1563, c. 599), relative to civil districts. State v. Hamby [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 622. Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21 (Rev. St. 1895, tit. 60, c. 2), relative to irrigation. Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irrigation Co. [Tex.] 86 S. W. 11. Act March 19, 1895 (Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21; Rev. St. tit. 60, c. 2), relative to irrigation. Id. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 461. Acts 1903, p. 140, c. 67, relative to compensation of clerks and sheriffs. Board of Com'rs of Perry County v. Lindemann [Ind.] 73 N. E. 912. Laws 1903, p. 367, c. 176, relative to the incorporation of trust companies. State v. Nichols [Wash.] 80 P. 462. Act June 26, 1895 (P. L. 317), relative to adulteration of food. Commonwealth v. Kebort, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 584. Laws 1897, p. 49, relative to public works in cities of a certain class. State v. Allen, 178 Mo. 555, 77 S. W. 868.

59. Act classifying real estate for the purpose of municipal taxation held to express its subject in its title. Monaghan v. Lewis [Del.] 59 A. 948.

60. Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31, 78 P. 36. If all parts of an act relate directly or indirectly to the general subject of the act, it is not open to the objection of plurality. Monaghan v. Lewis [Del.] 59 A. 948.

61. Laws 1899, p. 261, c. 131, entitled "An act providing for condemnation proceedings for right of way for irrigation ditches, canals, and flumes for agriculture and mining purposes and relating to appropriation of water," is not in violation of Const. art. 2, § 19, as embracing more than one subject expressed in its title. Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31, 78 P. 36.

62. Laws 1903, c. 132, relative to trusts, held not to express subject-matter in its title. Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104.

63. Laws 1904, p. 1493, c. 629, held to embrace more than one subject. Cahill v. Hogan [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 39.

Held to embrace but one subject: Sess. Laws 1902, c. 3, relative to public revenue. In re Magnes Estate [Colo.] 77 P. 853. Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, relative to tide lands and liens thereon. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503, 77 P. 845. Title of the act is sufficient to embrace all the subject-matter. Id. Act No. 34, p. 42 of 1902, providing a penalty for desertion of wife or children. State v. Baker, 112 La. 801, 36 So. 703. Act 1895 (Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, p. 1929), relative to appeals. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fromme [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1054.

64. Title sufficient: Act relative to taxation held to cover provisions relative to mode of procedure of assessment and finality of the assessor's action. In re Philadelphia Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 93. Title of Acts 1899, p. 250, c. 142, establishing taxing districts. City of Memphis v. Hastings [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 609. Provisions of Act Feb. 18, 1895, § 4 (Acts 1894-95, p. 907), relative to local assessments. City Council of Montgomery v. Moore, 140 Ala. 638, 37 So. 291. Title of Laws 1903, p. 223, c. 119, relative to taxes and the appointment of road supervisors. State v. Newland [Wash.] 79 P. 983. Title of St. 1899, p. 101, c. 85, relative to inheritance tax. In re

If it fairly calls attention to the subject-matter, though in general terms,[65] so as to reasonably direct inquiry into the body of the act,[66] it is sufficient, and long continued use of a general title to a particular class of legislation is such a construction by the legislature of the constitutional provision as will be considered by the courts in determining the sufficiency of the title.[67] In case of a supplement to an act, where the original act is sufficiently expressed in its title and the provisions of the supplement are germane to the original, the subject of a supplement is covered by a specific reference to the original by its title.[68] The fact that superfluous matter is introduced into the title does not affect it if it is otherwise sufficient.[69]

Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 674. Title of Sess. Laws 1902, c. 3, relative to public revenue. In re Magnes Estate [Colo.] 77 P. 853. Subject-matter of an act relative to drainage and sanitary matters. Rev. St. 1901, p. 347, § 26. City of Chicago v. Cicero, 210 Ill. 290, 71 N. E. 356. Act relative to insane asylums. Grinky v. Durfee [Mich.] 100 N. W. 171. Act No. 232, p. 368, Laws 1903, relative to incorporation of manufacturing and mercantile companies. Grimm v. Secretary of State [Mich.] 100 N. W. 269. Act relative to the practice of medicine (Code, § 2579) is broad enough to include a provision requiring an itinerant physician to procure a license. State v. Edmunds [Iowa] 101 N. W. 431. Code, § 2581, relative to itinerant physicians. Eastwood v. Crane [Iowa] 101 N. W. 481. Laws 1897, p. 203, c. 72, is a license law and not void because "prohibition" is not used in the title. State v. Barber [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1078. Title of an act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors. Oglesby v. State, 121 Ga. 602, 49 S. E. 706. Title of Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223, relative to appropriation of public waters. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Title of Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223, relating to public waters, held sufficient to include provisions for the appropriation of such waters and the settlement of rights to the use of them. Id. St. 1889, p. 32, relative to vaccination of school children. French v. Davidson, 143 Cal. 658, 77 P. 663. Title of Laws 1903, p. 27, § 1, relative to the pursuit of the trade of a barber. State v. Briggs [Or.] 78 P. 361. Title of Sess. Laws 1903, pp. 159, 164, cc. 79, 80. Establishing a county. School Dist. No. 1 in Denver v. School Dist. No. 7 in Arapahoe County [Colo.] 78 P. 690. Title to Laws 1893, p. 161, relative to boundaries of counties. Allison v. Hatton [Or.] 80 P. 101. Acts 1893, p. 173, amending the charter of the City of Atlanta. Fitts v. Atlanta, 121 Ga. 567, 49 S. E. 793. Title of Loc. Acts 1903, p. 369, relative to the transfer of causes from the city court of Bessemer to the circuit court. Dudley v. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co., 139 Ala. 453, 36 So. 700. Title to Ch. 4395, p. 159, Acts 1895, relative to the amendment of the Rev. St. of Florida, embraces the subject of grand larceny. Ex parte Bush [Fla.] 37 So. 177. Statement in the title of Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21, Rev. St. tit. 60, c. 2, as to one of the purposes of the act held not to avoid a provision relative to eminent domain. Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irrigation Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 461. Acts 1889-90, p. 130, c. 1334, relative to mechanics' and materialmen's liens. Humboldt Bldg. Ass'n Co. v. Ducker's Ex'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 931, 82 S. W. 969. Act March 3, 1903 (Acts 1903, p. 140, c. 67), relative to fees and salaries. Hargis v. Perry County Com'rs [Ind.] 73 N. E. 915. Title of Laws 1889-90, p. 499, relative to alienation of Indian lands. Goudy v. Meath [Wash.] 80 P. 295. Act of April 4, 1901 (P. L. 65), relative to private roads. Dickinson Tp. Road, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 34.

Title insufficient: Act to authorize a city to issue bonds. Smith v. Annapolis, 97 Md. 736, 57 A. 976. Relative to municipal improvements. Cahill v. Hogan [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 39. Act 1899, p. 284, No. 204, relative to hawkers and peddlers. People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598. Acts 1882-83, p. 234, relative to the sale of intoxicating liquors. Watson v. State, 140 Ala. 134, 37 So. 225.

License taxation of commercial salesmen or travelers selling by sample is not germane to license taxation of peddlers and hawkers peddling goods carried by them. Beary v. Narran, 113 La. 1034, 37 So. 961. Act No. 49 of 1904, amending § 12 of Act No. 103, p. 164 of 1900, relative to a license tax. Id. Laws 1904, p. 1493, c. 629. Cahill v. Hogan, 44 Misc. 360, 89 N. Y. S. 1022. Act of May 13, 1903, § 2 (P. L. 359), relative to safety and health of miners in the anthracite region. Commonwealth v. Schulte, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 95. Act for incorporation, etc., of certain classes of cities, can contain no valid enactment relative to the powers of county officers. Sess. Laws 1901, § 87, ch. 18, is void. Wheeler v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 773.

Misleading: Act May 24, 1878 (P. L. 134), relative to justices of the peace. Moore v. Moore, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 73.

65. Subject of act to authorize county commissioners to issue certificates of indebtedness is expressed in the title. State v. Gunn, 92 Minn. 436, 100 N. W. 97.

66. Act relative to the acquisition by counties of bridges and for the abolition of tolls held to embody subject in title. Bridgewater Borough v. Big Beaver Bridge Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 697.

67. In re Atwell's Estate [Minn.] 101 N. W. 946. A statute that has not been questioned in the state court during the 30 years of its existence will not be held invalid in the Federal court on this ground, the case not being clear. Pegram v. American Alkali Co., 122 F. 1000.

68. Act June 9, 1891 (P. L. 248), relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors, does embrace its subject-matter in its title. Stroudsburg Boro. v. Shick, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 442.

69. Goodbar v. Memphis [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1061; Browne v. Providence [La.] 38 So. 478.

Partial invalidity.[70]—Where there are two subjects in the body of the act and but one in the title, it is valid as to the one in the title and void as to the other.[71]

§ 4. Amendments and revisions. Amendments.[72]—The subject-matter of an amendment must be germane to the original act.[73] Where the title to the original act is broad enough to embrace the amendment, the new matter inserted thereby, if germane to the act amended, will be held valid.[74] Where a general act is changed by special act or amendment, constitutional requirements must be strictly complied with.[75] Amendment by implication, being expressly forbidden by the constitution, is not favored by the courts;[76] but where the intent to amend a certain act is apparent, specific reference to it is not necessary,[77] and an error in reference is immaterial.[78]

Reference to the act amended.[79]—It is generally provided that an act cannot be amended by reference to its title,[80] but the act amended,[81] or the substance of it, must be recited in the amendment;[82] but this provision has no application to an independent enactment, though it impliedly modifies a former statute.[83] Under a constitutional provision that all acts which amend prior laws shall recite in their caption or otherwise the title or substance of the law amended, it is not necessary for an act amending an act previously amended to refer to the amendment,[84] nor that the title of the amendatory act set out the character of the amendment so long as the title of the amended act is set out and the provisions of the amendatory act are germane to the original.[85] Sections of the statute to be amended need not be set out in full and followed by the proposed amendment, but it is sufficient to set out the law as amended.[86]

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1719.

71. Smith v. Annapolis, 97 Md. 736, 57 A. 976.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1720.

73. Where the title to a bill is to amend a particular section, no amendment is permissible which is not germane to the subject-matter of the section. Preston v. Stover [Neb.] 97 N. W. 812. Acts 1901, p. 475, c. 82, amending § 592, Code Civ. Proc., limiting the time for commencing proceedings to reverse or modify judgments, is germane to the title of the original act. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sporer [Neb.] 100 N. W. 813. Laws 1903, p. 1065, c. 459, § 4, relative to child labor, is germane to consolidated school laws (Laws 1894, c. 556), and a proper amendment. City of New York v. Chelsea Jute Mills, 43 Misc. 266, 88 N. Y. S. 1085.

74. Sess. Laws 1899, c. 104, p. 358, amending § 125 of the criminal code, is valid. Moline v. State [Neb.] 100 N. W. 810.

75. Cahill v. Hogan [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 39.

76. Wheeler v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 773.

77. Laws 1901, p. 101, amending local improvement act 1897, held to amend Laws 1899, p. 93, amending §§ 38, 42, of the Act of 1897, though it did not specifically refer to it. Village of Melrose Park v. Dunnebecke, 210 Ill. 422, 71 N. E. 431.

Note: This decision is important as overruling an earlier Illinois case, and settling the law of that state in accord with the great weight of authority. Compare Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. East St. Louis, 134 Ill. 656; Columbia Wire Co. v. Boyce, 104 F. 172. It is argued by the opponents of this position that where a section of a statute is amended, it ceases to exist, and therefore cannot be the subject of further legislation by amendment. Feibleman v. State, 98 Ind. 516. This reasoning, however, seems too refined for practical value. While in theory the amended act no longer exists, in reality it retains its place upon the statute book. A reference to it would, therefore, seem sufficient as clearly showing the intention of the legislature that the present enactment should take place of the previous act as amended. Commonwealth v. Kenneson, 143 Mass. 418.—18 Harv. L. R. 233.

78. Laws 1901, p. 6, c. 6, amending Rev. St. § 3299, relative to terms of court, refers to the revision of 1899, notwithstanding the designation by the formal title of the "Revision of 1887." Hollibaugh v. Hebn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1720.

80. St. 1899, p. 101, c. 85, held to comply with this requirement. In re Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 674. Acts 1903, p. 140, c. 67, is not an amendment of prior legislation within the meaning of a constitutional prohibition against amendment by reference to title. Board of Com'rs v. Lindemann [Ind.] 73 N. E. 912.

81. Ch. 104, p. 151, Laws 1885 (§§ 1251, 1252, Gen. St. 1901), relative to telephone companies, does not contravene a provision against amending or reviving an act unless the new act contain the entire act revived or section amended. City of Wichita v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 886.

82. Act 1899, p. 457, c. 213, relative to death by wrongful act, amending § 4025, Shannon's Code, is void. Southern R. Co. v. Maxwell [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1137.

83. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218.

84, 85. Goodbar v. Memphis [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1061.

86. Bray v. State, 140 Ala. 172, 37 So. 250.

Effect.[87]—The original act is not repealed by an amendment except in so far as they are in conflict.[88] An amendment is no indication that the law was otherwise prior to its enactment.[89]

Revisions.[90]—No change of legislative purpose is to be inferred from a mere condensation of prior statutes in a subsequent revision;[91] and a mere change in phraseology in the revision will not work a change in the law unless it clearly appears that such was the intention of the legislature.[92]

§ 5. Interpretation in general.[93]—Statutes should be construed with a view to ascertaining and giving effect to the intention of the legislature,[94] and where the intent and purpose is clear and consistent, necessary words may be implied, and words limited or enlarged in meaning, and the ordinary meaning of words and phrases required to yield to the construction which upholds and makes effective the legislation,[95] and a mere implication or inference of a contrary particular or special intent arising out of language of doubtful meaning, must yield to the general intent.[96] The court may consider the spirit, intention and purpose of the law, look to contemporaneous and prior legislation on the same subject, and the historical facts and conditions which led to the enactment of the provision under review.[97] Contradiction and repugnance must be avoided when it is possible to do so.[98] Meaningless terms may be disregarded.[99] The spirit rather than the letter is the guiding star,[1] and a thing may be within the letter of the statute and not within its meaning or intention.[2] It has been said that statutes passed at different times and without real consideration of each other should not be examined for refinements of meaning when seeking to ascertain the intent of the legislature.[3]

A statute that deals exclusively with one subject and repeals all acts in con-

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1721.

88. Laws 1901, p. 101, amending Local Improvement act of 1897, held to repeal laws 1899 amending such act. Village of Melrose Park v. Dunnebecke, 210 Ill. 422, 71 N. E. 431. Acts 1903, p. 1097, c. 366, relative to the local government of the city of Memphis, held not repealed by ch. 258, passed a few days later. Goodbar v. Memphis [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1061.

89. The amendment of 3 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 120, § 222, so as to require the certificate of purchase at tax sale to be recorded, does not indicate that prior to the amendment recordation was not intended to be necessary, the statute prior to amendment being doubtful. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 210 Ill. 453, 71 N. E. 340.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1721.

91. Fletcher v. Tuttle, 97 Me. 491, 54 A. 1110.

92. Eastwood v. Crane [Iowa] 101 N. W. 481.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1722.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1726. Blair v. Coakley, 136 N. C. 405, 48 S. E. 804. A construction which would have the effect of placing it in the power of a transgressor to defeat by an evasion the object and purpose of a statute will not be favored. State v. Hand [N. J. Law] 58 A. 641. Statutes will be construed with a view to ascertain the intent of the legislature and to give force and meaning to the language used. Idaho Mut. Co-op. Ins. Co. v. Myer [Idaho] 77 P. 628. Comp. St. 1887, div. 5, § 707, being a part of Act March 3, 1887, relating exclusively to steam railroads, has no application to street railroads. Daly Bank & Trust Co. v. Great Falls St. R. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 252. It was the intention of Code D. C. § 1640 to enlarge the jurisdiction of courts of equity. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475. A statute is to be construed with a view to the purpose it was intended to accomplish. Commonwealth v. Brown, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 269. Purpose and intent of the legislature should be carried out. Bailey v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 655.

95. Bailey v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 655.

96. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746. A clearly expressed intention in one part does not yield to a doubtful construction of another portion. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

97. St. 1897, p. 34, c. 36, amending Civ. Code, § 61, relative to divorce, was to prevent collusive divorces and hasty remarriages. Grannis v. Superior Court of San Francisco [Cal.] 79 P. 891.

98. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

99. A recital in an act establishing a city court, that the court is established in a named city when the municipality referred to is not a city, is not binding on the courts. White v. State, 121 Ga. 592, 49 S. E. 715.

1. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

2. Statute relative to fire escapes in buildings in which trade, manufacture, or business is carried on, held not to apply to a kitchen in a restaurant. Carrigan v. Stillwell [Me.] 59 A. 683.

3. State v. Cooley, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 589.

flict with it will be construed as intended to cover all subjects and matters of the new act.[4]

Every presumption is in favor of validity,[5] and a statute will not be held unconstitutional unless its invalidity is so apparent as to leave no doubt on the subject.[6] A construction that violates the constitution will never be adopted if the statute is susceptible of any other,[7] and if of two interpretations, one leads to a result that exceeds the power of the legislature, the other will be deemed to be what was intended,[8] and a statute will not be declared void because of difficulty of construction or apparent hardship in application.[9] The fact that a bill when introduced in the legislature would have been invalid does not affect its validity, when before its enactment the constitution was amended to permit its enactment.[10]

Aids to interpretation.—The title[11] is not a controlling element in construction.[12] In Kentucky it is considered as containing all the law on the subject of which it treats.[13]

Legislative history[14] and reports of committees having the bill in charge[15] may be considered to ascertain the intent;[16] but inquiry as to what individual members supposed the bill to mean may not be resorted to.[17] An undeviating course of legislation in a certain direction, in an effort to systematize the law relative to a certain subject, strongly emphasizes the express language embodying the final declaration of the legislative will.[18]

Official construction.[19]—The contemporaneous construction of legislation covering a long period of time by those charged with its enforcement is highly persuasive of the correctness of such interpretation, especially where the law has been re-adopted without change after the construction has been given;[20] but, except in cases of doubtful construction,[21] it is never controlling,[22] and in order to entitle it to a controlling force, the provision must be ambiguous,[23] and such construction must have been uniform and within a reasonable time of the enactment.[24]

Judicial construction.—A decision of a court construing and applying a statute is not to be considered as determining its validity where such question was not raised.[25] The construction placed upon statutes by nisi prius courts is not binding on the court of last resort.[26]

4. Idaho Mut. Co-op. Ins. Co. v. Myer [Idaho] 77 P. 628.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1722, n. 58, et seq. Statute held not void as productive of disproportionate taxation. Warren v. Street Com'rs of Boston, 187 Mass. 290, 72 N. E. 1022.

6. State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576, 77 P. 961.

7. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 985, 82 S. W. 1020. Where a law is reasonably susceptible of a construction which will make it valid, such a one will be adopted rather that one which will make it void, though the latter be more reasonable or obvious. In re Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 74.

8. City of East Orange v. Hussey, 70 N. J. Law, 244, 57 A. 1086.

9. Weigand v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 559.

10. Morrison v. Kent [Mich.] 97 N. W. 45.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1723.

12. Laws 1903, p. 472, c. 349, relative to dealing in liquor in G. M. and C. counties, applies to a sale of liquor anywhere in the state. State v. Patterson, 134 N. C. 612, 47 S. E. 808.

13. Louisville Public Warehouse Co. v. Miller, 26 Ky. L. R. 351, 81 S. W. 275.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1723.

15. Mosle v. Bidwell, 130 F. 334.

16. Ex parte Keith [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 683; Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

17. Mosle v. Bidwell [C. C. A.] 130 F. 334.

18. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1723.

20. City of Louisville v. Louisville School Board [Ky.] 84 S. W. 729.

21. Where an act is uncertain, it is proper to follow the departmental construction. Act July 14, 1879 (Acts Sp. Sess. 16th Leg. p. 48, c. 52), reserving lands from location. State v. Gunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1028.

22. Practice of an executive department, founded on the interpretation of a statute conferring powers and duties of administration. Payne v. Houghton, 22 App. D. C. 234.

23, 24. Knight v. Shelton, 134 F. 423.

25. Federal court may consider such question when raised. Knight v. Shelton, 134 F. 423.

26. Rodwell v. Rowland [N. C.] 50 S. E. 319.

Legislative construction.—While not conclusive on the courts,[27] it is persuasive.[28]

The surrounding conditions,[29] history of the times and the mischief intended to be remedied,[30] may be considered where the language is ambiguous or the meaning doubtful. The applicability of a law may be limited by a change in conditions since its enactment.[31]

Original act.[32]—All former statutes on the same subject, whether repealed or not, may be considered in construing provisions that remain in force.[33]

Statutes adopted from foreign states[34] are given the construction given them by the state of their origin;[35] but this rule does not prevail against an express provision to the contrary.[36]

State statutes in Federal courts.[37]—Federal courts follow the construction placed upon constitutional provisions or statutes by the courts of last resort of the state by which they are enacted.[38]

Foreign statutes.—In an action involving the construction of the statutes of a sister state, the decisions of the supreme court of such state may be considered.[39]

Laws in pari materia[40] must be read together,[41] and if divers statutes relate to the same thing, they are all to be considered in construing any one.[42] If it can be gathered from a subsequent statute in pari materia what meaning the legislature attached to the words of a former one, it will amount to a legislative declaration of its meaning.[43]

Whole act is to be considered.[44]—An original statute, with all its amendments, must be read together, and viewed as one act, passed at the same time.[45]

All language is to be effectuated.[46]—A statute will be so constructed, if possible, that it will be harmonious.[47] Effect should be given to all its parts. No sentence, clause, or word should be construed as unmeaning, if a construction can be found which will give it effect.[48]

General and particular provisions.[49]—Where specific and general terms of the same nature are employed, whether the latter precede or follow the former, the general terms take their meaning from the specific.[50] The particular terms must

27. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 210 Ill. 453, 71 N. E. 340.

28. City Council of Denver v. Board of Com'rs of Adams County [Colo.] 77 P. 858.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1723.

30. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746. Conditions that induced the enactment. Bailey v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 655.

31. Penal ordinance against swinging from "street cars" held not to apply to a later type of car (summer cars with running boards). Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Morrow [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 189.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1723.

33. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1724.

35. Gilman v. Matthews [Colo. App.] 77 P. 366. The construction given such law prior to its adoption is presumed to have been adopted. Murphy v. Nelson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 691.

36. Express provision inserted into the statute at the time of its adoption. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. State, 69 Kan. 552, 77 P. 286.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1725.

38. Rees v. Olmsted [C. C. A.] 135 F. 296. Scope and meaning of a statute as indicated by the exclusion of evidence. Jacobson v. Com., 25 S. Ct. 358. Whether a state pilotage law granting discriminatory exemptions in violation of U. S. Rev. St. § 4237 can be eliminated without destroying remaining provisions, is a question for the state court and will not be reviewed by the Federal supreme court. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

39. Blumle v. Kramer, 14 Okl. 566, 79 P. 215.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1725.

41. Laws 1885, p. 525, c. 305 Laws 1890, p. 1082, c. 565, and Laws 1892, p. 1382, c. 676. O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 95 App. Div. 253, 89 N. Y. S. 41.

42. Resolution of a legislature to attend a public celebration and act appropriating money to cover expenses. Russ v. Com. [Pa.] 60 A. 169.

43. Mosle v. Bidwell, 130 F. 334.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1726. Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

45. Gilfeather v. Grout, 91 N. Y. S. 533.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1727.

47. The sections of Denver City Charter are not in conflict. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142.

48. State v. Fontenot, 112 La. 628, 36 So. 630; Wellsburg & S. L. R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 746.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

50. State v. Fontenot, 112 La. 628, 36 So. 630.

be given effect and the general terms construed to embrace only such cases as are not within them;[51] but the fact that certain enumerated things fall within the general terms does not limit the application of the statute to them.[52]

Words.[53]—The plain words of a statute are not to be refused their application upon any theory that a more reasonable provision could have been adopted for the state of the case presented.[54] Words and phrases are to be construed according to the common and approved usage of language,[55] and technical words according to their technical meaning,[56] in the absence of anything to indicate that such was not the intention.[57] General words are to be restricted and limited to the fitness of the subject-matter and construed as particular if the intention be particular.[58] The same word used several times in statutes pari materia is presumed to have the same significance.[59]

Punctuation.[60]—Punctuation is a minor and not a controlling element in interpretation, and may be disregarded or the statute repunctuated if necessary to give effect to what otherwise appears to be its purpose and true meaning,[61] and while not regarded as of paramount importance and will not be permitted to overturn what seems to be a plain meaning,[62] yet when so used as to enable the language to bear an interpretation which will render the entire statute rational and consistent, it is entitled to as much consideration as the language itself.[63] The scope of a penal statute which is grammatically accurate cannot be extended by repunctuation.[64]

Avoiding hardship or absurdity.[65]—The argument of inconvenience, absurdity, injustice, or prejudice to public interests, may be considered in construing a statute when the language is ambiguous,[66] and general terms should be so limited in their application as not to lead to injustice or absurd consequences.[67]

Presumption of legislative knowledge of the law.[68]—It is presumed that the legislature knows the existing law and seeks to make some change therein when it enacts a statute;[69] but an explicit provision on a given subject does not of itself prove that the law was different before.[70]

Mandatory or directory acts.[71]—Statutes relating to the summoning of a jury are directory only.[72]

Revisions.[73]—The language of a revised statute may be traced to the original enactment for the purpose of ascertaining its meaning.[74] In the construction of 51. Where a statute includes both a particular and also a general enactment which in its most comprehensive sense would include what is embraced in the particular one. Act Cong. March 2, 1889, c. 405, § 21 (25 Stat. 896), relative to public lands. Sanford v. King [S. D.] 103 N. W. 28.

52. Certain articles falling under the term "goods" used in a statute, specifically referred to. State v. Fontenot, 112 La. 628, 36 So. 630.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1727.

54. Weigand v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 559.

55, 56. Ky. St. § 460. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 985, 82 S. W. 1020.

57. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784.

58. "Any school district" limited to country school districts. State v. Balch [Mo.] 85 S. W. 328.

59. Oneida County v. Tibbetts [Wis.] 102 N. W. 897.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

61. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Voelker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 522.

62, 63. Blood v. Beal [Me.] 60 A. 427.

64. United States v. York, 131 F. 323.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1727.

66. Immigration Soc. of Albemarle County v. Com. [Va.] 48 S. E. 509.

67. "Workmen" held not to apply to kitchen employes in a restaurant within a statute relative to fire escapes. Carrigan v. Stillwell [Me.] 59 A. 683.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

69. Reed v. Goldneck [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1104.

70. State v. Balch [Mo.] 85 S. W. 328.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

72. State v. Lehman, 182 Mo. 424, 81 S. W. 1118.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1729.

74. Fletcher v. Tuttle [Me.] 54 A. 1110; Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257.

the U. S. Revised Statutes, a mere change in phraseology of a prior statute is not regarded as altering the law unless it is clear that such was the intent.[75]

Codification.—Where separate statutes covering the same general subject are brought together by codification, it is presumed that the legislature intended to adopt previous judicial constructions.[76] Yet if the intent of the legislature to change a statute is plain, the decisions of the courts as to it are not binding.[77] The interpolation of a letter during a codification will be referred to mistake rather than intent to change the law.[78]

Re-enacted laws.—The re-enactment of a statute formerly in effect is presumed to carry the construction formerly placed upon it.[79]

Strict or liberal constructions.—Statutes changing the common law[80] modify or abrogate it no further than the clear import of its language necessarily expresses;[81] but this doctrine does not demand that the obvious intent of the legislature be frustrated.[82]

Penal statutes[83] are strictly construed;[84] to extend a penal statute to a case not specifically described, the intention of the legislature must appear from the words of the act and cannot be made out by conjecture or based on probabilities,[85] but this rule does not permit such construction to defeat the obvious intent of the legislature.[86] A statute made for the good of the public, though penal, should be equitably construed.[87]

Various other strict constructions.[88]—Laws in derogation of the liberty of the citizen are to be strictly construed,[89] and what before their enactment was a legal occupation does not become generally illegal where the persons to whom it applies are designated.[90] A statute authorizing a grant of public lands is construed most strongly against the grantee.[91] A statute authorizing condemnation of land will not be construed to apply to land already devoted to public use, unless such intention is clearly apparent.[92]

The proviso.[93]—The office of a proviso is to restrain the enacting clause; to except something which would otherwise be within it, or in some manner modify it, and where it follows and restricts an enacting clause general in its scope and language, it is to be strictly construed.[94]

75. Naturalization laws. Schmidt v. U. S., 133 F. 257.

76. Shelton v. Sears [Mass.] 73 N. E. 666.

77. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529.

78. Bailey v. McAlpin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 388.

79. Supreme Council A. L. H. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 207. Where a statute has been construed by the courts and is then re-enacted, the construction is presumed to be sanctioned and thenceforth becomes obligatory. Swift & Co. v. Wood [Va.] 49 S. E. 643.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

81. Modifying servant's assumption of risk. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 117 F. 462. If a statute creates a liability where otherwise none would exist, or increases a common-law liability, it will be strictly construed. Smith v. Boston & A. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. S. 412.

82. Act March 2, 1893 (27 Stat. at L. 531, ch. 196; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3174), relative to automatic couplers. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co., 25 S. Ct. 158.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1729.

84. Rev. St. U. S. § 3449, providing a penalty for shipping liquors under any but the proper name. United States v. Twenty Boxes of Corn Whisky [C. C. A.] 133 F. 910. This statute applies only to dealers in liquor and not to all persons generally. Id. A revenue law requiring peddlers to obtain a license being penal so far as it imposes a penalty. Kloss v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 655.

85. The Ben R. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

86. Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co., 25 S. Ct. 158.

87. Tyner v. U. S., 23 App. D. C. 324.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1729.

89. Commonwealth v. Beck [Mass.] 72 N. E. 357. A statute in derogation of the natural right of a person to manage his own property. Gray v. Stewart [Kan.] 78 P. 852.

90. Laws relative to liquor traffic. Commonwealth v. Beck, 187 Mass. 15, 72 N. E. 357.

91. District of Columbia v. Cropley, 23 App. D. C. 232.

92. Starr Burying Ground Ass'n v. North Lane Cemetery Ass'n [Conn.] 58 A. 467.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

94. Futch v. Adams [Fla.] 36 So. 575. Takes no case out of the enacting clause which does not fall fairly within its terms. Towson v. Denson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 661.

Liberal construction[95] should be given the language of the title.[96] Statutes authorizing the issuance of injunctions are liberally construed.[97] Statutes, the purpose of which is the protection of the lives of men, are so construed as to prevent the mischief and advance the remedy, so far as the words fairly permit.[98] Where it is necessary to resort to construction of a statute to relieve a property owner from a municipal assessment, it should be construed in his favor rather than against him.[99]

Remedial statutes[1] should be liberally construed, but must be followed with strictness where they give a remedy against a party who would not otherwise be liable.[2]

General powers and limitations of legislature.[3]—The protection of the public from fraud and deception and the protection of private property are proper objects of legislation.[4] The legislature may regulate the right to divorce,[5] and prescribe rules and regulations whereby rights and priorities of appropriators to the use of public waters may be settled.[6] It may incorporate into a law a statute prepared by men bearing no official relation.[7] It may change the law of procedure to affect pending actions;[8] declare in a statute the sense in which it used certain words contained therein;[9] but may not exercise judicial power.[10] The legislative power cannot be delegated.[11] The legislative powers of territorial governments are as broad as those exercised by the states.[12]

Partial invalidity.[13]—A statute good in part and void as to the remainder will be enforced in so far as valid,[14] providing the invalid portion is not so important

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1728.

96. See ante, § 3, Subjects and Titles.

97. Rev. St. 1887, § 4288. Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 394.

98. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Voelker [C. C. A.] 129 F. 522.

99. Gilfeather v. Grout, 91 N. Y. S. 533.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1729. Gen. St. 1902, § 4487, fixing liability of the owner of dogs for damages done, is remedial, not penal. Leone v. Kelly [Conn.] 60 A. 136.

2. Statute relative to rights of an abutter against a municipality for change in grade of a highway. Smith v. Boston & A. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. S. 412.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1730.

4. Rev. Laws, c. 72, § 16, relative to unauthorized use of registered bottles. Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790.

5. Civ. Code, §§ 131, 132, are constitutional. Grannis v. Superior Court of San Francisco [Cal.] 79 P. 891.

6. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

7. That a mortality table was originally prepared by a body of men bearing no official relation to the legislature. State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies, 35 Wash. 338, 77 P. 500.

8. No person has a vested right in any particular mode of procedure. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. The law of evidence is a part of the remedy and is within legislative control. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25; State v. Barrett [N. C.] 50 S. E. 506.

9. Does not usurp a judicial function. Getz v. Brubaker, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 303.

10. Act to authorize county commissioners to issue certificates of indebtedness is not an exercise of judicial power by legislation. State v. Gunn, 92 Minn. 436, 100 N. W. 97.

11. Rev. Code, § 664, providing that the insurance commissioner shall prescribe the form of policy to be used, is void. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Perkins [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1110. Acts 1898-99, p. 683, amended by Acts 1900-01, p. 170, to prevent stock from running at large, does not delegate legislative power. Davis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 454. Acts April 28, 1899 (P. L. 67 and 68), and Acts April 11, 1866 (P. L. 658), are void. McGonnell's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 642.

12. Laws 1891, pp. 61, 63, No. 41, relative to exemption of railroads from taxation, is not in excess of legislative power. Bennett v. Nichols [Ariz.] 80 P. 392.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1731.

14. In re Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 674. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 155, § 8. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621. St. 1903, p. 124, c. 163, held not rendered invalid as a whole by the unconstitutionality of one clause. Lentell v. Boston & W. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 542. A statute impairing the obligation of any particular contract may be declared inoperative as to it without destroying its constitutionality in other respects. Brady v. Mattern [Iowa] 100 N. W. 358. Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, relative to state tide lands, though void as to one section is not wholly void. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503, 77 P. 845. That a provision of Sayles' Rev. St. arts 3384, 3399, is void, does not invalidate it in toto. Hoover v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 859. Unconstitutionality of Acts 1873, p. 138, c. 103, § 6, relative to removal of county seats, does not affect the validity of the rest of the act. Lindsay v. Allen [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 171. That a portion of Act Feb. 25, 1905, abolishing Watson judicial district is that the statute would not have been passed had the legislature foreseen its invalidity.[15] This doctrine is most frequently applied where some of the sections are valid and others void, but is equally applicable where both the valid and invalid portions are in the same section.[16] But where they are so connected or dependent on each other that the act would not have been passed except as a whole, the entire statute must fall.[17]

§ 6. Retrospective effect.[18]—All statutes are to be so construed as to have a prospective effect only,[19] but this rule is one of construction only and is not to be resorted to when the terms of the statute are clear;[20] but retrospective laws prohibited by the constitution are void.[21] Statutes relating merely to the mode of procedure are remedial in character and applicable to prior as well as subsequent causes of void, does not invalidate the entire statute. Waterman v. Hawkins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 844.

15. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166. Prohibitive features of Loc. Acts 1903, pp. 62, 68, 71, relative to the sale of liquor in Louderdale county, held to operate independently of the dispensary features of the act and are not affected by the invalidity of them. Mitchell v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 407. Batts' Ann. St. arts. 4560a, 4560b, relative to the redemption of railroad tickets, though void in part is not void in all its provisions. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1047. Acts 1903, p. 1536, c. 576, relative to county attorneys. State v. Trewhitt [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 480. Kansas City Charter, art. 9, § 18, relative to assessments for local improvements, is not so interwoven with the rest of the section that it cannot be declared void. Haag v. Ward [Mo.] 85 S. W. 391. That the portion of the act of the 28th Leg., organizing the 62d Judicial District relative to the impaneling of a jury, is void, does not invalidate the remainder of the act. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Hall [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786. Section of Sess. Acts 1899, p. 96, relative to monopolies, does not invalidate the entire law. Finck v. Schneider Granite Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 213. The authority conferred by P. L. 237, upon the governor, to appoint county boards of election, is separable from the provisions respecting nominations for such appointment. State v. Corrigan [N. J. Law] 60 A. 515. Enough of P. L. 1894, p. 524, providing an elective system for members of the board of street commissioners of cities of the first class, held valid to constitute a complete act. Fagan v. Payen [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 568. Provision for an unlawful search and seizure held not so essential to the remainder of the act as to render it unconstitutional. Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790.

16. Act relative to sale of intoxicating liquors held valid in part. State v. Scampini [Vt.] 59 A. 201. Act relative to corporations held valid as to domestic though void as to foreign. Murphy v. Wheatley [Md.] 59 A. 704.

17. Laws 1893, p. 97, c. 73, relative to sale and redemption of railroad tickets. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Mahaffey [Tex.] 84 S. W. 646. Provisfon relative to eminent domain held to invalidate the entire statute. Albright v. Sussex County Lake & Park Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 146.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1732.

19. Mills' Ann. St. § 2923, relative to adverse possession, is prospective. Edelstein v. Carlile [Colo.] 78 P. 680; Bushnell, Estate of, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 673. The repeal of a provision of a tax law does not affect the liability of a taxpayer for taxes which have already become a charge on his property. Hooper v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 662. It is to be presumed unless the contrary appears that the operation of a statute is to be prospective only. City of Haverhill v. Marlborough, 187 Mass. 150, 72 N. E. 943.

Held prospective only: Laws 1897, p. 168, § 6a, amending Laws 1879, p. 85 (Homestead and Loan Association Act). Assets Realization Co. v. Heiden [Ill.] 74 N. E. 56. Act Ark. March 27, 1893 (Acts 1893, p. 169), relative to outstanding city warrants. Condon v. Eureka Springs, 135 F. 566. Acts 1903, p. 110, to regulate the business of persons engaged in making or issuing contracts (Building and Loan Associations). State v. Preferred Tontine Mercantile Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 1075. Const. art. 15, § 2, forbidding the enactment of any law imposing on the people of any municipal subdivision a new liability with respect to any past transaction or consideration, is not applicable to municipal corporations or governmental subdivisions. School Dist. No. 1 v. School Dist. No. 7 [Colo.] 78 P. 690. Sess. Laws 1901, pp. 133, 138, as amended by Sess. Laws 1903, pp. 159, 164, relative to the apportionment and appraisement of property belonging to certain school districts. Id. Negotiable Instruments Law. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Dewey [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 569. Provision of Bankruptcy Act 1898, forbidding discharge, if there has been a prior one, within six years, is not retroactive as applied to cases where proceedings were had prior to its enactment. It merely adds a new condition of discharge. In re Carleton, 131 F. 146. A constitutional provision against the organization of corporations by special law has no application to corporations chartered prior to its adoption. State v. Bangor, 98 Me. 114, 56 A. 589.

20. Lamb v. Powder River Live Stock Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 434.

Held not retrospective: Rev. Laws, c. 75, § 54, relative to the recovery of expenses paid by a town for the preservation of the public health, is prospective. City of Haverhill v. Marlborough, 187 Mass. 150, 72 N. E. 943.

21. Acts June 15, 1897 (P. L. 165), and of July 2, 1901 (P. L. 609), relative to compensation of constables. Edwards v. McLean, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 43.

action;[22] thus statutes of limitations may be retrospective if they do not impair contracts or disturb vested rights;[23] but where the bar has once attached, the right may not be revived.[24] A statute passed after the rendition of judgments may be applicable to those judgments if they are still pending in appellate courts on review.[25] A law fixing punishment of persons "hereafter convicted" has been held to be prospective,[26] and though contrary to the general rule,[27] seems to be well founded in reason.[28]

§ 7. Repeal.[29]—A general repealing clause in an act is a legislative expression which carries with it a repealing effect only where by law, the effect would be the same without such repealing clause.[30] If a section of a statute to be repealed is designated by an incorrect number in the title of an act, it is not repealed, though correctly designated in the body of the act;[31] but such error does not render the statute void.[32] A provision that the repeal of a repealing law shall not operate to revive the former unless expressly so provided, applies only to cases of absolute repeal.[33]

Vested rights[34] secured by the constitution cannot be disturbed by the legislature,[35] nor can the obligation of a legislative contract be impaired;[36] but the presumption is against the irrepealable character of a statute.[37] The repeal of a statute pending an action or legal proceeding commenced under it does not abate either.[39]

22. Relative to parties in actions of adverse possession. Campbell v. Equitable Loan & Trust Co. [S. D.] 94 N. W. 401; Edelstein v. Carlile [Colo.] 78 P. 680. Remedial statutes relate to existing causes of action. Statute relative to contribution among joint tort feasors. First Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786.

23. Edelstein v. Carlile [Colo.] 78 P. 680. Statute of limitation (Act Colo. April 29, 1895), amended by Act April 6, 1899, held retroactive. Lamb v. Powder River Live Stock Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 434.

24. Edelstein v. Carlile [Colo.] 78 P. 680. But see, Limitation of Actions, 4 Curr. L. 445, citing cases to the contrary.

25. Writ of mandamus to compel disconnection of land from a city was granted. While pending on appeal, statute was passed making such proceeding discretionary. Held, that the statute applied to the judgment, the ordinance of disconnection not having been passed. City of Roodhouse v. Briggs, 105 Ill. App. 116.

26. In re Lambrecht [Mich.] 100 N. W. 606. Pub. Acts 1903, p. 168, No. 136. Id.

27. Note: The general rule is that laws fixing the punishment for crime operate as well on crimes already committed as on future ones. Flaherty v. Thomas, 12 Allen [Mass.] 428; People v. Hayes, 140 N. Y. 484, 37 Am. St. Rep. 572; Commonwealth v. Kimball, 21 Pick. [Mass.] 373. This rule applies even though the punishment be augmented. In re Medley, 134 U. S. 160, 33 Law. Ed. 835; Heald v. State, 36 Me. 62. It matters not whether the repeal be by implication or in general terms or of specific statutes. Garvey v. People, 6 Colo. 559, 45 Am. Rep. 531; State v. Daley, 29 Conn. 272. When retroactively increased, the law is of course offensive to the ex post facto inhibition. 4 Columbia L. R. 593.

See Criminal Law, 3 Curr. L. 979; Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730.

28. Note: In a note in 4 Columbia L. R. 593, it is said that punitive statutes are not wholly remedial and therefore presumptively designed by the legislature to be uniform in operation on existing as well as future rights (citing Bishop, Stat. Crimes [3d Ed.] §§ 175, 176, 183), but that the punishment affects rights for which reason legislative intent presumptively looks only to such as may take their inception in the future. The decisions under the ex post facto clause are cited as implying such a distinction, from the fact that punitive laws are void if retroactive while laws retroactively changing criminal procedure purely are valid (citing Jaquins v. Commonwealth, 9 Cush. [Mass.] 279; Gut v. State, 9 Wall. [U. S.] 35, 19 Law. Ed. 573).

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1733.

30. City of Wichita v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 886. No part of general telegraph act (art. 8, c. 23, Gen. St. 1868), was repealed by the charter act of cities of the first class (ch. 37, p. 79, Laws 1881). Id.

31, 32. State v. Knoll, 69 Kan. 767, 77 P. 580.

33. Gen. St. Minn. 1894, § 258, providing that the repeal of a law repealing a former law shall not revive the former law unless expressly so provided, applies only to cases of absolute repeal. Pepin Tp. v. Sage [C. C. A.] 129 F. 657. Const. Minn. §§ 33, 34, prohibiting special laws relative to municipal corporations, construed. Id.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1733.

35. Power of married women to dispose of their property. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784. Repeal of Act Ark. Feb. 27, 1875 (Acts 1874-75, p. 189), relative to outstanding city warrants, did not impair vested rights. Condon v. Eureka Springs, 135 F. 566. Right to maintain a bridge erected pursuant to Act Cong. July 14, 1862, which contained no reservation of a right to amend, is not affected by subsequent prospective acts. United States v. Parkersburg Branch R. Co., 134 F. 969. And see Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730.

36. See Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730.

37. Board of Sup'rs v. Hubinger [Mich.] 100 N. W. 261.

Effect on pending actions.[39]—A general saving clause providing that the repeal of a statute shall not affect accrued rights or pending causes protects accrued or pending causes of action;[40] but where a law takes away a subject of jurisdiction, a proceeding founded on it must fall.[41]

Implied repeal.[42]—The repeal of statutes is wholly a question of legislative intent. Repeal by implication is not favored,[43] especially where it is expressly forbidden by the constitution,[44] and in order that such a repeal may be given effect, the contradictions between two laws must be irreconcilable,[45] and there must be a general and positive repugnance,[46] so clear as to admit of no other reasonable construction,[47] otherwise an apparent conflict may be read as an exception;[48] but a purpose to repeal inconsistent acts need not be expressed in the title.[49] It is necessary to the repeal of a statute by implication that the object of the two statutes be the same.[50]

38. Rights of the parties are preserved by Gen. St. 1901, § 7342, subd. 1. Consolidated Barb Wire Co. v. Stevenson [Kan.] 79 P. 1085.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1733.

40. Blumle v. Kramer, 14 Okl. 366, 79 P. 215.

41. Washington Borough, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 296.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1734.

43. York Gazette Co. v. York County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 517. Two laws passed at the same session should be construed as if embraced in one act and should be so construed that both may stand. McGrady v. Terrell [Tex.] 84 S. W. 641. In construing two provisions of a statute, it is the duty of the courts to preserve the force of both without destroying the evident intent of either. State v. Givens [Fla.] 37 So. 308.

44. Wheeler v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 773.

45. Acts 28 Leg. 1903, p. 133, c. 101, relative to publication of election notices, does not repeal Acts 26th Leg. 1899, p. 22, c. 128 (Local Option Stock Law). Ex parte Kimbrell [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 382. Local Option Law, art. 3387, was not repealed by Terrell Election Law (Gen. Laws 28th Leg. 1903, p. 133). Ex parte Keith [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 683. Gen. Laws 27th Leg. p. 253, c. 88, not repealed by Gen. Laws 27 Leg. p. 292. c. 88, §§ 7, 9. McGrady v. Terrell [Tex.] 84 S. W. 641.

Held inconsistent: Const. art. 3, § 21, relative to compensation of the attorney general, held to repeal Territorial Acts 1887-88, p. 9, c. 7, § 8. State v. Maynard, 35 Wash. 168, 76 P. 937. Code, § 616, as amended by Acts 1895, p. 105, c. 105, § 1, as amended by Acts 1899, p. 144, c. 49, relative to hearing of cases to try title to office, is inconsistent with Code, § 613. McCall v. Webb, 135 N. C. 356, 47 S. E. 802. Rev. St. 1899, § 1987, relative to killing or maiming a horse, was repealed by § 1988. State v. Taylor [Mo.] 85 S. W. 564. § 4 Act of June 2, 1871 (P. L. 283), relative to extension of limits of boroughs, repealed by Act April 22, 1903 (P. L. 247). Donora Borough v. Donora Borough, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 300. Sess. Laws 1895, p. 522; Act No. 230, §§ 26, 27, relative to township road system impliedly repealed by Loc. Acts 1899, pp. 229, 230, as amended by Loc. Acts 1901, p. 115. Board of Sup'rs v. Hubinger [Mich.] 100 N. W. 261. Act of April 22, 1903 (P. L. 247) repeals Acts April 3, 1851 (P. L. 283), § 4, July 15, 1897 (P. L. 296), and April 6, 1899 (P. L. 33). Washington Borough, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 296. Sec. 1265 Code D. C. (Limitations) repeals Secs. 1 and 2 of 21 James I., ch. 16. Gwin v. Brown, 21 App. D. C. 295. Sec. 111, Code D. C., relative to adverse possession, repealed Sec. 2, Act of 21 James 1, ch. 16. Id. Repeal by necessary implication. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 214.

Held not inconsistent: Act providing a special system for collection of taxes held not repealed by a subsequent act which did not create a complete system. The acts are to be read in connection with each other. Commonwealth v. Couch, 209 Pa. 354, 58 A. 667. Rev. St. U. S. § 3227, limitations not repealed by Act of March 3, 1887 (ch. 359, § 1, 24 Stat. 505). Christie-Street Commission Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 326. Laws 1901, p. 126, § 2251, relative to counties, did not repeal Laws 1898, p. 27. Allison v. Hatton [Or.] 80 P. 101. Act March 13, 1903 (P. L. 26), relative to desertion of children by a parent, did not repeal Act of April 13, 1867 (P. L. 78). Commonwealth v. Mills, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 549. Laws 1891, pp. 61, 63, No. 41, relative to exemption of railroads from taxation, not repealed by Rev. St. 1901, § 3834. Bennett v. Nichols [Ariz.] 80 P. 392. Act Feb. 12, 1828, relative to appeals and appeal bonds, is not repealed by Civ. Code Proc. § 682, nor by the Code of 1877, which contains the same provision as the Code of 1851. Galloway v. Bradburn, 26 Ky. L. R. 977, 82 S. W. 1013. Acts 1891, p. 50, c. 4021, going into effect May 19, 1891, relative to appeals from municipal courts, not repealed by Acts 1891, p. 92, c. 4055, § 1. State v. Wills [Fla.] 38 So. 289.

46. York Gazette Co. v. York County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 517. Act of June 23, 1885, relative to elections, not repealed by Act of June 10, 1893 (P. L. 419), as amended by Act of June 26, 1895 (P. L. 392). Id.

47. Sections 2117, 2118, 2147, Rev. St. U. S., not repealed by subsequent legislation. Morris v. Hitchcock, 21 App. D. C. 565. Sections of Gen. St. 1901, § 2452, held not so inconsistent that they could not stand together. Newman v. Lake [Kan.] 79 P. 675.

48. Sec. 111, Code D. C. must be read as an exception to sec. 1265. Gwin v. Brown, 21 App. D. C. 295.

49. Monaghan v. Lewis [Del.] 59 A. 948.

50. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 244, c. 29, art. 2, not repealed by Act March 17, 1903, p. 236,

Where a new law covers the whole subject-matter of an old one, the latter is repealed by implication.[51] A subsequent statute repeals a prior one in so far as they are clearly repugnant;[52] but if the statute can be harmonized without repeal, they should be so interpreted,[53] especially where the repeal would lead to absurd and mischievous consequences.[54] An act intended as a substitute for existing laws is not one extending them.[55]

An unconstitutional law is ineffectual to repeal one inconsistent with it;[56] and an unconstitutional amendment does not repeal by implication the original act.[57]

The re-enactment of a previous statute is not construed as an implied repeal of the prior law, but as a continuation thereof.[58] This principle is applicable to the construction of an ordinance.[59]

General and special laws.[60]—Specific legislation on a particular subject and a general law on that and other subjects must stand together unless clearly repugnant.[61] Special laws are not repealed by general ones unless specially mentioned or such purpose is apparent,[62] though their provisions be inconsistent,[63] unless they are repugnant to each other,[64] or a contrary intent is clearly apparent.[65] Where an act is passed to carry into effect a mandatory general provision of the constitution, it is presumed to repeal local inconsistent laws.[66] Where a town is reincorporat-

c. 29, art. 1, concerning roads and bridges. McMillan v. Board of Com'rs of Payne County, 14 Okl. 659, 79 P. 898.

51. Pen. Code 1895, art. 185, relative to sale of liquor on election days, was repealed by Terrell Election Law, § 120 (Gen. Laws [28th Leg.] p. 154, c. 101), defining and prohibiting the same offense. Fleeks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 381. Local Act of April 11, 1866 (P. L. 658), relative to sale of liquor in Potter county, repeals Local Act of March 27, 1866 (P. L. 339). McGonnell's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 642.

52. In re Lambrecht [Mich.] 100 N. W. 606. Act fixing a rate of taxation different from the rate fixed by a prior act repeals the prior one. Monaghan v. Lewis [Del.] 59 A. 948. Laws 1892, p. 1470, c. 715, § 3, relative to newspapers in which to publish the session laws, held repealed by County Laws (Laws 1892, p. 1479, c. 686, § 19), as amended by Laws 1900, p. 933, c. 400. In re Troy Press Co., 94 App. Div. 514, 88 N. Y. S. 115.

53. It is presumed that the prior act was not intended to be interfered with unless it is repugnant or the reason of it has been removed. York Gazette Co. v. York County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 517. Acts 28 Gen. Assem. c. 29, p. 15, § 3, relative to special assessments, does not repeal § 971 of the Code and substitute § 832 in its place. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542. Pol. Code, § 3891, providing that its revenue laws are to be construed as though the Code had been passed on the last day of the session, does not render void an earlier revenue act unless there is some repugnancy. Rosasco v. Tuolumne, 143 Cal. 430, 77 P. 148.

54. Indeterminate sentence law (Pub. Acts 1903, No. 136), held not to repeal Comp. Laws, § 11,784. In re Lambrecht [Mich.] 100 N. W. 606.

55. Mechanics' Lien Act of July 4, 1901 (P. L. 431), does not extend existing laws. Gety v. Brubaker, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 303.

56. Statute relative to peddlers. People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598; State v. Insurance Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 405.

57. Laws 1896, p. 69, c. 112 (Liquor Tax Law), § 28, subd. 2, not affected by the invalidity of the amendment (Laws 1900, p. 836, c. 367). In re Cullinan, 97 App. Div. 122, 89 N. Y. S. 683.

58. A re-enactment of an old statute is simply a continuance of an old rule. Galloway v. Bradburn, 26 Ky. L. R. 977, 82 S. W. 1013.

59. Kittanning Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 346.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1736.

61. The one as the law of the particular subject, the other as the general law of the land. Christie-Street Commission Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 326.

62. Terrell Election Law (Laws 1903, p. 133, c. 101), relative to notices of a special election, did not repeal Local Option Law (Laws 1899, p. 220, c. 128). Ex parte Neal [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 831; Ex parte Kimbrell [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 382. Local Act of April 4, 1870 (P. L. 834), relative to county commissioners of certain counties, not repealed by General Act of April 19, 1895 (P. L. 38). Commonwealth v. Brown, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 269. Laws 1873, p. 944, c. 620, relative to the collection of taxes in Suffolk county, not repealed by Laws 1891, p. 411, c. 217. Welstead v. Jennings, 93 N. Y. S. 339. Laws 1892, p. 1152, c. 603, as amended by Laws 1895, p. 788, c. 438, § 20, not repealed by Laws 1898, p. 436, c. 182, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 1272, c. 581. People v. Monroe County Court, 93 N. Y. S. 452.

63. Act relative to contracts of county commissioners in certain counties. Commonwealth v. Brown [Pa.] 59 A. 479.

64. Loc. Act April 10, 1873, is repealed by General Act July 30, 1897. Sun & B. Pub. Co. v. Bennett, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 243. Various special acts relative to the city of Covington were repealed by the Gen. Act of Oct., 1892. McInerney v. Huelefeld, 25 Ky. L. R. 272, 75 S. W. 237.

65, 66. Commonwealth v. Brown [Pa.] 59 A. 479.

ed as a city by an act which repeals all inconsistent laws, the town charter is repealed by implication;[67] but affirmative statutes of a general nature do not repeal by implication charters and special acts passed for the benefit of particular municipalities.[68] A general act will be repealed pro tanto by a subsequent special act where the two cannot stand together,[69] but otherwise if they are not clearly repugnant.[70]

STATUTORY PROVISOS, EXCEPTIONS AND SAVINGS.

[Special Article by William A. Robertson and Thomas M. Lane.]

A proviso in a statute is a clause generally following the enacting clause, and used either to except something from the enacting clause, to qualify or restrain its generality, or to exclude misinterpretation.

A proviso

(a) Is generally to be strictly construed, and takes no case out of the enacting clause not fairly within its terms.

(b) Having properly a restrictive use, it should not be construed to enlarge or add to the substantive provisions of an act.

(c) Is, in general, to affect only that portion of the act to which it is appended.

(d) Probably repeals the enacting clause if totally repugnant to it.

An exception exempts something absolutely from the operation of a statute by express words in the enacting clause.

A saving clause resembles an excepting proviso, and is in common use to preserve rights, liabilities and remedies from the operation of repealing laws.

A saving clause totally repugnant to the purview of an act is probably void.

"An exception is, generally, part of the enactment itself, absolutely excluding from its operation some subject or thing that otherwise would fall within its scope."[1] A proviso is a clause usually following or engrafted upon the enacting clause.[2] It "is generally intended to restrain the enacting clause, and to except 67. Wright v. Overstreet [Ga.] 50 S. E. 487.

68. Pub. Laws 1903, p. 621, c. 375, relative to selling bonds for the improvement of roads of Heywood county, does not repeal Priv. Laws 1885, p. 1098, c. 127, § 16, Waynesville Town Charter. Town of Waynesville v. Satterthwait, 136 N. C. 226, 48 S. E. 661.

69. Act relative to administration of the estate of a lunatic held repealed. Lang v. Friesenecker, 213 Ill. 598, 73 N. E. 329. Ch. 375, p. 571, Laws 1903, held to repeal by implication § 5686, Gen. St. 1901, as it covers the entire ground of that section. State v. Knoll, 69 Kan. 767, 77 P. 580.

70. The Special Act for Screven County (Acts 1874, p. 403), regulating the grant of licenses to sell liquor, is supplementary to the general law. Kemp v. State, 120 Ga. 157, 47 S. E. 548.

1. Rowell v. Janvrin, 151 N. Y. 60, 68, 45 N. E. 398. The exception of a single thing from general words shows that the legislature considered that the thing excepted would but for the exception have been within the general words. Commonwealth v. Summerville, 204 Pa. 300. Bish. Written Laws, § 58. See, however, note 21, post. Where a special statute declares that a certain law shall not, with the exception of certain section apply to a particular county, the excepted sections are as to such county deemed embodied in the special statute. Gabel v. Williams, 39 Misc. [N. Y.] 489.

2. Rowell v. Janvrin, 151 N. Y. 60, 68, 45 N. E. 398.

The term "provided" in deeds and wills is held to be an apt word to create a condition. Cromwell's Case, 2 Co. 72a; Stanley v. Colt, 5 Wall. [U. S.] 119, 166, 18 Law. Ed. 502; Chapin v. Harris, 90 Mass. 594, 596.

The technical distinction between a proviso and an exception in private instruments is thus stated by Mr. Sergeant Williams in the notes to Saunders' Rep. (1 Saunders' Rep. [5th Ed.] note c, p. 234), "A proviso is properly the statement of something extrinsic of the subject-matter of the covenant, which shall go in discharge of that covenant by way of defeasance: an exception is a taking out of the covenant some part of the subject-matter of it."

Speaking of this distinction in statutes, the New York Court of Appeals said, in Rowell v. Janvrin, 151 N. Y. 60, 68, 45 N. E. 398: "The distinction, however difficult to state, has always been recognized. An exception exempts something absolutely from the operation of a statute by express words in the enacting clause; a proviso defeats its something which would otherwise have been within it, or in some measure to modify the enacting clause;"[3] or "to exclude some possible ground of misinterpretation of it, as extending to cases not intended by the legislature to be brought within its purview."[4] A saving clause resembles an excepting proviso,[5] and is customarily inserted in a statute to preserve rights, liabilities, remedies, etc., depending upon laws which it repeals.[6] The words "Except," "Provided," operation conditionally. An exception takes out of the statute something that otherwise would be a part of the subject-matter of it; a proviso avoids them by way of defeasance or excuse." So Manning, J., in Myers v. Carr, 12 Mich. 63, 71, remarked: "An exception excludes in express terms the thing excepted from the statute—leaving it as before the statute. A proviso only excepts a thing within the statute from its operation in certain circumstances or on certain conditions." Waffle v. Goble, 53 Barb. [N. Y.] 517, 522: "A proviso in a statute always implies a condition unless modified by subsequent words." Note also Voorhees v. Bank of U. S., 10 Pet. [U. S.] 449, 471.

But in deeds and wills the term "provided" does not necessarily import a condition (Chapin v. Harris, 90 Mass. 594, 596), but "gives way to the intent of the parties as gathered from an examination of the whole instrument" (Stanley v. Colt, 5 Wall. [U. S.] 119, 166, 18 Law. Ed. 502), and is often used by way of limitation or qualification only (Cromwell's Case, 2 Co. 72a; Chapin v. Harris, 90 Mass. 594, 596; Stanley v. Colt, 5 Wall. [U. S.] 119, 166, 18 Law. Ed. 502), and this is also true of provisos in statutes. Furthermore, a proviso may serve to introduce an absolute exception to the statute.

To define the proviso in written laws, therefore, as a conditional exemption or defeasance merely, however accurate from a technical standpoint, would not express the comprehensive sense in which the term is ordinarily used by jurists, as the authorities in the text and in note 3 will indicate. Note 8 Amer. Jur. 233, at 242.

In legislation the word "provided" is frequently misused to introduce clauses that are not provisos within any of the definitions. See note 17, post. For basis of the distinction between exceptions and provisos in pleading, see note 7, post.

3. Mr. Chief Justice Marshall in Wayman v. Southard, 10 Wheat. [U. S.] 30, 6 Law. Ed. 253. Deitch v. Staub, 115 F. 309; United States v. Macfarland, 18 App. D. C. 120; Futch v. Adams [Fla.] 36 So. 575.

The proviso may restrain the generality of a grant of power or right, or annex a condition. Where a statute empowered commissioners to pave highways, "provided the same be not less in length than one, nor exceeding three squares at one time," at the expense of abutting owners, it was held that "the proviso is a limitation of power, and amounts to a negation of all authority beyond its prescribed and clearly defined limits," and the commissioners could not recover from the property owners the expense of paving more than three squares at one time. Kensington v. Keith, 2 Pa. 218. So where a statute authorized the court of claims to hear and determine barred claims of the successors and representatives of A, provided it be shown to the court that A and his surviving representatives were loyal to the government throughout the war of the Rebellion, it was held that the proviso "negatived the authority granted beyond the limit defined," and made loyalty a jurisdictional fact and not merely necessary to the right of recovery. Austin v. U. S., 155 U. S. 417, 431-2, 39 Law. Ed. 206. Certain acts prescribed by a proviso to be done previous to a sale in attachment proceedings were regarded as conditions precedent to the valid exercise of the power to sell. Voorhees v. Bank of U. S., 10 Pet. [U. S.] 449, 471. And a proviso in an act authorizing a private company to construct a log boom that "navigation shall be as free as it is now" was held to be a condition which made the whole grant void if it could not be complied with. Mason v. Boom Co., 3 Wall. Jr. 252, 16 Fed. Cas. 1012. Note also Dugan v. Bridge Co., 27 Pa. 303. In an act forfeiting a bet on the election to the directors of the poor, a proviso that an action for the recovery shall be brought within two years was construed as a conditional limitation upon the right to recover, and not as a statute of limitations which must be pleaded. Forscht v. Green, 53 Pa. 138; Clark v. Rochester, 24 Barb. [N. Y.] 446; Graves v. State, 6 Tex. App. 228; Silvis v. Aultman, 141 Ill. 632, 639, 31 N. E. 11.

The purpose of the proviso may be simply exclusive, that is, it may except a case from the statute without making a new and independent provision for it. Den v. Jones, 8 N. J. Law, 340, 343. As to save certain cases from the operation of a repealing enactment. United States v. Passmore, 4 Dall. [U. S.] 372; Anon., 1 W. C. C. 84, 1 Fed. Cas. 1032. Or to except certain property from an exempting statute. Campbell v. Wiggins, 85 Tex. 424, 428, 21 S. W. 599.

The proviso may take a particular case out of the statute absolutely and provide specially for it. United States v. One Pearl Necklace [C. C. A.] 111 F. 164, 170; People v. Company, 153 Ill. 25, 37, 38 N. E. 752; People v. Board of Sup'rs, 185 Ill. 288, 298, 56 N. E. 1044. When a statutory enactment is modified by engrafting upon it a new provision by way of amendment, providing conditionally for a new case, such modification is in the nature of a proviso. Rowell v. Janvrin, 151 N. Y. 60, 45 N. E. 398.

4. Mr. Justice Story in Minis v. U. S., 15 Pet. [U. S.] 423, 445, 10 Law. Ed. 791; Sutton v. People, 145 Ill. 279, 285, 34 N. E. 420; Ex parte Lusk, 82 Ala. 519, 2 So. 140.

5. Potter's Dwar. on Stat. & Const., p. 117. Bish. Written Laws, § 59. Sutherland, Stat. Const., § 225.

6. Sutherland, Stat. Const., § 225.

A permanent saving clause in the general body of the law, if clothed in apt language to express the purpose, is as efficient as a special clause expressly inserted in a particular statute. People v. McNulty, 93 Cal.

"Nothing in this act shall," or similar expressions, are commonly used to introduce, respectively, exceptions, provisos and saving clauses.[7] In pleading statutes, an important distinction is observed between exceptions and provisos, it being the received canon that the former must be negatived while the latter need not be.[8]

Exceptions in statutes[9] and statutes conferring exemptions from the general operation of law are ordinarily to be strictly construed, and doubts resolved against the one asserting the exemption.[10] So, "where the enacting clause is general in its language and objects, and a proviso is afterward introduced, that proviso is construed strictly, and takes no case out of the enacting clause which does not fairly fall within its terms. In short, a proviso carves special exceptions only out of the enacting clause; and those who set up any such exception must establish it as being within the words as well as within the reason thereof."[11] The principle has been 427, 437, 29 P. 61; Kleckner v. Turk, 45 Neb. 176, 63 N. W. 469; Farmer v. Illinois, 77 Ill. 322; State v. Shaffer, 21 Iowa, 486; State v. Boyle, 10 Kan. 113; Lakeman v. Moore, 32 N. H. 410.

But where a repealing statute contains a special saving clause, the general saving statute will not apply, and those rights and remedies only are preserved which the special clause names. State v. Showers, 34 Kan. 269, 8 P. 474.

7. Bish. Written Laws, §§ 57-59.

Carroll v. State, 58 Ala. 396, 401: "It does not necessarily follow because the term provided is used, that which may succeed it is a proviso, though that is the form in which an exception is generally made to, or a restraint or qualification imposed on the enacting clause. It is the matter of the succeeding words, and not the form which determines whether it is or not a technical proviso."

Myers v. Carr, 12 Mich. 63, 71: "The word except is not necessary to create an exception, nor the word provided an exemption. Other words clearly indicating the one or the other intention are sufficient."

Comm. v. Hart, 11 Cush. [Mass.] 130, 136.

8. Rowell v. Janvrin, 151 N. Y. 60, 45 N. E. 398: "The reason upon which this rule of pleading rests seems to be that when a party counts upon the enacting clause of a statute containing an exception, as the foundation of his action, he cannot logically state the case unless he negative the exception. But if the modifying words are no part of the enacting clause, but are to be found in some other part of the statute, or in some subsequent statute, it is otherwise, and he may then state his case in the words of the enacting clause, and it will be prima facie sufficient. When we bear in mind the reason of the rule and the necessity for pleading the negative, it is not very important to deal with the somewhat vague and shadowy distinctions, which are to be found in the books, between an exception and a proviso."

Mr. Justice Clifford, in United States v. Cook, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 168, 176, 21 Law. Ed. 538: "If the exception is so incorporated with the clause describing the offense that it becomes in fact a part of the description, then it cannot be omitted in the pleading, but if it is not so incorporated with the clause defining the offense as to become a material part of the definition of the offense, then it is matter of defense and must be shown by the other party, though it be in the same section or even in the succeeding sentence."

Jones v. Axen, 1 Ld. Raym. 119; Thibault v. Gibson, 1 D. & L. 253, 12 Mees. & W. 88, 7 Jur. 1043, 13 L. J. Exch. 2; Wells v. Igguldeu, 3 Barn. & C. 186, 189; Comm. v. Hart, 11 Cush. [Mass.] 130; Comm. v. Jennings, 121 Mass. 47; Vandegrift v. Meihle, 66 N. J. Law, 92, 49 A. 16; Hirn v. State, 1 Ohio St. 15, 24; Smalley v. Ashland Brown-Stone Co., 114 Mich. 104, 109, 72 N. W. 29.

9. Bragg v. Clark, 50 Ala. 363; Haskel v. Burlington, 30 Iowa, 232, 234; Brocket v. Railroad, 14 Pa. 241; Epps v. Epps, 17 Ill. App. 196.

As to exceptions in statutes of limitations, note Angell, Lim. § 23; § 194 et seq.; § 485; Buswell, Lim., § 104 et seq.; Demarest v. Wynkoop, 3 Johns. Ch. [N. Y.] 129, 142; Amy v. Watertown, 22 F. 418.

10. United States v. Allen, 163 U. S. 499, 41 Law. Ed. 242; Mitchell v. Union Elec. Co., 70 N. H. 569, 49 A. 94; Academy v. Philadelphia Co., 22 Pa. 496; Gast v. Board of Assessors, 43 La. Ann. 1043, 10 So. 184; State v. Fisher, 119 Mo. 344, 24 S. W. 167; Sloane v. McCarroll, 40 Iowa, 61; Briggs v. French, 2 Sumn. 251, 4 Fed. Cas. 117.

Otherwise as to statutes creating exemptions from levy and forced sale under execution. Thompson, Homesteads & Exemptions, §§ 4-7.

11. Mr. Justice Story in United States v. Dickson, 15 Pet. [U. S.] 141, 165, 10 Law. Ed. 689; Huidekoper v. Burrus, 1 Wash. C. C. 109, 12 Fed. Cas. 840, 843-4; United States v. Allen, 163 U. S. 499, 41 Law. Ed. 242; Ryan v. Carter, 93 U. S. 78, 23 Law. Ed. 807; Dollar Savings Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. [U. S.] 227, 22 Law. Ed. 80; Towson v. Denson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 661; Clark's Appeal, 58 Conn. 207, 20 A. 456; Huddleston v. Francis, 124 Ill. 195, 16 N. E. 243; Epps v. Epps, 17 Ill. App. 196; Paxton, etc., Irrigating Co. v. Farmers', etc., Irrigating Co., 45 Neb. 884, 900, 64 N. W. 343; Bruner v. Briggs, 39 Ohio St. 478; Earnfit v. Winans, 3 Ohio, 135; Kensington v. Keith, 2 Pa. 218; Collins v. Warren, 63 Tex. 311.

For strict construction of provisos and exceptions in statutes removing disability of parties to actions as witnesses, see Bragg v. Clark, 50 Ala. 363; Lanning v. Lanning, 17 N. J. Eq. 228; McRae v. Holcomb, 46 Ark. 306; Roberts v. Yarboro, 41 Tex. 449; Potter v. National Bank, 102 U. S. 163, 26 Law. Ed. 111; Looker v. Davis, 47 Mo. 140.

applied to saving clauses as well.[12] A learned author has said, however, that exceptions and provisos in criminal and other penal statutes should be liberally construed,[13] stating the doctrine to be that "when from any of the recognized reasons the main provisions of a statute are to be construed strictly, the same reasons require those which create exceptions, exemptions, and the like to be interpreted liberally."[14] This statement of the law has been adopted by writers on statutory construction.[15]

The true office of the proviso being, as the definitions show, to except something from, or to limit, restrain, or qualify, the terms of, the enacting clause, it is not its legitimate function to introduce substantive provisions enlarging the purview or containing distinct propositions, and this effect should not be given it unless it appear with reasonable certainty that such was the legislative intent.[16] The repeal of the enacting clause repeals the proviso,[17] and the meaning of words used in the proviso and the scope of its language are, in general, determined by a consideration of the subject-matter of the purview.[18] It is not uncommon in legislation, however, for clauses embodying positive enactments to be introduced by the term "provided." Provisions of this character must be given the effect intended, as expressions of the legislative will, but the word "provided," in such a connection, it is plain, has merely the force of a conjunction, and does not create a proviso in the usual sense of the term.[19]

12. See opinion of Story, J., in United States v. Mann, 1 Gall. 177, 26 Fed. Cas. 1153.

Willie, C. J., in Collins v. Warren, 63 Tex. 311, referring to a saving clause in a statute, said, "It is a proviso and subject to the rules which govern such." United States v. Passmore, 4 Dall. 372, 1 W. C. C. 84, 1 Fed. Cas. 1032; Aaron v. State, 40 Ala. 307; Jones v. State, 1 Iowa, 395. But see Downs v. Huntington, 35 Conn. 588.

A clause of reservation in derogation of a right of freehold given by an act must be construed most strictly against the person claiming under it. Duke of Devonshire v. O'Connor, 59 Law J. Q. B. 206, 24 Q. B. Div. 468, 62 Law T. 917, 38 Wkly. Rep. 420, 54 J. P. 740; Sowerby v. Smith, 43 Law J. C. P. 290, 9 C. P. 524. Note also, Ryan v. Carter, 93 U. S. 78, 23 Law. Ed. 807.

13. Bish. Written Laws, §§ 226-7, 229-30.

14. Bish. Written Laws, § 226.

15. Sutherland, Stat. Const., § 227. Endlich, Interp. of L., § 186, n. 32.

16. In re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646; Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Chicago, 183 Ill. 75, 78, 55 N. E. 721; Chicago v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 126 Ill. 276, 280, 18 N. E. 668; Walsh v. Van Horn, 22 Ill. App. 170; Rice v. Keokuk, 15 Iowa, 579; Wolf v. Bauereis, 8 Law. Rep. Ann. 680, 19 A. 1045; Detroit v. Plank Road Co., 12 Mich. 333; In re Webb, 24 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 247; Allen v. Parish, 3 Ohio, 187, 193; Treasurer v. Clark, 19 Vt. 129, 131; Lord Advocate v. Hamilton, 1 Macq. H. L. 46, 55.

The court said in Ihmsen v. Monongahela Co., 32 Pa. 153, "If it (the proviso) was not intended to restrain the general clause, it was a nullity." So a proviso in the form of a positive enactment has been held to be null and void in Pennsylvania, on the ground that it is not the proper office of a proviso to confer a power. Comm. v. Hough, 22 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 440, 443; Collner's Estate, 22 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 198; Portuonda's Estate, 20 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 209.

17. Church v. Stadler, 16 Ind. 463; Horsnail v. Bruce, 8 L. R. C. P. 378, 385.

18. Washington, C. J., in United States v. Passmore, 4 Dall. [U. S.] 372; Anon., 1 W. C. C. 84, 1 Fed. Cas. 1,032: "If the proviso be ambiguous, its explanation may best be obtained by understanding the scope of the enacting clause, and discovering the mischief to be remedied."

Colt, J., in United States v. Newhall, 91 F. 525, 529: "The proviso must be considered in connection with the body of the section and the subject-matter to which it relates." King v. Taunton, St. James, 9 Barn. & C. 831, 836; Ex parte Partington, 6 Q. B. 649, 653; People v. Morrill, 26 Cal. 336, 355; Lanning v. Lanning, 17 N. J. Eq. 228, 233; In re Webb, 24 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 247; Ditto v. Geoghegan, 58 Ky. 169; Treas. of Vermont v. Clark, 19 Vt. 129; State v. Daniell, 17 Wash. 111, 115, 49 P. 243; Wolf v. Bauereis, 8 Law. Rep. Ann. 680, 19 A. 1045.

19. Mr. Justice Field, in Georgia R. & Bkg. Co. v. Smith, 128 U. S. 174, 32 Law. Ed. 377: "The general purpose of a proviso, as is well known, is to except the clause covered by it from the general provisions of the statute, or from some provision of it, or to qualify the operation of the statute in some particular. But it is often used in other senses. It is a common practice in legislative proceedings, on the consideration of bills, for parties desirous of securing amendments to them, to precede their proposed amendments with the term 'provided,' so as to declare that, notwithstanding existing provisions, the one thus expressed is to prevail, thus having no greater signification than would be attached to the conjunction 'but' or 'and' in the same place, and simply serving to separate or distinguish the different paragraphs or sentences."

Cartwright, C. J., In re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 80, 54 N. E. 646: "This proviso, instead of excepting something from the enactment or

So it is held, in general, not to be the proper office of a proviso to confer a power or right or otherwise add to the provisions of the enacting clause, by implication.[20] But a proviso may be resorted to to explain ambiguity in the enacting clause;[21] and, under the maxim exceptio probat regulam, implications which strengthen the enacting clause or give the general provisions of an act a comprehensive meaning that will embrace things of the same class with that excepted, may arise from exceptions and provisos;[22] although the common legislative practice of inserting such provisions from abundant caution, to prevent possible misinterpretation, and without intent to except anything from the act, has led to a guarded application of the principle by the courts.[23] qualifying it in some way, attempts to enlarge the enactment to which it is appended and is designed to operate as a substantive enactment itself. That is not the legitimate office of a proviso. There is authority, however, for holding that the intention of the legislature, if plainly expressed, is to have the force of law, although in the form of a proviso, and we will treat this proviso as an enactment in itself." Also United States v. Babbit, 1 Black. [U. S.] 55, 17 Law. Ed. 94; Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Detroit [C. C. A.] 64 F. 628, 641; Carroll v. State, 58 Ala. 396; Cumberland v. Magruder, 34 Md. 381; Smalley v. Ashland Brown Stone Co., 114 Mich. 104, 107, 72 N. W. 29; Wheeler v. Plattsmouth, 7 Neb. 270, 278; State v. Minton, 23 N. J. Law, 529. But see Ihmsen v. Monongahela Co., 32 Pa. 153, 157; Commonwealth v. Hough, 22 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 440, 443; Collner's Estate, 22 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 198; Portuonda's Estate, 20 Pa. Co. Ct. R. 209.

20. Lord Watson in West Derby Union v. Metropolitan Life Assur. Soc., 66 Law J. Ch. 726, A. C. 647, 77 Law T. 284, 61 J. P. 820: "If the language of the enacting part of the statute does not contain the provisions which are said to occur in it, these provisions cannot be imported by implication from a proviso." Also Mullins v. Surrey, L. R. 5 Q. B. Div. 173; People v. Morrill, 26 Cal. 336, 354, 355; Wilkins v. Abell, 26 Colo. 462, 58 P. 612; Clark's Appeal, 58 Conn. 207, 20 A. 456; Boon v. Juliet, 1 Scam. [Ill.] 258; Swigart v. People, 154 Ill. 284, 297, 40 N. E. 432; Rice v. Keokuk, 15 Iowa, 579, 583. But see State v. Eskridge, 1 Swan. [Tenn.] 413.

21. Williar v. Loan & Annuity Ass'n, 45 Md. 546, 556; Eayre v. Earl, 8 N. J. Law, 359; West Derby Union v. Metropolitan Life Assur. Soc., 66 Law J. Ch. 726, A. C. 647, 77 Law T. 284, 61 J. P. 820. And a proviso may be read for this purpose, even though it has been held to be unconstitutional (Philadelphia v. Barber, 160 Pa. 123, 28 A. 644; General Assembly v. Gratz, 139 Pa. 497, 20 A. 1041; Commonwealth v. Potts, 79 Pa. 164), or has been repealed (Bank for Savings v. Collector, 3 Wall. [U. S.] 495, 18 Law. Ed. 207).

22. Mr. Chief Justice Marshall in Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. [U. S.] 191, 6 Law. Ed. 23: "It is a rule of construction acknowledged by all, that the exceptions from a power mark its extent; for it would be absurd, as well as useless, to except from a granted power, that which was not granted —that which the words of the grant could not comprehend." In Brown v. Maryland, 12 Wheat. [U. S.] 438, 6 Law. Ed. 678, applying this rule to the provision in the constitution that "no state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any imposts, or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws," the Chief Justice said, "This exception in favor of duties for the support of inspection laws goes far in proving that the framers of the constitution classed taxes of a similar character with those imposed for the purpose of inspection, with duties on imports and exports, and supposed them to be prohibited."

Story, J., in Adams v. Bancroft, 3 Sumn. 384, 1 Fed. Cas. 84: "If the legislature had intended to except silk gloves, the exception ought to have been found in the paragraph. 'Sewing silk' is excepted; and in such case the exception of one thing is equivalent to an affirmation of the exclusion (inclusion) of all other manufactures of silk in the same paragraph. Exceptio probat regulam de rebus non exceptis." Also Viner's Ab., "Grants," H. 13, p. 61; "Statutes," E, 8, 6; Taylor v. Corporation of Oldham, L. R. 4 Ch. Div. 395, 412, 25 Wkly. Rep. 178; Bank for Savings v. Collector, 3 Wall. [U. S.] 495, 18 Law. Ed. 207; Arnold v. U. S., 147 U. S. 494, 499, 37 Law. Ed. 253; Briggs v. French, 2 Sumn. 251, 257, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 117, 119; Schriefer v. Wood, 5 Blatch. 215, 218, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 737; Haskell v. Burlington, 30 Iowa, 232; Tinkham v. Tapscott, 17 N. Y. 141, 152; Williar v. Loan & Annuity Ass'n, 45 Md. 546; Oliver's Appeal, 101 Pa. 299.

23. Lord Campbell in Gurly v. Gurly, 8 Clark & F. 743, 764: "Now there can be no doubt that, logically speaking, the exception ought to be of that which would otherwise be included in the category from which it is excepted; but there are a great many examples to the contrary; and there is one which will probably strike everyone, in the second book of Paradise Lost: 'God and His Son excepted, created beings.' It is not supposed that God and His Son were part of the created beings; it merely means that They were not included in the description of created beings. This is a common mode of expression, both in a legal instrument and in common parlance; and it is used not to exclude that which would otherwise be included in that from which it is supposed to be excepted, but to intimate that it is not included."

Denio, J., in Tinkham v. Tapscott, 17 N. Y. 141, 152: "It is matter of common experience that savings and exceptions are often introduced from abundant and even excessive caution, and it would sometimes prevent the intention of the author of the writing if

It is often important and difficult to ascertain how far the proviso extends over and qualifies preceding or following matter in the enactment. The effect of the proviso, where nothing to the contrary appears, is to be confined to that which precedes it, and is most frequently restricted to the distinct portion of the act in which it is incorporated, as, the clause, section, or paragraph.[24] But if the legislative intent, as revealed by the express terms of the proviso, or by the sense and reason of the enactment as a whole, require a broader application, that must be given it, and may make the operation of the proviso extend to other parts of the same act and even to other statutes.[25]

A very ancient rule in England makes a saving clause which is repugnant to the purview of the act void.[26] But it was held there in a case arising in 1731 that a proviso repugnant to the enacting clause repeals it, as embodying the last intention of the lawmakers.[27] This distinction between saving clauses and provisos has every other thing of the same general nature as that excepted should be regarded as embraced in the general words. * * * The correct statement of this rule of construction is, that where it would be equivocal upon the general language whether a particular thing was embraced, the exception of another thing of a similar kind will show that the first was intended to be included."

Lurton, J., in Baggaley v. P. & L. S. Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 90 F. 636, 638: "The rule is, therefore, not one of universal obligation, and must yield to the cardinal rule which requires a court to give effect to the general intent if that can be discovered within the four corners of the act. If such general intention would be defeated by construing the act as embracing everything of the same general description as those particularly excepted therefrom, an arbitrary application of the rule is not admissible." Viner's Ab. "Statutes," E. 8, 10. Mullins v. Surrey, L. R. 5 Q. B. Div. 170, 173-4; Duncan v. Dixon, L. R. 44 Ch. Div. 211, 215.

24. Rawls v. Doe, 23 Ala. 240, 248; Pearce v. Bank of Mobile, 33 Ala. 693, 702; Coxe v. Davis, 17 Ala. 714; Spring v. Collector of Olney, 78 Ill. 101; De Graff v. Went, 164 Ill. 485, 45 N. E. 1075; Gaither v. Wilson, 164 Ill. 544, 548, 46 N. E. 58; Fleming v. Potter, 14 Ind. 486, 490; Detroit v. Plank Road Co., 12 Mich. 333; School District v. Coleman, 39 Neb. 391, 58 N. W. 146; Lanning v. Lanning, 17 N. J. Eq. 228, 233; Fire Dept. v. Bacon, 3 Keyes [N. Y.] 402, 2 Abb. Dec. 127; In re Webb, 24 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 247; Leader Print. Co. v. Territory, 6 Okl. 302, 50 P. 1001; County of Lehigh v. Meyer, 102 Pa. 479; Bull v. Kirk, 37 S. C. 395, 16 S. E. 151; Callaway v. Harding, 23 Grat. [Va.] 542; Sullivan v. Bailey [Mich.] 83 N. W. 996, 7 Det. Leg. N. 419; In re Blankensteyn, 116 F. 776; Ex parte Partington, 6 Q. B. 649, 653.

25. Holroyd, J., in King v. Newark-upon-Trent, 3 Barn. & C. 59, 71: "Whether a proviso in the whole or in part relates to, and qualifies, restrains, or operates upon the immediately preceding provisions only of the statute, or whether it must be taken to extend in the whole or in part to all the preceding matters contained in the statute, must depend, I think, upon its words and import, and not upon the divisions into sections that may be made, for convenience of reference in the printed copies of the statute." This case arose at a time when statutes were not divided into sections upon the Parliament roll. Wilberforce Stat. L., p. 303. King v. Threlkeld, 4 Barn. & Ad. 229.

Clopton, J., in Wartensleben v. Haithcock, 80 Ala. 565: "When from the context, and a comparison of all the provisions relating to the same subject-matter, it is manifest that the object and intent were to give the proviso a scope extending beyond the section, and effect beyond the phrase immediately preceding, it will be construed as restraining or qualifying preceding sections relating to the subject-matter of the proviso, or as tantamount to an enactment in a separate section, without regard to its position and connection."

In Cumberland v. Magruder, 34 Md. 381, a proviso in a city charter, requiring the question of borrowing sums above a certain amount to be submitted to the voters of the city, was held to apply to a subsequent act empowering the city authorities to issue bonds for the purpose of building a bridge. Commenting upon the proviso the court said: "Its language is too plain to be misunderstood, too imperative to be disregarded, and the result it seeks to attain too salutary and important to be defeated by any nice construction founded on the position in which it is placed, the connection in which it is found, or the technical word by which it is prefaced. In respect to position and connection it is equally potent as if enacted in a separate section." U. S. v. Babbit, 1 Black [U. S.] 55, 17 Law. Ed. 94; Marine v. Packham [C. C. A.] 52 F. 579; Milne v. U. S., 115 F. 410; Friedman Bros. v. Sullivan, 48 Ark. 213, 2 S. W. 785; Mazzia v. State, 51 Ark. 177, 10 S. W. 257; In re Mechanics' & Farmers' Bank, 31 Conn. 63, 73; Considine v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 165 Mass. 462, 43 N. E. 201; Wheeler v. Plattsmouth, 7 Neb. 270, 278; Bank v. The Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 3 S. E. 363; Collom's Appeal, 12 Wkly. Notes Cas. [Pa.] 309.

26. Alton Wood's Case, 1 Co. 47a; Walsingham's Case, Plow. 565; Ward v. Cecil, 2 Vern. 711; Riddle v. White, 4 Gwill. 1387, 1394-5; Yarmouth v. Simmons, L. R. 10 Ch. Div. 518; Thornby v. Fleetwood, 10 Mod. 115; 1 Bl. Comm. 89. Vin. Abr., "Statutes," E 8, pl. 5, 9. Bac. Abr., "Statute," I, 2.

Where there is an exception coextensive with and therefore repugnant to the enactment, the enactment must prevail. The rule of law, that an exception must be of part been applied or recognized in numerous adjudged cases in the United States, and is probably supported by the weight of authority.[28] Instances are not wanting, however, in which the analogy to the saving clause, and preference for the older rule, have led the courts to declare repugnant provisos void.[29] Courts seek to avoid a construction that will make the proviso saving, or exception repugnant to the act.[30] Such clauses must necessarily, of course, be repugnant to the extent of the exception or limitation they create, but this is not repugnancy within the rule, unless it be coextensive with the act, rendering it "inconsistent and destructive of itself."[31] The distinction between saving clauses and provisos alluded to has been criticized as without reasonable basis,[32] and the true principle maintained to be that "the sound interpretation and meaning of the statute, on a view of the enacting clause, saving clause, and proviso, taken and construed together, is to prevail."[33]

The effect of an invalid proviso or exception on the remainder of the act is governed by the general rule relating to partial invalidity, that if the remainder of the act is severable and there is no such connection that it cannot be believed that the legislature would have passed one without the other, it will be allowed to stand.[34]

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.[71]

Stay pending proceedings for review is elsewhere treated.[72]

Pendency of another suit for the same relief[73] or involving the same issues[74] of the thing only and not of all, applies as well to acts of parliament as to deeds. Clelland v. Ker, 6 Ir. Eq. R. 35, afd. 1 Dr. 227.

27. Attorney General v. Governor & Co. of Chelsea Water Works, Fitz. 195. Bac. Abr., Statute, I, 2.

28. Farmers' Bank v. Hale, 59 N. Y. 53, 59; Waffle v. Goble, 53 Barb. [N. Y.] 517, 522; State v. Jersey City, 42 N. J. Law, 101; Townsend v. Brown, 24 N. J. Law, 80; State v. Liedtke, 9 Neb. 490, 496, 4 N. W. 75; Hill v. Commissioners, 22 Ga. 203; Macon R. R. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1, 19 (Contra, 33 Ga. 296, 11 S. E. 442); Tatum v. Tamaroa, 14 F. 103; Graves v. State, 6 Tex. App. 228; White v. Nashville & N. W. R. Co., 7 Heisk. [Tenn.] 518, 534.

As to effect of repugnant provisos in charters of corporations, see Dugan v. Bridge Co., 27 Pa. 303; Mason v. Boom Co., 3 Wall. Jr., 20 Leg. Int. 12, 16 Fed. Cas. 1012.

29. In re Courts of Lancaster, 4 Clark [Pa.] 315, 322; Jackson v. Moye, 33 Ga. 296, 302 (Contra, 22 Ga. 203, 85 Ga. 1, 19); Carpenter v. Rodgers, 1 Mont. 90; State v. Daniell, 17 Wash. 111, 116, 49 P. 243; Hull v. Johnson, 63 Pa. 455, 456; Sams v. King, 18 Fla. 557.

In Dugan v. Bridge Co., 27 Pa. 303, it was held that while a proviso or saving clause which is repugnant to the purview is not to have effect, this principle does not apply where such proviso is part of an act constituting a private corporation, which in such case is taken to be an essential condition of the compact between the public and the corporation. Note, also, Mason v. Boom Co., 3 Wall. Jr. 252, 20 Leg. Int. 12, 16 Fed. Cas. 1012.

30. State v. Bailey, 37 Ohio St. 98, 103: "The terms of the proviso must be in such direct conflict with the other provisions of the act that both cannot stand."

State v. Jersey City, 42 N. J. Law, 97: "The repugnancy to justify the court in striking the conflicting exception from the act should, after every reasonable effort, by construction and accommodation to retain it, and give it some force in the enactment, remain totally irreconcilable with the enacting clause." Dollar Sav. Bank v. U. S., 19 Wall. [U. S.] 227, 22 Law. Ed. 80; Follmer's Appeal, 87 Pa. 133, 137; Renner v. Bennet, 21 Ohio St. 431, 445; Pond v. Maddox, 38 Cal. 572; State v. Liedtke, 9 Neb. 490, 497, 4 N. W. 75.

31. 1 Kent, Comm. 462. Savings Inst. v. Makin, 23 Me. 360, 369; Macon R. Co. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1, 18, 11 S. E. 442; People v. Board of Sup'rs, 185 Ill. 288, 298, 56 N. E. 1044; Ex parte Smith, 40 Cal. 419.

32. 1 Kent, Comm. 463. Bish. Written Laws, § 65. State v. Bailey, 37 Ohio St. 98, 102-3; In re Courts of Lancaster, 4 Clark [Pa.] 315, 323; State v. Liedtke, 9 Neb. 490, 496, 4 N. W. 75.

33. 1 Kent, Comm. 463, note b. Bish. Written Laws. § 65. Hardcastle on Stat. L. (London, 1901), p. 227-8. Follmer's Appeal, 87 Pa. 133.

34. Bennett v. State [S. D.] 93 N. W. 643.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1736.

72. See Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 200.

73. Action by stockholders for accounting should have been deferred until determination of suit by director under the statute for the same relief. Loewenstein v. Diamond Soda Water Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 383, 88 N. Y. S. 313.

74. Where the decision in one action will determine the right set up in another action, and the judgment on one trial will dispose of the controversies in all the actions, a case for a stay is presented. But held that first action would not settle all issues which would be raised in others. Jones v. Leopold, 95 App. Div. 404, 88 N. Y. S. 568. Where is ground for a stay. But a court has no authority to stay proceedings in one case until the determination of another pending case, where the party against whom a stay is sought is neither a party nor privy to such other action, and would not be bound by an adjudication therein.[75] Where a finding as to the truth of an essential allegation of a cross bill is necessarily involved in a decision of the issues under the original bill, proceedings under the cross bill are properly stayed until the issues under the original bill have been determined.[76] A judge may properly refuse to proceed with a chancery case while an action at law involving the same issues between the same parties is pending on writ of error in the appellate court.[77]

Where defendants plead and prove pendency of a suit to set aside the judgment on which plaintiff's action is based, the proceedings should be stayed until the determination of such suit.[78] The pendency of a suit in equity between alleged owners involving the title to land is no ground for a stay of proceedings to condemn the land for a railroad right of way.[79] Proceedings on junior attachments against a garnishee should be stayed until proceedings on senior attachments against the same garnishee are determined, unless the amount garnished is sufficient to satisfy both sets of attachments.[80] The Missouri statute providing for trial of a plea in abatement in an attachment suit does not require a stay of proceedings on the merits, on denial of the plea, until defendant has filed his bill of exceptions.[81] A continuance of an accounting by an executrix is properly refused, pending an action in a Federal court in another state involving title to land of the testator, when the duration and outcome of such litigation is uncertain, and the debts of creditors are increasing.[82]

The pendency in a state court of a prior action to determine the same issues pending in a subsequent action in the Federal court between the same parties presents no bar and furnishes no ground for the abatement of the later action.[83] But a state court having obtained jurisdiction of such a proceeding, a Federal court will stay proceedings until the state court has determined the matter.[84] When the state court secures by proper process the custody or dominion of specific property, which it is one of the objects of the suit in the Federal court to subject to its judgment or decree, the latter action should not be dismissed; but it should proceed as far as may be without creating a conflict concerning the possession of the property, and then be stayed until the proceedings in the state court have been concluded, or ample time for their determination has elapsed.[85]

Since the pendency of a suit between the same parties and for the same cause defendants commenced a suit on a claim growing out of the same subject-matter, which they might have used as a counterclaim in plaintiff's suit, the suit by defendants will not be stayed pending determination of plaintiff's claim, the issues not being necessarily the same. Id. Pendency of another action as abatement, see Abatement and Revival, 3 Curr. L. 1.

75. Motion to stay proceedings in action for pollution of stream refused, though other action pending by another owner against same defendants. Sammons v. Parkhurst, 93 N. Y. S. 1063.

76. Henderson v. Kibbie, 211 Ill. 556, 71 N. E. 1091.

77. Schmid v. Benzie Circuit Judge [Mich.] 101 N. W. 620.

78. Avocato v. Dell' Ara [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 443.

79. Code 1887, §§ 1081, 1084. Richmond & P. Elec. R. Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 512.

80. Prichard & Co. v. Critchlow [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 453.

81. Construing Rev. St. 1899, § 407. American Nat. Bank v. Thornburrow [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 771.

82. Phillips v. Phillips' Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 145, 80 S. W. 826.

83. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650; Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Morris [C. C. A.] 132 F. 945.

84. Proceeding in Federal court for an accounting by a trustee under a will stayed until a state court should determine whether the trust had determined and the trustee had been properly appointed. Security Trust & Safe Deposit Co. v. Alexander's Ex'rs, 134 F. 767.

85. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650; Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Morris [C. C. A.] 132 F. 945.

of action is no bar to a subsequent suit in a sister state, the remedy of a defendant is to apply to the court in which the subsequent suit is brought to stay proceedings, or to refuse final determination until the suit first instituted is determined.[86] But this remedy is not available where the parties to the two suits are not the same.[87] Where proceedings in two states involve the construction of a statute on the same point, proceedings in one may properly be stayed until the court of the other has construed its own statute.[88]

A bankrupt is entitled to a stay of a pending suit on a claim from which a discharge in bankruptcy would be a release, pending bankruptcy proceedings.[89] But this rule does not apply to a suit based on the alleged fraud of the bankrupt, even though plaintiff waives the tort and sues on implied contract, since such a discharge would not operate as a release of such a claim.[90] A tenant being adjudicated a bankrupt after distress by the landlord, the property comes under the control of the bankruptcy court, which will stay the proceedings in distress.[91] Proceedings having as their object the infliction of a penalty or a punishment for nonpayment of a debt dischargeable in bankruptcy will be stayed pending bankruptcy proceedings.[92]

Defendants are entitled to a stay until the costs adjudged against plaintiffs in a former proceeding have been paid.[93] Proceedings being stayed for failure of plaintiffs to pay costs to defendants on another motion, failure to pay costs does not deprive the court of jurisdiction to issue an order for the examination of a witness, but merely renders proceedings irregular.[94] Stay of proceedings during the pendency of a rule for security for costs expires when the rule for security is satisfied, and the effect of the rule to plead is then restored.[95] Where one action is legal and the other equitable, the rule to stay proceedings in the latter until the costs of the former are paid will not be applied.[96]

A court having ordered a reduction of a verdict, an order staying proceedings but permitting an appeal from the order reducing the verdict is proper.[97]

STEAM.

In supervising and regulating the generation of steam, laws requiring licenses to operate "steam boilers and steam machinery of any kind" will not be applied to operators of private plants exempt by another act from inspection.[98] The duty of an employer[99] of servants in and about the operation of steam plants is to provide reasonably safe boilers and reasonably careful inspection of them.[100] Negli-

86, 87. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Milling & Export Co., 135 F. 144.

88. Attachments being sued out in Pennsylvania and Virginia by different plaintiffs but against the same defendant, and served on the same garnishee, and the question of priority of the attachments under the Pennsylvania statute having arisen in both suits, proceedings in Virginia should be stayed until the question of priority has been determined by the Pennsylvania courts. Prichard & Co. v. Critchlow [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 453.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1736. And see title Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434.

90. Mackel v. Rochester, 135 F. 904.

91. In re Lines, 133 F. 803.

92. Proceedings to remove a fireman from the department for failure to pay a bill stayed pending determination of his discharge in bankruptcy, the debt being provable in bankruptcy. In re Hicks, 133 F. 739.

93. In absence of showing authorizing discretionary refusal of such stay. Lederer v. Krausz, 90 N. Y. S. 402.

94. Irregularity cured by payment of costs before return day of motion. Jacobs v. Mexican Sugar Refining Co., 45 Misc. 56, 90 N. Y. S. 824.

95. American Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Smith Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 176.

96. Johnson v. Amberson, 140 Ala. 342, 37 So. 273.

97. Cullen v. Uptegrove & Bro., 91 N. Y. S. 511.

98. Boiler in residence and business building not within act. State v. Justus [Minn.] 102 N. W. 452.

99. See Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533.

100. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett, 210 Ill. 140, 71 N. E. 435. See. also, Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 546 et seq.

gence[101] and contributory negligence[102] are as in other cases questions of fact. One may be liable if he allows steam to escape or whistles to be blown so that injury results, as where done near highways, whereby horses are frightened.[103]

STENOGRAPHERS.

A reporter appointed by the court, though only for a single case, is a public officer, and a contract to pay him more than his legal compensation is void.[1] He is not an officer within the meaning of a constitutional provision that the duration of offices not fixed by the constitution shall not exceed two years.[2] A constitutional provision allowing city charters to provide for police courts and attaches of the judges thereof authorizes a charter provision for the appointment of a reporter on salary.[3] A stenographer in the superior court of Iowa is entitled to compensation for every day at which he is required to attend at court, though not actually engaged in reporting proceedings.[4] Where the statute provides that he shall receive salary for each "week or part of a week" in which court shall be held, he is entitled to a week's salary where he attended at a term which was adjourned without further proceedings.[5] In Texas the stenographer of a district composed of more than one county is not entitled to receive his fees out of the general fund of any county.[6] Where the statute requires stenographers' fees in criminal cases to be paid by the county, it is immaterial that the stenographer also received compensation from private persons.[7] On appeal from an allowance of stenographer's fees for transcript in a criminal case, it will be presumed to sustain an order for such transcript that the prosecuting attorney requested it.[8] In Kentucky notice to the fiscal court of allowance by the circuit court of a claim for stenographers' services is not required,[9] and if it were, actual notice and hearing on an application to set aside the allowance suffices.[10] In Iowa there is no time fixed within which the translation of the notes in law actions should be filed.[11] A statute requiring the reporter to furnish a transcript within such time as the judge may direct does not require him to furnish it unless his fees are paid,[12] and the judge need not fix the time for filing the transcript until such payment is made.[13] A party who consents to a particular method of certifying the notes and translation thereof is estopped to object.[14] The stenographer may be allowed a page rate per transcript instead of the statutory folio rate if the amount allowed does not exceed what would have been proper under the folio rate.[15] Though it is agreed that the stenographer's compensation shall be taxed as part of the referee's fees, the stenographer cannot recover from the referee who has retained the entire amount taxed without showing that a particular part thereof was paid him for the stenographer.[16]

101, 102. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett, 210 Ill. 140, 71 N. E. 435. It may be shown that engineer and fireman who both perished in boiler explosion were careful men, also that the boiler had been much used and had previously received a severe shock. The rules for inspection and the common practice may be shown. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett, 210 Ill. 140, 71 N. E. 435.

103. See Railroads, 2 Curr. L. 1382; Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593; 2 Curr. L. 194, n. 17. Compare Gas, 3 Curr. L. 1559.

1. Dull v. Mammoth Min. Co. [Utah] 79 P. 1050.

2. Robertson v. Ellis County [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1097.

3. Accordingly such a charter provision superseded Pen. Code, § 869, providing for appointment of reporter to take preliminary examinations. Elder v. McDougald, 145 Cal. 740, 79 P. 429.

4. Ferguson v. Pottawattamie County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 733.

5. Wood v. Chickasaw County [Miss.] 37 So. 642.

6. Robertson v. Ellis County [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1097.

7, 8, 9, 10. Polsgrove v. Walker, 26 Ky. L. R. 938, 82 S. W. 979.

11. Hofacre v. Monticello [Iowa] 103 N. W. 488.

12, 13. Richards v. Superior Court of San Francisco, 145 Cal. 38, 78 P. 244.

14. Hofacre v. Monticello [Iowa] 103 N. W. 488.

15. Polsgrove v. Walker, 26 Ky. L. R. 938, 82 S. W. 979.

16. Poucher v. Faber, 90 N. Y. S. 385. Compare, however, the ruling on a subsequent appeal, Id., 92 N. Y. S. 870.

STIPULATIONS.[17]

Stipulations by parties or their attorneys, entered into for the government of their conduct or control of their rights, in the trial of a cause, are generally enforced by the courts, unless they appear to be unreasonable, or in contravention of good morals or of sound public policy.[18] Hence proper and valid stipulations preclude action by the parties inconsistent with the terms of their agreement.[19] Thus a stipulation that only certain issues are to be tried[20] precludes the introduction of evidence irrelevant to such issues,[21] and a stipulation permitting the court to decide a case on the pleadings only, restricts the court to a consideration of the pleadings.[22] A party who has stipulated that certain allegations of a complaint are true cannot thereafter set up claims inconsistent with such allegations.[23] Where the record does not contain the evidence but the parties agree that the evidence warranted each instruction given, a judgment cannot be disturbed if a state of facts could exist, which would warrant an instruction complained of.[24] But a stipulation made by an attorney without authority may be repudiated by the client.[25] An attorney for plaintiff has authority to stipulate that defendant shall have the same time to answer or demur as plaintiff has in which to serve the complaint, as a condition of an extension of the time in which to serve the complaint.[26]

The court will not extend an agreement beyond the limits set by the parties or the law.[27] A stipulation will not be construed as a release of errors and waiver of a right of appeal, unless that intent is manifested by express words or by strongest implication.[28] A stipulation which authorizes action contrary to law is invalid and unenforceable.[29] In an action for trespass to land, the parties cannot by stipulation refer the question of the amount of damages, without the consent of the court[30] A stipulation extending the time within which exceptions may be taken

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1740.

18. Stipulation that only issue in action on accident insurance policy should be cause of death enforced. Continental Casualty Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824. Parties are bound by the acts of their attorneys of record in making agreements and admissions in the course of judicial proceedings and courts recognize and enforce such agreements. Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 946.

19. Amendment to answer properly disallowed because too late according to terms of an agreement relative to opening of a default. Insurance Co. of North America v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972.

20. An agreement, in a suit to quiet title to premises in possession of a tenant, to allow payment of rent to be suspended during the suit, to be finally paid to the prevailing party, amounts to a stipulation that the question of actual possession shall be treated as immaterial. Moran & Co. v. Palmer, 36 Wash. 684, 79 P. 476. A stipulation that if a city has the right to construct and own a waterworks system, it contemplates providing for the cost in the manner provided by law, narrows a controversy to the right of the city to construct and maintain the plant, and renders immaterial the question of the right to impose a tax, or the invalidity of any method of acquiring such plant. Helena Waterworks Co. v. Helena, 25 S. Ct. 40.

21. As where parties agreed there was only one issue. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011.

22. Blackgrove v. Flaherty, 92 N. Y. S. 257.

23. Driscoll v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 146, 88 N. Y. S. 745.

24. Forsee v. Hurd [Mo.] 84 S. W. 872.

25. Where, in dismissing an action by stipulation, an attorney does not assume to act by virtue of the general authority conferred on him by his employment, but proceeds upon the mistaken assumption that express authority had been conferred on him, his client is not necessarily bound thereby, but may within a reasonable time repudiate the stipulation and have the cause reinstated. Schaefer v. Schoenborn [Minn.] 103 N. W. 501.

26. Morris v. Press Pub. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 673.

27. A technical trespass to land only being admitted, only nominal damages could be allowed. Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 946.

28. Stipulation leaving money in hands of clerk until final determination of its ownership held not a waiver of right to appeal. Ryan v. Donley [Neb.] 96 N. W. 234.

29. Stipulation providing for reasonable compensation to referee, without reference to statutory compensation, is unenforceable because it does not fix the rate of compensation as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 3296. New York Mut. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 710.

30. Construing Code 1883, §§ 398, 416, 420. Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 946.

to instructions is binding to the extent of extending the time to the entry of judgment, but cannot make effective an exception taken after judgment has been entered.[31]

A stipulation or agreed statement of facts constitutes neither the pleadings nor the issues, but only the proof upon which a cause is tried by the court.[32] To constitute such a stipulation, there must be an actual agreement as to the facts.[33] A stipulation which does not purport to be a complete statement, and as to the effect of which the parties differ widely, will be disregarded.[34] Where such stipulation does not contain evidentiary facts, the statement of ultimate facts therein is binding.[35] Parties cannot prove claims inconsistent with the facts as agreed upon.[36] A stipulation that certain facts will be admitted on trial, in the absence of a provision limiting its effect to a single trial, is available to either party in a subsequent suit involving substantially the same issues.[37] A stipulation that an agreed statement of facts shall constitute the evidence in the trial of the cause does not prevent the introduction of further evidence on a second trial.[38] A stipulation in respect to evidence should receive a fair and reasonable construction, so as to carry into effect the apparent intention of the parties, and promote a fair trial on the merits.[39] A stipulation of facts under which an action is submitted for decision, which recites that a judgment was duly entered, admits performance of jurisdictional acts necessary to sustain the judgment;[40] and a recital that a tax sale was on notice duly given warrants a finding that notice was given as required by law.[41] A stipulation that a stenographer would, if present, state that his notes were incomplete, but correct as to the evidence contained therein, constitutes a waiver of the production and proof of the notes to authorize their use as evidence, but does not waive an objection to the relevancy of the contents of the notes.[42] An agreement of parties that if there was evidence sufficient to go to the jury on the issue of defendants' alleged negligence, judgment should be for plaintiff in a certain amount, otherwise for defendants, has substantially the same effect as a denial of a motion by defendants for a directed verdict, subject to exception.[43] The constructions placed upon particular statements of facts are given in the note.[44]

Where the statute provides the manner of proving a stipulation, evidence outside the terms of the statute is incompetent.[45] In some states an agreement of

31. Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126.

32. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53.

33. A stipulation being an agreement by an attorney entered into to bind his clients so far as he may do so (Code Civ. Proc. § 283), the fact that a notice of appeal, and the acknowledgment of service of the notice recited that a judgment was made and entered on a certain date, did not amount to a stipulation that judgment was in fact entered on such date. In re More's Estate, 143 Cal. 493, 77 P. 407.

34. Barnard v. Lawyers' Title Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 41.

35. Stipulation that escape of immigrants who were being deported did not occur through negligence of the officers of the steamship held binding on government. Hackfeld & Co. v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 456.

36. A stipulation in trespass to try title, that defendant was common source of title and no other proof of common source should be required, prevents plaintiff's showing that the land was conveyed to defendant for the purpose of transferring to plaintiff's husband, under whom plaintiff claims. Pinkston v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1014.

37. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

38. Hence the cause should be remanded when judgment was reversed on appeal; the appellate court should not render judgment. Imhoff v. Whittle [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 243.

39. Chicago Live Stock Commission Co. v. Fix [Okl.] 78 P. 316.

40, 41. Purcell v. Farm Land Co. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 700.

42. Beavers v. Bowen, 26 Ky. L. R. 291, 80 S. W. 1165.

43. Flint v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 938.

44. Stipulation construed as admission that defense in prior suit was on certain ground. Rankin v. Big Rapids [C. C. A.] 133 F. 670. A stipulation that certain streets within the boundaries of plaintiff's mining claim were used as public highways at the time the claim was located, and had ever since been so used, construed as an admission of defendant's claim to the same effect. Murray v. Butte [Mont.] 77 P. 527.

counsel in reference to pending litigation must be in writing,[46] oral stipulations being unenforceable.[47] An oral understanding of parties, with the consent of the court, that the record should show the filing of motions for a new trial within the proper time and the overruling of the same, cannot supply a record of such facts.[48]

A court may relieve a party from a stipulation thoughtlessly or improvidently made by his attorney,[49] but such action is discretionary and will not be taken except upon cause shown.[50]

45. Pol. Code (S. D.) 1903, § 699, subd. 2, requires the statement of the attorney himself, his written agreement, signed and filed with the clerk, or an entry thereof on the record. Stipulation held not proved. Gibson v. Allen [S. D.] 100 N. W. 1096. Code Iowa, § 319, requires the statement of the attorney himself, his written agreement, signed and filed with the clerk, or any entry thereof on the records. Under this statute an affidavit by one attorney that the other agreed to trial in a certain district is incompetent. Baily v. Birkhofer, 123 Iowa, 59, 98 N. W. 594.

46. Agreement between regular counsel for a municipality and attorneys for plaintiffs that a structure on plaintiff's premises would not be destroyed until after a certain suit, made prior to commencement of suit against the municipality for destruction of the structure, was not an agreement having reference to pending litigation, and hence not required to be in writing. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49. Under Rule 11, requiring stipulations to be in writing and subscribed, a stipulation as to the time of trial cannot be proved by one of the attorneys. Schlesinger v. Keene, 88 N. Y. S. 1042. Oral consent in open court to trial at another place in the county than at the court house is not a compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 37, authorizing such a stipulation in writing. Armstrong v. Loveland, 90 N. Y. S. 711.

47. Oral stipulations to admit certain signatures in evidence. Sudworth v. Morton [Mich.] 100 N. W. 769.

48. Griffin v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 111.

49. Morris v. Press Pub. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 673. Defendant relieved from stipulation, on payment of costs and reasonable counsel fee to plaintiff, where admission therein was made by attorney inadvertently and without client's consent. Calvet-Rogniat v. Mercantile Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 241.

50. Relief from stipulation extending time to answer denied, no fraud, collusion, or change of circumstances being shown. Morris v. Press Pub. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 673. A motion to vacate a stipulation extending time to answer is properly denied where there is no proof that the stipulation was procured by misreprosentation, or that plaintiff's interest has been prejudiced. Lee v. Winans, 90 N. Y. S. 960. Stipulation held to fairly state the facts; hence refusal to set it aside was proper, no prejudice resulting from its being hastily signed being shown. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53.

NOTE. When stipulations will be set aside in equity: There is a difference of opinion in regard to the effect of stipulations. It is held in some jurisdictions that stipulations or engagements made in open court touching the subject of the suit are contracts which the court is bound to enforce. Banks v. American Tract Soc., 4 Sandf. Ch. [N. Y.] 438; Staples v. Parker, 41 Barb. [N. Y.] 650; Meagher v. Gagliardo, 35 Cal. 602; Jewett v. Albany City Bank, Clarke Ch. [N. Y.] 241. In other jurisdictions, such agreements are not treated as binding contracts, to be absolutely enforced, but as mere stipulations, which may be set aside, when such action may be taken without prejudice to either party (Porter v. Holt, 73 Tex. 447, 11 S. W. 494; Hancock v. Winans, 20 Tex. 320; Buck v. Fawcett, 3 P. Wms. 242. See Casey v. Leslie, 12 App. Div. 34, 42 N. Y. S. 362; Barry v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 53 N. Y. 536); and it is held that whether or not a court will sustain or set aside a stipulation rests in the exercise of its sound discretion, whenever the parties can be restored to the same condition they would have been in if the stipulation had not been made (Porter v. Holt, 73 Tex. 447, 11 S. W. 494; Prestwood v. Watson, 111 Ala. 604, 20 So. 600; Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Hintz, 132 Ill. 265, 23 N. E. 1032; Richardson v. Musser, 54 Cal. 196; Barry v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 53 N. Y. 536; Wells v. American Express Co., 49 Wis. 224; Magnolia Metal Co. v. Pound, 60 App. Div. 318, 70 N. Y. S. 230). Where it is held that stipulations have the force of contracts, it is said that they will not be set aside upon any lower grounds than those which would warrant a rescission of other contracts, viz.: fraud, collusion, accident, surprise, or some ground of the same nature, and that the court will not relieve parties from the effects of a stipulation made under a full understanding of the facts existing at the time it was entered into; and that the mere fact that a party, by such a stipulation, has waived defenses which he might otherwise urge, is not sufficient ground for setting it aside. Thompson, Trials, § 194. Bingham v. Winona County Sup'rs, 6 Minn. 136 (Gil. 82); Rogers v. Greenwood, 14 Minn. 33 (Gil. 256); Charles v. Miller, 36 Ala. 141. It is said that, where the agreement involves something more than a mere matter of practice, and affects the substance of the cause of action, or the character of the defense, and it appears that it has been entered into by counsel without a knowledge of the facts, and that its withdrawal will not operate to the prejudice of either party, the motion to set aside the stipulation ceases to be a matter of mere discretion, and should be granted by the court. Porter v. Holt, 73 Tex. 447, 11 S. W. 494; Keens v. Robertson, 46 Neb. 837, 65 N. W. 897; Sullivan v. Eddy, 154 Ill. 199, 40 N. E. 482; Brown v. Cohn, 88 Wis. 627, 60 N. W. 826. It is also said that the agreement should not be set aside at the instance of either party, when the

STOCK AND STOCKHOLDERS; STOCK EXCHANGES; STOPPAGE IN TRANSIT; STORAGE, see latest topical index.

STREET RAILWAYS.

[BY ELLERY H. CLARK.*]

§ 1. The Franchise or License to Operate a Street Railway (1556).
A. Nature of Franchise; How Acquired and Lost (1556).
B. Rights and Duties Under Franchise (1560).
§ 2. Taking Property and the Right of Eminent Domain (1561).
§ 3. Taxes and License Fees (1562).
§ 4. Street Railway Corporations (1563).
§ 5. Location, Construction, Equipment and Operation in General (1563). General Rules of Care in Equipment and Operation (1566).
§ 6. Injuries to Persons Other Than Passengers or Servants (1567).
A. Trespassers and Licensees (1567).
B. Travelers on Highway. Pedestrians Run Over (1567). Negligence of Company (1570). Children Run Over (1571).
C. Accidents to Drivers or Occupants of Wagons. Collisions Between Car and Wagon (1572). Driving On or Near Tracks (1574). Imputed Negligence (1576). Negligence of Company (1576). Frightening Horses (1578).
D. Bicycle Riders; Horseback Riders; Animals Run Over (1579).
§ 7. Damages, Pleading and Practice in Injury Cases (1580).
§ 8. Statutory Crimes (1581).

This topic is limited to the law of street railways, excluding their ordinary character as carriers,[51] corporations,[52] or employers,[53] but including railways which, though not upon streets or strictly urban, are more akin in the character of their public service to street railroads than to ordinary railroads.[54]

§ 1. The franchise or license to operate a street railway. A. Nature of franchise; how acquired and lost.[55]—A contract to operate cars over a public bridge for a time certain is not a franchise.[56] The privilege of constructing and operating a street railway is obtained from the state, legislating in any constitutional manner.[57] Conditions may be imposed on the franchise, which must be at least substantially fulfilled.[58] This power of the state to determine upon what conditions the party invoking such action has obtained an advantage under it, or when its withdrawal will place the opposite party in a worse position than if it had never been made. Porter v. Holt, 73 Tex. 447, 11 S. W. 494; Rogers v. Greenwood, 14 Minn. 333 (Gil. 256); Barry v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York, 53 N. Y. 536. The application for the setting aside of a stipulation should be made without laches, and, where considerable delay has intervened, courts are reluctant to interfere to set aside the stipulation. Milbank v. Jones, 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 259, 17 N. Y. S. 464; Page v. Brewsters, 54 N. H. 184; Continental Ins. Co. v. Delpeuch, 82 Pa. 225. Where an application to set aside a stipulation is granted at the instance of one party, the other party should be restored to the rights he had when such stipulation was entered into. Howe v. Lawrence, 22 N. J. Law, 116; Barry v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 53 N. Y. 536. See, for enforcement of stipulations, People v. Rathbun, 21 Wend [N. Y.] 509; Davies v. Burton, 4 Car. & P. 166; Heming v. English, 6 Car. & P. 542; Casey v. Leslie, 12 App. Div. 34, 42 N. Y. S. 362.—From Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr., § 447.

51. See Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 591.

52. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880.

53. See Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533.

54. Compare Railroads, 4 Curr. L. 1181.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1742.

56. Schinzel v. Best, 45 Misc. 455, 92 N. Y. S. 754.

57. When the constitution forbids the legislature to pass any local act granting any corporation the right to lay railroad tracks, a special act authorizing the reconstruction of the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge and conferring the power to lay tracks is not a violation of the constitution, since this power is conferred on the city and not on a private corporation. In re City of New York, 45 Misc. 184, 91 N. Y. S. 987.

58. Kind or character of construction: The amendments to Rev. St. §§ 3437, 3439, relating to street railway grants, are unconstitutional in that they lack uniform operation throughout the state. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583. Laying single track gave no rights under double track franchise which excluded council to grant to others. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 795, 47 S. E. 839.

Consent of local authorities: Where a statute provides for this it must be obtained. People's Traction Co. v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 57 A. 972. Under construction of a statute, the consent of hamlets or villages held to be a necessary condition to construction of road. Electric St. R. Co. v. North Bend, 70 Ohio St. 46, 70 N. E. 949.

Protection of crossings: A statute provided that street railway companies desiring to cross railroad tracks must operate certain safety devices within 6 months after franchise shall be granted is to a large extent delegated to the municipal or other local authorities,[59] and may be given to any one of several officers or bodies who might otherwise have authority over highways.[60] On a change in the organic existence of a locality, this power usually passes to the new municipality.[61] In Illinois the consent of the county board is expressly required if any public ground outside a city, town or village be taken.[62] The grant must be made in the mode prescribed,[63] but being legislative is not judicially reviewable on questions of expediency.[64] A grant by de facto officers may become binding.[65] Direct grants with a delegation of power to merely impose terms or regulations are not subject to be limited in duration by local authorities.[66] This delegated power must be exercised in a rea-commencing to use the crossing, and made provision as to damages. Held, that the 6 months began to run when the crossing was used and was not postponed until termination of litigation as to damages. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Indianapolis & N. W. Traction Co. [Ind.] 74 N. E. 513. A street railway which in crossing the tracks of a steam railroad makes no attempt to comply with the provisions of a statute relative to the adoption of certain safety devices cannot, in litigation with the railroad, raise the question of a portion of the statute being unconstitutional in requiring the work to be done to the satisfaction of the state auditor. Id.

* Author of "Street Railway Accident Law."

59. A city entitled to grant a street railway franchise had power to limit the grant as to time prior to the passage of a statute providing that no grant should be valid for more than 25 years, though prior to the passage of such statute there was no statute authorizing the city to limit such grants. Cleveland Elec. R. Co. v. Cleveland, 137 F. 111. Interurbans may acquire the right from the local authorities to construct extensions or branches. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583.

60. Where a statute provides that a street railway company may construct and maintain its road under terms agreed on by the company and the township board, state and territorial roads within the territory of the township come under this authority, and a highway commissioner cannot maintain proceedings to disfranchise the company on the ground that the board has usurped his authority. Smith v. Jackson & Battle Creek Traction Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 121.

61. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 795, 47 S. E. 839. The validity of a grant for a street railway route made by county commissioners through unincorporated territory is not affected by the subsequent annexation of such territory to a municipality. Belle v. Glenville & C. Elec. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 461.

62. Hartshorn v. Illinois Val. Traction Co., 210 Ill. 609, 71 N. E. 612.

63. Although, by statute, a city can grant a street railway company a franchise only by ordinance, where such ordinance is passed, subject to a provision that certain points as to location shall be under the control of the city council, the city may, by a mere motion adopted by the council, authorize the company to change the location of a curve in the track. Mannel v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 633. Where the mayor and council of a city granted a franchise to a street railway company by resolution, passed without notice to the owners of property on the streets affected and without prior publication as required by the charter in case of ordinances, it was held that they had no authority to thus legislate by resolution, and that the property owners could maintain a suit in equity to enjoin the laying of tracks. Holst v. Savannah Elec. Co., 131 F. 931. Title of an ordinance being the extension of a certain street railway does not violate Rev. St. § 1694, where provision is made for the repeal of a portion of one ordinance, the revival of a portion of another, and the amendment of a third. Belle v. Glenville & C. Elec. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 461.

64. Where a statute authorized a municipal corporation to grant street railways the right to use the streets within the corporate limits for laying its tracks, and the municipality granted such right by ordinance, it was held that since such ordinance is legislative in character, the court could not properly revise it, at the suit of an abutting owner, on the ground of inexpediency. Lange v. La Crosse & E. R. Co., 118 Wis. 558, 95 N. W. 952. The action of the council of a municipality in granting to street railway company a franchise in a street which crosses a steam railroad at grade is not the subject of judicial review, where it does not appear that in so doing council exceeded its power, or that its action was induced by fraud. Nor would a review be authorized by a showing to the effect that a safer crossing could be made on another street. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583.

65. Where township supervisors stand by and permit a street railway to spend large sums of money in construction, they cannot demand the removal of the railway months afterwards, because consent was given by de facto supervisors. Jordan v. Washington & C. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 564.

66. Where a statute created a street railway company, providing that the terms of operation should be prescribed by the common council of the city in which it was to operate, it was held that this was a grant direct to the company, and not a mere grant to the city to in turn grant a franchise, and that the council had no power to determine the life of the grant. Govin v. Chicago, 132 F. 848.

sonable manner, oppressing neither the railway company[67] nor adjacent property owners.[68] As a check upon the local authorities and to insure the protection of the rights of the public, notice or the consent of a certain proportion of the abutting owners is usually made a condition precedent to the granting of the franchise.[69] Consent must rest on such ownership as the statute contemplates,[70] or on authority from an owner,[71] and must cover the proposed grant.[72] Injunction will lie against construction without consent,[73] but the public alone may complain if no private interest is affected.[74]

67. Where a street railway company had a vested right, under its franchise, to continue its line across a parkway, subject to reasonable regulations as to location of tracks, etc., by the park commissioner, such commissioner has no right to impose the condition that no cars shall be run in trains operated by steam, electricity, or other power, and he may be compelled by mandamus to issue a proper permit. People v. Kennedy, 97 App. Div. 103, 89 N. Y. S. 603.

68. Where a city, over the protest of every abutting owner on a residence street, refuses them a hearing and grants in secret caucus the right to a street railway company to appropriate said street for its tracks to shunt empty cars into the car barn at midnight and out again at dawn, where the company has a suitable track only a block away, such action is unreasonable and oppressive, and should be enjoined by a court of equity. Holst v. Savannah Elec. Co., 131 F. 931.

69. Council obtains jurisdiction to grant a street railway franchise only by the production of consents from more than one-half the frontage. Day v. Forest City R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 393. A departure from the established route of a street railway, by running over private right of way to avoid sharp curves, is not fraud per se against abutting property owners, whose consents were secured with the understanding that the line would follow the line specified. Ireton Bros. & E. v. Ft. Wayne, Van Wert & Lima Traction Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 317. Where a street railway company, to gain the assent of an abutting owner, agreed to give him a valuable option on the purchase of the company's stocks and bonds, this was in violation of the policy of the statute making such consent necessary, and could not be enforced. Montclair Military Academy v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 229, 57 A. 1050. Where a statute gives the commissioner of bridges authority to select real estate for the reconstruction of the terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge, and provides that no street railroad shall be built without the consent of the owners of one-half the value of the property bounded on the portion of the street to be used, and where the plan submitted shows that the tracks cut the streets in such a way that there is no property left bounded on the portion of the street where it is intended to lay the tracks, such consent of property owners need not be obtained. In re City of New York, 45 Misc. 184, 91 N. Y. S. 987. In computing the lineal feet of property fronting on a street, cross streets are to be omitted. People's Traction Co. v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 57 A. 972. Burden of proof is upon one asserting that council granted the right to build a street railway without the necessary consents having been secured. Ireton Brothers & Eckenberg v. Ft. Wayne, Van Wert & Lima Traction Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 317. The presumption is that the council granted the right to build the road after being satisfied that the requisite consents had been given, and the burden of proof is upon one asserting the contrary. Id.

An extension of a street railway into or through a municipality being an original line, the notice prescribed by Rev. St. §§ 2502, 3739, is a prerequisite to the granting of a franchise. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583.

70. A vendee of land under a contract to convey, being in possession of the property and not being in default, has the right to consent to the construction of a street railway on the adjoining street. Day v. Forest City R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 393.

71. The consent of an abutter to the building of a street railway may be signed by another who has authority to so do. Day v. Forest City R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 393. It is immaterial whether the name signed is that of the owner or his agent, if he intends the signature to be his (Id.), and this intent may be gathered from authorization or ratification (Id.).

72. Consents are not functus officii, but the first grant being enjoined, they may be considered as consents to a later grant, if presented as such, it appearing that the abutters had knowledge of the new application and never withdrew their consents. Day v. Forest City R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 393. If an owner consents to the construction of a railway, either generally or specifying some particular individual or corporation, his consent inures to the benefit of the individual or corporation offering to carry passengers for the lowest fare; if he consents to the extension of the tracks of an existing street railway, such consent inures only to the benefit of the railway specified. Id.

73. A street railway company which has not the consent of all the local authorities of the districts through which it proposes to pass, or of all of the abutting owners, may be enjoined from construction by a person or corporation whose interests are adverse. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Parkersburg & C. St R. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 159.

Intersected line may raise question: The question as to whether such notice is a condition precedent may be raised by a steam railway in an action to enjoin the latter from operating its road across the

Extensions may under numerous statutes be allowed without the publicity or consent requisite for new lines.[75] In Wisconsin, where submission to vote is essential, a distinction is made so that extensions of franchises but not of lines must be so submitted.[76] The word "extension" is not restricted to a projection in a straight line,[77] but such provisions should not be so construed as to authorize new roads under the name of extensions,[78] or to allow construction of a different character of line.[79] Extension of a line does not impliedly extend a franchise to which the line is attached.[80]

A power to renew a franchise at its "expiration" does not forbid renewal before expiration.[81] The franchise may be forfeited through failure to comply with the conditions on which it was granted,[82] barring legal obstacles,[83] or by terms may become void ipso facto.[84] Such forfeitures must be enforced and claimed by former's tracks. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583.

74. Ireton Bros. v. Ft. Wayne Traction Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 317.

75. Provision of Rev. St. 1536-189, requiring publication of resolutions or ordinances relating to changes in a street railway route, is not applicable to an extension of a route. Belle v. Glenville & C. Elec. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 461.

76. Where a statute provided that no ordinance granting a street railway franchise or extending the life of any franchise should be operative unless submitted to a direct vote of the people, if demanded, but declared that it should not apply to "the extension of any existing line, if the term of the extension expires at the same time as the franchise of which it is a part," it was held that submission to a direct vote was necessary where an ordinance granted an original franchise or extended the life of an existing one, but not where the existing line was merely extended on other streets, the extension expiring at the same time as the franchise. State v. Common Council of Wauwautosa [Wis.] 102 N. W. 894.

77. A grant may be made for an extension of a street railway route, though the extension is to be built at right angles to the original route. Belle v. Glenville & C. Elec. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 461.

78. By statute the certificate of the railroad commissioners on the question of public convenience was made a prerequisite to the construction, but not to the extension of a road. It was held that the statute must be given a reasonable, rather than a literal, construction, and that an "extension" for 70 miles of a road originally 5 miles long was the construction of a new road. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo & W. Elec. R. Co., 96 App. Div. 471, 89 N. Y. S. 418.

79. An extension of an interurban, into or through a municipality, is an original line. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583. In a case of conflict as to municipal lines or extensions, the general provisions of section 3437 et seq. must yield to the specific provisions of section 2505 et seq. Id. The original grant providing that the motive power should be horses, the grant for an extension is not rendered invalid by reason of the fact that electricity is specified as the motive power, where the line has been operated for many years by electricity. Belle v. Glenville & C. Elec. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 461.

80. Extension of a franchise by implication is not favored, and the "extension" of a line is not a new route. It has no independent life, but is a part of the line to which it is added. It has no legal existence without the original line, and can have no tenure of life beyond that of the original line. Cleveland Elec. R. Co. v. Cleveland, 137 F. 111.

81. A municipal council may renew a street railway grant prior to the expiration of the original grant, although the statute conferring such power reads, "The council may renew any such grant at its expiration." City of Cleveland v. Cleveland City R. Co., 194 U. S. 517, 48 Law. Ed. 1102; City of Cleveland v. Cleveland Elec. R. Co., 194 U. S. 538, 48 Law. Ed. 1109. A grant for an extension of a street railway route for a period of less than 25 years does not violate Rev. St. 1536-185, by reason of the fact that the period named in the original grant will expire long before that named in the extension. Belle v. Glenville & C. Elec. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 461.

82. Where a franchise provided that a street railway company must complete its road within a certain time, and, this not being done, a special act was passed extending the time, it was held that there could be no forfeiture of the franchise at the suit of an abutting owner. Kent v. Common Council of City of Binghamton, 94 App. Div. 522, 88 N. Y. S. 34.

83. Where the failure to complete a street railway within the time specified is due to an injunction being granted against the company at the instance of a competitor, the right to complete the line is not lost, and such failure cannot be taken advantage of in a private action by a competitor, but any forfeiture can be enforced only by the state. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 795, 47 S. E. 839.

84. Where the supervisors of a township granted to a street railway company the right to lay its tracks, provided that if this was not done within a certain time the franchise should be void, and the tracks were not laid within the time specified, it was held that no action by the township was necessary to complete the forfeiture. Millcreek Tp. v. Erie Rapid Transit St. R. Co., 209 Pa. 300, 58 A. 613.

the public.[85] Waiving forfeiture is not the grant of a new right.[86] There is no abandonment even with virtual nonuser, where an intent to the contrary appears.[87] An unlimited franchise may be surrendered by acceptance of other incompatible franchises.[88]

(§ 1) B. Rights and duties under franchise.[89]—It is well settled that a street railway company secures certain vested rights under its franchise which cannot arbitrarily be interfered with.[90] It is a guiding principle in cases involving the rights of the company that the interests of the public must be regarded as of primary importance.[91] If a street railway takes action under a statute granting it certain advantages, it is subject to the liabilities imposed by such statute as well.[92] They

85. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 795, 47 S. E. 839.

86. Company failed to lay a track within the time limited. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 795, 47 S. E. 839.

87. Where a railroad constructed another road on another street, and for some months ran only one car a day on its original line, and on days of snowfalls ran no car at all, such action was held not to be enough to show an abandonment of the route so as to give the city the right to remove the tracks. Forty-Second St., etc., R. Co. v. Cantor, 93 N. Y. S. 943.

88. Where a street railway company having an alleged unlimited franchise to operate a line on a certain street granted prior to a statute limiting such grants to 25 years, accepted the terms of a subsequent ordinance authorizing it to extend its lines on such street and to operate all of its tracks on such street for 25 years, such acceptance operates as a surrender of its alleged unlimited franchise. Cleveland Elec. R. Co. v. Cleveland, 137 F. 111.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1745.

90. Where St. 1859, § 1, created the Chicago City Ry. Co. and gave them certain powers for 25 years, with a right to operate in South and West Chicago, and § 10 provided that all such powers should be conferred upon others, by the name of the North Chicago Ry. Co., and where St. 1861 amended St. 1859, § 1, extending its provisions for 99 years, it was held that the North Chicago R. Co. benefited as well. Govin v. Chicago, 132 F. 848. Commissioners were authorized to construct a bridge over a river, with power to authorize a railroad over the bridge. By statute the commission was abolished, and its powers given to the commissioner of bridges of N. Y. It was held that the commissioner had power to contract for the running of street cars over the bridge and that such a contract did not illegally create a franchise in the street car company, there remaining no vested property rights at the expiration of the contract. Schinzel v. Best, 45 Misc. 455, 92 N. Y. S. 754.

Grant of conflicting franchise: An act providing that a street railway company shall have a continuous route, and locating a portion of it on a street already occupied by the tracks of another company, is illegal. Altoona Belt Line St. R. Co. v. City Pass. R. Co., 209 Pa. 280, 58 A. 477. A street car company is entitled to use the material torn up from the street in laying track when putting the street in proper condition. By ordinance the railway was required to put the street in proper condition. The city removed some of the material torn up. It was held liable to the company therefor. City of Detroit v. Detroit R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 411.

91. A street railway company built a tunnel under the Chicago river under a statute permitting such action if navigation was not obstructed. In mandamus by the city to compel the lowering of the tunnel on the ground that it did constitute such an obstruction, it was held that this was not a taking or damaging of the railway's property for public use, that the city could insist on the removal of the tunnel, although no such right was reserved when the license was granted, and that the fact that other tunnels obstructed navigation was no defense. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 9, 73 N. E. 393. A street railway company in A. and one operating between S. and A. agreed that the latter company could run over the tracks of the former, the cars not to be of excessive size or to run at excessive speed. Later the A. railway, objecting to certain cars which had run for some time without accident, used physical force to prevent the S. railway's running cars on its tracks. Held, that in view of the rights of the public, the A. company would be restrained from interference and must seek relief from the courts. Schenectady R. Co. v. United Traction Co., 44 Misc. 282, 89 N. Y. S. 931. A street railway company subject to the authority of the county laid a single track, and had the right to lay a double track. The road then became subject to city control; and where the company refused, in defiance of the orders of the city, to lay the double track, and the public were not being properly served, it was held proper to grant the right to lay a double track on the same street to another company. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 795, 47 S. E. 839. Where an electric road is forbidden by statute to use its electricity for lighting purposes, this does not preclude it from using its electricity for lighting as an incident to its business, and is no excuse for failure to comply with order of selectmen as to lighting streets on which its cars ran. Cunningham v. Boston & W. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 355.

92. An ordinance granting a franchise to a street railway company required planking, paving, etc. Held, that these conditions were not unreasonable and that the company must comply with them at its own expense; further, that the company by accepting the ordinance was estopped from saying that the have an interest to redress the obstruction of public ways affording access to their lines.[93] Injunction will not lie to protect railway structures in a street from interfering with public works, which if injurious will be reparable in damages.[94]

Rates.[95]—The legislature may regulate the charges of street railways,[96] and may delegate this authority to a city.[97]

§ 2. Taking property and the right of eminent domain.[98]—No private property may be taken without compensation or consent,[99] and property already in public conditions were not reasonable. In re Topping Ave. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 190. The assignment, grant, transfer or lease of a street railway franchise imposes on the grantee all the duties and obligations resting upon the original holder, but where the privileges are parted with, the liabilities do not remain. Reynolds v. Pacific Elec. R. Co. [Cal.] 80 P. 77. Where, by ordinances imposing certain conditions, two companies were allowed to consolidate, and their franchise, that of one company expiring in 1904 and that of the other in 1908, was granted to 1908; it was held that such ordinances, being duly accepted, were contracts, and that an ordinance passed in 1904, granting a conflicting franchise to a new company, was unconstitutional and void. Cleveland Electric R. Co. v. Cleveland, 135 F. 368. Where a street railway company accepts the provisions of statutes permitting it to enter into a contract for leasing lines of other companies, it is bound to assume the obligations as to rates of fare, etc., imposed by the statutes as consideration for the privilege. O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 95 App. Div. 253, 89 N. Y. S. 41. Several companies were consolidated subject to all of the obligations and liabilities to the state which belonged to or rested upon any of such corporations making such consolidation. This was held to be an assumption of the obligations of each of the corporations arising ex contractu or ex delicto. Kansas City-Leavenworth R. Co. v. Langley [Kan.] 78 P. 858.

