93. Where two competing street railways, one operated by a receiver appointed by a Federal court, terminated at a street leading to a bathing beach, and under a prior agreement to which defendant's predecessor was a party, a triangle of land was dedicated to the public as an approach to the beach, it was held that the receiver was entitled to a preliminary injunction preventing the defendant from closing the triangle and thus denying the passengers on the receiver's line direct access to the beach. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co. v. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co., 131 F. 534.

94. Where a street railway company had a franchise to operate an elevated railway in certain city streets, and the city under its charter was about to erect a public comfort station so that it became necessary to underpin certain pillars of the elevated structure, it was held that the company had only an easement in the street, and could not maintain an injunction to enjoin the erection of the station, since if the work should properly be done by the city, the railroad, after doing it, would have an adequate remedy at law. Interborough Rapid Transit Co. v. Gallagher, 44 Misc. 536, 90 N. Y. S. 104.

95. See, generally, Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 591.

96. Where a statute provides that a street railway company may establish rates of fare subject to its charter, a subsequent statute providing that selectmen may impose such conditions as the public interest may require in granting a location does not authorize them to impose a limitation on the rates of fare. Cunningham v. Boston & W. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 355. A state constitution provided that all franchises granted by the legislature should be subject to its control. Subsequently a street railway company obtained a franchise with the right to charge full fare, and then an act was passed providing for half fare for school children. It was held that the act did not impair the obligation of a contract, and where no evidence of an oppressive burden was given, that it did not deprive the company of its property without due process of law, or deny it the equal protection of the law. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Altgelt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 106. Where a street railway company operated its road through the village of H. to W. and was entitled under its franchise to charge a five cent fare between the limits of H. and W., it was held that it could properly charge another fare for a ride through the village of H. Byars v. Bennington & H. V. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 736.

97. A municipal contract guaranteeing a five cent fare for a term of years does not violate a statute that a municipal corporation shall not during the term of a street railway grant, or renewal thereof, release the grantee from any obligation thereby imposed; such contract being made in good faith for the benefit of the public. City of Cleveland v. Cleveland City R. Co., 194 U. S. 517, 48 Law. Ed. 1102; City of Cleveland v. Cleveland Elec. R. Co., 194 U. S. 538, 48 Law. Ed. 1109. Where a city agrees to guarantee a five cent fare for a certain time, where a number of street railways are consolidated, this creates a contract right to charge such a rate which cannot afterwards be reduced by the municipality under authority to regulate fares reserved in an ordinance adopted prior to the consolidation. Id. Where a township granted a franchise on condition that no more than a certain fare should be charged, it was held that abutting owners were not proper parties to a bill to restrain the company from charging a greater rate of fare. Millcreek Tp. v. Erie Rapid Transit St. R. Co., 209 Pa. 300, 58 A. 613.

98. See, generally, Eminent Domain, 3 Curr. L. 1189.

99. A street railway, authorized by ordinance to lay its tracks on a public street, the fee to which is in the abutting lot owners, cannot burden the street with its tracks without obtaining the consent of such lot owners or resorting to condemnation pro-use cannot be condemned.[1] A power to a "street" railroad to condemn "rural" property necessary for its line implies that the highway shall be followed as far as practicable[2] or the power ceases.[3] If a rural district be so sparsely peopled as not to furnish supporting traffic, no public necessity as to such district exists,[4] and a power of eminent domain granted to serve such public convenience fails.[5] The rule is generally stated to be that a street railway is not an added burden on the highway so as to give abutting owners a right to compensation.[6] A deviation from the plan allowed,[7] or from an existing right,[8] requires compensation if it imposes additional burdens.[9]

§ 3. Taxes and license fees.[10]—The legislature has the power to tax street railway franchises exempting those of sub-surface ones[11] and despite the payment of a consideration for the franchise;[12] and as a police measure, each car may be sub-ceedings. Lange v. La Crosse & E. R. Co., 118 Wis. 558, 95 N. W. 952.

1. Where a railroad owned land in fee which crossed a public highway, it was held that a street railway company was or was not entitled to cross, depending upon whether the railroad land was part of its "right of way" or not. If this point is in doubt, a court of equity will not restrain the street railway from laying its tracks. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Inland Trac. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 115.

2, 3. Hartshorn v. Illinois Val. Traction Co., 210 Ill. 609, 71 N. E. 612. Evidence held insufficient to show needless digression. Id.

4, 5. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 131a, § 3, does not grant such power solely in view of the connecting of cities and towns, but also to serve the country between. Hartshorn v. Illinois Val. Traction Co., 210 Ill. 609, 71 N. E. 612.

6. The construction of a street passenger railway does not impose an additional servitude on the property fronting on the street so occupied. Hester v. Durham Traction Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 711. The construction and operation of an interurban electric railroad to carry passengers, their baggage, light express matter and mail in trains consisting of one or two cars, is not an additional servitude upon the street for which the abutting property owners are entitled to compensation. Mordhurst v. Ft. Wayne & S. W. Traction Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 642. An electric railway, with its incidental poles and wires, within the lines of public streets for municipal travel, imposes no additional servitude on abutting property. Montclair Military Academy v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 229, 57 A. 1050.

7. Where an underground railroad had authority to construct and then without consent of abutters or an order of court, made unauthorized modifications in its plans, it was held that to sanction the change the road must pay the property owners the damages done by such unauthorized construction. In re Board of Rapid Transit R. Com'rs of New York, 93 N. Y. S. 930.

8. A prescriptive right to use a portion of a street for a steam railroad does not justify the erection of a structure for an elevated road. Leffmann v. Long Island R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 647. Where a corporation had a prescriptive right to use a portion of a street for a steam railroad, a statute directing the erection of an elevated road by the corporation and the city in place of the surface road, making no provision for damages to abutters, does not prevent the latter from getting relief by damages or injunction for the invasion of easements of light, air, and access. Id. Where, in condemnation proceedings, plaintiff sought to condemn only easements of light, air, and access, but the judgment provided for other injuries, defendant was entitled to damages resulting from pillars extending into vaults dug beneath the sidewalk. In re Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 924.

9. See, also, Eminent Domain, 3 Curr. L. 1189.

Damages: Where a street railway maliciously lays its track on a highway against the protest of an abutting landowner in such a way as to injure the land and buildings, the railway cannot demand that damages be assessed as if the injuries had been done in the lawful exercise of the right of eminent domain. Becker v. Lebanon & M. St. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 367. A street railway company, in consideration of $3,481.07 paid by the owner of property fronting on the line, agreed that for one-half the period of the charter (25 years), the road should be operated for its entire length, and for failure to so do, the road would pay $3,481.07. It was held that this was not a penalty, and that, on breach of the condition, the owner could recover it as liquidated damages, and that there was a breach if the road was not operated continuously from the time of the contract until the expiration of 25 years, any 25 out of the 50 years not being sufficient. Santa Fe St. R. Co. v. Schutz [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 39.

Necessity of payment or tender: Where a statute provided that aldermen and selectmen, when petitioned for a location by a street railway company, should give notice and assess damages to abutters as in highway cases, and the highway statute provided that no land should be used until damages were assessed and either paid or tendered, it was held that such assessment and payment or tender was a condition precedent to occupancy, but that an abutter who waited until the road was built waived his right to prepayment as a condition precedent, although he might still apply to have his damages assessed. Strickford v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 367.

10. See full discussion, Licenses, 4 Curr. L. 428; Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

11, 12. Although street railway companjected to license fee.[13] Local assessments cannot be laid where the law renders liable only "abutting real estate."[14] In Iowa interurban railways are taxed as railroads.[15]

§ 4. Street railway corporations.—The business and corporate activities of street railway companies are governed by the general law of corporations.[16] A number of miscellaneous rulings have been recently made on the rights of street railway companies to buy and sell and to perform similar corporate functions.[17] It is held in New York that a lease for 999 years is not invalid as a virtual surrender of corporate franchises,[18] and since the power to lease exists in that state,[19] such a lease is valid if fair.[20]

§ 5. Location, construction, equipment and operation in general.[21]—The granted route must be substantially followed,[22] but the state alone may question the franchise because of an alleged deviation.[23] A grant of location may not be varied ies are granted the right to operate in consideration of the payment of a certain sum, a subsequent franchise tax does not impair the obligation of contracts, and the exemption of sub-surface street railways is constitutional. People of State of New York v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 25 S. Ct. 705. Where a street railway agreed to pay to a city a percentage of its gross receipts, and this was later reduced to a certain sum in consideration of the road's granting transfers, it was held that this sum was in the nature of a tax and should be deducted from the state's special franchise tax. Heerwagen v. Crosstown St. R. Co., 179 N. Y. 99, 71 N. E. 729.

13. A municipality under its general police power has authority to impose an annual license tax of $25.00 on each street car operated in the city. Erie City v. Erie Elec. Motor Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 77. In ascertaining the number of cars subject to such tax, trucks, and not bodies should be considered. Id. Tax bills on the cars of a street railway company bear interest like other taxes, and payments on them are to be applied as of the date made. City of Louisville v. Louisville City R. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 535.

14. Under Statute 1891 (P. L. 75) assessments for benefits can be levied only against real estate abutting upon the improvements, not against a street railway occupying a street improved or against the tracks of such street railway. Harriott Avenue, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 597.

15. A statute provided that (1) any street railway operated by other power than steam extending beyond corporate limits to another city or town is an interurban railway. (2) Such companies and roads shall be governed by the same laws as railroads and railroad companies. (3) Such companies within city limits shall be governed by rules applying to street railways. (4) Property of street railway companies within or without the municipality shall be assessed by local assessors. (5) All railways shall be assessed by the executive council. It was held that a line connecting three municipal corporations was an interurban railway, that the provision (3) did not give a street railway the right to be assessed as a street railway and not as a steam railroad and that provision (5) impliedly revoked provision (4). Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Cummins [Iowa] 101 N. W. 176.

16. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880.

17. A note given by a street railroad company for its own stock is not without consideration, though the stock subsequently proved to be worthless. Leonard v. Draper [Mass.] 73 N. E. 644. A corporation has a right to purchase its own stock, unless forbidden by statute, and such purchase is not a reduction of its capital stock, where the stock is kept in existence, ready to be sold and transferred to another party. Id. A statute with reference to conditional sales of street railway rolling stock, requiring each car to be marked on each side with the name of the seller followed by the word "owner," applies to completed cars, and a provision that the sale shall not be valid against a purchaser in good faith unless recorded does not apply to a conditional sale of trucks, motors, etc. Lorain Steel Co. v. Norfolk & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 646. Where rails were sold to a street railway company by a contract providing that they should remain the property of the seller until paid for, the laying of the rails on a track on land in which the company had no interest did not make them part of the realty so as to prevent the seller from recovering them. Id. Where a trustee by virtue of a power in a mortgage given to secure bonds takes possession of the mortgaged street railway, the mortgage also providing that he shall be reimbursed all outlays, and his disbursements shall be a first lien, one who advances him funds for necessary operating expenses is entitled to priority over the mortgagee. Mersick v. Hartford & W. H. Horse R. Co., 76 Conn. 11, 55 A. 664. One who furnished the company with funds for necessary operating expenses before the trustee took possession is not entitled to priority over the bondholders. Id.

18, 19, 20. Wormser v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 98 App. Div. 29, 90 N. Y. S. 714. One who sold a right founded on the assumption that the lease was valid cannot assail it. Id.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1747.

22. Jordan v. Washington & C. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 564. Adoption of private right of way to avoid curves held not a fraud on abutters who consented to street line. Ireton Bros. v. Ft. Wayne Traction Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 317.

23. A reasonable divergence from the by oral agreement with the granting officers.[24] The general power to impose conditions on a franchise warrants a permit to use a certain rail without paving to be replaced by a different one with paving if unsatisfactory,[25] and the decision of a city council that one is not satisfactory is not reviewable.[26] Performance of such conditions is not the "repair" of a public way from which by payment of a tax the company exempts itself.[27] Neither is financial embarrassment any reason to excuse nonperformance.[28] As part of the conditions of the franchise it is common to require improvement and reconstruction of the streets occupied. Many cases have arisen with respect to the liability of street railway companies for paving the streets occupied by their tracks. It depends chiefly on the terms of the particular franchises which are not reducible to rule; hence cases are merely collated.[29] Such chartered route of a street railway is in the discretion of the railway. Whether such divergence has been exceeded is a question not for the township, but for the commonwealth. Jordan v. Washington & C. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 564.

24. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 294, 68 N. E. 340.

25, 26, 27, 28. Inhabitants of Gardner v. Templeton R. Co., 184 Mass. 294, 68 N. E. 340.

29. Rev. Laws, c. 112, § 100, means that all construction must be to the satisfaction of selectmen. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 294, 68 N. E. 340. A provision of a city charter, requiring street railway companies to pay the cost of paving between the rails and tracks of the railway and for two feet on either side, is not unconstitutional. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874. Under a statute authorizing the selectmen of a town to grant a street railway location under such restrictions as the public interests may require, restrictions as to paving more onerous than those contained in the general laws are proper, and restrictions as to relaying track and using heavier rails are also proper. Dunbar v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 352. A statute provided that a street railway company should keep in repair the surface of the street within its rails, but that if the street was permanently improved it should bear no part of the expense. This agreement was embodied in a contract between the city and the company, and ratified by the city on a new consideration moving from the company. Subsequently laws were passed compelling all street railroads to pave the street between its tracks. It was held that these laws were inoperative as concerning the street railway in question, as impairing the obligation of a contract. City of Rochester v. Rochester R. Co., 98 App. Div. 521, 91 N. Y. S. 87. A city imposed the condition that a street railway company, after laying its tracks, should replace the pavement in accordance with the rules of the department of public works, and should renew the pavement as required by the commissioners, supplying trap block pavement between the rails and for a space outside, and if they refused, the city might do the work at the company's expense. The company accepted the condition and laid its tracks. Afterwards the city council voted to pave with granite blocks. It was held that the company was liable to the extent of what trap block pavement would have cost. City of New York v. Harlem Bridge, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 557. St. 1893 provided that a street railway company must keep in repair the part of the highway on which its tracks were laid, and 2 feet on either side, and made it liable for nonrepair. St. 1897 provided that the cost of keeping in repair might be considered in determining the cost per square yard which the city might collect from property owners and railroads. Where a city paid a contractor a certain sum per square yard for paving a street and agreeing to keep it in repair for 10 years, it was held that a street railroad was not liable for the proportion of the cost for prospective repairs, the contractor's bond not inuring to the benefit of the railroad. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven [Conn.] 58 A. 703. The mere use of railroad tracks by a street railway is not enough to make the street railway company liable for injuries to a pedestrian on the street on which the tracks are laid, where the injuries were the result of a defective cross walk alongside of the track. Ross v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 679. Under a statute requiring a street railway company to keep in repair the paving of the portions of the street occupied by its tracks, the company is not liable for a defect in the pavement between its tracks but outside the rails, as "occupied by its tracks" refers to the rails and the space between them over which the cars pass. City of Boston v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 295. Where an ordinance required a street railway company to pave and keep in good repair all streets in which its tracks were laid, 8 feet in width where a single track, 16 where a double, it was held that the company was not liable to an assessment for the laying of a water pipe on one side of the street. McChesney v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 592, 73 N. E. 368. Under a statute requiring a street railway company to pave between its rails and on either side, it is not liable for the cost of underground drainage. City of Mobile v. Mobile Light & R. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 127. A railroad having the right to lay rails and operate a railroad in a street, and undertaking to pave the street when required by the city council, is not liable for injuries to a pedestrian caused by a defective cross walk alongside the track, in the absence of evidence that the council ever ordered the railroad to pave. Ross v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 679. Where an ordinance provided that if a city should pave conditions follow the franchise when transferred.[30] When contained in an act enabling the extension of roads or establishment of new ones, existing lines are not so charged.[31] Statutory remedies in equity to enforce such conditions are not suits to enforce contracts,[32] and do not involve compulsion to do continuous acts.[33] If adequate they exclude the right to mandamus,[34] and costs on mandamus unnecessarily prosecuted will be denied.[35] The company is liable for negligence in such constructive work whereby travelers are injured.[36] In New York the general railroad law requiring cattle guards at crossings applies to street surface railroads in rural districts.[37] A railroad is subject to the right to cross at grade if the street be one in which a street railway is a contemplated servitude.[38] But the state may regulate or establish crossings by one line of another.[39] Under the laws of Virginia there is a presumption in favor of an order of the State Corporation Commission establishing a crossing.[40] Jurisdiction of a special commission to settle crossing disputes cannot be affected by the pendency of other proceedings, determined however, before decision.[41] At railroad crossings care must be taken by both roads.[42] The company has a use of the streets in common with the public and must construct its line in such manner,[43] and so operate its cars,[44] as to admit of other uses with any street along which a street railway might run, the railway should pave said street, this did not render the road liable where a street was paved on which it was authorized to run, but on which it had not actually built its tracks. Harris v. Macomb, 213 Ill. 47, 72 N. E. 762. Where property belonging to a street railway company, assessed for a street improvement, was leased by the railway company and used as a public amusement resort, it was not held or used for railroad purposes. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago [Ill.] 74 N. E. 449.

30. A street railway company contracted with a city for exemption from paving the streets where its tracks were laid, and then consolidated with a second company, which had a franchise to lay tracks on C. street. A third company, which had been given a similar right and had laid a single track on C. street, was then consolidated with the first company, which tore up the single track and laid and operated a double track in connection with its other line. It was held that the double track, being laid under the disused franchise of the second company, was an extension of the first company's line, and therefore covered by the contract with the city. Kent v. Common Council of Binghamton, 94 App. Div. 522, 88 N. Y. S. 34.

31. A statute provided that every street railway company extending or operating a railway under the statute should keep in repair the street between its rails, and another section, relative to fares, provided that such section should not apply to roads previously constructed unless they acquired the right to extend under the statute. Held, that the first section applied to roads constructed under the statute and to extensions of existing roads, but not to existing roads. City of Rochester v. Rochester R. Co., 98 App. Div. 521, 91 N. Y. S. 87.

32, 33, 34, 35. Selectmen of Gardner v. Templeton St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 294, 68 N. E. 340.

36. Under laws authorizing a company to construct its road on a highway upon such terms as might be agreed upon between it and the town board, the franchise granted by the township provided that the grade should conform to grade of the highways where they might cross. Held, the company was liable for an accident caused by an unprotected excavation on the traveled portion of the highway. Kaiser v. Detroit & N. W. R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 743. The fact that the township officers did not protest at the time of the construction was not a ratification. Id. Operatives of a street car removed from the track an obstruction which had been unlawfully placed there and left it in the street where a bicycle rider ran into it and was injured. The company held not liable. Howard v. Union R. Co., 25 R. I. 652, 57 A. 867.

37. Evans v. Utica & M. V. R. Co., 44 Misc. 345, 89 N. Y. S. 1089.

38. An interurban rightfully occupying a street cannot be enjoined from crossing a steam railroad at grade, where the street will not thereby be subjected to other than its ordinary uses. C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Urbana, B. & N. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 583.

39, 40, 41. Newport News, etc., R. & Elec. Co. v. Hampton Roads R. & Elec. Co., 102 Va. 847, 47 S. E. 858.

42. Duties concurrent in point of time are imposed upon both steam and street railway companies at grade crossings, and a failure on the part of either company to take the required precautions will render such company liable for negligence in case of injuries resulting. Kopp v. B. & O. S. W. R. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 103. The liability of the carrying road for accident is treated in Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 591; that of the other road in this topic or Railroads (4 Curr. L. 1131) respectively.

43. A switch built so that ten feet is left between cars and curb does not materially obstruct the public use of the street nor operate as a serious interference with abutter's enjoyment of his property. Rosenbaum v. Meridian Light & R. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 321. Where a curve was built in front of complainant's lot and when first used cars ran off the track, this was held inno unnecessary obstruction or inconvenience. Injunction will not issue on the mere anticipation of failure to do so.[45]

General rules of care in equipment and operation.[46]—Cars and equipment must be such as are in general use in towns and cities of the same size.[47] The fact that a car is not provided with a conductor is not of itself negligence.[48] Omission to use fenders may be negligence.[49] The company will be liable for injuries due to defects left in streets by negligence attributable to it.[50] If it interferes with fire apparatus, it may be liable to the owner of property destroyed for want of protection.[51]

A street railway company must use greater care at street crossings, and must use greater care in crowded city streets than in the open country.[52] In a rural region the rules as to electric railway crossings approximate such as apply to railroads.[53]

In the use of electric motive power, care proportionate to its dangerous character is demanded,[54] especially when conveyed in an accessible and unguarded third-sufficient to show damage to complainant's right of egress and ingress. Hester v. Durham Traction Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 711.

44. A street railway company has only a common easement in the use of the highway, and cannot travel at a speed which unreasonably interferes with the rights of others, and where the company can remove the probability of collision by reasonably slackening speed, it has no right to require other users to use expensive special devices to insure the company the opportunity to run at unlimited speed. Camden & T. R. Co. v. United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 523.

45. It will not be presumed that a street railway company will violate its contract with a city, and the mere anticipation of a breach and consequent injury to an abutting owner will not entitle the latter to an injunction against the construction of the road. Mordhurst v. Ft. Wayne & S. W. Traction Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 642.

46. See post, § 6, as to specific rules.

47. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 237.

48. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 527, 57 A. 906.

49. Where an injury would have been prevented if they had been used and they are usually attached to cars in similar localities through the country and have proved efficacious in protecting persons on the highway. Fritsch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 93 App. Div. 554, 87 N. Y. S. 942. Held, that a jury could not have been misled by an instruction on the subject of fenders where the use of fenders on other car lines had been proved and the court charged that they were to consider the absence of the fender only on the particular car in connection with its management at the time of the injury. Id.

50. Where a pedestrian fell into a trench which was being dug under a permit from the city, it was held that the city must use due care to guard against accident in that part of the street occupied by street railway tracks, and that a statute rendering the railway liable for keeping the surface of a street in repair did not apply. Hyde v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 118. Where a street railway company, in replacing a broken rail, left a dangerous hole, it was held that the company was liable, though it had no notice of the defective condition alleged. Citizens' St. R. Co. v. Marvil, 161 Ind. 506, 67 N. E. 921. Though the public have an equal right with a street railway company to use city streets, if the street is defective by reason of defectively laid tracks of the company, and such defect is obvious, a traveler is not entitled to use the street unless a person of ordinary prudence would do so. Citizens' R. Co. v. Gossett [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 35. Plaintiff, after alighting from defendant's street car, attempted to cross tracks in the dark, being familiar with all the surroundings and the condition of the track and knowing of a safer way. She was held guilty of contributory negligence. Kalberg v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1101.

51. Where a motorman ran over a fire hose, cutting it, so that a building was burned for lack of water, the owner was held entitled to recover damages from the street railway company. Little Rock Traction & Elec. Co. v. McCaskill [Ark.] 86 S. W. 997.

52. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 527, 57 A. 906. See, also, ante, § 5.

53. Robinson v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 57.

54. One using electricity is required to use care commensurate with the situation. Wires of street railway company. Citizens' Elec. R., Light & Power Co. v. Bell, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 321. See, generally, Electricity, 3 Curr. L. 1181. A derrick blew down, carrying with it trolley and telephone wires, the latter becoming charged and killing the horses of a passing driver. It was shown that those in charge of the railway power plant knew of the state of affairs for an hour before turning off the power. Judgment for plaintiff was affirmed. Sorrell v. Titusville Elec. Trac. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 425.

Negligence presumed: Where a live wire is found down in a city thoroughfare, this raises a presumption of negligence against the street railway company, and proof of a general strike of carmen and attendant lawlessness does not rebut the presumption. Cleary v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1029. A live electric wire falling into the street and a passerby being injured, the burden is on the owner of the wire to rail.[55] In the case of crossed wires, there may be joint liability.[56] The mere effect of currents aside from negligence is not a wrong.[57]

§ 6. Injuries to persons other than passengers or servants. A. Trespassers and licensees.[58]—A person riding upon a car not as a regular passenger, but under somewhat unusual circumstances, may or may not be regarded as a trespasser.[59] A master is responsible for the acts of a servant committed in the scope of his employment, even where the servant acts wrongfully, willfully, or illegally, and even where the acts are committed upon a trespasser.[60] One is not a trespasser ab initio who having endeavored to enter a car is ejected and walks back on the track towards his starting place,[61] and he does not become one by continuing in the absence of caution or remonstrance to so walk.[62] Therefore he may recover for injuries from the hidden danger of a heavily charged "third rail" of which he knew not.[63] Where a street railway company, under an arrangement with the U. S. P. O. Dep't, placed mail boxes in its cars, the mail to be taken at the car barn by a postal carrier, the company was held bound to provide such carriers with safe access to the cars they were required to visit in the barn.[64]

(§ 6) B. Travelers on highway. Pedestrians run over. Adults. Due care of plaintiff.[65]—A pedestrian must use ordinary care in approaching and crossing street prove that there was no negligence. Citizens' Elec. R., Light & Power Co. v. Bell, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 321.

Contributory negligence: A child is held to such care and prudence only as are usual among children of his age and capacity. Citizens' Elec. R., Light & Power Co. v. Bell, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 321. Whether he uses such care in a particular case is a question for the jury. Id. Where the driver of a horse brought suit for injuries to the horse from contact with a live wire, whether the driver used ordinary care under the circumstances was held to be for the jury. Cleary v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1029.

55. Where a person with a proper ticket stepped on the front step of an electric car, supposing that a closed door would be opened, and was forced from the car at a station at night without directions or warning and with no opportunity to board again, and stepped on a rail charged with electricity, it was held that such person was not a trespasser but entitled to reasonable protection from hidden dangers, and that negligence and contributory negligence were for the jury. Anderson v. Seattle-Tacoma Interurban R. Co., 36 Wash. 387, 78 P. 1013.

56. A street railway company is jointly liable for an accident caused by a telephone wire falling across a trolley wire and into the street, where the negligence of each company co-operated with that of the other to bring about the injury. North Amherst Home Tel. Co. v. Jackson, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 386.

57. A street railway company, operating a single trolley electric system under a franchise manifestly contemplating such a system, is liable for injury to the water pipes of the city from the return current only to the extent that its operation of the system has been negligent. Dayton v. City R. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 41. Equity will not compel a change of a single trolley street railway system to avoid electrolysis to water pipes when there is a sharp conflict in the evidence as to whether the system in use is a proper system. Id.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1749.

59. A street car sometimes made an extra trip for extra pay. A person, knowing this, hailed the car on its last trip, and, on the car stopping, boarded to negotiate for a ride. The car started suddenly, and he was injured. It was held that he was not a trespasser, and that the company was bound to use ordinary care towards him while he was on the car. Brock v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 219. A child, non sui juris, riding on the step of the rear platform on the side of the car not in use, across which is a closed gate, is a trespasser, and the company owes him no duty to discover his peril. Monehan v. South Covington, etc., R. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1920, 78 S. W. 1106.

60. Where a conductor assaulted a boy trepasser, the evidence was held sufficient to justify a finding that his act was within the scope of his employment. Hewson v. Interurban St. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 112, 88 N. Y. S. 816. If a boy trespasser of 5 gets on a car unobserved and falls or jumps off, the company is not liable, but, after discovery, the company must use reasonable care to avoid injury, and frightening a child into jumping off a moving car would render the company liable. Goldstein v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 60 A. 975. Due care for a boy of 5 is that degree of care which children of the same age, of ordinary prudence, are accustomed to exercise under like circumstances. Id.

61, 62. Anderson v. Seattle-Tacoma Interurban R. Co., 36 Wash. 387, 78 P. 1013.

63. Anderson v. Seattle-Tacoma Interurban R. Co., 36 Wash. 387, 78 P. 1013. Whether failing to warn him was negligence or whether he contributed by his own negligence is for the jury. Id. Evidence of contributory negligence for jury. Walking on track with "third rail." Id.

64. Young v. People's Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 788.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1750, 1751.

railway tracks.[66] Negligence contributing as an efficient cause of injury will defeat an action therefor, irrespective of the quantum of negligence of the respective parties.[67] In determining the question of due care, it becomes necessary in some cases to take into consideration the fact that the pedestrian is suffering from some infirmity.[68] Intoxication does not relieve a man from the degree of care required of a sober man under the same circumstances.[69] As a general rule, where a pedestrian goes in front of a car, and there is evidence either that he did not look or that he had a clear view and could have seen the car if he had looked, he cannot recover.[70] A common case is where there are double tracks, and a pedestrian, either crossing the street or having just alighted from a car, crosses in the rear of the car and is struck by a car coming in the opposite direction on the other track.[71] Where 66. Some courts remain satisfied with this general statement of the rule, and deny that there is any absolute rule of law requiring a person to look and listen before crossing a street railway track. Donovan v. Lynn & B. R. Co., 185 Mass. 533, 70 N. E. 1029; Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850. Other courts lay down the more specific rule that a pedestrian is bound to look and listen before crossing a street railway track. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140; Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Oldham [Ala.] 37 So. 452. He is not bound to stop, look and listen. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140. Where a woman was run over and gave no evidence as to the distance she had to travel before reaching a place of safety, it was held that she failed to show freedom from contributory negligence. Lazar v. New York City R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 9. .

67. Richmond Traction Co. v. Martin's Adm'r, 102 Va. 209, 45 S. E. 886. It is not contributory negligence as a matter of law for a person to cross a street railway track between two motionless cars. Fitzgerald v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 732. Evidence sufficient to support direction to find contributory negligence where plaintiff's intestate at a late hour was struck by car running at high speed on a track not subject to street traffic and in an outlying district sparsely peopled. McLean v. Omaha & C. B. R. & Bridge Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 935.

68. If a person is deaf, it is more incumbent upon him to exercise his sight. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850. The fact that an insane person run over by a car was at large and unattended does not necessarily show contributory negligence on the part of his custodian. Simpson v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 658.

69. Vizacchero v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 105. Where a drunken man was crawling on his hands and knees on a street railway track in the country, and was struck by a car visible for 800 feet, he was held guilty of contributory negligence. Id. Where a drunken man lying on the track at night was run over, it was held that the company would be liable only for failing to use proper care after the man had been actually discovered. Taylor v. Houston Elec. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1019. Where a drunken man was walking on a street car track at night, and it was not possible to stop the car in time to avoid the accident, it was held that the plaintiff could not recover. Bugbee v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 165.

70. Itzkowitz v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 298; Barney v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 94 App. Div. 388, 88 N. Y. S. 335. Where a street car was well lighted so that it could be seen from 150 to 300 feet away, and made sufficient noise in setting brakes to attract attention, and the plaintiff stepped on the track when the car was only 10 feet away, she was held guilty of contributory negligence. Donovan v. Lynn & B. R. Co., 185 Mass. 533, 70 N. E. 1029. If a pedestrian, between crossings, steps from behind a wagon onto the track without looking, or passes in front of the wagon, knowing it will prevent her retracing her steps, without pausing to look for a car, in either case she is guilty of contributory negligence. Barney v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 94 App. Div. 388, 88 N. Y. S. 335.

71. Where the plaintiff went on the second track without looking, he was held guilty of contributory negligence. Reed v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 41. Where a pedestrian stopped and listened, and then crossed the second track without looking, he was held guilty of contributory negligence, although the car was run at high speed without warning. Giardina v. St. Louis & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 928. Where a passenger, alighting under this state of facts, looked and listened before going on the parallel track, he was held not guilty of contributory negligence as matter of law, and the negligence of the company was likewise held to be for the jury. Reed v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 427, 84 N. Y. S. 454. Where a passenger, transferring to another car, looked before but not after alighting and there was an ordinance forbidding a driver of a car to pass another car at a crossing until such car had gone 20 feet, due care and negligence were held to be for the jury. Craven v. International R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 625. Where a passenger alighted at a crossing, and after looking, crossed in the rear of the car and was struck by a car coming in the opposite direction, and there was evidence of high speed and lack of warning, it cannot be said that the pedestrian was guilty of lack of due care, as a matter of law. Beers v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 278. Where plaintiff looked before alighting, and there was an ordinance that no driver of a car should pass a car standing at a crossing until such car should have started and cleared 20 feet, the it appears that a pedestrian did look for a car, this is generally sufficient to take the question of his due care to the jury, especially where there are other circumstances tending to show negligent operation of the car.[72] The mere fact of looking, however, does not absolve the pedestrian from the duty of taking further precautions. If he sees a car and determines to take his chances of crossing ahead of it, but miscalculates his distance, he is unable to recover.[73] A number of cases of injury have arisen where pedestrians have been walking on or near the tracks, or laborers have been compelled to work in close proximity to the tracks.[74] plaintiff's due care was held to be for the jury. Craven v. International R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 625. Where a witness for the plaintiff testified that just as plaintiff reached the car track witness heard the gong and the plaintiff was instantly struck and killed by a car running from 12 to 15 miles an hour, and the proof tended to show that no warning was given and that deceased had almost cleared the track, the due care of deceased was held to be for the jury. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Donnell, 211 Ill. 349, 71 N. E. 1015. Where a boy of 15 alighted 10 feet from a crossing and, there being no evidence that he stopped, looked and listened, crossed the parallel track and was struck by a car coming at high speed, contributory negligence was held to be for the jury. Monck v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 97 App. Div. 447, 90 N. Y. S. 818. Where a pedestrian was injured under this state of facts, it was held that the question of his contributory negligence was not affected by rules of the company as to stopping and giving warning at crossings, where it did not appear that such rules were customarily observed, or that plaintiff knew of them or relied upon them. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Oldham [Ala.] 37 So. 452.

72. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140; Lofsten v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 97 App. Div. 395, 89 N. Y. S. 1042; Polacci v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 341. Where a pedestrian saw a car and attempted to cross, but was struck, and it appeared that the car was traveling at excessive speed, the case was held to be for the jury. Fellers v. Warren St. R. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 31. Where plaintiff looked and listened, but was struck by a car coming at speed greater than that permitted by a city ordinance, due care was held to be for the jury. Rissler v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 578. Where a pedestrian was last seen standing on the curb looking up and down the track and was next found lying against the curb, having been struck by a car running at unusual speed, it was held that due care was for the jury. Haughey v. Pittsburg R. Co., 210 Pa. 363, 59 A. 1110. Due care for jury where plaintiff claimed that at a crossing the motorman signalled for him to cross and then increased the speed of the car and struck him. Fiori v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 521. A person crossing a street railway has a right to presume, unless he has knowledge to the contrary, that cars will not be operated at a speed exceeding the limit imposed by a city ordinance. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140. A pedestrian is not negligent in merely failing to guard against the omission of ordinary care upon the part of the person in charge of the car. Polacci v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 341. A pedestrian who sees a car approaching at what seems to him to be a safe distance to allow him to cross does not have the right to assume that the car will be controlled and the speed slackened. Toohey v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 427.

73. Hornstein v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 71; Gentile v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 264. One who in broad daylight stops beside a street car track until a car approaching at unlawful speed is within 10 feet, and then attempts to cross, is guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. Wolf v. City & Suburban R. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 668. Where a pedestrian saw a car and walked in front of it without looking again, crossing when the car was but 10 feet away, he was held to be guilty of contributory negligence. Greene v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 426. One who sees a car and attempts to cross in front of it without looking again, is guilty of contributory negligence. Keough v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 733.

74. A pedestrian who has the whole roadway to choose from and is struck by a car while pulling down the leg of his trousers on the track, is guilty of contributory negligence. Jordan v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 315. An employe struck by a car while walking on the track without necessity therefor before light, when the car could have been seen for 350 feet, cannot recover. Stewart v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 22 App. D. C. 496. A pedestrian who assumes a position safe with reference to ordinary cars is not guilty of contributory negligence when struck by a car of unusual width, and does not assume the risk of being struck. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 865. A laborer who stands near the track and sees a car approaching, but miscalculates the distance so that he is struck, cannot recover. Sullivan v. New York City R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 325. In such a case, the motorman cannot be held to a greater degree of care than the pedestrian. If one is negligent, so is the other. Kaufman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 43 Misc. 634, 88 N. Y. S. 382. Where a laborer worked on a street putting up a fence along a trench and was obliged to be dangerously near a street railway track, to the knowledge of the motorman of the car that struck him, it was held that the company was not entitled to an instruction that the plaintiff must be vigilant to look for cars and avoid them at the time of their passage. Hennessey v. Forty-Second St., etc., R. Co., 44 Misc. 198, 88 N. Y. S. 728. A workman working on a fence about 30 inches from the track paid no attention to passing cars,

Negligence of company.[75]—Notwithstanding a pedestrian's lack of due care, the company may nevertheless be held liable if it could have prevented the accident by the use of ordinary care;[76] but it is a qualification of this rule as important as the rule itself that in cases where there are no intervening facts to give rise to a new situation the rule cannot properly be applied.[77] At street crossings the rights of the car and the pedestrian are held to be equal.[78] Between crossings a street car has the right of way.[79] If a pedestrian steps directly in front of a car where it is so close that the accident cannot be avoided, there is no negligence on the part of the company.[80] A street railway company is bound to use only ordinary care under the circumstances to avoid injury to pedestrians. The mere happening of an accident raises no presumption of negligence.[81] Various rulings have been made on the question of what is a proper lookout,[82] what is proper warning,[83] and what is proper relying on hearing the bell. While other workmen got out of the way of a car, he was injured. He was held guilty of contributory negligence. Id., 92 N. Y. S. 1058. A laborer whose work requires him to be near the track is not held to as high a degree of care in watching for cars as are ordinary pedestrians. McGrath v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 519. Where a workman was injured by a street car striking a timber which he and a companion were carrying, and there was much conflicting testimony, the case was held to be for the jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson [Ill.] 74 N. E. 458.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1753.

76. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140; Rhymes v. Jackson Elec. R., Light & Power Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 708; Richmond Traction Co. v. Martin's Adm'r, 102 Va. 209, 45 S. E. 886. It may be negligence to drive a car into a dangerous place, despite the fact that one was careless in being there and that care was taken after discovering him. Eichhorn v. New Orleans & C. R., Light & Power Co., 112 La. 236, 36 So. 335. Travelers are not bound to know or instantly perceive that because of the width and length of cars the space between tracks is too narrow for them to safely occupy. Id. The company and its servants are bound to know and guard against unusual perils at a place due to topography, track construction and character of equipment. Id.

77. Richmond Traction Co. v. Martin's Adm'r, 102 Va. 209, 45 S. E. 886; Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850. Where there is no intervening time in which the motorman could have time to act, the "last clear chance" rule does not apply. McLean v. Omaha & C. B. R. & Bridge Co. [Neb.] 103 N. W. 285. Where no intervening time, "last clear chance" rule does not apply. Rissler v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 578.

78. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140; Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Oldham [Ala.] 37 So. 452. It is negligence per se to operate a street car over a crossing at a speed exceeding the limit imposed by a city ordinance. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140.

79. The driver of a street car has a right to assume that between crossings a pedestrian starting to cross the street will stop and allow the car to pass, and engaging in conversation with a passenger is not necessarily negligence, since, if he had been looking ahead, he would not have been expected to stop the car. Barney v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 94 App. Div. 388, 88 N. Y. S. 335.

80. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850. Held not negligence where child ran in front of car when it was too late to stop. Miller v. St. Charles St. R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 401. Failure to stop as quick as was possible is unimportant where in any event it could not have been stopped soon enough. Id. Where a pedestrian in crossing a street upon which there were double tracks, stepped back, to avoid one car, in front of another, there was held to be no negligence. Vought v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 235.

81. Where a woman was struck while crossing a street car track, and gave no evidence of high speed, lack of warning, or the distance of the car away, it was held that the mere occurrence of the accident raised no presumption of negligence. Welsh v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 166. Where a fender on the rear of a car fell and injured a pedestrian, the mere happening of the accident was held to raise no presumption of negligence. Klyachko v. Central Crosstown R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1073. In a derailment case, it is error to charge that it is the duty of the company to have the car rails, etc., so constructed that the car will stay on the tracks, as this practically makes the company an insurer against accidental derailment. Kelly v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. 283, 85 N. Y. S. 433. Where a car was derailed and struck a person standing near the track, there was held to be evidence sufficient to justify the jury in finding negligence from an open switch. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bruley [Ill.] 74 N. E. 441. Where pedestrians sue for injuries received from snow falling from the structure of an elevated railway, it must be proved that the snow did fall from such structure. McGee v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 657. Where a truck was struck by a street car and thereby caused injury to a pedestrian, the liability of the street railroad to the pedestrian is not affected by the contributory negligence of the driver of the truck. Demarest v. Forty-Second St., etc., R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 663.

82. A street railway company is bound to anticipate the rightful presence of persons upon its tracks, and must keep a constant speed at which to run a car.[84] A street railway company may run its cars on both tracks in either direction as the needs of business may require, and is not bound to use the right hand track for cars running in one direction and the left hand track for cars running in the other.[85]

Children run over.[86]—Whether a child is so young as to be incapable of contributory negligence is a question which has come frequently before the courts. In some cases it is held as a matter of law that the child is non sui juris.[87] In others, whether or not a child is sui juris is held to be a question for the jury.[88] If a child is admitted to be sui juris, it is universally held that the standard of care for him is that degree of care which might reasonably be expected from a child of his age and capacity.[89] Where a parent sues for injury to a child, the parent's contributory lookout to avert injury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 478. The rule that a motorman may act on the theory that a person on or near the track who sees a car approaching will get out of the way of danger, has no application after it becomes reasonably apparent that this will not be done. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 865. A motorman who sees an adult, apparently in possession of his faculties, on the track, is entitled to assume that such person is actually of sound mind. Simpson v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 658. The motorman of a slowly moving car is not negligent in not anticipating that a push cart will run into the car after the head of the car has safely passed it. Schneiders v. Central Crosstown R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 453. Drunk and disorderly passenger was ejected, and ran after car. Car on return trip ran over him lying on track in dark 600 feet from point where ejected. Held that company was not negligent. Johnson v. Chester Traction Co., 209 Pa. 189, 58 A. 153. Where a man was run over at night in the middle of a block, and there was no evidence of undue speed, and street and car were well lighted, there was held to be no evidence of the company's negligence. Kelly v. Union Traction Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 998.

83. The jury are warranted in finding negligence where there is an ordinance requiring a motorman to give warning and to stop at the first appearance of danger, and a motorman on a special car of unusual width saw a pedestrian standing near the track and proceeded without stopping or giving warning. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 865. Running down a sharp grade in the day time where a crowd of people stand near the track at the scene of a recent accident, with no control of the car and without sounding an alarm, is gross negligence. Rhymes v. Jackson Elec. R., Light & Power Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 708. Though a pedestrian hears the bell of a street car and does not get off the track, those in charge of the car have no right to run him down. Peterson v. New York City R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 22.

84. Where there is evidence of too great speed and lack of control, negligence is for the jury. Mulligan v. Third Ave. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 320, 84 N. Y. S. 366. The speed of a car in sparsely settled country districts is not to be governed by the same rules as the speed of a car in a crowded city street. Vizacchero v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 105. On long stretches of country road, where the statutes and town ordinances fix no limit to their speed, no given rate of speed is per se excessive. Id.

85. Stewart v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 22 App. D. C. 496.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1755.

87. An infant of 2½ is too young to be negligent himself, or to have the negligence of others imputed to him. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Bordenchecker, 33 Ind. App. 138, 70 N. E. 995. A child under three years of age cannot be guilty of contributory negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 237.

88. Child of seven. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus, 33 Ind. App. 663, 71 N. E. 971. A jury may find that a boy 7½ years of age is non sui juris. Fritsch v. New York & Q. C. R. Co., 93 App. Div. 554, 87 N. Y. S. 942. A child of 8½ is not entitled to a ruling that he is incapable of contributory negligence, as a matter of law. Rohloff v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 76 Conn. 689, 58 A. 5. Whether a child of nine years and three months is sui juris is a question for the jury. The presumption is that he is not sui juris. Dempsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 639.

89. Fry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 960; Rohloff v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 76 Conn. 689, 58 A. 5; Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Penn. [Del.] 527, 57 A. 906; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus, 33 Ind. App. 663, 71 N. E. 971; Heinzie v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 182 Mo. 528, 81 S. W. 848. Instructions applying to six year old child same rule as to contributory negligence as would apply to adult, held error. Id. A girl of eight who runs diagonally across the street in front of a car, when she, if going in the most direct line, must go 16 feet before the car goes 85, is guilty of contributory negligence. Poland v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 653. Boy of 5 years and 4 months held guilty of contributory negligence in going in front of car. Murphy v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 1018. A girl of 15 who voluntarily placed herself in a position of danger to rescue a young child was held not guilty of contributory negligence, as a matter of law, and not to be a trespasser in acting as she did. Manzella v. Rochester R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 457. Where a boy of 15 alighted 10 feet from a crossing and, crossing a parallel track, was struck by a car coming at high speed in the opposite direction, contributory negligence is for the jury, though there is no evidence that plaintiff stopped, negligence is a defense.[90] A street car company has a superior right of way, since the cars cannot leave their tracks.[91] The general rule is that those in charge of a street car must use reasonable care to prevent accident.[92]

(§ 6) C. Accidents to drivers or occupants of wagons. Collisions between car and wagon. Due care.[93]—It is well settled that the driver of a wagon, in approaching and crossing street railway tracks, must use due care under all the circumstances of the case.[94] Some courts remain satisfied with this general statement of the rule, and discourage any attempt to have it stated with greater particularity.[95] Others listened or looked. Monck v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 97 App. Div. 447, 90 N. Y. S. 818. Where a boy of nine could have stood in safety between two parallel tracks, but tried to cross ahead of an approaching car, his due care was held to be for the jury. Fry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 960. Where a boy of 4½ was sent to the store in charge of a sister of 11, a finding of the jury that parents and children were free from contributory negligence and that the motorman was negligent was held to be justified. Cameron v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 208.

90. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus, 33 Ind. App. 663, 71 N. E. 971. Where a woman let her two little children play on the porch and went about her housework for five minutes, during which time one child strayed onto the track and was killed, there was held to be no evidence of the mother's negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1041.

91. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 527, 57 A. 906.

92. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus, 33 Ind. App. 663, 71 N. E. 971; Heinzle v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 182 Mo. 528, 81 S. W. 848. An instruction that the servants of a street car company must take reasonable measures to avoid injuring persons in the street is not objectionable as giving the jury to understand that the pedestrian has rights superior to those of the company, or that the gripman must look in any particular direction. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Johnson, 205 Ill. 32, 68 N. E. 463. Where a child of two was run over in the daytime and there was evidence of high speed and that plaintiff was or should have been seen a long distance away, instructions that neither speed nor failure to sound gong contributed to or had any effect in causing the injury are properly refused. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48. An instruction that a motorman "must make sure" that a child will be free of the track at the point where it is approaching or crossing the track is erroneous. The company is not an insurer of the child's safety. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1041. An instruction that children have the right to use the streets and that the company must use due care, in proportion to the danger, is correct. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 237. Conduct of a street railway company which would come up to the proper standard in the case of injury to an adult may fall short of it when a child is injured under the same circumstances. Rohloff v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 76 Conn. 689, 58 A. 5. Those in charge of a street car have no right to presume that a child of 2½ approaching the car, will turn back from impending peril. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Bordenchecker, 33 Ind. App. 138, 70 N. E. 995. Same—child under 3. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 237. Where a child of 2½ ran suddenly and unexpectedly directly in front of an electric car, it was held that the company was not responsible. Miller v. St. Charles St. R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 401. Where a motorman ran past one child, knocking him out of the way, and then ran over and killed another, when the car could have been easily stopped, it certainly cannot be said that there is no evidence of negligence. Dempsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 639. A motorman has no right to assume that a child under 3 will exercise the care of an adult, and not enter the track as a car is approaching. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1041. Where a child 3½ years old was playing in the street and when first the motorman observed her she was running toward the track and he immediately shut off the power and put on the brake, but was unable to stop the car in time, the company was held not liable. Coessens v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 751. Negligence in running over a child is for the jury where there is evidence of high speed and evidence that the motorman could have stopped the car in time to avoid the accident. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Bordenchecker, 33 Ind. App. 138, 70 N. E. 995. Where speed is limited by an ordinance the company cannot claim they are entitled to travel at the maximum limit, for circumstances may make it necessary to go more slowly. Fry v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 960. Where a pedestrian sees a car, not to give warning is not negligence. Id.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1757.

94. Lack of due care, however slight, if it contributes to cause the injury, will bar recovery. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 374. One who is caught in a position of sudden peril is not held to the usual standard of care. Where a horse caught his foot in the track and the driver did not jump out as a car approached, but kept trying to get the horse free, the driver's due care was held properly submitted to the jury. Murphy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 945. Where the street was obstructed with other teams and the plaintiff's horse fell while crossing the track, it was held that it was not the duty of the plaintiff to leave the wagon, as a matter of law. Kansas City-Leavenworth R. Co. v. Langley [Kan.] 78 P. 858.

95. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 443, 49 S. E. 282; Columbus R. Co. v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 589, 48 S. E. 149; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E.

believe in stating the rule more specifically, and it has been held that it is the duty of a driver to look and listen before crossing the track.[96] In a rural region a driver approaching a crossing where the view is obstructed must not assume that no car is approaching.[97] He must be careful in proportion to the known peril of the situation and must look and listen if reasonable prudence dictates it.[98] As a general rule where a driver goes in front of a car and there is evidence either that he did not look or that he had a clear view and could have seen the car if he had looked, he cannot recover.[99] If the driver of a wagon swears that he looked for a car and saw none, while all the facts go to show that if he had looked he must have seen the car, his testimony may be disregarded.[1] As a general rule where there is evidence that the driver did look for a car, this is sufficient to take the question of his due care to the jury; especially where there is evidence of negligence on the part of the company, such as high speed, lack of warning, or failure to stop in time.[2] Evidence of negligence held sufficient where horse's shoe caught in track and car approached and struck without slacking speed.[3] The mere fact of looking once for a car, however, does not by any means absolve the driver from taking further precautions.[4]

663; Butler v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 775. Whether failure to look and listen is negligence is a question for the jury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 253. Rules governing a driver's conduct in approaching a steam railroad do not apply to street cars; in approaching the tracks of the latter a driver need not look and listen as a matter of law. Marden v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 530. He need not look and listen as an absolute matter of law. Richmond Passenger & Power Co. v. Gordon, 102 Va. 498, 46 S. E. 772. Failure to look and listen in a city is not contributory per se. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624. A person about to cross a street railway track in a city is not bound to stop, look and listen, as a matter of law. Los Angeles Traction Co. v. Conneally Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 104. Failure of a person about to cross a track to stop and look is not negligence per se. It is a question for the jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624.

96. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741. Failure to look and listen before crossing a street railway track is negligence. Hartman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 86. Failure to look and listen, however, will not preclude recovery where plaintiff could have crossed in safety but for an excavation of which he had no knowledge. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 88.

97. Robinson v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 57.

98. Looking and listening is not an absolute duty but may be duty in fact. Robinson v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 57.

99. Butler v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 775; Dunn v. Old Colony St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 557; Markowitz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 351. A charge that in the absence of evidence tending to show whether deceased, killed in a collision between a wagon and a car, stopped, looked and listened before crossing, it would be presumed that he did, is error, where there was evidence that the horse was going at a gallop and that the driver saw the car. Los Angeles Traction Co. v. Conneally Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 104.

1. Lightfoot v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 30; March v. Union Traction Co., 209 Pa. 46, 57 A. 1131.

2. Robinson v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 368; Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill, 209 Ill. 638, 71 N. E. 43; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 163; Evensen v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 187 Mass. 77, 72 N. E. 355; McCarthy v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 559; Wood v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 298; Story v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 424, 83 S. W. 992; Murray v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 501, 83 S. W. 995; Freymark v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 606; Conrad v. Elizabeth, etc., R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 676, 58 A. 376; Vrooman v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 459; New York Bread Co. v. New York City R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 421; Kennedy v. Consolidated Traction Co., 210 Pa. 215, 59 A. 1005. Where the driver of a hose cart testified that he had his team under control, that the car stopped before the crossing, and that when he went ahead the car started up and struck him, it was held that his due care was for the jury. O'Neill v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 453, 83 S. W. 990. The driver of a truck is not negligent, as a matter of law in attempting to cross a street railway track when a car is coming at very high speed 550 feet away. He has a right to assume the car will not continue to run at illegal speed. Vrooman v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 459. The driver of a wagon has a right to presume that the driver of a street car will use proper care to avoid a collision. Robinson v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 368.

3. Murphy v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 945.

4. Where a driver saw a car coming, and proceeded to cross the track without quickening his speed and without looking again, he was held guilty of contributory negligence. Monahan v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 537; Daly v. New York City R.

If he sees a car coming and determines to take his chances of getting across in front of it, but miscalculates his distance, he is held unable to recover,[5] and it is contributory negligence for a driver to place himself in a position of danger where there is sure to be a collision unless the car is stopped, relying upon the motorman to avoid the collision.[6] Certain other circumstances are to be taken into consideration as bearing on the question of the driver's due care, such as that the street[7] or the view[8] is obstructed.

Driving on or near tracks.[9]—The driver of a wagon has a perfect right, not only to drive in the street where street railway tracks are situated, but to drive upon the tracks themselves, provided he uses due care;[10] but it is equally well settled that he must be on the alert in some manner, and in many cases his lack of due care

Co., 92 N. Y. S. 245; Goldmann v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & Light Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 384. When driver of buggy on dark night arranged to have companion look for cars while he drove, negligence is for jury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Slifer [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 19. It is not enough to look for a car and then to go back to a team and drive slowly onto the track, where the view is obstructed, without looking again. A driver who does this is guilty of contributory negligence. Gilmore v. United Traction Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 97.

5. Groening v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 355; Riley v. Shreveport Traction Co. [La.] 38 So. 83; Heying v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 667; Bernstein v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 228; Daly v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 245; Lyons v. Union Traction Co., 209 Pa. 72, 58 A. 118; Criss v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 525. Where a driver knew a car was coming by the noise and the light, and deliberately took his chances of getting across ahead of it, he was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Owens, 119 Ga. 833, 47 S. E. 213. Where one drove across a street car track at a crossing after having seen a car approaching, he was held guilty of negligence precluding his right to recover. Mease v. United Traction Co., 208 Pa. 434, 57 A. 820.

6. Zerr v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 353.

7. A driver stopped his truck on the track, with a car approaching not more than 30 feet distant, to let a loaded truck pass. If he had not stopped, he could have cleared the car, and his only excuse was that he gave the loaded truck the right of way. It was held that he was guilty of contributory negligence precluding a recovery. Heinz v. Union R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 392; Heuber v. Consolidated Traction Co., 210 Pa. 70, 59 A. 430. A driver of a vehicle who attempts to cross a track between cars, blocked and stationary, and while his passage is delayed by an obstructing vehicle is injured by the sudden starting of the car, is not contributorily negligent as a matter of law. Walker v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 321, 80 S. W. 282. Where a driver looked for a car and attempted to cross a crowded street, but was forced back by a team and struck by a car coming at high speed, the case was held to be one for the jury. Oehmler v. Pittsburg R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 617.

8. The failure of a driver to pause before crossing a track until a moving car has passed out of his line of vision, so as to give him a clear view of the track, is contributory negligence precluding a recovery for a collision with a car coming from the opposite direction. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741. Where a driver looked while his view was obstructed by a passing car, and then, looking straight ahead, drove onto the tracks and was struck by a car coming on the other track, and hearing was not to be depended on since it was not possible to distinguish between the noise of the two cars, there was held to be no evidence of his due care. Saltman v. Boston El. R. Co., 187 Mass. 243, 72 N. E. 950. Where the view at a street crossing is obstructed, the driver must use increased care. Dungan v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 458, 58 A. 868.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1759.

10. Belford v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 148, 88 N. Y. S. 267; Hellriegel v. Southern Traction Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 392. Driver is not a trespasser but must use care in driving on track. Strode v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 976. He may anticipate that a proper lookout will be kept by the carmen and that they will exercise ordinary care to avoid running into him. Greene v. Louisville R. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1154. He has a right to drive on the track even on a dark night, where there is room in the road, and he need not be constantly looking back, but may rely to some extent on the motorman's using due care. Ablard v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 741. The failure of a driver to leave the track when not warned by an approaching car will not, as matter of law, prevent a recovery for the negligence of the motorman in running him down without warning. Barringer v. Union Traction Co., 91 N. Y. S. 386. A charge that a street railway track is a place of danger and that one who goes thereon without looking and listening does so at his peril is improper, as applied to the facts, when it appeared that a wagon was 12 inches from the track when struck and that the plaintiff was driving alongside and not on the track. Rouse v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 404. Where a driver drove on the left hand of a street because the right was in such condition as rendered it impracticable or unsafe, it was held that he did not violate an ordinance requiring drivers to "keep as nearly as practicable to the right." Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Slifer [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1055.

has been held to be so evident as to bar recovery,[11] and it has been held that it is the duty of a person driving on the tracks to get out of the way of a car coming up so as not to make it slow down or stop, and if he fails to do so and is injured, the railroad company is not liable.[12] On the other hand, the circumstances may be such that the question of due care is more properly left to the jury.[13] In cases of teams left near the track, the circumstances may be such as to preclude recovery,[14] or the case may properly go to the jury on the questions of due care of the driver and negligence of the company.[15]

11. It is the duty of the driver to look back at intervals for a car if he can. Union Biscuit Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 297, 83 S. W. 288. A driver is not in the exercise of due care when he drives for three-fourths of a mile within 3 or 4 feet of the track when he can see only in front, and then turns suddenly across the track without looking or listening. Seele v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 187 Mass. 248, 72 N. E. 971. It is the duty of one who needlessly drives upon the track of a street railway to look back at intervals for approaching cars, and it is not sufficient to look merely when going upon the track, and afterwards after driving thereon for 200 feet. Schleicher v. Interurban St. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 356. The driver of a covered wagon, with its back obstructed by a leather curtain, who drives on the track unnecessarily without looking back for a block, is negligent and cannot recover. Sauer v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 865. Where a driver had plenty of room, but drove with one wheel inside the track, and, although he had a clear view for 500 feet, was struck by a car coming in the opposite direction, he was held not to be in the exercise of due care. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Slifer [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1055. Where the driver of a three horse team, driving near the track, drew nearer to the track without looking to the rear and was struck by a rapidly approaching car, it was held that he was not in the exercise of due care. Cicardi v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 462, 83 S. W. 980. Where the plaintiff, driving on the track at night, was struck by a car coming in the opposite direction with gong ringing, and lights which could be seen for 521 feet, the plaintiff was held unable to recover. Randall v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 165.

12. Belford v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 148, 88 N. Y. S. 267.

13. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 374. It is not negligence to drive on the track with side and rear curtains down. A street car company cannot ordinarily run down a team from behind without negligence or wilful wrong. Richmond Passenger & Power Co. v. Allen [Va.] 49 S. E. 656. Driver turning onto track to avoid an obstacle. Sullivan v. Boston El. R. Co., 185 Mass. 602, 71 N. E. 90. Driving on a street car track, if negligence, is not the proximate cause of an accident resulting from being struck by an electric car running with power on and without an attendant. Chicago City R. Co. v. Eick, 111 Ill. App. 452. A driver has a right to drive on a street railway track, using due care, and failure to leave the track on hearing a gong ring will not justify a motorman in running the wagon down. Strode v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 976. Where the driver of a team drove on the track at night and was struck by a car without headlight, and there was evidence that there was no signal, the case was held to be one for the jury. Sexton v. West Roxbury, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 315. One driving upon the side of a street has a right to drive upon a street railway track in order to pass another vehicle standing between the curb and the track. Goodson v. New York City R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 10. Where a man drove on the car tracks on a dark night, with a light in the rear of his wagon, due care was held to be for the jury. Davis v. Media, etc., R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 444. Where a driver drove on the track unnecessarily at night, and looked back a minute before he was struck, his due care was held to be for the jury. Kimble v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 78, 82 S. W. 1096. Where the driver of a coach drove on the tracks because the street was obstructed with snow, and heard no warning from the car which struck him, the question of his due care was held to be for the jury. Dages v. New York City R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 29.

14. Where both the motorman and the driver of a truck left standing near the track were at fault in calculating that there was space enough for the car to pass, there can be no recovery. Gass v. New York City R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 950. Where the uncontradicted evidence of the motorman showed that a wagon was left near the track with another wagon between it and the car, and that there would have been no collision if the horse had not backed towards the track as the car approached, there was held to be no evidence of the company's negligence. Wilson v. United Traction Co., 94 App. Div. 539, 88 N. Y. S. 122. Where a driver, while loading his truck, backed against the curb, turning his horse and shafts at right angles to the wagon, and then turned the horse slightly so that he was struck by a passing car, the driver was held to be guilty of contributory negligence. Silz v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 302.

15. Where a cart was struck by a long and heavy car which projected about four feet beyond the rail as it rounded a curve, it was held that negligence and contributory negligence were for the jury. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Blick, 22 App. D. C. 194. Where the plaintiff sat in a buggy standing near the track, and the horse becoming frightened backed upon the track, due care and negligence were held to be for the jury. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Shanks, 139 Ala. 489, 37 So. 166. Where a man left his team on the track while collecting laundry, and it was struck by a car coming at high speed, the case was held to be for the jury. Barnes Bros. v.

Imputed negligence.[16]—The question as to whether a driver's lack of due care can be imputed to a person driving with him has arisen in a number of cases. The true rule would seem to be that where the passenger has no opportunity for direction or control, the driver's lack of due care cannot be imputed to him,[17] although the contrary has been held.[18]

Negligence of company.[19]—A street railway company is required to use only reasonable care to avoid accidents.[20] This duty to use reasonable care devolves equally upon the driver of the team and those in charge of the car.[21] Between street crossings a street car has a superior, but not an exclusive, right of way.[22] At street crossings the rights of those in charge of a team and of a street car are equal.[23]

Pittsburg R. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 36. Leaving a horse unhitched in the street in violation of a city ordinance will not bar an action for negligent injury by a street railway company unless the illegal act is a proximate cause of the injury. Munroe v. Hartford St. R. Co., 76 Conn. 201, 56 A. 498. Though a horse is wrongfully in the street, a street railway company is liable for killing it if the accident could have been prevented by the motorman's using ordinary care. Laronde v. Boston, etc., R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 684.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1761. See, generally, Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764.

17. The negligence of a driver is not imputable to a guest or companion who exercises no control. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245. The negligence of the driver of an engine is not imputable to the engineer riding on the rear of the wagon. McKernan v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 812. Where a wife was the passive guest of her husband in a wagon, it was held that the wife must use due care under all the circumstances, but that if she did use due care, the negligence of the husband could not be imputed to her. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571. The plaintiff rode gratuitously with the driver and owner of an ice cart, who was engaged in carting ice for the plaintiff, his customers and others. The plaintiff was not authorized to have any control over the wagon, and exercised none. It was held that the driver was not a servant and that his negligence was not imputable to the plaintiff. Scarangello v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 430. Where the plaintiff rode in a closed carriage, the company is not relieved of its negligence because the driver of the carriage was also negligent. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Leach [Ill.] 74 N. E. 119.

18. Negligence of a driver precludes recovery by a person driving with him. Lightfoot v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 30. The negligence of a servant who is driving a wagon is chargeable to his master who is riding in the wagon with him. Markowitz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 351. The negligence of a driver is imputable to a companion who intrusts himself to the care of the driver. Evensen v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 187 Mass. 77, 72 N. E. 355. Whether plaintiff, driving in company with another man who did the driving, was chargeable with driver's negligence, held to be a question of fact. Joyce v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 469. In an action by one who drove in a wagon trusting himself entirely to the driver, plaintiff has a right to have the question of the driver's due care submitted to the jury. Sullivan v. Boston El. R. Co., 185 Mass. 602, 71 N. E. 90.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1761.

20. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245.

21. In case of collision, there is no presumption as to whether it was caused by the driver of the car or the wagon. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245; Conrad v. Elizabeth, etc., R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 676, 58 A. 376. An instruction in a derailment case that the company must run its cars so that the safety of other travelers will be protected, is error, as imposing too great a liability upon the company. Perras v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. 260, 84 N. Y. S. 992. A presumption of negligence on the part of the company is raised by the fact that a street car having no one in charge collides with a vehicle. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624. In the case of a collision with a float it was held that where the street is crowded the motorman must use greater care. Haas v. New Orleans R. Co., 112 La. 747, 36 So. 670. Willful negligence has been defined as a reckless disregard of the safety of the person or property of another, by failing, after discovering the peril, to exercise ordinary care to prevent the injury. Alger, Smith & Co. v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 298. Where an accident occurs through a car's running along a public street, with the power turned on and no one in control, this raises a presumption of negligence. Whether this presumption is successfully rebutted is for the jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. Eick, 111 Ill. App. 452.

22. Perras v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. 260, 84 N. Y. S. 992. In the interests of the public, the general right of a street railway company, over that portion of the street where its tracks lie, is superior to that of other persons using the street. Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579. This qualified right of way gives the company no right to drive its cars at a dangerous rate of speed. Vrooman v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 459.

23. Koehler v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 904. At street crossings the rights of wagons and electric cars are equal. Marden v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 530; Little v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 502, 57 A. 920. At street crossings both the driver of a train and those in charge of the car must use reasonable care under all the Perhaps no rule of law is more often invoked in cases of collisions between wagons and street cars than that known as the "last clear chance" rule. This rule embodies the principle that notwithstanding the plaintiff's lack of due care, if the company in the exercise of ordinary care could nevertheless have avoided the accident, it may still be held liable.[24] It should be noted, however, that while this rule is universally accepted as correct, it is not always applicable to the facts presented in each individual case.[25] Some cases hold that violation of an ordinance limiting the speed of a car is negligence per se.[26] Other cases hold exactly the opposite view.[27] Apart from circumstances. Foulk v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 60 A. 973. Both the driver of the team and those in charge of the car must use reasonable care, under all the circumstances of the case. Boudwin v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 60 A. 865. A driver can presume that at a street crossing a motorman will use due care with regard to speed, control and warning. Meng v. St. Louis & Suburban R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 553, 84 S. W. 213. If the driver of a team who reaches a crossing and sees a car coming is justified in thinking he can cross before the car, running at its usual speed, reaches the crossing, he cannot be said to be negligent as matter of law in trying to cross. Omaha St. R. Co. v. Mathiesen [Neb.] 103 N. W. 666. Where a driver was injured at a street intersection, where his rights were equal to those of the operatives in charge of a street car, it was held that his motive in attempting to cross at that point was immaterial. Solomon v. Buffalo R. Co., 96 App. Div. 487, 89 N. Y. S. 99. Where an ordinance provides that vehicles going north and south shall have the right of way over vehicles going east and west, a street railway company is entitled to an instruction that such ordinance is controlling. Kroder v. Interurban St. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 341. An ordinance providing that vehicles going north and south have the right of way over vehicles going east and west does not give a street car going north an absolute right to the exclusive use of the street as against a vehicle going west. Demarest v. Forty-Second St., etc., R. Co., 93 N. Y. 663. Because a team is nearer a point of crossing than a car, this fact gives the driver of the team no absolute right of way. Post v. New York City R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 1109. A funeral procession has no right of way over street cars at a street crossing, although a uniform custom of the company to give way, known to the driver of the carriage, may be considered on the question of his due care. Foulk v. Wilmington City R. Co. [Del.] 60 A. 973. Where two streets intersected a third so as to form a triangle, this was held to be a street intersection, where the rights of the company and the driver of the vehicle were equal. Solomon v. Buffalo R. Co., 96 App. Div. 487, 89 N. Y. S. 99. Where the night is dark, and a street car is lighted up, the driver of a wagon cannot impose on a street car company the duty to exercise greater vigilance than the law requires of himself by driving without any lights on his wagon against recognized custom and regulations, relying on the vigilance of the street car driver. Koehler v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 904.

24. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Brantley [Ala.] 37 So. 698; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 663; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1034; Union Biscuit Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 297, 83 S. W. 288; Murray v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 501, 83 S. W. 995; Meng v. St. Louis & Suburban R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 553, 84 S. W. 213; Little v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 502, 57 A. 920; Memphis St. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 374. Where negligence of plaintiff directly contributed to injury, he may recover if motorman was guilty of reckless or wanton misconduct. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 88. If a collision with a team be due to wanton negligence supervening the contributing negligence of the driver, the street railway is liable. Evidence that car was 500 feet away when driver turned onto the car track held insufficient. Alger, Smith & Co. v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 298. It is a wrong to run into a wagon even if the driver was negligent in remaining on track. Strode v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 976.

25. Kimble v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 78, 82 S. W. 1096; Richmond Passenger & Power Co. v. Gordon, 102 Va. 498, 46 S. E. 772. Where a horse was killed in a collision, and evidence showed that the brakes were applied and the track sanded for 20 feet from where the collision took place, and the car ran 75 feet beyond, held, the "last chance doctrine" did not apply. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741. The doctrine does not apply where the negligence of the plaintiff and that of the defendant are practically simultaneous. Butler v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 775. Where there is no intervening time in which the motorman could have time to act, the "last clear chance" rule does not apply. Lindgren v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 103 N. W. 307.

26. Violation of city ordinance with regard to speed and lookout is negligence per se. Holden v. Missouri R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 665, 84 S. W. 133. Violation of a city ordinance regulating the speed of the car and the driver's lookout is negligence per se. Such an ordinance, however, must be given a reasonable construction. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 374.

27. The violation of a rule of a street railway company as to limited speed in passing engine houses is not negligence per se. McKernan v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 812. A speed ordinance does not govern the speed at which cars may run at street intersections. This depends on the conditions and surroundings. Story v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 424, 83 S. W. 992.

the question of regulation by ordinance, numerous rulings have been made on the question of proper speed,[28] proper warning,[29] and proper lookout and care of motorman.[30]

Frightening horses.[31]—Taking into consideration the many different states of fact which attend cases of this description, it is difficult to lay down any more specific rule of law than that the driver of the horse and the employe in charge of the car must both do what they reasonably can to avoid the danger of an accident.[32]

28. A speed of 8 or 10 miles an hour in a city is not of itself a violation of law. Reid Ice Cream Co. v. Interurban St. R. Co., 97 App. Div. 303, 89 N. Y. S. 968. A charge that a car may be run faster in the suburbs than in the crowded city is the statement of a fact which it is the jury's place to determine. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 163. Running at usual speed at the place of the accident, though this is faster than in other parts of the city, does not show negligence. Warner v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 125, 77 S. W. 67. It is negligence to run at high speed on a dark night, relying solely on the ringing of the gong. Ablard v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 741. In an accident at a street crossing where the car was running 25 miles an hour when it was 200 feet away, and speed was not slackened, this was held to make a prima facie case of negligence. Paine v. San Bernardino Valley Traction Co., 143 Cal. 654, 77 P. 659. Driving street car 25 to 30 miles an hour on dark night without headlight is certainly evidence of negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Slifer [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 19. It is reversible error to affirm without qualification the point that "A railway is negligent if it runs its car at a rate of speed that will not permit its stopping within the distance covered by its own headlight. The rate of speed proper to be maintained necessarily varies with the circumstances. Jensen v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 4. A rule of a street railway company that its cars shall not go over four miles an hour when passing engine houses should not be construed as applying only to the space directly in front of such houses. McKernan v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 812. Evidence that the motorman had a clear view and was running at a speed greater than that allowed by a city ordinance makes out a strong prima facie case. Impkamp v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 655, 84 S. W. 119. Ordinance regulating speed of steam cars is not applicable to street railways. Columbus R. Co. v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 589, 48 S. E. 149. An ordinance declaring it unlawful for any cart, wagon or other vehicle used to carry passengers to be driven through the streets at a greater than specified speed is not applicable to street surface cars operated by electricity. Robinson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1010.

29. Hellriegel v. Southern Traction Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 392. Where the gong was sounded 1,000 feet away from the accident and again sharply three times when 160 feet away, there is no negligence in this respect. Warner v. St. Louis & M. R. Co., 178 Mo. 125, 77 S. W. 67. That every street car is furnished with a gong is matter of common knowledge. An instruction as to giving warning need not specify how the warning should have been given. Story v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 424, 83 S. W. 992. If the approach of a car is known, there is no negligence in not ringing the gong. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245.

30. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill, 209 Ill. 638, 71 N. E. 43; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 663; Butler v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 775; Evensen v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 187 Mass. 77, 72 N. E. 355; Schaub v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 85; Kimble v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 78, 82 S. W. 1096; Muriano v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 262. Negligence presumed from uncontrolled car striking buggy after motorman had fallen off due to electric shock. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624. A statute requiring operatives on steam railroads to stop before crossing intersecting tracks does not apply to a street railway. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Joiner, 120 Ga. 905, 48 S. E. 336. Where a wagon is driven suddenly in front of a car so that the car cannot be stopped in time to avoid an accident, the company is not liable. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245. A motorman cannot be expected to infer that the driver of a train will leave a place of safety near the track and turn in upon the track. Hollingsead v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 514. A motorman who sees a wagon approaching the track has a right to presume the driver will use his senses in looking for cars. Markowitz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 351. Where the view is obstructed at a street crossing, the motorman must use increased care and caution. Dungan v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 458, 58 A. 868. Where a wagon was driven on the track on a dark night with a light in the rear, and was struck by a car coming at a high speed, the negligence of the motorman was held to be for the jury. Davis v. Media, etc., R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 444. Instruction that motorman must keep car under perfect control held erroneous. Columbus R. Co. v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 589, 48 S. E. 149. A motorman seeing a team approaching the track has a right to assume it will stop in a place of safety. Heying v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 667. In the case of a collision between a cab and a car, where there was no evidence of the distance between them when the horse backed onto the track, there was held to be no evidence of defendant's negligence. Herbst v. New York City R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 1109. An instruction that in a given exigency, any special one of several means at hand should be adopted to avoid an accident, is error. Memphis St. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 374.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1765.

(§ 6) D. Bicycle riders; horseback riders; animals run over.[33]—If a bicycle rider without looking[34] or after having looked when he could not see,[35] or otherwise negligently rides on a track,[36] he cannot recover for resultant injuries, though the car was negligently managed,[37] unless in view of his danger the company or its servants then failed to save him while it might have done so.[38] It is not ex-

32. Where a girl of 15, driving with her sister, attempted to alight to hold their frightened horse by the head, it was held that she was not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. McVean v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 527. Where the plaintiff drove with one hand and held on to a barrel in his wagon with the other, and continued to so drive after his horse became frightened at an electric car until the accident occurred, he was held guilty of contributory negligence. Moulton v. Sanford, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 59 A. 1023. Where one was injured by a collision with a car while driving along a street, evidence that operatives of the car failed to stop when they saw the horse was frightened and the driver motioned them to, held to show negligence. Lexington R. Co. v. Fain, 25 Ky. L. R. 2243, 80 S. W. 463. Where one was injured in a collision, an instruction that if the operatives saw the danger in time to stop the car, the driver should recover, but if the car stopped and when stationary the wagon was brought in contact with it by the motion of the horse, he should not, was proper. Id. An instruction on contributory negligence should have been given where evidence tended to show that a collision was the result of a driver's mismanagement of his horse while the car was stationary. Id. A street railway company in operating its cars along a public road must not make unusual and unnecessary noises likely to frighten animals, and if they do so, they are liable for resulting damage. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Joiner, 120 Ga. 905, 48 S. E. 336. If the gong is rung after either the motorman or conductor sees that it is frightening a horse, the company is liable without regard to whether the gong was sounded by the one who made the discovery, since the one making the discovery should at once have notified the one ringing the gong to desist. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1054. When an ordinance limited the speed of a car to 12 miles an hour, and the car which frightened a horse was going 20 miles an hour, it is proper to submit the issue whether the horse was frightened by the car being run at excessive speed. Id. Where a horse becomes frightened in a narrow space crowded with other vehicles, the motorman, on seeing the horse's fright, should immediately bring his car as far as possible under control. McVean v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 527. Where a motorman sees that a team of horses are frightened, and the horses are in close proximity to the car, he should stop the car if he can reasonably do so, in time to avoid the injury. Christy v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 194. In the case of an accident resulting from a horse taking fright at an electric car, there is no presumption of negligence on the part of the company merely from the happening of the accident. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Johnson, 120 Ga. 908, 48 S. E. 389. Where a horse became frightened and backed suddenly onto the track at night in front of a car, there was held to be no evidence of the motorman's negligence. Dunkle v. City Passenger R. Co., 209 Pa. 125, 58 A. 268. Where it appears in evidence that the motorman after discovery of the situation made every proper effort not only to prevent a collision, but to avoid further frightening the horse, no negligence of the company is shown. O'Brien v. Blue Hill St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 951. A street railway company cannot use unnecessary noises to frighten horses. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Blacknall [Ga.] 50 S. E. 92. Where a horse became frightened at an electric car while crossing a narrow bridge, whether the motorman used the reasonable care of an ordinarily prudent man was held to be for the jury. Adsit v. Catskill Elec. R. Co., 88 App. Div. 167, 84 N. Y. S. 393.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1766.

34. Where the facts show that the rider of a bicycle could have seen the car if he had looked and could have heard it if he had listened, he is guilty of contributory negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Zaring, 33 Ind. App. 297, 71 N. E. 270.

35. Plaintiff looked for cars when his view was obstructed, and then, without looking again, crossed and was struck. He was held guilty of contributory negligence. Knapp v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1071.

36. Where the testimony showed that a woman on a bicycle either saw a car and took her chances of crossing ahead of it or failed to see it when she had ample opportunity for doing so, she was held guilty of contributory negligence. Schroder v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 App. Div. 624, 84 N. Y. S. 371. A bicycle rider, approaching a double track, saw two cars coming in opposite directions. Waiting for the north bound car to pass, she passed directly behind it and was run over by the south bound car. It was held that she was guilty of contributory negligence. Furlong v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1008.

37. Where a bicycle rider turned suddenly in front of a car traveling at a high rate of speed, there was held to be no negligence on the part of the motorman. McKee v. Harrisburg Traction Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 498. Where a bicycle rider was struck at a narrow place between the track and curb, and there was evidence that the motorman had a clear view and increased his speed, the case was held to be for the jury. Reid v. United Trac. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 55.

38. Even if the rider of a bicycle is negligent in placing himself in a position of danger upon the tracks, the motorman may still be held liable if he could have prevented the accident by the use of ordinary care. Rawitzer v. St. Paul City R. Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 664. Where the rider of a bicycle rode cused by the contemporaneous negligence of a driver which forced the bicycle rider into a place of danger.[39] Horseback riders are governed by rules similar to those of drivers.[40] Aside from statutory liability,[41] and in the absence of negligence in allowing animals to be on or near the track, there is no liability respecting animals at large save for willful, wanton or reckless acts.[42] If, when an animal running at large is on the track or apparently about to go on, nothing is done to avoid striking it, a street railway is liable.[43]

§ 7. Damages, pleading and practice in injury cases are governed by rules which pertain to other topics.[44] A few illustrative cases of peculiar pertinency have been collected. Any evidence descriptive of the place or conditions,[45] the car or its equipment,[46] tending to show care or the lack of it or to increase or diminish the measure of it, is relevant; but prior accidents[47] and that which relates to other cars[48] or times[49] are not, and it is error to show that the carmen were arrested soon after the accident.[50] The violation of safety regulations may be proved, though common-law negligence alone and not statutory is pleaded,[51] unless they merely enact the common law.[52] Experts may state how shortly a car might near the track not in a position of obvious danger and suddenly fell against a passing car, it was held that an instruction that the company was liable if the motorman saw the peril in time to avoid the injury, but failed to do so, was properly refused. Shaw v. Louisville R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 359, 81 S. W. 268.

39. Where a bicycle rider adduced evidence to show that through the negligence of the driver of a team he was forced to turn suddenly when near the track, it was held that such negligence would not relieve the company from the consequences of its own negligence, if any, and that the negligence of the bicycle rider and the company were rightly left to the jury. Palmer v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 124 Iowa, 424, 100 N. W. 336.

40. A horseback rider may lawfully go upon the tracks of a street railway, if he uses due care, and a motorman must give him due warning of the approach of the car. Brown v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 310, 83 S. W. 310. See, also, ante, § 6 C.

41. For failure to erect cattle guards in country district, road is liable when animals are injured. Evans v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 44 Misc. 345, 89 N. Y. S. 1089. A dog is the kind of property for an injury to which an action at law may be maintained, but is not within a code provision as to "cattle and other live stock." Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R., Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

42. A street railway company, with cars properly equipped, is not liable for killing a dog unless the killing was willful, wanton, or reckless. Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R., Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822. As in the case of a man, a motorman may assume that a dog, apparently in possession of his faculties, will get out of the way of an approaching car when on or near the track. Id.

43. Airikainen v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 264. See, generally, Animals, 3 Curr. L. 159, and compare Railroads, 4 Curr. L. 1181.

44. See Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997; Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764; Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980; Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133; Trial, 4 Curr. L. ...., and other practice topics.

45. Evidence that prior to an accident many small boys were gathered in the vicinity is admissible to show that it was a thronged place. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 527, 57 A. 906. Where a horse was frightened by a street car, it is proper to show that the street was much traveled by the public, as showing the care required in operating the car. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1054. In a street car accident, evidence that the scene of the accident was a crowded city street is admissible as bearing on the question of the company's negligence. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Taylor [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1045.

46. In an action for negligent killing of a person in the street, evidence that no fender was on the particular car which caused the accident is admissible. Fritsch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 93 App. Div. 554, 87 N. Y. S. 942.

47. In an action for injuries caused by a defective rail, evidence of prior accidents of similar character at the same place is inadmissible. Gregory v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 546. In a derailment case, evidence of derailment at other times and places under circumstances not similar is inadmissible. Perras v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. 260, 84 N. Y. S. 992.

48. Where a dog was run over by an electric car, evidence as to fenders on other cars is not competent. Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R., Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

49. Testimony of a motorman, on cross examination, that he had trouble on another line, is improperly admitted. Munroe v. Hartford St. R. Co., 76 Conn. 201, 56 A. 498.

50. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195.

51. Where, in an action for common-law negligence, an ordinance is not pleaded, evidence of violation of such ordinance is nevertheless admissible as bearing on the question of general negligence. Meng v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 553, 84 S. W. 213.

52. Municipal ordinances as to the care have been stopped,[53] and whether electric equipment was safe,[54] and lay witnesses may testify as to speed.[55] The usual rule of res gestae is illustrated in the cases below,[56] likewise the admissibility of statements against the declarant.[57] As in other cases an inference may be drawn from the failure to produce many accessible witnesses.[58] An allegation that a car was "carelessly, negligently and wrongfully run and managed" is general and does not specify negligence so as to exclude the rule res ipsa loquitur.[59] If a negligent act be specifically alleged and the proof if any relates to a different act of negligence, the evidence cannot go to the jury.[60] It is for the jury to say what care is proper to the circumstances.[61]

Notice of claim.—Under a statute providing for written notice in cases of accident from the negligence of a street railway, a notice by a married woman gives her husband a right to maintain an action for loss of her services.[62] to be exercised by employes of a street railway company held to state merely general rules of law, and to be properly excluded from evidence. Christy v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 194.

§ 8. Statutory crimes against ordinary railroads have no application to street railways.[63]

53. A motorman who has run cars on a line for more than a year and who is familiar with a street crossing is qualified to testify as an expert as to the distance within which a car approaching the crossing at a certain speed could be stopped. Such a question should include a due regard to the safety of the passengers. Heinzle v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 182 Mo. 528, 81 S. W. 848. Expert evidence as to time in which car could have been stopped held admissible. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 169. Expert evidence as to time in which car could have been stopped held admissible. Meng v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. App. 553, 84 S. W. 213.

54. Testimony of an expert witness as to the safety of an insulator is properly admitted, but evidence as to other insulators is not competent. North Amherst Home Tel. Co. v. Jackson, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 386.

55. A witness standing in his storehouse, 25 feet from the door, may testify as to the speed of a car 80 feet from the place of the accident. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 663, 47 S. E. 850. Any one of average intelligence who sees a moving car is competent to testify as to its speed. Metropolitan R. Co. v. Blick, 22 App. D. C. 194. A question whether a car was moving "slowly or fast" is bad on account of its indefiniteness and uncertainty. Lindgren v. Omaha St. R. Co. [Neb.] 103 N. W. 307.

56. In a collision case, a declaration of the motorman almost immediately after the accident that he "lost control" is not admissible as part of the res gestae. Norris v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 460. Statements of a witness made several minutes after a collision, after the car had left, are not admissible as part of the res gestae, but merely to contradict the witness. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245. Testimony of a witness to the accident as to remarks made by him to the motorman when he stopped the car is inadmissible. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Taylor [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1045. A statement made by a child of 8 as witness was assisting in taking his body from under the car is admissible as part of the res gestae. Di Prisco v. Wilmington City R. Co., 4 Pen. [Del.] 527, 57 A. 906.

57. Declarations of a servant made after the accident cannot be used for or against the company, but may be used to contradict the witness. Columbus R. Co. v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 589, 48 S. E. 149. Declarations of a motorman made to plaintiff's attorney long after the accident are not competent evidence against defendant. Dorry v. Union R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 637.

58. It is not error for plaintiff's counsel to draw an inference from the absence of witnesses, where the record shows that a car had a conductor and 50 passengers, and there was no effort to obtain the conductor and but one of the passengers. Airikainen v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 264.

59. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624.

60. Where negligence of motorman is claimed, and evidence is introduced that conductor was talking with passengers, the court cannot refuse to charge that there is no evidence that collision was due to conductor's negligence. Palmer v. Larchmont Horse R. Co., 95 App. Div. 106, 88 N. Y. S. 447. Where a pedestrian alleged negligence on the part of motormen in charge of cars traveling in opposite directions on separate tracks, and the evidence failed to show negligence on the part of one motorman, it was error to refuse to charge that there was no evidence of such negligence, though the court stated that both sides claimed that the injury was caused by the other car. Sealey v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 97 App. Div. 399, 89 N. Y. S. 1045.

61. An instruction that greater care must be used in operating cars in crowded cities than in sparsely settled districts is erroneous, as invading the province of the jury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Taylor [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1045.

62. Peck v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 757.

63. The willful breaking of a window of a street car in use upon a street railway is not a violation of a statute making it a felony to maliciously injure or destroy locomotive cars, etc. State v. Cain, 69 Kan. 186, 76 P. 443.

STREETS; STRIKES; STRIKING OUT; STRUCK JURY, see latest topical index.

SUBMISSION OF CONTROVERSY.

Statutes providing for the submission of controversies without action do not apply to the submission of ordinary actions on an agreed statement of facts.[64]

In Pennsylvania any persons willing to become parties to an amicable action may enter into an agreement in writing for that purpose, and on production of such agreement to the prothonotary of any court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter, he is required to enter the same on his docket, after which the case shall be deemed pending in like manner as though it had been commenced by summons.[65] Where no action is pending and the parties desire the opinion of the court on a case stated, it should be filed in connection with an amicable action so as to show upon the record an actual, pending action.[66]

In order to confer jurisdiction on the court to determine questions submitted to it without action, on an agreed statement of facts, there must be a real controversy between the parties, which they could have settled in a civil action brought by one against the other.[67]

After the filing of the submission, the controversy becomes an action and is subject to all provisions of law relating to proceedings in an action.[68] One of the parties should be designated as the plaintiff, and the other as the defendant,[69] and the claim of each set forth in the nature of a prayer for judgment.[70] All the essential facts should be stated so as to indicate the basis of the claim of each party, and to enable the court to render judgment upon it.[71] In case the statement is defective, an additional statement may be filed.[72]

The judgment should fully conform to the terms of the agreed statement.[73] A judgment cannot be entered upon default, or upon the failure of one of the litigants to appear and argue his side of the controversy.[74]

Where the agreed statement provides that the court may draw such infer-

64. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 793, does not apply to case which was commenced by petition, and in which answer was interposed and issues made up in ordinary manner. Smith v. Smith [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 586. In such case statement can be brought upon appeal only by bill of exceptions, and is not part of record proper. Id.

65. Act June 13, 1836 (P. L. 568). Miller v. Cambria County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 591. Where two persons cause paper to be filed in court of common pleas, as of a certain term, the caption of which shows that parties have assumed positions of plaintiff and defendant, and which stipulates that cause shall be tried by court without a jury, court will construe it as agreement for amicable action. Id.

66. Altoona v. Morrison, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 417.

67. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1138. De Lucca v. Price [Cal.] 79 P. 853. Where justice issued search warrant against L., which had been delivered to sheriff who had not taken any steps to serve it, held that there was no question in difference between justice and L. which could be subject of an action so as to authorize submission by them of question whether justice had jurisdiction to receive and file the affidavit for the warrant, and to issue the same. Id. Fact that action of justice was reviewable by certiorari immaterial. Id. It must appear by affidavit that the controversy is real, and that it is brought in good faith to determine the rights of the parties. De Lucca v. Price [Cal.] 79 P. 853; Heasty v. Lambert, 90 N. Y. S. 595.

68. Code Civ. Proc. § 1280. In re Yerks' Estate, 89 N. Y. S. 869.

69, 70, 71. In re Yerks' Estate, 89 N. Y. S. 869.

72. Code Civ. Proc. § 1281. Case continued for single term for that purpose. In re Yerks' Estate, 89 N. Y. S. 869.

73. Where agreed case stipulated that if a certain foreclosure proceeding was invalid, plaintiff owned the property subject to a mortgage, judgment for plaintiff should expressly declare that his ownership was subject to defendant's rights under the mortgage. Langmaack v. Keith [S. D.] 103 N. W. 210. On submission between county and city to determine whether members of fire department are exempt from county and state taxation, no judgment can be rendered against city for taxes which should have been collected in past years, but were not, though counsel stipulated that it might be, in case of a decision against the exemption. Jefferson County v. Watertown, 90 N. Y. S. 790.

74. Heasty v. Lambert, 90 N. Y. S. 595.

ences of fact as are warranted, an appeal presents only questions of law, and the supreme court cannot draw any inference of fact.[75]

In Maryland, where the case is submitted upon an agreed statement of facts, the court may draw all inferences of law or fact that the court or jury could have drawn from such facts, as if they had been offered in evidence on a trial.[76] Hence, where the case is submitted to the court for an opinion on the facts, the judgment will not be reversed on appeal because the statement of facts was not in proper form.[77]

SUBPOENA, see latest topical index.

SUBROGATION.

§ 1. Definition and Nature (1583).
§ 2. Definition and Nature (1583).
§ 3. How Forfeited or Lost (1586).
§ 4. Remedies and Procedure (1586).

§ 1. Definition and nature.[78]—Subrogation is the substitution of another person in place of a claimant to whose rights he succeeds in relation to the claim,[79] or an equitable assignment investing one paying the debt of another with all the rights of the creditor thereto.[80] The right of subrogation or of equitable assignment is not founded upon contract, nor upon the absence of contract, but is founded upon the facts and circumstances of a particular case and upon principles of natural justice.[81] Such facts and circumstances may, however, arise out of contract looking expressly toward a subrogation as well as by operation of equity in the absence of contract.[82] At law, if the surety pays off the debt for which he is bound, and upon which a judgment has been obtained against his principal and himself, he must, if he would preserve the judgment with the liens and other rights thereby acquired against the principal, procure its assignment to a third person;[83] but

75. Webber v. Cambridgeport Sav. Bank [Mass.] 71 N. E. 567.

76. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 26, § 15. City of Baltimore v. Consolidated Gas Co., 99 Md. 540, 58 A. 216.

77. City of Baltimore v. Consolidated Gas Co., 99 Md. 540, 58 A. 216.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1768.

79. Cyc. Law Dict. "Subrogation." An exhaustive monograph covering all phases of "The Right to Subrogation" is found in 99 Am. St. Rep. 474, appended to American Bonding Co. v. National Mechanics' Bank [97 Md. 598] 99 Am. St. Rep. 466.

80. Ferd Heim Brew. Co. v. Jordan [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 927.

81. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419.

82. Voluntary payment or mere understanding will not give right. Browder & Co. v. Hill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 821.

NOTE. Conventional subrogation arises, not by force of law, but by reason of an agreement by the parties that a third person or one having no previous interest in the matter involved shall, upon discharging an obligation or paying a debt, be substituted in the place of the creditor in respect to such rights, remedies, and securities as he may have against the debtor. Wilkins v. Gibson, 113 Ga. 31, 38 S. E. 374, 84 Am. St. Rep. 204; Home Sav. Bank v. Bierstadt, 168 Ill. 618, 48 N. E. 161, 61 Am. St. Rep. 146; Barker v. Boyd, 24 Ky. L. R. 1389, 71 S. W. 528. It has been said that conventional subrogation can result only from an express agreement, either with the debtor or creditor, and that it is not enough that a person paying the debt of another shall do so merely upon the understanding on his part that he should be subrogated to the rights of the creditor. New Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Wortendyke, 27 N. J. Eq. 658; Seeley v. Bacon [N. J. Eq.] 34 A. 139. It is not to be understood from this, however, that an agreement for subrogation will never be implied. Wilkins v. Gibson, 113 Ga. 31, 38 S. E. 374, 84 Am. St. Rep. 204; Heuser v. Sharman, 89 Iowa, 355, 56 N. W. 525, 48 Am. St. Rep. 390. The agreement may be made between the debtor, creditor, and the third person, or between the creditor and the third person, or even between the debtor and the third person so long as the creditor is not thereby prejudiced. Patterson v. Clark, 96 Ga. 494, 23 S. E. 496; Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Wert, 26 F. 294; Fivel v. Zuber, 67 Tex. 275, 3 S. W. 273, citing Fuller v. Hollis, 57 Ala. 435; Mitchell v. Butt, 45 Ga. 162; Caudle v. Murphy, 89 Ill. 352; New Jersey, etc., Ry. Co. v. Wortendyke, 27 N. J. 658; Owen v. Cook, 3 Tenn. Ch. 78; Morgan v. Hammett, 23 Wis. 34. Compare Harrison v. Bisland, 5 Rob. [La.] 204; Hoyle v. Cazabat, 25 La. Ann. 438; Brice v. Watkins, 30 La. Ann. 21. But substitution cannot be brought about, probably, by a contract between the debtor and a stranger to which the creditor is not a party, as to a part only of the debt. Smith v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 29 S. W. 1116.—From monograph, "The Right to Subrogation," 99 Am. St. Rep. 476.

83, 84. Davison v. Gregory, 132 N. C. 389, 43 S. E. 916.

in equity, when the surety or a subsequent incumbrancer, or any other person having an interest in the property affected by the liens, pays off the debt of his principal for the protection of the property liable for the debt, he is subrogated to the rights of the creditor whose debt he has paid, and to all securities held by him, without a formal assignment.[84] Once arising, the right of subrogation is assignable, and may be enforced by the assignee.[85]

§ 2. Right to subrogation.[86]—The general rule is that when two or more persons are each liable to a third and one of them ought to pay the amount rather than the other, and one of the latter does pay the indebtedness, he is thereupon subrogated so as to stand in the shoes of the principal with all his rights and remedies against the principal, sureties, and co-sureties. It is generally and most frequently applied to cases where the person advancing money to pay the debt is a surety or secondarily liable,[87] or where one of several equally liable satisfies the entire claim,[88] and it subsists whether or not the obligation is satisfied of record.[89] Where by statute the personal property of a decedent is primarily liable for his debts, and his widow pays debts secured by a lien upon real estate to which she is entitled, she is subrogated to the claim against the personalty.[90] Where the payment of interest coupons is secured by a mortgage, the assignee is subrogated thereto irrespective of whether he would be so by operation of law.[91] Subrogation is also applicable to cases where a party is compelled to pay the debt of a third person to protect some interest of his own,[92] or where one in good faith purchases property sold to satisfy a lien, which sale was in fact invalid,[93] such as a void foreclosure sale,[94] even when the premises in question were a homestead;[95] but the purchaser seeking subrogation must allege in his complaint that

85. Weimer v. Talbot [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 372.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1768.

87. Kolb v. National Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247; In re Rock Hill Cotton Factory Co., 68 S. C. 436, 47 S. E. 728; Thurston v. Osborne-McMillan Elevator Co. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 892; Weimer v. Talbot [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 372. By a guarantor or indorser. Mankey v. Willoughby, 21 App. D. C. 314.

Note: Right of stockholder paying corporate debts, see Clark & Marshall, Corp'ns, § 830.

88. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445.

89. The cancellation of the mortgage of record will not necessarily defeat such subrogation, save as against the intervening rights of third parties without notice. Bennett v. First Nat. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 129.

90. Whitmore v. Rascoe [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 860.

91. Washington Loan & Trust Co. v. Ritz [Wash.] 80 P. 174.

92. Butler v. Brown, 205 Ill. 606, 69 N. E. 44. A junior mortgagee may redeem from a senior mortgagee and thereby become subrogated to all the rights of such senior mortgagee. Illinois Nat. Bank v. Trustees of Schools, 211 Ill. 500, 71 N. E. 1070. When a person having an interest in real property pays money to satisfy a lien thereon in order to protect that interest, he is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the incumbrancer, and considered as an assignee of the lien, for the purpose of affecting substantial justice, although the lien is discharged of record. Bennett v. First Nat. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 129. Where creditors secured by a third trust deed furnish their trustee the money with which to pay off or take up the note secured by the first trust deed, they are entitled to be substituted to the rights of the payee thereunder, though the form of the endorsement on the note is to their trustee, as trustee for the debtor. Davison v. Gregory, 132 N. C. 389, 43 S. E. 916. Where an owner of land sold the timber thereon, and thereafter sold the timber to a third person, and such third person paid a mortgage thereon, on the decree for specific performance of the first sale, such third person is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee. Cape Fear Lumber Co. v. Evans [S. C.] 48 S. E. 108. A co-tenant paying encumbrances is subrogated thereto against his co-tenants. Funk v. Seehorn, 99 Mo. App. 587, 74 S. W. 445. Assignee of junior incumbrancer who redeems from sale is subrogated to purchaser. Illinois Nat. Bank v. Trustees of Schools, 111 Ill. App. 189.

93. A bona fide purchaser of property for value from a pledgee of the same, who sold it in violation of the pledge, succeeds to all the rights of the pledgee. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419.

94. Griffin v. Griffin [S. C.] 49 S. E. 561. Purchaser at invalid sheriff's sale by mortgagee is subrogated to mortgage. Rey v. Pitman, 119 Ga. 678, 46 S. E. 849.

95. Butler v. Brown, 205 Ill. 606, 69 N. E. 44.

he purchased under the belief he was obtaining the legal title.[96] And so where one advances money to satisfy an existing lien and substitute therefor one to himself, and if for some reason this latter lien is ineffective, the person so satisfying the first lien may be subrogated thereto;[97] but the mortgage or incumbrance paid off must be a valid subsisting lien,[98] and be given for the exclusive purpose of paying the prior one.[99] Subrogation cannot rest solely on the basis of an agreement with the debtor unless equities are thereby created, and they do not conflict with those of the creditor or third persons,[1] as where the debt was secured, and to enforce the lien will prejudice collection of other debts to the same creditor.[2]

The right will be granted only to one who has an interest to protect,[3] and not to a mere volunteer,[4] and he must be a purchaser for value,[5] and have satisfied the entire claim,[6] either by himself or some person acting in privity with

96. Griffin v. Griffin [S. C.] 49 S. E. 561.

97. Sproal v. Larsen [Mich.] 101 N. W. 213; Lashua v. Myhre, 117 Wis. 18, 93 N. W. 811.

98. One who loans money to pay off a void mortgage which was given to pay off a valid lien is not subrogated thereto. Henry v. Henry [Neb.] 103 N. W. 441. Where notes were given as part of the purchase price of a saw mill, on payment thereof by the sureties they were substituted to the vendor's lien; but the sureties on notes given subsequently by the vendees to release the lien are not on payment thereof subrogated thereto, for it ceased when released by the vendors. Miller v. Knight Mfg. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1201, 83 S. W. 631.

99. Where an invalid mortgage is executed for the payment of a purchase-money mortgage and to purchase additional material for improvements, the mortgagee is not subrogated to the original mortgage to the exclusion of prior liens. Nicholson v. Aney [Iowa] 103 N. W. 201. And further subrogation may be had where by fraudulent representations as to the value of the consideration one is induced to satisfy a mortgage. Coulter v. Minion [Mich.] 102 N. W. 660.

1. Browder & Co. v. Hill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 821. Neither a laborer's lien (Acts Tenn. 1897, p. 222, c. 78), nor the preference given to wages in bankruptcy will result to claimants who filled store orders given for wages, charging the same to the bankrupt, his estate being insufficient to pay preferred claims. Id.

2. Browder & Co. v. Hill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 821.

3. Blydenburgh v. Seabury, 93 N. Y. S. 330. Being interested in the payment of the debts of his deceased wife, the husband had a right to pay debts in order to avoid the bringing of action thereon, and is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the creditors whose debts he paid. Riddle v. Riddle, 26 Ky. L. R. 231, 80 S. W. 1129. Where money borrowed by an executor was used to pay debts of the estate, the lender was entitled to subrogation to the rights of the creditors whose debts were thus discharged, though a mortgage unauthorized. Talliferro v. Thornton's Ex'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 183, 80 S. W. 1097. Where an administrator pays debts to protect the estate, he is subrogated to the rights of the creditors. Jones v. Dulaney [Ky.] 86 S. W. 547. The grantee of an estate involved in litigation as conveyed in fraud of creditor has such interest as to entitle him to be subrogated to liens thereon which he satisfied, though the conveyance is subsequently set aside. Lilianthal v. Lesser, 92 N. Y. S. 619.

4. A purchaser of municipal bonds in the open market is a volunteer who is not subrogated to special equities which may have existed in favor of the original holders. Beardsley v. Lampasas [C. C. A.] 127 F. 819. Where an insurance agent agreed to pay the first premium on a policy issued to defendant, in the absence of evidence that the agent was secondarily liable to insurer for such premium, an action to recover the same could not be maintained by insurer for the benefit of the agents on the ground that they were subrogated to insurer's rights to recover the premium. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Wetherill [C. C. A.] 127 F. 947. A mere volunteer will not be subrogated to rights of earlier creditor. Bouton v. Cameron, 205 Ill. 50, 68 N. E. 800; Schneider v. Sellers [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 126. A prospective heir is a mere volunteer. Blydenburgh v. Seabury, 93 N. Y. S. 330. One who at request of a co-tenant discharges an incumbrance, claiming an assignment, is not a mere volunteer. Simonson v. Lauck, 93 N. Y. S. 965.

5. Payment of incumbrances as part of the purchase price. Stastny v. Pease, 124 Iowa, 587, 100 N. W. 482. Conveyance of land in consideration of love and affection; grantee on payment of liens not entitled to recover on promise of grantor to satisfy them. Fischer v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 852. A surety subrogated to creditor rights against security with a co-surety only on payment of indebtedness. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311.

6. Where a surety on a tax collector's bond pays the full amount of his bond, he is not subrogated where the entire loss is not satisfied. State v. Perkins [La.] 38 So. 196. A junior incumbrancer, who has paid the interest and certain instalments only on the principal of the prior incumbrance, is not, in the absence of some special agreement, entitled to subrogation until the whole debt has been paid; the rights of the mortgagee must be entirely divested before him,[7] and have no notice of the prior liens,[8] and subrogation is not allowed where his interest is that of grantee of the mortgagor.[9]

The party subrogated may enforce all the remedies to which the creditor was entitled,[10] but he also takes subject to such claims of set-off and equities as the principal may have against the surety;[11] but his right does not extend to subrogation to the claims of the creditor against persons secondarily liable for the default of the principal with whom he has no privity.[12]

§ 3. How forfeited or lost.[13]

§ 4. Remedies and procedure.[14]—While at law if a surety pays off the debt primarily owed by another, he must take an assignment to himself or a third person in equity, it operates as such an assignment without a formal transfer.[15] In some states the surety must not only pay the amount due on the execution but must also have the entry of payment made thereon, before he can control the judgment and execution against a surety.[16] In a state of facts which entitles the plaintiff to be subrogated in equity under the prayer for general relief to the rights of the judgment creditor, the failure to ask specifically for such relief, is not ground for dismissing the bill.[17] Where the purchaser at a void foreclosure sale seeks subrogation to the mortgage, he must allege in his complaint that he another person can be substituted, by mere operation of law. Chapman v. Cooney [R. I.] 57 A. 928. Support for life consideration of conveyance—till at least part performance, subrogation cannot be had. Helms v. Helms, 135 N. C. 164, 47 S. E. 415.

7. Where judgments for torts were obtained against a city in such a manner as to give it a recovery over against a water board representing the commonwealth, or against contractors acting under contract with the water board, such contractors being the parties ultimately liable, and the commonwealth paid the judgment, it was subrogated to the rights of the city against the contractors; and the city could enforce the commonwealth's right of subrogation in an action against the contractors for the use of the commonwealth, although the judgments were never paid by the city, but by the commonwealth directly to the judgment creditors. City of Cambridge v. Hanscom [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1030.

8. Where a purchaser knowingly buys property subject to tax liens on payment thereof, he cannot assert them as against prior incumbrancers. In re Brinker, 128 F. 634; Rothschild v. Bay City Lumber Co., 139 Ala. 571, 36 So. 785; King v. Huni, 25 Ky. L. R. 2266, 81 S. W. 254.

9. The grantee of the mortgagor paying the tax liens and the mortgage does not cut out prior judgments, for the legal effect of his payments is as if the mortgage had never been made. Stastny v. Pease, 124 Iowa, 587, 100 N. W. 482.

10. Regardless of any claim for indemnity being barred by statute. Ferd Heim Brew. Co. v. Jordan [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 927. Note secured by mortgage; may enforce mortgage. Gunby v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417; Cook v. Landrum, 26 Ky. L. R. 813, 82 S. W. 585; Thurston v. Osborne-McMillan Elevator Co. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 892. On payment of judgment may have execution thereon against the principal. Wilks v. Vaughan [Ark.] 83 S. W. 913; City of Cambridge v. Hanscom [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1030; Nelson v. Webster [Neb.] 100 N. W. 411; Kolb v. National Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247; Lawrence Co. Nat. Bank v. Gray, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 62; Pickens v. Wood [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 818. The surety of a defaulting trustee may on payment follow the trust funds into the hands of a third party as could the cestui que trust. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97. Where a fire insurance company pays a loss caused by the negligence of a railroad, it is entitled to be subrogated to the insurer's right of action against the latter. Caledonia Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 544. A surety for a defaulting guardian, who settles with her successor, is subrogated to the rights of the wards, and entitled to recover from debtors of the estate whose claims the guardian wrongfully compromised, such amounts as the wards themselves could have recovered. Browne v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 593. Where a purchaser gives a bond to pay dower in land and defaults, his surety on payment of the same is entitled to the land. Van Ormer's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 234. In a suit by an insured against an insurer, the surety of an appeal bond therein continuing, the case may enforce the remedy of the latter against the former. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. v. Haaslocher, 91 N. Y. S. 1022.

11. In re Rock Hill Cotton Factory Co., 68 S. C. 436, 47 S. E. 728.

12. A surety company has no cause of action against a bank who negligently paid money of employer to a defaulting employe. American Bonding Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ky.] 85 S. W. 190.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1770, and ante, § 2.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1770.

15. Davison v. Gregory, 132 N. C. 389, 43 S. E. 916.

16. Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162.

17. Hawpe v. Bumgardner [Va.] 48 S. E. 554.

bought with the belief he was obtaining the legal title.[18] The debtor who procured one to take up and be subrogated to a mortgage then in foreclosure may have the suit discontinued.[19]

SUBSCRIBING PLEADINGS, see latest topical index.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

§ 1. Nature, Requirements and Sufficiency as a Contract (1587).
§ 2. Rights and Liabilities Arising from Subscriptions (1587).
§ 3. Enforcement, Remedies and Procedure (1588).

§ 1. Nature, requirements and sufficiency as a contract.[20]—To make a subscription binding, it must be accepted as any other promise or offer; and if this is not done within a reasonable time, the subscription is a mere offer and cannot be enforced.[21] Where the terms of the subscription stipulate that an express acceptance is required within a stated time, such acceptance is a condition precedent to the validity of the contract.[22] But it is held that subscription contracts made to foster and encourage public and quasi-public enterprises are favored in law, and performance is the only acceptance, and notice of acceptance, required,[23] and there need be no particular or formal delivery, but only a delivery to him who takes the subscription.[24] It is not necessary that the acceptor or person who performs the act or does the thing for or toward which the subscription is to go shall be in esse at the time the subscription is made.[25] The acceptance of contracts for subscriptions to churches or charitable or kindred institutions is generally held to constitute a good consideration, since obligations are thereby assumed.[26]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities arising from subscriptions.[27]—To render the subscriber or promisor liable, there must be a performance of the conditions of the 18. Griffin v. Griffin [S. C.] 49 S. E. 561. Where a surety pays a debt owed by the principal to the state to enforce subrogation thereon, the state need not be made a party. Pickens v. Wood [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 818.

19. Simonson v. Lauck, 93 N. Y. S. 965.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1770.

21, 22. Powers v. Rude, 14 Okl. 381, 79 P. 89.

23. Merchants' Bldg. Imp. Co. v. Chicago Exch. Bldg. Co., 210 Ill. 26, 71 N. E. 22. Notice of acceptance of subscription for railroad, and express obligation to build the road, held unnecessary, where subscriber allowed work to be done without giving notice that he would not pay. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899.

24. Merchants' Bldg. Imp. Co. v. Chicago Exch. Bldg. Co., 210 Ill. 26, 71 N. E. 22 That makes him an agent to deliver or communicate it to the world, or any person or corporation that would comply with its conditions. Id.

25. A subscription to the owner of premises on which a business should be located, could be accepted by a corporation thereafter organized, which owned the building in which the business was carried on. Merchants' Bldg. Imp. Co. v. Chicago Exch. Bldg. Co., 210 Ill. 26, 71 N. E. 22.

26. Subscription for foreign missionary work upheld where society accepted the obligation, received a payment on account, sent missionaries to the field designated, and did not attempt to raise funds in the field itself. Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions v. Smith, 209 Pa. 361, 58 A. 689.

NOTE. Consideration: Where several promise to contribute to a common object, desired by all, the promise of each may be a good consideration for the promise of the others. Cong. Soc. v. Perry, 6 N. H. 164, 25 Am. Dec. 455; Church in Second Precinct v. Stetson, 5 Pick. [Mass.] 506; 1 Parsons, Contr. 399-401. If a benefit accrues to the promisor, or if any loss or disadvantage accrues to the promisee, at the request or on the motion of the promisor, in either case the consideration is sufficient to maintain assumpsit. Forster v. Fuller, 6 Mass. 58, 4 Am. Dec. 87; Hildreth v. Pinkerton Academy, 29 N. H. 227; Haines v. Haines, 6 Md. 435.—See note in 3 L. R. A. 468.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1771.

NOTE. Whether subscription contract is joint or several: In case of the ordinary subscription contract, where signers agree to pay the sums set opposite their names, the courts have usually considered the contract of each subscriber as separate from that of the others, so as to sustain an action against each subscriber individually. In most instances, however, the cases are brought and determined without any question being raised as to the form of the action. The following are illustrative: Beach v. First M. E. Church, 96 Ill. 177; McDonald contract by the party to whom the subscription is to be paid;[28] but substantial compliance with the terms of the contract is sufficient.[29] If no condition or obligation to perform is expressed in the contract, it will be implied in law.[30] Conditions must be performed in the stipulated time or in a reasonable time if none be stipulated.[31] After acceptance of a subscription and partial performance by the acceptor, the subscriber cannot withdraw his subscription or release himself from his obligation.[32] One who subscribes to the construction of a railroad, on condition of its extension to a certain point, is estopped, after construction of the road, to deny liability on the ground that the point to which the line was extended was outside the state where the company was chartered, and its agreement was therefore ultra vires.[33] Funds being subscribed and the trustee having collected a part of the money before performance of the condition, the funds collected should be returned to the subscribers, when it appears that conditions will not be performed.[34] A subscription for an unfulfilled purpose is not payable by the custodian to the intended beneficiary, even though such custodian may have acquired it by false promises.[35]

§ 3. Enforcement, remedies and procedure.[36]—Subscribers may recover their money paid to a purpose which was not or cannot be realized.[37] Parol evidence is in such a case admissible to show the purposes for which funds were raised.[38] In a suit to obtain such funds, all the members of the committee should be made parties, though the treasurer retained the money as custodian.[39] In an action on a subscription, only such evidence relative to performance of conditions is relevant and material as goes to the subscriber's liability.[40] Actual notice of a condition is a question of fact.[41]

v. Gray, 11 Iowa, 508, 79 Am. Dec. 509; Haskell v. Oak, 75 Me. 519; Springfield Street R. Co. v. Sleeper, 121 Mass. 29; Twenty-third Street Baptist Church v. Cornwall, 117 N. Y. 601, 6 L. R. A. 807. Sometimes the language of the contract leaves no doubt as to the intention to create a several liability. First Religious Soc. v. Stone, 7 Johns. [N. Y.] 113. See, also, Mass v. Wilson, 40 Cal. 159; Robertson v. March, 4 Ill. 198; Watkins v. Eames, 9 Cush. [Mass.] 537, and other cases cited in note on the question appended to Gibbons v. Bente [Minn.] in 22 L. R. A. 80.

28. Railroad company held to have no right to funds in hands of a trustee because it had not completed its road to the designated point. Larrimer v. Murphy [Ark.] 82 S. W. 168. A subscription or promise to give to a charitable or public enterprise is not enforceable after the abandonment of the enterprise. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n of America v. McNamara, 95 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 443. Where a scheme for the building of a home by plaintiff was abandoned, a committee which secured funds by a "woman's edition" of a newspaper "for the completion of the home in process of construction" was not bound to turn such funds over to plaintiff. Id.

29. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899. An annual subscription to the owner of premises on condition that the premises are occupied by a certain business concern, payments not to continue more than 15 years, does not require a lease of the premises for a term of 15 years. Merchants' Bldg. Imp. Co. v. Chicago Exch. Bldg. Co., 210 Ill. 26, 71 N. E. 22. The owner of the building in which the concern is located is the owner of the "premises" to whom the subscription is to be paid, though the building is on leased land. Id. A provision for the payment of $1 annual rent does not violate a condition requiring a stock exchange to occupy premises free of rent for a certain term where the rental value of premises was $30,000. Id. Condition of securing a lease of a building by a certain company held to have been performed. Id. Building constructed held to conform substantially to condition. Id. Acts required to be performed by subscription contract held not ultra vires the charters of the corporations which were parties thereto. Id.

30. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n of America v. McNamara, 95 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 443.

31. Powers v. Rude, 14 Okl. 381, 79 P. 89.

32. Subscription for railroad binding. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899.

33. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899.

34. Larrimer v. Murphy [Ark.] 82 S. W. 168.

35. Only persons who had paid the money might complain. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n v. McNamara, 95 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 443.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1772.

37. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n v. McNamara, 95 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 443; Larrimer v. Murphy [Ark.] 82 S. W. 168.

38, 39. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n v. McNamara, 95 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 443.

40. Evidence of acceptance of a subscription contract and performance of work

SUBSTITUTION OF ATTORNEYS; SUBSTITUTION OF PARTIES; SUBWAYS; SUCCESSION, see latest topical index.

SUICIDE.

In civil cases the presumption is against suicide.[42] There is no law denying burial to the body of a suicide.[43] The aiding and abetting of suicide is a murder of which the aider stands as a principal[44] in the second degree if he be absent at the time,[45] but the acts done must have been so intended,[46] and in Kentucky proved by more than an uncorroborated confession.[47]

SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS; SUMMARY PROSECUTIONS; SUMMONS, see latest topical index.

SUNDAY.

The term "Sunday" ordinarily comprehends the natural day, the time from midnight to midnight, but it is competent for the legislature to regulate the day to be observed.[48]

Sunday as nonjudicial or nonlegal day.[49]—Service of judicial process on Sunday was unquestionably void at common law;[50] but the fact that a writ of replevin directs summons to issue on Sunday, so that a second writ is necessary, does not affect the probative force of the return to the first writ as showing defendant's possession,[51] and the publication of an ordinance not being publication of process does not render it void.[52] Where a statute requires an act to be done within a certain number of days, Sunday must be reckoned as one, though it happen to be the last unless expressly or impliedly excluded.[53] Where the last day for the performance of a condition of a contract falls on Sunday, it is sufficient if it is performed the following Monday.[54]

Violation of Sunday laws as defense to actions.[55]—The making of a contract on Sunday is not contrary to public policy.[56] Contracts made in violation of a statute forbidding the doing of any business on Sunday are void and cannot be made the basis of a recovery in the law,[57] and the fact that the defendant does not in accordance with its terms is admissible in an action on the subscription. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899. Evidence relative to railroad company's interest in a town, and manner and time of competing a portion of its road, held immaterial or irrelevant as not affecting liability of subscriber. Id.

41. Merchants' Bldg. Imp. Co. v. Chicago Exch. Bldg. Co., 210 Ill. 26, 71 N. E. 22.

42. Clemens v. Royal Neighbors [N. D.] 103 N. W. 402.

43. Kitchen v. Wilkinson, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 75.

44, 45, 46, 47. Commonwealth v. Hicks, 26 Ky. L. R. 511, 82 S. W. 265.

Note: "Inciting or abetting suicide as crime," see note 66 L. R. A. 304.

48. Comp. Laws N. M. 1897, § 1372, providing that Sunday shall be regarded as the time between sunrise and midnight, is valid. Harrison v. Wallis, 44 Misc. 492, 90 N. Y. S. 44. One claiming that publication of process was void because made on Sunday must show that it was made between such hours. Id.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1772.

50. "Dies Dominicus non est juridicus." See Story v. Elliott, 8 Cow. [N. Y.] 27, 18 Am. Dec. 432.

51. American Nat. Bank v. Strong [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 639.

52. That an ordinance creating a paving district was published on Sunday held not to invalidate a local assessment. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114.

53. Under Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 3, requiring notice of a public improvement to be published for 20 days, Sunday is to be included, though it is the last day of publication. Code, § 382 refers only to procedure in courts of record. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117.

54. Under provisions of a charter party, a vessel was to be ready for cargo on or before a certain date which fell on Sunday. Held, the vessel was in time when she arrived on such date, though notice was not given the charterer until next day, because by the law of the port she could not be loaded on Sunday. Manchester S. S. Co. v. Parr & Son, 130 F. 999.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1772.

56. See note from Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 47 S. E. 19; 2 Curr. L. 1772, n. 34.

57. Pearson v. Kelly [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1064. In an action on a contract, instruction eliminating the question of performance or failure to perform on Sunday was plead freedom from liability on such ground does not preclude him from asserting the defense.[58] The contract being void, it is incapable of ratification.[59]

Sunday laws and prosecution for their violation.[60]—Sunday laws are generally held to be within the police power and therefore constitutional.[61] Where prosecution is provided for their violation, they are penal and are strictly construed.[62] The legislative history may be consulted in ascertaining their meaning.[63] Trivial, technical offenses are not considered as violations.[64] An act imposing a penalty on a seller does not affect the purchaser.[65] Laws forbidding the conduct of a play or public diversion generally except entertainments given by religious or charitable societies,[66] and management of such an entertainment does not subject the manager to criminal punishment.[67] An act not of itself a violation but only so when it interrupts the repose and religious liberty of the community is not an offense unless it causes such interruption;[68] but under a statute, the purport and intent of which is to make it an offense to sell or barter on Sunday or for one to permit his place of business to be open for such purpose, the question of sale is immaterial.[69] In a law that permits entertainments by religious or charitable proper as there was no evidence that the contract provided for Sunday labor. Go Fun v. Fidalgo Island Canning Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 797.

58. Pearson v. Kelly [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1064.

59. Acts of the parties recognizing its existence cannot validate it. Sherry v. Madler [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1095.

NOTE. Ratification of Sunday contracts: As to whether a contract which is unenforceable not because it calls for doing of work on Sunday or is based on work done on that day, but merely because it was entered into on Sunday, there is much conflict of authority. One line of cases holds that an agreement, if otherwise valid, may be confirmed by the promisor on a subsequent week day. Van Hoven v. Irish, 3 McCrary, 443, 10 F. 13; Tucker v. West, 29 Ark. 386; King v. Fleming, 72 Ill. 21, 22 Am. Rep. 131; Love v. Wells, 25 Ind. 503, 87 Am. Dec. 375; Perkins v. Jones, 26 Ind. 499; Russell v. Murdock, 79 Iowa, 101, 18 Am. St. Rep. 348; Cambbell v. Young, 9 Bush. [Ky.] 240; Wilson v. Milligan, 75 Mo. 41; Sayles v. Wellman, 10 R. I. 465; Flinn v. St. John, 51 Vt. 334; Schmidt v. Thomas, 75 Wis. 529. Another line of cases holds that since the agreement is void in its inception it is incapable of ratification. Shippey v. Eastwood, 9 Ala. 198; Plaisted v. Palmer, 63 Me. 576; Cranson v. Goss 107 Mass. 439, 9 Am. Rep. 45; Costello v. Ten Eyck, 86 Mich. 348, 24 Am. St. Rep. 128; Kounty v. Price, 40 Misc. 341; Allen v. Deming, 14 N. H. 133, 40 Am. Dec. 179; Ryno v. Darby, 20 N. J. Eq. 231. See Grant v. McGrath, 56 Conn. 333.—From Hammon, Contracts, § 213. See, also, this work for a valuable discussion of Sunday laws and their construction, and works of necessity, §§ 211a, 212.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1773.

61. The provision of 97 O. L. 436, which prohibits hunting or shooting or having in the open air for such purpose any implements for hunting or shooting on any Sunday, does not abridge the right to keep and bear arms. Walter v. State, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 13.

62. Rev. Laws, c. 98, § 2, subjecting persons violating its provisions to a fine. Commonwealth v. Alexander, 185 Mass. 551, 70 N. E. 1017.

63. "Destination" in Pen. Code 1895, § 420, prohibiting the running of freight trains, means the point at which the train finally stops and not the point at which it crosses the state line. Seale v. State, 121 Ga. 741, 49 S. E. 740.

64. The act of the steward of a club in selling two bottles of beer does not constitute labor under Pen. Code 1895, art 196. Benson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 800. The purchase of a cigar is not a worldly employment or business within the meaning of the law of April 22, 1794. Commonwealth v. Hoover, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 133. Evidence held insufficient to sustain a conviction for doing labor on Sunday. Moss v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 1065.

65. One who purchases a cigar on Sunday does not violate the Law of April 22, 1794. Commonwealth v. Hoover, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 133.

66. A corporation chartered for the purpose of worship in accordance with the principles of the Hebraic religion is a religious and charitable society within Rev. Laws, c. 92, § 2. Commonwealth v. Alexander, 185 Mass. 551, 70 N. E. 1017.

67. Entertainment given by a religious and charitable society. Commonwealth v. Alexander, 185 Mass. 551, 70 N. E. 1017.

68. Playing baseball. People v. Hesterberg, 43 Misc. 510, 89 N. Y. S. 498. Playing baseball is a violation of Pen. Code, § 259, which prohibits acts which interfere with the repose and religious liberty of the community. People v. Poole, 44 Misc. 118, 89 N. Y. S. 773.

69. Under Pen. Code 1895, art. 199, the gist of the offense is the selling, bartering or permitting a place of business to be open for that purpose, and a liquor dealer keeping his place open where his customers congregated, violated the statute, though he made no sale. Armstrong v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 827.

societies, the proceeds of which are to be devoted exclusively to a charitable or religious purpose, "proceeds" means the net returns.[70]

The giving of entertainments in violation of a law may be restrained.[71]

Prosecutions.[72]—An information must charge all the elements of the crime,[73] but an indictment need not allege that the offense charged is not within any of the statutory exceptions.[74]

The superintendent of a company charged with violating the law may justify by showing that employes acted in disobedience of his orders, but mere general orders and rules are not a justification.[75]

Evidence of violation of the law on any Sunday prior to the indictment and within the statute of limitations is sufficient to meet a general averment.[76]

SUPERSEDEAS; SUPPLEMENTAL PLEADINGS, see latest topical index.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

§ 1. Nature, Occasion and Propriety (1591).
§ 2. Proceedings Necessary on Which to Base Remedy (1591).
§ 3. Application for, and Examination of, Defendant and Debtors (1592).
A. Affidavit and Opposition to Same (1592).
B. Order and Citation Process or Warrant (1592).
§ 4. Relief Against Defendants or Debtors (1592).
A. Order for Payment or Delivery (1592).
B. Receivership or Other Equitable Relief (1593).
C. Contempt (1594).
§ 5. Procedure at and after Examination (1594).

§ 1. Nature, occasion and propriety.[77]—Proceedings supplementary to execution were not devised to change or defeat the ordinary remedy by execution, or to deprive the debtor of the right given him to enjoy temporarily his real property after it is sold upon execution, but is intended as an equitable remedy, more in the nature of a creditor's bill, to reach property which, from its nature, or from the fact that it is out of the jurisdiction, or that it is hidden, cannot be effectually reached by execution.[78]

§ 2. Proceedings necessary on which to base remedy.[79]—An execution issued in a proceeding where it is proper,[80] and in a regular manner,[81] is essential. The fact that the debtor's property is subject to execution does not preclude a judgment creditor from obtaining an order for the debtor's examination, under

70. Under Rev. Laws, c. 92, § 2, necessary expenses incidental to the entertainment may be deducted. Commonwealth v. Alexander, 185 Mass. 551, 70 N. E. 1017.

71. Under Pen. Code, §§ 259, 260, 265, prohibiting public sports, exercises or shows, owners of property adjacent to a baseball park may restrain playing on Sunday, on the ground that they are disturbed by the noise and confusion. Dunham v. Binghamton & L. Baseball Ass'n, 44 Misc. 112, 89 N. Y. S. 762.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1773.

73. The playing of baseball on Sunday, not being in and of itself a crime, but only where it interrupts repose and religious liberty of the community, a warrant may not be issued for the arrest of one charged with such offense unless the information charges such interruption. People v. Hesterberg, 43 Misc. 510, 89 N. Y. S. 498.

74. Indictment for violation of Pen. Code 1895, § 420, prohibiting the running of freight trains on Sunday. Seale v. State, 121 Ga. 741, 49 S. E. 740.

75. Superintendent of a railroad responsible for the making of the schedule charged with violating Pen. Code 1895, § 420, prohibiting the running of freight trains on Sunday. Seale v. State, 121 Ga. 741, 49 S. E. 740.

76. Violation of Pen. Code 1895, § 420, prohibiting the running of freight trains. Seale v. State, 121 Ga. 741, 49 S. E. 740.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1774.

78. Steenberger v. Low, 92 N. Y. S. 518.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1774.

80. Execution on order for support of wife and children pending divorce or separation proceedings, being unauthorized, supplementary proceeding cannot be based thereon. Weber v. Weber, 93 App. Div. 149, 87 N. Y. S. 519.

81. The order for examination must be based upon the issue or return of an execution issued upon the judgment as prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2435, 2441. Bank of Port Jefferson v. Darling, 92 N. Y. S. 483.

the Wisconsin law, when the debtor unjustly refuses to apply his property to the judgment.[82]

§ 3. Application for, and examination of, defendant and debtors. A. Affidavit and opposition to same.[83]—Affidavits made on information and belief will not sustain an order for an examination of a judgment debtor unless the sources of the affiant's information are set forth,[84] and unless the sources so disclosed would be competent as direct evidence of the facts stated.[85] The same rule applies to an affidavit for the examination of a third person, alleged to have property of the debtor.[86] A statute requiring the affidavit "to be made to the best of the knowledge and belief of the affiant" is not complied with by an affidavit made according to the "best information and belief" of the affiant.[87] An affidavit alleging the issue and delivery of execution in a certain county, where the judgment debtor had a place for the regular transaction of business, "in person or by agent," is fatally insufficient because of the alternative allegations.[88] Where the judgment has been assigned, supplementary proceedings may be instituted by the attorney of the plaintiff in the action in which the judgment was recovered; and in such case it is immaterial that the original affidavit does not disclose the real ownership of the judgment, such ownership being made to appear by subsequent affidavits.[89] Under the Wisconsin statute, the affidavit for the arrest of a debtor, who is about to leave the state or conceal himself, for the purpose of examining him concerning his property, need not specify the property which he refuses to apply on the judgment.[90] Judgment debtors may oppose an order for the examination of a third person, when the order includes an injunction restraining such third person from paying or delivering their property to the debtors.[91]

(§ 3) B. Order and citation process or warrant.[92]—Irregularities in an order for examination cannot be relied on as an excuse for noncompliance unless the debtor appears and moves to vacate the order.[93] The service of notice upon a debtor to appear for examination, no order forbidding transfer of disposition of the property being made, does not give plaintiff a lien upon defendant's property,[94] nor prevent the defendant from withdrawing funds from the reach of creditors by investing them in a homestead.[95]

§ 4. Relief against defendants or debtors. A. Order for payment or delivery.[96]—Property expressly exempt from execution cannot be reached in supplementary proceedings.[97] Personal earnings of an unmarried man having a widowed mother wholly dependent upon him for support are exempt in Ohio.[98] The court has no authority to order a debtor to collect his choses in action and apply them on

82. Construing Rev. St. 1898, § 3031. Enders v. Smith [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1061.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1774.

84, 85. Ackerman v. Green, 107 Mo. App. 341, 81 S. W. 509.

86. Statement that affiant believed a bank had property of the debtor, because of statements made by the cashier, what the cashier said not being included, insufficient. In re First Nat. Bank, 90 N. Y. S. 941.

87. Ackerman v. Green, 107 Mo. App. 341, 81 S. W. 509.

88. Valid issue and return of execution according to law must appear. Bank of Port Jefferson v. Darling, 92 N. Y. S. 483.

89. Such procedure does not prejudice the debtor's rights. Maigille v. Leonard, 92 N. Y. S. 656.

90. Construing Rev. St. 1898, §§ 3031, 3032. Enders v. Smith [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1061.

91. In re First Nat. Bank, 90 N. Y. S. 941.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1774.

93. Rupert v. Lee, 101 App. Div. 492, 92 N. Y. S. 75.

94, 95. McConnell v. Wolcott [Kan.] 78 P. 848.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1774.

97. Code, § 2463. Steenberger v. Law, 92 N. Y. S. 518. See, generally, Exemptions, 3 Curr. L. 1408. In New York, debtor's wages for 60 days prior to examination are exempt. Corde v. Laughlin, 86 N. Y. S. 795.

98. Earnings less than $150 earned within 3 months next preceding the institution of proceedings. Under Rev. St. §§ 6489, 6680-1. Duffey v. Reardon, 70 Ohio St. 328, 71 N. E. 712.

the debt, but should appoint a receiver for the purpose.[99] The court cannot order property to which defendant's title is not clear and undisputed, to be applied in satisfaction of the judgment.[1]

(§ 4) B. Receivership or other equitable relief.[2]—A receiver of the debtor's property may be appointed where the debtor refuses to apply unexempt property to the satisfaction of the judgment,[3] or where title to property in the hands of a third person is in issue.[4] The appointment of a receiver and his title to the debtor's property are not subject to subsequent collateral attack when statutory requirements were substantially met.[5] No warrant being issued, a receiver can be appointed only after an order for examination has been made.[6] Interveners cannot complain of appointment of a receiver,[7] but may assert title hostile to the parties or the receiver.[8] The receiver can take only such property as may be liable to execution.[9] A receiver may sue a mortgagee, who has sold the mort-

99. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Court [Mont.] 78 P. 69.

1. First Nat. Bank v. Cook [Wyo.] 76 P. 674.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1775.

3. By direct provisions of Rev. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, c. 14. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 102 N. W. 604.

4. Title must be decided in an action. Thompson v. Sage, 94 N. Y. S. 31.

NOTE. Receivers in supplementary proceedings: At any time after making an order requiring a judgment debtor or any other person to attend and be examined, or after issuing a warrant, the judge before whom the order or warrant is returnable may make an order appointing a receiver of the judgment debtor's property. Colton v. Bigelow, 41 N. J. Law, 266; Tillotson v. Wolcott, 48 N. Y. 188; Second Ward Bank v. Upmann, 12 Wis. 499. The appointment rests in the sound discretion of the court. Flint v. Webb, 25 Minn. 263; Dilling v. Foster, 21 S. C. 334. But it would be an oppressive abuse of discretion to appoint a receiver where it appears that mortgage security is ample to pay the creditor in full. Bean v. Heron, 65 Minn. 64. There can be but one appointment of a receiver in such a proceeding. Sparks v. Davis, 25 S. C. 381.

"In the earlier practice, the question of property or no property seems to have been disregarded in appointing receivers in supplementary proceedings, on the ground that, if there was no property to preserve, the plaintiff proceeded at the peril of costs, and that, if there was nothing for the receiver to take, the defendant could not be injured by the appointment. Bloodgood v. Clark, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 574, 577; Fitzhugh v. Everingham, 6 Paige [N. Y.] 29; Browning v. Bettis, 8 Paige [N. Y.] 568. But the practice has somewhat changed. While a debtor's mere denial of having property is no defense to an application for a receiver in supplementary proceedings (Colton v. Bigelow, 41 N. J. Law, 266; Bloodgood v. Clark, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 574; Browning v. Bettis, 8 Paige [N. Y.] 568; Fuller v. Taylor, 6 N. J. Eq. 301), it is not proper to appoint a receiver where the court is satisfied that the defendant has no property (Rodman v. Harvey, 102 N. C. 1; Williams v. Green, 68 N. C. 183), or where he has none outside of that which is exempt (Colton v. Bigelow, 41 N. J. Law, 266; Adler v. Turnbull, 57 N. J. Law, 62); but to justify the appointment of a receiver it is not necessary for it to appear with certainty that the judgment debtor has property which should be applied on the judgment. A reasonable ground to believe that he has such property is enough. Flint v. Zimmerman, 70 Minn. 346; Coates v. Wilkes, 92 N. C. 376; Journeay v. Brown, 26 N. J. Law, 111. In cases where assets subject to the payment of debts are disclosed, a receiver of course is proper. McCullough v. Jones, 91 Ala. 186; Dilling v. Foster, 21 S. C. 334; Penn v. Whiteheads, 12 Grat. [Va.] 74. The appointment of a receiver of the property or interest of a judgment debtor is not 'execution,' and the executors of a deceased judgment creditor are, therefore, not entitled to the appointment of a receiver of the judgment debtor's property. Norburn v. Norburn, 1 Q. B. 448. See the extended note to Lathrop v. Clapp [N. Y.] 100 Am. Dec. 512, as to the appointment of receivers in proceedings supplemental to execution."—From extended note on "When It is Proper to Appoint a Receiver," in 72 Am. St. Rep. 94.

5. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 102 N. W. 604. Irregularity in filing receiver's bond cannot be taken advantage of in action by receiver against a debtor of the judgment debtor. Boynton v. Sprague, 91 N. Y. S. 839. The order requiring bond to be filed may be amended nunc pro tunc so as to conform with actual filing with clerk of city court. Id.

6. Code Civ. Proc. § 2464. Bank of Port Jefferson v. Darling, 92 N. Y. S. 483.

7. Mortgagees and lien creditors of a partnership, not parties to an action against the firm in which a judgment was recovered, who intervene in supplementary proceedings, cannot complain of the appointment of a receiver in such proceedings. First Nat. Bank v. Cook [Wyo.] 76 P. 674.

8. The fact that one intervener consented to the appointment without understanding that the receiver would take property claimed by him does not estop him to object to possession and control of such property by the receiver. First Nat. Bank v. Cook [Wyo.] 76 P. 674.

9. A receiver in supplementary proceedings against a municipal officer, wrongfully discharged and reinstated, is not entitled to the salary of such officer after his reinstatement, since it is not subject to attachment gaged chattels and become the purchaser, for an accounting, on the ground that the mortgage was not filed in the proper county.[10]

The receiver is not vested with any real title to the real estate of the judgment debtor, but only has a certain claim upon or right to it for the purpose of satisfying the debt.[11] Any interest which the receiver has ceases upon payment of the debt, upon the debt ceasing to be a lien upon real estate, or upon the property having been sold by virtue of an execution and sheriff's deed given.[12] Lands of a judgment debtor being condemned, the award is properly paid to the receiver.[13] The right to such award is not limited by the life of the lien of the judgment, but continues during the life of the judgment.[14]

(§ 4) C. Contempt.[15]—In New York, a judgment debtor who willfully disobeys an order requiring him to appear for examination,[16] or an order restraining disposition of property,[17] or a defendant who refuses to produce books as ordered, without giving a valid reason for his refusal,[18] may be fined for contempt and the fine directed to be paid to the judgment creditor.[19] But a fine cannot be imposed in such case to indemnify a plaintiff for loss, without proof of actual loss.[20] A defendant is not guilty of contempt in disobeying an injunction against disposition of his property, contained in an order for his examination, when such order was never served.[21] Contempt proceedings should be instituted in the manner provided by law,[22] but an objection that they were not so instituted may be waived by failure to urge it at special term.[23]

§ 5. Procedure at and after examination.[24]—Where, in examination of a third party, a question of fact is raised as to satisfaction of the judgment, the remedy of the judgment debtor is a motion to have the judgment satisfied of record, and not a motion to vacate the order for the examination.[25] The validity of the claims of lien creditors and mortgagees cannot be litigated in proceedings in aid of execution.[26] In any case, it is improper for the court to direct a receiver, appointed in the proceedings, to examine such claims and report thereon to the court.[27] The court has no authority to order sold to pay expenses of a receivership property adversely claimed by lien creditors and mortgagees.[28] Under the Wisconsin statute, costs may be awarded against a debtor whose misconduct has made the proceeding necessary.[29] in satisfaction of the judgment. People v. Grout, 45 Misc. 505, 92 N. Y. S. 742.

10. Brunnemer v. Cook & Bernheimer Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 19.

11. Steenberger v. Low, 92 N. Y. S. 518. A debtor's interest in land held by him as tenant in entirety, and subject to execution, does not vest in a receiver so as to entitle the latter to maintain partition. Id. A receiver cannot take title to realty so as to deprive the debtor of his right of redemption and occupation of the premises during the redemption period, given by law. Id.

12. Steenberger v. Low, 92 N. Y. S. 518.

13, 14. Van Loan v. New York, 45 Misc. 482, 92 N. Y. S. 734.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1775.

16. New Jersey Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Siebert, 90 N. Y. S. 468. Contempt order, merely describing order to appear without specifying act or omission for which debtor was adjudged guilty, was sufficient. Id.

17. As where debtor paid money out of bank account. Maigille v. Leonard, 92 N. Y. S. 656.

18. Friedman v. Newman, 86 N. Y. S. 735.

19. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2284, a fine of $250 and costs, or a greater amount if the creditor has suffered actual loss, may be directed to be so paid. New Jersey Foundry & Machine Co. v. Siebert, 90 N. Y. S. 468.

20. Fine for refusal to produce books held excessive and unauthorized. Friedman v. Newman, 86 N. Y. S. 735.

21. Especially when the debtor had voluntarily tendered himself for examination, on learning of proceedings, but creditor's attorney was not present. Corde v. Laughlin, 86 N. Y. S. 795.

22. In New York, under Code Civ. Proc. § 2269, by attachment or order to show cause, not by notice of motion. Maigille v. Leonard, 92 N. Y. S. 656. See Contempt, 3 Curr. L. 795.

23. Maigille v. Leonard, 92 N. Y. S. 656.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1776.

25. On the proper motion the question may be referred for determination. Thompson v. Sage, 94 N. Y. S. 31.

26, 27, 28. First Nat. Bank v. Cook [Wyo.] 76 P. 674, affirmed on rehearing 78 P. 1083.

29. Rev. St. 1898, § 3038. Enders v. Smith [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1061.

In Missouri, an order for the examination of a judgment debtor is appealable.[30] An order of a justice in proceedings in aid of execution that a third person who appears on notice and admits an indebtedness to the judgment debtor, shall pay the amount of the debt into court to apply on the judgment, the order being made over the objection of the judgment debtor that the amount due him is exempt under the laws of Ohio, is a final order reviewable on error at the suit of the judgment debtor.[31] An order directing punishment for contempt is not appealable unless final.[32] A finding by a justice of the peace as to the fact of the indebtedness of a third person to a judgment debtor is not a denial of the right of trial by jury on that question, since such third person may appeal therefrom.[33]

SURCHARGING AND FALSIFYING, see latest topical index.

SURETY OF THE PEACE.

This remedy is designed preventively, and is required when there is probable cause to fear that the person principally bound will commit a breach of the peace.[34] Where the process was lawful, habeas corpus will not try the existence of probable cause.[35]

SURETYSHIP.

§ 1. Definitions and Distinctions (1595).
§ 2. The Requisites of the Contract (1596).
§ 3. The Sureties' Liability (1596).
§ 4. The Sureties' Defenses (1599).
A. Legal Defenses to Surety's Liability (1599).
B. Defenses Based on Extinguishment or Absence of Principal's Liability (1599).
C. Defenses Based on Change of Contract or Increase of the Risk (1599).
D. Defenses Arising Out of Suspension of Liability of Principal (1601).
E. Defenses Based on Impairment of Surety's Secondary Remedies Against Principal or Collateral Securities (1602).
F. Defenses Based on Fraud or Concealment by Creditor of Material Facts (1602).
G. Other Defenses (1603).
§ 5. Rights of Surety Against Principal and Co-surety (1603).
§ 6. Security Held by Surety and Rights Therein (1605).
§ 7. Remedies and Procedure (1605).

This topic excludes the requisites, form and validity of bonds,[36] and the rights and liabilities under particular kinds of bonds.[37] It is confined to the law of suretyship strictly.

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[38]—Where two or more persons are both liable to a third for the same debt, and one in equity should pay rather than the other, the latter is regarded as surety for the other.[39] A surety is distinguished from a guarantor in that he undertakes to pay the debt of another and becomes an original party to the same debt that the principal undertakes; while a guarantor

30. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 806, as to appeals, and §§ 3227, 3230, relative to supplementary proceedings. Ackerman v. Green, 107 Mo. App. 341, 81 S. W. 509.

31. Duffey v. Reardon, 70 Ohio St. 328, 71 N. E. 712.

32. An order granting a motion to punish a judgment debtor for contempt, unless the debtor appears and submits to examination, but denying the motion in case the debtor appears, is appealable. Rupert v. Lee, 101 App. Div. 492, 92 N. Y. S. 75. An order was made that a judgment debtor be punished for contempt unless he appear for examination and pay costs. A subsequent order directed the former order to stand and remain in full force. Held, second order not final and appealable. Field v. White, 92 N. Y. S. 848.

33. Carlin v. Hower, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 70.

34. Cyc. Law Dict. "Surety of the Peace."

35. Justice of peace has jurisdiction and his process was lawful. Young v. Fain, 121 Ga. 737, 49 S. E. 731.

36. See Bonds, 3 Curr. L. 507.

37. See Indemnity (fidelity and like bonds) 3 Curr. L. 1698; Officers and Public Employes (official bonds) 4 Curr. L. 854; Appeal and Review (appeal bonds) 3 Curr. L. 167; Building and Construction Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 550.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1776.

39. A bank president who took up certain debts due the bank and became liable, held under the facts an original debtor, not a surety. Gund v. Ballard [Neb.] 103 N. W. 309.

merely promises to pay if the surety does not, and his engagement is an entirely separate undertaking.[40]

§ 2. The requisites of the contract.[41]—The contract must be executed so as to conform with the requirements of the statute of frauds,[42] and like all contracts, must be supported by some consideration,[43] and to be binding must be accepted.[44] Where judgment has been brought against a principal debtor with whom one is surety, the latter is so identified with him that he is not a good surety on a second bond in the proceeding.[45]

§ 3. The sureties' liability.[46]—The liability of the surety is that contemplated by the contract.[47] The principal and surety on an obligation are jointly or severally liable to the promisee,[48] and therefore where the liability is joint and several, the surety may be sued without the principal being made a party[49] or demand made on him.[50] But in some states by statute the creditor is required

40. Rouss v. King [S. C.] 48 S. E. 220. An agreement reading "in case said trustee fails to make the payments when due, the undersigned agrees to make the payments as though primarily liable," constitutes a contract of suretyship and not guaranty. American Radiator Co. v. Hoffman, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 177. Cal. Civ. Code, § 2844, gives a surety all the rights of a guarantor. Bateman Bros. v. Mapel, 145 Cal. 241, 78 P. 734.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1777.

42. See, generally, Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527. The recital in a bond that it is for value received is sufficient to satisfy the statute of frauds. White Sew. Mach. Co. v. Fowler [Nev.] 78 P. 1034. The statute of frauds does not require that an appeal bond shall show consideration on its face. Gein v. Little, 43 Misc. 421, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

43. Need not be for benefit of sureties: A bond showing that it is to enable the principal to enjoy an extension of credit is sufficient. White Sew. Mach. Co. v. Fowler [Nev.] 78 P. 1034. That by failure of court to approve a supersedeas bond is inoperative does not render it void as to sureties because of failure of consideration. English v. Smith, 1 Neb. Unoff. 670, 96 N. W. 60. To enlarge the liabilities of an endorser to that of a surety, there must be some new consideration. Chapman v. Pendelton [R. I.] 59 A. 928. The question of lack of consideration to a surety on an appeal bond may be raised, though not pleaded. Gein v. Little, 43 Misc. 421, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

44. Actual acceptance of a bond of a lodge officer and two sureties by the lodge is binding, though the by-laws require three sureties. Coombs v. Harford [Me.] 59 A. 529. Neglect of the court to approve an appeal bond otherwise valid does not relieve the sureties of liability. Bromberg v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 139 Ala. 338, 36 So. 622. Where approval of a probate bond is withheld, its subsequent ratification by the probate judge is sufficient to make it binding. Best v. Robinson, 26 Ky. L. R. 620, 82 S. W. 302. To hold the sureties the complaint must show the bond of a chief of police was accepted and approved by the city council. Baum v. Turner, 25 Ky. L. R. 600, 76 S. W. 129. The failure to enter the approval and acceptance of an official bond upon the minutes of the county board does not relieve the sureties of liability where it is in fact accepted. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

45. Woodliff v. Bloodworth, 121 Ga. 456, 49 S. E. 289.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1777.

47. The surety on an attachment bond cannot be held liable for the debt. Webb v. Pope, 118 Ga. 627, 45 S. E. 478.

48. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311. Because parties to a note are sureties, they are none the less co-makers. Snook v. Munday, 96 Md. 514, 54 A. 77.

49. Brannon v. Wright [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 612; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Overstreet [Ky.] 84 S. W. 764; Knott v. Peterson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 173. Especially true where the principal is dead and his estate is insolvent. State v. Henderson, 120 Ga. 780, 48 S. E. 334. A bond where the principals and sureties are each bound for a specified sum is joint and several, whether so stated or not. Mariposa County v. Knowles [Cal.] 79 P. 525. Each surety is primarily liable for his portion of the debt and for the balance as surety for the others. Kellogg v. Lopez, 145 Cal. 497, 78 P. 1056. Where a husband and wife join in a written instrument, they are prima facie joint debtors, though in fact the wife is surety. Algeo v. Fries, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 427. A surety may be sued for a note after the maker's death without presentation of the claim to the administrator of the principal. Planters' & Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 643. Where by statute the surety of a liquor bond is jointly and severally liable with the principal, he may be sued alone without joinder of the latter. Knott v. Peterson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 173. Under a statute providing that persons severally liable on the same obligation may all or any of them be sued in the same action, at the option of plaintiff, the obligee in a bond, which is a joint and several obligation against the principal and surety, may sue the surety alone. Pacific Bridge Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 33 Wash. 47, 73 P. 772. Since in an action in claim and delivery against a constable for wrongful seizure the liability is for the property, the sureties on his bonds are not proper parties thereto. Gallick v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 78 P. 583.

50. A petition for recovery from sureties on the bond of an official need not allege a demand upon the principal, or notice to to proceed first against the principal before suing the surety.[51] An indebtedness to the estate of a decedent from one of two administrators will be considered as having come into the joint possession of both, and as between themselves and the surety on their joint bond, they are both principals.[52] The surety, however, may always show by parol his relation with the principal.[53] Thus a wife signing an obligation with her husband may show she is in fact his surety,[54] a relationship between them,[55] prohibited by common law,[56] and by statutes in some states.[57] Where one purchasing the assets of a partnership assumes its liabilities, he is in the position of the principal debtor and the former owner, being also liable to the creditors, is in the position of surety,[58] and similarly, where a mortgagor had granted his interest in mortgaged premises to one who promises to assume the mortgage, the land is looked upon as a surety and entitled to the same equities.[59] The liability of a surety is limited by that of his principal,[60] and cannot exceed the amount stated in the bond,[61] and judgment against the principal is binding on the surety of the default. City of St. Marys v. Rowe, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 645.

51. Texas Rev. St. 1895, § 3814. Under the Pa. St., in an action against the surety of a guardian bond, the complaint must set forth the rendition of judgment against the principal. Commonwealth v. Magee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 329. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 923, proof of dishonor or an affidavit of nonresidence is necessary before recovery can be had directly against a surety. Singer v. Pollock, 91 N. Y. S. 755. A right given by the Rev. St. 1895, § 3814, to have property of the principal sold first before proceeding against surety, is not in force when the principal is dead. Planters' & Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 643. This statute is held not to apply where foreclosure is sought of a trust deed given as security of the debt of another than the grantee. Duncan v. Hand [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 233.

52. Dorger v. Woodward, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 623.

53. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311. Position of names on the instrument is immaterial. Trammell v. Swift Fertilizer Works, 121 Ga. 778, 49 S. E. 739. Evidence that A and B executed a joint note and that A took all the proceeds, though it was paid for by B, does not prove B a surety. Bettinger v. Scully, 36 Wash. 596, 79 P. 203.

54. That a wife never requested the loan and did not ask an acknowledged surety to sign for her, and has no other occupation than housekeeper, and was not present when the loan was made and received no part of the money which was not expended for her use or any estate which she had, shows her to be the surety on a note signed by herself and her husband and another. Neighbors v. Davis [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 151. When a husband and wife join in an instrument, they are presumptively joint debtors, and no presumption of suretyship arises but this may be rebutted by parol. Algeo v. Fries, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 427. Where it is shown no consideration passes to a wife for her signature of a note, it is evidence that she is a surety for her husband. Ft. Wayne Trust Co. v. Sihler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 494.

55. A married woman cannot become surety for any one. Hazleton Nat. Bank v. Klntz, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 456.

56. At common law and by statute a wife cannot become surety of her husband. Cook v. Landrum, 26 Ky. L. R. 813, 82 S. W. 585.

57. Under Burn's Ann. St. 1901, a wife cannot be surety for her husband. Ft. Wayne Trust Co. v. Sihler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 494; Neighbors v. Davis [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 151. Where it appears that a wife is surety for her husband, under the Act of June 8, 1893, her obligation is void. Algeo v. Fries, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 427; Wilson v. Fitzgerald, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 633. Where a wife cannot be surety for her husband she cannot by representation estop herself as to creditors who have notice. Ft. Wayne Trust Co. v. Sihler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 494. Ky. St. 1903, § 2127. Cook v. Landrum, 26 Ky. L. R. 813, 82 S. W. 585.

58. Malanaphy v. Fuller & J. Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 640. The co-partner promising to pay the partnership debts is a principal while a retiring partner occupies the position of surety. Preston v. Garrard, 120 Ga. 689, 48 S. E. 118.

59. Regan v. Williams [Mo.] 84 S. W. 959; New York Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 178 N. Y. 381, 70 N. E. 916; Germania Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 90 N. Y. S. 418; Winslow v. Stoothoff, 93 N. Y. S. 35; Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Schnose [S. D.] 103 N. W. 22. Where by decree of a court the land itself is charged with the payment of alimony, this rule does not apply but the land is regarded as directly liable. Wilson v. Hinman, 90 N. Y. S. 746. Where land of a third party is mortgaged to secure the debt of another, it is subject to all the benefits and equities of a personal surety. Planters' & Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 643.

60. Board of Com'rs of Ramsey County v. Sullivan [Minn.] 102 N. W. 723; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Schelper [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 871.

61. United States v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 78. The judgment of more than penalty named in the bond is erroneous. Garofalo v. Privldi, 43 Misc. 359, 87 N. Y. S. 467. A surety on a redelivery bond in replevin is liable for costs after judgment for plaintiff, though the bond is silent in that regard [under Miss. Code 1892, §§ 3729, 3716]. Sparks v. Hopsen, 83 Miss. 124, 35 So. 446. A judgment which by the addition of interest during the pendency of the surety,[62] and the admissions of the principal as to his liability are binding upon the surety.[63] The liability of a surety on an agent's or officer's bond extends to subsequent terms of office according to the evident intention of the parties as expressed therein.[64] The default for which a surety may be held must be of the principal,[65] and must occur during the time contemplated in his contract and not prior or subsequent thereto,[66] and in general a surety is liable for the unauthorized acts of his principal done under color of his office.[67] an action thereon exceeds the amount of the bond, is not per se excessive. Getchell & M. Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. National Surety Co., 124 Iowa, 617, 100 N. W. 556. Where on default of a building contractor after notice to his surety, the owner relets the contract at an advanced price, the surety cannot complain and is liable for the difference. Degnon-McLean Const. Co. v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1029.

62. Price v. Carlton, 121 Ga. 12, 48 S. E. 721. Where a surety on a contractor's bond has notice of a suit being brought to enforce a mechanic's lien, and is tendered the defense thereof, he is estopped to deny that the judgment is binding. Henry v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 36 Wash. 553, 79 P. 42. In the absence of fraud, the surety of a building contract is estopped to deny the validity of a default judgment against the principal when the obligee sues. Friend v. Ralston, 35 Wash. 422, 77 P. 794. The surety is estopped from pleading the same defense as the principal, where a court has found against the latter, for as to the subject-matter in the suit, it is res adjudicata. Beh v. Bay [Iowa] 103 N. W. 119. A judgment against a government official is not sufficient to charge his sureties, for it does not show the acts complained of occurred during the life of the bond. United States v. Meade [Ariz.] 76 P. 467. A judgment against an official on his bond is evidence only that such judgment was maintained and no more. Loewer's Gambrinus Brewery Co. v. Lithauer, 43 Misc. 683, 88 N. Y. S. 372. As against the surety, the judgment against a village marshal is not conclusive as to his misconduct. Id. A judgment against an administrator personally is proof that he had funds in his hands and left unpaid debts owed by the estate and is to this extent binding on his surety. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. United States, 23 App. D. C. 535. The records of an action against a building contractor are conclusive upon his surety, providing they disclose with sufficient certainty his negligence and misconduct. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co. v. West End Trust & Safe-Deposit Co., 131 F. 147. Failure of an administrator to obey an order of the court to pay a sum found to be due an attorney for services rendered the estate is a breach of his bond, for which the surety thereon is liable. Smith v. Rhodes, 68 Ohio St. 500, 68 N. E. 7.

63. Thompson v. Commercial Union Assur. Co. [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1073; Knott v. Peterson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 173. But return of "not found" by the sheriff is conclusive upon the surety of a bail bond. Garofalo v. Prividi, 43 Misc. 359, 87 N. Y. 467. Where by terms of the contract an architect's certificate is necessary for alterations and conclusive upon the cost thereof, the sureties are thereby bound. Dallas Homestead & Loan Ass'n v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1041.

64. Where the bond of a cashier whose term of office is for one year recites his appointment and that he "will well and truly perform his duties," it does not cover defalcations made by him during a second term of office. Blades v. Dewey, 136 N. C. 176, 48 S. E. 627. When a bond ends whenever the principal "ceases to hold office," it continues, though he is elected annually. Coombs v. Harford [Me.] 59 A. 529. But ceases if his holding of office is intermittent. Id. Unless limited by its terms, the bond of an agent is continuing. Danvers Farmers' Elevator Co. v. Johnson [Minn.] 101 N. W. 492. A bond given for a bank cashier whose term is for one year is not continuing. Ida County Sav. Bank v. Seidensticker [Iowa] 102 N. W. 821.

65. Building contract; not liable for debts of a subcontractor. Miller v. State [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 260. A bond given on a building contract running to the owner and "all persons who may be injured by any breach of its conditions," includes subcontractors among those by whom actions may be brought. Getchell & M. Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Peterson, 124 Iowa, 599, 100 N. W. 550. Liable for damages recovered against owner for loss to an adjoining building. Leppert v. Flaggs [Md.] 60 A. 450. Payment of liabilities by the owner is not a prerequisite to suit on a building bond. Trinity Parish of Seattle v. Aetna Indemnity Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1097. Owner may recover for unpaid material bills without first suffering suit. Friend v. Ralston, 35 Wash. 422, 77 P. 794.

66. The sureties of a tax collector's bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office during one term are liable for his undiscovered defaults in that term, though prior to the execution of the bond. Inhabitants of Hudson v. Miles, 185 Mass. 582, 71 N. E. 63. Bond of bank given to state for "said sums deposited or to be deposited" includes sums on deposit at the time of execution of the bond. Kephart v. Buddecke [Colo. App.] 80 P. 501. On an indemnity bond of a government official, the complaint must allege that the acts complained of occurred during the life of the bond. United States v. Meade [Ariz.] 76 P. 467.

67. Clark v. Pence [Tenn.] 76 S. W. 885. Surety on a guardian's bond not liable for acts done prior to execution of the bond. Freedman v. Vallie [Tex. Civ. App.] 75 S. W. 322; Howe v. White, 162 Ind. 74, 69 N. E. 684. In the absence of evidence that the guardian converted property to his own use prior to the execution of the bond, his surety is liable under the N. Y. statute for money which came into his possession as

§ 4. The sureties' defenses. A. Legal defenses to surety's liability.[68]—A surety may set up as a defense the nonfulfillment of any conditions precedent he may make to his liability,[69] such as the signature of the principal debtor,[70] or of other sureties.[71] Where the penal sum is left blank in a guardian's bond, by giving the principal authority to deliver it, the sureties give him authority to fill in blanks.[72] Having bonded themselves to secure a charge and a release of certain liens, sureties cannot deny its validity.[73]

(§ 4) B. Defenses based on extinguishment or absence of principal's liability.[74]—A release or discharge of the principal by operation of law does not discharge the surety,[75] and because the statute of limitations has run against the principal, the estate of a surety is not thereby released from liability where the death of the debtor tolls the statute.[76] A surety is not relieved because of a chance remark by the plaintiff's attorney that the obligation was not good.[77] The surety may make use of such set-offs as run in favor of the principal against the creditor.[78] Where the principal does not defend in good faith, the surety may appear and assume the defense.[79]

(§ 4) C. Defenses based on change of contract or increase of the risk.[80]—A surety has the right to stand on the strict terms of his agreement, and any alteration thereof without his consent operates as a new contract to which he guardian before his appointment. In re Guardianship of Fardette, 86 App. Div. 50, 83 N. Y. S. 521. Surety of a guardian not liable for his unauthorized acts done by order of the court. Commonwealth v. American Bonding Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 145. Collection of extortionate fees. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1023. Sureties liable though the acts complained of were torts committed by the principals who were assignees for the benefit of creditors. Wilson's Assignees v. Louisville Nat. Banking Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1065, 76 S. W. 1095. Not liable for general indebtedness incurred outside of the scope of his employment. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Overstreet [Ky.] 84 S. W. 764. Sureties liable where a bank officer paid his own debts with the funds of the bank. Rankin v. Bush, 92 N. Y. S. 866.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1779. See, also, ante, § 3.

69. A recital in a bond securing a mortgage of a prior lien of $91,000, is not a condition precedent to liability, though it appears that the lien was in fact for a greater amount. Raymond v. Tallman, 91 N. Y. S. 670.

70. Where the name of the principal appears as one of the makers of the bond, it is not binding on the sureties till he executes it. American Radiator Co. v. American Bonding & Trust Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 138. The omission of the signature of the principal, through his name appears in the body of the instrument, does not release the sureties unless they signed subject to this being obtained. Clark v. Bank of Hennessey, 14 Okl. 572, 79 P. 217. Since an appeal bond is capable of amendment, the absence of the signature of the principal does not operate as a discharge of the sureties. McDermid v. Judge [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800. The failure of the employe to sign a fidelity bond is not waived by his sureties where it appears this failure is peculiarly within the knowledge of his employer, who has had continual possession of the bond. Platauer v. American Bonding Co., 92 N. Y. S. 238.

71. Where two co-sureties are present and one insists that the obligation shall be inoperative till another signs, it is presumed that he acts as spokesman for the other. Norris v. Cetti [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 641. Surety cannot be held where he signed as such on the precedent unfulfilled condition known to the creditor that another should sign. Barber v. Ruggles [Ky.] 87 S. W. 785.

72. Rollins v. Ebbs [N. C.] 50 S. E. 577. Where it appears on the face of a bond that the principal had no authority to deliver it without additional signatures, this need not be set up in the pleading. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

73. Ruggles v. Bernstein [Mass.] 74 N. E. 366.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1779.

75. The principal's discharge in bankruptcy does not release the sureties. Leader v. Mattingly, 140 Ala. 444, 37 So. 270.

Note. When the principal is released by operation of law, the surety is nevertheless bound. Cragoe v. Jones, L. R. 8 Exch. 81. This idea inheres in the contract by the surety with the creditor, which is immediate, direct and absolute. Stearns on Suretyship, § 6. Moreover, the surety who has paid a debt barred by the statute may recover against the principal. Godfrey v. Rice, 59 Me. 308. Such a recovery is allowed, not on any principle of subrogation to the creditor's rights, but upon the implied promise which exists by law between the principal and surety in such cases. Faires v. Cockerell, 88 Tex. 428.—5 Columbia L. R. 65.

76. Charbonneau v. Bouvet [Tex.] 82 S. W. 460.

77. Irwin v. Hudson, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 72.

78. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Schelper [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 N. W. 871.

79. Price v. Carlton, 121 Ga. 12, 48 S. E. 721.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1779.

is not a party, and he is consequently discharged, and this is true, though the surety sustains no injury, and even if the change is for his benefit.[81] The contract, however, may in terms provide or clearly contemplate such alterations, and the surety is then deemed to have given his consent in advance to such change.[82]

81. Orleans & J. R. Co. v. International Const. Co. [La.] 37 So. 10. It is not necessary that an alteration of a contract should be to the detriment of a surety; he is bound to the contract which he makes and not to one which he did not make. Griffith v. Newell [S. C.] 48 S. E. 259. The recital of the receipt of a large consideration in the contract does not prevent the discharge of a surety for a material alteration. Zeigler v. Hallahan [C. C. A.] 131 F. 205. In determining whether alterations of a contract are sufficient to discharge the sureties, the question is not whether they are prejudicial to the surety, but whether it was a material alteration of the contract to which he was a party, so as to render it a new conract. Id.

Held to be a material alteration: Putting a waterworks tunnel through a hill instead of around it. City of Middletown v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 90 N. Y. S. 16. The change of an obligation from "joint or several" to "joint and several." Coombs v. Harford [Me.] 59 A. 529. An increase of the rate of interest. Casey-Swasey Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 840. A complete alteration of the time of a charter party. Michigan S. S. Co. v. American Bonding Co., 93 N. Y. S. 805. The insertion of a provision to a ten-year lease, avoiding it in case of damage by fire. Zeigler v. Hallahan [C. C. A.] 131 F. 205. A material change in the terms of a bond. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Shepard [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 786. Liquor seller's bond. A misdescription of lot 11 for lot 13. O'Banion v. DeGarmo, 121 Iowa, 139, 96 N. W. 739. Where the date of a note is so altered as to postpone the time of payment, the surety is discharged, though on the face of the note permission to extend the time of payment is granted. Brannum Lumber Co. v. Pickard, 33 Ind. App. 484, 71 N. E. 676. Where a sales agent became the owner of a company to whom he sold goods for his employer, of which fact the latter has knowledge, it is such a change in the terms of his contract with his employer as to discharge the sureties liable for his defaults. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Shepard [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 786.

Held not to be a material alteration: Affixing names of witnesses. Heard v. Tappan, 121 Ga. 437, 49 S. E. 292. Where a trust agreement provides for the custody of cash and notes, securities are in fact delivered. Pogue v. Ross, 25 Ky. L. R. 187, 74 S. W. 1101. Certain delays and alterations in the time of commencement of a steamboat charter. Michigan S. S. Co. v. American Bonding Co., 93 N. Y. S. 805. The surety on a court bond is not released by a change in the complaint where such amendment is allowed under the rules of the court. Campbell & Zell Co. v. American Surety Co., 129 F. 491. A voluntary payment by the mortgagor of an increased rate of interest is not a novation discharging the surety in the absence of any agreement making such an increase binding. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 178 N. Y. 381, 70 N. E. 916. The surety of a running account is not released by the removal of the principal's business. Rouss v. King [S. C.] 48 S. E. 220. Where a note is given for the privilege of exclusive sale of a publication in one county, the giving of the same right in an adjoining county will not relcase the surety thereon. Heddrick v. Huffaker, 26 Ky. L. R. 201, 80 S. W. 1130.

Building contracts: Failure to pay instalments promptly not resulting in damage. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327. Failure to pay advance instalments. Getchell & M. Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. National Surety Co., 124 Iowa, 617, 100 N. W. 556. Failure to promptly select materials causing delay. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327. In the absence of proof as to damages, extension of time of completion of building. Beebe v. Redward, 35 Wash. 615, 77 P. 1052. In the absence of loss, failure to insure a building as provided for in contract. Hohn v. Shideler [Ind.] 72 N. E. 575. Trivial alterations in work not changing the amount due thereon. Id. In the absence of damage, an extension of time of completion of work. Henry v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 36 Wash. 553, 79 P. 42. To be relieved from liability, the surety of a building contract must show alterations to his damage and to that extent only will he be relieved from liability. Schreiber v. Worm [Ind.] 72 N. E. 852. Premature payment of an instalment on a building contract (before all materials were delivered), held to release surety. Glenn County v. Jones [Cal.] 80 P. 695.

Note: It is held that a surety who engages for a consideration and profit to himself is not entitled to the same favor shown towards gratuitous sureties. The same strictness in interpreting the engagement in the sureties' favor is not indulged, but the rule applied to insurers is followed. Cowles v. United States F. & G. Co., 32 Wash. 120, 72 P. 1032, 98 Am. St. Rep. 839, with note, p. 844. In that note the growth of this doctrine is recognized and numerous cases are cited which adopt or lean towards it. Supreme Council Catholic Knights, etc., v. Fidelity, etc., Co. [C. C. A.] 63 F. 48; American Surety Co. v. Pauly, 170 U. S. 133, 42 Law. Ed. 977. The strict construction in favor of the surety has however been applied in American Surety Co. v. Thorn-Halliwell, etc., Co., 9 Kan. App. 8, 57 P. 237; Harrisburg Sav. etc., Ass'n, v. United States Fidelity, etc., Co., 197 Pa. 177, 46 A. 910; United States v. National Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 92 F. 549, and other recent cases cited 98 Am. St. Rep. 846 (note). As the annotator there says, the question usually arises on contracts in which the indemnification of the other party is the predominant object, e. g., fidelity bonds. See Indemnity, 3 Curr. L. 1698.

82. Bateman Bros. v. Mapel, 145 Cal. 241, 78 P. 734; Commonwealth Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Steele, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 19. The alteration of the character of membership in a lodge does not increase the risk and does not release the surety of an officer thereof. Coombs

The surety also has an additional ground for discharge from an altered contract on the ground that it increases his risk, and this is held to be a complete defense, whether or not the alteration was in fact for his benefit.[83] Where the breach of the contract may have contributed to induce a total default, the release will be entire and not partial.[84] The burden is upon the creditor to show he has done nothing to release the surety.[85] An averment by the surety that the contract is materially altered is bad unless it alleges what the alterations were.[86]

(§ 4) D. Defenses arising out of suspension of liability of principal.[87]—Since a promise on part of the creditor to extend the time of payment of an obligation would prevent immediate enforcement thereof by the surety on his payment and consequent subrogation to the rights of the creditor, from the time of the making of such a promise, the surety is discharged.[88] Such promise must

v. Harford [Me.] 59 A. 529. On the theory that the principal is the agent of the surety in consenting to alteration, the latter was not released when the doors connecting the saloon of the principal and the hotel of the plaintiff were permanently closed, thereby decreasing the business value of the saloon. Quandt v. Smith [Wash.] 80 P. 287. Though an officer of a corporate surety finds material alterations, his silence cannot be construed as consent. City of Middletown v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 90 N. Y. S. 16. A surety cannot complain of excessive advancements upon a building contract where they are permitted in the body thereof. Bateman Bros. v. Mapel, 145 Cal. 241, 78 P. 734. Where a railroad contract left the choice of routes to the constructors, a complete change in location does not release the sureties. American Surety Co. v. Choctaw Const. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 487. Alterations not causing additional cost when such stipulated for in contract. Bagwell v. American Surety Co., 102 Mo. App. 707, 77 S. W. 327. Contract held not to forbid change in plans but only change at contract price, hence making change did not release surety. Daly v. Busk Tunnel R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 513.

83. Held to be an increase of the risk: Where the terms of the employment provide that collections shall be delivered to the employe. Indiana & O. Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Bender, 32 Ind. App. 287, 69 N. E. 691. Where the duties of the employment provide for weekly reports, the neglect to obtain these will release the surety from all liability. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Boyette [Ark.] 86 S. W. 673.

Building contracts: Too early payment of a building contract. Lawhon v. Toors [Ark.] 84 S. W. 636. Where the contract provides that the contractor shall not be paid till he produces receipts for all material and labor bills, the payment without such production discharges the surety. Shelton v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 210. Lack of notice of prior delays releases the surety of a defaulting contract for penalties for delays but not for default. Heffernan v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1095.

Held not to be an increase in the risk sufficient to amount to a discharge: Excessive payments on a building contract. Degnon-McLean Const. Co. v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1029. Alterations to a heating plant which have no effect on its efficiency do not release surety from liability for its failure. Board of Education of St. Louis v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70. Where excessive advancements have been made on a building contract which have been repaid prior to the default of the contractor, the surety cannot complain. Leghorn v. Nydell [Wash.] 80 P. 833. Where a building contract provides that fifteen days shall elapse from fulfillment of the contract before payment, and such payment is prematurely made, the sureties thereof are not necessarily released. Lawhon v. Toors [Ark.] 84 S. W. 636.

84. Premature payment of part of building contract price. Glenn County v. Jones [Cal.] 80 P. 695.

85. Stendal v. Ackerman, 43 Misc. 54, 86 N. Y. S. 468. In a suit on a bond for the payment of alimony, the burden is upon the plaintiff to show she has done nothing which in equity releases the sureties. Id.

86. Leppert v. Flaggs [Md.] 60 A. 450.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1781.

88. Bowling v. Chambers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 16; Preston v. Garrard, 120 Ga. 689, 48 S. E. 118; Regan v. Williams [Mo.] 84 S. W. 959; Westbay v. Stone [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 34; Winslow v. Stoothoff, 93 N. Y. S. 335; Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Schnose [S. D.] 103 N. W. 22. The giving of renewal notes amounts to an extension of time. People v. Grant [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1006. The giving of a new note does not amount to an extension of time, but merely a conditional payment pending upon the collectibility of the new note. Hummelstown Brownstone Co. v. Knerr, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 465. The subsequent extension of old credits for which surety is not liable does not thereby release him. Rouss v. King [S. C.] 48 S. E. 220. The acceptance after maturity of an obligation of unmatured interest amounts to an extension of time thereon. Germania Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 90 N. Y. S. 418. The acceptance of unmatured interest three days before due where two and one-half of these days were legal holidays does not amount to an extension of time. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Casey, 178 N. Y. 381, 70 N. E. 916. A sixty-day extension of time granted the obligor of a building bond running to the United States, conditioned to pay all material and labor bills on maturity when granted by a materialman, does not discharge the surety. United States Fidelity & G. Co. v. United States, 191 U. S. 416, 48 Law. Ed. 242.

be made without the consent of the surety,[89] and be an enforceable forbearance,[90] supported by a good and valuable consideration.[91]

(§ 4) E. Defenses based on impairment of surety's secondary remedies against principal or collateral securities.[92]—A surety can only be relieved for injury of his right of subrogation by affirmative proof of actual injury.[93] A surety is discharged pro tanto by the wrongful surrender of the security for a debt[94] or the release of attached property;[95] but that a creditor refuses to take certain collateral security does not necessarily release a surety.[96]

(§ 4) F. Defenses based on fraud or concealment by creditor of material facts.[97]—Before entering upon a contract it is the duty of the creditor or obligee to disclose all pertinent facts regarding the subject-matter of the contract in his knowledge;[98] but in the absence of inquiry, the knowledge of personal defects of the principal need not be communicated;[99] but the false representations of the principal to the surety afford no defense to an action brought by the creditor,[1] except where they are made in the creditor's presence, and he, knowing them to be false, does not deny them.[2] Negligence on part of an employer or his agents in not discovering the default of his servant is not sufficient to discharge the surety,[3] and while the employer is generally bound to notify the surety immediately on discovery of any default whereby the latter would become liable,[4] yet formal notice need not be given when the surety is of necessity in full possession of that

89. United States v. Guerber, 124 F. 823; Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297. An extension of time granted with consent of the surety does not operate as a discharge. Cook v. Landrum, 26 Ky. L. R. 813, 82 S. W. 585. When a surety agrees with the creditor that he shall be looked to as the principal, an extension of time does not operate as a release. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Murphy [Iowa] 101 N. W. 441.

90. Extension of note must have been definite for consideration without consent of surety and he known to be such. Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297. Evidence held insufficient to show such extension. Id.

91. Lehnert v. Lewey [Ala.] 37 So. 921; Bowling v. Chambers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 16; Regan v. Williams [Mo.] 84 S. W. 959. Mere indulgence to principal does not release. Barber v. Ruggles [Ky.] 87 S. W. 785.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1781.

93. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311.

94. Brown v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 132 F. 450. Where a secured creditor releases one surety, the co-sureties are released in a proportionate amount. Wanamaker v. Powers, 93 N. Y. S. 19. Where stock is pledged for the payment of a note, the creditor on sale cannot use the proceeds for any other purpose. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Cooper [Iowa] 101 N. W. 459. See, also, ante, § 4 C.

95. National Surety Co. v. Walker [Iowa] 101 N. W. 780.

96. Rouss v. King [S. C.] 48 S. E. 220.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1782.

98. Indiana & Ohio Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Bender, 32 Ind. App. 287, 69 N. E. 691. On bond of town official the knowledge must be shown to be constructively that of the town. Inhabitants of Hudson v. Miles, 185 Mass. 582, 71 N. E. 63. Statements of the obligee concerning the employe will not be construed as warranties unless not open to any other interpretation. Guthrie Nat. Bank v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 14 Okl. 636, 79 P. 102.

99. Sherman v. Harbin [Iowa] 100 N. W. 629. Prior indebtedness. Wanamaker v. Powers, 93 N. Y. S. 19. Account overdrawn at plaintiff bank. Lee v. Grant County Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 1208, 77 S. W. 374.

1. Inhabitants of Hudson v. Miles, 185 Mass. 582, 71 N. E. 63; Bromberg v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 139 Ala. 338, 36 So. 622.

2. First Nat. Bank v. Terry, 135 F. 621.

3. But see United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Blackley, 25 Ky. L. R. 1271, 77 S. W. 709; Anderson v. Blair, 121 Ga. 120, 48 S. E. 951; American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853.

4. Building contract which provides for notification of sureties of any act of principal for which they may be held liable does not require them to notify of mere indebtedness but merely of the filing of liens. Ovington v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 36 Wash. 473, 78 P. 1021; Denny v. Spurr [Wash.] 80 P. 541. Neglect to notify of delay is a defense to liability for delay but not of entire default. Trinity Parish of Seattle v. Aetna Indemnity [Wash.] 79 P. 1097. Where by terms of the contract, the surety is liable for defaults discovered within six months of termination of the bond or within six months of dismissal of employe and more than six months after defalcations they were discovered, and followed by instant dismissal, recovery can be had. Hawley v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 90 N. Y. S. 893. Where by statute (Rev. St. 1895, §§ 3811-3814), it is provided that a creditor must sue at the request of a surety, and on failure, the latter is discharged, the surety on a building contract cannot plead that if notice had been given to him of a breach of contract he would have completed the work himself. Dallas Homestead & Loan Ass'n v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1041.

information.[5] Fraudulent acts which would be a good equitable defense to any obligee are a good defense to a surety.[6]

(§ 4) G. Other defenses.[7]—A surety is entitled to have the security of a secured debt sold before resort to him,[8] and where payments are made by the principal on a running account, part of which is secured, they should be applied according to priority of time,[9] and failure to apply the same discharges the surety pro tanto.[10] In states where at the request or demand of a surety the creditor must sue the principal, a mere notice from the surety that the latter was selling his property and preparing to leave the state does not release the surety.[11] That the negligence of the county treasurer was the proximate cause of the loss upon a county auditor's bond is no ground of defense for the sureties in a suit brought thereon by the county.[12]

§ 5. Rights of surety against principal and co-surety.[13]—Upon payment to the creditor of the full amount of the liability of the principal, the surety is subrogated to his rights against the principal, security, and the co-sureties for their proportional share of the indebtedness.[14]

Indemnity and contribution.[15]—Moreover, on payment of any sum as surety for the principal, the surety has a right of indemnity to recover on an implied contract from the principal;[16] but the payment must be in satisfaction of a debt for which the surety is legally liable,[17] and the right to recover is barred by the statute of limitations at the same time as on any implied contract.[18] For any

5. Formal notice provided for in the contract may be dispensed with where surety already has knowledge. Henry v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 36 Wash. 553, 79 P. 42. Surety on additional bond of treasurer to secure repayment of money held by him, held liable, though treasurer had in his hands more than the sum allowed by the by-laws, and though he received no notice of the condition of his accounts, he being a member of the lodge and familiar with accounts, and the bond being given for very reason that treasurer had extra funds in his hands. Court Vesper No. 69, Foresters of America, v. Fries, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 250.

6. A surety on maturity of certain obligations gave renewal notes, after which suit was brought on one of the prior instruments of indebtedness. The surety claimed this as a discharge on ground of fraud. Held, on the dismissal of the suit and release of the claim by the plaintiff, the surety was still liable, suffering no injury. Sowles v. First Nat. Bank, 130 F. 1009.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1783.

8. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank v. Alexander Stewart Lumber Co., 119 Wis. 54, 94 N. W. 777. But see, Olds v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co., 185 Mass. 500, 70 N. E. 1022.

9. Ida County Bank v. Siedensticker [Iowa] 102 N. W. 821.

10. Lowe v. Reddan [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1038; Crane Co. v. Pacific Heat & Power Co., 36 Wash. 95, 78 P. 460. In the absence of any stipulation, the applications of payments by a creditor to any one of several notes cannot be questioned. Wanamaker v. Powers, 93 N. Y. S. 19. No release where the deposit of funds with the creditor bank was never sufficient to pay debt. Fordsville Banking Co. v. Thompson, 26 Ky. L. R. 534, 82 S. W. 251. A surety paying the entire obligation is entitled to have any sums owed the co-surety by the creditor applied to the debt. In re Rock Hill Cotton Factory Co., 68 S. C. 436, 47 S. E. 728.

11. Bowling v. Chambers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 16.

12. Board of Com'rs of Ramsey County v. Sullivan [Minn.] 102 N. W. 723.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1783.

14. See Subrogation, 2 Curr. L. 1768. Where a purchaser of land gives a bond to satisfy the dower right and defaults, his surety on satisfaction, is entitled to the land. Van Ormer's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 234. Paying sureties are subrogated to all the creditor's rights against co-sureties and the debtor. Wilks v. Vaughan [Ark.] 83 S. W. 913.

Note: An exhaustive monograph on "The Right of Subrogation" with special treatment of rights of sureties will be found in 99 Am. St. Rep. 533.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1784.

16. Culver v. Caldwell, 137 Ala. 125, 34 So. 13. The surety need not wait till judgment is rendered before payment. Howe v. White, 162 Ind. 74, 69 N. E. 684. The surety must not only pay the amount due on the execution, but must also have the entry of payment made thereon, before he can control the judgment and execution against a surety. Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162.

17. Where a series of successive guardians' bonds with different sureties, the latter cannot arbitrarily apportion the loss among themselves and look to him for indemnity but each must show the satisfaction of his individual legal liability in order to recover from the principal. Howe v. White, 162 Ind. 74, 69 N. E. 684.

18. Usher v. Tyler [Ky.] 85 S. W. 166. Though a party for whom a payment is made may not be liable on any implied contract, payment in excess of his pro rata share, surety may recover in an action for contribution from his co-sureties, which action is akin to indemnity,[19] even when the original obligation is barred by statute,[20] or where no action lies on the original obligation.[21] This right he may enforce either in law or equity.[22] At law, however, he must bring an action against each surety separately for his aliquot part, which is all that he can recover, even when one or more of the sureties are insolvent;[23] but in equity the proceeding may be against all the co-sureties, and, upon proof of the insolvency of one or more, the payment of the amount will be distributed among the solvent parties in due proportion.[24] The right of contribution is such a claim as may be assigned by a surety and enforced against a co-surety by the assignee.[25] Where a surety has property given him by the principal to indemnify him against loss, he may be compelled to share it with his co-sureties,[26] and so where a surety releases a judgment against the principal,[27] or property given him as security, his co-sureties are released pro tanto;[28] but not where the right to sue co-sureties is reserved,[29] or where it was given as further security and not in pursuance of a common understanding,[30] or lost by the nonculpable act of the surety holding it.[31] Co-sureties cannot object to the sale of a surety's property in satisfaction of the debt.[32] Sureties on different notes for the purchase of the same goods are not necessarily co-sureties of each other,[33] and so when the owner of premises is liable with the lessee for injuries caused by the sale of liquor, he is not such a co-surety with the sureties on the liquor seller's bond as to entitle them to contribution.[34] The surety may compel the principal in an equitable action, in the nature of specific performance, to exonerate him from liability.[35]

he may be liable on an express or independent promise to pay. Kellogg v. Loper, 145 Cal. 497, 78 P. 1056.

19. Strickler v. Gitchel, 14 Okl. 523, 78 P. 94; Kellogg v. Lopez, 145 Cal. 497, 78 P. 1056; Bailey v. McAlpin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 388. Where one surety has paid the entire obligation of the principal, his co-sureties must contribute to him their pro rata share. Wash v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 368. The measure of liability of a co-surety is the whole amount of the principal and interest paid by the other surety, together with interest from the date of such payment. Weimer v. Talbot [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 372. Where several persons jointly subscribe to an undertaking with a right of contribution given by the contract, they are liable pro rata, not including the subscriptions of insolvents. Kentucky Live Stock Breeders' Ass'n v. Miller [Ky.] 84 S. W. 301.

20. Charbonneau v. Bouvet [Tex.] 82 S. W. 460. See, also, "note," ante, § 4B.

21. Kellogg v. Lopez, 145 Cal. 497, 78 P. 1056.

22. Where one surety is compelled, on account of the neglect or failure of the principal, to pay or discharge a common debt, he has a right to contribution from his co-surety, which he may enforce either at law or in equity. Thompson v. Hibbs [Or.] 76 P. 778.

23. Thompson v. Hibbs [Or.] 76 P. 778. Where one surety pays a creditor the entire amount of a note already paid by another surety, believing that no payment has been made, he may recover from the creditor only the excess of his pro rata payment. Wash v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 368.

24. Thompson v. Hibbs [Or.] 76 P. 778.

25. Weimer v. Talbot [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 372.

26. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311.

27. Anderson v. Hendrickson, 1 Neb. Unoff. 610, 95 N. W. 844.

28. Bull v. Rich, 92 Minn. 475, 100 N. W. 212.

29. Kolb v. National Surety Co., 176 N. Y. 233, 68 N. E. 247.

30. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311.

31. The relation of a surety who has paid the claim against the principal to a co-surety is that of trustee, and he is only chargeable with good faith and reasonable care to the extent of the value of the property secured by him as indemnity for his claim against the principal. Bull v. Rich, 92 Minn. 475, 100 N. W. 212.

32. Terry v. Johnston [C. C. A.] 129 F. 354.

33. Miller v. Knight Mfg. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1201, 83 S. W. 631.

34. Wanack v. Michels [Ill.] 74 N. E. 84.

35. The grantee of a mortgagor not assuming the debt may require the mortgagee to apply any securities he may receive to the payment of the mortgage debt. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank v. Alexander Stewart Lumber Co., 119 Wis. 54, 94 N. W. 777. The secured surety may set aside a fraudulent conveyance of the security from husband to wife. Cook v. Landrum, 26 Ky. L. R. 813, 82 S. W. 585.

§ 6. Security held by surety and rights therein.[36]—On payment of the indebtedness, a surety is entitled to share in the security deposited with a co-surety for his indemnification,[37] and a creditor is entitled to security in the hands of a surety for the indemnification of the latter on the debt.[38]

§ 7. Remedies and procedure.[39]—The questions of practice are almost all referable to some of the equitable remedies and rights mentioned in a preceding section,[40] and to the practice in actions on bonds or notes.[41] In an action on the bond, a release of sureties should be specially pleaded.[42] The court may refuse leave to sureties to file it during trial.[43] It must plead facts amounting to one of the defenses already referred to.[44]

SURFACE WATERS; SURPLUSAGE; SURROGATES; SURVEYORS; SURVIVORSHIP; SUSPENSION OF POWER OF ALIENATION; TAKING CASE FROM JURY, see latest topical index.

TAXES.[45]

[BY JOSEPH H. DUNNEBACKE.]

§ 1. Nature and Kinds (1605).
§ 2. Persons, Objects, and Interests Taxable (1609).
A. Taxable Property and Its Classification (1609).
B. The Persons Liable (1609).
C. Corporations (1610).
D. Public Property (1614).
E. Realty (1615).
F. Personalty (1616).
§ 3. Exemption from Taxation (1616).
§ 4. Place of Taxation (1618).
§ 5. Assessment (1620).
A. Assessing Officers (1620).
B. Formal Requisites. The Roll or List (1620). Lists by Taxpayers (1622). Notice (1622). Irregularities (1622).
C. Valuation (1623).
D. Reassessment; Omitted Property (1624).
§ 6. Equalization, Correction, and Review (1625). Notice (1627).
§ 7. Levies and Tax Lists (1629). Mandamus (1630). The Record (1630). The Ministerial Act (1630).
§ 8. Payment and Commutation (1631).
§ 9. Lien and Priority (1631).
§ 10. Relief from Illegal Taxes (1632). Recovery Back of Payments (1634). Refunding (1635).
§ 11. Collection (1635).
A. Collectors (1635).
B. Method (1637).
§ 12. Sale for Taxes (1639).
A. Pre-requisites to Sale (1639).
B. Conduct of Sale (1642).
C. Proceedings after Sale (1643).
§ 13. Redemption (1645).
§ 14. Tax Titles (1648).
§ 15. Inheritance and Transfer Taxes (1651). The Occasion (1652). Powers of Appointment (1653). Jurisdiction (1653). When Tax Accrues (1653). Appraisal and Collection (1653).
§ 16. License Taxes (1655).
§ 17. Income Taxes (1656).
§ 18. Distribution and Disposition of Taxes Collected (1656).

§ 1. Nature and kinds.[46]—A tax has been defined as an enforced contribution from a citizen to the state to be applied for governmental purposes.[47] It is not, in its essential characteristics, a debt,[48] but an import, levied by authority of government upon its citizens or subjects for the support of the state.[49] This

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1785.

37. North Ave. Sav. Bank v. Hayes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 311.

38. State v. Bergfeld, 108 Mo. App. 630, 84 S. W. 177.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1785.

40. See section 5 and the topics, Contribution, 3 Curr. L. 865; Subrogation, 2 Curr. L. 1768, and the like.

41. See Bonds, 3 Curr. L. 507; Negotiable Instruments, 4 Curr. L. 787.

42, 43. Leader v. Mattingly, 140 Ala. 444, 37 So. 270.

44. Answer of surety for corporation held demurrable because it neither alleged release of debtor by failure to sue nor alleged such agreement with debtor as to affect the risk. Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297.

45. This title includes all matters of general taxation and excludes to Public Works, and Improvements, 4 Curr. L. 1124, the law of local and special assessments.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1786.

47. Citing Davies, System of Taxation, p. 1. Heerwagen v. Crosstown St. R. Co., 179 N. Y. 99, 71 N. E. 729.
See 2 Curr. L. 1786, n. 1.

48. Taxes are neither the subject of set-off nor may they be used for that purpose. Appeal of Bailies [Iowa] 102 N. W. 813; Board of Com'rs of Dawes County v. Furay [Neb.] 99 N. W. 271.

49. Appeal of Bailies [Iowa] 102 N. W. 813. The theory of taxation is that each individual shall contribute to the state a fair proportion of his substance within its limits in return for the protection to his person and his property afforded him while within its jurisdiction. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3.

authority or power to lay a tax is an incident of sovereignty,[50] residing in the legislative branch of the government,[51] and, in the absence of constitutional restraints, is as unlimited as the subject with which it deals.[52] Nevertheless, there are several well defined limitations upon the exercise of this power, some of which have been in express terms incorporated by the people in their fundamental charters; thus the provisions of the Federal constitution guarantying equal protection of the laws,[53] forbidding the deprivation of property without due process of law,[54] and denying to the states the right to tax objects of interstate commerce,[55] and imports and exports,[56] and those of the state constitution restricting

50. State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576, 77 P. 961. It is not founded upon contract or agreement, but operates in invitum. Appeal of Bailies [Iowa] 102 N. W. 813. See 2 Curr. L. 1786, n. 2.

51. State v. Guilbert, 70 Ohio St. 229, 71 N. E. 636. It is for the legislature to determine all questions of state necessity, discretion, or policy, involved in ordering a tax, and in apportioning it (Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874), and to make the necessary rules and regulations which are to be observed in order to produce the desired returns (Id.), and it must decide upon the agencies by means of which collections shall be made (Id.). What property shall be embraced within a tax district, and whether it shall be taxed for municipal purposes, is a political question to be determined by the legislature. Id. When the people adopt a constitution and thereby create a department of government upon which they confer the power to make laws, the power of taxation is conferred as a part of such general powers. State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576, 77 P. 961.

52. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3; Aachen & M. Fire Marine Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 137; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 84; Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255; In re Morris' Estate [N. C.] 50 S. E. 682. The power to tax is the power to destroy. People's Sav. Bank v. Layman, 134 F. 635.

53. A statute taxing debts due from solvent debtors does not offend a constitutional provision against double taxation, nor does it violate the provisions of the 14th amendment. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044. Intent to impose taxation which is double even from an economic view point is not to be ascribed to legislation in absence of clear and unambiguous expression. First Nat. Bank v. Douglas County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 315. A street railway is not denied the equal protection of the laws because a municipallty taxes its business at the rate of $100 per mile, when a steam railway making an extra charge for local deliveries of freight brought over its road from outside the city is not subjected to the same tax. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Savannah, 25 S. Ct. 690. An excise tax which operates uniformly throughout the state, and bears equally upon all persons standing in the same category, does not deprive any of the equal protection of the laws. State v. Guilbert, 70 Ohio St. 229, 71 N. E. 636. The Federal constitution does not forbid state taxation of the franchise of a domestic corporation at a different rate than is assessed upon the tangible property in the state. Coulter v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 342.

54. The constitution and statutes of a state in so far as they may undertake to forfeit and divest the title of any person to his land and vest the same in another person or in the state without provision for redemption, are in contravention of the 14th amendment. King v. Hatfield, 130 F. 564. A statute providing for the taxation for fire protection of all buildings and the land on which they stand, which do not take water from the municipal waterworks, is invalid as taking property without due process of law. Village Law, § 230, as amended by Laws 1902, p. 1628, c. 591. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539. Assessing by the frontage rule the entire cost of a street extension including a charge for planking is not so manifestly unfair to an abutting owner whose property lies some distance beyond the point where the planking stopped as to render the assessment void as a denial of due process of law. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44. An owner is not deprived of his property without due process of law by means of taxation if he has an opportunity to question its validity or the amount of such tax or assessment at some stage of the proceedings either before that amount is finally determined or in subsequent proceedings for its collection. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255.

55. In re Enforcement of Personal Property Taxes Delinquent in Ramsey County 1902 [Minn.] 192 N. W. 721. A license tax imposed on an agent of a corporation of one state for the privilege of selling goods in another state is a tax on Interstate commerce and invalid when laid by a state. In re Julius, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 604. Cars of a foreign corporation (not a railroad corporation) which are merely in transit in a given state for the purpose of taking merchandise into or through the state are instruments of interstate commerce and not taxable. Union Tank Line Co., In re, 204 Ill. 347, 68 N. E. 504. That a toll bridge is part of a structure which carries trains engaged in interstate commerce does not prevent its taxation. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629, 37 So. 85. Exemption from interstate business does not, however, relieve one from taxation who at the same time carries on a business intrastate. Smith v. Clark [Ga.] 50 S. E. 480. Taking the entire valuation of a railroad property, without as well as within the state, and dividing it upon a mileage basis for the purpose of fixing the value of that portion within the state, does not offend commerce clause of constitution. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 132 F. 629.

56. The tax imposed by Laws 1903 of the rate of taxation,[57] the purposes for which taxes may be levied,[58] and providing for uniformity and equality,[59] must not be violated. Again, the taxing power is circumscribed by several well defined implied limitations; thus, the persons and property must be within the territorial limits of the taxing power,[60] the tax laid must operate uniformly and equally throughout the taxing district,[61] and the North Carolina, p. 723, c. 414, on shellfish taken and "shipped out of the county," is not an export tax, and is, therefore, not unconstitutional for that reason. Brooks v. Tripp, 135 N. C. 159, 47 S. E. 401.

57. Town of Bardwell v. Harlin, 26 Ky. L. R. 101, 80 S. W. 773. The enactment of the Colorado legislature (Sess. Laws 1903, p. 159, c. 79), making specific provision for the payment by the city and county of Denver to the counties of Adams and South Arapahoe of their proportionate interest in the former county of Arapahoe, which the constitutional amendment vested in the city and county of Denver, is valid, though by reason of it the annual levy for the city and county will exceed the constitutional rate. City Council of City and County of Denver v. Board of Com'rs of Adams County [Colo.] 77 P. 858.

58. Certain acts of the South Carolina legislature exempting part of Williamsburg county in that state from the operation of the general stock law, held valid, though in conflict with Const. 1895, art. 10, § 6, the constitution being construed as operating prospectively only. McCullough v. Graham [S. C.] 49 S. E. 1.

59. A tax possesses the requisite character of uniformity if the persons subject to it are duly divided into classes and the law operates on the members of each class uniformly under substantially the same circumstances and conditions (foreign insurance company). Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3. Under the Nebraska constitution, insurance companies not organized under the laws of that state may be treated as a single class, and taxed at a rate different from that imposed upon such corporations that are so organized. Id. The only limitations in territories applicable to the question is that contained in the 14th amendment, which guaranties to all persons the equal protection of the laws. Territory v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 74. This guaranty is not quite the exact equivalent of "equality" and "uniformity" as used in state constitutions. Given a reasonable and just classification of taxpayers, all that the fourteenth amendment guaranties is that all in the class shall be treated alike. Id. The rule of equality in respect to the subject only requires the same means and methods to be applied impartially to all the constituents of each class. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 132 F. 629. Reasonable classifications of property for the purposes of taxation are not in violation of the rule of uniformity. Taxation of debts due from solvent debtors. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044. A tax required for the enforcement of a police regulation is not a tax within the meaning of the constitutional requirement of uniformity and equality. Tax imposed on shellfish taken and shipped out of county. Brooks v. Tripp, 135 N. C. 159, 47 S. E. 401.

Note: See as to sale of liquor, sale of cotton seed, fence laws, cattle running at large, working public roads, etc., the authorities collected in State v. Sharp, 125 N. C. 632, 34 S. E. 264, 74 Am. St. Rep. 663. The provision of the Michigan statute (Comp. Laws 1897, § 3834) that the personal property of all corporations organized under the laws of that state for the purpose of engaging in maritime commerce or navigation shall be assessed in the city, village or township which is stated in their articles of association or in any amendment thereof, violates the constitutional provision as to uniformity. Teagan Transp. Co. v. Board of Assessors of Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 273; City of Detroit v. Mackinaw Transp. Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 557.

Note: Whether taxation in two different jurisdictions is double taxation is discussed in 5 Columbia L. R. 50, commenting on Buck v. Beach [Ind.] 71 N. E. 963. Poll tax exempting firemen of city of third class held unconstitutional as violating rule of uniformity. State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576, 77 P. 961. That part of the Nebraska revenue act after providing for a tax on net receipts, that insurance companies shall be subject to no other taxes, fees or licenses, held unconstitutional because exempting personal property from taxation. State v. Insurance Co. of North America [Neb.] 100 N. W. 405, reversing 99 N. W. 36.

60. It is within the power of the state to tax all property over which it has jurisdiction, whether the owner resides in state or is nonresident. Railroad cross ties ready to be shipped out of state. Johnson v. Bradley-Watkins Tie Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 726. This excludes the idea of tangible property lying within the confines of another state which belongs to residents of the foreign state being subject to taxation within the local state. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3. This power of taxation, however vast in its character and searching in its extent, is necessarily limited to subjects within the jurisdiction of the state. These subjects are persons, property and business. Whatever form taxation may assume, whether as duties, imposts, excises, or licenses, it must relate to one of these subjects. It is not possible to conceive of any other, though as applied to them the taxation may be exercised in a great variety of ways. It may touch property in every shape, in its natural condition, in its manufactured form, and in its various transmutations. And the amount of the taxation may be determined by the value of the property, or its use, or its capacity, or its productiveness. It may touch business in the almost infinite forms in which it is conducted, in professions, in commerce, in manufacture, and in transportation. Commonwealth v. Williams, 102 Va. 778, 47 S. E. 867, quoting from State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300.

61. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539.

tax must be for a public purpose,[62] and the public interest must be coextensive with the territory upon which the tax is laid.[63] Since the power of taxation is a sovereign power and belongs exclusively to the legislative branch of the government, where the legislature has not exercised this power, no other department of the government can supply the omission.[64] But authority to tax may be expressly delegated to municipalities.[65]

Poll taxes are no longer levied in several states.[66]

Legislative acts under which the authority to impose taxes is asserted are to be strictly construed.[67] The amendment to the Iowa Code providing for taxation of telephone companies, being unconstitutional, vitiated the entire statutory scheme for the taxation of those companies by that state.[68] The Pennsylvania

62. The Massachusetts statute (St. 1904, p. 473, c. 458), directing payments to Civil War veterans, held unconstitutional in an opinion of the justices to the governor. In re Bounties to Veterans [Mass.] 72 N. E. 95. Draining and reclaiming swamp land is a public purpose. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141. The appropriation of an annual sum for the care of destitute and homeless children is for a public purpose. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

63. The rule enunciated in Baldwin v. Fuller, 39 N. J. Law, 576, 40 N. J. Law, 615, that the legislature may not create a taxing district narrower in extent than the political district of which it is a part, has no applicancy to a taxing district that includes the whole of certain political districts and parts of others, and where the taxes in question are imposed not by any delegated authority but by the legislature itself. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 571. An act of the legislature which authorizes a township to contribute to the erection of a bridge to be built under the supervision of the county commissioners, and authorizing a tax levy for the purpose of meeting such contribution, is not void because it authorizes an unequal burden of taxation on the people of such township. McMillan v. Board of Com'rs of Payne County, 14 Okl. 659, 79 P. 898.

64. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3. The levy of taxes is not a judicial function. Its exercise by the constitutions of all the states and by the theory of our English origin is exclusively legislative. McConnell v. Hampton [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1092. The judicial power cannot legitimately question the policy or refuse to sanction the provisions of any law not inconsistent with the fundamental law of the state. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874. It is only when the legislature has abused its powers and transcended its legislative function by the enactment of that which is called a tax but which is not such in fact that the department of the judiciary can call in question the legislative enactment. Id. When the constitution confers upon the legislature the power to levy taxes, the amount of the tax to be levied is committed to that department of the government and not open to review by the judicial department. State v. Roberson, 136 N. C. 587, 48 S. E. 595; McCray v. U. S., 195 U. S. 27, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

65. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3. A municipality can levy no taxes for general purposes by an inherent power. Adams v. Ducate [Miss.] 38 So. 497. The provisions of Priv. Laws 1857, p. 219, c. 11, giving city council of Joliet authority to levy taxes for school purposes, were not repealed by the general school law. People v. Mottinger [Ill.] 74 N. E. 150. Every system of taxation consists of two parts, the elements that enter into the imposition of the tax, and the steps taken for its assessment and collection. The former is a legislative function, conserved by constitutional prescription; the other is mere machinery, and may be designated to other than governmental agencies. Matters of computation, appraisement, adjustment, and such like, involving mere certainty of detail, follow the delegable power. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 214. A grant of the power of local taxation to be valid must conform to the fundamental doctrine that the area over which such power extends shall be coincident with a political district of the state exercising some power of local government over the area selected for taxation. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 214. The legislature, in which the governmental power of taxation resides, does not possess the power to delegate to another body having no governmental function the authority to determine in its judgment a discretion the amount to be raised by taxation. Sewerage district. Van Cleve v. Passaic Valley Sewerage Com'rs [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 214.

66. Poll taxes are prohibited by the constitutions of Ohio and Maryland. State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576, 77 P. 961. Article 5, § 1, of the North Carolina constitution, providing that the general assembly shall levy a capitation tax equal on each person to the tax on property valued at $300, applies solely to state and county taxation, and does not require a municipal poll tax to be equal to the tax on $300 worth of property. Wingate v. Parker, 136 N. C. 369, 48 S. E. 774.

67. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3. The Ky. revenue act of March 29, 1902 (Ky. Stat. 1903, c. 108), repealed all former provisions of law relating to the state's revenue which are not contained therein. Bevins v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 86 S. W. 544.

68. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co., 123 Iowa, 591, 99 N. W. 205.

act of February 27, 1872, providing a special system for the collection of state and county taxes local to a particular county, was not repealed by the act of 1885.[69]

§ 2. Persons, objects, and interests taxable. A. Taxable property and its classification.[70]—In laying taxes the legislature has the right to classify persons and corporations; but no discrimination can be tolerated in favor of or against one of the same class. There is no valid objection, however, in the fact that one class is required to share in the common burden of taxation in a different way, even in a different degree, from those in other classes.[71] The classification of property for taxation as real or personal is usually made on common-law distinctions, though by statute it may be otherwise provided.[72]

(§ 2) B. The persons liable[73] are determined by ownership at the time of taxability. When taxes become a lien upon real property prior to and are unpaid at the time of the death of the owner, the executor is liable therefor, and not a testamentary trustee who came into possession of the property at the owner's death.[74] In Louisiana, buildings and improvements constructed after the first day of January of the current tax year are not subject to assessment,[75] and the taxable status of property in the city of New York is determined by its condition on the second Monday of January.[76] Property annexed to a city after the time fixed for the assessor's return of the list of taxable property cannot for that year be taxed for the local taxes of the city.[77] Under Mississippi statutes lands purchased from the state after February first, but before October first, are not liable to taxation for that year.[78] The title of a county to land bid in by it at a sale for taxes is not perfected before service of a notice of redemption and execution of a deed, and until that time the land should be assessed to the person in whose name the title stands.[79]

Vendor and vendee.—One who sells property after taxes are levied and before they become a lien is as between vendor and vendee liable for the taxes.[80]

Mortgagor and mortgagee.—A chattel mortgagor was not relieved from taxes assessed in his name, though a statute of the state provided that the legal title should be in the mortgagee and the latter had taken possession.[81]

As between a landlord and his tenant,[82] the former, unless otherwise stipulated, is obligated to pay taxes.[83]

Property of a bankrupt[84] in the hands of a trustee is not exempted from liability to state taxation by the National Bankruptcy Act of July 1, 1898.[85] The 69. Commonwealth v. Couch, 209 Pa. 354, 58 A. 667.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1790.

71. Humphreys v. State, 70 Ohio St. 67, 70 N. E. 957.

72. Machinery in sugar refining plant. Commissioners of Anne Arundel County v. Baltimore Sugar Refining Co., 99 Md. 481, 58 A. 211.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1790.

74. Loomis v. Von Phul, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 423.

75. Bunkie Brick Works v. Police Jury of Avoyelles, 113 La. 1062, 37 So. 970.

76. Ogden v. Getty, 91 N. Y. S. 664; People v. Wells, 89 N. Y. S. 847.

77. City of Latonia v. Meyer [Ky.] 86 S. W. 686.

78. Wildberger v. Shaw [Miss.] 36 So. 539.

79. Armstrong v. Nassau County, 91 N. Y. S. 867.

80. Appeal of Bailles [Iowa] 102 N. W. 813.

81. Foy v. Board of Com'rs of Comanche County, 69 Kan. 206, 76 P. 859.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1791, n. 34.

83. Covenants in a lease that the tenant will pay all taxes and water charges run with the land. Lehmaier v. Jones, 91 N. Y. S. 687. Where a lease for 21 years, expiring October 1, 1903, required the lessee to pay all taxes during the term, the lessee was liable for the taxes of 1903, the rolls having been completed, and, with the warrant, having been given to the receiver of taxes September 15, 1903. Ogden v. Getty, 91 N. Y. S. 664.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1791.

85. Swarts v. Hammer, 194 U. S. 441, 48 Law. Ed. 1060; In re Prince & Walter, 131 F. 546; In re Flynn, 134 F. 145.

notes and solvent credits of an insolvent state bank, passing to an assignee by a general assignment, are taxable in the hands of the assignee.[86]

Personalty of a decedent,[87] until distributed, is taxable to the personal representative,[88] and he is personally liable for the payment of the tax,[89] but for property not in his possession at the time it should have been listed, he is not liable.[90]

A life tenant[91] is charged with the duty of paying the taxes accruing during the continuance of his estate,[92] and he cannot, by neglecting this duty, acquire a tax title valid as against a remainderman.[93]

Property of a firm[94] in a state may be assessed to the partners jointly, where all the partners are nonresidents; and such assessment is sufficiently made in the assessment roll in the name of the firm.[95] Under the Indiana law, making each partner liable for the whole tax against the partnership, a partner is liable for back taxes, which the partnership omitted to list in previous years.[96]

(§ 2) C. Corporations.[97]—Corporations, like individuals, are subject to the taxing power of the state, and the methods employed in the various states for the taxation of these interests are diverse. First of all there is the franchise fee, payable to the state upon the organization of the corporation.[98] If the corporation owns realty within the state, this is usually assessed separately, as in the case of individuals.[99] Its personalty is usually not taxed as such, but enters into and is considered when assessing the company's franchises, capital, and the like.[1]

86. Gerard v. Duncan [Miss.] 36 So. 1034.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1791.

88. Commonwealth v. Williams, 102 Va. 778, 47 S. E. 867. He is charged with the duty of payment; tax collector not required to present claim for taxes against estate. Cullop v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 166.

89. City of Louisville v. Robinson's Ex'r [Ky.] 85 S. W. 172.

90. Scott v. People, 210 Ill. 594, 71 N. E. 582.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1791, n. 36.

92. In re Corbin's Will, 91 N. Y. S. 797; Woolley v. Louisville, 26 Ky. L. R. 872, 82 S. W. 608; Morrison v. Fletcher [Ky.] 84 S. W. 548. Where the life tenant died after assessment but before payment, the remainderman must pay the taxes to relieve the property from the lien thereof. Joyes v. Louisville, 26 Ky. L. R. 713, 82 S. W. 432. But see Rissberger v. Brown [Ky.] 85 S. W. 731, where remainderman was not made party to the action. Tennessee Act of 1897, c. 1, § 4, extends the lien to the estate of the remainderman. Hadley v. Hadley [Tenn.] 87 S. W. 250. Where the life tenant is not brought before the court in a suit against the remainderman, no interest of the life tenant passes under a judgment or sale. Fenley v. Louisville [Ky.] 84 S. W. 582.

Note: The life tenant is bound to pay the ordinary taxes on the property. Hagan v. Varney, 147 Ill. 281; Varney v. Stevens, 22 Me. 331; Jenks v. Horton, 96 Mich. 13; Bone v. Tyrrell, 113 Mo. 175; Roche v. Waters, 72 Md. 264, 7 L. R. A. 533; Johnson v. Smith, 5 Bush (Ky.) 102; Deraismes v. Deraismes, 72 N. Y. 154; Disher v. Disher, 45 Neb. 100. But of assessments for permanent improvements he need pay only a proportionate share. Plympton v. Boston Dispensary, 106 Mass. 547; Reyburn v. Wallace, 93 Mo. 326, Finch's Cas. 609; Thomas v. Evans, 105 N. Y. 601, 59 Am. Rep. 519; Outcalt v. Appleby, 36 N. J. Eq. 73, 80; Chambers v. Chambers, 20 R. I. 370. Unless the improvement is one that will probably not outlast the tenant's life. Wordin's Appeal, 71 Conn. 531, 71 Am. St. Rep. 219; Hetner v. Ege, 23 Pa. St. 305; Reyburn v. Wallace, 93 Mo. 326, Finch's Cas. 609. Extracted from Tiffany on Real Property, § 32, p. 75.

93. Jeffers v. Sydnam, 129 Mich. 440, 89 N. W. 42.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1791, n. 38.

95. People v. Wells, 85 App. Div. 387, 83 N. Y. S. 387.

96. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 8423. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1791. Taxation of corporations and their stock, see Clark & Marshall Corp. § 284 et seq.; Helliwell Stock & Stockholders, §§ 346-355.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1792, n. 42. The renewal of a corporation under a general incorporation act is not the formation of a new corporation subject to a franchise tax. Burris v. Jessup & Moore Paper Co. [Del. Super.] 59 A. 860.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1792, n. 43. Switches, wires and meters of an electric lighting company installed on property belonging to individuals to whom the company furnishes electricity, are not realty of the company subject to taxation. People v. Feitner, 45 Misc. 12, 90 N. Y. S. 826; People v. Feitner, 90 N. Y. S. 904. The United States has no such interest in land conveyed by it to a corporation for dry dock purposes with a reserved right of free use of the dock and a provision for forfeiture as will prevent a state from taxing the corporation's interest in such land. Baltimore Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. v. Baltimore, 25 S. Ct. 50.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1792, n. 44. Machinery used by a sugar refining company in its building held to be personalty and within the provisions of the Maryland Code (Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 81, § 4), exempting from

A franchise tax is imposed by many states upon the privilege of exercising, under corporate organization, rights and powers not accorded to individuals.[2] This is not a tax upon property, but upon a privilege,[3] though the amount thereof may be measured by the value of property, and upon such basis as the legislature may prescribe.[4] The failure of a corporation to pay the franchise tax does not authorize the secretary of state to declare a forfeiture of its charter.[5] taxation the personal property of any corporation having capital stock divided into shares when the shares are subject to taxation. Commissioners of Anne Arundel County v. Baltimore Sugar Refining Co., 99 Md. 481, 58 A. 211. Bonds which a foreign insurance company is required to deposit with the superintendent of insurance as a condition of doing business are personal property taxable within the state. Scottish Union & National Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 25 S. Ct. 345. Loan and trust companies in Iowa cannot be taxed on moneys and credits. The Code, § 1323 makes special provision for the taxation of this class of companies. Mahkonsa Inv. Co. v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 100 N. W. 517.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1793, n. 56. When a corporation merely does what it has the right to do without the consent of the state, it is not in any legal or proper sense exercising a franchise, and hence past transactions are not within the scope of a statute imposing a tax for the privilege of exercising corporate franchises. Insurance renewals. People v. Miller, 179 N. Y. 227, 71 N. E. 930. Title and guaranty company held not to exercise any privilege not allowed to private persons, and therefore not subject to a franchise tax. Hager v. Louisville Title Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 182. The assessment and payment of a tax for the franchise to be a corporation in the state where the corporation is located is not a bar to the assessment and collection of a tax on the market value of the shares in a state where such corporation does business. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Tax Assessors of Providence, 25 R. I. 355, 55 A. 877. A corporation owning a large body of land and water and taking natural ice from its own lake, storing the same in its own warehouses upon the margin thereof, and selling such ice in carload lots, is not liable for the mercantile license taxes imposed by Pennsylvania Act of May 2, 1899 (P. L. 184). Commonwealth v. Pocono Mountain Ice Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 267. Pennsylvania Act of May 2, 1899 (P. L. 184), was intended to deal only with mercantile pursuits. Commonwealth v. Pocono Mt. Ice Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 267.

NOTE: Franchise tax: A statute of New York which went into effect Oct. 1, 1901, relating to "franchise taxes of insurance companies," provided for an annual state tax upon life insurance companies equal to one per cent. on the gross amount of premiums received during the preceding calendar year for business done in the state. Held, that since this tax is imposed "for the privilege of exercising corporate franchises," it can be laid only upon such business as depended upon the exercise of such franchises after the passing of the state; and since the collection of premiums upon contracts of insurance already made is not the exercise of a franchise, but depends upon an absolute contract right, premiums received upon contracts of insurance entered into before Oct 1, 1901, cannot be taken as part of that gross amount of premiums upon which the tax is imposed. People ex rel. The Provident, etc., Society v. Miller, 32 N. Y. L. J. 303 (N. Y., Ct. of App., Oct. 18, 1904).

The rule laid down that the franchise tax can be imposed only upon such business as depends upon the existence of the franchise is novel. A franchise tax is not a tax on business done; it is a tax on the value of the franchise. People v. Home Insurance Co., 92 N. Y. 328. The cases hold that it is necessary only that the method of taxation employed furnish a fair basis by which to estimate this value. Connecticut Insurance Co. v. Commonwealth, 133 Mass. 161. The total amount of business done is considered a fair measure, but so, also, is the market value of the stock. State Tax on Railway Gross Receipts, 15 Wall (U. S.) 284; Hamilton Company v. Massachusetts, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 632. But granting the correctness of the holding as to what this tax reaches, it is difficult to understand the ruling that the collection of premiums upon contracts already entered into is not the exercise of a corporate franchise. It would seem axiomatic that every act of a corporation within its powers is an exercise of a corporate franchise. It is submitted, therefore, that the decision is erroneous. Cf. Patterson, etc., Co. v. State Board of Assessors, 69 N. J. Law. 116.—18 Harv. L. R. 233.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1793, n. 57. The franchise tax imposed by New York Laws 1901, p. 316, c. 132, is not a tax on property but on corporate functions. Security Trust Co. v. Liberty Bldg. Co., 96 App. Div. 436, 89 N. Y. S. 340. Tax based upon premium receipts is a tax on the franchise and not a property tax. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 F. 830. A tax of $10 per mile on railroad franchises, irrespective of varying conditions, volume of business, earning capacity or value of the road, is not a property tax but a privilege tax. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Adams [Miss.] 38 So. 348. Making a paving compound is the production of a new and distinct substance, which constitutes manufacturing, but the preparation of a street and placing the pavement thereon is not. People v. Knight, 90 N. Y. S. 537.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1794, n. 58. In New York a franchise tax is imposed upon domestic corporations based upon their capital employed within the state, and graduated according to the dividends earned. Tax Laws 1896, § 182, c. 908. People v. Miller, 179 N. Y. 49, 71 N. E. 463. The term capital stock means not the share stock, but the capital represented by such share certificates. People v. Morgan, 178 N. Y. 433, 70 N. E. 967. Bonds of the United States and of certain railroads, if purchased by such capital, are to be treated as capital employ-

The capital of a corporation may be properly used as a basis of taxation,[6] and, unlike the tax based upon the franchise, is a tax upon property.[7]

Shares of stock[8] are personal property, and as such are taxable to the shareholder.[9] It is within the power of a state to fix for the purposes of taxation the situs of stock in a domestic corporation, whether owned by residents or nonresidents, and the Maryland provision that stock of a nonresident may be taxed to the corporation and the corporation given a right of action to recover it of the nonresident owner has been sustained, as not being unconstitutional as denying due process of law.[10]

Dividends[11] and gross receipts[12] for business done often furnish the basis for taxation.[13]

ed within the state and therefore enter into the basis upon which the franchise tax is to be computed; otherwise, if purchased with surplus. People v. Morgan, 178 N. Y. 433, 70 N. E. 967, reversing 86 App. Div. 577, 83 N. Y. S. 998. A corporation organized for the purpose of taking title to unimproved city real estate owned by tenants in common so as to execute a mortgage thereon to pay past due mortgages and taxes, and hold the same for sale, is not liable to the tax. People v. Miller, 179 N. Y. 49, 71 N. E. 463. The good will of a corporation is an asset to be considered in fixing the franchise tax. People v. Morgan, 96 App. Div. 110, 88 N. Y. S. 1066. Taxation of franchises in Nebraska must be by valuation and in proportion to value. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 84. Gross receipts may properly be considered as an item in estimating the value of a franchise, but such receipts, standing alone, are not a proper measure of such franchise value. Id. Where a new corporation was organized merely as a means for the division of profits, it was not entitled to exemption from the franchise tax on the ground that 50 per cent of its capital was invested in manufacturing in the state. Buffalo Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. State Board of Assessors [N. J. Law] 60 A. 65. The limitation prescribed by Mass. St. 1903, p. 450, c. 437, § 75, is to be applied after the local taxes are deducted from the amount ascertained by taking 1-100 of 1 per cent of the authorized capital of the corporation. American Can Co. v. Commonwealth [Mass.] 73 N. E. 856. Gas pipes and mains laid in city streets, included in a state assessment under the franchise tax law, are not taxable by local authorities. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. 606, 87 N. Y. S. 595. Franchises of turnpike companies are not taxable by the towns in which portions of the roads are located. In re President, etc., of Albany & B. Turnpike Road, 87 N. Y. S. 1104. Where a foreign corporation purchased five patents, the fact that two of such patents proved worthless did not entitle it to a deduction therefor in determining the amount of franchise tax. People v. Kelsey, 91 N. Y. S. 955. Ky. St. 1903, §§ 4079, 4080, 4084, 4090, providing manner of determining value of franchises held not exclusive. Commonwealth v. Adams Exp. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 190, 80 S. W. 1118.

5. Rippstein v. Haynes Medina Valley R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 314.

6. Capital as used in section 3836 of the Connecticut Revision of 1888 describes the surplus over liabilities, representing the fund in which the shareholder is equitably interested and to which he would look were the company to be wound up. Appeal of Bulkeley [Conn.] 58 A. 8. The franchise of a corporation is not to be considered in assessing its taxable capital. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. 606, 87 N. Y. S. 595. The words "capital" and "capital stock" often used interchangeably are found in tax laws to be applied to one or another of three different mental conceptions; first, to the shares or interest which the stockholders have in a corporation; second, to the money or property which the incorporators contribute and transfer to the corporation as capital, and which thus becomes its property; thirdly, the word is often used as a mere measure of size of the corporation as a test for graduating taxes, usually by way of license. First Nat. Bank v. Douglas County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 315.

7. The Hub v. Hanberg, 211 Ill. 43, 71 N. E. 826. A tax on the value of the capital of a corporation is a tax on the property in which that capital is invested, and in consequence no tax can thus be levied which includes property otherwise exempt. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 25 S. Ct. 669.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1793, n. 50.

9. See Helliwell Stock & Stockholders, §§ 346-355. Shareholders as individuals are different entities, for the purposes of taxation, from the corporation in which they hold stock, and their stock interest therein is wholly distinct property from either the capital of the company or any of its property. First Nat. Bank v. Douglas County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 315. The shares of stock in a corporation whose capital consists wholly of patent rights are not exempt from taxation. Scott v. Smith, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 617. Shares of stock in a foreign corporation held by a domestic corporation are taxable as the property of the latter. Wright v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 16.

10. Corry v. Baltimore, 25 S. Ct. 297.

11. Money paid into the treasury of a corporation solely for the purpose of strengthening the company, and thereafter returned, was not a dividend within the meaning of a provision of the tax law, taxing corporations on the basis of dividends. People v. Knight, 96 App. Div. 120, 89 N. Y. S. 72.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1793, n. 54.

13. Under the Massachusetts statute (Rev. Laws, c. 14, § 44, cl. 2), providing that the percentages of gross receipts of street

Public service corporations.[13a]—The franchise, land and chattels of a public service corporation constitute one individual thing for the purpose of taxation. The franchise is personal property and all things of a proprietary nature connected therewith, whether land or movables, partake of its character, and the value of that which is created by a combination of tangible and intangible things forms the legitimate basis of taxation.[14]

Banks[15] are not required to pay taxes on the money deposited with them by their customers, nor on assets which represent it,[16] nor in the absence of a statute so providing are they liable for the taxes assessed to the shareholders upon the shares of stock.[17] Credits on the books of a bank consisting of sums paid to branches of the bank in other states, and charged to them as mere matter of bookkeeping without obligation on the part of the debited branches to return them, were not taxable credits.[18] The state's power to tax national banks is subject to two restrictions, that the rate shall not be greater than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individuals in the state, and the shares of any national banking association owned by nonresidents must be taxed in the city or town where the bank is located. The discrimination forbidden does not necessarily result from the adoption by the state of a different method of taxation with reference to national banks from that which it has adopted for state banks.[19] The sale of a private railway companies to be ascertained for purposes of taxing "shall be based upon the annual gross receipts for each mile of track," the computation is to be made by dividing the annual gross receipts by the entire number of miles of track operated, and not the number of miles operated in the public streets only. Greenfield & T. F. St. R. Co. v. Greenfield [Mass.] 73 N. E. 477. Under the New York statute (Laws 1899, p. 1593, c. 712, § 46), where a street surface railway pays to a city a certain sum under an agreement that a percentage of its gross receipts previously payable be reduced in consideration that it thereafter grant transfers to passengers, this was a tax and should be deducted from the special franchise tax. Heerwagen v. Crosstown St. R. Co., 179 N. Y. 99, 71 N. E. 729. In a suit by a foreign insurance company to restrain the collection of a tax, evidence as to the meaning of the phrase "net receipts" as understood among insurance experts was properly admitted. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Hanberg [Ill.] 74 N. E. 377.

13a. See 2 Curr. L. 1792, n. 47.

14. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Nelson [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1033; Town of Washburn v. Washburn Waterworks Co., 120 Wis. 575, 98 N. W. 539. The Act of Congress of July 24, 1866, known as the Post Roads Act, does not confer upon telegraph companies accepting its provisions any immunity from taxation, whether such property be tangible or intangible. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 84. In New Jersey, lands owned by a railroad company adjacent to the main right of way and reasonably necessary or convenient for the purposes of a railway, or used incidentally for such purposes and not actually used for other purposes, are only subject to the special taxation imposed by the state board of assessors. In re Central R. Co. of New Jersey [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1089; In re Central R. Co. of New Jersey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1062. Where a parcel of land owned by a railroad was occupied by certain sidetracks and the spaces between such tracks were occasionally and necessarily used for the storage of bulky articles, such parcel was used for railroad purposes and exempt (Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Grand Rapids [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1012), but other land owned by the railroad, in the possession of private individuals, and used exclusively by them for wood and coal yards, were not used for railway purposes (Id.). Grain elevator held to be essential part of a railroad so as to be exempt under the Wisconsin scheme of railroad taxation. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Douglas County [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1030.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1795.

16. Commonwealth v. Bank of Commerce, 26 Ky. L. R. 407, 81 S. W. 679.

17. Shares of bank stock being assessable for taxation to the individual shareholder, and the bank not being liable for the taxes, it could not properly pay the same, except from dividends or other property of the stockholders in its possession. Redhead v. Iowa Nat. Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 796.

18. London & San Francisco Bank v. Block [C. C. A.] 136 F. 138.

19. Hewett statute (U. S. Rev. St. § 5219). City of Covington v. First Nat. Bank, 25 S. Ct. 562; San Francisco Nat. Bank v. Dodge, 25 S. Ct. 384. Act Kentucky March 21, 1900 (Acts 1900, p. 65, c. 23), providing for the taxation of shares of national banks, is valid and enforceable as applied to taxes for subsequent years. First Nat. Bank v. Covington, 129 F. 792. The act did not give the commonwealth a new cause of action, but a new remedy for the collection of taxes on national bank stock, and the five year statute of limitations is therefore applicable. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Commonwealth, 25 Ky. L. R. 62, 81 S. W. 686. The same act in providing for retrospective taxation is not invalid in making the situs therefor the domicile of the bank, whereas theretofore the situs of the stock was the domicile of the owners of the shares, since it applies bank to a national bank stops taxation of the former.[20] Shares of national bank stock must be assessed to the individual shareholders, not in solido to the bank,[21] but the bank may be required to pay the tax in the first instance.[22]

Foreign corporations[23] doing business in a state must submit to such conditions of taxation as the state may think proper or prudent to impose.[24] In New York foreign corporations doing business within the state are taxed on the amount of capital employed; and the exercise of this right to tax is dependent upon the existence of two concurrent conditions, that the corporation shall be doing business within the state,[25] and that its capital, or some portion thereof, shall be employed within the state.[26] Shares of the capital stock of a foreign corporation, whose capital consists wholly of patent rights, are not exempt from taxation.[27] The property of a foreign railroad corporation which leases or operates the property of a domestic or canal company, other than that which it derives from the lessor, is taxable in like manner as that of a domestic railroad.[28] A tax imposed under a statute applying to domestic corporations will not be sustained when imposed upon a foreign but naturalized corporation.[29]

Where a corporation was not organized till within a year prior to the statement of a tax, it should be assessed only for the proportionate part of the time during which it was in existence and doing business.[30]

(§ 2) D. Public property.[31]—Public property, Federal and state, and the various instrumentalities of government, are not taxed.[32] Where doubt exists as to only to shares which have escaped taxation. Town of London v. Hope, 26 Ky. L. R. 112, 80 S. W. 817.

20. Schoonover v. Petcina [Iowa] 100 N. W. 490. Real estate of a national bank, shown to have been acquired with and to constitute part of its capital, is exempt. First Nat. Bank v. Douglas County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 315.

21. Jefferson County v. First Nat. Bank [Wash.] 80 P. 449.

22. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1794.

24. Municipal bonds and securities deposited with the state treasurer by a foreign corporation to enable it to transact business within the state acquire a situs within the state for business purposes which confers jurisdiction on the state to tax them. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544. See, also, Foreign Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 1455.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1794, n. 61. People v. Wells, 90 N. Y. S. 313. The nonresident must have a permanent or continuous business within the state. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. 86, 85 N. Y. S. 533. A foreign corporation manufacturing goods in France maintained an agency for sale of such goods in New York, rented a storage place, and remitted proceeds, less expenses of agency, to France. Held, the corporation was taxable only on the value of its office furniture. People v. Wells, 42 Misc. 423, 87 N. Y. S. 84. A foreign corporation having an office in the city of New York, with an agent to take orders for goods to be manufactured and paid for at the home office, but to be delivered from the New York office, the corporation having no local bank account, and paying the agent a commission monthly on sales, is not liable to such tax. People v. Wells 42 Misc. 86, 85 N. Y. S. 533.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1794, n. 62. Where it appeared that a certain amount of the stock of a corporation was outside the state for sale, but not how much was without the state which was never returned thereto, it was proper to refuse to deduct from the assessment any part of the amount claimed as without the state. People v. Miller, 94 App. Div. 564, 88 N. Y. S. 197. Under the New York tax law (Laws 1896, p. 856, c. 908, § 182), providing that where a foreign corporation pays more than 6 per cent dividends it shall pay a tax to be computed on the basis of the amount of its capital stock employed within the state, the basis of taxation is that portion of the capital employed within the state which is represented by the actual value of the property owned, whether in money, goods or other tangible things. People v. Morgan, 86 App. Div. 577, 83 N. Y. S. 998.

27. Scott v. Smith, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 617.

28. In re Lehigh Valley R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 103.

29. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 1106, 83 S. W. 562.

30. People v. Miller, 94 App. Div. 564, 88 N. Y. S. 197. People v. Knight, 90 N. Y. S. 537; People v. Miller [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 1102, affirming People v. Miller, 90 N. Y. S. 755.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1796.

32. Land conveyed by the United States for a dry dock is not entirely exempt from state taxation as an agency of the United States, because of a reservation in the conveyance of the right of free use of the dock and a provision for forfeiture in case of misuse or nonuse. Baltimore Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. v. Baltimore. 25 S. Ct. 50. Where an easement in land taken for a public highway under the right of eminent domain involves practically the exclusive possession and control of the property by the

the construction of a statute permitting taxation of state property, the doubt must be resolved in favor of the state.[33] Property owned by a city necessary to the exercise of those duties which are strictly governmental is exempt from taxation,[34] but not so of that property which is held and used by the municipality for the comfort of its citizens individually or collectively, or for money making purposes merely.[35] The tax exemption of cemeteries continues after abandonment for burial purposes until all the bodies have been removed.[36] United States,[37] but not generally municipal bonds, are exempt.[38] County bonds to refund indebtedness held exempt.[39] Though government bonds are not subject to taxation, the money or property obtained by a pledge of such bonds is subject to taxation,[40] and in estimating the value of shares of stock in a bank, the value of United States bonds owned by the bank may be considered.[41] Interest on United States bonds is not taxable,[42] nor does such interest become taxable immediately upon being paid into the hands of the bondholders.[43] When the beneficial title to public lands has passed from the government, they are no longer free from taxation.[44] In Michigan, lands on which the taxes have not been paid for a period of years are withdrawn by the state from taxation.[45]

(§ 2) E. Realty.[46]—Taxes on land include buildings, structures and improvements affixed to the land.[47] Where one is the owner of buildings, the owner-public, and leaves the original owner with no right of substantial value, the property is exempt from taxation. Lancy v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 302.

33. People v. Miller, 94 App. Div. 567, 88 N. Y. S. 253.

34. Land used as city park. Robb v. Philadelphia, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 343. A building and a stock of liquors owned by a municipal corporation and operated by it as a dispensary are public property within the meaning of the Georgia Pol. Code, 1895, § 762, and as such are exempt from taxation. This is so, although the town had no legal authority to maintain and operate a dispensary. Walden v. Whigham, 120 Ga. 646, 48 S. E. 159.

35. Bonds given to city on purchase of its lighting plant. Board of Councilmen of City of Frankfort v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 957, 82 S. W. 1008. The property of a water company, all the stock of which is owned by a municipality, is subject to taxation. City of Louisville v. McAteer, 26 Ky. L. R. 425, 81 S. W. 698.

36. Watterson v. Halliday, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 693. Conducting a green house thereon for the purpose of growing flowers and plants to beautify the grounds is not a use for other than cemetery purposes. State v. Lakewood Cemetery Ass'n [Minn.] 101 N. W. 161.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1796, n. 78. The act of Congress exempting U. S. bonds is disobeyed by a law taxing the capital of a corporation when that capital has become invested in such bonds. First Nat. Bank v. Douglas County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 315.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1796, n. 79.

39. Chester County v. White Bros. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 28.

40. Hooper v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 662.

41. First Nat. Bank v. Independence, 123 Iowa, 482, 99 N. W. 142; People's Sav. Bank v. Des Moines [Iowa] 101 N. W. 867; Security Sav. Bank v. Carroll [Iowa] 103 N. W. 379; People's Sav. Bank v. Layman, 134 F. 635.

42. Mosely v. State [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 714.

43. Id.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1796, n. 75. After county school land has been sold by the county, it becomes property of vendee for purpose of taxation, though the sale be on credit on an executory contract. Taber v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 835. Lot leased at an annual rental by owner of fee to a school board to be used for school purposes, not exempt under the Missouri constitution and statutes. State v. Macgurn [Mo.] 86 S. W. 138. Where school lands are purchased from the state on deferred payments, they become taxable, and may be sold for unpaid taxes. But one who buys such lands at a tax sale takes only the interest of the original purchaser, subject to a possible forfeiture for a nonpayment of the balance due, or the interest on the same; and, if a forfeiture occurs, it effectually terminates the interest of the original purchaser and those holding under him, and the full title to the lands then reverts to the state, free from any lien or claim for taxes. Board of County Com'rs of Russell County v. Mahoney, 69 Kan. 661, 77 P. 692.

45. Board of Sup'rs of Alcona County v. Powers [Mich.] 101 N. W. 657. The finding by the auditor general and land commissioner that no suits are pending to set aside taxes on lands returned as delinquent and purchased by the state is conclusive. Semer v. Auditor General, 133 Mich. 569, 95 N. W. 732; Board of Sup'rs of Alcona County v. Powers [Mich.] 101 N. W. 657.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1797.

47. See Curr. L. 1796, n. 81. Where safety deposit vaults were constructed subsequently to the time a tax on relator's personalty was levied, they could not form the basis of a deduction from the amount of such tax on the ground that they were assessed as real estate. People v. Wells, 99 App. Div. 455, 91 N. Y. S. 283. The term "real estate" in the Connecticut statute, taxing bridge companies, is to be taken in the ship of the land being in another, each interest may be assessed to its owner, and an assessment of the buildings as real estate is proper.[48] The New Jersey act[49] providing that all property mortgaged to or owned in trust by any person by appointment of any court shall be taxable applies only to lands.[50] Water power as such is not taxable, but the value of land upon which a mill privilege exists may be greatly enhanced by the fact that its topography is such that a dam may be erected across a stream upon it and water power thereby created.[51] Minerals in the earth are real estate, and when the owner of them has not the fee to the surface of such land, they should be separately assessed and taxed.[52] Mineral land in Virginia is to be assessed as of the first of February.[53]

(§ 2) F. Personalty.[54]—In the taxation of personal property,[55] the state may include credits,[56] debts,[57] and securities,[58] and in the absence of statute, there can be no deduction from taxes on credits for debts owing by the taxpayer.[59] A taxpayer is not entitled to deduct his indebtedness unless he asserts that right when he lists his credits.[60] sense in which it is employed in the taxation of realty of private individuals. Middletown & P. Bridge Co. v. Middletown [Conn.] 59 A. 34. In contemplation of tax laws, the character of a building attached to a city lot is not changed by its unlawful severance, and the right to subject the same to the payment of real estate taxes the amount of which was fixed with reference to such improvement cannot be thus defeated. Easton v. Cranmer [S. D.] 102 N. W. 944. Vaults in a safe deposit company, constructed in a building owned by other persons, in such manner as to be realty, constitute an interest in real estate subject to taxation as such. People v. Wells [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 961, affirming same case, 99 App. Div. 455, 91 N. Y. S. 283. As to what are fixtures, see Bronson, Fixtures.

§ 3. Exemption from taxation.[61]—When the selection of the subjects of tax-

48. In re Long Beach Land Co., 91 N. Y. S. 503. A stationary saw mill, in which boilers are set in masonry, erected upon lands of another, held by owners of mill under lease and as to which owners of mill had right to remove at any time, were liable to taxation as real estate. Bemis v. Shipe, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 42.

49. Act April 1, 1898, p. 202.

50. Swope v. Fraser [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 531.

51. Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. v. Bradley [Me.] 59 A. 83.

52. Bakersfield & Fresno Oil Co. v. Kern County, 144 Cal. 148, 77 P. 892; In re Maplewood Coal Co., 213 Ill. 283, 72 N. E. 786; Cherokee & P. Coal & Min. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Crawford County [Kan.] 80 P. 601; Murray v. Hinds [Mont.] 76 P. 1039; Hadley v. Hadley [Tenn.] 87 S. W. 250; Interstate Coal & Iron Co. v. Commonwealth [Va.] 49 S. E. 974.

53. Pardee v. Commonwealth, 102 Va. 905, 47 S. E. 1010.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1797.

55. Shingles and lumber held to be the product of manufacture and taxable as such, under Sand. & H. Dig. § 6444. Arkansas Cypress Shingle Co. v. Lonoke County [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1029.

56. Credit arising out of sale of land. Cross v. Snakenberg [Iowa] 102 N. W. 508. The word "credits" as used in § 10,427, Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, means net credits. The indebtedness of the taxpayer may be deducted from gross credits to find the true value of credits for assessments. Lancaster County v. McDonald [Neb.] 103 N. W. 78. Cotton in the hands of the owner and under his control on the 1st day of June was not listable as a solvent credit under a statute that the value of cotton in the hands of a commission merchant should be deemed a credit. Murdock v. Iredell County Com'rs [N. C.] 50 S. E. 567.

57. Debts due by a solvent resident to nonresident are taxable on the theory that it is the state which enforces them. In re Daly's Estate, 91 N. Y. S. 858.

58. Notes and mortgages are property and subject to taxation. Kingsley v. Merrill [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1044. Loans secured by stocks and bonds are assessable as solvent credits. Savings & Loan Soc. v. City & County of San Francisco [Cal.] 80 P. 1086. The provision of the California constitution, art. 13, § 4, that a mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or other obligation by which a debt is secured, shall for the purposes of assessment and taxation be deemed and treated an interest in the property affected thereby, and the value of such security shall be taxed to the owner thereof where the property affected thereby is situate, applies only to liens on real estate. Bank of Woodland v. Pierce, 144 Cal. 434, 77 P. 1012.

59. Debt consisting of unpaid taxes. Appeal of Bailes [Iowa] 102 N. W. 813. The Minnesota statute (§ 1526, Gen. St. 1894), providing for deduction of indebtedness from credits listed for taxation, is constitutional. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 731. An assessment on personal property of a nonresident is not subject to a deduction for an indebtedness due from the owner unless the indebtedness stands in some direct relation to the property. People v. O'Donnell, 92 N. Y. S. 577.

60. A railway company taxed under the provisions of the gross earnings law is not within the rule with respect to credits taxable by the state outside of the gross earnings tax. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 731.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1797.

ation has been made, and the general rule determined upon, it is customary for the legislature for reasons of general policy to make certain exemptions of either persons or property.[62] In accordance with this policy,[63] it is the universal practice to exempt property devoted to religious,[64] charitable,[65] benevolent,[66] and educational or literary uses,[67] the institutions not being conducted for pecuniary gain,[68] though

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1798, n. 1.

63. Courts will not pass upon legislative policies so long as the legislation does not offend the fundamental law. Pratt Institute v. New York, 99 App. Div. 525, 91 N. Y. S. 136.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1798, n. 2. An institution which has as its primary object the inculcation of religious belief, but in addition thereto dispenses charity without discrimination, is entitled to exemption from taxation on the property used in connection with its charities. Watterson v. Halliday, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 693. Where the only use of a certain tract of land belonging to a religious corporation was to take lumber therefrom, as occasion required, for improving other portions of the corporation's grounds, such tract was not solely used for charitable and religious purposes so as to be exempt from taxation. People v. Reilly, 85 App. Div. 71, 83 N. Y. S. 39. Religious society held not exempt from assessments for local improvements authorized and begun during the exempt period, but the assessments for which were not levied until the end of the period. In re Opening of East 176th St., 85 App. Div. 347, 83 N. Y. S. 433. A trust fund devoted to the propagation of the principles of primitive Christianity, as taught by the Christian Church, through the employment of evangelists and otherwise cannot be exempted as church property. Commonwealth v. Thomas, 26 Ky. L. R. 1128, 83 S. W. 572. Land purchased by a religious society for religious purposes after the taxes for the then current year have attached is taken subject to, and not exempt from, such taxes. McHenry Baptist Church v. McNeal [Miss.] 38 So. 195.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1799, n. 3. A charity which is dispensed to the public, and is not limited or confined to any class of persons, is a "purely public charity" within the meaning of the constitution. Watterson v. Halliday, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 693. Buildings belonging to the Roman Catholic Church, and occupied by its bishops, priests or sextons, and not rented, or used or intended for profit, are within the meaning of the phrase "purely public charity" and exempt from taxation under the constitution and laws of Ohio. Id. So grounds contiguous to churches, schools and priests' houses, used in connection therewith, or for ornamental or recreation purposes, fall within the same exemption; but vacant lots, used for or intended for other purposes, are not entitled to exemption. Id. An incorporated sanitarium association held sufficiently charitable in its character to entitle it to exemption. Michigan Sanitarium & Benevolent Ass'n v. Battle Creek [Mich.] 101 N. W. 855. Where realty was devised in trust for five years, during that time to be sold and the resulting fund to be paid to a nontaxable orphan's institution, the trust fund during the five years was exempt. Norton's Ex'rs & Trustees v. Louisville, 26 Ky. L. R. 846, 82 S. W. 621. A trust fund devoted to the propagation of the principles of primitive Christianity as taught by the Christian Church is not a "purely public charity" under the Kentucky constitution. Commonwealth v. Thomas, 26 Ky. L. R. 1128, 83 S. W. 572. Laws 1902, p. 1758, c. 605, § 1, exempting from water tax a building used by a social settlement, does not exempt a building owned by a church and partly used by a social settlement conducted therein by the officers. People v. Monroe, 40 Misc. 286, 81 N. Y. S. 972.

66. Elk's clubhouse held not to be exempt under Rev. St. Wisconsin, § 1038, exempting property of benevolent associations. Trustees of Green Bay Lodge, No. 259, B. P. O. E. v. City of Green Bay [Wis.] 100 N. W. 837. Michigan Building and Loan Act, exempting from taxation stock and securities held by building associations, was not affected by General Tax Laws. National Loan & Investment Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 99 N. W. 380.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1799, n. 4. Rettew v. St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church of Wilmington, 4 Pen. (Del.) 593, 58 A. 828. The criterion of whether property is used exclusively for educational purposes, within New York Laws 1896 (p. 797, c. 908, § 4, subd. 7), is whether it is exclusively devoted to the use of the institution in the mental, moral and physical training and proper maintenance of those attendant upon it. People v. Mezger, 90 N. Y. S. 488. Pharmacy college held to be an "institution of education" and exempt. Louisville College of Pharmacy v. Louisville, 26 Ky. L. R. 825, 82 S. W. 610. Under Rev. Laws, c. 12, real estate contiguous to the school site and used as residence for teachers and play grounds for children, is exempt from taxation. Emerson v. Trustees of Milton Academy, 185 Mass. 414, 70 N. E. 442.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1799, n. 5. A college athletic field rented to outside persons during vacation is not "used exclusively" for educational purposes. People v. Wells, 97 App. Div. 312, 89 N. Y. S. 957. Infirmary connected with medical school operated for gain is not exempt. Wathen v. Louisville [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1195. An educational institution having a capital stock, and formed as a business proposition, is not within the exemption. Brenau Ass'n v. Harbison, 120 Ga. 927, 48 S. E. 363. A school managed by trustees serving without compensation, but entirely supported by tuition from pupils and receiving a rental of $150 per year from its principal, is not a purely public charity. Harrisburg v. Harrisburg Academy, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 252. Where the building of a benevolent and charitable institution is designed for use by it for its own purposes, and a substantial use is made of all of the building by the association for its own purposes in good faith, the property is exempt, notwithstanding such occupation may not be exclusive, and the owner may sometimes allow others to use some portions for a an endowment fund of a college, belonging exclusively to it, and devoted solely to deriving an income for its support, is exempt.[69]

The power of the legislatures, territorial as well as state,[70] to grant these exemptions, even retrospectively,[71] is unquestioned.[72]

States in their infancy frequently grant exemptions from taxation, in various forms and for various periods, to railroads as an inducement to their construction within the state.[73] When the conditions and considerations upon which a grant of exemption was based have once been met, a contract right exists which cannot be impaired by subsequent statute of modification or repeal.[74] But where the legislature has reserved the right to amend, alter or repeal corporate charters, the withdrawal of an exemption does not impair the obligation of contract.[75]

A legislative exemption being a mere gratuity does not constitute a vested right and is revocable;[76] and, being in the nature of a renunciation of sovereignty, must, as a general rule, be construed most strongly against the grantee, and can never be permitted to extend either in scope or duration beyond what the terms of the concession clearly require.[77] Exemption being the exception and not the rule,[78] general exemption laws have no application to special assessments.[79]

§ 4. Place of taxation.[80]—In the absence of statutory provisions, realty is to rental when it can be done without interfering with the use of the same by the owner for its own purposes. Curtis v. Androscoggin Lodge, No. 24, I. O. O. F. [Me.] 59 A. 518.

69. See Curr. L. 1799, n. 7. Little v. United Presbyterian Theological Seminary [Ohio] 74 N. E. 193.

70. Territorial governments possess the power to grant exemptions from taxation. Even such as may ripen into a contract and therefore become binding upon a subsequent state government. Bennett v. Nichols [Ariz.] 80 P. 392.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1797, n. 91. Laws 1855, p. 483, exempting from taxation all property owned by Northwestern University, exempts all property (a business block owned for banking purposes) owned by it prior to the passage of the act. In re Assessment of Property of Northwestern University, 206 Ill. 64, 69 N. E. 75.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1797, n. 90. Stock and securities held by building associations. National Loan & Investment Co. v. Detroit, [Mich.] 99 N. W. 380.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1800, n. 11. A territorial statute exempting a railroad from taxation for a period of 20 years is not in conflict with act of Congress, July 30, 1886 (24 Stat. 170, c. 818), providing that the legislatures of the territories shall not pass any local or special laws granting to any corporation or individual any special or exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise. Bennett v. Nichols [Ariz.] 80 P. 392. The word "stock" in the exempting clause of the Georgia Railroad Company's charter means the capital of the corporation and not the shares in the hands of the individual owners. Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Wright, 132 F. 912.

74. Bennett v. Nichols [Ariz.] 80 P. 392. A railroad, though it may have for its primary and principal function the carrying of logs to a sawmill, is nevertheless entitled to the exemption, where it runs regular freight and passenger trains with a fixed schedule of charges. Amos Kent Lumber & Brick Co. v. Tax Assessor of Parish of St. Helena [La.] 38 So. 587; Wicomico County Com'rs v. Bancroft [C. C. A.] 135 F. 977.

75. Pratt Institute v. New York, 99 App. Div. 525, 91 N. Y. S. 136.

76. Monaghan v. Lewis [Del.] 59 A. 948. General Tax Law of New York (Laws 1896, p. 797, c. 908, § 4, subd. 7) supersedes and repeals by implication all statutes exempting from taxation. Pratt Institute v. New York, 99 App. Div. 525, 91 N. Y. S. 136.

77. Brenau Ass'n v. Harbison, 120 Ga. 927, 48 S. E. 363. See 2 Curr. L. 1798, n. 97. The exemption from taxation to the amount of $500 of members of a fire department held to apply only to municipal taxes. Jefferson County v. Watertown, 90 N. Y. S. 790; People v. Cahill [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 422. A sale on foreclosure of a deed of trust of all the property and franchises of the corporation did not pass to the purchaser the immunity from taxation granted by the state to the original corporation, its successors and assigns. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co. v. Commonwealth [Va.] 49 S. E. 506. Under the constitution of Georgia, a city has no power directly or indirectly to exempt a water company from the payment of an ad valorem tax on its property for municipal purposes. Columbia Ave. Savings Fund, Safe Deposit, Title & Trust Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152. The word "flour" in article 230 of the Louisiana constitution, exempting the capital machinery and other property employed in the manufacture of flour, is used in a restricted sense as the ground and bolted substance of wheat manufactured for human consumption. Atlas Feed Products Co. v. New Orleans, 113 La. 611, 37 So. 531. The exemption from the taxing power of the state of the capital of a corporation consisting wholly of patent rights does not exempt the shares of stock from taxation. Scott v. Smith, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 617.

78. Jefferson County v. Watertown, 90 N. Y. S. 790.

79. Hager v. Gast [Ky.] 84 S. W. 556. See 2 Curr. L. 1800, n. 16.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1800.

be taxed in the district where located, the physical situs being regarded as controlling,[81] while as to personalty, tangible and intangible, the general rule is that it is to be taxed where the owner resides, regardless of its actual situs.[82] In the case of goods in transit,[83] of migrating herds,[84] and the rolling stock and vessels of transportation companies,[85] the permanent situs as distinguished from the place of temporary sojourn is of controlling force.[86] It is, however, within the province of the legislature to fix the situs of both realty[87] and personalty[88] to accord with common-law rules, or otherwise, as it may deem best,[89] and, where tangible personalty is actually within the state, the legislature may for the purpose of taxation separate it from the domicile of a nonresident owner.[90] So, promissory notes, owned by a nonresident, which are permanently kept in the hands of an agent within the state, may be treated as personal property within the state.[91] Property properly assessable in one district cannot escape taxation by temporary removal at time of assessment.[92]

81. Walton County v. Morgan County, 120 Ga. 548, 48 S. E. 243.

82. For the purpose of taxation the situs of personal property of every description is the domicile of the owner. Refrigerator cars. Commonwealth v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 23, 80 S. W. 490. In determining domicile, the act and intent must concur, and the intent may be inferred from declarations and conduct. Barron v. Boston, 187 Mass. 168, 72 N. E. 951. Credits are taxable in the state and at the domicile of the owner. Commonwealth v. Williams' Ex'r, 102 Va. 778, 47 S. E. 867. See 2 Curr. L. 1801, n. 24. A trust estate consisting of personal property is to be taxed in the same town where the private, personal estate of the beneficiary under the trust is taxed. Clarke v. Addeman, 99 R. I. 356, 58 A. 623.

83. Coal awaiting sale in another state may be treated as permanently in that state and taxed there accordingly. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 25 S. Ct. 669. Saw logs and timber held properly assessed at principal place of business of owner under Wisconsin Rev. St. 1898, § 1040. State v. Fisher [Wis.] 102 N. W. 566.

84. Stock temporarily grazed in one county is nevertheless to be assessed in the county where they are permanently reared and kept. Rosasco v. County of Tuolumne, 143 Cal. 430, 77 P. 148.

85. Vessels which though engaged in interstate commerce are employed wholly within the state are subject to taxation in that state, notwithstanding they have been registered at a port outside the limits of the state. Old Dominion S. S. Co. v. Commonwealth, 25 S. Ct. 686.

86. Rosasco v. County of Tuolumne, 143 Cal. 430, 77 P. 148.

87. Land divided by county lines. Walton County v. Morgan County, 120 Ga. 548, 48 S. E. 243.

88. Teagan Transp. Co. v. Board of Assessors of Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 273. Railroad property. State v. Back [Neb.] 100 N. W. 952. Statute providing that corporations in Alleghany County shall pay taxes levied on assessed valuation of their capital stock held by resident or nonresident stockholders, and that the holders shall not be liable is violative of the constitution which provides that property of residents shall be taxed in the county where they reside. City of Baltimore v. Alleghany County Com'rs, 99 Md. 1, 57 A. 632.

89. It may provide that certain classes of personal property because of their relation to real estate, and the uses made thereof on the real estate may be taxed therewith and treated as a part thereof for the purpose of taxation. Morgan County v. Walton County, 120 Ga. 1028, 48 S. E. 409. This is wholly independent of the question as to whether the personal property has lost its character as personalty, and, by becoming a fixture, is to be treated as a part of the realty. Morgan County v. Walton County, 121 Ga. 659, 49 S. E. 776. Contracts for sale of land made in favor of a foreign corporation doing business within another state may be given such a situs as to render them liable to taxation by that state. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 731. Kentucky Act March 21, 1900, p. 66, c. 23, § 3, providing for retrospective taxation of bank stock, is not invalid in making the situs therefor the domicile of the bank, whereas theretofore the situs for taxation of such stock was the domicile of the owners of the shares. Town of London v. Hope, 26 Ky. L. R. 112, 80 S. W. 817.

90. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3. Bonds of a nonresident insurance company, deposited with the insurance commissioner of a state as a condition to doing business in that state, do not have a situs at the domicile of the company, because beyond its control, but at the domicile of the commissioner, and are subject to taxation within that state. Western Assur. Co. v. Halliday, 127 F. 830. Texas statutes do not exclude from taxation property owned by nonresidents that has a taxable situs within the state. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 544. In Kentucky all personal property of a corporation organized in the state, though having its principal place of business outside the state, is taxable in the state. Commonwealth v. Union Refrigerator Transit Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 23, 80 S. W. 490.

91. Buck v. Beach [Ind.] 71 N. E. 963. See 2 Curr. L. 1802, n. 25.

92. Moneys and credits. Buck v. Beach [Ind.] 71 N. E. 963; Snakenberg v. Stein [Iowa] 102 N. W. 533. Live stock in herds. Jandt v. Sioux County [Neb.] 102 N. W. 763.

§ 5. Assessment. A. Assessing officers.[93]—An assessment is an official listing of persons and property with an estimate of the value of the property of each for purposes of taxation.[94] An assessment in some form is necessary,[95] which to be valid, must be made by proper officers having competent authority and the qualifications required by law.[96] In nearly all the states an assessing officer is designated by law, and upon him, in the first instance, rests the duty of making the assessment;[97] but in some states it has been found convenient and practicable to invest state boards with power to make assessments in certain instances.[98] The acts of assessors in determining what property is liable to taxation are judicial in their character.[99] Mandamus therefore will not issue to compel a board of assessors to assess lands of relator as one solid parcel.[1] Assessors in making an assessment must proceed at the time[2] and in the manner pointed out by statute.[3] Presumptively, officers making up a tax roll have authority to act, and if such action is properly taken according to law and properly evidenced, it constitutes a valid assessment,[4] and places upon the taxpayer the burden of establishing an alleged illegality.[5] An assessor in Kentucky is not entitled to a commission upon property which is exempt from taxation.[6]

(§ 5) B. Formal requisites. The roll or list.[7]—In making an assessment it is essential that a proper roll or list be prepared, containing, among other things, a description of the property to be taxed, its value, and the name of the owner thereof.[8] The purpose of description is designation and identification.[9] This pur-

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1802.

94. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1802, n. 28.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1802, n. 30. De facto officer may assess. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539.

97. A supervisor of assessments has no authority to make the assessment of an owner's property, that duty being devolved upon the assessor. State v. Williams [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1048.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1802, n. 31. The Hub v. Hanberg, 211 Ill. 43, 71 N. E. 826. Bridge over Missouri river held to be part of the continuous line of a railway and assessable by the state board and not by local assessors. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cass County [Neb.] 101 N. W. 11. Bridge approach held to be "track" under a statute dividing realty of a railroad company into two classes for taxation, one of which consisted of track, right of way, etc., and hence was to be assessed by state board. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ill.] 74 N. E. 116. An elevator is a storehouse within the meaning of a statute giving local authorities power to tax storehouses, etc., located on the railroad right of way. Adams County v. Kansas City & O. R. Co. [Neb.] 99 N. W. 245. The owners of such elevators cannot escape local assessment by voluntarily listing them for taxation with the auditor of public accounts and the payment of taxes levied by the state board. Id. Interurban railways should have been assessed by the executive council and not by local assessors. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co. v. Cummins [Iowa] 101 N. W. 176.

99. Stockton v. Craig [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 386. The Pennsylvania act of July 9, 1897 (P. L. 219), relating to taxation, is not a regulation of jurisdiction or practice of any court, as assessment for taxation is not inherently a judicial proceeding. In re Philadelphia Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 93.

1. State v. Board of Assessors, 113 La. 925, 37 So. 878.

2. The entire assessment when completed must take effect as of a given day, in order that it may be known when the period covered by the tax ends, and the period for the assessment of another annual tax may commence. But as to the doing of the work of making the assessment, it is not necessary nor is it practically possible that it should be done on any particular day. The Rhode Island statute only requires that it should be done within the time limited therefor by the vote of the town directing the assessors when to make the assessment. Kettelle v. Warwick & Coventry Water Co., 24 R. I. 485, 53 A. 631.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1803, n. 38.

4. New York v. Vanderveer, 91 App. Div. 303, 86 N. Y. S. 659; Brunson v. Starbuck, 32 Ind. App. 457, 70 N. E. 163. Testimony of assessors is not admissible to contradict their records. Saco Water Power Co. v. Buxton, 98 Me. 295, 56 A. 914. Assessors are not agents of a town so as to make their opinion as expressed in official valuations, admissible against the town. Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. v. Bradley [Me.] 59 A. 83.

5. In re Enforcement of Personal Property Taxes Delinquent in Ramsey County [Minn.] 102 N. W. 721; New York v. Vanderveer, 91 App. Div. 303, 86 N. Y. S. 659; Bell's Trustee v. Lexington [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1081.

6. Powers v. Osbon, 26 Ky. L. R. 744, 82 S. W. 419.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1803.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1803, n. 40. Assessment lists are mere preliminary memoranda for the assessors use, and not evidence in a suit for the collection of taxes. The tax books are the primary evidence. State v. Birch [Mo.] 85 S. W. 361.

pose is accomplished when the description is such that thereby it can be identified,[10] either with or without extrinsic evidence,[11] and does not mislead the owner.[12] It is usually required that in the assessment of real estate distinct parcels of land shall be listed separately.[13] An assessment of personalty which does not show the number, kind, amount, and quality is not necessarily invalid;[14] but an assessment of several lots in the aggregate, the owner having disregarded the lot lines, has been sustained.[15] The assessment must be in the name of the owner, if known,[16] otherwise as belonging to an unknown owner,[17] or to unoccupied land, as the case may be.[18] In some states statutes have been enacted validating assessments in the name of one other than true owner.[19] The assessment roll, when completed and certified, is the only evidence of the acts and intentions of the assessing officers.[20]

9. An accurate description of lands assessed is essential to the validity of the assessment, and without certainty in that respect no foundation is laid for bringing an action to enforce the collection of the tax. City of Rochester v. Farrar, 44 Misc. 394, 89 N. Y. S. 1035.

Sufficient description: The abbreviations "exc'pt rip'in r'g't" sufficiently indicates riparian rights. Newaygo Portland Cement Co. v. Sheridan Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 747. Where a railroad right of way crossed a lot, a certificate describing the land charged by its black number "less the right of way" was valid, the right of way not being in fact included in the land charged. Hamar v. Leihy [Wis.] 102 N. W. 568. Under the Washington Code (§ 1748), the use of the figure "4" placed in the position of an algebraic exponent is permissible in the description of parcels of land. Washington Timber & Loan Co. v. Smith, 34 Wash. 625, 76 P. 267. "8 25-100 acres in the Rees Tract, Gist Survey, Section 27, Township 8, Range 22, assessed to Margaret W. Black, to Leavenworth City," held a sufficiently certain and definite description to preserve the tax lien and permit recovery by one holding an invalid tax title, who had paid the taxes. Douglass v. Byers, 69 Kan. 59, 76 P. 432.

Insufficient description: Palomares Land Co. v. Los Angeles County [Cal.] 80 P. 931. An assessment of the interest of a turnpike company, where it does not own the fee, as "five miles of highway" is fatally defective. People v. Selkirk [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 248. Describing land as the N. W. ¼ of section 9, but giving no range or government surveyed township number is insufficient to support a sale thereof. Paine v. Germantown Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 527. Likewise a description as "Pt. N. E. ¼ of Sec. 26, T. 1 N., R. 1 W., Salt Lake meridian, said part containing seven acres more or less." Moon v. Salt Lake County, 27 Utah, 435, 76 P. 222.

10. There cannot be a tax privilege or a tax sale without an assessment identifying the property. Posey v. New Orleans, 113 La. 1059, 37 So. 969. Where land is sufficiently identified therein, an assessment is valid, though it contains no certificate or survey number. Taber v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 835.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1805, n. 46, 47. Although descriptions of property taxed cannot be supplied by parol evidence, it is competent to explain abbreviations and to clear up latent ambiguities by evidence aliunde the instrument or proceedings. Douglass v. Byers, 69 Kan. 59, 76 P. 432. Property assessed as a "mill privilege" held to properly include the water and power as well as the structure and adjacent land. Saco Water Power Co. v. Buxton, 98 Me. 295, 56 A. 914.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1804, n. 43. The designation of land will be sufficient if it affords the means of identification, and does not positively mislead the owner or be calculated to mislead. "N. E.—N. E." in proper columns held to be sufficient. Stoddard v. Lyon [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1116; Seymour v. Deisher [Colo.] 80 P. 1038.

13. Phelps v. Brumback, 107 Mo. App. 16, 80 S. W. 678; Gehrhardt v. Schwartz, 92 N. Y. S. 613.

14. Savings & Loan Soc. v. San Francisco [Cal.] 80 P. 1086.

15. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Peck [Mo.] 85 S. W. 387.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1804, n. 49. Joyes v. Louisville, 26 Ky. L. R. 713, 82 S. W. 432. Assessments may be made in the name of the person, dead or alive, who appears to be the owner on the books of the conveyance office. Succession of Williams v. Chaplain, 112 La. 1075, 36 So. 859. Where at least three of the owners of a mining claim sold for taxes could have been ascertained by an inspection of the records of the county, but no effort was made to obtain such names and the property was assessed to "unknown owner," sale under such assessment was void. Jungk v. Snyder [Utah] 78 P. 168. Where property was assessed in the name of another, limitation against an action for collection does not commence to run till after the correction. City of Louisville v. Louisville Courier-Journal Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 773. Where the agent of a corporation gave in the corporation's land for assessment and by mistake it was set down to another corporation and paid, both being owned by the same stockholders, the land was not liable to another assessment. Falls Branch Jellico Land & Imp. Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1028, 83 S. W. 108.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1804, n. 49. A tax debtor cannot be proceeded against at the same time as a known and as an unknown owner. Assessment to "heirs of J. F." Fennimore v. Boatner, 112 La. 1080, 36 So. 860; Succession of Williams v. Chaplain, 112 La. 1075, 36 So. 859.

18. Assessment of unoccupied land to "unknown owner," statute providing it should be assessed as "unoccupied land." Blackburn v. Lewis [Or.] 77 P. 746.

19. Taber v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 835. Under the direct provisions of Lists by taxpayers.[21]—In many states it is required of the taxpayer that he furnish the assessing officer a statement of his taxable property.[22] The power of an assessor to make an assessment cannot be atrophied or destroyed by the mere refusal of a recalcitrant taxpayer to make a list when requested,[23] and, in some jurisdictions, its value.[24] One who lists various pieces of land as a single item is estopped from claiming that they should have been valued separately,[25] and where a trustee delivered an unsworn statement of the aggregate values belonging to the cestui que trust, without disclosing the items, an assessment levied thereon did not embrace property omitted.[26] An assessor has power to add property to the verified list furnished in the statement of a taxpayer, although the latter has not been subpoenaed and examined;[27] but where lists are wholly uncontradicted, he may not arbitrarily disregard them.[28] Schedules of personal property, filed with the assessor, and verified by affidavit, which contained no statement of plaintiff's ownership of a note sued on, were admissible to support an allegation that she did not own the note at the time such schedules were made.[29]

Notice.[30]—Notice of an assessment and opportunity to be heard, either before the assessment is made or upon a review thereof, is essential to its validity.[31] Statutes which fix the time and place of the assessment, or of the meeting of the reviewing board, satisfy this absolute right of the taxpayer to be heard.[32] In the absence of such statutes, notice must be given, either personally,[33] or by publication.[34] Failure to make proof is not sufficient to create a presumption that notice of the completion of tax rolls was not given as required by law.[35]

Irregularities.[36]—Mere official errors or omissions appearing in an assessor's

Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 8633, an assessment of land for taxation in a name other than that of the owner does not render the assessment invalid. Fell v. West [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 719.

20. Savings & Loan Soc. v. San Francisco [Cal.] 80 P. 1086.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1805.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1805, n. 58. Upon the personal representative of a deceased person rests the duty of rendering a list of the decedent's property. Cullop v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 166. President of foreign corporation held authorized ex officio to make and swear to a return of property held in trust by the corporation. Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Assessors of Taxes, 25 R. I. 524, 57 A. 301. A person in adverse possession may render the premises for taxation in the name of the person for whom he is holding, or in his own name when holding for himself, though other persons claiming the same land may at the same time pay taxes thereon. Thomson v. Weisman [Tex.] 82 S. W. 503. A regulation charging the husband primarily with the duty of paying the annual taxes on the wife's real estate and relieving her of the duty of returning a separate list is reasonable regulation of personal status. Union School Dist. v. Bishop, 76 Conn. 695, 58 A. 13. The president and cashier of a national bank are properly made parties in an action to collect taxes on the stock as omitted property, since it was their duty to list it. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ky.] 80 S. W. 158. Presumption that assessing officers do duty, as applied to listing of property by taxpayer. Page v. Melrose [Mass.] 71 N. E. 787.

23. State v. Birch [Mo.] 85 S. W. 361.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1085, n. 59.

25. Parcels owned by husband and wife separately. Union School Dist. v. Bishop, 76 Conn. 695, 58 A. 13.

26. The fact that the assessors improperly accepted such illegal return did not bind the city. Bell's Trustee v. Lexington [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1081.

27. Rosasco v. Tuolumne County, 143 Cal. 430, 77 P. 148.

28. People v. Wells, 93 App. Div. 212, 87 N. Y. S. 543.

29. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1806.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1806, n. 63. People v. Selkirk [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 248; Bialy v. Bay City [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1033. That the taxpayer has a remedy by certiorari does not dispense with the necessity of the opportunity to be heard. Trumbull v. Palmer, 93 N. Y. S. 349.

32. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 950. The time and place for public hearing on assessment being fixed by statutes does not deprive of property without due process of law. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 132 F. 629.

33. That notice of an assessment was given by advertisement and by posters instead of actual service did not render a tax invalid as taking private property without due process of law. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141.

34. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252; Bialy v. Bay City [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1033; Auditor General v. Calkins [Mich.] 98 N. W. 742.

35. Sherman v. Fisher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 572.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1806.

list or roll, however obvious, do not necessarily invalidate the assessment,[37] but a substantial departure from the mandate of the law, prejudicial to the taxpayer, will render the assessment utterly void as without jurisdiction,[38] and hence subject to collateral attack.[39] Irregular assessments may be cured, but such as are wholly void are incapable of validation.[40]

(§ 5) C. Valuation.[41]—The legislature has power to direct the manner of arriving at the value of property and franchises for the purpose of taxation. Any rule or method of ascertaining the value of property or franchise adopted by the legislature that is reasonably fair and just in its operation, and fairly well adapted to the attainment of the end required, is sufficient; but the legislature has no power to establish an arbitrary rule or standard which has no relation to the ascertainment of value.[42] It is unnecessary in making an assessment to disintegrate the various elements which enter into it and ascribe to each its separate fraction of value. Oftentimes the combination itself is no inconsiderable factor in creating the value.[43] Since various elements enter into and affect the value of a given piece of property, all that can be required of assessors is that they exercise an honest judgment, based on the information they possess or are able to acquire.[44] An estimate therefore by a board of supervisors in excess of the actual value cannot be remedied in a suit to enjoin the collection of the tax,[45] but where an assessor knowingly assessed improvements at an amount in excess of their true cash value, the assessment was wrongful as to the excess, and a recovery could be had.[46] The methods of determining the value of corporate stock, franchises and property are discussed in the notes.[47] As taxing officers are presumed to have properly performed their duties,

37. Failure of auditor to sign jurat under signature of assessor to assessment list. Corbet v. Rocksbury [Minn.] 103 N. W. 11. Failure of assessor to go on the land and actually view it for assessment (Grant Land Ass'n v. People, 213 Ill. 256, 72 N. E. 804), or to attach affidavit to assessment roll (Horton v. Driskell [Wyo.] 77 P. 354; Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919). Failure to require bond from assessor. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Board of Education of Somerset [Ky. L. R.] 86 S. W. 1120. Assessing three lots together, instead of separately, as required by the Kansas City charter, is a mere irregularity, which does not impair the validity of a deed. Phelps v. Brumback, 107 Mo. App. 16, 80 S. W. 678.

38. Assessment of unoccupied land to "unknown owner," the statute providing it should be assessed as "unoccupied land." Blackburn v. Lewis [Or.] 77 P. 746.

39. Layman v. Iowa Tel. Co., 123 Iowa, 591, 99 N. W. 205; People v. Feitner, 45 Misc. 12, 90 N. Y. S. 826. Tax sales cannot be set aside in a collateral proceeding because of irregularities. Flint Land Co. v. Godkin [Mich.] 99 N. W. 1058.

40. City of Rochester v. Farrar, 44 Misc. 394, 89 N. Y. S. 1035.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1807.

42. The provisions of section 78, Nebraska Laws 1903, c. 73, which fixes the gross receipts of express, telephone and telegraph companies as the value of their franchises, violates the constitution of that state. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 84. Assessment by a state board of a railroad on the basis of a 100% valuation, the bulk of other property in the state being assessed on an 80% valuation, reduced. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Coulter, 131 F. 282.

43, 44. People v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 25 S. Ct. 713.

45. Johnson v. Bradley-Watkins Tie Co. [Ky. L. R.] 85 S. W. 726.

46. Zeigler v. Board of Com'rs of Blackford County, 33 Ind. App. 375, 71 N. E. 527. Where property was correctly valued on a tax duplicate but a wrong description of frontage was given, the auditor had no power to change the frontage and increase the valuation; and an attempt to do so would be enjoined. Deshler v. Sims, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 385. Upon failure of a county auditor to make corrections in a tax duplicate, a court may hear evidence and make the correction. Id. The county auditor may make corrections in the tax duplicate upon discovery of errors, and to that end may receive evidence, including parol. Id. County auditor has power to fix valuation of property omitted from tax duplicate. Id.

47. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1807, n. 75. Personal property of a nonresident express company situated outside the state cannot be included in determining the value of property taxable in the state, on the mileage basis. The theory that such property gave the credit necessary to carry on the business in the state, and so might be taxed therein, is untenable. Fargo v. Hart, 193 U. S. 490, 48 Law. Ed. 761. The amount of gross receipts taken in by express, telephone and telegraph companies during the year prior to the time of assessment taken alone is not a reasonable and proper method of ascertaining the value of the franchise possessed by such corporations. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 84. Real es-one claiming a raise of valuation of his property to be illegal has the burden of proof.[48]

(§ 5) D. Reassessment; omitted property.[49]—An assessment, though inadequate, if made without fraud, and unappealed from, is final.[50] When, however, a defect rendering an assessment void consists of an irregularity which the legislature might have authorized, or an omission of something which it might have dispensed with, in the first instance, the error may be cured by a subsequent act authorizing a reassessment,[51] and when for any reason property has escaped taxation altogether, there are statutory provisions in nearly all the states[52] for the listing and assessment of such omitted property.[53] Such statutes are not invalid as retrospective.[54] The property sought to be listed and taxed must be described with sufficient particularity,[55] and the amount of taxes due must be stated.[56] Cases illustrating the procedure are collated in the notes.[57]

tate purchased with capital stock should be deducted (Hempstead County v. Hempstead County Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 715), and coal mined within a state but situate in another state pending sale cannot be included, in valuing capital stock (Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Com., 25 S. Ct. 669). In Illinois the corporations mentioned in the last proviso of par. 4, § 3, c. 120, Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, are assessed the fair cash value of the capital stock, including the franchise over and above the assessed value of the tangible property. The Hub v. Hanberg, 211 Ill. 43, 71 N. E. 826. Under the New York Tax Law of 1896, p. 802, c. 908, § 12, the capital stock of every company, after deducting the assessed value of its real estate, must be assessed at its actual value. In estimating the value of capital stock accumulated surplus may be included. People v. Kelsey, 91 N. Y. S. 711. Where real estate is mortgaged, and payment of the mortgage has not been assumed by the corporation, and the value of the equity alone has been included in determining the value of the capital stock, only the value of the equity, and not the whole assessed value of the real estate, should be deducted from the valuation. People v. Wells [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 626, reversing People v. Wells, 95 App. Div. 574, 88 N. Y. S. 1030.

48. Fell v. West [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 719. On an issue as to value of land, admissibility of evidence considered. Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 433.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1809.

50. People's Sav. Bank v. Layman, 134 F. 635. An over or under valuation will not of itself establish that an assessment was fraudulently made. Barkley v. Dale, 213 Ill. 614, 73 N. E. 325. In an action by the state to recover omitted taxes, the burden is on the state to show that their actual value was greater than the valuation as returned, since the presumption is that the assessor did his duty. Commonwealth v. Higgins' Trustee, 26 Ky. L. R. 910, 82 S. W. 601.

51. Warren v. Street Com'rs of Boston, 187 Mass. 290, 72 N. E. 1022; City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44.

52. Pierce's Code, § 8640. Phillips v. Thurston County, 35 Wash. 187, 76 P. 993. Under a statute that the county board of review shall add to the assessment roll any taxable property in the county not included in the assessment as returned by the assessor, the board has power to add omitted property, though no property was assessed to the owner by the assessor, and his name does not appear at all on the assessment roll. Horton v. Driskell [Wyo.] 77 P. 354. Power to assess back taxes cannot be implied, but must be expressly conferred. Milster v. Spartanburg, 68 S. C. 26, 46 S. E. 539.

53. The fact that agents do the clerical work of making the entries in a record of omitted property does not affect the validity of the assessment, it appearing that the work was done with the approval and under the supervision of the proper officer. In re Morgan's Estate [Iowa] 101 N. W. 127. A taxing officer, in assessing taxes against omitted property, is not authorized to alter the valuation fixed by proper township officer on property listed and returned by the taxpayer, but his duty in the premises is confined to an assessment of the property which was not listed and returned. Parkinson v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109.

54. State v. Vogelsang, 183 Mo. 17, 81 S. W. 1087.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1809, n. 82. Description held sufficient. Brunson v. Starbuck, 32 Ind. App. 457, 70 N. E. 163. Under the Kentucky statutes, a description of the property as notes, bonds, securities, investments and cash is sufficient. Belknap v. Com. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 693.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1809, n. 83.

57. In Kentucky notice to the bank is notice to the agent of the stockholder within the meaning of a statute providing for the collection of taxes on omitted property. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158. Pleadings held not to support a judgment. Commonwealth v. Vanderbilt, 26 Ky. L. R. 716, 82 S. W. 426. Under Kentucky statutes in proceedings to list property for taxation as omitted, the property owner may amend his answer so as to set up limitations. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158. In proceedings to collect taxes on bank stock as omitted property where the bank was given notice, it cannot raise the question of want of notice to the stockholders nor that some of the shares might have changed hands nor that the proceeding was violative of the 14th amendment to the Federal constituton. Id. A taxing officer having given notice of an intention to assess certain omitted property, and a hearing having been had, need not make his determination on the day of hearing, but may take a reasonable time for consideration. Three days held reasonable. Snakenberg v. Stein [Iowa] 102 N. W. 533. Over payments of taxes by a bank were properly credited on a judgment in a proceeding requiring them to list omitted property. The auditor had already certified the amount due to the sheriff with directions for him to credit it. The officer should not credit such payments a second time. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 2254, 80 S. W. 479. In Kentucky, retrospective assessments on omitted property are barred after five years from when the property should have been assessed. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158, affirmed 80 S. W. 479. See 2 Curr. L. 1809, n. 80. Under the express provisions of Kentucky statute 1903, § 4241, relative to taxation of omitted property, the sheriff has the right to serve the summons and is entitled to the penalty. Harrison v. Wilkerson, 26 Ky. L. R. 260, 80 S. W. 1190. City assessor must be made party to appeal from judgment dismissing proceedings to list omitted property. Daily v. Washington Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 260. Under section 2803, simple tax should be added for each and every preceding year in which property has escaped taxation as far back as the next preceding decennial appraisement and equalization of real estate, and penalties may be added under section 2844, but not the 5 per cent. penalty provided for in section 1094. Street assessments are properly chargeable. Watterson v. Halliday, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 693. In proceedings to recover back taxes, the property sought to be reached can only be assessed for the five years next preceding the institution of the action. Commonwealth v. Thomas, 26 Ky. L. R. 1128, 83 S. W. 572; State v. Vogelsang, 183 Mo. 17, 81 S. W. 1087.

§ 6. Equalization, correction, and review.[58]—As stated in a former number of Current Law,[59] the purpose in inspecting the work of assessors is twofold: to examine individual assessments with a view to the correction of errors; to examine the assessments as a whole with a view to determining whether they are relatively equal as between different parts of a taxing district. The first of these purposes, properly speaking, is review, while the latter is equalization.[60] Individual discrepancies and inequalities the law contemplates shall be corrected by local boards, who are specially empowered to hear complaints and grievances as between individual taxpayers and to adjust and remedy the same as may be just.[61] This local board is usually some body of general administrative or legislative jurisdiction, such as the township board, village or city council, county commissioners and the like.[62] In some states such board may add to the assessment rolls property omitted therefrom.[63] It is not essential that the application for an abatement be in writing.[64]

58, 59, 60. See 2 Curr. L. 1810.

61. A taxpayer failing to avail himself of the opportunity thus presented has no legal ground of complaint because of the action of the state board in lowering or raising the valuation of all property in a county so as to conform with all other property throughout the state. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255. A county board of review in assessing property is not confined to the statement of the taxpayers' witnesses, but may act upon information coming to it from other sources or upon its own knowledge. In re Maplewood Coal Co., 213 Ill. 283, 72 N. E. 786. In proceedings before a board of review to reduce an assessment, the testimony of the agent of the owner asking for the reduction must be taken most strongly against the owner. State v. Williams [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1052. A statute providing only for oral testimony before a board of review, none other can be considered. State v. Hobe [Wis.] 102 N. W. 350. The determination of the assessor as to the place at which property is assessable and as to the value of the property to be assessed is presumptively correct and can only be overturned by the board of review by definite impeaching evidence. State v. Fisher [Wis.] 102 N. W. 566; Hempstead County v. Bank of Hope [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1030. A county board of supervisors as such has nothing to do with the assessments made by the various towns except to equalize them. A township, therefore, which in assessing a railroad property acted upon the advice of supervisors and incurred expense in resisting an appeal from the assessment, cannot look to the county for reimbursement. People v. Board of Sup'rs of St. Lawrence County, 91 N. Y. S. 948.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1810, n. 91. The board of revision sits only to correct the work of the board of equalization, and is not superseded by that board. Courtright v. Jones, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 522. A city assessor having refused to correct the tax list of his ward as directed by the common council and delivered his uncorrected list to the county board of equalization as the duplicate of assessment, such board had power to ascertain whether such list was the duplicate required by law and was bound to heed the notice sent by the council and fix the quota of the city accordingly. City of Englewood v. Board of Equalization of Taxes of Bergen County [N. J. Law] 59 A. 15. In creating a county board of appraisers and in clothing such board with authority to fix the valuation upon real property in the first instance, the legislature of Montana did not contravene any provision of the constitution of that state. Missouri River Power Co. v. Steele [Mont.] 80 P. 1093.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1811, n. 96. A board of review is powerless to review and increase an assessment of personal property for former years on the theory that the assessment was too low and that the board is engaged in assessing omitted credits. Barkley v. Dale, 213 Ill. 614, 73 N. E. 325. Rev. St. 1899 of Wyoming, § 1785, empowering the board of equalization to add to the assessment roll any taxable property in its county not included in the assessment as returned by the assessor, does not require the board to hear evidence as a condition precedent to correcting the assessment roll, but it may act on the personal knowledge of its members or on information gained by them from any source at their command. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 81 P. 1, rehearing; former opinion 79 P. 1042. Where additions to tax lists are made by equalizing boards, the facts as to each separate item should be entered on the record with sufficient fullness and clearness to show the addition justifiable. Hayes v. Yost, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 455.

After tax rolls have been passed on by local boards of review and are properly certified by the members thereof, no change can be made by the board or any assessing officer;[65] the work of equalization is frequently though not always done by a body specially organized or created for that purpose, such as county and state boards of equalization.[66] The state board of equalization cannot deal with individual assessments, nor take into consideration inequalities as between individual taxpayers; but it deals only with the values of the taxable property of a county as a whole,[67] although in some states the state board is given power to make alterations in individual assessments.[68]

In various states the state board or some similar body is made a special board for the assessment of railroad and other public service corporations[69] with power to apportion the valuation among the several districts in which such companies do business.[70] The mileage basis of apportionment in taxing railroads and other public service companies is just, but there are exceptional cases where deductions should be made to prevent manifest inequality of value per mile.[71] The assessment is not final until acted upon by the county and state boards of equalization, and not until

64. Page v. City of Melrose [Mass.] 71 N. E. 787.

65. Blaly v. Bay City [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1033. Under a statute that after approval of the roll an assessment can be changed only in case of an increase of value by reason of improvements, the construction of a railroad through a village, indirectly enhancing the value of a lot, is not such an improvement as is contemplated by the statute. Hancock County Sup'rs v. Simmons [Miss.] 38 So. 337. In Iowa, property having been duly entered upon the books by the assessor, and his work having been approved by the board of equalization, the assessment becomes a finality and the county treasurer is without authority to raise an assessment because appearing to him to be below actual valuation. German Sav. Bank v. Trowbridge, 124 Iowa, 514, 100 N. W. 333.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1811, n. 92. In Idaho the county board of equalization is a constitutional board, exercising powers and duties separate and distinct from those exercised by the board of county commissioners. Section 1776, Rev. St. 1887, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 248, does not authorize an appeal from an order of a board of equalization. Feltham v. Board of County Com'rs [Idaho] 77 P. 332; Humbird Lumber Co. v. Morgan [Idaho] 77 P. 433.

67. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255. In the equalization of property as between different counties, it is not required to enter into a formal investigation, examine witnesses, etc., in ascertaining the relative values of the property of the different counties of the state. It may act upon the abstracts of assessments of the different counties and the knowledge of its own membership as to values generally. Id.

68. Bialy v. Bay City [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1033.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1811. Comp. St. Nebraska 1901, art. 1, ch. 77, providing for the assessment of railroad and telegraph properties by the state board of equalization, held constitutional. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Richardson County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 950. In the assessment of railway property as therein provided, it is competent for the legislature to classify such property, and provide for the assessment of the same as personalty, and to fix the situs of the property assessed by providing for the valuation of the property as an entirety and the distribution of the total value to each taxing district according to the number of miles of track located therein. State v. Back [Neb.] 100 N. W. 952. The Arkansas state board of railroad commissioners are a continuous body, and having made an assessment of railroad property, had power to modify the same for the purpose of compromising litigation. Railroad Tax Cases, 136 F. 233. Mississippi Act 1898, p. 23, c. 5, § 66, under which the railroad commission must annually on or before the first Monday in August classify the several railroads for the purpose of privilege taxation, gives the commission no power to back classify. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Adams [Miss.] 38 So. 348.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1811, n. 98.

71. Where a company operates in connection with its transportation business, lines of steamboats across navigable waters beyond its termini the length of such lines should be excluded from the computation in determining the franchise tax. State v. Canadian Pac. R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 901.

the action of the latter is certified to the county clerks of the different counties, and by them extended upon the tax rolls.[72]

Notice.[73]—In many states a board of review may not increase the valuation of a taxpayer's property without notice to him.[74] Such notice, being for the benefit of the taxpayer, is jurisdictional,[75] and cannot be waived by subsequent appearance.[76] In some states it is essential that the notice be served personally;[77] in others it may be given by publication;[78] while in many others no notice is required other than that given by statutes of the existence of the board, its powers and duties, and the time and place of its meetings.[79]

Review by the courts.[79a]—Statutory provisions relating to equalizing assessments and making additions to tax lists are mandatory and must be strictly complied with,[80] and since boards of review and equalization acting on the assessments of property are special tribunals of limited and inferior powers, the facts showing jurisdiction must affirmatively appear from the record of their proceedings.[81] In the exercise of their powers, they act quasi judicially,[82] and, in the absence of fraud or other misconduct, or arbitrary exercise of power equivalent thereto,[83] the rule is universal that their discretion cannot be controlled by the courts in collateral proceedings,[84] nor can errors of judgment and overvaluation in the assessment of property,[85] estimate by board of supervisors in excess of actual value,[86] be rightfully reviewed by the courts in the absence of statutes authorizing such proceedings.[87] In most states, however, an appeal to some ap-

72. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1811, n. 99.

74. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Maher [Mont.] 81 P. 13. In Indiana the validity of an assessment is not affected by the fact that the record of the board of review does not show notice to the owner of the contemplated action of the board unless the valuation, as raised, exceeds the true cash value. Fell v. West [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 719.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1812, n. 1. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Maher [Mont.] 81 P. 13; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Board of Education [Ky. L. R.] 86 S. W. 1120. Where report of the board of review does not show that notice was given, the burden of showing want of notice is on the taxpayer. Brunson v. Starbuck, 32 Ind. App. 457, 70 N. E. 163.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1812, n. 2. The taxpayer having had notice to appear before the board to show cause why his assessment should not be increased and having appeared and been informed, the notice was sufficient under Cal. Pol. Code, § 3681, requiring five days notice to the taxpayer. Savings & Loan Soc. v. City & County of San Francisco [Cal.] 80 P. 1086. Voluntary appearance after increase to seek reduction. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Maher [Mont.] 81 P. 13.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1812, n. 3. Notice of an addition to a tax list by the board must be on the owner of property affected personally. Putting notice in post office not sufficient. Hayes v. Yost, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 455.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1812, n. 4. Where a statute requires that notice be given for "at least six days prior" to the meeting of the city council as a board of review, the notice must be given during the six days immediately prior to the date of the meeting. Shannon v. City of Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 298.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1812, n. 5. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255.

79a. See 2 Curr. L. 1813.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1812. Hayes v. Yost, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 455. Failure of a board of revision to be sworn does not invalidate the assessment. Manor Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Cooner, 209 Pa. 531, 58 A. 918. The sending by a reviewing board of the original instead of a transcript of the triennial assessment as required by statute did not invalidate assessment. Id.

81. Parol evidence is inadmissible to contradict or vary the recitals of these records. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Maher [Mont.] 81 P. 13.

82. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255; Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675.

83. Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675. A mere excessive assessment and overvaluation by a reviewing board cannot be revised by the courts in the absence of a showing that the action of the board was fraudulent. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 79 P. 1042.

84. Hacker v. Howe [Neb.] 101 N. W. 255.

85. The action of a board of review in assessing property too low is binding upon the state. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Com., 25 Ky. L. R. 2254, 80 S. W. 479.

86. Johnson v. Bradley-Watkins Tie Co. [Ky. L. R.] 85 S. W. 726.

87. Neither courts of law nor of equity have jurisdiction of appeals from assessing boards save as that jurisdiction is expressly conferred by statutes. Board of Com'rs of Arapahoe County v. Denver Union Water Co., 32 Colo. 382, 76 P. 1060. In Connecticut a taxpayer is entitled to a decision of the superior court on the legality of an assessment after the board of relief has made the alleged assessment binding upon him. Morris v. City of New Haven [Conn.] 58 A. 748. Under Penn. Act July 9, 1897 (P. L. 219), propriate judicial tribunal is provided,[88] the customary and appropriate remedy being certiorari.[89] The issue, admissibility of evidence, and various matters of procedure, on appeal, are given in a note.[90] An assessment is not vacated by appeal.[91] where a corporation assessed for taxation has failed to appeal to the board of assessors as provided by the act, it cannot under the direct provisions of the act appeal to the court of common pleas. In re Philadelphia Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 93.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1813, n. 12. The Colorado Act of 1889 (2 Mills' Ann. St. §§ 3839-3842) creates a special proceeding from which no appeal lies from the district court to the court of appeals. Pilgrim Consol. Min. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Teller County [Colo. App.] 78 P. 617. Under the Alabama Code 1896, § 3979, authorizing the commissioners' court to hear evidence and raise or reduce an assessment, and declaring that an appeal from such judgment may be taken to the circuit court, that court may on an appeal by a taxpayer whose assessment has been increased by the commissioner's court, still further increase the assessment on a declaration filed by the state asking such an increase. Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 433.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1813, n. 14. If a board of review in reaching a determination is required to act upon evidence and it acts without evidence, or any evidence warranting the result in any reasonable view thereof, or if it is required to receive evidence and refuses so to do, it commits a clear violation of law and jurisdictional error, and its final determination may be challenged by certiorari, if the error appears of record. State v. Williams [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1048. Inequality as a ground for relief by certiorari under the New York Tax Law (Laws 1896, p. 882, c. 908, § 250) must be something more than a valuation disproportionate to that placed upon a few other pieces of property in the same vicinity. People v. Feitner, 95 App. Div. 217, 88 N. Y. S. 694. Evidence held to sustain a finding of inequality justifying relief. People v. Feitner, 95 App. Div. 481, 88 N. Y. S. 774; People v. Feitner, 96 App. Div. 615, 88 N. Y. S. 779. An order of the supreme court granting certiorari to review an assessment of a special franchise by the state board of tax commissioners cannot be amended so as to permit outside parties to intervene after issue joined between the original parties and just before the close of the trial. People v. Priest [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 1100, reversing 91 N. Y. S. 1006.

90. Parties: People v. Priest, 95 App. Div. 44, 88 N. Y. S. 11; People v. Priest, 91 N. Y. S. 772; People v. Priest, 91 N. Y. S. 1001; People v. Priest, 91 N. Y. S. 1006.

Petition for certiorari to review increased tax assessment held not to allege facts to present constitutionality of act in question. People v. Wells, 99 App. Div. 364, 91 N. Y. S. 219. Failure to file a transcript of the proceedings of a board of review until during the trial of an appeal therefrom does not oust the district court's jurisdiction. City Council of Marion v. Cedar Rapids & M. C. R. Co., 120 Iowa, 359, 94 N. W. 501. The provision of the Idaho statute requiring the clerk to transmit the papers on appeal from an order of the board of commissioners to the district judge within five days after the service of the notice of appeal is not jurisdictional, and a failure to do so does not deprive the appellant of the benefits of his appeal. Humbird Lumber Co. v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 79 P. 396. Where an appeal is allowed to any court from an assessing body, whatever the grade of the court, it is one of limited jurisdiction for such purpose and must keep strictly within it. Pilgrim Consol. Min. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Teller County [Colo. App.] 78 P. 617. In such special proceedings jurisdiction on appeal is no more extensive than that possessed by the assessing body from whose decision the appeal is taken. Id. Slight or even considerable differences in valuations are not sufficient when honestly made to authorize the court to set aside an assessment. Henderson v. Pierce County [Wash.] 79 P. 617. Where, however, the assessment is many times the actual value of the land, and is higher proportionately than other property, a condition does arise when the courts are authorized to do so. Id. Under a statutory provision that a person to whom it is proposed to list and assess omitted property may appeal to the district court, the issue before the district court is as to the correctness of the action of the assessing officer, and the evidence must be confined to that issue (Mahkonsa Inv. Co. v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 100 N. W. 517); but the taxpayer is entitled to have determined every question which such officer was called upon to determine; and when the evidence is submitted, it is for the court to determine on the whole thereof whether the officer has acted properly (Schoonover v. Petcina [Iowa] 100 N. W. 490). In the trial of an appeal from the assessment of taxes, evidence of the valuation for the purposes of taxation placed by the assessors upon other property in the town is inadmissible. Whether it would be admissible upon proof that the assessors had designedly and generally valued the property in town at less than its true value, quaere (Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. v. Bradley [Me.] 59 A. 83), and the valuation placed upon the appellant's property by the assessors in other years is likewise inadmissible upon the question of true value (Id.). If an appellant's property has been rated at no more than its true value, evidence tending to show merely a disproportionate valuation by comparison with the valuation placed upon other property is irrelevant. Id. In Alabama on appeal to the circuit court from an additional assessment imposed by the back tax commissioner under Revenue Code 1900, p. 158, § 10, the state has the burden of proof in sustaining the assessment. Hooper v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 662. Under the New York special statutory writ of certiorari, the review of an assessment is in effect a new hearing, and evidence bearing on the validity of the assessment may be introduced by either party. People v. Wells, 91 N. Y. S. 283; People v. Wells,

§ 7. Levies and tax lists.[92]—A grant of power to levy taxes must be strictly construed, and the method prescribed by the legislature must be substantially followed.[93] Failure to comply with statutory requirements is not merely an irregularity but an error rendering the tax void.[94] As a general rule, a levy can be made only by legislative enactment or authority[95] within the limits[96] and in the form prescribed by law,[97] and by a duly authorized[98] and properly constituted body.[99] Where the electors of a town can direct the raising of money by taxa-

101 App. Div. 600, 92 N. Y. S. 5. In order to justify a claim of irregularity, a petitioner must show a state of facts from which a presumption justly arises that the irregularity of which he complains will subject him to the payment of more than his just proportion of the aggregate tax (People v. Wells, 92 N. Y. S. 769), and this presumption does not arise by proof that in a particular instance other property, even if contiguous, is assessed at a proportionately lower valuation than his own (People v. O'Donnell, 92 N. Y. S. 770). Where the question to be determined was whether premises were assessable by the board of railroad assessors or by the local assessors, and the agreed state of facts disclosed the same question to be determined in a former adjudication between the parties or their predecessors, and the facts or conditions were not shown to have been changed, held res adjudicata. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Wyandotte County, 69 Kan. 572, 77 P. 274.

Costs on review arising from the irregularities of the assessing officers may be imposed upon the county. Manor Real Estate & Trust Co. v. Cooner, 209 Pa. 531, 58 A. 918.

91. The burden is upon the appellant to show that he is entitled to relief by way of an abatement of the tax. Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. v. Bradley [Me.] 59 A. 83.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1814.

93. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 458, 72 N. E. 1105; Wabash R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 568, 73 N. E. 749; Rice v. Shealy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 868.

94. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 458, 72 N. E. 1105; Wabash R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 568, 73 N. E. 749; Rice v. Shealy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 868.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1814, n. 20. The power of a town to raise money by taxation is entirely a creature of statute, including only so much of the general power of taxation as the legislature delegates to the town. Flood v. Leahy, 183 Mass. 232, 66 N. E. 787. A tax to maintain a public library is not one for education within the meaning of Kentucky constitution (§ 184), prohibiting a tax for education other than in common schools till it has been authorized at an election. Ramsey v. Shelbyville, 26 Ky. L. R. 1102, 83 S. W. 116. The power of a municipality to levy sufficient general taxes to pay the bonds of their city is a legal inference from the authority to issue the bonds, in the absence of any constitutional or statutory limitation or inhibition of this power. United States v. Saunders [C. C. A.] 124 F. 124. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 4362, 4393a, town trustees may not levy taxes for public utilities until after the contracts therefor have been entered into. Brewer v. Bridges [Ind.] 73 N. E. 811.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1814, n. 21. Desha County v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 625. The placing on the tax rolls by the county clerk in any year of a sum of money to be raised for state purposes in addition to the regular levy for state purposes will not be construed to make the levy excessive when such sum is insufficient to meet the amount in which the county is already delinquent to the state. Crebbin v. Wever [Kan.] 80 P. 977. For the purpose of paying existing indebtedness, city may levy taxes in excess of rate limited for general purposes. City of St. Joseph v. Pitt [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 544. Levy by village council in excess of rate fixed by statute, in absence of showing to contrary, necessity therefor will be presumed. Diamond Match Co. v. Ontonagon [Mich.] 103 N. W. 578. The magistrates of a county who ex officio constitute the fiscal court in levying taxes as such court act in a legislative capacity, and are not liable on their official bonds for levying a tax in excess of the constitutional limit. Commonwealth v. Kenneday, 26 Ky. L. R. 504, 82 S. W. 237.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1815, n. 23. Where a township organization act requires that a certain officer shall certify the amount of taxes to be raised, his certificate is necessary to sustain a levy. Indiana, D. & W. R. Co. v. People, 201 Ill. 351, 66 N. E. 293. The fact that in some instances the amount levied by a city was less than the amount named in the appropriation bill was no valid objection to the tax. Cincinnati, I. & W. R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 197, 72 N. E. 774. A certificate of levy for "road and bridge fund" is sufficient if levy itself was made in accordance with section 111 of the Illinois road and bridge law. People v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co., 214 Ill. 190, 73 N. E. 315. Omission of seal to the tax levy is not necessarily fatal to validity of tax. Schmohl v. Williams [Ill.] 74 N. E. 75. While a levy in percentages by the state board of equalization is valid (Fisher v. Betts, 12 N. D. 197, 96 N. W. 132), a levy by county commissioners based on percentages and not in specific amounts is invalid (Paine v. Germantown Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 527).

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1815, n. 24. The authority to assessors to "assess a tax," is not the discretionary power to order the assessment, which power is vested only in the town. Franklin v. Warwick & C. Water Co., 25 R. I. 384, 55 A. 934.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1815, n. 24. The power of the trustees of the town of Argo, now a constituent part of the city and county of Denver, to levy taxes remained intact until the first day of December, 1902. Boston & C. Smelting Co. v. Elder [Colo. App.] 77 P. 258.

tion, a ratification by them of an attempted levy amounts to a direction.[1] Under a statute providing for the abolition of school districts and vesting title to their property in the towns in which they are located, and that the property so vested shall be appraised by a commission and a tax shall be levied upon the whole town equal to the amount of appraisement, and there shall be remitted to the taxpayers of each district their proportional share of the appraised value of the school property in such district, the requirements of appraisal and remittance are mandatory.[2] A tax is presumed to have been legally levied, and the burden of proof is on the party objecting thereto to establish the contrary.[3]

Mandamus[4] will issue to compel the levy of a tax for a specific purpose, the duty of the taxing officers being clear.[5]

The record[6] must recite the facts showing that each essential step in the laying of the tax has been performed.[7] If the levy was for a specific purpose, this should appear,[8] together with the amount of each where there are several purposes.[9] Testimony of a town clerk to show the purpose of the levy is inadmissible.[10] Where the power to levy a tax is regularly exercised by the proper authorities in substantial conformity to the law, the court, upon proof of such fact, may permit the certificate of levy to be amended.[11] But if the statute authorizing the levy has not in fact been followed and complied with, the levy cannot be made valid by amendments of certificates or proceedings, because that would not be a correction of a mere irregularity, but would be an attempt to make valid a levy at the time of the amendment.[12]

The ministerial act.[13]—When proceedings in the levy of a tax have culminated in the extension of the tax and the completion of the assessment roll,[14] and

1. Cincinnati, L. & C. R. Co. v. People, 206 Ill. 387, 69 N. E. 39.

2. Tefft v. Lewis [R. I.] 60 A. 243. Such tax, being null and void, could not be validated by the act of the court in confirming the same. Id. Nor were the taxpayers estopped to assert the invalidity of the tax by reason of their having been notified by publication of the filing of the report of the commission of appraisal, and of the time of hearing of a motion to confirm such report. Id.

3. In re Maplewood Coal Co., 213 Ill. 283, 72 N. E. 786; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 551, 72 N. E. 790.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1815, n. 26.

5. To satisfy judgment: Guthrie v. Sparks [C. C. A.] 131 F. 443; Ex parte Folsom, 131 F. 496; City of Ft. Madison v. Ft. Madison Water Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 214; Cooper v. Cape May Point [N. J. Law] 60 A. 516; Territory v. Socorro [N. M.] 76 P. 283. Mandamus will not lie to compel the payment of money raised by township officers for current expenses upon bonded indebtedness, nor upon judgments based upon such indebtedness, where it does not appear that the indebtedness arose out of ordinary expenses of the township, nor that the fund raised for current expenses is more than sufficient for that purpose. Ward v. Piper, 69 Kan. 773, 77 P. 699.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1815.

7. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 458, 72 N. E. 1105.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1815, n. 30. A town tax levy "for town purposes," without defining the purposes, is not sufficient. People v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 206 Ill. 612, 69 N. E. 575; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 518, 72 N. E. 770; Murphy v. People, 213 Ill. 154, 72 N. E. 779; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 214 Ill. 190, 73 N. E. 315.

County levy. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 197, 72 N. E. 774; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 302, 73 N. E. 312; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 458, 72 N. E. 1105.

9. Failure to state separately the amounts for each purpose, there being several purposes. People v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 213 Ill. 503, 72 N. E. 1119; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 558, 73 N. E. 310.

10. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 1006.

11. By allowing the individual signatures to be substituted for the corporate name. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 1006. Where the certificate of a board of education of the levy of a tax was signed by but two of the five members, it was proper to permit the certificate to be amended, so as to show all the names, on the testimony of the members that had they known signature by all was necessary, they would have signed at the time of the levy. Illinois Southern R. Co. v. People [Ill.] 74 N. E. 97.

12. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 1006.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1816.

14. The only authority of the county clerk in Illinois for extending a tax is some paper or certificate which purports to be a certified copy of an ordinance levying a tax. Failure to file certified copy. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. People, 213 Ill. 558, 73 N. E. 310. Where the certificate of levy for road its delivery,[15] properly signed and certified,[16] to the receiver of taxes, with a warrant for the collection of the sums assessed to the persons named therein, this is a final act of the governing body, possessing the attributes of a judgment and entitled to legal presumptions in its support.[17]

§ 8. Payment and commutation.[18]—Payment of taxes must be made at the time,[19] and in the funds provided by law;[20] but where a landowner in good faith applies to the proper officer to pay his taxes and is prevented by the mistake, wrong or fraud of the officer from doing so, such attempt will be treated as equivalent to payment.[21] Where taxes on personalty are a lien on the land of the same owner, the collector is not obliged to accept and receipt separately for that part of the tax assessed to the land.[22] Payment of an illegal tax for one year does not bar the right to contest that for another year.[23] When the general levy is within limits, one who fails to pay cannot be discharged on the ground that there is no need for his portion.[24] No presumption of payment arises merely from the duty to pay,[25] nor from lapse of time.[26] Though the taxes on distilled spirits in bond are not required to be paid until the bonded period is ended or the United States government taxes are paid, the warehouseman must pay interest from December 1st in the year following the assessment for the privilege of retaining the state's money.[27] Payment by a mere volunteer gives him no right of recovery against the landowner,[28] but where one of two partners on dissolution of partnership assumes payment of taxes, but omits to do so, the other may pay them to save property, and in suit for specific performance recover them back.[29] Payment of tax is sometimes made a condition precedent to the registration of conveyances.[30] and bridge tax fails to state the amount required for each of the various purposes, and the aggregate amount required for all purposes, but such amounts can be ascertained by computation based on the rate of taxation stated therein, the certificate is sufficiently certain. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 471, 73 N. E. 747.

15. Under charter provision that tax roll shall be delivered July 1st, and that forthwith six days' notice by publication shall be deemed a demand for payment, a publication for six days but excluding and omitting a legal holiday is sufficient. Walker v. Detroit [Mich.] 101 N. W. 809.

16. Failure to sign roll before delivery to reviewing board held fatal to validity of tax. Lowe v. Detroit [Mich.] 101 N. W. 810.

17. City of New York v. Matthews [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 629.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1816.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1816, n. 38.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1816, n. 38. Payment by check. Dolman v. Pitt [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1111. Certificates of audited expenses cannot be accepted by collecting officers in payment of taxes. Oneida County v. Tibbetts [Wis.] 102 N. W. 897.

21. Hoffman v. Auditor General [Mich.] 100 N. W. 180. Where one tenders the full amount of taxes on his land to the tax collector, who not only tells him that the taxes have been paid but shows him a list indicating that the taxes have been paid by another party, a subsequent sale is void. Brannon v. Lyon [Miss.] 38 So. 609.

22. Wyoming Rev. St. 1899, § 1870. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 81 P. 1.

23. Carpenter v. Central Covington, 26 Ky. L. R. 430, 81 S. W. 919; City of Detroit v. Mackinaw Transp. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 123, 103 N. W. 557.

24. The fact that payment will make an unexpected surplus is of no importance. Milster v. Spartanburg, 68 S. C. 26, 46 S. E. 539; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. People, 214 Ill. 302, 73 N. E. 312.

25. State v. Jackson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 465.

26. Land returned delinquent. Mills v. Henry Oil Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 157.

27. Commonwealth v. Rosenfield Bro. & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2229, 80 S. W. 1178.

28. The owner of a first mortgage who bought the property at a foreclosure sale thereunder and obtained title, and who thereafter redeemed from a sale for the tax levied on a second mortgage and paid other taxes levied on such mortgage to free the property from the lien thereof had no cause of action to recover such taxes from the owner of the second mortgage, there being no contractual relation between them and no personal obligation to pay the taxes resting on the defendant. Henry v. Garden City Bank & Trust Co., 145 Cal. 54, 78 P. 228.

29. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 528.

30. A county auditor is required by § 1624, Gen. St. 1894, to certify upon deeds conveying real estate that taxes have been paid upon such property only when it appears from the records of his office that such payments have been made. State v. Krahmer, 92 Minn. 397, 100 N. W. 105.

§ 9. Lien and priority.[31]—Statutes may provide when the tax shall become a lien,[32] but in the absence of other provision, a tax upon land becomes a lien at the moment the amount thereof is ascertained and determined.[33] An assessment of taxes refers back, for the purpose of enforcing payment thereof, to the date upon which the lien attached, notwithstanding all the steps necessary in making up the assessment are taken subsequent to the date of the lien.[34] The repeal of the law or any provision thereof under which a tax lien was acquired will not affect the lien,[35] and the fact that for a time during the existence of a lien no procedure was provided for its enforcement did not extinguish the lien.[36] A lien is not discharged pro tanto by allowing a transfer without officially apportioning the taxes between original and granted portions of a tract.[37] The life of a lien depends on the life of the action instituted to enforce it, and if for any reason the action should abate or be dismissed, the lien would die with it.[38] The lien for general taxes is paramount to all other claims and demands, including the lien of assessments for local improvements,[39] even though the latter are payable in instalments, some of which have matured.[40] Whether it would be competent for a legislature to postpone in favor of taxes a lien already duly acquired, quaere.[41] Under the national bankruptcy act, taxes due and owing by the bankrupt are entitled to preference.[42] Tax liens held by the state of Minnesota are not interests in and claims upon the land on which they are a lien, within the meaning of the Land Title Registration act.[43]

§ 10. Relief from illegal taxes.[44]—A court of equity will in general interfere to restrain the collection of a tax or annul tax proceedings only where it appears either that the property sought to be taxed is not subject to taxation,[45]

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1817. Lien of taxes, see Tiffany, Real Property, 1319.

32. Under a statutory provision that all taxable property shall be assessed between the first Monday in February and the first Monday in June, property acquired between those dates is subject to taxation if assessed before the latter date, notwithstanding another provision that the lien shall attach on the first of February. Aztec Land & Cattle Co. v. Navajo County [Ariz.] 80 P. 318. The South Dakota Act of March 5, 1897, providing that all taxes assessed on personal property shall be a first lien on all personalty of the person against whom assessed from and after December 1st in each year is not retrospective. Hulin v. Butte County [S. D.] 100 N. W. 739.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1817, n. 47. A corporation whose property is exempt from taxation takes real estate subject to the taxes where it acquires title after the tax books for the fiscal year are closed, but before the tax has ripened into a lien. People v. Wells, 89 N. Y. S. 847. A tax or assessment cannot exist as a lien upon real estate until its amount is ascertained or determined. Gillmor v. Dale, 27 Utah, 372, 75 P. 932.

34. Loomis v. Von Phul, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 423.

35. Hagler v. Kelly [N. D.] 103 N. W. 629, reversing Gull River Lumber Co. v. Lee, 7 N. D. 135, 73 N. W. 430; Hooper v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 662.

36. Auditor General v. Carpenter [Mich.] 101 N. W. 1025.

37. A transfer of part of a tract charged with taxes by the auditor under § 1025, Rev. St. does not work a forfeiture against the state of any of the taxes so charged. Williamson v. Lewis, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 1.

38. City of Louisville v. Burke [Ky.] 87 S. W. 269.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1818, n. 61. Pennsylvania Co. v. Tacoma, 36 Wash. 656, 79 P. 306; Patton v. Camp, 120 Ga. 936, 48 S. E. 361.

40. City of Ballard v. Ross [Wash.] 80 P. 439.

41. In re Prince & Walter, 131 F. 546.

42. In re Prince & Walter, 131 F. 546; In re Flynn, 134 F. 145.

43. Laws 1903, c. 234, § 6, p. 341. National Bond & Security Co. v. Daskam, 91 Minn. 81, 97 N. W. 458.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1819.

45. Glos v. Hayes, 214 Ill. 372, 73 N. E. 802. Injunction is the proper form of relief from an assessment for taxation made upon unconstitutional principles. Fargo v. Hart, 193 U. S. 490, 48 Law. Ed. 761. The collection of taxes may be enjoined on the ground that the plaintiff had no taxable property in the county without first making application to the board of equalization to correct the assessment. Horton v. Driskell [Wyo.] 77 P. 354. Courts of equity have full authority to review the decision of the auditor where the foundation of the right to tax is challenged. Considering Rev. St. § 5848. Kraay v. Gibson, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 537. The foundation of the right to tax being challenged, the action of the auditor is prima facie only. Id. District courts in Louisiana have original jurisdiction in all cases of illegal assessment and taxation, irrespective of the amount involved. Bunkie Brick Works v. Police Jury of Avoyelles, 113 La. 1062, 37 So. 970.

or the tax itself is not wholly authorized by law,[46] or the taxes are assessed or levied by unauthorized persons,[47] or the taxing officers have acted fraudulently,[48] or the taxes have been illegally levied,[49] or the assessment made unjustly,[50] or without uniformity;[51] and the plaintiff must, in addition, bring himself within some recognized head of equity jurisprudence,[52] and must also tender, unless statutory provisions make such tender unnecessary, or pay, the taxes justly chargeable upon his property, if ascertainable,[53] before an injunction should issue to restrain the collection of the taxes. A property owner is not estopped by delay to contest a tax levied without jurisdiction.[54] There is no statutory estoppel when the property is not subject to taxation, and no equitable estoppel when the 46. The omission to attach the assessor's affidavit to an assessment roll does not invalidate an assessment in an equitable proceeding. Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919.

47. Where the assessment on which a tax was extended is void because made by a board of assessors without authority to make the same, a court of equity has jurisdiction to restrain the collection of the tax. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Vollman, 213 Ill. 609, 73 N. E. 360. If a municipal corporation acts ultra vires in the levying of a tax or assessment and attempts to collect it, equity has jurisdiction upon proper bill filed by the parties, subject to such tax or assessment to enjoin its collection. Cain v. Elkins [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 898.

48. Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675. In the absence of a showing that school trustees, in changing the location of the school building, did not act for the best interests of the district, a levy of taxes will not be restrained. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

49. A taxpayer is not entitled to injunctive relief against taxes on the ground of excessive valuation, without showing that a tax has been imposed on his property greater than its just share. Fell v. West [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 719. Allegation in a petition to restrain the collection of taxes that the board of equalization acted illegally and arbitrarily is a mere legal conclusion which is not admitted by demurrer. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 81 P. 1. That the certificate of levy was not under seal is not sufficient ground for injunctive relief. Schmohl v. Williams [Ill.] 74 N E. 75.

50. Assessment illegally increased. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Maher [Mont.] 81 P. 13. The collection of a tax cannot be restrained on the bare ground that the assessment was illegal (Trumbull v. Palmer, 93 N. Y. S. 349), or that the estimate of the board of supervisors was in excess of actual value (Johnson v. Bradley-Watkins Tie Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 726), or merely for failure of the assessor to attach the oath required by statute to the assessment where it does not appear that the tax is for some reason inequitable (Horton v. Driskell [Wyo.] 77 P. 354; Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919). See § 5 B, Irregularities; also § 6, Review by Courts.

51. Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919.

52. Mere errors or excess in valuation or hardship or injustice of the law or any grievance which can be remedied by a suit at law, either before or after payment of taxes, will not justify a court of equity to interpose by injunction to stay a collection of tax. In addition to illegality the case must be brought within some of the recognized foundations of equitable jurisdiction. McConnell v. Hampton [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1092. But equity will enjoin the collection of a tax levied without jurisdiction, though there may be an adequate remedy at law. Statute providing for the tax was unconstitutional. Smith v. Peterson, 123 Iowa, 672, 99 N. W. 552. Where the only injury which a taxpayer will suffer through a proposed tax levy, which is claimed to be in part to provide funds for the payment of an illegal claim, is the imposition of a tax upon his property, a court of equity will not interfere at his suit to restrain the levy and suspend the regular course of tax proceedings upon the ground that his injury will be irreparable. When his property rights are invaded by the unlawful imposition of the tax, his remedies at law or in equity, as the case may be, are adequate. Torgrinson v. Norwich School Dist. No. 31 [N. D.] 103 N. W. 414. Sufficiency of adequate remedy at law to prevent a suit to restrain collection of a tax against a corporation as a cloud on title. Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Koehne, 188 U. S. 681, 47 Law. Ed. 651. Equity will not enjoin the unlawful seizure and sale of personal property for taxes. Such seizure being a trespass, is remediable in a court of law. City of Jacksonville v. Massey Business College [Fla.] 36 So. 432. Courts have jurisdiction to inquire into the validity of a tax levy on personal property, and restrain the collection thereof, if found void, at the suit of the injured party, if the tax be due and payable and a levy on the part of collecting officers is threatened. Phillips v. Thurston County, 35 Wash. 187, 76 P. 993.

53. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Maher [Mont.] 81 P. 13; Bell's Trustee v. Lexington [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1081; Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675. If it appears that a portion of the taxes are legal and the amount ascertainable, and a part illegal, collection of the illegal portion will not be restrained unless the legal portion has been paid or tendered. Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919. Tender is not a prerequisite to injunctive relief against an assessment for taxation made upon unconstitutional principles. Fargo v. Hart, 193 U. S. 490, 48 Law. Ed. 761. Bill to reform deed and cancel tax certificates. Burgson v. Jacobson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 563.

54. Statute providing for tax was unconstitutional. Smith v. Peterson, 123 Iowa, 672, 99 N. W. 552.

acquiescence of a taxpayer for the time being is superinduced by the representations of the assessor.[55] The decision of town commissioners that the statutory conditions barring the collection of a tax were complied with is conclusive as against collateral attack by a taxpayer seeking to enjoin collection of the tax.[56] Cases illustrative of the proper parties and practice in an injunctive proceeding will be found in the note.[57] A law providing that property purchased for delinquent taxes shall become the property of the county, subject to redemption, does not prevent the taxpayer from compromising a dispute as to the validity of tax proceedings with the county.[58]

Recovery back of payments.[59]—A taxpayer whose property has been illegally taxed may pay the tax under protest,[60] and sue to recover it back.[61] But a pay-

55. Bunkie Brick Works v. Police Jury of Avoyelles, 113 La. 1062, 37 So. 970.

56. Demaree v. Bridges, 30 Ind. App. 131, 65 N. E. 601.

57. In a suit against a state board of railroad commissioners, to restrain the collection of taxes on assessments made by them, the attorney general held to have had no power to intervene on behalf of the state. Railroad Tax Cases, 136 F. 233. A holder of mortgage bonds of a company has such interest in its property as entitles him to maintain a suit to enjoin its illegal taxation, where a proper showing is made of the refusal of the mortgage trustee to prosecute such suit. Wicomico County Com'rs v. Bancroft [C. C. A.] 135 F. 977. The fact that a township is not a party defendant to enjoin a board of county commissioners from enforcing a township railroad aid tax does not render the injunction void as to those who were made parties. State v. Board of Com'rs of Clinton County, 162 Ind. 580, 70 N. E. 373. A municipal corporation has no power to sue out an injunction to prevent the collection of a tax claimed by the police jury of the parish from one of the residents of the town on property situated within the limits of the town. If the property owners of the town are exempt, it is incumbent upon them to plead the exemption, for the exemption is a personal right, which must be invoked by the taxpayers themselves. Town of Donaldsonville v. Police Jury of Ascension Parish [La.] 36 So. 873. The holders of bonds are necessary parties to an action to restrain a school district from levying a tax to pay interest on such bonds. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18. Persons against whom an unlawful exaction in the form of a tax is sought to be made may unite in an application for an injunction to restrain the collection of the tax. They are not obliged to pay the same and bring separate suits against the tax officer. Hewin v. Atlanta, 121 Ga. 723, 49 S. E. 765. An injunction restraining county commissioners from entertaining proceedings for enforcement of railroad aid tax, and the county treasurer from collecting the same, was void as to the board but valid as to the treasurer; it is a defense against mandamus to compel the board to order its collection. State v. Board of Com'rs of Clinton County [Ind.] 70 N. E. 373. On reversing a decree which enjoins a county from collecting a tax, the court will not continue in force the injunction merely because the law for the collection of taxes in force when the suit was brought has been repealed, as there may be a method to collect the tax under the new law. Cochise County v. Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 595.

58. Laws 1893, p. 28. Multnomah County v. Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [Or.] 80 P. 409.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1820.

60. The indorsement "The amount paid in settlement of this bill of taxes was paid to me by said taxable under protest as being illegally exacted and with the avowed intention of suing for its recovery," does not amount to payment under protest. Monaghan v. Lewis [Del.] 59 A. 948. In a suit by a taxpayer to recover taxes paid under protest on the ground that the assessment was not legally made, the burden was on him to show that the acts relative to the assessment were unauthorized. Savings & Loan Soc. v. San Francisco [Cal.] 80 P. 1086. The superior courts in North Carolina have no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from an order of county commissioners or to enter judgment in favor of a taxpayer for taxes paid by him under protest. The proper remedy to test the legality of the tax is by an action to recover the amount paid. The superior court would then have jurisdiction. Murdock v. Iredell County Com'rs [N. C.] 50 S. E. 567.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1820, n. 75. Payment by check, subsequently cashed, does not prevent recovery of illegal tax. Michigan Sanitarium & Ben. Ass'n v. Battle Creek [Mich.] 101 N. W. 855. Where an assessor knowingly assessed improvements at an amount in excess of their true cash value, the assessment was wrongful as to the excess, and the taxpayer can recover the taxes paid. Zeigler v. Board of Com'rs of Blackford County, 33 Ind. App. 375, 71 N. E. 527. An owner who pays an assessment which he claims to be void, under protest, may recover by proceeding by action against the county or presenting his claim to the supervisors for a refunding by the county treasurer. Remedy under Pol. Code, § 3819, is not exclusive of that provided in § 3804. Stewart Law & Collection Co. v. Alameda Co., 142 Cal. 660, 76 P. 481. The rule in equity that in a suit by one taxed he will not be relieved of his share of the burdens does not apply in an action at law to recover a tax erroneously spread and paid under protest. Murphy v. Dohben [Mich.] 100 N. W. 891. Tax upon personalty. Torgrinson v. Norwich School Dist. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 414.

ment voluntarily made, with full knowledge of the facts, and in the absence of a present threat to enforce collection, cannot be recovered.[62] An action for the recovery of money paid by reason of an illegal tax is regarded as an action for money had and received, to which statutes of limitations apply;[63] in common law states, recovery may be had under the common counts,[64] but the action cannot be maintained against the collecting officer,[65] unless he has paid the money into the treasury upon an indebtedness of his own, in which case he holds the moneys collected in trust for the benefit of the taxpayers.[66]

Refunding is authorized only when a tax has been illegally or erroneously exacted.[67] The claimant need not allege or prove payment to be involuntary or under protest, either when presenting the claim to supervisors or enforcing it in court,[68] and the right to interest follows without any express provision upon the subject.[69] One who takes an assignment of a certificate from the county treasurer, under a mistaken theory that it is necessary to protect a supposed interest therein, is entitled after the assessment has been declared void, to refundment of the money paid for the certificate.[70]

§ 11. Collection. A. Collectors.[71]—The appointment,[72] qualifications,[73] powers,[74] duties,[75] liabilities,[76] and compensation,[77] are quite generally matters of

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1820, n. 77. Payment of amounts illegally exacted as a condition to redemption is not voluntary, and may therefore be recovered. Palomares Land Co. v. Los Angeles County [Cal.] 80 P. 931. A statement by a tax ferret to a taxpayer who had wrongfully withheld property from taxation, that if others did not have to pay taxes on omitted property for that year the taxes paid would be refunded, is not binding on the county so as to authorize a recovery of the amount voluntarily paid as taxes. Kehe v. Blackhawk County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 281. Voluntary payment for a number of years of taxes on the vacant land of another by a stranger to the title, under the mistaken belief that he had a tax deed to the land, creates no obligation on the part of the owner of the land to repay. Bryant v. Nelson-Frey Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 859.

63. In re Hoople's Estate, 179 N. Y. 308, 72 N. E. 229. Limitations did not commence to run against an action to recover money expended in paying defendant's taxes at his request when the taxes were due but when the payment was made. Rhodes v. Negley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1144. Where a city was charged with the duty of discovering any illegality, and a purchaser paid an illegally exacted fee, such payment did not charge the purchaser with knowledge of the illegality so that the statute of limitations began to run from the time of payment. Gove v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 434, 76 P. 73.

64. Michigan Sanitarium & Ben. Ass'n v. Battle Creek [Mich.] 101 N. W. 855.

65. Where officer collecting a void tax has paid it into the proper treasury, an action to recover the tax cannot be brought against him individually. Craig v. Boone [Cal.] 81 P. 22. A person paying a tax to the sheriff under an agreement that in case the payer was not liable therefor it would be returned to him cannot maintain an action against such sheriff for the return of the money after it had been paid by the latter to the state treasurer. Teeter v. Wallace [N. C.] 50 S. E. 701.

66. Commonwealth v. Donnelly [Ky. L. R.] 85 S. W. 720.

67. The error, to justify a refund, must be some irregularity connected with the assessment or levy of the tax. Kehe v. Blackhawk County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 281. The California statute (Pol. Code, § 3804) does not authorize the board of supervisors to order a refund on claims filed after the expiration of six months after the making of the payment. Perrin v. Honeycutt, 144 Cal. 87, 77 P. 776.

68. Construing Pol. Code, § 3804. Stewart Law & Collection Co. v. Alameda County, 142 Cal. 660, 76 P. 481.

69. In re O'Berry, 179 N. Y. 285, 72 N. E. 109.

70. People v. Board of Sup'rs of Nassau County, 93 N. Y. S. 344.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1820.

72. The revenue agent provided by the Kentucky statutes, though an appointee of the auditor, is not removable by him. Hager v. Lucas [Ky. L. R.] 86 S. W. 552.

73. In an election contest for the office of city tax collector, evidence held to justify a finding that defendant had not been a resident of the city for five years next prior to his election as required by the city charter, and was therefore ineligible. Sheehan v. Scott, 145 Cal. 684, 79 P. 350.

74. A tax collector who undertakes to enforce the collection of taxes prior to the receipt of his warrant is a trespasser. Orange County v. Texas, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 670.

75. Under the tax law of New York, the county treasurer may be mandamused to sell real estate delinquent for three years. Laws 1896, c. 908, §§ 150, 151. People v. Lewis, 92 N. Y. S. 642. It being the duty of a city treasurer to advertise the sale of property for taxes, the official paper has the right to require him by mandamus to discharge the duties imposed on him by law. Register Newspaper Co. v. Yeizer, 25 Ky. L. R. 2186, 80 S. W. 478.

76. Orders of a county judge employing counsel to aid the sheriff in the collection statutory regulation. In some states the duty of collecting taxes is cast upon collectors as such,[78] but ordinarily some officer of a county is made the agent of the state and its political subdivisions for the collection of taxes.[79] Tax collectors cannot lawfully pay or purchase claims against the parish.[80] A bill by a former city tax collector against a municipality to recover overpayments, which does not allege what amount was overpaid, nor in what year or on what account the errors or inaccuracies resulting in the alleged overpayments arose, is demurrable.[81] Cases arising on the sufficiency of collectors' bonds and the liability of sureties thereunder are gathered in a note.[82] Penalties belonging to a county may be of taxes, and directing the sheriff to pay such counsel a sum of money for his fee, being void, did not justify the sheriff in making the payment, or exempt him from liability to account for the money so paid. Scoville v. Baugh [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1146. Kentucky Revenue Act 1901, p. 373, c. 174, authorizing the appointment of revenue agents, is broad enough to recover from a county judge an alleged unaccounted for balance. State v. Kelly, 111 Tenn. 583, 82 S. W. 311. Under the Kentucky statute 1903, § 4146, a settlement had with the sheriff, as the tax collecting officer, duly recorded in the fiscal court, and from which no appeal is taken, is binding on the county. Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland v. Logan County [Ky.] 84 S. W. 341. The penalty of 6 per cent. for which a sheriff is liable for failure to collect and pay over taxes does not draw interest. Id. Where a collector of taxes has made default in the payment of taxes he will be charged with interest from the time of such delinquency. Ross v. Walton, 67 N. J. Law, 688, 52 A. 1132, afg. without opinion 63 N. J. Law, 435, 44 A. 430.

77. In North Carolina, sheriff is entitled to commission for collecting school tax. Board of Education of Iredell County v. Board of Com'rs of Iredell County [N. C.] 49 S. E. 47. County treasurer in Iowa not entitled to commission on the "general mulct charge" provided by Code, § 2445. City of Waverly v. Bremer County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 874. In Minnesota a sheriff is not entitled to a fee of $1.00 from his county for each execution issued upon a personal property tax judgment delivered to him and returned by him unsatisfied. Appeal of Justus [Minn.] 101 N. W. 943. In Kentucky the remuneration of an auditor's agent is to be based on the amount actually covered into the treasury (Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 62, 81 S. W. 686); and as between an auditor's agent and the sheriff, the one first filing an information or statement against a decedent's estate to recover unpaid taxes is entitled to receive the penalty (Riedel v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 898, 82 S. W. 635). A county auditor is entitled, under the statute, to an additional allowance for clerk hire during the year in which the decennial reappraisement of real property and up to the time when the board of equalization must have completed its work—the fourth Monday in January of the second year following the reappraisement. State v. Godfrey, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 465. A county auditor is entitled to receive for indexing the records of county commissioners the same fees as other officers receive for like services. Id. The fact that property formerly improperly omitted from tax duplicates is placed thereon through evidence furnished by an inquisitor employed and paid for that purpose, does not deprive the county auditor of his compensation for amounts collected from property so listed. Id.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1820, n. 82. In Georgia it is held to be the duty of the receiver of taxes and not the tax collector to issue executions for taxes against unreturned wild lands. Barnes v. Carter, 120 Ga. 895, 48 S. E. 387. The clerk of council held to be charged with the collection of taxes for educational purposes and to be liable for failure to pay over to the treasurer of the board of education the moneys so collected. Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211, 45 S. E. 28.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1821, n. 83. Under Kentucky St. 1903, § 4136, providing that if the sheriff shall die during his term of office his sureties shall have the right to nominate a person to collect the revenue for that year, the sureties do not have such right of nomination where the sheriff resigns. Combs v. Eversole [Ky. L. R.] 86 S. W. 560.

80. But where they have been authorized by the police jury to pay or take up certificates and orders issued for legal and valid parish indebtedness, and have done so, they are entitled in equity to restitution. Young v. East Baton Rouge, 112 La. 511, 36 So. 547.

81. Lowrey v. Biloxi [Miss.] 38 So. 42.

82. Sufficiency of collector's bond. Bromberg v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 139 Ala. 338, 36 So. 622. Bond of a municipal clerk who was required to collect street assessments; duties thus imposed not appropriate to the office and sureties not liable. City of St. Marys v. Rowe, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 645. Where a collector of taxes who held office for different terms with different sureties applied sums received from taxes during one term to the payment of taxes due from him during a previous term, the sureties on the bond for the latter were liable if the sums paid were received in good faith by the town. Inhabitants of Hudson v. Miles, 185 Mass. 582, 71 N. E. 63. The sureties on a tax collector's bond are liable for sums received by the collector during the term for which the bond was given, although received before the bond was actually given. Id. It is no defense to an action on a tax collector's bond that the money embezzled by him was collected without a warrant or under a defective one. Entries made by the collector's deputies showing that the money was collected by them, held binding on his sureties. Lake County v. Neilon, 44 Or. 14, 74 P. 212. A surety on a tax collector's bond knew he was in default and held a claim against him which should be paid out of the recovered by action on sheriff's bond, though by mistake he was not charged therewith on his settlement with the county.[83]

(§ 11) B. Method.[84]—Before the officer who is designated by law for the duty of collecting taxes can lawfully proceed to do so, he must have his warrant for the purpose, in due form of law. This may be the assessment roll or list with the tax extended upon it, or it may be a duplicate of the list with a like extension, or it may be either of these with a formal warrant attached. Such warrant constitutes the basis of the collector's authority and is the source of his power.[85] Where the warrant and affidavit do not appear on the roll as introduced in evidence, no presumption will be indulged that they were attached to the roll when it was filed.[86] A tax collector has no authority to collect taxes before the rolls are delivered to him.[87] The revenue laws of the several states provide for the compulsory collection of taxes in divers ways. One method of procedure is by distraint.[88] This method of collecting taxes is one of the most ancient known to the law, and has frequently received the sanction of the courts.[89] Another method is by an action at law. But since taxes are not debts in the ordinary acceptance of that term, generally an action at law will not lie for their collection, in the absence of statutory provision therefor.[90] While the right to an action may be implied from a failure of the legislature to provide any means for enforcing the payment of taxes,[91] yet where the legislature has provided a means of enforcing payment, that remedy is exclusive.[92] In such an action the estabtaxes for the year in which he was surety. He induced another to become surety the following year. Held, he could not appropriate to payment of his claim taxes belonging to the subsequent year's fund, and render the surety for that year liable on his bond and relieve himself. State v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 99 Md. 244, 57 A. 669.

83. Commonwealth v. Pate [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1096. Action on bond sustained. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fossati [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1038. Surety who pays amount of a bond is not entitled to subrogation as against a creditor to the latter's prejudice. State v. Perkins [La.] 38 So. 196.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1822.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1822. The collection of taxes by a sheriff in excess of the constitutional limit is not a trespass vi et armis within the meaning of a statute authorizing the issuance of a capias on all judgments for trespasses of that character. Commonwealth v. Ratcliff [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1147.

86. White v. Hill, 91 N. Y. S. 623.

87. One who has thus paid his taxes, the collector having failed to turn the taxes over to the county, is still liable therefor. Orange County v. Texas, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 670.

88. The exemption of United States bonds from state taxation does not prevent their distraint to satisfy taxes lawfully levied on unexempt personal property of the owner of such bonds. Scottish U. & N. Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 25 S. Ct. 345. Under the express provisions of Ky. St. 1903, § 3187, a city of second class has authority to collect retrospective tax bills on omitted personalty by distraint. Bell's Trustee v. Lexington [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1081.

89. Scottish U. & N. Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 25 S. Ct. 345, and cases cited.

90. Board of Com'rs of Dawes County v. Furay [Neb.] 99 N. W. 271. No action will lie to recover payment of taxes unless especially provided for by statute. It was sought to recover taxes levied against a partnership by instituting administration proceedings upon the estate of a dead nonresident who was a member of the firm. Id. Chapter 161, p. 213, North Dakota Laws 1903, providing for the enforcement of payment by judicial proceedings and giving to the several boards of county commissioners of all counties in the state a discretionary authority to institute proceedings therein provided for, held constitutional. Picton v. Cass County [N. D.] 100 N. W. 711. The provision of the Minnesota statute that all contests involving the validity of personal property taxes shall be tried and determined at the first term of court held next after the same become delinquent is directory merely. Laws 1899, c. 246, p. 285. State v. Meehan, 92 Minn. 283, 100 N. W. 6. Nebraska law to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes and special assessments held constitutional. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092. It does not deprive the owner of his property without due process. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

91. Board of Com'rs of Dawes County v. Furay [Neb.] 99 N. W. 271.

92. Board of Com'rs of Dawes County v. Furay [Neb.] 99 N. W. 271. In Michigan it is not necessary that the treasurer of a village exhaust his remedy by warrant before the village can authorize the bringing of suit to recover a tax. Village of Chelsea v. Holmes [Mich.] 100 N. W. 448. Mandamus will not lie to compel a board of county commissioners to order the collection of a railroad aid tax which it has been enjoined from enforcing, especially where the personnel of the board has changed since the injunction decree was rendered. State v.

lishment of a valid assessment roll is an essential of the cause of action,[93] and if defendant is not subject to such tax in his person or property, he must raise the question by way of defense, as the city is not required to assume the burden of showing jurisdiction.[94] Demand is not necessary as a condition precedent to the enforcement of the collection of taxes.[95] A claim for taxes under the assessment for one year is not the same cause of action as a claim for taxes on the same property for a prior year.[96] A judgment obtained for personal property taxes may be sold or assigned under the North Dakota general revenue law of 1890.[97] Statutes providing for proceedings for the recovery of taxes are liberally construed so as to promote their object;[98] but statutes empowering an officer to levy upon and sell lands for taxes are to be construed strictly.[99] Cases involving the proof necessary to make a case,[1] as to what constitutes prima facie case in action to recover taxes,[2] and matters of practice, are noted below.[3] The amendment to Greater New York charter (Laws 1901, p. 395, c. 466), authorizing an order dismissing an action to enforce personal property tax, was enacted for the purpose of enabling those having an "equitable defense" to the assessment of a Board of Com'rs of Clinton County, 162 Ind. 580, 70 N. E. 373. That a law provides for two methods of collection, either of which the county board may pursue, does not amount to a delegation of legislative authority. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092.

93. City of New York v. Vanderveer, 91 App. Div. 303, 86 N. Y. S. 659.

94. City of New York v. Matthews [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 629.

95. Milster v. Spartanburg, 68 S. C. 26, 46 S. E. 539. Under a charter provision that a tax roll shall be delivered July 1st and that forthwith six days' notice by publication on the official daily paper shall be deemed a demand for payment, a publication for six days but excluding and omitting a legal holiday is sufficient. Keho v. Auditor General [Mich.] 101 N. W. 809. A claim for taxes is not required to be filed against a decedent's estate. It is the duty of the administrator to take notice of and pay the tax before his final settlement. Cullop v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 166.

96. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cass County [Neb.] 101 N. W. 11.

97. Hagler v. Kelly [N. D.] 103 N. W. 629.

98. Holder of an invalid tax deed may retain possession until taxes he has paid are returned by the owner. Gen. St. 1901, § 7681. Douglass v. Byers, 69 Kan. 59, 76 P. 432.

99. The receiver of taxes, and not tax collector, held to be charged with duty of issuing executions for taxes against unreturned wild lands. Barnes v. Carter, 120 Ga. 895, 48 S. E. 387. Taxes and special assessments levied on real estate under the general revenue laws of Nebraska create no personal liability against the owner for the payment of which a judgment in personam can be obtained. It is the property alone which is assessed that can be taken in satisfaction of the taxes levied against the same. City of Beatrice v. Wright [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1039. In Georgia an execution issued by a tax collector for state and county taxes cannot be lawfully transferred by the tax collector in a county having a population of less than 75,000. Hill v. Georgia State B. & L. Ass'n, 120 Ga. 472, 47 S. E. 897.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1824, n. 28.

2. City of New York v. Streeter, 91 App. Div. 206, 86 N. Y. S. 665. In an action by a township to collect taxes, the provision that the tax roll shall be prima facie evidence of the debt does not conflict with a taxpayer's constitutional rights. Decatur Tp. v. Copley, 133 Mich. 546, 95 N. W. 545, 10 Det. Leg. N. 254. In proceedings to recover taxes paid, the assessment and tax rolls, which contain the original extension of the levies made by the taxing officers for all purposes, are competent evidence to show the levies of taxes. Douglass v. Byers, 69 Kan. 59, 76 P. 432. In an action to recover delinquent license taxes, the orders of the commissioner's court introduced to show levies of county taxes made by that court were sufficient to create such levies, and were properly admitted. Southern Car & Foundry Co. v. Calhoun County [Ala.] 37 So. 425. Evidence held insufficient to support judgment. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 214 Ill. 25, 73 N. E. 339.

3. Taxes assessed in a ward in a city where each ward has a tax roll are due to and collectible by the city and not by the ward. City of St. Joseph v. Vail [Mich.] 100 N. W. 388. In an action by a township to recover a tax, the declaration need not aver the particulars in which a certain quoted law validated the tax. Kettelle v. Warwick & C. Water Co., 24 R. I. 485, 53 A. 631. In Kentucky the sheriff has power to commence proceedings in the name of the commonwealth for the collection of taxes assessed against omitted property. Commonwealth v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2100, 80 S. W. 158. In Michigan, during the period the township treasurer is empowered to collect taxes, his authority to bring suit for the collection of such taxes is exclusive, and suit cannot during that time be brought by the supervisor of the township for the collection of a tax included in the treasurer's warrant. Decatur Tp. v. Copley, 133 Mich. 546, 95 N. W. 545.

tax to appear and be heard.[4] Certiorari will not lie in Minnesota to review personal property tax judgments.[5] In some states lands on which the taxes remain unpaid for a term of years are forfeited to the state. Cases discussing such laws are cited below.[6] A provision of a state constitution providing for forfeiture of estates of 1,000 acres and over and not of those of less extent is an unjust classification and invalid.[7]

§ 12. Sale for taxes.[8] A. Prerequisites to sale.[9]—Since tax sales are made exclusively under statutory authority, the provisions of the statute conferring such authority must be fully complied with, and any substantial departure therefrom prejudicial to the owner will invalidate the sale.[10] The statute in force when the suit was instituted governs throughout in all matters of procedure.[11] A valid tax,[12] legally due and unpaid,[13] and enforceable against the particular

4. City of New York v. Holzderber, 44 Misc. 509, 90 N. Y. S. 63. Cities of third class in Pennsylvania may add penalty of one per cent. per month on amount of lien after lien for taxes has been filed and until judgment is entered on scire facias, after which it is entitled to six per cent. interest on amount of judgment. Altoona v. Morrison, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 417.

5. The proper remedy is by appeal taken in the manner provided by section 19, c. 2, p. 13, Gen. Laws 1902, for the review of real estate tax judgments. State v. District Court of Ramsey County [Minn.] 100 N. W. 889.

6. In West Virginia a proceeding for the sale of forfeited lands for the benefit of the school fund is a judicial proceeding. Starr v. Sampselle, 55 W. Va. 442, 47 S. E. 255. It is in the nature of a proceeding against the land itself, and when completed is prima facie evidence of the forfeiture of the land against all persons (Id.), and a final decree is not rendered void for error in the proceeding unless it was jurisdictional (Id.), nor can such error be considered where the decree is collaterally brought in issue (Id.). In a bill by the state to sell forfeited lands and annul a tax deed constituting title hostile to that of the state, a tender by the state to the tax purchaser is not necessary. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828. If a tax deed is void passing no title, and if the owner in whose name the land was sold omits to keep the land on the tax book in his own name, his title will be forfeited for five years' omission. Payment of taxes in the name of the tax purchaser will not prevent such forfeiture. Id. Forfeited lands cannot be redeemed from forfeiture if already the state's title by such forfeiture has been transferred to another title. State v. Jackson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 465. Lands bid in for the state at a tax sale under the North Dakota tax laws (ch. 132, Laws 1890) and not redeemed or assigned within three years from such sale, become forfeited lands and are not thereafter subject to sale for taxes while they remain forfeited lands. Patton v. Cass County [N. D.] 102 N. W. 174. Where a forfeiture of land was invalid, deed to such land of state conveyed no title, but only removed the lien for taxes which state had on land. Henry v. Knod [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1130. A verbal contract conveying the right to redeem land forfeited to the state is void under statute of frauds. Id. Forfeitures of land to the state in part for taxes assessed before it had parted with title to the land are void. Carraway v. Moore [Ark.] 86 S. W. 993. Where the owner has once entered his land on the books, his duty is fulfilled and no omission of the state officers in carrying it forward can subject him to forfeiture. King v. Hatfield, 130 F. 564.

7. King v. Hatfield, 130 F. 564.

8. See as to tax titles, Tiffany, Real Property, 1063.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1824.

10. Jungk v. Snyder [Utah] 78 P. 168; In re Lindner, 113 La. 772, 37 So. 720. When the law is driven from the necessity of the case to authorize a judgment that will affect the property rights of an absent or unknown owner, on a notice by mere publication in a newspaper, it demands of the plaintiff a strict compliance with the terms of the statute under which the publication purports to have been made. Eminence Land & Min. Co. v. Current River Land & Cattle Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 145. A delinquent list which shows it was filed in the office of the county clerk of a given county instead of with the clerk of the county court, though the offices are held by the same individual, is defective. Glos v. Hanford, 212 Ill. 261, 72 N. E. 439. Statutes authorizing a city to collect its taxes by sale of the property are permissive, not compulsory. After property has been adjudicated to the city and offered for sale, proceedings may be abandoned. State v. New Orleans, 112 La. 408, 36 So. 475. The Pennsylvania act of June 2, 1891, was not intended to apply to seated and unseated lands bought in by commissioners at treasurer's sales for nonpayment of taxes. A sale under such act passed no title. Walker v. Bergbigler, 207 Pa. 427, 56 A. 963. The power vested in a public officer to sell land for nonpayment of taxes is a naked power, not coupled with an interest, and a purchaser must show that all the requirements of law have been strictly complied with. The charging of a larger fee than allowed by law for a sale, will invalidate the sale. Moon v. Salt Lake County, 27 Utah, 435, 76 P. 222.

11. Taylor v. Huntington, 34 Wash. 455, 75 P. 1104.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1824, n. 30. A sale of lands to the state for taxes was void where they were sold for the county taxes of a certain year, which were levied in the next year. St. Louis Refrigerator & Wooden Gutter Co. v. Thornton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 852. In Michigan the fact that irregularities may be land to be sold, is essential to a valid sale.[14] Delinquent taxes do not lose their identity as such from the fact that the land against which they are assessed was regularly sold at a tax sale, and for want of a purchaser, bid in for the state.[15] Where there is personal property primarily liable for the payment of taxes, it must be exhausted before proceeding against the real estate.[16]

A judicial determination by a court of competent jurisdiction that the lands are delinquent, with an order for their sale, is generally necessary.[17] As in the case of other judicial proceedings, jurisdictional requirements must be present.[18] Thus it is essential that the delinquent owner[19] be duly notified[20] of the applidiscovered in proceedings antedating a petition for sale of land for taxes is no obstacle to enforcing the state's lien for a tax equitably due and chargeable to the land sought to be subjected to the lien, provided there is enough in the proceedings to show that the levy of the tax is authorized. Auditor General v. Griffin [Mich.] 103 N. W. 854. Sale declared void for irregularities in assessment and sale, charter provisions not being followed (Tacoma city charter). Gove v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 434, 76 P. 73. Where sidewalks for the construction of which plaintiff's land was sold were built without an order therefor by the town board such sale and the deed issued thereupon were void. Mitchell v. Titus [Colo.] 80 P. 1042.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1824, n. 31.

14. Land cannot be foreclosed under a lien for taxes on personal property. Union School Dist. v. Bishop, 76 Conn. 695, 58 A. 13.

15. They remain delinquent until actually paid to the county treasurer either by the landowner, the purchaser at a tax sale, or by an assignee of the state. Jenswold v. Minnesota Canal Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 603.

16. Richcreek v. Russell [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 617; Leszinsky v. Le Grand, 26 Ky. L. R. 1235, 83 S. W. 1038.

17. A tax deed to land sold pursuant to a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace is absolutely void because of want of jurisdiction to render such a judgment. Adams v. Carpenter [Mo.] 86 S. W. 445.

18. Under ch. 67, p. 76, Laws 1897, pertaining to obtaining judgments against specific tracts of land to enforce payment of taxes against the owner, the jurisdiction of the court to enter judgment against a particular tract appearing on the list filed with the clerk as unpaid is not affected by the fact that all taxes against the owner and against the tract had been previously paid. Purcell v. Farm Land Co. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 700. By express provision of Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 120, par. 323, § 29, failure to publish an assessment is not a valid objection to application for judgment for tax sale. Grant Land Ass'n v. People, 213 Ill. 256, 72 N. E. 804. Failure to make out and swear to a list of lands delinquent for taxes by the first Monday in June, as required by Code 1887, c. 30, § 18, will not invalidate a deed under tax sale. Hornage v. Imboden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1036. The fact that a list of lands delinquent for taxes was acted on at a special term of a county court, in the call for which no reference was made to action on such list, will not invalidate a tax deed. Id. Failure to present a list of lands delinquent for taxes in the county court at the levy term as required by Code 1887, c. 30, § 21, and presenting it at a later term, will not invalidate tax deed. Id.

19. A tax sale should be made only after giving notice to the delinquent. The delinquent referred to is the owner actually in possession on the day that proceedings are taken to advertise and sell. In re Lafferranderie [La.] 37 So. 990. If property has been assessed to an unknown owner, and the certificate of delinquency has been so issued, the foreclosure may be had in form against an unknown owner. Williams v. Pittock, 35 Wash. 271, 77 P. 385. A proceeding against an unknown owner and others is valid. Morrison v. Shippen [Wash.] 79 P. 632. In proceedings to foreclose delinquency certificates, a notice running to the reputed owner on the tax rolls when certificates were issued and to all persons claiming an interest charges all such persons with notice. Carson v. Titlow [Wash.] 80 P. 299. Judgment in suit against record owner and unknown owners binds purchaser contracting for but obtaining title after its entry. Williams v. Pittock, 35 Wash. 221, 77 P. 385; Plumb v. Dyas [Wash.] 80 P. 432. A purchaser at a tax sale under judgment for taxes in a suit wherein the record owner is made a party defendant acquires a good title as against the holder of an unrecorded deed from the record owner. Lucas v. Currant River Land & Cattle Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 359. Where land was conveyed to and registered in the name of "J. B., administratrix of B., deceased," a tax sale made after the death of such administratrix in the individual name of "Mrs. J. B.," is invalid as against B.'s heirs. Baines v. Alker, 207 Pa. 234, 56 A. 433. A failure to serve one of the executors will not render a judgment for taxes void. If erroneous at all, it is at most voidable, and a suit to set it aside must be brought in the court which entered it. Ross v. Drouilhet [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 241. Where property is advertised for tax sale as owned by an owner properly present, the proceedings cannot be changed to such as are followed when the taxpayer is unknown. Succession of Williams v. Chaplain, 112 La. 1075, 36 So. 859. Citation in the name of "A. H. G.," record title being in "Aubrey H. G.," rendered proceedings void. Gillingham v. Brown [Mo.] 85 S. W. 1113.

20. Where notice is necessary, it ought to appear that such notice was given in due time. In re Lafferranderie [La.] 37 So. 990. No notice is required to be given of a sale of real estate for taxes delinquent for a period of over five years, which is to be sold under the provisions of c. 76, p. 519, Session Laws of 1903. The fact that no notice of sale is required other than that con-cation or petition for sale,[21] which notification, whether by summons or otherwise, must be sufficient in form and contents,[22] and must be served personally,[23] or as is more often the case, by publication in some designated newspaper.[24] Statutes variously provide that the petition,[25] publication of delinquent lists,[26] and the resulting judgment, contain a correct description of the premises to be tained in the act itself does not render it void as taking property without due process of law. City of Beatrice v. Wright [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1039.

21. Whether notice of application for a tax deed was properly served upon the legal owner and person in possession of the land is a question of fact. State v. Coughran [S. D.] 103 N. W. 31. That a petition for foreclosure of a tax lien discloses that no preliminary sale for taxes was had will not of itself render the foreclosure proceedings totally void if had coram judice and with jurisdiction of the parties. Selby v. Pueppka [Neb.] 102 N. W. 263. In Michigan the auditor general has authority to include delinquent drain taxes in his petition for sale of land for nonpayment of taxes. Rumsey v. Griffin [Mich.] 101 N. W. 571.

22. Under the Washington statute, a tax foreclosure publication summons must set out the date of the first publication. The words "Date of first publication, October 9th, 1902," following the attorney's signature, sufficiently set forth the date of the first publication. Williams v. Pittock, 35 Wash. 271, 77 P. 385. But in a proceeding under a prior statute, such designation held insufficient, the time of appearance dating from time of service and not date of first publication. Dolan v. Jones [Wash.] 79 P. 640. Notice directed "to the sheriff or any constable of Lubbock county," the statute prescribing a notice to all persons owning or claiming or having any interest, is insufficient. Babcock v. Wolffarth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 642. For cases bearing on sufficiency of notice or summons, see, also, Eminence Land & Min. Co. v. Current River Land & Cattle Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 145; Dolan v. Jones [Wash.] 79 P. 640; Luff v. Gowan [Wash.] 80 P. 766; Young v. Droz [Wash.] 80 P. 810. Citation to "A H G" record title being in "Aubrey H G," rendered sale void. Gillingham v. Brown [Mo.] 85 S. W. 1113; see, also, Spore v. Ozark Land Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 556.

23. Where the owner is in the actual occupation of land through agents or tenants, and his title is of record, the state is charged with knowledge of his possession and cannot without actual notice to him deprive him of title in a suit to foreclose delinquent tax liens. Bingham v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 781.

24. A tax foreclosure proceeding is essentially a proceeding in rem and is in this sense an action against the person of the owner of the property. A judgment of foreclosure against property of a resident owner therefore is not void, though service was had by publication. Allen v. Peterson [Wash.] 80 P. 849. The publication of delinquent list required by section 8, Act. No. 147 of 1873, has for its sole purpose the forfeiture of the right of the delinquent to bring suit and be a witness in a court of justice. It aims at the taxpayer individually and not at the property. Finney v. Gulf States Land & Imp. Co., 112 La. 949, 36 So. 814. Failure to post a list of lands delinquent for taxes as required by § 20, c. 30, Code 1887, will not invalidate deed. Hornage v. Imboden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1036. Publication is insufficient where the affidavit shows that the "list" of property was published in a weekly paper each week for the four successive weeks and that the "list and notice" were published once in the daily edition of the paper. Paine v. Palmborg [Colo. App.] 79 P. 330. It is not essential to the validity of a service by publication that there be a sheriff's return to the effect that the defendant cannot be found in the county. An affidavit complying with the statute is sufficient authority upon which to base a publication of summons. Allen v. Peterson [Wash.] 80 P. 849. Mere defect in the proof of publication is not material on collateral attack. It is the publication and not the proof of it that confers jurisdiction on the court. Palmer v. Ozark Land Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 408. The fact that an affidavit to a list of sales of delinquent land contains no venue and does not show of what county the notary is a notary will not invalidate tax deed. Hornage v. Imboden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1036. Republication of delinquent lists will not be compelled solely on the ground that the newspaper was not designated by proper official authority. State v. Fink [Neb.] 102 N. W. 771. The auditor general has power to set aside a sale of land for taxes because of a defect in the publication thereof and to resell the land. Rumsey v. Griffin [Mich.] 101 N. W. 571. An estoppel applies to all persons claiming any interest in the land, even though summons was by publication and parties claiming interests did not appear. Laws 1901, pp. 385, 386, requiring all persons claiming interests to take notice of foreclosure proceedings and all steps thereunder. Washington Timber & Loan Co. v. Smith, 34 Wash. 625, 76 P. 267. Under Kirby's Dig. § 7086, requiring the clerk to certify the published list of lands to be sold for taxes, the certificate must be made before the day of sale. Hunt v. Gardner [Ark.] 86 S. W. 426. Service by publication in an action to foreclose a lien for delinquent taxes is insufficient to give the court jurisdiction where it does not affirmatively appear that personal service could not be made. McManus v. Morgan [Wash.] 80 P. 786.

25. A judgment in a suit for the sale of land for taxes is void where it is attempted thereby to affect land not described in the petition. Missouri Rev. St. 1899, § 9328, providing for abbreviations in assessment lists, has no application to averments in a petition for sale of lands. O'Day v. McDaniel, 181 Mo. 529, 80 S. W. 895.

26. A list of lands delinquent for taxes, giving no specification or description whatever of a tract or lot of land sold for taxes, renders the sale and deed under it void. Mosser v. Moore [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 537. Description held sufficient. Mahlun v. Thayer [Minn.] 101 N. W. 653.

sold,[27] and the amount for which sold.[28] In case of death of the owner before decree, revivor against his heirs is not necessary.[29] Decisions bearing upon the effect and validity of the judgment,[30] and questions arising on appeal therefrom, are given in the notes.[31] Due notice of the sale must also be given.[32] In Illinois the certificate of the clerk, which constitutes the process for the sale of land for taxes, must be made on the day advertised for the sale; if made on the day the judgment is rendered, the sale is void for want of proper process.[33] Mere irregularities do not on collateral attack render a decree of sale void.[34] The duties of a county auditor with respect to making up a delinquent tax duplicate are such only as are prescribed by statute, and a court is without right to require of him the performance of any service in that behalf not specifically enjoined upon him or required of him by law.[35]

(§ 12) B. Conduct of sale.[36]—The sale should be made at the time and place advertised.[37] The amount for which the sale shall be made is dependent entirely upon statute. This is usually for the taxes due, together with interest

27. Where there are two additions to a city of the same name and a "Lot No. 5 of Sec. 1" in each addition, the description held insufficient. Peareson v. Branch [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 222.

28. A judgment in a tax foreclosure suit held to show the amount in an intelligible form, though figures alone were used without marks to indicate dollars and cents. Washington Timber & Loan Co. v. Smith, 34 Wash. 625, 76 P. 267.

29. Under the provisions of Shannon's Code, §§ 6190, 6193, a judicial sale of realty for taxes was not void because the owner died intestate before the entry of the decree for sale, leaving surviving him two children against whom the cause was never revived. Dunham v. Harvey [Tenn.] 69 S. W. 772.

30. A judgment for taxes against the unknown heirs of a former owner is void as to the owner under grant from the deceased and who had no notice of the suit. He could, therefore, attack such judgment collaterally. Green v. Robertson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 236, 70 S. W. 345. That the judgment and order of a tax sale were against the executors personally and not as executors is immaterial. Ross v. Drouilhet [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 241. Judgment in name of "A H G," record owner's name being "Aubrey H. G.," held void. Gillingham v. Brown [Mo.] 85 S. W. 1113. Judgment in name of "W. D. S.," land being recorded in name of "William D. S." Spore v. Ozark Land Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 556. A judgment for taxes could not be held void on the theory that it was rendered within a year after death of the decedent, where date of death did not appear from the pleadings. Ross v. Drouilhet [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 241. In Washington a judgment for a deed to realty sold for taxes estops all parties from raising objections thereto, or to a tax title based thereon, which might have been raised during the progress of the trial. So the objection to the entry of a nunc pro tunc order in regard to the filing of a certificate of delinquency could not be subsequently raised. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 1767. Washington Timber & Loan Co. v. Smith, 34 Wash. 625, 76 P. 267. In case of a void judgment the owner of the land is not bound to appeal, but may resist it and assert its invalidity at all times. City of Rochester v. Farrar, 44 Misc. 394, 89 N. Y. S. 1035. A judgment of a court of general jurisdiction, having special statutory jurisdiction in tax foreclosure suits, cannot be set aside on motion, on the ground that as a court of special jurisdiction, it had no jurisdiction in a particular suit on account of a defect in the affidavit of publication of the notice. Taylor v. Huntington, 34 Wash. 455, 75 P. 1104.

31. Session Laws 1903, p. 74, c. 59, § 4, providing that an appeal from a judgment of foreclosure in a tax proceeding must be taken within 30 days, applies to an appeal from an order in such action to vacate the judgment, though the litigation is between a private certificate holder and the owner of the property. Brown v. Davis, 36 Wash. 135, 78 P. 779. Where plaintiff appeals from a judgment in effect denying his right to foreclose a delinquency tax certificate, he may do so by giving a bond under the general provisions of the law relating to appeals, and need not give the bond required by Laws 1903. Nolan v. Arnot, 36 Wash. 101, 78 P. 463.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1826. The statute requires only that notices of sales pursuant to judgment obtained by a city for taxes be mailed to the property owner, not that they shall be received by him. Ross v. Drouilhet [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 241. Notice of sale published in the supplement to a newspaper held void. Morton v. Horton, 91 N. Y. S. 950. An advertisement published on the day of and after the hour of the sale is insufficient. In re Lindner, 113 La. 772, 37 So. 720.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1828, n. 75 [Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 1542, c. 120, § 194]. Glos v. Dyche, 214 Ill. 417, 73 N. E. 757; Glos v. Hanford, 212 Ill. 261, 72 N. E. 439; Glos v. McKerlie, 212 Ill. 632, 72 N. E. 700; Glos v. Gleason, 209 Ill. 517, 70 N. E. 1045.

34. Arbuckle v. Matthews [Ark.] 83 S. W. 326.

35. Omission of former auditors to enter and carry forward unpaid personal taxes. State v. Smith [Ohio] 72 N. E. 300.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1826.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1826, n. 49.

or penalty and costs.[38] A sale for an amount substantially in excess of the amount due renders the sale void.[39] Similarly where the sale is made under execution, as ordinary judgments are enforced, an excessive levy renders it void.[40] It is a question for the court whether a title is so defective that an adjudicatee at a sheriff's sale should be compelled to take it.[41]

(§ 12) C. Proceedings after sale.[42]—The sale is usually followed by the issue to the purchaser of a certificate which recites the fact of sale and states the time when the purchaser will be entitled to his conveyance.[43] Such certificate is assignable.[44]

A report of the sale[44a] by the officer making it is commonly provided for.[45]

After confirmation[45a] of a sale it and the deeds issued thereunder can be set aside only on the ground that the taxes were paid,[46] that the land was exempt from execution,[47] or for want of jurisdiction to enter the order of sale.[48] The 38. See 2 Curr. L. 1827. In Washington the board of county commissioners have the power to fix a minimum price below which county property shall not be sold. State v. Phillips, 36 Wash. 651, 79 P. 313. A tax purchaser who does not pay the state the price required by law gets no title. That a state official erred in his computation will not avail. The purchaser is bound to know the law. Hoffman v. Silverthorn [Mich.] 100 N. W. 183. A tax deed issued by the state upon premises acquired by the state under a tax sale is void if the amount paid therefor by the purchaser does not include the amount of the then due and delinquent subsequent tax. Chadbourne v. Hartz [Minn.] 101 N. W. 68.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1827, n. 58. Where fees charged and included in a tax sale are greater than allowed by law, the sale is void. Gabel v. Williams, 42 Misc. 475, 87 N. Y. S. 240. Judgment excessive by $9.86, costs erroneously taxed. Richcreek v. Russell [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 617. The intentional inclusion in the amount for which a tax sale is made of an unauthorized penalty of six cents will invalidate the sale. Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1049. Amount excessive by $1.85. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946. Where a fee was charged for the issuance of a certificate, which was not included in the notice in the sum for which the property was sold, the certificate was illegally issued and the purchaser could recover the purchase price (Tacoma city charter). Gove v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 434, 76 P. 73. Inclusion of certificate fee of 25c. Kirker v. Daniels [Ark.] 83 S. W. 912. Where the officers collected $7 when only $4 was authorized, sale was void. Moon v. Salt Lake County, 27 Utah, 435, 76 P. 222. County clerk not entitled to fees for recording tax certificate. Error of $3.25 not fatal. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 210 Ill. 453, 71 N. E. 340. A decree of a court of competent jurisdiction is not subject to a collateral attack because lands were sold thereunder for illegal penalties and costs. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249; Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1827, n. 59. Where land of the value of $3,800 was sold on an execution for $39.17 taxes, the sale was void. Richcreek v. Russell [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 617.

41. In a sale for taxes. Defect in description. Discrepancy of a few inches in measurement not sufficient. Getman v. Harrison, 112 La. 435, 36 So. 486.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1828.

43. The statute runs against a purchaser at delinquent tax sale from the day he was entitled to present his certificate to the county auditor and receive a deed. Wolcott v. Holland, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 604. The Arkansas statute of limitations (§ 4819) runs from the date of the deed and not from the date of sale and certificate of purchase. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946; Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703.

44. It is not essential to the validity of an assignment of a tax certificate by a county treasurer that the payment of the amount due shall be completed when the assignment is delivered. When the required payments are in fact made, the assignment becomes effective. Darling v. Purcell [N. D.] 100 N. W. 726.

44a. See 2 Curr. L. 1828.

45. In Arkansas the clerk of the county court is required to attend sales of land for taxes and make a record thereof, a copy of which he must transfer to the auditor of public accounts. Held, a mere report of such sale to the auditor was inadmissible as evidence of the facts stated therein. Wagner v. Arnold [Ark.] 80 S. W. 577. The report of sale required by West Virginia Code 1887, c. 31, §§ 11, 12, need not have a column for the day of sale, nor need it state the particular day of sale. Hornage v. Imboden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1036. A report of a tax sale unauthorized by law was not evidence that the land sold for the amounts named where there was no express statement of the fact, though it was admitted in evidence without objection. Wagner v. Arnold [Ark.] 80 S. W. 577.

45a. See 2 Curr. L. 1828.

46. Rumsey v. Auditor General [Mich.] 101 N. W. 623.

47. The fact that petitioner's land was traversed by a railroad right of way which was not excepted from the description of his premises was but an irregularity cured by the decree. Smith v. Auditor General [Mich.] 101 N. W. 807; Flint Land Co. v. Godkin [Mich.] 99 N. W. 1058.

48. Rumsey v. Griffin [Mich.] 101 N. W. 571. Under this rule an erroneous computation of interest, making the decree of sale excessive, was merely an irregularity, for which the sale would not be set aside. Smith v. Auditor General [Mich.] 101 N. W. 807.

fact that an applicant for the confirmation of a tax title had agreed to sell the land as soon as he procured the decree of confirmation did not deprive the court of jurisdiction to confirm the tax title.[40] Under the Arkansas Act of 1901, where a sale to the state was reported to the court by the commissioner and was confirmed, the sale was complete without any certificate to the county clerk and by him to the commissioner of state lands.[50]

The deed,[50a] it has been said, is the last act in the execution of the statutory power of sale,[51] and all conditions precedent must be complied with before it can lawfully be given.[52] The deed should conform to the statute in the formalities of execution, such as signing, sealing, witnessing, and acknowledgment.[53] Statutes prescribing the form of a deed call for only substantial compliance.[54] The description of the premises, however, must be accurately given.[55] What recitals the deed shall contain may or may not be determined by the statute of the state.[56] A deed reciting that notice was given when in fact none was given is void and confers no title.[57] In Louisiana, defective recitals in tax deeds are cured by constitutional prescriptions.[58] At common law a tax deed would prove its own execution, nothing more. Whoever claims lands therefor under a sale for delinquent taxes must take upon himself the burden of proving that taxes were duly assessed, which were a charge upon the land, and that the successive steps were taken which led to a lawful sale therefor, at which he or some one under whom he claims became the purchaser.[59] To obviate this difficulty, statutes have been passed in most if not all the states, which go to various lengths in making deeds evidence, some making a tax deed prima facie evidence only of Omission of six inch strip from the description on the assessment roll did not deprive of jurisdiction. Keho v. Auditor General [Mich.] 101 N. W. 809.

49. Ingram v. Sherwood's Heirs [Ark.] 87 S. W. 435.

50. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249.

50a. See 2 Curr. L. 1828.

51. Cooley, Taxation [3d. Ed.] p. 992.

52. A tax deed vests title only when all of the requirements of law have been complied with by the officers charged with the duty of assessing and collecting taxes. Richcreek v. Russell [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 617.

53. Sealing and acknowledgment. Laughlin v. Kieper [Wis.] 103 N. W. 264. A tax deed not signed, witnessed or acknowledged by the persons designated by statute, is not prima facie evidence of title. Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1049. A tax deed must be either acknowledged or proven before it can be recorded. If recorded without such acknowledgment or proof, it passes no title. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828. Under the Illinois Revenue Act, § 221, prescribing the form of a tax deed and providing that such deed by the county clerk under the official seal of his office shall be recorded in the same manner as other conveyances of real estate, without further acknowledgment or evidence of such conveyance, it is not necessary that tax deeds be acknowledged. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 210 Ill. 453, 71 N. E. 340.

54. A recital that the sale was made at the office of the county treasurer complies with a statutory requirement that the sale be made at the seat of justice of the county. Washburn Land Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 546. Sealing and acknowledgment held sufficient. Laughlin v. Kieper [Wis.] 103 N. W. 264.

55. The assessment roll cannot aid the description in the deed when it contains a patent ambiguity. Smith v. Brothers [Miss.] 38 So. 353. Where the description in a tax deed is insufficient to identify the land sold, nothing passes by virtue of the tax sale. Levy v. Gause, 112 La. 789, 36 So. 684. A tax deed which covers several disconnected tracts of land and fails to state the amount for which each separate tract was conveyed is invalid upon its face, and may be set aside on that ground, even after the lapse of five years from the time it was recorded. Gibson v. Kueffer, 69 Kan. 534, 77 P. 282. In a tax deed reciting the sale of several disconnected tracts, the use in the granting clause of the words "and each and every separate tract and parcel thereof" in addition to the statutory form designating the property conveyed as "the real property last hereinbefore described" indicates a purpose to convey all of the land sold. Id.

56. Tax deed held to be valid on its face, as it recited compliance with the statutory requirements. Silver Queen Min. Co. v. Crocker [Ariz.] 76 P. 479. Where the recital in a tax deed shows a sale to the county and a deed obtained by virtue of the sale to the county, the deed must contain a recital to show the right of the county to purchase at such tax sale, and unless such deed contains such recital, it is void on its face. Wade v. Crouch, 14 Okl. 593, 78 P. 91.

57. Succession of Williams v. Chaplain, 112 La. 1075, 36 So. 859.

58. The period is 3 years. Levy v. Gause, 112 La. 789, 36 So. 684.

59. Cooley, Taxation [3d Ed.] p. 1004.

the facts therein recited,[60] others making it prima facie evidence of the regularity of all the proceedings leading up to and including the sale,[61] while still others undertake to make the deed conclusive evidence of some or all the antecedent proceedings.[62] Such a statute is a pure statute of limitation and affected by the disability of infancy of plaintiffs.[63] Where a tax deed is thus made prima facie evidence of title, the burden is cast upon a contestant to defeat its effect.[64] In a suit in which complainants base their title on a tax collector's deed made an exhibit to the bill, it is error not to admit and consider such deed.[65] The validity of a tax deed is to be tested by the statute in force when the sale was made.[66] The validity of a tax deed good upon its face may be put in issue by an unverified pleading.[67] Where, under the facts disclosed, it was the duty of the auditor general to issue a certificate of error to recall a sale of state tax land, mandamus was the proper remedy to compel such action on his refusal to issue the same.[68] The curative provisions as to tax sales in section 25, c. 31, of the West Virginia Code of 1899, apply to purchases by the state of land sold for taxes.[69]

§ 13. Redemption.[70]—The statutory right of redemption differs essentially

60. Under the statutory law of Colorado, a tax deed is prima facie evidence that the property described therein was subject to taxation. Mitchell v. Denver [Colo.] 78 P. 686. In Illinois a tax deed is only color of title, and prima facie evidence of certain facts enumerated in the statute, and is not sufficient to pass title unless accompanied by the notice required by statute. Glos v. Mulcahy, 210 Ill. 639, 71 N. E. 629. A deed of the Arkansas state land commissioner makes a prima facie case in favor of the validity of a tax. Hill v. Denton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 402. A certified copy of a tax judgment sale is prima facie evidence of the facts therein recited. Tifft v. Greene, 211 Ill. 389, 71 N. E. 1030.

61. Wall v. Holladay-Klotz Land & Lumber Co., 175 Mo. 406, 75 S. W. 385. The Michigan "graduation act" of 1881 (P. A. 1881, No. 229) did not do away with the prima facie effect of tax deeds. Hoffman v. H. M. Loud & Sons Lumber Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1010. See, also, Lever v. Grant [Mich.] 102 N. W. 843, rehearing denied 12 Det. Leg. N. 224, 103 N. W. 843. In Ohio the auditor's deed to a purchaser at delinquent tax sale is not prima facie evidence of a good and valid title, as provided in section 2827, unless it appear that the preliminary proceedings on the part of the county auditor and treasurer were regular and in conformity with the statutes governing such sales. Wolcott v. Holland, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 604. Where, under a statute making a tax deed prima facie evidence of the regularity of the prior proceedings, plaintiff introduces in evidence the tax deed, and defendant then introduces testimony to show the tax deed void, a motion to strike out the tax deed is properly overruled. The proper course is for the defendant to request the court to charge upon the legal effect of his evidence. Ropes v. Minshew [Fla.] 36 So. 579.

62. Under section 29, c. 31, West Virginia Code of 1899, a tax deed is conclusive evidence against strangers to the tax sale to show that such title as was sold as delinquent was vested in the person in whose name it was sold. State v. Jackson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 465.

63. Jones v. Boykin [S. C.] 49 S. E. 877. Regularity of proceedings must be shown to establish title under tax sales; auditor's deed not prima facie evidence of valid title, unless statute of limitations runs against the purchaser from the date he was entitled to receive a deed. Wolcott v. Holland, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 604.

64. Skelton v. Sharp, 161 Ind. 383, 67 N. E. 535. Under the Missouri statute making a tax bill prima facie evidence of the regularity of antecedent proceedings, the burden is on defendant to establish the contrary. State v. Vogelsang, 183 Mo. 17, 81 S. W. 1087. Where the statutory affidavit was not filed the prima facie effect given a tax deed by Ky. St. 1894, § 4030, was overcome and the sale was invalid. Leszinsky v. Le Grand, 26 Ky. L. R. 1235, 83 S. W. 1038. Where the want of notice is alleged in answer to a claim of ownership under a tax title, and the deed or no extraneous evidence shows that notice was given, the deed is not prima facie evidence as against one who claims in opposition to the tax title. In re Lafferranderie [La.] 37 So. 990. Demurrer to bill based upon such deeds held to have been improperly sustained. Coffee v. Coleman [Miss.] 37 So. 499.

65. Wallace v. Lyle [Miss.] 37 So. 460.

66. Unless there is some expression in a later act denoting an intendment that the later act should operate retrospectively. Blackburn v. Lewis [Or.] 77 P. 746. Whether the legislature can pass an act curing defects in a past tax deed which rendered it void by the law in force at its date, quaere. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

67. Curtis v. Schmehr, 69 Kan. 124, 76 P. 434.

68. Hoffman v. Auditor General [Mich.] 100 N. W. 180.

69. State v. McEldowney, 54 Va. 695, 47 S. E. 650, overruling point 3 of the syllabus in McGhee v. Sampselle, 47 W. Va. 352, 34 S. E. 815.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1830.

from the equity of redemption proper. It is usually self-executing, and, to enjoy the benefit thereof, no proceedings are ordinarily required to be had in the courts to make such right effective.[71]

The right of redemption,[72] especially in the case of minors and persons under disability,[73] is highly favored, and statutes conferring it have always been accorded liberal construction.[74] It is within the power of the legislature, however, after an assessment has been made, and before the sale, to prescribe the conditions under which redemption may be had if the premises taxed are sold; and acts of this character are not considered unconstitutional as impairing any vested or contractual rights that might be acquired by a purchaser.[75]

Redemption gives no new title; it simply relieves the land from the sale which had been made.[76]

Any one having an interest making it his duty to pay the tax may redeem,[77] and it has been held that a mere stranger on behalf of the owner may redeem,[78] and that such voluntary redemption may be ratified by the owner.[79]

The statutory right must be exercised within the time prescribed;[80] and since the legislature has power from time to time to change the mode of enfor-

71. Logan County v. McKinley-Lanning Loan & Trust Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 991. This right or privilege is given by statute to the owner of the equity of redemption or his grantee. Carly v. Boner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 761. Where vacant and unoccupied lands are redeemed from a tax sale after the issuance of a tax deed, no action is necessary to entitle the legal owner to take possession. Hoffmann v. Peterson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 47.

72. Statutes for redemption are to be liberally construed to attain the end. Mosser v. Moore [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 537.

73. Cain v. Brown, 54 W. Va. 656, 46 S. E. 579; Hoffmann v. Peterson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 47. For further cases of redemption by infants, see this section, "Period for redemption."

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1830, n. 93. Where plaintiffs if not intentionally misled by defendant himself, acted in the erroneous belief that the taxes on their property were being paid as they became due, and in ignorance of the sale, they will be allowed to redeem on the ground of mistake. O'Callaghan v. Lancy [Mass.] 73 N. E. 551.

75. Rogers v. Nichols [Mass.] 71 N. E. 950.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1830, n. 3. Where land is sold for taxes, the purchaser during the time allowed for redemption has a statutory lien on the land for taxes, costs, and interest, which is discharged by payment of the taxes and charges within the redemption period. Beck v. Meroney, 135 N. C. 532, 47 S. E. 613. Where an insolvent husband's land goes to tax sale and his wife purchases, the purchase will be treated in favor of his creditors as a redemption. Herrin v. Henry [Ark.] 87 S. W. 430.

77. By minor after disability removed. Hodges v. Harkleroad [Ark.] 85 S. W. 779. Payment of taxes under a void donation deed from the state gives the grantee a lien on the land for the taxes paid, and such an interest therein as entitles him to redeem from a tax sale. Smith v. Thornton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1008. A tax deed issued after the property has passed into the hands of a receiver appointed by a court is ineffectual to cut off the receiver's right of redemption. Johnson v. Southern B. & L. Ass'n, 132 F. 540. Where land assessed to the heirs of a deceased person becomes delinquent for nonpayment of taxes, and, before sale for such delinquency, partition thereof is made among the heirs, and part of the land allotted to one of the heirs is purchased by a stranger at the tax sale, any of those who shared in the partition, and against whom the tax was assessed, may redeem. Cain v. Brown, 54 W. Va. 656, 46 S. E. 579. Almost any right, either at law or in equity, perfect or inchoate, in possession or in action, or whether in the nature of a charge or encumbrance on the land, amounts to such an ownership as will entitle the party holding to redeem. Smith v. Thornton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1008, citing Woodward v. Campbell, 39 Ark. 580. One who claims the right to redeem by virtue of a donation deed may rely on the deed alone, and if the donation title is valid he can redeem whether he has paid taxes or made improvements or not; but if the donation title is itself void, he must show such facts in order to entitle him to redeem. Snider v. Smith [Ark.] 87 S. W. 624.

78. Any one may, for the advantage of the owner of the property, act as his negotiorum gestor, and make payment of redemption money; this even without his knowledge. State v. Register of Conveyances [La.] 36 So. 900.

79. An owner may ratify unauthorized redemption by stranger. Sloan v. Cobb [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1126.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1831, n. 6. Article 9, section 3, of the Nebraska constitution, providing for two years' time within which to redeem from tax sales, applies to judicial as well as administrative sales. Selby v. Pueppka [Neb.] 102 N. W. 263. Under a statute providing that real property sold for taxes may be redeemed at any time before the expiration of three years from sale is valid where it appears from evidence aliunde that it was not delivered until after expiration of the required three years. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19.

cing the collection of delinquent taxes, it may shorten the period of redemption, provided it leaves a reasonable time within which to exercise the privilege.[81] Persons under disability are permitted to redeem usually within some prescribed time after the removal of the disability.[82]

It is usually required of an owner who seeks to redeem that he repay to the tax purchaser the amount the latter advanced to the state to obtain title,[83] together with costs[84] and necessary expenditures for improvements while in possession,[85] and subsequent taxes paid by him.[86] Steps to redeem must be timely taken.[87] Certificates of redemption are proper evidence as to the amounts paid to redeem from tax sales.[88] Where land conveyed to an assignee in bankruptcy was sold by city to pay taxes and surplus paid to the assignee, the city was not liable therefor to a subsequent purchaser on redemption.[89]

Upon the owner making proper tender, the tax purchaser's interest in the land is at an end.[90] A small deficiency in the amount of money tendered, attributable to mistake, will not vitiate the tender,[91] and actual production of the money in offering to redeem is not necessary, when the purchaser declines to allow redemption on the ground that the party is not entitled to redeem.[92]

The notice of the expiration of the period of redemption required in some 81. Allen v. Peterson [Wash.] 80 P. 849.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1831, n. 8. Under the Arkansas statute, giving the owner of land sold for taxes two years in which to redeem, a minor or insane person whose land is sold for taxes is entitled to redeem within two years after the disability is removed (Smith v. Thornton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1008), and the right is not affected by failure to make tender, where the right to redeem was denied. (Hodges v. Harkleroad [Ark.] 85. S. W. 779.) One year in West Virginia. Cain v. Brown, 54 W. Va. 656, 46 S. E. 579. The right of redemption given to a minor by Wisconsin Rev. St. 1898, § 1166, is not impaired by the fact that a deed has been issued. Hoffmann v. Peterson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 47.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1831, n. 10. The expression "delinquent taxes" as used in subd. 3, § 1602, Minnesota Gen. St. 1894, relating to the amount required to redeem from tax sale, construed to mean all taxes that are overdue and unpaid in fact. Jenswold v. Minnesota Canal Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 603. Under statute allowing property owners two years to redeem from sale by paying double the amount of the sale price, inadequacy of price at sale is no ground for setting it aside. Ross v. Drouilhet [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 241. The Minnesota requirement that the amount for which land is sold on a tax sale shall be stated in the auditor's notice of expiration of redemption is mandatory [Gen. St. 1894, § 1654]. State v. Scott, 92 Minn. 210, 99 N. W. 799. The statute providing that interest shall be paid to the time of redemption enters into the transaction and makes the amount required to redeem definite and certain. Roessler v. Romer, 92 Minn. 218, 99 N. W. 800. Where a sheriff as ex officio tax collector erroneously computed the amount necessary to redeem land from tax sale, and the tax debtor paid the amount demanded by the sheriff, such payment constituted a redemption, the debtor being entitled to rely on the statement of the state's officer as to the amount due. Beck v. Meroney, 135 N. C. 532, 47 S. E. 613.

84. On redemption of several parcels the clerk can charge only one fee for a redemption receipt, the law warranting no more. Plyley v. Allison [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 475.

85. Succession of Williams v. Chaplain, 112 La. 1075, 36 So. 859. The Michigan statute (Comp. L. 1897, § 3927), allowing purchasers to recover for improvements, includes homestead purchases (Platz v. Englehardt [Mich.] 101 N. W. 849), but (under § 10,995) no claim for improvements can be enforced by defendants who have not been in possession for six years and have not occupied the premises under color of title (Boucher v. Trembley [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 187, 103 N. W. 819). In Arkansas color of title as well as good faith is made necessary to entitle an occupant of lands to compensation for improvements made by him. A bond for title is not color of title. Beasley v. Equitable Securities Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 224.

86. In re Lindner, 113 La. 772, 37 So. 720; Govern v. Russ [Iowa] 100 N. W. 325. Missouri Act March 6, 1903 (Laws 1903, pp. 254, 255), requiring offer of refund to defendant of taxes paid by him, applies only to future sales. Petring v. Current River Land & Cattle Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 933.

87. Lapse of 13 years after acquirement of void tax title and payment of taxes during that time is insufficient evidence of laches in suit to redeem from void sale. Jackson v. Boyd [Ark.] 87 S. W. 126.

88. Arneson v. Haldane, 105 Ill. App. 589.

89. Gavenesch v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 59 A. 25.

90. Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639; Glos v. Dyche, 214 Ill. 417, 73 N. E. 757. Tender by attorney representing two claimants. Cook v. Franklin [Ark.] 83 S. W. 325. The payment of redemption money to the sheriff in the form of a check, which was cashed and the money tendered to the tax purchaser, which was refused, the fact that the sheriff received the check instead of money did not make against the sufficiency of the tender. Beck v. Meroney, 135 N. C. 532, 47 S. E. 613.

91. Mosser v. Moore [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 537.

92. Cain v. Brown, 54 W. Va. 656, 46 S. E. 579.

states must conform strictly to the statutes,[93] and is to be tested by the statute in force at the time of the sale.[94] Failure to give the notice vitiates the deed if one is subsequently issued.[95]

§ 14. Tax titles. Who may purchase.[96]—One who is under the obligation to pay taxes cannot directly or indirectly purchase at a sale, caused by his own default, and thereby acquire title to the property sold.[97] Thus, the trustee of a minor,[98] a life tenant,[99] one acting as the agent of another,[1] a purchaser at a sheriff's sale,[2] and the parties to a mortgage,[3] are all within the reason of the rule. But a sale for taxes is not invalidated because the purchaser is the wife of the collector conducting the sale, in the absence of fraud or irregularity.[4]

Purchaser's rights and estate.[4a]—The purchaser at a tax sale has, during the period allowed for redemption, and before receiving his deed, no estate in the land;[5] he has but a lien for the repayment of the purchase money, interest and charges.[6] One who buys land from another who pur-

93. Notice to owner of fee, though addressed to him as "mortgagee," is sufficient. Bradley v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 625. The New York Forest Preserve Commission is an occupant within the meaning of the statute of that state, requiring that where land is sold for taxes notice shall be given to the occupant to redeem before a deed is given [Laws 1896, p. 842, c. 908, § 134]. People v. Kelsey [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 524, reversing 96 App. Div. 148, 89 N. Y. S. 416. A notice which falls to include in the statement of the amount required to redeem the amount for which the land was thus bid in for the state is fatally defective. Jenswold v. Minnesota Canal Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 603. The stating, in a final redemption notice, of a sum substantially greater than the amount of taxes charged and interest calculated to the last day of redemption as being due on a parcel of land and unnecessary for its redemption from tax sale will make voidable a tax deed issued by virtue of such sale and notice if attached in time. Shinkle v. Meek, 69 Kan. 368, 76 P. 837. A return of service failing to show either the place or time of acceptance of service the notice is insufficient. Barcroft v. Mann [Iowa] 101 N. W. 276. A statute providing that the owner shall be entitled to a four-months notice by the tax purchaser before the right of redemption ceases does not apply to one whose right of redemption has already expired when the statute is enacted. Harrison v. Thomas [Va.] 49 S. E. 485.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1832, n. 18. Roessler v. Romer, 92 Minn. 218, 99 N. W. 800.

95. Foy v. Houstman [Iowa] 103 N. W. 369.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1832. See Tiffany, Real Property, 1063.

97. One not the owner nor in possession under claim of title is under no obligation to pay the taxes, merely because asserting an interest adverse to the legal owners. Palmer v. Ozark Land Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 408. The real owner of property may buy it at a tax sale made to satisfy taxes assessed against the ostensible owner, and the property will pass to him free of the mortgages consented upon it by the ostensible owner as a fraud upon him; he owes no duty either to the ostensible owner or to the latter's mortgagee to pay the tax. Hillard v. Taylor [La.] 38 So. 594.

98. Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639.

99. Jeffers v. Sydnam, 129 Mich. 440, 89 N. W. 42.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1832, n. 20. State v. Goldberg's Unknown Heirs [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 717. Where the husband, whilst acting as the agent of his wife, becomes the adjudicatee at tax sale of property belonging in indivision to her and her co-heirs, in a succession of which she is administratrix, he acquires no title thereto adverse to that of the owners, and the prescription quieting tax titles and titles acquired at public sales has no application. Alexander v. Light, 112 La. 925, 36 So. 806.

2. Gibson v. Gilman [Kan.] 80 P. 587.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1832, n. 19.

Mortgagee: Ross v. Frick Co. [Ark.] 83 S. W. 343; Shepard v. Vincent [Wash.] 80 P. 777. In states where the mortgagee has merely a lien on the mortgaged property, so long as the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee exists, the latter cannot as against the former acquire title to the property by virtue of a tax sale. It is conclusively presumed that the disbursements on account of taxes were made to redeem and protect the property. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14. A mortgagor who has expressly covenanted to pay the taxes on mortgaged premises is not thereby prohibited from acquiring a tax title thereon, if the same does not affect interests or rights arising from or accruing under the mortgage. Ross v. Cale [Minn.] 103 N. W. 561.

4. Means v. Haley [Miss.] 38 So. 506.

4a. See 2 Curr. L. 1832.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1833. Title does not become absolute until period of redemption has expired. Adkin v. Pillen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 176. The title of the purchaser at a tax sale is not the same as that of the owner in whose name the land was sold. They are separate hostile claims with no privity between them. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828. A purchaser at a tax sale of property charged on the land book as part of a certain town lot acquires by virtue of the provisions of sec. 25, c. 31, West Va. Code 1899, the right, title, and estate of the person so charged in and to the entire lot by obtaining a deed therefor under such purchase. Cain v. Fisher [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 752.

6. He cannot therefore maintain an action chased the same at a tax sale, and subsequently brings an action to recover it from a third person in possession, is not, in the event he fails to recover, entitled to a lien on the property for the amount of the purchase price which he paid to the original holder of the tax title.[7] This lien, however, if not cut off in some manner recognized by law, will ultimately ripen into ownership,[8] and where tax leases were purchased from a city, the title of the purchaser thereunder vested from the date of the lease.[9] The purchaser gets a title clear of all prior incumbrances, easements or other rights,[10] except the state's claim for the taxes of prior years.[11] Where the surface of land is owned by one person and the oil in place by another, a sale for taxes in the name of the owner of the surface will pass also the oil still in the ground.[12] The rule of caveat emptor applies to the purchase of lands at a tax sale,[13] and in a proceeding to register a land title, a claimant under a tax deed must establish its validity;[14] but where a tax deed is set aside for irregularity, the holder thereof is entitled to a lien on the land for the taxes on account of which it was sold and for any other taxes that may have been paid on the land subsequently.[15] A sale of land as seated but in fact unseated at time of assessment is void and passes no title to purchaser.[16]

Possession.[16a]—The tax purchaser is not entitled to possession until expiration of the period of redemption,[17] but in the case of wild and unoccupied lands, constructive possession is conferred by the deed.[18] Kirby's Dig. § 5057, providing that unimproved lands shall be deemed in possession of the person who pays the taxes thereon, if he have color of title thereto, applies only to those cases where such constructive possession is conclusive.[19] Generally, possession under a tax deed to recover the possession of timber cut on the land before the issuing of the tax deed. Millard v. Breckwoldt, 90 N. Y. S. 890. All sales under chapter 67, North Dakota Laws 1897 are subject to redemption, and until the right of redemption is eliminated, the sheriff's certificate of sale is evidence of a lien only. Cruser v. Williams [N. D.] 100 N. W. 721. The fact that a street was laid through property formerly described as a single tract, the same description being used in all the tax proceedings, will not operate to defeat a tax lien or prevent recovery by one who paid the taxes. Douglass v. Byers, 69 Kan. 59, 76 P. 432.

7. Maddox v. Arthur [Ga.] 50 S. E. 668.

8. Under the North Dakota Laws, the certificate of sale is the only muniment of title and title passes by operation of law when the redemption period has expired and not before. Cruser v. Williams [N. D.] 100 N. W. 721; Darling v. Purcell [N. D.] 100 N. W. 726. When a person's property is sold at tax sale, the owner is not ipso facto deprived of the ownership and the legal possession thereof, though the adjudicatee acquires certain rights in respect to the property, which if not cut off by redemption will ripen into ownership. State v. Register of Conveyances [La.] 36 So. 900.

9. Sherman v. Fisher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 572.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1833, n. 25. Under Arkansas statutes, title to land sold to the state for taxes vested in the state and was not affected by failure of the clerk to file a proper transcript in the auditor's office. Wagner v. Arnold [Ark.] 80 S. W. 577. The purchaser at a sale under a judgment providing that the sale shall be subject to the liens for unpaid taxes not recovered by the judgment takes subject to such liens. Burton v. Louisville [Ky.] 85 S. W. 727.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1833, n. 26. Berger v. Multnomah County [Or.] 78 P. 224. A city had property adjudicated to it for taxes. It did not take possession but continued to assess it to the tax debtor. It was sold for later assessments and the purchaser paid taxes thereon for several years on assessments made in his name. Held, that the city was estopped to assert its claim for taxes on the prior assessments. State v. New Orleans, 112 La. 408, 36 So. 475.

12. Peterson v. Hall [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 603.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1834, n. 32. The state can transfer only such title and such rights as she had. In re Lafferranderie [La.] 37 So. 990. A purchaser of land from a county, which the latter had acquired under a tax sale, cannot recover of the county the price paid on the ground that the tax certificate was void because of alleged error in the description. Minnesota L. & Inv. Co. v. Beadle County [S. D.] 101 N. W. 29. An execution for municipal taxes, not describing any particular property, but simply directing the seizure of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of "the estate of A. J. Miller," is void and a purchaser at a sale under such levy obtains no title. Miller v. Brooks, 120 Ga. 232, 47 S. E. 646.

14. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 222, 72 N. E. 1; Glos v. Mickow, 211 Ill. 117, 71 N. E. 830.

15. Paine v. Palmborg [Colo. App.] 79 P. 330.

16. Jackson v. Gunton, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

16a. See 2 Curr. L. 1833.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1833, n. 30.

18. The execution of a tax deed on vacant property is insufficient to give the grantee constructive possession. Mitchell v. Titus [Colo.] 80 P. 1042.

19. Towson v. Denson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 661.

for the statutory period will confer an absolute title,[20] and adverse possession may be invoked to cut off a tax title held by a city;[21] but bare lapse of time is insufficient to cure defects in an invalid tax title.[22] In some states a summary proceeding is provided by statute.[23] In others, the purchaser is entitled to some possessory action, such as ejectment.[24] In Wisconsin the owner of unoccupied land may bring ejectment therefor against the person in whom the title appears of record at the commencement of the action.[25] Usually before process for the possession of land can issue, a notice must be given to the grantee in the last recorded deed, either personally or by publication.[26] In some jurisdictions the purchaser may conclude the former owner, or those claiming under him, by a foreclosure of the tax lien,[27] while in others he may file a bill in equity to quiet his title.[28]

Cancellation and quieting title.[28a]—When the proceedings through which property has been subjected to sale for taxes are materially affected with fraud or irregularity, the owner may[29] within the period prescribed by statute,[30] maintain an action or writ to set aside or cancel the

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1834, n. 38. Where adverse claimants both rely on void tax deeds, the position of the party in possession is superior to that of the party seeking to recover possession. Rhea v. McWilliams [Ark.] 84 S. W. 726. A tax or assessment lease is not a written instrument of conveyance within Code Civ. Proc. § 369, such that adverse possession may be based thereon. Miller v. Warren, 94 App. Div. 192, 87 N. Y. S. 1011.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1835, n. 39. Cass Farm Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 848.

22. Jackson v. Boyd [Ark.] 87 S. W. 126.

23. Utica (N. Y.) city charter provides for summary proceedings the same as in case of a tenant holding over after expiration of his term. Gabel v. Williams, 42 Misc. 475, 87 N. Y. S. 240. The purchaser, in order to maintain summary proceedings against an occupant must first obtain a deed in the manner provided by law. Id.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1835, n. 40. Wade v. Crouch, 14 Okl. 593, 78 P. 91; Kreamer v. Vonelda, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 347.

25. Stephenson v. Doolittle [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1041.

26. If diligent and honest effort to make personal service be not made, substituted service is ineffectual to bar right to redeem. Winters v. Cook [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 228, 103 N. W. 869. The inclusion of a right of way in a statutory notice by the tax purchaser is no defense by such tax purchaser to quiet title. Flint Land Co. v. Godkin [Mich.] 99 N. W. 1058.

27. A tax foreclosure cuts off the lien of a local improvement assessment. Both as to matured and unmatured instalments. Pennsylvania Co. v. Tacoma, 36 Wash. 656, 79 P. 306. It is not necessary that the city be made a party to the foreclosure proceeding; the statute requiring notice only to the owner of the property. Id. The fact that there was no record of proof that the treasurer gave notice by publication that the tax books had been turned over to him was a mere irregularity, not invalidating the foreclosure proceedings. Washington Timber & Loan Co. v. Smith, 34 Wash. 625, 76 P. 267.

28. The purpose of the Louisiana act of 1898, no. 101, p. 127 is to enable a tax purchaser to quiet his title by bringing suit against the real party in interest. Such suit may be properly brought, though not brought against the person to whom the property was assessed when sold if such assessment was erroneous and such person neither has nor pretends to have any interest in the title. Slattery v. Kellum [La.] 38 So. 170. Neither such act nor the jurisprudence of the state requires that a tax purchaser suing under such act to quiet his title shall allege possession in himself or want of possession in the defendant. Id. Where the former owner who is brought into court in an action to quiet tax title prima facie valid makes no attack thereon, such title becomes conclusively valid. Lisso & Bro. v. Unknown Owner [La.] 38 So. 282. Plaintiff having a donation deed from the state, which claimed under a sale for taxes that was in fact void, could not maintain a suit to quiet title against one having color of title. St. Louis Refrigerator & Wooden Gutter Co. v. Thornton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 852. In a suit to quiet title, evidence that plaintiff once went upon the land and directed another to put up a fence, which was done, though the fence was not a substantial one, sufficiently showed possession entitling him to maintain the suit. Bland v. Windsor [Mo.] 86 S. W. 162. A grantee who received his deed August 24, 1900, and commenced suit January, 22, 1901, to quiet title, was not guilty of laches. Id.

28a. See 2 Curr. L. 1837.

29. A grantee of land under a deed subject "to all unpaid taxes and sales for the same" was not thereby estopped to deny the validity of a tax sale, where the assessment on which the sale was based was wholly void. Blackburn v. Lewis [Or.] 77 P. 746.

30. Laches may preclude a taxpayer from maintaining a suit to open the tax sale decrees. Bending v. Auditor General [Mich.] 100 N. W. 777. Owner not estopped after lapse of 16 years to assert title to land sold under void sale. Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 341. Tax sales and certificates issued for municipal improvements are within the application of Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 1210h, providing that no action shall be brought to cancel tax certificate after one year from date of sale. Hamar v. Leihy [Wis.] 102 N. W. 568.

sale or deed.[31] He must show title in himself,[32] and should tender the amount of taxes and disbursements where the sale or deed is vacated for mere irregularity;[33] but an assessment and sale thereunder being void, the payment of the taxes by the purchaser is the act of a mere volunteer, and the landowner is not bound to pay the taxes and interest so paid as a condition to have the tax deeds vacated.[34] A tender is not necessary as a prerequisite to the maintenance of an action to set aside such tax deed.[35] The owner may likewise sue to quiet his title. It must not only be alleged that the complainant is the owner of the premises, but also either that he is in possession of the premises at the time of filing the bill, or that the premises are vacant and unoccupied when the bill is filed.[36] In such suit it is incumbent upon him to allege and prove the invalidity of the tax deed.[37] Here again he must do equity by reimbursing the tax purchaser for such sums as he may have paid to become possessed of the tax title.[38]

The state in a suit to quiet title may question the validity of defendant's title under a tax deed, although the irregularities complained of were committed by the state's agents and officers.[39]

§ 15. Inheritance and transfer taxes.[40]—The theory on which taxation of this kind on the devolution of estates is based, and their constitutionality sustained,[41] is clearly established, and is founded on two principles: (1) A succes-

31. Money sent to county treasurer to pay taxes and misapplied by him, resulting in sale of land to state, entitles taxpayer to cancellation of tax deed without payment of original tax as pre-requisite to cancellation. Kent v. Auditor General [Mich.] 101 N. W. 805.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1837, n. 59. In proceedings under the Burnt Records Act of Illinois, the holder of a tax title, who is made a defendant, has the burden of showing the validity of his title if he asserts its validity [Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 1484, c. 115]. Glos v. Kelly, 212 Ill. 632, 72 N. E. 378.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1837. When a tax deed is vacated for irregularity in the proceedings of record, where the land is chargeable with taxes, the owner must as a condition precedent to the vacation of the deed pay the purchaser what is required to be paid by state. Mosser v. Moore [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 537. Though a tax deed does not pass title because of irregularity, the grantee acquires the lien of the state and may be granted the compensation provided by statute in such case for outlays. Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1049. Where, in an action to recover land sold for taxes, there was no verdict but there was a finding, such finding took the place of a verdict and defendant's right to 15 per cent. interest terminated at the date of the finding. Pinkerton v. J. L. Gates Land Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 841.

34. Paine v. Germantown Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 527; Wade v. Crouch, 14 Okl. 593, 78 P. 91; State v. McEldowney, 54 Va. 695, 47 S. E. 650.

35. Shinkle v. Meek, 69 Kan. 368, 76 P. 837. Where plaintiff in a suit to cancel a tax deed tendered to defendant all he was entitled to receive, which defendant refused, the latter was properly charged with such costs as were made necessary by the refusal. Glos v. Stern, 213 Ill. 325, 72 N. E. 1057.

36. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714. A suit to cancel alleged fraudulent and void decrees and deeds as a cloud upon title to land cannot be maintained by those having no present interest in or title to such land, either legal or equitable. Stockton v. Craig [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 386. Where a bill specifically described the tax deed sought to be set aside, and the answer admitted that defendant had derived some interest in the premises by the tax deed, and alleged that the deed described in the complaint was valid, the existence of the deed was admitted, and it was unnecessary for plaintiff to offer it in evidence. Glos v. McKerlie, 212 Ill. 632, 72 N. E. 700.

37. State v. McEldowney, 54 Va. 695, 47 S. E. 650; Langlois v. People, 212 Ill. 75, 72 N. E. 28.

38. Plaintiff bound to pay or tender only the amount due when property was first sold to the county, together with taxes assessed and since matured, costs and expenses, and not the amount paid by the purchaser to the county at the time of sale. Young v. Droz [Wash.] 80 P. 810, following McManus v. Morgan [Wash.] 80 P. 786. Allegations of bill as to tender of taxes, costs and penalties held sufficient. McManus v. Morgan [Wash.] 80 P. 786.

39. State v. Coughran [S. D.] 103 N. W. 31. When the state is compelled to come into court to establish its title to property alleged to be wrongfully withheld or claimed by a defendant, the case is to be tried precisely as it would be between private individuals, except that in certain cases the statute of limitations is not applicable to the state, and laches cannot be imputed to it. Public Act 1899, No. 97, of Michigan, providing that the auditor general shall be made a party defendant to all proceedings instituted for the purpose of setting aside any sale for delinquent taxes, is not to be construed as expressing a waiver by the state of its constitutional immunity from suit in a United States court. It applies rather to proceedings in the courts of that state. Chandler v. Dix, 194 U. S. 590, 48 Law. Ed. 1129.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1838.

41. In re Magnes' Estate, 32 Colo. 527, 77

sion tax is a tax upon the right of succession to property, and not on the property itself;[42] (2) the right to take property by devise or descent is not one of the natural rights of man, but is the creature of the law. Accordingly it is held that the states may tax the privilege,[43] grant exemptions,[44] discriminate between relatives, and between these and strangers,[45] and are not precluded from the exercise of this power by constitutional provisions requiring uniformity and equality of taxation;[46] neither is it necessary to the validity of the tax that the state constitution should contain a specific delegation of power authorizing the legislature to impose such taxation.[47] Statutes imposing taxes of the kind in question, unless the contrary is distinctly expressed or is clearly to be implied, are prospective in character.[48] The imposition of a succession tax on property passing under the intestate laws is not a change in pre-existing laws of descent.[49]

The occasion[50] for the imposition of a tax of the kind in question arises, under the statutes of nearly if not all the states, upon the transfer or acquisition of any property, real or personal,[51] or of any interest therein or income therefrom,[52] in trust or otherwise,[53] either by will,[54] by the intestate law of the state, or by sale or gift made in contemplation of death,[55] or to take effect in use or enjoyment thereafter.[56]

P. 853; State v. Guilbert, 70 Ohio St. 229, 71 N. E. 636.

42. In re Hitchins' Estate, 43 Misc. 485, 89 N. Y. S. 472. Since the tax is imposed not upon the property, but upon the succession to or transfer of it, no tax can be collected where the beneficiary under a will renounces the legacy; but the succession thereon becomes taxable in accordance with the ultimate devolution of the property. In re Wolfe's Estate, 89 App. Div. 349, 85 N. Y. S. 949.

43. In re Magnes' Estate, 32 Colo. 527, 77 P. 853.

44. See, infra, this section.

45. A statute based upon the distinction as to inheritances between those of the direct line and collateral relations, sustained as constitutional. In re Campbell's Estate, 143 Cal. 623, 77 P. 674.

46. State v. Guilbert, 70 Ohio St. 229, 71 N. E. 636; In re Magnes' Estate, 32 Colo. 527, 77 P. 853. North Carolina Revenue Act 1903 (p. 323, c. 247), imposing a succession tax, is not void in that it imposes a tax on personalty only. In re Morris' Estate [N. C.] 50 S. E. 682.

47. In re Morris' Estate [N. C.] 50 S. E. 682.

48. Hence property passing under the will of a testator who died prior to the passage of an act was not subject to tax thereunder. Gilbertson v. Ballard [Iowa] 101 N. W. 108.

49. The inheritance tax law of Colorado is not unconstitutional as changing the law of descent by special act in contravention of Const. art. 5, § 25. In re Magnes' Estate, 32 Colo. 527, 77 P. 853.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1839.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1839, n. 80. The right to impose the tax does not depend on the nature or kind of property transferred. Tax on personal property only. In re Morris' Estate [N. C.] 50 S. E. 682. Securities of a deceased nonresident legatee having come into the possession of the personal representative are subject to the transfer tax. In re Clinch's Estate, 44 Misc. 190, 89 N. Y. S. 802. Money deposited with a broker by a nonresident to margin stock transactions which could be withdrawn at any time is subject to transfer tax. In re Daly's Estate, 91 N. Y. S. 858. Stocks in New York corporations, physically present in that state although held by a nonresident at the time of his death, are taxable under the transfer tax law. In re Clinch, 90 N. Y. S. 923.

52. Interests which have accrued before the passage of a transfer tax law cannot be subjected to a transfer tax. In re Craig's Estate, 97 App. Div. 289, 89 N. Y. S. 971.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1839, n. 81. In re Tracy, 179 N. Y. 501, 72 N. E. 519; People v. McCormick, 208 Ill. 437, 70 N. E. 350; Singer v. Guarantee Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 270. Property held in trust by provision made in a will becomes subject to an inheritance tax law, which has been enacted during continuance of the trust. Hostetter v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 337. Where testator creates a trust directing the income to be paid to the beneficiary during life, the taxes imposed must be charged to the income, to be paid before any payment to the beneficiary, and cannot be divided into annual payments based on the expectancy of the life of the annuitant. In re Tracy, 87 App. Div. 215, 83 N. Y. S. 1049.

54. Property passing by deed taking effect at grantor's death is subject to the tax. In re Skinner's Estate, 45 Misc. 559, 92 N. Y. S. 972.

55. Absolute conveyances, though without consideration, made three days before grantor submitted to contemplated surgical operation, from the effects of which he died, are in contemplation of death. Merrifield's Estate v. People, 212 Ill. 400, 72 N. E. 446. Gift by a husband to his wife 33 days before his death held to have been subject to tax under statute providing for the taxation of gifts made in contemplation of death [Laws 1895, p. 301]. Rosenthal v. People, 211 Ill. 306, 71 N. E. 1121. Property awarded a natural child in a suit for specific performance of a contract made in 1862, the intestate dying in 1900, not subject to the tax. In re Demers' Estate, 84 N. Y. S. 1109.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1839, n. 82. Where distribution is delayed for many years, and an inheritance tax law becomes operative in Powers of appointment.[57]—Exemptions[58] are usually granted in favor of the institutions exempt under the general tax laws,[59] and persons within certain degrees of consanguinity or affinity,[60] and, as there, one claiming an exemption has the burden of establishing his right thereto.[61] A statute exempting from the inheritance tax a life estate in property devised or bequeathed to testator's wife has no application where the wife renounces the provisions of the will.[62]

Jurisdiction[63] to impose the tax exists only where the person dying seized of the property is domiciled within the state,[64] or the property is within the state.[65]

When tax accrues.[66]—As to estates of present enjoyment, whether absolute or for a term of years, the tax accrues immediately upon the death of the decedent.[67] As to the time of accrual of the tax upon remainders, the prevailing rule appears to be that the tax does not become due until the property devised or bequeathed actually vests.[68] A tax not levied until after the repeal of the statute authorizing it is not collectible.[69]

Appraisal and collection.[70]—Proceedings to determine the liability of an es-the meantime, the shares are subject thereto. Hostetter v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 337.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1840.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1840, n. 90.

59. Boards and societies and auxiliaries thereto, which are incorporated and organized under the laws of other states for purposes of purely public charity, are not institutions of that class within the Ohio statute (§ 2731, Rev. St.), granting exemption. Humphreys v. State, 70 Ohio St. 67, 70 N. E. 957. A gift to a charitable institution is not subject to the inheritance tax in New Jersey. Gen. St. p. 3342. A society the purpose of which was to collect and preserve historical and current accounts was not an educational or charitable institution. In re Landis' Estate [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1039. U. S. bonds being exempt under the transfer tax act of 1892, a tax thereon, paid in 1895 by an executor was held illegal. In re Hoople, 87 N. Y. S. 842.

60. Uncle and niece held not to stand in relation of parent and child. In re Davis' Estate, 90 N. Y. S. 244.

61. In re Davis' Estate, 90 N. Y. S. 244. Petition for order declaring estate to be exempt held insufficient. In re Collins' Estate, 93 N. Y. S. 342.

62. Connell v. Crosby, 210 Ill. 380, 71 N. E. 350.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1840.

64. Appeal of Hopkins [Conn.] 60 A. 657. Where a resident of Pennsylvania dies entitled to, but before she has received, a share of the personal estate of her brother, who died intestate in another state, such share was in her constructive possession and subject to the Pennsylvania inheritance tax. In re Milliken's Estate, 206 Pa. 149, 55 A. 853.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1840. Lands of an intestate situate in a sister state cannot be taxed, since they do not pass under the intestate laws of the local state. Connell v. Crosby, 210 Ill. 380, 71 N. E. 350. Where, under a will, a resident of France was entitled to a share of the residuary estate, but died before his share was paid to him, and it was paid to his executor and trustee under his will, which was admitted to probate in the city of New York, the share is liable to transfer tax, and is not exempt on the ground that the interest of the legatee was a chose in action, the situs of which was in France, the domicile of the trustee. In re Clinch's Estate [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 35.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1841.

67. The bequest of a residuary estate to a charitable institution vests at the death of the testator and is exempt from taxation. It is not affected by the fact that the estate has not been settled and the legatee has not received the legacy at the time of the assessment. People v. Wells, 179 N. Y. 257, 71 N. E. 1126. The act of April 25th, 1904 (vol. 97, p. 398, O. L.), which provides for the taxation of the right to succeed to, or inherit property, does not apply to such vested estates when the decedent died prior to the passage of the act, even though distribution has not been made of such estates. Hostetter et al, executors, v. State of Ohio, 5 C. C. (N. S.) 337, distinguished. Whether the law applies to the estate of any decedent dying prior to the passage of the act—quaere. Estate of Asa S. Bushnell, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 673.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1841, n. 96. The collateral inheritance tax of Massachusetts is postponed until the person entitled thereto comes into possession [St. 1902, p. 381, c. 473]. Stevens v. Bradford, 185 Mass. 439, 70 N. E. 425. Under Hurd's Ill. Rev. St. 1901, c. 120, § 366, imposing a tax where one becomes beneficially entitled to any property, where testator's residuary estate was devised in trust for 20 years, it could not be taxed until the end of that period. People v. McCormick, 208 Ill. 437, 70 N. E. 350. The interest of a residuary legatee, conditioned on his attaining a certain age, cannot be deemed taxable under the War Revenue Act of June 13, 1898, before the happening of the contingency. Vanderbilt v. Eidman, 25 S. Ct. 331. Where a vested though defeasible interest in remainder passes under a will to the remainderman on the testator's death, though the possession does not pass until the death of the life tenant, the transfer on succession is referred to the time of the death of the testator, and if that occurred prior to the enactment of the act taxing transfers of property, the remainder is not taxable. In re Hitchins' Estate, 43 Misc. 485, 89 N. Y. S. 472.

69. Succession tax held not imposed within saving clause of repealing act. Tilghman v. Eidman, 131 F. 651, following Mason v. Sargent, 104 U. S. 689, 26 Law. Ed. 894.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1841.

tate are usually instituted by the appointment of an appraiser, whose duty it is to ascertain the value of the estate in question.[71] Where an appraisement is of the property as a whole, without any separate valuation of an annuity, or the land on which it is charged, and there is no legacy "upon a condition or contingency," the orphan's court has no authority to appoint an auditor to apportion the collateral tax.[72] If it does so and the apportionment is allowed to stand as the proper appraisement, the costs of the audit will be charged upon the collaterals through whose neglect the proper appraisement was not made.[73] The duty of computation under the Connecticut statute is placed upon the probate court having jurisdiction of the principal administration.[74] In Ohio, where the probate court in the settlement of the estate of a decedent determines the liability of a devise, legacy, bequest, or inheritance to pay a collateral inheritance tax, appeal may be taken by either party to the controversy to the court of common pleas.[75] Personal property without the state must be inventoried.[76] The surrogate has no power to modify an order fixing a transfer tax and allow a partial refund to the executor on discovery of a debt due by the estate,[77] nor to modify a decree of appraisal under the transfer tax law on the ground that a sale of the property subsequent to the appraisement showed that the latter was too high,[78] nor may he modify an order assessing a transfer tax voluntarily paid,[79] and his decree setting aside his prior order fixing a transfer tax need not direct the state comptroller to refund.[80] Where an administrator paid the transfer tax on real estate from the personalty, he is subrogated, as against the heirs, to the claim for such for the benefit of the creditors of the estate.[81] In California the county treasurer may receive and retain in addition to the compensation provided by the county government act certain commissions upon all amounts collected by him for the state under the provisions of the inheritance tax law.[82] Cases cited are illustrative of rules for determining the amount taxable.[83] A legacy of less than $500 left to testator's niece, and exempt from the transfer tax because of its amount and the relationship she bore to the testator, may nevertheless be added to certain other legacies in determining the aggregate amount of the estate transferred,[84] and the person

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1841, n. 1. A direct inheritance tax law by providing for an appraisement without notice is not thereby unconstitutional as taking property without due process of law. Hostetter v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 337. The report of an appraiser that the value of certain life interests could not at that time be ascertained, which report is confirmed by order of the surrogate court, precludes subsequent action unless there is a change in the condition of the estate. In re Lawrence's Estate, 96 App. Div. 29, 88 N. Y. S. 1028.

72, 73. Burkhart's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 514.

74. Appeal of Hopkins [Conn.] 60 A. 657; Appeal of Bridgeport Trust Co. [Conn.] 60 A. 662.

75. Rev. St. § 2731-13. Humphreys v. State, 70 Ohio St. 67, 70 N. E. 957.

76. Appeal of Bridgeport Trust Co. [Conn.] 60 A. 662.

77. Remedy by appeal. In re Hamilton's Estate, 84 N. Y. S. 44.

78. In re Lowry's Estate, 89 App. Div. 226, 85 N. Y. S. 924.

79. In re Mather's Estate, 84 N. Y. S. 1105.

80. The statute provides for such refund. In re Cameron's Estate, 97 App. Div. 436, 89 N. Y. S. 977.

81. Hughes v. Golden, 44 Misc. 128, 89 N. Y. S. 765.

82. San Diego County v. Schwartz, 145 Cal. 49, 78 P. 231.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1842, n. 8. In determining the amount of an inheritance tax, the relationship of the testator to the persons to whom the property actually passes under the statute to prevent lapsed legacies will govern, and not their relationship to the person named in the will as legatee or devisee. Iowa Code, § 3281, in regard to lapsed legacies, and § 1467 in regard to inheritance tax. In re Hulett's Estate, 121 Iowa, 423, 96 N. W. 952. Legacies payable to collateral heirs and strangers in another state. In re Clark's Estate [Wash.] 80 P. 267. The amendment (Laws 1903, p. 165, c. 41) to Section 221 of the New York Transfer Tax Law, made no change in the provisions of the section, except to include real estate as well as personalty in estimating the value of property transferred, and did not change the construction theretofore placed thereon by the courts. In re Fisher's Estate, 96 App. Div. 133, 89 N. Y. S. 102. The provision of Section 2713 of the New York Code Civ. Proc. that certain articles of personalty shall be set apart to the husband at the wife's death, contemplates things in existence, and the husband may not deduct the value thereof from the value of the estate. In re Libolt's Estate, 102 App. Div. 29, 92 N. Y. S. 175.

84. In re McMurray's Estate, 96 App. Div. 128, 89 N. Y. S. 71.

or fund liable, are collected in the note.[85] General laws imposing limitations for actions and special proceedings do not apply to proceedings to recover taxes, when the tax laws prescribe full limitations.[86]

§ 16. License taxes.[87]—A license fee is understood to be a charge for the privilege of carrying on a business or occupation, and is not the equivalent of a property tax.[88] It has been said that license fees may be imposed for the purposes: (1) For regulation; (2) for revenue; (3) to give monopolies; (4) for prohibition.[89] The charge is not imposed in the exercise of the taxing power for general revenue purposes, but in the exercise of the police power, to meet the expense arising from the duty of municipal supervision.[90] It is mainly for the purpose of regulation that the fee is required,[91] and usually of public service corporations, such as railroad[92] and street railway companies,[93] telegraph and telephone companies,[94] gas companies,[95] toll bridges,[96] though not infrequently upon private business or occupations.[97] Where there was dispute as to the character

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1842, n. 9. Where an estate is devised in trust to collect the income and after paying necessary expenses the net income to be divided in equal shares, the collateral inheritance tax is payable out of gross income and not of principal of estate. In re Brown's Estate, 208 Pa. 161, 57 A. 360. In New York, transfer taxes on life and remainder interests in a trust fund are payable out of the capital, though the remainders are contingent. Laws 1896, p. 877, c. 908, amended by Laws 1899, p. 100, and of 1900, p. 1438. In re Hoyt's Estate, 44 Misc. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 744. The transfer taxes imposed upon trust estates for life and in remainder by will are to be paid from the principal of such trust and life estates. In re Tracy, 179 N. Y. 501, 72 N. E. 519. Various dispositions of trust estate held to constitute legacies and entitled under terms of will to have transfer tax paid out of residuary estate. Isham v. New York Ass'n for Improving Condition of the Poor, 177 N. Y. 218, 69 N. E. 367. Federal taxes under the War Revenue Act of June 13, 1898 imposed on any person having in charge or trust any legacy or distributive shares are payable from the capital. In re Hoyt's Estate, 44 Misc. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 744.

86. Tax law limitations held not affected by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 380, 382, 414, regarding actions against the state comptroller. In re Hoople, 93 App. Div. 486, 87 N. Y. S. 842. Under a construction of Laws 1892, c. 399, § 6, and Laws 1897, c. 284, a transfer tax paid in November 1895 was refunded on application made in October, 1903, notwithstanding the lapse of time. Id.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1842. See, also, Licenses, 4 Curr. L. 428.

88. People of State of New York v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 25 S. Ct. 713. A tax upon the gross amount of premiums received by a foreign fire insurance company during the preceding year within the county, town, city, village and school district where the agent conducts the business is not a tax upon property, but is a tax upon business. Aachen & Munich Fire Ins. Co. v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 3.

89. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 985, 82 S. W. 1020. Quoting Cooley on Taxation.

90. Hence it is immaterial whether the amount fixed is designated a fee, a tax, or a charge. Braddock Borough v. Allegheny County Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 544.

91. A license tax of $10 on each oil depot in the state where oils are stored in bulk or in tank sustained as a police regulation. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 985, 82 S. W. 1020. A license tax for the privilege of selling goods is in effect a tax on the goods themselves. In re Julius, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 604.

92. Suffolk Town Charter, § 18, providing for an occupation tax, as applied to the business of a railroad company, is not in conflict with Const. art. 10, § 4, permitting the legislature to impose license taxes on any business which cannot be reached by the ad valorem system. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Suffolk [Va.] 49 S. E. 658.

93. A municipality has power to impose an annual license tax upon street cars run or operated within the city. Erie City v. Erie Elec. Motor Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 77. Money paid by a street railway company on the basis of a license tax must be credited to it, a court having held that it must pay an ad valorem tax instead of a license tax or a tax on gross earnings. City of Louisville v. Louisville R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 378, 81 S. W. 701.

94. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406; Schellsburg v. Western Union Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 343; Kittanning Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 346. A city has power to impose by ordinance an annual license tax upon a telephone company, although such company is engaged in both local and interstate commerce business, if there is nothing in the ordinance indicating an intention to tax interstate commerce business. Johnstown v. Central Dist. & Print. Tel. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 381. License tax on telegraph and telephone companies imposed by township. Lower Merion Tp. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 306.

95. Kittanning Borough v. Kittanning Consol. Nat. Gas Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 355.

96. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629, 37 So. 85.

97. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Savannah, 25 S. Ct. 690, affirming 115 Ga. 137, 41 S. E. 592. Furnishing "trading stamps." City Council of Montgomery v. Kelly [Ala.] 38 So. 67; Hewin v. Atlanta, 121 Ga. 723, 49 S. E. 785, 67 L. R. A. 795. Hawkers and peddlers. Commonwealth v. Rearick, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 384.

of the business, there was no abuse of discretion in granting an injunction until a fuller investigation could be had.[98] A trust company authorized inter alia to buy and sell real estate, is not liable to the state license tax on real estate brokers.[99] Requiring a license from owners and users of automobiles is a proper exercise of police power.[100] Prohibitory license taxes are permissible only in case of such pursuits or indulgences as in their general effect are believed to be more harmful than beneficial to society and which the public interest requires to have ended.[101] A corporation cannot avail itself of licenses issued to other corporations whose property it has bought.[102]

§ 17. Income taxes.[103]

§ 18. Distribution and disposition of taxes collected.[104]—A county in collecting taxes acts as collecting agent for the towns within its limits.[105] Whatever sums therefore it may collect in excess of what is due it under the statutes should be covered into the town or municipal treasuries for their use.[106] In a suit by a town to recover excess of taxes collected by a county, suit should be against the county and not against its treasurer.[107]

It is the policy of the law to make losses occurring through defective tax proceedings chargeable to the state, county, or municipality through the default of whose officers the loss has occurred. The auditor general of a state therefore is not liable for failure of local officers to report delinquents who had paid.[108] It is of no consequence that the amount of a tax as originally levied went into the general fund, and the "percentages" into the contingent fund. The person against whom assessment was made became obligated to pay both in case payment of original tax was deferred.[109] Decisions affecting the rights of school districts in certain funds are noted below.[110] The right of a town to sue a county treasurer for taxes wrongfully paid to a supervisor who absconded cannot be taken away by a subsequent act attempting to validate such payment.[111]

98. Schwarz v. National Packing Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 494.

99. Commonwealth v. Real Estate Trust Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 149.

100. Commonwealth v. Boyd, [Mass.] 74 N. E. 255.

101. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 985, 82 S. W. 1020.

102. Southern Car & Foundry Co. v. Calhoun County [Ala.] 37 So. 425.

103, 104. See 2 Curr. L. 1842.

105. Town of Spooner v. Washburn County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 325; Town of Paoli v. Charles [Ind.] 74 N. E. 508. Lands bid in by a county for delinquent taxes are held by it in trust. Political subdivisions being entitled to a portion of the taxes. Woodrough v. Douglas County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1092. In Louisiana the state, in selling her property acquired at tax sale, is expected, through the tax collecting department, to collect her own taxes and those of the municipality in which the property is situated. In re Lindner [La.] 38 So. 610.

106. Where taxes returned by a town treasurer to the county treasurer as delinquent are assailed by legal proceedings as invalid, and the amounts levied were compromised by order of the court, the county in accounting to the town for the taxes due it should be charged only with the amount actually collected under the compromise. Town of Spooner v. Washburn County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 325. The "general mulct charge" provided by the Iowa statute, § 2445 is not a municipal tax, and the mere fact that when collected one-half thereof shall be turned over to the city gives the county treasurer no right to retain the commission provided for in § 490. City of Waverly v. Bremer County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 874. The tax on bank stock provided by the New York statute is to be distributed not alone to the "tax districts" mentioned in the statute, but to the villages and school districts as well. People v. Board of Sup'rs of Columbia County, 93 N. Y. S. 1093.

107. Town of Newbold v. Douglas [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1040.

108. Oppenborn v. Auditor General [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 67, 103 N. W. 515.

109. City of Rochester v. Bloss, 91 N. Y. S. 642.

110. School districts and other departments of the Louisville City government held to have no right to any part of the interest arising from tax delinquencies. City of Louisville v. Louisville School Board [Ky.] 84 S. W. 729. Art. 5, § 7, North Carolina constitution, does not apply merely to taxes on property, and the limit of $2 poll taxation having been reached in Macon county for general purposes, taxes collected under the act of 1903 did not belong to the school and poor fund, but could only be used for the purpose specified in the statute. Board of Education of Macon County v. Board of Com'rs of Macon County [N. C.] 49 S. E. 353.

111. Town of Walton v. Adair, 96 App. Div. 75, 89 N. Y. S. 230.

TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES.[1]

§ 1. Franchises and Licenses, Property and Contracts, and Corporate Affairs (1657). Rights and Powers Granted (1658). Ouster (1659). Municipal Regulation; Rentals and License Taxes (1659). Contracts and Transfers (1661).
§ 2. Construction and Maintenance of Lines, and Injuries Thereby (1661).
§ 3. Telegraph Messages (1662).
A. Duty and Care; to Whom Owed (1662).
B. Injury and Damages (1665).
C. Penalties (1669).
D. Procedure (1669).
§ 4. Telephone Service (1671).
§ 5. Quotation and Ticker Service (1672).
§ 6. Rates, Tariffs and Rentals (1672).
§ 7. Offenses (1672).

§ 1. Franchises and licenses, property and contracts, and corporate affairs.[2]—The granting of franchises for the use of streets is variously regulated and controlled by statute. In Ohio, the probate court has jurisdiction to grant telephone franchises,[3] and to fix the mode of use of streets.[4] In West Virginia, the county court is authorized to consent to the placing of poles and wires for a telephone for public use along a county road by an individual, as well as by an incorporated company.[5] In Missouri, a grant of the right to construct and operate a telephone system to the company offering the highest percentage of gross receipts was held valid,[6] and an ordinance authorizing such grant and a bond given by a company accepting the conditions imposed, was held a compliance with a statute requiring contracts with cities to be in writing.[7] Since the ordinance did not grant an exclusive right, the fact that other companies were given similar rights without charge was no defense to an action to collect the agreed percentage of receipts.[8] A grant may be by resolution in Illinois.[9] A resolution[10] or ordinance[11] granting a franchise must be properly passed, and in Nebraska the object must be sufficiently expressed in its title.[12] An ordinance granting a telephone franchise is not repealed by a subsequent ordinance granting certain enumerated rights to, and imposing certain duties upon, the successor of the original company.[13] Telephone and telegraph companies are given the right to use streets and roads by statute in Kansas,[14] and cities have only the power of regulating such use, by the exercise of their police power.[15] Notice of termination of a franchise must fix the date of termination, or it is ineffectual.[16]

1. Note: See note on validity of notice sent by telegraph in 61 L. R. A. 933.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1843.

3. Probate court can grant franchises to telephone companies only by the exercise of judicial power applied to orderly and well defined issues, otherwise the grant is legislative and void. Queen City Tel. Co. v. Cincinnati, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 411.

4. Rev. St. § 3461, alone governs in the matter of the fixing by the probate court of the mode of use of streets by a telephone company. Court has authority to order wires under ground. Middletown H. Tel. Co. v. Middletown, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 455.

5. Construing "companies" in Acts 1891, p. 297, c. 96. Lowther v. Bridgeman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 410.

6, 7, 8. City of California v. Bunceton Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 604.

9. Though the right to use streets is usually granted to telephone companies by ordinance, there is no decision in Illinois that the right cannot be granted in some other way. Village of London Mills v. Fairview-London Tel. Circuit, 105 Ill. App. 146.

10. In cities of the sixth class in Kentucky, no resolution granting a telephone franchise may be passed within 5 days after its introduction, or at any other than a regular meeting of the trustees. Ky. St. 1903, § 3699. Held, a resolution granting a franchise, passed at a special meeting at which it was introduced, was void. Rough River Tel. Co. v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 517.

11. Passage held proper as shown by record. State v. Nebraska Tel. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 120.

12. Held sufficient. State v. Nebraska Tel. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 120.

13. City of Wichita v. Old Colony Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 641.

14. Gen. St. 1868, c. 23, art. 8, § 74. City of Wichita v. Old Colony Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 641.

15. General incorporation act of Kansas did not repeal telegraph statute, or give cities the power to remove poles and wires from streets where they had been maintained for some time, no claim of interference with public use being made. City of Wichita v. Old Colony Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 641.

16. Action of city council held ineffectual to terminate telephone franchise. City of Wichita v. Old Colony Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 641.

Rights and powers granted.[17]—A statute granting the right to construct telegraph or telephone lines along the public highways of the state confers the right to use streets and alleys of cities to the extent made necessary by public demands.[18] The acceptance of a grant under this statute by a telephone company gives the company the right to extend its service over as many streets as are required by the public necessity.[19] A license lawfully granted to a telephone company by a municipality to erect poles and wires in certain designated streets, after the company had put up poles and wires in reliance thereon, cannot be revoked by the municipality at its pleasure,[20] since the company thereby acquires a vested right to use such streets so long as it conforms to the conditions of its license.[21] A telephone company, operating under a void franchise, is not entitled to an injunction against another company for interference with its system by the construction of a new line on the same street.[22]

The power to exercise the right of eminent domain must be conferred expressly or by necessary implication.[23] In New York a telephone company may acquire the right to erect poles and lines in a street by condemnation proceedings.[24] The Federal statute granting telegraph companies the right to construct, maintain and operate telegraph lines through and over the public domain, and over and along military and post roads of the United States, is simply an exercise by congress of its power to regulate interstate commerce withdrawing such regulation from the states, and does not grant telegraph companies the right of eminent domain, or give them the right to enter upon and occupy the rights of way of railway companies, without the consent of the owners.[25] Nor do provisions of the charter of a telegraph company giving it the right to occupy roads, highways, streets and waters within the state, confer the right to occupy railways.[26] The lessee of a telegraph company cannot exercise a right of eminent domain conferred on its lessor, since the right of eminent domain cannot be delegated.[27]

A reasonable use of a public highway for the purpose of placing thereon poles and wires for a telephone system for public use, under legislative authority, is not an additional servitude upon the fee of the abutting owner in such highway,[28] nor may an adjoining owner have the erection or maintenance of a line in the highway, and near his premises, enjoined.[29]

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1844, 1845.

18, 19. The use of the words "public roads" in Code 1897, in place of "public highways" used in the original statute did not change its effect in this particular. State v. Nebraska Tel. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 120.

20, 21. Village of London Mills v. Fairview-London Tel. Circuit, 105 Ill. App. 146.

22. Rough River Tel. Co. v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 517.

23. Act of April 29, 1874, § 33 (P. L. 73) does not give telephone companies the right of eminent domain over private lands of individual owners. Pennsylvania Tel. Co. v. Hoover, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 96; Pfoutz v. Pennsylvania Tel. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 105.

24. New Union Tel. Co. v. Marsh, 89 N. Y. S. 79. See this case for procedure. See, also, Eminent Domain, 3 Curr. L. 1189.

25. Construing Act July 24, 1866 (14 Stat. at L. 221, c. 230). Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 133. Charter provisions of the railway companies declaring the railways "public highways" do not make them public property so as to subject them to the right of occupation by telegraph companies, under the Federal act. Id.

26. Railways are not "highways" within the meaning of such charter. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 150.

27. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 150.

28. Lowther v. Bridgeman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 410. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1844, n. 33, et seq.

29. Poles erected close to hedge hindered trimming of hedge and grass; held, no relief. McCann v. Johnson County Tel. Co., 69 Kan. 210, 76 P. 870, 66 L. R. A. 171.

Note: In the case last cited, "the court was divided—four to three. The controlling opinion is to the effect that the purpose of a highway—the main question here—is not limited to the use of such methods of travel and communication only, as existed in the first days of highways, or even at the time of the acquisition of any particular easement, but includes the use of all modern methods, such as the telegraph and telephone. The

Ouster.—Forfeiture of the franchise and easement of a telephone company can be declared and enforced only by a court of competent jurisdiction.[30] Failure to comply with a statute requiring foreign corporations to register abstracts of their charters in each county of the state where they engage in business, such noncompliance not being willful, but merely through inadvertence or mistake, is not cause for forfeiture of the franchise of a telephone company, at the suit of the state, especially where the statute is complied with on discovery of the mistake.[31] The purchase of a smaller competing company by a telephone company, in order to end a rate war, is not illegal, and is not ground for forfeiture of the charter of the purchasing corporation;[32] nor is the fact that an ultra vires lease of its plant was made, which was afterward abandoned, the corporation having long since resumed business, ground for such forfeiture.[33]

The remedy to set aside a telephone franchise irregularly or fraudulently granted, the party to whom it was granted being in the exercise of the privileges conferred by it, is by quo warranto at the suit of the state, and not by an equitable action by private parties.[34] A taxpayer of a city cannot maintain a suit to prevent the granting of a telephone franchise unless the franchise constitutes such a wrongful squandering and surrendering of money or property of the city that taxation will be thereby increased.[35] An objection that a statute authorizing the use of streets by telegraph and telephone lines is void because not providing for compensation to abutting owners is personal to such owners and cannot be raised in a quo warranto proceeding by the state.[36]

Municipal regulation; rentals and license taxes.[37]—The use of streets by a telephone company is subject to reasonable control, supervision and regulation by municipal authorities, by virtue of the general police power, though the right to use streets comes from the state.[38] The Federal act giving telegraph companies the right to construct lines along post roads did not put such companies beyond municipal control with respect to the use of highways.[39] Thus township road commissioners have power to adopt a regulation requiring telegraph lines to be erected along the property line.[40]

main requirement is that the public benefit be not decreased. Numerous authorities are cited. See Cater v. Northwestern Tel. Exch. Co., 60 Minn. 539, 51 Am. St. Rep. 543, 28 L. R. A. 310; Julia Bldg. Ass'n v. Bell Tel. Co., 88 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Rep. 398; People v. Eaton, 100 Mich. 208; Hershfield v. Telephone Co., 12 Mont. 102; Magee v. Overshiner, 150 Ind. 127, 65 Am. St. Rep. 358, 40 L. R. A. 370. The dissenting opinion is to the effect that anything which 'exclusively and continuously occupies' the highway, as a telephone pole, is a new use. A distinction is also attempted between the extent of the easement in a city street and a rural highway. See Eels v. Telephone Co., 143 N. Y. 133, 25 L. R. A. 640; Barnett v. Telegraph Co., 107 Ill. 507, 47 Am. Rep. 453; Eaton v. Telegraph Co., 170 Ill. 513, 62 Am. St. Rep. 390, 39 L. R. A. 722; 2 Dillon, Mun. Corp. § 698a. The weight of authority seems to be with the majority of the court, the tendency of recent decisions being to do away with the distinction between city streets and rural highways as to the extent of the servitude. This is due mainly to the extension of city facilities into the country." —3 Mich. L. R. 81.

30. City could not destroy company's privileges and property without judicial warrant. Nebraska Tel. Co. v. Fremont [Neb.] 99 N. W. 811.

31, 32, 33. State v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 390.

34, 35. Clark v. Interstate Independent Tel. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 977.

36. State v. Nebraska Tel. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 120.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1845, n. 38 et seq.

38. New Union Tel. Co. v. Marsh, 96 App. Div. 122, 89 N. Y. S. 79. The general police powers of cities of the first class may be exercised by such cities over telegraph and telephone companies within their limits, as well as the regulatory powers conferred by statute on such cities. City of Wichita v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 886. And see City of Wichita v. Old Colony Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 641, supra. In Kansas, cities of the first class have the right to determine and designate streets and alleys to be occupied and used by posts and wires of telegraph and telephone companies. Construing Laws 1903, p. 187, c. 122, § 53, and Gen. St. 1868, c. 23, art. 8. City of Wichita v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 886.

39. American Tel. & T. Co. v. Harborcreek Tp., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 437.

40. Such regulation construed to require

Municipalities having the power and charged with the duty of regulating the use of streets may impose a reasonable charge, in the nature of a rental, for the occupation of certain portions of their streets by telegraph and telephone companies.[41] A rental for use of streets by poles, fixed by ordinance, is prima facie reasonable.[42] A resolution adopted by a city of Florida while under a provisional government, consenting to the use of streets by a telephone company, and providing for use of the poles for the city fire alarm system, did not constitute a contract between the city and the company so as to estop the city from subsequently adopting and enforcing an ordinance requiring an annual rental for each pole to be paid the city.[43]

License taxes imposed on telegraph and telephone companies by municipalities are valid,[44] if reasonable.[45] The elements of a reasonable license tax on telegraph poles and wires are the necessary or probable expense incident to issuing the license and the probable expense of such inspection, regulation and police surveillance as the municipality may lawfully give to the erection and maintenance of such poles and wires.[46] An ordinance imposing a license tax on telegraph poles and wires is not void because not expressly restricted to poles and wires maintained on highways and public property.[47] A license tax for inspection by the municipality may be imposed, though the poles and wires of the company are on a road owned by a turnpike company.[48] Since a municipality has no power to exempt a telephone company from charges arising from the exercise of the police epower, an ordinance granting a franchise and exemption from taxation and special assessment in consideration of free service to the municipality, does not relieve the company from a license tax on poles and wires imposed by a former ordinance.[49] In an action to recover a license tax on telegraph poles and wires, the company may show that no inspection has been made, and no money paid out or expense incurred therefor,[50] or that the tax is unreasonable.[51] poles to be placed on that part of the highway next to the property lines, all necessary parts of the poles being within the highway. American Tel. & T. Co. v. Harborcreek Tp., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 437.

41. In an action to recover rent fixed by ordinance, the complaint is not defective for failure to allege authority to rent the streets. City of Pensacola v. Southern Bell Tel. Co. [Fla.] 37 So. 820.

42. Complaint to recover rent need not allege reasonableness of rental charged. City of Pensacola v. Southern Bell Tel. Co. [Fla.] 37 So. 820.

43. Defense of estoppel not available in action to recover rent from company. City of Pensacola v. Southern Bell Tel. Co. [Fla.] 37 So. 820.

44. Municipalities may impose a reasonable charge on telephone and telegraph companies in the enforcement of local governmental supervision, in the exercise of the police power. City of Pensacola v. Southern Bell Tel. Co. [Fla.] 37 So. 820. Commissioners of townships of the first class have power to impose by ordinance a reasonable license tax on telegraph and telephone companies for each pole in the township. Lower Merion Tp. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 306. A borough may impose a reasonable license tax for the inspection of poles and wires of a telegraph company in order to avoid liability for injuries caused by defects in the telegraph system. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

45. Inspection by municipality held such as to render license tax of $1.00 per pole and $2.50 per mile of wire prima facie reasonable. Kittanning Borough v. W. U. Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 346. Evidence of an amount spent by the company for repairs and reconstruction in a particular year, without evidence as to the nature, extent and cost of supervision and inspection by the company, held not to overcome prima facie showing of reasonableness. Id. It is immaterial how a charge on telegraph and telephone poles and wires, imposed to pay the cost of inspection and supervision, is designated; the only question which can be raised is as to its reasonableness. Braddock Borough v. Allegheny Co. Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 544.

46. Rule applied in rulings on evidence in proceeding to determine validity of borough license tax. Schellsburg v. Western Union Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super Ct. 343.

47. The court will presume that such poles and wires were intended, or will restrict the operation of the ordinance to them. Kittanning Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 346.

48. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

49. Braddock Borough v. Allegheny County Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 544.

50. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

51. Norwood Borough v. Western Union

Contracts and transfers.[52]—If formally granted,[53] an easement to maintain a telephone line, with necessary poles, wires and guys, with the right to trim trees so that they shall not come in contact with wires, is continuous, and contemplates the stringing of as many wires as are necessary to the proper conduct of the business.[54] But the right to trim trees is limited to necessary trimming.[55] Under the provision of the Kentucky constitution which requires telephone companies operating exchanges in different towns to receive and transmit each other's messages without unreasonable delay or discrimination, a contract between two companies which have extended and connected their lines, providing for the transmission of each other's messages over the lines so connected is not terminable at the will of either party, but continues during the corporate existence of the two companies,[56] that is, so long as the two companies maintain exchanges and continue to do business at the two towns from which their lines were extended, or at the point of connection.[57] In construing such contract, the court will look to the situation and circumstances, and the construction placed thereon by the parties during previous operation of the system.[58]

A transfer of telephone lines and equipment and all appurtenances includes the franchise of the company, though it is not expressly mentioned.[59] A contract for sale of a telephone line, providing that the buyers shall maintain the line and allow the sellers free use thereof for five years, at which time title thereto shall vest in the buyers, does not pass absolute title and control to the buyers until after the expiration of five years.[60]

§ 2. Construction and maintenance of lines, and injuries thereby.[61]—Persons or companies operating telephone and electric light systems for the transmission of electricity upon and over public highways owe the public the duty of properly constructing and maintaining their respective wires and poles.[62] They are bound to provide such safeguards against danger as are best known and most extensively used, and all necessary protection must be afforded to avoid casualties which may be reasonably expected.[63] Which of two companies is under the duty to erect and maintain guards between wires at crossings may depend upon the ordinance imposing such duties.[64] A telegraph company can acquire no right from a turnpike

Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406. Affidavit of defense in action to collect license tax held sufficient to prevent judgment because showing tax imposed unreasonable. Lower Merion Tp. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 306. Evidence as to number of poles and miles of wire, amount of capital stock, bonded debt and net receipts, irrelevant on issue of reasonableness of license tax, in action to recover same. Kittanning Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 346.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1846.

53. A voucher, properly attested and signed, held sufficient to grant easement to telephone company. Barber v. Hudson River Tel. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 993.

54. Barber v. Hudson River Tel. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 993.

55. Easement does not include right to destroy or unnecessary cutting of limbs. Barber v. Hudson River Tel. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 993.

56. Ky. Const. § 199. Campbellsville Tel. Co. v. Lebanon, L. & L. Tel. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 127, 80 S. W. 1114.

57. Extending opinion in Campbellsville Tel. Co. v. Lebanon, L. & L. Tel. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 127, 80 S. W. 1114; Id. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 518.

58. Contract construed as calling for transmission of all messages, whether or not they originated in the two towns from which the lines were extended in order to connect them. Campbellsville Tel. Co. v. Lebanon, L. & L. Tel. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 127, 80 S. W. 1114.

59. City of Wichita v. Old Colony Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 641.

60. Murphy v. Smith, Walker & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 678.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1848.

62. Heidt v. Southern Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 361.

63. Whether failure to erect and maintain certain guards and other devices between telephone and electric light wires was negligence, held a question for the jury. Heidt v. Southern Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 361. It is negligence to string telephone wires across and but a few inches above trolley wires with no guards or insulators at that point. North Amherst Home Tel. Co. v. Jackson, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 386.

64. Ordinance relative to duties of telephone and electric light companies held to impose such duty on company doing the latest construction at the point where wires cross. Heidt v. Southern Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 361.

company, in whose road, which is a borough street, poles and wires are maintained, to maintain such poles and wires in a condition dangerous to travelers, or such as to interfere with public use of the street.[65]

The degree of care and skill required in the construction and maintenance of electrical equipment is commensurate with the danger involved in the use of electricity.[66] Reasonable care must be exercised to prevent injury by defective insulation of wires.[67] The duty to maintain wires in a safe condition extends to wires over private property, as to persons who have a right to be on such property.[68] The duties owed to employes are treated elsewhere.[69]

Telephone companies are liable for injuries which ought reasonably to have been anticipated; and it is immaterial that the particular injury resulting from a defective condition could not have been foreseen.[70] A company, not otherwise negligent, is not liable for the falling of an electrically charged wire, caused by a storm of unusual severity, which could not have been reasonably foreseen and its consequences guarded against.[71] But the fact that a recent storm contributed with negligence of a company in causing crossed wires did not relieve the company from liability for a resulting accident.[72] A complaint alleging in effect that a telephone company permitted its line to become out of repair and to remain in a dangerous condition for five months, sufficiently alleges notice to the company of the condition of its wires.[73] Defective insulation cannot be made the basis of a recovery unless shown to be a proximate or efficient cause of the injury.[74] Contributory negligence defeats recovery.[75]

§ 3. Telegraph messages. A. Duty and care; to whom owed.[76]—"Telegraph and telephone companies are common carriers of news,"[77] and failure of a telegraph company to promptly and correctly transmit and deliver a message received by it is a breach of a public duty, imposed by law.[78] For a violation of the duty to transmit and deliver messages without unreasonable delay, or for a negligent performance thereof, it is responsible to the party for whose benefit the contract was made, whether it be the sender or the addressee.[79] But in order

65. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

Note: For extended treatment of duties and liabilities of electric corporations in respect to proper construction and maintenance of wires, poles, and plants in general, see note to Hebert v. Lake Charles Ice, Light & Waterworks Co. [111 La. 522, 35 So. 731] in 100 Am. St. Rep. 515.

66. Barto v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 876. See, also, Electricity, 3 Curr. L. 1181; Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764.

67. Duty to keep insulation in repair was owed to employe as to wires 25 feet from ground where employes were likely to go in performing duties. Rowe v. Taylorville Elec. Co., 213 Ill. 318, 72 N. E. 711.

68. Central Union Tel. Co. v. Lokola [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 143.

69. See Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533. A telephone company which permits an electric light company to use its poles must use ordinary care to see that such use does not expose its own employes to dangers not assumed by them. Barto v. Iowa Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 876. In the absence of an agreement as to signals between an electric and a telephone company, the former was not liable for the death of a telephone employe caused by the turning on of the current without warning. Rowe v. Taylorville Elec. Co., 213 Ill. 318, 72 N. E. 711.

70. Central Union Tel. Co. v. Lokola [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 143.

71. Telephone wire, broken by a storm and charged by an electric light wire, caused death of a person 30 minutes after a storm, before notice of the defect was possible. Heidt v. Southern Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 361.

72, 73. Central Union Tel. Co. v. Lokola [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 143.

74. Heidt v. Southern Tel. & T. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 361.

75. Failure of employe to use strap to fasten himself to pole immaterial, when electric shock was sufficient to cause death, though he had not fallen. Rowe v. Taylorville Elec. Co., 213 Ill. 318, 72 N. E. 711. See, also, Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533; Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1849.

77. State v. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 390.

78. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 165. Negligent delivery is a breach of a general duty imposed by law by reason of the relation of the parties. Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12.

for the addressee to sue, it is essential that it appear that he was to be benefited by the contract for sending the message,[80] and that this fact was known to the company when it received the message for transmission, either from the language of the message or otherwise.[81] Negligence of third persons, not connected in any way with plaintiff, will not relieve a company from liability for negligent failure to deliver a message.[82] For transmission of a forged or fraudulent message,[83] a company is not liable to a stranger to it and the telegram, merely because he has seen the telegram and acted upon it to his injury.[84]

Transmission and delivery.[85]—A telegraph company has the power to make a regulation establishing reasonable office hours, and is under no duty to receive, transmit or deliver a message out of established office hours, if reasonable,[86] in the absence of circumstances showing an agreement to the contrary, or showing a waiver of the regulation.[87] Nothing appearing to the contrary, it is presumed that agents authorized to receive messages have authority to bind the company by their agreements as to the time of sending them, even to the extent of disregarding the regulation as to the hours of opening and closing the office.[88] It is the duty of a company, to which a message has been given for transmission, on discovering that delay in transmission will be inevitable, ow-

79, 80. Frazier v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 330.

81. Telegram to real estate brokers reading: "See S. Take his last offer. Wire me at F," did not show that addressee was to be benefited, so as to enable him to sue. Frazier v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Or.] 78 P. 330. A telegraph company which accepts a message which discloses on its face that it is to be communicated to, or is for the benefit of, a third person, is liable to such third person for delay in transmission. Whitehill v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 F. 499.

Note: Says the Columbia Law Review, commenting on Frazier v. W. U. Tel. Co., supra: "In the United States the addressee of a telegram has a right of action for delay or error in the transmission. New York, etc., Tel. Co. v. Dryburg, 35 Pa. 298, 78 Am. Dec. 338; Mentzer v. Western Union Tel. Co., 92 Iowa, 752; 2 Columbia L. R. 267. The English rule is contrary. Dickson v. Reuter's Telegram Co., 3 C. P. Div. 1. Those jurisdictions allowing recovery on the theory of beneficial interests in a contract are of necessity in accord with the principal case. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Wood, 57 Fed. 471. Where, however, recovery is allowed in a tort action for breach of the general duty the defendant owes the public by virtue of its calling, it would seem that notice is unnecessary to charge the company. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Fatman, 73 Ga. 285, 54 Am. Rep. 877; Pollock, Torts [6th Ed.] pp. 532-534. The latter view seems the better one."—5 Columbia L. R. 170.

82. Barnes v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Nev.] 76 P. 931.

83. NOTE. Liability for transmission of forged message: A telegraph company is liable to the addressee for the damage sustained for negligently transmitting or delivering a forged message. Strause v. Western Union Tel. Co., 8 Biss. 104, Fed. Cas. No. 13,531; Elwood v. Western Union Tel. Co., 45 N. Y. 549, 6 Am. Rep. 140. But there is no liability if there were no suspicious circumstances. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Meyer, 61 Ala. 158, 32 Am. Rep. 1. If the agent of the company knowingly transmits the forged message, his fraud renders the company liable for damages sustained. McCord v. Western Union Tel. Co., 39 Minn. 181, 39 N. W. 315, 12 Am. St. Rep. 636, 1 L. R. A. 143; Bank of California v. Western Union Tel. Co., 52 Cal. 280; Pacific Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Bank of Palo Alto [C. C. A.] 109 F. 369, 54 L. R. A. 711; Magouirk v. Western Union Tel. Co., 79 Miss. 632, 31 So. 206, 89 Am. St. Rep. 663. As to liability for delivery of fraudulent message put on the wires by wire tappers, see Western Union Tel. Co. v. Uvalde Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 603, 65 L. R. A. 805, 2 Curr. L. 1853.—See note on general subject in 65 L. R. A. 805.

84. Instruction erroneous because permitting jury to find that company was charged with notice, from the telegram, that a stranger was intending to act on it. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schriver [C. C. A.] 129 F. 344. Fraudulent telegram from one bank to another that a check would be accepted. Id.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1850, 1851.

86. No negligence where message was received after hours, and delivered within an hour after opening. Bonner v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 117. No negligence where message was taken by a person not connected with the company, committed to writing by him, and left on the operator's desk, outside reasonable office hours, and the message was delivered immediately on opening office next morning. Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 119.

87. Mere proof of occasional transmission or delivery after office hours is insufficient to establish a waiver of such regulation. Bonner v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 117.

88. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Crumpton [Ala.] 36 So. 517.

ing to a defect in its line, to promptly inform the sender, when that is possible.[89] This duty being performed, there is no liability in such case for not transmitting.[90] A stipulation on a telegram blank that the company is the agent of the sender for transmission over other lines does not render a company liable for failure to forward a message received, by telephone, in the absence of an express contract to do so.[91] Under the Federal statute requiring revenue stamps to be affixed to telegrams, a company was not liable for failure to transmit a message to which the sender had affixed no stamp.[92] Failure, on tender of charges, to repeat or trace a telegram which has been erroneously transmitted, is negligence.[93]

Whether a company has, in a particular instance, discharged its duty to use reasonable diligence to find the addressee and make a delivery[94] within a reasonable time,[95] depends upon the circumstances. Delivery of a message by placing it in the postoffice is not negligence where the language of the message and the circumstances indicated that this was desired and intended by the sender.[96] An error in the addressee's name, made by the receiving operator in taking it from the wire, does not excuse nondelivery at the street number given in the message.[97] Where delivery cannot be made, it is the duty of the company to so inform the sender promptly.[98]

A company may make reasonable regulations fixing limits within which free delivery will be made.[99] But the fact that the addressee lives outside free delivery limits is no defense when the gist of the action is delay in transmission.[1] Where a regulation does not require prepayment of extra charges for delivery outside free delivery limits, the parties may contract with reference to a custom whereby messages were delivered outside such limits without prepayment.[2] A regulation providing for free delivery within a radius of one-half mile from the office includes points within that distance measured in a straight line, without regard

89. Swan v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 318.

90. No duty to use telephone or other telegraph line, on discovery, after receipt of message that wires were down. Faubion v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 56.

91. Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12.

92. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waters, 139 Ala. 652, 36 So. 773.

93. But damages therefrom held not to have been proved. Newsome v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 279.

94. A showing that messenger went to plaintiff's house at 8 o'clock in the evening, found a light but no one at home, and thereupon left and made no effort to deliver the message or telephone plaintiff until next morning, is sufficient to take the question of negligence to the jury. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Pratt [Ky.] 85 S. W. 225. A company performs its contract by delivering a message to a person in whose care it is sent, the addressee having left the city so that it could not be delivered to him. Sweet v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 850. A company does not discharge its entire duty in endeavoring to deliver a message addressed "care of some hotel," by inquiring at all the hotels, if by ordinary diligence the addressee could have been found elsewhere. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695. Evidence that a message sent in care of H. T. Benton was received as in care of K. T. Benton; that H. T. Benton was a well-known person who could have been found; and that message was not delivered to the addressee until it was too late for him to arrive home in time to view the remains of his deceased wife, tends to show negligence in delivery or transmission. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052.

95. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052.

96. As where message was directed to a person "P. O. Idaho, Fayetteville, N. C.," and was placed in the Fayetteville postoffice, Idaho being outside delivery limits. Gainey v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 261, 48 S. E. 653.

97. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 165.

98. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 171.

99. Regulation fixing free delivery limits held reasonable as to addressee who lived 2½ miles from receiving office. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Scott [Ky.] 87 S. W. 289.

1. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Scott [Ky.] 87 S. W. 289.

2. The terms of the written contract are not contravened by pleading such custom. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493.

to the traveled route by which a particular point is reached.[3] Failure to make any attempt to deliver a message because the sendee lives outside the free delivery limits, and failure to notify the sender of additional charges, or of refusal to deliver at all, renders a company liable for resulting damages.[4]

(§ 3) B. Injury and damages.[5] Conflict of laws.[6]—As to what law governs a recovery for negligence in transmission or delivery, where a message is filed in one state to be delivered in another, there is a conflict, some courts holding that the law of the state where the message is filed controls;[7] while others hold that the law of the state wherein delivery is to be made, this being the place of performance, governs the recovery of damages,[8] regardless of whether the negligence causing delay was that of the agent in the sending or in the receiving office.[9] In South Carolina it is held that an action for negligent delivery is an action in tort, based upon a breach of the general duty imposed on the defendant by law,[10] and hence the law of the place of delivery governs recovery.[11]

For pecuniary loss.[12]—The rule that the damages recoverable for breach of a contract should be such as arise naturally from such breach of contract, or such as may reasonably be supposed to have been in contemplation of the parties at the time they made the contract, is applied in actions for negligence in the transmission and delivery of messages.[13] Recovery being based on the special nature of a telegram, its importance must appear from the words used, or knowledge of the company of its special importance, otherwise acquired, must be shown.[14]

3. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Jennings [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1056.

4. Hood v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 622, 47 S. E. 607. Failure to send a service message for information regarding charges outside free delivery limits, when on receipt of a message it is ascertained that the addressee lives outside such limits, thereby delaying delivery of a death message, is negligence. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kuykendall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 61.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1853; also Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1854, n. 67, 68.

7. In North Carolina, it was held that where a message was filed in Maryland for transmission to Virginia, the law of Maryland as to recovery of damages for mental anguish, unaccompanied by physical injury, controlled, since that law governed the validity and interpretation of the contract and the rule for measure of damages. Hancock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 952 (for numerous decisions in Texas, and one in North Carolina, adhering to the rule as above stated, see 2 Curr. L. 1854, n. 67).

8. Message filed in West Virginia, and negligently delivered in Kentucky; held, damages for mental anguish unaccompanied by physical injury recoverable, though such damages not allowed in West Virginia. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 764 (decision adhered to on petition for modification of opinion, Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 982.)

9. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 982.

10. Duty to use due diligence in delivery, being imposed by reason of the contract relation of the parties. Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12; Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 119.

11. Damages for mental suffering may be recovered for delay in delivering, in South Carolina, a message from Virginia, though the doctrine as to mental suffering does not obtain in Virginia. Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 119.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1854, 1855.

13. Williams v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 82, 48 S. E. 559.

Illustrations: Instruction erroneous as submitting element of damage that could not have been foreseen. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Scott [Ky.] 87 S. W. 289. Damages for loss of compensation because of failure to attend probate hearings, the claim being compromised, held too uncertain and speculative. Sweet v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 850. Where plaintiff, having failed to receive a message through failure of the company to transmit an order to forward messages to him, made a railroad journey home instead of sending a message of inquiry, he could not recover the expenses of such journey. Hilley v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 556. In an action for failure to deliver a death message, plaintiff cannot recover his expenses in going to the place where the deceased was. Hunter v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 459, 47 S. E. 745. The expenses of a railroad journey which would not have been taken had a message been delivered may be recovered. Kopperl v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1018. But fees which the plaintiff would have earned as a lawyer, had he not taken the trip, cannot be recovered. Id.

14. Message held not to indicate its importance. Capers v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 537. Where a message of itself gave no notice of the purpose for

It must also appear that the loss claimed would not have occurred had the contract for transmission been duly performed,[15] or that the addressee used due diligence to mitigate or avoid the loss.[16]

In general, the actual loss proximately caused by negligence in transmission or delivery is the measure of damages.[17] Illustrative applications of the general rule, in the case of delayed messages[18] and of messages erroneously transmitted[19] are given in the notes.

For mental anguish.[20]—Recovery for mental pain and suffering for negligence in the delivery of social telegrams is allowed in many jurisdictions, but always on the theory that such damages are within the reasonable contemplation of the parties at the time the contract was entered into.[21] Hence there can be no re-which whisky was ordered, or of the consequences which would follow failure to receive it, and the company had no knowledge thereof, damages for failure to deliver the message ordering it could not be recovered. Newsome v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 279.

15. Damages cannot be recovered for failure to deliver a message ordering whisky unless it is shown that the whisky would have been sent had the message been received. Newsome v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 279. In an action for delay in delivery of message to deposit money in a bank to pay a check, it must be alleged that the money would have been delivered and deposited in time to avoid the injurious consequences claimed. Capers v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 537.

16. Evidence sufficient to show party in charge of horses, on failure to receive message, used best judgment and due diligence in disposing of them to the best advantage. Brooks v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 881. No loss of profits recoverable if such loss could have been prevented by ordinary diligence by plaintiffs. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Scott [Ky.] 87 S. W. 289.

17. One who has telegraphed for bids may recover damages for delay in delivery of a reply making a bid; and the fact that the delayed message is only one step in the negotiations, and not the completion of a contract, is not a valid objection to such recovery. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Love-Banks Co. [Ark.] 83 S. W. 949.

18. A message to a real estate broker containing an offer being delayed, and a sale thereby prevented, the broker may recover the amount of his commission. Harper v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 904. Where, in reliance on a message erroneously transmitted, a mule buyer paid more than the purchaser intended, the measure of damages was the difference between the stated price and that paid. Hays & Bro. v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 608. The measure of damages for delay in delivering a message containing a bid for construction of a building is the difference between the amount of the bid and what it would have cost to construct the building according to the plans and specifications. Texas & W. Tel. & T. Co. v. Mackenzie [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 581. Where two bids for cotton were solicited, and a message making a bid was received, but one making the higher bid was delayed, the measure of damages was the difference between the bid received, which might have been accepted, and the bid delayed, and not the difference between the delayed bid and the depreciated market price at the time the cotton was sold. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Love-Banks Co. [Ark.] 83 S. W. 949. Where, in an action for failure to deliver a message tendering an option on 100 bales of cotton, it appeared that plaintiffs, to fill a contract, were obliged to buy in the market at a higher price, 50 bales on one day and 50 on the next, the measure of damages was the difference between the option price and the market price on the first day, provided they could have bought 100 bales in the market on that day. Western Union Tel. Co. v. L. Hirsch [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 394. The measure of damages for delay in transmission, and failure to inform the sender or addressee of such delay, whereby the addressee bought stock at a higher price than he would have paid if he had received the message promptly and bought on its receipt, is the difference between the price paid, and the price at which he could have bought on receipt of the message, if promptly delivered. Swan v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 318.

19. An offer to sell lumber at $35 per thousand, being transmitted as $25 per thousand, and accepted, and plaintiff having delivered without discovering the mistake, he could recover the resulting damage. Fisher v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1179. One receiving a telegram stating the cost of machinery, who makes a contract with a third person in reliance on the telegram, may recover from the company the amount of his loss caused by an error in transmission whereby the cost was incorrectly stated. Wolf Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 129. Where, through error in transmission of a message, an agent pays more for a stock of goods than his principal authorized him to pay, the measure of damage is the actual loss suffered by the principal as a result of the mistake. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Spivey [Tex.] 83 S. W. 364. Such loss cannot exceed the difference between the price paid and the value of the goods. Id. If the goods were worth less than the amount paid for them, the difference, not to exceed the difference between the authorized price and the price paid, would be the measure of damages. Id.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1855.

21. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Reid [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1171.

covery for mental anguish which cannot reasonably be supposed to have been contemplated as a consequence of negligence of the company,[22] or which is not the direct and proximate result of such negligence.[23] It follows that the message in question must on its face apprise the company of its importance[24] to the plaintiff,[25] unless notice of its importance and the probable consequences of negligence in transmission or delivery is otherwise communicated. To warrant recovery of such damages, it must appear that the mental anguish complained of would have been avoided by prompt or correct transmission or delivery.[26] Contributory negligence on the part of the addressee will defeat recovery.[27]

22. That woman would have no night robe with her and would sleep in wet clothes could not be anticipated by the company as consequence of failure to deliver message to meet her. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 580. Message to meet sender who was coming with the body of his mother was not delivered. While sender went to get conveyance, neighbors placed corpse in a wagon, intending to convey it to sender's home, and left it in a wagon yard for three hours. Held, the fact of the corpse so remaining in the wagon yard was too remote to have been contemplated as a possible contingency by the parties, and was not a basis for recovery. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Burch [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 552.

23. Arial v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 6. Suffering caused by pain and anguish of the wife and baby of plaintiff are not the direct, natural and proximate cause of failure to deliver a message, which on its face showed no connection with the wife and baby. Jones v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 198. Damages cannot be recovered for mental anguish caused by addressee's own misapprehension. Bowers v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 504, 47 S. E. 597. Grief naturally arising from the death of a near kinsman is not a part of the mental anguish caused by failure to deliver a death message. Hancock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 952. Where a husband received a message in time to take a train to attend the burial of a grandchild, and the wife was prevented from doing so by inability to place her children in care of a neighbor, negligence in delivery was not the cause of mental anguish of the wife. Cranford v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 585. Mental suffering of a father from seeing the suffering of his child during the time in which delivery of a message to a physician to come and relieve the child is delayed, is not a ground for damages. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Reid [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1171. No damages for mental anguish can be recovered for delay in delivery of a death message when plaintiff was not deprived of the privilege of attending the funeral, and the mental anguish suffered was from uncertainty as to whether the funeral would be postponed so she could be present. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Reed [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 296. Discomfort and sickness resulting from exposure to inclement weather, where plaintiff was not met at a train, owing to delay in delivery of message, held not ground for damages. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Siddall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 343.

24. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Reid [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1171. A telegram stating the death of a person and time of burial is sufficient of itself to inform a company of its importance (Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 381, 48 S. E. 772); though the relation between deceased and addressee does not appear (Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Pratt [Ky.] 85 S. W. 225). Delay in transmission of telegram, "Come at once," from plaintiff's mother, who was not seriously ill, but wished to see him on business, did not render defendant liable for mental suffering of plaintiff, who was delayed in getting home. Bowers v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 504, 47 S. E. 597. No damages for mental anguish for mistake in transmission of message to have Dr. R. meet sender at train, when message did not show R.'s services as physician were required. Williams v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 82, 48 S. E. 559. A telegram inquiring as to the condition of a member of one's family usually indicates sickness and anxiety on account of it, and is sufficient to give the company notice of the importance of the message. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538. Receipt of message announcing serious illness, with an extra fee, the company having notice of the addressee's residence, is some evidence of a contract to deliver promptly. Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12. Where messages sent, announcing sickness, did not show that an answer was expected or that persons were to come, failure to deliver an answer was not the proximate cause of anxiety of the sender of the first messages, which caused him to leave the bedside of his dying father and meet incoming trains. Arial v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 6.

25. Delay in delivery of telegram to husband, announcing death of grandchild, and disclosing no interest of the wife in the subject-matter does not render the company liable for mental anguish of the wife because of inability to attend the burial. Cranford v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 585.

26. Evidence held insufficient to show that plaintiff could have reached his son's bedside before his death, even had a message announcing the illness been promptly delivered. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 764. To warrant recovery for mental anguish for failure to deliver a message announcing the coming of the sender with the body of his brother, whereby the father failed to meet the train and make preparations for the burial, and the burial was delayed, plaintiff must prove that, had the message been delivered, his father could and would have met the train, and that the

In some states there can be no recovery for mental anguish, unaccompanied by any other injury;[28] in others, the existence of accompanying physical pain or injury is not necessary.[29] Mental anguish caused by inability to view the remains of a deceased relative has been held to warrant recovery.[30] Only nominal damages can be recovered where the result of negligent failure to deliver a message was that the sender was obliged to keep a corpse in her house two days and nights.[31] Damages for mental anguish caused by failure to deliver a death message may be recovered, though plaintiff is only a distant relative of deceased,[32] and though the company had no knowledge of the relationship.[33] But mental suffering will not be presumed where deceased was not a blood relative of the plaintiff.[34] Damages were allowed to a delicate woman,[35] to a young girl,[36] and to the latter's father,[37] for worry and annoyance resulting from delay in delivery of a message announcing arrival. Disappointment and regret,[38] mere annoyance at not being met at a train,[39] and vexation caused by dishonor of a check,[40] have been held results complained of would have been avoided. Hancock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 952. No recovery of damages for having to walk through rain to a hotel and sleep in wet clothes in the absence of a showing that plaintiff would have been met at train if message had been delivered, and that plaintiff could not procure a conveyance. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 580. In an action for failure to deliver two messages, one announcing the illness and the other the death of a sister, evidence held sufficient to show that plaintiff would have attended the funeral had she received the message; hence failure to deliver the second message was properly submitted as a basis of recovery. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Ridenour [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1030.

27. Evidence held to sustain finding that plaintiff was not negligent in not taking an earlier train for a funeral. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Porterfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 850. One who receives a death message too late to attend the funeral is not bound to request a postponement in order to recover damages for delay in delivery. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Pratt [Ky.] 85 S. W. 225. Failure of a sender to use other means of communication within his reach, when he failed to receive a reply to his message, may be considered in mitigation of damages for mental anguish. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538.

28. No recovery for mental anguish, apart from injury to person or estate of plaintiff. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waters, 139 Ala. 652, 36 So. 773.

29. Kentucky. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 764. Mental worry and distress resulting from exposure, cold, hunger, exertion, and lack of a place to sleep, caused by failure to deliver a telegram for money, is ground for damages. Barnes v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Neb.] 76 P. 931. $400 held not excessive for such damage, and loss of time, etc. Id.

30. As where son could not view mother's remains or attend funeral, owing to the nondelivery of messages relating to her sickness and death. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Crumpton [Ala.] 36 So. 517. Mental anguish caused by inability to view remains of deceased wife, decomposition having set in, is not too remote or speculative to warrant recovery of damages for failure to deliver a message announcing the wife's illness. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hamilton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1052. Lack of knowledge by the company that deceased was a large woman, and that decomposition of her body would be rapid, would not relieve the company of liability for such damage. Id. A daughter is entitled to damages for not being able to view father's remains, owing to decomposition, the death message having been delayed. Thomas v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 760. A grandmother may recover for mental anguish for deprivation of the privilege of viewing the remains of a deceased grandchild. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Porterfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 850. $500 held not excessive. Id.

31. Denham v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 87 S. W. 788.

32. Second cousin. Hunter v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 459, 47 S. E. 745.

33. Hunter v. Western Union Tel. Co., 135 N. C. 459, 47 S. E. 745.

34. Message announced death and time of burial of stepson. Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 381, 48 S. E. 772.

35. Damages may be recovered for fright, worry, annoyance, and nervous shock, suffered by a delicate woman, with a child, on failure to be met at a train by her mother, owing to nondelivery of a message, the company having notice of the facts. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Siddall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 343.

36. Failure to deliver a message announcing the arrival of a young girl at midnight in a town where she was a stranger is a warrant for damages for anguish and annoyance because of having no one to meet her. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 165.

37. Company received his message about midnight, and failed to inform him of its nondelivery until the next morning. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 171.

38. Hancock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 952.

39. No recovery for mental suffering for failure to deliver message from wife to husband to meet her, where she went to a hotel, but could not get lodgings, and volun-

not to constitute mental anguish for which a recovery may be had. The fact that mental anguish already in existence is protracted by delay in delivery of a message is not ground for damages.[41] The mental anguish for which one may recover for failure to deliver a message to which a reply is expected extends from the time when such reply should have been received to the time when positive information was received.[42] The South Carolina statute authorizing recovery of damages for mental anguish or suffering for negligence in receiving, transmitting, or delivering messages, makes no distinction between anxiety and other kinds of mental suffering, or between negligence which originates suffering and that which prolongs it.[43]

Exemplary damages.[44]—Punitive damages may be recovered for willful breach of the duty to deliver a message without delay.[45] A company is not liable in punitive damages for transmission of a libelous message, no malice or evil motive on the part of its agents being shown.[46] A mere allegation of gross negligence in delivery, without any allegation of fraud, malice, or oppression, will not support a claim for punitive damages.[47]

(§ 3) C. Penalties.[48]—The Mississippi statute authorizing recovery of a penalty for incorrect transmission of a message does not authorize recovery of such penalty for delay in transmission or for failure to transmit.[49]

(§ 3) D. Procedure. Notice of claim.[50]—A stipulation in a contract for transmission of a message that the company will not be liable for damages unless a claim therefor is presented within sixty days after the message is filed is reasonable and valid.[51] A sender is presumed to assent to this stipulation when he uses a blank on which it is printed or written, in preparing his message.[52] Such a stipulation is binding upon the addressee, his rights being controlled by the contract made with the sender.[53] The presentation of a claim must be in writing, fairly identifying the message in question, and stating the negligence complained of, and the nature and extent of the damages suffered.[54] The institution of suit and service of process upon the company may operate as a presentation, when service is within sixty days after the message was filed, and the process contains the information required to be given by a formal claim, or the declaration, containing such information, is filed within the prescribed time.[55] An agent of the company may waive the requirement as to such written notice by seeking information, and accepting verbal statements relative to the claim within the sixty-day period.[56] tarily went with a stranger, who treated her courteously, to another hotel, when her husband was found. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 69.

40. Construing Civ. Code 1902, § 2223. Capers v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 537.

41. News of illness received before plaintiff sent a telegram, the reply to which was delayed. Kopperl v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1018.

42, 43. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1856.

45. Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12.

46. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Cashman [C. C. A.] 132 F. 805.

47. Kopperl v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1018.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1860.

49. Rev. Code 1893, § 4326, construed. Hilley v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Miss.] 37 So. 556.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1856.

51. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Courtney [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 484.

52. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Courtney [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 484.

Note: As to contracts when telegrams are written on blanks of another company, or on blank paper, or when the message is given by telephone or orally, see note in 56 L. R. A. 741.

53. Whitehill v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 F. 499.

54. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Courtney [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 484.

55. Summons merely stating that defendant must answer in an action for $2,000 is not equivalent to a formal claim. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Courtney [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 484.

56. Hays v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 608.

Pleading and parties.[57]—Counts upon a breach of the contract to transmit cannot be joined with a count upon a breach of the common-law duty to deliver the message within a reasonable time.[58] Two persons whose injuries arise from negligence in delivery of a single message have separate causes of action.[59] An action being based on nondelivery, and not on erroneous transmission, allegations relative to mistakes in the wording of the message may be stricken.[60] Where two telegrams are to be construed together, both may be pleaded and relied on in an action for delay in their delivery.[61] In an action for negligent delivery, an allegation of the receipt of a previous message, announcing a death, is proper, to show notice by the company of promptness required in delivering the message in question.[62] Allegations looking to the recovery of punitive damages need not be stricken, though actual damages are also sought.[63] Other decisions as to the sufficiency of the complaint,[64] and answer,[65] and necessary parties,[66] are given in the notes.

Evidence, presumptions, burden of proof.[67]—Proof of receipt of a message is evidence tending to prove a contract to deliver[68] with reasonable promptness.[69] Proof of improper transmission, or delay in delivery, is presumptive evidence of negligence.[70] Where a complaint alleges wantonness and willfulness, and also negligence in failing to deliver a message, defendant is not entitled to a nonsuit on the whole cause of action, though there is no evidence of wantonness and willfulness.[71] Various decisions applying general rules as to burden of proof,[72] and competency and relevancy of evidence,[73] are given in the notes.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1857.

58. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waters, 139 Ala. 652, 36 So. 773.

59. As where a father and daughter were compelled to walk some distance through the rain, and pay hotel bills, by reason of failure to deliver a message sent by the father announcing their coming. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 580.

60. Jones v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 198.

61. First message informed of death and requested sister to come; second told of intention to bury at another place. Held, both should be construed together, and it was error to strike one and the allegations relating thereto from the complaint. Thomas v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 760.

62. Jones v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 198.

63. Bonner v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 117.

64. Complaint for damages for failure to deliver a message, alleging loss of a situation, and amendments alleging that plaintiff's residence was within free delivery limits, and the time during which plaintiff was out of employment, held good against demurrers. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493. That plaintiff did not allege that he would have attended a funeral, if he had received a death message in time, did not render the complaint demurrable. Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 119.

65. Where allegations of an answer admit that delivery was to be in Kentucky, other allegations that the contract was made with reference to the laws of West Virginia and that it was there performed, were mere conclusions and unavailing. Howard v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 982. Under the general issue, defendant may prove that the mental anguish alleged was caused by plaintiff's own negligence. Mitchiner v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 190.

66. In an action against a telegraph company for delay in delivery of message, caused by failure to send a service message to ascertain if charges for delivery outside free delivery limits had been paid or guaranteed, a telephone company through which the message was sent to the sending office of the telegraph company need not be joined. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kuykendall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 61.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1857, 1858.

68. Message was received by one not connected with company, and left on operator's desk, where he found it next morning and had it delivered. Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 119.

69. Message and extra charge for delivery outside free limits received, with notice of addressee's residence. Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12.

70. Poulnot v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 622.

Delay: Hellams v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 12; Harrison v. Western Union Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 381, 48 S. E. 772. Failure to deliver within reasonable time. Arial v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 6. Nondelivery of message until called for by sendee, company having received sendee's street number. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 165.

71. Under the act of 1898, providing that plaintiff need not elect where two or more acts of negligence are set out in the same complaint. Poulnot v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 622; Arial v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 6.

72. Plaintiff, in an action for mental an-

Questions of law and fact; instructions.[74]—The reasonableness of regulations fixing free delivery limits,[75] or office hours at a certain station,[76] is for the court. Whether a company was negligent in delivery,[77] or in notifying the sender of inability to transmit,[78] whether the company's negligence was the proximate cause of plaintiff's mental suffering,[79] and whether a delayed telegram would have been answered, if delivered, so as to relieve the sender's mind,[80] are held questions of fact. The usual rules as to instructions apply.[81]

§ 4. Telephone service.[82]—Telephone companies cannot lawfully discriminate between subscribers of the same class.[83] In an action to recover the penalty for discrimination in refusal to supply telephone service, under the Arkansas statute, the complaint must allege facts showing discrimination.[84] A suit for a mandatory injunction, and not for mandamus, is the proper remedy, in Kentucky, to compel installation of a telephone.[85] Punitive damages are recoverable for failure to give service, only on a showing of willful, oppressive or malicious misconduct.[86] In an action for failure to furnish telephone connections, damguish for failure to deliver a message, must establish his case by a preponderance of the evidence; evidence held insufficient. Mitchiner v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 190. But plaintiff need not prove want of contributory negligence. Dehougne v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1066. In a suit for damages for failure to inform a sender of a message of delay in its transmission, the burden is on the company to explain the delay, and in the absence of any showing, it will be presumed that the agent had such information as made it his duty to inform the sender of the delay. Swan v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 318. In an action for loss of employment by negligent delivery of message, the burden is on defendant to prove plaintiff could have obtained other employment by reasonable diligence. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493.

73. A plaintiff may not testify as to his particular conclusions and apprehensions from failure to receive a message. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538. The sendee may testify when, if he had received the message, he would have answered it. Id. In an action for delay in delivery of a telegram containing a bid for construction of a building, the evidence of persons to whom the bid was to be submitted that it would have been accepted if received in time, is competent. Texas & W. Tel. & T. Co. v. Mackenzie [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 581. Evidence tending to show that a messenger would have been directed to the addressee if he had gone to a person to whom he was directed is admissible in an action for delay in delivery. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695. In an action for loss of employment caused by failure to deliver a message, evidence of a conversation in which the contract of employment was made by plaintiff's agent was competent. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493. Where the defendant, in an action to recover a loss caused by erroneous transmission, introduces evidence that the error was made by the author of the message, the plaintiff may show on cross-examination that the error was made by the sending operator. Wolf Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 129.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1859.

75. Facts with reference thereto being undisputed. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Scott [Ky.] 87 S. W. 289.

76. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Love-Banks Co. [Ark.] 83 S. W. 949.

77. Whether a telegram was delivered within a reasonable time. Poulnot v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 622.

78. Notice that lines were down being received after message had been filed. Faubion v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 56.

79. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538.

80. Message inquiring as to mother's condition. Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 538.

81. Mental anguish for deprivation of privilege of moving father's remains not being alleged, an instruction thereon is erroneous. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowen [Tex.] 81 S. E. 27. Instruction requested by defendant company held not to have invited an instruction submitting such mental anguish as an element of damage. Id. An instruction to consider the plaintiff's mental suffering, if any, by reason of his not being present during the last hours of his mother's life, held not objectionable for not supplying a measure of damages, especially in view of other instructions. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1860.

83. Finding of trial court in mandamus that relator's residence was outside the limits of the territory in which a company was doing business sustained on appeal; denial of service not unlawful. Crouch v. Arnett [Kan.] 79 P. 1086.

84. Allegation held a mere conclusion of law, insufficient to show cause of action under Laws 1885, p. 178, c. 107, § 11. Phillips v. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 605.

85. Williams v. Maysville Tel. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 945, 82 S. W. 995. Petition to compel installation of telephone held not to show unreasonable charges or discrimination. Id.

86. In an action for punitive damages, evidence that the refusal was caused by lack of equipment and inability to handle the ages for breach of the contract for service may be counterclaimed.[87] A contract for telephone connection on condition that the subscriber will not use another system is contrary to public policy.[88]

§ 5. Quotation and ticker service.[89]

§ 6. Rates, tariffs and rentals.[90]—In exercising its power to direct the mode of construction of telephone lines, conferred by statute upon the probate court in Ohio, that court has no authority to prescribe or determine rates to be charged citizens for service.[91] A company is not estopped to deny the jurisdiction of the court to prescribe rates, by having applied for an order directing the mode of construction.[92]

§ 7. Offenses.[93]—Under the California statute making it a felony to send by telegraph a false or forged message with intent to deceive, an information charging the sending of such a message, with intent to deceive a certain person, is sufficient, though it does not allege the nature of the deceit.[94] An allegation that defendant sent a message, without alleging that it was sent by telegraph, is sufficient, where a previous allegation designated it as a telegraphic message.[95] In a prosecution for sending a forged telegram, proof that defendant furnished the operator a forged message to be sent does not constitute a variance.[96] A defendant who induces a woman to marry him by means of a forged telegram, purporting to withdraw the mother's objection to the marriage, is guilty of deceit within the meaning of the statute.[97]

TENANTS IN COMMON AND JOINT TENANTS.

§ 1. Definitions and Distinctions (1672). § 2. Rights and Liabilities Between Tenants (1674). The Possession (1674). A Conveyance by One (1675). Purchases (1675). Accountability, Contribution and Exoneration (1675). Agency (1676). The Right and Remedy of Partition (1677). Rents, Profits and Proceeds of the Property (1677). Interest (1677). Trespass and Waste (1677). Actions (1677). Replevin (1678).

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[98]—Joint tenancy rests on four unities: time, title, interest and possession,[99] while in a tenancy in common the only unity recognized is that of possession,[1] which in case of a water right must extend to business, and that other applicants had been refused for the same reason, while inadmissible as a defense, is competent in mitigation of damages. Gwynn v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460. Where plaintiff refused to pay full rentals for his house telephone, claiming it was defective, the act of the local manager in directing operators to refuse plaintiff connection with the long distance telephone, and in removing the house telephone before he was authorized to do so, was not such a wanton, willful, oppressive and malicious act as to warrant recovery of punitive damages. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Baker [Miss.] 37 So. 1012.

87. Code 1902, § 171. Gwynn v. Citizens' Telephone Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460.

88. Gwynn v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 460.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1861. Compare Exchanges and Boards of Trade, 3 Curr. L. 1397; Property, 4 Curr. L. 1087.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1861.

91. So much of an order as attempted to prescribe rates held void. State v. Toledo Home Tel. Co. [Ohio] 74 N. E. 162.

92. Question raised in quo warranto to oust company from use of streets for charging excessive rates. State v. Toledo Home Tel. Co. [Ohio] 74 N. E. 162.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1861.

94. Construing Pen. Code, § 474. People v. Chadwick, 143 Cal. 116, 76 P. 884.

95, 96. People v. Chadwick, 143 Cal. 116, 76 P. 884.

97. Though the woman was of full age, and the marriage was valid and not subject to annulment. People v. Chadwick, 143 Cal. 116, 76 P. 884.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1862.

99. See Cyc. Law Dict. "Joint Tenants." Testimony of the wife that she and her husband had a house built for themselves and occupied it, held sufficient evidence of their joint ownership. Harlow v. Standard Imp. Co., 145 Cal. 477, 78 P. 1045. Where two parties purchased land and had it conveyed to themselves jointly and one farmed the land, the other paying for half his time and half the other expense, the parties were joint owners of land and crops and not partners. Logan v. Oklahoma Mill Co., 14 Okl. 402, 79 P. 103.

1. See Cyc. Law Dict. "Tenants in Common." Deed to "A and the heirs of her body which she now has or may have by B, her husband," makes A and her children by B tenants in common of the fee. Reeves v. Cook [S. C.] 51 S. E. 93. One asserting exclusive ownership under a deed does not by the right of user.[2] The estate of tenancy in common is favored, and in many states it is provided by statute that a conveyance or devise to two or more persons shall be construed to create such an estate unless it is expressly provided or manifestly appears that a joint tenancy was intended.[3] Such statutes do not abolish the estate of joint tenancy,[4] but merely favor tenancies in common.[5] Husband and wife ordinarily hold a chose in action made to them jointly during coverture as tenants in common and not as joint tenants.[6] An ownership cast on several by operation of law is in common.[7] Partners hold the legal title to firm realty as tenants in common.[8] A purchaser of the share of one co-tenant becomes a co-tenant with the others.[9] Where heirs as co-tenants claim title through the adverse possession of their ancestor, they are bound by his acts and declarations relative to the nature of his possession.[10]

Estates in entirety as recognized at common law existed until the enactment of laws abolishing survivorship.[11] Such laws did not affect estates of this nature already vested.[12] In states where this estate is not in disfavor, it is, as at common law, created by a conveyance to husband and wife whether the consideration be furnished by one or both,[13] unless it is apparent from the terms of the grant or otherwise that a joint tenancy or tenancy in common was intended;[14] but a clause merely accepting a deed of an alleged interest of a widow as survivor of a community in such property, make himself tenant in common with the heirs of the deceased husband, and preclude himself from asserting title by limitation against them. York v. Hutcheson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 895.

NOTE. Relation created by a cropper's contract: The rule expounded by the late cases is that a contract between a laborer and the owner of the land by which the latter agrees to furnish the land, necessary teams, etc., and the former the labor, the crops to be divided equally or otherwise between them, makes them tenants in common of the crop until it is divided, no matter what the form of the contract. Adams v. State, 87 Ala. 89, 6 So. 270; Ponder v. Rhea, 32 Ark. 435; Creel v. Kirkman, 47 Ill. 344; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 48 Hun [N. Y.] 142; Reed v. McRill, 41 Neb. 206, 59 N. W. 775; Rohrer v. Babcock, 126 Cal. 222, 58 P. 537; State v. Jewell, 34 N. J. Law, 259; Anderson v. Liston, 69 Minn. 82; Strangeway v. Eisenman, 68 Minn. 395. But see Porter v. Chandler, 27 Minn. 301, 38 Am. Rep. 142.—From note to Kelly v. Rummerfield [Wis.] 98 Am. St. Rep. 961.

NOTE. Property commingled by consent makes the parties tenants in common in the mass in proportion to their respective shares. Low v. Martin, 18 Ill. 286; Van Liew v. Van Liew, 36 N. J. Eq. 637; Inglebright v. Hammond, 19 Ohio, 337, 50 Am. Dec. 430; Monographic note to Pulcifer v. Page [Me.] 54 Am. Dec. 590.—From note to Stone v. Marshall Oil Co. [Pa.] 101 Am. St. Rep. 917.

2. Does not exist where two file their claims to waters of a creek, construct a ditch from the point of diversion to the property of one where one-half the water is turned onto such property and the remainder onto the property of the other. City of Telluride v. Davis [Colo.] 80 P. 1051. Either may change his place of use or the point of its diversion if rights of the other are not infringed. Id. Water right. Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059.

3. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 3341, a devise "to be owned equally and jointly" creates a tenancy in common. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609.

4. The Act of March 31, 1812 (5 Smith's Laws, p. 395) merely takes away survivorship as an incident of joint tenancy. It makes no change where such an estate is expressly created. In re McCallum's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 903.

5. If the language of the instrument creating the estate be doubtful, it will be resolved in favor of a tenancy in common. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609.

6. Aubry v. Schneider [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 929.

7. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1696, providing that on the death of a wife community property descends one-half to the husband and one-half to the children, husband and children hold as tenants in common. Wiess v. Goodhue [Tex.] 83 S. W. 178.

8. The legal title to realty purchased with partnership funds, whether title be taken to the individuals composing the firm or to the partnership, is in the partners as tenants in common, but the equitable title is in the partnership. Hartnett v. Stillwell, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 276.

9. Purchaser at execution sale. Rippe v. Badger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 642.

10. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 136 N. C. 133, 48 S. E. 583.

11. In Kansas until enactment of Laws 1891, p. 349, c. 203. Holmes v. Holmes [Kan.] 79 P. 163.

12. Doctrine of survivorship would apply as to them. Holmes v. Holmes [Kan.] 79 P. 163.

13. Stalcup v. Stalcup [N. C.] 49 S. E. 210. Gen. St. 1865, c. 108, § 12, favoring tenancies in common over joint tenancies, does not apply to a deed to husband and wife and reduce the estate created to one in common. Wilson v. Frost [Mo.] 85 S. W. 375.

14. Conveyance to both under an agreement to convey one-half to each, each having furnished one-half the consideration, makes in the premises specifying that each is to hold an undivided half does not alter the effect of a deed which otherwise would create such an estate.[15] During their joint lives tenants by the entirety occupy as tenants in common.[16]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities between tenants.[17]—In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the interests of co-tenants are presumed to be equal.[18] A fiduciary relation exists between them.[19] All have an equal right of entry, therefore one cannot recover against the others for the use and occupancy of the property without an express contract to pay rent, or ouster.[20] They may contract with each other concerning the use of the common property,[21] and have the undoubted right to create the relation of landlord and tenant between themselves;[22] but such a contract can only exist by virtue of the mutual intention and agreement of the parties,[23] and does not arise by virtue of an agreement that one is to have exclusive occupancy and pay rent.[24] The co-tenants of personalty in possession may lawfully manage and control the same.[25] One co-tenant of a mining claim does not lose his interest to his co-tenant by not contributing to the assessment work of the latter.[26]

The possession of one is the possession of all.[27] Therefore one cannot acquire title by adverse possession without notice to the others that it is adverse,[28] or unless he does some act of which they should take notice;[29] but after ouster, adverse possession for the statutory period will give him title,[30] as where one occupies as equitable owner of the whole,[31] or commits acts of exclusive ownership of such nature as to preclude the idea of joint ownership, and such acts are brought home to the others or are of so open and public a character that a reasonable man would discover them;[32] but since the possession of one is presumed to be pursuant to his them tenants in common. Stalcup v. Stalcup [N. C.] 49 S. E. 210. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 4387, 6600, husband and wife held tenants in common and not by the entirety. Harrison v. McReynolds, 183 Mo. 533, 82 S. W. 120.

15. Neither the granting clause nor habendum suggested any other estate. Wilson v. Frost [Mo.] 85 S. W. 375.

16. Steenberger v. Low, 92 N. Y. S. 518.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1862.

NOTE. Rights in fixtures as between tenants in common, see Bronson on Fixtures, §§ 80-84.

18. Gilmer v. Beauchamp [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 907.

19. Where one in a suit to determine rights to land procures a decree by fraud on his co-plaintiffs, who have an interest in the land, he holds the land in trust to the extent of their interest, and a purchaser from them subsequent to the decree is in equity a co-tenant with him. Clevenger v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1062.

20. Wells v. Becker, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 174. Act June 24, 1895 (P. L. 237), providing for the liability of a co-tenant in possession to the others, does not apply to co-tenants under a lease for years, but only to owners who were co-tenants at common law. Id.

21. Smith v. Smith, 98 Me. 597, 57 A. 999. One may make a valid agreement with another to pay him for the use of his undivided share. Id.

22, 23. Smith v. Smith, 98 Me. 597, 57 A. 999. An agreement by one to pay his co-tenant a specific sum as his share of the monthly income, even though the term "rent" was used to signify such share, does not establish the relation of landlord and tenant unless it is so understood. Id.

24. That one, permitted to have the exclusive occupation, agrees to pay his co-tenant a compensation for the use of his undivided share, does not make his occupancy that of a tenant at will. Smith v. Smith, 98 Me. 597, 57 A. 999.

25. Their employment of a person to care for it will entitle him to a lien for his pay for such service, dependent on possession. Williamson v. Moore [Idaho] 80 P. 227.

26. Faubel v. McFarland, 144 Cal. 717, 78 P. 261.

27. The mere sole possession of one is not notice to purchasers of the shares of others of the right of such occupant to those shares under a prior unrecorded purchase. Martin v. Thomas [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 118.

28. Faubel v. McFarland, 144 Cal. 717, 78 P. 261. Not adverse to the others until ousted. Green v. Cannady [S. C.] 51 S. E. 92. Not adverse unless exclusive and under a claim of right continuing for the statutory period. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 136 N. C. 133, 48 S. E. 583. Where the deed of married women of their interest in land to one who also had an interest, was void, the grantee's possession was that of a joint tenant and not adverse. Furnish's Adm'r v. Lilly [Ky.] 84 S. W. 734. Evidence insufficient to show adverse possession by one. Mead v. Mead, 26 Ky. L. R. 777, 82 S. W. 598.

29. Keith v. Keith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 384.

30. Green v. Cannady [S. C.] 51 S. E. 92.

31. Did not recognize another's right of co-tenancy. Butcher v. Butcher [Mich.] 100 N. W. 604.

32. As where one plats the property and conveys the same by deeds of warranty and borrows money on the strength of his title. Cox v. Tompkinson [Wash.] 80 P. 1005. A title and consistent with the rights of the others,[33] there is no constructive ouster; positive hostile acts must be shown.[34] The possession of one co-tenant in a remainder is not adverse to the others until the death of the life tenant.[35] Where the facts as to disseisin are undisputed, the question of ouster is for the court.[36]

A conveyance by one of the entire property passes his interest;[37] but does not prejudice rights of the others,[38] if they have not ratified the sale,[39] or estopped themselves;[40] nor can one sell the entire property merely because the interests of all are chargeable with common debts.[41] Where the sale is to a purchaser with notice of the character of the property, the others may recover from him their share,[42] and if such purchaser has disposed of a part, they may recover the remaining portion.[43] Where one conveys his interest with a reservation and the other conveys to the same grantee without reservation, the one who makes the reservation has the exclusive right to it.[44]

Purchases.—One may purchase for his own benefit an outstanding interest;[45] but he cannot buy up outstanding incumbrances and foreclose them against his co-tenants without showing that they are liable for the entire amount of such incumbrances,[46] and one who purchases the common property at a tax sale acquires no greater interest than he had before, but merely has a claim against the others for reimbursement.[47]

Accountability, contribution and exoneration.[48]—One who pays off an incumbrance on the common property is entitled to contribution,[49] which may be recovconveyance by one by warranty deed of the entire property to bona fide purchasers who take possession and convey to others. Brigham v. Reau [Mich.] 102 N. W. 845. Where one who supposed he legally acquired the title of the others made valuable improvements and described himself in a deed of trust of the property as owning it. Hendricks v. Musgrove, 183 Mo. 300, 81 S. W. 1265. Adverse possession under color of title for 18 years. Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790.

33. Evidence to overcome this presumption must be strong. Coberly v. Coberly [Mo.] 87 S. W. 957.

34. Wells v. Becker, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 174. In North Carolina an ouster will not be presumed from possession for less than 20 years, even though such possession be under color of title. Bullin v. Hancock [N. C.] 50 S. E. 621.

35. Bullin v. Hancock [N. C.] 50 S. E. 621.

36. Hendricks v. Musgrove, 183 Mo. 300, 81 S. W. 1265.

37. Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790. In Michigan one tenant in common may in ejectment recover the entire premises as against a person who has no interest, hence their grantee may do so, though some of them did not properly execute the deed. Lamb v. Lamb [Mich.] 102 N. W. 645.

See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1864.

38. Conveyances of specific portion by one. Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790.

39. In trespass to try title to recover an entire tract, the petition cannot be construed as a repudiation or affirmation of what has been done by co-tenants in selling specific portions. Zimpelman v. Power [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 69.

40. One who does not join in a deed is not estopped to assert his interest by the fact that he witnessed an agreement of his co-tenant to sell the property, he not having known that the deed purported to convey the entire property. Faubel v. McFarland, 144 Cal. 717, 78 P. 261.

41. Sale by guardian of a minor co-tenant. Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790.

42. Sale of the entire proceeds of the common property to a purchaser with notice of its status. Logan v. Oklahoma Mill Co., 14 Okl. 402, 79 P. 103.

43. The grantee cannot oppose the claim to the undisposed portion, it being less than their undivided share. Zimpelman v. Power [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 69.

44. Reservation of a right to work a mine. City of New Haven v. Hotchkiss [Conn.] 58 A. 753.

45. He is not precluded from doing so though tenant in common of a remainder under a will devising an entire tract of which the testator owned but a part. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 136 N. C. 133, 48 S. E. 583.

46. Burnett v. Kirk [Wash.] 80 P. 855. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1864.

47. This principle is applicable where a husband as agent for his wife becomes the adjudicatee at a tax sale of property belonging in indivision to her and her coheirs, in a succession of which she is administratrix. Alexander v. Light, 112 La. 925, 36 So. 806.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1866. See, also, post, this section, "Rents and Profits."

49. A co-tenant who purchases the common property at a mortgage sale is a constructive trustee for a co-tenant who seasonably elects to share in the benefits by paying his portion of the expense. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74.

NOTE. Subrogation: Where one pays the whole, or more than his proportion, of an incumbrance, equity will consider the lien as still existing and sub-ered from a purchaser of his co-tenant's interest with notice of his rights.[50] One who pays off a mortgage without procuring a release of record and who knows that the interest of his co-tenant is to be sold under execution is not bound to attend the sale and notify prospective purchasers of his right to contribution.[51] The right to contribute and share in such benefits may be lost by laches[52] or waived.[53] One in possession is accountable for rents,[54] but he is entitled to recover moneys necessarily expended for taxes, insurance and necessary repairs;[55] but contribution cannot be had for improvements which do not inure to the benefit of all,[56] nor for improvements made by a disseisor,[57] nor can one recover from his co-tenant for services rendered in connection with the common property,[58] or commissions on collections.[59]

Agency.[60]—One is not the agent of the others,[61] unless by virtue of a contract,[62] but one may grant a license to enter the common property,[63] especially where it is done with the knowledge and consent of the other;[64] but a license given by one at a time he has no interest is not binding on his co-tenants when he afterwards acquires an interest.[65] One who is a member of a firm in possession under a lease for a year may in opposition to his co-tenant permit the firm to continue in possession temporarily without subjecting it to the liabilities of a tenant holding over.[66] In proceedings to foreclose a mortgage on the premises, one may procure rogate him to the rights of the creditor in order to enforce contribution. Oliver v. Lansing, 57 Neb. 352, 77 N. W. 802; Kinkead v. Ryan [N. J. Eq.] 55 A. 730; Haverford Loan, etc., Ass'n v. Fire Ass'n, 180 Pa. 522, 57 Am. St. Rep. 657. Compare Leach v. Hall, 95 Iowa, 611, 64 N. W. 790. But such right does not pass to a mortgagee under a mortgage purporting to convey the undivided interest of one. Oliver v. Lansing, 57 Neb. 352. Where one redeems from a mortgage, he may hold the land as if the mortgage still existed until the others contribute (Hubbard v. Ascutney Mill Dam Co., 20 Vt. 402, 50 Am. Dec. 41), and one paying a mortgage in ignorance that his co-tenant has conveyed his interest is substituted in the place of the mortgagee (Shaffer v. McCloskey, 101 Cal. 576, 36 P. 196). Where two purchase and give their note for the unpaid purchase money secured by a lien reserved in the deed, and one, to protect his own share, is compelled to pay the note, he will be subrogated to the vendor's security and may enforce his right to reimbursement against his co-purchaser or his vendee who, after partition, buys with notice of the incumbrance. Dowdy v. Blake, 50 Ark. 205, 7 Am. St. Rep. 88; Dobyns v. Rawley, 76 Va. 537; Miller's Appeal, 119 Pa. 620, 13 A. 504.—From note to American Bonding Co. v. National, etc., Bank [Md.] 99 Am. St. Rep. 532.

50. One paid off a mortgage but did not discharge it of record. His co-tenant's interest was sold under execution to one whose agent had notice of the insolvency of the co-tenant whose share was sold and of the possession of the other. Rippe v. Badger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 642. This right is not affected by Code, § 2925. Id.

51. Rippe v. Badger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 642.

52. Where an infant co-tenant neglects for a long time after attaining majority to sue to enforce his right. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74.

53. Infant co-tenant after attaining majority may waive. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74.

54. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449.

55. This recovery may be had in partition proceedings. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449.

56. Where parties acquired land as co-tenants and one put up valuable improvements and the other agreed to deed his interest to the former's wife in consideration of other land, he should not be charged for one-half the value of improvements. Minder v. Mottaz [Wash.] 79 P. 996.

57. Rippe v. Badger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 642.

58. Unless by virtue of special agreement. Gay v. Berkey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 920. Compensation for superintendence. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449.

59. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1865.

61. Cannot dedicate the common property to public use. Sherman Lime Co. v. Glens Falls, 91 N. Y. S. 994.

62. Where one with the approval of another leases the premises and the others make no objection, it will be presumed after the lapse of a considerable period that the lease was made with the knowledge and consent of all. Schwartz v. McQuaid [Ill.] 73 N. E. 582. One in possession is agent for the others and is accountable for their portion of the rents from the date he is notified to account. Moreira v. Schwan, 113 La. 643, 37 So. 542.

63. License to enter and construct a telephone line. Granger v. Postal Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 193.

64. Granger v. Postal Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 193.

65. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675.

66. Valentine v. Healey, 178 N. Y. 391, 70 N. E. 913.

a third person to pay the amount due and take an assignment of the mortgage for his benefit.[67]

The right and remedy of partition has been treated in a separate article.[68] The right cannot be prescribed against so long as the thing remains in common.[69] Where an answer does not deny an averment that partition in specie cannot be equitably made, such fact need not be proven,[70] and lack of such an averment may be cured by the answer.[71]

Rents, profits and proceeds of the property.[72]—One who is a disseisor is chargeable with the rental value of his co-tenant's share whether he receives it or not;[73] but one in possession cannot maintain action against another for rents received at a time the one receiving them was not asserting title in himself.[74] One in possession, applying the rents to the payment of the expenses of other common property, should cease such application on notice from the others that they do not consent to such use,[75] and they may recover their portion from the date of such notice,[76] but the income so used without objection from them will be accounted for in the settlement of the affairs of such other property.[77]

Interest.[78]—On accounting between co-tenants, interest may be allowed from the time settlement should have been made.[79]

Trespass and waste.[80]—One may restrain another from committing malicious waste tending to destroy the chief value of the property,[81] but only to the extent of his interest.[82]

Actions.[83]—Where co-owners cannot agree as to the administration of the property, one out of possession can sue for partition and an accounting, but not for possession and to recover his proportion of the rents.[84] If one in possession wrongfully confiscates the other's share of the rents and profits, they may sue to recover the same and to be reinstated in their rights.[85] An action at law for a portion of the income will not lie until an accounting has been had,[86] unless as against one in possession under an agreement to pay for the occupancy,[87] and a bill for an accounting by one out of possession, claiming to be a joint owner, cannot be maintained until the question of title is determined in an action at law.[88] One may recover possession from a trespasser, and a recovery inures to the benefit of all;[89] but where one is in possession and suit is brought against him to be al-

67. He is entitled to do this and to an order discontinuing the action, as a matter of right. Simonson v. Lauck, 93 N. Y. S. 965.

68. See Partition, 4 Curr. L. 898. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1865.

69. Rhodes v. Cooper, 113 La. 600, 37 So. 527.

70. Berry Lumber Co. v. Garner [Ala.] 38 So. 243.

71. A defect in a bill for sale and partition of the proceeds in that it does not allege that it cannot be partitioned in specie without impairing its value is cured by a denial of such fact in the answer. Taylor v. Webber, 26 Ky. L. R. 1199, 83 S. W. 567.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1867.

73. Rippe v. Badger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 642. Co-tenant who wrongfully excludes his tenant in common and works mines is liable without deduction of costs of mining from gross value of product. Sweeney v. Hanley [C. C. A.] 126 F. 97.

74. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74.

75, 76, 77. Moreira v. Schwan, 113 La. 643, 37 So. 542.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1867

79. Action on account rendered. Sieger v. Sieger, 209 Pa. 65, 58 A. 140.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1867.

81. Leatherbury v. McInnis [Miss.] 37 So. 1018.

82. Restrained from destroying one-half the trees. Leatherbury v. McInnis [Miss.] 37 So. 1018.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1868.

84, 85. Moreira v. Schwan, 113 La. 643, 37 So. 542.

86. Assumpsit will not lie. Hunt v. Rublee, 76 Vt. 448, 58 A. 724.

87. Chapman v. Duffy [Colo. App.] 79 P. 746.

88. Swearingen v. Barnsdall, 210 Pa. 84, 59 A. 477.

89. Keith v. Keith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 384. One alone may maintain ejectment against a stranger. Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382. In trespass to try title in the absence of objection because of want of proper parties, one may recover the entire property as against mere possessors without title. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

lowed the right of entry, all desiring the benefit of a recovery must join.[90] One suing alone can recover only his proportion of the rents and profits,[91] and one joint owner of personalty suing for damages for its injury can recover only his share.[92] Therefore he must prove with reasonable certainty the extent of his interest.[93]

Replevin, ordinarily, will not lie between co-tenants, but may be maintained where one repudiates the interest of others in property susceptible of division.[94]

TENDER; TERMS OF COURT, see latest topical index.

TERRITORIES AND FEDERAL POSSESSIONS.

§ 1. Political Status (1678).
§ 2. Organization and Government (1678).
§ 3. Jurisdiction, Powers, Duties and Liabilities (1678).
§ 4. Local Laws and Practice; Territorial Courts (1678).

§ 1. Political status.[95]

§ 2. Organization and government.[96]—The entire Potomac River, within the limits of the District of Columbia is subject to the legislative control of congress, as well in respect to matters of police as to all other subjects of legislation.[97] Congress may establish temporary governments for its possessions, and give to such governments the power to legislate for the territory under their control.[98] License fees imposed on certain lines of business in Alaska for the purpose of supporting the territorial government are not rendered unconstitutional by the fact that the taxes are paid into the treasury of the United States without any specific appropriation of them to the needs of the territory, the total sum derived from such fees and other revenues of the territory being insufficient to meet the expenses of the territorial government.[99]

§ 3. Jurisdiction, powers, duties and liabilities.[1]—During the occupation of the island of Cuba, after the treaty with Spain, the governor of the island became personally liable for wrongful interference with the property of a Spanish subject, in the course of his civil administration of Cuban affairs.[2] The District of Columbia has exclusive control of the streets of the city of Washington, and is charged with the duty of seeing that they are kept reasonably safe for the passage of persons using the traveled portions of such streets.[3]

§ 4. Local laws and practice; territorial courts.[4]—After the Philippines were ceded to the United States, the local laws regulating rights to property and prescribing rules for commercial transactions and prescribing the manner of formation of commercial associations continued in force;[5] hence a corporation created under those laws has a legal existence.[6] Congress has power to establish a system of trial

90. Keith v. Keith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 384.

91. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

92, 93. Waggoner v. Snody [Tex.] 85 S. W. 1134.

94. One repudiated his co-tenant's interest in cattle, divided them and sold one-half. Held, the other could replevin the half retained. Cornett v. Hall, 103 Mo. App. 353, 77 S. W. 122.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1868.

Note: A resume of the Philippine Island cases decided in the U. S. supreme court will be found in 3 Mich. L. R. 54.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1869.

97. Smoot v. District of Columbia, 23 App. D. C. 266.

98. Philippine Commission had power to enact the "libel law" of Oct. 24, 1901. Dorr v. U. S., 195 U. S. 138, 49 Law Ed. ——.

99. Alaska Pen. Code, tit. 2, § 460, as amended by Act of June 6, 1900. Binns v. U. S. 194 U. S. 486, 48 Law. Ed. 1087; Wynn-Johnson v. Shoup, 194 U. S. 496, 48 Law. Ed. 1091.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1869.

2. Spanish franchise taken on the ground that it was a monopoly; complaint based on the act held good on demurrer. O'Reilly De Camara v. Brooke, 135 F. 384.

3. Must use reasonable care in removing shade trees. Ward v. District of Columbia, 24 App. D. C. 524.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1870.

5, 6. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co. v. U. S., 39 Ct. Cl. 225.

of crimes and offenses committed in the Philippine Islands, without providing therein for trial by jury,[7] and the constitution does not, of its own force, and without legislation, give the people of the Philippines the right to such trial.[8] Alaska, however, has been so incorporated into the United States by the treaty under which it was acquired, by acts of congress, and by decisions of the Federal supreme court, that in legislating for that territory, congress is to be governed by the Federal constitution.[9] Hence the provision of the act of June 6, 1900, that six jurors shall constitute a legal jury in trials for misdemeanors in Alaska, is repugnant to the sixth amendment and void.[10] The constitutional provision that no one shall be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense having been extended to the Philippine Islands by the act of July 1, 1902, the government cannot appeal from a judgment of acquittal rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction in the islands.[11] The act of 1902 changed former military orders and acts of the Philippine commission, so far as such right of appeal had been recognized by them.[12]

The jurisdiction of the Federal court for the district of Porto Rico extends to all cases which could be brought in a federal circuit court.[13] The Federal supreme court has jurisdiction of an appeal from the Federal district court for Porto Rico in the same cases in which it may review the final judgment of a supreme court of one of the territories.[14] The statutes of Hawaii, conferring upon the judges of the several courts, at chambers, within their respective jurisdictions, judicial power not incident or ancillary to some cause pending before a court, are not in conflict with the organic act of the territory.[15]

TESTAMENTARY CAPACITY; THEATERS; THEFT, see latest topical index.

THREATS.[16]

The language or conduct which will constitute the unlawful use of threats need not be such as to induce a fear of personal injury.[17] Any words or acts which are calculated and intended to cause an ordinary person to fear an injury to his person, business or property, are equivalent to threats.[18] A combination which contemplates the use of threats to induce workmen to abandon the service of their employers is criminal.[19] Coupled with other matters, a threat may be an assault,[20] or a false imprisonment,[21] or a false pretence,[22] or a postal offense,[23] or it may justify violent or forcible self protection.[24]

An indictment for "white-capping" by posting threatening or ominous unsigned notices, under the Texas statute, must aver that persons were to have been intimidated, and if the threat was ambiguous, must aver facts showing how it was

7. Conviction in trial, without jury, in Manila, upheld. Dorr v. U. S., 195 U. S. 138, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

8. Dorr v. U. S., 195 U. S. 138, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

9, 10. Rassmussen v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 514.

11. Kepner v. U. S., 195 U. S. 100, 49 Law. Ed. ——; Secundino Mendezona y Mendezona v. U. S., 195 U. S. 158, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

12. Military order No. 58, and act of Philippine commissions, Aug. 10, 1901. Kepner v. U. S., 195 U. S. 100, 49 Law. Ed.——; Secundino Mendezona y Mendezona v. U. S., 195 U. S. 158, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

13. By provisions of 31 Stat. at L. 84, c. 191. Hijo v. U. S., 194 U. S. 315, 48 Law. Ed. 994.

14. As action to recover value of use of vessel taken in Spanish war and used by quartermaster's department, amount involved being more than $5,000. Hijo v. U. S., 194 U. S. 315, 48 Law. Ed. 994.

15. Section 81 continues in force previous laws of Hawaii concerning "the civil courts, their jurisdiction and procedure." Carter v. Gear, 25 S. Ct. 491.

16. Includes the statutory crime of making threats and like statutory crimes.

17, 18. State v. Stockford [Conn.] 58 A. 769.

19. Gen. St. § 1296 construed. State v. Stockford [Conn.] 58 A. 769.

20. Assault and Battery, 3 Curr. L. 319.

21. False imprisonment, 3 Curr. L. 1417.

22. False Pretenses and Cheats, 3 Curr. L. 1419.

23. Postal Law, 4 Curr. L. 1061.

24. Assault and Battery, 3 Curr. L. 319; Homicide, 3 Curr. L. 1643.

to do so.[25] Mere animadversions toward the class of persons to which certain ones belong do not suffice to prove the posting of a notice against them.[26]

TICKETS, see latest topical index.

TIME.[27]

When time is an element of a fact, its beginning is deemed to have been coincident with the first moment of the first day of the event.[28] When years are reckoned, the first day is included.[29] A legal day commences at 12 o'clock at night and continues until the same hour the following night,[30] and in the computation of time, fractions of a day are not reckoned.[31] Hence a person attains majority on the day preceding his twenty-first birthday.[32] In computing time, Sunday is to be included unless the last day falls on Sunday;[33] but when a statute requires an act to be done within a certain number of days, Sunday must be reckoned as one, though it happens to be the last, unless expressly or impliedly excluded,[34] and a statute providing that time shall be computed by excluding the first and including the last day, and if the last be Sunday, it shall be excluded, does not apply to an order extending the time for serving a case made.[35] When an act is required to be done within a specified period from or after a particular date, the general rule is to exclude the day thus designated and include the last day of the specified period;[36] but where an act is required to be done within a certain time, the last day is excluded.[37] When time is given until a certain date, "until" is ordinarily exclusive unless it be shown that the contrary was intended;[38] but "by" a certain date includes the day designated.[39] In cases of doubt, that construction will be adopted which will protect rights and save forfeitures.[40]

25. An indictment for posting a whitecap notice directed against D. and P. held insufficient, the notice being addressed to "Mr. Nigs" and it not being alleged that either of the persons mentioned were negroes. Bettis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1074.

26. Evidence held insufficient to sustain a conviction for whitecapping. Bettis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1074.

27. Includes only rules for measuring lapse of time. See Contracts (Time as essential to performance) 3 Curr. L. 805, also the topics treating of particular acts, things or proceedings for the time within which they may be done, or during which they may subsist.

28. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

29. For limitation purposes. Vose v. Kuhn, 45 Misc. 455, 92 N. Y. S. 34. A year in law is 365 calendar days. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

30. Cheek v. Preston [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1048.

31. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758.

32. A person born June 9, 1883, is eligible to vote June 8, 1904. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1871, n. 25. Swift & Co. v. Wood [Va.] 49 S. E. 643. Where an offer to sell is made on Sunday to expire the following day, Sunday is included in calculating the time; limit does not extend until Tuesday. Ropes v. John Rosenfeld's Sons, 145 Cal. 671, 79 P. 354.

34. Under Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 3, requiring publication of notice of a public improvement, Sunday is to be included, though it be the last day of publication. Code, § 382, providing that it shall be excluded, being applicable only to procedure in courts of record. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117. The fact that the last day of the period of limitations falls on Sunday does not authorize the commencement of an action the following day. Vose v. Kuhn, 45 Misc. 455, 92 N. Y. S. 34.

35. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 722, where the time within which to serve a case made was extended to August 10, service was required before the expiration of August 9, though the 9th fell on Sunday. Buck's Stove & Range Co. v. Davidson [Kan.] 79 P. 119.

36. Where a lease granting an option to purchase at its expiration terminated on October 1st, the lessee could accept the option at any time during the day. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758. Under Const. 1876, art. 14, § 2, providing that all uncertified land certificates shall be returned to the General Land Office within five years after the adoption of the constitution, the day on which the constitution took effect is to be excluded. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607. An order giving 60 days to prepare a bill of exceptions means 60 days after the day of date. Gates v. Davis [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1132.

37. Under Va. Code 1904, p. 6, a notice for judgment served on the 21st and returned on the 26th day of the month is not returned within five days. Swift & Co. v. Wood [Va.] 49 S. E. 643.

38. Carver v. Seevers [Iowa] 102 N. W. 518.

39. A tenant notified October 13 to quit

TIME TO PLEAD, see latest topical index.

TOLL ROADS AND BRIDGES.[41]

§ 1. Franchises and Rights of Way, and Acquisition by Public (1681).
§ 2. Public Aid and Immunities (1681).
§ 3. Establishment, Construction, Location and Maintenance (1681).
§ 4. Right of Travel and Tolls (1682).

§ 1. Franchises and rights of way, and acquisition by public.[42]—The legislature having granted a turnpike company an unrestricted charter, the company is not bound by a general act subsequently passed limiting tolls.[43]

Acquirement by public.[44]—Under the Pennsylvania law successive petitions for condemnation of a toll road may be filed within a year of each other.[45] A bona fide purchase of a turnpike by the public is not a violation of a constitutional provision prohibiting a corporation from selling its franchise.[46]

§ 2. Public aid and immunities.[47] Taxation.[48]—That the upper portion of a toll bridge is used by trains engaged in interstate commerce[49] and is in two counties[50] does not effect its taxability. An additional tax imposed by the county in which the state license is collected is a mere appendage to the state levy, and must be paid in the county where the state levy is made.[51] The fact that a toll bridge is on the right of way of a railroad company,[52] and that its upper portion is used as a railroad bridge,[53] does not prevent a license being required. The amount of the tax is largely governed by statutes.[54] The assessment description must accurately describe the interest the company has in the land.[55] at the expiration of 10 days has all day the 23d in which to comply with the notice under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1304, declaring that in computing time the first day shall be included and the last excluded. Cheek v. Preston [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1048.

§ 3. Establishment, construction, location and maintenance.[56]—Only those whom a special form of construction was to benefit can bring an action for damage resulting from its breach.[57]

NOTE. Meaning of various words: The word "until" appearing in a statute or contract must be taken as implying an intention to exclude the day to which it refers. People v. Walker, 17 N. Y. 502; Buner v. Reed, 16 Barb. [N. Y.] 374; Ryan v. State Bank, 10 Neb. 524; Willey v. Laraway, 64 Vt. 566. When time is given until a certain day to file a bill of exceptions, it may be filed on or before that day. Newport News Co. v. Thomas, 96 Ky. 613. But the above rule must yield when the intention to include it is manifest (Kendall v. Kingsley, 120 Mass. 94); and the word "may," in a contract or a law has an exclusive or inclusive meaning, depending upon the subject, transaction or connection about or in which it is used (Webster v. French, 12 Ill. 302). If an act is required to be done "within" a certain number of days, the day of date is to be excluded. Bemis v. Leonard, 118 Mass. 502; Grant v. Paddock, 30 Or. 312. "Between" excludes both the first and last days. Wier v. Thomas, 44 Neb. 507, 48 Am. St. Rep. 741; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Mehrhof Bros., 53 N. J. Law, 205. "Before" is exclusive of the date named. Alston v. Falconer, 42 Ark. 114. "To" a certain date includes it. Clark v. Ewing, 87 Ill. 344; Conawingo, etc., Co. v. Cunningham, 75 Pa. 138. "Forthwith" means within twenty-four hours. Champlin v. Champlin, 2 Edw. Ch. 328.—From note to State v. Michel [La.] 78 Am. St. Rep. 386. See, also, note to Halbert v. San Saba Springs L. & L. Ass'n [Tex.] 49 L. R. A. 193, for exhaustive review of cases on computation of time.

40. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607.

41. Matters of general highway (3 Curr. L. 1593) or bridge (3 Curr. L. 529) law or corporation (3 Curr. L. 880) law applied to toll road or bridge companies are excluded.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1872.

43. Heath v. Manire [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 808.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1873.

45. Perkiomen v. Sumneytown Turnpike Road, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 462.

46. Roush v. Vanceburg, etc., Turnpike Co. [Ky. L. R.] 85 S. W. 735.

47, 48. See 2 Curr. L. 1873.

49, 50, 51, 52, 53. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629, 37 So. 85.

54. Under Acts 1900-01, p. 2620, § 17, subd. 38, a toll bridge having a city of 5,000 inhabitants within 2 miles of one end and a city of over 2,000 but less than 5,000 inhabitants within two miles of the other end is liable for a tax of $75. Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629, 37 So. 85.

55. Assessment description "five miles of highway is fatally defective," it being shown that the turnpike company simply had a public easement in the highway. People v. Selkirk [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 248.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1874.

57. The duty imposed by charter upon the Bergen Turnpike Co. with regard to the condition of the middle portion of its turnpike was designed for the benefit of travelers

§ 4. Right of travel and tolls.[58]—A turnpike road is a public highway; every traveler has the right to use it upon paying toll; it cannot be closed against the public use; its obstruction is a public nuisance for which indictment will lie;[59] hence the turnpike company cannot authorize any act inconsistent with these rights.[60] A borough through which the turnpike runs has the power to make reasonable regulations to prevent what, if done on any other public highway within its limits, would be a public nuisance, provided no right or franchise of the turnpike company is abridged or infringed.[61] An act exempting persons on horseback does not apply to persons traveling in wagons.[62]

TORTS.

§ 1. Elements of a Tort (1682).
§ 2. What is an Injury or Wrong (1684).
§ 3. What is Damage (1684).
§ 4. Parties in Torts (1684).

§ 1. Elements of a tort.[63]—A tort is an act or omission which is related to harm suffered by a determinate person.[64] It may be an act which without lawful justification or excuse is intended to cause harm,[65] such as procuring a violation of contract,[66] or an act or omission causing harm which the person so acting or omitting did not intend to cause but might and should with due diligence have foreseen and prevented,[67] or it may, in special cases, consist merely in not avoiding or preventing harm which the party was bound absolutely or within limits to avoid or prevent.[68] It is not necessary that he should have been able to foresee the injury that did in fact result, if he should have foreseen that injury of some nature would probably result.[69] There must be a violation of a legal duty owed by virtue of common law[70] or statute,[71] such as one's right of privacy,[72] personal security,[73] and not of adjacent landowners. Kaufman v. Bergen Turnpike Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 109.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1875.

59. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

60. A telegraph company can acquire no right from a turnpike company, whose road is a borough street, to maintain its wires and poles in such negligent manner as to endanger the lives and limbs of those who travel on the same, or to interfere unnecessarily with the extinguishment of fires, or, unnecessarily, to impede travel. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

61. Norwood Borough v. Western Union Tel. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

62. Sess. Acts 1899, p. 869, c. 369, exempting persons going to or returning from a gristmill on horseback with grain for family use from toll, does not apply to one carrying grain in a wagon. Heath v. Manire [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 808.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1875.

64. Tenant negligent in care of premises by reason of which a stranger passing in the street was injured. Hirschfield v. Alsberg, 93 N. Y. S. 617. Changing channel of a stream so as to cause another's land to be overflowed. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Gurley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 842.

Note: Effect of bad motive to make actionable what would otherwise not be. See note to Passaic Print Works v. Ely & W. Dry Goods Co., 105 F. 163, 62 L. R. A. 673.

65. See Assault and Battery, 3 Curr. L. 319. Master wrongfully blacklisting a servant. Willis v. Muscogee Mfg. Co., 120 Ga. 597, 48 S. E. 177.

66. Unlawfully procuring one to be discharged from his employment. Suarez v. McFall Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 744. The malicious procurement of a breach of contract during its subsistence is actionable. Employing Printers' Club v. Doctor Blosser Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 353. Persuading a breach of contract relations between parties where the persuasion is used for the direct purpose of injuring a party. Morehouse v. Terrill, 111 Ill. App. 460.

67. See Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764. Evidence held to show a connection between defendant's wrongful conduct and plaintiff's loss. First Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786. Where an act is itself lawful, liability depends, not on the consequences flowing from it, but upon whether a prudent man would have foreseen that injury would naturally or probably result. Drum v. Miller, 135 N. C. 204, 47 S. E. 421.

68. Injuries caused by dangerous instrumentalities in one's control. A vicious dog. Grissom v. Hofius [Wash.] 80 P. 1002. One whose duty it is to receive and keep animals fereae naturae is not liable in the absence of negligence. Keeper of National Zoological Park. Jackson v. Baker, 24 App. D. C. 100.

69. Drum v. Miller, 135 N. C. 204, 47 S. E. 421.

70. Where an employer has a right to discharge an employe, it is not an actionable wrong for another to procure him to do so. Holder v. Cannon Mfg. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 681. It is not a tort for one to procure another to persuade a testator not to change or personal liberty,[74] and such wrong must cause damage.[75] A conspiracy to do a wrongful act is not a tort.[76] The wrong consists in doing acts pursuant to the conspiracy.[77] The wrong must be the proximate cause of the injury, but need not be the nearest in point of time or sequence of events.[78] If it be the efficient and proximate cause, it is immaterial that a remote or incidental cause intervene.[79]

As a general rule, consent to a wrong is a complete justification; but if the wrong constitutes a crime, the consent is void and is no defense.[80] An offer to repair the damage caused is no defense.[81]

One may waive his right of action in tort and proceed in assumpsit,[82] but after he makes his election, he is precluded from thereafter proceeding in tort.[83]

his will so as to name as a beneficiary one in whose favor he had expressed a desire to change it. Marshall v. De-Haven, 209 Pa. 187, 58 A. 141. A railroad company owes trespassers no duty of providing them safe appliances. Hortenstine v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 102 Va. 914, 47 S. E. 996. Nor in regard to the rate of speed or schedule of its trains. Id. One whose duty toward another is fixed by the requirements of a contract is not liable in tort for the violation of such contract. Galbraith v. Illinois Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 485. A railroad company owes no duty to delay its train for a belated passenger. Pickett v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 466.

71. Failure of a railroad company to put in culverts as required by Rev. St. 1895, art. 4436. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Gurley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 842.

72. Violation of one's right of privacy is a tort. Pavesich v. New England Life Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 68, disapproving and critlcising Roberson v. Rochester Folding Box Co., 171 N. Y. 540, 64 N. E. 442, 89 Am. St. Rep. 828, 59 L. R. A. 478. The publication of one's photograph without his consent is a violation of his right of privacy. Id.

73. Personal security includes the right to exist and enjoy life and is invaded by a deprivation of those things which are necessary to enjoy life according to the nature, desires and temperament of the individual. Pavesich v. New England Life Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 68.

NOTE. Liability of proprietor of public resort for insult to guests: The defendant owned and maintained a park used as a place of public resort. One of its servants mistook the plaintiff for a woman of ill repute, and requested her to leave. No publication of defamatory matter was charged, and the employe, as well as the defendant's manager, apologized almost immediately. Held, that every person not a member of a prescribed class, has a right to be free from insult and personal indignities in a public resort, and that the plaintiff may recover for the mental humiliation which she suffered. Davis v. Tacoma R. & Power Co., 35 Wash. 203, 77 P. 209.

No court has gone so far as to recognize a general right to be free from insults causing only mental suffering. See Reed v. Maley, 25 Ky. L. R. 209, 74 S. W. 1079; Prince v. Ridge, 66 N. Y. S. 454. The establishment of such a right would render useless the limitations of the law of libel and slander, and open wide the door to fraudulent litigation. The Washington case must be regarded as an attempt to extend the liability of the owner of property toward invited persons. The most that a host has been held for hitherto is physical injury to guests from the dangerous condition of the premises; and to enlarge his responsibility as suggested would make his position unduly difficult. Furthermore, it would seem for the public good that the proprietors of public resorts should not be held to act at their peril in ejecting obnoxious persons. The responsibility of railroads for insults to passengers by employes does not furnish a conclusive argument by analogy, for the rule in those cases is founded on the peculiar law of carriers, a class within which street railway parks do not fall. See Purcell v. Daly, 19 Abb. N. C. [N. Y.] 301; Gillespie v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 178 N. Y. 347, 70 N. E. 857, 18 Harv. L. R. 153.

74. Personal liberty includes not only freedom from physical restraint, but also the right to be let alone, to determine one's mode of life whether it shall be a life of publicity or of privacy. Pavesich v. New England Life Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 68.

75. Where there is no proof of damage, it is proper to grant a nonsuit. McEarchern & Co. v. Edmondson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 798. Fraud to procure a void release is no damage. Walker v. Russell [Mass.] 71 N. E. 86. Under Sherman's Anti-Trust Act (26 Stat. 209) § 7, a complaint must show that by reason of the unlawful act committed plaintiff has been injured in his business. Rice v. Standard Oil Co., 134 F. 464.

76. Green v. Davies, 91 N. Y. S. 470.

77. Green v. Davies, 91 N. Y. S. 470. A combination of two or more persons to injure one in his trade by inducing his employes to break their contract with him is actionable if damage results. Employing Printers' Club v. Doctor Blosser Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 353.

78. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Obstruction of watercourse held the proximate cause of loss by another because he could not float his logs through. Creech v. Humptulips Boom & River Imp. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 633.

79. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2.

80. McNeil v. Mullin [Kan.] 79 P. 168.

81. Berry v. Ryan [Colo. App.] 79 P. 977.

82. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98. One who brings an action of attachment against a party accused of fraud in obtaining goods affirms the sale to him and waives the tort. Ermeling v. Gibson Canning Co., 105 Ill. App. 196. See, also, cases cited in Assumpsit, 3 Curr. L. 348; Implied Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 1690.

§ 2. What is an injury or wrong.[84]—Whatever invades a man's right of dominion over his property is a legal injury whether damage ensues or not.[85] There is no liability for acts done in the performance of governmental duties,[86] nor for erroneous judicial acts committed in a proceeding in which jurisdiction has been acquired.[87]

§ 3. What is damage.[88]—For damage caused as the result of an inevitable accident, there can be no recovery.[89]

§ 4. Parties in torts.[90]—Joint tort feasors are jointly and severally liable,[91] and a concert in illegal acts makes the wrongdoers jointly liable, though they act singly and without unlawful combination;[92] but contributors to an injury are liable for whatever damage is caused by their respective wrongful acts, and none other.[93] Where a joint tort is charged, there must be proof of community of fault in order to authorize a recovery;[94] but if the proof fails to show concert of action, 83. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1876.

85. To wrongfully cause water to flow on another's land which would not flow there naturally. Allen v. Stowell, 145 Cal. 666, 79 P. 371.

86. Wrongful arrest by servant of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society. Berman v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 732. Officer shooting a fugitive while attempting to arrest him. Sharp v. Erie R. Co., 90 App. Div. 502, 85 N. Y. S. 553. Acts of public officers within the limits of power conferred upon them are acts of the state. Litchfield v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 1016.

87. McVeigh v. Ripley [Conn.] 58 A. 701.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1876.

89. Collision because of a dense fog. Kenova Transp. Co. v. Monongahela River Consol. Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 844.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1877.

91. Bailey v. Delta Elec. Light, Power & Mfg. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 354; Weathers v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 908. Complaint joining a railroad company with its employes, but alleging negligence only by the employes, the company's liability being based wholly on the fact that the acts of the employes were within the scope of their employment, does not charge a joint tort. Sessions v. Southern Pac. Co., 134 F. 313. Persons who jointly start and allow a fire to spread. Dunn v. Newberry [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 626. Each partner is liable for the torts of the co-partnership. Grissom v. Hofius [Wash.] 80 P. 1002. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2864, all parties whose acts contributed to an unlawful death are jointly and severally liable, but the fact that the one sued was held not the proper party does not establish the liability of the other. Packard v. Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 181 Mo. 421, 80 S. W. 951. Where two or more parties are guilty of negligent conduct resulting in a common injury, such fact affords no defense in an action brought against one of the parties on account of the injury. Dayton v. City R. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 41. For an injury caused by the negligence of a servant while engaged in the business of his master, both master and servant are liable. Indiana Nitroglycerin & Torpedo Co. v. Lippincott Glass Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 183.

Note: The plaintiff brought a joint action against a railroad company and its special officer for injuries inflicted by the latter. A nonsuit was entered as to the company and a judgment was rendered against the officer. The entry of nonsuit was appealed. Held, that since the plaintiff has one judgment on the joint action, the judgment of nonsuit cannot be reversed. Higby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 453.

An injured party may, at his election, sue joint tort-feasors jointly or severally. Cabell v. Vaughan, 1 Wm. Saund. 291f; Sessions v. Johnson, 95 U. S. 347, 24 Law. Ed. 596 (semble). Logically once having made his choice, he cannot turn a joint into a several action. Accordingly, in Pennsylvania, a plaintiff having alleged a joint tort is not allowed to enter a nolle prosequi as to one defendant and recover as to another, for a several tort. Wiest v. Electric, etc., Co., 200 Pa. 148; Wallace v. Third Avenue R. Co., 36 App. Div. [N. Y.] 56. In the principal case the plaintiff elected a joint action and the nonsuit could not change its nature. The judgment secured was a joint, and on principle he could not split it by appealing from that part constituted by the nonsuit. Compare Leese v. Sherwood, 21 Cal. 151. The court rests its decision on this narrow ground of technical procedure, but modern practice generally allows greater liberality. The action has been considered both joint and several, and so, in New York, a contrary decision was reached. Hurley v. New York, etc., Co., 13 App. Div. [N. Y.] 167. For purposes of review the action was regarded as severed, and a new trial granted as to one defendant.—18 Harv. L. R. 229.

92. Green v. Davies, 91 N. Y. S. 470.

93. Individual acts of several causing pollution of a stream. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14. If two acting independently contribute to an injury, each is liable only for his proportion. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Gurley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 842.

94. Sturzebecker v. Inland Traction Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 583. A joint judgment cannot be sustained as to one unless it be sustained as to all. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Stanford, 104 Ill. App. 99.

plaintiff may amend and proceed against the party liable.[95] As a general rule there is no contribution among joint tort feasors,[96] but where the offense is merely malum prohibitum and does not involve moral delinquency, it is not against the policy of the law to inquire into the relative delinquency and to administer justice between them, although both parties are wrongdoers.[97] The giving of one joint tort feasor the right of contribution against others at any time before he has paid the judgment works a change in the remedy, not in the right.[98] Full satisfaction by one releases all.[99]

TOWAGE, see latest topical index.

TOWNS; TOWNSHIPS.[1]

§ 1. Creation, Organization, Status and Boundaries (1685).
§ 2. General Powers and Exercise Thereof (1686).
§ 3. Property (1686).
§ 4. Contracts (1686).
§ 5. Officers and Employes (1687).
§ 6. Fiscal Affairs and Management and Expenses (1687).
§ 7. Claims (1688).
§ 8. Torts (1688).
§ 9. Actions by and Against (1689).

§ 1. Creation, organization, status and boundaries.[2]—Towns are incorporated for two distinct purposes; first, for the welfare of their own inhabitants; second, for the general welfare;[3] where one has existed and exercised its powers for a long time, the validity of its charter cannot be questioned.[4] In Wisconsin a town containing an unincorporated village may by resolution direct that all powers conferred on village boards may be exercised by the town board.[5] In Nebraska a township is only a quasi corporation.[6] A town's identity is not changed by its transference from one county to another,[7] or if the boundary lines have been changed, it may become the legal successor of the old township;[8] but a town is not liable on warrants previously issued by a road district, part of which has been included in the town.[9] Where commissioners are appointed to divide a township in Pennsylvania, the inhabitants have a right to a hearing, and it is the duty of the commissioners to give notice thereof.[10]

95. Sturzebecker v. Inland Traction Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 583.

96. Conspirators. Ladd v. Ney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1007.

97. A contractor can recover from a subcontractor for injury caused a traveler because of his negligence in leaving the street in a dangerous condition if he did not personally participate in the work. Phoenix Bridge Co. v. Creem, 92 N. Y. S. 855. Where two are liable but one took no part in the wrongful act and had no notice in time to guard against it, he is entitled to indemnity against the active wrong doer. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258.

98. Statute having this effect being remedial may be retroactive. First Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786.

99. Bailey v. Delta Elec. Light, Power & Mfg. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 354. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258.

1. Scope of topic. The same relative scope has been given as to Municipal Corporations, see ante, p. 720.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1877.

3. Under the first head the town may be liable in contract or tort for the acts of its officers; under the second it is not liable, as in the case here, of injury to a prisoner from a defective lockup. Mains v. Inhabitants of Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

4. A Vermont town had existed under a charter granted by a Lieut. Governor of N. Y. for over 100 years. Town of Readsboro v. Woodford, 76 Vt. 376, 57 A. 962.

5. Such powers were not required to be exercised by the electors, but might be exercised by the town board. Bennett v. Nebagamon [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1039.

6. It accepts no special charter, but the system of government may be forced on them against their will. Wilson v. Ulysses Tp. of Butler County [Neb.] 101 N. W. 986.

7. It remains liable on its bonds. Planters' & Sav. Bank v. Huiett Tp., 132 F. 627.

8. It will be liable for the bonds of the old township where it contains substantially the same territory. Taylor v. Pine Grove Tp., 132 F. 565; Susong v. Cokesbury Tp., 132 F. 567.

9. The liability remains on the county, and it may levy a road tax on the part of the district not embraced within the town. Custer County Bank v. Custer County [S. D.] 100 N. W. 424.

10. On an appeal where the report is ambiguous as to notice and there is no exception, it will be presumed that the commissioners did their duty. Stowe Tp. Division, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 285.

The boundary line between two towns may be the bank instead of the center of a stream.[11] The doctrine of prescription is applicable to boundary lines between towns unless the statute confines the courts to locating the true or charter line.[12]

§ 2. General powers and exercise thereof.[13]—The authority of township trustees is not necessarily repealed or abridged by a later act conferring similar power upon county commissioners "to provide for the abolition of dangerous grade crossings."[14] A town authorized to provide a system of fire protection may borrow money and issue its bonds.[15]

Town meetings can only take action on matters mentioned in the notice or warning calling the town meeting;[16] the failure of the clerk to post the proper notice of the biennial town meeting or the submission of misleading questions renders the action of the meeting void,[17] unless the will of the people has been fairly expressed.[18]

§ 3. Property.[19]—A town may lease land which it owns for any legitimate purpose, and it may acquire land by adverse possession.[20]

§ 4. Contracts.[21]—Town supervisors can only bind the town when acting together and not when acting separately.[22] A single supervisor can only bind the township in a ministerial matter; in any others there must be deliberation, and he cannot delegate his power to fellow supervisors.[23] It is the duty of a township trustee to sign a contract with the bidder, whose bid is approved by the advisory board.[24] Water commissioners[25] or highway commissioners are not agents of the town with authority to bind the town on contracts.[26] The fact that village officers

11. In that case the town may not be liable under a statute for its one-half of a bridge over streams forming boundary lines, but may be liable equitably for its proportion. Town of East Fishkill v. Wappinger, 97 App. Div. 7, 89 N. Y. S. 599. Towns may be jointly liable to construct a bridge, though the stream does not run along the boundary line, but traverses it. In re Towns of Madrid, Waddington, and Louisville, 44 Misc. 431, 90 N. Y. S. 110.

12. V. S. 140, providing for appointment of commissioners by the court to establish the line, was held to only authorize the court to determine the charter boundaries and not one claimed by prescription. Town of Searsburg v. Town of Woodford, 76 Vt. 370, 57 A. 961.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1878.

14. Railway crossings. Grinnell v. Portage County Com'rs, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 180.

15. There need be no express authorization, as this is a usual and convenient means of exercising the power. Bennett v. Nebagamon [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1039. See 2 Curr. L. 931; Id., 4 Curr. L. 706.

16. Under a warning of a town meeting to take action on the purchase of land and building a new school house, a vote to buy land and build a school house and to expend a certain sum in addition to what the present building may be sold for, was invalid so far as authorizing the sale of the building, but not as to the rest. Benham v. Potter [Conn.] 58 A. 735. Under a warning of a town meeting "to take action upon the report of the finance committee," the meeting could pass upon the recommendations or change the same. Id.

17. Submission of local option questions required to be submitted annually by statute, together with another question; new election ordered. In re Smith, 44 Misc. 384, 89 N. Y. S. 1006.

18. Street lighting district. Brown v. Street Lighting Dist. No. 1, 70 N. J. Law, 762, 58 A. 339.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1878.

20. Acts of disseisin and the letting of land by a town have the same effect on the title as the acts of an individual. Murphy v. Com. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524.

As to sale of land, see City of New York v. Brooklyn & R. B. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 695.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1878.

22. Town held liable on a contract for a road machine which was separately signed by the supervisors, but which after trial and deliberation they had accepted. Austin Mfg. Co. v. Ayr Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 91.

23. A majority may act after a reasonable deliberation; exchanging road scrapers is not a ministerial matter. Western Wheeled Scraper Co. v. Butler Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 477.

24. The act did not intend that he should supervise the board, but that the board should supervise him. Lincoln School Tp. of Hendricks County v. Union Trust Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 272.

25. The statute authorized the establishment of water districts, and the only liability of the town was to raise the money and pay it to the commissioners; this duty may be enforced by mandamus. Holroyd v. Indian Lake [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 35.

26. One was employed to cut brush along the highway at the expense of the town. Wright v. Wilmurt, 44 Misc. 456, 90 N. Y. S. 90. Where road machines are purchased assist a sheriff in the removal of a smallpox prisoner will not render the village liable for the expenses of quarantine.[27] The burden is on one, seeking to enforce a contract, to show that the township trustee acted within his authority.[28]

§ 5. Officers and employes.[29]—Assessors are not town officers or agents in Maine.[30] The term of office of trustees of common which was established by an old colonial patent is not altered by a general law affecting town officers generally.[31] Officers or employes of the town are only entitled to such pay as the town[32] or the legislature authorizes. The latter may in California regulate the compensation on the basis of population, or on a fee basis, but not on both.[33]

The action of township,[34] or village boards is illegal unless the meeting was called in accordance with the statute,[35] as a board can only act as a body and not as individuals.[36] The selectmen may employ a night watchman,[37] but a town board has no authority to convey, or to contract to convey, land of the town.[38]

§ 6. Fiscal affairs and management and expenses.[39]—The power to borrow money and the power to secure the payment thereof by the issue of notes are distinct powers,[40] though they may be incidental to other express powers.[41] Supervisors have no power to borrow money and to give a judgment note therefor.[42] County commissioners may be authorized to issue township bonds on the vote of the electors thereof, and any irregularity in their issue may be waived by the payment of interest thereon,[43] unless they were issued in excess of the debt limit as determined by the assessment. Then they are void, notwithstanding irregularities in the assessment.[44] The transference of a township from one county to another by the commissioners of highways to be paid for out of the highway tax, the town is not primarily liable. Assumpsit will not lie on the contract, but the remedy is mandamus to compel the levy of a tax. Pape v. Benton Tp. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 591.

27. It was a proper county charge. In re Boyce, 43 Misc. 297, 88 N. Y. S. 841.

28. Where warrants were required to be first approved by the county commissioners, a complaint based thereon must allege, and plaintiff must prove, such approval. Mitchelltree School Tp. v. Hall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 641.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1879.

30. This opinion as expressed in their official valuation is not admissible against the town. Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. v. Bradley [Me.] 59 A. 83.

31. A patent of 1686 made the term of office one year for the trustees of freeholders and commonalty of the town of Southampton, and Chap. 133 of Law of 1902, providing biennial elections for town officers, did not affect it. Lane v. Tilton, 43 Misc. 214, 88 N. Y. S. 428.

32. The chairman of a building committee not entitled to pay where the town in making the appointment failed to provide for any payment. Beckwith v. Farmington [Conn.] 59 A. 43.

33. Constitutional provision that salaries of county officers might be regulated on a population basis did not exclude township officers; but a provision that justices of the peace in townships of 6,000 population may receive fees up to $140 a month, and that in those of less population they could only receive fees up to $90 a month was unconstitutional as not being regulated in "proportion to duties." Tucker v. Barnum, 144 Cal. 266, 77 P. 919.

34. Two members of board purported to change township line in the absence of the other member and without notice to him of the meeting. Schuman v. Sanderson [Ark.] 83 S. W. 940.

35. Action at a meeting not called in the statutory manner and at an adjourned meeting in ordering a drain was void. Kleimenhagen v. Dixon [Wis.] 100 N. W. 826.

36. But the action of the supervisors as individuals in purchasing a road machine, if subsequently ratified by them after deliberation, is binding. Austin Mfg. Co. v. Ayr Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 91.

37. Where town voted to raise "$150 to help pay a watchman," it is immaterial whether there was any existing authorization to appoint one. Knowlton v. New Boston, 72 N. H. 590, 58 A. 509.

38. In the absence of statutory authority, or authority from the electors. City of New York v. Brooklyn & R. B. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 695.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1880.

40. So the debt is enforceable against a town, though the note securing it was void because it ran for a longer period than one year. Ford v. Washington Tp., Bergen County [N. J. Law] 58 A. 79.

41. Authority to provide for protection from fire includes authority to borrow and to issue bonds. Bennett v. Nebagamon [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1039. As to bonds generally, see Municipal Bonds, 2 Curr. L. 931; 4 Curr. L. 706.

42. To pay off an ordinary note given for a road grader. Good Roads Machinery Co. v. Old Lycoming Tp., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 156.

43. Cannot raise objections after 14 years. Rice v. Shealy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 868.

44. Bonds in hands of purchasers in good faith and interest had been paid for many years, and county auditor had made his does not affect its liability on its bonds.[45] A township is liable on the bonds of its predecessor,[46] though it does not contain all the territory that its predecessor did.[47] In Wisconsin the county collects the delinquent taxes and the county board cannot by resolution balance the accounts without giving the towns an opportunity to be heard.[48] An act establishing a department of finance does not deprive the town of the right to make appropriations other than those proposed by the department.[49] The power to impose a reasonable license on telegraph poles does not allow a tax for revenue.[50] In apportioning the debt on a division, obligations yet unaccrued are excluded,[51] whilst public funds to be divided include those in process of collection.[52]

A town cannot recover from another town the medical expenses of a smallpox patient unless authorized by statute;[53] such statutes have only a prospective operation.[54]

§ 7. Claims.[55]—It is frequently required that one having a claim for injuries shall give notice within a certain period of the accident. It is a question for the jury if the notice was received.[56] Before action can be brought on a contract the claim must be presented to the town auditor[57] or the board of town auditors. They may review their action in disallowing a claim.[58] The board of supervisors, where appeal has been made from the board of town auditors, is not required to summon the claimant to appear, but may examine related claims together, and its discretion will not be interfered with when it is reasonably exercised.[59]

§ 8. Torts.[59a]—One cannot recover from a town for injuries resulting from confinement in an unhealthy lockup;[60] but one may recover for injuries received certificate showing that they were not issued in excess of the debt limit. Corbet v. Rocksbury [Minn.] 103 N. W. 11.

45. Planters' & Sav. Bank v. Huiett Tp., 132 F. 627.

46. The boundaries of a township were changed and it was included in another county. Taylor v. Pine Grove Tp., Saluda County, 132 F. 565.

47. A small portion of the territory was left in the old county. Susong v. Cokesbury Tp., Abbeville County, 132 F. 567. See, also, ante, § 1.

48. It is like an open account, and interest only begins to run after a demand has been made by the town. Town of Spooner v. Washburn County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 325. A town supervisor while acting as county commissioner is not a representative of his town to protect its rights against the county. Id.

49. The act provided that the recommendations should be submitted to the annual town meeting. Benham v. Potter [Conn.] 58 A. 735.

50. Tax of 50 cents a pole was bad, as being more than the cost of the company of maintaining the poles, and many times more than the cost of any inspection; further, it was a tax on interstate commerce. Lower Merion Tp. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 306.

51. A contract to pay annual hydrant rentals is not a "debt then incurred," and the original town cannot collect any proportion of it from the detached town. Town of Vaughn v. Montreal [Wis.] 102 N. W. 561.

52. Rev. St. § 1377, providing for the apportionment of public funds when a township is divided, requires a division of all funds actually in the treasury or in process of collection. State v. Cooley, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 589.

53. The patient was a resident of an unincorporated town and suit brought against the oldest incorporated adjoining town was held not to be authorized by a statute giving to such town the care of persons needing relief in unincorporated towns. Inhabitants of Machias v. Wesley [Me.] 58 A. 240.

54. May recover for medical attendance on a smallpox patient, but not for services of a policeman in enforcing quarantine, or for supplies furnished to other persons in the quarantined building. City of Haverhill v. Marlborough, 187 Mass. 150, 72 N. E. 943.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1880.

56. Where the notice was handed to a domestic at the house of a selectman on the evening of the last day, the jury were warranted in finding that it was served in time, although the selectman testified he did not receive it until three days later. McCarthy v. Dedham [Mass.] 74 N. E. 319.

57. Contract made by a highway commissioner to cut brush along the highway. Wright v. Wilmurt, 44 Misc. 456, 90 N. Y. S. 90.

58. Provided they are the same board. In re Weeks, 97 App. Div. 131, 89 N. Y. S. 826.

59. Where they were justified in finding that claims presented for services in making arrests were fraudulent, they were justified in disallowing all, and were not required to sift them and find the few that might have been proper. People v. Board of Sup'rs of Orleans County, 90 N. Y. S. 318.

59a. See 2 Curr. L. 1880, n. 54.

60. The constable acted as agent of the from its employes engaged in a business occupation.[61] The liability of towns for injuries resulting from defective highways is statutory,[62] and the trustee must have had actual notice of the defect.[63]

§ 9. Actions by and against.[64]—Towns may be sued, and where no limitation is imposed it will be presumed that the legislature intended suits might be brought in all cases.[65] Towns may petition court to have its boundaries established,[66] but no taxpayer has the right to contest the severance of certain territory.[67]

TRADE-MARKS AND TRADE-NAMES.

§ 1. Definition, and Words or Symbols Available (1689).
§ 2. Acquisition, Transfer, and Abandonment (1691).
§ 3. Infringement and Unfair Competition (1691).
§ 4. Remedies and Procedure (1694).
§ 5. Statutory Registration, Regulation and Protection (1696).

§ 1. Definition, and words or symbols available.[68]—A trade-mark is an arbitrary, distinctive name, symbol or device to indicate or authenticate the origin of the product to which it is attached,[69] and when adopted, becomes the exclusive property of its proprietor.[70] It must be definite,[71] and be designed and used to give notice of origin or ownership;[72] therefore, words primarily descriptive,[73] un-state and not of the town. Mains v. Inhabitants of Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

61. Plaintiff was injured by a blast in a quarry operated by the town for commercial purposes. Duggan v. Inhabitants of Peabody [Mass.] 73 N. E. 206.

62. Evidence insufficient to show that deceased came to his death by reason of an unguarded platform. Wells v. Chazy, 95 App. Div. 618, 88 N. Y. S. 54. Where a horse took fright at a bicycle where there was an unguarded embankment it is error to assume that such frightening was such an extraordinary occurrence as could not be provided against. Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624. Aside from statute a town is not liable for injuries resulting from its defective highways. It is only a quasi corporation. Wilson v. Ulysses Tp. of Butler County [Neb.] 101 N. W. 986.

A town is not liable for an accident resulting from failure to keep the entire width of a country road in suitable condition. The road was 50 feet wide with a smooth graveled roadway and culvert 15 feet wide, and plaintiff fell into a ditch at the side. Hammacher v. New Berlin [Wis.] 102 N. W. 489.

A township cannot escape liability for an accident occurring by reason of a defective bridge on the ground that it had no means to repair the bridge. The township had elected to maintain the bridge by the labor of its inhabitants instead of by general taxation, and after Nov. 1st the labor had been performed for the year. Pearl v. Benton Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 188.

At common law an abutter has no claim for damages against a town for the change in the grade of a highway (statute makes them liable in the case of state roads, but the railroad commissioners have no power to determine the matter. Smith v. Boston & A. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. S. 412), though it diverts surface water onto his land (not decided whether the township would be liable if the surface water had been diverted from a definite channel [Carroll v. Rye Tp. (N. D.) 101 N. W. 894], or for the destruction of trees on a highway. They were alleged to be an incumbrance of the highway [Finucan v. Ramsden, 95 App. Div. 626, 88 N. Y. S. 430]).

63. More than 5 days before the injury; it need not be in writing and actual knowledge is equivalent to notice; knowledge of the injured person is not a bar to recovery as a matter of law. Erie Tp. v. Beamer [Kan.] 79 P. 1070.

The subject is fully treated in Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593; Bridges, 3 Curr. L. 529.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1880.

65. Town clerk may sue for his per diem allowance for making out the tax lists, though he has not presented his claim to the board of town auditors. Town of Ross v. Collins, 106 Ill. App. 396.

66. Where adjoining towns have failed to agree on a line. Town of Searsburg v. Woodford, 76 Vt. 370, 57 A. 961.

67. The town must prosecute suits in its own name; but the question here involved the right of the township officers to exercise authority over a certain district, and so involved a question of franchise sufficient to confer jurisdiction on the supreme court. People v. Vermilion County, 210 Ill. 209, 71 N. E. 368.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1881.

69. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703.

70. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511. Every one is presumed to know the right of another to secure the exclusive use of a symbol as a trade-name. Id. The appropriator of a trade-name who establishes a reputation in connection with it acquires a property right in it. Wormser v. Shayne, 111 Ill. App. 556.

71. A registered trade-mark consisting of "a red or other distinctively colored streak applied to or woven in a wire rope" is too indefinite to be sustained as a valid trademark. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Broderick & B. Rope Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 571.

72. Color, shape and material of a cigar less they have acquired a secondary meaning,[74] words which designate quality,[75] elements of mechanical construction essential to the practical operation of a manufacture or which serves to promote its efficiency,[76] or a bare numeral or series of numerals,[77] cannot be appropriated; but arbitrary or fanciful words may be;[78] so also the exclusive use of a geographical[79] or descriptive name may be acquired if it has a secondary significance in connection with a certain line of business.[80] As a general rule the generic name of a thing cannot be appropriated,[81] though expressed in a foreign language;[82] but the inventor of a game, by giving it a distinct name, may obtain a trade-mark in it, though he never copyrights or patents the game;[83] but no other person by making and selling it can.[84] Words originated by another and afterward abandoned may be adopted.[85]

A man may use his own name in any reasonable, honest and fair manner;[86] therefore a personal name cannot be exclusively appropriated as against others who have a right to use it;[87] but if injury would result to another and a fraud be perpetrated on the public,[88] or if one has sold the right to use his name,[89] he may be enjoined from using it, and one who has given his name to a corporation to be used possessively as a popular name may be enjoined from engaging in the same line of business with another corporation of similar corporate and possessive names.[90]

A corporation cannot select and use a name similar to one around which another has built up a trade and reputation,[91] especially where it has been band held not to constitute a valid trade-mark. Regensburg & Sons v. Portuondo Cigar Mfg. Co., 136 F. 866.

73. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511. Size and shape of a confection which is old in use. Heide v. Wallace & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 346. "Licorice Pastilles." Id. Color and size of tobacco tags. Continental Tobacco Co. v. Larus & Bro. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 727. The adoption of "Whirling Spray" as a trade-name does not deprive another of the right to adopt "Whirlspray." Marvel Co. v. Pearl [C. C. A.] 133 F. 160.

74. Use of word "She" on cigar labels enjoined as to a particular locality where the word had acquired a secondary meaning. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

75. "Toothache gum." Devlin v. McLeod, 135 F. 164; Devlin v. Peek, 135 F. 167.

76. Marvel Co. v. Pearl [C. C. A.] 133 F. 160.

77. Dennison Mfg. Co. v. Scharf Tag, Label & Box Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 625.

78. "Eureka." Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561. "Pepto-Mangan." Breitenbach Co. v. Spangenberg, 131 F. 160.

79. "Elgin" in connection with the watch and jewelry trade. Elgin Nat. Watch Co. v. Loveland, 132 F. 41.

80. Where one corporation has built up a trade under a descriptive popular name, another will be enjoined from using that name in the same line of business. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879.

81. "Flinch" as applied to a game. Chaffee Mfg. Co. v. Selchow, 131 F. 543.

82. "Parcheesi," the name of a Hindoostanee game. Selchow v. Chaffee & S. Mfg. Co., 132 F. 996. The French word "brasslere" cannot be appropriated by a manufacturer of braces. De Bevoise Co. v. H. & W. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 407.

83, 84. Chaffee Mfg. Co. v. Selchow, 131 F. 543.

85. Gaines & Co. v. Whyte Grocery, Fruit & Wine Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 648. One who alleges himself to be the owner of a trade-mark may sustain his ownership by proof of abandonment by the originators and subsequent adoption, though no such facts were alleged. Id.

86. Howe Scale Co. v. Wyckoff, 25 S. Ct. 609. A person may use his own name, although it is used in the same business by a corporation of which he was at one time a leading stockholder, so long as he does not resort to any artifice to palm off his goods as those of the corporation. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879.

87. Howe Scale Co. v. Wyckoff, 25 S. Ct. 609.

88. The public are entitled to protection from deception by the use of previously appropriated names or symbols. Imperial Mfg. Co. v. Schwartz, 105 Ill. App. 525. Use of the name "Best & Co." with or without prefixes, also use of term "Liliputian" restrained. Ball v. Best, 135 F. 434. Name upon which a large trade in a certain line of business has been built up. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879. "Coats" in connection with Coates Thread. Coats v. John Coates Thread Co., 135 F. 177.

89. Van Stan's Stratena Co. v. Van Stan, 209 Pa. 564, 58 A. 1064.

90. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879.

91. International Silver Co. v. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 187. A corporation may be enjoined from using a trade-name lawfully adopted prior thereto by a partnership engaged in a like business at the same place. Nesne v. Sundet [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490. "Landlords' Protective Bureau" confused with "Landlords' Pro-adopted for the purpose of creating confusion and to enable one to obtain the business of the other.[92] A corporation may not use the name of one of its incorporators where it is the name by which an article made by another dealer is usually called for and described.[93] Incorporation by several members of a voluntary association under the name of such association does not give it an exclusive right to such name as against other members forming another corporation.[94]

The assumption of a corporate name by individuals for the purpose of soliciting business thereunder is forbidden by statute in Illinois.[95]

§ 2. Acquisition, transfer, and abandonment.[96]—Trade-names are peculiarly local and may be appropriated by one person in one locality and by another in a different one.[97] Printers who sell uncopyrighted stock labels to manufacturers have no property in the designs sent out by them.[98] The right to use a trade-mark may pass by assignment,[99] but neither trade-marks nor trade-names are property which can be assigned in gross.[1] A purchaser of the good will of a firm acquires the right to use its trade-name, though it does so in such manner as to avoid calling public attention to the successorship,[2] and may not be restrained from doing so by a member of the original firm who sets up an establishment in his own name.[3] Where one's business is sold by an assignee in insolvency, it is presumed unless otherwise shown that the insolvent retains the right to use his trade-mark,[4] and the mere sale of a trade-mark apart from the business in which it is used does not confer on the transferee the right to enjoin its use by another.[5]

A complete disuse of terms appropriated is an abandonment.[6]

§ 3. Infringement and unfair competition.[7]—Two trade-marks are the same in legal contemplation if the similarity is such as to deceive an ordinary purchaser giving such attention as such a purchaser usually gives.[8] Although a difference tective Department." Koebel v. Chicago, Landlords' Protective Bureau, 210 Ill. 176, 71 N. E. 362.

92. International Silver Co. v. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 187. Use of "J. S. Dodge Co." may be enjoined as a fraud of "The Dodge Stationery Company." Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879.

93. Coats v. John Coates Thread Co., 135 F. 177. A stockholder cannot by becoming a member of a new corporation confer on it a right to adopt a name similar to that used by the former one to palm off the goods of the new as that of the old one. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879. "Rogers," in connection with the cutlery trade. International Silver Co. v. Rodgers Bros. Cutlery Co., 136 F. 1019.

94. Original La Tosca Social Club v. La Tosca Social Club, 23 App. D. C. 96.

95. "Imperial Mfg. Co.—I. Schwartz, proprietor" is such a modification of a name such as usually applied to corporations, as to deceive no one, and is not a violation of the statute. Imperial Mfg. Co. v. Schwartz, 105 Ill. App. 525.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1883.

97. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

98. A manufacturer who appropriates a stock label and registers it does not perpetrate a fraud on the printer. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

99. Assignment in terms, granting assigning and setting over the exclusive use of a certain trade-mark, held to pass the ownership and good will and was not a mere license. Griggs, Cooper & Co. v. Erie Preserving Co., 131 F. 359.

1. Crossman v. Griggs [Mass.] 71 N. E. 560. An instrument given by a creditor to his debtor, undertaking that the debtor would not dispose of his interest in the name or trade-mark of his business without the creditor's consent or until the happening of certain conditions is not an assignment of the trade-mark or name. Id. And though he agreed on the nonperformance of certain conditions to assign to the creditor, it was not an implied assignment. Id.

2. Smith v. Brand & Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1029.

3. Brand & Smith sold to another and Smith thereafter set up in business under the name of William Smith & Bro. Smith v. Brand & Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1029.

4. Taylor, Jr., & Sons Co. v. Taylor [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1085.

5. Falk v. American West Indies Trading Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 239.

6. Evidence held to show an abandonment. Gaines & Co. v. Whyte Grocery, Fruit & Wine Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 648.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1883.

8. Cusimano & Co. v. Olive Oil Importing Co. [La.] 38 So. 200.

Held infringed: "White Label Hunter Whisky, Bottled by," is an infringement of another's exclusive right of trade-mark in the word "Hunter." Lanahan v. Kissel, 135 F. 899.

Held not infringed: Cigar brand held not may exist, there is an infringement if the general appearance is such as to deceive an unwary purchaser.[9] In order to constitute an infringement, it is not necessary that every word in a trade-mark should be appropriated,[10] nor that the imitation be exact.[11]

Both infringement of a trade-mark and unfair competition are based on the principle that no person has the right to palm off his goods as those of another, but there is a well marked distinction between them. Infringement consists in the use of the genuine, or an exact copy or imitation thereof, upon substituted goods,[12] and constitutes an invasion of the proprietor's property rights[13] while unfair competition does not necessarily involve the exclusive right[14] or proprietary interest of another in the name, symbol or device imitated.[15] A word may be purely generic or descriptive, and yet there be unfair competition in the use of it.[16] The main difference between the cases is in the matter of proof. It being essential in the latter to prove actual deception or conduct calculated to deceive,[17] and competition.[18]

One has no right to palm off his goods as the goods of a competitor,[19] whether misrepresentations are made by word of mouth or by simulating the collocation of details of appearance,[20] or by the use of a particular trade-name,[21] or surname,[22]

infringed by another of same size, shape and color, but containing different lettering. Regensburg & Sons v. Portuondo Cigar Mfg. Co., 136 F. 866. Trade-mark consisting of a fac simile signature and other nonessential terms is not infringed by the use of such nonessential terms by another. Taylor, Jr., & Sons Co. v. Taylor [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1085. Evidence insufficient to show an infringement of a trade-mark in a color device. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561. Trade-mark consisting of a device in colors held not infringed. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703.

9. Cusimano & Co. v. Olive Oil Importing Co. [La.] 38 So. 200.

10. "Home Comfort" is an infringement on "Home Brand," "Home" being the essential feature. Griggs, Cooper & Co. v. Erie Preserving Co., 131 F. 359. The wrongful use of one of several words. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561.

11. May be infringed by the use in connection with other words. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561.

12. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511; Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703.

13. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

14. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703.

15. It is sufficient that plaintiff is entitled to the good will of a business and that such good will is injured or is about to be injured by the palming off of the goods of another as his. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 146 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879. The simulation of trade or business names is enjoined, not because of a property interest therein, but to prevent fraud and deception. Original La Tosca Social Club v. La Tosca Social Club, 23 App. D. C. 96.

16. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703.

17. Scriven v. North [C. C. A.] 134 F. 366.

18. The issue of unfair trade in the use of a trade-name does not arise until there is a showing of fraud or deception and unless there is competition. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

19. International Silver Co. v. Wm. H. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1037. Authorities collected and reviewed. A bill alleging that defendants make a preparation similar to one made by plaintiff, which they have given a similar name and have supplied to customers asking for plaintiff's preparation, states a cause of action. Breitenbach & Co. v. Spangenberg, 131 F. 160; Scriven v. North [C. C. A.] 134 F. 366. Where one resorts to the use of an artifice for the purpose of representing his goods as those of a competitor, it is a fraud which may be enjoined. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879.

20. Grinding mills having the characteristic shape, design, color and ornamentation of mills made and sold by another. Enterprise Mfg. Co. v. Landers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 240. Evidence held to show unfair competition in use of boxes, cartons, labels and advertising matter. Bickmore Gall Cure Co. v. Karns [C. C. A.] 134 F. 833. Evidence held to show unfair competition in the marking and dressing of goods. Scriven v. North [C. C. A.] 134 F. 366. One may be restrained from selling electrical platers similar to those of a rival dealer unless he places distinguishing marks upon them. Edison Mfg. Co. v. Gladstone [N. J. Eq.] 68 A. 391. The duplication of disk records for use in talking machines by taking an impression thereof with a matrix, placing the copies on the market colored and marked the same as those of the original manufacturer, is unfair competition. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Armstrong, 132 F. 711. Evidence held to show unfair competition in style of packages, labels, size and color of type, etc. Devlin v. Peek, 135 F. 167.

21. Use of "Old Crow" on an inferior brand of whisky held such a fraud on the or similar names,[23] though the injured party has not an exclusive right to the use of it;[24] but there must be such an imitation as to deceive purchasers into buying the goods of one when they intended to buy those of another,[25] and similarity in form, dimensions or general appearance, especially where such similarity is characteristic of the article,[26] or results from an effort to comply with physical requirements essential to its operation,[27] is insufficient. The use of a trade-name in connection with the genuine article is not unfair competition,[28] nor does it arise out of public as would be enjoined. Gaines & Co. v. Whyte Grocery, Fruit & Wine Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 648. The use of the word "Elgin" in connection with a jewelry business by one who had no factory at Elgin, Illinois, but only kept a clerk there to forward letters, is unfair competition. Elgin Nat. Watch Co. v. Loveland, 132 F. 41. One who appropriates a descriptive name simply because it has been used by another and incorporates such other person's name into a corporate name for the sole reason of deceiving the public as to the origin of the goods is guilty of unfair competition. Selchow v. Chaffee & Selchow Mfg. Co., 132 F. 996.

22. International Silver Co. v. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1037. One having a right under an implied license to make an article patented by another held not entitled to use such other's name to designate his goods, it being unfair competition, as it was also to imitate his packages. Hygienic Fleeced Underwear Co. v. Way, 133 F. 245. Evidence held to show that the adoption of a word as a part of a corporate name was for the purpose of availing itself of the reputation of another. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561. This rule is the same where a corporation takes or imitates the name of a rival trader. International Silver Co. v. Wm. H. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1037. Retail dealer handling cocoa made by Walter Baker & Co. Ltd. and also a brand put up by W. H. Baker. Walter Baker & Co. v. Slack [C. C. A.] 130 F. 514.

23. Van Houten's Cocoa and Hooton's Cocoa. Van Houten v. Hooton Cocoa & Chocolate Co., 130 F. 600. The change of a letter in names which are idem sonans is insufficient to prevent confusion. Insertion of "d" in "Rogers," making it "Rodgers." International Silver Co. v. Rodgers Bros. Cutlery Co., 136 F. 1019.

24. International Silver Co. v. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 187.

25. "Brand & Smith" is not a fraud on "William Smith & Bro." Smith v. Brand & Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1029. Evidence held insufficient to entitle one to an injunction restraining the use of a business name. Corbin v. Taussig & Co., 132 F. 662. One using a cigar band similar to that used by another but with no intention to imitate, and where the difference was distinguishable to a person of ordinary intelligence, held not guilty of unfair competition. Regensburg & Sons v. Portuondo Cigar Mfg. Co., 136 F. 866. That one who has used a certain label for several years adopts a different label for an altogether different and competing article, the label being similar to one used by the competitor, does not show unfair competition. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703. Liquorice Pastilles of the same shape, size and price but embossed with a different letter held not a fraud. Heide v. Wallace & Co., 129 F. 649. The writing of a single letter to a customer of a competitor stating that such competitor is infringing a patent and that any one purchasing from him would be held an infringer is insufficient proof of unfair competition. George Frost Co. v. Kora Co., 136 F. 487. The use of a bare numeral or series of numerals cannot be enjoined on the ground of unfair competition. Dennison Mfg. Co. v. Scharf Tag & Box Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 625. That one is a large purchaser as a jobber from a manufacturer does not preclude him from placing on the market a competing article. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703. Evidence insufficient to show unfair competition in sending out a circular similar to one sent out by a competitor. Id. Labels and cartons compared and held not to show such similarity as to indicate unfair competition. Id.

26. One is not guilty of unfair competition who sells a confection of the same shape and size as that of a rival dealer, but which is dissimilar in coloring and lettering, so that ordinary purchasers would not be deceived. Heide v. Wallace & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 346. Putting up tobacco in a method in common use and putting on it a tag similar in shape and color, but having reading matter different from that used by another, held not unfair competition. Continental Tobacco Co. v. Larus & Bro. Co., 133 F. 727.

27. Marvel Co. v. Pearl [C. C. A.] 133 F. 160.

28. Where one purchased "Le Page's Glue" in bulk, bottled and sold it under its true name with a statement by whom manufactured and by whom bottled. Russia Cement Co. v. Frauenhar [C. C. A.] 133 F. 518.

Note: The principle upon which the law of unfair competition rests has been expressed as follows: "Nobody has any right to represent his goods as the goods of somebody else." Reddaway v. Banham, App. Cas. 199. Such a representation is a fraud both upon the owner of the trade-name and upon the public. Lawrence Mfg. Co. v. Tennessee Mfg. Co., 138 U. S. 537, 34 Law. Ed. 997. So, refilling stamped or labeled packages, bottles or boxes with spurious goods is obviously unfair competition. Samuel Bros. & Co. v. Hostetter Co., 118 F. 257. It is unfair competition to buy wornout articles, revamp them and sell them under the original name (General Elec. Co. v. Re-New Lamp Co., 121 F. 164), or to sell inferior goods of a manufacturer under labels used by him only for articles of a higher grade (Russia Cement Co. v. Katzenstein, 109 F. 314). But these cases all proceed upon the ground either that the public is likely to be deceived or the use in a corporate name of the surname of an incorporator, where such use by the individual would not be open to that charge.[29] The principles which interdict unfair competition will protect one against the unlawful use of his trade-mark, though used as the name of books, the copyright whereof has expired.[30] The law of unfair competition seeks only to restrain fraudulent practices inducing confusion of goods and deception of the public, and never interferes with fair competition.[31]

Whether a court will enjoin the simulation of a trade-name depends on the circumstances of each particular case,[32] such as whether a confusion of goods put upon the market by the respective parties has been, or is likely to be produced;[33] whether there have been actual sales and mistakes of one product for the other;[34] or whether there is such a similarity that one may be readily mistaken for the other.[35] There is no right of injunction because of mere similarity of names.[36]

An intent to deceive is not essential to relief either in the case of infringement[37] or unfair competition,[38] the probable consequences as distinguished from the motive being the test;[39] but an intent may be presumed from the adoption of a particular word,[40] or from the fact that confusion is likely to arise.[41]

§ 4. Remedies and procedure.[42]—In a suit between citizens of the same state for infringement of a trade-mark, the jurisdiction of the Federal court is confined to the trade-mark as registered,[43] and the validity of the mark depends on the registration and not as used.[44] The Federal court has jurisdiction, though the actual value of the mark is not alleged nor that it will be destroyed by defendant's unlawful use of it.[45] A Federal court has no jurisdiction to enforce rights under a state statute relating to trade-marks and their registration, where the transactions complained of occurred outside such state.[46]

A corporation is not an indispensable party in a suit for unfair competition, though the defendants are charged with having fraudulently assumed a corporate name,[47] and one who has no interest in a trade-mark is not a proper party to a proceeding to have it applied in payment of a debt it is pledged to secure.[48] that the complainant is being defrauded. Hopkins, Unfair Trade, p. 29. Neither of these elements existed in the principal case, and there is no ground for equity's interference. Under similar facts the same result has been reached. Sweezy v. McBriar, 89 Hun [N. Y.] 155, afg. 157 N. Y. 710; Kipling v. G. P. Putnam's Sons, 120 F. 631. See 3 Columbia L. R. 494.—5 Columbia L. R. 63.

29. Howe Scale Co. v. Wyckoff, 25 S. Ct. 609.

30. Books containing the same literary matter. Merriam Co. v. Straus, 136 F. 477.

31. Cole Co. v. American Cement & Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 703.

32. Original La Tosca Social Club v. La Tosca Social Club, 23 App. D. C. 96.

33, 34, 35. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

36. Injury must be shown. Original La Tosca Social Club v. La Tosca Social Club, 23 App. D. C. 96.

37. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561.

38. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879; Van Houten v. Hooton Cocoa & Chocolate Co., 130 F. 600; Van Stan's Stratena Co. v. Van Stan, 209 Pa. 564, 58 A. 1064; International Silver Co. v. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1037. A misrepresentation, ignorantly, innocently or mistakenly made, is sufficient. International Silver Co. v. Rogers Corp. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1037. The fact that such name is assumed in good faith and without design to mislead the public or acquire the trade of a competitor is immaterial. Nesne v. Sundet [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490.

39. Nesne v. Sundet [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490.

40. Where a corporation selects as a part of its corporate name a fancy word which has come to distinguish in the trade to the knowledge of the incorporators a certain line of goods, an intent to profit by the competitor's reputation will be presumed. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 561.

41. Similarity of package held to entitle one to an injunction restraining its use. Devlin v. McLeod, 135 F. 164.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1885.

43. Has no jurisdiction of an issue of unfair competition. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Broderick & B. Rope Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 571.

44. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Broderick & B. Rope Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 571.

45. Griggs, Cooper & Co. v. Erie Preserving Co., 131 F. 359.

46. Rehbein v. Weaver, 133 F. 607.

47. Elgin Nat. Watch Co. v. Loveland, 132 F. 41.

Where the infringement of a trade-mark is of such a character as is calculated to deceive purchasers, the owner need not wait until injury has resulted before seeking relief.[49]

A preliminary injunction will not be granted unless the bill clearly shows the plaintiff to be entitled to the relief sought,[50] especially as against one who is financially responsible,[51] or where it appears doubtful whether complainant would be entitled to any relief.[52]

On the principle that one who comes into a court of equity must come with clean hands, one who has himself been guilty of unfair competition in the use of a trade-name cannot enjoin its use by another;[53] but the fraud must be as to a material matter in order to preclude him.[54]

The denials in a plea to a bill to enjoin unfair competition must fully meet the averments,[55] and defenses which can be raised by denying the statements in the bill should be met by answer, not by plea.[56] The defense of limitations is not available in a suit to enjoin infringement,[57] and one who seeks relief on the ground of unfair competition as soon as simulation is discovered,[58] or the goods come into competition with his,[59] is not guilty of laches, though the other party has used the mark for several years.

For infringement of a trade-mark, relief may be obtained in an action at law for damages or in equity for an injunction and an accounting,[60] and though the extent of the use does not entitle one to an accounting, he may be entitled to restrain further use;[61] and though there has been no infringement and he is not entitled to an injunction and accounting, he may be entitled to recover damages for fraudulent simulation.[62] The use by one of a name similar to that used by another will be enjoined only so far as is necessary to prevent fraud.[63] Defendant in an infringement suit cannot have affirmative relief for unfair competition.[64]

48. Crossman v. Griggs [Mass.] 71 N. E. 560.

49. Lanahan v. Kissel, 135 F. 899. Under an averment that "defendant also intends to make other mills which will be substantially the same as other mills made by the complainant" their sale may be restrained, although there was no proof of any sale of such mills. Enterprise Mfg. Co. v. Landers [C. C. A.] 131 F. 240.

50. Bill held insufficient. Smith Dixon Co. v. Stevens [Md.] 59 A. 401. An affidavit that one has used a word for a long time is too indefinite for judicial action in a suit to enjoin the use of a trade-name. De Bevoise Co. v. H. & W. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 407.

51. Evidence held insufficient to entitle complainant to a preliminary injunction against an alleged infringement of a trade-mark by one who was financially responsible. Mueller Mfg. Co. v. McDonaly & M. Mfg. Co., 132 F. 585.

52. Though unfair competition by simulating the dress of another's goods is apparently shown, a preliminary injunction will not issue where it appears that defendant has publicly used the same dress for many years. Von Mumm v. Steinmetz, 137 F. 168.

53. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511. One who has wrongfully appropriated the business of a licensee under a patent and prevented him from selling the patented article has no standing to complain of unfair competition because of his sale of a similar article under a like name. Corbin v. Taussig & Co., 132 F. 662.

54. Representation that one was the sole manufacturer when he was not a manufacturer at all, but was a sole representative, held not a material representation. Gluckman v. Strauch, 99 App. Div. 361, 91 N. Y. S. 223. One who registers a trade-mark when he hears that others are about to make use of it, but prior to making an effort to ascertain whether it is in use by another, is not guilty of fraud. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511. Misrepresentation that one was a manufacturer of the product held immaterial. Wormser v. Shayne, 111 Ill. App. 556.

55, 56. Merriam Co. v. Strauss, 136 F. 477.

57. Gaines & Co. v. Whyte Grocery, Fruit & Wine Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 648.

58. Devlin v. McLeod, 135 F. 164; Gaines & Co. v. Whyte Grocery, Fruit & Wine Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 648.

59. Sartor v. Schaden [Iowa] 101 N. W. 511.

60. In an action for infringement, plaintiff may be required to elect. Taylor, Jr., & Sons Co. v. Taylor [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1085.

61. Devlin v. McLeod, 135 F. 164.

62. Taylor, Jr., & Sons v. Taylor [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1085.

63. Only in the business in which both are engaged and not in another. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879. In a suit for unfair competition in the fraudulent use of a trade-name, a Federal court

Where one has deliberately engaged in unfair trade, he is liable in damages and for profits from the time he violated the rights of others.[65] The amount of damages sustained must be proven.[66] In determining profits the expense of making sales must be deducted from gross profits.[67] Where a statute makes infringement criminal and leaves the quantum of damages largely in the discretion of the court, the court is not restricted to the actual damages proven.[68]

One who disobeys an injunction restraining the use of a trade-name is guilty of contempt.[69] Proceedings for contempt for violation of an injunction enjoining infringement are civil.[70]

§ 5. Statutory registration, regulation and protection.[71]—The copyright laws of the United States do not apply to trade-marks.[72] The re-using of registered bottles is criminal in some states.[73] In New York by statute it is a misdemeanor to simulate a partnership or corporation name,[74] or for one to have in his possession or sell counterfeit trade-marks.[75] Where two act in concert in the commission of the offense, they may be tried together,[76] and declarations of one in the absence of the other are admissible against both.[77]

TRADE SECRETS, see latest topical index.

TRADE UNIONS.[78]

§ 1. Nature of the Union (1696).
§ 2. The Union and the Public (1697).
§ 3. The Union and Its Members (1697).
§ 4. Members and the Union (1697).

§ 1. Nature of the union.[79]—An unincorporated trade union is not a business association within the meaning of statutes permitting the latter associations to sue and be sued in the association name.[80] It has been held that a union may be fined for contempt of court.[81] cannot enjoin the completion of the organization of a corporation under the same name, which has been duly authorized by the laws of another state and is also authorized to do other kinds of business. Elgin Nat. Watch Co. v. Loveland, 132 F. 41.

64. George Frost Co. v. Kora Co., 136 F. 487.

65. Walter Baker & Co. v. Slack [C. C. A.] 130 F. 514.

66. In contempt proceedings for violating an injunction enjoining the infringement of a trade-mark, proof of the amount of profits made by defendant on the sales is not proof that the plaintiff was damaged in such sum. Davidson v. Munsey [Utah] 80 P. 743.

67. Walter Baker & Co. v. Slack [C. C. A.] 130 F. 514.

68. Under Act No. 49, p. 56 of 1898, damages beyond the pecuniary loss established may be awarded. Cusimano & Co. v. Olive Oil Importing Co. [La.] 38 So. 200.

69. Janney v. Pan-Coast Ventilator & Mfg. Co., 131 F. 143.

70. Mode of procedure is the same as in civil cases. Davidson v. Munsey [Utah] 80 P. 743.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1887.

72. Wormser v. Shayne, 111 Ill. App. 556.

73. Rev. Laws, c. 72, §§ 16, 17, relative to using registered beverage bottles of another manufacturer. Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790. Rev. Laws, c. 72, §§ 16, 17, making it a misdemeanor to use, deface or traffic in registered beverage bottles of another manufacturer, is not class legislation or otherwise unconstitutional. Id.

74. McArdle v. Thames Iron Works, 96 App. Div. 139, 89 N. Y. S. 485.

75. Pen. Code, § 364. People v. Strauss, 94 App. Div. 453, 88 N. Y. S. 40.

76. People v. Strauss, 94 App. Div. 453, 88 N. Y. S. 40. Corroborating evidence held sufficient. Id.

77. People v. Strauss, 94 App. Div. 453, 88 N. Y. S. 40.

78. This article deals only with the trade union as an organization; the legality of its acts and those of its members in carrying out the purposes of the organization are treated elsewhere. See Conspiracy, 3 Curr. L. 726; Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730; Injunction, 4 Curr. L. 96; Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533; Threats, 4 Curr. L. 1679. Compare Building and Construction Contracts (impossibility of performance) 3 Curr. L. 550.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1888.

80. Gen. St. 1894, § 5177, considered. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725. See Associations and Societies, 3 Curr. L. 346.

Note: The rule is otherwise if the association insures its members. Taylor v. Order Ry. Conductors, 89 Minn. 222, 94 N. W. 684.

81. Note: Franklin Union, No. 4, an incorporated union of employes, was before the court to show cause why it should not be punished for contempt for violation of an injunction. The bill had charged that the union and its officers had conspired unlawfully to obstruct and interfere with the business of Chicago Typothetae, a voluntary association of employers engaged in publish-

§ 2. The union and the public.[82]—Closed shop agreements are void.[83]

§ 3. The union and its members.[84]—The members of an unincorporated trade union are liable for a breach of a contract made for them by the association, if liable at all, on the law of principal and agent, and must be proceeded against individually.[85] A union may refuse to allow its members to work with members of a rival union, and may strike or threaten to strike if the latter are not discharged.[86]

§ 4. Members and the union.[87]—The duty of deciding questions referred from different districts does not constitute a board of directors a tribunal to settle the grievances of individual members.[88]

TRADING STAMPS; TRANSFER OF CAUSES; TRANSITORY ACTIONS, see latest topical index.

TREATIES.[89]

A supplemental article not appended to a treaty until after it is signed cannot be referred to to explain the preceding articles.[90] A treaty provision limiting the duty upon foreign vessels to those paid by vessels of the United States in the same ports refers only to United States vessels engaged in foreign trade.[91]

ing and printing, and prayed for an injunction restraining any unlawful interference with their business or employes. The injunction was granted to the above effect, and specifically forbade picketing and other forms of unlawful persuasion. Subsequently many employes of the plaintiff were assaulted and intimidated by members, committeemen and officers of the union. One of the worst aggressors was defended by the union's attorney, and strike benefits were paid with the union's money, with no discrimination against members known to be guilty of criminal acts. Held, the evidence established the union as a co-conspirator with its offending members, privy to violations of the injunction, and therefore guilty of violation, and amenable to discipline. Respondent union was fined $1,000. People v. Franklin Union, No. 4, 36 Chicago Leg. N. 237; No. 51 Bulletin of Bureau of Labor.

This seems to be the only case reported in this country in which a fine has been imposed upon a labor union, probably because few of them are incorporated. The primary question for solution was, whether Franklin Union, No. 4, was so connected with violations of the injunction by its members as to make it a party to such violations. The evidence conclusively shows that all the overt acts proven were planned at union headquarters and directed by and with the consent of its officers. The record book and stub check book of the union were destroyed to prevent their use in evidence, and therefore every presumption of fact and conclusion reasonably deducible therefrom is to be indulged against them. Stock Exchange v. Board of Trade, 196 Ill. 407. A combination to injure a man by preventing him from carrying on his business is unlawful. Doremus v. Hannessy, 176 Ill. 608, 68 Am. St. Rep. 203. Conspiracy once established, each conspirator becomes responsible for the means used by any conspirator in accomplishing the common purpose. Lasher v. Litell. 202 Ill. 551. The responsibility of defendant was sought to be avoided on the ground that it had surrendered its charter on the day the relators filed their petition for the rule. The union was, however, amenable for all liabilities prior to dissolution. Singer v. Hutchinson, 176 Ill. 48.—From 3 Michigan L. R. 80.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1888.

83. In an action on a promissory note given as security for the performance of an agreement between a labor union and an employer, whereby the latter was bound not to engage labor other than members of the union and to discharge all nonunion men, it was held that the unlawful character of such a contract is a good defense. Jacobs v. Cohen, 90 N. Y. S. 854. A nonunion man sought an injunction to restrain his employer from discharging, under a contract with a labor union, employes who refused to join such union. Held, an employe has no right to retention as will entitle him to interfere with the master's right to discharge. Mills v. U. S. Printing Co., 91 N. Y. S. 185.

Note: See 5 Columbia L. R. p. 239. See, also, Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1889.

85. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

86. National Protective Ass'n v. Cumming, 170 N. Y. 315, 63 N. E. 369. See, also, Wunch v. Shankland, 59 App. Div. 482, 69 N. Y. S. 349. Neither the men discharged nor their unions have any right of action against the rival unions or its members, provided no force is employed nor any unlawful act committed. Id.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1889.

88. Moeller v. Machine Printers' Beneficial Ass'n [R. I.] 60 A. 591. Hence it is not necessary for members unlawfully suspended from the union to submit their claims to the directors before applying to the court for relief. Id.

89. Treaty provisions designed to regulate the rights and status of aliens (see Aliens, 3 Curr. L. 138) and of neutrals and belligerents (see War, 2 Curr. L. 2025; 4 Curr. L. ——) are excluded.

90. Ship Tom, 39 Ct. Cl. 290.

91. Is not violated by an exemption of

The provision of the Spanish treaty of 1899, referring to property and rights of individuals, applies to the property and rights of Spanish subjects in Cuba under Spanish law at the time.[92]

Indian treaties.[93]—Where a restriction upon the exercise of the power of taxation by a recognized government is claimed under the stipulations of a treaty with another, whether the former be dependent upon the latter or not, its existence ought to appear beyond a reasonable doubt.[94] The rights and status of Indians under the several Indian treaties are fully discussed in "Indians."[95]

TRESPASS.

§ 1. Acts Constituting Trespass and Right of Action Therefor (1698).
§ 2. Actions (1701).
A. At Law (1701).
B. In Equity (1703).
§ 3. Damages and Penalties (1704).
§ 4. Criminal Liability (1706).
§ 5. Trespass to Try Title (1706).

§ 1. Acts constituting trespass and right of action therefor.[1]—The term "trespass" generally involves the idea of force, yet in its broadest sense it comprehends any misfeasance, transgression, or offense which damages another's person, health, reputation or property.[2] Trespass to property is an interference with one's possessory rights,[3] even though such possession is wrongful.[4] An interference with the possession of lessee is an interference with the possession of the lessor.[5] The question of title is immaterial,[6] therefore the tort may be committed by the owner of the fee[7] or chattel.[8] The motive[9] or intent[10] of the trescoastwise steam vessels of the United States from pilotage. Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52.

92. O'Reilly De Camara v. Brooke, 135 F. 384. The United States Governor General could not take the right to slaughter cattle pertaining to the hereditary office of "Alguacil Mayor of Havana" from the holder of such office without paying for the same. Such right, though exclusive, being valid and a property right under Spanish law. Id.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1890. See, also, Indians, 3 Curr. L. 1706.

94. Morris v. Hitchcock, 21 App. D. C. 565. No restriction upon the taxing power of the Chickasaw Nation is contained in the clause of art. 7 of the Treaty of 1855, which excepts white persons from the jurisdiction of such nation. Id.

95. See 3 Curr. L. 1706.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1891.

2. Libel is a trespass. Cox v. Strickland, 120 Ga. 104, 47 S. E. 912.

3. City unlawfully constructing a walk on the land of an abutting owner. City of Clinton v. Franklin, 26 Ky. L. R. 1053, 83 S. W. 142. Ore and rocks thrown upon adjacent premises by blasting. Herron v. Jones & Laughlin Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 226. An allegation of ownership of an estate in land and that defendant drove a large band of sheep upon it and depastured it, states a cause of action. Minter v. Gose [Wyo.] 78 P. 948. In trespass quare clausum, evidence held insufficient to warrant the direction of a verdict for the plaintiff. Davis v. Poland [Me.] 59 A. 520. Evidence held to show that the land trespassed upon was not a part of the public highway. Jeppson v. Almquist [Minn.] 103 N. W. 10. Constable breaking into the room of a boarder at the instance of the lessor is a trespasser. Oliver v. Wheeler, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 5. If an owner is annoyed in his possession, he may maintain trespass. Bossier's Heirs v. Jackson [La.] 38 So. 525. Whether the defendant committed the trespass complained of held a question for the jury. Restetsky v. Delmar Ave. & C. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 665. In trespass quare clausum, possession by plaintiff entitles him to judgment unless the defendant shows a better right of possession. Jenkins v. Palmer, 72 N. H. 592, 58 A. 42. While a lessee was incarcerated in jail, the premises were sold under partition decree and the purchaser forcibly entered. Schwartz v. McQuaid [Ill.] 73 N. E. 582.

4. Where the rights of a lessee in possession have not been adjudicated, the owner may not forcibly enter, though the possession is wrongful. Schwartz v. McQuaid [Ill.] 73 N. E. 582.

5. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976. The possession of a tenant may be shown where the possession of the landlord is involved. Vanderslice v. Donner, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 319.

6. Where the jury found that no trespass had been committed, it was error to adjudicate the question of title. Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co., 135 N. C. 742, 47 S. E. 757. Where a statute forbids an invasion with force and strong hand, title and right to possession are not involved. Giffin v. Martel [Vt.] 58 A. 788. It is sufficient if the plaintiff shows that he was in actual, and so far as defendant is concerned, lawful possession at the time of the trespass. Davis v. Alexander [Me.] 58 A. 55.

7. The owner of the fee entering during the continuance of the right of possession of a tenant is a trespasser. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999. The owner of the fee may trespass against one in possession. Tustin v. Sampasser is immaterial. A trespass may be aggravated by the manner in which it is committed.[11]

In trespass to lands there must be an entry[12] and an interference with possession,[13] and mere negligence is not a trespass.[14] Any entry on the premises of another without a license express or implied is a trespass;[15] but one who enters under a license is not a trespasser unless he does something not incident to the right granted or exercises such right in a negligent manner.[16] The license must be obtained from one with authority to grant it.[17] A license to do a particular thing carries with it by implication the right to do those things necessary to be done in order to avail the licensee of his rights under the license.[18] Whether this implied license has been exceeded may be a question for the jury.[19] An entry otherwise lawful may become a trespass if made with an unlawful purpose,[20] or if a license is exceeded.[21] The entry of a tenant after the expiration of his lease is a trespass,[22] unless he has a right to make such entry;[23] but the en-mons, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 175. Where entry is made by force and strong hand, those making it have no right in order to remain, to assault the person in possession. Giffin v. Martel [Vt.] 58 A. 788.

8. A bailor who unlawfully takes possession from the bailee. Boyd v. McArthur, 120 Ga. 974, 48 S. E. 358.

9. Street commissioners making an unlawful entry to improve the appearance of a hedge. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976.

10. An entry by mistake by one's servants without his consent. Mishler Lumber Co. v. Cralg [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 41. One who enters on land of another not knowing whether he has a right to do so or not is a trespasser. Sanders v. Ditch, 110 La. 884, 34 So. 860.

11. A master who after discharging a servant, forcibly removes and destroys her furniture, is guilty of a wanton trespass. Behm v. Damm, 91 N. Y. S. 735. A trespasser though acting in honest belief as to his rights may be so grossly negligent in ascertaining them that his attempt to make good his claim by force will amount to a wanton trespass. Beaudrot v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 106.

12. It is not a trespass to cut off branches of trees that protrude over the line. Bright v. New Orleans R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 494.

13. A son living with his father is not in possession of his father's property, and a taking of it is not an interference with his possession. Saenz v. Mumme & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 59.

14. Negligence of a plumber acting under a permit from a city in opening a street, which resulted in cutting off an adjacent owner's water supply, is not a trespass. Rice v. Hogan, 90 N. Y. S. 395.

15. One in building a line fence cut branches off trees standing on his neighbor's land. Newberry v. Bunda [Mich.] 100 N. W. 277. The rule as to what must appear to relieve a person from the imputation of being a trespasser when doing an act in a public street is "When conditions are annexed to a license substantial compliance therewith is essential; but consent and compliance relieve the owner from the imputation of trespassing in doing the act consented to and place him in a position of one liable for negligence only." Sanford v. White, 132 F. 531. See, also, Babbage v. Powers, 130 N. Y. 281, 14 L. R. A. 398.

16. Granger v. Postal Tel. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 193. No evidence that permit to enter had been fraudulently procured or that the license granted had been exceeded. Mason v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 782. A recovery in trespass for using a way for the benefit of one tract of land does not estop the defendant from asserting a right to use it for the benefit of another tract. Norman v. Sylvia [R. I.] 59 A. 112. A right in a lease to cut timber for certain purposes held not to give a right to cut for other purposes. Lewis v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 280. Evidence as to whether a permit had been fraudulently procured held to raise a question of fact. Burnett v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 780.

17. Permit to enter from one who has no title or right to possession is no justification. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675.

18. License to build a line fence carries a right to cut branches from trees standing near the line. Newberry v. Bunda [Mich.] 100 N. W. 277.

19. Whether it was necessary to cut off certain branches from trees in order to build a line fence. Newberry v. Bunda [Mich.] 100 N. W. 277. Evidence as to whether a person could sight along a line without cutting certain branches from trees is material. Newberry v. Bunda [Mich.] 100 N. W. 277; Purnett v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 780.

20. Where defendant went to plaintiff's house for the purpose of having sexual intercourse with a female boarder and was admitted by her, he was a trespasser. Watson v. Dilts, 124 Iowa, 344, 100 N. W. 50.

21. A railroad company which enters under color of condemnation proceedings and makes excavations, etc., becomes a trespasser ab initio when it subsequently dismisses the proceedings and abandons its claim of right of way. Enid, etc., R. Co. v. Wiley, 14 Okl. 310, 78 P. 96.

22. Kenney v. Apley [Mich.] 102 N. W. 854.

23. Where a school district erects a school house on leased land and the tenancy terminates on a contingency, entry to remove the try of one entitled to possession is not,[24] and it has been held that an entry by one non sui juris is not.[25]

One may resist a trespass whether the motive in so doing be good or bad.[26]

In many of the western states the owner of cattle is not liable for a trespass committed by them unless they have broken through a sufficient fence.[27]

It is a trespass to the person[28] to commit any assault or battery upon him,[29] as, to set in motion a force which comes in contact with another,[30] or to use unnecessary force where a reasonable degree is justifiable.[31]

Right of entry and other matters in justification.[32]—A license to a third person to enter is no justification to a trespasser,[33] and a trespasser who sets up an outstanding title in a stranger is entitled to no particular consideration;[34] he must prove such title and that he rightfully entered under it.[35] A plaintiff's failure to obey an injunction is no justification.[36] A judgment of a court, void for want of jurisdiction, will not justify a trespass committed under it, even though the writ issuing on such judgment be regular on its face;[37] otherwise if the court had jurisdiction.[38] An entry by a public officer pursuant to authority from the state does not render him liable in trespass.[39] Special grounds of justification must be specially pleaded.[40]

Parties in the tort.[41]—All who co-operate in a trespass are jointly liable.[42] A principal is not liable for a trespass committed by an independent contractor;[43] nor are members of a board of street commissioners who do not concur in or house may be made within a reasonable time. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999. Entry within five days after happening of the contingency is within a reasonable time. Id.

24. Landlord making entry after expiration of lease. Dickson v. Wood, 209 Pa. 345, 58 A. 668.

25. A child of tender years who reaches across a line and comes in contact with a live wire. Lynchburg Tel. Co. v. Bokker [Va.] 50 S. E. 148.

26. Slingerland v. Gillespie [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 162.

Note: Life cannot be taken in order to prevent the commission of a mere trespass (Oliver v. State, 17 Ala. 587; Davidson v. People, 90 Ill. 221), and a person should not in defense of his property resort to means calculated to endanger life (State v. Dooley, 121 Mo. 591), and if life be taken for this purpose, it is murder (Harrison v. State, 24 Ala. 67, 60 Am. Dec. 450; State v. Morgan, 25 N. C. 186, 38 Am. Dec. 714; State v. Hoyt, 13 Minn. 132; Carpenter v. State, 62 Ark. 286). If, however, the trespass amounts to a felony, the killing is justified (Crawford v. State, 90 Ga. 701, 35 Am. St. Rep. 242; Pond v. State, 8 Mich. 150; Ledbetter v. State, 26 Tex. App. 22).—From note to Morrison v. Com. [Ky.] 67 L. R. A. 538.

27. Where goats went through a fence that was not goat proof, evidence held insufficient to show a trespass under the laws of Texas. Wilson v. Caffall [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 726.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1892.

29. See Assault and Battery, 3 Curr. L. 319.

30. A contractor who in constructing an underground railway injures a pedestrian on the street by a blast which throws a stone against him, is a trespasser. Turner v. Degnon-McLean Contracting Co., 90 N. Y. S. 948.

31. Though a passenger is subject to ejection, it is a trespass to use unnecessary force or eject him while the train is in motion. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stratton, 111 Ill. App. 142.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1894.

33. Defendant cannot show an agreement between plaintiff and a third person as to a right of way. Beaudrot v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 106.

34. Jackson v. Gunton, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

35. Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101.

36. Ejection of enjoined defendant and his goods. McAllin v. McAllin [Conn.] 59 A. 413.

37. Bradford v. Boozer, 139 Ala. 502, 36 So. 716.

38. Where timber is cut pursuant to an order of court and the proceeds paid into court to await its judgment, there can be no recovery in damages. Chenault v. Quisenberry, 26 Ky. L. R. 462, 81 S. W. 690.

39. State engineer acting under Laws 1902, p. 1125, c. 473. Litchfield v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 1016.

40. A writ of replevin is not available as a defense where justification on that ground is not specially pleaded. Giffin v. Martel [Vt.] 58 A. 788.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1892.

42. In trespass for taking mules, one pointing them out and, if he acted as agent for another, both he and his principal are liable. Fulgham v. Carter [Ala.] 37 So. 932. Liable in solido for compensatory and punitive damages. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976.

43. Korn v. Weir, 88 N. Y. S. 976.

ratify a trespass committed by others.[44] The purchase price of goods taken may be recovered from a purchaser with notice.[45]

§ 2. Actions. A. At law.[46]—Title,[47] or possession,[48] actual or constructive,[49] is essential to the maintenance of the action, and such possession must be more than a mere intrusion on the actual or constructive possession of another.[50] If the land entered is wild, possession is presumed to accompany the title, and this constructive possession will support the action;[51] but if it is improved, that fact shows possession by some one, and plaintiff cannot rest on his title but must show possession.[52]

Trespass is the appropriate remedy either to recover damages for mere unlawful entry,[53] to recover the value of trees removed, considered separately from the value of the land,[54] or to recover damages to the land resulting from the special value of the trees as shade or ornamental trees.[55] The owner of the legal title may maintain trespass for an interference with his rights when he had only an equitable interest.[56] Successive actions may be maintained for a continuing trespass.[57]

An owner in his own right of land enclosed with that of others need not join the others in an action for damages for trespass.[58] Where the injury affects merely the present enjoyment, a tenant may sue.[59]

An action in replevin to recover the property taken is a bar to trespass for the wrongful taking.[60] Counts in trespass and trover are properly joined.[61]

44. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976.

45. Where a trespasser sells logs to a purchaser with notice, the owner's failure to set up title in an action by the trespasser for the price is no defense to his right to recover their value from the purchaser. Jones Lumber Co. v. Gatliff, 26 Ky. L. R. 616, 82 S. W. 295.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1895.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1893. Complaint showing no title or right to possession does not state a cause of action. Lomax v. Phillips, 113 La. 850, 37 So. 777. Evidence held to show sufficient title in plaintiff to recover for a trespass. Restetsky v. Delmar Ave. & C. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 665. In an action for injuries to property where plaintiff failed to show any interest in the property, a verdict in his favor cannot be sustained. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Knight [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124. A deed to himself from a person not appearing to have had title or possession is insufficient proof of title. Rollins v. Atlantic City R. Co., 70 N. J. Law, 664, 58 A. 344.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1893. Vanderslice v. Donner, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 319. One lawfully in possession may maintain trespass. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 37 So. 490. Possession under claim of ownership being prima facie evidence of title, the occupant may maintain trespass against a wrong doer. Southern R. Co. v. Horine, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 285.

49. To entitle one to maintain trespass quare clausum. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999; Tustin v. Sammons, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 175.

50. Vanderslice v. Donner, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 319.

51, 52. Tustin v. Sammons, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 175.

53, 54. Eldridge v. Gorman [Conn.] 60 A. 643.

NOTE. As applied to fixtures, trespass de bonis will lie for the carrying of them away after severance. Wadleigh v. Janvrin, 41 N. H. 503, 77 Am. Dec. 780; Ricker v. Kelly, 1 Me. 117, 10 Am. Dec. 38. The owner may elect to treat the articles severed as personalty and maintain de bonis, or he may sue in quare clausum for damages to the realty. Gardner v. Finley, 19 Barb. [N. Y.] 317; Barnes v. Burt, 38 Conn. 541. To maintain the action, the party in whom the property right is vested need not be in actual possession at the time of the severance. Van Brunt v. Schenck, 11 Johns. [N. Y.] 377. Thus the owner of land in possession of a tenant may maintain de bonis against a stranger (Buckley v. Dolbeare, 7 Conn. 232; Ward v. Andrews, 2 Chit. 636), and a landlord may maintain it against his tenant for a removal during his term (Schermerhorn v. Buell, 4 Denio [N. Y.] 422). A tenant may maintain this form of action against a tort feasor for the asportation of a subtenant's fixtures (Miller v. Baker, 1 Metc. [Mass.] 27), and it has been held that the tenant may maintain the action as against a wrong doer even though he has no right of removal of the fixtures severed (Hitchman v. Walton, 4 Mees. & W. 409).—From Bronson, Fixtures, § 108.

55. Eldridge v. Gorman [Conn.] 60 A. 643.

56. Trespass committed on public land after filing thereon by a homestead entryman and prior to patent issued. Gilbert v. McDonald [Minn.] 102 N. W. 712.

57. Injuries to abutting owner resulting from operation of a railroad. Becker v. Lebanon & M. St. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 367.

58. Adair v. Witherspoon [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 926.

59. City of Clinton v. Franklin, 26 Ky. L. R. 1053, 83 S. W. 142.

60. Palmer v. People, 111 Ill. App. 381.

Any error in the joinder as a matter of pleading is waived by failure to object to it on that ground.[62]

Where either trespass or case may be maintained, there is no variance between a writ stating an action in trespass and a declaration sounding in case.[63]

Joint trespassers are not entitled to separate trials as a matter of law.[64] A satisfaction by one joint trespasser is a bar to proceedings against the others.[65]

Pleading, issues and proof.[66]—A complaint must allege all circumstances necessary for the support of the action.[67] In quare clausum it should describe the land, allege title (lawful possession) in the plaintiff, and designate the particular wrong or injury, but need not recite plaintiff's chain of title.[68] An amendment that goes to the form of assertion of a right rather than to the substance of the right itself does not state a different cause of action.[69]

A complaint in trespass vie et armis need not allege evidentiary facts.[70]

A prayer for the recovery of personal property taken sounds in trover not in trespass.[71]

The right to possession is the only issue.[72]

Where, in an action for a statutory penalty, there were facts authorizing a recovery, an affirmative charge for defendant should not be given.[73]

In a verdict for possession and damages, the portion as to possession is surplusage and may be rejected.[74]

Evidence.[75]—A plaintiff claiming title by adverse possession has the burden of proving it.[76] All evidence tending to show the trespass is admissible.[77] There is some presumption that the real owner is in possession, therefore the admission of title deeds is not necessarily an error.[78] Where one acts as agent for 61, 62. Meloon v. Read [N. H.] 59 A. 946.

63. Action under Laws 1896, p. 373, c. 111, § 3, providing that one bitten by a dog may recover in either trespass or case. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930. Any variance is amendable. Id.

64. Meloon v. Read [N. H.] 59 A. 946.

65. One who brings separate actions against joint trespassers and accepts satisfaction of a judgment recovered against one before the trial of the case against the other, voluntarily abandons his demand against the latter. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Petty [C. C. A.] 132 F. 603.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1895.

67. The time when the trespass occurred. Warren v. Powell [Ga.] 49 S. E. 730. Complaint for cutting timber on school land held too vague to call for an answer. Adams v. Griffin [Miss.] 37 So. 457. An allegation that defendants unlawfully caused a large band of sheep to be taken on plaintiff's land and kept them there until the land was depastured states but a single cause of action. Minter v. Gose [Wyo.] 78 P. 948.

68. Gray v. Peay, 26 Ky. L. R. 989, 82 S. W. 1006.

69. Complaint under a statute amended by alleging threatened irreparable damage and insolvency. Swindell & Co. v. Saddler [Ga.] 49 S. E. 753.

70. Such as existence of the relation of passenger and carrier. Haggerty v. Potter, 111 Ill. App. 433.

71. For the recovery of the possession of one steer this day forcibly taken and detained, of the value of, etc. Vinson v. Knight [N. C.] 49 S. E. 891.

72. The question as to which shall prevail in a contest for title of a mining claim to which neither party had a perfect right of conveyance from the government is not in issue. Columbia Copper Min. Co. v. Duchess Min., Mill. & Smelting Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 385. Submission of an issue as to whether certain lands described in the complaint had been trespassed upon held proper. Roper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co., 135 N. C. 742, 47 S. E. 757.

73. Bradford v. Boozer, 139 Ala. 502, 36 So. 716.

74. Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1897.

76. Monk v. Wilmington [N. C.] 49 S. E. 345. A confession of a trespass entitles plaintiff to judgment. Norman v. Sylvia [R. I.] 59 A. 112.

77. In an action for damages for cutting trees, evidence held immaterial. Hathaway v. Goslant [Vt.] 59 A. 835.

Immaterial evidence: In trespass for breaking and entering premises, evidence that the building was in a delapidated condition. Schwartz v. McQuaid [Ill.] 73 N. E. 582. In trespass for taking mules, the fact that plaintiff's vendor had stolen them. Fulgham v. Carter [Ala.] 37 So. 932. Rejected evidence held not shown to have been material. Hathaway v. Goslant [Vt.] 59 A. 835.

78. Davis v. Alexander [Me.] 58 A. 55. Deed held admissible as against a trespasser without color of title. Jackson v. Gunton, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

another in committing a trespass, all evidence tending to show his agency is admissible.[70] Where a cause is referred to a referee, evidence of a trespass on a different part of plaintiff's close than that described in his pleadings is admissible.[80] In trespass de bonis, evidence of the cost of the goods is admissible in proof of their value,[81] but the question of conversion is immaterial.[82] A defendant in possession may show title under a plea of not guilty.[83] Allegations not essential to the cause of action need not be proven.[84] The judgment entered must conform to or be in consonance with the verdict rendered.[85]

(§ 2) B. In equity.[86]—As a general rule the commission of a mere trespass will not be enjoined,[87] and to warrant the issuance of an injunction, title must be undisputed or established by legal adjudication and the injury complained of must be irreparable in its nature;[88] therefore proof of damages already suffered does not authorize the issuance of an injunction,[89] and if the injury threatened is not irreparable, it will not be enjoined unless some other ground entitling complainant to relief be shown,[90] nor will it issue when the defendant has an apparent right

79. Evidence relative to removal of the goods during defendant's absence. McAllin v. McAllin [Conn.] 59 A. 413. In trespass for taking mules, a letter written by a principal to a third person, stating that his agent would identify the mules and render any other assistance he could, was held admissible. Fulgham v. Carter [Ala.] 37 So. 932.

80. Misdescription could be cured by amendment and defendants were placed at no disadvantage. Pollard v. Barrows [Vt.] 58 A. 726.

81. Giffin v. Martel [Vt.] 58 A. 788. The value of the goods 16 months prior to the taking is admissible where evidence tended to show that they remained substantially the same. Id.

82. Giffin v. Martel [Vt.] 58 A. 788.

83. Edwards v. Woodruff, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 575.

84. Where plaintiff alleges that a mob trespassed, he need not prove that the persons acting in concert constituted a mob within the definition of that term. Stevens v. Sheriff [Kan.] 80 P. 936.

85. Judgment entered by the prothonotary held not fatally defective. Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1898.

87. Where a city threatens to compel the removal of fruit stands which the owners claim stands upon private property and not in the street. Pagames v. Chicago, 111 Ill. App. 590.

88. Curtin v. Stout [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 810. The removal of timber will not be enjoined where there is a conflict as to title and the defendant is solvent. Id. Evidence held to show that telephone poles threatened to be destroyed were not erected in the public street. Heck v. Greenwood Tel. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 960.

NOTE. Irreparable, destructive, and permanent injuries: A trespass which will cause permanent and lasting injury to real estate will be restrained by injunction (Ryan v. Brown, 18 Mich. 196, 100 Am. Dec. 154; Echelkamp v. Schrader, 45 Mo. 505; Miller v. Lynch, 149 Pa. 460, 24 A. 80); so will a trespass which will result in the destruction of the property in the character of its use and enjoyment (Peterson v. Hopewell, 55 Neb. 670, 76 N. W. 451; Scudder v. Trenton Delaware Falls Co., 1 N. J. Eq. 694, 23 Am. Dec. 756); and, in general, the commission of a trespass calculated to work irreparable mischief will be enjoined (Newlin v. Prevo, 81 Ill. App. 75). What constitutes an irreparable injury has engaged our attention in an earlier note in this series of reports. See the note to Dudley v. Hurst [Md.] 1 Am. St. Rep. 374-379. A reference to this note will show that the best criterion for determining whether or not an injury is irreparable is this: Can complete compensation for it be had by a recovery of damages in an action at law? An injury which cannot adequately be compensated by a verdict for damages is generally regarded as irreparable, while an injury which can fully be compensated by damages at law is ordinarily not regarded as irreparable.—From note to Moore v. Halliday [Or.] 99 Am. St. Rep. 735.

89. Bryant v. Lamb Timber Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 622.

90. Such as the insolvency of the wrongdoer. Stephenson v. Burdett [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 846.

NOTE. Insolvency of trespasser: If a trespasser is insolvent, and therefore unable to respond in damages for the injuries he may cause, this is a circumstance to be taken into consideration in determining whether his action should be restrained. Bensley v. Mountain Lake Water Co., 13 Cal. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 575; Derry v. Ross, 5 Colo. 295; Walker v. Walker, 51 Ga. 22; Cottle v. Harrold, 72 Ga. 830; Silva v. Rankin, 80 Ga. 79, 4 S. E. 756; Justice v. Aiken [Ga.] 30 S. E. 941; Wall v. Mercer [Ga.] 46 S. E. 420; Commissioners of Highways v. Green, 156 Ill. 504, 41 N. E. 154; Harms v. Jacobs, 158 Ill. 505, 41 N. E. 1071; Gibbs v. McFadden, 39 Iowa, 371; Martin v. Davis, 96 Iowa, 718, 65 N. E. 1001; Sword v. Allen, 25 Kan. 67; Musselman v. Marquis, 64 Ky. 463, 89 Am. Dec. 637; Coulson v. Harris, 43 Miss. 728; Sumner v. Blakslee, 59 N. H. 242, 47 Am. Rep. 196; Wilson v. Hill, 46 N. J. Eq. 367, 19 A. 1097; Mechanics', etc., Bank v. Debolt, 1 Ohio St. 591; Hanley v. Watterson, 39 W. Va. 214, 19 S. E. 536. But while the pecuniary irresponsibility of the wrongdoer will be given due weight, it is not decisive of the question. Kellogg v. King, 114 Cal. 378, 55 Am. St. Rep.

to enter.[91] A continuing trespass on a railroad which is a menace to the public safety may be perpetually enjoined.[92]

Upon an application for an injunction, plaintiff must allege that he is in possession,[93] or a state of facts showing that he is entitled to relief without being in possession,[94] or that he has pending an action to recover possession or is about to institute such an action.[95] In the latter case the court will enjoin until the right of possession is determined.[96]

An injunction against trespass is not a bar to subsequent expropriation proceedings as to the same property.[97]

§ 3. Damages and penalties.[98]—The measure of damages is the amount which will compensate for the injury done,[99] both immediate and consequential.[1] If the trespass was innocent, the actual damages sustained is the measure,[2] and if no actual damage is suffered,[3] or if the extent of the injury is not shown, nominal damages only can be recovered;[4] but remote and speculative damages cannot be.[5] Where the injury to the land is not of a permanent character, the cost of restoring it to its normal condition is the measure;[6] but if the injury is 74, 46 P. 166; Morgan v. Palmer, 48 N. H. 336. His insolvency alone will not give chancery jurisdiction, when the other circumstances of the case preclude it. Mechanics' Foundry v. Ryall, 75 Cal. 601, 17 P. 703; Carney v. Hadley, 32 Fla. 344, 13 So. 4, 37 Am. St. Rep. 101, 13 South. 4; Centreville, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Barnett, 2 Ind. 536; Murray v. Knapp, 62 Barb. [N. Y.] 566, 42 How. Pr. 462; Parker v. Furlong, 37 Or. 248, 62 P. 490; Moore v. Halliday (the principal case), ante, p. 724. And on the other hand, his solvency will be no defense to the issuance of an injunction if the other facts of the case are such as to render an injunction the proper remedy. Crescent City Wharf, etc., Co. v. Simpson, 77 Cal. 286, 19 P. 426; McPike v. West, 71 Mo. 199; Roper Lumber Co. v. Wallace, 93 N. C. 22.—From note to Moore v. Halliday [Or.] 99 Am. St. Rep. 741.

91. Defendant had a contract for the sale to him of the timber, the cutting of which it was sought to enjoin. Swindell & Co. v. Saddler [Ga.] 49 S. E. 753.

92. One riding on the railroad track with a railroad bicycle. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spaulding, 69 Kan. 431, 77 P. 106. A trespasser may be restrained from using a velocipede on a railroad track. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Puckett [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 662.

93, 94. Ramey v. Counts, 102 Va. 902, 47 S. E. 1006.

95. Ramey v. Counts, 102 Va. 902, 47 S. E. 1006. Bill alleging that defendant threatened to construct a dam in a stream below his premises which would flood the same, states facts sufficient to entitle plaintiff to an injunction. Bryant v. Lamb Timber Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 622.

96. Ramey v. Counts, 102 Va. 902, 47 S. E. 1006.

97. Xavier Realty v. Louisiana R. & Nav. Co. [La.] 38 So. 427.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1900.

99. Where one witness, not qualified, testified that the damage caused was $2,500 and the only other evidence was to the effect that it did not exceed $15, a finding of $200 cannot be sustained. Ferguson v. Buckell, 91 N. Y. S. 724. An injury caused in the execution of a plan for grading a street cannot be made the basis of a recovery by one who has been awarded damages by a jury of view, for injuries likely to result. Beach v. Scranton, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 430.

1. Recovery may also be had for loss of use of the premises by reason of the trespass and for the expense incidental to his removal therefrom. Herron v. Jones & Laughlin Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 226. Where entry is made on the roof of one's house for the purpose of stringing telephone wires, the rental value for the purpose for which it is used may be recovered. Bunke v. New York Tel. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 390.

2. In erecting a pole at the intersection of streets, a telephone company did not know that they were on private property. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Whiteman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 76. Where a lessee cuts timber under an honest mistake as his right to do so. Lewis v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 280.

3. One cut timber belonging to another but which was as valuable cut as standing. De Camp v. Wallace, 45 Misc. 436, 92 N. Y. S. 746; Eldridge v. Gorman [Conn.] 60 A. 643.

4. No evidence to show quantity of sand taken from the beach. Murray v. Pannaci [C. C. A.] 130 F. 529.

5. Loss of time in trying to get a trespasser to remove a telephone pole planted on his premises. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Whiteman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 76. Expense incurred in determining whether any action could be maintained cannot be recovered. Murray v. Pannaci [C. C. A.] 130 F. 529. Where no injury resulted from the stringing of wires close to premises, the possibility of injury to life, limb and security of the inhabitants cannot be recovered for. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Whiteman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 76.

Danger from fire by reason of brush heaps cannot be considered. Chase v. Clearfield Lumber Co., 209 Pa. 422, 58 A. 813.

6. Cost of filling up a hole and making the grass grow. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Whiteman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 76. Admission of evidence as to depreciation in value of the land was error. Id. For trespass to land, the measure is the cost of reof a permanent character,[7] or if such cost is greater than the diminution in value,[8] the latter is the measure. For the willful taking of timber, the measure is the value at the time of demand;[9] but if innocent, it is the stumpage value.[10] For goods unlawfully taken, it is their value at the time of taking.[11]

Evidence of an offer to return damaged goods,[12] or that defendant acted on advice of counsel based on different facts, is properly excluded, as mitigation of damages.[13]

A trespasser may in Louisiana claim reimbursement for the cost of clearing land for cultivation, when to cultivate it is its chief value.[14] He may also claim for such ameliorations as have added to the permanent value of the land.[15]

Recovery can be had only for the trespass declared for,[16] and in an action for trespass, a complainant cannot recover for a breach of a contract;[17] but where both actual and punitive damages are alleged, the actual damages may be recovered, though there is no proof of punitive damages.[18] Special damages must be specially pleaded.[19]

Punitive damages[20] may be recovered for a willful trespass,[21] but to justify their imposition, it must be shown that the trespass was malicious or wanton or at least with wrongful motive.[22] Intentionally injuring property in known violation of the possessor's rights is evidence of malice.[23]

Multifold damages.[24]—Where a statute provides for treble damages, ordinary rules do not apply.[25] In Missouri a willful trespasser taking sand from premises is liable for treble damages;[26] but if the trespass was not willful, only single dampairing the injury unless such cost exceeds the value of the property, in which case the value of the property is the measure. Welliver v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 79; Herron v. Jones & Laughlin Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 226. For removing lateral support the amount of injury actually done. Ruppert v. West Side Belt R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 613.

7. For destruction of shade or ornamental trees, the reduction in the pecuniary value of the land. Eldridge v. Gorman [Conn.] 60 A. 643. The measure of damages for the unreasonable cutting of trees for the erection of a telephone is the difference in the value of the land as it would have been if the cutting had been reasonable and its value after the cutting, not the difference in value before and after the cutting. Meyer v. Standard Tel. Co., 122 Iowa, 514, 98 N. W. 300.

8. Enid & A. R. Co. v. Wiley, 14 Okl. 310, 78 P. 96.

9. Jones Lumber Co. v. Gatliff, 26 Ky. L. R. 616, 82 S. W. 295.

10. Where the purpose of an action is to recover only the value of the timber removed, the rule for damages is the market value of the trees for lumber or fuel. Eldridge v. Gorman [Conn.] 60 A. 643.

11. Constable wrongfully seizing and selling goods. Mansfield v. Bell, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 447. Damages may be estimated on a basis of the cost of the goods and the amount they have been used in the absence of better proof. Behm v. Damm, 91 N. Y. S. 735.

12. Giffin v. Martel [Vt.] 58 A. 788.

13. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 37 So. 490.

14, 15. Sigur v. Burguieres, 111 La. 711, 35 So. 823.

16. Notice under the act of May 2, 1876, cannot be used to bring in separate causes of action, arising between the issuance of the writ and the trial. Tustin v. Sammons, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 175; Jackson v. Gunton, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

17. In this case no contract was pleaded nor were the pleadings amended. Korn v. Weir, 88 N. Y. S. 976.

18. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675.

19. Peculiar value of shade or ornamental trees. Eldridge v. Gorman [Conn.] 60 A. 643.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1900, n. 23 et. seq.

21. Beaudrot v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 106; Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675. Where the trespass is an outrage without mitigating circumstances, exemplary damages may be recovered. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976. Where a railroad company lays its track against the protest of abutting owner, in such manner as to injure his premises, it cannot demand that damages shall be assessed on the same basis as in eminent domain proceedings. Becker v. Lebanon & Myerstown St. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 367.

22. Murray v. Pannaci [C. C. A.] 130 F. 529. Question of malice held for the jury. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 37 So. 490.

23. Digging ditches in disregard of written protest from the occupant. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 37 So. 490.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1901.

25. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4572, providing for treble damages for carrying away sand, gravel, etc., the measure is treble the value of the sand removed without regard to the value of the land before and after. Cox v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 989.

26. A railroad company authorized by Rev. St. 1899, § 1058, to take gravel from ad-ages can be recovered.[27] One entering with probable cause to believe that he has such right is not converted into a willful trespasser by mere notice from the owner to leave.[28] A contract to purchase land does not give the proposed purchaser reasonable cause to believe that he has a right to enter.[29] In Michigan plaintiff can recover treble damages for cutting down and carrying away trees only by proving title to the land on which the trees stood unless title is admitted by the defendant.[30] Title is deemed admitted if claimed by plaintiff and not denied by defendant who files a bond and pays fees and costs.[31] A recovery of statutory treble damages cannot be had unless the petition sets forth a trespass for which the statute allows such recovery;[32] but a complaint bottomed on the statute, though insufficient to authorize such recovery, may state a cause of action at common law.[33] Treble damages for wrongfully mining coal, and single damages for an injury to the mine caused by negligence in operating it, can be recovered in one action.[34]

§ 4. Criminal liability.[35]—In statutes making willful trespass a crime, "willful" means "malicious."[36] No criminal liability is incurred by an entry under a license.[37] A trespass continuing after warning is not an entry after warning.[38]

In Texas, by statute, an indictment for trespass on the lands of a married woman may allege ownership and possession in her or in her husband.[39] An unnecessary description of the land, in an indictment, does not render it indefinite.[40]

The trespass must be established beyond a reasonable doubt.[41] An indictment charging an entry after warning is not supported by evidence of a refusal to leave after notice, after an entry before warning.[42] On a prosecution for entry on the separate property of a married woman, consent of the husband is immaterial.[43]

§ 5. Trespass to try title.[44]—Trespass to try title is an action peculiar to the state of Texas, and lies to settle disputes concerning boundaries,[45] title,[46] or the rents and revenues of the land.[47]

jacent lands, but requiring them to first agree as to the damages or have it appraised, is a willful trespasser if it enters prior to such agreement or appraisement. Cox v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 989.

27. One who has reasonable cause to believe he has a right to take sand is not a willful trespasser, though in fact he has no right to enter. Cox v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 989.

28, 29. Cox v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 989.

30. Laws 1897, § 11,204. Reynolds v. Maynard [Mich.] 100 N. W. 174.

31. Comp. Laws 1897, § 786. Reynolds v. Maynard [Mich.] 100 N. W. 174. Allegation of title to trees cut is not an allegation of title to the land within the meaning of this law. Id.

32. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4572, giving such damages where a trespasser with no right or interest digs up gravel, the complaint must allege that he had no right or interest. O'Bannon v. St. Louis & G. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 603.

33. Complaint under Rev. St. 1899, § 4572, insufficient because not stating that the trespasser had no interest in the premises. Mishler Lumber Co. v. Craig [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 41.

34. Jackson v. Gunton, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1902.

36. Gen. St. 1894, § 6781, subd. 3. Price v. Denison [Minn.] 103 N. W. 728. One who enters in good faith and severs mature crops and does not destroy, injure or conceal the same, is not guilty. Id.

37. Deed of right of way held to give authority to enter on adjacent land. Hames v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 708.

38. One enclosed a portion of an adjoining owner's land with a fence. While he was temporarily absent he received warning not to enter on the premises. A subsequent entry held not an entry after warning under Cr. Code 1896, § 5606. Brunson v. State, 140 Ala. 201, 37 So. 197.

39. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 445. Hames v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 708.

40. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 1773. State v. Hooker [Ark.] 81 S. W. 231.

41. Refusal to give an instruction relative to boundaries held error. Mann v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 195.

42. Under Cr. Code 1896, § 5606. Brunson v. State, 140 Ala. 201, 37 So. 197.

43. Hames v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 708.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1903.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1903, n. 59 et seq. Evidence held to sustain a finding as to the location of the land sued for. Cochran v. Moerer [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 160. Evi-

An interest in the land is necessary to enable one to maintain the action,[48] but a trustee may maintain it.[49]

A warrantor properly impleaded should be retained as a party to the cause.[50]

Pleading and procedure.[51]—The complaint must contain a description of the land sufficient to identify it.[52] An objection to the petition that it is not indorsed, "An action to try title as well as for damages" cannot be raised by general demurrer.[53]

The defense of stale demand is not available where the legal or equitable title asserted is sufficient to sustain the action.[54]

After the plaintiff has established a prima facie case,[55] the defendant has the burden of showing a defect in his title.[56] Where plaintiff shows a superior title from the common source, the defendant has the burden to show that the common source was without title,[57] which is not met by proof that some third person once had title,[58] but by disproving title as asserted by the plaintiff.[59] Proof of a superior title from a common source does not estop defendant from showing a claim through another source.[60] One asserting an equity against the legal title must show that the holder of the legal title did not pay value or that he purchased with notice of the equity.[61] A preponderance of evidence is all that is required.[62]

Evidence tending to show possession,[63] title,[64] or the derivation thereof, is dence held not to raise an issue as to the location of a boundary. Lewis v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 704.

46. Evidence held insufficient to show title in plaintiff. Cobb v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 887; Buster v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1063; Barclay v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 721; Matador Land & Cattle Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 235. Title under a will. Hymer v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 722. Evidence held to justify a presumption of a grant from state to the plaintiff. Ortiz v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 45. Evidence held insufficient to establish an outstanding title. Schultz v. Tonty Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 353. Evidence as to plaintiff's title held for the jury. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 569. Peremptory instruction properly refused under the evidence. Field v. Field [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 726.

47. Field v. Field [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 726.

48. An executory agreement to convey giving one no present interest will not support the action. Prusiecke v. Ramzinski [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 771. Plaintiff cannot recover on a deed of defendant's homestead not signed by his wife. Pinkston v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1014. Evidence held sufficient to establish an equitable title in the defendant under performance of a locative contract. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

49. Lewis v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 704.

50. Under the statute authorizing the defendants to implead their warrantor, it is improper to grant a severance as to a warrantor impleaded. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1905.

52. Description held sufficient. Echols v. Jacobs Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082. Description in a complaint by one claiming title by adverse possession held sufficient. Parker v. William Cameron & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 647.

53. Echols v. Jacobs Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082.

54. Lyster v. Leighton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1033.

55. Where he establishes a superior title emanating from a common source, he has made out a prima facie case. Gilmer v. Beauchamp [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 907.

56. Both parties claimed under applications to purchase from the state. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 569. One claiming under an application to purchase from the state land awarded to another has the burden of overcoming the presumption of regularity of the award. Smith v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 936. Where both parties claim under applications to purchase from the state and one is in possession under a sale by him from the state, the burden is on the other to show the invalidity of the sale. Jones v. Wright [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1053.

57, 58. Ellis v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1034.

59. Where plaintiff introduces a patent to the common source, evidence that the common source was not the patentee rebuts the presumption of title in him. Ellis v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1034.

60. Gilmer v. Beauchamp [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 907.

61. Catrett v. Brown Hardware Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1045.

62. Instruction that plaintiffs must prove their case by clear and positive testimony properly refused as requiring too great a quantum of proof. Matador Land & Cattle Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 235.

63. That defendant was on the land picking cotton when the citation was served on him. Field v. Field [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 726.

64. Records showing decree for specific admissible.[65] Possession is not necessary to a presumption of a grant from the exercise of acts of ownership.[66]

One seeking to recover from a trespasser must show title.[67] A title acquired by an unlawful scheme will not support a recovery.[68] In an action to recover an entire tract the plaintiff may recover the whole or any part thereof according to his proof of title, legal or equitable.[69]

The sufficiency of evidence to make out a particular title or derivation thereof presents questions of proof of descent,[70] devise,[71] conveyance[72] or purchase,[73] adverse occupancy,[74] entry, location, and patent of public lands,[75] and like matters which are elsewhere topically treated; hence all such matters have been excluded to the topics cited.

TRESPASS ON THE CASE; TRESPASS TO TRY TITLE, see latest topical index.

TRIAL.

§ 1. Scope of Article; Definitions (1708).
§ 2. Joint and Separate Trials (1709).
§ 3. Course and Conduct of Trial (1709). Remarks and Conduct of Judge (1710). Remarks and Conduct of Counsel (1711).
§ 4. Reception and Exclusion of Evidence (1711). How Introduced (1711). Order of Proof (1711). Reopening a Case (1712). The Recall of a Witness (1713). The Right to Open and Close (1713). The Power of the Court to Reject Merely Cumulative Evidence (1714). Admissions of Counsel (1714). An Offer of Proof (1715). The Proper Objection to Evidence That Has Been Received (1715). The Effect of Evidence Admissible Only on Certain Issues, or Admitted for a Certain Purpose (1716). Permission to Perform Experiments in the Presence of the Jury (1716).
§ 5. Custody and Conduct of the Jury (1716).
A. During Trial (1716).
B. After Submission of the Case (1717).

§ 1. Scope of article; definitions.[76]—Many important and really distinct matters of trial procedure are given separate treatment in Current Law. Thus the law relating to dockets, calendars and trial lists,[77] continuance and postponement,[78] argument of counsel[79] and the right to open and close the same, examination of witnesses,[80] objections and exceptions to evidence,[81] trial by jury,[82] questions of law and fact,[83] instructions,[84] directing verdict and demurrer to evidence,[85] discontinuance, dismissal and nonsuit,[86] verdicts and findings,[87] has been excluded from this article on Trial, which includes principally only such matters as do not readily lend themselves to such separate treatment. The subjects of Evidence,[88] Pleading,[89] and Witnesses,[90] are also fully treated elsewhere. As to the hearing in equity, see article on Equity;[91] and for matters peculiar to criminal procedure, see Indictment and Prosecution.[92] performance of a locative contract held admissible to show title in plaintiff. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395. A deed containing a description of the property sufficient to identify it is admissible. Echols v. Jacobs Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082.

65. In a suit by W. M. Read, application by Wm. Reed to purchase the land when it was state school land is admissible. Goethal v. Read [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 592.

66. Ortiz v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 45.

67. In an action to recover certain school land alleged to have been purchased by plaintiff. Knippa v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 658.

68. Pinkston v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1014.

69. Zimpelman v. Power [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 69.

70. See Descent and Distribution, 3 Curr. L. 1081.

71. See Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

72. See Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056.

73. Vendors and Purchasers, 2 Curr. L. 1976.

74. Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51.

75. Public Lands, 4 Curr. L. 1106.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1907.

77. See 3 Curr. L. 1140.

78. See 3 Curr. L. 801.

79. See 3 Curr. L. 306.

80. See 3 Curr. L. 1383.

81. Saving Questions for Review, See 4 Curr. L. 1590.

82. See Jury, 4 Curr. L. 358.

83. See 4 Curr. L. 1165.

84. See 4 Curr. L. 133.

85. See 3 Curr. L. 1093.

86. See 3 Curr. L. 1097.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 2009.

88. See 3 Curr. L. 1334.

89. See 4 Curr. L. 980.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 2163.

91. See 3 Curr. L. 1232. See, also, Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 673-699.

What is a trial.—The taking of testimony is not essential to the "trial" of an action. If the pleadings present such a case as to entitle either party to relief, action of the trial court in giving judgment on the pleadings, after hearing arguments, is itself a trial.[93]

§ 2. Joint and separate trials.[94]—Consolidation of trials should be distinguished from consolidation of causes of action.[95] The latter idea appears in questions of joinder and severance of causes of action.[96] Whether an action shall be tried by itself or in connection with another is a question for the trial court.[97] Joint trespassers are not entitled to separate trials as a matter of law.[98]

The codes commonly provide that whenever two or more actions are pending at the same time between two parties in the same court, which might have been joined, the court may order them consolidated.[99] Under these statutes identity of parties is essential.[1]

Several suits against the same defendant are properly consolidated when the issues are practically identical,[2] and the rights of all the parties may be adjusted in a single suit.[3]

The consolidation of actions under statutes merges all actions consolidated into one suit,[4] in which there can be but one judgment, settling all the issues.[5] Where an order of consolidation is made, the court should require the pleadings to be reconstructed as in one suit, if necessary, and should determine what costs, if any, should be charged to either party in the original suits.[6] If the pleadings are ordered reformed, the complaint in the consolidated suit should state all of plaintiff's causes of action against the defendant as alleged in each of the suits consolidated, and the answer of defendant should present all issues which he has raised in such suits.[7] On the trial, several findings may be had upon the several causes of action stated in the pleadings, and if legal and equitable actions are consolidated, they may be tried in the same manner as though such causes had been joined in the same complaint.[8] All costs in the consolidated suit accrue only after consolidation.[9] Dismissal of one of the separate actions, without costs or other relief, is proper.[10]

§ 3. Course and conduct of trial.[11]—The conduct of the trial and the order of procedure are very largely left to the discretion of the trial court, the ex-

92. See 4 Curr. L. 1.

93. Dodge v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 849.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1908.

95. A consolidation of actions means uniting several into one, not consolidation of trials. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

96. See Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980.

97. Meloon v. Read [N. H.] 59 A. 946. Where one plaintiff brings several actions in a justices' court, for the killing of separate and distinct animals, and defendant moves to consolidate, whether such actions shall be consolidated is discretionary with the justice, if the amounts sued for, as consolidated do not exceed the jurisdiction of the court. Atlantic Coast R. Co. v. Dupont [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103.

98. Meloon v. Read [N. H.] 59 A. 946.

99. Under Code 1896, § 3318, two suits to recover different instalments due on a timber contract may be consolidated. Garrison v. Glass, 139 Ala. 512, 36 So. 725. Several actions against the same person to subject the same real estate to sale for the benefit of all the creditors are properly consolidated, under Rev. St. 1898, § 2792. Allen v. McRae [Wis.] 100 N. W. 12.

1. Under Kirby's Dig. § 6083, a suit against a railroad on an order given a contractor cannot be consolidated with a suit by another against the contractor in which the railroad company is garnishee. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. McConnell & Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1043.

2. Several actions against different newspapers for publishing the same libel, in which issues for the jury were substantially identical, consolidated, though elements of damage in several cases varied slightly [Rev. St. § 921]. Butler v. Courier-Citizen Co., 127 F. 1015.

3. Suits by different persons against a lodge on the same benefit certificate may be consolidated. Clement v. Clement [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1249.

4, 5. Handley v. Sprinkle [Mont.] 77 P. 296; Allen v. McRae [Wis.] 100 N. W. 12.

6, 7, 8, 9. Handley v. Sprinkle [Mont.] 77 P. 296.

10. Allen v. McRae [Wis.] 100 N. W. 12.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1909.

ercise of which in regard to these matters will not be reviewed, in the absence of a manifest abuse. Thus the order of trial of legal and equitable issues in a case;[12] the conduct of the argument of a case;[13] the regulation of the manner in which a witness may present testimony;[14] and the exclusion of witnesses from the court room while other witnesses are testifying,[15] are all matters within the province of the trial court. Where there is an order for the separation of witnesses, exceptions therefrom as to witnesses not parties to the case are also discretionary.[16] The Oregon statute, providing that, on request of either party, the judge may exclude from the court room any witness of the adverse party not under examination, does not authorize exclusion of a party;[17] but an officer of a corporation litigant may properly be excluded, where it does not appear that he possessed any special information which would render his presence necessary to protect the interests of the corporation.[18] So, too, a request during the progress of the trial for permission to withdraw an announcement of ready and verify a plea is addressed to the discretion of the court.[19]

Remarks and conduct of judge.[20]—Absence of the presiding judge is fatal to the proceedings,[21] if objection to such conduct is seasonably made,[22] and it appears that the complaining party has been prejudiced;[23] but absence for a short time with the consent of the parties is not reversible error, when no resulting harm is shown.[24] A judge has the right to question witnesses in order to advise himself of the facts and to enable him to correctly charge the jury;[25] but it is error to make comments minimizing the effect of certain testimony,[26] or to put to an expert who has testified, questions such as to intimate an opinion that the testimony is improbable or erroneous.[27] A remark by the court addressed to counsel in the presence of the jury which amounts to a comment on a material and disputed question of fact is cured by full instructions afterwards given the jury.[28]

12. McCreery Land & Investment Co. v. Myers [S. C.] 49 S. E. 848; Crosby v. Scott-Graff Lumber Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 610. The order of trial of legal and equitable issues in action against a city for damages for changes of grade, and an action against the city, its treasurer and another, to annul an assessment certificate and for an injunction, held within court's discretion. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 930.

13. Refusal to allow counsel for defendant to argue a claim which counsel for plaintiff had argued in his opening, but which defendant's counsel claimed, after the closing argument, was a new position taken by plaintiff, held proper. Schmidtt v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 120 Wis. 397, 98 N. W. 202. See Argument of Counsel, 3 Curr. L. 306.

14. Evidence as to plaintiff's condition being conflicting, denial of motion to permit her to testify, reclining on a stretcher, held proper, in personal injury action. Blanchard v. Holyoke St. R. Co., 186 Mass. 582, 72 N. E. 94. Permitting crippled plaintiff in personal injury action to walk to witness stand in view of the jury held not error. City of Minden v. Vedene [Neb.] 101 N. W. 330. Permitting witnesses to form paper cylinders to illustrate and explain a well about which they were testifying held not error. Comer v. Thornton [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 19.

15. King v. Hanson [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1085. Refusal of order to place witnesses under the rule of exclusion from the courtroom is discretionary. Griffith v. Ridpath [Wash.] 80 P. 820. Granting or refusing application to exclude witnesses of adverse party not under examination, as provided in Code Civ. Proc. § 3371, is discretionary. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918.

16. City Elec. R. Co. v. Smith, 121 Ga. 663, 49 S. E. 724.

17. Trotter v. Stayton [Or.] 77 P. 395.

18. City recorder held properly excluded. Trotter v. Stayton [Or.] 77 P. 395.

19. Refusal proper where facts had been fully developed. Hamilton v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 289.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1909.

21. Wells v. O'Hare, 209 Ill. 627, 70 N. E. 1056. A judge cannot properly absent himself from the courtroom for any considerable time. Dehougne v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1066.

22, 23. Wells v. O'Hare, 209 Ill. 627, 70 N. E. 1056.

24. Dehougne v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1066.

25. State v. Knowles [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1083.

26. Belt R. Co. of Chicago v. Confrey, 111 Ill. App. 473.

27. City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318.

28. Remark to the effect that evidence clearly showed an express agreement, while complaint was for quantum meruit, and inquiring as to result, held cured by instructions. Cummings v. Weir [Wash.] 79 P. 487.

It is not error for a trial judge, in declining to permit counsel to read a decision to the jury, to state in the presence of the jury that the decision is not applicable to the case on trial.[29] A remark that no further discussion as to the propriety of a question was necessary, and that further discussion might lead the court to change its ruling, was held not to render the trial unfair.[30] Impartial criticism of both counsel, in the court's charge, which could not have affected the verdict, is not ground for setting it aside.[31]

Remarks and conduct of counsel.[32]—Conduct of counsel in not acquiescing in rulings of the court is to be condemned.[33] Thus, remarks of counsel during trial for the purpose of getting before the jury evidence which had been ruled out by the court was held to constitute ground for new trial.[34] It is proper for the trial court to avoid confusion, to require arrangements to be made by which a single counsel for each party should make objections.[35] Counsel have no right to advise the jury that they do not intend to ask for instructions.[36] But counsel's statement that he had no instructions was not cause for reversal when made in reply to the court's direction to pass up instructions.[37] The action of the court in sustaining an objection to improper remarks or conduct of an attorney will not always be regarded as purging the record of error.[38]

§ 4. Reception and exclusion of evidence.[39]—In a court trial, greater latitude is permissible than in a jury trial.[40]

How introduced.[40a]—In common law actions, evidence is adduced orally,[41] and in chancery usually by written interrogatories and answers.[42] Papers presented for the consideration of matters of law need not be introduced like evidence.[43] Documents produced in court and marked for identification are not thereby put in evidence.[44]

Order of proof.[45]—In general, the party having the burden of proof should be allowed to close his case before any defensive matter may be introduced.[46] It is also a general rule that where the relevancy or competency of certain evidence depends on the existence of certain other facts, such facts should be first 29. Martin v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 1079, 48 S. E. 420.

30. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

31. Feldman v. Senft, 92 N. Y. S. 231.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1911.

33. Oliver v. Jessup's Estate [Mich.] 100 N. W. 900.

34. Evidence of compromise. Salter v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 588. Conduct of counsel in asking questions and offering proof, in presence of jury, contrary to a ruling of the court on evidence, held to require setting aside of verdict. Batchelder v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 56 A. 752.

35. As where three attorneys were talking at once. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754.

36, 37, 38. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 212 Ill. 429, 72 N. E. 387.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1912.

40. In a trial by a court without a jury, there is no necessity for such a rigid adherence to the rules of evidence as would be proper in a trial before a jury. Shelley v. Wescott, 23 App. D. C. 135.

40a. See 2 Curr. L. 1915, n. 89 et seq.

41. Importers' & Traders' Nat. Bank v. Lyons, 134 F. 510.

42. See Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210. Compare Depositions, 3 Curr. L. 1074.

43. Unnecessary to put pleadings in evidence in order to determine whether allegations of complaint are denied by answer. West v. Messick Groc. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 565. Pleadings in a case are before the court and jury, and may be commented on for the purpose of defining the issue and showing admitted allegations, though not formally put in evidence. Foley v. Young Men's Christian Ass'n, 92 N. Y. S. 781.

44. Judgment roll. Shelton v. Holzwasser, 91 N. Y. S. 328.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1912.

46. Evidence offered by defendant before plaintiffs rest properly excluded. Bowen v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 252. Special defensive matter cannot be introduced while plaintiff himself is testifying, and before he has closed his case. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Grant [Miss.] 38 So. 502. An offer of evidence, the purpose of which is to introduce defendant's case in advance by a cross-examination of the plaintiff, is properly refused. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82. The party having the burden of proof is required to introduce all his evidence before his opponent can be required to assume any burden of proof. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220. Witnesses for defense should not be examined before plaintiff has opened his case, unless by consent. But error held not to require new trial. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234.

shown.[47] But the order of proof is very largely discretionary with the trial court,[48] and since the exercise of this discretion is not ordinarily subject to review,[49] it is usually held that the admission of evidence prior to the introduction of foundation evidence, to show its relevancy or competency,[50] the admission of evidence, properly rebuttal, in the examination in chief,[51] or on cross-examination,[52] and the admission of evidence in rebuttal which should have been introduced as a part of the examination in chief,[53] are not grounds for reversal or new trial. While the preliminary question as to the admissibility of evidence is for the court, where the question of admissibility depends on disputed facts, the court may submit the evidence to the jury with proper hypothetical instructions.[54]

Reopening a case[55] after it has been formally closed, to admit further proof, is also a matter for the exercise of the trial court's discretion,[56] and this is so, though the motion to reopen the case is made after a motion for a nonsuit,[57] or directed verdict,[58] or a demurrer to evidence,[59] has been interposed. Where a de-

47. Proof of agency must precede evidence tending to show extent of agent's authority (Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43), or acts or concessions to bind an alleged principal (Sloan v. Sloan [Or.] 78 P. 893).

[The question is usually one of relevancy or competency, and not merely as to the order of proof. See Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334. —Editor.]

48. Fitch v. Mason City & C. L. Traction Co., 124 Iowa, 665, 100 N. W. 618; Burnside v. Everett [Mass.] 71 N. E. 82.

49. McAllin v. McAllin [Conn.] 59 A. 413.

50. Where testimony admitted becomes in the end pertinent, no claim of error in the order of its admission will be heard. Patch Mfg. Co. v. Protection Lodge No. 215, I. A. M. [Vt.] 60 A. 74. In proving a conspiracy, proof of acts and declarations of members may, in the discretion of the court, be admitted in advance of proof the conspiracy itself, where the acts of each tend to show a common purpose. Wright v. Stewart, 130 F. 905. Allowing examination of witness before putting in evidence to show competency of testimony is discretionary with the court. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49. Time of admission of evidence as to effect of a fire, in action for damages, discretionary with court. Spink v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 499. Warranty deed regular upon its face may be admitted in evidence without first showing possession thereunder; possession may be shown afterwards. English v. Openshaw [Utah] 78 P. 476. Changing order of proof by allowing evidence of bias before testimony making it material to his credibility harmless. Fine v. Interurban St. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 43.

51. That evidence competent in rebuttal was introduced in the examination in chief held not reversible error. Alquist v. Eagle Iron Works [Iowa] 101 N. W. 520.

52. Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601, 79 P. 209. No reversal for introducing written statement, to contradict oral statements of witness, on cross-examination instead of rebuttal. Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson, 212 Ill. 292, 72 N. E. 443.

53. Permitting evidence in rebuttal which should have been in chief is discretionary. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 183 Mo. 582, 82 S. W. 126. The calling of a witness by plaintiff in rebuttal who gives testimony that pertains to the main case is not necessarily prejudicial, but is a matter resting largely in the discretion of the trial court. Petersburg School Dist. of Nelson County v. Peterson [N. D.] 103 N. W. 756. It is within discretion of court to refuse to admit new evidence on redirect examination, and the exercise of that discretion will be reviewed only where an abuse appears. Shafer v. Russell [Utah] 79 P. 559.

Limitation: Evidence which might have been elicited from a witness on direct examination, but to which the attention of the witness had not been called on direct or cross examination, but for which the witness could be recalled, cannot be excluded on redirect in the court's discretion. Gleason v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1025.

54. King v. Hanson [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1085.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1913.

56. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998. In equity. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220. Trial by court without a jury. Work v. Braun [S. D.] 103 N. W. 764. Receiving evidence which is not strictly rebuttal after the testimony on both sides has been in other respects formally closed. Willett v. Morse [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 362. Allowing depositions to be read by counsel for defendant after he had closed his case held within discretion of court, the omission of such depositions having been by an oversight of counsel. Davis v. Collins [S. C.] 48 S. E. 469. Refusal to reopen case to hear additional proof not an abuse of discretion when witness knew all the facts at the trial and would have testified to them had not his attorney declined to bring them out. Commercial Bank v. Brinkerhoff [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 121. Reopening case to admit formal introduction of answers already in the case as pleadings held not an abuse of discretion. Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517, 77 P. 842.

57. Reopening after motion for nonsuit proper. Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601, 79 P. 209. Even though court had announced that motion for nonsuit would be sustained. Brooke v. Lowe [Ga.] 50 S. E. 146.

58. Plaintiff's attorney properly permitted to recall a witness to examine him on points he had overlooked, after motion for directed verdict by defendant. Hill v. Glenwood, 124 Iowa, 479, 100 N. W. 522.

murrer to plaintiff's evidence is interposed, and plaintiff moves to reopen the case to put in certain specific evidence, the court may grant the motion upon condition that certain other accessible evidence, deemed essential, shall be submitted;[60] and on refusal of the plaintiff's attorney to comply with such condition, judgment may properly be rendered for defendant.[61] Where the court grants leave to introduce certain specified testimony, its refusal to allow the introduction of testimony other than that specified is within its discretion.[62] Further evidence cannot be received after rendition of a verdict.[63] While a ruling inconsistent with a previous announcement is not ground for reversal unless a party has been thereby prejudiced,[64] a trial should be reopened when a party has waived a right in reliance upon an announcement by the trial judge, and the decision is inconsistent with such announcement, and it appears that on a rehearing the party will be able to establish his case, and was not guilty of laches.[65]

The recall of a witness[65a] to make proof of omitted matter,[66] or to explain former testimony,[67] is discretionary. A court is not required to recall a witness merely because counsel disagree as to his testimony, where no desire for such recall is indicated by the jury.[68]

The right to open and close[69] is in the party having the burden of proof.[70] A defendant may be entitled to open and close, by virtue of admissions, if such admissions are made in the pleadings, and are not merely oral,[71] and if they make a prima facie case for plaintiff, thus relieving him of the necessity of introducing evidence.[72] The Code provision that the party having the burden of the issue shall have the right to open and close the argument, "but shall disclose in the opening all the points relied on in the cause," does not take from a trial court all discretionary power relative to argument of counsel.[73] A defendant has no

59, 60, 61. Cole v. Gray [Kan.] 79 P. 654.

62. Alling v. Weissman [Conn.] 59 A. 419.

63. The court reserved ruling on evidence of assignments of the cause of action until after verdict, and then admitted the evidence. Held error. Bahnsen v. Horwitz, 90 N. Y. S. 428.

64. Declaration by a judge of his purpose to direct a verdict for plaintiff, after the testimony was all in, and his subsequent direction of verdict for defendant, held not prejudicial to plaintiff as inducing him to omit certain evidence, since it was the duty of counsel to put in the evidence in question. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61.

65. At the close of the evidence the judge gave an opinion as to the effect of new matter introduced under an amended pleading, and the other party, in reliance thereon, did not attempt to meet such new matter. The decision was at variance with the opinion so given, and it appeared that the new matter might have been successfully met. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

65a. See 2 Curr. L. 1915, n. 87.

66. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1915. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493.

67. Piehl v. Piehl [Mich.] 101 N. W. 628.

68. Scott v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 47.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1914.

70. Where defendant admits the plaintiff's cause but files a counterclaim, he has the burden of proof. Shaffer Bros. v. Warren [Iowa] 102 N. W. 497. When a plaintiff's cause is admitted, evidence tending to support it is properly excluded. Id. Plaintiff, in action on life insurance policy, held to have burden of proof and right to open and close. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v. Loughmiller, 33 Ind. App. 309, 69 N. E. 264. In action on account stated, defendant, having counterclaimed, was held to have the burden of proof in the action, so as to be entitled to the closing argument, within the meaning of Civ. Code Prac. § 526. Mattingly v. Shortell [Ky.] 85 S. W. 215. Under Court Rule 31, giving defendant the right to open and close if plaintiff's cause of action is admitted, except as defeated by matters set up in the answer, where in an action for money loaned and for commissions on sales, defendant alleged negligence in the care of the property sold, and plaintiff denied negligence, and defendant filed an admission of plaintiff's cause of action, the burden was on defendant to prove plaintiff's negligence. Kleinsmith v. Kempner [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 409.

71. Oral admission ineffectual for this purpose. Du Bignon v. Wright [Ga.] 50 S. E. 65.

72. Du Bignon v. Wright [Ga.] 50 S. E. 65. Where admissions in defendant's answer make a prima facie case for plaintiff, the burden of proof and the right to open and close are with defendant. Atlanta Suburban Land Corp. v. Austin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124.

Note: As to effect of admissions to change right to open and close, see note in 61 L. R. A. 513.

73. Where counsel for plaintiff opened, and counsel for defendant made no closing absolute right to deprive a plaintiff of his privilege of making a closing argument by failure to argue his case.[74]

The power of the court to reject merely cumulative evidence[75] on a chief issue, while generally committed to the discretion of the trial court, subject to review,[76] is denied in Massachusetts.[77] It is said elsewhere to be the duty of the court to reasonably limit testimony on a given issue,[78] and limitation of the number of witnesses on an issue,[79] and refusal to hear a repetition of testimony already given,[80] or to hear wholly immaterial evidence,[81] are held a proper exercise of the discretion of the court.

Admissions of counsel,[82] dispensing with the formal proof of facts, are binding on clients,[83] if of record and authorized.[84] Any statement which necessarily recognizes a fact admits it.[85] Announcement by counsel in open court that claims argument, refusal to permit a closing argument for plaintiff was not cause for reversal, in the absence of a showing of prejudice to plaintiff. Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489.

74. Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1917.

76. See 21 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 980. Cumulative may be refused. Slegelman v. Jones, 103 Mo. App. 172, 77 S. W. 307. Refusal to permit introduction of corroborative evidence by defendant held reversible error. Honigstein v. Hollingsworth, 85 N. Y. S. 818.

As to the harmlessness of the ruling when there is other evidence to the same fact, see Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

Note: It is said (see Note 18 Harv. L. R. 381) that as to expert's character and usage there is no conflict (as to character, reputation or credibility, see State v. Beabant, 100 Iowa, 155; Bays v. Hunt, 60 Iowa, 251; Williams v. McKee, 98 Tenn. 139. Cited 21 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 980, et seq. As to expert evidence see Fraser v. Jennison, 42 Mich. 206; State v. Pratt County, 42 Kan. 641; Riggs v. Sterling, 60 Mich. 643, 1 Am. St. Rep. 554; White v. Herman, 51 Ill. 243; Huett v. Clark, 4 Colo. App. 231; Hilliard v. Beattie, 59 N. H. 462; Sixth Ave. R. Co. v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 138 N. Y. 548; Powers v. McKenzie, 90 Tenn. 167; and see, 21 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 981; 8 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 782. The case of Green v. Phoenix Mut. L. Ins. Co., 134 Ill. 310, will be found instructive as to the occasions when the number of witnesses may be limited.

It is suggested that a division may be made which will tend to harmony, viz.: (a) Cases of collateral issues; (b) Cases of chief issues which in their nature lie in the knowledge of many witnesses whose number may be indefinite, e. g. Matters of opinion, usage, public knowledge or observation and the like; (c) Cases of chief issues whose nature does not invlove the probability of many witnesses, e. g. eye and ear witnessing to a certain occurrence.

77. Perkins v. Rice, 187 Mass. 28, 72 N. E. 323.

Note: This case is commented on in a note in 18 Harv. L. R. as ignoring the disadvantage of expense, delay and confusion of the jury which may result from receiving an unlimited amount of merely cumulative testimony. It is noteworthy that while denying power to withhold cumulative evidence from the jury during trial the same practical result is reached on a motion for new trial where it will be refused if the only ground is newly discovered cumulative evidence. See Gardner v. Gardner, 2 Gray [Mass.] 434; Gardner v. Mitchell, 6 Pick. [Mass.] 114, 17 Am. Dec. 349; Sawyer v. Merrill, 10 Pick. [Mass.] 16, cited in 14 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 814.

78. Action of court in stopping introduction of evidence on damages held proper, six or seven witnesses having testified on the point. Burt-Brabb Lumber Co. v. Crawford [Ky.] 86 S. W. 702.

79. Restriction of number of impeaching witnesses proper. Donaldson v. Dobbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1084. Limiting number of expert witnesses on question of value of realty to three for each side, not an abuse of discretion. Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113, 78 P. 607. Permitting one party to examine witnesses on an issue more in number than specified in a rule by the court limiting the number of witnesses for each party on such issue is discretionary. Brady v. Shirley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 886.

80. Not error to refuse further cross-examination on same subject when ground had been covered by counsel several times. San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025. Refusal to permit repetition of testimony on redirect examination is discretionary. Shafer v. Russell [Utah] 79 P. 559. Refusal to allow repetition of evidence of a custom of hiring employes to corroborate testimony for defendant held proper. Johnson v. Crookston Lumber Co., 92 Minn. 393, 100 N. W. 325.

81. Action of the court in refusing to hear immaterial evidence and telling the witness to leave the stand is not ground for error when no further relevant evidence was offered and no request was made to be heard in argument. In re Hayden's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 588.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1918.

83. Everett v. Marston [Mo.] 85 S. W. 540.

84. Alleged admission of sales by nodding of head, while going over items of bill of particulars, held not binding on client. Jefferson Bank v. Gossett, 90 N. Y. S. 1049.

85. A statement as to what was the basis of action taken by an auditing board held an admission that they wrongly refused to audit a claim. People v. Mole, 82 N. Y. S. 747.

in a petition were abandoned, and only those set up in an amendment would be relied on, is equivalent to striking out such claims in the petition, and renders submission of the abandoned issues unnecessary.[86] A remark of counsel as to a claim of plaintiff cannot be considered as an abandonment of the claim as alleged in the petition, when the attorneys do not so treat it on trial.[87] An admission by an attorney in a pending cause may be used on a subsequent trial, and cannot be retracted, unless by leave of the court on a proper showing of mistake, imposition or surprise.[88] Incompetency of testimony as against infant parties cannot be waived by counsel.[89]

An offer of proof[90] must show the materiality of evidence sought to be introduced.[91] An offer is not sufficient without having the witness present and calling him, or asking leave to call him, or without affirmatively showing that the offer is made in good faith, and with the means of doing or trying to do what is desired.[92] It is proper to offer to prove matters after questions relating thereto have been ruled out on objection.[93] If an offer of proof is such that it may mislead or prejudice the jury, it is proper to have the jury withdrawn until the offer is made.[94] The matter rests largely in the trial court's discretion.[95] Refusal to rule on offers of proof when made is error.[96]

The proper objection to evidence that has been received[97] is a motion to strike it out,[98] or a request for an instruction to the jury to disregard it.[99] A motion to strike at the close of case is too late,[1] unless on the ground that the evidence is inadmissible under the pleadings.[2] A motion to strike will be denied when part of the testimony to which it is directed is proper and part improper.[3] Strik-

86. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

87. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Broadbent [Kan.] 79 P. 126.

88. Copy of by-laws, admitted by attorney to be competent on formal trial, held admissible. Wells & M. Council No. 14, Junior Order United American Mechanics v. Littleton [Md.] 60 A. 22.

89. Jespersen v. Mech, 213 Ill. 488, 72 N. E. 1114.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1915.

91. When it is not apparent on the face of a question that the evidence is material, the party seeking to introduce it must state what he expects to prove. Marshall v. Marshall [Kan.] 80 P. 629.

See, also, Saving Questions for Review, 4 Curr. L. 1368.

92. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

93, 94, 95. Henrietta Coal Co. v. Campbell, 211 Ill. 216, 71 N. E. 863.

96. Verdict and judgment set aside where court refused to rule formally on defendant's offer of proof, but ruled that all offers would be considered as proven, and thereupon directed verdict for plaintiff. Montelius v. Montelius, 209 Pa. 541, 58 A. 910.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1920.

98. The remedy for an answer which is not responsive to the question is a motion to strike out and reject the answer. Diamond Block Coal Co. v. Cuthbertson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 818. After an answer is made, neither the question nor answer is open to the objection of incompetency; the proper motion is to exclude the answer. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bowman [Ala.] 37 So. 493. Testimony being shown, on cross-examination, to be hearsay, it should be stricken, on motion. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Renfro [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 21. Refusal to strike evidence of improper elements of damage in condemnation proceedings held error. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Trustees of Schools of Tp. 9 S. R. 2 W., 3d P. M., Jackson County, 212 Ill. 406, 72 N. E. 39.

See other cases in Saving Questions for Review, 4 Curr. L. 1368.

99. Request for instruction, and not motion to strike, is the proper remedy in New York, when a question is answered before objection. Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880. Improper evidence having been admitted, the court may withdraw it from the jury and refuse to allow counsel to discuss it before the jury. Coruth v. Jones [Vt.] 60 A. 814.

1. Smith v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1061. It is error to strike out opinion evidence of an expert at the close of the case of the side offering such evidence, on the ground that the detailed facts upon which it is based were not given, no effort having been made on cross-examination to elicit testimony in that regard; and especially is this so where no objection is made because of want of such detail. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 of Ft. Atkinson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

2. Evidence of locomotor ataxia properly so stricken because damages therefor not alleged. Wilkins v. Nassau Newspaper Delivery Exp. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 678.

3. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. San Francisco Sav. Union [Cal.] 79 P. 961; Hollingsworth v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 101 N. W. 455; Witzel v. Zuel, 90 Minn. 340, 96 N. W. 1124.

ing out as much of a statement as is specified in a motion to strike and leaving the rest as res gestae is not a cause of complaint by the moving party.[4] A motion to strike out evidence admitted without objection is addressed to the discretion of the court, even though the evidence would have been inadmissible if seasonably objected to.[5] It is discretionary with the court to exclude improper evidence at once, or to reserve such ruling until the close of the case.[6] But it has been held that the practice, in equity cases, of hearing evidence subject to objection, reserving the ruling until the decision of the case, is erroneous, and is ground for reversal if the evidence is material and exception is preserved.[7] It is a question of fact for the trial court whether a trial was rendered unfair by erroneous testimony, excluded at the time, the court later instructing the jury to disregard it.[8] It will be presumed that excluded evidence was not considered by the jury.[9] Where pertinent testimony is properly admitted, no subsequent complaint touching its informal admission will prevail.[10] Withdrawal of evidence, after it has been rebutted, may be refused, when the purpose is to effect the withdrawal of the rebuttal.[11]

The effect of evidence admissible only on certain issues[12] or admitted for a certain purpose[13] should be properly restricted, and a party wishing to restrict the effect of evidence should request such restriction at the time the evidence is offered, or request an instruction limiting the effect to be given it by the jury.[14]

Permission to perform experiments in the presence of the jury cannot be demanded as a matter of right, but is discretionary with the court.[15]

§ 5. Custody and conduct of the jury. A. During trial.[16]—In general, the conduct of jurors, selected to try a case, should be such as to avoid all suspicion of improper influence.[17] Thus, it is improper for a party to treat[18] or dine[19] jurors, or for jurors to mingle freely, during the trial, with counsel and witnesses.[20] Discussion of the merits of the case by a witness of the prevailing party in the presence and hearing of certain jurors is reversible error,[21] unless the objection to such misconduct has been waived by failure to urge it, with knowledge

4. Frenchi v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 771.

5. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154.

6. Hearsay introduced before objection could be made. Baumgartner v. Eigenbrot [Md.] 60 A. 601.

7. Asbury v. Hicklin, 181 Mo. 658, 81 S. W. 390.

8. Erroneous admission held cured by instruction. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

9. Answers excluded. Henning v. Stevenson, 26 Ky. L. R. 159, 80 S. W. 1135.

10. Vanderslice v. Donner, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 319.

11. Where, on cross-examination, evidence was brought out tending to show interest of the witness in the suit, and this was rebutted, it was not error to refuse to permit withdrawal of the evidence elicited on cross-examination. Sweeney v. Sweeney, 121 Ga. 293, 48 S. E. 984.

12. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 82 S. W. 505.

13. When testimony is admitted to impeach a witness by showing that he has made statements out of court different from those made on trial, it is error for the court to fail to limit its consideration by the jury to the purpose for which it was admitted. Texas Loan & Trust Co. v. Angel [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1056.

14. San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025.

15. Carr v. American Locomotive Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 678.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1921.

17. Albers v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 828.

18. It is highly improper for a party to the action to treat jurors to liquor at a saloon during the trial. Pickens v. Coal River Boom & Timber Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 872.

19. The practice of one party in dining or treating jurors during the trial is unwarranted if not censurable. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 202, 103 N. W. 856.

20. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 202, 103 N. W. 856. Improper for a juror to go to the house of a person unfriendly to plaintiff, in company of defendant's attorney, and remain there for the night. Albers v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 828.

21. It is immaterial that such discussion was without the knowledge or consent of the party to the suit, for whom witness testified. Belcher v. Estes [Me.] 59 A. 439.

of the facts, at the proper time.[22] To constitute reversible error, alleged misconduct must usually be shown to have been prejudicial.[23]

Whether a view should be taken[23a] in any case is a matter peculiarly within the discretion of the court,[24] but refusal to allow an inspection of premises in controversy may be ground for reversal.[25] The New York statute relative to viewing property in actions for waste is not applicable to other actions,[26] and misconduct of two jurors in viewing property during a recess, in an action for work done and materials furnished, is not cured by an unauthorized order directing a view by the entire jury.[27] A plaintiff in a personal injury action may be permitted to show his wounds and contusions to the jury, but should not be permitted to make a dramatic demonstration as to the extent of his physical disabilities.[28] A private physical examination of a party by the jury outside of the courtroom is improper.[29]

It is largely discretionary with the court to say what papers or articles shall be sent out with the jury,[30] and the practice of various courts differs.[31]

(§ 5) B. After submission of the case.[32]—Federal judges are not required to follow state regulations regarding submission of issues and control of deliberations of the jury, since the common law governs such procedure.[33] It is error for the court to recall the jury and give an additional charge, on its own motion,[34] but the court may explain its instructions, after submission of the case, on

22. Objection waived where senior counsel knew of facts before the jury retired and failed to object. The objection was waived, and was too late, after verdict. Belcher v. Estes [Me.] 59 A. 439.

23. Conversation at noon recess between a juror and an adjuster of defendant railroad company not cause for setting verdict aside, the subject of conversation not being shown. Werner v. Interurban St. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 592, 91 N. Y. S. 111. Action of juror in personal injury suit in walking up the street behind plaintiff, during a recess, and watching him to discover how badly he was crippled, and whether he was pretending, the juror concluding the injury was real, held not reversible. Gratz v. Worden, 26 Ky. L. R. 721, 82 S. W. 395.

23a. See 2 Curr. L. 1912, n. 59.

24. Denial of motion to permit view of plaintiff in her home, in personal injury action, held proper. Blanchard v. Holyoke St. R. Co., 186 Mass. 582, 72 N. E. 94.

25. Weidner v. Lund, 105 Ill. App. 454.

26. Code Civ. Proc. § 1659, does not authorize a court to direct a view of property in an action for work done and materials furnished. Buffalo Structural Steel Co. v. Dickinson, 90 N. Y. S. 268.

27. Buffalo Structural Steel Co. v. Dickinson, 90 N. Y. S. 268.

28. Felsch v. Babb [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1011. See, also, the rules as to real and demonstrative evidence. Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.

29. Error to allow private examination by jury of brakeman charged with committing rape on passenger. Garvik v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 691, 100 N. W. 498.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1922. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48. Whether papers read in evidence may be taken, discretionary under California statute. Powley v. Swensen [Cal.] 80 P. 722.

31. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48. The practice of allowing pleadings to be taken to the jury room, whether read in evidence or not, is not to be commended, but in the absence of prejudice it is not reversible error. Powley v. Swensen [Cal.] 80 P. 722. Paragraphs of petitions which have been stricken out on motion should not be submitted to the inspection of the jury. Trumbull v. Trumbull [Neb.] 98 N. W. 683. Jury may properly be permitted to take out the pleadings, including amendments thereto. Willoughby v. Willoughby [S. C.] 50 S. E. 208.

Interrogatories, though read in evidence should not be delivered to the jury. Shedden v. Stiles, 121 Ga. 637, 49 S. E. 719. Where they are so delivered, over objection, after the jury have retired to deliberate, and are of a character to influence the jury in favor of the prevailing party, a new trial should be granted to the party objecting against whom a verdict was rendered. Id. It is improper to send out a statement of a claim with the jury, especially where the evidence is conflicting and the claim is simple and easily kept in mind. Welliver v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 79. Permitting jury to take out photograph of plaintiff, showing his condition after an injury, held not reversible error. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48. A statute authorizing the jury to take to jury room "papers read in evidence" permits them to take out an X-ray photograph. Chicago & J. Elec. R. Co. v. Spence, 213 Ill. 220, 72 N. E. 796. In action for damages for killing cattle on track, not error, under Code, § 1083, to allow jury to take out map of place of accident, used by witnesses, but not admitted in evidence. Carman v. Montana Cent. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 690.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1923, 1924.

33. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. v. Friedman Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 713.

34. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1321, providing for additional instructions when asked for by the jury, does not authorize such action. Bailey v. Hartman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 829.

request of a juror.[35] When a jury reports failure to agree, the court may properly show the importance of their arriving at a verdict, and require a reconsideration.[36] It is error to permit the official stenographer to enter the jury room and read his notes to the jury.[37] Permitting jurors to leave the jury room to communicate with their families by telephone,[38] and separation of the jurors to go home during Thanksgiving,[39] were held not reversible error, no misconduct or improper influence having been shown.

ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTIONS AFTER RETIREMENT OF JURY.

[SPECIAL ARTICLE.*]

§ 1. Right and Duty to Give Additional Instructions (1718).
- A. General Rule (1718).
- B. At Request of Jury (1719).
- C. At Request of Parties (1720).
- D. By Consent of Counsel (1721).
- E. What Further Instructions Proper (1721).
- F. Same—Necessity of Repeating Entire Charge (1722).
- G. Exceptions to Additional Instructions (1722).

§ 2. Delivery in Open Court (1723).
- A. General Rule (1723).
- B. Violation of Rule as Ground for Reversal (1723).
- C. Waiver of Objections (1724).

§ 3. Presence of Counsel (1724).
- A. Rule that Presence of or Notice to Counsel is Unnecessary (1724).
- B. Rule that Presence of Counsel or Notice is Necessary (1725).
- C. Same—Violation of Rule as Ground for Reversal (1727).

§ 1. Right and duty to give additional instructions. A. General rule.—In Mississippi, the trial judge is prohibited by statute from giving the jury any instructions, unless a request therefor is made by the parties,[1] and this prohibition makes it erroneous for the court, of its own motion, or at the request of the jury, to give the jury further instructions after they have retired to consider their verdict.[2] Except in this state, it is a rule of almost universal application that the trial court may, of its own motion, recall the jury after they have retired to deliberate on their verdict, to give them further instructions,[3] especially after they have considered a case submitted to them for some length of time,[4] or where they report that they are unable to agree on a verdict.[5] On learning of a jury's dis-

35. By express provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 321. City of Covington v. Bostwick, 26 Ky. L. R. 780, 82 S. W. 569.

36. Statement of court to jury on sending them back for further deliberation held unobjectionable. City of Covington v. Bostwick, 26 Ky. L. R. 780, 82 S. W. 569.

37. Error to permit official stenographer to enter jury room, in absence of counsel, and read notes of examination and cross-examination of plaintiff and defendant, such notes not being evidence of recorded testimony. Otto v. Young, 43 Misc. 628, 88 N. Y. S. 188.

38. No cause for new trial, though improper. Baizley v. Welsh [N. J. Law] 60 A. 59.

39. Fire insurance case, and all jurors lived outside city where fire occurred. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. v. Friedman Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 713.

1. Lavenburg v. Harper, 27 Miss. 299. See, also, Blashfield on Instructions, § 126.

2. Duncan v. State, 49 Miss. 331; Taylor v. Manley, 6 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 305; Randolph v. Govan, 14 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 9, holding that a violation of the statute is a mere irregularity, and not ground for reversal where the instruction given is correct.

3. Morris v. State, 25 Ala. 57; National Lumber Co. v. Snell, 47 Ark. 407; McDaniel v. Crosby, 19 Ark. 533; People v. Perry, 65 Cal. 568; People v. Mayes, 113 Cal. 618; Hayes v. Williams, 17 Colo. 465; People v. Odell, 1 Dak. 197; White v. Fulton, 68 Ga. 511; Wood v. Isom, 68 Ga. 417; Pritchett v. State, 92 Ga. 65; Shaw v. Camp, 160 Ill. 425; City of Joliet v. Looney, 159 Ill. 471, affirming 56 Ill. App. 502; Breedlove v. Bundy, 96 Ind. 319; Hartman v. Flaherty, 80 Ind. 472; Hall v. State, 8 Ind. 439; Nichols v. Munsel, 115 Mass. 567; Florence Sewing Mach. Co. v. Grover & Baker Sewing Mach. Co., 110 Mass. 70; Scott v. Haynes, 12 Mo. App. 597; McClary v. Stull, 44 Neb. 191; Phillips v. New York Cent. & Hudson River R. Co., 127 N. Y. 657; Cox v. Highley, 100 Pa. 252; State v. Lightsey, 43 S. C. 114; Jones v. Swearingen, 42 S. C. 58; Benavides v. State, 31 Tex. Cr. App. 173.

4. Allis v. United States, 155 U. S. 117; State v. Rollins, 77 Me. 380.

5. McDaniel v. Crosby, 19 Ark. 533; Hogg v. State, 7 Ind. 551; State v. Pitts, 11 Iowa, 343; State v. Chandler, 31 Kan. 201; Com.

* From Blashfield on Instructions. Copyright 1902. Keefe-Davidson Co. See, also, late cases in Trial, 2 Curr. L. 1923, 4 Curr. L. 1708; Instructions, 2 Curr. L. 476; 4 Curr. L. 153.

agreement, "it is competent for the court, of its own motion, to give them any additional instruction, proper in itself, which may be necessary to meet the difficulty in their minds."[6] No request on the part of the jury for further instructions is necessary in any case.[7] It is within the discretion of the judge to have the jury brought in at any time to give them additional instructions, or to restate the evidence and principles of law applicable to the case, and the jury cannot forestall the action of the court by saying that they do not desire additional instructions.[8] The trial court has a large discretion in recalling juries and submitting amended or additional legal propositions by way of instructions, and, unless it fairly appears that such discretion has been abused to prejudice of the party complaining, there is no ground for reversal.[9] The discretion with which the court is thus vested is based on the soundest reasons. In the hurry of the trial, the court may have overlooked some instruction vitally important to a correct determination of the case.[10] It may also be that the instructions which it has given are vague and obscure, and have a tendency to mislead, which may be removed by a little explanation.[11] So, the court may have given some instructions which are, in point of law, erroneous.[12] It can hardly be contended that it would be preferable to leave the court no discretion in the matter of giving further instructions in any of these contingencies, and to run the risk of an erroneous verdict and the expense of a new trial.[13] In a number of states this matter of further instructing the jury after their retirement has been made the subject of statutory regulations, but it is believed that no court in which one of these statutes has been construed has ever held that the court cannot, of its own motion, give further instructions when the exigencies of the case demand such action. It has been held that, even after the jury have announced their verdict, but before its acceptance, the court may correct any erroneous instruction that has been given, and send them back again to deliberate.[14]

(§ 1) B. At request of jury.—With the exception of one state, where the court can only give instructions on the request of the parties,[15] it is well settled that the court may properly recall the jury if they request it, and give them additional instructions.[16] This is a practice not only common, but approved by all

v. Snelling, 15 Pick. [Mass.] 334; Edmunds v. Wiggin, 24 Me. 505; Dowzelot v. Rawlings, 58 Mo. 75; Salomon v. Reis, 5 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 375; Alexander v. Gardiner, 14 R. I. 15; Turner v. Lambeth, 2 Tex. 365; Hannon v. State, 70 Wis. 448.

6. State v. Chandler, 31 Kan. 201.

7. See cases cited in two preceding notes.

8. Nichols v. Munsel, 115 Mass. 567.

9. Hayes v. Williams, 17 Colo. 465.

10. City of Joliet v. Looney, 159 Ill. 471; Cox v. Highley, 100 Pa. 252.

11. Florence Sewing Mach. Co. v. Grover & Baker Sewing Mach. Co., 110 Mass. 70; Morris v. State, 25 Ala. 57.

12. State v. Lightsey, 43 S. C. 114.

13. In Com. v. Snelling, 15 Pick. [Mass.] 334, the court said that the propriety of recalling the jury and explaining the matter further is hardly open to reasonable doubt.

14. Jack v. Territory, 2 Wash. T. 101. See, also, dictum in Florence Sewing Mach. Co. v. Grover & Baker Sewing Mach. Co., 110 Mass. 71. Compare State v. Johnson, 30 La. Ann. 921, where it was held "not within the province of the judge presiding at a criminal trial to give such instructions to the jury" as would lead to a modification or change of the verdict.

15. Lavenburg v. Harper, 27 Miss. 299. In this case it was held error to recall the jury and give them further instructions at their request, but without the consent of parties. It was further held that, if the instruction given were in conformity to law, the cause would not be reversed. See, also, Taylor v. Manley, 6 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 305; Randolph v. Govan, 14 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 9.

16. Lee v. Quirk, 20 Ill. 392; Shaw v. Camp, 160 Ill. 425; Arnold v. Phillips, 59 Ill. App. 213; Farley v. State, 57 Ind. 331; Sage v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 134 Ind. 100; Gaff v. Greer, 88 Ind. 122; Wilkinson v. St. Louis Sectional Dock Co., 102 Mo. 130; State v. Williams, 69 Mo. 110; Hulse v. State, 35 Ohio St. 421; Wilson v. State, 37 Tex. Cr. App. 156; Turner v. Lambeth, 2 Tex. 365; State v. Kessler, 15 Utah, 142; Williams v. Com., 85 Va. 607; Richlands Iron Co. v. Elkins, 90 Va. 249; Woodruff v. King, 47 Wis. 261; Forrest v. Hanson, 1 Cranch, C. C. 63, Fed. Cas. No. 4,943; Turner v. Foxall, 2 Cranch, C. C. 324, Fed. Cas. No. 14,255; United States v. White, 5 Cranch, C. C. 116, Fed. Cas. No. 16,677. A rule of court that represents for instructions will not be considered "unless presented before the com-authorities.[17] And some decisions go a step further, and hold that it is not only proper, but the duty of the court, to comply with a request from the jury for further instructions.[18] As was said in one case: "There may be instances when it will become the imperative duty of a court to rectify some omission, or cure some oversight, by giving to a jury * * * an additional instruction."[19]

(§ 1) C. At request of parties.—As shown in another section, the court is not bound to give requested instructions unless the request was made within the proper time, but that it is within the sound discretion of the court to do so if it sees fit.[20] The action of the trial court in refusing requests for instructions, made after the retirement of the jury,[21] or after they have announced their inability to agree on a verdict, has accordingly been sustained,[22] it being considered that, when the jury has retired under instructions to which there was no exception, it is within the unreviewable discretion of the court whether they shall be recalled for further instructions.[23] Even if the court should choose to exercise its discretion by recalling the jury for further instructions at the request of the parties, it should not do so without good grounds. The indiscriminate exercise of such discretion might place it in the power of counsel to have emphasized by the court any proposition he might choose to submit, and have the jury believe the court attached great weight to the matter about which it had been recalled for instructions.[24] A somewhat different question is presented when the court has given the jury further instructions of its own motion, or at the request of the jury, and the decisions are not entirely harmonious as to the right of the parties to further instructions. A mere repetition of instructions already given does not give parties the right to ask a new and substantial charge,[25] or for any additional instructions whatever, though it would seem that it is within the court's discretion to comply with a request for additional instructions in such case.[26] So, in one state, when the court gives further instructions of its own motion, or at the request of the jury, no right of the parties to any further instructions is recognized.[27] So, in another state, it was held that, where the court gave additional instructions at the request of the jury, a refusal to give further instructions at the request of the parties was not reversible error.[28] In all other jurisdictions where this question has been passed upon it has been either held or said that the parties are entitled to further instructions by way of explanation or modification of additional instructions given by the court of its own motion, or at the request of the jury.[29] mencement of the final argument" has no application to requests by a juror for further instructions. Arnold v. Phillips, 59 Ill. App. 213.

17. Woodruff v. King, 47 Wis. 261; Bank of Kentucky v. McWilliams, 2 J. J. Marsh. [Ky.] 263.

18. O'Shields v. State, 55 Ga. 696; Phelps v. State, 75 Ga. 571; Bank of Kentucky v. McWilliams, 2 J. J. Marsh. [Ky.] 263; King v. State, 86 Ga. 355.

19. Dowzelot v. Rawlings, 58 Mo. 75.

20. See Blashfield, Inst'ns, § 134, "Necessity for Request in Apt and Proper Time." See, also, Buck v. Buck, 4 Baxt. [Tenn.] 392, where it was held that, after the jury have failed to agree, they may be recalled at the instance of a party, and given further and fuller instructions.

21. Norton v. McNutt, 55 Ark. 59; State v. Barbee, 92 N. C. 820; Scott v. Green, 89 N. C. 278; State v. Rowe, 98 N. C. 629; Lafoon v. Shearin, 95 N. C. 391; Forrest v. Hanson, 1 Cranch, C. C. 63, Fed. Cas. No. 4,943; Turner v. Foxall, 2 Cranch, C. C. 324, Fed. Cas. No. 14,255; Williams v. Com., 85 Va. 699.

22. Cady v. Owen, 34 Vt. 598.

23. Lafoon v. Shearin, 95 N. C. 391.

24. Bowling v. Memphis & C. R. Co., 15 Lea [Tenn.] 122.

25. Prosser v. Henderson, 11 Ala. 484, where it was said: "If this can be done, we see no reason why the jury should not be required to be brought again into court at any time before they have rendered their verdict, and additional charges required to be given by the court."

26. Harvey v. Graham, 46 N. H. 175.

27. Nelson v. Dodge, 116 Mass. 367; Kellogg v. French, 15 Gray [Mass.] 354.

28. State v. Maxent, 10 La. Ann. 743; Williams v. Com., 85 Va. 607.

29. Shaw v. Camp, 160 Ill. 430; Fisher v. People, 23 Ill. 283; Keeble v. Black, 4 Tex. 69; Harper v. State, 109 Ala. 66; Prosser v. Henderson, 11 Ala. 484; Kuhl v. Long, 102 Ala. 569; Page v. Kinsman, 43 N. H. 328;

(§ 1) D. By consent of counsel.—It is no error for the judge, by consent of counsel on both sides, to indorse on instructions already given additional instructions to the jury.[30]

(§ 1) E. What further instructions proper.—After the retirement of the jury, the court may, of its own motion, recall them and give instructions inadvertently omitted,[31] or which have been erroneously refused,[32] or instructions explanatory of those already given,[33] or withdrawing or modifying an erroneous instruction given;[34] or, where the parties have consented that the jury shall take the minutes of the testimony to the jury room, the court may recall the jury to read to them a portion of a deposition admitted on the trial, but which, through inadvertence, had not been given to the jury,[35] or to restate the court's opinion as to the credibility of a witness (the court having stated such opinion in the original charge, at the instance of counsel);[36] or to define the punishment for the different degrees of crime;[37] or to admonish the jury of the impropriety of a juror going into the jury box with a predetermination as to the result which he will favor, and to cause a disagreement if the verdict cannot be rendered as he wants it.[38] So, the original instructions may be re-read to the jury when they say that they do not understand them,[39] or request that the instructions be re-read in order to satisfy them as to the true state of the law upon the issue before them;[40] and when a request is made that the instructions be re-read, the court may correct an erroneous instruction given,[41] or give additional instructions.[42] So, where the jury request further instructions, the court may withdraw instructions already given.[43] In some jurisdictions the court may restate the evidence, or a portion of it.[44] This, however, is not proper in most jurisdictions, as judges are expressly prohibited from charging in respect to matters of fact.[45] The court may, at their request, give the jury any further instruction on any question of law arising on the facts proven, on which they say that they are in doubt.[46] Nevertheless, the court is not justified, in any case, in giving another full, complete, and different charge to the jury upon nearly all, or even some, of the material questions in-

O'Connor v. Guthrie, 11 Iowa, 80; Chouteau v. Jupiter Iron Works, 94 Mo. 388; Hudson v. Minneapolis, L. & M. Ry. Co., 44 Minn. 55; Cook v. Green, 6 N. J. Law, 109. See, also, Yeldell v. Shinholster, 15 Ga. 189, in which it was held that where, after failure to agree, the jury return into court for further instructions, and a party requests an instruction on a point omitted in the charge, and to which omission the party had called the court's attention at the time, it is error to refuse the instruction. Where, after failure to agree, the jury return into court for further instructions, and a party requests an instruction on a point omitted in the charge, and to which omission the party had called the court's attention at the time, it is error to refuse the instruction.

30. Noffsinger v. Bailey, 72 Mo. 216.

31. Pritchett v. State, 92 Ga. 65; Cox v. Highley, 100 Pa. 252; Com. v. Snelling, 15 Pick. [Mass.] 334; Dowzelot v. Rawlings, 58 Mo. 75.

32. Phillips v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 127 N. Y. 657.

33. Florence Sewing Mach. Co. v. Grover & Baker Sewing Mach. Co., 110 Mass. 70; Com. v. Snelling, 15 Pick. [Mass.] 334.

34. State v. Lightsey, 43 S. C. 114; Jack v. Territory, 2 Wash. T. 101; Scott v. Haynes, 12 Mo. App. 597; Hartman v. Flaherty, 80 Ind. 472; Hall v. State, 8 Ind. 439; Sage v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 134 Ind. 100.

35. Coit v. Waples, 1 Minn. 134 (Gil. 110).

36. State v. Summers, 4 La. Ann. 27.

37. State v. Kessler, 15 Utah, 142.

38. State v. Lawrence, 38 Iowa, 51. See, also, State v. Blackwell, 9 Ala. 79.

39. Gaff v. Greer, 88 Ind. 122; Salomon v. Reis, 5 Ohio. Cir. Ct. R. 375. See, also, Nichols v. Munsel, 115 Mass. 567.

40. Woodruff v. King, 47 Wis. 261.

41. McClelland v. Louisville, N. A. & C. Ry. Co., 94 Ind. 276; Sage v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 134 Ind. 100.

42. Hamilton v. State, 62 Ark. 543.

43. Sage v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 134 Ind. 100.

44. Hulse v. State, 35 Ohio St. 421; Nichols v. Munsel, 115 Mass. 567; Allis v. United States, 155 U. S. 117; Byrne v. Smith, 24 Wis. 68; Hannon v. State, 70 Wis. 448; Drew v. Andrews, 8 Hun [N. Y.] 23; Edmunds v. Wiggin, 24 Me. 505.

45. See State v. Maxwell, 42 Iowa, 208. See, also, Blashfield on Instructions, § 38 et seq.

46. O'Shields v. State, 55 Ga. 696; Wilkinson v. St. Louis Sectional Dock Co., 102 Mo. 130; State v. Chandler, 31 Kan. 201.

volved in the case.[47] The Texas statute provides that, where the jury, after retirement, asks further instructions, no charge shall be given except upon the particular point on which it is asked,[48] and this statute has been strictly enforced in a number of cases.[49] The wisdom of such a statute is questionable, and the general rule is that, "in answering questions asked by the jury when they come in for further instructions, the court is not restricted to categorical answers," but may and should give any further instructions necessary.[50] As already shown, the discretion of the court in recalling the jury for further instructions is practically unlimited, and, this being so, there can be no reason why it should be restricted to answering the precise point presented by the jury. On principle, there can be no difference in the extent to which it may go in giving further instructions, whether it takes the initiative, and gives further instructions of its own motion, or merely at the request of the jury.

(§ 1) F. Same—Necessity of repeating entire charge.—In case the jury asks the court to repeat a portion of the charge, or to give a new instruction on a particular point, it is not, according to some decisions, bound to repeat the whole charge,[51] as this practice might lead to confusion, and tend to protract proceedings needlessly.[52] It has been held, however, in one case, that, if the jury merely disagree as to the result, after considering the evidence and instructions, it is erroneous for the court to repeat or recharge disputed portions of the charge, and the reason assigned was that the jury would probably conclude that the matter thus recharged was controlling in the case.[53] Assuming to follow this decision it was held in another case that it was reversible error to recall the jury, and repeat a portion of the charge, in the absence of a request by the jury, and against the objection of the appellant.[54] A refusal to accede to a request of a party to re-read a portion of the instructions touching a special point is not error where the court offers to re-read the entire charge if the jury desire it, and the foreman states that the jury do not desire such reading.[55] In jurisdictions where it is permissible for the court to state the evidence in charging the jury, the court is not bound to repeat all the evidence when asked by the jury to restate a portion of it.[56] Though it is better practice, on restating the evidence upon a particular point, to restate all of it, yet, under a statute authorizing the court to state anew the evidence or any part of it, the court may merely state the evidence in favor of one party.[57] But where a part only of the evidence is restated, it is well to caution the jury that the other evidence in the case must be equally considered.[58]

(§ 1) G. Exceptions to additional instructions.—When further instructions are given after the retirement of the jury, parties have the same right to except to such instructions as to those originally given,[59] and may also except to a refusal

47. Foster v. Turner, 31 Kan. 65.

48. Pasch. Dig. art. 3079.

49. Chamberlain v. State, 2 Tex. App. 451; Garza v. State, 3 Tex. App. 287; Hannahan v. State, 7 Tex. App. 610; Wharton v. State, 45 Tex. 2.

50. Paine v. Hutchins, 49 Vt. 314; McClelland v. Louisville, N. A. & C. Ry. Co., 94 Ind. 276; Edmunds v. Wiggin, 24 Me. 509; Hamilton v. State, 62 Ark. 543; Sage v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 134 Ind. 100. And see, generally, the cases cited supra, this section.

51. Wilson v. State, 68 Ga. 827; O'Shields v. State, 55 Ga. 696; Hatcher v. State, 18 Ga. 460; Gravett v. State, 74 Ga. 196.

52. Gravett v. State, 74 Ga. 196.

53. Swaggerty v. Caton, 1 Heisk. [Tenn.] 202.

54. Granberry v. Frierson, 2 Baxt. [Tenn.] 326.

55. Cockrill v. Hall, 76 Cal. 192.

56. Allis v. United States, 155 U. S. 117; Byrne v. Smith, 24 Wis. 68.

57. Byrne v. Smith, 24 Wis. 69.

58. Allis v. United States, 155 U. S. 124.

59. Kellogg v. French, 15 Gray [Mass.] 357; Com. v. Snelling, 15 Pick. [Mass.] 334; Nelson v. Dodge, 116 Mass. 367; Wade v. Ordway, 1 Baxt. [Tenn.] 229; Cook v. Green, 6 N. J. Law, 109; Kuhl v. Long, 102 Ala. 563; Feibelman v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co., 108 Ala. 180; State v. Frisby, 19 La. Ann. 143; O'Connor v. Guthrie, 11 Iowa, 81; Fish of further instructions asked by them in cases where they are entitled to ask for further instructions.[60]

§ 2. Delivery in open court. A. General rule.—After the jury have retired, the judge should not go to the jury room to communicate with the jury, nor should he send additional instructions by the hands of an officer,—all communications should be made in open court.[61] If they desire any further instructions, they should send a request to the court through the officers in attendance, that they may, in a body, be brought into court.[62] The judge has no more right in the jury room while the jury are deliberating than any other person, even though he holds no communication with them,[63] and, if he does so, the honesty of his intentions in no way lessens the impropriety of such action.[64] In one case it was said that the affidavits of jurors cannot be read to impeach their verdict after it has been rendered, so that it may be impossible to show in any given case whether or not an intruder in the jury room did converse with the jury, or what he said, and that, if it were assumed that the judge said nothing, but merely remained in the jury room listening to their discussions, it could not be said that his presence did not affect their decision.[65] So, in another case, the judgment was reversed because the judge went to the jury room and stood in the doorway, which was partially open. It was held that the party in whose favor the decision was rendered could not be permitted to show that the judge said nothing to the jury.[66] The rule prohibiting judges from communicating with the jury except in open court is applicable, though the court has temporarily adjourned. "The judge carries no power with him to his lodgings, and has no more authority over the jury than any other person, and any direction to them from him, either verbal or in writing, is improper."[67] In New Hampshire, the rule that no communications between the court and jury should be had except in open court does not obtain.[68] In South Carolina, a similar decision was made in an early case.[69]

(§ 2) B. Violation of rule as ground for reversal.—In most of the cases where the court has violated the rule requiring instructions to be delivered in open court, the judgment has been reversed for that reason,[70] and the position

v. Smith, 12 Ind. 563; Crabtree v. Hagenbaugh, 23 Ill. 349.

60. Prosser v. Henderson, 11 Ala. 484; Feibelman v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co., 108 Ala. 180.

61. Johnson v. State, 100 Ala. 55; Cooper v. State, 79 Ala. 54; Fisher v. People, 23 Ill. 283; Crabtree v. Hagenbaugh, 23 Ill. 349; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Robbins, 159 Ill. 598; Hall v. State, 8 Ind. 444; Fish v. Smith, 12 Ind. 563; Quinn v. State, 130 Ind. 340; Low v. Freeman, 117 Ind. 341; Blacketer v. House, 67 Ind. 414; Goode v. Campbell, 14 Bush [Ky.] 75; Sargent v. Roberts, 1 Pick. [Mass.] 337; Read v. City of Cambridge, 124 Mass. 567; Hopkins v. Bishop, 91 Mich. 328; Fox v. Peninsular White Lead & Color Works, 84 Mich. 676; Snyder v. Wilson, 65 Mich. 336; Hoberg v. State, 3 Minn. 262 (Gil. 181); Chouteau v. Jupiter Iron Works, 94 Mo. 388; Norton v. Dorsey, 65 Mo. 376; State v. Miller, 100 Mo. 606; Watertown Bank & Loan Co. v. Mix, 51 N. Y. 561; Taylor v. Betsford, 13 Johns. [N. Y.] 487; Mahoney v. Decker, 18 Hun [N. Y.] 365; Plunkett v. Appleton, 51 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 469; Kehrley v. Shafer, 92 Hun [N. Y.] 196; Kirk v. State, 14 Ohio, 511; Sommer v. Huber, 183 Pa. 162; State v. Smith, 6 R. I. 33; State v. Patterson, 45 Vt. 316; Campbell v. Beckett, 8 Ohio St. 211; State v. Wroth, 15 Wash. 621; High v. Chick, 81 Hun [N. Y.] 100; Wiggins v. Downer, 67 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 68; Smith v. McMillen, 19 Ind. 391; State v. Alexander, 66 Mo. 148.

62. Fisher v. People, 23 Ill. 283.

63. Gibbons v. Van Alstyne, 29 N. Y. St. Rep. 463; Hoberg v. State, 3 Minn. 262 (Gil. 181).

64. Fish v. Smith, 12 Ind. 563; Hoberg v. State, 3 Minn. 262 (Gil. 181); Valentine v. Kelley, 54 Hun [N. Y.] 79.

65. Gibbons v. Van Alstyne, 29 N. Y. St. Rep. 461.

66. State v. Wroth, 15 Wash. 621.

67. Sargent v. Roberts, 1 Pick. [Mass.] 337.

68. School Dist. No. 1 in Milton v. Bragdon, 23 N. H. 517; Allen v. Aldrich, 29 N. H. 63; Bassett v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 28 N. H. 438; Shapley v. White, 6 N. H. 172.

69. Goldsmith v. Solomons, 2 Strob. [S. C.] 296.

70. See Plunkett v. Appleton, 51 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 469; High v. Chick, 81 Hun [N. Y.] 100; Gibbons v. Van Alstyne, 29 N. Y. St. Rep. 461; Fish v. Smith, 12 Ind. 563; Quinn v. State, 130 Ind. 340; Hall v. State, 8 Ind. 439; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Robbins, 159 Ill. 598; Sargent v. Roberts, 1 Pick. [Mass.] 337; taken that injury will be conclusively presumed, without stopping to inquire whether the instruction given was material, or had any influence upon the verdict,[71] or was prejudicial to either party,[72] and that the party complaining need not show that he was prejudiced, in order to be entitled to a new trial.[73] There are decisions, however, in which the court has refused to reverse for a violation of this rule, basing the decision on the ground that no prejudice could have resulted in that particular case.[74]

(§ 2) C. Waiver of objections.—If the parties consent to the giving of further instructions otherwise than in open court, the trial judge may properly do so, as this amounts to a waiver of the rule,[75] but both parties must consent.[76] Some decisions hold that, where irregular communications are made to the jury, either in the absence of counsel or by sending to the jury room, and counsel are afterwards apprised of the communication, and make no objection, a new trial will not be granted.[77] Others hold that consent must be expressly given.[78] That counsel are aware that the judge is going into the jury room, and make no objection, does not amount to a consent to instructions given while in the jury room.[79] Even when consent is obtained for the trial judge to go to the jury room, he should confine his visit strictly to the purpose for which permission was granted, and should not give any instructions without the knowledge of counsel.[80]

§ 3. Presence of counsel. A. Rule that presence of or notice to counsel is unnecessary.—In a number of states it is held that, while a trial court should refrain from instructing a jury in the absence of counsel, when it can do so conveniently, it is not reversible error for the court to give further instructions after the retirement of the jury, in compliance with a request from the jury, or upon the court's own motion, although counsel for neither party is present, and no attempt has been made to notify them, where such instructions are given in open court, during a regular session, when counsel might reasonably have been expected to be in attendance.[81] Although it is said in some of these cases cited that it would be better to attempt to notify counsel,[82] this is regarded as a matter of courtesy, rather than of legal right.[83] "In contemplation of law, the parties and their counsel remain in court until a verdict has been rendered, or the jury discharged from rendering one."[84] The giving of notice to counsel is a matter of State v. Alexander, 66 Mo. 148; Norton v. Dorsey, 65 Mo. 376; Chouteau v. Jupiter Iron Works, 94 Mo. 388; Hopkins v. Bishop, 91 Mich. 328; Hoberg v. State, 3 Minn. 262 (Gil. 181); Somner v. Huber, 183 Pa. 162.

71. Kehrley v. Shafer, 92 Hun [N. Y.] 196; Gibbons v. Van Alstyne, 29 N. Y. St. Rep. 461.

72. Read v. City of Cambridge, 124 Mass. 567.

73. People v. Linzey, 79 Hun [N. Y.] 23.

74. Moseley v. Washburn, 165 Mass. 417; Galloway v. Corbitt, 52 Mich. 461.

75. Smoke v. Jones, 35 Mich. 408; McCrory v. Anderson, 103 Ind. 12; City of Joliet v. Looney, 159 Ill. 471. See, also, Taylor v. Betsford, 13 Johns. [N. Y.] 487; Neil v. Abel, 24 Wend. [N. Y.] 185; Benson v. Clark, 1 Cow. [N. Y.] 258; Plunkett v. Appleton, 51 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 469; Hopkins v. Bishop, 91 Mich. 328.

76. Smith v. McMillen, 19 Ind. 391.

77. Thorp v. Riley, 29 N. Y. St. Rep. 520; Zust v. Smitheimer, 34 N. Y. St. Rep. 583; Mahoney v. Decker, 18 Hun [N. Y.] 365.

78. Watertown Bank & Loan Co. v. Mix, 51 N. Y. 561; Moody v. Pomeroy, 4 Denio [N. Y.] 115; Bunn v. Crowl, 10 Johns. [N. Y.] 239.

79. Moody v. Pomeroy, 4 Denio [N. Y.] 115.

80. Seeley v. Bisgrove, 83 Hun [N. Y.] 293.

81. Hudson v. Minneapolis, L. & M. Ry. Co., 44 Minn. 52; Reilly v. Bader, 46 Minn. 212; Alexander v. Gardiner, 14 R. I. 15; Chapman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 26 Wis. 295; Torque v. Carrillo, 1 Ariz. 336; State v. Pike, 65 Me. 111; Cooper v. Morris, 48 N. J. Law, 607; Ahearn v. Mann, 60 N. H. 472; Milton School Dist. v. Bragdon, 23 N. H. 507; Allen v. Aldrich, 29 N. H. 63; Bassett v. Salisbury Mfg. Co., 28 N. H. 438; Leighton v. Sargent, 31 N. H. 119; Meier v. Morgan, 82 Wis. 289; Kullberg v. O'Donnell, 158 Mass. 405 (explaining Sargent v. Roberts, 1 Pick. [Mass.] 337); Aerheart v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 99 Fed. 907.

82. Meier v. Morgan, 82 Wis. 289; Hudson v. Minneapolis, L. & M. Ry. Co., 44 Minn. 52; Torque v. Carrillo, 1 Ariz. 336.

83. Hudson v. Minneapolis, L. & M. Ry. Co., 44 Minn. 52; State v. Pike, 65 Me. 111; Chapman v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 26 Wis. 295.

84. Cooper v. Morris, 48 N. J. Law, 607.

grace or favor, and, while the custom of giving notice is not inherently vicious, the court must have power to proceed without such notice; otherwise, the transaction of business would be dependent upon the favor of counsel or litigants.[85] "The court may proceed without it [notice], subject to the power of opening the proceedings, where sufficient cause of absence is shown, and it appears that injustice has been done. The idea that the court cannot proceed without causing notice to be given, or that it is error to do so, and that it must await the motion and presence of counsel or their clients, would be intolerable, for then no business could be done and no proceedings taken except by the favor of counsel or of litigants."[86] "Counsel, by purposely or inadvertently withdrawing from the court, cannot take away the power, or suspend the right to exercise it until they can be found and brought in, if willing to come. It is the duty of counsel engaged in the trial of a case to remain in or be represented at the court during its sessions until the jury having the case in charge is discharged. * * * The failure of counsel to perform their duty does not deprive the court of its power to discharge its duty. The court is not required to send out its officers to invite counsel to attend to their duties, and hear additional instructions which the court proposes to give to the jury. Undoubtedly, in most cases, courts will endeavor, as a matter of courtesy, to secure the attendance of counsel before reinstructing a jury, but it is not error if it is not done."[87] The power to reinstruct a jury in the absence of counsel, like other powers, may be abused, and in such case the remedy is by motion for a new trial.[88]

(§ 3) B. Rule that presence of counsel or notice is necessary.—In a number of jurisdictions, usually under statutes regulating the practice, any additional instructions must be given either in the presence of counsel, or after an attempt has been made to notify them that further instructions will be given.[89] It has

85. Chapman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 26 Wis. 295.

86. Chapman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 26 Wis. 306.

87. Cornish v. Graff, 36 Hun [N. Y.] 160. To the same effect is Hudson v. Minneapolis, L. & M. Ry. Co., 44 Minn. 52.

88. Cornish v. Graff, 36 Hun [N. Y.] 160.

89. People v. Trim, 37 Cal. 274; Redman v. Gulnac, 5 Cal. 148; People v. Mayes, 113 Cal. 618; Goode v. Campbell, 14 Bush [Ky.] 75; Pierce v. Com. [Ky.] 42 S. W. 107; Martin v. State, 51 Ga. 569; McNeil v. State, 47 Ala. 498; Kuhl v. Long, 102 Ala. 569; Johnson v. State, 100 Ala. 55; State v. Davenport, 33 La. Ann. 231; State v. Frisby, 19 La. Ann. 143; Jones v. Johnson, 61 Ind. 257; Fish v. Smith, 12 Ind. 563; Blacketer v. House, 67 Ind. 414; Chinn v. Davis, 21 Mo. App. 363; State v. Miller, 100 Mo. 606; Wade v. Ordway, 1 Baxt. [Tenn.] 229; People v. Cassiano, 30 Hun [N. Y.] 388; Wheeler v. Sweet, 137 N. Y. 438; Kehrley v. Shafer, 92 Hun [N. Y.) 196. Contra, Wiggins v. Downer, 67 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 69. In Ohio there is a statutory provision as follows: "After the jury have retired for deliberation, if there be a disagreement between them as to any part of the testimony, or if they desire to be informed as to any part of the law arising in the case, they may request the officer to conduct them to the court, where the information upon the point of law shall be given; and the court may give its recollection as to the testimony on the point in dispute, in the presence of, or after notice to, the parties or their counsel." Code, § 270. The decisions under this statute are so conflicting that no rule can be deduced therefrom. In Campbell v. Beckett, 8 Ohio St. 211, it was held reversible error for the judge, during recess of court, in the absence of parties and counsel, and without notice to them, to give further instructions on a point of law. In Chambers' Adm'r v. Ohio Life Ins. & Trust Co., 1 Disn. [Ohio] 327, and Milius v. Marsh, 1 Disn. [Ohio] 512, it was held that the provision requiring the presence of or notice to counsel when the court states its recollection of the evidence to the jury does not apply to instructions on matters of law. "There is a clear distinction, under section 270 of the Code, between further instructions in matter of law and a statement by the court of the evidence on a point." So, in Seagrave v. Hall, 10 Ohio Cir. Ct. R. 395, it was held that a verdict should be set aside where the jury were recalled and given further instructions, not upon questions of law, without any attempt to notify the parties or their counsel, none of whom were present. On the other hand, it was held in Moravee v. Buckley, 11 Wkly. Law Bul. [Ohio] 225, that an instruction by the court as to the form of the verdict, given on the jury's request after they had retired to deliberate upon their verdict, was an instruction on the law of the case, and, if given in the absence of counsel, was error. In Emery v. Whitaker, 2 Cin. Super. Ct. R. 36, it was held that, where the jury come out and ask further instructions on been held, however, that re-reading a portion of the charge already given in the absence of counsel is not within the rule, and that error cannot be assigned thereto.[90] The impropriety of giving further instructions in the absence of counsel, and without an attempt to notify them, is increased when the court is convened and the instructions given on a day during which no court business is usually transacted. "When a court meets at a time so unusual, and without notice to parties, it is manifestly improper, and might work oppressively, to proceed in so important a matter as that of charging a jury without the knowledge or presence of a party or of his counsel."[91] Where, before giving additional instructions, the court sends officers to look for counsel, the court may proceed in their absence,[92] particularly if the party represented by the absent counsel is present.[93] And it is, of course, proper to give further instructions to the jury at their request, in the absence of counsel, where they have been duly notified that further instructions will be given, and neglect or refuse to attend.[94] It must depend largely on circumstances as to what notice will be sufficient, and much must be left to the discretion of the trial judge. It has been held a sufficient notice to call the attorneys at the court-house door, or at any place where witnesses are usually called.[95] Instructions to the jury after they have retired, in the absence of counsel, are objectionable, though no harm is done, for the reason that all proceedings of the court should be open and notorious, so that, if a party is not satisfied with them, he may take exceptions.[96] This objection, of course, does not apply in jurisdictions where instructions given after the jury retire are returned into court with the verdict, and are then allowed to be excepted to.[97] Where the jury have been charged, and have retired, counsel may presume that no other instructions will be given without notice or an attempt to notify, and can reasonably object to instructions given in their absence, as they thereby lose the opportunity of asking for explanatory charges, if deemed necessary,[98] and of excepting to their refusal if the court declines to give them.[99] The objection that counsel could stop the trial by absenting himself from the court house has been disposed of as follows: "Courts are armed with plenary authority to enforce the discharge of duty on the part of all their officers; and, besides a fitting and proper penalty on derelict counsel in the case supposed, they could, in cases when the necessity arose, require the defendant to procure other counsel, or make the appointment for him. If the absence of counsel resulted from a cause which would be a good ground for continuance, and it would not be proper to substitute other counsel, it were better that there should be a continuance, or at least a temporary postponement, than that one not skilled in the law, and who was largely ignorant of the law, in the absence of counsel, though no call for counsel is made at the court-house door, if the counsel is sent for into every court room and office in the c urt-house, it is sufficient, though it seems that even this is not necessary when the court is in session.

90. People v. La Munion, 64 Mich. 709.

91. Davis v. Fish, 1 G. Greene [Iowa] 410. The additional instructions in this case were given on Sunday.

92. McNeil v. State, 47 Ala. 498; People v. Mayes, 113 Cal. 618; State v. Dudoussat, 47 La. Ann. 996; Preston v. Bowers, 13 Ohio St. 1; Dobson v. State, 5 Lea [Tenn.] 277; Collins v. State, 33 Ala. 434.

93. People v. Mayes, 113 Cal. 618.

94. Cook v. Green, 6 N. J. Law, 109.

95. McNeil v. State, 47 Ala. 498; Dobson v. State, 5 Lea [Tenn.] 277.

96. Wade v. Ordway, 1 Baxt. [Tenn.] 229; Feibelman v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co., 108 Ala. 180; Crabtree v. Hagenbaugh, 23 Ill. 349. In Wade v. Ordway, 1 Baxt. [Tenn.] 229, however, it was held that, if the upper court could see that no harm had been done, the trial court would not be reversed for its departure from propriety.

97. Allen v. Aldrich, 29 N. H. 63; School Dist. No. 1 v. Bragdon, 23 N. H. 507; Shapleigh v. White, 6 N. H. 172.

98. Wade v. Ordway, 1 Baxt. [Tenn.] 229; Kuhl v. Long, 102 Ala. 569.

99. Feibelman v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co., 108 Ala. 180.

his legal rights, and perhaps totally ignorant of the practice on which those rights rested, should lose a privilege, the value of which cannot be estimated."[100]

(§ 3) C. Same—Violation of rule as ground for reversal.—In a number of cases, both civil and criminal, the giving of additional instructions in the absence of counsel, and without attempting to notify them, has been held reversible error.[101] Where additional instructions are given to a jury in the absence of counsel, a constitutional provision guarantying the right to prosecute a cause by counsel is violated, and the reviewing court cannot "inquire, in such a case, what instructions were given by the court to the jury,—whether they were correct or incorrect, prejudicial or otherwise. We cannot be informed of their nature or effect by lawful and constitutional methods. The counsel not being present to observe the proceedings of the court, and learn for themselves what transpired, and, by their advice and counsel, it may be, give shape to the action of the court, the plaintiff can have no just and fair representation—indeed, no constitutional representation by counsel—in making up the record for the presentation of the illegal proceedings to this court for review."[102] In another case it was said that additional instructions, given in the absence of counsel, and at the request of the jury, will be presumed important, if the contrary is not shown, from the fact that the jury have asked for them.[103] In other cases the reviewing court has refused to reverse, where it was apparent that no prejudice resulted.[104]

TROVER; TRUST COMPANIES; TRUST DEEDS, see latest topical index.

TRUSTS.[40]

§ 1. Definition and Distinctions (1728).
§ 2. Express Trusts. Nature and Elements (1728).
§ 3. Implied and Involuntary Trusts (1733).
§ 4. Constructive Trusts (1733).
A. Trusts Raised Where Property is Held or Obtained by Fraud (1733).
B. Trusts by Equitable Construction in the Absence of Fraud (1735).
§ 5. Resulting Trusts (1736).
§ 6. The Beneficiary. His Estate, Rights and Interest (1739).
§ 7. The Trustee. Appointment, Qualification, Resignation and Removal. Who may be Trustee (1741).
§ 8. Execution and Administration of the Trust (1743).
A. Nature of Trustee's Title and Establishment of Estate (1743).
B. Discretion and General Powers of Trustees and Judicial Control (1743).
C. Management of Estate and Investments (1744).
D. Creation of Charges. Mortgage and Lease of Estate (1745).
E. Sale of Trust Property (1746).
F. Payments or Surrender to Beneficiary (1748).
§ 9. Liability of Trustee to Estate and Third Persons (1748).
§ 10. Liability on Trustee's Bond (1749).
§ 11. Personal Dealings with Estates (1750).
§ 12. Actions and Controversies by and against Trustees (1750).
§ 13. Compensation and Expenses (1751).
§ 14. Accounting and Discharge (1752).
§ 15. Establishment and Enforcement of Trust and Remedies of Beneficiary (1754).
A. Express Trusts. Jurisdiction (1754).
B. Implied Trusts (1755).
C. Constructive Trusts. Jurisdiction (1755).
D. Resulting Trusts. Jurisdiction (1756).
§ 16. Following Trust Property (1757).
§ 17. Termination and Abrogation of Trust. Acts of Settler (1758).

This article does not treat of trust deeds, so called, given as security for a debt, or, more accurately, security deeds with power of sale,[41] or of charitable gifts,[42] or of the construction of the trust as violating the laws of perpetuities and accumulations.[43] Trustees in bankruptcy are also treated elsewhere.[44]

100. Martin v. State, 51 Ga. 569.
101. McNeil v. State, 47 Ala. 498; Kuhl v. Long, 102 Ala. 569; Feibelman v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co., 108 Ala. 180; Reidman v. Gulnac, 5 Cal. 148; People v. Trim, 37 Cal. 274; People v. Cassiano, 30 Hun [N. Y.] 388; State v. Davenport, 33 La. Ann. 231; State v. Frisby, 19 La. Ann. 143.
102. Feibelman v. Manchester Fire Assur. Co., 108 Ala. 180.
103. Redman v. Gulnac, 5 Cal. 148.
104. Wade v. Ordway, 1 Baxt. [Tenn.] 229; Smith v. Kelly, 43 Mich. 390.
40. See 2 Curr. L. 1924. See, also, Tiffany, Real Property, §§ 90-103, for a full discussion of the subject as it affects realty.
41. See Chattel Mortgages, 3 Curr. L. 682; Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 3 Curr. L. 1438; Mortgages, 4 Curr. L. 677.
42. See Charitable Gifts, 3 Curr. L. 678.

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[45]—A trust is a right of property, real or personal, held by one party for the benefit of another,[46] and must be distinguished from a pledge,[47] from a conveyance on condition,[48] from the relation of debtor and creditor,[49] and from the trust that pertains to the office of executors.[50]

§ 2. Express trusts. Nature and elements.[51]—An express trust is distinguishable from those implied by law in that it arises by agreement while the latter do not.[52] In order to have a valid trust the settlor must have an interest in the property at the time the trust is created,[53] there must be a designated beneficiary,[54] a designated trustee,[55] though equity will not permit a trust to fail for

43. See Perpetuities and Accumulations, 4 Curr. L. 975.

44. See Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434.

45. See Tiffany, Real Prop. § 91.

46. Cyc. Law Dict. 926. The legal title and beneficial ownership must not be in one person as an individual. Tucker v. Linn [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1017; Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104. A gift by deed, devise or bequest to an existing corporation, or one to be thereafter organized within the time limited by law, with directions or conditions as to the use or management of the subject-matter of the gift which are reasonably consistent with the corporate purposes of the donee, is not a gift in trust, but an absolute one to the corporation within the meaning of the Minnesota statute of uses and trusts. Id. A deed to a religious society's trustees and their successors in fee, without any restrictions or limitations whatever, does not create a trust. Shaeffer v. Klee [Md.] 59 A. 850.

For distinction between trusts and agency, see Clark & Skyles, Agency, 29.

47. Check deposited to secure performance of contract and to be forfeited on default is not held in trust. Furth v. West Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 936.

48. Conveyance of stock on condition that the grantor have the income for life held not to create a trust. Bloodgood v. Terry [Mich.] 96 N. W. 446.

49. Where defendant received money in accordance with a contract of sale requiring him to pay it over to plaintiff, the relation is that of debtor and creditor. Holland v. Shannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 854. Where husband borrowed money of wife and gave notes therefor held merely a debt. In re Deaner's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 825. An employer agreeing to "keep" an employe's wages and pay him interest held merely debtor and creditor. Tucker v. Linn [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1017.

50. Where powers and duties of a trustee are conferred upon an executor, the latter becomes a trustee by implication of law, but such trusteeship is terminated by revocation of the appointment as executor. Mullanny v. Nangle, 212 Ill. 247, 72 N. E. 385. Where the income is to be devoted to the support of testator's wife and children, held defendants took estate as trustees and not as executors, so far as it was not required to pay debts. Jastram v. McAuslan [R. I.] 58 A. 952. Mere directions that executor shall take charge of property, execute mortgages if necessary, and at the end of two years have the property sold, do not create an express trust in real estate, but create only such a trust as pertains to the office of executor. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825. Where the residuary estate is devised to executors to be invested and kept for a term of years and then turned over to a charitable corporation, held the executors took as trustees. Codman v. Brigham, 187 Mass. 309, 72 N. E. 1008. An executor being empowered to sell realty, will be deemed a trustee. Dingman v. Beall, 213 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 729.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1924. See Tiffany, Real Property, § 92 et seq.

52. Eaton v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 548, 49 S. E. 593; Heil v. Heil [Mo.] 84 S. W. 45.

Illustrations: A power of sale is a trust. Coleman v. Cabaniss, 121 Ga. 281, 48 S. E. 927. Where a married woman cannot hold title in her own name, a deed to her husband as her agent renders him her trustee. Johnson v. Cook [Ga.] 50 S. E. 367. Placing bank stock in the name of trustees for the benefit of designated beneficiaries creates a trust. Lattan v. Totten, 44 Misc. 116, 89 N. Y. S. 761. Where three persons purchased land to be resold as city lots, and in order to facilitate the enterprise one conveyed his interest to the others, held the latter were trustees of an express trust. Sawyer v. Cook [Mass.] 74 N. E. 356. One advancing money to purchase land and taking a deed in his own name, there being an agreement that he should convey to another upon payment to him of the amount paid, is a trustee of an express trust. Lucia v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 335. [The court also refers to the transaction as a loan.] Where owner of legal title agreed that another should have control of property, and own all improvements made by him, and if on sale of property the former should have $4,000 in cash or property, held to give the party in control an equitable right in the land, the first party having merely the legal title and a claim for $4,000. Squires v. O'Maley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1172. Where several creditors of an insolvent assign their claims for value to a committee, the intention being that the latter shall purchase the property of the insolvent and sell it in the interest of the assigning creditors, the committee is the trustee of an express trust. In re Kenney Co., 136 F. 451. One collecting and loaning money for another is not the trustee of a direct and continuing trust. Hitchcock v. Casper [Ind.] 73 N. E. 264.

53. One assigning property absolutely to another and relinquishing all control over the same, a subsequent direction as to the disposal of the property is insufficient to create a trust. Mussman v. Zeller [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1021.

54. Brown v. Spohr [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 14 want of a trustee,[56] a definite purpose,[57] an identified trust fund or estate,[58] an actual delivery or legal assignment with the intention of passing title to the trustee as such,[59] an acceptance by the trustee,[60] and the instrument of creation should be reasonably certain as to the manner of executing the trust.[61] The requirement of a designated beneficiary may be met by an absolute deed to a corporation to be formed for the purposes of the trust.[62] The settlor may re-

afg. 84 N. Y. S. 995. Cited 2 Curr. L. 1924, n. 88; Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288. The beneficiary must be a definite, certain ascertainable person, natural or corporate. Weaver v. Spurr [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 852. Where property was to be held in trust for "Trinity Parish, in the town of Moundsville, in the county of Marshall and state of West Virginia, held void for uncertainty of beneficiaries. Id. See Charitable Gifts, 3 Curr. L. 678.

55. Brown v. Spohr [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 14, afg. 84 N. Y. S. 995. See 2 Curr. L. 1925, n. 89. Who may be a trustee, see post, § 6, subd. 1.

56. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412; Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036; Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590; Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. That railroad's act in taking title in trust is ultra vires is immaterial on an issue as to the beneficial ownership. City of Hickory v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 202. If by any possibility the trust is capable of execution by the court. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412. Will not be allowed to fail, though beneficial interest of cestui que trust is to be measured and determined by the discretion of the trustee appointed by the creator of the trust. Id. A trust for the assistance of grandchildren is not so uncertain as to render it impossible for the court to execute it. Id.

57. Weaver v. Spurr [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 852. Words "In Trust" held without legal effect, no purpose of the trust being named. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

58. Brown v. Spohr [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 14, afg. 84 N. Y. S. 995. See 2 Curr. L. 1925, n. 90. Where trust fund was embraced in loan account, held a sufficient identification. Id. Terms must be reasonably certain as to property embraced. Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288.

59. Brown v. Spohr [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 14, (afg. 84 N. Y. S. 995. Cited 2 Curr. L. 1925, n. 91). Trustee demanding money of bank and immediately redepositing it, held to constitute a sufficient delivery. Id.; Peck v. Scofield [Mass.] 71 N. E. 109. Where a woman living apart from her husband made deposits in a bank, some in trust for her son, some in her own name and others for herself or son, and anticipating death delivered the bank books in a sealed package to a friend, with written instructions that they were in trust for her son, held a trust. Id.

60. Peck v. Scofield [Mass.] 71 N. E. 109.

61. Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288. A trust for children is not void because not specifying how much shall be expended for their support and education. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942.

NOTE. Discretionary trusts: While the discretionary power granted to the trustees is absolute and uncontrollable in its nature, the trust will fail. Biddles v. Biddles, 16 Simons, 1; Thorp v. Owen, 2 Hare, 608; Estate of Sanford, 136 Cal. 97; Spiers v. Roberts, 73 Mich. 666, 41 N. W. 841; Howze v. Barber, 29 S. C. 466, 7 S. E. 817. But equity courts will, whenever they deem it possible, even where the terms are absolute, construe the will as granting a reasonable discretion only which is subject to legal control. Colton v. Colton, 127 U. S. 300, 1164, 32 Law. Ed. 138; McDonald v. McDonald, 92 Ala. 537; Jones v. Newell, 78 Hun [N. Y.] 290. A mere statement of the motive for making the gift is insufficient; the testator's intention to direct the trustee to exercise his discretion should appear. 28 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 914; 2 Redfield on Wills,* p. 421; 1 Jarman, Wills [6th Ed.] 369. The courts are generally in harmony as to the principles of law involved, but differ widely in their application to particular cases. The criterion is the enforcement of the testator's true intent. The principal case is undoubtedly successful in this, and in accord with the current of authority.—3 Mich. L. R. 167.

Where property was devised upon trust that so much of it as may seem proper be allotted to the assistance of certain persons, the trust was held valid. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412. On the theory that a thing subject to reasonably accurate ascertainment by computation is sufficiently definite for the trust res, a trust for the support or maintenance of a person is allowed, as equity can determine to a reasonable degree the amount of the res. Hunter v. Slembridge, 12 Ga. 192. Colton v. Colton, 127 U. S. 300, 32 Law. Ed. 138. Perry on Trusts [5th Ed.] § 116. To carry this doctrine to the principal case, where the amount lies wholly within the discretion of the trustee, as the mere word "assistance" would make it, seems to enter the realm of uncertainty as to the trust subject-matter. Lines v. Darden, 5 Fla. 51; Perry, Trust, § 119, and the better rule is to consider that word as creating merely a moral obligation. Benson v. Whittan, 5 Sim. 22.—4 Columbia L. R. 606.

62. Where an absolute gift is given a corporation afterwards to be formed for the express purpose of administering relief to worthy poor, it is not an evasion of laws prohibiting charitable trusts and requiring beneficiaries to be certain or capable of being made certain. Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104. While Laws 1895, p. 343, ch. 158, relating to the organization of corporations to furnish relief and charity to the worthy poor, does not authorize the corporation to take property by gift to hold in trust for purposes not otherwise authorized by law, it does, however, authorize the corporation to take as owner, by gift, any property, subject to such conditions and limitatain powers not inconsistent with the trust.[63] A recorded and acknowledged deed reciting delivery is prima facie evidence thereof.[64]

In New York the trustee must take the legal estate or he has a mere power in trust.[65]

Validity of purpose.[66]—In many of the states statutory provisions abolish express trusts for all but specified purposes; constructions placed on such statutes are shown in the notes.[67] In California an express trust to convey real property is void,[68] and its invalidity will defeat a similar trust in personalty when part of the same trust scheme,[69] though as a general rule a valid part of the trust being severable from the remainder without destroying the purpose of the donor, it may be sustained, while the rest fails.[70] In the absence of direct heirs the giving of the residue of one's estate to a fraternal organization is not unnatural or improvident.[71]

Spendthrift trusts.[72]—A provision against alienation is essential.[73] The absence of a power of revocation in the beneficiary and settlor is not fatal.[74]

Establishment by parol and extrinsic evidence.[75]—In order to establish an express trust by parol, the evidence must be full, clear and satisfactory,[76] and this is especially true where it is sought to establish a parol trust upon an absolute deed,[77] though this rule does not apply where the property is a mining claim located upon the public domain.[78]

Declarations by trustee[79] are in some of the states required to be in writing.[80] The existence of the trust[81] and any of its elements[82] may be shown by declarations tions as are not inconsistent with its corporate purposes, as the donor may impose. Id.

63. Where settler received rents and profits and exercised control over the property, held a valid trust. Dayton v. Stewart, 99 Md. 643, 59 A. 281. Where settlor collected rents, held a valid trust. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508.

64. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508.

65. Where real estate was conveyed in trust for the benefit of the donor's son and grandchildren, they not to take any interest until the death of the donor and his wife, who were to have full possession and control of the rents and profits, held a mere power in trust. Lewis v. Howe, 174 N. Y. 340, 66 N. E. 975, 1101. Deed in trust whereby trustee was to turn over rents and profits to grantor during life and at her death convey the property to her surviving children creates an express trust for the benefit of the grantor and a power in trust for the benefit of the children. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1925.

67. Laws 1903, p. 188, c. 132, relating to express trusts, is unconstitutional because the subject-matter of the act is not expressed in its title. Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104.

68. Civil Code, tit. 4, § 847. In re Dixon's Estate, 143 Cal. 511, 77 P. 412.

69. In re Dixon's Estate, 143 Cal. 511, 77 P. 412.

70. Robb v. Washington & Jefferson College, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

71. Deed creating spendthrift trust for benefit of grantor, income after his death to be paid to wife for life, then estate to go to children, or if none, to Masonic lodge, held not an improvident or unnatural disposition of the property. Carroll v. Smith, 99 Md. 653, 59 A. 131.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1926.

73. Where there was no provision restraining the alienation of the income and no prohibition against the income being seized by creditors of the beneficiary, held not a spendthrift trust. Wenzel v. Powder [Md.] 59 A. 194. See 2 Curr. L. 1926, n. 13.

74. Carroll v. Smith, 99 Md. 653, 59 A. 131.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1928.

76. Personalty. Donithen v. Independent Order of Foresters, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 442; Hatfield v. Allison [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 729. Uncorroborated evidence of husband is insufficient to establish express trust in favor of wife, so as to defeat the rights of creditors. Pickens v. Wood [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 818. Where college property was sold at foreclosure proceedings and the purchaser deeded the property to the managers of the institution for a valuable consideration and free from any trust or conditions, held managers were not trustees of the property. Langford v. Searcy College [Ark.] 83 S. W. 944.

77. Deed imported a consideration. Rogers v. Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 379. A mere preponderance of evidence is insufficient. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775. See, also, Morrow v. Matthew [Idaho] 79 P. 196, where there is a collection of the authorities on this point.

78. Has no application to a case where a party to a "grub-stake" agreement invokes the aid of equity in establishing a trust in mining claims located on the public domain by one of the parties to such agreement. Morrow v. Matthew [Idaho] 79 P. 196.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1928.

80. See Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527, and post, this section.

81. Goodell v. Sanford [Mont.] 77 P. 522.

of the trustee or his predecessor.[83] In most states, oral declarations concerning realty are void unless enforced to avoid fraud,[84] though the contrary is true if the trust estate consist of personalty.[85] The payment for and taking stock by a parent in his name as trustee for his son is a complete declaration of the trust in favor of his son, which a court of equity will enforce.[86]

Bank deposits in trust.[87]—A deposit for a certain purpose[88] or for the benefit of designated beneficiaries,[89] and especially when such deposit is made in the name of trustees,[90] constitutes a trust.

Construction.[91]

Active and passive trusts.[92]—The construction of testamentary trusts is treated elsewhere.[93] Unless a place of performance is designated, a deed of trust of personalty is governed by the law of the state where it was executed, acknowledged, delivered and accepted.[94] A deed of trust is to be construed solely with reference to the intent of the donor.[95] The extent and duration of the estate are measured by the objects of its creation.[96] Prima facie the term "trustees," without more, implies a trust in favor of an undisclosed beneficiary.[97] A reference to another trust deed for the purpose of defining the trustee's powers does not draw in the trustees of the former trust.[98] The constructions of particular provisions are given in the notes.[99]

A trust is active when the interposition of the trustee is necessary to carry out its purpose, with respect to immediate or remote beneficiaries.[1] A trust is Declarations of trustee held admissible in trespass to try title. Matador Land & Cattle Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 235.

82. Where stock was subscribed in the name of a person as beneficiary, declarations of trustees are admissible to prove the identity of the beneficiary. Johnson v. Amberson, 140 Ala. 342, 37 So. 273.

83. Declaration by former trustee held to show that his assignee was a trustee. Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 219.

84. In re Ryan's Estate [Minn.] 100 N. W. 380. Civ. Code 1895, § 3153. Eaton v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 548, 49 S. E. 593. Laws 1896, p. 592, c. 547. Hill v. Warsawski, 93 App. Div. 198, 87 N. Y. S. 551.

85, 86. Johnson v. Amberson, 140 Ala. 342, 37 So. 273.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1928.

88. A deposit for the payment of a corporation's debts under an agreement that none of the money should be paid out until all the corporation's debts were discharged in full constitutes a trust fund to pay the corporation's debts. Ellis v. National Exch. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 776.

89. Wife having the right to draw community property deposited in a bank and having the right of survivorship, the bank is a trustee for her benefit, and her actual drawing of the money would not defeat the husband's intention to defeat the trust. Sprague v. Walton, 145 Cal. 228, 78 P. 645. [The ordinary relation between banker and depositor is that of debtor and creditor. See Banking and Finance, 3 Curr. L. 417.]

90. Though trustees subsequently withdrew moncy and gave it to donor. Lattan v. Totten, 44 Misc. 116, 89 N. Y. S. 761.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1929.

92. See Uses, 2 Curr. L. 1965, n. 24.

93. See Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

94. Mercer v. Buchanan, 132 F. 501. This is true though the trustees are citizens of another state. Id.

95. Mercer v. Buchanan, 132 F. 501.

96. Brillhart v. Mish, 99 Md. 447, 58 A. 28.

97. Maffet v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 489.

98. Koch v. Robinson, 26 Ky. L. R. 969, 83 S. W. 111.

99. Clause "pay all debts" held not to enlarge previous provision in deed to pay all debts contracted prior to the execution of the deed. Smith v. Taylor [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 651. Words "heirs at law" held to refer to those who were such at the time of the death of ancestor mentioned and not those surviving at the period of distribution. Merrill v. Preston, 187 Mass. 197, 72 N. E. 941. Where the income of property is given one for the support of herself and children, she is entitled to the whole income and must support the children out of it so long as they form a part of her family. In re Miskey's Estate, 209 Pa. 474, 58 A. 845. A trust deed providing that immediately "from and after the death" of the grantor the trustee should hold the estate for the use of the grantor's children free from the trust, "provided" that an account should be taken of advancements made, held accounting was not a condition precedent to partition after death of grantor. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Institute, 99 Md. 520, 58 A. 200.

1. Owens v. Naughton, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 639. Where trustee is authorized to sell property at his discretion, held an active trust. Id. Where trustees were to manage the estate and the beneficiaries were only entitled to the income, held an active trust. In re Shower's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 789. A devise in trust to collect and divide profits and make improvements and repairs until a certain beneficiary became 25 years old is an active trust. Moll v. Gardner [Ill.] 73 N. E. 442. Where the trustee has the single passive when the trustee has no duty to perform, or when the trust serves no purpose, or none that would not be equally served without it.[2]

The instrument creating or declaring the trust and the sufficiency thereof.[3]—Whether a trust exists is to be ascertained from the intention of the parties,[4] technical terms being unnecessary.[5] The question whether a will is aptly expressed to create a trust is treated elsewhere.[6]

Necessity of writing.[7]—As a general rule an express trust in personalty need not be in writing,[8] and, in a few states, the same is true of realty,[9] though in most states an express trust in realty is void unless evidenced by a written instrument executed in conformity with statutory requirements.[10] The statute requiring the writing to be signed by the party to whom the sale is to be made, the trustee's signature is sufficient.[11] The statute of frauds does not prevent the granting of relief to the trustee under a parol trust who is sued for breach of incumbrances.[12]

Administrators, receivers and assignees.[13]—A receiver of an insolvent corporation in a creditors' action to administer its affairs for their benefit is a trustee of corporate assets in the right of the corporation for such creditors, and for the latter in their right as to all liabilities to which they may properly resort as a class, duty of requiring lessees under a long term lease to pay rent and taxes, the trust is an active one. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2074, 2081, 2093, construed. Patton v. Patrick [Wis.] 101 N. W. 408. See Tiffany, Real Property, § 95.

2. Owens v. Naughton, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 639. Where the trustees are to hold the fund "to and for" such persons as the cestui que trust may by will appoint, there is a mere naked or passive trust after the death of the life tenant. Graham v. Whitridge, 99 Md. 248, 58 A. 36. Where father purchased property with own money and took title in himself, managing the estate, etc., a daughter who subsequently entered on the land, held not entitled to claim a passive trust. Coppock v. Austin [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 657. One taking land as trustee for a third person held a passive trustee, as to the real owner of the land which was conveyed to such trusteee by the apparent but not the real owner. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310. Where trustee was to hold property "for the benefit of" certain persons, held a passive trust. [Code 1896, §§ 1020, 1027, 1028, construed.] Berry v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 847. Where trustee is to hold for the benefit of another who is to have the free use of the rents and the care and management of the property, the trust is a dry trust. Fink v. Metcalfe, 26 Ky. L. R. 1263, 83 S. W. 643. Where trustee was, with the consent of the grantor, to have the power of sale and reinvestment, the grantor to be paid all the profits and have the right of testamentary disposition, held a dry trust. City of Louisville v. Anderson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 573. See Tiffany, Real Prop. § 95.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1926.

4. Sawyer v. Cook [Mass.] 74 N. E. 356; In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. Will. Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694.

5. Sawyer v. Cook [Mass.] 74 N. E. 356; In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942; Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. Words "trust" or "trustee" are unnecessary. Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694.

6. See Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1927.

8. Merritt-Allen Co. v. Torrence [Iowa] 102 N. W. 154; In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797; Peck v. Scofield [Mass.] 71 N. E. 109; Robb v. Washington and Jefferson College, 93 N. Y. S. 92; Berry v. Evendon [N. D.] 103 N. W. 748. Parol evidence held admissible to establish that personal property was taken as security. Id. Where an old and feeble woman orally gave another $5,000 in drafts, he to perform certain duties and dispose of the estate in a certain way, held a valid express trust. Morris v. Hughes, 45 Misc. 278, 92 N. Y. S. 288.

9. Lucia v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 335; Rogers v. Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 379.

10. Code, § 2918. Hoon v. Hoon [Iowa] 102 N. W. 105. Civ. Code 1895, § 3153. Eaton v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 548, 49 S. E. 593; Cassels v. Finn [Ga.] 49 S. E. 749. Rev. St. 1899. § 3416. Heil v. Heil [Mo. Sup.] 84 S. W. 45. Letter held insufficient [Gen. St. 1894, § 4213]. Rawson v. Morris [Minn.] 101 N. W. 970; Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Parol agreement by grantee to pay certain sum to another upon sale of land held not enforceable as a trust. Sheldon v. Carr [Mich.] 103 N. W. 181. A deed absolute on its face and reciting a consideration cannot, in the absence of fraud, be shown by parol to be a trust in the grantor. Ostenson v. Severson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 789; Byerly v. Sherman [Iowa] 102 N. W. 157. Breach of an oral agreement to purchase a lease for mining oil held insufficient to raise a trust. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932.

11. Comp. St. 1887, p. 651, construed. Goodell v. Sanford [Mont.] 77 P. 522.

12. Deaver v. Deaver [N. C.] 49 S. E. 113.

13. See Estates of Decedents, 3 Curr. L. 1238; Receivers, 4 Curr. L. 1238; Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, 3 Curr. L. 337.

not enforceable by the corporation;[14] but he is not a trustee who may be made a defendant as such in a creditor's suit, within the statutory meaning of "trustee."[15]

§ 3. Implied[16] and involuntary trusts.—In certain cases, though no express trust is created, a trust will be implied in order to carry out the evident intention of the settlor; thus a trust may be implied where precatory words are used in a mandatory sense,[17] or where the grantee of a conveyance is to support the grantor,[18] or where under an agreement between joint purchasers the title is taken in one of them.[19] Also a trustee upon the expiration of the trust holds the property as an implied trustee for the benefit of those entitled to it.[20]

§ 4. Constructive trusts. A. Trusts raised where property is held or obtained by fraud.[21]—Constructive trusts are implied not from agreement,[22] but from actual or legal fraud[23] on the part of the alleged trustee,[24] rendering the creation of a

14. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

15. Rev. St. 1898, § 3228. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1929.

17. Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694; Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288. Deed for the purpose of "aiding in the establishment of a home for indigent widows or orphans or in the promotion of any other charitable or religious objects," held not to create a trust. St. James' Parish v. Bagley [N. C.] 50 S. E. 841.

"It is my wish and desire that my said wife shall pay the sum of three hundred dollars a year to my sister-in-law, Miss Nellie Post." Held not to create a trust upon the estate which the intended beneficiary could enforce. Post v. Moore [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 482.

NOTE. Precatory words: The last case cited is an illustration of the reaction against the earlier tendency in favor of raising trusts for the purpose of carrying into effect the wish or desire of the testator expressed in merely precatory or recommendatory terms. The rule has been laid down that precatory words will create a trust, if the subject-matter be certain, if the person intended as beneficiary be certain, and if the words are so used that upon the whole they ought to be construed as imperative. Knox v. Knox, 59 Wis. 172, 48 Am. Rep. 487 (and note to latter report); Warner v. Bates, 98 Mass. 274. It will be observed that in the principal case, and cases like it, the decision must be based squarely upon the application of the third essential, since the first two are clearly satisfied. The earlier cases went to great lengths in holding precatory words similar to those above to be imperative, and to create trusts binding the estate granted, some even showing a tendency to give this doctrine the weight of a rule of construction. Harrison v. Harrison's Adm'x, 2 Grat. [Va.] 1, 44 Am. Dec. 365 (the cases being collected in a note to the latter report). In later years a decided reaction against this tendency is apparent, and a disposition is manifested by the courts to give to such words only their usual or ordinary meaning, rather than to find in them an imperative intent, unless such an intent as clearly appears as though positive terms had been used. Bryan v. Milby, 6 Del. Ch. 208, 24 A. 333, 13 L. R. A. 563; LeSage v. LeSage, 52 W. Va. 323, 43 S. E. 137, 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, pp. 38-45. It may be questioned whether this reaction has not already carried the courts of some of the states too far. It seems, at least, that the decision in the principal case cannot be reconciled with such comparatively recent and well-considered cases as Foster v. Willson, 68 N. H. 241, 38 A. 1003, 73 Am. St. Rep. 581; Murphy v. Carlin, 113 Mo. 112, 20 S. W. 786, 35 Am. St. Rep. 699; Blanchard v. Chapman, 22 Ill. App. 341; Colton v. Colton, 127 U. S. 300, 32 Law. Ed. 138.—3 Mich. L. R. 593.

See Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

18. Grant v. Bell [R. I.] 58 A. 951.

19. Scott v. Isaacsen [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 254.

20. Where on death of life beneficiary fund was to be divided among designated parties. Dunn v. Dunn [N. C.] 50 S. E. 212.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1930. See Tiffany, Real Prop. § 94.

22. De Bardeleben v. Bessemer Land & Imp. Co., 140 Ala. 621, 37 So. 511; Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775.

23. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex.] 84 S. W. 417; Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775. Otherwise trust if oral is void under statute of frauds. Ammonette v. Black [Ark.] 83 S. W. 910. Where county auditor unlawfully secured possession of property but there was no allegation as to the manner of obtaining possession, held findings of fact did not warrant conclusion that property was held in trust for the county. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97. In the absence of actual fraud, the failure to perform an oral promise made by the sole heir at law of one desiring to dispose of her estate by will to third persons, that he will so dispose of the estate cannot make the heir at law, in case of intestacy, a trustee ex malificio. Cassels v. Finn [Ga.] 49 S. E. 749.

NOTE. Oral promise by heir—necessity for actual fraud: A devise in reliance on the devisee's oral promise (Hoge v. Hoge, 1 Watts [Pa.] 163, 214, 26 Am. Dec. 52), to hold the property in trust, imposes on the devisee a constructive trust in favor of the intended beneficiary, even in the absence of actual fraud. Reech v. Kennegal, 1 Ves. 122; Dowd v. Tucker, 41 Conn. 197; Amherst v. Ritch, 151 N. Y. 282. The cases which rely on fraud define it as the neglect or refusal to perform the promise by which the property was secured (Glass v. Gilbert, 102 Mass. 24, 40, 3 Am. Rep. 418; Norris v. Frazer, 15 L. R. Eq. 318; In re Will of O'Hara, 95 N. Y. 403), so that the theory of trust necessary to protect the equities of an innocent party, and all parties participating in the wrong are jointly liable therefor.[25] The existence of an evil intention at the time the promise was made may be inferred from a failure to comply with the promise.[26]

The mere nonperformance of a beneficial parol agreement is not of itself sufficient to create a trust,[27] though in some states, one promising to purchase, for the benefit of another, at a judicial sale of property in which the promisee has an interest, he is deemed to be a constructive trustee.[28] One fraudulently obtaining property intended for another is deemed a constructive trustee for the latter,[29] and the cestui que trust may enforce the trust against him irrespective of the fact that he had no enforceable claim against the original owner of the property.[30] Hence a devisee obtaining the devise by expressly or impliedly promising to carry out the testator's wish in regard thereto holds the property as a constructive trustee.[31] A thief changing the form of the property by reinvestment,[32] or one who obtains property in fraud of creditors,[33] are constructive trustees, and the liability of the latter may properly be determined in a creditors' suit.[34] A grantee selling rights reserved to the grantor,[35] or one obtaining possession of a mining claim and changing the markers,[36] are constructive trustees.

the cases is not based upon fraud but upon a principle analogous to restitution. The same principles have been applied to cases where, as in the principal case, the heir procures property by a promise to hold it in trust (Williams v. Fitch, 18 N. Y. 546; Grant v. Bradstreet, 87 Me. 583); and it would seem that the distinction made between taking as heir and as devisee (Bediliars v. Seaton, 3 Fed. Cas. 38), is unsound, the making or not making of the will being in either case the result of the promise, and that therefore the principal case is wrongly decided.—5 Columbia L. R. 407. See, also, post, this section, for cases where devisee obtains title by virtue of an oral promise.

24. Where plaintiff and defendant agreed to buy land and divide profits on resale, the mere fact that defendant broke the contract and that his son purchased and sold the land is insufficient to raise a constructive trust in favor of plaintiff. Forrest v. O'Bryan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 492.

25. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

26. Koefoed v. Thompson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 268.

27. Agreement to convey land. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775. But where promisee had relied on the promise to his detriment, held a constructive trust arose. Id. Nor does the fact that the promisee agreed to pay the promisor more than he paid, affect the case. Id. Agreement by purchaser to sell land to another for price paid and 7% interest, no time for performance being fixed, held not to impress the property with a trust. Markham v. Katzenstein, 209 Ill. 607, 70 N. E. 1071.

28. One buying at a judicial sale for another held a constructive trustee. Parker v. Catron [Ky.] 85 S. W. 740. Where mortgagor's vendee bought property at foreclosure and had it conveyed to mortgagee on the understanding that the latter would reconvey upon payment of the debt, held, on refusal to carry out such agreement, a trust ex malificio came into existence. Phillips v. Hardenburg, 181 Mo. 463, 80 S. W. 891.

Note: There is a conflict on this point; for cases pro and con, see 15 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2nd Ed.] p. 1189.

29. Moore v. Crump [Miss.] 37 So. 109. Fraudulent representations by trustee that he represented another. Johnston v. Reilly [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1049.

30. Johnston v. Reilly [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1049.

31. Where devisee takes the devise with the knowledge and consent that it is intended for a third person, a constructive trust arises. Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288. Where shortly before dying, donor conveyed property to one child for all, held latter was a trustee for all the heirs. Stahl v. Stahl [Ill.] 73 N. E. 319. Where residuary legatees have no knowledge of the purpose or beneficiary of the trust during the testator's lifetime, they cannot be charged as trustees ex malificio on the express trust being declared void for insufficiency. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266.

32. Lamb v. Rooney [Neb.] 100 N. W. 410. [The court refers to the trust as a resulting one.]

33. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Property transferred by debtor to his wife held subjected to a trust in favor of creditors. Mertens v. Schlemme [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 808.

34. Clark v. Bauner & V. Printing Co., 50 Wis. 416, 7 N. W. 309, held to have been overruled and never followed so far as it holds that persons to whom property of an insolvent has been transferred in fraud of creditors can be made defendants in an administrative suit only for purposes of discovery [Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 3228]. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

35. McKenna v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 226, 88 N. Y. S. 762.

36. One who under a contract of purchase obtained possession of a mining claim, changed the markers so as to exclude a large body of ore and then claimed the latter held a trustee for the owner. Butterfield v. Nogales Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 345.

One standing in a fiduciary relation with another and obtaining an advantage thereby becomes a trustee for the latter;[37] but it is essential that confidence has been reposed and betrayed.[38]

A constructive trust is not within the statute of frauds.[39] The same rule as to the certainty of the property embraced applies to constructive as to express trusts.[40]

Defects in a contract to convey are no defense where a valid conveyance is executed thereunder.[41]

Burden of proof and evidence.[42]—There must be clear and convincing proof of the fraud,[43] and the confidential relation and the transaction being shown, the burden is upon the person occupying the superior position to establish the integrity of his claim.[44]

(§ 4) B. Trusts by equitable construction in the absence of fraud.[45]—When necessary to prevent injustice, equity will construct a trust, though there be no fraud;[46] thus where land is recovered by one not the owner and in an action to

37. Agency: Where agent intermingled funds given him to invest and his own funds and invested the whole in land. Patton v. Pinkston [Miss.] 38 So. 500. Where agent, with his own funds, purchased property for his principal and took title in his own name. Morris v. Reigel [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1086. Deception as to purchase price by joint purchaser and agent. Johnston v. Little [Ala.] 37 So. 592. Agent buying property he should have bought for principal held a trustee ex malificio. Harrison v. Craven [Mo.] 87 S. W. 962. Where one joint purchaser fraudulently charged other purchasers more than he paid. Kroll v. Coach [Or.] 78 P. 397. Evidence held sufficient to show a joint purchase. Id. See Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68.

Attorney and client: An attorney acquiring property adversely to his client's interests. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959.

Corporate officer acquiring, in the course of his employment, interest adverse to the corporation, held a constructive trustee. De Bardeleben v. Bessemer Land & Imp. Co., 140 Ala. 621, 37 So. 511. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880.

Husband and wife: A husband coercing his wife to convey her property to him without consideration, a constructive trust arises in her favor. Huffman v. Huffman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1096. See note on this subject in Husband and Wife, 3 Curr. L. 1673.

Parent and child: Where children were fraudulently induced to convey land to father, held the latter was a constructive trustee. Gregory v. Bowlsby [Iowa] 102 N. W. 517.

Partners: Partner held trustee for benefit of partner transferring property to him. Koefoed v. Thompson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 268.

Tenant in common purchasing a sheriff's certificate at a foreclosure sale is a constructive trustee for his co-tenant. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74.

38. One promoting a deal for the sale of securities held not to have sustained trust relations with administrators, who were men of affairs and had access to all sources of information. Gray v. Hafer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 341.

39. Morris v. Reigel [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1086; Koefoed v. Thompson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 268. Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 5953. Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288; Moore v. Crump [Miss.] 37 So. 109; Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775; Kroll v. Coach [Or.] 78 P. 397. Sand. & H. Dig. § 3480, only applies to express trusts. Ammonette v. Black [Ark.] 83 S. W. 910; Parker v. Catron [Ky.] 85 S. W. 740.

40. Smullin v. Wharton [Neb.] 103 N. W. 288.

41. Where original owner's wife joined in deed, it is immaterial, so far as defendant is concerned, whether she joined in the contract to convey which plaintiff had and which defendant assumed. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1931.

43. Moore v. Crump [Miss.] 37 So. 109. Evidence held insufficient to show that grantee obtained title by fraud. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud. Rawson v. Morris [Minn.] 101 N. W. 970. Evidence held insufficient to show that title was obtained on fraudulent promise to convey to another. Ammonette v. Black [Ark.] 83 S. W. 910. Where one bought at judicial sale and allowed another to remain in possession and treat the land as his own, evidence held sufficient to show a constructive trust. Parker v. Catron [Ky.] 85 S. W. 740.

44. Huffman v. Huffman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1096. Evidence held insufficient to show that purchaser at time of sale was acting as plaintiff's attorney. Laning v. Darling, 209 Pa. 254, 58 A. 477.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1932.

46. Upon failure of bankrupt to pay for stock bought in bulk in compliance with a law requiring such sales to be accompanied by a list of the seller's creditors and payment of the price to be applied to their claims, the stock remaining at the time of bankruptcy will be regarded as a trust for the seller's creditors. In re Gaskill, 130 F. 235. Where, by agreement between sole legatee, and heirs, judgment setting aside will was set aside and certain land was to be conveyed by the legatee to the heirs, held, until the execution of such deeds, the legatee was a trustee for the heirs. Allard v. Allard [Ky.] 86 S. W. 679. Where freight was payable on delivery and the consignee remitted the entire sum due to the shipper, the latter to settle the freight, held, such which the latter is not a party, the person so recovering the land will be regarded as a trustee for the owner.[47]

One wrongfully detaining property of another is an involuntary trustee for the owner.[48]

§ 5. Resulting trusts.[49]—The general rule is that where the purchase money is paid by one person and the legal[50] title to the property is conveyed to another, a trust results in favor of the person furnishing the consideration.[51]

A resulting trust may be declared in anything which a court of equity recognizes as property,[52] but the trust interest must be measureable as to its value, or as to its fractional dimensions as compared with the whole tract divided or undivided.[53] A resulting trust arises solely by operation of law,[54] and this is not changed by the fact that the trustee recognizes the trust by parol.[55] It follows that the trust is not within the statute of frauds,[56] and cannot arise where there is an express written agreement showing a contrary intent,[57] and such agreement cannot be assailed by parol.[56] Though the trust arise out of complainant's own fraud, he is nevertheless entitled to relief if he is not obliged to disclose the fraud in making out his case.[59] sum was impressed with a trust in favor of the shipowner for the freight. Michigan S. S. Co. v. Thornton [C. C. A.] 136 F. 134.

47. Smith v. Cornett, 26 Ky. L. R. 265, 80 S. W. 1188.

48. Civ. Code, §§ 2958, 2959. Upon sale by a receiver wrongfully appointed, purchaser holds property as an involuntary trustee for the owner, and receiver holds funds as an involuntary trustee for the purchaser. Lutey v. Clark [Mont.] 77 P. 305.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1932. See Tiffany, Real Prop. § 93.

50. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240. There is no resulting trust in favor of the purchaser at an execution sale where the deed is void. Livingstone v. Murphy, 187 Mass. 315, 72 N. E. 1012.

51. Herlihy v. Coney [Me.] 59 A. 952; Los Angeles & Bakersfield Oil & Development Co. v. Occidental Oil Co., 144 Cal. 528, 78 P. 25.

Facts showing a resulting trust: Where one furnished money toward buying corporate stock, title being taken in another. In re Brown's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 147. Where parent bought land, title being taken in a child's name. Brennaman v. Schell, 212 Ill. 356, 72 N. E. 412. Where husband bought land with wife's money, taking title in his own name. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 740. Where husband sold property of his wife and bought other property with the proceeds. Gittings v. Winter [Md.] 60 A. 630. Widow and minor children completing contract of sale held by husband and acquiring title to land, held to hold as trustee for the heirs of the husband to the extent of their interest therein. Brown v. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 613.

Facts falling to show a resulting trust: Where land was purchased in the name of the husband with joint savings of the husband and wife, and was afterward conveyed to the wife to prevent the husband from encumbering it, there was no resulting trust. Fretz v. Roth [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 676. Where purchaser at mortgage foreclosure sale agreed to convey to mortgagor on redemption within a certain time and no such redemption was made. Banes v. Morgan, 204 Pa. 185, 53 A. 754.

52. May be declared in an executory contract to purchase land. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240.

53. Held no resulting trust applied to a prior location on mineral land. Los Angeles & Bakersfield Oil & Development Co. v. Occidental Oil Co., 144 Cal. 528, 78 P. 25. Where one party furnished stock having only a speculative value, the court cannot determine what interest in trust such party has and cannot enforce it. Id.

54. There must be no agreement. Heil v. Heil [Mo.] 84 S. W. 45; Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240. Under Rev. Civ. Code, § 303, stating the general rule as to a resulting trust. Hickson v. Culbert [S. D.] 102 N. W. 774.

Kentucky: Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2353, providing that there shall be no resulting trust unless the deed be taken in the grantee's name without the consent of the person paying the consideration, no resulting trust arises where there was an agreement that the grantee should take title in his own name. Fields' Heirs v. Napier, 26 Ky. L. R. 240, 80 S. W. 1110.

55. Long v. Mechem [Ala.] 38 So. 262. May be proved by parol. Id.

56. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240.

57, 58. De Hihns v. Free [S. C.] 49 S. E. 841.

59. Where, in a suit to impress property with a trust, the issue is solely as to the title to the property without reference to any fraudulent conveyance, the complainant cannot be denied relief because of a fraudulent purpose to avoid taxation by placing the property in defendant's name. Monahan v. Monahan [Vt.] 59 A. 169.

NOTE. Illegal purpose: As a general rule, where parties are in pari delicto, neither can recover against the other. Taylor v. Chester, 4 Q. B. 309. At law, however, the plaintiff is not barred if he does not have to disclose his own wrong in the pleadings. See Swan v. Scott, 11 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 155. In equity it is doubtful if this limitation would apply, if the plaintiff's wrong appear-

The consideration[60] must be paid at the time of purchase[61] by the beneficiary himself,[62] or by someone in his behalf,[63] and such person may be the trustee;[64] but the money must belong to the cestui que trust in specie, or by its payment by the hands of another he must incur an obligation to repay, so that the consideration actually moves from him at the time.[65] It must be shown with certainty and exactness what part of the purchase money was paid by or for the beneficiary,[66] and such sum must be an aliquot part of the whole consideration or for the value of some particular estate in the premises conveyed.[67]

Presumption of gift or advancement.[68]—In the absence of evidence to the contrary, where the purchaser is under a legal, or in some cases even a moral obligation to support the grantee named in the deed, equity raises a presumption that the purchase is intended as a gift or advancement;[69] but this presumption is ed in the presentation of the case, because equity will not aid one who does not come with clean hands, where his wrong was part of the same transaction. Cadman v. Horner, 18 Ves. Jun. 10. On this ground the principal case seems wrong. A stronger objection may be urged. Where a parent pays the purchase money, but takes title in the child's name, a presumption arises that the transaction was intended as an advancement to the child. Respass v. Jones, 102 N. C. 5. Here the plaintiff could rebut the presumption only by evidence that he intended the transaction as a device to evade taxation. Where proof of his illegal purpose is essential to the establishment of his case, it seems clear that equity should not aid him. Ch. Roberts v. Lund, 45 Vt. 82.—18 Harv. L. R. 547.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1933.

61. Payment must be made at the time or before the legal title passes to the party to be charged. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240.

Contra: It is not essential that the consideration be paid or secured at the time the deed is taken in the name of the alleged trustee [Rev. Civ. Code, § 303]. Hickson v. Culbert [S. D.] 102 N. W. 774.

62, 63, 64. Herlihy v. Coney [Me.] 59 A. 952.

65. Herlihy v. Coney [Me.] 59 A. 952. Evidence held sufficient to support a finding that the transaction between the alleged trustee and the beneficiary was a loan which the latter was bound to repay. Id. Evidence must show that the alleged beneficiary had title to or an interest in the property sold to produce the fund. Cunningham v. Cunningham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 470. Evidence held sufficient to show that claimant's grantor furnished part of the purchase price. Id.

66. Where money was advanced husband by wife. Pickens v. Wood [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 818.

67. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240; Long v. Scott, 24 App. D. C. 1; Leary v. Corvin [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 984. Where daughter gave money to father to buy a house and five years thereafter he purchased a house, taking a deed in his own name, for a much greater sum than that paid by her, held, there was no trust impressed on the property. Id.; Onasch v. Zinkel, 213 Ill. 119, 72 N. E. 716. Where property was bought with fund to which the whole family had contributed their earnings, evidence held insufficient to show a resulting trust in the father. Id.

NOTE. Effect of indeterminate contribution to purchase price: Almost universally, when several persons contribute proportionate shares to the purchase price of land conveyed to one, a trust results in their favor. It is often stated that the share must be some aliquot portion of the whole amount (i. e. one-third, one-sixth, etc.), giving a proportionate aliquot interest in the land. McGowan v. McGowan, 14 Gray [Mass.] 119, 74 Am. Dec. 668. Such seems to be the rule in Illinois. But see Fleming v. McHole, 47 Ill. 282. A more reasonable rule obtains in most jurisdictions, where any fraction has been allowed; so long as a definite share is found, a trust arises to the extent of the contribution. Currence v. Ward, 43 W. Va. 367. Almost everywhere the claimant must prove a definite interest and leave no uncertainty as to his share; and a general, indeterminable contribution creates no trust. Olcott v. Bynum, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 44, 21 Law. Ed. 570. Yet, in a few cases, where the shares were undefined, they were presumed to be equal. Edwards v. Edwards, 39 Pa. 369. Even if the amounts had been ascertainable in the present case, no other result should have been reached, since, as between husband and wife, the doctrine does not apply, and the legal conveyance to the wife is deemed an advancement unless there be satisfactory evidence of a contrary intention. See Adlard v. Adlard, 65 Ill. 212.—18 Harv. L. R. 473.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1934.

69. Husband and wife: A purchase of land by a husband in the name of his wife will be presumed to be an advancement. Deuter v. Deuter [Ill.] 73 N. E. 453. Where land was paid for with wife's money, but title was taken in name of husband who made all payments and assured creditors that he owned the same, held no trust. Kline v. Kline's Creditors [Va.] 48 S. E. 882. Money furnished husband by wife presumed, as against a creditor of the former, to have been a gift. Pickens v. Wood [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 818.

Parent and child: Where purchase money is paid by parent and the legal title taken in a child, the transaction is presumed to be an advancement. Brennaman v. Schell, 212 Ill. 356, 72 N. E. 412; Hoon v. Hoon [Iowa] 102 N. W. 105. Where husband bought land with wife's money, the deed not conclusive, and may be overcome by clear and satisfactory proof;[70] the burden of proof being upon the claimant;[71] but to permit the introduction of such proof, the party asserting the trust must allege the facts upon which he relies.[72] This presumption has been held not to arise where the husband has the possession of or legal title to the wife's separate property,[73] in which case the burden is upon the husband, or those claiming under him, to establish the gift,[74] the question being one for the jury.[75]

The law of the state where wife resided before marriage and where property, from which purchase money was realized, is situated, governs.[76]

Property purchased with trust funds[77] may result.[78]

Evidence to establish[79] a resulting trust must be clear and satisfactory.[80] The trustee claiming to have become the beneficial owner, the burden is upon him to prove it.[81] In the absence of contrary evidence, a trust once shown to exist is presumed to continue.[82] The resulting trusts which can be rebutted by extrinsic giving her a life estate with remainder to the husband's children by her, held no resulting trust. Trumbo v. Fulk [Va.] 48 S. E. 525.

NOTE. Presumption of gift or advancement: While ordinarily, if the party furnishing the consideration is morally or legally bound to support the one in whose name the conveyance is made, equity will presume that a gift was intended (2 Pom. Eq. Jur. § 1039; Dyer v. Dyer, 2 Cox, 92; Sunderland v. Sunderland, 19 Iowa, 325; Sweet v. Dean, 43 Ill. App. 650), yet if the facts indicate a different intention, a trust will (In the absence of a statute to the contrary, Johnson v. Johnson, 16 Minn. 512) result in favor of the real purchaser. Guthrie v. Gardner, 19 Wend. [N. Y.] 414; Harden v. Darwin, 66 Ala. 55. Thus a trust was created where the husband believed that by virtue of a deed to the wife they would have a joint title in the premises. Wallace v. Bower, 28 Vt. 628; Milner v. Freeman, 40 Ark. 62. As a general rule no trust is created where one makes improvements on the land of another. Bodwell v. Nutter, 63 N. H. 446, 3 A. 421.—3 Mich. L. R. 165.

70. Hoon v. Hoon [Iowa] 102 N. W. 105; Deuter v. Deuter [Ill.] 73 N. E. 453; Hickson v. Culbert [S. D.] 102 N. W. 774; Kline v. Kline's Creditors [Va.] 48 S. E. 882. Evidence held sufficient that deed to wife was not intended as an advancement. Id.; Robinson v. Powell, 210 Pa. 232, 59 A. 1078. Evidence held insufficient to show that money deposited in defendant's bank account was impressed with a trust in favor of plaintiff. Id. Where mother paying purchase price lived separate from her husband, and the taking title in the child was a device to render the transfer of the property easy, held, there was a resulting trust. Brennaman v. Schell, 212 Ill. 356, 72 N. E. 412. So held where money of husband was deposited by the wife in her own name. Monahan v. Monahan [Vt.] 59 A. 169. Husband held entitled to reimbursement for land purchased with his own money, title being taken in the name of his wife on the faith of a void contract between them, whereby if she died first he was to have all her property. Stroud v. Ross, 26 Ky. L. R. 521, 82 S. W. 254. But, in such a case, he is not entitled to recover expenditures for taxes and improvements made on realty which the wife owned and to purchase which the husband did not contribute his own money. Id. Where land was purchased by husband with funds of wife and he declared upon the public records, and whenever the transaction was mentioned that it was hers, and recognized the title of her son after her death, held sufficient to establish a resulting trust. Leslie v. Bell [Ark.] 84 S. W. 491. Where husband purchases and takes title to land purchased with wife's funds, held a resulting trust arose. Madator Land & Cattle Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 235.

71. Hickson v. Culbert [S. D.] 102 N. W. 774; Deuter v. Deuter [Ill.] 73 N. E. 453.

72. Hoon v. Hoon [Iowa] 102 N. W. 105.

73. Where on amicable partition, deed of married woman's share was made out in her husband's name. Carter v. Becker, 69 Kan. 524, 77 P. 264.

74, 75. Carter v. Becker, 69 Kan. 524, 77 P. 264.

76. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 740.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1935.

78. One receiving funds to invest in securities and holds the latter for another, the holder has no equitable title to the securities. Tucker v. Linn [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1017. One intrusted with money of another purchasing, without authority, shares of stock in his own name, a resulting trust arises. In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1935.

80. Gilbert Bros. & Co. v. Lawrence Bros. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 155; In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797; Matador Land & Cattle Co. v. Cooper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 235. Must be clear, specific, satisfactory and of such a character as to leave in the mind of the judge no hesitation or substantial doubt. Carter v. Carter [N. D.] 103 N. W. 425.

81. In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797.

82. In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797. That trustee of bank stock was prosperous and that the beneficiary, his sister, was unsuccessful in a business way, is not inconsistent with the continuance of the trust. Id.

evidence are those claimed upon a mere implication of law, not those arising on the failure of an express trust for imperfection or illegality.[83] Sufficiency of the evidence in particular cases is shown in the notes.[84]

§ 6. The beneficiary. His estate, rights and interest.[85]—The beneficiary takes an equitable estate,[86] and upon becoming incompetent, payments of income should be made to his guardian.[87]

The Statute of Uses,[88] which is a part of the law of almost all the states, operates to convey the legal as well as the equitable title to the beneficiary of a passive trust.[89]

Rights between beneficiaries.[90]

Income and principal.[91]—In determining whether a dividend is income or principal, the courts will determine the matter for themselves from all the facts of the case.[92] As a general rule, as between life tenants and remaindermen of trust funds invested in corporate stock, a cash dividend is to be regarded as income, and stock dividends as capital,[93] and this rule will not yield, though in a given case it appears to fail to accomplish exact justice.[94] The above rule obtains where undistributed profits have been invested in permanent improvements, and the cash dividend is declared out of the proceeds of a sale of such improvements,[95] though such sale is the result of the corporation withdrawing from certain incidental branches of its business, the amount of corporate stock remaining unchanged,[96] though if the acts leading up to the declaring of the dividend amount to a partial liquidation, the dividend is regarded as capital.[97] Stock dividends representing surplus earnings constitute income.[98] Subscription rights in additional stock represent principal.[99] Dividends on stocks and bonds pledged as collateral security to creditor of testator in latter's lifetime, being applied on the obligations secured, cannot be regarded as income.[1] Where payments are made out of the income instead of out of the principal, they may be satisfied from the proceeds acquired from a sale of the latter.[2] In a suit by the life tenant, the burden is upon him to show that the thing demanded is income.[3]

83. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266.

84. Evidence held insufficient to show that purchase price of land was furnished by father to son-in-law under an agreement that title should be taken in the former's daughter's name. Barnett's Adm'r v. Adams, 26 Ky. L. R. 622, 82 S. W. 406. Where son deeded property to father, the latter to erect a building thereon and the property to then revert to the son, evidence held insufficient to show a resulting trust. Heil v. Heil [Mo.] 84 S. W. 45.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1936.

86. Johnson v. Cook [Ga.] 50 S. E. 367; Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590. Where the owner of a life estate created a trust for his sole personal benefit for life, held, he retained the beneficial interest, and having consented to a partition of the property among the remaindermen freed from his life estate, the trustee had no interest to contest the proceeding. Brillhart v. Mish, 99 Md. 447, 58 A. 28.

"To hold in trust" is not equivalent to vesting title in the beneficiary. In re Dixon's Estate, 143 Cal. 511, 77 P. 412.

87. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1936.

89. See, also, Uses, 2 Curr. L. 1965.

90, 91. See 2 Curr. L. 1936.

92. They are not bound by the name given the transaction by the corporation declaring the dividend. Mercer v. Buchanan, 132 F. 501.

93. Smith v. Dana [Conn.] 60 A. 117.

94. Smith v. Dana [Conn.] 60 A. 117. Declaring dividend income held not to operate to the injury of the remaindermen where it appeared that the capital stock constituting the corpus of the estate remained worth three times what it was when the trust took effect. Id.

95. Smith v. Dana [Conn.] 60 A. 117.

96. In such case there is no partial liquidation so as to warrant a holding that the dividend was capital. Smith v. Dana [Conn.] 60 A. 117.

97. Mercer v. Buchanan, 132 F. 501. Where corporation sold portion of plant and subsequently ceased business, held, sale was a partial liquidation, and dividends payable in corporate stock taken in payment for the property sold were capital. Id. The court, stating the New York rule, calls them "cash dividends." Id.

98. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

99. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737.

1. Skinner v. Taft [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 702.

2. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

3. Mercer v. Buchanan, 132 F. 501.

Charges on income.[4]—Whether premiums paid for bonds are chargeable to the principal or income depends upon whether it is the intent of the settlor that the beneficiary shall have the full income or the remaindermen the entire principal;[5] if the former, the premium is chargeable to the principal, if the latter, it is chargeable to the income,[6] and if chargeable on the income, the latter is determined by deducting from the interest as it becomes due, such sums as will at maturity pay the premium.[7] Repairs[8] and improvements merely enhancing rental value[9] are chargeable on income.

Claims enforceable against trust funds or estate.[10]—Permanent improvements are chargeable to the capital.[11] The war revenue taxes of 1898[12] and transfer taxes[13] are payable from the principal. Unpaid interest upon a mortgage which has been foreclosed cannot be advanced from capital upon the theory that the capital account may be made good to this extent by a sale of the premises.[14] A trust fund is not chargeable with the expenses of procuring letters with the will annexed.[15]

Rights of creditors and assignees of beneficiary.[16]—While the power of alienation is not necessarily incident to the beneficiary's estate,[17] and does not obtain where contrary to the purpose of the trust,[18] still there being no provision against anticipation, alienation, or attachments, the cestui que trust may generally dispose of his interest,[19] or his creditors may reach the same through the medium of a court of equity,[20] though in some states this cannot be done unless the settlor and beneficiary are the same person.[21] In New York a judgment for necessaries may be enforced against the income[22] where there is no unsatisfied outstanding execution against the judgment debtor.[23] An assignee of the beneficiary takes subject to pre-existing equitable charges or burdens on the property.[24] Where the beneficiary is a married woman, statutes generally require the husband to join in the deed.[25]

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1936.

5, 6. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

7. In re Allis' Estate [Wis.] 101 N. W. 365.

8. Whittingham v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 689.

9. In re Parr, 45 Misc. 564, 92 N. Y. S. 990.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1937. See ante, prior subdivision, "Charges on Income."

11. In re Parr, 45 Misc. 564, 92 N. Y. S. 990.

12. In re Hoyt's Estate, 44 Misc. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 744.

13. Laws 1896, p. 877, c. 908, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 100, c. 76, and amendments of 1900, p. 1438, c. 658, construed. In re Hoyt's Estate, 44 Misc. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 744. Contra: Conger v. Conger, 90 N. Y. S. 1062 [Advance sheets only].

14, 15. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1938.

17. Wenzel v. Powder [Md.] 59 A. 194.

18. A beneficiary entitled to a life support cannot convey away such right. Hoyt v. Hoyt [Vt.] 59 A. 845.

19. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692. The whole income being given the beneficiaries for their support, it belongs to them and is alienable. Wenzel v. Powder [Md.] 59 A. 194. The beneficiary taking a vested equitable estate, it is assignable. Jastram v. McAuslan [R. I.] 58 A. 952. Contra. Wisconsin: Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2089, a beneficiary of a trust for the receipt of rents of lands cannot assign his interest. Patton v. Patrick [Wis.] 101 N. W. 408.

20. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692.

21. Wenzel v. Powder [Md.] 59 A. 194. Creditors of wife living separate from her husband cannot reach real estate constituting a trust created by the husband for the benefit of his wife and children. Stout v. Apgar [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 52.

22. Code Civ. Proc. § 1391, as amended by 1903, p. 1071, c. 461. A judgment in an action on a judgment of another state is not one recovered for, for necessaries. Neuman v. Mortimer, 90 N. Y. S. 524.

23. Code Civ. Proc. § 1391, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 1071, c. 461. An allegation that "there is no execution on this judgment now outstanding or not unsatisfied" is insufficient. Neuman v. Mortimer, 90 N. Y. S. 524.

24. Uehling v. Lyon, 134 F. 703. Where the beneficiaries' interests were to be subject to advancements, a purchaser of a beneficiary takes subject to charges against his grantor. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Institute, 99 Md. 520, 58 A. 200.

25. Kentucky: Under Gen. St. c. 52, art. 4, § 17, providing that title to land conveyed in trust for married women may be conveyed if the husband and trustee, if there be one, unite in the conveyance, a conveyance by the husband and wife after the death of the trustee and by the wife after the death of the trustee and her husband

The beneficiary having absolute control over the personal property, it may be reached by his creditors.[26] In New York the trustee is a necessary party to an application for an execution against the income.[27]

Representation of beneficiary by trustee.[28]—Acts of a trustee bind the beneficiaries,[29] hence, as a general rule, the latter is not a necessary party defendant,[30] and the possession of the trustee is that of the beneficiaries.[31] When suit by the trustee is barred, the right of the beneficiary to sue is also gone, though he may have been under disability at the time the cause of action arose.[32] A beneficiary can maintain an action in relation to the trust property only after the trustee has refused to sue and the complaint must show such refusal.[33]

§ 7. The trustee. Appointment, qualification, resignation and removal. Who may be trustee.[34]—While the trustee need have no legal or equitable interest in the property,[35] there is no objection to the beneficiary being a trustee;[36] but a trust cannot be executed by the sole beneficiary as trustee, without either the appointment of a trustee not under disability or a supervision of the execution of the trust by the court.[37] A charitable corporation having an interest in either the principal or income,[38] or the settlor's attorney,[39] may act as trustees.

Qualification and acceptance of trust.[39a]—The person named as trustee is not obliged to accept or execute the trust,[40] and he is entitled to a reasonable time within which to decide,[41] and the acceptance[42] or disclaimer[43] may be indicated by acts as well as by words. A trustee has the right within the limitations of the law to make an acceptance of his trusteeship conditional,[44] and such condition, when expressed in the instrument, forms an essential and necessary part of it, and the validity of the trust is dependent thereon.[45]

Succession and judicial appointment of new trustee.[46]—In the absence of express authority, the trustee has no power to appoint his successor,[47] the power resting in the courts of equity,[48] who have the power to appoint a trustee in the pass title. Brain v. Bailey, 26 Ky. L. R. 853, 82 S. W. 582.

26. Ullman v. Cameron, 93 N. Y. S. 976, afg. 92 App. Div. 91, 87 N. Y. S. 148.

Note: Such a provision in a trust concerning real estate renders the trust void. Wendt v. Walsh, 164 N. Y. 154, 58 N. E. 2.

27. Code Civ. Proc. § 1391, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 1071, c. 461, construed. King v. Irving, 92 N. Y. S. 1094. Laws 1903, p. 1071, c. 461, are not retroactive. Id.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1938.

29. Johnson v. Cook [Ga.] 50 S. E. 367.

30. So held in a suit to foreclose a mortgage. Thompson v. Price [Wash.] 79 P. 951.

31. Trustee having no interest in the property and the beneficiaries having a vested interest, the latter are in possession within the meaning of Civ. Code Proc. § 490, subsec. 2, providing for the sale of an estate in possession. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931.

32. Wiess v. Goodhue [Tex.] 83 S. W. 178.

33. Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 219.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1938.

35. Coleman v. Cabaniss [Ga.] 48 S. E. 927.

36. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. The trust being valid in its inception and indivisible, the partial interest of the sole trustee as one of the beneficiaries does not prevent his executing a power of sale. Sweet v. Schliemann, 95 App. Div. 266, 88 N. Y. S. 916.

Contra: See Brown v. Spohr [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 14, afg. 84 N. Y. S. 995, where one of the elements of a valid trust in personalty is stated to be "a designated trustee who must not be the beneficiary."

37. Haendle v. Stewart, 84 App. Div. 274, 82 N. Y. S. 823.

38. Robb v. Washington & Jefferson College, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

39. The trustee's share of the commissions is compensation for services, not a benefit granted by the deed. Carroll v. Smith, 99 Md. 653, 59 A. 131.

39a. See 2 Curr. L. 1938, 1939.

40. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036.

41. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412.

42. Johnson v. Cook [Ga.] 50 S. E. 367. The trustee by signing and acknowledging the deed and covenanting to perform the trust accepts the same. Dayton v. Stewart, 99 Md. 643, 59 A. 281.

43. Disclaimer may be inferred from a failure to act or qualify. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036.

44. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 91 N. Y. S. 1065. A condition that he may resign or surrender the trust at any time is valid. Id.

45. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 91 N. Y. S. 1065.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1938, and 2 Curr. L. 1940.

47. Whitehead v. Whitehead [Ala.] 37 So. 929.

48. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590. City court of Bessemer has such jurisdiction. Whitehead v. Whitehead [Ala.] 37 So. 929.

place of a single trustee who dies,[49] or who becomes totally unable to perform the duties of the trust,[50] and this power includes the one to appoint a co-trustee to aid him in the performance of those duties,[51] and the fact that administration proceedings are pending does not deprive the court of this power.[52] All of the trustees failing to qualify, equity may appoint,[53] but one of several trustees qualifying, he becomes vested with the property as sole trustee,[54] and the court is without power to appoint a trustee to act for the ones who failed to qualify,[55] though this rule has been altered by the statutes of some states.[56] Unless the trust is clearly invalid and inoperative, a testamentary trustee should be appointed on application.[57] The widow of a trustee is not entitled to be preferred in the appointment of a successor to administer the trust estate.[58] Remaindermen may have a trustee appointed to preserve the estate and pay the income to the life tenant.[59]

As a general rule the cestui que trust is regarded as the jurisdictional party,[60] though in Georgia the rule does not apply to beneficiaries under age.[61] A bill which presents a prima facie case for the exercise of the power of appointment is not open to demurrer,[62] and whether the power will be properly exercised in making the appointment must be determined upon proofs in support of the allegations.[63] In the absence of an express provision, the order of appointment of a substituted trustee does not divest and invest title,[64] nor does such decree render the question of the creation of the trust res judicata as to the personal representatives of the deceased trustee.[65] The court having jurisdiction, the appointment cannot be collaterally attacked.[66]

In New York the trust devolving upon the court, it appoints, not a substituted trustee, but a representative or agent to execute the trust.[67]

Bonds.[68]—As a general rule a trustee is obliged to give a bond, even though he is selected by the beneficiaries.[69]

Resignation.[70]

49. It being shown that a trust was created, that the trustee qualified and acted and is dead, a new trustee should be appointed. In re Landmesser, 91 N. Y. S. 774.

50. Force v. Force [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 973; Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214.

51. Force v. Force [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 973.

52. Where administrator was trustee. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590.

53. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412.

54. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214; Mullanny v. Nangle, 212 Ill. 247, 72 N. E. 385.

55. Mullanny v. Nangle, 212 Ill. 247, 72 N. E. 385.

56. Under Pa. Act April 10, 1849, § 2 (P. L. 597), courts of equity have power to appoint a trustee in place of one of several executors in all cases of trust where any of those named in the will resign, die, or are removed, whether the duties of the trust were to be executed by them by virtue of their office or otherwise. Gehr v. McDowell, 206 Pa. 100, 55 A. 851.

57. Appeal of Beardsley [Conn.] 60 A. 664.

58. Whitehead v. Whitehead [Ala.] 37 So. 929.

59. So held where testamentary trustees had no further active duties to perform and the property held by them was subject to a life estate with remainder over. Graham v. Whitridge, 99 Md. 248, 58 A. 36.

60. Under Act April 14, 1828 (P. L. 453), children of cestui que trust, being entitled to remainders on death of beneficiary, held could not attack appointment of substitute trustee in a collateral proceeding. Haines v. Hall, 209 Pa. 104, 58 A. 125.

61. In order to secure the appointment of a successor to a deceased trustee, beneficiaries under age need not be served [Civ. Code 1895, §§ 3164, 3165]. Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834.

62, 63. Force v. Force [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 973.

64. Coffman v. Gates [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 657.

65. In re Landmesser, 91 N. Y. S. 774.

66. Haines v. Hall, 209 Pa. 104, 58 A. 125.

67. In re Gueutal, 97 App. Div. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 138; In re Mayne, 90 N. Y. S. 1050. In such case the order was modified so as to apply only to the beneficiary wronged. Id. Agent of court appointed where beneficiary's right was denied and the estate had been divided without notice among other beneficiaries. Id.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1940. Liability on bond, see post, § 10.

69. A provision permitting the beneficiaries to select their own trustees does not entitle a foreign trustee to take control of the property without being appointed in the state of his residence and giving bond as required by statute. Ky. St. 1903, §§ 4709, 4710, construed. Butler v. Taggart's Trustee [Ky.] 86 S. W. 541.

70, 71. See 2 Curr. L. 1939.

Removal.[71]—The removal of a trustee lies in the discretion of the court, and is dependent upon the circumstances of each case.[72] Mere differences of opinion[73] or unfriendliness[74] between the trustee and beneficiary, are insufficient to warrant the removal of the former unless the relations between them become so acrimonious as to operate to the detriment of the trust.[75] The fraudulent investment of trust funds may be ground for removal;[76] but unless the fund be in danger of being lost, the trustee will not be removed for every violation of duty or breach of trust.[77]

§ 8. Execution and administration of the trust. A. Nature of trustee's title and establishment of estate.[78]—The trustee of an active trust[79] takes the legal title[80] to such estate as is necessary for the performance of the trust,[81] and, in the absence of substitutionary provisions in the instrument of creation, the trustee's title is inheritable and passes to his heirs at law, who hold as trustees until the court appoints a successor.[82]

Receipt and establishment of estate.[83]—Delivery of personal property passes title.[84]

Possession[85] of the trustee is presumed to be that of the beneficiary.[86]

(§ 8) B. Discretion and general powers of trustees and judicial control.[87]—The control of trust estates is peculiarly within the province of equity,[88] and the courts thereof may compel the trustee to fairly perform his duties.[89] In the absence of statute,[90] discretionary powers are personal,[91] and are presumed to have been

72. Polk v. Linthicum [Md.] 60 A. 455. Removal for misconduct. Haines v. Elliot [Conn.] 58 A. 718. The court has authority to require a valid and sufficient cause to be shown for the removal. Act April 9, 1868 (P. L. 785) does not alter the above rule. In re Price's Estate, 209 Pa. 210, 58 A. 280.

73. In re Price's Estate, 209 Pa. 210, 58 A. 280.

74. Polk v. Linthicum [Md.] 60 A. 455.

75. In re Price's Estate, 209 Pa. 210, 58 A. 280; Polk v. Linthicum [Md.] 60 A. 455. Unfriendliness of trustee held ground for removal. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590.

76. Where part of fund was fraudulently invested, held court would take custody of the entire fund. Cropsey v. Johnston [Mich.] 100 N. W. 182.

77. Haines v. Elliot [Conn.] 58 A. 718. Where trustees of school fund had failed to account, had loaned money to one of the trustees, which had been repaid, and at one time had been negligent in keeping their accounts, held, they would not be removed, there being no danger of the fund being lost. Id.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1940.

79. Passive trusts, see Uses, 2 Curr. L. 1965.

80. In re Kenney Co., 136 F. 451. Moll v. Gardner [Ill.] 73 N. E. 442; Peck v. Scofield [Mass.] 71 N. E. 109; Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590; Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 219. Judgment creditors of beneficiaries can obtain no lien on the property. Moll v. Gardner [Ill.] 73 N. E. 442.

81. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. It being essential to the execution of the trust that the trustees take title in fee, they will be held to so do. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Warranty deed, land to be held in trust, held trustee took fee, though balance of proceeds after fulfillment of trust was to be returned to grantors. Thompson v. Price [Wash.] 79 P. 951. A conveyance to one in trust for another for life, and on the death of the life tenant to her children in remainder, clothes the trustee with the legal title to the life estate, but not to the estate in remainder (Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834), nor is this changed by vesting in the trustee a power to dispose of both estates (Id.).

82. Kirkman v. Wadsworth [N. C.] 49 S. E. 962.

Alabama: Under the express provisions of Code 1896, § 1044, the executor of a trustee does not succeed to the right to administer the trust. Whitehead v. Whitehead [Ala.] 37 So. 929.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1941, 1944.

84. Morris v. Hughes, 45 Misc. 278, 92 N. Y. S. 288.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1941.

86. See ante, § 5. "Representation of beneficiary by the trustee."

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1941.

88. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590.

89. Where executor was bound to select from stocks and bonds left by the testator a sufficient amount to make up for deficiencies in trust funds. Blair v. Scribner [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 211.

90. Under Rev. Laws, c. 147, §§ 5, 6, providing for the appointment of a new trustee where the one appointed refuses or declines to serve such second trustee, can exercise a discretionary power vested in the trustee, but not limited to the trustee named. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036.

91. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151. Does not inure to administrator with the will annexed. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737. As to when, under the interpretation of a will, a power is discretionary, see Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

honestly exercised.[92] Hence, in the absence of fraud or unless the rights of the beneficiary are otherwise jeopardized, the court will not interfere.[93] In testamentary trusts the investigation of the trustee's powers and duties usually involves a question of what testator meant. Such cases are treated in the topic Wills.[94]

Judicial instructions.[95]—The jurisdiction of a court of equity to direct trustees will only be exercised so far as actually needed for existing emergencies, and will not be extended to giving directions as to their conduct in future contingencies.[96] The general rules as to the relevancy of evidence[97] and the effect of decrees[98] apply.

(§ 8) C. Management of estate and investments.[99]—A trustee is held to the exercise of good faith and the care of an ordinarily prudent man,[1] and whether such care was exercised is to be determined with reference to the situation at the time the act was done.[2] He must not do any act inconsistent with the trust, or deny the title of the cestui que trust.[3] He has the right to employ agents to perform ministerial duties,[4] and if he exercises ordinary care in their selection, he is not liable for their defalcations.[5]

Powers to invest should be strictly construed,[6] though equity may, when beneficial to the estate, disregard such provisions.[7] As a general rule the trustee cannot invest the trust funds in personal securities,[8] but in certain cases investments in second mortgages[9] and railroad bonds[10] have been held permissible and not inconsistent with a sound discretion. In Connecticut, trust funds may be invested in a savings bank,[11] and in New York the same rule has been applied to a small

92. In re Bailey's Estate, 208 Pa. 594, 57 A. 1095.

93. Campbell v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 68 S. C. 440, 47 S. E. 716.

94. See Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076; 4 Curr. L. ——.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1941.

96. Kidder's Ex'rs v. Kidder [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 154. Trustees of a fund granted in aid of a corporation authorized to sell land purchased therewith and distribute proceeds to the donors in event of dissolution cannot maintain a bill for instructions before dissolution. Nicolai v. Maryland Agricultural & Mechanical Ass'n, 96 Md. 323, 53 A. 965.

97. In a suit for instructions, evidence that grantee in trust deed had agreed to withdraw objections to trustee if the latter would deliver to the former certain property bequeathed to her, held irrelevant. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220.

98. A decree ordering the holding in trust the sum left the beneficiary but who was an absentee held not an adjudication that the absentee or any of his issue were living. George v. Clark [Mass.] 71 N. E. 809.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1943.

1. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151. In preventing property from being sold for taxes. Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639; Conger v. Conger, 90 N. Y. S. 1062 [Advance sheets only]; Taft v. Smith [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1031. Hence is not liable for mere mistakes in judgment. Id.

2. And not in the light of subsequent events which could not have been reasonably anticipated. Taft v. Smith [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1031.

3. Petty v. Emery, 96 App. Div. 35, 88 N. Y. S. 823. A trustee undertaking to discharge his duties cannot deny the trust. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931.

4. Agreement between beneficiaries and trustee authorizing another to carry out the trust held valid only as to ministerial duties. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214.

5. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151. Where agent had been employed and trusted at various times by all parties interested in the estate, held not liable for his defalcation. Id.

6. Where board of trustees was authorized to erect building on property to be donated, held not empowered to erect building on property acquired from previous treasurer of the board in settlement of a shortage in his account. State v. Chickering, 72 N. H. 219, 55 A. 937.

7. Could authorize lease of property for 99 years, though will prohibited leases for more than 10 years. Denegre v. Walker [Ill.] 73 N. E. 409.

8. Laws 1903, p. 510, c. 317, § 1, providing that trust funds may be invested in governmental or real estate securities, recognizes that the law of the state forbids the investment of trust funds in personal securities. In re Allis' Estate [Wis.] 101 N. W. 365.

9. Where trust property subject to a first mortgage was sold by the trustee who took back a second mortgage for part of the purchase price, held not to show a failure to exercise a sound discretion. Taft v. Smith [Mass.] 70 N. E. 103.

10. Trustees having full power to invest and change investments, held they had authority to invest the trust funds in railroad and street railway bonds. In re Allis' Estate [Wis.] 101 N. W. 365.

11. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472.

sum.[12] The subject is largely regulated by statutes.[13] Except as provided by statute, the jurisdiction of equity to permit an investment can only be exercised on a bill.[14]

Delivery of control to beneficiary.[15]—Where, in pursuance to authority conferred on the trustee, the beneficiary is allowed to pledge stock belonging to the estate, his action in so doing is as agent of the trustee.[16]

Estoppel of beneficiaries to question acts.[17]—Beneficiaries by requesting and authorizing the trustee to enter into a certain transaction,[18] or by receiving the benefits thereof,[19] are estopped to hold him liable for a violation of his duty by so doing, but this remedy will not be enforced so as to work an anticipation in violation of the deed of settlement,[20] and in this connection a distinction is made between accumulated and undisposed income and that which is accruing and to accrue.[21] This estoppel only extends to the beneficiaries so consenting,[22] hence remaindermen are not bound by the assent of a life tenant to the impairment of the fund,[23] and the trustee's account being disallowed, such assent does not bar the life tenant from claiming rights decreed him by the final decree.[24] As to whether the estoppel extends to infants, there is a conflict.[25]

(§ 8) D. Creation of charges, mortgage and lease of estate.[26]—A committee appointed to collect claims against an absconded debtor has no right to vote a gratuity, out of the trust fund, to the police, for having brought the debtor back from a foreign country.[27]

Power to lease.[28]—Unless regulated by statute,[29] the power to lease for a long 12. Where sum was $400 and there was no evidence that it could be readily invested so as to obtain more than 3½ per cent. In re Wiley, 98 App. Div. 93, 91 N. Y. S. 661.

13. New Jersey: Under Laws 1897, p. 190, c. 101, the court should not permit the use of trust funds to erect a building on trust property, where the proof leaves it doubtful that any benefit will result. In re Miller [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 383.

14. Any jurisdiction of the chancery court except under Laws 1897, p. 190, c. 101, to permit the use of trust funds to erect a building on trust property can be exercised only on a bill and not on a petition. In re Miller [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 383.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1944.

16. After death of beneficiary, trustee is alone entitled to demand return. Bristol Sav. Bank v. Holley [Conn.] 58 A. 691.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1945.

18. Herbert v. Squire [Mass.] 71 N. E. 534; Matthews v. Thompson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 93. Has the right to call on the cestui que trust, requesting investment, to make good any loss, so far as his interest in the trust fund will suffice. Furniss v. Leupp [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 374. Where the residue of the estate was placed in trust and by an agreement "satisfactory to all parties," the debts had been partially paid out of the income, the trustees were held to take the property cum onere. Jastram v. McAuslan [R. I.] 58 A. 952. Where owing to the fact that devisee was a foreigner, a beneficiary took his portion, the trustee is equitably subrogated to the beneficiary's rights in such property to the extent that he misapplied trust funds for the benefit and at the instance of such beneficiary. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

19. Acceptance of the purchase money held to estop beneficiary from questioning trustee's right to sell. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058. Allegation in answer to suit to set aside that complainants ratified and approved the sale, held to sufficiently indicate that defendants relied on the defense of waiver, acquiescence and ratification. Id. Widow receiving monthly allowances during administration of husband's estate, held, she could not assert that the funds were diverted from the purpose intended, testator's will providing for an annuity, etc., in lieu of dower, homestead and support. Skinner v. Taft [Mich.] 103 N. W. 702.

20, 21. Furniss v. Leupp [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 374.

22. Where income was to go to testator's wife and son, held, defense to an action on the trustee's bond that the money was paid out with the son's consent was insufficient, because not showing that the son mentioned was testator's only child. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

23, 24. Bennett v. Pierce [Mass.] 74 N. E. 360.

25. That it does: Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058.

That it does not: In the absence of fraud on their part, infants are not estopped by receipt of income from purchase money from claiming property sold by the trustee. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1945.

27. Rowland v. Maddock [Mass.] 67 N. E. 347.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1945.

29. In view of other legislation and Real Property Law, § 86, a five-year lease executed in 1900 by a trustee of a life beneficiary, term is largely regulated by the probable benefits that will accrue to the estate therefrom.[30]

Mortgages.[31]—A power to sell[32] or to sell for reinvestment,[33] or to change investments,[34] does not grant authority to mortgage, while a provision that the property shall be kept free from incumbrances renders a mortgage by the trustee void;[35] but the power to sell stock for certain purposes includes the power to pledge it for a loan for the same purposes.[36] The power to continue a business includes the power to mortgage the property to secure money borrowed to carry on the business.[37] A power to mortgage for a particular purpose must be strictly construed.[38] As a general rule, the court may in its discretion order the execution of a mortgage.[39]

(§ 8) E. Sale of trust property.[40]—The trustee either under the terms of the instrument[41] or as a necessary implication from duties placed upon him,[42] may be empowered to sell the trust property, and this power may extend to the entire fee, though the trustee has no interest in a legal estate in remainder.[43] A trustee vested with the legal title can pass the same by conveyance, even when made in breach of his trust.[44] In the absence of restrictive phrases, the words "sell and convey" imply a conveyance in fee.[45] The power of sale may be discretionary,[46] and in such case is personal.[47] A power to sell being conferred upon several quali-containing an option for renewal for five years, is enforceable against the trustee, subject only to the contingency of being terminated by the beneficiary's death during the term of the lease. Weir v. Barker, 93 N. Y. S. 732.

30. Trustees being authorized to rent and manage real estate, held, a lease of an undesirable building for 99 years was proper, all parties interested having consented, except infants having a contingent interest, notwithstanding that there was a possibility of future interests in persons not in esse. Denegre v. Walker [Ill.] 73 N. E. 409.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1945.

32. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

33. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Clowney [S. C.] 49 S. E. 569.

34. A trustee with full power to change investments has no authority to pledge any part of the fund as security for the payment of a note made by him as trustee, though the money so received was expended for purposes for which the income of the trust fund could have been lawfully appropriated. Tuttle v. First Nat. Bank [Mass.] 73 N. E. 560.

35. Civ. Code, § 870. Gardiner v. Cord, 145 Cal. 157, 78 P. 544.

36. Security Trust Co. v. Merchants' Sav. Bank, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 616. Both parties to the loan acting in good faith, a succeeding trustee could not recover the security without tendering the amount due on the note. Evidence is competent to show propriety of the transaction and good faith of the parties. Id.

37. Though the will prohibited the disposal of the business. Roberts v. Hale, 124 Iowa, 296, 99 N. W. 1075.

38. A power to mortgage to improve the realty does not include a power to mortgage to raise money to pay the beneficiaries. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

39. Under Gen. St. § 253, real estate held in trust may, through the action of the probate court, be mortgaged when to so do will, in the opinion of the court, best promote the interests of the beneficiaries. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1945.

41. The trustees being empowered to "change investments," they may sell unproductive realty. In re Curtis [R. I.] 60 A. 240. Trustee having the power to "invest" and on death of beneficiary to pay over the estate to certain parties has the power to sell. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597. Deed providing for successor and, except as to certain named exceptions, providing that he was to have the same powers as his predecessor, held to include a power of sale. Coleman v. Cabaniss [Ga.] 48 S. E. 927.

42. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597.

43. Civ. Code 1895, § 3171. Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834.

44. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 23 App. D. C. 587.

45. St. Louis Land & Bldg. Ass'n v. Fueller, 182 Mo. 93, 81 S. W. 414. Conveyance to husband, his successors and assigns forever in trust for his wife for life and then for his heirs, but giving the wife power to order the sale or conveyance of the same, held to authorize trustee to convey a fee on the request of the wife. Id. This interpretation is not altered by the fact that the husband paid the consideration, and his children, one of whom was by a former wife, were the remaindermen. Id. Under Rev. St. 1899, p. 1096, § 4590, providing that unless the contrary appears, every conveyance of realty shall pass all the estate of the grantor therein, a power to a trustee having title in fee to "sell or convey" authorizes a conveyance in fee. Id.

46. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931.

47. Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834. Expires with the death of the nominated trustee. Id. Court has no power to order its subsequent appointee to sell any but the trust estate. Id.

fied and acting trustees, a deed by one of them is void,[48] and such power continues to a single survivor, and may be exercised by him alone after the death of his co-trustee, unless a contrary intent is manifest from the instrument of creation.[49] Beneficiaries may waive provisions in their favor.[50]

In making the sale, it is the trustee's duty to obtain the highest price possible,[51] and in the absence of special necessity or specific directions, it is misconduct to sell at a disadvantageous time,[52] though if the power of sale be discretionary, the court will never interfere except in cases of actual fraud or collusion,[53] and in such case the purchaser is not bound to make inquiry as to whether the trustees have properly exercised their powers.[54]

Where the sale is unauthorized[55] or obtained through fraud[56] or misconduct, it will not be confirmed, and the beneficiaries may have it vacated,[57] though, it being possible to adjust plaintiff's rights, equity will not necessarily set aside the sale, but may allow it to stand and hold the purchaser as trustee.[58] The court in considering the propriety of confirming a sale should take into consideration that a majority of those interested in the property except to the ratification.[59] The action to recover the property from one other than a bona fide purchaser may be maintained by the trustee,[60] and the property sold consisting of corporate stock, the corporation issuing the same is a proper party.[61]

Bonds.—Unless required by statute[62] or by the instrument of creation,[63] the trustee is not required to give a bond before sale. A bond being required, it should run to the person designated by the statute.[64]

Application of proceeds.[65]—Purchasers under a discretionary power of sale are not required to see that the proceeds are invested according to the trust,[66] and this is true, even though the beneficiaries are infants.[67]

48. Brown v. Doherty, 93 App. Div. 190, 87 N. Y. S. 563.

49. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703.

50. That trustee should only convey to parties designated by them. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083. Where beneficiaries conveyed to one of their number and that one and the trustee joined in conveying to a third party, such condition is waived. Id. Where trustee has power to convey on written direction of beneficiary, the latter joining in a deed by the former, the deed is valid, though there be no written direction. Kirkman v. Wadsworth [N. C.] 49 S. E. 962.

51. Holderman v. Hood [Kan.] 78 P. 838; Callaway v. Hubner, 99 Md. 529, 58 A. 362. Evidence held to show that trustees failed to exercise proper diligence. Id.

52. Dingman v. Beal, 213 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 729. The trustee, being directed to sell at the best price reasonably attainable, is not required to make such sale within any specified time. Id.

53, 54. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058.

55. Where an option contract for the sale of trust property should not have been authorized in view of the facts, the sale procured through the option contract ought not to be ratified. Callaway v. Hubner, 99 Md. 529, 58 A. 362.

56. Evidence held to show that value of property attained after sale was an inherent value known to the purchaser, and not an accidental appreciation, and hence a refusal to ratify the sale was proper. Callaway v. Hubner, 99 Md. 529, 58 A. 362.

57. So held where sale was made at a disadvantageous time. Dingman v. Beal, 213 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 729.

58. McKenna v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 226, 88 N. Y. S. 762. Where purchaser bought with notice of the trust, evidence of value held admissible. Id.

59. Callaway v. Hubner, 99 Md. 529, 58 A. 362.

60. 61. Ludington v. Mercantile Nat. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 454.

62. Illinois: Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 3, has no application to trustees. Dingman v. Beal, 213 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 729.

Maryland: Under Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 16, § 205a, providing that where a trust is created as security for a debt a bond must be given before sale, a valid sale of real estate cannot be made under a mortgage deed of trust until the trustee has filed a bond, and a filing at any time before ratification is not sufficient. Union Trust Co. v. Ward [Md.] 59 A. 192.

63. Dingman v. Beall, 213 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 729.

64. Where a sale of an infant's contingent interest in real property is made under Civ. Code Proc. § 401, and no bond was given by the testamentary trustee, the purchase-money bonds should be made payable to the court commissioner. Crutcher v. Rodman, 26 Ky. L. R. 294, 81 S. W. 252.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1947.

66. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931; Campbell v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 68 S. C. 440, 47 S. E. 716.

Kentucky: Ky. St. 1903, § 4846, providing that where a trustee has the power to sell

(§ 8) F. Payments or surrender to beneficiary.[68]—It is desirable that the trustee within a reasonable time[69] apportion the estate, allotting to each beneficiary the income of his certain part;[70] but until such apportionment, the beneficiary's income is to be computed on the amount designated, at the average rate realized on the whole trust.[71] If a trustee abuses a discretionary power of payment, the wrong may be corrected by a court of equity;[72] but the payment being made, the trustee is not charged with the duty of supervising its expenditure.[73] Excessive payments voluntarily paid the beneficiary cannot be recovered,[74] though, as against the beneficiary and all claiming under him, the trustee is entitled to a credit for the sum so paid.[75]

It is the duty of a trustee to notify his successor of all assignments by beneficiaries of which he has notice.[76]

Encroachments on principal.[77]

§ 9. Liability of trustee to estate and third persons.[78]—The trustee[79] and all those assisting and aiding him[80] are personally liable for all fraudulent,[81] negligent,[82] and otherwise improper conduct[83] of the former, and the remedy of the beneficiary is not to undo what, as to third persons, has lawfully been done, but to and reinvest, the purchaser need not look to the application of the purchase money unless expressly required by the deed or devise in trust, applies where land is deeded to persons for the benefit of themselves and children. Louisville & A. R. Co. v. Horn, 26 Ky. L. R. 829, 82 S. W. 567.

67. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1942. See, also, ante, § 8C.

69. It is inadvisable to wait eleven years and a half. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472.

70. Trustees appointed to preserve fund for remaindermen and pay income to life tenants should apportion the investments into as many parts as there are life estates. Graham v. Whitridge, 99 Md. 248, 58 A. 36. Will giving beneficiary income of certain amount and directing residue to be invested and distributed at a certain time, held proper to set out separate fund for beneficiary and make a separate investment of it. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472.

71. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472; Webb v. Lines [Conn.] 58 A. 227; In re Hoyt's Estate, 44 Misc. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 744.

72. Barbour v. Cummings [R. I.] 58 A. 660.

73. Where payment of principal to beneficiary of income was a matter of discretion. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

74. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472.

75. Where payments were made without order of court. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692.

76. Seger v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 92 N. Y. S. 629. Oral notice to successor held sufficient. Id.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1942.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1942, 1950.

79, 80. Holderman v. Hood [Kan.] 78 P. 838.

81. Where trustee knowingly paid more for corporate stock than it was worth, held fraud entitling the beneficiary to recover the fund. Cropsey v. Johnston [Mich.] 100 N. W. 182. Trustee investing so as to personally profit thereby is personally liable for any loss resulting therefrom. Carr's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 369.

82. Where a trustee unnecessarily surrenders the joint custody of funds to the sole custody of co-trustees, he becomes liable for the application of the funds by his co-trustees. In re Halstead, 44 Misc. 176, 89 N. Y. S. 806. Turning over bonds to be placed in safety deposit vault, being in the ordinary course of business, comes within the definition of the word "necessary." Id. Where there was no negligence on the part of one trustee in permitting a co-trustee to take possession of bonds, held there was no negligence on his part in permitting the securities to remain negotiable as at the death of the testator, or in purchasing others without requiring them to be registered in the names of the trustees jointly. Id. There being no suspicion of wrongful acts being done, failure by one co-trustee to examine safety deposit vault for five years held not negligence, there having been an agreement for the settlement of accounts every five years. Id. Trustee permitting note of his attorney to remain uncollected for ten years is chargeable therewith. Carr's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 369.

83. A trustee, after knowledge that a co-trustee is a defaulter, let him have the active management of the estate, is guilty of "willful default" within the meaning of such term, as used in a will exempting the trustee from liability for all except such acts. In re Mallon's Estate, 43 Misc. 569, 89 N. Y. S. 554. Where trustee repudiated the trust and ousted the beneficiary from possession, held liable for the rental value of the premises. Lucia v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 335. Trustee wrongfully paying money to beneficiary's guardian who appropriated the same to his own use, held liable therefor. Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573. See, also, Oneida Indians' Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 116, where it is held that if the United States should pay away a fund held for the benefit of Indians, they might be liable therefor.

proceed against the trustee.[84] The trustee, and consequently his estate,[85] must account to the beneficiary for the proceeds of a sale of trust property,[86] and the value of its use during the time he actually used it or was obliged to use it;[87] and this liability is that of debtor and creditor.[88] He is also liable for any loss occasioned by his failure to turn over the property on the termination of the trust,[89] but not for rents or profits accruing during the time the property is in the hands of a receiver.[90] A trustee cannot end his relations to the cestui que trust by destroying the identity of the trust property,[91] and he is liable for any loss resulting from such act.[92] A trustee is not liable for an incumbrance assumed by the beneficial owner at the time of acquiring his interest.[93] Substituted trustees are chargeable with uncollected amounts due from their predecessor.[94] In Arkansas the homestead exemption does not extend to trustees of an express trust for moneys due from them in their fiduciary capacity.[95] A trustee is only liable for actual loss,[96] and the evidence of the damages must be clear and explicit and must show with reasonable certainty that injury has been sustained by reason of the acts complained of.[97]

While unauthorized acts of the trustee cannot be enforced against the estate,[98] the trustee is personally liable thereon,[99] unless expressly exempted from liability.[1] A trustee continuing a business is personally liable to third person,[2] and he can only look for indemnity to the property or fund employed in the business prior to the testator's death.[3] Equity will enforce a trustee's contract, though to do so will render the trustee liable to the estate for mismanagement.[4]

§ 10. Liability on trustee's bond.[5]—A trustee's estate is liable on his bond solely as a personal obligation, unless the trust funds become a part of his estate,[6] hence its liability is barred like a mere debt, not like a trust.[7] In an action on the

84. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754.

85. Williams v. Williams' Ex'r, 25 Ky. L. R. 836, 76 S. W. 413.

86, 87. Berry v. Evendon [N. D.] 103 N. W. 748.

88. Cunningham v. Cunningham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 470.

89. An injunction being secured against him, he is liable for any decline in value during the injunctive period. Ingersoll v. Weld, 93 N. Y. S. 291.

90. Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639.

91. This doctrine is not affected by the fact that trust property so changed and lost cannot be recovered in specie. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

92. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

93. Deaver v. Deaver [N. C.] 49 S. E. 113.

94. Deficit caused by ill advised investment. Bennett v. Pierce [Mass.] 74 N. E. 360.

95. Const. 1874, art. 9, § 3. Where money is left with one in trust for another, the beneficiary may enforce a judgment for such amount against the trustee's homestead. Godfrey v. Herring [Ark.] 85 S. W. 232.

96. Taft v. Smith [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1031. Trustee with power to invest exercising the power in good faith held not personally liable, the property not having passed beyond the reach of the cestui que trust. James v. Aller [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1091.

97. Statement of witness that the beneficiary had been obliged to expend a certain sum by reason of the trustee's fraudulent acts held insufficient to justify a recovery therefor. San Fernando Copper Min. & Reduction Co. v. Humphrey [C. C. A.] 130 F. 298.

98. Tuttle v. First Nat. Bank [Mass.] 73 N. E. 560. In an action for breach of the trust, expenses incurred in obtaining an abstract of title and legal advice thereon cannot be credited to trustee, they not being shown to have been assumed by the beneficiary. Lucia v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 335.

99. Execution of note for the benefit of the estate. Tuttle v. First Nat. Bank [Mass.] 73 N. E. 560. Unauthorized investment. Furniss v. Leupp [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 374.

1. Where trustees are empowered to deal with the trust property as if they were the absolute owners thereof and are expressly exempted from a master's liability, the estate is liable for the negligent acts of employes. Prinz v. Lucas [Pa.] 60 A. 309.

2, 3. Roberts v. Hale, 124 Iowa, 296, 99 N. W. 1075.

4. That rental obtained from a lease of trust property was less than fair rental value, held not a matter of objection to a suit for specific performance by the lessee on the ground that equity will not compel a trustee to commit waste. Weir v. Barker, 93 N. Y. S. 732.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 1940.

6. Herbert v. Squire [Mass.] 71 N. E. 534.

7. The two-year statute of limitations does not begin to run against an action on trustee's bond for failure to account, the good faith of the trustee is not in issue,[8] and it is not necessary for plaintiff to prove that title had been transferred with all legal formality.[9] A surety upon a bond conditioned upon the faithful discharge by the trustee of the duties of his appointment is liable for a misappropriation by the trustee.[10]

§ 11. Personal dealings with estates.[11]—A court of equity scrutinizes closely all dealings between trustees and beneficiaries, and it will presume that the trustee has dealt unfairly,[12] though this presumption may be rebutted, the burden of proof being upon the trustee,[13] and the fact that the plaintiff acted under independent advice goes a great distance in overcoming this presumption.[14] As a general rule, it is held that a purchase of trust property by the trustee is merely voidable at the election of the beneficiary,[15] and this right of the beneficiary is personal,[16] and must be exercised with reasonable diligence,[17] and the same rule extends to a sale to the trustee's wife,[18] or his attorney.[19] Such sale is, however, void if the trustee has a duty to perform inconsistent with his character as purchaser.[20] In some states a purchase by the trustee is valid if it be fair, free from fraud and for full value.[21] In South Dakota a trustee cannot enforce any claim against the trust property which he may acquire after his appointment as trustee.[22] A trustee mixing trust funds with his own money is liable therefor, though the property into which it is converted depreciates without fault on the part of the trustee.[23]

§ 12. Actions and controversies by and against trustees.[24]—In all but a few states[25] actions by or against a trustee must be in his representative capacity.[26]

a trustee's bond, conditioned to pay fund to successor until demand. Herbert v. Squire [Mass.] 71 N. E. 534. Where action was brought within 20 years after execution of bond, it is not barred by the general statute of limitations. Id.

8. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

9. So as to negative the possibility of the trustee still having title. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

10. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1943.

12. Brown v. Hafer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 341.

13. Brown v. Hafer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 341. Rule applied to a purchase of stock by the managing officer of a corporation. Stewart v. Harris, 69 Kan. 498, 77 P. 277.

14. Brown v. Hafer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 341.

15. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692. Trustee investing in mortgage, taking the same in his own name and on foreclosure buying the property, the beneficiary may either take the property or the amount invested with interest. Carr's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 369. A bidding in by trustees at their own sale is not necessarily invalid. The trust deed authorizing it and an enhanced price being secured. Etna Coal & Iron Co. v. Marting Iron & Steel Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 32.

16. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692. Where trustee purchased in good faith and for an adequate price, held creditors of beneficiary could not impeach his title. Id.

17. Where, in such case, the cestui que trust or the court for him surrenders the property to the wrongful holder, he cannot recover more than the damages sustained. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Where creditors surrendered property wrongfully disposed of by the trustee of the fund, their rights therein were regarded as foreclosed, where to enforce them would entail much expense, an erroneous judgment in regard thereto having been rendered, changes having occurred, and there being no real benefits recoverable. Id.

18. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Clowney [S. C.] 49 S. E. 569.

19. In re Robbins' Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 217.

20. Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 219. A trustee cannot directly or indirectly purchase at a tax sale caused by his own default (Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639), and this is true though he purchase after the expiration of the redemption period (Id.). If he does so purchase, the reconveyance will be treated, in equity, as a correction of the wrong, leaving the property impressed with the original trust. (Id.)

21. Lake v. Owens [Cal.] 79 P. 589.

22. Civ. Code, § 1641. Fowler v. Iowa Land Co. [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1095.

23. Where property was converted into Confederate money during the Civil War. Dunn v. Dunn [N. C.] 50 S. E. 212.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1947. See, also, post, § 14. Accounting.

25. Colorado: Trustee of an express trust may, at his option, sue in his own name or may join the beneficiary. Mills' Ann. Code, § 5 is permissive. Hecker v. Cook [Colo. App.] 78 P. 311. Held that part of title of complaint following names of trustees might be treated as descriptio personae. Id. In an action on official bond given to trustees of an unincorporated association, so much of the complaint as sets forth that the association is unincorporated is surplusage. Id.

Texas: Trustee may maintain an action of trespass to try title in his own name.

The right to sue to recover and preserve the trust property[27] and to recover damages, to the use of the beneficiary's property, health, and comfort, arising from a nuisance,[28] rests in the trustee, and such actions may be instituted and defended without joining the beneficiaries as parties,[29] and, in the absence of fraud, the latter are bound by the judgment therein.[30] The survivor of trustees must sue on a cause of action accruing to them as trustees, in exclusion of the personal representatives of the deceased trustee.[31]

The general rule that no action at law can be brought until the trustee's accounts are fully settled does not generally apply to an action on a special bond.[32] Death of a passive trustee does not abate the action.[33]

The beneficiary alleging misconduct by the trustee must allege facts constituting such misconduct.[34] In a suit to compel the restoration of trust funds, the defendant, on alleging that he has become the sole beneficiary, may file a cross-bill to enable him to present the question of his right to control the trustees.[35]

Equity will grant appropriate relief, though there is a variance.[36] In a suit to set aside a trust deed, one cannot recover both the property and a personal judgment for its value.[37] The right of appeal is discussed elsewhere.[38]

§ 13. Compensation and expenses.[39]—Unless he agrees to serve without compensation,[40] or waives his right thereto, a trustee is entitled to commissions on yearly income, etc.,[41] as compensation,[42] and if he accounts for and pays over income annually, he is entitled to retain full commissions upon such payments computed annually.[43] This compensation must be sought exclusively in equity,[44] and cannot be collected from the executor of the beneficiary.[45] A trustee is not en-

Lewis v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 704.

26. McNamara v. Vanderpoel, 88 N. Y. S. 145.

27. Neither beneficiaries nor their guardians can so sue. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590.

28. Railroad terminals. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Lellyett [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 881.

29. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754. In a suit to recover moneys for the trust estate, the cestuis que trust are neither necessary nor proper parties. In re Kenney Co., 136 F. 451.

30. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754.

31. Maffet v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 489.

32. Held not to apply where the bond was given in consideration of permission to do an act for which he otherwise would have been answerable for as for a breach of trust. Herbert v. Squire [Mass.] 71 N. E. 534.

33. Action against beneficiary and trustee for taxes. City of Louisville v. Anderson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 573.

34. Must allege facts inconsistent with or constituting a denial of the trust. Petty v. Emery, 96 App. Div. 35, 88 N. Y. S. 823. Allegations that defendant has arbitrarily and wrongfully manipulated affairs and disputed plaintiff's right to certain property are mere conclusions of law. Id. Where trustee was required to sell property when advisable or when required by the interested parties, a complaint alleging a violation of this duty but failing to allege that there was a market for the stock and that the parties interested wanted the sale, held demurrable. Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 219.

35. Riley v. Fithian [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 302.

36. Where a person is prosecuted for an accounting in regard to trust property, being charged with having obtained possession thereof by fraud, and the charge of fraud fails but the fact of wrongful possession is established, the proper judgment for restoration of the trust property may be rendered. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

37. Ingersoll v. Weld, 93 N. Y. S. 291.

38. See Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1948.

40. Offer of certain creditors of an absconded debtor to act as a committee in the collection of claims held not to import that they would so act without compensation. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347. Statement in agreement that all the creditors would share the expenses held not to import that the committee was not to be compensated for its services in case it succeeded in collecting part of the claims. Id.

41. The compensation is not to be determined by a quantum merult. Hazard v. Coyle [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

42. The trustee's share of the commissions is compensation for services, not a benefit granted by the deed. Carroll v. Smith, 99 Md. 653, 59 A. 131.

43. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

44. Hazard v. Coyle [R. I.] 58 A. 987. Assumpsit will not lie. Id.

45. Hazard v. Coyle [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

titled to commissions on money paid out for the improvement of real property,[46] and, prior to separate investment, is not entitled to extra compensation for managing the fund so invested;[47] he is, however, entitled to commissions on the gross amounts paid by tenants, though the latter pay the taxes.[48] If a trustee dies, he is entitled to one-half commissions for receiving and nothing for paying over.[49] The trustee forfeits his right to compensation by fraudulent misconduct,[50] and by failing to collect his commissions at the proper time, he is deemed to have waived his right thereto,[51] except where it appears that there was sufficient accrued income in his hands at the time of his death to pay such commissions.[52]

The trustee is entitled to look to the trust property,[53] but not to the beneficiaries individually[54] for reimbursement for expenses incurred in protecting and preserving the estate, and if he cannot advance or borrow funds, he should apply to the chancellor for an order to sell or mortgage, so as to save at least a part of the corpus for the beneficiaries.[55] By the personal collection of a few rents, the trustee is not barred from claiming commissions paid a real estate agent.[56]

Attorney's fees and expenses.[57]—Where the trustee's attorney has no adequate remedy at law, he may maintain an action directly against the beneficiaries to charge the value of his services on the income.[58] Attorneys employed by a beneficiary to protect his interest in an action begun by the trustee are not entitled to a first lien on the fund recovered.[59]

§ 14. Accounting and discharge.[60]—The adjustment of accounts involves the rectitude or propriety of all the acts of execution or management of the trust.[61] A beneficiary[62] is entitled to sue for an accounting,[63] though the payment of income to him rests in the discretion of the trustee,[64] and this right is not lost by retaining, without indorsing or cashing, a check for the last dividend paid.[65] The action does not sound in tort,[66] and the remedy survives against the trustee's personal representatives.[67]

46. Conger v. Conger, 90 N. Y. S. 1062 [Advance sheets only].

47. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472.

48. In re McCallum's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 903.

49. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

50. Holderman v. Hood [Kan.] 78 P. 838. Rule held not to apply where trustees refused to account and spent money without authority, there being no claim of dishonesty. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347.

51. Failed to deduct annual commissions. Conger v. Conger, 90 N. Y. S. 1062 [Advance sheets only]. Is not entitled to collect full commissions upon a final accounting where he failed to collect them when money was paid out. Id.

52. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

53. Coffman v. Gates [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 657. Where one held interest in lands in fee and the remainder in trust for others, held, he had a right to look to the trust property for proportionate reimbursement. Id.; Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639.

54. Coffman v. Gates [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 657.

55. Bourquin v. Bourquin, 120 Ga. 115, 47 S. E. 639.

56. Casely's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 646.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1949.

58. So held where the trustees were the sole beneficiaries and the attorney was employed to protect the rights of one as trustee as against the others. Campbell v. Barber, 93 N. Y. S. 182.

59. Sloan v. Smith [Conn.] 58 A. 712.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1949.

61. As to them, see ante, §§ 8-13.

62. An unsecured creditor of a decedent, who has a mere legal demand not reduced to judgment, is not a beneficiary of a trust so as to be entitled, in the absence of fraud, gross wrong, or unreasonable delay, to maintain a bill for an accounting against the executor. Thiel Detective Service Co. v. McClure, 130 F. 55.

63. Morris v. Hughes, 45 Misc. 278, 92 N. Y. S. 288; Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 219. The trustee is bound to give full information to the beneficiary as to the condition of the trust. Id.

64. Barbour v. Cummings [R. I.] 58 A. 660.

65. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347.

66. Though the facts may be such that an action for damages for the wrong might lie. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

67. Action for an accounting as to personalty in trustee's possession. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

Interest[68] may be allowed where the trustee refuses to account[69] or wrongfully pays money to a third person.[70]

Credits and charges.[71]—The trustee must account for the trust property received by him and is liable for all losses due to mismanagement;[72] but, in the absence of evidence, there is no presumption that the entire trust fund came into the hands of a deceased trustee.[73] The trustee is entitled to credit for all lawful payments.[74] In some cases charges have been set off against credits due the trustee in another capacity.[75] Trust funds cannot be applied to pay the trustee's individual debts.[76]

Procedure on accounting.[77]—The rights of infant beneficiaries will be protected, though their special guardian makes no formal objection to the items.[78]

Costs and appellate expenses.—Plaintiff can only recover taxable statutory costs.[79] The trustee being guilty of misconduct, he must bear the expense of auditing his account.[80] Where no costs are allowed accounting parties, the charge of printing papers on appeal cannot be allowed against the trust fund.[81]

Opening account.[82]—The allowance of an account does not conclude the rights of beneficiaries not notified as required by statute;[83] but a disputed matter having been heard and settled, it cannot, in most states, be opened by any party to the dispute, except by leave of court.[84] After approval, the burden is on the one questioning the correctness of the account to show error.[85] Where only a part of the beneficiaries dispute the account, they are only entitled to their pro rata share of the benefits derived from a correction.[86]

Appellate review.—After confirmation, a bill of review can be had as a matter

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1949.

69. Where trustees refused to account, interest held properly allowable on sum found due and last dividend, which complainant had not cashed, from the time of filing the bill. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347.

70. In such case interest runs from the date of wrongful payment. Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1950.

72. See ante, § 8, subd. C. Management of estate and investments, and § 9. Liability of trustee to estate and third persons.

73. Executor of trustee having no means of ascertaining the amount that came into testator's hands, held not liable for whole amount of fund. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Pendleton, 179 N. Y. 486, 72 N. E. 508.

74. Trustee's estate held entitled to credit for payments made beneficiary's father, though beneficiary claimed payment was in settlement of a debt due the father by the trustee personally, where it appeared that the father had no money of his own at the time. Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573.

75. Trustees held not chargeable with a small amount inadvertently omitted when such sum is less than an amount still due them for services rendered as executors. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151.

76. Hoyt v. Hoyt [Vt.] 59 A. 845. Executor cannot agree with trustee that what is due trustee as such shall be applied to what he owes as individual. Marshall v. Hall, 51 W. Va. 569, 42 S. E. 641.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1951.

78. In re Parr, 45 Misc. 564, 92 N. Y. S. 990.

79. Cannot recover attorney fees. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347.

80. So held where a trustee invested trust funds in his own name and delayed collecting a debt, due the trust estate, for many years and until the debtor becomes insolvent. Carr's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 369.

81. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1952.

83. Gen. St. §§ 383, 384, considered. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460. Allegations that the accounts were allowed on "due hearing" and that the trustee acted under the advice and orders of the court is insufficient to constitute allegations of the notice required by Gen. St. § 483. Id. Pub. St. 1882, c. 144, § 9, providing for the opening of accounts by one having no notice of the former proceedings, "notice" means actual notice. Parker v. Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 806. Same statute, § 14, providing that decree of court having jurisdiction shall be final except in cases of fraud, etc., relates only to final accounts. Id.

84. Rev. Laws, c. 150, § 17. A judicial decree requiring a trustee to make good an impairment of the trust estate notwithstanding the assent of a beneficiary, is not an adjustment of a dispute between the trustee and beneficiary within the meaning of such act. Bennett v. Pierce [Mass.] 74 N. E.] 360.

85. In re Bailey's Estate, 208 Pa. 594, 57 A. 1095.

86. Rowland v. Maddock, 183 Mass. 360, 67 N. E. 347.

of right only for new matter that has arisen since the confirmation, or for errors of law appearing on the face of the record.[87] The findings of the lower court will not be disturbed unless manifestly incorrect.[88]

§ 15. Establishment and enforcement of trust and remedies of beneficiary. A. Express trusts. Jurisdiction.[89]—In the absence of statutory regulations, the enforcement and administration of trusts is within the exclusive jurisdiction of equity.[90] Jurisdiction over legacies is inadequate to include the enforcement of trust duties.[91] The validity of a trust should not be decided upon a motion to appoint an agent of the court to execute the trust, the original trustee being dead and there being no authority for appointing a substituted trustee.[92] Though the beneficiary cannot institute a proceeding to obtain the trust funds until an award has been made, he may maintain an action to enforce the trust so that an order of distribution may be made.[93]

Laches, limitations[94] and estoppel.[95]—While laches will run against an express trust, though there has been no repudiation of the same,[96] a repudiation, if known to the beneficiary, opens the door to its use as a defense;[97] but the right being clear and there being no countervailing circumstances, mere lapse of time short of the period of limitations will not bar the right.[98] Limitations do not run against the beneficiary of an express trust until repudiation.[99] Acquisition of title by the trustee may amount to a repudiation.[1] A trustee may by his pleadings become estopped to deny the trust.[2]

Who may sue.[3]—The grantor in a deed of trust cannot maintain a bill to determine whether the deed prevents a testamentary disposition of the property by the grantor.[4]

Remedies.—Where land is conveyed to a trustee on condition that he support

87. In re Bailey's Estate, 208 Pa. 594, 57 A. 1095.

88. Finding of auditing judge confirmed by court in banc. Casely's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 646.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1952.

90. Dingman v. Beall, 213 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 729. County or probate courts have no jurisdiction over either. Id. Flynn v. Foley, 91 Minn. 444, 98 N. W. 332. See, also, Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Also Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

91. Section 3 of the Orphans' Court Act of June 14, 1898 (P. L. p. 716), construed. In re Lippincott's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 884.

92. In re Guental, 97 App. Div. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 138; In re Mayne, 90 N. Y. S. 1050.

93. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1952. For general rules and distinctions between two, see Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

95. See Estoppel, 3 Curr. L. 1327.

96. Sawyer v. Cook [Mass.] 74 N. E. 356. 29 years delay held to bar right where beneficiary ceased to take any interest in enterprise. Id. Where the beneficiary of a trust for his support leased land from trustee and voluntarily supported himself, held could not enforce the trust. Hoyt v. Hoyt [Vt.] 59 A. 845. Evidence reviewed and held there was no laches. Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573.

97. Patterson v. Hewitt, 25 S. Ct. 35.

98. Cantwell v. Crawley [Mo.] 86 S. W. 251. So held where recorded contract recited the trust. Id.

99. Thorne v. Foley [Mich.] 100 N. W. 905; Hitchcock v. Cosper [Ind.] 73 N. E. 264; Felkner v. Dooly [Utah] 78 P. 365. Under Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2855, 2883, four years bars action to recover interest of beneficiary in the proceeds of a sale by the trustee. Id. Potter v. Kimball [Mass.] 71 N. E. 308. Where a locative interest in land was held in trust and possession taken under such title. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395. Where trustee repudiated trust and claimed to be the owner of the property, 45 years delay held to bar the suit. Thorne v. Foley [Mich.] 100 N. W. 905. Under Comp. St. § 41, as amended by Sess. Laws 1889, p. 172, an action to enforce a declaration of trust may be commenced at any time within eight years. Goodell v. Sanford [Mont.] 77 P. 522.

1. Where a will gave land to son for life and if he should die without issue to the state in trust, and the testatrix died without acquiring the legal title, which title was subsequently acquired by the son, held, the recordation of the latter deed was constructive notice to the state of the son's renunciation of the trust. Commonwealth v. Clark, 26 Ky. L. R. 993, 83 S. W. 100.

2. Answer of alleged trustee in a suit by the public administrator that he was disposing of property as requested by decedent does not estop him in a subsequent suit by the distributees of decedent's estate from relying upon an absolute ownership by virtue of an assignment. Mussman v. Zeller [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1021.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1952.

4. Carroll v. Smith, 99 Md. 653, 59 A. 131.

the grantors, the latters' remedy for breach of trust is by a bill to foreclose the trustee's interest.[5]

Pleadings.[6]—The complaint need not allege that the contract was in writing.[7] Under a general denial, the alleged trustee can avail himself of an absolute assignment of the property to him.[8] The general rules as to what constitute a variance apply.[9]

Evidence.[10]—The one claiming the trust must establish the same by the preponderance of evidence,[11] and both parties are entitled to the benefit of all presumptions arising in their favor.[12] Cases considering the sufficiency of the evidence are collected in the notes.[13]

(§ 15) B. Implied trusts.—Limitations run against actions to enforce an implied trust to pay money on demand.[14]

(§ 15) C. Constructive trusts.[15] Jurisdiction.—In the absence of statutory regulations, equity has exclusive jurisdiction as in case of express trusts.[16]

Laches and limitations.[17]—Unreasonable delay amounting to laches will bar the right to enforce the trust.[18] Limitation runs during the existence of a constructive trust.[19] One may by his acts become estopped to enforce the trust.[20]

Parties.—All parties interested in the subject-matter are proper parties.[21]

Pleading.[22]—The facts disclosing how the relation of trustee and cestui que trust arose in the particular case must be stated.[23] A mere denial of the trust on

5. Hoyt v. Hoyt [Vt.] 59 A. 845.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1953.

7. Is not demurrable. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932; Eaton v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 548, 49 S. E. 593; Phillips v. Hardenburg, 181 Mo. 463, 80 S. W. 891.

8. Mussman v. Zeller [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1021.

9. Proof of a passive trust does not constitute a variance amounting to a failure of proof, it being alleged that defendant holds the property as security for a debt. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310. Proof that trustee wrongfully paid over a part of the fund to a third person held not to constitute a fatal variance. Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1953.

11. Lide v. American Guild [S. C.] 48 S. E. 222.

12. In an action by the original beneficiary in a life insurance policy to establish a trust in her favor as against the substituted beneficiary, the latter was entitled to the benefit of the presumption arising from the fact that she appeared as beneficiary in the certificate. Lide v. American Guild [S. C.] 48 S. E. 222.

13. Where there was a change of beneficiaries in an insurance policy, evidence held insufficient to show that the substitute beneficiary was a trustee for the former one. Lide v. American Guild [S. C.] 48 S. E. 222. Evidence held sufficient to show that land belonged to the estate of plaintiff's deceased husband. Devine v. Billingsley [Or.] 77 P. 958.

14. Dunn v. Dunn [N. C.] 50 S. E. 212. If demand is made, expiration of 3 years therefrom bars action; otherwise ten years. Code, § 158. Id.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1954.

16. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909; Kroll v. Coach [Or.] 78 P. 397. See, also, Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1954.

18. Forty-two years delay by assignee of certificate of purchase held to bar right to claim that holder of legal title, under patent issued plaintiff's assignor, was a trustee. Bland v. Windsor & Cathcart [Mo.] 86 S. W. 162. Delay of several years by co-tenant in asserting his rights as beneficiary of a constructive trust against the other co-tenant held to bar action against remote grantee of the latter who had paid a fair price. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74. Where attorney acquired property adversely to his client's interests, held, six years delay, complainant residing at a distance and having no knowledge of the transaction, did not constitute laches. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959. Delay unaccompanied by any change for the worse in the situation of the parties, and acquiesced in by those interested, held not to constitute laches. Potter v. Kimball [Mass.] 71 N. E. 308. See Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

19. Commonwealth v. Clark, 26 Ky. L. R. 993, 83 S. W. 100. Right to enforce a constructive trust is barred in 10 years. Code 1892, §§ 2763. Patton v. Pinkston [Miss.] 38 So. 500. See Limitation of Actions, 4 Curr. L. 445.

20. Repaying money paid by mistake after knowledge of fraud rendering the payee a trustee ex malificio held not to estop the enforcement of such trust. Kroll v. Coach [Or.] 78 P. 397. See Estoppel, 3 Curr. L. 1327.

21. In a suit by mortgagor's vendee to enforce a trust against mortgagee, held, mortgagor's widow was a proper party. Phillips v. Hardenburg, 181 Mo. 463, 80 S. W. 891.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1955.

23. Hitchcock v. Cosper [Ind.] 73 N. E. 264. Facts constituting the fraud must be pleaded. Hoon v. Hoon [Iowa] 102 N. W. 105.

information and belief is insufficient.[24] The general rules as to multifariousness apply.[25]

Evidence.—Corroborative evidence is admissible.[26] It is for the jury where there is a jury trial to say whether the evidence is of the necessary convincing character.[27]

Relief granted.[28]—When necessary for the protection of the beneficiary, the constructive trustee may be required to convey the property to him;[29] but the conveyance need not contain covenants of general warranty.[30] A constructive trustee obtaining title by fraud and refusing to reconvey, equity may set aside the conveyance and restore the grantor to his rights;[31] but the decree should not be limited to the cancellation of the conveyance, but the trust should be ascertained and enforced.[32]

(§ 15) D. Resulting trusts. Jurisdiction.[33]—A state court has jurisdiction to declare a resulting trust in national bank stock.[34]

Laches, limitations,[35] and estoppel.[36]—Delay amounting to laches will bar suit.[37] Disavowal of the trust is a question of fact.[38] A beneficiary of national bank stock by allowing trustee to become a director in the bank is not estopped to deny the trust.[39]

Parties.[40]—A resulting trust may be enforced by the beneficiaries' legal representatives.[41]

Pleading.[42]—The bill must contain a prayer for appropriate relief,[43] and must set out in substance powers of attorney involved in the trust.[44]

Evidence.[45]—The person seeking to establish the trust must do so by clear and satisfactory evidence.[46] Though a consideration is recited in a conveyance,

24. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775.

25. Bill by vendee of mortgaged premises and widow of mortgagor to enforce a trust and to assert the latter's claim to dower is not multifarious. Phillips v. Hardenburg, 181 Mo. 463, 80 S. W. 891. A bill by a defrauded vendee is not multifarious, though containing a prayer that the complainant be invested with the title, or that an intermediary be held to account to him for the purchase money received by her, or that the defendants be held to account to him for the amount of which he was defrauded. Johnston v. Little [Ala.] 37 So. 592. See Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

26. In a suit to attach a parol trust to an absolute deed, evidence that defendant stated that he could not sell at the agreed price held corroborative of an admission of the agreement as a fact dehors the record. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775.

27. Under Code, § 413, forbidding judges to give an opinion whether a fact is sufficiently proved. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1954.

29. Avery v. Stewart, 136 N. C. 426, 48 S. E. 775.

30. When trustee purchased land in his own name at judicial sale. Hatfield v. Allison [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 729.

31. Koefoed v. Thompson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 268.

32. Pollard v. McKenney [Neb.] 101 N. W. 9.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1954.

34. In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1954. See, also, Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210; Limitations of Actions, 4 Curr. L. 445.

36. See Estoppel, 3 Curr. L. 1327.

37. Where corporate officer retained property in his own name after resigning, nine years' delay held to constitute laches. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Stevenson, 135 F. 553.

38. Whether the trustee recognized the rights of the beneficiary, whether he afterward disavowed the trust, the time of disavowal and whether the beneficiary had knowledge, or should have known it, are questions of fact. Crowley v. Crowley, 72 N. H. 241, 56 A. 190.

39. In re Fischer's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1955.

41. Gittings v. Winter [Md.] 60 A. 630.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1955.

43. A bill to quiet title and enforce resulting trust with prayer appropriate only to quieting title is demurrable as inconsistent with itself. Long v. Mechem [Ala.] 38 So. 262.

44. Bill to quiet title and enforce resulting trust held demurrable for failure to set out substance of powers of attorney therein referred to by date and place of recordation. Long v. Mechem [Ala.] 38 So. 262.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1955.

46. Cunningham v. Cunningham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 470. A widow selling property of husband and reinvesting the proceeds, a son, in order to establish a trust in the property bought, must prove the death of his father, his owning of the property, but parol evidence is admissible to establish a resulting and constructive trust in favor of one other than the grantor.[47] Parol agreements between the parties may be considered in determining the ownership of the money and how it was invested.[48] The admissibility[49] and effect[50] of particular evidence in particular cases is shown in the notes.

Decree.[51]—If the grantee makes no claim for an accounting and introduces no evidence to show that he has contributed more than his share, the court is not required to state an account before rendering the decree.[52]

§ 16. Following trust property.[53]—As between the beneficiary and trustee, and all persons claiming under the trustee, otherwise than by purchase for a valuable consideration without notice, all property belonging to the trust, however changed or altered, continues subject to the trust,[54] and if it be mingled with other property of the trustee, the beneficiary may establish a charge on the mass for the amount of the fund.[55]

Identification of fund.[56]—It is essential that the trust property can be identified in its altered or substituted form,[57] and the burden is on the claimant to so identify it.[58]

Bona fide purchasers[59] are protected against secret trusts, and hence the beneficiary cannot follow the property into their hands.[60] In order to occupy the position of a bona fide purchaser, the purchaser must have had neither actual[61] nor also that upon his death some part of his property passed to the son. Id.

47. Brooks v. Union Trust & Realty Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 843.

48. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240.

49. Where money used was the proceeds of a sale of corporate stock belonging to the beneficiary, held, memorandum list of securities was admissible in suit by beneficiary's trustee. Gittings v. Winter [Md.] 60 A. 630.

50. That alleged beneficiary quitclaimed to others does not tend to show that he had any interest in the property. Cunningham v. Cunningham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 470.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1955.

52. Koefoed v. Thompson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 268.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1956.

54. James v. Aller [N. J. Law] 57 A. 1091. Trustee with power to invest, purchasing property in name of husband, held property subject to lien in favor of the cestui que trust for the amount of the fund. Id. Personal property converted into realty. Berry v. Evendon [N. D.] 103 N. W. 748. The beneficiary of a constructive trust is entitled to recover the proceeds of a sale of the property by the trustee and from subsequent investments made by him of such money. Huffman v. Huffman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1096.

55. The mere mingling of funds which are to be devoted to a specific purpose with other funds of the depositary does not destroy the right of the true owners to claim such specific funds. Brown v. Spohr [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 14, afg. 84 N. Y. S. 995.

Note: See Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Campbell Commission Co., 77 F. 705, where there is a full discussion of the subject.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1956.

57. In re Gaskill, 130 F. 235; Winston v. Miller, 139 Ala. 259, 35 So. 853; Squires v. O'Maley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1172; Texas Moline Plow Co. v. Kingman Texas Implement Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1042. Estate held not entitled to recover money belonging to it deposited by executor in lieu of bail, there being no identification of the particular money misappropriated nor proof that the sheriff or treasurer knew that the money did not belong to the executor. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 91 N. Y. S. 962. Analogous cases dealing with the transfer of property by one having no title will be found in topics Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68; Conversion in Equity, 3 Curr. L. 876; Criminal Law, 3 Curr. L. 979. As to bank deposits, see 2 Curr. L. 1957, and also Banking and Finance, 3 Curr. L. 403.

Evidence held insufficient to show that proceeds of sale were invested in other land which was conveyed to the trustee in trust for other parties. Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834.

58. Texas Moline Plow Co. v. Kingman Texas Implement Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1042.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1957, n. 5-14. See, also, Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829.

60. Rhea v. Shields [Va.] 49 S. E. 70. Land held not impressed with a trust in favor of one advancing money to pay liens as against a bona fide purchaser of the property. Camfield v. Plummer, 212 Ill. 541, 72 N. E. 787. Beneficiaries under a will held not entitled to an interest in the land, from the sale of which the trust fund arose, as against a bona fide mortgagee of the testator. Curtis v. Brewer [Mich.] 103 N. W. 579.

61. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex.] 84 S. W. 417; McKenna v. Brooklyn Union Elevated R. Co., 95 App. Div. 226, 88 N. Y. S. 762. Pledgee of property. Tuttle v. First Nat. Bank [Mass.] 73 N. E. 560. Where trustee mortgaged trust property to a bank to which both he and his cestuis que trust were indebted. Berner v. German State constructive[62] notice of the trust before paying the purchase price,[63] and he is not relieved from liability by conveying to an innocent purchaser,[64] and the enforcement of such trust does not come within the statute of frauds.[65] The general doctrine of bona fides has been discussed in another topic.[66]

§ 17. Termination and abrogation of trust. Acts of settlor.[67]—In the absence of fraud, undue influence, or mistake,[68] a trust cannot be revoked by the grantor unless he reserves a power of revocation. Except where the rights of creditors are involved, such a power is valid and consistent with the idea of a trust,[69] and its exercise being dependent upon the assent of a third person, the power expires upon the death of the latter without giving consent.[70] No form for the revocation being exercised, any instrument clearly expressing an intention to revoke is sufficient.[71] A deposit by one person of his own money in his own name as trustee for another, standing alone, does not establish an irrevocable trust during the lifetime of the depositor,[72] but it is merely a tentative trust revocable at will until the depositor dies,[73] or completes the gift in his lifetime by some unequivocal act or declaration, such as delivery of the passbook or notice to the beneficiary.[74]

Bank [Iowa] 101 N. W. 156. Purchaser of homestead entry agreeing to abide by contract of grantor to convey certain land for church and cemetery purposes is a trustee for such church. Eimer v. Wellsand [Minn.] 101 N. W. 612. One acquiring title to a trust estate with knowledge of its character is presumed to have taken subject to the trust, though this presumption may be rebutted. Schwingel v. Anthes [Neb.] 101 N. W. 335. Where holder of title bond devised land to son for life and if he should die without issue to the state in trust, and the testatrix died without acquiring the legal title, which title was subsequently acquired by the son, held, the latter was a constructive trustee for the state. Commonwealth v. Clark, 25 Ky. L. R. 993, 83 S. W. 100. Husband receiving money from wife, knowing that it was impressed with a trust for the son, cannot, in an action on a note given therefor and assigned to the wife, claim that it was void because executed before the passage of Ky. St. 1903, c. 66, art. 3, or plead in bar thereof a judgment for alimony. Kefauver v. Kefauver, 26 Ky. L. R. 1058, 83 S. W. 119.

62. Facts sufficient to put on inquiry. Ludington v. Mercantile Nat. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 454. Record. McKenna v. Brooklyn Union Elev. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 226, 88 N. Y. S. 762. Word "trustee" on a share of stock held sufficient to put the purchaser on inquiry. Johnson v. Amberson, 140 Ala. 342, 37 So. 273.

63. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310; McKenna v. Brooklyn Union Elev. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 226, 88 N. Y. S. 762. Notice before payment of draft held effectual. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 740.

64. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex.] 84 S. W. 417.

65. It is the original instrument that creates the trust. Squires v. O'Maley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1172.

66. See Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1958. See, also, Tiffany, Real Property, § 101.

68. Dayton v. Stewart, 99 Md. 643, 59 A. 281. Evidence held insufficient to show any fraud or undue influence in procuring the deed. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show that the absence of a power of revocation was due to mistake. Id.

69. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 91 N. Y. S. 1065, afg. Id., 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508; Robb v. Washington and Jefferson College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

70. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508. Afd. 91 N. Y. S. 1065.

71. Need not be executed in accordance with Real Property Law, § 153. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 91 N. Y. S. 1065, afg. 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508.

72. In re Totten, 179 N. Y. 112, 71 N. E. 748.

Note: The New York court formerly held that a deposit by one person in trust for another raises the presumption that a trust was intended; and where no evidence of a contrary nature appeared, the beneficiary was allowed to recover. Martin v. Funk, 75 N. Y. 134, 31 Am. Rep. 446; contra, Clark v. Clark, 108 Mass. 522. Where the depositor's real intent was to evade a rule of the bank, or to avoid taxation, this presumption is rebutted and no trust is created. Brabrook v. Boston, etc., Bank, 104 Mass. 228, 6 Am. Rep. 222. The principal case expressly establishes a new doctrine in New York, and seems to lay down different rules according as the question arises before or after the donor's death, allowing revocation before death of what after death would be presumed an absolute trust. This would seem an unfortunate distinction, as it tends to obscure the vital question as to the intent of the donor at the time of making the deposit. If he then intended to create a trust, it should be irrevocable, unless the power of revocation was expressly reserved at that time. Mabie v. Bailey, 95 N. Y. 206. —18 Harvard L. R. 70.

73. In case the depositor dies before the beneficiary without revocation, or some decisive act or declaration of disaffirmance, the presumption arises that an absolute trust was created as to the balance on hand at the death of the depositor. In re Totten, 179 N. Y. 112, 71 N. E. 748.

74. In re Totten, 179 N. Y. 112, 71 N. E. 748. Bank deposit "in trust," coupled with

The trustee having the right to resign and reconvey terminates the trust by so doing.[75]

The beneficiary by assigning his interest does not terminate the trust.[76]

Termination by agreement.[77]—All persons receiving or likely to receive a benefit from the trust, being of full age and consenting, the trust may be terminated.[78] It follows that all the beneficiaries must consent,[79] and there must be no contingent limitation over.[80]

Termination for failure or completion of purpose.[81]—Unless terminated by act of the parties or of a court of competent jurisdiction, the trust continues until its objects have been fully accomplished or rendered impossible.[82] When such time arrives, the trust ceases,[83] and in the absence of an abuse of discretion clearly shown, the appellate court will not review the findings of the lower court in this regard.[84] A personal trust dies with the trustee.[85] The trustee being personally before the court, the latter may order him to convey to the beneficiaries the trust property which is without its territorial jurisdiction.[86] After a reasonable time for completion has elapsed, the trust will not be presumed to be open.[87]

Union of equitable and future legal estate.[88]—If the equitable and legal estates meet in one person, the equitable estate is generally merged in the legal and the trust ends.[89] There must be an identity of person and present interest.[90] declaration that donor wanted the beneficiary of the trust to get the money, held to create an irrevocable trust, the donor having died. O'Brien v. Williamsburg Sav. Bank, 91 N. Y. S. 908.

75. Schreyer v. Schreyer, 91 N. Y. S. 1065. Afg. Id., 43 Misc. 520, 89 N. Y. S. 508.

76. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1958.

78. Matthews v. Thompson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 93; Lewis v. Howe, 174 N. Y. 340, 66 N. E. 975, 1101. Where mortgagees are referred to in the declaration of trust merely for the purpose of recognizing the priority of their claims, the trust may be discharged without any action on their part. Matthews v. Thompson, Mass., 71 N. E. 93; Thompson v. Same, Id.

Generally required to be in writing: Rev. Laws, c. 127, § 3, construed, and written request and authorization by beneficiaries to trustee held sufficient where the latter, by the record title, held an absolute estate in fee. Matthews v. Thompson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 93. Effect and sufficiency: Agreement authorizing trustee to loan fund to a firm of which he was a member, and providing that he was to receive no compensation for services and was absolutely bound to repay the fund, held not to terminate the trust. Herbert v. Squires [Mass.] 71 N. E. 534.

79. Where trust was to continue during lifetime of two legatees, held not subject to termination before such time, one of the beneficiaries objecting. Hoffman v. New England Trust Co., 187 Mass. 205, 72 N. E. 952.

80. Where income was to go to wife and children and after the former's death the estate to be divided among the children, and if dead, their children to take by right of representation, held, the fact that widow conveyed her interest to the children did not terminate the trust. Wenzel v. Powder [Md.] 59 A. 194.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1958.

82. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051. Where will provided that at a certain time the property might be partitioned, held to continue after such time, there being no partition. Davies v. Dovey [Ky.] 85 S. W. 725.

83. Laws 1896, p. 574, c. 547, § 89. Where trust was created to prevent disposal during coverture, held, on death of husband, grantor was entitled to an adjudication terminating the trust, there having been no issue of the marriage. Sharman v. Jackson, 90 N. Y. S. 469. Where trustees were to hold property until it enhanced in value, it appearing that it only brought in $2,000 net per year, and in 20 years had only advanced from $7,500 to $9,000, held, trust would be terminated. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151.

84. Under Act of February 23, 1853 (P. L. 98), in the absence of an abuse of discretion clearly shown, the appellate court will not review the discretion of the orphans' court in refusing exoneration. McCoy's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 282.

85. A testamentary devise of property to executors to hold in trust for 25 years and then convey to charitable corporation will not be regarded in equity as personal so as to be defeated by the death of the executors within the 25 year period. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

86. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151.

87. A simple trust to sell real estate and pay debts will be presumed not to be open 14 months after converting the property in cash and part of the latter is shown to have been paid out. Holderman v. Hood [Kan.] 78 P. 838.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1959.

89. Raffel v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 59 A. 702.

Statutes: Laws 1897, p. 507, c. 417, § 3,

If the trustee acquires the equitable estate, he must be the sole beneficiary;[91] if the beneficiary acquires the legal title, the equitable estate must be alienable and unrestricted.[92]

Procedure to dissolve.[93]—Upon proceedings to terminate the trust, the court may appoint a receiver for the property, though there has been no improper conduct on the part of the trustees.[94]

TURNPIKES; ULTRA VIRES, see latest topical index.

UNDERTAKINGS.

In New York in an action on an undertaking, the beneficial plaintiff must allege the granting of the order permitting him to sue.[95] The undertaking being annexed to the pleading, its form controls over the pleader's conclusion as to its legal effect.[96]

UNDUE INFLUENCE, see latest topical index.

UNITED STATES.

§ 1. Contracts (1760).
§ 2. Officers and Employes (1761).
§ 3. Claims (1762).
§ 4. Actions By and Against (1762).

Scope of title.—The powers of the United States, are nearly, if not always, raised in questions of constitutional law.[97] Its political power is investigated in the same class of questions, also in cases of treaties,[98] or pertaining to territories and Federal possessions,[99] extradition,[1] and the like, which obviously command a separate treatment. Property rights in the public domain have also been elsewhere treated.[2]

§ 1. Contracts.[3]—A contract to furnish all necessary labor and materials for the construction of a government building is a contract for the construction of a building within the act of congress requiring the contractor to give bond for the payment of laborers and materialmen.[4] But the labor done or the materials furnished must be supplied in the prosecution of the work provided for by the contract,[5] and an agreement to supply materials to a contractor is not supplying them.[6] An action on such bond in the name of the United States can be maintained only in a court authorized to require security for costs in case judgment is for the defendant.[7] In the distribution of proceeds recovered on the bond the United States does not take priority over laborers and materialmen also secured.[8] The liability providing for the merger of the estates, is not retroactive. Metcalfe v. Union Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 498.

90. Where the trustee does not represent the estate in remainder, there can be no merger. Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834.

91. Robb v. Washington and Jefferson College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

92. Metcalfe v. Union Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 498.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1960.

94. Donaldson v. Allen, 182 Mo. 626, 81 S. W. 1151.

95. Code Civ. Proc. § 814, construed. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 33.

96. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 33. Where undertaking ran to county clerk, held to render nugatory averment that it ran to plaintiff's assignor. Id.

97. See Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730.

98. See Treaties, 4 Curr. L. 1697.

99. See Territories and Federal Possessions, 4 Curr. L. 1678.

1. See Extradition, 3 Curr. L. 1414.

2. See Public Lands, 4 Curr. L. 1106.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1960.

4. Act of August 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523). United States v. Murdock [Me.] 59 A. 60.

5. General transportation is not within the words "labor or material." United States v. Conkling [C. C. A.] 135 F. 508.

6. United States v. Murdock [Me.] 59 A. 60.

7. A domestic corporation bringing action on such a bond impliedly authorizes the court to require security, and hence the court has jurisdiction. Sayre & Fisher Co. v. Griefen [N. J. Law] 60 A. 513.

8. Bond conditioned as required by 28 Stat. 278. United States v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 78.

of the sureties is limited to the penalty named, though the bond contains two distinct obligations,—one to the United States and one to the laborers.[9] The statute limiting expenditures to "the appropriations made by congress for that fiscal year," and prohibiting the involving of "the government in any contract for the future payment of money in excess of such appropriation," prohibits the renting of building for a longer period than the fiscal years for which the appropriations are made.[10] If the government abandons the lease and vacates the premises during the year, rent may be recovered up to the end of the current fiscal year, but not longer.[11] To defraud the United States does not necessarily mean to do the government a pecuniary injury.[12] The general law of public contracts is treated separately.[13]

§ 2. Officers and employes.[14]—A department clerk not appointed in any manner provided by the constitution is not an officer of the United States.[15] The government is under no obligation under the civil service laws and rules to employ men on probation or in the permanent service whose services are not needed.[16] The right of a clerk acting under the direction of the head of a department to compensation depends on congressional legislation on that subject.[17] Officers of the United States in their official capacity are special agents who must act within legally prescribed limitations.[18] They are personally liable for their torts, though done in good faith and in supposed obedience to acts of congress,[19] and the United States is not liable unless by virtue of authorization or ratification.[20] If the act is done maliciously, punitive damages may be recovered.[21] A senator may not receive compensation for services rendered by him to any person or bureau of the United States in relation to a matter in which the United States is interested.[22] It is a crime to do so.[23] The president may act through the head of a department, and the acts of the head of a department are deemed the acts of the president, except where he acts judicially.[24]

9. United States v. American Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 78.

10. Smoot's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 418. A lease for a term of years founded upon an annual appropriation is binding upon the government only until the end of the fiscal year, with a future option from year to year until the end of the term. Id.

11. Smoot's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 418. A formal surrender of the premises is not necessary when the lease is void because of want of power on the part of the agent of the United States to contract. Id.

12. Corrupt misconduct on the part of an official of the postal department that operates to impair the administration of the affairs of that department is a wrong within the meaning of U. S. Rev. St. § 5440, U. S. Comp. St. p. 3676. Tyner v. United States, 23 App. D. C. 324.

13. See Public Contracts, 4 Curr. L. 1089.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1961.

15. Cashier of the mint appointed by the superintendent of the mint is not. United States v. Cole, 130 F. 614. Third class clerk in the post office department is subject to indictment under Rev. St. §§ 1781, 1782, as an "officer and agent" or an "officer and clerk." McGregor v. United States [C. C. A.] 134 F. 187.

16. Brown's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 255.

17. Bartlett v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 433.

18. Houser's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 508.

19. Military governor of Cuba during temporary occupation. O'Reilly De Camara v. Brooke, 135 F. 384. Property seized and retained without color of process after right to possession has ceased. Crawford v. Eidman, 129 F. 992. Thus where one takes private property for public use without compensation, be is liable. O'Reilly De Camara v. Brooke, 135 F. 384. A revenue officer is liable for the wrongful seizure of property, whether or not he acts with probable cause or under orders from his superior [under Rev. St. § 989]. Haymes v. Brown, 132 F. 525.

20. Washington L. &. T. Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 152.

21. Crawford v. Eidman, 129 F. 992.

22, 23. Inquiry relative to fraud in a proceeding in which the United States is interested within Rev. St. U. S. § 1782. United States v. Burton, 131 F. 552. Indictment for such offense held sufficient. Id. The jurisdiction of the postmaster general relative to fraudulent use of the mails is sufficient for the prosecution of a senator for taking compensation for services in endeavoring to get a favorable decision for the offender. Id.

24. Truitt's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 398. The appointment by the secretary of the navy of a meteorologist to perform work ordinarily performed by officers of the navy, and making such employment a charge on the national defense emergency fund, must be re-

§ 3. Claims.[25]—The officers of the treasury department cannot arbitrarily select between contending claimants.[26] The court of claims has jurisdiction generally of claims founded upon a law of congress.[27] A limitation on the power of the head of a department to allow a claim is not a limitation on the court of claims.[28] Claims cannot be assigned before their allowance,[29] but the purpose of the statute making void such assignments is to prevent frauds upon the treasury, not to aid persons to avoid their obligations,[30] and notwithstanding such statute, a court may prevent a claimant from withdrawing the proceeds of his claim from the reach of his creditors,[31] and if a court should enjoin a claimant from collecting his claim and appoint a receiver to do so, it would not be in contravention of the statute.[32]

An allowance by the commissioner of internal revenue for the refund of a tax illegally collected is conclusive unless impeached for fraud or mistake.[33] If such claim is rejected by the commissioner, the party may maintain action against the collector.[34] If the claim is allowed by the commissioner and payment refused by the accounting officers, suit may be brought directly against the government.[35]

The act of congress, requiring the secretary of the treasury to withhold from a claim presented for payment the amount of any debt due the United States from the claimant, does not create a lien in favor of the government.[36] The failure to so withhold an amount due for breach of contract does not release the sureties on the contractor's bond from liability therefor.[37]

Where a claimant contributes by his conduct to mislead the accounting officer, in consequence of which bounty money is paid away, the government cannot be required to pay a second time.[38]

Mandamus will issue against the treasurer to compel him to make payment of a claim allowed and for payment of which an appropriation has been made.[39]

Interest is not recoverable against the government.[40]

§ 4. Actions by and against.[41]—The United States cannot be sued by an individual except as permitted by the acts of congress,[42] nor can an action be maintained against a United States marshal and the United States jointly.[43] The United States may maintain an action to protect the conditional ownership of its garded as the act of the president. Hayden's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 39.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1961.

26. Congress created the court of claims to determine the right of anyone to receive money due by the United States. People's Trust Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 359. A ministerial officer cannot arbitrarily disregard the legal holder of a claim, a receiver, and pay the money in dispute to a creditor; and such payment cannot be set up in discharge of the United States. Id.

27. Act appropriating money for the payment of arrears due volunteers is such a law. Sowle's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 525.

28. If allowed by the court of claims it would not be payable out of the same appropriation. Geddes' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 428.

29. A contract that an attorney's fee for prosecuting a claim shall be a lien of the draft issued in payment of the claim is not an assignment within Rev. St. U. S. §§ 3737, 3477. Roberts v. Consaul, 24 App. D. C. 551.

30, 31, 32. People's Trust Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 359.

33, 34, 35. Edison Electric Illuminating Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 208.

36. Act March 3, 1875, c. 149 (18 Stat. 487). United States v. Ennis, 132 F. 133.

37. United States v. Ennis, 132 F. 133.

38. Officer accepted amount of bounty money awarded to him as an ensign, when he held a higher rank. Gates' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 52. It is a question whether the government can be held to have paid in its own wrong and be compelled to pay a second time, where a vice-consul withholds his accounts and the accounting officer makes a settlement with the consul without notice to the vice-consul. Wilbor's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 1.

39. Roberts v. Consaul, 24 App. D. C. 551.

40. In an action under a special statute to recover damages because of a collision with a naval vessel. Watts v. U. S., 129 F. 222.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1963.

42. See United States v. McLemore, 4 How. 287; Hill v. United States, 9 How. 387.

43. Bill to restrain seizure of property on a judgment in favor of the United States on a forfeited recognizance. Kirk v. United States, 131 F. 331.

wards in allotted property,[44] and such right cannot be affected by state laws.[45] The United States must be made a party to suits by Indians involving their rights to lands allotted to them by law or treaty.[46]

Under the Tucker Act, suits for claims founded on contract in which the amount does not exceed $1,000 may be maintained in a district court;[47] but actions sounding in tort cannot be maintained.[48]

Where a statute making provision for actions by the United States does not designate the court in which they may be instituted, when brought in a Federal court, they fall within the general grant of jurisdiction found in the Judiciary Act of August 13, 1888.[49] In a suit by the United States in a circuit court, in which the annulment of a contract between corporations is sought, all corporations, parties to such contract whose interests will be affected, are indispensable parties.[50]

An act referring a claim to the court of claims dispenses with the consideration of the question of limitations.[51]

The equities of the United States appeal to a court of chancery with no greater or less force than those of an individual in like circumstances.[52]

UNITED STATES COURTS, see latest topical index.

UNITED STATES MARSHALS AND COMMISSIONERS.

The Federal statute providing for the appointment of deputy United States marshals does not disable the marshal from employing a private citizen to perform services for him in aid of his official duties.[53] The Federal statute relative to the procedure by which a deputy collects his compensation does not apply to a private citizen who performs services for a marshal.[54] Under a statute making a marshal liable for the amount of an execution which he has failed to return, he is not liable for the amount of two executions on the same judgment where he failed to return either.[55] A bond conditioned to protect a marshal from liabilities for the execution of a writ of attachment does not secure fees of custodians who take charge of the attached property.[56]

A commissioner authorized to issue warrants to seize for extradition cannot issue a warrant to be executed outside his district.[57]

UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY.[57a]

USAGES; USE AND OCCUPATION, see latest topical index.

USES.[58]

The statute of uses executes a passive trust[59] without the aid of a deed or

44. Cattle allotted to Indians. McKnight v. United States [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659.

45. Notice or demand as a condition precedent to action. McKnight v. United States [C. C. A.] 130 F. 659.

46. 28 Stat. 305, as amended by 31 Stat. 760. Parr v. United States, 132 F. 1004.

47. Claim for salvage is founded on implied contract. Cornell Steamboat Co. v. United States, 130 F. 480.

48. Act of March 3, 1887 (24 St. at L. 505). Hijo v. United States, 194 U. S. 315, 48 Law. Ed. 994.

49. 25 St. 433. United States v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 715. Under this act a corporation is an inhabitant of the state where incorporated and not suable elsewhere without its consent. Id.

50. United States v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 715.

51. Bishop's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 473.

52. Relative to public lands. United States v. Detroit Timber & Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 668.

53, 54. Murray v. Pfeiffer [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 147.

55. Grubbs v. Needles [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 873.

56. Tully v. Cutler [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 714.

57. Pettit v. Walshe, 194 U. S. 205, 48 Law. Ed. 938.

For discussion of the case in the lower court, see 4 Columbia Law Review, 217.—Col. L. R. IV. 602.

57a. No cases have been found during the period covered.

58. For a full discussion of the law of Uses, see Tiffany on Real Property, vol. 1, ch. 5, §§ 82-90, pp. 197-216.

59. In re De Rycke's Will, 99 App. Div. 596, 91 N. Y. S. 159. Transfers the use in possession by converting the estate or indecree of court,[60] though on the demand of the beneficiary, the trustee will be obliged to execute a conveyance to him.[61] What constitutes a passive trust is treated elsewhere.[62] The statute can be invoked to execute a deed of trust but not to annul it,[63] and it does not apply to executed gifts.[64] It applies to personalty,[65] and upon the beneficiary taking possession, the trust becomes executed.[66] Upon the execution of the trust, the beneficiaries take as tenants in common.[67] If trustee and beneficiary join in a deed, the latter is effectual as a conveyance of title.[68]

USURY.

§ 1. Elements and Indicia (1764).
§ 2. The Defense of Usury (1766).
§ 3. The Effect of Usury (1767).
§ 4. Affirmative Relief and Procedure (1768).

§ 1. Elements and indicia.[69]—There must be an intention to exact an excessive rate, and an unlawful intent cannot be imputed so long as the acts of the terest of the cestui que trust into a legal estate, and by destroying the intermediate estate of the trustee. Graham v. Whitridge, 99 Md. 248, 58 A. 36. A passive trust is no real ownership as against the beneficial owner. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310.

60. Where an active use became passive. Moll v. Gardner [Ill.] 73 N. E. 442.

61. Fink v. Metcalfe, 26 Ky. L. R. 1263, 83 S. W. 643.

62. See Trusts, § 2, subd. Construction.

63. Where settlor made himself the beneficiary for life under a passive trust, held, he could not invoke the statute of uses to annul the deed. Dayton v. Stewart, 99 Md. 643, 59 A. 281.

64. A parol contract by which a part owner of land was authorized by other part owners to sell the same, and apply a part of the proceeds to the payment of a debt owed by himself and another party to the contract, is not after performance within the statute of uses (Comp. Laws, §§ 8829. 8833, 9509). Lasley v. Delano [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1063.

65. Real Property Law, § 73, construed, and as the reason for the rule applies to personalty, held, the rule should apply. In re De Rycke's Will, 99 App. Div. 596, 91 N. Y. S. 159.

A devised the residue of his estate, real and personal, to trustees and their successors on trust to pay the income to B for life, and after her death to hold for such of A's descendants as B should by will appoint; and on default of appointment to hold for others. B duly appointed the estate to several persons for life, and the remainders went as on default. Held, that the life estates and the remainder are legal and not equitable estates. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 58 A. 36.

Note: The court says the original trust became passive on the death of B and was executed by the Statute of Uses. This application of the statute to personalty is technically wrong, because the grantor is not "seized" of it, and is contrary to the weight of authority. Willlams v. McConico, 36 Ala. 22. But without noticing this, courts have sometimes applied the statute to an estate composed of both realty and personalty where the trustee's active duties ceased with the life estate. Doe d. White v. Simpson, 5 East, 162. The result may be supported if the court can find an expressed intention to give the trustees a legal estate for only a limited period, with legal remainders over; and there is some evidence of this intention in the fact that the donor reached this result as to his realty and purported to treat his personalty in the same way. But this is solely a matter of construction, and seems to be ineffective in the principal case in the face of an express requirement that the trustees continue to hold either, for the purposes of the appointment or on default of appointment.—18 Harv. L. R. 234.

66. Kronson v. Lipschitz [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 819.

67. Trust of personalty. Real Property Law, § 56, construed. In re De Rycke's Will, 99 App. Div. 596, 91 N. Y. S. 159.

68. Fink v. Metcalfe, 25 Ky. L. R. 1263, 83 S. W. 643.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1966. In case of a note lawful on its face, some corrupt agreement, device, or shift must be shown. Gunby v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417. Usurious transaction in the form of a building contract. Cooper v. Brazelton [C. C. A.] 135 F. 476. The fact that a larger amount has been paid as interest does not establish usury; there must be proof of a usurious contract. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562. There is no usury where the excess is caused by error in computation (Becker v. Headsten [Mich.] 100 N. W. 752), or by mistake in drawing the note (Goodale v. Wallace [S. D.] 103 N. W. 651), or by fraud of the creditor or by mutual mistake (Weicker v. Stavely [N. D.] 103 N. W. 753; Aldrich v. McClay [Ark.] 87 S. W. 813). A note may be made payable before maturity with interest to date and a fixed sum in addition. Kilpatrick v. Germania Life Ins. Co., 95 App. Div. 287, 88 N. Y. S. 628. In Minnesota a note providing for interest upon interest was held not usurious, but inequitable and not enforceable. Lee v. Melby [Minn.] 100 N. W. 379. A written agreement to pay a prior debt may provide for the highest legal rate of interest. Stewart v. Slocumb, 120 Ga. 762, 48 S. E. 311. A stipulation in the nature of liquidated damages, for failure to perform, is not usurious. Allen-West Commission Co. v. People's Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1041. But compounding interest oftener than once a parties admit of a lawful construction.[70] The courts have declined to lay down any general rule, but leave each case to be determined upon its own facts.[71] The principal is bound by the acts of his agent in making usurious loans;[72] and notice to a purchasing agent of the usurious character of a note is notice to the principal.[73] Whether a transaction is a sale or loan of personal credit or simply a cloak to cover usury is a question of fact.[74] In an action by an assignee, the defendant must show that plaintiff knew a note, fair on its face, to be usurious.[75]

There must be a loan or forbearance[76] in order to offend the usury laws,[77] and usury can never be predicated of the consideration paid for the purchase of property.[78]

The aggregate of the exactions must exceed the legal rate,[79] to be usurious, but the entire interest may be made payable at such times and in such instalments as the parties agree.[80] Where services are rendered by the parties advancing sums of money, the amount retained for such services and interest may exceed the legal rate.[81] Stipulations for payment of taxes on mortgage and debt, where they do not make the exactions exceed the legal rate, do not violate the statutes.[82]

Discounts, bonuses, commissions and other deductions or charges.[83]—A commission charged by one commission house, for guarantying commissions sent to another, in addition to interest charged and credited in the accounts current with consignors, is not usurious.[84] Reasonable expenses by the lender, such as inspection of the land and examination of the title, at the request of the borrower, may be allowed;[85] but an exaction for services in procuring a loan, in addition to the legal rate of interest, is usurious.[86]

The taint of usury[87] is not removed by extension of the loan at legal rates, without restitution of usurious interest.[88]

Usury statutes[89] are penal in their nature and must be strictly construed.[90] year, under the Missouri statutes, is usury. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Donnell, 25 S. Ct. 49. Six per cent. interest before and twelve per cent. after maturity held valid; also twelve per cent. on taxes paid by mortgagee. Sloane v. Lucas [Wash.] 79 P. 949. And the highest rate of interest in advance computed monthly on average daily debit balances, may be taken by a bank. First Nat. Bank v. Waddell [Ark.] 85 S. W. 417.

70. Norris v. W. C. Belcher Land Mortg. Co. [Tex.] 82 S. W. 500.

71. Tomlin v. Morris, 26 Ky. L. R. 681, 82 S. W. 373.

72. So held under the Washington statute. Ridgway v. Davenport [Wash.] 79 P. 606.

73. Haynes v. Gay [Wash.] 79 P. 794.

74. Forgotson v. Raubitschek, 87 N. Y. S. 503.

75. Haynes v. Gay [Wash.] 79 P. 794.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1966.

77. Mortgage executed to secure loan of mortgagee's credit. Bouker v. Galligan [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1010; Flagg v. Fisk, 93 App. Div. 169, 87 N. Y. S. 530. An arrangement between commission houses guarantying consignment, sent to another and charging a percentage on sales, held not usurious. Ryttenberg v. Schefer, 131 F. 313.

78. Flagg v. Fisk, 93 App. Div. 169, 87 N. Y. S. 530.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1967.

80. Metz v. Winne [Okl.] 79 P. 223. And interest at the highest legal rate may be made payable monthly as it falls due. Goodale v. Wallace [S. D.] 103 N. W. 651. Several notes, payable at different times, including interest due at maturity and 8 per cent. after maturity, with stipulation that all should become due in case of default in one, held not usurious. McCrary v. Woodard [Ga.] 50 S. E. 941.

81. A loan of credit. Ryttenberg v. Schefer, 131 F. 313. Services as note brokers. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562.

82. Such stipulations are void in Idaho (First Nat. Bank v. Glenn [Idaho] 77 P. 623); also where no such tax has been imposed or paid (Norris v. W. C. Belcher Land Mortg. Co. [Tex.] 82 S. W. 500).

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1967.

84. Ryttenberg v. Schefer, 131 F. 313.

85. Liskey v. Snyder [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 515.

86. Osborn v. Payne [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 667.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1968.

88. Nicrosi v. Walker, 139 Ala. 369, 37 So. 97.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1968.

90. In re Worth, 130 F. 927, citing Tiffany v. Bank, 18 Wall. 409, 21 Law. Ed. 862; Dickerman v. Day, 31 Iowa, 444, 7 Am. Rep. 156. In Michigan an agreement to compound interest, made before the interest is due, is void. Gay v. Berkey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 920, citing Hoyle v. Page, 41 Mich. 533, 2 N. W. 665; Voigt v. Beller, 56 Mich. 140, 22 N. W. 140. But after interest is due, an agreement to pay interest upon interest is valid. In Conflict of laws.[91]—Contracts are governed by the usury laws of the state where the money is payable;[92] and courts, on the ground of a supposed public policy, should not refuse to enforce them, because the rates of interest are higher than those of their own state.[93] Parties may stipulate that the law of the place of performance or that of the place where made may govern;[94] and oral evidence is admissible to prove such stipulation.[95]

Usury laws as applied to building and loan association contracts.[96]—The charter privileges of such associations must be regarded in determining the question of usury.[97] The subject of inquiry in such cases is whether a contract has been made, either directly or indirectly providing for usurious interest.[98] In the absence of statutes authorizing foreign associations to do business in the state, their loans are governed by the same rules as apply to others.[99] A note given to such an association will not be rendered usurious because of an accompanying stock contract, in the absence of proof of a corrupt agreement.[1] Where the statute provides for letting loans to the highest bidder and that no premium shall be deemed usurious, the exaction of a premium without such competitive bidding is usurious.[2]

§ 2. The defense of usury.[3]—This defense is personal to the borrower and cannot be interposed by a stranger to the contract,[4] though any one in privity

Kentucky, more than 6 per cent. on simple loans is usurious. Guenther v. Wisdom [Ky.] 84 S. W. 771. In New York, note brokers adopting as a branch of their business the loaning of money to customers on security of notes held for sale are deemed engaged in the banking business and exempt from liability of forfeiture of the principal of usurious loans [Laws N. Y. 1870, p. 437, c. 163, amd. by Laws 1880, p. 823, c. 567]. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1968.

92. In re Worth, 130 F. 927, citing De Wolff v. Johnson, 10 Wheat. 367, 6 L. Ed. 343; Call v. Palmer, 116 U. S. 98, 29 L. Ed. 559; Missouri Trust Co. v. Krumseig, 172 U. S. 351, 43 L. Ed. 474; Bigelow v. Burnham, 83 Iowa, 120, 49 N. W. 104, 32 Am. St. Rep. 294. Deemed to be performed at the home office of building and loan association when so provided in by-laws. Allen v. Riddle [Ala.] 37 So. 680. Where, a Pennsylvania corporation, as trustee for a foreign building and loan association, loans money to a citizen of that state, taking mortgage security on land in Pennsylvania and an assignment of shares of stock in the foreign association, it is a Pennsylvania contract. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Fulmer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 256. A mortgage based on a note usurious both in the state where made and where payable, though void in the latter, may be enforced there with any consequences the laws of the state where made may impose. Davis v. Tandy [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 457.

93. Midland Savings & Loan Co. v. Solomon [Kan.] 79 P. 1077.

94. Davis v. Tandy [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 457. In the absence of stipulation, it is presumed that parties intended the law which makes the contract valid. Id.

95. Davis v. Tandy [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 457.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1969.

97. National Bldg. Ass'n v. Quinn, 121 Ga. 307, 49 S. E. 312. The powers and immunities granted to these associations under Pennsylvania statutes do not extend to foreign associations. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Fulmer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 256.

98. Ford v. Washington Nat. Bldg. & Loan Inv. Ass'n [Idaho] 76 P. 1010, citing Vermont Loan & Trust Co. v. Hoffman, 5 Idaho. 376, 49 P. 376, 37 L. R. A. 509, 95 Am. St. Rep. 186; Stevens v. Home Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 5 Idaho, 741, 51 P. 779, 986; Fidelity Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Shea, 6 Idaho, 405, 55 P. 1022.

99. Transaction held usurious in Nebraska. Clarke v. Woodruff [Neb.] 100 N. W. 314. Also where foreign associations have not complied with the statutes of the state. Miller v. Monumental Savings & Loan Ass'n [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 533.

1. Gunby v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417.

2. Lewis v. Farmers' Loan & Bldg. Ass'n, 183 Mo. 351, 81 S. W. 887; Clarke v. Conners [S. D.] 101 N. W. 883.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1970.

4. Settled rule in Iowa. In re Worth, 130 F. 927, citing Carmichael v. Bodfish, 32 Iowa, 418; Green v. Turner, 38 Iowa, 112; Burlington Mut. Ass'n v. Heider, 55 Iowa, 424, 5 N. W. 578, 7 N. W. 686; Sullivan Sav. Inst. v. Copeland, 71 Iowa, 67, 32 N. W. 95; Pardoe v. Iowa Nat. Bank, 106 Iowa, 345, 76 N. W. 800. An employer, when sued for the wages of his employe, assigned to secure a usurious loan, cannot make this defense (Union Credit & Inv. Co. v. Union Stockyard & Market Co., 92 N. Y. S. 269), or creditors of a bankrupt against the claim of another creditor (In re Worth, 130 F. 927), or a purchaser of mortgaged premises, as against foreclosure suit, though he is the only person affected (In re Worth, 130 F. 927, citing Sullivan Savings Institution v. Copeland, 71 Iowa, 67; Pritchett v. Mitchell [involving right of second mortgage to this defense against foreclosure of prior mortgage], 17 Kan. 355, and cases cited; Bens-with the borrower may plead it.[5] Usury under the present law in Georgia does not defeat a bona fide taker.[6]

The statute of limitations applies as well to the defense as to actions brought to recover for usury exacted.[7]

Pleading and proof.[8] This defense must be specially pleaded,[9] except where the usury appears upon the face of plaintiff's pleadings;[10] and the party alleging usury must prove it.[11] Where the defense of usury is set up to a contract governed by the laws of another state, a reply, denying usury, must plead the laws of such other states.[12] The defense of usury being personal with the debtor, a purchaser of real estate charged with a usurious debt cannot set it up without joining the debtor in such defense.[13]

§ 3. The effect of usury.[14]—A note executed as a renewal of a usurious note is itself tainted with usury,[15] and every agreement, sealed or unsealed, entering into a usurious transaction, is invalid,[16] notwithstanding the trifling amount of the illegal exaction.[17] A pledge to secure a usurious debt is illegal and void.[18]

ley v. Hormier [involving right of judgment creditor to plead usury in action to foreclose mortgage prior to his judgment lien], 42 Wis. 631).

5. The doctrine of estoppel cannot be invoked to defeat it, when the party is legally entitled to the plea. Ford v. Washington Nat. Building & Loan Inv. Ass'n [Idaho] 76 P. 1010. A grantee subject to a mortgage given to a building and loan association without including the usurious premium, knowing nothing about it, may set up this defense against the association. Lewis v. Farmers' Loan & Building Ass'n, 183 Mo. 351, 81 S. W. 887. It can be interposed by a trustee in bankruptcy to a claim against the estate. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562, citing Matter of Kellogg, 10 Am. Bankr. Rep. 7, 121 F. 333, 57 C. C. A. 547. And by the widow of the borrower, who joined in the mortgage, as to payments made by her husband prior to conveyance of premises to her in anticipation of death. Egan v. North American Savings, Loan & Building Co. [Or.] 76 P. 774.

6. Under the present Georgia statute (Civ. Code 1895, § 2886), providing that consideration must be both illegal and immoral to prejudice rights of a bona fide holder of negotiable instruments, the defense of usury is not good as against a bona fide purchaser of corporate bonds, for value, without notice and before maturity. Former decisions to the contrary are based on 1 Ga. 407, and the old statute (Cobb's Dig. 393), expressly making all notes and bonds void as to excessive interest. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. C. [Ga.] 46 S. E. 885. Per Lamar, J., citing 69 Ga. 664, and 73 Ga. 641.

7. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14, citing Faison v. Grandy, 128 N. C. 438, 83 Am. St. Rep. 693; Harrell v. Blount, 112 Ga. 711, 38 S. E. 711; First Nat. Bank v. McInturff, 3 Kan. App. 536, 43 P. 839; First Nat. Bank v. Turner, 3 Kan. App. 352, 42 P. 936; Walsh v. Mayer, 111 U. S. 31, 28 L. Ed. 338; Brown v. Sec. Nat. Bank, 72 Pa. 209; Carter v. Moses, 39 Ill. 543; Davis v. Converse, 35 Vt. 506.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1971.

9. Thayer v. Buchanan [Or.] 79 P. 343; Rogers v. O'Barr [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 750. It cannot be added by amendment after the impaneling of the jury (Robinson v. Lampel, 97 App. Div. 198, 89 N. Y. S. 853), nor can the claim to usurious interest be relinquished after affirmation of judgment for borrower, on new trial ordered on other grounds, by filing an amended petition (Second Nat. Bank v. Fitzpatrick [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1150).

10. Davis v. Tandy [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 457.

11. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562, citing White v. Benjamin, 138 N. Y. 623, 33 N. E. 1037; Rosenstein v. Fox, 150 N. Y. 363, 44 N. E. 1027; Bosworth v. Kinghorn, 94 App. Div. 187, 87 N. Y. Supp. 983.

12. Columbian Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Rice, 68 S. C. 236, 47 S. E. 63.

13. Harper v. Middle States Loan, Bldg. & Const. Co., 55 W. Va. 150, 46 S. E. 817.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1972.

15. The promise of a debtor to pay illegal interest, however often repeated, is not in itself sufficient to avoid the consequences of a usurious contract. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14. Promise to pay usurious interest void and unenforceable in North Carolina. Erwin v. Morris [N. C.] 49 S. E. 53.

16. So held under the New Jersey statute. Clarke v. Day [N. J. Law] 60 A. 39. In New York a usurious contract is merely voidable at the option of the borrower or his privies. And even as to privies the right of this defense may be cut off by the waiver of the original party. Union Credit & Investment Co. v. Union Stockyard & Market Co., 92 N. Y. S. 269. In Iowa it is voidable as to the interest in excess of the legal rate. In re Worth, 130 F. 927. The amount recoverable on a usurious note taken by a national bank depends upon the law of congress and state courts must follow the adjudications of the United States supreme court. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14, citing Farmers' Bank v. Oliver, 55 Neb. 774, 76 N. W. 449; Robbins v. Muldrow, 39 Kan. 112; National Bank of Auburn v. Lewis, 75 N. Y. 516, 31 Am. Rep. 484; Holden v. Cosgrove, 12 Gray [Mass.] 216; Bridge v. Hubbard, 15 Mass. 96, 8 Am. Dec. 86; Steele v. Whipple, 21 Wend. [N. Y.] 103; Reed v. Smith, 9 Cow. [N. Y.] 647; Tut-

Forfeitures.[19]—The only penalty necessarily attaching to the exaction of illegal interest, under the Federal banking law, is the forfeiture of all interest.[20] In New York the principal of a usurious loan is forfeited.[21] Plaintiff, when met by a plea of usury, cannot avoid the forfeiture of the entire interest by electing to remit the excess.[22]

Application of usurious payments.[23]—Usurious payments, not barred by the statute of limitations,[24] are to be applied to the reduction of the principal,[25] and where payments, applied at a legal rate of interest, are sufficient to discharge the indebtedness, the borrower is entitled to a cancellation of the mortgage security.[26]

§ 4. Affirmative relief and procedure.[27]—By suing to have a contract to convey and a deed of real estate declared an equitable mortgage, complainant estops himself to complain of its usurious nature.[28]

Recovery of usury.[29]—An action to recover must be based on an actual payment of usurious interest;[30] but the recovery need not necessarily be against the party who received it.[31] The obligation to repay usurious interest implies a contract to do so.[32]

An action under a statute[33] to recover usurious interest paid must be brought within the prescribed time.[34]

The penalty.[35]—In New York, the taking of unlawful interest is a misdemeanor.[36] In North Dakota,[37] and North Carolina, double the usurious interest paid can be recovered.[38] hill v. Davis, 20 Johns. [N. Y.] 285; Mathews' Adm'r v. Traders' Bank [Va.] 27 S. E. 609; First Nat. Bank v. Plankinton, 27 Wis. 177, 9 Am. Rep. 453; Snyder v. Mt. Sterling Nat. Bank, 94 Ky. 231, 21 S. W. 1050; Brown v. Marion Nat. Bank, 169 U. S. 416, 42 Law. Ed. 801; Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank v. Hoagland (C. C.) 7 F. 159; Boyd v. Engelbrecht, 36 N. J. Eq. 612; Taylor v. Morris, 22 N. J. Eq. 606; 27 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 967, 968. A court of equity will not enforce a usurious contract prohibited by law, but will require the debtor to do equity. Gund v. Ballard [Neb.] 103 N. W. 309. In an action to obtain release from the lien of a chattel mortgage void for usury, a tender of the amount actually loaned is not necessary. Lyons v. Smith [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 918.

VAGRANTS.[39]

17. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Donnell, 25 S. Ct. 49.

18. Osborn v. Payne [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 667.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1973.

20. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14.

21. In re Robinson, 136 F. 994. But brokers making a business of advancing loans to their customers, on security of notes held for sale, are deemed engaged in the banking business and exempt from liability of forfeiture of the principal. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562.

22. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Donnell, 25 S. Ct. 49.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1973.

24. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14.

25. Nicrosi v. Walker, 139 Ala. 369, 37 So. 97. So under the Missouri statute. Lewis v. Farmers' Loan & Bldg. Ass'n, 183 Mo. 351, 81 S. W. 887.

26. Egan v. North American Savings Loan & Bldg. Co. [Or.] 76 P. 774.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1973.

28. Malone v. Danforth [Mich.] 100 N. W. 445.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1973.

30. First Nat. Bank v. Lasater, 25 S. Ct. 206.

31. Usurious interest, paid to the innocent holder of a negotiable note, may be recovered from the original payee. Harbaugh v. Tanner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 145.

32. Buntyn v. National Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Miss.] 38 So. 345.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1974.

34. In Louisiana the limitation is attached to the right of recovery itself and is not a part of the law of the remedy; if the right is not asserted within the prescribed time, it ceases to exist. Gunby v. Armstrong [C. C. A.] 133 F. 417, citing Walsh v. Mayer, 111 U. S. 36, 28 Law. Ed. 338. In North Carolina the defense that the action was not brought within two years is available, though not pleaded. Tayloe v. Parker [N. C.] 49 S. E. 921. Barred in Louisiana twelve months after settlement of accounts. Dannenmann & Charlton v. Charlton [La.] 36 So. 965.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1974.

36. People v. Warden of City Prison of Manhattan, 89 N. Y. S. 322.

37. Waldner v. Bowdon State Bank [N. D.] 102 N. W. 169.

38. Tayloe v. Parker [N. C.] 49 S. E. 921.

39. No cases have been found for this subject since the last article. See 2 Curr. L. 1975

VALUES; VARIANCE; VENDITIONI EXPONAS, see latest topical index.

VENDORS AND PURCHASERS.[40]

§ 1. The Contract Generally and Interpretation of It (1769). Under the Statute of Frauds (1770). Construction of Contract (1771). Options (1772).
§ 2. Title and Incumbrances (1774).
§ 3. Condition, Quantity and Description of the Property. Estate (1776). Quantity of Land Contracted For (1776). Description of Land Contracted For (1777).
§ 4. Rights and Liabilities Between Date of Sale and Delivery of Deed (1778).
§ 5. Waiver of Performance of Defects (1780).
§ 6. Default and Its Effect (1781).
§ 7. Performance of the Contract. Time of Performance (1783). Tender of Performance (1785).
§ 8. Rescission and Reformation. Right to Rescission (1786). Rights of Vendor After Rescission (1789). Rights of Vendee After Rescission (1789).
§ 9. Adjustment of Rights After Conveyance or Breach of Contract (1790).
§ 10. Enforcement Generally (1791).
§ 11. Vendor's Liens (1793).
A. Implied Lien (1793).
B. Express Lien (1795).

§ 1. The contract generally and interpretation of it.[41] Creation of Contract.[42]—The general principles applicable to all other contracts are essential to the creation of a contract for the sale of land; thus there must be a meeting of the minds of the parties as to its terms,[43] and an intention to contract one with the other.[44] A mere proposal, without consideration, creates no obligation, unless accepted according to its terms,[45] and it may therefore be withdrawn at any time before acceptance,[46] though if such offer is allowed to remain open until accepted, it will become a binding contract.[47] An acceptance of an offer must be unconditional and in the terms of the offer.[48] There must be a sufficient consideration, though the promise to sell is a sufficient consideration for a promise to purchase.[49] In some jurisdictions a contract for the sale of land entered into by an agent in behalf of the owner is invalid, unless the agent's authority is in writing subscribed by the owner,[50] and describing the land which he is authorized to sell.[51]

40. This topic treats of the contract for sale or purchase of land and excludes to separate topics the law of deeds (see Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056), which are from this point of view merely one of the acts of performance of a sale or purchase, the law of notice and recording (see Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829). It also excludes matters of general contract law which are not dependent on the fact that the contract in question is one for sale of lands (see Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805), and other topics related thereto as Deceit, 3 Curr. L. 1045; Fraud and Undue Influence, 3 Curr. L. 1520; Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527).

41, 42. See 2 Curr. L. 1976.

43. Lord v. Meader [N. H.] 60 A. 434. Letters construed and held not to constitute a contract since clearly contemplating subsequent negotiations between the parties and the execution of a formal contract. Dreiske v. Joseph N. Eisendrath Co., 214 Ill. 199, 73 N. E. 379.

44. An offer in writing to sell certain land at a certain price addressed to a real estate broker, and an offer by another to purchase the same land at the price named in the offer of sale, likewise addressed to the real estate broker, does not constitute a contract of purchase and sale, nor can parol evidence be received to connect the two communications for the purpose of creating a contract. Ratterman v. Campbell, 26 Ky. L. R. 173, 80 S. W. 1155. An instrument construed and held to be a binding contract of purchase and sale. Bernzweig v. Zwisohn, 91 N. Y. S. 736.

45, 46, 47. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

48. A conditional acceptance of an option for purchase amounts to a practical rejection thereof. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758. An acceptance of the "growth" on certain land is not an acceptance of an offer to sell the "timber" in the absence of evidence that the terms are synonymous. Lord v. Meader [N. H.] 60 A. 434. An offer must be accepted in its exact terms in order that a contract should arise therefrom, and any attempt to impose new conditions or terms in the acceptance, however slight, will ordinarily deprive the acceptance of any efficacy as creating a contract. A letter accepting an option to purchase land and directing deed and abstract to be forwarded to a designated bank to be delivered on examination by purchaser and his satisfaction with the title held not to impose new terms, but to constitute an unconditional acceptance of the offer and give rise to an executory contract. Kreutzer v. Lynch [Wis.] 100 N. W. 887.

49. Where a contract is signed by one who thereby promises to purchase certain land from another on the happening of a certain contingency, at a price named, an obligation on the part of the promisee to convey at the price named will be implied, and hence there is a consideration for the contract, and on the happening of the contingency and the offer of the vendor to convey, the purchaser is bound by his contract. Ferguson v. Getzendaner [Tex.] 83 S. W. 374.

50. Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P.

In other jurisdictions an agent whose authority rests in parol may by a contract in writing make a contract binding on his principal.[52] Where the statute requires the authority to be in writing and describing the land, the ratification of a sale by an agent not so authorized must be in writing, describing the land with such definiteness as would be binding on the principal if found in a contract executed by him.[53] The agent to make a valid contract must act within his authority,[54] which is revoked by a sale by the owner.[55]

Under the statute of frauds[56] an executory contract for the sale of lands is void unless in writing.[57] But payment of the purchase price and taking posses-

118. Where the wife of the owner of land, purporting to act for him in the sale thereof, signed his name to a contract for its sale, but without authority in writing as required by the statute of frauds, the fact that the owner, on the same day, indorsed his name on a check given by the purchaser for a part of the purchase price and as earnest money, does not constitute such a note or memorandum as will take the sale out of the operation of the statute of frauds. Koenig v. Dohm, 209 Ill. 468, 70 N. E. 1061.

Pleading want of authority in writing: When one, sued on a contract for the sale of land entered into by one purporting to act as his agent, seeks to avoid the contract on the ground that the agent was not authorized to act for him, he must plead such facts as will show the want of authorization in writing, though it is not necessary to refer to the statute of frauds. Koenig v. Dohm, 209 Ill. 468, 70 N. E. 1061.

51. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 3418, no contract for the sale of land, entered into by an agent in behalf of his principal, is binding unless the authority of the agent is in writing. The authority of the agent must describe the land which he is authorized to sell with as great a degree of definiteness as would be required in a contract by the owner to sell. It cannot be identified by parol evidence. Johnson v. Fecht [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1077.

52. Kreutzer v. Lynch [Wis.] 100 N. W. 887.

53. Johnson v. Fecht [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1077.

54. When an agent is authorized to sell two tracts of land for a specified price, he has authority to sell the two tracts to different persons, provided the sale is made at the same time and the price received from the two sales aggregates the specified amount. Campbell v. Beard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 747. See, also, title Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68.

Double agency: Where it is sought to set aside a contract on the ground that the agent for one party was also the agent of the other, evidence that one had paid him commissions is admissible on the question of agency. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863. See, also, Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68; Brokers, 3 Curr. L. 535. See, generally, as to agencies for purchase or sale of land, Clark and Skyles, Agency, §§ 533-554, 596-604.

55. An authority to another to sell land as agent of the owner can be revoked at any time, and the giving of an option to a third person and notice of his acceptance is a revocation of the agent's authority. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens, 26 Ky. L. R. 243, 80 S. W. 1171. Where an owner who has placed real estate in the hands of a broker for sale sells the land, the broker's agency is terminated without notice, and the production of a purchaser by the broker after that does not entitle him to commission. Wallace v. Figone [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 492.

56. See title Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527.

57. In order to comply with the statute of frauds requiring contracts for the sale of land to be in writing, it is not necessary that the whole agreement should be written on one piece of paper, but it can be fully collected from various papers referring to one another or directly related to one another, such as letters and telegrams written and sent and the replies thereto, so that they may be fairly said to constitute one paper relating to the contract; it is a sufficient agreement if it appears therefrom that the minds of the parties met and if the terms of the contract by referring to the various writings can be made to clearly appear. Cobb v. Glenn Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1005. Negotiations looking to the creation of contract of promise of sale of immovable property contemplated a written contract. Until the contract is reduced to writing and executed either party may withdraw. Levy v. Levy [La.] 38 So. 155.

NOTE. Sufficiency of memorandum: An action was brought by a vendee for the specific performance of a contract for the sale of land. The contract was evidenced by a memorandum which states how certain instalments of the consideration were to be paid, but did not mention the manner of payment of the residue. Held, that oral evidence is admissible to show when the remainder of the consideration was to be paid. Ruzicka v. Hotovy (Neb. 1904) 101 N. W. 328.

This decision is contrary to the weight of authority, the general rule being that a contract for the sale of land to be valid must contain the precise terms of payment. Wright v. Walker (1862) 25 N. Y. 153, 82 Am. Dec. 331. Nelson v. Baby Manufacturing Co. (1892) 96 Ala. 515, 38 Am. St. Rep. 116. Snow v. Nelson (1902) 113 F. 353. Whenever the statute provides that the consideration must be stated, there is no doubt that all the terms of payment are intended. If the statute does not stipulate for mention of the consideration yet it would appear that the word contract should include all the terms thereof. Such interpretation is in accord with the weight of authority and seems more in consonance with the purpose of the statute than that adopted by the principal case. O'Donnell v. Leeman (1857) 43 Me. 158, 69 Am. Dec. 49. Browne on the sion of the land and making valuable and permanent improvements thereon will take it out of the operation of the statute of frauds,[58] as will the execution of a deed and delivery of possession to the vendee.[59] Thereafter the deed is conclusive evidence of the contract between the parties, except as to the consideration.[60] Part payment of the purchase price alone is not such part performance as will take a contract out of the statute of frauds.[61] A contract in writing for the sale of land may be modified by a subsequent oral contract which has been executed.[62] A contract exists and becomes operative as soon as one copy is executed and delivered; the subsequent execution of a duplicate does not refer the inception of the contract to the execution of the duplicate.[63] Where a contract is executed by one party and submitted to the other for execution and he interlines other terms and executes it and returns the same to the party who first executed it, the retention of the copy without objection is an acceptance of the new terms.[64] A purchaser of land may maintain a suit for specific performance on a written contract signed only by the vendor.[65] A contract to enter into a contract of sale does not give the promises the remedies of a purchaser.[66] A conveyance of land by one who has an executory contract for the purchase thereof will transfer his rights under the contract to the grantee.[67] A sale of standing timber confers on the purchaser a vested interest in the land, and the rules applicable to the recording of conveyances apply to the contract of sale.[68]

Construction of contract.[69]—The general rules applicable to the construction of contracts apply to the construction of contracts for the sale of land. If the paper itself affords a reasonably clear understanding of what the parties have engaged themselves to, its language alone should be consulted and parol evidence is inadmissible.[70] It will be construed according to its legal effect and not ac-

Statutes of Fraud [4th Ed.] § 379, et seq. 5 Columbia L. R. 163.

58. Bringhurst v. Texas Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 893. Where the owners of land by parol authorize another to deed it to a third person who in consideration of money paid by such third person deeds it to the latter and he goes into possession and makes valuable improvements, the transaction amounts to a parol sale of the land and the purchaser can compel specific performance. Kuteman v. Carroll [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 842.

59, 60. Tucker v. Dolan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1126. An oral contract for the sale of lands is taken out of the operation of the statute of frauds by the execution and delivery of a deed, and the putting of the vendee in possession, and in such case the vendor can show by parol evidence what the price agreed to be paid was, though the deed given recited a different amount from that agreed on, and can recover any amount not paid, though in excess of the recited consideration for the deed. See v. Mallonee [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 557.

61. Koenig v. Dohm, 209 Ill. 468, 70 N. E. 1061.

62. Hence where a dispute arose between the parties to a written contract as to whether the price was to be for the tract in gross or a specified sum per acre, the acceptance of a sum per acre in settlement of the controversy is binding, there being a deficiency in the quantity of land. Hill v. Maxwell [Kan.] 79 P. 1088.

63. Morehouse v. Terrill, 111 Ill. App. 460.

64. The fact that the purchaser made improvements before the return of the interlined copy which provided for their forfeiture in case of default does not affect his rights under the changed contract in which he has acquiesced. Church v. Lapham, 94 App. Div. 550, 88 N. Y. S. 222.

65. Hyden v. Perkins, 26 Ky. L. R. 1099, 83 S. W. 128. See, also, title Specific Performance, 2 Curr. L. 1678.

66. Where the owner of land enters into an agreement with another to lease to him the land and also agrees that such lease shall contain a clause giving the lessee an option to purchase the land, the lessee cannot enforce specific performance or damages for refusal of the lessor to convey, where the owner has requested the execution of the lease in accordance with the contract and the lessee has refused to execute the lease. Livesley v. Muckle [Or.] 80 P. 901.

See, also, post this section, "Options."

67. Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240.

68. J. Neils Lumber Co. v. Hines [Minn.] 101 N. W. 959. Where the owner of land executes a writing reciting that for and in consideration of a certain sum the receipt whereof is acknowledged, he "agrees to sell" certain timber growing on the land, the contract will be regarded as an executed conveyance of the timber transferring title thereto to the purchaser. Brodack v. Morsbach [Wash.] 80 P. 275.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1976.

70. Harmon v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 569.

cording to the name given to it by the parties.[71] The interpretation put on an ambiguous contract by the parties thereto will be followed by the courts.[72] Where it is doubtful as to whether a conveyance was intended as a conditional sale or mortgage, it will be held to be a mortgage.[73] A quit-claim deed cannot be construed as an agreement to convey any after-acquired title which the grantor may obtain.[74] Conveyance and payment of the purchase price are to be performed concurrently, unless it clearly appears that such was not the intention of the parties.[75] Where a contract for the sale of land provides that "a survey shall be made by a competent surveyor to be mutually agreed on," the selection of a surveyor is not essential to a completion of the sale, and where the vendor refuses to agree on a surveyor, the purchaser may have the tract surveyed and enforce specific performance.[76] The parties are bound to exert reasonable efforts to carry into effect an agreement that the purchase price shall be fixed by appraisers.[77]

Options.[78]—An option has been defined as "an unaccepted offer to sell." It transfers no title or right in rem, but creates a right in personam, and that right is to accept or reject a present offer within a limited or reasonable time in the future.[79] Option contracts are valid and will be enforced if seasonably accepted.[80] The fact that one who takes an option to purchase land does so for the purpose of speculation does not make it fraudulent.[81] An option given without consideration is a mere offer and can be withdrawn at any time before acceptance,[82] on notice to the person to whom it was given that it is revoked;[83] but if

71. Hence a contract, of which time is stipulated to be of the essence by which one denominated the lessee is to pay a certain sum per year "as rent" for a specified number of years, after which if the payments are all made the lessor agrees to convey the land to the lessee, is a contract for sale creating the relation of vendor and purchaser. Lytle v. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 402. An instrument containing terms of grant in the present tense, but also showing that the grantor did not have title or possession at the time of its execution, and contemplating the subsequent execution of a deed held to be an executory contract to convey and not a deed. Prusiecke v. Ramzinski [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 771.

72. "Saw timber" as used in a contract construed with reference to conduct of parties. Chemical Charcoal Co. v. Smith [Miss.] 38 So. 232. Where the contract is indefinite, the construction and practical interpretation placed on it by the parties themselves will control. Webster v. Major, 33 Ind. App. 202, 71 N. E. 176. Where the owner of land signs a contract for the sale of land and it is thereafter referred to by the parties in correspondence as an option, it will be so regarded by the courts. Standiford v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 991.

73. Instrument construed and held to be a mortgage and not a conditional sale of land. Fulwiler v. Roberts [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1148.

74. Chamberlain v. Abrams, 36 Wash. 587, 79 P. 204.

75. Stein v. Waddell [Wash.] 80 P. 184.

76. Howison v. Bartlett [Ala.] 37 So. 590.

77. An agreement in a contract for the sale of land that the value thereof shall be ascertained by appraisers is not revocable by the parties; they are bound to use reasonable efforts to carry such stipulation into effect. It must be appraised within the time named or within a reasonable time. The submission may be revoked by the refusal of the appraisers to act, by the death of a party to the contract, or by death of the appraiser, and where there is no agreement for resubmission, it may be revoked by the failure of the appraiser to agree or where an award made is set aside. The implied revocation of the submission does not, however, authorize a rescission of the contract. Parsons v. Ambos, 121 Ga. 98, 48 S. E. 696.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1979.

79. Standiford v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 991. An option has been defined as follows: The obligation by which one binds himself to sell and leaves it discretionary with the other party to buy is what is termed in law an "option," which is simply a contract by which the owner of property agrees with another person that he shall have the right to buy the property at a fixed price within a certain time. An option conveys no title to the thing sold, but creates rights in personam which may be again sold or assigned by the vendee. Womack v. Coleman, 92 Minn. 328, 100 N. W. 9. An option is a contract by which an owner agrees with another person that he shall have the privilege of buying certain property at a fixed price within a specified time. It is neither a sale nor an agreement to sell. The person to whom it is given acquires no interest in the land until after acceptance. Myers v. J. J. Stone & Son [Iowa] 102 N. W. 507. An instrument construed and held to be an option and not a contract of sale. Milstein v. Doring, 92 N. Y. S. 417.

80. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

81, 82. Cummins v. Beavers [Va.] 48 S. E. 891. A parol extension of an option, without consideration for the extension, is merely an offer, and can be withdrawn at any time before acceptance. Id.

83. Notice of revocation: The recording it is given for a valuable consideration, it cannot be withdrawn before the expiration of the time for which it was given.[84] If the option is contained in a lease, the covenants of the lease may constitute a consideration.[85] Where an option does not specify the time within which it must be accepted, the person to whom it is given has a reasonable time for acceptance.[86] The acceptance of an option within the time limited by the option contract, when given for a consideration or before withdrawal and notice, if not based on a consideration, gives rise to an enforceable contract.[87] The acceptance must be unconditional, but a mere request for a change in the terms of the option does not nullify the effect of a contemporaneous, unconditional acceptance.[88] A conditional acceptance of an option amounts to a practical rejection of it.[89] Where the last day, within which by its terms the holder of an option could accept it, fell on Sunday, an acceptance on the following Monday is in time and creates a binding contract.[90] The posting of a letter of unqualified acceptance of an offer makes the acceptance complete from the moment the letter is mailed, where it is apparent the parties contemplated the use of the mails as an agency of communication.[91] In the absence of language in the option contract indicating a con-

of a deed executed by a person who has given an option to another for the purchase of the land described in the deed, before the expiration of the time when by its terms the option would expire, is not a notice to the holder of the option, it being without consideration, that the vendor has revoked the option. Smith v. Russell [Colo. App.] 80 P. 474. Where a deed is deposited in escrow and an option given to another to purchase the land described in the deed within a specified time on payment of a specified sum to the person holding the deed in escrow, a notice by the vendor to the holder of the deed that the offer is revoked is not a notice to the person to whom the option was given and an acceptance by him before such notice though after notice to the person holding the deed, constitutes a binding contract for the sale of the land. Notice of revocation of an option must be communicated to the person to whom the option is given. Id.

84. Cummins v. Beavers [Va.] 48 S. E. 891. The release of a notarial bill for $3.00 held not a sufficient consideration for an option on land, the purchase price of which was stipulated to be $8,000.00. Wallace v. Figone [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 492.

85. When an option is given to a lessee to purchase the leased premises, the lease is a sufficient consideration to support the option, and the lessor cannot withdraw it before the time given in which to accept it has expired; but when the time for its acceptance is specified, unless accepted at that time it expires. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758. An optional agreement to convey, made on proper consideration, or forming part of a lease or other contract that is in fact the consideration for it, cannot be revoked by the vendor within the period granted for the exercise of the option. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134. A lease containing an option for the purchase of the demised land by the lessee and also containing a clause requiring the lessee as a condition precedent to his right of possession to give security for the performance of the covenants of the lease, held not to constitute a consideration for the option, where the lease never became operative by reason of the lessee's failure to give the security. Id.

Liability of lessee accepting option for rent: Under Rev. Laws Mass. c. 129, § 8, a lessee who during a rent period exercises an option given by the lease, to purchase the leased premises is liable for rent for the period before the execution of the conveyance by the landlord and after the lessee has taken possession under the lease. Withington v. Nichols [Mass.] 73 N. E. 855.

86. Where an option provides that the first payment shall be made on or before a certain date or as soon thereafter as the title should be examined and accepted, the vendee has a reasonable time after the date specified within which to examine the title and accept the offer. Standiford v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 991.

87. Pennsylvania Min. Co. v. Smith, 210 Pa. 49, 59 A. 316. There is no contract of purchase or obligation to sell and convey until the option is accepted. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758.

An option to purchase given a lessee by the terms of his lease is a continuing offer to sell and a contract of sale is completed on the date of notice that the option is taken advantage of. King v. Raab, 123 Iowa, 632, 99 N. W. 306.

88. An acceptance of a formal and carefully prepared option of sale of land, within the time by it allowed and according to its terms, although accompanied by a request for a departure from its terms as to the time and place of performance, is an unconditional acceptance and converts the option into an executory contract of sale provided the request be not so worded as to limit or qualify the acceptance. Turner v. McCormick [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 28.

89. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758.

90. Smith v. Russell [Colo. App.] 80 P. 474.

91. Campbell v. Beard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 747. An option "for 20 days" given on the 3d of the month may be accepted at any trary intent,[92] an option for the purchase of land is assignable, and on acceptance by the assignee gives rise to a contract enforceable by him.[93] So, too, the rights of the vendor under an option contract may be enforced by one to whom the vendor has contracted to convey subject to the prior option.[94] Option contracts are construed as are all other contracts, and the intention of the parties governs.[95] After an option has been repudiated, no rights can be claimed under it.[96]

§ 2. Title and incumbrances.[97]—One who has contracted to purchase land is entitled to a marketable title.[98] The test of a marketable title is whether it is clear beyond a reasonable doubt and will not expose the purchaser to litigation.[99]

time on the 23d of the same month. Where the person who gave the option was absent from home on the last day for which the option was given, a letter accepting the offer left at the residence of the vendor is sufficient. Holmes v. Myles, 140 Ala. 665, 37 So. 588.

92. An unrestricted option to purchase land is assignable, and when contained in a lease may be enforced by an assignee of the lease, but the owner of the property by providing in the contract that the person to whom it is given "but no other person" shall have the right to purchase, may make it a mere personal privilege not assignable. Myers v. J. J. Stone & Son [Iowa] 102 N. W. 507.

93. Kreutzer v. Lynch [Wis.] 100 N. W. 887. An assignment by the holder of an option to purchase land, of an interest in such option, does not carry with it an implied warranty of title when the option contract shows on its face that it is given in consideration of services to be rendered in the future. Shuttleworth v. Myer [Ky.] 87 S. W. 270.

94. Where the owner of land gives to another an option to buy it at a certain price and subsequently gives another an option, subject to the previous option, and the person to whom the last option was given and within the time limited thereby accepts the offer, he has the right to require that the person to whom the first option was given shall pay the price fixed in such first option, and he succeeds to the rights of his vendor thereunder and can maintain a suit for specific performance against the holder of the first option to whom the owner conveyed at a less figure than that named in the option, the grantee taking with notice of the rights of the holder of the second option. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens, 26 Ky. L. R. 243, 80 S. W. 1171.

95. Cross v. Snakenberg [Iowa] 102 N. W. 508. A contract construed and held to be a contract of agency to sell land and not an option to purchase. Faraday Coal & Coke Co. v. Owens, 26 Ky. L. R. 243, 80 S. W. 1171. See, also, infra, Performance of the Contract.

96. An assignee of such an option who takes with notice of all the facts acquires no rights. Notley v. Shoemaker, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 584.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1980.

98. Miller v. Bronson [R. I.] 58 A. 257; Scudder v. Watt, 90 N. Y. S. 605; Downey v. Seib, 92 N. Y. S. 431. A vendee is entitled to a marketable title, and one free from reasonable doubt or pending litigation. Muller v. Palmer, 144 Cal. 305, 77 P. 954. Where a building on land contracted to be sold encroaches on adjoining land to such an extent that the owner of the land encroached on can maintain an action to recover possession thereof, the purchaser can refuse to complete the contract on the ground the title is not marketable. Bergman v. Klein, 97 App. Div. 15, 89 N. Y. S. 624. Encroachment of adjoining buildings 1 to 3½ inches on land contracted for held to render title unmarketable. Klim v. Sachs, 102 App. Div. 44, 92 N. Y. S. 107. A conveyance by the Society of Shakers held to vest a marketable title in vendor. Feiner v. Reiss, 90 N. Y. S. 568. A title is not unmarketable because there are judgments of record against the vendor's grantor where it also appears that subsequent to the entry the grantor was adjudged a bankrupt and discharged as to such judgments. Grosso v. Marx, 45 Misc. 500, 92 N. Y. S. 773. Evidence held to show a marketable title in the vendor. Doll v. Pizer, 96 App. Div. 194, 89 N. Y. S. 277.

99. Downey v. Seib, 92 N. Y. S. 431. Title held not marketable. Miller v. Bronson [R. I.] 58 A. 257. It is well settled in this state that a court of equity will never compel a purchaser to take a title unless it be one which puts the purchaser in all reasonable security that no flaw or doubt will come to disturb its marketable value, provided the doubt be real and not fanciful. A deed to certain persons "as trustees and their successors in office," "in trust to erect thereon a place of worship for the use of the members of a certain church organization," does not grant such a title to the organization, as a corporation, as will sustain a suit for specific performance by it against a purchaser. Methodist Episcopal Church at Bound Brook v. Roberson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1056. A purchaser is entitled to a title free from doubt and uncertainty that litigation will not be necessary to defend it. The doubt ought not to be captious, but must be considerable and rational,—such as would and ought to induce a prudent man to hesitate to take the title if he was effecting an original purchase. A mere possibility of a defeat or a threat or the possibility of a contest is not enough. Wollenberg v. Rose [Or.] 78 P. 751. Where one who had contracted to convey land procured from a mortgagee thereof a conditional release of a prior mortgage, the title thus acquired is not to be regarded as a merchantable title. Spooner v. Cross [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1118. A purchaser of land for a valuable consideration will not be compelled to take a title that is doubtful or one that will involve him in almost certain litigation. Brown v. Widen [Iowa] 103 N. W. 158.

Title founded on adverse possession: A

A title which is in litigation is not a marketable title.[1] Immaterial defects and technical objections, where the purchaser gets substantially what he contracts for, will not be permitted to be set up to defeat a decree for specific performance.[2] The mere existence on the day when title is to be closed of an incumbrance, which it is within the power of the vendor to remove, is not a breach of a contract to sell free of incumbrance.[3] Ordinarily the contract by its terms defines the title which is to be conveyed.[4] One who has contracted for a title free from incumbrances is not required to accept a title subject to an inchoate right of dower. But if the purchaser is willing to take such title with an abatement of the purchase price to the extent of such dower interest, the vendor cannot object.[5] The vendee will not be compelled to accept a title acquired by adverse possession, upon the mere fact of uninterrupted possession for the statutory period, unless it is shown by the vendor that the legal owners were not under a disability so that the statute would run against them. Carolan v. Yoran, 93 N. Y. S. 935.

1. "A marketable title is one about which there can be no fair and reasonable doubt, and a title in litigation is unmarketable." Corbett v. McGregor [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 278. Where a vendor tenders a title which is involved in litigation and asks for specific performance, the court cannot determine that the litigation is groundless and without merit, since the parties to such litigation are not parties to the suit. Wollenberg v. Rose [Or.] 78 P. 751.

2. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578. See, also, title Specific Performance, 2 Curr. L. 1678.

3. Rabin v. Risnikoff, 95 App. Div. 68, 88 N. Y. S. 470.

4. "By the terms of the agreement, the title to the premises was to be good and marketable and the premises were to be conveyed clear of incumbrances and free of all restrictions." Held, that a covenant in a deed running with the lands restricting the grantee from building within a given distance of the street line constituted such a defect of title as precluded plaintiff from furnishing defendant with a marketable title and one free from restrictions. Coues v. Hallahan, 209 Pa. 224, 58 A. 158. A contract entered into subsequent to a contract of sale construed and held to authorize a suit for specific performance for a balance of the purchase price retained by the purchaser, pending determination of another suit involving question of whether certain tax assessments were a lien at time deed was to be given with covenants against incumbrances. Luyster v. Joseph, 179 N. Y. 53, 71 N. E. 458. A contract to purchase the vendor's "one-half interest in remainder, reversion or whatever nature the same may be" in certain land, obligates the purchaser to take whatever interest the vendor has and to pay the agreed price therefor. Ewart v. Bowman [S. C.] 49 S. E. 867. Where subsequent to the execution of a contract to convey the vendor's "interest" in certain land the land is sold pursuant to judicial proceedings to which the purchaser is made a party, to satisfy claims which existed against it at the time the contract of purchase was entered into and of which the purchaser is deemed to have had notice, the purchaser cannot recover the amount paid by him on account of such purchase. Webster v. Major, 33 Ind. App. 202, 71 N. E. 176. Where the owner of land contracted to sell and convey it, subject to a mortgage, which it was agreed should be placed thereon and that the purchaser should assume and agree to pay such mortgage, the vendor was authorized to place on the land a mortgage in the form and containing conditions usually found in mortgages of similar property, i. e., semi-annual payment of interest, stipulation for attorney's fees in case of foreclosure, insurance clause and clause for forfeiture in case of nonpayment of interest when due. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578. Where a purchaser of land agrees to accept title so soon as the vendor obtains a decree quieting title, a decree obtained in good faith and under form of law is sufficient and ordinarily he will not be excused from performance because there is a possibility that defendants in the action to quiet title may open the decree and defend within the time fixed by statute. Bales v. Williams [Iowa] 103 N. W. 150. Where the heirs of a deceased owner of land contract to sell and convey it by a "good deed free of all incumbrances," they are bound to exonerate it from claims against the decedent's estate. Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 235, 69 N. E. 97. Where adjoining lots are sold at auction sale pursuant to a notice that recites that certain building restrictions are to be placed on the lands and deeds are made accordingly, each purchaser is entitled to the enforcement of the restrictions as constituting a general scheme of improvement. But lands not sold at such auction and afterwards conveyed by the vendor without restriction are not subject thereto, and the prior purchaser cannot maintain suit to enforce them. McCusker v. Goode, 185 Mass. 607, 71 N. E. 76. See, also, title Buildings and Building Restrictions, 3 Curr. L. 572. A special tax which has not ripened into a lien, by reason of the issuance of the tax bill by the city, is not an incumbrance within the meaning of a contract for the sale of land which obligates the vendor to convey free of existing incumbrances. Contract of sale construed with reference to obligation of vendor to pay taxes not a lien at time of contracting. Everett v. Marston [Mo.] 85 S. W. 540. Where a contract provides for the laying out of a roadway across a part of the land to be sold, the purchaser is not entitled to a deed omitting an exception of such roadway. Levandowski v. Althouse [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786.

5. Payne v. Melton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 277 The purchaser is entitled to a deed, with a purchaser is not entitled to a deed signed by the wife unless she joined in the execution of the contract.[6] The fact that a wife does not join with her husband in giving an option will not relieve him from the duty of specific performance if the option is exercised.[7] In the ordinary contract of purchase and sale there is an implication that the conveyance to be made thereunder will transfer the title to the property; but in the absence of any special agreement on the subject, it is incumbent upon the vendee to examine the title for himself and to point out any objections he may have to the title tendered him by the vendor.[8] Where a contract for the sale of land provides that the purchaser shall be the sole judge as to whether the title is good and as to whether he will accept the title, he cannot arbitrarily and in bad faith reject the title. Where under such circumstances a purchaser rejects a title it will be presumed he did so because the title is defective and not marketable.[9] The right to reject the title offered may be exercised by the assignee of the original purchaser.[10] The purchaser of an equitable title takes it with all its imperfections.[11] A vendee who takes with notice that his vendor has agreed to convey a right of way through the premises will be compelled to specifically perform the agreement.[12] When one agrees to purchase land with notice that any coal under it has been sold, but no such reservation is made in the agreement, and he subsequently joins in a prayer for specific performance, he thereafter cannot refuse performance and he is liable for the full value of the land unless he shows the value of coal under it.[13] A contract, title to pass on the performance of certain conditions by the vendee, gives him a mere equitable title.[14]

§ 3. Condition, quantity, and description of the property.[15] Estate.—A contract in general terms, for the sale of land, is a contract for the conveyance of the entire estate in the lands sold, by a good and sufficient deed.[16]

Quantity of land contracted for.[17]—Where a tract of land is sold in gross and the contract recites that it contains a certain number of acres, neither party in the absence of fraud is entitled to extra compensation or abatement of the purchase price in case there is an excess or deficiency,[18] unless the deficiency proportionate abatement of the contract price, if the amount of the deduction can be ascertained. The question of the amount of the deduction cannot be determined by a master, but must be determined by the chancellor. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097. In ordering the specific performance of a contract for the sale of land which does not fix a sum as liquidated damages for the failure of the wife to join in the deed, the chancellor has no power to provide for a deduction from the purchase price of any sum as the value of the inchoate right. Such inchoate right is incapable of valuation, and the purchaser must either take a deed and rely on its covenants or refuse to consummate the deal. Id.

6. Rankin v. Rankin, 111 Ill. App. 403.

7. Purchasers may elect to take such title as he can give. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.

8. Goodell v. Sanford [Mont.] 77 P. 522.

9. Simmons v. Zimmerman, 144 Cal. 256, 79 P. 451. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that the vendor shall furnish an abstract showing title to the satisfaction of the vendee's attorney, the vendee cannot be deemed in default where the attorney acting bona fide and in good faith rejects the title. Moling v. Mahon [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 956.

10. Simmons v. Zimmerman, 144 Cal. 256, 79 P. 451.

11. The vendee of an equitable title is not a bona fide purchaser, protected against the equities of the grantor of his vendor. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

12. Coolbaugh v. Ransberry, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 97.

13. Schoonover v. Ralston, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 375.

14. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1982.

16. Arentsen v. Moreland [Wis.] 99 N. W. 790. A contract with a railroad company entitled to land grants from the government, held to contemplate the conveyance of a fee-simple title. Maffet v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 489.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1983.

18. A contract for the sale of land designating the land and reciting the quantity in such a way as indicates that it is unknown, is regarded as a sale in gross, and the purchaser, in the absence of actual fraud and misrepresentation by the ven-is so great as to amount to a failure of consideration or defeat the object of the purchase.[19] In such case there is no implied warranty as to quantity.[20] On the other hand, where lands are sold by the acre, the purchaser cannot be required to pay for more than the tract contains, irrespective of the recitals of the contract. If he has paid for an excess, he can recover the amount so paid.[21] In the last mentioned case the vendee can maintain an action for damages, though an instalment of the purchase price is not due.[22] If the price agreed to be paid is an exact multiple of the number of acres recited in the contract, it is deemed ambiguous as to whether the sale is in gross or by the acre, and parol evidence is admissible to show the fact in that respect.[23] A party may by express contract waive his right to object to a deficiency of land conveyed.[24] The purchaser is not bound to accept a deed for a materially less quantity of land than that contracted for,[25] but after a contract is closed, a vendee who does not offer to rescind and reconvey can recover a portion of the purchase price on the ground of fraud only in a clear and satisfactory case.[26]

Description of land contracted for.[27]—A contract which describes the land in such a manner that it can be ascertained by the aid of parol evidence to a certainty what land was intended to be sold, is enforceable;[28] but where an indor touching the quantity of land, relied on by the purchaser, cannot recover or have an abatement of the purchase price where the tract does not contain the recited quantity. In such case the burden is on the vendee to prove the fraudulent intent of the vendor. Cork v. Cook [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 757. Where a contract for the sale of a tract of land described by metes and bounds or otherwise recites that it contains a certain number of acres, and it appears that the sale was in gross, and not by the acre, the vendor on discovering that the tract contains more than the recited quantity cannot recover for the excess, or rescind the contract; on the other hand under some circumstances the vendee is entitled to an abatement of the purchase price where the tract contains less than that recited. Newman v. Kay [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 926. Where no fraud is shown, and the deficiency small, a purchaser under a partition decree who pays over the purchase money which is distributed, cannot after a considerable lapse of time recover the amount of the deficiency. Landreth v. Howell, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 210.

19. Where a tract is sold in gross, as a certain tract, though the number of acres in the general description is mentioned, yet accompanied with the words more or less, an abatement will not be allowed, as a matter of course, but only where the deficiency is so great as to amount to a failure of consideration or defeat the object of the purchase. Harsey v. Busby [S. C.] 48 S. E. 50.

20. Newman v. Kay [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 926.

21. Harsey v. Busby [S. C.] 48 S. E. 50. A vendee, where there is a shortage in the quantity of the land conveyed pursuant to a contract, may offset the value of the land not conveyed when sued for the purchase price, or he can recover the same in an independent action where the purchase price has been paid. Joiner v. Trail [Ky.] 86 S. W. 980. Where a contract for the sale of land described by metes and bounds provides that the purchaser shall pay a certain sum per acre, the number of acres to be determined by a survey, excluding from the computation the right of way of a railroad which crosses the tract, the area occupied by highways is not to be deducted from the area for which payment is to be made. Beach v. Hudson River Land Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 210.

22. One who has entered into a contract for the purchase of land and who has paid a part of the price and entered into possession may maintain an action to recover damages caused by a deficiency in the quantity of the land in the tract contracted for, though a part of the purchase price is not due and is unpaid. Stearns v. Kennedy [Minn.] 103 N. W. 212.

23. Newman v. Kay [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 926.

24. Lowndes v. Fishburne [S. C.] 48 S. E. 264.

25. Albro v. Gowland, 90 N. Y. S. 796. Where the owner of a lot contracts to sell the same and in the contract it is recited that the lot contains a certain quantity of land "more or less," the vendee is not bound to accept a deed for less than the recited quantity, unless it appears that the lot described as a fact was not of the dimensions recited and that the deed conveyed the entire lot. A reduction of 9 inches in width and 5 feet in depth of a city lot held a material reduction. Raben v. Risnikoff, 95 App. Div. 68, 88 N. Y. S. 470.

26. Evidence insufficient. Schmitz v. Roberts, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 472.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1983.

28. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527; Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118; Howison v. Bartlett [Ala.] 37 So. 590. A contract for the sale of a "farm of about 20 acres known as the V. farm" is a sufficient description, since it can be identified by parol evidence, where the description can only be applied to one tract. Hyden v.

sufficient description is given or where there is no description, such evidence is inadmissible, because the court will never receive parol evidence both to describe the land and then to apply the description.[29] The construction of a contract acted on by the parties, with reference to the description of the land, as in other features, will be adopted by the courts.[30] A vendor who permits a vendee to contract with him on faith of his statements as to value is bound to know that they are true.[31]

§ 4. Rights and liabilities between date of sale and delivery of deed.[32]— Under a contract for the sale of lands, the purchaser becomes the equitable owner of the lands and the seller the equitable owner of the purchase money; the purchaser has all the benefit of subsequent improvements and increase in value, and is also subject to all losses and depreciation not occasioned by the negligence or default of the seller in carrying out the contract.[33] The vendee can maintain an action for a wrongful injury to the premises by a third person.[34] His interest may be conveyed, descends to his heirs and is subject to the lien of a judgment against him,[35] and under some circumstances his wife is entitled to dower therein.[36] The vendee, according to the terms of the contract, may or may not be entitled to possession during the time intervening between the execution of the contract and the time when by its terms the conveyance is to be made.[37] If by its Perkins, 26 Ky. L. R. 1099, 83 S. W. 128. "That tract of land adjoining section nine and known as the Phil Allen place" held a sufficient description. Raines v. Baird [Miss.] 37 So. 458. A contract which describes the premises to be conveyed as being occupied by a person named and by street and number is sufficiently definite as to description, though it does not give the city, county or state, where the premises can be definitely identified by parol evidence. Engler v. Garrett [Md.] 59 A. 648.

29. Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118.

30. Where there is a difference between the descriptive language used in an act of sale and a diagram prepared under the direction of the vendor, with reference to which land is sold, and the vendor puts the vendee in possession of the property called for in the diagram and all the facts and inferences disclosed or suggested by the evidence point to the conclusion that the vendor intended to sell and the vendee to buy the property of which the latter is thus put in possession, a purchaser of the rights of the heirs of the vendor in the land of which possession was surrendered but which was not described in the act of sale, who buys after the lapse of many years and without warranty and with a stipulation against the return of the price, cannot recover the land referred to in the diagram, but not described in the act of sale. Gray v. Coco [La.] 36 So. 878.

31. Jack v. Hixon, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 453.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1984.

33. Marion v. Wolcott [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 242. A vendee in possession under an executory contract for the purchase of land is the equitable owner of the land and the vendor holds the legal title in trust for him and as security for his compliance with the conditions of the contract. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

Application of proceeds of insurance policy: Where a contract for the sale of land provides that until payment of all the purchase price and conveyance the purchaser shall keep the premises insured in a designated sum for the benefit of the vendor as his interest may appear, the proceeds of insurance in case of loss before conveyance are payable to the vendor for application on the purchase price, but in the absence of a stipulation therefor in the contract, he cannot be required to devote such money to rebuilding the burned buildings. Marion v. Wolcott [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 242. A contract construed and held not to impose on the vendor the burden of paying for insurance on the premises sold during the time intervening the making of the contract and the making of the deed. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58. Interests arising on contract of sale, see Tiffany, Real Property, 264.

34. Shinn v. Guyton & Herlington Mule Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1015.

35. Stearns v. Kennedy [Minn.] 103 N. W. 212. A vendee in possession under a contract for the purchase of land has a vendible interest in the land, as has one to whom such vendee has assigned her equitable title. The title of a vendee in possession can be sold under execution against him. Hubbard v. Kansas City Stained Glass Works & Sign Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 82.

36. One who has entered into possession of land under a parol contract for the purchase thereof, and who has paid the purchase price therein, has such an equitable estate therein as entitles his widow to dower therein. Howell v. Parker, 136 N. C. 373, 48 S. E. 762. See, also, title Dower, 3 Curr. L. 1144.

37. Where a married woman enters into a contract for the purchase of land, which contract provides for the cultivation of the land by the purchaser, the fact that the husband of the purchaser lived with her and devoted his time and labor to raising a crop does not overcome the presumption terms he is entitled to possession, his right to possession continues after a breach by him, until the vendor has disaffirmed the contract or until a sale of the premises pursuant to a foreclosure of the vendor's lien.[38] If entitled to possession, he is not, of course, liable for rent,[39] and if deprived of possession during time which under the contract he is entitled to possession, he can require the vendor to account for its use and occupation.[40] Where he enters into possession under the contract, his possession is subordinate to the rights of the vendor,[41] and for some purposes will be regarded as the possession of the vendor.[42] The vendor is entitled to interest on the purchase price from the time when by the terms of the contract it should have been paid.[43] One who sells property after taxes are levied and before they become a lien is as between vendor and vendee liable therefor,[44] and if he retains possession until the time fixed by the contract for conveying, for taxes accruing during the interim,[45] unless otherwise provided by statute.[46] One who takes a conveyance of land with notice that his grantor has entered into a contract for its sale to another takes it subject to the equities of such other.[47] Hence, where a purchaser of land is entitled to specific performance as against his vendor, he is entitled to the same relief as against a grantee of his vendor, who took with knowledge of the vendee's rights,[48] otherwise as to a of ownership by the wife. Thurston v. Osborne-McMillan Elevator Co. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 892.

38. Runge v. Gilbough [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 832.

39. One in possession of land under an oral contract with the owner for the conveyance thereof to him is not liable for rent during the time he is in possession, where the vendor subsequently ousts him from possession and refuses to convey. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718.

40. Where an owner of land in possession thereof sues one who has contracted to purchase it and recovers the purchase price, the vendee is entitled to an accounting for the rents and profits of the land from the time when by the terms of the contract sued on he was to have possession. The vendor is not liable for rent in the sense of compensation for his possession, but he must account for what he actually received from the property. Ferguson v. Epperly [Iowa] 103 N. W. 94. When specific performance of a contract for the sale of land is decreed and by the terms of the contract payment was to be made upon delivery of the deed, the vendee is entitled to the profits accruing between the day when the deed should have been delivered and the day it is delivered, and the vendor is entitled to interest on the purchase money for the same period. But where by the terms of the contract the purchase money is not to be paid at such time, the vendor is entitled to interest only from the time when payment was to be made. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58.

41. Where one enters into and holds possession of land under an executory contract of purchase, the entry and possession are in subordination to the title of the vendor until payment or performance of all the conditions by the vendee or until the vendee has distinctly and unequivocally repudiated the title of his vendor, which repudiation is brought expressly or by legal implication to the vendor's knowledge and until then adverse possession cannot be predicated on the vendee's possession. Runge v. Gilbough [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 832. See title Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51.

42. Where a vendee is in possession under an executory contract, his possession will be regarded in equity as that of the vendor where necessary to protect the rights of the latter against third persons. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

43. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58.

44. Appeal of Bailies [Iowa] 102 N. W. 813.

45. Duty to pay taxes: As between the parties to an executory contract for the sale of lands, the seller where he retains the possession, rents and profits until the conveyance is due, must pay the accruing taxes, in the absence of any agreement by which the purchaser assumes that obligation. Clinton v. Shugart [Iowa] 101 N. W. 785.

46. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 4023, a vendee in an executory contract for the sale of land, though by the terms thereof the first payment is not to be made until after the 15th of September succeeding the execution of the contract, is liable for taxes assessed on the 15th of Sept. after the execution of the contract, and this too, though the contract provides that the vendor shall convey free of incumbrances and the conveyance is not to be made until the first payment. Hughes v. McCreary [Ky.] 86 S. W. 522.

47. Alexander v. Goetz [Ala.] 37 So. 630. All persons claiming title through a vendor, with notice of the rights of third persons or acquiring title as heirs or devisees are bound by the terms of the contract previously entered into by their grantor. Tingue v. Patch [Minn.] 101 N. W. 792.

48. Engler v. Garrett [Md.] 59 A. 648; Cummins v. Beavers [Va.] 48 S. E. 891; Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030; Forthman v. Deters, 206 Ill. 159, bona fide purchaser without notice.[49] The vendee may be bound by acts of the vendor with reference to the property, of which he has knowledge and to which he does not object,[50] though the vendee cannot be regarded as the agent of the vendor for the purpose of purchasing building material.[51]

§ 5. Waiver of performance or defects.[52]—A written contract for the sale of land may be abandoned or annulled by the parties thereto by parol agreement,[53] unless the vendee has acquired a homestead right in the premises, in which case his wife must join in the release.[54] The parties may waive a forfeiture incurred by either under the terms of the contract.[55] After waiver of a forfeiture neither

69 N. E. 97. See, also, Specific Performance, 2 Curr. L. 1678. A purchaser of land, with notice of a prior contract to convey the same to another, takes it subject to the equitable rights of the original contractor to a completion of his bargain, and may be compelled in equity to perform the contract of his vendor, and upon a bill filed by the original vendee against the vendor and his grantee, the proper practice is to direct a specific performance of the complainant's contract by such grantee, in whom resides the legal title. In such case the subsequent grantee having paid the vendor is entitled to the purchase price to be paid by the complainant. Frank v. Stratford-Handcock [Wyo.] 77 P. 134.

49. One who for a valuable consideration and without notice of a prior contract by the owner to convey land to another takes a conveyance thereof, takes a title superior to that of the vendee in the contract. Martin v. Thomas [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 118. See, also, Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829.

50. Vendee is bound by consent of vendor to the building of a street railway in front of the property, when vendee has knowledge of the consent, and does not revoke it. Day v. Forest City R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 393.

51. Vendee not constituted agent of the vendor in the purchase of material for buildings to go upon the land under a contract for transfer of the land after erection of the buildings; interest of the vendor not liable to the party furnishing the materials. Lapham v. Ransford, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 577.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1986.

53. Hougen v. Skjervheim [N. D.] 102 N. W. 311. Where one to whom the owner has contracted to convey land states to one subsequently negotiating for its purchase that he has abandoned his contract and does not intend to consummate it, and such other thereupon enters into a contract for the purchase of a tract of which it forms a part and which is more valuable by reason of the inclusion of it, equity in a suit for specific performance by the assignee of the first purchaser will treat the first contract as abandoned and will not permit a retraction of the abandonment. Cox v. Raider [Mich.] 101 N. W. 531.

54. A release by a vendee to a vendor of his rights under a contract for the purchase of land of which he is in possession under the contract and which is used as a home for himself and family and which is community property, is not binding on the wife and minor children, and they can enforce the contract against the vendor where she did not join in or consent to the release. Zeimantz v. Blake [Wash.] 80 P. 822. See, also, title Homesteads, 3 Curr. L. 1630.

55. A party to a contract for the sale of land, who knowingly consents to a postponement of the performance by the other of some stipulation of the contract which is for his benefit, cannot, after the other has acted on the consent, avail himself of the default to declare a forfeiture, though the performance of the stipulation at the time specified may have been made of the essence of the contract. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482.

Waiver of forfeiture by vendor: A vendor in a contract for the sale of land which by its terms provides for payment within a specified time and that in case such payments are not made the vendee's rights shall cease, may waive a forfeiture by a subsequently executed parol agreement. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482. A vendor of land may waive a forfeiture of the vendee's rights under the contract, either expressly, or by estoppel arising from acts tending to mislead the vendee or lull him into the belief that strict performance will not be exacted. Vito v. Birkel, 209 Pa. 206, 58 A. 127. A provision in a contract providing that the rights of the purchaser shall be forfeited if he fails to make the payments at the times specified in the contract, even though time be made of the essence of the contract, may be waived by the subsequent conduct of the parties, and if waived specific performance will be decreed on an offer by the purchaser to comply with the contract by a tender of all amounts due. Cugham v. Larson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1088. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that time shall be of the essence and also that default in payments shall work a forfeiture of the vendee's rights in the land, the fact that the contract also provides that overdue instalments of the purchase price shall bear interest at a greater rate after due than before is not inconsistent with the position that default should ipso facto work a forfeiture, but is intended to be operative only in case the vendor elects to waive the forfeiture. Maffet v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 489.

Waiver by vendee: Where a contract of which time is of the essence provides that the vendor shall deliver a deed and abstract showing a good title at a date specified, and on such date the purchaser states that he will take title as soon as the vendor has procured a decree quieting title, he will be deemed to have waived his right to a rescission and cannot pending the suit party can insist thereon without first giving the other notice to perform and affording a reasonable time for so doing.[56] After the contract is complete, a change in the value of the property without the fault of either party will not excuse compliance with it.[57] Where a subsequent condition not contemplated by the parties arises, which imposes a heavy burden on the vendor for the benefit of the property, the vendee may be required to assume such burden as a condition to specific performance.[58]

§ 6. Default and its effect.[59]—Where a purchaser has lost his right to specific performance because of his laches in performing the terms of the contract by him to be performed, he is not entitled to damages for breach of the contract after a belated offer to perform on his part.[60] An express repudiation of the contract by one of the parties thereto before the time for performance is a breach thereof, giving the other a right of action, though before the time for performance has arrived he sells to another.[61] One who contracts to convey land knowing he has no title,[62] or having title refuses to convey to the purchaser,[63] or conveys to a third person, is liable to the purchaser for the purchase price paid by him and damages for breach of the contract.[64] In such case the measure of damages is the difference between the market value of the land at the time the vendor had agreed to to quiet title maintain an action to rescind the contract and recover payments made. Bales v. Williamson [Iowa] 103 N. W. 150.

56. Where a vendor has once waived the strict performance of a contract by a vendee, he cannot again assume the original relations and insist on a forfeiture, unless on a subsequent default not within the purview of the waiver without giving the purchaser notice of his intention and a reasonable time in which to comply with the demand for payment. Maffet v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 489. See infra, "Performance of the contract," § 7.

57. King v. Raab, 123 Iowa, 632, 99 N. W. 306.

58. Streets in front of the premises paved at expense of abutting owners. King v. Raab, 123 Iowa, 632, 99 N. W. 306.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1987.

60. See, also, post, § 7. "The same reasons which can be urged against specific performance can also be urged against the action for damages where the vendor has been able and willing to perform his part of the contract; and his failure to perform has been due to want of willingness to perform on the part of the vendee." Findley v. Koch [Iowa] 101 N. W. 766. Equity will not decree specific performance where after the making of the contract the purchaser has neglected to complete performance on his part and only acts when it appears that there is an increase in value, where the circumstances are such as to make it inequitable to do so. Id. See, also, title Specific Performance, 2 Curr. L. 1678.

61. Where one party to an executory contract for the sale of land, before the time appointed for performance, repudiates it by declaring that he will not perform, the other party may treat such declaration as a breach and at once bring an action for damages. Where it is stipulated that earnest money shall be forfeited as stipulated damages in case of the purchaser's failure to perform, he cannot recover the same, where he repudiates the contract before the time for performance, though at such time the vendee is unable to perform. Woodman v. Blue Grass Land Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 236.

62. One who contracts to convey land, to which, at the time he makes the contract, he knows he has no title, is liable to the vendee for the difference between the real value of the land and the contract price, at the time the contract was by its terms to be performed, where the former exceeds the latter, though the vendee knew the vendor had no title. Arentsen v. Moreland [Wis.] 99 N. W. 790.

63. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482. Where one who has contracted to sell land refuses to do so, not because he has not title but because he does not want the land used for the purpose for which the vendee intends to use it, the vendee is entitled to damages for the loss of his bargain as well as the money paid on account of the purchase price, nor can the vendor avoid the payment of such damage where it appears that his wife has an inchoate right of dower in the land where it does not appear the wife refused to join in the deed. Brown v. Honniss, 70 N. J. Law, 260, 58 A. 86.

64. Where subsequent to entering into a contract to convey, the vendor, without canceling the contract in the manner required by statute, sells and conveys to a third person, the purchaser can recover the part of the purchase price paid pursuant to the contract, together with damages for its breach. Wolke v. Chas. A. Watts & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 76. When the vendor conveys the premises to a third person and thus puts it out of his power to carry out his contract to convey, the purchaser may maintain a suit for damages. Evidence held to show that a note given by the purchaser was received in payment, and an extension of time for payment made by one to whom the note was transferred by the vendor, held not such a breach of purchaser's contract as precludes suit for damages for failure to convey. Delaney v. Shipp [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 973.

convey, and the contract price, together with a return of what he has paid on the purchase price.[65] Market value of land is the highest price obtainable in the open market for cash.[66] The vendor cannot recover damages where the vendee's refusal to perform is due to the vendor's default.[67] The purchaser on the vendor's failure to convey the title contracted for can recover the part of the purchase price paid.[68] The failure of the parties to perform in accordance with the terms of the contract, as affecting their right to a rescission of the contract, are treated elsewhere in this article.[69] Where time is of the essence of a contract, failure of the purchaser to make the payments at the time specified, in the absence of statute, operates as a forfeiture of his rights under the contract,[70] unless such forfeiture has been waived by the vendor.[71] According to the terms of the contract, such forfeiture may arise without action by the purchaser,[72] or it may be necessary for him to declare his intention to forfeit the rights of the vendee.[73] Conveyance to

65. In an action by a vendee to recover damages for breach of a contract for the sale of land, the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the market value of the land at the time of the breach, and it is immaterial whether the market value at that time is fixed by conditions which are permanent or merely temporary and due to speculative interests. Dady v. Condit, 209 Ill. 488, 70 N. E. 1088. A vendor of lands who has title but refuses to convey in accordance with his contract is liable to the vendee for the damages sustained by the loss of his bargain which is the market value of the land, less any unpaid instalments of the purchase price. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482. The measure of damages for the total breach of a contract to convey land is the value of the property which the vendor agreed to convey, in case the purchase price has been paid. Where the price has not been paid and the claim for it is released or abandoned, the measure of damages is the difference between the value of the property and the unpaid purchase price. Watkins v. American Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 134 F. 36.

66. Dady v. Condit, 209 Ill. 488, 70 N. E. 1088.

67. Where a contract for the sale of land provided that the vendor should procure a loan on the land for the purchaser and also provided that in case the vendor could not get the loan because of a defect in the vendor's title, then the purchaser was to be relieved of all liability on account of the contract, the vendor cannot recover damages for breach of the contract where it appears the only person to whom the vendor made an application for a loan refused it because of a defect in the title, though the purchaser refused to execute the notes intended to be given for the loan. Jackson v. Martin [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 603.

68. Where the purchaser contracted to convey subject to a mortgage imposing certain conditions, a conveyance subject to a mortgage imposing more onerous conditions justifies a refusal to accept the conveyance and the vendee can recover. Schiff v. Tamor, 93 N. Y. S. 853. An assignee of the vendee on breach of the vendor's agreement to convey can recover the deposit made and expenses of examining title. Forbes v. Reynard, 46 Misc. 154, 93 N. Y. S. 1097.

69. See section 8, "Rescission and Reformation."

70. Tingue v. Patch [Minn.] 101 N. W. 792. Where a contract provided for the sale of a certain number of acres for a specified sum provided the vendor should remove an incumbrance on a part of the land within a specified time, and a less sum in case he did not, and by its terms time was of the essence of the contract, the vendor by removing the incumbrance after the time specified is not entitled to the difference between the amount paid and what would have been paid had the incumbrance been removed within the specified time. Bracken v. Sobra Vista Oil Co., 143 Cal. 678, 77 P. 649.

71. One seeking to forfeit a contract for the sale of land, because of default in the performance of the conditions of the contract by the purchaser, must act promptly after the default occurs, and if he does not the default is deemed waived. Cughan v. Larson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1088. Where a vendor waives a strict performance and permits the vendee after default to continue in possession of the property and make payments on the purchase price or permanently improve the property, he can effect a cancellation of the contract and forfeiture of the vendee's rights, only by giving notice and allowing a reasonable time within which to perform. The same rule applies where time is not of the essence of the contract. The vendor cannot arbitrarily cut off the rights of the vendee. Tingue v. Patch [Minn.] 101 N. W. 792. See, also, ante, "Waiver of performance and defects."

72. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that if the vendee fails to make the payments therein provided for at the time stipulated, he should forfeit as liquidated damages the payments already made and "the contract shall be rescinded," time is of the essence of the contract and the vendee's failure to make the payments at the time specified ipso facto rescinds the contract and works a forfeiture. Vito v. Birkel, 209 Pa. 206, 58 A. 127.

73. Where a contract for the sale of land, of which time is declared to be of the essence, provides that the defendant shall have the right to declare a forfeiture in case the payments contracted for are not made, the vendee loses no rights by reason of his failure to make the payments con-

another may be sufficient notice of such election.[74] In some jurisdictions the statutes provide that the vendor shall give the vendee notice and a reasonable time within which to perform, irrespective of the terms of the contract,[75] and in Pennsylvania though time is made of the essence as to deferred instalments, a forfeiture cannot be declared except on reasonable notice.[76] In such jurisdictions the statute must be complied with.[77] A vendor relying on a forfeiture must show that he was not himself in default.[78] Forfeitures are not regarded with favor by courts of equity, and slight circumstances are seized on to avoid them;[79] thus where the contract specifies the grounds for forfeiture, other grounds cannot be relied on therefor.[80] Where forfeiture is once waived and several payments accepted, it cannot be subsequently declared for the prior default.[81]

§ 7. Performance of the contract.[82] Time of performance.[83]—In the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the delivery of the deed and payment of the purchase price are to be made concurrently.[84] Where a contract is silent as to tracted for, provided the vendor does not declare a forfeiture, and hence until then the vendee can enforce specific performance, and the burden of proving the declaration of forfeiture is on defendant. Thompson v. Colby [Iowa] 103 N. W. 117. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that if the purchaser shall default in the performance of the terms of the contract by him to be kept and performed, the vendor shall have the right to declare the contract void, the vendor cannot recover possession of the premises without first giving the purchaser notice of a forfeiture of the contract. Miner v. Dickey [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 254, 103 N. W. 855.

74. Where, after the lapse of a year and a half after the time a vendee by the terms of a contract to purchase land had agreed to pay for it, the vendor conveys to another by deed which is recorded, the vendee is deemed to have constructive notice of the cancellation of the contract by the vendor. If, after notice of forfeiture, he does nothing towards performance, he will be deemed to have acquiesced in the cancellation of the contract. Moran & Co. v. Palmer, 36 Wash. 684, 79 P. 476. A party to a contract of sale for cash upon delivery is excused from performance if the other party at the time fixed for performance refuses to perform, but requests an extension of time. Notice to the defaulting party and sale to another constitutes a rescission by the vendor. Mason v. Strickland [Neb.] 103 N. W. 458.

75. The holder of an option has no such interest in the land described in the option as requires the giving of a notice in conformity with Laws 1897, c. 223, to terminate his rights. Womack v. Coleman, 92 Minn. 328, 100 N. W. 9.

76. Kuhn v. Skelley, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 185.

77. Proceedings to effect a forfeiture of a contract to convey land and money paid by a purchaser on account of such a contract must be strictly in accordance with the statute authorizing it, and where a notice of forfeiture purports to recite the description of the land, it must do so correctly; if it do not, the notice is of no effect and the purchaser can recover the money paid where subsequent to the ineffectual notice the vendor has sold and conveyed the land intended to be conveyed to another. Wolke v. Chas. A. Watts & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 76.

78. Where a contract declares time to be of the essence and further provides that the rights of the vendee shall be forfeited in case he fails to make the payments at the time stipulated in the contract, the vendor cannot maintain an action to declare a forfeiture without showing that he has tendered a deed in accordance with the contract, where by the terms of the contract payment and the delivery of the deed are to be concurrent. Stein v. Waddell [Wash.] 80 P. 184.

79. Courts do not regard with favor forfeiture clauses in contracts, and where a party offers to do all that in equity he should do and promptly invokes the aid of a court of equity and offers to abide its judgment, the other cannot insist that he has forfeited his rights under the contract. Clinton v. Shugart [Iowa] 101 N. W. 785. The vendor's remedy by rescission and forfeiture of payments made is a harsh one and slight circumstances are seized upon to defeat such remedy, and any conduct on the part of the vendor recognizing the continuance of the contract and affirming it will defeat his recovery of possession of the land. Delay after default in declaring a forfeiture and seeking recovery will also defeat the remedy. McCord v. Hames [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 504.

80. Where a contract specifies how a vendor may terminate it and on what grounds, he cannot rely on grounds not specified for its forfeiture. Forfeiture of contracts by act of one of the parties is deemed a harsh proceeding and will not be upheld unless within the terms of the agreement between the parties. In declaring forfeitures, so far as the grounds therefor and procedure are concerned, the terms of the contract govern and must be followed. Cugham v. Larson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1088.

81. Kuhn v. Skelley, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 185.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1987. See, also, ante, § 6.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1987.

84. Webb v. Hancher [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1127. Where a contract for the sale of land merely provides that the purchaser shall pay a certain sum of money and that the vendor shall execute a conveyance, and the time of performance, the general rule is that it must be performed within a reasonable time.[85] If time is not of the essence of the contract, each party has a reasonable time after the time fixed by the contract in which to comply with its provisions.[86] Performance within a reasonable time after the time limited in the contract is effectual.[87] Where there has been a failure to comply with the contract within the time fixed by its terms, the party not in default may by notice fix a reasonable time within which the other shall perform, and the time so fixed becomes essential, and if he fails to perform within the time so fixed, equity will not aid him in enforcing the contract, but will leave him to his legal remedies.[88] If the vendee is in possession the vendor cannot maintain ejectment without declaring a forfeiture or effecting a rescission.[89] In equity the time of payment is not of the essence of a contract for the sale of real estate unless made so by express agreement of the parties, by the nature of the contract itself or by the circumstances under which the contract was executed.[90] The intention of the

there is no provision that one is to be done first, the covenants are mutual and dependent, and to be performed simultaneously. It is not necessary on the part of the purchaser to make a strict tender; it is sufficient that when the time comes he is able and prepared to pay, and demands a deed. Cole v. Killam, 187 Mass. 213, 72 N. E. 947.

85. Tingue v. Patch [Minn.] 101 N. W. 792. See, also, Cohen v. Parnass, 93 N. Y. S. 649. Where a contract provides that the vendor shall furnish an abstract showing "good and merchantable title" to the land, the vendor must furnish such an abstract within a reasonable time, and the furnishing thereof is a condition precedent to the vendee's obligation to perform. Spooner v. Cross [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1118. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that the vendor shall furnish an abstract showing good title, but does not prescribe the time when the same shall be furnished, it must be furnished in reasonable time for examination before the contract is to be performed. If not so furnished, it is ground for rescission of the contract. Martin v. Roberts [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1126.

86. Ellis v. Bryant, 120 Ga. 890, 48 S. E. 352; Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519; Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578. Where time is not of the essence of a contract of sale, equity will prevent a forfeiture of money paid on account of the purchase price, though the balance is not paid within the time prescribed by the contract, and will decree specific performance, and provided that the land be sold in satisfaction of the vendor's lien in case the balance of the purchase price be not paid in accordance with the decree. Gnamer v. Draper [Colo.] 79 P. 1040. The acceptance of an option to purchase within the time limited by the option contract constitutes a contract to sell on the one hand and to purchase on the other, and the purchaser has a reasonable time thereafter within which to complete the deal, examine the title and make payment. His failure to pay on tender of a deed does not authorize a rescission of the contract, where he states that he desires to complete the purchase. He is bound to pay interest on the purchase price from such time. Pennsylvania Min. Co. v. Smith, 210 Pa. 49, 59 A. 316. One who has contracted to convey land and who is ready and willing to convey is entitled to a reasonable time in which to procure his title papers and examine the figures of an invoice of goods he is to take in exchange for the land, after a demand has been made for the deed, and his failure to deliver the deed under such circumstances when demanded is not ground for a rescission. Gibson v. Brown, 214 Ill. 330, 73 N. E. 578. See, also, infra, "Rescission and Reformation."

87. Where a vendor deposited a deed with a bank with instructions that it be delivered on payment of a certain sum in accordance with a contract, of which time is not of the essence, a payment to the bank and acceptance of the deed by the purchaser after the time he had agreed to make the payment, the vendor having made no effort to withdraw, the deed passes title. Wright-Blodgett Co. v. Astoria Co. [Or.] 77 P. 599.

88. Ellis v. Bryant, 120 Ga. 890, 48 S. E. 352; Cosby v. Honaker [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 610.

89. Where time is not made of the essence of a contract for the sale of land, the vendor cannot maintain ejectment against a vendee in possession who has failed to pay the balance of the purchase price according to his agreement, until he has declared a forfeiture or effected a cancellation and rescission by a return of the money received, less a fair rental, also a return or offer to return securities if any received for payment of the balance of the purchase price. Brixen v. Jorgensen [Utah] 78 P. 674. A contract to convey land vests the equitable title thereto in the vendee in possession, and the vendor cannot maintain ejectment, though the purchase price has not been paid, where time is not of the essence of the contract and it contains no stipulation for forfeiture in case of nonpayment. Campbell v. Kansas Town Co., 69 Kan. 314, 76 P. 839.

90. Wright-Blodgett Co. v. Astoria Co. [Or.] 77 P. 599. Generally time is not of the essence of contracts for the sale of lands, the reason being that such a construction would result in enforcing a penalty. By express stipulation or reasonable construction, time may be made of the essence, though even if such express stipulation is inserted as a penalty, it will be disregarded by courts of equity. In all cases it must parties to make time of the essence must affirmatively appear from the contract,[91] though the absence of an express stipulation making time of the essence is not conclusive, and oral evidence is admissible on that issue.[92] Though time is made of the essence, the mere fact that payments are not made by the vendee at the time agreed on does not without action on the part of the vendor work a forfeiture. If he remains passive after default until payment is tendered, he is bound to accept it and to perform his part of the contract.[93] Time is of the essence of an option to purchase, though not so expressly stipulated.[94]

Tender of performance.[95]—Unless there has been a repudiation of the contract,[96] neither party can put the other in default without tendering unconditional performance.[97] A vendee in possession, seeking to avoid payment of interest on clearly appear that it was the intent of the parties that time should be of the essence of the contract. Merely prescribing a time for performance does not make time of the essence. Ellis v. Bryant, 120 Ga. 890, 48 S. E. 352. It is well settled in this state that time is not of the essence of an agreement to convey lands, unless the parties have expressly so stipulated, or it follows by necessary implication from the nature of the transaction. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030. In a contract of sale, prima facie time of payment is not of the essence of the contract. Weaver v. Griffith, 210 Pa. 13, 59 A. 315.

91. Cosby v. Honaker [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 610. The general rule applied in courts of equity is that time is not ordinarily of the essence of a contract for the sale of real property, and it will not be so regarded unless it affirmatively appears that the parties so intended. Such intent may be indicated by express stipulation to that effect, or it may be implied from the character of the contract, or the avowed purposes of the parties with reference thereto. Hosmer v. Wyoming Ry. & Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 883.

Contract of which time is the essence construed as to time of payment: A contract provided that the first payment should be made on the day of the execution of the contract, the second ten days thereafter, and the third "within one year thereafter." Held, that the third payment was to be made one year after the date of the contract and not 1 year and ten days. Flanagan Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485.

92. Gumaer v. Draper [Colo.] 79 P. 1040. Time will be regarded as of the essence of a contract where such is clearly the intention of the parties, though there is no express stipulation to that effect. Standiford v. Thompson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 991.

93. Zeimantz v. Blake [Wash.] 80 P. 822. Where a contract for the sale of land provides that "in case the purchaser does not make payment as above specified at the time herein stated then this agreement is to be null and void and all parties are to be released from all liabilities herein and all money previously paid forfeited," it will be presumed that the forfeiture clause is for the benefit of the vendor and enforceable at his election, and if he fail to so elect, the contract is enforceable against him and the obligation of the purchaser to perform likewise continues. Failure of purchaser to pay at the stipulated time did not ipso facto terminate the contract. Weaver v. Griffith, 210 Pa. 13, 59 A. 315.

94. Where the contract is merely an option, time is of its essence and the purchaser wishing to avail himself of the option must act promptly within the time specified or his right is lost. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519. A contract to convey land and a provision obligating the purchaser to pay therefor, followed by a proviso that if the purchaser does not make the payment at the time stipulated he is to be released from all liability, is a mere option to purchase, and the failure of the purchaser to pay within the specified time terminates all his rights under the contract. Verstine v. Yeaney, 210 Pa. 109, 59 A. 689. An agreement by the owner of land to sell and convey the same on notice from the other party to the contract, and also providing that a failure to make the first payment within a specified time should render the agreement void, is a mere option to purchase, and time is of the essence thereof, though not specially so stipulated; and failure to accept within the specified time for making the payment, terminates the contract. Swank v. Fretts, 209 Pa. 625, 59 A. 264. An option to purchase at the expiration of a lease may be exercised at any time during the day on which the term expired, but could not be accepted at any time thereafter so as to constitute a contract of sale. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1989.

96. Where a purchaser demands a deed and informs the vendor that the money will be paid when the deed is delivered, and the vendor repudiates the contract, the purchaser need not make a formal tender as a condition precedent to an action for damages. Miller v. Smith [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 249, 103 N. W. 872. A purchaser, unless the vendor has repudiated the contract, is not entitled to a decree for specific performance until after he has made a tender of the purchase price and demanded a deed. But a suit may be maintained without first making a tender, where the vendor has denied his obligation to convey and repudiated the contract. Kreutzer v. Lynch [Wis.] 100 N. W. 887. See, also, title Specific Performance, 2 Curr. L. 1678. If the person to whom a conveyance is to be made refuses to accept it, the vendor need not keep the tender alive, but may sue for damages at once. Cohen v. Parnass, 93 N. Y. S. 649.

97. Webb v. Hancher [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1127. The vendor or personal representative the purchase price for the time subsequent to the time when the conveyance should have been made, must show a full and complete tender.[98] The tender of performance must be made at the place fixed by the contract.[99] The vendee is not bound to accept a deed from any person except the vendor, his heirs or personal representatives.[1]

§ 8. Rescission and reformation. Right to rescission.[2]—An executory contract that contains no stipulations for its rescission and that has not been induced by fraud may, in general, be rescinded by one party only when the other expressly refuses to perform, or has rendered himself incapable of performing, or has otherwise evidenced his abandonment of, the contract. Mere delay in the performance of a contract, where time is not of its essence, does not of itself entitle the other party to rescind.[3] Where a vendor is unable,[4] or refuses to convey the land at the time agreed on, the vendee may treat the contract as rescinded and sue for the part of the purchase price already paid, without first tendering the balance of the purchase price.[5] Where time is of the essence, one seeking to rescind on the ground that the other party has failed to perform within the specified of a deceased vendor cannot recover the purchase price under a contract to convey until he has tendered a conveyance in accordance with the contract. Wollenberg v. Rose [Or.] 78 P. 751.

98. Wood v. Howland [Iowa] 101 N. W. 756.

99. Schnurer v. Birbeck Sav. & L. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 742. Where the owner of land situate in a state other than that of his residence by letter offers to sell the same to a person living in the state where the land is situate, and the latter accepts the same by telegraphing to the owner his acceptance of his offer, the purchaser is bound to tender the purchase price at the place of the vendor's residence. The vendor is not bound to deliver the deed and accept payment at a place other than that agreed in the contract, which under circumstances above detailed is presumed to be place of vendor's residence. Scott v. Grant [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 265.

1. A purchaser of land from one who has died subsequent to the contract to sell is not under obligation to take a deed from a grantee of the heirs of the decedent, though such grantee's deed would convey a good title. The vendee is not bound to accept title from any one except the vendor, his heirs or his personal representatives, acting in their representative capacity and duly authorized. Wollenberg v. Rose [Or.] 78 P. 751.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1990.

3. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030. Where it is sought to set aside the contract on the ground of fraud, the question of laches should not be submitted where it appears that the period of limitations has not elapsed since the transaction. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

4. Where a vendor is unable to convey the title and give possession contracted for at the time when by the terms of the contract he has agreed to do so, the vendee can rescind and recover the purchase money already paid, and in such case he need not prove a tender on his part. Martin v. Roberts [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1126. Where the vendor of land has no title to it at the time fixed by the contract for conveyance by him, the purchaser may rescind, and it is not necessary that he should make a tender of the purchase price. A demand for performance is sufficient. The vendor is not entitled to a reasonable time within which to perfect his title. Webb v. Hancher [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1127. Where a contract for the sale of land provided that the vendor should have a reasonable time within which to perfect any defects in the title objected to by the purchaser, the vendor is not entitled to an extension of the time limited by the contract for performance, and which is of the essence of the contract, for the purpose of procuring title where it appears they had none at all; and in such case the purchaser is entitled to a rescission of the contract. Primm v. Wise & Stein [Iowa] 102 N. W. 427. Where vendor failed for 8 months to furnish abstract which he had agreed to furnish within a reasonable time and at time of commencement of action had no title, the vendee can rescind and recover money paid. Gray v. Central Minnesota Immigration Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 792.

5. "If the vendor had in no way repudiated the contract, the vendee would be obliged to tender the entire amount of the purchase money before he would be entitled to disaffirm and sue for the amount already paid on account of the purchase price. But on the other hand, the refusal of the vendor to perform his part of the contract would discharge the vendee from further responsibility and entitle him to claim at once repayment of the part of the purchase price paid," without a tender of the balance due under the contract. Durham v. Wick, 210 Pa. 128, 59 A. 824. Where a vendor in a parol contract to convey land refuses to make a conveyance to the trustee in bankruptcy of the purchaser, the trustee may treat such refusal as a repudiation of the contract by the vendor, and sue for the part of the purchase price already paid by the bankrupt, and he need not make a tender of the balance of the purchase price before disaffirming and suing. Id.

time must show that on the date fixed for performance he was ready, able, and willing to perform, and made a substantial tender of performance and that defendants refused or were unable on the date to substantially perform the contract on their part.[6] Inadequacy of price alone, or the payment by the purchaser of a greater price than the land is worth, will not authorize a rescission of the contract.[7] A purchaser of land has a right to rely on the representations of the vendor that he has good title to the land; he need not search the records or otherwise exercise diligence in investigating the facts,[8] and on discovery of the falsity of the representations, may rescind;[9] and it is immaterial whether the vendor knew or did not know that his representations were false.[10] So, too, the purchaser may rescind the contract for false representations as to material facts affecting the value of the land, relied on by him,[11] nor does the honest belief entertained by the

6. Primm v. Wise & Stern [Iowa] 102 N. W. 427. Where time is of the essence of a contract, the vendor, on the purchaser's failure to perform, may rescind the contract. Lytle v. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 402. Where a contract for the sale of land provided that the vendor should furnish the vendee with an abstract showing good title, by a certain time, the tender of an abstract showing an imperfect title is not a compliance with the contract, though as a matter of fact the vendor has a good title, and in such case the purchaser can rescind the contract and recover payments already made. Brown v. Widen [Iowa] 103 N. W. 158. One asserting that he has rescinded a contract to sell land because of the purchaser's failure to pay the contract price at the time agreed on must show that he tendered a deed and demanded payment and that payment was refused. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030.

7. Sohan v. Gibson, 26 Ky. L. R. 279, 80 S. W. 1173.

8. Morris v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1015.

9. Where a vendor falsely represents that he has a good title, the vendee may rely on such representation, and if he has paid a part of the purchase price, may, on discovery of the falsity of the representation, rescind the contract and recover what he has paid. The fact that the vendor perfected the title several years afterwards does not preclude recovery by the vendee of the money paid. Muller v. Palmer, 144 Cal. 305, 77 P. 954.

10. Where a vendor knows or may be reasonably supposed to know material facts concerning the title which are unknown to the vendee and which cannot otherwise be ascertained by him at the time and place of sale, and the vendee informs the vendor that he must rely solely on the truth of his statements in regard to the title, and the vendor makes such statements, relative thereto which, if true, would constitute a good title, and the vendee, relying upon the truth of such statements, buys and the statements afterwards prove to be untrue and the title bad, the vendee can to the extent of the failure of title, surrender the property and defend against an action for the purchase price, and it is immaterial whether the vendor knew such representations to be false or made them without knowing whether they were true or not, and this, too, where the vendor is an independent executor. Altgelt v. Mernitz [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 891.

11. Stearns v. Kennedy [Minn.] 103 N. W. 212; Kellenberger v. Meisner, 103 App. Div. 231, 93 N. Y. S. 44.

Pointing out wrong land: Where the agent of the owner of land points out to a prospective purchaser thereof certain land as the land to be sold, and the sale is consummated and a contract describing land other than that pointed out, and which the purchaser intended to buy, is entered into, the purchaser on discovery of the error can rescind the contract and recover the amount paid, though the vendor did not authorize the agent to point out any other land and did not know of his having done so at the time the contract was entered into. In such case the vendor must return all that was paid by the purchaser, though a part of it was retained by the agent as compensation for his services. Schmitz v. Peterson [La.] 36 So. 915.

Quantity of land: Representations by a vendor as to the quantity of land in a tract which he offers for sale are not mere matters of opinion, but are material, and the vendee may rely upon them, unless by the exercise of ordinary prudence he may readily ascertain their falsity. The vendor, if his representations are false, cannot avoid their consequences merely because the purchaser might have learned the truth by having the land surveyed or by consulting official records and plats. Stearns v. Kennedy [Minn.] 103 N. W. 212.

Reliance on false representation: In an action to rescind a contract for the sale of real estate, an allegation that complainant "relied" on certain representations made by respondent, which representations are alleged to have been false, is equivalent to an allegation that complainant believed such representations to be true. Spencer v. Hersam [Mont.] 77 P. 418. The vendor, in a contract for the sale of land, must be able to convey to the purchaser an estate or interest substantially corresponding with that bargained for, as well in regard to the tenure and the situation as the conditions and natural advantages of the property. Any misdescription of the estate or interest or of the nature and extent of the property in a material and substantial point avoids the contract and releases the purchaser if he elects to rescind. Slingluff v. Dugan, 98 Md. 518, 56 A. 837.

vendor at the time of making such representations that they were true preclude the exercise of such right.[12] If, however, the party to whom the representations were made was in as good a position to judge of the truth of the representations as was the person making them, he cannot rescind,[13] unless he was prevented from investigating such representations by the fraudulent artifices of the other party.[14] He may, if he so elects, stand on his contract and sue for damages for the deceit,[15] unless he has waived the damages or estopped himself to claim them.[16] An election by a purchaser to stand on the contract, in order to be irrevocable must have been made with knowledge of his legal rights or at least after a reasonable opportunity to learn of them.[17] If he brings an action for damages, he thereby affirms the contract.[18] False and fraudulent representations by a purchaser to the effect that he would improve the premises in a way that would be beneficial to adjoining land owned by the vendor, if made without any intention of carrying them out, is a ground for rescission,[19] but if made with an intention of carrying into effect, the vendor can only recover damages for breach of the contract to improve.[20] Fraud in procuring the execution of the contract is ground for its cancellation.[21]

A contract which does not express the intention of the parties will be reformed.[22] An erroneous description of the premises may be reformed by an executed parol agreement of the parties.[23]

12. Du Bois v. Nugent [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 339; Annis v. Ferguson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 553.

13. Representations by a purchaser of land as to its value and intrinsic worth, though false and made for the purpose of procuring it at a favorable price, is not a ground for rescission, where the vendors were in a position to know the value of the land, and whether such representations were true, to the same extent as was the purchaser. Storthz v. Arnold [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1036. Mere expressions of opinion made by a vendor of land as to its quality and value, though false, are not ground for a rescission where the purchaser inspected the land before purchasing and had an opportunity to judge as to the quality and value. Sohan v. Gibson, 26 Ky. L. R. 279, 80 S. W. 1173.

14. Where one is overreached in the sale of land by means of artifices employed to prevent an investigation as to value or quantity, and by this means is compelled to pay for or part with property upon a valuation fixed by the party practicing such artifice, the contract may be rescinded for fraud. Garr v. Alden [Mich.] 102 N. W. 950.

15. Stearns v. Kennedy [Minn.] 103 N. W. 212. Where one has been induced to enter into a contract for the purchase of land by false and fraudulent representations of the vendor as to some specific material fact affecting the value of the property, he may, on discovery of the fraud, rescind the contract, or he may stand by his purchase and sue for damages, or if the purchase money is not paid, he may reduce it by the amount of the damages to which he is entitled. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568.

16. A purchaser of land who has been misled as to its true location by the fraudulent representations of the vendor, can retain the land conveyed and recover damages for the fraud, unless he has waived the damages or estopped himself to claim them. Guinn v. Ames [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 232. If the vendee of property discovers that he has been defrauded before he has paid the purchase price and with knowledge accepts a conveyance, he cannot refuse to pay and if he has paid, he cannot maintain an action for deceit. Montgomery v. McLaury, 143 Cal. 83, 76 P. 964.

17. A demand for possession from a tenant of the vendor before discovery of the falsity of the vendor's representations is not such an election. Annis v. Ferguson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 553.

18. Stearns v. Kennedy [Minn.] 103 N. W. 212.

19. Troxler v. New Era Bldg. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 58.

20. Troxler v. New Era Bldg. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 58.

21. While as a matter of law, a party to a written contract cannot say that he is not bound by its terms as written, because he neglected to read it and therefore was not aware of its contents at the time of its execution, yet on the other hand, if he is misled as to the contents by the act of the other party in reading it to him otherwise than written, and with knowledge that the reading is relied on for information as to its contents, then a party thus misled may have relief on the ground of fraud, and equity will cancel the contract. Heitsman v. Windahl [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1118.

22. Where, in a contract of sale of land, the land is erroneously described so as to include a larger area than either party intended, the vendor is not precluded from setting up the mistake by reason of the fact that he could have discovered the fact had he availed himself of means of knowledge within his power, since such neglect is not a neglect of a legal duty within the purview of Rev. Code N. D. § 3853, and in such case equity will either rescind the contract or reform it so as to express the intention of the parties. Benesh v. Travelers' Ins. Co.

An executory contract for the sale of land, whether written or oral, can be rescinded or waived, in equity, by word of mouth, if possession be given up or the writing be destroyed, but not without something done by way of rescission or waiver.[24] In an action for rescission, as a general rule, it is incumbent on the complainant to offer to restore what he may have received in performance of the contract.[25]

Rights of vendor after rescission.[26]—Where a vendor rescinds a contract because of the vendee's failure to make payments, he cannot recover possession until he accounts for purchase money received and improvements made by the purchaser in good faith,[27] especially where he has been guilty of fraud in the transaction,[28] unless the parties have contracted otherwise.[29]

Rights of vendee after rescission.[30]—Where a vendor fails to convey in accordance with his contract, the vendee on surrendering possession is entitled to a return of the purchase price paid by him, with interest, less the reasonable rental of the land while he has been in possession.[31] In some cases he is entitled [N. D.] 103 N. W. 405. A contract for the sale of timber will be enforced where its terms are clear and unambiguous unless the person claiming it does not represent the true agreement between the parties seeking its reformation. E. Swindell & Co. v. Saddler [Ga.] 49 S. E. 753. Evidence held to show a mutual mistake of fact authorizing reformation of contract as to description of land. Albro v. Gowland, 90 N. Y. S. 796.

23. An erroneous description in a written contract of the land sought to be sold may be reformed by an executed parol agreement of the parties, as where the purchaser accepts a deed for the land intended to be described and pays the purchase price after notice that the vendor claims that the land described in the deed is all the land intended to be described in the contract. Benesh v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 405.

24. Marsh v. Despard [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 24.

25. In actions to rescind contracts for the sale of land for nonpayment of the purchase price, it is as a general rule incumbent on the vendor to tender a return of what has been paid as a condition precedent to the maintenance of a suit, but this rule is not of inexorable operation, and where it appears that the rental value of the land of which vendee had possession exceeds the amount paid and that on a final adjustment there will be nothing due the vendee, the tender is not a condition precedent. Succession of Delaneuville v. Duhe [La.] 38 So. 20.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1993.

27. When a vendor has rescinded a contract for the sale of land, because of the failure of the vendee to make payments at the times agreed on, time being of the essence of the contract, he cannot recover possession until he accounts for purchase money received and improvements made by the vendee; in such accounting the vendor is entitled to credit for damages sustained by reason of the breach of the contract, including the rental value of the premises during the time the vendee has been in possession. If the vendor does not elect to pay for the improvements, the land should be sold. Lytle v. Scottish American Mortg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 402.

28. Where a vendor has contracted to convey a title satisfactory to the vendee's attorney, and is unable to satisfy the vendee, and the vendee has gone into possession, the vendor is entitled to a rescission and possession of the premises without profits on returning to the vendee the money paid without interest and allowing the vendee the fair value of improvements made in good faith before he had notice of the defect in vendor's title, where he is unable to perfect the title, and has been guilty of fraud or injustice. Moling v. Mahon [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 956.

29. It is competent for the parties to stipulate for liquidated damages or what the purchaser shall pay as rent during the time he has had possession, in case of rescission, provided the damages are not so excessive as to come within the prohibition against penalties and forfeitures. Parol evidence is admissible to show that the "rent" stipulated for is excessive and hence a penalty. Lytle v. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 402.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1993.

31. See, also, Shemwell v. Carper's Adm'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 771. When a vendor without right so to do rescinds a contract for the sale of land and the vendee consents thereto, the latter, on surrendering possession, is entitled to a return of the purchase money paid by him. An abandonment by one party of performance may be treated as a proposition to rescind by the other; and the rights of the parties are then the same as where there has been a mutual rescission. Moffat v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 489. Where the vendee under an executory contract for the purchase of real estate takes possession and the title of the vendor fails, or he is unable to make conveyance as stipulated, the remedy of the purchaser is either to rescind the contract and restore or offer to restore possession, in which case he may recover the purchase money and interest, or retain possession under the contract and pay the purchase price, accepting such title as the vendor may be able to give. He cannot retain both the land and the purchase money until a perfect title shall be offered to him. Livesley v. Muckle [Or.] 80 P. 901. When a contract provides that in certain contingen-to compensation for improvements made by him on the land,[32] and, under some circumstances, to a lien on the land agreed to be conveyed for the value of improvements made by him.[33] He is not, however, entitled to a lien for the money paid in part performance of the contract.[34] In Minnesota the vendee cannot recover what he has paid under an oral contract repudiated by him.[35] In a suit by the purchaser to recover the part of the purchase price paid, he must show that he has surrendered his equitable rights in the land acquired by the contract.[36] If he fails to prove the fraud alleged as the ground of rescission, he cannot recover the purchase money on the ground that the contract was made under a mutual mistake of fact, and base his rescission thereon.[37] If the vendor fails to convey, the vendee may maintain a suit for money had and received.[38] A vendor who has refused tender of the purchase money cannot recover interest after a decree for specific performance except from the date of tender of a deed in compliance with the decree.[39] Where the contract is set aside for fraud, interest on sums paid may be recovered, though not prayed for.[40]

§ 9. Adjustment of rights after conveyance or breach of contract.[41]—One resisting an action to recover the purchase price of land on the ground that vendor had no title must show eviction or title in a third person.[42] After conveyance, cies the part of the purchase price paid by the vendee shall be returned to him, he is not precluded from recovering the same on failure of the vendor to convey, though such failure to convey is not one of the contingencies provided for in the contract. Seibel v. Purchase, 134 F. 484. Where a purchaser of land goes into possession pursuant to the contract and refuses to pay the balance of the purchase price on the ground that the vendor cannot convey a good title, he can resist an action for the balance of the purchase price and recover the money already paid if his contention is well founded, provided he offers to surrender possession of the premises and rescind the contract. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568.

32. Vendee entitled to compensation for improvements: Having rescinded he may recover the payments made, with interest, together with the value of improvements made, less such sum as his possession of the premises is reasonably worth, and if necessary for his protection, the court will also provide for the retention until the plaintiff is paid or secured to his satisfaction for the items for which he has recovered. Dunn v. Mills [Kan.] 79 P. 146.

33. Where the owner of a tract agrees to convey a part thereof to another in consideration of his making certain improvements thereon, such other is entitled to lien on the part of the land agreed to be conveyed for the value of the improvements, the promisor refusing to convey. The fact that the land is the promisor's homestead will not defeat the lien. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718.

34. Klim v. Sachs, 102 App. Div. 44, 92 N. Y. S. 107.

35. In Minnesota, where a vendor, under an agreement for the sale of lands which is oral and hence within the statute of frauds, is nevertheless willing and offers to perform, but the vendee refuses to perform and repudiates the contract, the latter is not entitled to recover an instalment of purchase money previously paid. York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564.

36. One suing for a return of money paid pursuant to a contract whereby the defendant had agreed to convey land to plaintiff, on the theory that he had rescinded the contract because of the delay of the defendant in tendering the deed, must show that he has returned or offered to surrender his contract and equitable rights in the land acquired by the contract, or that defendant had refused to accept a surrender of the contract. Phelps v. Mineral Springs Heights Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 364.

37. Connell v. El Paso Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 78 P. 677.

38. When the vendee in an executory contract for purchase of land has paid a part of the purchase price and the vendor fails to convey in accordance with the contract, the vendee may disaffirm the contract and bring an action for money had and received. The time fixed by the contract for performance is deemed of the essence, so that, if the vendor is unable to convey at that time, the vendee may rescind and sue for money paid. Seibel v. Purchase, 134 F. 484. The vendee of an executory contract may recover, as for money had and received, the value of a stock of merchandise turned over to the vendor to apply on the purchase price of land, upon a failure on the part of the vendor to comply with his agreement to convey and rescission of the contract by the purchaser. Proctor v. C. E. Stevens Land Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 395.

39. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.

40. Slaughter v. Coke County [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 863.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1992.

42. Where a purchaser of land, in a suit on a note given for a part of the purchase price and to foreclose a vendor's lien seeks to have the amount of the plaintiff's recovery reduced by the amount of the value of a part of the land purchased as to which he claims the vendor had no title, he is bound to show a legal eviction therefrom or a superior title in a third person. The mere enclosing of a part of the land by a fence by a

the deed is the evidence of the final contract between the parties.[43] The vendee can, however, maintain an action for damages caused by the fraud or false representations of the vendor.[44] On breach of contract, action cannot be maintained against a disclosed agent to recover payments which he has turned over to his principal, of which fact the plaintiff has notice.[45]

§ 10. Enforcement generally.[46]—Upon breach by the vendee of an executory contract for the sale of land, the vendor's remedy is in equity for specific performance or at law for damages; he cannot maintain an action at law for the recovery of the contract price.[47] His cause of action for damages is not affected by the sale of the land to another after the time when by the contract he was to convey.[48] If the contract is oral, no action for damages will lie unless there has been such part performance as takes it out of the statute of frauds,[49] though either party may sue for breach of a contract signed only by the vendor, when third person is not such an eviction. Wilson v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 25.

43. Where the purchaser of land, under a contract which obligates him to pay a certain price per acre for a designated tract, takes a deed reciting that the land conveyed thereby contains a certain number of acres, and pays the grantor therefor at the contract price, he cannot on subsequently ascertaining that the tract conveyed does not contain the recited number of acres, recover the excess paid, since the deed will be presumed to contain the final contract of the parties and measure the grantor's liability, there being no claim that the deed was procured by fraud or that anything was omitted therefrom by fraud, mistake or accident, and the recital as to the number of acres a mere representation. Corrough v. Hamill [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 96.

44. Measure of damages: In an action for deceit arising from the sale of land, the measure of damages is the difference between the actual value of the land and what it would have been worth if it were as represented, together with legal interest on such difference. In determining the value of the land the price agreed on is not to be taken as its value. Love v. McElroy, 106 Ill. App. 294. Where a vendor has contracted to convey free of incumbrances and the land is subject to a right of occupancy by another, the vendee can recover the rental value of the premises for the period such other is entitled to possession, less whatever such occupant is bound to pay therefor. Toch v. Horowitz, 87 N. Y. S. 455. Where a vendor points out certain lands as being those which it is intended to sell to another, and the deed calls for other lots, the vendee can recover damages for the false representations, though the vendor acted in good faith and thought he was pointing out the land to be conveyed. The vendee can recover for the value of improvements placed on the land pointed out before he had notice of the mistake. Nor is the vendee precluded from recovering by reason of the fact that he might have discovered the error by investigation. Lawson v. Vernon [Wash.] 80 P. 559. Where a purchaser of land has given a mortgage for a part of the purchase price and he has been damaged by the false and fraudulent representations of the vendor concerning the quality of the land sold, the purchaser is entitled to a cancellation of the mortgages where a rescission cannot be had, where the amount of his damages equals the amount of the mortgage, and this can be awarded by a court of equity in one action. Montgomery v. McLaury, 143 Cal. 83, 76 P. 964. The fact that a purchaser of lands sued the agent who acted for him in the transaction, to recover a secret commission paid to such agent by the vendor is not a ratification of the contract made by the agent so as to preclude the purchaser from maintaining an action to recover damages against the vendor for false and fraudulent representations as to the property. Barnsdall v. O'Day [C. C. A.] 134 F. 828.

45. Gable v. Crane, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 56.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1994.

47. Prichard v. Mulhall [Iowa] 103 N. W. 774. A contract to sell land, unlike one to sell personal property, gives to the vendor the choice of two remedies for its breach by the vendee; to-wit, one for specific performance, in which case the vendor must allege and prove that he has the title contracted to be sold and must tender it; the other an action to recover damages; in the latter case where the contract is executory, he elects to retain the land; he need not tender a deed where vendee has repudiated, but he must show title and ability to convey at the time agreed in the contract. Harmon v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 569. The performance of a contract which is the consideration of a deed cannot be enforced in ejectment. Adams v. Barrell, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 641.

48. Where the vendee in an executory contract to buy land abandons the agreement and refuses to comply with its terms, the vendor, upon electing to proceed for damages for its breach, may, after the expiration of the time fixed by the contract for the conveyance, sell or otherwise dispose of the land without prejudice to his cause of action for damages. Harmon v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 569.

49. An action to recover damages for breach of an oral contract to convey land cannot be maintained where there has been no such part performance as will take the agreement out of the statute of frauds. Payment of the purchase price alone is not such part performance. Chamberlain v. Abrams, 36 Wash. 587, 79 P. 204.

it has been accepted by the vendee.[50] On breach by the vendee and refusal to accept a conveyance, the vendor can recover the difference between the market value and the contract price, where the latter exceeds the former, together with interest from the time the purchase price was to have been paid.[51] Ordinarily the vendor must show that prior to the commencement of the action he tendered a conveyance in accordance with the terms of his contract.[52] Likewise the measure of damages recoverable by the vendee is the difference between the market value of the land and the contract price where the former exceeds the latter,[53] together with interest thereon from the time of the breach.[54] Evidence as to what other lands in the same neighborhood, having a general similarity in location, character and adaptability were sold for at or about the time the breach occurred, is admissible on the question of market value.[55] The right of either party to a specific performance of the contract is treated elsewhere in this work.[56] Where the vendor has no title to a part of the land contracted to be conveyed, the vendee may compel specific performance as to the part as to which he has title with a

50. A contract for the sale of land signed only by the vendor, which has been accepted by the vendee and on which he has paid a part of the purchase price, is binding on both of the parties, and either may maintain an action thereon for its breach and the fact that the defendant did not have title so that specific performance could be enforced does not preclude the recovery of damages. Miller v. Smith [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 249, 103 N. W. 872.

51. Kuntz v. Schnugg, 90 N. Y. S. 933; Harmon v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 569. On breach by a vendee of a contract for the sale of land, the vendor can recover as damages the difference between the contract price and the market value of the land at the time of the breach, less whatever has already been paid on the contract price. Prichard v. Mulhall [Iowa] 103 N. W. 774. One who has contracted to sell land, to which he has no title, in an action to recover damages for breach of the contract by the vendee, if he can recover at all, can recover only the difference between the price for which he could have procured it from the owner and the price the vendee agreed to pay. Scheer v. Schlomowitz, 88 N. Y. S. 170.

52. In suits in equity for specific performance and in actions at law to recover the purchase price, the vendor must show that prior to the commencement of the action he made a tender of a conveyance of the land and demanded performance by the purchaser. Stein v. Waddell [Wash.] 80 P. 184.

53. Le Roy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796; Goodman v. Wolf, 95 App. Div. 522, 88 N. Y. S. 934. In an action by a vendee to recover damages for breach of a contract to convey land, the measure of damages is the difference between the price agreed to be paid and the value of the land when the breach occurred, with interest, but if the purchaser has been let into possession, he must rescind the contract and surrender possession. Nolde v. Gray [Neb.] 102 N. W. 759. Where the owner of an undivided interest in land contracts to convey the entire property and the purchaser at the time of making the contract knows that the vendor has not the entire property, and the vendor is free from fraud or bad faith, the purchaser on the failure of the vendor to convey the entire property is not entitled to damages as for loss of profits, as to so much of the land as the vendor had no title. The undivided interest which vendor could not convey belonged to the vendor's minor wards, and the court would not authorize conveyance at price stipulated. Eggert v. Pratt [Iowa] 102 N. W. 786. Where the owner of land as a part of the contract for the sale of it agreed to renew a mortgage loan thereon, but failed to do so, the purchaser can recover the amount paid by him for broker's commission in securing a new loan, and the increased interest over the amount which the renewal was to bear, for the entire term of the new loan. Tolchinsky v. Schiff, 93 N. Y. S. 1073.

54. Interest is allowable in an action to recover unliquidated damages for the breach of an executory contract of sale where the property has a market value. Reynolds v. Burr, 93 N. Y. S. 319.

55. Dady v. Condit, 209 Ill. 488, 70 N. E. 1088. In an action to recover damages for breach of a contract for the sale of land, on the issue as to the market value of the land, the plaintiff may introduce evidence as to the price paid for other lands in the same neighborhood, though such sales were not entirely for cash, but were in part on time with interest on the deferred payments. The defendant on cross-examination and in rebuttal may show that many of such sales were never completed, and that in some cases the vendors discounted the mortgages taken for the deferred payments. Id. In determining the market value of land, in an action to recover damages for breach, a contract for the sale of the land, the expectations of the owners of land in the vicinity, that extensive improvements are to be made in the neighborhood, are elements to be considered in determining the market value, where such expectations do actually affect the market value. Id.

The price brought at a subsequent public sale of the land will be deemed its value. Le Roy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

56. See title Specific Performance, 4 Curr. L. 1494.

rebate of the value of the land as to which the vendor has no title.[57] In the absence of fraud, insolvency of the vendor or other special circumstances, a vendee, in possession under his contract and whose possession has not been disturbed, cannot resist an action for the purchase money on the ground of lack of title in the vendor, unless he rescind the contract and restore possession to the vendor.[58] If he has accepted a deed, that is a performance of the contract, and his remedy is by way of a counterclaim for breach of covenant, if any there be.[59]

§ 11. Vendor's liens.[60] A. Implied lien.[61]—A vendee in possession takes the land charged with an equitable lien in favor of the vendor to secure the unpaid purchase price.[62] It is not founded on contract, but arises by implication of law.[63] It is an incident of the debt; and while it cannot survive the debt, it continues to exist until the debt is paid or otherwise discharged.[64] One who has made a voluntary conveyance of land, without any agreement on the part of the grantee to pay for the land, is not entitled to a vendor's lien,[65] nor is one who has loaned money to another with which to purchase the land.[66] It arises in favor of a vendor who has agreed to take property in exchange or payment for the land sold.[67] The lien is enforceable against the land while the title

57. Lanyon v. Chesney [Mo.] 85 S. W. 568. When a vendor's title to a part of the property contracted to be sold fails, the vendee, when no price was agreed on for the tract as to which the title has failed, is entitled to a rebate from the price of an amount equal to the proportion which the actual value of the tract as to which title fails bears to the actual value of all the lands agreed to be conveyed. Cypress Lumber & Shingle Co. v. Tillar [Ark.] 84 S. W. 490.

58. Dunn v. Mills [Kan.] 79 P. 146.

Where vendor guilty of fraud: Where one who has given his note in payment for a conveyance of land is sued by one to whom the note has been transferred under circumstances that permit the maker of the note to interpose defenses that were available against the payee, he may set up fraud on the part of the vendor, and failure of consideration and title to the land as a defense without tendering a reconveyance of the land. Nor need he show eviction under a paramount title, showing an outstanding title under which there is danger of eviction is a sufficient defense. Morris v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1015. In an action to recover the purchase price of land, the defendant cannot defeat the recovery by showing that plaintiff did not have title to the land conveyed by introducing a title deed showing title in another, where the answer does not allege such ground of defense. Bank of Winchester v. White [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 697.

59. Where the owner of land has contracted to convey to another "by good and sufficient deed a good and unincumbered title," the acceptance by the vendee of a deed is an execution of the contract, and the vendee in an action by the vendor on a note given for the purchase price cannot set up a defect in title as a defense to the action, but is remitted to the covenants in the deed; if there is a breach thereof he can set up the same as a counterclaim. Thurgood v. Spring, 139 Cal. 596, 73 P. 456.

Total or partial failure of consideration may be shown as a complete or partial defense in an action on a note given for the purchase price of land sold with covenants, where the title has failed or partially failed, and that, in case of a breach of a covenant against incumbrances, the purchaser is entitled to a credit on the note given for the purchase price, of the amount paid by him to protect his title against an incumbrance. It is not necessary to maintain action that he should have been evicted under the paramount title. Dahl v. Stakke, 12 N. D. 325, 96 N. W. 353.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1996, also see Tiffany, Real Property, 1287.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1996.

62. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123. By a contract of sale an equitable conversion takes place, the vendee being deemed the owner of the land in equity and the vendor to have a lien thereon for the purchase price; but at law these relations are not recognized. The vendor's lien rests on the idea that the title has passed to the vendee, which to that extent is a fiction, since in law and reality it has not. The so-called lien is simply the vendor's right to enforce his claim for the purchase money against the vendee's equitable interest. Flanagan's Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485.

63, 64. Cassell v. Lowry [Ind.] 72 N. E. 640.

65. Ostenson v. Severson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 789.

66. The mere lending of money to the purchaser of land to enable him to pay for it does not give rise to a vendor's lien in favor of the person so lending the money. It is indispensably necessary to the existence of a vendor's lien that the parties should stand in the relation to each other of vendor and vendee. It arises out of and is incident to the purchase, and is founded upon an implied trust between the vendor and purchaser. Hardin v. Hooks [Ark.] 81 S. W. 386.

67. A vendor's lien arises as well where land is to be received as where money in specie is to be paid; hence where, on an exchange of lands, the title to a part of thereto continues in the vendee or his heirs, or any subsequent purchasers having notice that the purchase money remains unpaid,[68] or any voluntary grantee of the vendee.[69] In Oregon the vendor's lien does not exist after title has passed from the vendor to the purchaser by conveyance.[70] The lien is superior to the homestead rights in the land acquired by the purchaser,[71] as well as the rights therein of the purchaser's wife,[72] though in Wisconsin, the homestead, by virtue of statute, descends to the heirs of the purchaser free of the vendor's lien.[73] It may be enforced by a third person to whom the purchaser has agreed to pay the purchase price,[74] likewise it may be enforced against the land where the conveyance has been made to a person other than the one who agreed to pay the purchase price.[75] A vendor's lien may be waived.[76] Generally, the acceptance of any distinct and independent security by the vendor will constitute a waiver.[77] The vendor may be deprived of his right to assert his lien by the acquisition by others of a title thereto by adverse possession.[78] A vendor's lien remains where nothing was done to discharge the debt but to pay over inapplicable trust funds.[79]

the land received by one of them fails, he can maintain a suit in equity to charge the lands conveyed by him with a lien for the value of the land as to which the title failed, and this though the grantor is solvent and an action for breach of warranty would lie. Johnson v. Burks, 103 Mo. App. 221, 77 S. W. 133. A vendor of land has an equitable lien for the unpaid purchase price, and where by fraudulent practices he has been induced to take worthless property in payment of the purchase price, he can sue in equity for a decree establishing a lien for the difference between the actual and represented value of the property so taken. Montgomery v. McLaury, 143 Cal. 83, 76 P. 964. On an exchange of lands, one damaged by a breach of the covenants in the deed taken by him is entitled to a lien on the land conveyed by him to the extent of the damages sustained by breach of the covenant. Newburn v. Lucas [Iowa] 101 N. W. 730.

68. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123. See, also, McKenna v. Brooklyn Union Elevated R. Co., 95 App. Div. 226, 88 N. Y. S. 762. The grantor's lien is an equitable right to resort to the land, if there be not sufficient personal assets; it is available against the grantee, his heirs, devisees and other immediate successors in interest, and against all subsequent incumbrancers of the land under the grantee who are not bona fide purchasers for value. Bryson v. Collmer, 33 Ind. App. 494, 71 N. E. 229.

69. Johnson v. Burke, 103 Mo. App. 221, 77 S. W. 133.

70. Flanagan's Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485.

71. Fontaine v. Nuse [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 852.

72. The right of a woman in land by virtue of her marriage, both while it remains inchoate and after it has become consummated by the death of her husband, is subject to the lien of the husband's grantor for the payment of the purchase price. Bryson v. Collmer, 33 Ind. App. 494, 71 N. E. 229.

73. Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 2271, providing that the homestead shall descend free from all judgments and claims against the deceased owner, abrogates the right to a vendor's lien thereon. Schmidt v. Schmidt's Estate [Wis.] 101 N. W. 678.

74. Where the purchaser of land assumes as a part of the purchase price and agrees to pay certain notes theretofore given by the vendor to a third person, such third person can assert a vendor's lien against the land for the payment of the notes, which lien is superior to the homestead rights of the purchaser. Fontaine v. Nuse [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 852. Under the provisions of the Code, requiring that actions shall be brought in the name of the real party in interest, a third person to whom a grantee promised to pay a part of the consideration for the conveyance can maintain a suit to enforce a vendor's lien for such unpaid purchase price. Bryson v. Collmer, 33 Ind. App. 494, 71 N. E. 229.

75. One who pursuant to a contract with the father of several minor children conveys land to the children in consideration of the father's agreement to pay a certain sum therefor, can enforce a vendor's lien against the land while the title remains in such minors. Acree v. Stone [Ala.] 37 So. 934.

76. A vendor of land subject to a mortgage was made a party to a suit to foreclose the mortgage, the land was sold for enough to satisfy the mortgage but not his lien, the mortgagor wished to redeem and the vendor released his judgment and took new notes with the understanding that his vendor's lien should continue subject to a new mortgage given to raise funds with which to redeem. Held, that he had not waived or lost his vendor's lien. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123.

77. Acree v. Stone [Ala.] 37 So. 934.

78. Where one having a vendor's lien on land acquiesces in the dedication of a part of the land to public use as a street for the statutory period of limitation, by his vendee, the use and possession by the public is adverse and ripens into a title as against the vendor, and the mere fact that he had procured a decree foreclosing his lien does not interrupt the running of the statute. City of Ft. Worth v. Cetti [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 826.

Enforcement of the lien.[80]—A court of equity[81] may foreclose a vendor's lien by a sale of the property and application of the proceeds to the payment of the amount of the purchase price due the vendor, and pay the overplus to the vendee,[82] or it may require the purchaser to pay the balance within a specified time or be thereafter barred of any interest or title in or to the land.[83] Strict foreclosure will not be granted unless to refuse to grant it would be inequitable.[84] A sale pursuant to a decree of foreclosure, not redeemed from, defeats the lien as to an unsatisfied part of the judgment.[85] If the debt is barred by the statute of limitations, an action to enforce the lien is also barred.[86] Cases referring to the evidence admissible,[87] defenses available,[88] and the effect of the decree, are set forth in the notes.[89]

(§ 11) B. Express lien.[90]—The legal title[91] which remains in the vendor, where a lien is reserved in his deed to secure the purchase money, descends to the heirs of the vendor.[92] The lien may be assigned[93] or waived.[94] The lien

79. Marshall v. Hall, 51 W. Va. 569, 42 S. E. 641.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1997.

81. An action to enforce a vendor's lien is an equitable action and properly triable on the equity side of the court, though the issues involve questions of fact properly triable by a jury. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718.

82, 83. Flanagan's Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485.

84. The remedy is a harsh one and not favored by a court of equity, yet if a vendee without excuse fails to make payments as required by the contract, and for an unreasonable time remains in default, a strict foreclosure may be decreed. Flanagan's Estate v. Great Cent. Land Co. [Or.] 77 P. 485. Where, pursuant to a contract for the sale of land the vendor places a deed to the premises in escrow to be delivered on payment of the price, the fact that he subsequently conveys the lands to another subject to the deed deposited in escrow is not such a breach of his contract to sell as will preclude an action by him for a strict foreclosure of the purchaser's rights in the land. Id.

85. A foreclosure of a vendor's lien and sale of the property on decretal order issued on account of such foreclosure and not redeemed from during the year for redemption defeats the lien as to any unsatisfied part of the judgment or debt. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123.

86. When an action on the debt secured by the lien is barred by the statute of limitations, a suit in equity to subject the land to a vendor's lien is also barred. But though the debt is barred by the statute of limitations, the debtor cannot have the lien cancelled in an action to quiet title, since he who seeks the aid of equity must do equity. Cassell v. Lowry [Ind.] 72 N. E. 640. See, also, Berger v. Waldbaum, 46 Misc. 4, 93 N. Y. S. 352.

87. Evidence: Where a husband purchases land claimed by an adjoining owner, parol evidence is admissible, in an action by the vendor to establish and foreclose a vendor's lien thereon, that the purchaser's wife was present and consented to the purchase and that such purchase was made for less than the real value of the land in compromise of the claim of the wife then made that the land purchased was a part of a tract owned by her deceased first husband, to which she had succeeded. Cavin v. Wichita Valley Town Site Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 342.

88. Defenses: A purchaser of improved property cannot resist the enforcement of a vendor's lien by the vendor on the ground that the vendor made false representations as to the repair and condition of the property, where it appears the purchaser examined the property and was in a position to judge for himself as to its condition and state of repair. Newton v. Levy, 26 Ky. L. R. 476, 82 S. W. 259. A purchaser of land who is in the undisturbed possession thereof cannot set up as a defense to an action to foreclose a vendor's lien thereon that the vendor, at the time the contract of sale was entered into and at the time of the commencement of the suit, was not the owner of the legal title, but that such title was in a third person. Young v. Figg [Neb.] 100 N. W. 311.

89. Effect of decree: Where the vendors in a contract for the sale of land, in an action to recover the purchase price, tender a deed and ask that they have a lien on the land for the unpaid purchase price, and the court awards the relief prayed, the judgment of the court transfers the title to the vendee as effectually as though he had accepted the deed out of court. Kelly v. Bramblett, 26 Ky. L. R. 167, 81 S. W. 249.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1998.

91. An executory conveyance of land, by the terms of which the grantor reserves a vendor's lien, does not divest the grantor of the superior legal title, but such legal title passes by a subsequent deed executed by the vendor. Austin v. Lauderdale [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 413.

92. McCord v. Hames [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 504. They can convey such title to the assignee of the purchase-money notes secured by such lien, and he can enforce it under the same circumstances as it would be enforceable by the vendor. McCord v. Hames [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 504.

93. An instrument quitclaiming land and purporting to release a vendor's lien, held to be an assignment of the vendor's lien to the grantee in such instrument. Zieschang v. Helmke [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 436.

94. A purchaser of land gave vendor's may be enforced against the land in the hands of a fraudulent grantee of the vendee.[95] A grantee of the purchaser is not personally liable for the purchase price secured by a lien unless he has expressly assumed and agreed to pay it.[96] In an action by a vendor to recover on notes given for the purchase price of land and to enforce a vendor's lien, the burden is on the defendant to show a failure of the vendor's title, where he defends on such ground.[97] If the vendee has accepted a deed, he cannot resist the action on the ground that vendor had no title, unless the grantor is insolvent or a nonresident, or he has been evicted from the land. In such case he can recover only for breach of the warranties in the deed,[98] though he can offset an amount paid to remove an encumbrance constituting a breach of the vendor's warranty,[99] nor can he resist payment and at the same time ask damages for breach of the vendor's contract.[100] In a proper case the court will appoint a receiver to collect the rents and profits.[101] All persons claiming an interest in the land, either by conveyance from the vendee[102] or as heirs of such vendee, should be joined as parties defendant in an action to foreclose.[103] A vendor's lien apparently barred by the statute of limitations is unenforceable against the land in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value, though as a matter of fact the debt has been kept alive by payments and new promises.[104] A purchaser who admits the contract reserving the lien cannot plead the statute of limitations.[105] Cases relating to the relief which may be awarded in actions to foreclose the lien are set forth in the notes.[106] lien notes in payment of a part of the purchase price; he afterwards reconveyed an undivided one-half to his grantor, who conveyed to a third person and took a vendor's lien note for a part of the purchase price of such undivided half, from such third person. Held, that the acceptance of the vendor's lien note by the vendor in the last transaction was not a waiver of his lien on the entire title created by the vendor's lien note taken under the first transaction, and that the last purchaser could not complain, except that on payment of his note he was entitled to an undivided one-half free of the encumbrance of the first vendor's note, he having taken a title by warranty deed. Dickinson v. Duckworth [Ark.] 85 S. W. 82.

95. A vendor of land who has retained a vendor's lien on the land, in an action to recover the purchase price and foreclose the lien, may have a fraudulent sale of the land by the vendee set aside and the lien enforced against the land. Kinney v. Craig [Va.] 48 S. E. 864.

96. McNeill v. Cage [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 57.

97. Kiser v. Lunsford [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 927.

98. Joiner v. Trail [Ky.] 86 S. W. 980.

99. In an action by a vendor on notes given in part payment for the purchase price of land and to foreclose a vendor's lien reserved by the terms of the notes, the vendee can offset the amount which he has paid to discharge tax liens on the lands purchased and which constituted an incumbrance in breach of the vendor's warranty. Bullitt v. Coryell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 482.

100. A defendant in a suit to enforce a vendor's lien cannot resist payment of the balance of the purchase price and at the same time ask a court of equity to award him damages for a shortage in the land purchased under the contract giving the lien sought to be enforced. Bargo v. Bargo [Ky.] 86 S. W. 525.

101. Under Tex. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1465, § 2, a vendor, in an action to foreclose a vendor's lien, may have a receiver appointed where it appears the purchaser is collecting the rents and failed to perform the contract, and that the value of the land is probably insufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim, though the purchaser is not insolvent and such receiver may collect the rents and revenue of the land. Cotulla v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 339.

102. Where a transferee of notes given as a part of the purchase price of land and for which a lien was reserved in the deed given by the vendor brings a suit to establish his lien and foreclose the same by a sale of the premises, he should join as parties defendants the holder of the legal title by subsequent conveyance as well as the makers of the notes, and any decree procured without the joinder of such person is not binding on him and will not support ejectment by the purchaser at foreclosure sale. Nunnelly v. Barnes, 139 Ala. 657, 36 So. 763.

103. Where one who has contracted to sell land to another executes a deed to a third person and is threatened with a suit by the heirs of the person to whom he contracted to convey, he may, in a suit to enforce a vendor's lien, join as parties defendant all claimants of any interest in the land, and invoke the equity jurisdiction of the court to determine the respective rights of all defendants in the land and pray a cancellation of his deed if necessary. Ratliff v. Ratliff, 102 Va. 880, 47 S. E. 1007.

104. Wise v. Wolfe [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1191.

105. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2543, a defend-

VENUE AND PLACE OF TRIAL.

§ 1. The Proper Venue (1707).
A. The Nature of the Action (1797).
B. Local Actions; Actions Concerning Real Estate (1797).
C. Transitory Actions (1798).
D. Special Actions and Proceedings and Equitable Proceedings (1799).
E. Suits Against Corporations (1800).
F. De Facto Counties (1800).
G. Laying Venue and Effect of Improper Venue (1800).
§ 2. When Change Is Allowable, Necessary or Proper (1801).
§ 3. Procedure for Change (1802).
§ 4. Results of Change of Venue (1803).

§ 1. The proper venue. A. The nature of the action[1] is determined from the gravamen of the complaint,[2] or if it be not clear, from the prayer.[3] It is determined by the complaint as filed, and cannot be altered by amendment or by the answer.[4] As already seen in the topic Set-Off and Counterclaim, there must be a correspondence in form and remedy between the main action and that counterclaimed.[5] At common law, the test was the local or transitory character of the predicate for the cause of action.

Whether an action is local or transitory in its nature is now greatly affected by statutes, whereby some actions have been localized either as respects situs of their origin or domicile of the parties, some have been excepted from the ordinary rules, and in a few states the distinction has been abolished, and the domicile or other criteria adopted.[6]

(§ 1) B. Local actions; actions concerning real estate.[7]—Usually actions in replevin must be brought in county where the property is situated,[8] but in Indiana they must be brought in the county of defendant's residence.[9] Actions against municipal corporations[10] or boundary suits between parishes are local actions.[11] ant in an action to enforce a vendor's lien, who admits in his pleadings that he is in possession under the contract by which the lien was reserved and that the contract is as alleged in the complaint, cannot set up the statute of limitations as a bar to the suit. Bargo v. Bargo [Ky.] 86 S. W. 525.

106. In a suit to enforce a vendor's lien on land in possession of the vendee's wife, she being in possession and having a community interest in the land, the vendor is entitled to a judgment establishing the debt and for foreclosure of the lien, but should not be awarded the possession of the premises, since the wife is entitled to redeem by paying the judgment debt. Cavin v. Wichita Valley Town Site Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 342. Where the holder of a vendor's lien intervenes in an action to foreclose another lien, he should be allowed to recover interest and attorney's fees stipulated for in the lien notes, where it is decreed that his lien is enforceable against the land. Id. Under Civ. Code Colo. § 169, on a complaint to recover possession of land after default in the terms of the contract, the vendor may without prayer for equitable relief have a decree of sale to satisfy his vendor's lien. Smith v. Ellis [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 856; Gumaer v. Draper [Colo.] 79 P. 1040.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 2000.

2. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98; Jones v. Leopold, 95 App. Div. 404, 88 N. Y. S. 568; Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344.

3. Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66; Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 2000.

The amendment must not change the nature of the action. See Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980. The answer must be responsive to the complaint and is not appropriate to declaring on new or cross demands or liabilities. See Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980.

See, also, Forms of Action, 3 Curr. L. 1495.

5. See 4 Curr. L. 1425.

6. See 22 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 776, and post, this section.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 2000.

8. The clerk cannot transfer the case to the county of defendants' residence on affidavits that the action was intended to be in trover. State v. District Ct. of Hennepin County, 92 Minn. 205, 99 N. W. 806. Code, § 190, entitled to removal as matter of right to such county. Brown v. Cogdell, 136 N. C. 32, 48 S. E. 515. Action of replevin against a sheriff really in conversion and so could not be maintained. Woodling v. Mitchell [Iowa] 103 N. W. 15.

9. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 314, providing that in all other cases action shall be commenced in the county of defendant's residence, replevin cannot be brought where the goods are situated. Fry v. Shafor [Ind.] 74 N. E. 503.

10. If brought in wrong county, city does not waive rights by failing to appear. City of Nashville v. Webb [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 404.

11. May be brought in either parish affected. Parish of Caddo v. Parish of De Soto [La.] 38 So. 273; Parish of Caddo v. Parish of Red River [La.] 38 So. 274.

Actions regarding real estate, as actions to foreclose,[12] or as to disputed boundaries,[13] or to establish title in land,[14] or for enforcement of liens are local and must be brought in the county where the land or some part of it is situated,[15] but in the territories under act of congress, the actions must always be brought where the defendant resides.[16] An action for value of trees cut off plaintiff's land,[17] or to cancel a contract for the sale of land,[18] or for damages for breach of covenants in a deed,[19] or for an accounting in a business venture resulting in the purchase of lands, is not an action to determine rights in real property.[20] The situs of a patent follows that of the owner and belongs to his place of residence.[21]

(§ 1) C. Transitory actions.[22]—Transitory actions as a rule must always be brought in the county[23] or Federal district of the same state, where defendants, or one of them,[24] resides,[25] or is found,[26] provided there is jurisdiction of the persons or cause of action.[27] Thus a partnership,[28] parties jointly liable for fraud,[29] or joint trespassers, may be sued in any county where one of them has a residence;[30] but one must be entitled to recover from all of the defendants,[31] and

12. Though the appointment of a receiver is incidentally asked for by a foreign trust corporation not admitted to do business. Commercial Tel. Co. v. Territorial Bank & Trust Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 66. Action to foreclose should be in county where mining claim is [Rev. St. 1898, § 2928]. Fields v. Daisy Gold Min. Co., 26 Utah, 373, 73 P. 521. Though both parties reside outside of the state and the debt accrues outside. Wells v. Scanlan [Wis.] 102 N. W. 571.

13. By consent of parties may be tried in another county. Lyon v. Waggoner [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 46.

14. Action to be adjudged the owner of mining property and to require defendant to execute a conveyance thereof. McFarland v. Martin, 144 Cal. 771, 78 P. 239.

15. Where land was situated in two counties and judgment was erroneously entered for sale of land in county of suit, it might be set aside, and the court did not lose jurisdiction to render a judgment affecting land in both counties. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

16. Act Cong. May 2, 1890; Code Civ. Proc. § 48, requiring suits as to land to be brought in county where it is situated, is in conflict and void. Burke v. Malaby, 14 Okl. 650, 78 P. 105.

17. Suit in Tennessee may be brought for trees cut in Mississippi. West v. McClure [Miss.] 37 So. 752.

18. No relief as to any real estate record asked. State v. District Court of Pine County [Minn.] 102 N. W. 869.

19. Covenant of seisin and right to convey. Eames v. Armstrong, 136 N. C. 392, 48 S. E. 769.

20. Need not be tried in county where the land was situated. Barnes v. Barnhart, 92 N. Y. S. 459.

21. Jurisdiction cannot be obtained over nonresident owners of patents. Hildreth v. Thibodeau [Mass.] 71 N. E. 111.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 2001.

23. Suit may be brought in one state for value of trees cut off plaintiffs' land in another state. West v. McClure [Miss.] 37 So. 752. Jurisdiction cannot be acquired in another county by publication of summons and attachment of property over a resident of the territory. First Nat. Bank v. Hesser, 14 Okl. 115, 77 P. 36. A purchaser residing in another county cannot be made a party to an action by a real estate broker for commissions. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 217. An action by an agent to recover indemnity from his principal for judgment and expenses incurred because of a tort committed while acting in good faith under the principal's instructions, is properly brought in the county where both resided, though the tort was committed in another county. Hoggan v. Cahoon, 26 Utah, 444, 73 P. 512.

24. Judiciary Act of March 3, 1887, as amended by Act of Aug. 13, 1888, had not repealed the former practice, by provision that suit shall only be brought in the district of which either plaintiff or defendant is an inhabitant. John D. Park & Sons Co. v. Bruen, 133 F. 806.

25. Where defendant lived with his family and paid taxes was his place of residence, and not where he did business and where he had an apartment which he used while there. Washington v. Thomas, 92 N. Y. S. 994. Plaintiff's residence will be presumed to be as he alleges it to be until the contrary appears. Dabaghian v. Kaffafian [N. J. Law] 58 A. 106.

26. May be brought where the plaintiffs reside and defendants or any of them may be found. Where plaintiff brought suit in the county of his residence and defendant resided and was found in another county, the latter was entitled to a change as a matter of right. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

27. But under a statute requiring foreign corporations to appoint an agent to accept service in any action pertaining to property, business, or transactions within the state, jurisdiction cannot be obtained of an action for injuries in another state. Olson v. Buffalo Hump Min. Co., 130 F. 1017.

28. As will confer on the courts jurisdiction of his person, regardless of the place of his citizenship. J. B. Pyron & Son v. Ruohs, 120 Ga. 1060, 48 S. E. 434.

29. Sawyer v. J. F. Wieser & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1101.

30. Trespass on the case proper form of action at common law to recover for joint where the action is dismissed as to resident co-defendants, the nonresident defendant is entitled to a dismissal.[32] In some states an action for breach of contract may be tried in the county where the contract was to have been performed, as well as in the county of domicile or service,[33] or where the contract was made.

Actions against persons engaged in constructing a railroad on a contract relating thereto do not include a contract of a subcontractor for the purchase of grain for his horses.[34] In some states a "trespass,"[35] fraud,[36] or active wrong,[37] or any action ex delicto or part thereof,[38] may be sued where the cause of action arose. One count will sustain venue under such a provision, though others arose in a different county.[39] A suit against a sheriff joined with a nonresident plaintiff to a writ for abuse of process is properly brought in the county where the cause of action arose.[40] The place where a cause of action arises is not determined by the place where an action may be enforced.[41]

(§ 1) D. Special actions and proceedings and equitable proceedings. Divorce.[42]—Actions for divorce may be brought in county where plaintiff resides,[43] but the parties may stipulate for a change of venue.[44] libel. Cox v. Strickland, 120 Ga. 104, 47 S. E. 912.

31. In a suit for price of goods, plaintiff's agents cannot be joined and suit brought in the county of their residence on the plea that they were entitled to part of the recovery as their commission. Russell & Co. v. F. W. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 75. A suit against the maker and indorser of a note cannot be maintained in the county where the indorser resides, where the complaint discloses that the indorser is not liable because of failure to fix the same in time by suit or protest. Beauchamp v. Chester [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1055. Where one assigned a claim to secure a debt and guaranteed that $1,000 would be realized, the assignee could bring suit on the claim in the county of his assignor where the latter was joined as a defendant, though the assignment was made in order to bring suit in another county. Leahy v. Ortiz [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 824.

32. Action in replevin against sheriff in another county and against residents thereof. By dismissal as to all except the sheriff, the action became one in conversion and must be dismissed. Woodling v. Mitchell [Iowa] 103 N. W. 115.

33. Action on a nursery contract, there being an oral contract to replace all dead trees, could only be maintained in county of defendant's residence, where no act must necessarily have been done elsewhere. Moyers v. Council Bluffs Nursery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 508. Code, § 613; action on an open account for medical services is not such an action. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579. Where a consignee overpaid a consignor for cotton, the bill of lading with draft attached having been sent to a bank, he could sue in the county where the cotton was delivered and defendant could not remove the suit to the county of his residence. Callender, Holder & Co. v. Short [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 366. There being no designated place of payment, an action for the purchase price must be brought in the county wherein the purchaser resides, though the goods were to be delivered F. O. B. in another county. Russell & Co. v. F. W. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 75. Defendant consented to a divorce decree requiring him to pay certain rents to a bank for the use of his divorced wife, and was liable to suit therefor in the county where the bank was situated. Connellee v. Werenskiold [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 747.

34. Wilkinson v. McCarthy [Iowa] 103 N. W. 136.

35. Where plaintiff was injured by a piece of iron knocked off a stake while defendants were moving a house, he could not sue defendant in county where accident occurred, as that was not a trespass within the meaning of the statute. Stewart v. Nichols & Haralson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 339. Pasturing cattle knowingly with diseased cattle is either a trespass or a crime within the Texas statute. Baldwin v. Richardson [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 353.

36. See Trinity Valley Trust Co. v. Stockwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 793.

37. Culpepper v. Arkansas Southern R. Co., 110 La. 745, 34 So. 761.

38. Hoge v. Herzberg [Ala.] 37 So. 591.

39. Where as to one count the action was brought in the proper county, it was immaterial whether the other counts could be maintained in that jurisdiction. Hoge v. Herzberg [Ala.] 37 So. 591.

40. State v. District Court of Wright County, 92 Minn. 402, 100 N. W. 2. The defendants could not demand a change as in an action brought in the wrong county. Id.

41. The right of action given by the Kansas constitution to a creditor against a stockholder of an insolvent corporation arises in Kansas, though it may not be enforceable there. Anglo-American Land, Mortgage & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721. The provision of the constitution of Utah that all "business" arising in any county must be tried in that county has reference only to "causes of action" and not to mere matters or rights that may never be brought to trial. Art. 8, § 5. Gibbs v. Gibbs, 26 Utah, 382, 73 P. 641, overruling Konold v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 16 Utah, 151.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 2003.

43. But may be removed to county where adultery was committed unless defendant

Actions for penalties.[45]—Actions for penalty for unauthorized use of milk cans under the New York statute must be brought in county where owner resides and not where the penalty was incurred.[46]

(§ 1) E. Suits against corporations[47] are regulated almost wholly by statutes under which they are usually suable, in the county where their principal place of business is, or in the county where the obligation or liability arises,[48] though it has no agency there;[49] but in Texas a suit for a receiver must be brought in the county where the principal office of the corporation is located,[50] in which state suits against railroads for personal injuries may be brought in the county of plaintiff's residence or in the county where the accident occurred,[51] and suits against connecting carriers for damages, may be brought in any county where one of them has its lines.[52]

Suits against municipal corporations are local.[53]

(§ 1) F. De facto counties[54] may constitute a venue.

(§ 1) G. Laying venue[55] and effect of improper venue.[56]—The summons and complaint must specify the place where plaintiff desires trial,[57] but it is not necessary to lay a venue in the statement of claim.[58] The action is triable in the county which plaintiff designates, where there is no evidence that either of the parties resided in the state at the commencement of the action.[59]

The right of venue is absolute when properly invoked,[60] and where suit is brought in the wrong county, defendant is entitled to have the judgment reversed,[61] and where a defendant against whom plaintiff has no claim is fraudufalls to object. Gibbs v. Gibbs, 26 Utah, 382, 73 P. 641. Sufficient that plaintiff is a resident of the state, and the fact that the action is brought in the wrong county is not jurisdictional. Cochran v. Cochran [Minn.] 101 N. W. 179.

44. The son having been made a cross defendant, he joined in the stipulation. Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517, 77 P. 842.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 2003.

46. Not controlled by Code Civ. Proc. § 983, providing that actions for penalties must be tried in the county where the cause of action arose. Bell v. Polymero, 90 N. Y. S. 920.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 2003.

48. In a libel suit a change from the county where the paper circulated to the county where it was published was refused. Tingley v. Times-Mirror Co., 144 Cal. 205, 77 P. 918. Railroad corporation. Atlantic Coast R. Co. v. Dupont [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103. Action on certificate of membership of a fraternal benefit association may be brought in county of member's residence at the time of his death, and the return of the officer making service should show the reason of service on the local agent. Hildebrand v. United Artisans [Or.] 79 P. 347. Where an accident was due to defective tracks, it was more than a mere "fault of omission," and action could be brought in the parish of the injury. Culpepper v. Arkansas Southern R. Co., 110 La. 745, 34 So. 761. Action of fraud may be in county where committed, though corporation has no local agency [Rev. St. 1895, art. 1194, subd. 7]. Trinity Valley Trust Co. v. Stockwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 793.

49. An action of fraud may be sued in the county where it was alleged to be committed. Trinity Valley Trust Co. v. Stockwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 793.

50. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1488. Commercial Tel. Co. v. Territorial Bank & Trust Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 66.

51. The residence of one employed for an indefinite time is where he establishes his headquarters and boards and sleeps, and not where he intends to return some time in the indefinite future. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 822.

52. Plea that the carrier whose line was in the county was fraudulently joined is valid, but error in striking it out was harmless where such carrier was found liable for a part of the damage. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302.

53. Execution on a judgment obtained in another county will be enjoined. City of Nashville v. Webb [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 404. See, also, ante, this section.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 2004.

55. See, also, Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 2004.

57. Where the summons specified one county and the complaint which had been retained by defendant specified another county, the action was pending in the latter county. Tolhurst v. Howard, 94 App. Div. 439, 88 N. Y. S. 235.

58. Action for goods sold. American Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Smith Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 176.

59. An affidavit that affiant resides in a certain county does not show his residence there at the time of the commencement of the action. Burke v. Frenkel, 97 App. Div. 19, 89 N. Y. S. 621.

60. Where suit brought in wrong county, judgment will be reversed and action dismissed. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 822.

61. Suit against railroad not at principal office or where wrong was committed. Atlently joined,[62] or where plaintiff has not acted in good faith, the action will be dismissed.[63] Improper venue may be waived by a general appearance of defendant,[64] or by the consent[65] or conduct of the parties.[66]

§ 2. When change is allowable, necessary or proper.[67]—Where the action is brought in the wrong district,[68] a change is allowable if a demand is made for a transfer before joinder of issue.[69] The right is not waived by obtaining an extension of the time to answer.[70] The right to a change cannot be defeated by joining other causes of action.[71] Where the venue is correct, defendants cannot affect a change by agreement among themselves.[72]

A party has in ordinary cases the right to a change on the ground of prejudice of the judge,[73] or because he is a party to a proceeding, or interested in the event,[74] or for any cause which disqualifies him from acting,[75] or on the ground that an officer of the court is a party, unless provision is made by statute for another person's acting.[76] In Montana, when an affidavit of prejudice of the judge is filed, a motion for change of venue will be allowed unless within 30 days another judge appears.[77] lantic Coast R. Co. v. Dupont [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103.

62. Plaintiff sued two railroad corporations on a joint contract and evidence showed that one was in no wise liable. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Waddell Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 655.

63. Plaintiff before suit swore that defendant's residence was unknown to him, but he did receive information a day or two before the suit was brought by publication. Mills v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 33.

64. Right of defendant to be sued in the district of his residence is a personal privilege and not strictly jurisdictional. Von Voight v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 130 F. 398. Code Civ. Proc. § 315 gave N. Y. City Court jurisdiction over an action against a domestic corporation where a money judgment was sought; here suit was brought against a corporation resident in another county for personal injuries. Mulligan v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 288.

65. By consent of parties, action to establish boundaries was moved to another county, and the court held that on defendant filing a cross complaint to compel the conveyance of the land in question, plaintiff could not remove the suit to the county where the land was situated. Lyon v. Waggoner [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 46.

66. Where, through inadvertence, the county named in the complaint differs from that in the summons and both parties act on the assumption that the county named in the summons is the place of trial, the mistake does not change it. Bell v. Polymero, 90 N. Y. S. 920.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 2004.

68. Suit for recovery of personal property brought in county of plaintiff's residence may be removed by defendant as matter of right to county where the property is situated. Brown v. Cogdell, 136 N. C. 32, 48 S. E. 515. Divorce action may be removed to county where the adultery was committed. Gibbs v. Gibbs, 26 Utah, 382, 73 P. 641.

69. In writing, or in open court specifying the district to which transfer is demanded, a demand to transfer "to some other district" is insufficient. Fischer v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 84 N. Y. S. 254. Properly denied where no evidence of any demand made before answering, and evidence insufficient to show the residence of parties, or that the convenience of witnesses would be served by a change. Cochran v. Cochran [Minn.] 101 N. W. 179.

70. Grant v. Bannister, 145 Cal. 219, 78 P. 653.

71. Right to change clear in two out of three causes of action and change granted. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

72. Where suit was brought in the county of residence of one of the defendants, they cannot join and secure its removal to county of residence of the other defendant. State v. District Court of Wright County, 92 Minn. 402, 100 N. W. 2.

73. Smith v. King of Arizona Min. & Mill Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 357. Affidavit of prejudice of judge where suit was pending, of all the other judges of the court, and of the inhabitants of the county, was only effective as to the judge where the suit was pending, and he properly transferred the suit to another judge. Gerhart Realty Co. v. Welter [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 278. No evidence can be heard against the application, but party entitled to only one change and cannot by his affidavit disqualify other judges. Eudaley v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 366. Act Dec. 10, 1903, amendatory of Code Civ. Proc. § 180, providing for change for disqualification of the judge, does not apply to contempt proceedings. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 77 P. 318.

74. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 228, § 16, but the disqualification of wardens of a town is no ground for mandamus by a private individual to require certification of complaints to a district court. Williams v. Champlin [R. I.] 59 A. 75.

75. The ground for a change must be one of the facts enumerated in the statute. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918.

76. Sergeant of a city whose duty it was to summon a jury. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853.

77. But no motion for change of judge is proper [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 180, 615].

A change of venue is usually authorized by statute when necessary for the convenience of witnesses,[78] and to promote the ends of justice.[79] Where a majority of witnesses reside in the county of defendant's residence,[80] or in the county where the cause of action arose, a change will be granted.[81] The rule that venue will not be changed for convenience of experts does not include those who testify to value from personal experience. Witnesses who could not furnish any material evidence may be disregarded.[82] A plaintiff may apply for a change of venue on this ground.[83] A change may be granted on the ground that essential evidence is located in another county.[84]

Local prejudice such as to prevent a fair and impartial trial,[85] or the undue influence of an adversary in the county, is a ground for a change of venue[86] in the sound discretion of the court.[87] The court must try the issue on all of the evidence,[88] and not decide the question on an examination of the jury panels merely.[89] The right to a change of venue may be denied on the ground of laches.[90] The ruling on a change of venue may be corrected on appeal,[91] provided proper exception has been made,[92] but it will not be disturbed unless there was an abuse of discretion or palpable error.[93]

§ 3. Procedure for change.[94]—The motion cannot be made in county where action should have been brought.[95] The demand must be served with or before

State v. District Court of Second Jud. Dist. [Mont.] 77 P. 318.

78. Where all witnesses except plaintiff resided in the county to which the change was made, the order would not be reversed, though the affidavit did not give the names of the witnesses or the testimony expected from them. Grant v. Bannister, 145 Cal. 219, 78 P. 653. Plaintiff applied on affidavit of its managing agent, which was not contradicted. Robertson Lumber Co. v. Jones [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1082. Venue may be changed where witnesses must necessarily produce books which are in daily use by a going corporation, the plaintiff alone being discommoded. Groff v. Rome Metallic Bedstead Co., 90 N. Y. S. 691.

79. In a suit for false representations in the prospectus of a corporation brought by plaintiff in the county where he read and acted upon them, it was not improper to refuse to transfer to the county where defendants lived and where most of the transactions to be examined occurred, and many of the witnesses lived, as it was not clear that the convenience of the witnesses would be promoted and the court calendar there was congested. Kavanaugh v. Mercantile Trust Co., 94 App. Div. 575, 88 N. Y. S. 113.

80. Action for breach of contract made and to be performed in county of defendants' residence. Church v. Swigert, 90 N. Y. S. 939.

81. Action in county of Lewis on action arising in county of N. Y. and plaintiff the only witness residing in the county of Lewis. Larocque v. Conhaim, 45 Misc. 234, 92 N. Y. S. 99.

82. Groff v. Rome Metallic Bedstead Co., 90 N. Y. S. 691.

83. Code Civ. Proc. § 987. Remedy is by motion and not by amendment of the declaration. Lindsley v. Sheldon, 43 Misc. 116, 88 N. Y. S. 192.

84. Within discretion of judge. Eames v. Armstrong, 136 N. C. 392, 48 S. E. 769.

85. Discretion properly exercised in refusing a change because of prejudice against defendant corporation where plaintiff was a negro who lived in another state and probably had no influence on the jury. Louisiana & N. W. R. Co. v. Smith [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242.

86. Ky. St. 1903, § 1094, does not authorize change for undue influence of adversary's counsel. Louisville & E. R. Co. v. Poulter's Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 576.

87. Fitzhugh v. Nicholas [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1092.

88. Where there are counter affidavits, the court must hear evidence on the issue and determine the same on the merits. Eudaley v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 366.

89. Court examined jury panels as to prejudice, but it did not appear that this was the sole evidence before the court, so it was presumed that the refusal was justified. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 87 S. W. 440.

90. Motion made 26 months after issue joined and after there had been one trial resulting in a disagreement was made too late. Haines v. Reynolds, 95 App. Div. 275, 88 N. Y. S. 589.

91. Eudaley v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 366. It involves the merits of the action. Robertson Lumber Co. v. Jones [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1082.

92. Where venue changed to a county not contiguous because of prejudice of inhabitants and of judges, and for the latter cause venue could only be changed to a contiguous county, it would be presumed that the change was made for the first cause. Wright v. Kansas City [Mo.] 86 S. W. 452.

93. No abuse where the larger number of witnesses resided in the county of defendants' residence. Pattison v. Hines, 93 N. Y. S. 1071; Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 2006.

95. Should be filed in county where ac-

answer,[96] or plea of privilege,[97] or motion for removal must be filed before the time for answering expires.[98] In Indiana the demand must be made on or before the third day after the return of the summons.[99] The plea of privilege is not waived by a continuance.[1] A change cannot be granted where no notice is given to the adverse party.[2] An application made after trial is too late in any case.[3] In the case of justices of the peace, the change must usually be to a justice of the peace of the same village or to a justice of a town adjoining a village.[4] Affidavits must be specific as to the time and place of the residence of the parties.[5] The averments of the petition are accepted as true for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction,[6] unless defendant avers that they were fraudulently made.[7] The procedure in New York is by motion where demanded for the convenience of witnesses.[8]

§ 4. Results of change of venue.[9]—The court to which the change is made acquires full jurisdiction,[10] unless the change is illegal, when it acquires none.[11]

If a change be defective, the defect may be waived by a counter application for a further change.[12]

VERDICTS AND FINDINGS.

§ 1. Definitions and Nature (1804).
§ 2. General Verdicts (1804).
§ 3. Special Interrogatories and Verdicts (1804).
§ 4. Conflicts Between Verdicts and Findings (1807).
§ 5. Separate Verdicts as to Different Counts, Causes of Action, or Parties (1808).
§ 6. Submission to Jury, Rendition and Return (1808).
§ 7. Amendment and Correction (1810).
§ 8. Recording, Entry and Effect of Verdict; Impeachment (1811).
§ 9. Findings by Court or Referee (1812).
§ 10. Objections and Exceptions (1816).

The present title treats of verdicts, general and special, and findings of fact tion in fact was brought. Bell v. Polymero, 90 N. Y. S. 920.

96. The fact that a demurrer was overruled after the demand had been made was immaterial. Washington v. Thomas, 92 N. Y. S. 994.

97. Where the plea was improperly stricken the error was harmless where the findings were such as to negative the allegations of the plea. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302.

98. Matter of right in actions for recovery of personal property. Brown v. Cogdell, 136 N. C. 32, 48 S. E. 515. After default, defendant cannot object that the statement of claim was insufficient because it did not lay venue. American Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Smith Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 176.

99. Such a rule of court is reasonable, and on an appeal from county commissioners, the time began to run when the case stood for trial 10 days after the filing of the transcript. Perdue v. Gill [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 844.

1. The order specially stating that it was made without prejudice. Leahy v. Ortiz [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 824.

2. Mills' Ann. Code, § 30. Fitzhugh v. Nicholas [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1092. Proper to refuse where failed to give notice to adverse party, or to file verified petition. Louisville & E. R. Co. v. Poulter's Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 576.

3. Motion on the ground of prejudice of judge, but no notice ever given. Smith v. King of Arizona Min. & Mill. Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 357.

4. Not to a justice of a town adjoining the town in which the village is located. Wadena Cracker Co. v. Gaylord [Minn.] 101 N. W. 72.

5. Affidavit that affiant resides in a certain county does not show that he resided in such county at the time of the commencement of the action. Burke v. Frenkel, 97 App. Div. 19, 89 N. Y. S. 621. Affidavit that a party was a resident of a certain county at the commencement of the suit was a mere conclusion of law; but allegations on information and belief are sufficient where the sources of the information are given. Boyle v. Standard Oil Co., 92 N. Y. S. 677.

6. Where the original pleadings are not on file, the appellate court may treat the copy of the pleadings set out in the transcript made on the change of venue as a sufficiently certified copy of the original pleadings. Indianapolis & G. Rapid Transit Co. v. Andis, 33 Ind. App. 625, 72 N. E. 145. Plaintiff's residence presumed to be as he alleges it until the contrary appears. Dabaghian v. Kaffafian [N. J. Law] 58 A. 106.

7. Defendant not entitled to be sued in county of domicile for pasturing plaintiff's cattle with infected cattle. Baldwin v. Richardson [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 353.

8. Not by an amendment of plaintiff's declaration. Lindsley v. Sheldon, 43 Misc. 116, 88 N. Y. S. 192.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 2008.

10. The court to which a case has been transferred has jurisdiction to order a nunc pro tunc entry on notice to the other party. Indianapolis & G. Rapid Transit Co. v. Andis, 33 Ind. App. 625, 72 N. E. 145.

11. Clerk transferred a replevin case on affidavits that it was intended to be in trover, but brought in replevin to defeat defendant's right to a transfer. Jones v. District Ct. of Hennepin County, 92 Minn. 205, 99 N. W. 806.

12. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. McCarrell [Ind.] 71 N. E. 156.

and of law in civil cases.[13] It does not cover the procedure anterior[14] or posterior to them.[15]

§ 1. Definitions and nature.[16]—In a general verdict the jury apply the law to the facts and pronounce generally upon all the issues;[17] in a special verdict they find the facts only and the trial judge determines their legal effect.[18]

§ 2. General verdicts.[19]—A general verdict determines all material issues, in its favor,[20] and every reasonable presumption will be indulged in its support,[21] though if the amount shows that it was based upon an error, it will be set aside.[22] Where mere title to a specific thing is involved, the verdict should be for a party generally.[23]

The verdict should not present the evidence.[24] Informalities, verbal inaccuracies, and technical defects, are to be disregarded.[25] In Illinois a jury cannot be required in their general verdict to specify under what count or counts of the declaration the same is returned.[26]

Interest is not allowable on a verdict for unliquidated damages for the time between its finding and the rendition of judgment thereon.[27]

§ 3. Special interrogatories and verdicts. When proper.[28]—At common law the practice of submitting special interrogatories to a jury was not allowed,[29]

13. For verdicts and findings in criminal cases see Indictment and Prosecution, 4 Curr. L. 1.

14. See Jury (selection and requisites), 4 Curr. L. 358; Trial (conduct and custody of jury), 4 Curr. L. 1716.

15. See Judgments (conformity to findings and legal sufficiency thereof and judgment non obstante) 4 Curr. L. 287; New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 4 Curr. L. 810; Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 2009.

17. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5444, considered. Morrison v. Lee [N. D.] 102 N. W. 223. A general verdict is the response of the jury to the whole of the evidence in the cause. Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Hardendorf [Ind.] 72 N. E. 593. See 2 Curr. L. 2009, n. 35.

18. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5444, considered. Morrison v. Lee [N. D.] 102 N. W. 223. See 2 Curr. L. 2009, n. 36.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 2009.

20. Is a finding of all disputed questions of fact in favor of the prevailing party. Busher v. New York Life Ins. Co., 72 N. H. 551, 58 A. 41. In an action for personal injuries, the effect of a general verdict for plaintiff is that all material allegations of the complaint have been proved, that defendant has been guilty of actionable negligence, or the omission of a statutory duty, and that this negligence or omission was the proximate cause of the injury. Foster v. Bemis Indianapolis Bag Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 953. Where the jury made no special findings as to defendant's plea of reconvention, but returned a verdict for plaintiff for the full amount claimed the verdict should be construed as a finding against defendant on such plea. De Witt v. Berger Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 334. A verdict for the "foreclosure of plaintiff's lien" includes a finding that the lien existed. Fontaine v. Nuse [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 852. Except as saved by an exception to some ruling of law is conclusive as to all questions. Paul v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 951.

21. Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Hardendorf [Ind.] 72 N. E. 593; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571. In an action against an initial carrier for damages to cattle while in the hands of a connecting carrier, the jury finding that it was not all of defendant's contract to safely deliver the cattle, held, such provision would be presumed to be contained in the further part of the contract in order to sustain a general verdict for plaintiff. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Woodward [Ind.] 72 N. E. 558. Also in such case it was presumed that the cattle were delivered to the connecting carrier in good condition. Id.

22. A verdict for less than the full amount of license fees due on poles and wires of an interstate telegraph company will be considered void because based upon an exercise of the police power which the court and jury must have deemed unreasonable. Postal Tel.-Cable Co. v. New Hope, 192 U. S. 55, 48 Law. Ed. 338.

23. Should not be against the other for a stated sum. King Optical Co. v. Royal Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 527.

24. Should not set forth the conduct from which an agreement to pay is implied. Brown v. Ricketts, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 675.

25. Gillespie v. Ashford [Iowa] 101 N. W. 649. Verdict in the following form, which, except as to the figures and signature, was prepared by the court: "We the jury find for the plaintiff * * * in the sum of $113.91. We the jury find for the defendants. Melvin Brooks, Foreman,"—held for plaintiff. Id.

26. Junction Min. Co. v. Ench, 111 Ill. App. 346. This information can only be obtained by resort to the statute authorizing the submission of special findings or interrogatories. Id.

27. Clyde Milling & Elevator Co. v. Buoy [Kan.] 80 P. 591. See Interest, 4 Curr. L. 241.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 2010.

29. Gila Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 80 P. 337.

though at the present day the practice is incorporated into the statutes of most of the states. As a rule these statutes, unless mandatory in terms,[30] are construed as permitting the practice, but leaving its exercise in the discretion of the court.[31] It is improper to submit such special interrogatories without notice to counsel and an opportunity given them to argue the same.[32] Where the element of responsible causation appears as a matter of law from the evidence and other facts found, no specific finding on the subject is necessary.[33] In Texas a waiver of a general charge is not essential.[34]

Requests for and submission of special issues or interrogatories.[35]—Unless the court announces that it will not submit an issue,[36] a party cannot complain of its nonsubmission unless he requests its submission,[37] though in this connection it should be remembered that it is the duty of the court to submit such issues as are sufficient to dispose of the controversy and enable the court to proceed to judgment.[38] Generally a request for the submission of an issue must be in writing.[39]

Form and requisites of special interrogatories.[40]—While no single interrogatory should require an answer determinative of the case,[41] yet the interrogatories, as a whole, should cover all material[42] issues of fact raised by the pleadings and controverted by the evidence,[43] each question admitting of an answer in the negative or affirmative;[44] but the court should not attempt to embody all the facts and circumstances as in a hypothetical question to an expert,[45] and should not copiously recite the testimony.[46] The interrogatories should not be directed to counts[47] or facts[48] unsupported by the evidence. If the form of the question sub-

30. Rev. St. 1898, § 2858, requiring the court to submit special verdicts, covering the material issues of facts, when requested by the parties, is mandatory. Pearson v. Kelly [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1064.

31. Gila Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 80 P. 337. Rev. St. 1901, par. 1427, providing that the court may submit such interrogatories, so construed. Id. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. Supp. p. 156, art. 1333, providing that a case shall not be submitted on special issues unless requested by a party, held such submission is discretionary with the trial judge. Home Circle Soc. No. 2 v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 320. The submission of special questions lies in the discretion of the court. Elwell v. Roper, 72 N. H. 585, 58 A. 507.

32. Chicago City R. Co. v. Jordan [Ill.] 74 N. E. 452.

33. Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1051.

34. York v. Hilger [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1117.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 2011.

36. If it so announces, the aggrieved party need not request its submission. Falkner v. Pilcher & Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 945.

37. Must tender the issue. Falkner v. Pilcher & Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 945. Where the case has been tried and judgment entered on a special verdict, the court cannot at the instance of the losing party try controverted issues tendered by such party on the trial, but which he omitted to have submitted to the jury. Coke v. Ikard [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 869.

38. Falkner v. Pilcher & Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 945.

39. In Texas it seems that the request need not be in writing. Stahl v. Askey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 79. See, also, York v. Hilger [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1117.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 2011.

41. Morrow v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 468.

42. Where the evidence was conflicting as to whether gangrene was caused by endocarditis or vice versa, a special interrogatory as to whether endocarditis existed before the accident alleged to have caused death held properly refused, as an affirmative answer could not have affected the general verdict. Morrow v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 468.

43. Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1051. Facts must be provable within the issues. Interrogatory as to whether jury gave plaintiff damages because of written or because of oral contract held properly refused. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608. Should not be directed to conceded and undisputed facts. Morrow v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 468. Where the vendee made no claim that vendor guaranteed quantity of land, held error to submit an interrogatory as to the existence of such a guaranty. Boddy v. Henry [Iowa] 101 N. W. 447. In personal injury suits should include a question covering the subject of proximate cause, and explain it so the jury may answer intelligently. Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1051.

44. Hallum v. Omro [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1051.

45. Knickel v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 690. In an action for damages by fire, held not error to refuse to insert after word "locomotive" the words "properly equipped with proper spark-arresting machinery in good condition." Id.

46. Jenkins v. Beachy [Kan.] 80 P. 947.

47. Should not be directed to counts unsupported by evidence. Chicago City R. Co. v. Jordan [Ill.] 74 N. E. 452.

48. Evidence that president of corporation presented claim for compensation at direcmitting an issue to the jury is insufficient to require a finding of the necessary facts upon which such issue is made to depend, and for a proper determination thereof, the party complaining should request in writing a finding of such additional facts.[49] In the absence of such request, the imperfect submission of the issue or the failure to submit it altogether is not ground for reversal.[50]

Special interrogatories must relate only to ultimate facts,[51] must not call for a conclusion of law,[52] or for a conclusion which must be based on a finding of several facts.[53] The interrogatory must not be ambiguous,[54] nor call for a single answer to a compound question.[55] Time being essential, it should be made an element of the question.[56] In tort actions interrogatories requiring the jury to itemize its elements of damages should be refused.[57]

Form and requisites of special verdict.[58]—The verdict should be a specific[59] and responsive[60] answer to all issues submitted;[61] but argumentative or indirect answers, while not commendable, are not always ground for reversal,[62] and the one in whose favor an ambiguous answer is construed cannot complain thereof.[63] In order to take advantage of failure to answer interrogatories, one must have requested that they be answered when returned unanswered.[64] Where the sole issue in the case is submitted in form of a special issue, it is immaterial whether the tor's meeting held insufficient to warrant the submission of question whether there was an "express or implied contract" for compensation. Lowe v. Ring [Wis.] 101 N. W. 698.

49. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1331, considered. York v. Hilger [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1117.

50. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1331, considered. York v. Hilger [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1117; A. E. Holly & Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 325. Such article 1331 applies only to cases submitted on special issues by the court. Union Carpet Lining Co. v. George F. Miller & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 651.

51. Chicago & Alton R. Co. v. Bell, 111 Ill. App. 280; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Willard, 111 Ill. App. 225. Interrogatories in the nature of a cross-examination of the jurors concerning the methods of their deliberations held properly refused. Greenlee v. Mosnat [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1122.

Must not relate to evidentiary matters: Interrogatories as to whether car ran into child or child into car held improperly submitted. Chicago City R. Co. v. Jordan [Ill.] 74 N. E. 452. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 555. Interrogatory as to whether goods were ordered by certain letters held properly refused. O. M. Cockrum Co. v. Klein [Ind.] 74 N. E. 529.

52. Boddy v. Henry [Iowa] 101 N. W. 447. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 655. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Yeagley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1035. In an action on a policy, a special interrogatory requesting a finding whether insurer's local agent had authority to consent to incumbrances on the property held properly refused. Id.

53. Special interrogatories as to the cause of gangrenous condition held properly refused. Morrow v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 468.

54. Interrogatory as to whether gangrenous condition was caused by a fall or by endocarditis held ambiguous. Morrow v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 468.

55. A special interrogatory whether plaintiff knew, or had reason to know, that a bridge was unsafe held objectionable. Jones v. Shelby County, 124 Iowa, 551, 100 N. W. 520. Question whether there was an "express or implied" contract held faulty. Lowe v. Ring [Wis.] 101 N. W. 698.

56. A special interrogatory as to whether plaintiff saw notice of unsafe condition of bridge held objectionable as not limiting the jury to a time before the accident. Jones v. Shelby County, 124 Iowa, 551, 100 N. W. 520.

57. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 479; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ind.] 74 N. E. 509.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 2012.

59. The time of use by a buyer being material, an answer, "We do not know," to a special interrogatory as to the length of such time should be referred back for a more specific answer. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Dailey [Kan.] 79 P. 158. An answer "No" to the issue whether a sale of goods was fraudulent or was to secure the payment of a valid debt is uncertain. Riske v. Rotan Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 243.

60. An answer "No" to the issue whether anything was paid for certain notes is not responsive unless construed to mean nothing. Riske v. Rotan Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 243.

61. A finding is not essential in matters not submitted. City of San Antonio v. L. A. Marshall & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 315.

62. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [Kan.] 79 P. 130.

63. Where certain interrogatories answered "Doubtful," were treated as equivalent to negative answers in favor of defendant, the latter cannot complain that they were not sufficiently specific. Norman v. Hopper [Wash.] 80 P. 551.

64. Mayo v. Halley, 124 Iowa, 675, 100 N. W. 529.

finding of the jury be "Yes" or "No" or a finding for or against a party.[65] An answer to a question submitted upon a condition which does not occur may be disregarded.[66] Where one is not entitled to judgment on answers to interrogatories, a refusal to require certain of the answers to be rendered more specific is harmless.[67]

Interpretation and construction.[68]—A special finding shows that the facts stated, as the jury believed, were proven upon the trial, and that they were probably considered by the jury,[69] and such construction cannot be extended by argument.[70] Technical words do not necessarily receive a technical interpretation.[71]

§ 4. Conflicts between verdicts and findings.[72] General verdicts.—Inconsistent verdicts, rendered by the same jury and upon the same testimony, being irreconcilable with each other, should be set aside,[73] unless one is unmistakably right and the other manifestly wrong, in which case the correct one may be sustained and the other set aside.[74]

General verdicts and special findings.[75]—If reasonably possible, special findings should be construed so as to harmonize with and uphold the general verdict,[76] and they will only control when there is an irreconcilable conflict,[77] apparent upon the face of the record,[78] and beyond the possibility of being removed or reconciled by any evidence legitimately admissible under the issues in the case.[79] All rea-

65. Stahl v. Askey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 79.

66. Where question was submitted to be answered in case a previous question was answered affirmatively, and the latter was answered in the negative. McGeehan v. Gaar, Scott & Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1072.

67. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 552.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 2013.

69. Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Hardendorf [Ind.] 72 N. E. 593.

70. On a trial in which there was a cause of action on an oral contract and one on a written contract, a special finding that the jury had considered the statute of frauds and the question of ratification cannot be extended so as to have the effect of showing that the verdict was founded on the oral contract. Ellis v. Block [Mass.] 73 N. E. 475.

71. The word "neglect" held capable of implying an omission or failure merely without regard to the question of legal negligence. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Willard, 111 Ill. App. 225.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 2014.

73. Stevens v. Walker [Me.] 58 A. 53. So held where two cases, one for personal trespass and one for malicious prosecution, were brought by the same plaintiff against the same defendant and were tried together before the same jury. Id.

74. Stevens v. Walker [Me.] 58 A. 53. When contradictory verdicts are returned in favor, respectively, of two several parties, it is the duty of the court to ascertain whether there is any error, and, if not, which of them, if either, is such as only could be upheld by the evidence, and, if either of them is such, to render a judgment of affirmance thereon, disposing of the other as the law and the relations of the parties require. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McManegal [Neb.] 103 N. W. 305. Where, in a joint action against a principal and agent for negligence, there is a judgment, supported by the evidence, in favor of the latter, held, there should be a judgment for the principal, though there is a verdict against it. Id.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 2014.

76. Burnell v. Bradbury, 69 Kan. 444, 77 P. 85. In an action for an assault, special findings awarding $1 punitive damages and no actual damages construed and held to mean nominal damages, there being a general verdict of $1. Id.

77. Flickner v. Lambert [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 263; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Newsom [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 21. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 556. Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Hardendorf [Ind.] 72 N. E. 593.

78. Flickner v. Lambert [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 263.

79. Smith v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 928; Flickner v. Lambert [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 263; Farmers' Ins. Ass'n v. Reavis [Ind.] 71 N. E. 905. Where, in an action on a fire policy in which the complaint contained a cause of action on an account stated, an answer to a special interrogatory showing that there was a mere statement by defendant's agent as to when plaintiff would probably get his money, held not to overrule a general verdict. Id. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571. In an action for injury resulting from collision with street car, special findings that plaintiff did not look for the car and heard it approaching, held not to overcome general verdict in her favor. Id. Where special findings show contributory negligence, they should prevail over a general verdict for plaintiff in a personal injury suit. National Brass Mfg. Co. v. Rawlings [Kan.] 80 P. 628; Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053. In an action for personal injuries, answers to special interrogatories disclosing that the work was not dangerous, any danger being obvious and appreciated by plaintiff and avoidable by the use of ordinary care, held inconsistent with general verdict for plaintiff. Foster v. Bemis Indianapolis Bag Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 953. Where, in an action for personal injuries, the general verdict proceeded sonable presumptions will be indulged in favor of the general verdict,[80] and nothing can be presumed in favor of the special findings or answers to interrogatories.[81] An inaccurate answer affords no ground for setting aside the general verdict.[82] The special findings prevailing, a judgment non obstante may be entered.[83]

Between special findings.[84]—Inconsistent[85] answers to interrogatories neutralize one another, and the findings of the general verdict prevail.[86]

§ 5. Separate verdicts as to different counts, causes of action, or parties.[87]—A single cause of action being stated in separate counts, a general verdict is good,[88] though upon request it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury to bring in separate verdicts on different counts;[89] but this right is waived by the failure to make such request.[90] Where causes are consolidated but the plaintiffs have no joint interest in the recovery sought, separate findings are necessary.[91] Where several causes of action are joined, a single verdict is not severable.[92] A general verdict against one of two defendants is a finding in favor of the other.[93]

§ 6. Submission to jury, rendition and return.[94]—Whenever there are any questions of fact in evidence, the case must be submitted to the jury[95] under proper instructions,[96] and according to the orderly methods of trial procedure.[97]

The court may submit the form of the verdict, and there being but one possible legal result, but one form need be submitted.[98] Failure to submit a particular form is not erroneous in the absence of a request therefor.[99] While the usual on the theory that the proximate cause was uncovered cogwheels and the special findings showed that the proximate cause was a loose piece of iron on the floor, held conflict irreconcilable. P. H. & F. M. Roots Co. v. Meeker [Ind.] 73 N. E. 253.

Special findings that deceased did not look or listen for second train and that such train was running at an excessive speed, held not inconsistent with a general verdict for plaintiff for deceased's wrongful death. Smith v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 928. A verdict of $200, in an action for personal injuries where the damages were to be limited to medical expenses and compensation for loss of time, taking into consideration whether injuries were temporary or permanent, is not inconsistent with special verdicts allowing $16 for loss of time and $50 for physician. City of Eureka v. Neville [Kan.] 80 P. 39. In an action for injuries by collision with a street car, answers to interrogatories showing that motorman rang his gong, was in a proper position and paying attention, that danger was apparent when car was within 40 feet of buggy and could have been stopped within 35 feet, held not inconsistent with general verdict for plaintiff. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 169. Answer to interrogatory assuming what was not established by any other answer, viz., that plaintiff was entirely off sidewalk when injured, held not to establish contributory negligence in the face of a general verdict for plaintiff. City of Vincennes v. Spees [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 531.

80. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571. See, also, Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Woodward [Ind.] 72 N. E. 558; Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Hardendorf [Ind.] 72 N. E. 593.

81. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571.

82. Where interrogatories did not call for important or ultimate facts. Kuehl v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 512.

83. See Judgments, 4 Curr. L. 287.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 2015.

85. Findings that wheat was shipped as specified, but was worthless when received, held inconsistent, there being no evidence of damage to it during shipment. Commerce Milling & Grain Co. v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 73. In an action for the breach of an implied warranty of sale, answers that article was rejected in January, 1899, and was used until May, 1899, held not inconsistent. Graham v. Hatch Storage Battery Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 532. Inconsistency in answers that amounts expended by a city for improvements were necessary but unreasonable, held explained by an answer to a question as to the amount that was unnecessary or unreasonable. City of San Antonio v. L. A. Marshall & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 315.

86. Flickner v. Lambert [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 263.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 2015.

88. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 137.

89, 90. Goodale v. Rohan [Conn.] 58 A. 4.

91. Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 439.

92. Higby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 452, 58 A. 858.

93. Taylor v. Houston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 260.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 2016.

95. Directing Verdict and Demurrer to Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1093; Discontinuance, Dismissal and Nonsuit, 3 Curr. L. 1097. As to what are questions of fact, see Questions of Law and Fact, 4 Curr. L. 1165.

96. Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133.

97. Trial, 4 Curr. L. 1708.

98. Is not prejudicial error. Seidel v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 77.

99. Triggs v. McIntyre [Ill.] 74 N. E. 400.

and better practice, where the court directs the verdict, is that a formal, written verdict be returned by the jury, the absence thereof is not fatal.[1] The court may require the jury to indicate the paragraph of the charge or the issue upon which they base their verdict.[2]

In the absence of statutory authority, the verdict must be unanimous;[3] but in order to take advantage of a want of unanimity, the aggrieved party must object at the time of the receipt of the verdict, and must preserve his objection in the bill of exceptions and make such defect a ground for a motion for a new trial.[4]

The verdict must be certain;[5] but errors not affecting substantial rights will generally be disregarded.[6] A verdict is valid without a recital that the findings in favor of plaintiff were against defendant, there being no one else to whom they could refer.[7] The validity of particular forms is shown in the notes.[8] Where causes are consolidated and the verdict finds separately for each plaintiff, a signature of the foreman at the conclusion of the verdict is a sufficient authentication.[9] In Texas a juror being excused by agreement, it is not necessary that all the remaining jurors sign the verdict.[10]

While a verdict must conform to the evidence[11] and the instructions,[12] the rule does not extend to a technical disregard[13] or one due to a mistake.[14]

1. Moore v. Petty [C. C. A.] 135 F. 668.

2. Action on a note and to foreclose a chattel mortgage. Scaling v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 715. See ante, § 5.

3. Laws 1899, p. 244, being unconstitutional, a verdict agreed to by five out of six jurors is a nullity. Star Loan Co. v. Duffy Van & Storage Co. [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1092. A verdict in a civil action is not erroneous because returned by only 9 of the 12 jurors. McClure v. Feldmann [Mo.] 84 S. W. 16. Judgment should not be entered on a verdict to which all the jurors do not agree. Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197. See, also, Jury, 4 Curr. L. 358.

4. Wores v. Preston, 4 Ariz. 92, 77 P. 617.

5. In an action for rafting and boomage services, the evidence relating exclusively to the reasonableness of the charges, a verdict "for plaintiff in the sum of $—— For Tidi Watter Logs 35 c m; For Fresh Watter Logs 50 c m." is void for uncertainty. Grays Harbor Boom Co. v. Lytle Logging & Mercantile Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 271.

6. Under Civ. Code Prac. §§ 325, 134, a verdict for "1800," read and assented to as a verdict for $1,800, held, a judgment for $1,800 was properly entered. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. v. Leonard [Ky.] 87 S. W. 809.

7. Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 439.

8. A form of verdict "We, the jury, find for plaintiff in the sum of $——" is not erroneous as allowing the jury to find for plaintiff for more than his damage. Wages v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 104. Instruction that if the jury find "for the plaintiff and against both of the defendants," held not misleading. Economy Light & Power Co. v. Hiller, 211 Ill. 568, 71 N. E. 1096.

Texas: Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 2970, 2971, the verdict need not recite that the debts incurred by a married woman were reasonable or proper, but it is sufficient if their verdict, construed with reference to the pleadings and evidence, implies such a finding. Evans v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 375.

9. Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 439.

10. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 3228, 3229, construed. Gray v. Freeman [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1105.

11. Where plaintiff sued for $767.96 and admitted a counterclaim of $611.18, a verdict for $335.25 was not justified by the evidence and could not be sustained. Wulfart v. Weinstein, 91 N. Y. S. 359. Where, in an action for breach of contract, the evidence would support a verdict for plaintiff for the full amount claimed or for defendant for no cause of action, a compromise verdict cannot be sustained. Meyers v. Zucker, 91 N. Y. S. 358. A verdict should not be for a sum smaller than an amount conceded to be due. Farry v. Shea [N. J. Law] 59 A. 21. Verdict unauthorized by the evidence will be set aside. Baldwin v. Webb, 121 Ga. 416, 49 S. E. 265; James Clark Distilling Co. v. Bauer [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 160; St. Paul Boom Co. v. Kemp [Wis.] 103 N. W. 259. This under a statute authorizing a new trial for insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict. Clark v. Great Northern R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1108.

12. Where the court ruled that a servant's action was maintainable under the employer's liability act, and other counts were undisposed of, held, a verdict for more than the amount allowed by the liability act could not stand. Lynch v. M. T. Stevens & Sons Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 478.

13. In replevin for wheat or its value, defendant alleging that plaintiff sold the wheat to defendant and that defendant had tendered the balance, and the reply denying these allegations and the court charging that plaintiff was entitled to a verdict, a general verdict for "defendant," and special findings to the effect that defendant had tendered to plaintiff a draft for the balance due are not void. Wallerich v. Puget Sound Warehouse Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 763.

14. Where court instructed that there

The amount must be reached by a proper method of computation,[15] hence a quotient verdict will be set aside on proper motion and proof;[16] but use of the quotient process is not illegal if its object is merely to afford a basis for subsequent consideration and without previous agreement that the result should be the verdict.[17] That such process was so used may be proved by the jurors themselves.[18]

The clerk cannot receive the verdict, even though the court directs such procedure.[19] Counsel voluntarily consenting that the court may receive the verdict in their absence, the consent carries with it the power to deal with emergencies.[20] The personal presence of all the jurors in court at the opening of a sealed verdict is essential to the validity of the verdict.[21] Where the jury is polled and less than the requisite number answer in the affirmative, more than one poll may be taken where the court believes a mistake has been made,[22] or is informed by a juror that he desires to change his vote.[23] Where the jury is polled as to its general verdict, it is not error to poll it en masse, over a party's objection, with reference to its special findings.[24] Whispered conversation between jurors after which one juror changes his vote does not show that improper influences were brought to bear on the juror.[25] In case of a disagreement, the court may point out to the jurors the consequences thereof, and may ask them to reconsider the case if at the same time he tells them that such consequences must not affect their judgment.[26]

§ 7. Amendment and correction.[27]—In equity[28] or where the trial by jury is not a constitutional or statutory right,[29] the verdict is merely advisory and may be adopted, modified or rejected as the court sees fit.[30] The verdict being exces-

was no proof as to $31.20 claimed, but that verdict should be rendered for $131.94, a verdict for $163.04 is not perverse, it being assumed that the instruction as to the $31.20 was forgotten. Hart v. Godkin [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1057.

15. Where verdict was not in excess of the aggregate of the items of the bill of particulars, it was not objectionable on the ground that there was no tangible evidence as to any amount having been overcharged, and that it could not have been reached by any proper method of computation. City of Battle Creek v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1005.

16, 17. Birmingham Railway L. & P. Co. v. Clemons [Ala.] 37 So. 925; Conover v. Neher-Ross Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 281.

18. Birmingham Railway, L. & P. Co. v. Clemons [Ala.] 37 So. 925.

19. Morris v. Harburger, 91 N. Y. S. 409.

20. Where juror asked if he could change his vote and court answered that he could if he had made a mistake, held no error. Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535, 77 P. 839.

21. Ellsworth v. Varnum, 105 Ill. App. 487.

22. Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535, 77 P. 839. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5012, providing that unless 10 jurors answer in the affirmative the jury shall be returned to the jury room for further deliberation, does not change the rule. Id.

NOTE. Waiver of right to poll jury: The right to have the jury polled is waived by omitting to exercise it when the verdict is opened and received in their presence. Rigg v. Cook, 9 Ill. 336, 46 Am. Dec. 462; State v. Allen, 1 McCord, L. [S. C.] 525, 10 Am. Dec. 687; Root v. Sherwood, 6 Johns. [N. Y.] 68, 5 Am. Dec. 191; Walters v. Junkins, 16 Serg. & R. [Pa.] 414.—From note to Wightman v. Chicago & Northwestern R. Co., 2 L. R. A. 185.

23. Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535, 77 P. 839.

24. Norman v. Hopper [Wash.] 80 P. 551.

25. Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535, 77 P. 839.

26. An instruction that the case had to be decided by them or by some other jury and pointing out the expense incident to a disagreement, though expressly telling them not to sacrifice their consciences, is not objectionable. City of Covington v. Bostwick, 26 Ky. L. R. 780, 82 S. W. 569.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 2017.

28. Special verdict. Jenkins v. Kirtley [Kan.] 79 P. 671. See Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

Contra. Minnesota: A verdict of a jury upon specific questions of fact submitted to them in an equity action is as binding on the court as a general verdict in a legal action and is subject to the same rules as to setting it aside for insufficiency of evidence (Reider v. Walz [Minn.] 101 N. W. 601), hence it should not be set aside by the court on its own motion without giving the parties an opportunity to be heard (Id.).

29. Kelly v. Home Sav. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 578.

30. NOTE. Power to modify or amend verdict: Until the verdict is actually rendered and recorded, the jury have the power to either alter or withdraw it. Until received by the court and discharged from its consideration, they have full control over it. Root v. Sherwood, 6 Johns. [N. Y.] 68, 5 Am. Dec. 191; Thomae v. Zushlag, 25 Tex. 255; State v. Waterman, 1 Nev. 543. But a verdict cannot be amended after the jury is discharged, when it does not appear upon its face that sive,[31] or a mistake being made in computation,[32] the court may modify or correct the same, or may permit the jury to retire and make the correction,[33] or may require a remission of excess to avoid a new trial or reversal.[34] Where, on inquiry, it is clear that the jury disregarded an instruction as to double damages, the jury was properly permitted to return to the jury room and correct their verdict by doubling it.[35] The excessiveness of a verdict is a question of fact.[36] The relief tendered being refused, a judgment for the sum given by the verdict is proper.[37] The verdict failing to award interest, the court may add it.[38] A verdict being fatally defective and the right of recovery clear, it is proper to allow one party at his option, and whether the other consents or not, to terminate the controversy by a judgment for less than the amount named by the jury.[39] In such case the only proper basis for determining the correct amount is the probable finding of an impartial jury, reasonable doubts being resolved against the party to whom the option is given to take or submit to judgment.[40] Such practice, if grounded upon a proper basis, does not violate the rights of either party, but is highly beneficial in the administration of justice.[41] The court has authority without the knowledge or consent of the jury to put the verdict in proper form.[42] A part of the verdict not being responsive to the pleadings, it may be rejected as surplusage.[43] The verdict may be corrected or amended in open court,[44] but not after the term of rendition.[45]

§ 8. Recording, entry and effect of verdict; impeachment.[46]—The verdict

the alteration would be agreeable to the intention of the jury. Settle v. Alison, 8 Ga. 201, 52 Am. Dec. 393; Rigg v. Cook, 9 Ill. 336, 46 Am. Dec. 462. The court may direct the jury to amend when the verdict is imperfect and informal, and may send them back to the jury room for that purpose. Flinn v. Barlow, 16 Ill. 39; Goodwin v. Appleton, 22 Me. 453; Cook v. State, 26 Ga. 596; Hobson v. Humphries, 2 Mills (Const.) 371. The court may mould the verdict so as to meet the facts of the case and the ascertained conclusions of the jury. McMahan v. McMahan, 13 Pa. 380. Where the meaning intended to be conveyed by the jury can be ascertained from their verdict, the court may instruct the jury to alter the expressions preserving the substance so as to render it good in law; and the court should give effect to a verdict when its meaning can be ascertained. Truehody v. Jacobsen, 2 Cal. 269.—From note to Wightman v. Chicago & Northwestern R. Co., 2 L. R. A. 185.

31. Excessive verdict modified where recovery was more rapid and complete than was anticipated by the physicians on whose testimony the verdict was based. Darnell v. Krouse, 134 F. 509.

32. Where, in following out instructions, the jury erred in calculating interest, held, court could correct error. Gould v. Hartwig [Kan.] 80 P. 976.

33. Jury stating that verdict was reasonable value of animal instead of a double recovery authorized by statute, the court may permit them to retire and double the verdict. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124 Iowa, 248, 99 N. W. 1061.

34. See New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 4 Curr. L. 810; Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167; Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997.

35. Animal killed by train; first verdict only reasonable value of animal. Campbell v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 124 Iowa, 248, 99 N. W. 1061.

36. Determination of the court of civil appeals is conclusive. International, etc., R. Co. v. Goswick [Tex.] 85 S. W. 785.

37. Campbell v. Pittsburg Bridge Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 138.

38. McAfee v. Dix, 91 N. Y. S. 464. Special verdict. City of San Antonio v. L. A. Marshall & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 315.

39. Heimlich v. Tabor [Wis.] 102 N. W. 10.

40. Heimlich v. Tabor [Wis.] 102 N. W. 10. Where the option is given plaintiff, the sum should be placed as low as an impartial jury would probably name, and if the option be given defendant to submit, it should be placed as high as an impartial jury would probably find. Id. In providing as indicated, the court cannot legitimately invade the right of trial by jury by submitting its judgment on the evidence. Id.

41. Heimlich v. Tabor [Wis.] 102 N. W. 10.

42. Malott v. Howell, 111 Ill. App. 233.

43. Where, in an action for trespass, the verdict was for the possession of the land and $1 damages, the part awarding possession may be treated as surplusage. Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101.

44. So held where jury intended to find in favor of the answering defendant, and hence worded the verdict as against a defaulting defendant. B. F. King & Son v. Lane, 63 S. C. 430, 47 S. E. 704.

45. So held where one moved to amend the clerk's minutes so as to change the effect of the verdict. Duerr v. Consolidated Gas Co., 93 N. Y. S. 766.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 2013.

may cure defects in the pleadings.[47] Affidavits of jurors will not be received to impeach their verdict,[48] but may be heard as to misconduct.[49]

§ 9. Findings by court or referee. Referee.[50]—In equity[51] and under various statutes[52] it is proper to submit questions to be found and reported to the court for its advisement. The findings so made must conform and be confined to the authority delegated, and must suffice to intelligently inform the court.[53] Such findings are nearly always only advisory, not conclusive, and may be revised or rejected.[54]

Findings by the court.[55]—By statutes in most of the states or by consent,[56] a jury may be dispensed with in some cases; but these statutes are contrary to common law and must be strictly complied with.[57]

What may or what must be found.[58]—As a general rule it is held to be the duty of the court on its own motion to make findings covering all material issues,[59] and unless requested, failure to make a particular finding is not reversible error, there being sufficient evidence to sustain the judgment.[60] Requests made after findings and conclusion have been filed with the clerk are too late.[61] The court stating that it will make findings of fact,[62] or requesting written findings,[63] relieves the parties from making requests therefor. The rendition of special findings is generally discretionary.[64] In the Federal courts the making and effect thereof are governed by the acts of congress,[65] and there cannot be both a general and special finding.[66]

As before stated, the findings must cover all material issues;[67] but if the court

47. Leu v. St Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 137. See Pleading, 4 Curr. L. 980.

48. City of Battle Creek v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1005; Galloway v. Floyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 805. Cannot be attacked by the affidavits of dissenting jurors that, in their opinion, the conclusion of the majority was reached by giving a wrong construction or too much weight to a part of the evidence. Spencer v. Spencer [Mont.] 79 P. 320; Moore v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. of Texas [Tex. Civ. App.] 69 S. W. 997. Irrelevant comments in jury room about one of the parties. Weil v. Stone, 33 Ind. App. 112, 69 N. E. 698.

49. Use of "quotient process." Pence v. California Min. Co., 27 Utah, 378, 75 P. 934; Birmingham Railway, L. & P. Co. v. Clemons [Ala.] 37 So. 925. Statement by a juror that a party or witness had made different statements to juror's wife. Douglass v. Agne [Iowa] 99 N. W. 550.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 2019.

51. See Masters and Commissioners, 4 Curr. L. 614.

52. See Reference, 4 Curr. L. 1257.

53. See Reference, § 6, 4 Curr. L. 1259. See, also, Masters and Commissioners, 4 Curr. L. 614.

54. See Reference, § 10, 4 Curr. L. p. 1262. See, also, Masters and Commissioners, 4 Curr. L. 614.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 2019.

56. One consenting "that there be no jury," the latter may be dispensed with and the court may pass on all the issues. Bernheim v. Bloch, 91 N. Y. S. 40.

57. Fleer v. Reagan, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 170.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 2019.

59. Jennings v. Frazier [Or.] 80 P. 1011.

60. State v. Coughran [S. D.] 103 N. W. 31; Cannon v. McIntyre [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 63, 103 N. W. 530. As to issues made by the evidence outside of the pleadings. Jennings v. Frazier [Or.] 80 P. 1011.

Montana: Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1114, a judgment is not reversible for want of findings unless the complaining party filed a written request for findings and had such request entered on the minutes. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6.

61. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998. A request for a separate finding of facts made after rendition of judgment and after overruling a motion for a new trial is too late. Moberly v. Trenton, 181 Mo. 637, 81 S. W. 169.

62, 63. Quinlan v. Calvert [Mont.] 77 P. 428.

64. Application for a peremptory writ of mandamus. West Virginia Northern R. Co. v. United States [C. C. A.] 134 F. 198. Under Mansf. Dig. § 5149 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3354), the failure of the trial court to make findings of fact is not ground for reversal. In re Taylor's Estate [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 727.

65. By Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 525, 570], and not by state statutes. Jones v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 518.

66. Under Rev. St. §§ 649, 700. Streeter v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago [C. C. A.] 133 F. 124.

67. Standley v. Flint [Idaho] 79 P. 815. So that on appeal if the trial court's conclusions of law are incorrect, the appellate court may under Rev. St. § 701, direct judgment without the necessity of awarding a new trial. Anglo-American Land, Mortgage & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721. Unless such findings are made, a proper judgment cannot be entered. Dieterle v. Bekin, 143 Cal. 683, 77 P. 664; Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990. See, finds on an issue that ultimately determines and necessarily supports the judgment rendered, other issues in the case become immaterial, and a failure to find thereon does not constitute prejudicial error.[66] No findings are necessary on admitted facts.[69] It is proper for the findings of fact to show that plaintiff at the trial waived one of his alleged causes of action.[70] If there is no evidence upon an issue, the finding must be against the party who had the burden of proof.[71] Where the failure to find a fact does not affect the substantial merits of the controversy, it will not be considered reversible error.[72]

The findings may be prepared and submitted by a party, at the request of the court, and without notice to the other party.[73] The findings must conform to the pleadings and evidence.[74] Where a complaint states a cause of action, a general finding that all of the allegations thereof are true is sufficient,[75] unless the answer set up affirmative matter.[76]

The findings should be[77] clear and concise statements of ultimate facts,[78] leavalso, Fitchette v. Victoria Land Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 655.

In Arizona the court need only find on those issues of fact which arise upon the pleadings. McCoy v. Brooks [Ariz.] 80 P. 365. Does not apply to issues arising on motions. Id.

Pennsylvania: Findings stating the material facts that appeared in evidence and adding there was no warranty made, held to comply with Act of April 22, 1874 (P. L. 109). Krauskopf v. Pennypack Yarn Finishing Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 506.

68. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990. In an action by one claiming to be an assignee, court need not find on question of assignment, it having found facts supporting its judgment for defendant, though there was an assignment. Id. A finding that defendant assured plaintiff he was ready to carry out the agreement is unnecessary where it is found that defendant fully carried out the agreement. Boyd v. Liefer, 144 Cal. 336, 77 P. 953. Where the court found that a certain instrument was executed in full settlement of all claims arising out of a certain grant, it was not necessary for it to specifically pass on the questions of fraud and want of consideration in such grant. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712. A general finding that certain parties are the owners in fee of the interest claimed settles all questions of title not negatived by the special findings. Id. In an action of foreclosure wherein it was alleged that the mortgage provided for attorney's fees, etc., a finding that the allegations of the complaint are true renders a finding that there is due plaintiff "$135 costs, percentage and necessary disbursements," unnecessary. Damon v. Quinn, 143 Cal. 75, 76 P. 818. Such allegation and finding held sufficient foundation for such portion of the judgment as was in excess of the amount found to be due as principal and interest. Id.

69. Jennings v. Frazier [Or.] 80 P. 1011. Where the fact was stipulated in open court. Boyd v. Liefer, 144 Cal. 336, 77 P. 953.

70. William Barie Dry Goods Co. v. Casler [Mich.] 101 N. W. 215.

71. Dieterle v. Bekin, 143 Cal. 683, 77 P. 664.

72. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123. Failure to make special findings is not prejudicial where if they had been made they would not have changed the court's conclusion of law on the facts. Hohn v. Shideler [Ind.] 72 N. E. 575.

73. Bernheim v. Bloch, 91 N. Y. S. 40.

74. A finding that all the allegations of the complaint are true and those of the answer untrue, held not against the pleadings and evidence, because plaintiff admitted some uncontroverted allegations of the answer. Continental Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Wilson, 144 Cal. 776, 78 P. 254. Finding that one appeared held supported by a writing signed by him declaring such appearance. Christ v. Davidson, 116 Wis. 621, 93 N. W. 532. In a suit to determine adverse claims, evidence held sufficient to sustain the findings of fact. Fitchette v. Victoria Land Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 655.

75. Norton v. Wilkes [Minn.] 101 N. W. 619. Findings which show affirmatively plaintiff's right to recover and which contain a general finding in favor of plaintiff on all issues, are sufficient as findings on all issues presented. Custer County Bank v. Custer County [S. D.] 100 N. W. 424. In ejectment, a finding that all the allegations of plaintiff's pleadings were true and those of defendant's untrue held to cover all material issues. Continental Building & Loan Ass'n v. Wilson, 144 Cal. 776, 78 P. 254. Findings in a foreclosure suit that there is due and owing plaintiff a certain amount and that all the allegations of the complaint are true, sufficiently disposes of issues of payment and amount. Damon v. Quinn, 143 Cal. 75, 76 P. 818.

76. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1112, requiring the court to state the facts found and conclusions of law. Quinlan v. Calvert [Mont.] 77 P. 428.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 2020.

78. Fairfield v. Hart [Mich.] 102 N. W. 641; Fitchette v. Victoria Land Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 655. Should not be a statement, report or recapitulation of evidence from which such facts may be found or inferred. Anglo-American Land, Mortgage & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721.

A written opinion of the trial judge setting forth the reasons for his decision is not a special finding of the ultimate facts in the nature of a special verdict, though copied into the judgment entry. York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564.

ing nothing to be supplied by presumptions or intendments.[79] In Wisconsin both evidentiary and ultimate facts must be stated.[80] In some states a separate finding is required for each issuable fact,[81] and it is good practice to separately number each finding.[82] In most states the findings of fact should be stated separately from the conclusions of law.[83] As to whether a finding of fact found among the conclusions of law can be regarded as a finding of fact, there is a conflict.[84] While not commendable practice,[85] the findings are sufficient if they merely refer to instruments involved and in the record.[86] The court must comply with statutory provisions as to form.[87]

Interpretation and construction.[88]—When inconsistent, special findings and conclusions of law supersede a general finding;[89] but if possible, the findings must be construed so as to be reconcilable.[90] Nothing can be added to a special finding by inference or intendment.[91] Material ultimate facts not found will be presumed to have been found against the party who had the burden of proving them.[92] The constructions given particular findings are shown in the notes.[93]

79. Anglo-American Land, Mortgage & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721; Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1049. Special findings in a suit to quiet title to land depending on a tax deed should state it was signed, witnessed and acknowledged by the persons designated by statute. Id. The separate findings should be so definite that the party may have a fair opportunity to except to the decision of the court upon the conclusions of law involved in the trial. Vickers v. Buck Stove & Range Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 160.

80. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2863, requiring that the "facts found" be stated. McKenzie v. Haines [Wis.] 102 N. W. 33.

81. Rev. St. 1898, § 2863, requires a separate finding as to each issuable fact without any evidentiary or mere opinion matter, and also requires a specific decision as to each minor question of law and the final conclusion as well. McDougald v. New Richmond Roller Mills Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 244.

82. Vickers v. Buck Stove & Range Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 160.

83. California: Code Civ. Proc. § 633. The existence and nature of a contract should be found as facts, its validity as a conclusion of law. California Iron Const. Co. v. Bradbury, 138 Cal. 328, 71 P. 346, rehearing denied 71 P. 617.

Kansas: Should separate them on request. Vickers v. Buck Stove & Range Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 160.

New York: A decision which fails to separate the findings of fact and the conclusions of law as required, by Code Civ. Proc. § 1022, in the long form of decision, is in the short form permitted by Laws 1894, p. 1719, c. 688, § 3, amending such § 1022. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Dewey [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 569.

South Dakota: Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 276, 277, the entry of judgment without written findings of fact stating the facts and conclusions of law separately is erroneous. Thomas v. Issenhuth [S. D.] 100 N. W. 436.

84. A finding that, with reference to certain land, the action is barred by certain statutes and that various parties occupying and claiming the tract are the owners thereof, is a finding of an ultimate fact, and to be treated as such, though contained in the conclusions of law. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712. A finding that money was "paid by plaintiff to defendant as legatee," being placed among the conclusions of law, cannot be treated as a finding of fact. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 80 P. 899.

85. Murry v. Nixon [Idaho] 79 P. 643.

86. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. May refer to maps and plats on file in the case for a complete and definite description of the property involved in the litigation. Murry v. Nixon [Idaho] 79 P. 643.

87. Neither an entry in the minutes of the clerk nor a memorandum opinion of the court can take the place of the formal decision required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1022. Electric Boat Co. v. Howey, 96 App. Div. 410, 89 N. Y. S. 210. Where court orally announced views and conclusions, which were taken in the stenographer's minutes and transcribed and included in the judgment roll without being entitled, dated, or signed, held not to constitute a decision within Code Civ. Proc. § 1010. Dobbs v. Brinkerhoff, 90 N. Y. S. 480.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 2021.

89. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Stryker [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 953.

90. Heaton-Hobson Associated Law Offices v. Arper, 145 Cal. 282, 78 P. 721. A finding that the account sued on was an open, mutual and current account as alleged in the complaint instead of a stated account as claimed in the answer, and further stating that there is no balance due from defendant to plaintiff, should not be construed as a finding that all of the allegations of the complaint are true. Id.

91. Sellers v. Hayes [Ind.] 72 N. E. 119; Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

92. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97; Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Stryker [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 953.

93. Findings that "In the month of July" contract of employment was terminated and that "after the month of July" services were rendered, held to mean that the contract continued during the month of July. De La Cuesta v. Montgomery, 144 Cal. 115, 77 P. 887. A finding that a road has been generally, habitually and universally traveled by the public at large, adversely, continuously

Signing, filing and entering.[94]—The signature of the trial judge to a special finding is required only for the identification of the paper, and may be dispensed with when the same is brought into the record by a bill of exceptions or order of court.[95] Failure to give notice of findings of fact is immaterial, the aggrieved party having excepted to the findings.[96] Findings may be entered nunc pro tunc.[97]

The amendment of findings.[98]—A motion to modify or change a special finding or to make additional findings is not recognized in Indiana.[99]

The effect of the findings.[1]—Findings have the same effect as a verdict.[2] Findings of fact offered by the losing party do not constitute an admission by him that the facts are as stated.[3]

Conclusions of law.[4]—Either party may ask them.[5] In the Federal courts the court cannot be required to rule on specific propositions of law.[6] The refusal of immaterial propositions of law is harmless.[7] The court's legal conclusions must be supported by the findings,[8] and in determining such conclusions only ultimate facts are to be considered.[9] In a trial by the court, an "instruction" that one party is entitled to recover amounts to an announcement by the court that in its opinion the law and evidence required a finding for defendant.[10] It is good practice to separate and number the conclusions of law.[11] Mixed propositions of law and fact,[12] or propositions of law pertaining purely to questions of fact,[13] should be and uninterruptedly necessarily means that the use was not permissive. City of Seattle v. Smithers [Wash.] 79 P. 615.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 2021.

95. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

96. Krausknopf v. Pennypack Yarn Finishing Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 506.

97. School Dist. No. 3, Carbon County v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155. On a motion for an entry nunc pro tunc, bill of exceptions, reciting the rendition of judgment and the filing of findings on a certain date, is competent evidence that the findings were in fact made on that date. Id.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 2021.

99. Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 2021.

2. On appeal there can be no inquiry as to the sufficiency of the evidence. York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564; Paul v. Delaware L. & W. R. Co., 130 F. 951; Streeter v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago [C. C. A.] 133 F. 124; West v. Houston Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 343; Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990. A special finding is the equivalent of a special verdict. Anglo-American Land, Mortgage & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721. Findings are conclusive in the absence of manifest error. Hayes's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 570; Fleer v. Reagan, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 170; Krauskopf v. Pennypack Yarn Finishing Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 506; Hortz's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 489. Burden is on appellant to show error. Id. Proceedings to incorporate a borough. Edgeworth Borough, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 554. Finding of auditing court confirmed by court in banc. Casely's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 646. Equity findings of fact will not be set aside if they appear to be warranted by the evidence. Obney v. Obney, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 116; Id., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 122. See, also, Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167, and Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

3. Under Rules of Court, p. 92, § 7, it is proper for him to describe the facts as he understands they have been or will be found by the court. Osborne v. Norwalk [Conn.] 60 A. 645.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 2021.

5. They serve to show what theory the judge adopted. E. E. Souther Iron Co. v. Laclede Power Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 450.

6. Streeter v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago [C. C. A.] 133 F. 124.

7. Sloan v. Smith [Conn.] 58 A. 712. Affords no ground for appeal. Id. The refusal of correct propositions of law is harmless where the case is correctly decided on a theory rendering such propositions immaterial and inapplicable. Saffer v. Lambert, 111 Ill. App. 410. See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

8. In a suit to compel the removal of obstructions from an alleged public street, findings held insufficient to sustain a conclusion of law that the way had been accepted. McKenzie v. Haines [Wis.] 102 N. W. 33. In a suit to follow trust funds wrongfully obtained by the principal in an official bond as county auditor, on which the plaintiffs as sureties had been compelled to make payment for breaches, conclusions of law held not supported by special findings. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

9. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

10. It does not amount to a withdrawal by the court from itself of a consideration of any part of the evidence. Kansas City v. Askew, 105 Mo. App. 84, 79 S. W. 483.

11. Vickers v. Buck Stove & Range Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 160.

12. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Seltz [Ill.] 73 N. E. 585.

13. Raftery v. Easley, 111 Ill. App. 413.

refused. A motion to modify a conclusion of law by reducing the judgment is improper.[14]

§ 10. Objections and exceptions[15] are essential to appellate review.[16] An exception to the conclusions of law must be taken at the time decision is made.[17] For the purposes of the exception, an exception to a conclusion of law admits the correctness of the findings of fact.[18] The question whether the evidence is sufficient to warrant a verdict in favor of plaintiff must be raised before the evidence is closed.[19] An exception to the denial of a motion to set aside the verdict as against the evidence is of no merit where there is some evidence.[20]

VERIFICATION.[21]

Necessity.[22]—As a general rule in most states answering pleadings need not be verified unless the pleading answered is properly[23] sworn to.[24] In some states the plea of non est factum[25] or one going to the jurisdiction of the court[26] must be verified; in others, the right of plaintiff to sue in a representative capacity must be specifically denied under oath.[27] Except in the cases enumerated by statute, the petition for the removal of a cause to the Federal courts need not be verified.[28] In Georgia, that defendant intends to prove a release by copy does not make it necessary that he should plead the defense under oath.[29] The validity of a tax deed good upon its face may be put in issue by an unverified pleading.[30]

14. Halstead v. Sigler [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 257.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 2022.

16. Fleer v. Reagan, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 170. In order to secure a review of the sufficiency of a verdict, it must appear that there were exceptions not only to the rulings of the court on the motions in arrest and for new trial, but that the court's attention was called to the matter by proper objection and exception to the judgment. Gillespie v. Ashford [Iowa] 101 N. W. 649. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1114, a judgment is not reversible for defects in the findings unless exceptions are taken in the trial court. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6.

See full treatment Saving Questions for Review, 4 Curr. L. 1368; Appeal and Revlew, 3 Curr. L. 167.

17. Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000.

18. Halstead v. Sigler [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 257.

19, 20. Elwell v. Roper, 72 N. H. 585, 58 A. 507.

21. Compare Affidavits of Merits of Claim or Defense, 3 Curr. L. 66.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 2023.

23. An unverified answer may be properly served to an insufficiently verified complaint. Morris v. Fowler, 90 N. Y. S. 918.

24. The petition not being verified, the answer need not be. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234. Proceeding to set aside a default judgment under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 195. Farmers' & Mechanics' Mercantile & Mfg. Co. v. Smith [S. C.] 49 S. E. 226. Where the declaration is supported by an affidavit of merits, all the pleas thereto must be also so supported. Blizzard v. Epkens, 105 Ill. App. 117. Under Code 1887, § 3286, where plaintiff in assumpsit files an affidavit with his declaration, all pleas in bar must be accompanied by an affidavit or plaintiff is entitled to judgment. Price v. Marks [Va.] 48 S. E. 499.

25. In order to deny the execution and genuineness of a written contract set forth in the complaint, the answer must be verified [Code Civ. Proc. § 447]. Cutten v. Pearsall [Cal.] 81 P. 25. Where, in an action on a benefit certificate, the answer sets up the execution of the application by plaintiff, a further pleading by him, not purporting to be a plea of non est factum, need not be verified. Home Circle Soc. No. 1 v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 84. See 2 Curr. L. 2023, n. 68.

26. A plea that the court has no jurisdiction of the defendant's person must be sworn to by him [Civ. Code 1895, §§ 5081, 5082]. Akers v. J. M. High Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

27. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 1797, declaring that plaintiff need not prove description of character unless specifically denied by verified plea, an allegation that one suing as trustee in bankruptcy was not legally appointed, verified only by an affidavit relating to the discovery given in answers to interrogatories, is insufficient to require proof of the legality of plaintiff's appointment. Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 37 So. 645. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 1797, failure to specifically deny plaintiff's representative capacity by verified plea not only relieves plaintiff from proving it, but precludes defendant from showing that plaintiff is not entitled to sue in a representative capacity. Id.

28. Need not be verified except where the ground of removal is prejudice or local influence, or the denial of equal civil rights, or the case is a suit or prosecution against a revenue officer. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. American Bridge Co., 137 F. 284. See Removal of Causes, 4 Curr. L. 1277.

29. Suit for breach of contract. Civil Code 1895, § 5673 is a rule of evidence not

In equity.[31]—Amendments to a sworn bill, setting up no new fact or defense,[32] or being offered in order to make the pleading conform to the proof,[33] need not be verified.

By whom.[34]—In most states the verification may be made by an agent[35] or attorney if the facts are within his personal knowledge and the affidavit so states,[36] or where the party he represents is without the jurisdiction of the court.[37]

Form and positiveness.[38]—A verification which shows that the affiant has no personal knowledge of the facts is insufficient.[39] The officer of a domestic corporation is to be considered a party for the purposes of verification,[40] and hence in New York he need not state the source of his information or belief.[41] It is not necessary that the affiant sign a verification certified to by a notary public as having been sworn to before him.[42] The omission of a seal through clerical misprision may be disregarded.[43]

Defects, objections and amendments.[44]—Lack of verification may be waived,[45] and the benefit accruing from such waiver may be enforced by a suit in equity to restrain the use of the defense of failure to verify.[46] Failure to verify a pleading must be reached by a motion to strike from the files,[47] and the defect can only be taken advantage of at the appearance term of the case.[48] pleading. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234.

30. Curtis v. Schmehr, 69 Kan. 124, 76 P. 434.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 2023.

32. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234.

33. Patterson v. Johnson [Ill.] 73 N. E. 761.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 2024.

35. Under Laws 1901, p. 854, c. 610, amending Code, § 258, the verification for a corporation may be made by a managing or local agent thereof as well as an officer. Godwin v. Carolina Tel. & T. Co., 136 N. C. 258, 48 S. E. 636.

36. May be made by the general manager of plaintiff's business. My Maryland Lodge No. 186 v. Adt [Md.] 59 A. 721. There is a sufficient compliance with the requirement of Act June 28, 1898 (30 Stat. 495, c. 517), relating to suits to dispossess an intruder on Indian lands, if the complaint is verified by the authorized attorney of the tribe or nation which is plaintiff, and who states that the facts are within his knowledge. Brought v. Cherokee Nation [C. C. A.] 129 F. 192.

37. While not commendable practice, yet a libel in which a large number of persons join may be signed and verified by their proctor on behalf of libelants shown to be without the jurisdiction and whose signatures and verification it is impracticable to obtain. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609. Under Laws 1902, p. 1541, c. 580, providing for a verification by an attorney when a party is not within the county where the attorney resides, a verification by an attorney stating that defendant was in Europe is sufficient. Levey v. Duff, 90 N. Y. S. 410. May be by agent of foreign corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 525]. American Audit Co. v. Industrial Federation of America, 84 App. Div. 304, 82 N. Y. S. 642.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 2024.

39. Morris v. Fowler, 90 N. Y. S. 918.

40. Code Civ. Proc. § 525, subd. 1, construed. Henry v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 589, 89 N. Y. S. 525.

41. Code Civ. Proc. § 526, construed. Henry v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 43 Misc. 589, 89 N. Y. S. 525.

42. Petition for removal of cause to Federal court. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. American Bridge Co., 137 F. 284.

43. Under Code, § 393, empowering deputy clerks of courts to administer oaths in mechanic's lien cases, the failure of a deputy clerk to attach an impression of the official seal of the clerk to such statement filed in his office does not invalidate the verification. Wheelock v. Hull, 124 Iowa, 752, 100 N. W. 863.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 2024.

45. Failure to move to strike an unverified pleading from the files waives the defect. Turner v. Hamilton [Wyo.] 80 P. 664. Where verified claim against a decedent's estate was by mistake presented without verification and later recognized as presented by estate's attorney, held, lack of verification was waived. Seymour v. Goodwin [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 93. The mere taking of depositions when the case has not been set for hearing does not constitute a waiver of a verification to an answer. Price v. Marks [Va.] 48 S. E. 499. Where plaintiff in assumpsit filed an affidavit with his declaration as authorized by Code 1887, § 3286, the misprision of the clerk in placing the cause on the issue docket for a "writ of enquiry" on defendant does not constitute a waiver of plaintiff's right to judgment on his affidavit for the amount of the account sued on. Id.

46. Where, in an action on a claim against a decedent's estate, a decree, under Revision 1898, p. 764, § 62, barring all claims not duly verified and presented, was set up as a defense. Seymour v. Goodwin [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 93.

47. Cannot be reached by demurrer. Turner v. Hamilton [Wyo.] 80 P. 664.

48. Where defendant failed to verify his plea. Rodgers v. Caldwell [Ga.] 50 S. E. 95.

VIEW; WAIVER, see latest topical index.

WAR.

War has been defined to be that state in which a nation prosecutes its right by force,[49] a formal declaration of war being unnecessary.[50] The existence of a condition of war must be determined by the political department of the government; and the courts will take judicial notice of such determination and are bound thereby.[51] Territory declared in insurrection by the President continues so until excepted and recognized as loyal territory by some act of the political branches of the government.[52]

Rights of neutrals—On the sea.[53]—The right to free and uninterrupted trade with nations at war is a right reserved to all neutrals so long as they do not engage in the trade of contraband goods,[54] and, under the rules of international law, the matter of neutrality must be decided according to the principles of good faith;[55] the presence of papers not necessarily implying a fair case, nor their absence furnishing conclusive ground for condemnation.[56] The right of search is a recognized right in belligerents,[57] the proper exercise of which involves no responsibility of wrong against the power exercising it.[58] Upon the seizure of a neutral vessel, all presumptions are in favor of the legality of the seizure, and the burden of proving the contrary is upon the parties contesting its legality.[59] A belligerent seizing a neutral vessel on the high seas upon mere suspicion is responsible for the act, for the consequences, and for the vessel, and is excusable for a loss only where it is caused by an unavoidable casualty.[60] The voluntary destruction of the vessel by the captors for their own ends and purposes being destructive of the right of restitution renders the belligerent liable for the loss,[61] and in such case a decree of restitution does not discharge the claim for indemnity.[62] In the last century if freight and charges were to be paid by a belligerent consignee, it was ground for suspicion justifying a seizure for judicial investigation.[63]

Horses are not contraband per se.[64] Materials for the building, equipment and armament of ships of war are contraband.[65] The probable use of articles may be inferred from their known destination. If the port be a general commercial one, it is presumed that the articles are intended for civil use, otherwise if the predominating character of the place be that of a port of naval or military equipment.[66] Contraband articles are infectious, contaminating other articles belonging

49. Hamilton v. McClaughry, 136 F. 445, quoting from Prize Cases, 67 U. S. (2 Black) 666, 17 Law. Ed. 459.

50. Hamilton v. McClaughry, 136 F. 445. The "Boxer" uprising of 1900 held to constitute a state of war. Id. Services in insurrection in Philippine Islands, held to be in time of war, though peace had been agreed on between Spain and the United States. Thomas's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 1.

51. Hamilton v. McClaughry, 136 F. 445. What was or was not hostile territory during the civil war could be determined only by the president or congress, and cannot be inquired into or passed upon by the judiciary. County Court of Berkeley's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 205. Evidence to show that a county declared hostile by the president was in fact loyal is inadmissible. Id.

52. County Court of Berkeley's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 205.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 2025.

54. Schooner Bird's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 228.

55, 56. Schooner Hazard, 39 Ct. Cl. 376. Manifest and invoice held insufficient to show neutrality of cargo. Schooner Nantasket, 39 Ct. Cl. 119.

57, 58. Brig Fair American, 39 Ct. Cl. 184.

59. Brig Fair American, 39 Ct. Cl. 184. That port of belligerent was not a port of military or naval equipment. Schooner Atlantic, 39 Ct. Cl. 193.

60. Ship Tom, 39 Ct. Cl. 290.

61. So held where the captors ran the vessel ashore to prevent themselves from being captured. Ship Tom, 39 Ct. Cl. 290.

62, 63. Ship Tom, 39 Ct. Cl. 290.

64. Schooner Atlantic, 39 Ct. Cl. 193. See, also, Brig Juno's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 465.

65. Schooner Bird's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 223. Tar is such an article. Id.

66. Brig Juno's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 465. Where a belligerent port is neither in a state of seige, blockaded nor garrisoned, horses on board a neutral bound for that port will be presumed to be for purposes of peace. Id.

to the same owner,[67] and where the owner of the vessel owns the contraband goods,[68] or, either personally or impliedly,[69] has knowledge thereof,[70] the vessel is involved. The carrying of contraband with a false destination will work a condemnation of the ship as well as the cargo,[71] if the deception works real injury to the belligerent.[72] The carrying of contraband on an outward voyage does not affect the condition of the vessel on her return voyage if she practiced no fraud on the outward voyage.[73] Under a treaty provision that free ships make free goods, the right of detention ends when it is ascertained by actual search that the ship's papers are correct and its cargo legal.[74] A provision limiting both parties to the right to remove contraband without forfeiture of the vessel cannot be extended to shield a fraudulent transaction.[75]

Prize money and bounty.[76]—An officer misstating his rank and accepting the amount awarded him is estopped from claiming a proportionate amount on higher rank.[77]

Prize courts and proceedings therein.[78]—The master being deprived of the right to defend, the condemnation is ex parte and the proceedings illegal,[79] even though the seizure and condemnation may have been for good cause.[80] Pending judicial proceedings in a prize court, it is the duty of the captors to preserve without diminution or destruction the property seized, so that the vessel might be restored with no other damage than delay.[81] Indemnity may be recovered for property removed while in custody.[82]

French spoliation claims.[83]—Irrespective of the supplemental article, the treaty of 1800 with France left the matters of difference in this plight: First, claims, for captures and condemnations were reserved for future negotiations; second, property within the control of France, i. e., "not yet definitively condemned," was to be restored; third, property condemned after the signing, if not restored, was to be paid for; fourth, claims not included in the foregoing classes were abandoned.[84] In order to render France liable, the owners of a vessel illegally seized must prosecute or resist appellate procedure until there is a decree by the court of last resort;[85] if they compromise the claim in order to avoid an appeal from a decree of restitution, France is not liable.[86] Where there exists in law sufficient ground to justify condemnation, the fact is available in the defense of the United States, although it does not appear as one of the reasons of condemnation.[87] In the absence of proof, it is presumed that the cargo on board was the equivalent of the carrying capacity of the vessel, and the burden is upon the de-

67, 68. Schooner Bird's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 228.

69. If officers of ship have knowledge it is sufficient. Schooner Atlantic, 39 Ct. Cl. 193. Where shipment consisted of a large number of horses, held, character of shipment was known to shipowner and officers. Id.

70. Schooner Atlantic, 39 Ct. Cl. 193.

71. Schooner Betsey & Polly, 38 Ct. Cl. 30. Vessel carrying horses cleared for neutral port when in fact sailing for belligerent port, the owner of the ship was the owner of the cargo, held ship liable to seizure. Brig Betsey, 39 Ct. Cl. 452.

72. Where cargo was innocent and real destination was a nonblockaded belligerent port, held, neither vessel nor cargo was subject to condemnation. Schooner Betsey & Polly, 38 Ct. Cl. 30.

73. Sloop Ralph, 39 Ct. Cl. 204. Hence the right of capture ceases upon the consummation of the act of carrying. Id. False destination or false papers on the outward voyage affect the return voyage. Id.; Brig Lucy, 39 Ct. Cl. 221. False destination renders the ship liable to seizure on the homeward voyage. Id.

74. Treaty with France, art. XXIII construed. Brigantine Speedwell, 39 Ct. Cl. 34.

75. Treaty of 1778 with France construed. Brig Betsey, 39 Ct. Cl. 452.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 2027.

77. Gates's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 52.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 2028.

79, 80. Schooner Maria, 39 Ct. Cl. 147.

81, 82. Brigantine Speedwell, 39 Ct. Cl. 34.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 2029.

84. Ship Tom, 39 Ct. Cl. 290.

85, 86. Brig Amiable Matilda, 39 Ct. Cl. 138.

87. Sloop Ralph, 39 Ct. Cl. 204.

fendants to show the contrary.[88] It cannot be assumed that the proceeds of an outward bound cargo were invested in the return cargo.[89] Charterer paying insurance to original owner and the latter disclaiming, the charterer is entitled to indemnity.[90]

WAREHOUSING AND DEPOSITS.

A warehouse is any place used for the reception and storage of goods.[91]

Warehousemen and depositaries[92] are special kinds of bailees usually for hire. Carriers holding cattle or merchandise for the convenience of the owner are liable only as depositaries;[93] but where goods are delivered for immediate transportation and are placed in a warehouse for the convenience of the carrier and not of the owner, the liability is that of a common carrier.[94] A statute providing that a corporation may be organized for any commercial business authorizes a corporation for warehousing goods for shipment.[95]

Licensing and public regulation[96] must not interfere with interstate commerce.[97] The Minnesota statute forbidding a sale of property stored with a warehouseman except by one who has obtained his license within 30 days after the passage of the act is unconstitutional.[98] A storage contract may be implied.

Warehouse receipts[99] by certain statutes may be made negotiable by indorsement of the party to whose order it is issued,[1] unless marked "non-negotiable,"[2] and the transfer of warehouse receipts may be regarded as equivalent to an actual, physical delivery of the property, and will operate as a constructive delivery passing title,[3] and the title of the transferee is not affected by any method of dealing 88, 89, 90. Brig Maria, 39 Ct. Cl. 39.

91. A vacant lot suffices where the goods are weighty and bulky. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 2029. See definition, Id. Compare Bailment, 3 Curr. L. 400.

Note: When carrier's liability is reduced to warehouseman's. See Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 591, and also note 97 Am. St. Rep. 84.

93. For the jury to determine whether held at convenience of owner. Flint v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 938. A railroad's liability for goods deposited with it awaiting orders of the owner for transportation is that of a warehouseman. Louisville & N. R. Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 405.

94. North German Lloyd Steamship Co. v. Bullen, 111 Ill. App. 426.

95. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 2029.

97. NOTE. Warehousing as interstate commerce: The relator appealed from an order of court affirming an assessment made under a state franchise tax, on the ground that he was engaged in an "interstate" business. His sole business was to load and store grain from outside the state, then to reload it for points within the state. Held, the relator's business was of an interstate character and as such not subject to the tax. People ex rel. Connecting Terminal R. Co. (1904) 178 N. Y. 194.

It has been repeatedly held that elevators, though efficient means of promoting interstate commerce, are not within the protection of the commerce clause of the Federal constitution. Munn v. Illinois (1876) 94 U. S. 113; Budd v. New York (1892) 143 U. S. 517. Unlike the principal case, these cases did not show that the service of the elevators was a part of a continuous interstate carriage on through bills of lading. From the principal case it would seem that the existence of a single contract covering the entire transportation was the determining test as to whether a part of the transportation entirely within one state was a part of interstate commerce. New York ex rel. Penn. R. Co. v. Knight (1904) 192 U. S. 21; 4 Columbia Law Review, 296. Though the relator here was not a party to the bills of lading, the case would on this point seem clearly within the reason of the cases of Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania (1889) 136 U. S. 114, and McCall v. California (1889) 136 U. S. 104.—4 Columbia L. R. 600.

98. Laws 1895, § 8, c. 149, p. 322. Webb v. Downes [Minn.] 101 N. W. 966.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 2030.

1. B. & C. Comp. § 4606. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990.

2. 3 Gen. St. 3746. Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. v. Brookfield, 70 N. J. Law, 703, 58 A. 352.

3. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Bennett & Co., 120 Ga. 1012, 48 S. E. 398; Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990. 3 Gen. St. p. 3746. Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. v. Brookfield, 70 N. J. Law, 703, 58 A. 352. Where the intention of the parties is clear, delivery of a warehouse receipt without formal indorsement transfers the title to the goods. Sloan v. Johnson, 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 643. The delivery to a pledgee of a warehouse receipt operates as a constructive delivery of the property and entitles the pledgee to recover actual possession. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

between the depositor and warehouseman;[4] but holders of warehouse receipts, "transferable only on the books of the yard," cannot recover thereon in the absence of proof of such transfer or that the property was in possession of the bailees at the acquiring of the receipts, and that the bailees had notice of such purchase.[5] The pledge of a receipt need not be evidenced by writing, but may be effected by mere delivery.[6]

Care and protection of goods stored.[7]—In the absence of special contract, warehousemen are ordinary bailees for hire, and as such are bound only to common care and diligence[8] regarding property entrusted to them;[9] and the degree of their responsibility is less than that of common carriers,[10] while a gratuitous bailee is liable only for loss from his negligence.[11] A warehouseman is not liable for the destruction of property in his custody unless the loss was a proximate result of his negligence;[12] but one who receives notice that a flood is liable to be precipitated against his house must exercise ordinary care to remove goods stored, to a place of safety.[13] Contracts against liability for negligence are not favored by the law, and are strictly construed with every intendment against the party seeking their protection.[14] A contract providing for "no liability for fire,"[15] or that property is stored "at owner's risk," does not release the bailee from liability for failure to use ordinary care.[16] A bailee storing property in another place than that specified in the contract of bailment assumes the risk of the destruction of the property;[17] and that the new place of storage is equally safe and desirable as the former is no defense.[18] Where controversies arise between the depositor of an indemnity fund and the beneficiary thereof, the sole obligation of the depositary is to hold the fund until the rights of claimants are settled inter sese and then pay to the rightful claimant.[19] At common law the warehouseman delivered the goods at his peril.[20] By statute a warehouseman may be required to deliver the goods to the holder of the receipt, unless the property has been removed by operation of law.[21] One having no reason to believe that a warehouseman would not keep a proper temperature is not guilty of contributory negligence in failing to protect fruit there stored.[22]

4. Withdrawal of property first deposited and substitution of other property of the same kind. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

5. Sanger v. Travis County Farmers' Alliance [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 856.

6. Act 72 of 1876, p. 113, relative to hypothecation of warehouse receipts, has no application to United States bonded warehouse receipts. Blanc v. Germania Nat. Bank [La.] 38 So. 537.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 2030.

8. Denver Public Warehouse Co. v. Munger [Colo. App.] 77 P. 6. A warehouseman is only bound to exercise ordinary care and diligence such as faithful warehousemen are accustomed to give in like circumstances. Louisville & N. R. Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 405.

9. All surrounding circumstances should be considered. Dieterle v. Bekin, 143 Cal. 683, 77 P. 664.

10. McLane, Swift & Co. v. Botsford Elevator Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 875.

11. Gerrish v. Muskegon Sav. Bank [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1000.

12. By fire. McLane, Swift & Co. v. Botsford Elevator Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 875.

13. He received notice that a dike above his house was liable to break at any hour, but was under no duty to repair it. Laurence L. Prince & Co. v. St. Louis Cotton Compress Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 873.

14. Denver Public Warehouse Co. v. Munger [Colo. App.] 77 P. 5. A railroad company is not relieved from responsibility for fire because the bailors are stockholders of the warehouse company whose lease from the railroad company waived all claims for destruction of the warehouse by acts of the railroad company. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036.

15. Dieterle v. Bekin, 143 Cal. 683, 77 P. 664.

16. Damage to apples by cold. Denver Public Warehouse Co. v. Munger [Colo. App.] 77 P. 5.

17. Insurance by bailor on property at its supposed location under the contract. Hudson v. Columbian Transfer Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 402.

18. McCurdy v. Wallblom Furniture & Carpet Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 873.

19. Leonard v. Camden Nat. Bank [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 143.

20. Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. v. Brookfield, 70 N. J. Law, 703, 58 A. 352.

21. 3 Gen. St. 3746. Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. v. Brookfield, 70 N. J. Law, 703, 58 A. 352.

22. Denver Public Warehouse Co. v. Munger [Colo. App.] 77 P. 5.

Insurance.[23]

Damages.[24]—Where goods are destroyed by reason of his negligence, the measure of damages is their value at the date of demand for their delivery.[25] Where goods, removed by the bailee from an agreed to another place of storage without notice to or consent of the bailor, are destroyed by fire, the bailee is liable for the reasonable market value of the goods.[26]

Charges and lien therefor.[27]—In a contract which makes no provision for payment of charges in case of failure to substantially perform, there is an implied contract to pay what his services are reasonably worth.[28] A contract for storage, with a requirement that the warehouseman is to keep the property insured, does not show a contract to pay the agreed charge when he turns over the insurance money on destruction of the goods;[29] nor is he entitled to the full charge on the ground of substantial performance, where he turns over an amount equal to the highest market price of the goods during the season.[30] A warehouseman has a lien for his charges on the stored property while it remains in his possession.[31] In Michigan and New York the lien is general and attaches to any goods in the possession of the warehouseman to secure the payment of all his charges, including those arising under a previous contract of storage.[32] One holding property under a lien for storage charges is entitled to reasonable storage charges while so holding,[33] and may hold the property until the claim is paid.[34] A demand by a warehouseman of a sum in excess of the amount due him under a storage contract waives a tender of the correct amount and destroys the lien.[35] A notice of intention to sell to satisfy a lien, describing carpenter's tools, a violin, and other articles of domestic use, as "household goods," is not improper.[36] One present at a sale of his goods to satisfy a lien, and not then objecting, cannot thereafter complain that the goods were sold in bulk.[37]

Conversion.[38]

Actions and procedure.[39]—One depositing money with another to defraud creditors may not maintain suit to recover it.[40] Evidence tending to show a failure to redeliver goods under a contract for storage and delivery makes a prima facie case of negligence,[41] and evidence of a lack of ordinary care by defendant casts upon him the burden of showing that the loss was not due to his negligence.[42] Whether an agreement is general or specific as to place of storage is a question of fact.[43] A warehouseman may require rival claimants to property in his possession to interplead in an action to determine ownership.[44] Contributory negligence need not be negatived in the complaint, but must be pleaded to be available as a de-

23. See 2 Curr. L. 2031.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 2032.

25. Laurence L. Prince & Co. v. St. Louis Cotton Compress Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 873.

26. McCurdy v. Wallblom Furniture & Carpet Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 873.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 2032.

28. Reasonable worth of services held a question for the jury. Clough v. A. J. Stillwell Meat Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 580.

29, 30. Clough v. A. J. Stillwell Meat Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 580.

31. A bargeman, where barges are detained by low water. Nicolette Lumber Co. v. People's Coal Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 575.

32. Comp. Laws, § 503. Kaufman v. Leonard [Mich.] 102 N. W. 632. And see Reidenbach v. Tuch, 88 N. Y. S. 366 [advance sheets only].

33, 34. Reidenbach v. Tuch, 88 N. Y. S. 266 [advance sheets only].

35. Stephenson v. Lichtenstein [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1033.

36, 37. Webb v. Downes [Minn.] 101 N. W. 966.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 2033. See, also, Conversion as Tort, 3 Curr. L. 866.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 2033.

40. Bryant v. Wilcox [Mich.] 100 N. W. 918.

41. Toplitz v. Timmins, 88 N. Y. S. 946.

42. Dieterle v. Bekin, 143 Cal. 683, 77 P. 664.

43. McCurdy v. Wallblom Furniture & Carpet Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 873.

44. An offer to deliver as directed by the court is sufficient; property need not be produced in court or entrusted to its clerk. Beebe v. Mead, 101 App. Div. 500, 92 N. Y. S. 51.

fense, as must also an Act of God.[45] Money unlawfully withdrawn from the county treasury and deposited in a bank which has notice of its character may be recovered by the county without procuring a judgment against the supervisor who withdrew it.[46]

Crimes and penalties.[47]—The state may provide a penalty for delivery to any other than the holder of the warehouse receipt.[48]

WARRANTS; WARRANTY, see latest topical index.

WASTE.

Waste consists in whatever does a lasting damage to the freehold or inheritance,[49] and whether it has been committed or permitted is to be determined from the facts and circumstances of each particular case.[50] A tenant must make repairs necessary to prevent waste and decay of the premises.[51] The cutting of timber by a tenant for years for use as fire wood is not.[52] Equity will enjoin the commission of waste,[53] and will not compel a trustee to commit it.[54] A bill cannot be sustained as one against waste if defendant has no property in which complainant has a lien or interest.[55] One co-tenant may restrain another from committing malicious waste tending to destroy the chief value of the property,[56] but only to the extent of his interest.[57] A life tenant and remainderman may maintain an action for waste,[58] and in New York a statute giving the remainderman a right to recover therefor does not deprive the life tenant of such right,[59] and he may recover, not only for his own loss, but also for the loss of the remainderman.[60] In Georgia a remainderman cannot assert a forfeiture of the life estate un-

45. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036.

46. Harrison County v. State Sav. Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 121.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 2033.

48. 3 Gen. St. p. 3746. Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. v. Brookfield, 70 N. J. Law, 703, 58 A. 352.

49. Impairment and weakening of a cellar wall; removal of partitions and altering the size of rooms. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

50. Mortgagee in possession, who went in at a time when the buildings and fences were out of repair, held not guilty of permissive waste. Chapman v. Cooney, 25 R. I. 657, 57 A. 928; Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

51. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

52. Anderson v. Cowan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 92.

53. Complaint to enjoin against waste and quiet title held sufficient under Comp. Laws 1897, § 4010. Marquez v. Maxwell Land Grant Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 40.

54. Compel him to execute a lease of the trust property at a rental less than the value. Weir v. Barker, 93 N. Y. S. 732.

55. Raphael v. Trask, 194 U. S. 272, 48 Law. Ed. 973.

56, 57. Leatherbury v. McInnis [Miss.] 37 So. 1018.

58. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 287, 288, for cutting timber and leaving the tops scattered over the ground. Halstead v. Sigler [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 257.

59. Note: A tenant for life brought an action against his subtenant for waste committed in cutting down and appropriating growing timber, claiming damages for injury done the inheritance. Held, a tenant for life is entitled to recover such d[illegible] ages, as the statute giving to the remainderman a right against third parties for waste to the inheritance does not take from the life tenant the right to recover therefor. Dix v. Jaquay, 88 N. Y. S. 228.

The court rejects the doctrine of Wood v. Griffin, 46 N. H. 230, and Cal. Drydock Co. v. Armstrong, 17 F. 216, where on a similar state of facts, the recovery by the life tenant was made dependent upon his having first satisfied the claim of the remainderman. A tenant being absolutely liable to the remainderman for injury to the inheritance, though committed by a stranger, he should not be required to satisfy the liability and then take his chance of reimbursement from the wrongdoer. Cook v. Champlain Trans. Co., 1 Denio [N. Y.] 91. The law will allow a recovery where the mere liability has been incurred. Reynolds v. City of Niagara Falls, 81 Hun [N. Y.] 353.

A recovery by the tenant for life would be a bar to a separate action by the remainderman, as in the case of a bailee recovering for injury to property in his possession. Woodman v. Nottingham, 49 N. H. 387. A common carrier also has an action against a wrongdoer for injury done goods in his possession, and may recover the entire value, holding it in trust for the owner. Merrick v. Brainard, 38 Barb. [N. Y.] 574.—4 Columbia L. R. 516.

60. Dix v. Jaquay, 94 App. Div. 554, 88 N. Y. S. 228. Complaint held sufficient. Id.

less there has been both permissive and voluntary waste by the life tenant, and the voluntary waste was wanton.[61] Where a prayer for relief is for forfeiture or damages, if the evidence does not establish grounds for forfeiture, both issues should be submitted,[62] and especially should the issue relative to damages be submitted where there is evidence tending to support a recovery.[63] A writ of estrepement is a proper remedy to stay or prevent threatened waste.[64]

WATERS AND WATER SUPPLY.

§ 1. Definition and Kinds of Waters (1824).
§ 2. Sovereignty over Waters and Lands Beneath (1824).
§ 3. Rights in Natural Watercourses (1825).
§ 4. Rights in Lakes and Ponds (1829).
§ 5. Rights in Subterranean and Percolating Waters (1830).
§ 6. Rights in Tide Waters (1831).
§ 7. Rights in Artificial Waters (1831).
§ 8. Ice (1832).
§ 9. Surface Waters and Drainage or Reclamation (1832).
§ 10. Lands Under Water (1835).
§ 11. Levees, Dykes, Sea Walls and Other Protective Works (1836).
§ 12. Levee, Drainage and Reclamation Districts (1836).
§ 13. Milling and Power and Other Nonconsuming Privileges; Dams, Canals and Races (1837).
§ 14. Irrigation and Water Supply, and Priorities in Use of Water. Common Law Rights and the Doctrine of Prior Appropriation. Common-Law Rule (1839). The Measure of Two Riparian Owners' Rights (1839). Prior Appropriation Rule (1839). Appropriation Consists In (1840). Limit, Measure and Extent of Right (1841). Nature of the Right (1841). Appropriators May Change the Place or Character of the Use (1842). Interference, and Diminution of Flow (1842). A Water Right May Be Obtained by Adverse User and Prescription (1842). The Right of Appropriation Can Be Lost Only by Abandonment or Adverse Possession (1843). Joint and Common Rights (1843). Ditch Rights of Way (1843). The Right to Use a Ditch (1844). Remedies and Procedure for Misuse of Water or Interference (1844). Suits to Establish or Fix Priority (1844).
§ 15. Irrigation Districts and Irrigation and Power Companies (1845).
§ 16. Water Companies and Water Supply Districts; Municipal Ownership; Private Corporations and Franchises (1847). Water Franchises (1847). Water Companies (1847). Condemnation of Property by Water Companies (1848). Water Boards and Districts (1848). The Water Funds (1849). Public Ownership (1849). Contracts for Public Supply (1850). Breach and Enforcement of Public Contract (1851).
§ 17. Water Service and Rates. Service Contracts (1852). Injuries from Deficient Supply or Equipment, and Negligence (1852). Rules and Regulations of Service; Pipes, Meters, and Consumption (1853). Water Rates (1854). Remedy for Nonpayment of Charges (1854). Local Assessments for Pipes (1854). Rates for Irrigation and Payment for Service (1854).
§ 18. Contracts, Grants and Licenses (1855).
§ 19. Torts Relating to Waters (1857).
§ 20. Crimes and Offenses Relating to Waters (1859).

The scope of this title includes the general law of waters and the use and supply thereof, except as other topics cited below cover necessary exclusions.[65]

§ 1. Definition and kinds of waters.[66]—The elements of a watercourse are definite banks, with an obvious bed or channel, showing the presence of water at times, at all events,[67] although there need not be a continuous flow.[68] But the overflow or flood water of a stream does not cease to be a part thereof unless so separated from it as to prevent its return.[69]

§ 2. Sovereignty over waters[70] and lands beneath.—A state is the owner of the navigable waters within it and of the soils thereunder for the common use and

61. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 3090. Roby v. Newton, 121 Ga. 679, 49 S. E. 694. Fish, P. J., and Lamar, J., dissent.

62, 63. Roby v. Newton, 121 Ga. 679, 49 S. E. 694.

64. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

65. See Bridges, 3 Curr. L. 529; Ferries, 3 Curr. L. 1423; Navigable Waters, 4 Curr. L. 757; Riparian Owners, 4 Curr. L. 1310; Shipping and Water Traffic, 2 Curr. L. 1648; Wharves, 2 Curr. L. 2074.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 2035.

67. A depression varying from 2 to 5 feet and from 150 to 300 feet in width, without defined banks and cultivated, and not having water in it more than 3 or 4 times in 40 years, was held not to be a watercourse. Erwin v. Erie R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 315.

68. Erwin v. Erie R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 315; Gramann v. Eicholtz [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 756.

69. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378; Fordham v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 1040.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 2035.

benefit of its inhabitants.[71] A state has jurisdiction over its littoral waters extending three miles from the coast line thereof.[72] The state of Texas has jurisdiction over the waters of the Red river to the center of the stream.[73] Full power over the erection of bridges and other works in navigable streams wholly within a state resides in the state in the absence of the exercise by congress of authority to the contrary.[74] The state holds lands under navigable waters in trust for the public,[75] and may devolve such trust upon a municipal corporation.[76] The latter cannot convey the same for the benefit of riparian proprietors.[77] A custom under which riparian proprietors used the land for the erection of wharves and the like cannot be shown in support of a contention that the city has thereby been divested of title.[78]

§ 3. Rights in natural watercourses.[79]—The right of a riparian owner to the natural and usual flow of a stream is annexed to and part of his land.[80] It is property and, as such, entitled to protection, and may not be taken for public use

71. Acts of congress of March 2, 1881, and April 1, 1882, empowering the commissioners of the District of Columbia to sell at public auction certain water lots in Georgetown construed, and were held not to authorize the sale of land under the waters of the Potomac. District of Columbia v. Cropley, 23 App. D. C. 232.

72. New Jersey act of 1846 (Law 1846, p. 146), ceding Sandy Hook to United States, construed and held not to include exclusive jurisdiction of littoral waters. Hamburg American S. S. Co. v. Grube, 25 S. Ct. 352.

73. Parsons v. Hunt [Tex.] 84 S. W. 644.

74. Under the existing legislation by congress, no one can lawfully place an obstruction across a navigable river wholly within a state without the concurrent authority of the state legislature and secretary of war, and in accordance with plans recommended by the chief of engineers of the United States. Maine Water Co. v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co. [Me.] 59 A. 953.

NOTE. Public right to construct a wharf on navigable waters: Brookhaven, by royal grant of 1693, confirmed by art. 1, § 17, of Constitution of New York, was seized in fee of the land covered by the waters of Great South Bay. The defendant seized of certain upland property, by patent of 1697, built a wharf out beyond the high-water line. Held, the public right of navigation did not include the right to build such wharf, and the defendant was a trespasser. Trustees of Town of Brookhaven v. Smith (1904) 90 N. Y. S. 646.

By the common law in 1693, the fee in all land covered by navigable water was in the king, subject only to the public rights of navigation and fishing. Fitzwalter's Case (1673) 3 Keb. 242; Anonymous (1673) 1 Mod. 105; also cases cited in Shively v. Bowlby (1893) 152 U. S. 1, 13. A riparian owner had no right, without license, to build a wharf on land below high-water mark. Blundell v. Catterall (1821) 5 B. & Ald. 268, 298; also cases cited in Shively v. Bowlby, supra. The plaintiffs, therefore, by royal grant, acquired title to the land below high-water mark free from any easement or right other than the public rights of navigation and fishing. The public right of navigation therefore, as held in the principal case, does not include the right to build a private wharf. However, the court expresses the opinion that no authority in New York has ever held that an owner of lands bounded by high water has a right to build a dock upon submerged land, the title to which is in another individual or corporation. This doctrine, however, was distinctly laid down in Rumsey v. N. Y. & N. E. R. Co. (1892) 133 N. Y. 79, 28 Am. St. Rep. 600, and approved in People v. Woodruff (1899) 157 N. Y. 709, the former decision expressly overruling the common-law doctrine of Gould v. R. R. (1852) 6 N. Y. 522. A grant made today of land under navigable water by the state of New York would therefore be subject to every riparian owner's right to gain access to that part of the stream navigable, in fact, by means of a dock; because the state has sanctioned by adjudication this encroachment upon its own absolute title. But the confirmation in art. 1, § 17, of the state constitution of the original royal grant is tantamount to a grant to the plaintiff from the state of the same title as was conferred by the royal grant. Having, therefore, created a vested right, the state cannot thereafter destroy it. Fletcher v. Peck (1810) 6 Cranch, 87, 137; S. S. Co. v. Jolliffe (1864) 2 Wall. 450; Wilmington R. v. Reid (1871) 13 Wall. 264.—From 5 Columbia L. R. 168.

75. City of Mobile v. Sullivan Timber Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 298. As to the lands under the navigable part of the river, the state is said to be the trustee for all the people, and it probably cannot grant them in fee if the right of free navigation would thereby be interfered with. Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44.

76. Ala. Act Jan. 31, 1867 (Laws 1866-67, p. 307), granting to city of Mobile so much of shore and soil under Mobile River as was within its boundaries constitutional. City of Mobile v. Sullivan Timber Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 298.

77. City of Mobile v. Sullivan Timber Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 298. Statute of 1810 construed as merely defining powers of a corporation and not granting property rights in tidal flats. Scully v. Commonwealth [Mass.] 74 N. E. 342.

78. City of Mobile v. Sullivan Timber Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 298.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 2035.

80, 81. City of Elberton v. Hobbs, 121 Ga. 749, 49 S. E. 779.

without due compensation.[81] Riparian owners are entitled, as against each other, to the reasonable use of the waters of a stream for domestic,[82] agricultural,[83] and manufacturing purposes,[84] as well as for irrigation,[85] and fishing,[86] or even ornamental, purposes.[87] What is a reasonable use is a question of fact depending on the particular circumstances of each case.[88]

Lands to be riparian must be within the watershed of the stream and actually touching its waters.[89] An upper owner has no right to convey the waters of a stream to nonriparian lands, although the lower owner has water sufficient for his needs.[90]

Interference and obstruction.[91]—A riparian owner has a right to the "fair flow" of the stream in its natural bed,[92] without disturbance or interruption by any other riparian owner either to impede or backflow, and equity will afford appropriate relief[93] and damages may be recovered.[94] Riparian owners may not em-

82. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799; Muncie Pulp Co. v. Koontz, 33 Ind. App. 532, 70 N. E. 999. But the rule has limitations, as where a stream is so small that if the upper riparian owner makes any use at all of the stream, it would be worthless to the lower owner, the former may use it all. Gutierrez v. Wege, 145 Cal. 730, 79 P. 449.

83. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Koontz, 33 Ind. App. 532, 70 N. E. 999.

84. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799; DeWitt v. Bissell [Conn.] 60 A. 113.

85. See post, § 13.

86. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879.

87. Reservoirs both ornamental and useful. Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799.

88. Reese v. Johnstown, 45 Misc. 432, 92 N. Y. S. 728. A question for the jury. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Koontz, 33 Ind. App. 532, 70 N. E. 999. Reasonable use defined. Reese v. Johnstown, 45 Misc. 432, 92 N. Y. S. 728; Bowman v. Humphrey, 124 Iowa, 744, 100 N. W. 854.

NOTE. User by railway: A railway company's road crossed a natural stream. The company being the owner of the land at the crossing, under a claim of right, inserted a pipe at that point and drew off water to supply a tank half a mile away. From this tank it supplied water to its locomotives. The defendant, a lower proprietor, obstructed the flow in the pipe and the plaintiff sought to enjoin such interference. The defendant's flow was not materially altered. Held, that since the plaintiff's user was unlawful, the injunction would be denied. McCartney v. Londonderry, etc., R. Co. (1904) A. C. 301. The question whether a railway can draw water from a stream, on which it is riparian owner, and use the water to supply its locomotives, has arisen twice before in England. In Attorney General v. Gt. Eastern R. Co. (1871) L. R. 6 Ch. App. 572, the railway company was restrained, but the case was complicated by other facts. In Earl of Sandwich v. Gt. North Ry. Co. (1878) L. R. 10 Ch. Div. 707, Bacon V. C. held that the railway could take a reasonable quantity. The present decision by the House of Lords holds that no such user can be reasonable. Riparian rights are inherent in the land bordering upon the stream, and a riparian owner cannot use the water for purposes unconnected with his riparian land, without infringing the right of a lower proprietor to all the water not used by the upper proprietor for purposes strictly connected with his land. Swindon Waterworks Co. v. Wilts & Berks Canal Co. (1875) L. R. 7 H. L. 697. Hence riparian rights cannot be assigned. See 4 Columbia L. R. 431. Infringement of this right is actionable without proof of injury, because it legally imports damage. Blodgett v. Stone (1880) 60 N. H. 167. Otherwise, the railway would in time acquire a prescriptive right. This fact seems to be lost sight of in Massachusetts. Elliott v. Fitchburg Ry. Co. (1852) 10 Cush. [Mass.] 191, 57 Am. Dec. 85. The weight of authority in this country is in accord with the principal case. Clark v. Penna R. Co. (1891) 145 Pa. 438, 27 Am. St. Rep. 710; Garwood v. N. Y. Central Ry. Co. (1881) 83 N. Y. 400, 38 Am. Rep. 452.—From 5 Columbia L. R. 65.

89. As to government survey. Clements v. Watkins Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 665.

90. Equity will restrain such diversion. The right may, however, be gained by prescription. Clements v. Watkins Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 665. A city which buys land on a non-navigable river several miles from its limits may not as a riparian owner take water from the stream to supply its inhabitants. City of Elberton v. Hobbs, 121 Ga. 749, 49 S. E. 779.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 2035 et seq.

92. Artificial openings, basins, or channels may be closed so long as the natural channel is not crowded thereby. Rickels v. Log Owners' Booming Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 652. Levees and embankments may be constructed upon one's own land outside the channel of the stream if they do not interfere with the free flow thereof in the full width of the channel. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625. But a city is under no duty to keep a stream flowing through it, not used for sewerage, at its original depth and width. O'Donnell v. Syracuse, 102 App. Div. 80, 92 N. Y. S. 555; A. L. Lakey Co. v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 101 N. W. 841. Where filth collected in creek through negligent use thereof by city, defense of "vis major" was not allowed. O'Donnell v. Syracuse, 102 App. Div. 80, 92 N. Y. S. 555.

bank against the natural overflow of an inland stream when the effect may be to cast an increased volume of water upon the land of other proprietors to their injury.[95] A riparian owner who does not cause or have any control over an obstruction in a stream is not liable for damages caused by an overflow.[96]

Diversion.[97]—The course of a stream within the limits of one owner's land may be diverted, provided it is restored to its original channel before the land of another is reached and provided no injury to the lands of another by overflow is caused thereby;[98] but this is not true if the diversion is not wholly within the limits of the land of the owner directing it.[99] Equity will restrain the unlawful diversion of water from a stream by a riparian owner[1] and damages may also be had.[2] Riparian ownership by a city does not warrant permanent diversion of the water of a stream, through the construction of a dam, for municipal purposes.[3]

Nuisance and pollution.[4]—Riparian owners may not so use the waters of a

93. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625. A mandatory injunction will issue to restore stream to its normal condition without a finding of damage. Allen v. Stowell, 145 Cal. 666, 79 P. 371. Obstruction by dam. Krause v. Oregon Iron & Steel Co. [Or.] 77 P. 833; Schwarzenbach v. Electric Water Power Co., 101 App. Div. 345, 92 N. Y. S. 187. Owners whose lands are flooded and washed away by the construction of a dam and the releasing of water at intervals to float logs down stream held entitled to injunction, if intention to continue trespass is shown. Bryant v. Frank H. Lamb Timber Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 622. Obstruction of natural flow of stream will not be enjoined, unless necessary to prevent irreparable loss or injury, and the other grounds for equitable intervention exist. Boynton v. Hall [Me.] 60 A. 871. A municipality may be restrained from arbitrarily cutting off the water supply and thereby closing down an establishment employing a large number of laborers. Penn Iron Co. v. Lancaster, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 478.

94. Neely v. Detroit Sugar Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 664. Flowing land to any extent gives right to nominal damages. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. & Power Co., 136 N. C. 364, 48 S. E. 770. For injury caused an upper owner from an interference resulting from damming the stream or construction of an artificial substitute for the channel, he is liable in damages. Matlack v. Callahan, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 454. An owner of a mill damaged by backing of water by a boom, lessening the working power of his mill may recover damages from the owner of the boom. Pickens v. Coal River Boom & Timber Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 872. So, even though the latter be leased, if the nuisance existed at the time of the execution of the lease. Id.

95. Construction of embankment enjoined. Keck v. Venghause [Iowa] 103 N. W. 773.

96. Acts of a stranger. Jacobs v. Hershey Lumber Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 319. A city is not liable for obstruction by a riparian owner of a creek flowing through it not used for sewage. A. L. Lakey Co. v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 101 N. W. 841. Acts of lessee. Bachert v. Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co., 208 Pa. 362, 57 A. 765. Acts of predecessor. Where a riparian owner alleged positive wrongful acts only and made no complaint of acts of omission or a continuance of unlawful acts, it was held not to be wrong to charge the jury that the defendant was not liable for the acts of its predecessors. Rickels v. Log Owners' Booming Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 652.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 2036.

98. Daum v. Cooper, 208 Ill. 391, 70 N. E. 339; Craft v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 136 N. C. 49, 48 S. E. 519; Gramann v. Eicholtz [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 756. A proprietor may change the whole course of a stream within the limits of his own land, provided he restores the water undiminished to the original channel before leaving his premises, and if he has exercised reasonable care and foresight, cannot be held liable for injuries resulting from unforeseen causes. Neumeister v. Goddard [Wis.] 103 N. W. 241.

99. In North Carolina, neither a corporation nor an individual may divert water from its natural course, although they may increase or accelerate its flow. Craft v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 136 N. C. 49, 48 S. E. 519.

1. Roberts v. Claremont R. & Lighting Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 619; Miller & Lux v. Enterprise Canal & Land Co., 145 Cal. 652, 79 P. 439. Held to be a private nuisance, but injunction refused on account of laches. Penrhyn Slate Co. v. Granville Electric Light & Power Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 566. An injunction will not issue to prevent the possible acquisition of an easement where the present diversion is very small. Id. Riparian owner may not divert water from stream for the purpose of forming a pond and selling the ice formed thereon. Samuels v. Armstrong, 93 N. Y. S. 24.

2. Roberts v. Claremont Ry. & Lighting Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 619. Damages allowed, though injunction refused. Penrhyn Slate Co. v. Granville Electric Light & Power Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 566.

3. Nor can the right to divert more than a reasonable amount be gained by the making of necessary repairs in the dam. Osborne v. Norwalk [Conn.] 60 A. 645. Discharge of an amount of water in freshet time on private lands, greater than that which the freshet alone would discharge, may be an actionable invasion of the owner's rights, even though necessary to protect public waterworks. Id.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 2037.

stream as to create a nuisance, and equity will enjoin such use.[5] So unreasonable pollution of a stream is a nuisance.[6] Damages may also be recovered.[7] Where the pollution is caused by several persons independently, one alone cannot be made to pay the whole damages, but they must be apportioned.[8] But in New York several riparian owners who severally contributed to the joint pollution of a stream may be joined in one suit.[9] Pollution of a stream is a taking of property for which compensation must be made.[10] A stream wholly within a municipal corporation, having been generally used as an open sewer for over twenty-one years, becomes charged with a servitude authorizing its like use by other citizens as against a riparian owner who contributes to and acquiesces in such use.[11]

Bridges and culverts, etc.[12]—It is the duty of a railroad so to construct its bridges and culverts as to accommodate the waters of streams which naturally flow through them at ordinary flood or high water,[13] and also to make necessary changes

5. A nuisance is created where the use of the stream by the first user is unreasonable in character and such as to produce a condition actually destructive of physical comfort or health or causing tangible visible injury to property. Bowman v. Humphrey, 124 Iowa, 744, 100 N. W. 854.

6. Equity will restrain (West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879; Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Mining & Melting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14), and it is immaterial whether the polluting material was discharged directly or indirectly into the stream (U. S. Board & Paper Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 487), or whether the complainants became owners of this land before or after its diminution in value (Doremus v. Paterson [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 548), and New Jersey Statute (P. L. 1903, p. 777) held not to be a bar to this right (Id.). An injunction against pollution by refuse was allowed under California statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 731), providing that anything which is injurious to health or offensive to the senses, etc., is a nuisance. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7. Under a Montana statute (Civ. Code, §§ 1880, 4550, 4605), no person had a right to cover the land of another with mining debris, and where a man sold the right to the use of water, reserving to himself the right to use it for placer mining, it was held that he only had a right to the reasonable use of it for the purpose named, and he could not pollute it so as to cover a lower owner's land with debris. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

7. Where permanent injury to land does not take place, yearly damage to crops may be recovered, and in order to recover for such damage and also for the permanent injury, the complaint must set forth distinctly when the permanent injury took place, the annual injury prior to that date, and how much land was permanently injured. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Mining & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14.

8. Bowman v. Humphrey, 124 Iowa, 744, 100 N. W. 854; Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Mining & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14. An injunction will not be granted, however, to one who is himself polluting the stream (Reese v. Johnstown, 45 Misc. 432, 92 N. Y. S. 728), nor after the nuisance has been abated (Perry v. Howe Co-op. Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150).

9. Warren v. Parkhurst, 45 Misc. 466, 92 N. Y. S. 725.

10. Doremus v. Paterson [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 548.

11. City of Cleveland v. Standard Bag & Paper Co. [Ohio] 74 N. E. 206.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 2038.

13. Held to be a common-law duty and that state of Illinois (Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 687), providing for the building of bridges and culverts by commissioners or railroads which shall not interfere with the free flow of water, was but declaratory of the common law and constitutional. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219; Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378. Common-law doctrine of "Sic utere tuo" applied to railroads. Fordham v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 1040. Evidence reviewed where a railroad had obstructed a watercourse and held that a nonsuit was wrong. Denison v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 263. Railroad was held to be negligent. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Barry [Tex.] 83 S. W. 5, mod. and afg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 634.

Ordinarily this duty is imposed by statute: Vyse v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 736. Prior to the act of 1897 (Code of Laws of 1892, § 2041), a railroad corporation was not liable in damages for the obstruction of a watercourse unless the damages resulted from negligence in the construction of its road or other works. Lampley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 773. Law of Texas (St. 1895, art. 4436). Taylor v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Provo [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 275. Under law of Texas (Rev. St. 1895, art. 4436), providing that railroads must build necessary culverts or sluices as the lay of the land requires for the necessary drainage thereof, and that it must provide against extraordinary floods which may reasonably be anticipated, it was held that the evidence tended to show negligence and that the railroad was liable to extent of injury done irrespective of use of land at time of original construction. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Whitaker [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1051. A railroad company is not liable for damages caused by an overflow due to a trestle if the floods were unprecedented and such as could not have been anticipated by a prudent man skilled in the work. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v.

to accommodate an increased flow allowed or caused by artificial means.[14] It is not bound to anticipate unprecedented floods such as could not reasonably have been foreseen,[15] but it is liable for damages caused by unprecedented floods where such damage would not have occurred but for the negligent construction of its bridge.[16] Whether a flood is extraordinary is generally a question for the jury.[17] So a municipal corporation must provide for the flow of a stream under its streets.[18] A statute authorizing a municipality to improve brooks flowing through it, and for such purpose to take land in fee or otherwise, authorizes only the taking of such an interest in lands as is necessary for the proposed improvement.[19]

Rights to interfere with the waters of a stream may be acquired by prescription[20] or by acquiescence.[21] A lower riparian owner cannot show an adverse user of water against an upper riparian owner in the absence of proof of recognition of his right by the upper owner.[22]

§ 4. Rights in lakes and ponds.[23]—The law divides natural fresh water ponds into two classes, the small which pass by an ordinary grant of land as a part

Kiersey [Tex.] 86 S. W. 744. Law of Indiana (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5153, cl. 5), providing that railroads must construct roads so as not to interfere with free use of any watercourse or canal, and must restore same to such a state as not to impair its usefulness, construed, and it was held that where a railroad filled up a drainage ditch and placed a pipe of insufficient capacity in its place, it was liable for the injury caused by the nuisance. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Greb [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 620. Under Texas law (Rev. St. 1895, art. 4436), providing that a railroad must construct necessary culverts and sluices as the necessary lay of the land requires for drainage, held, railroad liable for overflow of land and must pay expenses of constructing new bridge and roads incurred by the plaintiff. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Gurley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 842. Where the railroad embankment was partially the cause of the overflow and a levee of another independent of the railroad contributed to the damage, it was held the railroad would only be liable for damages caused by it, but if the two acted in concert or the railroad consented and participated in the act of the other, it would be responsible for the entire damages. Id. The fact that a person bought land after and with knowledge of the faulty construction by the railroad. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Gurley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 842. So where the railroad was only partly the cause of the overflow and another stream which it had not obstructed caused the rest, the railroad was only held liable for the proportionate damages caused by its negligence (Taylor v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Provo [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 275), or sold the land after the damage occurred does not preclude recovery (Id.).

14. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

15. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378. Where a trestle was so constructed as to catch and hold quantities of driftwood it was held to be negligence. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Kiersey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1045.

16. Vyse v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 736.

17. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Gurley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 842; Albers v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 828; Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378. To show that a flood was due to an unprecedented storm, evidence that other farms were overflowed was held inadmissible where it did not appear that they were no more subject to be flooded than that of the plaintiff. Bell v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1073.

18. Where a city, in reconstructing the wrought surface of a street to the full width of the original location, blocked a stream which had formerly flowed under it, it was held that it was under a duty to extend an arch or otherwise provide for the passage of the water of the stream under the street. Commonwealth v. Newton, 186 Mass. 286, 71 N. E. 699.

19. Under St. 1898, p. 37, c. 63, § 1, intended the taking only of an easement for the improvement of brooks in Newton. Newton v. Newton [Mass.] 74 N. E. 346.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 2040. Rickels v. Log Owners' Booming Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 652. Right to dam. Pluchak v. Crawford [Mich.] 100 N. W. 765. A prescriptive right may be gained against a riparian owner holding a title under a government patent. Southern California Inv. Co. v. Wilshire, 144 Cal. 68, 77 P. 767. Where an owner of a prescriptive right to use the waters of a stream but by whose use water by percolation and seepage got back into the stream, sold his right to one beyond the water shed of the stream and cut off thereby the percolation and seepage, it was held that an injunction would issue to restrain the diversion beyond the water shed in behalf of lower riparian owners. Id.

21. Where a change is made in the flow of a stream artificially or otherwise, and riparian owners acquiesce for 15 years therein, they cannot thereafter restore the stream to its original condition. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603.

22. Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 2040.

thereof, and the large, which are exempt from the operation of such a grant and are public waters.[24] A riparian owner on a great pond may make a reasonable use of the water for domestic, agricultural, and mechanical purposes,[25] and while his ownership of the land bordering on the pond ceases at high-water mark,[26] yet he may build wharves and other structures into the pond so as not unreasonably to interfere with the rights of the public in the pond.[27] Where a great pond is taken by right of eminent domain, all rights in it appurtenant to the land should be taken into consideration in determining the value thereof.[28] A grant of land bordering on a small lake extends ad filum medium aquae.[29] A riparian owner may not drain a pond or lake to the injury of another owner.[30] Riparian owners on private fresh water lakes have the right of fishing.[31]

§ 5. Rights in subterranean and percolating waters.[32]—The owner of the surface of the land may divert the percolating waters below it and may exercise unlimited control over it.[33] But this doctrine does not apply where the diversion is purely malicious, wasteful, and made simply to injure another landowner.[34] In California the doctrine of "Sic utere tuo" is applied to percolating waters.[35] A

24. A natural fresh water pond situated in the midst of a tract of land belonging to a single owner and containing more than 10 acres was held to be a great pond. Dolbeer v. Suncook Waterworks Co., 72 N. H. 562, 58 A. 504. A body of water among swamp lands 1½ miles wide by 3 miles long in a shallow depression from 3 to 6 feet deep, fed by rain and snow and filled with swamp vegetation which was non-navigable and had been tilled, surveyed and sold to various owners, was held to be surface water. Applegate v. Franklin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 347.

25, 26, 27, 28. Dolbeer v. Suncook Waterworks Co., 72 N. H. 562, 58 A. 504.

29. This rule will not be applied however where the land is described by courses and distances but does not call for the lake nor the bank or shore thereof as a boundary. Smoulter v. Boyd, 209 Pa. 146, 58 A. 144.

30. Where surface water becomes a settled body of water retained, in a natural body forming a lake or pond emptied only by evaporation, it loses its character of surface water and may not be drained to injury of lower tenement. Davis v. Fry, 14 Okl. 340, 78 P. 180.

31. N. J. Statute of 1901 (R. L. p. 333), providing for the acquisition by counties of the common right to fish in such lakes, construed and held to be unconstitutional in not providing a proper method of compensation to riparian owners. Albright v. Sussex County Lake & Park Commission [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 146.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 2040.

33. Where a railroad sank a well and drained a neighboring well, it was held not to be liable. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. East [Tex.] 81 S. W. 279; Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460. Rights by appropriation, see post, § 14.

34. Equity will enjoin such diversion. Gagnon v. French Lick Springs Hotel Co. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 849; St. Amand v. Lehman, 120 Ga. 253, 47 S. E. 949.

NOTE. Malicious waste—Injunction: The plaintiff owned premises of great value as a health resort by reason of medicinal springs located thereon. The defendant, for the sole purpose of injuring plaintiff, sank a well on his own adjoining land and pumped water therefrom till the flow of plaintiff's springs was stopped. In a suit to enjoin defendant from further pumping, held, that injunction would lie. Gagnon v. French Lick Springs Hotel Co. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 849.

The law relating to the malicious waste of percolating waters is in a state of uncertainty. By the general rule, the owner thereof could make such beneficial use of them as he saw fit, even though injury result to his neighbor, regardless of motive. Gould on Waters, Sec. 290; Phelps v. Nowlen, 72 N. Y. 39, 28 Am. Rep. 93; Chatfield v. Wilson, 28 Vt. 49; Walker v. Cronin, 107 Mass. 555, 564. However, there were even among the earlier cases, dicta to the effect that if the acts of the owner were wholly malicious and resulted in no benefit to himself but only in injury to his neighbor, the courts might interfere. Wheatly v. Baugh, 25 Pa. 528, 64 Am. Dec. 721; Greenleaf v. Francis, 18 Pick. [Mass.] 117. See, also, Frazier v. Brown, 12 Ohio St. 294. The tendency of the most recent cases is to break away from the strict rule of the common law and to follow the principles announced in these dicta. Barclay v. Abraham, 121 Iowa, 619, 96 N. W. 1080, 100 Am. St. Rep. 365; Cohen v. La Canada Land & Water Co., 142 Cal. 437, 76 P. 47. See, also, 2 Michigan Law Review, 403. In New York an unreasonable and unjust use cannot be made of such Y. 357, 54 N. E. 787. Wisconsin has de- Y. 357, 54 N. E. Rep. 787. Wisconsin has declined to follow the lead of the later cases, and a statute providing for a civil action against one making an unreasonable use of such waters has been there held invalid. Huber v. Merkle, 117 Wis. 355, 94 N. W. 354, 62 L. R. A. 589. The English courts adhere to the strict rule. Mayor of Bradford v. Pickles (1895), A. C. 587. The principal case, however, is wholly in accord with the spirit of the majority of recent cases, and is just and equitable in its results. See Farnham's Waters and Water Rights, sec. 938.—From 3 Mich. L. R. 491.

35. When percolating waters which went into a stream were diverted so as to create riparian owner on a great pond may obstruct or change the flow of percolating waters from the pond through his land to a reasonable extent.[36] The right to the use of percolating waters under land taken for a highway is not included in the taking.[37] If water flows in a definite channel under ground, the same rules apply to it as apply to surface streams, and the landowner may not use or destroy it at his pleasure.[38] Where a city constructed driven wells and a pumping station and diminished the flow of surface and subsurface waters on land of another, upon examination of the evidence it was held that the landowner had suffered more damage than the mere cost of driving his well further down to the lowered water table.[39] The burden of proof is upon those asserting the right to waters below the surface, on the ground that they flow in a subterranean stream with well defined banks, to establish the existence of that stream.[40] The right to lay pipes over real property and convey water from a spring thereon is an easement for the benefit of the dominant estate.[41]

§ 6. Rights in tide waters.[42]—Tide waters are public.[43] By statute in Virginia, riparian proprietors are entitled to have assigned to them for their exclusive use a tract of land not exceeding one-half acre in extent, for an oyster planting ground.[44]

§ 7. Rights in artificial waters.[45]—A riparian owner on a canal has a right not to have his land overflowed through negligence of the canal owner.[46] Riparian owners on canals cut for navigation may acquire by prescription the same riparian rights as obtain upon natural watercourses.[47] Artificial waters and waterway rea direct draft on the flow, such use was held to be unlawful. Montecito Valley Water Co. v. Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113.

Note: "Correlative rights in percolating waters," see note 64 L. R. A. 236.

36. Dolbeer v. Suncook Waterworks Co., 72 N. H. 562, 58 A. 504.

37. Under the law of California (Pol. Code, § 2631), providing that where land was taken for a highway the public only acquired a right of way and rights incidental to the enjoyment and maintenance of same, it was held that equity would enjoin a county from boring wells in the highway and using the subterranean waters for street sprinkling. Wright v. Austin, 143 Cal. 236, 76 P. 1023.

NOTE. Right to use percolating waters to sprinkle streets: The defendants, road commissioners, bored a well on a highway for the purpose of getting water to sprinkle the streets. The plaintiffs, abutting owners, seek to enjoin such action. Held, the highway easement does not justify the defendants' acts. Wright v. Austin [Cal. 1904] 76 P. 1023.

There seems to be no authority on the precise point. The waters of a spring rising in the highway may not be diverted to a watering trough (Suffield v. Hathaway, 44 Conn. 521, 26 Am. Rep. 483), and where a highway crosses a stream the public may be kept from the stream, where it is of no use for highway purposes (Old Town v. Dooley, 81 Ill. 255). It is the general rule that soil may be used to the extent of taking from one place on the highway to another if for the improvement of both places. Robert v. Sadler, 104 N. Y. 229, 58 Am. Rep. 498; New Haven v. Sargent, 38 Conn. 50, 9 Am. Rep. 360. As to whether trees growing on the highway may be used, the authorities are in conflict. Felch v. Gilman, 22 Vt. 38; Tucker v. Eldred, 6 R. I. 404. It would seem that there is no necessary distinction between water and other things within the highway. The question in each case should be determined rather by the usefulness to the public than by the position of the abutting owner, and the court might without violence to the plaintiff's rights have refused the injunction.—From 4 Columbia L. R. 515.

38. Gagnon v. French Lick Springs Hotel Co. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 849; St. Amand v. Lehman, 120 Ga. 253, 47 S. E. 949.

39. Reisert v. New York, 91 N. Y. S. 780. In a suit for damages for lowering the natural level of the water table under plaintiff's land, evidence held insufficient to support a finding that plaintiff had suffered no damage other than the cost of driving his wells further into the ground. City of New York v. Biffle, 91 N. Y. S. 737.

40. Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460.

As to use of subterranean waters for purposes of irrigation, see post, § 13.

41. Must be executed and attested like a grant of a freehold estate. Clark v. Strong, 93 N. Y. S. 514.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 2042.

43. Dolbeer v. Suncook Waterworks Co., 72 N. H. 562, 58 A. 504.

44. Code 1887, § 2137. Right should not be exercised arbitrarily but in manner least injurious to others, if that can be accomplished without wrong to him. Taylor v. Com., 102 Va. 759, 47 S. E. 875.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 2042.

46. State was held liable for overflow of a state canal due to a depression in the bank and the failure of its employes to let off waters. Crowley v. State, 90 N. Y. S. 496.

47. Recovery allowed for lowering level garded as irrigation and supply.[48] Drainage[49] or mill and power plants are considered in subsequent sections.[50]

§ 8. Ice.[51]—The right to cut and take ice is more in the nature of a profit a prendre than an easement, but it may be annexed to premises under lease.[52] In New York, ice on the Hudson River belongs to the state.[53]

§ 9. Surface waters and drainage or reclamation.[54]—Its source of supply and not its quantity seems to be a criterion of surface water.[55] Flood water of a river is not surface water unless it becomes separated from or leaves the main stream never to return.[56]

Civil-law rule.[57]—Under the civil law an upper proprietor is entitled to an easement for the flow of surface water from his land,[58] but some cases confine this of canals whereby they had to be deepened. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist., 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118.

48. See post, §§ 13-15.

49. See post, § 9.

50. See post, § 12.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 2042.

52. Lease of artificial pond and land under it for flowage purposes with right to flow, store and use water in the pond, reserving, however, the exclusive right to cut and sell ice from the pond, construed, and it was held that the lessee could not turn hot water into the pond so as to melt the ice, although it was reasonably necessary for the proper operation of the lessee's business. Walker Ice Co. v. American Steel & Wire Co., 185 Mass. 463, 70 N. E. 937. A lease of land on the edge of a mill pond on which to erect a building to be used only as an ice house carries no right to any of the pond or to take ice therefrom (Oliphant v. Richman [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 241), and permission from the lessor to take ice was merely a revocable license and a taking thereunder for the statutory period was not an adverse user (Id.). Under a lease of an ice house and land with the free use of an adjoining pond to cut ice, whose only adequate supply was by a ditch pointed out by lessor, it was held that the lessor would be restrained from stopping the ditch and obstructing flow of water to pond. McCollum v. Williamson, 96 App. Div. 638, 89 N. Y. S. 119.

53. Laws of New York (Laws 1895, p. 882, c. 595; 1899, p. 486, c. 264; and 1904, p. 1906, c. 749), granting rights in ice fields in the Hudson River and also providing that this right should not deprive riparian owners of their right to use the river bank for lawful purposes, construed, and it was held that the casting of dirt and cinders on the ice fields by such owners in the lawful use of their property would not be enjoined. American Ice Co. v. Catskill Cement Co., 90 N. Y. S. 801.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 2042.

55. NOTE. Determination of what constitutes surface water: A depression of two thousand five hundred acres was permanently covered by water to a depth of from three to six feet, without any flow, and supplied entirely by surface water. It was dotted with islands and covered with vegetation. The defendant, owner of a large tract of the submerged land, drained the same, thus drawing off the water from the plaintiff's land, and destroying his fisheries. Held, the water was not distinguishable from surface water, and the defendant therefore had the right to drain it away. Applegate v. Franklin [Mo. 1904] 84 S. W. 347.

The criteria for determining what is surface water are not well defined. This decision regards as surface water a permanent and substantial body of water, a result believed to have been reached for the first time. Railroad Co. v. Brevoort (1894) 25 L. R. A. 527, note; Carr v. Moore (1903) 119 La. 152; Brandenberg v. Zeigler (1901) 62 S. C. 18, 89 Am. St. Rep. 887. A pond of four and a quarter acres, fed solely by surface water, five feet deep, and overflowing during only six or eight weeks of the year, was held to be governed by the law of watercourses. Schaefer v. Marthaler (1886) 34 Minn. 487, 57 Am. Rep. 73. Water covering five hundred acres of cypress brake supplied entirely by surface water, overflowing through a small bayou, was held to be a lake. Alcorn v. Saddler (1888) 66 Miss. 221. Mere marsh water is surface water. Curtiss v. Ayrault (1871) 47 N. Y. 73. The fact that this body of water was a menace to health, that is, a nuisance, influenced the decision in the principal case.—From 5 Columbia Law Rev. 329.

56. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378; Fordham v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 1040; Johnson v. Gray's Point Terminal R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 941.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 2042.

58. Stated in Applegate v. Franklin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 347; Cranson v. Snyder [Mich.] 100 N. W. 674. The owner of a dominant estate has a natural right to discharge all waters falling or accumulating on his land upon or over the land of the servient owner as in a state of nature. Applegate v. Franklin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 347. A landowner cannot protect his own land by turning surface water which naturally flows there upon the land of another. Wood v. Moulton [Cal.] 80 P. 92. The civil law makes no distinction between the waters of natural streams and surface waters. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378.

Civil-law rule held not to apply under the artificial conditions created by the building of cities and improvement of lots, and where an owner raised the grade of his lot to the level of the street and thereby turned surface water on the land of another, he was held not liable. Hall v. Rising [Ala.] 37 So. 586.

right to surface water flowing in a well defined channel.[59] No change or innovation in the distribution of water from a superior to an inferior tenement is material unless it operates to prejudice or injure in some way the inferior tenement.[60]

Common-law rule.[61]—Under the common-law rule, surface water is the common enemy of mankind, and each owner has a right to protect his own land therefrom.[62] Some courts lay down the rule that any one may interfere with the drainage of surface water even to turning it back on the land of a neighbor regardless of the result,[63] or that a landowner may carry waters accumulating on his lands in the course of natural drainage to the limit of his land in any manner he may elect.[64] Other courts hold that an upper owner may lawfully obstruct or divert the natural flow or surface water and turn it back or over lands of others, only if he does it in a reasonable and careful manner.[65] In Minnesota it has recently been held with much reason that in cities the rule is modified to this extent: If improved city property is so situated that connection with an adequate sewer system can be made, such connection of water spouts and gutters will be required, when necessary to avoid injury to adjacent property by the throwing of water upon it.[66] A landowner has the right, providing he does not interfere with a natural or prescriptive watercourse, to construct or build on his own land levees, embankments, or other barriers to protect his property from surface water which flows thereon from adjoining land.[67]

It is a necessary corollary of either of the rules that there is no right anywhere to the continued flow of surface water which has taken no definite course but spreads out over the surface of the ground. Neither rule has any application unless some channel for surface water has been obstructed or its water diverted.[68]

It is generally held that a landowner has no right to collect surface water in a body[69] and discharge it in a ditch or drain on the land of another to his injury. This rule applies to railroads[70] and municipal corporations,[71] as well as

59. The civil-law rule is that natural depressions and channels which afford drainage for surface water cannot be obstructed or the waters diverted from them to the drainage of others. Carroll v. Rye Tp. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 894. Surface water in a well defined course cannot be interfered with to injury of another. Brown v. Armstrong [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1047.

60. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier, 102 Va. 148, 45 S. E. 875.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 2043.

62. Todd v. York County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 299; Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378. There is no legal right in one landowner to have surface water flow naturally over the land of another. Barnett v. Matagorda Rice & Irr. Co. [Tex.] 83 S. W. 801. Where structures were built causing an increased volume of surface water to flow over adjacent land it was held that there was no liability. Sullivan v. Browning [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 302. Under the common-law rule, neither upper nor lower proprietors can claim any right to drainage for surface water through mere natural surface channels which do not come within the technical definition of a watercourse. Carroll v. Rye Tp. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 894. A town is not liable for the increased flow of surface water not in a definite channel, caused by the improvement of a highway carefully made. Id.

63. Johnson v. Gray's Point Terminal R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 941; Gramann v. Eicholtz [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 756.

64. Tile drain throwing water on adjoining land at the line held lawful. Dorman v. Droll [Ill.] 74 N. E. 152. No liability is incurred for turning surface water onto the premises of another, or for damming against such water. Bryant v. Merritt [Kan.] 80 P. 600.

65. Applegate v. Franklin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 347; Werner v. Popp [Minn.] 102 N. W. 366. He may collect the surface water into a natural surface water drain. Todd v. York County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 299.

66. Ginter v. Rector, etc., of St. Mark's Church in City of Minneapolis [Minn.] 103 N. W. 738.

67. Railroad company has same right in protection of its right of way. Clay v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 904.

68. Carroll v. Rye Tp. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 894; Brown v. Armstrong [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1047; Erwin v. Erie R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 315.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 2043, n. 45-47.

70. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 378; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Quillen [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 661; Gartner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1052; Tletze v. International, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 124; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Longbottom [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 542. One collecting surface water and sending it in greater volume and with greater force than it was accustomed to flow, upon individuals.[72] Neither the owner of a dominant or servient estate has the right to dam or collect surface water and cast it upon his neighbor's land in an increased or unnatural quantity or way, to his injury.[73]

Easements as to surface water may be gained by prescription[74] or estoppel,[75] if there be a well defined and continuous user,[76] including the right to flow or discharge water in a body,[77] and equity will enjoin an obstruction, even though the damages are trifling.[78]

A municipal corporation[79] is not liable for an injury caused by surface water resulting from the construction of a street, unless the construction is negligent.[80]

The right of draining surface water through a natural watercourse[81] is a natural easement appurtenant to the land of every individual through which it runs,[82] so long as the natural capacity of the stream is not exceeded.[83]

the land of another, is liable for the damages caused thereby. Tyrus v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 1074. Evidence held sufficient to show that the defendant had so done. Id. In Texas the liability of a railroad company for failing to maintain proper culverts and sluices is not dependent on negligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Baer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 653.

71. Cities and towns: Baldwin v. Ohio Tp. [Kan.] 78 P. 424. Where grade of highway was negligently changed and surface water collected in gutters and discharged on adjacent land, held a continuing nuisance and immaterial that complainant had bought after the change. Stillman v. Pendleton [R. I.] 60 A. 234; Holbrook v. Town of Norcross, 121 Ga. 319, 48 S. E. 922. "A city has no greater power over its streets in disposing of surface water which accumulates thereon than a private individual has in disposing of the surface water which falls or collects on his own land." Johnson v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 658. Where outlets for gutters were insufficient to provide for discharge of surface water therein it was held that the city was liable for an overflow. City of Houston v. Hutcheson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 86. Where, in the improvement of a highway, the township road official diverted the natural course of surface water upon land of another, an injunction issued to restrain him. Smith v. Eaton Tp. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 661. Under the Massachusetts Statute (St. 1894, p. 283, c. 288), providing for damages for taking of land for park purposes, it was held that damages could not be recovered for accumulation of surface water on land because of a change of grade of a parkway. McSweeney v. Commonwealth, 185 Mass. 371, 70 N. E. 429. A lot owner may recover damages from a city caused by surface water negligently thrown on his lot, though he has not raised the entire surface of the lot to the established grade. Monarch Mfg. Co. v. Omaha, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 493.

Counties: Equity will abate a nuisance. Schofield v. Cooper [Iowa] 102 N. W. 110.

72. Geneser v. Healy, 124 Iowa, 310, 100 N. W. 66; Todd v. York County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 299; Brown v. Armstrong [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1047. Where a dam was built to cast water on land of another, the structure was held to be uniawful. Everett v. Christopher [Iowa] 101 N. W. 521.

73. Keck v. Venghause [Iowa] 103 N. W. 773.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 2044, n. 53-55.

75. Brown v. Armstrong [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1047.

76. Where a ditch was originally dug to connect a lake and mill pond, and was later abandoned and filled nearly level, water running in it only in times of high water in the lake, no prescriptive right to reconstruct and maintain it as a drain could arise. Flynn v. Service [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 113. 103 N. W. 541.

77. Cranson v. Snyder [Mich.] 100 N. W. 674; Brown v. Armstrong [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1047; Robertson v. Lewie [Conn.] 59 A. 409. An easement in lands for the discharge of surface water thereon cannot arise from permissive use of lands for such purpose. All the elements of an easement by prescription must be present. Clay v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 904.

Estoppel: Brown v. Armstrong [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1047. In Illinois, where a system of combined drainage has been constructed under parol license, the right to revoke such license is forever barred if not exercised within the time provided by law. One year from date of passage of Laws 1889, p. 116, § 4, in case of existing drains. Dorman v. Droll [Ill.] 74 N. E. 152. A combined drain having been constructed by mutual license, the flow of water therein cannot be interfered with by one landowner without the consent of the owners of the other lands benefited. Id.

78. Robertson v. Lewie [Conn.] 59 A. 409.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 2044, n. 49.

80. Taylor v. Houston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 260. Where by a negligent change of a street grade a depression was left where water gathered and interfered with access to abutting land, the city was held liable therefor. Howard v. Lamoni, 124 Iowa, 348, 100 N. W. 62.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 2043, n. 40.

82. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219. Where an owner of a tract separated it into lots and conveyed them to different persons, the grantees of upper lots have by implication an easement for the flowage of spring and surface water along natural channels over lower lots. Riverside Cotton Mills v. Lanier, 102 Va. 148, 45 S. E. 875.

83. Where highway commissioners in improving highways turned surface water in-

A person may not allow surface water to accumulate[84] and stand in depressions on his land, until it becomes stagnant, resulting in the sickness of the adjoining owner. This rule applies both to municipal and private corporations.[85]

The general rules relating to drainage or reclamation[86] are the subject of a separate article.[87] One has a right to drain surface water even though it be drawn from adjacent lands to the owner's detriment.[88]

§ 10. Lands under water.[89]—The right to acquire and reclaim public subaqueous and swamp lands is given by various Federal and state laws.[90]

A strip of land formed by the caving of the banks of a river, which has no permanent situs but is shifted and changed more or less by the action of the water, is not tide land.[91]

The state may sell the fee in lands lying between high and low water mark.[92]

Private rights in such lands.—Any such rights conveyed by it to any person become the private property of the grantee,[93] his title being as absolute as the terms of the grant import.[94] The interest so acquired is subject to condemnation under the power of eminent domain.[95] The fact that neither the city nor the to stream, they were held not liable. Baldwin v. Ohio Tp. [Kan.] 78 P. 424. A city may use a natural watercourse flowing through it for street and storm drainage, and is not liable for dirt and other materials carried into it thereby. A. L. Lakey Co. v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 101 N. W. 841. Where surplus water from an artesian well flowed across the land of another in a natural watercourse and no damage was done, it was held equity would not restrain the digging of the well. Mead v. Mellette [S. D.] 101 N. W. 355. A landowner may drain his land into natural and usual channels if the amount of water thrown upon the servient estate is not thereby unduly increased. Construction of tile drains held lawful, though amount of water thrown into stream was somewhat increased, and the flow accelerated. Dorr v. Simmerson [Iowa] 103 N. W. 806.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 2044.

85. Where a railroad through insufficient culverts caused accumulations of stagnant water, it was held liable for sickness and inconvenience and lessened enjoyment of his home by a landowner. Taylor v. Houston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 260. But under the same facts the drain being in the street, it was held the city would only be liable for injury to the property. Id. Relief asked for which is impracticable will not be granted. McKee v. Grand Rapids [Mich.] 100 N. W. 580.

86. See Sewers and Drains, 2 Curr. L. 1628.

87. Compare Public Works and Improvements, 2 Curr. L. 1328.

88. NOTE. Right to drain surface water from adjoining land: The parties owned adjoining lands covered by a body of water twenty-five hundred acres in area, fed solely by rain and snow, and varying in depth from three to six feet. The defendant, in order to reclaim his land, constructed thereon a ditch which drained the water from the plaintiff's land and ruined his valuable fishery. Held, that the plaintiff cannot recover. Applegate v. Franklin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 347.

The fact that surface water collects temporarily in considerable quantities in a natural depression does not alter its character. Boynton v. Gilman, 53 Vt. 17. But if the pond formed be permanent, it ceases to be surface water, and may not be drained without the consent of all whose land it covers. Schaefer v. Marthaeler, 34 Minn. 487, 57 Am. Rep. 73. Assuming that the court correctly found the pond in question to be surface water, the case raises a new problem, whether for purposes of improvement one may artificially drain his land and thereby deprive an adjoining proprietor of surface water. An upper owner may not, by artificial drainage, discharge a body of surface water upon lands below. Rhoads v. Davidheiser, 133 Pa. 226, 19 Am. St. Rep. 630. But he has an absolute right to surface water before it reaches the lower owner. Broadbent v. Ramsbotham, 11 Exch. 602. Even in jurisdictions which limit the owner's right in percolating waters to reasonable user, artificial drainage thereof for purposes of improvement is lawful, though it deprive a neighbor of his supply. Ellis v. Duncan, 21 Barb. [N. Y.] 230. These last two analogies tend to support the present decision, whether we regard the defendant's right to surface water as absolute or as restricted to reasonable user.—From 18 Harv. Law Rev. 626.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 2044, n. 56.

90. See Public Lands, 2 Curr. L. 1295.

91. Injunction to restrain construction of boom denied. Sengstacken v. McCormac [Or.] 79 P. 412. Recitals in deeds held not to estop defendant to dispute character of lands. Id.

92. Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44.

93. N. J. P. L. 1869, p. 1017, P. L. 1871, p. 113 (Gen. St. vol. 3, pp. 2786, 2796), P. L. 1891, p. 214, §§ 3, 4 (Gen. St. p. 2794). Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44.

94. Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44.

95. Railroad may condemn right of way over such lands longitudinally with river. Woodcliff Land Imp. Co. v. New Jersey S. L. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 44.

river commission objected to the construction of expensive works thereon by a riparian owner does not estop the city to deny his right to continue to occupy the same.[96] But where the works are constructed with the city's knowledge, and the riparian proprietor pays taxes and fees for the privilege of maintaining them, it is only entitled to a restoration of the land on payment of reasonable compensation to the proprietor for the loss sustained.[97] Where the state owns all tide lands affected, and provides for private construction of a waterway with a lien on tide lands for compensation, individuals who have a mere first option to purchase such tide lands are not deprived of any right.[98] The right to a riparian grant must be determined by keeping within side lines at right angles with the high-water line, if the latter is straight,[99] and, if it is curved or irregular, then within side lines which divide the foreshore proportionately among the littoral owners.[1] A riparian grant to the owner of land not reached by the ordinary line of high water is invalid.[2] The question whether it is so reached is to be determined as of the date when the claimant acquired title rather than the date when the grant was made.[3] Riparian grants should not be set aside, reformed, or controlled in their operation upon the ground that they were induced by false suggestion or fraud, in the absence of clear and cogent proofs.[4] In Illinois, riparian owners on navigable streams own the soil to the center thereof, and are entitled to a reasonable use of the waters, subject to the right of navigation therein by the public.[5] Title by accretion can be acquired only where the accretion is due to a gradual and natural deposit of soil along the border of the upland.[6] The doctrine of accretion does not apply to land reclaimed by human agencies.[7]

§ 11. Levees, dikes, sea walls and other protective works.[8]—A levee district is liable for damages resulting from the overflow of a lake caused by the improper construction of a levee built to protect the lands from a river, though in the absence of such levee the lands would have been similarly overflowed by the river.[9] Power to build sea walls is conferred on counties in Texas by statute.[10]

§ 12. Levee, drainage and reclamation districts.[11]—The formation of levee, drainage and reclamation districts and the powers and duties of the officers of such districts are governed by statute.[12] The validity of such legislation is sup-

96, 97. City of Mobile v. Sullivan Timber Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 298.

98. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503, 77 P. 845.

99, 1. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 105.

2. Invalid where corner of lot was washed only by storm and extra high tides, and it was claimed, when lot was sold to defendant, that there was ground between it and high-water mark. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 105.

3. Bradley v. McPherson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 105.

4. Attorney General v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 348.

5. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118. Owners of upland along Harlem river own in fee only to high-water mark, though entitled to riparian easements. In re Driveway in City of New York, 93 N. Y. S. 1107.

6, 7. In re Driveway in City of New York, 93 N. Y. S. 1107.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 2044.

9. Bader v. St. Francis Levee Dist. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 654.

10. Under Laws 1901 (1st Ex. Sess.) p. 24, c. 12, a county bordering on the Gulf of Mexico has power to construct a sea wall within the limits of a city in the county. Johnston v. Galveston County [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 511.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 2045. See, also, Sewers and Drains, 4 Curr. L. 1429; Public Works and Improvements, 4 Curr. L. 1124.

12. California statute (Pol. Code, §§ 3446-3493½), establishing reclamation districts, construed. Rico v. Snider, 134 Fed. 953. Act of Arkansas (Acts of 1887, p. 63; Acts of 1893, p. 157; Acts of 1901, p. 27), creating levee districts and board of commissioners, construed. Pratt v. Dudley [Ark.] 84 S. W. 781. Illinois Drainage Act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, c. 42, § 200), providing that tax assessors should determine whether the act had been violated, construed, and held unconstitutional as imposing judicial powers upon them. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 638, 72 N. E. 725. Illinois Farm Drainage Act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 723, c. 42), construed, and held not to affect the levee act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 707, c. 42). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219. Under the drainage act of 1879, additional drainage, petitioned for under § 59, ported by the public, beneficial nature of the work[12] and the officers administering the same are often a separate public corporation,[14] possessed of a wide discretion with which the courts will not ordinarily interfere,[15] and endowed with power to take land by eminent domain,[16] to issue bonds[17] and certificates of indebtedness,[18] and to levy taxes[19] on land benefited.[20] Such powers cannot be exercised so as to injure private property,[21] and are subject to constitutional limitations.[22]

§ 13. Milling and power and other nonconsuming privileges; dams, canals and races.[23]—Since an enforcement by riparian owners of their rights at common law would often make it impossible for any of them to use water power effectively, need not be abandoned on presentation of a petition for that purpose after the original contract has been let. Soran v. Commissioners of Union Drainage Dist. No. 1 [Ill.] 74 N. E. 129. Laws 1903, p. 162, providing for the organization of land affected by additional drainage into a subdistrict is not applicable where the petition for additional drainage was filed before the law was passed. Id. Indiana Statute (Acts 1901, p. 545, c. 235; Burns' Ann. St. § 5653a), providing for the construction of public drains, construed. Kemp v. Adams [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 590. Louisiana Act of 1829, p. 102, No. 31, relative to the levees of the Parish of Concordia, construed, and it was held that it should be construed in connection with Rev. St. § 2786. Glass v. Parish of Concordia, 113 La. 544, 37 So. 189. Act No. 97, p. 107 of 1890 provides for the registry in the office of the recorders of the respective parishes of the titles to land thereby conveyed by the state to the board of commissioners of the Atchafalaya levee district, and the general law upon the subject of registry applies to the conveyance of all lands alienated by said board. Williams v. White Castle Lumber & Shingle Co. [La.] 38 So. 414. Laws of N. J. 1866 (P. L. p. 941), providing for drainage of certain swamp lands and appointing commissioners and Laws 1903 (P. L. p. 544, c. 241), providing for payment of improvement certificates, construed and declared constitutional. O'Neill v. City of Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50.

13. O'Neill v. City of Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50; Rico v. Snider, 134 F. 953.

14. Quasi-public corporation. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219. Levee boards held to be bodies politic. United R. & Trading Co. v. Mevers, 112 La. 897, 36 So. 797.

15. Gross error or arbitrary acts will be considered by the courts and it is open to landowners to show that more land than was necessary was taken. Board of Levee Commissioners, Orleans Levee Dist. v. Jackson's Estate [La.] 36 So. 912. Under law of California (Pol. Code, §§ 3446-3493½), providing for reclamation districts and board of commissioners, it was held that until the board has passed on the question whether land is reclaimed, the court will not pass on that question. Rico v. Snider, 134 F. 953.

16. O'Neill v. City of Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50. Farm Drainage Act. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

17. Laws of Miss. (Act 1884, p. 140, c. 168; Acts 1886, p. 102, c. 39, § 3; Code 1892, c. 108, § 3412; Acts 1894, c. 21, c. 29; Acts 1898, p. 14, c. 5), incorporating board of levee commissioners of Yazoo & Mississippi Delta and authorizing taxes for the use of board, construed. Tate v. Board of Levee Com'rs [Miss.] 36 So. 395.

18. O'Neill v. City of Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50. The Louisiana law (Act of 1829, p. 102, No. 31), relative to the levees at Concordia, and giving the police jury certain powers construed, and it was held that while the police jury could tax, it could not issue negotiable paper. Glass v. Parish of Concordia, 113 La. 544, 37 So. 189.

19. O'Neill v. City of Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219; Glass v. Parish of Concordia, 113 La. 544, 37 So. 189. Laws of Mich. (Comp. Laws, §§ 3860, 4338, 4356; Pub. Acts 1899, pp. 463, 465, No. 272, c. 4, § 2), construed and it was held that the board of supervisors had the right to refuse to spread a drain tax among other townships than those taxed. Kenyon v. Board of Sup'rs of Ionia County [Mich.] 101 N. W. 851. Constitution of 1898 of Louisiana construed and it was held that the tax by the levee board for levee purposes was not a municipal tax. United R. & Trading Co. v. Mevers, 112 La. 897, 36 So. 797. Laws of Arkansas (Acts 1887, p. 63; Acts 1893, p. 157; Acts 1901, p. 27), creating levee districts and board of inspectors to superintend the construction of levees, construed, and it was held that a proceeding in chancery was the proper mode for the levee commissioners to receive from the county treasurer funds collected by him for levee purposes. Pratt v. Dudley [Ark.] 84 S. W. 781; Collier v. Campbell Lumber Co. [Ark.] 86 S. W. 295. The county court has no jurisdiction to require the collector of levee taxes to refund the same, if the levee district was created by a valid statute, though such statute is repealed subsequent to the collection of the taxes. Id. Laws of Arkansas (Acts 1895, pp. 88, 89, c. 71), providing for suits for the enforcement of levee taxes, construed, and held to be constitutional. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252.

20. O'Neill v. City of Hoboken [N. J. Law] 60 A. 50.

21. Illinois drainage act of March 29, 1886 (Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 42), construed, and it was held that the lowering of the water of a navigable canal was a taking of private property. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118.

22. See Constitutional Law, 1 Curr. L. 569.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 2046. Appropriation, see post, § 14.

the states have passed "Mill Acts."[24] The use of a dam and of land under the water are not separate rights.[25] The interference with the use of neighboring property by the appropriation of a mill site is not a taking under the right of eminent domain.[26] For injuries wrought by dams and mill privileges, remedies are given riparian owners by statute,[27] as well as at common law,[28] but not for all injuries.[29] Under a grant to flow specified land below a dam, the flooding of other land by percolation through or under the dam is not a necessary or natural consequence of the use of the privilege nor appurtenant thereto.[30]

The owner of a mill race must use care proportionate to the danger to prevent water percolating through the banks to the injury of adjacent owners.[31] The adjacent owner if required to exercise any care is bound only to use ordinary care to prevent injury,[32] and is not required to expend in doing so more than the value of the land.[33]

The extent of a prescriptive right[33a] to flood land or injure it by percolation depends not upon the height of the dam but upon the reach and elevation of the back water during the period the dam was maintained.[34] To acquire a prescriptive right to flow land by means of a milldam without the payment of damages, it must appear that the land was flowed for twenty consecutive years and that some appreciable damage to it was thereby occasioned.[35] One lawfully using a

24. Under the Massachusetts Act (R. L. c. 196), it was held that as between two riparian owners, priority of appropriation gives the better right to establish a mill, and the rule calls for an actual occupation of a site for a dam followed by the completion of same and actual use of the water within a reasonable time. Otis Co. v. Ludlow Mfg. Co., 186 Mass. 89, 70 N. E. 1009. Indiana Act (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 4833, 4844; Rev. St. 1881, §§ 3702, 3703; Horner's Ann. St. 1901, §§ 3702, 3703), providing for condemnation of land for a dam, construed, and it was held there was no appeal from the order of the lower court refusing to appoint appraisers and dismissing the proceeding. Noblesville Hydraulic Co. v. Evans [Ind.] 72 N. E. 126.

25. Where one entitled to mill privileges only used the land as subservient to the use of the water, it was held that he was not liable for the use of the land. Dyer v. Cranston Printworks [R. I.] 58 A. 450.

26. Otis Co. v. Ludlow Co., 186 Mass. 89, 70 N. E. 1009.

27. Under Maine Mill Act (Rev. St. c. 94, § 1), regulating the height of dams so as to guard against injury to upper owners at ordinary stages of the water, including freshets, which were to be expected, it was held that to be extraordinary, a freshet need not be unprecedented or higher than any within the memory of man. Inhabitants of Palmyra v. Waverly Wooien Co. [Me.] 58 A. 674. Law of Wisconsin (Rev. St. 1898, § 3375), providing against the raising of existing dams to the injury of others, construed, and it was held that there had been a violation of it. Evans v. Bacon, 118 Wis. 380, 95 N. W. 375. Missouri Laws (Rev. St. 1899, § 8750), providing for a penalty for the heightening of a dam not in accordance with the laws, and (§ 8752) declaring such illegal obstructions to be a public nuisance, construed, and it was held that it was not laches to delay three years before bringing a suit when there was a protest at the time that the illegal act was being done, but that such obstruction would not be abated where one stood by for five years and allowed it to be made at great expense. Scheurich v. Southwest Missouri Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. Law of North Carolina (Code, § 1859), providing for the recovery for injuries from building a dam and for the sale of same on the return of an execution unsatisfied in an action to abate, construed, and it was held that the payment of judgment did not amount to a purchase of an easement to flow, nor was it a condemnation of the land. Candler v. Asheville Elec. Co., 135 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

28. Nominal damages at least will be given for any flooding of land by a dam. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. & Power Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226.

29. Where, in the necessary and natural use of a mill pond, the bottom was exposed in the summer months and caused a nuisance, it was held that there could be no recovery therefor by persons who bought after the pond had become established. DeWitt v. Bissell [Conn.] 60 A. 113.

30. Schwarzenbach v. Electric Water Power Co., 101 App. Div. 345, 92 N. Y. S. 187.

31. Scott v. Longwell [Mich.] 102 N. W. 230.

Contra: Where one grants an easement to flow certain land or the right to maintain a dam at a given height, no damages can be claimed which result from a necessary and proper use of the easement granted. Reid v. Courtenay Mfg. Co., 68 S. C. 466, 47 S. E. 718.

32. Scott v. Longwell [Mich.] 102 N. W. 230.

33. Where there is a break in a canal. Welliver v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 79.

33a. See 2 Curr. L. 2052, n. 35, 36.

34. Carrington v. Brooks, 121 Ga. 250, 48 S. E. 970.

35. Under Mill Act (Rev. St. c. 94), there can be no action for flowage except as mill privilege cannot gain a prescriptive right to the continued use and maintenance of reservoirs lawfully constructed by upper riparian owners, which materially increase the power at the mill.[36] One who grants a dam privilege, reserving all water rights and privileges to use the same, cannot compel the dam owner to construct an opening in the dam for the enjoyment of his rights, but must do it at his own expense.[37]

§ 14. Irrigation and water supply,[38] and priorities in use of water.[39] Common-law rights and the doctrine of prior appropriation.[40] Common-law rule.[41]—A riparian owner has a right to the reasonable use of the waters of a stream flowing by his land for irrigation purposes, subject to a like right in all other riparian proprietors.[42] A diminution of the flow of water over riparian land, caused by its use for irrigation purposes by upper riparian owners, occasions no injury for which damages may be allowed, unless it results in subtracting from the value of the land by interfering with the reasonable uses of the water which the landowner is able to enjoy.[43] A riparian owner's right as such, to the use of water for irrigation purposes, applies to riparian lands only, and he cannot rightfully divert to nonriparian lands water which he has a right to use on riparian land but does not so use.[44] A riparian owner cannot divert water to land lying beyond the watershed of the stream, except where the drainage area is small and the water supply abundant.[45]

The measure of two riparian owners' rights is not dependent solely upon their respective frontages upon the stream, but also upon the extent of the stream, the volume of water, the character of the soil, and the area of land which each proposes to irrigate.[46] In determining the quantity of land tributary to and lying along a stream which a single proprietor may irrigate, the principle of equality of right with others should control, irrespective of the accidental matter of governmental subdivisions of the land.[47] A lower riparian owner acquires no prescriptive right against upper proprietors to receive a given quantity of the flow of a stream by diverting and using it after it has left their land;[48] and an upper proprietor can acquire no prescriptive right to divert water, as against owners down the stream, so long as the flow is sufficient for the needs of all.[49]

Prior appropriation rule.[50]—In many western states the doctrine of prior appropriation has taken the place of or modified the common-law rule as to the use of water.[51] Congress has recognized the doctrine.[52] provided in the act. Foster v. Sebago Imp. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 894.

36. Sawyer v. Commonwealth, 185 Mass 356, 70 N. E. 438.

37. Harris v. Ft. Miller Pulp & Paper Co., 92 N. Y. S. 959.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 2046.

39. See, generally, Long on Irrigation.

40, 41. See 2 Curr. L. 2046.

42. Gutierrez v. Wege, 145 Cal. 730, 79 P. 449; McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249; Pierson v. Speyer, 178 N. Y. 270, 70 N. E. 799; Harrington v. Demaris [Or.] 77 P. 603; Clements v. Watkins Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 665, afd. 86 S. W. 733. The use of the water of a running stream for irrigation, after its primary uses for domestic requirements have been subserved, is one of the common-law rights of a riparian owner. Clark v. Allaman [Kan.] 80 P. 571. Such use must be reasonable, and the right must be exercised with due regard to the equal right of every other owner along the stream. Id.

43. Clark v. Allaman [Kan.] 80 P. 571.

44. Clements v. Watkins Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 665. A riparian owner cannot sell water to others to irrigate nonriparian lands, such use not being a "natural" one. Watkins Land Co. v. Clements [Tex.] 86 S. W. 733.

45. Watkins Land Co. v. Clements [Tex.] 86 S. W. 733.

46. Southern California Inv. Co. v. Wilshire, 144 Cal. 68, 77 P. 767.

47, 48, 49. Clark v. Allaman [Kan.] 80 P. 571.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 2047.

51. Laws of Ariz. (Rev. St. 1887, par. 3199, § 1) and Act No. 86 (Laws 1893, p. 135), providing that all streams of running water are public and applicable for irrigation, and allowing the construction of aqueducts for irrigation and for the appropriation of unappropriated waters for domestic and other beneficial uses, construed. Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460. Laws of Idaho (see Laws 1903, p. 223), to regulate the appro-

The doctrine of prior appropriation may exist in the same state with the common-law doctrine of riparian rights,[53] but the right acquired by the prior appropriator is superior to the right of the riparian owner at common law.[54] The common-law rules relating to the rights of riparian owners to the waters of running streams are in force in Kansas,[55] and cannot be controlled or repealed by local customs.[56] The doctrine of prior appropriation of waters for irrigation purposes received no recognition in Kansas until the statute of 1886, authorizing the acquisition of such rights by appropriation.[57] Though the doctrine has since been recognized, property in the flow of running water acquired under the previously existing common-law system is protected by the fourteenth amendment to the Federal constitution.[58]

Waters of subterranean streams flowing in natural channels between well-defined banks, are subject to appropriation.[59]

The doctrine of prior appropriation applies as between two appropriators from the same interstate stream who reside in different states.[60]

Appropriation consists in[60a] an intent to apply the water to a beneficial use existing at the time, an actual diversion and an application to a beneficial use.[61] Various statutes prescribe methods for appropriation by location and application approved by designated officers and followed by application to beneficial use.[62] priation and diversion of public waters and to establish the right to the use of said waters and the priority of such rights, construed, and it was held to be constitutional, and that "public waters" means all waters running in natural channels, and that the state had power to regulate the use and appropriation of same. Boise City Irr. Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Irrigation act of Nebraska (Laws 1895, p. 244, c. 69), authorizing and regulating the appropriation of the waters of the state for irrigation, construed and held to be constitutional. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249. Irrigation act of Nebraska (Laws 1895, p. 244, c. 69), providing for appropriation and a State Board of Irrigation, construed. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286. Laws of Washington (Laws 1899, p. 261, c. 131), providing for condemnation proceeding for rights of way for irrigation ditches and relating to the right of appropriation of water, construed and held constitutional. Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31, 78 P. 36.

52. 14 Stat. 253, c. 262; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1467. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

53. Clark v. Allaman [Kan.] 80 P. 571. This is the case in Nebraska. The Nebraska Irrigation Act (Laws 1895, p. 244, c. 69) is construed so as not to impair water rights, appropriated, or acquired prior to the act. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249. The irrigation act is in subordination to the common-law right of riparian owners to the reasonable use of water for irrigation purposes, and allows compensation to such owners both upper and lower for the impairment or destruction of their rights. Id.

54. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249.

55, 56, 57, 58. Clark v. Allaman [Kan.] 80 P. 571.

59. No distinction exists between waters running under the surface in well-defined channels and those running in distinct channels on the surface. Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460.

60. A prior appropriation of water in Wyoming from a stream which rose in Colorado was held to be valid as against a subsequent appropriation in Colorado, and the police regulation of Wyoming in regard to the distribution of water in that state were held to be immaterial. Hoge v. Eaton, 135 F. 411.

60a. See 2 Curr. L. 2050, n. 6-11.

61. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932. Where the intention was to secure a right and hold and not use it, it was held that no right was gained thereby as against a diversion by a subsequent appropriator. Miles v. Butte Elec. & Power Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 549; Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. The use of water to irrigate wild grass is a beneficial use which is not confined to the cultivation of crops or fine grass. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932. The fact that at the time of the appropriation the land intended to be irrigated was a swamp and unfit for cultivation does not affect the right to the appropriation as against one who did not appropriate until after the land was drained, cultivated and being irrigated by the water appropriated. Id.

62. The law of Montana (Comp. St. 1887) requires the posting of a notice containing statements such as the name of the stream, the location, the purpose, the amount of water, the method of diversion, and the date of diversion, and the work must be begun within 40 days after posting. Miles v. Butte Elec. & Power Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 549. The recording of the notice required by previous appropriators does not constitute an appropriation, but is merely a notice to the world of their claims [Comp. St. 1887, § 1258]. Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059. Under the law of Nebraska (Laws 1895, p. 244, c. 69), an application cannot be made to the state board setting forth the location by section, township and range

To make the appropriation relate back to the time when the appropriation was made, the work must have been prosecuted to completion with reasonable diligence.[63] Reasonable diligence is a question of fact in each case.[64]

Limit, measure and extent of right.[65]—No person can acquire a right to more water than he can beneficially use,[66] the surplus water over and above this goes to subsequent appropriators.[67] If, however, the water is used for irrigation, the amount is not limited to that used at the time of the appropriation, but extends to such other amount within the capacity of the ditch as may be required for the future improvement and cultivation of lands for which the appropriation was made,[68] and an appropriation of water is not confined to the amount of water used or to the amount of land irrigated during dry seasons,[69] nor solely to use on riparian lands.[70] If the prior appropriator only takes part of the water of the stream for a certain part of the year, subsequent appropriators may acquire a right to appropriate the water at other times.[71] One who appropriates water sufficient to run a mill, subject to a prior appropriation of a certain amount by a city, cannot be limited in his use to certain months, during which only, owing to climatic conditions, the flow is sufficient to run the mill.[72]

Appropriations may be measured by the system in common use in the locality, even though not perfect.[73]

In Montana, where one has a right by appropriation to the use of the waters of two creeks, he may not let the waters of one go to waste and use the full amount of his appropriation from the waters of the other to the damage of a subsequent appropriator,[74] nor can the subsequent appropriator as of right compel him to exhaust the waters of the first creek before resorting to the second.[75]

The Colorado statute authorizing exchange or loan of waters does not change the rights or privileges of water-right owners;[76] thus the statute does not authorize a loan of water by a senior appropriator to the prejudice of other appropriators junior to those to whom the water is loaned.[77]

Nature of the right.[77a]—A prior appropriator who has acquired a vested right to the use of water has a right in the nature of a property right entitled to protection,[78] and descendible by inheritance as an easement and an incorporeal hereditament;[79] but the right is usufructuary only.[80] In some states a water right ap-and a description of the land. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286; Cline v. Stock [Neb.] 102 N. W. 265. Under the law of Wyoming (Rev. St. 1899, § 917), an application must be made to the state engineer which shall state the nature of the use and a map cannot be filed showing the location and area of the land. Johnston v. Little Horse Creek Irr. Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 22.

63. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932; Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Until a claimant is in a position to use the water, the right to use the water does not exist so as to give a right of action for diversion. Miles v. Butte Elec. & Power Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 549.

64. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 2048, n. 97; Id., 2049, n. 3, 4.

66. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932.

67. Johnston v. Little Horse Creek Irr. Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 22; Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932; Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059. An appropriator cannot sell or give away his surplus water as against a subsequent appropriator. Johnston v. Little Horse Creek Irr. Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 22.

68. The intention, object and purpose of the appropriation, the acts of carrying it out, and the amount and character of the land, must be considered. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932.

69. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932.

70. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249; Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31, 78 P. 36.

71. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932; Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

72. City of Telluride v. Blair [Colo.] 80 P. 1053.

73. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932.

74, 75. Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059.

76. Sess. Laws 1899, c. 105, p. 236, construed. Ft. Lyon Canal Co. v. Chew [Colo.] 81 P. 37.

77. Ft. Lyon Canal Co. v. Chew [Colo.] 81 P. 37.

77a. See 2 Curr. L. 2050, n. 12, 13.

78. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249.

79. Equity has jurisdiction to restrain an interference with it. Gutheil Park Ins. Co. v. Town of Montclair, 32 Colo. 420, 76 P. 1050.

80. There is no distinct and separate ownpurtenant to land is real estate[81] and may be sold separate from the land for which it was appropriated.[82] An interest in water rights, ditches, etc., though constituting a part of a system, becomes appurtenant to and a part of a homestead for the use of which it was obtained.[83]

Appropriators may change the place or character of the use[84] after an appropriation and application to a beneficial use in the absence of statutory prohibition,[85] and may also change the place of diversion.[86]

What may be appropriated.[87]

Interference, and diminution of flow.[88]—As soon as the prior appropriation and right of use is established, the appropriator is entitled to have sufficient water flow down to his point of diversion and to an injunction against an interference with this right by subsequent appropriator,[89] and this right applies to the waters of tributary streams.[90]

A water right may be obtained by adverse user and prescription.[91]—So long as a prior appropriator has sufficient water, no right by prescription can be gained against him.[92] Where a prescriptive right to the use of water is set up, the burden of proof is upon the one claiming the right.[93] An easement must be used in such a manner as to impose as little damage as possible to the servient estates.[94] ership in the corpus of the water itself. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25; Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254; Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059; Johnston v. Little Horse Creek Irr. Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 22.

81. Talcott v. Mastin [Colo. App.] 79 P. 973. Rev. St. 1887, § 2825. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. One who has granted away a water right by mistake but who has remained in possession of the same was held not to be barred by the California statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 338), providing for action within 3 years after discovery of mistake, but only by § 318 thereof, providing for an action to be brought within 5 years for recovery of or possession to real estate. South Tule Independent Ditch Co. v. King, 144 Cal. 450, 77 P. 1032.

82. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25; Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley, 32 Colo. 437, 76 P. 1053. The right to use water based on prior appropriation is a property right and capable of transfer, and the only limitation upon the sale of a water right separate from the land to which it was first applied and to which it becomes appurtenant is that it shall not injuriously affect the right of other appropriators. Johnston v. Little Horse Creek Irr. Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 22. The sale of a water right was declared to be valid as against a subsequent appropriator, where it was shown that no surplus water was included therein. Id.

Contra: In Nebraska the right to the use of water may not be separated from the land to which it is applied. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286.

83. Payne v. Cummings [Cal.] 80 P. 620.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 2051.

85. Laws of Nebraska (Comp. St. 1903, c. 93a, art. 1, § 5), construed and held that taken in connection with the Irrigation Act of 1895, a change of user could only be made by permission and under control of the board of irrigation. Farmers' & Merchants' Irr. Co. v. Gothenburg Water Power & Irr. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 487.

86. The Montana Statute (Civ. Code, § 1882) allows appropriators or owners of water rights to change the place of diversion as well as the use and place thereof. Hayes v. Buzard [Mont.] 77 P. 423.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 2051.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 2048, n. 95, 2050, n. 5.

89. Moe v. Harger [Idaho] 77 P. 645. See, also, post, this section "Remedies and procedure," etc.

90. An appropriation of the water of a stream includes all the tributaries and other sources of supply so far as necessary to insure the amount of water covered by the appropriation. Anderson Land & Stock Co. v. McConnell, 133 F. 581.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 2052. To create a right by prescription, there must be a continuous use and occupation for beneficial purposes, open and notorious, hostile to the title of the owner, for the full prescriptive period. Montecito Val. Water Co. v. City of Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113. Evidence held insufficient to show that riparian owner had acquired the right to appropriate one-half of the flow of a spring by prescription. Watkins Land Co. v. Clements [Tex.] 86 S. W. 733.

92. Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059.

93. Where a person dies who probably attempted to assert an adverse user, as his declarations would be in his own interest and inadmissible, the law from the mere use invokes a presumption that it was initiated under a claim of right, thereby imposing on the adverse party the burden of proving the use was under a license. Bauers v. Bull [Or.] 78 P. 757.

94. Negligently and carelessly allowing the ditch to fill up and flow back or enlarging the ditch, thereby increasing the flow to the damage of the servient estate or operating the ditch so as to cause a nuisance, will be restrained. Board of Regents of

The right of appropriation can be lost only by abandonment or adverse possession.[95]—The fact of abandonment is a mixed question of law and fact, and there must be an intention to abandon coupled with an act.[96] Nonuser must be continued for the statutory period of limitations in order to amount to an abandonment.[97] An abandonment occurs when the party in possession deserts the property with the intention never to reclaim it.[98] There can be no abandonment to a definite person by nonuser,[99] but a verbal sale or transfer of a water right operates ipso facto as an abandonment.[1]

Joint and common rights.—If no special or other agreements exist among owners as to their proprietary interests, constituting them something else, they are tenants in common and their rights are governed by the common-law rules regulating tenancy in common.[2] To constitute a tenancy in common in a water right, unity in the right of possession must extend to unity in the right of user.[3]

Where two parties join in filing claims and constructing a ditch, but use the water separately, either may change the point of diversion of the water used by him, or the place of its use, if the other party's rights are not thereby changed or injured.[4]

Ditch rights of way. Eminent domain.[5]—United States Statutes (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1437), granting the right to conduct or store water across or upon government land and that patentees should take subject to such rights, gives the right only in cases of necessity and not convenience.[6] Where lands have been withdrawn from the public domain, if a ditch and the right to use it were a burden on it by reason of a government grant at the time of entry, such burden cannot be increased for a third person under Act of Congress of July 26, 1866 (14 Stat. 251, c. 262), giving citizens the privilege of running ditches over unoccupied government lands.[7] The use of water for irrigation is a public use, and a statute providing for the condemnation of lands for canal and other purposes is constitutional.[8]

State Agricultural College v. Hutchinson [Or.] 78 P. 1028.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 2053.

96. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286. Law of Montana (Comp. St. 1887, div. 5, § 1251) provides that when an appropriator or his successor in interest abandons and ceases to use the water, the right ceases; but the question of abandonment is a question of fact and shall be determined as other questions of fact. Miles v. Butte Elec. & Power Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 549; Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059. Under Laws of Utah (Rev. St. 1898, § 1262), an abandonment or nonuser for seven years, right of appropriation ceases; but the questions of abandonment shall be questions of fact and the evidence was held not to establish an abandonment. Promontory Ranch Co. v. Argile [Utah] 79 P. 47.

97, 98. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286.

99. Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059.

1. Griseza v. Terwilliger, 144 Cal. 456, 77 P. 1034.

2. Griseza v. Terwilliger, 144 Cal. 456, 77 P. 1034. If each one of several tenants in common has a right to enter upon and occupy the whole of the common property and every part thereof, any one may recover the whole from a trespasser. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932.

3. Two parties who locate, survey and file claims to waters of a creek, build a ditch to a certain point, and there divide the water into two streams, one going to the land of each party, do not become joint owners of the appropriated waters. City of Telluride v. Davis [Colo.] 80 P. 1051.

4. City of Telluride v. Davis [Colo.] 80 P. 1051.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 2053. See, also, special article Ditch and Canal Rights, 3 Curr. L. 1112.

6. Boglino v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612.

7. Campbell v. Flannery [Mont.] 79 P. 702.

8. Texas Statute (Rev. St. 1895, art. 642, subd. 23, art. 704, subd. 6, arts. 3125, 3126; Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21; Rev. St. tit. 60, c. 2). Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irr. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 461. Law of Washington (Laws of 1899, p. 261, c. 131), providing for condemnation proceedings for rights of way for irrigation ditches, canals and flumes, construed and held to be constitutional. Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31, 78 P. 36. Under Law of Nebraska (Laws 1895, p. 244, c. 69, § 42), the unappropriated waters of the state are declared to be public property and dedicated to a public use. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286. Law of Idaho (Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223), to regulate the appropriation of public waters, construed, and it was held that "public waters"

The right to use a ditch[9] for the benefit of one's land may exist, though he can enjoy the same only by procuring a right of way through intervening lands.[10]

Remedies and procedure[11] for misuse of water or interference.—Equity will restrain a diversion of water by a subsequent appropriator.[12] In Nebraska a riparian owner is entitled to damages for the impairment of his common-law right.[13] Where it is found that a certain amount of water has been wrongfully diverted, an injunction and damages will not be refused because the court is unable to determine what part of the water if undiverted or returned, would have reached the claimant's point of diversion.[14] A single suit may be brought to restrain several diverters, though each is acting independently of the others.[15] But injunction will not issue at suit of one who has stood by and seen a work completed which he had reasonable cause to believe would divert his water, unless the injunction is necessary to restore to him the amount of water diverted.[16] In a suit to restrain loaning of water on the ground that it will interfere with the vested rights of other owners, the burden is upon the parties to the loan to show that there will be no such interference.[17] A decree, in a suit by the mill owner to enjoin interference with the flow of water to which he was entitled, which gives him the amount of water to which he is entitled when the volume is sufficient for the intended use, and permitting the city to divert all the water when the volume was insufficient for milling purposes, was proper.[18]

Suits to establish or fix priority.[19]—In a proceeding to establish the quantity of an appropriation, left undetermined by a former decree, persons whose rights had been determined both as to time and quantity in the former decree are not necessary parties.[20] The statutory proceeding in Idaho must be based on maps and surveys by the state engineer.[21] referred to all waters running in the natural channels of streams and that the state had power to regulate their use. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25. Constitution of Idaho (art. 15, § 1). Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Clark [C. C. A.] 131 F. 415. Canals, etc., declared to be works of internal improvement and the right of eminent domain is extended to all engaged in the construction of such works. Cline v. Stock [Neb.] 102 N. W. 265.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 2053, n. 40 et seq.

10. Blankenship v. Whaley, 142 Cal. 566, 76 P. 235.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 2054.

12. Moe v. Harger [Idaho] 77 P. 645. Equity will protect tenant in common. Rodgers v. Pitt, 129 F. 932. An upper riparian owner will be restrained from diverting water belonging to a prior appropriator, even though the latter has not begun proceedings under the statute to condemn the riparian rights of the upper owner. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249. Where a certain amount of water is being diverted by a defendant, a mandatory injunction will issue to restore it but not to restrain further use of the water until the entire amount being diverted is restored. Montecito Val. Water Co. v. City of Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113. The allegation that "more than 100 cubic feet of water per second" have been appropriated will be treated as a claim for 100 cubic feet. Anderson Land & Stock Co. v. McConnell, 133 F. 581. A bill was held sufficient which alleged a diversion from two streams by a subsequent appropriator without setting out the amount of water appropriated or the precise date thereof. Id.

13. He may not enhance it by constructing irrigation ditches subsequently to the appropriation by which to make use of his riparian rights. McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249. A riparian owner cannot have one who has duly obtained a right to the use of water enjoined, but he is relegated to his action at common law for damages. Cline v. Stock [Neb.] 102 N. W. 265. On a trial to enjoin unlawful interference with water rights, equity has jurisdiction and having obtained it, can decide all questions involved and grant appropriate relief. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley, 32 Colo. 437, 76 P. 1053.

14. Montecito Val. Water Co. v. City of Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113.

15, 16. Montecito Val. Water Co. v. City of Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113.

17. Ft. Lyon Canal Co. v. Chew [Colo.] 81 P. 37.

18. City of Telluride v. Blair [Colo.] 80 P. 1053.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 2049, n. 1.

20. In re Priorities of Water Rights in Dist. No. 12 [Colo.] 80 P. 891. In such a proceeding, an answer setting up that there were other interested owners, not made parties, is insufficient, if it does not give their names or interests. Id.

21. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223ff. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

A decree under a statutory proceeding for the adjudication of priorities is res judicata unless appealed from.[22] The mode of appeal is statutory in Colorado.[23]

§ 15. Irrigation districts and irrigation and power companies.[24]—Irrigation districts may be formed under various statutes prescribing the manner of creation and the powers and duties of their officers.[25] In some states the statute provides for organization by vote of electors, signifying a majority assent,[26] by petition of landowners.[27] An irrigation district is a municipal corporation as regards its functions,[28] but not a municipal corporation to the extent that the state can dispose of its property as it pleases.[29]

It has no powers not given it by statute, expressly or by implication.[30] A quasi-public corporation engaged in supplying water for irrigation purposes is not subject to be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt under the Federal bankruptcy act.[31] For purposes authorized, a district may in some states issue bonds,[32] and may levy assessments which constitute a lien on the land.[33] An ap-

22. Farmers' Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286. Laws of Colorado (Laws 1881, p. 154, § 22, Mills' Ann. St. § 2421), providing that no claim to priority to water rights of any person who had failed to offer evidence under any adjudication should be regarded by any water commission in distributing water in times of scarcity until by order of court such person should have obtained leave and made proof and secured a decree of priority, and (Mills' Ann. St. § 2425), authorizing a review of a state decree written two years thereafter at the instance of a party thereto, construed, and it was held that one who appears and files a verified statement of his claim but refuses to offer proof, must apply for a review within 2 years or the decree will become res adjudicata as to him and his privies. Crippen v. X. Y. Irrigating Ditch Co., 32 Colo. 447, 76 P. 794. A proceeding to complete proof of an appropriation by the grantee of water rights of a party to a former decree under the irrigation statutes is not within Mills' Ann. St. § 2435, precluding persons from setting up claims adverse to a decree after four years from its entry. In re Priorities of Water Rights in Dist. No. 12 [Colo.] 80 P. 891. Nor does § 2425, that a reargument or review must be applied for within two years, apply to a conditional decree, which left the quantity of an appropriation undetermined. Id. Revised decree awarding priority under Mills' Ann. St. § 2425, construed, and held not to affect a prior decree awarding a priority. Magill v. Hyatt [Colo. App.] 80 P. 472.

23. Colorado Laws (Mills' Ann. St. § 2432), regulating the method of appeals from proceedings to determine priorities, construed. Baer Bros. Land & Cattle Co. v. Wilson, 32 Colo. 500, 77 P. 245.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 2055.

25. Idaho Law (Sess. Laws 1903, p. 165). Pioneer Irr. Dist. v. Campbell [Idaho] 77 P. 328. Law of Oregon (Laws 1895, p. 13). Little Walla Walla Irr. Dist. v. Preston [Or.] 78 P. 982. Under the Laws of Wyoming (Rev. St. 1899, §§ 888ff), providing for the creation of irrigation districts in charge of water commissioners empowered to regulate the use of priorities and giving an appeal from their decision to the superintendent, and from him to the state engineers and from them to the courts, it was held that the decision of the commissioners and superintendent, even though not appealed from, was not binding on the court. Ryan v. Tutty [Wyo.] 78 P. 661. In Colorado the water commissioners of the various districts are charged with the duty of regulating and distributing water in accordance with decrees regulating the priorities. Crippen v. X. Y. Irrigating Ditch Co., 32 Colo. 447, 76 P. 794.

26. Law of California (St. 1887, p. 29, c. 34, § 11). Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 P. 937.

27. Act of California (St. 1887, p. 29, c. 34, amended by St. 1899, cc. 19, 20, 178; St. 1891, cc. 57, 127, 128, 171). Marra v. San Jacinto & P. V. Irr. Dist., 131 F. 780.

28. Act of California (St. 1893, p. 175, c. 148), authorizing the mortgaging of statutory powers of its board of directors in the possession and management of the water system, construed and held to be unconstitutional as delegating to private individuals the power to control any municipal improvement or property. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 P. 937.

29. Act of California (1887, p. 34, c. 34, § 11) providing that the legal title to all the property acquired by the district shall be vested in the district and held by it in trust as set forth in the act, construed and held to be unconstitutional in that it took property without due process of law. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 P. 937.

30. Law of Oregon (Laws 1895, p. 13), providing for the incorporation of irrigation districts, construed, and it was held that it did not authorize the district officers to regulate the rights of private individuals. Little Walla Walla Irr. Dist. v. Preston [Or.] 78 P. 982.

31. In re Bay City Irr. Co., 135 F. 850.

32. Marra v. San Jacinto & P. V. Irr. Dist., 131 F. 780. Laws of Idaho (Sess. Acts 1903, p. 167), providing for the organization of irrigation districts and for surveys, plans and maps upon the issuance of bonds, construed and held where a bond issue was insufficient and a further issue authorized, there need be no new survey or additional maps and plans. Pioneer Irr. Dist. v. Campbell [Idaho] 77 P.

proval of the map of a canal or ditch and reservoir, subject to all existing vested rights, does not give the company any rights as against a claimant who has entered and occupied lands under the pre-emption laws.[34] A forfeiture of a reservoir location for failure to complete within five years may be declared by state courts.[35]

Irrigation and power companies.[36]—A company diverting water from a stream for the purpose of supplying water for irrigation is a quasi-public servant.[37] If authorized, they may exercise the power of eminent domain.[38] Despite their quasi-public character, irrigation companies may limit their liability for their own negligence by contract with one who has not a statutory right to demand their services.[39] Irrigation companies will be compelled to specifically perform contracts entered into by them in certain cases or pay damages for injuries caused by their failure fully to perform.[40]

328. Laws of California (St. 1887, p. 29, c. 34; 1891, p. 149, c. 128, § 22), creating irrigation districts and authorizing the board of directors to levy an assessment to pay interest on bonds, construed and held the court could not declare that the bonds were a lien on the land or interfere with the discretion of the board in determining the amount of the assessment to be raised except in a case of abuse of discretion. Boskowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 P. 290. Act of California (St. 1887, p. 29, c. 34), providing for the organization of an irrigation district by majority vote, construed, and it was held it created a contract by which property owners consented that the bonds and interest of the district should be paid by the annual assessments on the property of the district, which should remain liable therefor and that the act in amendment (St. 1893, p. 175, c. 148), authorizing the board of directors without consent of the property holders to pledge the property as security for the bonds was unconstitutional in that it impaired the obligation of the contract. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 P. 937.

33. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 P. 937. Laws of California (St. 1891, p. 244, c. 171, § 18, subd. 2), creating irrigation districts and providing that in the assessment books land within the district shall be listed by township, range, section or fractional section, and where there are no congressional districts, by metes and bounds or other description sufficient to identify it, construed and held that the assessment is a lien on the land described in the assessment book. Best v. Wohlford, 144 Cal. 733, 78 P. 293.

See, generally, Municipal Bonds, 4 Curr. L. 706.

The remedy of a holder of a bond, if execution thereon is returned unsatisfied, was held to be a writ of mandamus against the officers of the district to levy an assessment against the property of the district. Marra v. San Jacinto & P. V. Irr. Dist., 131 F. 780.

34, 35. Baldridge v. Leon Lake Ditch & Reservoir Co. [Colo. App.] 80 P. 477.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 2056.

As to rates, see post, § 17.

37. Laws of Texas (Rev. St. 1895, art. 642, subd. 23; art. 704, subd. 6, and arts. 3125, 3126, Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21, Rev. St. tit. 60, c. 2), providing for incorporation of irrigation and power company, construed. Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irrigation Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 461. A common carrier. Moore-Cortes Canal Co. v. Gyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 350. Irrigation company is a public servant to carry water. Farmer's Irr. Dist. v. Frank [Neb.] 100 N. W. 286. California Constitution, art. 14, declares waters appropriated and distributed to be a public use and an irrigation company an agent of the state in the administration of a public use. Crescent Canal Co. v. Montgomery, 143 Cal. 248, 76 P. 1032.

38. Laws of Oregon (B. & C. Comp. St. §§ 5022, 5023, 5024, 5025, 5026, 5027, 5028, 5029 and 5030), authorizing corporations engaged in supplying electrical power for all purposes to use the surplus water of streams and condemn rights to the water of riparian owners and land for rights of way and providing that notices should be posted at the points of diversion and recorded, construed, and it was held that by posting and recording, the right to appropriate was acquired, and a joint action to condemn land for a ditch and to condemn the rights of riparian owners might then be maintained. Grande Ronde Electrical Co. v. Drake [Or.] 78 P. 1031. Taking land for irrigation purposes is a public use. Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irrigation Co. [Tex.] 86 S. W. 11. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 642, subd. 23, art. 704, subd. 4 and 6, and Acts 1895, c. 21, §§ 11, 12, a corporation organized for the purposes of irrigation, milling, navigation and stock raising has the power of eminent domain. Id. The Act of 1895 is not void for indefiniteness as to territory, nor unconstitutional in that its title covers more than one subject. Id. Under Laws of Texas (Rev. St. 1895, arts. 3125, 3126), providing for the incorporation under that act and the general laws of corporations to construct and maintain ditches, flumes, feeders, etc., for irrigation, mining, milling, city waterworks, and stock raising, and giving such corporations the power of eminent domain, construed, and it was held to be constitutional and only gave the power to corporations formed to supply water to the industries named, and does not give it to corporations formed to conduct them. Id.

39. Moore-Cortes Canal Co. v. Gyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 250.

40. Where land was prepared and planted in reliance upon the contract, specific performance was ordered. Bay City Irr. Co. v. Sweeney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 545. Where there is only a partial performance, the charge for the water service will be proportioned to the definitely established benefits derived by the customer after deducting damages for failure to perform in full, and if the benefit cannot be clearly established, there can be no recovery. Hunter Canal Co. v. Robertson's Heirs, 113 La. 833, 37 So. 771.

§ 16. Water companies and water supply districts; municipal ownership; private corporations and franchises.[41]—The general law of corporations as applied to water companies[42] and other general matters[43] have been excluded.

Water franchises.[44]—An ordinance granting a franchise to a water company is, after acceptance by the company, a contract,[45] which is protected from impairment by the Federal constitution[46] and is irrevocable by the municipal corporation.[47] Where the franchise granted is for a term of years, the municipality may not, within the term, impair the contract by erecting a system of waterworks of its own, and competing with the company.[48] But the mere grant of a franchise, without words of exclusion or limitation, to a company to construct and maintain a system of waterworks, does not raise an implied contract that it will not compete with the company by building municipal waterworks.[49] Some courts hold that the grant of an exclusive franchise by a municipal corporation to a water company is ultra vires.[50] Other courts hold municipalities have the right to give an exclusive franchise for a limited period, and[51] the grant of a franchise to a water company by a municipal corporation does not of itself raise an implied contract that the grantor will never do any act by which the value of the franchise may in the future be reduced,[52] and an "exclusive" contract for a term of years leaves a city free to construct a system of its own after the expiration of such term.[53]

Water companies[54] are quasi-public corporations.[55] They may be empowered to use the streets without municipal consent, but this right is not such a contract that the legislature cannot in the exercise of the police power prevent its abuse.[56]

41. See 2 Curr. L. 2057.

42. See Corporations, 1 Curr. L. 710.

43. See Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 2057, n. 84-92.

45. Armour Packing Co. v. Metropolitan Water Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 851; Weller v. Gadsden [Ala.] 37 So. 682; Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180.

46. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

47. Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180; Columbia Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152. An ordinance repealing a franchise ordinance was held ineffectual so far as the latter was valid. Weller v. Gadsden [Ala.] 37 So. 682.

48. Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180; Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Sioux Falls, 131 F. 890. In this case the contract was "exclusive," and it was held that equity would enjoin construction of competing works by the municipality. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

49. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Sioux Falls, 131 F. 890; Helena Waterworks Co. v. Helena, 25 S. Ct. 40.

50. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Sioux Falls, 131 F. 180; Weller v. Gadsden [Ala.] 37 So. 682. An exclusive franchise means that a city will not itself compete in the business nor confer a similar franchise upon another company. Id. The grant of an exclusive franchise will not be implied and must arise if at all from some specific contract binding upon the city. Helena Waterworks Co. v. Helena, 25 S. Ct. 40. Where a city with power so to do granted an exclusive franchise to a company for twenty years, it was held that if it had the statutory power, it might after the expiration of the 20 years build its own waterworks. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Sioux Falls, 131 F. 890.

51. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152; Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks Co., 130 F. 180. Laws of Indian Territory (Mansf. Dig. c. 29, § 755), authorizing cities to contract for a supply of water, construed, and it was held not to conflict with act of Congress (32 Stat. 200), authorizing cities and towns in the territory to issue bonds and borrow for construction of waterworks, and that cities could give exclusive franchises to companies for 60 years. Incorporated Town of Tahlequah v. Guinn [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 886.

52. City of Sioux Falls v. Farmers' L. & T. Co [C. C. A.] 136 F. 721.

53. City of Sioux Falls v. Farmers' L. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 721. See, generally, Franchises, 3 Curr. L. 1495.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 2057, n. 79-83.

55. Whitehouse v. Staten Island Water Supply Co., 91 N. Y. S. 544; Wiemer v. Louisville Water Co., 130 F. 251.

56. Where a water company by charter had the right to dig up the streets to lay and repair its pipes, it was held that under the Virginia Code of 1887, § 1093, provid-

But a municipality by statute may be authorized to regulate the use of its streets by a water company or an individual.[57] A water company is liable for injuries caused by a hole in a city street dug by its orders, into which a person, in the exercise of due care, fell.[58] A municipality may not, without express authority, impose license fees upon water companies for the right to maintain fire plugs under the general power to regulate water pipes and plugs and require licenses from persons engaged in certain occupations, when there was no reference to water companies, it not being a legitimate exercise of the police power.[59] The law of agency applies to water companies.[60]

Condemnation of property by water companies.[61]—Water companies are frequently given the power of eminent domain,[62] which may include the power to take property held for a public use as well as private property,[63] especially where it is for a more necessary public use.[64]

Water boards and districts.[65]—Water districts are the creation of the legislature and are sometimes organized by the petition of a majority in number and value of resident landowners.[66] Water commissioners may have power to condemn necessary lands.[67] They may also make any contracts necessary for the proper construction of the plants,[68] and conduct the same after completion and fix rates for private use.[69] Such powers vested in water commissioners are proprietary and not governmental.[70] A town in which a water district is created may be authorized to issue bonds which are a charge upon it, and to be collected from property within the water district.[71]

The municipality may be authorized by statute even to supply neighboring ing that a water company must obtain municipal consent to the use of its streets and that a city might prevent the encumbering of its streets in any way, a city had power to forbid the extension of the company's system, the company being practically insolvent. City of Petersburg v. Petersburg Aqueduct Co., 102 Va. 654, 47 S. E. 848.

57. N. J. Law (P. L. 1895, p. 275). Stowe v. Kearny [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1058.

58. Iseminger v. New Haven Water & Power Co., 209 Pa. 615, 59 A. 64. See, also, Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593.

59. Commissioners of Cambridge v. Cambridge Water Co., 99 Md. 501, 58 A. 442.

60. A water company is bound by a contract made by its superintendent who was clothed with apparent authority. Milledgeville Water Co. v. Edwards, 121 Ga. 555, 49 S. E. 621.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 2058.

62. Independent Natural Gas Co. v. Butler Water Co., 210 Pa. 177, 59 A. 984.

63. Independent Natural Gas Co. v. Butler Water Co., 210 Pa. 177, 59 A. 984. The Pennsylvania Act of April 29, 1874 (R. L. 73, § 34, c. 2) as amended by Stat. of 1889 (P. L. 226) gives water companies this right. Id. A water company required by its charter to supply a certain borough with water will not be enjoined from taking land for a dam in which a natural gas company has its pipes, where they could be removed to other land of the water company not covered by the dam at a small expense. Id.

64. Laws of California (Code Civ. Proc. § 1237), providing that property already taken for a public use may be taken by right of eminent domain for a more necessary public use, construed, and it was held that the land of a private person subject to an easement for a public highway may be taken by a water company for a dam and reservoir. Marin County Water Co. v. Marin County, 145 Cal. 586, 79 P. 282.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 2058.

66. Holroyd v. Indian Lake [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 35.

67. Holroyd v. Indian Lake [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 35. Laws of Mass. (St. 1895, c. 488, § 14), providing for a metropolitan water supply and the condemnation of land therefor and for the determination of damages suffered by the owner of an established business on land taken, construed. Sawyer v. Commonwealth, 185 Mass. 356, 70 N. E. 438.

68. Holroyd v. Indian Lake [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 35. It is not ultra vires for the commissioners of water works appointed by statute for the acquiring of lands and the construction of a water system, to lease a private railroad over the grounds primarily to secure freighting facilities. Ampt. v. Cincinnati, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 489.

69. Under the Michigan law (Pub. Acts 1853, p. 180, c. 90), which established a board of water commissioners with power to build and control a system of waterworks and fix rates for private use, it was held that it might charge the Board of Education for its use of water. Board of Water Com'rs of Detroit v. Board of Education of Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 455.

70. Ampt v. Cincinnati, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 489.

71. New York Statute (Laws 1900, p. 1119, c. 451). Holroyd v. Indian Lake [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 35.

municipalities;[72] but a city not under a legal contract to supply a town with water cannot authorize the laying of a pipe for such supply.[73]

A person performing secretarial duties to a water board may be a mere employe and not a public officer.[74]

The water funds of Chicago, though not wholly consumed, cannot be turned into any other fund.[75]

Public ownership.[76]—The legislature may grant to municipal corporations the power to construct or purchase and maintain a system of waterworks to furnish water for municipal purposes and to supply the inhabitants,[77] and exercise the right of eminent domain therefor.[78] In a recent case the nature of a taking for public ownership and the mode of appraising the value of the property and system taken is elaborated in detail.[79] If authorized, a city may contract with a 72. The New Jersey Borough Act (P. L. 1897, p. 323, § 376) authorizes water contracts with adjoining municipalities only. Borough of East Newark v. New York & N. J. Water Supply Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1051.

73. Rehill v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 175.

74. Secretary of Waterworks Trustees is not an office within the legal acceptance of the word, and one appointed thereto for a specified term, but who was discharged before the term expired, cannot enforce a claim for salary for remainder of term. Hutchison v. Lima, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 55.

75. Under Illinois statutes, a surplus in the Chicago water fund cannot be transferred to the general fund, but must be used for waterworks purposes exclusively. People v. Hummel [Ill.] 74 N. E. 78.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 2059.

77. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16. In Georgia a city can do those things necessary to supply its inhabitants with water for domestic use and to provide the city with protection in case of fire. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

78. In condemnation proceedings it was held that the finding that a water company was not devoting certain water to which it was entitled to a public use was not warranted where the cause of the nonuse was the temporary cessation of flow of the water by reason of drought and the city's own acts. City of Santa Barbara v. Gould, 143 Cal. 421, 77 P. 151. See Brunswick & T. Water Dist. v. Maine Water Co. [Me.] 59 A. 537.

79. Under the Maine statute (Priv. & Special Laws 1903, c. 158) providing for the taking of part of the water system of a water company by a water district and for appraisers appointed by the court to fix the value of the plant property and franchises taken, and to assess damages for the taking and declaring that the value of the property taken together with the additional damages found for the severance should be fixed so as to equal the difference between the value of the entire plant, property and franchises before the severance and the value of the part not taken, after the severance, both of which valuations were to be found under the rules of eminent domain, and further providing that the act should take effect when approved by a majority vote of the inhabitants of the water district, which approval should constitute an acceptance of the method of appraisal and be binding upon both the district and the company, the appraisers were instructed as follows:

(1) That what was being taken was the structure i. e. pipes, pumps, engines, machinery, reservoirs, etc., with land and water rights, in actual use i. e. as a going concern, together with the franchises, by means of which the plant was in lawful use.

(2) Therein applying the rule that the basis of calculation as to the reasonableness of rates charged by a public service company, is the fair value of the property used by it for its service, franchises are to be considered, as well as the question of the risk involved in the undertaking, and whether the plant is reasonably necessary or unnecessarily expensive.

(3) That the actual cost bears upon the reasonableness of rates as well as upon the present value of the structure, but in estimating the latter, prior cost is not the only criterion. The rise and fall in prices of materials may affect, favorably or unfavorably, the present value and the same factors should be considered in estimating the reasonableness of rates.

(4) That what is reasonable depends on varying circumstances and in determining what are reasonable rates so as to produce a fair return to the company the amount of money reasonably and necessarily invested in the structure and its natural increment, if any, is to be considered together with the franchises which may enhance the value of the plant.

(5) Reasonableness relates both to the company and to the consumer, and if they cannot be to both they must be to the consumer.

(6) A public service company can not lawfully charge in any event more than the services are reasonably worth to the public as individuals even if the charge so limited would fail to produce a fair return to the company upon the value of its property or investment.

(7) Profits which in the aggregate exceed a fair return on the companies' property and franchises involve unreasonable rates and furnish no criterion either of franchise or going concern values. What is a fair return depends upon the circumstances of each case, and these various questions are to be determined in accordance with the preponderance of evidence.

(8) Where the value of the structure is to be determined as of a certain date, present prices of materials govern. By present prices is meant those at that date and within a water company for a supply of water and include in the contract an option to purchase the plant of the company.[80] Where a city exercises an option to buy the plant of a water company, contained in a contract, the sale is perfected and the appraisals called for in the contract were a mere administrative detail to determine the fair market value, and are not a condition to the exercise of the option.[81]

The authorities empowered to acquire or build waterworks may raise money by taxation to pay for the same,[82] which taxes are a lien on the land benefited.[83]

Title of the public.[84]

Inalienability of public supply.[85]

Contracts for public supply.[86]—Municipal corporations may be authorized to contract for a water supply for themselves and their inhabitants, and to grant franchises to companies with which they contract to construct and operate waterworks.[87] Apart from statute, they have no power to buy and sell water as a commodity.[88] They have only such powers to add terms as can be read from the statute,[89] but the fact that one or two clauses in the franchise contract are ultra period prior to it necessary for the construction of the plant, rather than former prices and interest upon the money invested in the plant during the construction thereof is to be added.

(9) Damages caused by the severance, if any, are to be added as provided by the act.

(10) The provision for rules for fixing the damages is valid because it was not the legislature which adopted them but the inhabitants of the water district by their majority vote, which vote signified an assent to and adoption of the rules.

(11) When the worth of a public service to the public is spoken of as one of the elements to be considered, it is the expense at which the public or customers as a community might serve themselves were they free to do so and were it not for the practically exclusive franchises of the company and the water is to be regarded as a product and the cost at which it can be produced or distributed is an important element of its worth.

(12) The worth of a water service to its customers means its worth to them as individuals, but as individuals making up a community of water takers, and such a community is entitled to the benefit of existing natural advantages, so that if there is more than one source of supply, other things being equal, it is entitled to have the least expensive one used. The company cannot be permitted to charge a higher rate based upon the expense of bringing the water from a more expensive source.

(13) Where the rates which furnish a basis for estimating value are earned in part by the property taken and in part by property not taken, the appraisers must discriminate and so far as the value may depend upon the rates, should charge the property only for its fair proportion of the earnings.

(14) The rules of eminent domain which are to be applied in making the award are those agreed to by the majority vote of the inhabitants of the district approving the charter. Brunswick & T. Water Dist. v. Maine Water Co. [Me.] 59 A. 537.

80. Livermore v. Millville [N. J. Law] 59 A. 217.

81. A water company was not allowed to avoid the contract because of an appraisal made by an appraiser substituted with the knowledge of its officers and counsel. City of Fayetteville v. Fayetteville Water, L. & P. Co., 135 F. 400.

82. Helena Waterworks Co. v. Helena, 25 S. Ct. 40. A statute to enable a city to supply its citizens with water is constitutional which makes a fixed charge per foot of frontage a lien upon land bordering on streets through which water pipes are laid for the purpose of meeting the expenses of laying the pipes, at least in regard to landowners who use the water. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16. Constitution of Kentucky, §§ 157-159, limiting the taxing powers of cities by classes, and providing that when a municipality is authorized to enter into a contract it must provide for collection of an annual tax to pay for it and to create a sinking fund, construed, and it was held that a town of the 6th class could not levy an additional tax to one already levied to pay the interest on and provide a sinking fund for waterworks bonds. Town of Bardwell v. Harlin, 26 Ky. L. R. 101, 80 S. W. 773.

83. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16.

84, 85, 86. See 2 Curr. L. 2061.

87. Weller v. Gadsden [Ala.] 37 So. 682.

88. Where a city, with no water supply of its own, contracted with a water company for a supply of water for it and a neighboring borough to which it was under no binding contractual obligation to furnish water, it was held it had no power to sell the water to the borough and could not recover the price of it. Borough of East Newark v. New York & N. J. Water Supply Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1051.

89. Under the constitution of Georgia, a city has no power to exempt a water company from the payment of an ad valorem tax on its property for municipal purposes, either directly or by commuting such taxes in return for service supplied to it by the company. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

Estoppel: It is not ultra vires for a city which has power by statute (Sess. Laws 1888, p. 116, c. 48, art. 4, § 1, subd. 14) to maintain or contract for a water supply to lease its water rights for a nominal sum, vires will not render the entire contract bad when they are severable and distinct.[90] Where a city may make a water supply contract for a reasonable length of time, the contract will be invalid for any time in excess of what is reasonable.[91] The fact that one municipality has a contract to supply another with water gives it no right to question a contract between the other and a water company, for a water supply.[92] Where a statute has invested a municipal corporation with the power of local taxation to meet its engagements under a contract with a water company, the power of taxation thus conferred enters into and becomes a part of the contract and may not be withdrawn or lessened until its obligations are satisfied.[93]

Water contracts are not always of the character of public contracts which require advertisement, proposals, and letting to the lowest bidder.[94] An ordinance is not necessary unless prescribed.[95] A contract for a water supply to a city is a contract for the sale of goods, wares and merchandise, and is within the statute of frauds.[96] Such a contract is subject to interpretation by reference to a map or plan,[97] and to existing rights outstanding. Thus where a contract granting a right to maintain a dam on certain premises makes no reference to a prior mortgage on the premises, and the premises are first sold and thereafter the easement is sold, on foreclosure of the mortgage, the right to maintain the dam, under such contract, is cut off;[98] and the obligation to supply water under the contract ceases at the same time.[99]

Breach and enforcement of public contract.[1]—The public may show in defense to action for the price that the supply was deficient.[2] In a proper case, the rights, franchises, and contracts of a water company may be declared forfeited for insufficient service, and failure to perform a contract.[3] Where a city the real consideration being a supply of water for itself and inhabitants, where its own system is practically worthless. Ogden City v. Bear Lake & River Waterworks & Irr. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 1069. Where a city contracted with a company to construct and maintain waterworks by which to supply it and its inhabitants, and for six years used the water supply and assessed the company and collected the tax and allowed the title to the waterworks to be transferred, it was held that the city was estopped to deny the validity of the contract because of informality in its execution. Id.

90, 91. Weller v. Gadsden [Ala.] 37 So. 682.

92. Jersey City v. Kearny [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1056.

93. Mandamus will lie to order the city to levy a special tax. City of Ft. Madison v. Ft. Madison Water Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 214.

94. See Public Contracts, 4 Curr. L. 1089.

95. Where the legislature has authorized a city to contract or act in regard to a water supply and has not required an ordinance, a motion or resolution is valid. Jersey City v. Harrison [N. J. Law] 58 A. 100.

A resolution is sufficient: New Jersey Law (P. L. 1895, p. 240; Gen. St. p. 3536). Stowe v. Kearney [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1058. Under Law of Utah (Sess. Laws 1888, p. 116, c. 48, art. 4, § 1, subd. 14), authorizing a city council to construct and maintain waterworks or authorize others so to do, it was held that a contract with a company for such construction and maintenance was valid, although made by a resolution and not by an ordinance. Ogden City v. Bear Lake & River Waterworks & Irr. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 1069. In contracting for a water supply for itself and its inhabitants, a city is exercising proprietary and not governmental powers, hence an ordinance is not essential. Id.

96. Jersey City v. Harrison [N. J. Law] 58 A. 100.

97. In construing a contract with a water company, a map showing location of mains and hydrants and depositions showing the acceptance of the system thus shown are admissible. Lexington Hydraulic & Mfg. Co. v. Oots [Ky.] 86 S. W. 684.

98, 99. Wykes v. Caldwell [Kan.] 80 P. 941.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 2063, n. 51-53.

2. On a question as to the sufficiency of water supply for a borough, an expert may testify as to what is a sufficient supply for a town of the population of the defendant, if an objection is not made that only a portion of the population used the water. Ephrata Water Co. v. Ephrata Borough, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 353. In an action to recover from a borough the contract price of water during a particular period, evidence as to the condition of the company's reservoir at any time subsequent to such period is immaterial. Ephrata Water Co. v. Ephrata Borough, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 353.

3. Facts were held not to warrant a forfeiture. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

has paid hydrant rentals to a company for a number of years under a contract, and then repudiates it, but continues to use water for fires, at no time complaining of the service, cannot invoke a forfeiture of the contract because of deficient or ineffective service as a defense to a suit upon the contract.[4] A contract between a borough and a water company to supply the former with water cannot be deemed to have been rescinded when the company offered to enter into a new contract, which offer was not accepted.[5]

§ 17. Water service and rates.[6] Service contracts.—A municipality in furnishing water to its citizens acts as a private corporation or individual, and is as much bound by its contracts as an individual.[7]

Injuries from deficient supply or equipment, and negligence.[8]—In providing a water supply for the use of inhabitants and for fire protection, under statutory authority, a city performs a governmental function carrying with it no liability for negligence in its exercise for fire protection,[9] and statutory authority to construct and maintain public waterworks does not authorize the making of an express contract which would render a municipality liable for failure to maintain a certain pressure;[10] but in so far as it conducts the business of supplying water for profit, it performs a nongovernmental function, and is liable if in managing or constructing the pipes and plant it is guilty of negligence whereby the water damages adjacent property,[11] nor is a water company liable to the inhabitants of a city for failure to perform its contract to supply the city and its inhabitants with sufficient water for fire protection.[12] A company will be protect-

4. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152. Where by a Mississippi statute (Laws 1886, p. 589, c. 325), a city was authorized to contract for a supply of "pure and wholesome water," and upon a failure to furnish water reasonably within those terms and also to furnish such fire protection as the contract called for, the contract was declared forfeited. Meridlan Waterworks Co. v. Meridian [Miss.] 37 So. 927.

5. Ephrata Water Co. v. Ephrata Borough, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 353.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 2064, 2065. Irrigation service contracts, see post, § 18.

7. Penn Iron Co. v. City of Lancaster, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 478.

Contracts construed: Contract for a supply of water by a water company for one year and thereafter until notice to discontinue was given construed, and it was held that the contract did not run from year to year after the first year and that the company was not bound to supply water for the whole of the subsequent year because it failed to act upon the consumer's default at the beginning of it. Hieronymus Bros. v. Bienville Water Supply Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 453. Where an individual water consumer has paid the company's rates for several years, a contract will be implied to furnish him with a sufficient supply of water for ordinary uses, and the fact that the house was on an eminence and that the cold weather reduced the pressure was held to be no defense; the measure of damages was declared to be the fair value of the labor employed to obtain a sufficient supply. Whitehouse v. Staten Island Water Supply Co., 91 N. Y. S. 544. A contract between a city and a water company, providing for furnishing water to manufacturers and large consumers and rates for house service and for the extension of the service, construed. Berends v. Bellevue Water & Fuel Gaslight Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 912, 82 S. W. 983. Where a contract for water supply provided that the rates to consumers should not exceed the rates charged to citizens of a neighboring city, it was held that this provision should be construed to relate to prices charged by the corporation and not by a neighboring city after it took over the waterworks of the corporation. Armour Packing Co. v. Metropolitan Water Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 851.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 2064.

9. United States v. Sault Ste. Marie, 137 F. 258; Allen & Currey Mfg. Co. v. Shreveport Waterworks Co., 113 La. 1091, 37 So. 980. Negligence in keeping fire service pipes repaired is not actionable. Aschoff v. Evansville [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 279.

10. Contract by defendant city to maintain certain pressure on Federal reservation for fire protection ultra vires and city not liable for loss caused by failure of water supply. United States v. Sault Ste. Marie, 137 F. 258.

11. Not liable where extra fire pressure burst pipe, and flooded cellar. Aschoff v. Evansville [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 279.

Note: The authorities are collected and reconciled in this opinion.

The business of selling water by a city to its inhabitants and to street sprinkling contractors is not an exercise of the police power. A city is not exempt from liability for negligence in maintaining its system. City of Chicago v. Selz, Schwab & Co., 202 Ill. 545, 67 N. E. 386.

A city is liable for the bursting of a dam negligently constructed. The ground that supplying water was a governmental function held to be no defense. Town of Southeast v. New York, 96 App. Div. 598, 89 N. Y. S. 630.

12. Allen & Curry Mfg. Co. v. Shreveport

ed in case its failure to perform a contract with a city or an individual is due to an accident which ordinary prudence could not have foreseen and guarded against,[13] but it may by contract guard against its own negligence.[14] The measure of damages for failure to supply at all times sufficient water for fire protection is full indemnity for the loss caused thereby, and not merely the value of the water which should have been supplied.[15] The measure of damages for failure to supply water whereby a consumer had to obtain water from another source is the fair value of the labor employed in procuring it.[16]

Rules and regulations of service; pipes, meters, and consumption.[17]—A water company may make and enforce such reasonable rules and regulations as will protect its supply of water from theft, waste, misuse, or deprivation by any other unlawful means.[18] A water company chartered to supply a city and its inhabitants may make reasonable regulations in respect to furnishing water for sprinkling the streets.[19]

Waterworks Co., 113 La. 1091, 37 So. 980; Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Topeka Water Co., 132 F. 702; Blunk v. Dennison Water Supply Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 210.

Contra: Lexington Hydraulic & Mfg. Co. v. Oots [Ky.] 84 S. W. 774; Jones v. Durham Water Co., 135 N. C. 553, 47 S. E. 615. Under a contract requiring the water company to furnish an adequate supply of water to extinguish fires and on four minutes notice to furnish sufficient pressure to throw five streams 100 feet into the air, the former condition determines the company's liability to the owner of a burnt building. Jones v. Durham Water Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 769.

NOTE. Beneficiaries under city's contract with water company: The appellant, a water company, contracted with the city to furnish a supply of water at a certain pressure for fire purposes. A householder brought an action for the breach of this contract. Held, he could recover damages for loss of his house for failure of the water company to furnish pressure according to their contract with the city. Lexington Hydraulic, etc., Co. v. Oots [Ky.] 84 S. W. 774.

The decision in the principal case is contrary to the great weight of authority, it being almost universally held that a property holder cannot sue on such a contract. Wainwright v. Queens Co. Water Co., 78 Hun, 146; Howsman v. Trenton Water Co., 119 Mo. 304, 41 Am. St. Rep. 654; Britton v. Waterworks Co., 81 Wis. 48, 29 Am. St. Rep. 856. Nor does the assumption by the company of functions properly appurtenant to the municipal corporation put the former under a duty to the plaintiff, since the municipality itself would not be liable under the circumstances. Eaton v. Fairbury Waterworks Co., 37 Neb. 546, 40 Am. St. Rep. 510, see Van Horne v. Des Moines, 63 Iowa, 447, 50 Am. Rep. 750; Mendel v. Wheeling, 28 W. Va. 233, 57 Am. Rep. 664; Dillon's Mun. Corp. [4th Ed.] § 976. The court follows Paducah Lumber Co. v. Water Supply Co., 89 Ky. 340, 25 Am. St. Rep. 536, saying that a principle "when settled right ought to be adhered to without reference to the number of contrary adjudications in other jurisdictions." Though incidentally the contract benefits the individual, the central object of such contract on the part of the city is to secure the discharge of its functions as agent of the state, a fact overlooked by the court in the principal case.—From 5 Columbia Law Rep. 397.

13. Springfield Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Graves County Water & Light Co. [Ky. I. R.] 85 S. W. 205. Where, under a contract between a city and a water company for first class fire protection, it was stipulated that different sized pipes might be used, the sizes being given, it was held that this fact did not lessen the obligation to furnish first class protection and that the city was not estopped to complain that the requisite protection was not afforded by the pipes actually used. Meridian Waterworks Co. v. City of Meridian [Miss.] 37 So. 927. Under the Act of June 2, 1887 (P. L. 310) which was enacted to insure the performance of a public duty, equity has no jurisdiction to assess damages against a water company for failure to supply a customer with water, because of an accidental breakdown. Brace v. Pennsylvania Water Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 249. This act was not intended to abrogate the jurisdiction of law courts to adjudicate the question of damages growing out of contracts between water companies and private individuals. Id.

14. Buchanan & Smock Lumber Co. v. East Jersey Coast Water Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 31.

15. Harris & Cole Bros. v. Columbia Water & Light Co. [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 897.

16. Labor and apparatus for drawing water from a cistern. Whitehouse v. Staten Island Water Supply Co., 91 N. Y. S. 544.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 2067.

18. A rule requiring faucets to be placed so as not to be accessible to persons not customers held enforceable against one who boxed the tap but did not lock the box. State v. Everett Water Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 794. The rule may be enforced against one customer, though others are permitted to have faucets where they are accessible. Id.

19. A rule that persons in that business must obtain a license from the company and providing that not more than one would be granted to cover the same street and would be granted to the person having the largest list of petitioning owners of property on the street was held reasonable and within the powers of the company. Louisville Water

Water rates.[20]—The rates charged for water service must be reasonable[21] and a condition in the charter of a water company that it should not charge private families more than a fixed amount yearly is a contract from which the company cannot be relieved by the legislature.[22] A statutory provision that water companies organized under the statute should have power to establish rates, which should be subject to regulation by the appropriate board of supervisors, but should not by them be reduced below a certain point, is not a contract that the state will not authorize supervisors to make such reduction.[23] The reasonableness will be determined by considering their application as to all customers supplied.[24] The complainant has the burden of proving that the rates are unreasonable.[25] A water rent paid and acquiesced in for a long series of years cannot be arbitrarily greatly increased without notice and without opportunity to appeal to the water committee as provided by ordinance.[26]

Remedy for nonpayment of charges.[27]

Local assessments for pipes.—It has been held that placing pipes in a street fronting a lot already supplied is not a benefit such as to support a local assessment for pipes.[28]

Rates for irrigation and payment for service.[29]—The legislature has power to fix maximum rates to be charged by irrigation companies for water.[30] The owner of a ditch or canal in Idaho may require from claimants for water payment or security in advance.[31] But if water is furnished without such payment or security, the remedy is by suit to enforce payment and not by a rule to refuse a water supply until arrearages are paid.[32]

Co. v. Wiemer [C. C. A.] 130 F. 257. Overruling Wiemer v. Louisville Water Co., 130 F. 251 on this point.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 2065.

21. A full discussion as to reasonableness of water rates: Brunswick & T. Water Dist. v. Maine Water Co. [Me.] 59 A. 537. Where city waterworks were extended to an outlying section to serve summer residents, it was held that in view of the expense of furnishing the water, the nature of the use and the special expense of the extension and the interest thereon, it was proper to charge such users at a higher rate than users in the center of the city. Souther v. Gloucester, 187 Mass. 552, 73 N. E. 558. Under a statute of Illinois (Laws 1891, p. 85), authorizing municipalities to prescribe maximum rates to be charged, and that same should be "just and reasonable," it was held that to require arbitrarily the charge of the same rates as was charged by the municipal waterworks and to supply charitable, religious and educational institutions free was unjust, unreasonable and unconstitutional, as being a taking of property. City of Chicago v. Rogers Park Water Co., 214 Ill. 212, 73 N. E. 375. Under the same statute, it was held that a municipal corporation must in each case see whether charges are just and reasonable before the adoption of the ordinance. Id.

22. White Haven Borough v. White Haven Water Co., 209 Pa. 166, 58 A. 159.

23. Construing Cal. St. 1853, p. 87, as amended by St. 1862, p. 540, § 3. Stanislaus County v. San Joaquin & K. R. Canal & Irrigation Co., 192 U. S. 201, 48 Law. Ed. 406. Even though a contract was thereby created, legislature had power, under Const. 1849, art. 4, § 31, to pass Stat. 1885, p. 95, § 5, authorizing supervisors to reduce rates to not less than 6 nor more than 8 per cent. upon the then value of the property actually used by a company in supplying water. Id. A reduction of rates so as to give 6 per cent upon the value of the property used, held not a taking of property without due process, or a denial of equal protection. Id.

24. Where the company charged some of its customers at lower rates than others, it was not allowed to attack the maximum rate fixed by law as being unreasonable, because when applied to the rest of its customers it would not yield a fair income. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Clark [C. C. A.] 131 F. 415.

25. Souther v. Gloucester [Mass.] 73 N. E. 558.

26. Penn Iron Co. v. City of Lancaster, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 478.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 2067.

28. A lot of land in a city already supplied with water from one street is not benefited by a water supply on another street on which it fronts and is not liable to assessment for the water pipes laid in the other street. McChesney v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 592, 73 N. E. 368.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 2065.

30. Law of Idaho (Civ. Code, § 2579) construed and declared not to be unconstitutional on the ground that the maximum rate allowed would not yield a reasonable income, it appearing that the plant was on too large a scale for present needs. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Clark [C. C. A.] 131 F. 415.

31. Sess. Laws 1899, p. 382, § 19. Shelby v. Farmers' Co-op. Ditch Co. [Idaho] 80 P. 222.

32. Rev. St. 1887, § 3203. Shelby v. Farmers' Co-op. Ditch Co. [Idaho] 80 P. 222.

§ 18. Contracts, grants and licenses.[33]—Water rights of various kinds may be the subject of a grant, as for example, the right to take water from a spring or well,[34] the right to set back water by a dam,[35] the right to divert water from a stream,[36] or the right of way for a pipe line or ditch to carry water.[37] A water right may be dedicated to the public.[38]

A grantee of land takes subject to a prior grant to a dam owner to keep, maintain, rebuild and repair the dam.[39] Under such grant, it is immaterial where the dam is rebuilt, after it has been carried away;[40] and after adverse user of the reconstructed dam for twenty years, the right to the location selected becomes fixed.[41] A grant of dam rights having reserved the right to the natural flow from the dam, a grantee of the land is not entitled to an increased flow from the stored waters, the natural flow being unobstructed.[42] Loss of water from evaporation is within the contemplation of parties to a grant of dam rights, even though it is expressly agreed that the grantor's lower mill privileges shall not be affected.[43] If appurtenant, the water right passes with a grant of the dominant estate, without special mention,[44] and although appurtenant to land, a water right may be granted without it.[45] One who asserts that water rights are appurtenant has the burden of proof.[46] Where water rights are obtained by contract, the

33. See 2 Curr. L. 2067.

34. Right to take water from a spring. Water Supply Co. v. City of Georgetown, 26 Ky. L. R. 327, 81 S. W. 660. A grant of a right to "tap a spring branch" by a pipe, not specifying the point at which this might be done, gives the right to tap at any point after the branch left the pool of the spring. Id. A contract for the right to use water from an artesian well construed. Chapea Water Co. v. Chapman, 144 Cal. 366, 77 P. 990.

35. Sweetland v. Grant's Pass New Water, L. & P. Co. [Or.] 79 P. 337. A contract for a flowing right construed, and it was held that the evidence warranted an award of actual and not nominal damages. Nuckolls v. Anderson, 120 Ga. 677, 48 S. E. 191.

36. Everett Water Co. v. Powers [Wash.] 79 P. 617. A deed granting the right to divert all the waters of a stream by a pipe except an amount for use of one family for domestic uses and for use in case of fire was held not to be void for uncertainty and the right reserved for domestic use was to take water from the bed of the stream. Id. A deed of the right to divert the waters of a stream cannot be attacked by the grantor or his successors on the ground that the grantee did not acquire the rights of lower riparian owners. Id. The fact that a deed conveying the right to divert the waters of a stream for the purposes of a certain town was held not to limit the grant, but in the absence of express prohibition, the surplus water could be used for other purposes. Id.

37. Everett Water Co. v. Powers [Wash.] 79 P. 617. A contract for a lease of water from a mine and a right of way for a ditch in which to conduct the same, construed. Tilton v. Sterling Coal & Coke Co. [Utah] 77 P. 758. A conveyance of a water ditch, with the right to convey water therein, and all appurtenant rights, conveys an extension of the ditch, made for the purpose of using the ditch as an easement. Pogue v. Collins [Cal.] 80 P. 623.

38. The right to flow land. Boye v. Albert Lea [Minn.] 100 N. W. 642. The right to use an underground stream flowing entirely under one's own land for sewer purposes. Sherman Lime Co. v. Glens Falls, 42 Misc. 440, 87 N. Y. S. 95.

39, 40, 41, 42, 43. Roe v. Redner, 46 Misc. 25, 93 N. Y. S. 258.

44. Sweetland v. Grants Pass New Water, Light & Power Co. [Or.] 79 P. 337. Mere proof of ownership of an interest in a mining claim is insufficient to prove right to use water in a ditch which is appurtenant thereto, nor does a statement in a lease of several claims that a water right is appurtenant to the land leased tend to show that it was appurtenant to any one. Leggat v. Carroll [Mont.] 76 P. 805. The grant to a power company and its successors and assigns forever of the right to maintain an abutment for a dam is a grant of an easement in fee and appurtenant to the grantee's plant, so as to pass to its successors, since at the time the grantee was building a plant and dam to the knowledge of the grantor. Sweetland v. Grants Pass New Water, L. & P. Co. [Or.] 79 P. 337. Where part of a tract of land is sold subject to the right to take water from springs on it, such right becomes appurtenant to the remainder. Mason v. Thwing, 94 App. Div. 77, 87 N. Y. S. 991. Where the right to take water from two springs on another's land was appurtenant to certain land and at the time water was being used from only one spring part of premises was conveyed with the privilege of taking water "as at present used," and "all the appurtenances," it was held that the right to take water from both springs passed. Id.

45. Whether a deed of land conveys the water rights depends on the intention of the grantor, which is to be found from the express language used, or where the deed is silent on the subject, from the presumption which arises from the circumstances, and whether such right is or is not an incident and necessary to the beneficial use of the land. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley, 32 Colo. 437, 76 P. 1053.

46. The fact that a lessee of land uses an acts and conduct of the parties and their manner of use will have great weight in construing the contract.[47] The ordinary rules of instruction apply to grants and leases of, and contracts in relation to, water rights.[48] Illustrative cases are cited.[49] Permission for which no consideration is given is a mere parol license and revocable at will.[50] Where acquiescence does not work an estoppel, nor the fact that the license was acted upon at a great cost.[51] A void deed of aqueous lands does not work a reversion for deviation from a purpose annexed to the title.[52] unknown amount of water on it does not give rise to the inference of an intent to make the rise appurtenant to the land. Hayes v. Buzzard [Mont.] 77 P. 423.

47. Walker Ice Co. v. American Steel & Wire Co., 185 Mass. 463, 70 N. E. 937. Where, under a contract, a right to acquire a given amount of water from a canal was acquired and the use of it acquiesced in for over 60 years by the canal commissioners, it was held that they could not thereafter lessen that amount by the erection of weirs. Merrifield v. Canal Com'rs of Illinois & M. Canal, 212 Ill. 456, 72 N. E. 405.

48. See Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805; Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056.

49. Grants construed: Where an owner of two adjoining tracts who owned an undivided half of a ditch mortgaged one parcel with all his right and title and interest in and to the ditch, "the same being used for and necessary to the irrigation of the lands," and later used water on both tracts, it was held that upon foreclosure and sale of the land by a deed conveying the ditch and all water rights of the mortgagor, only so much of his interest in the ditch passed as was used for and necessary to the irrigation of the land described in the deed. Farm Inv. Co. v. Gallup [Wyo.] 76 P. 917.

Contracts for water supply construed: A contract to pay a given amount per annum for future water service was held not to be an "existing" indebtedness. Town of Vaughn v. Town of Montreal [Wis.] 102 N. W. 561; Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, etc., Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152; Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. v. Columbus Waterworks, 130 F. 180. Contract to supply water held not to limit place where water was to be used, but only to fix the place of delivery; hence there could be recovery for loss of crops on certain section. Candler v. Washoe Lake Reservoir & G. C. Ditch Co. [Nev.] 80 P. 751. An agreement in lease for 20 years which provided for flooding certain land by a dam, and further specifying that the party of the second part and his heirs, etc., "hereby agree to permit and recognize the right of the first party to flood the said premises by the waters of the Missouri River, as they may be raised by the dam of said first party, as said dam now exists or as the same may be hereafter raised or lowered, without claim for damage construed, and it was held that in event of all the facts it was a grant to raise the dam without liability for damages and also a release of any claim for damages resulting from its exercise to other lands of the party of the second part which would incidentally be flooded by the floods of the lands particularly described. Stadler v. Missouri River Power Co., 133 F. 314. Under the California Law (Civ. Codes, § 806), the extent of a servitude is determined by the terms of the grant, and it was held that under an express covenant that a given amount of water should flow perpetually from the grantor's land to the grantee's land and that the covenant should bind the grantor's heirs, successors in interest, and assigns of the servient estate, no question was involved as to whether or not the covenant ran with the land and bound subsequent owners of the servient estate. Los Robles Water Co. v. Stoneman [Cal.] 79 P. 880. In construing a mortgage of land on which there is an irrigation ditch, to determine what interest in the ditch passed by it, the instrument must be examined in the light of the use of the ditch before and after the execution of the instrument. Farm Inv. Co. v. Gallup [Wyo.] 76 P. 917. The Act of Congress (26 Stat. 748), granting to the state of Montana a section of land to be selected "so as to embrace the buildings and improvements thereon," construed and held that the right to use water in a stream from which the government had taken water by means of a ditch across other lands to the land granted was not included in the grant, the question being one of intent. Story v. Woolverton [Mont.] 78 P. 589.

50. Knoll v. Baker [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 480. An instrument in the form of a deed by which the grantor grants, bargains, sells, conveys and confirms to the grantee, his heirs and assigns, a right of way for a pipe line with a right to divert waters of a stream to the same parties constitutes a grant of both the right of way and the use of the water, and is not merely a revocable license. Everett Water Co. v. Powers [Wash.] 79 P. 617.

51. Death acts as a revocation. Pioneer Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Shamblin, 140 Ala. 486, 37 So. 391.

Contracts for water construed: Instrument of taking construed as giving owners water rights belonging to property without limitation to the methods previously used. Klous v. Commonwealth [Mass.] 74 N. E. 330. In a suit to enforce a contract for the use of waters in a ditch for irrigation, it was held that the evidence supported a finding that the construction of the ditch was done under the agreement that the plaintiff should have the use of the water jointly with others and that "jointly" meant only that plaintiff had not an exclusive right or one superior to that of others. Blankenship v. Whaley, 142 Cal. 566, 76 P. 235.

A promise to make a contract gives no right to a supply. Where a promise to give a contract was made by a company but complainant refused to sign it, he cannot thereafter sue the company for failure to furnish a sufficient supply of water to him. Colorado Canal Co. v. Dennis & Rugely [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 443.

52. A deed by a reclamation district of land conveyed to it for reclamation purposes

Enforcement.[53]—A contract to supply water may be specifically enforced by one who has planted crops in reliance on it.[54] A water company under covenant to supply water granted to it for stockholders may sue to enforce rights of its stockholders, the grant being for its benefit[55] and it being the owner of an easement over the grantee's land;[56] and the stockholders are not in such case the real parties in interest. A mortgagee of land in a mortgage covering all the crops to be grown on the land for a year, may maintain an action against a water company for failure to furnish water under its contract with the mortgagor.[57]

§ 19. Torts relating to waters.[58]—Any interference with or detriment to the rights of other riparian owners may be a tort.[59] There must be a water right before there can be damage to it.[60] One cannot recover for conversion of water from a well where the evidence shows that the well is not located on his land.[61] Where land is overflowed by the negligent construction of a railroad embankment, the party entitled to damages is the one who owned and had possession of the land when the injury was done.[62] An assignee who has done nothing to increase the nuisance caused by the assignor must have notice to abate and fail to comply therewith before suit can be brought.[63] It has been held that one who gathers water on his land is not liable for its escape without negligence on his part.[64] An irrigation company is liable for the damages caused by the obstruction of a natural drain where it fails to provide a culvert sufficient to carry off an ordinary rain.[65] An irrigation company is not relieved from liability for the obstruction of a natural drain by the fact that it employed a competent engineer to superintend the construction of its plant.[66] A city is not liable for injuries resulting from an accumulation of water in an artificial pond, unless such pond is in a public street or in dangerous proximity thereto.[67] Ordinary care is required in the maintenance of premises to avoid injury to others by discharging water on their premises.[68]

only, with a reverter to the grantor if used for other purposes, if void for want of power in the district to make, it does not work a forfeiture of the land to the original grantor. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 2070, n. 30, 31; Id., 2054, n. 48, 49.

54. Bay City Irr. Co. v. Sweeney [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 545.

55, 56. Despite the fact that under the California law (Code Civ. Proc. § 367), an action must be brought in the name of the real party in interest, it was held that a water company, incorporated to supply its stockholders with water from land under contract with the owner thereof, who had covenanted with the stockholders as her grantees to cause a given amount of water to flow perpetually to their lands, may maintain an action in its own name to restrain a diversion of water by subsequent owners of the land in view of section 369 which allows a person with whom or in whose interest a contract is made for the benefit of another to sue without joining the beneficiaries, and of section 809 which allows the owner of an estate in a dominant, or the occupant of such tenement, to maintain an action for the enforcement of the easement attached thereto. Los Robles Water Co. v. Stoneman [Cal.] 79 P. 880.

57. Equitable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 2070.

59. The relative rights and duties respecting different waters and water rights have already been discussed and need not be repeated. See ante, §§ 3-7.

60. Where through failure to exercise an option there was no beneficial interest or right in the person seeking to recover for the taking of water from a well, no damages were allowed. Rollins v. Blackden [Me.] 58 A. 69.

61. Couch v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 847.

62. Not a subsequent purchaser. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 659.

63. Seaboard & R. R. Co. v. Ambrose [Ga.] 49 S. E. 815.

64. McCord Rubber Co. v. St. Joseph Water Co., 181 Mo. 678, 81 S. W. 189. A person may not gather unusual quantities of water upon his land without proper precaution against its escape upon his neighbor's lands. American Security & Trust Co. v. Lyon, 21 App. D. C. 122.

65, 66. Barstow Irr. Co. v. Black [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1036.

67. No liability for death of boy by drowning because no connection shown between city's negligence and boy's death. Reeder v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 672.

68. In suit for damages caused by rain, collected on roof and discharged so as to injure foundation of neighboring premises,

Damages.[69]—Whenever permanent injury is done to land by pollution,[70] flooding, or back flowing,[71] the depreciation in rental value,[72] or the difference between the value just before and that after, is reckoned as the damage.[73] For temporary injuries which may be rectified, the cost of restoring the former condition is taken,[74] or if that be greater than the value, then the value of the land.[75] Injury to crops is their probable value matured, less expense of bringing them to that state.[76] Where the crop is destroyed and land is only temporarily injured, the owner thereof may recover the actual cash market value of the crop, and such further sum as will compensate him for the injury to the land.[77] Where permanent injury does not take place for several years, damages occurring yearly prior to that time but not after can be recovered as well as damages for the permanent injury.[78] In an action for damages from a diversion of the water of a stream, evidence as to the beneficial uses for which the water power was adapted in view of its extent, location, and availability, is admissible.[79]

Damages for physical injury resulting from fright and resulting sickness produced by an unlawful flood may not be recovered.[80]

Damages caused by destruction of mill power by right of eminent domain may be recovered.[81] In an action for damages caused by a public improvement where rule that ordinary care is required in maintenance of premises approved. Hamlin v. Blankenburg [N. H.] 60 A. 1010.

69. See generally, Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997.

70. Unlawful pollution of a stream. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879. Pollution by mining and reduction companies. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Mining & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14. Damage which consists in the depreciation of the usable value of property directly caused by the pollution of the stream may be ascertained without determining to a mathematical certainty the precise amount of that value which the stream polluted and its precise amount after pollution. Dudley v. New Britain, 210 Conn. 326, 59 A. 89. Findings of fact made were held to justify the amount found as the damage to the rental value. Id.

71. The measure of damages for flooding the land of another is the injury actually occasioned to the date of the suit, measured by the difference in the value of the property before and after the injury. Erection and maintenance of dam. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. & Power Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226. One unlawfully collecting and discharging surface water upon the land of another, and the injury being permanent, the plaintiff is entitled to prove the extent of the impairment of the value of the property for the purpose of assessing damages. Tyrus v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 1074.

72. The facts held to show a continuing nuisance rather than a permanent injury, and recovery for the temporary loss was allowed. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Martin [Ind.] 72 N. E. 882. Overflow by log jam. Osborn v. Mississippi & Rum River Boom Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 879. Overflow caused by embankment. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 659. In an action to recover damages to a mill caused by backwater from a boom, evidence as to rental value held admissible. Pickens v. Coal River Boom & Timber Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 872.

73. Flooding by which crops were injured. Brewer v. Califf, 92 N. Y. S. 627. Flood due to insufficient railroad sluices. Denison, B. & N. O. R. Co. v. Barry [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 634 [Tex.] 83 S. W. 5. Where a railroad company negligently constructs a trestle, the difference between the value just before and just after the overflow is the proper measure of damages to the land. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Kiersey [Tex.] 86 S. W. 744. Held error to admit evidence as to the value of the land before the construction of the trestle. Id.

74. Where through insufficient railroad culverts land was flooded and filth and other refuse deposited thereon, it was held that damages might be recovered for a reasonable amount of time and labor spent in removing same. Taylor v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 260.

75. The measure of damages for the obstruction of a stream by refuse is prima facie the cost of removal unless it exceeds the value of the entire property. Coal dirt from a colliery. Bachert v. Lehigh Coal & Nav. Co., 208 Pa. 362, 57 A. 765.

76. Difference between the market value of the probable crop and the expense of maturing, preparing and getting it to market. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Kiersey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1045.

77. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Baer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 653.

78. The proof must show distinctly when the permanent injury occurred, how much of the land was permanently injured and the amount of yearly damage prior to the date of the permanent injury. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Mining & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14.

79. Roberts v. Claremont R. & Lighting Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 619.

80. Flood caused through insufficient sluices. Denison, B. & N. O. R. Co. v. Barry [Tex.] 83 S. W. 5, overruling on this point [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 634.

81. The question of damages to which a mine owner is entitled for the taking of the waters of a stream for a city water supply under Massachusetts act (St. 1895, c. 384), there is no taking, the measure of damages is the difference between the fair market value of the property before and after the improvement was completed.[82]

The injured party can only recover such damages as could not have been avoided by the use of ordinary and reasonable care.[83] What constitutes such care is usually a question for the jury.[84]

Actions.[85]—In California a party injured by a nuisance may in the same action obtain a judgment abating the nuisance and recover damages caused thereby.[86] The character of the water right injured must be substantially pleaded and proved.[87] The general rule is that where the obstruction causing an overflow of water and consequent damage is of a character that if not interfered with will continue indefinitely, damages past and prospective are recoverable in one action, and successive actions therefor cannot be maintained.[88] The burden of proof is upon the complainant to show that the defendant's obstruction caused the flood;[89] but nominal damage is presumed if an obstruction like a dam be maintained.[90]

§ 20. Crimes and offenses relating to waters.[91]—Numerous statutes make the pollution of waters an indictable nuisance.[92] It may be nuisance to back waters on a highway, obstructing the same.[93] In Idaho it is a misdemeanor for an appropriator to waste water.[94] In Wyoming, willfully to use or conduct into or through one's ditch water, the use of which has been lawfully denied by the water commissioner or other competent authority, is a misdemeanor.[95]

WAYS, see latest topical index.

WEAPONS.

§ 1. The Crime of Carrying or Pointing Weapons (1859).
§ 2. Other Public Regulations Concerning Weapons (1860).
§ 3. Indictment and Prosecution (1861).

§ 1. The crime of carrying or pointing weapons.[96]—The constitutional right discussed at length. Lakeside Mfg. Co. v. Worcester, 186 Mass. 552, 72 N. E. 81.

82. Waters in a navigable stream so lowered that abutting owners had to excavate and deepen it. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 211 Ill. 268, 71 N. E. 1118.

83. Barstow Irr. Co. v. Black [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1036. Held not duty of injured party to cut irrigation embankment which obstructed natural drain. Id.

84. Barstow Irr. Co. v. Black [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1036.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 2050, n. 12, 13; Id., 2054, 2070.

86. California Statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 731). Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594. Nuisance in maintenance of a reservoir and in allowing waters of a ditch to overflow. Id.

87. Where one does not sue as a riparian owner, he cannot recover as such. Rickels v. Log Owners' Booming Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 652.

88. Gartner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1052.

89. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 789.

90. In an action for damages for maintenance of a dam, nominal damages may be recovered without showing any injury capable of being estimated. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. & Power Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 2071.

92. See Nuisance, 4 Curr. L. 839.

In Indiana persons who maintain paper factories on the banks of a stream and discharge chemicals into it, thereby polluting it and rendering it unfit for use and killing the fish, are guilty of maintaining a public nuisance. Laws of Indiana (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2154). West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879.

Under the law of Missouri all obstructions of watercourses not made in accordance with the law are deemed public nuisances [Missouri Rev. St. 1899, § 8752]. Scheurich v. Southwest Missouri Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. The discharge of waste products in the Potomac river is prohibited by the District of Columbia Code. Code D. C. § 901, prohibiting the discharge of waste products into the Potomac river, does not simply provide protection for fish, but its object is to keep the river as free from pollution as possible. Holden v. United States, 24 App. D. C. 318. Reasonable diligence in eliminating the waste products is no defense. Id. The fact that the literal enforcement of such section will virtually render it impracticable to manufacture gas for the use of the city of Washington will not justify the court in refusing to enforce it. Id.

93. Richardson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 282.

94. Idaho Sess. Laws 1903, p. 223. Boise City Irrigation & Land Co. v. Stewart [Idaho] 77 P. 25.

95. Wyoming Rev. St. 1899, § 971, as of the people to keep and bear arms is not infringed by legislation prohibiting the carrying of weapons concealed.[97] A pistol so exposed to public view as to show plainly that it is a pistol is not a concealed weapon.[98] One carrying a pistol in a wagon has not got it on or about his person within the Texas statute.[99] Probably all statutes and ordinances on this subject exempt certain classes from its operation; police officers[1] and travelers[2] being among the most frequent exemptions; but a fugitive from justice is not entitled to the benefits of the exemption in favor of travelers,[3] and one who has been on a journey cannot, after returning to his accustomed haunts, continue to carry his pistol as a traveler.[4] To authorize the carrying of a pistol on one's person under the Texas statute, the danger of attack on him must be so imminent as not to admit of the arrest of the party about to make the attack.[5] Under the Alabama statute it is no defense that threats had been made against defendant's life sufficient to impress him with a reasonable apprehension of attack.[6] A person may commit but one offense of carrying a weapon concealed, though he carries it thus for many hours,[7] but when the continuity of the act constituting the offense is broken, another offense is committed when the weapon is again concealed on his person.[8] In Alabama the presentation of any firearm at another whether loaded or unloaded is made an offense,[9] while under the Georgia statute only the intentional pointing or aiming of a gun or pistol at another person is prohibited.[10] That the accused was cursed at is no defense for presenting a firearm at another.[11]

§ 2. Other public regulations concerning weapons.[12]—The discharge of a gun on one's own property is not a violation of the Ohio statute regulating the use of firearms.[13] A statute prohibiting shooting at random on a public highway is violated by shooting on a highway, title to which has been acquired by prescription.[14] amended by Laws 1901, p. 95, c. 86, § 1. Ryan v. Tutty [Wyo.] 78 P. 661.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 2071.

97. Federal Const. Amend. II. An ordinance to this effect may be passed by a village under its general police power to provide for the regulation and police of the town [Rev. St. 1899, § 6010]. Town of Orrick v. Ackers [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 549.

98. Town of Orrick v. Akers [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 549.

99. Thompson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 1033.

1. One specially deputized to make an arrest, under a statute conferring on such appointees the rights and duties of peace officers, is not subject to prosecution for carrying a pistol during the execution of the process. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 1036. A special deputy constable may carry a pistol on going into another county to serve writs as ordered by his principal, although his deputation is technically invalid. Black v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1143. That one is attempting to arrest a person supposed to have stolen from him does not justify the carrying of a pistol. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1078. A surety is not entitled to carry a pistol in attempting to arrest and surrender his principal to the officers. Id.

2. Testimony that defendant was going to a station does not raise the issue that he was a traveler, in the absence of proof as to how far he had to go to reach the station. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 15.

3. Underwood v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 794.

4. Sand. & H. Dig. § 1498. Holland v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 468. A traveler carrying a concealed weapon after reaching his room cannot sustain the defense allowed in Mississippi of the right of a traveler to carry concealed weapons until he reaches his destination. Rosaman v. Okolona [Miss.] 37 So. 641.

5. Evidence held to show that the danger was not so imminent and threatening. Thompson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 1033.

6. Code 1896, § 4420. House v. State, 139 Ala. 132, 36 So. 732.

7. Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964, 47 S. E. 567.

8. Where one carries a pistol concealed into a house, lays it on the mantel, takes it up and again conceals it on his person, two offenses are committed. Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964, 47 S. E. 567.

9. Code 1896, § 4342. Elmore v. State, 140 Ala. 184, 37 So. 156.

10. Intention must be charged [Pen. Code 1895, § 343]. Herrington v. State, 121 Ga. 141, 48 S. E. 908.

11. Elmore v. State, 140 Ala. 184, 37 So. 156.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 2072.

13. Rev. St. § 6962. Martin v. State, 70 Ohio St. 219, 71 N. E. 640.

14. Commonwealth v. Terry [Ky.] 86 S. W. 519.

§ 3. Indictment and prosecution.[15]—A conviction of assault with a pistol is no bar to a prosecution for carrying such pistol concealed,[16] and a prosecution for carrying concealed weapons in the presence of one person does not bar a prosecution for an offense in the presence of another unless the charges referred to the same transaction or one of the persons was present at both instances.[17]

An indictment for carrying concealed weapons may charge the commission of the offense in general terms,[18] but must charge the act declared by the statute to be an offense,[19] and if the descriptive averments are specific, the proof must correspond,[20] though in general the state may show that defendant carried a pistol at any time within the statute of limitations previous to the day the information was filed.[21]

Several decisions discussing the admissibility of evidence are cited in the note.[22]

A court is not obliged of its own motion to charge on the question of defendant being a traveler and therefore entitled to go armed.[23]

Upon conflicting evidence, a verdict based on the weapon being concealed will not be disturbed.[24] Where the accused answered that he had not carried a pistol concealed at the time inquired about or during that day, in answer to a question whether he carried a pistol concealed at a different time from that charged the error if any is error without injury.[25]

In Alabama, one convicted of carrying concealed weapons may be sentenced to hard labor for six months or less in addition to the fine imposed by the jury.[26]

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

An act of Congress failing to fix the standard of weights and measures, the English standard which was brought to the colonies as a part of the common law governs.[27] An act allowing a commission to prescribe the amount of tolerance

15. See 2 Curr. L. 2073.
16. Brown v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 408.
17. Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964, 47 S. E. 567.
18. Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964, 47 S. E. 567. Under the Alabama statute, an affidavit that affiant had probable cause for believing and did believe that defendant carried a concealed pistol is sufficient [Code 1896, § 4600]. Ross v. State, 139 Ala. 144, 36 So. 718. In Georgia a presentment for carrying metal knucks need not allege them to have been "manufactured and sold for the purpose of offense and defense" [Acts 1898, p. 60]. Nixon v. State, 121 Ga. 144, 48 S. E. 966. An indictment under the Alabama statute charging that defendant "did unlawfully present a gun, pistol or other firearm" etc., is not void for uncertainty. Elmore v. State, 140 Ala. 184, 37 So. 156.
19. An indictment charging the "willful and unlawful" display of a weapon does not charge a crime within the meaning of a statute denouncing a "rude" display. Fuller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 832.
20. Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964, 47 S. E. 567.
21. Schrimsher v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 1013; Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964, 47 S. E. 567; Springer v. State, 121 Ga. 155, 48 S. E. 907. Testimony that witness saw defendant with a pistol within twelve months prior to indictment is admissible. Brown v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 408.
22. Where defendant claims the rights of a traveler, evidence is admissible to show that he was branding cattle. That one is on a prairie with cattle is some evidence that he is not a traveler. Underwood v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 794. It is error to allow a witness for the prosecution to state that defendant was drunk at the time of the offense charged. Gainey v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 355. On cross-examination, a witness may be asked whether he went to church with the accused with a pistol in the buggy. Ross v. State, 139 Ala. 144, 36 So. 718. Evidence as to whether the prosecuting witness "went and got a gun and what he said about killing defendant" is irrelevant. Id. A question whether witness went to defendant's brother and told of threats made on defendant's life and whether the brother procured and sent a gun to defendant by witness was properly excluded. House v. State, 139 Ala. 132, 36 So. 732. That one had no legal right to search the accused does not render inadmissible evidence that in such search a concealed weapon was discovered. Springer v. State, 121 Ga. 155, 48 S. E. 907.
23. Schrimsher v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 1013.
24. Sanders v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 66.
25. Ross v. State, 139 Ala. 144, 36 So. 718.
26. Code 1896, §§ 4420, 5415. Brown v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 408.
27. Thompson v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 395.

to be allowed does not constitute a delegation of legislative power.[28] Regulations must be reasonable.[29] That one measures milk into tanks and fills small bottles therefrom is insufficient to show that the latter are not used as measures.[30] Since the Texas statute governing public weighers forbids only factors, commission merchants, and persons in a like business from weighing the cotton of others consigned to them for sale, other persons may engage in the business of private weighers.[31]

WHARVES.[32]

Right to erect and maintain wharves and ownership therein.[33]—As a general rule a riparian owner has the right to erect wharves out to the line of navigation,[34] provided that the wharf does not pass over land owned by another.[35] But the exercise of such right is subject to such general rules and regulations as the legislature may see proper to impose for the protection of the public's rights.[36] A grant of the land under water for commercial purposes does not confer upon the riparian owner the exclusive use of a dock erected thereon.[37]

Public and private wharves.[38]—A wharf may be private or public, though owned by an individual,[39] and the use it has been put to at least furnishes the basis for an inference of the owner's intention in its construction and maintenance.[40] A private wharf may exist on the shores of a navigable river or lake, or in a harbor of a city from which access is obtained directly from the sea.[41] That a wharf is erected by a private party under municipal authority and at the end of a public street does not render it a public one.[42]

Access to wharves.[43]

The right to collect wharfage.[44]

Uses of public wharves.[45]—A grant by a city of the right to lay railway tracks on wharf is for a public use.[46]

Damages.—Where a city wharf is unlawfully used, the city may either base its claim for damages upon the rental value of the pier for general purposes, or demand damages growing out of the particular use to which it was subjected.[47] Under the first alternative, all the uses to which the pier would ordinarily be devoted are proper subjects of consideration;[48] under the second alternative, the value of the pier for the specific purpose to which it was put may be recovered, less the cost of adapting it thereto.[49]

28. Act of Congress of March 2, 1895, as amended by the act of March 28, 1896, considered. Thompson v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 395.

29. In the absence of evidence, a fee of fifty cents per one hundred bottles of milk inspected and sealed is not unreasonable. Thompson v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 395. A regulation requiring glass bottles to be stamped will not be held unreasonable on the statement of a dealer that it increases the risk of breakage. Id. Nor will such regulations be held unreasonable on the showing of a dealer that it is impossible to make all such bottles of a given supposed size uniform in capacity, the act containing a tolerance provision. Id.

30. Thompson v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 395.

31. Davis v. McInnis [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 75.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 2074. See, also, Shipping and Water Traffic, 4 Curr. L. 1450.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 2074.

34. Thousand Island Steamboat Co. v. Visger, 179 N. Y. 206, 71 N. E. 764.

35. Under the common law, as it existed in 1693, a littoral proprietor had no right to maintain a wharf on land below high-water mark. Trustees of Town of Brook-Haven v. Smith, 90 N. Y. S. 646. The general public right of navigation did not justify such a structure. Id. The grantee of land below the high-water mark of the Atlantic Ocean having the right to reclaim and appropriate the same, may maintain ejectment against one occupying a pier erected upon the land under water. Burkhard v. H. I. Heinz Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 191.

36, 37. Thousand Island Steamboat Co. v. Visger, 179 N. Y. 206, 71 N. E. 764.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 2075.

39, 40. Thousand Island Steamboat Co. v. Visger, 179 N. Y. 206, 71 N. E. 764.

41, 42. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. West Coast Naval Stores Co., 25 S. Ct. 745.

43, 44, 45. See 2 Curr. L. 2075.

46. Murray v. City of Allegheny [C. C. A.] 136 F. 57.

47, 48, 49. City of New York v. Brown, 179 N. Y. 303, 72 N. E. 114.

Duty and care respecting wharf and injuries thereat.[50]—It is the wharfinger's duty to use reasonable care to provide a safe bottom for boats coming to his dock,[51] and to use the same care to maintain the bottom in proper condition.[52] The defense of contributory negligence must be affirmatively proven by a preponderance of the evidence.[53] The owner of a private wharf is not liable for injuries to a trespasser, such injuries not being willfully inflicted.[54] There being no room for a laden vessel at the wharf, it is the wharfinger's duty in removing her to see that she is removed to a place of safety.[55]

WILLS.

§ 1. Right of Disposal, and Contracts Relating to It (1864). Contracts to Devise or Bequeath (1866).
§ 2. Testamentary Capacity, Fraud, and Undue Influence (1868).
A. Essentials to Capacity (1868).
B. Constituents of Fraud and Undue Influence (1873).
§ 3. The Testamentary Instrument or Act (1877).
A. Requisites, Form, and Validity (1877).
B. Execution of Will (1878).
1. Mode of Execution (1878).
2. Nuncupative and Holographic Wills (1883).
C. Revocation and Alteration. Right to Revoke (1885). Revocation in General (1885). Presumption from Failure to Find Will (1887). By Subsequent Will or Codicil (1887).
D. Republication and Revival (1888).
§ 4. Probating, Establishing, and Recording (1889).
A. Powers of Courts (1889).
B. Parties in Will Cases and the Right to Contest (1889).
C. Duty to Produce Will (1890).
D. Probate and Procedure in General (1890).
E. Burden of Proof on the Whole Case (1892).
F. Establishment of Lost Will (1893).
G. Judgments and Decrees (1894).
H. Appeals (1894).
I. Revocation of Probate (1896).
J. Suits to Contest (1896).
K. Suits to Set Aside (1897).
L. Costs (1897).
M. Recording Foreign Wills (1898).
§ 5. Interpretation and Construction (1898).
A. General Rules (1898).
B. Of Terms Designating Property or Funds (1904).
C. Of Terms Designating or Describing Persons of Purposes (1906).
D. Of Terms Creating, Defining, Limiting, Conditioning, or Qualifying the Estates and Interests Created. Particular Words and Forms of Expression (1907). Gifts by Implication, Gift of Ownership or Use, Legal or Equitable Ownership, Trust or Power (1909). Estates or Interests Created (1912). "Interest" and "Income" (1917). Legacies, Annuities, Support, Release of Debts (1918). Vesting and Perpetuities (1920). Possession and Enjoyment (1925). Individual Rights in Gifts to Two or More (1925). Conditions (1926). Intent to Require Election (1927). Charges, Exonerations, and Funds for Payment (1927). Trust Estates and Interests (1929). Powers of Appointment and Beneficial Powers of Sale (1930). Lapse, Failure and Forfeiture (1932). Residuary Clauses (1933).
E. Of Terms Respecting Administration, Management, Control, and Disposal (1937).
F. Abatement, Ademption, and Satisfaction (1939).
G. Proceedings to Construe Wills (1940).
§ 6. Validity, Operation, and Effect in General (1942).

The scope of this title is apparent from the analytical index. It does not include the law governing the rights and liabilities between successors in estate, nor that controlling the settlement of estates,[56] nor that relating to the estates

50. See 2 Curr. L. 2076.

51. Daly v. Quinlan, 131 F. 394; The Thomas Quigley [C. C. A.] 130 F. 336. Held liable where he placed fenders at end so as to protect boats from submerged piling, but failed to notify the master of the vessel of the obstruction, the fender being pulled up and the boat injured. The Nellie, 130 F. 213. Held liable for injury resulting to boat from broken spile which could have been discovered and removed by the exercise of reasonable care. Barber v. Lockwood, 134 F. 985. Held liable for injury caused by sunken rock while vessel was being moved to a place designated by defendant's agent. Smith v. Gould, 136 F. 719.

52. Failure to inspect bottom for two years, though notified of pointed rock, held to render him liable. Daly v. Quinlan, 131 F. 394.

53. The Nellie, 130 F. 213. In the absence of warning, boatman lawfully using the wharf cannot be considered negligent because they make an erroneous guess as to why fenders were placed at end of wharf. Id.

54. Downes v. Elmira Bridge Co., 179 N. Y. 136, 71 N. E. 743.

55. Roney v. New York, etc., R. Co., 132 F. 321. See Shipping and Water Traffic, 4 Curr. L. 1470.

56. See Estates of Decedents, 3 Curr. L. 1238; Election and Waiver, 3 Curr. L. 1177.

which may have been created by the will, except in so far as the interpretation of the will involves such questions.[57]

§ 1. Right of disposal, and contracts relating to it.[58]—The right to dispose of one's property by will is not a vested right, but rests upon statute, and is subject to such limitations and restrictions, as respects the substance, form, and beneficiaries, as the law imposes.[59]

As a general rule all persons competent to contract may dispose by will of any interest descendible to their heirs, in realty, or in personal property, to any person or corporation capable of holding the same.[60] One cannot, of course, dispose of property not belonging to him,[61] nor can he devise property which he has conveyed to another, even though such conveyance was fraudulent.[62] Neither can the grantor in a deed of trust maintain a bill to determine whether the deed prevents him from making a different testamentary disposition of his property.[63]

A testator cannot dispose of his property to the prejudice of his creditors or in such manner as to prefer one to another,[64] nor can a married man or woman dispose of his or her property so as to deprive the surviving spouse of his or her statutory interest therein.[65]

A person taking out a policy of insurance on his own life, payable to his executors, administrators or assigns, may dispose of the same by will, notwithstanding a statutory provision that life insurance shall go to his widow and children or next of kin, freed from his debts;[66] but in order to do so, he must use language directly significant of such an intention.[67] The proceeds of accident or casualty insurance are as much the subject of testamentary disposition as the proceeds of life policies payable to the estate.[68]

57. See Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 4 Curr. L. 438; Perpetuities and Accumulations, 4 Curr. L. 975; Trusts, 2 Curr. L. 1924, and the like.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 2077.

59. Limited in appointment of executor by provisions of statutes and by public policy. In re American Security & Trust Co., 45 Misc. 529, 92 N. Y. S. 974. Formalities prescribed are essential to its validity. In re Seaman's Estate [Cal.] 80 P. 700.

60. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2726. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546.

61. Where a deposit stands in the wife's name, creating a presumption that it was a gift to her, the fact that the husband leaves a will containing a large money legacy without leaving an estate sufficiently large to pay it will not defeat the right of the wife to the deposit. In re Klenke's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 166.

62. Though it may be set aside by his executor or administrator. Laws 1895, p. 165, construed. Moore v. Waldstein [Ark.] 85 S. W. 416.

63. Cannot be determined until will becomes operative. Carroll v. Smith, 99 Md. 653, 59 A. 131.

64. Attempted disposition in trust held invalid, the estate being insolvent. Succession of Henderson [La.] 36 So. 904.

65. A husband cannot devise realty held by himself and his wife by entireties. Goes to survivor, and hence not descendible to heirs. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546. A married woman may ordinarily dispose of all her personalty without her husband's consent [N. J. Act March 27, 1874, § 9; 2 Gen. St. p. 2014] (In re Folwell's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 467), but cannot dispose of her realty so as to deprive him of any interest therein to which he would be entitled by law on her dying intestate (Id.). In Iowa a widow's one-third interest in her husband's lands cannot be affected by his will unless she consents thereto within six months after notice to her of its provisions, which consent must be entered on the records of the court. Code 1873, § 2452. Can lose interest only by election in accordance with statute, and not by estoppel, where will gives her life estate in lieu of dower. Byerly v. Sherman [Iowa] 102 N. W. 157. Under the Texas statute providing that where husband or wife becomes insane or dies intestate, leaving no children, the community property passes to the survivor, the insanity of the wife does not deprive the husband of the right of disposition of the community property during his life, but gives him no authority to dispose of her interest by will. Schwartz v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 282.

66. Cooper v. Wright, 110 Tenn. 214, 75 S. W. 1049. Evidence held to show that policy was in such form as to give testator right to dispose of proceeds. Succession of Henderson [La.] 36 So. 904.

67. Courts will not presume such an intention from general terms. Cooper v. Wright, 110 Tenn. 214, 75 S. W. 1049. Provision requiring debts to be promptly paid, and direction that property should go to wife after all debts were paid, held not to render policy subject to claims of creditors. Id.

68. Laws N. Y. 1892, p. 2015, c. 690, § 212,

By statute in New York, no one having a husband, wife, child, or parent is permitted to devise or bequeath more than half of his estate to charity.[69] In order to determine whether he has done so, the value of the widow's dower should be deducted from the gross value of the estate, unless she has elected to accept a provision of the will in lieu thereof.[70] If too much is given, the excess will be deducted from the shares of those devisees given the residuum after the payment of specified legacies.[71] Anyone who would take any interest in the estate if the provisions were declared void may invoke the statute.[72]

In some states all devises and bequests for benevolent, religious, or charitable purposes are invalid in case the testator dies within a year from the time of executing his will, leaving issue of his body, or an adopted child, or the legal representative of either.[73] Such provisions are for the protection of the children or their representatives, and may be waived by them.[74]

In Louisiana, a gift by will to one with whom testator has lived in open concubinage must be reduced, at the instance of the heirs at law, to one-tenth part of the value of the estate, payable from the movables.[75]

In many states a child born after the making of the parent's will is entitled to share in the estate as though the parent had died intestate, unless he is mentioned therein, or it appears from the will that the parent intended to make no provision for him.[76] The testator is only bound to make such provision for such child as he may deem proper, and the court has no authority to determine its adequacy.[77] Any provision showing that he has such child in mind, and makes clear his intention to provide for it, is sufficient.[78] In case the will is ambiguous, do not apply to such insurance. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90.

69. Laws 1860, p. 607, c. 360. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143. Applies only to testamentary disposition of property. Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92. Fund created by deed of trust providing for payment of income to son for life, with reverter to testator on son's death, or in case testator was dead, it to go to such persons as he might appoint, held to pass under deed and not under will making appointment though words of bequest used therein, and hence should not be considered in determining amount devised to charities. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143.

70. Release relates back to death of testator. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143.

71. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143.

72. Next of kin who would take under intestate laws if trust were declared invalid. Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92. Residuary legatee cannot attack trust when residuary estate would not be in any way augmented if it were declared unlawful. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143.

73. Ohio Rev. St. 1890, § 5915. Folsom v. Ohio State University Trustees, 210 Ill. 404, 71 N. E. 384.

74. Folsom v. Ohio State University Trustees, 210 Ill. 404, 71 N. E. 384. Under devise to university, with provision that, on failure of devise property should go to brother's children, and further provision empowering daughter to ratify devise and providing that, should she do so, devise over should be revoked, held that, even if daughter could not confirm devise so as to make it valid, execution by her of deed of confirmation revoked devise over. Id. If university did not take under will by virtue of confirmation, property passed to her as sole heir at law, and it took by virtue of her deed of confirmation. Id.

75. Openness of concubinage held established by admissions of parties. Succession of Landry [La.] 38 So. 575.

76. Ky. St. 1903, § 4848. Porter v. Porter's Ex'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 546. 3 Gen. St. N. J. p. 3760, § 19. In re Wilcox, 64 N. J. Eq. 322, 54 A. 296. Pa. Act April 8, 1883, § 15 (P. L. 251). In re Newlin's Estate, 209 Pa. 456, 58 A. 846. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2286. In re Sandon's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1089. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1306. Deceased regarded as having died intestate as to such share, and will be considered as not existing in so far as such child is concerned. In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369. Pretermitted heirs [Rev. St. 1899, § 4611]. Story v. Story [Mo.] 86 S. W. 225. Gen. Laws R. I. 1896, c. 203, § 22. Omission to provide for children held to be deliberate and intentional, and not the result of accident or mistake. Greene v. Greene [R. I.] 60 A. 675; Daignault v. Daignault [R. I.] 60 A. 675. 1 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4601. If "not named or provided for," will invalid as to them. Van Brocklin v. Wood [Wash.] 80 P. 530.

77. In re Newlin's Estate, 209 Pa. 456, 58 A. 846.

78. Provision for payment of income to wife during minority of children, and for conveyance to trustee of share of each daughter on becoming of age, held sufficient provision for afterborn daughter. In re Newlin's Estate, 209 Pa. 456, 58 A. 846.

extrinsic evidence of the circumstances surrounding testator when it was made is admissible to aid in determining whether a child born after the making of the will was intentionally omitted from its provisions;[79] but such evidence cannot be received to add such an intention to a will which is plain and certain on its face.[80] In neither event are testator's declarations concerning the making of the will, and as to his intent concerning such child, admissible to show such intent.[81] The omission of a child does not render the whole will invalid, but after his share has been set off to him, the balance of the estate passes in accordance with its provisions.[82] The child's share should first be taken from the estate undisposed of, if any,[83] after the payment of the debts and the expenses of administration.[84] If that is not sufficient, so much as is necessary will be taken from the shares of all the devisees and legatees, in proportion to the value they are respectively entitled to under the will,[85] unless the obvious intention of the testator with respect to some specific devise, bequest, or other provision would thereby be defeated, in which case such devise, bequest, or provision may be exempted, and a different apportionment, consistent with such intent, may be adopted.[86] The mere fact that one legacy is specific and another residuary does not show an intention to exempt the former.[87] Such statutes apply to adopted children.[88]

Contracts to devise or bequeath.[89]—One may make a valid agreement to dispose of his property in a particular way by will,[90] and such contracts may be enforced in equity, after his decease, against his heirs, devisees, or personal representatives.[91] They must, however, have all the essentials of an ordinary contract, be fair and equitable, and definite and certain in their terms.[92] They must also

Where a testator provided that after-born children should share in such personal property as was not bequeathed to his wife, such after-born children were not pretermitted. Porter v. Porter's Ex'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 546. Evidence insufficient to show that testator had pretermitted any of his heirs. Story v. Story [Mo.] 86 S. W. 225.

79. In re Sandon's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1089. See, also, In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369.

80, 81. In re Sandon's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1089.

82. Merely invalid as to child. Van Brocklin v. Wood [Wash.] 80 P. 530; In re Wilcox, 64 N. J. Eq. 322, 54 A. 296. Pretermission of heirs no ground for setting aside the will [Rev. St. 1899, § 4611]. Story v. Story [Mo.] 86 S. W. 225.

83. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1308. In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369.

84. Van Brocklin v. Wood [Wash.] 80 P. 530.

85. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1308. In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369. Devisees and legatees must contribute ratably [3 Gen. St. N. J. p. 3760, § 19]. In re Wilcox, 64 N. J. Eq. 322, 54 A. 296.

86. Will held not to show intent to exempt annuity [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1308]. In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369.

87. In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369.

88. In re Sandon's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1089; Van Brocklin v. Wood [Wash.] 80 P. 530.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 2078.

90. Austin v. Kuehn, 211 Ill. 113, 71 N. E. 841; Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656; Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616; Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49; Spencer v. Spencer, 25 R. I. 239, 55 A. 637. Provisions in a will in violation of an antenuptial agreement are void. Codicil held to violate agreement to make no distinction between children. Phalen v. United States Trust Co., 44 Misc. 57, 89 N. Y. S. 699.

91. Austin v. Kuehn, 211 Ill. 113, 71 N. E. 841; Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616; Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92. They will be regarded as trustees for his benefit. Spencer v. Spencer, 25 R. I. 239, 55 A. 637. An appeal from the probate of a will is not a bar to an action for that purpose. Id. Held not inequitable or unjust to decree specific performance of contract to bequeath stock. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49. Will be decreed where consideration is that promisee shall assume peculiar and domestic relation to promisor, and render services of such character that pecuniary value cannot be ascertained. Minors assuming relation of children. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656. Probate court has no jurisdiction to decree performance of contract to devise realty, but district court has. Id. The right to specific performance may be barred by laches and estoppel. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234. One for whose benefit an antenuptial agreement is entered into may maintain suit. Son whose parents, on his marriage, agree to make no discrimination in dividing their property among their children. Phalen v. United States Trust Co., 44 Misc. 57, 89 N. Y. S. 699. Executors, who have been discharged, not necessary parties to suit by testator's son. Id. The surrogate has no jurisdiction to enforce such agreement, and hence his decree as to distribution of trust fund is not res adjudicata as to rights under it. Id.

comply with the provisions of the statute of frauds;[93] but will be exempted from its operation in case enforcement is necessary to prevent fraud,[94] or in case of part performance,[95] particularly when entered into on the basis of a family arrangement.[96]

The proof of such contracts, when in parol, must be clear and convincing,[97] the burden of establishing their existence being on the one seeking to establish a right to property thereunder.[98]

The failure of the sole heir at law of one desiring to make a will for the benefit of third persons to perform an oral promise that he will dispose of her estate as she desires does not make such heir, in case of her intestacy, a trustee ex maleficio as to such estate, in the absence of actual fraud.[99]

92. Parol agreement to leave all property to plaintiff. Hanly v. Hanly, 93 N. Y. S. 864. An agreement to treat a child as a person would treat his own child confers upon the child no right whatever to such person's property. Id. Must be founded on valuable consideration. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49. Evidence held merely to show promise to make a gift without consideration and hence unenforceable. Mitchell v. Pirie [Wash.] 80 P. 774. Written promise that if nephew would procure cane for testator he would leave it to him, and would also leave him $1,000, enforced where cane furnished and accepted. Not void for inadequacy of consideration. Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616. A contract whereby intestate agreed that if plaintiff would support her husband, who was his grandson, out of her separate estate, he would leave her a certain sum in his will, is valid and enforceable, plaintiff having performed on her part. She is not bound to use her separate property for his support. Robinson v. Foust, 31 Ind. App. 384, 68 N. E. 182. Contract between husband and wife that property of the one first dying should go to the survivor and heirs forever, held unenforceable as against heirs of wife, she having died first, because not acknowledged and recorded as required by Ky. St. 1903, § 2128, relating to contracts between husband and wife. Stroud v. Ross, 26 Ky. L. R. 521, 82 S. W. 254. Such contract being declared unenforceable, husband is entitled to reimbursement for money paid to purchase and improve property on the faith of the contract, but not for taxes and improvements on wife's own property. Id.

93. Promise to give one certain amount of money by will if she would marry certain person must be in writing. Memorandum insufficient. Austin v. Kuehn, 211 Ill. 113, 71 N. E. 841. Contracts to devise land. Answer denying promise entitles defendant to benefit of statute. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234. Absolute conveyance cannot be shown by parol to have been made in consideration of promise to devise it to grantor. Id.

See, also, note 102 Am. St. Rep. 240.

94. Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598. No fraud or abuse of confidential relations where sister conveyed to brother, who agreed to devise land back to her. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234.

95. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656. Conveyance of land for full value or nearly full value not part performance of contract by grantee to devise it to grantor. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234. Parol contract to devise land. Best v. Gralapp [Neb.] 99 N. W. 837. Though the statute makes contracts between husband and wife in regard to realty void, where the wife induces him to convey land to her upon condition that she will devise the same to designated persons, upon default on her part, she takes as trustee ex maleficio in trust for them. Heirs estopped from disputing validity of agreement. Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656.

96. Only adequate remedy. Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598. Agreement between stepmother and stepson in regard to father's property held family arrangement. Abandonment by son of claim against father's estate, and stepmother's enjoyment of property during lifetime sufficient consideration. Id. Contract not too vague and indefinite to be enforced. Id.

97. Instructions approved. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49. To devise land. Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598. Must be clearly established by testimony of disinterested witnesses. Hanly v. Hanly, 93 N. Y. S. 864. Must be established with reasonable certainty. Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234. Will be closely scrutinized, particularly when claimed to have been made with aged and infirm persons and to the detriment of the lawful heirs, and will only be allowed to stand when established by the strongest evidence. Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 58 A. 766. Conceding that valid contract by legatee to make certain disposition of property bequeathed to him absolutely, which court will enforce after his death, may be established by parol, such evidence must be very clear and the contract or promise must be definite and certain in its terms, so that, if not carried out, a fraud would be perpetrated upon the testator. Russell v. Jones [C. C. A.] 135 F. 929.

Evidence insufficient to show contract: Austin v. Kuehn, 211 Ill. 113, 71 N. E. 841; Lozier v. Hill [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 234; Hanly v. Hanly, 93 N. Y. S. 864; Spencer v. Spencer [R. I.] 58 A. 766; Russell v. Jones [C. C. A.] 135 F. 929.

Evidence sufficient: Laird v. Vila [Minn.] 100 N. W. 656; Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598.

98. Parol. Hanly v. Hanly, 93 N. Y. S. 864.

99. Cassels v. Finn [Ga.] 49 S. E. 749.

A contract to make joint wills cannot be revoked after the death of one of the parties thereto.[1]

A bequest of property in trust is not a substantial compliance with a contract to bequeath it absolutely.[2]

The measure of damages for failure to devise as contracted is the value of the property agreed to be given.[3] Where services are rendered upon a promise to make compensation therefor by will, which promise is not performed, the person rendering them is entitled to compensation as a creditor of the estate for their value.[4]

§ 2. Testamentary capacity, fraud, and undue influence. A. Essentials to capacity.[5]—In order to have testamentary capacity, the testator must have sufficient mind and memory to intelligently understand the nature of the business in which he is engaged, to comprehend generally the nature and extent of the property constituting his estate and which he intends to dispose of, and to recollect the objects of his bounty.[6]

1. Minor v. Minor, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 439. An oral compact to make mutual wills having been established by sufficient evidence, an adequate consideration appearing, and the parties having complied with the law, the wills speak for themselves. Id. There being a compact to make mutual wills and the will of the survivor cannot be found at his death, its provisions will be carried out, if there is no question as to its exact contents, or as to the execution of mutual wills, or the adequacy of the consideration to the survivor. Id.

2. Acceptance of dividends from stock so bequeathed held not to estop legatee from seeking specific performance. Earnhardt v. Clement [N. C.] 49 S. E. 49.

3. Bush v. Whitaker, 45 Misc. 74, 91 N. Y. S. 616.

4. Whether failure due to accident or design. Bair v. Hager, 97 App. Div. 358, 90 N. Y. S. 27. Limitations do not begin to run until death of promisor. Id. Evidence sufficient to establish contract and extent and value of services. Id. Charge authorizing recovery of value of house if found that deceased had agreed to devise it in payment held erroneous. Lane v. Calby, 95 App. Div. 11, 88 N. Y. S. 465. Evidence that wages were paid for such services is admissible to disprove the contract. Waters v. Cline [Ky.] 85 S. W. 750.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 2078.

6. Hartley v. Lord [Wash.] 80 P. 433. The law does not arbitrarily declare one incompetent who is unable to know both the extent and value of his property. Instruction properly refused as requiring too rigid a test. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128. It is as necessary to have such sensibilities as will enable one to know the obligations he owes to the natural objects of his bounty, as it is to have the capacity to know the nature and value of his estate, and a fixed purpose to dispose of it. McDonald's Ex'rs v. McDonald [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1084. Where testator showed hatred for family and did not want any of them to have any of his estate, held to show lack of testamentary capacity. Id. It is sufficient if testator possesses so much mind and memory as enables him to transact common and simple kinds of business with that intelligence which belongs to the weakest class of sound minds, and can recall the general nature, extent and condition of his property, and his relation to those to whom he gives and those from whom he excludes his bounty. In re Randall [Me.] 59 A. 552. It is sufficient if testator, at the time he makes his will, is able to and does recollect the property he means to dispose of and the persons to whom he means to give it, and understands the manner in which he means to dispose of it and the relative claims of those who are, or should be, the objects of his bounty. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661. Statements of legatee held not admission of insanity such as would show lack of capacity. Geseil v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481. By competency is meant intelligence sufficient to understand the act he is performing, the property he possesses, the disposition he is making of it, and the persons or objects he makes the beneficiaries of his bounty. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32. To comprehend perfectly the condition of his property, his relations to the persons who were or should or might have been the objects of his bounty, and the scope and bearing of the provisions of the will. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565. He must have sufficient active memory to collect in his mind, without prompting, the particulars or elements of the business to be transacted, and to hold them in his mind a sufficient length of time to perceive at least their obvious relations to each other and be able to form some rational judgment in relation to them. Id. One knowing the natural objects of his bounty, the property he owns, and the disposition he wishes to make of it has capacity. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318. If has sufficient intelligence to comprehend condition of his property, and scope, meaning, and effect of provisions of will. In re Donohue's Will, 97 App. Div. 205, 89 N. Y. S. 871. One who is able to enumerate his property and remembers who are the natural objects of his bounty and successfully conducts considerable business interests, has sufficient mental capacity, though he be eighty-four years old and somewhat forgetful as to minor matters. Rewell v. Warden, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545.

Mere feebleness of mind or body,[7] moral depravity,[8] erroneous views as to the law of descents or wills,[9] a belief in spiritualism,[10] or any particular belief in regard to a future state,[11] mere jealous suspicion, however groundless,[12] personal eccentricities,[13] or the fact that testator committed suicide,[14] or a discordance between the will as executed and testator's previously expressed intention,[15] does not necessarily show lack of capacity. Neither does the fact that he distributes his property unequally or unnaturally,[16] or leaves it to his wife to the exclusion of his collateral kin.[17] It has, however, been held that those claiming under a will which is unreasonable in its provisions and inconsistent with testator's duties with reference to his property and family have the burden of showing some reasonable explanation of its unnatural character, or at least that it is not the effect of mental defect, obliquity, or perversion.[18] The fact that testator made no changes in the will, though he lived for some years after its execution, tends to prove capacity.[19]

The fact that testatrix occasionally suffers from "spells," rendering her incapable of transacting business, does not render her incapable of making a will at other times.[20] Monomania is partial insanity, as distinguished from general insanity.[21]

An insane delusion is a fixed belief, based upon supposed facts existing

7. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565. Does not raise presumption of incapacity. In re Donohue's Will, 97 App. Div. 205, 89 N. Y. S. 871; In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803. That testator was 71 years old and was afflicted with Bright's disease and organic valvular heart trouble. Morris v. Straughan [Ky.] 86 S. W. 529. Intellectual feebleness from age or other causes. In re Donohue's Will, 97 App. Div. 205, 89 N. Y. S. 871; In re Randall [Me.] 59 A. 552. Unsoundness of mind will not be inferred from physical suffering, disease, and old age. Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099. The mere statement that as one advanced in years her mind was not so vigorous as formerly imparts no information as to her want of capacity. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

8. Conclusion that testator was monomaniac not warranted by fact that he disinherited his wife because she interfered with his carrying out his deliberate choice to lead an immoral life. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

9. Very slight evidence, if any. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128.

10. Unless supposed communications refer to disposition of property. In re Randall [Me.] 59 A. 552. Not error in a suit to contest a will to give special charge to the effect that the testatrix's belief in spiritualism does not afford ground for setting the will aside, where the charge as requested does not set forth all the facts brought out at the trial concerning the testatrix's belief and practice of spiritualism. Schoch v. Schoch, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 110.

11. Cannot of itself be evidence of an insane delusion or of monomania. Truth or falsity cannot be demonstrated. Belief in Swedenborgianism, and enthusiasm manifested in propagating that faith. Scott v. Scott, 212 Ill. 597, 72 N. E. 708.

12. Not delusional insanity. Held error not to have stricken certain grounds of caveat on demurrer. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

13. Unusual and irregular habits, known as personal eccentricities, do not incapacitate one, unless they have been indulged in to such an extent as to amount to insanity. Fact that testatrix had "spells." Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638. That one tears his own and another's hair (Story v. Story [Mo.] 86 S. W. 225), that years after execution of will testator inadvertently put on his pantaloons "hindside before" (Id.), and calling child like a dog, held insufficient to show testamentary incapacity (Id.).

14. Not sufficient to overcome presumption of sanity. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565.

15. Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727.

16. May be considered simply as a circumstance in connection with other facts, but of itself it is insufficient. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32. Any instruction which gives undue prominence to the fact of unequal distribution of property is subject to criticism and is faulty. Id. The fact that the will makes an unequal division of property among testator's family, or gives the estate to strangers to the exclusion of his own blood, will not invalidate it, if the testator had the requisite capacity and was free from undue influence. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481.

17. Does not tend to show it. In re Peterson, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561.

18. Fact that testatrix was widow without issue, that she was not on intimate terms with relatives, that she owed beneficiary money, and recital in will that she made him beneficiary because he had been kind to her when relatives had neglected her, held sufficient explanation. Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638.

19, 20. Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638.

21. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

only in the diseased imagination of the deluded person, persisted in against undisputable evidence of its falsity.[22] A mere mistake of fact, or belief founded upon insufficient or very slight evidence, does not justify the rejection of the will.[23] A will made in pursuance of an insane delusion is invalid,[24] but such delusion must actually have influenced testator in making it, to the prejudice and injury of contestant.[25]

The law presumes every man to be sane, and to possess the requisite capacity to make a will.[26] Proof that the testator was affected with permanent insanity prior to the execution of the will,[27] or that he was delirious immediately before and after that time, places the burden of proving capacity at the moment of execution on those seeking to uphold it,[28] and in such case, the burden is not shifted by reason of the fact that the expressions and dispositions of the will are intelligent and judicious, unless it be also shown affirmatively that it was made or dictated by the testator himself, unaided and uncontrolled.[29] So too, a person who is adjudged non compos mentis, and placed under guardianship as such, is thereby rendered prima facie incapable of making a will.[30] There is a conflict of authority as to the effect of an adjudication that one is mentally incapable of taking care of himself or his property, and the appointment of a guardian for him on that ground.[31]

The question of capacity is to be determined not merely from testator's con-

22. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. A belief in something impossible in the nature of things, or under the circumstances surrounding the afflicted individual, and which refuses to yield either to evidence or reason. Does not exist unless fallacy can be certainly demonstrated. Scott v. Scott, 212 Ill. 597, 72 N. E. 708. Subject-matter must have no foundation in fact, and must spring from diseased intellect. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

23. In re Long's Will, 43 Misc. 560, 89 N. Y. S. 555. A mistaken conclusion arrived at upon consideration of existing facts, though not justified thereby, is not such a delusion. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. Not a misconception which is result of an erroneous conclusion based either upon a mistake of fact or upon illogical deduction drawn from facts as they really exist. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

24. Courts cannot speculate as to whether he would have made a different will if sane, or whether will as made is result of suggestions other than such delusion. In re Long's Will, 43 Misc. 560, 89 N. Y. S. 555. Also immaterial that contest was made by collateral relatives and not by disinherited husband. Id.

25. Instructions approved. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461. The existence of a delusion even at the time of the execution of the will, as to particular persons or things, will not invalidate the will unless it is the product of such delusion. That certain persons were trying to poison him. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481.

26. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481; In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865; Solley v. Westcott, 43 Misc. 188, 88 N. Y. S. 297; In re Donohue's Will, 97 App. Div. 205, 89 N. Y. S. 871; Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565; In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318.

27. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481. If insanity is of a permanent character, it is presumed to continue, and the burden is on proponent to prove by a preponderance of evidence that testator was sane at the time of the execution of the will. Keely v. Moore, 25 S. Ct. 169. Where it is shown that testator was habitually insane before, about the time of, and after the making of the will, the burden of proving sanity at the moment of making the will is upon those who seek to uphold the validity of the will. Succession of Morere [La.] 38 So. 435.

28. Where deceased is shown to have had pneumonia and to have been delirious for three days before and until death, three days after its execution. In re Coughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 879.

29. Succession of Morere [La.] 38 So. 435.

30. In re Cowdry's Will [Vt.] 60 A. 141. Answer to general interrogatory that testator was in good health and sane held admissible in the absence of surprise or denial of application seasonably made to cross-examine. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9.

31. Adjudication under Vermont Acts 1898, p. 41, No. 58, does not render him prima facie incapable. Appointment of guardian for one old and infirm, and who had long been town charge, when she suddenly fell heir to sum of money. In re Cowdry's Will [Vt.] 60 A. 141. A decree adjudging one to be of weak mind and incapable of caring for his own property raises a presumption of his incapacity. Pa. Act June 25, 1895 (P. L. 300), providing that person for whom such guardian is appointed shall be incapable of making any contract or gift, or any instrument in writing, does not make codicil executed after appointment wholly void. In re Hoffman's Estate, 209 Pa. 357, 58 A. 665. Presumption can only be overcome by satisfactory evidence of restoration to capacity, or at least that it was executed during a lucid interval. Id.

duct and appearance at the time of the execution of the will, but from those circumstances in connection with all the circumstances leading up to that time.[32] The evidence to support a caveat on the issue of insanity must either show that the testator was of unsound mind when the will was executed, or that he was affected with permanent insanity prior to its execution.[33] Testimony to overcome the presumption of sanity and capacity must be directed to the date of the execution of the will, and must tend to show incapacity at that time.[34] Evidence of testator's bodily and mental condition both before and after that time is admissible only for the purpose of shedding light on his condition at that time.[35]

Nonexperts may give an opinion founded on observation as to testator's sanity, provided they detail the circumstances on which their conclusions are based.[36]

An inference arises from the mere fact of attestation that the subscribing witnesses believed that the testator possessed testamentary capacity at the time of the execution of the will, though there be no formal recital to that effect.[37] Their testimony and that of those present at the execution of the will is ordinarily entitled to great weight.[38] This does not apply, however, to their opinion as to testator's capacity where they had no previous acquaintance with him.[39] The evidence of persons around testator is entitled to great weight where incapacity due to senile dementia is claimed.[40] Where the mental disorder is a delusion in regard to one or several subjects, the testimony of persons with whom testator has not had occasion to speak in regard to them is of no weight.[41]

The opinion of physicians that testator was incapable of making a will is not controlling on the question of capacity, and does not preclude the court from acting on evidence satisfying him of the existence of such capacity.[42] Their testimony as to the capacity of one in regard to whom they have no personal knowledge is entitled to no greater weight than that of nonexperts who have personally observed and known him.[43] Insanity cannot be proved by the certificates of physicians for the commitment of the testator to an insane asylum in a foreign country.[44] The ordinary rules as to expert testimony apply.[45]

32. Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754.

33. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481.

34. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481. If the opinion of the witness is desired for the purpose of proving incapacity, the inquiry must be limited to the date of the making of the will. Id.

35. Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481.

36. Spencer v. Spencer [Mont.] 79 P. 320. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 496, requiring any one summoning more than three witnesses to testify to same facts to pay the additional costs incurred, does not apply to lay witnesses in will contest who detail facts and circumstances within their personal knowledge on which they base opinions as to capacity where such facts are not the same. Westfall v. Wait [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1089. Witnesses who have enjoyed an adequate opportunity to observe deceased's capacity. Stutsman v. Sharpless [Iowa] 101 N. W. 105. Must state facts on which opinion is predicated. In re Selleck's Will [Iowa] 101 N. W. 453. Intimate acquaintances, giving reasons for opinion. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1870, subd. 10. Persons held intimate acquaintances. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461. Who are such acquaintances is within discretion of trial court, and his ruling will not be reversed unless abuse shown. No abuse. Id. May express an opinion as to the general capacity of the testator, to be determined from his habits, conduct and demeanor (Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727), but not upon his capacity as affected by physical exhaustion merely, or obscuration of the mental faculties upon the near approach of death (Id.). Attorney who had known testator for 15 years properly asked his condition on day will was drawn as compared with mind as he knew him before. Id.

37. More v. More, 211 Ill. 268, 71 N. E. 988.

38. Evidence of testator's widow and son, who caveated against will (Van Riper v. Van Riper [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 244), and of his physician, insufficient to overcome evidence of capacity (Id.).

39. Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890.

40. Though not experts. In re Wendel's Will, 43 Misc. 571, 89 N. Y. S. 543.

41. In re Long's Will, 43 Misc. 560, 89 N. Y. S. 555.

42. Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890.

43. Instruction erroneous. In re Peterson, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561.

44. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9.

45. See, also, Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334. After experts had been permitted to testify to symptoms of disease, refusal to allow them to take will, written by decedent, and point out evidence of disease in the hand-

Statutes giving the privilege of secrecy to all information acquired by a physician from his patient apply in will contests.[46]

Declarations of testator indicating constraint in certain of his acts,[47] or at variance with the provisions of the alleged will, are admissible;[48] but not his declarations, made at a time when he concededly was sane, that he would leave a certain person a certain sum on certain conditions.[49] The relations existing between testator and the beneficiaries may be shown,[50] but not those of testatrix's son to his father.[51] Evidence as to how testatrix came by her property is admissible.[52] Witnesses may testify as to general conversations with testator, embraced within a reasonable time before and after the making of the will.[53] The intrinsic evidence of the will itself arising from the unreasonableness or injustice of its provisions in reference to the amount of testator's property and the situation of his relatives may also be considered.[54] Where a will is assailed as unreasonable or unjust, evidence of the financial condition of those having claims on the bounty of deceased and likely to have been taken into consideration by him, if in a normal condition of mind, in executing his will, is admissible.[55] The rule should not, however, be extended so as to admit pooof of mere expectancies, unless of such a nature that they were likely to have been known and considered by him.[56] Where it is claimed that testator was a victim of the morphine habit, evidence that he exhibited symptoms indicating such habit is admissible as a basis for expert testimony on the subject.[57]

An application by testator for admission to an insane asylum,[58] evidence of the insanity of other members of testator's family where there has been no offer of direct proof of his insanity,[59] evidence that the principal beneficiary owned land which was exchanged in part for that devised to her,[60] evidence of previous crimes committed by testator,[61] the declarations of one having no interest in the writing, held proper. Henning v. Stevenson, 26 Ky. L. R. 159, 80 S. W. 1135. Hypothetical question held proper. In re Peterson, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561. Not error to exclude question as to whether expert would have made contract with testator when will was drawn. Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727. Hypothetical question held proper cross-examination. Id. Physician properly asked whether persons in testator's condition ever rallied and regained consciousness and intelligence. Id. Instruction permitting jury to say what facts were material in procuring opinion of expert and to what extent a variance in facts would have changed his opinion, held erroneous. Stutsman v. Sharpless [Iowa] 101 N. W. 105. Charge as to expert evidence argumentative and erroneous. Buxton v. Emery [Mich.] 102 N. W. 948.

46. Wis. Rev. St. 1888, § 4075, precludes him from giving testimony as to capacity, opinion being based entirely on information derived from testator. Privilege can be waived only by patient himself. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874. For a full discussion of this question, see Witnesses, 2 Curr. L. 2163.

47. Westfall v. Walt [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1089.

48. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242.

49. Utermehle v. Norment, 22 App. D. C. 31.

50. That three devisees lived in testatrix's house and were called by her "her boys." Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133. Evidence of friendly relations between testator and daughter practically disinherited, and care and attention bestowed on him by her. Admission of receipt from daughter for all claims not prejudicial. Piper v. Andricks, 209 Ill. 564, 71 N. E. 18.

51. That they had had fights and quarrels. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

52. To show possible motives actuating her in disposing of it. Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133.

53. Not involving execution of will, or its contents. Though not admissible for purpose of proving facts. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461.

54. French v. French [Ill.] 74 N. E. 403.

55. Evidence of mother's means to provide for minor beneficiaries. Stutsman v. Sharpless [Iowa] 101 N. W. 105.

56. Not proof of value of estate of grandfather of proponents. Stutsman v. Sharpless [Iowa] 101 N. W. 105.

57. Buxton v. Emery [Mich.] 102 N. W. 948.

58. Keely v. Moore, 25 S. Ct. 169.

59. Where merely claim of feebleness of health, induced by disease. Pringle v. Burroughs, 91 N. Y. S. 750.

60. Bailey v. Bailey, 26 Ky. L. R. 650, 82 S. W. 387.

61. That sold intoxicating liquor contrary to law. Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638.

estate that he knew that testatrix had made a will, and what its contents were,[62] statements of testator's mother to a physician and letters written by her,[63] the inventory and appraisement, and evidence of delinquencies on the part of the executor,[64] and evidence as to what the witness had heard in the family as to the insanity of certain of testator's ancestors, are inadmissible.[65]

Lack of capacity must be clearly established.[66]

The question of capacity is one of fact for the jury.[67]

(§ 2) B. Constituents of fraud and undue influence.[68]—In order to avoid the will, undue influence must be such as to destroy the free agency of the testator at the time and in the very act of making the will.[69] The true test is not so much in the nature and extent of the influence exercised as in the effect it has on the testator.[70] It may be exercised through threats or fraud.[71]

62. Husband of devisee, in whose bouse testatrix resided when will was made. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461.

63. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565.

64. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128.

65. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565.

66. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318.

Evidence held to show capacity: Scott v. Scott, 212 Ill. 597, 72 N. E. 708; Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099; Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128; Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133; In re Randall [Me.] 59 A. 552; Gesell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481; Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661; In re Clapham's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 61; In re Owen's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 675; Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890; Van Riper v. Van Riper [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 244; In re Wheaton's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 886; In re Middleton's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 454; Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565; In re De Vaugrigneuse's Will, 46 Misc. 49, 93 N. Y. S. 364; In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865; In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803; In re Donohue's Will, 97 App. Div. 205, 89 N. Y. S. 871; In re Wendel's Will, 43 Misc. 571, 89 N. Y. S. 543; In re Rockhill's Estate, 208 Pa. 510, 57 A. 989; Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638. Evidence and inferences from attestation of deceased witnesses. More v. More, 211 Ill. 268, 71 N. E. 988. At time of destruction of will for purpose of revoking it. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. Evidence insufficient to sustain finding of incapacity and such as to require submission of question to jury. In re Small's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1065. Issue devisavit vel non refused though testator was blind and ill. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318.

Evidence sufficient to show incapacity: Godfrey v. Phillips, 209 Ill. 584, 71 N. E. 19; Osborn v. Osborn [Iowa] 101 N. W. 83; Beebe v. McFaul [Iowa] 101 N. W. 267; Hartley v. Lord [Wash.] 80 P. 433; Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754. Where testatrix was aged and childish. Gutman v. Turner [Ky.] 85 S. W. 185. Verdict of incapacity not manifestly against weight of evidence. Piper v. Andricks, 209 Ill. 564, 71 N. E. 18; French v. French [Ill.] 74 N. E. 403; In re Selleck's Will [Iowa] 101 N. W. 453. Evidence insufficient to support surrogate's finding of capacity. In re Goodwin's Will, 95 App. Div. 183, 88 N. Y. S. 734.

Evidence insufficient to show execution during lucid interval: In re Coughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 879.

67. Henning v. Stevenson, 26 Ky. L. R. 159, 80 S. W. 1135.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 2083.

69. Must amount either to deception, or to force and coercion, destroying free agency. Caveat held to sufficiently allege undue influence. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306. If any degree of free agency or capacity remains, so that, when left to himself he is capable of making a will, the influence must be such as is intended to mislead him to the extent of making a will essentially contrary to his duty. Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099. Must deprive testator of free agency, and render will not his free and unconstrained act, such as, he is too weak to resist. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661. It is insufficient to show merely that there was influence affecting testator's disposition of his property, but it must also appear that he was thereby deprived of his free agency and prevented from exercising his judgment and choice. Id. Must amount to overpersuasion, coercion, or force, destroying the free agency and will power of the testator. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32. Must appear some element of dominance over the will of the testator, by which he is constrained to do that which, save for the force exerted over him, he would not have done. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535; In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 892. Evidence insufficient to show seclusion of testator by beneficiary for the purpose of having him under control, so as to shift burden of repelling inference of undue influence. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. Must appear that influence was sufficient to overcome testator's will, and conclusion must be inevitable that his mentality was reduced to helplessness, and that he succumbed to influence making his will another's. In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803. Testator must become mere instrument of another's craft and his testament that of a superior will. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318. Must destroy freedom of his will, and thus render instrument more the offspring of the will of others than his own. Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099. Instructions in regard to undue influence and credibility of witnesses misleading.

A mere showing that one had influence over testator,[72] or had an opportunity to exert undue influence with a motive for exercising it, is insufficient;[73] nor do such facts alone cast the burden of proof on the beneficiary,[74] though they may do so in connection with sufficient other facts.[75]

The influence must be specially directed toward procuring a will in favor of particular parties,[76] and must have proved successful to some extent.[77] Influence exerted merely to induce the making of a will while leaving the testator free as to its provisions is not undue.[78] It must not be merely the influence of affection or attachment, nor the desire of gratifying the wishes of one beloved and trusted by the testator.[79]

Where the testator has capacity and a present knowledge of the contents of the will, which is executed according to law, the influence to avoid it must amount to force or coercion.[80] The will of a person of sound mind will not be set aside on evidence showing only a possibility or suspicion of undue influence,[81] but in such case strong evidence of such influence is necessary.[82] On the other hand, where there is extreme age and possible susceptibility to influence, all the facts and circumstances surrounding the parties when the will was made will be carefully considered.[83]

The mere fact that testator changes his will so as to make one with whom he has not been on good terms the principal beneficiary thereunder,[84] or that he prefers others to his relatives,[85] or divides his property unequally,[86] or unnaturally,[87] or appeals to one in whom he has great confidence for advice and assistance in the management of his affairs,[88] or that there is a discordance between the will as executed and testator's previously expressed intention,[89] are not of themselves sufficient to show undue influence, though they may be considered in corroboration of other evidence.

Solicitations and persuasion,[90] particularly when made by a wife and chil-

Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908. Undue influence is a relative term. Bailey v. Balley, 26 Ky. L. R. 650, 82 S. W. 387.

70. Whatever its nature and extent, it vitiates will, if cannot resist it because of physical or mental weakness and nature and persistency of influence, and it deprives him of his free agency. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880.

71. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318. To show duress, threats, or force. In re Small's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1065.

72. Must be shown that influence was unduly or unjustly exercised. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

73. In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803; Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890; Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

74. Relationship and opportunity. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

75. May make out a prima facie case of undue influence so as to cast burden upon the principal beneficiary. Facts and circumstances shown held insufficient to shift burden to proponent. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

76, 77. Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099.

78. Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727; Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880; Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099.

79. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

80. Must be proved that it was obtained thereby. In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865.

81. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661.

82. Where it appears that testator's mind, memory and understanding were unimpaired. No evidence, and issue devisavit vel non properly refused. In re Rockhill's Estate, 208 Pa. 510, 57 A. 989.

83. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

84. Slater v. Slater, 209 Pa. 194, 58 A. 267.

85. Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638. Devise by widow to husband's physician, where had no very close relatives, and long standing indifference, if not dislike, to those she had, held valid. In re Rockhill's Estate, 208 Pa. 510, 57 A. 989.

86. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661; Gessell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481.

87. Gessell v. Baugher [Md.] 60 A. 481. May be evidence of it. In re Warnock's Will, 92 N. Y. S. 643. Does not shift burden of proof. Id.

88. Fact that testatrix appeals to brother not sufficient ground for claim that he improperly influenced her in favor of his children. In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 892.

89. Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727.

90. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59

dren,[91] advice, suggestions, reasons, or arguments addressed to testator's judgment and adopted by him,[92] and honest and moderate intercession or persuasion, unaccompanied by fraud, deceit, or threats,[93] do not of themselves constitute undue influence.

No presumption of undue influence arises from the existence of meretricious relations between the testator and beneficiary,[94] or from the fact that testator leaves his property to his wife to the exclusion of collateral kin,[95] or because he took sides with a beneficiary in a quarrel.[96]

A will procured by misrepresentations or fraud of any kind, to the injury of the heirs at law, is void.[97] So too a will is invalid which is the result of a mistake of fact on the part of testator.[98] Such mistake need not appear on the face of the will.[99] A mere error of judgment is insufficient.[1]

On an issue of undue influence, testamentary capacity will be presumed,[2] but, since a weak mind is more easily influenced than a strong one, testator's precise mental condition may be shown.[3]

The relations existing between testator and the beneficiaries, or the natural objects of his bounty,[4] but not those of testatrix's son with his father,[5] evidence as to how testatrix came by her property,[6] conditions of which testator was ignorant, but which may nevertheless have influenced him,[7] the acts and declarations of one alleged to have exerted undue influence when advised to have another will

A. 318. If has sufficient capacity to properly weigh and consider them, and to resist them if he so desires. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880.

91. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535.

92. If intelligently and freely adopted. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880.

93. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661.

94. Must be proof that mistress exerted influence directly in procuring will in her favor. In re Middleton's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 454; In re Lewis' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 260. Mere proof of unlawful cohabitation is insufficient, especially where the person charged with exercising the undue influence died 16 days before the execution of the will and 6 months before the execution of a codicil reaffirming it. Stant v. American Security & Trust Co., 23 App. D. C. 25.

95. In re Peterson, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561. Where aged testator bequeathed over one-third of his estate to his wife, held insufficient to raise a presumption of undue influence. Rewell v. Warden, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. Not established by the fact that she was his third wife and treated him with great kindness, anticipating his wants and aiding him in his affairs. Id.

96. With granddaughter as against daughters. Stant v. American Security & Trust Co., 23 App. D. C. 25.

97. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3261. Allegations of caveat sufficient. Not necessary to set out evidence. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

98. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3262. As to conduct of heir. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306. Codicil held not to show mistake of fact amounting to a fraud or delusion, in regard to gift of business to son during testator's lifetime. Solley v. Westcott, 43 Misc. 188, 88 N. Y. S. 297.

99. Demurrer properly overruled. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

1. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306. Will be presumed that caveator had in mind such a mistake as is referred to in statute, and not mere mistaken belief, such as would afford no ground for caveat. Need not allege facts negativing unwarranted inference to contrary. Demurrer properly overruled. Id.

2. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661; Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727.

3. Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661. Mental capacity and strength of mind may be considered. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880. Any competent evidence tending to prove mental condition at a date sufficiently recent to affect his susceptibility to undue influence is admissible. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

4. Evidence that three devisees lived in testatrix's house and were called by her "her boys." Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133. Evidence of the friendly relation between testator and a daughter, partially disinherited, and of the care and attention bestowed on him by her. Piper v. Andricks, 209 Ill. 564, 71 N. E. 18. The admission of a receipt from the daughter to testator for all claims against him for care and support is not prejudicial. Id.

5. Evidence that they had engaged in fights and quarrels. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

6. To show the possible motives which actuated her in disposing of it. When testatrix left her second husband only the estate she received from her father, it is permissible to show what estate she received from her first husband. Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133.

7. Since a testator may have been influenced by conditions of which he did not know the cause. Rapp v. Becker, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 139.

written,[8] and the contents of a prior will, may be shown.[9] The intrinsic evidence of the will itself, arising from the unreasonableness or injustice of its provisions in reference to the amount of testator's property and the situation of his relatives, may also be considered.[10]

Evidence that the principal beneficiary owned land which was exchanged in part for that devised to her,[11] evidence of crimes committed by the testator,[12] the declarations of one having no interest in the estate that he knew that testatrix had made a will, and what its contents were,[13] declarations of testator indicating constraint in certain of his acts,[14] his declarations as to coercion alleged to have been exerted over him when he executed a former will, in the absence of a showing that it continued,[15] his statements made after the execution of the will,[16] and the inventory and appraisement and evidence of alleged delinquencies of the executor, are inadmissible.[17]

The rule that courts of equity may set aside gifts to one standing in confidential or fiduciary relations to the donor applies to gifts made by will.[18] There is a conflict of authority as to the effect of the existence of confidential or fiduciary relations between the testator and the principal beneficiary under the will. Some courts hold that the burden is thereby placed on the beneficiary to show that his influence did not overcome testator's free agency.[19] Others that the burden may thereby be shifted in certain cases.[20] Others hold that proof of such relations is prima facie evidence of the exercise of undue influence,[21] and casts upon the proponent the necessity of showing that the execution of the will was not the result thereof,[22] but does not change the rule that upon the whole case the burden is on contestant to establish undue influence.[23] Still others hold that the burden is still on contestants,[24] but that the existence of such relations may, in connection with other facts and circumstances, make a case requiring explanation, and which will impose on proponent the burden of satisfying the court that the will was the free, untrammeled and intelligent expression of testator's wishes and intentions,[25] or

8. To rebut evidence of such influence. In re Peterson, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561.

9. To show intention before influence brought to bear. In re Selleck's Will [Iowa] 101 N. W. 453.

10. French v. French [Ill.] 74 N. E. 403.

11. Wife. Bailey v. Bailey, 26 Ky. L. R. 650, 82 S. W. 387.

12. That testatrix sold intoxicating liquor in violation of law. Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638.

13. Husband of devisee, in whose house testatrix resided when will was made. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461.

14. Only competent on issue of unsoundness of mind. Westfall v. Wait [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1089.

15. In re Clapham's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 61.

16. Rapp v. Becker, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 139.

17. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128.

18. Particularly applicable to gifts by parent to child. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

19. In re Birdseye [Conn.] 60 A. 111. The law presumes that a will made by a ward in favor of the guardian is the result of undue influence. Establishes prima facie the existence of such influence, so as to defeat will unless and until it is overcome by counterproof. Does more than shift burden. Evidence insufficient. In re Cowdry's Will [Vt.] 60 A. 141.

20. Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890.

21. Where the will is written or its preparation is procured by a beneficiary standing in such a relation to the testator that the latter reposes trust and confidence in him. Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908.

22. Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908. Proof of such facts standing alone, and undisputed by other evidence, entitles contestants to a verdict. Id.

23. Presumption arising from proof of fiduciary relations may or may not be preponderance of all the evidence. Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908.

24. Petition to revoke probate of codicil. In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803. By the fact that the proponent, who receives a considerable bequest thereunder, and drew the will or took an active part in its preparation, occupied a confidential relation to testator. Burden, in its technical and proper sense, does not shift during trial so long as parties remain at issue upon proposition affirmed on one side and denied on other. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880.

25. In re De Vaugrigneuse's Will, 46 Misc. 49, 93 N. Y. S. 364. Fact of confidential relathat the relations, in the absence of some explanation, may be an additional fact of more or less weight, in the nature of evidence,[26] the question still remaining one of fact.[27] In any event, where a person largely benefited by a will has much to do with its preparation, the facts and circumstances surrounding its making will be carefully scrutinized.[28]

Fraud and undue influence will not be presumed but must be proved by the party alleging their existence.[29]

The question of undue influence is for the jury,[30] and judgment should be rendered, notwithstanding the verdict, only in cases where it is clear, upon the whole record, that the moving party is, as a matter of law, entitled to judgment on the merits.[31]

§ 3. The testamentary instrument or act. A. Requisites, form, and validity.[32]—An instrument or gift is testamentary in character which passes no interest or right in the property referred to until after the death of the maker.[33] If some present interest passes, it is not testamentary, even though the right to tions not conclusive. Physician. In re Small's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1065. No presumption of fraud arises from the fact that the chief beneficiary under the will had control of decedent's estate during his lifetime. In re De Vaugrigneuse's Will, 46 Misc. 49, 93 N. Y. S. 364. Evidence of confidential relations held not sufficient to raise presumption of undue influence. In re Small's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1065.

26, 27. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880.

28. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880. Large bequests to one child, having opportunity to exert undue influence, to exclusion of others, will be regarded with extreme circumspection, and will be avoided unless clearly appear to have been righteous. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

29. In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865. Must be clearly established. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318. Where there is no evidence of undue influence, it is proper to instruct the jury that the evidence in the case can be considered only on the question of capacity. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128.

Evidence insufficient to show undue influence: Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099; Scott v. Scott, 212 Ill. 597, 72 N. E. 708; Westfall v. Wait [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1089; Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133; Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880; Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727; Kennedy v. Dickey [Md.] 59 A. 661; In re Owen's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 675; In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 892; Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890; In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865; In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803. Slater v. Slater, 209 Pa. 194, 58 A. 267; Lancaster v. Alden [R. I.] 58 A. 638. Evidence held to warrant setting aside verdict finding undue influence, and granting new trial. In re Birdseye [Conn.] 60 A. 111. To establish a conspiracy on the part of two of testatrix's children to unduly influence her. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32. Direction of verdict proper. In re Clapham's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 61. To sustain finding by surrogate of undue influence, held to require submission of question to jury. In re Small's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1065. To procure revocation of will. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. By mistress. In re Middleton's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 454; In re Lewis' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 260. Though will written by testator's brother and witnessed by latter's wife, and brother's children principal beneficiaries, and testator was blind and ill. Issue refused. In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318. By one having control of estate. In re De Vaugrigneuse's Will, 46 Misc. 49, 93 N. Y. S. 364.

Evidence sufficient: Where testatrix was aged and childish, held evidence. Gutman v. Turner [Ky.] 85 S. W. 185. To require submission of question to jury. Buxton v. Emery [Mich.] 102 N. W. 948. To support verdict. French v. French [Ill.] 74 N. E. 403. Motion to instruct that there was no evidence of undue influence, properly denied. Godfrey v. Phillips, 209 Ill. 584, 71 N. E. 19.

30. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

31. Evidence held not to have so conclusively failed to show undue influence as to justify granting of motion. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 2088.

33. One not intended to take effect until after the maker's death. Driscoll v. Driscoll, 143 Cal. 528, 77 P. 471. If intention that it shall not convey present interest but shall be revocable during maker's lifetime. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244. A writing in whatever form, if manifesting an intention to give the writer's property to another, and to take effect on the writer's death, is properly construed as a will. Declaration of trust signed in duplicate. Boatman v. Estate of Boatman, 105 Ill. App. 40.

Held testamentary in character: Verbal gift of stock certificates. Noble v. Garden [Cal.] 79 P. 883. Letter directing disposition of deposit to be made after writer's death. De Martini v. Allegretti [Cal.] 79 P. 871. Letter referred to in will. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Unsigned memorandum on back of demand note directing that, if not paid in full before payee's death, maker should expend amount due for payee's funeral expenses, for monument and for caring for grave. Moore v. Weston [N. D.] 102 N. W. 163.

possession is postponed,[34] the question in all cases being one of intention.[35] A power of revocation does not necessarily stamp an instrument as a will.[36]

A joint or mutual will executed by two persons is valid, provided that it can be given effect on the death of either so far as his property is concerned.[37]

(§ 3) B. Execution of will. 1. Mode of execution.[38]—As a general rule a will devising realty must be executed in accordance with the laws of the state where the property is situated, while a will of personalty is sufficient if executed in accordance with those of testator's domicile.[39] The law in force at the time of the testator's death governs.[40]

In order that a testamentary disposition of property may be valid, the statutory requirements as to execution must be strictly complied with,[41] and the intention of the testator cannot be considered in determining the sufficiency of the will in this regard.[42]

34. Wills take effect in the future upon testator's death, while declarations of trust take effect in praesenti during the life of the settlor. Declaration held not testamentary in character. Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92. Where property is disposed of in praesenti by a declaration of trust, so that title is intended to vest before the settlor's death, such disposition is valid, though possession does not pass until his death, or the enjoyment is contingent on the survivorship of another, or some other provisions look to a distribution after the settlor's death. Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

Held not testamentary: A deed from a husband to his wife, containing apt words of conveyance, and directing her to hold the property on certain trusts for the grantor, the trustee and the grantor's children, and reserving a right of revocation, and a right in the trustee to direct conveyances. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244. Deed of life tenant to owner of fee, providing that after grantor's death his estate should pay to grantee's children the amount paid as consideration. Parker v. Walls [Ark.] 86 S. W. 849. Assignment. Driscoll v. Driscoll, 143 Cal. 528, 77 P. 471. Instrument having form and all requisites of deed and purporting to make absolute conveyance, though grantor reserved right to possession for life. Jones v. Lingo, 120 Ga. 693, 48 S. E. 190; Griffith v. Douglas, 120 Ga. 582, 48 S. E. 129. Fact that it is signed by three witnesses may be of importance if character is doubtful, but cannot operate to change deed into will. Jones v. Lingo, 120 Ga. 693, 48 S. E. 190. Declaration of trust. Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92.

35. Robb v. Washington & J. College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92. To be derived from whole instrument read in light of surrounding circumstances. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244.

36. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244.

37. Unless disposition of property suspended after death of one until death of other so that it cannot be probated as separate will of each. Gerbrich v. Freitag, 213 Ill. 552, 73 N. E. 338. Disposition of lands to devisees not suspended by fact that beneficial use vested in husband, and hence will properly probated as that of wife. Id.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 2089.

39. A foreign will cannot operate to pass title to realty in Georgia unless it is executed in accordance with the laws of that state, even though it is sufficient under the laws of the state where it is made. Civ. Code 1895, § 3299. Foreign will attested by only two witnesses cannot operate to revoke former will executed in Georgia devising realty. Castens v. Murray [Ga.] 50 S. E. 131; Janes v. Dougherty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 954. Validity of will made in Louisiana by citizen of that state, devising realty situated in Mississippi, must be tested by laws of Mississippi. Succession of Hasling [La.] 38 So. 174. A nonresident may devise realty by a will executed in accordance with the laws of the state where it is situated, and bequeath personalty by a will executed either in accordance with the laws of its situs or of the state where the will is executed. B. & C. Comp. Or. § 5561. Will and codicil not attested held insufficient to pass title to realty. Montague v. Schieffelin [Or.] 80 P. 654. The law of the place where the property is situated. Applies to foreign wills executed outside the United States. Coy v. Gaye [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 441.

40. Colonna v. Alton, 23 App. D. C. 296.

41. As to what instruments are testamentary, see § 3, ante. De Martini v. Allegretti [Cal.] 79 P. 871; Noble v. Garden [Cal.] 79 P. 883; Moore v. Weston [N. D.] 102 N. W. 163; Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668. Letter referred to by will but not sufficiently incorporated therein so as to make it a part thereof, and not executed as a will, held not to create valid trust, it being of testamentary character and not intended to take effect until after death. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Where mother deposited money in bank in name of self or daughter, or survivor of them, with intent that, at her death, daughter should have it, held insufficient as testamentary disposition thereof. Kelly v. Home Sav. Bank, 44 Misc. 102, 89 N. Y. S. 776, rvd. on other grounds 92 N. Y. S. 578. Evidence held to show due execution. In re Small's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1065; In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865.

42. Parol evidence inadmissible to show that intended place where he signed to be end of will, if in fact it is not. In re Seaman's Estate [Cal.] 80 P. 700. Courts look to the intention of the legislature rather

Matter attempted to be inserted must be plainly referred to, and be susceptible of certain identification.[43] In order that an extrinsic paper may be incorporated therein by reference, it must be in existence at the time of the execution of the will,[44] and must be described in clear and definite terms.[45] A reference defective in these particulars cannot be aided by parol.[46]

Where sheets of paper constituting a will are found bound together at testator's death, the presumption is that they were so bound together at the time of its execution.[47]

The will must be executed animo testandi.[48] Testator must know its contents and that it is his will which he is signing.[49] If, after its execution, he has it in his possession a sufficient length of time and with the opportunity and ability to acquaint himself with its contents, he will be presumed to have read it,[50] and if, after such opportunity, he preserves it, the presumption that it was prepared in accordance with his instructions becomes conclusive, particularly where it follows his pronounced intentions, and provides for no unnatural distribution of his property.[51]

In some states the will must be signed by the testator at the end thereof,[52] that is, the signature must be written at the termination of the testamentary provisions.[53] It need not be in immediate juxtaposition with the concluding words of the instrument, but must be so near thereto as to afford a reasonable inference that the testator thereby intended to indicate an authentication of the instrument as a completed expression of his testamentary purposes.[54] than to that of the testator. Irwin v. Jacques [Ohio] 73 N. E. 683.

43. Irwin v. Jacques [Ohio] 73 N. E. 683.

44. Held not to appear that letter referred to was in existence. Whether such paper may be incorporated at all not decided. Appeal of Bryan [Conn.] 58 A. 748.

45. Reference to letter "which will be found with this will" insufficient. Appeal of Bryan [Conn.] 58 A. 748; Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Separate paper containing trust provisions, identifying beneficiaries and their interests, held properly construed in connection with the will, and as a part thereof. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931.

46. Appeal of Bryan [Conn.] 58 A. 748; Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266.

47. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565. Evidence held sufficient to establish that two sheets of paper purporting to be a codicil were executed at the same time and constituted a single instrument, though fastened together in inverse order. In re Dake's Will, 90 N. Y. S. 213.

48. Finding that testator told scrivener, who was also witness, that instrument was a "fake, made for a purpose," held fatal to its validity. Fleming v. Morrison, 187 Mass. 120, 72 N. E. 499. This result not obviated by further finding that testator meant that he did not intend to complete instrument by having it signed and attested by two other witnesses. Id. When the will is acknowledged before each of the witnesses separately, the animus testandi must exist at the time of each acknowledgment. Where does not exist when first witness signs, will not be rendered valid by fact that it does exist when other two sign, three witnesses being necessary. Fleming v. Morrison, 187 Mass. 120, 72 N. E. 499.

49. Evidence sufficient. In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 892. Evidence held to show that makers of joint will understood its contents and executed it according to law. Gebrich v. Freitag, 213 Ill. 552, 73 N. E. 338. Where joint will gave husband full beneficial use of entire property for life, and he was not deceived with reference thereto, and no issue of fraud was involved, exclusion of evidence that he refused to sign until assured that he was to receive entire property in case of wife's prior death, held not error. Id. Evidence held to show that foreigner understood contents of will, and that same was properly executed through interpreter. In re Wendel's Will, 43 Misc. 571, 89 N. Y. S. 543.

50, 51. In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 892.

52. Rev. St. § 5916. Irwin v. Jacques [Ohio] 73 N. E. 683. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1276. In re Seaman's Estate [Cal.] 80 P. 700. Ky. St. 1903, §§ 468, 4828. Ward v. Putnam [Ky.] 85 S. W. 179.

53. In re Seaman's Estate [Cal.] 80 P. 700. Where dispositive clause was written vertically on margin without anything to show where it was to be read in relation to rest of will, and evidence showed that it was written at request of testator after all the other provisions and before he attached his signature, held that will was not signed at end. Instruction approved. Irwin v. Jacques [Ohio] 73 N. E. 683. Such clause can only be regarded as surplusage where it has no legal signification and no effect on other provisions. Clause providing that anyone contesting should take nothing, held dispositive. Id.

54. Signature on outside of folded instrument on different page, held insufficient. In re Seaman's Estate [Cal.] 80 P. 700. Suffi-

It is sufficient if the testator adopts the signature of some one else by making his mark.[55] It will not be presumed that he signed the will from the fact that its body is in his handwriting.[56]

Testator must sign or acknowledge the will in the presence of the statutory number of witnesses,[57] who must sign it in his presence.[58] An attestation in the same room is prima facie in testator's presence,[59] and in a different room, prima facie not in his presence.[60] In some states testator must sign first.[61] The acknowledgment may be made before each witness separately.[62] cient though signatures of witnesses are separated by a small space from the signature of the testator, such space being occupied by written matter put there by the attorney drawing the will. Ward v. Putnam [Ky.] 85 S. W. 179. If an unsigned clause following the signature adds to or revokes previous bequests, the whole instrument is invalid; but if the clause added below the signature does not affect the disposition of the estate, it is usually held not to invalidate the instrument. Id. Such statutes held complied with where unsigned clause following signature provided for the appointment of executors with power to sell if necessary; such clause not being essential to the validity of the instrument, under Ky. St. 1903, §§ 3891, 3892. Id.

55. Sufficient evidence as to signing to justify instruction. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103.

56. In re Burtis' Will, 43 Misc. 437, 89 N. Y. S. 441.

57. B. & C. Comp. §§ 5548, 5575. Foreign will and codicil not attested held insufficient to pass title. Montague v. Schieffelin [Or.] 80 P. 654. Otherwise insufficient to pass title to realty. Janes v. Dougherty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 954. Under District of Columbia Code, § 1626, an unattested will of personalty is void. Colonna v. Alton, 23 App. D. C. 296. In some states three witnesses are necessary. Mass. Rev. Laws, c. 135, § 1. Fleming v. Morrison, 187 Mass. 120, 72 N. E. 499. Georgia. Janes v. Dougherty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 954; Castens v. Murray [Ga.] 50 S. E. 131. A will not attested by the requisite number of witnesses is void on its face, and can derive no aid from probate and being admitted to record. Two witnesses. Fortner v. Wiggins, 121 Ga. 26, 48 S. E. 694.

58. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874. Is not necessary that he should actually see them sign, but is sufficient if he has knowledge of their presence and knows what they are doing, and can, if so disposed, readily see them sign, though some slight physical exertion may be necessary to enable him to do so. Healey v. Bartlett [N. H.] 59 A. 617. Signature in room across hall from that in which testator was confined to his bed by a broken leg, held sufficient. Id. Evidence of experiment admissible as against objection of irrelevancy. Id. Must be present at the same time, and must subscribe in testator's presence [Va. Code 1887, § 2544; Code 1904, P. 1297]. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668. It is not necessary that each witness, prior to signing, should know that the other was to be an attesting witness, and that such other had been requested to act in that capacity. Id.

59. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

60. Evidence insufficient to overcome presumption. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

NOTE. Attestation "in presence of testator:" Where the weight of testimony showed a will to have been subscribed by the witnesses in a room adjoining that in which decedent lay, but the subscribing witnesses might possibly have been seen by decedent by changing her position, held, in the absence of proof that decedent actually placed herself in position to see the witnesses sign, the will is void. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

The decision is noticeable only in that it evinces a determination to follow the narrow and technical construction of that clause of the statute of frauds which requires wills to be subscribed by witnesses "in the presence of the testator"; which construction is supported by the overwhelming weight of authority, but seems, in many cases, to defeat, rather than promote, the object of the statute. Thus, it is held that the tests of presence are vision and mental apprehension. Jarman, Wills, p. 87. It is not necessary, even under this rule, that the testator actually see the witnesses sign, but he must be in such position that he can, if he has his eyesight, see them sign if he so chooses. 29 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 210; Ambre v. Welshaar, 74 Ill. 109; Reynolds v. Reynolds, 1 Spears [S. C.] 253, 40 Am. Dec. 599. The courts of three states, at least, have broken away from this construction, and have abandoned vision as an exclusive test of presence. Sturdivant v. Birchett, 10 Grat. [Va.] 67; Riggs v. Riggs, 135 Mass. 238; Cook v. Winchester, 81 Mich. 581. These cases announce the doctrine that where the testator is in hearing distance, is conscious of all that is taking place, and expressly signifies his approval, and where no fraud is practiced, the subscription of the witnesses will be upheld as valid even though done outside the testator's line of vision. It would seem that the decision reached in these latter cases throws around the execution of the will all the safeguards provided by the generally accepted rule, and at the same time escapes the probability of defeating the intentions of testators by the too technical constructions of a statute designed for their benefit. See an article by James Schouler, "In Presence of a Testator," 26 Am. Law Rev. 857.—3 Mich. L. R. 591.

61. Evidence held to show that witnesses signed first. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

62. Fleming v. Morrison, 187 Mass. 120, 72 N. E. 499.

The testator must inform the witnesses that the instrument is his will,[63] but they need not know its contents,[64] nor need they be expressly requested to attest it.[65] The fact that the witness attaches his official certificate of acknowledgment or that his official title follows his name does not render the attestation invalid.[66]

A formal attestation clause is not necessary.[67] A perfect attestation clause is, however, prima facie evidence of all the facts therein stated,[68] and in the absence of any attestation clause, the proponent must affirmatively prove the actual performance of all the required acts.[69] So too, where the attestation

63. Declarations before signature held sufficient publication. In re Breining's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 561. Evidence held to show publication. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874. The declaration need not be by word, but any method by which he clearly and distinctly makes the fact known to them is sufficient. In re Breining's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 561; Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

64. Need not be able to testify that provisions of will when offered for probate are same as were when will was executed. Roche v. Mason, 93 N. Y. S. 565.

65. Request may be implied from facts and circumstances. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668. Need not be made at some time prior to their signing. Id. Where witnesses to will testified that testator requested that it be written, and that it was written, read to and signed by the testator, held sufficient to show proper execution, though both witnesses denied that they were requested to sign by testator. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

66. Keely v. Moore, 25 S. Ct. 169, afg. 22 App. D. C. 9.

Note: In the case last cited a will was executed in England disposing of realty in the District of Columbia, the statute of the latter place requiring three witnesses. At the foot of the will appeared the signature of the testator, followed by an attestation clause signed by two witnesses. Still lower down, and bearing date of the day following the execution of the will, appeared a certificate of acknowledgment of the testator's signature, signed by one John H. Cooksey, Vice Consul, United States of America, and sealed with the consular seal. This certificate was added under the mistaken impression that it was necessary for the proof of the will in a foreign country. Held, a valid will.

The court adopted the view that since the official certificate was wholly without force as such, and since its language showed the vice consul actually to have been a witness, that he should be counted as such. The court says: "The facts certified are appropriate to the attestation of the instrument, and, if true, we see no reason for holding it to be invalid as an attestation because it was signed under the impression that it was necessary for some possible purpose as a certificate." Reported cases precisely in point seem to be rare. But those somewhat similar in facts go to uphold the decision in the principal case. Thus, where a sindico, describing himself as such, signed under a clause separate from the other witnesses, but it did not appear that it was intended to lend validity to the will by his official character, the sindico was counted as a witness. Adams v. Norris, 23 How. [U. S.] 353, 16 Law. Ed. 539. And where witnesses signed with a double intent, both as witnesses and to denote themselves as executors, their signatures as witnesses were held valid. Griffiths v. Griffiths, L. R. 2 Prob. & Div. 300. And where one signed a will as having written it for the testatrix, but later adopted the signature as an attestation, it was held good as such. Pollock v. Glassell, 2 Grat. [Va.] 439. So, too, where justices of the peace, county clerks, or notaries public have appended official certificates to wills under the impression that such certificates would lend aid to their validity, such officials have been counted as witnesses. Payne v. Payne, 54 Ark. 415, 16 S. W. 1; Murray v. Murphy, 39 Miss. 214; Hull's Will, 117 Iowa, 738, 89 N. W. 979; Franks v. Chapman, 64 Tex. 159. But see, as opposing the principal case, Clarke v. Turton, 1 Ves. Jr. 240, where the precise question was decided the other way.—3 Mich. L. R. 495.

67. Word "witness," "attest," or "test," sufficient, or there need be no words at all. More v. More, 211 Ill. 268, 71 N. E. 988. Will of real estate. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9. Where attestation clause omits to state that it was signed by the subscriber as a witness at the request of the testator, but does state that the testator acknowledged the paper to be his will before the subscriber, it will be presumed that the testator requested the subscriber to sign as a witness. Id. Signature of witnesses all that is essential under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 2746. Hence fact that it is defective in form is immaterial. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128. Validity depends on conformity of execution to statutory requirements, and not on attestation clause. Id. Fact that witnesses do not attach their names to attestation clause but place them elsewhere is mere informality. Id. Use of word "executor" in attestation clause instead of "testator" mere clerical error, not misleading, and hence immaterial. Id.

68. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874; More v. More, 211 Ill. 268, 71 N. E. 988. A deposition of one of the subscribing witnesses, made before the surrogate when probate is applied for, as to the execution of the will, is admissible before the orphans' court on appeal, and, if supported by a perfect attestation clause, raises a strong presumption in favor of due execution. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

69. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

clause fails to recite the performance of some of the necessary acts, the proponent must prove their performance.[70]

"Credible" witnesses means such persons as, at the time of attestation, would be legally competent to testify in a court of justice to the facts which they attest by subscribing their names to the will.[71] Persons pecuniarily interested are not competent.[72] A subscribing witness is not disqualified by reason of the fact that his wife is a legatee.[73]

When the witnesses are dead, their signatures and that of testator must be proved by legal evidence, and also such other circumstances as show that the formalities of the statute have been complied with.[74] Proof of the signature of a witness, whose name is signed after that of another witness, does not prove the signature of the latter.[75]

The will is not invalidated by the fact that the person drawing it is named as executor.[76]

The evidence of legal execution and publication must be certain and reliable.[77] Parol evidence is admissible to contradict the statements in the instruments that it is a will; that it has been signed as such by the person named 70. That witnesses signed in testator's presence. In re Beggans' Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 874.

71. Means "competent." O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090. The fact that in the county court, or upon an appeal from an order admitting a will to probate, the parties are confined to the testimony of the subscribing witnesses on the question of capacity, does not vest such witnesses with judicial power to determine that question (Id.), and consequently it is not necessary for them to be persons who would be competent to act as judges or jurors in a suit between the heirs and the devisees or legatees under the will (Id.).

72. Witness not disqualified by fact that his grandson was pecuniarily interested in sustaining will. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090.

73. Not prevented from giving evidence as to its execution, notwithstanding Gen. St. 1901, § 4771. Lanning v. Gay [Kan.] 78 P. 810.

Note: Where a devise or bequest is made to either husband or wife of an attesting witness, by the decided weight of authority such witness is thereby disqualified. Sullivan v. Sullivan, 106 Mass. 474. In arriving at this conclusion, courts are guided by the consideration that such witnesses are incompetent on account of personal interest, and that a husband and wife cannot ordinarily testify for or against each other. In some jurisdictions, however, where bequests to subscribing witnesses are void by statute, a strained interpretation makes a bequest to the husband or wife of such a witness invalid, thus rendering the witness competent by removing the objectionable element of interest. Jackson, ex dem. Beach v. Durland, 2 Johns. Cas. [N. Y.] 313. In a few jurisdictions, where a husband and wife are permitted by statute to testify for or against each other, the interest of either party in a bequest to the other is considered too remote to disqualify him or her as an attesting witness. Lippincott v. Wikoff, 54 N. J. Eq. 107. Lanning v. Gay [Kan.] 78 P. 810, which apparently holds the whole will valid, seems to have gone farther than any previous one in arriving at this result without statutory aid.—From 18 Harv. L. R. 474.

74. In re Burbank, 93 N. Y. S. 866. Will may be admitted on proof of witnesses' signatures, or on other secondary evidence, such as is sufficient to establish written contracts generally [Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1903, p. 1906, c. 148, § 6]. More v. More, 211 Ill. 268, 71 N. E. 988. Where, on its face, appears to have been regularly executed, proof of the genuineness of witnesses' signatures and that of the testator raises a presumption that the statutory requirements were complied with, even in the absence of an attestation clause. Id. Proof of signature is sufficient prima facie proof of attestation. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9. The opinions of experts as to handwriting are valuable only when they point out satisfactory reasons for the conclusions reached. In re Burtis' Will, 43 Misc. 437, 89 N. Y. S. 441.

Admissibility of evidence: Witnesses who had seen testatrix write and were familiar with her handwriting, held qualified, as non-experts, to give opinions as to genuineness of paper offered as will. Yelton v. Black, 26 Ky. L. R. 885, 82 S. W. 634. Witnesses held not to have sufficiently qualified as experts to enable them to give opinions as to genuineness of signature of witness. In re Burbank, 93 N. Y. S. 866. Evidence of bank officers as to signature of witnesses held admissible. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668.

75. Must prove both. In re Burbank, 93 N. Y. S. 866.

76. Fact that he was named as executor with provision appointing another in case he should be unable, or should refuse, to act, where he had no intention of acting, and refused to do so before will was probated. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090.

77. Evidence insufficient to show existence of legal attestation clause in destroyed will. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535.

as testator, and attested and subscribed by the persons signing as witnesses.[78] The evidence of the subscribing witnesses makes out a prima facie case of due execution,[79] but other evidence is also admissible on that issue.[80] On an issue as to the validity of one of several wills, the others are admissible in evidence.[81]

The evidence of subscribing witnesses who attack the will is of little weight.[82] Declarations of testator concerning the disposition of his property are of doubtful value and cannot be accepted as controlling proof of the facts which they purport to recite.[83]

(§ 3B) 2. Nuncupative and holographic wills.[84] Nuncupative wills.[85]—Nuncupative wills are not favored,[86] and must be executed in strict conformity to the statute authorizing them.[87] It must be proved that the deceased, while uttering the words offered as a will, had not only a present testamentary intention, but also an intention to make an oral will, and that he intended the words uttered, and no others, to constitute such will.[88] It must also be proved that he did, at the time of making it, bid the persons present or some of them to bear witness that such was his will, or to that effect.[89] Such a will cannot be established by one having an interest as legatee thereunder.[90]

The will must be made during testator's last sickness.[91] It is not necessary, however, that he be in extremis, or in articulo mortis, or that he be prevented from making a written will by surprise of sudden death;[92] but the statutory requirement is satisfied if his disease has progressed to such a point that he expects death at any time, and is liable to die therefrom at any time, and if he makes such will in view of, and as preparatory to, such expected death, and thereafter dies from such sickness.[93] The will is not rendered invalid by the fact

78. To show that it was not signed animo testandi. Fleming v. Morrison, 187 Mass. 120, 72 N. E. 499.

79. Beebe v. McFaul [Iowa] 101 N. W. 267.

80. Scrivener, who affixed signature not as witness, competent to prove publication. In re Breining's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 561. On trial of opposition to execution and registry of an alleged testament, the notary before whom the instrument was passed, and the three subscribing witnesses, are competent to testify to show that formalities required by law were not observed. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471.

81. Three wills were offered for probate. The first was admitted to probate, but on appeal the second was admitted in evidence; held not error. Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133. Where an alleged prior will is introduced in evidence, cannot be said, even in absence of other proof, that there was no evidence before court on which could base finding that such will was signed by decedent, and purported on its face to be her will. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874.

82. Execution. Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32.

83. On issue of genuineness of signature. In re Burtis' Will, 43 Misc. 437, 89 N. Y. S. 441.

84, 85. See 2 Curr. L. 2091.

86. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450; In re Megary's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

87. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450. All essential requisites must be clearly established by competent evidence. In re Megary's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

88. Instructions as to will which he desires to have reduced to writing cannot operate as will. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450; In re Megary's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

89. Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 4993. Must be three witnesses in Nebraska. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450. In Kansas must be proved that he called upon some person present at the time the testamentary words were spoken to bear testimony to said disposition as his will [Gen. St. 1901, § 8007]. Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163. Regatio testium must be proved. No particular form of expression necessary, but words or signs used must be intended as request, and witnesses must so understand them. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450. Need not follow words of statute. Will held valid. Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163.

90. Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 4995, relating to effect of interest of subscribing witnesses, applies. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450.

91. Cobbey's Ann. St. Neb. 1903, § 4993. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450. Kan. Gen. St. 1901, § 8007. Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163.

92. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450; Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163. In Pennsylvania must be in extremity of his last sickness. In re Megary's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

93. Sufficient if made when sickness has so progressed that he expects death therefrom at any time, and when made near to,

that there had been prior preparation to make it.[94] There is a conflict of authority as to whether such wills are invalidated by the fact that there was sufficient time and opportunity thereafter to have permitted the making of a written will.[95]

Under the Louisiana statute declaring that a nuncupation by public act "must be dictated by the testator and written by the notary as it is dictated," such dictation must be by words pronounced orally.[96]

Holographic wills.[97]—An olographic will is one that is entirely written, dated, and signed by the hand of the testator himself.[98] It must be dated,[99] but is not rendered invalid by the fact that the date is erroneous.[1] The will need not all be written on the same day.[2] An olographic will may be proved in the same manner as other private writings.[3]

At common law a will of personal property written in testator's own hand is good, though not signed, providing his handwriting is sufficiently proved.[4] In order that an incomplete and unsigned will or memorandum may be admitted and in view of, death, and preparatory thereto. Evidence sufficient. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450. Will held valid. Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163.

94. Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163.

95. Not invalidated. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450; Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163. Must not have been time. In re Megary's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

NOTE. Meaning of term "last sickness:" In Baird v. Baird [Kan.] 79 P. 163, the court bases its opinion on the authority of three cases, Johnson v. Glasscock, 2 Ala. 218; Nolan v. Gardner, 7 Heisk. [Tenn.] 215, and Harrington v. Stees, 82 Ill. 50, 25 Am. Rep. 290, and though the last two, at least, of these cases are not so extreme in their facts as the principal case, still the language of all of them supports the conclusion reached in it and announces the doctrine that "If a person, in the sickness of which he subsequently dies, impressed with the probability of approaching death, deliberately makes his will in conformity with the statute, we do not feel authorized to say that it will be invalid, because, in point of fact, he had time and opportunity to reduce it to writing." Opposed to these decisions stands the great weight of authority, which follows the rule laid down by Chancellor Kent in the leading case of Prince v. Hazelton, 20 Johns. [N. Y.] 502, 11 Am. Dec. 307, "A nuncupative will is not good unless it be made by a testator when he is in extremis, or overtaken by sudden and violent sickness, and has not time nor opportunity to make a written will." To illustrate this rule, where the decedent had capacity to execute a written will afterwards, probate was refused, in the following cases, to nuncupative wills on the ground that they were not made in extremis, where the decedent survived four days. Haus v. Palmer, 21 Pa. 296. Nine days. In re Yarnall's Will, 4 Rawle [Pa.] 46. Six days. Prince v. Hazelton, 20 Johns. [N. Y.] 602, 11 Am. Dec. 307. One day, where the testator repeated substantially the alleged nuncupative declarations made a fortnight before. Sykes v. Sykes, 2 Stew. [Ala.] 364, 20 Am. Dec. 40. Three days. Scaife v. Emmons, 84 Ga. 619, 10 S. E. 1097, 20 Am. St. Rep. 383. Nine days. Carroll v. Bonham, 42 N. J. Eq. 625, 9 A. 371. Five or six days. Reese v. Hawthorne, 10 Grat. [Va.] 548. These courts take the ground that nuncupative wills are not favored by the law, and that it is not intended that they shall take the place of written wills, but shall serve only to carry out the testator's wishes when he has reached such a point that a written will is no longer feasible. And this is the view favored by text writers. Schouler, Wills, § 370; 1 Redfield, Wills, p. 184, et seq.—3 Mich. L. R. 495.

96. Civ. Code art. 1578, not complied with where testator handed written memoranda to notary, saying only "like this" (comme ca) while the instrument was being written. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 2091, n. 62.

98. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1277. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340. A request in a testamentary letter to "answer at once" will not be presumed to alter its nature as a will, nor will a statement that "this is private." Buffington v. Thomas [Miss.] 36 So. 1039. Letter by a person during her last illness, stating how she desired her property disposed of, held a valid holographic will. Id.

99. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1277. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340.

Where will was merely memorandum of property, dated at top, and followed by clause disposing of same, held immaterial whether date was that of the will or that on which he owned such property. In re Clisby's Estate, 145 Cal. 407, 78 P. 964. If latter, memorandum being part of will, date would be that of will also, and, in any event, testator could adopt as date of will the date previously written by him. Id.

1. Dated 1859 instead of 1889. True date may be shown by parol. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340.

2. Date as written is date of will, whether commenced or finished on such day. In re Clisby's Estate, 145 Cal. 407, 78 P. 964. Counsel held to have no right to assume that memorandum was made with no intention of making it part of will, and that such action was afterthought. Id.

3. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340.

4. Cruit v. Owen, 21 App. D. C. 378.

to probate as the last will of the writer, however, it must have been intended to operate as a will in its then state, or if a memorandum for the preparation of a formal will, it must appear that the testator had been prevented from carrying out this later intention through sickness, death, or some other casualty, and there must also have been a continuance of this intention down to the time when the act of God intervened to prevent its execution.[5] Such paper itself furnishes no intrinsic evidence that it was intended to be the last will of the deceased, and the presumption is strongly against its operation as such.[6]

(§ 3) C. Revocation and alteration. Right to revoke.[7]—The power to make a will implies a power to revoke it.[8]

A will executed by both husband and wife, which disposes of the separate property of each, but not of their joint property, will be regarded as the separate will of each, and may be revoked by either, in the absence of a valuable consideration to support a contract to dispose of the property in the manner set forth in the will.[9]

Revocation in general.[10]—There can be no revocation by act of the testator without an intention to that effect,[11] a joint operation of act and intention being necessary.[12]

Wills may generally be revoked by canceling or destroying them.[13] There is ordinarily no presumption of revocation from the fact that the signature is canceled in the absence of proof that the will was so found in testator's possession or custody.[14] Hence in such case the burden of proving revocation is on the party alleging it.[15] By statute in Georgia, where a will has been canceled or obliterated in a material part, a presumption of revocation arises, and the burden is on the propounder to show that no revocation was intended.[16] Where the paper is found among testator's effects, there is also a presumption that he made the cancellations or obliterations.[17] The presumption as to revocation exists, though the cancellations were made with lead pencil, that fact being only entitled to consideration in connection with other facts in arriving at the intention.[18]

In some states a revocation by cancellation must be witnessed in the same

5. Cruit v. Owen, 21 App. D. C. 378. This common-law rule has recently been abrogated in the District of Columbia by the new code, § 1626. Id.

6. Cruit v. Owen, 21 App. D. C. 378.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 2091.

8. Provision in wills that they are irrevocable, held immaterial. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051.

9. Is a double and not a joint will, there being no compact between the makers in form or effect. Buchanan v. Anderson [S. C.] 50 S. E. 12.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 2091.

11. Evidence held to show that will, from which piece had been cut out, had not been revoked. In re Westbrook's Will, 44 Misc. 339, 89 N. Y. S. 862. Ga. Civ. Code, § 3344. Will held to show no intention to revoke devise in former one. Castens v. Murray [Ga.] 50 S. E. 131.

12. Where act exists question is one of intention for jury. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501.

13. Iowa Code, § 3276. Richardson v. Baird [Iowa] 102 N. W. 128. Evidence held to show revocation by destruction of instrument. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. Evidence held to show that will was destroyed by testator. Buchanan v. Anderson [S. C.] 50 S. E. 12.

14. Lines draw through it. In re Hopkin's Will, 89 N. Y. S. 561.

15. Where proceedings for probate are, on appeal from decree admitting will, remitted for trial to determine whether will was revoked, contestant has burden of proof, and hence right to open and close. In re Hopkins' Will, 89 N. Y. S. 561.

16. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3343. As where draws lines through, and pastes slips of paper over clauses, and draws lines through his signature and those of subscribing witnesses. Evidence insufficient to rebut presumption. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501.

17. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501.

18. In England, lead pencil cancellation is presumptively deliberative, and not final, and raises no presumption of revocation. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501.

manner as the making of a new will.[19] Where there is no statutory cancellation, but a part of the will is completely obliterated so as to be illegible, effect will be given to the legible parts.[20] A part which is completely obliterated is destroyed, and the will remains as though it had never been written.[21]

Beneficiaries claiming that a will was destroyed by accident or mistake, or by the act of the testator while insane, have the burden of proving the observance of the statutory requirements in making and publishing it, its contents, and that its destruction was not brought about by the sane intent and capable act of the testator.[22] Testator's declarations accompanying the act of destruction, and those preceding it, when not too remote, are admissible to show his intention,[23] but not those made thereafter.[24]

Revocation by operation of law is not necessarily prevented because the statute provides the manner in which testator may himself revoke his will,[25] though in some states revocation may be accomplished only in the manner prescribed by statute.[26]

By statute in some states, no will may be revoked by any presumption of intention on the ground of alteration of circumstances.[27]

A subsequent deed of property devised revokes the devise.[28] The death of the sole beneficiary prior to that of testator does not work a revocation of the will,[29] nor is a bequest to testator's wife impliedly revoked by her subsequently obtaining a divorce.[30]

As a general rule, marriage of the testator revokes all former wills,[31] particularly in the case of a woman.[32]

19. Iowa Code, § 3276. Richardson v. Baird [Iowa] 102 N. W. 128.

20. To provision directing trustees to set aside certain sum for certain persons, though following words, evidently relating to same bequest, are obliterated. Richardson v. Baird [Iowa] 102 N. W. 128.

21. Richardson v. Baird [Iowa] 102 N. W. 128. Only by some other written will, or by writing of testator declaring such revocation and executed in manner in which will required to be executed, or by burning, tearing, canceling, obliterating, or destroying, with intent and for purpose of revoking same by testator himself [2 N. Y. Rev. St. 1829, p. 64, c. 6, tit. 1, art. 3, § 42]. In re Burbank, 93 N. Y. S. 866.

22. Evidence insufficient on all these points. Did not show presence of attestation clause or that it stated that testator had declared instrument to be his will [N. J. Gen. St. P. 3760, § 22]. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535.

23. Remark by testator on day before he died that he wanted brothers, sisters, and niece to have some of his property, and statement that wife would not get all his property, admissible. Appeal of Spencer [Conn.] 60 A. 289. Declaration that he had made will in favor of wife to keep her quiet, inadmissible. Id. Provided they accompany an act which may be construed as an act of revocation or attempted revocation. Kimsey v. Allison, 120 Ga. 413, 47 S. E. 899. Declarations that will had been lost or stolen and that it was no longer his will, held inadmissible. Id.

24. If admissible, revocation in a manner different from that provided for by statute (2 Rev. St. 1829, P. 64, c. 6, tit. 1, art. 3, § 42) could be shown. In re Burbank 93 N. Y. S. 866. To the effect that he was satisfied with it. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971. Where witness testified that she heard plaintiff say that she had destroyed will, held such evidence should be considered merely to impeach plaintiff who denied the statement in rebuttal. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103.

25. N. M. Comp. Laws 1897, § 1953 does not prevent revocation by subsequent marriage. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53.

26. In re Davis' Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1004.

27. R. I. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 203, § 18. Legacy to corporation in trust for three children not revoked by division of equal amount of personalty among them during lifetime, made for purpose of avoiding legacy tax, though such was evident intention. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Keith [R. I.] 57 A. 1060.

28. Osborn v. Osborn [Iowa] 101 N. W. 83.

29. In re Davis' Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1004, afg. 45 Misc. 554, 92 N. Y. S. 968.

30. In re Jones' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 915.

31. See, also, § 1, ante. In states where husband and wife are heirs of each other in the event that there are no children. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53. In South Dakota the marriage of testator revokes his will previously executed, where his wife survives him, unless provision is made for her by marriage contract, or by the will, or unless she is mentioned therein in a way showing an intention not to provide for her, and no other evidence to rebut the presumption of revocation may be received. [Rev. Civ. Code, § 1023, subd. 2]. In re Larsen's Es-

In some states a will is revoked by the birth of a legitimate child after its execution and before testator's death.[33]

Where an act is done by testator which may or may not amount to revocation, revocation will not result if it appears that the act was dependent upon the efficacy of another act, such as the making of a new will, and that testator did not intend to revoke his will unless such other act was consummated.[34] But where the will is completely revoked, the failure of another contemplated act cannot revive it.[35]

Presumption from failure to find will.[36]—If a will, shown to have been made and left in testator's custody, cannot be found after his death, there is a presumption that he destroyed it animo revocandi.[37] Such presumption does not shift the burden of proof,[38] but is one of fact merely and not of law, and may be overcome by proof to the contrary.[39] It may be rebutted by proof that after its execution testator's relations to his widow and next of kin were such as to render it improbable that he would wish to change the disposition of his property.[40]

By subsequent will or codicil.[41]—The law does not favor revocation of conditions of a prior will by implication.[42] Hence a later will can operate as an tate [S. D.] 100 N. W. 738. Will not providing for wife held not made in contemplation of marriage, and revoked. Id. The revocation is absolute, and is not confined to that portion of the property which the wife would have taken had the husband died intestate (Id.), nor is the right to question the validity of the will confined to the surviving wife (Id.).

32. At common law the marriage of a feme sole revoked her will. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53. The will of a married woman is revoked by her subsequent remarriage after the death of her husband [Civ. Code 1895, § 3347]. McWhorter v. O'Neal, 121 Ga. 539, 49 S. E. 592.

33. Even though provision is therein made for it. Iowa Code, § 3276. This rule changed by amendment. Acts 30th Gen. Assem. p. 115, c. 120. Fry v. Fry [Iowa] 101 N. W. 144. The right to take advantage of such revocation is not confined to such children. Id.

34. Called doctrine of dependent relative revocation. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501.

35. If anything done indicating unmistakable intention to revoke. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 2093.

37. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482; Appeal of Spencer [Conn.] 60 A. 289; Hutson v. Hartley [Ohio] 74 N. E. 197. Prima facie only. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103. Where will last seen in his possession and he was mentally competent. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971.

38. Hutson v. Hartley [Ohio] 74 N. E. 197.

39. Hutson v. Hartley [Ohio] 74 N. E. 197. Burden on proponent to prove the contrary by clear, satisfactory, and convincing evidence. Evidence insufficient. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971. Evidence that one alleged to be a witness to a lost will, but who denied the same, stated at testator's funeral that he had the will in his pocket, held not to tend, even remotely, to prove that he had it in his possession, it not appearing that anyone had ever seen it in his possession. Id.

Note: The presumption is only prima facie and may be rebutted by proper evidence. It may sometimes be overcome by all the circumstances of the case when no one circumstance is sufficient to produce that result. Gardner v. Gardner, 177 Pa. 218, 35 A. 558. There is a conflict of authority as to whether or not declarations of the testator, in respect to his satisfaction with the will, are admissible in evidence to rebut the presumption. In England, and in probably a majority of the states in the Union, such declarations are held to be admissible. Sugden v. Lord St. Leonards, L. R. 1 P. D. 154; Behrens v. Behrens, 47 Ohio St. 323, 25 N. E. 209, 21 Am. St. Rep. 820; Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 94 N. W. 705; In re Valentine's Will, 93 Wis. 45, 67 N. W. 12. On the other hand, the United States supreme court and some of the most eminent state courts support the ruling of In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971, that such declarations are, in their nature, purely hearsay evidence, and that they can be brought under no recognized exception to the hearsay rule; hence, they are inadmissible unless they are a part of the res gestae, or are introduced to prove the mental condition of the testator. Throckmorton v. Holt, 180 U. S. 552, 45 Law. Ed. 663; In re Kennedy, 167 N. Y. 163, 60 N. E. 442.—3 Mich. L. R. 421.

40. Will in favor of widow. Appeal of Spencer [Conn.] 60 A. 289. Evidence showing the relations between testator and the beneficiary and his next of kin after the making of the will is admissible (Id.), but evidence of such relations before its execution are not admissible as evidence in chief on the part of such beneficiary (Id.). Where contestants introduce evidence showing that affectionate relations had always existed between testator and them, proponent may show testator's relations to them prior to execution of will. Id.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 2092.

42. By codicil. Sperry v. Sperry [Iowa]

implied revocation of a former one only in so far as the two are inconsistent.[43] The mere fact that testator states the later will is his last will and testament is not conclusive.[44]

If there is an express disclaimer of an intention to entirely revoke the former will, the two will, so far as is possible, be construed together, particularly when such a course is necessary to prevent a partial intestacy.[45]

When a later will is destroyed or cannot be produced, it is competent to prove by parol that it contained a revocatory clause.[46]

A codicil is supposed to express the testator's final and more deliberate purpose,[47] and will be considered as revoking all clauses of the will inconsistent therewith.[48]

Any writing containing an express revocation of a will must be executed with the same formalities and attested by the same number of witnesses as the will itself.[49]

In states where foreign wills are insufficient to pass title to realty unless executed in accordance with their laws, a foreign will not so executed cannot operate to revoke a former domestic will, though it expressly attempts to do so.[50]

(§ 3) D. Republication and revival.[51]—All the formalities required to make a valid will are necessary to the republication of a revoked will.[52]

The mere destruction of a subsequent will revoking a former one will not of itself operate to revive the latter will, the question of such revival being one of intention.[53]

102 N. W. 491. Where will required trustee to rent or sell certain tract of land and pay P. "up to equalizing with K. and B.," and provided that all property remaining should go to widow, and that she was to control such tract as trustee "for all the heirs, to sell or continue to rent," held that codicil, declaring that "all the heirs" did not mean those having share in realty, did not deprive P. of right to an amount from the proceeds of such tract sufficient to equalize him with K. & B., though he was given specific devise of realty. Balance went to heirs who did not take realty. Id.

43. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 3341, 3345. Castens v. Murray [Ga.] 50 S. E. 131. Evidence insufficient to establish revocation by execution of subsequent wills which were claimed to have been lost. In re Burbank, 93 N. Y. S. 866. A subsequent will may operate as a partial revocation only, the intention controlling [Iowa Code, § 3276]. Fry v. Fry [Iowa] 101 N. W. 144.

44, 45. Fry v. Fry [Iowa] 101 N. W. 144.

46. Evidence sufficient to show that will contained such clause. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

47. Under codicil directing payment of certain sum monthly to each of four persons "for and on account of their respective quarterly shares of the net income of my estate," held that the fact that one of such persons had no share in the net income under the will did not deprive her of the right to such monthly payment. In re Edwards' Estate, 209 Pa. 19, 57 A. 1117.

48. Its effect must be limited to its purpose. In re King's Estate, 210 Pa. 435, 59 A. 1106. Trust not revoked by codicil changing beneficiaries. Id. Held to supplant provisions of will as to distribution of certain stock, and to require it to be kept together for specified period before distribution, legacies not being payable until such period has elapsed. Miller v. Metcalf [Conn.] 58 A. 743. Codicil revoking the third clause of a will and declaring that certain persons should not be beneficiaries, also revoking the ninth clause except as to one legatee, held to revoke the entire third clause and exclude the persons named from any share of the estate in case of a residuum. Dowler v. Rodes' Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 1087, 83 S. W. 115. Second codicil held not to have changed first codicil modifying provisions of item as to certain bonds, but merely to have changed provisions as to whom estate named in such item should go. Hoffman v. New England Trust Co., 187 Mass. 205, 72 N. E. 952. Codicil held to revoke certain legacies and remainders. Ladies' Union Benev. Soc. v. Van Netta, 43 Misc. 217, 88 N. Y. S. 413. Original devise of house to be held in trust held revoked by codicil giving different one. In re Benson's Estate, 209 Pa. 108, 58 A. 135. Original devise held revoked. Id. Item held direction to convert remainder into money and distribute it, and to be inconsistent with codicil. Logan v. Cassidy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 794.

49. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 3341, 3342. Castens v. Murray [Ga.] 50 S. E. 131.

50. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3299. Attested by only two witnesses. Castens v. Murray [Ga.] 50 S. E. 131.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 2094.

52. Contract between woman and second husband held not republication of will revoked by her second marriage. McWhorter v. O'Neal, 121 Ga. 539, 49 S. E. 592. Rights of parties under such contract cannot be determined by probate court. Id.

53. If presumption of revocation arises

§ 4. Probating, establishing, and recording. A. Powers of courts.[54]—The powers of courts in the probate and construction of wills and in subsequent actions to test their validity are fixed by statute, and vary in the different states.[55]

Diverse citizenship does not give a Federal circuit court jurisdiction of a bill seeking the declaration of the nonexistence of a will, and the nullity of its probate in the state court, where the state proceeding to contest, is but supplementary to the original probate proceeding.[56]

(§ 4) B. Parties in will cases and the right to contest.[57]—Where proponent is the executrix named in the will, she represents in the probate proceedings all persons claiming under the testament.[58]

Parties may so deal with the property attempted to be disposed of as to be estopped to deny the validity of the will.[59] Thus, in the absence of fraud or misrepresentation,[60] one receiving a benefit under a will is generally held to be estopped to thereafter contest its validity,[61] though there appears to be some conflict from failure to find will left in testator's possession, it does not follow that a further presumption arises therefrom of intent thereby to revive former will. No evidence to show revival. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 2094.

55. Jurisdiction of bills to construe wills, see § 5G, post.

California: Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1699, providing that where testamentary trust is to continue until after distribution, superior court shall not lose jurisdiction by final distribution, held that such court has jurisdiction to determine the effect of the will on settlement of trustee's final account, for purpose of determining whether trust has been properly administered, and who is entitled to estate. McAdoo v. Sayre, 145 Cal. 344, 78 P. 874.

In Illinois the county court has exclusive original jurisdiction of a proceeding to establish and prove an alleged lost will. Under Const. art. 6, § 18, and statute of wills, has exclusive jurisdiction in all matters of probate. Equity has no jurisdiction until after probate. Beatty v. Clegg, 214 Ill. 34, 73 N. E. 383.

In Kansas the probate court has jurisdiction of petitions for the admission of wills to probate. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

In Maryland orphans' courts, or, during their recesses, registers of wills, have jurisdiction to take probate [Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1889, §§ 230, 265, 323, 327, art. 93]. Tilghman v. France, 99 Md. 611, 59 A. 277.

In Nebraska county court has original jurisdiction of all probate matters, and exclusive jurisdiction of probate of wills. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

New York: If a party expressly puts in issue the construction of any disposition of personalty, on the probate of the will of a resident of the state, the surrogate must determine the question [Code Civ. Proc. § 2624]. In re Davis' Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1004, afg. 45 Misc. 554, 92 N. Y. S. 968; In re Howard's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 86.

In New Jersey the prerogative court has original jurisdiction over the probate of wills, and on reversal of a decree of the orphans' court admitting a will, for failure to cite persons concerned, may allow the will to be there probated after proper citation. In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154.

Ohio: In a will contest the court's jurisdiction is confined and the scope of its jurisdiction limited to a determination of the single question of the validity or invalidity of the will. Burgess v. Sullivant, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 327. It cannot, by the appointment of a receiver, draw to itself jurisdiction over real estate specifically devised by the will. Id.

56. O'Callaghan v. O'Brien, 25 S. Ct. 727.

57. In a will contest the court may inquire into the interest of the contestant as a preliminary question. This though Kirby's Dig. § 8041 provides that the sole question in will contests is whether the will offered for probate is the last will of the testator. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242. An allegation that contestant was the wife of decedent, and is the surviving widow and as such is entitled to the community property of the estate, held a sufficient allegation of interest. Perry v. Moss [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 871. A foreign administrator of testator's estate has no such interest as entitles him to demand an interpretation by the surrogate under Code Civ. Proc. § 2624. In re Davis' Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1004, afg. 45 Misc. 554, 92 N. Y. S. 968. See 2 Curr. L. 2095.

58. Hence legatee of sum of money is not a necessary party to an opposition contesting validity of will on ground of informality in execution. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471.

59. Defendants held not estopped to assert invalidity of will having only two witnesses. Janes v. Dougherty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 954. Quare whether probate court should consider question of estoppel, where will had been probated, with consent of the caveator, for eleven years. Utermehle v. Norment, 22 App. D. C. 31. A verdict for the caveatees on the question of estoppel necessarily superinduces a verdict for them on the other issues. Id.

60. Promise by one beneficiary that another beneficiary would equalize matters held not to constitute fraud. Utermehle v. Norment, 22 App. D. C. 31.

61. Utermehle v. Norment, 22 App. D. C. 31; Wonsetler v. Wonsetler, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 321; Utermehle v. Norment, 25 S. Ct. 291.

of authority in this regard.[62] Mere ignorance of the rule will not prevent its application.[63]

Any person who is interested in sustaining or defeating a will may appear and support or oppose the application for probate.[64] No one can question the validity of a will or any provision in it, unless he stands in such relation to the testator that, in the event the provision is invalid, he will be entitled to an interest in the property involved in the controverted provision.[65]

(§ 4) C. Duty to produce will.[66]—It is the duty of those having the custody of a will to produce it so that it may be probated.[67]

(§ 4) D. Probate and procedure in general.[68]—An unprobated will cannot be relied on to establish any title or interest in property, or to enable a legatee or devisee to maintain any action based on such title,[69] nor can the executor execute a power of sale thereby given to him.[70] A stranger cannot, however, object that the will has not been admitted to probate.[71]

Proceedings for the probate of wills are statutory and are substantially in rem.[72] Some form of written application for probate is generally required.[73]

All persons concerned,[74] or at least the known heirs, are generally required to be notified of the proceedings.[75]

One claiming an interest must give a free effect to the instrument as far as he can. Morrison v. Fletcher [Ky.] 84 S. W. 548. Held estopped after lapse of ten years, though offered to account for amount received. Utermehle v. Norment, 22 App. D. C. 31. The refusal of a legatee to accept a bequest must be absolute and unqualified not merely in word but in deed. Acts of dominion over the subject-matter of the bequest render ineffective positive terms of refusal. Wonsetler v. Wonsetler, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 321.

62. The mere fact that one takes a beneficial interest under a will does not preclude him from claiming that other provisions therein are void. As contrary to rule against perpetuities. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37.

63. In the absence of fraud or misrepresentation. Utermehle v. Norment, 25 S. Ct. 291.

64. Public administrator appointed in another state to administer assets located therein is entitled to oppose admission of will simply appointing executor, and making no disposition of property. In re Davis' Will, 45 Misc. 306, 92 N. Y. S. 392.

65. Bowers v. McGavock [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 893. The heirs at law and distributees of the estate of the widow of testator have not such an interest as entitles them to contest the validity of testator's will, where the widow elected to take under the will. Id. An uninterested person cannot question the validity of a devise (Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133), or raise the question of the invalidity of the will because of its failure to provide for or mention testator's children. Cullen v. Bowen, 36 Wash. 665, 79 P. 305. Admissible to show nature of devisee's possession and claim of title to property destroyed by defendant. Id. Grantee of heir of testator may contest will found and filed for probate after the grant, by which the land was devised to grantor's children. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 2096.

67. Evidence held to show fraudulent conspiracy to suppress a will and to deprive certain beneficiaries of the benefit thereof. Anderson's Adm'r v. Smith, 102 Va. 697, 48 S. E. 29.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 2096.

69. Wis. Rev. St. 1888, § 2294. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874. Codicil to foreign will never probated in either state cannot be used as muniment of title. Montague v. Schieffelin [Or.] 80 P. 654.

70. Coy v. Gaye [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 441.

71. Admissible to show nature of plaintiff's possession and claim to property destroyed by defendant. Cullen v. Bowen, 36 Wash. 665, 79 P. 305.

72. Cruit v. Owen, 21 App. D. C. 378. A will is admissible as a muniment of title, although erroneously probated as an independent will, since the judgment probating it is one in rem and vests title in the devisee named in the will. Glover v. Colt [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 136. Such erroneous probate and the fact that the executrix sold property without an order of the county court will not defeat title of purchasers after the probate of the will. Id. The fact that such purchasers were attorneys in charge of the probate of the will is immaterial. Id.

73. Mere failure of the application to contain an allegation of mental soundness is not of itself sufficient to sustain a judgment denying probate. Rev. St. 1905, arts. 1904, 1884, considered. Moore v. Boothe [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 882. A surrogate may decline to receive a will propounded for probate if not accompanied by written application required by orphans' court rules (Rule 1). In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154. If he does receive it and finds caveat filed, is bound to issue citations, and orphans' court will acquire jurisdiction to act thereon. Id.

74. Under the N. J. Orphans' Court Act (P. L. 1898, p. 718, § 13), where a caveat is filed, the surrogate is required to issue cita-

Objections to the probate of a will should be filed prior to its admission.[76] The allegations of the caveat must be definite and certain.[77] No jury is available in the probate court.[78]

In some states the parties are confined to the testimony of the subscribing witnesses on the question of capacity;[79] while in others those interested in having the will admitted may produce other witnesses if they so desire.[80] A party interested in having the application denied may not, as a matter of right, demand the examination of his witnesses in opposition.[81] The will should be admitted upon prima facie proof of due execution, capacity, and freedom from restraint.[82] In Louisiana a presumptive heir, notified in writing, pursuant to statute, to attend the opening and proof of an alleged testament, passed before a notary and three witnesses, may at that time oppose the execution and registry of the instrument presented on the ground of nullity, because of want of formalities required by law.[83]

To constitute the probate, there must be some affirmative order or act by some constituted authority, in addition to the swearing of the witnesses.[84]

The probate of a will merely determines the validity of its execution.[85] Hence probate cannot be denied merely because some its provisions are invalid, or contrary to law,[86] or because it appoints no executor,[87] or because the sole legatee and devisee and executrix died before the testator,[88] or because it merely appoints an executor, and makes no disposition of testator's estate.[89]

A statute limiting the time within which wills must be presented for probate does not apply to ancillary probate of a foreign will for the purpose of completing title to land.[90]

In some states all original wills and the probate thereof are required to be tions to "all persons concerned." In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154. Both heirs at law and next of kin are persons concerned and must be cited, though not beneficiaries. Id.; In re Myers' Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 259.

75. Necessary in order to confer jurisdiction on the court. Floto v. Floto, 213 Ill. 438, 72 N. E. 1092. The fact that heirs not notified had actual knowledge of the proceedings is immaterial. Id. Evidence held to show that complainant was heir (Id.), and that widow, who offered will for probate, had knowledge and notice of that fact (Id.). Beneficiaries need not be cited, but only heirs at law and next of kin [Code Civ. Proc. § 2615]. In re Davis' Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1004.

76. In time, though filed after will, with formal proofs, was presented to court. Towles v. McCurdy [Ind.] 71 N. E. 129.

77. Allegations as to unnaturalness and unreasonableness and as to lack of capacity held sufficient. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306.

78. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

79. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090.

80. In addition to subscribing witnesses. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

81. Same rule on appeal from order refusing to admit. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

82. Examination should go only to extent of making out prima facie case of validity. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

83. Such objection is not premature at such time. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471.

84. No probate where orphans' court not in session, and register of wills also absent, and deputy register only took affidavit of subscribing witnesses, and no order admitting it was filed or letters issued. Tilghman v. France, 99 Md. 611, 59 A. 277.

85. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825.

86. Rule against perpetuities. Portion of such will cannot be admitted, and probate denied to remainder. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825.

87. In re Davis' Will, 45 Misc. 554, 92 N. Y. S. 968, afd. 93 N. Y. S. 1004.

88. Surrogate cannot determine that, by reason of the incapacity of the devisee to take, the will could have no effect. In re Davis' Will, 45 Misc. 554, 92 N. Y. S. 968, afd. 93 N. Y. S. 1004. If a will properly executed by one competent to make it assumes to make a devise of realty, or is broad enough to include a transfer thereof, the surrogate must probate it, if the petitioner so requests. Id.

89. In re Davis' Will, 45 Misc. 306, 92 N. Y. S. 392.

90. Ancillary probate in order to complete the title to lands in Kentucky is not subject to the 10 years statute of limitations. Morrison v. Fletcher [Ky.] 84 S. W. 548.

recorded by the clerk of the probate court.[91] The probate as recorded is notice only to those in privity with the proceedings.[92] The certificate of the county court of the oath of the subscribing witnesses cannot be varied by parol, on a suit to contest the will.[93]

(§ 4) E. Burden of proof on the whole case.[94]—Generally speaking, the law presumes testamentary capacity, due execution, and that the will contains the unrestrained wishes of the testator. Hence it is usually held that the burden upon the whole evidence is on the party attacking it on the ground of improper execution, lack of capacity, or undue influence to prove the facts which he alleges.[95] In some states, however, the burden is on proponent from first to last to establish such facts by a preponderance of all the evidence.[96] In others, proponents are first required to make out a prima facie case as to due execution and capacity, and the burden is then upon contestants to prove their allegations by a preponderance of all the evidence.[97]

91. Rev. St. 1879, § 4876. Hymer v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 722. Such statutes are for the sole benefit of the heirs and devisees of the testator. Whether the statute is complied with or not is immaterial as to third persons. Pasch. Dig. art. 1236, construed. Id. A clerk's certificate indorsed on the will, certifying that the will was on that date duly and correctly recorded in a specified book and page, is sufficient to show that the will was duly recorded. Laws 1848, p. 236, c. 157, considered. Id. A will being probated and the records subsequently destroyed, it will be presumed that the clerk properly recorded it. Id. The fact that the clerk's certificate to the affidavit of a subscribing witness, taken in open court, is not authenticated by seal, does not render the same inadmissible in evidence. Id. The indorsement of the county clerk, affidavit of attesting witness indorsed on will, certificate of record and the granting of letters of administration, held sufficient to prove probate of will. Id.

92. Kilgore v. Kirkland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 44.

93. As to date when it was taken. Godfrey v. Phillips, 209 Ill. 584, 71 N. E. 19.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 2097.

95. The burden of proof upon the whole evidence is upon the contestant to show undue influence by a preponderance of all the evidence. Appeal of O'Brien [Me.] 60 A. 880. On bill to set aside probate. Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908; In re Birdseye [Conn.] 60 A. 111; Hughes v. Rader, 183 Mo. 630, 82 S. W. 32; Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908. Where the will is properly executed. In re Warnock's Will, 92 N. Y. S. 643.

96. In Michigan, proponent has the burden of proving capacity. Error to refuse request to charge to that effect on appeal from a judgment admitting will. Buxton v. Emery [Mich.] 102 N. W. 948.

In Iowa, petitioners must establish the execution of the will by a preponderance of the evidence on the whole case. Suit to set aside will admitted to probate, and to establish alleged subsequent will. Answer alleged forgery. Beebe v. McFaul [Iowa] 101 N. W. 267.

Washington: It is incumbent on those relying upon a purported will to show that testator was of sound and disposing mind, and not acting under fraud, undue influence, or misrepresentation. Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754.

97. In Kansas, when a will is offered for probate, the issue is whether it was duly attested and executed, and whether, at the time of execution, the testator was of full age, of sound mind and memory, and not under any restraint. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537. The burden of proving these facts is upon proponent. Id.

In New York, before admitting the will to probate, the surrogate must inquire particularly into all the facts and circumstances, and must be satisfied of the genuineness of the will and the validity of its execution [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2622] (In re Burtis' Will, 43 Misc. 437, 89 N. Y. S. 441), and the proponent is bound to satisfy him of these facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 2622] (Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565). Probate must be refused if surrogate not satisfied that signature is genuine, proponent having the burden of proof. In re Burtis' Will, 43 Misc. 437, 89 N. Y. S. 441. Evidence held to show that signature was forged. Id. Competency. In re Goodwin's Will, 95 App. Div. 183, 88 N. Y. S. 734. The burden is on the person asserting it to prove incapacity or undue influence. On application for probate. In re Nelson's Will, 97 App. Div. 212, 89 N. Y. S. 865.

Montana: In every will case proponent must first make out a prima facie case; that is must make such proof as would entitle the will to probate in the absence of a contest. Procedure prescribed by Mont. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2340-2346. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971. The contestant then attacks the validity of the will and proponent defends the same. Contestant rebuts testimony of proponent, and latter may offer evidence in sur-rebuttal in proper cases. Id. The contestant has the right to open and close the case. Id.

In Kentucky, when the propounders have proved due execution of a paper, not irrational in its provisions, nor inconsistent in its structure, language or details with the sanity of the testator, they have made a prima facie case, and the burden of proving incapacity then rests on the contestants.

In secondary proceedings to contest the validity of the will or on appeal the judgment or decree of the probate court admitting the will, is generally held to be prima facie evidence of its due execution and validity, and the burden of proving the contrary in such cases is therefore on contestants.[98]

It will not be presumed on a will contest that testator is not dead.[99]

Sufficiency of evidence and shifting of burden.[1]—The capacity of testator,[2] the freedom of his will from fraud or undue influence,[3] and the due execution and genuineness of the instrument,[4] must be fully proved either by the presumptions favoring such facts or from positive proof or both according to the strength of the opposing case. The constituent facts, and evidence on which each of these may be based have already been discussed and need not be repeated.

(§ 4) F. Establishment of lost will.[5]—A lost or destroyed will cannot be admitted to probate unless it is proved to have been in existence at testator's death, or is shown to have been fraudulently destroyed during his lifetime,[6] nor unless its provisions are clearly and distinctly established.[7]

The contents of a lost will,[8] or missing parts of a will in existence, may be proved by secondary evidence,[9] but it must be clear and satisfactory.[10] Declarations of the testator are admissible for that purpose.[11]

Henning v. Stevenson, 26 Ky. L. R. 159, 80 S. W. 1135.

98. California: Contestants have the burden of proving nonexecution after probate. If introduce no evidence on subject, is duty of court to find due execution on presumption in favor of it. Cannot, by abandoning such issue on trial to jury, require court to thereafter take evidence on such subject and thus deprive proponent of jury trial. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461.

In Illinois, in proceedings to contest a will after probate, the burden is on the proponents to prove due execution and capacity to the same extent as it was before probate. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090.

New York: The admission of the will by the surrogate is not conclusive on the appellate division on the question of capacity. In re Goodwin's Will, 95 App. Div. 183, 88 N. Y. S. 734. Such admission is prima facie evidence of its due execution and validity (Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565), and anyone thereafter attacking it has the burden of proving incapacity (Id.). In action under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2653a. Id. Suit to set aside. In re Hawley's Will, 44 Misc. 186, 89 N. Y. S. 803.

Ohio: The establishment by the probate court of a lost or spoliated will is prima facie evidence of the will for all purposes, including all that relate to the contest of the same. Rev. St. 1892, § 5948. Prima facie establishes that testator executed a will, of which paper proposed was true copy; that it was unrevoked at his death; and that will was lost or spoliated after his decease. Hutson v. Hartley [Ohio] 74 N. E. 197. Hence, in a subsequent contest to set aside the probate, after a copy of the will as probated and the probate has been introduced by the contestees, the burden is on the contestant to invalidate the will. That testator destroyed same with intention to revoke it. Id.

Washington: The formal admission of the will, upon the evidence of the subscribing witnesses, establishes a prima facie case in favor of its validity (Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754), which may thereafter be rebutted by evidence introduced in a subsequent contest (Id.). Evidence held to have so far established incapacity as to require contestee to produce rebutting evidence as to testator's mental condition and the relations of the beneficiaries with him. Id.

99. Objection that proponents rested without proving death not considered. In re Owen's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 675.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 2100.

2. See § 2A, ante.

3. See § 2B, ante.

4. See § 3B 1, 2, ante.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 2101.

6. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 2371. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971.

7. By at least two credible witnesses [Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 2371]. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971.

8. By parol. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. That it contained revocatory clause. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

9. Evidence of scrivener and of declarations of testator as to reasons for making certain provisions held admissible to show contents of piece of will which had been cut out and lost, and sufficient to show its contents. In re Westbrook's Will, 44 Misc. 339, 89 N. Y. S. 862.

10. Evidence insufficient where the probate record merely shows that the will was recorded, but does not show its contents, and testimony of witnesses as to the contents varies widely and statutory requirements as to execution and probate were disregarded. Nunn v. Lynch [Ark.] 83 S. W. 316. In a proceeding to establish an alleged lost will, evidence that testatrix executed will and thought it was recorded, held sufficient to require submission of the case to the jury. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103. Evidence sufficient to support finding on motion for new trial that there was a

The fact that decedent's property has been divided and disposed of by his heirs is no bar to the establishment of a lost will.[12]

(§ 4) G. Judgments and decrees.[13]—The will need not be incorporated in the judgment where it is sufficiently referred to and identified.[14]

The judgments of courts to which the proof of wills is confided, while unreversed, are generally held to be as conclusive and binding as those of any other courts, and are not ordinarily subject to collateral attack.[15]

A judgment admitting to probate a will appearing on its face not to have been properly executed is an absolute nullity.[16] No motion to set it aside is necessary, but its invalidity and that of the will may be urged at any time.[17]

(§ 4) H. Appeals.[18]—Parties aggrieved thereby[19] are generally given the will made subsequently to one offered for probate. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

11. Davenport v. Davenport [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 535. Where substantial evidence has been adduced to show the due execution of the will, and that it has been lost, that it was not revoked, and its contents, it is then admissible to prove in corroboration of the other evidence what the testator himself said about it. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103. In proceedings to establish the validity of a will destroyed after testator's death, where the defense was that if such will was executed, it was the result of fraud and forgery, declarations of the testator, inconsistent with the existence of the will and contradicting the story of proponents with regard to its execution, are admissible. Lappe v. Gfeller [Pa.] 60 A. 1049.

12. That two daughters of testatrix divided personalty and subsequently one of them sold the other her interest in the realty, is no defense. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 2102.

14. Failure to incorporate it not cause for reversal, when it was contained in pleadings and otherwise sufficiently identified in the record and referred to in the judgment. Glover v. Coit [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 136.

15. In Kentucky, the judgment of a county court admitting a will cannot be collaterally attacked. Applies to foreign as well as domestic wills. Morrison v. Fletcher [Ky.] 84 S. W. 548.

In Missouri, a will duly probated can be contested only in the manner prescribed by law, and its validity cannot be assailed in a collateral proceeding. Under Rev. St. §§ 4622, 4636. Stevens v. Larwill [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 113.

In Montana, probate is conclusive unless contested within a year, except that infants have a year after removal of disability in which to contest [Code Civ. Proc. § 2366]. Spencer v. Spencer [Mont.] 79 P. 320. Under this statute, in connection with provision making decree of distribution conclusive unless appealed from (Id. § 2844), a successful contest by a minor on becoming of age, after probate and distribution, operates only in his favor, and not in favor of those who have lost the right to contest. Heirs also estopped by acquiescing in distribution. Id.

Nebraska: A suit in the district court to enforce specific performance of a parol agreement to devise land and to quiet title against those claiming under will duly allowed and admitted to probate is not a collateral attack on the judgment of the county court admitting such will. Best v. Gralapp [Neb.] 99 N. W. 837.

In New Jersey, the orphans' court is a court of general jurisdiction in a sense that its judgments are presumed to be regular, and facts necessary to sustain jurisdiction will be presumed, and no evidence admitted to contradict them in any collateral proceeding. In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154.

In New York, decree of surrogate admitting will operates as conclusive adjudication, which can only be avoided by an appeal taken within time allowed by statute, and proceedings under appeal must be confined to establishing rights of party prosecuting it. In re Hynes' Will [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 951. His decree construing the provisions of the will in regard to personalty on petition of an interested party (N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2624), is conclusive as to such construction, when not appealed from or revoked. That testator intended to give widow certain annuity in accordance with provisions of agreement of separation. In re Howard's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 86.

In Texas, judgment of county court admitting will to probate is conclusive, so long as it remains in force, of its correctness and the validity of the will. Glover v. Coit [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 136. Hence purchasers of land from devisees named in will after such judgment are purchasers in good faith. Id.

16. Because attested by only two witnesses. Fortner v. Wiggins, 121 Ga. 26, 48 S. E. 694; Janes v. Dougherty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 954.

17. Fortner v. Wiggins, 121 Ga. 26, 48 S. E. 694; Janes v. Dougherty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 954.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 2102.

19. Any person aggrieved may appeal within three months [Comp. Laws 1897, § 2014]. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53. N. J. Orphans' Court Act 1898, § 204 (P. L. 793). In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154. One is aggrieved whose pecuniary interest is directly affected, or whose right of property may be established or divested by the decree. Id. Statute to be liberally construed. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874.

Persons aggrieved: Persons for whose benefit a trust is created are parties aggrieved by order refusing probate. Validity of trust will not be considered on their right to appeal from orders or judgments of the probate court, or from judgments in actions to contest the validity of the will, the jurisdiction of courts to entertain such appeals depending on the statutes of the various states.[20]

A party is not estopped to appeal from the probate of an alleged former will by failing to appeal from an order refusing to admit a later will where his position in that case was not such as to involve the present issue.[21] An appeal may be dismissed with the consent of the appellant without notice to one who was cited to appear but did not himself appeal.[22]

In general the case is tried de novo.[23]

In some states on appeal from an order allowing probate, the parties are confined to the testimony of the subscribing witnesses on the question of capacity.[24] In others the district court has only such powers and pursues such procedure as would the probate court.[25] In Illinois, where proceedings to set aside appeal. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340. A general legatee or beneficiary has such an interest in the proper disposition of the personalty that he may appeal from any judgment affecting it. May appeal from judgment holding that other legatees are entitled to all the bank stock without showing that such stock will be needed to pay his bequest. Partner v. Citizens' Loan & Trust Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 894. Executor necessary party on appeal in will contest. Whisler v. Whisler, 62 Ind. 139, 70 N. E. 152. By decree admitting will. Legatee under alleged prior will, which has not been presented to county court. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874. Heir at law and next of kin who was not cited and did not know of, or appear in, contest in orphans' court. In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154; In re Myers' Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 259.

20. California: Appeal lies from order refusing probate (Cal. Civ. Code, § 963, subd. 3), and is in time if taken within 60 days after entry of such order. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340.

In Kansas, if probate is refused, an appeal may be had to the district court. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

In Nebraska, in all matters of probate jurisdiction, appeals shall be allowed from any final order, judgment or decree to the district court [Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 4823]. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482. Denial of motion for new trial appealable to supreme court. Not necessary to proceed by writ of error. Id. Proceedings in county court to vacate probate of will held action in equity within meaning of statute allowing appeals to supreme court. Id.

In New Mexico an appeal lies to the district court from any decision of the probate court upon the approval or disapproval of any will [Comp. Laws 1897, § 2014, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 158, c. 81, § 40]. In re Teopfer's Estate [N. M.] 78 P. 53. Appeals are allowed in the same manner and subject to same restrictions as appeals from district to supreme court [Comp. Laws 1897, § 929]. Id.

In South Carolina, the supreme court has jurisdiction to review the finding of the circuit court on appeal from an order of the probate court fixing the fees of an executor's attorney, and determining from what fund they should be paid. Ex parte Landrum [S. C.] 48 S. E. 47.

Vermont: A pro forma decree overruling a demurrer to a bill to construe a will is interlocutory and not appealable. Vt. Acts 1896, Act No. 40 does not make case exceptional. V. S. 1629, in regard to passing exceptions and cause from county court to supreme court before final judgment, not applicable to chancery cases. Taft v. Mossey [Vt.] 59 A. 166.

21. Where due execution of a former will was not in issue, and the parties stipulated that the only issue to be tried was decedent's capacity when he executed the will in contest, and the first will was neither introduced in evidence nor any proof offered of its execution, the fact that contestant did not appeal from an order, admitting the former will after the latter had been held invalid, but before judgment had been entered, did not preclude contestants from appealing from such judgment within the time allowed by law. Stutsman v. Sharpless [Iowa] 101 N. W. 105. A caveatee desiring to appeal from a judgment denying probate need not summon other caveatees who refuse to appeal and obtain a severance from them. Cruit v. Owen, 21 App. D. C. 378.

22. In New Jersey, an appeal to the orphans' court from a decree of the surrogate admitting a will to probate may be dismissed, with the consent of the appellant, without notice to a person who was cited to appear, but did not himself appeal. N. J. Orphans' Court Act, § 202, p. 793 (P. L. 1898) does not make persons cited on appeal joint appellants, and they can only be heard in support of the appeal. In re Hynes' Will [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 951.

23. Appeal deprives county court of jurisdiction and case is tried de novo [Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 4823]. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482. Hence motion for new trial should be made to district court. Id.

24. Does not confer judicial functions on witnesses, and hence not in violation of Const. art. 6, § 1, vesting judicial power in specified courts. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090. Nor does it deprive contesting heirs of their property without due process of law (Const. art. 2, § 2), since proceeding is merely for purpose of establishing capacity prima facie, and does not affect right to contest same on bill filed for that purpose. Id.

25. In Kansas, the district court on appeal from an order refusing to admit the will has only such powers and pursues such the probate of a will are brought up directly from the court of original jurisdiction by appeal or writ of error, the supreme court will, on proper assignment of error, review the facts, and reverse the decree where the verdict is against the manifest weight of the evidence.[26]

A jury trial may be ordered in proper cases.[27]

In Connecticut the superior court may construe the will on appeal from an order of the probate court appointing a testamentary trustee to receive a bequest.[28]

(§ 4) I. Revocation of probate.[29]—A judgment admitting a will to probate may ordinarily be set aside for fraud.[30] The right to have probate set aside may be barred by laches.[31]

(§ 4) J. Suits to contest.[32]—In many states the order admitting a will to probate may be attacked within a specified time in an action brought for that purpose by anyone interested in the estate of the deceased.[33] A bill in chancery for that purpose can be maintained only by virtue of the statute, and not by virtue of any inherent jurisdiction in courts of equity.[34] The act in force at the time the bill is filed and not that in force when the will was admitted to probate governs the time within which such suit must be commenced.[35] The interests of the defendants are joint and inseparable, and the action, if properly commenced as to one, is saved as to all.[36]

The only question to be determined is whether the instrument is or is not the last will and testament of the testator.[37] The validity of the will is presented as a new and original question,[38] and the right to contest is not affected by the fact that procedure as would the probate court. Order of trial and character and burden of proof the same. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537.

26. Scott v. Scott, 212 Ill. 597, 72 N. E. 708.

27. Where, on appeal to the appellate division from a decree of the surrogate's court in a proceeding for the probate of a will, it appears that the disposition to be made of the questions of fact presented by the evidence is not free from doubt, and the result reached in the surrogate's court is not satisfactory, the case will be sent to a trial term for a jury trial. In re Warnock's Will, 92 N. Y. S. 643.

28. The superior court on appeal from an order of appointment by the probate court may authoritatively declare the proper construction and effect of the will. On application to appoint testamentary trustee. Appeal of Beardsley [Conn.] 60 A. 664.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 2103.

30. Unfulfilled promises on part of widow to caveator and others ready to aid in contest, by reason of which contest was withdrawn, not such fraud as to entitle them to have decree of probate set aside. Whether orphans' court has authority to open decree in any event not decided. In re Myers' Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 259.

31. Delay of six years, until after estate had been settled and executor discharged. In re Myers' Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 259.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 2104.

33. Party having no pecuniary interest cannot institute or conduct proceedings. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450. In Kansas may be attacked at any time within two years in district court. Bethany Hospital Co. v. Hale, 69 Kan. 616, 77 P. 537. In Ohio, an action dismissed for want of prosecution may be recommenced within one year. Hunt v. Hunt, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 577. Will be deemed to have been begun on the date of service of summons issued against the first co-defendant served. Id.

34. Only by virtue of § 7 of statute of wills (2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1885 [1st Ed.] p. 2740). Sharp v. Sharp, 213 Ill. 332, 72 N. E. 1058.

35. Is the statute which confers jurisdiction and is not merely a limitation law. Sharp v. Sharp, 213 Ill. 332, 72 N. E. 1058. Laws 1895, p. 327, allowing two years for filing bill, conferred no vested rights on public so as to prevent legislature from totally abolishing remedy, or changing it. Id. Laws 1903, p. 355, limiting time to one year, is retroactive and applies to suits to contest wills probated before its passage. Id. Not unreasonable where applied to case of contestant of will probated in February, 1902, who brought suit in January, 1904. Id.

36. Hunt v. Hunt, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 577.

37. Contest upon an issue of devisavit vel non questions the execution of a will while the attack upon the validity of its provisions concedes its execution, but questions the legality of such provisions. Bowers v. McGavock [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 893. In an action to contest on the sole ground that will was not signed at the end, its construction or interpretation is not open to consideration by the court or jury. Irwin v. Jacques [Ohio] 73 N. E. 683.

38, 39, 40. O'Brien v. Bonfield, 213 Ill. 428, 72 N. E. 1090.

the will has been admitted to probate,[39] or that some or all of the contestants have appeared in the county court and cross-examined the subscribing witnesses.[40]

Both parties are generally entitled to a jury trial on all the issues,[41] though in some states the verdict of the jury on the questions of capacity and undue influence is merely advisory, and the court may dispense with the jury whenever it thinks proper.[42]

The certificate of the oath of the subscribing witnesses at the first probate is admissible in evidence.[43] The usual rules as to procedure apply.[44]

An issue devisavit vel non should be refused where it is entirely clear that no verdict against the will could be sustained.[45] As in other cases, on a motion to withdraw the case from the jury, the duty of the court is limited strictly to determining whether there is or is not evidence legally tending to prove the fact affirmed.[46]

(§ 4) K. Suits to set aside.[47]—In a proceeding to set aside a will admitted to probate, the sole question is whether the writing produced is or is not the will of the testator.[48]

The facts constituting fraud for which it is sought to have the will set aside must be pleaded.[49]

The admission of a memorandum, indorsed on the will by the probate judge, reciting that it was proved and admitted to probate,[50] or of evidence of the enhanced value of the land affected, is reversible error.[51]

(§ 4) L. Costs.[52]—The taxation of costs in will contests is within the discretion of the court.[53] Such discretion is not an arbitrary, but a legal one, to be exercised within the limits of legal and equitable principles.[54]

An executor will be allowed his costs[55] and reasonable counsel fees incurred in defending the will when its validity is contested.[56]

Where there is reasonable ground to believe that a will is valid and legal, the general guardian of testator's minor children, who is also appointed testa-

41. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461.

42. Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754.

43. Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1901, c. 148, § 7. Certificate showing that oath was taken after will was admitted is not admissible. Godfrey v. Phillips, 209 Ill. 584, 71 N. E. 19.

44. Right to open and close held in discretion of court, where both parties introduce evidence [Clark's Code N. C. Rules 3, 6, pp. 952, 953]. In re Peterson, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561.

45. Lack of capacity and undue influence. In re Rockhill's Estate, 208 Pa. 510, 57 A. 989; In re Allison's Estate, 210 Pa. 22, 59 A. 318.

46. Not his province to weigh evidence. Woodman v. Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, 211 Ill. 578, 71 N. E. 1099.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 2105.

48. Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1903, c. 148, § 7. Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908.

49. Story v. Story [Mo.] 86 S. W. 225. If the pleader identifies the fraud by a specification, he must be held to the precise specification pleaded. Id.

50. Where does not show on what evidence admission was based. Weston v. Teufel, 213 Ill. 291, 72 N. E. 908. Error not cured by necessary averment in bill that will had been admitted to probate (Id.), nor by an instruction that the order of the probate court admitting the will should not be considered by the jury (Id.).

51. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 2106.

53. Code Civ. Proc. § 623. In re Clapham's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 61.

54. General costs properly charged against contestant where contest based on meager and indefinite suspicions rather than competent evidence. Fee of guardian ad litem for minor beneficiary not properly included. In re Clapham's Estate [Neb.] 103 N. W. 61.

55. Where offers a will for probate and attempts to show that it has not been revoked is entitled to his costs as executor, expended in good faith to sustain the will. Florre v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133.

56. Where a will is ultimately established, attorneys employed by the executor named therein, to resist a contest instituted before probate, are entitled to fees from the assets of the estate. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 2765, 2766, 2378, construed. Fillinger v. Conley [Ind.] 72 N. E. 597. An executor will be allowed reasonable counsel fees to compensate attorneys employed by him to defend the will when assailed after its admission to probate. Will not be allowed where will never admitted to probate and no letters testamentary were ever issued to defendant. Tilghman v. France, 99 Md. 611, 59 A. 277.

mentary guardian by the will, is justified in incurring necessary expense in resisting a contest thereof, though he does not succeed in establishing its validity.[57]

Petitioners seeking to set aside a will previously probated without contest, on the ground that testator had executed a later will in which they were named as beneficiaries, are properly taxed with the costs, if unsuccessful,[58] nor is one instituting a contest on the ground of want of capacity entitled to an attorney's fee out of the estate, where it appears that he had previously so acted as to in effect recognize testator's capacity.[59]

Costs on appeal from a judgment admitting the will to probate may, in proper cases, be paid out of the estate.[60]

Necessary costs and expenses should ordinarily be paid out of the residuary estate, rather than out of that specifically devised or bequeathed.[61]

(§ 4) M. Recording foreign wills.[62]—Certified copies of wills probated in another state and of the probate thereof may usually be recorded in the same manner as domestic wills, and are thereafter entitled to be admitted in evidence in the same manner and with like effect.[63]

In order that foreign wills may be admissible in evidence, they must be accompanied by a duly certified copy of the judgment of probate.[64]

A will being beyond the jurisdiction of the court, it is proper to prove it and its contents by the deposition of the official having custody of wills.[65]

§ 5. Interpretation and construction.[66]

Scope of this section.—There are numerous rules applicable to interpretation which may be called general. To them the first subsection applies. The four subsections following indicate four general classes of objects to which the terms of a will are addressed.[67]

(§ 5) A. General rules.[68]—The expressed[69] intention of the testator,[70] to

57. In re Brady [Idaho] 79 P. 75.

58. Not payable out of estate. Beebe v. McFaul [Iowa] 101 N. W. 267.

59. Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890.

60. Grounds for review such that costs of appeal should be paid from estate. In re Breining's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 561.

61. Attorney's fees for services to executrices in probating will. Ex parte Landrum [S. C.] 48 S. E. 47.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 2106.

63. B. & C. Comp. § 5562. Montague v. Schieffelin [Or.] 80 P. 654. Where a will executed in Ohio in accordance with the laws of Missouri and recorded in the latter state disposes of land there situate, no partition of such lands can be had contrary to the terms of the will. Express provisions of Rev. St. 1899, § 4383. Stevens v. Larwill [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 113.

64. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 5167, 5237. Otherwise inadmissible, though accompanied by certificate of register of wills reciting that it was duly admitted to probate and record, and by duly certified copies of affidavits of attesting witnesses. Youmans v. Ferguson, [Ga.] 50 S. E. 141.

65. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 2106.

67. These classes may be determined by their responsiveness to four questions: (1) What property was meant? (2) What persons were intended to take? (3) What estate was given? (4) How was it to be administered?

68. See 2 Curr. L. 2106.

69. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417; McGuire v. Gallagher [Me.] 59 A. 445; Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731; Paul v. Philbrick [N. H.] 60 A. 682. To be gathered from language used. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429; Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37; Davis v. People, 111 Ill. App. 207; Partner v. Citizens' Loan & Trust Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 894; Matlock v. Lock [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 171; Brisbin v. Huntington [Iowa] 103 N. W. 144; George v. George [Mass.] 71 N. E. 85; Crapo v. Pierce, 187 Mass. 141, 72 N. E. 935; Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 101 N. W. 497; McCullough v. Lauman [Wash.] 80 P. 441. Must be ascertained from will and not from testator's oral declarations. In re Holt's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 585. The construction must be derived from the instrument itself. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Expressed in his will or clearly deducible therefrom. Howard v. Evans, 24 App. D. C. 127. From context and, in certain cases, attendant circumstances. Mollenkamp v. Farr [Kan.] 79 P. 646. To be gathered from instrument itself without consulting canons of interpretation, if possible. Brookhouse v. Pray, 92 Minn. 448, 100 N. W. 235. The test must be, has testator effectuated his obvious intent in language expressive thereof? Thomas v. Thomas, 43 Misc. 541, 89 N. Y. S. 495. Not an intention independent of that the testator tried to express. Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. The intent as evidenced by the language. Corrin v. Elliott, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 449.

be ascertained from the whole will,[71] must govern when not in conflict with any settled rule of law or property.[72]

It is the duty of the court to construe the will which the testator has made,

70. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942; Kidwell v. Ketler [Cal.] 79 P. 514; Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694; Hill v. Terrell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 81; Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450; Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751; Gruenewald v. Neu [Ill.] 74 N. E. 101; Partner v. Citizens' Loan & Trust Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 894; Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482; Mollenkamp v. Farr [Kan.] 79 P. 646; Gerting v. Wells [Md.] 59 A. 177; Crapo v. Pierce, 187 Mass. 141, 72 N. E. 935; Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586; Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158; Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023; McManus v. McManus, 179 N. Y. 338, 72 N. E. 235; In re Ryder, 43 Misc. 476, 89 N. Y. S. 460; Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828; Ketchum v. Ketchum, 91 N. Y. S. 801; In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394; Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633; Kerr v. Girdwood [N. C.] 50 S. E. 862; Allen v. Tressenrider [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1015; Mulliken v. Earnshaw, 209 Pa. 226, 58 A. 286; Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999; Logan v. Cassidy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 794; Wiess v. Goodhue [Tex.] 83 S. W. 178; Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966; Russell v. United States Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 758. As to meaning of "issue." Brisbin v. Huntington [Iowa] 103 N. W. 144. Same rule applies in England. McCurdy v. McCallum, 186 Mass. 464, 72 N. E. 75. Unless so uncertain that law is fairly baffled. Cook v. Universalist General Convention [Mich.] 101 N. W. 217. All courts and others concerned in execution of last wills required to have due regard to directions of will, and the testator's true intent and meaning in all matters brought before them [Mo. Rev. St. 1845, p. 1086, § 51; Rev. St. 1899, § 4650]. Yocum v. Parker, 130 F. 722, afd. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205. The intention of the testator is the cardinal rule of construction. Missouri Baptist Sanitarium v. McCune [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 93. Primary object to ascertain intent. Lamar v. Harris, 121 Ga. 285, 48 S. E. 932. The object of construction is to arrive at testator's intention. Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450; Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937; Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609. The primary duty is to ascertain and carry into effect testator's intention, and it will prevail notwithstanding unskillful and inaccurate phraseology. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90; In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. And though apt legal words not used. Kerr v. Girdwood [N. C.] 50 S. E. 852.

71. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942; Hill v. Terrell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 81; Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049; Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450; Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751; Gruenewald v. Neu [Ill.] 74 N. E. 101; Snodgrass v. Brandenburg [Ind.] 71 N. E. 137; Partner v. Citizens' Loan & Trust Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 894; Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609, rehearing denied 74 N. E. 12; McGuire v. Gallagher [Me.] 59 A. 445; Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586; Brookhouse v. Pray, 92 Minn. 448, 100 N. W. 235; Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 101 N. W. 497; Dozier v. Dozier, 183 Mo. 137, 81 S. W. 890; Mueller v. Buenger [Mo.] 83 S. W. 458; Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158; Torrey v. Torrey, 70 N. J. Law, 672, 59 A. 450; Inglis v. McCook [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 630; Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239; Langley v. Westchester Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 44; In re Ryder, 43 Misc. 476, 89 N. Y. S. 460; Thomas v. Thomas, 43 Misc. 541, 89 N. Y. S. 495; Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828; Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 34, 90 N. Y. S. 848; Ketchum v. Ketchum, 91 N. Y. S. 801; Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999; Brown v. Hawkins [R. I.] 59 A. 78; Logan v. Cassidy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 794; Wiess v. Goodhue [Tex.] 83 S. W. 178; Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966; McCullough v. Lauman [Wash.] 80 P. 441.

To be gathered from four corners. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429; Snodgrass v. Brandenburg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1030; Gerting v. Wells [Md.] 59 A. 177; Thompson v. Thompson [Ky.] 87 S. W. 790; In re Dickinson's Estate, 209 Pa. 59, 58 A. 120. To be gathered from general purport and scope of instrument. Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694; Russell v. United States Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 758. Whether words constitute common-law conditions, or regulations for the management of the estate. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412. Must construe all the provisions of the will. Wilder v. Wilder [Ky.] 86 S. W. 557. All clauses to be considered and given effect if possible, unless such a construction becomes inconsistent with manifest purpose. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300. Language used in one part which, if read by itself, would justify the finding of a particular intent, may be so modified by language in other parts as not to permit the inference of such intent. Dean v. Nutley, 70 N. J. Law, 217, 57 A. 1089. In same manner as contract. Mulliken v. Earnshaw, 209 Pa. 226, 58 A. 286. Every sentence and word must be considered. Fletcher v. Hoblitzell, 209 Pa. 337, 58 A. 672.

72. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482; McGuire v. Gallagher [Me.] 59 A. 445; Gerting v. Wells [Md.] 59 A. 177. Except where certain forms of expression have become rules of property. Mulliken v. Earnshaw, 209 Pa. 226, 58 A. 286. Rule of law or construction. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731. Intention cannot control where violates law. Matlock v. Lock [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 171; Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; rehearing denied 74 N. E. 12; Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450. For example, a rule of law whereby some fixed and definite meaning is given to words which he uses. Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633. Rule against perpetuities. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37. Testator must effectuate intent within the rules of law. Snodgrass v. Brandenburg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1030.

and not to speculate as to his intention, or to make a will for him.[73] Hence, there is no room for construction where the intent clearly appears from the four corners of the will itself.[74]

Testator's motives cannot be investigated,[75] nor can the reasonableness of the will be criticised, if no provision of law or morality is violated.[76] Decisions upon other wills may assist, but cannot control, the construction.[77]

Effect should, if possible, be given to every provision of the will,[78] and every effort be made to reconcile clauses which are apparently repugnant and conflicting.[79]

All the pertinent statutes of the state enter into, qualify, and fix the character of the estate which the devisee of lands takes under the will.[80] The Federal courts will follow the decisions of the highest court of a state in interpreting local statutes concerning construction.[81]

The language used should be fairly and reasonably construed.[82] Words will be given their natural and ordinary meaning in the absence of anything to show a contrary intention,[83] having regard to the legal skill of the draughtsman,[84] but

73. Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Buffum [Mass.] 71 N. E. 549. All rules of construction yield to the actual intention when that is reasonably clear to the mind of the court. Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239; In re Shedden's Estate, 210 Pa. 82, 59 A. 486.

74. Broadbridge v. Sackett [Mich.] 101 N. W. 525. Where the language is clear and explicit, it must prevail. Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs [R. I.] 59 A. 740; Todd v. Tarbell [Mass.] 73 N. E. 556.

75, 76. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90.

77. Mulliken v. Earnshaw, 209 Pa. 226, 58 A. 286. Little assistance, if any, derived from consideration of adjudged cases. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. The citation of authorities is in most cases of little value. Russell v. United States Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 758. Court not bound to adhere to precedent. McCaffrey v. Manogue, 25 S. Ct. 319.

78. Howard v. Evans, 24 App. D. C. 127; Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751; Primm v. Primm, 111 Ill. App. 244; McGuire v. Gallagher [Me.] 59 A. 445; Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300; Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703; Ketchum v. Ketchum, 91 N. Y. S. 801; Parks v. Robinson [N. C.] 50 S. E. 649; Kerr v. Girdwood [N. C.] 50 S. E. 852. Each and every clause, sentence, and word to be given effect if possible. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. To avoid conflicts between its several parts so that entire paper may be dealt with as harmonious and consistent whole. Gerting v. Wells [Md.] 59 A. 177. Devise to grandson held vested, since if contingent, devise over to residuary legatees in case of his death unnecessary. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999.

79. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051. One will be rejected only as last resort. Direction to purchase 80 acres for son out of rents of farm on certain contingency, and in case it does not happen then son to take 80 acres owned by testator, not repugnant to previous devise of all testator's property. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. Repugnancy should be avoided if the will is susceptible of any other reasonable construction. Williams v. Boul, 101 App. Div. 593, 92 N. Y. S. 177; Logan v. Cassidy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 794.

80. Resort should not be had to one part of statute to exclusion of another having direct bearing upon question, but should be harmonized if possible. Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205. Statutes with reference to administration. McCullough v. Lauman [Wash.] 80 P. 441.

81. Where conflict, will follow latest, when no intervening contract rights involved. Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205.

82. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90. "I want her to have an equal share with my brothers and sisters" constitutes the brothers and sisters legatees. Id.

83. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482; Brown v. Ferren [N. H.] 58 A. 870. Common and ordinary sense. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; Id., 74 N. E. 12. Plain and usual sense. Missouri Baptist Sanitarium v. McCune [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 93. Ordinary, popular meaning. Paul v. Philbrick [N. H.] 60 A. 632. Ordinary and legal meaning. "Residue." In re Bradley's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 393. Word "also" held to mean "in addition," "besides," etc. Hill v. Terrell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 81. Will written in German construed and held to direct payment of the residue to "those who shall have paid" for the maintenance of the testator and his insane daughter rather than to "she who has" furnished such maintenance. Lehnhoff v. Theine [Mo.] 83 S. W. 469. Presumed that testator used word "estate" in its broad and inclusive signification so as to include realty, unless context requires different meaning. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597.

84. A will written by an unlearned person should receive the interpretation which unlearned persons would be presumed to have intended, unless some rule of law requires a different construction. In re Priester's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 386. Where the will is not drawn by a lawyer, words will be given their popular rather than their technical meaning. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051.

words which have acquired a definite legal meaning, and have, by construction, become a rule of property, must be regarded as having been used in their technical sense.[85] "Or" may be construed to mean "and," and vice versa, if necessary to effectuate the intention.[86] The language will be subordinated to the intention apparent from the whole will.[87]

Words, sentences, and clauses may be transposed, rejected, or supplied if necessary,[88] but no word or clause is to be rejected to which a reasonable effect can be given,[89] nor can missing words be supplied unless the words used show by necessary implication what they are,[90] and it appears from all the competent evidence that it is more probable than otherwise that testator's intention would thereby be more clearly or fully expressed.[91] The rule does not authorize the making of a new will or scheme of distribution,[92] or the reformation of a will by making additions thereto.[93] Punctuation should be resorted to as a means of interpretation only when all other means fail.[94] Equity will not undertake to rectify a mistake in a will.[95]

The will and codicils should be read together.[96]

A scilicet may particularize what before was general, or distribute what was in gross, or explain what was uncertain, but it must not be inconsistent with the premises.[97]

A construction which will render the will valid will be adopted in preference to one rendering it void[98] or meaningless.[99]

85. Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703.

86. Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751. Held to be within the power of, and to be the duty of, the court to change the word "or" to "and." Davie v. Davie, 26 Ky. L. R. 312, 81 S. W. 246; Shropshire v. Gault, 26 Ky. L. R. 1197, 83 S. W. 590.

87. Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828. Where the idea is clear, the words employed must be read so as to give effect to the intention. Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158.

88. Words, sentences, and clauses may be transposed if necessary to arrive at testator's intention, and to harmonize and give effect to all its provisions. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300. Words may be transposed, rejected, or supplied. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90. Omitted words may be supplied in order to effectuate the intention as gathered from the context of the will. Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751. Where ambiguity or inconsistency arising on the face of the will is plainly ascribable to the omission of a word. Provision giving executor one year "after my decease" to sell land, held to mean one year "after my wife's decease." Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049.

89. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; Id., 74 N. E. 12. Words cannot be ignored. Paul v. Philbrick [N. H.] 60 A. 682.

90. Where will gave son $100 and provided that net income of balance should be paid to daughter for life, but made no disposition of corpus of fund, court cannot supply words giving it to daughter. Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Buffum [Mass.] 71 N. E. 549.

91. Paul v. Philbrick [N. H.] 60 A. 682.

92. Merely authorizes discovery and effectuation of intent. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90. Where, on death of wife, property was to go to son, if living, and if not, wife was given power of appointment, court will not supply words "without issue" in second gift over. Todd v. Tarbell [Mass.] 73 N. E. 556.

93. To add grandchild as beneficiary under gift to children. Crawley v. Kendrick [Ga.] 50 S. E. 41.

94. Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239.

95. Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751.

96. Miller v. Metcalf [Conn.] 58 A. 743; Sperry v. Sperry [Iowa] 102 N. W. 491; Ladies' Union Benev. Soc. v. Van Netta, 43 Misc. 217, 88 N. Y. S. 413. As to power of trustees to convey realty. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058. As to payment of brother's indebtedness. Brown v. Ferren [N. H.] 58 A. 870. Codicils are treated as parts of the will. Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586.

97. Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158, quoting from Stuckley v. Butler, Hobart's Reports, 168. Testator bequeathed his estate to brother in trust for his wife for life, remainder to children in fee, but if the wife should remarry, her life estate should cease and she should take a share equal to a child's share. By a codicil, testator bequeathed to a sister a portion equal to a share of the trustee's wife and children, "that is to say, should the wife of the trustee take a child's part then the sister" should take a child's part, held that the scilicet was only effective to define the sister's share, so that she took a child's share of the estate. Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158.

98. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37; Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218; Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828. Estate construed as fee to prevent violation of rule against perpetuities. Mee v. Gordon,

That construction will prevail which will support testator's main intention,[1] minor parts of the testamentatory plan being subordinated thereto.[2] General provisions must give way to specific ones.[3]

The law favors equality among children,[4] and doubts in construction are to be resolved in favor of a widow accepting the provisions of the will in lieu of her rights under the intestate laws.[5] There is a presumption that the testator did not intend to disinherit the heir,[6] and that result can be accomplished only by express words or necessary implication.[7] In case of doubt or ambiguity, the general rules of inheritance will be adhered to as closely as possible.[8] Charitable donations are also favored, and will be carried into effect if possible.[9]

When the testator interprets a particular clause in his will, the courts, when called to consider it, will follow that interpretation.[10] A construction acquiesced in by the parties in interest for many years will not be disturbed unless clearly shown to be erroneous.[11]

As to time.[12]—The construction of a will is to be determined from its language as of the time when it takes effect.[13] The intention to be determined is that existing at the time of the execution of the will, and it cannot be varied or changed by any after occurring events.[14]

Extrinsic evidence[15] is not admissible to supply or contradict, enlarge or vary, the words of the will, or to explain the testator's intention,[16] except where 93 N. Y. S. 675, rvg. Id., 45 Misc. 259, 92 N. Y. S. 159.

99. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9.

1. Watson v. Smith, 210 Pa. 190, 59 A. 988.

2. Mead v. Coolidge, 179 N. Y. 386, 72 N. E. 314.

3. Specific devise will be regarded as excepted from preceding general one. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. A reasonably clear general intent will rarely be defeated by an inaccuracy or inconsistency in the expression of a particular intent. Appeal of Beardsley [Conn.] 60 A. 664.

4. In re Vance's Estate, 209 Pa. 561, 58 A. 1063. Where will shows intention to treat all alike, construction which would defeat equality will be rejected, if possible. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731.

5. In re McCallum's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 903.

6. McCaffrey v. Manogue, 25 S. Ct. 319. Deserves weight only in so far as it accords with natural impulse to provide for family and kindred. Torrey v. Torrey, 70 N. J. Law, 672, 59 A. 450.

7. Law will execute intention to do so only when it is put in clear and unambiguous shape. McCaffrey v. Manogue, 25 S. Ct. 319; Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. Not by conjecture (Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751), or implication or construction (In re Union Trust Co., 179 N. Y. 261, 72 N. E. 107). Law presumes intention to favor only son, who was made principal object of testator's bounty, and construction will be made in light of such intention. Watson v. Smith, 210 Pa. 190, 59 A. 988.

8. In re Miller's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 443. Construction will be adopted which will cast the property as the law would have cast it had no will been made. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; Id., 74 N. E. 12.

9. In re Merchant's Estate, 143 Cal. 537, 77 P. 475.

10. Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158.

11. A construction of provisions creating a trust acquiesced in for 35 years, in the absence of a showing of a clear abuse of the trust, or a clear misappropriation or misdirection of its funds. Kidwell v. Ketler [Cal.] 79 P. 514.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 2109.

13. Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633.

14. McManus v. McManus, 179 N. Y. 338, 72 N. E. 235.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 2112, n. 72.

16. However clearly it may indicate testator's intention. Question not what he meant to say, but what he meant by what he actually did say. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Letter not admissible to show purposes of trust. Id. Not to prove a devise or bequest not contained in the will. Id.

Parol evidence inadmissible: Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546: To show that he meant one thing when he said another. Oliver v. Henderson, 121 Ga. 836, 49 S. E. 743. To superadd a qualification to the terms used and import into a will an intention not there expressed. Cannot be shown that property was devised in trust because of the beneficiary's incapacity and that since the disability is removed, he is entitled to the possession and management of the property. Carpenter v. Carpenter's Trustee [Ky.] 84 S. W. 737. Declarations of testator (George v. George [Mass.] 71 N. E. 85), made prior to (Cochran v. Lee's Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 337), or after the execution of the will as to his intentions with respect to his property (Lehnhoff v. Theine [Mo.] 83 S. W. 469). Subsequent declarations to show that intended to include stepdaughter of brother in gift to "my nieces." If admissible at all, only for purpose of showing that he so treated her. In re Hoit's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 585.

there is a latent ambiguity arising dehors the will as to the person or subject meant to be described,[17] nor to rebut a trust in favor of residuary legatees resulting from the failure of an express trust contained in the will.[18] The court may put itself in the place of the testator at the time he executed the will,[19] and to that end may take into consideration all the circumstances and conditions existing when it was drawn,[20] and his manifest purpose,[21] particularly where doubts or ambigui-

17. When extrinsic facts appear in applying the will to objects or subjects therein referred to which produce latent ambiguity, as where it appears that testator attempted to dispose of property not subject of such disposition. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546. Extrinsic evidence is admissible to make clear the doubtful meaning of the language used. Where testator bequeathed sum in trust for purposes stated in sealed letter, which was not sufficiently incorporated in will to become part of it, failure of will to state purposes of trust not such a latent ambiguity as to justify admission of letter. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266.

Evidence held admissible: Declarations tending to show that relation of debtor and creditor existed between himself and his wife, and that he expected certain beneficiaries to pay the debt, it being a question of fact as to what he had actually done in the way of making provision for her in lieu of her interest in the property devised by him. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546. To apply the provisions to the subject or person intended when the description is uncertain or defective. Where there were no relatives answering description of "William Wilson's children," it may be shown that Seth Wilson's children were intended, testator having a brother-in-law of the latter name who had a brother named William, and it appeared that testator often confused William and Seth. In re Miller's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 443. Where will designated named devisee as testator's half-brother, but he had no half-brother, to show that brother-in-law of same name was intended. Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754. Evidence as to the name by which testator called his land. Fact that he habitually spoke of tract as "Wortendyke Farm." Ackerman v. Crouter [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 574. To identify legatee to whom gift was made in trust for mission work (Cook v. Universalist General Convention [Mich.] 101 N. W. 217), when correct corporate name not used (Bowman v. Domestic & Foreign M. Soc., 90 N. Y. S. 898), but not if no name or description at all (Id.). Letter not admissible where beneficiary not named in will, and it appears from language of will that it was intention that should only be named in letter. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Both latent and patent ambiguities [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3325]. Oliver v. Henderson, 121 Ga. 836, 49 S. E. 743. There must be some general description other than the false one, sufficient to identify the property intended to pass. Where will described property as "lot of land (78)" in a certain district, and testator did not own lot 78, but did own lot 68 in said district, petition alleging these facts and praying that averments as to intention might be shown by parol, held properly dismissed on demurrer, where it was not alleged that testator did not own any other lands in such district. Oliver v. Henderson, 121 Ga. 836, 49 S. E. 743.

18. Letter explaining purposes of trust. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. See, also, on this question, Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546; Russell v. Jones [C. C. A.] 135 F. 929.

19. Ackerman v. Crouter [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 574; Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586. Then examine surroundings to arrive at intention. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482; Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546. Should read the will in the lights that appeared to him. Dozier v. Dozier, 183 Mo. 137, 81 S. W. 890.

20. "In the event of the death of each of said children," then the property to go to brother, held, under circumstances, to refer to death before they reached 21. Woolverton v. Johnson, 69 Kan. 708, 77 P. 559. Each will must be construed in the light of the surrounding circumstances, the scheme disclosed, the language employed, and the intention of the testator, gathered from the general situation. Russell v. United States Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 758. Primarily the language of the will is the basis of the inquiry, but extrinsic circumstances which aid in the interpretation of the language used and help to disclose the actual intention may also be considered. Fact that testator knew he did not have sufficient personalty in excess of certain trust accounts, as tending to show intent to charge legacies, etc., on land. McManus v. McManus, 179 N. Y. 338, 72 N. E. 235. The relation and condition of the parties, and all the surrounding facts and circumstances. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394. The intention must be gathered from the four corners of the will in the light of the circumstances under which it was written. Mueller v. Buenger [Mo.] 83 S. W. 458. Testator's surroundings. Torrey v. Torrey, 70 N. J. Law, 672, 59 A. 450; Paul v. Philbrick [N. H.] 60 A. 682; Russell v. United States Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 758. Circumstances existing when it was made. Crapo v. Pierce, 187 Mass. 141, 72 N. E. 935; George v. George [Mass.] 71 N. E. 85. May look to the extent of the property devised. Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751. Testator's environment, his condition in life, and the nature, extent, and condition of his property. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. The condition of his family. Parks v. Robinson [N. C.] 50 S. E. 649.

21. Gift to wife of "all this world's goods of which I may be possessed," held to include realty. Torrey v. Torrey, 70 N. J. Law, 672, 59 A. 450. General scheme should be considered. Appeal of Beardsley [Conn.] 60 A. 664. Evident general purpose. McCullough v. Lauman [Wash.] 80 P. 441.

ties arise from the will itself.[22] Resort will not, however, be had to extraneous circumstances, if the language used plainly indicates testator's intention.[23] Hence evidence to show the circumstances surrounding him at that time is proper.[24]

(§ 5) B. Of terms designating property or funds.[25]—Being subject to fair and untechnical construction, words will carry any property which in common use they import, restricted only by the intent,[26] even though technically they might apply only to one class of property or to a specific thing,[27] or though that which is given as realty is in fact personalty or vice versa.

22. In case of uncertainty arising on the face of the will, as to the application of any of its provisions, the intention is to be ascertained from the words of the will, taking into consideration the circumstances under which it was made, exclusive of testator's oral declarations [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1318]. In re Smith's Estate, 145 Cal. 118, 78 P. 369. Must be gathered from the terms of the will itself, unless the inconsistencies and ambiguities in the language used make it doubtful, when the situation of the testator, the objects of his bounty, and all surrounding circumstances, may be considered. Missouri Baptist Sanitarium v. McCune [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 93. Should consider surroundings and amount of estate. Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586. Where ambiguous, the situation of testator, objects of his bounty, and all the surrounding circumstances. Missouri Baptist Sanitarium v. McCune [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 93. When difficulties or ambiguities arise from the will itself, it may be read in connection with the situation of testator's property, and the persons taking. Whether legacy in lieu of dower has priority over devises of realty. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296.

23. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90. Doubt, suggested by extrinsic evidence of the testator's circumstances at the time he executed the will, cannot affect the construction. Where terms are clear, it interprets itself. In re Alishouse's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 146.

24. Declarations of testator tending to show that relation of debtor and creditor existed between himself and his wife, and that he expected certain beneficiaries to pay the debt. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546. To show true intention when it is obscure and uncertain. Letter written by testator to residuary legatees three days before executing codicil, held admissible for purpose of showing intention in executing it. Ladies' Union Benev. Soc. v. Van Netta, 43 Misc. 217, 88 N. Y. S. 413. Agreement by him to leave his property to one on condition that he leave his home and live with him and take charge of his property, which he did, may be considered. George v. George [Mass.] 71 N. E. 85. A declaration of the testator as to the diminution of his property owing to his illness is admissible to show the surrounding circumstances bearing on the construction of the will. Under Rev. Laws, c. 175, § 66. George v. George [Mass.] 71 N. E. 85.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 2113.

26. Where there is a general devise of property in one part of the will and a specific devise in another, the latter will be regarded as excepted out of general devise. Direction to wife to purchase tract of land for son out of rents and profits of land devised to her for life in certain contingency, and if that does not arise, then such tract to be taken from property given under general devise. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429.

Where particular chattels are described, the word "effects" coupled with them will be restricted to property ejusdem generis with that specifically mentioned. All my "household furniture and effects" held not to include residuary personalty. Gallagher v. McKeague [Wis.] 103 N. W. 233.

A direction to executors to purchase land and convey it to a devisee is valid where it is possible to ascertain from the will the description of the land directed to be purchased, or the amount directed to be devoted to the purchase. Where will directed purchase of 80 acres for son out of proceeds of farm after it had been fully paid for, and directed, in case wife died before that time, that he was to have specified 80 acres from farm, held, that it was duty of executrix to purchase tract of same value as that specifically described. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429.

Illustrations: Beginning point of boundary of land devised, determined. Thompson v. Thompson [Ky.] 87 S. W. 790. Will held to cover both realty and personalty. May v. Brewster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 546. A devise of all of the remainder of testator's property, personal or real, of all kinds and description, is sufficient to include all lands owned by the testator at the time of his death without describing them. Hymer v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 722. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3865, providing that when the person entitled to rent dies before it becomes due, in the absence of testamentary disposition it shall be apportioned between the deceased's personal representatives and the person succeeding to the land, notes given the testator for rent, and not due at the time of his death, passed to his widow under his will, giving her all his personal estate. Penn's Ex'r. v. Penn's Ex'r. [Ky.] 87 S. W. 306.

The sum bequeathed will not be regarded as qualified or limited by the words "not exceeding." Colbert v. Speer, 24 App. D. C. 187. Bequests of "$500 of bank stock" and "$500 in bank stock" are bequests of that amount in stock estimated at its par value. Partner v. Citizens' Loan & Trust Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 894. Contingent interest held to include "family home," together with two stores devised for purpose of maintaining it while in possession of first takers. Morton's Guardian v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1188. Devise to wife of "house and land appurtenant thereto," held to include strip not within subsequent erroneous description by metes

All which is incident to a thing goes with it.[28] Since the will speaks as of testator's death, the properties then subject to his disposal are meant,[29] including powers,[30] such as fall within the terms of ownership which he used.[31] After-acquired properties are ordinarily included.[32] and bounds. Millerick v. Plunkett, 187 Mass. 97, 72 N. E. 354. Gift to wife of "all this world's goods of which I may be possessed," held to include realty. Torrey v. Torrey, 70 N. J. Law, 672, 59 A. 450. Devise of "the farm I own at Wortendyke, and known as the David D. A. Wortendyke farm," held to cover three tracts formerly owned by said Wortendyke and used by him together, and later acquired by testator. Part of it not severed by lease. Ackerman v. Crouter [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 574. Presumed that used word "estate" in its broad and inclusive signification so as to include realty, unless context requires different meaning. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597.

27. The word "devise" is usually employed to denote a gift by will of real estate or of some interest therein. Rickman v. Meier, 213 Ill. 507, 72 N. E. 1121. The word "bequeath" may include a gift of realty. "Give and bequeath" in residuary clause held to pass realty. Id. The word "give" is applicable to both realty and personalty. Id.

A positive direction to sell realty ordinarily converts it into personalty, and the proceeds merge with the other personalty for the purposes of the will, if so required. In re Shedden's Estate, 210 Pa. 82, 59 A. 486; Duckworth v. Jordon [N. C.] 51 S. E. 109; Primm v. Primm, 111 Ill. App. 244.

But such technical conversion arises only in furtherance of testator's intent, and not to defeat it: Testatrix divided personalty equally between two legatees. She then directed realty to be sold, and after payment of two legacies, disposed of half of proceeds, but made no disposition of balance. Held, that intent was to keep two funds separate, and hence balance of proceeds of realty descended as intestate property. In re Shedden's Estate, 210 Pa. 82, 59 A. 486. The question is entirely one of intention, to be derived from the whole will [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1338]. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825. Beneficiaries take no interest in land. Id. Will held to show intention that conversion should take place. Id. Conversion not prevented by fact that testator used word "desire" instead of "direct" when authorizing sale. "Desire" is mere request when directed to devisee, but is mandatory when addressed to executor. Id. Allowance should be treated as bequest where testator intends it to be delivered in form of money, though property consists almost entirely of realty. McCullough v. Lauman [Wash.] 80 P. 441. Will be construed as will of personalty, and technical rules relating to devises of realty do not apply. Talbot v. Snodgrass, 124 Iowa, 681, 100 N. W. 500. Conversion takes place, though sale is not immediate or though time of sale is discretionary. As where sale is absolute necessity to carry out terms of will. In re Severns' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 492. Conversion where direction to sell and divide proceeds among daughters whenever executrix deemed best. Id.

Bequests of the proceeds are regarded as bequests of personalty rather than as devises of realty: Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049. Beneficiaries take as legatees rather than as devisees. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020. Where land is sold under power to pay legacies, any undisposed of surplus descends to heirs as realty and not to next of kin. In re Weinstein's Estate, 43 Misc. 577, 89 N. Y. S. 535.

The death of one of the legatees before the testator does not prevent the conversion. Passes as intestate personalty, in absence of contrary intention. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049. Neither does the transfer of by a legatee of his interest to the executor. Id.

Time of conversion: Such conversion will be deemed to have been effectuated at the time of testator's death, though the sale is postponed until after the death of a life tenant. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049. Conversion takes place at death where direction is imperative. Direction held imperative. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300. Will held to show intention that realty should be converted into money after death of widow, and hence equitable conversion took place at testator's death, and children had no interest in it as realty and no power to sell, convey, mortgage or devise same. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482. Where will was made less than month before death, and realty largely exceeds personalty, and latter insufficient to pay pecuniary legacies, will be presumed that testatrix knew that fact, and that realty would have to be sold. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300. Proceeds of sale to be personalty from time of testator's death (Cal. Civ. Code, § 1338), where time when it is to be made not specified. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020. When time of sale is postponed until happening of some future event, or until some fixed date, conversion is likewise postponed. Postponed until death of widow. Id.

See, also, Conversion in Equity, 3 Curr. L. 876.

28. Where testator for more than 30 years maintained passageway across land for access to his house, devisee took it subject to easement for that purpose. Winne v. Winne, 95 App. Div. 48, 88 N. Y. S. 625. A bequest of the proceeds of a sale of stock is not a bequest of the stock itself, and does not carry with it dividends which belong to the corpus of the estate. Missouri Baptist Sanitarium of St. Louis v. McCune [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 93.

29. Wills should be construed as speaking at the date of the testator's death. Penn's Ex'r v. Penn's Ex'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 306. Any article of personalty which he owns at that time, answering the description of an article bequeathed, passes under the bequest, though not identical with the one owned when the will was made. Bequest of "my diamond brooch" carries one afterwards acquired, the one originally owned having been disposed of. Waldo v. Hayes, 96 App. Div. 454, 89 N. Y. S. 69.

30. A disposition of the subject-matter of a power, made in express execution thereof,

(§ 5) C. Of terms designating or describing persons or purposes.[33]—In ascertaining what takers were meant, the particular intent also governs technical and precise meanings,[34] and so where a purpose charitable or otherwise is fastened on a gift,[35] provided in every case that certainty must by some rule be ascribable.[36] A mere misnomer or variation is not an uncertainty.[37] Words like will be restricted so as not to affect the donee's individual estate, in the absence of anything showing a contrary intention. Heinemann v. De Wolf, 25 R. I. 243, 55 A. 707. Provision "for the purpose of executing the power vested in me," I give the estate which I am authorized by said will to appoint, held to show intent to exercise a power granted testatrix by her father's will only, and not to pass her interest in the share of a deceased sister in her father's estate. Id.

31. Under devise to wife of all property, "including my interest in" a specified form, during widowhood, and until youngest child became of age, when it was to be divided equally between wife and children, share and share alike, wife held not to take a specific bequest of partnership interest to be held by her in specie. Stehn v. Hayssen [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1074. A devise of property of which testator died seized and possessed does not dispose of an insurance fund paid to the estate on property which does not belong to it, but which was insured after testator's death under a belief that it did. Such fund passes as intestate property. Bloom v. Strauss [Ark.] 84 S. W. 511.

32. Under residuary clause. Rickman v. Meier, 213 Ill. 507, 72 N. E. 1121. A will disposing of all the testator's property applies to after-acquired property. Applies where held mortgage on property when will was made, and subsequently acquired fee by purchasing equity of redemption. Lee v. Scott, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 369. Gift of residue of all "I shall possess at my death," held to pass after-acquired property. Mueller v. Buenger [Mo.] 83 S. W. 458. After-acquired property held not to pass to particular devisee, but to a residuary legatee and the remaindermen there mentioned. Id.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 2115.

34. A gift to a named legatee in a certain character is not defeated by the fact that legatee does not fill the character. Gift "to my wife M.," not defeated by her subsequent divorce. In re Jones' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 915. Provision that in case of death of daughter without issue her share should go to such persons as would receive same had testator died "unmarried" and intestate, held to mean not married at testator's death, and never having been married, and property goes to his descendants rather than collateral relatives. In re Union Trust Co., 179 N. Y. 261, 72 N. E. 107. Where testatrix, knowing that son was engaged to M. and that marriage had not taken place, devised to her "daughter M., wife" of her son J., for life, with remainder to their children, and marriage had not taken place at time of her death, devise failed for want of person in being answering description. Words used were for purpose of describing character or capacity in which devisee was to take. Steen v. Steen [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 675. Gift to named devisee as testator's half-brother held intended for his brother-in-law of same name, he having no half-brother. Rathjens v. Merrill [Wash.] 80 P. 754. Heirs held to mean those of testator and not those of life tenant. Abel's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 531.

35. Bequest in trust for Oakland Red Cross society in California to be used to equip hospital, if there was one used in connection therewith, and to be used for the benefit of soldiers coming from the Pacific coast, held to indicate an intention that entire residue might be used to equip such hospital. In re Merchant's Estate, 143 Cal. 537, 77 P. 475. Bequest held not for benefit of persons composing society at testatrix's death, but for that of society in its organized capacity, and through it for charitable objects for which it was formed. Id.

36. Devises and bequests to unincorporated societies are valid, though no trustees are named and no specific purpose mentioned to which the funds are to be applied, where the testator has made the objects of his bounty sufficiently plain so that the court may enforce the application of the funds as he intended. Individuals composing societies take in trust. Snider v. Snider [S. C.] 50 S. E. 504. The burden is on those claiming that such organizations do not exist, or that their charitable purposes are too vague and uncertain to enable the court to control the administration of the trust imposed in their members, to prove those facts. Id. All that law requires is that beneficiary be so named and described as to be capable of identification. Trustee need not be named if clearly implied. Cook v. Universalist General Convention [Mich.] 101 N. W. 217. Corporation legatee need not be designated by correct name. Bowman v. Domestic & Foreign Missionary Soc., 90 N. Y. S. 898. Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church held intended as legatee under bequest to "Indian missions and domestic missions of the United States." Id. Bequest to "Universalist Japan Mission Fund" for support of "Universalist Mission in Japan" held to belong to Universalist General Convention, it appearing that it alone had Universalist mission in Japan. Cook v. Universalist General Convention [Mich.] 101 N. W. 217.

Bequests held valid: To "Furman University," at a time between the expiration of its charter and its renewal, to "Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Kentucky," and the "Foreign Mission Board, now at Richmond, Virginia." Snider v. Snider [S. C.] 50 S. E. 504. To be used and held as an endowment for the prosecution of research in colonial history. Colbert v. Speer, 24 App. D. C. 187. To maintain a scholarship in medicine in some medical college in the District of Columbia. Id.

Held void for uncertainty: A bequest to be used to erect chimes in a church selected by another. Colbert v. Speer, 24 App. D. C. 187. Devise to be disposed of as others direct. Id.

37. Cook v. Universalist General Convention [Mich.] 101 N. W. 217; Bowman v. Do-

"heirs," "issue," "children," and the like, may be intended as words of purchase, i. e., descriptions of the takers; but more often the question is whether they are words of limitation. For the purpose of avoiding confusion and unnecessary repetition, the cases construing them have been collected elsewhere.[38]

(§ 5) D. Of terms creating, defining, limiting, conditioning, or qualifying the estates and interests created. Particular words and forms of expression.[39]—Words which in a deed would be a condition may in a will be a limitation.[40] The words "heirs" and "heirs of the body" are prima facie words of limitation,[41] and "child" and "children" words of purchase.[42] The words "heirs,"[43] "issue,"[44] "heirs of the body,"[45] "children,"[46] "offspring,"[47] "legal representatives,"[48] "nieces,"[49] and mestic & Foreign Missionary Soc., 90 N. Y. S. 898. A devise to "Georgetown University" held sufficient, though corporation's name was "The President and Directors of Georgetown College." Colbert v. Speer, 24 App. D. C. 187. Bequests to "St. Vincent's and St. Joseph's Catholic Orphan Asylums" held valid, though correct corporate names of institutions were "St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum" and "The Trustees of St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum." Id.

38. See § 5D, post.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 2116.

40. Jossey v. Brown, 119 Ga. 758, 47 S. E. 350.

41. "Heirs of the body" unless the will shows that it was intended as a description of particular persons. Wheelock v. Simons [Ark.] 86 S. W. 830.

42. Always words of purchase unless context and circumstances show that they were intended to mean "heirs" and to be words of limitation. Martin v. Martin, 52 W. Va. 381, 44 S. E. 198. Under a devise to person and his children, he having no children at the time of the devise, neither a joint tenancy or tenancy in common between the parent and after-born children is created, unless by some other part of the will it appears that testator so intended. Id.

43. "Heirs" held to have been used synonymously with issue, and to mean "heirs of the body." Gannon v. Pauk, 183 Mo. 265, 83 S. W. 453. May mean children when evidently so intended. Shropshire v. Gault, 26 Ky. L. R. 1197, 83 S. W. 590. In devise to one and "his heirs and assigns forever," held not to mean issue. Gannon v. Albright, 183 Mo. 238, 81 S. W. 1162.

"Without having heirs" held to mean without having a child or children, where limitation over is to those who might be heirs. In re Tucker's Estate, 209 Pa. 521, 58 A. 889.

"Without an heir" held to mean without a child. In re Jackson's Estate, 209 Pa. 520, 58 A. 890.

"My legal heirs" means next of kin and legal heirs of testator and not those of his wife. Miller v. Metcalf [Conn.] 68 A. 743.

"Lawful heirs" held to mean children. Lacy v. Floyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 857. The werd "lawful" is not sufficient per se to show an intention not to use the word "heirs" in its ordinary legal sense, as a word of inheritance or limitation. Wool v. Fleetwood, 136 N. C. 460, 48 S. E. 785.

44. Prima facie means lineal descendants, indefinitely, but may mean children if such is apparent intent. Brisbin v. Huntington [Iowa] 103 N. W. 144; In re Tenney, 93 N. Y. S. 811. Same rule applies where word "lawful" precedes it. Held to have ordinary meaning. Inglis v. McCook [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 630. The use of the phrase in one clause without any restricting words, and in another clause with them, leads to conclusion that he intended them to have unrestricted meaning in first clause. Id. Does not include illegitimate children unless will shows contrary intention. Not where preceded by word "lawful," though child's father has recognized him in writing, thus giving him right to inherit. Brisbin v. Huntington [Iowa] 103 N. W. 144; In re Tenney, 93 N. Y. S. 811.

Held to mean "children": Brisbin v. Huntington [Iowa] 103 N. W. 144; Logan v. Cassidy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 794.

Held to mean heirs of the body: "Die without issue." Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703.

45. Held to include grandchildren. Parrott v. Barrett [S. C.] 49 S. E. 563. Words "lawful heirs begotten of her own body," held to mean "children" when construed in connection with former clause expressly referred to. Wilkinson v. Boyd, 136 N. C. 46, 48 S. E. 516.

46. "Children" may mean "descendants" and include grandchildren if necessary to effectuate intent (In re Bender's Estate, 44 Misc. 79, 89 N. Y. S. 731), but grandchildren will not be included in the absence of something in the will to show such an intent (Lyon v. Baker [Ga.] 50 S. E. 44; Crawley v. Kendrick [Ga.] 50 S. E. 41). Held not to take under provision that share of child dying without issue should go to "surviving children." Lawrence v. Phillips [Mass.] 71 N. E. 541. Does not include son-in-law. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482. Under gift in trust to pay income to one, and after his death to his wife for life, the principal to then be divided among children of said person and his wife, word "children" held not to include those of husband by former marriage. Phrase to be read collectively. Crapo v. Pierce, 187 Mass. 141, 72 N. E. 935. By statute in New York (Laws 1897, c. 408, p. 333), an adopted child will not be deemed to sustain the legal relation of child to the person adopting him, in the passing of realty and personalty depending upon such person dying without heirs, so as to defeat the rights of remaindermen. In re Hopkins, 43 Misc. 464, 89 N. Y. S. 467, afd. 92 N. Y. S. 463. Gift of residuary estate to children, the share of any one of them dying before the widow and without children to go to others. Held, adopted child of son so dying did not take adopted father's share. Id.

47. May mean children if there is a gift

"survivors,"[50] will be given their ordinary legal meaning unless a contrary intent appears. Words of survivorship are generally held to refer to the time of testator's death,[51] unless a specific intent to the contrary appears, as where they are words of limitation of a future estate.[52]

"In case of her death without issue" will be construed to mean in case she dies without having had issue.[53] A gift over to "my heirs" will be construed as meaning those who are such at the time of the testator's death, in the absence of words clearly showing a contrary intention.[54]

The words "die without issue" ordinarily import an indefinite failure of issue.[55] But a gift over in the case of the death of the first taker without issue, expressly limited to take effect after such death, imports a definite failure of issue at the death of the first taker.[56] Ordinarily where there is a gift to one absolutely, over to grandchildren. Holton v. Jones, 133 N. C. 399, 45 S. E. 765.

48. Held to include one who was executor and devisee under husband's will. Gruenewald v. Neu [Ill.] 74 N. E. 101. Held to mean children or lineal descendants. Miller v. Metcalf [Conn.] 58 A. 743.

"Representatives" held not to include husband of deceased daughter who was sole devisee under her will. Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633.

49. Evidence insufficient to show intention to include stepdaughter of testatrix's brother. In re Holt's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 585.

50. Will be given its ordinary and legal meaning of the longest liver in the absence of something to show a contrary intention. Will not be held to mean "other" merely because of resulting inconvenience, or to prevent intestacy. Hill v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 446. Under provision giving "survivor" of two daughters "being single and unmarried" at the time of her death power of appointment, held, that unmarried sister dying before married one could not exercise power. Id. Will not include one who was not originally within a class. Under gift in equal shares to children, the share of any child dying without issue and under 21 to go to the survivors, a child expressly excluded from the gift as having been provided for during testator's lifetime is not entitled to take as a "survivor." In re Wilcox, 64 N. J. Eq. 322, 54 A. 296.

51. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; Id., 74 N. E. 12. Where no other period apparent or intended in which event referred to shall occur. Morton's Guardian v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1188. Word "surviving" held to refer to children surviving at time of death of testatrix and not at death of life tenant. In re Vance's Estate, 209 Pa. 561, 58 A. 1063.

Criteria of limitation or condition: The mere use of certain terms that are ordinarily used to express conditions or limitations is not always a sure test of the true nature of the estate devised, but may be taken, in the light of the context with which they are used, as expressing sometimes a condition and sometimes a limitation. Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. D. C. 424. The only general rule, perhaps, in determining whether words are words of condition or of limitation, is that when they circumscribe the continuance of the estate and mark the period which is to determine it, they are words of limitation; but when they render the estate liable to be defeated, in case the event expressed should arise before the determination of the estate, they are words of condition. Id.

52. Where the will shows on its face that the event to which the contingency refers is, in contemplation of the testator, to occur after his own death. Morton's Guardian v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1188. Under devise to cousins for life, remainder to the survivor, and then over to others, held remainder to survivor was not limited to death of other cousin in testator's lifetime. Id. Children and surviving grandchildren held to refer to those living at death of grandchild, and not those living at time of distribution. Marshall v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 476. Word "theretofore," in gift of fund over to residuary legatees in case of death of grandson who had vested interest therein, "and if either shall theretofore have deceased," without issue, his share to be divided among the others, held to refer to time of distribution, i. e., death of grandson. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999.

Referred to death of first taker: "In case of death" over to "survivors." Renner v. Williams [Ohio] 73 N. E. 221. Provision that "in the event of the decease of" either daughter her share to go to others. Ketchum v. Ketchum, 91 N. Y. S. 801.

53. Not without surviving issue. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89.

54. Gift of residue of property after payment of annuity for life. Merrill v. Wooster [Me.] 59 A. 596.

55. Mean "die without leaving heirs of the body." Devise to nephew in words sufficient to constitute fee, with provision that, should he "die without issue," his share was to go to testator's heirs, gives him fee tail by implication. Too remote to take effect as executory devise. Entail barred by nephew's deed under Rev. Laws, c. 127, § 24. Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703. Devise to M., but if she dies without issue, to S. and her heirs, held to contemplate an indefinite failure of issue. Corrin v. Elliott, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 449. Gift to sons in fee held cut down to estate tail by provision that in case of death of both of them without leaving issue, it was to revert to testator's heirs. Gannon v. Pauk, 183 Mo. 265, 83 S. W. 453.

56. Hall v. Brownlee [Ind.] 72 N. E. 131. Where remainder limited to take effect on and in case of his death without issue, to another, the contingency referred to will be held to be his death during testator's lifetime;[57] but this does not apply where another point of time is mentioned to which the contingency can be referred, or where another provision of the will evinces a contrary intent.[58]

Gifts by implication, gift of ownership or use, legal or equitable ownership, trust or power.[59]—Since no particular form of expression is necessary to constitute a legal disposition of property,[60] a devise may be held to exist by implication where the context requires it,[61] but the probability of such an intent must be so death of any person without heirs or heirs of his body or without issue, words "heirs" or issue shall be construed to mean heirs or issue living at death of person named as ancestor [Mo. Rev. St. 1845, c. 32, § 6]. Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205. Rev. St. 1899, § 4593 does not apply to executory devise. Mueller v. Buenger [Mo.] 83 S. W. 458. Has the effect of preventing words "dying without issue" from creating estate tail by implication. Gannon v. Albright, 183 Mo. 238, 81 S. W. 1162. In South Carolina when estate is limited to take effect on the death of any person without heirs of the body, or issue, or other equivalent words, such words must be construed as meaning a failure of issue at the time of such person's death, and not an indefinite failure [Civ. Code 1902, § 2464]. Harkey v. Neville [S. C.] 49 S. E. 218. Under this statute, devise to wife for life, and then to daughter for life, and in case of her death without issue, then to others, does not give her fee conditional by implication. Does not take fee on birth of child who predeceases her. Id.

57. Woolverton v. Johnson, 69 Kan. 708, 77 P. 559; Gragg v. Gragg, 94 N. Y. S. 53; Williams v. Boul, 101 App. Div. 593, 92 N. Y. S. 177; In re Ryder, 43 Misc. 476, 89 N. Y. S. 460. Devisee held to take fee. Smith v. Hull, 97 App. Div. 228, 89 N. Y. S. 854. Where the will indicates an intention that the primary devisee shall take the fee. Tarbell v. Smith [Iowa] 101 N. W. 118.

Held to refer to death before testator: Devise to nephews and if either shall "die without leaving a child or children surviving him," then over. Smith v. Smith, 139 Ala. 406, 36 So. 616.

58. When division is postponed, will be held to refer to death before division. Shropshire v. Gault, 26 Ky. L. R. 1197, 83 S. W. 590.

Held to refer to death before division: Provision that at the end of three years testator's estate be divided between his two sons, and if either or both should die before the expiration of such time or die leaving no heirs, then his or their share over, gives the two sons a fee if they are alive at the end of three years. Shropshire v. Gault, 26 Ky. L. R. 1197, 83 S. W. 590. Provision that in case any of the devisees should die without heirs his portion should be divided among the survivors. Smith v. Courtnay's Ex'rs [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1101. In case of devise to one or more infants, to be held by their trustees or guardians until they are twenty-one years old, and then to be turned over to them, or divided between them. Harvey v. Bell, 26 Ky. L. R. 381, 81 S. W. 671. Where will gave proceeds of property to trustees to be expended for support and education of two minor children, and "in the event of the death of each of" them, then over to testatrix's brother. Woolverton v. Johnson, 69 Kan. 708, 77 P. 559. Where the devise is to a class and the division is postponed, though the devisees are not infants. Harvey v. Bell, 26 Ky. L. R. 381, 81 S. W. 671. Where gift is in remainder, refers to death before termination of particular estate. Id. Remainder to children "or to the issue of either of said sons, if they shall have previously died leaving issue." People's Trust Co. v. Flynn, 44 Misc. 6, 89 N. Y. S. 706.

Held not to refer to death before that of testator: Gragg v. Gragg, 94 N. Y. S. 53. Devise for life with remainder to children, or in case of death without issue, then over. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89. Devise with proviso that if either of the devisees died without issue, his share under the will should go to the survivors of the class. Construing Ky. St. 1903, §§ 2342, 2344, 4839. Harvey v. Bell, 26 Ky. L. R. 381, 81 S. W. 671. "Shall die without leaving a child or children of her own body." First taker took conditional fee. In re Ryder, 43 Misc. 476, 89 N. Y. S. 460. Contention that provision referred to death before testatrix held untenable, in view of provision for such contingency in another item. Talbot v. Snodgrass, 124 Iowa, 681, 100 N. W. 500. If bequest is made to person absolute in first instance, and it is provided that in case of death, or death without issue, another shall be substituted to the legacy so given, it will be construed to mean death before testator, if the gift is immediate, and death during the continuance of the prior estate if the limitation is by way of remainder. In re McAlpin's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 321. Grandchildren held to have had vested remainder subject to be divested by exercise of power of appointment. Id. In Maryland, when a gift is made for life and then over to survivors, the period of survivorship is to be referred to the time of distribution and not to the death of the testator, in the absence of anything to the contrary in the will. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 2121.

60. A clause in a holographic will stating that testatrix wished to record the wishes of her deceased husband, and that he desired certain property to be disposed of in a particular way, held a testamentary disposition of such property. Kerr v. Girdwood [N. C.] 50 S. E. 852. The use of technical words in disposing of property is not necessary. Personalty. Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450. The words "I want her to have" are equivalent to "give" or "bequeath," and are sufficient to constitute a bequest. In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90.

61. An estate may pass by mere implication without any express words to direct its strong as to leave no hesitation in the mind of the court and permit of no other reasonable inference.[62]

Full legal ownership may be implied from a use which is equivalent thereto;[63] or from a gift with words ordinarily indicative of a trust or beneficial ownership or a power.[64] On the other hand a trust may be found without the artificial course. Galloway v. Durham, 26 Ky. L. R. 445, 81 S. W. 659. Testator held to have intended to devise fee of land, or to bequeath principal sum derived therefrom, to person named, notwithstanding absence of words explicitly devising or bequeathing it. Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751. Devise of residuary estate to create four trust funds, the corpus of each of the other three to be added to that of the son on the death of the beneficiaries, and on death of son corpus of his fund to go to testator's next of kin. On death of son before testator, his fund was to go to testator's next of kin. Held, that on son's death after testator and before other beneficiaries, principal of each fund passed to testator's next of kin on death of beneficiaries. Mead v. Coolidge, 179 N. Y. 386, 72 N. E. 314. Estate held vested in grandchildren by implication arising from limitation over in event of their death without issue, subject to power of appointment in their mother, and that, on mother's death without exercising power, they took absolute estate freed from trust under which it was held for her benefit. In re McAlpin's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 321.

62. Galloway v. Durham, 26 Ky. L. R. 445, 81 S. W. 659.

63. Where will created trust in favor of brother, and by subsequent clause directed sale of realty for payment of debts and legacies, with provision that residue was to be paid to brother, he took an unlimited use in any residue, in absence of any restriction in will as to his enjoyment thereof. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300. Devise of entire use and income, with possession and control subject to charge thereon for support of minor children, held equivalent to devise of property for life of widow after youngest child became of age, and she was not required to account for surplus income. Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450.

Held fee: A gift of the interest, income, or produce of a fund, either directly or in trust, without limitation as to continuance, or limit as to time, passes the fund itself. In re Ingersoll, 95 App. Div. 211, 88 N. Y. S. 698. Gift of income a gift of the property itself, or at least raises presumption of such intention. Walker v. Hill [N. H.] 60 A. 1017. Rule applies only when the will does not show a contrary intention. In re Shower's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 789. A mere passive trust in realty or personalty is avoided, and the beneficiary takes the legal estate. Bequest in trust for maintenance and education of children, without any other disposition. In re De Rycke's Will, 99 App. Div. 596, 91 N. Y. S. 159. Where trust for accumulation of income void, beneficiary held to take fee, payment to her being without limitation, and there being no remainder over. In re Hull, 97 App. Div. 258, 89 N. Y. S. 939.

Held life estate: A gift with power to consume, etc., does not give fee where contrary intention appears. Beneficiaries held to take only life estate in fund. Wixon v. Watson, 214 Ill. 158, 73 N. E. 306. Bequest of money does not always vest absolute estate therein. Where testator gave all his estate to trustees, and provided that they were to pay wife dividends "during the time last mentioned upon" certain shares of bank stock, held, that she was only entitled to the dividends and the shares belonged to estate. Mortimer v. Potter, 213 Ill. 178, 72 N. E. 817. Bequest in trust for nephew and niece, "the income to be paid them equally during their lives," held to give each of them an equitable life estate in half the gift, and not absolute estate to be held in trust for life and then to pass to heirs. Loomis v. Gorham [Mass.] 71 N. E. 981.

64. Trusts: Devise to wife to be held by her for life "in trust" for certain persons, does not create a trust where no purpose of the trust is named. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

A secret trust cannot be fastened on a trust created by will unless it arises from the intent of the testator and the promise or acquiescence of the legatee. No secret trust. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168.

A gift to executors in fee simple for the "following trusts," does not entitle them individually to the balance of the income remaining after the payments required by the trusts have been made. Falls into body of estate for benefit of devisees. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417. Provision that in no case was husband of life tenant to have control over estate held not to create marital trust. Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545.

A gift to a corporation, existing or to be organized, with directions or conditions as to its use or management, which are reasonably consistent with the corporate purposes of the donee, is not a gift in trust, but an absolute one to the corporation, within the meaning of the statute of uses and trusts. Charitable gift held valid. Title remains in persons named until corporation organized, when vests in it. Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104. The term "absolute gift" as here used is in contradistinction to a gift in trust; it does not mean a gift without condition. Id.

Effect of precatory words: A trust will not be raised by expressions importing recommendation, confidence, or desire, unless it clearly appears that they were intended to be used in an imperative sense. Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694. Whether precatory words are to be regarded as mandatory is question of intention. "I desire." Mollenkamp v. Farr [Kan.] 79 P. 646. Do not impose a trust where words of gift point to absolute enjoyment by donee himself, as where devise was to children absolutely, with clause expressing desire that devisees should live together and use income only for ten years. Clark v. Clark, 99 Md. 356, 58 A. 24. "Wish" and "desire" generally re-words of one,[65] and such words may if clearly so intended import a power,[66] and will be so construed if there is a provision for disposal of the unconsumed porgarded as precatory merely (In re Dickinson's Estate, 209 Pa. 59, 58 A. 120); but raise no presumption that they were used in precatory sense when they are used to express testator's will and intention (Id.). Under English law and that of Nova Scotia, the word "request" may be mandatory or directory, depending on the intention to be gathered from the will. McCurdy v. McCallum, 186 Mass. 464, 72 N. E. 75.

Held not to create trust: Absolute gift "to dispose of as she may deem best for the benefit of my daughters." Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694. Gift to wife for life, or as long as she remained a widow, "to receive all the rents and profits thereof for the benefit of my family," with remainder to children. Give wife right to use income in her discretion for benefit of children. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. Statement that testatrix had expressed wishes to beneficiary and had full confidence that he would carry them out if possible. George v. George [Mass.] 71 N. E. 85. Absolute gift to wife accompanied by "wish and desire" that she pay certain sum to another. Post v. Moore [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 482. "It is my wish and expectation" that wife shall generously remember certain persons. Russell v. United States Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 758. A mere expectation that property devised to a wife will be used in part for the care and support of children of the testator. Bloom v. Strauss [Ark.] 84 S. W. 511.

Effect of power of disposal: A devise in language indeterminate as to the quantity of the estate, accompanied by an express power of disposition without qualification, passes a fee, and a devise over of what is left is void. Tuerk v. Schueler [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 357; Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770. Devise to wife to use and dispose of same during life in same manner testator could have done, and with power of sale and to appoint by will. Luckey v. McCray [Iowa] 101 N. W. 516. Gift of income with power to consume principal held to pass fee. A devise to the testator's wife of the avails of the property and if that is not sufficient for her use so much of the principal as shall be necessary. In re Farrington's Estate, 85 App. Div. 117, 83 N. Y. S. 742. Gift of half of residue in trust, income and as much as necessary of principal to be devoted to support and education, there being no other disposition. In re Ingersoll, 95 App. Div. 211, 88 N. Y. S. 698. Trust held void, or at least voidable, at widow's election. Solley v. Westcott, 43 Misc. 188, 88 N. Y. S. 297. Bequest of personalty in trust to pay income, rents, and profits to husband for life, with directions to trustee to turn over to him so much of principal as he wished, should he desire to engage in business, held to create mere naked trust and husband takes legal estate to same extent as beneficial interest given him. Ullman v. Cameron, 93 N. Y. S. 976. Id., 92 App. Div. 91, 87 N. Y. S. 148.

65. No particular words are necessary to create a trust, but is sufficient if language shows such an intention. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937. Not necessary to use words "trust" or "trustee," or other technical words (Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694; Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429); but some unequivocal language must be used from which intention to create one may be attributed to testator (Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429). A mere direction to sell will not be held to create a trust rather than a power in trust. Where will directed property to be sold and net proceeds to be divided among children, daughters' shares to be held in trust, legal title to realty is in children, subject to power of sale coupled with trust. May v. Brewster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 546. The fact that there is no limitation over of the principal of the trust estate is insufficient to control the quantum of estate in the cestuis que trust. In re Shower's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 789.

A bequest or devise upon condition of making payment to third persons is usually equivalent to a devise or bequest upon a trust. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412. Gift of whole estate to wife for life "with the condition" that "she shall apply" so much of income, remaining after providing for herself and testator's sister as the will directs, "as to her may seem proper," to the assistance of the children of such sister. Id. Son to whom land is devised on condition that he support his parents during their lives holds it in trust, though no trust is expressly created. Hoyt v. Hoyt [Vt.] 59 A. 845. Not relieved from obligation by indebtedness from father to him, nor can he offset it against amount due from him for such support. Id. Father cannot convey away his right to such support. Id.

Will held to create trust: In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. Express trust for payment of debts. Gordon v. McDougall [Miss.] 37 So. 298. Valid express trust for purpose of receiving rents and profits and applying them to use of beneficiary for his life, with a power of appointment in the latter. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937. Held that, conceding that will imposed trust on wife to provide for children before her death, there was nothing requiring her to give them shares similar in nature and amount. Biggins v. Lambert, 213 Ill. 625, 73 N. E. 371. Under devise to executors to be invested and allowed to accumulate for term of years, and then transferred to corporation to be formed for charitable purposes, they took as trustees, though not so designated. Codman v. Brigham, 187 Mass. 309, 72 N. E. 1008. Gift in fee followed by provision directing devisee to leave property to testatrix's heirs by will. Merrill v. Webster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 672. A bequest to the Rev. K., or his successor, of a certain church "for the purpose of saying masses" for testator and others, is a gift for a religious use, and hence void under Pa. Act April 26, 1855 (P. L. 328), when made within 30 days from testator's death. Charged with a trust, and not personal gift for services rendered. In re O'Donnell's Estate, 209 Pa. 63, 58 A. 120. Bequest to grandchildren on their becoming of age, and to survivor if tion.[67] A direction that the residue shall vest free from any trust features which are void has the effect of making the gift direct or upon trust in the alternative.[68]

Estates or interests created.[69]—A simple devise of land, without words of limitation or description of the extent of the interest devised, ordinarily creates a life estate only, unless the will shows a contrary intention.[70]

Words of inheritance are not, however, necessary to carry a fee, but any words suffice which carry that intent.[71] So, too, no particular words are neceseither died before that time, and if both died, then over. Executor is trustee, in the absence of any other designation. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590. Children held to have taken absolute title to income, but only life estate in corpus of estate, with power of appointment, and remainder in children in case power not exercised. Legal title in executor in trust. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051. Under law of Nova Scotia, bequest to daughter with "request" that at her death she give same to her daughters, and providing that her receipt "shall be a sufficient discharge" to executors, held to give her right to use income for life, the principal being charged with trust in favor of her daughters. McCurdy v. McCallum, 186 Mass. 464, 72 N. E. 75. The income of an estate to one's children for life, remainder in fee to grandchildren at the death of all his children, creates a fee in the grandchildren which continues, equitable in form until the death of the last surviving child of the testator. In re Morton's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 246.

Will held not to create trust: Where no mention of trust. Held to give wife half of estate in fee and balance for life, after payment of debts and legacies. Walker v. Hill [N. H.] 60 A. 1017. Marital trust. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051.

66. The rule that a gift coupled with a power to consume or sell passes an absolute title cannot operate to defeat a clearly expressed intention to the contrary. In re Zimmerman's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 130. Estate to testator's widow "to use, occupy and possess as I have done and am now doing, during her natural life" does not confer a right to consume the principal. Id. A devise and bequest of the residue of property to testator's sister, "but should she die without Issue and leave any of the property at her death given her by this will, then" such property should go to another, gives a fee to the sister, with power to sell. Galloway v. Durham, 26 Ky. L. R. 445, 81 S. W. 659.

67. Under absolute gift to husband and a subsequent provision that should he not expend it all during his lifetime "it is my desire at his death" to give remainder to others, word "desire" is mandatory, and husband has only power to consume estate in good faith, and mere nominal conversion by marking judgment to own use does not prevent gift over from taking effect. In re Dickinson's Estate, 209 Pa. 59, 58 A. 120. All my estate, real, personal and mixed, to my wife and at her death, whatever remains, over, gives the wife a life estate only in the realty. Martin v. Heckman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 451.

68. If valid, gift is subject to trusts, and if not, gift vests absolutely, freed from void trusts. Such provisions valid, and do not render will void for uncertainty. Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 2125.

70. The evident intention of testator to dispose of his entire estate by a will making all his heirs at law devisees, with special aim at equality among them, evidenced by charging funeral expenses and debts on that devisee who was given more than others, prevents the application of the rule. McCaffrey v. Manogue, 25 S. Ct. 319, rvg. 22 App. D. C. 385.

71. No particular form of words necessary. Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205, afg. 130 F. 722. Statutes in many states provide that the word heirs is not necessary, but that every devise passes fee in absence of anything to show a contrary intention [Ga. Civ. Code, § 3083]. Hill v. Terrell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 81. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 30, § 13. Gruenewald v. Neu [Ill.] 74 N. E. 101; King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89. Ky. St. 1903, § 2342. Galloway v. Durham, 26 Ky. L. R. 445, 81 S. W. 659. Ohio Rev. St. § 5970. Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770. In South Carolina no words of limitation are necessary to devise fee, but every gift of land by devise is to be deemed fee, unless such construction be inconsistent with express or implied intention [Civ. Code 1902, § 2483]. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Reynolds [S. C.] 48 S. E. 476. In Indiana, every devise denoting testator's intention to devise his entire interest in all his real or personal property shall be construed to pass all his estate in such property [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2737]. Snodgrass v. Brandenburg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1030. Word "heirs" not necessary. Id.

Devise held to pass fee: "I bequeath my entire estate, both real and personal." Snodgrass v. Brandenburg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1030. "I give and bequeath to my" nephew and niece "all the residue of my property" after payment of legacies. Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703. "All the real and personal estate owned by me at my decease," with power of disposition. Huber v. Hamilton [Pa.] 60 A. 789. Where will provided for distribution of estate if son died without issue, but if he had heirs or issue, then the land to "be his and his heirs," held that son took fee simple on birth of issue. McCullough v. Johnetta Coal Co., 210 Pa. 222, 59 A. 984. "Give and bequeath" held to pass absolute estate in bonds, though possession postponed. Williams v. Boul, 101 App. Div. 593, 92 N. Y. S. 177. Devise for life, and at life tenant's death "to his children or their children who may be living at that time," held to vest fee in children who were in esse at testator's death, possession being postponed. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Reynolds [S. C.] 48 S. E. 476.

Life estate: Devise to husband with power to use and dispose of property, with pro-sary to constitute a life estate.[72] But technical words, when used, will be given their technical meaning, if no contrary intent be apparent.[73] vision that it was testatrix's wish and desire that if any remained at his death it should be divided in certain manner, held to give him but life estate in lands undisposed of at his death so that he could not dispose of them by will. Gruenewald v. Neu [Ill.] 74 N. E. 101. Fee held limited to life estate by subsequent clause. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89. If a gift of the use and control be construed as a gift of the full ownership, it endures as long as the use was to endure. See ante, this section, "Gifts by Implication," etc.

72. The intention may be manifested by words which lead to that conclusion, though term "life estate" is not used. Dozier v. Dozier, 183 Mo. 137, 81 S. W. 890. A provision placing property in trust for beneficiaries, the income to be paid them, the property to go to their descendants free from the trust gave the beneficiaries a life estate with remainder to their children and grandchildren in the direct line, free from the trust. Id. Where property is devised to one for life and the will provides that upon the death of the devisee, another shall occupy and fill the relation, as to the property held by the first devisee, held, the alternative devisee took a life estate upon the first devisee dying. Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. D. C. 424.

73. Where statute makes use of word "heirs" unnecessary, fact that it is used does not render intention to pass fee doubtful. "Devise to sons and their heirs and assigns forever." Gannon v. Albright, 183 Mo. 238, 81 S. W. 1162.

Estates tail: In order to create estate tail, will must contemplate an indefinite failure of heirs of class named. Will held not to create estate tail. Martin v. Martin, 52 W. Va. 381, 44 S. E. 198. Doctrine of estates tail does not apply to case where there is devise in fee simple with limitation over upon failure of issue, and failure of issue referred to is failure of living issue at death of first taker. Mo. Rev. St. 1845, c. 32, § 5, providing that devisee who would have taken estate tail at common law shall take life estate only, held not to apply in such case, when construed in connection with § 6, referring failure of issue to death of first taker. Absolute devise to son, with limitation over in case he died without issue, held to give him fee, subject to be divested on his death without living issue. Yocum v. Parker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205, afg. 130 F. 722. Devise to sons and "their heirs and assigns forever," held to give them fee and not estate tail. Heirs not equivalent to issue. Gannon v. Albright, 183 Mo. 238, 81 S. W. 1162.

Words held to create estate tail, converted into fee by statute: A devise to one and "the heirs of her body." Young v. Amburgy [Ky.] 87 S. W. 802. A devise to a daughter, "to her and her bodily heirs forever." Marshall v. Walker, 26 Ky. L. R. 199, 80 S. W. 1132. Devise "not only to the said S., but to the heirs of his body" [3 Comp. Laws, § 8785]. Rhodes v. Bouldrey [Mich.] 101 N. W. 206. Provision that if son should die without issue land should go to heirs of testatrix, but if son should have heirs or issue, then it should be "his and his heirs," gives son fee tail on birth of issue. McCullough v. Johnetta Coal Co., 210 Pa. 222, 59 A. 984. Devise to "M.," but if she die without heirs, to S. and her heirs [P. L. 368]. Corrin v. Elliott, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 449.

Words held to create fee tail converted into life estate with remainder in children: A devise to son and "his bodily heirs forever," with a provision that if either the son or a daughter of testatrix should die, without leaving a bodily heir, before receiving a share of the estate, such share should go to the surviving child and its bodily heirs forever [Rev. St. 1855, §§ 5-7]. Miller v. Ensminger, 182 Mo. 195, 81 S. W. 422. Devise to two sons, and their heirs and assigns forever, with provision that land should not be sold before younger became of age, and that, should either die without issue, the survivor, his heirs and assigns, should take his share, and that in event both should die, testator's surviving heirs should take [Sess. Acts 1815-16, p. 32, Rev. St. 1825, p. 216, and Rev. St. 1899, §§ 4592-93]. Gannon v. Pauk, 183 Mo. 265, 83 S. W. 453. Under Kirby's Dig. § 735. Devise with the provision that if the devisee die without heirs of her body or if both she and such heirs die, the property should revert to the estate. Wheelock v. Simons [Ark.] 86 S. W. 830. In such case the devisee surviving the testator and being herself survived by a son and daughter and the son died, leaving his father surviving, the latter took a life estate with remainder to the son's sister, since son took as purchaser under the will. Id.

Rule in Shelley's Case: The rule is not a rule of construction but a strict rule of law, and its operation cannot be prevented by any expression of intention to the contrary. Britt v. Rowland Lumber Co., 136 N. C. 171, 48 S. E. 586; Wool v. Fleetwood, 136 N. C. 460, 48 S. E. 785; Thompson v. Crump [N. C.] 50 S. E. 457. It applies where the same persons will take the same estate whether they take by descent or purchase. Tyson v. Sinclair [N. C.] 50 S. E. 450. Any words added to the limitation which carry the estate to any other person in any other manner, or in any other quality than the canons of descent provide, will take case out of operation of rule, and limit first taker to life estate. Id. Limitation over to "right heirs in fee," in default of heirs of the body, does not prevent operation of rule. Id. A gift from a father to his daughter and her children, or to a son and his children, or from a husband to a wife and children, will be construed as creating a life estate with remainder in the children. A bequest and devise of all the testator's property to his "daughter and her children" gives the daughter a life estate, with remainder to her children. Sims v. Skinner's Ex'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 443, 81 S. W. 703. Property being devised to testator's "son and his children," the word "children" is a word of purchase not of limitation. Smith v. Smith [Ky.] 85 S. W. 169. Rule does not apply where subsequent takers are designated as children. Wilkinson v. Boyd, 136 N. C. 46, 48 S. E. 516. Not under

It is the general policy of the law to adopt such a construction as will give a fee,[74] or absolute ownership[75] in the first taker, so as not to tie up property and suspend the power of alienation;[76] wherefore words of lesser estate may be enlarged to mean a greater,[77] whilst the reverse of this intention will be more reluctantly found.[78] The presence of a condition or charge,[79] or of a provision for a trust or power, may point the intent.[80] devise to one for life, and at his death to his children as a class. Crawley v. Kendrick [Ga.] 50 S. E. 41. Nor does it apply where freehold given to one person, remainder to the heirs of the body of that person and another, and the persons are capable of having a common heir of their bodies, and such heirs take by purchase a contingent remainder in fee simple, and the original taker merely an estate for life. Thompson v. Crump [N. C.] 50 S. E. 457. Under devise to one for life, with remainder "to his lawful heirs, born of his wife." Id.

In Texas it is held that the rule will not be permitted to override the intention of the testator, as expressed in the will. In a devise to one for his natural life and at his death to his lawful heirs, "lawful heirs" held to mean "children" and the first taker took only a life estate. Lacy v. Floyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 857. Will not be allowed to convert an intended life estate into a fee. Estate to one "to have and to hold during his natural life, and at his death to his lawful heirs," held to give the first taker only a life estate. Id.

Rule held to apply and to give devisee a fee. Devise in trust to C. and, if he ever marries and has a lawful heir, they to have the land. Words "and if he ever marries" will be treated as surplusage. Ex parte Cooper, 136 N. C. 130, 48 S. E. 581. Devise to brother for life, "and after his death to his heirs in fee simple." Fact that will further provides that in case he should die without heirs of his body the fee shall go to another, is immaterial where he leaves children. Morrisett v. Stevens, 136 N. C. 160, 48 S. E. 661. Under provision that, after death of life tenant, estate should be equally divided between two children, to be held by them for life, at their death to go to their lawful heirs, or, if they had none, then to testator's heirs, held, that estate vested absolutely in children on widow's death. Wool v. Fleetwood, 136 N. C. 460, 48 S. E. 785. Devise to one and her heirs, "not subject to her debts, but lent to her, and then to be the bona fide property of her heirs." Britt v. Rowland Lumber Co., 136 N. C. 171, 48 S. E. 586. Devise to grandson for life with remainder to lawful heirs in fee simple. Tyson v. Sinclair [N. C.] 50 S. E. 450. Devise to one "to have and to hold during his natural life and at his death to his lawful heirs." Lacey v. Floyd [Tex.] 87 S. W. 665.

74. Will held to pass fee title to testator's children in lands not sold by executors, and not a life estate, with remainder over to grandchildren. Whitfield v. Thompson [Miss.] 38 So. 113.

75. Personalty may be bequeathed in fee tail or on condition, but will should not be so construed unless language clearly and explicitly requires it. Talbot v. Snodgrass, 124 Iowa, 681, 100 N. W. 500. Language held to indicate absolute bequest of personalty. Id.

76. Wills will be construed so as to vest fee simple as early as possible, and so as to rescue provisions which might be obnoxious to the statute against perpetuities. Provisions as to contingent remainders construed. McKee v. McKee's Ex'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 736, 82 S. W. 451. Devise to four children with equal rights in same until 21 years after their parents' death, when they and their heirs should own same in fee, held to vest them with fee, subject to the condition expressed, and on their becoming of age could by joint deed convey valid title. Each had veto power. Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218.

77. Thus the addition of a power to a life estate may equal a fee. See notes preceding and following.

78. Estate of inheritance in realty or absolute interest in personalty may be reduced to lesser estate if subsequent language unequivocally shows such intention. In re Shower's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 789; In re Sharpless' Estate, 209 Pa. 409, 58 A. 806. A clause in terms devising a fee absolutely may be so limited by subsequent provisions as to create only a life estate or trust. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937. But such limitation will operate only to the extent necessary to give effect thereto. Will held to create trust. Id. The rule rigorously rejecting a provision for a remainder after an absolute gift has been much softened in Ohio. Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. Will giving income of estate to children for life, each child having the power to devise her portion, but in no case was any child's husband to have control over the principal or interest of such share, and providing for descent of property in the absence of a will by the child, held, provisions are not repugnant. Id. Each child took an estate for life in the body of the estate. Id. In case of a child dying intestate, the share passed according to the provisions of the father's will. Id. An express and positive devise in fee cannot be cut down to an inferior estate by a subsequent clause not equally expressive and positive. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472; Martin v. Martin, 52 W. Va. 381, 44 S. E. 198. Intention to cut down estate of inheritance must appear unequivocally. Gift to grandchildren of half of residue, after payment of legacies, held to refer to personalty only, and not to cut down estate in fee in realty previously given to son. Watson v. Smith, 210 Pa. 190, 59 A. 988. By subsequent or ambiguous words, inferential in their intent (Yocum v. Parker, 130 F. 722, afd. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205), or of doubtful meaning. Personalty (Williams v. Boul, 101 App. Div. 593, 92 N. Y. S. 177). An estate in fee once fully given cannot be withheld from the owner by the interposition of a naked trust (Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472), nor can his jus disponendi be abridged by a direction to his trustees to pay the fund upon his death to another (Id.). Rule held not to apply, where no gift of capital to children until after termination of trust. Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239. A scilicet cannot restrict a grant where the former words are express and special. Secus, where the former words are so indifferent that they may receive such a restriction without apparent injury. Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158.

Fee held not cut down to life estate: By direction to pay income for life and residuum to heirs at law of beneficiaries. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472. By subsequent clause directing his share to be invested for his benefit during his life, and for his wife and issue after his death. Mee v. Gordon, 93 N. Y. S. 675, rvg. 45 Misc. 259, 92 N. Y. S. 159.

Restrictions on right to alienate: Subsequent clauses cannot avail to take from an estate previously given, qualities which the law regards as inseparable from it, but are operative to define the estate given, and to show that what without them might be fee was intended as lesser right. In re Shower's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 789. Words importing restriction on power to alienate cannot affect prior devise of fee. Devise of all real and personal estate to wife, she to dispose of any or all of it she wishes for her own use so long as she remains unmarried, and on death or remarriage "all of what is left to revert back to my legal heirs," held to give her fee. Huber v. Hamilton [Pa.] 60 A. 789. Attempt to cut down fee simple by withdrawing estate from liability for devisee's debts held of no effect. Britt v. Rowland Lumber Co., 136 N. C. 171, 48 S. E. 586. Same rule applies to conditions against alienating life estate. Sprinkle v. Leslie [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1018.

Conditions repugnant to an estate in fee fail: Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472; Brooks v. Brooks [Mo.] 86 S. W. 158. Conditions or limitations in restraint of alienation or essential enjoyment. Direction that estate should not be sold for 10 years, in absence of agreement by all the devisees. Clark v. Clark, 99 Md. 356, 58 A. 24. The intent to create an absolute estate must be beyond serious question before subsequent clauses creating remainders can be held void for repugnancy. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051. Where, by one clause, property is devised by words prima facie importing an absolute estate, and by subsequent clause is given in remainder to another person, the first devisee takes only a life estate, and the remainder over is valid. Id.

Provisions void for repugnancy: Any provision as to what disposition shall be made of estate in fee simple in case devisee or legatee dies without issue, or upon any other contingency subsequent to the vesting of the estate. Talbot v. Snodgrass, 124 Iowa, 681, 100 N. W. 500; Cralle v. Jackson, 26 Ky. L. R. 417, 81 S. W. 669. Cannot give absolute and unlimited estate, with full power of disposal, and then make direction as to disposition of what remains on death of devisee. Tarbell v. Smith [Iowa] 101 N. W. 118. Nothing on which subsequent clause disposing of what is left on death of first taker can operate. Luckey v. McCray [Iowa] 101 N. W. 516.

Fee not cut down: By clause providing that if son died without issue, and wife was also deceased, etc., where son survived widow and died without issue. In re Sharpless' Estate, 209 Pa. 409, 58 A. 806. By provision that "When she * * * is done with it I give to * * * church * * * $1,000." Cox v. Anderson's Adm'r, 24 Ky. L. R. 1081, 70 S. W. 839. Rehearing of 24 Ky. L. R. 721, 69 S. W. 953 denied. By subsequent clause directing devisee to will property to testatrix's heirs. Merrill v. Webster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 672. By request that at her death what remained be divided among children. Snodgrass v. Brandenburg [Ind.] 71 N. E. 137. Rehearing denied, 72 N. E. 1030.

79. Where a devise without words of limitation or description of the extent of the estate is coupled with a personal charge upon the devisee, in effect a condition of the devise, the operation of such a charge is to enlarge the life estate that would otherwise pass into a fee simple. McCaffrey v. Manogue, 22 App. D. C. 385. Devise to widow in fee, with subsequent provision that she is to have property only so long as she remains unmarried, and making devise over in case she remarries, held to give her fee and not life estate, qualifying terms being condition against remarriage. Beatty v. Irwin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 926. A devise of the residue to one and his heirs forever "provided" he takes care of and looks after testatrix while she lives, creates an estate on condition and not a fee. Brennan v. Brennan, 185 Mass. 560, 71 N. E. 80.

80. Where will gave property to daughter as a sacred trust, and separate paper specified grandchildren as beneficiaries, held, such grandchildren had a vested equitable fee, with legal title in trustee, at death of testatrix, and not a remainder. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931. Devise of estate generally and indefinitely, with power of disposition carries fee. Cralle v. Jackson, 26 Ky. L. R. 417, 81 S. W. 669. Where estate is expressly limited to one for life or widowhood, the addition of a power of disposal does not enlarge it into a fee. Melton v. Camp, 121 Ga. 693, 49 S. E. 690; Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs [R. I.] 59 A. 740; Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770; Tuerk v. Schueler [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 357. Will held to give wife life estate with power of disposition as to a part thereof. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482. Will bequeathing property to husband "for him and to his use" for life with power to sell same, held to give him life estate, with power to sell and dispose of same for valuable consideration. Semper v. Coates [Minn.] 100 N. W. 662. Gift to wife "for her use, benefit and control during her natural life," and providing for division of "my estate" among others after her death, held to give her life estate only, without power to consume corpus. Provision that if for benefit of her or estate, realty may be sold by her and executor, does not show different intention. Schneider v. Schneider [Wis.] 102 N. W. 232. Son held only to be entitled to use interest of bonds for his support, and not principal, and hence did not take title to bonds themselves in any way inconsistent with the validity of a bequest over. Hall v. Brownlee [Ind.] 72 N. E. 131. Not power to sell and convey certain lots of the land in

Gifts over may be implied from life estates,[81] and vice versa.[82]

A devise with a gift over on specified contingencies is frequently held to give a defeasible fee to the first taker.[83] fee, at the devisee's discretion, for maintenance and support. Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. D. C. 424.

The same rule may apply where the will clearly implies that the first taker is only to have a life estate. Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770.

Nor is a gift for life enlarged into a fee by a power of appointment with a limitation over in case it is not exercised. Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs [R. I.] 59 A. 740.

81. Devise to daughter-in-law for life or widowhood and if she married, property to go to her children, held, the will operated as a devise to the children subject to the rights of their mother as expressed in the will. Wilder v. Wilder [Ky.] 86 S. W. 557.

82. No definite estate being in terms given the first taker, a limitation over upon his death is construed as indicating an intent that such taker shall have a life estate. O'Connor v. Rowland [Ark.] 84 S. W. 472. Life estate may arise by implication where donor devises property generally, without specifying quantity of interest, and adds some power of disposition, with remainder over. Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770. Devise over in case first taker "leave any of the property at her death," held to give her power to sell and convey it. Galloway v. Durham, 26 Ky. L. R. 445, 81 S. W. 659. Where testator devised realty to his son but gave him no definite estate therein, and provided that the devisee's mother should have control of the property for her life, and if the son should die the property should go to a daughter, held, son took life estate charged with support of mother. O'Connor v. Rowland [Ark.] 84 S. W. 472. A will gave to testator's wife "all my Holmes place [describing it], also all my stock that I may have at my demise, after her demise to go" to a third person; held, wife received a life estate only both in the Holmes place and in the stock. Montgomery v. McPherson [Miss.] 38 So. 196.

83. In the absence of anything to indicate a contrary intention, a devise or bequest to a named person, followed by a provision that if he shall die childless the property shall pass to another, gives him a fee, subject to be divested upon his dying childless. Hill v. Terrell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 81. Such a devise does not give an estate in remainder to children. Will held not to show such an intent because provided for different disposition in case devisee died under age of 21, and unmarried, or because devisee's share given in trust. Id. Devisee does not take fee simple on birth of children. Wilkinson v. Boyd, 136 N. C. 46, 48 S. E. 516. Where there is no intervening estate, and no other period to which the words "dying without issue" can be reasonably referred, they are held, in the absence of something in the will evidencing a contrary intent, to create a defeasible fee, which is defeated by death of devisee at any time without children then living. Harvey v. Bell, 26 Ky. L. R. 381, 81 S. W. 671. Held, further,—the will providing that the trustee, appointed by the testator to hold the property, might, at any time he deemed wise, transfer the property to the devisees and relieve it of the trust,—that the words relating to death without issue were not limited to the time before such transfer of the property by the trustee. Id. A devise in trust followed by "If any of my children die without issue their portion to revert to my estate for the benefit of my living beirs," held to refer to after the death of the testatrix, therefore the children only took a defeasible fee. Cochran v. Lee's Adm'rs [Ky.] 84 S. W. 337.

Held to create defeasible fee: Under devise to wife for life and provision that, on her death, he desired that land be owned equally and jointly by his children, or in case of the death of any of them, his share to go to heirs of his body, if any, and if not, to those surviving, held, that children took conditional fee to ripen into absolute fee on death of widow, and defeasible by death of child before that of life tenant. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; Id., 74 N. E. 12. Under a will devising land to testator's son, with the provision that if the son does not live until his youngest child shall become a certain age, the land should go to the son's wife and children until such time arrives, held there is a devise of the fee with a conditional limitation over so that the death of the wife does not cause the children to lose their interest in the property. Sutton v. Dickerson [Ky.] 85 S. W. 687. Under devise to two persons for life with remainder to the survivor and at the latter's death to designated heirs of such survivor, held, such heirs had an interest which would descend to their heirs upon dying before the life tenant, though contingent. Morton's Guardian v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1188. Provision held to give $5,000 to daughter for life, subject to be defeated by her remarriage; upon her death or remarriage, money to go to another. McKee v. McKee's Ex'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 736, 82 S. W. 451. Remainderman's title held to be defeasible fee, defeasible by his death without issue. Id. Will held to give property to a daughter for life, remainder in fee to her children living at her death, or their descendants, or if no children or descendants, to a nephew or his descendants; or if nephew and descendants, if any, be dead, to brothers and sisters or descendants. Id. Under devise in trust for distribution of income for 20 years to grandchildren, and on expiration of that period to be equally divided among them, in the event of any of them dying within that period, his share to go to his children, or, if none, to be equally divided among the survivors, held that grandchildren took vested equitable interests in trust estate, defeasible upon death within 20 year period, in which case his share accrued to his surviving children or to testatrix's surviving grandchildren as of the date of his death. Marshall v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 476. Devise in equal shares to sons, the share of any one dying intestate and unmarried to go to the other children, gives each son vested estate,

"Interest" and "income"[84] or like words, when definitive of the extent of benefit to result to the taker, may mean literally the entire income or only interest on a sum equal to the corpus of the property referred to,[85] or they may mean a subject to be divested. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731. Devise to wife for life, remainder to oldest son, but if he should die without male issue, to second son, and, if he should die without male issue, to third son, etc., gives oldest son, or in case of his death, others in turn, vested estate, subject to be divested upon death without male issue. Id. Testator gave residue to nephew and niece in words sufficient to constitute fee, and provided that niece's share should go to her husband, should he survive her, and after his death to his children, but if he should leave no children, then to testator's heirs. Niece survived both husband and her only child, the latter dying intestate and unmarried after father's death. Held, niece took fee, whether will be construed as giving her fee at testator's death, or conditional fee subject to be divested on death without issue, or as life estate, remainder to husband for life, and remainder in fee to children surviving him, in which case would take as child's heir. Gilkie v. Marsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 703. Devise to sons, their heirs and assigns forever, land not to be sold until younger son was of age; if sons should die without issue, the testator's surviving heirs to have the property. Gannon v. Albright, 183 Mo. 238, 81 S. W. 1162. Devise to children in fee, the share of any child dying under 21 and without issue to be divided among the survivors, gives each child a vested estate on death of testator, subject to be divested upon happening of double contingency. In re Wilcox, 64 N. J. Eq. 322, 54 A. 296. Devise to daughter, and if she should die without lawful heirs, then her share to be divided, held subject to be divested by her death without issue, such being evident intention as gathered from whole will. Dean v. Nutley, 70 N. J. Law, 217, 57 A. 1089. Under devise to husband and sister for life, or until his remarriage, and on death or remarriage of husband his share to go to sister and on her death her share to go to him, and on death of both then over absolutely, held, that husband's interest was divested by remarriage, and he acquired no further interest by subsequent death of sister. Fletcher v. Hoblitzell, 209 Pa. 337, 58 A. 672. Estate to A. for life then to B. and her heirs, but if B. die without issue, over, and B. survives the testator and life tenant and has issue which also survives, B. takes a fee. Brown v. Geissler, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 258. Bequest of stock and money in trust for grandson, income, or so much as necessary, to be applied to his use and education until he reached 21, and after that, and until reached 25, all the income to be paid to him, the whole fund and accumulations to go to him at 25, or, in case of death before that time, to his issue, or in default of issue, to residuary legatees, held to give him vested interest in fund which was divested on death without issue, under age of 25. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999. On his death under such circumstances, accumulated income held to go to his estate. Id. Under devise to wife for life, with remainder to children, with provision that if any child died before testator or his wife, his children should take share parent would have had, held that son took vested remainder in fee at testator's death, subject to be divested on death during widow's lifetime leaving children. On death during such time without children, estate went to son's heirs. Wicker v. Wicker [S. C.] 49 S. E. 10. Devise to son "with the express understanding and restriction" that if he died without lawful issue, estate was to go to others, held to give him fee on birth of issue, and not life estate with remainder to issue. Yocum v. Parker, 130 F. 722, afd. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 205.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 2130.

85. The word "income" will not be restricted to mean interest when to do so would create a void accumulation. In re Marshall, 43 Misc. 238, 88 N. Y. S. 550. Children held entitled to receive income of trust fund according to their necessities prior to becoming of age, and after majority, but before the distribution of the fund, each was entitled to an equal share of the income proportionate to the number of children then living, and on final distribution each was entitled to an equal share. No intent that there be an equalization of the entire amount received by each, including sums paid for support, etc. Williams v. Thacher [Mass.] 71 N. E. 567. Though beneficiary is entitled to only half the income of a trust fund, trust will be continued as to entire principal, gift of half the income of a fund being regarded as more desirable than income of half the principal. In re McCallum's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 903. Dividends on stocks and bonds pledged by testator as collateral security, applied on indebtedness, held not to be income from which annuities could be paid. Skinner v. Taft [Mich.] 103 N. W. 702. Whether premiums paid by trustees for bonds should be charged to principal or income depends upon whether testator intended that beneficiary should receive full income of trust fund, or that entire principal should pass to remainderman on termination of trust. Will held to show intent that they be paid from principal. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

Accrual: In case of a bequest of the interest or income of a certain fund, the income accrues from testator's death. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1366. In re Brown's Estate, 143 Cal. 450, 77 P. 160; In re Sprague, 94 N. Y. S. 84. Under bequest of pecuniary legacy to be held in trust during beneficiary's infancy, the fund to be loaned, and the interest to be used in keeping, maintaining, and educating him, held, that interest was part of legacy itself, and legatees entitled thereto from death of testatrix. Gaston v. Hayden, 98 Mo. App. 683, 73 S. W. 938. Rule has been held not to apply where a sum is given in trust to pay income. Cannot pay it until they receive fund from executors and invest it. In re Brown's Estate, 143 Cal. 450, 77 P. 160. A bequest in trust to pay the income to a legatee for life will be construed as investing him with title thereto from date of testator's death, if estate is sufficient to pay right to take profits from the soil, e. g., minerals.[86] Where income is to be paid as needed and the surplus turned back to await final distribution, the beneficiary has no interest in it till payment.[87]

Legacies, annuities, support, release of debts.[88]—A specific legacy is a gift of some specific thing.[89] A general legacy is one which does not necessitate delivering any particular thing, or paying money out of any particular portion of the estate.[90] A demonstrative legacy is a gift of a certain amount of money to come out of a particular fund.[91] debts, and there is nothing to the contrary in the will. Webb v. Lines [Conn.] 58 A. 227. While estate is in executor's hands, beneficiary not entitled to receive income, but merely to have it added to corpus of fund. Where several such trusts, beneficiaries of each entitled to have share augmented by average income. Id. Will held not to have imposed on executor duty to separate widow's share as soon as practical so as to entitle her to legal interest. Id. A life tenant held entitled to the income of an estate in trust on the creation of the fund, but computed as from the testator's death. Estate consisting of unimproved real estate was given in trust, income to a life tenant, remainder over. Trustees were to sell and invest at their discretion. Edwards v. Edwards, 183 Mass. 581, 67 N. E. 658. Where will directed trustees to pay half of net annual income to cousin, and also to provide for support of uncle in not to exceed a specified sum, cousin entitled to half clear net income, without deductions on account of payments for support of uncle. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

Effect of death of beneficiary: Accumulated income goes to estate of beneficiary having vested interest in fund on his interest being divested by his death. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999. In absence of statute, interest falling due prior to death of beneficiary goes to his estate, but dividends on stocks, composing trust fund declared next after his decease are not apportionable. Id. By statute in Rhode Island (Gen. Laws 1896, c. 203, § 39), if person entitled to annuity, interest, income, etc., dies or contingency on which it is to cease happens before termination of year from time when whole of annual amount for preceding year has become due, amount thereof will be apportioned, in absence of contrary provision in will. Id. Does not apply to wills made prior to Feb. 1, 1896 (Id. § 45). Id.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 2131, n. 35.

87. Under will giving property to defendant's children, but providing that it shall not be disturbed as long as he lives, but until his death income shall be subject to a reasonable support of him and his family, held that none of such income can be taken by defendant's creditors. Any balance belongs to children. Kelsey v. Webb, 94 App. Div. 571, 88 N. Y. S. 4.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 2131.

89. Of specified part of testator's personalty distinguished from all others of same kind. In re Fisher, 93 App. Div. 186, 87 N. Y. S. 567. A bequest of a specific article or fund, which can be distinguished from all the rest of the estate of the same kind. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888.

Legacies held to be specific: Gift of $600 out of $1,100 in hands of brothers. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. Gift of "all my deposit of money" in specified banks. In re Howard's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 86. Bequests of stock not residuary legacies, though postponed until after the death of the widow. In re Klenke's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 167.

90. In re Fisher, 93 App. Div. 186, 87 N. Y. S. 567. Is payable out of general assets of the estate. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. Where a general legacy of stocks and bonds is given to a trustee, in case they are not found in the estate at testator's death, it is the duty of the executor to purchase a sufficient number of the different kinds to make up the deficiency. Blair v. Scribner [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 211. Under provision that it was testator's "further meaning" that if he should not leave all stocks specified "he shall not be required to supply said bonds and stocks, but only take such as I may leave," held that it was not duty of executor to purchase others, but to take from other stock left by testator a sufficient quantity to supply deficiency in value. Id. If fails to do so, beneficiaries are entitled to relief in equity. Id.

Legacies held general: Legacies of specified number of shares of stock in named corporations to trustee for each of number of beneficiaries, where testator owned sufficient amount of each stock, when will was made, notwithstanding provision that if he did not leave all stocks mentioned trustee should not be required to purchase others, but should take what he did leave. Blair v. Scribner [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 211. Bequest of contents of box in safe deposit vault to several persons in specified proportions, where securities contained therein could not be divided as directed without sale. In re Fisher, 93 App. Div. 186, 87 N. Y. S. 567.

91. Must appear that unconditional gift in nature of general legacy was intended, and bequest must indicate particular fund out of which it is payable. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. Demonstrative bequests out of grandson's legacy held contingent on death of latter before death of widow. On his surviving her, residuary estate held to go to him, and not to be applied to such bequests. Paul v. Philbrick [N. H.] 60 A. 682. Payable out of particular fund or security. In re Fisher, 93 App. Div. 186, 87 N. Y. S. 567. A demonstrative legacy is a bequest of a certain sum payable out of a particular fund, but if such fund is insufficient, the deficiency to be made good from the general funds of the estate. In re Howard's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 86.

The question of the priority of a legacy in lieu of dower over devises of realty is one of intention, to be gathered from the will itself.[92]

An annuity[93] is a bequest of certain specified sums periodically.[94] If the fund or property out of which it is payable fails, resort may be had to the general assets.[95] Annuities will be made a charge on the whole estate or on whatsoever part or income thereof is designated for such purpose,[96] and no intent to encroach on the corpus beyond such fund will be easily implied.[97]

"Advancements"[98] so called[99] will not be deducted unless referred to in such way as to so intend.

92. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 69 A. 296. See, also, post, "Charges," etc., and "Abatement," etc.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 2133.

94. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1357, subd. 3. Gift of specified sum in trust to pay beneficiary not to exceed certain sum monthly from the income, held not annuity, since amount of income, and hence amount to be paid monthly, is uncertain. In re Brown's Estate, 143 Cal. 450, 77 P. 160. A gift of income is not an annuity, and interest does not begin thereon until one year after testator's decease. Id. Annuity to servant, on condition that he remain in service of daughter, held distinct from wages, and not to be deducted therefrom. In re Tracy, 179 N. Y. 501, 72 N. E. 619. Will held to fix the expiration of a bequest of an annuity at a period of twenty-five years from and after probate. Davis v. People, 111 Ill. App. 207.

95. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1357, subd. 3. In re Brown's Estate, 143 Cal. 460, 77 P. 160.

96. Where annuity is payable out of residuary estate, it is proper for executors, as such, to set apart a sufficient sum to provide therefor, which is subject to distribution according to the will, when the annuity ceases. Merrill v. Wooster [Me.] 59 A. 596. Is part of residuum, and executor never parts with title to it. Even if treated as trust fund for benefit of annuitant, must be returned to executor for distribution. Id. Where will authorized executors to invest such sums as, in their discretion, they deemed necessary to secure payment of certain annuities, and that, when any fund provided for that purpose ceased to be needed, it should fall into residue, held that annuities could be paid out of general estate or by setting apart specific sums. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168.

97. Where sum of money, or life annuity, is given in such a way as to show separate and independent intention that it shall be paid at all events, that intention will not be overruled by direction that money is to be raised in particular way or out of particular fund. Skinner v. Taft [Mich.] 103 N. W. 702. Annuities to widow and children to be paid from income and profits not charge on corpus of estate, though provisions for her recited to be in lieu of dower where she was also to have part of corpus at time of distribution. Id. Where widow received allowance during administration, could not contend that sums so paid were diverted from purpose intended. Id.

98. Strictly speaking the word "advancement" is applicable only to cases of intestacy and refers to money advanced by a parent to a child in anticipation of his future share of the estate. In re Cramer, 43 Misc. 494, 89 N. Y. S. 469. It is, however, employed by courts of equity to denote money or property advanced as a satisfaction pro tanto of a general legacy given by a parent or one in loco parentis to a child or grandchild. Id.

99. Where will provided that money or property received by legatees during testator's lifetime was absolute gift and in no sense an "advancement," and should not be considered as reducing legacies, held, amount of note given by niece, who was also legatee, to testator, should be deducted from her legacy. In re Cramer, 43 Misc. 494, 89 N. Y. S. 469. Under Ky. St. 1903, §§ 4839, 4840, a provision that children should share equally in the estate, and amounts previously received by them should not be charged against them, applies only to advancements made before execution of the will. Nall v. Wright's Ex'rs, 26 Ky. L. R. 253, 80 S. W. 1120. Hence an advancement in the form of notes, subsequent to date of will, receipt for which recited it as an interest in the estate, was properly charged to the beneficiary receiving it. Id. But only to the extent that the notes were collectible. Id. Where bequest was to be paid unless testator had advanced equal sum to legatee and had taken his note therefor, in which event executor was directed to deliver to him any notes testator might hold against him to that amount, held that fact that testator had advanced to legatee more than amount of legacy and had taken his notes therefor did not deprive him of legacy, where, prior to his death, testator had delivered all the notes to legatee, and had none in his possession at his death. Blair v. Scribner [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 356. Where the will provided that the estate, plus advancements, should be divided into four parts, one of which was to go to each of testator's children after deducting the amount advanced to him, and the advancements made to one of them, who was insolvent, exceeded one-fourth of the estate, held, that the shares of each of the other three should abate ratably to make up the deficiency, it being testator's evident intention that all should share equally. In re Whitmore's Will, 86 App. Div. 179, 83 N. Y. S. 213. Advancements do not bear interest unless there be a clearly manifest intention that they shall do so expressed in the will. In re Stahl's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 402. One bequeathing insurance policy to children of deceased wife "without abatement on account of premiums" paid or to be paid, held, payment of premiums could not be set off against a note executed by the decedent and held by the estate of his wife. Claypool v. Claypool, 4 Ohio C.

Support.[1]—Whether the trustee is to pay over the income directly to the persons for whose support a trust is created, or is to personally use and apply it for their benefit, depends upon the language by which the trust is created.[2] Whether the corpus of the estate is to be used depends upon the intention.[3] A trust for children is not void because it fails to specify how much the trustees shall expend for their support and education.[4] In California, legacies for maintenance bear interest from testator's death.[5] If the evidence shows that the legatee had been supported by testator for many years prior to his death, the legacy will be construed as one for maintenance, though the will does not so state.[6]

A legacy to a debtor[7] does not operate as a release or extinguishment of the debt, unless it clearly appears that testator so intended.[8]

Cumulative legacies.[9]—There is a presumption that parents do not intend to give double portions to children, and therefore where the same quantity is given them and the same cause, or no additional cause, assigned for a repetition of a gift in a subsequent clause, the intention will be inferred to be the same, and accumulations will be rejected.[10]

Vesting and perpetuities.[11]—The law favors the early vesting of estates,[12] hence the interest will, if possible, be deemed vested in the first instance,[13] and if

C. (N. S.) 577. See 2 Curr. L. 2132. See, also Estates of Decedents, § 17b, 3 Curr. L. 1324.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 2133.

2. Trustee held authorized to pay over income directly to beneficiaries. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394.

3. Will held to authorize corpus of property to be used for support of widow, if necessary. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Under provision requiring trustee to pay over income "and so much of the principal as may be necessary for" the comfortable support and maintenance of the beneficiary, trustee is chargeable with exercise of discretion, and should not pay over any of the principal unless shown to be necessary for that purpose. In re Fisk, 45 Misc. 298, 92 N. Y. S. 394. Devise to wife for life or until her three sons became of age, at which time all the land was to belong to them, the wife, if then living, "to have her maintenance of the land," held not to give her any interest or estate therein, but, at most, only creates a charge in her favor, and does not affect son's right to possession. Not a condition. Whitaker v. Jenkins [N. C.] 51 S. E. 104.

4. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942.

5. Civ. Code, § 1369. In re Brown's Estate, 143 Cal. 450, 77 P. 160.

6. Fact that made monthly payments to cripple held not to render legacy to her one for maintenance. In re Brown's Estate, 143 Cal. 450, 77 P. 160.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 2133.

8. Amount of note deducted from legacy. In re Cramer, 43 Misc. 494, 89 N. Y. S. 469.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 2133.

10. Codicil held to show intention to substitute gift of house in trust for adopted daughter for gift of another house previously given by the will. Gift subject to mortgage not payable out of estate. In re Benson's Estate, 209 Pa. 108, 58 A. 135. Provision in codicil giving legacy to daughter on her marriage, held substitute for and not in addition to that given her by will, where otherwise personalty would be insufficient to pay other legacies. Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 2134. See distinction between conditions precedent and subsequent, post, this section.

12. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731; Swerer v. Trustees of Ohio Wesleyan University, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 333; Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999. At earliest possible period, in absence of contrary intention. Tarbell v. Smith [Iowa] 101 N. W. 118. Construction most favorable to vesting will be adopted. Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828.

13. Unless language requires contrary, favors vesting after death of testator. Wicker v. Wicker [S. C.] 49 S. E. 10. The will becomes operative at testator's death. Estate of wife held to vest at that time. Walker v. Hill [N. H.] 60 A. 1017. The estates of intestates and of testates, where no condition is attached to the legacy itself, vest upon the death of the decedent, and the control of the administrators or executors over same is merely fiduciary and does not affect the successor's "right to succeed to, or inherit property." Estate of Asa S. Bushnell, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 673. The law favors a construction that will avoid the disinheritance of remaindermen who happen to die before the termination of the precedent estate. In re Hitchins' Estate, 43 Misc. 485, 89 N. Y. S. 472; Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828. Remainders will be held vested unless contrary intention appears. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Will never be regarded as contingent when may be regarded as vested consistently with apparent intention. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482; Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. Charitable gift held vested. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513. Legacy held payable on happening of any one of three contingencies, and to have vested on death of testator. Watkins v. Bigelow [Minn.] 101 N. W. 497. Executory devisee of personalty and contingent remainders are governed by the same rules so far as concerns their alienation or not, then at the earliest possible moment,[14] unless the language of the will clearly shows a different intention.[15]

Where there is a devise to one remainder over direct to others, the presumption is that testator intended to create vested remainders, nothing appearing in the will to the contrary.[16]

Where the persons or the class who are to take in remainder,[17] or the hap-transmission. Ingersoll v. Ingersoll [Conn.] 59 A. 413. Upon the death of one in whose favor either may have been created, though the contingency has not occurred on which his right to ultimate enjoyment may depend it will form a part of his estate, unless his survival until the termination of the prior estate is a condition precedent to his taking any benefit from it. Id. Bequest of personalty to M. for life, and on her decease to C., if then living, or if not, to be equally divided between S. and J., held to create executory devise in favor of C., his enjoyment of which was dependent on his surviving M., and executory devise in favor of S. and J., whose enjoyment thereof was dependent on their surviving C., and, neither C. nor S. having survived M., half goes to J. and half to testator's estate. Id.

14. Estate will be held to vest at early rather than remote period, unless will shows different intention. Marshall v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 476.

15. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999. Rule adopted as guide to probable intention, and never applied when intention is that estate should not vest. Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239; Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482. Intendment of law will not prevail over fairly defined testamentary intention to the contrary. In re Adam's Estate, 208 Pa. 500, 57 A. 979. To make estate contingent must clearly appear from language used and circumstances that the time of payment was made the substance of the gift. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731. Title to property held in trust for children held not to vest in them until after termination of trust. Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239.

16. Devise of two-thirds of income to widow for life and balance to E. for life or until marriage, and on death of widow before death or marriage of E., two-thirds to E. and balance to daughter M. At marriage or death of E., remainder of estate was to be sold and proceeds divided equally among all children, and share of any deceased child, leaving children living at testator's death, to go to such children. Widow and M. died after testator. Held, that M. had vested interest which descended to her children. Woods v. Little [C. C. A.] 134 F. 229. Where remainder given to children of life tenant living at his death, question as to whether period of vesting is fixed as of testator's death or that of life tenant depends upon whether direction to divide among them describes class who shall take or simply fixes time at which gift shall be paid. If former, it is contingent. In re Adam's Estate, 208 Pa. 500, 57 A. 979. Gift in trust to pay so much of income to widow as she might need for support, and rest to children, and issue of any who died leaving issue, and after death of widow, the entire income to the children then living and issue of any who should have died. After death of children, income was to be paid to their children until they reached age of 21, when principal was to be divided according to intestate laws. Held to create vested interest in grandchildren. In re Smith's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 255. Where persons who are to take a contingent interest are certain, as in case of gift over to children of C. by W., deceased, after death of son, if dies without issue, such interest on their death before that of the first taker, descends to their heirs or passes to their personal representatives according to whether the property is realty or personalty. Hall v. Brownlee [Ind.] 72 N. E. 131. A remainder over to a class, any one of which is in being at testator's death, vests at that time, but will open up to let in after-born members. Children of life tenant. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. Is the present capacity of taking in possession that distinguishes vested from contingent remainders. Id.

17. Where devisees compose a class, and there are no words of devise, except a simple direction to divide the property at a specified time, the gifts will not ordinarily vest until the time of division. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429.

Remainders held contingent: If persons who are to take are dubious and cannot be known until title in trustee becomes extinct. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Held to be intention that remainder should go to children, or issue of deceased children, living at termination of trust. Id. Where there is a devise to a class with a particular estate intervening between the death of testator and the period of distribution, all persons belonging to the class at the time of distribution take, though born after testator's death. Grandchildren. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37. As far as remainder is limited to children not in being, it is uncertain both as to event and person, and hence contingent. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. Devise in trust for joint lives of two daughters, P. and A., and lives of survivor of them, to pay income to P. for life and after her death, leaving A. surviving, during life of A. to apply such income to use of P.'s children and issue of any deceased, and after death of survivor of P. and A., the estate to go in fee to P.'s children. Held, that only children surviving both P. and A. in each case were entitled to share in the remainder. Denison v. Denison, 96 App. Div. 418, 89 N. Y. S. 126. Estate did not vest on death of P. leaving A. surviving, but only on death of A., in children and issue of deceased children then surviving. Id. Neither did income vest in children, they being only entitled to participate therein during their lives. Id. If time annexed to substance of gift, as condition precedent. Under provision "that at the expiration of pening of the contingencies on which they are to take,[18] or the shares which they shall have, are uncertain, there is a contingency to which vesting is postponed. Words of contingency are so referred in time as to favor vesting,[19] and may be so read that remainders will accelerate.[20] Hence such words as "upon,"[21] or "at the death of,"[22] "surviving,"[23] "when,"[24] and "then,"[25] do or do not postpone vesting, according to the sense and connection in which they are used.

the life estate of my wife, that which is given to her for life shall be equally divided between all my children," representatives of deceased children to take parent's share, held, children took contingent remainders, the contingency being that they should survive their mother. Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633. Where gift over to children of life tenant describes class who are to take. In re Adam's Estate, 208 Pa. 500, 57 A. 979. Where no distinct gift to whole class preceding particular description, so that uncertain event forms part of description of devisee or legatee. Children "then living." Mulliken v. Earnshaw, 209 Pa. 226, 58 A. 286.

18. Gift to daughter in trust until she reached 25, when trust was to cease and property to "vest absolutely in" her, but "in the event of the death of" such daughter without heirs, then the property to go to others, held that gift over contingent on her death before reaching 25, and on reaching that age, she was entitled to property absolutely. Gerting v. Wells [Md.] 59 A. 177. Death is not a contingent event, the time when it may occur alone being uncertain, and hence the reference to it as terminating the daughter's estate must be understood to mean contingency of time it may come to pass in relation to her reaching 25. Id. Devise held contingent on devisees living until distribution of estate or leaving issue. Brookhouse v. Pray, 92 Minn. 448, 100 N. W. 235. Where a will bequeathed certain legacies to minors on their becoming of age, and to the survivor if either of them died before that time, and, if both died, then to certain others, such bequests were contingent and the legal title does not vest in the legatees during minority. Morrow v. Morrow [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 590.

Held contingent remainders: A devise to be paid to children on their attaining majority, but if any of them died before they attained majority, their share to go to the survivors. Johnson v. Terry, 139 Ala. 614, 36 So. 775. Gift in case beneficiary should reach 21, but in case she should die before 20, without an heir, then to others. On death before 20 without heir, estate goes to secondary beneficiaries. In re Jackson's Estate, 209 Pa. 520, 58 A. 890. Devise in trust to pay interest to beneficiary for life, and at her death principal to be divided among three cousins of testator, children of deceased cousin to take his share, and in event of cousin dying without issue, estate to be divided among survivors. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946. Devise in trust to pay income to daughter until her marriage and birth of child, when she was to receive principal, with remainders over in case of her death unmarried and without issue. In re Ryder, 43 Misc. 476, 89 N. Y. S. 460.

19. See ante, this section, "Particular Words," etc.

20. Remainders will accelerate where devisee of life estate forfeits it by some act or omission, as by remarriage. Fletcher v. Hoblitzell, 209 Pa. 337, 58 A. 672. Under devise to wife for life or while she remains unmarried, with remainder over after her death. remainder takes effect in possession on her death or remarriage. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. Where a life tenant disclaims under Ky. St. 1903, § 2067, title at once vests in the remainderman, and where a subsequent clause disposed of all the residue of the testator's estate, nothing passed as in case of intestacy as provided in § 4843, from which the devisee was entitled to be equalized with other devisees as authorized by § 1407. Faulkner v. Tucker, 26 Ky. L. R. 1130, 83 S. W. 579. Legacies of stock, to take effect after wife should have income for life, are accelerated by wife's election not to take under the will. In re Klenke's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 167. Lapse of preceding life estate accelerates remainders limited thereon. Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs [R. I.] 59 A. 740. Where there is a gift over in default of appointment and the donee dies before testator, the person named in the gift will take. Id. By death of life tenant before the testator. Lacey v. Floyd [Tex.] 87 S. W. 665. Where to take effect on termination of invalid trust. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143.

Compare post "Gifts taking effect freed from void limitations."

21. Direction that income and so much of principal as might be necessary should be applied to maintenance of son and that "upon" his reaching age of 21 he should receive realty and any surplus income "absolutely." Held, surplus income vested as paid in, time of enjoyment only being postponed. In re Ranken, 91 N. Y. S. 933. "Upon the death of" the life tenant, held to refer to time when remainderman shall come into possession, and not to time when estate shall vest. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. Gift over "upon the death" of child held to mean death at any time after that of testator, where he had provided for case of child who might die before he did. Lewisohn v. Henry, 179 N. Y. 352, 72 N. E. 239.

22. Devise to one for life and "at his death" to his children or their children who may be living at that time, held to give children living at testator's death a vested estate in fee, with possession postponed. Charleston, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [S. C.] 48 S. E. 476.

23. Words of survivorship may be held to be divesting limitations where if construed to postpone vesting they would conflict with a clear intention to produce equality. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731. Provision that in event of son dying intestate and unmarried his share shall go to all testator's "surviving children," refers to those surviving when such death occurs. Id. "Surviving children" held to mean those surviving at

"Vesting" is inquired of the creation of the estate or interest and not of possession or enjoyment, hence it is not postponed by words of futurity or contingency related to possession or enjoyment only, and the consequent uncertainty whether a taker may ever enjoy his estate in possession or whether it may not be divested does not prevent its vesting in interest, whether caused by the existence of a trust or a power or a restraint on alienation, or a divesting condition.[26] Limitations on contingencies named do not necessarily prevent vesting death of one of the children. Lawrence v. Phillips [Mass.] 71 N. E. 541. Limitation over in case of death of child before reaching age of 21 and without issue, held not to refer to happing of such contingencies during testator's lifetime only, but limitation took effect on their happening after his death. In re Wilcox, 64 N. J. Eq. 322, 54 A. 296.

24. Devise of remainder to grandchildren "when my children are all dead," held vested. Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828. Legacy to daughter "when she is 18 years old," held contingent. Heberton v. McClain, 135 F. 226.

25. Devise in trust for life, and on death of life tenant remainder to be equally divided among his children "then living," with further limitation over in case life tenant died without issue. Estate held vested at death of life tenant. In re Adam's Estate, 208 Pa. 500, 57 A. 979. Devise for life, remainder to children "then living," held contingent. Mulliken v. Earnshaw, 209 Pa. 226, 58 A. 286. Direction that, after death of wife, property was to be sold, and after payment of certain legacies, "then" the remainder was to be divided among children, held to give them mere conditional fee or interest in proceeds, which did not become absolute until wife's death. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482.

26. Power of sale: Devise of use of property for life with remainder over to defendant, subject to power of sale in life tenants, creates vested remainder. Hare v. Congregational Soc., 76 Vt. 362, 57 A. 964. Under devise to wife for life or widowhood, with power of disposal, and remainder over to his lawful heirs on her death, or in case of her remarriage, in the latter event she to be included as heir, held, heirs took vested remainder, subject to be defeated in whole or in part by exercise of power and subject to open and let her in, in event she remarried. Melton v. Camp, 121 Ga. 693, 49 S. E. 690.

Trust: Children held to take title in fee, subject to trust, and to possession by trustees during trust period, and, on death of one of them, his share vests in his heirs. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. Trust. In re Hitchin's Estate, 43 Misc. 485, 89 N. Y. S. 472. A provision that the estate remain in the name of testator's estate for five years after the death of the life tenant, and be administered by a person selected by the surviving heirs, does not prevent the vesting of the remainders. Wool v. Fleetwood, 136 N. C. 460, 48 S. E. 785. An immediate vested interest passes when property is devised directly to devisees, but possession and control is placed in an executor for a term of years, the benefits during such period to inure to the devisees. Swerer v. Trustees of Ohio Wesleyan University, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 185. Where whole estate was vested in trustees, with provision for division among testator's sons, corpus held not to have vested in remainder during continuance of trust. People's Trust Co. v. Flynn, 44 Misc. 6, 89 N. Y. S. 706. Where a will devised $300 in trust for the education of a certain person, the devise vested on the death of the testatrix. Nevell's Adm'r v. Dunaway [Ky.] 86 S. W. 514. Where a testator devised land to his brother for life, and at his death to his children or descendants then living, a child of the brother took a vested remainder during the lifetime of the life tenant, subject to a reduction of his interest by the birth of other children to the life tenant and which children should survive their father. Hodges v. Harkleroad [Ark.] 85 S. W. 779. Where will directed residuary estate to be held by executors for 25 years, the income, after the payment of certain legacies, to be added to the principal, at the expiration of which time they were to form a corporation to which the whole of the estate was to be conveyed, to be by it used for founding of hospital for care of indigent sick in certain county, the residue being given accordingly, held that entire estate was impressed with trust in favor of charity from testator's death, and that gift vested at once on his death. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513. Validity of gift not affected by provision for accumulations, since, as whole estate vested in charity from testator's death, the accumulations would follow the principal in any event. Id. Legal estate vests in trustees, and equitable in that part of the public which is to be benefited. Nothing passes directly to corporation, but it takes only by conveyance from trustees. Codman v. Brigham, 187 Mass. 309, 72 N. E. 1008.

Divesting conditions: Uncertainty whether remainderman will outlive life tenant and come into possession does not render remainder contingent, though it is liable to be divested on happening of such contingency. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. Vested remainder in children of testator by will providing property at death of wife, should go to seven children, and if any child died without issue living at death of wife, his share should go to the survivors. Roach v. Dance, 26 Ky. L. R. 157, 80 S. W. 1097.

Possession postponed: An interest may be vested in right, though not in immediate possession. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999. If futurity is annexed to substance of gift, vesting is postponed. If annexed to time of payment only, estate vests immediately. Id. Fact that possession is postponed does not render remainder contingent. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. Postponement of possession does not of itself show intention to postpone vesting. Marshall v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 476. If payment or of the precedent estate.[27] Estates over vest when all the contingencies are fulfilled.[28]

Perpetuities[29] and void accumulations should not be found,[30] but terms necessarily leading to such a result will not be denied their intended meaning.[31] distribution is deferred merely for the purpose of creating an intervening life estate and not for reasons personal to the legatee, the estate will vest at testator's death, enjoyment only being postponed. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. Remainders held vested. Id. Fact that payment of legacy given absolutely is postponed until death of testatrix's husband does not postpone vesting so as to cause it to lapse on death of legatee during husband's life. In re Weinstein's Estate, 43 Misc. 577, 89 N. Y. S. 535. Estate a vested one, though executors directed to retain and manage it for 10 years before distributing it. In re Woods, 133 F. 82. Where will gives "title" to grandchildren, subject to life estate in children, and provides that on death of any child that such estate "shall vest in" his issue and be "divided among" them, the estate of the grandchildren vested in point of right at testator's death, "vest" as used in the will meaning a vesting in possession and enjoyment, and on death of child, his issue took his share at once. Smith v. Jordan [Conn.] 59 A. 507. In the absence of provisions showing a contrary intent, a legacy payable at specified time in future is not contingent, but vests immediately. Brookhouse v. Pray, 92 Minn. 448, 100 N. W. 235. Where the only words of gift are found in the direction to divide or pay at a future time, the gift is contingent, but this rule yields to an intent to make a present gift. In re Hitchins' Estate, 43 Misc. 485, 89 N. Y. S. 472. Where words "go and belong" were used instead of "pay and divide," will held to show intent that remainders should vest at testator's death. Id.

27. A limitation over to testator's heirs, on the death without heirs of testator's children, to whom estate in remainder was given, does not render estate of such children contingent or defeasible, since testator's heirs must necessarily be those of his children. Wool v. Fleetwood, 136 N. C. 460, 48 S. E. 785. Bequest of residuary estate to husband for life, with remainder to two daughters equally, "should either of them die leaving issue, such issue to take and receive the share of its parent," held to create vested remainder. Heberton v. McClain, 135 F. 226.

28. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937. Not until then. In re Ryder, 43 Misc. 476, 89 N. Y. S. 460.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 2139. See, also, Perpetuities and accumulations, 4 Curr. L. 975.

30. Trusts to apply income invariably occasion suspension of the power of alienation, but trusts to pay annuities do not. Trusts to pay annuities held valid. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168. May, on creation of trust, suspend power of alienation for two lives in being, and during such period provide for distribution among as many different persons and for as many successive lives as he sees fit. Id.

Provisions held valid: Bequest to charitable corporation to be held by it for the purposes of the incorporation thereof, the principal to be kept invested and the income expended for the charitable purposes of the corporation. Is an outright gift, and does not create a trust. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168. Trusts to apply income for benefit of beneficiaries. Id. Directions that executors collect the rents and maintain estate for two years, and then have it sold, does not suspend power of alienation. May be previously sold on order of court. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825. Devise of separate tracts to children for life with remainder to grandchildren, "when my children are all dead," held to create vested remainders, right of enjoyment vesting immediately on death of each grandchild. Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828. Devise of life estate with provision that devisee should elect within three months whether he would accept it. In re Trotter's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 404. Devise in trust to pay part of income to widow and balance to children, and after death of widow income to be divided among children then living or issue of any who had died, and after death of children income to be paid to grandchildren until arrived at age of 21, when principal was to be divided. In re Smith's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 255. See, also, ante, preceding paragraphs.

31. Provisions held void: Gift to son until testator's youngest grandchild should attain the age of 25, when it was to be divided among grandchildren. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37. Suspension of power of alienation necessarily implied by creation of trust for 30 years and direction that land be sold after expiration of such period, and hence trust void (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 3382), though no express prohibition of alienation. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520. Under devise to cousins for life, remainder to the survivor and then over to others, provision that the same should never be sold, in so far as it attempts to prohibit a sale after the vesting of the estate in the remaindermen. St. 1903, § 2360, construed. Morton's Guardian v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1188. Held evident intention that surplus profits should accumulate during lifetime of sons for benefit of children, and accumulation void because not limited to period within their minority. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970. Trust for life of grandchild born after testator's death. In re Faile's Estate, 44 Misc. 619, 90 N. Y. S. 157. Vesting of trust estates held dependent on years instead of lives. Hagemeyer v. Saulpaugh, 97 App. Div. 535, 90 N. Y. S. 228. Power of sale given to trustees for purposes of distribution, proceeds being subject in all respects to the execution of the trusts, held not to cure such invalid provisions. Id. A provision that none of the realty shall be sold by the life tenant, or disposed of in any way. Wool v. Fleetwood, 136 N. C. 460, 48 S. E. 785. A provision for a deposit of money in bank, interest to be used yearly to keep burial lot in Possession and enjoyment[32] accompany a present vested legal estate. In the case of a future interest, they await its vesting as a legal estate,[33] and in case of a trust or equitable estate, the beneficiary becomes entitled to possession when the trust is completed or whenever the conditions are satisfied on which testator made the right depend.[34] In case of a life tenancy in consumable personalty or money, special conditions of possession to protect future interests may be found.[35]

Individual rights in gifts to two or more.[36]—A devise to two or more, in the absence of an express declaration to the contrary, will be construed as creating a tenancy in common and not a joint tenancy, unless it clearly and explicitly appears from the language employed that the testator understood the nature and incidents of the different estates, and intended to create a joint tenancy.[37] Under a devise to husband and wife, it will be presumed that they take by entirety unless the will shows an intention to make them joint tenants or tenants in common.[38]

A will ordinarily speaks of persons from the death of the testator.[39] Hence a gift to a particular class of persons is a gift to those coming within that description at testator's death, in the absence of something to show a contrary intention.[40] The fact that the gift is in remainder,[41] or that, by such a construccondition. Const. art. 1, § 26. McIlvain v. Hockaday [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 54.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 2141, n. 15.

33. See ante, as to time of "vesting."

34. See post, "Trust Estates and Interests," also post, § 5E.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 2141, n. 19, 20, and see, also, Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 4 Curr. L. 438.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 2142.

37. Tenancy in common unless expressed intention to contrary, or such intention manifestly appears from instrument. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 3341. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609; Id., 74 N. E. 12. Whether or not survivorship is intended is to be gathered from the language of the will. In re McCallum's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 903. Pa. Act March 31, 1812 (5 Smith's Laws, p. 395) merely takes away survivorship as incident to joint tenancy and makes no change where estate is created by will. Id. Under devise of fund in trust to pay income to wife and daughter, or survivor of them, and during lifetime of wife income should be paid to them equally, held, that on death of daughter before widow, latter took entire income for life. Id. N. Y. Laws 1896, p. 569, c. 547, § 56. Same rule applies to personalty, bequeathed to two or more persons in their own right. In re De Rycke's Will, 99 App. Div. 596, 91 N. Y. S. 159. A restriction postponing the right of tenants in common to partition is not invalid as repugnant to the estate created, or as against public policy. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. Provision fixing time of division held express condition against prior partition. Id.

Devises held to create tenancies in common: Words of equality. Taylor v. Stephens [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 609. Remainder "to be owned equally and jointly by my children," shares of deceased children to go to "heirs of their bodies if any, and if not, to those surviving." Id. Rehearing denied 74 N. E. 12. Phrase "share and share alike" in gift to several, implies tenancy in common. Testatrix held not to have intended to create joint tenancy with right of survivorship. Colville v. Kinsman [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 959. Devise in remainder "in two parts" to pastors and deacons, respectively, of two churches, to be equally divided between them, with direction to use only the income, which was to be received and divided in peace and harmony. Osgood v. Rogers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 306. Bequest of income to several persons, to be divided "equally" among them. Loomis v. Gorham [Mass.] 71 N. E. 981. Devise over to several "to be equally divided between them, share and share alike." Langley v. Westchester Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 44.

38. Booth v. Fordham, 91 N. Y. S. 406.

39. Smith v. Smith [Mass.] 71 N. E. 314.

40. Bequest in trust for sister for life, with remainder over to the brothers and sisters of testatrix. Smith v. Smith [Mass.] 71 N. E. 314. Under devise over to a class, the objects thereof should be determined as of the date of testator's death. Melton v. Camp, 121 Ga. 693, 49 S. E. 690. As to the persons who are to take the will speaks from the death of the testator, but only in so far as the facts and circumstances are susceptible of anticipation by him, so that he can place himself in the position which he will then occupy with respect to his property and family. Remainder over to grandchildren held not to include child adopted by testator's son after will was made. In re Hopkins, 43 Misc. 464, 89 N. Y. S. 467, afd. 92 N. Y. S. 463. The words "heirs at law" when used in a will mean heirs at law at the time of distribution. Hostetter v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 337.

41. Smith v. Smith [Mass.] 71 N. E. 314. Under devise to one for life with remainder to his children as a class, a grandchild of the life tenant, whose parent died before the testator, cannot share in the remainder with the only child of the life tenant in esse at testator's death and life tenant's death. Rule not changed by Civ. Code 1895, tion, the life tenant is brought within the class among which the estate is to be divided, does not change the rule.[42] Naming the members has no controlling force if all of the class is named.[43] A distinct and positive direction as to what each shall take controls an expressed intention to make an equal division.[44]

Strangers to testator's line usually are found to take per capita, and descendants per stirpes,[45] unless by words of equality[46] or otherwise, as by placing those of different degrees or of the same degree but different lines in one class,[47] he negatives such intent. The term "equally to be divided" means division per capita and not per stirpes, no matter who the devisees,[48] but if the objects of the testator's bounty are divided into classes, the division is per stirpes.[49]

Conditions.[50]—No precise words are necessary to create a condition, any words showing such an intention being sufficient;[51] but conditions, especially if divesting, are reluctantly implied.[52] Whether they are precedent depends on the intent as to how they should operate on that to which they are attached.[53]

§ 3084. Crawley v. Kendrick [Ga.] 50 S. E. 41.

42. Smith v. Smith [Mass.] 71 N. E. 314. In an estate to a son for life remainder to the heirs, the life tenant is entitled to share in the remainder, he being one of the heirs. In re Abel's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 531. As to the persons who are to take and their condition, the will speaks as of its date. Under gift "to my wife, M.," she takes, though she obtained absolute divorce prior to testator's death. In re Jones' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 915. Pa. Act June 4, 1879 (P. L. 88), providing that will is to be construed as of time of testator's death with reference to any property embraced in it, does not change this rule. Applies only to subjects of disposition and not to objects. Id.

43. Where devised homestead in remainder to "children hereinafter named and their issue, share and share alike," and later provisions named all the children, all were entitled to share. Sondheim v. Fechenbach [Mich.] 100 N. W. 586.

44. Children. In re Heathcote's Estate, 209 Pa. 522, 58 A. 888.

45. Where joint will of husband and wife gave wife right and authority over joint property, and, in case she survived him, to live thereon till her death, the property left thereafter "to be divided equally between our lawful heirs on both sides," the wife's heirs take half the land per stirpes. Knutson v. Vidders [Iowa] 102 N. W. 433. Income to be divided among testator's two living children, and children or descendants of his deceased son. Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412. Under devise in remainder to children "equally, share and share alike," the representatives of any deceased child to take ancestor's share, held that, if any of them died leaving no representatives, the estate should be equally divided among the survivors. Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633.

46. Under devise in remainder to heirs of life tenant's body, "share and share alike," children and grandchildren held to take per capita. Parrott v. Barrett [S. C.] 49 S. E. 563.

47. Where a gift is to the children of several persons, they take per capita (Kidwell v. Ketler [Cal.] 79 P. 514), unless there is something in the will to show a contrary intention (Id.). Only slight indication of different intention is necessary, and some courts hold that the division will be per stirpes unless the language used is such as to exclude that intention. Id. Issue of niece and niece and nephew held to take per stirpes under devise to them in remainder. Id.

48. Priester's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 386. The words "equally to be divided" when used in a will mean a division per capita and not per stirpes. Hughes v. Hughes, 26 Ky. L. R. 625, 82 S. W. 408.

49. "To my brother A's children, B's children, my sister, D, my sister-in-law E's children," to be equal beneficiaries, the children take per stirpes. Miller's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 453.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 2144.

51. In order that conditions may be effectual, testator's intention must be reasonably clear and precise. Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218. Condition that if sons should marry "common women" their interest should terminate, held void for uncertainty. Id. Devise to son for life, reversion of same in fee to his children; "but the express condition of this bequest is upon the penalty of forfeiture, that the said land is not at any time to be subject to any liens or incumbrances of any kind by the reversioners," held not to limit life tenant's control and disposal of his interest, and hence his interest was liable for his debts. Flaherty v. Stephenson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 131. See, also, ante, "Particular Words," etc.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 2145, n. 47.

53. See, ante, Vesting. See post, § 6. Requirements in nature of consideration for devise will be regarded as conditions precedent. Mollenkamp v. Farr [Kan.] 79 P. 646. In case of devise of realty, fact that there is no provision as to effect of failure to perform condition does not militate against conclusion that it is precedent, but is important only as tending to show intent. Id. Held conditional fee to one on condition to pay all taxes, etc., and not encumber or sell before age of 40. Matlock v. Lock [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 171.

Held condition precedent: Devise to widow for life, with provision that on her death land was to go to two sons "provided that they pay over whatever difference there may be in the appraisement or allotment made by their mother for the benefit of my other children, said allotment to be made at the discretion of my wife," held, that proviso

Where the condition is precedent, it must be performed before the estate will vest.[54]

Divesting clauses are strictly construed, and an estate once vested will not be divested unless all the events on which the gift over is to take effect happen.[55]

Intent to require election[56] may be found wherever provisions are made in the alternative,[57] or where by a complete disposal of property statutory rights are of necessity cut off by taking under the will.[58]

Charges, exonerations, and funds for payment.[59]—The question whether legacies and expenses are to be charged on the realty is always one of intention.[60]

A general direction that all testator's debts be paid charges them upon the realty.[61] was condition precedent, and no title passed to sons thereunder on death of mother before making appraisement or allotment. Moilenkamp v. Farr [Kan.] 79 P. 646. Devise to one provided he cared for testatrix during her life. Brennan v. Brennan, 185 Mass. 560, 71 N. E. 80. Under provision directing payment of mortgage indebtedness of testator's brother, provided it had been reduced "by him" to certain sum, reduction by brother himself during his lifetime. He having died before making such reduction, legacy lapsed. Brown v. Ferren [N. H.] 58 A. 870.

A condition subsequent is one operating to divest rather than to prevent the vesting of an estate. Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218. Where condition subsequent is void, the estate vests absolutely. Id.

Held conditions subsequent: Provision that should sons at any time marry common women their interest in devise should terminate. Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218. Rights of widow held to terminate in case she remarried. Haseltine v. Shepherd [Me.] 59 A. 1025. Devise to one "on condition" that he appear and claim it before final distribution of estate, and in no event later than ten years from date of will. Brookhouse v. Pray, 92 Minn. 448, 100 N. W. 235.

54. Fact that condition was to be performed during lifetime of testatrix and that tenant had no knowledge thereof until after her death, immaterial except in so far as he is the heir at law. Brennan v. Brennan, 185 Mass. 560, 71 N. E. 80. When devisee on whom condition affecting realty is imposed is also the heir at law, it is incumbent on any person who would take advantage of the condition to give him notice thereof. Id. Where tenant is also an heir, he cannot be unqualifiedly ousted from the land, and compelled to account for rents and profits on nonperformance, since he would thereby be deprived of his interest as heir. Id. Condition in bequest to church that it should be paid over provided a certain additional sum for the erection of "a new house of worship" was raised within ten years, held not complied with by raising such sum for a new meeting house and vestry and expenditure of most of it for a vestry, no particular sum having been secured for the erection of a meetinghouse. Trustees of the Ministerial Fund of the First Parish in Cambridge v. First Parish [Mass.] 71 N. E. 74.

55. Smith v. Smith, 139 Ala. 406, 36 So. 616.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 2145. See, also, Election and Waiver, 3 Curr. L. 1177.

57. Will held to give husband and daughter right to occupy house, instead of receiving rent, on assuming and agreeing to pay mortgage, repairs, etc. Farrar v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 85 App. Div. 478, 83 N. Y. S. 218.

58. Where a husband makes a specific testamentary provision for his wife, and disposes of the remainder of his property to others, the widow will not be permitted to take both under the will and under the law, when the manifest purpose of the testator would thereby be defeated. Will held inconsistent with intention that widow should have $500 statutory allowance (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2424) in addition to legacies. Boord v. Boord [Ind.] 71 N. E. 891. Husband cannot deprive her of statutory rights, but where makes other provisions clearly intended in lieu thereof, she will be deemed to have waived statutory rights by accepting them. Id. The widow is required to elect only in case she receives some beneficial interest under the will. Not where only bequest to her is in payment of debt and devise was of estate held by them by entireties. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 2146.

60. Where personalty consisted of deposits in banks standing in testator's name as trustee for his wife, daughters, and sisters, realty is charged with legacy and with taxes, etc., on realty devised, which executor is directed to pay. McManus v. McManus, 179 N. Y. 338, 72 N. E. 235. Devise of all realty and bequest of notes, etc., to daughter, "with the understanding that she shall pay" certain legacies out of her portion of the estate, makes legacies charge on whole estate, including realty. Broadbridge v. Sackett [Mich.] 101 N. W. 525. Where will gave husband land, stable on homestead on his paying mortgage on same, portion of house for life, and stock of goods in store, "he paying the debts," and paying specified sum to each child, and gave residue to children, he was required to pay both store debts and all other debts. Ashman v. Harriman, 72 N. H. 559, 58 A. 501. Provision requiring wife, to whom residuary estate was devised absolutely, to pay legacy to testator's adopted daughter of his estate, held to make legacy charge on realty. Gragg v. Gragg, 94 N. Y. S. 53. Taxes, insurance, and repairs on realty devised to daughter, directed to be paid by executors, held payable out of the corpus of the residuary estate and not out of the income of the personalty. In re Tracy, 179 N. Y. 501, 72 N. E. 519.

61. Personalty primary fund. Roll v. Roll

A residuary clause passing real and personal property in a blended mass has the effect of charging precedent money legacies on the whole estate.[62] Land devised immediately to executors will be considered charged with the legacies directed to be paid, whether there is a deficiency of personalty or not.[63] In the absence of a contrary intention appearing, a legacy directed to be paid in lieu of dower, and given for the support of the widow, will, as between her and the other devisees, be deemed payable out of the entire estate, and to be charged upon the lands.[64] Whether such legacy is to be paid out of the corpus or the income of the land is a question of intention.[65] An intention to charge the realty with the payment of legacies will not be inferred from the mere fact that there is a deficiency of personalty.[66]

A charge does not follow the transmutation of one property into another unless such property can be followed and identified, and it appears that such was the intention.[67] The fact that the charges may consume all of the property does not alter the character of the title, or prevent its transmission according to testator's intention.[68]

Where legacies are made a charge on certain land to the extent of half its value at an estimated price per acre, such estimated value and not the market value should be used as a basis for determining the amount of the lien.[69]

When an entire estate is charged with a life annuity, the remaindermen cannot, without the consent of the annuitant, have a portion of the estate alleged to be unnecessary to secure the annuity distributed to themselves.[70] Land on which legacies are charged cannot be partitioned until after the executor's accounts have been settled so as to show what amount of personalty is applicable to the payment of the legacies, and hence what portion of the land is subject to the lien.[71]

Deductions.[72]—A provision that the amount due testator from a legatee

[N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296; McKinley v. Coe [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1030. Creates equitable lien which may be enforced in chancery. If land sold in partition free from debts, lien may be enforced against proceeds. Id. Is equitable estate or interest in land, created at testator's death, and if debt not barred at that time, may be enforced within 20 years from that time as if it were a legal estate created by the will. Id.

62. Held inequitable, under circumstances, to allow legatees who had accepted mortgage on land as security for legacies in ignorance of fact that they were charge thereon, to declare that it was not substituted security. Vernon v. Mabbett [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 298. Clause not in terms residuary. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296. Where gives certain legacies, and then remainder of estate, both real and personal, to trustees for certain purposes, legacies are charge on entire estate, and duty of executor to pay same, selling realty therefor if necessary. Coulter v. Bradley [Ind.] 71 N. E. 903.

63. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296.

64. She will be considered as purchaser for value. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296.

65. Annuity held payable out of corpus. Where executors have discretion as to time of sale, it will not be ordered unless abuse is shown. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296.

66. Proceeds of sale of realty held not applicable to payment of legacies. In re Heathcote's Estate, 209 Pa. 522, 58 A. 888.

67. Will directed certain property to be sold and proceeds to be used to pay debts and legacies, any balance to be divided among certain persons. Specific legacies were advanced by testatrix during her lifetime, and she, having conveyed the property, executed a codicil reciting that fact and revoking the legacies, "leaving the rest of my said will as drawn." Held, that property subsequently purchased passed under a residuary clause, it not being shown that the proceeds of the property sold went into the purchase. Rickman v. Meier, 213 Ill. 507, 72 N. E. 1121.

68. After specific bequests, will gave residue of property to daughter in trust for grandchildren, subject to certain charges. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931.

69. Not market value at time when lien was sought to be enforced, though value had depreciated. Mahoney v. Breckenridge, 84 App. Div. 156, 82 N. Y. S. 537.

70. The discretion of the orphan's court in a proceeding under P. L. 98, for the exoneration of trust estates will not be reviewed. McCoy's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 282.

71. Where land is devised to children subject to use of one-third by widow for life, and charged with certain pecunlary legacies. Serena v. Moore [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 953.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 2148.

shall be deducted from her share does not preclude the executor from proving the full amount of such indebtedness against her estate in bankruptcy.[73]

Trust estates and interests.[74]—A trust estate may be created, though part of its terms are found by implication only.[75] The trustee takes such an estate as the will defines or as the terms of the trust require.[76]

73. Particularly where distribution under will is postponed. In re Woods, 133 F. 82.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 2149.

75. Where it is necessary from the nature of the duties to be performed, an estate will vest in the trustees by implication, though there is no direct devise to them. In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. Will requiring trustee to invest and reinvest fund and pay to legatee certain sum annually for certain period, the balance, if any, to be then paid over to him, held not to create passive trust, but nevertheless, in absence of provision against anticipation, alienation, or attachment, beneficiary could dispose of interest, and hence could be reached by creditors through court of equity. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692. Bequest to defendants as trustees to pay over income to wife and children held to make them trustees and not executors, so far as that part of the estate exceeding debts was concerned. Jastram v. McAuslan [R. I.] 58 A. 952. Where such appears to have been intention, spendthrift trust will be sustained, though no provision that estate shall not be liable for debts of cestui que trust. In re Shower's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 789. Devise in trust to invest and pay income to children and to so control estate that they shall not impair or diminish principal held to create active and not dry trust. Id. Will held to impose trust on executor to invest shares of two of devisees with necessary incidental powers. Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023. The court will find in language imposing on an executor or trustee the duty of disposing of a mixed fund or property an implied power to sell realty, to the end that he may discharge such duty. Trustee held to have such implied power for purpose of converting land into income producing property. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597. Title in trustee will be implied where duties are active, and such title is reasonably necessary, and such appears to have been intent. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937.

76. Title of trustee: Takes whatever estate necessary to enable him to accomplish purposes of trust, both as to extent and duration. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214; Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751; In re Reith's Estate, 144 Cal. 314, 77 P. 942. When directed and empowered to convey fee, necessarily takes legal title. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Though word "heirs" not used. Executor takes fee where authorized to sell or lease at discretion. Olcott v. Tope, 213 Ill. 124, 72 N. E. 751. Such as exigencies of trust require. Where will devises realty to executrix to use same for certain period for her own benefit, with direction to then sell same and divide proceeds among children, including herself, she holds legal title as trustee, and is entitled in her capacity as executrix to maintain petition to recover damages for taking of property under power of eminent domain. Bean v. Com. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 784. A will empowering "my executor" to sell and dispose of property, held to vest the legal title with power to sell in the executor as trustee under the will, and not by virtue of appointment by the court. Hoggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703. Mere directions that executors shall take charge of property, execute mortgages when necessary, and at end of two years have property sold, do not create an express trust in realty, but only such a trust as pertains to office of executor, sale requiring confirmation, and mortgage an order of court under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1517, 1561, 1577, 1578. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825. Under a bequest of testator's personalty to trustees to pay an annuity and upon the annuitant's death to convey it to others, the trustees take all the personalty, though it is more than sufficient to produce an income sufficient to pay the annuity. In re Pichoir's Estate, 139 Cal. 694, 73 P. 604. Where property is devised to an executor to dispose of at either public or private sale and divide the proceeds among the testator's children in a given way, the title to the property vested in the executor to be disposed of in conformity to the will. Harris v. Kittle, 119 Ga. 29, 45 S. E. 729. Devise in trust to collect profits, make improvements and repairs, and pay over income until certain beneficiary reached age of 25, held to create active trust so that legal title vested in trustee, and remained there until beneficiary reached age of 25, when active duties ceased, and title became vested in beneficiaries by statute of uses. Trustee held not to have power of sale on termination of active duties. Moll v. Gardner, 214 Ill. 248, 73 N. E. 442. Devise in trust to sell property and pay income from investment of proceeds to wife for support of children during minority, held trust for benefit of children and not for widow's benefit, and trustees held legal title. Brown v. Doherty, 93 App. Div. 190, 87 N. Y. S. 563. Will imposing duties and discretionary powers on a trustee, held to create an active trust, hence the beneficiaries were not entitled to partition. Owens v. Naughton, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 639. Court will not annul a trust created by will which charges trustee with care and supervision of realty, and requires exercise of his discretion. Schick v. Whitcomb [Neb.] 94 N. W. 1023.

Held dry trusts: A devise in trust but providing that the beneficiaries shall have full control of the property. Trustee and beneficiaries can convey a valid title. Trust will be vacated on demand of beneficiary, and trustee required to convey legal title. Fink v. Metcalfe, 26 Ky. L. R. 1263, 83 S. W. 643. A devise in trust to a certain person "for the children of said son" of the testator. Executed at testator's death. Carter v. Long, 181 Mo. 701, 81 S. W. 162.

Duties and powers in general: It will be presumed that charitable trust will be administered agreeably to intention disclosed by will, and such intention may be en-

Powers of appointment and beneficial powers of sale.[77]—A power may be implied from any rights or authority equivalent thereto,[78] and will be of the forced by courts. In re Merchant's Estate, 143 Cal. 537, 77 P. 475. Will held to require plans for building to be approved by testamentary trustees and not trustees of industrial school named as beneficiary. Appeal of Beardsley [Conn.] 60 A. 664. Under bequest to institution for purpose of erecting memorial building, will held not to require that building should have been erected prior to certain date, but only that institution should have been incorporated. Id. Where stock was bequeathed to an executor in trust for daughter, and executors were directed to hold it and other stock until a certain date, and to pay the dividends "to each of said legatees annually," held, word legatees was used synonymously with children, and payments should be made directly to daughter, and executor who was also trustee was not entitled to commissions in both capacities. Lamar v. Harris, 121 Ga. 285, 48 S. E. 932. Gift in trust to apply so much of income as to trustee "may seem proper," held not to give her discretion to defeat trust, but simply discretion as to manner of its execution (Prince v. Barrow, 120 Ga. 810, 48 S. E. 412), and not to be too indefinite and uncertain to enable court to execute it on refusal of trustee to do so (Id.). A power conferred on trustees to distribute the estate at a certain time, if, in their judgment, it is prudent and for the best interests of the beneficiaries, is not a mere detached naked authority, purely discretionary, but is blended with the trust to which it attaches. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036. Will held not to authorize trustee to purchase stock of corporation as investment, knowingly paying more than it was worth. Cropsey v. Johnston [Mich.] 100 N. W. 182. Under bequest to trustees to pay one-third of income to wife for life, and other two-thirds "to pay over and distribute equally for the support, education, and advancement" of all testator's children, each child has absolute vested right to income which he may mortgage. Trustees have no discretion. Jastram v. McAuslan [R. I.] 58 A. 952.

Powers of sale: Where such powers are discretionary, a court of equity will never interfere before or after sale, except in cases of actual fraud or collusion (Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058), nor is the purchaser bound to inquire whether the trustees have properly exercised their powers, nor to see to the application of the purchase money, though the beneficiaries are infants (Id.).

Trustee held to have power of sale: For purpose of paying taxes, redeeming from tax sales, etc., and to use corpus of fund for support of widow. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Discretionary power as to both realty and personalty. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058. Provision directing trustees to sell "such portion as remains in their hands" implies power to sell fee, or at least is proof of intention of testator that it might be sold, where there are other words creating doubt as to whether or not such power was intended. Id. To sell realty secured under foreclosure of mortgage, and power inured to benefit of substituted trustee, though she was also a beneficiary. Sweet v. Schliemann, 95 App. Div. 266, 88 N. Y. S. 916. Under direction that land be sold and proceeds divided. Duckworth v. Jordan [N. C.] 51 S. E. 109.

Manner of execution—Cy pres doctrine: If, where there is a general charitable intent, it becomes impracticable, in consequence of a change in circumstances, to administer the trust in the precise manner provided by its creator, the doctrine of cy pres will be applied, and the trust will be administered in a manner that shall conform as nearly as possible to its terms. Osgood v. Rogers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 306; Codman v. Brigham, 187 Mass. 309, 72 N. E. 1008. Gift to pastors and deacons of churches, and their successors, forever, for the support of the churches in their religious worship, held to create valid public charitable trust. Osgood v. Rogers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 306. The full bench of the supreme judicial court may frame up a scheme for its administration under such circumstances. Id. Where trust created for benefit of two churches, and one of them, originally established by aid of other, was discontinued, held that its share should go to other. Id. Doctrine does not apply where only claim is that trustee is uncertain, there being no question as to intention as to what property should be used for, and object being lawful and possible. Cook v. Universalist General Convention [Mich.] 101 N. W. 217.

Termination of trust: Trust for benefit of minor children held to show intent that it should terminate upon their arriving at age of 21, though no direction that any property should ever be turned over to them. Woolverton v. Johnson, 69 Kan. 708, 77 P. 559. Where will placed property in trust until children attained the age of 21 years, when it could be partitioned, held trust continued, though all the children had attained the age of 21 years and there had been a partition of the estate. Davies v. Dovey [Ky.] 85 S. W. 725. A bequest of property held in trust held to indicate an intention that the property should be kept in trust. Cochran v. Lee's Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 337. Trust to continue during lives of two legatees valid, and will not be sooner terminated, especially where one of beneficiaries and trustee object. Hoffman v. New England Trust Co., 187 Mass. 205, 72 N. E. 952. Trust for benefit of children and sister held terminated on youngest child becoming of age as to all property except that in which sister had life estate, and such as was necessary to be held by trustees to pay taxes and assessments on her share. Williams v. Thacher [Mass.] 71 N. E. 567. Valid trust will not be decreed terminated where its objects have not been fully accomplished, and accomplishment has not been made impossible. Trust held to continue during life of daughters. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051. Under will and codicil directing payments of income to be made to son's wife and children, during life of son and his wife and either of them, duration of trust measured by son's life, where he survived wife. In re King's Estate, 210 Pa. 435, 59 A. 1106.

kind and extent which fair meaning attributes to testator's words,[79] not usually exceeding the estate of the donee, at least to the extent of destroying other gifts made by testator,[80] unless he clearly intended it.[81] The power may be executed

Substituted trustees succeed to all the powers, rights, and duties conferred on the original trustees by the will. Estate vests in them on appointment. Mass. Rev. Laws, c. 147, §§ 5, 6. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036. May exercise discretion as to distribution vested in original trustees. Id. Trust for creation of hospital not personal so as to be defeated by death of executors. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513. A person named as trustee in a will is not bound to act as such. May expressly decline to serve, or may be deemed to have disclaimed office by conduct, as where he refuses to qualify. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036. In such case probate court or court of equity may appoint successor. Id. If one trustee fails to qualify, estate vests in other. Spengler v. Kuhn, 212 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 214. Also when trustee becomes incompetent, trustee cannot delegate duties involving exercise of judgment or discretion, or which are personal in their nature. Id. Where a power is created and given by words clearly indicating that the donor placed special confidence in the donee, so that the element of personal choice or selection is found, its exercise must be confined to and exercised by such person, and is not ordinarily transmissible. Provision authorizing distribution and termination of trust at certain time, if, in the judgment of the trustees, "or the survivor of them," it should be for the welfare of the children, held not to confer merely personal power of distribution, but conferred power on whomsoever should be appointed to administer trust. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 2150.

78. A power to dispose of realty is not to be inferred from the mere use of words properly referable to another subject-matter. Bequest of an entire estate, real, personal and mixed, to testator's wife and after her death whatever remains, over, gives her a life estate only in the realty. Martin v. Heckman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 451. Will creating trust fund, with provision that, at death of beneficiary, principal was to go to those who would be legally entitled to receive it "were it given to him absolutely, and he owing no debts," held not to give beneficiary power of appointment. Otis v. March, 187 Mass. 298, 72 N. E. 961. Will of beneficiary held not an attempt to dispose of trust fund, but only to dispose of other property, and, it making no reference thereto and containing no intimation of how he would have disposed of it had it belonged to him, it should be disregarded in distributing such fund. Id.

79. Under bequest of money to a daughter and her bodily heirs, and provided that "she may use the estate so willed her, but at her death it is to go to her bodily heirs," held, she could spend her share, but anything left at her death should go to her children. Smith v. Courtnay's Ex'rs [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1101. Under gift to wife for life to be used according to her desire, and after her death all the property "remaining" to be divided, held that she took life estate with absolute power of sale over all of it, and right to use proceeds for support and comfort as she desired. McGuire v. Gallagher [Me.] 59 A. 445. Under devise to widow for life or until remarriage, with power of disposition, and remainder over to children, held that she had power to convey realty in fee during life and before remarriage, if necessary for her benefit and support. Haseltine v. Shepherd [Me.] 59 A. 1025. Under bequest to one "to hold, possess and enjoy during her natural life," with remainder over to another, the life tenant may use the property for her personal benefit if she chooses to do so, and the remainderman cannot recover the same from her estate without proof that there was a residue remaining. Board of Trustees of Westminster College v. Dimmitt [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 536. Testator gave half of residuary estate in trust for widow, with power of appointment, and in case of failure to appoint the same to go to those then entitled to other half, to be distributed in same proportions, upon like trusts, and with like powers as such second half. Second half was given to surviving children in equal shares with power to appoint certain part thereof. Held, that on failure of widow to make valid appointment, her share went to children, and each had like power of appointment in regard to it. Inglis v. McCook [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 630. A power "to alter and regulate, at her discretion, the proportions in which the same shall be distributed among the persons who shall be entitled thereto," does not authorize a gift to executors in trust for such persons, and such a gift is not an exercise of such power. In re Tenney, 93 N. Y. S. 811. Gift to wife "during her natural life and at her disposal" all the residue of estate, held to give her power to convey realty in fee. No remainder over. Parks v. Robinson [N. C.] 50 S. E. 649. Gift to wife "in fee simple, with power to sell and dispose of it as she may see fit," with provision that "if there is anything remaining" after wife's death it shall be disposed of in certain manner, gives her power to convey fee of whole or any part of realty whether she took fee or life estate with power of disposition. Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770. An estate to testator's wife "to have the same and use it at pleasure for her sole use," remainder over, gives her a right to convert all to her own use during her lifetime, but no authority to incumber the remainder for a debt, the proceeds of which is not used for her maintenance. Tyson's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 533.

80. A devise of one-half of an estate to a husband for life with power to exercise acts of fee ownership over it, remainder of the estate to children, but providing that the husband should decide when the estate should be partitioned and execute deed in partition, did not give the husband the legal title to the portion devised to the children. Power to convey limited to property devised to him. Wiess v. Goodhue [Tex.] 83 S. W. 178.

in any manner,[82] and appointment made to any persons compatible with the character of the power and not restricted by the will.[83]

Lapse, failure and forfeiture.[84]—Legacies will lapse on the death of the legatee before the performance by him of a condition precedent to the vesting of the legacy,[85] or because there is no one in being to take them when they become payable.[86] Ordinarily a legacy or devise will lapse by the death of the legatee or devisee during testator's lifetime,[87] but by statute in some states his share in such case goes to his heirs.[88] Such statutes are generally limited in their application to cases where the devisee or legatee is a child or other descendant of testator.[89]

81. Absolute power of disposal held to give wife power to convey fee whether she had estate in fee or only life estate, notwithstanding provision that "if there is anything remaining" after her death, it shall be disposed of in certain manner. Bodmann German Protestant Widows' Home v. Lippardt, 70 Ohio St. 261, 71 N. E. 770.

82. Where the authority of disposition by will is a mere power given to one having no reversionary interest, and attempted execution of the power by will made in conformity with the terms of an alleged contract is invalid. Robbins v. Smith [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1051. A power of sale given to wife and executor if for benefit of wife or estate, to be exercised with approval of adult children, cannot be exercised without their consent. Schneider v. Schneider [Wis.] 102 N. W. 232.

83. Power to divide property among "my lawful issue," held not to permit exclusion of any of them. Inglis v. McCook [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 630. Where power does not permit donee to exclude any of the objects of the appointment, such exclusion renders the execution of the power invalid, and the estate passes as in default of appointment. Id. Under devise in trust for children, giving them power to appoint "to and among his or her children or issue in such shares, proportions and estates, absolutely or upon trusts, as he or she may so will or appoint," donees restricted to its exercise in favor of designated class, but appointees within such class acquired all rights of ownership unlimited in power of disposition. Before execution of original trust, income goes to appointees. In re Lafferty's Estate, 209 Pa. 44, 67 A. 1112.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 2152.

85. Legacy held lapsed for failure of legatee to perform condition precedent. Brown v. Ferren [N. H.] 58 A. 870.

86. Under will giving legacies to those of nephews and nieces of testator's wife "who shall be living or whose legal representatives shall be living" at wife's death, children of deceased nephews or nieces took parent's share, but legacies of those dying childless lapsed. Miller v. Metcalf [Conn.] 58 A. 743.

Under will giving estate to daughter, or in case she died without having heirs, then to mother of testatrix, or in case she was dead, to her heirs and legal representatives, and providing that no part should go to husband or his relatives, held, where mother died first and then daughter, neither husband nor his relatives could claim through daughter as heir of grandmother. In re Tucker's Estate, 209 Pa. 521, 58 A. 889.

87. Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs, [R. I.] 59 A. 740; Langley v. Westchester Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 44.

Where a legatee dies before the testator, his legacy lapses. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049. Common-law rule. Gilbert v. Gilbert [Iowa] 103 N. W. 789.

NOTE. Gift to discharge moral obligation: Where it appears that the legacy was left, not merely as a bounty but to discharge a moral though legally unenforceable obligation, it will not lapse by the legatee's death in the testator's lifetime. Stevens v. King, 2 Ch. Div. 30.

The broad common-law rule is that a legacy will lapse where the legatee dies before the testator. Wright v. Horne, 8 Mod. 222; Hard v. Ashley, 117 N. Y. 606. But inasmuch as the lapsing of a legacy would seem to defeat the intention of the testator, the general tendency of the courts is to restrict rather than to extend the operation of the rule. Crecelius v. Horst, 9 Mo. App. 51. The following well-defined exceptions have been grafted on the common-law doctrine; a legacy will not lapse when granted to joint tenants unless they all die during the testator's lifetime (Dow v. Doyle, 103 Mass. 489); nor will a legacy to a class, though as tenants in common, lapse by the death of one of the legatees before the survivor. The survivors will take the whole. Crecelius v. Horst, 9 Mo. App. 51. The intention of the testator is also held to keep a legacy from lapsing when it is left to pay debts. Turner v. Martin, 7 De Gex, M. & G. 429; Ward v. Bush, 59 N. J. Eq. 144. Even in the case of debts discharged by a bankruptcy certificate (In re Sowerby's Trusts, 2 K. & J. 630), or debts barred by the statute of limitations, the death of the legatee before the testator will not cause the legacy to lapse (Williamson v. Naylor, 3 Y. & C. Ex. 208; Philips v. Philips, 3 Hare, 281). Hence it would seem that the holding in the principal case is clearly justified by the decisions.—From 5 Columbia L. R. 170.

88. Iowa Code, § 3281. Will held to show intent that devise to wife should lapse on her dying before testator, and hence estate passed to children under subsequent clause, and not as their mother's heirs. Gilbert v. Gilbert [Iowa] 103 N. W. 789.

89. In New York when devisee or legatee, who is child or other descendant of testator, dies during testator's lifetime, leaving a child or other descendant who

A residuary clause fails when no beneficiary is named and there is no person competent to take.[89]

Forfeitures for breach of conditions are not favored,[91] and where the language used is capable of two interpretations, that which will avoid a forfeiture will be adopted.[92] A beneficiary entitled to maintenance out of an estate can be deprived of it only by clear and satisfactory evidence that he has forfeited his right.[93]

Since it is the policy of the law to carry out the testamentary intention so far as possible,[94] valid portions of the will will be allowed to stand and the invalid provisions alone cut off where the two are distinct and separable, and testator's intention will not be subverted thereby.[95]

Residuary clauses.[96]—The residue is that part of the estate not otherwise disposed of.[97]

survives testator, such descendant takes as though the devisee or legatee had survived testator and died intestate. 2 Rev. St. [1st Ed.] p. 66, pt. 2, c. 6, tit. 1, § 52. Pimel v. Betjemann, 99 App. Div. 559, 91 N. Y. S. 49. The fact that the gift to the descendant is only as one of a class (Pimel v. Betjemann, 99 App. Div. 559, 91 N. Y. S. 49), or that he died before the execution of the will and that testator had knowledge of that fact does not prevent the operation of the statute (Id.).

The Minnesota statute contains practically the same provisions. Gen. St. 1894, § 4449. Are substituted legatees and take subject to same contingencies as parents would have taken. Take as purchasers, and not as heirs. Brookhouse v. Pray, 92 Minn. 448, 100 N. W. 235.

90. Lehnhoff v. Theine [Mo.] 83 S. W. 469.

91. Carlin v. Harris [Md.] 59 A. 122. Where the literal effect of a conditional limitation or restriction in a will is to cut down and defeat a pre-existing estate for life or in fee, and make it determinable upon the event of marriage, the condition or limitation will be regarded as merely in terrorem and not allowed to operate a forfeiture of the estate devised or bequeathed. Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. D. C. 424.

92. Under devise of double house for life, with provision that devise shall be forfeited if devisee shall, by way of anticipation, charge income from the realty, and house shall go to C, but if not forfeited, one side shall go to J and other to W on death of life tenant, no forfeiture is worked by life tenant charging income from one side of house only. Carlin v. Harris [Md.] 59 A. 122.

93. A widow entitled to a specified annuity or as much more as is needed for her support will not be barred because she has made herself liable for a loan made out of moneys of the estate to one of testator's children, which loan was never returned. Winter's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 643.

94. In re King's Estate, 210 Pa. 435, 59 A. 1106.

95. Invalid clauses will be treated as though never made, and constitute no part of the will. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37. Item held to create separate life estate independent of void trust. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520. Separate and independent life estate sustained, though trust invalid as contrary to rule against perpetuities. Id. Provision for inclosure of family graves valid. Provision for annual expenditure for their care effective only during administration of estate. Id. Charitable bequests, though not within statutory rule against perpetuities, held invalid as part of general scheme creating trust for thirty years. Id. Invalidity of trust held not to disturb plan of distribution, though producing inequality. In re Faile's Estate, 44 Misc. 619, 90 N. Y. S. 157. Amount of void trust, where trust fund expressly excluded from residuary clause. Id. A remainder limited on a void trust held to fall with the trust. Id. Trust to pay income not separable and distinct from subsequent provision allowing trustee to pay over principal to beneficiary under certain contingency, so as to allow such latter provision to be rejected and trust to be sustained. Ullman v. Cameron, 93 N. Y. S. 976. Where can be expunged without essentially changing or destroying the general testamentary scheme. As where invalid trust bears no relation to ultimate and concededly valid disposition of principal, except to postpone its enjoyment. Lord v. Lord, 44 Misc. 530, 90 N. Y. S. 143; Robb v. Washington & Jefferson College, 103 App. Div. 327, 93 N. Y. S. 92. Devise of life estate held separable and distinct from void trust. In re Trotter's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 404. Though a trust provides for void accumulations, its provisions will be carried out in so far as they are valid. In so far as relates to maintenance of family. In re King's Estate, 210 Pa. 435, 59 A. 1106. Fact that at time of testator's death, charitable corporation could not hold property to amount of devise, held not to invalidate gift as to excess, since it was to corporation only which was legally capable of taking, and no rights of heirs affected by special act, subsequently passed, authorizing organization of such corporation. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 2155, n. 30-40.

97. Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966. "Residue" means all that remains after all paramount claims on the estate are satisfied. After payment of debts and legacies, and satisfaction of widow's dominant right. In re Bradley's Will

No particular form of expression is necessary to constitute a residuary bequest,[98] but the intention to pass the whole estate must be expressed in some form.[99] The fact that the residuary clause is not the last of the disposing provisions is not of controlling importance in determining its character.[1]

A broad construction of an ambiguous residuary clause will be favored.[2] The enumeration of one or more particulars of the residuary estate, followed by a general expression which would include them and all else besides, manifests an intention to dispose of the residue as a whole.[3] The exclusion of certain children from the residue does not extend to their shares in a gift previously made.[4]

In the absence of a clear intention to the contrary, a general residuary clause operates upon all the estate remaining after effectuating the previous provisions of the will, including reversionary interests,[5] or additions by lapses, invalid dispositions, or other accident.[6] Where a disposition of an aliquot part of the residue itself fails, it will not ordinarily go in augmentation of the remaining parts, but will pass as intestate property.[7] A burial lot does not pass under a general residuary devise, but descends to the heirs as intestate property.[8]

[Wis.] 101 N. W. 393. Is different from net estate, and hence doctrine that undisposed-of property should first be used to satisfy widow's claim under statute does not apply. Hence where equal share is given to each of four persons, the second wife's statutory share should not be deducted from share of one of them which lapsed by reason of his death in testator's lifetime. Residuary legacies not abated by payment out of general estate. Id. Fact that second wife's share could not have been in contemplation when will was made, immaterial. Id.

98. Gallagher v. McKeague [Wis.] 103 N. W. 233. Any expression from which intention that designated person shall take surplus is discernible, is sufficient. Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966.

99. "Household furniture and effects" held not to include residuary personalty. Gallagher v. McKeague [Wis.] 103 N. W. 233. Words "the balance and residue of my estate of every kind I give, bequeath, and devise," held to include realty as well as personalty. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597.

1. Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966.

2. Intestacy thereby avoided. Thomas v. Thomas, 43 Misc. 541, 89 N. Y. S. 495; Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966.

3. Logan v. Cassidy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 794. Item of will held to dispose of whole residue, including remainder. Id.

4. Fuchshuber v. Krewson, 33 Ind. App. 257, 71 N. E. 187.

5. "Ralance and residue of my estate of every kind," held to include reversionary interest in realty, and to carry fee, subject to life estate therein. Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597. "Rest, residue, and remainder" held to include remainder, consequent upon widow's death, in property set aside from the residuary estate to produce her annuity. Thomas v. Thomas, 43 Misc. 541, 89 N. Y. S. 495.

6. Thomas v. Thomas, 43 Misc. 541, 89 N. Y. S. 495. Provisions creating a residuary estate will be deemed to speak as of the date of testator's death. Hence include legacies which have lapsed by reason of death of beneficiary. Langley v. Westchester Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 44. In the absence of a contrary intention. N. C. Code 1883, § 2141. Lapsed legacy held to pass under residuary clause. Duckworth v. Jordan [N. C.] 51 S. E. 109. Where trust is not disclosed by will, and no valid trust created by letter referred to therein, gift to trustee becomes inoperative, and beneficial interest results to residuary legatees. Bryan v. Bigelow [Conn.] 60 A. 266. Void legacies for charitable purposes. Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966. Personal property was bequeathed in trust to certain beneficiaries, on their death to go to their descendants freed from the trust. Held, on death of a beneficiary without descendants, his share fell into the residuum and passed in equal shares to the residuary legatees as provided in the will. Dozier v. Dozier, 183 Mo. 137, 81 S. W. 890. As a rule, lapsed legacies pass under a general residuary clause in absence of anything showing contrary intention. Langley v. Westchester Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 44. Use of words "after" and "then" in residuary clause do not necessarily show intention to exclude all included in former provisions. Are words of description rather than of exclusion and limitation. Id. N. C. Code 1883, § 2142. Legacy lapsed by reason of death of legatee before testator. Duckworth v. Jordan [N. C.] 51 S. E. 109. Charitable bequests, lapsing because will not properly witnessed, under clause providing for division of "everthing not otherwise specified that I may own." In re Wood's Estate, 209 P. 16; 57 A. 1103. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 203, § 7. Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs [R. I.] 59 A. 740. Where a devisee or legatee, who is a child or grandchild of testator, dies without issue before the death of testator, the legacy is treated as intestate property. 2 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 39, § 11. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049.

7. Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966; Bowers v. McGavock

Substitutions.[9]—Future estates may be created to take effect in the alternative.[10]

A substitution by a codicil reciting the death of particular legatees will be referred to the legacy given to them, though there be other substitutions and some identity of legatees.[11] A substitution in a codicil supplants a substitution in the will.[12]

Gifts freed from void limitations.[13]—Where bequests of the residuary estate to a trustee are void, the property will go to the residuary legatees.[14]

Accumulations in excess of those allowed by law will ordinarily be divided among the beneficiaries under the trust.[15] By statute in New York, void accumulations go to those presumptively entitled to the next eventual estate.[16] Every impossible condition contrary to the laws and good morals is reputed not written in a will, and the property remains to the legatees free from the incumbrance of the impossible condition, mode, or charge.[17]

[Tenn.] 85 S. W. 893. In case of the lapse of a residuary legacy, the property descends as in case of intestacy. By death of one of those to whom it was left in remainder. Langley v. Westchester Trust Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 44; In re Bradley's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 393. Where charitable corporation was made residuary legatee, and testatrix thereafter by codicil changed will so as to give specific sum for another charitable purpose, which latter bequest was void, held that amount of such void bequest passed under residuary clause. Not residue of residue. Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966.

8. In re Waldron [R. I.] 58 A. 453.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 2156.

10. Substitution of persons who would take under intestate laws held intended to be effectual only in case daughter died without leaving child who attained age of 21, and on leaving such child, property went to him when reached that age. In re Hull, 97 App. Div. 258, 89 N. Y. S. 939. Will held to have created two future estates to take effect in alternative, a remainder in son limited upon precedent trust estate, and contingent upon his arriving at age of 50, and exercise by executors of discretion to terminate trust, and remainder in testatrix's heirs, limited on same trust, and contingent upon failure of estate to vest in son, and his failure to exercise power of appointment. All contingencies must happen during son's lifetime. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937. Where remainders to children were contingent on their surviving the widow, remainder of anyone dying previously vested in representatives by purchase, there being a limitation of concurrent fees to take effect alternatively, or as substitutes one for the other. Bowen v. Hackney, 136 N. C. 187, 48 S. E. 633. Under provision that in case of failure of all the objects of the several trusts, property should go to those entitled under statute, word "several" held to mean "respective," and on failure of each trust respectively property goes to next of kin of testatrix at time of failure. Brown v. Hawkins [R. I.] 59 A. 78.

11. Five persons named in codicil held to take whatever bequest had been made to four legatees who died before it was made. In re Pearson's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 585.

12. Estate to be distributed among certain persons named, and if any of them were not living at testatrix's death, then equal division to be made among those living and the Friend's Boarding House. One of the persons having died before testatrix's death, another was substituted in his place. Held, that Friend's Boarding House took no interest. In re Pearson's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 585.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 2156.

14. Where bequests of residuary estate to trustee for purposes of certain trust are void, estate will be distributed to residuary legatees. In re Bogardus' Estate, 43 Misc. 473, 89 N. Y. S. 478.

15. In re King's Estate, 210 Pa. 435, 59 A. 1106.

16. By statute in New York (Laws 1896, p. 568, c. 574, § 53), void accumulations go to persons presumptively entitled to next eventual estate. Not the ultimate estate. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970. Undisposed of income. In re Bender's Estate, 44 Misc. 79, 89 N. Y. S. 731. Where impossible to determine who are so entitled, will descend as in case of intestacy. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970.

17. La. Code, art. 506. Where words sufficient to create legal title in legatee and intention to do so is ascertained, subsequent recommendations are innocuous, because if valid they will be executed, and if invalid they will be ignored. Succession of Hutchinson, 112 La. 656, 36 So. 639. Gift to Tulane University for the sole benefit of its medical department to be used in increasing its usefulness, held not to import a fidei commissium, since university and department are one. Id. The bequest is to Tulane purely and simply, and the tenure of the gift is in perfect ownership. Id. Gift to Tulane University for the sole benefit of the medical department, held to have vested absolute and unconditional title in the university, the designation of the objects and purposes of the gift not operating as a modification of the title, or forming any part of the dispositive portion of the gift, but being merely advisory. Id.

Property not effectually disposed of.[18]—Any property not disposed of by will descends as in case of intestacy.[19] In such case persons otherwise entitled take, though the will expressly excludes them from participation in the estate.[20] It will, however, be presumed that testator intended to dispose of all his property,[21] and, if possible, a construction will be adopted which will prevent a partial intestacy.[22]

18. See 2 Curr. L. 2154, n. 24-29.

19. Property held to descend under intestacy laws: Where testator provided for disposition of share of only one of his children who were each given life estate in case he died without issue, share of one of others dying under similar circumstances. Smith v. Jordan [Conn.] 59 A. 507. Lot not mentioned in will. Howard v. Evans, 24 App. D. C. 127. Where remainder, limited to grandchildren and their issue, with cross remainders to testator's son and his issue, is defeated by death of all remaindermen and their issue prior to the determination of the particular estate, the title reverts to testator's heirs. Archer v. Jacobs [Iowa] 101 N. W. 195. In Kentucky, by statute, if a bequest "fail or be void, or otherwise be incapable of taking effect." A bequest to one on condition that he be restored to his right mind is on his dying without restoration within St. 1903, § 4843. Schroeder v. Bohlsen [Ky.] 84 S. W. 535; Schroeder v. Bohlsen, 26 Ky. L. R. 1237, 83 S. W. 627. Balance in hands of administrator not specifically bequeathed. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. Undisposed of residuum. Hill v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 446. Corpus of trust fund undisposed of. Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co. v. Buffum [Mass.] 71 N. E. 549. Devise to trustee, the income to go to child during his life, with power to dispose of the trust property at his death by will or otherwise, held, there being no disposal of the property at the death of the child, he inherited it as undisposed property, free from any trust restrictions. Peugnet v. Berthold, 183 Mo. 61, 81 S. W. 874. Where income of residue of estate is divided into portions and given to named legatees during their several lives, the principal to be divided at the death of nephew, the share of a life tenant dying before such nephew not disposed of. Colville v. Kinsman [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 959. Will held not to show intention that such share should be added to principal. Id. Under absolute devise of residue to daughter "subject to the legal rights of my husband, should be survive me," held, as to personalty, intention was to give same to daughter only in case husband of testatrix had predeceased her, and as he survived her and was entitled jure mariti to personalty, bequest failed and testatrix died intestate thereof. In re Folwell's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 467. Remainder in trust fund. Pomroy v. Hincks [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 628. Will held not to dispose of share of son in residuary estate, where he died intestate, unmarried, and without issue before termination of trust. People's Trust Co. v. Flynn, 44 Misc. 6, 89 N. Y. S. 706. Undisposed of surplus after sale of realty and payment of legacies. No residuary clause. In re Weinstein's Estate, 43 Misc. 577, 89 N. Y. S. 535. Half of proceeds of realty. In re Shedden's Estate, 210 Pa. 82, 59 A. 486. Under devise in trust to pay income to widow and children, after widow's death to children or issue of deceased children, and after their death to grandchildren until reached age of 21, the principal then to be divided, held that, on death of two children after widow, and without children, there was intestacy as to their shares. In re Smith's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 255.

20. Grandson. People's Trust Co. v. Flynn, 44 Misc. 6, 89 N. Y. S. 706. Though testator has signified his intention that he should not inherit any part of estate. Pomroy v. Hincks [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 628.

21. Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. D. C. 424; Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450. In the absence of clear evidence to the contrary. Primm v. Primm, 111 Ill. App. 244; Thomas v. Thomas, 43 Misc. 541, 89 N. Y. S. 495; In re Hull, 97 App. Div. 258, 89 N. Y. S. 939; In re Ranken, 91 N. Y. S. 933; In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90; Foil v. Newsome [N. C.] 50 S. E. 597; Prison Ass'n of Va. v. Russell's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 966; Gallagher v. McKeague [Wis.] 103 N. W. 233. Will held to cover both realty and personalty. May v. Brewster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 546. "All of this world's goods of which I may be possessed at the time of my death" includes realty. Torrey v. Torrey, 70 N. J. Law, 672, 59 A. 450. Where directs executor to sell within five years, presumed that did not intend to die intestate as to such property in case it was not sold within that time, and hence provision merely directory. Molton v. Sutphin [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 974. Fact that accumulations not specifically mentioned in devise over of fund held not to show intestacy as to them. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v. Noyes [R. I.] 58 A. 999.

22. Thissell v. Schillinger [Mass.] 71 N. E. 300; Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828; Mee v. Gordon, 93 N. Y. S. 675, rvg. 45 Misc. 259, 92 N. Y. S. 159; In re Smith's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 90; Robbins v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 545. Where reasonably possible. Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450; Howard v. Evans, 24 App. D. C. 127. "Survivor" will not be held to mean "other" merely for that purpose. Hill v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 446. Unless the contrary is unavoidable. "Surviving" held to refer to children surviving testatrix. In re Vance's Estate, 209 Pa. 561, 58 A. 1063. Will not favor a construction that may produce a partial intestacy, particularly if not in harmony with testator's general intent. Though such result improbable. Ridgely v. Ridgely [Md.] 59 A. 731. That interpretation is to be preferred which will prevent a total intestacy. Cal. Civ. Code, § 1326. One rendering will valid. In re Fay's Estate, 145 Cal. 82, 78 P. 340. Will not be construed so as to cause partial intestacy unless it cannot reasonably be otherwise interpreted. Fiske v. Fiske's Heirs [R. I.] 59 A. 740. Rule does not apply where the language used, when

In the absence of particular and sufficient words used for that purpose, surviving shares will not survive again.[23]

(§ 5) E. Of terms respecting administration, management, control, and disposal.[24]—In the absence of a contrary intent appearing, there is a presumption that testator intended his estate to be administered in the usual way.[25] He may, if he so desires, designate the estate to be appropriated for the payment of his debts and the expenses of administration.[26] If such provision is insufficient, any portion of the estate undisposed of may be taken for that purpose.[27]

Distribution should not ordinarily be required before the time fixed in the will.[28]

The will may authorize investments pending distribution,[29] or the continuance of testator's business.[30]

A direction to pay debts includes taxes.[31] A provision that no bond shall be required of the executrix relieves her from the necessity of giving bond as life tenant.[32] To the extent that directions to executors are inconsistent with law, they are nugatory.[33]

Directions as to a particular fund may be implied from other directions expressly made applicable to all other funds.[34] The amount to be placed in trust for beneficiaries depends on the terms of the will.[35] fairly construed, is insufficient to carry the whole estate. Gallagher v. McKeague [Wis.] 103 N. W. 233. Not sufficient that he thought he was avoiding intestacy but must use words sufficient to dispose of whole estate. Id. Only a presumption, and cannot be permitted to overcome express language. Wixon v. Watson, 214 Ill. 158, 73 N. E. 306.

23. Under devise to four grandchildren in trust for 20 years, with provision that share of any one of them dying without issue was to be divided among survivors, held, that on death of one of them his share went to other three, but that, on subsequent death of one of the latter, only his original share survived to other three, and not the share derived from the first. Marshall v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 60 A. 476.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 2157.

25. Administratrix required to collect debts due testator, and sell personalty not specifically bequeathed, and use proceeds to pay debts. Walker v. Hill [N. H.] 60 A. 1017.

26. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1560. In re Traver's Estate, 145 Cal. 508, 78 P. 1058.

27. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1562. Applies where no provision is made in will. In re Traver's Estate, 145 Cal. 508, 78 P. 1058.

28. Will, construing all provisions together, held to require division of estate and payment of residue to trustees to be made as soon as practicable, but not until after two years from testator's death, during which time the estate was to accumulate. Macy v. Mercantile Trust Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 586. A provision embodying the advice of the testator that division be postponed for two years after the death of his wife is valid, and a suit for partition brought before the expiration of the two years is premature. Steinman v. Steinman, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 600. A provision postponing the division of the residuary estate until "the termination of all life annuities by the death of the beneficiaries named" prevents distribution until all are dead, and does not permit distribution pro tanto on the death of each. In re Trotter's Will, 93 N. Y. S. 404.

29. Investment in city real estate by executors pending distribution, held authorized. Macy v. Mercantile Trust Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 586.

30. Provision that testator's interest in partnership business might be allowed to remain therein if interest was paid thereon at seven per cent., the legal rate when will was executed, held simply to show intent to secure maximum legal rate, and not to make payment at seven per cent. condition of acceptance or consummation of loan. In re Wotherspoon's Estate, 45 Misc. 81, 91 N. Y. S. 695.

31. Where testator directed the payment of his debts, the word "debts" was held to include all obligations and liabilities against his estate of every character, including the liability for taxes. Penn's Ex'r v. Penn's Ex'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 306.

32. Where will provides that no bond shall be required of executrix, no bond will be required of her as life tenant. McGuire v. Gallagher [Me.] 59 A. 445.

33. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825.

34. Where will bequeaths income of certain sum, and directs residue of estate to be held for certain time before distribution of principal and income, held proper for executor to set apart special fund for first bequest and to make special investment of it. Fanning v. Main [Conn.] 58 A. 472.

35. Provision that one-fourth of remainder of estate on value as found by appraisement should be placed in trust for daughter, held to require amount to be paid her to be arrived at by deducting debts, expenses, and specific bequests from total value of estate when allowance payable, to be ascertained by an appraisement then made under direction of court. McCullough v. Lauman [Wash.] 80 P. 441.

A provision giving executors discretion to withold the share of any son who, in their judgment, is not of good moral character or competent to take charge of it, does not contemplate an arbitrary exercise of power, and they are not entitled to withhold the share of one who is in fact of good character and competent, and who is so regarded by them.[36]

The right of a residuary legatee to require payment in cash is controlled by the directions in the will.[37]

The extent of a power of sale depends upon the terms of the will.[38] Power to manage the estate does not necessarily include a power of sale,[39] or authorize the executors to carry on the business of a corporation of which testator owned most of the stock.[40] Testamentary authority to sell does not of itself give authority to mortgage,[41] nor does authority to mortgage for one purpose give authority to mortgage for a different purpose.[42]

Where the will plainly discloses an intention that the land shall be sold, the executors take a power of sale, though there is no express statement to that effect.[43]

If the effect of the provisions of the will is to subject the property in the hands of the executor, as such, to certain trusts to be carried out by him, he will be deemed to hold the same as trustee by virtue of his appointment as executor.[44] Thus an executor charged with the duty of selling lands after the death of the life tenant, and distributing the proceeds, becomes a trustee, and by implication of law takes under the will such title as may be necessary to enable him to sell and convey it.[45] A mere naked power of sale, however, gives him no title.[46]

36. Cushman v. Cushman, 92 N. Y. S. 833.

37. Will held to authorize executors to divide investments authorized to be made by them pending distribution, as well as the securities owned by testator at his death, and to turn them over to trustee as residuary legatee. Not necessary to turn them into cash. Macy v. Mercantile Trust Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 586.

38. Where will devised realty to wife for life, then to testator's daughter, and provided that on marriage or death of the daughters, the property should be sold by the executor and the proceeds divided among heirs, held, power to sell became absolute on happening of contingency named. Pratt Land & Imp. Co. v. Robertson, 140 Ala. 584, 37 So. 419. Executor held entitled to sell land for erection of house, and where took equivalent amount from personalty for that purpose, persons to whom both realty and personalty went eventually could not require him to account therefor. Finley's Ex'rs v. Pearson, 25 Ky. L. R. 766, 76 S. W. 374. Will held to give executrix power to sell land, so as to pass fee simple title. Eshelby Tobacco Co. v. McNamara, 26 Ky. L. R. 889, 82 S. W. 620. Clause empowering executors to "dispose of my property as they think best," held not to vest executors with the power to sell property specifically devised. Thompson v. Thompson [Ky.] 87 S. W. 790. Provision that if property could not be divided in kind it should be sold and the proceeds divided, held, it was the intention of the testator that if by dividing the property in kind it should depreciate in value, in the judgment of the executor, it should be sold and the money divided. Offutt v. Hall's Ex'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 785. Discretionary power to sell held a disposition of lands, so that another provision as to property not otherwise disposed of did not apply. Whitfield v. Thompson [Miss.] 38 So. 113. Will held to give executors discretionary power to sell residue lands but not to require sale. Id.

39. Trustee's rule does not apply where power of sale expressly given. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058.

40. Power to manage, control, invest, and reinvest the residuary estate, and to sell any part thereof, particularly where were forbidden to incur debts. In re Corbin's Will, 91 N. Y. S. 797.

41. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

42. Power to mortgage for improvements gives no power to do so for purpose of raising money to pay beneficiaries under trusts. Townsend v. Wilson [Conn.] 59 A. 417.

43. May v. Brewster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 546. Where the will directs land to be sold without expressly conferring a power of sale on any one, and the proceeds are to be distributed by the executor. Will held also to show intention that executor should make sale. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049.

44. Immaterial that is not named as trustee in will and has not been appointed such by probate court. Bean v. Com. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 784.

45. Fee vests in him and not in heirs. Lash v. Lash, 209 Ill. 595, 70 N. E. 1049.

46. Will directing realty to be converted into money and proceeds to be divided does not vest in executor any title to or interest in property, but has mere naked power to sell same and distribute proceeds. Nelson v. Nelson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 482. A naked power to sell given to an executor for the purpose of paying legacies or making dis-

A power to sell realty for the purpose of dividing the proceeds among certain beneficiaries creates a power accompanied by a trust.[47]

Under a provision authorizing a sale for the purposes of the will, the necessity therefor must be shown.[48] Where the executor is directed to sell property the fact that the time and terms of the sale are left to his discretion does not give him authority to prevent a sale or to postpone it indefinitely,[49] but such discretion is a reasonable and not an aribitrary one, and must be exercised so as to carry out testator's evident intention.[50] Where a limitation as to time is imposed and is of the essence thereof, the power must be executed within the prescribed period,[51] unless such limitation is merely directory.[52] Whether it is compulsory or directory is to be learned from the language of the whole will.[53]

A power of sale coupled with a trust is attached to the office and hence may be exercised by an administrator with the will annexed.[54] The same is true of a mandatory direction to sell realty on certain contingencies.[55] Under a provision that if any of those named as executors or trustees die or refuse to accept, the court shall fill the vacancies, "subject to the approval of the parties interested in" the estate, the court cannot arbitrarily appoint a person over the protest of an interested party, though he is competent.[56] Such a provision is applicable to the filling of all vacancies.[57]

The will may give the executor compensation in addition to that allowed him by law.[58]

(§ 5) F. Abatement, ademption, and satisfaction.[59] Abatement.[60]—General legacies abate before specific ones.[61] Specific legacies standing on the same footing abate ratably.[62] Legacies in lieu of dower do not abate with others.[63]

Ademption.[64]—A specific legacy is adeemed by the extinguishment of the specific thing, or the failure of the particular fund bequeathed,[65] while a demon-tribution does not vest title in the executor but in the heir. Widow was given a life estate, executor power to sell at her death. Held, title during widow's life was in heirs, who had power to defend against all except the life tenant and executor's power of sale. Indiana R. Co. v. Morgan, 162 Ind. 331, 70 N. E. 368.

47. Not mere naked power. Shares of daughters given to trustee for investment. May v. Brewster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 546.

48. Provision authorizing executors to sell all or any part of estate, not specifically disposed of, and to execute good and sufficient deeds for all realty sold, "for the purpose of executing this will," executors could not make title in absence of necessity for a sale. Eberly v. Koller, 209 Pa. 298, 58 A. 558.

49. In re Severns' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 492; Id., 60 A. 494.

50. In re Severns' Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 492. Its exercise may be compelled in proper case. After three years. Id., 60 A. 494. Fact that unmarried daughters, one of whom was executrix, were to occupy premises until sale, held not ground for postponing sale. Id. Answer that sale was in discretion, and that in their opinion time was not suitable, held insufficient in absence of showing that had any knowledge of value of realty in neighborhood. Id.

51. Molton v. Sutphin [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 974.

52. Provision for sale "within five years of my decease," held directory, and executrix held power after expiration of that time. Molton v. Sutphin [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 974.

53. Molton v. Sutphin [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 974.

54. May v. Brewster [Mass.] 73 N. E. 546.

55. Ayers v. Courvoisier, 91 N. Y. S. 549. Direction to executor to sell property in case life tenants did not pay taxes, etc., held mandatory, though word "authorized" was used. Ayers v. Courvoisier, 91 N. Y. S. 549.

56. Cole v. Watertown, 119 Wis. 133, 96 N. W. 538.

57. Not confined to those caused by death or refusal to act of those named in will. Cole v. Watertown, 119 Wis. 133, 96 N. W. 538.

58. Notwithstanding N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 2730, providing that, where will gives him specific compensation, he must renounce it in order to be entitled to any other allowance for his services. In re Sprague, 94 N. Y. S. 84.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 2158.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 2169.

61. No fund out of which to pay legacy to son. In re Klenke's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 167.

62. Specific legacies of stock held to abate proportionally where amount available to pay them was reduced by widow's election not to take under will. In re Klenke's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 167.

63. The dowress is regarded as a purchaser for value. Roll v. Roll [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 296.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 2158.

65. Gift of $600 out of $1,100 in hands of strative legacy is not.[66] The identity of the fund, and not the particular place where it may be is the important consideration in determining whether or not an ademption has taken place.[67]

Satisfaction.[68]—In a suit by a legatee to recover a legacy from the executor, the burden is upon the latter to show that a payment after the date of the will was intended as a satisfaction of the legacy.[69]

Satisfaction of debts by legacies.[70]—A bequest or devise to a creditor will not generally be regarded as a payment of the indebtedness unless the will expressly declares, or the surrounding circumstances clearly indicate, such an intention.[71] In some states, however, such a bequest of a sum equal to or greater than the debt will be regarded as a satisfaction thereof, though the debt is not mentioned in the will.[72]

(§ 5) G. Proceedings to construe wills.[73]—Probate courts have no power to construe wills except in so far as may be necessary to enable them to exercise the powers and perform the duties imposed on them by law.[74] Equity has jurisdiction to construe a will only when such construction involves some equitable relief sought,[75] and will not entertain a bill for that purpose when only legal rights are involved.[76] No action for the construction of a will should be enter-brothers, where fund not in existence at death of testatrix. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. If the subject-matter is destroyed, consumed, sold, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of, so that nothing remains in the estate at testator's death to which the particular dispositive words are applicable. In re Howard's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 86.

66. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. Not by the entire failure of the fund with reference to which it is given. In re Edward's Estate, 209 Pa. 19, 57 A. 1117.

67. Bequest of money on deposit in certain bank, which subsequently went into liquidation. Receiver credited testator with amount of dividend declared upon books of its own bank and issued passbook to testator. Held, legacy not adeemed. In re Howard's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 86.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 2158.

69. Swinebroad v. Bright, 25 Ky. L. R. 742, 76 S. W. 365. An allegation that a payment was intended by testator as a satisfaction of a legacy is necessarily an allegation that it was so intended by him when it was made. Id. The declarations of testator made before or after the payment are admissible to show his intention. Executor may testify as to his declarations but not devisees. Ky. Civ. Code, § 606. Swinebroad v. Bright, 25 Ky. L. R. 742, 76 S. W. 365.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 2160.

71. Devise to one rendering services while residing with testatrix as member of her family held not in payment therefor. In re Dailey's Estate, 43 Misc. 552, 89 N. Y. S. 538. Direction that all testator's debts shall be paid negatives such intention. Id. Where a will makes provision for the payment of debts and also a specific bequest to a creditor of a less sum than the debt, both provisions should be carried out. Smith v. Park's Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 304. Where bequest is in trust to be paid as the legatee may need it, it is evidence that it is not in payment of the debt. Id.

72. Cannot take both debt and legacy. Direction to beneficiaries to pay certain sum to wife. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 2160, § 5G.

74. The surrogate has power to construe a will only in so far as is necessary to enable him to perform some other duty imposed on him by law. In re Davis' Will, 93 N. Y. S. 1004, afg. 45 Misc. 554, 92 N. Y. S. 968. Order made pursuant to stipulation simply declaring certain clause void and not making any judicial settlement of the estate or decree of distribution, held without authority and in excess of jurisdiction. In re Burdick's Estate, 90 N. Y. S. 161. The orphans' court has power to construe a will for purposes of distribution. Macy v. Mercantile Trust Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 586. The jurisdiction of the orphans' court to pass upon the right of an executor to turn over or appropriate securities for the payment of a legacy, when dependent upon the construction of the will, must be settled in a proceeding instituted for that purpose on actual notice to all parties interested in accordance with Gen. St. p. 2391, § 151. Id.

75. Will not express opinion as to construction with reference to title to realty, when no equitable relief is sought. Bevans v. Bevans [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 896. Will be exercised where question involved is application of language to facts, and construction is necessary to relief which can only be given in court of equity, as where decree is sought requiring executors to sell land, in case it does not pass under certain devise. Ackerman v. Crouter [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 574. Not unless a trust is involved. Primm v. Primm, 111 Ill. App. 244.

76. Steen v. Steen [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 675. Thus, one who is neither a legatee, trustee, cestui que trust, or executor under a will, cannot maintain a bill for its interpretation to ascertain the validity of a devise to another of property of which he is in possession by purchase. When all interested parties are before court, he may amend so as to make it bill to quiet title. Id.

tained unless it is apparent that the executor, administrator with the will annexed, or trustee bringing it, cannot safely discharge the duties of his office without the advice and protection of a court of chancery.[77]

All other powers to entertain bills for the construction of wills depend upon statute and vary in the different states.[78]

The courts of equity will not assume jurisdiction unless the language of the will is such that the parties interested may, reasonably have doubts concerning its true meaning,[79] nor unless the party asking the questions has an interest in having them answered.[80] Where the construction is incidental to the relief sought in a proceeding of which the court has jurisdiction, it has jurisdiction to, and should, construe the will.[81]

There is no occasion for the filing of a bill where there are only two possible constructions, both of which would lead to same result.[82]

All persons who, by a possible construction, may be entitled to take, should be made parties.[83]

Where the court has jurisdiction to construe the will, it may, on a suit being filed for that purpose, determine the complainant's claim to heirship.[84]

In an action for construction, all questions which might arise from the instrument before the court are within the general scope and purview of the action, and can be litigated and determined therein.[85]

Costs[86] are allowable as in other equity cases, or cases wherein trustees are parties.[87]

77. Where administrator has none of the property in his possession, proceeding not a proper one to enable him to obtain it, and so has no such duty to perform. Hughes v. Fitzgerald [Conn.] 60 A. 694.

78. The supreme judicial court of Maine has jurisdiction in equity to construe a will upon the bill of a devisee, and to determine the character of the estate received by him thereunder and the extent of his powers in relation thereto as between himself and other devisees who claim or may claim adversely to him. Rev. St. c. 79, § 6, par. 8. Haseltine v. Shepherd [Me.] 59 A. 1025. It is not necessary that the claim be controversial and litigious, but is sufficient if doubt exists out of which litigious claims may arise between the devisees. Id.

79. Haseltine v. Shepherd [Me.] 59 A. 1025.

80. Devisee held to have interest. Haseltine v. Shepherd [Me.] 59 A. 1025. A judgment creditor of a beneficiary cannot maintain an action for construction for the purpose of determining the beneficiary's interest in the estate. Not under Code Civ. Proc. § 1866. Higgins v. Downs, 91 N. Y. S. 937. The widow is entitled to file a bill for construction for the purpose of being judicially advised whether, if she takes under the will, she will be obliged to contribute for the payment of the debts. Rev. St. § 5963. Allen v. Tressenrider [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1015.

81. Has jurisdiction. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89. Where, in partition, the referee is directed to determine the interests of the several defendants, infant defendants are entitled to have their interests determined before sale, though a construction of a will is necessary to do so. Where properly excepted. Dwight v. Lawrence, 90 N. Y. S. 970. Where the executor, in a proceeding for the disposition of the funds of the estate, in answer to a cross complaint of an heir, asks a construction of the will, and a direction to whom the funds are to be paid, and all the interested parties are before the court, the court rightfully exercises its power. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520.

82. Pomroy v. Hincks [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 628.

83. Waker v. Booraem [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 451.

84. Right of adopted child to inherit. Van Derlyn v. Mack [Mich.] 100 N. W. 278.

85. Must look to whole will to ascertain intent. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 34, 90 N. Y. S. 848.

Hence the judgment therein as to any such question, though it was not specifically presented by the pleadings, is conclusive on all the parties thereto, and all persons whose interests are derivative from the rights of such parties. Daughter and her issue. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 34, 90 N. Y. S. 848.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 2161, n. 82, 83.

87. Where a trust is involved, and the testator's intention is doubtful, so as to justify an application to a court of equity for the construction of the will and directions as to the execution of the trust, the costs should be borne by the estate (Craw v. Craw, 210 Ill. 246, 71 N. E. 450); but this rule does not apply where the bill is not filed merely for the purpose of obtaining a construction of the will and the direction of the court, but to enable complainant to obtain something as heir (not where filed to compel widow and other children to account for rents and profits of farm. Id.), nor should the costs be paid out of the estate where it is determined that the complainant has no interest in any event (Van Derlyn v. Mack [Mich.] 100 N. W. 278).

The costs can only be directed to be paid out of the fund in dispute,[88] or charged to some individual.[89]

A decree rendered in a suit for the construction of a will, directing the payment of costs by the executors out of the estate, includes only the taxable costs, and not attorneys' fees.[90]

§ 6. Validity, operation, and effect in general.[91]—The rights of the testator's heirs at law are subordinate to his testamentary disposition of his property.[92] The same limitations and conditions may be placed upon a devise of personal estate as upon a devise of real estate.[93] A limitation over from one charity, which speaks from the death of the testator to another charity, is valid.[94]

A provision for the purchase and erection of a monument on testator's grave is valid.[95]

A will is not void as against public policy because made by one contemplating and who subsequently commits suicide.[96]

Conditions[97] in restraint of marriage are void as against public policy,[98] but this rule does not apply where they are partial only, and are confined within reasonable limits.[99]

Provisions forfeiting legacies if the legatees contest the validity of the will are valid, but the penalty will not be enforced if the contest was justified under the circumstances.[100]

88. Where a case was stated in the circuit court for the construction of a clause in a will while the estate was still in process of administration in the orphans' court, and, after appeal and remand, circuit court rendered decree disposing of all the funds affected by the clause in dispute, circuit court had no authority to thereafter allow attorney's fees to counsel, to be paid out of estate. Hamilton v. Trundle [Md.] 59 A. 719. Where construction of a testamentary trust becomes necessary by reason of conflicting claims to income and the construction of the will with reference to the remainder is incidental only, and made to avoid future litigation, and the payment of costs out of the principal would necessitate a sale of the premises before the expiration of the trust, the costs will be charged against the income only. Denison v. Denison, 96 App. Div. 418, 89 N. Y. S. 126.

89. See Costs, 3 Curr. L. 940.

90. Hamilton v. Trundle [Md.] 59 A. 719.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 2162.

92. Heirs at law named as beneficiaries take under will, and not as heirs. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020.

93. Smith v. Smith [Ky.] 85 S. W. 169.

94. Regardless of any question as to rule against perpetuities, or as to technical character of changes in title which may succeed each other. Sufficient if equitable interests are vested. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

95. McIlvain v. Hockaday [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 54.

96. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 2162.

98. Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218. Both by the common and civil law, all conditions annexed to gifts or devises generally prohibiting marriage are void, and where there is an attempt to fetter or restrain marriage by unreasonable conditions, such conditions or restrictions are inoperative and void. Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. D. C. 424. A condition that one shall hold property as long as she remains unmarried, without limitation over, is void. Id.

99. Watts v. Griffin [N. C.] 50 S. E. 218.

100. In re Friend's Estate, 209 Pa. 442, 58 A. 853. Question of probable cause for court, who will consider information possessed by legatee before he entered on contest. Advice of counsel not sufficient. Evidence held to show probable cause for contesting on ground of undue influence. Id. Burden on legatee to show that he should take. Id. An executrix, in her representative capacity, cannot object to the payment of legacies on the ground that the legatees have lost their rights thereto by violation of a provision of the will prohibiting them from contesting its provisions. In re Murphy's Estate, 145 Cal. 464, 78 P. 960.

Note: In re Friend's Estate, 209 Pa. 442, 58 A. 853. While the law upon the subject of such forfeiture clauses is in a very unsettled condition, the principal case does not seem to accord with the weight of authority. The rule is quite well established in England that in the case of bequests of personal property, a forfeiture clause, if there is no gift over, is merely in terrorem and void, but if there is a gift over to specified persons, the forfeiture clause will be upheld. In the case of devises of realty, the forfeiture clause will be upheld without a gift over. Cooke v. Turner, 14 Simons, 218, 493; 2 Jarman, Wills [6th Ed.] *p. 902; Redfield, Wills, *298. The American cases present a great diversity of judicial opinion, some enforcing the forfeiture regardless of a gift over and with no distinction between real and personal property. Bradford v. Bradford, 19 Ohio St. 546, 2 Am. Rep. 419; Thompson v. Gaut, 82 Tenn. 310. Such cases maintain the position, also upheld by the English courts, that no question of public policy is involved. Other cases express the opinion,

What law governs.[101]—Where all the essential facts are local in a state, the will will be construed in accordance with the law as therein settled when the rights of the parties accrued.[102] The construction and legal effect of a will of personalty is to be determined by the law of testator's domicile.[103] The validity and construction, as well as the force and effect, of a will devising land, depend upon the laws of the state where the land is situated.[104] The courts of such state will construe the will for themselves, and will not be governed by the decisions of the courts of the state in which the will was executed.[105]

WINDING UP PROCEEDINGS; WITHDRAWING EVIDENCE; WITHDRAWING PLEADINGS OR FILES, see latest topical index.

WITNESSES.

§ 1. Capacity and Competency of Witnesses in General (1944). Children (1945). Persons Acting in Official Capacity at Trial (1945). Conviction or Accusation of Crime (1945). Statutes (1946).

§ 2. Disqualification on Ground of Interest (1946).

§ 3. Disqualification of One Party to Transaction or Communication on Death of the Other (1946). The Adverse Party, or Party Against Whom the Witness is Offered, Must Represent the Decedent, or Derive His Interest From the Decedent (1947). Persons Disqualified as Witnesses (1948). Transactions and Communications (1951). Waiver or Removal of Disqualification (1952).

§ 4. Privileged Communications, and Persons in Confidential Relations (1953).

A. Attorney and Client (1953).

B. Physician and Patient (1954).

C. Husband and Wife. Confidential Communications (1956). Testimony For or Against Each Other (1956). In Criminal Prosecutions Against One Spouse (1957).

D. Miscellaneous Relations (1958).

§ 5. Credibility, Impeachment and Corroboration of Witnesses (1958).

A. Credibility in General (1958). Impeaching and Discrediting in General (1959). A Party Cannot Impeach His Own Witness (1960). A Witness Cannot be Contradicted or Impeached as to Collateral Matters (1961).

B. Character and Conduct of Witnesses (1961).

1. In General (1961).
2. Accusation and Conviction of Crime (1962).
3. Competency of Evidence as to Reputation for Veracity (1963).
4. Examination of Impeaching Witnesses (1963).

C. Interest and Bias of Witnesses (1963).

D. Proof of Previous Contradictory Statements (1964). Foundation for Proof of Contradictory Statements (1965).

---

without directly so deciding, however, that all such clauses of forfeiture are void as against the policy or liberty of the law. Mallet v. Smith, 6 Rich. Eq. [S. C.] 12, 60 Am. Dec. 107. Probably the weight of American authority tends in the direction of the English rule. Smithsonian Institution v. Meech, 169 U. S. 398, 42 Law. Ed. 793; Chew's Appeal, 45 Pa. 228; Holt v. Holt, 42 N. J. Eq. 388, 7 A. 856, 59 Am. Rep. 43; Underhill, Wills, § 511; Rood, Wills, §§ 615-622. —3 Mich. L. R. 167.

Although the point raised by this case is in some conflict, the result reached seems eminently desirable. Against the case it may be urged that it apparently violates the express wishes of the testatrix. But to decree an absolute forfeiture in every case would work injustice. If a legatee reasonably believes that a will was procured by undue influence, he ought not to be forced to contest it at his peril. Furthermore if, reasonably thinking that a part of the will was inserted by mistake without the testator's knowledge, or that it is a forgery and so not entitled to probate, he contests it on that ground he should not be deprived of his legacy. To enforce the forfeiture in such case would frequently have no other effect than to aid dishonest persons in reaping the benefit of their wrong. On the other hand, the rule holding a forfeiture clause operative only where the contestant has not probate cause for his suit, would still discourage the bringing of vexatious suit, which after all, is ordinarily the real purpose of the testator. Cf. Jackson v. Westerfield, 61 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 399.—18 Harv. L. R. 399.

101. See 2 Curr. L. 2162, n. 92, 93. As to what law governs manner of execution, see ante, § 3B.

102. Where it is to be executed in state where testator was domiciled and where property is situated. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

103. McCurdy v. McCallum, 186 Mass. 464, 72 N. E. 75. Laws of state where testator had residence and domicile and where realty situated control validity and legal effect of will, including appointment of executor, even though foreign executor is named. In re American Security & Trust Co., 45 Misc. 529, 92 N. Y. S. 974.

104. Folsom v. Board of Trustees, 210 Ill. 404, 71 N. E. 384. A will may be valid as a will of lands other than that of which the testator was a citizen, and in which the will was executed, and in such case the will is controlled by the laws of the state where the land lies. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703.

105. Folsom v. Board of Trustees, 210 Ill. 404, 71 N. E. 384.

E. Corroboration and Sustentation of Witnesses (1967).
§ 6. Privileges of Witnesses (1967).
§ 7. Subpoenas, Attendance, and Fees (1970).

Scope of title.—This article treats of the competency of persons to give testimony in court. Since the competency, relevancy, and materiality of testimony,[1] the manner of eliciting the same from witnesses,[2] and the qualification and examination of experts,[3] are referable to other topics elsewhere fully treated, those matters are excluded from this title. The rules of law relative to the credibility of witnesses, their impeachment and corroboration, and their privileges, are here treated.

§ 1. Capacity and competency of witnesses in general.[4]—Possession or lack of personal knowledge of the facts in regard to which he is called to testify is sometimes applied as a test of the competency of the witness;[5] but it would seem that an objection, based on lack of personal knowledge of the witness, should be directed to the competency of the testimony, as that it is hearsay or opinion evidence,[6] and not to the competency of the witness; but while lack of personal knowledge does not, strictly speaking, go to the competency of the person testifying, it may properly be shown to affect his credibility.[7] The fact that a witness in giving certain evidence is in the attitude of supporting his own judgment goes only to his credibility, not to his competency.[8] If one is disqualified at the time of trial, his deposition is incompetent, though it was taken at a time when the witness was competent.[9] Incompetency of a witness is waived unless the objection is taken at the first opportunity.[10] A person who has violated the rule for sequestration of witnesses is not thereby rendered incompetent; whether he may testify rests in the discretion of the court.[11] The fact that he has heard the other evidence may go to the weight of his testimony, but does not disqualify him.[12]

1. See Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.
2. See Examination of Witnesses, 3 Curr. L. 1383.
3. See Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1370.
4. See 2 Curr. L. 2164.
5. ILLUSTRATIONS. Witness held competent: Persons who have resided, and own property, in the immediate neighborhood for several years, and who are well informed as to the situation, condition and value of land, are competent to testify as to damages to land caused by street grading. City of South Omaha v. Ruthjen [Neb.] 99 N. W. 240. Husband and wife are competent to testify to the value of their own household furniture. Lincoln Supply Co. v. Graves [Neb.] 102 N. W. 457. A witness who was present at an election of officers of an association may testify as to who were elected, though he was not a member of the association. State v. Farrier [La.] 38 So. 460.

Held incompetent: Witness who had heard only one person speak of character of prosecutrix incompetent character witness. State v. Day [Mo.] 87 S. W. 465. Witness who was in the United States at a time specified could not testify as to a demand for labor in Alaska at that time. Gillespie v. Ashford [Iowa] 101 N. W. 649. Witness testifying as to value of mining claims in one district in Alaska is not competent to testify to value of claims in other districts, in the absence of a showing that he knows such value, or that the value is the same in both districts. Id. The wife of a mortgagee, who had never seen the mortgagor, and had never seen him write, did not have knowledge such as to render her competent to testify to having seen a letter from the mortgagor to the mortgagee inclosing a payment. Carr v. Carr [Mich.] 101 N. W. 550. Witness could not testify from book entries as to matters of which she had no personal knowledge. Kirschner v. Hirschberg, 90 N. Y. S. 351. A witness who admits that he does not know what is the general custom of real estate brokers in the United States as to a particular matter is incompetent on that issue, though he knows the custom of particular localities. Edwards v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 48. Witness not competent as to duties of employes in a particular mine, when he had not worked there, and was not shown to have any knowledge of its rules, customs and methods, but his knowledge was confined to other mines. Smith v. Hecla Mining Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 779.

6. As to hearsay and opinion evidence, see Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1355, 1370.
7. Objection that witness was not near enough to a street car to observe its speed goes to the weight, not the admissibility, of his testimony. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850.
8. Supervisor of assessment may testify in proceeding before board of review to reduce an assessment. State v. Williams [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1048.
9. Rogers v. Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 379.
10. Admission of deposition of witness without objection in probate proceedings was a waiver of incompetency at later stage

Children.[13]—The competency of a child depends on his or her intelligence, understanding and moral sense.[14] Ability to comprehend the nature and obligation of an oath is the test.[15] Such ability appearing,[16] it is immaterial that the child cannot define the legal obligation of an oath, or does not comprehend his responsibility to God for lying.[17] The competency of a child to testify is a question for the trial court,[18] the exercise of whose discretion in the matter will not be reviewed, in the absence of abuse.[19] The mere fact that a child has testified on a former trial of a case is not conclusive on the question of competency on a subsequent trial.[20] Since, in Texas, a child under nine cannot be punished for perjury, such a child is not a competent witness in a criminal case involving life or liberty.[21]

Persons acting in official capacity at trial.[22]—A judicial officer is not permitted to testify to statements or transactions taking place in a hearing before him,[23] or to appear as a witness and give his reasons for his decision.[24]

Conviction or accusation of crime.[25]—Statutes making defendants in criminal cases competent witnesses in their own behalf remove the common-law disqualification arising from infamy.[26] Hence, in most states, the fact of conviction of crime does not render a witness incompetent,[27] though it may be shown as affecting his credibility.[28] Where conviction of crime disqualifies,[29] a record of conviction must be produced, to establish incompetency.[30] To disqualify a witness as an of proceedings. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 Curr. L. 1368.

11. Davis v. State, 120 Ga. 843, 48 S. E. 305.

12. Phillips v. State, 121 Ga. 358, 49 S. E. 290. Violation of rule of exclusion is not cause for refusing to allow witness to testify, in the absence of a showing of collusion with, or close relationship to, a party. Behrman v. Terry, 31 Colo. 155, 71 P. 1118.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 2164.

14. Child of 9 competent when she had been to school, knew difference between truth and falsehood, that her oath obliged her to tell the truth, and that she would be punished if she did not do so. Sokel v. People, 212 Ill. 238, 72 N. E. 382.

15. Child of 7 held competent as to this requirement. Freasier v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 360. Child of 11 who knew she would go to "bad place" if she lied, and knew of God and of bad place since she was last in court, competent. Landthrift v. State, 140 Ala. 114, 37 So. 287. Where on examination of a child of 8, it appeared that he was merely repeating what he had been told to say in order to qualify him, and that he was ignorant of the consequences of false swearing, it was error to allow him to testify. North Texas Const. Co. v. Bostick [Tex.] 83 S. W. 12.

16. As where witness is conscious that his oath binds him to tell the truth, and that he knows the difference between telling the truth and telling a lie, and would be punished for lying. Bright v. Com. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 527.

17. Child of 12 held competent. Bright v. Com. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 527.

18. Whether witness showed sufficient intelligence. Freasier v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 360.

19. Discretion of court in permitting three boys, aged 13, 14, and 16, to testify, not reviewed, no abuse appearing. Griffin v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 209.

20. Where, on second trial, the competency of a child is questioned on the ground that she does not understand the nature and sanctity of an oath, it is error for the court to refuse to examine her, and to refuse to allow counsel to examine her, and allow her to testify. Young v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 996.

21. Under Const. art. 1, § 5, and Pen. Code 1895, art. 34, a child of 7 is incompetent to testify in prosecution for rape. Freasier v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 360.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 2168.

23. Justice of the peace incompetent to testify to statement made by a witness in a hearing before him. State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947.

24. Contrary to public policy and convenience. Noland v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 887.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 2168.

26. But conviction may be shown to affect credibility. Smith v. State [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1123.

27. Conviction of burglary does not disqualify in Kentucky, though fact may be shown to discredit witness. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McManus' Adm'r [Ky.] 82 S. W. 399. One under sentence for life in a territorial prison is competent to testify in a criminal case, though the fact of conviction and sentence may be shown as affecting his credibility. Martin v. Territory, 14 Okl. 598, 78 P. 88.

28. See § 5 B 2, post.

29. Deposition of one convicted of a felony held properly excluded. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 34.

30. Neither a judgment based on a verdict, nor a deposition showing witness had been in a reformatory, could take the place of such record. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex.] 81 S. W. 4. To affect the competency of a witness, a conviction must be established by the record; but where a wit-accessory after the fact, he must be proved such within the statutory definition.[31] Under some statutes, one who has been convicted of perjury is incompetent in any case, unless his conviction has been reversed, or he has been pardoned.[32] Such a statute does not disqualify a person who admits having committed perjury, but who has not been convicted of the crime.[33] A witness is not incompetent in a criminal prosecution by reason of the fact that he is under indictment for the same offense for which defendant is being tried.[34] Where, in a prosecution for conspiracy in a Federal court, a severance is granted, a co-conspirator is competent to testify for the government, the credibility of his testimony being for the jury.[35]

Statutes sometimes require special qualifications, as to witnesses called in certain actions to prove particular facts; as that the witness must be a resident freeholder and householder.[36] In Kentucky, the common-law rules as to competency of witnesses govern in criminal proceedings, except as to interest, and the like, since the civil code provision which practically makes competent all who show sufficient knowledge of the facts, is applicable only to civil proceedings.[37]

§ 2. Disqualification on ground of interest.[38]—While the interest of a witness in the event of the suit may be shown, as affecting his credibility, the fact of such interest does not now disqualify a person as a witness.[39]

§ 3. Disqualification of one party to transaction or communication on death of the other.[40]—Practically all the states have statutes which provide, in substance, that a party to an action, or a person interested in the event thereof, or a person from whom a party derives his interest, shall be incompetent to testify as to transactions or communications with a deceased person, when the adverse party represents, or derives his interest from, the deceased. The manifest design of such statutes is to prevent living witnesses from taking advantage of the death of a person, whereby contradiction of an alleged statement or transaction is rendered impossible, and the construction placed upon them is largely controlled by this purpose. The New Hampshire statute provides that the disqualified person may testify when it clearly appears to the court that injustice may be done without his testimony.[41] In California, neither the party asserting a claim,[42] nor the assignor of a claim[43] against a deceased person can testify to matters occurring ness admits conviction, and no other proof is offered, the fact is before the jury as affecting the witness's credibility. Bise v. United States [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 921.

31. Chenault v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 971.

32. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5992, makes this exception to the rule that conviction of crime shall not render a person incompetent. State v. Pearson [Wash.] 79 P. 985.

33. State v. Pearson [Wash.] 79 P. 985.

34. Homicide. State v. Cobley [Iowa] 103 N. W. 99.

35. Wong Din v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 702.

36. Required by Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1043, to prove bona fide residence of plaintiff in divorce. Witness held qualified. Roshniakorski v. Roshniakorski [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 485. See Divorce, 3 Curr. L. 1127.

37. Bright v. Com. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 527.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 2168.

39. Since 1866, in Georgia, interest does not disqualify. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501. Beneficiary under a will may testify as to conversations with deceased in probation of will. In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 469. Mere fact that witness would be sole legatee under a will did not disqualify her to testify to execution of will. Rev. St. 1899, § 4652. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103. Under Const. Ark. Schedule, § 2, Kirby's Dig. §§ 3093, 3094, a party may be a witness against himself in a civil case. Wiley v. McBride [Ark.] 85 S. W. 84.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 2169.

41. Held proper, under Pub. St. 1901, c. 224, §§ 16, 17, to permit plaintiff to testify to facts only within the knowledge of himself and a deceased partner, in an action against the surviving partner on an order accepted by the firm. Parsons v. Wentworth [N. H.] 59 A. 623.

42. A married woman, suing for services rendered a deceased, cannot testify concerning the course of conduct of herself and husband as to her separate earnings, since such testimony would be as to matters occurring within the lifetime of deceased, under Code Civ. Proc. § 1880. Kaltschmidt v. Weber, 145 Cal. 596, 79 P. 272.

43. Where one of several lessees of a in the lifetime of the deceased. The Michigan statute disqualifies interested persons in suits by or against representatives of a deceased to testify as to matters, which, if true, must have been equally within knowledge of the deceased.[44] Under the Pennsylvania statute, the surviving party to a contract may testify to matters occurring in the lifetime of deceased, only if there is living at the time of trial another person, between whom and the witness such matters occurred, and who is competent to testify, and does so testify.[45] The Kentucky statute also provides that no person shall testify for himself as to statements by or transactions with an infant under fourteen, except for the purpose and to the extent of affecting a living person over fourteen who heard the statement or was present at the transaction.[46]

The adverse party, or party against whom the witness is offered, must represent the decedent, or derive his interest from the decedent.[47]—Thus, the statutes are usually applicable in proceedings by or against executors and administrators,[48] unless they are merely nominal parties;[49] and by or against heirs,[50] devisees or milling building assigned his interest to the others, and after the building was damaged by fire, the landlord agreed to repair, held, in an action against his executor for breach of the contract, the assignor was not the assignor of the claim sued on within Code Civ. Proc. § 1880. Frey v. Vignier, 145 Cal. 251, 78 P. 733.

44. Comp. Laws, § 10,212. Peirson v. McNeal [Mich.] 100 N. W. 458. For construction, see decisions under "Transactions and Communications," post.

45. P. L. 1891, 287. Montelius v. Montelius, 209 Penn. 474, 58 A. 910. Surviving party to contract cannot testify to transactions during lifetime of deceased, no other living witness having testified. Wright v. Hanna, 210 Pa. 349, 59 A. 1097.

46. Civ. Code Prac. § 606, subsec. 2, renders father incompetent to testify that deed to children under 14 was voluntary and that there was no delivery of deed. Mullins v. Mullins [Ky.] 87 S. W. 764.

47. Where the party on one side is the executor, administrator, heir at law, or next of kin of a deceased person, and has acquired title to the cause of action directly through deceased, the adverse party is incompetent to testify to any transaction or communication had with deceased [Gen. St. 1901, § 4770]. Roach v. Roach, 69 Kan. 522, 77 P. 108. In an action by administrators against a foreign executrix and a donee of a testator to recover the subject of the gift, admission of a conversation between one of plaintiffs, the deceased and executrix, nominally against the executrix, was error, since the evidence was only important as against the donee. Downey v. Owen, 90 N. Y. S. 280. Attorney held competent witness after death of his client, in suit to recover money from attorney paid him on his representation that he still represented the client. Girard Trust Co. v. Harrington, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 615.

48. Under this statute (P. L. 1902, p. 363, § 4), in a suit against the estate of a testatrix to enforce performance of an oral agreement to devise land, complainant cannot testify as to transactions with decedent, her executors being parties to the suit. Clawson v. Brewer [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 598. But complainant may testify as to transactions with his father, also dead, since the father's executors are not parties to the suit. Id. An action for claim and delivery involves the right of possession and not the ownership; hence such action is not a claim against an estate of a person represented by an administrator, within Rev. St. 1887, § 5957, subd. 3, so as to make plaintiff incompetent to testify in his own behalf. Cunningham v. Stoner [Idaho] 79 P. 228. Under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1880, subd. 3, providing that a party cannot be a witness in an action against an administrator on a claim against the estate of a deceased person, a suit by a husband to quiet title to land which was community property is not a claim against the wife's estate so as to render the husband incompetent. Bollinger v. Wright, 143 Cal. 292, 76 P. 1108.

49. The Federal statute (Rev. St. 858) provides that in suits by or against executors, in which judgment may be rendered for or against them, neither party shall be allowed to testify against the other as to any transaction with or statement by the testator unless called by the adverse party or the court. This statute does not apply to suits in which executors are merely nominal parties, against whom no judgment could be rendered. Russell v. Russell, 129 F. 434. Hence, in a suit by a widow to enforce a claim of dower against her deceased husband's estate, she may testify to an antenuptial agreement, though his executors are parties. Id.

50. In a suit by a judgment creditor of a grantor to set aside a deed as fraudulent, the grantor is incompetent to testify for the plaintiff, and against the grantee's heirs and executrix as to conversations with deceased grantee; and the heirs and executrix were proper parties to raise the question of competency of such witness. Roberts v. Mack, 90 N. Y. S. 526. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4652, providing that one party to a contract or cause of action being dead, the other cannot testify, the grantees of a deed may testify, in a suit by creditors to set aside the deed for fraud, though the grantor is dead, the grantor's heirs not being parties. Stam v. Smith, 183 Mo. 464, 81 S. W. 1217.

legatees.[51] But whether devisees or legatees represent a decedent, within the meaning of such statutes, may depend on the nature of the proceeding.[52] The heir, as adverse party, does not represent the deceased, within the meaning of the Nebraska statute, unless he stands in the place of the deceased and asserts a right which deceased had at the time of his death.[53] A surety of a deceased principal is entitled to the same protection as the representative of the principal.[54] That a party has derived his right from a decedent does not disqualify him if the opposite party has derived from decedent no right to the thing derived, and no right to dispute the derivation.[55]

Persons disqualified as witnesses[56] by the statutes are, first, parties to the action;[57] second, persons interested in the event of the action;[58] third, persons

51. In a contest of a will on the ground of undue influence, the testimony of a beneficiary as to a conversation had by him with a decedent through whom contestants were claiming as his legatees, is inadmissible, under Iowa Code, § 4604. In re Wiltsey's Will, 122 Iowa, 423, 98 N. W. 294.

52. Within the meaning of the New Jersey statute, a testatrix is not "represented" by devisees, in a suit against them to subject the proceeds of lands, sold in partition between them, to the payment of a note given by testatrix. Hence the petitioner, payee of the note, may testify as to execution of and consideration for the note. McKinley v. Coe [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1030. In an action to cancel a deed given to secure a debt, on the ground that the debt was released by the will of the creditor, plaintiff may testify in his own behalf, the action being against the testator's devisees and legatees, and not against his heirs or personal representatives. Emerson v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 369.

53. Code, § 329. Sorensen v. Sorensen [Neb.] 103 N. W. 455.

54. Adverse party cannot testify to transactions with deceased in action against surety, since surety can recover over from the estate. McGowan v. Davenport, 134 N. C. 526, 47 S. E. 27.

55. A beneficiary's right to money on death of a member of a beneficial association is not derived from the deceased; hence, one claiming the money on ground of an antenuptial agreement may herself prove the agreement, and her marriage with deceased. Broadrick v. Broadrick, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 225.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 2172.

57. Held incompetent: One suing as heir to set aside a deed by his grandmother, or establish a trust in the land conveyed, is incompetent to testify to conversation with grandmother as to consideration for deed. Sheldon v. Carr [Mich.] 103 N. W. 181. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 51, § 2, a party suing heirs to enforce an agreement with the ancestor to dedicate a street is incompetent. Schneider v. Sulzer, 212 Ill. 87, 72 N. E. 19. Heir, suing as administrator, to collect a loan by deceased, is disqualified by interest to testify to transactions with deceased in order to prove the loan. Wakefield v. Wakefield, 92 N. Y. S. 399. Wife of one of testator's next of kin, who was party to a suit to contest a will, could not testify in such suit as to personal transactions and communications with testator. Roche v. Nason, 93 N. Y. S. 565. Plaintiffs held incompetent to establish by their own testimony a claim against the estate of a deceased person which arose in the lifetime of deceased. Moore v. Crump [Miss.] 37 So. 109. Where husband claimed provision in antenuptial agreement, whereby wife was permitted to will her property as she chose, was a forgery, and after her death, renounced her will and sought to obtain his share of her property under the law, he was incompetent as a witness against the estate. Watson v. Duncan [Miss.] 37 So. 125. Claimant cannot testify to establish his own claim against the estate of a deceased person. Jones v. Jones [Miss.] 37 So. 499. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 400, defendant may not testify to a conversation with deceased in an action by the administrator, defendant's interest being such that it might affect his testimony. Rhodes v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 494, 47 S. E. 689. A creditor who files a claim in a creditor's suit to settle up a decedent's estate is incompetent to testify to transactions between himself and decedent under Code 1899, c. 130, § 23. Bank of Union v. Nickell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1003. Sureties on a bond given defendant's intestate, made parties to a suit are incompetent to testify for their principal regarding a transaction with intestate. Haberzettle v. Dearing [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 539. In an action to recover land from heirs, plaintiff cannot testify to transactions or statements of decedent. Black v. Cox, 26 Ky. L. R. 599, 82 S. W. 278. In action against executor for services rendered a decedent, plaintiff cannot testify in his own behalf. Green's Ex'r, v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1007, 82 S. W. 1011. Defendant, in an action by a community administratrix and heirs cannot testify to transactions between himself and deceased. Rogers v. Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 379.

Held competent: An executor and beneficiary under a will is not, in a proceeding to prove the will, a party suing or sued in a representative capacity, within the meaning of the statute. In re McLaughlin's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 469. Defendants may testify for a co-defendant, if their interests are adverse to the interests of such co-defendant. Jones v. Jones, 213 Ill. 228, 72 N. E. 695. One who, though an heir of defendant's deceased grantor, did not claim realty in suit as heir, nor bring suit as such, is competent to testify therein. Camfield v. Plummer, 212 Ill. 541, 72 N. E. 787. In an action by the administrator of a bank depositor to recover a deposit paid by the bank to the attorney of from whom a party derives his interest.[59] One testifying against his own interest is competent, though the adverse party is an executor or legatee.[60] While the the depositor after the latter's death, the bank could show by the attorney, who was not a party and would not be bound by a decree, his interest in the money, by declarations of the depositor and his own acts. Hoffman v. Union Dime Sav. Inst., 95 App. Div. 329, 88 N. Y. S. 686. Rev. St. 1895, § 2302, held not applicable where plaintiff sued in individual capacity and as guardian, and defendant witness, who testified that her deceased husband always claimed certain land, was not asserting any right as heir. Field v. Field [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 726.

58. Held Incompetent:

Alabama: Complainant in suit to cancel deed to person since deceased cannot testify to transactions with deceased. Henderson v. Brunson [Ala.] 37 So. 549. But complainant's husband is not incompetent in such suit, since he has no interest in her lands, except that she may permit them to descend to him at her death. Id.

Illinois: A person owning land near that of plaintiff, who would be benefited by the dedication of the street, is incompetent, being interested in the event of the suit. Schneider v. Sulzer, 212 Ill. 87, 72 N. E. 19.

Kentucky: Where the interests of several parties are such that their claims must stand or fall together, each, incompetent to testify for himself, is also incompetent to testify for the others. Barnett's Adm'r v. Adams, 26 Ky. L. R. 622, 82 S. W. 406. In action for wrongful death, stockholders of defendant corporation are incompetent to testify to conversations or transactions with plaintiff's intestate. Kentucky Stove Co. v. Bryan's Adm'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 537.

Missouri: Son of decedent incompetent to testify whether money received by him had been received as an advancement. Carpenter v. Coats, 183 Mo. 52, 81 S. W. 1089.

New York: One who will secure a larger legacy under a former will if a later one is annulled is incompetent to testify in the contest of the will. Pringle v. Burroughs, 91 N. Y. S. 750. Widow incompetent to testify to transactions between herself and husband tending to show invalidity of mortgage given by them, since if the mortgage was valid, it would make her dower interest in the property concerned subordinate. Smith v. Smith, 90 N. Y. S. 883.

North Carolina: One who is a surety on a prosecution bond has a legal interest in the action which disqualifies him, under the statute [Code, § 590]. McGowan v. Davenport, 134 N. C. 526, 47 S. E. 27.

Pennsylvania: In action by executors of payee of note against the maker, the guarantor is incompetent to prove payment during the holder's lifetime, even though the guarantor has been discharged in bankruptcy, since the guaranty was made. Pattison v. Cobb, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 72.

Texas: In a suit by a wife to recover her separate property from an executor, the husband, though not joined, is a party in interest, incompetent to testify to declarations of or transactions with deceased, under Rev. St. 1895, art. 2302. Tompkins v. McGinn [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 452.

Held Competent.

Alabama: In a suit by a child to recover from a parent's estate the value of board and services furnished the parent, the son and wife of plaintiff are not disqualified by interest, under Code 1896, § 1794, to testify as to a contract between plaintiff and deceased. Meyers v. Meyers [Ala.] 37 So. 451.

Georgia: A stockholder of a corporation which is a party to a suit is not disqualified by interest to testify to transactions and communications with a deceased. Bank of Southwestern Georgia v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393.

Illinois: In an action against a street railway company for negligence of a motorman resulting in death, the motorman is competent to testify, since a judgment against the company could not be used in evidence against the motorman in a suit by the company to recover over from him. Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 211 Ill. 279, 71 N. E. 991.

Iowa: Daughter of deceased and her husband were not disqualified in action against executors on a note which deceased signed as accommodation indorser for them. German-American Sav. Bank v. Hanna, 124 Iowa, 374, 100 N. W. 57.

Kentucky: Where a minor sues by his guardian to enforce a contract made for his benefit by his guardian with a third person, the death of such third person does not render the guardian incompetent to testify for the minor as to the contract made with the decedent, since such guardian, though a party, has no disqualifying interest. Doty's Adm'rs v. Doty's Guardian, 26 Ky. L. R. 63, 80 S. W. 803. No disqualifying interest arises from the fact that costs may have to be paid out of assets in the hands of the guardian. Id. Nor does the fact that the court may allow the guardian reasonable compensation for services disqualify. Id.

Michigan: Where, on an appeal by heirs from an order allowing the administrator's account, the issue is whether certain personalty belongs to the estate, testimony by a witness called by the administrator that the property was a gift causa mortis to her was competent, she not being a real party in interest, or bound by the decree. Reed v. Whipple [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 77, 103 N. W. 548.

59. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 829, a mother who made a contract with the putative father of her child for a settlement of $100,000 on the child after she had supported him a certain time, is incompetent in an action by the child to enforce the contract. Rosseau v. Rouss [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 916. In trespass to try title, plaintiff claiming under mortgage foreclosure sale, the mortgagor and the heirs of his wife are incompetent, under Rev. St. 1895, § 2302, to prove by transactions between the mortgagor and his wife that the land mortgaged was the wife's separate property. Barrett v. Eastham Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1057.

60. An executor in a will, bound by contract to execute it, and who seeks in good faith to probate it, is a competent witness in a proceeding by contestants to set aside a subsequent will, defended by the executor and legatee therein, since the executor in statute disqualifies a party to a contract[61] or transaction[62] to testify in regard thereto when the other party is dead, it does not disqualify one who was present and heard a conversation, but did not participate therein;[63] nor is a party to a transaction with a decedent disqualified, if the adverse party was also present and participated.[64] Death of an agent who made a contract renders the other party thereto incompetent;[65] and an agent becomes incompetent on death of the other party.[66] such case testifies against his own financial interests. Godfrey v. Phillips, 209 Ill. 584, 71 N. E. 19.

61. After father's death, son and his wife are incompetent to prove a contract with the father whereby the son was to remain at home and have the farm in consideration of his managing it. Eastwood v. Crane [Iowa] 101 N. W. 481. A woman claiming to be the widow of a dead man, whose claim in that regard is denied by others who have or assert claims, as heirs, against his estate, is incompetent to testify to the fact of her marriage in a proceeding in which she seeks, as distributee, a portion or all of his personal property, until her status as widow bas been judicially determined. In re Maher's Estate, 210 Ill. 160, 71 N. E. 438. Under Civ. Code, § 606, maker of note, in action thereon by payee's administrator, cannot testify to contract made with deceased payee. Proctor v. Proctor's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 348, 81 S. W. 272. Vendee in executory contract of sale of land cannot, after vendor's death, testify to conversation with vendor relative to the amount of land to be conveyed. Bargo v. Bargo [Ky.] 86 S. W. 525. In a suit to enforce a contract to make plaintiff the heir of a person, plaintiff's mother, who made the contract with the decedent, cannot testify in regard thereto, under Rev. St. 1899, § 4652. Ashbury v. Hicklin, 181 Mo. 658, 81 S. W. 390. Woman seeking to enforce a claim as widow against a decedent's estate is incompetent to prove a common-law marriage with decedent. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263. After death of payee, maker of note cannot testify as to consideration therefor, or that it was accommodation paper. Cody v. Hadcox, 90 N. Y. S. 873. In action for goods sold a firm, evidence by one partner, who admitted liability, as to a partnership agreement with the other, since deceased, was incompetent, as against the executor of the deceased. Moore v. Palmer, 132 N. C. 969, 44 S. E. 673. Where each of four sons brought separate suits for breach of an alleged oral contract to devise land, the contract being joint, the sons are incompetent to testify for each other as to the contract. Murphy v. Murphy, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 547. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 2302, the payee of a note, in a suit thereon against the maker's administrator, cannot testify that he never received money on the note. Abbott v. Stiff [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 562.

62. Witness cannot testify to transactions between himself and decedent. Cook v. Landrum, 26 Ky. L. R. 813, 82 S. W. 585. In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy of a partnership against the administrator and others claiming under his intestate, a partner is incompetent to testify to transactions between him and intestate concerning the subject-matter of the suit. Johnston v. Coney, 120 Ga. 767, 48 S. E. 373.

63. Under the Iowa statute the wife of a party, who was present at, but took no part in, a transaction between deceased and such party, is competent to testify in regard thereto. Lucas v. W. W. McDonald & Son [Iowa] 102 N. W. 532. Conversation overheard by witness between her mother, since deceased, and the administrator of her estate, admissible in hearing on administrator's account. In re Andrews, 97 App. Div. 429, 89 N. Y. S. 965. In suit to recover personalty from husband and wife claimed as gifts causa mortis, the wife cannot testify to conversations between her husband and deceased, under D. C. Code, § 1064. Dawson v. Waggaman, 23 App. D. C. 428.

64. Plaintiff, executor, could prove loan by testifying to transaction between deceased and defendant, at which witness was present. Wakefield v. Wakefield, 93 N. Y. S. 554. But the fact that a conversation between a testator and his wife, and certain relatives, took place in the presence of a child, remotely related to testator, did not make such relatives competent to testify to the conversation, though the then child was executrix of the wife's estate in the contest [Code, § 590]. In re Peterson's Will, 136 N. C. 13, 48 S. E. 561.

65. A party to a contract made with a corporation's agent cannot testify regarding it after the agent's death. Central Bank of Kansas City v. Thayer [Mo.] 82 S. W. 142.

66. In a suit against an administrator to recover for work done for deceased, the person procuring the work to be done is incompetent under Civ. Code 1895, § 5269, pars. 1, 4. Skeen v. Moore, 120 Ga. 1057, 48 S. E. 425. Pub. Acts 1903, p. 36, No. 30, renders incompetent any person who acted as agent in the making or continning of a contract with a person since deceased, in a suit involving the contract. Albring v. Ward [Mich.] 100 N. W. 609. Held, in suit on a contract to make plaintiff an heir, plaintiff's natural father, who made the contract when his daughter was two years old, was incompetent. Id. Michigan Comp. Laws, § 10,212, provides that in suits prosecuted or defended by a surviving partner, the other party shall not be admitted to testify to matters, which, if true, must have been equally within the knowledge of the deceased partner; and that in suits by or against a corporation, the adverse party shall not testify to matters equally within the knowledge of a deceased officer of the corporation, not within the knowledge of any surviving officer. People's Nat. Bank v. Wilcox [Mich.] 100 N. W. 24. Held, under this statute, where it appeared, in a proceeding to foreclose a mortgage given by a surviving partner, as such, individually, on partnership property to a corporation, and to determine the rights of creditors of the surviving partner individually, the president of the corporation had died after

Transactions and communications.[67]—The disqualification extends to all personal transactions between the witness and deceased,[68] but not to transactions between the witness and a third person,[69] or between deceased and another.[70] The mere fact that one of the parties represents a decedent does not render the other party, or an interested person, incompetent as to testimony not involving transactions with deceased.[71] There is a conflict as to the competency of interested persons to testify to transactions with a decedent, or his acts and appearance, for the purpose of showing his mental condition.[72] The Michigan statute disqualifies as to all matters which, if true, might have been equally within the knowledge of deceased.[73] execution of the mortgage:—neither the surviving partner, nor the officer of a bank which was endeavoring to postpone the mortgage, could show an agreement with the deceased president whereby the terms of the mortgage were changed. Id.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 2174.

68. An heir, occupying deceased father's farm, cannot testify that he paid rent to his father, this relating to a transaction with a decedent. Garrott v. Rives, 25 Ky. L. R. 2165, 80 S. W. 519. Plaintiff, in an action to foreclose a trust deed, cannot testify that the note, given by decedent, had not been paid. McGowan v. Davenport, 134 N. C. 526, 47 S. E. 27. Widow of a testator cannot testify in suit to set aside a will, to giving a mortgage to a third person, pursuant to a separation agreement between her and deceased. Holland v. Holland, 90 N. Y. S. 208. One presenting a claim against an estate on an alleged note given by decedent cannot testify as to where he kept the note, where it was on day of deceased's death, and that he showed it to a third person. In re Blair, 99 App. Div. 81, 91 N. Y. S. 378. In action by executor for an accounting, testimony in effect denying that defendant was given certain information by deceased is incompetent. Komp v. Luria, 92 N. Y. S. 569. Physician, in action by him against administrator to recover for services, cannot testify to calls made and their dates, to giving deceased bills, that prescriptions charged were actually made, etc., these being personal transactions with deceased. Russell v. Hitchcock, 93 N. Y. S. 950.

69. In an action for services rendered a deceased, the contract therefor having been made with plaintiff by deceased's daughter, plaintiff was competent to testify, under Code, § 606. Crutcher's Adm'r v. Stuart, 26 Ky. L. R. 648, 82 S. W. 421. Under Code, § 590, a party may testify, as against a grantor, that a deed was to run to the party's wife, or in case of her death to the party, though the wife died subsequent to the execution of the deed, but before the giving of the testimony. Lehew v. Hewett [N. C.] 50 S. E. 459.

70. Under Code, § 590, a party to a suit for partition of a decedent's land may testify that she saw decedent hand deeds to her (witness') husband; this not being a transaction between witness and deceased. Johnson v. Cameron, 136 N. C. 243, 48 S. E. 640.

Contra: The disqualification extends to conversations or transactions between the deceased and third parties at which the witness was present, though not participating therein. Thus, in action to set aside deed from decedent, grantee could not testify as to conversation regarding a lease, executed at the same time, and in the grantee's presence. Burdick v. Burdick [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 23.

71. Evidence not relating to transactions or communications with a decedent is competent, under Civ. Code 1895, § 5269. Bank of Southwestern Georgia v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 5269, an agent for one of the parties was a competent witness, though the original defendant had died, as to any matters except transactions between the agent and deceased. Murphey v. Bush [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1004. In action against representatives, plaintiff may testify if his evidence is not in regard to communications, transactions, etc., with deceased. Chenault v. Thomas, 26 Ky. L. R. 1029, 83 S. W. 109. One interested may testify to matters not involving transactions with deceased, under Rev. St. 1895, art. 2302. Tompkins v. McGinn [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 452. Code, § 590, does not make an interested witness, in an action relating to boundaries, incompetent to testify to declarations of a deceased disinterested person. Yow v. Hamilton, 136 N. C. 357, 48 S. E. 782. In suit by administratrix of a grantee for breach of covenant against incumbrances, distributee of grantee's estate held competent to testify as to incumbrance in suit, since he was not interested, and did not testify to a communication or transaction with deceased, under Code, § 590. Deaver v. Deaver [N. C.] 49 S. E. 113.

72. Children of a testator, interested in the setting aside of a will, are incompetent to testify to the appearance and acts of testator indicating insanity. Holland v. Holland, 90 N. Y. S. 208. Executor and proponent of will, and beneficiary, may testify to transactions with decedent, to show testamentary capacity in probate proceedings. Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890. A widow, defending a suit as executrix, may testify to acts, conduct, or transactions of her deceased husband within her observation, if wholly unparticipated in, and uninfluenced by her (Schultz v. Culbertson [Wis.] 103 N. W. 234), and may also give her mental impression as to his capacity to contract, based on such observation of his acts and conduct [Rev. St. 1898, §§ 4069, 4072] (Id.).

73. Comp. Laws, § 10,212. Peirson v. McNeal [Mich.] 100 N. W. 458. Held, the assignee of certain mortgages is incompetent to testify in an action by the executrix of the estate of the assignor to set aside the assignments. Id. The executrix, being sole devisee, was the real party in interest in such action, and hence was also incompetent to

Waiver or removal of disqualification.[74]—The disqualification created by the statutes under consideration is waived where the adverse party fails to make a proper objection,[75] or where such adverse party first calls the witness and examines him as to matters protected by the statutes;[76] but such waiver extends only to matters as to which the witness was examined by the adverse party.[77] There is no waiver if a witness examined was not a party,[78] or if a disqualified witness was not in fact called by the adverse party.[79] An offer of one who contests a claim against an estate to waive the statutory prohibition as to transactions with deceased, not accepted by the claimant, does not constitute a bind-testify to facts equally within the knowledge of her deceased husband. Id. In suit by mortgagor's heirs to restrain foreclosure of mortgage, defendant's testimony that he had received a payment within 15 years in a letter from the mortgagor was incompetent, being a matter equally within the deceased mortgagor's knowledge. Carr v. Carr [Mich.] 101 N. W. 550. A widow in proving a claim against her husband's estate for expenses of his last sickness, may testify to items as to which deceased had no knowledge, but not as to those of which he had knowledge. Wilcox v. Wilcox [Mich.] 102 N. W. 954. In action on claim for services against decedent's estate, plaintiff's husband was incompetent to testify to conversation with decedent relative to a promise of decedent to leave property to the wife in consideration of being cared for by wife and husband. Finn v. Sowders' Estate [Mich.] 103 N. W. 177.

Held competent: A physician may testify to the reasonable value of services rendered, as proved by his book of account, in an action to enforce a claim therefor against an estate. Kwiecinski v. Newman's Estate [Mich.] 100 N. W. 391. Testimony of widow to show loss of notes in suit, and not in regard to execution, held not to violate statute, since no fact known equally to deceased was testified to. Taylor v. Taylor's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 2175.

75. Failure to make any objection is a waiver under Comp. Laws, § 10,212. Howatt v. Green [Mich.] 102 N. W. 734. An objection only on the ground that evidence related to privileged communications made to an attorney is a waiver of the incompetency of witness as an agent on the ground that the other party to the transaction is dead. Gerhardt v. Tucker [Mo.] 85 S. W. 552.

76. A party who calls a witness to testify to transactions with a deceased waives the statutory incompetency of the witness and cannot thereafter object when the witness testifies as to such transactions in his own behalf. Dee v. King [Vt.] 59 A. 839. Objection to incompetency of son to testify as to contract between him and his deceased mother waived, where adverse party examined him in regard thereto. Edwards v. Latimer, 183 Mo. 610, 82 S. W. 109. Where defendant first examined a claimant against the estate, as an adverse witness, as to transactions and conversations with deceased, claimant could testify in his own behalf under Rev. St. 1898, § 4069. Currie v. Michie [Wis.] 101 N. W. 370. Testimony by one interested in the estate of decedent lets in testimony by a person for himself regarding transactions with decedent, by direct provisions of Code Civ. Prac. § 606. Whitley v. Whitley's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 134, 80 S. W. 825. Where a party is examined by the adverse party, he is made competent as a witness for all purposes. Ratliff v. Ratliff, 102 Va. 880, 47 S. E. 1007. Where an administrator introduces in evidence a letter of the adverse party reciting a transaction with deceased, the adverse party is entitled to testify in his own behalf in regard to the same matter. Code Civ. Proc. § 329. Cline v. Dexter [Neb.] 101 N. W. 246. In an action by the state on an official bond against the principal and the representatives of a deceased surety, the principal when called by the state may testify that the deceased promised to remain on the bond. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fossati [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1038.

77. A witness having testified to a conversation between plaintiff's assignor and deceased, the assignor may testify in rebuttal that witness was not present at the times mentioned by him, but not that she had no conversation with deceased. Healy v. Malcolm, 99 App. Div. 370, 91 N. Y. S. 207. While testimony was being taken by a master in a suit to reform a deed, a defendant who filed a cross-bill to have the deed set aside, died. Held, plaintiff was thereafter incompetent to testify, even though the deceased executor testified, the latter's testimony being confined to matters of which he learned from the testimony formerly given by the deceased. Clark v. Harper [Ill.] 74 N. E. 61. In ejectment by the heir against his ancestor's grantor, proof of admissions by the grantor as to the destruction of deeds was not a waiver of the incompetency of the witness to testify to transactions with or statements by deceased, where the admissions proved did not relate to matters equally within the knowledge of deceased. Wilbur v. Grover [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 99, 103 N. W. 583.

78. Examination of the husband of the administratrix as to a conversation between deceased and defendant does not make defendant competent to testify to such conversation, since said husband was not a party [Code, § 590]. Hall v. Holloman, 136 N. C. 34, 48 S. E. 515.

79. In an action against one member of an alleged partnership and the executrix of the other, the executrix only denying the existence of the partnership, the other defendant could not testify to transactions and statements of the testator tending to show a partnership [Rev. St. 1895, art. 2302]. Rascoe v. Walker Smith Co. [Tex.] 86 S. W. 728.

ing waiver as to the contestant.[80] An assignment of his interest by a party for the purpose of qualifying himself as a witness to testify to transactions with a deceased is ineffectual to accomplish that object.[81]

§ 4. Privileged communications, and persons in confidential relations. A. Attorney and client.[82]—Confidential communications by a client to his attorney are privileged and cannot be testified to by the attorney without the consent of the client.[83] The communication made, or knowledge gained, must be in fact confidential, and made or gained in the course of the professional employment of the attorney.[84] It follows that the relation of attorney and client must have existed[85] at the time,[86] though it is not necessary that a fee be asked or expected, in order to entitle the client to claim the privilege of the relation.[87] Communications to an agent are not privileged,[88] though the agent incidentally performs legal services,[89] nor does the fact that the person to whom declarations were made was afterwards retained as attorney render them privileged.[90] The privilege of the client does not extend to everything coming to the attorney's knowledge while acting as such, and does not include information derived from other persons or other sources.[91] Statements made by clients in the presence of third persons or of the opposite party and his attorneys are not privileged.[92] The privilege may be waived by the client.[93] A communication to a county attorney by a prosecuting witness, who requests the arrest of accused, is privileged, in an action by ac-

80. In re Blair, 99 App. Div. 81, 91 N. Y. S. 378.

81. Verstine v. Yeaney, 210 Pa. 109, 59 A. 689.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 2176.

83. A letter from an attorney to his client, relative to the amount recoverable in an action against the client, being of a confidential nature, a copy of such letter sent by the attorney to his associate is privileged. Jones v. Nantahala Marble & Talc. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 94. In an action by a bondsman on an insurance agent's bond, to recover money paid the company, plaintiff cannot require an attorney of the company to testify as to the state of the agent's account with the company, nor to state whether he had said, in a former trial for embezzlement, that the agent did not owe the company anything. Wilson v. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 892. A witness having been cross-examined as to statements concerning her property, the attorney cannot thereafter be examined to contradict the witness. Kaufman v. Rosenshine, 97 App. Div. 514, 90 N. Y. S. 205. Attorney incompetent to testify as to conversations with deceased client, through whom a party claimed, and letters between attorney and client incompetent. Downey v. Owen, 90 N. Y. S. 280. An attorney who drew a will may not testify that the testator stated that the debt of plaintiff, released by the will, was secured by a deed, in an action by plaintiff to cancel such deed, against the heirs and devisees of the testator. Such testimony is not within the exception permitting an attorney to testify to testamentary dispositions as between different claimants. Emerson v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 369.

84. A communication by client to attorney is admissible as evidence, unless it is of such a character that it would not have been made except for that relation. Smart v. Masters, etc., of Lodge No. 2, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 15. Statement of client to attorney that he had borrowed money to pay for his services in a case which was completed in order to induce the attorney to take up a second case, held not privileged. Eekhout v. Cole, 135 N. C. 583, 47 S. E. 655. Evidence by an attorney to prove negotiations between his client and other parties held not confidential. List's Ex'x v. List, 26 Ky. L. R. 691, 82 S. W. 446. Knowledge of an attorney concerning a will, and property disposed by it, under which his former client claimed, held not privileged, though gained in work done for the client. King v. Ashley, 96 App. Div. 143, 89 N. Y. S. 482.

85. Conversation between attorney, who, on request of another, brought papers to him and such other, not privileged. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220.

86. Where attorney's evidence was confined to time before his employment, admission of testimony not error. Gerhardt v. Tucker [Mo.] 85 S. W. 552.

87. Mack v. Sharp [Mich.] 101 N. W. 631.

88. Declarations to an "attorney in fact." State v. Smith [N. C.] 50 S. E. 850.

89. The fact that an agent to procure a loan performs legal services while procuring it does not make the relation of the agent and borrower that of attorney and client, so as to make information gained by the agent privileged. Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969.

90. State v. Smith [N. C.] 50 S. E. 850.

91. Code Civ. Proc. § 835. King v. Ashley, 179 N. Y. 281, 72 N. E. 106.

92. Scott v. Aultman Co., 211 Ill. 612, 71 N. E. 1112.

93. In an action to recover attorney's fees, defendant introduced evidence of the amount involved in the action. Held, he thereby waived his privilege as to a letter to him from his attorney, the associate of the witness, relative to the amount recoverable in the suit. Jones v. Nantahala Marble & Talc, Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 94.

cused against the prosecutor for slander and malicious prosecution, both as a communication to an attorney,[94] and on the ground of public policy.[95]

(§ 4) B. Physician and patient.[96]—By statute in many jurisdictions, communications to a physician by a patient for the purpose of enabling the physician to treat or prescribe for the patient are privileged.[97] Such communications were not privileged at common law.[98] The statutory privilege extends not only to communications, but to all information acquired by the physician in his professional capacity.[99] The patient may claim the privilege, though the physician was called by the adverse party and for the latter's benefit, as in the case of an examination of an injured passenger by a railroad physician.[1] Testimony being incompetent, as privileged, under the statute, is incompetent also to impeach the patient as a witness.[2] The statutes do not, it is said, apply in a criminal case,[3] nor to communications made in furtherance of a criminal purpose.[4] Information not required or obtained for the purpose of medical treatment is not privileged,[5] and a physician may testify to the result of an examination made for the purpose of qualifying him as a witness, and not to enable him to prescribe.[6] In an action on a policy of insurance, the certificate of the attending physician, made a part of the proofs of death, is competent evidence as an admission against interest.[7] In Indiana, the prohibition extends to testimony in regard to testamentary dispositions, in controversies between the heirs and devisees of the testator.[8] In Michigan it is 94, 95. Gabriel v. McMullin [Iowa] 103 N. W. 355.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 2178.

97. Where, in an insurance case, it appeared insured had given birth to a stillborn child a few months after stating in her application that she was not pregnant, and a physician testified that any information possessed by him was gained in his professional capacity in order to treat her, he could not testify as to what period of gestation had elapsed before birth of the child. Van Bergen v. Catholic Relief & Beneficiary Ass'n, 99 App. Div. 72, 91 N. Y. S. 362.

98. Towles v. McCurdy [Ind.] 71 N. E. 129. The common-law rule which refuses to recognize a confidential communication to a physician as privileged, so as to protect the physician from divulging it when called on to do so as a witness in court, is followed in Rhode Island. Banigan v. Banigan [R. I.] 59 A. 313.

99. Towles v. McCurdy [Ind.] 71 N. E. 129; In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874. Under Code, § 4608, a physician may not testify whether he found a patient injured in railway accident, conscious or unconscious, and whether he talked intelligently to persons about him. Battis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 623, 100 N. W. 543.

1, 2. Battis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 124 Iowa, 623, 100 N. W. 543.

3. People v. Griffith [Cal.] 80 P. 68.

4. Request of woman to physician to produce a miscarriage not privileged. McKenzie v. Banks [Minn.] 103 N. W. 497.

5. A physician may testify to the fact of employment and the rendition of professional services, under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 505. Haughton v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 592. A physician may testify to the fact of his professional attendance, the length of time the patient was confined to the house, and the number and dates of his calls. Becker v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1007. Statements to a physician relative to a contemplated lawsuit, and the patient's ability to pay the doctor's bill if the suit was successful, are not privileged. Holloway v. Kansas City [Mo.] 82 S. W. 89. The mere fact that a physician visits an acquaintance, who, charged with murder, is lying wounded at a hospital, is insufficient to show that the relation of patient and physician existed between them. State v. Lyons, 113 La. 959, 37 So. 890. Result of examination of prosecuting witness, after alleged rape, to discover if she then had a venereal disease, not privileged, examination not having been for the purpose of treatment. James v. State [Wis.] 102 N. W. 320. In a proceeding against the putative father of a bastard child for an order of filiation, a physician consulted by the mother as to her condition is competent to testify as to whether the woman at that time charged another than defendant with being the cause of her condition. People v. Abrahams, 96 App. Div. 27, 88 N. Y. S. 924.

6. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4659. Arnold v. Maryville [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 107.

7. Carmichael v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1033.

8. Testimony of physician concerning physical and mental condition of testator, on issue of capacity, held incompetent. Towles v. McCurdy [Ind.] 71 N. E. 129.

Note: "It was held in Kern v. Kern, 154 Ind. 29, 55 N. E. 1004, that the rule in regard to confidential communications made to attorneys does not apply to testamentary dispositions, where the controversy is between the heirs and devisees of the testator. The supreme court of Missouri, in Thompson v. Ish, 99 Mo. 160, 12 S. W. 510, 17 Am. St. Rep. 552, held that a like exception should be made as to the testimony of physicians. The same view was taken by the supreme court of Iowa in Winters v. Winters, 102 Iowa, 53, held that the statute forbidding a physician to disclose information acquired in his professional attendance on his patient applies to a hearing before a special tribunal of a beneficial order.[9]

Waiver.[10]—The privilege may be waived by the patient,[11] as where he himself testifies as to such communications,[12] or calls the physician to testify; but the privilege is not waived by a mere preliminary examination to lay a foundation for an objection to the physician's testimony.[13] It is not necessary that the waiver be made at the time of trial; it may be made a part of a contract which is sought to be enforced in the action in which the communication is offered.[14] Thus, a stipulation in a life insurance policy, that the proof of death shall consist in part of the affidavit of the attending physician, which shall state the cause of death and other information required by the insurer, constitutes a waiver, and renders the attending physician a competent witness as to disclosures made by the assured concerning his last sickness.[15] No one but the patient himself can effectually consent to a waiver of the privilege;[16] hence there can be no waiver after the patient's death.[17]

71 N. W. 184, 63 Am. St. Rep. 428. See, also, Russell v. Jackson, 9 Hare, 387, and Hogeman's Priv. Com. § 86. This court, however, in Brackney v. Fogle, 156 Ind. 535, 60 N. E. 303, expressly decided that the rule announced in Kern v. Kern, supra, did not apply to the testimony of physicians, and that even where the controversy was confined to the heirs and devisees of the decedent, the physician of the decedent was incompetent to testify in regard to communications made to him by his patient, or facts learned by him in the course of his business as such physician."—Towles v. McCurdy [Ind.] 71 N. E. 130.

9. Dick v. Supreme Body of International Congress [Mich.] 101 N. W. 564. In this case a determination by an association tribunal, based on the testimony of the physician who attended the insured, that he had fraudulently concealed a material fact, was held erroneous and not a bar to an action on the policy, notwithstanding a by-law that death claims should be submitted to such tribunal, and there should be no recourse to the courts. Id.

Note: This decision is commented on by a writer in the Columbia Law Review as follows: "While statutes like the one in the principal case make privileged the communications of a patient to his physician (4 Columbia Law Review, 438), yet a special tribunal is not bound by the common-law rules regulating the trial of actions or the admissions of evidence. It can arrange its own procedure and the decision of such a tribunal will not be disturbed by the courts unless it was procured by fraud. 5 Columbia Law Review, 52. The question remains whether the statutory rules of evidence are binding on such a tribunal. While the object of these statutes, however unfair their operation, is the protection of the confidential relation of physician and patient (5 Columbia Law Review, 646, Greenleaf on Evidence, § 247a), such a statute is in derogation of the common law, and the legislative intent to extend the restriction beyond the state courts should clearly appear. That intent is not evident in the statute involved in the principal case."—5 Columbia L. R. 247.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 2179.

11. Under express provisions of Code, § 333. Western Travelers' Acc. Ass'n v. Munson [Neb.] 103 N. W. 688.

12. A patient waives the privilege by testifying that a physician examined her and that she told him of her condition. Holloway v. Kansas City [Mo.] 82 S. W. 89. In an action for injuries resulting in death, plaintiff, by calling a physician and having him testify as to deceased's condition after the accident, and by introducing a hospital record made by the physician, waives the prohibition of Code Civ. Proc. § 834, and makes communications to the physician by the deceased admissible. Kemp v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 94 App. Div. 322, 88 N. Y. S. 1. Where a patient testifies that a physician treated her for headaches only, such testimony does not make admissible to contradict her the physician's testimony as to what he treated her for. Holloway v. Kansas City [Mo.] 82 S. W. 89.

13. Where defendant, in a personal injury action, called its physician to testify as to an examination of plaintiff, and plaintiff's counsel asked permission to examine witness to lay a foundation for an objection to his testimony on the ground of privilege, such objection was not waived by the fact that in such preliminary examination, witness said plaintiff had been unconscious during a part of the examination of his injuries. Nugent v. Cudahy Packing Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 442.

14, 15. Western Travelers' Acc. Ass'n v. Munson [Neb.] 103 N. W. 688.

16, 17. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874.

NOTE. Effect of death of patient: The case last cited seems to be supported by the weight of authority, though there is a conflict. Says a writer in the Columbia Law Review, commenting on the case above: "At common law, communications from a patient to his physician were not privileged. Greenleaf on Evidence, § 247a. But public policy has dictated the enactment of statutes in some of the states making privileged the information obtained by physicians acting professionally. Westover v. Ins. Co., 99 N. Y. 56, 52 Am. Rep. 1. For citation of the statutes, see Chase's Stephens' Digest of Law

(§ 4) C. Husband and wife.[18] Confidential communications[19] between husband and wife are privileged, both at common law and under many modern statutes,[20] on the ground of public policy. The husband or wife may testify to contracts or transactions between each other,[21] or to communications[22] or disclosures[23] by one to the other, when such testimony does involve a breach of the confidential relation. A letter written by a prisoner to his wife, with knowledge that it would be opened, and examined by the jailer, is not a privileged communication.[24] The rule as to confidential communications made by one to the other during the marriage is not affected by their being joint parties and jointly interested in the action, or by one having acted as the agent of the other.[25] A divorced wife cannot testify to communications made during the marriage.[26]

Testimony for or against each other.—At common law, neither spouse was permitted to testify for or against the other, partly because it was deemed impossible that such testimony should be indifferent, but principally because of the common-law doctrine of the union of person.[27] The modern statutory disqualification is of course based on the former reason, and is commonly confined, in civil cases, to proceedings in which one spouse is directly interested.[28] Some statutes of Ev. art. 117, note. The patient himself may waive the privilege even in the absence of express statutory authority. Scripps v. Foster, 41 Mich. 742. But there is a conflict as to whether, after the patient's death, the privilege may in his interest be waived by his personal representatives. Fraser v. Jennison, 42 Mich. 206; Winters v. Winters, 102 Iowa, 53; Loder v. Whelpley, 111 N. Y. 239. The prevailing view seems to be that the physician cannot testify as to the mental capacity of the deceased patient. Loder v. Whelpley, supra; Matter of Coleman, 111 N. Y. 220; In re Redfield, 116 Cal. 637. The principal case seems sound, for it is impossible to see how the privilege may be waived after the patient's death by others acting in his behalf. Renihan v. Dumin, 103 N. Y. 573, 57 Am. Rep. 770. There may be an express authorization to waive in the statute as is now the case in New York [Code Civ. Proc. § 836]. See 4 Columbia Law Review, 438."—5 Columbia L. R. 64.

The same view is taken by a writer in the Harvard Law Review, who says: "The general rule is that statutory provisions designed for the benefit of individuals may be waived by those entitled to their protection. State Trust Co. v. Sheldon, 68 Vt. 259. Hence it is agreed that the patient may waive the privilege. See Thompson v. Ish, 99 Mo. 160, 176, 17 Am. St. Rep. 552. There is a conflict, however, with regard to the existence of this right after the patient's death. In some jurisdictions it is extended to his personal representatives and devisees, and in others to his heirs. Fraser v. Jennison, 42 Mich. 206; Winters v. Winters, 102 Iowa, 53. On the other hand, the court above confines the right to the patient alone. This result seems sound. As the court points out, the purpose of the statute is personal—to encourage full and confidential disclosure to the physician of all facts necessary to a proper treatment. To this end it is essential that after the patient's death the seal of secrecy should remain unbroken. While it is true that an executor represents the deceased, he does so only with regard to rights of property, and not with reference to those which pertain to person and character. Westover v. Aetna, etc., Co., 99 N. Y. 56, 52 Am. Rep. 1."—18 Harv. Law Rev. 399.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 2165.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 2166, n. 37-43.

20. Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133. Husband and wife incompetent to testify to confidential communications by D. C. Code, § 1069. Trometer v. District of Columbia, 24 App. D. C. 242. Civ. Code, § 606, bars testimony by a husband, after the wife's death, that, during the marriage, she made him a gift of money. Buckel v. Smith's Adm'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 991, 82 S. W. 235.

21. Husband competent to testify to statements and acts of his wife tending to show her intention that she should leave all her property to him, in action to have a deed declared a mortgage, and for an accounting. Hannaford v. Dowdle [Ark.] 86 S. W. 818.

22. In trial of husband for homicide, evidence that the wife had told him that deceased had threatened his life was not incompetent as a confidential communication. Shepherd v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 85 S. W. 191.

23. In a suit by a trustee in bankruptcy against the wife of the bankrupt to set aside gifts of money, disclosures by the wife as to such gifts are not within the rule against privileged communications. Kirby's Dig. § 3095. Wiley v. McBride [Ark.] 85 S. W. 84. In a controversy over the distribution of a deceased wife's estate, between the husband, electing not to take under the will, and others, claiming under the will, the husband may show adultery of the wife by his own testimony, if it does not involve confidential communications. Hayes' Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 570.

24. De Leon v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 348. The fact that the letter could not be secured from the wife, and that she could not offer it in evidence, authorizes proof of its contents by the sheriff, who read it. Id.

25. Marshall v. Marshall [Kan.] 80 P. 629.

26. German-American Ins. Co. v. Paul [Ind. T.] 83 S. W. 60.

27. See Sharswood's Blackstone, Bk. I, p. 443.

remove the common-law disqualification,[29] while in some jurisdictions husband and wife are competent, but not compellable, to give such testimony.[30] It is held in Illinois that the wife is competent if the husband's interest in the result is not direct, and if the record will not be legal evidence for or against him in any other action.[31] Under the Kentucky statute, the husband may testify in a proceeding in which the wife is interested, when the wife is not a witness.[32] It is held in Wisconsin that where the marital status has terminated, the former wife is under no disqualification merely because her former husband or his estate is party to the suit.[33] The wife is a competent witness in an action against the husband for necessaries furnished to her.[34] The Kansas statute disqualifying a husband or wife as a witness for or against each other in an "action," except in certain cases, does not disqualify the husband to testify in a probate proceeding;[35] and a husband who is a subscribing witness may testify to the due execution of a will, though his wife is a legatee.[36] In Vermont, a wife cannot testify in an action in the result of which her husband is interested,[37] except as to matters in which she acted as his agent.[38] In Michigan, a husband or wife is incompetent in a proceeding instituted by either on the ground of adultery.[39] In New Jersey, a husband or wife is competent to testify for the other in an action for divorce on the ground of adultery, but is not compellable to testify in such a proceeding, except as to the fact of marriage.[40]

In criminal prosecutions against one spouse,[41] the other was not a competent witness at common law; and this is the statutory rule in some states.[42] But the 28. Under Civ. Code Prac. § 606, the wife of an heir of a testator cannot testify for her husband in a will contest to which he is a party. Henning v. Stevenson, 26 Ky. L. R. 159, 80 S. W. 1135. Nor can she testify for other parties aligned with her husband, their interests being the same. Id. Husband incompetent to testify for wife as to transaction between wife and plaintiff, on issue whether a note left with his wife was a gift, or was left for collection. Wedding v. Wedding [Ky.] 87 S. W. 313.

29. A husband may testify to establish his wife's claim against his insolvent estate, under Code 1899, c. 130, § 22. First Nat. Bank v. Harris [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 252.

30. Since D. C. Code, § 1068, making husband and wife competent, is limited by § 964, which, in effect, requires, in divorce cases, evidence other than that of husband or wife alone to support a case. Lenoir v. Lenoir, 24 App. D. C. 160. C. D. Code, § 1068, makes wife competent, though the cause of action accrued and proceedings were commenced before its passage. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105. [This statute applies to both civil and criminal proceedings. As to the latter, see following paragraph. Also 2 Curr. L. 2167, n. 47.—Editor.]

31. Phillips v. Poulter, 111 Ill. App. 330.

32. Code, § 606. The fact that her deposition was taken was immaterial when it was not read on the trial. Floore v. Green, 26 Ky. L. R. 1073, 83 S. W. 133.

33. Schultz v. Culbertson [Wis.] 103 N. W. 234.

34. Morgenroth v. Spencer [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1086.

35. Gen. St. 1901, § 4771 has reference to an "action," not to such an informal proceeding as this in the probate court. Lanning v. Gay [Kan.] 78 P. 810.

36. Lanning v. Gay [Kan.] 78 P. 810.

37. Payee of note, who transferred for consideration, is interested in result of action on note, and his wife cannot testify to making of note. Miller v. Stebbins [Vt.] 59 A. 844.

38. Wife held not to have executed note as agent of husband so as to be a competent witness for him. Miller v. Stebbins [Vt.] 59 A. 844.

39. Under Comp. Laws, § 10,213, in an action by a husband for alienation of the wife's affections, in which one count charged adultery, neither husband nor wife could testify. Knickerbocker v. Worthing [Mich.] 101 N. W. 540.

40. Construing P. L. 1900, pp. 362, 363; Evidence Act, §§ 2, 5. Schaab v. Schaab [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1090.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 2167, n. 44.

42. NOTE. Effect of marrying witness to prevent her from testifying: In the case of Moore v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 67 L. R. A. 499, it is held that under the Texas statute, expressly prohibiting use of the wife as a witness against her husband, she cannot be so used, in a criminal prosecution against him, even though he married her for the purpose of suppressing her testimony. Citing Miller v. State, 37 Tex. Cr. Rep. 575, 40 S. W. 313; U. S. v. White, 4 Utah 499, 11 P. 570. Says the writer of the opinion: "It makes no difference at what time the relation of husband and wife begins. The exclusion of their testimony under our [Texas] statute, and to its fullest extent, operates wherever the interests of either are directly concerned (1 Greenl. Ev. § 334), and this although he married the witness after she was placed under process. State v. Armstrong, 4 Minn. 335, Gil. 251."—For note on the question collecting English and American cases, see 67 L. R. A. 499.

rule does not apply where the offense by one is against the person of the other.[43] A wife cannot testify for her husband in a criminal prosecution against him, although she was not his wife at the time the offense was committed.[44] The wives of two defendants, indicted and tried jointly for the same offense, are incompetent to testify for defendants.[45] The second wife of a bigamist, being no wife in law, is a competent witness against him.[46] The husband may testify when the wife, though implicated, is not a defendant.[47] The wife is a competent witness to prove a dying declaration of her husband.[48] In Missouri the marital relation does not disqualify, but may be considered as affecting credibility.[49]

(§ 4) D. Miscellaneous relations.[50]

§ 5. Credibility, impeachment and corroboration of witnesses. A. Credibility in general.[51]—The credibility of witnesses[52] and whether they have been successfully impeached[53] are questions for the jury. The jury may disregard the testimony of a witness who has willfully[54] sworn falsely to a material fact,[55] except

43. Husband may testify against his wife as to an assault upon his own person in which she participated. State v. Harris [Del.] 58 A. 1042. Wife may testify against husband in prosecution for threats to take her life. Murray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 1024.

Contra: Wife is incompetent witness in prosecution of husband for assault with intent to rape, committed against the wife. Frazier v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 754.

44. Elmore v. State, 140 Ala. 184, 37 So. 156.

45. State v. Sargood [Vt.] 58 A. 971.

46. Murphy v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 48.

47. In prosecution for adultery, husband of woman with whom defendant is charged with living is competent to testify. Pruett v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 343.

48. Bright v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 86 S. W. 527. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 2167, n. 43.

49. In criminal prosecution defendant and his wife are competent witnesses for defendant; but jury may consider relation on credibility. State v. Lortz [Mo.] 84 S. W. 906.

50, 51. See 2 Curr. L. 2179.

52. State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smith, 111 Ill. App. 177; Acolia v. Elizabeth P. & J. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 257; Hunt v. Dexter Sulphite Pulp & Paper Co., 91 N. Y. S. 279; State v. Wisnewski [N. D.] 102 N. W. 883; Kelton v. Fifer, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 603; Smith v. Jackson Tp., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 234; State v. Johnson, 36 Wash. 294, 78 P. 903. Instruction that jury might believe a witness, though impeached by proof of general bad character, held not erroneous. Ector v. State, 120 Ga. 543, 48 S. E. 315. Instruction that defendant's witnesses, being "sworn officers of the law" were entitled to more credit than plaintiff, erroneous. Durst v. Ernst, 91 N. Y. S. 13. The jury is not required as a matter of law to believe a witness, though uncontradicted and unimpeached. Hence an instruction cautioning the jury as to the weight to be given evidence of contradictory statements was held erroneous as invading the province of the jury. Bradley v. Gorham [Conn.] 58 A. 698. B. & C. Comp. § 693 provides that the direct evidence of one witness, who is entitled to full credit, is sufficient proof of a fact, except usage, perjury and treason; held, whether a fact is established by a witness is for the jury. State v. Leasia [Or.] 78 P. 328. Jury may consider opportunities of knowing things about which they testify, their conduct and demeanor while testifying, their interest or lack of interest, probability or improbability of statements in view of all the other evidence, and facts and circumstances proven on the trial. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Fenstermaker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 561.

53. State v. Sharp, 183 Mo. 715, 82 S. W. 134. So that their testimony ought not to be believed, unless corroborated. Powell v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 369. The mere fact that an attempt was made to impeach or contradict a witness does not necessarily require the jury to disbelieve him. Franks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 148. The jury may consider the omission of certain matters by a witness in his testimony on a former occasion, as affecting his credibility, even though he explains such omission by saying he was not examined as to such matters. An instruction to disregard the discrepancy, because of the explanation, held erroneous. State v. Rosa [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 1010. Evidence held sufficient to sustain divorce case, though character of witnesses was assailed. Conner v. Pozo [La.] 38 So. 454. The purpose of payment of money to witnesses of a railroad accident by an agent of the railroad company, whether legitimate or to influence their evidence, is properly left to the jury. Enright v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co., 204 Pa. 543, 54 A. 317.

54. Entire testimony cannot be disregarded unless the false testimony was willfully false. Lee v. State [Ark.] 81 S. W. 385; Jackson v. Powell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1132; Nielson v. Cedar County [Neb.] 97 N. W. 826; State v. Burns [Nev.] 74 P. 983. An instruction on the rule must contain the limitation that the false swearing must have been "willfully, knowingly and corruptly" done. Sardis & D. R. Co. v. McCoy [Miss.] 37 So. 706. Instruction to disregard testimony of witness if it was "palpable" that he had willfully testified falsely to a material fact, held error. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Moras, 111 Ill. App. 531.

55. False testimony must relate to material issue. Weddemann v. Lehman, 111 Ill. App. 231.

in so far as such witness has been corroborated by credible evidence,[56] or by facts and circumstances proven upon the trial.[57] This rule does not require the jury to believe the corroborating evidence before considering it.[58] To warrant an instruction to the jury on this rule, the evidentiary facts and circumstances must tend to show that there was willfully false swearing,[59] and whether the rule is applicable to the evidence in the case is primarily a question for the trial court, and not for the jury.[60] Willfully false swearing is not to be imputed to a witness if discrepancies, conflicts and inconsistencies are explainable as honest mistakes.[61]

Impeaching and discrediting in general.[62]—The extent to which cross-examination of a witness for the purpose of testing his credibility may be carried,[63] limitation of the number of impeaching witnesses,[64] and permission to recall a witness, in order to lay the foundation for impeaching him,[65] are matters within the discretion of the trial court. A witness may be impeached by disproving facts testified to by him,[66] as by showing acts,[67] or statements[68] of the witness, or circumstances[69] inconsistent with such testimony.[70] Inherent improbabilities in the testimony of a witness may also be considered.[71] That a witness was drunk on the

56. Instruction stating the rule held fatally erroneous because requiring corroboration by "any other witness" instead of by "credible evidence." Hart v. Godkin [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1057. Instruction giving rule and calling for corroboration by "credible witnesses" held error, since corroboration by single witness may be sufficient. Weddemann v. Lehman, 111 Ill. App. 231.

57. General rule stated. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Kelly, 210 Ill. 9, 71 N. E. 355. Instruction held to correctly state the law. State v. Waln [Idaho] 80 P. 221. Instruction laying down general rule held proper and applicable to facts. Strickler v. Gitchel, 14 Okl. 523, 78 P. 94. Instruction on rule held favorable to excepting party and not cause for reversal. Tucker v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 128. A charge, that "if any witnesses have made contradictory statements as to material facts in this case, this may, in the discretion of the jury, create a reasonable doubt as to the truth of the evidence of such witnesses," is incorrect. (Overruling previous cases holding this instruction proper.) Brown v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 268.

58. Instruction permitting jury to disregard all the evidence of a witness who willfully swore falsely to a material fact, unless they believed the corroborating evidence, held erroneous. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Kelly, 210 Ill. 449, 71 N. E. 355.

59. Evidence held not to warrant instruction. Pumorlo v. Merrill [Wis.] 103 N. W. 464.

60, 61. Pumorlo v. Merrill [Wis.] 103 N. W. 464.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 2181.

63. Nathan v. Uhlmann, 101 App. Div. 388, 92 N. Y. S. 13. See Examination of Witnesses, 3 Curr. L. 1383.

64. Donaldson v. Dobbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1084. See, also, Trial, 4 Curr. L. 1708.

65. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668. See, also, Trial, 4 Curr. L. 1708.

66. Deck v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 650. Where tenant testified that a lease was set aside and that he occupied under an oral agreement, the lease was admissible to impeach him. Quandt v. Smith [Wash.] 80 P. 287.

67. A witness who testifies that a timber is too small to bear a certain weight may be contradicted by showing that he afterwards used timbers of the same size for scaffolds. Charping v. Toxaway Mills [S. C.] 50 S. E. 186. Where defendant in prosecution for using abusive language testified that he never swore, evidence that he had sworn on certain occasions and had settled other prosecutions by pleading guilty was competent. Lampkin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 803. Where, after death of a testatrix, her son took her land as heir and conveyed to plaintiff, not probating the will which gave the property to his children, and, after his death, his wife proved the will as attesting witness, it may be shown that she joined in the deed to plaintiff, for the purpose of impeaching her. Savage v. Bowen [Va.] 49 S. E. 668.

68. See § 5 D, post. President of corporation having testified that he did not notify a director of a meeting, his statement at the meeting giving the reason for the director's absence, being inconsistent with his testimony, is competent to impeach him. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 535. The state may impeach a witness for the defense by bringing out statements in cross-examination inconsistent with those made in the direct examination, and by other competent evidence. Hicklin v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 340.

69. Testimony as to execution of alleged lost lease held discredited by circumstances. Hawatt v. Green [Mich.] 102 N. W. 734. Fact that part of a track had been worked after a steer had been killed there, admissible on credibility of witnesses who testified to nonexistence of hoof prints on the track. Klay v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 526.

70. Testimony that witness was asked by a certain person to sign a paper cannot be contradicted by testimony that he was asked to sign by another, the two facts not being inconsistent. Clemens v. Kaiser, 211 Ill. 460, 71 N. E. 1055.

71. Rosenbloom v. Cohen, 91 N. Y. S. 382.

occasion as to which he is called upon to testify goes to his credibility and the weight of his testimony but not to his competency.[72] Dying declarations may be impeached in any of the modes by which the evidence of the deceased could have been impeached had he or she been alive and testifying on the witness stand.[73] When a showing is made for an absent witness, he may be impeached by showing his general character, though proof of contradictory statements cannot be made, since no predicate can be laid.[74]

Where evidence is admissible only to impeach a witness, being irrelevant or immaterial on the issues, its effect should be limited by proper instructions to the jury.[75]

A party cannot impeach his own witness[76] unless he has been surprised[77] or entrapped[78] by the witness. But a party calling a witness is not bound to accept his testimony as true, but may prove a different state of facts by other evidence,[79] and this is commonly done where the witness is the adverse party[80] or proves to be hostile.[81] A party may maintain the truthfulness of his own testimony, though contradicted by his witnesses.[82] Though a witness was used before the grand jury, this does not preclude impeachment by the state, when the witness is used by defendant, by showing contradictory statements made before the grand jury.[83] The Virginia statute permitting the party calling a witness to cross-examine such witness, or to show the truth by other witnesses, applies to criminal as well as civil

72. State v. Sejours, 113 La. 676, 37 So. 599.

73. As by showing bad character of declarant. Nordgren v. People, 211 Ill. 425, 71 N. E. 1042. Dying declarations may be impeached by showing contrary statements made to others after deceased had been wounded. Gregory v. State, 140 Ala. 16, 37 So. 259.

74. Gregory v. State, 140 Ala. 16, 37 So. 259.

75. Mann v. Balfour [Mo.] 86 S. W. 103. For full treatment of the subject, see Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 2181. Where state called a witness who testified in favor of defendant, evidence to impeach him was held improperly admitted, since the state had not been entrapped into calling a hostile witness. Dunk v. State [Miss.] 36 So. 609. In a criminal prosecution the state cannot substitute for his present testimony the testimony given by one of its witnesses on a former prosecution, nor discredit its own witness by the use of such former testimony. State v. Callahan [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1099. Plaintiff may show bias of a witness first called by him where witness' first material testimony is brought out by defendant. Fine v. Interurban St. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 43. Defendant cannot impeach the witness as to testimony so brought out by him. Id. Evidence as to which party summoned a witness is competent to show that that party thought the witness worthy of credence. Richmond & P. Electric R. Co. v. Rubin [Va.] 47 S. E. 834.

77. Steinke v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 753.

78. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143.

79. Moultrie Repair Co. v. Hill, 120 Ga. 730, 48 S. E. 143; Stout v. Sands [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 428. State not bound by every statement of its witnesses. State v. Boice [La.] 38 So. 584. Party who introduces witness may show by other evidence existence of facts which contradict testimony of witness. Joyce v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 469. Defendant, in action for injury caused by defective highway, held not conclusively bound by admission of town chairman called by it, so as to preclude its showing the condition of the highway by other witnesses. Kennedy v. Town of Lincoln [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1038.

80. The rule that a party cannot impeach his own witness does not prevent a defendant from discrediting statements of plaintiff, after calling plaintiff as a witness, by proof of contradictory statements on a former trial. Carney v. Hennessey [Conn.] 60 A. 129. There is said to be a difference between introducing evidence to establish a particular fact contrary to that testified to by a party's witness, and evidence introduced to impeach a witness. Ruhl v. Heintze, 97 App. Div. 442, 89 N. Y. S. 1031. Thus one who has called the adverse party, is not bound by his testimony, so as to be precluded from contradicting the witness as to material facts in his case. Id.

81. If a witness called be hostile, the actual facts may be shown by other testimony, though the hostile witness is thereby contradicted. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154. One who calls adversary's servant vouches for his general credibility, but may contradict particular statements. Mead v. Otto Huber Brewery, 93 N. Y. S. 244.

82. As where plaintiff's testimony was contradicted by cross-examination in depositions taken by the adverse party, and read by the plaintiff. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668.

83. State v. Brown [Iowa] 102 N. W. 799.

cases.[84] Under the Kentucky statute a party introducing a witness may impeach him by proof of contrary statements out of court.[85]

A witness cannot be contradicted or impeached as to collateral matters[86] which are irrelevant,[87] immaterial,[88] or incompetent,[89] since the party who brings out such matters makes the witness his own to that extent, and is bound by his testimony.[90] This is the rule, whether the evidence relating to such matters was brought out on cross-examination, as it usually is, or on the direct examination,[91] and whether the witness gave it voluntarily or in response to questions calling for it.[92]

(§ 5) B. Character and conduct of witnesses. 1. In general.[93]—Proof of the general moral character of a witness is usually held incompetent,[94] attacks on the credibility of witnesses being confined to their reputation for truth and veracity.[95] But in some jurisdictions the general moral character of the witness may be shown,[96] though such proof should be confined as closely as possible to the time

84. Code 1904, § 3351. McCue v. Commonwealth [Va.] 49 S. E. 623.

85. Code, § 596. Whitt v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 84 S. W. 340.

86. Lambert v. Hamlin [N. H.] 59 A. 941; Plunkett v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 845; Sullivan v. State, 121 Ga. 183, 48 S. E. 949; Davis v. State [Miss.] 37 So. 1018. Where defendant is cross-examined as to other offenses, in a criminal prosecution for manslaughter, the prosecution cannot thereafter contradict the evidence so brought out. People v. De Garmo, 179 N. Y. 130, 71 N. E. 736.

87. Dunk v. State [Miss.] 36 So. 609; Wojtylak v. Kansas & T. Coal Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 506; Miller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 393. Proof of statements, denied by witness, immaterial to any issue, cannot be made to contradict the witness. Yelton v. Black, 26 Ky. L. R. 885, 82 S. W. 634. Statements inconsistent with witness' testimony must be relevant to the issue, and must be of matters of fact, and not mere opinions. Construing Rev. St. 1887, § 6083, relative to impeachment by inconsistent statements. State v. Crea [Idaho] 76 P. 1013.

88. State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125; Fox v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 157.

89. A witness having denied that she expressed an opinion that accused was guilty, could not be contradicted by another witness. Parker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 1008. A witness who has given an opinion on the soundness of mind of a testatrix based on observations a year before execution of the will cannot be impeached by a declaration after testatrix's death, based, apparently, only on provisions of the will. Myers v. Manlove [Ind.] 71 N. E. 893. Witness who testified to threats by prosecutor could not be impeached on cross-examination by calling for the exact language used. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 826.

90. Cross-examiner is bound by answers as to irrelevant matters. Simms v. Forbes [Miss.] 38 So. 546; Mason v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 718. Denial by witness that he had been charged with larceny conclusive; he could not be contradicted. Coleman v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 690. Witness, on cross-examination, denied making a certain statement; he could not be impeached by testimony that he had made the statement. The Saranac, 132 F. 936. Plaintiff's attorney having on cross-examination, questioned a witness as to declarations not touched by the direct examination, and the witness having denied making the declarations, the witness could not thereafter be impeached by proving the declarations were made, and what they were. Dorry v. Union R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 637; McGurk v. New York City R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 1081.

91, 92. Lambert v. Hamlin [N. H.] 59 A. 941.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 2182.

94. Credibility cannot be impeached by showing that witness is immoral in other respects. Camden & S. R. Co. v. Rice [C. C. A.] 137 F. 326. Improper to show separation from family and immoral character. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195. Evidence that claimant had another husband living when she married decedent, and that she was unchaste, inadmissible. Taylor v. Taylor's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832. Proof that plaintiff was a "double grass widow" incompetent to impeach her as a witness. Edger v. Kupper [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 949. Questions to a female witness on cross-examination, imputing want of chastity, held not reversible error, being put in the bona fide belief that they were competent. Knickerbocker v. Worthing [Mich.] 101 N. W. 540.

95. In civil cases. Smith v. Johnson, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 8.

96. When an accused takes the stand, he may be cross-examined not only as to his character for truth, but as to his general moral character. Helm v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 165, 81 S. W. 270. Where a witness is introduced to impeach another witness by evidence that his general moral character is bad, the opposite party may, in reply, attack the general character of the impeaching witness. Dunn v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 84 S. W. 321. Under Code, § 4614, general moral character of prosecutrix in action for seduction may be shown. State v. Haupt [Iowa] 101 N. W. 739. Evidence that plaintiff's reputation for morality was bad in her neighborhood, and that a certain person had made specific charges of immorality against her, held admissible. Hofacre v. Monticello [Iowa] 103 N. W. 488. Evidence of a bad reputation of a witness, and of specific charges of immorality against her, having been introduced, testimony of the person said to have made such of trial.[97] Proof of specific acts of wrongdoing is incompetent to impeach the reputation of a witness.[98] When the reputation of a witness for truth has been assailed for a period of time, the party calling him may show his reputation during that period, and also in previous years.[99] The occupation or vocation of witness may be inquired into.[1] The extent of cross-examination of a witness as to his previous life and character, as bearing upon his credibility, is very largely discretionary with the trial court.[2] A person who knows nothing of a witness, except what one person thinks or says of him, is not qualified to testify as to the general reputation of such witness.[3] A father may testify to the good character of his son.[4]

(§ 5B) 2. Accusation and conviction of crime.[5]—Proof of conviction of a felony,[6] and in some states of a misdemeanor,[7] if it involves moral turpitude,[8] is admissible on the question of credibility. A statute permitting conviction of an infamous crime to be shown as affecting credibility, but not to disqualify the witness, makes admissible only conviction of crimes which at common law would have worked a disqualification.[9] Evidence of conviction is inadmissible until the witness has denied it.[10] Under the Illinois statute, permitting the fact of conviction of a crime to be shown as affecting the credibility of a witness, the guilt or innocence of defendant of the crime of which he was convicted, his punishment, term of service, and subsequent pardon, are incompetent and immaterial.[11] Cross-examination of a defendant in a criminal proceeding as to his confinement in a state prison is discretionary with the trial court.[12]

Indictment for an offense not involving moral turpitude cannot be sown.[13] charges that he did not make them, was incompetent, as introducing a collateral issue. Id.

97. State v. Haupt [Iowa] 101 N. W. 739.

98. That witness was a defaulter and had been arrested for failure to provide for his family inadmissible. List's Ex'x v. List, 26 Ky. L. R. 691, 82 S. W. 446. Proof that a witness swore to a lie on a particular occasion incompetent; proof should have been confined to general reputation for truth and morality. Mount v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 86 S. W. 707. General reputation in neighborhood for chastity and virtue admissible to affect credibility of female witness; but not evidence of specific acts of immorality. Wright v. Kansas City [Mo.] 86 S. W. 452. The examination must be confined to general reputation and not be permitted as to particular facts. Deck v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 650.

99. Dimmick v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 257.

1. Curtis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 29.

2. State v. Nergaard [Wis.] 102 N. W. 899. In prosecution for violating fish laws, a question whether defendant had not been previously arrested for a similar offense, and his answer that he had been arrested once and fined, held not to require reversal. Id. Where it had been shown that witness had formerly used liquor in excess, it was proper to refuse to compel him, on cross-examination, to tell how many times he had taken the "Keeley cure" or had had "snakes." Woods v. Dailey, 211 Ill. 495, 71 N. E. 1068.

3. City of South Bend v. Turner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 657.

4. Brown v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 268.

5. See 2 Curr. L. 2184.

6. Gray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 764. See 2 Curr. L. 2184, n. 25.

7. As in Missouri. See 2 Curr. L. 2184, n. 26.

8. Conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude may be shown. Powell v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 369. Proof of conviction and punishment for an aggravated assault on wife competent. Curtis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 29. Charge of simple assault in justice's court incompetent. Gray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 764. Conviction of forcible trespass competent. Coleman v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 690. Defendant in burglary prosecution having taken the stand could be impeached by proof of conviction of petit larceny. Smith v. State [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1123.

9. Under Code 1896, § 1795, conviction for manslaughter in first degree admissible; conviction for throwing stones into train not admissible, though made a felony by statute under some circumstances. Gordon v. State [Ala.] 36 So. 1009. In a prosecution for selling liquor without a license, a witness for defendant cannot be asked if he was under indictment for "public drunkenness." Wilkerson v. State, 140 Ala. 165, 37 So. 265.

10. Construing Code 1892, § 1746. Cook v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 110.

11. Gallagher v. People, 211 Ill. 158, 71 N. E. 842. See 2 Curr. L. 2184, n. 30, for contra decision.

12. Lang v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 201.

13. Evidence that defendant in prosecution for violation of local option laws, is under indictment for the same offense elsewhere is inadmissible to impeach him. Hays v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 511. That witness had been indicted for card playing

That a witness has been indicted for perjury cannot be proved at the trial in which he is charged with having perjured himself.[14]

(§ 5B) 3. Competency of evidence as to reputation for veracity.[15]

(§ 5B) 4. Examination of impeaching witnesses.[16]—When proof of a former contradictory statement is sought to be made, the impeaching question must conform to the time and place specified in the question to the witness in laying the foundation for the impeachment.[17] In examining one witness for the purpose of laying a predicate for showing the bad character of another, it is proper to ask if he knew the general character of witness in the neighborhood where he lived.[18] It is improper to ask if he knew the general character of the witness as a turbulent, violent, and boisterous man.[19]

(§ 5) C. Interest and bias of witnesses.[20]—On the issue of credibility, it is proper to show that a witness is interested in the event of the action,[21] or is biased,[22] for other reasons. Thus, evidence showing ill will or hostility is competent.[23] The incompetent. Webb v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 394.

14. Bennett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 30.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 2185.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 2186.

17. Stancliff v. United States [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 882.

18, 19. Ross v. State, 139 Ala. 144, 36 So. 718.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 2186.

21. Evidence that the defendant carried employers' liability insurance is incompetent as affecting the credibility of defendant's testimony in a personal injury action by an employe, since that fact would tend to strengthen rather than weaken his testimony. Iverson v. McDonnell, 36 Wash. 73, 78 P. 202. Interest of executor and proponent of will, and beneficiary, may be considered as affecting credibility of testimony as to testamentary capacity in probate proceedings. Grant v. Stamler [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 890. Defendant may show that witness for plaintiff, and plaintiff, had brought a suit in equity to quiet title to property against defendant, the source of title to property claimed being the same as of the property in suit. Couch v. Couch [Ala.] 37 So. 405. Where the assignor is examined in an action by the assignee of a claim, he may properly be cross-examined as to whether he may have an interest in the event of the suit. Hirsh v. American Dist. Tel. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 794. In a personal injury action by a servant, evidence that defendant carries employers' liability insurance is incompetent to show the interest of the president of defendant as a witness. Lowset v. Seattle Lumber Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 431. Plaintiff may show that a witness for defendant was the active agent in procuring a person to negotiate with the judge in a former trial in attempting to secure a corrupt decision for defendant. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918.

22. Taylor v. State, 121 Ga. 348, 49 S. E. 303. An instruction that jury might consider the "bias or impartiality" of witnesses "as the same may legitimately appear from the evidence" is proper. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 443, 49 S. E. 282. Error to reject evidence tending to show bias or prejudice of witness for or against defendant. State v. Crea [Idaho] 76 P. 1013. In a suit by a passenger for damages, involving misconduct of a flagman, the fact that plaintiff was a witness in another case involving misconduct of the flagman may be shown to prove bias of the flagman as a witness. Robertson v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 831. Affidavits for continuance on ground of absent witnesses competent to impeach two witnesses who testified to facts related in affidavits but were not the persons there named, since this was evidence tending to show they were "trumped-up" witnesses. Malin v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co., 105 Mo. App. 625, 80 S. W. 56.

Evidence held too remote on issue of bias: Evidence that witness, in homicide case, traded with deceased, who kept a grocery store, not admissible to show interest. Williams v. State, 140 Ala. 10, 37 So. 228. Refusal of court to allow evidence to show relation of attorney and client between a witness and counsel for plaintiff held not an abuse of discretion. Birmingham Southern R. Co. v. Lintner [Ala.] 38 So. 363. It is not competent, as tending to show bias of a witness, to prove that the prosecuting attorney made a plea for clemency in another case in which witness was defendant. Harrell v. State, 121 Ga. 607, 49 S. E. 703. Where it appears that a witness is a detective regularly employed by an agency, and that his continued employment does not depend upon conviction in the case in which he testifies, evidence as to the amount of his salary is properly excluded. White v. State, 121 Ga. 191, 48 S. E. 941. A physician, testifying as to personal injuries in an action for negligence, cannot be cross-examined as to opinions given in other personal injury actions (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schmitz, 211 Ill. 446, 71 N. E. 1050); nor can his interest as a medical man in other suits be shown by the direct testimony of other witnesses (Id.).

23. Letter by plaintiff showing ill will toward defendant admissible. Lembeck v. Stiefel [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 460. Unfriendliness of witness toward party. Seymour v. Bruske [Mich.] 103 N. W. 613. Evidence of a wife as to her hostility toward her husband is competent to impeach her as a witness in an action against the husband for necessaries furnished her. Fischer extent to which an examination into the feeling existing between a witness and a party may properly be carried is largely discretionary with the trial court,[24] but details of difficulties between them should be excluded,[25] and the motives for ill feeling, and whether it ought or ought not to exist, are immaterial.[26] Evidence to show hostility of a witness having been introduced, evidence of an attempt by the party to conciliate him is admissible.[27] It is proper to inquire whether a witness is an employe of a party,[28] and whether the witness is paid for his testimony.[29] In a criminal prosecution it may be shown that a witness is under indictment for the same offense of which defendant is accused.[30] The acts of third parties intimidating a witness or influencing his testimony cannot be shown against an accused unless he is connected with those acts.[31]

(§ 5) D. Proof of previous contradictory statements.[32]—Prior statements of witnesses inconsistent with their testimony upon material issues are always competent as impeaching evidence.[33] Thus, oral statements out of court,[34] statements in letters,[35] affidavits,[36] depositions,[37] pleadings,[38] and bankruptcy schedules,[39] have

v. Brady, 94 N. Y. S. 25. Proof that state's witness had opposed the signing of a petition for pardon of accused, stating that he wanted accused hung, and that deceased was his friend, held competent. Creeping Bear v. State [Tenn.] 87 S. W. 653.

24. Seymour v. Bruske [Mich.] 103 N. W. 613.

25. Though unkindly feelings of state's witness toward defendant may be shown, it is improper to go into details of a difficulty between witness and defendant. McDuffie v. State, 121 Ga. 580, 49 S. E. 708. Where defense shows an assault on defendant by witness, to show bias, the state cannot show the details of the trouble. Gainey v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 355.

26. Seymour v. Bruske [Mich.] 103 N. W. 613.

27. Commonwealth v. Oakes, 187 Mass. 90, 72 N. E. 323.

28. Stowe v. La Conner Trading & Transportation Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 856; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley, 121 Ga. 781, 49 S. E. 780.

29. That a medical expert is paid by plaintiff affects the witness's credibility but not his competency. Wood v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 181 Mo. 433, 81 S. W. 152. Where physician testified that he refused to come into court until paid, and that plaintiff's attorney sent him a check, it was proper to inquire how much he was paid. Brown v. Interurban St. R. Co., 94 App. Div. 374, 87 N. Y. S. 461.

Contra: Question whether witness for state paid his own expenses in coming to testify, and how much it cost him, inadmissible to show bias. Parrish v. State, 139 Ala. 16, 36 So. 1012.

30. That witness for state knew he was indicted. State v. Rosa [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 1010. Whether defendant's witness had not been indicted. Wilkerson v. State, 140 Ala. 165, 37 So. 265.

31. Election of witness to position in corporation, after a homicide, inadmissible unless accused's connection with such election is shown. Swain v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 335.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 2187.

33. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2052, a witness may be impeached by statements made at other times inconsistent with present testimony. Western Union Oil Co. v. Newlove, 145 Cal. 772, 79 P. 542. Oral statements out of court, letters, affidavits, written statements, verified pleadings, depositions, and previous testimony, are admissible to impeach a witness if material to the issue on which he is testifying, and if they tend to contradict or discredit him. Hanlon v. Ehrich, 178 N. Y. 474, 71 N. E. 12. Witness held sufficiently identified as man who had made contradictory statements, so as to admit impeaching evidence by proof thereof. Spencer Shoe Co. v. Jaramillo [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 241.

34. State v. Lockhart [Mo.] 87 S. W. 457; Villineuve v. Manchester St. R. [N. H.] 60 A. 748; State v. Exum [N. C.] 50 S. E. 283. Statements of complaining witness the day after the assault. Thompson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1059. Declarations of witness to third persons contrary to testimony as to character of prosecutrix. Jordan v. State, 120 Ga. 864, 48 S. E. 352. Statements contradictory to testimony admissible to impeach, though not as res gestae. Sentell v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 215. Statements by driver of wagon after collision. Burke v. Borden's Condensed Milk Co., 90 N. Y. S. 527. Declarations of employe after an accident. Columbus R. Co. v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 589, 48 S. E. 149. Statement of former owner after sale of property on foreclosure, in suit by subsequent holders to quiet title. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862. Where witness testified that he stole goods—the offense for which defendant was indicted—and that defendant was not with him and did not assist, he could be impeached by proving that he had said defendant was with him. Cage v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 631. Proper predicate having been laid in cross-examination of witness for defendant, in homicide case, state could in rebuttal prove that witness said before the murder that she was going to have defendant kill her husband; and that, after the murder, she told others that defendant had shot deceased through the window; witness having testified to the contrary, and having denied making the statements. Jones v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 390.

35. Eatman v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 576.

been held admissible. Statements of witnesses, under oath, in a judicial proceeding,[40] as in a preliminary examination,[41] or on a former trial,[42] are competent. Where contradictory statements on a former trial are shown by one party, the other party may show the mental condition of witness while making such statements.[43] It is proper, in examining a witness as to previous testimony given under commission, if he did not procure a witness to corroborate a statement then made, this being a circumstance going to his credibility.[44] To show previous inconsistent testimony in another proceeding, the stenographer who took the testimony is a competent witness, and may refresh his memory from his longhand transcript of the evidence taken.[45]

Foundation for proof of contradictory statements.[46]—A predicate for proof of oral statements is usually laid by inquiring of the witness whether he made a certain statement,[47] specifying in such preliminary question the time and place of such statement, the person to whom made, and the language used.[48] If the witness then denies making the statement,[49] or makes an evasive answer,[50] it is proper to show that he did make it, by other evidence. But it is only where there is a

Letters by an agent to his principal admissible to discredit the agent's testimony; their effect should have been limited to impeachment. Fred W. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 390. Note properly admitted to impeach a witness, if jury found he wrote it. Estes v. State, 140 Ala. 151, 37 So. 85.

36. Affidavit before a justice, stating facts relative to a murder, held competent to corroborate one witness and to impeach another, both having stated that it was correct at the time. State v. Exum [N. C.] 50 S. E. 283.

37. Original statement in deposition, before correction of deposition as used, held admissible to impeach testimony as given on trial. Gasquet v. Pechin, 143 Cal. 515, 77 P. 481.

38. Fox v. Erbe, 91 N. Y. S. 832.

39. Schedules of property filed in bankruptcy competent to impeach testimony of plaintiff that defendant owed him for services performed before he was adjudged a bankrupt. Rand v. Sage [Minn.] 102 N. W. 864.

40. Statements made by debtor in his examination in supplementary proceedings competent to contradict him as witness in other case. Fox v. Erbe, 91 N. Y. S. 832. A witness may be impeached by showing that he has testified in another proceeding involving the same subject-matter, different from and inconsistent with his testimony sought to be impeached. Harmon v. Territory [Okl.] 79 P. 765.

41. Contradictory statements before grand jury. Gallegos v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1150. Contrary statement formerly made by witness for state on preliminary trial may be considered by jury as affecting credibility. Wilkerson v. State, 140 Ala. 165, 37 So. 265. Prosecutrix for rape, on trial, denied statements made in preliminary examination; held, former statements competent to impeach, but not as substantive testimony of guilt. People v. Miner [Mich.] 101 N. W. 536.

42. Testimony of witness at former trial competent to impeach testimony at second. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

43. Weaver v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 39.

44. Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co., 99 Md. 382, 58 A. 205.

45. Use of carbon copy of such transcript proper. Harmon v. Territory [Okl.] 79 P. 765.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 2189.

47. Contra: In New Hampshire it is not necessary to lay a foundation for impeaching evidence, consisting of statements out of court, by inquiring of the witness on cross-examination whether he has made the declarations of which it is proposed to offer proof. Opportunity to explain after such proof has been put in is held to meet the rule that the witness should be given an opportunity to explain by calling attention to circumstances. Villineuve v. Manchester St. R. [N. H.] 60 A. 748.

48. Time, place, and language used must be specified. Stancliff v. United States [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 882. Time, place, and person to whom made. State v. Marks [S. C.] 50 S. E. 14. Question held properly excluded because not specifying time or place. Bradley v. Gorham [Conn.] 58 A. 698. Foundation for inconsistent statements must be laid by asking witness if he made the statements, and the statements must be related to him. Western Union Oil Co. v. Newlove, 145 Cal. 772, 79 P. 542. A question as to a previous contradictory statement is improper until the attention of the witness has been called to the conversation in which it is claimed to have been made. State v. Brady [N. J. Law] 59 A. 6. A question to a witness, in a prosecution for burning a house, whether his testimony was the same as when he testified to the burning of another house "for which defendant had been acquitted," held too indefinite to serve for impeaching the witness; and could not be considered an offer to prove acquittal of defendant on the other charge. Mitchell v. State, 140 Ala. 118, 37 So. 76.

49. Gregory v. Wabash R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 761; Wilson v. United States [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 924.

50. Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson, 212 Ill. 292, 72 N. E. 443.

denial, direct or qualified, of the former statement, that proof of such statement can be introduced.[51]

When it is sought to impeach a witness by proof of written statements, the writing should be introduced in evidence before being read,[52] its genuineness should be established,[53] and the witness should be allowed to inspect it.[54] If the writing contains no matter which is irrelevant or immaterial or which does not go to contradict the witness, it should be admitted and allowed to be read in its entirety.[55] But if it contains much irrelevant or incompetent matter, only the relevant and competent portions should be received and read.[56] An objection to such a writing should be directed specifically against the portions claimed to be improper.[57] Unless the witness admits the writing, no examination as to its contents can be had.[58] Where it is sought to impeach a witness by an affidavit, and witness cannot read, it is proper to refuse to allow counsel to read the affidavit to witness, in order to find out if he signed it, until the jury has been sent from the room.[59] It is error to permit a witness to be impeached by the reading of what purports to be evidence before the grand jury, without proof that witness had read the testimony or heard it read, or that he had so testified.[60]

A witness sought to be impeached may explain contradictory statements proved against him,[61] and the party calling him has also the right to re-examine him in explanation of the contradiction.[62] The opposite party has at least the right to present to the witness an opportunity for explanation, and to show that the witness is either unable or unwilling to make any explanation, if such be the fact.[63]

51. Dean v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 816. When a witness confesses to have made contradictory statements, and admits what they were, evidence of the contradiction is inadmissible. Id. Where witness admitted signature to evidence given on preliminary trial, which contradicted testimony given on the trial, but denied that his former testimony had been correctly taken down, he could be contradicted only as to such denial; and the former evidence was properly excluded. Mitchell v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1050.

52. Hanlon v. Ehrich, 178 N. Y. 474, 71 N. E. 12; Villineuve v. Manchester St. R. [N. H.] 60 A. 748. Written contradictory statements should be introduced in rebuttal and not on cross-examination. But reversal of this order is not cause for reversal of the judgment. Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson, 212 Ill. 292, 72 N. E. 443.

53. The genuineness and authorship of a letter claimed to have been written by a witness must be established before it can be used to impeach him. Burton v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 435.

54. McDonald v. Bayha [Minn.] 100 N. W. 679.

55. Hanlon v. Ehrich, 178 N. Y. 474, 71 N. E. 12.

56. No hard and fast rule can be laid down; the character of the particular writing must guide the court. Hanlon v. Ehrich, 178 N. Y. 474, 71 N. E. 12. [See this case for discussion of procedure in introducing oral or written impeaching evidence. And see 2 Curr. L. 2191, n. 13, for contra opinion in court below, and another contra holding. —Editor.]

57. Exclusion of all of a written statement, on a general objection held erroneous. Hanlon v. Ehrich, 178 N. Y. 474, 71 N. E. 12.

58. Villineuve v. Manchester St. R. [N. H.] 60 A. 748.

59. Robinson v. State, 120 Ga. 311, 47 S. E. 968.

60. Nash v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 497.

61. Witness may explain contradictory testimony on a former trial of the same case. Spearman v. Sanders, 121 Ga. 468, 49 S. E. 296. A witness may explain former testimony but cannot tell "what he meant" by his statements. Couch v. Couch [Ala.] 37 So. 405. A statement introduced into a case by a party may be explained by the witness who made it. State v. Taylor [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 247. The admission of part of evidence given on a former trial renders admissible other portions relating to the same matter. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Eastman [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 255. The fact that a court reporter, called to contradict statements of a witness, gave answers to two questions on a former trial, using his notes to refresh his memory, did not warrant the introduction of witness' entire testimony on the former trial. Culver v. South Haven & E. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 663. In an action on a contract, the defense being that it was a wager, defendant was properly allowed to ask plaintiff if he had not stated that it was his custom to make only wagering contracts, and to read from a case in which the issue was the same, stating that he read from an official stenographic report, and was properly denied permission to explain the facts of such other case, since it sufficiently appeared that the statements read were made by plaintiff under oath. Farnum v. Whitman [Mass.] 73 N. E. 473.

62, 63. Villineuve v. Manchester St. R. [N. H.] 60 A. 748.

(§ 5) E. Corroboration and sustentation of witnesses.[64]—In general, statements out of court are incompetent to corroborate a witness.[65] But where an effort is made to impeach the credibility of a witness by showing a motive or influence to testify falsely, former declarations, made when such motive or influence did not exist, are competent.[66] Mere contradiction of a witness by others who testify to a different state of facts is not ground for the admission of such former declarations,[67] nor for proof of corroborating circumstances, otherwise immaterial.[68] Evidence of collateral facts, corroborative of the statement of one party with respect to the main issue, is admissible, if confined to such matters as throw light upon the question.[69] The credibility of a witness who has been impeached by contradictory statements may be sustained by proof of good character,[70] or good reputation for truth and veracity.[71] A memorandum, proper to refresh a witness's memory, but incompetent as original evidence, should not be read in corroboration of a witness's testimony.[72] Evidence of an identifying witness that he had also identified accused before the grand jury is incompetent.[73]

§ 6. Privileges of witnesses.[74]—The provision of the fifth amendment of the Federal constitution, contained also in the bills of rights or constitutions of most of the states, that a person accused of crime cannot be compelled to be a witness against himself, is a common-law doctrine, and is in force in states which have not expressly adopted it.[75] The rule has been held not to be violated by the admission of statements by accused out of court,[76] by the introduction of his voluntary testimony on a former trial,[77] by testimony by a physician as to an examination of wounds on defendant's hands,[78] by evidence of a comparison between a bloody mark and defendant's hand, after he had voluntarily placed his hand on the mark,[79]

64. See 2 Curr. L. 2192.

65. Glover v. Coit [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 136. No attempt having been made to impeach a witness, he cannot be corroborated by proof, former testimony, or statements out of court. McKenzie v. Watson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1017. A published interview with a witness is not competent evidence to corroborate testimony of the witness in court. Southern Pac. Co. v. Schuyler [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1015. Declarations of a witness out of court are incompetent to corroborate testimony given on trial, even after he has been impeached or discredited. Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthleson, 212 Ill. 292, 72 N. E. 443. Permitting state's attorney to testify to statements made to him by one of his witnesses, to strengthen such witness, held error. Flowers v. State [Miss.] 37 So. 814.

66. Glover v. Coit [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 136; Commonwealth v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470. As where interest in action was shown, declarations before such interest existed were competent. Sweeney v. Sweeney, 121 Ga. 293, 48 S. E. 984. After an attempt to impeach by proof of contradictory statements, corroborative testimony as to statements similar to those on stand is admissible. State v. Sharp, 183 Mo. 715, 82 S. W. 134. Evidence being introduced to show that a witness for the state had given testimony because of threats of imprisonment, the state could show that witness made statements similar to his testimony before the alleged threats. State v. Bean [Vt.] 60 A. 807.

67. Glover v. Coit [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 136.

68. Reynolds v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 323.

69. In an action for false representations as to value of land, evidence as to the real value of the land at the time of the transaction is admissible to corroborate a party's statement that there was no misrepresentation. Farmers' State Bank v. Yenney [Neb.] 102 N. W. 617. State allowed to show corroborating circumstance, when statement of its witness was attacked by inconsistent evidence. Ball v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 85 S. W. 226.

70. Brown v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 268.

71. Swain v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 335; Contreras v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 870.

72. Reading of memorandum by court reversible error. Garber v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 722.

73. Bowen v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 520.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 2193.

75. As in New Jersey. State v. Miller [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 202.

76. State v. Inman [Kan.] 79 P. 162.

77. Where a defendant does not testify, the introduction of his voluntary testimony on a former trial is not compelling him to give evidence against himself, nor is it a violation of the law protecting him from prejudice from failure to testify. Bess v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 839, 82 S. W. 576.

78. Wounds being observable without removing his clothing. State v. Miller [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 202.

79. State v. Miller [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 202.

or by the taking of a photograph of accused, without excessive force, or illegal duress.[80] This right of an accused is waived when he voluntarily takes the stand in his own behalf, and he may then be cross-examined the same as any other witness.[81] But such cross-examination must be confined to matters brought out on the direct examination,[82] and cross-examination as to irrelevant and immaterial matters, tending to prejudice him before the jury, is improper.[83] Accused, testifying in his own behalf, need not personally claim his privilege, when questions concerning other crimes are asked, but may claim immunity through his counsel.[84] A defendant may claim his privilege as a witness, when called as such, though the particular question would have been proper if put in the course of the cross-examination of defendant, while on the stand in his own behalf.[85]

The constitutional provision does not limit protection of the accused to a prosecution against himself, but precludes the use of evidence given in any proceeding which might incriminate him, though it does not amount to a confession.[86] Hence a witness, in either a civil or criminal case,[87] cannot be compelled to answer questions when his answers would tend to incriminate him.[88] If a witness does not know his rights as to declining to give incriminating answers, the court should see that he is properly informed.[89] It is immaterial whether the court or counsel imparts such information to the witness.[90] Voluntary statements by a witness, who has been informed of his rights, are not privileged.[91] A witness may assert a legal privilege to refuse to give evidence or to produce documents on the taking of a deposition the same as though the examination was in open court, and has a right to be heard in the court before being compelled to answer or produce the documents.[92] One cannot be compelled to produce his own books, or the books of another, which are under his control as agent or otherwise, where their production would tend to incriminate him; neither can his clerk, whose possession is his possession, be compelled to produce them; but when, as the agent of another, he chooses to make entries on the books of that other, and the books are in the actual and

80. Photograph so taken was used by identifying witness. Shaffer v. United States, 24 App. D. C. 417.

81. State v. Miller [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 202. Accused having taken stand could be cross-examined as to an attempt to break out of jail. Charba v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 829. Where defendant takes the stand, he may be cross-examined as to any matter germane to that brought on on the direct examination. Collins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 585. Questions on cross-examination in criminal proceeding as to former residence and occupation held proper, though they brought out the fact that defendant had been an inmate of a reform school; since state has right to cross-examine on those subjects, though answers tend to degrade and disgrace. State v. Wasson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1125.

82, 83. Razee v. State [Neb.] 103 N. W. 438.

84. Under Const. art. 1, § 12, permitting accused to testify. State v. Shockley [Utah] 80 P. 865.

85. In prosecution for violation of liquor law, defendant, after he had rested, was recalled by plaintiff. Cullinan v. Quinn, 95 App. Div. 492, 88 N. Y. S. 963.

86. Const. art. 2, § 18. Tuttle v. People [Colo.] 79 P. 1035. Statements by accused when examined as witnesses at a coroner's inquest are inadmissible in a subsequent prosecution for homicide. Id.

87. Wilson v. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 892.

88. Where in a grand jury investigation of the criminal misconduct of a person in the distribution of an estate, a witness was questioned as to his own conduct in the matter, his refusal to answer was held justified under Code Civ. Proc. § 2065. Rogers v. Superior Court of City and County of San Francisco, 145 Cal. 88, 78 P. 344. Certain scandalous matter, seriously reflecting on character of witness, stricken from affidavit submitted in support of application for removal of executrix. In re Magoun, 84 N. Y. S. 940.

Note: For extended discussion of the privilege of a witness as to incriminating testimony, see note to Evans v. O'Connor [174 Mass. 287] 75 Am. St. Rep. 318.

89, 90. Starr v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 1023.

91. Statements before grand jury after such notice properly used on trial. Davis v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 376.

92. Crocker-Wheeler Co. v. Bullock, 134 F. 241.

93. Applied in investigation before grand jury, where corporation president refused to produce books. In re Maser [Mich.] 101 N. W. 588.

legal possession and control of another officer of the corporation, or of the corporation itself, such officer may be compelled to produce them, in a proper case, under a subpoena duces tecum.[93] It is held that the mere production of books for the purpose of refreshing the recollection of a witness cannot of itself tend to incriminate him.[94] Where books have been turned over to a trustee in bankruptcy, the examination of the trustee, and the production of the books before the grand jury, is constitutional.[95]

The witness is not the sole judge of the question whether his testimony will tend to incriminate him.[96] If the question is such that the answer may or may not incriminate him, he may refuse to answer;[97] but if the court is convinced that the answer cannot by any possibility incriminate him, and especially if the witness does not swear that he believes that it would, it is the duty of the court to compel him to answer.[98] The claim of privilege must be respected unless it is clear from the whole examination of the witness that he is mistaken in supposing that his answer would incriminate him, or that his refusal is purely contumacious.[99] The privilege being personal to the witness, it cannot be claimed by him for the purpose of protecting others;[1] nor can it be claimed for the witness himself by his counsel,[2] or by the adverse party.[3]

Statutes compelling witnesses to answer in certain special proceedings do not violate the constitutional privilege, if they grant complete protection against use of the testimony against the witness; as where the immunity granted is coextensive with the constitutional privilege of silence.[4] The provision of the bankruptcy act

94. Pray v. C. A. Blanchard Co., 95 App. Div. 423, 88 N. Y. S. 650.

Note: "The rule that a witness need not furnish evidence against himself is of long standing. East India Co. v. Campbell, 1 Ves. 246. And the production of documents to be used in evidence is within the privilege. Boyd v. United States, 116 U. S. 616. In the principal case [Pray v. Blanchard Co., supra], however, the books were, by the terms of the order, to be used, merely for the purpose of refreshing the recollection of the witness. It seems clear that a court has power to make such an order. Chapin v. Lapham, 20 Pick (Mass.) 467. If, upon the examination, questions should be put to the defendant the answers to which would tend to incriminate him, he could then assert his privilege. The mere production of documents does not make them evidence. Merrill v. Merrill, 67 Me. 70."—18 Harv. L. R. 234.

95. This procedure was held to violate neither § 7 of art. 1 of the Minnesota state constitution, as to compelling a defendant to be a witness against himself; nor § 10, as to unlawful searches and seizures. State v. Strait [Minn.] 102 N. W. 913.

96. In re Moser [Mich.] 101 N. W. 588.

97. In re Levin, 131 F, 388; In re Moser [Mich.] 101 N. W. 588.

98. Applied in bankruptcy proceeding, the bankrupt being under indictment at time of examination. In re Levin, 131 F. 388. Bankrupt ordered to produce his books, two witnesses having testified that an examination by them disclosed nothing which would incriminate him, and a referee having so found. In re Edward Hess & Co., 136 F. 988.

99. In an action by bondsmen to recover money paid an insurance company for default of an agent, it appeared that the agent had been acquitted of a charge of embezzlement. Held, he could not be required to answer a question as to whether he had been in arrears while with the company. Wilson v. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 892.

1. President of corporation guilty of contempt for refusing to produce books of corporation when contents could not criminate him, but might involve municipal officers charged with corruption in making contracts. In re Moser [Mich.] 101 N. W. 588.

2. Counsel for corporation could not make it ground for exception to interrogatories in a pleading. In re Knickerbocker Steamboat Co., 136 F. 956.

3. If witness chooses to answer incriminating questions, neither defendant nor his counsel can object. State v. Shockley [Utah] 80 P. 865. Where a witness in a criminal case claims the privilege, which is not allowed by the court, such ruling is not ground for complaint by the defendant, the claim of privilege being a matter personal to the witness. State v. Cobley [Iowa] 103 N. W. 99.

4. Laws 1897, p. 485, c. 265, § 10, relative to examination of witnesses in prosecutions for violation of the state anti-trust law, affords such immunity to witnesses. State v. Jack, 69 Kan. 387, 76 P. 911. The New York gaming law (Pen. Code, § 342, as amended by Laws 1904, c. 649), which provides that no person shall be excused from testifying in regard to a violation of its provisions, is held to grant complete immunity to witnesses; hence a witness cannot refuse to answer a question in an investigation by the grand jury. People v. Court of General Sessions of the Peace, 96 App. Div. 201, 89 N. Y. S. 364.

that no testimony by the bankrupt shall be offered in evidence against him in any criminal proceeding does not grant complete immunity.[5] Hence a bankrupt may plead the privilege to a demand for his books and papers;[6] but he should be required to produce the books or papers alleged to contain incriminating evidence before the court or referee, that it may be determined whether the plea is well founded, and that the court may make an order protecting him from the discovery of such evidence, if necessary,[7] and that the books and papers may be used for such necessary and proper purposes as are not inconsistent with the protection of his privilege.[8] A witness subpoenaed to testify in regard to violations of the Kansas anti-trust act cannot refuse to testify on the ground that the immunity granted by that law does not preclude use of his testimony against him in a prosecution for violation of the Federal anti-trust act.[9] The Tennessee statute, relative to purity of elections, providing that offenders against the election law may be compelled to testify, has reference only to criminal proceedings, and under it, a witness cannot be compelled to answer in a civil suit growing out of a fraudulent election.[10]

Under the California statute, a witness can be compelled to answer only such questions as are legal and pertinent to a matter in issue, and for refusal to answer questions not pertinent, cannot be adjudged guilty of contempt.[11] In Georgia, it is not contempt for a witness being examined before a commissioner, under a statute, to refuse to answer illegal or impertinent questions, which would not be admissible on the trial in court.[12]

A witness has a legal privilege to withhold testimony or documents which if given or produced would disclose trade secrets, if such testimony or documents are irrelevant or otherwise inadmissible in evidence.[13]

§ 7. Subpoenas, attendance, and fees.[14]—A clerk of a Federal circuit court has authority, when so directed by the court, to issue a subpoena duces tecum for the production of documents in the taking of depositions by him.[15] A subpoena duces tecum only requires a witness to produce books or papers in order that he can, by reference thereto, answer questions put to him: the subpoena does not give counsel the right to inspect the books produced.[16] One who fails to produce documents for which a subpoena has been issued may be punished as for contempt.[17] A Federal court has no authority to order the removal of books and papers produced before an examiner appointed to take evidence in an equity case, for use in the examination of witnesses in another district.[18]

5. Section 7, cl. 9, does not give complete immunity, since testimony given may be used to obtain other evidence. United States v. Goldstein, 132 F. 789. Neither § 7, cl. 9, of the bankruptcy act (see above) nor U. S. Rev. St. § 860, providing that no answer or other pleading or discovery of evidence obtained in any judicial proceeding shall be used against the party or witness in any court of the United States, provides complete immunity, so that a bankrupt cannot claim the privilege. In re Hess, 134 F. 109.

6. In re Hess, 134 F. 109.

7, 8. In re Hess, 134 F. 109; In re Hark, 136 F. 986.

9. State v. Jack, 69 Kan. 387, 76 P. 911.

10. Acts 1897, p. 134, c. 14, construed. Lindsay v. Allen [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 648.

11. Code Civ. Proc. § 2066. Rogers v. Superior Court of City and County of San Francisco, 145 Cal. 88, 78 P. 344.

12. Fenn v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103.

13. Books of corporation held irrelevant, and their production prejudicial, and claim of privilege of officer of corporation upheld. Crocker-Wheeler Co. v. Bullock, 134 F. 241.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 2163, § 1, for corresponding matter.

15. Crocker-Wheeler Co. v. Bullock, 134 F. 241.

16. Franklin v. Judson, 96 App. Div. 607, 88 N. Y. S. 904.

17. Where a corporation officer, to whom a subpoena duces tecum had been issued, testified that he could not produce a release because he could not find it, and the attorney for defendant, on being examined, admitted having the release in court, the court had power to order its production, and to punish the attorney for contempt if he failed to do so.' Dunn v. New York Edison Co., 92 N. Y. S. 787. But in South Dakota, a committing magistrate has no power to punish for contempt a witness who refuses to produce documents called for by a sub-

A witness once duly served with a subpoena is required to attend from term to term until the case is tried.[19] An application for attachment of a witness must show why the testimony cannot be secured by deposition, or wherein a deposition on file does not make a full disclosure of facts.[20] An attachment will not be granted for a witness who is unable to attend court on account of illness.[21]

The allowance and amount of witness fees,[22] and mileage, [23] and liability therefor,[24] are statutory. A special contract to pay a witness in an ordinary case a fee larger in amount than that fixed by law to be paid witnesses for attendance upon court, is void for want of consideration and as against public policy.[25]

WOODS AND FORESTS; WORK AND LABOR; WORKING CONTRACTS, see latest topical index.

poena. Farnham v. Colman [S. D.] 103 N. W. 161.

18. Pepper v. Rogers, 137 F. 173.

19. Brady v. State, 120 Ga. 181, 47 S. E. 535.

20. City of Dallas v. Lentz [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 55.

21. Gardner v. United States [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 704.

22. Under Code, § 739, witnesses summoned in a prosecution for murder in the first degree, which is changed on trial to murder in the second degree, are entitled to only half fees. Coward v. Jackson County Com'rs [N. C.] 49 S. E. 207. Even though they attended from outside the county. Id. A witness is entitled to repayment in full of the amount paid the clerk for proving his ticket, though entitled only to half fees from the county, under Code, § 739. Id. Under the Iowa statute, when, in a criminal case, a defendant is adjudged not guilty, and witness fees are taxed to the county, the supervisors must allow them, and have no discretion in the matter. Code, § 4661. Climie v. Appanoose County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 98.

23. A witness attending a criminal case in response to a subpoena may properly be allowed mileage for distance traveled outside as well as inside the state. Construing Code, § 5492. Climie v. Appanoose County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 98. But the matter of allowance of mileage is largely discretionary, and the court may properly reduce the amount to mileage within the state. Perry v. Howe Co-op. Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150.

24. Fla. Const. art. 16, § 9, as amended in 1894, does not require the several counties of the state to pay the per diem and mileage of witnesses before the grand jury. State v. Croom [Fla.] 37 So. 303. Such expense is by law imposed on the state. Id.

25. Witness held not a technical expert, so as to warrant recovery by him of extra fee. Ramschasel's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 262.

NOTE. Contracts to furnish evidence: An agreement to furnish evidence to establish the claim of a party in a prospective suit is void. Lyon v. Hussey, 82 Hun 15, 31 N. Y. S. 281. A stipulation to procure witnesses to swear to a particular fact is also void. Patterson v. Donner, 48 Cal. 369. The same is held of promises to pay the witness a per centage of what is recovered in return for testimony. Stanley v. Jones, 7 Bing. 369; Dawkins v. Gill, 10 Ala. 206. It is the tendency of such agreements to produce corruption and injustice which causes them to be eyed with disapproval. Goodrich v. Tenney, 144 Ill. 422, 36 Am. St. Rep. 459, 33 N. E. 44. Though not actually corrupt, they are unenforceable. Boehmer v. Foval, 55 Ill. App. 71; Quirk v. Muller, 14 Mont. 467, 43 Am. St. Rep. 647, 36 P. 1077. Agreements to pay witnesses on the event that the suit terminate in favor of the promisor are not only void as concerning ordinary witnesses, but also as concerning experts. See Thomas v. Caulkett, 57 Mich. 392, 58 Am. Rep. 369, 24 N. W. 154; Pollak v. Gregory, 22 N. Y. Super. Ct. (9 Bosw.) 116.

But contracts like those under consideration are not universally condemned. See Wood v. Casserleigh, 30 Colo. 287, 71 P. 360, 97 Am. St. Rep. 138. But if the contract to furnish testimony is linked with an agreement to suppress testimony, it is void. Young v. Thomson, 14 Colo. App. 294, 59 P. 1030.

Information as to an outstanding title to realty is a sufficient consideration to support a promissory note. Lucas v. Pico, 55 Cal. 126. See, also, Chandler v. Mason, 2 Vt. 193; Cobb v. Cowdery, 40 Vt. 25, 94 Am. Dec. 370.

For other authorities on general subject, see note to Wood v. Casserleigh [30 Colo. 287, 71 P. 360] in 97 Am. St. Rep. 145.

NEW YORK CITATION INDEX DIGEST.

FOR VOLS. 3 AND 4 CURRENT LAW.

VOLUME THREE.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

A.

ABATEMENT AND REVIVAL.

Causes; pendency of another action. 1, 8; 2, 9, 13, 14; 6, 25, 26; 7, 27.
Subject-matter ceased to exist. 7, 31, 32.
Misjoinder. 8, 52.
Raising objection; waiver. 8, 61; 9, 68, 71, 75; 10, 78.
Survivability of causes of action. 10, 87, 90, 97.
Substitution of parties. 12, 20, 22, 26.

ABDUCTION.

13, 32.

ACCORD AND SATISFACTION.

The accord in general. 17, 78, 79, 83, 84; 18, 92, 93, 94; 19, 95, 97, 99, 3; 20, 9.
The consideration. 20, 11, 15, 16; 21, 19, 20, 21.
Fraud, mistake and duress. 23, 39, 43.
Satisfaction or discharge. 23, 46, 49.
Pleading, issues and proof. 23, 53; 24, 54, 56, 59, 62, 63.

ACCOUNTING, ACTION FOR.

Nature of remedy and jurisdiction. 25, 67, 71, 73; 26, 83.
Persons liable and entitled. 26, 87, 88, 90, 91.
Procedure before or without reference. 26, 94, 99, 3.
Reference and proceedings thereon. 27, 9.

ACCOUNTS STATED AND OPEN ACCOUNTS.

Nature and elements of several kinds. 27, 17; 29, 28, 31.
Evidence and questions of fact. 30, 60, 65, 66.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Taking. 33, 10.
Certificate. 34, 20.
Defects and invalidities. 34, 31; 35, 35.

ACTIONS.

36, 40, 43, 46, 49.

ADJOINING OWNERS.

Lateral support. 37, 69, 70; 38, 76, 81.
Line fences. 40, 96.

ADULTERATION.

Legislation and regulation. 47, 22.
The offense. 48, 36, 38.
Enforcement and prosecution. 48, 44.

ADVERSE POSSESSION.

To whom available. 53, 26, 28.
Definition and essential elements. 54, 43.
Hostility. 55, 58; 56, 73.
Continuity. 56, 82, 83.
Duration. 57, 96; 58, 12.
Sufficiency of possession. 62, 57.

AFFIDAVITS.

Who may take. 65, 3.
Form and requisites. 65, 7.
Admissibility in evidence and effect. 66, 24, 25.

AFFIDAVITS OF MERITS OF CLAIM OR DEFENSE.

66, 28; 68, 48.

AGENCY.

68, 54.
The relation. 69, 67; 70, 71, 74, 78.
Implied agency. 71, 90; 72, 96.
Evidence of agency. 72, 11; 73, 16, 17; 74, 18.
Estoppel to assert or deny. 74, 20, 21.
Termination of relation. 75, 28.
Rights and liabilities, principal to third persons. 77, 62, 67, 68; 78, 70, 73; 79, 77, 78, 80; 80, 86; 81, 87, 88, 89, 91; 82, 98, 3, 4; 83, 11, 16; 84, 19; 85, 19; 86, 22, 23, 24; 87, 27, 28, 29, 31; 88, 38, 42, 46; 89, 46, 47, 48, 52; 91, 69; 92, 86.
Rights and liabilities, agent to third persons. 92, 88; 93, 94.
Mutual rights, duties and liabilities. 94, 14, 16; 95, 17; 96, 32; 97, 42, 45, 46; 98, 49, 51, 52, 53; 99, 70, 71; 100, 81, 82; 101, 83.

ALIENS.

Disabilities and privileges. 139, 40, 41, 42, 46, 47, 48; 140, 50, 52, 53.
Naturalization. 146, 40, 41, 42.

ALIMONY.

Nature and purpose of the allowance. 147, 49.
Reasons for and against provisional allowances. 148, 71; 149, 75, 79, 82.
Amount, character and duration. 150, 5; 151, 9.
Procedure and practice. 152, 29.
Decree, enforcement and discharge. 153, 44, 53, 55.

ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

Definition, distinctions and what constitutes. 155, 74.
Particular instruments. 156, 86.
Effect of material alteration. 156, 90.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

AMBASSADORS AND CONSULS.

158, 9.

ANIMALS.

Personal injuries inflicted by animals. 159, 16, 17, 19, 20; 160, 24, 25.
Injuries to property by animals. 161, 39.
Estrays and impounding. 164, 83.
Regulations as to care, keeping, etc. 165, 1.

ANNUITIES.

166, 29.

APPEAL AND REVIEW.

Constitution and statutes. 168, 31, 32, 36.
Waiver, election, transfer or extinguishment. 168, 40; 169, 55.
Appeal or error. 171, 75, 76.
Ordinary or extraordinary modes of review. 172, 89, 94.
Persons entitled to take up the cause. 173, 8, 10, 15; 174, 16, 20, 22, 23, 25, 31.
Adjudications which may be reviewed. 177, 72, 73.
Rulings before trial. 178, 90.
Dismissals, nonsuits, etc. 178, 93, 96.
Orders and adjudications, interlocutory, etc. 180, 26, 28, 32; 181, 35, 37, 39, 40, 45, 49; 182, 64.
Orders after judgment. 182, 67, 68, 69; 183, 70, 71, 81.
Decisions of intermediate courts. 183, 85.
Bringing up the cause. 193, 45.
Notice, citation, and summons. 196, 79, 86.
Bonds, security, etc. 199, 34, 35, 36.
Supersedeas by operation of appeal. 201, 77.
Supersedeas by special order or allowance. 202, 4, 5.
Supersedeas bonds. 203, 27.
What is part of record proper. 208, 10.
The settled case or statement of facts. 213, 11; 214, 23, 24, 25; 215, 32.
Transmission of proceedings and evidence to reviewing court. 218, 5; 219, 15, 21; 220, 36.
Calendars; trial dockets; terms. 221, 56.
Forming issues. 222, 73, 76; 223, 80.
Grounds for dismissing, etc. 232, 45, 234, 65.
Raising and waiver of defects in appellate procedure. 238, 84; 239, 8.
Mode of review. 240, 23, 29.
Scope of review in general. 241, 39, 43; 242, 55, 62; 243, 79.
Restriction of review to rulings below. 244, 91; 245, 92, 93, 95; 246, 98; 247, 18.
Restriction of review by character of order or judgment. 248, 32, 37, 38, 39; 249, 45, 65.
Restriction of review by contents of record. 251, 81, 83, 88, 91; 252, 96; 254, 17; 255, 25, 30; 256, 45, 46, 50; 258, 81; 259, 90, 96; 261, 20, 23; 262, 30, 34, 35, 36, 42; 263, 55, 56; 264, 63.
Review of discretionary interlocutory and provisional orders. 264, 66, 69, 75; 265, 87, 98, 99, 2, 3; 266, 6, 8, 14; 267, 46, 47; 268, 48, 50, 53; 269, 55, 64; 260, 84; 270, 85; 271, 92, 97.
Review of questions of fact. 272, 19; 273, 27, 28, 31, 33; 274, 40, 41, 43, 46; 275, 70; 276, 78; 277, 83, 86; 278, 1, 2, 3; 279, 22; 280, 34; 281, 54.
Rulings and decisions on intermediate appeals. 283, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84; 284, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95.
Effect of decision on former review in same court. 285, 2 3; 286, 17, 18, 21.
Affirmance or reversal. 287, 32; 288, 33, 42, 43, 44, 45; 289, 48, 57; 290, 65, 71.
Remand or final determination. 291, 80, 82, 83; 292, 85, 88, 98; 293, 99, 1, 2, 3, 4, 8; 294, 15, 22.
Mandate and retrial. 295, 44; 296, 50, 52, 62; 297, 73, 74, 75, 79, 80, 82, 83, 86.

APPEARANCE.

General. 301, 39, 43.
Special. 301, 48.
Who may make or enter. 302, 60, 61, 62.
Effect. 302, 67.

APPRENTICES.

303, 78.

ARBITRATION AND AWARD.

Submission and agreements to submit. 304, 87, 88.
Hearing and procedure. 304, 4.

ARGUMENT OF COUNSEL.

Opening statements. 307, 48.
Kind, extent and mode. 308, 61, 62; 310, 90, 97, 1; 311, 5.
Excuses for impropriety. 311, 15.
Curing objection. 312, 24, 26, 29.

ARREST AND BINDING OVER.

Complaint, etc., to procure warrant. 314, 53, 57; 315, 60.
Warrant and its issuance. 315, 65.
Preliminary hearing. 317, 11; 318, 25.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Defenses. 320, 52.
Procedure. 321, 71.
Pleading, evidence and trial. 324, 22, 23.

ASSIGNMENTS.

Rights susceptible. 327, 56.
Contracts for personal services. 327, 62, 63.
Contingent interests. 328, 89, 96; 329, 2, 6.
Express assignments. 329, 10, 14, 15, 16, 17; 330, 17, 27.
Constructive or equitable assignments. 333, 54, 60, 61; 334, 62.
Construction, interpretation and effect. 334, 67; 335, 81, 84, 86.
Enforcement. 336, 4, 8, 11.

ASSIGNMENT FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.

Removal of assignee. 338, 42.
Property transferred or conveyed by assignor. 342, 86.
Liability of assignee; bond. 342, 89, 97.
Collection of assets, reduction to money. 343, 5.
Classes and priorities of debts. 344, 43; 345, 44, 47, 50.
Satisfaction and discharge of claims. 345, 52.
Accounting, settlement and discharge. 345, 57, 58, 59, 60.

ASSISTANCE, WRIT OF.

346, 65.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

ASSOCIATIONS AND SOCIETIES.

Definition, nature and organization. 346, 71.
Internal relations, rights and duties. 346, 79; 347, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90.
Association and non-members. 348, 94.

ASSUMPSIT.

Nature, form and propriety. 348, 7.
Goods sold and delivered. 349, 22.
Work, labor and materials. 350, 36.
Declaration, pleas and defenses. 351, 45.
Evidence. 352, 65, 66, 70.

ASYLUMS AND HOSPITALS.

Officers, powers, duties and liabilities. 353, 73, 77.

ATTACHMENT.

In what actions issued. 354, 93, 94, 96, 2.
Nonresidence. 355, 13, 17; 356, 24.
Fraudulent transfer of property. 356, 29, 30, 31; 357, 35, 40, 41.
Attachable property. 359, 71, 72, 73, 75, 77.
Summons and service thereof. 360, 1, 2.
Affidavit. 361, 20; 362, 20, 21, 23, 24, 26.
Amended and supplemental affidavits. 362, 29, 32, 33.
Bond or undertaking. 362, 39.
Liabilities on bond. 362, 43; 363, 47, 49, 53.
Levy or seizure; indemnifying bonds. 364, 88; 365, 97.
Return. 365, 6.
Custody, sale, redelivery or release. 366, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Lien. 368, 58.
Priorities. 370, 92, 93.
Effect of bankruptcy proceedings. 370, 8.
Grounds for setting aside. 370, 10, 11; 371, 12, 13, 15, 16, 20, 21.
Procedure to set aside. 371, 32; 372, 34, 35, 36, 38, 39, 40, 41.
Judgment or order. 373, 63.

ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS.

Privileges and disabilities. 377, 43, 44.
Suspension and disbarment. 378, 58, 63; 379, 66.
Creation and termination of relation. 379, 73, 75.
Dealings between attorney and client. 380, 92.
Remedies between the parties. 381, 1, 3, 4.
Compensation and lien. 381, 8; 382, 10, 12, 13.
Contingent fees. 382, 15; 384, 17, 20.
Implied contract for services. 385, 26.
Allowance of fees as costs. 385, 36.
Amount. 386, 43.
Evidence as to value of services. 386, 45; 387, 48, 50.
Proceedings to recover fees. 387, 52, 56, 59.
Lien. 388, 61, 68, 70, 71, 72, 73; 389, 79.
Enforcement of lien. 389, 88, 89; 390, 93.
Authority to represent client. 390, 99, 1.
Scope of authority. 391, 13; 392, 30.
Rights and liabilities to third persons. 392, 32.
Law partnerships. 392, 35.
Public attorneys; attorneys general. 392, 40; 393, 42.
District and prosecuting attorneys. 393, 60.

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS.

License and regulation. 394, 65.

B.

BAIL, CIVIL.

395, 78, 82, 83, 84, 86.

BAIL, CRIMINAL.

Fulfillment or forfeiture. 398, 18.
Enforcement of bond or recognizance. 399, 50.
Remission of forfeiture. 399, 52, 56, 57; 400, 59, 60.
Return of deposit. 400, 62.

BAILMENT.

Rights and liabilities as between parties. 401, 75, 79; 402, 81, 90, 91, 95, 96, 97.
Rights and liabilities of third persons. 403, 6.

BANKING AND FINANCE.

Taxation of banks. 404, 18, 19.
Transfer of stock. 405, 44, 48.
Personal liability of officers. 406, 59, 61, 62, 63; 407, 73.
Powers of officers and right to represent bank. 408, 95, 96; 409, 16.
Savings banks. 415, 46; 416, 58, 59, 60, 63; 417, 67, 72, 73.
Deposits and repayment thereof. 418, 96, 97.
Forged or altered checks and drafts. 421, 37, 38.
Checks drawn without authority. 422, 55, 61.
Damages for failure to pay checks. 424, 4.
Actions to recover deposits. 425, 10.
Certifications. 425, 22, 23, 24, 25; 426, 26.
Collections. 426, 34, 36, 39; 427, 45, 47, 48, 49, 50, 54.

BANKRUPTCY.

Procedure for adjudication. 441, 73.
Protection and possession of property pending. 444, 40, 42, 43.
Property and rights passing to trustee. 447, 97, 98, 2, 4, 5; 448, 14, 16.
Property fraudulently conveyed. 448, 23; 449, 25, 32.
Nature of trustee's title in general. 450, 51.
Trustee takes title free from liens. 450, 53; 451, 70.
Chattel mortgages. 453, 90.
Preferential transfers. 453, 96; 454, 6; 455, 8, 10.
Collection, reduction to possession, and protection of property. 460, 84; 461, 98, 99.
Actions to collect or reduce. 463, 35, 40, 42, 43; 464, 52, 53, 54, 64, 65; 465, 85; 466, 90.
Claims not reduced to possession. 467, 15, 16.
Rights of trustee in pending actions by and against bankrupt. 468, 41; 469, 43.
Priorities. 477, 1; 478, 14.
Expenses prior to bankruptcy proceedings. 481, 62.
Trustees' bonds; actions thereon. 487, 70, 71, 72, 73.
Discharge of bankrupt. 488, 81, 92.
Liabilities released. 491, 28, 29, 30, 34, 42, 43, 44, 45; 492, 54, 56; 493, 67, 70, 72, 75; 494, 83, 84, 87, 88, 90.
Reopening. 496, 21.

BASTARDS.

Legal elements and evidences of illegitimacy. 497, 39.
Rights and duties of and in respect to bastards. 497, 44, 45; 498, 48, 49.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

Procedure to ascertain paternity and compel support. 499, 65.
Legitimation, recognition, adoption. 499, 77.

BETTING AND GAMING.

The offense and criminal prosecutions. 500, 89, 91, 1; 501, 19, 20.
Indictment or information and procedure. 502, 45; 503, 47, 51, 55, 57, 58.
Recovery back of money lost. 505, 79, 80, 84, 87.

BIGAMY.

Evidence and instructions. 506, 5.

BONDS.

The instrument. 508, 28; 509, 34.
Consideration. 509, 36, 41, 42.
Rights of parties and transferees. 510, 56.
Terms and conditions. 511, 70; 512, 74; 513, 83.
Remedies and procedures. 517, 21, 22; 518, 26, 29.

BOUNDARIES.

Rules for locating or identifying. 519, 45; 520, 60; 521, 74, 77.
Establishment by acquiescence. 522, 4.

BRIBERY.

Nature and elements of offense. 527, 75, 78.
Establishment by public agencies. 530, 19.

BRIDGES.

Contracts and construction. 530, 22.
Public liability for cost and maintenance. 530, 29; 531, 33.
Injuries from defective bridges. 532, 59; 533, 60; 534, 70, 72, 73.
Injuries from defective bridges. 534, 73.

BROKERS.

Employment and relation. 535, 95; 536, 96, 99; 537, 14, 15, 16, 27.
Mutual rights, duties, and liabilities. 538, 39, 40, 43; 539, 47, 50, 51, 61; 540, 69, 86; 541, 88, 93.
Rights and liabilities as to third persons. 541, 96, 2, 3; 542, 6, 10.
Compensation and lien. 542, 13, 16; 543, 17, 19, 21, 22, 23; 544, 23, 27, 29, 30; 545, 33, 34, 39, 40, 41, 45; 546, 48, 49, 50, 56, 57; 547, 63, 64, 66, 68, 69; 548, 82; 549, 93, 96, 6.

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS.

The contract. 550, 17; 551, 19, 23.
Performance. 551, 29, 32, 33; 552, 38, 40; 553, 49, 61.
Modification. 553, 53.
Extra work. 554, 63, 65, 66.
Delay in performance. 554, 70, 71; 555, 83.
Completion by owner or third person. 556, 91.
Certificates of performance. 556, 98, 99, 1.
Arbitration of disputes. 557, 6, 8.
Payment. 557, 19, 20; 558, 22.
Subcontracts. 558, 25, 26, 28, 29.
Remedies and procedure. 559, 48, 62; 560, 52, 53, 55, 59, 65.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

In general. Statutory provisions. 561, 75.
Membership and stock. 562, 90.
Maturity of stock. 564, 97.
Loans and mortgages. 565, 13.
Usury. 567, 32.
Accounting after insolvency. 570, 57, 61, 62.
Termination and insolvency. 571, 76, 81; 572, 84.

BUILDINGS AND BUILDING RESTRICTIONS.

Public regulation. 573, 99; 574, 4, 5.
Restrictive covenants. 575, 8, 10, 14, 18.
Liability for unsafe condition of premises. 576, 29, 30, 35.

C.

CANALS.

583, 42, 46, 50.

CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

Cause of action and grounds for relief. 587, 85; 588, 4; 589, 18.
Procedure. 590, 23, 33.

CARRIERS IN GENERAL.

Duty to undertake and provide carriage. 592, 68; 593, 77.

CARRIERS OF GOODS.

Special contracts and bills of lading. 596, 19.
Duty to furnish cars. 596, 22, 25.
Forwarding and transporting. 597, 31.
Loss of or injury to goods. 597, 37.
Delivery and storage at destination. 598, 53, 54, 55, 58, 63; 599, 64, 70, 71, 73, 76, 80; 600, 82, 91.
Liability of carrier or connecting carrier. 600, 94; 601, 95, 96, 12.
Limitation of liability. 602, 18, 19, 21; 603, 29, 30.
Remedies and procedure. 603, 38, 41; 605, 65, 66, 68, 72.
Damages. 606, 81, 85.
Freight and other charges. 607, 93, 94, 5, 11, 12.

CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS.

Ejection of passengers. 622, 31, 44; 624, 66; 625, 77.
Remedies and procedure for ejection. 625, 84, 88; 626, 1, 2.
Delays. 627, 6.
Rates and fares, tickets and special contracts. 627, 15, 24; 629, 42, 45, 46, 47; 630, 57, 58, 59.
Duty of furnishing transfers. 631, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 71, 72, 75, 76, 77.
Condition and care of premises. 632, 97; 633, 1.
Means and facilities of transportation. 633, 8; 634, 22.
Operation and management of trains. 635, 39, 42, 45, 46, 47, 48.
Duty to protect passengers. 636, 56, 59; 637, 64, 65.
Taking on passengers. 637, 77, 79, 80; 638, 82, 83, 86, 87.
Setting down passengers. 639, 4; 640, 19.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

Duty to persons other than passengers. 641, 39.
Liability for personal injuries. 642, 44, 46, 47, 52; 643, 53, 55.
Contributory negligence of passenger. 645, 86, 90, 1; 646, 1, 4, 6; 647, 18; 648, 33, 37; 649, 45.
Remedies and procedure. 650, 62; 651, 67; 652, 77; 653, 77, 80; 654, 80, 81; 655, 81, 82, 83, 84; 656, 85, 91; 657, 95; 659, 9.

CARRIERS OF BAGGAGE, ETC.

Rights, duties, and liabilities. 661, 25, 26, 27.
Care of baggage and effects. 662, 30.
Limitation of liability. 662, 38; 663, 40, 41, 42.
Remedies and procedure. 663, 47.
Causes of action and defenses. 664, 20.
Defenses. 665, 31, 35.

CENSUS AND STATISTICS.

Statistics. 667, 68, 69, 70.

CERTIORARI.

Nature, occasion and propriety. 667, 77; 668, 78, 80, 82; 669, 87, 88, 89; 670, 93, 94, 96.
Right to certiorari; parties. 671, 6, 13.
Procedure for writ. 671, 16, 17; 672, 24, 37; 673, 46, 49, 50.
Hearing and questions. 674, 64; 675, 66.

CHAMPERTY AND MAINTENANCE.

Grant of land held adversely. 677, 98, 99.
Contingent fees. 677, 8, 9.
Bona fide sale or assignment. 678, 22, 23.

CHARITABLE GIFTS.

Nature and essentials; validity. 679, 40, 41, 42; 680, 45, 46, 49.
Capacity of donee or trustee. 680, 54, 58.
Administration and enforcement. 681, 77.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

What constitutes. 682, 8, 10.
Subject-matter. What may be mortgaged. 684, 36.
Fraudulent conveyances. 685, 47; 686, 49.
Form, execution, and delivery. 687, 69, 70, 71.
Filing or recording. 688, 86, 89; 689, 7.
Notice of title or rights. 690, 23.
Payment and discharge. 696, 7, 9, 10.
Redemption. 696, 15.
Foreclosure. 696, 20; 697, 30.
Remedies against third persons. 699, 55, 56.

CIVIL ARREST.

Arrest on mesne process. 700, 78, 79, 81, 82, 83.
Execution against the body. 701, 88, 90, 91, 92, 95, 96.
Supersedeas bail or discharge from arrest. 701, 1, 2, 3; 702, 13, 14.

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

705, 67.

COMBINATIONS AND MONOPOLIES.

Violative of the Federal anti-trust act. 707, 94.
Violative of state anti-trust acts and of common law. 709, 6; 710, 18, 19, 20, 21.

COMMERCE.

Regulations of foreign corporations. 712, 34.
Quarantine laws. 715, 88.
State burdens on foreign commerce. 715, 92.

COMMON LAW.

718, 43.

COMPOSITION WITH CREDITORS.

719, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52.

CONFLICT OF LAWS.

Contracts in general. 721, 73, 74.
Effect of status or domicile. 722, 87, 89.
Application of remedies. 724, 12, 29; 725, 37.

CONSPIRACY.

Civil liability. 726, 58; 727, 66, 67, 68, 69.
Criminal liability. 728, 76; 729, 89, 90, 92.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW.

Interpretation and exposition. When called for. 733, 40, 44.
General rules of interpretation. 736, 77, 80, 86; 737, 90; 739, 6, 19; 740, 20.
Legislative functions. 741, 40; 742, 50.
Police power in general. 746, 18, 19; 747, 21, 24; 748, 39.
Public health. 748, 53; 749, 54.
Public safety. 749, 67.
Public morals. 750, 71, 81.
Liberty of contract. 752, 95, 96.
Right of property. 752, 8, 12, 14; 753, 17.
Personal and religious liberty. 754, 34, 37; 755, 47.
Equal protection of laws. 756, 61, 63; 757, 83; 758, 1; 760, 35.
Privileges and immunities of citizens. 761, 57.
Grants of special privileges; class legislation. 763, 82; 765, 19, 20.
Impairing obligations of contracts. 765, 28; 766, 34, 38; 768, 49; 769, 59, 69.
Retroactive legislation; vested rights. 770, 81.
Deprivation without due process. 773, 25, 27; 774, 38, 39, 42, 43; 775, 56; 776, 79; 778, 11.
Compensation for taking property. 779, 22.
Right to justice and guaranty of remedies. 780, 39.
Crimes, prosecutions, punishments and penalties. 780, 51, 61; 782, 79, 80; 783, 87, 89.
Searches and seizures. 783, 98, 99.
Suffrage and elections. 784, 10, 12.
Organization of government; courts; officers. 785, 26.
Taxation and fiscal affairs. 786, 39; 787, 65; 789, 80, 83, 86; 790, 4; 792, 34.
Schools and education; school funds. 792, 39, 44.
Miscellaneous provisions. 794, 76; 795, 80, 81.

CONTEMPT.

Elements and nature of proceeding. 796, 90.
Acts in disobedience of court. 797, 99, 4, 5, 9.
Official misconduct and obstruction of justice. 797, 18.
Defense, excuse or purgation. 798, 29.
Pleadings and proceedings before hearing. 799, 43, 47.
Findings and judgment. 800, 57.
Punishment. 800, 60, 61.
Review of proceedings. 801, 68.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

CONTINUANCE AND POSTPONEMENT.

Grounds in general. 802, 83.
Absence or disability of party or counsel. 802, 91; 803, 95, 96, 97.
Absence of or inability to procure evidence. 803, 5.

CONTRACTS.

Offer and acceptance. 806, 9, 10; 807, 10, 12, 13, 14; 808, 21, 24, 26, 29.
Reality of consent. 809, 43, 44.
Consideration, necessity. 810, 51.
What constitutes consideration generally. 810, 53; 811, 53; 812, 53; 813, 57, 58, 59, 64, 67.
Mutual promises. 814, 69.
Doing of legal duty. 814, 75.
Forbearance or compromise. 815, 79, 80.
Validity. 816, 4; 817, 15.
Mutuality. 819, 32, 36, 37.
Public policy in general. 820, 46, 47, 48; 821, 50.
Relating to marriage or divorce. 822, 63, 64.
Litigious agreements. 822, 69.
Interfering with public service. 823, 73, 77.
Restraint of trade. 824, 97.
Effect of invalidity. 826, 13.
Interpretation. General rules. 828, 25, 26; 829, 26, 34, 35; 830, 39, 42, 43; 831, 48, 51.
Character; joint or several, etc. 832, 66.
Custom or usage. 833, 76.
Time. 833, 82, 83, 84; 834, 87.
Modification. 835, 1, 2.
Discharge by performance or breach generally. 836, 10, 14, 15.
Repudiation. 837, 17, 20, 25, 26; 838, 29.
Conditions. 839, 37.
Acceptance and waiver. 840, 50, 51.
Sufficiency of performance. 842, 75, 79, 80; 843, 82, 86.
Rights after default. 844, 90, 91, 92.
Rescission by agreement. 844, 3.
Remedies for breach. 846, 28, 29; 847, 36, 38, 39.
Parties. 848, 46; 849, 49.
Pleading and proof. 850, 57, 60, 61, 63, 65, 66; 851, 72, 73, 74, 80; 852, 85; 853, 85, 87, 88, 91.
Evidence. 854, 1, 2; 855, 9; 856, 13; 857, 20, 21, 29, 31; 858, 31; 859, 31; 860, 31.
Questions of law and fact. 860, 34, 35.
Instructions. 861, 44.

CONTRIBUTION.

General principles. 866, 53, 54.
Between joint tort feasors. 866, 56.

CONVERSION AS TORT.

What constitutes. 866, 61, 63, 64; 867, 82, 84, 86, 87; 868, 94, 96, 97, 98, 2.
Property subject. 868, 6.
General or special property interest. 869, 9, 11.
Immediate right of possession. 869, 13, 16, 18; 870, 26.
Demand and refusal. 870, 30, 31.
Right to maintain action and persons liable. 871, 47, 49.
The complaint. 872, 76, 78; 873, 86.
Answer. 873, 91.
Burden of proof. 873, 1, 4; 874, 6, 7, 9, 10.
Damages. 875, 23, 26, 31; 876, 47.

CONVERSION IN EQUITY.

How effected. 877, 54, 56, 60.

CORONERS.

880, 4, 5.

CORPORATIONS.

Creation, name and existence. 883, 28; 884, 45.
Effect of irregularities in organization. 884, 55.
Promotion of corporations. 885, 65, 71.
Power to contract and incur debts. 887, 9.
Estoppel to assert ultra vires. 889, 44, 45; 890, 45, 46, 47, 48.
Ultra vires must be pleaded. 890, 51.
Actions by and against corporations. 891, 66; 892, 76, 79, 84, 90.
Legislative control. 893, 1.
Dissolution. 894, 18, 19, 20.
Effect of dissolution. 896, 54, 55.
Succession, reorganization, consolidation. 898, 69, 70, 84, 85.
Membership in general. 899, 96, 98, 99.
Capital stock and shares. 899, 4; 900, 18.
Subscriptions. 902, 44, 49, 52.
Right to dividends. 903, 69, 75.
Remedies for injuries to stockholders or to the corporation. 905, 91, 92.
Stockholders suing for corporation. 905, 94, 98; 906, 2, 5, 6; 907, 11, 16, 20, 25, 26; 908, 29, 36.
Receivers and injunctions. 909, 42.
Transfer of shares. 909, 47, 50; 910, 54, 55, 56, 57.
Pledge or mortgage of shares. 9, 12, 84.
The right to vote. 913, 14.
Salary or other compensation of officers. 914, 30.
Directors' meetings. Records and stockbooks. 915, 41, 44, 48, 49.
Powers of officers and agents other than directors or trustees. 916, 57, 59, 60, 67, 68.
Apparent authority. 917, 79; 918, 84, 85, 87, 88.
Ratification of unauthorized acts. 918, 96; 919, 99.
Personal liability of officers and agents. 920, 19, 22; 921, 25, 26.
Liability of officers for mismanagement. 921, 36, 37; 922, 38, 41, 42, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49.
Dealings between corporation and officers. 922, 51; 923, 53, 54, 59, 65, 67; 924, 69, 73.
The relation of creditors. 924, 77.
Rights and remedies of creditors against corporation. 925, 89, 98, 2; 926, 12.
Winding up proceedings, assignments, receivership. 927, 30, 32; 928, 40, 43, 44, 47; 929, 48.
Rights of corporate mortgagees and bondholders. 929, 53, 57, 63, 67; 930, 72, 73, 79, 85; 931, 91; 932, 11, 18.
Liability of stockholders on account of unpaid subscription. 934, 45; 935, 57.
Personal liability of stockholder for debts. 937, 93.

CORPSES AND BURIAL.

Funeral expenses. 939, 35.
Burials and removals. 940, 45.

COSTS.

Power to award. 940, 3.
Security for costs and proceeding in forma pauperis. 941, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 22, 23, 26, 31; 942, 34, 35, 36, 39.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

On termination of actions. 942, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 51; 943, 52, 54, 55, 57, 58, 60, 61.
In interlocutory or special proceedings. 943, 64, 67, 68.
Several co-parties. 944, 73, 75, 77.
Parties in special capacity. 944, 81, 84, 85; 945, 87, 94, 95, 96.
Waiver of right; tender; offer of judgment. 945, 6, 7; 946, 8, 9, 11, 12.
Right dependent on amount of demand or recovery. 946, 15.
In equity and equitable code actions. 946, 21, 25; 947, 30, 36.
On appeal, error, etc. 947, 41; 948, 44, 47.
Justices' courts and municipal courts. 948, 50, 52.
Amount and items; after trial. 949, 59, 60, 61, 62, 68; 950, 69, 75, 79, 84, 85.
Amount and items; on appeal. 951, 91, 3; 952, 6.
Amount and items in criminal proceedings. 952, 13.
Procedure to tax costs. 952, 21; 953, 23.
Enforcement and payment. 954, 41, 45, 47, 48, 49.

COUNTIES.

Officers, personal rights and liabilities. 962, 85, 86, 87; 963, 89, 91.
Public powers, duties and liabilities. 964, 96, 99; 965, 3, 4; 966, 15, 17.
Presentation, allowance, enforcement, and payment of claims. 969, 48.

COURTS.

Creation, change, and alteration. 970, 67, 68.
Officers and instrumentalities. 970, 72; 971, 76.
Conduct and regulation of business. 972, 4.

COVENANTS FOR TITLE.

Against incumbrances. 974, 28.
Warranty and quiet enjoyment. 974, 35.
Enforcement of covenants. 975, 43.
Damages for breach. 975, 56, 57.

CREDITORS' SUIT.

Equity jurisdiction. 976, 68.

CRIMINAL LAW.

Elements of crime. 980, 9.
Attempts. 980, 20; 981, 21.
Felonies and misdemeanors. 981, 24.
Parties in crimes. 983, 51, 54, 56.
Rights in property the subject of crime. 987, 13.

CURTESY.

988, 20, 21.

CUSTOMS AND USAGES.

Application to contracts and other dealings. 988, 27; 989, 31, 34.

D.

DAMAGES.

Nominal damages. 998, 38, 40.
Liquidated damages. 998, 44; 999, 46, 49, 51.
Exemplary damages. 1000, 65.
Loss of profit. 1004, 16, 18.
Difficulty of proof of amount as bar. 1004, 22.
Avoidable consequences. 1004, 26.
Mitigation and aggravation of damages. 1005, 38.
Recovery as affected by status of plaintiff or limited interest in property affected. 1006, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 62.
Measure for breach of miscellaneous contracts. 1007, 70, 71, 73.
Contracts for sale or purchase of land. 1007, 82; 1008, 85.
Breach of covenant as to title. 1008, 87.
Contracts and liabilities as between lessor and lessee. 1008, 93.
Contracts for sale or purchase of goods or chattels. 1009, 98, 99, 5, 8; 1010, 15, 16.
Liability of bailees, carriers, and telegraph companies. 1010, 21; 1011, 29, 30, 35.
Contracts for services. 1012, 49; 1013, 51, 52, 53, 59.
Miscellaneous torts. 1014, 81.
Loss or injuries to property. 1014, 86; 1015, 87, 88, 97; 1016, 6, 10.
Maintaining nuisance. 1016, 15, 16, 17.
Trespass on lands. 1017, 21.
Conversion. 1017, 32.
Personal injuries. 1019, 55, 57.
Excessive and inadequate damages. 1020, 75; 1021, 80, 88; 1022, 88; 1024, 89.
Pleading. 1025, 91, 92, 95, 97; 1026, 4, 8, 12.
In general. 1027, 18, 19, 21; 1028, 28, 29.
Evidence in action for personal injuries. 1031, 84.
Instructions. 1032, 96.

DEATH AND SURVIVORSHIP.

Presumption of death. 1033, 13; 1034, 16.

DEATH BY WRONGFUL ACT.

Nature and elements of liability. 1035, 27, 29.
Release or bar. 1036, 43, 45.
Beneficiaries of the right of action. 1038, 70.
Damages. 1038, 74, 77, 85; 1040, 14; 1041, 28.
Remedies and procedure. 1042, 34; 1045, 84.

DECEIT.

Nature and elements. 1046, 97, 99; 1047, 9, 11, 15, 16; 1048, 19, 20, 22.
Actions and procedure. 1048, 24, 29; 1049, 35, 37, 38, 46; 1050, 49.

DEDICATION.

The right to dedicate. 1050, 55.
Mode in general. 1051, 66, 73, 74.
Intention. 1051, 78, 79; 1052, 85.
Acceptance. 1052, 96.
Effect of dedication. 1055, 33, 34, 37.

DEEDS OF CONVEYANCE.

Deeds distinguished from other instruments. 1057, 56, 58.
Requisites. 1058, 73, 75.
Consideration. 1061, 92.
Validity of assent. 1061, 1.
Interpretation and effect; general rules. 1062, 15.
Description of property. 1064, 53.
Quantum of estate. 1066, 73.
Reservation. 1067, 95, 96.

DEFAULTS.

Elements and indicia. 1070, 31, 32, 34, 37, 38, 41, 45.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

Procedure; taking judgment. 1070, 50.
Opening. 1071, 57, 60; 1072, 62, 63, 66, 67, 72.
The motion. 1073, 84, 88, 89.
Appeal. 1073, 92; 1074, 96, 97.

DEPOSITIONS.

Right to take. 1075, 10, 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20.
Procedure to obtain. 1075, 21.
Notice of hearing and attendance. 1076, 31, 36, 37, 38, 39.
Proceedings at hearing. 1077, 44, 45, 57.
Opening and objections; use as evidence. 1078, 71; 1080, 96; 1081, 8.

DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION.

Law governing descent. 1081, 15, 16.
Persons entitled to share or inherit. 1082, 22; 1083, 33, 34.
Inheritable and distributable property. 1085, 58; 1088, 80, 83, 91.
Course of descent and distribution. 1091, 13.

DIRECTING VERDICT AND DEMURRER TO EVIDENCE.

Directing verdict. 1095, 18, 19, 21.
The motion to direct; its effect. 1095, 29.

DISCONTINUANCE, DISMISSAL AND NONSUIT.

Voluntary nonsuit or discontinuance. 1098, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64; 1099, 71.
When right to voluntary nonsuit is lost. 1099, 82.
Discontinuance by operation of law. 1100, 87.
Effect of discontinuance. 1100, 92.
Want of jurisdiction. 1101, 13.
Defect in pleadings; parties. 1101, 15; 1102, 17, 23.
Failure of prosecution. 1102, 30, 31, 32; 1103, 33.
Nonsuit for failure of proof. 1103, 40, 41, 42, 46; 1104, 51, 53, 57.
Motion for nonsuit; effect. 1104, 58, 60, 61; 1105, 63, 64.
Effect of dismissal or nonsuit. 1105, 66; 1103, 71.

DISCOVERY AND INSPECTION.

Production and inspection of books and papers. 1107, 93, 95, 97, 98, 1; 1108, 10, 11, 18.
Examination of party before trial. 1108, 22; 1109, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; 1110, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT.

1111, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64.

DIVORCE.

Jurisdiction and domicile of parties. 1127, 12, 13; 1128, 15.
Cruel treatment. 1129, 35.
Defenses and excuses. 1131, 74.
Collusion. 1131, 86.
Condonement. 1132, 94.
Pleading. 1132, 6; 1133, 13.
Evidence and proof. 1133, 19, 20, 26, 31.
Reference. 1134, 35, 36.
Verdicts and findings. 1134, 38, 39.
New trial. 1134, 48, 50.
Decree, vacation, and modification. 1135, 65.
Costs. 1136, 72.
Review. 1136, 83.
Custody and support of children. 1137, 95, 96.

DOCKETS, CALENDARS AND TRIAL LISTS.

Right to go on calendar. 1140, 45, 47.
Placing cause on calendar. 1141, 53, 54.
Passing or advancing causes. 1141, 58, 59, 62, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69; 1142, 70.
Transfer, correction or striking off. 1142, 74.
Reinstatement and restoration. 1142, 84.

DOMICILE.

Definition and elements. 1142, 86.
Evidence and establishment. 1144, 98, 99.

DOWER.

In what dower may be had. 1144, 13, 19.
Extinguishment, release, bar and revival. 1145, 38; 1146, 41.
Remedies and procedure. 1147, 65, 66.

DURESS.

1147, 75; 1148, 82.

E.

EASEMENTS.

Nature and creation. 1148, 88; 1149, 89, 94, 95.
Creation by prescription. 1150, 12, 13; 1151, 25.
Creation by estoppel. 1151, 30.
Public easements. 1152, 52.
Transfer and assignments. 1154, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97.
Extinguishment and revival. 1155, 4, 9, 18, 19, 21.
Actionable obstructions or violations. 1156, 29, 30; 1157, 47, 49.

EJECTMENT (AND WRIT OF ENTRY).

Cause of action. 1158, 4, 8.
Title in plaintiff. 1158, 16.
Defenses. 1160, 34, 38.
Pleading. 1162, 64.
Evidence. 1162, 70.
Mesne profits and damages. 1165, 12.

ELECTIONS.

Statutory authorization. 1165, 17; 1166, 19.
Time. 1166, 23.
Notices. 1167, 29.
Registration. 1168, 53.
Certificates, declinations and vacancies. 1170, 67.
Use of party name. 1170, 75.
Primary elections. 1170, 79, 81, 82; 1171, 83.
Review and contest of primary. 1171, 91.
Count, canvass and return. 1173, 18, 20; 1174, 23.

ELECTION AND WAIVER.

Of remedies. 1178, 89, 91.
Waiver. 1179, 2, 4.
Acts and indicia of election and waiver. 1179, 6; 1180, 13, 15, 16, 17, 18, 22.
Consequences of an election or waiver. 1180, 23; 1181, 23, 27.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

ELECTRICITY.

Electric franchises. 1182, 7.
Contracts. 1182, 9, 10.
Degree of care. 1183, 17; 1184, 33, 34; 1185, 39.
Actions for injuries. 1185, 43, 45, 47, 48, 49; 1186, 53.

EMINENT DOMAIN.

The power of the state and delegations of it. 1190, 18, 20.
Purposes and uses of a public character. 1191, 30.
Property liable to appropriation. 1192, 41, 42.
Property in actual and necessary use for a public purpose. 1192, 50, 53.
Use or estate which may be exercised. 1193, 63.
What is a "taking" or "injuring" of property. 1193, 67, 68; 1194, 77.
Establishment or vacation of streets. 1195, 79.
Railroads or other ways or structures on city streets. 1195, 92.
Use of rural highways. 1196, 96.
Erection of public viaducts and bridges. 1196, 99.
Right of appropriation as dependent on compensation. 1196, 4.
Measure and sufficiency of compensation. 1198, 33, 35.
Benefits. 1199, 40, 42.
Particular elements of damage. 1200, 61, 62, 63.
Taking rights in public ways. 1200, 70.
Sufficiency of damages. 1200, 71.
Condemnation proceedings in general. 1201, 77, 79, 94, 95.
Applications; petitions; pleadings. 1202, 2, 3.
Commissioners or other tribunal to assess damages. 1202, 11.
Verdict, report or award. 1205, 65.
Costs and expenses. 1205, 67.
Review of condemnation proceedings. 1206, 85, 90.
Actions for tort, damages, or trespass. 1206, 1.
Suits in equity, injunction. 1208, 23, 35.
Payment and distribution of sum awarded. 1209, 40, 41, 48.

EQUITY.

Right to proceed at law or in equity. 1211, 88.
General maxims. 1212, 99, 2.
Existence of an adequate remedy at law. 1214, 11; 1215, 11, 13, 15; 1216, 18.
Doing complete justice. 1216, 23.
Occasions for, and subjects of, equitable relief. 1217, 41, 45, 47.
Multifariousness. 1224, 28; 1225, 28.
Amended and supplemental bills, complaints, or petition. 1226, 44.
Demurrer. 1228, 72.
Trial by jury of special issues. 1232, 45, 46, 47.
Decree, judgment or order in general. 1234, 91.

ESCAPE AND RESCUE.

1237, 34, 35, 36.

ESTATES OF DECEDENTS.

Necessity or occasion for administration and kinds thereof. 1239, 62, 63; 1240, 67, 75, 79.
Jurisdictions and courts controlling administration. 1242, 87, 88; 1243, 93, 94; 1244, 97.
Selection and nomination of persons to administer. 1245, 11; 1246, 20, 23, 24, 25, 26; 1247, 26, 31, 32, 33.
Procedure to obtain administration and grant of letters. 1247, 36.
Security or bond. 1248, 47.
Removals and revocation of letters. 1248, 51; 1249, 53, 57.
Authority, title, interest and relationship of personal representatives. 1250, 71; 1251, 75, 76, 78, 81.
Contracts by administrators and executors. 1251, 84; 1252, 85, 87; 1253, 1.
Conveyances by administrators and executors. 1254, 6.
Investments by administrators and executors. 1254, 10, 11, 12.
Title, interest or right in decedent's property. 1254, 17.
Assets. 1255, 27; 1256, 27; 1257, 39, 41, 43; 1258, 44, 48, 51, 52.
Collection and reduction to possession. 1258, 54, 55, 56, 57; 1259, 58, 62, 64, 66, 67, 68; 1260, 69.
Property allowed widow or children. 1262, 94, 95, 96, 98.
Management, custody, control and disposition of estate. 1264, 13, 14, 15, 20, 21, 22; 1265, 29, 30; 1267, 51, 52.
Claims provable. 1268, 63; 1269, 77, 78.
Exhibition, establishment, allowance and enforcement of claims. 1269, 82; 1270, 89.
Presentation of claims. 1273, 8.
Contests on claims. 1275, 32.
Classification, preferences and priorities. 1276, 50.
Funds, assets, and securities for payment. 1277, 54.
Payment and satisfaction of claims. 1278, 70.
Right to resort to realty. 1278, 73, 74, 78; 1279, 88.
Procedure to obtain order of sale. 1281, 4, 7, 9, 10.
Subjection of property in hands of heirs or beneficiaries to payment of debts. 1283, 41; 1284, 43.
Management of, and dealings with, estate. 1285, 55, 57, 58; 1286, 67, 68; 1287, 84; 1288, 87.
Representative as creditor or debtor. 1290, 21, 23, 25, 26.
Interest on property or funds. 1291, 29, 31, 32, 33, 34.
Allowances for expenses, costs, counsel fees. 1292, 47, 48, 49, 52; 1293, 55, 57, 58, 61; 1294, 68.
Allowances for funeral expenses. 1294, 73, 76.
Rights and liabilities of co-representatives. 1294, 78, 79, 80, 81; 1295, 82, 84, 85, 86, 89.
Compensation. 1296, 92, 93, 94, 95, 3, 5; 1297, 15, 18, 19.
Rights and liabilities of sureties and actions on bonds. 1298, 23; 1299, 44; 1300, 47, 48, 56.
Actions by and against representatives and costs therein. 1301, 64, 68, 69; 1302, 75, 76, 77; 1303, 87; 1304, 1, 3, 6, 7, 9.
The right and duty to account. 1304, 15.
Who may require accounting. 1305, 26, 28, 29.
Scope and contents of account. 1305, 32; 1306, 36.
Procedure on settlement and accounting. 1306, 39, 40, 42, 43; 1307, 46, 52, 53, 57, 58.
The decree or order on settlement and accounting. 1308, 67, 69.
Distribution and disposal of funds. 1310, 87, 89, 93, 95; 1311, 2, 7, 11; 1313, 25, 27, 28, 30; 1314, 39, 40, 44; 1315, 53, 56.
Enforcement of orders and decrees. 1315, 62.
Discharge of personal representatives. 1315, 65; 1316, 68.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note. in Vol. 3 C. L.)

Probate orders and decrees. 1316, 72; 1317, 72, 73; 1318, 76, 77, 78, 79; 1319, 90.
Appeals in probate proceedings. 1321, 98; 1323, 25, 26.
Advancements. 1325, 40, 54.

ESTOPPEL.

General principles. 1327, 80.
By record. 1328, 86.
By deed. 1328, 91, 92.
In pais. 1330, 9, 14; 1331, 15; 1332, 16, 20, 21, 22; 1333, 26.

EVIDENCE.

Judicial notice. 1335, 9, 12; 1336, 15, 23.
Presumptions and burden of proof. 1337, 29, 30, 31; 1338, 35; 1339, 45, 47.
Relevancy and materiality. 1339, 49; 1340, 49; 1341, 50, 51, 52; 1342, 56; 1343, 60, 62, 64, 65; 1344, 77.
Competency or kind of evidence in general. 1345, 81.
Best and secondary evidence. 1345, 84; 1346, 86, 87.
Parol evidence to explain or vary writings. 1348, 98, 99; 1349, 1; 1350, 2, 3; 1352, 8; 1353, 12; 1354, 18, 21; 1355, 22.
Hearsay; general rules. 1356, 24.
Res gestae. 1358, 30; 1359, 35.
Admissions or declarations against interest. 1360, 36, 37; 1361, 38; 1363, 40, 43; 1364, 44.
Private writings. 1366, 60.
Books of account. 1366, 63; 1367, 64, 65, 67, 68, 69.
Public and judicial records and documents. 1368, 73, 74.
Evidence adduced in former proceedings. 1369, 83; 1370, 84, 85.
Conclusions and nonexpert opinions. 1370, 89; 1372, 90, 91.
Subjects of expert testimony. 1374, 97.
Qualification of experts. 1375, 3; 1376, 4.
Basis of expert testimony and examination. 1377, 7, 8; 1379, 18, 21.
Real or demonstrative evidence. 1380, 27; 1381, 29.
Quantity required and probative effect. 1381, 39, 41; 1382, 45, 53, 54, 57; 1383, 58.

EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

General rules. 1383, 66; 1384, 78, 84.
Repetitions. 1385, 91.
Leading questions. 1385, 95.
Refreshing memory. 1386, 11, 14, 22, 23.
Interpreters. 1387, 28.
Responsiveness. 1387, 32.
Cross-examination. 1387, 39; 1388, 40, 45, 47, 49.
Limitation to scope of direct. 1388, 51; 1390, 57.
Limitation to issues. 1390, 64.
Examination going to credibility. 1391, 70; 1392, 72, 74, 75, 77; 1393, 84.
Redirect examination. 1394, 98; 1395, 99, 2, 5, 7, 8.
Recalling of witness. 1396, 13.

EXCHANGES AND BOARDS OF TRADE.

Membership, rights and dealings. 1397, 26, 27.

EXECUTIONS.

Right to have. 1398, 34.
Form and contents of writ. 1399, 64.
Leviable property and order of leviability. 1400, 73; 1401, 86.
Relinquishment and dissolution of levy. 1402, 12.
Release of property. 1402, 15.
Liability for wrongful levy. 1403, 24.
Deeds and title under sales. 1406, 90; 1407, 96, 98, 2.

EXEMPTIONS.

Loss of exemption rights. 1411, 61.

EXPLOSIVES AND INFLAMMABLES.

1413, 83, 84; 1414, 85, 87, 88.

F.

FACTORS.

Relation of factor to consignor. 1416, 21, 26.

FALSE IMPRISONMENT.

What constitutes. 1417, 37.
Persons liable. 1417, 39; 1418, 44, 45.
Justification. 1418, 49.
Damages. 1418, 54, 55.

FALSE PRETENSES AND CHEATS.

Statutory cheats. 1420, 82.
Indictment. 1421, 87, 91.
Evidence and proof. 1422, 95, 96, 98.

FERRIES.

1424, 24, 25.

FINES.

1425, 38.

FIRES.

Rights and duties respecting. 1426, 40.

FISH AND GAME LAWS.

Public control of fish and game. 1428, 74; 1429, 77, 78, 79, 80.
Game laws. 1430, 91.
Private rights in fish and game. 1432, 10.

FIXTURES.

Annexation and intent. 1432, 17.
Title of third persons. 1433, 30, 31, 32.

FOOD.

Validity and construction of statutes. 1434, 42, 43, 44.

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND UNLAWFUL DETAINER.

Procedure in civil actions. 1436, 81, 83; 1437, 88, 91.

FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGES ON LAND.

Costs and attorneys' fees. 1440, 47.
Foreclosure by action and sale. Right of action. 1442, 84, 85, 86, 87.
Parties and process. 1443, 19; 1444, 36; 1445, 42.
Pleading, trial and evidence. 1445, 50, 57.
Decree or judgment. 1447, 79.
Sale after judgment. 1448, 9; 1449, 13, 15, 17, 18.
Deficiency and liability therefor. 1450, 42.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 3 C. L.)

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

Status, privileges and regulation. 1456, 51.
Operation and construction of statutes. 1457, 62, 64, 65.
Noncompliance with statutes; effect. 1458, 72, 75; 1459, 79.
Powers. 1461, 96.
Right to sue. 1462, 6, 8, 10, 11.
Liability to be sued. 1463, 15, 16.
Jurisdiction of courts. 1463, 20, 22, 24; 1464, 25.
Service of process. 1464, 29; 1465, 31.
Limitations. 1466, 42.

FOREIGN JUDGMENTS.

Recognition and mode of proving. 1466, 47; 1467, 49.
Matters adjudicated and concluded. 1467, 54.
Actions on. 1467, 62.

FORGERY.

Defenses. 1473, 46.
Presumptions and evidence. 1474, 68, 70, 71; 1475, 80.

FORMER ADJUDICATION.

Doctrine in general. 1477, 3, 4; 1478, 4, 6; 1479, 6.
Bar of causes of action or defenses. 1480, 12, 13; 1481, 18, 19; 1482, 23, 24.
Scope of adjudication. 1482, 30; 1483, 31, 36; 1484, 40.
As estoppel of facts litigated. 1484, 48, 49; 1485, 49, 50, 51; 1486, 51; 1487, 52; 1488, 71.
Pleading and proof. 1488, 80; 1489, 92, 97, 99.

FORMS OF ACTION.

1494, 33, 35, 36, 39; 1495, 41, 45, 46, 48.

FRANCHISES.

Definition and elements. 1495, 53; 1496, 56.
Grant and regulation of exercise. 1496, 58, 59; 1497, 69.
Powers and duties under. 1498, 80.
Revocation and forfeiture. 1499, 103.

FRATERNAL MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATIONS.

Application. 1504, 67, 69; 1505, 82.
Nature and construction of contract. 1505, 90; 1506, 94, 98, 99.
Charter and by-laws as part of contract. 1507, 3; 1508, 14, 16, 18, 19, 20, 21; 1509, 32, 37, 40; 1510, 42, 44.
Forfeiture and suspensions; reinstatement. 1511, 55.
Assignment of benefits. 1514, 6, 8; 1515, 14, 15.
Maturity and accrual of benefits. 1517, 43.
Payment of benefits. 1517, 55, 56; 1518, 56, 59.
Procedure to enforce right. 1519, 82; 1520, 87.

FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE.

Actual fraud. 1520, 97, 98; 1521, 1; 1522, 5.
Legal fraud. 1523, 14, 15.
The evidence. 1523, 19; 1524, 19, 21.
Inferences from circumstances and condition of parties. 1525, 33.
Remedies. 1526, 43, 44; 1527, 50, 51.

FRAUDS, STATUTE OF.

Promise to answer for debt or default of another. 1528, 63, 65, 67.
Agreements in consideration of marriage. 1528, 70.
Agreements with real estate brokers. 1528, 74.
Agreements respecting real property. 1529, 83; 1530, 83, 90.
Writing. 1531, 9, 11, 12; 1532, 15.
Operation and effect of statute. 1532, 28, 31; 1533, 41, 44.
Pleading and proof. 1534, 50, 53, 54.

FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES.

The fraud and its elements. 1535, 2; 1536, 8.
Consideration. 1537, 32.
Reservation of benefits and resulting trusts. 1539, 56.
Intent. 1539, 58, 61; 1540, 63.
Fraud of grantee or notice. 1541, 79.
Relationship of parties. 1542, 87.
Rights and liabilities of persons claiming under fraudulent grantees. 1545, 34.
Extent of grantee's liability. 1545, 39.
Remedies of creditors. 1545, 49, 50; 1546, 52, 58.

G.

GAMBLING CONTRACTS.

Rights and remedies of parties. 1549, 5, 6, 7, 8.

GARNISHMENT.

Persons liable to garnishment. 1552, 41.

GAS.

Torts and crimes. 1559, 49.

GIFTS.

Validity and requisites. 1560, 62, 63; 1561, 66, 68, 72, 73.

GRAND JURY.

Qualification and challenge. 1562, 90, 91, 92.
Proceedings. 1563, 5, 6, 7, 8, 12.

GUARANTY.

What constitutes. 1564, 30.
Form and requisites of the contract. 1565, 36.
Interpretation in general. 1566, 43.
Defenses and discharge. 1567, 54.

GUARDIANS AT LITEM AND NEXT FRIENDS.

Necessity or occasion. 1567, 66.
Qualification and appointment. 1568, 80.
Powers, duties, rights and liabilities. 1569, 88.

GUARDIANSHIP.

Appointment, qualification and tenure of guardian. 1569, 99.
Ward's property and administration thereof. 1573, 70, 71.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol 3 C. L.)

Rights and liabilities between guardian and ward. 1575, 97.

H

HABEAS CORPUS (AND REPLEGIANDO).

Nature of the remedy and occasion therefor. 1576, 18, 21, 27, 28, 29; 1578, 45.
Certiorari in aid of habeas corpus. 1578, 60, 61, 62.
Hearing and determination on return. 1578, 64, 71; 1579, 75.

HARMLESS AND PREJUDICIAL ERROR.

General doctrine. 1580, 90, 96; 1581, 98, 99.
Triviality constituting harmlessness. 1583, 14, 16; 1584, 16, 18; 1585, 21, 25, 30; 1586, 32, 34; 1588, 46, 47.
Errors cured or made harmless. 1588, 50; 1589, 52, 53, 56, 58; 1590, 59.

HEALTH.

Validity and construction of health regulations. 1591, 66, 69.
Health boards and officers. 1591, 78.

HIGHWAYS AND STREETS.

Definitions and classifications. 1594, 3.
Establishment by dedication. 1595, 15.
Establishment by prescription. 1596, 28.
Occasion or necessity for road; objections. 1597, 46.
Location. 1597, 54, 58, 59; 1598, 62, 63, 67, 69, 71; 1599, 83.
Taking and compensation. 1599, 89, 91, 92.
Property acquired. 1600, 95.
Appeal or other review of proceedings to establish. 1600, 1, 5, 7.
Ascertainment and resurvey. 1601, 10.
Alterations and extensions. 1601, 18, 22, 25, 26.
Change of grade. 1602, 30, 31, 33, 36.
Improvement and repair. 1603, 54, 55; 1604, 64, 70.
Abandonment and diminution. 1605, 74, 81, 82.
Vacation. 1606, 86, 87, 89, 92, 97.
Street and highway officers and districts. 1607, 7.
Fiscal affairs. 1607, 13.
Control and public regulations. 1608, 24, 25, 28; 1609, 33, 40, 41; 1610, 46, 51.
Rights of public use. 1610, 55, 60; 1611, 62, 65, 66, 67; 1612, 67, 78, 80; 1613, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84.
Rights of abutters. 1614, 91, 92, 1, 2.
Ownership of fee. 1615, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9.
Liability of municipalities for defects. 1616, 20, 23, 24; 1617, 30.
Notice of defect. 1618, 42.
Sidewalks. 1619, 56; 1620, 61.
Barriers, railings, and signals. 1620, 64, 65.
Snow and ice. 1621, 75, 76, 77.
Defects created or permitted by abutting owners and others. 1621, 80, 82, 83; 1622, 91.
Remote and proximate cause of injury. 1623, 9.
Contributory negligence of person injured. 1623, 12; 1624, 14.
Notice of claim for injury and intent to sue. 1625, 26; 1626, 27, 28.
Actions for injuries. 1627, 42.
Injury to, obstruction, or encroachment. 1629, 65, 68, 59, 74.

HOMICIDE.

Elements of crime and parties thereto. 1644, 86.
Murder. 1644, 88; 1645, 98, 99.
Manslaughter. 1646, 10.
Justification and excuse. 1647, 27; 1648, 29.
Indictment or information. 1650, 59; 1651, 71.
Presumptions and burden of proof. 1651, 75, 77.
Admissibility of evidence. 1656, 14.
Justification. 1656, 21, 23; 1657, 30, 31, 32, 34, 35; 1658, 48.
Dying declarations. 1658, 50.
Sufficiency of evidence. 1660, 73, 74; 1661, 84, 86.
Instructions. 1663, 4, 5, 8; 1664, 10, 11, 16; 1665, 18, 19; 1667, 30; 1668, 38.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

Disabilities of coverture. 1670, 56.
Mutual duties, obligations, etc. 1670, 64.
Contracts or other dealings. 1671, 83, 90; 1672, 97.
Liability for necessaries. 1680, 24, 25, 27, 30, 31, 33, 34, 38.
Contract rights and liabilities of husband. 1681, 46.
Contract and property rights and liabilities of wife. 1681, 50; 1682, 61; 1685, 12, 15, 20.
Torts by husband or wife. 1686, 24.
Torts against husband or wife. 1686, 26, 27.
Remedies and procedure affected by coverture. 1688, 62, 69.

I.

IMPLIED CONTRACTS.

Services or material furnished. 1690, 96, 97, 4; 1691, 9, 12, 18, 20, 22, 23; 1692, 25.
Moneys had, received or paid. 1692, 27; 1693, 45, 46, 48.
Use and occupation. 1695, 65.
Remedies and procedure. 1695, 75.

INCOMPETENCY.

Mental weakness constituting. 1696, 93; 1697, 99.

INDECENCY, LEWDNESS AND OBSCENITY.

1697, 11, 12.

INDEMNITY.

Definition and distinctions. 1698, 29.
The contract. 1698, 35.
Interpretation and effect. 1699, 43; 1700, 50.
Actions on contract. 1701, 61.
Defenses. 1701, 67, 73, 74, 75.
Independent contractors. 1702, 88; 1703, 89, 90, 92, 93, 94; 1704, 5.

VOLUME FOUR.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

I.

INDICTMENT AND PROSECUTION.

Jurisdiction. 2, 11, 13; 3, 16.
Necessity of indictment. 5, 51.
Requisites and sufficiency of the accusation. 8, 95; 9, 11; 17; 10, 30.
Issues, proof and variance. 13, 80.
Defects, defenses and objections. 13, 91; 14, 93, 94, 97, 1; 16, 33, 38, 41, 42.
Duplicity. 17, 63.
Conviction of lesser degrees and included offenses. 19, 92.
Preparation for, and matters preliminary to, trial. 21, 43.
Postponement of trial. 22, 47.
Dismissal or nolle prosequi before trial. 24, 77.
Presumptions and burden of proof. 25, 13; 26, 16.
Relevancy and competency in general. 26, 21; 27, 25.
Flight of accused. 28, 59.
Other offenses, convictions and acquittals. 29, 68, 69, 70.
Confessions. 34, 22, 23.
Acts and declarations of co-conspirators. 34, 31.
Expert and opinion evidence. 36, 60; 38, 70.
Documentary evidence. 39, 89.
Accomplice testimony. 40, 95.
Demonstrative evidence. 40, 4.
Quantity required and probative effect. 42, 36, 41; 43, 51.
Conduct of trial in general. 44, 63; 46, 98.
Arguments and conduct of counsel. 47, 14, 18.
Requests to charge. 51, 73; 52, 75; 53, 85.
Form of instructions in general. 54, 8.
Invading province of jury. 55, 21; 56, 25, 33.
Form and propriety of particular charges. 56, 41; 57, 49; 58, 56, 61.
Sentence and judgment. 65, 86.
Necessity of objection, motion or exception. 66, 14; 68, 36, 37.
Waiver of objection. 68, 42, 45.
Trivial or immaterial error. 70, 79, 80; 71, 85; 72, 96; 74, 9, 11, 13.
Cure of error. 74, 18; 75, 27, 32.
Right of review. 76, 44.
Adjudications which may be reviewed. 76, 59.
Scope of review. 86, 94; 88, 23, 27, 28; 89, 35.
Decision and judgment of the reviewing court. 90, 44.
Summary prosecutions. 90, 52.
Review of summary prosecutions. 91, 75.

INFANTS.

Statutes for the protection of infants. 92, 14.
Contracts. 94, 33.
Actions by and against. 94, 45, 46; 95, 51, 62; 96, 63, 65, 68.

INJUNCTION.

Nature of remedy and grounds therefor. 97, 76, 81; 98, 81.
Restraining actions or proceedings. 102, 26.
Restraining public, official, and municipal acts. 102, 28; 103, 43.
Acts affecting rights in highways and public places. 105, 64.
Acts of quasi public and private corporations. 106, 81.
Breach or enforcement of contract or of trust. 107, 90.
Interference with property, business, or comfort. 107, 1; 108, 10; 109, 19.
Crimes. 111, 60; 112, 77; 113, 88.
Preliminary injunction, issuance. 113, 93; 114, 93, 94; 116, 7, 8, 12, 13, 14.
Dissolution, modification, or continuance; reinstatement. 118, 46, 48, 49, 50; 119, 62, 63.
Damages on dissolution, and liability on bond. 119, 65, 66, 67; 120, 68, 70, 74; 121, 78.
Violation and punishment. 122, 1, 10; 123, 16.

INNS, RESTAURANTS AND LODGING HOUSES.

Liability for effects. 124, 27, 28.
Public regulation; licenses. 125, 40.

INQUEST OF DEATH.

125, 45, 47.

INSANE PERSONS.

Inquisitions. 126, 61; 127, 64, 65.
Contracts and conveyances. 129, 99.
Actions by or against. 129, 9.

INSTRUCTIONS.

Object and purpose. 133, 63.
Duty of instructing. 134, 81; 135, 84, 86.
Requests for instructions. 136, 95, 96.
Disposition of requests. 136, 7; 137, 15.
Repetition. 137, 17.
Charging with respect to matters of fact. 141, 35.
Form of instruction. 143, 53; 145, 65.
Relation to pleading and evidence. 146, 68.
Ignoring material evidence, theories, and defenses. 149, 94.
Giving undue prominence to evidence, issues and theories. 150, 2.
Review. 155, 81; 156, 85; 157, 91, 94.

INSURANCE.

Corporations and associations. 160, 20, 21, 22, 23; 161, 33, 34, 35.
Foreign insurers and companies. 162, 40, 41, 43, 49; 163, 50, 51, 53, 54, 55.
Rights and liabilities of agents. 164, 66; 166, 83, 84.
Insurable interests, fire insurance. 166, 88, 89.
The contract of insurance in general. 168, 5.
Construction. 170, 27, 29, 30, 36; 171, 39, 40, 43; 172, 53.
Premiums, etc., and payment. 174, 79; 175, 85; 176, 5.
Warranties, conditions and representations. 178, 30, 33; 179, 38, 39; 180, 50, 51; 181, 53.
Warranties, conditions, etc., fire insurance. 182, 60, 66; 183, 70; 184, 79, 81, 82.
Warranties, conditions, etc., life insurance. 184, 88.
Warranties, conditions, etc., accident insurance. 185, 98, 99.
Warranties, conditions, etc., insurance against embezzlement. 185, 1.
The risk or object of indemnity. 186, 3; 187, 16, 20; 188, 27, 28.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

The beneficiary and the insured. 189, 46, 50; 191, 65, 68; 192, 70.
Assignments. 193, 99, 1; 194, 4, 8, 15.
Assignments, fire insurance. 196, 21.
Cancellation by agreement. 196, 25.
Rescission for breach of contract, condition, or warranty. 198, 56.
Estoppel or waiver of right to cancel or avoid. 201, 82, 83; 202, 93, 94, 97; 205, 17; 206, 27.
Concurrent insurance. 208, 55, 60, 61.
Reinsurance. 209, 69.
Notice, claim, and proof of loss. 213, 23, 25, 26, 30; 214, 36; 215, 56, 57.
Adjustment and arbitration. 218, 89, 96, 4; 219, 7, 8.
Rights of action and defenses. 221, 45.
Parties. 222, 57.
Limitation of actions. 222, 62, 63; 223, 65, 70, 71, 72, 74, 75; 224, 82.
Pleading. 224, 88; 225, 89, 93.
Burden of proof. 227, 16, 27.
Evidence. 227, 31; 228, 32, 33, 34, 36, 44; 229, 50; 230, 54.
Questions for the jury. 230, 63; 231, 70.
Costs and penalties. 232, 87.

INTEREST.

Right to interest. 242, 69.
Interest as damages. 243, 78, 80, 83, 85.

INTERNAL REVENUE LAWS.

Legacies. 249, 73.

INTERPLEADER.

Nature of remedy and right to it. 250, 93, 96; 251, 7, 8, 13, 15, 16.
Procedure and relief. 252, 24, 27, 29.

INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

Local option laws. 256, 81; 257, 93, 94, 95; 258, 2, 6, 8, 11.
Application for and granting license. 260, 40, 47, 48.
Bonds. 262, 78, 80, 82, 83.
Surrender, transfer, or revocation. 264, 7, 9, 13.
Prohibition of sale at certain times. 265, 38; 266, 43, 44, 45.
Action for penalties. 267, 75.
Offenses and responsibility therefor in general. 268, 88.
Admissibility of evidence. 275, 94.
Weight and sufficiency of evidence. 276, 8.
Trial. 276, 20.
Abatement of traffic and injunction. 277, 32.
Civil damage laws. 278, 52, 53.

J.

JOINT ADVENTURES.

280, 77, 80.

JUDGES.

The office. 281, 89, 91, 92.
Salary. 281, 3.
Special, substitute, and assistant judges. 282, 10.
Disqualification in particular cases. 285, 72.
Removal. 286, 89; 287, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97.

JUDGMENTS.

Judgment on offer, consent, or confession. 288, 8, 9, 10.
At particular stages of the action. 289, 32.
Final and interlocutory judgments. 289, 34, 36.
Personam or in rem. 289, 41; 290, 46, 47.
Requisites; in general. 290, 55, 56; 291, 59, 60, 61.
Parties. 291, 72.
Conformity to process, pleading, proof, etc. 292, 77, 79; 293, 82, 89, 93.
Form and interpretation. 294, 99, 1, 3, 5, 10; 295, 11, 15, 19.
Rendition, entry and docketing. 298, 49.
Opening, amending, vacating, etc. 299, 75, 76, 80, 81; 302, 20, 21, 24; 303, 30, 36, 38; 309, 10, 11; 310, 24, 26, 28.
Collateral attack. 312, 59, 63; 313, 74.
Lien. 315, 91; 316, 8, 13.
Suspension, dormancy and revival. 316, 17, 18; 317, 29, 40.
Payment, discharge and satisfaction. 320, 78.

JUDICIAL SALES.

Sale and conduct of it. 321, 13.
Confirmation and setting aside. 322, 38, 39, 40.
Completion of sale; deeds. 323, 64, 65, 66.

JURISDICTION.

Elements and constituents in general. 326, 98, 3.
Legislative power respecting. 328, 17.
Territorial limitations. 328, 22.
Situs of subject-matter or status of litigants. 329, 34, 35, 39; 330, 40, 45, 47; 331, 55.
Amount or value in controversy. 331, 59; 333, 75.
Character of subject-matter or object of action. 334, 88, 92; 335, 99, 2.
Exclusive, concurrent and conflicting. 336, 19; 337, 30, 31.
Inferior and limited. 338, 41, 43; 339, 48, 49, 50.
Appellate jurisdiction. 340, 74.
Acquisition and divestiture. 355, 57, 63; 356, 66, 68.
Objections to jurisdiction and presumptions. 356, 83; 357, 86, 89, 90, 91, 96.

JURY.

Jury trial under the constitution. 359, 9; 361, 32.
Jury trial in cases not covered by constitution. 361, 41, 43.
Loss or waiver of right to jury trial. 362, 50; 363, 66, 67.
Peremptory challenges. 370, 90.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

The office. 373, 10.
Civil jurisdiction. 374, 27; 375, 44.
Procedure in justices' courts. 377, 79, 80; 378, 10, 13; 379, 26; 380, 43; 381, 69.
Appeal and error. 384, 26, 27; 385, 43; 386, 53, 54.

L.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Creation of the relation. 389, 24; 390, 28, 30, 31, 33, 45; 391, 49, 50.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Construction of leases and proof of the terms of tenancy. 391, 52, 53, 54, 55, 57, 59; 60, 63, 64, 66; 392, 69.
Periodical tenancies. 392, 77, 81.
Tenancy at will. 392, 86.
Reversion. 393, 98, 1.
Right of re-entry and control. 393, 5, 6, 7, 9.
Estoppel of tenant to deny title. 394, 11, 14.
Occupation and enjoyment. 394, 19, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28; 395, 29, 30, 35, 36.
Assignment and subletting. 395, 38, 47, 48; 396, 50, 52, 53.
Repairs and improvements. 396, 57, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 69, 70.
Insurance and taxes. 397, 78, 79, 80, 81.
Injuries from defects and dangerous condition. 397, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91, 93; 398, 93, 1.
Emblements and fixtures. 398, 16, 17; 399, 20.
Rent and the payment thereof. 399, 32, 35, 37.
Defenses, set-offs and reductions. 400, 41, 42, 43, 46, 49, 50, 51, 53, 54, 55.
Termination of tenancy. 401. 67, 70, 71, 76, 79, 85; 402, 86, 87, 89, 90, 94, 96, 98, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7.
Destruction of premises. 402, 9.
Notice to vacate and demand of possession. 403, 24, 27.
Renewal under express agreement. 404, 42.
Holding over without agreement. 405, 53, 55.
Landlord's remedies for recovery of rent. 405, 61, 62, 68; 406, 68, 69, 70, 73, 74.
Remedies for recovery of premises. 408, 10, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 24, 29, 30; 409, 37, 40, 46, 48.
Liability of third persons. 410, 53, 59.

LARCENY.

Common law larceny. 410, 2, 3; 411, 3, 6, 7.
Statutory larceny, theft, etc. 412, 24.
Admissibility of evidence. 415, 49.

LIBEL AND SLANDER.

Actionable words in general. 419, 99.
Imputing crime or want of chastity. 419, 3, 4.
Exposing to contempt or ridicule. 420, 8.
Injuring in business or occupation. 420, 11, 12; 421, 15.
Disparagement of property or title. 421, 18.
Justification. 423, 50.
Actual or compensatory damages. 423, 56.
Punitive or exemplary damages. 423, 60; 424, 62.
Mitigation of damages. 424, 70, 72.
Pleading; declaration, complaint, or petition. 425, 87, 92.
Plea or answer. 426, 2, 3.
Demurrer. 426, 8.
Issues, proof and variance. 426, 11, 13.
Evidence. 426, 15; 427, 17, 18, 19.

LICENSES.

Power to require. 429, 40.
Effect of failure to obtain. 432, 83.

LICENSES TO ENTER ON LAND.

Rights and liabilities of licensees. 433, 3.

LIENS.

Statutory liens. 435, 31.
Waiver, extinguishment, discharge and revival. 436, 51.

LIFE ESTATES, REVERSIONS AND REMAINDERS.

Nature and definitions. 439, 91; 441, 13.
Mutual and relative rights and remedies. 441, 20; 442, 26, 27, 29; 443, 46.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS.

Validity, interpretation and law governing. 447, 7.
Period of limitation. 449, 29, 31, 33; 450, 34, 37, 42, 43.
Disability and exceptions. 451, 46, 47, 52, 60; 452, 62, 67; 453, 70, 71, 75.
Accrual of cause of action. 453, 79; 454, 79, 83, 86; 457, 8.
Tolling. 459, 25, 28.
Commencement of action. 459, 40; 461, 54.
Revival of obligation. 463, 79, 84.
Pleading and evidence. 465, 18, 20; 466, 23.

LIS PENDENS.

Statutory lis pendens. 468, 55.
Continuity. 468, 61, 62, 63.

LOTTERIES.

What constitutes. 469, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73; 470, 74.

M.

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION AND ABUSE OF PROCESS.

The prosecution of the plaintiff. 485, 25.
Want of reasonable and probable cause. 491, 91, 92; 492, 97; 493, 14, 16.
Malice. 499, 94.
Advice of counsel or magistrate. 501, 22.
Damages. 505, 84.
Practice and pleading. 505, 93.

MANDAMUS.

Nature and office of remedy. 507, 9; 508, 16, 18; 509, 29.
Enforcing administrative and legislative functions. 512, 49; 513, 51; 514, 51, 52; 515, 55; 516, 58, 60; 517, 71; 518, 74, 79.
Enforcing quasi public and private duties. 519, 91.
Jurisdiction. 520, 1, 4.
Parties. 521, 17; 522, 22.
Alternative writ. 524, 41.
Trial and hearing. 526, 65.
Abatement and dismissal. 526, 71.
Costs. 527, 79, 80.
Review. 528, 92, 96.

MARRIAGE.

Nature of marriage, capacity of parties, fraud, and duress. 528, 4.
Formal essentials of a valid contract. 529, 11, 12, 15; 530, 20.
Validity and effect. 530, 33, 34; 531, 37.
Proceedings for annulment. 531, 42, 43, 44, 46, 47, 49.

MASTER AND SERVANT.

The relation and statutory regulations. 533, 6.
Termination of the relation. 534, 12, 16.
Actions for wrongful discharge. 534, 23; 535, 26, 29; 536, 37, 38, 39, 40.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Actions for breach by employer. 536, 43.
Labor laws. 537, 45, 50.
Compensation. 537, 53, 54; 538, 54, 56, 58, 59, 60, 61, 64, 65, 66; 539, 66, 70.
Master's liability for injuries to servants, in general. 541, 5, 11; 542, 14, 16.
Master liable for injuries only when relation exists. 542, 19; 543, 25, 26; 544, 27, 28.
Master's negligence proximate cause of servant's injuries. 544, 36; 545, 36.
Contractual exemption from liability for injuries. 545, 42.
Tools, machinery, appliances. 546, 48; 547, 55, 56; 548, 63, 66; 549, 68, 70; 550, 76.
Places for work. 552, 5, 6, 9.
Methods of work, rules and regulations. 554, 24, 25, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Warning and instructing servant. 555, 40; 556, 51.
Fellow-servants. 558, 72; 559, 73, 74, 75.
Common-law rules as to fellow-servants. 560, 84; 561, 88; 564, 95, 96; 565, 2, 6.
Employers' Liability Acts. 567, 11.
Risks assumed by servant. Nature of defense. 569, 25.
Dangers incidental to business. 570, 33.
Known or obvious dangers. 572, 43, 44; 574, 47, 49.
Assumption of risk; reliance on care of master. 575, 60.
Reliance on promise to repair, after complaint. 577, 71; 578, 74, 77.
Degree of care required of servant. 580, 94; 581, 3.
Choice of methods. 581, 6, 7.
Actions by servant for injuries; in general. 584, 32; 585, 35, 36, 37.
Pleading and issues in servant's action for injuries. 588, 67, 69; 589, 69; 590, 75, 76.
Burden of proof and presumptions in servant's action for injuries. 591, 79, 83, 84; 592, 85, 86, 88.
Admissibility of evidence in servant's action for injuries. 593, 95, 96; 594, 2; 595, 2; 596, 2, 4; 597, 5, 8, 10, 13; 598, 16.
Sufficiency of evidence in servant's action for injuries. 598, 21; 599, 21, 23; 600, 24, 25; 601, 25, 29, 31; 602, 31; 603, 33; 604, 33; 605, 33, 35.
Instructions in servant's action for injuries. 607, 47, 48.
Liability for injuries to third persons. 608, 58, 59; 609, 63, 64; 610, 66, 67.
Actions by third persons for injuries. 611, 82, 84, 87.

MECHANICS' LIENS.

Properties and estates therein which may be subjected. 619, 95; 620, 6.
Contract supporting the lien in general. 621, 20, 21.
Contracts by vendors, purchasers, lessors, and lessees. 621, 27, 28; 622, 34, 35, 36, 37.
Notice and demand, statement of claim and affidavit. 623, 47, 48, 49; 624, 63, 64, 65.
Service of notice on owner. 626, 92, 93, 94.
Amount of lien and priority thereof. 628, 18, 22; 629, 29, 30, 31, 32.
Discharge and satisfaction. 630, 50.
Remedies and procedure to enforce. 632, 77.
Judgment. 634, 9.

MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

Regulation of the keeping and sale of drugs. 638, 50.
Recovery of compensation. 638, 55.
Actions for malpractice. 639, 71.

MISTAKE AND ACCIDENT.

Definitions; elements. 674, 20.
Relief against. 675, 26; 676, 32.
Procedure to obtain relief. 676, 38, 41.

MORTGAGES.

Nature and elements. 677, 53, 54; 678, 64; 679, 70.
General requisites and validity. 679, 73; 681, 5, 6, 10.
Absolute deed as mortgage. 682, 27, 29, 32; 683, 42, 43, 44, 48, 51.
Equitable mortgages. 685, 76, 83.
Title and rights of parties. 690, 55, 59, 60, 61, 71; 691, 85; 692, 86, 87, 90, 94; 693, 13.
Lien and priorities. 694, 20, 22, 23, 28.
Assignment. 696, 41, 45, 47, 50, 51, 52, 53.
Transfer of title and assumption of debt. 698, 83, 85, 87.
Transfer of premises to mortgagee. 698, 92, 93, 94.
Merger. 698, 2.
Payment, release or satisfaction. 699, 6, 7, 9; 700, 25, 31; 701, 41, 56.

MOTIONS AND ORDERS.

Stage of case when proper. 704, 10.
The moving papers. 704, 13.
Notice. 704, 19, 20, 21, 22.
Hearing and rehearing. 705, 26.
Relief. 705, 27.
On a default. 705, 28, 29, 30, 31.
Motion may be renewed. 705, 37, 38.
The order. 705, 40, 43, 44, 46.
Motion costs. 706, 61.

MUNICIPAL BONDS.

Power to issue. 707, 70, 76, 77.
Limitation of indebtedness. 708, 94.
Assent of voters or taxpayers. 710, 18.
Providing for payment. 712, 45.
Form and requisites. 712, 53.
Issue and sale. 712, 60; 713, 65.
Rights and liabilities arising out of illegal issue. 713, 74.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.

Nature, attributes and elements. 721, 62, 64, 65.
Consolidation, succession, and dissolution. 722, 82.
The territory. 724, 10, 12.
Officers and employes, in general. 725, 27, 31.
Election or appointment of officers. 725, 35.
Term of office or employment. 726, 44.
Transfer of officers on amendment or adoption of new charter. 726, 48, 49.
Removal of officers; reductions and reinstatement. 726, 52, 56, 58, 60; 727, 64.
Compensation of officers. 727, 67, 68, 71, 72, 78, 80.
Municipal records. 728, 88.
Legislative control. 728, 97.
Delegation of powers. 730, 21.
Mandatory and directory powers. 731, 31.
Judicial control over exercise of powers. 731, 33.
Meetings, votes, rules and procedure. 733, 56.
Records and journals. 733, 62, 63.
Amendment, suspension, and repeal of ordinances. 735, 87.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Construction and operation of ordinances. 735, 92.
Administrative functions. 736, 11, 12, 13, 14; 737, 16, 17.
Regulations for public protection. 738, 48.
Regulation and inspection of business. 739, 61, 70.
Definition of offenses and regulation of criminal procedure. 740, 84.
Property and public places. 742, 5, 8, 15; 743, 16, 17, 18, 19, 21.
Mode of contracting and proof. 744, 36, 39.
Construction and effect of contracts. 745, 43, 44, 47.
Ultra vires contracts. 745, 51, 52.
Fiscal affairs and management. 746, 66; 747, 75.
Torts and crimes. 748, 90; 749, 93, 96, 99; 750, 5, 6, 9, 10, 13, 14.
Claims and demands. 751, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28; 752, 40.
Warrants and judgments. 752, 42; 753, 48.
Actions by and against. 753, 56.

N.

NAMES, SIGNATURES AND SEALS.

Business names, 755, 19.

NAVIGABLE WATERS.

What are navigable. 757, 48, 49, 51.
Relative, private and public rights. 758, 54, 55; 759, 73, 74; 760, 84.
Regulation, control and use. 760, 88, 90; 761, 94, 95.
Wharves. 762, 15, 16, 17, 18; 763, 19, 20, 21.

NEGLIGENCE.

Definitions. 765, 93.
Personal conduct in general. 767, 16, 17.
Use of property in general. 768, 23, 25, 27, 28.
Use of lands, buildings and other structures. 768, 30; 769, 30, 31, 34; 770, 35, 37, 38, 39, 40.
Proximate cause. 771, 43, 47; 772, 52.
Contributory negligence. 773, 56, 58; 775, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72.
Comparative negligence. 775, 75.
Last clear chance doctrine. 776, 81.
Imputed negligence. 777, 85, 86; 778, 92; 779, 94.
Pleading and issues. 780, 10; 782, 33.
Evidence. 783, 41.
Presumptions and burden of proof. 783, 47; 784, 55, 57, 62.
Questions of law and fact. 785, 68, 69; 786, 69.
Instructions. 786, 74, 77; 787, 82.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

Elements and indicia. 788, 90, 91, 92.
Form and interpretation. 790, 27, 29, 31; 791, 35.
Liabilities and discharge of primary parties. 793, 83, 87; 794, 96, 98, 1; 795, 6.
Liabilities and discharge of anomalous parties. 795, 20.
Negotiation and transfer generally. 796, 29.
Acceptance. 797, 46, 47, 56.
Indorsement. 798, 67, 70, 72; 799, 91, 92.
Presentment and demand. 800, 99, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11.
Protest and notice thereof. 801, 14, 22, 23, 28, 32, 33; 802, 34.
Accommodation paper. 802, 39, 43, 47; 803, 48, 50, 51, 52.
The doctrine of bona fides. 803, 64; 804, 69, 80, 87, 88; 805, 95, 6; 806, 13, 14, 15, 18.
Remedies and procedure peculiar. 807, 26, 42; 808, 49, 61; 809, 71, 75, 81; 810, 87, 91.

NEWSPAPERS.

810, 94, 95, 96.

NEW TRIAL AND ARREST OF JUDGMENT.

Nature of the remedy by new trial and right to it. 811, 9, 11, 12, 15, 17.
Rulings and instructions at trial. 813, 58.
Misconduct of or affecting jury. 814, 73.
Verdict or findings contrary to law or evidence. 815, 96, 98, 1, 4; 816, 4, 9; 817, 25; 818, 41.
Surprise, accident or mistake. 818, 43, 44, 45; 819, 56.
Newly-discovered evidence. 819, 63, 64; 820, 66, 68, 69, 70; 821, 73, 75, 76, 77, 79, 86, 87.
Proceedings to procure new trial. 822, 96; 825, 48, 56, 59.
Arrest of judgment. 827, 87.

NON-NEGOTIABLE PAPER.

827, 93; 828, 5.

NOTICE AND RECORD OF TITLE.

Bona fide purchasers and the doctrine of notice. 829, 28; 830, 35, 39, 41, 47, 48; 831, 52, 54; 832, 56.
Statutory records or filings as constructive notice. 833, 77.
Deed and mortgage records: eligibility to record. 833, 80.
Necessity, operation and effect of recording. 834, 90, 93.
Sufficiency, operation and effect of record. 836, 20, 23.

NOVATION.

Definition and elements. 838, 54, 55, 59; 839, 61.

NUISANCE.

What constitutes. 839, 69; 840, 78; 841, 78, 83; 842, 83, 85, 86; 843, 91, 93, 94, 95, 96, 98.
Right to maintain; defenses. 844, 2, 3, 7.
Injunction. 846, 33; 847, 50; 848, 56, 59, 63, 64.
Action for damages. 850, 88; 851, 98; 852, 8, 17; 853, 18.

O.

OFFICERS AND PUBLIC EMPLOYES.

Definitions and distinctions. 854, 42, 43, 44, 48.
The appointing power. 855, 56, 57, 61, 62.
Eligibility and qualifications. 856, 68, 69, 73.
Civil service. 856, 79, 80, 81, 83, 84.
Appointment or employment. 857, 86, 94, 97, 98; 858, 2.
Nature of tenure and duration of term. 858, 6, 7, 8, 10; 859, 12, 18, 21, 22, 24; 860, 25, 26, 28, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37; 861, 38, 45.
Proceedings to try title to office. 861, 50; 862, 52.
Powers and duties. 863, 67, 68, 70; 864, 82, 84, 85, 87, 88, 89, 90; 865, 94.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Compensation. 865, 99; 866, 8; 867, 18, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26; 868, 33.
Liabilities. 869, 36, 48.
Official bonds and liability thereon. 870, 54, 55; 871, 69.

P.

PARDONS AND PAROLES.

872, 3.

PARENT AND CHILD.

Support and necessaries. 873, 24; 874, 32, 35.
Property rights and dealings between parent and child. 875, 52.
Liability for child's torts. 875, 54.

PARTIES.

Definition and classes. 889, 44.
Who may or must sue. 889, 48; 890, 54, 57.
Joinder of parties plaintiff. 891, 67.
Who may or must be sued. 892, 72; 893, 74.
Joinder of parties defendant. 893, 76.
Additional and substituted parties. 894, 88, 90.
Intervention. 894, 96, 97, 98, 99; 895, 4.
Objections to capacity of parties. 896, 26.
Objections to defects of parties. 897, 32, 33.

PARTITION.

The right and parties entitled. 898, 47.
Procedure for partition. 901, 84.
Decision, judgment and relief. 902, 12, 14, 21; 903, 25; 904, 44, 49.
Commissioners or referees and their proceedings. 905, 66.
Sale and proceedings thereafter. 907, 89, 95, 96.

PARTNERSHIP.

What constitutes. Definition and kinds. 909, 13, 16; 911, 44, 46.
Firm name, trade-mark, and good will. 911, 48; 912, 53.
Firm capital and property. 913, 66, 67.
Rights and liabilities as to third persons. 914, 84, 88, 90, 92, 96.
Commencement and termination of liability. 916, 37.
Rights of partners inter se. 919, 73, 74, 75.
Actions by the firm or partner. 920, 81.
Actions against the firm or a partner. 921, 91, 92, 93, 96, 97.
Effect of dissolution. 923, 31, 35, 38; 924, 49, 50; 925, 65, 66.
Accounting. 925, 76; 926, 83, 86, 89.
Limited partnerships. 927, 7, 8, 9.

PARTY WALLS.

927, 11; 928, 14.

PATENTS.

Licenses. 945, 72.

PAUPERS.

Liability for support. 954, 4.

PAWNBROKERS.

955, 26.

PAYMENT AND TENDER.

Medium. 956, 46, 50, 51.
Manner of payment. 956, 53; 957, 56.
Manner of proffer. 957, 60.
Application of payment. 958, 83.
Effect of tender or payment. 959, 93.
Payment or tender as an issue. 959, 96, 98; 960, 7.

PAYMENT INTO COURT.

The payment and its effect. 961, 37.
Custody and liabilities. 961, 40.

PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES.

Rights and liabilities. 964, 80; 965, 80, 84; 966, 85.
Remedies and procedure. 967, 7; 969, 23, 24, 25.

PENSIONS.

Exemptions. 970, 38.
Policemen's and firemen's pensions. 970, 41, 43, 44.

PERJURY.

Elements of the offense. 971, 54.
Prosecution and punishment. 973, 70; 974, 95.

PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS.

Rule against its nature and application. 976, 9, 10, 11, 12.
Computation of the period. 976, 16, 17, 18; 977, 21, 23; 978, 27, 30, 31, 32.
Operation and effect. 978, 35; 979, 39, 42, 43, 47, 48, 49.

PIPE LINES AND SUBWAYS.

980, 64, 65, 66, 67.

PLEADING.

General rules. 981, 80, 82; 982, 83, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90; 983, 93, 96; 984, 98, 1, 2, 3, 4; 985, 7, 8, 10, 17; 986, 17; 987, 18, 20, 21; 988, 21, 23, 25.
Interpretation and construction in general. 989, 32, 34; 990, 39; 991, 49.
Bills of particulars. 992, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64; 993, 64, 65, 67, 68, 69; 994, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80; 995, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 94, 95.
Declaration, count, complaint, or petition. 996, 99; 997, 4, 6, 7; 998, 8, 10.
Joinder of causes of action. 998, 18; 999, 18, 22; 1000, 23, 25; 1001, 30, 33, 34, 35; 1002, 35, 37, 42; 1003, 46, 52, 53.
Election. 1003, 57.
Prayer. 1004, 65, 66, 68.
The plea or answer. 1005, 75, 78, 81, 82; 1006, 84, 85, 87, 88, 90.
Denials and traverses. 1008, 11, 14, 15, 16, 20.
Replication or reply. 1009, 28, 29, 30.
Demurrer, general rules. 1011, 48, 49; 1012, 55, 63.
Issues raised by demurrer. 1013, 78; 1014, 82, 83, 84; 1015, 87, 88.
Hearing and decision on demurrer. 1015, 91, 92.
Right, time and manner of amendment. 1017, 21, 26, 27; 1018, 36, 38, 39.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Matter of amendment. 1019, 43, 47; 1020, 49, 52, 56, 57, 58; 1021, 61.
Changing cause of action. 1022, 67; 1023, 69; 1025, 79, 82, 84, 85.
Amendment to correct variance. 1026, 87, 89.
Amendment on appeal. 1027, 92.
Terms of amendment. 1028, 99, 1.
Effect of amendment. 1028, 3; 1029, 5, 11.
Supplemental pleadings. 1030, 15, 19, 20, 22, 23.
Motions upon the pleadings. 1031, 28, 35.
Mode of objection as to matters of substance. 1032, 44, 45, 47, 48; 1033, 48; 1034, 63, 66, 67; 1035, 81.
Mode of objection as to matters of form. 1036, 91, 92, 93; 1037, 99, 4, 5, 12; 1038, 13, 16, 17.
Waiver of objections. 1038, 30; 1039, 30, 31; 1040, 47, 50, 55; 1041, 60; 1042, 68, 69; 1043, 71, 73, 74, 75, 79; 1044, 86, 90.
Aider by verdict. 1046, 1.
Time and order of pleadings. 1046, 4, 5.
Service. 1048, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34.
The general issue and general denials. 1049, 45.
Special issues and special denials. 1049, 48, 49, 52.
Variance. 1050, 59, 60; 1051, 60, 65, 66; 1052, 67.
Admissions in pleadings or by failure to plead. 1052, 69, 70; 1053, 73.
Judgment on the pleadings. 1054, 81, 82, 84.

PLEDGES.

Definition and nature. 1055, 92.
Rights, duties, and liabilities under. 1056, 19; 1057, 31; 1058, 42, 44, 52.

POWERS.

Creation, construction, validity and effect. 1066, 76.

PRISONS, JAILS AND REFORMATORIES.

Custody, discipline and government of inmates. 1067, 6.
Employment of prisoners. 1068, 24; 1069, 27.
Administration and fiscal affairs. 1069, 41; 1070, 42.

PROCESS.

Designation of court and parties. 1071, 60.
Alias counterpart, and supplemental process. 1072, 83, 84.
Actual service. 1073, 98, 2, 3, 4; 1075, 28, 31; 1076, 38, 41.
Substituted service. 1076, 50, 51, 52, 53.
The server, his qualifications and protection. 1077, 55.
Constructive service. Service by publication. 1077, 69, 71; 1078, 86, 87, 88, 89; 1079, 96.
Official return. 1079, 9.
Amendment of return. 1081, 34.
Defects, objections, and amendments. 1082, 64, 65.
Waiver of irregularities or lack of process. 1083, 82, 83, 87.
Abuse of process. 1084, 92.

PROPERTY.

Loss and abandonment. 1088, 64; 1089, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73.

PUBLIC CONTRACTS.

Power of government and authority of officers. 1090, 80, 84; 1091, 89; 1092, 93, 94.
How closed. 1095, 13.
Essential provisions and conditions pertaining. 1095, 20.
Construction and interpretation. 1096, 29.
Performance and discharge. 1100, 57, 58; 1101, 59, 64; 1102, 69.
Remedies and procedure by taxpayer. 1102, 71.
Remedies on the contract proper. 1103, 84.
Remedies under lien laws. 1106, 5, 7, 9.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Acquisition of state lands. 1116, 53.

PUBLIC WORKS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

Power, duty, and occasion to order or make. 1126, 10, 12.
Funds for improvement and provision for cost. 1127, 24, 29; 1128, 32; 1129, 47.
Proposals, contracts, and bonds. 1136, 50.
Security to laborers and materialmen. 1138, 78; 1139, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85.
Establishment or change of grade of street. 1140, 5; 1141, 8.
Equality and uniformity of assessment. 1144, 35.
Assessment under due process of law. 1145, 40.
Persons, property, and districts liable to assessment. 1147, 61, 63; 1148, 67, 70.
Amount of individual assessment; offsetting benefits and damages. 1148, 75, 76; 1149, 77.
Assessment roll, or report, or confirmation. 1149, 86, 89, 91, 92.
Reassessment and additional assessments. 1152, 29.
Payment and discharge of assessment. 1155, 80; 1156, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 97.
Enforcement and collection of assessment. 1159, 45; 1161, 68; 1162, 93.
Remedies by injunction or other collateral attack. 1163, 5; 1164, 12.
Appeal and other direct review. 1165, 19.

Q.

QUESTIONS OF LAW AND FACT.

Province of court and jury in general. 1166, 34, 37, 41.
Particular facts or issues. 1167, 48.

QUIETING TITLE.

Title and possession. 1169, 78, 82.
What is a cloud or conflicting claim. 1171, 18.

QUO WARRANTO.

Nature, function, and occasion of the remedy. 1177, 37.
Parties and right to prosecute. 1179, 54.

R.

RAILROADS.

Franchises, public grants, and right of way. 1184, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 53.
Private grants. 1186, 85; 1187, 94.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Establishment of crossings. 1191, 69, 70.
Abolition and prevention of grade crossings. 1192, 85, 86, 87, 88, 91.
Bonds and mortgages. 1196, 69.
Precautions at highway crossings. 1200, 30.
Injuries to licensees and trespassers; general rules. 1200, 42; 1201, 43; 1202, 53.
Injuries to employes of other roads and of independent contractors. 1202, 66.
Injuries to persons at stations, etc. 1203, 74.
Injuries to persons crossing tracks away from established crossings. 1206, 24.
Accidents at crossings. Care required on part of company. 1210, 8.
Accidents at crossings. Contributory negligence. 1211, 22, 25; 1212, 32, 33, 35, 36; 1213, 39, 43.
Accidents at crossings. Procedure. 1214, 63, 64; 1215, 80, 81; 1216, 83; 1217, 95, 99.
Injuries to persons on highway or private premises near tracks. 1219, 25.
Injuries to animals on or near tracks. 1221, 56, 64; 1224, 7.

RAPE.

Weight and sufficiency of evidence. 1233, 56, 58.

REAL PROPERTY.

Definitions. 1235, 82; 1236, 92.
Possession. 1237, 9.
Merger of estates. 1238, 17, 18.

RECEIVERS.

Nature, grounds, and subjects of receivership. 1240, 33; 1241, 37, 42.
Proceedings for appointment and qualification. 1242, 60, 61; 1243, 71.
Possession and restitution. 1245, 10, 16.
Authority and powers in general. 1245, 20; 1246, 25.
Sales by receiver. 1248, 65, 68, 69; 1249, 70.
Actions by and against receivers. 1249, 82; 1250, 3.
Liabilities and actions on receivership bonds. 1252, 37.

RECORDS AND FILES.

Keeping and custody. 1255. 94.
Crimes relating to records. 1257, 21, 22, 23.

REFERENCE.

Occasion for reference. 1258, 35.
Statutory reference. 1258, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43; 1259, 46.
Motion and order for reference. 1259, 49.
Selection and qualifications of the referee. 1259, 54.
Appearance before referee and hearing. 1259, 59; 1260, 66.
The report. 1260, 70, 76, 78; 1261, 83.
Revision of report before the court. 1262, 98.
Decree or judgment on the report. 1262, 11, 13; 1263, 19, 20, 22, 23, 27.
Appellate review. 1263, 35.
Compensation, fees and costs. 1264, 41, 44, 45, 46, 47.

REFORMATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

Right to remedy. 1265, 56, 57.
Parties. 1268, 97.
Pleading and evidence. 1269, 7, 8, 10.

RELEASES.

Nature, form and requisites. 1270, 23, 26.
Interpretation, construction and effect. 1271, 45; 1272, 46, 47, 51, 56, 57.
Defenses to or avoidance of release. 1273, 66; 1274, 76, 81.
Pleading, proof and practice. 1274, 85.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.

Jurisdiction of courts. 1276, 26.
Actions by or against society or members. 1277, 28.

REMOVAL OF CAUSES.

Right to remove. 1278, 33.
Transfers between courts of the same jurisdiction. 1284, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46.

REPLEVIN.

Right of action and defenses. 1285, 60; 1286, 71, 73, 74, 78.
Plaintiff's bond. 1288, 99.
Pleadings. 1289, 12, 13.
Trial. 1290, 31, 36.
Verdicts. 1291, 47.
Judgment. 1291, 52, 56; 1292, 57.
Damages. 1293, 72, 77.
Liability on bonds and of receiptors, etc. 1294, 96, 97.

REWARDS.

The offer. 1309, 23.
Earning reward. 1310, 26, 27, 30.

RIPARIAN OWNERS.

Persons who are; and title to lands under water. 1311, 40, 41; 1312, 55.
Rights incidental to riparian ownership. 1314, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89; 1315, 90, 91, 92, 93, 99.
Actions for protection of riparian rights. 1316, 14.

S.

SALES.

Definition, distinction from other transactions. 1319, 50, 51; 1320, 52.
Contract requisites. 1320, 59; 1321, 62, 63, 65, 66; 1322, 68, 80; 1323, 82.
Modification, rescission and revival. 1323, 90, 92, 95, 96; 1324, 1.
General rules of interpretation and construction. 1325, 13, 16; 1326, 22.
Property sold. 1326, 31.
Transition of title. 1327, 36.
Construction and operation of contract. 1330, 77, 78, 80, 82, 83; 1331, 88, 89, 96.
Sufficiency of delivery; actual, constructive, symbolical. 1332, 8.
Acceptance; necessity; time; what is. 1332, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17; 1333, 19, 26.
Excuses for and waiver of breach. 1333, 30; 1334, 40.
Warranties and conditions in general. 1334, 47, 48.
Express and implied warranties. 1335, 62; 1336, 71, 77; 1337, 80, 84, 85, 86, 87, 92; 1338, 96.
Conditions and fulfillment or breach. 1338, 3, 4.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Waiver of warranties. 1338, 14; 1339, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 24, 25, 26, 29; 1340, 33, 34, 35, 43, 46.
Waiver of conditions. 1341, 49, 51, 56, 57, 60, 63.
Payment, tender and price as terms of the contract. 1342, 71, 72, 75; 1343, 84, 85.
Rescission by seller. 1344, 1.
Seller's lien. 1345, 15.
Action for price or on quantum valebat. 1346, 35, 44; 1347, 57; 1348, 65, 67, 68, 74, 79; 1349, 80, 81, 88, 98; 1350, 98, 99, 2, 3, 5; 1351, 5, 15.
Action for breach. 1352, 28.
Choice and election of remedies by seller. 1352, 34, 35; 1353, 36.
Rescission by purchaser. 1353, 52; 1354, 57, 61, 64.
Actions for breach of contract. 1356, 97, 99.
Action for breach of warranty. 1356, 3.
Choice and election of remedies by purchaser. 1357, 28; 1358, 29, 33, 34.
Damages on breach by seller. 1358, 40; 1359, 49; 1360, 53.
Damages on breach by purchaser. 1360, 60, 61, 64, 65; 1361, 67, 84.
Damages on breach of warranty. 1362, 89, 93; 1363, 95.
Evidence as to damages. 1363, 7.
Rights of parties to conditional sale. 1366, 50.

SAVING QUESTIONS FOR REVIEW.

Inviting error. 1369, 84.
Acquiescing in error. 1371, 5, 7; 1372, 9, 12, 15; 1373, 17, 19, 22, 23; 1374, 29, 30.
Mode of objection. 1376, 49.
Necessity of objection. 1377, 55, 57; 1378, 59, 60, 65, 66, 68, 69; 1379, 77, 80; 1380, 86, 87; 1381, 5, 6; 1382, 7, 12.
Motion for a judgment or nonsuit, or to direct a verdict. 1383, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36.
Motion to strike out. 1383, 39, 41, 42.
Motion for a new trial. 1385, 62.
Request for instructions. 1386, 81; 1387, 87.
Necessity of ruling. 1388, 2.
Necessity of exception. 1388, 8; 1389, 8, 18, 19, 22, 24; 1390, 24, 29, 31, 33; 1391, 41, 43, 48, 49.
Form and sufficiency of objection. 1393, 68, 70, 71, 72, 73; 1394, 88.
Sufficiency of exception. 1396, 9; 1397, 17, 18.
Waiver of objections and exceptions taken. 1398, 44, 45; 1399, 50, 60; 1400, 70.

SCHOOLS AND EDUCATION.

Right, privilege and duty of attendance. 1402, 95.
Organization, meetings and officers. 1405, 46.
Property and contracts. 1407, 74, 75, 76, 77.
Teachers and instruction. 1411, 52, 53.
Decisions, rulings and orders of school officers. 1413, 80.
Actions and litigation. 1414, 89, 96.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE.

What is unreasonable. 1416, 23; 1417, 26.

SET-OFF AND COUNTERCLAIM.

Nature and extent of right in general. 1422, 3, 7, 9, 14.
A vested and subsisting cause of action. 1423, 18, 19, 22, 23.
Main action must be similar in form. 1425, 36, 44; 1426, 57; 1427, 61.
Pleading and practice. 1427, 73, 75; 1428, 76, 77, 79, 80, 81.

SEWERS AND DRAINS.

State and municipal control. 1430, 9.
Liability for improper operation. 1440, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50; 1441, 60, 62, 63.

SHERIFFS AND CONSTABLES.

The office; election or appointment; qualifications. 1442, 77.
Powers, duties, and privileges. 1443, 88; 1444, 94.
Compensation. 1444, 3, 11; 1445, 12, 13, 14.
Liability for failure to execute process or insufficient execution. 1446, 37.
Liability for failure to return process or false return. 1447, 53.
Liability for wrongful levy or sale. 1447, 59; 1448, 73, 78.

SHIPPING AND WATER TRAFFIC.

Mortgages, bottomry, maritime and other liens. 1456, 6, 7.
Charter party. 1456, 10, 11; 1457, 14; 1458, 32.
Carriage of passengers. 1472, 23, 24; 1474, 42, 43.
Carriage of goods. 1476, 72.
Demurrage. 1480, 22.
Salvage. 1486, 4.
Marine insurance. 1489, 39, 40, 41.
Maritime torts. 1491, 74.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

Nature and propriety of remedy in general. 1495, 16, 24; 1496, 29, 31, 32.
Subject-matter of enforceable contract. 1497, 42; 1498, 48, 51, 52, 55; 1499, 64, 67, 71, 74, 75.
Necessity of contract. 1500, 82, 84; 1501, 85.
Definiteness of contract. 1502, 98.
Legality and fairness of contract. 1502, 3; 1503, 7.
Necessity of written contract. 1504, 19.
Performance by complainant. 1504, 27; 1505, 30, 31, 33; 1506, 34, 35, 37.
Parties. 1507, 55.
Pleading. 1509, 73, 84.
The relief granted. 1510, 96; 1511, 4, 11.
Decree. 1511, 14.

STATES.

Officers and employes. 1518, 6; 1519, 8.
Claims. 1520, 40; 1521, 46, 47, 48, 50.
Actions by and against. 1521, 54.

STATUTES.

Publication. 1524, 8.
Special or local laws. 1526, 25.
Subjects and titles. 1530, 63; 1531, 64.
Amendments. 1532, 73, 75.
Interpretation in general. 1535, 41, 45; 1537, 81; 1538, 99, 2.
Retrospective effect. 1539, 19.
Repeal. 1542, 52, 57, 62.

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.

1549, 73, 74; 1550, 75; 1551, 93, 94, 97.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

STENOGRAPHERS.

1552, 16.

STIPULATIONS.

1553, 22, 23, 26, 29; 1554, 34; 1555, 46, 49, 50.

STREET RAILWAYS.

Nature of franchise; how acquired and lost. 1556, 56, 57; 1558, 67, 69; 1559, 78, 82; 1560, 87.
Rights and duties under franchise. 1560, 90, 91; 1561, 92, 94, 96.
Taking property and the right of eminent domain. 1562, 7, 8.
Taxes and license fees. 1563, 11, 12.
Street railway corporations. 1563, 18, 19, 20.
Location and construction in general. 1564, 29; 1565, 30, 31, 37.
General rules of care in equipment and operation. 1566, 49.
Injuries to trespassers and licensees. 1567, 60.
Injuries to pedestrians. 1568, 66, 67, 70, 71; 1569, 71, 72, 73, 74; 1570, 74, 79, 80, 81; 1571, 82, 83, 84.
Children run over. 1571, 88, 89; 1572, 89, 92.
Collisions between car and wagon. 1573, 2, 4; 1574, 5, 6, 7, 10; 1575, 11, 12, 13, 14; 1576, 17, 21, 22, 23; 1577, 23; 1578, 28, 30.
Frightening horses. 1579, 32.
Injuries to bicycle riders, horseback riders and animals. 1579, 35, 36; 1580, 41.
Damages, pleading and practice in injury cases. 1580, 46, 47; 1581, 56, 57, 60.

SUBMISSION OF CONTROVERSY.

1582, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74.

SUBROGATION.

Right to subrogation. 1584, 87; 1585, 3, 4; 1586, 10.
Remedies and procedure. 1587, 19.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Rights and liabilities arising. 1588, 28, 30, 35.
Enforcement, remedies and procedure. 1588, 37, 38, 39.

SUNDAY.

The term "Sunday." 1589, 48.
Sunday as nonjudicial or nonlegal day. 1589, 50.
Sunday laws and prosecution for their violation. 1590, 68; 1591, 71, 73.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

Nature, occasion and propriety. 1591, 78.
Proceedings necessary on which to base remedy. 1591, 80, 81.
Affidavit and opposition to same. 1592, 86, 88, 89, 91.
Order and citation process or warrant. 1592, 93.
Order for payment or delivery. 1592, 97.
Receivership or other equitable relief. 1593, 4, 5, 6; 1594, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13.
Contempt. 1594, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23.
Procedure at and after examination. 1594, 25; 1595, 32.

SURETYSHIP.

The requisites of the contract. 1596, 42, 43.
The sureties' liability. 1597, 51, 59, 61; 1598, 61, 62, 63; 1599, 67.
Legal defenses to surety's liability. 1599, 69, 70.
Defenses based on change of contract or increase of the risk. 1600, 81; 1601, 82, 83, 85.
Defenses arising out of suspension of liability of principal. 1601, 88.
Defenses based on impairment of surety's secondary remedies. 1602, 94.
Defenses based on fraud or concealment by creditor. 1602, 99, 4.
Other defenses. 1603, 10.
Rights of surety against principal and cosurety. 1604, 29.

T.

TAXES.

Nature and kinds. 1605, 47; 1606, 54; 1607, 61.
Persons liable. 1609, 76, 79, 83; 1610, 92, 95.
Corporations. 1610, 99; 1611, 2, 3, 4; 1612, 4, 6, 11; 1613, 13.
Foreign corporations. 1614, 25, 26, 30.
Public property. 1615, 33.
Realty. 1615, 47; 1616, 47, 48.
Personalty. 1616, 57, 59.
Exemption from taxation. 1617, 63, 64, 65, 67, 68; 1618, 75, 76, 77, 78.
Assessing officers. 1620, 96, 4, 5.
Roll or list. 1621, 9, 13.
Lists by taxpayers. 1622, 28.
Notice of assessment. 1622, 31.
Irregularities in lists or roll. 1623, 39, 40.
Valuation. 1624, 47.
Equalization, correction, and review. 1625, 61.
Review by the courts. 1628, 89, 90; 1629, 90.
Levies and tax lists. 1631, 17.
Lien and priority. 1632, 33; 1633, 50.
Recovery back of payments. 1635, 63.
Refunding. 1635, 69, 70.
Collectors. 1635, 75.
Method of collecting. 1637, 86; 1638, 93, 94, 2; 1639, 4.
Prerequisites to tax sale. 1642, 30, 32.
Conduct of tax sales. 1643, 39.
Redemption. 1648, 93.
Purchasers' rights and estates. 1649, 6.
Possession after tax sale. 1650, 20, 23.
Inheritance and transfer taxes. 1652, 42, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55; 1653, 59, 60, 61, 65, 67, 68; 1654, 71, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83, 84; 1655, 85, 86.
Distribution and disposition of taxes collected. 1656, 106, 109, 111.

TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES.

Rights and powers granted. 1658, 24.
Municipal regulation; rentals and license taxes. 1659, 38.
Contracts and transfers. 1661, 53, 54, 55.

TENANTS IN COMMON AND JOINT TENANTS.

Definitions and distinctions. 1674, 16.
Agency. 1676, 61, 66; 1677, 67.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

TIME.

1680, 29, 34.

TOLL ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Taxation. 1681, 55.

TORTS.

Elements of a tort. 1682, 64; 1683, 72, 76, 77.
Waiver of right of action in tort. 1683, 82; 1684, 83.
What is an injury or wrong. 1684, 86.
Parties in torts. 1684, 92; 1685, 97.

TOWNS; TOWNSHIPS.

Creation, organization, status and boundaries. 1686, 11.
Town meetings. 1686, 17.
Property. 1686, 20.
Contracts. 1686, 25, 26; 1687, 27.
Officers and employes. 1687, 31, 38.
Claims. 1688, 57, 58, 59.
Torts. 1689, 62.

TRADE-MARKS AND TRADE-NAMES.

Acquisition, transfer, and abandonment. 1691, 5.
Remedies and procedure. 1695, 54.
Statutory registration, regulation and protection. 1696, 74, 75, 76, 77.

TRADE UNIONS.

The union and the public. 1697, 83.
The union and its members. 1697, 86.

TRESPASS.

Acts constituting. 1699, 11, 14, 15.
Trespass to the person. 1700, 30.
Right of entry and other matters in justification. 1700, 39.
Parties in the tort. 1700, 43.
Damages and penalties. 1704, 99, 1, 3; 1705, 11, 17.

TRIAL.

Remarks and conduct of judge. 1711, 31.
Reception and exclusion of evidence. 1711, 43, 44.
Order of proof. 1712, 50, 53.
Reopening a case. 1713, 63.
Rejection of merely cumulative evidence. 1714, 76.
Admissions of counsel. 1714, 84, 85.
Objection to evidence that has been received. 1715, 99, 1, 2; 1716, 4, 5.
Custody and conduct of jury during trial. 1717, 23.
View by jury. 1717, 26, 27.
Custody and conduct of jury after submission. 1718, 37.

TRUSTS.

Express trusts. Nature and elements. 1728, 52, 54; 1729, 54, 55, 58, 59; 1730, 63, 64, 65.
Validity of purpose. 1730, 70.
Declarations by trustee. 1731, 83, 84.
Bank deposits in trust. 1731, 90.
Necessity of writing. 1732, 8.
Implied and involuntary trusts. 1733, 17.
Trusts raised where property obtained by fraud. 1734, 35.
Resulting trusts. 1737, 67.
The beneficiary. His estate, rights and interest. 1739, 87.
Income and principal. 1739, 98, 99.
Charges on income. 1740, 5, 6, 9.
Claims enforceable against trust funds or estate. 1740, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15.
Rights of creditors and assignees of beneficiary. 1740, 22, 23; 1741, 26, 27.
Representation of beneficiary by trustee. 1741, 33.
Who may be trustee. 1741, 36, 37, 38.
Qualification and acceptance of trust. 1741, 44, 45.
Succession and judicial appointment of new trustee. 1742, 49, 65, 67.
Nature of trustee's title. 1743, 80.
Receipt and establishment of estate. 1743, 84.
Discretion and general powers of trustees and judicial control. 1743, 91.
Management of estate and investments. 1744, 1, 3; 1745, 12, 25.
Power to lease. 1746, 29.
Sale of trust property. 1747, 48, 58, 60, 61.
Payments or surrender to beneficiary. 1748, 71, 73, 76.
Liability of trustee to estate and third persons. 1748, 82, 83; 1749, 89, 4.
Personal dealings with estates. 1750, 20.
Actions and controversies by and against trustees. 1751, 26, 34, 37.
Compensation and expenses. 1751, 43; 1752, 46, 49, 51, 52.
Attorney's fees and expenses. 1752, 58.
Accounting and discharge. 1752, 63; 1753, 73, 78, 81.
Establishment and enforcement of express trusts. 1754, 92.
Following trust property. 1757, 55, 57, 61; 1758, 62, 63.
Termination and abrogation of trust. 1758, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74; 1759, 74, 75, 78.
Termination for failure or completion of purpose. 1759, 83.
Union of equitable and future legal estate. 1760, 89, 91, 92.

U.

UNDERTAKINGS.

1760, 95, 96.

USES.

1763, 59; 1764, 65, 67.

USURY.

Elements and indicia. 1764, 69; 1765, 74, 77, 78.
The defense of usury. 1766, 4; 1767, 9, 11.
The effect of usury. 1767, 16; 1768, 16.
Affirmative relief and procedure. 1768, 36.

V.

VENDORS AND PURCHASERS.

Creation of contract. 1769, 44.
Effect of statute of frauds. 1771, 64.
Options. 1772, 79.
Title and incumbrances. 1774, 98, 99; 1775, 99, 3, 4.
Quantity of land. 1777, 25.
Default and its effect. 1782, 68.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Time of performance. 1784, 85.
Tender of performance. 1785, 96; 1786, 99.
Right to rescission. 1787, 11; 1789, 22.
Rights of vendee after rescission. 1790, 34.
Adjustment of rights after conveyance or breach of contract. 1791, 44.
Enforcement generally. 1792, 51, 53, 54.
Vendor's implied lien. 1794, 68; 1795, 86.

VENUE AND PLACE OF TRIAL.

The nature of the action. 1797, 2, 3.
Actions regarding real estate. 1798, 20.
Transitory actions. 1798, 25.
Actions for penalties. 1800, 46.
Laying venue and effect of improper venue. 1800, 57, 59; 1801, 64, 66.
When change is allowable, necessary or proper. 1801, 69; 1802, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 90, 93.
Procedure for change. 1803, 95, 96, 5, 8.

VERDICTS AND FINDINGS.

Submission to jury, rendition and return. 1809, 11; 1810, 19.
Amendment and correction. 1810, 29; 1811, 38, 45.
Findings by the court. 1812, 56; 1813, 73; 1814, 83, 87.

VERIFICATION.

Necessity. 1816, 23.
By whom. 1817, 37.
Form and positiveness. 1817, 39, 40, 41.

W.

WAREHOUSING AND DEPOSITS.

Charges and lien therefor. 1822, 32, 33, 34.
Actions and procedure. 1822, 41, 44.

WASTE.

1823, 54, 60.

WATERS AND WATER SUPPLY.

Definition and kinds of waters. 1824, 67, 68.
Rights in natural water courses. 1826, 82, 84, 87, 88.
Interference and obstruction. 1826, 92; 1827, 93.
Diversion. 1827, 1, 2.
Nuisance and pollution. 1828, 8, 9.
Bridges and culverts, etc. 1828, 13.
Rights in subterranean and percolating waters. 1831, 39, 41.
Rights in artificial waters. 1831, 46.
Ice. 1832, 52, 53.
Surface waters and drainage or reclamation. 1833, 68.
Lands under water. 1836, 5, 6, 7.
Nonconsuming privileges. 1838, 30.
Extent of prescriptive right to flood land. 1839, 37.
Irrigation and water supply, common-law rule. 1839, 42.
Water companies. 1847, 55.
Water boards and districts. 1848, 66, 67, 68, 71.
Water service contracts. 1852, 7.
Injuries from deficient supply. 1853, 16.
Contracts, grants and licenses. 1855, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44.
Damages. 1858, 73.

WHARVES.

Right to erect and maintain and ownership therein. 1862, 34, 35, 36, 37.
Public and private wharves. 1862, 39, 40.
Damages. 1862, 47, 48, 49.
Duty and care respecting, and injuries thereat. 1863, 54.

WILLS.

Right of disposal. 1864, 59; 1865, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72.
Contracts to devise or bequeath. 1866, 90, 91; 1867, 92, 97, 98; 1868, 3, 4.
Essentials to capacity. 1868, 6; 1869, 7, 14; 1870, 23, 24, 26; 1871, 40, 41; 1872, 59; 1873, 63, 65, 66.
Fraud and undue influence. 1873, 69; 1874, 71, 73, 80, 87; 1875, 98; 1876, 24, 25; 1877, 25, 29.
Testamentary instrument or act; requisites, form and validity. 1878, 34, 35.
Mode of execution of will. 1878, 41; 1879, 47, 49; 1880, 56; 1881, 64; 1882, 74, 75; 1883, 83.
Revocation in general. 1885, 11, 14, 15; 1886, 21, 24, 26, 29.
Revocation by subsequent will or codicil. 1888, 43, 48.
Powers of courts. 1889, 55.
Parties in will cases and right to contest. 1889, 57; 1890, 64.
Probate and procedure in general. 1891, 75, 87, 88, 89.
Burden of proof on the whole case. 1892, 95, 97; 1893, 98.
Establishment of lost will. 1893, 9.
Judgments and decrees. 1894, 15.
Appeals. 1896, 27.
Interpretation and construction. General rules. 1898, 69; 1899, 70, 71; 1900, 73, 75, 76, 78, 79, 82; 1901, 87, 88, 92, 94, 96, 98; 1902, 98, 2, 7, 14.
Extrinsic evidence. 1903, 17, 20; 1904, 23, 24.
Construction of terms designating property or funds. 1905, 27, 28, 29.
Construction of terms designating or describing persons or purposes. 1906, 34, 36; 1907, 37.
Estates and interests created; particular words and forms of expression. 1907, 44, 46; 1908, 52; 1909, 57, 58.
Gifts by implication, gift of ownership or use. 1909, 60; 1910, 61, 63, 64; 1911, 64, 65.
Estates or interests created. 1912, 71; 1914, 78; 1915, 78.
"Interest" and "income." 1917, 85; 1918, 87.
Legacies. 1918, 89, 90, 91.
Annuities. 1919, 94, 96.
Advancements. 1919, 98, 99.
Support. 1920, 2, 3.
Legacy to a debtor. 1920, 8.
Vesting. 1920, 12, 13; 1921, 15, 17; 1922, 18, 20, 21; 1923, 24, 26; 1924, 26, 28.
Perpetuities. 1924, 30, 31.
Individual rights in gifts to two or more. 1925, 37, 38, 40.
Intent to require election. 1927, 57.
Charges, exoneration, and funds for payment. 1927, 60; 1928, 69.
Trust estates and interests. 1929, 75, 76; 1930, 76.
Powers of appointment and beneficial powers of sale. 1931, 79.
Lapse and failure. 1932, 87; 1933, 89.
Forfeitures. 1933, 95.

(Black face refers to page, light to foot note, in Vol. 4 C. L.)

Residuary clauses. 1934, 2, 6, 6; 1935, 7.
Substitutions. 1935, 10.
Gifts freed from void limitations. 1935, 14, 16.
Property not effectually disposed of. 1936, 19, 20, 21, 22.
Of terms respecting administration, etc. 1937, 28, 30; 1938, 36, 40; 1939, 55, 58.
Ademption. 1940, 65, 67.
Satisfaction of debts by legacies. 1940, 71.
Proceedings to construe wills. 1940, 74; 1941, 80, 81, 82, 85; 1942, 88.
Validity, operation, and effect in general. 1942, 96.
What law governs. 1943, 103.

WITNESSES.

Capacity and competency in general. 1944, 6.
Disqualification of one party on death of other. 1947, 47, 50.
Persons disqualified under rule as to death of one party. 1948, 57; 1949, 67, 68, 59; 1950, 61, 63, 64.
Transactions and communications on which rule as to death of one party is invoked. 1951, 68, 70, 72.
Waiver or removal of disqualification because of death of one party. 1952, 77; 1953, 80.
Attorney and client. 1953, 83, 84, 91.
Physician and patient. 1954, 97, 5, 7.
Waiver of privilege between physician and patient. 1955, 12.
Credibility in general. 1958, 52.
Impeaching and discrediting in general. 1959, 63, 71.
Impeaching own witness. 1960, 76, 80, 81.
Contradiction or impeachment as to collateral matters. 1961, 86, 90.
Interest and bias of witnesses. 1963, 21; 1964, 23, 29.
Previous contradictory statements. 1964, 33, 34; 1965, 38, 40.
Foundation for proof of contradictory statements. 1966, 52, 55, 56, 57.
Corroboration and sustentation. 1967, 72.
Privileges. 1968, 85, 88; 1969, 94, 4.
Subpoenas, attendance and fees. 1970, 16, 17.