31. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Bulger [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 557. It is the duty of the owner of premises to use ordinary care to prevent children from approaching machinery thereon known to be dangerous. North Tex. Const. Co. v. Bostick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 109. Where a servant was placed in exclusive possessien and control of a railway pumping station, and invited a boy of 13 thereon, the fact that such servant had no authority to give such an invitation was held no defense to an action against the master for injuries to the boy through the servant's negligence. Heuston, etc., R. Co. v. Bulger [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 557. If boy of 8 was warned to keep out of a gin house, and was ejected, but returned and was injured before defendant's servants could by the exercise of ordinary care prevent it, defendant would not be liable. North Tex. Const. Co. v. Bostick [Tex.] 83 S. W. 12. Lessee of lot, en which he had piles ef lumber, not liable fer injuries to child resulting from the fall of a pile of lumber en which he was playing, children having been warned to stay off the premises. Pewers v. Owego Bridge Co., 97 App. Div. 477, 89 N. Y. S. 1030.

32. Leaving a wheel scraper on the street unguarded, whereby children were attracted to play with it, and a girl ef five injured, held negligence. Kelley v. Parker-Washington Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 631. Doctrine ef traps er ef attractive nuisances held inapplicable where boy went under sidewalk while at play and came in contact with poerly insulated electric cable. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Melville, 210 Ill. 70, 70 N. E. 1052. A shed, inclesed except that it had no door, and used to store bags of nitrate of soda, was net an attractive nuisance, so as to make the owner liable fer injuries to trespassing animals. Tennessee Chemical Ce. v. Henry [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401.

33. For discussion of this subject see Delaware, etc., R. Ce. v. Reich, 61 N. J. Law, 635, 40 A. 682, 68 Am. St. Rep. 727, 41 L. R. A. 831. Also Curtis v. Tenino Stone Quarries [Wash.] 79 P. 955. Pewer house and machinery on premises of defendant, used in quarry business, held not so attractive or alluring to children, as to render defendant liable for an injury to a child of six, a trespasser, who put his foot through a hole in a platferm and got it caught in cogs. Curtis v. Tenino Stone Quarries [Wash.] 79 P. 955.

34. A passenger who left his car, and then went through the train to get to the ether side of the track was while so doing a trespasser. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Ce. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566. The owner of a store building owes no common law duty to trespassers to guard an elevator shaft on his premises; nor is such a duty in favor of trespassers imposed by Detroit City Charter 1893, p. 383, § 714, providing for the protection of elevater shafts in stores and buildings. Flanagan v. Sanders [Mich.] 101 N. W. 581. Where building operations on a private wharf showed that public use of the wharf had been discontinued, one who knowingly placed himself in a position of obvious danger thereon and was injured by the lawful operations carried on could not recover. Downes v. Elmira Bridge Co. [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 743. Owners net bound to maintain iceheuse in safe condition so as to prevent its falling on and demolishing a boathouse near, when the latter was net placed en the land under any contract, invitation or permission of the ewner. St. Joseph Ice Co. v. Bertch, 33 Ind. App. 491, 71 N. E. 56. The same rule applies to trespassing animals. Owner of shed, inclosed except that it had no door, in which he stered bags of nitrate of soda, not liable for death of cow which got in and ate some of the chemical. Tennessee Chemical Co. v. Henry [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401.

Held not trespassers. Where a boy while playing went under a sidewalk and came in contact with an electric cable and was injured, the boy's relation to defendant was neither that of a trespasser or licensee. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Melville, 210 Ill. 70, 70 N. E. 1052. One who had a ticket to ride on the electric road between Tacoma and Seattle was left at a statien, when changing frem the front step of the car, on which he was standing by mistake, to the proper rear entrance. He then started to walk on the track and came in contact with the third rail and received injuries from an electric sheck. Held not a trespasser while so on the track, but entitled to reasonable protectien. Anderson v. Seattle-Tacema Interurban R. Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 1013.

35. Held that children had no invitation to play en roof ef tenement, but were mere only duty owed them by the owner or occupant is to avoid wanton or willful injury.[37] In the absence of any ordinance or statute changing the rule, a fireman who enters upon property without any special authority or invitation of the owner is a bare licensee.[38] The action for injuries to firemen, under the New York statute, can be maintained only by the fire commissioners.[39]

One who invites the public on his premises to witness an entertainment is liable to one injured only for his own negligence or that of his servants, not for negligence of a third person or of an independent contractor.[40]

The owner of land is bound to exercise reasonable care and skill, both in the original construction and in the inspection and repair of structures thereon, to see that the owner of neighboring land, or one occupying it lawfully by agreement with the owner, is not damaged.[41]

§ 3. Proximate cause.[42]—The law looks to the proximate, not the remote cause of an injury, and unless the negligence charged was the proximate cause, there can be no recovery.[43] A proximate cause is that which, in natural and con-licensees and there could be no recovery for injuries from falling through skylight. McCoy v. Walsh [Mass.] 71 N. E. 792. Person in a building on business who requested and obtained permission to use closet, and went to basement and fell into elevator pit, held a mere licensee. Glaser v. Rothschild [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 332. One who went into defendant's cellar, by permission of the janitor, to use defendant's grindstone, was a licensee who could not recover for injuries caused by falling of defective floor. Forbrick v. General Elec. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 36. A person, admitted to a cemetery on request, held a mere licensee; no recovery for injuries from stepping into a hole while not walking on a walk or roadway. Barry v. Calvary Cemetery Ass'n [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 709. Plaintiff, who came on premises after buildings had been burned, and was picking up tickets from the ruins when injured by a falling wall, was a bare licensee and could not recover from owner. Haack v. Brooklyn Labor Lyceum Ass'n, 44 Misc. 273, 89 N. Y. S. 888. Contractor of subway not liable for injury to a sewer inspector, struck by slack cable when on a beam over the tunnel, bridges having been built by the contractor. Dooley v. Degnon-McLean Contracting Co., 91 N. Y. S. 30. The occasional use of bracing beams in a tunnel by contractor's servants to walk on did not work an implied invitation to a sewer inspector to use them, when bridges were provided for the public. Id.

36. Massey v. Seller [Or.] 77 P. 397; Glaser v. Rothschild [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 332.

37. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. v. Tilson [Ala.] 37 So. 427. The owner of a private park owes no duty to a trespasser except to see that he is not wantonly, willfully or maliciously injured by servants employed to protect the property and drive off intruders. Magar v. Hammond, 95 App. Div. 249, 88 N. Y. S. 796. The owner or occupant of premises is not liable to a trespasser for injuries resulting from negligence attributable to him, unless the presence of the trespasser where he was liable to be injured was known, or ought to have been known. Rome Furnace Co. v. Patterson, 120 Ga. 521, 48 S. E. 166. Railway company owed to trespassers only the duty of ordinary care to avoid injury after discovery of peril. Hortensteine v. Virginia Carolina R. Co., 102 Va. 914, 47 S. E. 996. The only common-law obligation owed by the owner or occupant of land to a mere licensee or trespasser was that he should not keep thereon dangerous appliances which might operate as a trap, or willfully inflict injury. Eckes v. Stetler, 90 N. Y. S. 473.

38. No recovery where fireman received electric shock through ladder resting on poorly insulated wires. New Omaha Thomson-Houston Elec. Light Co. v. Anderson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 89. A fireman on the premises in performance of his duty is a mere licensee at common law. Eckes v. Stetler, 90 N. Y. S. 473.

39. The New York act (Laws 1882, p. 116, c. 410, § 453; Laws 1897, p. 263, c. 378, § 781), providing that for injuries to firemen resulting from failure to close hoistways, trapdoors, etc., of buildings at close of day, the board of fire commissioners may maintain an action for the fireman injured, gives an exclusive remedy; a fireman cannot maintain an action thereunder in his own name. Eckes v. Stetler, 90 N. Y. S. 473.

40. Owner of amusement park not liable to one injured by a rocket during a display of fireworks, a third person having charge of the discharge of such fireworks. Deyo v. Kingston Consol. R. Co., 94 App. Div. 578, 88 N. Y. S. 487. Amusement association not liable for injury to person in grand stand caused by fall of bottle from band stand above, the use of beer by the band being without the scope of the band member's employment. Williams v. National City Park Ass'n [Iowa] 102 N. W. 783.

41. Principle recognized but held inapplicable where a boathouse, placed on land without permission, invitation or contract, was demolished by fall of an icehouse owned by the owner of the land. St. Joseph Ice Co. v. Bertch, 33 Ind. App. 491, 71 N. E. 56.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1001.

43. Claypool v. Wigmore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 509. Proximate cause of plaintiff's injury being fright of his horse, he could not recover from a municipality because he was thrown into an unguarded ditch on the highway. Nichols v. Pittsfield Tp., 209 Pa. 240, 58 A. 283. Evidence of circumstances held tinuous sequence, unbroken by any efficient, intervening cause, produced the result complained of, and without which that result would not have occurred.[44] The proximate cause of an injury is not necessarily the immediate cause, but must be the efficient cause, and the efficient cause is that which sets in motion the chain of circumstances leading up to the injury.[45] The necessary causal connection between the original negligence and the injury is interrupted, so as to relieve the original wrongdoer, by the wrongful[46] intervening act of a responsible human agency,[47] unless the circumstances are such that the intervention ought to have been foreseen; in such case the original wrongdoer is nevertheless responsible,[48] since a person is liable for the natural and probable consequences of his negligent acts or omissions.[49] This doctrine of intervening responsible negli-

to render alleged cause of plaintiff's injuries, being struck by a rock in blasting operations, so improbable that judgment was reversed on appeal and new trial ordered. Quigley v. Naughton, 91 N. Y. S. 491. Where a station agent was injured by falling into a trench built on his premises by a railroad company, the claim that he would have been injured in the same way had the trench been on the right of way was no defense. Wood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 93 App. Div. 53, 86 N. Y. S. 817. A boy of 9, running in the street, collided with a bicycle. Held, no negligence of the bicyclist being shown, and the act of the child being the sole cause of his injury, he could not recover, whether or not his act was negligent, or whether or not he could be considered capable of negligence. Lee v. Jones, 181 Mo. 291, 79 S. W. 927.

44. Claypool v. Wigmore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 509. The proximate cause of an injury is that which operates to produce particular consequences without the intervention of any independent or unforeseen cause or event, without which the injury would not have occurred; such consequences as might reasonably have been anticipated as likely to occur from the alleged negligent act. Strobeck v. Bren [Minn.] 101 N. W. 795. Where several proximate causes contribute to an accident, and each is an efficient cause, without the operation of which the accident would not have happened, it may be attributed to any or all of such causes; but it cannot be attributed to a cause unless without its operation the accident would not have happened. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793.

45. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Carey, 33 Ind. App. 275, 71 N. E. 244. Causes that are merely incidental to a superior or controlling agency are not proximate causes, though they may be nearer in time to the result. Id. Negligence may be regarded as the proximate cause of an injury of which it may not be the sole and immediate cause. If defendant's negligent, inconsiderate and wanton, though not malicious, act, concurred with any other thing, person or event, other than plaintiff's own fault, to produce the injury, so that it clearly appears that but for defendant's act the injury would not have occurred, defendant is responsible, though his negligent act may not have been the nearest cause in the chain of events or the order of time. Bowden v. Derby [Me.] 58 A. 993.

46. The original wrongdoer is not relieved from the consequences of his acts unless the intervening act of a third person was wrongful. A blow struck at an intoxicated person in self-defense, not being wrongful, does not relieve the person who sold the liquor causing the intoxication. Currier v. McKee [Me.] 59 A. 442.

47. Nickey v. Steuder [Ind.] 73 N. E. 117; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 663. Owner of premises not liable for injury in swinging door when such injury was caused by the act of a third person. Pardington v. Abraham, 93 App. Div. 359, 87 N. Y. S. 670. Proximate cause of plaintiff's injuries resulting from falling down elevator shaft held to be, not defendant's negligence in leaving door to shaft partly open, but the intervening act of plaintiff's companion in opening the door through which plaintiff walked without seeing that the car was not there. Claypool v. Wigmore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 509. Negligence of telephone company in maintaining wire on chimney which became defective held only remote cause of injury to plaintiff, struck by parts of chimney thrown down by derrick boom allowed by negligent workmen to swing out into street and strike the wire. Leeds v. New York Tel. Co., 178 N. Y. 118, 70 N. E. 219.

48. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 663; Claypool v. Wigmore [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 509; Nickey v. Steuder [Ind.] 73 N. E. 117. The act of a third person, intervening and contributing a condition necessary to the injurious effect of the original negligence, will not excuse the first wrongdoer, if such act ought to have been foreseen. Pittsfield Cottonwear Mfg. Co. v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 72 N. H. 546, 58 A. 242. Defendant built an inclined gangway across a street, in violation of law, and a workman wheeling a truck down the gangway frightened a passing horse which ran away, the accident resulting in the death of plaintiff's husband. Held, proximate cause of death was defendant's unlawful act in constructing the gangway, and not the workman's act. Shippers' Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032.

49. Pittsfield Cottonwear Mfg. Co. v. Pittsfield Shoe Co., 72 N. H. 546, 58 A. 242. A person is responsible for such consequences of his acts as ought to have been apprehended according to the usual experience of mankind. Currier v. McKee [Me.] 59 A. 442. The test of proximate cause is whether the injury and damage exhibited are such gence applies whether the original negligence was that of defendant or plaintiff.[50] If defendant's negligence was a direct and proximate cause of an accident, he is liable, even if the negligence of a third person contributed to the injury.[51] The general principles are further illustrated in the note.[52] in character as that in view of the cause originally set in motion, such injury and damage ought to have been anticipated as likely to occur. Watters v. Waterloo [Iowa] 101 N. W. 871. Among the natural and probable consequences of negligently letting a pair of horses run away, it is competent to find that they will swerve to one side or the other on account of the acts of persons who try to stop them in an imprudent manner, including waving a rake and hitting one of the horses on the head with it. Turner v. Page, 186 Mass. 600, 72 N. E. 329. A person charged with negligence is liable only for those injuries which a prudent man in the exercise of care could have reasonably foreseen or expected as the natural and probable consequences of his act or his omission of duty. Drum v. Miller, 135 N. C. 204, 47 S. E. 421. But this principle does not require that he should have been able to foresee the injury in the precise form in which it resulted or to anticipate the particular consequence which actually flowed from his act or omission. Id. A wrongdoer is liable for the natural and probable consequences of his acts, though the particular result is not such that it should have been foreseen. Vendor of sulphuric acid, not labeled as poison, to a creamery, liable for death of one who drank it, supposing it was buttermilk. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793.

50. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 663.

51. Townsend v. Boston [Mass.] 72 N. E. 991. Where a plaintiff was injured by a failure to perform a duty resting in the first instance on a third person, and not defendant, the proximate cause of the injury is the failure of the person owing a duty immediately to plaintiff. Failure of the person whose duty is to the third person, as by contract, may be a cause of the injury but is not the proximate cause. Applied where contractor building bridge for county contracted to relieve it of liability for injuries from use of temporary bridge. Styles v. Long Co., 70 N. J. Law, 301, 57 A. 448.

52. Violation of tenement house act not shown to be proximate cause of alleged injury. Kuhnen v. White, 92 N. Y. S. 104. Violent opening of gate in fence along public highway held proximate cause of injury, and not failure to give notice. Edwards v. Brayton [R. I.] 57 A. 784. Defective condition of eaves trough which fell, because of snow and ice sliding into it from roof, and injured plaintiff, was proximate cause; owner of building liable. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp. [R. I.] 59 A. 855. The striking of a buggy by a backing train is a proximate cause of injury, where the result is a runaway and the occupant is thrown out, and hurt some distance away. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 105 Ill. App. 111. The noncompliance with a city ordinance respecting elevators, though negligence, was not the cause of the injury. Middendorf v. Schulze, 105 Ill. App. 221. Street railway servants left empty reel for wire on unused portion of highway and boys rolled it down the street striking plaintiff's carriage, whereby she was injured. Held, street railway company's negligence was remote, not proximate cause. Glassey v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co., 185 Mass. 315, 70 N. E. 199. Employe of contractor engaged in plastering shaft of elevator struck by elevator, though operator had been instructed not to run the car below a certain floor. Held, negligence in running elevator was proximate cause of injury, and not contractor's negligence in failing to block the shaft. Siegel, Cooper & Co. v. Norton, 209 Ill. 201, 70 N. E. 636. A windstorm blew down a tree which fell on and broke down a fence between plaintiff's and defendants' lands. Plaintiff's cattle went through the hole so made, and through an open gate in a fence between defendants' land and a railway right of way, and were killed on the track by a train. Held, failure of defendants to keep gate in fence on right of way closed was not the proximate cause of plaintiff's loss by death of the cattle. Strobeck v. Bren [Minn.] 101 N. W. 795. Passenger, injured in railroad collision, suffered attacks of dizziness. While examining leak in pipe in sink she fell as a result of an attack of dizziness and broke her wrist. Held, collision not proximate cause of broken wrist, and no recovery therefor allowed. Snow v. New York, etc., R. Co., 185 Mass. 321, 70 N. E. 205. In December, 1900, plaintiff was thrown from a buggy by a defect in the street and his head injured, spells of dizziness resulting. In January, 1901, he became dizzy, slipped and fell on an icy walk and suffered the loss of an eye. Held, the last injury was not the proximate result of the first act of negligence, not being the natural and probable result, and an adequate cause, the icy walk, having intervened. Watters v. Waterloo [Iowa] 101 N. W. 871. If defendant sold plaintiff's son the liquor which caused his intoxication, and if by reason of his intoxication he made an assault on another person, who, in self-defense, struck and injured the intoxicated person, plaintiff may recover from defendant damages for injury to her means of support under the civil damage law [Rev. St. 1903, c. 29, § 58]. Currier v. McKee [Me.] 59 A. 442. Where a trolley slipped from the wire, breaking an electric lamp, a piece of which struck plaintiff, the slipping off of the trolley was not an "accident" for which no one was liable, within the meaning of the rule, that where two causes combine to produce an injury, and one is a pure accident, the other cause is the proximate cause of the injury. Nelson v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 802. Where a trolley pole slipped from the wire and struck an electric lamp near, and plaintiff was struck by a piece of the lamp, even if the electric light company was negligent in maintaining the lamp where it was, the street railway company's negligence intervened and was the proximate cause of the injury. Id. Averments that defendant negligently set fire to and burned the house in which plaintiff resided, with the members of the family, that he was in the house when it was ignited, and that he was burned while escaping therefrom, sufficiently shows that defendant's negligence was the proximate cause of plaintiff's personal injuries. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635. The fact that plaintiff, an infant, was taken out, and brought back on account of the cold, and then received the injuries, did not break the line of causation. Id.

§ 4. Contributory negligence.[53]—Contributory negligence is a want of ordinary care[54] on the part of plaintiff or the person injured, which was a proximate cause of, or proximately contributed to, the injury;[55] and, when shown, defeats a recovery.[56]

Due care by a plaintiff[57] or person injured is that usually exercised by ordinarily prudent persons under the same circumstances.[58] Intoxication is no excuse.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1003.

54. See definitions of "negligence" and "ordinary care" above.

55. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Crabb [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 408; Brewster v. Elizabeth City [N. C.] 49 S. E. 885; Nelson v. Georgia, etc., R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 722. Negligence of a plaintiff does not bar recovery unless it contributed to produce the injury. Lyon v. Grand Rapids [Wis.] 99 N. W. 311. Plaintiff's negligence defeats recovery if it was the sole cause of his injuries, or if it concurred with defendant's negligence so that without it, the injury would not have occurred. Lynch v. Waldwick [Wis.] 101 N. W. 925; Pim v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 155. If plaintiff's negligence directly contributed to produce his injury he cannot recover, though defendant's negligence was the more proximate cause. Gilbert v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 529. Plaintiff's want of ordinary care will not defeat his action unless his negligence was a proximate cause (not necessarily the proximate cause) of his injury. To establish the causal relation it must be made to appear that his act or omission and his injury are known by common experience to be naturally and usually in sequence. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13.

56. Lee v. Foley, 113 La. 663, 37 So. 594; Moulton v. Sanford & C. P. R. Co. [Me.] 59 A. 1023; O'Neill v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N. Y. S. 208. Negligence of decedent defeats recovery for his death [St. 1891, p. 438, c. 124]. McDonough v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 98 Me. 304, 56 A. 913. Where there is but one injury contributory negligence of plaintiff will defeat a recovery, whether he sues defendants jointly or severally. Fletcher v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 552. The rule is without exception in Indiana, that where the injury is not willfully inflicted, the injured person must himself be without fault contributing to produce the injury. Quinn v. Chicago & E. R. Co., 162 Ind. 442, 70 N. E. 526. Statutes making it unnecessary for plaintiffs in actions for negligence to plead want of contributory negligence do not change the effect of contributory negligence as a defense, whether it be shown in the complaint or by the evidence [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 359a, 7083, construed]. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Collins [Ind.] 71 N. E. 661. Where mining employe negligently, and in violation of the rules of the mining company, let cars down a grade and was killed, the defense of contributory negligence was available to the railway company, though the relation of master and servant did not exist between it and deceased. Smith v. Centennial Eureka Mln. Co., 27 Utah, 307, 75 P. 749.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1003, n. 67, 68, 69; Id. 1004.

58. A plaintiff is not required to exercise more care than is usual under similar circumstances among careful persons of the class to which said plaintiff belongs. Normile v. Wheeling Traction Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1030. Mere carelessness does not defeat recovery by a plaintiff unless it be negligence; that is unless an ordinarily prudent man would have anticipated the probability of some injury. Lynch v. Waldwick [Wis.] 101 N. W. 925. A person is not negligent in failing to look for danger when under the surrounding circumstances he had no reason to apprehend danger. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson [Kan.] 77 P. 576.

ILLUSTRATIONS. Held not negligence: Person who fell into elevator pit in dark basement while going to closet held not guilty of contributory negligence in not getting a light. Glaser v. Rothschild, 106 Mo. App. 418, 80 S. W. 332. Customer in store who stepped on duster on stairs and fell held not guilty of contributory negligence as matter of law. Graham v. Bauland Co., 97 App. Div. 141, 89 N. Y. S. 595. Street cleaner struck by unguided team held not guilty of contributory negligence. Turtenwald v. Wisconsin Lakes Ice & Cartage Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 948.

Held negligence: Walking on street railway track while intoxicated. Bugbee v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 165. Failure to look and listen for a car which could have been seen and heard. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Zaring, 33 Ind. 297, 71 N. E. 270. Attempting to cross in a row boat in front of a tug with two car floats. Klutt v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 133 F. 1003. Rowing a boat in the course of a steamboat, knowing its course and time schedule, and seeing it when 150 feet away. Yarnold v. Bowers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 799. Lighting a fire in a stove where there are live coals or a blaze, by the use of kerosene oil, even of the statutory standard. Riggs v. Standard Oil Co., 130 F. 199. No recovery by barber for loss of patronage by reason of soap sold him containing alkali, when he used the soap on a "large number" of customers, knowing the effects. Slattery v. Colgate [R. I.] 55 A. 639. No recovery for injuries caused by fall through unguarded hole in floor, when plaintiff did not use ordinary entrance to building but used a door on which there was for want of such care,[59] but the fact of intoxication will not alone bar recovery.[60] Voluntary exposure to danger is negligence.[61] Where one is placed in a position of peril through fault of another, that fact must be considered in judging his conduct.[62] The duty to exercise due care to avoid the consequences of another's negligence does not arise until the negligence of the other exists or is apparent, or the circumstances are such that an ordinarily prudent person would have reason to apprehend its existence.[63] Mere knowledge or notice of danger is not conclusive.[64]

In purely statutory actions, the rules as to what constitutes due diligence on the part of plaintiff may not be the same as in ordinary actions; the language of the particular statute governs.[65]

Children.[66]—A child of very tender years is presumed incapable of negligence under any circumstances,[67] but the defense is available when applied to the con-

a warning notice to keep out. Greis v. Hazard Mfg. Co., 209 Pa. 276, 58 A. 474. Woman who fell down stairway in store, which she said she could not see, though she could see articles on tables beyond the stairway, held guilty of contributory negligence. Dunn v. Kemp [Wash.] 78 P. 782 One who walked into a dark corner in a building, thinking there might be a public closet there, and fell into an open elevator shaft, was guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. Massey v. Seller [Or.] 77 P. 397.

59. Vizacchero v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 105.

60. The mere fact that plaintiff was intoxicated will not bar recovery for negligence, unless his conduct, resulting from such condition, was not that of an ordinarily prudent and careful man, and contributed directly to produce his injury. Clarke v. Philadelphia & R. Coal & Iron Co., 92 Minn. 418, 100 N. W. 231.

61. As where purchaser of coal remained in coal shed while teamster was unloading and was struck by a piece of coal. Atherton v. Kansas City Coal & Coke Co., 106 Mo. App. 591, 81 S. W. 223. One who voluntarily and unnecessarily exposes himself to injury from a known and imminent danger cannot recover, though concurrent negligence of defendant made the danger greater than he supposed it. Gilbert v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 529. When two ways are open to a person, one obviously safe and the other plainly dangerous, voluntary choice of the latter is ordinarily negligence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brock [Kan.] 77 P. 86.

62. One placed in such a position is not required to exercise the same degree of care that a person of ordinary prudence would have exercised. Saunders v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 387. If an injudicious choice of methods is made in an emergency, and results from fear or bewilderment from being placed in a position of danger through negligence of another, there is no contributory negligence as a matter of law. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Brock [Kan.] 77 P. 86. To excuse contributory negligence on the ground of danger, there must either be a real danger, or the circumstances must be such as to create in the mind of the person a reasonable apprehension of danger. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Booth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 121.

63. Freeman v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ga. 469, 47 S. E. 931.

64. Hollingsworth v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 101 N. W. 455. Where appellee, under great excitement, fell over obstructions placed in the road by the city during its repair of the street, appellee having known of the obstructions but having for the moment forgotten them, there being no lights nor other warnings of the danger, forgetfulness of the appellee under the circumstances was held not to constitute contributory negligence. City of Lancaster v. Walter [Ky.] 80 S. W. 189.

Note: The knowledge of the defective condition of the sidewalk does not show as a matter of law the existence of contributory negligence where the party forgets such state of facts, it being only evidence for the jury. City of Maysville v. Guilfoyle, 110 Ky. 670; Virgin v. Saginaw, 125 Mich. 499. The courts, however, draw a distinction between forgetfulness and heedlessness. King v. Colon, 125 Mich. 511. Where such knowledge is shown to be present at the time of injury, an assumption of the risk can be made out, and where such knowledge existed before, its presence might be presumed as a matter of law in the absence of extraordinary facts, as excitement, fright, etc. The use of the word "forget" must lead to confusion. The question is ultimately whether the plaintiff acted as an ordinarily prudent man would be expected to act under the circumstances. Beach, Contributory Negligence, § 9.—4 Columbia, L. R. 605.

65. Thus under Mass. St. 1886, p. 117, c. 140, allowing recovery from a street railway corporation for death of a passenger or one not a passenger, being in the exercise of due care, the same proof of diligence is required as in a proceeding by indictment for the death. It was held that one carried from a car in an unconscious condition and laid beside the track and afterwards run over by a car was not in the exercise of due care within the meaning of the statute. Hudson v. Lynn & B. R. Co., 185 Mass. 510, 71 N. E. 66.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1004.

67. Coleman v. Himmelberger-Harrison Land & Lumber Co., 105 Mo. App. 254, 79 S. W. 981; Buechner v. New Orleans, 112 La. 599, 36 So. 603. Child 2 years 6 months duct of a child not of tender years.[68] Negligence of such a child is want of such care as children of his age, experience and intelligence are capable of using under like circumstances;[69] the question of capacity is usually one of fact,[70] though the age at which an infant's responsibility should be presumed to commence has been held a question of law.[71] The burden of proving capacity is on defendant.[72]

Comparative negligence.[73]—The doctrine of comparative negligence, that if plaintiff's negligence is slight as compared with that of defendant, recovery may be had notwithstanding, is generally disapproved,[74] most courts holding that contributory negligence, however slight, defeats recovery.[75] But contributory negligence is no defense if defendant was guilty of wanton or willful negligence.[76] In some states the rule is that plaintiff's negligence will not defeat a recovery unless old. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Bordenchecker, 33 Ind. App. 138, 70 N. E. 995. Child 2 years 8 months old. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schomberg [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1041. Child 4 years 6 months old. Macdonald v. O'Reilly [Or.] 78 P. 753. Boy of 6 presumed non sui juris. Kaplan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 585.

68. Child 8½ years old. Rohloff v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 76 Conn. 689. 58 A. 5. Child of 12, permitted to go on streets alone, presumed to have sufficient intelligence to avoid injury in a double swinging storm door by getting his hand caught. Dolan v. Callender, McAuslan & Troup Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 655. Bright boy of 15, partially blind, held guilty of contributory negligence in going on draw bridge after warning not to do so, which resulted in his walking off and being drowned. Desure v. New York, etc., R. Co., 94 App. Div. 251, 87 N. Y. S. 988. Boy of 16, with knowledge of and experience in riding on box cars, held capable of contributory negligence in riding on such a car. Cockrell v. Texas & N. O. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 529.

69. Coleman v. Himmelberger-Harrison Land & Lumber Co., 105 Mo. App. 254, 79 S. W. 981; Dynes v. Bromley, 208 Pa. 633, 57 A. 1123. Rule applied to child 9 years and 3 months old. Dempsey v. Brooklyn-Heights R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 639. To child of 6. Heinzle v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 182 Mo. 528, 81 S. W. 848. To child of 8. Rohloff v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 76 Conn. 689, 58 A. 5. To bright boy of 10 or 11. Freeman v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 81. To dull boy of 13. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Bulger [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 557.

70. Dynes v. Bromley, 208 Pa. 633, 57 A. 1123. Jury at liberty to find that a boy 7½ years old was not chargeable with contributory negligence. Fritsch v. New York & Q. R. R. Co., 93 App. Div. 554, 87 N. Y. S. 942. Whether negligence may be imputed to a child under 12 is a question of fact. Dempsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 639. Evidence being conflicting as to capacity of plaintiff, a weak minded child, whether he had capacity to be guilty of contributory negligence was for the jury. Morrow v. Gaffney Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 573. The rule that contributory negligence will defeat a recovery does not apply to a child of tender years unless it is possessed of that degree of intelligence, prudence and caution which will cause it to know and to appreciate and to understand the dangers incident to itself from its wrongful acts and omissions. North Tex. Const. Co. v. Bostick [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 109. There is no arbitrary rule fixing the age when a youth may be declared wholly capable of understanding and avoiding danger; but a boy of 18, of ordinary intelligence and experience, should show some incapacity, in addition to his minority, to warrant a court in instructing as a matter of law that he was not required to use the same care as an adult. Coleman v. Himmelberger-Harrison Land & Lumber Co., 105 Mo. App. 254, 79 S. W. 981.

71. 12 years is commonly taken as such age. Dempsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 639. 7 or 8 years suggested. Coleman v. Himmelberger-Harrison Land & Lumber Co., 105 Mo. App. 254, 79 S. W. 981.

72. The law presumes a child between 7 and 14 years of age incapable of contributory negligence, and in an action by such infant the burden is on defendant to overcome this presumption by proof of intelligence and capacity. Lynchburg Cotton Mills v. Stanley, 102 Va. 590, 46 S. E. 908. Plaintiff is entitled to presumption that child 9 years and 3 months old is non sui juris. Dempsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 639. A child of 7 is presumed incapable of personal negligence in the absence of evidence as to his knowledge, intelligence or capacity. Watson v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 47, 44 S. E. 375.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1006.

74. Alabama. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Bynum [Ala.] 36 So. 736. Illinois. Imes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. App. 37; Chicago, W. & V. Coal Co. v. Moran, 210 Ill. 9, 71 N. E. 38. Kentucky. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Sydor [Ky.] 82 S. W. 989. Michigan. Buxton v. Ainsworth [Mich.] 101 N. W. 817. Washington. Franklin v. Engel, 34 Wash. 480, 76 P. 84; Woolf v. Washington R. & Nav. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 997.

75. Roy v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1077.

76. Alger, Smith & Co. v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 298; Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341. Contributory negligence is no defense if defendant was guilty of gross negligence. But in Wisconsin "gross" and "willful" negligence are practically held the same. Rideout v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 672. But nothing short of wanton or willful negligence excuses negligence of plaintiff. Chicago, W. & V. Coal Co. v. Moran, 210 Ill. 9, 71 N. E. 38.

it was equal to or greater than the negligence of the defendant, or unless plaintiff by the exercise of ordinary care could have avoided the consequences of defendant's negligence;[77] but the damages recoverable will be diminished in proportion to the extent of plaintiff's fault.[78]

Last clear chance doctrine.[79]—The party who has a clear opportunity of avoiding the accident, notwithstanding the negligence of his opponent, is considered solely responsible.[80] Thus negligent failure to avoid injury, after discovery of plaintiff's peril, renders the defendant liable, even though the plaintiff was first negligent;[81] and, similarly, plaintiff cannot recover, if, subsequent to defendant's negligence, he negligently fails to avoid the injury.[82] But this doctrine of prior

77. Christian v. Macon R. & Light Co., 120 Ga. 314, 47 S. E. 923. If plaintiff neglects a clear chance to avoid injury from prior negligent acts of defendant, his conduct is not mere contributory negligence lessening damages, but failure to avoid danger, which defeats the right to recover. Simmons v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 120 Ga. 225, 47 S. E. 570.

78. Florida statute, providing that in actions against railroads, where both plaintiff and servants of the company are at fault, the former may recover, but the damages may be diminished or increased in proportion to the amount of the default attributable to him, held properly construed. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Evans [Ga.] 49 S. E. 308.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1004, n. 78.

80. Vizacchero v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 105.

81. Floyd v. Paducah R. & Light Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2364, 73 S. W. 1122; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2317, 80 S. W. 768; Butler v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 775; Meng v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 213; Murray v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 995; El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Kendall [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 61. The essence of the "last clear chance" doctrine is that negligence of the plaintiff is no defense unless it is the proximate cause of the injury and that it is not such proximate cause when the defendant, after becoming aware of the danger plaintiff is in, or is evidently about to place himself in, could avert the consequence by the exercise of reasonable care. Green v. Los Angeles Terminal R. Co., 143 Cal. 31, 76 P. 719. Negligence of one person, whereby he is placed in a perilous position, does not excuse a reckless disregard of his safety by another. Under such conditions even a trespasser is entitled to protection from wanton or willful acts; and when the danger to which he is exposed is apparent, the duty exists to exercise ordinary care to avoid injuring him. Rawitzer v. St. Paul City R. Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 664. Evidence held to justify finding that train employes failed to use ordinary care to prevent a collision at a crossing after discovery of plaintiff's peril. Central Tex. & N. W. R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 862. A failure of the operators of trains to keep a lookout for persons on the track at points where they have a right to be is actionable negligence, notwithstanding contributory negligence of a person injured through failure to keep such lookout. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Sydor [Ky.] 82 S. W. 989. Though a person was negligent in getting into his buggy when near a locomotive, but after he got in and had control of his horse, negligence of the engineer in blowing off steam occurred and proximately caused the injury, defendant was liable. Hord v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 227. Truck driver recovered for injuries caused by being caught between pole of his wagon and load ahead, where, though he negligently placed himself in a dangerous position, negligence of the driver of the team in the rear was the proximate cause of his injury. Steinacker v. Hills Bros. Co., 91 App. Div. 521, 87 N. Y. S. 33. Failure to use ordinary care to avoid injury to a person discovered in a perilous position, or failure to use ordinary care to discover a person in a dangerous position, is negligence on the part of a motorman. The "last clear chance" doctrine applies whether or not the motorman had actual knowledge of the injured person's situation. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 169.

Doctrine held not applicable: The last clear chance doctrine cannot be applied unless knowledge of plaintiff's position by those charged with negligence is shown. Dotta v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 32. Brakeman was killed by collision, having failed to guard a switch. The engineer of coming train could not see brakeman's train until too near to stop. Held, "last clear chance" doctrine not applicable as against company. Holland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 359. Doctrine of discovered peril held not applicable where brakeman found boy asleep on top of box car, and told him to get off at next stop. Cockrell v. Texas & N. O. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 529.

82. Where a passenger's station was not announced, but the train stopped, and the passenger attempted to alight after it had started, and was thrown off by a sudden jerk of the train; held, he had a clear chance to avoid injury by returning to his car, and could not recover. Simmons v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 120 Ga. 225, 47 S. E. 570. The law of contributory negligence is not applicable where the person injured did not fail to exercise ordinary care before the negligence of the defendant was apparent or should have been apprehended by him, and could not after that time have avoided the consequences of such negligence by the exercise of ordinary care. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818.

and subsequent negligence is not applicable when the negligence of plaintiff and that of defendant are practically simultaneous.[83]

Imputed negligence.[84]—Negligence of the driver of a private vehicle is not imputable to one riding in the vehicle as guest, with no authority or control over the driver,[85] the relation between them not being such as to make them responsible for each other's acts.[86] But there are holdings to the contrary.[87] Conduct 83. Butler v. Rockland, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 58 A. 775; Green v. Los Angeles Terminal R. Co., 143 Cal. 31, 76 P. 719.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1005.

85. Mack v. Shawangunk, 90 N. Y. S. 760; Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245. Negligence of driver not imputable to infant guest. Hampel v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1002. Negligence of father not imputable to adult daughter. Central Tex. & N. W. R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 862. Negligence of husband not imputable to wife. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Johnson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 571.

86. As where they are not shown to be engaged in a common undertaking, and where the relation of master and servant, or principal and agent, does not exist. Central Texas & N. W. R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 862. Negligence of the driver of a wagon not imputable to his helper, in the rear of the wagon, where helper was injured by collision with street car. Le Blanc v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 150. Where plaintiff, when injured in collision with street car, was riding gratuitously on a wagon driven by one who was carting ice for plaintiff and his customers and others, it was held that the driver was not plaintiff's servant, and since plaintiff exercised no control over the wagon, negligence of the driver could not be imputed to the plaintiff. Scarangello v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 430.

87. The driver of a private conveyance is the agent of the person in such conveyance, so that his negligence contributing to the injury complained of by such person, will defeat the action. Lightfoot v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 30. The right of recovery of one driving with another, who owns and drives the team, and to whose care as driver plaintiff intrusted himself, depends upon whether the driver exercised due care to prevent the accident which is the ground of the action. Evensen v. Lexington & B. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 355. Where one of two persons in a rowboat with the other's consent does all the rowing and manages the boat, his negligence in so doing, which results in a collision, is imputable to the other occupant of the boat. Yarnald v. Bowers [Mass.] 71 N. E. 799.

NOTE. Imputed negligence in the case of a gratuitous passenger: "It is generally settled that a passenger in a public conveyance does not so identify himself with the carrier that the latter's negligence, contributing to the passenger's injury, prevents his recovery from a negligent third party. Little v. Hackett, 116 U. S. 366, 29 Law. Ed. 652. The position of a gratuitous passenger in a private conveyance not controlled by his own servant, though seemingly based upon similar principles, is perhaps more in dispute. Many cases of the sort, apparently involving imputed negligence, have in reality gone off upon other grounds. For example, the passenger himself may be negligent in permitting an incompetent person to drive him. More frequently a plaintiff is guilty of actual negligence at the time of the accident; for if he has any control over his host or his driver he is not absolved from a duty to take reasonable care in noticing and pointing out dangers. Whitman v. Fisher, 98 Me. 575; Allyn v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 105 Mass. 77. But for imputed negligence itself we find a well-recognized field in cases of joint enterprise. Familiar instances are where a number of men hire a barge for an excursion, or where they are using a team for their own pecuniary profit, not for that of their employer, in moving furniture. Cass v. Third Ave. R. Co., 47 N. Y. S. 356. In such an undertaking each is authorized to act for all with respect to the means employed in executing the common purpose. Koplitz v. St. Paul, 86 Minn. 373. Each, as principal, has a corresponding right of control and direction. From this community of interest and control it may easily and justly follow that one of the participants impliedly assumes a liability to third persons for the negligence of his fellows, and at the same time a disability to sue for injuries to which they have contributed. Stroher v. Elting, 97 N. Y. 102, 49 Am. Rep. 515. See Elting Land Co. v. Mingea, 89 Ala. 521, 529. The sole basis for imputed negligence so called would then seem to be some such privity as that existing between principal and agent, one dependent upon an express appointment or upon an appointment implied from such an interest and control as may properly make one responsible for the negligent acts of another. The Bernina, L. R. 13 App. Cas. 1, 16. In Michigan, although contributory negligence is still imputed to the ordinary gratuitous passenger in line with the now overruled English case of Thorogood v. Bryan, 8 C. B. 115, a recent decision in that jurisdiction, recognizing that such imputation of negligence is founded upon a "fiction" of agency, refuses to impute to a child the negligence of its driver, for the excellent reason that an infant is incapable of having an agent. Hampel v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1002. Consistency would appear to demand that the adult passenger in Michigan, and wherever contributory negligence is imputed, be liable directly, upon this doctrine of agency, for his driver's negligence. These two results, the liability and the disability, seem inseparable in any case of imputed negligence. It is difficult to conceive of such a privity as will bring about the one and not the other. Beach, Contrib. Neg. § 103 et seq. If the negligence of A is to be treated as the negligence of B it must be so treated for all purposes. The majority of courts, however, of a driver may be considered on the question of negligence of the person injured in becoming a guest in the vehicle.[88] If the relation of master and servant exists, negligence of the servant is imputable to the master.[89]

Where two fellow-servants with distinct duties to perform are severally engaged in the performance of such duties, negligence of one cannot be imputed to the other.[90]

By weight of modern authority, negligence of a parent or custodian is not imputable to a child non sui juris,[91] so as to bar an action for or on its behalf.[92] Contributory negligence of the parent, or a custodian acting as the parent's agent will defeat a recovery for the wrongful death of a child non sui juris brought for the parent's benefit.[93] The degree of care required of parents is that which persons of reasonable prudence of the same class and with the same means ordinarily fail to find any privity or agency in the usual case of a gratuitous passenger and his host or driver. Union, etc., R. Co. v. Lapsley, 51 F. 174; Cunningham v. City, 84 Minn. 21. Contra, Prideaux v. City, 43 Wis. 513, 28 Am. Rep. 558; Lightfoot v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 30. They are coming to treat in the same way the gratuitous passenger and his host, the paying passenger and his carrier, and the infant and his custodian. Consequently in each of these cases where they find no such privity as should directly tax the one for the other's fault he is not indirectly taxed by means of imputed negligence for the other's contribution."—18 Harv. L. R. 219.

88. As rapid driving and intoxication, if known to the guest when he entered the vehicle. Thuis v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 41.

89. Markowitz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 351.

90. Negligence of the driver of a fire engine is not imputable to the engineer riding on the rear of the engine, who was struck and injured by a street car. McKernan v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 812.

91. Watson v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 47, 44 S. E. 375. No negligence was imputable to an infant of tender years who was left on a veranda, in the cold, when the house was on fire inside. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635. Negligence of a parent or custodian cannot be imputed to a child to support a plea of contributory negligence. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591.

92. Macdonald v. O'Reilly [Or.] 78 P. 753. Contra doctrine recognized, though point not raised, in Cameron v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 208, and Finkelstein v. American Ice Co., 88 N. Y. S. 942.

Note: The doctrine stated in the text is known as the "Vermont rule," the leading case being Robinson v. Cone, 22 Vt. 213, 54 Am. Dec. 67. See, besides the recent cases cited to the text, Bottoms v. Railroad, 114 N. C. 699, 19 S. E. 730, 41 Am. St. Rep. 799, 25 L. R. A. 784; Smith v. Railroad, 114 N. C. 749, 19 S. E. 863, 25 L. R. A. 287; Duval v. Railroad, 134 N. C. 349, 46 S. E. 750; Shearman & Redf., Neg. § 78. The last authority holds that the Vermont rule "is the true rule and is abundantly justified by the reasoning of the courts which in more than 20 states have adopted it."

The contrary rule was laid down in Hartfield v. Roper, 21 Wend. [N. Y.] 615, 34 Am. Dec. 273, and is commonly known as the "New York rule." This has been severely criticized, and is rejected by a majority of the states. Newman v. R. R., 52 N. J. Law, 446, 19 A. 1102, 8 L. R. A. 842; Robinson v. Cone, 22 Vt. 213, 54 Am. Dec. 67; Beach, Con. Neg. § 42; Bishop, Non-Contract Law, § 582.

What is known as the "English rule" was laid down in Waite v. Railroad, 1 E., B. & E. 719, and denies recovery only in cases where the parent or custodian is present and controlling the infant, and negligently contributes to the injury. This is followed in this country only by the Massachusetts courts.

93. Richmond, F. & P. R. Co. v. Martin's Adm'r, 102 Va. 201, 45 S. E. 894. Negligence of the father is a defense to an action for damages for death of his minor child, where the father is the beneficiary. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591. In action for wrongful death of a child four years and eight months old, it was incumbent on plaintiff to show that there was no contributory negligence on the part of deceased, or of those who had charge of him. Brennan v. Standard Oil Co. of New York [Mass.] 73 N. E. 472.

NOTE. Imputed negligence in actions for wrongful death: The rule given in the text is also supported by Westerberg v. R. R., 142 Pa. 471, 21 A. 878, 24 Am. St. Rep. 510; R. R. v. Wilcox, 138 Ill. 370, 27 N. E. 899, 21 L. R. A. 76; Tiffany, Death by Wrongful Act, § 69; Beach, Con. Neg. § 44; Wolf v. R. R., 55 Ohio St. 530, 45 N. E. 708, 36 L. R. A. 812. The same rule applies where the parent is suing as administrator, but is also the beneficial plaintiff, or the cestui que trust of the action, as distributee of the child's estate. 3 Thompson, Neg. § 3077; Beach, Contrib. Neg. § 44; Tiffany, Death by Wrongful Act, § 69; Smith v. Railroad, 92 Pa. 450, 37 Am. Rep. 705; Reilly v. Railroad, 94 Mo. 600, 7 S. W. 407; Railroad v. Freeman, 36 Ark. 41; Bamberger v. Railroad, 95 Tenn. 30, 31 S. W. 163, 49 Am. St. Rep. 909, 28 L. R. A. 486. In Railroad v. Wilcox, 138 Ill. 370, 27 N. E. 899, 21 L. R. A. 76, the whole subject is admirably discussed, with a full review of the authorities, and the conclusion is reached that, while the negligence of parents, or others in loco parentis, cannot be imputed to a child to support the plea of contributory negligence, when the action is for his benefit, yet when the action is by the parent, or the parent is the real beneficiary of the action, as distributee of the deceased child, the con-exercise and deem adequate to protect their children from danger.[94] In Oregon, negligence of the mother will not be imputed to the father so as to defeat an action brought by him to recover as administrator for the death of their minor child.[95]

The mere fact that an insane person is at large is not necessarily evidence of negligence of the custodian.[96]

§ 5. Actions.[97] Pleading and issues.[98]—The complaint or petition must allege facts disclosing a duty owed by defendant to the person injured.[99] But where the law imposes and defines a duty, there is no necessity to plead it specially.[1] Where a petition sets out certain acts of negligence to show a violation of a particular right, it may be amended by setting out additional acts to show substantially the same violation of the same right.[2] tributory negligence of the parent can be shown in evidence in bar of the action.

In Iowa, Virginia, and Louisiana, negligence of the parent is no defense where the action is brought by the administrator. But in these states the damages arising from the wrongful death survive and become a part of the estate of the deceased. Wymore v. Mahaska, 78 Iowa, 396, 16 Am. St. Rep. 449; N. & W. R. R. v. Groseclose's Adm'r, 88 Va. 267, 13 S. E. 454, 29 Am. St. Rep. 718; Westerfield v. Levi Bros., 43 La. Ann. 66.

That the negligence of one member of a family will not be imputed to another is applied in actions under statutes giving a right of action for death by wrongful act for the benefit of parents or next of kin, it being held in such cases that the negligence of one of the beneficiaries cannot be imputed to the others to bar a recovery. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford, 24 Ohio St. 631, 15 Am. Rep. 633; Davis v. Guarnieri, 45 Ohio St. 470, 15 N. E. 350, 4 Am. St. Rep. 548; Wolf, Adm'r v. Lake Erie & W. R. Co., 55 Ohio St. 517, 45 N. E. 708, 36 L. R. A. 812; R. R. v. Gravitt, 93 Ga. 369, 44 Am. St. Rep. 145, 26 L. R. A. 553. See, also, Macdonald v. O'Reilly [Or.] 78 P. 753; Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591.

The doctrine that contributory negligence of beneficiaries defeats the action for wrongful death is abundantly supported by the authorities. Strutzel v. St. Paul, 47 Minn. 543; McMahon v. Mayor, 33 N. Y. 642; Schierhold v. North Beach, 40 Cal. 447; Chicago City R. Co. v. Robinson, 127 Ill. 9, 11 Am. St. Rep. 87; Dahl v. Milwaukee City R. Co., 62 Wis. 652; Birkett v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 101 N. Y. 504; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 24 Md. 84, 87 Am. Dec. 600; A. & C. A. L. Co. v. Gravitt, 93 Ga. 369; Chicago City R. Co. v. Wilcox, 138 Ill. 370; City of Pekin v. McMahon, 154 Ill. 153; Bellefontaine R. Co. v. Snyder, 24 Ohio St. 670; Smith v. Railroad Co., 92 Pa. 450, 37 Am. Rep. 705; Pratt Coal Co. v. Brawley, 83 Ala. 371, 3 Am. St. Rep. 751; Bamberger v. Citizens' Street R. Co., 95 Tenn. 18, 49 Am. St. Rep. 909; Ploof v. Burlington Traction Co. [Vt.] 41 A. 1017. Tiffany on Death by Wrongful Act, § 69.—The cases last cited are taken from Richmond, F. & P. R. Co. v. Martin's Adm'r, 102 Va. 201, 45 S. E. 894. On general subject, see Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591, and Macdonald v. O'Reilly [Or.] 78 P. 753, from which most of the above matter is taken.

94. Where yard was fenced, children not allowed on streets, father, a rag gatherer, was gone all day, and mother had care of three children, held, no contributory negligence to preclude recovery for death of child of four, killed by wagon in street. Del Rossi v. Cooney, 208 Pa. 233, 57 A. 514. Parents held not negligent in intrusting children to older sister 11 years old; and child, struck by car held not negligent. Cameron v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 208. Where mother of child less than 4 years old allowed it to go across a street crowded with people and vehicles, and the child stopped in the street and stooped down, there was such imputed and actual negligence as to defeat a recovery. Finkelstein v. American Ice Co., 88 N. Y. S. 942.

95. Macdonald v. O'Reilly [Or.] 78 P. 753.

96. Simpson v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 658.

97, 98. See 2 Curr. L. 1006.

99. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 660. A general allegation is insufficient; facts showing duty must be alleged. Whitten v. Nevada Power, Light & Water Co., 132 F. 782. Characterization of an act or omission as negligent will not supply averments of facts showing the existence of a duty to exercise care. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Davis, 162 Ind. 558, 70 N. E. 875. Where facts alleged show danger was obvious, an allegation that plaintiff was ignorant of it was unavailing, and did not show a duty to warn. Durell v. Hartwell [R. I.] 58 A. 448. An allegation of custom for the purpose of showing a duty must be sufficiently definite to show the extent and nature of the custom relied on to show negligence. Id. A declaration by a trespasser against a railway company must allege that the company could have avoided injury by the use of ordinary care, after discovering plaintiff's peril. Hortenstein v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 102 Va. 914, 47 S. E. 996. A mere allegation that plaintiff is the owner and in lawful occupation of a boathouse on land does not show a duty of the owner of the land to maintain structure near it in a safe condition; there is nothing to show that the owner of the boathouse was more than a mere trespasser or licensee. St. Joseph Ice Co. v. Bertch, 33 Ind. App. 491, 71 N. E. 56.

1. Adams Exp. Co. v. Aldridge [Colo. App.] 77 P. 6.

2. City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318.

General allegations of negligence[3] are sufficient as against a general demurrer,[4] but insufficient as against a special demurrer for want of facts[5] or other proper exception.[6] A petition containing both general and special averments presents only such issues as are raised by the special allegations.[7] The allegation of negligence in the doing of an act is the statement of an ultimate and issuable fact, and when the act is sufficiently described, the general characterization of it as negligent is enough.[8] The negligence charged must be alleged to have been that of defendant.[9] There is a conflict as to whether allegations of ordinary negligence[10] and of gross or wanton and willful negligence are so inconsistent as to require an election,[11] and as to whether proof of the former will support allegations of the latter.[12]

Contributory negligence being matter of defense, it need not be negatived in the complaint[13] unless the facts pleaded tend to show it.[14] An allegation of due

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1006, 1007, n. 4, 5, 6.

4. If a legal duty and a violation thereof are disclosed, a general averment of negligence will be sufficient on demurrer. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 73 N. E. 91.

5. Palmer Brick Co. v. Chenall, 119 Ga. 837, 47 S. E. 329; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818.

6. A general allegation of negligence is sufficient if no proper exception is taken to it; but on the proper motion, plaintiff should be required to allege specific acts of negligence. Sommers v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 268. A general allegation of negligence is sufficient to withstand a demurrer for want of facts. Remedy is motion to make more specific, not a demurrer. Nickey v. Steuder [Ind.] 73 N. E. 117. A mere allegation that the injury complained of was received through and by negligence of defendant is without effect unless applied to some act or omission stated in the same or preceding allegations. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fertig [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 834.

7. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeler [Kan.] 79 P. 673.

8. Where plaintiff was thrown from bicycle by collision with wagon, an allegation that defendant's servant "so carelessly and negligently managed the horse and wagon, that," etc., was sufficient as against a motion to require specific facts to be alleged. Adams Exp. Co. v. Aldridge [Colo. App.] 77 P. 6. It is not necessary to aver the minor circumstances which go to establish the negligence; it is sufficient to allege that the defendant negligently committed the act which led to the injury. Wehrenberg v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 271. Amendment setting up that death was caused by failing to repair fastenings of swinging sign does not state a new cause of action where it was originally alleged that he was negligent in maintaining the sign. Haines v. Pearson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 645.

9. A petition fails to state a cause of action if it does not allege negligence nor facts showing it as a matter of law, nor that the injury complained of was caused by any act of defendant. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Clinebell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 839.

10. A complaint alleging that plaintiff was shot and wounded through the negligence and improper and unlawful conduct of defendants is for negligence only. Magar v. Hammond, 95 App. Div. 249, 88 N. Y. S. 796.

11. "Negligence" and "intentional" are contradictory terms. Gibeline v. Smith, 106 Mo. App. 545, 80 S. W. 961. A complaint using language appropriate to the description of both ordinary and gross negligence as if both occurred at the same time, and as if the latter included the former, is indefinite and uncertain, and confuses the element of advertence and inadvertence. Rideout v. Winnebago Traction Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 672. Such a complaint should be construed and plaintiff's claim confined on the trial to one species of wrongdoing. Id. Where the clauses of the complaint containing the gist of the cause of action charged simple negligence, it was proper to strike out the words "willful, wanton and reckless" in subsequent clauses, because they tended to confuse and to state an inconsistent cause of action. Williams v. North Wis. Lumber Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 589.

Contra: Under the South Carolina statute, regulating practice in actions ex delicto, an act may be alleged as negligent and also as willful, and plaintiff will not be required to elect or make more definite and certain, but under such allegations may prove all the facts of his alleged wrong. Du Pre v. Southern R. Co., 66 S. C. 124, 44 S. E. 580. And see 2 Curr. L. 1007, n. 14, citing Schumpert v. So. R. Co., 65 S. C. 332.

12. Allegations of gross negligence or willful or wanton injury are not supported by proof of ordinary or mere actionable negligence. Turtenwald v. Wisconsin Lakes Ice & Cartage Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 948. But where both parties treated a case on trial as one for ordinary negligence, it was so treated on appeal, though the complaint alleged reckless and willful conduct. Id. Proof of negligence will not support an allegation of intentional battery, but it would support an allegation of an "unlawful and wrongful" battery. Gibeline v. Smith, 106 Mo. App. 545, 80 S. W. 961. Where gross and wanton negligence was alleged, proof of ordinary negligence held not a fatal variance. Atchison v. Wills, 21 App. D. C. 548.

13. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Hinton [Ala.] 37 So. 635; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Browning [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 227; City of Lancaster v. Walter, 25 Ky. L. R. 2189, 80 S. W. 189; Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240; Elliott v. Canadian Pac.

care, being unnecessary, adds no force to the complaint,[15] and need not be supported by affirmative proof, unless the issue is raised by defendant.[16] An amendment adding such an allegation is merely formal.[17] Where the petition unnecessarily alleges exercise of ordinary care, an allegation of want of care in the answer is new matter, admitted by plaintiff by failure to traverse by reply.[18] In some jurisdictions plaintiff must allege due care,[19] unless the wrong charged is a willful one.[20]

In a common law action for negligence, an averment that the negligence relied on was that of defendant is good, at least as against a demurrer, although in fact the negligence was that of a servant for whom defendant as master was responsible.[21] A count upon willful and wanton acts of a corporation is in trespass and is not supported by evidence of wanton and willful acts of servants.[22] A count upon wanton and willful acts of servants, as distinguished from acts of the corporation, is in case.[23] A count at common law for injuries to one on the defendant's premises by invitation may be joined with counts under the employers' liability act.[24]

The defense of contributory negligence is not available if not specially pleaded,[25] unless plaintiff's evidence discloses such negligence.[26] The facts claimed to constitute negligence on the part of plaintiff should be set out.[27] The law presuming a child of tender years incapable of contributory negligence, defendant must allege and prove exceptional capacity and maturity.[28] The plea of contributory negligence is a defense that confesses and avoids;[29] hence an allegation that

R. Co., 129 F. 163. The Indiana statute (Burns' Ann. St. § 539a) provides that a plaintiff in an action for damages for negligence need not allege or prove want of contributory negligence. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Goddard, 33 Ind. App. 321, 71 N. E. 514. Under this statute a complaint which alleges that negligence of defendant proximately caused the injuries complained of is sufficient if it does not disclose contributory negligence as a matter of law. Id.

14. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036. Petition for wrongful death demurrable because disclosing contributory negligence of decedent. Dorsey v. Columbus R. Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 698. In Indiana, in actions for negligence not brought for personal injuries or death, the statute of 1899 does not apply, and the complaint must show freedom from contributory negligence. There need be no direct averment; it is sufficient if such freedom from negligence appears from the facts alleged. Indiana Nitroglycerin & Torpedo Co. v. Lippincott Glass Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 183.

15. Southern R. Co. v. Davis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1053.

16. Atchison v. Wills, 21 App. D. C. 548.

17. Milliken v. St. Clair [Mich.] 99 N. W. 7.

18. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Paynter's Adm'x [Ky.] 82 S. W. 412.

19. Defective allegations of want of contributory negligence cured where trial proceeded upon theory that plaintiff must show herself free from contributory negligence. Hobbs v. Marion, 123 Iowa, 726, 99 N. W. 577.

20. Continental Ins. Co. v. Clark [Iowa] 100 N. W. 524.

21. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 660.

22. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341. A complaint alleging that defendant, a corporation, "wantonly or intentionally caused the death of plaintiff's intestate by wantonly or intentionally causing one or more of said cars to run upon or against," etc., charges a wrong against the corporation itself and not a wrong of its servant for which it would be responsible. It is supported only by proof that the corporation committed or actually participated in the commission of the wrong. Birmingham So. R. Co. v. Gunn [Ala.] 37 So. 329.

23. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341.

24. Code 1896, § 1740. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. v. Tilson [Ala.] 37 So. 427.

25. Atchison v. Wills, 21 App. D. C. 548. Doctrine that plaintiff must allege and prove freedom from fault in personal injury actions overruled so far as it has been recognized in Louisiana. Buechner v. New Orleans, 112 La. 599, 36 So. 603. Defendant is not entitled to the verdict, though evidence shows contributory negligence when that defense has not been pleaded. Strickland v. Capital City Mills [S. C.] 49 S. E. 478. Under Code, § 260, as to construction of pleadings, an allegation of contributory negligence of "plaintiff" in an action by a father as administrator for wrongful death of a child will be construed as alleging contributory negligence by the father. Davis v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 115, 48 S. E. 591.

26. Pim v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 155.

27. Gadonnex v. New Orleans R. Co., 128 F. 805.

28. Buechner v. New Orleans, 112 La. 599, 36 So. 603.

29. Under it the issue is whether the the injury occurred from plaintiff's "own carelessness and negligence" does not raise the issue of contributory negligence.[30]

The defense that an injury was caused by the act of God must be pleaded.[31] In Alabama the plea of "not guilty" is the only proper general traverse of the complaint in actions for personal injuries based on negligence.[32]

Plaintiff must prove his case as pleaded,[33] but if several acts of negligence are relied on, proof of one or more of those well pleaded, as the cause of injury, is sufficient.[34]

Evidence.[35]—Negligence, like any other fact, may be proven by direct or circumstantial evidence.[36] Proof of previous similar accidents may be admissible on the question of notice,[37] as is evidence of previous warnings by defendant.[38] Evidence that the condition resulting in injury had existed previously without causing accidents is inadmissible.[39] Evidence as to the condition of machinery must refer to a time approximately near the time of the accident.[40] Proof of damages were caused solely by defendant's negligence or whether the person injured contributed to his injury. Newport, L. & A. Turnpike Co. v. Pirmann [Ky.] 82 S. W. 976.

30. Newport, L. & A. Turnpike Co. v. Pirmann [Ky.] 82 S. W. 976.

Note: Whether an allegation that an injury was "caused" by plaintiff's negligence is equivalent to pleading that his negligence "contributed" to it is discussed in a note in 3 Mich. Law Rev. 223, citing to the negative Newport, L. & A. Turnpike Co. v. Pirmann [Ky.] 82 S. W. 976; Cogdell v. Railroad, 132 N. C. 852, 44 S. E. 618 [on rehearing of same case, 130 N. C. 319, 41 S. E. 541, wherein affirmative was held]; Kennedy v. Railway Co., 59 S. C. 535, 38 S. E. 169. To the affirmative is cited Western Union Tel. Co. v. Jeanes, 88 Tex. 230, 31 S. W. 186. On the proposition that a general averment of contributory negligence is sufficient, the annotator cites Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Smith, 101 Ky. 104, 42 S. W. 538; but to the contrary are Price v. Water Co., 58 Kan. 551, 50 P. 450, and McInerney v. Virginia-Carolina Chem. Co., 118 F. 653 [which repudiates the state (South Carolina) rule upholding general averments]. [It is submitted that the reason for regarding as bad a general averment that plaintiff's own negligence caused the injury is because it pleads no issuable facts but only a conclusion. See 5 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 12.—Editor C. L.]

31. Orient Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 1036.

32. Under Code 1896, § 3295. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Mobley, 139 Ala. 425, 36 So. 181.

33. Plaintiff must recover if at all upon the theory pleaded and adhered to on the trial. Coleman v. Robert Graves Co., 97 App. Div. 411, 89 N. Y. S. 1040. Where complaint alleged that plaintiff when struck by a brick was in front of the premises in question and the proof showed he was in the cellar of the building at work, the variance was fatal. Reilly v. Vought, 87 N. Y. S. 492. Where negligence charged was use of defective shifting rod in elevator, ordinances requiring inspection and repair of elevators were inadmissible, no violation of the duty owed under them being shown. Ubelmann v. American Ice Co., 209 Pa. 398, 58 A. 849. If the causal connection is established between the general negligence alleged and the injury, it is also established between the special acts of negligence alleged, limiting the general allegation. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Tehan, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145.

34. Chicago I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 73 N. E. 91; Savannah, F. & W. R. Co. v. Evans [Ga.] 49 S. E. 308. See 2 Curr. L. 1008, n. 25.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1009.

36. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Bordenchecker, 33 Ind. App. 138, 70 N. E. 995; United States Brew. Co. v. Stoltenberg, 211 Ill. 531, 71 N. E. 1081.

37. Where plaintiff was struck by piece of electric lamp broken by trolley of car, which slipped from wire, evidence that other lamps had before been broken in the same way was relevant and material. Nelson v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 780. Evidence that an elevator had fallen twice before admissible to prove notice of defect, even though there was no evidence of want of repairs after such prior accidents. Crigler v. Ford [Ky.] 82 S. W. 599. Evidence that a steam whistle at a certain place had frightened a team on a former occasion admissible to show dangerous character of the whistle. Powell v. Nevada, C. & O. R. Co. [Nev.] 78 P. 978.

38. Evidence that a trap door through which plaintiff fell had been open many times before and that defendants had given warnings was admissible on issue of notice to defendant. Franklin v. Engel, 34 Wash. 480, 76 P. 84.

39. Evidence that a coal chute close to a side track had existed in same condition 5 or 6 years properly excluded. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Vallowe [Ill.] 73 N. E. 416. Where contractor was sued for injuries to a child from playing on a wheel scraper negligently left unguarded in the street, evidence that such scrapers had always been so used and left and no injury to children had resulted was inadmissible. Kelley v. Parker-Washington Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 631.

40. Fire from locomotive sparks. Evidence that during the preceding winter the spark arresters were defective is entirely too remote. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Needham, 105 Ill. App. 25.

repairs or other precautions subsequent to the accident is incompetent.[41] Diagrams[42] or photographs[43] are admissible. Where there is a dispute as to which of two accidents produced plaintiff's injuries, the opinion of a physician is relevant.[44]

Presumptions and burden of proof.[45]—The general rule is that negligence is never presumed[46] from the mere fact of injury,[47] except in the case of one injured while a passenger.[48] But the manner of the occurrence of the injury or the attendant circumstances may well warrant an inference of negligence,[49] as where the instrumentality causing the injury is under sole control of the defendant,[50] and the accident is one which does not ordinarily happen if due care is used.[51] The plaintiff cannot avail himself of the doctrine res ipsa loquitur where it appears 41. Repairs. Going v. Alabama Steel & Wire Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 784; Davis v. Kornman [Ala.] 37 So. 789. Repairs to a machine after accident. Helling v. Schindler [Cal.] 78 P. 710. Subsequent repair of railroad crossing. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106. Evidence that toolhouse was moved farther from track after an accident. Russell v. New York, etc., R. Co., 96 App. Div. 151, 89 N. Y. S. 429. Precautions adopted after an accident to prevent its recurrence are not to be interpreted as admissions of prior neglect, and hence are inadmissible. Schermer v. McMahon [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 535.

42. Diagram showing location in store of a trapdoor. Franklin v. Engel, 34 Wash. 480, 76 P. 84.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1010, n. 60.

44. Jones v. American Warehouse Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 355.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1008, 1009.

46. Negligence of the adverse party is not presumed in favor of one on whom the burden of establishing it rests. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Bordenchecker, 33 Ind. App. 138, 70 N. E. 995. Contributory negligence not presumed. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049. The rule that the instinct of self-preservation forbids the imputation of recklessness to anyone applies only where there is no evidence tending to show negligence. Newport News Pub. Co. v. Beaumeister, 102 Va. 677, 47 S. E. 821. The presumption that one killed at a railway crossing was in the exercise of due care is not to be invoked where there is competent, material evidence on the question. Woolf v. Washington R. & Nav. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 997.

47. Palmer Brick Co. v. Chenall, 119 Ga. 837, 47 S. E. 329. The mere happening of an accident raises no presumption of negligence; if the weight of the evidence is for defendant, or if the evidence is evenly balanced, plaintiff cannot recover, since the burden is on him to prove negligence. Wells v. Utah Const. Co., 27 Utah, 524, 76 P. 560. Doctrine of res ipsa loquitur not applicable where pedestrian collided with railway truck on walk in front of depot in the nighttime. Tiborsky v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 549. Where only testimony as to manner of accident was that of plaintiff who testified that she fell, as she supposed, into an elevator shaft, just after entering a doorway, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur was not applicable. Boyd v. United States Mortg. & Trust Co., 94 App. Div. 413, 88 N. Y. S. 289. Where plaintiff, watching a fireworks display, was struck by the stick of a rocket, and it appeared that other sticks fell where they did no harm, the mere happening of such accident did not warrant an inference of negligence in the manner of firing off the rockets. Crowley v. Rochester Fireworks Co., 95 App. Div. 13, 88 N. Y. S. 483. Mere fact that machinist's heavy battering ram fell injuring plaintiff held not to raise presumption of negligence by owner of premises. McDonough v. James Reilly Repair & Supply Co., 90 N. Y. S. 358. Mere fact that a collision between a bicyclist and plaintiff occurred, resulting in plaintiff's injury, did not warrant inference of negligence in bicyclist. Lee v. Jones, 181 Mo. 291, 79 S. W. 927. Mere proof of an unexplained killing of persons on the track and of the fact that the engineer's sight was defective did not give rise to presumption of negligence. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049. The doctrine res ipsa loquitur held inapplicable where plaintiff's intestate was struck by lumber which fell from a pile on a car which defendant was unloading. Laforrest v. O'Driscoll [R. I.] 59 A. 923. Mere proof that a railroad torpedo was found by a boy on the planking of a crossing does not raise the presumption that it came there through negligence of the railway company's servants while acting in the scope of their employment. Obertonl v. Boston & M. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 980.

The doctrine res ipsa loquitur is rarely applicable in master and servant cases. See topic Master and Servant, 2 Curr. L. 801.

48. See Carriers, 3 Curr. L. 650, n. 66, 67. There is no presumption of a carriage for hire in the case of one who rides in a private conveyance. Proof therefore is necessary beyond mere presence in the vehicle to establish defendant's duty. Lydon v. Robert Smith Ale Brew. Co., 133 F. 830.

49. This is all that is meant by the maxim res ipsa loquitur, which is simply a rule of evidence. Palmer Brick Co. v. Chenall, 119 Ga. 837, 47 S. E. 329.

50. Maxim res ipsa loquitur held applicable where steam roller used by defendant in street work was run over plaintiff's fence and lawn and against his house. Harlow v. Standard Imp. Co. [Cal.] 78 P. 1045.

51. Where street car with no one in control ran into plaintiff's wagon from the rear and plaintiff was injured, proof of the accident gave rise to presumption of negligence of company. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624. See 2 Curr. L. 1008, n. 32.

that negligence of a third person intervened,[52] or that negligence of plaintiff himself was a proximate cause of his injury,[53] or where the defendant explains the cause of the accident.[54]

The burden of proving negligence of the defendant,[55] and that such negligence caused the injury[56] is on plaintiff, but a preponderance of the evidence is all that is required.[57] The fact that the person injured is a child and defendant an adult does not shift burden of proof as to negligence.[58] A plaintiff who claims he was on premises by invitation of the owner has the burden of proof thereon.[59] If the injury may have resulted from either of two causes, for only one of which defendant is responsible, plaintiff must show by a preponderance of evidence that the injury resulted from that for which defendant is responsible.[60]

The burden of proof on the issue of contributory negligence is on defendant in most jurisdictions,[61] but the rule that plaintiff must show due care, as an element of his case, prevails in some states.[62] Though defendant is entitled to the benefit of all the evidence in the case on the issue, including plaintiff's,[63] the fact that plaintiff's own evidence tends to show contributory negligence does not place upon him the burden of proving due care,[64] nor does an unnecessary allegation of want of negligence by plaintiff have that effect.[65]

52. Where guest in hotel was injured by contact with an electric wire, but the evidence did not show a dangerous current knowingly or negligently sent through the wire by defendant, but did show that the wiring was done by a third person, the maxim was held not applicable. Harter v. Colfax Elec. Light & Power Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 508.

53. Brakeman was killed in collision caused by his failure to guard a switch. Res ipsa loquitur not applicable. Holland v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 359.

54. Cause of fall of staging was shown and was not in dispute. Parsons v. Hecla Ironworks [Mass.] 71 N. E. 572. Where the presumption of negligence raised by the fact of accident is completely rebutted by evidence for defendant, a verdict for plaintiff should be set aside. Southern R. Co. v. Cook [Ga.] 49 S. E. 287.

55. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Heath [Va.] 48 S. E. 508. Where joint tort feasors are charged with negligence causing injuries, the burden is on plaintiff to show by a preponderance of evidence that the injury was caused by negligence of defendant, or by his negligence concurring with that of the joint tort feasor. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258. Verdict for plaintiff held not supported by evidence in action for injuries from falling into excavation. Copeland v. Degnon-McLean Contracting Co., 88 N. Y. S. 827. Evidence insufficient to support verdict where plaintiff was struck by automobile. Polsky v. New York Transp. Co., 96 App. Div. 613, 88 N. Y. S. 1024. Evidence sufficient to show negligence where child was injured by fall of door while playing on walk. Drinkwater v. Quaker City Cooperage Co., 208 Pa. 649, 57 A. 1107.

56. Coolbroth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 433, 58 A. 808. Causal connection between negligence and injury charged cannot be presumed. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1049.

57. Serra v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 95 App. Div. 159, 88 N. Y. S. 500. Error to charge that plaintiff must make out his case to a moral and reasonable certainty. Brown Store Co. v. Chattahoochee Lumber Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 839.

58. Child running in street collided with man on bicycle. Burden on plaintiff to prove bicyclist's negligence as cause of injury. Lee v. Jones, 181 Mo. 291, 79 S. W. 927.

59. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. v. Tilson [Ala.] 37 So. 427.

60. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Heath [Va.] 48 S. E. 508.

61. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395; Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245; Jefferson Hotel Co. v. Warren [C. C. A.] 128 F. 565; Clark v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 341; See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa, 443, 99 N. W. 106; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Bulger [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 557; Currans v. Seattle & S. F. R. & Nav. Co., 34 Wash. 512, 76 P. 87. Doctrine that burden is on plaintiff to allege and prove want of contributory negligence is overruled so far as it has been recognized in Louisiana. Buechner v. New Orleans, 112 La. 599, 36 So. 603.

62. New York. Lowry v. Anderson Co., 96 App. Div. 465, 89 N. Y. S. 107. Where circumstances were not such as to require a high degree of care in alighting from a train, freedom from contributory negligence need not be shown by direct evidence, but the inference may be drawn from the general tendency of all the evidence in favor of the plaintiff. Hancock v. New York, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 601. Though a train was running at an unusually high rate of speed in violation of an ordinance, the burden is still on plaintiff to show ordinary care on his part. Imes v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 105 Ill. App. 37.

63. Rupp v. Sarpy County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1042; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985.

64. Rupp v. Sarpy County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1042.

Contra: Burden of proving contributory negligence is on defendant, unless plaintiff's

Questions of law and fact.[66]—Unless the facts are undisputed, and are such that only one reasonable conclusion can be drawn therefrom,[67] the questions of negligence,[68] contributory negligence,[69] and proximate cause,[70] are for the jury.

evidence discloses it. Coolbroth v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 433, 58 A. 808. Burden of proof is upon the plaintiff in an action for damages on account of an injury, where testimony has been introduced tending to show contributory negligence. Peat v. Norwalk, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 614.

65. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fertig [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 834.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1011.

67. As to when negligence is for the court, see City of Lancaster v. Walter, 25 Ky. L. R. 2189, 80 S. W. 189; Foy v. Winston, 135 N. C. 439, 47 S. E. 466; Bostock-Ferari Amusement Co. v. Bracksmith [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 281; Kelley v. Parker-Washington Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 631. A trial judge should not instruct the jury what facts do or do not constitute negligence except where declared by statute. City of Rome v. Sudduth [Ga.] 49 S. E. 300; Augusta R. & Elec. Co. v. Smith [Ga.] 48 S. E. 681. To justify taking the question of negligence from the jury, the facts and circumstances must be not only undisputed, but also unambiguous, so that only one reasonable conclusion may be drawn therefrom. Tibarsky v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 549. It is proper for the court to declare that if certain facts are established, culpable or actionable negligence follows as a matter of law, leaving such facts to be found by the jury. Hot Springs St. R. Co. v. Hildreth [Ark.] 82 S. W. 245. There is no question for the jury when facts are not controverted, or it clearly appears what course a person of ordinary prudence would pursue, or where the standard of duty is fixed, or the negligence is clearly defined or palpable. Gallowshaw v. Lonsdale Co. [R. I.] 55 A. 932. Question of negligence is one of law for the court, first, where the circumstances are such that the standard of duty is fixed and the measure of duty is defined by law, and is the same under all circumstances; second, where the facts are undisputed and only one reasonable conclusion can be drawn therefrom. Woolf v. Washington R. & Nav. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 997.

Contributory negligence need not go to jury if the evidence so conclusively discloses it that all reasonable men in the exercise of impartial judgment must draw that conclusion. Gilbert v. Burlington, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 529; Riggs v. Standard Oil Co., 130 F. 199; Gress v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 122; Hecker v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 126.

Proximate cause.—Same rule applies. Douglass v. New York, etc., R. Co., 209 Pa. 128, 58 A. 160; Glassey v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co., 185 Mass. 315, 70 N. E. 199. Proximate cause is for the jury if there is an issue thereon in a trial of the facts; but is a question of law when presented on a demurrer to the declaration. Schulte v. Schleeper, 210 Ill. 357, 71 N. E. 325.

68. Holmes v. Birmingham So. R. Co., 140 Ala. 208, 37 So. 338; McClammy v. Spokane [Wash.] 78 P. 912; Economy Light & Power Co. v. Hiller, 211 Ill. 568, 71 N. E. 1096; Collingwood v. Illinois & I. Fuel Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 283; Jones v. United Railways & Elec. Co. [Md.] 57 A. 620; Foster v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 331; Steindorff v. St. Paul Gaslight Co., 92 Minn. 496, 100 N. W. 221; Reed v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 919; Meng v. St. Louis & Suburban R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 213; Holden v. Missouri R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 133; City of Omaha v. Houlihan [Neb.] 100 N. W. 415; Ward v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 897; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429; Pence v. California Min. Co., 27 Utah, 378, 75 P. 934. Failure to give notice of blasting operations. Smith v. Day [C. C. A.] 128 F. 561. Maintaining an exposed vat of hot grease 11 feet from street line. Duffy v. Sable Ironworks [Pa.] 59 A. 1100. Plaintiff injured in collision between two trucks. Powles v. Halstead, 93 App. Div. 549, 87 N. Y. S. 928. Whether injury to adjoining walls caused by excavation ought to have been foreseen. Samuel v. Novak [Md.] 58 A. 19. Plaintiff, struck by a falling brick showed that defendants were throwing bricks on a platform on an upper floor and that there were no other persons in that part of building. Held, prima facie case of negligence sufficient to go to jury. Booth v. Dorsey, 208 Pa. 276, 57 A. 562. Whether the situation was such that the peril of one who has placed himself in danger should have been discovered, and the injury avoided by the use of ordinary care, held for jury. Rawitzer v. St. Paul City R. Co. [Minn.] 100 N. W. 664. There being evidence, which if believed, would warrant a verdict for plaintiff, it was error to take case from jury. Farrell v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 345. Whether a prima facie case of negligence, made by plaintiff, is successfully rebutted by defendant, is for jury. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker, 209 Ill. 321, 70 N. E. 624. An inference of negligence having arisen from a prima facie case made by plaintiff, the question is for the jury, notwithstanding a preponderance of evidence for the defendant. Rauch v. Smedley, 208 Pa. 175, 57 A. 359.

69. Town of Florence v. Snook [Colo. App.] 78 P. 994; Cary Bros. v. Morrison [C. C. A.] 129 F. 177; Earl v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 102 N. W. 140; Wacker v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 138. Whether under all circumstances passenger was negligent in jumping from moving street car. Mannon v. Camden Interstate R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 450. Negligence of railway employe struck and killed by oil pipe maintained by defendant near track. Young v. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 929. Whether plaintiff by the exercise of ordinary care could have avoided the consequences of defendant's negligence. Christian v. Macon R. & Light Co., 120 Ga. 314, 47 S. E. 923. Station agent fell into trench constructed on his own premises by a railroad. Wood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 93 App. Div. 53, 86 N. Y. S. 817. Negligence of a trespasser shot by a watchman in a private park, when he knew it was a private park and that the watchman carried a gun, but did not know what precautions were Instructions.[71]—They should cover all issues raised by the pleadings and evidence,[72] including all the acts of negligence relied on by plaintiff,[73] but should not submit issues not so raised.[74] Instructions should be given defining "ordinary care,"[75] "contributory negligence,"[76] "negligence,"[77] and the various terms used to modify these expressions,[78] when used in the charge. A definition of "proximate cause" may not be necessary.[79] Decisions construing particular instructions on taken to protect the property. Magar v. Hammond, 95 App. Div. 249, 88 N. Y. S. 796. Person fell into cellarway in pavement, having driven out of it before, but never walked in or out. McHugh v. Kerr, 208 Pa. 225, 57 A. 520. Negligence of boy between 8 and 9, who fell through bridge, for jury, considering his maturity and capacity and the circumstances of the case. Buechner v. New Orleans, 112 La. 599, 36 So. 603. Negligence of mother who allowed child 2 years and 9 months old to play in street unattended. Burke v. Borden's Condensed Milk Co., 90 N. Y. S. 527. Negligence of mother, who went to a park with her children and permitted two of them to go and play with others, warning them not to go near a river, where they went and one was killed by a street car. Kaplan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 585. Where it appeared that mother did not allow children to go into street, and cautioned them to stay in yard and not go through gate, but a boy of 5 went through and fell into vat of hot grease on defendant's premises, negligence of parents was for jury. Duffy v. Sable Ironworks [Pa.] 59 A. 1100.

70. Bowden v. Derby [Me.] 58 A. 993; Rock Island Sash & Door Works v. Pohlman, 210 Ill. 133, 71 N. E. 428; Watters v. Waterloo [Iowa] 101 N. W. 871; Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller [Neb.] 100 N. W. 197; Whisenhant v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 559; Brewster v. Elizabeth City [N. C.] 49 S. E. 885. Question of proximate cause is the same whether it relates to negligence of the defendant or plaintiff, and in either case it is primarily a question for the jury. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 663.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1012.

72. Where pleadings and evidence raise the issue of contributory negligence, there should be a charge under the general principle as covered in Code, § 3830, though such charge is not requested. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818. A charge under Code, § 2322, as to contributory negligence in actions against railroads, does not render unnecessary a charge under § 3830. Id. When contributory negligence is pleaded, plaintiff is entitled to have any matter affecting such question submitted. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099. Where an answer included a plea of contributory negligence and the reply alleged that decedent was 10 years of age and incapable of appreciating danger, the issue of his contributory negligence was raised and an instruction should have been given. Freeman v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 81. An instruction on plaintiff's right of recovery which ignored the issue of contributory negligence, which was raised by the evidence, prejudicially erroneous. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wicker [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 614.

73. Thuis v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 141; Freeman v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ga. 469, 47 S. E. 931; Rylander v. Laursen [Wis.] 102 N. W. 341.

74. Instructions should confine jury to acts of negligence shown by proof. Sommers v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 268. Question of capacity of boy of 12 erroneously submitted to jury where there was no evidence thereon. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Shiflet [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 247. Evidence held not to justify instruction on theory that plaintiff should have used ordinary care to avoid injury after discovery of danger. Richmond Locomotive Works v. Ramsey [C. C. A.] 131 F. 197. Failure to charge on contributory negligence held not error where such defense was not pleaded and plaintiff's evidence did not disclose it as a matter of law. Hirsch Bros. v. Ashe [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 650. An instruction permitting recovery on a theory not pleaded held erroneous. Heller v. Donellan, 90 N. Y. S. 352.

75. It is proper for the court to define to the jury the term "ordinary care" as applied to the conduct of either party. Chicago City R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 208 Ill. 267, 70 N. E. 294. Where there is no instruction defining negligence, the question submitted to the jury should be, not whether the act was done negligently, but whether, in doing it, the defendant observed the degree of care required; and that degree should be stated in the instruction. Magrane v. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 183 Mo. 119, 81 S. W. 1158. Instruction on negligence erroneous which left it to jury to say what degree of care was required by the circumstances without furnishing a standard. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1187.

76. Where plaintiff's testimony tended to show contributory negligence, but no instruction defining such negligence was given, an instruction placing the burden of proof on such issue on defendant was error. Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Ross [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 94.

77. Instructions to find for the party whose witnesses were believed, without charging on the law of negligence or contributory negligence, are erroneous. Haggerty v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 336.

78. Where the terms "wanton," "willful" or "reckless" are used in an instruction, they should be properly defined, in order that they may not be understood by the jury as terms of emphasis used in describing comparative negligence. Buxton v. Ainsworth [Mich.] 101 N. W. 817.

79. Use of term "proximate cause" in an instruction without otherwise defining it held not error. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793.

ordinary care,[80] negligence,[81] and contributory negligence,[82] are treated in the notes.

Verdicts.[83]—Where the gist of the action is negligence, and several acts of negligence are relied on, a recovery is warranted if all the jurors agree that there was negligence, though they do not concur in their finding as to any particular act.[84] A finding that the damage was the result of an accident eliminates the question of negligence.[85]

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

§ 1. Elements and Indicia (788).

§ 2. Form and Interpretation (790).

§ 3. Anomalous Signatures and Indorsements (791).

§ 4. Liabilities and Discharge of Primary Parties (792). Liability for Stipulated Attorney's Fees (793). Defenses Between Original Parties (794).

§ 5. Liabilities and Discharge of Sureties; Guarantors or Other Anomalous Parties (795).

§ 6. Negotiation and Transfer Generally (796).

80. An instruction stating ordinary care to be that care and foresight to avoid danger, which a person of ordinary prudence, caution and intelligence would usually exercise under the same or similar circumstances, is not erroneous because of the use of the word "usually." Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chugren, 209 Ill. 429, 70 N. E. 573. An instruction that reasonable care is such care as persons of ordinary prudence and intelligence would ordinarily exercise for their own safety under the same circumstances is not erroneous for including the word "intelligence" as well as "prudence." Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy, 210 Ill. 39, 71 N. E. 28. Adding to a requested instruction on ordinary care, in the usual form, the words "and failure to exercise such care is negligence in the sense in which that term is used in these instructions" did not impair the instruction, nor prejudice defendant. Linder v. St. Louis Transit Co., 103 Mo. App. 574, 77 S. W. 997. An instruction on ordinary care which states that "such care is required to be in proportion to the danger to be avoided and the fatal consequences that might result from the neglect" is not erroneous. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 169. An instruction that the test of ordinary care is the conduct ordinarily used by persons "under the facts and circumstances surrounding them at the time" is erroneous because omitting the element that such facts and circumstances must be the same or similar to those surrounding the person whose conduct is being tested. Williams v. North Wis. Lumber Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 589.

81. An instruction that negligence "means the failure to exercise such care as ordinarily prudent persons exercise under like or similar circumstances" is not erroneous for omitting the word "usually" before the word "exercise" where used the second time. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Shrader [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1094. An instruction defining negligence as want of such care as an "ordinary prudent man" would use is not prejudicially erroneous for using the word "ordinary" instead of "ordinarily." Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Partin [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 236.

82. Instruction erroneous which failed to bring out the rule that any contributory negligence, however slight, will defeat a recovery. Ray v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1077. Instruction on contributory negligence held not to have unduly emphasized the word "contributed." Predmore v. Consumers' Light & Power Co., 99 App. Div. 551, 91 N. Y. S. 118. A charge that contributory negligence would defeat a recovery if "such negligence was the proximate cause of * * * or contributed thereto" held erroneous; "contributed" should have been modified by "proximately." St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Crabb [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 408. The words "caused or contributed" instead of "proximately contributed" held not error in a charge on contributory negligence. Ratteree v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 566. Instruction that "contributory negligence is negligence on the part of the person injured or by another whose acts are imputable to such person, combining and concurring with negligence of the person inflicting the injury complained of, and contributing to such injury, and but for which the injury would not have occurred," approved as substantially correct. Central Tex. & N. W. R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 862. An instruction that it devolves on defendant to establish contributory negligence by a "preponderance of the evidence in the case" held not liable to mislead the jury, so that defendant's evidence only would be considered by them on that issue. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Elmore [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 891. An instruction which merely "authorizes" the jury to reduce plaintiff's damages for contributory negligence is insufficient; the jury should be required to do so. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1013.

84. Holden v. Missouri R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 133; Wacker v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 138.

85. Where jury was instructed, if the finding was for plaintiff, to state whether certain foreign matter in stock feed sold by defendant to plaintiff got into such feed through defendant's negligence or by accident, and the jury found that the foreign matter got there by accident, such finding eliminated the question of negligence. National Cotton Oil Co. v. Young [Ark.] 85 S. W. 92.

§ 7. Acceptance (796).
§ 8. Indorsement (798). Indorser's Liability (798). Discharge of Indorser (799).
§ 9. Presentment and Demand (800).
§ 10. Protest and Notice Thereof (800).
§ 11. New Promise After Discharge and Waiver of Non-presentment or the Like (802).
§ 12. Accommodation Paper (802).
§ 13. The Doctrine of Bona Fides (803). Once Bona Fide Holdership Always Bona Fide Holdership (803). Notice and Knowledge (804). Taking in Due Course of Business (804). Taking Before Maturity (804). Parting with Value (804). Rights of a Bona Fide Holder (804). Burden of Proof (806).
§ 14. Remedies and Procedure Peculiar to Negotiable Paper (806). Parties (806). Pleading (807). The Answer (807). Defenses (808). Evidence (809). Evidence Admissible Generally (809). Indemnifying Maker of Lost Instrument (810).

This topic treats of the law of negotiable instruments as a special class of contracts and incidentally discusses cases wherein general principles of contract are applied to facts as to which the feature of negotiability is peculiarly significant or its relation intimate. But the law of contracts is distinct and has been so treated.[86] The law of banking is also the subject of a separate article.[87]

§ 1. Elements and indicia.[88]—A negotiable instrument is a writing which may be transferred by indorsement or delivery so as to give the indorsee the legal title and enable him to sue in his own name.[89] There must be an unconditional promise[90] or order,[91] but a promise may be read from terms susceptible of no other construction.[92]

The amount[93] to be paid at maturity must be certain, but the degree of certainty required is commercial, not mathematical,[94] and the weight of authority is to the effect that provisions for exchange,[95] or for attorneys' fees in case the paper is not paid at maturity, do not destroy negotiability,[96] but a provision for "other 86. See, generally, Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805, and such related topics as Fraud and Undue Influence, 3 Curr. L. 1520; Frauds, Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527; Usury, 2 Curr. L. 1966.

87. See Banking and Finance, 3 Curr. L. 403.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1013.

89. Cyc. Law Dict. 619.

90. A simple certificate of deposit containing no words of promise to pay is nothing more than a receipt. Young v. American Bank, 44 Misc. 305, 89 N. Y. S. 913.

91. Under the negotiable instruments law a check is regarded as a bill of exchange. State Bank v. Weiss, 91 N. Y. S. 276.

92. "Will be cashed." Young v. American Bank, 44 Misc. 308, 89 N. Y. S. 915.

93. See 2 Curr. L. 1014, n. 86.

94. Cudahy Packing Co. v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 134 F. 538.

95. The insertion of the words "with exchange" does not destroy negotiability where it is executed at one place and payable at another. First Nat. Bank v. Nordstrom [Kan.] 78 P. 804.

96. Cudahy Packing Co. v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 134 F. 538. Stipulation for 10 per cent. attorneys' fees does not destroy negotiability. White v. Harris [S. C.] 48 S. E. 41, Gary, A. J., dissenting. Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89. Stipulation for attorney's fees and compound interest not decided. Cherry v. Sprague [Mass.] 72 N. E. 456.

Note: There has been considerable conflict in the courts of the different states on the subject, but the clear weight of authority at the present time sustains the doctrine that the incorporation of a provision for the payment of attorneys' fees in negotiable paper does not destroy its commercial character. The following states have so held: Alabama (Montgomery v. Crossthwait, 90 Ala. 553, 8 So. 498, 24 Am. St. Rep. 832, 12 L. R. A. 140); Arkansas (Trader v. Chidester, 41 Ark. 242, 48 Am. Rep. 38); Georgia (Stapleton v. Louisville Banking Co., 95 Ga. 802, 23 S. E. 81); Illinois (Dorsey v. Wolfe, 142 Ill. 589, 32 N. E. 495, 34 Am. St. Rep. 99, 18 L. R. A. 428); Indiana (Stoneman v. Pyle, 35 Ind. 104, 9 Am. Rep. 637); Iowa (Shenandoah National Bank v. Marsh, 89 Iowa, 273, 56 N. W. 458, 48 Am. St. Rep. 381); Kansas (Seaton v. Scovill, 18 Kan. 433, 21 Am. Rep. 212, note, 26 Am. Rep. 779); Kentucky (Gaar v. Louisville Banking Co., 11 Bush [Ky.] 180, 21 Am. Rep. 209); Louisiana (Dietrich v. Bayhi, 23 La. Ann. 767); Mississippi (Clifton v. Bank of Aberdeen, 75 Miss. 929, 23 So. 394); Nebraska (Heard v. Bank, 8 Neb. 10, 30 Am. Rep. 811); Oregon (Benn v. Kutzschan, 24 Or. 28, 32 P. 763); Tennessee (Oppenheimer v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Tenn.] 36 S. W. 705); Texas (Hamilton Gin & Mill Co. v. Sinker, 74 Tex. 51, 11 S. W. 1056); Washington (Colfax Second Nat. Bank v. Anglin, 6 Wash. 403, 33 P. 1056). No decision has been rendered by the supreme court of the United States on this subject, but the question has been frequently before the circuit courts, and the negotiability of the instruments sustained. Howenstein v. Barnes, 5 Dill. 482, Fed. Cas. No. 6,786; Bank of British North America v. Ellis, 2 F. 44. The same doctrine has been approved by the circuit court of appeals of the sixth circuit. Farmers' Nat. Bank v. Sutton Mfg. Co. [C C. A.] 52 F. 191, 17 L. R. A. 595.

The following state decisions have held that such a stipulation renders the note non-negotiable: California (Chase v. Whitmore, 68 Cal. 545, 9 P. 942); Montana (Stadler v. First Nat. Bank, 22 Mont. 190, 56 P.

costs" in addition thereto,[97] or a provision rendering the amount of his fee uncertain, does.[98] The instrument and collateral security executed at the same time must be construed together,[99] and if the collateral contains a provision rendering the amount uncertain, the instrument is non-negotiable;[1] but provisions in a mortgage intended only to qualify it do not affect the negotiability of the note,[2] and a provision in the note is not controlled by a similar provision in a mortgage.[3]

The payee.[4]—It must be payable to a certain person,[5] but it is not necessary to specify the name of the payee,[6] though a contrary rule would seem to prevail in some jurisdictions.[7]

Words of negotiability[8] may be implied if not used.[9]

The time of payment[10] is certain if the date upon which the holder can demand payment is fixed,[11] or if a certain date is named, though payable before on 111, 74 Am. St. Rep. 582); North Dakota (Decorah First Nat. Bank v. Laughlin, 4 N. D. 391, 61 N. W. 473). These decisions all rest upon a statute, being the same statute that was construed by this court in Second Nat. Bank v. Basuier [C. C. A.] 65 F. 58. Maryland (Maryland Fertilizing Co. v. Newman, 60 Md. 584, 45 Am. Rep. 750); Michigan (Altman v. Rittershofer, 68 Mich. 287, 36 N. W. 74, 13 Am. St. Rep. 341); Minnesota (Jones v. Radatz, 27 Minn. 240, 6 N. W. 800); Missouri (Trenton First Nat. Bank v. Gay, 63 Mo. 33, 21 Am. Rep. 430, and other cases above cited); North Carolina (New Windsor First Nat. Bank v. Bynum, 84 N. C. 24, 37 Am. Rep. 604); Pennsylvania (Woods v. North, 84 Pa. 407, 24 Am. Rep. 201); South Carolina (Carroll Co. Sav. Bank v. Strother, 28 S. C. 504, 6 S. E. 313); Wisconsin (Kimball Co. v. Mellon, 80 Wis. 133, 48 N. W. 1100). The decisions which sustain the negotiability of notes containing a provision for the payment of attorneys' fees have in the main been justified upon the ground that prior to the maturity of the note, and while it was current in the business world, the provision was inoperative; that it did not take effect until after the dishonor of the note, so that in any case the transferee would take subject to all the defenses existing between the original parties. This reasoning cannot be applied to provisions for the payment of exchange, and upon that ground notes containing such provisions have by many courts been held to be non-negotiable. Hughitt v. Johnson, 28 F. 865. See Cudahy Packing Co. v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 134 F. 538.

97. Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89.

98. Fee of $10 and ten per cent. of the amount recovered. Cotton v. John Deere Plow Co. [Okl.] 78 P. 321.

99. Purchaser of the note is charged with notice of the contents of the mortgage. Allen v. Dunn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 680.

1. Provision in the mortgage that if taxes shall be levied against the legal holder the party of the first part shall pay them. Allen v. Dunn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 680.

2. Provision that insurance premiums paid by the mortgagee should constitute a lien added to the note. Thorpe v. Mindeman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 417. It was not meant that the amount of the note should be increased, but simply that an additional lien should be acquired. Id.

3. Morrison v. Ornbaun [Mont.] 75 P. 953.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1014, n. 85.

5. A blank payee in order paper is not supplied by a provision for confessing judgment in favor of the holder where the note showed on its face that the payee's name was omitted by mistake. Smith v. Willing [Wis.] 101 N. W. 692. In an action for contribution between co-makers, it was held error to allow one who had paid the note to insert in a blank space in the presence of the jury the name of the payee after the question as to the relation of the parties to the note had been raised. Keyser v. Warfield [Md.] 59 A. 189.

6. Bond payable "to ——— or ———" is negotiable. Gamble v. Rural Independent School Dist., 132 F. 514. A check payable to "the order of cash" is bearer paper. Hale v. State, 120 Ga. 138, 47 S. E. 547.

NOTE. The holder has prima facie authority to fill blanks: Neg. Inst. Law. He may insert his own name in a blank space left for the name of the payee (Boyd v. McCann, 10 Md. 118; Thompson v. Rathbun, 18 Or. 202; Mitchell v. Culver, 7 Cow. [N. Y.] 336), and may fill a blank left for time (McGrath v. Clark, 56 N. Y. 34, 15 Am. Rep. 372; Johns v. Harrison, 20 Ind. 317), or the place (Redlich v. Doll, 54 N. Y. 234; Winter v. Pool, 104 Ala. 580), or amount of payment) Hoopes v. Collingwood, 10 Colo. 107, 3 Am. St. Rep. 565; First Nat. Bank v. Carson, 60 Mich. 432; Weyerhauser v. Dunn, 100 N. Y. 150). See Selover Negotiable Instruments Law, § 18 et seq.

7. The omission of the name of a payee is not in practical effect the leaving of a blank which any person in possession is impliedly authorized to fill. Smith v. Willing [Wis.] 101 N. W. 692.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1014, n. 85.

9. Bond payable "to ——— or ———" is negotiable. Gamble v. Rural Independent School Dist., 132 F. 514.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1014, n. 87.

11. A right in the maker to make payments at certain time before maturity does not destroy negotiability. Cunningham v. McDonald [Tex.] 83 S. W. 372. A mortgage note is not rendered uncertain by the fact that in the mortgage act the faculty is reserved in the debtor to pay the debt by delivery of timber before maturity. Iberia Cypress Co. v. Christen, 112 La. 451, 36 So. 491.

a contingency.[12] "The makers and indorsers hereof waive protest, demand and notice of non-payment and agree to all extensions and partial payments before or after maturity without prejudice to the holder" does not destroy negotiability.[13]

If a countersignature is required the instrument is of no effect until countersigned.[14] An obliterated countersignature is of no force.[15]

§ 2. Form and interpretation.[16]—Coupon bonds are negotiable.[17] A mortgage securing a negotiable instrument so far partakes of its character as to pass to a bona fide indorsee free from the equities between the original parties.[18] Municipal warrants negotiable in form are not, in the absence of express legislation authorizing such paper, negotiable in fact.[19] Instruments drawn on a particular fund are not.[20] At common law a bill of lading was quasi negotiable only.[21] In Kentucky a promissory note is not negotiable[22] until discounted at a bank incorporated under the laws of that state.[23] In Indiana the instrument must be payable in bank.[24]

An instrument becomes non-negotiable after maturity,[25] and its commercial character is not continued by an independent collateral agreement extending the time of payment.[26] It may be rendered non-negotiable by any provision from which such an intent can be inferred.[27] A seal[28] or a transfer or order paper without indorsement destroys negotiability;[29] but an indorsement "without recourse" does not.[30] A forgery making a bill seem negotiable does not confer attributes of negotiability.[31]

Negotiability is determined by the law of the state where the instrument is executed,[32] unless it is made payable in another state, in which case the laws of 12. Neg. Inst. Law. Where on default in payment of interest the entire debt may be declared due. Thorpe v. Mindeman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 417.

13. Time of payment not rendered uncertain. National Bank of Commerce v. Kenney [Tex.] 83 S. W. 368, overruling 80 S. W. 555.

14. Traveler's cheque. Samberg v. American Exp. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 879.

15. Line drawn through it. Samberg v. American Exp. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 879.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1016. Negotiability of municipal bonds, see Municipal Bonds, § 4, 4 Curr. L. 712.

17. Cochran v. Fox Chase Bank, 209 Pa. 34, 58 A. 117.

18. Cudahy Packing Co. v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 134 F. 538.

19. Rule as to bona fide holder does not apply. Morrison v. Austin State Bank, 213 Ill. 472, 72 N. E. 1109.

20. Morrison v. Austin State Bank, 213 Ill. 472, 72 N. E. 1109.

21. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

22. It is open to equitable defenses available as between the parties, though in the hands of a bona fide holder. Deffen v. German-American Title Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 1110, 70 S. W. 868.

23. Complaint alleging that the note in suit was discounted by plaintiff bank at its regular place of business, before maturity, etc., held sufficient to place it on a footing with foreign bill under Ky. St. 1903, § 483. Davis v. Boone County Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2078, 80 S. W. 161.

24. Otherwise it is open to all defenses available as between the parties. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287.

25. See Non-Negotiable Instruments, post, 827.

26. Agreement between the maker and holder at time of maturity. Swan v. Craig [Neb.] 102 N. W. 471.

27. See, also, Non-Negotiable Instruments, post, 827. Negotiability of a bill of lading is destroyed by stamping it non-negotiable. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134. "Non-negotiable or transferable" written across the face of an instrument destroys negotiability. Herrick v. Edwards, 106 Mo. App. 633, 81 S. W. 466. A certificate of deposit payable on return of the certificate but assignable only on the books of the company is non-negotiable. Zander v. New York Security & Trust Co., 178 N. Y. 208, 70 N. E. 449.

28. The assignee takes subject to all defenses available against it in the hands of the original payee. Stevenson & Co. v. Bethea [S. C.] 47 S. E. 71.

29. Check. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83. In an action for fraud based on defendant's misrepresentation that he had funds on deposit with a certain banking institution and inducing plaintiff to cash a check for him, whether the instrument was a check or draft held immaterial. Hengen v. Lewis, 91 N. Y. S. 77.

30. Laws 1899, p. 701, c. 356, §§ 1676-1678. Thorpe v. Mindeman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 417.

31. Holder cannot sue as on misdelivery under negotiable bill. Mairs v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 175 N. Y. 409, 67 N. E. 901.

32. Bill of lading issued in Virginia. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

the latter control as to negotiability,[33] character,[34] and validity.[35] The law of the state in which an instrument is executed is presumed to be the same as that of the state in which rights under it are being litigated,[36] unless proof to the contrary is introduced.[37] Where there is no statute on the subject, the law may be shown by the decisions of the highest court of such state.[38]

"I promise" signed by several is their joint and several obligation.[39] If the instrument appear on its face to have been executed in a representative capacity, it will be regarded as the obligation of the principal.[40] Parol evidence is admissible to show the real nature of the transaction.[41] The burden is on the holder to show that it is the individual obligation of the signer.[42]

A note executed as a renewal of a note tainted with usury is itself usurious.[43] Where less than the legal rate of interest is fixed by the terms of an instrument, it applies up to maturity; thereafter the legal rate will prevail.[44]

While a note is current as negotiable paper, the debt may not be garnished by a creditor of the payee.[45] Paper placed by the payee in the hands of the maker before maturity ceases to be current paper.[46]

An instrument falls due according to its terms.[47]

A promissory note is not divested of its character because not dated,[48] or because it recites the nature of the consideration supporting it,[49] or contains a provision for attorney's fees.[50]

§ 3. Anomalous signatures and indorsements. Maker or indorser, or surety or guarantor.[51]—In some states one who indorses an instrument before delivery is

33. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

34. Cherry v. Sprague [Mass.] 72 N. E. 456.

35. As to rate of interest and usury. Simpson v. Hefter, 42 Misc. 482, 87 N. Y. S. 243.

36. See, also, Conflict of Laws, 3 Curr. L. 720. National Bank of Commerce v. Kenney [Tex.] 83 S. W. 368; Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89.

37. Where it is shown that under the law of the state where executed, paper transferred as collateral security is subject to defenses existing between the parties, it will be construed as referring only to defenses existing at the time of transfer, not at the time of trial. National Bank of Commerce v. Kenney [Tex.] 83 S. W. 368. Proof that a stipulation for attorney's fees does not destroy negotiability is not proof that a stipulation for "other costs" in addition does not. Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89.

38. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

39. Ullery v. Brohm [Colo. App.] 79 P. 180.

40. Signature followed by "Prest. Mt. Carmel Lgt. & Water Co." and the imprint of the corporate seal held notes of the corporation. Reed v. Fleming, 209 Ill. 390, 70 N. E. 667, rvg. 102 Ill. App. 668, cited in 2 Curr. L. 1016, n. 18.

41. "Agent" affixed to the name of the signor. Instrument held the obligation of the firm. Taylor v. Angel, 162 Ind. 670, 71 N. E. 49. A note signed H. W. & Co. per W. T. M. and indorsed W. T. M. makes H. W. & Co. and W. T. M. joint makers. McGraw v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 758.

42. Reed v. Fleming, 209 Ill. 390, 70 N. E. 667.

43. Evidence held insufficient to show that it was given as a renewal note. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14.

44. The term "until paid" means until maturity. Wright v. Hanna [Pa.] 59 A. 1097.

45. Kimbrough v. Hornsby [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 612.

46. It is subject to garnishment by a creditor of the owner so long as the owner has title to it. Hutcheson v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 215. Title does not pass until the person for whom the maker holds it pays for it. Id.

47. The entire amount of a note providing that one-tenth thereof shall become due annually until paid in full does not become due on failure to make the first payment. Hinton v. Jones, 136 N. C. 53, 48 S. E. 546.

48. A writing setting forth that "I hereby certify to have received of D a loan for three months, $500," with date and place of execution and name of maker, is a promissory note. Orlopp v. Schueller, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 611.

49. Recital that it was given for an amount due for goods furnished the maker by the payee, title to which was not to pass until the notes were paid. Pyron & Son v. Ruohs, 120 Ga. 1060, 48 S. E. 435.

50. Cherry v. Sprague [Mass.] 72 N. E. 456.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1017.

NOTE. Character and liability of irregular indorser: In Massachusetts one who indorses before delivery is a maker and he is held to his liability as such where at the request of the maker he indorsed in New York, returned the instrument to the maker in Massachusetts, where it was delivered by him. Lawrence v. Bassett, 5 Allen [Mass.] 140. In New York he stands as a first indorser and this rule governs where the in-held to be a joint maker.[52] This rule is not changed by a statute providing that every person becoming a party to an instrument by signature on the back thereof is entitled to notice of nonpayment.[53] He is held to the same liability if he signs after delivery pursuant to a prior agreement.[54] In other states[55] and under the negotiable instrument law[56] he is only presumed to be a joint maker,[57] and the time when or the order in which indorsements were made,[58] and the capacity in which he signed,[59] whether as indorser,[60] surety,[61] or guarantor, may be established by parol.[62] No presumption of the capacity in which he signed arises from the fact that the terms "indorse" and "indorser" were used.[63] A presumption of the capacity in which he signs arises from the circumstances attending the transaction,[64] and from the order of indorsement;[65] if his signature is above that of the payee, he is presumed to be a surety;[66] if below, an indorser.[67] Persons familiar with negotiable instruments are presumed to know this.[68]

§ 4. Liabilities and discharge of primary parties.[69]—It is the duty of the maker of a note to seek it and pay it at maturity.[70] His liability is not affected

strument was drawn in Tennessee, executed in West Virginia by a corporation of that state, indorsed by an officer of such corporation and forwarded to New York in payment of goods purchased in that state. Carnegie Steel Co. v. Chattanooga Constr. Co. [Tenn. Ch. App.] 38 S. W. 102. From note to Spies v. National City Bank [174 N. Y. 193] 61 L. R. A. 200, where cases on the entire range of conflict of laws relative to negotiable instruments are collected and discussed.

52. Negotiable instruments act was not in force when this contract was executed. Downey v. O'Keefe [R. I.] 59 A. 929. Not entitled to demand or notice of nonpayment. Cherry v. Sprague [Mass.] 72 N. E. 456.

53. National Bank of the Republic v. Delano, 185 Mass. 424, 70 N. E. 444.

54. National Bank of the Republic v. Delano, 185 Mass. 424, 70 N. E. 444. If it is part of the agreement that he should sign before the paper would be acceptable. Downey v. O'Keefe [R. I.] 59 A. 929.

55. Oexner v. Loehr, 106 Mo. App. 412, 80 S. W. 690. Where the indorser's signature is admitted, the introduction of the note in evidence establishes a prima facie case without proof that the indorser signed before delivery. Id.

56. Where one not otherwise a party to paper payable to a third person signs before delivery and before the indorsement of the payee, he is liable as indorser to the first taker and all subsequent parties [Neg. Inst. Law]. Leonard v. Draper [Mass.] 73 N. E. 644.

57. Where the signer was told by the maker that he would be notified by the payee in case the paper was not paid at maturity and the payee was informed of this fact, the presumption is rebutted. Oexner v. Loehr, 106 Mo. App. 412, 80 S. W. 690. A petition charging one as indorser does not preclude him from pleading and proving that he signed in a different capacity. Saussy v. Weeks [Ga.] 49 S. E. 809.

58. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668. The relative position of the names is immaterial. Trammell v. Swift Fertilizer Works [Ga.] 49 S. E. 739. There is no presumption that the first signer is principal. Id.

59. That a note signed by members of a partnership represented a partnership debt. Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 84 S. W. 623; In re Weisenberg & Co., 131 F. 517. May be shown by parol to be a partnership debt. Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 84 S. W. 623. Parol evidence is admissible to show whether he signed as maker, surety, guarantor or indorser. Saussy v. Weeks [Ga.] 49 S. E. 809.

60. Circumstances surrounding the signing held to show that one was an indorser, not a surety. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668.

61. Evidence that two parties executed a joint note, that one of them took the proceeds and the other paid it, does not prove that the one who paid it was a surety and entitled to recover from the other. Bettinger v. Scully [Wash.] 79 P. 203.

62. Where one signed a note deposited by the principal as collateral for a debt represented by an open account, evidence held to show that he was a surety, not a guarantor, and was not released when the creditor extended credit in excess of an amount stipulated in an accompanying contract. Rouss v. King [S. C.] 48 S. E. 220.

63. The term "indorse" and "indorser" have a popular as well as a technical meaning (Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668), and the fact that the signers spoke about "indorsers" and "indorsements" at the time of signing does not evidence such an understanding when it is manifest that they did not use the terms in their technical sense (Keyser v. Warfield [Md.] 59 A. 189).

64. A presumption of joint liability arises when the signers deal with the payee jointly and were joint recipients of the consideration. Ross v. De Campi [Ala.] 36 So. 1003.

65. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668, but see Trammell v. Swift Fertilizer Works [Ga.] 49 S. E. 739, supra.

66, 67. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668.

68. When a bank president, the payee of a note, places his signature above the name of another indorser, it raises an inference that he knew such other to be an indorser, not a surety. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1018.

70. Statement of the place of payment in by the fact that mortgagé security is void.[71] Makers of a joint and several note are severally liable.[72] Their liability is not affected by an agreement between themselves unknown to the payee or his transferee.[73] Where one dies the payee is not required to pursue his remedy against the estate.[74] Where one joint maker files a defense which goes to the plaintiff's right of recovery against all, there can be no recovery against the others if the plea is well taken.[75]

A maker who has been held liable to a bona fide holder may recover from the original payee for fraud[76] or usury,[77] but not until he has been adjudged to pay or has paid it.[78] The specific facts constituting fraud need not be alleged.[79]

A material alteration[80] after execution and delivery[81] discharges those primarily liable,[82] but an alteration prior to delivery does not.[83] The burden is on the maker to prove that the instrument has been altered.[84]

A spoliation does not discharge those primarily liable.[85]

Payment[86] of an instrument lost by the payee discharges the maker from liability to an assignee of the claim.[87] If the source of the fund from which payment is to be made is designated, there is no liability aside from such source.[88]

Liability for stipulated attorney's fees.—The provision for attorney's fees is note does not affect the liability of the maker. Ray v. Anderson, 119 Ga. 926, 47 S. E. 205.

71. Mortgage of the homestead. Fontaine v. Nuse [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 852.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1019. Newhall v. Field [N. M.] 79 P. 711.

73. McCullough v. Pritchett, 120 Ga. 585, 48 S. E. 148. Evidence of an agreement between makers of a note that a part of them should pay it and the others should be released and that the payee agreed to such an arrangement, held insufficient to show a release where there was evidence tending to show that the payee's assent was conditional on the giving of new notes which were never executed. Jackson v. Lalicker [Neb.] 99 N. W. 32. Evidence held to show that a payee's agreement that a release of some of the makers of a note was conditional upon the execution of new notes which were never executed. Id. Agreement of the principals to release a surety entered into without payee's consent does not affect his rights. Id.

74. Newhall v. Field [N. M.] 79 P. 711. His action is not barred as against another because the time bas expired within which he might have presented his claim to the estate for allowance. Id.

75. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

76. Davis v. Boone County Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2078, 80 S. W. 161.

77. He may recover from the original payee to the extent of the usury. Harbaugh v. Tanner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 145.

78. Cannot file a cross petition against the payee in an action against himself by the indorsee. Davis v. Boone County Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2078, 80 S. W. 161.

79. If desired the defendant may demand a bill of particulars. Harbaugh v. Tanner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 145.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1020.

81. Illustrations: Where a statute requires place of payment to be designated, the insertion of the place. Carroll v. Warren [Ala.] 37 So. 687. Striking a clause providing for attorney's fees for collection. White v. Harris [S. C.] 48 S. E. 41. A change of the name of a bank on which a check is drawn. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36. The insertion of the words "with exchange" is not. First Nat. Bank v. Nordstrom [Kan.] 78 P. 804.

82. Instruction where an indorser sets up alteration by the maker after he had indorsed, formulated. Towles v. Tanner, 21 App. D. C. 530.

83. Evidence held insufficient to show an alteration by a change of the rate of interest. Mathews v. De Werff [Ark.] 83 S. W. 327. Evidence held to show that bonds were not altered after delivery. Rocky Mount Loan & Trust Co. v. Price [Va.] 49 S. E. 73. Allegation that it was altered after "signing" is insufficient. Bowen v. Woodfield, 33 Ind. App. 687, 72 N. E. 162. Affidavit of defense by an accommodation indorser setting up material alteration but not stating when the alteration was made, etc., held insufficient. Bryan v. Harr, 21 App. D. C. 190. On an issue as to whether an instrument had been altered after the indorsers had signed, evidence that the maker was agent for the indorsers to raise money is irrelevant. Towles v. Tanner, 21 App. D. C. 530. Evidence held insufficient to show that a check had been altered after it was signed. Barranco v. Law, 87 App. Div. 626, 84 N. Y. S. 421.

84. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

85. Striking a clause providing for attorney's fees for collection by a stranger. White v. Harris [S. C.] 48 S. E. 41. Whether the striking of a clause was an alteration or a spoliation held for the jury. Id.

86. See Payment and Tender, 2 Curr. L. 1158.

87. A master who pays his servant in wage coupons payable to bearer is not liable where seven months after having lost such coupons the servant assigned his claim and had given the master no notice of his loss. Clayton v. Knox, 80 App. Div. 631, 80 N. Y. S. 242.

88. Due bill was to be paid with amounts collected from a certain source. Allen & Co. v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 242.

a provision for indemnity,[89] but a stipulated fee cannot be assailed as unreasonable after the holder has retained an attorney and agreed to pay him such amount.[90] The holder is entitled to recover the fee where the paper is placed in an attorney's hands for collection, though no action is brought.[91] A demand prior to bringing action is unnecessary,[92] though the maker was willing and ready to pay had demand been made.[93] In Georgia a provision for attorney's fees may be enforced if the holder gives notice of his intention to sue as required by statute.[94] The maker may prevent a recovery by paying the debt on or before the return day.[95]

A renunciation of his rights by the holder must, under the negotiable instruments law, be expressed in unequivocal terms.[96]

Defenses between original parties.—Except as affected by the doctrine of bona fides,[97] a negotiable instrument is a contract and subject to all defenses. Thus the consideration may be inquired into.[98] Fraud,[99] want,[1] illegality,[2] total[3] or partial failure[4] of consideration, or want of delivery,[5] constitute a defense. The burden is on those primarily liable to establish the defenses.[6]

89. Though 10 per cent was stipulated for, but the holder had not agreed to pay such amount, he was limited to a recovery of the reasonable value of such services. Texas Land & Loan Co. v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1020.

90. Robertson v. Holman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 326; Dunovant's Estate v. Stafford & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 101.

91. Under Neg. Inst. Law. Morrison v. Ornbaun [Mont.] 75 P. 953.

92. A provision in a deed of trust securing several notes falling due on different dates that if default be made in the payment of any the holder may declare the entire debt due and collect attorney's fees authorizes an action to recover the entire debt and attorney's fees without a demand. Dieter v. Bowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 847.

93. Dieter v. Bowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 847.

94. The statute declares the provision void but recognizes a right to enforce it on performance of certain conditions. Browne v. Edwards [Ga.] 50 S. E. 110.

95. Browne v. Edwards [Ga.] 50 S. E. 110.

96. "I wish the note to be canceled in case of my death" is insufficient. Leask v. Dew, 92 N. Y. S. 891.

97. See post, § 13. A note may be shown to be a receipt for an advancement. Strode v. Beall, 105 Mo. App. 495, 79 S. W. 1019.

98. Evidence held insufficient to justify the court in reducing the amount stated on the face of the note. Bryan v. Hobbs [Ark.] 83 S. W. 341. Note given by a nominee to a campaign committee held based on a sufficient consideration. Day v. Long [Ky.] 80 S. W. 774. Evidence held to show a sufficient consideration. Southern Loan & Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435; Yarwood v. Trust & Guarantee Co., 94 App. Div. 47, 87 N. Y. S. 947; Sharp v. Bowie, 142 Cal. 462, 76 P. 62; Rohrbacher v. Aitken [Cal.] 78 P. 1054; Shiretzki v. Julius Kessler & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 422; Hatcher v. Branch, Powell & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 690. Evidence held for the jury whether a note was an accommodation note for the indorser or was based on a consideration. Cody v. Hadcox, 90 N. Y. S. 873.

99. Mueller v. Buch [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1092; McRae v. Lonsby [C. C. A.] 130 F. 17; Morris v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1015; Smith v. McDonald [Mich.] 102 N. W. 738; Hall v. Grayson County Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 762. Fraud and undue influence. Burwell v. Burwell [Va.] 49 S. E. 68. Evidence held not to show fraud. Graham v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 93. A representation as to a future contingency is insufficient to form a basis of a charge of fraud. State Bank v. Mentzer [Iowa] 100 N. W. 69. Agreement that notes would be collected only from dividends of stock of which they constituted the purchase price. State Bank of Indiana v. Cook [Iowa] 100 N. W. 72. A charge on fraud must designate the particular facts claimed to constitute it. State Bank v. Mentzer [Iowa] 100 N. W. 69.

1. Boblett v. Barlow [Ky.] 83 S. W. 145; Carman v. Carrico, 25 Ky. L. R. 2143, 80 S. W. 216; Smith v. Southern Exp. Co., 139 Ala. 519, 36 So. 621; Nowack v. Lehmann [Mich.] 102 N. W. 992; Wells v. Potter, 120 Ga. 889, 48 S. E. 354; Batterman v. Butcher, 95 App. Div. 213, 88 N. Y. S. 685; Mason v. Gardiner [Mass.] 71 N. E. 952; Campbell v. Park [Iowa] 101 N. W. 861. Want of consideration held a question for the jury. State Bank v. Mentzer [Iowa] 100 N. W. 69.

2. Meyer-Marx Co. v. Ensley [Ala.] 37 So. 639; Corbett v. Clute [N. C.] 50 S. E. 216. Illegality in part of the consideration taints the whole. Padget v. O'Connor [Neb.] 98 N. W. 870.

3. Conner v. Andrews Land, Home & Improvement Co., 162 Ind. 338, 70 N. E. 376; McCrary v. Pritchard, 119 Ga. 876, 47 S. E. 341; Hardy Packing Co. v. Sprigg [Ky.] 84 S. W. 532; Kenney Co. v. Ruff [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 622.

4. Stribling v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 789; Hathorn v. Wheelwright [Me.] 59 A. 517. The rule in Maine that partial failure of consideration of a note given for land is no defense was abrogated by Rev. St. c. 84, § 40, and has never been held applicable to a note given for other considerations. Hathorn v. Wheelwright [Me.] 59 A. 517; Williams v. Neely [C. C. A.] 134 F. 1.

§ 5. Liabilities and discharge of sureties, guarantors or other anomalous parties.[7]—As between husband and wife, no liability can be created by an indorsement.[8] In Indiana a married woman's contract of suretyship is void.[9]

The right of contribution exists between co-sureties.[10] A surety,[11] indorser or guarantor who pays paper secured by collateral is subrogated to all the rights of the maker relative to it,[12] and the fact that the maker violated an agreement with the owner of the collateral when he pledged it is no defense as against the surety where he seeks to have a lien established.[13] It is the duty of the holder of the note when paid by one secondarily liable to deliver the note and collateral.[14]

Discharge of sureties.[15]—The execution of a new note by the maker of the one secured in payment of it,[16] a release of collateral security,[17] or an extension of the time of payment,[18] discharges a surety. The length of the period of extension is immaterial,[19] but it must be valid and enforceable.[20] Refusal of the holder to take certain collateral security of the principal does not discharge the surety.[21] A surety cannot set off a claim due his principal from the holder and assigned to him after action commenced.[22] The contract of the drawer of an inland bill is in the nature of a contract of suretyship.[23]

The guarantor's contract is to pay if the maker cannot.[24] The guaranty of an instrument when transferred by the guarantor is an original undertaking.[25] The nature of the transaction is not changed by the negotiable instrument law.[26]

It is error to direct a verdict for the face value of a note bearing indorsements of admitted partial payments. Russell v. Cassidy [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 171.

5. Evidence held to show that a note was never delivered. Gasquet v. Pechin, 143 Cal. 515, 77 P. 481. Evidence held to show that there had been a delivery to an agent. Indiana Trust Co. v. Byram [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 670.

6. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575. When no evidence was introduced, it was error to dismiss the complaint at close of plaintiff's evidence. Harris v. Buchanan, 91 N. Y. S. 484.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1020.

8. A note made by one to the other is void. National Bank of the Republic v. Delano, 185 Mass. 424, 70 N. E. 444.

9. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6964. Ft. Wayne Trust Co. v. Sihler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 494. The courts of Indiana may cancel such a contract payable in another state. Id.

10. Sand. & H. Dig. § 7314. Wilks v. Vaughan [Ark.] 83 S. W. 913. When stockholders indorse a note for the accommodation of the corporation, they are sureties and entitled to contribution under Civ. Code, § 2848. Kellogg v. Lopez [Cal.] 78 P. 1056.

11. A surety who pays and takes an assignment is entitled to foreclose mortgage security. Cook v. Landrum [Ky.] 82 S. W. 585.

12. Mankey v. Willoughby, 21 App. D. C. 314. A surety on a note paying the same becomes a surety as to the maker's wife, she assuming for a consideration to pay the same so that the note fixed the rate of interest on which he might recover under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1233. Hamilton v. Hamilton, 162 Ind. 430, 70 N. E. 535.

13, 14. Mankey v. Willoughby, 21 App. D. C. 314.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1021.

16. In an action against a surety where the defense was a new note extending time of payment, entries on the books of the holder tending to show that the new note was regarded as payment of the former is admissible. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Wilson, 121 Iowa, 156, 96 N. W. 727. The entries in the books are independent of the testimony of the holders. Id.

17. Release of mortgage. Brosseau v. Lowy, 209 Ill. 405, 70 N. E. 901. Evidence held insufficient to show that a bank payee was negligent in failing to charge deposits of the makers against a note. Sureties not released. Fordville Banking Co. v. Thompson [Ky.] 82 S. W. 251.

18. By grantee who assumed a mortgage debt. Brosseau v. Lowy, 209 Ill. 405, 70 N. E. 901.

19. Lehnert v. Lewey [Ala.] 37 So. 921.

20. Must be based on a consideration and sufficient to preclude the debtor during the period from enforcing the obligation against the principal debtor. National Citizens' Bank v. Toplitz, 178 N. Y. 464, 71 N. E. 1. Surety must plead and prove the consideration. Id. Must be based on a consideration. Ferris v. Johnson [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1014. Based on a consideration. Lehnert v. Lewey [Ala.] 37 So. 921.

21. Rouss v. King [S. C.] 48 S. E. 220.

22. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

23. He is released under the same circumstances as would release a surety but only to the extent of damage sustained. Bank of Richland v. Nicholson, 120 Ga. 622, 48 S. E. 240. Proof of the drawing of the bill and failure of the drawer or acceptor to pay establishes a prima facie case and matter relied on by the drawer to discharge him must be set up by way of defense. Id.

24. Evidence held to show a demand on the maker prior to action commenced against the guarantor. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

25. Not within the statute of frauds. Swenson v. Stoltz [Wash.] 78 P. 999.

§ 6. Negotiation and transfer generally.[27]—A transferee of order paper by indorsement and delivery takes title free from the equities existing between the parties,[28] but a transferee by delivery without indorsement,[29] except in Texas,[30] an assignee[31] or an indorsee with notice,[32] takes subject to defenses existing between the original parties before notice to the makers of the assignment,[33] and where before notice of the assignment the maker had paid overdue interest to the payee, the assignees were precluded from enforcing a clause in the note maturing the same in case of default in payment of interest.[34] There must be a delivery.[35] Under negotiable instrument law a transferee by delivery is entitled to his transferror's indorsement.[36] A reservation by an indorser who guarantees of a right to take up the paper on the happening of certain conditions, a denial of such right to discharge him from liability, does not reserve any control over the instrument.[37] As between an indorser and his indorsee, a consideration is necessary to support the contract[38] and is open to inquiry.[39]

§ 7. Acceptance.[40]—An acceptance, as between acceptor and payee is an original undertaking.[41] It is an admission of the genuineness of the bill and that the acceptor has funds of the drawer in his hands.[42] Until acceptance[43] in the manner prescribed by law,[44] the drawee is not in privity and is not liable thereon;[45]

26. Negotiable instrument law, providing that no person whose signature does not appear on an instrument shall be liable thereon, has no application where the payee transferred the paper and orally guaranteed it. Swenson v. Stoltz [Wash.] 78 P. 999.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1022.

28. Evidence held sufficient to show that a lost note had been indorsed and delivered. The indorser's executor could not recover on it. French v. French [C. C. A.] 133 F. 491. A bank holding negotiable paper has power to transfer it regardless of the authority of its officers. Carson v. Old Nat. Bank [Wash.] 79 P. 927.

29. Title passes under Neg. Inst. Law. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83.

30. In Texas, though a transfer be not evidenced by writing, it is placed on the same footing as a transfer by indorsement. A bona fide transferee takes free from equities between the parties. National Bank of Commerce v. Kenney [Tex.] 83 S. W. 368.

31. Assignee of a promissory note under Ky. St. 1903, § 474. Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 261. One who purchases from a creditor the obligation of his debtor and takes the note of the latter payable to bimself. Williams v. Neely, 134 F. 1. False representation held to be as to an immaterial matter and no defense. Currey v. Harden [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 770. Proof of partial failure of consideration does not justify an instruction on the hypothesis of total failure. Id.

32. Fraud. State Bank of Ind. v. Mentzer [Iowa] 100 N. W. 69.

33. Code, § 3461. Hecker v. Boylan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 755.

34. Hecker v. Boylan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 755.

35. An indorsement without a delivery and with no intention to pass title is ineffective. French v. French [C. C. A.] 133 F. 491. Where one secondarily liable pays the holder, he cannot recover for a mutilation of the paper by the holder after payment but before delivery. Chapman v. Niantic Nat. Bank [R. I.] 57 A. 934.

36. Negotiable instruments law, providing the manner in which paper may be transferred, does not affect the subsequent section providing that where order paper is transferred without indorsement the transferror's title passes and the transferee has the right to have the transferror's indorsement. Swenson v. Stoltz [Wash.] 78 P. 999.

37. Cunningham v. McDonald [Tex.] 83 S. W. 372.

38. The guarantor of a note on failure of the maker to pay it gave his own note to the payee, whereupon the payee indorsed the original note to him. The payee was not liable to the guarantor on this indorsement. Peabody v. Munson, 211 Ill. 324, 71 N. E. 1006.

39. Whether the transfer of a note from husband to wife was based on a sufficient consideration held for the jury. Southern Loan & Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435; Peabody v. Munson, 211 Ill. 324, 71 N. E. 1006.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1023.

41. Not a promise to pay the debt of another. Ragsdale v. Gresham [Ala.] 37 So. 367.

42. Ragsdale v. Gresham [Ala.] 37 So. 367.

43. The holder of an unaccepted draft not framed so as to operate as an assignment cannot maintain action against the drawee. Gamer v. Thomson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1083. An action against nonaccepting drawees cannot be maintained in a country other than that of their domicile against a plea in abatement asserting their privilege of being sued in the county of their residence. Dougherty v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 573. See, also, Gamer v. Thomson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1083. The holder of a check has no contract with the bank on which it is drawn and no legal right to exact payment. National Bank v. Berrall [N. J. Law] 58 A. 189.

44. Under Neg. Inst. Law a complaint against the drawee which does not allege a but after acceptance he becomes the principal debtor,[46] though at the time he accepted he did not know who was the owner of the bill.[47] An acceptance on condition is rendered nugatory by nonperformance of the condition.[48] The indorsee who induces the drawee to accept is liable to him for damage sustained.[49] A payment by the drawee concludes him. He cannot afterwards avoid the transaction by showing that he was mistaken in supposing he had funds of the drawer,[50] except where a bill bears evidence that the drawee is not to pay it with funds of the drawer and an indorsee is negligent in not ascertaining whether or not the prior indorsements are genuine.[51] Delay in bringing the action is no defense, he having no cause for suspicion in the meantime and rights of the indorser not being prejudiced.[52] An acceptor who sets up want of consideration has the burden of proving it.[53]

The simple drawing of a check does not operate as an assignment of the fund against which it is drawn,[54] unless the circumstances surrounding the transaction indicate an intention that it shall have such effect;[55] but the certification of a check does.[56] As between depositor and banker, the latter is held to a knowledge of the signature of the former,[57] and a forged check, whether the forgery is of the signature or consists of a material alteration, is honored by the bank at its peril.[58] A custom to pay checks where the name of the bank on which it was drawn has been changed cannot render a forged check valid.[59] A depositor who has changed written acceptance does not state a cause of action. Wadhams v. Portland, etc., R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 597; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 102 Va. 753, 47 S. E. 837. Complaint which does not allege acceptance to be in writing does not state a cause of action. Wadhams v. Portland, etc., R. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 597.

45. The holder of an unaccepted check cannot maintain action against the bank. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1058. An unaccepted draft is no evidence of indebtedness on the part of the drawee. Gamer v. Thomson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1083. The indorsement of a payee's name on the back of a check without his authority creates no privity between drawee and drawer. Merchants' Bank v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 101.

46. Ragsdale v. Gresham [Ala.] 37 So. 367. Under Neg. Inst. Law, certification of a check. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83.

47. Check was presented by one who had title without indorsement. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83.

48. Glidden v. Massachusetts Hospital Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 538.

49. Consignee of goods not ordered, refused to receive the goods or accept the drafts attached to the bill of lading. Under agreement he sold the goods to the best advantage. Groos & Co. v. Brewster [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 359.

50. Bank of Indian Territory v. First Nat. Bank [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 537. Where a bank pays the amount of a check to a bona fide holder, it cannot recover it on the ground of mistake. National Bank v. Berrall, 70 N. J. Law, 757, 58 A. 189.

51. On the back of the draft was evidence that the drawee would pay from his own funds. La Fayette & Bro. v. Merchants' Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 700.

52. La Fayette & Bro. v. Merchants' Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 700.

53. Under Code 1896, § 1800, providing that the consideration of every written instrument may be impeached. Ragsdale v. Gresham [Ala.] 37 So. 367. Where a builder accepted a contractor's order for a certain amount and subsequently learned that it was for more than the amount due, and the drawee lost no rights by reason of his refusal to pay the balance, the acceptance therefore was held without consideration. Canady v. Webb, 25 Ky. L. R. 2107, 80 S. W. 172.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1029, n. 79 et seq. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1058. Under the negotiable instruments law. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 102 Va. 753, 47 S. E. 837. An unaccepted check drawn in the ordinary form, not describing any particular fund or using words of transfer is not an assignment either at law or in equity. Reviere v. Chambliss, 120 Ga. 714, 48 S. E. 122. The fund may be garnished by a creditor of the drawer. Love v. Ardmore Stock Exch. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 721.

55. Where a debtor informed his creditor that he had funds on deposit at a certain bank and desired to pay the debt from that fund and it was agreed that the debtor should issue a check payable to another bank so that it could collect and pay over the amount to the creditor, which was done and a receipt given by the creditor. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Patterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1058.

56. Neg. Inst. Law, § 325. Meuer v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 94 App. Div. 331, 88 N. Y. S. 83.

57. See Banking and Finance, 3 Curr. L. 403.

58, 59. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36.

his account from one bank to another is under no duty to notify the latter of outstanding checks against the former.[60] A bank accepting a corporation check in payment of the personal liability of the officer drawing it is charged with notice of the extent of his authority.[61]

§ 8. Indorsement.[62]—An indorsement in blank passes the legal title,[63] and converts order paper into bearer paper.[64] The holder may maintain an action without showing the capacity in which he holds.[65] It may be shown by parol that he holds as trustee.[66] If the genuineness of an indorsement is denied, it must be established.[67]

Indorser's liability.[68]—An indorser warrants the capacity of all prior parties,[69] and the genuineness of their signatures.[70] Provisions incorporated into the body of the instrument form a part of his contract.[71] As between successive indorsers the first is ultimately but not primarily liable in the sense that as between principal and surety the principal is primarily liable.[72] It is not his duty as between himself and a subsequent indorser to pay the note in the first instance.[73] He is entitled to the delay consequent on demand for payment being first made on the subsequent indorser.[74] If at maturity he promises to pay and induces the holder to forego action against the maker, he is primarily liable.[75] His liability to the holder is not affected by an agreement between himself and his immediate indorsee,[76] nor by the fact that the paper is secured,[77] though the collateral security

60. Give notice that the payee is liable to change the name of the drawee. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36.

61. It is liable to the corporation if inquiry would have disclosed that the check was not authorized. Manhattan Web Co. v. Aquidneck Nat. Bank, 133 F. 76.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1023.

63. Graham v. Troth [Kan.] 77 P. 92.

64. Direct provisions of Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 207. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959.

65. Graham v. Troth [Kan.] 77 P. 92. An indorsee may maintain action in his own name regardless of the interest of a third person in the note. Barber v. Stroub [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 915.

66. Graham v. Troth [Kan.] 77 P. 92. A member of a firm to whom notes purchased by the firm are indorsed and who recovers thereon holds the proceeds in trust. Barber v. Stroub [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 915.

67. Zlotnick v. Greenfeld, 90 N. Y. S. 1086. Evidence held to show that indorsements were genuine. Doty v. Dellinger, 94 App. Div. 610, 87 N. Y. S. 1001. Where a person purchases a check from the payee who is known to him and whose name is indorsed thereon, proof of such facts establish prima facie a valid indorsement. Goetting v. Day, 87 N. Y. S. 510.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1024.

69. Under Rev. Laws, c. 73, §§ 83, 84, he cannot deny the authority of a corporation maker. Leonard v. Draper [Mass.] 73 N. E. 644. Want of capacity of a prior corporation indorser to indorse is no defense to a subsequent indorser. Willard v. Crook, 21 App. D. C. 237.

70. Merchants' Bank v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 101. Liabilities of indorsers on notes prior to the enactment of negotiable instruments law were not affected by that law. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Dewey [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 569.

71. A waiver of demand, protest and notice. German-American Sav. Bank v. Hanna [Iowa] 100 N. W. 57.

72. Bank of America v. Wilson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 312. The holder may release a second indorser by suing a prior party, and the obliteration of a subsequent indorser's name would not give a cause of action to a prior indorser as against the holder. Chapman v. Niantic Nat. Bank [R. I.] 57 A. 934. Where the payee of a check whose indorsement has been forged brings action against the bank for conversion and the bank gives notice to a subsequent indorser to defend, the bank cannot recover from such subsequent indorser the costs of the suit and attorney's fees, though their defense was approved by such subsequent indorser and was partially successful. Muller v. National Bank of Cortland, 96 App. Div. 71, 89 N. Y. S. 62.

73. Where it does not appear that the relation between them is that of principal and surety. Bank of America v. Wilson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 312. The holder may look to the last indorser for the payment of the note who in turn may look to a prior indorser. Id.

74. He may arrange with the holder to secure such delay by procuring such demand. Bank of America v. Wilson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 312.

75. Code 1896, § 894, subd. 7. Marshall v. Bishop, 140 Ala. 206, 37 So. 324.

76. Fraud of such indorsee is no defense. Green v. Stewart, 23 App. D. C. 570.

77. A holder may sue an indorser without first resorting to his remedy against mortgage security. Williams Bros. v. Rosenbaum [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 594. Especially if it be worthless. German-American Sav. Bank v. Hanna [Iowa] 100 N. W. 57.

is procured by himself.[78] To enlarge his liability from that implied by law from the position of his signature requires an express contract.[79] An indorsement qualified by "payment guaranteed" makes him an indorser with enlarged liability.[80] An indorsement of a duplicate instrument does not create any different liability than that assumed by an indorsement of the original;[81] if made after he has been discharged it does not renew his obligation as indorser.[82]

An indorsement without recourse is a commercial indorsement and not a mere assignment.[83] Where a note is given as purchase price of personal property title to which is reserved in the vendor until payment of the notes and the vendor indorses the note without recourse, the makers of the note thereby become invested with the title of the property.[84]

An indorsement for collection cannot be impeached by parol.[85] The indorsee takes the paper subject to the equities existing between the maker and his indorser.[86] He is agent for his indorser, not a purchaser,[87] but may maintain an action in his own name.[88] His agency is terminated by the insolvency of his indorser.[89]

Discharge of indorser.[90]—Payment by one primarily liable discharges the indorser,[91] but not if made with funds upon which creditors of the maker had a lien and which were required to be refunded.[92] The holder's lack of diligence to endeavor to collect from the maker at maturity discharges the indorser.[93] A pay-

78. Green v. Stewart, 23 App. D. C. 570.

79. To make him a co-surety. Chapman v. Pendleton [R. I.] 59 A. 928.

80. He is not a guarantor. German-American Sav. Bank v. Hanna [Iowa] 100 N. W. 57.

81. The original was lost and by reason of laches in presenting it the indorser was discharged. Held, he was discharged from liability on the duplicate. Lewis v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 423.

82. Drawee of a check had been discharged by delay in presentment. The original was lost. Aebi v. Bank of Evansville [Wis.] 102 N. W. 329.

83. Thorpe v. Mindeman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 417. An indorser claimed that his indorsement was "without recourse." Such words were not on the notes. Held, the evidence whether such was the nature of the indorsement raised a question for the jury. Blue v. Hunt, 208 Pa. 248, 57 A. 576.

84. McCullough v. Pritchett, 120 Ga. 585, 48 S. E. 148.

85. In an action by an indorsee for collection, evidence to show that he is in fact a part owner of the paper is inadmissible as tending to contradict the indorsement. Smith v. Bayer [Or.] 79 P. 497.

86. Smith v. Bayer [Or.] 79 P. 497. Where the payee of a check on another bank indorses to the bank with which he has an account and receives credit of the amount as cash, the bank becomes the owner of the check and not a mere agent for collection. Aebi v. Bank of Evansville [Wis.] 102 N. W. 329. "Pay to any bank or banker or order" is an indorsement for collection. Bank of Indian Territory v. First Nat. Bank [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 537. Where he is informed that his indorser is not the real and beneficial owner of the fund on which the draft is drawn, he is not entitled to credit the proceeds against a debt due him from his indorser. Josiah Morris & Co. v. Alabama Carbon Co., 139 Ala. 620, 36 So. 764.

87. Josiah Morris & Co. v. Alabama Carbon Co., 139 Ala. 620, 36 So. 764. A draft drawn in favor of the cashier of a bank to enable the latter to collect for the drawer does not divest the drawer of his equitable ownership of the fund on which the draft was drawn. Id. A payment by the maker to the indorser is a defense, though plaintiff proved that he was in fact a part owner. Smith v. Bayer [Or.] 79 P. 497.

88. Under B. & C. Comp. § 4439, providing that a restrictive indorsement confers the right to receive payment and maintain any action the indorser might maintain. Smith v. Bayer [Or.] 79 P. 497.

89. Josiah Morris Co. v. Alabama Carbon Co., 139 Ala. 620, 36 So. 764. The drawer who is the real owner may recover the proceeds where the indorser prior to collection became insolvent. Id.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1024.

91. The payee of a note transferred the same by indorsement. He was held liable as indorser, paid the note, collected the amount from the maker who borrowed the sum from one to whom he assigned the note. Held, an assignee of the transferee could not recover from the payee. Rich v. Goldman, 90 N. Y. S. 364.

92. Where the holder was required to refund payments by the maker, payment by the indorsers to discharge the debt, made with full knowledge that the payments by the maker might have to be refunded, did not constitute a payment in full and bar the holder from enforcing the balance due against the indorser. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Dewey [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 569.

93. The extension of time is entirely inconsistent with the exercise of diligence in attempting to collect it. Spears v. Thompson's Estate, 30 Ind. App. 267, 65 N. E. 928. A showing that the maker was insolvent when an action was brought against the indorser long after maturity is insufficient. Id.

ment by the maker will not take the case out of the statute of limitations as against the indorser.[94]

§ 9. Presentment and demand.[95]—Demand for payment is not necessary to fix the liability of parties primarily liable.[96] Delay in presentment does not discharge the drawer unless he suffers damage,[97] but if there is an unreasonable delay the burden is on the holder to show that the drawer has not suffered loss.[98] Presentment and demand are necessary to fix the liability of an indorser.[99] The loss of a bill does not dispense with the necessity of it.[1] Presentment must be made by one with authority[2] and within a reasonable time.[3] What is a reasonable time is to be determined by the circumstances of each particular case.[4] Presentation of demand paper is presumptively within a reasonable time,[5] and if an indorser desires to raise the question whether it was or not he must plead and prove such matter as a defense.[6] Delay in presentment is no defense if the drawer had no funds on deposit with which to meet it and no expectation that it would be paid.[7] Presentment at the place named in the instrument is sufficient.[8] No personal demand on the maker is necessary.[9]

A certificate of deposit is not due until demand,[10] by presentment at the bank properly indorsed.[11]

§ 10. Protest and notice thereof.[12]—All negotiable instruments may be pro-

94. Mason v. Kilcourse [N. J. Law] 59 A. 21.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1025, also Id. 1033, n. 74.

96. It is the duty of the maker of a promissory note, not payable at a particular place, to find his paper and take it up. Gormley v. Hartray, 105 Ill. App. 625. Makers. Keyser v. Warfield [Md.] 59 A. 189.

97, 98. Nelson v. Kastle, 105 Mo. App. 187, 79 S. W. 730.

99. Sessions & Co. v. Isabel, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 288. A judgment against an indorser cannot be sustained in the absence of evidence of presentment for payment. Zlotnick v. Greenfeld. 90 N. Y. S. 1086.

1. Lewis v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 423.

2. Hofrichter v. Enyeart [Neb.] 99 N. W. 658.

3. Under Neg. Inst. Law. Laws 1899, p. 746, c. 356, § 1684-2. Aebi v. Bank of Evansville [Wis.] 102 N. W. 329.

4. Under Neg. Inst. Law. German-American Bank v. Mills, 99 App. Div. 312, 91 N. Y. S. 142. Where a bank received a check on another bank and placed the amount as cash to the credit of the depositor, forwarded it by mail to the bank on which it was drawn, but it was lost and no inquiry was made for 10 days and the depositor was not notified for a month, the bank had not used the diligence required by Neg. Inst. Law, and the depositor was discharged from liability on his indorsement. Aebi v. Bank of Evansville [Wis.] 102 N. W. 329. Neg. Inst. Law. A check was drawn on plaintiff which it paid by allowing credit at the clearing house. Subsequently it was learned that the drawer had no funds on deposit. No demand was made on an indorser until action brought six days later. Held, the bank could not recover from him. State Bank v. Weiss, 91 N. Y. S. 276.

5. German-American Bank v. Mills, 99 App. Div. 312, 91 N. Y. S. 142.

6. It being analogous to the statute of limitations. German-American Bank v. Mills, 99 App. Div. 312, 91 N. Y. S. 142.

7. Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. v. Fincher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 844. Where there is evidence that the drawer at the time a check was uttered had a balance on deposit insufficient to meet it and had notice of the dishonor of other of his checks, a question of fact whether he had expectation that it would be paid was raised, though the drawer was negligent in making presentment. Id.

8. Nelson v. Grondahl [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1093. Oral testimony is admissible to show facts occurring on a presentment which are not stated in the notary's certificate. Id. A notary's testimony that he invariably presented notes for payment at the place where they were made payable is admissible to establish the place of payment where the certificate of protest fails to show the place of presentment and the notary has no recollection of the specific presentment. Id.

9. Nelson v. Grondahl [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1093.

10. Until demand no cause of action accrues. Young v. American Bank, 44 Misc. 308, 89 N. Y. S. 915. An affidavit alleging demand and refusal on information and belief is insufficient if it fails to state the sources of information and belief. Id.

11. Young v. American Bank, 44 Misc. 308, 89 N. Y. S. 915.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1026.

NOTE. Notice to assignee or other representative of insolvent: Notice to the general agent employed to liquidate the affairs of the indorser (Fassin v. Hubbard, 55 N. Y. 465), or to the voluntary assignee of an accommodation indorser, though the whole of his estate is not assigned and he is not in fact insolvent, is sufficient (Calahan v. Bank of Kentucky, 82 Ky. 231). Notice addressed to the indorsers at their former place of business where their affairs are being settled up by an assignee is sufficient (Casco Bank v. Shaw, 79 Me. 376, 10 A. 67, tested.[13] Protest does not affect the liability of the maker.[14] In order to be effectual, protest must be made and notice given by one with authority[15] on the date of maturity.[16]

The certificate of protest as evidence.[17]—The certificate must show that proper presentment was made and due notice of dishonor given.[18] The certificate is evidence of a demand,[19] but not of collateral facts stated therein.[20] Statutes generally indicate the value of the certificate as evidence.[21] In New York if an affidavit of nonservice is not filed,[22] it is presumptive evidence of facts certified therein.[23] In New Jersey it is only admissible as to facts therein certified, when a copy has been annexed to the complaint,[24] and not then when the other party gives notice that he intends to dispute the fact of due presentment and dishonor.[25]

Form and sufficiency of notice.[26]—Notice to the indorser must expressly or impliedly show presentment to and dishonor by the maker, but need not state that the indorser is looked to for payment.[27] Notice may be served by mail.[28]

Parties entitled to notice.[29]—Parties primarily liable are not entitled to protest and notice thereof,[30] but if they are misled by the holder they will be discharged to the extent of damage sustained.[31]

An agent for collection who fails to fix the liability of an indorser by giving him notice of nonpayment is liable to his principal for such loss as is sustained.[32] The measure of damages depends on the inability of the principal to collect from the maker.[33] Evidence of the maker's inability to pay is admissible.[34]

1 Am. St. Rep. 319), since it is held that the assignee stands in the shoes of his assignor (American Nat. Bank v. Junk Bros. Lumber & Mfg. Co., 94 Tenn. 624, 30 S. W. 753, 28 L. R. A. 492). The court in the above case, saying that the question under discussion had prior to that time arisen in only three American cases, citing House v. Vinton Nat. Bank, 43 Ohio St. 346, 1 N. E. 129, 54 Am. Rep. 813, and Casco Nat. Bank v. Shaw, and Callahan v. Bank, supra.

Notice to insolvent maker, indorser or accommodation payee: Notice to the drawer of a bill, after being adjudged a bankrupt, none being given to the trustee then appointed is sufficient. Ex parte Baker, L. R. 4 Ch. Div. 795. Notice to the indorser and not to his assignee where the holder resides in another state and has no knowledge of the assignment was held sufficient in Donnell v. Lewis County Sav. Bank, 80 Mo. 165.—From note to Taylor v. Citizens' Sav. Bank [Ky.] 61 L. R. A. 900.

13. In land bills. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

14. An indorser who pays the paper at maturity on failure of the maker to do so can recover from the maker, though the note was not protested. McGowan v. Hover, 45 Misc. 138, 91 N. Y. S. 892.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1026, n. 83 et seq. Hofrichter v. Enyeart [Neb.] 99 N. W. 658.

16. In this case it was made one day too late. Redden v. Lambert, 112 La. 740, 36 So. 668.

17. See 2 Curr. L. 1026.

18. Mason v. Kilcourse [N. J. Law] 59 A. 21.

19. Ewen v. Wilbor, 208 Ill. 492, 70 N. E. 575.

20. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 463, providing that it is evidence of demand, and refusal to pay it is not evidence of the fact stated therein that the reason for refusal was lack of funds of the drawer. Nelson v. Kastle, 105 Mo. App. 187, 79 S. W. 730. Under the law merchant it is not the notary's duty to give notice of dishonor, and his certificate that he did is not even prima facie evidence of such fact. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1026, n. 79.

22. Recovery cannot be had against one entitled to notice of dishonor who has filed an affidavit of nonservice with his answer without proof of service. Singer v. Pollock, 91 N. Y. S. 755.

23. When the defendant, indorser, does not file an affidavit to the effect that he has not received notice as shown by the certificate in evidence, service on him will be deemed to have been made. German-American Bank v. Mills, 99 App. Div. 312, 91 N. Y. S. 142.

24. Section 21 (Revision of 1900, p. 367). Mason v. Kilcourse [N. J. Law] 59 A. 21.

25. Mason v. Kilcourse [N. J. Law] 59 A. 21.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1026.

27. Sessions & Co. v. Isabel, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 288.

28. Certificate of protest mailed to the indorser. German-American Bank v. Mills, 99 App. Div. 312, 91 N. Y. S. 142.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1026, also 2 Curr. L. 1025, n. 61.

30. Makers. Keyser v. Warfield [Md.] 59 A. 189. The drawer of an inland bill. Bank of Richland v. Nicholson, 120 Ga. 622, 48 S. E. 240.

31. Holder of an inland bill told the drawer that it had been paid. Bank of Richland v. Nicholson, 120 Ga. 622, 48 S. E. 240.

32, 33. Howard v. Bank of Metropolis, 95 App. Div. 342, 88 N. Y. S. 1070.

§ 11. New promise after discharge and waiver of non-presentment or the like.[35]—Presentment and demand may be waived orally, in writing or by conduct.[36] If an indorser waives diligence in pursuing the maker, any delay short of the period of limitations does not relieve him.[37]

§ 12. Accommodation paper.[38]—Accommodation paper has no legal inception until title has passed from the accommodated party.[39] An accommodation indorser is a creditor of the party accommodated before payment.[40] The benefit accruing to the person accommodated is a sufficient consideration to sustain the liability of an accommodation maker or indorser.[41] The terms of the indorsement cannot be varied by parol.[42]

As a general rule a corporation has no power to issue accommodation paper.[43]

Liability of accommodation parties.[44]—An accommodation maker is liable to the holder[45] or to an indorsee with notice of the character of his indorsement,[46] unless he have notice of the want of capacity of the indorser.[47] One taking accommodation paper is bound by the terms of his contract with the indorser,[48] and 34. Evidence that the maker was heavily indebted, names of his creditors and amount of their claims. Howard v. Bank of Metropolis, 95 App. Div. 342, 88 N. Y. S. 1070.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1027.

36. Sessions & Co. v. Isabel, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 288.

37. Williams Bros. v. Rosenbaum [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 594.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1027.

39. Where discounted at a usurious rate of interest, it is void in the hands of the party discounting it. Simpson v. Hefter, 42 Misc. 482, 87 N. Y. S. 243.

40. A transfer of property to him as security by the debtor is an act of bankruptcy. In re O'Donnell, 131 F. 150.

41. First Nat. Bank v. Lang [Minn.] 102 N. W. 700, citing 2 Curr. L. 1027, 1028. The signing of accommodation paper by joint makers is a sufficient consideration to support each other's promise to pay his proportion of the debt, but the secondary liability of such joint makers as sureties for the others' proportion of the debt is without consideration [Code Civ. Proc. § 1605]. Kellogg v. Lopez [Cal.] 78 P. 1056.

42. A parol agreement by a bank which discounted an accommodation note that it would look to the person for whose benefit it was made for payment cannot be shown to defeat an action on the note. Earle v. Enos, 130 F. 467.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1027, n. 94. A manufacturing corporation was not given this power by Negotiable Instruments Law. Oppenheim v. Simon Reigel Cigar Co., 90 N. Y. S. 355.

NOTE: A corporation has no power to issue or indorse accommodation paper. National Park Bank of New York v. German-American Mut. Warehousing & Security Co., 116 N. Y. 281; Monument Nat. Bank v. Globe Works, 101 Mass. 57; Pick v. Ellinger, 66 Ill. App. 570, but it cannot set up its want of power as against a bona fide purchaser. Jacobs Pharmacy Co. v. Southern Banking & Trust Co., 97 Ga. 573. Compare Ex parte Estabrook, 2 Low. 547, Fed. Cas. No. 4,534. See Clark & M. Corp. § 218.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1028.

45. A executed a note for the accommodation of B, payable to a bank. The bank refused to discount it and C did. Held, C could recover from "A" as could the bank had it discounted it. Bull v. Latimer [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 252.

Note: The result of the principal case is open to the technical objection, deemed fatal in many jurisdictions, that the note in the hands of the plaintiff is really not a valid instrument, since it has never been delivered to the payee. First Nat. Bank of Centralia v. Strange, 72 Ill. 559. Some courts, however, hold that it is desirable to let the plaintiff recover on the note, because the object of the note being merely to raise money, it must ordinarily be immaterial to the maker by whom it is discounted. Accordingly, a number of jurisdictions allow recovery, but require the suit to be brought in the name of the payee. Bank of Rutland v. Buck, 5 Wend. [N. Y.] 66. If recovery is to be allowed at all in such a case, the Texas court seems logical in allowing the plaintiff to bring the action in his own name; for the bank having refused to discount the note can have no more property in it than the plaintiff, and so no technical consistency is gained by requiring the action to be brought in its name.—18 Harv. L. R. 145.

46. German-American Sav. Bank v. Hanna [Iowa] 100 N. W. 57. Notice to an indorsee does not entitle the maker to set up want of consideration. Earle v. Enos, 130 F. 467.

47. Where one takes paper from the maker bearing the indorsement of the payee manufacturing corporation, he is charged with notice that it is accommodation paper. Oppenheim v. Simon Reigel Cigar Co., 90 N. Y. S. 355.

48. A president of a corporation made his personal note as collateral for a loan to the corporation under an agreement that the bank discounting the note should look to the corporation for payment. Held, that before demand for payment from the corporation the maker was not liable. Kennett Square Nat. Bank v. Shaw, 209 Pa. 313, 58 A. 622. Where an affidavit of defense sets up a collateral contract and facts de hors, the record tending to show nonliability rights of the parties will not be determined on a rule for judgment. Gallice v. Crilly, an indorsee who takes it as collateral security is limited in his recovery to the amount of the debt secured.[49] An officer of a bank discounting accommodation paper in which he himself is interested cannot bind the bank by an agreement with the accommodation maker or indorser.[50] One accommodation indorser is not liable to another except on his contract to give credit to the maker.[51] Where the agreement between a maker and one accommodation indorser was entirely separate from his agreement with another, there was no privity between such indorsers, and a judgment against one who gave notice to the other to defend did not estop the latter from claiming nonliability by reason of a diversion of the paper.[52] An accommodation indorser may set up defenses available to the maker.[53]

§ 13. The doctrine of bona fides. Who may be a holder.[54]—To be a bona fide holder one must take in the usual course of business[55] before maturity,[56] for a valuable consideration,[57] without knowledge of facts impeaching the validity of the paper as between the original parties and his indorser,[58] and without knowledge of facts that would lead a prudent man to suspect its invalidity.[59] The paper must be properly indorsed,[60] unless it be payable to bearer.[61]

Once bona fide holdership always bona fide holdership.[62]—An indorsee from a bona fide holder takes free from the equities existing between the original parties, though he have notice of them,[63] and acquires the paper after maturity;[64] but this principle does not apply where one with notice of equities which would be a defense as to him transfers to a bona fide holder and subsequently acquires the paper.[65]

134 F. 983. An accommodation indorser is not liable to the payee except on his special agreement to give the maker credit. Corn v. Levy, 93 App. Div. 618, 87 N. Y. S. 768.

49. Mersick v. Alderman [Conn.] 60 A. 109.

50. Where the president of a bank agrees with the maker of a note discounted by the bank for the benefit of a corporation, of which the maker and bank president were both officers, that the maker shall not be held liable, such agreement is no defense to an action on the note. The maker knowing that the interest of the president in the corporation was in conflict with his duties to the bank. Bank of Le Roy v. Purdy, 91 N. Y. S. 310.

51. In an action by one accommodation indorser who had paid the note to the payee against another, an answer alleging that it was not indorsed for the purpose of making it payable to the payee but for another purpose states a defense. Corn v. Levy, 93 App. Div. 618, 87 N. Y. S. 768. In an action by one accommodation indorser who had been compelled to pay the note against another, an answer alleging that the note was indorsed under circumstances which showed a diversion is bad unless it specifies when plaintiff became aware of the diversion. Id., 97 App. Div. 48, 89 N. Y. S. 658.

52. Corn v. Levy, 93 App. Div. 618, 87 N. Y. S. 768.

53. Want of consideration. Leonard v. Draper [Mass.] 73 N. E. 644.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1028.

55. Evidence held to show one a bona fide holder. National Bank of Commerce v. Kenney [Tex.] 83 S. W. 368.

56. One taking overdue paper is not a bona fide holder. Board of Sup'rs of Issaquena County v. Anderson [Miss.] 38 So. 47.

57. Want of consideration is a defense as against an indorsee with notice. Mayes v. McElroy [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 344. One taking paper for but a fraction of its face value is not. Board of Sup'rs of Issaquena County v. Anderson [Miss.] 38 So. 47.

58. Evidence held to show that an indorsee had notice of equities of the maker constituting a defense against his indorser. Andrews v. Fidelity Loan & Trust Co. [Va.] 48 S. E. 884.

59. One held not a bona fide holder who receives paper from a person who four days prior had perpetrated a fraud upon him. Capitol Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. Montpelier Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 827.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1030, n. 29. One who takes by assignment as security for a debt is not a bona fide holder. Sathre v. Rolfe [Mont.] 77 P. 431.

61. A note to bearer is not subject to equities between the maker and transferees of the payee. Buck v. Troy Aqueduct Co., 76 Vt. 75, 56 A. 285.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1028.

63. Weil v. Carswell, 119 Ga. 873, 47 S. E. 217. An answer alleging that an indorsee had notice of a defense but not alleging that his indorser had does not state a defense. Pryon & Son v. Rouhs, 120 Ga. 1060, 48 S. E. 434. One who has derived his title from a bona fide holder and was not himself a party to any fraud has all the rights of his indorser. Bryan v. Harr, 21 App. D. C. 190.

64. Under Neg. Inst. Law, § 97 (Laws 1897, p. 732, c. 612). Jennings v. Carlucci, 87 N. Y. S. 475.

65. One of the partners of a partnership payee acquired the paper after it had been in the hands of a bona fide holder. Weil v. Carswell, 119 Ga. 873, 47 S. E. 217.

Notice and knowledge.[66]—The paper must be taken without notice of infirmities[67] or defenses.[68] The notice must be of facts sufficient to impute bad faith.[69] A mere suspicion,[70] knowledge of his indorser's dishonesty in business matters,[71] or notice that the instrument is accommodation paper,[72] is insufficient. Notice of an agent is imputed to his principal,[73] unless their interests are adverse.[74] The doctrine of lis pendens has no application.[75] Notice may be established by facts and circumstances as well as by direct evidence.[76]

Taking in due course of business.[77]—A pledgee[78] or one discounting paper acquires it in due course.[79] A bank receiving from a depositor a check on another bank and giving him credit for the amount does not.[80]

Taking before maturity.[81]—One who takes paper after maturity is not a bona fide holder.[82]

Parting with value.[83]—An indorsee must part with value.[84] Paper transferred in settlement of a pending suit is for value.[85]

Rights of a bona fide holder.[86]—A bona fide holder takes free from equities between or defenses available to the original parties. Therefore paper in his hands is not subject to a set-off in favor of the maker.[87] Fraud,[88] want or failure[89]

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1029.

67. Notice of an alteration destroys his character as a bona fide holder. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565. Good faith of a purchaser of promissory notes, from a guardian not material, where the sale was unauthorized. Merchants' & Clerks' Sav. Bank Co. v. Schirk, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 569.

68. Instruction ignoring defense of fraud and directing a verdict for defendant if paper had been materially altered is bad. John Stewart & Co. v. Andes [Mo.] 84 S. W. 1134.

69. Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 73. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959. A merchant who takes a check indorsed in blank from a customer he does not know without further indorsement or inquiry within a week after its issue is a bona fide holder under Neg. Inst. Law. Unaka Nat. Bank v. Butler [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 655. The fact that intermediate indorsement is scratched out and obliterated does not charge an indorsee with bad faith, such occurrence being explained. Goetting v. Day, 87 N. Y. S. 510. Bank receiving notes from a broker as collateral for his debts held a bona fide holder. Not charged with notice that the broker did not own the paper. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. Upton, 91 N. Y. S. 475.

70. The fact that an indorsee has a suspicion that his indorser is not an honest man is sufficient. Bank of Indian Territory v. First Nat. Bank [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 537.

71. Evidence that the firm of which the indorser was a member had its place of business next door is immaterial. Setzer v. Deal, 135 N. C. 428, 47 S. E. 466.

72. First Nat. Bank v. Lang [Minn.] 102 N. W. 700.

73. Evidence held to show that an indorsee was not the principal of the payee so as to charge him with notice of equities existing against the paper. Thorpe v. Mindeman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 417.

74. Where the interest of the president of a bank in the discount of a note was adverse to the bank, his notice of an infirmity is insufficient to charge the bank. Davis v. Boone County Deposit Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2078, 80 S. W. 161.

75. Statute permitting the attachment of choses in action, whether due or not, and declaring void any transfer after filing of attachment bill, does not affect a bona fide holder. Kimbrough v. Hornsby [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 613.

76. John Stewart & Co. v. Andes [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1134. Letter written by the payee to the maker after transfer of the paper held admissible as showing that the indorsee did not take for value. Morris v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1015.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1030.

78. Watzlavzick v. Oppenheimer [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 855.

79. Rev. Laws, c. 73, §§ 69-76, defining holders in due course. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959.

80. So long as the depositor's account remains sufficient to pay the check [Laws 1897, p. 732, c. 612, § 19]. Citizens' State Bank v. Cowles [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 33.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1030.

82. Note given to the payee to be used as collateral is without consideration. Brown v. Smedley [Mich.] 98 N. W. 856.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1030.

84. Under the Negotiable Instruments Law, where after execution of a note and mortgage the mortgagee refused to make the loan and the agent of the mortgagor who had endeavored to negotiate the loan caused an assignment of the mortgage to be made to him. Keegan v. Rock [Iowa] 102 N. W. 805. The maker having set up that the holder was not a bona fide indorsee, he may show want of consideration for the note. Morris v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1015.

85. Tollman v. Quincy, 129 F. 974.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1031.

87. As against the payee. Levy v. Avery, 91 N. Y. S. 67.

88. Benedict v. Kress, 97 App. Div. 65, 89 N. Y. S. 607. Neg. Inst. Law (Rev. Laws, c. 73, §§ 69-74). White v. Dodge [Mass.] 73 N. E. 549. Fraud or misrepresentation as be-or illegality of consideration,[89] unless so declared by statute,[91] is no defense as against him, nor is the fact that the instrument is tainted with usury,[92] or has been paid to the original payee,[93] or is void as between the original parties,[94] or is accommodation paper.[95] Incapacity of an accommodation indorser to enter into such a contract is no defense,[96] nor is want of delivery[97] or the fact that the paper had been stolen.[98] That the certification of a check constituted a crime is no defense.[99]

Forgery,[1] unless ratified,[2] or a material alteration,[3] unless made possible by the negligence of the maker,[4] are defenses available against a bona fide holder. In Massachusetts[5] and under the Negotiable Instruments Law, if materially altered, it may be enforced according to its original tenor.[6]

A bona fide transferee takes title to collateral.[7] An indorsee who subsequently learns that paper was transferred to him for the purpose of freeing it from defenses must exercise available means to protect the maker.[8] tween the parties. Martindale v. Stotler [Kan.] 77 P. 700.

89. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290. A plea setting up want of consideration but not averring that the indorsee took them with notice of such fact does not state a defense. Pyron & Son v. Ruohs, 120 Ga. 1060, 48 S. E. 434.

90. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

91. A note given for the right to sell a patented invention and not bearing on its face the words "Given for a patent right" as required by statute is void. Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 78 P. 151.

92. Civ. Code 1895, § 3694. Weed v. Gainesville, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 576, 46 S. E. 885.

93. Loizeaux v. Fremder [Wis.] 101 N. W. 423. The fact that a bona fide holder led the maker to believe that his indorser still owned the note does not estop the holder from denying the payee's ownership at a subsequent period. Id.

94. Payee was a foreign corporation and had not complied with § 3265, Rev. Code 1899, providing that every contract made without first having filed a copy of its articles with the secretary of state should be wholly void in its hands. National Bank of Commerce v. Pick [N. D.] 99 N. W. 63. Word "assigns" in this statute does not include a bona fide holder of a negotiable instrument. Id.

95. Mersick v. Alderman [Conn.] 60 A. 109. Under Negotiable Instruments Law. Willard v. Crook, 21 App. D. C. 237; Metropolitan Print. Co. v. Springer, 90 N. Y. S. 376; Tollman v. Quincy, 129 F. 974.

96. Willard v. Crook, 21 App. D. C. 237.

97. The payee of a check who indorses and loses it cannot recover from the bank who has paid it to a bona fide holder, though he has notified the bank of his loss. Unaka Nat. Bank v. Butler [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 655. The provision of Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 33, "Every contract on a negotiable instrument is revocable until delivery, has no application after delivery. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959.

98. Cochran v. Fox Chase Bank, 209 Pa. 34, 58 A. 117. Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 73, providing that in the hands of a bona fide holder a valid delivery by all prior parties is conclusively presumed. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959.

99. Prohibited and made a crime unless there are funds in bank sufficient to satisfy it. Union Trust Co. v. Preston Nat. Bank [Mich.] 99 N. W. 399.

1. Where the treasurer of a corporation without authority forges the name of the general manager who has authority to execute negotiable paper. Merchants & Farmers Cotton Oil Co. v. Lufkin Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 651. The fact that a party who forged another's name was deeply indebted to him and could set off the claim would not be grounds on which to entitle a bona fide holder of the paper to recover. Id.

2. The secretary of a corporation had authority to attest and affix its seal to negotiable instruments. The treasurer forged the name of the official authorized to execute and the secretary affixed the seal. Held, a bona fide holder could recover. Merchants & Farmers Cotton Oil Co. v. Lufkin Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 651.

3. Under a statute requiring place of payment to be designated, an insertion in compliance therewith is a material alteration. Carroll v. Warren [Ala.] 37 So. 687.

4. Leaving blanks which were filled in. Humphrey Hardware Co. v. Herrick [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1016. See, also, Yocum v. Smith, 63 Ill. 321, 14 Am. Rep. 120.

5. Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 141. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959.

6. Where payee of a check represented that it was lost and received and cashed another in place of it and then changed the first check to make it payable 10 days later, the holder can recover. Moskowitz v. Deutsch, 92 N. Y. S. 721.

7. White v. Dodge [Mass.] 73 N. E. 549.

8. After dishonor but prior to action he learned that the note was without consideration and had at the time in his hands sufficient funds of an indorser who ought to pay it, which could have been applied. State Bank v. Blakely & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 331.

A non-negotiable instrument requires no compliance with statute in order to let in equitable defenses available between the parties.[9]

Burden of proof.[10]—The holding of one in possession of paper regularly indorsed is presumed to be bona fide,[11] and unless the paper bears on its face notice of infirmities, the holder need not prove in the first instance that his holding is bona fide;[12] but where the defendant sets up fraud or illegality,[13] that the instrument has been negotiated in violation of a contract between the parties,[14] that the consideration was illegal,[15] denies under oath the genuineness of his indorsement,[16] or it is shown that the title of one negotiating the instrument is defective,[17] the burden is on the holder to show that he is a bona fide indorsee.[18] On conflicting evidence, the question whether or not one is a bona fide holder is for the jury.[19] The maker setting up failure of consideration has the burden of proving it.[20]

§ 14. Remedies and procedure peculiar to negotiable paper.[21]—Equity will not restrain the transfer of a negotiable instrument,[22] but may decree the cancellation of a forged instrument if its existence will cause embarrassment.[23] An action at law may be maintained on a lost instrument.[24]

Parties.[25]—An action cannot be maintained on a note to which neither plaintiff nor defendant is a party.[26] Where makers are severally liable, any or all of them may be sued.[27]

9. See Non-Negotiable Paper, 4 Curr. L. 827.

That a note not payable in bank did not bear on its face notice that it was given for a patent right. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1032.

11. In due course. Towles v. Tanner, 21 App. D. C. 530. Negotiable Instruments Law construed. Bryan v. Harr, 21 App. D. C. 190. And where the maker claims he is not a bona fide holder, the burden is on him to prove it. Price v. Winnebago Nat. Bank [Okl.] 79 P. 105. In the absence of a verified denial of an indorsement or of testimony to the contrary, an indorsee is presumed to be a bona fide holder. Scott v. Geiser Mfg. Co. [Kan.] 78 P. 823. A bill of lading with draft attached for price of goods transferred by unrestricted endorsement raises a presumption that the indorsee is a bona fide purchaser of the draft for value without notice of defenses in favor of the drawee or consignee. Willard Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133 N. C. 630, 45 S. E. 1026.

12. Alterations. Towles v. Tanner, 21 App. D. C. 530. A plea of forgery does not place on the holder the burden of showing that it was not forged. Id.

13. Stewart & Co. v. Andes [Mo.] 84 S. W. 1134; Kennedy v. Gibson, 68 Kan. 612, 75 P. 1044. Under Neg. Inst. Law. Consolidation Nat. Bank v. Kirkland, 99 App. Div. 121, 91 N. Y. S. 353. Evidence held insufficient to show that plaintiff was a bona fide holder. Did not pay a consideration. Id.

14. Under Neg. Inst. Law. German-American Bank v. Cunningham, 97 App. Div. 244, 89 N. Y. S. 836.

15. Askegaard v. Dalen [Minn.] 101 N. W. 503; Orr v. South Amboy Terra Cotta Co., 92 N. Y. S. 521.

16. James v. Blackman, 68 Kan. 723, 75 P. 1017.

17. Under Neg. Inst. Law, where it is shown that the title of a person who has negotiated an instrument is defective, the burden is on the holder to show that he acquired title in due course. Keegan v. Rock [Iowa] 102 N. W. 805.

18. It having been shown that as between the original parties the note had been fraudulently put in circulation. Mendenhall v. Ulrich [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1057; State Bank of Indiana v. Cook [Iowa] 100 N. W. 72. Where the indorser from whom he received it had perpetrated a fraud on him four days before the transfer of the paper in question, evidence held to show he was not a bona fide holder. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. Montpelier Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 827. Without notice that the paper is usurious. Simpson v. Hefter, 42 Misc. 482, 87 N. Y. S. 243.

19. Error to direct a verdict. Padget v. O'Connor [Neb.] 98 N. W. 870. Question of bona fide holdership held one for the jury. State Bank of Ind. v. Cook [Iowa] 100 N. W. 72.

20. He having failed to sustain the burden, it was proper to direct verdict for plaintiff. Gould v. Small [Ga.] 49 S. E. 723. Evidence held not to show fraud or mistake where one signed notes without reading them. Poindexter v. McDowell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1133. Directed verdict proper. Id.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1033.

22. Where an instrument is transferred to a bona fide holder in violation of an agreement not to negotiate it, the maker has a cause of action at law against the transferror. Detwiler v. Bainbridge Grocery Co., 119 Ga. 981, 47 S. E. 553.

23. Though there is a perfect defense. Ritterhoff v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank [Wash.] 79 P. 601.

24. It is doubtful whether Gen. St. p. 2605, providing that a court of law may entertain an action on a lost "promissory note" and give the same judgment as if the note had not been lost, applies to instruments other than promissory notes. Clinton Nat. Bank v. Stiger [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1055.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1034.

A citation which states the nature of the demand is sufficient.[28]

Pleading.—The complaint[29] may set out the instrument by copy[30] or plead it according to its legal effect.[31] It is not necessary to file the original note with the declaration.[32] A note filed with the original complaint is still a part of the complaint when amended by making a copy with the amendatory words added, though not refiled.[33] It is not necessary to allege that it was executed in the usual course of business,[34] nor the nature of the debt evidenced.[35] If pleaded by copy an allegation of a promise to pay is unnecessary,[36] as is an allegation of consideration if the instrument contain "value received."[37] It is not necessary to allege facts made apparent by the action.[38] The payee need not allege that he is the owner.[39] An allegation that the paper was duly "assigned, indorsed and delivered" is an allegation that it was transferred in the usual course of business for value before maturity.[40] An allegation that the instrument was executed is an allegation that it was signed.[41] Payment as a defense must be pleaded.[42] The complaint must be good on the theory upon which the action is brought.[43] A declaration by an indorsee failing to state that the instrument was payable to order may be aided by a bill of particulars setting forth the instrument.[44]

The answer.[45]—The answer must be sufficient as against the instrument declared on.[46] The general issue is not a denial of the execution of an instrument under a statute providing that execution is deemed admitted unless denied.[47] Under a statute providing that the consideration is open to inquiry, an answer need not set up facts showing want of consideration.[48] An answer setting up new

26. Defendant handed a stranger's note to plaintiff, who had it discounted and loaned the proceeds to defendant; an action to recover the money could not be maintained on the note. Kapiloff v. Feist, 91 N. Y. S. 27.

27. Code Civ. Proc. § 44. Palmer v. McFarlane [Neb.] 102 N. W. 256.

28. Citation which gives date and amount of note, when due, and states that it stipulates for 10 per cent interest and also for attorney's fees and sets up the execution of a chattel mortgage, is sufficient [Batts' Ann. St. art. 1214]. McAnally v. Vickry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 857.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1034.

30. Complaint on promissory note held sufficient. Palmer v. McFarlane [Neb.] 102 N. W. 256.

31. Complaint by the indorsee of a promissory note held sufficient. McAnally v. Vickry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 857.

32. It is sufficient if it be produced at the trial or other proceeding. Finney v. Penn. Iron Works Co., 22 App. D. C. 476.

33. Abbott v. Bowers, 98 Md. 525, 57 A. 538.

34. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

35. Note executed by a corporation. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

36. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

37. Ullery v. Brohm [Colo. App.] 79 P. 180.

38. In an action on a note providing for attorney's fees in case suit be brought, it is not necessary to allege that action has been brought. McAnally v. Vickry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 857.

39. In an action by the payee. Ullery v. Brohm [Colo. App.] 79 P. 180.

40. Under a general denial the defendant can show that the holder had knowledge of defenses between the original parties or that he took it after maturity. Hodgson v. Mather, 92 Minn. 299, 100 N. W. 87.

41. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

42. A general denial does not raise the issue. First Nat. Bank v. Jennings, 44 Misc. 374, 89 N. Y. S. 995.

43. A complaint seeking to establish the negotiable character of a note under the law of the state where it is payable is not good as stating a cause on a non-negotiable note. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

44. Finney v. Penn. Iron Works Co., 22 App. D. C. 476.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1034. Where an indorsee guarantied an instrument and was required to pay it, in an action to recover from the maker an affidavit of defense which states that plaintiff should have declared as guarantor and not as an indorser does not state a defense. Finney v. Penn. Iron Works Co., 22 App. D. C. 476. Answer attempting to plead a breach of contract in which notes sued on were given held insufficient. No allegation of any specific breach or set-off. Julius Kessler & Co. v. Perilloux & Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 903.

46. General allegations denying that the copy note attached to the complaint is not an exact copy of the note defendant gave plaintiff and denying that defendant is indebted to plaintiff presents no valid defense to the note sued on. Camp v. Young, 119 Ga. 981, 47 S. E. 560.

47. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 75, § 24. Abbott v. Bowers, 98 Md. 525, 57 A. 538.

48. Under Code 1896, § 1800, an answer matter not constituting a defense is frivolous.[49] An answer alleging no consideration, but setting up specific facts from which it is apparent that there is a consideration, is demurrable.[50] Denial of delivery or that there is anything due does not set up new affirmative matter making a reply necessary.[51] An answer setting up fraud and denying the plaintiff's ownership states a defense,[52] and is not inconsistent with a plea of non est factum.[53]

Defenses.—The maker cannot defend on the ground that it was beyond the powers of the payee to take the paper,[54] nor because of breach of a contract of the payee not to negotiate.[55] A claim arising ex delicto cannot be set up.[56] Where several signers are jointly liable, but one is principal and the others are sureties, the principal may set off any claim due him from the holder.[57] A defense that an assignee is not the real party in interest is established only by showing that payment to him would not protect the maker against further liability.[58] The establishment of a lost instrument is no bar to any defense that might be set up to the original note.[59]

Forgery, if established,[60] constitutes a complete defense,[61] unless the signature is ratified[62] or adopted;[63] but the forgery of the signature of one joint maker is no defense to the others.[64] The assertion of forgery by the alleged maker is not conclusive.[65] Evidence of the circumstances of the parties at the time of the alleged execution is admissible.[66] Comparison of genuine with alleged spurious by an acceptor. Ragsdale v. Gresham [Ala.] 37 So. 367.

49. Where a complaint alleges execution by defendant and the answer contains a general denial and new matter not constituting a defense, such answer is frivolous if it clearly appears that the defendant did execute the instrument. First Nat. Bank v. Lang [Minn.] 102 N. W. 700. Where a complaint by an indorsee alleges that the payee indorsed the instrument to him and that he is the owner thereof, an answer denying that defendant has information or belief whether plaintiff is the lawful holder or that they were transferred to him is frivolous. First Nat. Bank v. Jennings, 44 Misc. 374, 89 N. Y. S. 995.

50. Metz v. Winne [Okl.] 79 P. 223.

51. Bode v. Werner, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 158.

52. That plaintiff's name was erroneously written in the note as payee. The defendants' illiteracy. Broyles v. Absher [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 703.

53. Broyles v. Absher [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 703.

54. Corporation payee denied this power. Russell v. Cassidy [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 171.

55. No defense to the note in the hands of one with notice of the promise, it not appearing that the maker had any other defense. State Bank v. Mentzer [Iowa] 100 N. W. 69.

56. Ray v. Anderson, 119 Ga. 926, 47 S. E. 205.

57. Comp. Laws 1897, § 10,075, subd. 6. McGraw v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 758.

58. Evidence held to show that the maker would have been protected from further liability. Greene v. McAuley [Kan.] 79 P. 133.

59. Payment made prior to the judgment establishing the copy may be pleaded. Jenkins v. Forbes, 121 Ga. 383, 49 S. E. 284.

60. Evidence held to show that a corporation had authorized its general manager to execute negotiable paper. Merchants & Farmers Cotton Oil Co. v. Lufkin Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 651. Evidence held to show that the manager of a firm had authority to sign notes. Fordville Banking Co. v. Thompson [Ky.] 82 S. W. 251.

61. Evidence held to show that a check was forged. Evidence insufficient to show agent's authority to execute. Schoor v. Doctor, 88 N. Y. S. 130.

62. Where parties whose names had been signed by another were immediately notified by the payee and they did not repudiate the same until after maturity of the paper and the principal maker had died hopelessly insolvent, it was held that they had ratified such signatures. Corner Stone Bank v. Rhodes [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 739.

63. Delivery by the apparent maker is an adoption of the signature by whoever made. Harris v. Tinder [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 94. Evidence that the alleged maker delivered it as his note and thereby adopted the signature is admissible without a plea of ratification or estoppel. Id.

64. Rocky Mount Loan & Trust Co. v. Price [Va.] 49 S. E. 73.

65. Instruction to such effect does not give undue prominence to such testimony. Sanders v. North End Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 178 Mo. 674, 77 S. W. 833.

66. That the maker was in need of funds. Gandy v. Bissell's Estate [Neb.] 100 N. W. 803. In an action by the assignee, evidence of the payee's poverty soon after the note was executed is inadmissible where the note had been assigned prior to such time. Miller v. Stebbins [Vt.] 59 A. 844. Where the genuineness is denied and the subscribing witness testifies that he saw the maker sign and that he and others signed as subscribing witnesses, the question is for the jury. Groff v. Groff, 209 Pa. 603, 59 A. 65.

signature in issue is for the jury.[67] Genuine lead pencil signature may be used for comparison.[68] Payment of other alleged forged notes may be rebutted by proof that it was made in ignorance of rights.[69]

Evidence. Presumptions and burden of proof.[70]—Every negotiable instrument is presumed to have been issued for a valuable consideration,[71] though it does not contain "value received."[72] One in possession of paper is presumed to be the owner.[73] The maker cannot inquire into the title of the holder unless necessary for his protection or to let in a defense which he seeks to make.[74] Nonpayment is presumed from the payee's possession.[75] Proof of execution of the notes establishes a prima facie case[76] and casts the burden of proving payment on the maker;[77] but if execution is denied under oath, it must be shown that the alleged maker either signed or authorized his signature to be affixed.[78] Payments indorsed on a note are presumed to have been made by the maker,[79] and an extension agreement, a part of the contract evidenced.[80]

An instrument is admissible as tending to show an indebtedness and to rebut any presumption or claim of a greater indebtedness.[81] An admission by the holder that the face of the note is in excess of the true indebtedness discredits it as evidence.[82]

Evidence admissible generally.[83]—A material alteration[84] or fraud and substitution of instruments may be shown under a plea of non est factum.[85] A

Upon defense of forgery, evidence that payee had placed money with maker is admissible. Sanders v. North End Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 178 Mo. 674, 77 S. W. 833.

67, 68. Groff v. Groff, 209 Pa. 603, 59 A. 65.

69. Kingsbury v. Waco State Bank, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 387, 70 S. W. 551.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1033, n. 76; Id. 1035.

71. Towles v. Tanner, 21 App. D. C. 530. In an action on a check by the payee, evidence held insufficient to overcome the presumption of delivery and consideration created by Neg. Inst. Law, Laws 1897, pp. 725, 727, c. 612, §§ 35, 50. Moak v. Stevens, 45 Misc. 147, 91 N. Y. S. 903. In an action on a lost note, evidence held to show that it was executed by defendant. Day v. Long [Ky.] 80 S. W. 774. Evidence that the alleged maker delivered it as his note in substitution for another note of like amount establishes a prima facie case. Harris v. Tinder [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 94.

72. Taylor v. Taylor's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832.

73. Possession of a negotiable note is prima facie evidence of delivery and ownership. Gandy v. Bissell's Estate [Neb.] 100 N. W. 803; Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959. A bearer is the person in possession [Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 207]. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959.

74. Ray v. Anderson, 119 Ga. 926, 47 S. E. 205.

75. Sarraille v. Calmon, 142 Cal. 651, 76 P. 497. Presumption of nonpayment from possession of the paper unindorsed by the payee is not overcome by unsupported testimony of the maker that it had been paid. Collins v. Maude, 144 Cal. 289, 77 P. 945. Possession of a note and evidence of collateral security by the creditor's representatives placed on the debtor's representatives the burden of showing payment and explaining such possession. Brown v. Bronson, 93 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 872.

76. There being no proof of want of consideration, the plaintiff did not have the burden of proving it. Taylor v. Taylor's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832. Where the maker admits execution, he has the burden of proving payment. Royster Guano Co. v. Marks, 135 N. C. 59, 47 S. E. 127. In Michigan, if the instrument is sued on in the justice court and is filed with the complaint, its execution is deemed admitted unless denied under oath. Naftzker v. Lantz [Mich.] 100 N. W. 601. Putting a promissory note in evidence in a suit thereon establishes a prima facie case and casts the burden on defendant. Bode v. Werner, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 158. An admission that a note signed by a firm name was executed is an admission that a co-partnership existed. Naftzker v. Lantz [Mich.] 100 N. W. 601.

77. Taylor v. Taylor's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832. Where execution of notes was denied by the estate of the maker, evidence held for the jury. Id.

78. Harris v. Tinder [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 94; Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

79. For the purpose of tolling the statute of limitations. Gehres v. Orlowski [Wash.] 78 P. 792.

80. An entry on the back of the note purporting to have been made at date of maturity "This note is stayed for twelve months by agreement" signed by the surety is presumed to be a part of the contract evidenced. Cook v. Landrum [Ky.] 82 S. W. 585. An inference of its genuineness arises from the fact that the indulgence was given. Id.

81. Leask v. Dew, 92 N. Y. S. 891.

82. Hollins v. American Union Elec. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 1041.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1035.

84. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

85. Under the plea of non est factum the defendant may prove that through his illiteracy, by misreading the paper to him or fraudulent alteration may be shown under a general denial.[88] An indorser cannot impeach his indorsee's title by testifying to a defect in his own.[87] The terms of a written contract of which it was the consideration cannot be varied by parol.[88]

A judgment will bear interest at the rate specified in the instrument; if no rate is specified, at the legal rate of the state where the instrument is payable.[89]

Indemnifying maker of lost instrument.[90]—A statute providing for an indemnity bond where action is brought on a lost instrument does not apply to non-negotiable paper.[91] Equity will enjoin an action if there has been an offer of payment, if indemnity be given.[92]

NEUTRALITY; NEW PROMISE, see latest topical index.

NEWSPAPERS.

Rendition of services as official newspaper without legal selection as such gives no right to compensation.[93] Where the selection of two papers is required by statute, the selection of eight does not operate as a selection of the two first named, but is wholly void.[94] Where a selection to cure a prior invalid one fixed a lower price, such reduction is not accepted under duress because the publisher is told that another paper will be selected if he does not accept.[95] Under the New York statute, the compensation of papers publishing election notices is not subject to the limitation imposed on papers publishing session laws.[96]

NEW TRIAL AND ARREST OF JUDGMENT.[1]

§ 1. Nature of the Remedy by New Trial and Right to It (811).
§ 2. Grounds (812).
A. In General (812).
B. Misconduct of Parties, Counsel or Witnesses (812).
C. Rulings and Instructions at Trial (812).
D. Misconduct of or Affecting Jury (814).
E. Irregularities or Defects in Verdict or Findings (815).
F. Verdict or Findings Contrary to Law or Evidence (815).
G. Surprise, Accident or Mistake (818).
H. Newly-Discovered Evidence (819).
I. As Matter of Right in Ejectment (821).
§ 3. Proceedings to Procure New Trial (822).
§ 4. Proceedings at New Trial (825).
§ 5. Arrest of Judgment (825).
A. Grounds (825).
B. Motions and Proceedings Thereon (826).
C. Effect (827).

The grant of new trials by reviewing courts,[2] the necessity of objection and exception,[3] the determination whether error has been in fact committed,[4] and of other fraudulent device, an instrument other than the one he intended to sign was wrongfully substituted. Broyles v. Absher [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 703.

86. Gandy v. Bissell's Estate [Neb.] 100 N. W. 803.

87. Declarations of a person to whom a note was given, that it was given as a memorandum and not to be negotiated, are not admissible against his indorsee. Mitchell v. Baldwin, 88 App. Div. 265, 84 N. Y. S. 1043.

88. Blanks v. Moore, 139 Ala. 624, 36 So. 783.

89. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1036.

91. Action to compel the reissue of a lost non-negotiable certificate of deposit. Zander v. New York Security & Trust Co., 39 Misc. 98, 78 N. Y. S. 900, affd. 81 N. Y. S. 1151.

92. Clinton Nat. Bank v. Stiger [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1055.

93. Services were rendered pending an appeal from a selection of plaintiff, on which appeal a competitor was selected. Smith v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 186. The fact that the paper selected was denied compensation because it performed no services does not alter the case. Id.

94, 95. Ford v. Board of Sup'rs of Delaware County, 92 App. Div. 119, 87 N. Y. S. 407.

96. Laws 1892, p. 1750, provides that the compensation for publishing session laws shall be fixed within certain limits, and in a subsequent section that the board shall "in like manner" designate the papers to publish election notices and fix their compensation. Ford v. Board of Sup'rs of Delaware County, 92 App. Div. 119, 87 N. Y. S. 407.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1037.

2. See Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167.

3. See Saving Questions for Review, 2 Curr. L. 1590.

whether error is harmless or was cured by subsequent proceedings,[5] are elsewhere treated.

§ 1. Nature of the remedy by new trial and right to it.[6]—The right to grant a new trial is to be exercised to promote justice,[7] as to protect a party's constitutional right to a review by the supreme court,[8] when it is impossible to perfect the record[9] so as to give the appellate court a chance to review.[10] A new trial may be refused in a court case,[11] but it will be granted though the case is necessarily for the jury,[12] unless there is a clear preponderance of testimony, when judgment will be directed.[13] It may be ordered on one issue,[14] or allowed where there was a mistrial,[15] unless it was such that there was no trial.[16] Where the jury was discharged at the close of the testimony and the court took the case under advisement as one involving only questions of law, it is proper for the court to order a new trial on becoming convinced that an issue of fact is involved.[17] A motion to set aside a judgment by default is not a motion for a new trial,[18] though in the nature of one.[19] Motion for a new trial does not raise the question of conflict between the general verdict and the special findings, where there has been no motion for a judgment non obstante veredicto.[20] The order granting a new trial will not be disturbed on appeal unless abuse is shown,[21] as the appellate courts are more reluctant to interfere where one is granted than where one is refused;[22] but the ruling of the successor of the trial judge does not carry the usual presumption on appeal.[23] Failure to demand a new trial precludes consideration by a reviewing court of many matters for which a new trial might have been had.[24]

4. See Argument of Counsel, 3 Curr. L. 306; Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334; Instructions, 4 Curr. L. 133; Trial, 2 Curr. L. 1907, and like topics.

5. See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1038.

7. New trial in divorce, where guardian ad litem of opponent's selection failed to make a proper defense. Frieseke v. Frieseke [Mich.] 101 N. W. 632.

8. Where right to review lost by his inability to procure a transcript. Zweibel v. Caldwell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 843.

9. The trial judge and parties were unable to return the minutes, and the stenographer could not be found. Doane Steam Pump Co. v. Roch, 92 N. Y. S. 35.

10. Acts 1903, p. 341, c. 193, § 8, providing that the appellate courts shall in cases not triable by jury, carefully consider the weight of evidence, if required to by an assignment of error, does not contemplate a trial de novo, but the judgment below will be presumed correct until the contrary is affirmatively shown. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109.

11. The remedy lies in an appeal from the judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1346]. Simpson v. Hefter, 43 Misc. 608, 88 N. Y. S. 282.

12. Walker v. Newton Falls Paper Co., 90 N. Y. S. 530. Granting a new trial involves discretion; directing a verdict is a matter of right. Larkin v. United Traction Co., 76 App. Div. 238, 78 N. Y. S. 538.

13. Any other verdict would be set aside. Gunn v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 452.

14. In a case of great magnitude a new trial of all of the issues will not be ordered where one issue of minor importance is not supported by the evidence. Rose v. Mesmer, 142 Cal. 322, 75 P. 905. Action to recover commissions on collecting rents and on sales of property, and no contest made on first cause. Satterthwaite v. Goodyear [N. C.] 49 S. E. 205.

15. Case was withdrawn from jury as court thought no question of fact presented, but subsequently concluded it was in error. Process Copper & Brass Co. v. Perfect Arc Lamp & Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 198, 87 N. Y. S. 987.

16. Court permitted a juror to withdraw against objection of party. Rosengarten v. Central R. Co., 69 N. J. Law, 220, 54 A. 564.

17. Process Copper & Brass Co. v. Perfect Arc Lamp & Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 198, 87 N. Y. S. 987.

18. Need not be filed within four days of judgment. Harkness v. Jarvis, 182 Mo. Sup. 231, 81 S. W. 446.

19. And must be made within 2 days after the rendition of judgment or sufficient excuse shown. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

20. Drake v. Justice Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 75 P. 912.

21. Hooper v. Fletcher [Cal.] 79 P. 418. The order rests in the discretion of the trial court and is not reviewable in the appellate courts. Walker v. Moser [C. C. A.] 117 F. 230. Exercise of the court's discretion will not be reviewed unless it was clearly abused. Lazier Gas Engine Co. v. Du Bois [C. C. A.] 130 F. 834. The order of the trial court in granting a new trial will not be reversed, though the appellate court might have acted differently. Hunter v. Porter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 53. Except in a clear case, appellate court will not interfere. Chambliss v. Hass [Iowa] 101 N. W. 153.

22. Hydinger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 746.

23. Tyler v. Haggart [S. D.] 102 N. W. 682.

24. See Saving Questions for Review, 2 Curr. L. 1590.

§ 2. Grounds. A. In general.[25]—A new trial will not be granted for errors which could not be corrected on another trial, as want of jurisdiction,[26] failure of a judgment to follow a verdict,[27] defects in pleadings,[28] erroneous conclusions of law,[29] or for mere technical objections to proof of bankruptcy.[30] New trial will not be granted for any cause which the moving party might have avoided by diligence.[31] A new trial may be granted to a defendant who was a nonresident and was served by publication only,[32] or where a report of a referee is contrary to law.[33] The grounds are usually a matter of statute.[34]

(§ 2) B. Misconduct of parties, counsel or witnesses.[35]—Remarks of counsel clearly outside of the record and highly prejudicial, though not at the time objected to, require a new trial;[36] but in some states they are waived if not excepted to,[37] and the court in its discretion may refuse one where counsel desists after warning from the court.[38] A party is responsible for the misconduct or indiscretion of his friends in conveying information to the jurors.[39] A new trial was not granted for false statement in an affidavit for continuance as to what an absent witness would testify, which was admitted by the opposite party.[40]

(§ 2) C. Rulings and instructions at trial.[41]—A new trial will be granted for errors in the admission[42] or exclusion[43] of relevant evidence,[44] if duly objected

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1038.

26. Hawkins v. Chambliss, 120 Ga. 614, 48 S. E. 169.

27. Eubanks v. West, 119 Ga. 804, 47 S. E. 194.

28. Failure to attack a bill of particulars. Simpson v. Wicker, 120 Ga. 418, 47 S. E. 965. Refusal to require a complaint to be made more certain. Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Gray [Ind.] 72 N. E. 869.

29. Only questions raised on appeal from order are as to sufficiency of evidence, and of errors of law excepted to. Williams v. Hawley, 144 Cal. 97, 77 P. 762.

30. In an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding there was no denial of defendant's indebtedness, but he raised objections because it was not proved with the technical exactness required if the same had been denied. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498.

31. New trial for confusion as to issues by errors in copy of petition established in place of lost original denied where the copy was accessible to defendant long before the trial. Vickers v. Graham [Ga.] 50 S. E. 59.

32. A judgment rendered after the new trial cannot be collaterally attacked because the record does not show that defendant gave security for costs. English v. Otis [Iowa] 101 N. W. 293.

33. His report stands as decision in case until set aside, which is not prevented by the stipulation of counsel that it be accepted, and adopted, which merely refers to its regularity. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

34. Bass v. Citizens' Trust Co., 32 Ind. App. 583, 70 N. E. 400.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1039.

36. In a personal injury action plaintiff's counsel referred to plaintiff's discharge from the company, though he had worked all his life for it. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rehm [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 526. Rev. St. 1889, § 2302, providing no exceptions shall be taken except such as have been expressly decided by the trial court, does not prevent court in its discretion awarding a new trial. Schuette v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 541. See Argument of Counsel, 3 Curr. L. 306.

37. Though it is the duty of the trial court to control counsel without waiting for an objection. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill, 209 Ill. 638, 71 N. E. 43. See Saving Questions for Review, 2 Curr. L. 1590.

38. Counsel alluded to the difficulty of getting answers to certain interrogatories from the defendant and which were not in evidence, but immediately complied with the court's direction to confine his argument to the evidence. American Electrical Works v. New England Elec. R. Const. Co., 186 Mass. 546, 72 N. E. 64.

39. A witness of prevailing party discussed the merits of the case with a juror. Belcher v. Estes [Me.] 59 A. 439.

40. Affiant was innocent of wrongful intent. Louisville R. Co. v. DeGore [Ky.] 84 S. W. 326.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1039.

42. Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89. Where new trial asked because of error in admission of evidence, it must be shown what the evidence was. Long v. Powell, 120 Ga. 621, 48 S. E. 185. Errors in admission of evidence will not be considered where no objection made at the time. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Rabinowitz, 120 Ga. 864, 48 S. E. 326. Will not be considered unless the evidence is so set forth in the motion that the question can be decided without reference to other parts of the record. McTier v. Crosby, 120 Ga. 878, 48 S. E. 355.

43. For the exclusion of evidence to be a ground for a new trial, it must appear that a pertinent question was asked, and that the court refused to allow an answer, after a statement showing what the answer would be, and that it was material. Allen v. Kessler, 120 Ga. 319, 47 S. E. 900. For erroneous rulings rejecting evidence tending to show a waiver of certain conditions of a contract to saw lumber. Hawkins v. Chambliss, 120 Ga. 614, 48 S. E. 169. Party had served notice to produce a writing and the court refused to at the trial.[45] It will also be granted for improper rulings as to venue,[46] or where the court has improperly instructed the jury,[47] and the error has been excepted to,[48] though this last is not essential.[49] But where an erroneous instruction was given that was favorable to appellant,[50] or where there could be no verdict for the other party,[51] or where there was only an immaterial omission to charge,[52] or refusal to instruct jury to disregard immaterial evidence that had been admitted,[53] or the charge was correct, but inaptly worded,[54] there will be no new trial awarded. The discretion of court in granting a new trial for erroneous instruction will not be reversed where there is any doubt as to the propriety of the instruction.[55] Modifying instructions,[56] failure to give charges in absence of written request,[57] the erroneous submission of a question to the jury,[58] the permitting the jury to take interrogatories with them when they retired,[59] the court's expressing opinion on the facts,[60] are grounds for new trial; but the refusal of the court to allow counsel to read law to the jury,[61] harmless errors, or error prejudicial to respondent,[62] cannot be relied on to sustain the judgment.[63]

Misconduct of court.[64]—The absence of the judge from court room may be,[65] and his personal misconduct is a ground for a new trial.[66]

to require the production of the paper as required by Civ. Code 1895, § 5253. Carrington v. Brooks, 121 Ga. 250, 48 S. E. 970.

44. Testimony relating to an alleged breach of contract that was no defense to an action on the notes. Swindell & Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 121 Ga. 714, 49 S. E. 673. Allegation that plaintiff did not have opportunity of presenting certain testimony is insufficient where it is not shown that the testimony was relevant and was excluded by the court. O'Connell v. King & Son [R. I.] 59 A. 926.

45. Weller v. Wagner, 181 Mo. 151, 79 S. W. 941. See Saving Questions for Review, 2 Curr. L. 1590.

46. Ruling on motion to remand case to the court from which the venue had been changed. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 169.

47. Court gave instructions under a mistaken view of the law as to contingent fees. Dorr v. Camden [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1014. Instructing jury as to an issue not in the case. Hydinger v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 746. As to liability of city in seizing a hotel for quarantine during a small pox epidemic. Barton v. Odessa [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1119. That burden was on defendant to establish his defense by a preponderance of evidence, where he had set up no affirmative defense. Strickland v. Capital City Mills [S. C.] 49 S. E. 478. Where evidence was conflicting as to the ownership of property, it was error to charge that the property belonged to plaintiff. Weller v. Hilderbrandt [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1108.

48. Erroneous instruction is an error of law under Code. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Werner [Kan.] 78 P. 410.

49. Court in its discretion may grant a new trial, irrespective of statute, it being a common law power. Nulton v. Croskey [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 644.

50. Highly favorable instruction as to a boundary line. Vincent v. Willis [Ky.] 82 S. W. 583.

51. Even on the party's own evidence. Markowitz v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 351.

52. Court did not expressly limit the damages for future pain to such as plaintiff was reasonably certain to endure, though the whole tenor of the instructions called for such limitation. Nyback v. Champagne Lumber Co., 130 F. 784.

53. In an action against a city for polluting a watercourse, evidence to show that slaughter houses, etc., operated along the creek many years before was admitted. Smith v. Sedalia, 182 Mo. 1, 81 S. W. 165.

54. As to whether motorman saw the frightened condition of the horse. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Johnson, 120 Ga. 908, 48 S. E. 389.

55. Abstract proposition as to duty of cities to keep streets in a safe condition. Delaplain v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 71.

56. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50.

57. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Johnson, 120 Ga. 908, 48 S. E. 389. Not demanded by the evidence. Cooper v. Nisbet, 119 Ga. 752, 47 S. E. 173.

58. Question whether elevator operator was the servant of the owner of the building, or the servant of one putting in a fire extinguisher system, at the time of the accident. Walsh v. Reisenberg, 89 N. Y. S. 58. Suit to establish a lost deed as a will. Lincoln v. Felt, 132 Mich. 49, 92 N. W. 780.

59. Though they had been read in evidence. Shedden v. Stiles, 121 Ga. 637, 49 S. E. 719.

60. Where the decided weight of the evidence was on one side, the expression was not improper, as that it was not a case for punitive damages. Butler v. Barret, 130 F. 944.

61. Not error for judge to decline to permit counsel to read a supreme court decision as not being applicable; nor to so state the last fact to the jury. Martin v. Peddy, 120 Ga. 1079, 48 S. E. 420.

62. See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

63. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Kirven, 65 S. C. 197, 43 S. E. 658.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1040.

(§ 2) D. Misconduct of or affecting jury.[67]—In civil cases proof merely of separation of jurors,[68] or of distant relationship to a party,[69] or a mistaken or careless answer on the juror's voir dire,[70] or of his expressing an opinion during trial,[71] or that the verdict rendered at a former trial was taken out of the jury room,[72] or of a juror's talking to an outsider, is no ground for a new trial, where no objection was made at the time.[73] But proof that they went on their own personal knowledge,[74] or the recitals of one of their number,[75] or that they viewed the scene,[76] or that they rendered a chance or average verdict,[77] or made a mistake,[78] may be sufficient to set the verdict aside. A party may by his conduct waive his right to a new trial on account of the misconduct of jurors;[79] but where the misconduct is known before verdict, the party cannot wait and take his chances of a favorable verdict, or in default ask that it be set aside.[80] On the question of misconduct[81] or as to matters not inhering in the verdict, the affidavits of jurors will be received,[82] but they will not be received to show that comments were made on fact that defendants were Jews.[83] Though a new trial for disqualification of a juror by immorality is not of right, the court may in its discretion order a new trial on that ground.[84]

65. Should be supported by affidavits and is not reversible error where with the consent of the parties. Dehougne v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1066.

66. Judge having case under advisement. Gay v. Torrance [Cal.] 78 P. 540.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1040.

68. Through oversight of bailiff one of jurors remained behind the other jurors in a urinal for about two minutes. In re McKenna's Estate, 143 Cal. 580, 77 P. 461.

69. In a will contest no new trial will be given because the grandfather of a juror was a second cousin of the grandfather of the husband of a contestee, and he was not acquainted with her. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt, 25 Ky. L. R. 1060, 76 S. W. 1087.

70. A juror is not guilty of misconduct by making an answer claimed to be untrue, where he did not intend to lie, but the question of counsel was leading. Rapp v. Becker, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 139.

71. Not ground where it was in favor of party desiring a new trial. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt, 25 Ky. L. R. 1060, 76 S. W. 1087.

72. Verdict of former trial was endorsed on pleadings, and there was no request to detach or conceal it. Russell v. Brunswick Grocery Co., 120 Ga. 38, 47 S. E. 528.

73. Juror conversed with an adjuster of defendant railroad at a noon recess, but for all that was shown, it may have been a mere exchange of courtesies. Werner v. Interurban St. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 592, 91 N. Y. S. 111.

74. Jurors also talked with outsiders. Hydinger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 746. A juror followed the plaintiff during a recess to see whether he was pretending to be crippled and convinced himself that the injury was genuine, but it was not shown that he communicated the information to the other jurors. Gratz v. Worden [Ky.] 82 S. W. 395.

75. In a seduction case foreman told jury plaintiff stayed at his house and stated that the first intercourse occurred in her bed and not in a barn as she had testified. Douglass v. Agne [Iowa] 99 N. W. 550. Misconduct of juror in stating to jury facts from personal knowledge. Id.

76. But a motion based on ground that the jury visited the electric plant in question, before they were impaneled, or the unsworn allegation that they discussed the case before it was submitted to them, was too vague. Wofford v. Buchel Power & Irrigation Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1078.

77. Rev. St. 1898, § 3292, provides for a new trial; but where after the chance verdict was arrived at, there was further deliberation and it was accepted as a fair verdict, a new trial will be refused. Pence v. California Min. Co., 27 Utah, 378, 75 P. 934.

78. Affidavits of jurors received to show that the verdict returned was not the one they reached. Wolfgram v. Schoepke [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1054.

79. A witness of prevailing party had talked with a juror before submission of case, and this was known by the counsel of the other side before its submission, and he made no objection. Belcher v. Estes [Me.] 59 A. 439.

80. A juror falsely stated that he had never had any suit against a corporation; after the jury was out defendant discovered that a person of the same name was plaintiff in a pending suit against a street railway and moved to set aside the verdict when it was rendered 3 hours later, which was refused, as he had not made inquiries by telephone, and applied before verdict was rendered. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Osgood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 285.

81. Insufficient to show jurors agreed to abide by an average verdict. Pence v. California Min. Co., 27 Utah, 378, 75 P. 934.

82. That foreman stated to the jury that the prosecutrix in a seduction case had made different statements to his wife. Douglass v. Agne [Iowa] 99 N. W. 550.

83. And that one had attempted to defraud an insurance company by burning his property. Weil v. Stone, 33 Ind. App. 112, 69 N. E. 698.

84. Manning v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 645. The fact that a juror alleged to be disqualified by immorality had worked for a party does not show that such party should have known of the facts. The party employed many hundred men. Id.

(§ 2) E. Irregularities or defects in verdict or findings.[85]—A general verdict will not necessarily be set aside where some of the special findings are contradictory to it,[86] nor will a verdict be set aside where it was returned promptly,[87] or where there was only a slight variance and there was no surprise;[88] but one not responsive to the issues will be set aside though there was evidence to support it.[89] New trial was granted where a court made a single finding where there were other issues.[90]

(§ 2) F. Verdict or findings contrary to law or evidence.[91]—A new trial may be granted because the verdict[92] or decision[93] is contrary to law, as given in the instructions of the court,[94] the jury having disregarded[95] or misunderstood the same, or rendered a compromise verdict,[96] or it otherwise appears that they must have based their verdict on a probability,[97] or have guessed at the facts,[98] or must have been influenced by seemingly equitable influences instead of weighing the evidence under the rules of law given them.[99] Where there is no evidence to support the verdict, a new trial must be granted,[1] or judgment directed, notwithstanding the verdict.[2] The parties are entitled to the independent judgment of the court as to whether the verdict is supported by the evidence, as it is the duty of the court, where the decision is against the weight[3] or the great preponderance of evidence,[4] or it has the discretion, to grant a new trial, which should be on terms.[5]

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1041.

86. It was not enough to show that the jury misunderstood the issues. Drake v. Justice Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 75 P. 912.

87. No reason for a new trial that the jury returned a verdict in five minutes. Farnsworth v. Fraser [Mich.] 100 N. W. 400.

88. Declaration was that defendant agreed to procure stock for plaintiff in payment of his services; proof was that plaintiff agreed to pay 51 cents a share on receipt of the stock. Cleasby v. Reynolds [R. I.] 58 A. 786.

89. The verdict chancerized the bond before judgment. Bowen v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 252.

90. Court found that the defendants had no right, title or interest in the land, but found nothing on question of estoppel or adverse use. McCarty v. Southern Pac. Co., 144 Cal. 677, 78 P. 260.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1041.

92. That it is contrary to a given charge of the court is a sufficient ground. Spearman v. Sanders, 121 Ga. 468, 49 S. E. 296. The answer admitted a partial liability to plaintiff, yet the jury found for defendant. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Kirven, 65 S. C. 197, 43 S. E. 658. The verdict brought in was directly contrary to the charge of the judge. Robert Buist Co. v. Lancaster Mercantile Co., 68 S. C. 523, 47 S. E. 978.

93. But not that decision is contrary to the evidence. Bass v. Citizens' Trust Co., 32 Ind. App. 583, 70 N. E. 400.

94. Verdict not contrary to instructions where the latter, though conflicting, justified it, and no other verdict could have been rendered on the evidence. Cotter v. Butte & R. Valley Smelting Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 509. Instruction as to counterclaim of sale of land not followed. Strong v. Eggert [Neb.] 99 N. W. 647.

95. Without regard to the propriety of the instructions. McAllister v. Rocky Fork Coal Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 595.

96. Dispute over a contract for sale of shoes worth $550, and verdict was for $200. Falkenberg v. O'Neill, 88 N. Y. S. 378. Plaintiffs claimed $398.18, and no conflicting evidence except as to $76, and verdict for $100 set aside. Tuxedo Automobile Station v. Lyman, 88 N. Y. S. 1008.

97. Whether a reference in a letter referred to the check in question. Seavey v. Laughlin, 98 Me. 517, 57 A. 796.

98. On an issue of damage to a dress as the result of an accident, there was evidence as to its value when new, but none as to its value at the time of the accident, and new trial properly granted. Leigh v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 959.

99. Furber v. Fogler, 97 Me. 585, 55 A. 514.

1. People v. Alton, 209 Ill. 461, 70 N. E. 640; Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Reeves, 25 Ky. L. R. 2236, 80 S. W. 471; Cullinan v. Kisselbrack, 43 Misc. 103, 87 N. Y. S. 1025; People v. Alton, 209 Ill. 461, 70 N. E. 640; Strong v. Eggert [Neb.] 99 N. W. 647. The plaintiff relied solely on presumption of negligence which the uncontradicted evidence of defendant rebutted; new trial should have been granted. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Mote, 120 Ga. 593, 48 S. E. 136.

2. Against the clear preponderance of the evidence. Gunn v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 452.

3. If he is clearly satisfied the verdict is wrong, but not where he would merely decide otherwise. Green v. Soule [Cal.] 78 P. 337.

4. Question as to whether a deed was forged. Phillips v. Laughlin [Me.] 58 A. 64. Impossible for any person accustomed to weigh evidence to read record in action for violation of bond given under liquor tax law, and not conclude that the verdict for defendant was not in accordance with the facts. Cullinan v. Kisselbrack, 43 Misc. 103, 87 N. Y. S. 1025. Error to refuse new trial where presumption of negligence fully rebutted by showing that where accident occurred and

Where the judge does not exercise the discretion[6] or exercises it arbitrarily, his ruling will be reversed.[7] The trial court has large discretion,[8] and its exercise will seldom be reviewed.[9] Its action in granting a new trial will not be interfered with, though there was some evidence to support the verdict,[10] unless a verdict for the one to whom a new trial was given would not be allowed to stand,[11] as a stronger case must be made to justify the reversal of an order granting, than one refusing, a new trial.[12] The decision of a judge who did not preside at the trial in refusing a new trial is not entitled to the same weight.[13] A new trial will not be granted where the verdict is sustained,[14] though the evidence is conflicting,[15] or though it slightly preponderates in favor of the other party,[16] or where the credibility of the witnesses is the main factor.[17] Some courts refuse a new trial if there is any evidence to support a verdict,[18] or it is not clearly and palpably wrong.[19] An appellate court will not set aside a verdict, though it seems to be against the decided weight of the evidence,[20] if the evidence favorable to the prevailing party is sufficient to sustain the verdict.[21] An inadequate[22] or excessive verdict[23] is or-train was going 60 miles an hour, there was no public crossing. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Williams Buggy Co., 121 Ga. 293, 48 S. E. 939. Verdict for obligor of attachment bond set aside, as there was uncontradicted evidence that party had expenses for attorney's fees, though the evidence was conflicting as to damage caused by the levy. Oakes v. Smith, 121 Ga. 317, 48 S. E. 942. Question as to whether a set screw was properly guarded. Walker v. Newton Falls Paper Co., 90 N. Y. S. 530.

5. Wolfgram v. Schoepke [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1054.

6. In a will case the order denying a new trial recited that the judge did not approve of the verdict, but that he had no right to change it, as the jury were the exclusive judges of the fact. McIntyre v. McIntyre, 120 Ga. 67, 47 S. E. 501. Where the new trial did not appear to have been granted in the exercise of the court's discretion, and the verdict is clearly sustained, the order will be reversed. Briggs v. Rutherford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 954.

7. Where there was no evidence that a deed was procured by fraud, and the court so found, it erred in granting a new trial on ground of insufficiency of evidence. Gustafson v. Gustafson, 92 Minn. 139, 99 N. W. 631. The power to grant a new trial for insufficiency of evidence is not arbitrary, but must be based on a sound judicial discretion. Id.

8. The appellate court will not interfere, though trial judge made some hasty expressions. Schuette v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 297. Order general in terms and the testimony substantially conflicting. Mock v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 139 Cal. 616, 73 P. 455. Where evidence to support, discretion will be seldom controlled. Blackshear v. Dekle, 120 Ga. 766, 48 S. E. 311.

9. Trial judge has the advantage of observing the witnesses. Surkin v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 342.

10. Great preponderance of evidence against the verdict. Stephens v. Deatherage Lumber Co., 98 Mo. App. 365, 73 S. W. 291.

11. Verdict for defendant in personal injury case set aside and trial judge by his questions to witnesses showed clearly he thought plaintiff ought to recover. Fitzjohn v. St. Louis Transit Co., 183 Mo. 74, 81 S. W. 907. Though it may disagree with the ruling. Casey v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 357.

12. Here clear conflict of testimony on question of payment of note. Kunz v. Dinneen [S. D.] 100 N. W. 165.

13. Spearman v. Sanders, 121 Ga. 468, 49 S. E. 296.

14. Deal v. Barnes, 117 Ga. 441, 43 S. E. 695; Macon R. & Light Co. v. Barnes, 121 Ga. 443, 49 S. E. 282; Revis v. Roper, 121 Ga. 428, 49 S. E. 291. Where burden of proof on plaintiff and evidence insufficient to sustain a judgment for him, it is improper to grant a new trial on ground evidence did not support a judgment for defendant. Philadelphia Underwriters' Ins. Co. v. Bigelow [Fla.] 37 So. 210. Conflict of evidence as to whether a lease was from year to year or at will. Watt-Harley Hardware Co. v. Redding, 120 Ga. 904, 48 S. E. 350.

15. Vincent v. Willis [Ky.] 82 S. W. 583. Verdict not set aside where there was a contrariety of evidence, though the weight of the testimony was against it. Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain, 211 Ill. 589, 71 N. E. 1103.

16. Foreclosure of a saw mill man's lien. Eubanks v. West, 119 Ga. 804, 47 S. E. 194.

17. Verdict not inconsistent with any controlling physical, admitted or established facts. Fulton v. Crosby & Beckley Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1012.

18. Strickland v. Capital City Mills [S. C.] 49 S. E. 478.

19. Lebeau v. Dyerville Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 1092. Disregard of evidence or instructions must be plain and palpable to warrant a new trial. Eades v. Trowbridge, 143 Cal. 25, 76 P. 714. Evidence in negligence case does not convince the court that the jury was clearly wrong. Stone v. Lewiston, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 59 A. 56. Not where there is merely a preponderance of evidence against it, or the court would have made a different decision. Morien v. Norfolk & A. Terminal Co., 102 Va. 622, 46 S. E. 907.

20. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Byrne [Ark.] 84 S. W. 469.

21. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

22. Verdict of $200, where testimony showed medical attendance alone amounted to $200; and the loss of income amounted to dinarily ground for new trial. The court may,[24] and some courts hold it error not to, first give the other party[25] the option[26] of remitting an excessive,[27] or increasing an inadequate, verdict,[28] though it was rendered in an action ex delicto,[29] or the evidence shows that the conditions have changed,[30] unless there was no evidence for the court to act on,[31] or the jury clearly were influenced by passion or prejudice.[32] The practice is in the interest of public and private justice,[33] and in Wisconsin the option will be given to either party to finally dispose of the case,[34] though the verdict is fatally excessive from perversity or other cause. The basis for determining the correct amount is the probable finding of an impartial jury resolving doubts against the party to whom the option is given.[35] Second verdicts are seldom disturbed,[36] as it takes a stronger case to order another new trial.[37] The practice is sometimes regulated by statute.[38] A new trial may be granted on one of several issues;[39] it may be granted in an equity case, but it is error to thereupon enter much more than that. Hill v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 374. Verdict of $3,250 to a widow and young child for death of husband and father who was earning $1,200 a year was inadequate. Usher v. Scranton R. Co., 132 F. 405. Evidence conflicting and damages held not inadequate. Hellyer v. Trenton City Bridge Co., 133 F. 843.

23. See Damages, 3 Curr. L. 997, for determination of excessiveness of recovery.

24. Sayles' Civ. St. 1897, art. 1029a. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Linthicum [Tex. Civ. App.] 77 S. W. 40.

25. Verdict of $6,000 for injuries, where they were slight and it was shown that plaintiff's condition was a result of tuberculosis. Pesant v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 96 App. Div. 634, 89 N. Y. S. 314.

26. Error to reduce a verdict of $462.50 for services to $300, and to enter judgment for that sum, without giving the plaintiff the option to take a new trial. Barber v. Maden [Iowa] 102 N. W. 120. A subsequent order making the previous order absolute is void on refusal of plaintiff to accept the amount when he intends to appeal. Holtum v. Greif, 144 Cal. 521, 78 P. 11. Plaintiff failed to remit part of verdict and new trial ordered. Barton v. Odessa [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1119.

27. Verdict of $600 for dislocating ankle and plaintiff required to remit all but $350 or the court would grant a new trial. North v. New Britain [Conn.] 58 A. 699. Where the amount of interest found was excessive, plaintiffs were given option of remitting $566.57 of the $2,983 allowed them as interest or of having a new trial. Teasley v. Bradley, 120 Ga. 373, 47 S. E. 925. Verdict of $10,000 for death of intestate reduced to $2,500. Landry v. New Orleans Shipwright Co., 112 La. 550, 36 So. 548. All of damages in excess of $5,000 remitted. McDonald v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 391. Verdict for breaking of forearm of $6,000 reduced to $4,000. Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co., 35 Wash. 295, 77 P. 377.

28. Verdict of $50 for injuries from defective sidewalk, court ordered set aside unless appellant would consent to raise it to $175. Marsh v. Minneapolis Brew. Co., 92 Minn. 182, 99 N. W. 630.

29. Verdict of $12,500 in personal injury action reduced to $6.000. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill, 209 Ill. 638, 71 N. E. 43.

30. Evidence produced on motion showed plaintiff was recovering from his injuries more rapidly than the physicians, who testified at the trial, expected; excess over $2,000 remitted. Darnell v. Krouse, 134 F. 509.

31. Where there was no evidence as to value of goods destroyed, and conflicting evidence as to value of goods injured, court unable to make order as to remission of excess over any evidence as to damage to injured property and new trial ordered. Kennedy v. Portmann, 97 Mo. App. 253, 70 S. W. 1099.

32. Where a remittitur was allowed, it will be presumed that the court found the evidence insufficient and not that the verdict was the result of passion or prejudice. Adcock v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 78.

33. Whether verdict perverse or otherwise. Heimlich v. Tabor [Wis.] 102 N. W. 10.

34. Where there was an excessive verdict of $9,500 for fracture of leg, defendant was given right to consent to judgment against him for $5,000 within 20 days, or in default plaintiff had the right to consent to take judgment for $2,500 within 10 days thereafter, thus giving to either party the power to finally dispose of the case. Rueping v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 710.

35. Where option to plaintiff to take judgment for a less sum, such sum should be placed as low as an impartial jury would find, and where option is given to defendant regardless of attitude of plaintiff, it should be as large as such a jury would find. Heimlich v. Tabor [Wis.] 102 N. W. 10.

36. A second verdict for plaintiff was not disturbed where there was conflicting evidence. Russell v. Brunswick Grocery Co., 120 Ga. 38, 47 S. E. 528.

37. A second new trial ordered in an action on a marine insurance policy where the evidence was stronger than at the first as to the unseaworthiness of the vessel. Morse v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 129 F. 233.

38. Civ. Code Prac. § 3211, provides that no more than two new trials can be granted on the ground that the verdict is not sustained by the evidence. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McManus' Adm'r [Ky.] 82 S. W. 399.

39. The trial involved great expense and only a single minor issue was unsupported by the evidence. Rose v. Mesmer, 142 Cal. 322, 75 P. 905.

judgment for the other party.[40] The new trial must be conditioned on the payment of costs and disbursements.[41]

(§ 2) G. Surprise, accident or mistake.[42]—A new trial will be granted on the ground of surprise where the party was unprepared for the evidence introduced,[43] or for certain rulings of the court, by which he was misled to his hurt,[44] and against which he could not have protected himself by the use of ordinary prudence;[45] but it will not be granted for a party's mere neglect, where no excuse is shown.[46] When by reason of the accident or mistake of the trial judge the defeated party is precluded from having his bill of exceptions filed within the statutory time,[47] or by reason of the illness of an attorney[48] or party,[49] or other mistake, a default is suffered, a new trial will be ordered.[50] A party going voluntarily to trial does so at his peril, and cannot have a new trial merely to impeach a witness,[51] where no continuance is asked for.[52] The fact that by reason of the illiteracy

40. Where court satisfied that its first conclusions were wrong. Hurley v. Kennally [Mo.] 85 S. W. 357.

41. Murphy v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 187; Falkenberg v. O'Neill, 88 N. Y. S. 378.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1044.

43. In action to rescind a contract for fraud it was not alleged that one of the defendants was guilty of fraud, but proof of fraudulent conduct was received at the trial. Merritt v. Mayfield, 89 App. Div. 470, 85 N. Y. S. 801. Where defendant, being sued for having collected certain sums, and plaintiffs produced a memorandum at the trial which they alleged defendant dictated, admitting the same, the latter claiming surprise and that the evidence was manufactured, defendant was entitled to a new trial, though he did not ask for an adjournment. Seligman v. Sivin, 91 N. Y. S. 395. Action on note, and testimony of a witness called to defendant's mind a draft which he had forgotten. Connally v. Peble, 105 Mo. App. 407, 79 S. W. 1006.

44. Plaintiff, relying on a statement of the judge as to his view of the law, consented to discharge of jury, but the judge making his decision at variance with his statement, the former was entitled to move for a new trial. Simpson v. Hefter, 43 Misc. 608, 88 N. Y. S. 282. Mistake in construing the decision of another state for which plaintiff was largely responsible, and which resulted in a different verdict from what otherwise would have been given. Baird v. Vines [S. D.] 99 N. W. 89.

45. In an action on a note, where non est factum had been pleaded 3 months before trial, plaintiff could not have a new trial, because of defendant's testimony that he did not execute the note [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 568]. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 505. Where the only question was as to the extent of injuries received in an accident, the admission of testimony that curvature of the spine might develop was no ground for new trial. Harvey v. Fargo, 99 App. Div. 599, 91 N. Y. S. 84. Absence of a witness who had promised to attend but had not been subpoenaed not a ground where no motion for continuance made, when defendant during trial learned of witness' sickness [Rev. Codes 1899, § 5472, subd. 3]. Josephson v. Sigfusson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 703.

46. Party failed to comply with statute in filing in time his petition for a new trial. Dillon v. O'Neal [R. I.] 58 A. 455. Appeal lost because the reporter was unable by illness to complete transcript. Unwarrantable delay in ordering transcript. McKinley v. McKinley, 123 Iowa, 574, 99 N. W. 162. Failure to procure a transcript within six months of trial because of defect in reporter's eyesight, but application had been made to him only a short time before the time expired. Id. Legislature changed term of court, and affidavit of defendant was that he had good defense, but did not know when the case was set, but his counsel had notice. McAnally v. Vickry [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 857.

47. This without regard to the sufficiency of the exceptions. Nelson v. Marshall [Vt.] 58 A. 793. Where a party, without fault on his part, is prevented from obtaining a transcript for review on error, a new trial will be granted to protect his constitutional right to a review by the supreme court, though no error is alleged in the trial court. Zweibel v. Caldwell [Neb.] 99 N. W. 843. Granted on ground of unavoidable casualty by which complainant was deprived of his constitutional right of review. Ritchey v. Seeley [Neb.] 102 N. W. 256.

48. But application insufficient where no affidavit of merits made by party. Copper King of Arizona v. Johnson [Ariz.] 76 P. 594. Cannot be granted for absence of counsel because of sickness, unless diligence of party shown to obtain a continuance. Ayer v. James, 120 Ga. 578, 48 S. E. 154. The failure of one attorney to notify another when a case will be called not a ground, unless attorney used due diligence after learning from other sources when the case is to be called. Josephson v. Sigfusson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 703.

49. Defendant was conducting her own defense in a divorce suit, and was ill, and sent letter to judge asking an adjournment, but did not have time to procure the certificate of a physician. Smith v. Smith [Cal.] 79 P. 275.

50. Where defendant was defaulted as his counsel withdrew, but he was negligent in not promptly employing another, a new trial would be granted conditional on his paying $50 counsel fees to plaintiff. Miller v. McCormick [R. I.] 60 A. 48.

51. Should have been apprised of his testimony, so there could be no surprise. Farm-of the person with whom a summons was left defendant never received it is not "unavoidable casualty and misfortune."[53] The matter is largely addressed to the discretion of the court,[54] and it will not be granted unless it is shown that the moving party can better his case on a new trial.[55] It is improper to require the moving party to pay an extra allowance of 5%.[56]

(§ 2) H. Newly-discovered evidence.[57]—A new trial will not be granted for newly-discovered evidence which is merely cumulative,[58] corroborative,[59] or contradictory to a party,[60] or a witness' testimony,[61] or which is incompetent[62] or immaterial,[63] and which would not probably lead to a different result,[64] nor for that ers' & Shippers' Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co. v. Pridemore [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 258.

52. Failure of witness to testify as expected. Presidio County v. Clarke [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 475.

53. Hass v. Leverton [Iowa] 102 N. W. 811.

54. Judicial discretion. Wingen v. May, 92 Minn. 255, 99 N. W. 809. Refused on allegation that trial went by default because attorney relied on being notified by opposing attorney, as no allegation that notice not given. Tschohl v. Machinery Mut. Ins. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 740.

55. Surprise in plaintiff's showing that his mining claim was prior in time to defendant's. Jefferson Min. Co. v. Anchoria-Leland Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 75 P. 1070.

56. Simpson v. Hefter, 91 N. Y. S. 326.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1045.

58. Bower v. Self, 68 Kan. 825, 75 P. 1021; Taylor v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738; Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 894. Additional evidence not newly discovered. Ryder v. Leach, 3 Ariz. 129, 77 P. 490. Further entry discovered by defendants in plaintiff's journal which had already been closely examined by them. Selleck v. Head [Conn.] 58 A. 224. Evidence as to time adverse possession began could have been discovered before by the exercise of due diligence, and that witnesses at trial had since refreshed their memory, was not an absolute ground for a new trial. Greer & Co. v. Raney, 120 Ga. 290, 47 S. E. 939.

59. No difference between corroboration of witness or of party. O'Toole v. Faulkner, 34 Wash. 371, 75 P. 975.

60. As to who was conductor of train on which accident occurred. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Byrne [Ark.] 84 S. W. 469.

61. That a witness did not remember having attested a certain release, which others had testified that he attested. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234. Where one was convicted of harboring an unmarried female at a house of prostitution, a new trial would not be granted on her affidavit that she was married, when she and her parents had testified to the contrary on the trial. Harter v. People, 204 Ill. 158, 68 N. E. 447. Additional witnesses to testify that a bill was filed with the secretary of state, before it was vetoed by the governor. People v. McCullough, 210 Ill. 448, 71 N. E. 602. New evidence went merely to credibility of party as a witness, not to her right to recover. Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397, 77 P. 725.

62. The record of the case on appeal must show the competency of the evidence. Rice's Ex'rs v. Wyatt, 25 Ky. L. R. 1060, 76 S. W. 1087. Mostly hearsay, and was known to party before the final submission of the case. McNeal v. Hunter [Neb.] 101 N. W. 236. Hearsay. Russell v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 237.

63. After plaintiff had recovered civilly for the seduction of his daughter, defendant was tried under an indictment and found guilty of fornication. Saunders v. Miller, 119 Ga. 873, 47 S. E. 338. A motion for a new trial will be denied where it is based on a showing that certain witnesses would testify as to what the contract really was, as the real question at issue was whether plaintiff could recover under defendant's construction of the contract. Gibson v. Hunt [Iowa] 94 N. W. 277. New trial of action for seduction not granted because defendant was subsequently acquitted on criminal charge. Saunders v. Miller, 119 Ga. 873, 47 S. E. 338. Where defendant suffered a default, there was no fraud, though plaintiff did not disclose the fact that he was adjudged a bankrupt. Coulson v. Ferree [Ky.] 82 S. W. 1000. Action against a surety and the new evidence as to an extension of time failed to show that it was for a definitely fixed time. Commercial Bank v. Brinkerhoff [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 121. In an action for rent of a dock, that plaintiff had given permission to the city to move a floating bath, at the end of the dock. Pierson v. Hughes, 88 N. Y. S. 1065. In a suit involving boundaries, it appeared that plaintiffs' line was established by a certain survey, and the discovery of a map of earlier date was immaterial. Litchfield v. Sisson, 43 Misc. 411, 89 N. Y. S. 338. In a suit for the price of cotton, evidence that there were no attachments against the cotton mill. Turner v. Lyles, 68 S. C. 392, 48 S. E. 301.

64. Howard v. Terminal R. Ass'n [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 608. The new testimony would not affect the liability of the defendant making the affidavit, and the other defendant made no affidavit. Mazor v. Springer [Cal.] 78 P. 474. Motion denied where the evidence might have been produced at the trial except for defendant's oversight, and where it would not change the verdict, but only go in mitigation of damages. Wilson v. Freedley, 129 F. 835. Affidavits filed to show plaintiff was injured in alighting from a street car, and not for defects in a sidewalk, but which were rebutted by other affidavits. City of Louisville v. Oberle [Ky.] 82 S. W. 626. The new witness was of such a character that he would not probably be be- N. Y. S. 914. Merely cumulative, and not of such a character as would probably affect which was known,[65] or might have been discovered by the use of due diligence, before or at the trial,[66] and for which the party might have had a continuance.[67] Where a witness without whose testimony recovery could not have been had made conflicting affidavits after the trial, a new trial will be granted.[68] Diligence must be shown by alleging specifically what acts of diligence were performed,[69] but a new trial will not be denied for lack of a guardian's diligence.[70] Evidence is not newly discovered where the witness was at the trial, though he had refused to disclose his testimony.[71] For newly-discovered evidence that is material or controlling,[72] and which will probably change the result,[73] or will sustain a verdict

the verdict. McDonald v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 391.

65. No affidavit that evidence was not known of at the time of the trial. Spencer v. Spencer [Mont.] 79 P. 320. The record of a former proceeding for divorce for desertion discovered before the close of a trial in which the question was as to the legitimacy of a child of the parties to the divorce suit. Kennington v. Catoe, 68 S. C. 470, 47 S. E. 719. Known to plaintiff before trial of the case concluded, but after it was submitted to jury, but attention of court was not called to it; nor was it an excuse that the witness did not have certain memoranda with which to refresh his memory with him. Oakes v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 557. The affidavit of an agent of a corporate party is insufficient where it was not shown that the other officers or the attorneys did not know of the evidence. Campbell Real Estate Co. v. Wiley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 251.

66. Due diligence not shown in the following cases. Armstrong v. Aragon [N. M.] 79 P. 291. Discovery of documents which could have been obtained for the trial by an inquiry from movant's brother insufficient. Tilley v. Cox, 119 Ga. 867, 47 S. E. 219. In an action for loss of a trunk where it was subsequently discovered and did not contain the articles alleged, though the affidavit stated that all trace of it had been lost at a certain station, but did not state the acts claimed to constitute the diligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Goodwin [Ark.] 84 S. W. 728. Evidence as to a judgment debtor's interest in his late father's estate, where the inventory had been on file for a number of years. Sowles v. First Nat. Bank, 133 F. 846. Affidavit that policy in question had been found under seat of buggy after the trial. Tilley v. Cox, 119 Ga. 867, 47 S. E. 219. No allegation of fraud by which the petitioners were misled. Kringle v. Kringle, 123 Iowa, 365, 98 N. W. 883. No error in refusing where witness was present during trial and his statement is flatly contradicted by the other party. Barber v. Maden [Iowa] 102 N. W. 120. Affidavits of persons who lived in front of the place where the accident occurred that the sidewalk was in good condition. City of Covington v. Bostwick [Ky.] 82 S. W. 569. Application in equity to set aside verdict on ground that plaintiff had committed perjury at the trial denied where the judgment had been affirmed in the supreme court, and there was no showing of diligence in preparing to meet the false testimony, and it related solely to the question of the amount of damages. Wabash R. Co. v. Mirrielees, 182 Mo. 126, 81 S. W. 437. Petition not showing that fraud was not discovered within time limited for statutory proceeding will be dismissed. Van Antwerp v. Lathrop [Neb.] 98 N. W. 35. Defendant knew name and address of witness long before trial, and the affidavit did not state what she would testify to. Lane v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 85 App. Div. 85, 82 N. Y. S. 1057. Affidavit that neither plaintiff nor his witnesses had knowledge of the existence of the new witness until after trial was insufficient. Margolius v. Muldberg, 88 N. Y. S. 1048. Affidavit of defendant stated that after the trial he found the check which he had paid plaintiff, but did not show that he had made any search before. Levy v. Hatch, 92 N. Y. S. 287. No affidavit of plaintiff or his counsel, and affidavit of agent did not show that the evidence was not communicated to plaintiff before the trial. Kenson v. Gage [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 605.

67. Physical and mental disability of plaintiff. Chapman v. Pendleton [R. I.] 59 A. 928. Though attorney made ineffectual effort to obtain witness, but no application to the court for a postponement. San Antonio Foundry Co. v. Drish [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 440.

68. Chapman v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 304.

69. Affidavit that plaintiff did not know of certain evidence and could not have discovered it by reasonable diligence was insufficient [Code Civ. Proc. § 1171]. Nicholson v. Metcalf [Mont.] 78 P. 483. The affidavits must state facts which show diligence, and not merely assert that diligence was used; here affidavit did not state the name of the new witness. Flersheim Mercantile Co. v. Gillespie [Okl.] 77 P. 183. Affidavit by defendant that since trial he has found check which he had paid to plaintiff without any showing of search before trial is insufficient. Levy v. Hatch, 92 N. Y. S. 287.

70. Plaintiff was an infant. Hagen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 44 Misc. 540, 90 N. Y. S. 125.

71. A physician who had attended plaintiff and who had been subpoenaed by both parties and was present at the trial but was not called because of his refusal to disclose his testimony, now in his affidavit alleged plaintiff had violated his instructions, and so was in a bad condition. Gratz v. Worden [Ky.] 82 S. W. 395.

72. In an action against a carrier for delays in the carriage of cattle, evidence produced that plaintiff stated to four persons that his cattle arrived in good condition. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Clark [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 827.

which must otherwise be set aside,[74] though largely cumulative,[75] if supported by competent affidavits, a new trial will be granted,[76] and this will be done, though there have been several trials,[77] or the application is by an extraordinary motion,[78] but in such cases much greater diligence must be shown.[79] The trial court has large discretion,[80] and may grant a new trial, though the evidence is largely cumulative.[81] An appellate court will seldom interfere,[82] and never in the case of the first grant of a new trial,[83] or with the disposition of a motion on conflicting affidavits,[84] unless a clear abuse of its discretion appears.[85] Where the matter is res judicata, the only remedy is by applying for a new trial in the original action.[86] Costs of the motion should abide the event of a new trial.[87]

(§ 2) I. As matter of right in ejectment.[88]—In actions for the recovery of real estate or for quieting title thereto,[89] or in a suit to annul a conveyance for

73. Rossin v. Petiger, 88 N. Y. S. 350. Party failed to prove an essential point which the new evidence tends to prove. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482. New trial granted to defendant in divorce case where judgment was mainly on plaintiff's evidence which by affidavit he now says was given under a mistake. Kennedy v. Kennedy [Nev.] 77 P. 597.

74. Newly discovered evidence to show that plaintiff's intestate had paid his fare and was a passenger. Usher v. Scranton R. Co., 132 F. 405.

75. Verdict against the weight of evidence. Hagen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 44 Misc. 540, 90 N. Y. S. 125.

76. Moving papers are defective where there is no affidavit of the newly-discovered witness of his readiness to swear to the facts, or reason for the absence of the same. Armstrong Mfg. Co. v. Thompson, 88 N. Y. S. 151. Plaintiff recovered largely on the evidence of one who testified that plaintiff's intestate had not been guilty of contributory negligence, but made subsequent affidavits that conflicted with his testimony given at the trial. Chapman v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 304.

77. Where the verdict depended on whether defendant's employes knew that the street car was off the track, a new trial would be granted, though there had been three already, where the newly-discovered witnesses at the time of the accident were riding bicycles behind the car, and the affidavits disclosed that every effort was used to discover the witnesses. Beers v. West Side R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 957.

78. A new trial was refused where the verdict was against the marriage, though the new evidence was the marriage license and the certificate of the minister, as plaintiff should have known of their existence. Norman v. Goode, 121 Ga. 449, 49 S. E. 268.

79. Was refused where the case had been tried four times, and the witness was accessible and his testimony known to be material, but was not produced because it was not known until after the last trial that his testimony would be favorable. Nyback v. Champagne Lumber Co., 130 F. 784. The case had been tried five times and the newly discovered witnesses resided in a small village where plaintiff resided, and plaintiff before the last trial had talked the matter over with one of the witnesses. Hagen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 914.

80. The newly-discovered evidence was merely contradictory to the statement of defendant as to where he obtained the money to make an alleged payment. Whitehead v. Breckenridge [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 698. New trial where a letter of the intestate was discovered referring to the notes in controversy. Chambliss v. Hass [Iowa] 101 N. W. 153. This is held to be a judicial discretion, and evidence here merely cumulative. Wingen v. May, 92 Minn. 255, 99 N. W. 809. Due diligence not shown. Clithero v. Fenner [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1027.

81. Kreielsheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 406, 72 P. 72.

82. Connally v. Pehle, 105 Mo. App. 407, 79 S. W. 1006.

83. Peed v. Hamilton, 117 Ga. 449, 43 S. E. 702. Although it was put upon a single ground, which the appellate court will not inquire into, Cordray v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 117 Ga. 464, 43 S. E. 755.

84. Esler v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. On conflicting affidavits, motion for new trial for newly discovered evidence that plaintiff's injuries were received before the assault sued on held properly denied. Carlson v. Hall [Iowa] 99 N. W. 571. Motion denied where the witness' statement was denied by the adverse party and the witness had testified to other matters at the trial. Barber v. Maden [Iowa] 102 N. W. 120.

85. Selleck v. Head [Conn.] 58 A. 224. Affidavit of physician that injuries complained of did not exist before the alleged assault, but the evidence at the trial was not on record. Carlson v. Hall [Iowa] 99 N. W. 571. Court abused discretion in refusing to grant a new trial in a will contest, where the question was whether testator had destroyed his will, when a witness was produced who had seen it in the hands of an attesting witness after testator's death. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971.

86. Plaintiff recovered in a suit for an installment of rent, and newly discovered evidence could not be introduced in suits for a subsequent installment. Franke v. Adams, 86 N. Y. S. 293.

87. Chapman v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 304.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1048.

89. Hofferbert v. Williams, 32 Ind. App. 593, 70 N. E. 405.

fraud,[90] a party is entitled to a new trial, the statute being mandatory.[91] In Indiana the tendency is not to extend the statutes except to cases clearly within their meaning, and where title to real estate is but incidentally involved or another cause of action is joined to it, the right will not be allowed;[92] but in Minnesota the substance, not the form, of the pleadings control, and it makes no difference that other issues were tried which are concluded by the first trial.[93]

§ 3. Proceedings to procure new trial.[94]—The application must be by motion or petition,[95] to the special term,[96] though a protest to an entry of judgment may amount to a motion for a new trial,[97] or it may be granted on the court's own motion.[98] A defendant, who was served by publication must file security for costs, when he moves for a new trial.[99] Only the parties to the judgment are necessary parties to a petition for a new trial,[1] and the notice need only be served on the parties affected.[2] The motion may be joined with a motion for judgment on the findings,[3] or it may be made in the alternative in case court holds that the defendant is entitled to judgment notwithstanding the verdict,[4] or may be made in the alternative with a motion for judgment notwithstanding verdict.[5] Filing motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or in arrest of judgment is not a waiver of the right to move for a new trial.[6] The application must be made within the time limited by statute,[7] and it will not be granted after the time has expired, where mere neglect to make motion in time shown,[8] as the privilege is lost, unless within the time the court makes an order extending the time,[9] except where by statute the

90. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1076, is mandatory and court has no discretion. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson, 162 Ind. 530, 70 N. E. 881.

91. The party is entitled to it as a matter of right, the court having no discretion in the matter [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1076]. Tomlinson v. Tomlinson, 162 Ind. 530, 70 N. E. 881.

92. Error to give new trial in a suit to quiet title and to enjoin defendant from trespassing on the land, nor was the error cured by the filing of an amended complaint, nor were defendants estopped because they failed to except at the time. Hofferbert v. Williams, 32 Ind. App. 593, 70 N. E. 405. Refused where count to recover possession from a tenant joined with the count in ejectment. Cambridge Lodge No. 9, K. P., v. Routh [Ind.] 71 N. E. 148.

93. Right to second trial in action to recover possession of land, though other issues presented. Gray Cloud Land Co. v. Security Trust Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 605.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1048.

95. If the petition contains all the facts necessary to constitute a good motion, it may be treated as such where necessary. Hunter v. Porter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 53.

96. Where on the ground of misconduct of juror. Werner v. Interurban St. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 592, 91 N. Y. S. 111.

97. Defendant protested because a continuance had been refused where there had been a change of counsel during trial. McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384, 77 P. 736.

98. Code Civ. Proc. § 662, allowing new trial where plain disregard of instructions, or of the evidence as to show influence of passion or prejudice; there is no such gross disobedience where the judge leaves the jury free to find as to a certain fact. Eades v. Trowbridge, 143 Cal. 25, 76 P. 714.

99. Code, § 3796; but the order cannot be collaterally attacked for failure of record to show it. English v. Otis [Iowa] 101 N. W. 293.

1. But if it develops that other parties are necessary, they may be brought in. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562.

2. In an action brought by an executor, it need not be served on an executor who was made defendant merely because he would not join as plaintiff. Sprague v. Walton, 145 Cal. 228, 78 P. 645.

3. Granting of new trial disposes of the other motion. McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384, 77 P. 736.

4. It was in the interest of justice for the court to exercise its discretion. Usher v. Scranton R. Co., 132 F. 405.

5. New trial granted as verdict not sustained by the evidence. Holland v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 608.

6. Code, § 3759; but a motion for judgment on special findings does waive right. Schulte v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 714.

7. Johnson Bros. v. Wright [Iowa] 99 N. W. 103; Van Buskirk v. Stover, 162 Ind. 448, 70 N. E. 520. The court is without jurisdiction of a motion made after the time limited. Clements v. Buckner [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 235.

8. Forgetfulness, but no accident, mistake or unforeseen cause shown. McDermott v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 48.

9. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 251, requires the petition for new trial to be filed within 15 days after statement; defendant's time for filing statement was extended to Aug. 27, and on Sept. 26, as no petition was filed, judgment was rendered for plaintiff, and defendant could not file a petition for a new trial on Dec. 18. Blaisdell v. Harvey [R. I.] 57 A. 371. Order made in October term per-motion is deemed denied if not determined within the term,[10] in which case the act of the court in extending the time,[11] or in considering the motion subsequently, is void.[12] The motion must usually be made within a fixed number of days of,[13] or at the term at which, the verdict, report, or decision was rendered,[14] or by the first day of the next term.[15] For newly discovered evidence the time allowed is longer.[16] Where special findings of a jury are obtained in an equitable case, the time for moving for a new trial does not begin to run until they have been adopted by the court.[17] Where the case is tried in a higher court, the time runs from the date of judgment of the higher court.[18] A motion is prematurely made, if made before the return of the verdict.[19] An amendment may be made to a motion for a new trial,[20] within the statutory time allowed for making the motion,[21] or the court may allow it.[22] The motion must specify a statutory ground,[23] though it need not state one of the statutory grounds where the ruling complained of is designated,[24] and it is not necessary to state the grounds of the motion at length.[25] An assignment of error will not be considered which does not point out the specific error complained of,[26] a general allegation that the trial was unfair[27] or that a verdict is contrary mitting the motion to be filed in the November term. Walker v. Moser [C. C. A.] 117 F. 230.

10. Notwithstanding that it was continued to another term by the order of the judge, Ariz. Rev. St. 1887, § 837, being constitutional. James v. Appel, 192 U. S. 129, 48 Law. Ed. 377.

11. Oral understanding of parties to which the court consented, and it was immaterial that the bill of exceptions showed the motion was made in time when it was not so in fact. Griffin v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 111.

12. Motion made in time; but not acted on, but continued to next term [Rev. St. 1895, art. 1374]. Clements v. Buckner [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 235.

13. Where counsel was not present when verdict was returned, he has 24 hours in which to except. Goodrum v. Grimes, 185 Mass. 80, 69 N. E. 1053. Motion must be made within 4 days of rendition of judgment. Harkness v. Jarvis, 182 Mo. 231, 81 S. W. 446.

14. Where motion was under consideration, and its final consideration continued to the next term, it will be considered filed in time, though in fact not in the clerk's hands before adjournment. Glover v. Ratcliff [Kan.] 77 P. 89. Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3358, requiring motion except for one cause, within 3 days of verdict; a motion made 45 days after judgment, not filed in term, and no excuse presented, was properly denied. Mann v. Carson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 692.

15. Van Buskirk v. Stover, 162 Ind. 448, 70 N. E. 520.

16. Code, § 4092; application on ground of newly-discovered evidence may be made within one year of rendition of verdict. Hunter v. Porter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 53. Party brought into court on the same notice and pleadings as in ordinary actions, and notwithstanding an appeal has been decided by the supreme court [Code, §§ 4094, 4095]. Chambliss v. Hass [Iowa] 101 N. W. 153.

17. Otherwise party might be required to file two motions. Jenkins v. Kirtley [Kan.] 79 P. 671. Findings returned Feb. 6; notice of intention to move for new trial Feb. 10; court adopted findings March 22; motion overruled as not filed within 10 days after decision of court. Spencer v. Hersam [Mont.] 77 P. 418.

18. Action tried in district court on appeal from county court. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

19. A motion filed with the clerk when the jury was sent back to make one of the findings more definite, but where there was some evidence that a request was made at the time for the clerk to hold it until the return of the jury, was not prematurely made. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [Kan.] 79 P. 130.

20. Though trial court refused to allow amendment, the appellate court treated it as allowed. McLeod v. Morris, 120 Ga. 756, 48 S. E. 188. An amendment to a motion for a new trial may be allowed at any time before the motion is finally disposed of. Tifton, etc., R. Co. v. Chastain [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

21. Newly-discovered evidence. Thompson v. Thompson [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1022.

22. Newly-discovered evidence. Kreielsheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 406, 72 P. 72.

23. Motion in action on contract "because the damages assessed are excessive" which is a statutory ground for new trial in actions for tort only, is insufficient. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608.

24. Motion on following ground, viz.: In granting defendant's motion for judgment on the pleadings. King v. Burnham [Minn.] 101 N. W. 302.

25. But it is the duty of the clerk to enter motion and order, stating the grounds upon which it was made or granted, and referring to any document referred to by counsel, as the bill or statement of particulars. Williams v. Hawley, 144 Cal. 97, 77 P. 762.

26. Assignment of error in refusing a new trial for newly-discovered evidence. Taylor v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738.

27. O'Connell v. King & Son [R. I.] 59 A. 926.

to law is too indefinite to be considered.[28] A specification or motion for new trial that the evidence is insufficient to justify the verdict is sufficient.[29] In some jurisdictions it is required that where a motion for new trial is made because of the insufficiency of the evidence, the statement shall specify the particulars in which the evidence is alleged to be insufficient,[30] and when complaint is made over the admission of any evidence, it must be set out,[31] as the motion can only be based on what appears of record.[32] In Georgia a motion for a new trial for admission or exclusion of evidence must set out the evidence.[33] Grounds assigned in the motion but not argued are not necessarily waived,[34] though where the motion is made on one ground, the party cannot change his position on appeal.[35] In a case of default the petition should show that there was a good defense.[36] The statement on a motion for new trial is only required to contain such evidence as is necessary for the determination of the points raised,[37] and the opposite party may file amendments thereto.[38] Where a party fails to object to a statement of the case which shows that the motion for a new trial was made in time, he is precluded from asserting the contrary.[39] A bill of exceptions unless made a part of the statement on a motion for new trial cannot be considered on appeal;[40] in the absence of a bill of exceptions, the judgment will not be reversed merely because of allegations in the motion for a new trial.[41] Statements or bills of exceptions may be made up, though transcripts of the evidence are not obtained from the official stenographer.[42] Where there has been a reference, the bill of exceptions must nevertheless be settled by the court.[43] Where the motion is made on a bill of exceptions, it need not contain a specification of errors.[44] An order overruling the motion giving party thirty days to prepare a bill of exceptions is sufficient to cover a bill relating to the original trial,[45] and where the motion is continued, it preserves the right of the movant to present a

28. Hoskins' Adm'r v. Brown [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767.

29. Where statement recites that it contains substantially all of the evidence. Di Nola v. Allison, 143 Cal. 106, 76 P. 976. Assignment that the "findings" are not supported by the evidence is sufficient under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 568, cl. 6, specifying as one of the grounds for a new trial that the "verdict or decision" is not sustained by the evidence. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109.

30. Specification that court erred in making a certain finding, there being insufficient evidence to justify it, is not good [Code Civ. Proc. § 1173]. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

31. So that the question can be decided without reference to other parts of the record. McTier v. Crosby, 120 Ga. 878, 48 S. E. 355.

32. The granting of new trial because of absence of counsel reversed because record did not show due diligence. Ayer v. James, 120 Ga. 578, 48 S. E. 154.

33. Reference to other parts of record insufficient. Buck v. Nicholls Mfg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 82. Where error in admission of evidence, the evidence must be set out in motion. Long v. Powell, 120 Ga. 621, 48 S. E. 185.

34. Other additional circumstances must be shown to make out a waiver. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [Kan.] 79 P. 130.

35. Motion made on ground of insufficiency of the evidence, and party on appeal cannot maintain that there was error of law. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998.

36. Tschohl v. Machinery Mut. Ins. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 740.

37. Not necessary to contain a transcript of the reporter's notes. Vatcher v. Wilbur, 144 Cal. 536, 78 P. 14.

38. Error for court to require full transcript at expense of $275, where only $500 involved, where slight amendments would have presented all the facts that were necessary. Vatcher v. Wilbur, 144 Cal. 536, 78 P. 14.

39. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 303, subd. 3, provides that if no amendments to the proposed statement are served, or, if served, are allowed, the proposed statement may be presented for settlement without notice. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 742.

40. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971.

41. Affidavit that the facts stated in the motion "are true to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief" is insufficient, though not controverted. Scheffel v. Scheffel [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 408.

42. When once settled it is a part of the record, not subject to correction, except upon a showing of mistake. York v. Steward [Mont.] 76 P. 756.

43. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

44. It differs therein from a statement of facts [Code Civ. Proc. § 1155]. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

45. Gaston v. Marengo Imp. Co., 139 Ala. 465, 36 So. 738.

brief of the evidence for approval.[46] Where the motion is made on the minutes of the court, a statement must be subsequently prepared;[47] but a motion for a new trial on the minutes cannot be made in an action tried by the court.[48] In Massachusetts the court may hear the motion on affidavits with or without additional oral testimony.[49] If made for irregularities of trial, it must be made on affidavits.[50] A new trial should be granted on all of the issues, unless verdict cannot be apportioned.[51] Where a new trial is granted on part only of the issues, the costs may be apportioned in the discretion of the court.[52] The granting of a new trial sets aside the judgment as to all the parties.[53] No ruling of law will be made on a motion for a new trial on any question not raised at the trial.[54] The order setting aside the verdict can only be made on grounds asked for,[55] and it should specify the grounds on which it was made,[56] and where it explicitly states the ground, reference cannot be made to the memorandum;[57] but where the record or order does not show on what ground it was made, it will be sustained if any ground assigned in motion is good.[58] Where an order was made on the minutes denying a new trial, another application may be made on other grounds.[59] The order is not a part of the statement,[60] and one may be charged with notice of it when it is served on him, though the files are defective.[61] The order granting a new trial may be made conditional on the payment of costs.[62] An order refusing or allowing a new trial is not assignable as error on appeal,[63] but an order denying a motion to relieve a party from default in not making his motion for a new trial in time is appealable,[64] and on an appeal from an order granting a new trial, the refusal to dismiss a recordari is reviewable.[65]

§ 4. Proceedings at new trial.[66]—The trial will be had under the limitations

46. Error to enter an order dismissing the motion for new trial. Miller v. Thigpen, 121 Ga. 475, 49 S. E. 286.

47. Where a document purporting to be a statement was not signed by the judge, there could be no review of the order denying the new trial. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

48. No appeal will lie from order denying motion. Bosworth v. Kinghorn, 94 App. Div. 187, 87 N. Y. S. 983.

49. Manning v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 645.

50. One on information and belief insufficient; an appeal lies from the order striking out the affidavits, as personally offensive, and scandalous. Gay v. Torrance, 145 Cal. 144, 78 P. 540.

51. General verdict rendered before a magistrate and evidence did not support the second cause. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 568.

52. Code 527 (2). Satterthwalte v. Goodyear [N. C.] 49 S. E. 205.

53. Notwithstanding a recital in the findings of fact that it was of no effect as between plaintiff and one of the defendants. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

54. Murphy v. Com. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524.

55. Where plaintiff asked for new trial because of inadequate verdict, the court would not consider whether the verdict was otherwise justified by the evidence. Hill v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 374.

56. If because it was contrary to the evidence, it must be conditioned on payment of costs and disbursements. Murphy v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 187.

57. Order on ground evidence did not sustain the verdict; the memorandum referred to failure to prove a Wisconsin statute. Holland v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 608.

58. Glover v. Ratcliff [Kan.] 77 P. 89; Weller v. Hilderbrandt [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1108. That the evidence was conflicting does not prevent the exercise of the court's discretion. Cooper v. Spring Valley Waterworks, 145 Cal. 207, 78 P. 654.

59. It is not necessary to have the order resettled. Garofalo v. Prividi, 43 Misc. 359, 87 N. Y. S. 467.

60. Statement used on motion for new trial may be used on appeal from order or from the final judgment [Code Civ. Proc. § 1736]. Mahoney v. Dixon [Mont.] 77 P. 519.

61. New trial: Reasonable diligence to discover evidence for grant of new trial in suit to require issue of a certificate of state land to claimant as affecting rights of alleged innocent purchaser under a void patent. The files contained no motion for a new trial. Kempner v. State, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 363, 72 S. W. 888.

62. Where no time is specified it is payable on demand. Holtum v. Greif, 144 Cal. 521, 78 P. 11.

63. Adcock v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 78.

64. The merits of the motion cannot be determined on a motion to dismiss the appeal. Steen v. Santa Clara Valley Mill & Lumber Co., 145 Cal. 564, 79 P. 171.

65. Johnson v. Grand Fountain of United Order of True Reformers, 135 N. C. 385, 47 S. E. 463.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1051.

imposed by the order granting it,[67] but the court in its discretion may allow an amendment of the pleadings.[68] Even in equity cases the new trial must be held,[69] though the parties may rely on testimony taken at former hearing, or may move for an order allowing additional testimony.[70]

§ 5. Arrest of judgment. A. Grounds.[71]—A motion in arrest of judgment may be made, though there was no demurrer interposed,[72] where the complaint,[73] the petition,[74] or the pleadings wholly fail to state a cause of action,[75] or on the ground the judgment was nunc pro tunc.[76] Where there is one good count, the motion will be denied.[77] On a motion in arrest of judgment for defects in pleadings, every intendment will be made in favor of the pleadings,[78] and judgment will not be arrested for a formal error of pleading,[79] which is amendable,[80] or which has been corrected by the proof.[81]

(§ 5) B. Motions and proceedings thereon.[82]—The motion must be made at the same term, and a nunc pro tunc order cannot be made.[83] In some jurisdictions when a motion in arrest of judgment is made, it must be certified to the appellate court for decision.[84] A motion to set aside a judgment will raise the question of the court's failure to appoint a guardian ad litem for an infant defendant,[85] and in some cases it may amount to an admission by the party.[86]

67. New trial was allowed for newly-discovered evidence merely on the question of damages, and it was proper to enter the limitation on the docket when the case was continued. Ela v. Ela, 72 N. H. 598, 57 A. 921.

68. In an action to recover a loan, defendant was allowed to amend his answer by stating that the sum represented "poker chips." Collet v. Beutler, 27 Utah, 540, 76 P. 707.

69. Error to enter judgment for other party without a new trial. Hurley v. Kennally [Mo.] 85 S. W. 357.

70. This is in discretion of judge, and may be determined by inspection of pleadings. Pratt v. Timmerman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 255.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1051.

72. Declaration for wrongful death, failed to show that there was any widow, next of kin, or beneficiaries. Southern R. Co. v. Maxwell [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 1137.

73. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

74. Action on an injunction bond; motion overruled. Williams v. Ballinger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 139.

75. Suit on injunction bond for damages, with no allegation that the original action had been disposed of. Lacey v. Davis [Iowa] 102 N. W. 535.

76. Sperling v. Stubblefield, 105 Mo. App. 489, 79 S. W. 1172.

77. Motion because the first count would not sustain the judgment, but denied as second and third counts were good. Chicago, W. & V. Coal Co. v. Moran, 210 Ill. 9, 71 N. E. 38.

78. Declaration for nuisance in depositing noxious substances near plaintiff's premises which emitted odors and caused sickness in plaintiff's family, raised a fair inference that the odors came upon plaintiff's premises. Fairbank Co. v. Bahre [Ill.] 73 N. E. 322.

79. Omission of formal concluding words of declaration, and of an essential averment which was contained by implication in the other averments. Bowen v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 252. Declaration failed to allege the trespass was committed "with force and arms and against the peace" and amendment will be allowed. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930. That the petition pleads evidence rather than ultimate conclusions is not a ground for motion for arrest of judgment. Williams v. Ballinger [Iowa] 101 N. W. 139. Where count merely inartificially drawn the motion was overruled. Carpenter v. Hamilton [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 863.

80. Motion to arrest judgment in a garnishment proceeding cannot be based on alleged invalidity of the judgment in attachment, on which the proceedings were based, as they constitute no part of the record in the garnishment proceedings. Leffler v. Union Compress Co., 121 Ga. 40, 48 S. E. 710.

81. The declaration alleging the running of cars against other cars at a high rate of speed in charge of an inexperienced and incompetent brakeman so that plaintiff's intestate was thrown under car and killed was sufficient. Elliott v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 129 F. 163.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1051.

83. Though pursuant to oral understanding consented to by the court. Griffin v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 111.

84. Gen. Laws 1896, p. 760, c. 222, § 3 and p. 865, c. 251, §§ 10, 11, requiring certification from district court, or common pleas division of supreme court, to the appellate division of the latter. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930.

85. Judgment for delinquent taxes. State v. Gawronski [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 126.

86. A landowner who moved to arrest judgment in a suit to recover an assessment on the ground of an inaccurate description, which was not an issue, he was authorized to tender, nevertheless admitted the defect in the description. Ager v. State, 162 Ind. 538, 70 N. E. 808.

(§ 5) C. Effect.[87]—The objection that the testimony failed to establish an instrument testamentary in its character cannot be raised for the first time on motion for a new trial.[88]

NEXT FRIENDS; NEXT OF KIN, see latest topical index.

NON-NEGOTIABLE PAPER.

The term "non-negotiable paper" comprehends those contracts[89] for the payment of money which possessing the form and other essentials of bills and notes lack their negotiability. This topic treats strictly of non-negotiable instruments, the indicia of negotiability and the elements which destroy it having been treated in a prior topic.[90]

Title to a non-negotiable instrument passes by assignment,[91] and the right of a holder to assign cannot be taken away by the maker.[92] The assignment should be made in the same manner as any other chose in action is assigned.[93] An assignee acquires precisely the same title that his assignor had,[94] and takes subject to the defenses existing in favor of the maker,[95] but is not affected by equities existing in favor of strangers whose interest in no way appears.[96] Fraud in its inception[97] or want of consideration[98] are good defenses, and it requires no compliance with statutes relating to negotiable paper in order to let them in.[99] Payment to the payee before maturity and without notice of a transfer discharges the maker,[1]

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1052. Carney v. People, 210 Ill. 434, 71 N. E. 365; Zander v. New York Security & Trust Co., 81 App. Div. 635, 81 N. Y. S. 1151; Hofferbert v. Williams, 32 Ind. App. 593, 70 N. E. 405; Crawford v. Watkins, 118 Ga. 631, 45 S. E. 482; State v. Judge of First District Court, 113 La. 654, 37 So. 546; Fitzjohn v. St. Louis Transit Co., 183 Mo. 74, 81 S. W. 907. Properly denied where the witness offered was present at the trial. Barber v. Maden [Iowa] 102 N. W. 120. Question whether a release of a mortgage was forged. Kringle v. Kringle, 123 Iowa, 365, 98 N. W. 883; Dunk v. Dunk, 95 App. Div. 617, 88 N. Y. S. 419; Farmers' & Shippers' Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co. v. Pridemore [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 258.

88. Suit to establish lost deed as will. Lincoln v. Felt, 132 Mich. 49, 92 N. W. 780.

89. Respecting the general doctrines of contract, see the title Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 805.

90. See Negotiable Instruments, 4 Curr. L. 788 et seq.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1052. Bill of lading. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

92. A memorandum on a note providing that it shall not be transferred or used as collateral without the written consent of the maker does not destroy assignability. Herrick v. Edwards, 106 Mo. App. 633, 81 S. W. 466.

93. A mere indorsement is insufficient. Young v. American Bank, 44 Misc. 305, 89 N. Y. S. 913.

94. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

95. Note not payable in bank. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287; Cotton v. John Deere Plow Co. [Okl.] 78 P. 321. Damages for breach of warranty of goods for which it was given may be recouped against an assignee [Ky. St. 1903, § 474]. Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co. [Ky.] 81 S. W. 261. That the maker acknowledges his liability on the instrument does not estop his defending, it not appearing that the assignee was prejudiced by his admission. Id.

96. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 134.

97. Answer setting up fraud held sufficient. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287.

98. Averment in answer that a note was given without consideration is an averment that the defense existed at the date of assignment. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287. That the note was given for money to be loaned to the maker's son personally cannot be enforced for money loaned to a corporation of which he was president. Smith v. Willing [Wis.] 101 N. W. 692. A receipt given by the maker of a note for goods for which the note was given does not estop the maker to show the true consideration of the note. That it was a peddler's note. Burns v. Sparks [Ky.] 82 S. W. 425.

99. Patent right notes. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287. In Kentucky a note not discounted at a bank and not bearing on its face "Peddler's note" as required by statute can be shown to be void, though it is necessary to contradict the written agreement evidencing the transaction. Burns v. Sparks [Ky.] 82 S. W. 425.

1. Notice subsequent to payment does not affect the validity of such payment. Sykes v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Kan.] 76 P. 293. Evidence held to show that the maker had no notice of the transfer and was justified in making payment, though the payee did not present and did not have the paper. Swan v. Craig [Neb.] 102 N. W. 471. The holder held estopped from denying owner-and payment to an assignee of record will discharge him, though he have notice that another claims a right to collect;[2] but payment to an assignee who has not possession will not.[3] An assignee who takes for the purpose of bringing action, himself to pay expenses of litigation and divide the proceeds with the assignor is not a bona fide holder.[4] The owner can recover on a lost instrument without giving an indemnity bond to the maker.[5] A non-negotiable instrument is not entitled to grace,[6] and an indorser is not entitled to demand protest or notice;[7] but the assignee must use diligence in collecting it if he would hold the assignor.[8]

NONRESIDENCE, see latest topical index.

NOTARIES AND COMMISSIONERS OF DEEDS.[9]

A notary has power at common law to take depositions.[10]

It is held in many states that a corporate officer or stockholder is incompetent to take the acknowledgment of a corporate instrument,[11] and the Illinois act legalizing such acknowledgments is not retroactive.[12]

Oaths before a foreign notary are of no effect except as authorized by statute.[13] ship and authority of his assignor to receive payment. Id. Query: Whether the mortgagor of a mortgage securing a non-negotiable debt can after an assignment of the mortgage, by any dealings with the mortgagee short of actual payment, though in ignorance of the assignment, raise an equity as against the assignee. Cudahy Packing Co. v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 134 F. 538.

2. Casner v. Johnson, 66 Kan. 404, 71 P. 819.

3. Not a defense as against one to whom he had assigned it. Maguire v. Donovan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 156.

4. So as to come within Gen. St. 1902, § 631, authorizing a bona fide assignee to maintain action in his own name. Slade v. Zeitfuss [Conn.] 59 A. 406.

5. Certificate of deposit payable to the depositor or his assigns. Zander v. New York Security & Trust Co., 178 N. Y. 208, 70 N. E. 449. But see Maguire v. Donovan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 156.

6. Non-negotiable because of uncertainty of amount. Davis v. Brady [S. D.] 97 N. W. 719.

7. Herrick v. Edwards, 106 Mo. App. 633, 81 S. W. 466.

8. NOTE. "The assignee of a non-negotiable instrument must use diligence against the maker in an attempt to collect it in order to hold the assignor liable: Kampmann v. Williams, 70 Tex. 568, 8 S. W. 319. The diligence required of the holder of such an instrument, in order to subject the indorser, consists in a demand for payment from the maker, as soon as the note becomes due, and, in case of nonpayment, an immediate suit against him. Huntington v. Harvey, 4 Conn. 124. Such diligence is dispensed with only by the insolvency of the maker, or some other valid reason. Fulford v. Johnson, 15 Ala. 385. Suit must generally be brought against the maker of the note at the next succeeding term after it falls due, in order to fix the liability of the indorser. Matchett v. Anderson, etc., Works, 29 Ind. App. 210, 64 N. E. 229, 94 Am. St. Rep. 272. The mere fact that the maker of the note has a set-off against the payee does not dispense with the necessity for the indorsee to sue to the first term of court after the maturity of the note in order to charge an indorser who is not the payee. Hagerthy v. Bradford, 9 Ala. 567. The neglect of the holder to put such note in suit against the maker for four months after its maturity is such laches as, in the absence of any excuse or waiver, will discharge the indorser. Prentiss v. Danielson, 5 Conn. 175, 13 Am. Dec. 52. And, of course, such delay for several years is fatal. Matchett v. Anderson, etc., Works, 29 Ind. App. 210, 64 N. E. 229, 94 Am. St. Rep. 272. If the holder of a non-negotiable note, indorsed in blank, has without excuse neglected until long after its maturity to bring suit, it is not necessary for the indorser insisting upon the laches of the holder as a discharge from liability, to show that he has sustained actual damage. Prentiss v. Danielson, 5 Conn. 175, 13 Am. Dec. 52. A different rule seems to prevail in California, as it has there been held that mere delay of the payee to proceed against the principal or to pursue any other remedy is not available as a defense to one who has put his name on the back of such a note to give it credit. First Nat. Bank v. Babcock, 94 Cal. 96, 29 P. 415, 28 Am. St. Rep. 94. We confess our inability to find any legal reason for such a decision."—From monographic note "Liability of Indorser of Non-Negotiable Instrument," 97 Am. St. Rep. 985, 989, accompanying Young v. Sehon, 53 W. Va. 127, 44 S. E. 136, 97 Am. St. Rep. 970, cited 2 Curr. L. 1052, n. 93.

9. As to particular duties see Acknowledgments, 3 Curr. L. 31; Depositions, 3 Curr. L. 1074; Negotiable Instruments, 2 Curr. L. 1013.

10. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

11. Fugman v. Jiri Washington Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 209 Ill. 176, 70 N. E. 644. See 2 Curr. L. 1053, n. 6.

12. Fugman v. Jiri Washington Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 209 Ill. 176, 70 N. E. 644.

13. Foreign notary has no power to administer oath in forma pauperis. Fawcett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 839.

Where a state statute provides that depositions without the state may be taken before a notary, they may be taken for use in such state, though the law of the state where they are taken gives notaries no such power.[14]

There can be no recovery against a notary for falsely certifying an acknowledgment unless the loss resulted from a reliance on such certificate.[15] The measure of damages is the value of the security which would have been received had the instrument been valid,[16] and the burden of showing this value is on the plaintiff.[17] Limitation of actions on notarial bonds is governed in Kentucky by a special three-year statute.[18] Fraudulent concealment by the notary of a false certification prevents the running of the statute against an action on his bond.[19] Whether the person injured could by due diligence have discovered the facts notwithstanding such fraud is for the jury,[20] not only as to him but as to his sureties.[21]

NOTES AND ISSUE; NOTICE, see latest topical index.

NOTICE AND RECORD OF TITLE.

§ 1. Bona Fide Purchasers and the Doctrine of Notice (829). Valuable Consideration (830). Good Faith (830). Notice or Knowledge (830).
§ 2. Statutory Records or Filings as Constructive Notice (833).
A. In General (833).
B. Deed and Mortgage Records (833). Necessity, Operation and Effect of Recording (834). Sufficiency, Operation and Effect of Record (835). Recording Officers and Administration of the Acts (836).
C. Wills and Their Probate and Administration Proceedings (836).
D. Chattel Mortgages, Conditional Sales, and Other Liens (836).
§ 3. Registration and Certification of Land Titles Under the Torrens System (836).

This title deals only with public records affecting title; other public records[22] and private records[23] are treated elsewhere, as is also the method of restoring lost or destroyed records.[24] The term bona fide purchaser or occupant as used in the betterments[25] or occupying claimant's acts[26] is distinct from the term as used in this article.

§ 1. Bona fide purchasers and the doctrine of notice.[27]—In equity the doctrine is that a bona fide purchaser takes title free from equities of third persons,[28] and the defense that one is such a purchaser may be asserted against the state.[29] Though the deed is unrecorded, one who has notice takes subject to it[30] unless it is

14. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290.

15. Mahoney v. Dixon [Mont.] 77 P. 519. Refusal to direct a verdict against the notary in a case where the person making the acknowledgment was an imposter held proper where plaintiff testified that he acted on his own information. People v. Cole [Mich.] 102 N. W. 856.

16, 17. Mahoney v. Dixon [Mont.] 77 P. 519.

18, 19, 20, 21. State v. Hawkins, 103 Mo. App. 251, 77 S. W. 98.

22. See Census and Statistics, 3 Curr. L. 666; Death and Survivorship, 3 Curr. L. 1033; and Records, 2 Curr. L. 1482.

23. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880; and Partnership, 2 Curr. L. 1106.

24. See Restoring Instruments and Records, 2 Curr. L. 1520.

25. See Accession and Confusion of Property, 3 Curr. L. 15.

26. See Ejectment (And Writ of Entry), 3 Curr. L. 1157.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1053.

28. Prior voluntary conveyance. West v. Wright, 121 Ga. 470, 49 S. E. 285. Executory contract for the purchase of land. Martin v. Thomas [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 118. Equitable right of third person to a mortgage. Purchaser took under quitclaim deed. Livingstone v. Murphy [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1012. Unrecorded deed [Rev. St. Tex. art. 4640]. Lee v. Wysong, 128 F. 833. Fixtures pass to a grantee without notice of agreement for removal between landlord and tenant. Smyth v. Stoddard, 105 Ill. App. 510. That release of trust on land is void. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex.] 84 S. W. 417. Bona fide purchasers without notice that grantor purchased property while guardian in socage of owner are protected against the claim of such owner. Cahill v. Seitz, 93 App. Div. 105, 86 N. Y. S. 1009. A partly discharged mortgage cannot by mere agreement be retained as security for a new consideration as against subsequent bona fide creditors without notice. Whitney v. Metallic Window Screen Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 663. See 2 Curr. L. 1054, n. 13, 14.

29. The defense of innocent purchaser under a certificate of occupancy is good against an attack of the state upon the sale of the land on the ground of nonoccupancy. State v. Hughes [Tex.] 80 S. W. 524.

30, 31. Shannon's Code, § 3752, providing wholly void.[31] As a general rule the rule of caveat emptor applies to judicial sales,[32] though there are cases holding the contrary.[33]

The sole requisites of a bona fide purchaser are (1) a valuable consideration; (2) good faith; and (3) the absence of notice or knowledge.[34] The instrument reciting the payment of a valuable consideration, such recital, in the absence of contradictory evidence, establishes one's character as a bona fide purchaser.[35]

Valuable consideration.[36]—The consideration must be actually paid[37] before the purchaser has notice of the other party's rights,[38] unless some existing right be surrendered.[39] An antecedent indebtedness is not a valuable consideration.[40] A mortgagee is a purchaser for a valuable consideration,[41] as is one who obtains title in payment of services to be rendered,[42] and an attaching creditor;[43] but a passive trustee is not such a purchaser.[44] The fact that the consideration is inadequate does not per se destroy one's character as a bona fide purchaser.[45]

Good faith.[46]—Usual care being exercised, good faith becomes a question of fact.[47] One has the right to rely upon an unreversed judgment,[48] and upon tax proceedings which are regular upon their face.[49] That the acquisition of property by a corporation is unauthorized does not destroy its character as a bona fide purchaser.[50]

Notice or knowledge.[51]—In order that one may, as a bona fide purchaser, claim priority over the equities of third persons, he must not, at the time of purchase, have had either actual or constructive notice of such equities.[52] Registration or that unregistered deeds shall be void as to bona fide purchasers, means purchasers without notice. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834.

32. Walkau v. Manitowoc Seating Co., 105 Ill. App. 130. Neither the attorneys of plaintiff who purchased the property, nor plaintiff to whom such attorneys assigned a part interest, nor assignees of the certificate of purchase prior to the execution of the sheriff's deed are purchasers in good faith. See 2 Curr. L. 1054, n. 17. English v. Otis [Iowa] 101 N. W. 293. See Judicial Sales, 4 Curr. L. 321.

33. Purchaser at judicial sale is not obliged to take notice of notice of appeal filed in clerk's office prior to the sale. State Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. O'Callaghan [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 496. Purchaser at foreclosure sale of a recorded mortgage will be protected against an unrecorded prior grant of a right of way. Dahlberg v. Haeberle [N. J. Law] 59 A. 92. A purchaser at a foreclosure sale takes title free from the claim of the assignee of a junior mortgagee, the assignment being unrecorded. Pinney v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Ohio] 72 N. E. 884.

34. Derrett v. Britton [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 562. The validity of the acknowledgment to one's deed is not essential. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1054, n. 19. See, also, the topic Fraudulent Conveyances, 3 Curr. L. 1535, as to the rights of the grantor's creditors.

35. Assignment of mortgage. Weideman v. Pech, 92 N. Y. S. 493.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1054.

37. One person being an officer and active manager of both a bank and the grantee corporation, a deposit of the latter's money in the bank held not to constitute a payment to the grantor. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310. See Payment and Tender, 2 Curr. L. 1158.

38. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310. See 2 Curr. L. 1055, n. 22.

39. Held sufficient where one suspended right of action and released parties secondarily liable. Douglas v. Miller, 102 App. Div. 94, 92 N. Y. S. 514. See 2 Curr. L. 1055, n. 25.

40. Bard v. Meiser [Ark.] 82 S. W. 836. See 2 Curr. L. 1055, n. 24.

41. Atlanta Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Gilmer, 128 F. 293. Creditor extending the time of payment and taking mortgage as security becomes a bona fide purchaser. O'Brien v. Fleckenstein [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 30.

42. Lawyer acquiring title in consideration of his services in clearing title. Garner v. Boyle [Tex.] 79 S. W. 1066.

43. Whitney v. Metallic Window Screen Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 673.

44. Even though he sign a note and mortgage on the land for the unpaid portion of the purchase price. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310.

45. Booker v. Booker, 208 Ill. 529, 70 N. E. 709.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1055.

47. Syracuse Sav. Bank v. Merrick, 96 App. Div. 581, 89 N. Y. S. 238.

48. Thaxter v. Thain, 91 N. Y. S. 729; Schneider v. Sellers [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 126.

49. A purchaser from one holding under a tax deed is a bona fide purchaser, the proceedings being regular and the deed conveying the legal title. Atlanta Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Gilmer, 128 F. 293.

50. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex.] 84 S. W. 417, modifying 81 S. W. 126.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1055.

52. Keachele v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1082; Derrett v. Britton [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 562. Persons having notice of mortgage are not innocent purchasrecord[53] or notice or knowledge of facts which would have put an ordinarily prudent man on inquiry,[54] and such as upon reasonable investigation would have revealed the claims of the other party,[55] are equivalent to actual notice. Exclusive ers, there being no release or cancellation of record. Griffin v. Stone River Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 254. Their only right is to redeem from the foreclosure of the mortgage. Freeburg v. Eksell, 123 Iowa, 464, 99 N. W. 118. Purchaser having knowledge that another has an enforceable option on land may be required to convey to the holder of such option. Cummins v. Beavers [Va.] 48 S. E. 891. Parties to an action in which the judgment rendered operates to pass title are charged with notice of the transfer of title. Kelly v. Bramblett [Ky.] 81 S. W. 249. Knowledge of contract whereby third persons had interests in all patents of an inventor held sufficient to put the purchaser on inquiry. National Cash Register Co. v. New Columbus Watch Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 114. Party to fraud on incompetent is not a bona fide purchaser. Sterling v. Sterling, 90 N. Y. S. 306. Oral agreement affecting one's title held inadmissible, there being no proof tending to show that he had knowledge thereof. Carlisle v. Libby, 185 Mass. 445, 70 N. E. 423. A mortgagee receiving notice after receiving mortgage to secure a note, the consideration of which consists largely of services to be thereafter rendered, is not one having "actual" notice within the meaning of Civ. Code, § 2950. Payne v. Morey, 144 Cal. 130, 77 P. 831.

Evidence held insufficient to show that mortgagee had notice that deed to mortgagor was fraudulent. Allen v. Riddle [Ala.] 37 So. 680. Evidence held insufficient to show actual notice. Booker v. Booker, 208 Ill. 529, 70 N. E. 709. Evidence held insufficient to show want of notice. Keachele v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 1082; Alexander v. Goetz [Ala.] 37 So. 630. See 2 Curr. L. 1055, n. 27-29.

53. See post, § 2, subd. B. Sufficiency and effect.

54. Derrett v. Britton [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 562; Cahill v. Seitz, 93 App. Div. 105, 86 N. Y. S. 1009; Rankin Mfg. Co. v. Bishop, 137 Ala. 271, 34 So. 991. See 2 Curr. L. 1056, n. 30; Id. 1057, n. 35.

ILLUSTRATIONS. Facts Constituting Constructive Notice: Recital that mortgage is subject to the provisions of a named contract. Church v. Lapham, 94 App. Div. 550, 88 N. Y. S. 222.

Disclaimer of record owner constitutes notice of unrecorded transfer. Rankin Mfg. Co. v. Bishop, 137 Ala. 271, 34 So. 991.

Visible user or possession: Using road for seven years held constructive notice of its existence, though report of viewers had never been recorded [Gen. St. 1883, § 2953, and Gen. Laws 1877, § 2384 construed] Board of Com'rs of Weld County v. Ingram, 31 Colo. 319, 73 P. 37. Payment of inadequate price by remote assignee of a remainder interest, and various facts and conversations held sufficient to charge the assignee with notice that the assignment was merely a mortgage. Dixon v. Bentley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1036. It is the duty of the assignee of a trust deed to inquire of the maker thereof as to the status of the debt. Brosseau v. Lowy, 209 Ill. 405, 70 N. E. 901. Purchasers held charged with notice that trust deed to grantor did not bind minor heirs. Heppe v. Szczepanski, 209 Ill. 88, 70 N. E. 737. One present at meeting of corporate board of directors held charged with knowledge that transaction authorized was constructively fraudulent as to corporation and stockholder. Coombs v. Barker [Mont.] 79 P. 1.

Gap in chain of abstract title: Where, when plaintiff purchased certain land he had an abstract containing deeds that recited all the conveyances down to defendant but failed to show any conveyance by the common source of title, held charged with the notice of such conveyance, the existence of which would have been disclosed by inquiry. Masterson v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 428.

Facts Held Insufficient to Constitute Notice: Erection of walls along sea coast held not constructive notice of deed to city constructing same. Atlantic City v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 158.

Payment of taxes by the grantee in an unrecorded conveyance is not notice of his rights. Sheldon v. Powell [Mont.] 78 P. 491. That deed to mortgagor was only based on a good consideration and that judgment was subsequently entered against the grantor held not notice to mortgagee of defect in title. Glassburn v. Wireman [Iowa] 102 N. W. 421.

Relationship between grantor and others: That infant's uncle, with whom minor resided, purchased property at foreclosure sale, is insufficient to excite inquiry as to any impropriety in his conduct. Cahill v. Seitz, 93 App. Div. 105, 86 N. Y. S. 1009.

Judgment roll recitals showing that the owner was a minor orphan and lived with her uncle does not require purchasers to inquire if her uncle was her guardian in socage. Cahill v. Seitz, 93 App. Div. 105, 86 N. Y. S. 1009.

That patentee was an assignee of the certificate on which patent issued did not charge a subsequent purchaser with notice of latent defects in the transfer. Bogart v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 633. Vendor refusing to put in writing statements to the effect that there was no rebate on rent held insufficient to put vendee on inquiry. Ettlinger v. Well, 94 App. Div. 291, 87 N. Y. S. 1049.

Failure to deliver bond to assignee of bond and mortgage held, in view of statements by the assignor, not to put the assignee on notice of former assignment. Syracuse Sav. Bank v. Merrick, 96 App. Div. 581, 89 N. Y. S. 238. That fence inclosed other than mortgagor's land or that there was more land plowed than he estimated is not notice of an unrecorded deed. Sheldon v. Powell [Mont.] 78 P. 491.

55. Derrett v. Britton [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 562. Evidence of a fraudulent purpose, or of conduct amounting to moral turpitude, is not necessary. National Cash Register Co. v. New Columbus Watch Co. [C.

and unambiguous[56] possession of land by a third party is constructive notice of his rights,[57] unless the possession be consistent with the record title,[58] though the contrary has been held.[59] The sufficiency of possession to constitute notice is a question of fact.[60] In some states possession by a tenant is equivalent to the possession of his landlord.[61] In others the tenant's possession is not only notice of all his rights and interests connected with or growing out of the tenancy itself, but is also notice of all interests acquired by collateral or subsequent agreements.[62] While a purchaser is charged with notice of the interest of one in possession, his diligence is sufficient if he finds on the record a deed from the possessor to his vendor.[63] The purchaser is chargeable with notice of the inconclusiveness of judicial decrees.[64] The duty to take notice of taxes includes void ones subsequently reassessed.[65] Purchasers need not go behind a patent unless put upon inquiry by

C. A.] 129 F. 114. Fruit centract held void where owner could have, by reasonable investigation, discovered that the seller had no title. Thompson v. Stark, 25 Ky. L. R. 1882, 79 S. W. 202. See 2 Curr. L. 1057, n. 35.

56. Butler v. Wheeler [N. H.] 59 A. 935. That one boards on the premises is not notice of an equitable claim. Derrett v. Britton [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 562. Mother living with son, held her possession was not notice of an unrecorded life lease in her favor. Phillips v. Owens, 90 N. Y. S. 947. Joint occupation of claimant of equity with holder of legal title is not notice of claim of former. Atlanta Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Gilmer, 128 F. 293. See 2 Curr. L. 1056, n. 32.

57. Heppe v. Szczepanski, 209 Ill. 88, 70 N. E. 737. Under claim of title. Rothschild v. Leonhard, 33 Ind. App. 452, 71 N. E. 673. Where purchaser had knowledge of possession. Elsbury v. Shull, 32 Ind. App. 556, 70 N. E. 287. See 2 Curr. L. 1056, n. 31. Laws 1885, p. 233, c. 147 protects titles acquired and held under unregistered deeds prior to Dec. 1, 1885, if the holders of such titles were in the actual possession of the lands, or if the purchasers had actual or constructive notice of such unregistered deed. Laton v. Crowell, 136 N. C. 377, 48 S. E. 767. Under such law an unrecorded deed is not available as color of title as against a mortgage subsequently executed by the common grantor and recorded, though the deed after record conferred a perfect title. Id.

58. Martin v. Thomas [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 118. The mere sole possession of one coparcener or tenant in common is not notice to subsequent purchasers of shares of other coparceners or tenants in common of the right of such occupant to those shares under a prior unrecorded purchase. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1056, n. 33.

59. Plaintiff and four brothers owned a tract of land as tenants in common under a deed of record. Plaintiff bought the interest of two of the co-owners, receiving warranty deeds but not recording them. Tenant lived on her three-fifths and cultivated the land. Defendant obtained judgment against one of plaintiff's grantors, levied execution on his one-fifth interest and purchased it at the sale. Plaintiff brings action to set the execution and sale aside. Held, she was entitled to the relief sought. Collum v. Sanger Bros. [Tex.] 82 S. W. 459.

Note: The court considered that the defendant was not relieved of the duty of inquiring of the person in possession, notwithstanding that possession was consistent with the record title, thus reversing the decisions of the civil court of appeal. Sanger Bros. v. Collum [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 401. The decision is contrary to the weight of authority, though its doctrine is followed in National Bank v. Sperling, 113 Ill. 273. It is well settled that a tenant in common has a right to occupy the whole or any part of the common property, the possession being presumed to be for the benefit of all. Freeman Coten, §§ 166, 167. The doctrine is also generally accepted that the "actual, visible, notorious, continuous, and exclusive" possession of land by one rightfully there is constructive notice to subsequent purchasers or creditors of whatever estate or interest in the land is held by the occupant. Jones Real Prop. § 1563; Wade, Notice § 273; 48 Cent. Dig. 540. (Though a few states reject it. Moore v. Jourdan, 14 La. Ann. 414; Farral v. Leverty, 50 Conn. 46, 47 Am. Rep. 608; Lamb v. Pearce, 113 Mass. 72.) This doctrine is qualified, however, by what Pomeroy says is a universal rule "that when a title under which the occupant holds has been put on record and his possession is consistent with that record, it shall not be constructive notice of any additional or different title or interest, to a purchaser or creditor who has relied on that record." 2 Pom. Eq. § 616; Schumacher v. Truman, 134 Cal. 430; Rogers v. Hussey, 36 Iowa, 664; Wickes v. Lake, 25 Wis. 71; Mullins v. Hardware Co., 25 Mont. 525, 87 Am. St. Rep. 430, and cases cited.—3 Mich. L. R. 246.

60. Decision of trial court is not reviewable in supreme court. Butler v. Wheeler [N. H.] 59 A. 935.

61. Collum v. Sanger Bros. [Tex.] 82 S. W. 459.

62. Crooks v. Jenkins [Iowa] 100 N. W. 82.

63. Jinks v. Moppin [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 390. Fact that such deed is of record is insufficient unless he makes inquiry or knows of its being recorded. Id.

64. That divorce decree may be impeached for fraud, and that dismissal of divorce suit was not an adjudication of wife's rights. Beeman v. Kitzman [Iowa] 99 N. W. 171.

65. Defense of bona fide purchaser is not effectual as against a new tax assessment, where the purchase was made after the

some extraneous fact or by the recitals in the patent or some subsequent link in their chain of title.[66] There is a conflict as to whether or not the grantee in a quitclaim deed is a bona fide purchaser.[67] Notice to one is imputed from certain representative relations wherein he may stand;[68] but a grantor's knowledge cannot be imputed to a bona fide purchaser.[69] The grantee of a bona fide purchaser takes clear of equities, though he himself knew thereof.[70] Recitals in an instrument being ambiguous, one is not entitled to rely upon a construction favorable to himself, but is deemed to have notice of all facts which a reasonable inquiry would have disclosed.[71]

There is a direct conflict as to whether or not the burden of showing notice or the lack thereof rests upon the purchaser,[72] and in states which hold that it does not, the rule does not apply to one redeeming from a judicial sale.[73] Payment of a valuable consideration and lapse of time may operate to raise a prima facie presumption of good faith.[74]

§ 2. Statutory records or filings as constructive notice. A. In general.[75]—Instruments affecting the title to personalty, not presently passed in possession and so remaining,[76] and title to realty are recordable only in records prescribed. In some states a mortgage covering real and personal property is sufficient if recorded as a real estate mortgage,[77] in others it is not.[78]

(§ 2) B. Deed and mortgage records. Eligibility to record.[79]—A written assignment of a mortgage is a conveyance within the meaning of the recording acts.[80] That a deed absolute on its face may be shown to be a mortgage does not authorize its recordation among mortgages.[81] A deed which conveys an easement in fee conveys an estate in land and is recordable.[82] All deeds,[83] leases[84] or con-original attempt to assess had been declared void and before the new assessment was authorized. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44.

66. Bogart v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 633.

See, also, Public Lands, 2 Curr. L. 1295.

67. That he is. Livingstone v. Murphy [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1012. See 2 Curr. L. 1058, n. 51. That he is not. Fowler v. Will [S. D.] 102 N. W. 598 [There is a dissenting opinion.]

68. Agency, 3 Curr. L. 68; Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880; Partnership, 2 Curr. L. 1106; Trusts, 2 Curr. L. 1924. See 2 Curr. L. 1055, n. 28, 29.

69. Thompson v. Stark, 25 Ky. L. R. 1882, 79 S. W. 202; West v. Wright, 121 Ga. 470, 49 S. E. 285. Knowledge of grantors will not be charged to corporation purchasing property, though the grantors are directors thereof. Schneider v. Sellers [Tex.] 84 S. W. 417.

70. Livingstone v. Murphy [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1012. See 2 Curr. L. 1057, n. 36.

71. Masterson v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 428.

72. That it does: Crumrine v. Reynolds [Wyo.] 78 P. 402; Bell v. Pleasant, 145 Cal. 410, 78 P. 957. That the other party alleges such fact does not shift the burden of proof. Id. Where one claimed under a deed from the patentee which was subsequent to the deed from the same person to another, the burden was on him to show that he was an innocent purchaser. Bogart v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 633.

That it rests upon claimant of equity: Sheldon v. Powell [Mont.] 78 P. 491; Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834. Interveners claiming community interest. Eddy v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 565. One seeking to defeat the rights of a bona fide purchaser must allege that he took title with notice. Martin v. Thomas [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 118.

Where one claimed an equitable title under the holder of a certificate on which the patent was issued which had been conveyed under void probate proceedings to the patentee, the burden was on him to prove that one holding the legal title under the patentee was not a bona fide holder. Bogart v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 633.

73. Coombs v. Barker [Mont.] 79 P. 1.

74. So held where 40 years had elapsed and all the parties to the transaction were dead. Dean v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 363. Proof that bona fide purchaser was related to common grantor is insufficient to overcome such presumption. Id.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1057.

76. Fruit contract held not recordable if pertaining to personal property. Thompson v. Stark, 25 Ky. L. R. 1882, 79 S. W. 202.

77. Laws 1897, p. 536, c. 418. Such registration held sufficient where mortgage included a leasehold interest in real estate for a term of 10 years. Westchester Trust Co. v. Kelly, 92 N. Y. S. 482.

78. Is ineffectual in so far as the chattels are concerned. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 409.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1057.

80. Weideman v. Pech, 92 N. Y. S. 493.

81. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

82. Deed granting water power privilege.

tracts to convey land,[85] must be executed, acknowledged, or in lieu of acknowledgment proved, with the proper statutory formalities.[86]

Necessity, operation and effect of recording.[87]—Contracts for the sale of standing timber,[88] the grant of a right of way,[89] and an instrument reducing the terms of payment of a mortgage,[90] must all be recorded; but a power of attorney to sell land,[91] or to release a mortgage,[92] or an executory, contingent agreement to execute a mortgage,[93] need not be.

The only purpose of recordation is to give notice,[94] failure to record not affecting the validity of the instrument as between the parties,[95] or those having knowledge thereof.[96] Unless specifically provided for by law, registration is not for the protection of creditors.[97] The decisions are conflicting as to whether record is necessary in order to make possession of a part extend to the limits of a lot or known tract described in the deed;[98] but the grantee recording the deed and entering into possession, the record is notice to the world of the extent of his possession.[99] As to the grantor, the recording of a deed starts limitations running as to any fraud in procuring the deed.[1] The record showing that a lien has been acquired upon land, it devolves upon the purchaser to ascertain whether that lien has been kept alive or lost.[2]

Sweetland v. Grants Pass New Water, Light & Power Co. [Or.] 79 P. 337.

83. In Florida foreign deed must be acknowledged or proof of its execution made before a notary public or justice of the peace having an official seal. Norris v. Billingsley [Fla.] 37 So. 564. Where an assignment of a patent and a deed signed by the grantor only contained a justice's certificate, "Witness my hand and seal," etc., such instruments are not entitled to record [Pasch. Dig. art. 5007]. Schultz v. Tonty Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 353. See 2 Curr. L. 1057, n. 38.

84. Must be acknowledged and proved. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66.

85. Under Code, § 1246, subd. 9, where all the makers of an instrument are alive, and all except one are nonresidents, such one may make the requisite proof of the handwriting of the others. Leroy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

86. Consult Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056; Acknowledgments, 3 Curr. L. 31.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1057; also, next subdivision, Sufficiency, operation and effect of record.

88. Not being recorded a subsequent purchaser without notice acquires a paramount title. Neils Lumber Co. v. Hines [Minn.] 101 N. W. 959.

89. Dahlberg v. Haeberle [N. J. Law] 59 A. 92.

90. Agreement extending time of payment and reducing rate of interest. Weideman v. Pech, 92 N. Y. S. 493.

91. Rownd v. Davidson, 113 La. 1047, 37 So. 965.

92. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712. A release of a mortgage appearing of record, executed by an attorney in fact, subsequent purchasers are bound to take notice of the extent of the terms of the power of attorney. Id.

93. Mathews v. Damainville, 91 N. Y. S. 524.

94. Kelly v. Bramblett [Ky.] 81 S. W. 249. Recorded assignment of mortgage held constructive notice that mortgagor had no right to cancel the mortgage. Higgins v. Jamesburg Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1078. A deed from a lessor not being placed on record and the lessee having no knowledge thereof, he is not in default for paying rent to the original owner. Indiana Nat. Gas & Oil Co. v. Lee [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 492. Laws 1895, c. 101, p. 224, requires the recording of a mortgage executed prior to the commencement of work to render it superior to lien claims for labor and materials. City of Ortonville v. Geer [Minn.] 101 N. W. 963.

95. Title passes. Kelly v. Bramblett [Ky.] 81 S. W. 249; Gibson v. Brown [Ill.] 73 N. E. 578. Shannon's Code, § 3749. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834. Agreement not to record does not impair validity of delivery. Tabor v. Tabor [Mich.] 99 N. W. 4. Mortgage; New York rule. Ward v. Ward, 131 F. 946.

96. See ante, § 1, as to effect of notice of unrecorded deed.

97. Ilfeld v. De Baca [N. M.] 79 P. 723. Unrecorded deed may be asserted against creditors, it not being shown that credits were induced on the basis that the grantor was the owner of the land. Hagerty v. Goodlad [Kan.] 79 P. 664.

98. In Roberson v. Downing Co., 120 Ga. 833, 48 S. E. 429, record was held unnecessary, the case being controlled by the decisions of Morrison v. Hays, 19 Ga. 296; Griffin v. Sketoe, 30 Ga. 300; and Wiley v. Warmock, 30 Ga. 701. As to whether Civ. Code 1895, § 3587 has changed the rule, quaere. The question was not involved in the principal case, as the deed there considered was made prior to the adoption of such provision.

99. Scott v. Mineral Development Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 497.

1. McDonald v. Bayard Sav. Bank, 123 Iowa, 413, 98 N. W. 1025.

2. Steel v. Katzenmeyer, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 25.

Sufficiency, operation and effect of record.[3]—The instrument must be recorded in the proper book.[4] A decree being equivalent to a conveyance, the entry thereof on the entry books of the court answers all the purposes of registration.[5] Where, as in the case of pleadings, the original paper is filed, it becomes the record.[6] A deed appearing of record, it is presumed to have been recorded by the proper party and at the proper time.[7] Slight inaccuracies in transcribing the instrument do not affect the record as constructive notice;[8] failure to copy the acknowledgment to a deed is not such a slight inaccuracy.[9] A reference to a registered grant similar in form has been held sufficient.[10] Use of the letters "L. S." on the record is a sufficient representation of a corporate seal.[11] In order to operate as constructive notice, the instrument need not be a technically perfect legal conveyance,[12] but it is generally sufficient if it states facts sufficient to put one on inquiry.[13] The record being destroyed, the instruments need not be re-recorded[14] unless such recordation is required by statute.[15]

The record is constructive notice to all subsequent purchasers[16] of those matters which are stated in the record or may be implied therefrom;[17] but the record of instruments wholly collateral to the land is ineffective.[18] In the absence of actual notice,[19] parties are entitled to rely on the record as to title and incumbrances.[20] Recorded mortgage executed by grantee in unrecorded deed is not no-

3. See preceding subdivision, Necessity, operation and effect of recording.

4. Under Civ. Code, §§ 1158, 1213, 1215, and Gen. Laws 1903, p. 157, recording a contract for a conveyance in the volume of "covenants," is constructive notice to subsequent incumbrancers. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

5. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834.

6. One cannot rely on docket or index kept by clerk. Declaration in ejectment. Armstrong v. Ashley, 22 App. D. C. 368.

7. That a deed delivered in escrow is recorded is not proof that the grantee procured it prematurely and had it recorded. Swain v. McMillan [Mont.] 76 P. 943.

8. Substitution of "T" for "F" in initials of notary public held immaterial. Roberson v. Downing Co., 120 Ga. 833, 48 S. E. 429.

9. Dean v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 363.

10. Grant was from state and described land by metes and bounds. Weeks v. Wilkins, 134 N. C. 516, 47 S. E. 24.

11. Altschul v. Casey [Or.] 76 P. 1083.

12. That description is defective in that there is no western boundary, or that "south" is termed "north," is immaterial on the question of notice. Scott v. Gordon [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 550.

13. If the description is complete enough to enable one examining it to ascertain therefrom that the land actually claimed was included therein, it is sufficient. Notice of mining claim. Mitchell v. Hutchinson, 142 Cal. 404, 76 P. 55. The record of a deed absolute, or of a mortgage which did not state the amount or other particulars of the debt, which, on its face, it purported to secure, held sufficient. Equitable Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. King [Fla.] 37 So. 181.

14. The record of a deed to wild and vacant land being destroyed by fire, the grantee's rights are not affected by a judgment or sale of the land in a suit against his grantor. Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 341.

15. Deed must be re-recorded within four years (Rev. St. 1895, art. 4640), or it is not constructive notice. Greer v. Willis [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1185.

16. Recorded deed granting easement in fee held notice to subsequent grantees of servient estate. Sweetland v. Grants Pass New Water, Light & Power Co. [Or.] 79 P. 337. Recorded party wall agreement held constructive notice to purchasers of real estate affected thereby. Loyal Mystic Legion v. Jones [Neb.] 102 N. W. 621. See 2 Curr. L. 1058, n. 48.

17. Mortgage in form of absolute deed will, as to subsequent bona fide mortgagees, be treated as a deed. Payne v. Morey, 144 Cal. 130, 77 P. 831. A deed conveying the unsold portion of a tract of land and attempting to specify the part sold, but by mistake omitting a tract which had been conveyed by an unrecorded deed, held, a purchaser was not charged with notice of the latter conveyance. Pierson v. McClintock [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 706. That a husband releases his curtesy in the land described in a mortgage by his wife is not notice that he has agreed to convey his own interest in the fee if it should turn out that his wife is not the owner. Livingstone v. Murphy [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1012. Record showing that notes which trust deed were given to secure had not matured is insufficient to charge a subsequent lienholder in good faith with notice that the trust deed had been improperly discharged. Havighorst v. Bowen [Ill.] 73 N. E. 402. See 2 Curr. L. 1058, n. 49, 50.

18. Record of personal, executory contract held not notice to subsequent purchaser of realty. Houston v. Zahm, 44 Or. 610, 76 P. 641.

19. Masterson v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 428. And see, also, ante, § 1.

20. Rev. St. c. 127, § 4. McCusker v.

tice to subsequent purchaser of holder of record title.[21] In the absence of notice, a recorded instrument has preference over an unrecorded one,[22] and both being recorded, priority generally dates from date of record;[23] hence, in this regard, registration has no retroactive effect.[24] While the record of a void instrument is ineffective,[25] the record of an instrument ineligible to record is admissible, with other circumstances, to show the existence of such an instrument.[26] The record is conclusive upon collateral attack,[27] and one alleging facts contrary to those shown by the record must prove the same by clear and convincing proof.[28]

Recording officers and administration of the acts.[29]—A register of deeds is liable on his bond for failure to correctly register a conveyance, although his negligence is not willful, nor so gross as to imply willfulness,[30] and the cause of action accrues not when the mistake is made, but when the vendee is deprived of the property.[31]

(§ 2) C. Wills and their probate and administration proceedings.[32]—Since courts of probate are generally courts of record,[33] or, if not, the probate of the will being an official record,[34] such record constitutes constructive notice. In some states statutes provide for the registration of foreign wills or probate proceedings.[35]

(§ 2) D. Chattel mortgages, conditional sales, and other liens.[36]—In most states chattel mortgages,[37] conditional sales,[38] and other liens,[39] are void as against creditors and subsequent creditors or mortgagees in good faith, unless filed or recorded or accompanied by a visible and continuing change of possession.

§ 3. Registration and certification of land titles under the Torrens System.[40] —The object of the system is to determine the status of the title and thereby facili-

Goode, 185 Mass. 607, 71 N. E. 76. Title of assignor. Syracuse Sav. Bank v. Merrick, 96 App. Div. 581, 89 N. Y. S. 238. The record owner being a party defendant, the purchaser at a tax sale acquires title as against the holder of an unrecorded deed. Lucas v. Current River Land & Cattle Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 359. On foreclosure by senior mortgage, the latter is not obliged to ascertain whether or not there is an outstanding, unrecorded assignment of junior mortgage. Pinney v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Ohio] 72 N. E. 884. Plaintiff having bought a note secured by a trust deed, after maturity and for an inadequate price, he is not entitled to foreclose the deed against a bona fide lienholder who assumed his position on a discharge of the deed on the record. Havighorst v. Bowen [Ill.] 73 N. E. 402.

Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 95, §§ 8, 9, as against a subsequent bona fide lienholder, it is immaterial that the grantor of a trust deed did not know that it was discharged of record. Havighorst v. Bowen [Ill.] 73 N. E. 402.

21. Booker v. Booker, 208 Ill. 529, 70 N. E. 709.

22. Shannon's Code, § 3760. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834.

23. Atlantic City v. New Auditorium Pier Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 168. Second mortgage given priority over first. O'Brien v. Fleckenstein [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 30. Under Shannon's Code, § 3749, as to third parties without notice, deed is effective only from the date of registration. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834.

24. Wilkins v. McCorkle [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 834; Armstrong v. Ashley, 22 App. D. C. 368.

25. Record of fruit contract. Thompson v. Stark, 25 Ky. L. R. 1882, 79 S. W. 202. Where acknowledgment to deed of trust was void. Lance v. Tainter [N. C.] 49 S. E. 211.

26. Deed was not properly acknowledged and proved. Schultz v. Tonty Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 353. Such record and the fact that the grantee paid taxes for two years held insufficient to show title in such grantee. Id.

27. As to execution of deed of married woman. Godsey v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 386.

28. Swain v. McMillan [Mont.] 76 P. 943.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1059.

30. Shannon's Code, §§ 559, 562, 566, 567, 570, 3748, 3752, 4494. State v. McClellan [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 267.

31. State v. McClellan [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 267.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1059.

33. See Estates of Decedents, 3 Curr. L. 1238.

34, 35. See Estates of Decedents, 3 Curr. L. 1238; Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1059.

37. See Chattel Mortgages, 3 Curr. L. 682.

38. See Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1527.

39. See Attorneys and Counselors, 3 Curr. L. 376; Mechanics' Liens, 4 Curr. L. 615; Vendors and Purchasers, 2 Curr. L. 1976; Agister Liens (see Animals, 3 Curr. L. 159); Logging Liens (see Forestry and Timber, 3 Curr. L. 1468); Crop Liens (see Agriculture, 3 Curr. L. 137, and Landlord and Tenant, 4 Curr. L. 389); Maritime Liens (see Shipping and Water Traffic, 2 Curr. L. 1648).

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1061.

tate its transfer.[41] While the court may determine and decree the existence of mechanics' liens, it cannot order the foreclosure thereof.[42] Possession has been held sufficient to prove a title that might be registered.[43] The applicant is not required to establish the invalidity of opposing claims to the title.[44] All persons claiming an interest are proper parties,[45] and may appeal from an adverse decision.[46] The same rules apply with reference to the mode of preserving for review the rulings as to objections and exceptions presented to the report of the examiner of titles as are applicable to the review of objections and exceptions to the reports of masters in chancery.[47] Such an objection is in the nature of a special demurrer, and must point out the grounds of objection with such clearness and certainty as to call the attention of the court to the particular alleged error which it is desired to have reviewed.[48] The general rules as to what constitutes a proper foundation for the admission of documents apply.[49]

41. "The object and purpose of the Torrens System is to provide a speedy and summary method of determining rights and interests in real property, and to authorize the court, in proceedings thereunder, to hear and determine all controversies respecting the title, and by proper decree to definitely fix, establish and declare the title, rights and interests of all interested parties." Reed v. Siddall [Minn.] 102 N. W. 453.

NOTE. Method of registration under Torrens System: "In order that land may be registered under the statute, and the initial certificate of title obtained, the following mode of procedure is usually prescribed: The person or persons claiming the ownership of the land in fee simply file an application, addressed to the court having jurisdiction under the statute, describing the land, setting forth any estates, interests, or liens outstanding in other persons, so far as known to the petitioner, the name of the occupant, and the names of owners of adjoining land. Upon the filing of the application it is referred to one or more official examiners of title, who, after making a proper examination, report to the court. Any persons who appear to be interested in the land are made parties, and the statute provides for the sending of notices to such persons, and also for the publication of a notice in a newspaper for a prescribed period. If the examiner approves the title, and no adverse claims are presented, or if those presented do not appear meritorious, the court confirms the applicant's title, and directs the person having charge of the registration office, known usually as the registrar, to issue to the applicant a certificate of title. This certificate states that the applicant has a fee-simple title (or otherwise, as the case may be), and also there are noted on the certificate any outstanding interests, trusts, or incumbrances in other persons which are recognized by the decree of the court. This certificate is made out in duplicate; one copy being issued to the applicant and one copy being retained in the registration office, where it is inserted in a book called the 'register' or 'registration book.' No person other than the owner in fee simple can, under the acts adopted in this country, obtain the registration of the title, but the existence of lesser estates in other persons does not affect such owner's right to registration, the rights of the owners of lesser estates being protected by statements upon the certificate issued to the owner in fee simple. The proceeding by which the title is registered is, by the terms of the statute, absolutely conclusive upon all persons, either immediately upon the rendition of the decree, or within a short period thereafter. The proceeding is thus in effect one to quiet title. The constitutionality of such legislation, in so far as it makes the decree binding upon persons interested in the land, who receive notice of the proceeding merely by publication, has been vigorously questioned, on the ground that it deprives such persons of property without due process of law; but it has been upheld in at least three states. Tyler v. Judges of Court of Registration, 175 Mass. 71; People v. Simon, 176 Ill. 165, 68 Am. St. Rep. 175; State v. Westfall [Minn.] 89 N. W. 175. See note to latter case in 54 Cent. Law J. 293."—From 2 Tiffany on Real Property, § 489, pp. 1102, 1103.

42. Reed v. Siddall [Minn.] 102 N. W. 453. Filing of an answer by the lien claimant is not equivalent to the commencement of an action to foreclose. Id.

43. Actual possession and payment of taxes for ten years. Glos v. Mickow, 211 Ill. 117, 71 N. E. 830.

44. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 222, 72 N. E. 1; Glos v. Talcott, 213 Ill. 81, 72 N. E. 707. The burden of proof is upon the party asserting a mechanic's lien to prove that at the time of the trial, in the proceedings under the Torrens System, the lien was a valid and existing one. Reed v. Siddall [Minn.] 102 N. W. 453.

45. Commonwealth is a proper party to proceedings to register title to land over which there is claimed to be a public landing place. McQuesten v. Attorney General [Mass.] 72 N. E. 965.

46. Commonwealth may appeal. McQuesten v. Attorney General [Mass.] 72 N. E. 965. And the existence of a public landing place being claimed by both the commonwealth and a town, the appeal is not invalid because the attorneys who represented the attorney general in taking the appeal were also acting for the town. Id.

47. Objections to the admission of evidence must be incorporated in the exceptions to the report and renewed in the trial court. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 222, 72 N. E. 1.

48. An exception that the examiner erred in finding that plaintiff was seized in fee of NOTICES, see latest topical index.

NOVATION.

Definition and elements.[50]—A novation is the substitution of a new obligation for an old one, which is thereby extinguished.[51] The requisites of a novation are a valid prior obligation to be displaced, consent of all parties to the substitution, a sufficient consideration, the extinction of the old obligation, and the creation of a valid new one.[52] The substitution may be in the debt[53] or contract;[54] in the debtor[55] or in the creditor.[56] In any case it must be consented to by all the parties,[57] and there must be a sufficient consideration. The discharge of the original obligation[58] or the substitution of a new party[59] is a sufficient consideration. The the land is insufficient to raise an objection that the examiner erred in admitting certain secondary evidence without a sufficient foundation having been first laid therefor. Glos v. Hoban, 212 Ill. 222, 72 N. E. 1. Objections to the erroneous admission of certain abstracts in evidence held properly preserved by objections and exceptions to the examiner's report. Glos v. Talcott, 213 Ill. 81, 72 N. E. 707.

49. Abstracts of title held inadmissible in the absence of preliminary proof that the original conveyances abstracted were lost or destroyed, or that it was not in the power of petitioner to produce them, or that the abstracts had been made in the ordinary course of business, as required by Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 30, § 36, and c. 116, §§ 23, 24. Glos v. Talcott, 213 Ill. 81, 72 N. E. 707.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1061.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1061. Cyc. Law Dict. 637.

NOTE. Accord and satisfaction and novation distinguished: In an exhaustive note on Accord and Satisfaction, appended to the case of Harrison v. Henderson [67 Kan. 194. 72 P. 875] in 100 Am. St. Rep. 393—after citing McDonnell v. Alabama Gold Life Ins. Co., 85 Ala. 414, 5 So. 120; Parsons. Contracts, 217; Butterfield v. Hartshorn, 7 N. H. 345, 26 Am. Dec. 741; Bonnemer v. Negrete, 16 La. 474, 35 Am. Dec. 217; Netterstrom v. Gallistrel, 110 Ill. App. 352—to a definition of novation substantially as given in the text, it is said: "It will be seen that an accord and satisfaction, when it consists in the substitution of a new contract for the old one and the substituted contract is accepted, without performance as a satisfaction of the old contract, is a novation. Allison v. Ahenroth, 108 N. Y. 472, 15 N. E. 606. Some of the courts treat such a novation as an accord and satisfaction, while others draw a distinction by holding that an execution of the terms of the accord is necessary in order to constitute the transaction an accord and satisfaction." See article Accord and Satisfaction, 3 Curr. L. 17.

52. Piehl v. Piehl [Mich.] 101 N. W. 628. The essentials of novation are the displacement and extinction of the prior contract, the substitution of a new contract, a sufficient consideration therefor, and the consent of the parties thereto. Wright v. Hanna [Pa.] 59 A. 1097.

53. Gerlaugh v. Riley, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 107.

54. The novation may be by rescission of an executory contract and substitution of a new contract therefor; evidence held to show a rescission and novation and not an accord and satisfaction. Bandman v. Finn, 43 Misc. 516, 89 N. Y. S. 504.

55. The payor of a note gave the payee an order on a third person, payor's debtor, for payment of the amount of the note, and the payee presented the order and received from the third person notes for the amount. Held, novation resulted, and obligation on first note extinguished. Held v. Caldwell-Easton Co., 97 App. Div. 301, 89 N. Y. S. 954. A person owing a company $750 gave a check for $900 to the company's agent, taking the agent's personal check for $150. The agent stated he had settled and the company credited him with $150. The agent's check was not honored. Held, no implied release of the company and acceptance of its agent for the $150 obligation. Rines v. New York & B. Brew. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 362. A creditor who collects a portion of his claim from a third person who, after the debt is contracted, agrees with the debtor to pay it, does not thereby discharge the debtor, or become estopped from collecting the balance from a surety or guarantor. Anglo-American Land, Mortg. & Agency Co. v. Lombard [C. C. A.] 132 F. 721.

56. Defendant drew checks on a bank, indebted to him, by agreement with the bank, and delivered the checks to plaintiffs for a loan which he had agreed to make them. Plaintiffs deposited the checks but the bank became insolvent before demand for payment was made. Held, defendant was not liable for the amount of the loan, but plaintiffs must look to the bank; and plaintiffs were not entitled to a cancellation of the securities. Hubbard v. Pettey [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 509.

57. Gerlaugh v. Riley, 2 Ohio N. P. [N. S.] 107. To constitute a novation by substitution of a new debtor, the creditor must have accepted the discharge of the old debtor and consented to the substitution of the new one. Piehl v. Piehl [Mich.] 101 N. W. 628.

58. This must be agreed to by the original creditor, original debtor, and the new debtor. Gerlaugh v. Riley, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 107.

59. The substitution of a new party for an old one to an existing contract is in itself a sufficient consideration for the contract of substitution. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 93 App. Div. 593, 87 N. Y. S. 811.

agreement being conditional, no novation results until the conditions have been performed.[60] Whether there was a novation may be a question of fact.[61]

Legal effect of novation.[62]—By a substitution of debtors, the old debtor is released and the new debtor becomes liable.[63]

NUISANCE.

§ 1. Distinction Between Private and Public Nuisance (839).
§ 2. What Constitutes a Nuisance (839).
§ 3. Right to Maintain; Defenses (843).
§ 4. Remedies Against Nuisances (844).
A. Abatement and Injunction (844). Injunction (845). Parties (847). Pleading, Evidence, and Defenses (847). Judgment or Decree (848).
B. Criminal Prosecution (849).
C. Action for Damages (849). Evidence (851). Damages (852).
D. Rights of Private Persons in Regard to Public Nuisances (852).

§ 1. Distinction between private and public nuisance.[64]—Public nuisances are those resulting from the violation of public rights and producing no special injury to one more than another of the people.[65] Private nuisances are those resulting from the violation of private rights, producing damages to but one or a few persons.[66] Mixed nuisances are those which are public in their nature, but produce a special and particular injury to private individuals.[67]

§ 2. What constitutes a nuisance.[68]—A nuisance is an unreasonable, unwarrantable or unlawful use of one's own property to the annoyance, inconvenience, discomfort or damage of another.[69] The acts complained of must in some manner

60. Where a legatee took renewal notes for notes due a decedent, the original notes being conditional, and had his name substituted for that of decedent, there was no novation. Wright v. Hanna [Pa.] 59 A. 1097. Plaintiff was indebted to a company and he and a third person were jointly indebted to the same company for money borrowed on a building. It was agreed that plaintiff should convey his interest in the building to the third person, who was to assume the debt on the building and also plaintiff's individual debt, after the building was sold, the company thereupon to release its securities. Held, plaintiff was not released from liability, the third party having defaulted. Ellis v. Conrad Seipp Brew. Co., 207 Ill. 291, 69 N. E. 808.

61. Evidence held to justify submission to jury of question whether a contract was made substituting a third party for one of the parties to an existing contract. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 93 App. Div. 593, 87 N. Y. S. 811.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1062.

63. Owner of land employed plaintiff to obtain a purchaser, which plaintiff did. Owner then agreed to accept plaintiff's note for the amount of his commission as a payment on the land, and the purchaser, defendant, agreed to repay plaintiff the amount at a certain date. Held, purchaser liable for the amount of the commission. Curry v. Whitmore [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1131. This liability was not affected by the fact that the first contract of sale was not carried out, but a deed was finally given under another contract at a less price. Id.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1062.

65. Indictment for operating rendering establishment held to show public nuisance. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037. One which affects equally the rights of an entire community or neighborhood, although the extent of the damage may be unequal. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 3804. All others are private. Id. § 3087. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055. A nuisance is public if it annoys such part of the public as necessarily comes in contact with it. State v. Tabler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1039.

66. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037. The act of a city in emptying sewerage into a stream, thereby damaging the property of one outside the city limits creates a private, and not a public, nuisance. Matheny v. Aiken, 68 S. C. 163, 47 S. E. 56.

67. Rendering establishment. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1062.

69. Pritchard v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225, aff'd. 72 N. E. 243; American Ice Co. v. Catskill Cement Co., 43 Misc. 221, 88 N. Y. S. 455. Anything which is injurious to health or offensive to the senses or an obstruction to the free use of property so as to interfere with the enjoyment of life or property [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 731]. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7. Anything that worketh hurt, injury, or damage to another [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3861]. Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.] 49 S. E. 746. Anything which is so injurious to health, or indecent or offensive to the senses, or so obstructs the free use of property as to essentially interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property [Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 290]. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037. Anything that worketh hurt, inconvenience or damage to another or his property. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781. Anything obstructing the free use of property, so as to interfere with its comfortable enjoyment, have injured or annoyed others in the enjoyment of their legal rights,[70] and the inconvenience must not be fanciful, or such as would affect only one of fastidious taste, but must be such as would affect an ordinarily reasonable man.[71] The legislature has power to declare what is and shall be a public nuisance,[72] and the fact that the things declared to be such were not nuisances per se at common law is immaterial.[73] It has, however, no power to declare that to be a nuisance which is clearly not so.[74] Thus dead animals are not nuisances per se, and cannot be made so by legislative enactment.[75]

The obstruction of navigable waters,[76] the pollution of streams,[77] causing overflow of waters,[78] collecting stagnant water,[79] keeping a gaming,[80] or bawdy house,[81]

is a nuisance, entitling anyone whose property is injuriously affected thereby to an injunction and damages [Utah Rev. St. 1898, § 3506]. Stockdale v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 849.

70. Veraguth v. Denver [Colo. App.] 76 P. 539. So long as a building owned and maintained by a town for a lock-up is not injurious, offensive or dangerous to any property or person, except such as enter within, willingly or unwillingly, not being compelled or invited by the town, it is not a nuisance, nor is the town liable therefor in an action of nuisance. Town not liable to prisoner, placed therein by constable, for injury to his health on account of its foul condition. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

71. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3861. Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.] 49 S. E. 746. As melancholy thoughts arising from proximity of cemetery. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56.

72, 73. State v. Tower [Mo.] 84 S. W. 10.

74. Has large discretion in the matter. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505. Property not immediately dangerous or offensive cannot be treated as a nuisance per se. City of Richmond v. Caruthers [Va.] 50 S. E. 265.

75. City of Richmond v. Caruthers [Va.] 50 S. E. 265. A municipality may require their owners to make such use or disposition of the carcasses as will prevent a nuisance, stench, or other inconvenience to the neighborhood, but cannot deprive them of their property rights therein immediately upon the death of the animals, irrespective of whether they are then a nuisance or not. Id. Ordinance vesting property in carcass of dead domestic animal in public contractor immediately upon its death, and before it becomes offensive, is void as depriving owner of property without due process of law. Id.

76. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461; State v. Charleston Light & Water Co., 68 S. C. 540, 47 S. E. 979. Obstruction in ocean below ordinary high water mark and in front of plaintiff's property, interfering with his right of access to ocean. San Francisco Sav. Union v. R. G. R. Petroleum & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 134, 77 P. 823.

Held nuisances: Obstructions of water courses not made according to law [Missouri Rev. St. 1899, § 8752]. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. Dam across river without canal and locks. State v. Dundee Water Power & Land Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1094. Placing of pound nets in navigable stream so as to interfere with navigation at certain times. Reyburn v. Sawyer, 135 N. C. 328, 47 S. E. 761.

Held not nuisances: Temporary obstruction of navigable stream while remodeling lock in dam. State v. Charleston Light & Water Co., 68 S. C. 540, 47 S. E. 979. Water pipe authorized by state and Secretary of War. Maine Water Co. v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co. [Me.] 59 A. 953.

77. The unreasonable use of a stream in such a manner as to produce a condition actually destructive of physical comfort or health, or a tangible, visible injury to property. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854. Reasonableness depends upon the circumstances of each particular case. Id.

Held nuisances: Pollution of stream by refuse mineral matter [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 731]. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill. & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7. By refuse from creamery. Perry v. Howe Co-op. Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150; Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854. By discharge of chemicals, etc., from paper factories. Forbidden by Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 2154. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879. Use of water so as to deposit sand and mining debris on land of lower riparian owner so as to render it valueless, both at common law and under Montana Civ. Code, § 4550. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254. By sewerage. Matheny v. Aiken, 68 S. C. 163, 47 S. E. 56.

Held not nuisance: Discharge of creamery refuse into cesspool and from there into stream through filtered drain, though creamery odor could be noticed when standing in path of wind. Perry v. Howe Co-op. Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150.

78. To wrongfully cause waters to flow upon plaintiff's lands by diverting them from their natural course creates a nuisance per se. Allen v. Stowell, 145 Cal. 666, 79 P. 371. Defendants cannot justify acts on ground that they were trying to obviate mistakes of railroad company in locating culverts, where dams did not restore natural conditions. Id. Negligently allowing water to escape from ditch. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594. Causing overflow by constructing railway across drainage ditch without providing sufficient passageway for water. Complaint sufficient. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Greb [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 620. By means of dams, and by depositing refuse sand in creek. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625. By discharging water from sewers into creek. O'Donnell v. Syracuse, 102 App. Div. 80, 92 N. Y. S. 555. By erection of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors,[82] the discharge of soot, cinders, smoke, and dust,[83] or noxious odors,[84] noise and vibration,[85] obstructing or rendering unsafe dam. Van Veghten v. Hudson River Power Transmission Co., 92 N. Y. S. 956.

79. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 860. Where it is necessary, in the natural use of a mill pond, to draw off the water, persons moving into its vicinity after its establishment cannot have injunction against its use, or recover damages because of resulting bad odors. De Witt v. Bissell [Conn.] 60 A. 113. Evidence as to health of neighborhood excluded as too remote. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594. Allowing water to collect around ties placed on railroad right of way, causing noxious odors, resulting in sickness. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329. Abandoned well giving off noxious vapors. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Glenn [Tex.] 80 S. W. 992.

For liability of municipal corporations for nuisances arising from stagnant water, see note to Johnson v. White [R. I.] 65 L. R. A. 280.

80. Public nuisance at common law. Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 275. Cigar store in which slot machine is used, under Me. Rev. St. 1903, c. 22, § 1. Lang v. Merwin [Me.] 59 A. 1021.

See, also, Betting and Gaming, § 1, 3 Curr. L. 500.

81. Public nuisance. Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92, 76 P. 513. Change in construction of cribs no defense unless it does away entirely with injury. Id.

See, also, Disorderly Houses, 3 Curr. L. 1111.

82. Walker v. McNeily, 121 Ga. 114, 48 S. E. 718. A place where intoxicating liquors are sold is not, in the absence of statute, a nuisance per se. State v. Tabler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1039. Mere erection of screens and other devices in "blind tiger" held not nuisance as matter of law, no matter what motive for erection and maintenance may be. Id.

For a full discussion of cases arising under statutes making such places nuisances, see Intoxicating Liquors, § 8, 4 Curr. L. 277. See, also, State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58; Jasper County v. Sparham [Iowa] 101 N. W. 134; State v. Durein [Kan.] 78 P. 152; State v. Bush [Kan.] 79 P. 657; City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

83. Persons living in a manufacturing city or within its sphere of usefulness do so of choice, and therefore voluntarily submit themselves to its peculiarities and discomforts. Sullivan v. Jones & L. Steel Co., 208 Pa. 540, 57 A. 1065. One living near factories, etc. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854. A manufacturer has the right to the use and enjoyment of his own property, but must so use it as not to injure the property of others. Sullivan v. Jones & L. Steel Co., 208 Pa. 540, 57 A. 1065. But a manufacturing company has no right to so rebuild and operate its furnaces as to actually destroy homes and other property in a residence portion of the city. Id.

Held nuisances: Employment by owner of ginning plant of machinery separating dust and sand from cotton and expelling it into air so that it is blown into dwelling of adjoining owner, to his discomfort and injury. Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.] 49 S. E. 746. Blowing sawdust from mill on plaintiff's lot. Mahan v. Doggett [Ky.] 84 S. W. 525. Operation of electric light plant so as to discharge soot and cinders on plaintiff's hotel. Pritchard v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co. [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 243, afg., 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225. Operation of cement factory so as to throw cinders, ashes, coal dust and other substances on ice in river appropriated by plaintiff under statute. American Ice Co. v. Catskill Cement Co., 43 Misc. 221, 88 N. Y. S. 455. Operation of iron works so as to jar plaintiff's house and to cause same to be invaded by smoke, fumes and soot. Friedman v. Columbia Mach. Works & Malleable Iron Co., 99 App. Div. 504, 91 N. Y. S. 129. Poisonous smoke and gas from roast piles and furnaces of copper reduction plants. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

By statute in Missouri (Laws 1901, pp. 73, 74), the emission or discharge into the open air of dense smoke in cities of 100,000 is a public nuisance. State v. Tower [Mo.] 84 S. W. 10. Law applies to cities having more than the specified number of inhabitants (Id.), and is not unconstitutional as invading the judicial power (Id.), or as class legislation (Const. 1875, art. 4, § 53), or as making an unreasonable classification (Id.), or because it omits steamboats and locomotives (Id.), or because it allows defendant to show that there is no practical device by which emission of smoke can be prevented (Id.), or because it contains no provision that the smoke must injure the property, or affect the health, or interfere with the comfort of citizens in neighborhood (Id.).

Operation of railroads held nuisances: Operation of switch track over private property in city, resulting in shaking of ground, and smoke and noise in close proximity to neighboring premises. Stockdale v. Rio Grande W. R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 849. The use of realty by a railroad company for private purposes in such a manner as to injuriously affect adjoining property, as for yard purposes. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781. Conveyances held not to grant right to maintain yards. Id.

Not nuisances: Erection and maintenance of railroad yards, roundhouses, shops, etc., not actionable nuisance unless right is exercised in unreasonable manner, to hurt and inconvenience of another. Rainey v. Red River, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 95. One cannot enjoin their maintenance, though injured by smoke and noise, even though he might maintain action for damages. Id. Switch track in public street, which is part of general railway system and is not designed for use of any particular person, though from its location only a limited number will have occasion to use it, is not a public nuisance. Stockdale v. Rio Grande W. R. Co. [Utah] 77 P. 849. Noises and smoke of steam railroads. Protected by authority creating company and legal-a public highway,[86] public disorder,[87] blasting,[88] and noxious weeds,[89] have been held to be nuisances.

izing its operations. Bennett v. Long Island R. Co., 89 App. Div. 379, 85 N. Y. S. 938. Construction of incline on defendant's own property held within general powers conferred on it, and to be damnum absque injuria. Id. Damages to residence property from the operation of railway terminals is damnum absque injuria when due care is taken in the management thereof. Ross v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 565.

A railroad company has the right to run its engines with either hard or soft coal, so long as reasonable care is used, and no unnecessary damage is caused. Jersey City v. Abercrombie [N. J. Law] 58 A. 73. And an ordinance providing a penalty for allowing smoke to escape or be discharged therefrom as the result of using soft coal is unreasonable and void. Id.

84. Placing of soap stock on lot adjoining plaintiff's. Fairbank Co. v. Bahre [Ill.] 73 N. E. 322.

Slaughter house. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037. Complaint held to sufficiently allege that noxious odors came into plaintiff's premises. Fairbank Co. v. Bahre [Ill.] 73 N. E. 322. Evidence held to show operation in such a manner as to become offensive. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055. A melting and rendering establishment, carried on without a license, in which horses were not killed, nor horses or other animals rendered, in a city having a health board, which had not made any order applicable to the case, is not a nuisance and the supreme judicial court cannot take jurisdiction of a bill to have it restrained. Construing Rev. Laws, c. 75, §§ 108, 111. City of Cambridge v. Dow Co., 185 Mass. 448, 70 N. E. 447.

Under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. § 2154, providing for punishment of anyone maintaining building for exercise of any business, or for keeping any animal, which becomes injurious to health, comfort, or property by reason of offensive smell. Lipschitz v. State, 33 Ind. App. 648, 72 N. E. 145. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 3085, it is a public nuisance to erect, continue, or use any building or other place for the exercise of any trade, employment, or manufacture, which by occasioning noxious exhalations, offensive smells, or otherwise, is offensive or dangerous to the health of individuals, or of the public. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055. A railroad company has no right to erect upon its right of way stock pens or other improvements which in themselves would constitute a nuisance to persons residing in proximity thereto. Missouri, etc., R. v. Mott [Tex.] 81 S. W. 285. Conveyances held not to give such right. Id.

Not nuisance: Erection of wooden structure not in itself noxious or unusually dangerous, though in violation of city ordinance, not a nuisance because cuts off light and air from plaintiff's premises, and renders space so narrow that atmosphere is noxious and unhealthy. Hagerty v. McGovern [Mass.] 73 N. E. 536.

85. City ordinance forbidding owner of stable to keep therein "any dog or other animal which shall by noise disturb the quiet or repose of any person therein, or in the vicinity, to the detriment of the life or health of any human being," does not apply to horses. N. Y. City Sanitary Code, § 195. Cannot be convicted thereunder because of stamping of horses. People v. Edelstein, 91 App. Div. 447, 86 N. Y. S. 861.

86. Hall v. Breyfogle, 162 Ind. 494, 70 N. E. 883. Allowing trains to stand at street intersections. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831. City ordinance allowing them to stand thirty minutes unreasonable. Id. Any act done to a highway by an individual which detracts from the safety of travelers. Young v. Trapp [Ky.] 82 S. W. 429. Rendering public highway unsafe by permitting brick, mortar, and other debris to fall upon it from a wall immediately contiguous, without safeguarding by barricades or otherwise. Id. Maintenance of weak, warped, and rotten eaves trough 20 feet above sidewalk and projecting over it. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp. [R. I.] 59 A. 855. Condition of trough proximate cause of injury where snow and ice slid into it and it fell upon plaintiff. Id. Blocking approaches to siding with teams, so as to obstruct traffic, taking possession of cars intended for other shippers, and dumping of coal at siding and station so as to suspend freight business. Robinson v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 753.

Not nuisances: Slight obstruction to alley, over which city had right of way only, by structure above it connecting houses. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49. One giving exhibition of fireworks in public park under contract with city not guilty of nuisance per se, so as to render him liable for injuries to spectator in street irrespective of negligence. Crowley v. Rochester Fireworks Co., 95 App. Div. 13, 88 N. Y. S. 483.

87. Collecting a crowd on grounds by means of Sunday ball games to annoyance of neighbors (Seastream v. New Jersey Exhibition Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 532), and collecting crowd outside grounds (Id.). Adjoining owners not estopped to complain by reason of fact that they have not attempted to prevent free ball games played on grounds before their enclosure. Id. Collection of obscene and profane crowd by means of "blind tiger." State v. Tabler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1039.

88. Continuous blasting on city lots at least prima facie evidence of nuisance. Longtin v. Persell [Mont.] 76 P. 699. Operation of quarry so that house is shaken and dirt and rocks thrown into yard by blasting. Schaub v. Perkinson Bros. Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1094.

89. Minn. Laws 1895, p. 653, c. 273, providing for destruction of wild mustard, etc., is reasonable exercise of police power. State v. Boehm, 92 Minn. 374, 100 N. W. 95. Act does not violate constitutional provision that no act shall embrace more than one

The fact that a business or trade impairs the value of adjoining property does not make it a nuisance unless it results in actual physical discomfort, or a tangible, visible injury to the property itself.[90] The character of the locality in which the property is situated in reference to its location and the use to which neighboring property is put may be considered.[91] An ashpit on private enclosed ground, dangerous only to the occupants of the premises,[92] and an unsafe ceiling in an apartment house leased to plaintiff by defendant and in his exclusive possession, are not nuisances.[93] Neither is the construction and maintenance of an automobile station on a boulevard.[94]

A municipal corporation is liable for injuries resulting from permitting dangerous obstructions or nuisances in the public streets.[95]

Acts not nuisances per se may become so by reason of the manner or place of their commission.[96] So too a structure not a nuisance in itself may become such on account of its location and use,[97] the question usually being one of fact.[98] The question whether a given state of facts, if found to exist by a jury, constitute a nuisance, is ordinarily one of law for the court, or at least one of mixed law and fact.[99] subject, which shall be embraced in its title. Id. Complaint held to state public offense. Id.

§ 3. Right to maintain; defenses.[1]—The fact that a business is a lawful one,[2]

90. Perry v. Howe Co-operative Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150. Mere proximity of cemetery and consequent depreciation of property. Instructions erroneous. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56.

91. Pritchard v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225, afd. 72 N. E. 243.

92. Not nuisance within meaning of city charter, so as to permit child of one of occupants to recover from city for injuries sustained by falling into it. Veraguth v. Denver [Colo. App.] 76 P. 539.

93. Kushes v. Ginsburg, 99 App. Div. 417, 91 N. Y. S. 216.

94. At Rockaway Beach. Stein v. Lyon, 91 App. Div. 593, 87 N. Y. S. 125.

95. Exhibition of fireworks. Landau v. New York [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 631. The board of aldermen have no more right to authorize or permit a nuisance than to create one, and in case they do either, city is liable for injuries directly resulting therefrom. Where resolution suspending operation of ordinance prohibiting fireworks was in substance a license or permit for exhibition, city liable for resulting injuries. Id.

96. Fireworks in certain public streets. Exhibition in street in New York in presence of large number of people held properly found to be nuisance as matter of fact, and city held liable for resulting injuries. Landau v. New York [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 631. Smoke. State v. Tower [Mo.] 84 S. W. 10. Blowing of factory whistles. Redd v. Edna Cotton Mills, 136 N. C. 342, 48 S. E. 761.

97. Cemetery. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56. Stable. Gallagher v. Flury [Md.] 57 A. 672. It will not be presumed that a stable will be neglected and filth allowed to accumulate. Id. The proximity of dwellings to disagreeable or objectionable structures is an inevitable incident of life in cities and towns. Id. Neither increased danger of fire, nor increased insurance rates, nor depreciation of property by the erection of a neighboring lawful building, is ground for relief by injunction. Id. The erection and maintenance of a building authorized by law is not a nuisance per se. If right to locate pest house in particular place is absolute, it is not a nuisance per se. Anable v. Montgomery County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 272. A board of health pleading statutory sanction in justification of an act which, under the general rules of law, constitutes a nuisance to private property, must show either that the act is expressly authorized by statute, or that it is plainly and necessarily implied from the powers expressly conferred. Pest house. Id. Where the statute is permissive, and leaves it to the persons empowered to determine whether the general powers committed to them shall be put into execution or not, such discretion must be exercised in strict conformity to private rights, and the statute does not give them a license to commit nuisance in any place they may select for the purpose. Complaint in action for damages for maintenance of pest house near plaintiff's premises held not subject to demurrer. Id. One having an easement for an irrigation ditch across the land of another has no right to so use or operate it as to render it a nuisance. Board of Regents of State Agricultural College v. Hutchinson [Or.] 78 P. 1028.

98. Landau v. New York [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 631. Whether bridge piers are a nuisance is a question of fact. Evidence held not to show nuisance. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461.

99. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1064.

2. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781; Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 3861. Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.]

or that it is properly and carefully conducted,[3] or is a source of benefit and profit to the community,[4] or to defendant,[5] or that it is located in a convenient place,[6] or that it was established before plaintiff purchased his property, is no defense if it is in fact a nuisance.[7] Neither is the fact that plaintiff's property is of insignificant value to him as compared with the benefits accruing to defendant from the acts complained of,[8] nor the existence of other similar nuisances at the same place, where it appears that defendant has sensibly contributed to the injury complained of,[9] nor the fact that the nuisance is not continual and the injury is only occasional, where it is the result of negligence and carelessness;[10] nor is the fact that the maintenance of a public nuisance is tolerated by the municipal authorities a defense to an action therefor by one specially injured thereby.[11]

§ 4. Remedies against nuisances. A. Abatement and injunction.[12] Abatement.[13]—A public nuisance may always be abated,[14] and if such abatement is beneficial to the owner of the lands on which it is situated, the benefits may be assessed against him without making the abatement an exercise of the power of eminent domain.[15] Statutes in some states authorize the taking of land under the power of eminent domain for the abatement of a public nuisance.[16]

Cities are generally given power to abate nuisances within their boundaries.[17]

49 S. E. 746. Defense that works were lawful and of great benefit to public held demurrable. Friedman v. Columbia Mach. Works & Malleable Iron Co., 99 App. Div. 504, 91 N. Y. S. 129. Fact that city is given authority to discharge sewer into creek does not authorize it to create nuisance. O'Donnell v. Syracuse, 102 App. Div. 80, 92 N. Y. S. 555.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1064, n. 22. Especially where different locality could have been selected, in which case no injury would have resulted. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781; Longtin v. Persell [Mont.] 76 P. 699; American Ice Co. v. Catskill Cement Co., 43 Misc. 221, 88 N. Y. S. 455. The operation of an electric light plant in a residence district is no less a nuisance because no amount of care could render it less obnoxious. Pritchard v. Edison Electric Illuminating Co., 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225, afd. 72 N. E. 243. Defense that iron works were carried on in proper place and in careful and most improved manner held demurrable. Friedman v. Columbia Mach. Works & Malleable Iron Co., 99 App. Div. 504, 91 N. Y. S. 129. Not question of care and skill, but of results. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

4. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854.

5. Where shown to cause irreparable injury to one's health and home. Redd v. Edna Cotton Mills, 136 N. C. 342, 48 S. E. 761.

6. If place is one where actionable injury is done to another. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1067, n. 61. Partial defense that plaintiff purchased property with full knowledge of defendant's works long after they were constructed for purpose of compelling defendant to purchase his property at greatly enhanced value, held demurrable. Friedman v. Columbia Mach. Works & Malleable Iron Co., 99 App. Div. 504, 91 N. Y. S. 129. The right to restrain an adjoining landowner from maintaining a nuisance thereon is a property right running with the land. Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92, 76 P. 513. Hence the fact that the property was so used before plaintiff purchased that adjoining it is immaterial where the injury is a continuing one. Id. Where it is necessary to draw off water from mill pond in summer, persons moving into vicinity after its establishment cannot object to its use because of resulting odors. De Witt v. Bissell [Conn.] 60 A. 113.

8. Sullivan v. Jones & L. Steel Co., 208 Pa. 540, 57 A. 1065.

9. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

10. Slaughterhouse permitted to become offensive by failure to clean, etc. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055.

11. Bawdyhouse. Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92, 76 P. 513.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1065, 1066.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1066, n. 50.

For right of municipal corporations to drain surface water, see note to Johnson v. White [R. I.] 65 L. R. A. 280.

14. State may drain swamp lands, which may otherwise cause disease. Rude v. St. Marie [Wis.] 99 N. W. 460. Obstruction to watercourse. Scheurich v. Southwest Missouri Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003.

15. Rude v. St. Marie [Wis.] 99 N. W. 460.

16. Mass. St. 1867, p. 700, c. 308. Sweet v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 113. Landowners who do not appear and become parties within the prescribed time after notice are barred from recovering damages, though minors and nonresidents. Id. A portion of a person's property cannot be taken for the purpose of abating a nuisance on lands belonging to others without compensation. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, c. 54, § 1359, et seq., providing for drainage of swamp lands, not objectionable since it provides for compensation for land taken. Rude v. St. Marie [Wis.] 99 N. W. 460.

17. Stagnant water on vacant lots. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 298.

Where the statute requires that the owner be given notice and an opportunity to himself do the work, the city has no authority or jurisdiction to proceed with the work until the notice has been given.[18] A municipal corporation cannot, by the mere declaration that a structure is a nuisance, subject it to removal by one supposed to be aggrieved thereby, or by the city itself.[19] Even when authorized by their charters to remove or abate nuisances or obstructions on public streets, they should not forcibly remove or abate structures connecting private houses above a mere right of way over private property,[20] but should institute proper legal proceedings to establish the fact that they are nuisances or obstructions and to require their removal.[21] The fact that plaintiff's property was benefited by the removal cannot be shown in mitigation of damages.[22]

Under the police power of the state the legislature has power to declare property which may be used only for an unlawful purpose to be a public nuisance, and to authorize its summary abatement by public officers;[23] but this cannot be done where the property is innocent in its ordinary and proper use, and only becomes illegal when used for an unlawful purpose.[24]

Injunction.[25]—The remedy for a nuisance is by civil action or abatement,[26] or the aggrieved party may generally bring one action for the abatement of the nuisance and the recovery of damages.[27] Equity has jurisdiction to restrain the continuance of either public[28] or private nuisances.[29] The jurisdiction of particular courts depends upon the statutes creating them.[30]

As in other cases the granting of an injunction is not a matter of absolute right, but rests in the sound discretion of the court.[31] It will issue only when it

18. Statute held to require giving of notice during six days immediately prior to meeting of board of equalization. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 298. Requirements as to papers in which notice was published held complied with. Id. Fact that owner of lot was city attorney did not dispense with necessity of notice. Id. Direction of agent of owner to proceed with work does not dispense with necessity of giving notice. Id.

19. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49.

Right to declare what is nuisance, see § 2, ante.

20. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49.

21. Facts held not to justify city in forcibly destroying structure. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49.

22. Town of Frostburg v. Hitchins [Md.] 59 A. 49. In action for trespass in forcibly removing alleged nuisance, agreement between counsel that it should not be removed pending certain litigation held admissible on question of damages. Id. Not such an agreement between counsel in regard to pending litigation as is required to be in writing. Id.

23. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505.

24. Neb. Comp. St. 1901, § 3, art. 3, c. 31, in so far as it provides for forfeiture of guns, etc., of those hunting without a license, without a hearing, is unconstitutional as depriving them of their property without due process of law. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505.

See, also, § 4 B, post. Also Fish and Game Laws, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 1430; Betting and Gaming, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 505; Penalties and Forfeitures, § 2, 4 Curr. L. 966.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1065, 1066.

26. Mont. Civ. Code, § 4950. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

27. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1300. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

28. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831. Upon information filed in behalf of public by proper officers. Illegal sale of intoxicants enjoined on information filed by solicitor general of circuit in which sale was carried on. Walker v. McNelly, 121 Ga. 114, 48 S. E. 718. The prevention or abatement of a nuisance is to be accomplished by a prohibitive or mandatory injunction, and an action therefor is equitable in its nature. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill. & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7.

29. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

30. The Missouri supreme court has no jurisdiction of an appeal from the denial of an injunction in an action by a private individual for the abatement of a public nuisance, as no right susceptible of valuation is in dispute. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co., 183 Mo. 496, 81 S. W. 1226. Supreme judicial court of Massachusetts has no jurisdiction of bill by city, having board of health, to enjoin melting and rendering establishment in which horses were not killed, and dead animals were not rendered, it not appearing that board of health had passed order applicable to case. City of Cambridge v. Dow Co., 185 Mass. 448, 70 N. E. 447.

31. To be determined after consideration of all facts and circumstances. In view of is made to appear that the act threatened, if done, would be destructive, or that the injury would be irreparable,[32] or that continuous or repeated acts of wrong are being done or threatened.[33] The right[34] and the injury must be clearly established,[35] and there must be no adequate remedy at law.[36] It will not ordinarily be granted against an anticipated nuisance unless the facts alleged and proven are sufficient to show that it will be a nuisance per se.[37]

The rule that no injunction will issue when greater injury will result than would from its refusal does not apply where the act complained of is in itself tortious.[38]

The act sought to be restrained must be a nuisance in fact and not one created solely by statute or ordinance.[39] Where the facts show the existence of a nuisance, it is immaterial whether it results from the nature of the business or the negligent manner in which it is carried on; at least where it appears that it can be so conducted that no harm will result therefrom.[40]

The remedy must be applied for with reasonable promptness.[41] The statute of limitations is no bar to a suit to restrain a continuing nuisance.[42]

Acts 1901, p. 246, c. 139. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Will not issue where it would result in destroying mining and smelting business, and injuriously affect a large number of persons. Id.

32. Perry v. Howe Co-operative Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150.

33. Perry v. Howe Co-op. Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150. Where nuisance is continuing one, fact that defendant is able to respond in damages is no defense. Friedman v. Columbia Mach. Works & Malleable Iron Co., 99 App. Div. 504, 91 N. Y. S. 129. Pa. Act June 16, 1836 (P. L. 789). Legal remedy usually inadequate because damages are difficult of computation, and expense of recovery may exceed amount recoverable for single trespass. Sullivan v. Jones & L. Steel Co., 208 Pa. 540, 57 A. 1065. Injuries continuous in character. Reyburn v. Sawyer, 135 N. C. 328, 47 S. E. 761.

34. In doubtful cases party will be turned over to legal remedy. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Cooper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

35. Will not issue where there is reasonable doubt as to cause of injury, where defendant's trade is lawful, and injury is not necessary and natural consequence of act. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

36. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. As where plaintiff cannot be reasonably compensated in damages (Reyburn v. Sawyer, 135 N. C. 328, 47 S. E. 761), or where defendant is insolvent (Id.). Fact that certiorari will lie to determine validity of ordinance allowing trains to stand on tracks at street intersections no bar. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

37. Evidence held not to show with reasonable probability that stable, when completed, would result in nuisance, or irreparable injury to plaintiff's property or comfort. Gallagher v. Flury [Md.] 57 A. 672. Will not issue where the acts complained of are not per se a nuisance, but may or may not become so, and the threatened injuries are remote, uncertain and speculative, or productive of only possible injury. West v. Ponca City Mill. Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 100. Petition demurrable for failure to allege that arch and train sheds would obstruct street, or facts showing that structures would be nuisances per se. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

38. Sullivan v. Jones & L. Steel Co., 208 Pa. 540, 57 A. 1065.

Note: The defendant had erected enormous blast furnaces at great expense. These furnaces were continually throwing out ore dust which fell upon the plaintiff's property in large quantities, creating a nuisance. Held, that a permanent injunction will issue to restrain the defendant from so using its furnaces. Sullivan v. Jones & L. Steel Co., 208 Pa. 540, 57 A. 1065. This decision seems, in effect, to overrule an earlier Pennsylvania case and to place that state among the jurisdictions which, in issuing a permanent injunction, disregard the fact that it will damage the defendant far more than it will benefit the plaintiff. Richards's Appeal, 57 Pa. 105, 98 Am. Dec. 202. The plaintiff's remedy at law in these cases is plainly inadequate. In most jurisdictions he is put to repeated actions for damages which fail to compensate him, and in all he is left unable to prevent the virtual taking of his property for the private purposes of the defendant. Notwithstanding this, the cases in accord with the earlier decision hold that the injunction is a matter of grace, and as such should not be granted where it is against the balance of convenience. Huckenstine's Appeal, 70 Pa. 102, 10 Am. Rep. 669. This result amounts to a grant of immunity to a person who has made a sufficiently expensive outlay on the instruments of his tort. The recent decision seems to take the better view, that a plaintiff having shown a continuing nuisance, can demand the injunction as of right. Hennessy v. Carmony, 50 N. J. Eq. 515. 18 Harv. L. R. 149.

39. Gallagher v. Flury [Md.] 57 A. 672.

40. Sufficient to state facts showing creation and maintenance of nuisance. Schaub v. Perkinson Bros. Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1094.

41. Delay of ten years held bar to in-

The rule that a legal action must precede the equitable one is only insisted on where complainant's right is doubtful.[43] A mandatory injunction may issue to direct the removal of a nuisance without any finding as to damages, where the acts complained of are an invasion of another's rights.[44] Complainant need not demand that defendant desist from his wrongful acts before bringing suit.[45]

No one is entitled to damages for being lawfully restrained and prohibited from maintaining either a public or private nuisance.[46]

Parties.[47]—Several owners of distinct tenements may join in a suit to restrain a nuisance common to all of them and affecting all in a similar way,[48] but may not so join when the object of the suit is to restrain that which does a distinct and special injury to each of their properties.[49] So too, when several persons acting independently combine to produce a nuisance, they may be joined as defendants in an action for injunctive relief.[50]

Pleading, evidence, and defenses.[51]—Two or more causes of action for distinct nuisances may be joined in the same complaint.[52]

As in other suits for injunction, the petition must allege such facts as show with cogency, clearness, and reasonable certainty that the acts threatened, if done, will bring into existence a nuisance, and that complainant will suffer irreparable injury thereby,[53] and the proof of such facts must be clear and satisfactory.[54] junction against operating copper reduction plant, where defendants had made large expenditures in meantime. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Delays of two years and of 16 months held not a bar, in absence of showing of improvements or special expenditures. Id. Delay of five years held bar to injunction where defendant made heavy outlay in improving dam, though it was a public nuisance. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. Delay of less than three years not laches where plaintiff protested on day when work of raising dam was commenced. Id. Plaintiff held guilty of laches. Washington Lodge No. 54, I. O. O. F. v. Frelinghuysen [Mich.] 101 N. W. 569.

42. Blocking street intersections by trains. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

43. Scheurich v. Southwest Missouri Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. Where the evidence does not satisfy a court of equity that the acts complained of constitute a nuisance, an injunction will be denied until that fact has been established by the verdict of a jury. Redd v. Edna Cotton Mills, 136 N. C. 342, 48 S. E. 761.

44. To remove dams diverting water onto plaintiff's lands. Allen v. Stowell, 145 Cal. 666, 79 P. 371.

45. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625.

46. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co., 183 Mo. 496, 81 S. W. 1226. Plea by one defendant of former suit pending should not be sustained where former suit was by part only of complainants and was for injunction only. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1067, n. 60.

48. Seastream v. New Jersey Exhibition Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 532; Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Cooper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Owner of realty and one operating quarry thereon may join in suit to restrain maintenance of dams and deposit of sand in creek, causing it to overflow. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625. Rule is same where parties are husband and wife. Id.

49. Seastream v. New Jersey Exhibition Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 532. Any misjoinder in suit to restrain Sunday ball games because some of complainants allege injuries from noises on grounds and others from those in street may not be urged against preliminary injunction, as election may be required later. Id.

50. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Several mill owners properly joined as defendants in action to restrain pollution of stream, the plaintiff having no adequate remedy at law, since damage inflicted by each defendant merely nominal. Warren v. Parkhurst, 45 Misc. 466, 92 N. Y. S. 725.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1066, § 5A.

52. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 427. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594.

53. Need not appear with absolute certainty. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56. Attaching map to petition does not relieve pleader from necessity of alleging facts to which it relates. Id. Allegation that proposed cemetery is higher than plaintiff's lands too indefinite without further allegation that their lands are so close to it that it is reasonably certain that injury will result. Id. Allegation that air will be polluted insufficient in absence of averment as to contemplated mode of sepulture. Evidence insufficient to authorize submission of question to jury. Id. The complainant must aver and prove that the annoyance and loss are continuous or recurrent, and irreparable. Petition sufficient. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. The bill must state a proper case for equitable relief. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co.

An injunction will be denied where the nuisance has been abated pending the action,[55] or where plaintiffs themselves contribute to the acts complained of.[56]

The fact that the acts complained of are punishable criminally will not prevent the issuance of an injunction.[57] The acquittal of one on a criminal charge of maintaining a nuisance is no bar to a civil action against him for its abatement,[58] nor is the recovery of damages a bar to a suit for an injunction.[59]

Judgment or decree.[60]—In a suit for an injunction, the court may, as incidental to the main relief sought, ascertain and allow for the injury already done.[61] A prayer for damages is incidental to the principal equitable relief sought, and a court of equity will determine all the issues.[62] The party injured by a nuisance may, in the same action, obtain a judgment abating it and recover the damages caused thereby.[63] The right to equitable relief may be waived.[64]

It is proper to limit the relief to an injunction against the operation of a business in such a manner as will injure plaintiff, where it is conceded that it can be carried on so that no harm will result.[65]

[Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Complaint held to sufficiently show that injury resulted from acts complained of. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625. Complaint failing to show character of land, or to what extent it had been overflowed, or that owner would receive less rents or profits, held insufficient against demurrer for want of facts. Id.

54. Need not be proved beyond reasonable doubt. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56. Question to expert in regard to conveyance of disease germs in water held improper. Id. Testimony of plaintiffs that their homes would become valueless because they could not drink water off of dead people held conclusion. Id. Error to allow witness to state that city officers would not allow city water supply to be taken from near cemetery. Id.

55. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7; Perry v. Howe Co-operative Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150.

56. Where they polluted stream before defendants. Reese v. Johnstown, 45 Misc. 432, 92 N. Y. S. 728.

57. Obstructing highway by allowing trains to stand on crossings. J. K. & W. H. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

58. Especially where complainant was not complainant in criminal action. Dam in stream. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461.

59. Van Veghten v. Hudson River Power Transmission Co., 92 N. Y. S. 956. One recovering double damages for the wrongful obstruction of a watercourse is not thereby precluded from obtaining an injunction against its maintenance as a nuisance. Damages do not take place of statutory procedure to acquire right to build dam. Also award was only compensation for injuries already sustained. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1067, n. 63.

61. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

62. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7. California superior court has jurisdiction of suit to abate nuisance and for damages. Id. In California not entitled as of right to jury trial on question of damages, and court may refuse to accept their verdict, and itself fix them [Code Civ. Proc. § 592]. Id.

63. Both under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 731, and at common law. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594. In New York a final judgment for plaintiff in an action for a nuisance may award him damages, or direct the removal of the nuisance, or both. Code Civ. Proc. § 1662. Not bound to grant both classes of relief. Hadcock v. Gloversville, 96 App. Div. 130, 89 N. Y. S. 74. Held proper to deny removal of nuisance, consisting in pollution of stream by sewer, where it was participated in by others, and defendant city had already been enjoined from maintaining sewer, the latter injunction having been temporarily suspended to enable defendant to comply therewith. Id.

64. The consolidation of an action seeking to restrain the maintenance of a nuisance and to recover damages therefor with a subsequent action for damages accruing after the commencement of the first, as an action at law, and the transfer of the consolidated action to the law side of the court, operates as a waiver of the equitable relief asked for, and makes it one to recover damages, to be tried on the relevant allegations of the two complaints. Pritchard v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225, afd. 72 N. E. 243. Prayer for equitable relief waived by counsel. Van Veghten v. Hudson River Power Transmission Co., 92 N. Y. S. 956.

65. Quarry. Schaub v. Perkinson Bros. Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1094. Plaintiff held not entitled to have passageway over alley removed or building of new one restrained on ground that odors, forced from hotel by means of fans, are thereby retained in passageway, where irreparable injury would result to defendant. If odors are nuisance, plaintiff can have them abated. Washington Lodge, No. 54, I. O. O. F. v. Frelinghuysen [Mich.] 101 N. W. 569. Decree held not objectionable as suppressing slaughterhouse business, since it did not prevent operation of plant so as not to in-

Costs[66] in a suit for the abatement of a nuisance and for damages may be allowed in the discretion of the court.[67]

(§ 4) B. Criminal prosecution.[68]—Public nuisances are generally punishable by indictment and criminal prosecution.[69] In Indiana, corporations may be prosecuted by indictment or information for erecting or maintaining public nuisances.[70] The burden is on the state to prove that defendant is a corporation.[71]

Upon an indictment for keeping a public nuisance, the offender may be punished, and the nuisance may be abated as part of the judgment and the thing with which it is committed may be destroyed.[72] Such destruction is not a taking for public use, and does not deprive the owner of it without due process of law.[73]

The ordinary rules for the determination of the sufficiency of the indictment apply.[74]

(§ 4) C. Action for damages.[75]—One creating a nuisance is liable for the damages resulting therefrom.[76]

One continuing a nuisance is not liable for damages caused by its operation by his predecessors in interest,[77] nor can one recover damages for injuries to crops prior to the time when he acquired title to the land, unless he had or was entitled to possession thereof.[78] It is not necessary to notify one erecting and maintaining jure plaintiff. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055. Injunction issued to reduce dam to previous height where it appeared that operation of defendant's plant would not be greatly interfered with, and he would not be put to large expense. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1068, n. 80.

67. Not entitled to them as of right. Allowance not prevented because nuisance voluntarily abated [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1025]. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill. & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1065.

69. State v. Charleston Light & Water Co., 68 S. C. 540, 47 S. E. 979. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. § 2154 provides for punishment of any one maintaining any building for exercise of any business or for keeping any animal which becomes injurious to health, comfort, or property by reason of offensive smells. Lipschitz v. State, 33 Ind. App. 648, 72 N. E. 145. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. § 2153, makes any one erecting or maintaining a public nuisance, to the injury of any part of the citizens of the state, subject to fine. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037. Indictment alleging running of "blind tiger," resulting in collection of boisterous crowds using obscene and profane language, held to charge offense under this section. State v. Tabler [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1039.

70. Allegation that defendant is corporation is part of description of offense [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1970]. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037.

71. Evidence sufficient. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037.

72. Slot machine. Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 275.

73. W. Va. Code 1899, c. 151, § 1, authorizing destruction of gaming tables, not unconstitutional. Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 275.

For a full discussion of this subject, see Betting and Gaming, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 505.

74. See Indictment and Prosecution, § 4, 4 Curr. L. 5. An information charging the keeping and maintenance of a common nuisance up to and including the day when it was verified and filed held not bad as charging its keeping in the past, present and future. State v. Youngberg [Kan.] 78 P. 421. Information charging defendant with maintaining slaughter house held to sufficiently charge offense under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. § 2154, providing for punishment of any one maintaining building for exercise of any business, or for keeping any animal which becomes injurious to health, comfort, or property by reason of offensive smells, and not to charge two distinct offenses. Lipschitz v. State, 33 Ind. App. 648, 72 N. E. 145. Information sufficient to charge maintenance of nuisance under this section and at common law. Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037. Indictment against railroad for committing and maintaining a nuisance by the erection of a bridge and approaches held demurrable for uncertainty under Ky. Cr. Code, §§ 122, 124. Commonwealth v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 231. Indictment for maintaining dam held to show indictable offense. State v. Dundee Water Power & Land Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1094. Complaint held to contain sufficient description of place where nuisance was maintained. State v. Wisnewski [N. D.] 102 N. W. 883.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1067.

76. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 860; Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.] 49 S. E. 746. May be recovered as a matter of right. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. Evidence held to entitle plaintiff to nominal damages only. Perry v. Howe Co-operative Creamery Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 150.

77, 78. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14.

a nuisance of the harmful effects resulting therefrom, or to request him to abate it, before bringing suit;[79] but an action cannot be maintained against one coming into possession of property on which there is an existing nuisance for continuing the same until he has been notified of its existence and has been requested to abate it.[80] This rule has been changed by statute in some states.[81]

An owner of real estate suffering a nuisance to be created or continued by another thereon or adjacent thereto, in the prosecution of a business for his benefit and when he has power to prevent or abate it, is liable for resulting injuries to third persons.[82] The fact that the work was done by an independent contractor is no defense.[83]

A landlord is not liable for injuries resulting from the existence of a nuisance on the demised premises, which becomes such only by act of the tenant while they are in his possession.[84] One leasing premises which are a nuisance, or must in the nature of things become so by their use, and receiving rent therefor, is liable for injuries resulting from such nuisance, whether in or out of possession,[85] and even though the tenant is bound by the lease to keep the premises in repair.[86] The fact that the lease is for ninety-five years and that the landlord has no right of re-entry for condition broken does not change the rule, where the lessor is fully protected against breaches of covenants by the lessee.[87] A lessee may recover damages sustained by him during his tenancy from the maintenance of a nuisance on adjoining property.[88]

One maintaining an attractive nuisance is liable for injuries sustained by trespassing animals.[89]

In a suit for injuries to real estate by reason of a nuisance, plaintiff must show some right therein which has been injuriously affected;[90] but one lawfully residing on property injuriously affected by a nuisance may maintain an action for damages on account of sickness and discomfort resulting to him therefrom, though he has no property right in the premises.[91]

One who by his conduct induces another to construct and maintain a nuisance cannot claim damages therefor.[92]

79. Blackstock v. Southern R. Co., 120 Ga. 414, 47 S. E. 902. In an action for erecting and maintaining a nuisance, plaintiff must prove that it was in fact erected by defendant. Mere fact that water was backed up on land by reason of defective culvert under defendant's roadbed not sufficient, particularly where defendant denies that it built the road. Id. Proper to refuse to allow amendment which would change action from one for erection and maintenance of nuisance to one for continuing nuisance erected by another after notice to abate it. Id. Culvert held not nuisance as originally constructed, but flooding of farm caused by construction of new ditches, etc. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968.

80. Blackstock v. Southern R. Co., 120 Ga. 414, 47 S. E. 902. Common law rule. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 3862, 4763. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968.

81. Montana Civ. Code, § 4554, making successive owners liable in same manner as person creating nuisance, does away with the necessity of notice. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14.

82. Doing of acts which must necessarily result in nuisance unless prevented by precautionary measures. Young v. Trapp, 26 Ky. L. R. 752, 82 S. W. 429.

83. Young v. Trapp, 26 Ky. L. R. 752, 82 S. W. 429.

84. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp. [R. I.] 59 A. 855.

85. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp. [R. I.] 59 A. 855. Where there has been a public nuisance of continued character on demised premises, both the lessor and the lessee are liable for damages resulting therefrom. Id.

86, 87. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp. [R. I.] 59 A. 855.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1068, n. 74. Pritchard v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225, afd. 72 N. E. 243.

89. Shed in which nitrate of soda sacks were stored not such a nuisance. Tennessee Chemical Co. v. Henry [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401. See Animals, § 4, 3 Curr. L. 161.

90. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Glenn [Tex.] 80 S. W. 992.

91. One residing with his father on latter's land. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Glenn [Tex.] 80 S. W. 992.

92. Instructions approved. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W.

Where the nuisance is the result of the concerted action of two or more persons, each may be held liable for the entire damages occasioned;[93] but in such case, concert of action must be made to appear.[94] The fact that it may be difficult to determine what part of the damage was caused by each contributor does not change the rule.[95] One acting separately and for himself alone, and not in concert with the others, cannot be held liable for any damages not the direct and proximate result of his own acts.[96]

Several owners of distinct tenements may not join in an action for damages caused by a nuisance, though it is common to them all, and affects them all in a similar way,[97] nor can several persons acting independently be joined as defendants, though their joint acts produce the nuisance complained of.[98]

The abatement of a nuisance does not prejudice the right to recover damages for its past existence,[99] nor does an abatement pending the action deprive the court of jurisdiction to render judgment for damages.[1] By statute in Tennessee in all suits brought for the recovery of damages resulting from a nuisance, the court is given discretionary power to abate the nuisance on petition of plaintiff.[2]

That an alleged nuisance may be abated, and that there is no threat to continue the conditions giving rise to it goes to the measure of damages for injuries already sustained, and not to the sufficiency of the complaint.[3]

Any delay short of the statutory period of limitations in instituting suit is no defense.[4]

In an action for damages resulting from a nuisance and for an injunction against its maintenance, plaintiff is entitled to a jury trial on the question of damages, and the existence of the nuisance.[5]

Evidence.[6]—The fact that there is another and proper way of doing the acts complained of so that no injury will result therefrom may be shown.[7]

860. Evidence as to reasons for plaintiff consenting to location of certain road held admissible on question of estoppel. Id.

93. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854. One who intentionally and aggressively assists in creating or maintaining a public nuisance in violation of a positive enactment is individually liable in damages for all injuries proximately resulting therefrom to private individuals bringing themselves within the requirements of the law. Jointly and severally liable for pollution of stream. Instructions approved. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879. His liability will not be limited to the actual loss which he alone has occasioned, even though his act alone and of itself would create a public nuisance. Id. Complaint sufficient. Id. The act of changing the grade of a railroad in such a manner as to cause water to collect on plaintiff's land, thereby injuring it and creating a nuisance, is actionable against the railroad and the contractors doing the work, though a right of way has been previously acquired. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Quillen [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 661.

94. Not always necessary to show agreement, but in many cases the mere fact that they acted together knowingly is sufficient. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854.

95. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854; Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14.

96. Defendant, who polluted stream with refuse from creamery, not liable for injuries resulting from pollution of slough by another person dumping dead animals therein. Instruction erroneous. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854. Where nuisance arises from individual acts of different mining companies in polluting stream, and injury is in no sense a joint one, each is only liable for damage caused by his own wrongful acts. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14.

97. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

98. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658. General demurrer going to whole bill against several defendants for injunction and damages does not raise question of misjoinder of defendants as to recovery of damages. Id. Several mill owners polluting stream. Warren v. Parkhurst, 45 Misc. 466, 92 N. Y. S. 725.

99. Montana Civ. Code, § 4555. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

1. McCarthy v. Gaston Ridge Mill. & Min. Co., 144 Cal. 542, 78 P. 7.

2. Acts 1901, p. 246, c. 139. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

3. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Quillen [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 661.

4. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879.

5. Mont. Const. art. 3, § 23. Can only be waived in manner provided by Code Civ.

Cases discussing the admissibility of particular evidence will be found in the notes.[8]

Damages.[9]—Plaintiff can recover only the amount of damages, if any, which he has actually sustained.[10] He may recover for loss of time,[11] depreciation in the value of his property,[12] and for all discomforts in his home resulting therefrom, whether causing mental or bodily pain, or both;[13] but not for the unsightly appearance of the nuisance,[14] or for the marring of his view.[15]

If the nuisance is permanent in character, all damages, whether past, present, or future may be proved and recovered.[16] If temporary, only such damages may be recovered as have accrued up to the bringing of the action.[17]

Ordinarily damages occurring after the commencement of the action cannot be recovered;[18] but an amended petition may be filed alleging damages to the date of its filing.[19]

The measure of damages in such cases is treated elsewhere.[20]

(§ 4) D. Rights of private persons in regard to public nuisances.[21]—In order that an individual may maintain a private action for a public nuisance, it must appear that he has suffered a special injury therefrom, different in kind from and in addition to that suffered by the general public.[22]

Proc. § 1110. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254. At common law an action for damages was triable by jury. Id.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1067, n. 58, 59.

7. Mahan v. Doggett [Ky.] 84 S. W. 525. In action for blowing sawdust on plaintiff's lot, evidence that other mills burned sawdust is admissible. Id.

8. In action for damages for pollution of stream, testimony as to effect of water on land and crops not objectionable as opinion evidence. Watson v. Colusa-Parrot Min. & Smelting Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 14. Question as to knowledge of witness that sewerage was dumped into stream above place where he procured sample of water held proper. Id. In action for damages to hotel by maintenance of electric plant, evidence showing depreciation in rent of rooms from year to year competent on question of diminution of rental value of whole premises. Requested instruction properly refused. Pritchard v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co. [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 243, afg. 92 App. Div. 178, 87 N. Y. S. 225. Requested instruction limiting recovery to diminution in rental value properly refused where evidence showed other independent items of damage. Id. In action for damages to hotel by electric light plant, petition for its removal held admissible merely for purpose of showing what it was, and not as proof of its contents. Id. Evidence of obstruction of street by defendant by ashes and dirt in front of hotel held admissible. Id. In action for damages to orchard by sulphur smoke from smelter, evidence as to what proportion of trees generally in immediate vicinity of smelter were destroyed (Rowe v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co., 35 Wash. 101, 76 P. 529), as to effect of smoke on trees of one living between plaintiff's premises and smelter (Id.), and that a precipitate formed on sidewalks in city in which smelter was situated, held admissible (Id.). Error to permit counsel to experiment before jury with liquid which he stated to be sulphuric acid, in absence of proof as to its nature (Id.), and in absence of proof of identity of conditions (Id.).

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1068, n. 75-80.

10. Instructions approved. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879.

11. No evidence on which to base finding of loss of time. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329.

12. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781.

13. Mental suffering will not be presumed from attack of chills and fever due to stagnant water. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329. Personal inconvenience to himself and his family resulting from smoke, noise, noxious gases, and the like. Railroad yards. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 781. Sawdust from mill. Mahan v. Doggett [Ky.] 84 S. W. 525.

14, 15. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Reasonover [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 329.

16. Fairbank Co. v. Bahre [Ill.] 73 N. E. 322. Damages for prospective injuries will only be allowed where the nuisance is permanent. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Quillen [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 661.

17. Offensive odors from soap stock on adjoining lot. Fairbank Co. v. Bahre [Ill.] 73 N. E. 322. Maintenance of dam causing overflow. Van Veghten v. Hudson River Power Transmission Co., 92 N. Y. S. 956.

18. In action for damages to plaintiff's orchard by sulphur released from smelter, no recovery can be had for injuries occurring after service of summons, there being no evidence of damage after that time. Action commenced by such service [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4869]. Rowe v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co., 35 Wash. 101, 76 P. 529. Fact that court assessed damages for period including time prior and subsequent to dates between which injuries for which plaintiff was entitled to recover occurred, held not to require reversal where amount was less than might have been allowed had award been confined to proper

One so injured may either sue for damages[23] or may, in proper cases, maintain an equitable action for an injunction,[24] particularly when plaintiff has first successfully prosecuted an action for damages.[25]

OATHS.[26]

Where affidavits are required to be made "before" an officer, the oath cannot be administered by telephone.[27] Interrogation of a witness as to the form of oath most binding on him should be made before he is sworn.[28]

OBSCENITY, see latest topical index.

OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE.[29]

Interference with an officer attempting to execute a warrant is indictable in Georgia,[30] as is refusal of an officer to execute process,[31] refusal upon each issue of the warrant being a separate offense.[32] An Indian agent searching for intoxicants on a reservation is not within Rev. St. § 5447, prohibiting resistance to certain officer.[33]

An indictment for obstructing the execution of a search warrant issued by a justice of the peace for a certain township and directing the search of described premises sufficiently identifies the warrant.[34]

Four months' imprisonment for violently obstructing the execution of a search warrant is not excessive.[35]

period. Miller v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 89 N. Y. S. 1059.

19. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 100 N. W. 854.

20. See Damages, § 5C, 3 Curr. L. 1016.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1065, § 4C.

22. Thomas v. Wade [Fla.] 37 So. 743; Acme Fertilizer Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1037; Guilford v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 365; State v. Charleston Light & Water Co., 68 S. C. 540, 47 S. E. 979. Complaint held to show special damage by obstruction of stream [Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 3633]. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461. The complaint must show the nature of his wrongs and that they are different in kind and degree from those sustained by the general public. Complaint in action for removal of railroad tracks from street insufficient. Guilford v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 365. Owner of island held to suffer peculiar injury by obstruction to navigation by pound nets, thus cutting off his means of access thereto. Reyburn v. Sawyer, 135 N. C. 328, 47 S. E. 761. Evidence held not to show special injury by construction of frame building in fire limits, next to plaintiff's vacant lot. West v. Ponca City Mill Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 100. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 3093. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055. Injuries to proprietor of property adjoining bawdy house held special and different from those sustained by general public. Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92, 76 P. 513. One living near slaughter-house specially injured. Wilcox v. Henry, 35 Wash. 591, 77 P. 1055.

23. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879. Mandamus to compel removal of dam from navigable stream refused in absence of allegation of special injury. State v. Charleston Light & Water Co., 63 S. C. 540, 47 S. E. 979.

24. Especially where injuries are to free use of land. Reyburn v. Sawyer, 135 N. C. 328, 47 S. E. 761; Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461. Sunday ball games. Seastream v. New Jersey Exhibition Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 532. Remedy by criminal prosecution inadequate. Ingersoll v. Rousseau, 35 Wash. 92, 76 P. 513. Obstruction of water course. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003. When circumstances render such relief appropriate (Id.), as where there is immediate danger of irreparable injury (Robinson v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 753).

25. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1003.

26. See, also, Affidavits, 3 Curr. L. 65; Depositions, 3 Curr. L. 1074; Notaries and Commissioners of Deeds, 4 Curr. L. 828; Perjury, 2 Curr. L. 1171.

27. Sullivan v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 421.

28. State v. Davis [Mo.] 85 S. W. 354.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1068. As contempt of court, see Contempt, 3 Curr. L. 795.

30. Pen. Code, § 306. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383.

31. It is covered by Pen. Code, § 334, providing for "other offenses against public justice" not specifically prohibited. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383.

32. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383.

33. The title and context of the original act show that it relates to customs officers only. Mackey v. Miller [C. C. A.] 126 F. 161.

34, 35. State v. Moore [Iowa] 101 N. W. 732.

Occupation Taxes; Offer and Acceptance; Offer of Judgment, see latest topical index.

OFFICERS AND PUBLIC EMPLOYES.[36]

§ 1. Definitions and Distinctions (854).
§ 2. The Appointing Power (855).
§ 3. Eligibility and Qualifications (856).
A. In General (856).
B. Civil Service (856).
§ 4. Appointment or Employment (857).
§ 5. Nature of Tenure and Duration of Term (858).
§ 6. Resignation and Removal (859).
§ 7. Proceedings to Try Title to Office (861).
§ 8. Powers and Duties (863).
§ 9. Compensation (865).
§ 10. Liabilities (869).
§ 11. Official Bonds and Liability Thereon (869).
§ 12. Crimes and Offenses (872).

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[37]—A public office is a position held of right by election or appointment, and while not property, courts are quick to protect one in the exercise of the right.[38] The relation is never created by contract, but owes its origin and authority to some act or expression of the governmental power; where authority is conferred by contract, it is regarded as an employment and not as a public office.[39] While the clerk of the school council in Ohio is a public officer,[40] a person appointed to perform certain engineering duties with regard to sewers in a city for no definite term and to receive a per diem wage,[41] a superintendent of sidewalks,[42] a comparison clerk in the county clerk's office of the county of New York,[43] a teacher of gymnastics in the public schools of New York,[44] the superintendency of a county children's home,[45] and the janitorship of a police station,[46] are held to be mere employments. The judge of a city court in Illinois is a municipal and not state officer,[47] and under the New York charter the coroners are borough instead of county officers.[48] A constable committing a prisoner to the town lock-up, as a place of detention, acts for the state, and under its authority, if any. He does not act for the town, nor under its authority, though he may have received his appointment from the town.[49] A constitutional office cannot be abolished by the legislature either directly or indirectly by depriving it of its emoluments.[50] The right to be employed is not one of the exceptions enumerated in the Louisiana constitution of 1898, conferring upon the supreme court jurisdiction of an appeal in cases where the matter in dispute does not exceed the sum or value

36. This topic deals with the general law of officers excluding the law of elections (3 Curr. L. 1165) of Quo Warranto (2 Curr. L. 1377) and of or pertaining to particular officers (see Sheriffs and Constables, 2 Curr. L. 1640; Judges, 4 Curr. L. 280 and like topics) or particularly applicable to local subdivisions of government (see Counties, 3 Curr. L. 959; Municipal Corporations, 4 Curr. L. 720).

37. See 2 Curr L. 1069.

38. Christy v. Kingfisher [Okl.] 76 P. 135.

39. Notwithstanding provision for the employment is made by statute. State v. McGonagle, 26 Ohio C. C. 685, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 292. The contract between a municipality and its appointee to an office is subject to the statutory regulations respecting such municipality. Dolan v. Orange, 70 N. J. Law, 106, 56 A. 130.

40. State v. Coon, 26 Ohio C. C. 241, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 560. While one who has been duly selected and authorized to do the official printing of a county may not be considered a public officer, his position is so analogous to that of an officer that the rules which have been approved with reference to the conflicting claims of officers de facto and officers de jure and their respective claims against the state, county or municipality, may be properly held applicable. Smith v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 186.

41. Weesner v. Central Nat. Bank, 106 Mo. App. 668, 80 S. W. 319.

42. Grieb v. Syracuse, 94 App. Div. 133, 87 N. Y. S. 1083.

43. Not within the civil service rules. People v. Hamilton, 90 N. Y. S. 547, overruling 44 Misc. 577, 90 N. Y. S. 97.

44. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1069, n. 16. Munnally v. Board of Education, 92 N. Y. S. 286.

45. State v. McGonagle, 26 Ohio C. C. 685, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 292.

46. Dolan v. Orange, 70 N. J. Law, 106, 56 A. 130. In case of discharge, the employes' right of action is at most for breach of contract and he cannot compel the city to keep him in its service. Wiggin v. Manchester, 72 N. H. 576, 58 A. 522.

47. Wolf v. Hope, 210 Ill. 50, 70 N. E. 1082.

48. People v. Scholer, 94 App. Div. 282, 87 N. Y. S. 1122.

49. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

50. Morris v. Glover, 121 Ga. 751, 49 S. E. 786.

of $2,000.[51] In Nebraska the office of police judge or magistrate in an incorporated city is constitutional.[52]

§ 2. The appointing power.[53]—The appointing power is now generally held to be an attribute of the executive.[54] Courts have no inherent power to appoint to office, and statutes conferring the power must be strictly pursued.[55] Sub-officers and departmental officers and employes are frequently appointed by their superiors.[56]

The right of local self-government as understood in most of our states prohibits the appointment of local officers by state authority.[57] Thus the general assembly of Louisiana is without authority to choose officers to administer the affairs of the city of New Orleans,[58] but there is a diversity of opinion between the courts of last resort in Texas as to the constitutionality of a law authorizing the governor to appoint local officers of municipalities.[59] Elections cannot be postponed in Indiana so as to authorize officers to hold over beyond the terms for which they were elected.[60] A resolution of the board of supervisors in New York extending the term of town officers is invalid,[61] but the constitution does not invalidate a law providing that the first justice of the peace elected in a city after its enactment shall hold office four years and nine months.[62]

The provision of the constitution of Kentucky requiring the general assembly to prescribe the qualifications of all officers of cities and towns, the manner in and causes for which they may be removed from office, etc., does not prohibit the legislature from creating inferior municipal officers to be appointed by the council and to hold their offices during the pleasure of the council.[63] A constitutional provision limiting the membership of a certain board to five is not violated by a statute reorganizing it with three members,[64] and a statute limiting the number of constables to be elected in townships of a certain population is authorized in California.[65]

51. State v. Sewerage & Water Board, 113 La. 924, 37 So. 878.

52. Const. art. 6, § 18. State v. Moores [Neb.] 99 N. W. 504.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1069.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1069. Under section 1393, Revised Statutes of 1892 of Florida, the governor of that state is empowered to appoint a clerk ad interim to discharge the duties of circuit court clerk. State v. Givens [Fla.] 37 So. 308. In California power to appoint to such offices as the legislature creates may be delegated to such persons or boards as the legislature directs. Board of medical examiners. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166.

55. Chadduck v. Burke [Va.] 49 S. E. 976.

56. Letter carriers can be appointed and removed only by the postmaster general. Corcoran's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 341. The power of appointment and removal of coroners' clerks in the city of New York rests with the coroners rather than the mayor. People v. Scholer, 94 App. Div. 282, 87 N. Y. S. 1122. A city library board in Kentucky has authority to appoint a treasurer, the city treasurer not being ex officio the treasurer of the board. Board of Trustees of Public Library v. Beitzer, 26 Ky. L. R. 611, 82 S. W. 421.

57. A legislative sub-classification of a general class of officers does not create new offices. Dividing police force into roundsmen, patrolmen, detectives, etc. Fay v. Partridge, 174 N. Y. 526, 66 N. E. 1107. Act of March 12, 1903, appointing two commissioners for a given county of New Mexico, held to contravene provisions of Federal Act of July 30, 1886, c. 818, 24 Stat. 170, prohibiting territorial legislatures from passing local or special laws regulating county and township affairs. Territory v. Gutierrez [N. M.] 78 P. 139.

58. Act No. 37 of 1902, by which such authority purports to be exercised, is unconstitutional. Jackson Square Com'rs v. New Orleans, 112 La. 957, 36 So. 817. In the same state it is held that if the legislature has power under the constitution to provide for the temporary, but not for the permanent filling of a vacancy in a municipal office by appointment by the mayor, and the only provision it makes is for the permanent filling of the vacancy, and it appears, however, that the clear intention was that the mayor's appointee should have charge of the office, this intention will be given effect to the extent of its constitutionality; that is to say to the extent of authorizing the mayor's appointee to have charge of the office ad interim. Watson v. McGrath [La.] 36 So. 204.

59. Ex parte Levine [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 1206. See 2 Curr. L. 1070, n. 28.

60. Gemmer v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 478.

61. Const. art. 3, § 26. People v. Weeks, 176 N. Y. 194, 68 N. E. 251.

62. People v. Kent, 83 App. Div. 554, 82 N. Y. S. 172.

63. City marshal (Const. § 160]. London v. Franklin, 25 Ky. L. R. 2306, 80 S. W. 514.

64. Thomas v. State [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1011.

§ 3. Eligibility and qualifications. A. In general.[66]—As a rule every person entitled to vote is eligible to office,[67] if he be a resident of the jurisdiction,[68] and not the incumbent of an incompatible office.[69] Though the legislature may not increase or diminish the constitutional qualifications prescribed for eligibility to any offices created by such instrument, it may prescribe additional qualifications for all offices which it is authorized to establish.[70] One must be eligible at the time of election to an office,[71] but a mere disqualification may be removed at any time before the term begins.[72] A person who owns property actually assessed on the roll is eligible to office, though it may be assessed to another.[73] The world's Columbian commission was authorized to elect an auditor from among its own members.[74] Failure to file bond in time does not deprive one of his right to office,[75] but a truant officer under the Indiana statutes[76] is a public officer and bound to qualify by taking the prescribed oath before entering on the duties of the office.[77]

(§ 3) B. Civil service.[78]—The civil service law of New York does not apply to the officers and attendants of the board of aldermen, which as a legislative body has power to appoint its own servants in its own way.[79] The position of comparison clerk in the office of the county clerk of New York is a confidential one authorizing the civil service commission to make it noncompetitive.[80] The determination of the civil service commissioners in rating candidates in competitive examinations cannot be reviewed either on certiorari or by mandamus in the absence of bad faith or illegal action.[81] By the words "classified list" in section 149 of the Ohio Municipal Code of 1902 is meant the register prescribed by section 164.[82] A statute preferring veterans for appointment to public employment is valid.[83] The veteran law does not entitle a veteran highway laborer to work if there is any similar work to be done in the city, but only to work if there is any to be done in the district to which he has been assigned.[84]

65. Const. art. 11, § 5. Sanchez v. Fordyce, 141 Cal. 427, 75 P. 56.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1070.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1070, n. 31.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1070, n. 32. By removing from the district for which he is appointed or elected an officer forfeits his office. Municipal court justice. In re Bolte, 97 App. Div. 551, 90 N. Y. S. 499. A court crier becomes ineligible when the portion of the county in which he lives is set off and becomes a part of another county. In re Buhler, 43 Misc. 140, 88 N. Y. S. 195.

69. See 2 Curr. L. 1070. The office of sheriff and chief of police (Peterson v. Culpepper [Ark.] 79 S. W. 783), and the office of chief clerk of a department and that of an officer on the retired list, are not incompatible (Geddes's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 428). So the office of town recorder is not incompatible with that of county and probate judge, the former not being a state office (State v. Townsend [Ark.] 79 S. W. 782), and a teacher of gymnastics in the public schools of New York city may also be a truant officer (Munnally v. Board of Education, 92 N. Y. S. 286).

70. Sheehan v. Scott, 145 Cal. 684, 79 P. 350. The office of county superintendent of schools in Montana being an office created by the constitution, it was incompetent for the legislature to prescribe as an additional qualification that an aspirant to such office should be the holder of a teacher's certificate of the highest county grade. State v. Action [Mont.] 77 P. 299.

71. Charter requirements of five years residence. Sheehan v. Scott, 145 Cal. 684, 79 P. 350.

72. Holding certificate as licensed land surveyor. Ward v. Crowell, 142 Cal. 587, 76 P. 491.

73. People v. Davis, 43 Misc. 397, 89 N. Y. S. 334.

74. Butt v. U. S., 122 F. 511.

75. Murdoch v. Strange [Md.] 57 A. 628.

76. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6633b.

77. Featherngill v. State, 33 Ind. App. 683, 72 N. E. 181.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1071.

79. Shaughnessy v. Fornes, 172 N. Y. 323, 65 N. E. 168.

80. People v. Hamilton, 90 N. Y. S. 547.

81. People v. McCooey, 91 N. Y. S. 436. The battalion chief of a fire department is in the noncompetitive class. People v. Whittet, 91 N. Y. S. 675; Dill v. Wheeler, 91 N. Y. S. 686.

82. State v. Wyman [Ohio] 72 N. E. 457.

83. Goodrich v. Mitchell, 68 Kan. 765, 75 P. 1034; Dever v. Humphrey, 68 Kan. 759, 75 P. 1037. A veteran seeking a transfer to another position has the burden of proving his fitness. Jones v. Willcox, 80 App. Div. 167, 80 N. Y. S. 420. Under the constitution a veteran soldier or sailor is entitled to an absolute preference in appointment to public office. People v. Burch, 79 App. Div. 156, 80 N. Y. S. 274; People v. Stratton, 79 App. Div. 149, 80 N. Y. S. 269.

84. Schuyler v. New York, 95 App. Div. 305, 88 N. Y. S. 646.

§ 4. Appointment or employment.[85]—Where an officer is to be elected by a city council, a quorum may act,[86] and such an election may be by adoption of a resolution.[87] The attempted employment of an attorney by a city council in violation of its own ordinance is void and confers no rights on him.[88] While a policeman was serving a definite term, the adoption of a new charter providing that policemen should hold office during good behavior did not operate to reappoint him under the new charter.[89] The provision of the Indiana statute[90] providing for the appointment of a truant officer by the board of education of each county on the first Monday of May in each year is directory merely.[91]

Wherever the law provides for an incumbent holding over until his successor has been appointed and qualified, there is no vacancy in the office at the expiration of the fixed term, authorizing an ad interim appointment,[92] and a statute authorizing appointments to fill vacancies has no reference to a vacancy arising by expiration of a regular term;[93] but incumbency of an office by holding over after expiration of one's term does not preclude the existence of a vacancy as a basis for the exercise in the regular way of the power to appoint a successor.[94] Where the official bond of a county judge is considered and disapproved by the commissioner's court, and the judge tenders no other bond, there is a vacancy in the office which the commissioners are authorized to fill.[95] The unexpired terms of city officers in Kentucky may be filled at the same election at which congressmen are elected, the constitutional prohibition being directed only at full terms.[96]

Under the civil service law of New York, an employe suspended or released because of the abolition of his office is entitled to reappointment to the same or a similar position whenever his services are required,[97] and an attempt to transfer clerks from another branch to the office abolished is a determination that such service is required and entitles the released clerk to reappointment.[98] A petition for a mandamus to compel relator's appointment to an office must show that the office to which he claims a right legally exists.[99] Certiorari to review a removal[1]

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1071.

86. Attorney General v. Remick [N. H.] 58 A. 871. Where a council consists of 17, 9 is a quorum, a majority of whom is sufficient to elect a clerk. In re Brearton, 44 Misc. 247, 89 N. Y. S. 893. A blank ballot cannot be considered in summing up a total vote, a majority of which a candidate must receive to be elected. Murdoch v. Strange [Md.] 57 A. 628.

87. Huey v. Jones, 140 Ala. 479, 37 So. 193.

88. Hope v. Alton [Ill.] 73 N. E. 406.

89. City of Houston v. Mahoney [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1142; City of Houston v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1144.

90. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6633b.

91. Featherngill v. State, 33 Ind. App. 683, 72 N. E. 181.

92. Chadduck v. Burke [Va.] 49 S. E. 976, citing many cases.

93. Chadduck v. Burke [Va.] 49 S. E. 976.

94. Kline v. McKelvey [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 896. By the constitution of New York the terms of city officers expire at the end of even numbered years. A statute provided that the term of office of the mayor of New York should end at noon, Jan. 1. The outgoing mayor appointed on Dec. 29, and again in the forenoon of Jan. 1, a successor to an officer whose term expired at midnight Dec. 31. Held, that he could not hold, as when first appointed there was no vacancy, and when subsequently appointed it was by one not authorized to appoint, the mayor's term having expired at midnight. People v. Fitzgerald [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 55.

95. Gouhenour v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 104.

96. Const. §§ 148, 152. Smith v. Doyle, 25 Ky. L. R. 958, 76 S. W. 519.

97. People v. Grout, 45 Misc. 47, 90 N. Y. S. 861. See 2 Curr. L. 1072, n. 57. Clerk in office in good faith abolished is not entitled to reinstatement merely because his notice stated that he was removed from office rather than suspended. People v. Monroe, 90 N. Y. S. 907. Under Greater N. Y. Rev. Charter (Laws 1901, p. 122, c. 466), taking effect Jan. 1, 1902, members of the "Brooklyn Borough Headquarters Squad" who were acting as such on April 1, 1901, were entitled to the position as detective sergeants. People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. 346, 84 N. Y. S. 565. Where at the same meeting at which an office is abolished another is created having the same duties, the removed officer is entitled to reinstatement. People v. Coleman, 99 App. Div. 88, 91 N. Y. S. 432.

98. People v. Grout, 45 Misc. 47, 90 N. Y. S. 861.

99. Policeman. No showing that a police department was ever organized. Moon v. Champaign [Ill.] 73 N. E. 408. A petition for mandamus to compel reinstatement of police sergeant which fails to allege a duly au-or mandamus to compel recognition as a police officer in New York city must be seasonably applied for.[2]

§ 5. Nature of tenure and duration of term.[3]—In the absence of constitutional limitations,[4] the legislature may extend or abridge the term,[5] or even wholly abolish the office.[6]

Statutes creating public offices usually prescribe the commencement and expiration of the term;[7] and where an officer's term is "until" a certain day, he holds office until midnight of that day.[8] It is also usually provided that an officer shall hold not only for the term prescribed but until his successor is duly chosen and qualified.[9] Where no such provision exists, the term ipso facto determines, and the incumbent holds as a de facto officer.[10] Where vacancies for a long and short term of office are filled at the same election, and the form of ballot used by the electors leaves the matter of which candidate is to serve for the longer term in thorized office and relator's right thereto is demurrable. People v. Chicago, 210 Ill. 479, 71 N. E. 400.

1. Delay of 15 months held unreasonable, though position not yet filled. Glori v. Newark Police Com'rs [N. J. Law] 60 A. 47.

2. Acquiescence from April to November held laches. People v. Greene, 87 App. Div. 346, 84 N. Y. S. 565. Held no laches in case. Id., 95 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 601.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1072.

4. See ante, § 2. Judges are not public officers within the meaning of a constitutional provision that no law shall extend the term of a public officer or change his salary after his election or appointment. Commonwealth v. Mathues [Pa.] 59 A. 961, approved in Michell Co. v. Matthues, 134 F. 493. An act extending the term of an incumbent of an office conflicts with a constitutional provision limiting the power of filling offices to the people. State v. Trewhitt [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 480. See 2 Curr. L. 1073, n. 75.

5. A statute extending an official term is not necessarily invalid in toto where there is proper authority to make a valid ad interim appointment to fill the vacancy. State v. Trewhitt [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 480. See 2 Curr. L. 1073, n. 77.

6. The legislature has the right to redistrict a county and abolish the office of justice of the peace in civil districts extinguished thereby. State v. Akin [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 805; Grainger County v. State [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 750. Though the legislature in Kentucky may abolish an office it cannot abolish the tenure of a rightful incumbent of an office even by so redistricting the territory as to leave him a resident of a district other than that for which he was elected. Adams v. Roberts [Ky.] 83 S. W. 1035. The office of water registrar for the city of Brooklyn was abolished by the charter of Greater New York. People v. Oakley, 93 App. Div. 535, 87 N. Y. S. 856. Where the municipal authorities of a town create an office for which the charter does not provide and elect one to the office thus created, they may at their pleasure abolish the office and thus discharge the municipality from liability to the officer notwithstanding his term as prescribed by the ordinance creating the office has not expired. Raley v. Warrenton, 120 Ga. 365, 47 S. E. 972.

7. The term of office of the mayor of Greater New York expires at midnight of December 31 of the even numbered year notwithstanding the statute prescribing Jan. 1, at noon. People v. Fitzgerald [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 55, afg. 96 App. Div. 242, 89 N. Y. S. 268. The term of a policeman in Houston, Tex., appointed for no definite term is two years, subject to removal for cause. City of Houston v. Estes [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 848. An auditor of the World's Columbian Commission was entitled to his office and its salary until the completion of the work of the commission and the filing of its report with the president. Butt v. U. S., 122 F. 511. The Kansas amendment of 1902 relates only to the election of township and county officers and the term of a judge of the municipal court of Kansas City was not extended thereby. Griffith v. Manning, 67 Kan. 559, 73 P. 75. An act creating a board and not limiting their term of office is not for that reason invalid, the limitation on the legislature against creating terms of more than four years applying to limit the term to that period. White v. Mears, 44 Or. 215, 74 P. 931. A city charter provision that policemen shall hold office during good behavior is invalid in Texas, but a prohibition of removal except for cause is valid. City of Houston v. Mahoney [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1142.

8. People v. Fitzgerald [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 55, afg. 96 App. Div. 242, 89 N. Y. S. 268.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1072, n. 67. The clerk of the school council is a public officer and continues in office until his successor is elected or appointed and qualified. State v. Coon, 26 Ohio C. C. 241, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 560. Where there was a tie vote on an election for school superintendent of a county, such vote did not render the office vacant, since the previous incumbent is entitled to hold the office until a successor is regularly elected. State v. Action [Mont.] 77 P. 299.

10. A mere appointment to an incompatible office, not followed by acceptance does not ipso facto determine the term of the prior office. De Zur v. Provost, 90 N. Y. S. 1016. Where an ad interim appointment of a school trustee is effective only until the next district meeting, but the voters assuming that he held office for the unexpired term failed to elect his successor, he holds over and is an officer de jure. Click v. Sample [Ark.] 83 S. W. 932.

ambiguity, the certificates of nomination and written acceptance thereof, being a matter of public record, may be referred to to determine the fact.[11] The appointee to an office in which a vacancy exists by operation of law holds only as an appointee to an unexpired term.[12]

Where the execution of an official bond and its deposit in the mail addressed to the proper custodian is shown, there is a sufficient compliance with the law to render one an officer de jure though the bond is not found on file in the proper office.[13] It will be presumed that offices are in possession as lawful incumbents.[14] The secretary of the treasury had authority to pass upon the quantum of compensation fixed for officers by the World's Columbian Commission, but none to determine questions relating to the tenure or duties of officers so appointed.[15]

§ 6. Resignation and removal.[16]—An acceptance of an unqualified resignation ends the term and the subsequent withdrawal of it on consent does not revive the term.[17]

Proceedings to try charges against police officers are quasi criminal in their nature, and valuable rights of the accused are at stake, hence the same safeguards used to protect the good name, fame, property, or person in courts of justice, should be observed.[18] Legislatures, however, may authorize the removal of public officers in a summary manner, provided such legislation does not contravene the provisions of Federal or state constitutions,[19] and is not in conflict with certain restrictive provisions of law designed to prevent unnecessary and ill considered changes in the public service[20] as exemplified in the various civil service laws,[21] or to provide steady public employment for those who by past military or other distinguished public service have recommended themselves to particular consideration.[22] This course is usually pursued in the case of mere agents or employes;[23] but where removal is authorized for specified cause,[24] the removal can only be exercised upon preferment of 11. Winters v. Warmolts, 70 N. J. Law, 615, 56 A. 245.

12. In re Lowman, 95 App. Div. 32, 88 N. Y. S. 533. See 2 Curr. L. 1073, n. 72.

13. Click v. Sample [Ark.] 83 S. W. 932.

14. There being a general law in force by which the governor is authorized to fill by appointment all vacancies in such offices. Territory v. Gutierrez [N. M.] 78 P. 139.

15. Butt v. U. S., 122 F. 511.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1074.

17. Provision that incumbent holds until successor is elected and qualified does not control. State v. Grace [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 485.

18. People v. Greene, 96 App. Div. 249, 89 N. Y. S. 343.

19. Christy v. Kingfisher [Okl.] 76 P. 135.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1074.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1074, n. 85. What are "regular clerks" within the civil service law. People v. McAdoo, 91 N. Y. S. 553. That part of the charter of the city of Jamestown which fixed the terms of policemen at one year was not repealed by the civil service law of New York passed in 1899. In re Tiffany [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 512. The provisions of the Massachusetts statute that every person holding office under such civil service rules "shall hold such office * * * and shall not be removed therefrom" does not apply to nor enlarge the term of police officers, who by the provision of another statute hold for a term of four years. Smith v. Wood [Mass.] 72 N. E. 988.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1074, n. 86. The veterans' law of New York is operative only in favor of veterans of the Civil and Spanish American War. People v. Hynes, 91 N. Y. S. 1032.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1074, n. 83. Carling v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 68 A. 395. The councils of cities of the third class in Kentucky may remove the city assessor at pleasure. Rogers v. Congleton [Ky.] 84 S. W. 521.

24. It is a willful and flagrant neglect of duty and not a mere technical violation of the rules for a police captain to withdraw an officer from a duty to which the commissioner has assigned him and employ him at other than police work and make no record thereof. People v. Green, 94 App. Div. 287, 87 N. Y. S. 1017. A police officer failing to execute a warrant for the arrest of a person for a crime therein charged cannot justify absolutely by showing that the magistrate issuing the warrant orally requested him not to serve it, though such a defense may be considered in mitigation. People v. McAdoo, 90 N. Y. S. 669. Removals of marshals and other city officers appointed by the council in Kentucky are not limited to removals for cause only. London v. Franklin, 25 Ky. L. R. 2306, 80 S. W. 514. The code of discipline of the police department of the city of Newark does not authorize the dismissal of an officer or patrolman from the police force for offenses or conduct committed prior to entry upon the service. Campbell v. Newark Police Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 84.

charges[25] and a hearing[26] upon notice.[27] Since such hearing is a judicial function,[28] a statute which makes no provision for an appeal to the courts from such a proceeding will not be upheld,[29] but courts have no inherent power to review a removal by the proper authority.[30] A police board may hear evidence at one meeting and pass upon the case at another, provided the second meeting is composed of the members who were present at the trial of the case;[31] but a deputy commissioner may not conduct the trial and thereafter report the evidence without making any finding of guilt or innocence and leave to the commissioners the duty to pass on the sufficiency of the evidence.[32] An order removing an officer on charges need not state whether he was found guilty under all the specifications.[33] Where charges of misconduct on the part of an officer have been fairly established by the proofs, courts will not interfere for every technical error that may be committed by the police commissioner in the progress of the investigation;[34] but where errors are of such a character as to show that the trial was not fair, it is the duty of the court to review the case and reverse the determination.[35] A finding against the weight of the evidence is not conclusive on the court.[36] The courts cannot review the excessiveness of punishment for neglect of duty, the same being within the law.[37] The right to present affidavits and other proof to the court is limited to facts which

25. Under the civil service law of New York, removals, reductions in salary, and change in position of persons in the classified service, cannot be made except on charges and opportunity to explain. Waters v. New York, 43 Misc. 154, 88 N. Y. S. 238. A municipal court justice cannot remove an attendant who is a Spanish War veteran without a hearing on charges. People v. Hoffman, 98 App. Div. 4, 90 N. Y. S. 184. A police officer, though otherwise qualified, is not entitled to retirement on pension while charges are pending against him though they are not verified until after his application for retirement. People v. Greene, 97 App. Div. 502, 90 N. Y. S. 162. It is not necessary that every specification be proved. It is enough if any be supported. People v. Sturgis, 96 App. Div. 620, 88 N. Y. S. 631.

26. The water registrar in charge of the water office in Brooklyn is not the head of a bureau and as such entitled to a hearing before removal. People v. Oakley, 93 App. Div. 535, 87 N. Y. S. 856. The police commission may reduce a roundsman to patrolman after a trial. People v. Greene, 90 N. Y. S. 833.

27. A discharge without notice and opportunity to be heard is unwarranted. City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816.

28. In the trial of charges against a policeman, it is improper for two deputy commissioners to act alternately as accuser, witness, prosecutor, and judge. People v. Greene, 96 App. Div. 249, 89 N. Y. S. 343.

29. Christy v. Kingfisher [Okl.] 76 P. 135.

30. In the absence of statutory authority, the action of the proper authority in lawfully removing a public officer or employe is not reviewable by the courts. Patrolman. City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816. See 2 Curr. L. 1076, n. 14.

31. State v. Board of Police Com'rs, 113 La. 424, 37 So. 16.

32. People v. Partridge, 93 App. Div. 473, 87 N. Y. S. 680; People v. Greene, 97 App. Div. 404, 89 N. Y. S. 1067. See 2 Curr. L. 1076, n. 10, 11. A deputy police commissioner in New York is not required to make written findings to authorize commissioner to dismiss officers from the force. People v. Partridge [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 4.

33. People v. Sturgis, 96 App. Div. 620, 88 N. Y. S. 631.

34. Campbell v. Newark Police Com'rs [N. J. Law] 58 A. 84. Where the proof is clear, the determination of the commissioner will not be set aside though facts subsequent to the trial were laid before him in a letter which he certified he did not take into consideration in reaching his determination. People v. Greene, 97 App. Div. 502, 90 N. Y. S. 162. A finding on sufficient evidence will not be set aside where there is not such a preponderance against it as would justify setting aside a verdict. People v. Greene, 96 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 1060; People v. Webster, 90 N. Y. S. 723. It is no objection to the jurisdiction of the commissioner that he has previous knowledge of the officer's guilt and believes him guilty. People v. Partridge, 99 App. Div. 410, 91 N. Y. S. 258.

35. Admission of testimony beyond range of charge preferred. People v. Greene [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 99. Whether in making a determination of removal by a police commissioner, any rule of law prejudicially affecting the relator has been violated is open to review on appeal. Removal of police captain. People v. Greene [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 777. Where the determination of the deputy commissioner is not his free and honest judgment but was induced by threats by the person making the charges, it will be annulled. People v. Monroe, 97 App. Div. 929, 89 N. Y. S. 929. Refusal of the commissioner to postpone trial on sufficient cause shown is reviewable. People v. Webster, 90 N. Y. S. 723. Proceedings to impeach policeman set aside for failure of evidence. Lamb v. Brunswick, 121 Ga. 345, 49 S. E. 275.

36. People v. Partridge, 95 App. Div. 323, 88 N. Y. S. 657; People v. Hogan, 91 N. Y. S. 715.

37. People v. Greene, 94 App. Div. 287, 87 N. Y. S. 1017; Id., 96 App. Div. 1, 88 N. Y. S. 1060.

affect the jurisdiction of the commissioner.[38] Proceedings to remove a member of a city fire department for failure to pay a debt will be enjoined by the Federal court where bankruptcy proceedings are pending against him, the debt is provable therein, and the efficiency of the department is in no wise impaired by failure to pay the debt.[39] A de facto officer drawing pay and exercising the functions of his office at the mere will of the city may be dismissed at any time and is not entitled to mandamus to compel his restoration.[40] Where proceedings for the removal of county, municipal, or township officers may be commenced by an accusation or information in writing, such an accusation is not an "indictment" objectionable on the ground that it contains more than one offense.[41] The denial of a motion to suspend an officer pending the prosecution and disposition of a statutory procedure for his removal from office will not be reviewed by mandamus.[42] Where the board of aldermen of a city are authorized by law to try and depose the mayor on charges, members preferring them are not disqualified to sit in his trial, they not being a court, but an administrative body and the constitutional inhibition against interested judges not being applicable.[43]

To be entitled to retirement under the police pension law, the applicant must be a member of the force at the time of applying.[44] A policeman of Brooklyn is entitled to retirement on pension only after service of twenty-five years.[45]

§ 7. Proceedings to try title to office.[46]—The jurisdiction of courts of chancery is confined to questions arising relative to property or civil rights, and the mere right to office or of the nomination to an office or the acts of public officers in the discharge of their duties cannot be regulated or controlled by the writ of injunction.[47] The title of a de facto incumbent to a public office cannot in general be examined in any collateral proceeding attacking his official acts,[48] nor can the question be raised in any other way except by some common-law or statutory remedy directly raising the issue;[49] but mandamus lies to compel the admission to office of the party having a clear prima facie right thereto shown by a commission, certificate or other legal evidence thereof,[50] and will be awarded in favor of such a 38. People v. Partridge, 99 App. Div. 410, 91 N. Y. S. 258.

39. In re Hicks, 133 F. 739.

40. McNeill v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 481, 72 N. E. 450.

41. In re Burleigh, 145 Cal. 35, 78 P. 242.

42. Appeal is the proper remedy. State v. District Court of Fourth Judicial Dist. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 248.

43. Const. art. 5, § 11. Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 77 S. W. 946.

44. State v. Policemen's Pension Fund Trustees [Wis.] 101 N. W. 373.

45. Friel v. McAdoo, 91 N. Y. S. 454.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1077.

47. People v. Rose, 211 Ill. 252, 71 N. E. 1124. The title to an office cannot be tried in a suit to enjoin one of the rival claimants from interfering with the possession of the incumbent. Scott v. Sheehan, 145 Cal. 691, 79 P. 353.

48. The question of the validity of the appointment of an incumbent of a judicial office cannot in the District of Columbia be tried on certiorari to review a judgment rendered by him. Anderson v. Morton, 21 App. D. C. 444. In case of a legal office, which can be filled by a de facto officer, the validity of an appointment thereto, and the right of the appointee to hold it, cannot be questioned in habeas corpus proceedings. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166. Where school trustees are declared elected and they assume to act as such, the regularity of their election cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding to restrain the levy of a tax voted by the district at an election, the call for which was participated in by such trustees. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18.

49. The right to an office occupied by one claiming title thereto under a certificate of election cannot be determined in a suit instituted by an adverse claimant for the salary of the position (State v. Moores [Neb.] 99 N. W. 504), nor does certiorari lie to correct the record of an appointment or election to office merely to pave the way for a contest with another to the office (Daniels v. Newbold [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1119).

50. Kline v. McKelvey [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 896. Mandamus and not election contest is the remedy of one who was the only candidate for a public office and whom the election board refuses to recognize. Morris v. Glover, 121 Ga. 751, 49 S. E. 786. A public officer in the civil service of the state cannot in mandamus litigate his claim to the office from which he has been removed while another holds it under color of title and is in receipt of the salary attached. People v. Hamilton, 44 Misc. 577, 90 N. Y. S. 97.

person against one holding over after expiration of his term.[51] Though the court will not try title to an office on a proceeding to compel delivery of books and papers, it will look into the matter far enough to determine whether petitioner has a prima facie right.[52]

The proper proceeding at common law[53] to try the title to public office is an information in the nature of quo warranto,[54] the purpose of such proceedings at common law being to oust the respondent from office, and not to install the relator or any person into the office.[55] The attorney general ex officio has the right to file such an information, and is not compelled to ask leave of the court; but in the absence of a statute, and without the intervention of the attorney general, a private individual cannot either as of right or by leave of the court.[56]

In an action by the commonwealth for usurpation of an office, the burden to show title is on defendant;[57] but in an action of quo warranto to remove an officer for violation of his duty, the issue of primary importance is that concerning the good faith of the defendant in his official conduct,[58] and upon the trial of such an action, the law presumes that the defendant acted in good faith in all the matters charged against him, and the burden rests upon the state to show otherwise by a preponderance of the evidence.[59] The statute in South Carolina requiring defendant to give bond for costs and emoluments is upheld.[60] The record of a vote of a city council appointing an incumbent to office does not import absolute verity so as to preclude attack in a proceeding by quo warranto to try such incumbent's title.[61] Where, pending a writ of error from a contest the term of office in dispute expires, the writ will be dismissed.[62]

51. Kline v. McKelvey [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 896.

52. In re Brearton, 44 Misc. 247, 89 N. Y. S. 893.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1077, n. 25.

54. Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620. Charter provision construed with reference to term of city attorney. Attorney General v. Shekell [Mich.] 101 N. W. 525. A position being a mere employment quo warranto cannot be maintained by one claiming to be rightfully appointed to such position. Under Rev. St. § 930, the position of superintendent of a county children's home is an employment. State v. McGonagle, 26 Ohio C. C. 685, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 292. See Quo Warranto, 2 Curr. L. 1377.

Note: The writ of quo warranto became obsolete in England before our Revolution. Attorney General v. Sullivan, 163 Mass. 446, 40 N. E. 843, 28 L. R. A. 455. It was a civil proceeding, and issued out of chancery as of right in favor of the crown. The information in the nature of a writ of quo warranto was a criminal proceeding, in which, if the issue was found against the defendant, in addition to a judgment of ouster a fine could be imposed. It is now regarded as a civil remedy, though criminal in form, and is the process that is uniformly used in most of the states of the Union. Osgood v. Jones, 60 N. H. 543; Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620.

55. A judgment ordering the delivery of books, etc., to relator, held erroneous as beyond scope of quo warranto proceedings. Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719. The statute of 9 Anne which provides for judgment of ouster, fine, and costs against the respondent upon an information in the nature of a quo warranto, is a part of the common law in New Mexico. Id.

56. Meehan v. Bachelder [N. H.] 59 A. 620. Private individual to maintain mandamus must make claim to office, and must show that attorney general has refused to allow use of his name on behalf of state. Ney v. Whiteley [R. I.] 59 A. 400.

Note: In some jurisdictions it is held that the Attorney General, in the performance of his official duties, is not an officer of the court, but of the state, and, as such officer, is clothed with a large discretion, in the exercise of which he is not subject to the orders and direction of the court. Attorney General v. Sullivan, 163 Mass. 446, 40 N. E. 843, 28 L. R. A. 455; Attorney General v. Shomo, 167 Mass. 424, 45 N. E. 762; Haupt v. Rogers, 170 Mass. 71, 48 N. E. 1080; State v. Gleason, 12 Fla. 190. While in other states the courts, on a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the Attorney General to institute proceedings to try the title to a public office, he having declined to do so, have exercised the power of reviewing his discretion, and, in case of its abuse, have required him to proceed. Fuller v. Attorney General, 98 Mich. 96, 57 N. W. 33; Cain v. Brown, 111 Mich. 657, 70 N. W. 337; Everding v. McGinn, 23 Or. 15, 35 P. 178.

57. Stack v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 81 S. W. 917.

58. County attorney failing to enforce prohibitory liquor law. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

59. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

60. McCall v. Webb, 135 N. C. 356, 47 S. E. 802.

61. Daniels v. Newbold [Iowa] 100 N. W. 1119.

§ 8. Powers and duties.[63]—An officer may be an officer de facto notwithstanding the unconstitutionality of the statute under which he has been appointed.[64] But there cannot be an officer de facto where there is no legal office, though a person has been employed to perform duties that properly belong to such an office where one exists.[65] Where one claims rights as an officer by virtue of his office, he must show that he is an officer de jure, and a showing that he is an officer de facto is not sufficient.[66]

A person regularly appointed to an appointive office and holding over after his term has expired, and one in possession of the office under an irregular appointment, are de facto officers whose official acts are valid;[67] but a person elected to an appointive office, there being no legal authority for holding the election, is not even a de facto officer, and his acts are void.[68] Where a municipality and another, parties to a contract, have agreed to submit matters in dispute to an arbitrator, who at the same time is a city officer, the fact that such person is removed from office does not operate to relieve or deprive him of jurisdiction of the arbitration proceedings.[69]

Public officers have of course all powers expressly conferred upon them, and as well such as by necessary implication are requisite to enable them to discharge the official duties devolved upon them.[70] Hence boards of supervisors may employ counsel to aid the district attorney in protecting the interests of the county;[71] and a city of the third class in Missouri is entitled to appoint a city engineer;[72] but an officer other than an engineer can perform the duties of such office provided he has the proper qualifications.[73]

Police officers, however, have no power on making an arrest to accept a deposit of money for the appearance of the person arrested in court.[74] Where a majority of the judges of a supreme court decline to sit because of personal interest in the result, the powers of the court devolve on the remaining judges,[75] and where powers are conferred upon and to be exercised by a board, it suffices always that a quorum

62. Elbon v. Hamrick [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1029, reaffirmed without opinion Hamilton v. Ammons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 128.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1079.

64. Watson v. McGrath [La.] 36 So. 204.

65. City engineer. Weesner v. Central Nat. Bank, 106 Mo. App. 668, 80 S. W. 319.

66. Moon v. Champaign [Ill.] 73 N. E. 408.

67. Fire commissioners verbally appointed. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539.

68. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539.

69. Werneberg, Sheehan & Co. v. Pittsburg [Pa.] 59 A. 1000.

70. Deputy clerk of probate court is without authority to receive the election of a widow. Mellinger v. Mellinger, 26 Ohio C. C. 683, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 435. The commissioner of docks has no authority to lease a portion of a marginal street for a stand for the sale of flowers and tobacco. Villas v. Featherson, 94 App. Div. 259, 87 N. Y. S. 1094. The veto power of the mayor under the Bessemer, Alabama, charter is not applicable in the election of officers. Huey v. Jones, 140 Ala. 479, 37 So. 193. Tax collectors in Louisiana may not lawfully pay or purchase claims against the parish. But where they have been authorized by the police jury to pay or take up certificates and orders issued for legal and valid parish indebtedness, and have done so, they are entitled in equity to restitution. Young v. Parish of East Baton Rouge, 112 La. 511, 36 So. 547. A revenue agent in Tennessee is authorized to bring suit against a county judge to recover public moneys alleged to have been illegally paid over to such judge. State v. Kelley [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 311. The commissioner of sea and shore fisheries of Maine has authority to settle offenses in violation of Rev. St. c. 41, § 17, without suit or prosecution. He may likewise direct one of his wardens to make demand for payment of the penalty incurred. State v. Hanna [Me.] 58 A. 1061. An act (Act 1901, p. 373, c. 174), authorizing the appointment of revenue agents to examine and audit the accounts of all officials charged with the collection of taxes, held constitutional. State v. Kelley [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 311.

71. Santa Cruz County v. Barnes [Ariz.] 76 P. 621.

72, 73. Weesner v. Central Nat. Bank, 106 Mo. App. 668, 80 S. W. 319.

74. Richardson v. Junction City [Kan.] 77 P. 691.

75. Commonwealth v. Mathues [Pa.] 59 A. 961, afd. in Michell Co. v. Matthues, 134 F. 493.

of the board should be present and that a majority of the quorum concur.[76] A board may be represented by its sub-officers and employes.[77]

Assessors of taxes are not agents of the town,[78] and public officers cannot bind the government by acts beyond the scope of their actual authority, though within the apparent scope of their authority;[79] but officers appointed by a town may be agents for whom the town is liable at common law, or may be simply officers for whose acts the town is not liable unless made so by statute.[80] Where public officers act within the apparent scope of their authority, the burden to prove excess of power is upon the party asserting such defense.[81] One who has received a certificate of election or appointment from the proper officers has a prima facie title, entitling him to maintain proceedings for possession of books and papers, though his title turns on difficult questions of law.[82]

Mandamus is a proper remedy to compel such delivery,[83] but where respondent denies their possession, a question of fact arises which must be determined on proof before an order can issue.[84]

In the absence of a supported charge of illegality or fraud, the courts have no authority to interfere with public officers in the discharge of their duties;[85] but the statutes of Nebraska require the mayor and chief of police of cities to actively interfere to prevent or stop open violations of law.[86] A substantial compliance with statutory directions in the performance of duties, disregarding unessential particulars, is sufficient.[87]

Mandamus will lie to control only plain ministerial duties,[88] and does not extend to quasi judicial[89] and discretionary action.[90] Mandamus will not be granted

76. State v. Board of Police Com'rs, 113 La. 424, 37 So. 16.

77. President, secretary and architect. Fransen v. Regents of Education of South Dakota [C. C. A.] 133 F. 24.

78. There is no such relationship between the town and the assessors as makes the opinion of the latter admissible against the former. Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. v. Bradley [Me.] 59 A. 83. The statement of a tax ferret to a taxpayer who had wrongfully withheld property from taxation that if others did not have to pay like taxes the taxes paid would be refunded is not binding on county so as to authorize a recovery of the amount paid. Kehe v. Blackhawk County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 281.

79. Orange County v. Texas, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 670.

80. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

81. Martin v. Common School Dist. No. 61 [Minn.] 101 N. W. 952.

82. In re Brearton, 44 Misc. 247, 89 N. Y. S. 893; Christy v. Kingfisher [Okl.] 76 P. 135. Books of a city engineer, containing field notes made by him in surveying lots of individual owners upon their application, under their employment, and at their expense, are his private property and need not be delivered to his successor. Leffingwell v. Miller [Colo. App.] 79 P. 327.

83. State v. Givens [Fla.] 37 So. 308.

84. In re Gill, 95 App. Div. 174, 88 N. Y. S. 466.

85. People v. Trustees of Village of White Plains, 93 App. Div. 599, 88 N. Y. S. 506. The discretion of officers empowered to approve official bonds cannot be controlled by mandamus, though action was influenced by corrupt motives; but an arbitrary refusal to exercise discretion may be controlled. Gouhenour v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 104. A county attorney is not obliged to institute proceedings for the punishment of offenders against the prohibitory liquor law upon his own knowledge, but whenever notified by an officer or other person of any violation of that law, it is his duty forthwith diligently to exercise all the authority conferred upon him by law for the purpose of disclosing, prosecuting and punishing the offender. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854. Mandamus will not lie to compel the arrest without warrant of certain designated persons for alleged commission of a misdemeanor. State v. Williams [Or.] 77 P. 965, 67 L. R. A. 166.

86. Closing of public gaming house. Moores v. State [Neb.] 99 N. W. 249.

87. Letting contract for public printing. People v. McDonough, 173 N. Y. 181, 65 N. E. 963.

88. Indian agent cannot be ordered to countersign Indian's check against fund arising from sale of public land. Hitchcock v. United States, 22 App. D. C. 275. On mandamus to compel comptroller to sign pay roll checks, he cannot raise the question that the position had not been classified. People v. Johnston, 38 Misc. 645, 78 N. Y. S. 212, afd. 75 App. Div. 630, 78 N. Y. S. 1131.

89. Classification of position by civil service commission. Dill v. Wheeler, 91 N. Y. S. 686. In changing the civil service rules by virtue of which it becomes possible to remove an officer and give the office to another, the civil service commission acts in a quasi-judicial capacity, and its action cannot be reviewed or set aside by mandamus. People v. Hamilton, 44 Misc. 577, 90 N. Y. S. 97; Id., 90 N. Y. S. 547.

90. Retirement of policeman on pension.

to compel the secretary of the interior and commissioner of Indian affairs to order an Indian agent to perform a plain ministerial duty, since if the duty is plain no order is necessary,[91] nor will this writ be granted to compel one to do a particular act which his superior in office has lawfully ordered him not to do.[92] A private citizen has no standing to enjoin the enforcement of a writ of mandamus granted against a state treasurer to compel the payment of a salary.[93]

Where the right to an office is not in issue, the only issue being the amount of compensation, the payment of the proper amount may be enforced by mandamus.[94] The duties of public examining and licensing boards are to some extent at least judicial in character, and an appeal from their decision, in the absence of statutory provision therefor, does not lie.[95]

Bonds payable to an officer for another's benefit may be sued in his name after his retirement.[96]

§ 9. Compensation.[97]—Since an officer's right to compensation is not based upon contract,[98] compensation cannot be exacted for services performed unless specifically provided by law,[99] and the rule that contract rights acquired under one interpretation of the law are not divested by a subsequent different interpretation does not apply.[1]

Public officers must perform the duties of their offices, however onerous they may be, for the compensation fixed by law, and will not be allowed compensation for extra services, unless expressly authorized by statute.[2] In the note are collated cases where allowances in one form or another were granted.[3]

Friel v. McAdoo, 91 N. Y. S. 454. The exercise of discretion by public officers is not amenable to judicial review except in a capital case. State v. Birch [Mo.] 85 S. W. 361. Mandamus to compel arrest of persons accused of violating liquor laws denied. State v. Moores [Neb.] 99 N. W. 842.

91. Hitchcock v. U. S., 22 App. D. C. 275.

92. State v. Williams [Or.] 77 P. 965, 67 L. R. A. 166.

93. Newlin v. Harris, 209 Pa. 558, 58 A. 925.

94. People v. Greene, 95 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 601.

95. Registration in dentistry. Kenney v. State Board of Dentistry [R. I.] 59 A. 932. The California act of February 27, 1901, for the regulation of the practice of medicine and surgery is constitutional. Ex parte Gerino, 143 Cal. 412, 77 P. 166.

96. O'Neill Mfg. Co. v. Harris, 120 Ga. 467, 47 S. E. 934. Query, may his successor sue in his own name? Id.

97, 98. See 2 Curr. L. 1081.

99. Usage is without weight in the matter of allowance of fees to public officers. Millard v. Conrade, 26 Ohio C. C. 445, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145. Mere possession of office and performance of duties give no right to enforce recovery for compensation. Smith v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 186. State law construed not to create direct liability of railway company for commissioners' compensation. Linton v. Long Island R. Co., 91 App. Div. 515, 86 N. Y. S. 903. Laws 1897, p. 763, c. 499, relative to improvements to be made under the direction of a board, the expenses to be borne half by the municipality and half by the railway, held a commissioner cannot enforce payment of his salary against the railway in the absence of any showing that his claim has been passed on by the board. Id. Mandamus to compel payment of salary must show definite salary and an absolute right to it by lapse of time. Moores v. State [Neb.] 93 N. W. 986.

1. Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140.

2. Pawnee County v. Belding, 1 Neb. Unoff. 533, 95 N. W. 776. See 2 Curr. L. 1081, n. 69. County treasurer in Illinois not entitled to further compensation for acting as supervisor of assessments. Parker v. Richland County [Ill.] 73 N. E. 451. The district attorney in California is not entitled to extra compensation in the form of an allowance for stenographer's services. Humiston v. Shaffer, 145 Cal. 195, 78 P. 651. The keeper of a house of refuge is not entitled to the one year's extra pay granted to the "keeper or member of a crew of a life saving or life boat station." Fulford's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 548. A county clerk who receives a salary is not entitled to special compensation for official services, unless the statute so provides. Comer v. Morgan County Com'rs, 32 Ind. App. 477, 70 N. E. 179. The fiscal court of Kentucky has no authority to allow its members any other compensation than that provided by statute [Ky. St. 1903, § 1845]. Boyd County v. Arthur, 26 Ky. L. R. 906, 82 S. W. 613. Fees of probate judges in several matters. Millard v. Conrade, 26 Ohio C. C. 445, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145. Under the provisions of section 3024, Gen. St. 1901, a county is not liable for clerk hire in the office of its treasurer, unless the board of county commissioners make an allowance therefor in such a sum within the statutory limit as it may deem necessary. Roth v. Ness County Com'rs [Kan.] 77 P. 694. When an inhabitant of a municipal corporation accepts a position of honor and trust for the benefit of all the inhabitants, whether the position be created by statute or by municipal ac-

The declaration of an auditor and assessor prior to his election that he intended to claim commissions on the sums collected as assessor did not confer on him a right to the commissions,[4] nor did the fact that he previously retained commissions on sums collected as assessor,[5] nor that some of the city officials had approved of his act, or consented thereto, nor that it was a matter of common notoriety.[6]

Within the limits of constitutional restrictions, the legislature has power to change not alone the mode of compensation,[7] but the amount of compensation as well,[8] and statutes providing salary for officers in lieu of fees,[9] and providing for the deposit in the county or state treasury of all fees over a certain maximum, are upheld.[10] A constitutional provision that the compensation of a public officer shall not be increased or diminished during his term is not violated by a statute providing for a new board to take the place of an old one and providing a different salary,[11] but a statute allowing additional commissions as applied to an officer whose term began before its enactment, or legalizing commissions theretofore allowed, is invalid.[12] There is no invalidity in a statute that limits the number of days a county officer may draw pay for in a single year.[13] While townships and counties may be tion, and no provision by law or contract is made for compensation, no duty is imposed upon the municipality to pay such inhabitant for services rendered in performing the uncompensated public duty he has thus voluntarily assumed. Beckwith v. Farmington [Conn.] 59 A. 43.

3. A county auditor is entitled, under the statute, to an additional allowance for clerk hire during the year in which the decennial reappraisement of real property is made and up to the time when the board of equalization must have completed its work, the fourth Monday in January of the second year following the reappraisement. State v. Godfrey, 24 Ohio C. C. 455, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 465. County recorder is entitled to reasonable allowance for services of an assistant irrespective of what he paid such assistant. Allen v. Adams County, 120 Iowa, 63, 94 N. W. 261. A county auditor is entitled to receive for indexing the records of county commissioners the same fees as other officers receive for like services. State v. Godfrey, 24 Ohio C. C. 455, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 465. The fact that property formerly improperly omitted from tax duplicates is placed thereon through evidence furnished by an inquisitor employed and paid for that purpose does not deprive the county auditor of his compensation for amounts collected from property so listed. Id. Under the Oregon statutes a justice of the peace acting as a magistrate in the examination of a charge of libel is entitled to fees for the services performed. Wallowa County v. Oakes [Or.] 78 P. 892. The clerk of the supreme court is entitled to fees for services rendered in a suit for taxes brought under §§ 649, 650, Comp. Laws 1897, of New Mexico. Sena v. Bernalillo County [N. M.] 78 P. 46. An account for unpaid salary as district attorney of Bernalillo county, void under the Bateman act (Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 299-302), was revived by §§ 6-11, c. 39, pp. 78, 79, Laws 1901, and said county was thereby made liable to pay the same. Johnston v. Bernalillo County Com'rs [N. M.] 78 P. 43. Regardless of any technical defect in the authority appointing or employing city employes, the city is bound to pay for services received and accepted. Wiggin v. Manchester, 72 N. H. 576, 58 A. 522. For services more onerous than was anticipated, additional compensation may be granted. City physician. Congdon v. Nashua, 72 N. H. 468, 57 A. 686. Under Iowa Code, § 1026, health officers may be engaged to perform additional services in emergency cases at extra compensation. Dewitt v. Mills County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 766.

4, 5, 6. City of Oakland v. Snow, 145 Cal. 419, 78 P. 1060.

7. Fixing compensation of justices of the peace of townships at a monthly salary, varying according to a classification of townships by population, instead of fees. McCauley v. Culbert, 144 Cal. 276, 77 P. 923. Fees allowed officers as compensation in lieu of salary are subject to the constitutional provision forbidding compensation to be changed during their term [Const. Ky. § 161]. Taylor v. Adair County [Ky.] 84 S. W. 299.

8. Carling v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 395. Reasonable reductions in salary are not prohibited by the veterans' law. Black v. Board of Education, 92 N. Y. S. 118. Where a reduction in salary was in fact made by the officer whose duty it was, it is immaterial that he did it by order of his superior. Hartmann v. New York, 44 Misc. 272, 89 N. Y. S. 912. Right to increase during term denied. Wolf v. Hope, 210 Ill. 50, 70 N. E. 1082. Where the compensation of an officer or employe is fixed by the statute, it belongs to him and no other officer can increase, diminish, or withhold it. An agreement to forego it in consideration of appointment to another office, not incompatible, is void. Geddes' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 428; Grieb v. Syracuse, 94 App. Div. 133, 87 N. Y. S. 1083.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1083, n. 96. Mitchell v. Clay County [Neb.] 98 N. W. 662; Smith v. Clay County [Neb.] 99 N. W. 501.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1083, n. 97. Tarrant County v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 656; State v. Speed, 183 Mo. 186, 81 S. W. 1260.

11. Thomas v. State [S. D.] 97 N. W. 1011.

12. Butte County v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 P. 1036.

13. Board of Com'rs of Whitley County v. Garty, 161 Ind. 464, 68 N. E. 1012.

classified on the basis of population for the purpose of regulating compensation, yet such a statute must not offend a constitutional provision fixing salaries "in proportion to duties."[14] To be entitled to the salary of an office the claimant must be an officer de jure;[15] but a city has a right to regard the incumbent of an office holding a certificate as the officer and pay him its salary,[16] and a statute providing that one actually holding a contested office and discharging its duties shall be entitled to its salary is unobjectionable.[17] A successful contestant for an office cannot recover of the state the salary paid the contestee during his incumbency of the office,[18] nor can an unsuccessful contestee maintain an action for services rendered while he was in possession.[19]

After petition for rehearing of an election contest is filed, the city is not bound to withhold payment of the salary to the incumbent until it is decided.[20] Neither officers nor employes are entitled to pay while out of office under suspension or removal;[21] but where an officer is discharged by one having no power to do so and is prevented from performing the duties of his office, he is entitled to its salary, though he performed no duties and engaged in other pursuits.[22]

A stenographer of a municipal commission, though appointed at a yearly salary, is not entitled to pay for a period while there were no commissioners in office.[23] An officer is not, by accepting a less sum, estopped to demand his full compensation,[24] but a mere employe by receiving without protest a less sum than was paid him at the beginning of his service accepts it as compensation in full.[25] Per diem pay is usually allowable for days of actual service.[26] A public officer can assign his salary after it has been earned.[27]

Cases involving the proper compensation of Federal officials and employes[28] and the fees of police officers and magistrates,[29] are collected in the notes.

14. Tucker v. Barnum, 144 Cal. 266, 77 P. 919. In Pennsylvania treasurers in counties containing over 150,000 inhabitants are not entitled to commissions on personal property tax and on municipal loans collected by them (City of Philadelphia v. McMichael, 208 Pa. 297, 57 A. 705), nor may they retain for their own use fees for issuing mercantile licenses (Luzerne County v. Kirkendall, 209 Pa. 116, 58 A. 156).

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1082, n. 76. Sheridan v. St. Louis, 183 Mo. 25, 81 S. W. 1082. Where an officer takes an official oath, gives a bond, and enters on the discharge of his duties without objection, he becomes an officer de jure, though his qualification is not strictly formal. City of Houston v. Estes [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 848.

16. Bradley v. Georgetown, 26 Ky. L. R. 614, 82 S. W. 303; Smith v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 186.

17. Wilson v. Fisher, 140 Cal. 188, 73 P. 850.

18. The remedy is a suit against the contestee who has received the salary. Nall v. Coulter, 25 Ky. L. R. 1891, 78 S. W. 1110; State v. Babcock, 106 Mo. App. 72, 80 S. W. 45. The remedy of a person wrongfully deprived of an office is to recover his damages for the wrong against the usurper. Stemmler v. New York [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 581.

19. Smith v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 186.

20. Bradley v. Georgetown, 26 Ky. L. R. 614, 82 S. W. 303.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1082, n. 83. City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816. The New York statute providing for compensation to veterans unlawfully removed from office during the period of their removal is constitutional. People v. Grout, 44 Misc. 526, 90 N. Y. S. 122.

22. City of Houston v. Estes [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 848. The laying off or suspending of police officers for a portion of each month and their acceptance of the reduced pay based on such suspension does not estop them from claiming full pay where the suspension was unauthorized, though made to meet a deficiency of funds. City of Louisville v. Corley, 25 Ky. L. R. 2174, 80 S. W. 203.

23. In re Young, 44 Misc. 521, 90 N. Y. S. 74.

24. People v. Greene, 95 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 601. Taking regular pay estops to claim more on ground of service for more than eight hours each day. Burns v. Fox, 90 N. Y. S. 254.

25. Grieb v. Syracuse, 94 App. Div. 133, 87 N. Y. S. 1083.

26. Carpenter employed by board of education cannot recover for time lost by reason of injuries. Conlin v. Board of Education of New York, 43 Misc. 125, 88 N. Y. S. 210. Examiners of Indian lands are entitled to per diem only for days of actual service. Stevens' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 452.

27. Oberdorfer v. Louisville School Board [Ky.] 85 S. W. 696.

28. The appropriation by congress in 1891 of $5,000 for the salary of each of the judges of the District of Columbia supreme court raised their salary from $4,000 to $5,000 only

When the fees of an officer are regulated by law and he has performed the service which entitles him to the compensation prescribed, the county has no discretion but to allow the claim, and for refusal an action may be maintained.[30] Though the marshal of the supreme court acts as governor's messenger to bring a fugitive from justice from another state, the court has no authority to approve his expense account, that being the governor's duty.[31] An action cannot be maintained to recover back the salary and expenses of an officer, paid to him under an unconstitutional law, but before it is so declared by a court of competent jurisdiction.[32]

Where a legislature nearly 25 years after the commencement of the term of office mentioned, and nearly 20 years after it has ended, seeks to impose a liability upon a city for an officer's salary during the period he was contesting the right of another to the office, the plaintiff cannot recover without showing strict compliance with the requirements of such statute.[33] The personal representative of an attorney who performed services under a contract for fees but died before full performance can recover only such reasonable proportion of the contract price as the services temporarily. Judge retiring was not entitled to $5,000 per year. James' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 615. The clerks of courts of the United States are not entitled to fees for the duplicate of their accounts to be retained in their offices as provided by statute. Hart's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 571. Where a vice-consul performs the duties of the office during the absence of the consul and presents no claim therefor until after the consul's death, he having in the meantime received full salary, it will be presumed the vice-consul was paid by the consul under agreement between them. Wilbor's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 1. A retired naval officer serving in time of war on the active list and appointed meteorologist by the secretary of the navy under a statute providing an emergency fund for the war is entitled to pay as a meteorologist, though he also draws pay as a retired officer. Hayden's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 39. A naval officer who acquiesces in the distribution of bounty money on a certain basis cannot afterwards claim the right to a larger share and thus make the government pay twice. Gates' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 52. A naval officer cannot recover commutation for quarters during the time he occupied as a guest a room belonging to the marine barracks. Odell's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 194. Officers assigned to staff duty by command of the major general of the army by direction of the secretary of war, though they do staff duty, are not entitled to staff pay under a statute authorizing the president to assign officers to staff duty in his discretion. Truitt's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 398. An officer on the retired list who is also chief clerk of the department of agriculture is entitled to the pay of both offices. Geddes' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 428. A letter carrier, on charges against him being dismissed, is entitled to pay during the period of his suspension. Corcoran's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 341. The pay of a retired officer is an honorary form of pension, its recipient owing no service to the government. Geddes' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 428.

29. The marshal of Higginsville, Mo., cannot recover fees of the city on conviction of offenders without showing that the amount of fine and costs was in fact worked out by the offender. Fortner v. Higginsville, 106 Mo. App. 560, 80 S. W. 983. An ordinance provided for a salary for the constable; another ordinance was passed giving him a per cent of fines imposed and repealing all former ordinances in conflict with the one as to fees. The constable made no demand for his salary during his term. Held he was only entitled to the fees. Maxey v. Tompkinsville, 25 Ky. L. R. 1948, 79 S. W. 214. Mayors of cities in Ohio are entitled to retain fees and costs collected in criminal cases tried before them, and a city ordinance requiring such fees and costs to be paid into the city treasury is invalid as in conflict with the statute [Rev. St. § 1309]. City of Piqua v. Cron, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 165. The police justice of Newport News cannot recover of the city fees for issuing and trying warrants for violating city ordinances. City of Newport News v. Brown, 102 Va. 107, 45 S. E. 806.

30. Wallowa County v. Oakes [Or.] 78 P. 892. The claim of a county treasurer in Colorado is a claim ex contractu and therefore within the statutes of that state requiring presentment to the proper board for audit as a condition precedent to suit. Gregg v. Lake County Com'rs [Colo.] 76 P. 376.

31. State v. Allen, 180 Mo. 27, 79 S. W. 164.

32. State v. Carlisle, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 637. Section 897b, and that part of § 897 which is intended to be applicable to Franklin county conceded to be unconstitutional. Id. In Rev. St. § 2813, providing for the per diem of county commissioners, the word "such" before the word "county" should read "each" so as to make the law general and hence constitutional. The word "such" held to have crept in by error. Id. Section 897 makes no provision for mileage for county commissioners when traveling either within or without their own county. The provision for "necessary traveling expenses when traveling outside of the county on official business" is a provision for official as distinguished from personal expenses, for the cost of going and coming, but not for board and personal expenses. Id.

33. Stemmler v. New York [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 581.

performed bears to the whole services contracted for, or as otherwise stated, the reasonable value of the services performed.[34]

§ 10. Liabilities.[35]—A county treasurer in New York is liable to a town for tax money belonging to the town which he has wrongfully paid over to a town supervisor who has absconded.[36] A township is liable to a school district for school moneys lost through the defalcation of the township treasurer;[37] but a county is not liable for the mistake of a city officer in certifying city assessments to the county treasurer.[38] Taxpayers may sue an officer and the county commissioners to recover illegal fees paid by them to such officer.[39]

Public officers having ministerial duties to perform are liable to individuals for injury occasioned in consequence of failure to perform official duty,[40] but a public officer charged with discretionary duties is not liable for an erroneous performance, unless guilty of willful wrong, malice or corruption.[41] The legislature may constitutionally relieve a public officer from a penalty he has incurred to a private citizen by neglect of duty.[42] An officer acting under a valid writ but exceeding his authority is liable for the tort.[43] A sheriff, however, is not liable in punitive damages for the unlawful or oppressive conduct of his deputy not authorized or ratified,[44] and a revenue officer is not personally responsible for injury inflicted by a seizure if he acted under an order from the proper superior officer, as to which the former had no discretion;[45] but under U. S. Rev. St. § 989, for injury so inflicted, compensation is to be made by the government.[46]

A decree against a public officer operates upon the office and binds his successor.[47] In New York, on return of an unsatisfied execution on a judgment for necessaries against a public officer, it may be presented to the municipality and by it paid.[48]

One dealing with public officers is bound at his peril to take notice of the limitations upon their power and authority.[49]

§ 11. Official bonds and liability thereon.[50]—A bond, though it may not technically conform to statutory requirements, may nevertheless be valid as a common-law obligation,[51] and a bond, given as required by statute and acted upon by the officer, is valid as against the official and his surety, though it may be objectionable 34. Johnston v. Bernalillo County Com'rs [N. M.] 78 P. 43.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1085.

36. Town of Walton v. Adair, 96 App. Div. 75, 89 N. Y. S. 230.

37. Whether the treasurer's bond was good and valid was immaterial to the township's liability. Smith v. Jones [Mich.] 99 N. W. 742.

38. Concordia Loan & Trust Co. v. Douglas County, 2 Neb. Unoff. 124, 96 N. W. 55.

39. Zuelly v. Casper, 160 Ind. 455, 67 N. E. 103.

40. Loss of registered letter by postmaster. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596. A register of deeds is liable on his bond for damages arising from his failure to record a deed, though his failure was not willful nor so negligent as to imply willfulness. State v. McClellan [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 267. A county court clerk is liable for the loss occasioned by a false certificate by his deputy that a deed was acknowledged before him. Samuels v. Brand, 26 Ky. L. R. 943, 82 S. W. 977.

41. Use of defective materials in bridge. Schooler v. Arrington [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 468. A special commissioner to build a bridge is not liable to one who is injured by a defect in the bridge. Hardwick v. Franklin [Ky.] 85 S. W. 709.

42. Bray v. Williams [N. C.] 49 S. E. 887.

43. Felonicher v. Stingley, 142 Cal. 630, 76 P. 504.

44. Where sheriff had no knowledge of facts till service of summons, retention of deputy does not amount to ratification. Foley v. Martin, 142 Cal. 256, 75 P. 842.

45, 46. Haynes v. Brown, 132 F. 525.

47. State v. Clinton County Com'rs, 162 Ind. 580, 68 N. E. 295, 70 N. E. 373, 984.

48. Statute does not authorize supplementary proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 1391]. Rosenstock v. New York, 91 N. Y. S. 737.

49. Bennett v. Incorporated Town of Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1086.

51. A bond given by the bank in which the funds of a given county were deposited under a statute requiring such bond to be made to the county was sufficient, though it ran to the county treasurer for the county. Buhrer v. Baldwin [Mich.] 100 N. W. 468. Bond naming an obligee other than as required by statute. Connelly v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 714, 69 S. W. 959. Bonds of city treasurers in Montana must be conditioned as provided for by as to penalty,[52] and though not approved by the designated persons.[53] A bond may be validated by a general law curative of defects in official bonds irrespective of whether it strictly complies with the law requiring it to be given.[54] The constitutionality of a law requiring the bond of an officer to be a lien on the real estate of the officer and his sureties cannot be attacked by persons voluntarily executing it.[55]

While the record of the county court is the best evidence of delivery and acceptance, yet where the proper foundation is laid, such delivery and acceptance may be shown by secondary parol testimony.[56]

An official bond that a certain policeman should "well and truly perform each and all the duties of said office required of him by law" is broad enough to cover unlawful arrest and unnecessary and illegal punishment by the officer,[57] and the mere fact that money collected by a county treasurer was collected without authority can make no difference in the liability of the sureties on his bond.[58]

A bond of indemnity, not stipulating how long it shall remain in force, but covenanting that so long as it shall remain in force the obligor shall be paid an annual premium in advance, does not require the payment of the premium so as to continue the obligation, but leaves the obligee at liberty to decline to make payment, and thus put a period to the contract so far as the rights of third persons are not affected.[59]

Sureties are not liable for malfeasance and extra official acts,[60] or for breach of duties not appropriate to the office;[61] they are liable only for misfeasance,[62] and for acts committed by the officer under color of his office and in the line of official duty.[63] They are also liable for failure of the officer to perform duties subsequently imposed by statute during the term of the bond,[64] and for a statutory penalty incurred by their principal by taking illegal fees.[65] Where the statute declares that for certain defaults the officer shall be liable on his bond, the sureties thereon are also liable.[66] Sureties on the bond of a postmaster conditioned for the faithful discharge of all duties imposed either by law or the rules of the department are liable for the loss of a registered letter occasioned by the negligence of the postmaster.[67] Sureties upon an official bond, regular upon its face, by the act of in-

Pol. Code, § 1057. City of Philipsburg v. Degenhart [Mont.] 76 P. 694.

52. Bromberg v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 139 Ala. 338, 36 So. 622.

53. City of Oakland v. Snow, 145 Cal. 419, 78 P. 1060.

54, 55. City of Mt. Vernon v. Kenlon, 97 App. Div. 191, 89 N. Y. S. 817.

56. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

57. Connelly v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 714, 69 S. W. 959.

58. City of Philipsburg v. Degenhart [Mont.] 76 P. 694.

59. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Libby [Neb.] 101 N. W. 994.

60. Felonicher v. Stingley, 142 Cal. 630, 76 P. 504. The fact that a municipal council designates its clerk to collect street assessments does not make such a duty a clerical duty, and in legal contemplation is not within the undertaking of his surety for the faithful performance of his duties as clerk. City of St. Marys v. Rowe, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 645. Recovery of money unlawfully paid to county auditor denied. Tucker v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 140.

61. City of St. Mary's v. Rowe, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 645. Bond of a municipal clerk who was required to collect street assessments; duties thus imposed not appropriate to the office and sureties not liable. Id.

62. An ordinary is liable on his official bond for any neglect or omission which pertains to his duties as clerk, but not for any judicial act. State v. Henderson, 120 Ga. 780, 48 S. E. 334.

63. A complaint which fails to allege that the trespass was under color of office is defective. Felonicher v. Stingley, 142 Cal. 630, 76 P. 504.

64. Duty to collect taxes for educational purposes. Anderson v. Blair, 118 Ga. 211, 45 S. E. 28. The provision found in § 1738, Rev. St., to the effect that the imposition of new duties upon a municipal officer shall not operate to discharge the surety on his bond, is confined to the imposition of duties appropriate and pertinent to the office in question, and not to any or all duties which a municipal officer may be called upon to perform. City of St. Marys v. Rowe, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 645.

65. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1023.

66. State v. Henderson, 120 Ga. 780, 48 S. E. 334.

67. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596.

trusting its possession and control with the principal after having affixed their signatures thereto, clothe him with apparent authority to make the final delivery to the obligee or the proper authorities whose function it is to accept it on the part of the public.[68] Mere negligence on part of the obligee will not release the surety, good faith being all that is required;[69] but where an officer has actual knowledge of defalcations of his deputy of which he does not notify the surety, he cannot recover therefor from the surety.[70] Where the defalcation is less than the penalty of the bond, the surety is liable for principal and interest from the time of demand to the date of judgment, though the total amount exceeds the penalty of the bond.[71] An action may be maintained against the sureties on a county treasurer's bond, though the county auditors may not as yet have adjusted his accounts,[72] and one who has chosen not to object to a re-audit is not thereby estopped to object to a new audit by a new controller.[73] An audit in the absence of gross fraud practiced upon the auditor is binding upon the city.[74] Where the form of an official bond must be joint and several, a person injured by the misconduct of a public officer may bring a several action upon the officer's bond to recover his damages;[75] but a taxpayer has no such separate interest in public funds as to entitle him to sue on the bond of the custodian for misappropriation of the funds.[76]

All bonds given by government officials are to be construed as though executed and to be performed at Washington, and hence are to be construed according to the rules of the common law, except where these rules have been changed by statute.[77] The United States and not the owner of a registered package may sue on the bond.[78] Under the provisions of the Nebraska Code of Civil Procedure (secs. 29 and 643), when an officer of that state by misconduct or neglect of duties renders his sureties liable on his official bond, any person who is by law entitled to the benefit of the security may sue upon the bond in his own name.[79] Where the bond is joint and several, suit may be brought against the sureties without joining the principal.[80] The petition on a bond must state the specific breach of duty.[81] Parol evidence is admissible in behalf of a county treasurer and his sureties to show that his receipt for money was obtained by fraud by the tax collector,[82] and also to establish that

68. If under such conditions the principal deliver it contrary to an agreement or understanding that other persons should also become obligated, the sureties are nevertheless bound. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187. The purpose of the Alabama statute (Code 1896, § 3090) is to take away from sureties when sued the defense that they had conditionally executed and delivered the bond. Bromberg v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 139 Ala. 338, 36 So. 622.

69. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853; Anderson v. Blair, 121 Ga. 120, 48 S. E. 951.

Sureties upon the bond of an overseer of the poor are not released by the fact that members of the town board knew he was short in his accounts, and the accounts being public records are evidence against the sureties. Town of Goshen v. Smith, 173 N. Y. 597, 65 N. E. 1123, afg. without opinion 61 App. Div. 461, 70 N. Y. S. 623.

70. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853.

71. Goff v. United States, 22 App. D. C. 512.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1087, n. 57. Lancaster County v. Landis, 209 Pa. 514, 58 A. 1068.

73, 74. Commonwealth v. Patterson, 206 Pa. 522, 56 A. 27.

75. Sections of statutes which require the giving of official bonds, which prescribe the form of the same, as to being joint or several, which state the conditions thereof and designate the persons for whose use they are given, and statutes which provide the manner of procedure in actions upon such bonds and in whose name they shall be brought, are in pari materia and must be construed together. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548.

76. Since he has no such interest he cannot be reimbursed for costs and expenses incurred in bringing an action on such bond. State v. Holt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 653.

77. Liability of postmaster for loss of registered package. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596.

78. The United States may recover the full amount, though the value exceeds $10. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596.

79. Barker v. Glendore [Neb.] 99 N. W. 548.

80. State v. Henderson, 120 Ga. 780, 48 S. E. 334.

81. Petition on policeman's bond for unlawful arrest held insufficient to state cause of action. Connelly v. American Bonding & Trust Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 714, 69 S. W. 959.

82. Butler v. State, 81 Miss. 734, 33 So. 847.

the bond in question is in fact the "additional" bond required of sheriffs by statute.[83]

Reports of an officer which are required by law may be given in evidence against the sureties on his official bond, and are prima facie true.[84]

The officer's receipt for money unaccounted for is only prima facie evidence against the sureties.[85]

§ 12. Crimes and offenses.—Besides extortion,[86] bribery,[87] and perhaps other specific crimes involving the official character of a party, various crimes are defined by statute. It is a crime for a United States senator to take money for services before the post office department in a fraud order inquiry, that being a proceeding in which the United States is interested.[88] Such money is taken at the place where a check is accepted for deposit and not at the place where it is deposited in the mails addressed to accused or at the drawee bank.[89] A clerk of the third class in the post office department is an officer of the government and subject to an indictment under Rev. St. § 1781.[90]

A public officer is not criminally liable for misconduct in office in the absence of an intent to violate the law,[91] but police officers in St. Louis are liable for indictment for failure to suppress bawdy houses.[92]

Matters touching procedure are given in the note.[93]

Officers of Corporations; Official Bonds; Opening and Closing; Opening Judgments; Opinions of Court; Options; Order of Proof; Orders for Payment; Orders of Court; Ordinances; Oysters and Clams, see latest topical index.

PARDONS AND PAROLES.

Though the pardoning power is an executive function, the legislature has power to pass acts of pardon.[1] A power to reprieve, commute or pardon includes power to pardon on condition,[2] but the condition must be a lawful one, and a condition that on violation the convict should not only be imprisoned but should forfeit any good time earned before the pardon is invalid.[3] An indefinite suspension of sentence on condition amounts to a conditional pardon.[4] Where a conditional pardon provides for revocation at the pleasure of the executive, no determination of any fact is prerequisite to a revocation.[5] A lost pardon may be proved by parol.[6]

83. Sheriff who is ex officio tax collector. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 79 P. 187.

84. City of Philipsburg v. Degenhart [Mont.] 76 P. 694.

85. Butler v. State, 81 Miss. 734, 33 So. 847.

86. See 3 Curr. L. 1414.

87. See 3 Curr. L. 527.

88, 89. Burton v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 243.

90. McGregor v. United States [C. C. A.] 134 F. 187.

91. State v. Bair [Ohio] 73 N. E. 514. Statute denouncing misdemeanor in office held not void for vagueness [Sand. & H. Dig. § 1753]. Howard v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 196.

92. State v. Boyd [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 191.

93. Indictment against police captain for failure to suppress bawdy houses held not bad for duplicity. State v. Boyd [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 191. Indictment substantially in language of statute (Sand. & H. Dig. § 1753) held sufficient. Howard v. State [Ark.] 82 S. W. 196. Issuance of other illegal warrants of same nature held admissible to show intent. Id.

1. Statute giving immunity to one testifying to crimes in which he participated. In re Briggs, 135 N. C. 118, 47 S. E. 403.

2. State v. Hunter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 510.

3. Pardon construed in conection with order of revocation held to be so conditioned. State v. Hunter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 510. Compare Ex parte Russell, 92 N. Y. S. 68, in which a statute providing that a convict discharged before the expiration of his term by reason of good time forfeits such commutation on conviction of a second offense was upheld.

4, 5. State v. Hunter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 510.

6. To restore competency of witness. Court suggests question whether convict was competent to testify to fact of pardon, Yzaguirre v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 14.

PARENT AND CHILD.

§ 1. The Custody and Control of Child (873).
§ 2. Support and Necessaries (873).
§ 3. Services and Earnings, and Injuries to Child (874).
§ 4. Property Rights and Dealings Between Parent and Child (875).
§ 5. Liability for Child's Torts (875).

Scope.—Adoption of children,[7] matters relating to illegitimate children,[8] award of custody and allowance for support in divorce proceedings,[9] rights of inheritance,[10] recovery for negligent killing of child,[11] and the rights and liabilities of infants,[12] are elsewhere treated.

§ 1. The custody and control of child.[13]—The father is generally entitled to the custody of his child,[14] notwithstanding a verbal agreement to the contrary,[15] if within the jurisdiction,[16] unless the best interests of the child, which is the paramount consideration,[17] demand that another should have it.[18] The father is the natural guardian of his children, and has the legal right to regulate their conduct, restrain their liberty, and direct their training, as they are not entitled to general freedom of action. A father may transfer the custody of his child to a reform school,[19] or to other people by written contract,[20] or he may bind a child as an apprentice for the period of minority.[21] Though an injury done to his child amounts to and is punishable as a crime, the parent is not liable civilly.[22]

§ 2. Support and necessaries.[23]—Since a father is entitled to the custody, society and services of his children, he is chargeable with their care and maintenance.[24] This liability continues, though he no longer has the custody of the children,[25] except where by statute the liability is expressly dependent on his having their custody,[26] or another by a valid agreement has assumed their support.[27]

7. See Adoption of Children, 3 Curr. L. 45.
8. See Bastards, 3 Curr. L. 496.
9. See Alimony, 3 Curr. L. 146; Divorce, 3 Curr. L. 1127.
10. Descent and Distribution, 3 Curr. L. 1081.
11. See Death by Wrongful Act, 3 Curr. L. 1034.
12. See Infants, 4 Curr. L. 92; see, also, Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533, and Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764, as to negligent injuries to infants.
13. See 2 Curr. L. 1089; Divorce, 3 Curr. L. 1127. For an extensive monographic note on considerations controlling the award of custody of children, see 98 Am. St. Rep. 416.
14. Crabtree v. Crabtree [Ky.] 85 S. W. 211.
15. The father on the death of his wife placed his infant daughter in the care of his wife's parents, under a verbal agreement to leave her with them until she was six years of age and to pay them for their services; but he was allowed to recover possession of her when she was only three years of age. Carey v. Hertel [Wash.] 79 P. 482.
16. Alien children become citizens when their father is duly naturalized only if they are dwelling in the U. S. (Rev. St. § 2172), and not when detained as dangerous immigrants at Ellis Island. United States v. Williams, 132 F. 894.
17. Plahn v. Dribred [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 867.
18. Divorce decree awarded children to mother where the father was living with a paramour in his own house. Crabtree v. Crabtree [Ky.] 85 S. W. 211. Father not allowed to recover possession of his sickly two-year old daughter who had been properly cared for by her grandmother, where he had no home, and a physician testified that it would not be safe to remove the child, but he was allowed the right to visit. State v. Jones [La.] 36 So. 973.
19. The commitment of a child to a reform school is not in the nature of a punishment, and consequently no judicial hearing can be demanded by the child. The father not being a party to the habeas corpus proceeding, it was not decided whether his transfer of guardianship was irrevocable. Rule v. Geddes, 23 App. D. C. 31.
20. Father not allowed to recover his minor daughter from the deceased wife's parents, it also appearing he was an unfit person. Plahn v. Dribred [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 867.
21. Code, § 3229 is the same as the common-law rule. Walton v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 506.
22. Even where the offense is that of rape, for which the parent has been convicted. Roller v. Roller [Wash.] 79 P. 788.
23. See 2 Curr. L. 1090.
24. A separation agreement by which wife was to have child but nothing said as to their support. People v. Rubens, 92 N. Y. S. 121.
25. Divorce decree awarded children and $2,000 alimony to wife, but contained no provision as to the maintenance of the children. Lukowski v. Lukowski [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 274.
26. Civ. Code, §§ 196, 207, provides that a parent entitled to the custody of a child

Consequently a father is liable for necessaries furnished a child whom he has abandoned,[28] but he is not liable for the board of his child unless he has agreed to pay for the same.[29] Where circumstances have changed after a divorce decree, the court may order the husband to contribute an additional amount for the support of the children.[30] An order to pay for the support of children is not alimony, but it cannot be discharged by bankruptcy proceedings.[31] A parent who is capable of supporting his child has no right to trench upon her property or income to maintain and educate her.[32] By statute now in many states a father is liable criminally for abandoning his children,[33] and to warrant a conviction there must be evidence that the father left the child in a destitute as well as in a dependent condition.[34] Where the wife keeps the children away from him and prevents him from seeing them, there is no criminal abandonment.[35] It is presumed that a parent residing with an adult child is not to pay for services or support.[36]

§ 3. Services and earnings, and injuries to child.[37]—The father's right to a child's earnings may be lost by voluntary agreement or consent to adoption by another, or by his failure to provide necessaries;[38] the mere fact that the infant is receiving his earnings does not show permission of the parent to receive them as his own.[39] Unless barred by his own negligence or the contributory negligence of the child, a father may recover for injuries to,[40] or crimes against, his child.[41] A stepfather, and not the mother, is entitled to sue for injuries, where he had taken must furnish support, or a third person may recover for necessaries furnished the child; but one cannot recover from the father for medical services furnished a child awarded by a divorce decree to the mother. Selfridge v. Paxton, 145 Cal. 713, 79 P. 425.

27. The separation agreement of husband and wife held to relieve the husband of liability to support the children, as their custody was given to the wife. Dixon v. Dixon [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 547.

28. Father had been sentenced to prison for life, and children's guardian was allowed to recover for necessaries, board, clothing and medical attendance which he had furnished them. Finn v. Adams [Mich.] 101 N. W. 533.

29. Defendant's son boarded with plaintiff, but defendant remitted money to his son and not to plaintiff, and evidence only showed an agreement with the son to pay his board until he was 21. McCrady v. Pratt [Mich.] 101 N. W. 227.

30. It is no defense that the husband has married again and is willing to provide a home for the children. Ostheimer v. Ostheimer [Iowa] 101 N. W. 275.

31. But an order to recompense his former wife is like an order to reimburse a stranger for the child's past support and may be discharged. Rush v. Flood, 105 Ill. App. 182.

32. Where child was supported out of her own income and called the people with whom she lived "uncle" and "aunty" the relation of parent and child was not proved so as to exempt property from the transfer tax. In re Davis' Estate, 90 N. Y. S. 244.

33. Evidence that the wife with four minor children left the husband because the house furnished by him was an unsuitable place of residence, and that now he had ceased paying $5 a week which he had done, though he was still able to do so, will support a conviction under Gen. St. 1902, § 1343. State v. Beers [Conn.] 58 A. 745. Under Rev. St. §§ 3140-2, 6795, abandonment of child by parent is a felony. Smith v. State, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 101. Information that he abandoned, neglected and refused to provide for his 3 children under 12 years of age, born in lawful wedlock, stated an offense under Rev. St. 1899, § 1861. State v. Block [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1103.

For a note on criminal liability for neglect of child causing death, see 61 L. R. A. 290.

34. At time of desertion the child's mother was able and did in fact maintain the child [Pen. Code 1895, § 114]. Williams v. State, 121 Ga. 195, 48 S. E. 938.

35. Not shown but what he was a worthy father, and he had demanded their return and was willing to support them. People v. Rubens, 92 N. Y. S. 121.

36. But the presumption may be rebutted. Falls v. Jones [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 455.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1090.

38. Evidence showed father had failed to maintain and that maternal grandmother had entire care. Southern R. Co. v. Flemister, 120 Ga. 524, 48 S. E. 160.

Emancipation will not be found merely from the fact that a son supported himself and was absent from home. Town of South Burlington v. Cambridge [Vt.] 59 A. 1013.

39. Evidence that the parent knew that he was receiving his earnings might authorize such an inference. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

40. Parents not negligent in intrusting their 4½ year old son to the care of their 11 year old sister to go to a store, necessitating the crossing of a street railway, to make a purchase. Cameron v. Duluth-Superior Traction Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 208.

41. Plaintiff recovered $500 for an assault upon and the criminal abuse of his minor daughter. Nyman v. Lynde [Minn.] 101 N. W. 163.

the child into his family.[42] The measure of damages is the value of the child's services until he attains his majority, taken in connection with his prospects in life, less his support.[43] Sometimes, if properly pleaded, a father may recover whatever pecuniary aid there was a reasonable expectation he would receive after the child was of age;[44] but he is not entitled to recover for mental anguish or suffering, nor can he recover exemplary damages.[45] A settlement made with a defendant will be presumed to cover only that for which the parent had a right to recover, and that it did not cover the right of the child to recover in his own behalf.[46]

§ 4. Property rights and dealings between parent and child.[47]—Conveyances between a parent and child may be set aside for undue influence where the consideration is far below the actual value.[48] In Louisiana a father, though not the tutor of his children, may take steps necessary for the preservation of their property.[49] Contracts of a parent to pay an adult child for services rendered are enforceable, where the evidence is sufficient to sustain them.[50] The homestead right of an infant daughter is divested by her marriage during her minority.[51] An adopted or substituted child cannot take under a will.[52]

§ 5. Liability for child's torts.[53]—A father is not liable for the tort of his child, with which he was not connected, which he did not ratify, and from which he derived no benefit.[54]

42. Although the mother furnished the clothes, and the son collected his own wages, but which the stepfather was entitled to. Eickhoff v. Sedalia, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 541, 80 S. W. 966.

43. Error to exclude evidence of the value of board and clothing in the neighborhood, or to require the jury to itemize the various elements of damages. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 479. May recover for medical attendance, loss to father through consequent neglect of business, and from crippled state of child. Bube v. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co., 140 Ala. 276, 37 So. 285.

44. Father in petition only asked for value of services during minority. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 133. Parents cannot recover where deceased, 25 years old, married six months before the accident and had ceased to contribute to their support, and there was no reasonable expectation that he would ever do so again. Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Lee [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 306.

45. Code 1896, § 26, applies only in an action for death of child, and not in one for injuries to child. Bube v. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co., 140 Ala. 276, 37 So. 285.

46. Nursing, attention and medical bills. Myer's Adm'r v. Zoll [Ky.] 84 S. W. 543.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1091; see also, Fraud and Undue Influence, 3 Curr. L. 1520.

48. A step-daughter conveyed to her step-father property for one-third only of its value, and without independent advice. Eighmy v. Brock [Iowa] 102 N. W. 444.

49. Though not authorized to receive their moneys, he may pay the same into court, and cause them to be invested by order of court rendered on the advice of a family meeting. Varnado v. Lewis [La.] 36 So. 893.

50. Under an agreement by a father to pay his daughter for services after certain debts were paid, she may recover compensation from his estate for services actually rendered, though his death before such debts were paid made it impossible for her to complete the agreement. Evidence sufficient to support verdict for claimant. Harrison v. Harrison [Iowa] 100 N. W. 344. Evidence insufficient to support claim of son against deceased father's estate for extra services alleged to have been rendered by him on farm. Duckworth v. Duckworth, 98 Md. 92, 56 A. 490. Declarations of decedent that his son should be paid for work performed by him will not be regarded as referring to the account presented by the son against the estate or to the services claimed for therein unless the correctness of the claim is otherwise proved according to law. Id. In action on claim for services rendered decedent, testimony by claimant that he only worked a part of the farm on shares and that he did work not required by his contract for tilling such farm, held admissible in rebuttal of testimony to the effect that he worked the farm on shares. Id.

51. Ky. St. 1903, § 1707 provides that unmarried infant children of decedent shall be entitled to the joint occupancy of the homestead. Jones v. Crawford [Ky.] 84 S. W. 568.

52. Held that the plaintiff in the action was an adopted and substituted child, the one entitled to decedent's property being dead. Mayer v. Flammer, 81 N. Y. S. 1062.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1091.

54. Child shot cattle of another, and held Civ. Code 1895, § 3817 did not change the common-law rule which is that there is no liability unless there is the relation of principal and agent. Chastain v. Johns, 120 Ga. 977, 48 S. E. 343. A parent is not legally chargeable with a check forged by his son. Muller v. Barker, 90 N. Y. S. 388.

PARKS, see latest topical index.

PARKS AND PUBLIC GROUNDS.

[SPECIAL ARTICLE* BY GEO. F. LONGSDORF.]

§ 1. Definitions (876).
§ 2. Acquisition of Public Parks and Places (876).
§ 3. Nature of the Public Property in Park Lands (878).
§ 4. Uses and Servitudes Compatible with Park Rights (880).
§ 5. Rights of Individuals in or to Parks (881).
§ 6. Improvement and Beautification of Parks and Approaches (881).
§ 7. Encroachments or Obstructions, Adverse Possession, and the Like; and the Right to Sue for Redress (882).
§ 8. Expense of Acquiring or Improving (883).
§ 9. Administration, Government and Control of Public Parks (883).
§ 10. Duties in Respect to Parks and Liability for Injuries Therein (885).
A. Public Parks and Parkways (885).
B. Privately Owned Parks to Which the Public is Invited (887).

The scope of this topic is largely self defined. It has nothing to do with public grounds not ejusdem generis with parks,[1] nor with the general laws of public works and improvements or public fiscal affairs.[2]

§ 1. Definitions.—A "park" in a city or village means an open space intended for recreation and enjoyment of the public.[3] A "square" indicates a public use either for free passage or for ornament, pleasure, amusement, recreation, or health.[4] "Commons" or "reserves"[5] which are mere public land holdings are not impressed with a public use of a kind to make them germane to this article.

§ 2. Acquisition of public parks and places.—The modes of acquiring parks and like public places are the same as those for public ways and localities, viz.: eminent domain, prescription or dedication including reservation from public domain (which is a public dedication), and grant or conveyance.

Parks are a public use justifying the right of eminent domain.[6] While land already devoted to public purposes may not ordinarily be taken,[7] a cemetery not public may be taken.[8] A fee may be taken if necessary,[9] and from the incompatibility of private ownership with park purposes will be freely implied.[10]

It is practically undisputed doctrine that a park or square may be dedicated

1. See Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593; Wharves, 2 Curr. L. 2074 and like titles.
2. See Public Works and Improvements, 2 Curr. L. 1328; Public Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 1280; Municipal Corporations, 2 Curr. L. 940; Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.
3. Archer v. Salinas City, 93 Cal. 43, 16 L. R. A. 145, citing other cases. See, also, Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376; Sheffield & T. St. R. Co. v. Rand, 83 Ala. 394.
4. M. E. Church v. Hoboken, 33 N. J. Law, 13, 97 Am. Dec. 696.
5. See Compton v. Waco Bridge Co., 62 Tex. 715; Woodson v. Skinner, 22 Mo. 13; Smith v. Floyd, 18 Barb. [N. Y.] 522; President, etc., of Commons of Kaskaskia v. McClure, 167 Ill. 23; Hops v. Hewitt, 97 Ill. 498; Lavalle v. Strobel, 89 Ill. 370; Hebert v. Lavalle, 27 Ill. 428. And see Pettitt v. Macon, 95 Ga. 645.
6. Owners of Land v. Albany, 15 Wend. [N. Y.] 374; Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Rep. 70; In re City of Rochester, 137 N. Y. 243; In re Central Park Com'rs, 63 Barb. [N. Y.] 282; St. Louis County Court v. Griswold, 58 Mo. 175; Rowan v. Portland, 8 B. Mon. [Ky.] 232; Foster v. Boston Park Com'rs, 133 Mass. 321 (but see Boston, etc., Mill Dam Corp. v. Newman, 12 Pick. [Mass.] 467, 23 Am. Dec. 622); Shoemaker v. United States, 147 U. S. 282, 37 Law. Ed. 170; United States v. Gettysburg El. R. Co., 160 U. S. 668, 40 Law. Ed. 576; United States v. A Tract of Land, 67 F. 869. In paying for same, public charges should be deducted. Carpenter v. New York, 44 App. Div. [N. Y.] 230, 60 N. Y. S. 633.
7, 8. Power was given to take "any and all lands." In re Application, etc., Public Park, 133 N. Y. 329, 16 L. R. A. 180. Compare Eminent Domain, 3 Curr. L. 1189. Also see dictum in Campbell v. Kansas, 102 Mo. 326, 10 L. R. A. 593.
9. Driscoll v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 92, 52 A. 618; Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Dec. 70.
10. Driscoll v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 92, 52 A. 618; Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Rep. 70. See, also, Washington Cemetery v. Prospect Park & C. J. R. Co., 68 N. Y. 591; Holt v. City Council, 127 Mass. 408.

*Late cases are included and marked with a dagger (†).

in the same manner and to the same extent as a street.[11] The word "park" on a plat is as significant of dedication as the word street.[12] The dedication for a park need not be by formal grant but may be like other dedications.[13] As in other dedications an acceptance by acts appropriate to its character will be required to fix a public claim on a park.[14] It need not be by the town nor be very specific.[15] User by the public for a long time suffices for an acceptance without any formal act,[16] and coupled with other facts proves a dedication.[17] Thus if a contiguous owner has rights in reclaimed lands, he may lose the same by acquiescing in their use for park purposes.[18] Actual use for park purposes need not be immediate if the dedication be otherwise complete,[19] and it is almost immaterial how much was done to adorn or improve the grounds.[20] The public may fix the precise location where the dedicator has not done so.[21]

Lands for a park may be acquired by deed[22] or lease,[23] and an executed grant by the public on consideration of the maintenance of a park is binding on both parties[24] and creates a vested public interest in the park.[25] A covenant to keep a square on consideration of a grant is likewise binding.[26]

To the extent of legislative authority, cities may acquire lands for parks,[27] or 11. Abbott v. Cottage City, 143 Mass. 521, 58 Am. Rep. 143 (rejecting Pearsall v. Post, 20 Wend. [N. Y.] 111; Id., 22 Wend. [N. Y.] 425); Commonwealth v. Fisk, 8 Metc. [Mass.] 238, 243; Cincinnati v. White, 8 Pet. [U. S.] 431; New Orleans v. United States, 10 Pet. [U. S.] 662, 713; Watertown v. Cowen, 4 Palge [N. Y.] 510; Cody v. Conger, 19 N. Y. 256, 261; Abbott v. Mills, 3 Vt. 521, 526, 23 Am. Dec. 222; Commonwealth v. Rush, 14 Pa. 186; Rowan v. Portland, 8 B. Mon. [Ky.] 232, 248; M. E. Church v. Hoboken, 33 N. J. Law, 13, 97 Am. Dec. 696; Id., 19 N. J. Eq. 355; Bayonne v. Ford, 43 N. J. Law, 292; Princeville v. Auten, 77 Ill. 325; Grogan v. Hayward, 4 F. 161; City of Macon v. Franklin, 12 Ga. 239; Perrin v. New York Central R. Co., 40 Barb. [N. Y.] 65; Jersey City v. Dummer, 20 N. J. Law, 86, 40 Am. Dec. 213; Indianapolis v. Croas, 7 Ind. 9; Logansport v. Dunn, 8 Ind. 378; Alves v. Henderson, 16 B. Mon. [Ky.] 168; Vick v. Vicksburg, 1 How. [Miss.] 379; Brown v. Manning, 6 Ohio, 298, 27 Am. Dec. 255. And see cases collected in American note to Doraston v. Payne, 2 Smith's Lead. Cas. [6th Ed.] 240, and see notes, 10 L. R. A. 215, 13 L. R. A. 251. Plat showing "court square." San Leandro v. Le Breton, 72 Cal. 170. Unsubdivided ground in a government plat designated "public ground * * * not to be occupied with buildings of any description." City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849. Platting "parks," exhibiting plats, and selling with reference to them. Attorney General v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 13 L. R. A. 251.

A majority of directors of a corporation proprietor may dedicate. Attorney General v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 13 L. R. A. 251.

12. Archer v. Salinas City, 93 Cal. 43, 16 L. R. A. 145.

Platting and selling with reference to a park indicated as "Central Park." Archer v. Salinas City, 93 Cal. 43, 16 L. R. A. 145. In a note 27 Am. Dec. 84, it is said that "commons dedicated to public use" can never be appropriated by the original proprietor to an exclusive private use (citing cases).

13. City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740. And see Dedication, 3 Curr. L. 1050. Abbott v. Mills, 3 Vt. 521, 23 Am. Dec. 222. An informal and therefore invalid vote of town proprietors to dedicate, may be cured by adoption and acquiescence. Abbott v. Mills, 3 Vt. 521, 23 Am. Dec. 222.

14. Land, embracing mineral springs and much resorted to, was taxed by the town, though it also contributed to the cost of maintenance because the public was permitted to use the springs. This was held to show no acceptance. Town of Manitou v. International Trust Co., 30 Colo. 467, 70 P. 757. Mere nonassessment for taxes is not enough. Reuter v. Lawe, 94 Wis. 300, 59 Am. St. Rep. 891, 34 L. R. A. 733.

15. Attorney General v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 13 L. R. A. 251.

16. Abbott v. Inhabitants of Cottage City, 143 Mass. 521, 58 Am. Rep. 143; Quindaro Tp. v. Squier, 51 F. 152; Attorney General v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 13 L. R. A. 251; Pomeroy v. Mills, 3 Vt. 279, 23 Am. Dec. 207 (a common for county buildings).

17. Sturmer v. Randolph County Court, 42 W. Va. 724, 36 L. R. A. 300.

18. Clarke v. Providence, 16 R. I. 337, 1 L. R. A. 725.

19. Archer v. Salinas City, 93 Cal. 43, 16 L. R. A. 145.

20. Attorney General v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 13 L. R. A. 251.

21. Rung v. Shoneberger, 2 Watts [Pa.] 23, 26 Am. Dec. 95. It must be done seasonably; thirty years delay was held too long. Id.

22. A conveyance for a park is binding. Village of Corning v. Rector, etc., of Christ Church, 33 N. Y. State Rep. 766, 11 N. Y. S. 762.

23. Holder v. Yonkers, 39 App. Div. 1, 56 N. Y. S. 912.

24, 25. Barney v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 203 Ill. 397, 67 N. E. 801.

26. Sturmer v. County Court of Randolph Co., 42 W. Va. 724, 36 L. R. A. 300.

27. City of Lexington v. Kentucky Chautauqua Assembly, 24 Ky. L. R. 1568, 71 S.

the various boards or public park corporations which govern parks and parkways may exercise like authority within terms of delegated power.[28] Even beyond their limits, cities may do so,[29] subject to constitutional restrictions.[30] They may also discontinue such proceedings.[31] Under a power to "purchase or lease" lands for public purposes, a park may be acquired by lease.[32] The power to lay out parks does not authorize the closing of a street in other than the regular mode.[33]

§ 3. Nature of the public property in park lands.—Parks are public property,[34] but the public access to them is subject to reasonable regulation.[35]

Wherever a grant or dedication for a park is on condition or limitation to particular purposes, the legislature is powerless to divert it to different purposes,[36] or to exceed them,[37] or to avoid the condition;[38] but a particular use compatible with a general and unspecific dedication may be made.[39] The rule applies though the character of the use of adjacent property is entirely changed.[40] If the public holds the fee,[41] the rule does not apply.[42] In that case having specially dedicated

W. 943, construing Ky. St. §§ 3038, 3058. San Francisco may acquire land for parks and playgrounds. †Law v. San Francisco, 144 Cal. 384, 77 P. 1014. In Missouri "villages" have no power to purchase. Vaughn v. Greencastle, 104 Mo. App. 206, 78 S. W. 50.

28. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. Western Union Tel. Co., 103 Ill. 33; Barney v. New York, 78 Hun [N. Y.] 336, 337. Under St. 1893, p. 934, c. 300, § 1, the park board is not restricted to the taking of a street alone to connect two parks. Commonwealth v. Crowninshield [Mass.] 72 N. E. 963. Power to take lands for a "driveway with a park" or to extend or improve "such park" warrants the taking of lands for part of an existing park and for a driveway [Laws 1881, p. 116]. Barney v. Lincoln Park Com'rs, 203 Ill. 397, 67 N. E. 801.

29. Quo warranto lies for transgression of power. City of Detroit v. Moran, 44 Mich. 602; In re City of New York, 99 N. Y. 569.

30. State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458.

31. In re Military Parade Ground, 60 N. Y. 319.

32. Holder v. Yonkers, 39 App. Div. 1, 56 N. Y. S. 912.

33. Holtz v. Diehl, 26 Misc. 24, 56 N. Y. S. 841.

34. Not taxable. City of Owensboro v. Commonwealth, 20 Ky. L. R. 1281, 44 L. R. A. 202.

35. Scranton v. Minneapolis, 57 Minn. 437, 60 N. W. 26. See, also, post, § 9, p. 884.

36. Le Clerq v. Trustees of Gallipolis, 7 Ohio (pt. 2) 217, 28 Am. Dec. 641; Rowzee v. Pierce, 75 Miss. 846, 65 Am. St. Rep. 625, 40 L. R. A. 402; Guttery v. Glenn, 201 Ill. 275; Cummings v. St. Louis, 70 Mo. 259; Warren v. Lyons, 22 Iowa, 351; City of Jacksonville v. Jacksonville R. Co., 67 Ill. 540; Village of Princeville v. Anton, 77 Ill. 325; City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849; Board of Education v. Kansas City, 62 Kan. 374; City of St. Paul v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Minn. 330; City of Llano v. Llano Co., 5 Tex. Civ. App. 132; Prince v. Thompson, 48 Mo. 361; United States v. Chicago, 7 How. [U. S.] 185, 12 Law. Ed. 660; Wellington, Petitioner, 16 Pick. [Mass.] 87, 26 Am. Dec. 631.

See Davenport v. Buffington [C. C. A.] 97 F. 234, 46 L. R. A. 377; Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272, where a square for pleasure was protected from appropriation for public buildings. Platting a park with paths or roadways indicated does not subject it to highway uses. †Riverside v. Maclean, 210 Ill. 308, 71 N. E. 408, 102 Am. St. Rep. 164, 66 L. R. A. 288. In †Huff v. Macon, 117 Ga. 428, 43 S. E. 708, it was held that the use of the space within a mile track for agricultural purposes was not a diversion.

A "square" imports general public use of the place as an open space. M. E. Church v. Hoboken, 33 N. J. Law, 13, 97 Am. Dec. 696. "Market square" is not of itself evidence of a dedication. Scott v. Des Moines, 64 Iowa, 444. "Garden square" on a plat has been held equivocal and not a clear dedication. City of Pella v. Scholte, 24 Iowa, 283, 95 Am. Dec. 729. Buildings cannot be erected on "public grounds not to be occupied with buildings." City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849.

If a dedicated graveyard be abandoned, it cannot be made a park. Campbell v. Kansas, 102 Mo. 326, 10 L. R. A. 593.

37. Deed in fee to a church society of land occupied transcends a trust for a park and to permit use of part of it forever for church. Still v. Trustees of Lansingburgh, 16 Barb. [N. Y.] 107.

38. In Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 P. 344, a dedication by the public for a park with power in the mayor and council to lease the park for purposes compatible with the public use was held to fasten the power to lease upon the dedication as a condition which a later act transferring the park to a board could not affect.

39. "Plaza" may be made either a common or park. Sachs v. Towanda, 79 Ill. App. 439; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, 79 Ill. 25. A specific use cannot be impressed by parol on an unqualified grant. †Pickett v. Mercer, 106 Mo. App. 689, 80 S. W. 285. The deed not having restricted the use, parol representations of town trustees have no force. Id.

40. Change from residence to business uses. City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849.

41. Declaration in a deed following the description that the premises shall be "forever held and used as a public park" held to it in whole or part for a specific public use, the city holds the fee subject thereto,[43] and may, especially if legislatively authorized, dedicate for further purposes not inconsistent with the former dedication[44] or the state may do so directly.[45] In giving such authority the legislature need not require a submission to popular vote.[46] A dedication specially for a boulevard implies a restricted use for highway traffic.[47]

On incorporation a municipality succeeds to an existing park within its limits.[48]

The dedicator's grantee is bound[49] and if he investigates he cannot claim as a bona fide purchaser when it transpires he was mistaken.[50]

When a fee is taken the city holds upon a trust for park purposes,[51] and it may not use the land in opposition thereto,[52] but the state may authorize it to disengage itself and for proper purposes to alienate land so taken,[53] though not so as to defeat contract or vested rights.[54] Such authority must be certain but not in particular like the conveyance or grant which pursues it.[55] Consent of voters if prescribed is indispensable.[56] This restricted power to alienate park lands does not follow them until they have been specially dedicated or devoted to that purpose.[57] While held in unqualified fee, they may be conveyed, though ultimately intended for a park.[58]

In the case where a nation, state or municipality dedicates land which it owns to park purposes and sells lots with reference thereto, a covenant implied binds it not to discontinue the park or divert the land.[59]

If a city extends by reclamation park lands which it holds as trustee, the trust extends to cover the reclaimed land.[60] The city cannot claim it free from the trust.[61] The submergence of such lands does not divest the park title.[62] negative a fee in the public. Flaten v. Moorhead, 51 Minn. 518, 19 L. R. A. 195.

42. Where the city held the fee it was held proper to authorize a city to devote part of a park to state capitol grounds. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740.

43. City park dedicated for capitol grounds. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740. And see Driscoll v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 92, 52 A. 618.

44, 45. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740.

46. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740; Whitney v. New Haven, 58 Conn. 450.

47. Quick v. Park Com'rs of Louisville, 20 Ky. L. R. 1457, 49 S. W. 483.

48. †Village of Riverside v. Maclean, 210 Ill. 308, 71 N. E. 408.

49, 50. Attorney General v. Abbott, 154 Mass. 323, 13 L. R. A. 251.

51. Driscoll v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 92, 52 A. 618; Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Dec. 70; Case of Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 6 Whart. [Pa.] 25, 36 Am. Dec. 202; †Sherburne v. Portsmouth, 72 N. H. 539, 58 A. 38. They are not liable for sale on execution for general indebtedness. Ransom v. Boal, 29 Iowa, 68, 4 Am. Rep. 195.

52. Grant of park for railway. Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376. The imposition of a condition in a grant of a fee to the city, while it may work a reversion, also leaves this rule operative. Id.

53. Driscoll v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 92, 52 A. 618; Commissioners v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Rep. 70; In re City of Rochester, 137 N. Y. 243; City of Brooklyn v. Copeland, 22 Wkly. Dig. [N. Y.] 347; Waterworks Co. v. Burkhardt, 41 Ind. 364; Clarke v. Providence, 16 R. I. 337, 1 L. R. A. 725. Village trustees cannot. †Pickett v. Mercer, 106 Mo. App. 689, 80 S. W. 285. City of Parkersburg may lease under grant of power to * * * "let," etc. †Bryant v. Logan [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 21.

54. The land was pledged to secure bonds. Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Dec. 70; Davenport v. Buffington [C. C. A.] 97 F. 234, 46 L. R. A. 377.

55. It need not describe precise locality or boundaries as a deed must. Driscoll v. New Haven, 75 Conn. 92, 52 A. 618.

56. Still v. Trustees of Lansingburgh, 16 Barb. [N. Y.] 107.

57. City of Fort Wayne v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 132 Ind. 558, 32 Am. St. Rep. 277, 18 L. R. A. 367; State v. Woodward, 23 Vt. 92.

58. City of Ft. Wayne v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 132 Ind. 558, 32 Am. St. Rep. 277, 18 L. R. A. 367; Beach v. Haynes, 12 Vt. 15, in which case the purpose was recited in the deed to the city.

59. Davenport v. Buffington [C. C. A.] 97 F. 234, 46 L. R. A. 377.

60, 61. City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849, distinguishing Ruge v. Appalachicola, etc., Canning Co., 25 Fla. 656.

62. City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849.

Lands owned in fee for a park by a city and taken for streets must be paid for.[63]

A lease of a park valid in all respects except the excessiveness of the term may be upheld as a lease for the authorized term.[64]

§ 4. Uses and servitudes compatible with park rights.—In particulars which are obvious, the contemplated incidental uses of streets and the restrictions thereon are quite different from those of parks.[65]

In the case of a square, the nature of the dedicator's purpose governs[66] and this is a fact to be proven.[67] An exception may be made of the square in the county town where by custom the erection of a court house and county buildings is contemplated and sanctioned,[68] but even this use is strictly regarded,[69] and may be relinquished.[70]

Uses which subserve public comfort and enjoyment of the park are proper.[71] Those which interfere are a nuisance.[72] Generally it is a diversion to use park grounds for public buildings,[73] especially those of a purely economic or administrative character,[74] or for railways[75] or highways if the park purposes are thereby defeated.[76] The state may grant railway or street railway easements over or beneath the surface of public lands devoted to parks,[77] and the grant may be direct, though a general statute requires the municipality's consent.[78] In such a case the direct grant is a legislative substitute for the existing statute.[79] Consent of the municipality to the violation of a restrictive covenant or condition between it and the state may be given by approbative vote on a scheme for improvement which involves such violation,[80] and it need not be in the manner provided generally by the legislature for expressing such consent.[81] Such a right may not be given if title came from a private person who imposed restrictive conditions with reversion for breach thereof,[82] even though he conveyed a fee and received a valuable consideration.[83] Existing street railways are not affected by subsequently creating a park where they are.[84] By acquiescence the park board may approve a plat of 63. Matter of Ninth Ave. & Fifteenth St., 45 N. Y. 729.

64. Lease for 25 years, but authority to lease for 10 years only, held valid for 10 years. Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 P. 344.

65. Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376; Sheffield & T. St. R. Co. v. Rand, 83 Ala. 294. Compare Eminent Domain, § 4, 3 Curr. L. 1195.

66, 67. Corporation of Sequin v. Ireland, 58 Tex. 183.

68, 69. Commonwealth v. Bowman, 3 Pa. 203.

70. Sturmer v. County Court of Randolph Co., 42 W. Va. 724, 36 L. R. A. 300.

71. The privilege of selling refreshments (liquors) is a proper use. State v. Schweickhardt, 109 Mo. 496. Lease of limited use of park for racing and horse training, reserving limited right of access to public, held not a diversion, it already containing grand stand and track. †Bryant v. Logan [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 21. Religious buildings cannot be erected even with permission. Village of Corning v. Rector of Christ Church, 33 N. Y. State Rep. 766, 11 N. Y. S. 762.

72. Horse racks in a square so held. Samuels v. Nashville, 35 Tenn. 298. Contra, Harrison County Ct. v. Wall, 11 Ky. L. R. 223, 12 S. W. 130.

73. Rutherford v. Taylor, 38 Mo. 315.

74. Not a proper use: A school house. Rowzee v. Pierce, 75 Miss. 846, 65 Am. St. Rep. 625. City hall and jail. Church v. Portland, 18 Or. 73, 6 L. R. A. 259. City prison. Flaten v. Moorhead, 51 Minn. 518, 19 L. R. A. 195. Court house. McIntyre v. El Paso County Com'rs, 15 Colo. App. 78, 61 P. 237. Barracks and hospital. Appeal of Meigs, 62 Pa. 28, 1 Am. Rep. 372.

75. Railroad uses are incompatible. Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376; City of Jacksonville v. Jacksonville R. Co., 67 Ill. 540. Legislature may do so. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, 79 Ill. 25. Street railway held not a "private" nuisance. Anderson v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 9 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 553.

76. Price v. Thompson, 48 Mo. 361; †Pickett v. Mercer, 106 Mo. App. 689, 80 S. W. 285. Highway not proper. Seward v. Orange, 59 N. J. Law, 331, 35 A. 799. Highway improper which would cut park into small parcels. †Riverside v. Maclean, 210 Ill. 308, 102 Am. St. Rep. 164, 66 L. R. A. 288.

77, 78, 79. Stat. 1894, c. 548, relating to the Boston subway, controls General Statutes (Pub. St. c. 54). Prince v. Crocker, 166 Mass. 347, 32 L. R. A. 610.

80, 81. Prince v. Crocker, 166 Mass. 347, 32 L. R. A. 610.

82, 83. Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376.

84. Coney Island, etc., R. Co. v. Kennedy, 15 App. Div. 588, 44, N. Y. S. 825.

streets which intersect a parkway, lots having been sold by the dedicator with reference thereto.[85] The erection of a historical or military memorial is compatible with park purposes,[86] or with a special use of a park for capitol grounds,[87] even though its emplacement is but temporary,[88] and the taking of land for a park to be used in part for a free library and art building site has been sustained.[89] Memorials so erected become public property,[90] and the erection of them by public sanction does not constitute a private use of the park.[91] Sometimes economic and administrative purposes are combined with park purposes;[92] even so a part used for a church under the dedication cannot be granted to the church in fee.[93] Diversion is a question of fact,[94] and the court does not control official discretion in determining whether use of a park for base ball is a diversion.

§ 5. Rights of individuals in or to parks.—The benefit of proximity to a park is not a property right in private adjacent owners which entitles them to resist the alienation and discontinuance of a park,[95] and when the fee is owned by the city, it is said they can have no vested interest in the continuation of the park.[96] Adjoining owners may however sue to establish the character of a park or public square on lands privately dedicated which the authorities seek to divert or misuse.[97] The persons entitled to the protection afforded by the limited or restricted nature of the public use may of course waive or relinquish their individual rights.[98] Doing so in a single instance does not waive all rights.[99]

§ 6. Improvement and beautification of parks and approaches.—Great latitude characterizes the power of beautifying and improving parks, public open places, and parkways.[1] Thus in order to promote the beauty and attractiveness of parks and squares, easements of light and air may be imposed on adjacent land,[2] under the power of eminent domain.[3] Encircling drives may be laid out.[4] In several instances the projecting of portions of buildings into such places has been forbidden.[5]

Streets may be set apart as parkways and boulevards in such portions and in so far as they are not needed for the primary uses of a street,[6] and portions not 85. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. Chicago, 170 Ill. 618.

86. In capitol grounds. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599. 57 A. 740. Soldiers' and sailors' monument. Parsons v. Van Wyck, 56 App. Div. 329, 67 N. Y. S. 1054. A statute is not a "building" forbidden in a park. In re Washington Monument Fund, 154 Pa. 621, 20 L. R. A. 323.

87, 88. City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740.

89. Laird v. Pittsburg, 205 Pa. 1, 61 L. R. A. 332.

90, 91. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740.

92. The Battery in New York City has a dual purpose. Castle Garden has not. Phoenix v. Com'rs of Emigration, 12 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 1.

93. Still v. Trustees of Lansingburgh, 16 Barb. [N. Y.] 107.

94. †Sherburne v. Portsmouth, 72 N. H. 539, 58 A. 38.

95. Brooklyn Park Com'rs v. Armstrong, 45 N. Y. 234, 6 Am. Rep. 70.

96. Clarke v. Providence, 16 R. I. 337, 1 L. R. A. 725.

97. Le Clerq v. Trustees of Gallipolis, 7 Ohio (pt. 2) 217, 28 Am. Dec. 641; City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849.

98. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272. Combining with other circumstances a prescription would in time result. See Dedication, 3 Curr. L. 1050; Easements, 3 Curr. L. 1148.

99. Consent to one building is not consent to others. Fessler v. Union [N. J. Eq.] 56 A. 272; City of Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849.

1, 2. A provision that park commissioners may permit by their approval the erection of "sculptured ornaments" above the maximum building height prescribed was held to contain no authority for them to so permit the erection of walls even of an ornamentally sculptured character beyond the height prescribed. Knowlton v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 47 L. R. A. 314.

3. Knowlton v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 47 L. R. A. 314.

4. Commonwealth v. Boro' of Beaver, 171 Pa. 542.

5. McCormick v. South Park Com'rs, 150 Ill. 516; Wormser v. Brown, 149 N. Y. 163.

6. McDonald v. St. Paul, 82 Minn. 308, 83 Am. St. Rep. 428; †Martin v. Williamsport, 208 Pa. 590, 57 A. 1063. One who is not harmed cannot raise the question of undue limitation of street traffic. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215.

needed for travel may be regarded as part of the park system and enclosed.[7] A space in the middle as well as on the sides may be parked.[8]

§ 7. Encroachments or obstructions, adverse possession, and the like; and the right to sue for redress.—It is an indictable nuisance to place on an open square or on such parts of it as have been accepted by the public a building or other structure.[9] A park or square being for the whole public, like a street, is not susceptible of adverse possession[10] or destructible by the act or omission of local authorities,[11] though the contrary was held in Iowa,[12] but as to a part never accepted, the rule fails.[13]

Either the attorney general for the public[14] or that particular subdivision of government or municipality to which care of such places is committed should sue to protect or recover possession of a park.[15] Ordinarily it is the city or the park board.[16] Even if the title be not vested in the municipal corporation, it properly sues to protect the park.[17] A municipal corporation is the proper party to sue to abate or enjoin a nuisance in a park.[18] The obstruction of an easement of light or air appurtenant to a park is a purpresture not strictly a nuisance,[19] and since it injures the public the attorney general will prosecute to redress it[20] by an information in equity.[21] The fact that the purpresture consists in a violation of local building regulations for which a statutory remedy exists does not exclude the remedy by information.[22]

Since parks belong to all inhabitants,[23] any inhabitant may probably maintain a bill if the city fails to protect park rights,[24] every one being a cestui que

The power to do so may be delegated. See post, § 9, p. 883.

7. Abrey v. Com'rs of Parks, 95 Mich. 181, 54 N. W. 714.

8. †Downing v. Des Moines [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1066.

9. State v. Trask, 6 Vt. 355, 27 Am. Dec. 554; Rung v. Shoneberger, 2 Watts [Pa.] 23, 26 Am. Dec. 95, where a case is alluded to. State v. Wilkinson, 2 Vt. 480, 21 Am. Dec. 560.

10, 11. Rung v. Shoneberger, 2 Watts [Pa.] 23, 26 Am. Dec. 95; Commonwealth v. Alburger, 1 Whart. [Pa.] 469; Commonwealth v. Bowman, 3 Pa. 206; Commonwealth v. Rush, 14 Pa. 190; Case of Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 6 Whart. [Pa.] 45; Price v. Plainfield, 40 N. J. Law, 608; City of Alton v. Illinois Transp. Co., 12 Ill. 38, 52 Am. Dec. 479; Archer v. Salinas City, 93 Cal. 43, 16 L. R. A. 145; Grogan v. Hayward, 4 F. 161; Hoadley v. San Francisco, 50 Cal. 265, 70 Cal. 320; San Leandro v. LeBreton, 72 Cal. 170; People v. Holladay, 93 Cal. 241, 27 Am. St. Rep. 186. See cases collated on doctrine in note 48 Am. Rep. 24, 48. "Public squares, unlike commons, are not intended for the exclusive use of the citizens of the city or borough where they are situated; but are also designed for the comfort and convenience of strangers in the pursuit either of business or pleasure." Dictum per Rogers, J., in Rung v. Shoneberger, 2 Watts [Pa.] 23, 26 Am. Dec. 95. Misuse of a park for highway short of the time for adverse title held not to show a dedication for street. †Pickett v. Mercer, 106 Mo. App. 689, 80 S. W. 285. Where the public title as proved is possessory merely, an adverse possession is admissible. State v. Trask, 6 Vt. 355, 27 Am. Dec. 554. Cannot sell for taxes or assessments. M. E. Church v. Hoboken, 33 N. J. Law, 13, 97 Am. Dec. 696.

12. City of Pella v. Scholte, 24 Iowa, 283, 95 Am. Dec. 729. In that case the court while admitting that limitations could not run against the public, distinguished this case as one wherein not the public but a municipality was concerned. This holding is therefore inconsistent with the conception of a park as public generally, and not only locally. See supra, § 3.

13. State v. Trask, 6 Vt. 355, 27 Am. Dec. 554.

14. Knowlton v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 47 L. R. A. 314.

15. Hurd v. Harvey County Com'rs, 40 Kan. 92; Municipality No. 1 v. Municipality No. 2, 12 La. 49; City of Llano v. Llano County, 5 Tex. Civ. App. 132, 23 S. W. 1008.

16. Hurd v. Harvey County Com'rs, 40 Kan. 92. Park commissioners may. Gordon v. Winston, 181 Ill. 338.

17. City of Dubuque v. Maloney, 9 Iowa, 451, 74 Am. Dec. 358.

18. Watertown v. Cowen, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 510, 27 Am. Dec. 80.

19, 20, 21, 22. Knowlton v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 47 L. R. A. 314.

23. Macon v. Franklin, 12 Ga. 239; Alves v. Henderson, 16 B. Mon. [Ky.] 131; Campbell County Ct. v. Newport, 12 B. Mon. [Ky.] 541; Pomeroy v. Mills, 3 Vt. 279, 23 Am. Dec. 207; Commonwealth v. Rush, 14 Pa. 186; Carter v. Portland, 4 Or. 346; Alton v. Illinois Transp. Co., 12 Ill. 38, 52 Am. Dec. 479; Quincy v. Jones, 76 Ill. 231, 20 Am. Rep. 243; Sheffield & T. St. R. Co. v. Rand, 83 Ala. 294; Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376.

24. See Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376; Maywood Co. v. May-trust in respect thereto.[25] At any rate abutters[26] and outlookers, though not abutting,[27] or any lot owner,[28] may do so; and a bill is not multifarious because they join with the municipality.[29] If it come into exclusive possession any one of the dedicators or his privy in estate may bring ejectment.[30]

§ 8. Expense of acquiring or improving.—This is a phase of the law of public fiscal affairs or of public improvements and not entirely pertinent here.[31]

The legislature may expend public moneys or incur debt for park purposes or may authorize cities or districts to do so[32] within constitutional limits.[33] Public moneys may be devoted to the purpose of acquiring easements of light and air appurtenant to parks[34] which expense the legislature may charge upon the municipality.[35] The public nature of the benefits to be derived from parks and open places is manifested in various holdings and statutes which deny the right to improve and maintain them by local assessment or special tax.[36] At least it is not lawful to apportion such according to abutting frontage,[37] but the cost of parking a street either on the sides or in the center may be assessed to abutting property.[38] Money granted to repair roads may be used to construct a speedway without being a diversion of moneys granted to improve park approaches.[39]

§ 9. Administration, government and control of public parks.—The control of public parks is primarily for the state,[40] and cities and subordinate bodies act in respect to them only by virtue of delegated power.[41] Such a delegation for the purpose of administering park affairs is not one of legislative power.[42] Having been so committed it is said the control of a park belonging to a city is a local concern.[43] The legislature has, in so far as mere purposes of government are concerned, power to commit parks and the administration and control thereof to a board independent of the city or village;[44] but must keep within general or special limitations imposed by the constitution,[45] must not violate the terms of the dediwood, 118 Ill. 61. A resident and taxpayer may sue. Davenport v. Buffington [C. C. A.] 97 F. 234, 46 L. R. A. 377.

Contra: Citizens and taxpayers not specially harmed cannot sue. †Bryant v. Logan [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 21.

25. Davenport v. Buffington [C. C. A.] 97 F. 234, 46 L. R. A. 377. Taxpayer may sue in equity for redress of a diversion as breach of trust. †Sherburne v. Portsmouth, 72 N. H. 539, 58 A. 38.

26. Cummings v. St. Louis, 90 Mo. 259; Price v. Thompson, 48 Mo. 361; Brown v. Manning, 6 Ohio, 298, 27 Am. Dec. 255; Franklin County v. Lathrop, 9 Kan. 453; Cook v. Burlington, 30 Iowa, 94, 6 Am. Rep. 649; Chicago v. Ward, 169 Ill. 392, 61 Am. St. Rep. 185, 38 L. R. A. 849; Earll v. Chicago, 136 Ill. 277.

27. Douglass v. Montgomery, 118 Ala. 599, 43 L. R. A. 376.

28. Church v. Portland, 18 Or. 73, 6 L. R. A. 259, with note. Carter v. Portland, 4 Or. 339; †Riverside v. Maclean, 210 Ill. 308, 102 Am. St. Rep. 164, 66 L. R. A. 288.

29. Maywood Co. v. Maywood, 118 Ill. 61.

30. Pomeroy v. Mills, 3 Vt. 279, 23 Am. Dec. 207, where the proprietors of a town dedicated a square or common.

31. Consult Municipal Corporations, 4 Curr. L. 720; Public Works and Improvements, 2 Curr. L. 1328; Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

32. People v. Brislin, 80 Ill. 423; Bank of Sonoma Co. v. Fairbanks, 52 Cal. 196.

33. State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458.

34, 35. Knowlton v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 47 L. R. A. 314. Stat. 1898, ch. 452, restricting height of buildings adjacent to Copley Square in Boston.

36. State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458.

37. State v. Leffingwell, 54 Mo. 458; City of Ft. Wayne v. Shoaff, 106 Ind. 66; Bennett v. Seibert, 10 Ind. App. 369.

38. †Downing v. Des Moines [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1066.

39. Holtz v. Diehl, 26 Misc. 224, 56 N. Y. S. 841.

40. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740.

41. †City of Hartford v. Maslen, 76 Conn. 599, 57 A. 740; Commonwealth v. Davis, 162 Mass. 510, 44 Am. St. Rep. 389, 26 L. R. A. 712; West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215; People v. Holladay, 93 Cal. 241, 29 P. 54, 27 Am. St. Rep. 186.

42. Kansas City v. Ward, 134 Mo. 172, 35 S. W. 600; Turner v. Detroit, 104 Mich. 326.

43. State v. Schweickardt, 109 Mo. 496.

44. See Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 P. 344. Sole control and discretion to approve monuments to be placed in parks was given park board by Greater N. Y. Charter, § 616. Parsons v. Van Wyck, 56 App. Div. 329, 67 N. Y. S. 1054.

45. See Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 730. Such an act general in its frame and language is valid though presently applicable to only one city. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215.

cation,[46] nor attempt a diversion or change of purpose;[47] and where local self government is guaranteed,[48] must especially avoid any impairment of that privilege. When, however, an act creating a park district and commissioners for it has been approved by vote, a resubmission of an act enlarging their powers is not necessary.[49] Such boards may possess the attributes of a municipal corporation[50] when not designed to be a mere instrumentality auxiliary to the city.[51] A city apart from legislative sanction or authority cannot transfer its functions as trustee and custodian of parks to such a board.[52] That which the Federal government has committed to a city cannot be transferred by the state to a park board.[53] Territory within a park district is not transferred merely by changing it from one town to another.[54]

The extent to which power is given is a question of legislative intent construed as other statutes.[55] A board though recognized as city officers cannot bind the city, by the exercise of powers granted subsequent to such recognition.[56] Where the voice of the board is to be expressed by ordinance, a commissioner in charge of his district cannot act in excess of subsisting ordinances and regulations.[57]

The local authorities may restrict public use of a park in a reasonable way.[58] If a limited public use be declared, they may regulate the manner of such use, though the place be a "public" one,[59] and need not admit improper or untrustworthy persons.[60] A public place within one locality may be opened to inhabitants of other localities.[61] Public assemblages or speech in parks and squares may be regulated or forbidden.[62] Improper vehicles or drivers may be excluded from parks and parkways.[63] When a plat shows a place reserved from the general dedication and specially dedicated to the park board for boulevard purposes, 46. See Harter v. San Jose, 141 Cal. 659, 75 P. 344.

47. See ante, p. 878.

48. See Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 785. The County Park Act of New Jersey is not offensive to this clause. Ross v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Essex, 69 N. J. Law, 291, 55 A. 310. Acts creating a park board and authorizing it to purchase parks and to require the city council to provide payment up to a stated amount violate that guaranty in so far as they tend to compel the municipality to contract a debt for local purposes against its will. People v. Common Council, 28 Mich. 228, 15 Am. Rep. 202.

49. Andrews v. People, 83 Ill. 529; West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215.

50. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215; People v. Saloman, 51 Ill. 37; Wilcox v. People, 90 Ill. 192; West Chicago Park Com'rs v. Western Union Tel. Co., 103 Ill. 33; People v. Williams, 51 Ill. 63; South Park Com'rs v. Dunlevy, 91 Ill. 49; People v. Walsh, 96 Ill. 232; People v. Brislin, 80 Ill. 423.

51. Orvis v. Park Com'rs of Des Moines, 88 Iowa, 674, 66 N. W. 294, 45 Am. St. Rep. 252; Ehrgott v. Mayor, 96 N. Y. 264, 48 Am. Rep. 622.

52. Kreigh v. Chicago, 86 Ill. 411.

53. See note 10 L. R. A. 215, citing Com'rs of Parks, etc., v. Detroit, 80 Mich. 663.

54. In re De Las Casas, 178 Mass. 213, 59 N. E. 664.

55. In re Knaust, 101 N. Y. 188. See, also, Statutes, 2 Curr. L. 1707.

56. People v. Common Council, 28 Mich. 228, 15 Am. Rep. 202.

57. Ackerman v. True, 31 Misc. 597, 66 N. Y. S. 140.

58. May fence it allowing openings at convenient intervals. Scranton v. Minneapolis, 58 Minn. 437, 60 N. W. 26; Platt v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 31 N. W. 883; State v. Com'rs, Riley [S. C.] 146. In order to protect the property and conserve the purpose of amusement, a "common" may be enclosed by fence. †Sherburne v. Portsmouth, 72 N. H. 539, 58 A. 38. Ordinance against carrying shrubs, plants and flowers in parks is reasonable. Baldwin v. Park Com'rs, N. Y. Daily Reg. April 8, 1881.

59. Parade ground. People v. Prospect Park Com'rs, 58 Barb. [N. Y.] 638.

60. People v. Prospect Park Com'rs, 58 Barb. [N. Y.] 638. A citizen or licensee who uses a dock in a lake bordered by a park so that the public is excluded may be removed. Ewing v. Minneapolis, 86 Minn. 51, 90 N. W. 10.

61. Military organizations from other counties were allowed to use the "parade ground" of Kings County. People v. Com'rs of Prospect Park, 58 Barb. [N. Y.] 638.

62. Commonwealth v. Davis, 162 Mass. 610, 44 Am. St. Rep. 389, 26 L. R. A. 712; Commonwealth v. Abrahams, 156 Mass. 57; Commonwealth v. Davis, 140 Mass. 486.

63. Bicycles may be, but not landaus or horseback riders. Doll v. Devery, 27 Misc. 149. The exclusion of bicycles is not as matter of law unreasonable. Matter of Wright, 29 Hun [N. Y.] 357, 65 How. Pr. 119.

with "necessary" and "convenient" rights of way, ingress may be restricted to alternate streets,[64] even as against an abutter.[65] When empowered to regulate the use and government of parks, such a board may prescribe reasonable speed limits within the parks or streets forming part of them,[66] which are not abrogated by general laws applicable to highways.[67]

Privileges conducive to public comfort and use of a park may be granted.[68] A stage privilege in parks and connecting streets does not constitute an encroachment on the authority of the council to grant stage routes[69] or street franchises.[70] A privilege contract which must be either a license or a grant ultra vires may be revoked.[71] The reservation of control does not entitle park authorities to capriciously or unnecessarily interfere with a licensee or concessionaire.[72] When the power is so given, license for compatible uses may be granted by park authorities on whatever terms the act allows,[73] even for a term of years[74] if it does not impede proper performance of its functions.[75] A mere contract privilege may be awarded without formalities prescribed for a grant or lease.[76]

The power to govern parks in respect to any erection or incumbrance thereon does not authorize a permit to encroach on them.[77]

The power to take streets for parkways may be delegated to a park board[78] and its official successor.[79] Consent to this is included in a vote of approbation of an act vesting governmental power respecting parks in the board.[80] Such power is one of governmental discretion not controllable by equity.[81] General power to take streets for connecting parkways is not exhausted by one exercise[82] nor is the taking of parallel and not distant ones unauthorized.[83] They may regulate the erection of buildings fronting on streets thus committed to them.[84] A street is not tributary to a "park" until the park is acquired and defined.[85]

§ 10. Duties in respect to parks and liability for injuries therein. A. Public parks and parkways.—Negligence in the use of particular agencies, though occurring in a park, pertains rather to a topic relevant to the agency in question.[86] A park is public and the city in administering it serves a public function; hence

64, 65. Quick v. Park Com'rs of Louisville, 20 Ky. L. R. 1457, 49 S. W. 483.

66. †Commonwealth v. Crowninshield [Mass.] 72 N. E. 963. Eight miles an hour on such a street held reasonable. Id. "Ride or drive" held to apply to the person who is the driver of a self-propelled car or automobile. Id.

67. †Commonwealth v. Crowninshield [Mass.] 72 N. E. 963. Law relative to posting special speed regulations held not applicable. Id.

68. Exclusive privilege of renting chairs illegal where all benches were removed to compel visitors to rent chairs or sit in the sun. Kurtz v. Clausen, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 105, 77 N. Y. S. 97.

69, 70. American Steel House Co. v. Wilcox, 38 Misc. [N. Y.] 571, 77 N. Y. S. 1010.

71. Right to erect signs. McNamara v. Wilcox, 73 App. Div. [N. Y.] 451, 77 N. Y. S. 294.

72. Gushee v. New York, 42 App. Div. 37, 58 N. Y. S. 967.

73. Act construed to permit license for street railway on consideration of improving park. Philadelphia v. McManes, 175 Pa. 28.

74, 75. Restaurant. Gushee v. New York, 42 App. Div. 37, 58 N. Y. S. 967. Express subjection to control held to protect proper government. Id.

76. State v. Schweickardt, 109 Mo. 496.

77. Ackerman v. True, 31 Misc. 597, 66 N. Y. S. 140. Riverside Drive is part of Riverside Park and park board may grant building permit on abutting lot. Ackerman v. True, 31 Misc. 597, 66 N. Y. S. 140.

78. People v. Walsh, 96 Ill. 232, 36 Am. Rep. 135; West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215. Prior to Act of 1879 the park boards of Chicago could not do so (Kreigh v. Chicago, 86 Ill. 411), but thereafter they might (People v. Walsh, 96 Ill. 232, 36 Am. Rep. 135). Central park commissioners could not take streets not opened and laid out under L. 1865, c. 565, § 8; L. 1866, c. 357, § 7. In re Deering, 85 N. Y. 1.

79. In re Kingsbridge Road, 5 Hun [N. Y.] 146.

80, 81. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215.

82, 83. West Chicago Park Com'rs v. McMullen, 134 Ill. 170, 10 L. R. A. 215.

84. McCormick v. South Park Com'rs, 150 Ill. 516; Wormser v. Brown, 149 N. Y. 163.

85. Broadbelt v. Loew, 162 N. Y. 542, 57 N. E. 1105, afg. 15 App. Div. 343, 44 N. Y. S. 159.

86. Consult generally such topics as Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764; Buildings and Building Restrictions, 3 Curr. L. 572; Explosives and Inflammables (fireworks), 3 Curr. L. 1412.

in whatsoever respect the public has imposed a duty of care in respect of a park upon a city, it will be liable for the consequences of nonperformance,[87] proximately caused by such neglect or want of provision for safety.[88] If no duty is thus charged it is not liable.[89] Negligence in respect of such a duty is a question of fact.[90] With respect to nongovernmental or nonpublic instrumentalities maintained by a city within a park, it is not immune, thus, a city is bound to use ordinary care in surrounding with barriers a city reservoir placed in a public park.[91] The mere fact that a city derives profit from a park does not change the governmental character of its duty and immunity respecting injuries in parks,[92] but one unlawfully driving in a park for business is not thereby barred from recovery for negligence.[93]

Movable seats in a park are not an invitation to walk where it is forbidden,[94] and one who willfully does so cannot recover for resulting injury. A city is not liable for injuries resulting to a lessee's servant from defects in a park building leased in good order and put in exclusive control of the lessee. The lessee is.[95] It is not of itself unlawful to discharge fireworks from a square or park,[96] but negligence may intervene imposing liability,[97] and the facts evincing it are as in other cases for the jury;[98] but it may be inferred from the nature of an accident betokening their highly dangerous character.[99] A fireworks exhibitor is not liable for injury caused by a falling rocket discharged from a park if care was exercised to fire it in a safe direction.[1] No negligence is inferred merely from its fall in a street[2] and the firing thus from a park is not a nuisance irrespective of negligence,[3] nor is one standing in a street as a spectator entitled to the protection due to passersby.[4]

For direct injuries to property inflicted in course of the management of parks the remedy is tortwise and not under an eminent domain proceeding.[5]

A boulevard or parkway which affords ordinary street conveniences is a highway within the rule of liability for injuries due to defects therein in the means for travel,[6] and the law of highways applies;[7] but on the boulevarded portions, they being obviously withdrawn from travel, the city is not bound to see to the safety of travelers,[8] though it may be liable if it suffers or places thereon a dangerous thing which might probably injure a traveler.[9]

Where the park department is not independent of the municipality but merely

87. Falling of a limb from trees which it should have trimmed. Jones v. New Haven, 34 Conn. 1.

88. The slipping of his companion on the walk above him while trying to free herself from an entangling twig or branch not the construction of a walk or absence of a guard rail, was proximate cause. †Rhine v. Philadelphia, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 564.

89. Clark v. Waltham, 128 Mass. 583; Steele v. Boston, 128 Mass. 583 (person struck by sled while on path set apart for coasting). Boy of 7 years waded out and was drowned in pond on common. Schauf's Adm'r v. Paducah, 106 Ky. 228, 50 S. W. 42.

90. Barthold v. Philadelphia, 154 Pa. 109 (defective wall around recently acquired pool).

91. City held to have exercised due care. Carey v. Kansas City [Mo.] 86 S. W. 438.

92, 93. Blair v. Granger, 24 R. I. 17, 51 A. 1042.

94. Falling into unguarded trench. Sheehan v. Boston, 171 Mass. 296, 50 N. E. 543.

95. Leaux v. New York, 87 App. Div. 405, 84 N. Y. S. 511.

96, 97, 98, 99. Dowell v. Guthrie, 99 Mo. 653, 17 Am. St. Rep. 598.

1, 2, 3, 4. Crowley v. Rochester Fireworks Co., 95 App. Div. 13, 88 N. Y. S. 483.

5. A statutory remedy provided in the case of a taking or injuring of property for parks does not apply to a tort wrought by floating timbers against plaintiff's dock. Fiske Wharf, etc., Co. v. Boston, 178 Mass. 526, 60 N. E. 7.

6. Burridge v. Detroit, 117 Mich. 557, 76 N. W. 84, 72 Am. St. Rep. 582, 42 L. R. A. 684, and other cases cited note 83 Am. St. Rep. 432.

7. See Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593.

8, 9. Near the cross walk was a guy wire close to the ground which tripped plaintiff while "cutting" the corner. McDonald v. St. Paul, 82 Minn. 308, 84 N. W. 1022, 83 Am. St. Rep. 428. Similar facts were involved in †Martin v. Williamsport, 208 Pa. 590, 57 A. 1063.

of other departments, the city may be liable for its negligence.[10] If a park commissioner, however unlawfully, refuses to allow a licensee to remove personalty from the park, the commissioner individually, not the city, is guilty of conversion,[11] unless he retains it for the city.[12]

(§ 10) B. Privately owned parks to which the public is invited.—The proprietor must use reasonable care to the end that persons resorting there shall be safe[13] and that skillful persons be selected to conduct exhibitions therein,[14] and that visitors be apprised or guarded against dangerous devices[15] or such as in their nature are likely to be dangerous.[16] Reasonable and ordinary structural precautions and safeguards must be provided to protect visitors from forces which other visitors would be likely to set in motion.[17] Such are not delegable duties which may be committed to independent contractors.[18] For the negligence of such a contractor in manipulating appliances not naturally or inherently dangerous, the proprietor is not liable.[19] Reasonable care is all that is required of the keepers of amusement parks or like places of public resort.[20] The duty is not so high as that of carriers toward passengers.[21] The proprietor is liable for the negligence of his employes within the scope of their employment.[22] A visitor does not as matter of law assume the risk of carelessness of performers hired by the proprietor.[23] In a recent case a right of recovery was recognized in favor of one who, erroneously supposed to be an objectionable person, had been requested to depart from such a park.[24] The case is criticised as extending relief to an injury where no legal wrong was.[25] In an earlier but still recent case an indication of the contrary principle is discernible.[26] The proprietor is under no duty to find

10. Ehrgott v. New York, 96 N. Y. 264, 48 Am. Rep. 622; Richards v. New York, 48 N. Y. Super. Ct. [16 J. & S.] 315.

11, 12. Napier v. Brooklyn, 41 App. Div. 274, 58 N. Y. S. 506.

13, 14. Sebeck v. Plattdentsche Volkfest Verein, 64 N. J. Law, 624, 81 Am. St. Rep. 512, 50 L. R. A. 199. In this case a barrier to nearer approach than thirty yards to an exhibition of fireworks or one which, at that distance would have intercepted a prematurely exploded bomb was held not necessary. Conradt v. Clauve, 93 Ind. 476, 47 Am. Rep. 388 (target shooting allowed on part of grounds and no warning given of course of bullets).

15. Richmond & M. R. Co. v. Moore, 94 Va. 493, 37 L. R. A. 258 (a pole released by a balloon ascension fell on plaintiff's intestate); Thompson v. Lowell, etc., R. Co., 170 Mass. 577, 64 Am. St. Rep. 323, 40 L. R. A. 345 (flying missile at shooting exhibit). A roller coaster is not so inherently dangerous that the proprietor is bound to see that it is kept guarded against derailment. Knottnerus v. North Park St. R. Co., 93 Mich. 348, 17 L. R. A. 726.

16. Thompson v. Lowell, etc., St. R. Co., 170 Mass. 577, 64 Am. St. Rep. 323, 40 L. R. A. 345.

17. †Williams v. Mineral City Park Ass'n [Iowa] 102 N. W. 783. Failure to put netting between floor and railing of elevated stand to intercept bottles held not negligent in law. Id.

18. Thompson v. Lowell, etc., St. R. Co., 170 Mass. 577, 64 Am. St. Rep. 323, 40 L. R. A. 345 (exhibition of shooting); Railway Co. v. Moore's Adm'r, 94 Va. 493, 37 L. R. A. 258 (balloon ascension); Sebeck v. Plattdentsche Volkfest Verein, 64 N. J. Law, 624, 81 Am. St. Rep. 512, 50 L. R. A. 199 (fireworks exhibition). Stage, target, and butts for a shooting exhibition held not details beyond duty of care resting on proprietor. Thompson v. Lowell, etc., St. R. Co., 170 Mass. 577, 64 Am. St. Rep. 323, 40 L. R. A. 345.

19. Smith v. Benick, 87 Md. 610, 42 L. R. A. 277 (fall of a pole while being raised to support a balloon).

20. Hart v. Washington Park, 157 Ill. 9, 48 Am. St. Rep. 298, 29 L. R. A. 492; Lane v. Minnesota State Agricultural Soc., 62 Minn. 175, 29 L. R. A. 708; Dunn v. Brown County Agricultural Soc., 46 Ohio St. 93, 15 Am. St. Rep. 556, 1 L. R. A. 754; Mastad v. Brethren, 83 Minn. 40, 85 Am. St. Rep. 446, 53 L. R. A. 803; Richmond & M. R. Co. v. Moore's Adm'r, 94 Va. 493, 37 L. R. A. 258; Thompson v. Railroad Co., 170 Mass. 577, 64 Am. St. Rep. 323, 40 L. R. A. 345; Sebeck v. Plattdeutsche Volkfest Verein, 64 N. J. Law, 624, 81 Am. St. Rep. 512, 50 L. R. A. 199; Fox v. Buffalo Park, 47 N. Y. S. 788; Schofield v. Wood, 170 Mass. 415.

21. †Williams v. Mineral City Park Ass'n [Iowa] 102 N. W. 783.

22. Accident by the dropping of a beer bottle held to have been without the scope of employment of musician in an elevated band stand. †Williams v. Mineral City Park Ass'n [Iowa] 102 N. W. 783.

23. Thompson v. Lowell, etc., R. Co., 170 Mass. 577, 64 Am. St. Rep. 323, 40 L. R. A. 345.

24. Woman in a "street railway" park. †Davis v. Tacoma R. & Power Co., 35 Wash. 203, 77 P. 209.

25. See note 18 Harv. L. R. 153, and compare Torts, 4 Curr. L. ——

26. Hoagland v. Forest Park, etc., Co., 170 Mo. 335, 70 S. W. 878, 94 Am. St. Rep. 740. There the finder in rightful possession of or care for lost as distinguished from forgotten property of his visitors[27] and cannot require the finder to surrender possession[28] or be ejected.[29]

It must be alleged wherein there was negligence respecting such grounds, unless the fact of injury is such as of itself to bespeak negligence.[30] One who pleads an invitation to such a place need not set out that he went there by the means which the invitation contemplated.[31]

PARLIAMENTARY LAW.[32-34]

A parliamentary body acts or adjourns by vote on questions proposed, hence the mere announcement by its presiding officer that it stands adjourned, no motion having been made or put, is a nullity[35] unless the disorder is so great that it has ceased to be a deliberative body.[36] The power to "preside" embraces such authority as is recognized by good parliamentary usage.[37] If a quorum be present a majority of it may act[38] and all members present may be counted to make a quorum.[39]

PAROL EVIDENCE, see latest topical index.

PARTIES.

§ 1. Definition and Classes (888).
§ 2. Who May or Must Sue (889). Joinder of Parties Plaintiff (889).
§ 3. Who May or Must be Sued (892).
§ 4. Designating and Describing Parties (893).
§ 5. Additional and Substituted Parties; Intervention (893). Substitution (895).
§ 6. Objection to Capacity and to Defects of Parties (896).

Scope.—Only general principles are here treated. For treatment in particular actions, or as controlled by relationship, see appropriate title.[40]

§ 1. Definition and classes.—Parties are the adversaries in an action seeking or resisting relief.[41] They stand as plaintiffs and defendants,[42] and in equity and under the reformed procedure co-defendants may so stand as to each other. In proceedings in rem or quasi in rem a party defendant is not essential.[43] Those who sue or are impleaded by name are "record" parties, while persons in interest property lost in an amusement park was allowed to recover for having been arrested and ejected on his refusal to surrender the property. And the fact that the park proprietor assumed to care for lost and mislaid property and restore the same to the owner was ignored because the park proprietor was under no duty to so protect his other guests. A charge that the ejection was warranted was held erroneous. Id.

27, 28, 29. Hoagland v. Forest Park, etc., Co., 170 Mo. 335, 70 S. W. 878, 94 Am. St. Rep. 740.

30. The mere running away of a race horse which trampled plaintiff while in a part of a racing park where he was invited does not do so. Hart v. Washington Park Club, 157 Ill. 9, 48 Am. St. Rep. 298, 29 L. R. A. 492.

31. Richmond & M. R. Co. v. Moore, 94 Va. 493, 37 L. R. A. 258. This was a park provided by a street railway company to create traffic.

32, 33, 34. See 2 Curr. L. 1091. Proceedings in particular bodies differ. See Municipal Corporations, 4 Curr. L. 720; States, 2 Curr. L. 1703; Statutes, 2 Curr. L. 1707.

35. Election of clerk thereafter sustained. Attorney General v. Remick [N. H.] 58 A. 871.

36. Facts held not to show such a condition. Attorney General v. Remick [N. H.] 58 A. 871.

37. Attorney General v. Remick [N. H.] 58 A. 871.

38, 39. Commonwealth v. Fleming, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 404.

40. Appeal and Review, 3 Curr. L. 167; Assignments, 3 Curr. L. 326; Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434; Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880; Estates of Decedents, 3 Curr. L. 1238; Guardians ad Litem and Next Friends, 3 Curr. L. 1567; Guardianship, 3 Curr. L. 1569; Husband and Wife, 3 Curr. L. 1669; Wills, etc., 2 Curr. L. 2076; also such titles as Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210; Ejectment, 3 Curr. L. 1157; Mandamus, 4 Curr. L. 506; Quo Warranto. 2 Curr. L. 1377; Replevin, etc., 2 Curr. L. 1514.

41. See Cyc. Law Dict. "Parties." One does not make himself a party to an action by becoming a party to a contract filed as a stipulation in the case, and included in the orders of the court made therein. Elliott v. Superior Ct. of San Diego County, 144 Cal. 501, 77 P. 1109.

42. See post, § 2.

43. See McClymond v. Noble, 84 Minn. 329, 87 N. W. 838.

but not impleaded are parties "not of record."[44] They are also classified according to the character of their interest with respect to the action.[45]

§ 2. Who may or must sue.[46]—In the code states[47] every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest.[48] One having no interest in

44. See Cyc. Law Dict. "Parties," citing Taber v. Gardner, 6 Abb. Pr. [N. S.; N. Y.] 147.

45. NOTE. Classes of parties: "The parties to an action are sometimes divided into three classes. (1) Normal parties. (2) Necessary but not indispensable parties. These are persons having an interest in the controversy, who should be made parties, to the end that it may be entirely adjudicated and complete justice done. Their interests, however, are separable from those of the parties before the court, so that the court may proceed to final decree, and do justice therein, without affecting prejudicially the interests of others. They are usually referred to as proper parties. (3) Necessary and indispensable parties are those having an interest of such a nature that a final decree cannot be entered without either affecting their interests, or leaving the controversy in such a condition that its final determination may be wholly inconsistent with equity and good conscience. Shields v. Barrow, 17 How. 130, 15 Law. Ed. 158; Mechanics' Bank v. Seton, 1 Pet. 299, 7 Law. Ed. 152."—Tod v. Crisman, 123 Iowa, 693, 99 N. W. 686.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1092.

47. Note. As to who is real party in interest within the meaning of statutes defining parties by whom action must be brought, see note to Stewart v. Price [64 Kan. 191] in 64 L. R. A. 581.

NOTE. Recovery under code on contracts for benefit of third persons: A recent article makes the assertion that the code provision allowing the real party in interest to sue settles conclusively the question of recovery by the beneficiary under a contract made between other parties for his benefit. 'Suits on Contracts for the Benefit of Third Persons.' M. E. E. Kerr, 66 Alb. Law J. 312. The statement, moreover, is one that is frequently met. 7 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law 109; 15 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 717. That it in fact has not had this effect is shown by the state of the law on this subject in code states. When recovery has been allowed, it has frequently in code states, as in others, been based wholly on the general law and not at all on the code provision. Emmitt v. Brophy, 42 Ohio St. 82; Larson v. Cook, 85 Wis. 564. In some code states, however, the decisions have been put on the latter ground. Rice v. Savary, 22 Iowa, 470; Ellis v. Harrison, 104 Mo. 270. The reason this view is not the prevailing one is apparent when we consider the difficulty met with in construing the word 'interest.' If it is used in its popular sense, the provision leads logically to conclusions which even the courts so using it feel themselves bound to disapprove. For since an accidental beneficiary may in this sense be quite as deeply interested in the performance of a contract as an intended beneficiary, this construction, if followed, must inevitably result in giving a right of action to persons whose benefit under the contract, though material, was neither contemplated nor desired by the contractors. This is of course not the law. Wainwright v. Queens County Water Co., 78 Hun [N. Y.] 146; Chung Kee v. Davidson, 73 Cal. 522; Davis v. Clinton, etc., Co., 54 Iowa, 59, 37 Am. Rep. 185. That the courts do not consistently follow the popular construction is further shown by the fact that even in code states there are instances where a sole beneficiary has not been allowed to suo (Townsend v. Rackham, 143 N. Y. 516; Jefferson v. Asch, 53 Minn. 446; Vrooman v. Turner, 69 N. Y. 516), and that in New York the creditor cannot sue a firm on its obligation to pay the liabilities of an outgoing partner (Wheat v. Rice, 97 N. Y. 296). In all these cases the plaintiff has an interest in the popular sense, yet recovery is denied. The other and perhaps the preferable view is that the word 'interest' in the code is used in a legal sense. But if this is so, it cannot be said that any person has an interest, whose rights are recognized neither in law nor in equity. 15 Harv. L. Rev. 778. In this view the result of the enactment is merely to abolish so far as can be done the distinction between rights at law and in equity (Bliss, Code Pleading [2d Ed.] § 47), leaving it still to be decided whether a plaintiff aside from the code has any right, equitable or legal. 'No new right of action is created.' Harris, J., in Hodgman v. Western R. Co., 7 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 492. In the case of a sole beneficiary, it may be that an equitable right exists, founded on the fact that the promisee has no adequate remedy, and that both parties intended the beneficiary to have an enforceable right under the contract. This seems a possible explanation for Moore v. Darton, 4 De Gex & S. 517. If such a right should be granted by the courts of equity, the code would have the effect of changing it to a legal one. Aside from this consideration, which is at least doubtful, it is probable that the code provision has properly no effect on the enforcement of contracts for the benefit of a third person."—18 Harv. L. R. 141.

48. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 251. State v. Holt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 653. One to whom a sum was to be paid as part of consideration for conveyance between other persons may maintain action in her own name to enforce purchase-money lien, without assignment by grantor. Bryson v. Collmer, 33 Ind. App. 494, 71 N. E. 229. The validity of an assignment of a foreign judgment not being questioned, the assignee thereof is the real party in interest entitled to sue thereon in his own name under Code Civ. Proc. § 1909. Waters v. Spencer, 44 Misc. 15, 89 N. Y. S. 693. A corporation for whose benefit funds have been subscribed may maintain an action to recover them from a person to whom they have been paid. Commercial Travelers' Home Ass'n v. McNamara, 42 Misc. 258, 86 N. Y. S. 608. A water company, incorporated to furnish water to its stockholders, and which made a contract with a land owner for a supply of water, may in its own name maintain an action against subsequent owners of the land to restrain a diversion of the water (construing Code Civ. Proc. §§ 367, the subject-matter cannot maintain an action.[49] Parties not promisees in an express contract cannot sue thereon in their own names,[50] nor maintain an action of tort in respect of the breach of a duty arising solely out of the contract.[51] Public rights in action must be sued by the proper public functionary, or if he fails or refuses, a taxpayer may sue for the public;[52] but cannot, in his capacity as such, maintain a suit for the furtherance of corporate or private interests.[53]

Some statutes permit the trustee of an express trust to sue without joining the beneficiary.[54] Under such statutes it is optional with the trustee to sue in his own name, or join the beneficiary,[55] and the beneficiary, though not a necessary, may be a proper, party.[56]

An action brought in the name of one who is dead is wholly void.[57] In Illinois, the assignee of a chose in action must sue in the name of his assignor.[58]

Joinder of parties plaintiff.[59]—To warrant joinder of parties under the code, the complaint must state a cause of action in favor of all the plaintiffs, and it must appear that each of the plaintiffs has an interest in the subject of the action.[60] Thus in an action for damages to property, it must appear that the grievance is common to each, that the injury complained of was committed at the same time, by the same act, and that each party is interested in the same relief asked by the other, or some part of it.[61] These facts appearing, the parties may join, though their interest in the judgment may be unequal.[62] Parties whose rights grow out of the same contract may join.[63] Parties having separate 369, 809). Los Robles Water Co. v. Stoneman [Cal.] 79 P. 880. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 540, an owner of live stock shipped by agents in their own names may recover from the railroad company for delay in transportation. Summers v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 481. A solicitor cannot sue to recover money paid to a clerk of court for the benefit of distributees of a deceased person. Brooks v. Holton, 136 N. C. 306, 48 S. E. 737.

49. One not the holder of a claim cannot sue thereon without purchase or assignment. Ramseur v. Whelchel [S. C.] 49 S. E. 228. One member of partnership for operating a threshing machine cannot maintain an action against the county for loss of profits, the engine having been lost through an unsafe bridge, such partner having no property interest in the engine. Foster v. Lyon County Com'rs, 68 Kan. 164, 74 P. 595.

50. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754.

51. Conklin v. Staats [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 144.

52. A taxpayer may sue as relator for the use of the county on the official bond of a county treasurer, on failure of county commissioners to bring the action. State v. Holt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 653. But an individual, with no separate and divisible interest in the subject-matter, cannot maintain a personal action on such bond. Id.

53. Ampt v. Cincinnati, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 489.

54. Husband alone could maintain action to recover funds left by him with a depositary for himself and wife as partners, where he took a receipt in his own name [Code Civ. Proc. § 449]. Meinhardt v. Excelsior Brewing Co., 90 N. Y. S. 642. Trustees of unincorporated association, afterwards incorporated, could maintain action on bond without joining corporation which authorized the trustees to sue for its benefit [Mills' Ann. Code, § 5]. Hecker v. Cook [Colo. App.] 78 P. 311. Beneficiaries under a trust deed are not necessary parties to a suit by the trustee to preserve the estate against claims. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754. Under Ky. Code Civ. Proc. § 21, authorizing a person with whom or in whose name a contract is made for the benefit of another to sue alone without joining the beneficiary, a court commissioner who sold land of a decedent's estate and took a sale bond payable to himself in his official capacity, may sue on the bond without making any creditor of the estate a party. French v. Bowling [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1182.

55. Construing Mills' Ann. Code, § 5. Hecker v. Cook [Colo. App.] 78 P. 311.

56. A township is a proper party in a suit in equity to enforce rights relative to a public cemetery held by the board of health in trust for the township. Oneida Tp. v. Allen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 441.

57. An action to revive a judgment, brought in the name of the judgment creditor after his death. Goreth v. Shipherd, 92 App. Div. 611, 86 N. Y. S. 849. In such case the declaration cannot be amended by substituting the name of the administrator. Karrick v. Wetmore, 22 App. D. C. 487.

58. Factor who sells in own name and advances price to owner. Ermeling v. Gibson Canning Co., 105 Ill. App. 196.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1093, n. 46-48.

60. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625.

61. Owner of realty, and one operating a stone quarry thereon, properly joined in action for damages caused by damming up of water course. (Wife owned the land; husband operated quarry). American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625.

62. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625.

63. An insurer, who has paid a loss less and distinct causes of action are improperly joined.[64] Separate creditors cannot join in an action against the debtor unless there be a joint interest in the thing demanded or a privity of contract.[65] Where such creditors have no interest in each other's claims, but have a common interest in annulling sales as fraudulent simulations, they should sue separately on their claims and then join in the suit to annul.[66] One of several promisees in a contract joint in form cannot maintain an action thereon without joining the other promisees.[67] A corporation is an indispensable party to a suit in equity by a stockholder in his own name to enforce rights of the corporation.[68] In equity one having a substantial beneficial interest in the subject-matter should be a party to the suit;[69] and all such parties should be joined in order that the court may make a final order and thereby prevent a multiplicity of suits.[70] than the actual loss by fire and has taken a subrogation assignment for the sum paid, and the insured, may maintain a joint action at law against a wrongdoer who negligently caused the loss. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co. v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1075. Where by contract under seal defendant agreed to repurchase certain stock transferred to two persons in severalty as part of purchase price of certain property, and repurchased from one but refused to repurchase from the other, an action at law was properly brought by both such persons on the contract, though for the sole benefit of one. Osgood v. Skinner, 211 Ill. 229, 71 N. E. 869.

64. Failure to deliver a message whereby father and daughter were not met at a train and had to walk in the rain and pay hotel bills gave them separate causes of action. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 580. If a part of plaintiffs have one cause of action and the rest another, they must assert the same in separate suits. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754. Persons who have separately subscribed to induce defendant to locate a factory at a certain place cannot join in an action to recover subscriptions on defendant's failure to perform. Akins v. Hicks [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 75. And an action brought by a proper and an improper relator must fail as to both for want of a common interest. State v. Holt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 653.

65, 66. Blum & Co. v. Wyly [La.] 36 So. 202.

67. In the absence of allegations and proof of a several interest, the language of the contract will control, and the promisees must all be joined. Fisher Textile Co. v. Perkins, 90 N. Y. S. 993.

Note. "Unlike promisors, the relationship of promisees is determined by both language and interest. Slingsby's Case, 5 Rep. 18; Sorsbie v. Park, 12 Mees. & W. 146. Seemingly when the language is clear and no contrary interest appears, the language will control (Wootton v. Steffenoni, 12 Mees. & W. 129, 134); but 'if the legal interest in the covenant and in the cause of action' is several, the contract is several though joint in terms (Wootton v. Cooke, Dyer, 337b; Shaw v. Sherwood, Cro. Eliz. 729; Wilkinson v. Lloyd, 2 Mod. 82; Withers v. Bircham, 3 Barn. & Cr. 255; Hees v. Nellis, 1 Thomp. & C. 118); and, if these interests be joint, the covenant is joint, though several in terms (Eccleston v. Clipshan, 1 Saund. 153, n. 1; Copen v. Barrows, 1 Gray [Mass.] 376). So where only the cause of action is joint, and the interest is several, suit must be brought jointly. Rolls v. Yates, Yelv. 177; Coryton v. Lithebye, 2 Saund. 115 (116a) and n. 12; Anderson v. Martindale, 1 East, 497; Foley v. Addenbrooke, 4 Q. B. 197. Contra, Tippett v. Hawley, 3 Mod. 203. Generally, where the interest is several, and the covenant in terms is joint and several, the action should be several (Owston v. Ogel, 13 East, 538) 'unless such construction be expressly excluded by the terms' (Sharp v. Conkling, 16 Vt. 355). But wherever promisees may be joined they must be. Petrie v. Bury, 3 Barn. & Cr. 353. On principle, it seems clear that as to joint or to several contracts, the intention should control with promisees as with promisors, and that the interest test should be applied only in cases of covenants, joint and several."—5 Columbia L. R. 245, commenting on Fisher Textile Co. v. Perkins, 90 N. Y. S. 993.

68. The alignment of the corporation as plaintiff or defendant is to be determined by the position of the corporation officers, whether they oppose or favor the object sought by the stockholder. Groel v. United Elec. Co., 132 F. 252. As to right of stockholders to sue, see Helliwell, Stock & Stockholders, §§ 403-417.

69. One who in fact makes a contract (though in the name of another) for the purchase of realty, and is the only party in interest, is a necessary party to a suit for specific performance. Cowan v. Kane, 211 Ill. 572, 71 N. E. 1097.

70. All persons claiming injury by the same acts or conditions and interested in the event of the suit. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 625.

Note: The general rule in chancery is that all persons interested in the subject-matter of the litigation, whether legally or equitably interested, should be made parties so that the courts may settle all their rights at once and so avoid a multiplicity of suits. Willis v. Henderson, 5 Ill. 13, 38 Am. Dec. 120. But this, being a general rule, established for the convenient administration of justice, must not be adhered to in all cases, to which consistently with practical convenience, it is incapable of application. Cockburn v. Thompson, 16 Ves. Jr. 321. A party may therefore be bound by a decree in a suit to which he was not a party by the doctrine of representation. As to the application of this doctrine to persons not in esse, see note to Rutledge v. Fishburne [66 S. C. 155, 44 S. E. 564] in 97 Am. St. Rep. 762. As to parties in equity, see, also, Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210; Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 8-60.

§ 3. Who may or must be sued.[71]—Only persons whose rights in the subject-matter will be affected by the decree are necessary parties.[72] In a suit to annul a series of sales as fraudulent simulations, all vendors and vendees are, in Louisiana, necessary parties.[73] An action for damages for fraudulent misrepresentations of

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1093.

72. In actions concerning realty, purchasers pendente lite are not necessary parties. Sinclair v. Auxiliary Realty Co. [Md.] 57 A. 664. A distributee who has been paid in full is not a necessary party to a suit involving the estate. Keith v. McCord, 140 Ala. 402, 37 So. 267; Union Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. Smith, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 237. Original contractor is a necessary party in a proceeding under the mechanic's lien law to adjust rights of parties, and the equitable claim of a subcontractor, growing out of an unaccepted order on the owner of the building for the amount of a claim. Wheelock v. Huli [Iowa] 100 N. W. 863. All parties who acquire any right, title, interest or lien in or to real estate prior to the commencement of a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien thereon and of which the party so foreclosing has actual or constructive notice at the time of beginning such suit, must be made parties thereto, or a sale of the land under a decree rendered therein will be as to such parties a nullity. Krotz v. Beck Lumber Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 273. Where, in an action for breach of a contract, defendant had a right to counterclaim an unpaid balance of the price and to enforce a lien therefor on a house and lot, he had also the right to bring in plaintiff's wife, legal title to the property being in her. Crosby v. Scott-Graff Lumber Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 610. A county condemned property and let a contract for the construction of a public work thereon. Held, it was the real party in interest entitled to defend a suit to enjoin use of the property for the intended purpose. Johnston v. O'Rourke & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 501. Both members of a firm died pending negotiations for a contract to convey land, and subsequent to their death, one of the heirs obtained legal title through deeds of the others. Some of the heirs then brought suit to set aside their deeds for fraud. Held, the validity of their claims could not be determined in a suit against the vendee from the firm, to which such heirs were not parties. Wollenberg v. Rose [Or.] 78 P. 751. An officer of a corporation, charged with embezzlement of funds, is not a necessary party to a suit by his corporation to establish a trust as against one to whom be has turned over such funds; if joined he is only a formal party. White Swan Mines Co. v. Balliet, 134 F. 1004.

Rights in bonds, notes and other contracts: Validity of note cannot be adjudicated in an action where the holder of the note is not a party. Daugherty v. Curtis [Iowa] 97 N. W. 67. The holder of school district bonds is a necessary party to a suit to restrain the trustees from levying and collecting a tax to pay interest on said bonds, the validity of the bonds being in issue. Boesch v. Byrom [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 18. A contractor for the construction of a ditch, to whom bonds for the work had been executed, was a necessary party to a suit to enjoin the board of supervisors from levying or collecting taxes or issuing bonds. Tod v. Crisman, 123 Iowa, 693, 99 N. W. 686. All obligors in a joint forthcoming bond in attachment must be joined in a suit thereon. But upon return of not found, plaintiff may be permitted to proceed as to those served. Young v. Joseph Bros. & Davidson [Neb.] 99 N. W. 522. A complaint by taxpayers alleging collusion of a county board with contractors in letting a road construction contract, and stating wherein the contractors failed to perform the contract according to its terms and that the rights of complainants were defrauded, justifies making the contractors defendants. Board of Com'rs of Laporte County v. Wolff [Ind.] 72 N. E. 860. Where cancellation of contract to pay commission for sale of goods is sought, the purchaser is not an indispensable party, since rescission of the contract of sale is not sought. Warren v. Miller & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 127. Plaintiff made a contract with several attorneys to brief a case in the supreme court, on a contingent fee. One of the attorneys collected and withheld the fee for which they prosecuted the case. Held, all the attorneys were proper parties in the action by plaintiff to recover balance due him. Harrison v. Murphy, 106 Mo. App. 465, 80 S. W. 724. Where a complaint stated a cause of action based on an express promise to pay, and not on a claim assigned to plaintiff, secured by bond which was not assigned, there was no necessity to join as defendant the obligee in the bond, plaintiff's assignor. Holmes v. Ely, 93 App. Div. 390, 87 N. Y. S. 712. In a suit to rescind a stock subscription, induced by fraudulent misrepresentation of directors of a corporation, and to recover the amount paid thereon, the directors were neither necessary nor proper parties. Mack v. Latta, 83 App. Div. 242, 82 N. Y. S. 130. In an action by a town for cancellation and delivery of notes alleged to have been given by selectmen for money borrowed without authority, and for the recovery of money paid thereon, the bank to which the notes were given, and other banks which claimed to be bona fide holders of some of the notes were mutually and jointly interested in the controversy, within the meaning of Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 918, the same questions of law and fact being involved as to each, and hence were properly joined as defendants in a single action. Town of Fairfield v. Southport Nat. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 513.

Wills: One who may become a legatee by a possible construction of a will should be made a party to a bill for the construction of the will. Waker v. Booraem [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 451.

73. Blum & Co. v. Wyly [La.] 36 So. 202.

a member of a partnership may be brought against such partner alone; the other partners are not necessary parties, the action being based on fraud, not on a firm contract.[74]

Joinder of parties defendant.[75]—Joint tort feasors are properly joined.[76] Under some statutes, persons severally liable upon the same contract may be included in the same action at plaintiff's option.[77] The common-law rule requiring all persons jointly liable on a contract to be made parties in an action thereon and permitting recovery of a joint judgment only has been changed by statute in Minnesota except as to contracts made before passage of the act.[78] Persons against whom plaintiff's petition or complaint states separate and distinct causes of action are improperly joined.[79] If a complaint states a cause of action against one defendant, it will not be dismissed for misjoinder.[80]

§ 4. Designating and describing parties.[81]—The words "as trustees for the use of * * *" following the names of trustees suing alone are merely descriptio personarum.[82] Where an action cannot be brought against a trustee as such, but must be against him as an individual, the descriptive terms following his name are surplusage.[83] The words "a corporation" following plaintiff's name in the title of a case are merely descriptive and cannot be construed as an allegation of incorporation.[84] In an action for wrongful death by an administrator, a material variance in the name of the intestate as stated in the title and in the complaint is fatal.[85] Where an administratrix is, by order of court, made a party to a suit commenced by her decedent, no allegation of her official capacity is necessary.[86]

§ 5. Additional and substituted parties; intervention.[87]—Additional parties, whose presence is necessary if justice is to be done and the controversy determined, may be required to be brought into the suit,[88] and the court may stay

74. Hyde & Sons v. Lesser, 93 App. Div. 320, 87 N. Y. S. 878.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1093.

76. A servant, injured by negligence of an elevator operator, while at work in the shaft, may join his master and the operator as defendants, the two being joint tort feasors. Lynch v. Elektron Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 408, 88 N. Y. S. 70. Joint wrongdoers held properly joined in action for libel. Pavesich v. New England Life Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 68.

77. Civ. Code Proc. § 26. Kentucky Live Stock Breeders' Ass'n v. Miller [Ky.] 84 S. W. 301.

78. Gen. Laws 1897, c. 303, p. 563. Sundberg v. Goar, 92 Minn. 143, 99 N. W. 638.

79. Petition setting out separate and distinct causes of action against different defendants demurrable for misjoinder. Van Dyke v. Van Dyke, 120 Ga. 984, 48 S. E. 380. Such pleading is demurrable in favor of either or both defendants. Livermore v. Norfolk County [Mass.] 71 N. E. 305. In an action for damages for obstruction of a right of way by a fence, built by a deceased and continued by his vendee, such vendee and the administrator of the deceased were improperly joined as parties, since the former would not be liable for damages before he purchased, and the estate would not be liable for damage caused by the present owner. Randall v. Brayton [R. I.] 58 A. 734.

80. So held under Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 622, providing that no action shall be defeated by misjoinder of parties, but that parties misjoined may be dropped at any stage by order of the court. Town of Fairfield v. Southport Nat. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 513.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1094.

82. Hecker v. Cook [Colo. App.] 78 P. 311.

83. Massachusetts rule. Hampton v. Foster, 127 F. 468.

84. Boyce v. Augusta Camp No. 7,429, M. W. A. [Okl.] 78 P. 322.

85. The name "Ferdinand" and "Fernando" are not idem sonans, and one suing, if designated as administratrix of the estate of "Ferdinand" N. Armstrong, cannot maintain an action for the death of "Fernando" W. Armstrong. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pierce [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 604.

86. Noyes v. Young [Mont.] 79 P. 1063.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1094.

88. It is the duty of the court to require others, whose presence is necessary to protect the rights of persons already in court, to be brought in [Kirby's Dig. § 6011]. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. McConnell & Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1043. Absent parties may be joined by amendment if objection is timely. Oneida Tp. v. Allen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 441. A married woman suing a municipality for personal injuries may add her husband as a party during the trial, under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4953. Davis v. Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 784. In an equity proceeding, parties discovered to have an interest therein may be brought in even after final judgment, such judgment having been reversed and the proceedings until this is done.[89] The court may refuse to direct that an additional party be brought in, if the resulting delay would be prejudicial.[90] Application to bring in additional parties must be made with reasonable diligence after notice of the necessity of bringing them in; an unreasonable, unexcused delay, prejudicial to other defendants, will bar the right.[91] An ex parte order, made without notice to plaintiff, granting defendant leave to file a cross complaint and make other parties named therein defendants, may be set aside by the judge without notice.[92] While new parties may be made to a suit by amendment to the writ, it is the duty of the court to scrupulously guard the rights of parties absent from the record, and to exercise discretion over amendments for their full protection.[93] Additional parties cannot be brought in by defendants for the purpose of litigating issues not raised in the original suit.[94]

Intervention[95] in modern practice is the proceeding taken by a person not a party by which he obtains induction into a pending action between other parties against their will.[96] The right and the power of the court to grant it may be controlled by statute.[97] The decision of the question whether the pleadings and the facts established sustain the application for intervention rests largely in the discretion of the court.[98] If it appears that the applicant has been guilty of laches, the right to intervene may be denied, or granted upon terms.[99] Leave to intervene in a case will not be granted after entry of a final decree unless such intervention is necessary to preserve some right which cannot otherwise be protected, or to avoid some complication, that is liable to arise.[1] So long as property cause remanded. Bolsen v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 972. When it appears that other parties are necessary to a final determination of the action after the granting of a new trial, they may be brought in. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562. The code provision requiring a court to bring in parties whose presence is necessary to a complete determination of the controversy applies to equitable actions only. In conversion, court is not authorized to compel a third person, claimed by defendant to have legal title to the property, to be brought in. Ten Eyck v. Denison, 99 App. Div. 106, 91 N. Y. S. 169.

89. In all cases, the court has the right to arrest proceedings until necessary parties are brought into the suit, where justice requires that such a course be taken. Waker v. Booraem [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 451. Where, in partition suit, a third party was shown to have an interest in the property, it was the court's duty to stay proceedings and require such person to be made a defendant. Latham v. Tombs [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 1060.

See Stay of Proceedings, 2 Curr. L. 1736.

90. Where after a reargument, a child was born, whose interests were such that its joinder as a defendant was proper or even necessary, ordinarily, the court refused to delay proceedings longer, and entered judgment nunc pro tunc as of the date of a motion for judgment. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737.

91. Construing Gen. St. 1894, § 5178, relative to bringing in additional parties. Sundberg v. Goar, 92 Minn. 143, 99 N. W. 638.

92. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 389, 937. Alpers v. Bliss, 145 Cal. 565, 79 P. 171.

93. Application for leave to amend by inserting name of assignor of insurance policy as plaintiff for use of assignees denied, such assignor being without the jurisdiction. Frank v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co., 130 F. 224.

94. Defendants attempted to bring in third parties by a plea in reconvention. Lyons v. Fry, 112 La. 759, 36 So. 674. Where in an action by the state against a sheriff and his sureties, to recover taxes collected and not paid over, the petition did not charge theft or embezzlement, the sureties were not entitled to bring in as defendants a guaranty company which had furnished them a bond indemnifying them against embezzlement by the sheriff. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fossati [Tex.] 80 S. W. 74.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1095, n. 73-76.

96. Draper v. Pratt, 43 Misc. 406, 89 N. Y. S. 356.

97. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 723, 452. Draper v. Pratt, 43 Misc. 406, 89 N. Y. S. 356. Where the applicant for intervention presents satisfactory proof to the court that the action involves the title to real or personal property, or is to recover a claim for injuries to real property and that the applicant has an interest in such property which is likely to be affected by the judgment, the court has no power to deny his application. Where in an action by the assignee of a bond and mortgage to foreclose, defendants deny the assignment, and allege payment, the action does not involve title to property, and a third person cannot intervene. Id. Where a motion to permit parties to intervene as defendants was granted, it was improper for the court to require the interveners to employ the same attorney retained by the original defendant. O'Connor v. Hendrick, 90 App. Div. 432, 86 N. Y. S. 1.

98, 99. Draper v. Pratt, 43 Misc. 406, 89 N. Y. S. 356.

1. After final decree prohibiting the remains actually in judicial custody any one asserting a right thereto or interest therein may intervene, although the case in virtue of which judicial custody was acquired has passed to a final decree.[2] Intervention will be denied where it would result in the ingrafting of a new suit upon the pending suit and would retard the trial of the main suit.[3]

Interveners must have some interest in the subject of the action, or a complete determination of the controversy must be impossible without their presence.[4] As a general rule the surety on a bond given in a judicial proceeding will not be permitted to intervene in the proceeding;[5] but where the principal is insolvent and does not defend in good faith, or where the surety has a defense peculiar to himself which the principal is under no legal obligation to plead, equity will permit him to intervene.[6] A voluntary intervener may voluntarily dismiss his petition of intervention, and withdrawing it is equivalent to dismissal.[7] By such dismissal, the intervener is no longer within the jurisdiction of the court and costs cannot be taxed against him.[8] One who intervenes in a special or collateral proceeding does not thereby become a party to the main action.[9]

Substitution.[10]—The real party in interest may be substituted for one suing to the use of such party.[11] The rule in actions ex contractu by which the name of the original plaintiff may be stricken and the cause allowed to proceed in the name of the usee, if the latter has a legal right to maintain the suit, does not apply in actions ex delicto.[12] A plaintiff suing as an individual cannot amend and sue as an executor, since that would amount to the substitution of a new plaintiff.[13] A suit begun in the name of a deceased plaintiff is a nullity, and the Northern Securities Co. from voting the stock held by it in the two railroads, or paying dividends on such stock, application of a stockholder for leave to intervene to obtain further orders as to the distribution of the stock of the roads was denied. United States v. Northern Securities Co., 128 F. 808. Whether a merely proper party to an action should be permitted to intervene and defend after judgment, having had an opportunity to do so before judgment, is discretionary with the court. So held where wife with inchoate right of dower and homestead right in land sought to intervene after judgment in suit to foreclose mechanic's lien. Hunt v. McDonald [Wis.] 102 N. W. 318. In a suit in equity, petitioners claim title to land in fee; after decree interveners claim an undivided interest. Held proper to hear and determine their claims. Brown v. Brown [Neb.] 98 N. W. 718.

2. But no property was placed in judicial custody by the decree against the Northern Securities Co., which rendered valueless, for the purpose of carrying out the unlawful combination, the stock of the railroads concerned. United States v. Northern Securities Co., 128 F. 808.

3. Succession of Dauphin, 112 La. 106, 36 So. 287.

4. Code Civ. Proc. § 452. City of Ironwood v. Coffin, 39 Misc. 278, 79 N. Y. S. 502. Any person may be made a party who claims an interest in the controversy adverse to plaintiff, or who is necessary to a complete determination of the questions involved [Kirby's Dig. § 6006]. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. McConnell & Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1043. In an action against a railway company for damages caused by construction of a road, parties who had agreed to indemnify the company against such claims, and who admitted their liability, were properly permitted to appear in the suit. Boyer v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 1038. Under Bail. Ann. Codes & St. § 4846, a taxpayer in a school district has no interest in a contract between the state board of education and a publisher for use of the latter's books, such as to entitle him to intervene in a suit by the publisher for an alleged violation of the contract. Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal [Wash.] 78 P. 1096. The decree against the Northern Securities Co. being merely prohibitory, and not a mandatory injunction, and the government professing satisfaction with the decree, an individual stockholder could not intervene and obtain relief denied in the suit brought in behalf of the public. United States v. Northern Securities Co., 128 F. 808.

5, 6. Price v. Carlton, 121 Ga. 12, 48 S. E. 721.

7, 8. Guinn v. Iowa & St. L. R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 94.

9. Elliott v. Superior Ct. of San Diego County, 144 Cal. 501, 77 P. 1109.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1095, n. 68-72. Compare Abatement and Revival, 3 Curr. L. 1.

11. An order substituting distributees of a decedent as parties plaintiff for their solicitor in an action to recover money paid a clerk of court for their benefit, and that the pleadings be reformed, held proper. Brooks v. Holton, 136 N. C. 306, 48 S. E. 737.

12. McEarchern & Co. v. Edmondson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 798.

13. There can be no such substitution under Maine statutes. Fleming v. Courtenay, 98 Me. 401, 57 A. 592.

declaration cannot be amended by substituting the administrator as plaintiff.[14] Where a new or different corporation succeeds to the liability of the original defendant, its substitution as defendant is proper,[15] and there can be no relief against the succeeding corporation unless it is made a party.[16] On the death of a party, the proper legal representative should be substituted.[17] If the subject-matter is real estate, the heir at law must be joined;[18] if only personalty is involved, the administrator should be made a party.[19] Substitution of another party as defendant will not be prevented by limitations, where the action was instituted against the original defendant in time.[20] Where the complaint states a sufficient cause of action, the fact that the parties who originally invoked the jurisdiction of the court subsequently appear on the record as defendants is immaterial.[21]

§ 6. Objections to capacity and to defects of parties.[22]—Capacity to sue pertains to the civil status of persons or corporations.[23] A plaintiff is presumed to have legal capacity to sue, and the burden is upon defendant in the first instance to show that such capacity does not exist.[24] If it does not appear on the face of the complaint, the objection can only be raised by answer.[25] It is waived by failure to raise it either by answer or demurrer.[26] An objection of want of capacity to sue does not include an objection that the action is not brought in the name of the real party in interest.[27]

Objections to defects of parties[28] must be raised in the manner provided by the practice acts,[29] as by special demurrer[30] or plea in abatement.[31] A defect

14. D. C. Code, § 399, allowing amendments in pending cases, cannot be so construed. Karrick v. Wetmore, 22 App. D. C. 487. This is the rule, even though the plaintiff was suing as assignor to the use of the assignee. Id.

15. Where a defendant corporation conveyed all its property pending suit, the purchasing corporation should be substituted for the original defendant. Commonwealth v. Newton [Mass.] 71 N. E. 699. Where pending a suit for personal injuries defendant corporation leased its property, the lessee assuming all obligations and liabilities, plaintiff was properly allowed to substitute the lessee corporation by amendment, under Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 48. McLaughlin v. West End St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 317.

16. Defendants, pending suit for infringement of patent, formed a corporation and conveyed rights to it. Held, no relief against the corporation, it not having been made a party. Corbin v. Taussig & Co., 132 F. 662.

17, 18, 19. Sinclair v. Auxiliary Realty Co. [Md.] 57 A. 664.

20. McLaughlin v. West End St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 317.

21. Applied in creditors' suit. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1096, § 5. Consult Abatement and Revival, 3 Curr. L. 1.

23. See Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 880; Foreign Corporations, 3 Curr. L. 1455; Infants, 4 Curr. L. 92; Insane Persons, 4 Curr. L. 126; Husband and Wife, 3 Curr. L. 1669.

24. Boyce v. Augusta Camp, No. 7,429, M. W. A. [Okl.] 78 P. 322.

25. Want of capacity to sue as a corporation [Code Civ. Proc. § 433]. Los Angeles R. Co. v. Davies [Cal.] 79 P. 855. The objection is not raised by a general demurrer. Id.

26. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430, 433, 434. Town of Susanville v. Long, 144 Cal. 362, 77 P. 987. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 498, 499. Waters v. Spencer, 44 Misc. 15, 89 N. Y. S. 693. Objection that interpleaders had no capacity to sue held waived by failure to demur, and by answering. Alexander v. Wade, 106 Mo. App. 141, 80 S. W. 19.

27. Boyce v. Augusta Camp No. 7,429, M. W. A. [Okl.] 78 P. 322; Logan v. Oklahoma Mills Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 103.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1096, 1097.

29. An objection to parties should be raised as a part of the procedure in the case, and is not a proper subject for instructions. Worcester City Missionary Soc. v. Memorial Church, 186 Mass. 531, 72 N. E. 71. Defect in parties plaintiff, disclosed by plaintiff's evidence, cannot be taken advantage of by motion for new trial, after verdict. Young v. Stickney [Or.] 79 P. 345. A motion to compel an attorney to give security for costs, on the ground that he was the owner of part of plaintiff's cause of action, not sworn to, cannot be treated as an objection to the nonjoinder of the attorney as a party. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099. Where a party makes a contract partly for his own benefit and partly for the benefit of another, the omission to join the latter in an action by the former to recover thereon is not available in aid of a motion for a nonsuit or for a directed verdict, the statutory notice of nonjoinder not having been given [Gen. St. p. 2539, § 37; P. L. 1903, p. 544, § 36]. Murray v. Pfeiffer [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 147. The question of the right of an administratrix of the estate of a person to sue for the death of a person of a different name may be raised by demurrer to the complaint for want of facts to state a cause of action. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v.

of parties, appearing on the face of the complaint, must be raised by demurrer.[32] Objections to defects of parties are waived by failure to raise the proper objection[33] at the proper time,[34] or by answering over after a demurrer has been overruled.[35] Nonjoinder of a party defendant is waived by defendant at whose request the action has been discontinued as to defendant not joined.[36] An objection that there was a misjoinder[37] or want of proper parties[38] cannot be raised for the first time on appeal; but an objection to the want of necessary parties may be so raised.[39]

Demurrer lies for misjoinder of parties plaintiff.[40] Misjoinder of another party is not a good ground of demurrer for a defendant against whom the record shows a good cause of action on a several liability.[41]

In Louisiana, the court will of its own motion notice a nonjoinder of proper parties.[42]

Pierce [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 604. A demurrer to the nonjoinder of a party as a legatee under his grandfather's will does not raise the question as to his nonjoinder as a possible legatee under his great-grandfather's will in a suit to construe the latter. Waker v. Booraem [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 451. A demurrer to a complaint on the ground that there is a defect of parties is insufficient unless it states specifically wherein such defects consist, and names the parties omitted. Anderson v. Dyer & Bro. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1061.

30. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562. General demurrer does not raise nonjoinder of proper parties. Ray v. Pitman, 119 Ga. 678, 46 S. E. 849.

31. Nonjoinder of a party jointly liable on a contract can be used as a defense by the party sued thereon only when pleaded in abatement. Townsend v. Wheatland [Mass.] 71 N. E. 782. The question of nonjoinder of plaintiff's husband as a party in an action to recover rent held not to have been raised by the plea of the general issue. Morningstar v. Querens [Ala.] 37 So. 825.

32. Not by answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 498, subd. 6, § 499]. Hyde & Sons v. Lesser, 93 App. Div. 320, 87 N. Y. S. 873; Ward v. Smith, 95 App. Div. 432, 88 N. Y. S. 700.

33. Waiver by failure to raise objection by demurrer or answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 169]. Battle v. Columbia, N. & L. R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 849; Anderson v. Baughman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 38. Waiver by failure to demur specially. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562. Failure to demur and answering. Ward v. Smith, 95 App. Div. 432, 88 N. Y. S. 700. A general denial waives objection to a defect of parties defendant which does not appear on the face of the petition, under Rev. St. 1899, § 602. Dunnaway v. O'Reilly, 102 Mo. App. 718, 79 S. W. 1004. A defect or misjoinder of parties plaintiff, apparent on the face of the pleading, and not taken advantage of by demurrer, is waived by answering [Rev. St. 1899, § 598]. Van Stewart v. Miles, 105 Mo. App. 242, 79 S. W. 988. An objection to a defect of parties plaintiff cannot be raised by demurrer to plaintiff's evidence. Farmers' Bank of Dearborn v. Fudge [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1112. An objection that plaintiff's husband was not a party is waived by failure to raise the point by demurrer or answer [Code Civ. Proc. § 434]. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Lobens Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638. Nonjoinder or defect in parties plaintiff, not raised by demurrer or answer, is waived [Mansf. Dig. Ark. §§ 5028, 5031; Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, §§ 3233, 3236]. Gentry v. Singleton [C. C. A.] 128 F. 679. Where no exception was made to a petition, in an action for injuries to a wife, on the ground of joinder of the wife, the objection was waived. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 445. Under 2 Bali. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 4909, 4911, providing that where there is a defect of parties not appearing in the complaint objection shall be taken in the answer or deemed to be waived, where the complaint alleged that certain warrants sued on were issued to A, and he by his answer admitted this fact, but did not state that they were then owned by other parties, held, he waived the point. Criswell v. Directors of Everett School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420, 75 P. 984. A corporation purchased realty pending an action to set aside a fraudulent conveyance thereof, and was made a party to the action on its own application. Held, it could not complain that it had not been made a party on petition of plaintiff. Sinclair v. Auxiliary Realty Co. [Md.] 57 A. 664.

34. Judgment in justice court was against three persons, only two of whom appealed to county court. An objection that the third person was not joined, made for the first time in a motion for new trial, held unavailing. Miller v. Kinsel [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1075.

35. Guthiel Park Inv. Co. v. Town of Montclair [Colo.] 76 P. 1050.

36. Murphy v. Dobben [Mich.] 100 N. W. 891.

37. Osgood v. Skinner, 211 Ill. 229, 71 N. E. 869. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 672, a judgment in favor of plaintiff cannot be reversed for a misjoinder of parties plaintiff. Tennent Shoe Co. v. Birdseye, 105 Mo. App. 696, 78 S. W. 1036.

38. Oneida Tp. v. Allen [Mich.] 100 N. W. 441; Tod v. Crisman, 123 Iowa, 693, 99 N. W. 686. Valid plea of nonjoinder not fatal to a judgment if not timely urged. Sicard v. Schwab, 112 La. 475, 36 So. 500.

39. Tod v. Crisman, 123 Iowa, 693, 99 N. W. 686.

40. Akins v. Hicks [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 75.

41. Livermore v. Norfolk County [Mass.] 71 N. E. 305.

42. Blum & Co. v. Wyly [La.] 36 So. 202.

PARTITION.

§ 1. Nature, Right and Propriety (898). The Right and Parties Entitled (898). Possession (900). What May be Partitioned (900).

§ 2. Procedure for Partition (900). Jurisdiction and Venue (900). Notice (901). Necessary Parties (901). The Pleadings, Evidence, Proof, and Trial (901).

§ 3. Decision, Judgment and Relief (902). Determination of Adverse Interests (902). Adjustment of Claims Between the Parties (902). Costs (903). Attorney's Fees (903). Terms and Provisions of Decree (903). Operation and Effect of Decree (903). Setting Aside, New Trial, Appeal and Review (905).

§ 4. Commissioners or Referees and Their Proceedings (905).

§ 5. Mode of Partition (905). By Sale (906). Allotment (906). Owelty (906).

§ 6. Sale and Proceedings Thereafter (907).

§ 7. Voluntary Partition (907).

§ 1. Nature, right and propriety.[43]—The proceeding for partition is now largely a statutory remedy, and though ordinarily equitable, is in Texas a legal remedy.[44]

The right and parties entitled.[45]—One owning land in common with another has an absolute right to demand partition.[46] This right extends to all owning lands in common,[47] though their interest be for life only,[48] to the grantee of a beneficiary of a trust deed,[49] and to an heir of one whose estate is still unsettled,[50] the debts against the estate having been ascertained;[51] but, in the absence of statutory authority, remaindermen are not entitled to compulsory partition prior to the expiration of the particular estate,[52] and in states where the statutory

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1097.

44. Lee v. Wysong [C. C. A.] 128 F. 833.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1098.

46. Hall v. Gabbert, 213 Ill. 208, 72 N. E. 806; Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115. Adult tenant in common. See Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429. See 2 Curr. L. 1098, n. 10.

47. Sandiford v. Hempstead, 97 App. Div. 163, 90 N. Y. S. 76. A wife obtaining a divorce for husband's adultery and thereby obtaining a one-third interest in land conveyed by him is entitled to partition. Keith v. Mellenthin, 92 Minn. 527, 100 N. W. 366. In Illinois the complainant is required to show that he is the owner of an undivided interest in the property as tenant in common with the party or parties against whom he seeks partition. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622. See 2 Curr. L. 1098, n. 14-19. A bona fide purchaser of the legal title without notice has a right to partition. Martin v. Thomas [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 118.

Note: This last case holds that the possession by one heir who held a contract for the others' share was not notice of his equity. The contrary is held in Collum v. Sanger Bros. [Tex.] 82 S. W. 459. See discussion of "Notice from possession."—3 Mich. L. R. 246, 335.

48. Complainants alleged ownership in fee. One defendant claimed title. There were three life tenants; held error to direct verdict for defendants, but partition should have been adjudged between life tenants. Windham v. Howell, 68 S. C. 478, 47 S. E. 715.

49. A bill alleging that plaintiff had acquired the interest of one and a charge against the interest of another of the beneficiaries of a trust deed, which bill was accompanied by a deed conveying such interests, held, the estate having vested, to show a proper title to institute a suit for partition. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Institute [Md.] 58 A. 200.

50. Hall v. Gabbert, 213 Ill. 208, 72 N. E. 806. But if a sale is ordered, the chancellor should guard the funds so as to protect creditors. Id.

51. Wachter v. Doerr, 210 Ill. 242, 71 N. E. 401.

52. Cannot be partitioned until expiration of estate in curtesy. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136.

Contra. Illinois: In this state they are entitled to partition (Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429), though they are not entitled to possession (Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115). But see 2 Curr. L. 1098, n. 13.

NOTE. Partition of contingent interests: It was the invariable rule of the common law that estates in remainder or reversion could not be divided by proceedings in compulsory partition. This rule still prevails in England. Evans v. Bagshaw, L. R. 8 Eq. 469, afd. L. R. 5 App. Cas. 340, and generally throughout the United States, although there is some conflict of decision in this country because of the various state statutes. It is also well settled that in the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, partition will not be awarded, either at law or in equity, of an estate held in remainder or reversion. Wilkinson v. Stuart, 74 Ala. 198; Evans v. Bagshaw, L. R. 8 Eq. 469. The reason for this rule is generally stated to be that tenants in reversion or remainder are not entitled to the possession, are in no respect inconvenienced or damnified by the undivided possession held by others, and consequently will not be permitted to interfere with tenants in possession, as they have no reason to interest themselves concerning the manner in which the estate of the tenant in possession is enjoyed. On the other hand the tenants in possession can compel partition only as to their particular estates and can do nothing toward effecting a severance of the estate in remainder or reversion. Freeman, Cotenancy and Partition, § 440.

authority exists, a life tenant in esse is regarded as the representative of remaindermen unborn at the date of the judgment.[53] Such imperative right is, however, limited where part of the estate is owned by infants, in which case partition will not be decreed unless beneficial to the minor,[54] nor will partition be awarded in violation of a condition or restriction imposed upon the estate by one through whom the petitioner claims,[55] nor is such a condition or restriction in the instrument conveying the estate invalid, as repugnant to the estate granted, or as against public policy.[56] That the interest of plaintiff is subject to a lien which can at any time be discharged and for whose payment the court is authorized to provide in its judgment does not deprive him of the right to maintain partition.[57] That a receiver is erroneously appointed to collect rents and profits does not affect petitioner's right.[58] One owning all the land,[59] or having no title,[60] estate[61] or interest[62] in the property, cannot maintain partition. Conditions precedent to the vesting of the estate must be complied with before partition can be had.[63]

Among the American cases which hold that a tenant for life, or a term of years, or under a lease in possession is not entitled to maintain compulsory partition against the reversioners, remaindermen or others having a future conditional interest in the estate may be cited: Seiders v. Giles, 141 Pa. 93; Petition of Hodgkinson, 12 Pick. [Mass.] 374; Matter of Miller, 90 N. C. 625; Parks v. Siler, 76 N. C. 191; Watson v. Watson, 3 Jones Eq. [N. C.] 400; Williams v. Hassell, 73 N. C. 174, 74 N. C. 434; Culver v. Culver, 2 Root [Conn.] 278; Baldwin v. Aldrich, 34 Vt. 526, 80 Am. Dec. 695; Zeigler v. Grim, 6 Watts [Pa.] 106; Brown v. Brown, 8 N. H. 94; Norment v. Wilson, 5 Humph. [Tenn.] 310; Robertson v. Robertson, 2 Swan [Tenn.] 196; Simmons v. MacAdaras. 6 Mo. App. 297. In some states by reason of special statutes the opposite rule prevails. Striker v. Mott, 2 Paige [N. Y.] 387, 22 Am. Dec. 646; Mead v. Mitchell, 17 N. Y. 210, 72 Am. Dec. 455; Brevoort v. Brevoort, 70 N. Y. 136; Sullivan v. Sullivan, 66 N. Y. 37.—From note to Aydlett v. Pendleton [N. C.] 32 Am. St. Rep. 776, 778.

53. Under Rev. St. 1845, p. 764, where remainderman was born after judgment finding extent of interests, held proceedings were not thereby rendered void. After death of life tenant the property, in this case, went to her heirs in fee. Sparks v. Clay [Mo.] 84 S. W. 40.

54. Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115.

55. Cannot be made in contravention of a will. Rev. St. 1899, § 4383. Foreign will recorded in state of forum. Stevens v. Larwill [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 113. Will giving testator's wife use of all his property during her life and at her decease to be divided among the children, held the language created an express condition against partition prior to the extinguishment of the particular estate. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429.

56. See Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429.

57. Attachment lien. McCarty v. Patterson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 112. Where owners in common conveyed property to a trustee to place a mortgage thereon to secure debts due from each of such owners, held partition could be had on termination of trust by payment of mortgage, though all the debts had not been paid and another mortgage had been placed on the property. Gardiner v. Cord, 145 Cal. 157, 78 P. 544.

58. McCarty v. Patterson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 112.

59. Suit to partition between owner and tenant who has violated lease. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622.

60. Dowress reserving timber in deed of life estate, held could not maintain an action for sale of all saw timber on the land and partition of proceeds. Garnett Smelting & Development Co. v. Watts, 140 Ala. 449, 37 So. 201. Question of title in partition being submitted to the jury and found for defendant, the case is properly dismissed. Kimbrell v. Page [S. C.] 49 S. E. 477. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4383, providing that partition cannot be made in contravention of a will a court has no jurisdiction of a suit for the partition of devised lands, instituted by persons having no interest under the will, or who have assigned their interest. Stevens v. Larwill [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 113. Bringing of such suit does not exclude jurisdiction of probate court over land involved. Id.

61. A widow being in the exclusive possession of the homestead and having an unassigned dower interest in other realty of her deceased husband cannot maintain partition against heirs of decedent. [Construing Rev. St. 1898, § 3101; Laws 1899, p. 613, c. 336; Laws 1903, p. 442, c. 280.] Ullrich v. Ullrich [Wis.] 101 N. W. 376.

62. Creditors or assignee of insolvent who has appropriated more than his share of the estate are not entitled to statutory partition. Koerner v. Pfaff, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 597. A trustee of "all the life estate" of the beneficiary has no interest entitling him to contest proceedings to partition the property among the remaindermen freed from the life estate, the beneficiary having consented thereto. Brillhart v. Mish [Md.] 58 A. 28.

63. Trust deed providing that estate should vest on death of grantor, "provided" that beneficiaries should be charged with advancements, held an account was not a condition precedent to partition, after death of grantor. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Institute [Md.] 58 A. 200.

In Louisiana a guardian suing for partition without the authorization of a family meeting, the sale may be ratified by a family meeting,[64] and the interest of a minor being involved, the adjudicatee of the property may demand such a meeting.[65] In the cases where the interests of minors are involved, failure to comply with the legal formalities renders the decree provisional, and a new partition may be demanded for the least lesion without suing to rescind the former decree.[66]

The statute of limitations never bars relief between tenants in common in an action of partition,[67] unless there be an ouster,[68] but it may be resorted to in such an action to establish interests in the property.[69] Ouster will be implied from the finding of the ultimate fact of the running of the statute.[70]

Possession.[71]—In order to maintain the suit, the complainant must have the possession or right to possession.[72]

What may be partitioned.[73]—A mineral claim, being an estate in freehold, is subject to partition.[74] The whole of a Mexican grant need not be included in a partition suit.[75]

Partition of the homestead[76] is a matter of statutory regulation, the rights varying in different states;[77] but the inhibition only has reference to the heirs of the decedent, and not to those claiming interest in the land through other titles.[78]

§ 2. Procedure for partition.[79]—The action is for the benefit of all persons interested in the property included in the complaint; hence the running of limitations as to them is stopped by the filing of the complaint.[80]

Jurisdiction and venue.[81]—The jurisdiction is ordinarily in courts of general chancery powers, but is sometimes concurrent in probate courts if a decedent's estate is to be partitioned.[82] A court dismissing a petition at the request of the petitioners and no appeal being taken, a second petition may be brought in another 64, 65. MacRae v. Smith, 112 La. 715, 36 So. 659.

66. Civ. Code, arts. 1399, 1400. Rhodes v. Cooper, 113 La. 600, 37 So. 527.

67. Rhodes v. Cooper, 113 La. 600, 37 So. 527; Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712. Code Civ. Proc. § 343, providing a four years' period of limitation, does not apply. Id.

68. Such action may be barred by the continued and uninterrupted separate possession of one of the heirs or joint owners for 30 years [Civ. Code, arts. 1304, 1305]. Rhodes v. Cooper, 113 La. 600, 37 So. 527.

69. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

70. Need not be specifically found. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1098.

72. Where testator devised land to wife for life, and, after her death, it was to be sold and the proceeds divided among the heirs, held the latter, on the death of the widow, could not maintain partition. Bank of Ukiah v. Rice, 143 Cal. 265, 76 P. 1020. Where testator gave his wife the use of all his property during life or widowhood, and at her death the property to be divided among their children, held that in case of her marriage, the estate of the children would take effect in possession, and entitle them to partition. Dee v. Dee, 212 Ill. 338, 72 N. E. 429.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1099.

74. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622.

75. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1099.

77. Homestead cannot be partitioned as between widow and heirs and purchaser at execution sale. Simpson v. Scroggins, 182 Mo. 560, 81 S. W. 1129.

78. A husband and wife owning land in severalty and putting improvements thereon with money borrowed by the community, and the widow, after the husband's debt, deeding the land in satisfaction of the debt, the property is subject to partition, though the heirs of the deceased husband are entitled to a homestead in his share of the property. King v. Summerville [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1050.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1099.

80. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1099.

82. Massachusetts: Under Pub. St. 1882, c. 178, §§ 45, 48, the probate and superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction to partition realty of a deceased person, whether the latter's estate has been settled or is in course of settlement. McCarty v. Patterson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 112.

Texas: Where decedent was a joint owner of land, the probate court may partition the property between decedent's heirs and the other joint owners. Penn v. Case [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 349. [It would have no jurisdiction to adjudicate the question of title. Id.]

court having concurrent jurisdiction.[83] A suit in partition is in New York regarded as a proceeding in rem, and the jurisdiction of the court is confined to the property described in the complaint.[84] A party cannot be heard, upon exceptions to the sale, to deny the jurisdiction of the court.[85] Jurisdiction of the person is as essential as jurisdiction of the subject-matter.[86]

Notice.[87]—All interested parties are entitled to notice and have a right to be heard.[88]

Necessary parties.[89]—All persons having an interest in the premises, of whatever nature or quality, and whether in possession or out of possession, are necessary parties.[90] A defendant in partition after the property has been sold is not a necessary party to a subsequent partition suit instituted by a purchaser against his wife by virtue of her inchoate dower interest.[91]

The pleadings, evidence, proof, and trial.[92]—The bill must allege possession,[93] and ownership,[94] must describe the land,[95] set forth the interests of the parties,[96] and in Florida must state, according to the best of the knowledge and belief of the complainant, the names and residences of the several owners.[97] A defective allegation of divisibility in the petition may be cured by the answer.[98] An amendment adding land to that described in the original complaint does not introduce a new cause of action, and its allowance is within the discretion of the court.[99] The answer must not seek affirmative relief unless the same be germane to the suit,[1] and setting forth the facts whereon it is claimed partition should be denied is sufficient for a determination of the equities of the case.[2] The petition reciting the rights of defendant, the answer, except as to cross prayers, need be no fuller

83. Probate and superior courts. McCarty v. Patterson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 112.

84. Sandiford v. Hempstead, 97 App. Div. 163, 90 N. Y. S. 76. See 2 Curr. L. 1097, n. 9.

85. Where life tenant filed answer consenting to partition and sale of property free from his estate. Brillhart v. Mish [Md.] 58 A. 28.

86. Unauthorized use of infant's name does not bind him. Underwood v. Deckard [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 383.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1099.

88. Where bill contained undenied allegation that certain parties were the owners of certain undivided interests in the land, held error to confirm an amicable partition, ignoring the interests of such parties, without giving them a right to be heard. Cotton v. Cash [Miss.] 37 So. 459. As to notice, see 2 Curr. L. 1099, n. 33.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1099.

90. Tenants in possession held necessary parties. Wachter v. Doerr, 210 Ill. 242, 71 N. E. 401. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1342, one having an inchoate right of dower in an undivided share in the property must be made a party. Hurley v. O'Neill [Mont.] 79 P. 242.

91. Reed v. Reed, 25 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1100, n. 41-46.

93. Where plaintiff alleged that he was the owner in fee and in possession of an undivided half of the property, and that defendant was the owner of an undivided half, a demurrer on the ground that the complaint did not allege that plaintiffs had an estate in possession is frivolous. Sprague v. Maxcy [Wis.] 100 N. W. 832. See 2 Curr. L. 1100, n. 44.

94. Thibodeaux v. Thibodeaux, 112 La. 906, 36 So. 800.

95. Description giving township, county and state, and describing the land as the "westerly one-half" of a designated lot and block, according to a specified recorded plat, is sufficient. Home Security Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Western Land & Title Co., 145 Cal. 217, 78 P. 626.

96. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 1255, c. 106. Wachter v. Doerr, 210 Ill. 242, 71 N. E. 401. Description of extent of dower interest held uncertain. Garnett Smelting & Development Co. v. Watts, 140 Ala. 449, 37 So. 201. Complaint describing chain of title and setting forth quantity or proportionate share of each held not demurrable. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722. See 2 Curr. L. 1100, n. 43.

97. Following statement as to name and residence of a corporation held sufficient. "Camp Phosphate Company, which is a Florida corporation." Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

98. Petition failing to allege that division could not be had without impairing the value of the property, the defect, if any, is cured by the answer denying that the land was susceptible of division without impairment. Taylor v. Webber [Ky.] 83 S. W. 567.

99. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

1. Petitioner seeking to charge his severed interest with his debts due defendants, their answer praying a judgment for their debts is germane to the petition. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322.

2. Answer and cross petition. Koerner v. Pfaff, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 597.

than the case which plaintiff makes.[3] The necessity for alleging and proving ownership is a concession of the defendant's right of denial and counterclaim.[4] An allegation of prior oral partition must be proven.[5] It is a variance from allegations of legal titles in fee to prove that one is equitable.[6]

In Florida one is not entitled to a jury trial.[7]

§ 3. Decision, judgment and relief.[8]—The answer and evidence disclosing the absence of a necessary party, the decree should not be entered,[9] and such person being known, the decree cannot reserve the interest of such party for future adjudication.[10]

Determination of adverse interests.[11]—The rights of adverse parties being put in issue in the partition suit, equity will determine the claims when to so do will avoid a multiplicity of suits,[12] though complainant has never had possession of any part of the land,[13] and regardless of the pendency of a prior action of ejectment brought by him;[14] but the partition suit cannot be used as a substitute for the action of ejectment, nor for the sole purpose of testing a legal title.[15] A proceeding for partition being in Texas one at law in which title may be determined, the legal title must prevail in the Federal courts for that state.[16] Both parties claiming from a common source, defendant cannot set up an outstanding title with which he is disconnected, and the owner of which is not in possession of the premises.[17] Cross bill is the proper method for seeking to have the deed under which plaintiff claims set aside.[18]

Adjustment of claims between the parties.[19]—Allowance must be made for the use and occupancy by one tenant beyond his individual interest,[20] though in New York this only applies where such tenant holds adversely to the others,[21] for rents and profits collected by him while in exclusive possession,[22] and for the payment of liens and taxes;[23] and to secure this allowance the one tenant is entitled to a lien on the other's share.[24] The claims of or against persons not notified[25] nor made parties[26] cannot be determined.

3. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322.

4. Hence defendant may inquire into the validity of the proceeding whereby the plaintiff acquired the title upon which he sues. Thibodeaux v. Thibodeaux, 112 La. 906, 36 So. 800. See topic Judgments, 4 Curr. L. 287.

5. Hurley v. O'Neill [Mont.] 79 P. 242.

6. There being an express allegation that the interests are all legal and titles in fee, a showing that one of the parties has an equitable interest is insufficient to sustain the suit. McConnell v. Pierce, 210 Ill. 627, 71 N. E. 622.

7. Construing constitutions and statutes. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1100.

9. Wachter v. Doerr, 210 Ill. 242, 71 N. E. 401; Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

10. Though it state that it appears from the evidence that defendant is in equity entitled to a conveyance from such third person. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

11. See 2 Curr. L. 1100.

12. Rights of adverse occupants. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712. May settle all controversies as to the legal title and right of possession. Construing Rev. St. 1892, §§ 1490-1497. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722. In action by heirs for partition court will determine claims of unsecured creditors which have been allowed by probate court, though no sale has been had under Code Civ. Proc. § 2750, nor action brought against the heirs under § 1843. Hughes v. Golden, 44 Misc. 128, 89 N. Y. S. 765.

13. Girtman v. Starbuck [Fla.] 37 So. 731.

14. Place v. Rogers, 91 N. Y. S. 912.

15. Construing Rev. St. 1892, §§ 1490-1497. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

16. Lee v. Wysong [C. C. A.] 128 F. 833.

17. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

18. Cox v. Spurgin, 210 Ill. 398, 71 N. E. 456.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1100.

20. That husband of such co-tenant occupied land with her does not limit her liability. Walker v. Williams [Miss.] 36 So. 450.

21. Willes v. Loomis, 94 App. Div. 67, 87 N. Y. S. 1086.

22. Cole v. Cole [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 895.

23. Code 1892, § 3101. Walker v. Williams [Miss.] 36 So. 450. Taxes paid by one co-tenant are chargeable against the estate. Id.

24. Rents, taxes and improvements. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452. If the inquiry as to rents goes behind the death of such co-tenant, the administrator of his es-

Costs.[27]—In partition cases the costs should be apportioned so that each party pays his equitable portion thereof, except such party as may interpose a substantial defense.[28]

Attorney's fees.[29]—Defendant being obliged to employ counsel to defend his interest, he should not be compelled to pay part of complainant's attorney's fees.[30] In the absence of express statutory authority, judgment for fees should not be rendered in name of the attorney,[31] but the right of the latter to receive fees to be taxed as costs is not dependent on final partition being effected in court.[32] Complainant being an attorney and acting as such in the suit, he is not entitled to attorney's fees.[33] In determining the value of the attorney's services, the court cannot on its own motion refer the matter to a committee of lawyers.[34] In Missouri, plaintiff stipulating with his attorney that the court may name the amount of the fee is sufficient to give it authority to do so.[35]

Terms and provisions of decree.[36]—The decree should provide for the protection of homestead and dower rights,[37] and being based on a valid agreement, its scope with relation to the pleadings is immaterial.[38] The land being described in the pleadings and findings, the judgment need not contain such description.[39] Decree failing to authorize a sale of the land to satisfy a charge against it, being a matter of omission not objected to on trial, the appellate court will order the trial court to supply the omission.[40]

Operation and effect of decree.[41]—In involuntary partition the law implies a tate may be made a party unless administration is shown to be unnecessary. Id.

See, also, post, § 5, "Owelty."

25. It being alleged in the answer by one defendant, that one of the co-tenants had occupied and leased portions of the property, and collected and appropriated the rents, the issue so raised cannot be determined except by service of the answer on the co-defendants. Willes v. Loomis, 94 App. Div. 67, 87 N. Y. S. 1086.

26. Complainant is not entitled to an accounting of the estate of a common source of title, no representative of the estate being a party to the partition suit. Cole v. Cole [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 895.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1101.

28. The defense interposed should be substantial, not frivolous, though not necessarily successful. McMullen v. Reynolds, 105 Ill. App. 386. [This case is overruled as to the method of taxing costs by McMullen v. Reynolds, 209 Ill. 504, 70 N. E. 1041.]

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1101.

30. Where bill omits necessary parties, held should not be compelled to bear such expense. Wachter v. Doerr, 210 Ill. 242, 71 N. E. 401. In such case decree ordering payment to be made from proceeds of sale is erroneous. Id. Where defendant contested form and extent of division. Fristoe v. Gillen [Ky.] 80 S. W. 823. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, § 40, p. 1259. McMullen v. Reynolds, 209 Ill. 504, 70 N. E. 1041. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 106, § 40, held error to allow such fee where defendant set up a good defense to a petition in the nature of a bill of review and for partition. Joest v. Adel, 209 Ill. 432, 70 N. E. 638.

31. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 1259, providing that the court may apportion the costs, including reasonable fees, the fees should be taxed like other costs. McMullen v. Reynolds, 209 Ill. 504, 70 N. E. 1041, overruling 105 Ill. App. 386.

32. Case settled by amicable partition deeds. Edwards v. Whims, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 464.

33. Girtman v. Starbuck [Fla.] 37 So. 731.

34. McMullen v. Reynolds, 209 Ill. 504, 70 N. E. 1041. The members of such committee not being sworn, the practice is not only erroneous but their report is incompetent. Id.

35. This under Rev. St. 1899, § 4422, providing for the allowance of reasonable fees in partition cases. Forsee v. McGuire [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 548. [The court intimates that such agreement is unnecessary to the exercise of such power.]

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1102.

37. Partition decree finding a party entitled to homestead and dower but failing to require commissioners to set-off and allot same if it could be consistently done with the interests of the parties, and if not then to appraise the value of each piece and report same to court, held erroneous under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 106, § 22. Joest v. Adel, 209 Ill. 432, 70 N. E. 638. Decree ordering sale of property free from defendant's homestead and dower interest, without defendant's written consent as required by Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 106, § 22, held erroneous. Id. Homestead and dower having been allowed in the premises, a partition decree should not be entered in disregard thereof until leave had been granted to reopen and review the former decree. Id.

38. If it does not bind as an adjudication it is binding as an agreement. Perdue v. Perdue [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 633.

39. Hanrick v. Hanrick [Tex.] 83 S. W. 181.

40. Pierson v. Glass [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 272.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1102.

warranty by each party of the title to the parts in severalty taken by the others;[42] this implied warranty covers the inchoate right of dower which the wife of one party has in the property, she failing to join or be joined in a manner sufficient to convey the same.[43] Lots on each side of a road being allotted to one of the tenants, he becomes seized in fee of the land so allotted, including the fee of the road, subject to the public easement.[44] Land being partitioned, the owners in fee take proportionate interests in the fee of the property out of which a life estate is assigned.[45]

Recitals are presumed to be true.[46] A decree adjudicating rights and interests of respective parties, ordering partition and appointing commissioners is interlocutory,[47] but a decree ordering a sale of the property by the commissioners, based upon their report that partition cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, is generally, though not always, held to be final.[48] The decree determining the title is res judicata thereon,[49] and, though evidence in a subsequent partition suit involving the same land, it has no binding force as to facts incorrectly stated and incompatible with each other;[50] nor is it binding as to matters not in issue and not passed on.[51] Involuntary partition is conclusive against a coparcener who afterwards gets an adverse title to that which was partitioned off to others.[52] At least it is so as to adverse titles which were in any way represented

42. Reed v. Reed, 25 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520.

NOTE. Implied warranties: In the principal case, which was one for involuntary partition, the court states that the rule applies in both voluntary and involuntary cases, citing Freeman, Co-Tenancy and Partition, § 533. Mr. Tiffany in his work on Real Property shows that this is not always true, and states the rule as follows: "Upon a compulsory partition at common law between co-parceners, a warranty was implied in favor of each on the part of the others that the title to the part of the land received by him was good, it not being considered just that one compelled to be a party to a partition should suffer thereby, and the statute of 31 Hen. VIII, c. 1, provided that the same right should accrue to joint tenants and tenants in common in case of compulsory partition. Rawle, Covenants, § 277; Litt, § 241. See Jones v. Bigstaff, 95 Ky. 395, 44 Am. St. Rep. 245; Grigsby v. Peak, 68 Tex. 235, 2 Am. St. Rep. 487. In the case of voluntary partition, however, a warranty was not implied, either as between co-parceners, joint tenants, or tenants in common, the reason on which such a warranty was based in the case of a compulsory partition being entirely absent. Rawle, Covenants, § 277; Morrice's Case, 6 Coke, 12b, 6 Gray's Cas. 668; Rector v. Waugh, 17 Mo. 13; Beardsley v. Knight, 10 Vt. 185, 33 Am. Dec. 193; Weiser v. Weiser, 5 Watts [Pa.] 279; Roundtree v. Denson, 59 Wis. 522. Occasionally, however, the courts have implied a warranty upon a voluntary partition. Huntley v. Cline, 93 N. C. 458; Venable v. Beauchamp, 3 Dana [Ky.] 321, 28 Am. Dec. 74; Morris v. Harris, 9 Gill [Md.] 26." 1 Tiffany on Real Property, § 174, p. 404.

43. Defendant in original partition suit held not entitled to claim proceeds free from wife's inchoate right of dower, she not being a party to the first suit, though a party to the second. Reed v. Reed, 25 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520.

44. Mott v. Eno, 97 App. Div. 580, 90 N. Y. S. 608.

45. Contention that widow's interest in fee under certain conveyances from other heirs was set out of lands other than that in which dower was assigned held unsustainable. Cronkhite v. Strain, 210 Ill. 331, 71 N. E. 392.

46. The judgment reciting that a minor was represented by a guardian ad litem and that the guardian qualified, it is not void, though the record fail to show service on the infant. Penn v. Case [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 349.

47. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722. [See case for authorities pro and con.]

48. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722. [See case for authorities pro and con.]

Contra: Decree of sale and orders regarding fund held not final so as to be res judicata of defendant's interest, and not to entitle him to his portion of the proceeds without deduction for his wife's dower interest, she not being a party to the partition suit. Reed v. Reed, 25 Ky. L. R. 2324, 80 S. W. 520.

49. Place v. Rogers, 91 N. Y. S. 912. See 2 Curr. L. 1102, n. 68.

50. Cronkhite v. Strain, 210 Ill. 331, 71 N. E. 392. See topic Former Adjudication, 3 Curr. L. 1476.

51. Judgment entered by agreement setting off part of community property to widow, and reciting that she should retain her homestead interest therein and improvements thereon, held not to divest her of her title in fee. Drew v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 321.

52, 53, 54. Carter v. White, 134 N. C. 466, 46 S. E. 983, 101 Am. St. Rep. 853, with monographic note "The Effect of Compulsory Partition," page 864. In this case and especially in the note [101 Am. St. Rep. 864], it is pointed out that the ordinary rules of res adjudicata meet the question. Its difficulin the suit;[53] and in the various statutory forms of the remedy it settles every title which the remedy admits to inquiry.[54] On appeal, the record being silent, the court will presume that the rights of the parties have changed so that a former suit will not operate as a bar.[55]

Setting aside, new trial, appeal and review.[56]—Infants, who are only represented by guardians ad litem, may have a fraudulent decree set aside upon their becoming of age and doing equity in regard to the property received by them.[57] In some states the mode of obtaining a new trial in partition suits is, by statute, made the same as in civil causes.[58] An appeal lies from a final decree,[59] and the action is triable de novo in the appellate court.[60]

§ 4. Commissioners or referees and their proceedings.[61]—Commissioners ought not to be appointed without a prior or contemporaneous adjudication as to the interests of the parties, fixing the shares or other interests to which they are entitled.[62] Notice must be given by them to the parties.[63] They need not report the money value of the lands partitioned, or of any share or lot thereof assigned by them.[64] The report being proper on its face, every reasonable presumption is indulged in in favor of its fairness,[65] the ordinary rules of construction applying.[66] Partition, being an equitable proceeding, the court may modify the report;[67] but objection to it cannot be made for the first time on appeal.[68] The burden of proving grounds for setting aside and vacating report of commissioners is on the party making the motion.[69]

§ 5. Mode of partition.[70]—Heirs may insist upon the partition in entirety of the property inherited by them.[71] ties lie in the fact that the old partition in chancery served only to sever and locate the ownership of the coparceners, while the modern extensions of the remedial scope of partition embrace many questions of title as well as possession, and permit the division of plurally owned estates of a character not partible in equity. See, also, 3 Curr. L. 1478, n. 5; Id. 1480, n. 13; Id. 1485, n. 50, 51; Id. 1487, n. 56, 64, 66; and see Former Determination of Title in Distribution Decree, 3 Curr. L. 1489.

55. Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1102.

57. Where adults fraudulently represented that land was indivisible and had it sold to them for one-fifth of its value. Taylor v. Webber, 26 Ky. L. R. 1199, 83 S. W. 567.

58. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1202; Horner's Ann. St. 1901, § 1188. Hence motion for new trial is proper where it is claimed that the court erred in refusing a trial of the issues joined on the pleadings, and in rendering a judgment over objection without hearing evidence. If the motion is overruled, the ruling may be assigned as error. Van Buskirk v. Stover, 162 Ind. 448, 70 N. E. 520. See 2 Curr. L. 1102, n. 71.

59. An appeal lies from a judgment decreeing partition of which one of the parties, not a co-owner, is usufructuary. Maguire v. Fluker, 112 La. 76, 36 So. 231.

60. James v. James, 35 Wash. 650, 77 P. 1080.

61. Sec 2 Curr. L. 1102.

62. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136.

63. Although the statute does not require it. Wamsley v. Mill Creek Coal & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 141.

64. Wamsley v. Mill Creek Coal & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 141. In partitioning timber and coal lands, commissioners are not required to report the extent of the coal deposits, and the acreage, quantity and quality of timber, considered by them in arriving at their report. Id.

65. That one commissioner admitted that he was not present all the time and did not know much about the report held insufficient to impeach the latter. Cross v. Cross [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 129.

66. Where complaint described the interest in the fee of the street, and commissioners were directed to partition the property, so as to carry out as far as possible a former invalid partition proceeding, and the commissioners reported that they had complied with this direction, held one-half fee of street was included in award of abutting lots. Mott v. Eno, 97 App. Div. 580, 90 N. Y. S. 608. Report allowing A. "lot 4," and V. "lot 6," and describing passways on both lots, held all of lot 4 was allotted to A. with a restriction only of a passway for the benefit of lot 6. Wayland v. Browning, 26 Ky. L. R. 485, 82 S. W. 234.

67. Shearer v. Shearer [Iowa] 101 N. W. 175.

68. Report that land was not susceptible of division. Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115.

69. Van Buskirk v. Stover, 162 Ind. 448, 70 N. E. 520.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1103.

71. They cannot be forced to a partition of specific properties in successive actions, and all properties, wherever situated, must be brought in. Maguire v. Fluker, 112 La. 76, 36 So. 231.

By sale.—In the absence of a statute authorizing it, a sale cannot be had in partition proceedings.[72] To warrant a compulsory sale, it must appear that division cannot be conveniently made in specie,[73] or would be inequitable or impossible without injury to the owners.[74] Whether the aggregate value of the several tracts when the property is divided and distributed will be materially less than the value of such property if held by one person is a fair test by which to determine whether or not the interests of the parties will be promoted by the sale.[75] In Kentucky the estate must be in possession;[76] but the possession of one joint owner is, in the absence of any adverse claim by him, the possession of all,[77] and the right to a sale and division of the proceeds depends upon the value of the several interests[78] at the time the sale is sought to be made.[79] In the absence of clear proof of error, the appellate court will not overthrow an adjudication of the trial court as to the propriety of a sale.[80]

Allotment.[81]—Where one co-tenant has improved an amount of land equal to his share, such land should be awarded to him, the remainder being unimproved.[82] When a subdivision of one parcenary share is to be made among infants, their shares may be laid off together at the election of their guardians, or for want of such election, by direction of the court, and without such election or direction, the commissioners may so do.[83] Upon a bill alleging facts sufficient to show a right to have partition and praying for general relief, a court may decree a division in kind, though there be no specific prayer for it in the bill.[84]

Owelty.—A co-tenant being awarded land upon which he has placed improvements, and such land exceeding the remainder in value in a state of nature, con-

72. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136. Such a statute is contrary to the common law and American jurisprudence, and a court cannot by reason thereof take a citizen's freehold away for light or trivial causes, though full and adequate compensation be paid. Id.

73. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136. Meagreness of area in some or all of the shares, as where a small tract of land is to be divided among a number of people, and the existence of dower and curtesy estates in the land do not per se make partition inconvenient. To warrant compulsory sale in such case it must appear that the interests of all the owners will be promoted thereby. Id.

74. Summer resort, the chief value of which was a mineral spring, held indivisible. Gill v. Lane, 26 Ky. L. R. 267, 80 S. W. 1176. Partition by licitation cannot be had where it will defeat Act No. 152, p. 99, of 1844, enacted for the protection of the survivor of the community. Succession of Glancey, 112 La. 430, 36 So. 483. The mere fact that there is no spot on the land allotted one of the parties which suits him for a location of a house should not compel a sale of the entire tract. Shearer v. Shearer [Iowa] 101 N. W. 175. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1355, where partition cannot be made without great prejudice to owners, the court may order a sale thereof. Hurley v. O'Neill [Mont.] 79 P. 242. The petition asking for a division in kind or if that be impracticable for a sale and division of the proceeds, held sale is proper, there being evidence that the land was not of a uniform value or character. Carpenter v. Coats, 183 Mo. 52, 81 S. W. 1089. See 2 Curr. L. 1103, n. 85.

75. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136.

76. Cestuis que trust being given a vested interest in possession, they are in possession of the property within the meaning of Civ. Code Prac. § 490, subsec. 2, providing for a sale of an estate "in possession," which cannot be divided without materially impairing its value. Hughes v. Bent, 26 Ky. L. R. 453, 81 S. W. 931. A remainder interest is not property in possession within Civ. Code Proc. § 490, subsec. 2. Berry v. Lewis, 26 Ky. L. R. 530, 82 S. W. 252.

77. Heirs of an intestate and purchasers from them, holding present vested interests in the property. Stone v. Burge, 26 Ky. L. R. 1060, 83 S. W. 139.

78. Under Civ. Code Prac. § 490, subsec. 1, sale cannot be had where share of life tenant exceeds $100. Berry v. Lewis, 26 Ky. L. R. 530, 82 S. W. 252. Nor can such sale be had under Code, § 496, subsec. 2, where the complainant has a share exceeding $100 in value. The purpose of such subsection is to protect the owner of a share worth less than $100. Id. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 526.

79. Construing Civ. Code Prac. § 490, subsec. 1. The language does not apply to the value of the interest at the time it was acquired. Berry v. Lewis, 26 Ky. L. R. 530, 82 S. W. 252.

80. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1103.

82. Where one co-tenant cleared farm land. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452. [See post, subdivision Owelty.]

83. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136. If shares are subject to a dower interest, it may be made contiguous to such shares, when the part assigned for dower is not divided subject thereto. Id.

84. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136.

tribution should be ordered,[85] and the owelty will be lien on the share charged.[86] Presumptions and limitations run against a judgment for owelty.[87]

§ 6. Sale and proceedings thereafter. Mode and conduct, confirmation, setting aside and opening.[88]—A sale ought not to be decreed without a prior or contemporaneous adjudication as to the interests of the parties, fixing the shares or other interests to which they are entitled.[89]

Notice of sale is generally required,[90] and the sale must conform to the decree.[91] City property being held and used as one lot, it should be sold as such.[92] In Missouri, under the revision of 1845, failure to render an order of substitution on sale of property was only a matter of error, and did not deprive the court of jurisdiction.[93]

The court ordering the sale is the only one that can revoke it on the ground of an irregularity;[94] but in the absence of intervening rights of third parties, equity will set aside the sale and final judgment and order a resale, one of the parties being fraudulently deprived of his rights.[95]

Protection of purchaser.—A bona fide purchaser at the sale will be protected.[96] Mere knowledge of pending litigation in equity does not invalidate the purchase so long as the decree for sale remains unrevoked.[97]

Charges and liens.[98]—A sale in partition being made, a creditor may come in by petition to have his debt paid out of the proceeds.[99] A bill for partition by the grantee of an infant beneficiary of a trust deed, being accompanied by a certified copy of the trust deed, charges against the plaintiff's grantor's interest can be shown by answer and proof.[100]

§ 7. Voluntary partition.[101]—Mutual partition deeds carry no title but op-

85. Bennett v. Bennett [Miss.] 36 So. 452.

86. 2 Tiffany, Real Prop. 1287.

87. Ex parte Smith, 134 N. C. 495, 47 S. E. 16. Proceeding to issue execution thereon is an action. Id.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1103. See, also, Judicial Sales, 4 Curr. L. 321.

89. Croston v. Male [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 136. It is reversible error to decree a sale without such an adjudication if there is any uncertainty as to the interests of the parties. Id. Infant defendants excepting to the report of a referee who was appointed to determine the interests of the parties are entitled to have their interests determined before sale. Though the construction of a will is involved, which construction presents difficulties. Dwight v. Lawrence, 90 N. Y. S. 970.

90. Decree requiring three weeks publication of notice of sale, publication on Nov. 10th, sale to take place on the succeeding Dec. 1st, is a trivial defect and insufficient to avoid the sale. Brillhart v. Mish [Md.] 58 A. 28.

91. Decree partitioning land, foreclosing mortgage and ordering land to be sold in tracts, a sale in solido is unauthorized and will be set aside. Smith v. Sparks, 162 Ind. 270, 70 N. E. 253.

92. Though it was originally two lots, there being no evidence that to sell it as two lots would be manifestly to the interests of the parties. Kiernan v. Lynch, 112 La. 555, 36 So. 588.

93. Sparks v. Clay [Mo.] 84 S. W. 40.

94. Cannot attack the sale in a collateral proceeding. Where decree was obtained without notice to party objecting. Tobin v. Larkin [Mass.] 72 N. E. 985.

95. Where property was bid in for an inadequate price, held sale would be set aside, petitioner being fraudulently and wrongfully deprived of funds by the other parties, whereby she was unable to bid a higher price. Schwaman v. Truax [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 464.

96. Code Civ. Proc. § 1323. Place v. Rogers, 91 N. Y. S. 912. The trustees appointed to make the sale, representing that the purchaser will take title free from certain mortgages, the purchaser is entitled to have the mortgages satisfied from the purchase money, or be relieved from his purchase. Brillhart v. Mish [Md.] 58 A. 28. Where no notice was given a person interested, the sale will not be treated as void unless it is alleged that the purchaser was a party to the wrong or had knowledge of it. Tobin v. Larkin [Mass.] 72 N. E. 985. Ex parte partition proceeding by father and his grantee and sale of property to latter for a consideration which did not pass to children, held not to equitably estop them from asserting their rights against the grantee. Underwood v. Deckard [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 383.

97. Tobin v. Larkin [Mass.] 72 N. E. 985.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1104. See ante, § 5, "Owelty."

99. McKinley v. Coe [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 1030. Under Gen. St. p. 2984, par. 20, a sale being made free from liens, a creditor having an equitable lien on the land may enforce it against the proceeds. Id.

100. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Institute [Md.] 58 A. 200.

101. See 2 Curr. L. 1105.

erate merely as a severance of the unity of possession.[102] The owners of a fee subject to a life estate, by partitioning the same, end the co-tenancy of the fee, and each may take title to the life interest in his own portion and hold the entire estate adversely to the others.[103] One acquiescing in and allowing another to act upon a parol partition is estopped from questioning it as void under the statute of frauds.[104] A minor agreeing to partition land, the agreement is voidable only.[105]

PARTNERSHIP.

§ 1. What Constitutes (908). Essential Elements (909). Intent as Test (910). Who May Become Partners (910). Formalities of Contract of Partnership (910). Stockholders in Illegal or Defective Corporations (910). Evidence (910). Questions of Fact (911). Partnerships as to Third Persons (911).
§ 2. Firm Name, Trade-Mark, and Good Will (911).
§ 3. Firm Capital and Property (912). How Title is Held (913). Partner's Interest (913).
§ 4. Rights and Liabilities as to Third Persons (914).
A. Power of Partner to Bind Firm (914). Partnership Bills and Notes (915). Notice to One as Notice to All (916). Nature of Partnership Liability (916). Liability for Torts and Crimes (916).
B. Commencement and Termination of Liability (916).
C. Application of Assets to Liabilities (918).
§ 5. Rights of Partners Inter Se (919).
§ 6. Actions (919).
A. By the Firm or Partner (919).
B. Against the Firm or a Partner (920). Abatement (921). Judgment and Subsequent Proceedings (921).
C. Between Partners (921).
§ 7. Dissolution, Settlement, and Accounting (922).
A. Dissolution by Operation of Law (922).
B. Dissolution by Act of Partners (922).
C. Dissolution by Order of Court (923).
D. Effect of Dissolution (923).
1. In General (923).
2. As to Surviving Partner (923). Liability to Estate of Decedent (924).
3. As to Continuing or Liquidating Partner (925).
4. As to Estate of Deceased Partner (925).
E. Accounting (925). Jurisdiction (925). Parties (926). Pleading and Proof (926). Receivers (926). Credits and Charges (926). Reference (926). Decree (926). Apportionment of Costs (927). Opening or Correcting Settlement (927).
§ 8. Limited Partnerships (927).

This article does not deal with joint stock companies,[1] with joint adventures,[2] nor with the effect of bankruptcy on the rights or liabilities of the partners.[3]

§ 1. What constitutes. Definition and kinds.[4]—Where two or more parties are engaged in a joint business enterprise, to which they contribute either capital, skill or labor, upon an understanding, tacit or otherwise, that they will share in common the profits accruing therefrom, they are partners in fact and in law, both between themselves and as to creditors.[5] An unincorporated stock syndicate for the future sale of real estate is a partnership.[6] As to the partnership indebtedness, the firm is a personality distinct from the members who compose it.[7]

102. Where a wife was one of the tenants in common, the husband is only entitled to curtesy in land so conveyed. Harrington v. Rawls, 136 N. C. 65, 48 S. E. 571.

103. McCullough v. Finley [Kan.] 77 P. 696.

104. Where the agreement was followed by exclusive possession, payment of taxes and permanent improvement of the land. McCullough v. Finley [Kan.] 77 P. 696.

NOTE. Validity of parol partitions: See 2 Curr. L. 1105, n. 16, where the subject is fully discussed.

105. Becomes binding on a failure to disaffirm within a reasonable time after majority. McCullough v. Finley [Kan.] 77 P. 696.

1. See topic Joint Stock Companies, 4 Curr. L. 280.

2. See topic Joint Adventures, 4 Curr. L. 280.

3. See topic Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1106.

5. In re Beckwith & Co., 130 F. 475.

6. Milligan v. Mackinlay, 209 Ill. 358, 70 N. E. 685.

7. While a wife cannot be a surety for her husband, yet she can be surety of a partner to secure advances made to a partnership of which her husband is a member. Stothart v. Hardie & Co., 110 La. 696, 34 So. 740. That a firm borrows money from the wife of one of the partners does not merge the lender's right to it into that of her husband. Loan took place before passage of married woman's act. Held also that lender could sue firm for recovery of such money after the passage of the act. Parker v. Parker, 25 Ky. L. R. 2193, 80 S. W. 209.

A trading partnership is one which buys and sells. But buying and selling need not be its sole purpose, nor even its most characteristic feature.[8]

Essential elements.[9]—The essential elements of every true partnership are a contract between the partners,[10] and a joint ownership of the profits.[11] Merely sharing in the profits while prima facie evidence of the existence of the relation[12] is not conclusive thereof, and when the profits are taken as compensation for services rendered does not create a partnership.[13] Joint capital is not necessary,[14] though a community of interest in the partnership property is essential.[15] Sharing gross returns does not create a partnership.[16] A contract under which the principle of delectus personam can be disregarded is not one of partnership.[17]

8. Firm taking and executing plumbing contracts is a trading partnership. Marsh v. Wheeler [Conn.] 59 A. 410. A partnership engaged in the insurance, real estate and collecting business is of the noncommercial or nontrading class. Schele v. Wagner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 127.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1106.

10. A partnership is formed by act of the parties, not by operation of law. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

11. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 582. Contract between a firm and a corporation engaged in the same line of business, providing that each could buy from the other at cost price, and also that each should pay to the other at the end of each year, a sum of money equal to a designated percentage of its gross profits, held not a partnership. Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462. Where seven persons hired a cheesemaker and rented a factory owned by three of the parties, the expenses and profits to be divided in proportion to the amount of milk furnished by each, held a partnership. Sullivan v. Sullivan [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1022. A written agreement whereby one party furnished the capital and another the time and labor to conduct the business, the profits to be equally divided, held to conclusively show a partnership. Lapp v. Clark's Adm'r [Ky.] 85 S. W. 717. Owner of business selling it and allowing the buyer to continue the business and buy goods in the seller's name, held a partnership relation did not exist between the two. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. McClain [Ky.] 85 S. W. 699.

12. Glore v. Dawson, 106 Mo. App. 107, 80 S. W. 55; Gentry v. Singleton [C. C. A.] 128 F. 679; Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462 [see case for discussion of cases on subject].

13. Smythe's Estate v. Evans, 209 Ill. 376, 70 N. E. 906; Agnew v. Montgomery [Neb.] 99 N. W. 820; Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488; Dawson Nat. Bank v. Ward, 120 Ga. 861, 48 S. E. 313; Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 582; Gentry v. Singleton [C. C. A.] 128 F. 679. The one receiving the profits not incurring any liability for losses. Smith v. Dunn, 44 Misc. 288, 89 N. Y. S. 881. Where one agrees to share profits with another who is to assist him in buying cattle, under a contract with a third party, there is no partnership relation. Bauer v. Wilson [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 364. A written instrument, "It is agreed that G. draws $50 per month and half of net profits and profits to remain in business unless we sell out or disagree and then money is due G. at once," signed by both G. and D., held not to constitute a partnership as a matter of law. Glore v. Dawson, 106 Mo. App. 107, 80 S. W. 55.

14. One may furnish capital, another experience. Buckingham v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 192. That one partner fails to furnish a share of the cash necessary to launch the enterprise is insufficient to destroy his interest. McCabe v. Sinclair [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 412.

15. [The term "community of interest" is often used by writers on the subject as meaning "joint capital." See Shumaker on Part. § 22, p. 72. The above use must be distinguished therefrom. Ed.]

An agreement between a landlord and tenant by which the landlord was to receive as rent a proportion of the proceeds of grain and hogs raised by the latter does not constitute a partnership. Randall v. Ditch, 123 Iowa, 582, 99 N. W. 190. A partnership does not exist regarding animals and crops as to which the interests of the parties are in shares. Beatty v. Clarkson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1033. Patentee owning 90 per cent of stock of a corporation organized to manufacture patented article by entering into an agreement with another whereby the latter furnished capital to the company and leased property therefor in his own name, held not to constitute a partnership. Volney v. Nixon [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 75. Permitting lender to share in profits which might be made upon the sale of collateral held not to make him a partner with the borrower. Slater v. Van der Hoogt, 23 App. D. C. 417. An agreement to share in the profits of the sales of land is not enough to constitute a partnership. McKinley v. Lloyd, 128 F. 519. Where plaintiff agreed to secure defendant's release as surety on a note for a certain sum to be paid him for his services, held an agreement between plaintiff and a third party whereby the latter, in consideration of one-half of the amount to be paid plaintiff, agreed to join in executing a new note, held not to create a partnership. Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117.

16. That a cropper furnishes the labor necessary to the making of the crops and is to receive a portion thereof as compensation does not render him a partner having an undivided interest in the crop. De Loach v. Delk, 119 Ga. 884, 47 S. E. 204. Contract allowing one on payment of royalties to manufacture and sell a patented article is not one of partnership. Henderson v. Dougherty, 95 App. Div. 346, 88 N. Y. S. 665.

17. Where one joint owner of land farmed it, the other paying for half his time, ex-

In order to create a mining partnership, it is necessary that there be an agreement to work the mine for the joint profit of the parties,[18] and the mere use of property so obtained for partnership purposes does not convert it into partnership assets, in the absence of an agreement to make it partnership property.[19]

Intent as test.[20]—The true test as to the existence of the partnership relation is the intent of the parties as evidenced by their agreement and acts done thereunder.[21]

Who may become partners.[22]—Firms may become partners as well as individuals,[23] but in the absence of statutory authorization, corporations have no power to enter into partnership either with each other or with individuals;[24] but one dealing with a partnership so formed can not take advantage of such fact.[25]

Formalities of contract of partnership.[26]—In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, the partnership agreement may be oral.[27] It is not essential that there be a particular partnership name.[28]

Stockholders in illegal or defective corporations.[29]—The subscribers for stock in a proposed,[30] or the stockholders in an illegal,[31] corporation are liable as partners, though the latter, as between themselves and the defective corporation, are not so liable unless they have knowledge of the defect and take part in the management of the business.[32] The unauthorized change of the name of a corporation will not render the stockholders liable as partners for liabilities subsequently accruing.[33]

Evidence.[34]—Declarations[35] or admissions of a partner are admissible to prove a partnership against him,[36] but, as a general rule, mere declarations of an pense and marketing the produce, held not partners. Logan v. Oklahoma Mill Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 103. Mother and son owning separate property by leasing same to one party do not become partners. Price v. Grice [Idaho] 79 P. 387

18. Contract for locating and developing mining claims for the parties' equal benefit, each to furnish labor and supplies, but not extending to working the mines on joint account, does not create a partnership. Doyle v. Burns, 123 Iowa, 488, 99 N. W. 195. See, also, Barringer and Adams, Mines and Mining, p. 750.

19. Doyle v. Burns, 123 Iowa, 488, 99 N. W. 195.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1107.

21. Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209; Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462. Partnership cannot be formed without an intention on the part of the parties to enter into that relation. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890. Signing loose sheets of paper held not subscribing to articles of co-partnership with the intent of becoming a partner, otherwise where sheet was attached to articles. Moore v. Dickson, 121 Wis. 591, 99 N. W. 322. Evidence is admissible to show that a clause in a note limiting liability of three makers to one-third each was intended to avoid a liability as partners. Wheaton v. Bartlett, 105 Ill. App. 326. See 2 Curr. L. 1107, n. 15, 16.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1107.

23. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890.

24. Ohio corporation held not to have the power. Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462. Unauthorized formation of partnership by corporations, see Clark & M. Corp. §§ 213, 214.

25. Huguenot Mills v. Jempson & Co., 68 S. C. 363, 47 S. E. 687.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1108.

27. McCabe v. Sinclair [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 412. Oral prospecting and mining partnership held valid. Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209. See 2 Curr. L. 1108, n. 24 and topic Frauds. Statute of, 3 Curr. L. 1527.

28. Sullivan v. Sullivan [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1022. See 2 Curr. L. 1108, n. 23.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1108.

30. Mt. Carmel Tel. Co. v. Mt. Carmel & F. Tel. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 515.

31. Name of corporation changed without complying with legal requirements. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 103.

32. Bolton v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 666. On demanding recission of sale of stock to them, they are not to be held responsible as partners for the mismanagement of the affairs of the corporation. Id.

Effect of failure to incorporate, see Clark & M. Corp. § 78.

33. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 82 S. W. 505.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1108.

35. Where one backed up another in the latter's business and several times stated that he was a special partner in business held sufficient to show the existence of the partnership relation. In re Beckwith & Co., 130 F. 475.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1108, n. 35. Alleged partner who was not served, held not to admit membership in firm by appearing without answering. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58. Litigating such question without claiming the appearance as an admission is a waiver thereof. Id.

Where a complaint alleges that defendants are partners, and the answer admits that they are partners in "a limited sense," held an admission of the existence of the part-alleged partner are inadmissible for the purpose of showing a partnership with another,[37] even to corroborate a prima facie case of partnership.[38] In proving the existence of a partnership, evidence that an alleged partner shortly before the creation of the partnership transferred his property to his wife is without probative force.[39] That real property is held in the joint names of several owners,[40] or that a business is carried on under a name distinct from the persons engaged therein,[41] is not proof of a partnership between the parties.

Questions of fact.[42]—Partnership is a fact which may be made out from circumstantial as well as direct evidence,[43] and its existence being disputed, it is to be determined as a question of fact.[44]

Partnerships as to third persons.[45]—One who advisedly permits the representation that he is a member of a partnership, or so represents himself to a person doing business with the firm, he will be treated as a partner as to that person, the latter being deceived by the representation.[46]

§ 2. Firm name, trade-mark, and good will.[47]—A continuing partner acquires the exclusive right to use the firm name,[48] and if a partner, upon entering a firm, agrees that the name of the latter should be the same as that under which he formerly conducted business, the property right to the name passes to the nership. Spool Cotton Co. v. King, 68 S. C. 196, 46 S. E. 1005. Where a complaint alleges that defendants are partners in a certain line, evidence that that kind of goods were bought by the firm and a part returned to the seller, establishes the allegation. Id.

37. Providence Mach. Co. v. Browning [S. C.] 49 S. E. 325; Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 82 S. W. 505, rvg. 79 S. W. 103.

38. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 82 S. W. 505.

Note: While there is a paucity of authority on this point, it is suggested that the better reason tends to the admissibility of such testimony. After establishment of a prima facie case, conduct and it would seem declarations, of the partners, tending to show the existence of a partnership, would seem to be within the res gestae rule [Ed.].

39. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank [Tex.] 82 S. W. 505, rvg. 79 S. W. 103.

40. In absence of proof, they are deemed joint tenants or tenants in common. Jones v. De Camp, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 133.

41. "Elmendorf & Co." does not necessarily import a partnership. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 582.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1110.

43. Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462.

44. Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324. The court determining such issue, and the evidence reasonably sustaining its findings, the latter will not be disturbed on appeal. Id.

Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333; Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324. Though all the defendants allege that one was not a partner. Providence Mach. Co. v. Browning, 68 S. C. 1, 46 S. E. 550. In the absence of an entire lack of evidence tending to show the creation of a partnership. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890. See 2 Curr. L. 1110, n. 47.

Evidence held sufficient to show relation (2 Curr. L. 1109, n. 34): Where father told son he would take him as a partner, and changed the firm name, bank account, etc., held to create a partnership, though son's name continued on the pay roll with other employes and father at one time stated that he regarded the transaction as a joke. In re Muller, 96 App. Div. 619, 88 N. Y. S. 673. Contract construed and clause inconsistent with the idea of a partnership held to relate merely to the management of the business, and did not deprive the agreement of its effect as a partnership. Marcus v. Segeal, 94 App. Div. 326, 88 N. Y. S. 64.

Evidence held insufficient to show that contract of employment was one of partnership, or that plaintiff placed goods in store as a partner. Ehrlich v. Brucker, 121 Wis. 495, 99 N. W. 213. Evidence held to warrant dismissal of action to recover half of the property left by decedent on ground of alleged partnership between plaintiff and decedent. Gillett v. Sweeney [Neb.] 97 N. W. 795. That ancillary administrator of deceased partner never assumed active relations towards the business conducted by the surviving partner is sufficient to show that the ancillary administrator and the surviving partners are not partners. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987. See 2 Curr. L. 1109, n. 34.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1110.

46. Gamble v. Grether [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 306; Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333; Lighthiser v. Allison [Md.] 59 A. 182. Corporation contracting under a name which would ordinarily indicate a partnership, held the members were estopped to deny that they were not liable as partners. Hamilton v. Davis, 90 N. Y. S. 370. See 2 Curr. L. 1110, n. 49-51.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1110. See, also, topics Good Will, 3 Curr. L. 1562, and Trade-Marks and Trade-Names, 2 Curr. L. 1881.

48. Although no express mention is made of such name in the agreement of dissolution. Steinfeld v. National Shirt Waist Co., 90 N. Y. S. 964. If the retiring partner uses the name, the continuing partner is entitled to a preliminary injunction until his rights can be determined. Id.

firm.[49] A firm may enjoin another engaged in a like business at the same place from using the partnership's trade-name,[50] and the motive of the party appropriating the name is immaterial, the test of illegality being the probable and ordinary consequences of the act.[51] Statutory provisions regulating the use of firm names exist in some of the states.[52] That one carries on his business under a fictitious co-partnership name in violation of a statute does not prevent his recovering upon an executory contract.[53]

A partnership having regular customers, a locality, and a distinctive name, a good will exists which is an asset of commercial value,[54] and upon the dissolution of a partnership the continuing partners may become estopped to deny that it possesses such a value.[55] The retiring partner does not waive his right thereto by making a demand for his share of the assets, without specifying the items of the partnership property,[56] nor is the fact that the good will is difficult of appraisement a legal reason for denying him an appraisal.[57] A sale of the good will of a firm does not impair the right of a surviving partner to thereafter use his own name in the same business.[58] A surviving partner by continuing the business may acquire a good will of his own, which he may sell without accounting to the estate of his deceased partner.[59]

§ 3. Firm capital and property. In general.[60]—Real estate purchased with partnership funds[61] and used in the firm business[62] is partnership property. The

49. Though not distinctly enumerated. Moore v. Rawson, 185 Mass. 264, 70 N. E. 64.

50. Where corporation used name. Nesne v. Sundet [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490.

51. Nesne v. Sundet [Minn.] 101 N. W. 490.

52. Civ. Code, §§ 3280, 3281, requiring a partnership doing business under a name not revealing the names of the owners to register the same, do not apply to the sole owner of a business which has for its name the owner's surname followed by the words "Furniture & Carpet Co." Lander v. Sheehan [Mont.] 79 P. 406.

53. Construing Pen. Code, § 363. McArdle v. Thames Iron Works, 96 App. Div. 139, 89 N. Y. S. 485.

54. Moore v. Rawson, 185 Mass. 264, 70 N. E. 64. Good will of firm manufacturing farm implements held to be worth $35,000. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

55. Continuing members who have forcibly and wrongfully appropriated the partnership property, of which the good will was a part, are estopped to so deny. Moore v. Rawson, 185 Mass. 264, 70 N. E. 64.

56, 57. Moore v. Rawson, 185 Mass. 264, 70 N. E. 64.

58. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

NOTE. Right of a partner to use his name in business after sale of partnership: The general rule may be stated that so far as a firm name serves to designate the establishment, and not merely existing individuals, it belongs to the partnership, and can be transferred to a stranger purchasing the business. So far as that name merely consists of the names of existing individuals, there is not such property in it as to prevent the surviving or outgoing partners from using their own names to describe themselves in a new business, so long as they do not, either by the structure of a new firm name or otherwise, convey the idea of their identity with or succession to the old concern. Meanwhile the successors to the old business must not, without express agreement, so use the old firm name as to convey the idea that the retiring individuals are still connected with it. This rule was originally put on the ground that thereby pecuniary liability might fall upon the retiring partner, but other grounds of equal importance support it, such, for example, that his reputation may suffer by reason of inferiority of goods or dishonorable business conduct, to which he is thereby made ostensibly a party. Fish Bros. W. Co. v. La Belle W. Co., 82 Wis. 546, 561, 52 N. W. 595, 33 Am. St. Rep. 72, 16 L. R. A. 453; Williams v. Farrand, 88 Mich. 473, 50 N. W. 446, 14 L. R. A. 161; Cottrell v. Mfg. Co., 54 Conn. 122, 138, 6 A. 791. There are, of course, multitudinous varieties of firm names to which the foregoing rule is not applicable, as where some arbitrary or fancy name is used, which does not naturally describe any individual (Myers v. Kalamazoo Buggy Co., 54 Mich. 215, 19 N. W. 961, 20 N. W. 545, 52 Am. Rep. 811); where the name or names of individuals have continued to be used after their death, so that the name does not designate any existing individual, and has practically become an artificial one, designating nothing but the establishment (Rogers v. Taintor, 97 Mass. 291; Slater v. Slater, 175 N. Y. 143, 67 N. E. 224, 96 Am. St. Rep. 605, 61 L. R. A. 796). In such cases the right of succession to the business and good will usually carries the exclusive right to use the old firm name. —From Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

59. Where surviving partner continued business for two years after death of partner, held, the good will was not that of the old firm but of the surviving partner. Hutchinson v. Nay [Mass.] 72 N. E. 974. [See this case for discussion on development of the law on this subject and the reason for the above rule.]

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1111.

61. Bank of Southwestern Ga. v. McGarfirm using the property, it will be assumed that it has an interest therein,[63] but such use is of itself insufficient to establish title.[64] Right of a firm to a free and perpetual license to manufacture under a patent obtained by an employe is not a partnership asset.[65]

In the United States, in the absence of an agreement, express or implied,[66] partnership realty is to be deemed in equity as changed into personalty only to the extent necessary for the purposes of partnership equities.[67]

How title is held.[68]—The legal title to partnership realty is in the partners as tenants in common,[69] the equitable title being in the partnership.[70] The title to the property being in the partnership name, the money paid by a purchaser of a deceased partner's interest belongs to the estate of such partner;[71] but the title to the land being taken in the partners' individual names, an innocent purchaser at such sale will be protected,[72] and the proceeds of the sale can be recovered from the administrator by the surviving partner, if necessary to pay partnership debts.[73] A deed to a co-partnership by the firm name vests the legal title to the land in those members of the partnership who are designated in the partnership name,[74] and equity will reform such deed by supplying their Christian names.[75]

Partner's interest.[76]—The individual interest of one partner in the firm assets can only be ascertained by a settlement of the partnership,[77] and a partner, before such a settlement is had, selling partnership property for his own benefit, perpetrates a fraud upon the partnership, and the person receiving such property having knowledge of the fraud, the transaction is void.[78] In a dormant partnership the funds of the visible partner, and those purporting to be his, although actually belonging to the partnership, are, with respect to the rights of innocent rah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393. Land purchased severally by men doing business together, held not partnership property. Jones v. DeCamp, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 133. See 2 Curr. L. 1111, n. 66.

62. Where partnership was formed to carry on warehouse and commission business, without, however, any limitation upon its power to extend its operations, that the realty was devoted to a farming venture does not deprive it of its character as partnership property. Bank of Southwestern Ga. v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393. That such use is not necessary, see 2 Curr. L. 1111, n. 66.

63. In bankruptcy proceedings, it appearing on the face of one of the notes secured by an insurance policy on the life of a member of the firm, that the firm pledged the policies, it will not be assumed that the firm had no interest therein. In re Mertens, 134 F. 101.

64. Jones v. De Camp, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 133. See 2 Curr. L. 1111, n. 69, 70.

65. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

66. Where articles of partnership provided for the purchase, reclaiming and selling marsh lands, the proceeds to be divided pro rata, held, the realty should be treated as personalty. Barney v. Pike, 94 App. Div. 199, 87 N. Y. S. 1038.

67. Huber v. Case, 93 App. Div. 479, 87 N. Y. S. 663. Where a will devised partnership realty as realty, held recorded declarations that such real estate had been purchased with partnership funds, and was treated by both partners as personalty, were insufficient proof of such fact as against subsequent claimants thereof under the will. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1111, n. 71.

For full discussion of the English and American rules on the subject, see Shumaker, Partnership, p. 215, et seq.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1112.

Partnership real estate, title to and interest in, see Tiffany, Real Property, p. 386, § 167.

69. Bank of Southwestern Ga. v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393; Hartnett v. Stillwell, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 276.

70. Hartnett v. Stillwell, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 276. A partnership deed signed for the firm by one of the partners as agent conveys an equitable title to the vendee. Harris v. Bryson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 105. A deed signed by the grantor as "O., M. & Co." by "H., agent" does not disclose on its face that it was executed by a partnership. It might as well indicate a private corporation. Id.

71. Are not partnership assets, since the purchaser acquires only the interest the deceased partner would have in the land on a settlement of the partnership affairs. Hartnett v. Stillwell, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 276.

72. Hartnett v. Stillwell, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 276. The surviving partner is not such an innocent purchaser. Id.

73. Hartnett v. Stillwell, 121 Ga. 386, 49 S. E. 276.

74, 75. Dwyer Pine Land Co. v. Whiteman, 92 Minn. 55, 99 N. W. 362.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1112.

77. Riddell v. Ramsey [Mont.] 78 P. 597.

78. Morrison v. Austin State Bank, 213 Ill. 472, 72 N. E. 1109.

third parties, to be regarded as his sole property.[79] An attachment against one partner alone, levied on partnership property, binds only the interest of that partner.[80] A partner selling his interest in the firm does not sell his own indebtedness to the firm.[81]

§ 4. Rights and liabilities as to third persons. A. Power of partner to bind firm. In general; contracts.[82]—One partner may bind the partnership, and all members thereof, dormant or otherwise,[83] to any transaction within the apparent scope of the partnership business,[84] unless the person dealing with the partner had notice of his want of authority.[85] As to whether or not an act is within the apparent scope of the partnership business is a question of fact to be determined by the court or jury;[86] thus a trading[87] partnership has been held to be bound by loans obtained by one partner on the firm's credit,[88] or by payments made by a firm debtor to such partner,[89] even though the money be misapplied,[90] and also by representations of a partner,[91] and acceptance of service of process by him;[92] but the acts of a member of a law firm individually acting as a trustee do not bind the firm,[93] nor does the act of a partner in misappropriating another's money and applying it to firm debts bind the other partners, they having no knowledge of the transaction.[94] A partner by satisfying a firm debt for less than its value, while binding himself, does not bind his co-partners.[95] One partner can, without consulting his co-partner, execute in the firm name a mortgage of the firm's property to secure a firm debt,[96] but he cannot do so to secure his individual debt.[97] The

79. White v. Farnham [Me.] 58 A. 425. Silent partner cannot, by the execution of a mortgage on such property, deprive a subsequent purchaser at a sale by the ostensible partner's trustee in bankruptcy of the title thus obtained. Id.

80. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Sapplington, 105 Mo. App. 655, 78 S. W. 1049.

81. A complaint, where one partner had misappropriated the firm's money and then assigned his interest to the other partner, the plaintiff, held not to state a cause of action. Riddell v. Ramsey [Mont.] 78 P. 597.

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1112.

83. Complaint against individual member in an action for a firm debt need not allege that plaintiff knew that defendant was a member of the firm at the time the debt was contracted. Allen & Co. v. Davids [S. C.] 49 S. E. 846.

84. Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324; Sutton v. Weber [Iowa] 101 N. W. 775. See, also, Cohen v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 345. See 2 Curr. L. 1112, n. 82. Member of firm engaged in sale of threshing machines on commission, having charge of the canvassing part of the business, has authority to bind his firm by agreeing with the owner of a threshing outfit sold on commission that it should not be shipped to buyer until he had given security for the purchase price. Brown v. Foster [Mich.] 100 N. W. 167. Claim for damages for failure of title to a horse purchased from one of the partners several years before the formation of the partnership, held partnership not liable as it was not in existence at the time, though this is immaterial. Leppel v. Lumley [Colo. App.] 75 P. 605.

85. It not being shown that the person with whom a partner dealt knew that he had acted as agent for third persons in certain cases, evidence that he so acted is incompetent. Huguenot Mills v. Jempson & Co., 68 S. C. 363, 47 S. E. 687.

86. Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324. See 2 Curr. L. 1113, n. 90.

87. The articles of a nontrading partnership containing an express provision that no partnership debts are to be incurred, a partner has no authority to borrow money for the firm. Powell Hardware Co. v. Mayer [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1008.

88. Cohen v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 345. A member of a firm conducting a "Star Route" business has authority to borrow money for the benefit of the firm. Parker v. Parker, 25 Ky. L. R. 2193, 80 S. W. 209.

89. Collins v. Collins, 26 Ky. L. R. 1037, 83 S. W. 99. See 2 Curr. L. 1112, n. 84.

90. Cohen v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 345; Collins v. Collins, 26 Ky. L. R. 1037, 83 S. W. 99.

91. One member of a partnership led another partnership to believe that the two firms were to be partners in a certain undertaking. Held, the first firm is bound thereby. North Pac. Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890.

92. Dispossession proceedings. Maneely v. Mayers, 43 Misc. 380, 87 N. Y. S. 471. Hence under Laws 1902, p. 1519, c. 580, § 90, vacation of an attachment does not affect the jurisdiction of the court in an action against a partnership, one partner being personally served. Feldman v. Siegel, 43 Misc. 392, 87 N. Y. S. 538.

93. Tennent Shoe Co. v. Birdseye, 105 Mo. App. 696, 78 S. W. 1036.

94. Such third party cannot recover the money of them. Powell Hardware Co. v. Mayer [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1008.

95. The other partners may recover their share of the unpaid portion. Busby v. Rooks [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1056.

96. Chattel mortgage. Cohen v. Miller, 91 N. Y. S. 345. Evidence held insufficient to contract being made with all the partners, the question of authority is immaterial.[98] A partner having the right to do an act for the firm may direct an agent to do it.[99] Services performed by a partner in carrying out a partnership contract are legally to be regarded as having been rendered by the partnership, and not by him as an individual.[1] A partner signing letters in his own name, it may be shown by parol that he was acting for the firm.[2]

In some states a partner is liable for all taxes against the partnership.[3]

A subsequent ratification of an act by one partner, even in excess of the scope of the partnership, is equivalent to antecedent authority.[4] As to whether such ratification exists or not is a question of fact for the determination of the court or jury,[5] and it need not be established by direct proof, but may be inferred from the general course of dealing between the members of the firm.[6] After such ratification and the receiving of benefits, such partner cannot repudiate the transaction and thus escape liability.[7]

Partnership bills and notes.[8]—In trading partnerships, the partners may bind the firm by the execution[9] or indorsement[10] of commercial paper; but, in the absence of express authority, necessity or usage, one member of a nontrading partnership cannot bind his co-partner by drawing, making, accepting or indorsing commercial paper,[11] and the burden is upon the holder of the paper who sues on it to prove such authority, necessity or usage.[12] In the absence of assent or ratification by the other members, one partner cannot bind the firm by giving a note to pay his individual debts,[13] and the burden is on the creditor to show that the other partner or partners knew of the transaction and assented thereto,[14] or that the money was obtained and used for carrying on the partnership business,[15] the ques-support a finding that one partner had not authorized a mortgage nor received any portion of the loan. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show that chattel mortgagee of firm property had reason to suspect that he was not loaning money to the firm. Id. Evidence held sufficient to show that mortgagor was entitled to execute mortgage, so as to render it valid against estate of deceased partner. Chapman v. Greene [S. D.] 101 N. W. 351.

97. Sedalia Nat. Bank v. Cassidy Bros. Live Stock Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 142. It is immaterial whether or not the mortgagee knew that the property belonged to the partnership. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. C. 419, 47 S. E. 488.

98. McCormick v. Johnson [Mont.] 78 P. 500.

99. Borrowing money. Parker v. Parker, 25 Ky. L. R. 2193, 80 S. W. 209.

1. Where partnership agreed to perform services without compensation. Powell v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 803, 49 S. E. 759.

2. Huguenot Mills v. Jempson & Co., 68 S. C. 363, 47 S. E. 687.

3. As between himself and the state he is liable for back taxes which the partnership omitted to list and return for taxation in previous years [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 8423]. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109.

4. Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324; Guthiel v. Gilmer, 27 Utah, 496, 76 P. 628.

5. Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324.

6. Guthiel v. Gilmer, 27 Utah, 496, 76 P. 628. Joining in lease of mining property and receiving the rents thereof and other benefits of the transaction, held to show that partner had ratified co-partner's agreement to purchase such property. Id.

7. Guthiel v. Gilmer, 27 Utah, 496, 76 P. 628.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1114.

9. Marsh v. Wheeler [Conn.] 59 A. 410. See 2 Curr. L. 1114, n. 9-12.

10. Partners authorized to sell goods and collect proceeds have authority to indorse and negotiate a check received for property sold. Sullivan v. Sullivan [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1022.

11. Schele v. Wagner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 127. See 2 Curr. L. 1115, n. 15.

12. So held under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2479, providing that an administrator may, without answer, set up any defense. Schele v. Wagner [Ind.] 71 N. E. 127. Indorsing three notes in eight years held not to establish a custom authorizing member to indorse commercial paper in firm name. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1115, n. 16.

13. Firm notes given in renewal of individual notes. In re McIntire, 132 F. 295. Where one partner borrowed money from bank and immediately applied the same to his individual debt due the bank, held bank could not prove such note against the firm's assets. First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 422. There is no ratification of such act where the other partner had no knowledge of such transaction and the books would not have shown it. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1114, n. 13; Id. 1115, n. 15.

14. Where creditor sought to prove same against partnership estate in bankruptcy. In re McIntire, 132 F. 295.

15. Lowry v. Tivy, 70 N. J. Law, 457, 57

tion being one for the jury.[16] Notes executed by a firm and indorsed by the partners are firm as well as individual debts.[17] Parol evidence is admissible to show that joint notes signed by the members of a partnership are in fact firm debts.[18]

A member refusing to pay his portion of the firm's liability on a check, the firm is entitled to retain a part of the profits due such member, and apply this sum in payment of the member's share of the liability.[19]

Notice to one as notice to all.[20]—The rule that notice to one member is notice to all applies only to partnership matters.[21]

Nature of partnership liability.[22]—Partners are jointly[23] and severally[24] liable for all firm debts. Hence mere indulgence by the creditor to one of the partners will not discharge the others.[25]

Liability for torts and crimes.[26]—The partnership[27] and hence all its members[28] are liable for the torts of a partner committed in the ordinary course of business of the firm;[29] but a partner is not chargeable with criminal acts of his co-partners or others acting in behalf of the firm, unless he has knowledge thereof.[30]

(§ 4) B. Commencement and termination of liability. Incoming partner or firm.[31]—A person becoming a member of a partnership does not thereby assume the previous indebtedness of the firm,[32] though he may by agreement assume such indebtedness,[33] and such an agreement does not come within the statute of frauds.[34]

Notice of dissolution and rights of third parties dealing with a partnership after apparent dissolution.[35]—Except where dissolution is caused by operation of law,[36] notice of dissolution or retirement is necessary in order to terminate liability for future acts of the other partners.[37] A former dealer is entitled to actual

A. 267. A plea of non est factum by a partnership held not sustained where the notes were signed with the consent of all the partners to enable them to carry on the partnership business. Miller v. Knight Mfg. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1201, 83 S. W. 631.

16. As to whether money was borrowed for the firm. Lowry v. Tivy, 70 N. J. Law, 457, 57 A. 267. Whether or not money was paid to the firm or a partner. Ball v. Beaumont [Neb.] 102 N. W. 264.

17. Bankruptcy proceedings. Buckingham v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 192.

18. In re Weisenberg & Co., 131 F. 517.

19. Sullivan v. Sullivan [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1022.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1115.

21. Where a member of a law firm is individually acting as a trustee, knowledge acquired by his co-partner in relation to the trust cannot be imputed to the trustee. Tennent Shoe Co. v. Birdseye, 105 Mo. App. 696, 78 S. W. 1036.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1115.

23. North Pacific Lumber Co. v. Spore, 44 Or. 462, 75 P. 890. See 2 Curr. L. 1115, n. 24-26.

24. Are equally bound as principal debtors on firm note. McAreavy v. Magirl, 123 Iowa, 605, 99 N. W. 193. See 2 Curr. L. 1115, n. 24-26.

25. McAreavy v. Magirl, 123 Iowa, 605, 99 N. W. 193.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1115.

27. Conversion. Brown v. Foster [Mich.] 100 N. W. 167. Where a partner, having knowledge of a lien on the crop of a tenant, induced the latter to sell the crop and with the purchase money pay a debt due the firm, the latter was a participant in the wrong, and liable for the crop. Youmans v. Moore [S. C.] 48 S. E. 283. See 2 Curr. L. 1115, 1116, n. 28-33.

28. Fraudulent representations in sale of property. McKibbin v. Day [Neb.] 98 N. W. 845.

29. Shumaker on Partnership, p. 310, § 113.

30. United States v. Cohn, 128 F. 615. Where employe became member of a firm, doing an international business, shortly before being indicted for conspiracy to defraud the customs revenue, held a conviction was contrary to the evidence. Id. In such a case, there being proof that the firm was connected with such conspiracy, it must be shown, in order to convict, that the partnership relation was used or entered into for the purposes of subserving the conspiracy. Id.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1116.

32. Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94. See 2 Curr. L. 1116, n. 38.

33. Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94; Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 98 N. W. 687. Partnership agreement construed with reference to amount paid, etc., and held to show that incoming partner did not assume debts of the old firm. First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 422.

34. Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 98 N. W. 687.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1116.

36. Dissolution brought about by death. National Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618. See 2 Curr. L. 1116, n. 40.

37. Retiring partner liable for goods purchased by successors. Werner Co. v. Calhoun [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1024. Note given after notice,[38] but notice by publication is sufficient as to others.[39] What is actual notice is a question of fact.[40]

Third parties dealing with a partnership after the death of one of the partners are bound to inquire how far the authority to continue extends.[41]

Novation.[42]—In the absence of consent an agreement by one partner to assume the firm debts has no effect on the rights of the creditor,[43] though as between the partners, the retiring partner is merely a surety;[44] but the creditor accepting such promise takes subject to all the equities arising out of the contract between the principal parties,[45] and may sue such purchaser by a direct action.[46] Creditor re-dissolution, held, in the absence of notice, to bind the partners. Pyron v. Ruohs, 120 Ga. 1060, 48 S. E. 434. Partner bound by indorsement of co-partner after dissolution, note being in the hands of a bona fide holder. Bank of Monongahela Valley v. Weston, 172 N. Y. 259, 64 N. E. 946.

38. Werner Co. v. Calhoun [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1024. See 2 Curr. L. 1116, n. 41.

39. Werner Co. v. Calhoun [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1024. See 2 Curr. L. 1117, n. 42.

40. Publication in a newspaper, and change of name on sign on building is not such actual notice. Werner Co. v. Calhoun [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 1024. Evidence of notoriety of change is not admissible, nor is it permissible to show that a change in the signature of checks from the personal name of the proprietor to the firm name occurred at the time of the change of members. Id.

41. Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1117.

43. Does not, as to him, render the absolved partner a mere surety. McAreavy v. Magirl, 123 Iowa, 605, 99 N. W. 193. A contract of dissolution by which continuing partner agreed to assume firm debts held inadmissible in a suit on a firm note, the creditor having no knowledge of such an agreement. Preston & Co. v. Putnam County Banking Co., 120 Ga. 546, 48 S. E. 316.

Evidence held to show that grantee of deed from a partnership agreed to assume the latter's debts. Senn v. Louisville Malting Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 305, 75 S. W. 235.

44. McAreavy v. Magirl, 123 Iowa, 605, 99 N. W. 193.

45. Malanaphy v. Fuller & Johnson Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 640. Must observe the relationship of principal and surety existing between the parties. Malanaphy v. Fuller & Johnson Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 640; Preston v. Garrard, 120 Ga. 689, 48 S. E. 118. Such retiring partner is released if the time of payment be extended without his knowledge or consent. Id.

NOTE. Effect of dissolution and assumption of firm debts by continuing partner as to a firm creditor: "Some disagreement among the courts has arisen in fixing the rights of creditors after dissolution by the retirement of one member and the assumption of the debts by the other. Of course, if a creditor is a party to the agreement made between the partners, he will be bound by it, and must deal with the retiring partner as a surety. All are agreed as to this. The difficulty has arisen in determining whether mere knowledge by the creditor of the dissolution and the agreement of the partners would require him to deal thereafter with the retiring partner as a surety with reference to past transactions of the firm. The case of Oakeley v. Pasheller, 4 Cl. & F. 207, a decision made by the House of Lords in 1836, was supposed to have held that mere knowledge of these things by the creditor would require him to treat the retiring partner as a surety, and that, if he extended the time of payment of his debt without the retiring partner's knowledge or consent, he would be released. But in the case of Swire v. Redman, L. R. 1 Q. B. 536, Cockburn, C. J., shows very clearly that the House of Lords did not, in Oakeley v. Pasheller, intend to rule as was supposed, but merely to hold that the retiring partner would be released only in the event the creditor consented to the arrangement between the partners. Some American courts have followed what was supposed to be the ruling in Oakeley v. Pasheller, and others have adopted the decision in Swire v. Redman, which was to the effect that something more than mere knowledge on the part of the creditor is required—that he must expressly consent to the arrangement between the partners before he will be bound by it; and that in the absence of such consent, he can deal with the retiring partner as a principal debtor, and as an active partner so far as past transactions are concerned. Cases like Swire v. Redman proceed on the theory that when a creditor's rights once become fixed by contract no agreement on the part of the other parties to the contract can affect those rights or change their relation to the creditor so far as he is concerned; that it is wholly immaterial that the creditor was informed of such an agreement; that the partnership still continues relatively to his debt; and that any arrangement which he makes with the continuing partner in behalf of the partnership will be binding on the other. The other line of decisions holds that whenever the relationship of principal and surety arises between partners after dissolution and the assumption by one partner of the debts of the firm, every one having notice of the dissolution and the agreement between them is bound to take notice of the relationship which the law creates, and act accordingly; that while a creditor holding an obligation of the firm may regard the retiring partner as an active partner, so far as his debt is concerned, as long as he does nothing to affect the status of his claim, the moment he, with knowledge of the dissolution and the agreement, does anything which would release an ordinary surety, the retiring partner will be entirely released from his obligation; that this is no hardship on the creditor, because he can protect himself by granting no indulgence to the continuing partner, who has become alone the principal leasing, for a small payment, one of the members of a firm assuming the debts of the old firm, thereby releases the members of the original firm.[47] A partner agreeing to assume the debts of the firm, firm creditors refusing to accept the novation cannot claim that one consented to it and thereby became the individual creditor of the purchasing partner.[48]

(§ 4) C. Application of assets to liabilities.[49]—A surviving partner of an insolvent firm may honestly prefer a bona fide creditor of the firm even to the exclusion of other creditors.[50]

Partnership assets must be applied to the payment of partnership debts in preference to the individual debts of the partners[51] and vice versa,[52] and the priority of firm creditors attaching partnership property is not affected by a prior attachment of such property by an individual creditor.[53] The lien which each partner has on the partnership assets to secure their proper application continues after dissolution,[54] unless waived.[55] Creditors of an insolvent corporation which has assumed the debts of a firm as part consideration for a conveyance of firm property to it are not entitled to a preference in payment over those of the firm.[56] A partner cannot set-off a partnership demand against a demand against himself individually.[57]

Firm debts and assets.[58]—Money loaned to a partner individually is an individual debt, though the money be used in the firm business,[59] and the one to whom the loan was made must be determined from the facts of the transaction.[60] A partnership agreement providing that certain insurance policies on the lives of the partners should be taken out, the premiums on such policies as between the partners are partnership debts.[61] debtor, or doing anything without the retiring partner's consent which would affect the status of the claim to the prejudice of the surety partner. The following are some of the decisions dealing with the subject: Rawson v. Taylor, 30 Ohio St. 389, 27 Am. Rep. 464; Gates v. Hughes, 44 Wis. 332; Millerd v. Thorn, 56 N. Y. 402; Ridgley v. Robertson, 67 Mo. App. 45; Barber v. Gillson, 18 Nev. 89, 1 P. 452; Maier v. Canavan, 8 Daly [N. Y.] 272; Johnson v. Young, 20 W. Va. 614; Williams v. Boyd, 75 Ind. 286; Leithauser v. Baumeister, 47 Minn. 151, 49 N. W. 660, 28 Am. St. Rep. 336; Whittier v. Gould, 8 Watts [Pa.] 485; Wilde v. Jenkins, 4 Paige [N. Y.] 481; Thurber v. Corbin, 51 Barb. [N. Y.] 215; National Cash Reg. Co. v. Brown, 19 Mont. 200, 47 P. 994, 61 Am. St. Rep. 498, 37 L. R. A. 515; Smith v. Shelden, 35 Mich. 42, 24 Am. Rep. 529."—From Preston v. Garrard, 120 Ga. 689, 48 S. E. 118.

46, 47. Malanaphy v. Fuller & Johnson Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 640.

48. In re Worth, 130 F. 927.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1117.

50. Bartlett v. Smith [Neb.] 98 N. W. 687.

51. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Sapplington, 105 Mo. App. 655, 78 S. W. 1049. Conveyance to wife in fraud of creditors by a partner makes her a trustee for the creditors, and her claims cannot be paid until all creditors' claims are met. Lawson v. Dunn [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 415. See 2 Curr. L. 1118, n. 54-56.

52. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Sapplington, 105 Mo. App. 655, 78 S. W. 1049. Partners holding land as tenants in common, firm creditors cannot enforce their claims against it as against individual creditors. Cundey v. Hall, 208 Pa. 335, 57 A. 761. Judgment creditor selling interest of debtor in firm for an amount insufficient to pay the judgment is entitled to a preference over a firm creditor as regards proceeds from real estate owned by the individual partner. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1118, n. 57.

53. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Sapplington, 105 Mo. App. 655, 78 S. W. 1049.

54. Blackwell v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex.] 79 S. W. 518.

55. Held waived where continuing partner agreed to assume debts. Blackwell v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank [Tex.] 79 S. W. 518.

56. London v. Bynum, 136 N. C. 411, 48 S. E. 764.

57. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145. An objection to an attempt to so do can only properly be raised on an objection to the admissibility of testimony. Id.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1118.

59. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Sapplington, 105 Mo. App. 655, 78 S. W. 1049. Individual members borrowing money on notes signed by all partners, and immediately checking the funds to the partnership account and using it in the firm business held individual and not firm debts. In re Weisenberg & Co., 131 F. 517. See 2 Curr. L. 1118, n. 58, 59, 61.

60. Testimony of cashier of bank loaning money as to witness' intention held inadmissible. In re Weisenberg & Co., 131 F. 517.

61. White v. McPeck, 185 Mass. 451, 70 N. E. 463.

§ 5. Rights of partners inter se.[62] Duty to observe good faith.[63]—The members must observe the utmost good faith towards each other.[64] Secret arrangements by which one member is to receive more for the firm property than the others is a breach of this faith,[65] but, in the absence of fraud, a partner is not liable for errors of judgment,[66] or for delay caused or consented to by the other members.[67] Where one partner was to receive compensation for his services, the agreed compensation is the proper measure of a counterclaim for nonattention to the business.[68]

Power of majority.—In a partnership composed of numerous individuals bound loosely together by subscription to the stock of a proposed corporation, for all the purposes of the organization a majority must have the right of control so long as they act within the purview of the contract of subscription.[69]

Firm accounts.[70]—A partner is entitled to have proper accounts kept, and may assume that this duty will be fulfilled.[71] In the absence of a wrong motive or injury, a partner is not liable for an unscientific method of keeping books.[72] A partner is entitled to inspect the books at all reasonable times, and this extends to a member who has been induced to retire from the firm by fraud.[73] The inspection of current books should be made at the place of business,[74] and without unnecessary expense to the other partners.[75]

§ 6. Actions. A. By the firm or partner.[76]—A suit cannot be maintained in the name of a firm independent of the members constituting the partnership,[77] but

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1119.

Evidence as to indebtedness of partner: A finding by a referee and affirmed by the district court that a partner was not indebted to the partnership held sustained by the evidence. Buckingham v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 192.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1119.

64. First Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 131 F. 422. See 2 Curr. L. 1119, n. 71.

65. Bonus received by widow of deceased partner for consent to sale of property at a certain price to the one paying the bonus should be regarded as part of the purchase price and should be accounted for by the widow to the surviving partners. Comstock v. McDonald [Mich.] 101 N. W. 55.

Note: The court placed the decision on the ground that the relation of partnership is one requiring the utmost good faith, and that secret arrangements by which one member was to receive more for firm property than others was a breach of that faith. Latta v. Kilbourn, 150 U. S. 541, 37 Law. Ed. 1169; Todd v. Rafferty's Adm., 30 N. J. Eq. 254; McMahon v. McClernan, 10 W. Va. 419; Lowry v. Cobb, 9 La. Ann. 492. The strong dissenting opinion pointed out that plaintiffs were not defrauded nor damaged in any way by the widow's act. They received what they asked for the property and were satisfied. The additional sum was merely an inducement to encourage the widow to consent to a contract to which they had already assented. It is difficult to see how the application of this latter rule could work injury to anyone. The courts, however, go to great lengths in favoring the partnership relation. As illustrations of this tendency see Hodge v. Twitchell, 33 Minn. 389, and Fenning v. Chadwick, 3 Pick. [Mass.] 420, 15 Am. Dec. 233. The rule by the overwhelming weight of authority is that the partnership relation forbids a member to "assume a position which would ordinarily excite a conflict between his individual interest and a faithful discharge of his fiduciary duties." 3 Mich. L. R. 332.

66. Where assets were overvalued. Knipe v. Livingston, 209 Pa. 49, 57 A. 1130.

67. Where both partners consented to the charging off of certain accounts to profit and loss, held estate of deceased partner is not liable for failure of decedent to use diligence in collecting the same. Knipe v. Livingston, 209 Pa. 49, 57 A. 1130.

68. Brandt v. Edwards, 91 Minn. 505, 98 N. W. 647. See 2 Curr. L. 1119, n. 71.

69. The majority and minority each forming a separate corporation, the title to the partnership property becomes vested in the corporation formed by the majority. Mt. Carmel Tel. Co. v. Mt. Carmel & F. Tel. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 515.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1119.

71. Partner having charge of sales department and having nothing to do with financial department may assume that his partner will keep correct accounts. In re McIntire, 132 F. 295. See 2 Curr. L. 1120, n. 77.

72. Knipe v. Livingston, 209 Pa. 49, 57 A. 1130.

73. He should be allowed to inspect books of the partnership both before and after the agreement to retire. Cohn v. Hessel, 95 App. Div. 548, 88 N. Y. S. 1057.

74. Cohn v. Hessel, 95 App. Div. 548, 88 N. Y. S. 1057.

75. Defendants objecting to the paying of an accountant selected by the court with a view of protecting their interests, that portion of the order should be stricken out. Cohn v. Hessel, 95 App. Div. 548, 88 N. Y. S. 1057.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1120.

77. Complaint: "The L. Bank, plaintiff * * * would respectfully represent that it is a firm * * * composed of T. J. M. & W. J. M." held sufficient to show that the action was brought by the individuals com-the names of the partners not being set out, the defect may be cured by amendment.[78]

All persons who are partners in a firm when a contract is made with it should join in an action for the breach of such contract,[79] though a partner may sometimes sue on contracts made in his own name;[80] thus a partner depositing firm money with a third party and taking a receipt in his individual name may sue alone to recover such fund.[81] In the absence of prejudice to the rights of defendant, a continuing partner may sue on a firm contract alone.[82] Where a firm is dissolved by the death of a nonresident partner, after a decree in a suit against the firm, the personal representatives of the deceased partner are not necessary parties to a bill of review.[83]

(§ 6) B. Against the firm or a partner. Pleading and proof of partnership.[84]—The petition must allege the names of the partners,[85] and the use of the phrase "partners," etc., after defendants' names is treated as descriptio personae,[86] while the use of the word "company" is frequently held to import a corporation.[87] posing the firm. Scott v. Llano County Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 301. Complaint describing plaintiff as "B. P. & Co., a co-partnership composed of B., P., & P.," is not demurrable on the ground that it was filed in the name of the partnership. Hatcher v. Branch, Powell & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 690.

78. Loewenberg v. Gilliam [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1064.

79. Bumpus v. Turgeon, 98 Me. 550, 57 A. 883. Where one partner fraudulently settled partnership debt by taking debtor's note for part, and applying an individual debt in payment of the balance, held the innocent partner could not alone maintain a suit to recover the amount so applied. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1120, n. 80.

80. A partner contracting with a third party in his own name, the fact that the other member of the partnership participated in the work and profits does not prevent the contractor from suing on the contract. Council v. Teal [Ga.] 49 S. E. 806. See 2 Curr. L. 1120, n. 83.

81. Is a trustee of an express trust within the meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 449. Meinhardt v. Excelsior Brew. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 642.

82. Plaintiff's partner having sold his interest in the contract sued on to plaintiff, failure to make him a party plaintiff does not prejudice defendant. Degnan v. Nowlin [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 758.

83. Perkins v. Hendryx, 127 F. 448. See 2 Curr. L. 1120, n. 81, as to an appeal by the firm.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1120.

85. Perry-Rice Grocery Co. v. Craddock Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 966.

86. A complaint against "G., S., and S. co-partners doing business under the firm name and style of G., S. & Co." states an action against the persons named individually, and not against the partnership. Guthiel v. Gilmer, 27 Utah, 496, 76 P. 628. An action against G., H. & K., partners under the firm name of G. S. G. & Co., is an action against the individual partners and does not authorize a judgment against the firm, or individual members not served [Comp. Laws 1897, § 2943]. Good v. Red River Valley Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 46.

Contra: Suit being brought against H. & R. composing the firm of H. & R. and the writ of attachment being directed against the property of H. & R. it authorizes a levy on either the firm or individual property. Kleinsmith v. Kempner [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 409.

NOTE. Suit against partnership in firm name: The statutes of New Mexico provide that a partnership may sue and be sued in the firm name and that service on one member is service on the firm. Good v. Red River Valley Co. [N. M.] 78 P. 46. At common law a partnership had no standing as a legal entity aside from its individual members. Many of the states, however, have passed statutes permitting the partnership to sue and be sued in its firm name. The New Mexico law is patterned after a similar section in the Iowa Code and is typical of the legislation on this point. It would seem that inasmuch as the statutes are a relaxation of the old law, a liberal interpretation should overlook so technical a point, especially when the intent is so clearly expressed as in the above cases. While the courts show a tendency to modify the common-law rule, yet the weight of authority is that a suit against a partnership must be so designated, and that words such as those mentioned are mere descriptio personae. Ladiga Saw Mill Co. v. Smith, 78 Ala. 108; Davidson v. Knox, 67 Cal. 143. There are some cases to the contrary. In Morrissey v. Schindler, 18 Neb. 672, the facts were precisely the same as in the cases under discussion, but the court held that it was an action against the firm and that the form of expression there used was preferable to the use of the firm name alone. This holding has since been modified. Winters v. Means, 50 Neb. 209; Wigton v. Smith, 57 Neb. 299, 77 N. W. 772; Bastian v. Adams [Neb.] 97 N. W. 231. As to the manner of designating plaintiffs in a partnership action see McCord v. Seale, 56 Cal. 262; Sweet v. Ervin, 54 Iowa, 101; Putnam v. Wheeler, 65 Tex. 522; Moses v. Hatfield, 27 S. C. 324, 3 S. E. 538; Wise v. Williams, 72 Cal. 544.—3 Mich. L. R. 164.

87. Suit against "C. H. Perkins Company," imports a suit against a corporation. Perkins Co. v. Shewmake, 119 Ga. 617, 46 S. E. 832.

In the latter case the petition is amendable,[88] but notice of the amendment must be served on the defendant.[89]

The complaint failing to show a joint cause of action, the fact that the proceeding is in the nature of one against a partnership does not prevent judgment being taken against the party liable.[90] One partner being improperly joined, the action may be dismissed as to him.[91] One injured by the tort of a partner may elect to sue the latter alone.[92] An action on a partnership contract cannot be brought against a partner individually,[93] nor can a partnership demand be joined with an individual demand unless one partner is dead.[94] Two persons being sued as partners, plaintiff cannot recover on the theory that one of them was the sole owner of the business conducted in the name of the other.[95] Action against an individual is not sustained by proof of his liability as a partner,[96] and in such a case, a general denial does not operate as a waiver of a nonjoinder of his partner.[97]

One denying that he is a member of a partnership, the burden is upon the party alleging the partnership, and the question is one of fact for the jury.[98] A note being executed in a firm name, and the defendants in an action thereon admitting its execution and delivery, there is necessarily an admission of the copartnership.[99]

Abatement.—A penal action against a partnership abates upon the death of either partner.[1]

Judgment and subsequent proceedings.[2]—Judgment being entered against the partnership as a corporation, it cannot be enforced against the partners.[3] A firm creditor recovering a judgment against any partner is entitled to recover the statutory items of cost from the commencement of the suit to the entry of judgment.[4]

A partner dying after judgment, his personal representative is a necessary party appellant.[5]

Generally, in levying on a partner's interest, notice should be left with one or more of the partners other than the defendant in execution.[6]

(§ 6) C. Between partners.[7]—An action at law will not lie between part-

88. Is amendable by striking out the words "a corporation," and making an allegation that the company is a partnership composed of named individuals. Perkins Co. v. Shewmake, 119 Ga. 617, 46 S. E. 832.

89. Perry-Rice Grocery Co. v. Craddock Grocery Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 966.

90. Tennent Shoe Co. v. Birdseye, 105 Mo. App. 696, 78 S. W. 1036. Where summons described defendants as partners but one of whom was served. Mason v. Connors, 129 F. 831.

91. It being shown that one party defendant was not a member of the firm at the time the contract sued on was made, dismissal of the action as to him does not cause a material variance between the pleading and proof. Helios-Upton Co. v. Thomas, 96 App. Div. 401, 89 N. Y. S. 222. See 2 Curr. L. 1120, n. 90, 91.

92. Fraudulent representations in reliance on which goods were sold the partnership. Hyde v. Lesser, 93 App. Div. 320, 87 N. Y. S. 878.

93. Answer setting up such a defense is not insufficient because it fails to allege that the other partner was within the jurisdiction of the court. Wildrick v. Heyshem, 96 App. Div. 515, 89 N. Y. S. 78.

94. Failure to observe this rule makes the declaration demurrable for a misjoinder of counts. Maisby v. Lanark Fuel Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 358.

95. Lighthiser v. Allison [Md.] 59 A. 182.

96, 97. Sparks v. Fogarty, 93 App. Div. 472, 87 N. Y. S. 648.

98. Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94.

99. Hence rejection of evidence tending to show no partnership, held correct. Naftzker v. Lantz [Mich.] 100 N. W. 601.

1. Action under Rev. Codes 1899, § 7605, for maintaining a place where intoxicating liquors were sold. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1121.

3. Whether they were in fact indebted to plaintiff or not. Sinsabaugh v. Dun [Ill.] 73 N. E. 390.

4. This because each partner is liable for the whole of the debt. Moore v. Dickson, 121 Wis. 591, 99 N. W. 322.

5. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 648, 272, 283-285, 2463, 2465. Judgment being rendered against the firm. Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638.

6. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 2352, should be left with them or with a clerk of the firm. Adoue v. Wettermark [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 797.

7. See post, Accounting, § 7, subd. E. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1121.

ners[8] or their assignees[9] upon a demand growing out of a partnership transaction until there has been a final settlement.[10] This rule does not extend to transactions between the partners before the formation of the firm,[11] nor to matters unconnected with the partnership, or which have, by the partners themselves, been isolated from the general partnership account.[12] After such settlement the partner may recover in a law action his share of an item of partnership profits,[13] but he cannot maintain an action of tort therefor unless the other partner be guilty of fraud in withholding the payment.[14] The petition failing to allege the partnership settlement, the answer may effectually supply the defect.[15]

§ 7. Dissolution, settlement, and accounting. A. Dissolution by operation of law.[16]—The death of a partner per se dissolves the partnership at once and for all purposes.[17] The exceptions to this rule are where the articles of partnership provide for its continuance,[18] and where there is a direction in the will of the deceased partner that the partnership shall be continued.[19] Such direction must be in express and unambiguous terms.[20] A statute authorizing an executor to continue a "plantation, manufactory, or business belonging to an estate," does not include partnerships.[21]

(§ 7) B. Dissolution by act of partners.[22]—A partner may dissolve a partnership according to the terms of the articles,[23] and the prescribed method being inequitable, any convenient method may be employed.[24] One partner refusing to

8. Milligan v. Mackinlay, 209 Ill. 358, 70 N. E. 685; Coulson v. Ferree [Ky.] 85 S. W. 686. Cannot have contribution from the other partners. Foss v. Dawes [Neb.] 101 N. W. 237. Where a corporation acted as a partner, held could not sue other members for money had and received. Powell Hardware Co. v. Mayer [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1008; King v. Moore [Ark.] 82 S. W. 494. See 2 Curr. L. 1122, n. 7. A partner who has a minor son in the employ of the firm of which he is a member cannot bring an action at law against his co-partners and recover the value of the services performed by his son. The statutes of New Mexico do not authorize a proceeding in the probate court by one of the surviving partners of a firm against the administrator of a deceased partner to recover an alleged indebtedness prior to a settlement of the firm's affairs by suit in the district court or by auditors appointed under such statutes. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

9. Trespass or conversion will not lie on behalf of one partner to recover property from the assignee of another partner. Andrews v. Clark [Neb.] 98 N. W. 655.

10. Where there was outstanding accounts, evidence held insufficient to show a final settlement. Foss v. Dawes [Neb.] 101 N. W. 237.

11. One partner may sue another to recover damages for the latter's failure to comply with an agreement made before the formation of the partnership, relating to the terms on which the partnership was to be formed. Owen v. Meroney, 136 N. C. 475, 48 S. E. 821.

12. Partner selling out to his co-partner all his interest excluding specified articles may maintain replevin to recover the same though the partnership business was unsettled and a suit for an accounting was pending. Newberry v. Gibson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 428.

13. Dorwart v. Ball [Neb.] 98 N. W. 652.

14. Milligan v. Mackinlay, 209 Ill. 358, 70 N. E. 685.

15. Jackson v. Powell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1132.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1122.

17. Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333; National Bank of Maryland v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618. See 2 Curr. L. 1122, n. 19.

18. Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333. See 2 Curr. L. 1122, n. 20. The articles of partnership providing for the continuance of the partnership, the executors of a deceased partner are bound thereby, and such articles continue in force so long as the testator's contribution to the capital remains in the business. Whether the court regards the partnership as a continuing one or as successive ones is immaterial. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

19. Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333. See 2 Curr. L. 1122, n. 21.

20. Authority given in a will to an executor to "pay debts and wind up the estate" is not a direction to continue a partnership. Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333.

21. Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333.

22. See 2 Curr. L. 1123.

23. Will creating trust in real estate and directing executor to continue partnership so long as profitable, held surviving partner could terminate same according to agreement. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

24. Where articles provided that on termination of relation either partner could purchase business, the book values being the basis of purchase, held the book values being placed at a low figure, and it being inequitable that they should be taken as the basis, that part of the agreement would not be enforced. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

perform his part of a dissolution agreement, and refusing to pay taxes on the property to be taken by him, the other partner, in an action for specific performance, may pay the taxes for the account of defendant.[25]

(§ 7) C. Dissolution by order of court.[26]—A court of equity may dissolve a partnership for fraud in its formation, hopelessness of success, insanity, or misconduct of a partner,[27] but none of these work a dissolution ipso facto.[28]

(§ 7) D. Effect of dissolution. 1. In general.[29]—On dissolution of a partnership according to its terms, the interest of the partners in the assets becomes several, subject to the payment of partnership debts and the settlement of accounts between the partners.[30] The partnership articles control as to the method of distribution among the partners.[31]

(§ 7 D) 2. As to surviving partner.[32]—The administration of the partnership affairs by the surviving partner is entirely distinct and separate from the administration of the estate of the decedent.[33] The surviving partner or partners have the exclusive[34] right of possession and control of the partnership property for the purpose of winding up the partnership business, and may do any act necessary or proper for that purpose,[35] and to this end he may mortgage the property;[36] but he must act honestly and with reasonable discretion and diligence.[37] He takes the legal title to firm personalty,[38] and the equitable title to firm realty, and his grantee takes such an equitable interest as will enable him to compel a conveyance by the heirs of the deceased partner.[39] Real estate which is not an asset of the firm at the time of the death of a member thereof will not pass to the survivor.[40] If he wrongfully appropriates the funds of the concern to his own use, he is chargeable with interest.[41] A surviving partner has no power after dissolution to execute, renew, or indorse a note in the name of the firm;[42]

25. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 528.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1123.

27. Shumaker, Partnership, p. 418, § 146.

28. Insanity will not prevent adjudication of bankruptcy against the partnership. In re Stein & Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 547.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1123.

30. Moore v. Ramson, 185 Mass. 264, 70 N. E. 64.

31. Partnership articles providing that on dissolution certain property should be returned to one party, the latter is entitled to the same regardless of any damages caused by his breaking the articles. Lawson v. Tyler, 98 App. Div. 10, 90 N. Y. S. 188. Articles construed and held, that excess of capital contributed by one partner was, after payment of firm debts, a debt due such partner, and on which he was entitled to interest. Brandt v. Edwards, 91 Minn. 505, 98 N. W. 647.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1124.

In Ohio the rights and duties of a surviving partner are defined by statute. Jones v. De Camp, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 133.

33. Code 1892, § 1931, forbidding an administrator from paying any claim unless probated and allowed, has no application to a surviving partner. Lance v. Calhoun [Miss.] 37 So. 1014.

34. The executor of a deceased partner has no authority to continue the business. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank [Tex.] 83 S. W. 6. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1984, does not change the rule nor repeal art. 1867. Id.

35. Secor v. Tradesmen's Nat. Bank, 92 App. Div. 294, 87 N. Y. S. 181.

36. And the mortgagee is entitled to priority over such partner's individual creditors whose executions are levied after the making of the mortgage. People's Nat. Bank v. Wilcox [Mich.] 100 N. W. 24.

37. People's Nat. Bank v. Wilcox [Mich.] 100 N. W. 24.

38. Secor v. Tradesmen's Nat. Bank, 92 App. Div. 294, 87 N. Y. S. 181.

39. Bank of Southwestern Ga. v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393.

40. Jones v. De Camp, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 133.

41. Porter v. Long [Mich.] 98 N. W. 990.

42. National Bank of Md. v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

NOTE. The indorsement of negotiable paper may be considered first as a contract involving liability on the part of the indorsers in case the paper is not paid when due, and, second, as a mere means of transferring the title of the paper indorsed. So far as an indorsement involves a new contract it is undoubtedly beyond the power of any member of a dissolved partnership to create any liability against his late partners, whether he assumes to make the indorsement in the name of the firm or not, and irrespective of the purpose for which the indorsement was made. Hence, the firm cannot be held answerable on such indorsement, though the partner who made it thereby transferred the paper in payment of a firm debt: Bryant v. Lord, 19 Minn. 396; Sanford v. Mickles, 4 Johns. [N. Y.] 224; Fellows v. Wyman, 33 N. H. 351; Dana v. Conant, 30 Vt. 246; Nott v. Downing, 6 La. 280, 26 Am. Dec. 491; Humphries v. Chas-

but, although he cannot by such an act bind the estate of the deceased partner, he is nevertheless personally liable.[43] He can, however, assign a chose in action belonging to the firm.[44]

While a surviving partner in closing up the affairs of the firm is not entitled to compensation for his services,[45] yet those interested in the estate demanding a share of the profits accruing after the death of the one partner, equity will grant the surviving partner that part of the profits which with reasonable certainty is attributable to his personal services.[46] This is of course subject to the consideration that he who has wrongfully mingled and confused property must prove with reasonable certainty what part of the ultimate general result is due to other sources than the misappropriated property.[47]

Liability to estate of decedent.[48]—The personal representative of a deceased partner has no right to enforce claims and maintain actions to reduce the assets of the partnership to possession,[49] though he may call the surviving partner to account;[50] and where such personal representative has been discharged,[51] or is the surviving partner,[52] the beneficiaries may sue;[53] and all persons interested in, and likely to be affected by, the adjudication sought are proper parties defendant.[54] That a surviving partner is domiciliary administrator of the estate of his deceased partner prevents him, as such administrator, from dealing with himself individually as a partner,[55] though it does not prevent him from dealing individually with an ancillary administrator appointed by the court of another state with respect to partnership property.[56] The articles of co-partnership providing for the carrying on of the business after the death of one of the members and giving one member the right to purchase the business, this latter right extends to an admin-tain, 5 Ga. 166, 48 Am. Dec. 247; Whitwroth v. Ballard, 56 Ind. 279; Lumberman's Bank v. Pratt, 51 Me. 563; White v. Tudor, 24 Tex. 639, 76 Am. Dec. 126. There does not, however, seem to be any objection to giving the indorsement effect as a mere transfer of title to the property. Chappell v. Allen, 38 Mo. 213; Waite v. Foster, 33 Me. 424.—From note to Gilmore v. Ham [N. Y.] 40 Am. St. Rep. 554, 564.

43. National Bank of Md. v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618; Altgelt v. Sullivan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 333.

44. American Hardwood Lumber Co. v. Nickey, 101 Mo. App. 20, 73 S. W. 331.

45, 46, 47. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1125.

49. Secor v. Tradesman's Nat. Bank, 92 App. Div. 294, 87 N. Y. S. 181. If he was entitled to maintain such an action, the surviving partner and all persons acquiring any portion of the fund should be made parties. Id.

50. Secor v. Tradesman's Nat. Bank, 92 App. Div. 294, 87 N. Y. S. 181. The articles providing for the rendering of accounts, an ancillary administrator, where surviving partner is domiciliary administrator, is entitled to an accounting from the date of the last account which has been approved by testator's heirs or their guardian. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

51. Byers v. Weeks, 105 Mo. App. 72, 79 S. W. 485. In Missouri, it was held where the surviving partner failed to administer the partnership estate and the deceased partner's administrator had been discharged, the office of administrator was functus officio and an administrator de bonis non could not be appointed to administer the partnership estate. Id.

52. Though title to the specific personal property involved was in the administrator. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

53. NOTE: Accounting of surviving partners: The widow, legatees, distributees, or creditors of the general estate of a deceased partner, not charged with the duties of administering, cannot maintain a bill for an accounting against the surviving partners. Their remedy is to compel the representative of decedent to account or have him removed Vienne v. McCarty, 1 U. S. (1 Dall.) 154, 1 Law. Ed. 79; Tate v. Tate, 35 Ark. 289; Hutton v. Laws, 55 Iowa, 710; Rosenzweig v. Thompson, 66 Md. 593; Harrison v. Righter, 11 N. J. Eq. 389; Ludlow v. Cooper, 4 Ohio, 1; Stainton v. Carron Co., 18 Beav. 146; Davies v. Davies, 2 Keen, 539. An exception to this rule is where there is fraud or collusion between the executor of decedent and the surviving partner, in which case one entitled to an accounting of the separate estate may follow the assets and compel the surviving partners to account. Seeley v. Boehm, 2 Madd. 176; Newland v. Champion, 1 Ves. Sr. 105. See Travis v. Milne, 9 Hare, 141.—From note to Walling v. Burgess [Ind.] 7 L. R. A. 481.

54. Where surviving partner, while acting as administrator of a deceased partner, fraudulently conveyed latter's share, along with rest of the business, to a corporation, held stockholders in latter were proper parties in a suit by the deceased partner's beneficiaries to compel the corporation to permit them to become stockholders. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

55, 56. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

istrator of a deceased partner,[57] and the surviving partner determining to discontinue the business should serve notice on such administrator.[58]

(§ 7 D) 3. As to continuing or liquidating partner. Retiring partner.[59]—On dissolution, a continuing partner refusing to pay to the retiring partner his share of the assets holds such funds in a fiduciary capacity until final settlement,[60] and whether he is entitled to compensation for taking care of such assets rests in the discretion of the court;[61] but the retiring partner is entitled to a proportionate share of the profits, or interest on his assets up to the time of final settlement.[62] The continuing partner becoming the owner of the indebtedness due the firm may sue thereon in his own name.[63]

(§ 7 D) 4. As to estate of deceased partner.[64]—The personal representatives of a deceased partner have an equitable right to have firm assets applied to firm debts,[65] and are entitled to receive the decedent's share of the firm assets after all the partnership affairs have been settled.[66] Generally firm creditors may proceed in the first instance against the estate of a deceased partner,[67] but the personal representatives not being made parties to an action by the creditor, their liability is not in issue.[68] An executor of a deceased partner by allowing testator's capital to remain in business and receiving profits is not personally liable as a partner.[69]

(§ 7) E. Accounting. Right to.[70]—A partner, being excluded from the management of the business, is entitled to sue for an accounting.[71] The solvency or insolvency of the parties is immaterial.[72] In an accounting between partners, where neither is guilty of acts, omissions, or concealments involving a breach of legal or equitable duty toward the other, they are only liable to account to each other severally and not jointly.[73]

Jurisdiction.[74]—Equity has jurisdiction of a suit between partners for an accounting and dissolution,[75] but equity will not take jurisdiction unless a dissolution is asked.[76]

57. Where the surviving partner is the domiciliary administrator, the right extends to an ancillary administrator. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

58. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

Notice by surviving partner to the ancillary administrator to the effect that he desired to discontinue the business, and that he thereby gave notice to that effect in accordance with the partnership agreement between himself and testator, held sufficient. Egan v. Wirth [R. I.] 58 A. 987.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1125.

See ante, Novation, § 4, subd. B, for effect of continuing partner assuming firm debts.

60, 61, 62. Moore v. Rawson, 185 Mass. 264, 70 N. E. 64.

63. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797. The rule that suit must be in the name of the assignor has no application. Id.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1126.

65, 66. See Secor v. Tradesman's Nat. Bank, 92 App. Div. 294, 87 N. Y. S. 181.

Evidence that decedent on dissolution of partnership had stated to claimant, his partner, that they "were square," held to render plaintiff's claim for undrawn profits untenable. Justis v. Justis [Md.] 57 A. 23.

67. Need not wait until partnership affairs are wound up. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 582. Need not first exhaust his remedy against the surviving partners or show that they are insolvent. Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638. Contra, 2 Curr. L. n. 84-86.

68. Suit on firm note. National Bank of Md. v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

69. Tisch v. Rockafellow, 209 Pa. 419, 58 A. 805.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1127.

71. McCabe v. Sinclair [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 412.

72. Andrews v. Clark [Neb.] 98 N. W. 655.

73. In such case each can only be held to account to every other for himself, and not for his co-partners. Lynch v. Foley [Colo.] 76 P. 370.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1128.

75. Kisling v. Barrett [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 507; Riddell v. Ramsey [Mont.] 78 P. 597. Petition praying for a dissolution of a partnership, an accounting, and an injunction makes an equity case. Fowler v. Davis, 120 Ga. 442, 47 S. E. 951. See 2 Curr. L. 1128, n. 98.

Kentucky: Court of Appeals has jurisdiction of an appeal from a suit to settle partnership affairs although plaintiff's claim is less than $200. Lapp v. Clark's Adm'r [Ky.] 85 S. W. 717.

76. Two partners cannot maintain an action for an accounting against a third merely because of a dispute as to the effect of a contract, no dissolution being asked. Lord

Parties.[77]—All the partners or their representatives must be before the court unless it appears that their presence is unnecessary.[78]

Pleading and proof.[79]—The bill must state the fact of partnership, a dissolution or grounds therefor, and unsettled firm accounts.[80] An order allowing a party to bond the sequestration of partnership property seized at the instance of his co-partner in a suit for settlement and accounting is subject to appeal,[81] and on appeal will generally be reversed as likely to work irreparable injury.[82] A variance between the pleading and proof is fatal.[83]

Receivers.[84]—Equity will only appoint a receiver where the partnership funds are in danger of being wasted or misappropriated.[85] Impossibility of performance will alone excuse failure to turn property over to a receiver.[86]

Credits and charges.[87]—In general, the partners are entitled to share equally in the proceeds of the sale of the business,[88] and to bear the losses equally.[89] Each is entitled to his salary,[90] and should be allowed for all claims he holds against the other partners.[91] One partner contributing all the capital, the other to repay, out of his surplus earnings, one-half of such amount, on dissolution before the stipulated time, the increase in value of the plant is to be considered as part of the profits.[92] During the pendency of the suit, neither partner is entitled to the amount stipulated in the partnership agreement for personal use.[93] Some items of account being omitted from the settlement, equity has no jurisdiction of such items, but the remedy thereon is at law.[94]

Interest being voluntarily paid, it cannot be recovered back in the absence of fraud, mistake, or concealment.[95]

Reference.[96]—When necessary, the court on hearing the referee's report may make additional findings.[97]

Decree.[98]—The court will grant relief co-extensive with the necessities of the case.[99] The ordinary rules of construction apply in construing the decree.[1]

v. Hull, 178 N. Y. 9, 70 N. E. 69. See 2 Curr. L. 1128, n. 99, 1.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1128.

78. Lynch v. Foley [Colo.] 76 P. 370.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1128.

80. Petition for dissolution and an accounting held to state a cause of action. Carroll v. Cunningham [Neb.] 102 N. W. 608. See 2 Curr. L. 1128, n. 3.

81, 82. Boimare v. St. Geme, 113 La. 830, 37 So. 770.

83. Party alleging a partnership, proof of a joint adventure is insufficient. Smith v. Dunn, 44 Misc. 288, 89 N. Y. S. 881.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1129.

85. Rowland v. Auto Car Co., 133 F. 835. Where one partner wrongfully excludes the other from all participation in the business, equity will appoint a receiver pendente lite. Redding v. Anderson [Wash.] 79 P. 628. See 2 Curr. L. 1129, n. 11-13.

86. That property has been destroyed by fire is sufficient to excuse noncompliance with an order directing it to be turned over to a receiver, except where, as in the case of chemical formulas, the property is such as can be reproduced from memory. Lawson v. Tyler, 98 App. Div. 10, 90 N. Y. S. 188.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1130.

88. Shumaker, Partnership, p. 208, § 76. Evidence held to show that cash payment to partner negotiating sale of business was part consideration of sale, and not paid to him individually for his promise not to engage in the business. Hartung v. Oldfield, 124 Iowa, 184, 99 N. W. 699.

89. Although the contribution of capital may have been unequal. Mallett v. Keller, 91 App. Div. 502, 86 N. Y. S. 917.

90. A partner receiving a salary as clerk and also a percentage of the profits, held his salary was a part of the partnership affairs to be settled in an accounting. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

91. Evidence held insufficient to establish a claim by one member of a firm against the executor of a deceased partner for services rendered as clerk to decedent judicially appointed master in chancery. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

92, 93. Woldenberg v. Berg [Or.] 77 P. 873.

94. Jackson v. Powell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1132.

95. Price v. Olcovich, 142 Cal. 47, 75 P. 568.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1131.

97. Where, in suit for an accounting, referee made no finding as to whether purchase by surviving partner was fraudulent, held the court on hearing the referee's report may make an additional finding of actual fraudulent intent. Rowell v. Rowell [Wis.] 99 N. W. 473.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1132.

99. Where a partnership had a public contract, and two of the partners ignored a third, held in a suit for an accounting that

Apportionment of costs.[2]—The allowance of counsel fees to plaintiff is a matter within the discretion of the court.[3]

Opening or correcting settlement.[4]—A creditor may, by laches, lose the right to object to a partnership settlement.[5]

§ 8. Limited partnerships.[6]—The liability of a limited partner is such that suing him in a foreign state does not give the court jurisdiction of the partnership debt.[7] In New York a special partner having contributed his share and correctly stated the amount in his certificate is not responsible for any act of the general partners in relation to the money he has paid in,[8] and the fact that the general partners use the special partner's contribution to pay the debts of the old firm does not amount to a misappropriation of such fund.[9]

PARTY WALLS.

A party wall agreement will not be read from a mere grant of land.[10] An agreement to build a party wall, binding the heirs and assigns of the parties, creates a convenant running with the land.[11] As to whether an agreement, whereby one adjoining owner is to build the wall, the other to contribute his share of the cost of construction when he uses it, creates a covenant so running, there is a conflict of authority.[12] Rights under an agreement which constitute a covenant running with the land pass to a grantee without notice of such agreement;[13] but where the agreement to contribute does not create such a covenant the two partners would not be enjoined from receiving payments made in the course of the execution of the contract but that they would be restrained from anticipating or assigning the final payment, and would be required to furnish a list of all payments made, and give him the details of the business. McCabe v. Sinclair [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 412. [The complainant asked for the appointment of a manager, but owing to the expense of such an appointment the above relief was granted.]

1. Decree referring the cause to a commissioner to state the account, and requiring him to charge the defendant with what he had received from the sale of certain timber, held defendant was chargeable with what he received at retail, and was not entitled to have the same charged to him at his wholesale market price. Hughes v. Love [Mich.] 101 N. W. 536.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1132.

3. Granville v. Arnott [Conn.] 59 A. 405. See 2 Curr. L. 1132, n. 66.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1132.

5. Creditor having an agreement whereby one partner's share was to be paid on his part of the firm debt, held, in the absence of fraud, to have lost the right to question a partnership settlement by a delay of one year. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1132.

7. Attachment proceedings. National Broadway Bank v. Sampson [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 766.

8. Construing Rev. St. (1st Ed.) p. 764, pt. 2, c. 4, tit. 1, § 4. La Montague v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Ass'n, 94 App. Div. 219, 88 N. Y. S. 21.

9. La Montague v. Bank of New York Nat. Banking Ass'n, 94 App. Div. 219, 88 N. Y. S. 21. The money contributed having been deposited in the bank, the latter when sued by the special partnership to recover a deposit may, under a plea of payment, show that it was used in balancing the indebtedness of the old firm. Id. The rule that property of a co-partnership cannot be employed to discharge individual indebtedness had no application to the case. Id.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1134. A release by metes and bounds of a portion of land upon which a wall rests. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

11. One who had no wall but only the right to support its beams in the walls of an adjoining house agreed that on the destruction of this wall he would join in building a party wall. Finck v. Bauer, 40 Misc. 218, 81 N. Y. S. 625.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1134, n. 86. In Nebraska it is a covenant running with the land. In this case, however, the contract expressly provided that it should be binding on whoever should take from the parties to the agreement. Loyal Mystic Legion v. Jones [Neb.] 102 N. W. 621.

Note: Whether agreements to contribute to cost of party walls are personal or running covenants depends on the nature of such a contract and on the intent which it evinces. See notes 66 L. R. A. 673; 89 Am. St. Rep. 941. In construing such agreements great diversity of results comes from the variation of intent and some real conflict besides. An exhaustive collection of the authorities is made in the monographic notes cited and the cases analyzed and reconciled so far as they admit of it [Editor].

13. Kappenberger v. Fairchild [Pa.] 59 A. 986. The invalidity of such an agreement cannot be asserted as against an innocent purchaser. Id.

the right to compensation for use of a wall erected by one is personal and does not pass[14] unless the agreement expressly so provides.[15] A right of action for injury to the wall belongs to the owner at the time the injury occurred.[16] A wall built by one, the cost to be shared by the other when he uses it, is, until he uses it, the exclusive property of the builder,[17] and the fact that it becomes unfit for its intended use does not deprive him of his title to that portion standing on the land of the other.[18] If the wall becomes out of repair and dangerous, his adjoiner has no right to go on and repair it.[19] Where his building burns and he negligently permits the wall to remain standing, he is liable to the adjoining owner for any damage occasioned by its subsequent fall,[20] but if the entire wall is used by both, either proprietor may repair or rebuild.[21] If the agreement designates the dimensions and height, the height designated is a limitation beyond which neither party can go without the consent of the other;[22] but where rights are governed by building regulations[23] or in the absence of an agreement, one may carry up the wall to a greater height than required for the support of the building of the other if it causes no injury to him or to the wall.[24] One may deepen its foundations and make additions to it on his own land, if its essential character is not changed or impaired, to fit it to bear the weight of a higher building,[25] but he must exercise due care to avoid unnecessary injury to the other.[26] Any of the incidental changes which result from long use such as inclination one way or the other do not alter their rights.[27] In many states the right of one owner to build a party wall and the rights of the adjoining owner relative to it are fixed by statute.[28]

Where each adjoiner is seised of a moiety with no right of support or shelter, either may raze his building without regard to injury thereby caused the other.[29] A grant of one-half of a wall carries an easement in the portion retained and

14. A wall was erected by one under an agreement that when used by the other he should pay his proportion of the cost; the agreement to be binding on the heirs and assigns of the parties and be construed as a covenant running with the land is a personal covenant. A grantee cannot recover the compensation. Schwenker v. Picken, 91 App. Div. 367, 86 N. Y. S. 681.

15. Agreement was to pay to the builder or his grantee. Loyal Mystic Legion v. Jones [Neb.] 102 N. W. 621.

16. Under Act April 10, 1849, § 4 (P. L. 600), where such right has vested it does not pass by a subsequent conveyance. Lea v. Jones, 209 Pa. 22, 57 A. 1113.

17. Beidler v. King, 209 Ill. 302, 70 N. E. 763.

18. Where building burns. Beidler v. King, 209 Ill. 302, 70 N. E. 763.

19. Beidler v. King, 209 Ill. 302, 70 N. E. 763.

20. Negligence held a question for the jury. Beidler v. King, 209 Ill. 302, 70 N. E. 763. The adjoining owner having called his attention to the dangerous condition of the wall was not guilty of contributory negligence. Id. If it injures that portion in which the adjoining owner has an interest he is liable. Id.

21. If from use and lapse of time the wall becomes weakened. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563. "The cost of repairing or rebuilding shall be borne equally by the parties hereto, to the extent that they are each using said wall" means that each shall pay one-half the cost of repairs to that portion used by both. The cost of repairing or rebuilding that portion used exclusively by one to be borne by him. Beidler v. King, 209 Ill. 302, 70 N. E. 763.

22. Henne v. Lankershim [Cal.] 79 P. 591.

23. See Hutchins v. Munn, 22 App. D. C. 88.

24. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

25. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563. Where one owner repairs and makes more stable the foundation of a wall it will be inferred, unless otherwise shown, that the wall has been made sufficient to support a new building and that such use has not caused injury to the wall or to the property of the other owner. Id.

26. Changes which are not repairs. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

27. Full easement of use is not impaired. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

28. Under District of Columbia building regulations one may use any part of a wall already built by the other, paying for the portion he uses, or he may use it all, extend it, or build it higher. Hutchins v. Munn, 22 App. D. C. 88. A co-proprietor who does not, as required by statute, request the party building to make necessary flues, cannot use those which the builder provides for his own use. Koolbeck v. Baughn [Iowa] 101 N. W. 860.

29, 30, 31, 32. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563.

implies a reservation of an easement in the portion granted.[30] And though no change take place in the ownership of the land, the title of each owner becomes subject to the easement of the other to support his building though only a portion of the wall is used.[31] The easement of support afforded is not confined to the original building but extends to and covers a new structure that may be erected and supported by it.[32]

The provisions of the contract to build a wall may be waived by participation in acts done in disregard of it,[33] or by acquiesence in acts done under it.[34] A literal compliance with the terms of the contract is not essential to enable the party building the wall to recover from the other his proportion of the cost.[35] Where the contract contains no express promise to pay but the wall is built by one and used by the other, a promise will be implied,[36] and if the agreement does not provide that each shall pay his proportion of the cost to the contractor who builds the wall, one paying the entire cost may recover from the other.[37] Where the agreement to build has been performed, a recovery may be had under the common counts,[38] or under a special count on the agreement.[39] It is not necessary to allege a waiver of some of the provisions of the contract in order to let in evidence of it.[40]

The restoration of a wall injured by one will not be compelled at the instance of the other if he does not promptly assert his rights.[41]

A division wall takes on the character of a party wall after the prescriptive period has ripened though the right thus acquired is limited to the exact use of it by the party who claims the easement.[42]

PASSENGERS, see latest topical index.

PATENTS.

§ 1. Necessity and Kinds (929).
§ 2. Patentability (930). Abandonment (935).
§ 3. Who May Acquire Patents (935).
§ 4. Mode of Obtaining and Claiming Patents (935). Interference (937). Appeal and Review (939). Abandonment (940).
§ 5. Letters Patent (940).
§ 6. Duration of Patent Right, Surrender, and Reissues (941).
§ 7. Disclaimer and Abandonment (942).
§ 8. Titles in Patent Rights and License, Conveyance, or Transfer Thereof (942). Patent Rights as Between Employer and Employe (943). Royalties (943). Transfer (943). Licenses (944).
§ 9. Infringement (945).
A. What is (945).
B. Defenses (948).
C. Damages, Profits, and Penalties (949).
D. Remedies and Procedure (950). Injunctions (951). Pleading (952). Evidence (953). Interlocutory and Final Decrees (953).

§ 1. Necessity and kinds.—In the absence of the protection of a patent, no person can monopolize or appropriate to the exclusion of others patentable objects or processes.[43] A process patent covers a mode of treatment of materials to

33. Use of different material. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

34. A provision that the adjacent owners shall have joint supervision of the construction is deemed waived where one does not insist on his rights. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

35. Performance in all material respects is sufficient. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

36. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

37. Payment cannot be defeated by claiming that if liable he was bound to pay the contractor. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854. A contract for the construction of the wall let in accordance with the terms of the agreement is binding on the party who did not participate in the letting of such contract. Id.

38. Contract may be read in evidence for the purpose of showing its terms and the measure of damages. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

39, 40. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

41. And especially where he has a complete remedy at law. Wakeling v. Cocker, 208 Pa. 651, 57 A. 1104.

42. Fleming v. Cohen [Mass.] 71 N. E. 563. The existence of a division wall for a long period and its use in common raises a presumption of an intention to use in common rather than in severalty. Id.

43. Marvel Co. v. Pearl [C. C. A.] 133 F. 160.

produce a given result;[44] a mechanical patent covers a combination of mechanical elements which may or may not be useful in performing the acts which constitute the process;[45] design patents cover appearances only.[46]

§ 2. Patentability. Subjects of and invention.[47]—A monopoly of every means for doing a certain thing,[48] or of inherent and well known natural properties of a re-agent,[49] are not patentable; nor can devices common in other arts be patented and monopolized for the purposes of a particular art.[50] A function of a patented apparatus is not patentable.[51] The patentability of a process is to be judged by its effect.[52] A design pattern is addressed to the eye, and is to be judged by its ability to please,[53] and there is no objection to its being useful as well as ornamental.[54] In all patents, including those covering designs,[55] invention, as distinguished from mechanical skill, is essential.[56] The mere adaptation

44. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927; United States v. Allen, 22 App. D. C. 56.

45. United States v. Allen, 22 App. D. C. 56.

46. Cannot be made to cover mechanical construction of article. Royal Metal Mfg. Co. v. Art Metal Works [C. C. A.] 130 F. 778; Weisgerber v. Clowney, 131 F. 477. See 2 Curr. L. 1141, n. 92.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1134-1136.

48. An inventor claimed generally "mechanism" (without describing it) suitable for giving a certain simple mechanical movement. Diamond Match Co. v. Ruby Match Co., 127 F. 341.

49. Where patent provides for the use of such properties at a certain time, in certain quantities, and in a certain way, it does not monopolize them. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103.

50. To prevent the excessive rotation of a wheel by a stop, either positive or frictional, and to remove the stop to permit the further operation of the wheel, are features common to all machine construction. Felt & T. Mfg. Co. v. Mechanical Accountant Co., 129 F. 386.

51. In re Cunningham, 21 App. D. C. 29.

52. Not by its simplicity. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103.

53. Weisgerber v. Clowney, 131 F. 477; General Gaslight Co. v. Matchless Mfg. Co., 129 F. 137.

54. Weisgerber v. Clowney, 131 F. 477.

55. General Gaslight Co. v. Matchless Mfg. Co., 129 F. 137.

56. In re Klemm, 21 App. D. C. 186. Inventive discovery involves the intelligent apprehension of relations not before recognized by others, although actually existing, followed by the conception of how they can be practically utilized. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. Patent for product of process is void where the same product has been previously produced by other processes. Patent No. 451,847, artificial musk. Societe Fabriques de Produits Chimiques de Thann et de Mulhouse v. Lueders & Co., 135 F. 102. See 2 Curr. L. 1135, n. 6-8.

ILLUSTRATIONS. Patents held to disclose invention: Design patent No. 35,481, a cluster gas lamp. General Gaslight Co. v. Matchless Mfg. Co., 129 F. 137. No. 333,373, process for making wrought iron and steel castings. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103. Nos. 356,690 and 357,933, motor for mechanical musical instruments. Aeolian Co. v. Hallett & D. Piano Co., 134 F. 872. No. 392,387, electrical measuring apparatus. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Jewell, 128 F. 939. Same held as to claims 8, 12 and 13 of above patent. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Stevens, 130 F. 152. No. 403,247, reel for metal box straps. Cary Mfg. Co. v. Patterson Bros., 127 F. 357. No. 413,464, improvement in lanterns. Spear v. Keystone Lantern Co., 131 F. 879. No. 415,720, miner's lamp holder, claim 1. Lattimore Mfg. Co. v. Jones, 133 F. 550. Patent No. 418,678, electric switch for motors. Hammer v. Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 730. No. 424,905, weather strip. Bredin v. Sohnson, 132 F. 161. No. 434,153, incandescent lamp socket. Buchanan v. Bryant Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 922. No. 474,811, baking powder. Rumford Chemical Works v. New York Baking Powder Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 385. No. 481,134, valve mechanism for air-brakes. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 437. No. 488,033, telephone switch. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 491,012, bicycle bell. Mitter v. Mossberg, 128 F. 55, afd. 135 F. 95. No. 497,482, electric shunt. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 82. No. 537,939, apparatus for racking liquids. Golden Gate Mfg. Co. v. Newark Faucet Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 112. No. 552,729, telephone switches. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 562,616, waistbands. National Waistband Co. v. Monheit, 133 F. 310. No. 565,605, shell extractors. Stevens Arms & Tool Co. v. Davenport [C. C. A.] 134 F. 869. No. 591,869, electric transformer. General Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 772. No. 597,686, counter seats. Milner Seating Co. v. Yesbera [C. C. A.] 133 F. 916. No. 604,191, improved vessels for containing and administering volatile liquids. Fries v. Leeming, 131 F. 765. No. 616,425, hydrocarbon burner. United Blue Flame Oil Stove Co. v. Silver & Co., 133 F. 47. No. 638,540, combined abdominal pad and stocking supporter. Young v. Wolfe [C. C. A.] 130 F. 891. No. 652,407, garment fastener. Lowrie v. Meldrum Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 886. No. 682,448, comb for retaining the hair. Bechtold v. Nowacke, 131 F. 275.

Patents held void for lack of invention: No. 346,899, baseboard and wainscoting construction. Decker v. Sanford, 135 F. 112. No. 347,778, safety-break for elevators, claim 6. Eaton & Prince Co. v. Wadsworth [C. C.

of well known methods of one art to another,[57] or the application of an old process to a similar subject,[58] or the uniting of two parts into one,[59] or the carrying forward of the original thought,[60] or making a temporary device permanent,[61] do not, as a general rule, involve invention, though the contrary is true where one contrives to dispense with useless parts,[62] or makes a practical, beneficial application of a known principle.[63] Double patenting is not allowable even to the same patentee,[64] though he may obtain a second patent broader than the first and embracing the latter.[65] A combination of old elements is not patentable unless the result is a new and useful article,[66] and one which would not suggest

A.] 130 F. 702. No. 367,252, elevated gravity and cable railway. Thompson Scenic R. Co. v. Chestnut Hill Casino Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 698. No. 415,720, miner's lamp holder, claim 2. Lattimore Mfg. Co. v. Jones, 133 F. 550. No. 429,516, smokeless powder, claim 2. Wolff v. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 862. No. 449,106, telephone apparatus. Western Elec. Co. v. Anthracite Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 547. No. 461,357, knitting machines, claim 11. Mayo Knitting Mach. & Needle Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 527. No. 470,340, electrical measuring instrument. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Stevens [C. C. A.] 134 F. 574. No. 480,093, shell for wheel hubs. Higgin Mfg. Co. v. Murdock [C. C. A.] 132 F. 810. No. 498,962, draft tube for soda fountains, claims 1 and 5. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Sample [C. C. A.] 130 F. 145, rvg. 126 F. 760. No. 531,711, flooring. Wilce v. Bush Temple of Music Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 389. No. 559,411, telephone signal apparatus. Western Elec. Co. v. Rochester Tel. Co., 132 F. 814. No. 599,447, claim 1, improvement in bowling alleys. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Klumpp [C. C. A.] 131 F. 255. No. 600,186, fireproof window. Voightmann v. Weis & Ridge Cornice Co., 133 F. 298. No. 617,592, electrical hand lamp, claims 1, 2 and 4. American Electrical Novelty & Mfg. Co. v. Howard Electrical Novelty Co., 131 F. 495. No. 520,429, for an electric battery. Id. Nos. 623,857 and 624,597, card records. Liberty Bureau v. Fred Macey Co., 134 F. 886. Nos. 627,898 and 627,900, car trucks. North Jersey St. R. Co. v. Brill [C. C. A.] 134 F. 580. No. 629,391, stocking supporter. Kleinart Rubber Co. v. Stein [C. C. A.] 133 F. 228. No. 648,309, elevator guard, consisting of board extending downward from the doorsill of an elevator. Spencer Elevator Safety Guard Co. v. Beifeld [C. C. A.] 130 F. 888. No. 669,011, for flat knit caps. Kahn v. Starrells, 131 F. 464. Patent for improvement in chairs having adjustable back, and one for a similar device as an improvement in articles of furniture having a swinging member, are in the same art; only mechanical skill being required to adapt the device to the different articles. Cook & Co. v. Heywood Bros. & Wakefield Co., 131 F. 755. Improvement in process of pillmaking. In re Colton, 21 App. D. C. 17. Seam for sewed articles. In re Klemm, 21 App. D. C. 186. Vulcanizing a rubber sole directly to inner sole of shoe. In re Butterfield, 23 App. D. C. 84. Perforating end of neck of powder can instead of elsewhere. In re Seabury, 23 App. D. C. 377.

57. Patent No. 565,263, for an apparatus for separating gases from liquids, held void. Drewson v. Hartje Paper Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 734. See 2 Curr. L. 1135, n. 12, 13.

58. Patent No. 433,088, for a water meter, held void. Neptune Meter Co. v. National Meter Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 563.

59. Patent No. 718,378, for an insulating lining for lamp sockets, is void. General Elec. Co. v. Yost Elec. Mfg. Co., 131 F. 874.

60. Voightmann v. Weis & Ridge Cornice Co., 133 F. 298.

61. In re Seabury, 23 App. D. C. 377.

62. Where they performed specific functions. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

Brown v. Huntington Piano Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 735, afg. 131 F. 273, where patent No. 468,077, for improvements in music desks for pianos, discloses patentable invention. Lane v. Levi, 21 App. D. C. 168. A patentee of combination who has made claims for distinct parts cannot afterwards prove that one of such described parts is not essential. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1136, n. 24.

63. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167.

64. Patents Nos. 694,534 and 694,535 are void in view of patent No. 555,640. Davis Calyx Drill Co. v. Plunger Elevator Co., 135 F. 119. Patent, No. 453,955, elevator controlling mechanism, held void. Otis Elevator Co. v. Portland Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 557. Substantial difference is required to render two several devices patentable as designs. Change, omission or addition of a few minor details of ornamentation is insufficient. In re Freeman, 23 App. D. C. 226.

65. Otis Elevator Co. v. Portland Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 557; Sawyer Spindle Co. v. Carpenter, 133 F. 238. A patent for a generic invention is not invalidated by reason of the issue of a previous patent for improvements thereon. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 853. A prior patent for a device does not defeat a patent for a combination of which such device forms one element. Spear v. Keystone Lantern Co., 131 F. 879.

66. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79; Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342; Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758; In re Klemm, 21 App. D. C. 186. A patentable compound or composition of matter is one produced by the intermixture of two or more specific ingredients, possessing properties pertaining to none of those ingredients separately, thereby accomplishing a new and useful result. Lane v. Levi, 21 App. D. C. 168. The identity of a composition depends, in general, upon the identity of its ingredients and of their co-operative law, as well as upon the identity of the properties and effect of the composition as a whole. Id.

Valid patented combinations: No. 357,538, spring-jack telephone switches. Western itself to an ordinarily intelligent mind experienced in the art.[67] The parts of the combination must co-operate mechanically,[68] though it is not necessary that they co-operate all the time.[69] The mere substitution of equivalent, known devices[70] or ingredients[71] does not create a patentable combination. The unsuccessful efforts of other inventors in the same direction,[72] and the utility and commercial success of the article,[73] are evidence of invention, though not of themselves sufficient to establish such fact,[74] and no extent of use can supply the want of actual invention or cure the vice of mere aggregation.[75]

Novelty[76] is essential to all patents,[77] and this requisite is not created by lack of knowledge, on the part of the patentee, of former patents.[78] That the existing art has been somewhat drawn upon is insufficient to negative novelty, where the treatment is new and independent and the result novel.[79] One may become estopped to claim novelty.[80] The fact that the file wrapper discloses the patent to have been granted as first applied for, without any references, diminishes the presumption of novelty arising from the grant.[81]

Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. Nos. 393,278 and 396,313, relating to trolley crossings and switches. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 130 F. 542. No. 394,039, insulating turn-buckle. Id. No. 492,913, electric cigar lighter, claims 5 and 10. Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342. No. 600,151, automatic rib-knitting machine. McMichael & Wildman Mfg. Co. v. Ruth [C. C. A.] 128 F. 706. No. 548,394, for a saw-stretching machine. Rich v. Baldwin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 920. No. 556,972, claim 2, improvements in rotary disc plows. Sanders v. Hancock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 424. No. 626,927, incandescent lamp socket. Perkins Elec. Switch Mfg. Co. v. Buchanan & Co., 129 F. 134, afd. 135 F. 90.

Void patented combinations: No. 492,913, for an electric cigar lighter, claim 1. Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342. No. 600,180, fireproof window. Voightman v. Perkinson, 133 F. 934. Combination of an advertising-catalogue and desk-pad or blotter. In re Davenport, 23 App. D. C. 370. Adding screw cap to perforated cover of powder can. In re Seabury, 23 App. D. C. 377.

67. No. 307,942, gravity tramway, held void. Thompson Scenic R. Co. v. Chestnut Hill Casino Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 698.

68. A mechanism operated by hand lever to lift another part out of position where the machine is stopped constitutes a mere aggregation. Diamond Match Co. v. Ruby Match Co., 127 F. 341.

69. It is enough that, in the normal and progressive use of the machine, they do so some of the time. Sanders v. Hancock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 424.

70. Rich v. Baldwin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 920. See 2 Curr. L. 1136, n. 16.

71. Lane v. Levi, 21 App. D. C. 168. See 2 Curr. L. 1136, n. 16.

72. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. See 2 Curr. L. 1135, n. 9.

73. Raymond v. Keystone Lantern Co., 132 F. 30; Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 130 F. 542. No. 366,362, claim 4, improvements in electrical converters, sustained. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. American Transformer Co., 130 F. 550. No. 429,021, ventilating barrel. Farmers' Mfg. Co. v. Spruks Mfg. Co., 127 F. 691. No. 559,827, for featherbone, held valid. Warren Featherbone Co. v. American Featherbone Co., 133 F. 304. No. 574,894, hat ring, held valid. Ferry v. Waring Hat Mfg. Co., 129 F. 389. Improvements rendering an article commercially practicable will generally be upheld as disclosing invention. No. 439,086, coin purse, held valid. Albright v. Langfeld, 131 F. 473.

74. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927. Where use was due to cheapness of device. General Elec. Co. v. Yost Elec. Mfg. Co., 131 F. 874; Kahn v. Starrells, 131 F. 464. See 2 Curr. L. 1135, n. 10; Id. 1136, n. 23, 27.

75. Voightmann v. Weis & R. Cornice Co., 133 F. 298.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1136.

77. Design patent. Weisgerber v. Clowney, 131 F. 477. See 2 Curr. L. 1136, n. 28, 29.

Patents possessing novelty: Nos. 343,829 and 401,848, folding trestles. Chicago Wooden Ware Co. v. Miller Ladder Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 541. No. 503,103, machine for delinting cotton. American Delinter Co. v. American Machinery & Construction Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 709.

Patents void for lack of novelty: No. 477,616, improvement in electric annunciator drops, claim 1. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 457. Nos. 527,634 and 527,537, improvements in disc water meters. National Meter Co. v. Neptune Meter Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 124. No. 669,011, flat knit caps. Kahn v. Starrells, 131 F. 464. No. 696,670, combination of axial and radial insulators for sparking plugs. Folger v. Dow Portable Elec. Co., 128 F. 45, afd. 133 F. 295.

78. Sanders v. Hancock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 424.

79. Patent No. 523,111, knitting machine, held valid. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

80. That claim finally allowed was included in rejected part does not estop the inventor from asserting the novelty thereof, where defendant is sought to be held for infringement of the whole combination of which it forms a part. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

81. American Soda Fountain Co. v. Sample [C. C. A.] 130 F. 145, rvg. 126 F. 760, cited 2 Curr. L. 1137, n. 33.

Anticipation[82] in a prior invention is fatal to the validity of the patent.[83] The former device must be capable of practical operation,[84] or so described

82. See 2 Curr. L. 1137.

83. Patents anticipated [2 Curr. L. 1137, n. 38]: No. 24,915, a copper tube. American Tube Works v. Bridgewater Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 16. No. 346,899, baseboard and wainscoting construction. Decker v. Sanford, 135 F. 112. No. 364,217, mold for boot and shoe heels. Greene v. United Shoe Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 973. No. 583,585, device for controlling operation of gas engines. Westinghouse Mach. Co. v. Press Pub. Co., 127 F. 822. No. 507,300, cloth-measuring machine. Windle v. Parks & W. Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 381. No. 513,998, core making machine. Brown v. Crane Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 235. No. 524,178, for a packing. Daniel v. Restein & Co., 131 F. 469. No. 575,154, stone planing machine. Lincoln Ironworks v. McWhirter Co., 131 F. 860. No. 667,916, couch-bed. Merrimac Mattress Co. v. Feldman, 133 F. 64.

Patents not anticipated [2 Curr. L. 1137, n. 38]: Reissue patent No. 11,685 (original No. 540,072), bottle stopper. Ideal Stopper Co. v. Brown Cork & Seal Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 244. No. 333,373, process for making wrought iron and steel castings. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103. No. 354,281, dyeing apparatus. Kauder-Weldon Dyeing Mach. Co. v. Steadwell Dyeing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 724. Nos. 356,690 and 357,933, motor for mechanical musical instruments. Aeolian Co. v. Hallett & D. Piano Co., 134 F. 872. No. 359,354, car seat. Hale & K. Mfg. Co. v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 129 F. 598. No. 369,120, portable drilling machine. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 131 F. 257. No. 371,431, water-closet valve. Kenney Mfg. Co. v. Wells & N. Co., 135 F. 101. No. 381,527, manufacturing jewelers' plated wire. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927. No. 392,387, electrical measuring apparatus. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Jewell, 128 F. 939. Same held as to claims 8, 12, and 13 of above patent. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Stevens, 130 F. 152. Nos. 393,278 and 396,313, trolley crossings and switches. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 130 F. 542. No. 413,464, improvement in lanterns. Spear v. Keystone Lantern Co., 131 F. 879. No. 418,678, electric switch for motors. Hammer v. Cutler Hammer Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 730. No. 421,244, improvement in method of hulling peas. Chisholm v. Fleming, 133 F. 924. Nos. 424,291 and 583,320, instruments for measuring elapsed time. Calculagraph Co. v. Wilson, 132 F. 20. No. 424,905, weather strip. Bredin v. Solmson, 132 F. 161. No. 429,874, stone sawing machine wherein the saw is moved against stone, instead of latter being fed to saw as in machines of the prior art. Diamond Stone Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown, 130 F. 896. No. 434,153, incandescent lamp socket. Buchanan v. Bryant Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 922. No. 468,006, boottree. Fitz v. Leadan, 132 F. 659. No. 475,401, oil burner, claim 1. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 853. No. 481,134, valve mechanism for air-brakes. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 437. No. 488,033, telephone switch. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 491,012, bicycle bell. Mutter v. Moseberg, 128 F. 55, afd. 135 F. 95. No. 491,972, logwood extract. Hemolin Co. v. Harway Dyewood & Extract Mfg. Co., 131 F. 483. Nos. 492,205 and 526,968, machines for coating confectionery. American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919. Nos. 459,883 and 508,542, ore roasting furnace. Davis-Colby Ore Roaster Co. v. Lackawanna Iron & Steel Co., 128 F. 453. No. 497,482, electric shunt. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 82. No. 498,196, railroad switch-stand. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730. No. 503,103, machine for delinting cotton seed. American Delinter Co. v. American Machinery & Construction Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 709. No. 507,300, device for varying length of circumference of cylinder in cloth measuring machine. Windle v. Parks & W. Mach. Co., 128 F. 58. Nos. 511,559 and 511,560, former for a method and latter for a means of operating electric motors. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Electric Appliance Co., 133 F. 396; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 129 F. 213; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167, rvg. 129 F. 140. No. 521,461, telephone switch board in which fallen annunciator is automatically restored to position. Western Tel. Mfg. Co. v. American Elec. Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 75. No. 552,729, telephone switches. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 559,827, featherbone. Warren Featherbone Co. v. American Featherbone Co., 133 F. 304. No. 562,616, waistbands. National Waistband Co. v. Monheit, 133 F. 310. No. 574,894, hat ring. Ferry v. Waring Hat Mfg. Co., 129 F. 389. No. 575,154, stone planing machine, claim 8. Lincoln Ironworks v. McWhirter Co., 131 F. 860. No. 580,434, improvement in telephone transmitters. Stromberg-Carlson Tel. Mfg. Co. v. American Elec. Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 704. No. 583,560, log turning and loading device. Wilkin v. Hill, 131 F. 762. No. 589,342, tip for acetylene gas burner. Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 599. No. 591,869, electric transformer. General Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 772. No. 592,134, knitting machine. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. No. 595,688, for a warp stop-motion for looms. American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919; Kip-Armstrong Co. v. King Philip Mills, 130 F. 28. No. 604,191, improved vessels for containing and administering volatile liquids. Fries v. Leeming, 131 F. 765. No. 613,545, hydrant. Cayuta Wheel & Foundry Co. v. Kennedy Valve Mfg. Co., 127 F. 355. No. 616,425, hydrocarbon burner. United Blue Flame Oil Stove Co. v. Silver & Co., 133 F. 47. No. 626,927, incandescent lamp socket. Perkins Elec. Switch Mfg. Co. v. Buchanan & Co., 129 F. 134, afd. 135 F. 90. No. 633,941, dredger for pulverulent material. Arrott v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co., 131 F. 457. No. 638,540, combined abdominal pad and stocking supporter. Young v. Wolfe [C. C. A.] 130 F. 891. No. 642,059, guides in machine for ornamenting picture frames. Franklin & Co. v.

that an ordinarily skilled mechanic could convert it into a practical success;[85] but it is not necessary that it should have gone into general use,[86] and being once reduced to practice and exhibited, it cannot be abandoned so as to change its effect as an anticipating article.[87] The effect of a patent as anticipation is to be determined by the date it was issued,[88] and its validity must be sustained solely on features claimed.[89] Increase in efficiency due to the use of different materials, which, however, are not claimed as a feature, does not avoid anticipation.[90] An unpatented device of the same inventor cannot be regarded as part of the prior art.[91] As to whether a prescribed arrangement anticipates the opposite thereof, there seems to be a conflict.[92] A patentee is only required to meet alleged anticipation by publication with full, unequivocal and convincing proof.[93] That defendant has been very successful in sale of infringing article is persuasive evidence against him on the defense of anticipation.[94]

Prior public[95] use for two years before filing the application renders the patent void, unless the use was fraudulent, surreptitious and piratical.[96] An inventor has a reasonable time in which to experiment for the purpose of perfecting the invention and demonstrating its utility,[97] the time thus spent, if in good faith, is no part of the statute of limitations;[98] but the experiments must be made in perfecting the invention as described and shown,[99] and as soon as the inven-

Illinois Moulding Co., 128 F. 48. No. 652,407, garment fastener. Lowrie v. Meldrum Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 886. No. 692,655, means for converting a single disc plow into a plurality disc plow, and the converse. Sanders v. Hancock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 424. Device for flatly fastening an initial on a finger ring. In re Weiss, 21 App. D. C. 214.

84. Hale & Kilburn Mfg. Co. v. Oneonta, etc. R. Co., 129 F. 598; Farmers' Mfg. Co. v. Spruks Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 691. See 2 Curr. L. 1138, n. 41.

85. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 131 F. 257; Ideal Stopper Co. v. Crown Cork & Seal Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 244. It is not a sufficient answer to say of any alleged anticipation that it was a mere paper patent, and had not been operative or commercially successful; for prior existing conditions might not have stimulated full development. Id. Description in a prior publication must be of a complete and operative invention, capable of being put into practical operation. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730.

86. Merrimac Mattress Mfg. Co. v. Feldman, 133 F. 64. It is sufficient if it was in actual and practical use by a number of persons. Daniel v. Restein & Co., 131 F. 469.

87. Subsequent changes held ineffective. Merrimac Mattress Co. v. Feldman, 133 F. 64.

88. Not by the date of application. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

89. Cannot be supported by features not referred to, claimed, or even suggested in the patent, and not a function of the thing patented except when used in a special combination not claimed. Greene v. United Shoe Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 973.

90. Daniel v. Restein & Co., 131 F. 469.

91. So as to create anticipation, or prevent him from drawing upon it in the development of his ideas, where it has not been relinquished by two years prior use or sale. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. But see 2 Curr. L. 1138, n. 49.

92. Moving bottles through heated water is not anticipated by process of circulating heated water around bottles. In re Wagner, 22 App. D. C. 267. Moving saw against stone instead of stone against saw discloses patentable novelty. Diamond Stone Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown, 130 F. 896. An alternative construction is an equivalent. Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342. Expanding an inner tube, instead of compressing an outer one, constitutes infringement. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927.

93. Need not establish it beyond a reasonable doubt. Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167.

94. Milner Seating Co. v. Yesbera [C. C. A.] 133 F. 916.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1139. Prior application can have weight only if there has been some actual use of the invention, so that there may be elements of publicity. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 130 F. 542. No. 559,827, featherbone, held valid. Warren Featherbone Co. v. American Featherbone Co., 133 F. 304.

Patents construed with reference to prior use: No. 42,920, pump for fire engine, void. Eastman v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 844. No. 474,811, baking powder, held valid. Rumford Chemical Works v. New York Baking Powder Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 385. Evidence held insufficient to show prior use of electric shunt protected by patent No. 497,482. Western Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 82.

96. Eastman v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 844. Where inventor knew of use and acquiesced therein held not fraudulent or surreptitious. Id.

97, 98. Eastman v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 844.

99. Eastman v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 844. Experiments made in testing parts of a machine not covered by the invention will not have the effect of extending the two-year period. Id.

tion is completed, viz.: "in such a condition that the inventor can apply for a patent for it," the two-year period begins to run.[1] The fact that the invention has been improved since its original embodiment does not demonstrate that it was then embryonic or incomplete.[2] That delay is caused by advice of solicitor does not prevent the running of the statute.[3] In the absence of a sufficient publication, a prior use in a foreign country will not defeat the patent here.[4] The defense of prior use must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt,[5] but when it is established, the burden is on the inventor to prove by convincing proof that the use was experimental.[6]

Abandonment.[7]—The inventor must exercise due diligence in the assertion of his claim,[8] and doing so he cannot be deprived of the right to his invention except by express contract or by a course of conduct that fairly gives rise to an implication of an intention to part with it.[9] Though it has been held that abandonment is not to be predicated from mere delay,[10] failure to exercise reasonable diligence going merely to the question whether one should be given a patent as against intervening rights.[11] To delay one invention for the sake of another projected invention to be used in connection with it, and which may never be realized, cannot be construed as an exercise of due diligence.[12]

§ 3. Who may acquire patents.[13]

§ 4. Mode of obtaining and claiming patents.[14]—Separate inventions in the same structure need not be claimed in the same patent.[15] A claim for a machine and one for the process for using it cannot be joined in the same application,[16] though the claim for the machine may be joined with one for the means of using it.[17] The invention being a compound, the component parts thereof, the process of their intermixture and the result must be described with clearness and precision;[18] if a design, a picture is the best mode of description;[19] and if a mechanical device, it is not necessary that the description or drawings should be clear to one unskilled in the art,[20] and each is to be construed with reference to

1, 2, 3. Eastman v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 844.

4. Rev. St. § 4923. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730.

5. Recollection of a single witness, whose knowledge largely depended upon information obtained from importers, held insufficient. Albright v. Langfeld, 131 F. 473. Uncorroborated testimony of a single witness held insufficient. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730. Mere unsupported say-so of inventor and son as to date of invention is insufficient to show priority. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. See 2 Curr. L. 1139, n. 59.

6. Eastman v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 844.

7. See 2 Curr. L. 1141.

8. Where year after conceiving invention applicant made a crude machine which he afterward destroyed, held only an abandoned experiment. Hallwood v. Lalor, 21 App. D. C. 61. Delay of over a year by inventor with means held to show lack of diligence. Id. Lack of means and efforts to enlist capital held not to excuse two years' delay. Wyman v. Donnelly, 21 App. D. C. 81. 26 months' delay held not due diligence, another party meanwhile filing an application for a similar patent. Watson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 65. Retaining device for four years after practical experiment, held to show abandonment. Quist v. Ostrom, 23 App. D. C. 69. Query,—as to whether it did not constitute such concealment as to subordinate claims to those of rival. Id.

9. Sendelbach v. Gillette, 22 App. D. C. 168.

10. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. Three years delay held not to show failure to exercise due diligence. Id.

11. It has no bearing on the issue whether or not he was the first inventor. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

12. Lotterhand v. Hanson, 23 App. D. C. 372.

13, 14. See 2 Curr. L. 1139.

15. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 130 F. 542.

16. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co., 131 F. 740. See 2 Curr. L. 1141, n. 90.

17. United States v. Allen, 192 U. S. 543, 48 Law. Ed. 555. Rule 41 of the patent office is invalid. Id.

18. Lane v. Levl, 21 App. D. C. 168. See 2 Curr. L. 1139, n. 68.

19. In re Freeman, 23 App. D. C. 226. Comment by commissioner of patents on inutility of descriptive language contained in applicant's specifications cannot properly be made the ground of assignment of error. Id.

20. Description. Wolff v. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 862. Drawings and description need not show or state every detail. American Dellnter Co. v. Amer-the other,[21] though the drawings cannot supply an entire absence of description in the specifications,[22] and any inferences arising from omissions or inconsistencies in the drawings must yield to a legally sufficient specification.[23] The claims must be read in the light of the specifications and drawings, and if from the whole a person skillful in the art can construct the thing invented, the patent is sufficient.[24] A party desiring to have a model or drawing guarded against accident that may thereafter result from frequent handling, should have it particularly described in respect to appearance, construction, and operation at the time he offers it in evidence.[25] An inventor may amend his application so as to include therein all matters within the scope of his invention,[26] but he cannot thereby enlarge the same.[27]

The right to a patent is to be determined in the first instance by the patent office,[28] and all proceedings therein are presumptively correct,[29] and the grant of a patent is presumptive evidence of an application in due form, commensurate with the grant,[30] and that the patent is valid.[31] In regard to the validity of patents, decisions of other circuit courts of appeals carry great weight.[32] The date of the letters patent is prima facie the date of the application, and the latter date of the date of invention.[33] Rev. St. § 4885, providing that every patent shall be issued not later than six months after notice of allowance, is merely directory.[34] The renewal of an application where one fails to pay his fees must be made within two years after the allowance of the first.[35] A petition for the revival of an application being denied, a new application filed thereafter stands on the same footing ican Machinery & Construction Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 709. Failure to show a feed screw or an equivalent device in drawings for a cotton delinting machine held not to invalidate the patent. Id.

21. Western Telephone Mfg. Co. v. American Elec. Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 75; Windle v. Parks & Woolson Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 381. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1142, n. 99-3.

22. Windle v. Parks & Woolson Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 381.

23. Western Telephone Mfg. Co. v. American Elec. Telephone Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 75.

24. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 82. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1142, n. 99-3. An element of a combination, although not definitely described in the claims, except by reference to the specification by the words "substantially as described" at the end of each claim, may be read into the claims where it is fully described in the specification, and is essential to the operation of the machine. Sanders v. Hancock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 424.

25. Greenwood v. Dover, 23 App. D. C. 251.

26. An inventor coming to better understand the principles of his invention, he may amend his application to conform thereto. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 853. Where matter was previously disclosed, amendment was held to dominate claims of another claimant, otherwise as to new matter. Luger v. Browning, 21 App. D. C. 201. Amendment was filed within three months, rights of other inventors considered. Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 599.

27. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co., 131 F. 740.

28. Standard Scale & Foundry Co. v. McDonald, 127 F. 709.

29. Charge by rival inventor that patentee fraudulently and surreptitiously obtained patent can be sustained only by the clearest proof. Sendelbach v. Gillette, 22 App. D. C. 168.

30. Bowers v. Bucyrus Co., 132 F. 39.

31. That an expert, having the patent before him might build up the structure covered thereby, by selecting and applying appliances theretofore known does not rebut such presumption. McMichael & Wildman Mfg. Co. v. Ruth [C. C. A.] 128 F. 706. That prior patents were called to the attention of the examiners strengthens the presumption that the patent was not anticipated. Hale & Kilburn Mfg. Co. v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 129 F. 598. Patents regular on their face cannot be collaterally attacked. Calculagraph Co. v. Wilson, 132 F. 20. Evidence held insufficient to overcome presumption that patentee was inventor. Patent No. 718,130, feed mechanism for carding machines, involved. Kemp v. McBride, 129 F. 382.

32. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167. Where after interference proceedings the patent was acquiesced in for years and sustained by judicial decision, such facts have weight in favor of its validity. Id.

33. Drewson v. Hartje Paper Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 734.

34. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79.

35. Rev. St. § 4897. Reissue patent No. 10,945 (original 381,305), for an electrical conductor held void. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 90. The court states that in its opinion Rev. St. § 4897 allows only one renewal application. Id.

as though no previous application had been made.[36] One may become estopped to insist on his application for a patent.[37]

Interference.[38]—That the primary examiner failed to make formal allowance of claims before declaring the interference is immaterial.[39] The first to conceive an invention being diligent in reducing it to practice is entitled to priority,[40] and such reduction to practice being subsequent to that of a rival, the controversy between the parties is reduced to the question of diligence.[41] Neither party making an actual reduction to practice, the first to conceive and make disclosure is entitled to priority.[42] To constitute reduction to practice,[43] the machine must be capable of performing the work for which it was designed,[44] and nothing must be left to inference.[45] Lack of diligence cannot be imputed to the party who first reduces to practice,[46] though he may lose the priority thus obtained by being negligent in applying for his patent.[47] The date of filing the application is prima facie the date of conception, disclosure and constructive reduction to practice.[48] For the purpose of constructive reduction to practice, a second application relates back to a former one allowed and abandoned.[49] Foreign inventors are entitled to claim the date they communicated their invention here as the date of conception, and the date of filing their application here as the date of constructive reduction to practice.[50] That one at the time of filing his application has a better invention for the same thing is improbable.[51] Failure to prove allegations as alleged tends to discredit.[52] A party cannot claim disclosure of patent where to do so would ren-

36. To authorize the granting of a patent thereon, it must appear that the invention had not been in public use or on sale in this country for more than two years prior to such application. Hayes-Young Tie Plate Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 130 F. 900.

37. Inventor applied for patent, uniting process and apparatus claims, and required process claims to be placed in interference with those of an existing patent, after receipt of a letter from primary examiner permitting retention of both claims pending determination of the interference, but stating that the acceptance of an interference on one of the process claims would be considered an election to prosecute such claims, and prosecution of apparatus claims would not thereafter be permitted. Held, the inventor was not estopped to insist on his application for a patent. United States v. Allen, 192 U. S. 543, 48 Law. Ed. 555.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1140.

39. Luger v. Browning, 21 App. D. C. 201.

40. Hillard v. Brooks, 23 App. D. C. 526. Junior applicant, as against patentee, must show reasonable diligence in reducing to practice. Dashiell v. Tasker, 21 App. D. C. 64. Delay in filing application caused by loss of drawings held not to show want of reasonable diligence in reducing to practice. Garrels v. Freeman, 21 App. D. C. 207. Eight months delay held to constitute a lack of diligence. Liberman v. Williams, 23 App. D. C. 223. Party conceiving invention and constructively reducing it to practice before another is entitled to priority. Lotterhand v. Hanson, 23 App. D. C. 372. See 2 Curr. L. 1140, n. 72, 73.

41. Liberman v. Williams, 23 App. D. C. 223.

42. Greenwood v. Dover, 23 App. D. C. 251.

43. Facts constituting reduction to practice: Inventor's test of ejecting mechanism on match machine, though real matches were not used. Wyman v. Donnelly, 21 App. D. C. 81. Making full-sized horse collar, exhibiting it and putting it on sale. Couch v. Barnett, 23 App. D. C. 446.

Facts not constituting reduction to practice: Temporary use and abandonment for two years. Hillard v. Brooks, 23 App. D. C. 526. Abandonment for four years. Tripler v. Linde, 21 App. D. C. 32.

44. MacDonald v. Edison, 21 App. D. C. 527. No reduction to practice of breech mechanism for rapid firing guns until tested by actual service. Dashiell v. Tasker, 21 App. D. C. 64. Where after actual test for three years, party came to conclusion that another device was necessary in order to perfect machine, held not an admission that invention without such device was inoperative. Trissel v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 219. See 2 Curr. L. 1140, n. 77.

45. Must embrace all elements of combination. Blackford v. Wilder, 21 App. D. C. 1.

46. Paul v. Johnson, 23 App. D. C. 187.

47. Two years delay is a circumstance of significance (Sendelbach v. Gillette, 22 App. D. C. 168), though insufficient to deprive him of his priority (Brown v. Blood, 22 App. D. C. 216). Nonuse for 10 years and ridicule of invention when announced by another, held to discredit claim of priority. Talbot v. Monell, 23 App. D. C. 108. Junior applicant must show reasonable diligence in reducing to practice. Dashiell v. Tasker, 21 App. D. C. 64.

48. Dashiell v. Tasker, 21 App. D. C. 64.

49. Lotterhand v. Hanson, 23 App. D. C. 372.

50. Harris v. Stern, 22 App. D. C. 164.

51. Sachs v. Hundhausen, 21 App. D. C. 511.

52. Both parties failing to prove reduction to practice as alleged, held to indicate such a reprehensible looseness of assertion in the preliminary statements as to tend to disder him guilty of perjury.[53] The junior applicant has the burden of showing priority of invention and the exercise of due diligence,[54] and this burden is substantially increased where there are successive adverse decisions against him in the patent office,[55] or his opponent has a regularly[56] issued patent,[57] and this burden is increased if the two last elements coexist.[58] However, if the junior party shows a disclosure and reduction to practice prior to the filing of the senior party's application,[59] or that the latter received a disclosure of the junior party's conception,[60] the senior party must prove with reasonable certainty that such fact did not affect his priority. The rights of third persons not parties to the proceeding are immaterial.[61] Pure mistakes of fact will not generally be construed against a party.[62] One party adopting the claims and specifications of his adversary, it is proper to construe the issues of the interference thereupon declared in the light of the specifications from which they were thus taken.[63] So far as the interference proceedings are concerned the question whether or not an applicant has the right to make the claim put in issue is determined and becomes res judicata, by the declaration of interference.[64] Where the application of one of the parties to an interference is only a division of an application theretofore filed, he is entitled to the filing date of his first application for the purposes of the interference.[65] In the absence of harm or prejudice, a variance between the dates in the preliminary statement and those shown in the proof is immaterial.[66]

An application for a patent filed in a foreign patent office affords no evidence credit both parties. Shaffer v. Dolan, 23 App. D. C. 79.

53. Cannot be claimed in violation of oath that the article had never been patented by him. Tripler v. Linde, 21 App. D. C. 32.

54. Paul v. Johnson, 23 App. D. C. 187; Flora v. Powrie, 23 App. D. C. 195; Herman v. Fullman, 23 App. D. C. 259; Whitney v. Howard, 21 App. D. C. 218; McKnight v. Pohle, 22 App. D. C. 219. By a preponderance of evidence. Flather v. Weber, 21 App. D. C. 179. Junior applicant can only prevail by showing conception of the invention prior to the conception of his adversary. Cobb v. Goebel, 23 App. D. C. 75. See 2 Curr. L. 1140, n. 74.

Evidence held insufficient to establish priority of junior party. Whitney v. Howard, 21 App. D. C. 218; Flora v. Powrie, 23 App. D. C. 195; McKnight v. Pohle, 22 App. D. C. 219. Oral, unsupported and contradicted evidence. Arrott v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co., 131 F. 457. Conception and disclosure are not established where evidence shows that at the date in question the party had in mind the result to be accomplished but not the means. Cobb v. Goebel, 23 App. D. C. 75. Evidence as to sickness considered and the fact that applicant had filed nine applications during period of alleged sickness considered and held to show lack of diligence. Paul v. Johnson, 23 App. D. C. 187. Held, on the evidence, that an employe did not have an invention during his first period of employment by a certain company. Slaughter v. Halle, 21 App. D. C. 19. The first who reduces an idea to practice, not the first who says he has conceived an invention, is the inventor. Merrimac Mattress Co. v. Feldman, 133 F. 64.

Held sufficient to award priority to junior party. Flather v. Weber, 21 App. D. C. 179. Burden is met when the evidence shows with certainty that junior party conceived invention before the filing of his opponent's application. Garrels v. Freeman, 21 App. D. C. 207.

55. Hallwood v. Lalor, 21 App. D. C. 61; Harris v. Stern, 22 App. D. C. 164; McKnight v. Pohle, 22 App. D. C. 219. See 2 Curr. L. 1140, n. 75.

56. Quist v. Ostrom, 23 App. D. C. 69. Patent inadvertently granted to wrong party will not avail him in interference proceedings. Watson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 65; Shaffer v. Dolan, 23 App. D. C. 79.

57. Must prove facts beyond a reasonable doubt. Dashiell v. Tasker, 21 App. D. C. 64; Meyer v. Sarfert, 21 App. D. C. 26; Sendelbach v. Gillette, 22 App. D. C. 168; Gallagher v. Hastings, 21 App. D. C. 88. See 2 Curr. L. 1140, n. 76.

58. Talbot v. Monell, 23 App. D. C. 108; MacDonald v. Edison, 21 App. D. C. 527.

59. Herman v. Fullman, 23 App. D. C. 259.

60. Greenwood v. Dover, 23 App. D. C. 251.

61. Whether conception of one party was an appropriation of invention of associate cannot be inquired into in a proceeding to which such associate is not a party. Garrels v. Freeman, 21 App. D. C. 207. Testimony by senior party to show that a third person, not a party to the proceeding, was the original inventor and not the junior party, will not be considered. Brown v. Blood, 22 App. D. C. 216.

62. Where a junior party signed application of the senior party, but supposed it was for their joint benefit, that act should not be construed against him. Flather v. Weber, 21 App. D. C. 179.

63. Talbot v. Monell, 23 App. D. C. 108.

64. Herman v. Fullman, 23 App. D. C. 259.

65. Hillard v. Brooks, 23 App. D. C. 526.

66. Date of reduction to practice. Herman v. Fullman, 23 App. D. C. 259.

of priority of invention,[67] but a foreign patent is competent evidence on an issue of priority, though only as of the date when it actually became a patent.[68] Microscopic examination made by the examiners in the patent office is admissible in evidence and presumed to be correct.[69] The testimony of a witness naturally interested in the invention and to whom it was explained is entitled to greater weight than that of an uninterested party to whom it was casually shown.[70] The device in controversy being introduced in evidence, testimony that it was used on a certain kind of a machine warrants the inference that the latter machine was complete.[71] The needless or useless disclosure of a secret process will not be compelled.[72]

Appeal and review.[73]—Mandamus may lie to compel the commissioner of patents to forward to the board of examiners in chief the appeal to which the inventor is entitled under U. S. Rev. St. § 4909.[74] The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia will not pass upon the question of priority until the patent office has determined the patentability of the alleged invention.[75] A decision considering and sustaining a patent will not be disturbed in the absence of palpable error,[76] nor will the commissioner of patents be reversed on a doubtful question of fact.[77] Such court will not consider an assignment of error based upon the overruling by the commissioner of a motion for a rehearing on the ground that an exhibit had been changed by frequent handling in the patent office.[78] On appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia the question of interference must be confined to counts considered by the commissioner,[79] and the court will not consider whether the primary examiner erred in allowing a broad construction,[80] the question of patentability,[81] of operativeness,[82] nor of identity.[83] While affidavits may be permitted to show material changes in an exhibit after its transmission to the court of appeals, they cannot be received to contradict or correct the record of proceedings in the patent office.[84] An applicant against whom adverse decisions have been rendered in interference proceedings by the examiners and commissioner of patents, and on appeal by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia may maintain a bill in equity in a circuit court,[85] without waiting for the formal action of the patent office refusing his application.[86] The circuit court of appeals has power to finally determine the validity of 67. Construing Rev. St. U. S. §§ 4886, 4887, as amended by Act March 3, 1887, and § 4923. Rousseau v. Brown, 21 App. D. C. 73.

68. Rousseau v. Brown, 21 App. D. C. 73. Patent held not in evidence where an alleged official copy of a specification and drawings annexed to a French patent were introduced but no copy of the patent was produced. Id.

69. Flora v. Powrie, 23 App. D. C. 195. If either party is dissatisfied with the result of such examination, he should have had the matter subjected to further tests either before the examiners-in-chief or the commissioner on appeal. Id.

70. Interested witness was employe of firm that inventor was thinking of having manufacture his device. Greenwood v. Dover, 23 App. D. C. 251.

71. Wyman v. Donnelly, 21 App. D. C. 81.

72. Herreshoff v. Knietsch, 127 F. 492.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1141.

74. Writ lies where the primary examiner has twice denied the right of an inventor to unite in one application process and apparatus claims which are essentially the same invention. United States v. Allen, 192 U. S. 543, 48 Law. Ed. 555, rvg. 22 App. D. C. 56. In such case no appeal lies to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia. Ex parte Frasch, 192 U. S. 566, 48 Law. Ed. 664.

75. Slaughter v. Halle, 21 App. D. C. 19.

76. Suit was between different parties. Walker Patent Pivoted Bin Co. v. Miller, 132 F. 823. In order that a junior applicant who appeals may prevail, he must make out a very clear case. Cobb v. Goebel, 23 App. D. C. 75.

77. Flora v. Powrie, 23 App. D. C. 196. Decision of commissioner as to priority of invention affirmed. Shaffer v. Dolan, 23 App. D. C. 79.

78. Greenwood v. Dover, 23 App. D. C. 251.

79. Herman v. Fullman, 23 App. D. C. 259.

80. Hillard v. Brooks, 23 App. D. C. 526.

81. Hillard v. Brooks, 23 App. D. C. 526; Luger v. Browning, 21 App. D. C. 201.

82. Lotterhand v. Hanson, 23 App. D. C. 372.

83. Luger v. Browning, 21 App. D. C. 201.

84. Blackford v. Wilder, 21 App. D. C. 1.

85. 27 Stat. 434 does not repeal Rev. St. § 4915. McKnight v. Metal Volatilization Co., 128 F. 51.

86. McKnight v. Metal Volatilization Co., 128 F. 51.

a patent upon an appeal from an order allowing a preliminary injunction restraining infringement.[87] The patent, however, will only be held invalid in very plain cases.[88] No appeal or writ of error lies to the Federal Supreme Court from the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.[89] One failing to take advantage of the right to purchase inventions abandons the same to the inventor.[90]

Abandonment.[91]

§ 5. Letters patent. Construction and limitation of claims.[92]—A patent must be taken with all its limitations, and resort may be had to its course through the patent office to determine them.[93] The claims of a patent are to be fairly construed, so as to cover, if possible, the invention,[94] and the construction placed upon them by the inventor is conclusive[95] unless it fails to affect the result.[96] Such construction may be determined by reference to the specifications and drawings.[97] Various constructions placed upon patents[98] and words and phrases therein[99] are stated in the notes. That the patent recites that it is an improvement upon a former invention does not preclude the inventor from showing that inventive idea of which it is the embodiment was antecedent to the first invention.[1]

A pioneer invention is entitled to a liberal construction,[2] and if the invention is one for which there is a prior art it will receive a construction dependent upon the state of such art.[3] A combination or adaptation of known devices, con-

87. Co-operating Merchants' Co. v. Hallock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 596.

88. Evidence of anticipation held insufficient to justify appellate court in holding patent No. 600,782, for a weeding machine, invalid. Co-operating Merchants' Co. v. Hallock [C. C. A.] 128 F. 596.

89. Since the latter court does not enter final judgment but only makes a return of a certificate of its proceedings and decision to the patent office to govern further proceedings there. Rousseau v. Brown, 21 App. D. C. 73.

90. One having the right to purchase inventions before the filing of the application for a patent, by failing to pay the final fee, held to abandon his election to purchase and left the inventor free to take the patents for his own benefit. Paul Steam System Co. v. Paul, 129 F. 757.

91, 92. See 2 Curr. L. 1141.

93. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

94. Mossberg v. Nutter [C. C. A.] 135 F. 95.

95. Claim actually made is measure of right to protection. Lanyon Zinc Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 129 F. 912. One is estopped to change construction placed on claims in order to avoid infringement. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 129 F. 604. Rejected features cannot be reasserted, nor can a broad construction be insisted on, where a narrow one has been accepted by amendment to meet the objections of the examiner. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

96. Not effecting result patentee is entitled to benefit of invention though he may not have correctly understood the principles of its operation. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 853.

97. See ante, § 4.

98. Claim of "a trestle consisting of two pair of legs" pivoted as shown, held to include the top piece. Chicago Wooden Ware Co. v. Miller Ladder Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 541. No. 508,542, ore roasting furnace, claims 3 and 8 require the three chambers to be substantially co-extensive, as shown in the drawings. Lackawanna Iron & Steel Co. v. Davis-Colby Ore Roaster Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 68, afg. 128 F. 453. Claims 2 and 3 of No. 429,874, stone sawing machine, construed and held to require as an element a proportionate feed. Diamond Stone Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown, 130 F. 896.

99. The term "rotary" does not necessarily imply continuous rotation. Kip-Armstrong Co. v. King Philip Mills, 130 F. 28. Patent for an insulator made of "nonporous vitreous material, preferably glass," cannot be construed to include mica, where at the date of the application the patentees had unsuccessfully attempted to use mica for the construction of such insulator. Folger v. Dow Portable Elec. Co., 128 F. 45.

1. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

2. Patent No. 492,205, machine for coating confectionery, is such an invention. American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919. No. 595,688, warp stop-motion for looms, held a primary invention. Kip-Armstrong Co. v. King Philip Mills, 130 F. 28.

Note: In the last mentioned case the court uses the following language which is interesting as showing the modern trend of the courts on the subject of interpretation: "We recognize, however, that the distinction between primary and secondary patents is now given less force than formerly by the courts, for every patent may be regarded as primary within its field; and it follows, then, that every patent should have as broad an interpretation as the courts may fairly give it, and as full and fair a use of the doctrine of equivalents as the courts may fairly allow it."

3. Patents entitled to a reasonably liberal construction: Nos. 424,291 and 583,320, instruments for measuring elasped time. Calculagraph Co. v. Wilson, 132 F. 20. No. 415,720, miner's lamp holder, claim 1. Lattimore Mfg. Co. v. Jones, 133 F. 550. See 2 Curr. L. 1143, n. 7.

Patents to be narrowly construed: Design stituting a distinct step in the progress of the art, is entitled to a fairly liberal construction.[4] A combination of old parts performing an old function is only entitled to a narrow construction.[5] That former patents are mere paper patents, not capable of successful practical operation, do not affect their relevancy as limitations upon the scope of a subsequent patent.[6]

In the absence of disclaimer, a patent covers all equivalents[7] whether the inventor thought of them or not,[8] nor is this rule altered by the fact that the inventor advanced an erroneous theory to explain his process.[9] An alternative construction has been held to be an equivalent.[10] The inventor of an improvement cannot invoke the doctrine of equivalents to suppress all other improvements which are not colorable invasions of his own.[11]

§ 6. Duration of patent right, surrender, and reissues.[12]—In order that an American patent shall expire with a previous foreign patent, the party alleging such expiration has the burden of proving that the foreign patent was obtained by the American patentee or with his consent,[13] and the foreign patent being for a specific invention and the American patent being for a genus which includes the former, the latter, to the extent of the specific invention, expires with the foreign patent.[14] The Congressional Act on this subject is not retroactive.[15] A patentee cannot claim rights under a surrendered patent or surrendered reissue thereof.[16] After the lapse of two years after the issue of a patent, a reissue which seeks to enlarge the claims of the original patent will not be granted, or if granted will be held invalid, unless special circumstances are shown to excuse the delay.[17]

patent No. 27,514, paper fastener. Young v. Clipper Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 150. Patent No. 432,582, machines for braiding whiplashes, claim 3. Mesick v. Hassler, 134 F. 395. No. 441,022, method of baling cotton, also lacks utility. Rembert Roller Compress Co. v. American Cotton Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 355. No. 471,772, fireproof floor and ceiling construction. New Jersey Wire Cloth Co. v. Buffalo Expanded Metal Co., 131 F. 265. No. 477,616, improvement in electric annunciator drops, claim 4. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 457. No. 548,394, saw-stretching machines. Rich v. Baldwin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 920. No. 555,693, fireproof wall. Sanitary Fireproofing & Contracting Co. v. Sprickerhoff, 131 F. 868. No. 559,446, shade-holding device. Curtain Supply Co. v. Keeler, 131 F. 871. No. 600,788, rotary winder in knitting machine. Mayo Knitting Mach. & Needle Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 527. No. 639,222, spring bed and seat bottom. Simmons Mfg. Co. v. Southern Spring Bed Co., 131 F. 278. Process of roasting or fusing a mixture of ore. McKnight v. Pohle, 22 App. D. C. 219. See 2 Curr. L. 1143, n. 7.

4. Letson v. Alaska Packers' Ass'n [C. C. A.] 130 F. 129; Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342.

5. Raymond v. Keystone Lantern Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 866.

6. No. 481,134, valve mechanism for air-brakes, should be restricted to combination described. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 437.

7. Oehrle v. Horstmann Co., 131 F. 487; Westinghouse Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167; Albright v. Langfeld, 131 F. 473. Adjustable plate to attach to share of breaking plows held equivalent to device covered by patent No. 415,542. Lourie Implement Co. v. Lenhart [C. C. A.] 130 F. 122. A machine for making matches; a cutter head and cutter adapted to cut rows of match sticks and insert them in rows of perforations having a continuous motion is infringed by the same kind of a device having an intermittent motion. Diamond Match Co. v. Ruby Match Co., 127 F. 341. See 2 Curr. L. 1143, n. 9-10; Id. 1147-1148.

8. Oehrle v. Horstmann Co., 131 F. 487; American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919.

9. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103. Charge of infringement cannot be successfully met by assigning attainment of different object. Id.

10. Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342. See, also, Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927, and also the following cases which, it would seem, are in conflict with the above rule. Diamond Stone Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown, 130 F. 896; In re Wagner, 22 App. D. C. 267.

11. Cook & Co. v. Heywood Bros. & Wakefield Co., 131 F. 755.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1143.

13. Sawyer Spindle Co. v. Carpenter, 133 F. 238. Quaere, whether evidence that it was obtained by another, to whom the American patentee communicated the invention, is sufficient to show prima facie that such person was authorized to procure a patent. Id.

14. Sawyer Spindle Co. v. Carpenter, 133 F. 238. See 2 Curr. L. 1144, n. 15.

15. The amendment of 1903 (32 Stat. 1225) to Rev. St. § 4887 providing for the expiration of a patent on an article previously patented in a foreign country is not retroactive. Sawyer Spindle Co. v. Carpenter, 133 F. 238.

16. Franklin & Co. v. Illinois Moulding Co., 128 F. 48.

17. Reissue refused after unexcused de-

A reissue patent must be for the same invention as that of the original patent, failure to observe this rule rendering the reissue void.[18] The defense that a reissue is void on its face when compared with the original patent may be raised and determined on demurrer where both patents are properly before the court.[19]

§ 7. Disclaimer and abandonment.[20]—A disclaimer may be filed at any time during the pendency of a suit for infringement, though the case has been heard on appeal,[21] and where such disclaimer is filed for the purpose of avoiding the effect of the decision of the appellate court, the lower court may, in its discretion, grant a rehearing.[22] A disclaimer by an applicant is not conclusive upon a third party.[23] A patentee cannot patent a structure and by disclaimer withdraw the invention which makes the structure patentable.[24] The question of whether a patentee has abandoned any part of what he has described in his patent is very largely one of intention.[25] That only one of three equivalent processes described in the specification is named in the claim does not constitute an abandonment of the other two.[26]

§ 8. Titles in patent rights and license, conveyance, or transfer thereof.—In general.[27]—A patent secures the exclusive right to make, use and sell the invention it protects[28] within the territorial limits of the United States.[29] Since the monopoly granted by a patent is a property right, assignable under the constitution and laws of the United States, a state law forbidding the giving or taking of a negotiable instrument for an assignment of a patent is unconstitutional.[30] Letters patent are not visible, tangible property which has of itself a local character, and of which the court can take jurisdiction apart from its apparent ownership,[31] and, so far as such property has any situs, it follows the person of its owner, and ordinarily belongs at his place of residence.[32]

Under a statute requiring notes given for patent rights to disclose such consideration,[33] the transferee of a note, who knows that it was given for a patent right, cannot recover thereon if the words "given for a patent right" are omitted from the note, in violation of the statute.[34] lay of six years. In re Starkey, 21 App. D. C. 519. See 2 Curr. L. 1144, n. 17.

18. United States Whip Co. v. Hassler, 134 F. 398. Cannot cover matters not intended to be secured by the original patent. Reissue No. 11,250 (original No. 433,637), electrical measuring instrument, held void. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Stevens [C. C. A.] 134 F. 574. Cannot include devices or parts which, though described or shown in the original specifications or drawings, are not a part of the invention as therein disclosed. Reissue No. 12,058 (original No. 679,650), tension for braiding machines, held void. United States Whip Co. v. Hassler, 134 F. 398. Cannot include a feature withdrawn to meet requirements of the Patent Office, or the rejection of which was acquiesced in Franklin & Co. v. Illinois Moulding Co., 128 F. 48. Second reissue No. 11,980 (original No. 642,059), machine for ornamenting picture frames, claims 11 to 18 inclusive, held void. Id. But see 2 Curr. L. 1144, n. 16.

19. Edison v. American Mutoscope & Biograph Co., 127 F. 361. Reissue No. 12038, kinetoscopic film, held not so clearly for a different invention as to warrant the court in declaring it void on demurrer. Id.

20. This section deals only with the abandonment of patented rights, for abandonment of ideas, see § 1, subd. Abandonment; for abandonment of patent proceedings see § 3.

21, 22. Sample v. American Soda Fountain Co., 134 F. 402.

23. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758.

24. Otis Elevator Co. v. Portland Co., 127 F. 557.

25, 26. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1144.

28. Paulus v. Buck Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 594.

29. Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105.

30. Pennsylvania act held void. Pegram v. American Alkali Co., 122 F. 1000. See 2 Curr. L. 1144, n. 18.

31. Hildreth v. Thibodeau [Mass.] 71 N. E. 111. Court having no jurisdiction of owner has no jurisdiction of patent. Id.

32. Hildreth v. Thibodeau [Mass.] 71 N. E. 111.

33. Under Rev. St. 1881, §§ 6054-6056, requiring notes taken for the price of patent rights to state that fact, an answer in an action on a note, setting up such defense, must aver facts showing that the consideration, in whole or in part, was a patent right, or a right claimed to be a patent right. Jones v. People's State Bank, 32 Ind. App. 119, 69 N. E. 466.

34. Pinney v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 78 P. 151.

The state may require a license of a patentee or his vendee before he can sell the right to make or sell the patented article.[35]

Patent rights as between employer and employe.[36]—The obligation of an employe to assign to an employer an invention made in the course of his employment does not arise from the existence of the relation of employe and employer alone;[37] there must be a contract to assign,[38] or an agreement that the invention or patent should accrue to the benefit of the employer,[39] though the latter is entitled to improvements made by one employed to construct his invention.[40] An employer having the right to the perpetual use of his employe's inventions does not thereby acquire title to the same.[41] Acts of the employe may be construed as granting a license to the employer.[42] The burden is upon an employe to show that his employment was for the accomplishment of a general purpose only and that he had an original conception of the method and means adopted.[43]

Royalties.[44]—In the absence of some reservation in the contract, the article being manufactured, delivered, accepted and paid for, the patentee's cause of action for his royalty is complete.[45] A contract requiring the payment of royalty on each machine "sold or delivered" covers machines delivered, but returned unpaid for.[46] Where other devices are used to avoid the payment of royalties, equity may order an accounting on the ground of fraud.[47] In an action for the use of a patented invention, founded on implied contract, substantially all the defenses may be interposed which would be admissible, if the action were for an infringement;[48] but if the action is upon an express contract, the case must be determined by the law of contracts.[49] The defense that the patent was invalid,[50] or that the process used was not that patented,[51] is not available.

Transfer.[52]—A grant of all the exclusive rights of a patentee throughout the United States, a grant of an undivided part of all these exclusive rights, or a grant

35. The contrary, held in Com. v. Petty, 96 Ky. 452, 29 S. W. 291, 29 L. R. A. 786, has been overruled by several later cases. Burns v. Sparks [Ky.] 82 S. W. 425. One who sells the exclusive right to sell an article of tinware in a given territory, is not a vendor of tinware within the meaning of the exemption clause in the peddlers' statute, excluding vendors of tinware from operation of the statute. Construing Ky. St. 1903, § 4218. Id.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1146, n. 46, 47. See, also, Master and Servant, 4 Curr. L. 533.

37. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Hansen, 128 F. 444.

38. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Hansen, 128 F. 444. That the employe has assigned the rights to some of the patents applied for by him for inventions made in the course of his employment does not alone warrant an inference that he was bound by a contract to assign all such inventions. Id.

39. Work of an employe involving invention as distinguished from mechanical skill cannot be claimed by the employer without such an agreement. Sendelbach v. Gillette, 22 App. D. C. 168.

40. Gallagher v. Hastings, 21 App. D. C. 88.

41. Has a mere license. Plea construed as one of license only. Barber v. National Carbon Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 370.

42. Where employe helped erect machines invented and patented by him, held to constitute an implied license to the employer to use the same and any replacement thereof so long as it continued in the business. Barber v. National Carbon Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 370.

43. Gallagher v. Hastings, 21 App. D. C. 88.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1146.

45. Harvey Steel Company's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 662.

46. Confectioners' Machinery & Mfg. Co. v. Panoualias [C. C. A.] 134 F. 393.

47. Eclipse Bicycle Co. v. Farrow, 23 App. D. C. 411. Patentable differences between such devices is immaterial. Id.

48. Harvey Steel Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 662.

49. Court will not consider patent, its construction, state of art, etc. Harvey Steel Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 662.

50. In a suit against the United States for royalties for use of the Harvey process of treating armor plate, the defense of invalidity of the patent could not be set up, since the contract provided that royalties should cease "in case it should at any time be judicially decided" that the patent was invalid, and no such decision had been made. United States v. Harvey Steel Co., 25 S. Ct. 240, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 662.

51. Where it was not denied that the United States had used the process commonly known as the "Harvey Process" of treating armor plate, the defense that if the patent be properly construed, the patented process had not been used, was held not available in an action for royalties for use of the process. United States v. Harvey Steel Co., 25 S. Ct. 240, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 662.

52. See 2 Curr. L. 1144.

of all these exclusive rights throughout a specified part of the United States, is an assignment of an interest in the patent.[53] A grant of any interest in or right under a patent less than this is a license.[54] The patentee may put any lawful restriction or condition upon the sale or use of his article that he sees fit.[55] A contract to assign the right to obtain a patent may be by parol, and if proved, will be specifically enforced in equity.[56] An executory agreement to transfer an interest in patents to be obtained does not operate as an assignment.[57]

The doctrines of bona fide purchaser and equitable notice apply to the purchaser of a patent.[58] As against subsequent bona fide purchasers, an assignment of an interest in a patent must be recorded.[59] An instrument conveying an interest in inventions to be conceived and perfected in the future is not entitled to registration.[60] The recording acts are not intended for the protection of an infringer.[61] An assignor is estopped as against his transferee to challenge the validity of the patent for want of novelty and patentability.[62]

The rights of parties to a contract relating to patent rights may depend upon the construction placed on such contract.[63]

Licenses.[64]—The owner of an undivided part of all the rights secured by a patent may, without the consent of his co-owners, grant a valid license to use the monopoly it protects.[65] The exclusive licensee of a patented article may attach

53, 54. Paulus v. Buck Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 594.

55. Rupp & Wittgenfeld Co. v. Elliott [C. C. A.] 131 F. 730. Condition that it should only be used with other patented materials made by the patentee held valid. Broderick Copygraph Co. v. Mayhew, 131 F. 92.

56. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Hansen, 128 F. 444.

57. Cannot be set up to impeach the title of an assignee of the patent, in a suit for its infringement. McMichael & W. Mfg. Co. v. Ruth [C. C. A.] 128 F. 706.

58. National Cash Register Co. v. New Columbus Watch Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 114. As to what constitutes one a bona fide purchaser, and what constitutes notice see topic, Notice and Record of Title, 4 Curr. L. 829.

59. Rev. St. § 4898. Paulus v. Buck Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 594.

60. National Cash Register Co. v. New Columbus Watch Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 114.

61. Patent assigned absolutely and assignment recorded, unrecorded instrument by assignee giving assignor full right to operate under the patent and sue for infringements. Ormsby v. Connors, 133 F. 548.

62. Where assignor employed the identical construction described in the patent transferred, and where the rights of the assignee were clearly based upon the purchase. Frank v. Bernard, 131 F. 269.

63. Sale of all of corporation's property including its "patent properties" held to transfer legal and equitable title to patents though the latter were not specifically described. Aeolian Co. v. Hallett & D. Piano Co., 134 F. 872. Contract construed as an absolute transfer of patent rights and not a mere license to use the patents for a certain period. Church v. Anti-Kalsomine Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 230. Evidence held insufficient to sustain claim of an equitable interest in patent by assignment or transfer. Arrott v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co., 131 F. 457. A contract for sale of an interest in an invention was conditional on the issuance of a patent. Held, in action for breach, that an allegation that the commissioner of patents made an order allowing the patent was a sufficient averment of issuance of the patent, within the meaning of the contract. Landers v. Foster, 34 Wash. 674, 76 P. 274.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1145.

NOTE. Rights of licensee: The property rights which a patentee or grantee has in the patent and articles made under it, the violation of which rights constitute an infringement, are not possessed by a mere licensee. His rights are purely contractual. 9 Ency. of Laws of Eng. 533; Heap v. Hartley, 42 Ch. Div. 461; Walker, Patents, 400; Paper Bag Cases, 105 U. S. 766, 26 Law. Ed. 959. As against a licensee, his vendees secure rights limited only by contract. Thomas v. Hunt, 17 C. B. (N. S.) 183. In the United States the property rights of a grantee or assignee of limited territory are not affected by the unauthorized selling or use of his territory by a third party, of articles made by a special grantee of the same patent in another territory. Adams v. Burke, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 453, 21 Law. Ed. 700; Hobbie v. Jennison, 149 U. S. 355, 37 Law. Ed. 766; Keeler v. Standard Folding Bed Co., 157 U. S. 659, 39 Law. Ed. 848. But the courts of both countries have refused to apply this doctrine to imported goods on which there is a domestic patent. Emslie v. Boursier, 32 Law J. Ch. 328; Boesch v. Graff, 133 U. S. 697, 33 Law. Ed. 787. The court in McGrouther v. Pitcher, 2 Ch. 306, also properly holds, on the authority of Tweedle v. Atkinson, 1 B. & S. 393, that no recovery can be had on contract, there being no privity between the parties. Stipulations as to price do not follow the goods nor effect title to them, since covenants do not run with goods as with land, Splidt v. Bowles, 10 East, 279; and conditions cannot be attached to goods so as to follow their sale. 3rd resolution in Spencer's Case, 1 Sm. L. C. 115; Pollock on Contracts [4th Ed.] p. 224; Taddy & Co. v. Sterlous & Co., 1 Ch. 354.—5 Columbia L. R. 62.

65. Paulus v. Buck Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 594.

such conditions as he sees fit to sales made under his license.[66] A patentee, or his general agent, entering into competition with an exclusive licensee, is liable to the latter for all profits realized.[67] The holder of a nonexclusive, nontransferable license cannot recover for damages or profits for infringement,[68] nor proceed against defendant for a violation of the injunction by reason of such infringement.[69] In order to secure an accounting it is necessary to resort to an original or supplemental bill brought by the licensee and assignees as co-complainants,[70] and proceedings being had for violation of the injunction, recourse should be had to a bill of the latter character.[71] The rights of parties are governed by the terms of the contract granting the license.[72]

§ 9. Infringement. A. What is.[73]—Generally one may not escape infringe-

66. National Phonograph Co. v. Schlegel [C. C. A.] 128 F. 733. Contract binding purchaser not to resell for less than a certain price, nor to any other dealer who did not sign a similar agreement, is valid and enforceable. Id.

67. Corbin v. Taussig & Co., 132 F. 662.

68. Where patentee after obtaining a decree awarding an accounting assigned patent taking such a license from the assignees, held he could not recover such damages or profits. Goss Printing Press Co. v. Scott, 134 F. 880.

69, 70, 71. Goss Printing Press Co. v. Scott, 134 F. 880.

72. Contract between owner of patent and manufacturer construed as one whereby the owner agreed to indemnify the manufacturer for losses resulting from manufacture of the patented article. Mankato Mills Co. v. Willard [Minn.] 102 N. W. 202. License of limited duration with privilege of renewal on certain conditions, held under the evidence not to have been renewed. Seal v. Bookkeeper Pub. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 449. A contract by which one party gives the other the full and exclusive right to manufacture and sell certain machines under any letters patent that may be granted to the former is not a contract that the said parties would be successful in obtaining said patents. Bancroft v. Union Embossing Co., 72 N. H. 402, 57 A. 97. In an action on a contract containing a warranty of a right to manufacture and use the patented article undisturbed, it is incumbent upon the defendants to show that they have been ousted from the purchased right by some superior patentee or disturbed in the exercise of it. Harvey Steel Company's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 662. Under a contract between the inventor of a bicycle lamp and a manufacturer whereby it was agreed that in case the royalties amounted to less than $500 in any year, the patent should be reassigned, it was held that the manufacturer could not abandon manufacture and sale of lamps sufficient to produce the agreed royalty, tender the inventor the specified minimum royalty and thereby prevent the inventor from placing his invention on the market. Corbet v. Manhattan Brass Co., 93 App. Div. 217, 87 N. Y. S. 577. Held, also, that the contract did not require the payment of the minimum royalty until the patents were reassigned. Id. Defendant accepted proposals for lease of a patented machine for a certain sum for installment and certain semi-annual royalties, and agreed to sign a license agreement when the machine was installed. Defendant was to have the privilege of terminating the agreement by paying royalties due and returning machine. Held, measure of damages for breach by refusal to allow machine to be put in was the amount agreed to be paid for installing it, and the royalties for the first six-month period. Warth v. Liebovitz [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 734.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1147.

ILLUSTRATIONS: Patents held infringed: Design patent No. 35,027, bottle. Jammes v. Carr-Lowry Glass Co., 132 F. 827. Design patent No. 35,481, cluster gas lamp. General Gaslight Co. v. Matchless Mfg. Co., 129 F. 137. No. 262,816, machine for making matches, infringed by No. 592,605. Diamond Match Co. v. Ruby Match Co., 127 F. 341. No. 333,373, process for making wrought iron and steel castings. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103. Nos. 343,829 and 401,848, folding trestles. Chicago Wooden Ware Co. v. Miller Ladder Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 541. No. 354,281, dyeing apparatus. Klauder-Weldon Dyeing Machine Co. v. Steadwell Dyeing Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 724. No. 354,577, sewing machine rufflers, claims 2, 7 and 8. Parsons v. New Home Sew. Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 394. Nos. 356,690 and 357,933, motor for mechanical musical instruments, claims 1 and 3 of first patent and claim 1 of second patent. Aeolian Co. v. Hallett & D. Piano Co., 134 F. 872. No. 357,538, spring-jack telephone switches, claims 3 and 5. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 359,354, car seat. Hale & K. Mfg. Co. v. Oneonta, etc., R. Co., 129 F. 598. No. 369,120, portable drilling machine, claims 1 and 2. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 131 F. 257. No. 371,431, water-closet valve, claims 1 and 2. Kenney Mfg. Co. v. Wells & Newton Co., 135 F. 101. No. 376,804, can-capping machine, claims 3, 5, 9, 10 and 11 infringed by No. 629,574. Letson v. Alaska Packers' Ass'n [C. C. A.] 130 F. 129. No. 381,527, manufacturing jewelers' plated wire. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927. No. 392,387, an electrical measuring apparatus. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Jewell, 128 F. 939; Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Whitney Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 280. Claims 8, 12 and 13 of above patent. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Stevens, 130 F. 152. No. 394,039, insulating turn-buckle. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 129 F. 378. No. 400,086, phenacetin. Farbenfabriken of Elberfeld Co. v. Harriman, 133 F. 313. No. 403,247, reel for metal box straps. Cary Mfg. Co. v. Patterson Bros., ment by adding to or subtracting from a patented device,[74] or by changing its 127 F. 357. No. 413 464, an improvement in lanterns, claims 1 and 2. Spear v. Keystone Lantern Co., 131 F. 879. No. 415,720, miner's lamp holder. Lattimore Mfg. Co. v. Supply Co., 133 F. 556. No. 418,678, electric switch for motors. Hammer v. Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 730. No. 421,244, improvement in method of hulling peas. Chisholm v. Fleming, 133 F. 924. Nos. 424,291 and 583,-320, instruments for measuring elapsed time. Calculagraph Co. v. Wilson, 132 F. 20. No. 424,905, weather strip. Bredin v. Solmson, 132 F. 161. No. 429,874, stone sawing machine, claims 1, 2 and 3. Diamond Stone Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown, 130 F. 896. No. 433,791, coil clasp for fastening belts. Kelley v. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 756. No. 434,153, incandescent lamp socket. Buchanan v. Bryant Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 922. No. 439,086, coin purse, claims 1 and 6. Albright v. Langfeld, 131 F. 473. No. 445,814, improvement in the process of patent No. 381,527, for manufacturing ingots for seamless plated wire. Burden Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927. No. 452,-168, for bosh plates for furnaces. Smeeth v. Fox Copper & Bronze Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 455. No. 461,793, method of forming chain stitch. Caunt v. United Shoe Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 976. No. 468,077, improvements in music desks for pianos, claims 1 and 2. Brown v. Huntington Piano Co., 131 F. 273, afd. 134 F. 735. No. 469,809, system of electrical distribution. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Montgomery Elec. Light & Power Co., 131 F. 86. No. 474,811, baking powder. Rumford Chemical Works v. New York Baking Powder Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 385. No. 475,401, oil burner. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stove Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 853. No. 481,134, valve mechanism for air brakes, claim 2. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. v. Christensen Engineering Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 144. No. 488,033, telephone switch, claims 1 and 3. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 491,012, bicycle bell, claims 1, 2, 3 and 4 infringed by No. 622,159. Mutter v. Mossberg, 128 F. 55, afd. 135 F. 95. No. 491,113, bottle stopper. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 283. No. 491,972, logwood extract. Hemolin Co. v. Harway Dyewood & Extract Mfg. Co., 131 F. 483. No. 492,205, machine for coating confectionery, infringed by No. 634,-633. American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919. No. 492,913, electric cigar lighter, claims 5 and 10 are infringed by Nos. 562,395, 598,489 and 628,982. Eldred v. Kirkland [C. C. A.] 130 F. 342. No. 497,-482, electric shunt. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 82. No. 498,196, railroad switch-stand. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730. No. 500,151, automatic rib-knitting machine. McMichael & Wildman Mfg. Co. v. Ruth [C. C. A.] 128 F. 706. No. 503,103, machine for delinting cotton. American Delinter Co. v. American Machinery & Construction Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 709. No. 507,300, improvement in cloth-measuring apparatus. Windle v. Parks & Woolson Mach. Co., 128 F. 58. Claims 3 and 8 of patent No. 508,542, and claims 3 and 4 of No. 495,883, and 4 and 5 of No. 508,542, ore roasting furnaces. Lackawanna Iron & Steel Co. v. Davis-Colby Ore Roaster Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 68, afg. 128 F. 453. Nos. 511,559 and 511,560, the former for a method and the latter for a means of operating electric motors. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Electric Appliance Co., 133 F. 396; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Stanley Instrument Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 167. No. 521,218, knitting machine. Brinton v. Paxton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 78. No. 521,461, telephone switch board in which the fallen annunciator is automatically restored to its position, held infringed by Nos. 617,691 and 617,692. Western Tel. Mfg. Co. v. American Elec. Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 75. No. 523,111, knitting machine. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758. Nos. 526,968 and 533,974, chocolate dipping machines. American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919. No. 535,465, washing machine. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Simpson Mfg. Co., 132 F. 614. No. 552,729, telephone switches, claims 2 and 4. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79. No. 559,827, featherbone. Warren Featherbone Co. v. American Featherbone Co., 133 F. 304. No. 562,616, waistbands. National Waistband Co. v. Monheit, 133 F. 310. No. 565,605, shell extractors. Stevens Arms & Tool Co. v. Davenport [C. C. A.] 134 F. 869. No. 574,894, hat ring. Ferry v. Waring Hat Mfg. Co., 129 F. 389. No. 580,434, improvement in telephone transmitters. Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Mfg. Co. v. American Elec. Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 704. No. 583,560, log turning and loading device. Wilkin v. Hill, 131 F. 762. No. 589,342, acetylene gas burners. Kirchberger v. Nattrass, 135 F. 121; Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 599. No. 591,869, electric transformer, claims 4, 5, 6 and 11. General Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 772. No. 595,688, warp stop-motion for looms. American Chocolate Machinery Co. v. Helmstetter, 129 F. 919; Kip-Armstrong Co. v. King Philip Mills, 130 F. 28, afd. 132 F. 975. No. 597,686, counter seats. Milner Seating Co. v. Yesbera [C. C. A.] 133 F. 916. No. 604,191, improved vessels for containing and administering volatile liquids, claim 6. Fries v. Leeming, 131 F. 765. No. 613,545, hydrant. Cayuta Wheel & Foundry Co. v. Kennedy Valve Mfg. Co., 127 F. 355. No. 614,279, tilting bins. Walker Patent Pivoted Bin Co. v. Miller, 132 F. 823. No. 616,425, claims 6, 7 and 8, and No. 617,291, burners. United Blue Flame Oil Stove Co. v. Silver & Co., 133 F. 47. No. 626,927, incandescent lamp socket. Perkins Elec. Switch Mfg. Co. v. Buchanan & Co., 129 F. 134, afd. 135 F. 90. No. 638,540, combined abdominal pad and stocking supporter. Young v. Wolfe [C. C. A.] 130 F. 891. No. 644,347, composition for lining pulp digesters. Panzl v. Battle Island Paper & Pulp Co., 132 F. 607. No. 682,448, comb for retaining the hair. Bechtold v. Nowacke, 131 F. 275.

Patents held not infringed: Reissue patent, No. 11,664 (original No. 560,816), machines for ironing the edges of collars and cuffs and No. 678,949, are not infringed by No. 660,277. Fay v. Mason [C. C. A.] 127 F. 325. No. 25,435, design for bottle stopper. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 283. Nos. 263,075, 263,076, 280,-095, 297,471, 302,055 and 393,866, improvements in machines for felting hat goods. Taylor v. Marshall, 128 F. 741. No. 293,545, form unless the latter is essential,[75] or by making it more or less efficient,[76] while he retains its principle and mode of operation, and attains its result by the use of the same or equivalent mechanical means. Neither the making, selling, nor fountain pen. Waterman Co. v. McCutcheon, 128 F. 926. No. 366,362, electric converter. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 129 F. 604. Same, claim 4. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. American Transformer Co., 130 F. 550. No. 376,804. can-capping machine, claim 1. Letson v. Alaska Packers' Ass'n [C. C. A.] 130 F. 129. No. 378,223, penholder having a sleeve of cork at its lower end. Tower v. Hobbs [C. C. A.] 129 F. 918. Nos. 378,465 and 472,555, undergarments. Scriven v. North [C. C. A.] 134 F. 366. No. 388,830, shoe lasts, is not infringed by No. 632,994. Wright v. Fitz Bros. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 394. No. 393,278, claims 4, 5 and 6, and No. 396,313, claims 1, 2, and 3, trolley crossings and switches. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Ohio Brass Co., 130 F. 542. No. 401,775, car coupler. Coup v. McConway & Torley Co., 127 F. 351. No. 412,155, improvement in electric railway trolleys, claim 8 held not infringed by No. 690,639. Star Brass Works v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 78. No. 429,516, smokeless powder, claim 1. Wolff v. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 862. No. 432,582, machines for braiding whiplashes, claim 3. Mesick v. Hassler, 134 F. 395. Same, held not infringed by No. 683,276. Id. Nos. 438,548, 461,219 and 467,466, vapor burners. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Detroit Vapor Stone Co., 131 F. 740. No. 441,022, method for baling cotton, is not infringed by No. 473,144. Rembert Roller Compress Co. v. American Cotton Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 356. Nos. 441,962, 532,175, and 703,440, each for a set-saw. Morrill v. Hardware Jobbers' Purchasing Co., 131 F. 882. Nos. 461,357 and 363,528, knitting machines, held not infringed by Nos. 570,059 and 581,887. Mayo Knitting Mach. & Needle Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 527. No. 468,006, boottree. Fitz v. Leadam, 132 F. 659. No. 471,264, ore roasting furnace, is not infringed by No. 691,112. Lanyon Zinc Co. v. Brown [C. C. A.] 129 F. 912. No. 471,772, fireproof floor and ceiling construction, is not infringed by No. 529,724. New Jersey Wire Cloth Co. v. Buffalo Expanding Metal Co., 131 F. 265. No. 476,506, improvement in lanterns. Raymond v. Keystone Lantern Co., 132 F. 30, afd. 134 F. 866. No. 477,616, improvement in electric annunciator drops, claim 4. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 457. No. 478,168, improvements in casket handles, is not infringed by No. 559,898. McCarthy v. Westfield Plate Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 128. No. 503,301, improvement in chain clips for cloth stretching machines. Whitley v. Winsor & J. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 338. No. 520,481 buttressing walls in ore roasting furnace. Davis-Colby Ore Roaster Co. v. Lackawanna Iron & Steel Co., 128 F. 453. No. 532,216, improvement in coal trucks or heavy wagons. Shadbolt v. McKee [C. C. A.] 128 F. 736. No. 548,394, saw-stretching machines. Rich v. Baldwin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 920. No. 555,693, fireproof wall. Sanitary Fireproofing & Contracting Co. v. Spricker-hoff, 131 F. 868. No. 559,446, shade-holding device, claims 3 and 4. Curtain Supply Co. v. Keeler, 131 F. 871. No. 559,522, sewage apparatus. American Sewage Disposal Co. v. Pawtucket, 132 F. 35. No. 575,164, stone planing machine, held void except as to claim 3, and such claim held not infringed. Lincoln Ironworks v. McWhirter Co., 131 F. 860. No. 599,191, improvement in ornamental ropes or cords. Oehrle v. Horstmann Co., 131 F. 487. No. 600,671, winder in knitting machines, claims 8, 10 and 11, held not infringed by No. 581,887. Mayo Knitting Machine & Needle Co. v. Jenckes Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 527. No. 600,788, rotary winder in knitting machines, claims 1 to 6, held not infringed by No. 581,887. Id. Nos. 617,942 and 634,838, acetylene gas burners. American Acetylene Burner Co. v. Kirchberger, 131 F. 94. Nos. 627,898, and 627,900, car trucks, claim as to links. North Jersey St. R. Co. v. Brill [C. C. A.] 134 F. 580. No. 634,556 water still. Hale v. World Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 964. No. 639,222, spring bed and seat bottom. Simmons Mfg. Co. v. Southern Spring Bed Co., 131 F. 278. No. 650,129 drip coffee pot. Heekin v. Baker, 127 F. 828. No. 652,407, garment fastener. Lowrie v. Meldrum Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 886. Nos. 668,888 and 674,491, wood distilling apparatus. Georgia Pine Turpentine Co. v. Bilfinger, 129 F. 131. No. 664,564, quill-grinding machine, claim 1. Levy v. Harris [C. C. A.] 130 F. 711. Nos. 667,162 and 678,219, improvements in furniture, are not infringed by reissue patent No. 11,919. Cook & Co. v. Heywood Bros. & Wakefield Co., 131 F. 755. No. 669,152, frame or foundation for the collars of dresses. Warren Featherbone Co. v. Roberts & Co., 128 F. 745. No. 675,693, rolling chair. Weisgerber v. Clowney, 131 F. 477. No. 679,896, sound box for talking machines, claims 7, 11 and 16. Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. American Graphophone Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 67.

74. Mere addition of feature which contributes to the general handiness of device does not avoid infringement. Walker Patent Pivoted Bin Co. v. Miller, 132 F. 823.

75. Eck v. Kutz, 132 F. 758; Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 283; Milner Seating Co. v. Yesbera [C. C. A.] 133 F. 916. A specific description in claim of an element does not alter rule unless it is of the essence of the invention. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Simpson Mfg. Co., 132 F. 614. Even though an additional beneficial result is attained. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730.

76. Improvement to the extent of novelty involving invention does not necessarily protect from infringement. Diamond Match Co. v. Ruby Match Co., 127 F. 341. Infringement of a device for regulating the quantities of air and gas admitted into mixing chamber of a gas engine is not avoided by changing the mechanism so that the quantity of air admitted remains the same while the quantity of gas is variable. Westinghouse Mach. Co. v. Press Pub. Co., 127 F. 822. See, also, Lourie Implement Co. v. Lenhart [C. C. A.] 130 F. 122; Walker Patent Pivoted Bin Co. v. Miller, 132 F. 823; Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 133 F. 730.

using of one element of a combination is infringement.[77] A claim for a combination is not infringed if any one of the described or specified elements is omitted without the substitution of any equivalent thereof.[78] A patent being strictly construed, a patent lacking an essential element thereof does not infringe.[79] That a device lacks one of the functions of a patented device does not avoid infringement.[80] As to whether the reversal of a prescribed process avoids infringement, there is a conflict.[81] The inventor is entitled to the benefit of the doctrine of equivalents.[82] The making of a machine adapted to practice a patented method is not per se an infringement of such patent.[83] A single sale made under circumstances which indicate a readiness to make other sales upon application is sufficient to make out a prima facie case of infringement.[84]

One making and selling one element of a combination covered by a patent with the intention and for the purpose of bringing about its use in such a combination is guilty of contributory infringement.[85] The intent and the infringement by the completed article are essential.[86] One aiding or assisting another in violating the conditions imposed by the patentee upon the use of his invention is liable as a contributory infringer.[87] One furnishing money for the manufacture of an infringing article and acting as agent for its sale may be joined with the manufacturer.[88]

(§ 9) B. Defenses.[89]—It is not a defense in a suit against the user that a decree had previously been obtained against the maker,[90] or that the maker had prevailed in a suit against him.[91] The manufacturer defending the suit against the user, the decision renders the question res judicata as to him.[92] A party can-

77. Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105.

78. Levy v. Harris [C. C. A.] 130 F. 711.

79. Mesick v. Hassler, 134 F. 395.

80. Letson v. Alaska Packers' Ass'n [C. C. A.] 130 F. 129.

81. Expanding inner tube instead of compressing outer one does not avoid infringement. Burdon Wire & Supply Co. v. Williams, 128 F. 927. An alternative construction is an equivalent. Eldred v. Kirkland, 130 F. 342. Moving saw against stone instead of stone against saw held to disclose patentable novelty. Diamond Stone Sawing Mach. Co. v. Brown, 130 F. 896. Moving bottles through heated water is not anticipated by patent under which heated water was circulated around stationary bottles. In re Wagner, 22 App. D. C. 267.

82. See ante, § 5.

83. Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105.

84. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 283.

85. Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105.

NOTE. Injunction against acts contributing to infringement. The American and English decisions on this question: According to the English view, the owner of a patent has no right against one knowingly selling component parts to a person who uses them in infringing the patent. Townsend v. Haworth, cited in Sykes v. Howarth, 12 Ch. Div. 826, 831. Under the American rule a manufacturer of a component part of an article which he knows is to be used in infringing the patent is liable as a contributory infringer. Wallace v. Holmes, 9 Blatchf. [U. S.] 65. Under the English view, it would seem that some irresponsible person might get manufacturers to furnish different parts to be used by him in infringing the patent. Against such a person damages would be inadequate and an injunction would be the only remedy. After he was enjoined, some other such person could continue the performance with the manufacturers. There seems to be no valid objection against holding one, who is thus furnishing the means of infringement and is reaping part of the benefit, accountable to the patentee. The American rule justly grants the needed protection to the holder of the patent.—18 Harv. L. R. 151.

86. Manufacturing an element of a patented combination with the intent that it should be sent to a foreign country and there used in the practice of a method covered by the patent is not contributory infringement. Bullock Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 105.

87. Rupp & Wittgenfeld Co. v. Elliott [C. C. A.] 131 F. 730; Brodrick Copygraph Co. v. Mayhew, 131 F. 92.

88. Lattimore Mfg. Co. v. Jones, 133 F. 550.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1150.

90. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 129 F. 213.

91. In this case there was a decision of the circuit court of appeals in the circuit where suit was brought holding that such article infringed. Eldred v. Breitwieser, 132 F. 251.

92. Suit against dealer was defended by manufacturer and on appeal it was adjudged that the complainant was not the inventor and that his patent was void. Held, such adjudication is a bar to a subsequent suit directly against the manufacturer on the same point. Sacks v. Kupferle, 127 F. 569.

not escape liability by attempting to shield himself behind a corporation.[93] Laches will bar one from suing for infringement.[94] The patent being assigned pending suit, and the assignee filing an original bill in the nature of a supplemental bill, he is entitled to the benefit of all the proceedings in the original suit except that the defendants may avail themselves of any equity or defense which has arisen since the original bill was filed.[95] One may become estopped to deny the validity of the patent.[96] Act March 3, 1897, amendatory of Rev. St. § 4921, providing that there shall be no recovery for infringements committed more than six years before the filing of the bill, is not a statute of limitation, but a qualification of the right of recovery,[97] and such amendment not being an exception to the original statute, the plaintiff need not allege the time of infringement, or if stated under a videlicet it need not be proved;[98] but defendant seeking the provisions of such statute as a defense must prove his case, which he may do under the general issue.[99] Rev. St. § 4900, requiring the marking of patented articles, does not apply to a process patent.[1] That similar patents are simultaneously issued to the same inventor does not warrant the infringement of either.[2] The defenses of lack of invention and noninfringement must be made by answer,[3] but the defense that the patent bears date more than six months later than the date of the giving of the notice of allowance is properly taken by plea.[4] One admitting similarity of process, a mere denial of infringement is insufficient.[5]

(§ 9) C. Damages, profits, and penalties.[6]—Complainant is entitled to recover the amount of the profits he would have realized, if he had made the sales which were made by defendant, where he was prepared to supply the demand, although it may exceed the profits made by defendants.[7] Patented improvements constituting the chief value of infringing articles and making the sale thereof possible, the patentee is entitled to recover the entire profits realized from the sale,[8] nor can the infringer avoid an accounting on the ground that the cost of the infringing articles cannot be definitely ascertained, nor because it lost money on its entire business, it not appearing that it lost on the infringement,[9] but the burden is upon the complainant to show that the improvements are of such a nature,[10] or, in the absence of such a showing, he must separate and apportion the damages in order to recover more than nominal damages.[11] The profit upon

93. Calculagraph Co. v. Wilson, 132 F. 20.

94. Assignee having knowledge of, and acquiescing in, an agreement between the patentee and another held barred by laches from suing for infringement. American Tube Works v. Bridgewater Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 16. That suit was not commenced until a short time before expiration of patent held insufficient to constitute laches. Huntington Dry Pulverizer Co. v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 130 F. 558.

95. Haarmann-DeLaire-Schaffer Co. v. Leuders, 135 F. 120.

96. Lessees covenanting not to contest validity of patent, held barred, in a suit for infringement, to claim that patent expired with foreign patent. United Shoe Machinery Co. v. Caunt, 134 F. 239. A corporation having a nontransferable, nonassignable license, mortgage trustees taking possession of the business and continuing the same, and selling the patented article and placing the patented stamp thereon, are estopped to deny the validity of the patent when sued for the infringement. Regina Music Box Co. v. Newell, 131 F. 606.

97. Peters v. Hanger [C. C. A.] 134 F. 586. Need not be specially pleaded. Id.

98, 99. Peters v. Hanger [C. C. A.] 134 F. 586.

1. United States Mitis Co. v. Midvale Steel Co., 135 F. 103.

2. Weston Electrical Instrument Co. v. Empire Electrical Instrument Co., 131 F. 494.

3. Cannot be made by plea. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79.

4. Western Elec. Co. v. North Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 79.

5. Hemolin Co. v. Hanvay Dyewood & Extract Mfg. Co., 131 F. 483.

6. See 2 Curr. L. 1150.

7. Westinghouse v. New York Air Brake Co., 131 F. 607. Profits and damages for infringement of patent No. 376,837, for an improvement in air-brakes must be based on sales of the entire triple valve structure. Id.

8, 9. Force v. Sawyer-Boss Mfg. Co., 131 F. 884.

10, 11. Kansas City Hay Press Co. v. Devol, 127 F. 363.

the patented part alone being shown, and it appearing that no other substituted mechanism on the market was open to defendant's use, complainant is entitled to recover such profits.[12] Defendants are not entitled to be credited with their own services in manufacturing the infringing articles.[13] Contributory infringers cannot be required to account for machines sold by them, to be used by others in making the infringing articles.[14] An accounting will be ordered though the infringement be trivial, where it may be detrimental to public health.[15] Where a complainant recovers only damages and profits on an accounting for infringement, the costs of the reference are taxed against him.[16] That defendant's device also infringes another patented article, the validity and scope of which is not in issue, is not cause for apportioning the profits.[17] The damages being practically liquidated at the date of the master's report, interest may be awarded from such date.[18]

(§ 9) D. Remedies and procedure.[19]—Equity has jurisdiction of a suit for infringement at any time up to the expiration of the patent,[20] and having jurisdiction it may grant all appropriate and necessary relief in connection with the particular act complained of, even though it amounts to an infringement of an expired patent, in addition to the infringement of an existing and unexpired one.[21] The defendant denying the validity of the patent, equity has jurisdiction though the answer alleges that defendant has ceased infringement.[22] The jurisdiction of the court must affirmatively appear in the pleadings.[23] The fact that the patentee may have a remedy by action for breach of contract does not defeat the jurisdiction of the court.[24] The court of claims has no jurisdiction where the infringement of the patent is the only question involved;[25] an implied contract is essential.[26]

The assignee of a claim of infringement cannot sue.[27] A suit against an alien may be brought in any district where defendant may be found.[28] A patentee who has transferred all his interest in the patent is not a necessary party to a subsequent suit for infringement.[29] Joint tort feasors may be joined.[30] In

12. Brinton v. Paxton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 78.
13. Kansas City Hay Press Co. v. Devol, 127 F. 363.
14. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelley, 131 F. 89.
15. Farbenfabriken of Elberfeld Co. v. Harriman, 133 F. 313.
16. This rule is subject to modification in the discretion of the court. Kansas City Hay Press Co. v. Devol, 127 F. 363.
17. Brinton v. Paxton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 78.
18. Westinghouse v. New York Air Brake Co., 133 F. 936.
19. See 2 Curr. L. 1151.
20. Although no preliminary injunction was applied for and the patent expires before a hearing. Huntington Dry Pulverizer Co. v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 130 F. 558. A court of equity is without jurisdiction of a suit for infringement of a patent where process was not issued until six days before the expiration of the patent, and was returnable thereafter, and no application was made for a preliminary injunction, nor special ground therefor alleged in the bill. Miller v. Schwarner, 130 F. 561.
21. Huntington Dry Pulverizer Co. v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 130 F. 558. A bill for the infringement of an expired and unexpired patent states ground for equitable relief where it alleges that the infringing article so embodies the two patented ideas as to render it practically impossible to apportion the damages and profits resulting from the use of each patented idea. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1152, n. 26.
22. Cayuta Wheel & Foundry Co. v. Kennedy Valve Mfg. Co., 127 F. 355. For general rule see 2 Curr. L. 1151, n. 18.
23. Presumption is that cause is without jurisdiction. International Wireless Tel. Co. v. Fessenden, 131 F. 491. The bill showing that defendant is a nonresident it must allege that some act of infringement was committed within the district, or that defendant has an office or place of business within the district, with an agent in charge on whom service could properly be made. Id.
24. Rupp & Wittgenfeld Co. v. Elliott [C. C. A.] 131 F. 730.
25. Henry's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 635.
26. United States using article under license from one patentee, a contract with another patentee cannot be implied. Henry's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 635.
27. Rev. St. § 4919, refers to assignee of patent. Webb v. Goldsmith, 127 F. 572.
28. 29 Stat. 695, held not to apply. United Shoe Mach. Co. v. Duplessis Independent Shoe Mach. Co., 133 F. 930.
29. Contract and decree construed and the absence of special circumstances, an agent should not be joined with his principal in a suit for infringement, the acts complained of being done in his capacity as agent.[31] An officer of a corporation should not be joined as a party in a suit for infringement against the corporation there being no proof that such officer had any part personally in the infringement.[32]

The precise point raised having been previously determined in favor of the validity of the patent the latter will not be adjudged void on demurrer.[33]

A motion by complainant to dismiss, after all the proofs have been taken and the case set for final hearing, is addressed to the sound discretion of the court and will not be granted where the proceedings entitle defendant to a decree.[34]

The bill being dismissed for want of jurisdiction, costs cannot be awarded to defendant,[35] and where, before the taking of testimony, he offers to allow judgment to be entered as prayed for and makes no further appearance, he should not be taxed with costs for the subsequent taking of testimony and printing of the record.[36]

Injunctions.[37]—The United States cannot be enjoined from using an infringing machine.[38] Where in a suit by an exclusive patentee to restrain interference, the defendants organize a corporation and transfer their business to it, recovery cannot be had against the latter unless made a party.[39] An applicant for a patent, while his application is pending, cannot maintain a suit in equity to enjoin another for using the same and for an accounting.[40] Actual user is not necessary to warrant an injunction; threatened use is sufficient.[41] That defendant disclaims any future intention of infringing does not affect complainant's right to an injunction.[42] A preliminary injunction must be asked for in the prayer of the bill,[43] and in the absence of special circumstances and leave of court thereupon, a motion for a preliminary injunction must rest, on the part of the complainant, on the bill and accompanying affidavits originally filed.[44] A preliminary injunction will not be granted where complainant's right is doubtful,[45] and the defendant is able to respond in damages.[46] Generally the court requires patentee held to have divested himself of all title and interest. Lincoln Ironworks v. McWhirter Co., 131 F. 860.

30. Complaint alleging that defendants conjointly endeavored to injure complainant, one by selling and making infringing articles in one city, and the other by using and vending infringing articles in another city, etc., held not demurrable on the ground that defendants are improperly joined. Bradley v. Eccles, 133 F. 308.

31. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 129 F. 213.

32. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 283.

33. Regensberg & Sons v. American Exch. Cigar Co., 130 F. 549.

34. Georgia Pine Turpentine Co. v. Bilfinger, 129 F. 131.

35. International Wireless Tel. Co. v. Fessenden, 131 F. 493.

36. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Klump, 131 F. 93.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1152. See, also, Injunction, 4 Curr. L. 96.

38. International Postal Supply Co. v. Bruce, 194 U. S. 601, 48 Law. Ed. 1134.

39. Corbin v. Taussig & Co., 132 F. 662.

40. Another by fraud secured a patent to himself for the invention. Standard Scale & Foundry Co. v. McDonald, 127 F. 709.

41. An injunction was granted where there had been no actual infringement but where the device was used with such alterations that it did not infringe but could in short time be put in infringing shape. Westinghouse Mach. Co. v. Press Pub. Co., 127 F. 822.

42. Brookfield v. Elmer Glassworks, 132 F. 312; General Elec. Co. v. New England Elec. Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 738.

43. American Graphophone Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 127 F. 349.

44. In the absence of such leave, rebutting affidavits cannot be filed. Benbow-Brammer Mfg. Co. v. Simpson Mfg. Co., 132 F. 614.

45. Diamond Match Co. v. Union Match Co., 129 F. 602; Jefferson Elec. Light, Heat & Power Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 392, rvg. 128 F. 751; Felt & T. Mfg. Co. v. Mechanical Accountant Co., 129 F. 386. Infringement being doubtful. Cleveland Foundry Co. v. Silver & Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 591; Brookfield v. Elmer Glassworks, 132 F. 312; Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 130 F. 902. Preliminary injunction denied where proof left in doubt both the validity of the claims and the question of infringement. Comptograph Co. v. Mechanical Accountant Co., 129 F. 394.

46. Diamond Match Co. v. Union Match Co., 129 F. 602; Jefferson Elec. Light, Heat that the patent be supported by public acquiescence or prior adjudication,[47] and while, in the absence of new evidence, a preliminary injunction will generally issue upon a prior judgment of another court holding the patent valid and infringed,[48] still one Federal court is not obliged to grant a preliminary injunction because the validity of the patent has been sustained in another circuit.[49] An order granting a preliminary injunction, or requiring defendant in the alternative to give a bond, will not be reviewed on the merits on appeal in advance of the hearing on full proofs, the bond being given.[50]

One who with knowledge of the injunction takes over the business of the parties enjoined in collusion with them to evade the injunction is guilty of violating the latter.[51] Where defendants are enjoined as individuals from infringing a patent, they cannot avoid individual liability for a violation of the injunction by organizing a corporation which commits the acts of infringement.[52] The use of another machine, the infringement by which is doubtful, does not render one guilty of contempt for violating an injunction against infringement.[53] There is a conflict as to whether the fact that the sale was made under the advice of counsel that the article sold did not infringe is or is not a defense to the violation of an injunction.[54]

Pleading.[55]—The forms and requisites of bills in suits for infringement of patents have been settled by decisions, and the practice can only be changed by an amendment of the equity rules or of the rules of the circuit courts.[56] A bill alleging the issuance of letters patent, ownership by complainant, infringement by defendant, and the damage sustained, has been held sufficient;[57] other courts, however, hold that failure to allege the extent of the damage does not render the bill demurrable,[58] while others hold that it must allege that the invention had not been previously patented or described in a printed publication[59] or used for more than two years prior to the application,[60] and that complainant caused the patented article, or the package in which it is inclosed to be marked "Patented."[61] It must allege complainant's title and it is not sufficient to attach a copy of the patent as an exhibit.[62] A bill charging infringement generally, it will be construed as & Power Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 392, rvg. 128 F. 751; Silver & Co. v. Eustis Mfg. Co., 130 F. 348. Injunction denied where the complainant failed to so show, and the answer stated that the defendant had abandoned the manufacture and sale of the alleged infringing article. Id. Where defendant had openly claimed right to use patent for 6 years, had built up an established business, and was amply able to respond in damages, held no preliminary injunction would be awarded. Thomson-Houston Elec. Co. v. Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co., 130 F. 902.

47. Silver & Co. v. Eustis Mfg. Co., 130 F. 348; Felt & T. Mfg. Co. v. Mechanical Accountant Co., 129 F. 386.

48. Brill v. Peckham Mfg. Co., 129 F. 139.

49. Such court may exercise its independent judgment on the proofs. Diamond Match Co. v. Union Match Co., 129 F. 602.

50. United Blue-Flame Oil Stove Co. v. Silver & Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 925.

51. Whether actually employed and paid by them or not. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelley Bros. & Spielman, 132 F. 978. Injunction against the manufacture and sale of coil clasps, held violated where defendants set a third person up in business and furnished him with a list of customers, machines, etc. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelley Bros. & Spielman, 130 F. 893.

52. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co. v. Kelley Bros. & Spielman, 130 F. 893.

53. Brookfield v. Novelty Glass Mfg. Co., 132 F. 316.

54. That it is not. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. v. Sangamo Elec. Co., 128 F. 747. Patentee acting in good faith and under advice of attorney should not be punished for contempt. Goss Printing Press Co. v. Scott, 134 F. 880.

55. See 2 Curr. L. 1153. See, also, Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

56. American Graphophone Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 127 F. 349.

57. Bowers v. Bucyrus Co., 132 F. 39.

58, 59. American Graphophone Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 127 F. 349.

60. American Graphophone Co. v. National Phonograph Co.; 127 F. 349; Hayes-Young Tie Plate Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co., 130 F. 900.

61. Sprague v. Bramhall-Deane Co., 133 F. 738.

62. American Graphophone Co. v. National Phonograph Co., 127 F. 349.

charging infringement of all the claims of the patent in suit.[63] When necessary to further justice, amendments may be allowed at any stage of the proceedings.[64]

A bill for the infringement of two patents is not multifarious, although one is for a process and the other for a product, where both relate to the same article and are capable of being conjointly infringed,[65] nor is it multifarious though it be for the infringement of an expired and an unexpired patent, it alleging that the recovery sought is not separable with respect to the two patents,[66] but in the absence of an allegation of diverse citizenship, a cause of action for infringement cannot be joined with one for unfair competition.[67]

A plea unsupported by proof will be stricken,[68] but failure to prove an allegation in the bill may be waived.[69] Mere mention in the bill of prior patents does not amount to a proffer thereof, so as to bring them before the court on demurrer.[70]

Evidence.[71]—The burden is upon defendant to prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, the invalidity of complainant's patent.[72] The court cannot take judicial notice of prior patents.[73] Uncertified printed copies of patents being issued and sold by the patent office are generally held to be admissible in evidence.[74] Agreement whereby defendant was entitled to use the article is admissible.[75] A strong presumption that there is a substantial difference between the patent in suit and the alleged infringing patent arises from the fact that the file wrapper of the latter discloses that the application was considered in connection with the patent in suit.[76] The mechanical questions involved being difficult, the complainant should give the court the benefit of expert testimony thereon.[77] Facts constituting sufficient evidence to show sale by defendant are stated in the notes.[78]

Interlocutory and final decrees.[79]—Complainants succeeding on all the proofs in establishing the merits of their bill, they are entitled to an interlocutory decree,[80] and it appearing that no hearing can be had on appeal until after the expiration of the patent, a supersedeas will not be granted.[81] So far as appellate procedure is concerned, a decree upon the merits, finding infringement, awarding a permanent injunction, and directing a reference to ascertain damages and profits, is an interlocutory decree granting an injunction.[82] A decree adjudging title, validity, and invalidity of claims, infringement and liability therefor, and awarding a perpetual injunction, is final in so far that an appellate tribunal has authority to consider and decide the case upon its merits.[83]

63. In the absence of exceptional circumstances, complainant cannot be required to amend so as to specify the particular claims infringed and the parts of defendant's structure which are claimed to infringe. Morton Trust Co. v. American Car & Foundry Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 916.

64. Name of witness and place of residence added to answer after filing of replication. Standard Elevator Interlock Co. v. Ramsey, 130 F. 151.

65. American Graphophone Co. v. Leeds & Catlin Co., 131 F. 281.

66. Huntington Dry Pulverizer Co. v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 130 F. 558.

67. King & Co. v. Inlander, 133 F. 416.

68. That defendant had abandoned the manufacture and sale of the alleged infringing article. Silver & Co. v. Eustis Mfg. Co., 130 F. 348.

69. Bill alleging that article was properly marked, and answer not denying it and no objection being made on the hearing to the failure of complainant to prove it, the objection is waived. Pettibone, Mulliken & Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co., 134 F. 889.

70. Bowers v. Bucyrus Co., 132 F. 39.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1154.

72. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 131 F. 257; Kirchberger v. American Acetylene Burner Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 599.

73. Bowers v. Bucyrus Co., 132 F. 39.

74. Drewson v. Hartje Paper Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 734.

75. Holmes v. Kirkpatrick [C. C. A.] 133 F. 232.

76. New Jersey Wire Cloth Co. v. Buffalo Expanded Metal Co., 131 F. 265.

77. Fay v. Mason [C. C. A.] 127 F. 325.

78. Defendant not denying allegation that it was doing business in a certain place, proof of a purchase at a store bearing defendant's name and located in such place, prima facie establishes that sale was made by defendant. Hutter v. De Q. Bottle Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 283.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1155.

80, 81. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 130 F. 903.

82. Is appealable under 26 Stat. 828, as amended by 31 Stat. 660. Star Brass Works v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 102.

83. Chicago Wooden Ware Co. v. Miller Ladder Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 541.

PAUPERS.

Definition and status of paupers.[84]—A person whom the public has supported is presumed to be a public charge.[85]

Proceedings to establish pauperism.—The justices of the peace who try a petition for relief must themselves by their judgment find that it is necessary and not delegate that office to overseers of the poor.[86] If they do the order is void[87] and objection may be taken at any time.[88]

Settlements and removals of paupers.[89]—A settlement is derived from such residence and intention as characterizes domicile.[90] Declarations of the alleged pauper accompanying acts which they explain are admissible on this question.[91] Residence and payment of taxes for the prescribed period make out a settlement, even if the tax assessment was irregular.[92] A minor's settlement is derived from his parent's, even though the minor lives away,[93] if he be not emancipated. In order to settle a minor away from his parent, he must have been emancipated and so lived for the requisite period.[94]

The full statutory notice of removal must be given.[95] A defective notice to remove a pauper is waived if the town sought to be charged answers "no settlement."[96] In Pennsylvania an appeal is the proper review for a removal without proper notice[97] and all defenses may be made therein.[98]

Liability for support.[99]—It is generally held that the place of settlement is not liable if a person relieved is solvent.[1] Ability to pay is sometimes made a test whether quarantine and medical expense shall be charged to the person or the public.[2] To be recovered as "expense," the amount should be proved as specifically applied to the pauper in question.[3] Under the laws of New York whereby a child is committed until a certain age to an institution at the charge of the county of its settlement, the liability does not change when the parents gain a new settlement.[4] In Maine the nearest incorporated town is given the care of paupers settled in an unincorporated town, but it is not bound to reimburse another town which relieves such person.[5] Such a liability must be found if at all in statute.[6] An overseer cannot charge his town by a promise to pay for past relief.[7]

Assumpsit lies on the common counts for medical services rendered at request of the county.[8]

The liability of a son to reimburse the town for support of his parent is stat-

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1156, n. 92.

85. Public payment of charges for maintenance of a child. McTier v. Crosby, 120 Ga. 878, 48 S. E. 355.

86, 87, 88. Brushvalley Tp. Poor Directors v. Allegheny County Poor Directors, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 595.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1156.

90, 91. Inhabitants of Knox v. Montville, 98 Me. 493, 57 A. 792.

92, 93. Highland Tp. Poor Dist. v. Jefferson County Poor Dist., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 601.

94. Town of South Burlington v. Cambridge [Vt.] 59 A. 1013. Evidence held not sufficient to prove emancipation. Id.

95. Franklin Tp. Poor Dist. v. Danville & M. Poor Dist., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 40.

96. Notice signed by only one overseer. Inhabitants of Brookfield v. West Brookfield, 186 Mass. 524, 72 N. E. 86.

97, 98. Certiorari not the remedy. Franklin Tp. Poor Dist. v. Danville & M. Poor Dist., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 40.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1157.

1. Board of Com'rs of Marshall County v. Roseau County Com'rs [Minn.] 101 N. W. 164.

2. In Maine under Rev. St. c. 18, § 51, one must be "able" to pay the full amount; and must be able at the time of discharge; and subsequent ability is not regarded. Inhabitants of Greenville v. Beauto [Me.] 58 A. 1026.

3. Expense on behalf of a pauper does not appear where he was merely boarded at the almshouse, but no account was kept of his expense and he rendered valuable services. Striking an average cost is insufficient. City of Taunton v. Talbot [Mass.] 71 N. E. 785.

4. Western New York Institution for Deaf Mutes v. Yates County, 94 App. Div. 1, 87 N. Y. S. 534.

5, 6. Inhabitants of Machias v. Wesley [Me.] 58 A. 240.

7. Physicians who attended on advice of one that he would see the overseer cannot recover. Farmer v. Salisbury [Vt.] 59 A. 201.

8. County of De Witt v. Spaulding, 111 Ill. App. 364.

utory.[9] It must be enforced within the time prescribed; a promise to do so finds no consideration in such statute,[10] nor is the moral obligation sufficient.[11]

Care and custody of paupers.[12]

Administration of poor laws; officers and districts.[13]—A state which has committed the poor to the several counties and cities may nevertheless provide state funds for the same purpose,[14] and may pay them to a private charitable corporation organized to provide homes and sustenance for children.[15] Such being a public purpose[16] and not a loan of credit[17] or a public debt, though appropriated annually.[18] In view of a provision for securing a proper administration of such fund before it is paid over, it cannot be regarded as a gift without reservation of control.[19] Neither can it be called a foreign charity merely because there is a national and a state society affiliated;[20] nor special legislation because payable to the one society fitted to carry out the purpose.[21]

Where poor districts constitute a separate municipal corporation,[22] laws relating to buildings for paupers in a poor "district" do not conflict with those relating to buildings erected by the "county" as a poorhouse.[23]

The Virginia law for appointment of poor officers by the courts should be strictly construed.[24]

PAWNBROKERS.

The business of pawnbrokers is subject to police regulation.[25] The article pledged is security only for the amount advanced in that transaction.[26] The period allowed for redemption prior to sale may be regulated by custom.[27] On default of redemption, the articles pawned may be sold.[28] In the absence of special agreement the sale must be public,[29] after notice to the pawnor of the pawnee's intention to sell and of the time and place of sale.[30] A special agreement controlling the manner of sale is not contrary to public policy,[31] and may be qualified by pawnor's knowledge of the customs of the business.[32] A sale in violation of such an agreement is a conversion.[33]

PAYMENT AND TENDER.

§ 1. Mode and Sufficiency of Payment or Tender (956).
§ 2. Application of Payment (957).
§ 3. Effect of Tender or Payment (959).
§ 4. Payment or Tender as an Issue (959).
A. Pleading (959).
B. Presumptions and Burden of Proof (959).
C. Evidence (960).

---

9. Inhabitants of Freeman v. Dodge, 98 Me. 531, 57 A. 884.

10, 11. Inhabitants of Freeman v. Dodge, 98 Me. 531, 57 A. 884. A letter held to show no promise to pay for support but only to pay cost of defending a suit to recover same. Id.

12, 13. See 2 Curr. L. 1157.

14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21. Hager v. Kentucky Children's Home Soc., 26 Ky. L. R. 1133, 83 S. W. 605.

22. So in Pennsylvania. Melvin v. Summerville [Pa.] 59 A. 483.

23. Act June 4, 1879, construed with Act April 4, 1870, and Act April 19, 1895. Melvin v. Summerville [Pa.] 59 A. 483.

24. Chadduck v. Burke [Va.] 49 S. E. 976. See, also, Officers and Public Employes, 4 Curr. L. 854.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1157.

They may be required to record and report their transactions. Ullman v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 241.

26. Under Laws 1883, § 10, p. 509, providing that surplus arising from the sale shall be paid to the pawnor where several loans were made to the same person at different times and on different articles, a surplus arising on the sale of one cannot be set off against the deficiency resulting from the sale of another. Stephens v. Simpson, 94 App. Div. 298, 87 N. Y. S. 1068.

27. Stern v. Leopold Simons Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696.

28. See 2 Curr. L. 1157. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696.

29, 30, 31. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696.

32. That pawned articles would be sold after six months without notice. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696.

33. Prior to the stipulated time. Loftus v. Agrant [S. D.] 99 N. W. 90; Ullman v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 241.

This article does not include discharge by novation,[34] release,[35] or accord and satisfaction;[36] nor does it include payment into court,[37] nor matters peculiar to negotiable paper.[38]

§ 1. Mode and sufficiency of payment or tender.[39] To or by whom.[40]—Payment to an agent having no authority to receive the same is not a payment[41] unless the creditor actually receives the money.[42]

Medium.[43]—A note,[44] order,[45] or check,[46] does not constitute payment unless given and accepted with such intention, though in some states a check is effective unless objected to;[47] but an objection upon some ground, other than that it is not lawful money, is ineffectual unless well taken.[48] Failure to present a check as required by the common law converts the same into an absolute payment.[49] A delivery of a certified check amounts to a payment.[50] By agreement, merchandise may be taken in payment.[51]

Manner of payment.—In order that the payment may be effectual, the property must pass out of the control of the debtor.[52] A payment being voluntary,[53]

34. See Novation, 4 Curr. L. 838.

35. See Releases, 2 Curr. L. 1498.

36. See Accord and Satisfaction, 3 Curr. L. 17.

37. See Payment into Court, 2 Curr. L. 1163; 4 Curr. L. 961.

38. See Negotiable Instruments, 4 Curr. L. 787.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1158. See, generally, Hammon, Contracts, § 429 et seq.

40. Effect of payment by a third person. See note 100 Am. St. Rep. 397.

41. Attorney. Willis v. Gorrell, 102 Va. 746, 47 S. E. 826. See 2 Curr. L. 1158, n. 18.

42. Wagoner v. Silva, 139 Cal. 559, 73 P. 433.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1158.

44. Berksbire v. Hoover, 92 Mo. App. 349. A contract of purchase providing for certain payments and the "notes of * * * for the balance," held the notes were taken in absolute payment. Burlee Dry Dock Co. v. Besse [C. C. A.] 130 F. 444. See 2 Curr. L. 1158, n. 29.

45. A creditor accepting an order on a third person from his debtor, and taking a note from the drawee and extending the time of payment, held to constitute a payment by the debtor though the note was never paid. Elm City Lumber Co. v. Mackenzie [Conn.] 58 A. 10. Judgment on an answer alleging such facts held not erroneous, in the absence of a demurrer or objection to the evidence, on the ground that there was no allegation that the note was taken without the knowledge of the debtor. Id.

46. Not being paid, the vendor is remitted to his original rights under the contract of sale. Pflueger v. Lewis Foundry & Mach. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 28. A plea of payment by a post-dated check which has been returned is unavailable. Lockwood Trade Journal v. New York Silicate Book Slate Co., 88 N. Y. S. 152. Where debtor gave agent of creditor a check for more than the amount due and received the agent's personal check for the difference, held principal was liable for such excess on nonpayment of agent's check. Rines v. New York & Brooklyn Brewing Co., 90 N. Y. S. 362. In an action to recover realty leased, held deposit of check in bank was not a compliance with the requirements of the lease requiring the deposit of a certain sum. Chapple v. Kansas Vitrified Brick Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 666. See 2 Curr. L. 1158, n. 26, 28.

47. Under Code § 3063 requiring objections to be made at the time the check is received, one who retains a draft for six months cannot insist that he should have been paid in money. Shay v. Callanan, 124 Iowa, 370, 100 N. W. 55.

48. Kollitz v. Equitable Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 92 Minn. 234, 99 N. W. 892.

49. Manitoba Mortg. & Inv. Co. v. Weiss [S. D.] 101 N. W. 37. Where check on third person was not presented until 5 days after receipt by debtor. Civ. Code 1903, § 2256, held inapplicable. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1158, n. 27.

50. Herrmann Furniture & Plumbers' Cabinet Works v. German Exch. Bank, 87 N. Y. S. 462.

NOTE. Certified check: The acceptance by a creditor of a certified check from his debtor does not ipso facto constitute a payment of the debt. Born v. Indianapolis First Nat. Bank, 123 Ind. 78, 18 Am. St. Rep. 312, 7 L. R. A. 442.—From note to National Bank of Commerce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 9 L. R. A. 263.

51. Advertising contract providing that publisher should produce business to the amount of the cost of the advertisement, held publisher was obliged to take its pay in goods, if it were to be paid at all, and orders for goods should be treated as payment pro tanto. Snyder v. International Economist Co., 91 N. Y. S. 748.

52. One person being the manager of a bank and a corporation a deposit in the bank by him of the corporation's money as consideration for a conveyance of land from a third party to the corporation is not equivalent to payment to the grantor, the deposit being under the control of such manager. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310.

53. Where a note provided that upon payment of a bonus it could be paid before maturity, held payment of bonus and principal after commencement of suit to foreclose was not a payment under duress so that the bonus could be recovered. Kilpatrick v. Germania Life Ins. Co., 95 App. Div. 287, 88 N. Y. S. 628.

NOTE. Payment when involuntary: A it cannot be recovered back though illegally demanded.[54] A payment made for the purpose of recovering possession of personal property wrongfully detained is not voluntary,[55] but a mere protest accompanying a payment does not change its character as a voluntary one.[56]

Manner of proffer.[57]—There must be an unconditional[58] tender of the cash[59] or property[60] due the other. A tender is excused where, before the expiration of the time therefor, the party to whom it is to be made makes declarations equivalent to a refusal to accept the tender if made.[61] The tender must be for the full amount due,[62] including attorney's fees.[63]

Keeping tender good.[64]—A tender to be effective must be kept good,[65] and to this end the fund must be preserved.[66]

§ 2. Application of payment.[67]—A debtor who owes several debts to the same creditor may designate the application of a voluntary remittance at the time it is made,[68] or at any time before the creditor, in the absence of such direction, has applied it,[69] and a surety cannot object to the exercise of this right except in cases where a diversion of funds, which the surety is entitled to have applied in a particular manner, is attempted in fraud of his rights.[70] In the absence of such designation the creditor may apply the payment to any of the debts,[71] and, at payment made under compulsion, coercion, or duress is involuntary. The coercion or duress which will render a payment involuntary must consist of some actual or threatened exercise of power possessed or believed to be possessed by the person exacting the payment. Brumagin v. Tillinghast, 18 Cal. 272, 79 Am. Dec. 176; Radich v. Hutchins, 95 U. S. 210, 24 Law. Ed. 409. Service or filing a written protest cannot make a payment involuntary. Wabaunsee County v. Walker, 8 Kan. 436; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Dodge County, 98 U. S. 544, 25 Law. Ed. 196.—From note to De La Cuesta v. Ins. Co. [Pa.] 9 L. R. A. 631, 632.

54. Du Vall v. Norris, 119 Ga. 947, 47 S. E. 212.

55. Especially where owner cannot find out who has property but deals with a third person. Du Vall v. Norris, 119 Ga. 947, 47 S. E. 212.

56. Gerry v. Slebrecht, 88 N. Y. S. 1034.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1159.

58. An offer to pay the purchase price of land on the delivery of a properly executed deed is not an unconditional tender. Will not support specific performance. Terry v. Kelm [Ga.] 49 S. E. 736. See 2 Curr. L. 1158, n. 35-37.

59. Contract requiring securing and tendering of $100,000, held tender by defendant who had simply made arrangements whereby he could secure the money was insufficient, the cash not being actually tendered. Venable v. Riley-Grant Co., 117 Ga. 127, 43 S. E. 428.

60. In an action on a policy, plaintiff being entitled to recover awnings destroyed by fire, a tender not including the same is insufficient. Wicks v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 1036 [Advance sheets]. Plaintiffs tendering stock in writing, renewing the tender in their petitions, and on trial producing the shares in court and filing them with the clerk held sufficient to justify judgment though the first written tender was not kept good. Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & W. Telephone Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 742.

61. Ansley v. Hightower, 120 Ga. 719, 48 S. E. 197.

62. Surety on a mortgage buying in property mortgaged to secure deficiency judgment on first mortgage, held tender of amount paid by surety less the amount of deficiency judgment was insufficient to sustain a redemption. Dunning v. Gaige [Mich.] 100 N. W. 267. Mortgagor agreeing to satisfy mortgage for a sum less than the debt secured if paid within a certain time and the mortgagor failing to carry out the agreement, a tender of the balance called for by such contract by a purchaser of the land at a receiver's sale is ineffectual. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 102 N. W. 604.

63. When a tender is made after suit has been commenced to foreclose a trust deed or mortgage which provides for the payment of a reasonable solicitor's fee, to be effective, the tender should include the amount of the solicitor's fee earned up to the time of making the tender. Healy v. Protection Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 213 Ill. 99, 72 N. E. 678. See 2 Curr. L. 1159, n. 44, 45.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1159.

65. Unless kept good will not stop interest. Woodland Cemetery Co. v. Ellison, 25 Ky. L. R. 2069, 80 S. W. 169. Where a tender is made after suit has been commenced to foreclose a trust deed or mortgage, it must be kept good. Healy v. Protection Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 213 Ill. 99, 72 N. E. 678.

66. If placed in a bank and checked against until the deposit is reduced below the amount of the tender, it is not kept good, Healy v. Protection Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 213 Ill. 99, 72 N. E. 678.

67. See 2 Curr. L. 1160.

68. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986.

69. Lynn v. Bean [Ala.] 37 So. 515.

70. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986.

71. Hamilton v. Rhodes [Ark.] 83 S. W. 351. See 2 Curr. L. 1160, n. 50.

common law, this application may be made at any time before suit.[72] A debtor may, by silence, ratify a creditor's application.[73] Debtor and creditor determining the method of application, the creditor cannot subsequently change the same.[74] As an exception to the rule that a surety may not direct application to the secured debt in opposition to the creditor,[75] it has been held that he may do so when the very money for payment of which he is bound is the payment received and to be applied.[76] When the parties make no application of payments, the law applies them to the oldest of several debts,[77] though this rule is subject to qualification where the rights and equities of third persons are involved. Thus, as between a debtor and a surety whose obligation covers a distinct portion of the time during which the account was running, all deposits should be applied to debit items made during the same time,[78] or, where there are different sureties covering different periods of time, each surety is entitled to the benefit of the moneys received during the period of his suretyship.[79] The remittance and a debt being identical in amount, it is presumed that the debtor intended to have the payment applied to such debt.[80] Payments being applied to a general account they are held to apply to the oldest of the several items.[81] Interest should be paid before the principal.[82] There being no proof of usury, interest in excess of the legal rate being voluntarily paid by the borrower cannot be credited on the principal.[83] Payments upon a void substituting instrument should be applied to the original instrument.[84] Generally,

72. People v. Grant [Mich.] 102 N. W. 226. See 2 Curr. L. 1160, n. 58. [Under the civil law this application must be made at the time of payment.]

73. So held where a debtor failed to answer a letter which law presumed had been received. Sloan v. Sloan [Or.] 78 P. 893.

74. One selling a subcontractor materials for different buildings, and keeping but one account, by accepting notes from the subcontractor and crediting the same on the general account thereby loses his right to separate the items of the account and apply the money received on the notes as he saw fit. City Coal & Wood Co. v. New Britain Institute [Conn.] 59 A. 33. See 2 Curr. L. 1160, n. 48.

75. 2 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] 437. Crane Co. v. Pacific Heat & Power Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 460.

Note: In this case A entered into a contract to install a heating plant in a school building, B became surety for payment of laborers and materialmen. C, the plaintiff, furnished a large amount of material. On two occasions A, having received installments of payment on the job, made remittances therefrom to C, with no particular directions as to application of such payments. C. applied them on a former running account, and afterwards brought this action against A and B to recover for the material furnished for this contract. Held, that B was equitably entitled to have the payments made to C applied on the indebtedness for which he was surety. Crane Co. v. Pacific Heat & Power Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 460.

The annotator in 3 Mich. L. R. 246 says: "The holding in this case seems to be quite against the weight of authority. The rule is that where the debtor does not direct the application of a payment, the creditor may apply it as he sees fit. In the case of Merchants Ins. Co. v. Herber, 68 Minn. 420, cited by defendants as sustaining their contention, the payments, the application of which was in dispute, were of money belonging to the creditors, and in Young v. Swan, 100 Iowa, 323, the money belonged to the party against whom it was sought to enfore a lien. But in the present case it would seem that the money in question was the property of A, and that according to the rules generally followed C had a perfect right to apply it to the former account. See: 2 Parsons, Cont., 634; Pardee v. Markle, 111 Pa. 548, 56 Am. Rep. 299; Stamford Bank v. Benedict, 15 Conn. 437; Hanson v. Rounsavell, 74 Ill. 238; Harding v. Tefft, 75 N. Y. 461. See, also, 12 L. R. A. 131, note."

The opinion discloses that the surety was sued as a co-defendant with the debtor, but does not comment on that as important. Query whether the creditor suing on a contract between others for his benefit is not bound by the rights of the parties thereto? If so the material man must have made such applications as the parties between themselves would have been bound to make or he could not enforce the contract liability. On this reasoning the decision can be defended from criticism.

76. Crane Co. v. Pacific Heat & Power Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 460.

77. Rowan v. Chenoweth [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 80; Johnson v. Foster [Iowa] 101 N. W. 741.

78, 79. First Nat. Bank v. National Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 401.

80. Monthly balances. Boyd v. Agriculture Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986.

81. People v. Grant [Mich.] 102 N. W. 226.

82. Civ. Code 1895, § 2883. Becker v. Shaw, 120 Ga. 1003, 48 S. E. 408. See 2 Curr. L. 1160, n. 53.

83. Bosworth v. Kinghorn, 94 App. Div. 187, 87 N. Y. S. 983.

84. A consolidated lease of school lands being void payments made thereon should be applied to constituent leases in good standing. Scott v. Slaughter [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 643.

security cannot be applied to other than the debt secured.[85] A court of common law cannot compel a party to apply money conditionally received from one joint debtor, but not actually appropriated, in favor of another who was equally liable.[86] The application of payment being a question for the jury, it is the business of the court to direct the jury how the payments should be applied, upon a state of facts which it may find to exist.[87]

§ 3. Effect of tender or payment.[88]—A tender is an admission of liability[89] to the one to whom tender is made,[90] and, though the offer be withdrawn, it may be proven as an admission of indebtedness.[91] But it has been held that where a tender if unaccepted is deemed withdrawn, an unaccepted tender in an action for breach of contract is not an admission of the terms of the contract and of the breach alleged.[92] Defendant amending his answer so as to withdraw an admission of indebtedness and setting up a counterclaim and demanding affirmative relief the court may relieve him from a tender which has been paid into court.[93] Payment of debt amounts to a satisfaction of evidences of indebtedness held as collateral.[94]

§ 4. Payment or tender as an issue. A. Pleading.[95]—Payment is an affirmative defense which must be pleaded,[96] though in some states payment may be proved under a plea of nil debet.[97] Plaintiff alleging nonpayment a denial of the allegation is proper as a part of a defense of payment.[98] Under an answer of payment of the entire debt, part payment may be proved as a defense pro tanto.[99] The court may, in its discretion, allow a plea of payment to be withdrawn before impaneling the jury.[1] It is not necessary that the complaint show a strict legal tender, an equitable tender being sufficient.[2] The money paid into court being legal tender, the complaint need not allege that it is the "lawful money" alleged to have been tendered.[3]

(§ 4) B. Presumptions and burden of proof.[4]—Person alleging payment[5] by

85. Land conveyed as security for debt held under agreement could not be applied to indebtedness arising thereafter. Berner v. German State Bank [Iowa] 101 N. W. 156.

86. Hudson v. Baker, 185 Mass. 122, 70 N. E. 419.

87. Hoskins' Adm'r v. Brown [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1161.

89. A tender in a tort action is a conclusive admission of plaintiff's cause of action, and of the existence of every fact essential to maintain such action. Wells v. Missouri-Edison Elec. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 204. See 2 Curr. L. 1161, n. 65, 66.

90. A tender by a purchaser at a receiver's sale to an assignee of a mortgage on the land amounts to a recognition of the assignee's ownership of the mortgage. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 102 N. W. 604.

91. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926. Defendant would, of course, have the right to answer and explain the same. Id.

92. Young v. Stickney [Or.] 79 P. 345.

93. Mann v. Sprout, 102 App. Div. 60, 92 N. Y. S. 372.

94. Note and mortgage. Brosseau v. Lowy, 209 Ill. 405, 70 N. E. 901.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1161.

96. Selleck v. Garland, 184 Mass. 596, 69 N. E. 345. A denial cannot raise the issue. First Nat. Bank v. Jennings, 44 Misc. 374, 89 N. Y. S. 995. Code Civ. Proc. § 500. In the absence of such a plea evidence of payment is inadmissible. Rogers v. Simonson & Son Co., 90 N. Y. S. 298. Where an obligation requires a specific sum of money to be paid at a certain time, allegation and proof of payment are strictly a matter of defense Montgomery v. Leuwer [Minn.] 102 N. W. 367. See 2 Curr. L. 1161, n. 68.

97. Under Code 1887, § 3298; 2 Code 1904, p. 1737, it is immaterial that the payments are described as offsets. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

98. Flournoy v. Osgood, 90 N. Y. S. 972.

99. Elm City Lumber Co. v. Mackenzie [Conn.] 58 A. 10.

1. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926. This discretion will not be reviewed unless abused. Id. The general rule that pleadings cannot be changed after a case has been opened to the jury is not applicable to the above case. Id.

2. Where it was prayed that if tender was insufficient the plaintiff offered to pay the amount the court found due. Bowen v. Gerhold, 32 Ind. App. 614, 70 N. E. 546.

3. Where the money was paid in in the presence and under the supervision of the court. Bowen v. Gerhold, 32 Ind. App. 614, 70 N. E. 546.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1161.

5. Ewing's Adm'rs v. Ewing, 26 Ky. L. R. 580, 82 S. W. 292; Galbraith v. Starks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2090, 79 S. W. 1191. Estate of a decedent. Taylor v. Taylor's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 832. Suit to foreclose a mortgage. Tisdale v. Mallett [Ark.] 84 S. W. 481.

a certain instrument[6] must prove the allegation, though failure to sustain the burden may be waived.[7] A receipt is only prima facie evidence of payment,[8] and the person giving it has the burden of showing that it is incorrect.[9]

The presumption of payment after the lapse of twenty years does not arise where there is affirmative proof that the debt has not been paid, or where there are circumstances accounting for the creditor's delay,[10] the question being one for the jury.[11] Payment of a debt recently created by a written instrument still outstanding will not be presumed.[12] Possession of a note by the payee raises a presumption of nonpayment,[13] and such presumption is not overcome by the fact that after the maturity of such note the payee thereof, in a separate transaction, executed a note to the maker.[14] The word "received" generally stamps a paper as evidence of a payment, not an obligation to pay.[15] In Massachusetts there exists a prima facie presumption that a negotiable promissory note is payment of the debt for which it is taken,[16] and the fact that giving effect to the presumption will deprive a party of his security will go a long way toward rebutting the same.[17] The giving of notes is presumptive evidence of a settlement of an account claimed to exist, or of a payment of previous accounts.[18] As to whether or not a transfer of negotiable paper amounts to a payment or a purchase depends upon the circumstances of the case and the intent of the parties.[19] A presumption of partial payment may arise from the pleadings.[20]

(§ 4) C. Evidence. Admissibility.[21]—Entries made by a merchant in the usual course of his business are admissible,[22] unless self-serving.[23] In an action on a note, it may be shown that there were other demands owing at the time from the maker to the payee.[24] The note being held by the maker, it may be introduced though not marked "paid."[25]

6. One alleging payment by a check containing the words "in full of all demands" must prove that the check contained such words when accepted by the creditor. Decker v. Laws [Ark.] 85 S. W. 425.

7. In an action for rent though plaintiff fail to establish nonpayment, if defendant proceeds plaintiff has a right to rely on defendant's statement that it has not been paid. Butler v. Carillo, 88 N. Y. S. 941.

8. Anderson v. Davis [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 157. May be explained or contradicted by parol. Lynn v. Bean [Ala.] 37 So. 515. See 2 Curr. L. 1162, n. 84-86. See, also, Evidence, 3 Curr. L. 1334.

9. That it was not intended as full payment. Decker v. Laws [Ark.] 85 S. W. 425.

10. O'Hara v. Corr [Pa.] 59 A. 1099. See 2 Curr. L. 1162, n. 89.

11. So held where several witnesses declared that deceased debtor had declared that he had not paid the debt. O'Hara v. Corr [Pa.] 59 A. 1099.

12. Fein v. Meier [N. J. Law] 58 A. 114.

13, 14. Sarraille v. Calmon, 142 Cal. 651, 76 P. 497.

15. Rowan v. Chenoweth [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 80.

16. Paddock & Fowler Co. v. Simmons [Mass.] 71 N. E. 298.

17. In an action on a written guaranty, a note given to the guarantee for the loss thereunder is not conclusively presumed to operate as payment pro tanto. Paddock & Fowler Co. v. Simmons [Mass.] 71 N. E. 298.

18. Downs v. Downs [Iowa] 102 N. W. 431.

19. Note paid after maturity by cashier of collecting bank, the cashier not being liable on the note, held a purchase. Sturgis v. Baker, 43 Or. 236, 72 P. 744. Payment of note by a third party held a purchase though note was stamped "paid" by the unauthorized act of a bank official. Ashburn v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 72 S. W. 242. Although marked "paid" note not deemed satisfied where substitute note, forming payment, is forgery. Central Nat. Bank v. Copp, 184 Mass. 328, 68 N. E. 334. In absence of statement otherwise, holder of note of corporation may assume that check of a stockholder and director, delivered by secretary and treasurer, is in payment, not as purchase, of the note. Henderson v. Shaffer, 110 La. 481, 34 So. 644.

20. Defendants denying payment and in their petition for a new trial alleging that only a certain sum had been paid, held to raise a presumption that the debt was not entirely paid. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1163.

22. Storekeeper's books are not evidence as to an account therein relative to the purchase of land and payment therefor; this not being connected with the business. Galbraith v. Starks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2090, 79 S. W. 1191. Account books in which payments would have been entered. Handy & Co. v. Smith [Conn.] 58 A. 694.

23. Entries in books of account held self-serving declarations and inadmissible to negative effect of receipts given. Hudson v. Baker, 185 Mass. 122, 70 N. E. 419.

24. So as to justify an inference that the money claimed to have been paid by the maker had in part at least been applied on the demands. Sarraille v. Calmon, 142 Cal.

Sufficiency.[26]—Mere showing that money passed from debtor to creditor[27] and casual admissions, though in writing,[28] are insufficient to show payment. In some states it is provided by statute that no indorsement or memorandum of payment written on a promissory note shall be sufficient proof of payment to avoid the bar of limitations.[29] The evidence as to payment being conflicting, the question is for the jury.[30]

PAYMENT INTO COURT.[31]

This topic should be read with reference to the ones on payment and tender,[32] and interpleader.[33]

Occasion and propriety.[34]—The time allowed by a decree for payment into court is suspended by appeal.[35]

The payment and its effect.[36]—Defendant on paying the money into court pursuant to an order of interpleader is not entitled to recover costs.[37] A tender being paid into court without condition, the opposite party may take it as his own without waiving any of his claims.[38]

Custody and liabilities.[39]—A depositary of court money is entitled to a strict compliance with the terms of a judicial order before making payment out of the fund.[40]

Payment, surrender or distribution.[41]—Where the fund in the hands of the clerk has been obtained by void garnishment proceedings, it should be returned to the garnishee.[42]

PEDDLING.[43]

§ 1. Definition (962).
§ 2. Statutory or Municipal Regulation (962).
§ 3. Who May Become Licensees (963).
§ 4. Offenses and Prosecution (963).

651, 76 P. 497. In such case held not error to admit notes signed by a third person and made payable to the maker of the note in suit and by him transferred, for value received, to the payee in the latter note. Id.

25. Chouteau Land & Lumber Co. v. Chrisman, 172 Mo. 610, 72 S. W. 1062.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1163.

27. Debtor must show that money was to be applied on debt, or that there was no other indebtedness. Galbraith v. Starks, 25 Ky. L. R. 2090, 79 S. W. 1191.

28. Anderson v. Davis [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 157.

29. Evidence that one of two defendants did not make indorsements is not proof that the payments were made by either defendant [Mills' Ann. St. § 2921]. Coulter v. Bank of Clear Creek County [Colo. App.] 72 P. 602.

30. Held error for the court to compel the jury to credit defendant's testimony. Linsell v. Linsell [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1009.

ILLUSTRATIONS. Sufficiency of evidence: One admitting an indebtedness of $750 for goods bought and a note for $75 against him, held evidence of payment of $758.60 was insufficient to show payment of note. Carpenter v. Rosenbaum [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1047. Plea of payment of $1,000 held not sustained by the introduction of a check and receipt, each for $500, and bearing the same date, the check not indicating the purpose for which it was given. Ewing's Adm'rs v. Ewing, 26 Ky. L. R. 580, 82 S. W. 292. Defendant admitting that he received goods, but not remembering having paid for them, there is no proof of payment. Carter & Co. v. Weber [Mich.] 101 N. W. 818. In a suit to establish a lien on land evidence held insufficient to show payment of title bond. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562. Evidence held sufficient to show note was accepted in full settlement of debt. Clarkson Sawmill Co. v. Patrick, 2 Neb. Unoff. 191, 96 N. W. 211. Evidence held sufficient to warrant the jury to sustain the defense of payment. Hawver v. Ingalls [Minn.] 101 N. W. 604.

31. See 2 Curr. L. 1163. For full discussion of subject and forms, see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 368, 369.

32. See Payment and Tender, 4 Curr. L. 955.

33. See Interpleader, 4 Curr. L. 249.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1163.

35. Ruzicka v. Hotovy [Neb.] 101 N. W. 328.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1164.

37. Scharff v. Supreme Lodge K. H., 96 App. Div. 632, 89 N. Y. S. 168.

38. Taking it after judgment but before reversal on appeal does not estop him from further prosecution of his action. Tilden v. Gordon & Co., 34 Wash. 92, 74 P. 1016.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1164.

40. Order requiring payment to be made to the administrators of a certain decedent, the check drawn pursuant thereto must contain the name of the decedent. Holt v. Colonial Trust Co., 97 App. Div. 305, 89 N. Y. S. 955.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1164.

42. Yeiser v. Cathers [Neb.] 102 N. W. 612. [The court intimates that if a claimant should, by proper averments in a proceed-

§ 1. Definition.[44]—A peddler is a small retail dealer who carries his merchandise with him, traveling from place to place, and from house to house, exposing his goods for sale, and selling and delivering them to consumers rather than to dealers.[45] It has been held that there can be no distinction in principle between the party who peddles his own product and the one who buys his stock from the producer and peddles it;[46] but under the statutes of most states a farmer selling his farm products is not a hawker or peddler within the understood meaning of such terms.[47]

§ 2. Statutory or municipal regulation.[48]—In most states the occupation of peddling is regulated by statute,[49] the method generally being by the imposition of a license tax. The amount of the license fee is not limited to an amount which will cover the expense of issuing it, but it may include the reasonable cost of policing the business, and such further reasonable sum as may be deemed necessary in order to secure the orderly pursuit of the business, by excluding therefrom irresponsible and disorderly persons,[50] and these are considerations for the municipal authorities rather than for the courts.[51] Statutes upon the subject will be strictly construed,[52] and do not embrace vendors of merchandise not ejusdem generis with articles expressly enumerated.[53]

Constitutionality.[54]—Such statutes must observe the requirements of the Federal and state constitutions, hence they must not constitute class legislation,[55] interfere with interstate commerce,[56] deny anyone the equal protection of the law,[57]

ing to which the garnishee and others interested are made parties, show that he is entitled to some legal or equitable claim to the fund, the above order would not be made.]

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1165.

For the licensing and regulation of analogous occupations, as transient merchants, etc., see Licenses, 4 Curr. L. 428.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1165.

45. State v. Jensen [Minn.] 100 N. W. 644. Commercial traveler selling goods by sample is not a peddler. Wrought Iron Range Co. v. Campen, 135 N. C. 506, 47 S. E. 658. That employer shipped goods to salesman, in such quantities as would in his judgment supply the trade at that point, the shipment being timed so as to arrive at the same time as the salesman, held not to constitute the latter a peddler. Kloss v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 655. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 155 applies to an agent of a wholesale merchant if he carries the goods, which he is selling, with him. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621. The phrase "taking orders" in a statute does not contemplate that agent shall have goods with him at time of sale. Id. Sale must be to consumers. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 1187, 83 S. W. 557. Oil company selling oil from wagons directly to consumers held a peddler. Id., 26 Ky. L. R. 142, 80 S. W. 1150. That purchasers allowed employes to buy the article at retail price does not make them retailers. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1165, n. 25.

46. State v. Jensen [Minn.] 100 N. W. 644.

47. City of St. Louis v. Meyer [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 914. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 6146, 6258, 8861, a city has no authority to declare such a farmer a peddler and require him to obtain a license. Id. Ordinance prohibiting farmer from selling the products of his farm without taking out a license is in violation of Sess. Laws 1901, p. 156, § 8. Ex parte Snyder [Idaho] 79 P. 819. Beef from slaughtered animals raised and slaughtered on the farm is the product of the farm. Id.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1165.

49. Gen. St. 1902, §§ 4662-4668, making it an offense for an itinerant vendor to expose goods for sale without having a license, does not forbid a transient sale unless made by one of a class of wandering, intermittent traders. State v. Feingold [Conn.] 59 A. 211.

50. State v. Jensen [Minn.] 100 N. W. 644; Kansas City v. Overton, 68 Kan. 560, 75 P. 549. Ordinance requiring hawker to pay $35 for six months and a helper to pay $15 for the same time is not unreasonable. Id. City license of $125 a year held not unreasonable. State v. Jensen [Minn.] 100 N. W. 644. Fees are not excessive where highest fee provided is not more than 16 cents per day. Murphy v. Columbus, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 484.

51. Kansas City v. Overton, 68 Kan. 560, 75 P. 549.

52. Standard Oil Co. v. Swanson, 121 Ga. 412, 49 S. E. 262; Kloss v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 655.

53. Standard Oil Co. v. Swanson, 121 Ga. 412, 49 S. E. 262. Oil handled in bulk and sold in quantity is not ejusdem generis with patent medicines, jewelry, paper, soap, etc. Id.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1165.

55. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 156, § 8, by which it is sought to confine the taking of orders for goods sold to merchants only, is class legislation. Rest of such section is valid. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 P. 621. Comp. Laws 1897, c. 136, requiring hawkers and peddlers to have licenses and by its terms not applying to manufacturers, merchants, etc., is not objectionable as class legislation. People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598.

56. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 156, § 8 applies to farm products of other states as well as of Idaho, and in no manner interferes with interstate commerce. In re Abel [Idaho] 77 or be mere arbitrary restrictions on trade,[58] and must conform to constitutional requirements as to the titles of legislative acts.[59] The license taxation of commercial travelers is not germane to the license taxation of peddlers or hawkers.[60] A municipal ordinance must not discriminate.[61]

§ 3. Who may become licensees.—While a peddler's license cannot issue to a corporation as such, it is competent for a corporation desiring to peddle its goods to take out a license in the name of a designated agent.[62]

§ 4. Offenses and prosecution.[63]—A conditional sale accompanied by the delivery of the article constitutes a "sale."[64] The offense of peddling without a license is indictable in some states,[65] and a corporation may be punished criminally for peddling through the medium of an unlicensed agent.[66] The person in charge of a corporation's business at the time of its peddling through the medium of an unlicensed agent may be convicted of the offense.[67]

PEDIGREE, see latest topical index.

PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES.

§ 1. Definitions and Elements (963).
§ 2. Rights and Liabilities to Penalties and Forfeitures, and the Policy of the Law (964).
§ 3. Remedies and Procedure (967).

§ 1. Definitions and elements.[68]—Penal laws, strictly speaking, are those imposing punishment for an offense committed against the state.[69] The test is

P. 621. License tax imposed by Revenue Act 1903, § 36 is void in so far as it affects sales by sample of goods manufactured in another state, shipped into the state and delivered in their original packages. Wrought Iron Range Co. v. Campen, 135 N. C. 506, 47 S. E. 658. [See this case for a full, clear and splendid review of the cases relating to the interstate commerce law.] See 2 Curr. L. 1165, n. 29.

NOTE. Peddling as related to interstate commerce: A state tax on peddlers who carry goods and deliver them when they sell them is not unconstitutional as a regulation of interstate commerce if no discrimination is made against persons or property of other states. Howe Mach. Co. v. Gage, 100 U. S. 676, 25 Law. Ed. 754; Commonwealth v. Gardner, 133 Pa. 284, 19 Am. St. Rep. 645, 7 L. R. A. 666. But a sale by sample of goods not yet brought into the state and owned by a nonresident cannot be subjected to a state tax or license fee, such a tax constituting a regulation of interstate commerce. Robbins v. Shelby County Taxing Dist., 120 U. S. 490, 30 Law. Ed. 695; Stoutenburgh v. Hennick, 129 U. S. 141, 32 Law. Ed. 637.—From note to In re Spain [U. S.] 14 L. R. A. 97.

57. Rev. St. 1898, § 1570 et seq., as amended by Laws 1901, p. 477, c. 341, requiring peddlers to have a license, but excepting therefrom certain specified persons, held void. State v. Whitcom [Wis.] 99 N. W. 468.

58. Gen. St. 1902, §§ 4662-4668, requiring itinerant venders to deposit $500, which deposit should be surrendered when license expired, held not a mere arbitrary restriction on trade. State v. Feingold [Conn.] 59 A. 211. This provision may be sustained even though one in behalf of creditors be held unconstitutional. Id.

59. Act No. 49 of 1904 is void as being broader than its title and discriminating against home merchants. Beary v. Narrau, 113 La. 1034, 37 So. 961. Acts 1895, p. 207, No. 137, being unconstitutional in so far as it attempted to extend Acts 1889, p. 284, No. 204, to the Lower Peninsula without any recital of such intent expressed in its title, is ineffectual to repeal the provisions of the General Statutes. People v. De Blaay [Mich.] 100 N. W. 598. Comp. Laws 1897, c. 136, held not objectionable on the ground that an unconstitutional statute cannot be made valid by amendment. Id.

60. Beary v. Narrau, 113 La. 1034, 37 So. 961.

61. City ordinance exempting one personally selling the products of his own or leased lands held valid. Kansas City v. Overton, 68 Kan. 560, 75 P. 549. An ordinance requiring the payment of license fees by peddlers is not discriminating because it seems to exempt other vehicles than those mentioned. Murphy v. Columbus, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 484.

62. Crall v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 638.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1166.

64. Crall v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 638.

65. Indictment that defendant did sell * * and offer to sell goods, wares and merchandise, to wit, oil, to * * six different, distinct and separate times, it being then an itinerant peddler, without having first secured a license so to do, held sufficient. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 142, 80 S. W. 1150. See 2 Curr. L. 1166, n. 33.

66. Crall v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 638.

67. Vice-president. Crall v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 638. One who became manager after illegal peddling cannot be convicted therefor. Id.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1166.

69. Whitlow v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 618. Vermont statute (V. S. 2359), providing for forfeiture of certain sum by anyone having custody of will who whether the wrong sought to be redressed is a wrong to the public or to the individual.[70]

As a general rule the intention of the parties controls in determining whether a sum contracted to be paid on nonperformance of a covenant is to be construed as liquidated damages or a penalty.[71] Where the contract provides for the payment of a certain sum as liquidated damages for the nonperformance of a specific act, which may result in damages of an uncertain character, and there is nothing inconsistent therewith in other parts of the contract, such sum is liquidated damages.[72] But it will not be so regarded unless it bears such proportion to the actual damages that it may reasonably be presumed to have been arrived at upon a fair estimation of the parties of the compensation to be paid for the prospective loss.[73] The fact that it is or is not called liquidated damages is not necessarily controlling.[74] The question is one for the court.[75] Where the damages are liquidated, actual damages need not be alleged or proved.[76]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities to penalties and forfeitures, and the policy of the law.[77]—Penalties are not favored in the law,[78] and those seeking to recover them must show the existence of the conditions precedent to their right thereto.[79] Statutes creating them are to be strictly construed,[80] but not so strictly as to defeat the fails to deliver it to executor or probate court, is penal. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

70. Whitlow v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 618.

71. Santa Fe St. R. Co. v. Schutz [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 39. Agreement will control where case is one in which parties are at liberty to so agree, unless unreasonable, unconscionable or inconsistent with other parts of contract. Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643.

72. Provision that, in consideration of a certain sum paid it by a property owner, a street railway would operate entire line for a certain period, and that if it did not it would pay him an equal sum with interest, held to provide for liquidated damages, though such sum was not so named. Santa Fe St. R. Co. v. Schutz [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 39. Agreement to pay five cents a gallon for milk not delivered held for liquidated damages. Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643.

73. Will be considered penalty if greatly exceeds actual loss. Santa Fe St. R. Co. v. Schutz [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 39.

74. Santa Fe St. R. Co. v. Schutz [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 39; Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643.

75. Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643.

76. Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643.

See, also, Damages, § 1, 3 Curr. L. 997.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1166.

78. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Peck [Mo.] 85 S. W. 387.

79. Demand held necessary to recover 15 per cent. penalty on tax bills under St. Louis charter, art. 6, § 24. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Peck [Mo.] 85 S. W. 387.

80. Virginia Act April 16, 1903, § 50, as amended by Act May 13, 1903 (Va. Code 1904, pp. 2223-2224), requiring peddlers to obtain licenses, though a revenue law, is penal in so far as it imposes a penalty for its violation. Kloss v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 666; United States v. York, 131 F. 323; Schmidt v. Justus, 92 N. Y. S. 362.

Particular statutes construed. Refusal to satisfy mortgage: The Alabama statute prescribes a penalty for failure of a mortgagee receiving a partial payment to enter the date and amount thereof on the margin of the record of the mortgage within 30 days after being requested by the mortgagee to do so [Code 1896, § 1065]. Lynn v. Bean [Ala.] 37 So. 515. No particular form of words is necessary to constitute a sufficient request. All that is necessary is that the words used be such as shall reasonably inform the mortgagee that such entry is desired. Notice held sufficient. Id. The notice is admissible in evidence in an action for the penalty. Id. Evidence that mortgage was satisfied of record after suit was brought held inadmissible. Id. The burden is on defendant to show that the mortgage was wholly paid before the request was made. Id.

Right of action to recover forfeitures for cutting and carrying away trees on forest preserve given by N. Y. Laws 1895, c. 395, § 280 is not taken away by Laws 1896, c. 114. People v. Francisco, 76 App. Div. 262, 78 N. Y. S. 423. Defendant cannot question the validity of tax deeds recorded more than two years before the trespass. Id.

Refusal of railroad to receive merchandise: State may impose penalty, though goods are to be shipped outside state. Where jury found that car was properly loaded, company liable for penalty imposed by N. C. Code 1883, § 1964, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 788, c. 444. Not interference with interstate commerce. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654.

N. C. Laws 1903, p. 999, c. 590, providing penalty for failure of carrier to transport goods within specified time, does not affect common law duty to transport them within reasonable time, or apply to action for breach thereof. Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 1.

Under Kirby's Dig. Ark. §§ 5438, 5456, 5460, 5461, town may adopt ordinance prescribing obvious intention of the legislature.[81] They will never be extended by implication.[82]

The concurrence of a criminal statute does not exclude penal liability.[83] It has been held in New York that a penalty "for every refusal" does not import a cumulation of penalties, but only one penalty to the aggrieved person,[84] which holding departs from the earlier ones.[85] manner of constructing railroad crossings and provide penalties for failure to comply therewith. Hughes v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 773.

The Federal statute providing that all penalties and forfeitures imposed for violation of the postal laws shall be recoverable, one-half to the use of the person informing or prosecuting for the same, and the other half to be paid into the treasury, does not apply to criminal prosecutions so as to entitle one furnishing information on which they were instituted to a share of the money accepted by the government in compromise of the cases [Rev. St. § 4059; Comp. St. 1901, p. 2757]. Leathers v. U. S., 127 F. 776.

Inspection of vessels: U. S. Rev. St. § 4499, providing a penalty for navigating steam vessels without inspection and without a licensed engineer, does not apply to vessels propelled by gasoline. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

Failure to assess taxable property: Wisconsin Laws 1901, p. 550, c. 379, § 5, providing that any member of a board of review who unlawfully omits or agrees to omit from assessment property liable to taxation shall forfeit a certain sum, is not unconstitutional as contrary to public justice. State v. Zillmann, 121 Wis. 472, 98 N. W. 543.

Town treasurers and sureties liable for penalty provided for by Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 1117, for failure to settle for taxes included in tax rolls, where improperly accepted certificates in lieu of cash. Oneida County v. Tibbetts [Wis.] 102 N. W. 897.

Cancellation of fidelity bond: Texas Acts 1897, p. 247, c. 165, § 9, denouncing penalty against company cancelling bond guaranteeing fidelity of employe, which fails to give latter its reasons for so doing on request, does not apply to palace car company acting as agent of surety company. Davis v. Pullman Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 635. Section 8 of said act, prescribing what acts shall constitute one an agent of a surety company, does not render palace car company liable to employe compelled to resign because of cancellation of his bond by surety company, where car company has done no act which, had it been done by the surety company, would have rendered it liable for the penalty. Id. Evidence insufficient to show violation of act by car company, in that it failed to show that it ever sollcited business for car company or otherwise acted as its agent. Id.

Laws of Connecticut provide penalty for failure of administrator to file inventory within two months after acceptance of his bond, unless before suit is brought he shall make excuse therefor, acceptable to the court [Gen. St. 1888, §§ 578, 579]. Atwood v. Lockwood, 76 Vt. 555, 57 A. 279. Excuse must be made to and accepted by court and entered on records, and oral excuse made to and accepted by judge is insufficient. Id. Can only be proved by records. Id.

Unlawful traffic in milk cans: N. Y. Laws 1902, p. 1135, c. 482 does not apply to cans in such condition as not to be susceptible of further use for milk. Schmidt v. Justus, 92 N. Y. S. 362. Dismissal of complaint before plaintiff rested, on introduction of evidence that plaintiff found can full of ashes and with top cut off, held error. Should have been allowed to show its condition. Id.

Diamond contracts: Leases to be redeemed in diamonds held violation of Mass. Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 7, providing for forfeiture of franchise of corporation selling bonds, etc., to be redeemed in numerical or any arbitrary order without regard to amount previously paid. Attorney General v. Preferred Mercantile Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 669. Statute constitutional. Id.

Violation of game laws: Wis. Laws 1901, p. 518, c. 358, § 22, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 720, c. 437, § 20, providing penalty for shipping certain fish, held constitutional. State v. Nergaard [Wis.] 102 N. W. 899. Whether fish were taken from inland waters of state is for jury, on conflicting evidence. Id.

N. C. Code, § 754, providing penalty for allowance of unverified account by county commissioners, held mandatory. Turner v. McKee [N. C.] 49 S. E. 330.

Failing to record town plats: Mississippi statute (Rev. Code 1892, § 4403), imposing penalty on anyone selling lots in any town, or subdivision thereof or addition thereto "hereafter laid out," without recording a plat, does not apply to plats of towns previously incorporated, nor to private surveys made prior to its passage. Wellborn v. Muller [Miss.] 36 So. 544.

81. Words of statute should not be so narrowed as to exclude cases which they, in their ordinary acceptation, or in sense in which legislature obviously used them, would comprehend. United States v. York, 131 F. 323.

82. Kloss v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 655. Case must come within the very terms of the statute. Davis v. Pullman Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 635. Where the statute is grammatically accurate and its meaning is not obscure, its scope cannot be extended by repunctuation. U. S. Rev. St. § 5424 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 3668), relating to forged naturalization certificates, construed. United States v. York, 131 F. 323. Not to be extended beyond plain meaning by implication or construction. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784. To extend them to cases not specifically described, the intention of the legislature must be ascertained from the words of the act and not made out by conjecture or based on probabilities. Id.

83. Taking illegal fees [Shannon's Code Tenn. § 6353]. Plyley v. Allison [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 475. The fact that defendant acted in good faith is no defense. Id.

84. Griffin v. Interurban St. R. Co. [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 513.

Private property cannot be forfeited for the alleged violation of law by its owner, nor destroyed by way of penalty inflicted upon him without giving him an opportunity to be heard,[86] unless it is such as can only be used for an illegal purpose, in which case it may be declared a nuisance and summarily abated.[87]

A judgment cannot be rendered against defendant in ejectment as a penalty for failure to comply with a rule of court,[88] and a statute authorizing the court to strike out a party's answer on his refusal to attend when required and give his deposition is unconstitutional, as tending unduly to restrict the right to defend an action.[89]

Instruments creating forfeitures will be strictly construed,[90] and their terms will never be extended by construction.[91] The right to declare a forfeiture must be distinctly reserved,[92] the proof of the happening of the event on which the right is to be exercised must be clear,[93] the party entitled to do so must exercise his right promptly,[94] and the result of enforcing the forfeiture must not be unconscionable.[95]

The right may be waived.[96] Subsequent acceptance of rent accruing before forfeiture of a lease will not waive such forfeiture,[97] but acceptance of that accruing after forfeiture will do so.[98]

85. "For each refusal" is cumulative. Suydam v. Smith, 52 N. Y. 383, cited in note "Cumulative Penalties and Stare Decisis," 5 Columbia L. R. 156. Penalty provided for failure to post time of arrival of trains held cumulative. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

86. Neb. Comp. St. 1901, c. 31, art. 3, § 3, in so far as it provides for seizure and forfeiture of guns, dogs, etc., of persons hunting without a license without a hearing, is unconstitutional as depriving them of their property without due process of law. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505.

87. McConnell v. McKillip [Neb.] 99 N. W. 505.

See, also, Betting and Gaming, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 505; Fish and Game Laws, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 1430; Nuisance, § 4A; 4 Curr. L. 845.

88. For failure to deposit half of reporter's fee in advance, such action is a deprivation of property without due process of law. Meacham v. Bear Valley Irr. Co., 145 Cal. 606, 79 P. 281. Also not authorized by Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 274 as amended (Amendment of Codes 1880, Code Civ. Proc. p. 54), providing for taxing of such fees as costs. Id.

89. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1991. Summerville v. Kelliher, 144 Cal. 155, 77 P. 889.

90. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 68 Kan. 126, 74 P. 625. Conditions providing for the forfeiture of an estate are to be construed liberally in favor of the holder of the estate, and strictly against the enforcement of the forfeiture [Cal. Civ. Code, § 1442]. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638. Every presumption is against the forfeiture and the grantee must clearly show the existence of conditions authorizing it. One claiming that land granted for reclamation purposes has reverted to grantor must show that it has ceased to be used for such purposes. Id. Evidence held to sustain finding that land had never ceased to be so used. Id. Conveyance by grantee for same purposes held not to show that premises had ceased to be so used or to work forfeiture. Id.

91. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 68 Kan. 126, 74 P. 625.

92. Contract granting right to drill for oil and gas cannot be forfeited for breach of a condition in absence of stipulation to that effect. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 68 Kan. 126, 74 P. 625. Forfeitures are not favored in law, and the burden is on the one who claims the benefit thereof to clearly establish his right. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Jacobson, 105 Ill. App. 283.

93. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 68 Kan. 126, 74 P. 625. Courts of law as well as courts of equity do not favor forfeitures, and requirements for them must be strictly pursued. Where railroad lease required lessee to pay dividends directly to lessor's stockholders, forfeiture will not be declared for failure to do so, where lessor has failed to declare dividends or furnish list of stockholders as required by lease. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932.

94. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 68 Kan. 126, 74 P. 625.

95. Rose v. Lanyon Zinc Co., 68 Kan. 126, 74 P. 625.

For forfeiture of leases, see Landlord and Tenant, 4 Curr. L. 402; Mining and oil and gas leases, Mines and Minerals, 4 Curr. L. 669. For forfeiture of estate for breach of conditions subsequent, see Deeds of Conveyance, § 3, 3 Curr. L. 1068.

96. For waiver of forfeitures of mining leases, see Mines and Minerals, § 7, 4 Curr. L. 670. Where the lessor has, by his conduct, led the lessee to suppose that the rights of forfeiture given by the lease would not be strictly pursued, forfeiture will not be enforced without a notice that in future it will be insisted upon. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932.

97. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932.

98. Lease of railroad. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932.

A provision in a will that legatees contesting its validity shall forfeit their legacies is valid;[99] but it will not be enforced where the contest was justified under the circumstances.[1]

A refusal to allow a husband who feloniously murders his wife to take the proceeds of a life insurance policy belonging to her is not a violation of the constitutional provision that no conviction shall work a forfeiture of estate.[2]

§ 3. Remedies and procedure.[3]—Equity will not enforce a penalty or forfeiture.[4] Equity will ordinarily relieve a tenant against forfeiture for breach of a covenant to pay rent[5] or taxes,[6] and may relieve one from a forfeiture of a contract brought about by the acts of the other party.[7]

99. In re Friend's Estate, 209 Pa. 442, 58 A. 853.

1. In determining whether there was probable cause, court will consider information which contestant had before litigation began. In re Friend's Estate, 209 Pa. 442, 58 A. 853. In cases of doubt, provision will be enforced. Id. Testimony of attorney that he advised contest is of no weight in itself in determining question, but may be taken into consideration. Id.

Note. In re Friend's Estate [Pa.] 58 A. 853. While the law upon the subject of such forfeiture clauses is in a very unsettled condition, the principal case does not seem to accord with the weight of authority. The rule is quite well established in England that in the case of bequests of personal property, a forfeiture clause, if there is no gift over, is merely in terrorem, and void, but if there is a gift over to specified persons, the forfeiture clause will be upheld. In the case of devises of realty, the forfeiture clause will be upheld without a gift over. Cooke v. Turner, 14 Simons, 218, 493; 2 Jarman on Wills [6th Ed.] *p. 902; Redfield on Wills, *298. The American cases present a great diversity of judicial opinion, some enforcing the forfeiture regardless of a gift over and with no distinction between real and personal property. Bradford v. Bradford, 19 Ohio St. 546, 2 Am. Rep. 419; Thompson v. Gaut, 82 Tenn. 310. Such cases maintain the position, also upheld by the English courts, that no question of public policy is involved. Other cases express the opinion, without directly so deciding, however, that all such clauses of forfeiture are void as against the policy or liberty of the law. Mallet v. Smith, 6 Rich. Eq. [S. C.] 12, 60 Am. Dec. 107. Probably the weight of American authority tends in the direction of the English rule. Smithsonian Institution v. Meech, 169 U. S. 398, 42 Law. Ed. 793; Chew's Appeal, 45 Pa. 228; Hoit v. Holt, 42 N. J. Eq. 388, 7 A. 856, 59 Am. Rep. 43; Underhill on Wills, § 511; Rood on Wills, §§ 615-622.—3 Mich. L. R. 167.

2. Never acquired estate therein [Const. art. 1, § 12]. Box v. Lanier [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 1042.

3. See 2 Curr. L. 1168.

4. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519. Suit to recover land praying for cancellation of deed as cloud on title on ground of forfeiture for breach of condition subsequent held suit to enforce forfeiture, though called one to remove cloud on title. Moberly v. Trenton, 181 Mo. 637, 81 S. W. 169. Mortgage to building and loan association to secure loan, increased by adding thereto premiums on shares of stock and monthly dues thereon, all to be paid in monthly instalments, and providing that on failure to pay any instalment all shall become due, will not be foreclosed for full amount, on nonpayment of instalment, without rebate, as for unearned premiums, interest, and dues. Greenville Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Wholey [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 341. Courts of chancery are not the appropriate tribunals to enforce a forfeiture and recover possession of real estate on the strength of an alleged legal title thereto. Notes and deeds held mortgage, and plaintiff entitled to foreclosure. Land v. May [Ark.] 84 S. W. 489. An action to remove as a cloud on plaintiff's title defendants' claim under a contract giving them an option to purchase mining property, which plaintiffs had declared forfeited before the commencement of the action, is not an action to declare a forfeiture. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519. One giving an option to purchase mining property by the payment of the price in instalments at certain dates, time being of the essence of the contract, is not bound to return an instalment previously paid on forfeiture for nonpayment. Id. Mining lease held forfeited by its terms for nonpayment of royalties. Id.

5. Landlord may be compensated with interest. Johnson v. Lehigh Valley Traction Co., 130 F. 932. While the tenant is in possession, equity has no jurisdiction to enforce a forfeiture, the landlord having an adequate remedy in ejectment. Id.

6. Part of rental. Webb v. King, 21 App. D. C. 141. Lessee not guilty of laches. Id. Fact that lessee has allowed land to be sold and a tax deed to be issued held not to prevent relief. Id. If shown that deed was obtained by arrangement to coerce lessee into giving up property and to put purchaser into possession as lessee, such deed cannot prevent equitable relief, and if bona fide title is claimed, court can send issues to court of law to determine validity of deed and retain cause until validity is determined. Id. Bill against lessor and holder of tax deed held not multifarious. Id.

7. Answer in action for damages for breach of contract to supply electrical energy, held to present proper defense and counterclaim, if not for damages, at least as appeal to equitable power of court to relieve from forfeiture brought about by plaintiff. Hudson River Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 43 Misc. 205, 88 N. Y. S. 448.

Federal courts have no jurisdiction of a suit in behalf of a state, or the people thereof, to recover a penalty imposed by way of punishment for a violation of the statute of the state, except in cases where it is given by an express act of congress in order to protect rights under the Federal constitution.[8] Where the action is prosecuted in the name of the state, the fact that the penalty is divided between the prosecuting officer and the county does not change the rule.[9]

The courts of one state will not enforce the penal laws of another state.[10] In determining the character of the statute, the courts of the state where the action is brought are not bound by the construction placed upon it by the courts of the state enacting it.[11]

Actions to recover statutory penalties or forfeitures must generally be brought in the name of the state, in the absence of a provision to the contrary.[12] Ordinarily, unless otherwise provided, a penalty or forfeiture may be recovered in a civil action, the proceedings being the same as in other civil actions.[13] The pleadings, as in other civil actions, are to be construed liberally to meet the ends of justice,[14] and it is sufficient if the case is established by a preponderance of the evidence.[15] A complaint substantially in the language of the statute is sufficient.[16]

Where the statute is a public one, it need not be pleaded.[17] The declaration must contain a substantial averment that the offense was committed against the

8. Action under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 5187 against foreign railroad company for penalty for failure to post time of arrival of trains not removable to Federal court on ground of diverse citizenship. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

9. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

10. Whitlow v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 618.

11. Whitlow v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 618. Alabama Code 1896, § 27, providing for actions by personal representatives in cases of death by wrongful act where deceased would have been entitled to have recovered had he lived is not penal in the international sense. Id.

12. Penalty provided by Tex. Acts 1897, p. 247, c. 165, § 9. against anyone accepting as security a surety company which has not complied with statutory provisions. Davis v. Pullman Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 635. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3295. State v. Nergaard [Wis.] 102 N. W. 899. A complaint made by one styling himself a deputy of the fish and game warden is sufficient, though not stating that it is made on behalf of the state. Id.

13. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3294. State v. Nergaard [Wis.] 102 N. W. 899; State v. Zillmann, 121 Wis. 472, 98 N. W. 543. An action for debt is appropriate. Count to recover delinquent license taxes and count to recover fees due tax commissioners (Ala. Act Feb. 21, 1899, Acts 1898-99, p. 195), held properly joined regardless of whether fees are in nature of costs or a penalty. Southern Car & Foundry Co. v. Calhoun County [Ala.] 37 So. 425. Right to sue for such fees is primarily in county. Id. Vermont Statutes, § 2359, authorizing action on case for penalty for failure to deliver will to executor or probate court, authorizes such action for penalty accruing before it took effect. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

14. State v. Zillmann, 121 Wis. 472, 98 N. W. 543. Complaint in action against member of board of review for forfeiture for failure to assess property liable to taxation (Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 3295), held sufficient. Id. Not defective for failure to describe property omitted, or to allege that defendant acted in his official capacity (Id.), or for failure to specifically allege that property was liable to taxation on certain date. Id. Complaint in action to enforce penalty for failure to post time of arrival of trains in accordance with Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 5187, held sufficient. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174. Not defective as failing to negative statutory exceptions. Id. Evidence sufficient to support judgment for plaintiff. Id. Complaint in action before justice held sufficient. Turner v. McKee [N. C.] 49 S. E. 330. By statute in Wisconsin, in actions to recover forfeitures, it is sufficient to allege in the complaint that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in the amount of the forfeiture claimed, according to the provisions of the statute which imposes it, specifying the section and chapter containing such statute [Rev. St. 1898, § 3295]. State v. Zillmann, 121 Wis. 472, 98 N. W. 543. When such section imposes a forfeiture for several offenses or delinquencies, the particular one must be specified, with a demand for judgment for the amount of such forfeiture. Id.

15. State v. Nergaard [Wis.] 102 N. W. 899.

16. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174. Complaint sufficient. State v. Zillmann, 121 Wis. 472, 98 N. W. 543. If every act necessary to constitute the offense is thereby charged, or necessarily implied. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

17. Imposing a penalty on railroad companies for failure to receive merchandise for transportation [N. C. Code 1883, § 1964, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 788, c. 444]. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654. Need not allege that form of the statute,[18] unless a cause of action existed at common law.[19] Allegations as to statutory provisions wholly unnecessary to the offense charged may be disregarded.[20] In an action for a statutory penalty for refusal of a railroad company to receive merchandise for transportation, a tender thereof to the company must be alleged.[21] A declaration seeking to recover for neglect of two or more separate and distinct statutory duties is bad for duplicity.[22] When an exception is so incorporated with, and becomes a part of, the enactment, as to constitute a part of the definition or description of the offense, it must be negatived.[23]

The New York statute requiring the summons to be served by the marshal applies only to actions brought by a common informer, and not to one brought by a stockholder for a refusal to allow an inspection of corporate books.[24] In that state if a copy of the complaint is not delivered to the defendant with a copy of the summons, a general reference to the statute under which the action is brought must be indorsed upon the copy of the summons so delivered.[25]

The law of Vermont requires that, when an action is commenced on a penal statute, the clerk or magistrate signing the writ shall make a minute thereon in writing under his official signature of the date when the same was signed.[26] A recital of the date in the instrument itself is insufficient.[27]

Under a statute providing a penalty for each month's neglect to do a certain act, each month's neglect is a separate offense within the meaning of the statute of limitations.[28] All for which a recovery may be had may be joined in one count in a complaint.[29]

The validity of the statute imposing the penalty may be determined in an action for its recovery.[30]

Where a penalty is claimed as damages, and recovery of it is sought as measuring the damages, both cannot be recovered.[31] section in revised statutes is same as section in former statute. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

18. Penalty for failure to deliver will to probate court. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

19, 20. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

21. Allegation of tender sufficient. Currie v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co., 135 N. C. 535, 47 S. E. 654.

22. Declaration in action to recover penalty for failure to deliver will to executor or probate court held sufficient. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064.

23. Declaration charging neglect to deliver will to probate court sufficient though there was no averment that defendant did not give probate court satisfactory excuse therefor [V. S. 2359]. Richardson v. Fletcher, 74 Vt. 417, 52 A. 1064. Complaint in action to recover penalty for failure of corporation to allow inspection of stock book (N. Y. Laws 1892, p. 1840, c. 688, § 53, as amended by Laws 1897, p. 314, c. 384, § 3), held fatally defective for failure to negative that it was moneyed or railroad corporation. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 92 N. Y. S. 225. Defendant not confined to objection by demurrer. Id. Defect not cured by judgment. Id.

24. Code Civ. Proc. § 1895. Action for penalty prescribed by Laws 1892, p. 1840, c. 688. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1004. Demurrer held equivalent to general appearance, and a waiver of defects in service. Id.

25. Code Civ. Proc. § 1897. Attaching copy of complaint as subsequently filed with justice on return of summons, which referred to statute, held substantial compliance. Burdick v. Erie R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 122. Same provision in Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1502, c. 580, § 381). Sufficient compliance where summons and copy summons referred to statute, though copy alias summons did not. State Board of Pharmacy v. Jacob, 92 N. Y. S. 836.

26. For purpose of fixing time when running of limitations begins. Will be construed in connection with V. S. 1992, relating to criminal proceedings [V. S. 1993]. Town of Brighton v. Kelsey [Vt.] 59 A. 833.

27. Must be made after the signature. Town of Brighton v. Kelsey [Vt.] 59 A. 833.

28. Statute authorizing recovery of penalty of $20 per month for failure of executor to file inventory (Conn. Gen. St. 1888, §§ 578, 579). Penalties more than year old when suit brought barred by Gen. St. 1902, § 1120. Atwood v. Lockwood, 76 Conn. 555, 57 A. 279.

29. Atwood v. Lockwood, 76 Conn. 555, 57 A. 279.

30. In an action for a penalty for violating an ordinance requiring the closing of saloons, an answer controverting the validity of the ordinance because it had not been published may be filed and the question of fact investigated. McNulty v. Toopf, 25 Ky. L. R. 430, 75 S. W. 258.

31. Suit by town for damages for failure of railroad to construct crossings in manner prescribed by ordinance held inconsistent

The passage by the legislature of an act relieving defendant from liability for a statutory penalty puts an end to a pending action therefor.[32] Plaintiff in such case is not entitled to costs incurred before its passage.[33]

A proceeding in rem to enforce the penalty provided by the Federal statutes for navigating a vessel without inspection and without a licensed engineer is in admiralty, and a decree dismissing the libel is appealable.[34]

PENSIONS.

Exemptions.[35]—In Iowa land purchased with pension money is exempt, and the proceeds of a sale of mineral rights therein is also exempt,[36] but lands so bought and conveyed to the pensioner's wife are not exempt in her hands.[37] The exemption of pension money cannot be waived.[38]

Policemen's and firemen's pensions.[39]—May be provided by statute which at the time applies to but one city.[40] The right does not become vested merely because of holding office as a policeman while an act for pensioning is in force.[41] Nor is there a contractual right where the fund was created by scaling salaries and applying the amount so saved.[42] In New York City one may now be given to an officer who has served for twenty years and must be given if he has served twenty-five years,[43] and the discretion to grant one at the end of twenty years is not controllable by mandamus.[44]

PEONAGE; PERFORMANCE, see latest topical index.

PERJURY.

§ 1. Elements of the Offense (970).
§ 2. Prosecution and Punishment (972). Indictment (972). Admissibility of Evidence (974). Sufficiency of Evidence (974). Instructions (974).

§ 1. Elements of the offense.[45]—Perjury at common law is the willful and corrupt taking of a false oath in a judicial proceeding in regard to a matter material to the issue.[46] The definition, however, in most jurisdictions has been extended to include false swearing not in judicial proceedings,[47] and materiality is not a requisite in Rhode Island.[48] To constitute perjury at common law or under the statutes, there must be an oath[49] administered by some one of competent au-with action to enforce penalties provided for failure to comply therewith. Hughes v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 773. Action held one for damages, and error to transfer it to equity. Id.

32. N. C. Pub. Laws 1903, pp. 132, 133, c. 108, relieving register of deeds from liability for failure to record marriage licenses (Code §§ 1818, 1819), is constitutional. Bray v. Williams [N. C.] 49 S. E. 887. Bill properly passed. Not necessary to notify defendant of its introduction. Id.

33. Bray v. Williams [N. C.] 49 S. E. 887.

34. U. S. Rev. St. § 4499 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 3060). The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1170.

36. Code, § 4009. Smyth v. Hall [Iowa] 102 N. W. 520.

37. Whinery v. McLeod [Iowa] 102 N. W. 132.

38. Justification of bail recited no exemptions. King v. Warren, 42 Misc. 317, 86 N. Y. S. 609.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1171.

40. State v. Board of Trustees, 121 Wis. 44, 98 N. W. 954. Various statutes construed. Id.

41. State v. Board of Trustees, 121 Wis. 44, 98 N. W. 954; Friel v. McAdoo, 91 N. Y. S. 454.

42. State v. Board of Trustees, 121 Wis. 44, 98 N. W. 954.

43, 44. Friel v. McAdoo, 91 N. Y. S. 454.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1171.

46. Clark & M. Crimes, § 431.

47. Clark & M. Crimes, § 431. Pension matters. Noah v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 270.

48. Under a statute which provides that every person of whom an oath or affirmation is required who shall willfully swear or affirm falsely in regard to any matter respecting which such oath or affirmation is required shall be guilty. Materiality is not an element of perjury. State v. Miller [R. I.] 58 A. 882.

49. United States v. Howard, 132 F. 825. Defendant having been sworn on her deposition, it was not necessary to the completion of the oath that she should sign it. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. It is immaterial whether a witness was sworn, if he signs the thority,[50] in a judicial or other proceeding of which the court or officer has jurisdiction;[51] the matter sworn to must be false,[52] or believed to be false, or the witness must not know whether it is true or false; the taking of the false oath must be both willful and corrupt,[53] and the matter sworn to,[54] and the oath,[55] must be material to the issue or question in controversy. While perjury cannot be committed in proceedings in which there is an entire lack of jurisdiction, mere irregularities or informalities not ousting the jurisdiction constitute no defense.[56]

Subornation of perjury[57] consists in procuring another to commit perjury by inciting, investigating or persuading him to do so.[58]

It is not a bar to a prosecution for perjury that defendant's alleged false tes-testimony and makes the statement that he does swear to it. Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

50. United States v. Eddy, 134 F. 114; State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. A deposition may be taken as well by stipulation as by commission, and perjury before a commissioner designated by stipulation is as culpable as any other. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957. Irregular appointment of commissioner to take testimony in divorce suit held sufficient to confer authority on him. Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

51. Where the court has general jurisdiction of the subject-matter, lack of jurisdiction of the case because of nonresidence of the parties, as in divorce, does not oust the jurisdiction so that perjury cannot be committed. Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53. Testimony is not necessarily taken before the court trying the case. It may by stipulation or commission be taken anywhere. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957. Where the defendant was alleged to have committed perjury, in testifying at the perjury trial of another, it is immaterial that this other's false swearing had been done in a case in which the proceedings were void. Quigg v. People, 211 Ill. 17, 71 N. E. 886. There is no perjury in false testimony given under oath, unless the officer who administered the oath had legal authority, or the matter is one of which the tribunal or magistrate has jurisdiction. If the clerk of court had jurisdiction to administer the oath, it will be presumed that the court had jurisdiction to try the cause. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035. A defendant having voluntarily appeared before a clerk of court and given her deposition cannot deny perjury on the ground that the clerk did not have authority to take the deposition. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. See, also, Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

52. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035; United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325; People v. Albers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 908. The falsity must be in point of fact; not mere legal falsity. People v. Wong Fook Sam [Cal.] 79 P. 848.

53. United States v. Lake, 129 F. 499; United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325; United States v. Eddy, 134 F. 114. The answer of a witness under oath being false, it is a sufficient basis for a prosecution, although the attention of the witness was not specifically called to the facts about which he testified falsely. McDonough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 594.

54. Noah v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 270; United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325; Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035; People v. Albers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 908; People v. Root, 94 App. Div. 84, 87 N. Y. S. 962; State v. Booker [Miss.] 36 So. 241; Pyles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 811; Liggett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 807. Any evidence that is relevant is material. State v. Miller [R. I.] 58 A. 882. Where the rule of court requires that an affidavit of bias and prejudice shall state the facts upon which it is based, if the facts stated are false, a prosecution for perjury may be based thereon. State v. Fronizer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 476. If the matter sworn to is circumstantially material or tends to support the witness in respect to the main fact, it is perjury. People v. Root, 94 App. Div. 84, 87 N. Y. S. 962; Pyles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 811; McDonough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 594. A witness who testified falsely as to whether he did or did not make certain contradictory statements is guilty of perjury. Brown v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 705. The testimony need not be material to the main issue. It is enough if it is circumstantially material. State v. Brown [Iowa] 102 N. W. 799. Whether the alleged perjured testimony was material is a question of law for the court. Id. On a prosecution for conversion of a draft, testimony by defendant that he paid the amount of the draft in money to the person to whom he should have delivered, the draft is material. Id. That a question before a grand jury whether defendant had seen certain persons engaged in gambling did not exclude gambling at a private residence, does not prevent defendant's denial of having seen such persons so engaged from being material. Foreman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 809.

55. It is immaterial whether the deposition was used or not, as the offense was complete when the oath was taken. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957; State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. It is no defense to urge that the officer at the time he administered the oath knew that it was false. Thompson v. State, 120 Ga. 132, 47 S. E. 566.

56. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957; Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257; Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1172.

58. Clark & M. Crimes, § 431 (h); United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325; State v. Booker [Miss.] 36 So. 241.

timony helped acquit the defendant in the former case,[59] nor is it a defense that defendant was privileged to refuse to testify.[60]

§ 2. Prosecution and punishment.[61] Jurisdiction.[62]—The Federal courts have jurisdiction to punish perjury in naturalization proceedings, whether committed in state or Federal courts.[63]

Indictment.[64]—An indictment for perjury must clearly and distinctly, without resort to inference or intendment, charge the several elements of the offense, including the taking of the oath[65] before a court or officer authorized to administer it[66] in a judicial[67] or other proceeding in which an oath is authorized, of which the officer or court has jurisdiction,[68] that the matter sworn to was false,[69] or believed to be false, or that the defendant did not know whether it was true

59. State v. Vandemark [Conn.] 58 A. 715; State v. Albers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 908.

60. If a witness waives his privilege and answers incriminating questions, perjury may be predicated on his answers. State v. Faulkner [Mo.] 84 S. W. 967.

61, 62. See 2 Curr. L. 1172.

63. Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1172.

65. The indictment must show by direct averment or equivalent words that the witness was sworn to speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325. An averment that the defendant appeared before the clerk of court to have her deposition taken in a certain cause, and was then and there duly sworn in said cause, sufficiently alleged that an oath was administered. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. An indictment for subornation sufficiently shows the time and place of the perjury by setting out the alleged false affidavit which shows the time and place of its making. United States v. Cobban, 134 F. 290. Averment of false testimony that defendant did not during a certain year see certain named persons bet money on a game of chance at a certain place is sufficiently specific. Foreman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 809.

66. Averment of clerk's authority to administer oath held sufficient. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. The indictment must designate the court in which the perjury occurred. United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325. The name of the judge before whom the oath was taken or of the clerk who administered it need not be shown. Id. The authority of the person administering the oath need not be set out where his authority is such that the court can take judicial notice of it. Register and receiver of land office. United States v. Eddy, 134 F. 114. A description of the court as "a justice of the peace sitting as a court of inquiry" is not sufficient where no such court is known to the law. Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1126. An indictment for perjury in an application to purchase public lands, alleging that the application was sworn to before a person named who was then and there receiver of the United States land office in the district where the land was situated, sufficiently alleges his office. United States v. Cobban, 134 F. 290.

67. The proceeding must be described. Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1126. It is not necessary to allege in an indictment that the false swearing was in a judicial proceeding, when the facts set out in the indictment show this unequivocally. Thompson v. State, 120 Ga. 132, 47 S. E. 566. An indictment setting out the name of the court, its location, term, the parties to the cause, the nature of the action, the judge before whom the case was tried, and that it was tried in due form of law, by a jury taken before the parties and duly sworn, and that the defendant then appeared as a witness and testified falsely, sufficiently charges that the alleged perjury was committed in the course of a judicial proceeding without a specific allegation of that fact. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035.

68. Curtis v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 29; Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035; Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1126. It must appear with certainty from the indictment that there was jurisdiction. But this may be done either by direct averment or by the statement of facts from which the court can see that there was jurisdiction. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035. An indictment for perjury in testifying in a trial in a city court must aver that the crime being tried was committed within the city. Id. See, also, Liggett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 807; Pyles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 811. Where it is averred that the clerk of the court had authority to and did administer the oath, it sufficiently appears that the court had jurisdiction of the subject-matter of the proceeding. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035.

69. Where an indictment negatived time and place of an alleged conversation, but did not negative the fact that the conversation did occur, it was held to be a good indictment in the absence of a claim that the conversation occurred at another place. Jordan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 821. Where the affidavit is partly true and partly false, the part which is false should be specified. Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1126. In case of prosecution for perjury for fraudulently failing to list property on the schedule, the property fraudulently omitted need not be specifically described in more than one count of the same indictment. United States v. Lake, 129 F. 499. An averment that "whereas in truth and in fact as defendant well knew" the fact was otherwise than as stated in the alleged false statement is the proper form to negative the truth of such statement. State v. Brown [Iowa] 102 N. W. 799.

or false, that the false oath was taken willfully,[70] that the matter sworn to[71] and the oath,[72] were material to the issue or question in controversy. Direct averments of each of the several elements, while advisable, are not necessary if the facts set out are such that each element necessarily appears,[73] and as in other prosecutions the rule applies as to averments showing the jurisdiction of the court in which the prosecution is had.[74] As in other offenses, merely formal defects are disregarded by virtue of the various statutes of jeofails.[75] While it must appear either by express averment or necessary inference that the court in which the oath was taken had jurisdiction,[76] all proceedings necessary to confer it need not be set out.[77] In some states the particularity of the allegations in indictments for perjury is regulated by statute.[78]

An indictment for subornation of perjury must contain all the averments necessary in one charging the crime of perjury against the witnesses suborned.[79]

Evidence need not be limited to proof of the exact words alleged; proof of the substance is sufficient,[80] but perjury in testifying to a certain conversation cannot be proved by showing what the witness said at another conversation immediately thereafter.[81] The materiality of the alleged false testimony must be proved.[82]

70. United States v. Lake, 129 F. 499; United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325; United States v. Eddy, 134 F. 114. A charge that defendant falsely, "knowingly and corruptly did declare, testify, and give," certain evidence is sufficient under Code Cr. Proc. § 291. People v. Root, 94 App. Div. 84, 87 N. Y. S. 962.

71. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035; Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1126. Materiality may be shown in two ways; either by direct allegation that the testimony in question was material, or by allegation of facts from the relation of which materiality may be made to appear. State v. Horine [Kan.] 78 P. 411; Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53; Pyles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 811. Materiality must appear either by direct averment or by facts shown. State v. Booker [Miss.] 36 So. 241; Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1126; Brown v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 705. Materiality held sufficiently to appear without express statement. Bankruptcy schedules. United States v. Lake, 129 F. 499. Materiality of deposition held sufficiently to appear, though taken before cause was at issue. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333.

72. Failure to aver that deposition was in fact used is not fatal. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333; Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957. An indictment for perjury contained in a pension affidavit was not objectionable for failure to set out that the affidavit was used by or in behalf of the applicant for whom it was made. Averments set out held material. Noah v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 270.

73. See cases above cited.

74. Indictment need not allege the venue in which the false swearing occurred, if it is sufficiently alleged in stating the facts which occurred. Manning v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 957. Under the Iowa code, the date of the offense need not appear in the indictment, if it can be understood therefrom that the offense was committed prior to the bringing of the indictment. State v. John, 124 Iowa, 230, 100 N. W. 193.

75. No date alleged [U. S. Rev. St. § 1025]. United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325. Willfulness held sufficiently shown. United States v. Eddy, 134 F. 114.

76. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035; Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

77. As for instance, where it is alleged that the trial was on an information, it need not be further alleged that the information was based on a complaint. Curtis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 29. And where it is alleged that the prosecution was for playing a game with cards not at a private house, the name of the game need not be alleged, all playing at places other than private houses being unlawful. Id. The grounds on which a divorce was sought need not be set out. Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

78. Issue held described with sufficient particularity [R. I. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 285, § 5]. State v. Miller [R. I.] 58 A. 882. B. & C. Comp. § 1321. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333.

79. Must show that witness claimed to have been suborned was sworn to speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325. Must designate the court in which the perjury occurred. Id. Must show that the false swearing was willful. Id. Must negative the truthfulness of the testimony, though it need not affirmatively aver what the truth was. Id. Must aver the materiality of the testimony and of the oath. United States v. Howard, 132 F. 325; State v. Booker [Miss.] 36 So. 241. Indictment for subornation held to sufficiently allege scienter of defendant and person suborned. United States v. Cobban, 134 F. 290.

80. Meierholtz v. Territory [Okl.] 78 P. 90.

81. Kizer v. People, 211 Ill. 407, 71 N. E. 1035.

82. Liggett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 807; Pyles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 811; Brown v. State [Fla.] 36 So. 705.

Admissibility of evidence.[83]—Any competent matter tending to show or dispute the taking of the oath,[84] the authority or jurisdiction of the court or officer before whom it was taken,[85] the giving, or the failure to give, the testimony,[86] the falsity or truth of the testimony,[87] or the materiality of the false testimony, are admissible.[88] Where it appears that the accused had sworn to a report of several pages, one of such pages is not inadmissible because he had previously sworn to that page before another attesting officer,[89] nor is it error to admit parol evidence to prove that the oath of the accused subscribed to the report was to the entire report, including the page referred to.[90] The ordinary rules as to secondary evidence apply,[91] and the taking of the oath and the fact of giving the testimony may be proved as well by oral testimony as by the record or other writing.[92] That the final order in naturalization proceedings is void for lack of certain recitals does not render it inadmissible in a prosecution for perjury in such proceedings, and the record may still be used to show the pendency of the proceeding, the jurisdiction of the court, or the giving of the testimony and its materiality.[93]

Sufficiency of evidence.[94]—To establish the taking of the oath or the giving of the testimony as alleged, and its falsity,[95] the evidence must be something more

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1173.

84. Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257. Signature to affidavits filed in a proceeding is admissible to show that the defendant was a witness therein, although the affidavits were signed in blank. Id.

85. State v. Horine [Kan.] 78 P. 411. The complaint filed and warrant served in the action in which the false testimony was given are competent and relevant to prove the institution and pendency of the proceeding to which they related. Id.

86. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333. Evidence of the identity of the person charged in a criminal complaint is admissible to prove that she is the person that the defendant intended to charge and in fact did charge. People v. Jan John, 144 Cal. 284, 77 P. 950. In a prosecution based upon the defendant's false testimony in a civil action, evidence as to what defendant testified to on cross-examination in such action is admissible. McDonough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 594.

87. Where the statute provides that perjury shall be established by the testimony of two credible witnesses, it is proper as touching on a witness' credibility to show upon cross examination that he had been among the county convicts working out a fine for beating his wife. Curtis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 29. A person charged with perjury should be permitted to introduce evidence as to his reputation for truth and veracity; but witness' opinion on this point based on personal knowledge cannot be admitted. People v. Albers [Mich.] 100 N. W. 908. In a prosecution for perjury based on defendant's false testimony in stating that he had never had any other claim for injuries against a railroad company, it was proper to admit evidence that about the time the civil action was commenced defendant stated to witness that he never had been injured on any other railroad. McDonough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 594. Where the alleged false testimony was that defendant did not during a certain year see certain persons engaged in gambling, evidence that he saw them so engaged on several occasions during such year is admissible. Foreman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 809.

88. Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257. Where defendant is accused of perjury in denying an assault on his wife, the circumstances surrounding the alleged assault are material. Townley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 309. Evidence of the testimony actually given in a prosecution for conspiracy may be admitted to show materiality of the alleged false testimony. State v. Vandemark [Conn.] 58 A. 715.

89. The first oath did not affect the falsity of the second, nor render the page inadmissible. Thompson v. State, 120 Ga. 132, 47 S. E. 566.

90. Thompson v. State, 120 Ga. 132, 47 S. E. 566.

91. The justice before whom the false oath was taken may give oral testimony as to the contents of lost documents relating to his title to his office, and as to his public discharge of the duties of the office under a claim of official right. State v. Horine [Kan.] 78 P. 411. Under indictment for swearing to a false report which has been lost, a former indictment for the same offense is admissible in evidence to show the contents of the lost report, where there is evidence that certain names in the indictment and in the lost report are identical. Thompson v. State, 130 Ga. 132, 47 S. E. 566.

92. The record in naturalization proceedings is not the only evidence admissible on a trial for perjury therein, and oral evidence may be admitted to show the commission of the offense. Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257. Parol evidence is admissible to show the testimony given at proceedings to take a deposition, although it was taken by a stenographer, it not having been extended. State v. Woolridge [Or.] 78 P. 333.

93. Schmidt v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 257.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1173.

95. Falsity held shown. State v. Hunter, 181 Mo. 316, 80 S. W. 955. Falsity held not sufficiently shown to support conviction. People v. Root, 94 App. Div. 84, 87 N. Y. S. 962. Evidence held insufficient to show that than sufficient to counterbalance the oath of the prisoner and the legal presumption of his innocence, and the oath of the opposing witness will not avail unless it be corroborated by other independent circumstances. But the additional evidence need not be such as standing by itself would justify a conviction in a case where the testimony of a single witness would suffice.[96] Perjury like any other crime, however, may be proven either by circumstantial evidence, or by more than one credible witness, or by one such witness and independent corroborating evidence or circumstances.[97] The identification and production of the testimony of the accused, with proof of his signature as well as that of the officer taking the testimony, is at least prima facie proof that accused was sworn, and in the absence of contradiction, sufficient.[98]

Instructions.[99]—An instruction as to the necessity that the accusing witness be corroborated must define "corroborated."[100]

PERPETUATION OF TESTIMONY, see latest topical index.

PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS.

§ 1. The Rule Against Perpetuities and Accumulations; Its Nature and Application (975).

§ 2. Computation of the Period and Remoteness of Particular Limitations (976).

§ 3. Operation and Effect, Complete and Partial Invalidity (978).

§ 1. The rule against perpetuities and accumulations; its nature and applications.[1]—The rule against perpetuities is a rule of law and not one of interpretation,[2] and is the same at law as in equity.[3] It is concerned only with the time of vesting of an estate and not with the duration of an estate already vested.[4] accused testified as alleged, or that it was false. Medlock v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 508.

96. State v. Hunter, 181 Mo. 316, 80 S. W. 955.

97. Corroborative evidence against the accused, on a prosecution for perjury, means evidence aliunde which tends to show the perjury, independent of any declaration or admission of the prisoner. State v. Hunter, 181 Mo. 316, 80 S. W. 955. Evidence held to sustain conviction for perjury in denying before a grand jury any knowledge of a matter of bribery under investigation. State v. Faulkner [Mo.] 84 S. W. 967.

98. Markey v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 53.

99. See 2 Curr. L. 1173. Instruction in case where everything except falsity was admitted held correct. People v. Wong Fook Sam [Cal.] 79 P. 848.

100. State v. Hunter, 181 Mo. 316, 80 S. W. 955.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1173. For construction of Deeds and Wills in so far as they create perpetuities see Deeds, § 3, 3 Curr. L. 1062; Wills, § 5D5, 2 Curr. L. 2134. Right to limit alienation of fee or life estate, see Wills, § 5D3, 2 Curr. L. 2125.

2. Instrument first to be interpreted without considering rule, and rule then applied to objects of testator's bounty so ascertained. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

3. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

4. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

See, also, Tiffany on Real Property, p. 344, § 152. Will directed holding and investment of estate for 25 years, payment of certain legacies from income, and that balance should be added to principal, and that at expiration of such period executors should procure formation of corporation to which estate should be conveyed for specified charitable purpose. Held that entire estate was impressed with trust in favor of the charity, and gift vested at once, on testator's death. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

NOTE. Rule against perpetuities. Time of vesting and not the duration of the estate the test: A testator left his residuary estate in trust to A. for life, remainder to several grandchildren for life, with remainders to their children. The grandchildren were born after the death of the testator and before the death of A. Held, that the life estates to the grandchildren are valid, but that the remainders over are void. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609. In many former cases Maryland considered that the rule against perpetuities condemned any trust that might last longer than lives in being and twenty-one years thereafter, on the ground that the disposal of the whole estate should not be so long suspended. Barnum v. Barnum, 26 Md. 119, 90 Am. Dec. 88. This confounded two distinct rules of law; that estates cannot be made inalienable, and that future estates may not be created after fixed limit. The court failed to see that an equitable fee is a present and not a future estate and is not less alienable than a legal fee. See Gray, Perpetuities, § 236. The principal case brings Maryland into line with all the authorities in regarding the time of vesting and not the time of ending of estates as the test. The remainders to the children of unborn grandchildren are clearly void under either test. The life estates would be void under the old test of duration, as part of a trust extending beyond lives in being and twenty-

The event upon the happening of which the future estate is to vest must be one that is certain to occur within the prescribed period or the limitation will be bad.[5]

The prohibited suspension is such as arises from the terms of the instrument creating the estate, and not such as exists outside of it.[6] A power of sale to be exercised after a definite period does not necessarily suspend the power of alienation,[7] nor is a direction to executors to maintain the estate and collect the rents for a definite number of years, and then to sell it, a restraint upon its alienation during that period.[8] A trust to pay income creates a suspension,[9] but a trust to pay annuities does not, since they are releasable and assignable.[10]

The period of suspension cannot be extended by the creation of a trust,[11] and a trust violating the rule cannot be sustained as a power in trust.[12]

§ 2. Computation of the period and remoteness of particular limitations.[13] —The period fixed and prescribed by law for the future vesting of an estate is generally a life or lives in being at the time of its commencement, and twenty-one years, and a fraction of a year beyond, to cover the period of gestation,[14] though the rule has been more or less modified by statute in many of the states.[15] In New York the limit is two lives in being at the creation of the estate.[16] In that state a testator may, in the creation of a trust, suspend the absolute power of alienation of the trust estate for a period of two selected lives then in being,[17] and during that period may provide for the distribution of the annual income among as many different persons and for as many successive lives as he sees fit.[18]

one years. Lee v. O'Donnell, 95 Md. 538. But because they must vest, if at all, within the legal period, the court correctly holds them good. Otis v. McLellan, 13 Allen [Mass.] 339. —13 Harv. L. R. 232.

5. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609. The absolute ownership of the property must vest in some one within the period of a life or lives in being and twenty-one years and nine months thereafter. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37. The devise is void if there is a possibility that the fee will not vest within the time limited. Provision in will giving property to testator's son until youngest grandchild should reach age of 25, when it was to be divided equally among all grandchildren held void, since it was not clearly limited to grandchildren then living. Id.

6. As a disability of the person in whom an interest is vested, or delay incident to procuring order of court for sale, or its confirmation. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825.

7. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825.

8. Court may direct sale if necessary, and no point of time at which beneficiaries may not unite in conveyance made at sale under order of court. In re Pforr's Estate, 144 Cal. 121, 77 P. 825.

9. Smith v. Haven's Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168. A direction to apply interest and income only necessarily involves a never ending trust and hence is void. Devise to treasurer of unincorporated association in trust, to apply the same to the uses and for the benefit of such association. Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316, 70 N. E. 870.

10. Smith v. Haven's Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168.

11. The time for which the alienation of realty and the absolute ownership of personalty may be suspended can no more be extended by a trust than by the limitation of a strictly legal estate. Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316, 70 N. E. 870. A devise to treasurer of unincorporated association in trust, to apply the same to the uses and for the benefit of such association, is void if construed as a direction to apply the corpus or principal, since its total consumption may not be required within the statutory period. Id.

12. Act sought to be performed under power is very act forbidden by statute. Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316, 70 N. E. 870.

13. See 2 Curr. L. 1175.

14. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. § 3382. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520.

15. For discussion of statutory modifications of rule in various states, see Tiffany on Real Property, p. 365, § 160.

16. Where testator devised certain property absolutely to certain grandchildren, whose mother had previously died, and the use of certain other property to his children for life, and will provided that when his children "are all dead" residue was to be equally divided between other grandchildren, held that title to property vested in latter immediately on testator's death, with right of possession on death of any life tenant, such being testator's evident intention, and hence devise was not contrary to the rule. Kent v. Kent, 90 N. Y. S. 828.

17. Smith v. Haven's Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168.

18. Smith v. Haven's Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168. Trust for payment of annuities to six persons, none of them charged on land or specific funds, held valid. Id. Devise of lands in trust to pay income to fixed amount to beneficiary until he reached the age of twenty-five, thereafter a portion of such income to go to him for life and balance to another beneficiary for his life, and unexpended portion to residuary legatee, held valid. Id.

(To be concluded.)

PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS—Cont'd.

The Mississippi statute provides that any person may make a conveyance or devise of lands to a succession of donees then living not exceeding two, and to the heirs of the body of the remainderman, and in default thereof, to the right heirs of the donor in fee simple.[19] The effect of the act is to prescribe a limit of time beyond which the vesting of the estate in fee cannot be suspended, but within which the grantor may exercise unbounded discretion.[20]

The suspension must be measured by lives and not by years.[21]

A grantor reserving out of the operation of his deed a legal life estate for himself cannot be counted as one of the donees within whose life the ultimate fee must vest in order to avoid the rule against perpetuities.[22]

The application of the rule to particular estates will be found in the cases cited in the note.[23]

Charitable gifts.[24]—The rule does not apply to charitable gifts,[25] provided

19. Rev. Code 1880, § 1190. Middlesex Banking Co. v. Field [Miss.] 37 So. 139. Applies to deeds. Id. A limitation over to a specific person, who is one of the right heirs of the donor, is valid. Id. The right heirs of the donor take by purchase and not by descent; as limitees under the will or deed, and not as heirs. Id. Conveyance to B and C, with cross remainders to survivor in case of death of either without issue and a conditional limitation over to A, a right heir of the donor, in case of death of both without issue, is valid. Id.

20. Middlesex Banking Co. v. Field [Miss.] 37 So. 139.

21. Provision that trust property was to be partially distributed when certain child reached age of 21, or, if died before that time, then on date when she would have reached that age, held invalid. Hagemeyer v. Saulpaugh, 97 App. Div. 535, 90 N. Y. S. 228. Provision in will directing distribution of trust fund to children when they reached age of twenty-eight held invalid. Id. Fact that trustees are given power of sale for trust purposes does not cure invalidity, since proceeds subject to trust. Id. Devise in trust for thirty years void. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520.

22. Middlesex Banking Co. v. Field [Miss.] 37 So. 139.

23. Provisions held valid: Trust deed directing that on death of grantor's daughter the property shall go to her "children and descendants, if any such survive her," means those surviving at time of daughter's death. Cribbs v. Walker [Ark.] 85 S. W. 244. Devise to unmarried woman in trust for life, with remainder to her children if any, and if none, or if those born died before reaching maturity, then to her husband [Ga. Civ. Code, 1895, § 3102]. Jossey v. Brown, 119 Ga. 758, 47 S. E. 350. Devise to testator's children, three of whom were living when will was made and one born afterwards, the estate not to be divided until youngest reached majority, and in case one died without heirs, then his share to go to survivors. Coleman v. Coleman [Kan.] 76 P. 439. A bequest of bonds in trust to continue during the lives of two legatees in being. Hoffman v. New England Trust Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 952. Devise in trust, so much of income as might be necessary to be paid to wife for life, balance to children, and after wife's death, income then to be divided among children then living, or issue of any deceased children, for life, and after their death income to be paid to their children until they reached age of twenty-one, when principal was to be divided. Grandchildren took vested interest. In re Smith's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 255.

Provisions held void: In devise to several for life, with remainder over, provision that property should never be sold invalid in so far as it attempted to prohibit sale after vesting in remainderman, but valid in so far as it applied to life tenancy [Ky. St. 1903, § 2360]. Morton's Guardian v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1188. Remainders created by will of life tenant, under power of appointment, to descendants of persons who were themselves not in esse at death of donor of the power. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609. Provision in will directing payment of income of trust fund to testator's son during his life, and oh his death division of fund into as many parts as he left children, each part to be used to set up a separate trust for the benefit of each child, is void as to children not in esse at time of testator's death. In re Faile's Estate, 44 Misc. 619, 90 N. Y. S. 157. A provision in a will for the deposit of a sum of money in bank, the interest to be used to keep testator's burial lot in good condition yearly [Tex. Const. art. 1, § 26]. McIlvain v. Hockaday [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 54. Provision for expenditure of certain sum annually in care of family graves effective only during administration of estate. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520.

24. See 2 Curr. L. 1174, n. 10-13.

25. Codman v. Brigham [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1008; Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513; Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520. Bequest in trust for benefit of red cross society. Objects of society admittedly charitable and intention to create charitable trust plainly manifest. In re Merchant's Estate, 143 Cal. 537, 77 P. 475.

Does not apply to trust for educational purposes under Ky. St. 1903, § 317. Pullins they are not limited on preceding gifts to private persons or corporations.[26] An outright gift to a charitable corporation for its corporate purposes does not contravene the rule, though the principal of the fund is directed to be invested in perpetuity and only the income used.[27] A limitation of a trust estate over from one charity which speaks from the death of the testator, or from the execution of the deed providing for it, to another charity, is valid regardless of the rule.[28]

Accumulations of income.[29]—In New York the accumulation of income or profits of either real or personal property, in order to be valid, must be for the benefit of one or more minors then in being, and be limited to a period within their minority.[30] An accumulation for the benefit of an unborn child commencing after its birth and terminating during its minority is valid,[31] but such an accumulation commencing before its birth is invalid.[32]

§ 3. Operation and effect, complete and partial invalidity.[33]—A devise, bequest, or grant rendering property inalienable or deferring its vesting for a longer period than that allowed by the rule, is void.[34] The fact that a provision in a will contravenes the rule does not render the whole will void, unless the general scheme of distribution is thereby so far disturbed as to make it necessary.[35]

A void limitation over does not affect the validity of the preceding particular estate.[36] Where the first gift is of an absolute estate, subsequent repugnant limitations, which are void because contrary to the rule, may be disregarded.[37] But where it is obvious that the intention was to create a life estate only, it cannot be

v. Board of Education of Methodist Church, 25 Ky. L. R. 1715, 78 S. W. 457.

See, also, Tiffany on Real Property, p. 361, § 158.

26. Codman v. Brigham [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1008; Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513. Where will devised and bequeathed residuary estate to executors to be invested and allowed to accumulate for twenty-five years, and then transferred to corporation to be formed for charitable purposes, executors took as trustees. Codman v. Brigham [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1008. Will created valid charitable trust, and executors took legal title while equitable title vested immediately in that part of public for whose benefit trust was created. Corporation did not take directly. Id. Income and accumulations go with corpus of fund. Codman v. Brigham [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1008; Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

27. Smith v. Haven's Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168. A devise in trust for educational purposes providing that the principal shall be kept invested and interest alone used does not show an intention that the identical property shall be preserved by the trustee, and does not suspend the power of alienation, within Ky. St. 1903, § 2360. The will directed realty and personalty to be invested and the interest only used. Pullins v. Board of Education of Methodist Church, 25 Ky. L. R. 1715, 78 S. W. 457.

28. Brigham v. Peter Bent Brigham Hospital [C. C. A.] 134 F. 513.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1175. Tiffany on Real Property, p. 363, § 159.

30. Laws 1896, p. 568, c. 547, § 51. Laws 1897, p. 508, c. 417, § 4. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970. 1 Rev. St. (1st Ed.) p. 726, pt. 2, c. 1, tit. 2, §§ 37, 38, and Id. p. 773, pt. 2, c. 4, tit. 4, §§ 3, 4. Provision directing carrying on of testator's business and accumulation of profits after paying annuity to wife and for support of children, each child to receive his proportion of profits upon arriving at age of twenty-five, estate to be divided after death of wife and one daughter, held invalid. Thorn v. De Breteuil [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 470; Thorn v. De Breteuil, 86 App. Div. 405, 83 N. Y. S. 849. Decree in suit for construction of will held to estop children over twenty-five from claiming that trust provisions were invalid. Id. Provision in will directing accumulation of net income of estate by executors, to be used in paying off mortgages on realty, is invalid. Lowenhaupt v. Stanisics, 95 App. Div. 171, 88 N. Y. S. 537. Not authorized by Laws 1896, p. 571, c. 547, § 76, subd. 2, authorizing trust to lease, sell, or mortgage real property for benefit of annuitants or other legatees. Id.

31. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970.

32. Direction for accumulation of surplus profits during lifetime of testator's sons for benefit of their children invalid where neither of them were married at the time of trial. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1177.

See Tiffany on Real Property, p. 358, § 157.

34. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

35. Whole will not declared void in order to reach equality of distribution where equality was not intended by testatrix. In re Faile's Estate, 44 Misc. 619, 90 N. Y. S. 157. Validity of independent bequest not affected by void trust. Phillips v. Heldt, 33 Ind. App. 388, 71 N. E. 520. Bequest to educational institution void because part of invalid trust scheme. Id.

36. Limitation will be considered as stricken out, leaving particular estate to vest as though it had never been made. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

enlarged into an absolute estate by disregarding such subsequent limitations.[38] Remainders limited on void trusts fall with such trusts.[39]

Where a will creating a power of appointment provides for the devolution of the property in case it is not exercised, and certain remainders attempted to be created in exercising such power violate the rule, the property will pass as in default of appointment.[40] The fact that one exercising a power of appointment creates certain void remainders does not invalidate the exercise of the power in toto.[41]

The amount of a void trust will not pass under a residuary clause from which the trust fund is expressly excluded,[42] but will pass as intestate property.[43]

The fact that remainders created under a power of appointment violate the rule does not prevent the application of the doctrine of election to the case of a devisee in whom the badly appointed portion of the estate will vest, where there is a blending of the individual property of the testator with that over which he has the power of appointment.[44] But the doctrine does not apply under such circumstances where only the settled property of the estate is disposed of.[45] The fact that one takes a beneficial interest under a will does not preclude him from asserting that a clause thereof is void for remoteness.[46]

In the absence of statute, income unlawfully accumulated goes to the heirs or next of kin as in cases of intestacy.[47] In New York where the accumulation is invalid, the surplus is to be paid over to the persons presumptively entitled to the next eventual estate.[48] Where it cannot be determined who is so entitled, the statute does not apply, and the surplus goes to the heirs at law or next of kin as in case of intestacy.[49]

PERSONAL INJURIES; PERSONAL PROPERTY; PETITIONS; PEWS; PHOTOGRAPHS; PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS; PILOTS, see latest topical index.

PETITORY ACTIONS.[50]

Definition and characteristics.—A petitory action is one in which the mere title to property is litigated and sought to be enforced, as distinguished from a possessory action.[51] That plaintiff prays to be decreed the owner of immovable property is sufficient to determine the character of the action as petitory.[52]

Procedure.—One having an imperfect ownership and real right may maintain a petitory action,[53] and it is optional with the plaintiff to assert the right of possession, or any other right, accessory and of inferior dignity to that of ownership,

37, 38. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

39. In re Faile's Estate, 44 Misc. 619, 90 N. Y. S. 157.

40, 41. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

42, 43. In re Faile's Estate, 44 Misc. 619, 90 N. Y. S. 157.

44, 45. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

46. Schuknecht v. Schultz, 212 Ill. 43, 72 N. E. 37.

47. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970.

48. Statute applies to income derived from personalty as well as from realty [Laws 1896, p. 568, c. 547, § 53]. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970

49. Where grandchildren were entitled to next eventual estate, or in case there were none, the surviving son, and there were no grandchildren, court could not determine which son would survive, and hence surplus would go to both sons equally as heirs or next of kin. United States Trust Co. v. Soher, 178 N. Y. 442, 70 N. E. 970.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 74, n. 62.

This topic treats only of the Louisiana petitory action affecting the title to realty. Petitory suits in admiralty are treated in Admiralty, see 3 Curr. L. 40.

51. Cyc. Law Dict. 691.

52. Ruddock Cypress Co. v. Peyret [La.] 36 So. 105.

53. Vendee who by his contract of sale has bound himself to reconvey the land after the timber has been removed or after the expiration of 50 years is entitled to maintain the action. Ruddock Cypress Co. v. Peyret [La.] 36 So. 105.

in the same or a subsequent proceeding.[54] Plaintiff must show some title in himself,[55] and must recover on the strength of his own title.[56] Defendant cannot urge rights between plaintiff and a third person.[57]

Where defendant disclaims, the owner being brought in, he is the real defendant,[58] and damages for timber removed by the disclaiming defendant being the subject of a personal action cannot be tried.[59] Defenses must not be conflicting.[60] Defendant setting up a government survey as a muniment of title he cannot deny facts appearing on the plat thereof.[61] Parol evidence is admissible on the question whether or not an adjudication was made at a judicial sale under which one party claims title.[62]

PIPE LINES AND SUBWAYS.[63]

It is held that the common council of Brooklyn cannot grant a perpetual conduit franchise,[64] and complete performance on the part of the grantees does not aid them to uphold its validity.[65] When such a grant is not exclusive the grantee has no grievance at the location of another conduit in close proximity but not unreasonably disturbing its rights,[66] though inconvenience and enhanced expense may ensue.[67] The right to lay a permanent pipe line across another's lands is an estate in the lands and not a license, and the instrument creating it is a deed[68] and is in fee if to the grantee, his heirs and assigns,[69] and mere nonuser, no time for use being fixed, will not defeat it.[70] It is certain if it describes the tracts to be crossed and the pipes be actually laid.[71] An injunction may issue to protect such a right,[72] and where it is grounded on lack of title which may be gained by eminent domain, the injunction should run until proceedings may be begun. Conduits beneath a street and the manholes at the surface when placed by public authority is in the one who furnished and placed them,[73] so that he may recover for injuries wrongfully done them[74] and not due to improper construction.

PIRACY; PLACE OF TRIAL; PLANK ROADS, see latest topical index.

PLEADING.

§ 1. Principles Common to all Pleadings. General Rules (981). Interpretation and Construction in General (988). Exhibits (991). Bills of Particulars (991).

§ 2. The Declaration, Count, Complaint or Petition. In General (996). Joinder of Causes of Action (998). Election (1003). Splitting Causes of Action (1003). Prayer (1004).

§ 3. The Plea or Answer. General Principles (1005). Denials and Traverses (1007). Confession and Avoidance (1008).

§ 4. Replication or Reply and Subsequent Pleadings (1009).

§ 5. Demurrer. General Rules (1010). Form, Requisites and Sufficiency (1013). Issues Raised (1013). Hearing and Decision on Demurrer (1015).

54. Ruddock Cypress Co. v. Peyret [La.] 36 So. 105.

55. Granger v. Sallier, 110 La. 250, 34 So. 431.

56. Wilson v. Ober, 109 La. 718, 33 So. 744. Will be nonsuited if it appears that title is in a third person, even though the action be against a possessor without legal title. Slattery v. Heilperin, 110 La. 86, 34 So. 139.

57. Leathem & S. Lumber Co. v. Nalty, 109 La. 325, 33 So. 354.

58. Where lessee disclaimed and lessor was brought in. Jewell v. De Blanc, 110 La. 810, 34 So. 787.

59. Adams v. Drews, 110 La. 456, 34 So. 602.

60. Defenses that one has acquired land by accession as alluvion or relicted land, and that it was acquired as dry land within the boundaries of the original purchase, are conflicting. Hall v. Com'rs of Bossier Levee Dist., 111 La. 913, 35 So. 976.

61. That lake was not meandered. Hall v. Com'rs of Bossier Levee Dist., 111 La. 913, 35 So. 976.

62. Landry v. Laplos, 113 La. 697, 37 So. 606.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1178.

64, 65. Rhinehart v. Redfield, 93 App. Div. 410, 87 N. Y. S. 789.

66, 67. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Electric Light & Power Co., 178 N. Y. 325, 70 N. E. 866.

68, 69, 70, 71, 72. Everett Water Co. v. Powers [Wash.] 79 P. 617.

73, 74. One was held liable for driving load of 64,000 pounds over manhole covers, the ordinary load being 20,000 or less. Missouri Edison Elec. Co. v. Weber, 102 Mo. App. 95, 76 S. W. 736.

§ 6. Cross Complaints and Answers (1015).
§ 7. Amendments. Right, Time and Manner of Amendment (1016). Matter of Amendment (1018). Changing Cause of Action (1022). To Correct Variance (1025). On Appeal (1027). After Appeal (1027). Terms of Amendment (1028). Effect of Amendment (1028).
§ 8. Supplemental Pleadings (1029).
§ 9. Motions upon the Pleadings (1031).
§ 10. Right to Object, and Mode of Asserting Defenses and Objections; Whether by Demurrer, Motion, etc. Right to Object (1031). Mode of Objection. Matters of Substance (1032). Matters of Form (1035).
§ 11. Waiver of Objections and Cure of Defects by Failure to Object, Responsive Pleading, or Going to Trial (1038). Cure by Other Pleadings or Proof, or Instructions (1045). Aider by Verdict) 1045.
§ 12. Time and Order of Pleadings (1046).
§ 13. Filing, Service, and Withdrawal (1048).
§ 14. Issues Made, Proof, and Variance (1049). The General Issue and General Denials (1049). Special Issues and Special Denials (1049). Variance (1050). Admissions in Pleadings or by Failure to Plead (1052). Judgment on the Pleadings (1053).

Scope of title. This topic treats only of the general rules applicable to common-law and code pleading. For the sufficiency of pleadings in particular actions, reference should be had to the appropriate topics.[75] Matters particularly applicable to equity pleading,[76] the necessity of verifying pleadings and the sufficiency of the verification,[77] and all questions in regard to set-off and counterclaim, are treated elsewhere.[78]

§ 1. Principles common to all pleadings. General rules.[79]—Under the code, the distinction between actions at law and suits in equity and all forms of actions are abolished, and there is but one form of action for the enforcement and protection of private rights and the redress or prevention of private wrongs, which is called a civil action.[80] The object of the reformed system of pleading is to compel the adverse parties to disclose to each other the facts upon which they rely to uphold the claim on one side and the defense on the other, in order that each may know what he is required to establish or repel by proof upon the trial.[81] The policy of the law is to permit litigants to dispose of the whole controversy between them in a single action, and hence liberal provisions are made to enable pleaders to place their cases before the court in such manner that a single trial may adjust all differences.[82]

75. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1187, n. 71, 72.

76. See Equity, § 6, 3 Curr. L. 1222.

77. See Verification, 2 Curr. L. 2023; see, also, 2 Curr. L. 1182, 1222, n. 44-46.

78. See Set-Off and Counterclaim, 2 Curr. L. 1624.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1179.

80. N. C. Const. art. 4, § 1. Code, § 133. Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 4020. Rauh v. Oliver [Idaho] 77 P. 20. Causes of action, whether legal or equitable, and whatever their nature, are stated in one form of complaint, and judgment may be rendered for the relief demanded upon any right of action which facts alleged in the complaint are sufficient in law to support. Cole v. Jerman [Conn.] 59 A. 425. Plaintiff can be sent out of court only when upon the facts alleged he is entitled to no relief either at law or in equity. Rauh v. Oliver [Idaho] 77 P. 20. Where the complaint states a cause of action, it is not demurrable, though based on a wrong theory (Coppola v. Kraushaar, 92 N. Y. S. 436), and though it specifies only items of damage to which plaintiff is not entitled (Id.). Damages demanded for breach of contract too remote. Id. Relief granted according to facts alleged and proved without regard to form or denomination of the plea. Randolph v. Nichol [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1037. An exception to a complaint that it is by its form for money had and received, and, as such, cannot be maintained unless the money has been actually received by defendant, is untenable. Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. Though the code is said to furnish a new and complete system of procedure as to forms of actions, and new names and characteristics as to pleadings, with a system of procedure as regards the same, it does not include forms for pleadings, or judgments, or for all mere details of practice. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. The forms of actions merely, not the substance thereof, as regards the essentials of the remedy, were abolished. Id.

And see Equity, 3 Curr. L. 1210.

81. To force trial on merits. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946. Every purpose of pleadings is accomplished when it is apparent to the parties and the court at the time the trial begins what the affirmative and negative averments are upon which the plaintiff relies for a recovery. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Tehan, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145. Where the issue is one of the danger of the work to plaintiff, the fact that plaintiff was doing new work with the dangers of which he was not acquainted, being alleged in the petition, establishes the necessary causal connection and the pleading is good against a general demurrer as a pleading of negligence. Id.

82. Mulligan v. Erie R. Co., 99 App. Div. 499, 91 N. Y. S. 60.

Only pleadings authorized by the code are allowed.[83] The substantive facts pleaded and not the name given to the pleading by the pleader control in determining its character.[84]

Except in justice courts and the like,[85] all pleadings are generally required to be in writing,[86] and must be made out in words at length, and not abbreviated.[87]

A party is entitled to a definite statement in the pleading of the nature of the charge intended to be made against him, but not of the particulars or circumstances of time and place,[88] unless the latter are material parts of the cause of action or defense, in which case they must be definitely stated, the same as any other necessary element.[89] The omission of the name and address of the attorney or of a party appearing in person is a mere irregularity which does not necessarily vitiate a pleading or its service.[90]

Facts should be stated in plain and concise language, without repetition, and in such a manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended;[91] but the use of technical words is not required.[92]

Pleadings should be definite and certain,[93] and direct rather than argumen-

83. Schlesinger v. Thalmessinger, 92 N. Y. S. 575.

84. Paragraphs held to show intention to aver counterclaim, though called answers by way of counterclaim and answers. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. Misnaming a pleading is immaterial. There is no such pleading as a "reply amended petition." Pleading so called held amended petition. Harris v. Langford, 26 Ky. L. R. 1096, 83 S. W. 566. Fact that pleading is misnamed a "cross complaint" immaterial. Randolph v. Nichol [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1037. A pleading containing the essentials of an answer, alleging facts deemed sufficient to abate the action, may be properly regarded as such, though called a plea in abatement. Tutty v. Ryan [Wyo.] 78 P. 657. A paper designated in the answer as a second amended petition will be considered as a complete new amended petition, though called by plaintiff an amendment to amended petition, where it appears to be a full statement of his cause of action, without reference to any prior pleading. John Deere Plow Co. v. Jones, 68 Kan. 650, 76 P. 750. An affidavit for attachment which, except for the heading, contains every essential part of a complaint, including the prayer for judgment, may serve also for the complaint required to be filed before the writ can issue. Handley v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 716. Fact that pleadings is called an "answer," while the relief sought is more appropriate to a counterclaim or cross-petition, does not prevent the granting of such relief. Crawford v. Ft. Dodge Plaster Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 479.

85. In New Jersey no formal pleadings are required in the district court. O'Donnell v. Weiler [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055.

86. In Louisiana a judgment rendered on an oral plea in the district court will be reversed, and the cause remanded. Sevey v. Chappuis Co. [La.] 36 So. 889. Under the New York municipal court act a verbal demurrer cannot be interposed to a written complaint whether verified or unverified [Laws 1902, p. 1536, c. 650, § 145, subd. 2]. Drake v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1041. A demurrer ore tenus to counterclaims is properly sustained where they have been held on appeal not to state a cause of action. John O'Brien Lumber Co. v. Wilkinson [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1050.

87. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 22. Bigelow v. Drummond, 42 Misc. 617, 87 N. Y. S. 581. Referring to parts of the complaint as at or between certain folios is improper pleading and does not operate as an incorporation of the parts referred to. Id.

88. Latter properly obtained by bill of particulars. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170.

89. May be directed to be made more definite and certain on motion. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170. Affirmative pleadings should contain a venue where each traversable fact is said to have taken place. Chicago City R. Co. v. McMeen, 102 Ill. App. 318.

90. Required by supreme court rule 2, which is made applicable to municipal court by Laws 1902, p. 1496, c. 580, § 20. Heidenheimer v. Daniel, 90 N. Y. S. 387.

91. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 341, subd. 2. Ellison v. Towne [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 270. The test of the validity of a pleading on demurrer is, do the facts alleged tend to constitute a cause of action or defense? Guthrie v. Howland [Ind.] 73 N. E. 259. Facts must be directly and positively alleged. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218. The allegations of the answer should be specific in their statements so as to inform the court what were the facts and enable it to determine whether it might properly deny the relief demanded. In action for specific performance, allegations as to sale held not sufficient to constitute defense. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007. All matters of substance essential to a good cause of action or defense must be set out with clearness and precision [Pa. Procedure Act 1887]. Young v. Geiske, 209 Pa. 515, 58 A. 887.

92. Young v. Geiske, 209 Pa. 515, 58 A. 887.

93. Legal certainty required. Malsby v. Lanark Fuel Co., 55 W. Va. 484, 47 S. E. 358. A pleading may be stricken out for indefiniteness [N. J. P. L. 1903, p. 569]. Rice v.

tative.[94] Matters going merely in aggravation or extenuation and whose effect is but to enhance or diminish the damages need not be pleaded.[95]

Inconsistency,[96] duplicity,[97] negatives pregnant,[98] departures in pleading,[99]

Standard Oil Co., 134 F. 464. A plea averring facts which, if true, may or may not constitute a legal defense, depending entirely upon an ulterior fact not averred, is bad. In action at law, plea in abatement of former suit pending is bad for uncertainty where it is not averred whether it is at law or in equity. Risher v. Wheeling Roofing & Cornice Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1016. The amount of damages sustained should be stated exactly. Rooney v. Gray, 145 Cal. 753, 79 P. 523.

Names of persons necessarily referred to and their interest should appear with certainty. In absence of averment that their names are not known, parties referred to as "others" must be made definite and certain. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170. The only proper way to set out the parties to a contract is by their names. Allegation that defendant let certain premises to "plaintiff and his family" insufficient. Davis v. Smith [R. I.] 58 A. 630. Misnomer of a defendant is cured by his appearance and pleading in his true name. Municipal corporation. Rhodes v. Louisville, 121 Ga. 550, 49 S. E. 681. Where the answer does not disclose defendant's name, extraneous matters may be considered in determining who is the real party filing the pleadings, and the question is for the jury. Evidence sufficient to support finding that amended answer was filed by real defendant, and that it appeared before the running of limitations. McCord Collins Co. v. Prichard [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 388.

Pleadings held sufficient: Allegations in caveat as to mental capacity of testator. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306. A petition alleging a specific act of negligence by one of three agents of defendant, but stating that plaintiff did not know which one of the three it was, is not subject to a motion to make more definite and certain, nor to strike out allegation of want of knowledge, there being nothing to show bad faith. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [Kan.] 79 P. 130. Allegations of petition, though indefinite, sufficient to warrant admission of evidence as to loss of time and value thereof. Wilbur v. Southwest Mo. Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 671.

Pleadings insufficient: Answer in action on contract for sale of real estate, since it could not be determined therefrom whether contract as pleaded was admitted or denied. Borsuk v. Blauner, 93 App. Div. 306, 87 N. Y. S. 851. Complaint in action against directors of corporation for false representations as to its affairs. Warner v. James, 94 App. Div. 257, 87 N. Y. S. 976. In action for attorney's services, defense held meaningless. Pierce v. Newlin, 91 N. Y. S. 377. A plea of nonjoinder of parties defendant not pointing out the precise defect of parties or showing that a complete determination of the controversy could not be had without the omitted party. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeve Const. Co., 178 N. Y. 236, 70 N. E. 783. Plea to jurisdiction alleging that cause of action arose upon navigable waters and is exclusively within jurisdiction of Federal courts held bad on demurrer for failing to show that they were navigable waters of the United States rather than of the state. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11. Should set forth facts so that court can determine whether they are waters of state or United States. Id. Declaration in action for damages under Sherman anti-trust act held bad for indefiniteness and uncertainty in describing alleged combination and conspiracy entered into by defendant, and acts done which resulted in damage. Rice v. Standard Oil Co., 134 F. 464. Answer in action on notes attempting to plead breach of contract pursuant to which they were given held insufficient for want of certainty to state any defense. Kessler & Co. v. Perilloux & Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 903. Defense that defendant was foreign corporation which had not complied with statute held defective in failing to state in what particulars it had not complied. Worrell v. Kinnear Mfg. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 988.

94. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11.

95. Insulting language by conductor. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Batchler [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 902.

96. Renders it subject to demurrer. Harrison v. Maury, 140 Ala. 523, 37 So. 361.

Allegations held consistent: Answer. Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117. In action on contract for furnishing electrical energy, averment of certain small deficiencies in amount furnished, adjusted in accordance with terms of contract, and allegation of full performance. Hudson River P. T. Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179. Averments that one of the defendants is a resident of a certain county and that under sentence of court he is confined in a prison located in another county. Thompson v. Montrass, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 368.

Allegations inconsistent: Amended bill setting up that contract created relation both of vendor and vendee, and of mortgagor and mortgagee between plaintiff and defendant, held bad for inconsistency, and a departure in pleading and bill subject to demurrer. Harrison v. Maury, 140 Ala. 523, 37 So. 361. Allegations that injury was negligently and carelessly inflicted and that it was willful. Boyd v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 287.

97. No matters, however multifarious, make a pleading double, if, when taken together, they constitute but one proposition or entire point. Declaration in action for malicious suit, charging that suit was instituted without probable cause, and that a judgment therein was procured by fraud, not bad for duplicity where latter was not declared on as cause of action. King v. Estabrooks [Vt.] 60 A. 84.

Pleadings held bad: Declaration in action for royalties under mining lease. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Peers, 205 Ill. 531, 68 N. E. 1065. Petition in mandamus praying reinstatement and for order compelling payment of salary held obnoxious to demurrer because seeking two kinds of relief. City of hypothetical pleading,[1] and ambiguity, should be avoided.[2] Matters of evidence should not be pleaded.[3]

One who in his pleading seeks to avail himself of the benefits of a statute must aver facts sufficient to bring himself fully within the provision or provisions thereof on which he relies.[4] It is sufficient to follow the language of the statute provided the pleading embraces all its essential parts.[5]

A public domestic statute, not penal, need not be pleaded.[6] Exceptions in Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816. In action for services, where defendant pleads former adjudication that they were not rendered, replication alleging that sole issue in former case was whether plaintiff bad contract for specific sum, and also that services were not same. Randall v. Carpenter [R. I.] 57 A. 865. Declaration in action for damages for violation of Sherman anti-trust act, alleging in single count that defendant entered into a "contract, combination, and conspiracy" in restraint of trade. Rice v. Standard Oil Co., 134 F. 464.

98. Complaint in action for statutory penalty held sufficient. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174. Action to enjoin interference with water rights. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053. Allegation that execution was issued before judgment was properly entered held pregnant with admission that it was in fact entered. Burton v. Kipp [Mont.] 76 P. 563. In action on contract, a denial that plaintiff has performed all conditions precedent is not a negative pregnant. Electrical Equipment Co. v. Feuerlicht, 90 N. Y. S. 467. Denial that plaintiff did work on specified day held admission that he did so at some other time. Levin & M. Contracting Co. v. Jackson, 92 N. Y. S. 307. Conjunctive denials of conjunctive allegations are improper. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053.

99. See, also, § 4, post. The addition to a complaint by amendment of a new cause of action does not constitute a departure in pleadings. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777.

1. Hypothetical clauses in an answer are mere surplusage to be stricken out on motion. Allegation that if note described in complaint was ever indorsed by plaintiff's testator, it was done under circumstances showing a diversion. Corn v. Levy, 97 App. Div. 48, 89 N. Y. S. 658. Does not render the pleading bad on demurrer. Id.

2. Statute of limitations sufficiently pleaded. Nickell v. Tracy, 91 N. Y. S. 287. Complaint in ejectment held demurrable. Meacham v. Bear Valley Irr. Co., 145 Cal. 606, 79 P. 281.

3. Only ultimate facts, and not the evidence relied on to support them, need be pleaded. Ingram v. Wishkah Boom Co., 35 Wash. 191, 77 P. 34. The objection that an attempted set-off by a partner in a suit against him individually is a partnership demand need not be raised by the pleadings, but is properly raised by objection to the admissibility of the evidence. Question depends altogether upon evidence. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145. Not necessary for one filing caveat to will to indicate how he expects to prove allegations as to misrepresentation. Bohler v. Hicks, 120 Ga. 800, 48 S. E. 306. Wherein will is unreasonable and unnatural need not be set forth in caveat, but it is proper to allege in detail the reasons why it should be so regarded. Id. Answer in disbarment proceedings stricken out because of pleading evidence, and matters not admissible in evidence. People v. Payson, 210 Ill. 82, 71 N. E. 692. In pleading the character of an injury, it is not necessary to give a specific catalogue of every incident or subordinate result flowing therefrom in order to introduce proof of such results, but the pleading of such injury will permit proof of all results which naturally and proximately ensue therefrom. Cudahy Packing Co. v. Broadbent [Kan.] 79 P. 126. In action against druggist for negligently selling poison, allegations charging specific breach of statutory duty held material and appropriate and improperly stricken out. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201. In action for false imprisonment, facts tending to show malice should not be pleaded unless they are ground for special damage. Ring v. Mitchell, 45 Misc. 493, 92 N. Y. S. 749.

4. Action under Indiana employers' liability act (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7083). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 73 N. E. 91; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218. Action for penalty for failure of foreign corporation to keep stock book as required by N. Y. Laws 1892, p. 1840, c. 688, § 53, as amended by Laws 1897, p. 314, c. 384, § 3. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 92 N. Y. S. 225. Under a statute allowing attorney's fees if defendant has acted in bad faith, has been stubbornly litigious, or has caused plaintiff unnecessary trouble and expense, they cannot be recovered unless one of such reasons for their recovery is alleged. Central of Ga. R. Co. v. Chicago Portrait Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 727. One who fails to show by his pleadings that he is entitled to the benefits of a statute or to be relieved from its burdens is not entitled to have it declared invalid. Statute authorizing change of county seat. Pleadings held not to state cause of action. Robertson v. Board of Com'rs [Okl.] 79 P. 97.

5. Pleading founded on U. S. Rev. St. § 3030 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1995), relating to transfer of imported merchandise into other packages, not sufficient where it merely alleges that merchandise is "entitled to debenture," but should allege facts making it so entitled. Such allegation a mere conclusion. Thomas & Son Co. v. Barnett, 135 F. 172.

6. See, also, Evidence, § 1, 3 Curr. L. 1335. It is sufficient if the allegations are broad enough to show that the action is brought upon it, and not otherwise. Complaint in action for damages done by dog (Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 4487) sufficient. Leone v. Kelly penal statutes must be negatived.[7] Foreign statutes[8] and local laws and customs must be specially pleaded and proved when relied on.[9]

Where it is necessary to obtain leave to sue, that fact must be stated.[10]

Statutes in some states authorize a party to plead in the alternative in certain cases.[11]

Whatever is necessarily implied from an express allegation need not be otherwise averred.[12] One should plead to some material conclusion.[13] Matters of which the court takes judicial notice need not be pleaded.[14] A conclusion of law need not be pleaded,[15] though it is not always improper to do so.[16] The pleading should state facts rather than conclusions.[17] A mere general allegation of fraud or [Conn.] 60 A. 136. At common law, allegation of scienter, or of other facts dispensing with its presence, was necessary. Not under statute. Id.

7. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 92 N. Y. S. 225. Complaint in action for statutory penalty held to sufficiently negative exceptions in statute. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174.

8. Cummings v. Montague, 116 Ga. 457, 42 S. E. 732; Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co., 136 N. C. 89, 48 S. E. 642. Where breach of duty relied on to show negligence is imposed by foreign statute or ordinance. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 121 Ga. 391, 49 S. E. 308. Will assume statute of frauds is same in absence of allegation and proof to contrary. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932. Law itself, as relied upon, should be set out in complaint, or attached thereto as exhibit in the pleading, and not its general effect. Engleman v. Cable [Ind. T.] 69 S. W. 894. Reference to law of Chickasaw Nation as an "act of the Chickasaw legislature, approved," etc., held insufficient. Id. As to whether stock subject to further assessment. Gause v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 44 Misc. 46, 89 N. Y. S. 723.

See, also, Conflict of Laws, § 7, 3 Curr. L. 725; Evidence, § 1, 3 Curr. L. 1335.

9. Local laws of Indian tribes in Indian Territory. Where title to crops depends on ownership of land, local Indian laws may be proved to establish such ownership without being specially pleaded. Brown v. McNair [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 677.

10. Where undertaking running to county clerk is given to procure discharge of mechanic's lien, obtaining leave to sue is essential, and must be pleaded [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 814]. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 33.

11. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 626. Does not authorize pleading that inconsistent causes of action are both true. Drolshagen v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 344; Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 346. Averment that defendant's servant placed torpedo on sidewalk or placed it on track so that it could easily be removed, and suffered it to be removed to place where it was found, and that one of such averments is true, but that plaintiff does not know which one, is not bad for duplicity. Merschel v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 710.

12. If facts are pleaded from which an ultimate fact necessarily results, it is the same as though such ultimate fact were specifically pleaded. Harmon v. Fox [Mont.] 78 P. 517. In action for price of privilege of selling certain articles at race track, count in complaint sufficient. Id.

13. In suit to subject realty to judgment which complaint alleges is unsatisfied except as to certain sum, allegations in answer setting forth decree in supplementary proceedings ordering certain stock to be sold under execution held properly stricken, there being no allegations as to the disposition of such stock. Stephens v. Parvin [Colo.] 78 P. 688.

14. General custom in action on contract. John O'Brien Lumber Co. v. Wilkinson [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1050; Gilkeson v. Thompson [Pa.] 59 A. 1114.

15. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 73 N. E. 91. A pleader need not formerly aver a conclusion if he distinctly alleges facts from which it must follow. Matters of law need not be alleged. Wiggin v. Federal Stock & Grain Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 607. If unwarranted, a demurrer for that cause will be sustained. Id. A legal duty may, as a general rule, be implied from the acts averred in the pleading. Not essential to allege that certain act or line of conduct was duty imposed upon appellant by law. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 73 N. E. 91. Allegations of duty are merely conclusions of law, and the declaration should be sustained where the facts alleged show the duty, and are stated with sufficient clearness to prevent surprise and enable the court to proceed upon the merits of the cause. Wiggin v. Federal Stock & Grain Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 607. Va. Code 1904, pp. 1708, 1722, §§ 3246, 3272. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris [Va.] 49 S. E. 991. Amendment consisting simply of an averment of the legal effect of a written request to satisfy a mortgage of record, neither adds to nor detracts from sufficiency of pleading. Partridge v. Wilson [Ala.] 37 So. 141.

16. Thus, where the existence of a duty on defendant's part depends on the proper construction of certain contracts, plaintiff may state the construction in this respect on which he relies. A mode of applying the law to the facts which is helpful rather than harmful to defendant. Wiggin v. Federal Stock & Grain Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 607.

17. The sufficiency of the complaint must be determined from the facts stated and not from the conclusions. Burdick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13. Must state the facts necessary to enable the court to judge whether the conclusion of law has any foundation in fact. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296. Not sufficient to allege existence of conspiracy is insufficient, but facts showing the nature and essence of the offense must be pleaded.[18] A general allegation of negligence is ordinarily sufficient.[19] duty which it is alleged defendant failed to perform, but must allege facts showing its existence. Marples v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 32. Particularly true in regard to complaint for injunction. Complaint insufficient. Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698.

Allegations held to be conclusions: That plaintiff had not given the "bond mentioned" in the contract sued on. Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard, 140 Ala. 252, 37 So. 106. That deed is void, that claim is barred by limitations, etc. Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348. That plaintiff was discriminated against. Phillips v. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 605. In suit to compel bank to distribute part of its reserve fund, averments in complaint that directors refused for purpose of dividing it among themselves (Mulcahy v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc., 144 Cal. 219, 77 P. 910), and that it is their duty to make distribution and a fraud on plaintiff to refuse (Id.), and that it was not necessary to keep amount specified in fund, no facts being stated to support them (Id.). Statement that assessment for taxation was made as of personalty. Bakersfield & Fresno Oil Co. v. Kern County [Cal.] 77 P. 892. That indebtedness is "now due and payable." Provident Mut. Building-Loan Ass'n v. Davis, 143 Cal. 253, 76 P. 1034. Allegation of ownership based on chain of title set out. Setting out will and alleging ownership thereunder. Kidwell v. Ketler [Cal.] 79 P. 514. Count in petition against railroad company alleging in general terms that defendant was guilty of negligence should be stricken out on special demurrer on ground that it fails to set forth particulars in which defendant was negligent, unless defect is cured by amendment. Atlanta, K. & N. R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818. Averment in petition for mandamus for reinstatement of police officer that action complained of "was wholly unauthorized, and without justification, cause, or excuse, fraudulent, and contrary to and in disregard of the legal rights of petitioner." City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816. Direct statement that it was duty of defendant to do or not to do a particular thing. Facts should be alleged from which law will imply existence of underlying duty. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218; Mackey v. Northern Mill. Co., 210 Ill. 115, 71 N. E. 448. Allegation as to law of another state. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132. An averment that a conveyance was made without valuable consideration. Bad on general demurrer. Ky. Civ. Code Prac. § 119. Should state what consideration was. Roush v. Vanceburg, S. L., T. & M. Turnpike Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 735. Allegation that it was made in fraud of creditors does not aid such averment, since title of one holding for valuable consideration and without knowledge of fraud not affected by that fact. Id. That train was run without proper signals. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McIntosh, 26 Ky. L. R. 14, 80 S. W. 496. That conveyance was without valuable consideration. Roush v. Vanceburg, S. L., T. & M. Turnpike Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 735. Allegation that bond unlimited in duration had expired prior to defalcation. North St. Louis Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Obert, 169 Mo. 507, 69 S. W. 1044. Allegation in petition for divorce that defendant continually abused plaintiff, quarreling with him over various small matters. Slaughter v. Slaughter, 106 Mo. App. 104, 80 S. W. 3. That judgment was not properly entered. Burton v. Kipp [Mont.] 76 P. 563. That principal of certain bonds is due and payable by reason of nonpayment of interest. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296. Allegations in answer in ejectment held conclusions and hence to state no defense and to be vulnerable on demurrer. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235. In replevin, allegations relating to ownership and right to possession, and as to unlawful taking. Burdick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13. That defendant has arbitrarily and wrongfully manipulated affairs of a company, and has denied and disputed plaintiff's right to certain stock. Petty v. Emery, 96 App. Div. 35, 88 N. Y. S. 823. That rent became due and payable. George A. Fuller Co. v. Manhattan Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1049. In action for breach of contract to sell stock for plaintiff, counterclaim sounding in tort alleging that defendant was induced to make certain advances to plaintiff by false representations, in consequence of which the money advanced was "wholly lost." Gause v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 44 Misc. 46, 89 N. Y. S. 723. That by reason of the premises, the plaintiff's title to certain securities was fraudulent, unmarketable, and not good. Id. That certain stock was not fully paid. Id. In action for attorney's services, a defense that, under the circumstances of the case, defendant denies that plaintiff is entitled to any compensation whatever, expresses an opinion only. Pierce v. Newlin, 91 N. Y. S. 377. That cause of action is exclusively within jurisdiction of Federal courts. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11. That car came nearly to standstill at instance and request of plaintiff, who then and there, at defendant's instance and request, was invited to become a passenger. "Invitation" used in legal sense. Kennedy v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 40. In petition in election contest that "illegal votes were cast." Robertson v. Board of Com'rs of Grant County [Okl.] 79 P. 97. In action for conversion of hops, that, by reason of certain facts, plaintiff waived and surrendered their alleged claim of the mortgage lien on said hops. Zorn v. Livesley, 44 Or. 501, 75 P. 1057. Not injured by striking it out, where other allegations constituted complete defense. Id. That defendant never legally executed mortgage. Stewart v. Linton, 204 Pa. 207, 53 A. 744. That assault was made on plaintiff by defendant's employe while acting within scope of his authority. Waaler v. Great Northern R. Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 1097. That cemetery would create noisome odors, etc., in absence of averment as to contemplated mode of sepulture. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56. As to fraud and collusion between directors of corporation and lessee under oil lease. Stark v. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co. [Tex.

An allegation is irrelevant when the issue formed by its denial can have no connection with or effect upon the cause of action.[20]

A pleading will not be regarded as frivolous unless its insufficiency is apparent upon a bare statement, without argument.[21]

Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1080. That suit was instituted without "reasonable or probable cause of action," without allegation of facts showing it. King v. Estabrooks [Vt.] 60 A. 84. Allegations held to sufficiently impeach judgment to overcome its effect as proof of probable cause. Id. That adoption was void under laws of another state, without setting them out. James v. James, 35 Wash. 655, 77 P. 1082.

Allegations held not to be conclusions: That fair proportion of expense of draining mine, which defendant was required to pay under contract, was certain sum per month. Fisk Min. & Mill Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240. Paragraph of complaint in action on contract not demurrable on ground that it was made up of statements of law and fact so involved in and dependent upon each other as to be wholly inseparable. Wiggin v. Federal Stock & Grain Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 607. Allegation in answer of waiver, acquiescence and ratification. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058. Averments as to breaches of bond. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97. That way existed as appurtenant to land. Cincinnati, R. & M. R. Co. v. Miller [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 827. That deceased mortgagor "left no heirs or kindred of any kind or degree" surviving her, and that property descended under the statute to her husband. Not necessary to state specifically that she left neither maternal nor paternal kindred. Montz v. Schwabacher, 26 Ky. L. R. 1214, 83 S. W. 569. In petition in action on benefit certificate that all dues and assessments had been paid, where plaintiff further alleged that he could not specify dates and amounts because books and receipts were in defendant's possession, and gave notice to produce them at trial. Endowment Rank Supreme Lodge K. P. v. Townsend [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 220.

18. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170; Bell v. Southern Home B. & L. Ass'n, 140 Ala. 371, 37 So. 237; Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754; Hoon v. Hoon [Iowa] 102 N. W. 105. Fraud and want of consideration for deed. Noble v. Gilliam, 136 Ala. 618, 33 So. 861. In action on promissory note given for purchase price of business, where defendants pleaded partial failure of consideration by reason of false representation as to business, allegations as to such representations held demurrable as failing to set forth amount of profits represented to have been made, and amount of damage suffered by defendant. McCrary v. Pritchard, 119 Ga. 876, 47 S. E. 341. Will be judged, not by the epithets used, nor the general characterization of acts, but by the facts specially set forth as constituting the wrong. Answer failing to allege in what fraud consisted held demurrable. Board of Com'rs of Howard County v. Garrigus [Ind.] 73 N. E. 82. Allegation that chattel mortgage was procured by fraudulent and false representations made at time of its execution does not sufficiently set up defense of fraud in procuring its execution. Beadleston & Woerz v. Furrer, 92 N. Y. S. 879. Bill for cancellation of deed. McPeck's Heirs v. Graham's Heirs [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 125.

19. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1009. Answer in action for personal injuries sufficiently specific. Durham v. Bolivar, 106 Mo. App. 601, 81 S. W. 463. General averments of negligence "as hereinafter more specifically mentioned or described" will be limited in their application to the specific allegations referred to. Allegations of negligence in action for personal injuries. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeler [Kan.] 79 P. 673. If legal duty and violation thereof are disclosed in action for negligence, the general averment of the negligence complained of will be sufficient on demurrer. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 73 N. E. 91. A general allegation of negligence is sufficient as against a demurrer for want of facts. Remedy, if any, to obtain more specific statement of acts constituting it is by motion to make more specific. Nickey v. Steuder [Ind.] 73 N. E. 117. In an action for personal injuries, plaintiff must state the nature and character of the injuries complained of, and if for any reason this cannot be done, the petition must so allege. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Ison [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 408.

20. Cheatham v. Edgerfield Mfg. Co., 131 F. 118. One having no substantial relation to the controversy between the parties to the suit, and which cannot affect the decision of the court because it has no bearing on the subject-matter of the controversy. In action to restrain plaintiff from holding herself out as defendant's wife, allegations as to original meretricious relations between them, and that plaintiff was married when they began, held relevant. Bell v. Clarke, 45 Misc. 275, 92 N. Y. S. 411. Certain allegations in answer, in action on contract, where defense was payment, held improperly stricken out as irrelevant and improper defenses. Flournoy v. Osgood, 90 N. Y. S. 972.

Allegations held irrelevant: In answer as to reasons for setting up limitations. Lenhardt v. French, 68 S. C. 297, 47 S. E. 382. In complaint for breach of contract as to prior independent contracts. Murray v. National Biscuit Co., 96 App. Div. 609, 88 N. Y. S. 1001. In suit to set aside assignment of bond and mortgage, as to publication of assignment under false names to prevent discovery of fraud. Day v. Day, 95 App. Div. 122, 88 N. Y. S. 504.

21. Demurrer. Where court disregards this rule, holding will be reversed. Shaw v. Feltman, 99 App. Div. 514, 91 N. Y. S. 114. See, also, Doll v. Smith, 43 Misc. 417, 89 N. Y. S. 331. When the frivolousness appears from a mere inspection, and therefore justifies the inference that it was interposed in bad faith. Demurrer not frivolous if argument required to show that it is bad. Rankin v. Bush, 93 App. Div. 181, 87 N. Y. S. 539. A motion for judgment upon the answer as frivolous presents no more than the proposition that the pleading is insufficient upon a bare inspec-

Scandal in a pleading consists of any unnecessary allegation bearing cruelly on the moral character of an individual, or stating anything contrary to good manners, or anything unbecoming the dignity of the court to hear.[22] The fact that the petition contains irrelevant, and scandalous matter does not deprive the plaintiff of the relief to which it shows him to be entitled.[23]

Whether matter alleged in a pleading is inducement or surplusage must be determined by a sound construction of the entire pleading.[24] It cannot be treated as surplusage where its substantiation at the trial is material to the right of recovery.[25]

A sham pleading is one good in form and false in fact and which is not pleaded in good faith.[26]

Where the pleadings in a case are lost, the court should require the parties to file substantial copies thereof.[27] If those filed are not conceded to be substantial copies, the court should hear testimony on the question and require the filing of copies in accordance therewith.[28]

Interpretation and construction in general.[29]—At common law everything in a pleading was taken most strongly against the pleader,[30] and this rule still prevails in some states.[31] Under the code, however, pleadings are generally to be liberally tion without the need of argument (Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 32), and an order denying it in no way determines the legal sufficiency of such pleading (Id.).

Pleadings held frivolous: Where the complaint shows on its face that it is not on an open or unliquidated account, a plea of the three years' statute of limitations. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777. Answer in action by creditors to reach beneficial interest of defendant in voluntary trust. Kene v. Hill, 92 N. Y. S. 805. Defense of contract of third person to do certain work for defendant, contract of plaintiff with third person to do part of such work and failure of plaintiff so to do. Dixon v. Johnson, 44 Or. 43, 74 P. 394. Demurrer to complaint in suit for partition. Sprague v. Maxey [Wis.] 100 N. W. 832. Plea of assumption of risk in action against carrier for injuries to employe. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395. In Wisconsin, a party appearing from an order overruling a frivolous demurrer will be charged with double attorney's fees, to be taxed as penalty [Rev. St. 1898, § 2951]. Sprague v. Maxey [Wis.] 100 N. W. 832.

22. Answer in action by trustee in bankruptcy to set aside fraudulent transfer. McNulty v. Wiesen, 130 F. 1012.

23. Petition for alimony. Hawley v. Hawley, 95 App. Div. 274, 88 N. Y. S. 606.

24. Allegations in declaration, in action for royalties under mining lease, showing that defendant was in privity of estate with regard to lease and therefore bound, held not matter of inducement or surplusage. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Peers, 205 Ill. 531, 68 N. E. 1065.

Allegations held surplusage: In action for damages for ejection from train, where plaintiff is only entitled to recover for breach of contract of carriage, allegations as to tortious acts of conductor. Chase v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 153. In action for penalty for failure to transmit telegram, where essential allegation of careless and negligent failure is made, unnecessary words as to actual delivery. Hill v. Western Union Tel. Co., 105 Mo. App. 572, 80 S. W. 3. In a declaration of covenant, a concluding phrase, "whereby an action hath accrued," etc., which is appropriate to an action of debt. Bowen v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 252. In action for injuries, allegation that defendant corporations were co-partners. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. The statement in a replication properly pleading fraud that it is in the nature of an equitable defense may be disregarded as surplusage. Probate Court of Westerly v. Potter [R. I.] 58 A. 661.

25. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 549, subd. 2. Allegations, in action for conversion of rents, alleging that money was received in fiduciary capacity and embezzled, not surplusage. Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344.

26. Continental B. & L. Ass'n v. Boggess, 145 Cal. 30, 78 P. 245.

27. John Hamilton & Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 58.

28. John Hamilton & Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 58. It is error to permit plaintiff to substitute as a copy of his original petition one omitting items on which defendant has based a plea in reconvention. Id.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1183. Equity pleading, see Equity, § 6a, 3 Curr. L. 1222.

30. Witham v. Blood, 124 Iowa, 695, 100 N. W. 558; Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356; David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19.

31. Where a count in a petition is equivocal and capable of two constructions, one of which will let in a defense and the other will not, the construction which is most favorable to defendant and which will let in the defense will be adopted. Count construed as one for continuing injury to property and not for continuing nuisance, so that it was barred by limitations. Holbrook v. Norcross, 121 Ga. 319, 48 S. E. 922. Allegations as to negligence, on question as to propriety of instructions. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeler [Kan.] 79 P. 673. Every in-construed, with a view to substantial justice between the parties,[32] particularly after the trial,[33] and every reasonable intendment and presumption is to be made in their favor.[34] All facts necessary to a cause of action not expressly alleged tendment legitimately deducible therefrom in favor of other party should be taken as true. Allegation in reply held not an admission that certain deed conveyed land in controversy. Skidmore v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1163. Under allegation that defendant agreed to convey portion of land to plaintiff in consideration of his making certain improvements, it will be presumed that she was to convey only so much as was occupied by such improvements. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718.

On demurrer: Karter v. Fields, 140 Ala. 352, 37 So. 204; Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard, 140 Ala. 252, 37 So. 106; Indiana Nat. Gas & Oil Co. v. Lee [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 492. Petition held to seek recovery on quantum meruit for services. Moore v. Smith, 121 Ga. 479, 49 S. E. 601. Petition to enforce mechanic's lien held to sufficiently allege plaintiff's ownership of land. Badger Lumber Co. v. Muehlebach [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 546. Allegations in petition to enjoin diversion of water, being consistent with lawful use by defendants, will be so construed. Cline v. Stock [Neb.] 102 N. W. 265. In action for injuries resulting from explosion of gasoline, absence of allegation that defendant placed it in tank in store without storekeeper's consent raises presumption to contrary. Marples v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 32.

32. Griffin v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 101, 46 S. E. 7. In the construction of a pleading for the purpose of determining its effect [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2668]. Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356. Statute should be given broad and liberal interpretation [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2668]. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 629. Ruebsam v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 984. N. C. Code, § 260. Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. On demurrer will be liberally construed. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 92 N. Y. S. 525. Averments which sufficiently point out the nature of the pleader's claim are sufficient, if under them he would be entitled to give the necessary evidence to support his cause of action. Complaint sufficient to admit evidence of breach of contract. Coppola v. Kraushaar, 92 N. Y. S. 436. On demurrer for failure to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, the only question is whether a cause of action is alleged or can be fairly gathered from all the averments of the complaint. Id. It will be sustained only when it appears that after admitting all the facts alleged, or that can by reasonable and fair intendment be implied from them, the complaint fails to state a cause of action. Id. Should be fairly and reasonably construed. Complaint held to show that work was performed under independent contract. Schilling Co. v. Reid & Co., 94 App. Div. 500, 87 N. Y. S. 1115. The code looks to the substance and not to the form. Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356. Reply held not to amount to admission that deed was delivered on certain date. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19.

33. After issue joined, trial, and verdict [Mo. Rev. St. 1889, § 2074]. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299. Answer, on appeal. Allen v. Dunn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 680. On appeal from the judgment where the evidence does not appear to have been objected to, and the findings are conclusive. Neumann v. Moretti [Cal.] 79 P. 510. Where the question is presented for the first time after judgment, the complaint will be upheld if a cause of action is fairly inferable from its allegations. Complaint in action on contract for services held to sufficiently allege that plaintiff was duly qualified teacher. Norton v. Wilkes [Minn.] 101 N. W. 619. In order to warrant a reversal on the ground of error in overruling a demurrer to a complaint because of uncertainty, after the case has been tried and a judgment rendered on the facts, it must appear that some substantial right of defendant has been prejudiced. Uncertainty as to damages not prejudicial where defendant interposed specific denial of all the allegations of the complaint. Rooney v. Gray, 145 Cal. 753, 79 P. 523.

34. To be construed in favor of pleader on demurrer, and to be viewed with greater liberality if objection taken otherwise. Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356. In determining whether complaint states a cause of action, question is not whether pleader used most appropriate language to that end, but whether that used will permit reasonably of a coustruction sustaining the intent of the pleader. Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356; Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Will be held sufficient whenever the requisite allegations can be fairly gathered from all the averments, though the statement of them may be argumentative, and the pleading deficient in logical order and technical language. Complaint in action by stockholder to compel directors to return stock illegally appropriated to the company. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 92 N. Y. S. 525. Complaint in action on railroad construction contract sufficient. Lewis v. Utah Const. Co. [Idaho] 77 P. 336. On demurrer, the pleading will be held to state all facts that can be implied from the allegations by reasonable and fair intendment, and facts so impliedly averred are traversable in the same manner as though directly stated. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 92 N. Y. S. 525. All reasonable inferences that can be drawn from the language of a pleading to support it are to be indulged in, rather than such as will defeat it. In action against city for death caused by electric light wire, complaint held sufficient. Wilbert v. Sheboygan, 121 Wis. 518, 99 N. W. 330. On general demurrer, every reasonable intendment from the allegations thereof taken as a whole will be indulged in in its favor. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1077. Petition in action for damages for flooding land held sufficient. Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 531. Action for injuries due to negligence. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex.

which can be reasonably inferred from what is stated will be regarded as properly pleaded.[35] But a party will still be presumed to have stated his case as strongly as the facts will justify,[36] and nothing will be inferred in his favor which has not been averred, or may not, upon a liberal and fair interpretation, be implied from his averments.[37] The rule requiring a liberal construction does not affect the fundamental requirements of good pleading, but merely matters of form.[38]

The sufficiency of a pleading is to be determined by the facts therein stated only.[39] Inferences cannot be indulged in in support of it,[40] and the conclusions of the pleader will not be considered.[41]

A pleading should be taken as a whole and all its parts construed together.[42] Specific allegations will control general ones.[43] Allegations in a paragraph in conflict with its general theory will be rejected,[44] and isolated statements will not be permitted to control the scope and meaning of long and involved pleadings.[45]

The language used must be taken in its plain and ordinary meaning, and such interpretation given it as fairly appears to have been intended by the pleader.[46] When an expression is capable of different meanings, that one will be

Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. Allegations of petition, when taken together, held to constitute allegation of performance of services sued for. Stapper v. Wolter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 850.

35. Witham v. Blood, 124 Iowa, 695, 100 N. W. 558; Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

36. Witham v. Blood, 124 Iowa, 695, 100 N. W. 558.

37. Petition in suit to quiet title insufficient. Witham v. Blood, 124 Iowa, 695, 100 N. W. 558. No facts will be presumed to exist in favor of the pleader which have not been averred or alleged. Complaint for injunction insufficient. Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698.

38. Ruehsam v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 984.

39. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174. On demurrer. Johnson v. Brice [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 791. Contract annexed to answer cannot be deemed a part of complaint, though latter contains statement that contract would be produced when and where court ordered. Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179. Each pleading must stand on its own ground. Admissions exclusive to pleading in which they are made and cannot be used as evidence in issues joined in other pleadings. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. The summons cannot be used to aid in interpreting the complaint on demurrer. Complaint alone to be considered. Buckham v. Hoover [S. D.] 101 N. W. 28.

40. Though they could have been legitimately drawn had question arisen as to effect of evidence. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218.

41. In considering the sufficiency of a pleading, the court does not accept the conclusions drawn by the pleader, but determines for itself the legal force of the facts alleged. Marples v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 32.

42. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19. According to its general scope and tenor as appears from the averments. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879. The prayer will not control and determine its validity. Action held one for damages for nuisance and not for injunction. Id.

43. Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297. Where a petition contains a general allegation of negligence followed by an enumeration of certain careless acts, the latter will be regarded as explanatory of the general allegation. Where there is a general charge of common-law negligence, followed by a statement of particular omissions of duty constituting the same kind of negligence, plaintiff cannot recover on proof of an act not specified. Mueller v. La Prelle Shoe Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1010. General allegations of payment will be disregarded and reference had to the specific allegations of payments as stated in the answers to each count to determine what credits defendant is entitled to under each count. Answer held not to authorize jury to allow defendant amount of due bill as credit on second count of complaint. Sayers v. Crane [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 473.

44. Cannot draft answer for purpose of presenting proposition that plaintiff never had any present right in contract under law of place where it was made, and then, when allegation as to foreign law is held insufficient, fall back on proposition that there was contemporaneous oral agreement limiting plaintiff's rights under law of forum. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132.

45. Answer in action on insurance policy held to commingle matters of fact having no relation to each other. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132.

46. Answer alleging fraud and conspiracy sufficient. Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117. On demurrer words will be given their legal rather than their colloquial meaning. Word "invitation" in action against carrier for injury to passenger. Kennedy v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 40.

adopted which will support the pleading, rather than one which will defeat it.[47] When the trial court has placed a reasonable construction on a complaint capable of two constructions, the appellate court will be disposed to adhere thereto.[48]

The form of an instrument attached to a pleading controls over the pleader's conclusion as to its legal effect.[49] Where the words of a writing are pleaded, they are regarded merely as descriptive of the identity of the instrument.[50]

Exhibits.[51]—An exhibit cannot be resorted to on behalf of a pleader to supply a material allegation or cure a fatal defect,[52] but may be used to give the pleading the requisite definiteness and certainty.[53] It may be looked to to contradict a pleading and make it bad, but not to help it.[54] A party cannot, on the hearing of a demurrer, object to the consideration of an exhibit which he has himself attached to his pleading in order to make it more definite and certain.[55]

A paper which is merely attached to a pleading and marked as an exhibit but not incorporated therein is not a part thereof.[56]

In Indiana when any pleading is founded on a written instrument or an account, the original or a copy thereof must be filed with the pleading.[57] If the action is not founded on the instrument as such, all the facts constituting the cause of action must be stated in the complaint itself.[58]

Bills of particulars.[59]—Statutes in some states authorize an order directing

47. Averment that master promised to repair machinery, but failed and "refused" to do so, not inconsistent with theory that promise induced servant to incur a known danger. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris [Va.] 49 S. E. 991.

48. West Muncie Strawboard Co. v. Slack [Ind.] 72 N. E. 879.

49. Averment that undertaking ran to plaintiff rendered nugatory. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 33. Where the contract sued on is annexed to the complaint and made a part thereof, the rights of the parties are to be determined by it rather than by the general allegations of the complaint concerning its effect. Samuel Cuppies Envelope Co. v. Lackner, 90 N. Y. S. 954.

50. Higgins v. Graham, 143 Cal. 131, 76 P. 898. Where a complaint alleges a written acknowledgment of a debt in words set out, a denial of an acknowledgment in such words is not pregnant with an admission that it was acknowledged in other words. Id. If denial could be construed as admission of execution in other words would be simply an admission of other writings and hence variant from those alleged, and immaterial. Id.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1192, n. 94 et seq.

52. Dixon v. Roessler [S. C.] 50 S. E. 184. Cannot be substituted for, or take the place of, necessary allegations, but can only be looked to in aid and explanation of them. Do not relieve pleader from necessity of alleging facts to which they relate. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56. Cannot be considered in determining whether the complaint states a cause of action. Nichols v. Montgomery, 68 S. C. 332, 47 S. E. 373.

53. Where complaint states cause of action. Dixon v. Roessler [S. C.] 50 S. E. 184; Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 56.

54. Fact that mortgage is filed with petition to foreclose does not aid defects or supply omission to plead its conditions or their breach. Miller v. McConnell, 26 Ky. L. R. 181, 80 S. W. 1103. Articles of incorporation filed with answer may be considered against defendant in suit for organization tax. Commonwealth v. Licking Valley Bldg. Ass'n, 26 Ky. L. R. 730, 82 S. W. 435.

55. Dixon v. Roessler [S. C.] 50 S. E. 184.

56. Notice of expiration of time to redeem from tax sale. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19. The total omission of a fact necessary to constitute a cause of action cannot be supplied by reference to an exhibit not copied into the petition, but simply filed and referred to therein. Goff v. Janeway, 26 Ky. L. R. 525, 82 S. W. 267, afd. on rehearing 26 Ky. L. R. 1266, 83 S. W. 1038.

57. Incomplete contract not properly made an exhibit [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 365]. Ellison v. Towne [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 270. Railroad need not file instrument of appropriation when suing to enjoin removal of buildings from land condemned by it. Stauffer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 33 Ind. App. 356, 70 N. E. 543. Allegation in action on insurance policy that adjuster's agreement is "made a part hereof and attached hereto" sufficient to make it part of complaint. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814. In an action by surety to be reimbursed for money which he has been compelled to pay for principal, action is not on bond, and it need not be made an exhibit. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

58. If incomplete instrument a part of such facts it may be inserted in pleading itself with proper averments. Ellison v. Towne [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 270. Where the instrument is not the basis of the pleading, it cannot be looked to to aid its averments, though it is made an exhibit. Lease attached to complaint not basis of suit. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Lee [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 492.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1190, 1198.

either party to furnish a bill of particulars of his claim to the adverse party.[60] When used in connection with defendant's case, the word claim means that ground of fact which he alleges in his answer as the reason why judgment should not go against him.[61] The remedies provided for by motions to make the pleadings more definite and certain and to require a bill of particulars are separate and distinct, and the moving party should be required to choose the one appropriate to the relief he seeks.[62] The granting or withholding of the bill is generally held to be within the discretion of the trial court, and his action will not ordinarily be interfered with on appeal in the absence of an abuse of such discretion.[63]

The office of a bill of particulars is to amplify a pleading and to inform the party with reasonable certainty of the nature of the claim made by his adversary, in order to prevent surprise and to enable him to intelligently meet the issue upon the trial.[64] It is not its purpose to furnish evidence to the opposite party.[65] It

60. In Connecticut the common counts may be used for the commencement of an action in all cases when any of the counts is a general statement of the cause of action, but plaintiff is required to furnish a bill of particulars of the items of his claim before a default can be entered or judgment rendered thereon [Gen. St. 1902, § 627]. Hoggson & P. Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133.

In Florida a plea of set-off must be accompanied by a bill of particulars [Rev. St. 1892, § 1069]. Muller v. Ocala Fonndry & Machine Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64.

In Georgia the failure to attach a bill of particulars to the complaint does not authorize a dismissal unless, after motion therefor, plaintiff fails to supply the omission by the second term. Simpson v. Wicker, 120 Ga. 418, 47 S. E. 965.

New York court may order bill of particulars of the claim of either party to be delivered to the adverse party [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 531]. Swan v. Swan, 44 Misc. 163, 89 N. Y. S. 794; Kavanaugh v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 45 Misc. 201, 91 N. Y. S. 967; Knipe v. Brooklyn Daily Eagle, 91 N. Y. S. 872. In municipal court an order for a bill need not be made at the time of joining issue. Code Civ. Proc. § 2942 does not apply. Laws 1882, p. 349, c. 410, § 1347, repealed by Laws 1902, p. 1595, c. 580, § 364. Time not limited by Laws 1902, c. 580, § 145. Pough & Co. v. Cerimedo, 44 Misc. 246, 88 N. Y. S. 1054.

In North Carolina the court may in all cases order a bill of particulars [Code, § 259]. Turner v. McKee [N. C.] 49 S. E. 330. In an action by a common informer for a statutory penalty against a county commissioner for auditing unverified accounts, if defendant desires fuller information in regard to the accounts referred to he should demand a bill of particulars, and not demur. Id.

In South Carolina a party need not set forth in a pleading the items of an account therein alleged, but must deliver a copy of the account to the other party on demand [Code, § 179]. Creighton v. Creighton & Co., 68 S. C. 326, 47 S. E. 439. The court may also, in all cases, order a bill of particulars of the claim of either party to be furnished [Code, § 179]. Id.

In Virginia the court may order a statement to be filed of the particulars of the claim or the ground of defense [Va. Code 1887, § 3249 (Code 1904, p. 1709)]. Driver's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 1000.

In Washington, a bill may be ordered where the demand is for particulars of the general items set out in the complaint, but it is not the remedy where discovery is sought of facts in possession of plaintiff material to the defense of the action. May be demanded in certain actions as matter of right under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4930. Ingram v. Wishkah Boom Co., 35 Wash. 191, 77 P. 34. The remedy in such case is by interrogatories before trial, or by an examination of the party as a witness at the trial. Id. Motion in action for injuries caused by operation of sluice dams properly denied. Id.

61. Plaintiff sued her husband for moneys advanced. Defendant set up antenuptial agreement under which wife was to contribute her income and he his earnings for support of family, and alleged his performance. Held, that defense did not constitute such a claim, the amount of defendant's contribution not being presented by answer. Swan v. Swan, 44 Misc. 163, 89 N. Y. S. 794.

62. Motion should not be in alternative. Kavanaugh v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 45 Misc. 201, 91 N. Y. S. 967.

63. Knipe v. Brooklyn Daily Eagle, 91 N. Y. S. 872. Unless plainly erroneous. Driver's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 1000. In action against railroad company for death of employe, where grounds of defense actually relied on were defendant's want of negligence and contributory negligence of deceased and his fellow-servants, refusal to require statement was not prejudicial to plaintiff. Id. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 531. Where counterclaim alleged conversion of securities which plaintiff agreed to carry in consideration of certain services theretofore rendered to him, bill of particulars of services and value properly granted, to prevent needless preparation. Llewellyn v. Froehlich, 88 N. Y. S. 966. Appellate court will not interfere to control discretion where real object of bill is to limit the party furnishing it in his proof, and facts are equally within knowledge of both. Messer v. Aaron, 91 N. Y. S. 921.

64. Messer v. Aaron, 91 N. Y. S. 921; Creighton v. Creighton & Co., 68 S. C. 326, 47 S. E. 439. To reasonably apprise defendant of the nature of plaintiff's claim. City of Battle Creek v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1005.

should, however, properly describe the claim proved,[66] and give the particulars of the cause of action and the nature and amount of damage in detail, where it is claimed as being suffered by many and diverse articles.[67] Matters of time, place and circumstance, unless they constitute material parts of the cause of action or defense, are strictly within its province and must be obtained by that method rather than by a motion to make more definite and certain.[68]

A party should not be required to furnish particulars which it is impossible to know with any degree of certainty,[69] nor to give details which are more likely to

The office of the bill of particulars required by Conn. Gen. St. 1902, § 627, when the action is commenced by the common counts, and they remain in the case as a sufficient form of complaint, is to furnish a sufficiently particular statement or bill of the items of the claims which are generally described by the allegations of the general common counts. Hoggson & P. Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133. To limit the generality of a pleading and to prevent surprise upon the trial, and not to furnish evidence to the opposite party. Neuwelt v. Consolidated Gas Co., 94 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 1003; Knipe v. Brooklyn Daily Eagle, 91 N. Y. S. 872.

65. Neuwelt v. Consolidated Gas Co., 94 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 1003; Messer v. Aaron, 91 N. Y. S. 921; Knipe v. Brooklyn Daily Eagle, 91 N. Y. S. 872; Stern v. Wabash R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 299. Not to inform party in advance upon what his opponent relies. American Transfer Co. v. Borgfeldt & Co., 99 App. Div. 470, 91 N. Y. S. 209. One should not be required to annex his documentary evidence. Pruyn v. Ecuadorian Ass'n, 94 App. Div. 195, 87 N. Y. S. 970.

66. Inaccurate description held harmless where case was held open until defendant had opportunity to investigate facts, and it was not objected to. Holyoke Envelope Co. v. United States Envelope Co., 186 Mass. 498, 72 N. E. 58.

67. Stern v. Wabash R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 299. In order to prevent surprise at the trial, plaintiff should be required to make as full a disclosure of the facts on which his claim is based as he is able. In an action against executors to recover for wearing apparel furnished testator's wife, defendants entitled to be informed whether marriage was ceremonial one, and as to dates and places where credit of testator was specifically pledged for goods. Oatman v. Watrous, 90 N. Y. S. 940.

68. Kavanaugh v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 45 Misc. 201, 91 N. Y. S. 967; Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170.

Defendant held entitled to bill: In action for damages for fraudulent representations in selling team of horses, showing which horse was referred to in each paragraph of complaint, and amounts paid for treating them and to whom paid. Newman v. West, 91 N. Y. S. 740. In action for breach of contract to produce play where plaintiff claimed damages because defendant's breach had led public and managers to believe it was not a dramatic success, showing who had been so led to believe, and damages resulting therefrom, and places where play had been successfully produced. Royle y. Goodwin, 90 N. Y. S. 142. In action for injuries, stating expense incurred for medical attendance and amount of time and wages lost. Ziadi v. Interurban St. R. Co., 97 App. Div. 137, 89 N. Y. S. 606. Where, in action to recover percentage of profits under contract, plaintiff's bill of particulars indicates that much business was done over and above amount indicated by defendant's books, defendant held entitled to further bill as to such amounts. Elting v. Gillette Clipping Mach. Co., 96 App. Div. 632, 89 N. Y. S. 252. In action for false representations which induced plaintiff to invest money in bonds, etc., held proper to require him to specify what representations were, and when, where, and by whom they were made, and whether they were written or oral, also what bonds he purchased, what moneys he advanced, what corporations he financed, and details of his claim. Pruyn v. Ecuadorian Ass'n, 94 App. Div. 195, 87 N. Y. S. 970.

Plaintiff held entitled to bill: Where, in action to recover for furnishing plans for building, defendant alleges damages resulting from error in specifying location of property in all papers connected with plans, stating in what papers error occurred, names of persons making other surveys and plans, for how long construction was delayed, amount lost in rents, names of persons to whom money was paid, and nature of their services. Price v. Ryan, 96 App. Div. 607, 88 N. Y. S. 984. In action by executrix upon judgment recovered by testator, where defense is payment, showing when and to whom money was paid, though facts could be procured from testator's attorney and from papers on file in supplementary proceedings instituted on judgment. Lynch v. Dorsey, 90 N. Y. S. 741. Required in action on building contract under allegation by way of counterclaim that by reason of plaintiff's breach defendant was compelled to buy materials and employ others to do the work. Engineer Co. v. Senn, 92 App. Div. 616, 86 N. Y. S. 1115.

Sufficiency: In action for goods sold and delivered, held sufficient with the count for goods sold and account stated, to show plaintiff's cause of action, and meet requirements of rules (Conn. Rules under practice act, Rule 2, § 1, 26 Atl. v.), though it did not specify the kind or quantity of meat sold. Hatch v. Busby [Conn.] 59 A. 422. Item in account, filed with petition in action on account, entered as "damage on orchard by cattle, $10," is insufficiently stated. Bick v. Halberstadt [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 127. Items for half of taxes and of certain accounts held not insufficient as matter of law, sufficiency depending on evidence adduced to prove them. Id. Exhibit filed with petition in action for services held to sufficiently itemize services. Taussig v. St. Louis & K. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 378.

69. Neuwelt v. Consolidated Gas Co., 94 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 1003. In action for be known by the other party,[70] nor information peculiarly within the knowledge of the party seeking it,[71] or equally within the knowledge[72] or the reach of both parties,[73] nor to disclose the names of his witnesses.[74] Where a party is unable to furnish any of the information demanded or to furnish it completely, he should be directed to so state as a substitute therefor.[75]

A bill of particulars may not be resorted to to enlarge the grounds of recovery, nor to change the cause of action, or enlarge the defense set up in the answer.[76] The fact that an answer contains only admissions and denials may be a reason for refusing to compel defendant to furnish a bill of particulars,[77] but it does not affect his right to one from plaintiff.[78]

In an action on a contract, where the substance of the answer is a denial of performance, which plaintiff must prove in order to recover, he is not entitled to a bill of particulars specifying the items in which he has failed to perform.[79] It is proper, however, to require defendant to file a bill setting forth in detail the money damage alleged to have been sustained in excess of the amount claimed by plaintiff, by reason of plaintiff's negligent and improper conduct.[80] Plaintiff is entitled to a bill of particulars in regard to moneys alleged to have been expended by him in completing the contract, alleged by way of off-set.[81] rent where defendant alleged eviction and counterclaimed for damages, order for bill from him held too broad. Hall v. Gerken, 96 App. Div. 632, 89 N. Y. S. 171. In action for breach of contract to accept certain pails, where plaintiff claimed damages for compliance with provision that he should not sell similar goods to others, held that he should not be required to specify names of persons whose trade was lost by such compliance. Armstrong v. Heide, 90 N. Y. S. 372.

70. Such as particular acts of negligence claimed to have caused explosion of gas. Neuwelt v. Consolidated Gas Co., 94 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 1003.

71. American Transfer Co. v. George Borgfeldt & Co., 99 App. Div. 470, 91 N. Y. S. 209. Error to order bill where complaint alleged that plaintiff hired defendant to secure bookings for his play, and sought recovery of sums received by him from those with whom it was booked. Belasco v. Klaw, 96 App. Div. 268, 89 N. Y. S. 208. Defendants not entitled to bill in regard to matters which they can ascertain from their own books. Elting v. Gillette Clipping Mach. Co., 96 App. Div. 632, 89 N. Y. S. 252. The mere fact that defendant is in a better position to know the facts than plaintiff will not excuse plaintiff from giving a bill of particulars, where proof of such facts is necessary to the establishment of his case. Plaintiff, in action for injuries from falling of hotel window, required to give bill showing in what respect window and appliances were defective. Burke v. Frenkel, 95 App. Div. 89, 88 N. Y. S. 517.

72. Where plaintiff sued to reform contract on ground that it was entered into by his mistake and by mistake or fraud on defendant's part, defendant, answering by general denial, was not entitled to bill of facts constituting alleged fraud. American Transfer Co. v. Borgfeldt & Co., 99 App. Div. 470, 91 N. Y. S. 209.

73. Matter of public record. Messer v. Aaron, 91 N. Y. S. 921. In action for specific performance of contract for sale of realty or for damages for its breach, where complaint alleged that defendant was unable to convey, and explained in bill that he was unable because of adverse claims, held that he should not be required to furnish further bill showing names of claimants and grounds on which claims were based. Id.

74. Messer v. Aaron, 91 N. Y. S. 921. In action for libel, where defendant pleads in mitigation that article was based on information furnished to reporter by residents of police precinct of which plaintiff was captain, defendant held not entitled to names and addresses of reporter and residents. Knipe v. Brooklyn Daily Eagle, 91 N. Y. S. 872. It will not be presumed for the purposes of a motion to compel defendant to furnish a bill that he intends to establish his case by evidence of questionable witnesses. Id.

75. Ziadi v. Interurban St. R. Co., 97 App. Div. 137, 89 N. Y. S. 606.

76. Bill respecting false representations made by plaintiff to defendant cannot aid defective averments of fraud in answer. Beadleston v. Furrer, 92 N. Y. S. 879.

77, 78. Newman v. West, 91 N. Y. S. 740.

79. Since defendant is entitled, under denial, to prove any particular failure, and should not be restricted in such proof. O'Rourke v. United States Mortg. & Trust Co., 95 App. Div. 518, 88 N. Y. S. 926. Rule applies though he has, in his answer, also specified certain particulars in which the contract was not complied with. Barreto v. Rothschild, 93 App. Div. 211, 87 N. Y. S. 553. Knowledge as much within possession of plaintiff as of defendant. Brandt v. Burke, 90 N. Y. S. 929. In an action to recover for labor and materials where defendant, by way of counterclaim, sets up a contract and its breach, he cannot be required to file a bill of particulars setting forth the particular breaches claimed. Plaintiff must prove performance. Reitmayer v. Crombie, 94 App. Div. 303, 87 N. Y. S. 973.

80. O'Rourke v. United States Mortg. & Trust Co., 95 App. Div. 518, 88 N. Y. S. 926.

In an action for fraud, a bill of particulars will not be ordered unless defendant denies the fraud charged in the complaint.[82] The substance, merit, and good faith of such denials control, rather than the name of the paper in which they are contained.[83]

A defendant is not required to furnish a bill of particulars of payments made under the defense of payment.[84]

In New York a bill may be required when it is necessary to enable defendant to answer,[85] or when necessary to his defense. An application on the latter ground is premature when made before issue joined.[86] Such an application will also be denied where defendant has sworn to the merits in his moving papers.[87] Where a sufficient affidavit for a bill of particulars is not disputed by answering affidavits, the bill should be ordered.[88]

In case a bill is not furnished pursuant to the order requiring it, the party will be precluded from giving evidence of the part or parts of his affirmative allegation of which particulars have not been delivered.[89] The order should so state.[90]

A demand for a bill of particulars is not equivalent to a request for an adjournment where none is had or asked for by defendants, and they especially have it noted on the minutes that they do not ask for one.[91]

Where a bill is insufficient, the other party may return it and demand that the order requiring it be complied with,[92] or may move for an order requiring it to be made more specific.[93] On its return the party who served it may take the risk of its sufficiency and wait until the question is raised at the trial,[94] or may, by motion to compel its acceptance, have the question settled in advance of the trial.[95]

The bill of particulars is no part of the original pleading.[96]

81. Brandt v. Burke, 90 N. Y. S. 929.

82. Newman v. West, 91 N. Y. S. 740.

83. Immaterial that they are in verified answer rather than separate affidavit, under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 3343, subd. 11. Newman v. West, 91 N. Y. S. 740.

84. Action for money loaned. Swan v. Swan, 44 Misc. 163, 89 N. Y. S. 794.

85. Not necessary in taxpayer's action to restrain payment of sheriff's bill for boarding prisoners, on ground that number charged for had not been boarded. Hicks v. Eggleston, 95 App. Div. 162, 88 N. Y. S. 528.

86. Kavanaugh v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 45 Misc. 201, 91 N. Y. S. 967. Since, until issue is raised, it cannot be known what defense, if any, will be made. Hicks v. Eggleston, 95 App. Div. 162, 88 N. Y. S. 528. Should be given leave to renew application thereafter. McDonald v. Winchester Repeating Arms Co., 92 N. Y. S. 618.

87. Kavanaugh v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 45 Misc. 201, 91 N. Y. S. 967.

88. Frankel v. Keller Printing Co., 92 N. Y. S. 282.

89. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 531 (Laws 1904, p. 1267, c. 500). Oatman v. Watrous, 90 N. Y. S. 940. Defendants in action for rent. D'Anglemont v. Fischer, 87 N. Y. S. 505.

90. Should not absolutely require it [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 531]. Oatman v. Watrous, 90 N. Y. S. 940.

91. New York Lumber & Storage Co. v. Noone, 92 N. Y. S. 349. Refusal to grant continuance on ground that amended bill of particulars had just been filed held not error, where information therein was not material and could have been obtained from original bill. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853.

92. Need not move for new bill. Faller v. Ranger, 44 Misc. 424, 90 N. Y. S. 55.

93. The remedy is by motion for a more specific bill, and not by demurrer. Demurrer will not lie because account furnished shows that nothing is due plaintiff. Creighton v. Creighton & Co., 68 S. C. 326, 47 S. E. 439. In Connecticut common counts for money paid and work performed and the bill of particulars applicable thereto are not demurrable for failing to allege that the money was paid and the work performed at defendant's request, but the remedy is by motion to make the bill more specific. Hoggson & P. Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133. Original complaint contained common counts for money paid and work performed, and bill of particulars contained account of plaintiff with defendant, the sum of the items of which amounted to the sum named in a count for account stated which was afterward added to the complaint by amendment. Held, that court properly ruled that count for account stated was part of complaint, so as to enable plaintiff to allege in his reply a special contract and settlement of amount due thereunder, the question whether the bill was applicable to the count, or they together stated a cause of action for account stated, not having been raised by motion or demurrer. Id.

94, 95. Faller v. Ranger, 99 App. Div. 374, 91 N. Y. S. 205.

96. Creighton v. Creighton & Co., 68 S. C.

§ 2. The declaration, count, complaint, or petition. In general.[97]—The complaint is generally required to contain the title of the cause, specifying the names of the court and the parties, and the county in which the action is brought,[98] a plain and concise statement of the facts constituting the cause of action, without unnecessary repetition,[99] and a demand for the relief to which the plaintiff supposes himself entitled.[1]

326, 47 S. E. 439. A specification is no part of the declaration in respect to subsequent pleadings (Aseltine v. Perry, 75 Vt. 208, 54 A. 190), but it nevertheless circumscribes the scope of the evidence and plaintiff's right of recovery. Assumpsit for insurance premium, in which plaintiff declared on common counts only. Id.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1183, 1184. See, also, Equity, § 6B, 3 Curr. L. 1222.

98. N. C. Code, § 233 (1). Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. Omission of name of court and venue not fatal, but may be cured by amendment [Kan. Code Civ. Proc. § 87]. Hastie v. Burrage [Kan.] 77 P. 268.

Names of parties: A failure to name the true plaintiff is fatal upon the trial and need not be raised by plea in abatement. Naming nonexistent partnership as plaintiff instead of individual trading under such partnership name held not a misnomer. Voight Brew. Co. v. Pacifico [Mich.] 102 N. W. 739. The defendant must be styled by his correct name. Otherwise judgment would not be against him. Municipal corporation. Rhodes v. Louisville, 121 Ga. 550, 49 S. E. 681. The words "a corporation," appearing in the title of a case after the name of the plaintiff, are merely descriptive of the plaintiff and not an allegation of incorporation. Boyce v. Augusta Camp, No. 7,429, M. W. A. [Okl.] 78 P. 322. As against a general denial, an averment that plaintiff is a private corporation is sufficient. Need not allege that it is "duly" incorporated to come within Rev. St. 1895, art. 1186, dispensing with proof of corporate existence. Bury v. Mitchell Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 74 S. W. 341. Where an administratrix is, by order of court, made a party to a suit commenced by her decedent, no allegation of her official capacity is necessary. Noyes v. Young [Mont.] 79 P. 1063. Where summons and caption read "S. B. Executor" and body reads "S. B., who sues as executor," pleadings sufficiently indicate plaintiff's representative capacity. Englehart v. Richter, 136 Ala. 562, 33 So. 939. Where the complaint states a sufficient cause of action, the fact that the parties who originally invoked the jurisdiction of the court subsequently appear on the record as defendants is immaterial. Applied in creditor's suit. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

99. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 592. Ruebsam v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 984. N. C. Code, § 233 (2). Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 4168, subd. 2. Rauh v. Oliver [Idaho] 77 P. 20. Kan. Gen. St. 1901, § 4251. Chase v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 153. N. C. Code, § 233 (2). Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co., 136 N. C. 89, 48 S. E. 642. The character of an action is determined by the facts recited in the petition and the nature of the relief prayed, and not by the particular phraseology employed by the pleader. Use of word "guaranty" in describing agreement sued on does not make petition a suit upon such a contract. City of Albany v. Cameron & Barkley Co., 121 Ga. 794, 49 S. E. 798. In condemnation proceedings the allegations of the complaint must substantially comply with the statutory requirements [Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 5216]. Hollister v. State [Idaho] 77 P. 339. In ascertaining whether such requirements have been substantially met, the rules, method and manner of inquiry applicable in ascertaining the sufficiency of any other pleading will be followed. Id. All the facts constitutive of the cause of action must be pleaded in the petition. Wilbur v. Southwest Mo. Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 671. Evidence of particular bodily injuries admissible under general averment of injuries to body. Id. The state of demand in New Jersey district court need only state a cause of action in such form as will make it appear what the plaintiff's cause of action is. Trespass for dispossession of tenant. O'Donnell v. Weiler [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055. Of each cause of action. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 481. Referring to parts of it as at or between certain folios improper. Bigelow v. Drummond, 42 Misc. 617, 87 N. Y. S. 581. Plaintiff or complainant must, in his bill, petition declaration, or other pleading in which his cause of action is stated, show a state of facts which, under the law applicable thereto, will entitle him to recover the thing sued for. Nelson v. Sneed [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 786. Bill to contest election should show clear right in contestant. Id. Ordinary rules of pleading apply to election contest, except where otherwise provided. Id. Plaintiff must by his pleadings inform the adverse party of the facts on which he intends to rely for a recovery, thereby avoiding surprise. Southern Pac. Co. v. Martin [Tex.] 83 S. W. 675. Complaint insufficient to inform defendant that damages would be claimed for fracture of femur and shortening of limb, and hence evidence of such injuries not admissible. Id. In action for personal injuries, though it may be sufficient to specify main fact, if it is attempted to particularize the injuries arising from the particular one all that it is designed to prove must be alleged. Id. A declaration is sufficient if it informs defendant of the nature of the demand made upon him, and states such facts as will enable the court to say that, if proved as alleged, they establish a good cause of action. Complaint in action for damages for personal injuries sufficient. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris [Va.] 49 S. E. 991. Complaint in action for death caused by negligence sufficient. Virginia Portland Cement Co. v. Luck's Adm'r [Va.] 49 S. E. 577. Though general, states a good cause of action if it states sufficient facts to enable the court on demurrer to say that, if such facts are proved, plaintiff is entitled to recover. Declaration in action for wrongful death caused by gas escaping from de-

It is not necessary that the action be classified or characterized by any name, if the petition sets forth facts which in law entitle plaintiff to recover.[2]

Plaintiff need not ordinarily plead matters of defense.[3] The common count in debt at common law may be used to state a cause of action under the code.[4] Though the date of an injury is immaterial when pleaded in the complaint, it becomes material on the filing of an answer alleging limitations, and will be taken as true on appeal from a judgment for defendant.[5]

In an action on a contract, the complaint must allege a performance of all its conditions on plaintiff's part, or an excuse for nonperformance.[6] A general allegation of performance is sufficient in most states.[7] Where plaintiff may elect to sue either upon a contract or for a tort arising out a breach of duty under the contract, the petition, if equivocal in its terms, will be construed as claiming damages for the tort.[8] fective mains held good, though failing to state what particular main was defective. City of Richmond v. Gay's Adm'x [Va.] 49 S. E. 482. Complaint insufficient. Hortenstein v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 102 Va. 914, 47 S. E. 996.

1. N. C. Code, § 233 (3). Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. Ky. Civ. Code, § 90. Bowman v. Ray, 25 Ky. L. R. 2131, 80 S. W. 516.

2. McNorrill v. Daniel, 121 Ga. 78, 48 S. E. 680; City of Albany v. Cameron & Barkley Co., 121 Ga. 794, 49 S. E. 798. Where a court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter, the form of application to invoke same is not material. Application to county court in form of bill in equity to enforce contract made by deceased. Wheeler v. Wheeler, 105 Ill. App. 48.

3. Freedom from contributory negligence. In action for personal injuries. Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240. In action on fire policy need not, in case of total loss, refer to three-fourths value clause or provision as to concurrent insurance. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299. In action on option contract to purchase stock, complaint need not allege that actual delivery was intended. Wiggin v. Federal Stock & Grain Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 607. It is not necessary for the petition to negative the statute of limitations unless prima facie on the facts alleged the action would appear to be barred unless brought within some exception. In such case the exception should be alleged. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708.

4. Provident Mut. Bldg. Loan Ass'n v. Davis, 143 Cal. 253, 76 P. 1034. A complaint substantially in the form of the common count in assumpsit for goods sold and delivered, and work and labor performed, on defendant's implied promise to pay therefor is good. Worthington v. Worthington, 91 N. Y. S. 443. A count in a declaration on an account annexed contains by intendment all the allegations contained in the common counts. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Green, 185 Mass. 306, 70 N. E. 202.

5. Where complaint showed that action against corporation for personal injuries was not brought within a year after they occurred. Fitzgerald v. Scovil Mfg. Co. [Conn.] 60 A. 132.

6. Averment that plaintiff delivered "an average of 1,000 pounds" of milk daily not allegation of performance of agreement to furnish 1,000 pounds daily for certain period. Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643; Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612; Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179; Guarino v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 44 Misc. 218, 88 N. Y. S. 1044. Where the obligation of a party to a contract is to pay only on the happening of a contingency, its occurrence must be alleged in the complaint. Briggs v. Rutherford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 954. The petition in an action on a guaranty must either allege notice of its acceptance or a waiver thereof. Goff v. Janeway, 26 Ky. L. R. 1266, 83 S. W. 1038; Id., 26 Ky. L. R. 525, 82 S. W. 267.

7. Allegations of performance of conditions precedent in action on fire policy sufficient. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Redding [Fla.] 37 So. 62. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 373. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132; Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 373 (Rev. St. 1881, § 370; Horner's Ann. St. 1901, § 362). In action on insurance policy such an averment sufficient pleading of furnishing proofs of loss, etc. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1904, § 373; Horner's Ann. St. 1897, § 370. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Where complaint alleges both performance of conditions of insurance policy sued on and facts showing waiver of proofs of loss, former may be treated as surplusage. Id. Such allegations, in action on fire policy, is sufficient pleading of furnishing proofs of loss [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 634]. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299. Complaint alleging that plaintiff assigned building contract to defendant, who agreed to pay certain sums when paid by owner, held demurrable for failure to allege that he had been so paid. Schilling Co. v. Reid & Co., 94 App. Div. 500, 87 N. Y. S. 1115. Word "duly" one of substance, and its omission is fatal [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 533]. Guarino v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 44 Misc. 218, 88 N. Y. S. 1044. See, also, Contracts, § 9E, 3 Curr. L. 850; Insurance, § 24B, 4 Curr. L. 224, n. 88, 89.

8. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Chicago Portrait Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 727. A motion to make a complaint more definite and certain, for the purpose of compelling plaintiff

The numbering of the paragraphs of a petition, though unnecessary, does not render the pleading bad on demurrer.[9]

A defendant is only bound to answer the complaint served upon him, and the cause is to be tried upon the issues raised by his answer to such complaint.[10]

Parties will not be allowed to waste the time of the courts by the repetition in new pleadings of claims which have been set up on the record and overruled at an earlier stage of the proceedings.[11]

Joinder of causes of action.[12]—Where a plaintiff has two or more distinct and separate reasons for the relief he asks,[13] or when there is some uncertainty as to the grounds of recovery, he may set forth his claim in several distinct counts or statements in his complaint,[14] provided that the statements in one count are not so inconsistent with those in another that proof of one will disprove the other.[15]

Generally speaking, where a complaint contains two or more causes of action, each is regarded as a separate complaint.[16] As a rule, each must be separately stated,[17] and in some states, numbered,[18] and must be complete in itself,[19] except to state whether his cause of action is in contract or tort, is properly denied where either case or assumpsit will lie, and the allegations are appropriate to an action on the case in tort. McDonald v. Winchester Repeating Arms Co., 92 N. Y. S. 618.

9. Numbering held for purpose of distinguishing paragraphs of same cause of action and not to separate different causes, only one being stated. Minter v. Gose [Wyo.] 78 P. 948.

10. Insertion of words in original amended complaint of no effect unless they are also inserted in defendant's copy. Guarino v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 44 Misc. 218, 88 N. Y. S. 1044.

11. Hillyer v. Winsted [Conn.] 59 A. 40.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1193.

13. Spotswood v. Morris [Idaho] 77 P. 216. A plaintiff may state his cause of action in different forms in separate counts to meet any phase of the case which it is anticipated that the evidence may show. Drolshagen v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 344.

14. In action to recover commissions for sale of realty, where exact nature of plaintiff's rights and defendant's liability depends upon facts within peculiar knowledge of defendant. Spotswood v. Morris [Idaho] 77 P. 216. A count is a part of the declaration wherein plaintiff sets forth a distinct cause of action. Misnomer to call paragraphs of answer "counts." Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117. In action for injuries, plaintiff may allege different acts of negligence, or that the negligence was committed in different ways, though they are inconsistent. Griffin v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 101, 46 S. E. 7. Where plaintiff alleged that he was injured by starting of train while he was attempting to alight, and in amendment that injury was caused by negligence of porter in commanding him to alight before train stopped, held that the two causes of action were inconsistent and that jury should have been required to find which version was true. Id.

15. Allegations in action for injuries that they were caused by striking plaintiff, thereby causing him to lose his hold and fall off car, inconsistent with allegation that they were caused by running over him while he was on the street. Drolshagen v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 344. Allegations that injuries were caused by starting car without giving passenger time to alight, and by allowing her to alight while it was in motion, held inconsistent. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 346. Causes for failure to furnish safe place to work and for negligence of fellow-servant. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Abrams [Miss.] 36 So. 542.

16. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268.

17. Equitable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 593. Shinn v. Guyton & H. Mule Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1015. Plaintiff may plead as many causes of action of the same general character as he possesses, provided each is stated in a separate count. In action against city for personal injuries, proper not to require plaintiff to elect between causes of action. Watters v. Waterloo [Iowa] 101 N. W. 871. Complaint in action for damages for wrongfully obtaining injunction held to state three causes of action, and action properly dismissed for failure to comply with order requiring them to be separately stated. Burdick v. Carbondale Inv. Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 40. If defendant waives such objection, plaintiff has the right to the relief to which all the allegations show him to be entitled. That two causes of action are not separately stated. Welborn v. Dixon [S. C.] 49 S. E. 232. The fact that several causes of action properly joined are not separately stated is no ground for demurrer in California. Several nuisances. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594.

18. Complaint in action to compel directors in accident association to account for misappropriated funds held to state single cause of action. Powell v. Hinkley, 93 App. Div. 138, 87 N. Y. S. 2. On a motion to compel plaintiff to file an amended complaint specifically setting forth and numbering his several causes of action defendant cannot raise the question of the sufficiency of the complaint as stating a cause of action. Id. Complaint for conversion held to set forth four causes of action [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 483]. Whitney v. Wenman, 96 App. Div. 290, 89 N. Y. S. 296. Complaint in action by stockholder against corporation and directors, alleging that they had acquired stocks that any fact common to several causes of action or defenses, when once pleaded, may be made a part of subscquent causes of action or defenses in the same pleading by reference thereto, without repetition.[20]

Damages for all the causes of action in the several counts may be claimed at the end of the declaration.[21]

Several causes of action, whether legal or equitable or both, may be united in the same complaint, where they arise out of the same transaction, or transactions connected with the same subject of action,[22] provided they affect all the parties to the action,[23] and do not require different places of trial.[24] The test is whether belonging to corporation by collusion and fraud and seeking to recover them for corporation, held not to state more than one cause of action. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 45 Misc. 228, 92 N. Y. S. 161. Causes of action for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution. Ring v. Mitchell, 45 Misc. 493, 92 N. Y. S. 749. An order requiring plaintiff to separately state and number causes of action will not be made unless the complaint appears to state more than one good cause of action. Action held one for malicious prosecution only. Id. In court of equity, where plaintiff intends to state but one, and it is fairly doubtful whether he bas stated more, will not be required. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170.

19. Equitable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747. Each paragraph must proceed upon a definite theory, but if, from all the facts averred therein, a precise theory is deducible under which the paragraph is sufficient, it will not be rendered bad by reason of redundant or detached allegations tending toward, yet insufficient to state, another cause of action. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123. Cannot be aided by facts alleged in any other paragraph. Fact that plaintiff may state single cause in several counts or paragraphs does not change rule. Daly v. Gubbins [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833. Where two paragraphs are bad, judgment cannot be sustained unless record affirmatively shows that it was based on third paragraph. Id. Where there is an insufficient paragraph of the complaint in the record to which a demurrer has been overruled, it will be presumed, in the absence of a showing to the contrary, that the error perpetuated itself in the finding and judgment, and this vitiates the result, though the evidence may also have warranted a finding and judgment on a good paragraph of the complaint. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reyman [Ind.] 73 N. E. 587. Two allegations of negligence held to state but one cause of action, though stated in separate paragraphs. General verdict good. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 137. The question whether allegations are irrelevant and redundant must be determined by reference alone to the cause of action in which they are set out. Berry v. Moore Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 249. Where causes of action are separately stated, a party moving to strike out parts of them as irrelevant and redundant cannot refer to them jointly for the purpose of establishing that fact. Id. When attacked by separate demurrers, each cause of action must be considered by itself. Equltable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747.

20. Burdick v. Carbondale Inv. Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 40. Description of tenement in action of trespass and ejectment against lessee. Fellows v. Chipman [R. I.] 58 A. 663. Matters of inducement. Equitable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747.

21. Need not insert claim at end of each count, where language broad enough to cover all. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853.

22. Minn. Gen. St. 1894, § 5260, sets out six classes and provides that causes united must belong to only one of them, and must not require different places of trial. Hanna v. Duxburry [Minn.] 101 N. W. 971. Causes of action against agent for sale of realty and purchasers alleging fraud improperly joined. Id. Cause of action for rent and one for damages to land by tenant properly joined [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 593]. Shinn v. Guyton & H. Mule Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1015. N. M. Comp. Laws 1897, § 2685, subsec. 33. Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806. Practically same provisions found in N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 484, subd. 9. Mack v. Latta, 83 App. Div. 242, 82 N. Y. S. 130; Campbell v. Hallihan, 90 N. Y. S. 432. Where plaintiff seeks to rescind a subscription and secure the return of money paid from a corporation defendant or in case that is impossible to recover from the officers making the misrepresentations on which the action is based, the same sum as damages, there is but one cause of action alleged if the complaint is not sufficient as against the individual defendants. Demurrer for improper joinder of causes overruled. Mack v. Latta, 83 App. Div. 242, 82 N. Y. S. 130. Causes of action for breach of warranty of gun, which exploded and for the wrong in putting defective and dangerous weapon on the market. Reed v. Livermore, 91 N. Y. S. 986. Whether legal or equitable or both [N. C. Code, § 267]. Reynolds v. Mt. Airy & E. R. Co., 136 N. C. 345, 48 S. E. 765; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234. Statute to be liberally construed according to rule as to remedial laws [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2647]. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Causes of action arising out of contract to convey land and to obtain options for defendant on other lands held properly united. Id.

23. All the defendants must be affected by each of them. Cause of action for wrongful attachment cannot be joined with one against surety for breach of attachment bond. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234. Minn. Gen. St. 1894, § 5260, subd. 7. Hanna v. Duxburry [Minn.] 101 N. W. 971. Employe the two are founded on, or closely connected with, the same transaction.[25] The cause of action is the statement of facts upon the happening or nonhappening of which the plaintiff bases his action.[26] Any event in which two or more persons are actors, involving a right which may presently or by what may proximately occur in respect thereto be violated, creating an actionable wrong, is a transaction within the meaning of the statute.[27] injured while working in elevator shaft by negligent operation of elevator by third person may join cause of action against him with one against employer for failure to furnish safe place to work, the two defendants being joint tort feasors. Lynch v. Elektron Mfg. Co., 94 App. Div. 408, 88 N. Y. S. 70. Two distinct causes of action, which require the application of different legal principles, affect different parties, and require different relief, cannot be joined. Complaint seeking to set aside sale of stock and bonds, and to compel defendant to account for property of corporation received by virtue of his control of corporation, acquired by transfer of stock in violation of alleged agreement with plaintiff, held demurrable. Groh v. Flammer, 91 N. Y. S. 423. Cause of action by corporate stockholder against president for breach of contract, by which plaintiff was to be president, cannot be joined with one for wrongful appropriation of corporate funds. Stoddard v. Bell & Co., 91 N. Y. S. 477. Distinct and separate claims against different persons cannot be joined [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 4938]. Ramey v. O'Byrne, 121 Ga. 516, 49 S. E. 595. Cause of action against one defendant for recovery of ice machine and reasonable rent of same, improperly joined with cause against others for conversion of certain personalty. Sims v. Cordele Ice Co., 119 Ga. 597, 46 S. E. 841. If a part of the plaintiffs have one cause of action and the rest another, they must assert the same in separate suits. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754. Where beneficiaries under trust deed have cause of action against defendant alone or against defendant and trustee, or right to recover from defendant an amount equal to consideration for consent verdict in defendant's favor, same must be asserted in separate suit. Id. Except in actions to enforce mortgages and other liens, different causes of action can be united only when all of them affect all the parties to the action. Kan. Civ. Code, § 83. Cause of action for equitable accounting against two defendants cannot be joined with action at law to recover damages for tort against another defendant not affected by first cause. Benson v. Battey [Kan.] 78 P. 844. Cause of action for equitable accounting against two defendants and action at law to recover damages for tort against another not affected by first. Id. There is no misjoinder in an action of ejectment brought by joint owners of a tract of land against several defendants claiming and holding separate parcels thereof. Bryant v. Stephens, 26 Ky. L. R. 718, 82 S. W. 423. Holder of bonds guaranteed by railroad company cannot join action to recover them from one to whom they were delivered for specific purposes and who wrongfully refuses to return them, with suit against company which had acquired assets of guarantor, under void foreclosure proceedings, to apply such assets in payment of the bonds. Latter company in no way responsible for withholding of bonds, and has no equitable remedy against it until he has recovered judgment at law for their recovery, and judgment at law against guarantor. Sawyer v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 100. A count upon an individual demand cannot be joined with one upon a partnership demand, where neither partner is dead. Fatal on demurrer. Malsby v. Lanark Fuel Co., 55 W. Va. 484, 47 S. E. 358. Causes growing out of contract to procure real estate options held to affect all parties [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2647]. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921.

24. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2647. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Where the court would not have jurisdiction of one of such causes, it should be dismissed, because of amount involved. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234. Cause of action for infringement of patent and one for unfair competition in trade cannot be joined in Federal court, though relating to same subject-matter, where there is no allegation of diverse citizenship to give court jurisdiction of second cause. Demurrer for multifariousness sustained. King & Co. v. Inlander, 133 F. 416.

25. Cause of action for converting horse and buggy cannot be joined with one for subsequent assault on plaintiff while attempting to recover them. Campbell v. Hallihan, 90 N. Y. S. 432. All of a series of acts having in view the consummation of a single fraudulent purpose, regardless of the number of persons concerned therein, are parts of one subject-matter; and where that is a primary subject of action or is an incidental part of a subject of controversy including it and other matters however numerous, the entire subject-matter may be brought into a single action for adjudication. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

26. Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co., 136 N. C. 89, 48 S. E. 642. To constitute a cause of action there must be a right possessed by one or more persons and a violation thereof by others. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Is some particular right of the plaintiff against the defendant, together with some violation of that right. City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318; Insurance Co. of North America v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972.

27. For full discussion of meaning of terms "causes of action," "transaction," and "primary right," see Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. When a contract creates situation involving presently or proximately separate rights, each of which, when violated, would constitute a complete ground of complaint for judicial redress, the making of the contract, which is the initial circumstance, is a "transaction," and such grounds of complaint are separate "causes of action arising out of the same transaction." Id.

A single transaction causing a single item of damage constitutes a single cause of action.[28] The rule forbidding misjoinder is one of convenience and expediency, and should be construed with reference to the broader policy enjoining a multiplicity of suits.[29] Mere matters of description or inducement not relied on as a separate cause of action,[30] or the fact that a complaint under one section of a statute incidentally states facts also constituting a cause of action under another section, does not cause a misjoinder,[31] nor do different elements of damage arising from the same nuisance constitute different causes of action.[32] Neither will it be held that a complaint unites two or more causes of action when an elaborate argument is necessary to show that more than one such cause can be proved thereunder.[33] The fact that causes of action are blended and commingled in one statement does not cure a misjoinder nor prevent the operation of a demurrer on that ground.[34]

Inconsistent causes of action cannot ordinarily be joined.[35] They will be Term transactions connected with same subject of action applies more generally, if not exclusively, to equitable suits. Is not surplusage, but there is a distinction between the two. Id.

28. Otoe County v. Dorman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1064.

29. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hengst [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 832. After death of plaintiff in suit for personal injuries, his children held entitled to file amended petition claiming damages for his death, or, in the alternative, in case his death was not the result of the injuries, for a recovery on the action as originally brought, though the causes of action were in a sense distinct. Id.

30. Averments of negligence which are merely descriptive of the mode in which the contract was broken do not make action ex delicto. Breach of implied contract to deliver telegram promptly. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Crumpton [Ala.] 36 So. 517. In action against directors of insolvent corporation for payment of dividends with knowledge that capital was impaired, neither a count for payment of dividends authorized by vote of directors, or one for payment without such vote held to state two causes of action. Davenport v. Lines [Conn.] 59 A. 603.

Complaint held to state single cause of action: In action for damages for injuries to houses by operation of stone quarry and for injunction, certain allegations of complaint held to go to propriety of injunction and not to constitute basis of demand for damages so that demurrer on ground that causes of action for injuries to person and property had been improperly united or should have been separately stated was properly overruled. Rooney v. Gray, 145 Cal. 753, 79 P. 523. In action to have plaintiff adjudged owner of certain lands and to have judgment quieting title in defendants declared void as to him. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007. Petition alleging that defendant maliciously caused plaintiff's indictment and prosecution, and without warrant arrested and imprisoned him, held to state only one cause of action, for malicious prosecution. Jones v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 690, 82 S. W. 416. Complaint held to state but one cause of action for dissolution of partnership, and for an accounting. Whittingham v. Darrin, 45 Misc. 478, 92 N. Y. S. 752. Complaint alleging that plaintiff was shot and wounded through negligence and improper and unlawful conduct of defendant held only for negligence, and motion to require election properly denied. Magar v. Hammond, 95 App. Div. 249, 88 N. Y. S. 796. In action for trespass against several defendants for driving sheep on plaintiff's land. Minter v. Gose [Wyo.] 78 P. 948.

31. Action for injuries to employe under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 7083. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lain [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 539.

32. Both by common law and California statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 731), party may obtain judgment abating it and recover damages. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594. In action for injuries to realty by maintenance of railroad yards, allegation of impairment of health of plaintiff's family merely specification of damages to residence as home, and not statement of cause of action for injury to health of family. No misjoinder. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Lellyett [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 881.

33. Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66. Complaint held to state one cause of action founded on fraud, and in the nature of a creditor's bill. Id. It will not be assumed that the pleader intends to conceal a cause of action in a complaint based on another (Id.), nor that he intends to join inconsistent causes (Id.).

34. Benson v. Battey [Kan.] 78 P. 844; Chase v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 153. A demurrer for improper joinder of causes of action will lie, though they are not separated and distinguished. Reed v. Livermore, 91 N. Y. S. 986.

35. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 484. Lomb v. Richard, 45 Misc. 129, 91 N. Y. S. 881. Repugnancy is as objectionable in a petition as in an answer. Drolshagen v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 344. Counts charging carrier with not having delivered all of certain goods received for carriage, and with having issued bills for more than it received held not inconsistent. Frieze v. Alabama G. S. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 545, 91 N. Y. S. 81. In action for infringement of trade-mark, plaintiff held properly required to elect between claim for injunction and accounting and claim for damages based on fraud. Taylor, Jr., & Sons Co. v. Taylor [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1085. Cause of action for breach of contract cannot be joined with one for its reheld inconsistent when proof of one would disprove the other,[36] or when they require different forms of judgment and final process.[37]

Two or more causes of action belonging to the same statutory class,[38] or affecting real property,[39] or on contract, express or implied, may ordinarily be joined.[40] So may separate causes of action for the recovery of penalties under the same statute,[41] or counts for common-law negligence with counts under the employer's liability acts;[42] but actions on penal statutes may not be joined with actions at common law.[43]

As a general rule causes of action on contract cannot be joined with causes in tort,[44] nor can a claim upon contract and one in tort be joined in the same count.[45] There seems to be a conflict of authority as to the effect on this rule of the statutory provision allowing causes of action arising out of the same transaction to be joined.[46] scission on ground of fraud. Lomb v. Richard, 45 Misc. 129, 91 N. Y. S. 881.

36. Boyd v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 287. Counts on written and verbal contracts to divide damages resulting from accident at crossing not inconsistent. Southwest Mo. E. R. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 966.

37. Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66. A court alleging a waiver of exemptions may not be joined with counts not alleging such waiver. Johnson Bros. v. Selden [Ala.] 37 So. 249, reafg. McCrummen v. Campbell, 82 Ala. 566, 2 So. 482.

38. Causes of action for distinct nuisances [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 427]. Astill v. South Yuba Water Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 594.

39. Causes of action for partition and for the recovery of real property may be united in one action, or may be tried as a single cause of action when so pleaded and no objection is made. Howard v. Carter [Kan.] 80 P. 61.

40. When not inconsistent. Causes of action on written and verbal contracts to divide damages resulting from accident at railroad crossing [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 593]. Southwest Mo. Elec. R. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 966. Counts in assumpsit with counts in assumpsit on a contract under seal. Under Va. Act Jan. 25, 1898 (Acts 1897-98, p. 103), providing that an action of assumpsit may be maintained in any case where an action of covenant will lie. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853. On special contract and quantum meruit. Burton v. Rosemary Mfg. Co., 132 N. C. 17, 43 S. E. 480. May recover on the common counts in general assumpsit, provided he sets forth facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, though he does not specifically declare upon a second cause of action. Id. A special count in assumpsit for breach of contract with the common count for work and labor done. Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738. For the payment of money. Ala. Code, § 3292. For breach of implied contract by failure to promptly deliver two telegrams. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Crumpton [Ala.] 36 So. 517.

41. Counts for separate causes of action to recover statutory penalties for failure to discharge mortgages of record may be joined in the same complaint. Partridge v. Wilson [Ala.] 37 So. 441.

42. Counts at common law for negligent injury to one on defendant's premises by invitation may be joined with counts under the employers' liability act, though inconsistent. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. v. Tilson [Ala.] 37 So. 427; Mulligan v. Erie R. Co., 99 App. Div. 499, 91 N. Y. S. 60.

43. At least when principles of justice violated thereby. A cause of action based on a statute imposing a liability on directors of a corporation in three times the amount paid in on their stock for the violation of certain statutory provisions cannot be joined with the common counts in assumpsit and counts based on fraud. Penalty imposed by Mich. Comp. Laws 1897, § 7059. Liability of director would not be precisely ascertained by verdict. Wachusett Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 98 N. W. 748.

44. Count for failure to deliver telegram promptly held one in tort for breach of common-law duty as carrier, and hence improperly joined with counts for breach of contract to deliver it. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waters, 139 Ala. 652, 36 So. 773. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 4938, 4944. Grantee in security deed may not join suit against widow of deceased grantor to recover land described in deed, and suit against administrator of grantor's estate to recover judgment on debt secured by deed. Ramey v. O'Byrne, 121 Ga. 516, 49 S. E. 595. Petition construed as whole held to show intention to sue for tort only, and no misjoinder of causes. Pavesich v. New England Life Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 68. Cause of action in forcible entry and detainer, sounding in tort, with one in unlawful detainer, sounding in contract. Crawford v. Alexander [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 707. Count alleging right to use of water of canal on payment of rent, which defendant refused to receive, and averring that defendant wrongfully diverted water, held framed in tort. Colonial Woolen Co. v. Trenton Water Power Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 172. Action for personal injuries to employe with one on contract of insurance against accidents. Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Dullnig [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 889. Action in tort for injuries to seamen with one on contract to furnish medical care, etc., at expense of ship. Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 34 Wash. 357, 75 P. 974.

45. Declaration bad on general demurrer. Wilkins v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 14.

Claims not accruing to plaintiff in the same capacity cannot be joined.[47] Counts in trover and in case[48] or in trespass quare clausum et de bonis are properly joined,[49] but counts in trespass,[50] or assumpsit cannot be joined with counts in case.[51] A cause of action for malicious prosecution may be joined with one for false imprisonment,[52] but not with one for slander or libel.[53] In a complaint invoking equitable jurisdiction, incidental and subsidiary claims are not improperly joined, though they state separate and distinct causes of action.[54]

Where no right of recovery exists in favor of plaintiff against any of the defendants, the question as to whether there was a misjoinder of causes of action or of parties is of no importance to him.[55]

Election.[56]—In case two causes of action are improperly joined, plaintiff should, on motion, be required to elect between them.[57] He is entitled to make the election himself,[58] and, where both are properly pleaded, it is error to strike out one of them on motion without giving him an opportunity to do so.[59]

In some states the court may order the action to be divided into as many actions as may be necessary to the proper determination of the causes of action therein mentioned.[60]

Splitting causes of action.[61]—An indivisible cause of action cannot be split

46. In North Carolina a cause of action in tort may be joined with one in contract, provided they both come within the same statutory class. Reynolds v. Mt. Airy & E. R. Co., 136 N. C. 345, 48 S. E. 765.

In New York a different rule prevails. Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66.

47. Count founded on statutory liability for wrongful death which he seeks to enforce as representative of next of kin, and count at common law for injuries to deceased for which he could have recovered during life and which plaintiff seeks to recover as his representative cannot be joined. Brennan v. Standard Oil Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 472.

48. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 212 Ill. 134, 72 N. E. 200.

49. Meloon v. Read [N. H.] 59 A. 946.

50. In action in case for negligence, demurrer to count alleging assault properly sustained. Smith v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 57 A. 1056.

51. Davis v. Smith [R. I.] 58 A. 630.

52. Ring v. Mitchell, 45 Misc. 493, 92 N. Y. S. 749.

53. Not under Ky. Civ. Code, § 83, subd. 5, permitting joinder of actions for injury to character. Tandy v. Riley, 26 Ky. L. R. 98, 80 S. W. 776. Malicious prosecution and abuse of process. Green v. Davies, 91 N. Y. S. 470. Acts done pursuant to a conspiracy may be averred and proved, not as separate causes of action, but as means used to work injury and inflict damage. Complaint charging conspiracy and unlawful combination, pursuant to which slanders were uttered and libels published, and plaintiff was illegally arrested and maliciously prosecuted, states single cause of action. Id.

54. Anderson v. Dyer & Bro. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1061.

55. Action by creditor against directors of insolvent corporation. Emanuel v. Barnard [Neb.] 99 N. W. 666.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1195. See. also, Election and Waiver, § 2A, 3 Curr. L. 1178.

57. Inconsistent. Drolshagen v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 344; Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 346. When inconsistency plainly appears on face of pleading. Frieze v. Alabama G. S. R. Co., 99 App. Div. 545, 91 N. Y. S. 81. The doctrine of an election of remedies applies only to cases where there is by law or by contract a choice between two remedies which proceed on opposite and irreconcilable claims of right. Mulligan v. Erie R. Co., 99 App. Div. 499, 91 N. Y. S. 60. In such case a party resorting to one remedy is bound by his election, and hence barred from the prosecution of the other. Id. Where the allegations are appropriate to either of two causes. Welborn v. Dixon [S. C.] 49 S. E. 232. Proper to refuse to require plaintiff to make an election until the case has developed far enough to enable the court, in view of the whole case, to pass intelligently on the subject. Counts on contract and quantum meruit in action for services. Rosenberg v. Heidelberg, 98 App. Div. 17, 90 N. Y. S. 684. Court may reserve his decision and thereafter try the case upon certain of the causes of action only. Lewis v. Utah Const. Co. [Idaho] 77 P. 336. Election may be required at any time before defense [Ky. Civ. Code Prac. § 85]. Bryant v. Stephens, 26 Ky. L. R. 718, 82 S. W. 423.

58. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201.

59. Proper practice is by motion to require election. Causes of action for physical suffering and for death. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201.

60. N. C. Code, § 272. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234. In Kansas when a demurrer is sustained on the ground of a misjoinder of causes of action, the court, upon application, is required to allow the plaintiff to file several petitions and proceed without further service [Civ. Code, § 92]. Benson v. Battey [Kan.] 78 P. 844.

61. See 2 Curr. L. 1195, n. 26, 27.

up.[62] The rule will not be applied where no injury can accrue to the debtor or a second claim be made for the same demand, if its application will defeat the statutory lien in favor of mechanics and materialmen.[63]

Prayer.[64]—The prayer for judgment forms no part of the statement of the cause of action.[65] It may be resorted to when the complaint is ambiguous, for the purpose of ascertaining the pleader's intention, but cannot control the nature of the action as against a clearly expressed intention to the contrary.[66] It is of no avail unless the petition states facts upon which the relief may be properly granted.[67]

The fact that a party asks relief to which he is not entitled does not ordinarily vitiate his complaint,[68] nor is he generally restricted to the relief demanded.[69]

The equitable prayer for general relief has been substantially adopted by the codes.[70]

There is a conflict of authority as to the effect of a failure to include a prayer for relief. Some courts hold that none is necessary where the appropriate relief sufficiently appears from the allegations of the complaint,[71] and others that the court has no jurisdiction to decree any relief where the petition demands none.[72]

62. Where defendant interposes indivisible cause of action for $150 as set-off, and then withdraws $50 of it, and has judgment for $100, he is barred from suing for balance (Andreas v. School Dist. No. 4, Fractional, Tp. of Leavitt [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1021) though action was before justice who could not render judgment for more than $100 (Id.), though he was not only defendant and claim was due him alone, where action was on contract against him as principal and others as sureties (Id.), and though plaintiff's claim was for unliquidated damages, so that he had no right to interpose set-off (Id.). One cannot ordinarily split a demand and recover in one action the principal and in another the interest. McDonald v. Holdom, 208 Ill. 128, 70 N. E. 21. A cause of action on an entire contract cannot be split. Plaintiff must elect his remedy. Wilkerson v. Bacon [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 348.

63. Christopher & S. Architectural Iron & Foundry Co. v. Kelly, 91 Mo. App. 93.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1186, n. 59-64.

65. Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344; Fairy v. Kennedy, 68 S. C. 250, 47 S. E. 138.

66. Complaint held to sound in tort, though prayer was for damages in liquidated amount with interest from day certain. Frick v. Freudenthal, 90 N. Y. S. 344. Not conclusive as to the character of the action (Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66), unless complaint sets forth facts that may support equally an action at law or in equity (Id.). Fact that money judgment only is asked does not necessarily control if complaint sets out facts which entitle plaintiff to equitable relief if proven. Kuntz v. Schnugg, 90 N. Y. S. 933. May be considered in determining the theory of the pleading. Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123. Not a part of the cause of action and is not controlling. Fairy v. Kennedy, 68 S. C. 250, 47 S. E. 138. The sufficiency of a complaint when attacked at the trial by an objection to the introduction of evidence does not depend upon the prayer for relief. Under S. D. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 311, authorizing court, where answer has been served, to grant plaintiff any relief consistent with case made by complaint and embraced within issues. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

67. A prayer for equitable relief in an action at law. Emanuel v. Barnard [Neb.] 99 N. W. 666.

68. Will not be denied the relief to which he is entitled merely because he claims too much. Where bill of particulars showed that plaintiff had lost title to part of land claimed, held error to sustain demurrer to complaint, and that he was entitled to recover balance of lot on proper showing. Morrison v. Berlin [Wash.] 79 P. 1114. Plaintiff's failure to call court's attention to fact that tax foreclosure proceedings affected part of lot only did not preclude him from obtaining reversal, in absence of actual deceit. Id. More than entitled to. Mathot v. Triebel, 90 N. Y. S. 903. A complaint stating a cause of action will not be dismissed, though it does not state facts warranting the equitable relief prayed. Complaint sufficient to sustain decree for specific performance. McKay v. Calderwood [Wash.] 79 P. 629. A complaint stating a cause of action for breach of contract but seeking to recover damages as for a tort is bad on demurrer. Action against landlord for failure to repair ceiling, resulting in personal injuries. Spero v. Levy, 43 Misc. 24, 86 N. Y. S. 869.

69. May have any additional relief not inconsistent with the pleadings and the facts proved. On appeal, case is heard on facts alleged in pleadings. Voorhees v. Porter, 134 N. C. 591, 47 S. E. 31. By statute in Louisiana, if one demand less than is due him and does not amend his petition in order to augment his demand, he shall lose the overplus. La. Code Prac. art. 156. Plaintiff not entitled to greater rate of valuation for logs than that alleged. Carre & Co. v. Massie, 113 La. 608, 37 So. 530.

70. See Equity, § 10C, 3 Curr. L. 1234. A prayer for such other and further relief as shall be meet and agreeable to equity and good conscience is sufficient to warrant the court in granting any relief to which plaintiffs are entitled upon the allegations of the complaint and the proof introduced at the trial. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 1003. Com-

§ 3. The plea or answer.[73] General principles.[74]—In code states a defendant is generally allowed and required to set up in his answer as many grounds of defense, counterclaim and set-off, whether legal or equitable, as he may have.[75] There seems to be a conflict of authority as to whether such a provision authorizes absolutely inconsistent defenses.[76] Some courts hold that it does,[77] provided that each is stated in a separate paragraph and is complete in itself,[78] while others hold that defenses cannot be so inconsistent that if one is true the other must be false, because of the requirements in regard to verification.[79] One of two inconsistent pleas cannot be used to disprove the other, or to establish the fact therein alleged.[80]

Each defense must be complete in itself and cannot be asserted by general denial in the answer.[81] Denials in another part of the pleading cannot be treated as a part of such defense unless repeated or incorporated therein and made a part thereof by reference.[82] plaint in action to quiet title, cancel contracts, and remove cloud sufficient. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519.

71. Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55. Where amount sued for can be gathered from petition, that fact is sufficient to support judgment, though it fails to allege amount due, or to pray judgment in any sum. Hyatt v. Legal Protective Ass'n, 106 Mo. App. 610, 81 S. W. 470. A creditor's bill alleging facts entitling plaintiff to be subrogated in equity, under the prayer for general relief, to the rights of a judgment creditor, is not demurrable for failure to specifically ask for such relief. Hawpe v. Bumgardner [Va.] 48 S. E. 554.

72. Action to prevent removal of school teacher. Bowman v. Ray, 25 Ky. L. R. 2131, 80 S. W. 516.

73. In equity, see Equity, §§ 6F, 6G, 3 Curr. L. 1228, 1229.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1196, 1200.

75. In action to cancel note and mortgage for breach of warranty may seek reformation of deed and mortgage and their cancellation. Motion to strike out or elect unavailing [Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 350]. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180; Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 507. Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857. Neb. Code Civ. Proc. § 100. Western Travelers' Acc. Ass'n v. Tomson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 341. May plead subrogation as defense to legal cause of action. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419. Whether dilatory, in abatement, or in bar. Meyer v. Phenix Ins. Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 479; Tutty v. Ryan [Wyo.] 78 P. 657.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1197, n. 48-50.

77. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. May plead and rely on inconsistent defenses subject to instructions as to their proper effect. Thus in conversion may assert rights as absolute owner and as mortgagee. Potter v. Lohse [Mont.] 77 P. 419. In Texas may plead as many several matters, whether of law or fact, as he shall think necessary for his defense, and which may be pertinent to the cause. Wildey Lodge v. Paris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 99.

78. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180; Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857. If pertinent to the cause, filed all at the same time, and in due course of pleading. Right to possession as tenants and as owners in fee simple. Wildey Lodge v. Paris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 99.

79. Such condition is implied from requirements in regard to verification. Western Travelers' Acc. Ass'n v. Tomson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 341. In action on accident insurance policy, defenses that no accident happened and that no notice was given not inconsistent. Id. Defense that no policy was in force at time of loss is inconsistent with defense based upon conditions of policy, such as that proofs of loss were not furnished in accordance with its terms. Id. In action to enjoin collection of taxes, defenses held not inconsistent, and court erred in requiring election. Horton v. Driskell [Wyo.] 77 P. 354. Cannot be presumed that defendant had no evidence to support one of them. Id.

80. Allegation of right to possession as owners in fee cannot be used to disprove allegation of right as lessee. Wildey Lodge v. Paris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 99.

81. Flournoy v. Osgood, 90 N. Y. S. 972.

82. Barnard v. Lawyers' Title Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 41. An affirmative defense or counterclaim is a separate plea. Goldberg v. Wood, 90 N. Y. S. 427; Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857. Denials in paragraphs 1 and 2 of answer held no part of last three paragraphs meant as a single separate defense. Blumenfeld v. Stine, 42 Misc. 411, 87 N. Y. S. 81. Where defense, without incorporating previous denials, alleged that particular cause of action set forth in complaint did not accrue within six years, and it clearly appears from the pleadings that it did accrue within six years, held that it was demurrable. Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857. Must not only confess but also avoid or bar, and hence defense merely setting forth contract different from one alleged in complaint, but not avoiding or barring latter, has no effect. Barnard v. Lawyers' Title Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 41. A statement in an answer by way of counterclaim need not necessarily include a repetition of facts alleged as defensive matter or alleged in the complaint, provided they are so referred to as to make reasonably clear the purpose of the pleader to rely upon them. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356. When plaintiff, by replying, indicates that he considers them so incorporated,

Ordinarily a pleading cannot perform the office of both an answer and a counterclaim,[83] or of both a demurrer and an answer,[84] and grounds of demurrer cannot be set up in an answer.[85] In some states, however, a demurrer is treated as a defense, and is required to be pleaded in the answer.[86]

An answer must be responsive[87] and not evasive.[88] A plea in confession and avoidance must give color.[89] The statute of limitations is an affirmative defense,[90] and waiver is a proper special defense.[91] A defense that a contract sued on is against public policy need not be pleaded.[92] A plea that the maturity of the account sued on has been extended by plaintiff to a time subsequent to the institution of the suit and that the suit was prematurely brought is a plea in abatement.[93] Pleas in abatement must be certain to every intent.[94]

Defendants may, if they so elect, plead specially defenses in confession and avoidance which would be admissible in evidence under the general issue, and the fact that they are so admissible does not make the plea bad;[95] but special pleas which only aver matters that may be given in evidence under the general issue will generally be rejected.[96] that view should prevail, unless the language of the counterclaim as a whole very clearly will not admit thereof. Id.

83. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180.

84. Both cannot be served in same pleading. Schlesinger v. Thalmessinger, 92 N. Y. S. 575. An answer raises an issue of fact and a demurrer one of law. Id.

85. That counterclaim does not set up facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Schlesinger v. Thalmessinger, 92 N. Y. S. 575.

86. Arizona Rev. St. 1901, par. 1350. Perrin v. Mallory Commission Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 476. Same rule in Texas. Id.

87. Answer in suit to restrain unlawful combination held irresponsive and evasive. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 96 App. Div. 315, 89 N. Y. S. 172. Answer, in action for price of coal, admitting liability for more than amount claimed, exclusive of interest, held demurrable. Harder v. Indiana Bituminous Coal Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 138. In action for price of goods, wares and merchandise, an answer alleging contract for purchase of lumber from plaintiff and breach by him held demurrable for failure to connect such contract with that sued on. Must be something to show that complaint and answer relate to same contract. Seelav v. McKenzie, 92 N. Y. S. 350.

88. A defendant should not be permitted to evade the admission of a material allegation of the complaint by shifting the time in which he addresses himself from the period contemplated in the complaint to a subsequent and much later period, the rights of the parties being determined as of the commencement of the action, and subsequent occurences being no defense. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 96 App. Div. 315, 89 N. Y. S. 172. Thus, the averments should not be made to date from the verification of the answer instead of from the verification of the complaint. Id. A petition charging facts peculiarly within defendant's knowledge will be taken as true where the answer is evasive. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 5054. As to amount of guano shipped to defendant by manufacturers. Horn v. Peacock [Ga.] 49 S. E. 722. An answer to restrain an alleged unlawful combination held not objectionable on the ground that defendants denied or averred facts on information or belief of which they had knowledge. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 96 App. Div. 315, 89 N. Y. S. 172.

89. In action to recover possession of leased premises for breach of covenant prohibiting their use for sale of liquor, plea that plaintiff permitted sale as alleged in complaint held properly stricken out, as it did not give color. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

90. Plaintiff need not plead and prove, in first instance, an exception taking case out of the statute, where complaint does not necessarily show case within statute. Metz v. Metz, 90 N. Y. S. 340.

91. That plaintiff waived breach of covenant in lease by accepting rent. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

92. Relief will be denied when invalidity appears from plaintiff's own showing. Fisher v. Hampton Transp. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 1012.

93. Adams v. Branan, 120 Ga. 530, 48 S. E. 128.

94. All the particularity of the common law is required. Risher v. Wheeling Roofing & Cornice Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1016.

95. Baltimore Belt R. Co. v. Sattler [Md.] 59 A. 654.

96. In action for death due to defendant's negligence, pleas that death was due to deceased's physical condition. Richards v. Riverside Ironworks [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 437. Will be stricken on demurrer. Defenses in action for libel that article did not refer to plaintiff, and that it was a news item received in usual course of business, and published in good faith. Butler v. Evening Leader Co., 134 F. 994. It is not error to refuse to allow the filing of special pleas, where the matters sought to be set up thereby can be shown under the general issue previously filed, and the right to so show them is reserved in the order. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead, 102 Va. 683, 47 S. E. 853. It is not error to strike them out. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57

If two or more pleas are interposed as a defense to a declaration or to any count thereof, as for example, the plea of limitations and that of the general issue, and a demurrer is filed to the former and a replication or joinder of issue to the latter, a judgment on demurrer in favor of defendant entitles him to final judgment, though upon the plea of the general issue the facts may be found in favor of plaintiff.[97] An answer such as would be proper in equity, and a technical plea of the general issue, such as is known at the common law, should not be combined in a defense.[98] Two pleas of the general issue are improper.[99] Affirmative allegations of that which has been negatively pleaded should be stricken out.[1]

In some states if plaintiff files with his bill in an action on an account, a copy of the bill, note or account on which the suit is based, defendant is required to file an affidavit of defense within a specified time, or judgment may be entered against him as in case of a default.[2] A failure to file such affidavit is a conclusive admission, for the purposes of the suit, of the validity of the claim.[3] In Pennsylvania, in actions of assumpsit, the plaintiff's statement must be replied to by affidavit of defense.[4] Plaintiff is not entitled to judgment for an insufficient affidavit of defense where no such affidavit is required.[5]

In many states pleas of non est factum, nul tiel corporation and nul tiel record must be made under oath.[6]

The North Carolina statute requiring the defendant in actions to recover real property to give bond for costs and damages as a condition precedent to the right to answer applies only to a defendant in possession.[7] Hence where defendant in possession files a bond by leave after the expiration of the time for doing so, plaintiff is not entitled to judgment against him as for failure to answer.[8]

A substituted answer, which is in conflict with the original and sets up no defense to the merits, is properly stricken from the files.[9]

Denials and traverses.[10]—In code states the answer is usually required to

A. 649. In action to recover possession of leased property from assignee of lease for breach of assignment, pleas that assignment had not been made to defendant at time of breach (Id.), that plaintiff had not recognized assignment to defendant, and had refused to consent thereto (Id.), and that defendant held premises from plaintiff as tenant from year to year, held properly stricken out, because provable under general issue (Id.). Special pleas unnecessary, and rulings on demurrers thereto are inconsequential. Ivy Coal & Coke Co. v. Long, 139 Ala. 535, 36 So. 722. Error in sustaining a demurrer is harmless. Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698. As to false representations. Worrell v. Kinnear Mfg. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 988; Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730.

97. Applies only where there are two distinct pleas and not same plea under different forms. Clark v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 23 App. D. C. 546. Judgment will be reversed where record shows demurrer to first two pleas, first being in effect, and second in form, the general issue, and a judgment on the demurrer, the plaintiff electing not to amend, and no disposition being made of the third plea. Id. Stipulation withdrawing third plea will not be received on appeal where it reserves right to again file it in lower court. Id.

98. Answer is plea of general issue in another form. Clark v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 23 App. D. C. 546.

99. First plea held, in effect, the general issue. One cannot be tried on demurrer and other on evidence to jury. Clark v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 23 App. D. C. 546.

1. Where defendant denies contract as alleged in complaint, further allegations as to what she understands contract to be are properly stricken out. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718.

2. R. I. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 239, § 14. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926.

3. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926.

4. Act May 25, 1887 (P. L. 271). Brady v. Osborn Engineering Co., 132 F. 412. Required only in actions on demands which are liquidated and certain, or which can be made so by proper averments. Not required in action for damages for breach of contract for failure to perform it in proper manner. Id.

5. Brady v. Osborn Engineering Co., 132 F. 412. Affidavit of defense to a scl. fa. on a mortgage which denies the indebtedness but fails to deny execution of mortgage. Stewart v. Linton, 204 Pa. 207, 53 A. 744.

6. See Verification, 2 Curr. L. 2023.

7. Clark's Code, § 390. Carraway v. Stancill [N. C.] 49 S. E. 957.

8. Carraway v. Stancill [N. C.] 49 S. E. 957.

9. Cleveland v. Cazort [Ark.] 83 S. W. 316.

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1198. See, also, § 14, post.

contain a general or specific denial of each material allegation of the complaint intended to be controverted by defendant, or of any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief.[11] It is not sufficient to allege a want of information without a want of knowledge or vice versa.[12]

Generally any allegation which, if found true, necessarily shows that the allegation of the complaint as to the same matter is untrue, is a good traverse, and sufficient as a denial.[13] Denials raise no issue unless they deny material allegations of the complaint, or put in issue some fact alleged therein which plaintiff must prove in order to recover, and which defendant may disprove.[14] Thus the denial of a conclusion of law is immaterial and raises no issue.[15]

A general denial of all allegations not otherwise admitted is good.[16] A defective special denial does not control a good general denial.[17] The statute of Michigan provides for a notice of special defense, to be attached to the general issue.[18] It need not conform to the rules of special pleading, but is sufficient if it informs plaintiff of the substance of the matter proposed to be shown under it.[19] An answer denying allegations as alleged in certain paragraphs of the complaint, referring to them by number, is sufficient, at least on appeal.[20]

Confession and avoidance.[21]—The answer should also contain a statement of any new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim.[22] New matter means

11. Mills' Ann. Code Colo. § 56. Rucker v. Bolles [C. C. A.] 133 F. 858. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 500. Hicks v. Eggleston, 95 App. Div. 162, 88 N. Y. S. 528. Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1538, c. 580, § 150). Levin & M. Contracting Co. v. Jackson, 92 N. Y. S. 307. Sand. & H. Dig. Ark. § 5722. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703. In Kansas the statute requires a guardian ad litem to file a general denial, and it is error to try a case against a minor without such a pleading [Code Civ. Proc. § 101]. Swartwood v. Sage, 68 Kan. 817, 75 P. 508. Its omission, however, is not a jurisdictional defect. Id.

12. Allegation that defendants "have no information sufficient to form a belief" insufficient. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703.

13. In action for reasonable value of services, answer denying that defendant is indebted to plaintiff in certain sum, or in any sum, is sufficient to present issue. Heaton-Hobson Associated Law Offices v. Arper, 145 Cal. 282, 78 P. 721.

14. Fuller Co. v. Manhattan Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1049. In action for rent, denial of landlord's title (Id.), and of allegations charging nonpayment of rent, where lease is admitted, raise no issues (Id.). Denial of demand for rent does not raise material issue since demand unnecessary. Id.

15. Failure to deny it not an admission of its truth. Kidwell v. Ketler [Cal.] 79 P. 514; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McIntosh, 26 Ky. L. R. 14, 80 S. W. 496; Roush v. Vanceburg, etc., Turnpike Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 735. That rent became due and payable. Fuller Co. v. Manhattan Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1049. A denial on information and belief of plaintiff's incorporation raises no issue. Id. In Nebraska the plea nil debet puts no fact in issue, and cannot be regarded as a defense. General denial held not to put in issue amount due on benefit certificate. Denial that there is due the amount claimed raises no issue. Bankers' Union of the World v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013. When, in ejectment, alleged title is set forth specifically, general denial of ownership raises no issue. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946.

16. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053. A denial of each and every other allegation of the complaint "not hereinbefore specifically admitted, controverted or denied," following specific admissions. Landesman v. Hauser, 91 N. Y. S. 6.

17. Implied admission does not control general denial traversing all allegations not otherwise admitted. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053.

18. McRae v. Lonsby [C. C. A.] 130 F. 17.

19. Notice, in action on note, setting up fraud and false representations and seeking its cancellation, held sufficient. McRae v. Lonsby [C. C. A.] 130 F. 17.

20. Frees v. Blyth, 99 App. Div. 541, 91 N. Y. S. 103.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1203, n. 30 et seq.

22. See, also, Set-Off and Counterclaim, 2 Curr. L. 1624. Mills' Ann. Code Colo. § 56. Rucker v. Bolles [C. C. A.] 133 F. 858. Answer may contain new matter constituting counterclaim [Minn. Gen. St. 1904, § 5236]. Monitor Drill Co. v. Moody [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104. A defendant cannot avail himself of any matter of defense not appearing in the answer, though it appears in the evidence. Allegations as to consideration of note insufficient. Noble v. Gilliam, 136 Ala. 618, 33 So. 861. To warrant sustaining of objection to introduction of note on ground of nonexecution and material alteration, answer not being verified, such defenses should have been alleged. Id. In Georgia a defendant may, in every case, set up in his answer any matter which, under the English rule, should be the subject of a cross bill [Civ. Code 1895, § 4969]. Latimer v Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322. Where petitioner in equitable proceeding for partition seeks to charge her severed interest with her debts to defendants, their answer, praying judgment for their debts, is germane to the peti-anything operating by way of confession and avoidance, as distinguished from denial.[23]

Matters relating to set-off and counterclaim are treated elsewhere.[24]

§ 4. Replication or reply and subsequent pleadings.[25]—Generally, where the answer contains a counterclaim or any new matter, plaintiff is required to reply to the same denying generally or specially each allegation controverted by him.[26] The new matter referred to is in the nature of a plea in confession and avoidance,[27] and no reply is necessary where it merely tends to deny the allegations of the complaint.[28] An allegation of new matter in the answer to which a reply is not required will be deemed controverted.[29] The reply may generally plead any new matter tending to avoid new matter set up in the answer.[30]

In some states new matter set up in the answer is deemed controverted and no reply is necessary.[31] In others it is only necessary when the answer sets up a counterclaim.[32] A reply filed when none is necessary will be treated as a nullity.[33]

tion. Id. Failure by one to perform his contract with another, entitling the latter to a modification or extinguishment of the contract price, may be pleaded as a defense or counterclaim. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

23. Rucker v. Bolles [C. C. A.] 133 F. 858.

24. See Set-Off and Counterclaim, 2 Curr. L. 1624.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1204. In equity, see Equity, § 6H, 3 Curr. L. 1230.

26. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 720, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 142 (Act Feb. 22). State v. District Court of Eighth Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 79 P. 546. In action for personal injuries, allegations of contributory negligence in answer are new matter. Id. A denial on information and belief is insufficient. Mont. Act Feb. 22, 1899 (Laws 1899, p. 142), amending Code Civ. Proc. § 720. Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751.

27. King v. Burnham [Minn.] 101 N. W. 302.

28. In action for goods sold and delivered, which complaint alleges were of agreed and reasonable value of $124, answer alleging that they were of agreed value of $50, and no more, does not require reply. King v. Burnham [Minn.] 101 N. W. 302. In suit for specific performance, answer held not to set up new matter sufficiently to require replication. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007. Denial of delivery of a promissory note (Bode v. Werner, 4 Ohio C. C. [N. S.] 158), or that there is anything due thereon (Id.). Where the complaint does not necessarily disclose a case within the statute of limitations, plaintiff may, in avoidance of the defense of the statute, prove an exception taking the case out of its operation, without pleading in reply. Metz v. Metz, 90 N. Y. S. 340.

29. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 522. Metz v. Metz, 90 N. Y. S. 340.

30. In action to recover proceeds of benefit certificate, where defendant claimed under subsequent certificate, allegations of antenuptial agreement in which insured agreed to transfer insurance to plaintiff held proper matter in reply [Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 360]. Carter v. Carter [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 187. A reply to a counterclaim should contain denials of material allegations thereof, or new matter not inconsistent with the complaint constituting a defense thereto [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 514]. Fett v. Greenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 736. A counterclaim to a counterclaim is not allowable, plaintiff's remedy in such case being by motion for leave to amend the complaint. Id.

31. Statute operates as replication. In suit to foreclose mortgage discharged of record not necessary to allege in complaint facts showing that discharge was inoperative [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 462]. White v. Stevenson, 144 Cal. 104, 77 P. 828. Statute of limitations [Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 4217]. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226. In Montana in the police and justice courts [Code Civ. Proc. § 1528]. Duane v. Molinak [Mont.] 78 P. 588. On appeal to the district court, the pleadings are governed by same rules as apply in the lower courts. Where amendment to answer pleading affirmative defense is filed after appeal, no replication is necessary. Id. In action in police court to recover balance due on contract for purchase of land, where defendant denied allegations of complaint and counterclaimed for damages for false representations, issues so raised were not superseded by amendment to answer, adding defense of statute of frauds, made in district court on appeal. Id. While such issues remained, court could not grant judgment on pleadings or direct verdict for defendant. Id. In Georgia, special pleadings and replications are not ordinarily allowed. Beard v. White, 120 Ga. 1018, 48 S. E. 400. But where the defendant, by set-off or cross bill, seeks affirmative relief against the plaintiff, the court may require the latter to meet such claims by appropriate written pleadings. Id.

32. Indian Territory: Mansf. Dig. § 5043; Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3248. Madden v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 904.

In North Carolina allegations of new matter not relating to counterclaims are deemed controverted as upon a direct denial or avoidance as the case may require. Code, § 268. Immaterial whether denial of abandonment in reply was sufficient. Smith v. Bruton [N. C.] 49 S. E. 64.

33. Madden v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 904. In such case sustaining a demurrer thereto and entering judgment against plain-

Allegations in a reply must be construed together and with reference to the answer.[34] Where a plea requires something more than a mere similiter to put it in issue, it is error to allow the case to go to trial in the absence of any reply or joinder of issue thereon.[35] A replication failing to aver anything responsive to a plea setting up a distinct and independent defense is subject to demurrer.[36] Replications purporting to answer several pleas cannot be sustained if bad as to one of them, though good as to the others.[37]

If a plaintiff demurs or replies over to a proper plea answering a part only of his cause of action, without "signing judgment," an hiatus and consequent discontinuance takes place.[38]

Plaintiff can recover only on the cause of action stated in his complaint,[39] and cannot in his reply take a position inconsistent therewith.[40]

Additional pleadings.[41]—New matter in the reply is generally deemed denied without further pleading.[42] A rejoinder should be by demurrer, confession and avoidance, or traverse,[43] and should not set up facts in the nature of evidence from which an inference may be drawn.[44]

§ 5. Demurrer.[45] General rules.[46]—A demurrer reaches only those defects apparent on the face of the pleadings.[47]

tiff on the pleadings, on his refusal to plead further, is error where his complaint states a cause of action. Id.

34. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19.

35. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64.

36. Keystone Mfg. Co. v. Hampton [Ala.] 37 So. 552.

37. Matthews v. Farrell, 140 Ala. 298, 37 So. 325.

38. Since plaintiff thus fails to prosecute or follow up his action. Risher v. Wheeling Roofing & Cornice Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1016. Not a discontinuance where defendant filed plea of payment answering part of plaintiff's claim, and clerk entered plea of general issue, and of the common order confirmed, which was stricken out at next term as unauthorized, where plaintiff did not appear at rules, and did nothing until the next term. Id.

39. Jackson v. Powell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1132; Kearney County Bank v. Zimmerman [Neb.] 99 N. W. 524. It is not the province of a reply to introduce new causes of action, or to supply material allegations to the original petition. Error to allow filing of reply after going to trial for purpose of supplying omitted allegations. Creditor's bill to cancel deed. Id. The only exception is where the trial proceeds on the new matter alleged in the reply without objection. Id.

40. In action for diversion of water, plea of estoppel or res adjudicata, barring defendant from denying that plaintiff was deprived of all water, held inconsistent with allegations of complaint that she did use a portion of the water, and therefore she could not rely on same. Flannery v. Campbell [Mont.] 75 P. 1109. In debt on bond to which defendant's testator was a party, where defendant pleaded that claim was not presented within statutory period after publication of notice of executor's qualification, but plea did not allege such publication, plaintiff could not deny that notice was given without a departure in pleading. Municipal Court v. Whaley [R. I.] 57 A. 1061. Where same facts pleaded in reply were provable under answer to defendant's cross complaint, fact that allegations of reply were not germane to claim in complaint held immaterial. Carter v. Carter [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 187.

No departure: In action for price of threshing machine, where complaint alleged indebtedness in sum certain and replication set out agreement for extension of time and for security and defendant's failure to give it. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314. Replications, in mandamus to compel reinstatement of police officer, showing that removal was wrongful, held in confession and avoidance. City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816. In action for conversion of hops, reply designed to affirm averments of complaint and make them more certain, and which is merely new assignment of cause therein alleged. Zorn v. Livesley, 44 Or. 501, 75 P. 1057. Where petition is for money had and received, and answer pleads payment by check, reply negativing payment and alleging fraud. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 102 N. W. 765. Reply in action against surety on bond held to respond to answer, and not to plead new cause of action. State v. Bergfeld [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 177. In action for proceeds of benefit certificate, defendant held estopped to object that reply was departure, since, if order in which facts were presented was erroneous, it was invited error. Carter v. Carter [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 187.

41. See 2 Curr. L. 1206, n. 56.

42. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 754. Swain v. McMillan [Mont.] 76 P. 943.

43, 44. Probate Court of Westerly v. Potter [R. I.] 58 A. 661.

45. See 2 Curr. L. 1206. In equity, see Equity, § 6E, 3 Curr. L. 1227.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1206.

Defects reached by demurrer, see post, § 10.

47. Wyo. Rev. St. 1899, § 3535. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708. Held that question whether persons suing to recover lands as heirs at law are estopped to

Upon general demurrer the only question is the sufficiency of the pleading to state a cause of action or a defense upon any theory,[48] which must be determined from the matter pleaded alone.[49] An admission as to the facts made by counsel during the argument may, however, be considered.[50]

A petition good on general demurrer stops the running of limitations, though open to attack by special demurrer.[51] The court will not construe an instrument set up in the pleading demurred to, and determine the rights of the parties thereunder, when it is ambiguous and so uncertain in meaning that it cannot be fairly interpreted without a knowledge of the surrounding facts and circumstances.[52]

A demurrer goes to the whole of a plea,[53] and hence it is error to sustain it when directed to a portion of a plea.[54] A demurrer may, however, be interposed to a single plea.[55] impeach decree making partial distribution of estate, by which they were given other lands, could not so arise under the circumstances. Alcorn v. Brandeman, 145 Cal. 62, 78 P. 343. Fact that plaintiffs might be estopped by conduct from claiming a third of the lands under a deed held not to affect sufficiency of complaint to support claim for other two-thirds as heirs. Id. Amended answer held not to show on its face that no damage could have resulted to defendants on account of false representations, and hence not demurrable on that ground. McCrary v. Pritchard, 119 Ga. 876, 47 S. E. 341. The question whether a plea seeks to contradict or vary a written contract cannot be raised by demurrer where there is nothing in the pleadings to show that such contract was in writing. Id. The objection that the contract sued on is void under the statute of frauds cannot be raised by demurrer, where it does not appear from the face of the complaint whether it is oral or written. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932. A former adjudication of the same cause of action, not appearing from the petition, is not a ground for demurrer, but for plea. Reid v. Caldwell, 120 Ga. 718, 48 S. E. 191. To sustain a demurrer to a bill on the defense of the statute of limitations, the facts warranting that defense must distinctly appear on its face. Action for partition. Bragg v. Wiseman, 55 W. Va. 330, 47 S. E. 90. For want of jurisdiction. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Seerley [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 169.

48. Complaint in action for damages for causing plaintiff's arrest held sufficient. McKenzie v. Royal Dairy, 35 Wash. 390, 77 P. 680. A demurrer on the ground that the complaint states no cause of action will be sustained where it states no facts warranting the judgment asked or any part thereof. To complaint for breach of covenant to furnish pass in consideration of grant of railroad right of way, praying that defendant be ejected and enjoined, but not demanding damages for breach. Hasbrouck v. New Paltz, H. & P. Traction Co., 90 N. Y. S. 977. The sufficiency of a petition depends upon whether the defendant can admit all its allegations and escape liability. Petition in suit for wrongful death sufficient. Rowland v. Towns, 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 581. Under the Alaska code, plaintiff may demur to an answer containing new matter when it appears upon the face thereof that such new matter does not constitute a defense or counterclaim. Alaska Code Civ. Proc. § 68 (Carter's Codes, p. 158; 31 Stat. 343, c. 786). Demurrer must be directed to new matter. Held v. Ebner [C. C. A.] 133 F. 156. General demurrer to answer on ground that it did not state facts sufficient to constitute defense should be overruled where answer denies material allegations of complaint, though it also sets up new matter. Id.

49. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 45 Misc. 251, 92 N. Y. S. 153. Thus the court cannot look to facts appearing in the process, return of service, or other parts of the record not forming a part of the pleading to sustain the demurrer to the petition. Not to ascertain when action was commenced. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708. Nor can point that issuance of new summons with amended petition amounted to abandonment of original suit be considered. Id. A demurrer runs to the allegations of the complaint and not to its caption or to the summons. Complaint not demurrable for failure to add to statement of representative character words "as trustees" in addition to words "as executors" in caption, where complaint shows that they are so acting. Rowe v. Rowe, 92 N. Y. S. 491. The appellate court cannot resort to the evidence in aid of pleading. Case v. Hursh [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 818. In action on bond to which defendant's testator was a party, where defendant pleaded that claim was not filed or presented to executors within statutory period, plaintiff, on demurrer to pleas, cannot argue that he did not know of breach until after such period had expired. Municipal Court v. Whaley [R. I.] 57 A. 1061.

50. That contract sued on was oral. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932.

51. Schmidt v. Brittain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 677.

52. O'Shaugnessy v. Humes, 129 F. 953.

53. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64.

54. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64. Harmless where portion overruled is afterwards made part and basis of amended plea. Id. Under a statute authorizing a demurrer to the answer or any defense therein, a demurrer cannot be interposed to a part only of a defense. Cannot be addressed to fragmentary part of pleading [Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2658]. McCall Co. v. Stone [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1053.

A general demurrer to a misjoinder will not be sustained if either count is good,[56] hence a special demurrer is necessary in order to reach such defect.[57] A joint demurrer to a pleading good as to one of the demurring parties will be overruled as to both,[58] and a complaint which does not state a good cause of action as to all who join in it, though it does as to some, is bad on demurrer as to all for insufficiency of facts.[59]

A demurrer to the entire declaration raises the question whether it sets out sufficient matter to sustain the action.[60] In such case the demurrer will be overruled if one of the counts is good,[61] or if the facts alleged entitle plaintiff to a portion of the relief sought.[62] So too a demurrer to a whole answer is properly overruled if an issue is raised by any of its denials or allegations;[63] but a demurrer to a plea of limitations filed to all of certain additional counts is properly sustained where it does not present a defense as to all of them.[64] Assigning special causes for demurrer does not make a demurrer special which is general in its nature.[65]

Sustaining a demurrer to one of several paragraphs or pleas is harmless where no competent evidence is thereby excluded, as where others are left under which it may be admitted.[66] So too error in overruling a demurrer is harmless, where

55. Where the answer in an action for slander sets up, first, a general denial; second, justification, as a complete defense; and third, mitigation as a partial defense, plaintiff may test on demurrer the sufficiency of the second plea apart from the third. Jansen v. Fischer, 90 N. Y. S. 346.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1207, n. 81-83. Hudson v. McNear [Me.] 59 A. 546. A general demurrer to the whole of a bill for an injunction and damages for the maintenance of a nuisance, on the ground of misjoinder of defendants, will be overruled where they are properly made joint defendants as far as the injunctive relief is concerned. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

57. Hudson v. McNear [Me.] 59 A. 546.

58. Brown v. Tallman [N. J. Eq.] 54 A. 457. A demurrer to complaint in several paragraphs on ground that "neither of said paragraphs states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action" is not joint. Case v. Hursh [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 818. A general demurrer to an answer and counterclaim, put in by two plaintiffs jointly. Answer in suit for wrongful eviction sufficient. Neumann v. Moretti [Cal.] 79 P. 510.

59. State v. Holt [Ind.] 71 N. E. 653.

60. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris [Va.] 49 S. E. 991.

61. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris [Va.] 49 S. E. 991. A demurrer to a plea of set-off on the ground that particular items of damage therein alleged cannot properly be recovered should be overruled if any of the items are proper subjects of set-off, though others are not. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64. A demurrer to a plea in abatement that the action was not brought in the proper county, such plea going to the maintenance of the action as a whole, is properly sustained where the cause of action stated by one of the counts is properly brought, irrespective of whether those stated by the other counts are or not. Hoge v. Herzberg [Ala.] 37 So. 591. The petition in an action on an account cannot be attacked by general demurrer because one item of an account filed therewith is insufficiently stated. Bick v. Halberstadt [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 127.

62. Anderson v. Dyer & Bro. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1061.

63. Fuller Co. v. Manhattan Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1049. Where defendants pleaded general issue and two special pleas, and plaintiff filed a single demurrer to all pleas, defendant was entitled to judgment, the plea of the general issue being unexceptionable. Carpenter v. Spring Garden Ins. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 114. A demurrer to a paragraph sufficient as a partial defense in mitigation of damages is properly overruled. Privid v. O'Brien, 91 N. Y. S. 324.

64. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Swift, 213 Ill. 307, 72 N. E. 737.

65. Character not altered by statement of special causes that one of the counts or breaches or parts of plaintiff's demand of a distinct and divisible nature is bad. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris [Va.] 49 S. E. 991.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1207, n. 75. Matthews v. Farrell, 140 Ala. 298, 37 So. 325; Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132. Sustaining a demurrer to a special plea in reduction of damages in an action on the case, where the general issue is pleaded, under which such reduction may be shown. Karter v. Fields, 140 Ala. 352, 37 So. 204. Where defense may be shown under a general denial. Under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, §§ 1067, 1082, 1083, every defense in action to quiet title is admissible under general denial. Beasey v. High, 33 Ind. App. 689, 72 N. E. 181. Where the issue under which the evidence is admissible is formed by a general denial, it is immaterial whether it is on file at the time of the ruling, or is filed afterwards. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132. Defendant cannot make the error available by subsequently withdrawing such general denial. Beasey v. High, 33 Ind. App. 689, 72 N. E. 181.

ample evidence to support the allegations of the pleading is received without objection.[67]

Form, requisites and sufficiency.[68]—Demurrers should specifically assign the grounds on which it is claimed that the pleadings objected to are insufficient,[69] and only the grounds so specified will be considered.[70] It is sufficient to use language equivalent to that of the statute.[71] Where a right result is reached in ruling on the sufficiency of the pleadings, the form of the demurrer,[72] or the fact that it is misnamed, is immaterial.[73] Clerical errors will be disregarded in the absence of a showing of prejudice to the substantial rights of the opposite party.[74] A demurrer filed after the filing of an amended complaint is sufficient as a demurrer to the latter, though purporting to be addressed to the original complaint.[75]

A speaking demurrer is one based on matter outside the pleading against which it is directed, and is generally held to be bad.[76]

Issues raised.[77]—As a general rule a demurrer, whenever and by whomsoever interposed, reaches back through the whole record, and condemns the first pleading defective in substance.[78] Upon demurrer to a plea in abatement,[79] or to a plea to the jurisdiction the declaration is not brought in question.[80] A demurrer

67. Waiver of proofs of loss in action on insurance policy. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1209.

69. Demurrers alleging that complaint states no cause of action and that statutes under which suit is brought are unconstitutional held bad for failure to assign any grounds for the contentions advanced. Travis v. Rhodes [Ala.] 37 So. 804. It is not sufficient to merely say that the facts stated do not constitute a defense or a particular defense. Iowa Code, § 3562. Exact point must be set out. Timken Carriage Co. v. Smith & Co., 123 Iowa, 554, 99 N. W. 183. Demurrer to answer in action for price of wagon held insufficient to support contention that defendant never offered to return wagon, or that plaintiff had made good his warranty, or that an implied warranty was excluded by the express one. Id. A demurrer to a complaint, other than on the ground of want of jurisdiction or failure to state a cause of action. Stephens v. Parvin [Colo.] 78 P. 688. On the ground of ambiguity and uncertainty. Baden Baden Gold Min. Co. v. Jose [Colo. App.] 78 P. 313. A demurrer for defect of parties must state specifically wherein such defect consists, and name the parties omitted. Anderson v. Dyer & Bro. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1061. In Virginia the court may, on motion of either party or on its own motion, require the grounds of demurrer relied on to be stated specifically, in which case only those so stated may be relied on. Code, § 3271, as amended by Acts 1899-1900, p. 111, c. 100 (2 Code 1904, p. 1721). Where grounds are not copied in record, appellate court will treat case as though there had been no demurrer. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857. By statute in Connecticut, whenever a demurrer is filed on more than one ground the judge, in rendering his decision, is required to specify in writing the ground on which it is based. Gen. St. 1902, § 765. Where specified four grounds as sufficient to sustain demurrer, but based decision on all the grounds, held error was not ground for reversal on plaintiff's appeal, since he had same opportunity to amend as if statute had been complied with. Patterson v. Farmington St. R. Co., 76 Conn. 628, 57 A. 853.

70. Snyer v. New York & N. J. Tel. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 90.

71. Demurrer on ground that complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute "good" cause of action is sufficient. Word "good" will be treated as surplusage. City of Vincennes v. Spees [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 531. That answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute "ground of defense." Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297.

72. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132.

73. Calling them motions to strike. Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & W. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 742.

74. Mistake in reciting date on which complaint to which it was taken was filed held not ground for reversal. Hollenback v. Poston [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 162.

75. City of Vincennes v. Spees [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 531.

76. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708. Merits of defense can only be raised by plea or answer. O'Shaugnessy v. Humes, 129 F. 953. Seek to raise matters which should be pleaded and proved as defenses to the action. Reid v. Caldwell, 120 Ga. 718, 48 S. E. 191.

77. See 2 Curr. L. 1209.

78. Demurrer to an answer for insufficiency may be carried back to the complaint as not stating a cause of action. Mitchell v. Peru [Ind.] 71 N. E. 132; Goff v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2176, 80 S. W. 219; Bigelow v. Drummond, 42 Misc. 617, 87 N. Y. S. 581. It is error to sustain a demurrer to a bad answer addressed to a bad complaint since a bad answer is good enough in law for bad complaint. Whitesell v. Strickler [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 153.

79, 80. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11.

to a replication cannot be carried beyond the answer where the latter pleading is interposed after the overruling of a demurrer to the complaint.[81]

A demurrer is equivalent to a general appearance.[82] It admits facts well pleaded,[83] but does not admit conclusions of law,[84] nor that the construction of a written instrument attached to the pleading is the true one, or that its legal effect is contrary to that which its language imports.[85] If for misjoinder of causes of action, it admits that there are two or more good causes of action stated.[86] Such admission is only for the purpose of testing the sufficiency of the pleading,[87] and

81. Where respondents file an answer presenting a complete defense to a petition for mandamus after their demurrer thereto has been overruled, and relator replies thereto, a demurrer to such replication cannot be carried beyond the answer. City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816.

82. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 421. Where demurrer to complaint is overruled, defendant, though he fails to answer over, is entitled to notice of assessment of damages by the clerk, as well as of the application to the court for judgment, and to challenge amount of recovery [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1219]. Mathot v. Triebel, 92 N. Y. S. 512.

83. Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754; Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174; Simons v. Gregory [Ky.] 85 S. W. 751; Commissioners of Anne Arundel County v. Baltimore Sugar Refining Co. [Md.] 58 A. 211; Randolph v. Wheeler, 182 Mo. 145, 81 S. W. 419; Kennedy v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 40; Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857; Hudson River Power Transmission Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179; Coppola v. Kraushaar, 92 N. Y. S. 436; Gilkeson v. Thompson [Pa.] 59 A. 1114; Waaler v. Great Northern R. Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 1097; Johnson v. Brice [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 791; Ferguson v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1240; Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 531; Trumbo v. Fulk [Va.] 48 S. E. 525; Hester v. Thomson, 35 Wash. 119, 76 P. 734; Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. Demurrer held to admit allegation that defendants were in possession of property under license from plaintiff, and hence they could not contend that he was not owner as to them. Clark v. Wall [Mont.] 79 P. 1052. Every fact pleaded or fairly inferable from the facts alleged, whether expressly, impliedly or argumentatively averred. Complaint in action for wrongful death of servant held sufficient. Ellsworth v. Franklin County Agricultural Soc., 99 App. Div. 119, 91 N. Y. S. 1040. All facts argumentatively or inferentially alleged. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 92 N. Y. S. 525. A demurrer to a separate defense admits the truth of all material matters therein stated, and for the purpose of determining their sufficiency as a defense the material allegations of the complaint must be taken as admitted. Barnard v. Lawyers' Title Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 41. Admits facts construed in light most favorable to plaintiff. Action for damages for failure to deliver telegram. Green v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 165. On demurrer to a petition for order to show cause why one should not be punished for contempt for violating a decree, the question whether such decree was sustained by the pleadings and the evidence cannot be considered, the court having had jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter. State v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 79 P. 319. Same rule applies to default. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296.

As to what is admitted by a demurrer to a complaint, see note, 97 Am. St. Rep. 833.

84. As to what are conclusions, see ante, § 1. In proceedings to correct tax assessment, allegation as to certain machinery being realty not admitted. Commissioners of Anne Arundel County v. Baltimore Sugar Refining Co. [Md.] 58 A. 211. Allegations that defendant has no vested interest in property, and is incapable, under its charter, of receiving certain property. Carroll v. Smith [Md.] 59 A. 131; Burdiok v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13; Petty v. Emery, 96 App. Div. 35, 88 N. Y. S. 823; Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857; Trumbo v. Fulk [Va.] 48 S. E. 525. Law must be determined by court on facts admitted. Simons v. Gregory [Ky.] 85 S. W. 751. Argumentative conclusions as to knowledge of fraud in assignments. Gilkeson v. Thompson [Pa.] 59 A. 1114; Clerks' Benev. Union v. Knights of Columbus [S. C.] 50 S. E. 206; Edison v. Edison, Jr., Chemical Co., 128 F. 957. Allegation that roadway is not public highway, where bill shows that it is, in sense that it is subject to public easement of travel. Sullivan v. Browning [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 302. Allegation that cause of action same as that in former cases. First Nat. Bank v. Lewinson [N. M.] 76 P. 288. Demurrer does not admit truth of general allegations of fraud, but only of facts set forth as constituting it, and all reasonable deductions from them. Edison v. Edison, Jr., Chemical Co., 128 F. 957; Miller v. Butler, 121 Ga. 758, 49 S. E. 754. Demurrer to allegation that injury was unavoidable result of operating cars in lawful manner does not admit that acts were lawful. Baltimore Belt R. Co. v. Sattler [Md.] 59 A. 654. Conclusions drawn from facts not admitted by motion to quash writ of mandamus, which performs office of general demurrer. Hester v. Thomson, 35 Wash. 119, 76 P. 734. Same rule applies to default. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296.

85. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296.

86. A demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action admits that there are two or more good causes of action stated. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921.

87, 88. Hudson River Power Transmission does not bar the one who demurs from disproving the facts alleged upon the trial, nor from disputing them when his own pleading is being analyzed to determine its sufficiency.[88]

Hearing and decision on demurrer.[89]—A decision on demurrer goes only to the sufficiency of the matter pleaded.[90] The decision of the court or report of a referee must direct a final or interlocutory judgment to be entered thereupon, but findings of fact are not necessary.[91] On overruling a demurrer to the complaint, there should be a decision directing the entry of an interlocutory judgment.[92] On overruling a demurrer to an answer, the judgment should be for the costs of the demurrers only, where there is no dismissal.[93] Where the court files an opinion stating that demurrers should be sustained, but no order is entered, he may subsequently withdraw such opinion and overrule the demurrers.[94] The judgment upon demurrer to a plea to the jurisdiction is, if in favor of plaintiff, respondeat ouster.[95] Where a demurrer to a declaration in two counts is overruled subject to exception and either count is bad, a general verdict thereon will be set aside.[96] An order sustaining a demurrer to a bill is not a final order and no appeal lies therefrom.[97] Where complainant is willing to rest his case on the demurrer, he must move for a dismissal of the bill.[98] No appeal lies from a judgment overruling a demurrer and awarding costs.[99] A judgment overruling a demurrer to a petition is proper matter for direct exception.[1] Where demurrers to each of several complete defenses are overruled and plaintiff declines to plead further, judgment is properly entered against him, though the demurrer as to one of such defenses was erroneously overruled.[2] Defendant is generally given the right to file an answer after demurrer overruled.[3]

§ 6. Cross complaints and answers.[4]—A cross complaint must relate to or depend upon the contract or transaction on which the main case is founded, or affect the property to which the action relates, but does not necessarily seek its relief against all or any of the original plaintiffs or defendants.[5] As to subject-matter, a counterclaim is more comprehensive and liberal, but for relief against individual plaintiffs or defendants, or bringing in new parties against whom a defendant claims relief growing out of the subject-matter of the action, the cross complaint is the available procedure.[6]

Reconventions or cross bills are to be regarded as pleadings in separate suits brought by defendant against plaintiff.[7] Not being defensive pleadings, allegations therein may be used by plaintiff as evidence to support his claim, if in-

Co. v. United Traction Co., 98 App. Div. 568, 91 N. Y. S. 179.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1210.

90. Decision that plea presents sufficient defense not an adjudication of the fact in favor of defendant. Probate Court of Westerly v. Potter [R. I.] 58 A. 661.

91. Mere order not appealable. Rowe v. Rowe, 92 N. Y. S. 491.

92. Mere order not appealable. Brown v. Leary, 91 N. Y. S. 463.

93. Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348.

94. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Inst. [Md.] 58 A. 200.

95. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11.

96. Gendron v. St. Pierre, 72 N. H. 400, 56 A. 915.

97. Decision merely interlocutory. Livingston County Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Keach, 213 Ill. 59, 72 N. E. 769; State v. Fleming [Wash.] 79 P. 1115.

98. Order of dismissal is final, and appealable. Livingston County Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Keach, 213 Ill. 59, 72 N. E. 769.

99. Not final. Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348.

1. Is a ruling which would have been final if it had been rendered as claimed by defendant [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 5526]. Ramey v. O'Byrne, 121 Ga. 516, 49 S. E. 595.

2. Board of Education of Canton v. Walker [Ohio] 72 N. E. 898.

3. Conn. St. 1872. Hourigan v. Norwich [Conn.] 59 A. 487. Ordering a default to be entered against him for failure to do so in an action for negligent death is improper. Id.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1212. In equity, see Equity, § 6D, 3 Curr. L. 1226.

5. Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 4188. Hunter v. Porter [Idaho] 77 P. 434.

6. Hunter v. Porter [Idaho] 77 P. 434.

7, 8. Lewis v. Crouch [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1009.

troduced for that purpose,[8] but they cannot be regarded as conclusive admissions of record in the case because they are not contained in pleadings directed to plaintiff's demands.[9] An averment of a cross-complaint for affirmative relief not addressed to the plaintiff's complaint or purporting to be an answer thereto cannot be construed as a denial of allegations therein.[10] An intervenor can recover judgment only on the cause of action alleged by him and involved in the issues between him and the plaintiff.[11]

In California a defendant who seeks affirmative relief against any party to the action may file a cross complaint at the same time he files his answer.[12] When a complete determination of the controversy may not be had without the presence of other parties, the court must then order them to be brought in, and to that end may order amended and supplemental pleadings, or a cross complaint to be filed and summons thereon to be issued and served,[13] and even with an order, defendant cannot inject into the action a controversy between himself and an outsider, though it affects the property to which the action relates, unless some party already before the court is interested in, or will be affected by, its determination.[14]

A judgment may be attacked for fraud by answer and cross complaint.[15] An action for unlawful detainer is not subject to cross complaint or counterclaim.[16]

Even though a separate answer to a cross bill is necessary in addition to a reply to new matter in the answer, a reply denying the new matter is sufficient to deprive defendant of the right to a judgment pro confesso on the cross bill, where the new matter claimed to be a cross bill is so blended with that alleged as an affirmative defense that plaintiff cannot distinguish between them.[17]

§ 7. Amendments.[18] Right, time and manner of amendment.[19]—As a rule, pleadings may be amended before trial without leave of court on service of a copy of the amended pleading on the opposite party.[20] In some states pleadings may be once amended as of right, without costs and without prejudice to any proceedings already had.[21]

9. In action against lessor for breach of contract to furnish water for irrigation purposes, where defendant pleaded general denial and also, in reconvention, that loss of crop was caused by plaintiff's breach, whereby he was injured by loss of part to which he was entitled, held error to limit issues to question as to who breached contract, and to treat measure of plaintiff's damages as conclusively admitted. Lewis v. Crouch [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1009.

10. As to ownership of land in controversy. White v. Besse, 145 Cal. 223, 78 P. 649.

11. White v. Besse, 145 Cal. 223, 78 P. 649. An intervenor who in no way connects himself with the pleadings between the plaintiff and the defendant cannot obtain any advantage therefrom, but must rest his case on appeal solely on the cause of action stated in his complaint in intervention. Id.

12. Code Civ. Proc. § 442. Alpers v. Bliss, 145 Cal. 565, 79 P. 171.

13. Code Civ. Proc. § 389. Alpers v. Bliss, 145 Cal. 565, 79 P. 171. New parties cannot be brought in without an order of court. Id. Ex parte order by judge, made without notice to plaintiff, may be vacated by judge making it without notice [Code Civ. Proc. § 937]. Id. In an action to determine water rights, where each defendant answered, setting up his rights and praying to have them adjudicated, a determination of their relative rights was within the issues, though such question was not raised by cross complaints. Miller v. Thompson, 139 Cal. 643, 73 P. 583.

14. Cannot bring in irrelevant controversies, except for purpose of making determination of the one before the court complete and without prejudice to the rights of others. Alpers v. Bliss, 145 Cal. 565, 79 P. 171.

15. Suit to quiet title. Relender v. Riggs [Colo. App.] 79 P. 328.

16. A claim for unliquidated damages arising out of breach of covenant by lessor not proper matter for either. Hunter v. Porter [Idaho] 77 P. 434.

17. Castleman v. Castleman [Mo.] 83 S. W. 757.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1213. In equity, see Equity, § 6C, 3 Curr. L. 1225.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1213, 1216, 1221.

20. In Arizona all pleadings or proceedings may be amended at any stage of the action upon leave of court, and may be amended before trial without leave on service of a copy of such amended pleading or proceeding on the adverse party. Rev. St. 1901, par. 1288. Any amendment which court could allow during trial may be made as matter of right before trial. Perrin v. Mallory Commission Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 476. A specification in an action of assumpsit may

In Missouri when three successive pleadings have been adjudged bad on demurrer, or the whole or some part thereof stricken out on motion, no further pleading may be filed, but judgment will be entered against the party in default and he will be required to pay treble costs.[22] The act does not deprive a party of a right to plead further because his petition has twice been adjudged insufficient on motion to strike out and once on motion to make more definite and certain.[23]

Amendments after answer must generally be by leave of court,[24] but formal leave is not necessary where they are filed in open court during the progress of the trial and are recognized by the court and embodied in its instructions.[25]

The right to amend may be lost by laches.[26] A party will not be allowed to amend for the purpose of setting forth facts of which he had full knowledge at the time of interposing the original, in the absence of a satisfactory excuse for his failure to plead them originally.[27]

If one count of a complaint is sufficient to support an amendment, it is immaterial in so far as a motion to strike it out is concerned, whether a second one is also sufficient.[28]

Amendments made at the trial need not be served on the opposite party.[29]

The refusal to compel a refiling of the complaint after amendment is not reversible error where defendant is permitted to demur to the amended pleading.[30] Refiling, after an amendment to make a pleading conform to the proof, is not necessary.[31]

The fact that a demurrer to a pleading is sustained does not prevent the al-be amended. Aseltine v. Perry, 75 Vt. 208, 54 A. 190.

21. The defendant may at any time before trial and as of right amend his answer by inserting a new defense. General demurrer amended so as to allege matters in bar. Demurrer an answer. Perrin v. Mallory Commission Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 476. In New Mexico any pleading may be once amended as of course, without costs and without prejudice to proceedings already had, at any time within twenty days after it is served, or at any time before the time for answering expires [Comp. Laws 1897, § 2685, subsec. 81]. Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806. In New York within twenty days after an answer is served or at any time before the period for answering has expired, a pleading may be once amended as of course, without costs and without prejudice to the proceedings already had, unless it appears that such amendment is made for the purpose of delay, and that the opposite party will thereby lose the benefit of the term for which the case is or may be noticed. Code Civ. Proc. § 542. Amended answer held not interposed in bad faith. Muglia v. Erie R. Co., 97 App. Div. 532, 90 N. Y. S. 216. Plaintiff may amend as a matter of right, and defendant may ask a continuance if aggrieved [Rev. St. 1899, § 688]. Grymes v. Liebke Hardwood Mill. & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 946.

22. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 621-623. Roth Tool Co. v. Champ Spring Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 183. See 2 Curr. L. 1187, n. 65.

23. Act is penal and will be strictly construed. Roth Tool Co. v. Champ Spring Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 183.

24. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 397. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985; May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001.

25. Action for breach of contract. Berkey v. Lefebure & Sons [Iowa] 99 N. W. 710.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1217, n. 10-12. Delay of two years after plaintiff's attention was directed to defect by demurrer and answer, in absence of excuse. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226. Motion to amend answer in action for personal injuries denied. Kane v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 351. The court has a right to allow amendments at the trial, though two years have elapsed since the commencement of the action, where both parties are equally responsible for the delay. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61. Except under extraordinary circumstances, an amendment permitting defendants to deny what has been previously admitted will be denied on the ground of laches, when offered after trial and reversal and when the case has been placed on the day calendar for a second trial. Delay must be excused. Treadwell v. Clark, 45 Misc. 268, 92 N. Y. S. 166.

27. Pratt, Hurst & Co. v. Tailer, 90 N. Y. S. 1023.

28. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777.

29. Miller v. Georgia R. Bank, 120 Ga. 17, 47 S. E. 525. Where a demurrer is filed to a suit on an account on the ground that no sufficient bill of particulars is attached, and plaintiff is given leave to amend, the action will not be dismissed for failure to serve a copy of the amendment on defendant. Norman v. Great Western Tailoring Co., 121 Ga. 813, 49 S. E. 782.

30. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985.

31. Stewart v. Knight & Jillson Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 182.

lowance of an amendment.[32] Where an amendment is permitted pending the hearing of a demurrer, the opposite party should be allowed to plead or demur to the amended declaration.[33] It is error to apply a demurrer on file to the amended declaration without the consent of the party filing it.[34] Demurrer to answers may be amended after the filing of amended answers.[35]

In New York an amendment introducing a new cause of action or defense can only be allowed at special term.[36] In Florida leave to amend may be granted during a term of court without special notice to the opposite party of the application therefor, even though the case has been submitted upon demurrer by brief at such term.[37]

On motion to amend pleadings, the moving affidavit must be made by the party and not by his attorney.[38] Where plaintiff knows or ought to know the purpose of his original complaint when he serves notice of motion to amend, but gives no reason in his papers why he wishes to amend, and in a subsequent affidavit gives no excuse for failing to do so, the affidavit cannot properly be read on the motion.[39]

Amendments should be actually incorporated into the pleading.[40] The practice of amending by interlineation or erasure should not be favored.[41]

Matter of amendment. Discretion of court.[42]—As a general rule, the court may, at any time before final judgment, in furtherance of justice and on such terms as may be proper, allow the amendment of any pleading by correcting mistakes,[43] adding or striking out the name of any party,[44] or inserting other allega-

32. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987. On sustaining a demurrer to a petition for failure to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, plaintiff should be given leave to amend. Goff v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2176, 80 S. W. 219. After a special demurrer is sustained, the declaration may be amended upon terms, if amendable. Under Me. Rev. St. 1903, c. 84, § 10. Amendments to declaration containing three counts, one in assumpsit, one in debt on judgment, and one in assumpsit on note, held properly allowed. Hudson v. McNear [Me.] 59 A. 546. In Indiana if a demurrer is sustained or overruled, the party affected thereby may plead over or amend upon such terms as the court may direct, on payment of the costs occasioned by the demurrer. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 345. Does not apply to pleadings stricken out on motion. Guthrie v. Howland [Ind.] 73 N. E. 259.

33. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Redding [Fla.] 37 So. 62.

34. Where defendant knew at time of filing pleas that court had given it benefit of demurrer to same extent as though it had been filed to amended declaration, and did not offer to file amendment, error in requiring it "to plead over" held harmless. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Redding [Fla.] 37 So. 62.

35. Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & W. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 742.

36. In action on note held error to permit defendant, after jury had been impaneled, to amend answer so as to allege new defense of usury. Robinson v. Lampel, 97 App. Div. 198, 89 N. Y. S. 853. Where plaintiff refuses to withdraw a juror and apply at special term for leave to amend, he cannot complain, after dismissal of the complaint, of the court's refusal to allow the amendment. Kuntz v. Schnugg, 90 N. Y. S. 933.

37. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Redding [Fla.] 37 So. 62.

38. Party's knowledge and not attorney's is material. Treadwell v. Clark, 45 Misc. 268, 92 N. Y. S. 166.

39. Northrop v. Village of Sidney, 97 App. Div. 271, 90 N. Y. S. 23.

40. Failure to do so not ground for reversal where trial proceeded on merits as though this had been done and defendants had opportunity to introduce all their evidence. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007. Granting leave to attach exhibits does not amount to an amendment when not taken advantage of. Bill of lading, in action against carrier for damage to goods. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reyman [Ind.] 73 N. E. 587.

41. Western Travelers' Acc. Ass'n v. Tomson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 341.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1214, 1217.

43. In Washington the court may in furtherance of justice and on such terms as he may deem proper allow amendments correcting mistakes and may likewise, on affidavit showing good cause therefor and after notice to the adverse party, allow an amendment to any pleading on such terms as may be just [2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4953]. Cooke v. Cain, 35 Wash. 353, 77 P. 682. Amendment to answer after plaintiff had rested held proper where it did not change issues, and plaintiff did not ask continuance on ground of surprise or claim to be able to produce other proof than that which he introduced. Id. In Missouri, court may at any time before final judgment, in furtherance of justice and on proper terms, amend any pleading by adding or striking tions material to the case.[45] Mistakes in dates [46] or the names of the parties may ordinarily be cured by amendment;[47] but one party plaintiff or defendant cannot be out the name of any party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party, or in any other respect, or by inserting material allegations, or when the nature of the claim or defense is not substantially changed thereby, by conforming the pleadings to the facts proved [Rev. St. 1899, § 657]. United States Water & Steam Supply Co. v. Dreyfus, 104 Mo. App. 434, 79 S. W. 184; Grymes v. Liebke Hardwood Mill. & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 946. Amendment entitling plaintiff "a corporation," properly allowed on appeal from justice court. United States Water & Steam Supply Co. v. Dreyfus, 104 Mo. App. 434, 79 S. W. 184. In Michigan the court may amend any pleading in form or substance for the furtherance of justice at any time before judgment. Comp. Laws, § 10,268. Amendment to complaint in action for price of stock held not to state new cause of action. Cleveland v. Rothschild [Mich.] 101 N. W. 62. In New York the court may upon the trial, or at any other stage of the action, before or after judgment, in furtherance of justice, and on such terms as it deems just, amend any process, pleading or other proceeding by adding or striking out the name of a person as a party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party, or a mistake in any other respect, or by inserting an allegation material to the case [Code Civ. Proc. § 723]. Schun v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 App. Div. 560, 81 N. Y. S. 859. This statute may be invoked to enable plaintiff to bring in additional joint tort feasors. In action against city and one railroad company for injuries caused by defect in street at crossing of two railroads, where negligence on part of city and both railroad companies is claimed, court may order other railroad to be made party defendant. Id. The power extends to the granting of an amendment after a judgment absolute on stipulation. Plaintiff allowed to amend before assessment of damages pursuant to a judgment absolute entered by court of appeals. On affirming judgment granting plaintiff new trial in action for personal injuries, on stipulating that all proceedings subsequent to service of original complaint be set aside, and on payment of costs. Wood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 788. Under the New York municipal court act, the court must allow a pleading to be amended at any time, if substantial justice will be promoted thereby [Laws 1902, p. 1542, c. 580, § 166]. Bunke v. New York Tel. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 390. Held that oral pleadings in municipal court were amended so as to set up statute of limitations. Meehan v. Figiuolo, 88 N. Y. S. 920.

44. In Washington the court may, in furtherance of justice and on such terms as may be proper, amend any pleadings or proceedings by adding or striking out the name of any party [Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4953]. Davis v. Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 784. Allowing amendment, in action by married woman for personal injuries, joining husband, who was a necessary party, held proper, no surprise being claimed or prejudice shown. Id. By statute in Indiana the court is given discretionary power to direct the name of any party to be added or struck out of a pleading, to direct a mistake in name, description, or legal effect to be corrected, and may direct any material allegation to be inserted or struck out or modified to conform the pleadings to the facts proven, when the amendment does not substantially change the claim or defense. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 399. The act does not authorize the substitution of a new plaintiff for the original one after verdict. Substitution of administrator of decedent's estate in place of next friend of his infant son, in action for wrongful death. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Gillard [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 58.

45. Amendment to complaint in action for personal injuries, alleging that acts were done willfully and maliciously, properly allowed [S. C. Code Civ. Proc. § 194]. Morrow v. Gaffney Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 573. The proposed amendment should be material to the case which has been defectively stated. Sutton v. Catawba Power Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 863. Amendment to complaint in action for damages resulting from construction of dam properly allowed after verdict and new trial ordered. Id. Insertion of words "negligently and carelessly," in characterizing act of foreman, in petition in action for injuries to servant, held proper. Carter v. Baldwin [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 204. In Oregon the court may, at any time before trial, in furtherance of justice and upon such terms as he may deem proper, allow any pleading to be amended by adding an allegation material to the cause [B. & C. Comp. § 102]. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 83 P. 94. In North Carolina the court may amend by inserting other allegations material to the case. Code, § 273. May insert allegation as to foreign law, giving right of action for wrongful death. Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co., 136 N. C. 89, 48 S. E. 642. Changing cause of action on contract to one in tort, arising out of same transaction. Reynolds v. Mt. Airy & E. R. Co., 136 N. C. 345, 48 S. E. 765. The district court of New Jersey has power to amend the state of demand by inserting therein that plaintiff sues as assignee, under P. L. 1898, p. 616, § 161. Cosgrove v. Metropolitan Const. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 82. Court may, in furtherance of justice, insert allegations. Code Civ. Proc. § 194. In action for wrongful death, amendment stating that plaintiff was sole heir at law of deceased properly allowed at opening of trial. Kitchen v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 554, 48 S. E. 4.

46. A mistake in alleging the date of the execution of an instrument may ordinarily be cured by amendment. Policy of insurance, which was subject-matter of controversy. Quillan v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801. Allowing amendment correcting averment as to year in which cotton was raised held proper. Karter v. Fields, 140 Ala. 352, 37 So. 204.

47. Allowing an amendment changing one letter in plaintiff's surname is proper. Mitterwallner v. Supreme Lodge of Knights & Ladies of Golden Star, 90 N. Y. S. 1076.

thereby substituted for another.[48] There is a conflict of authority as to whether an amendment may be allowed so as to charge one in his individual instead of his representative capacity, or vice versa.[49] Allegations may be made more full and precise,[50] and inconsistent allegations may be eliminated by amendment,[51] and the venue may be inserted when the opposite party is not prejudiced thereby.[52] Failure to verify a plea to a verified petition may be cured by amendment.[53]

Defendant ordinarily has a right to rely on the allegations of the complaint as to the amount of plaintiff's actual damage,[54] and if plaintiff wishes to amend in this particular by increasing his demand, he should do so before the case is submitted for decision, or at least before decision.[55] A complaint in an action to recover damages for breach of a contract may be amended so as to include those accruing between the commencement of the action and the trial,[56] and also at the close of the trial so as to increase the amount of damages claimed.[57]

The court is justified in refusing to allow an amendment which can be of no substantial benefit to the party seeking it and will operate to delay trial.[58] One is not aggrieved by an amendment to a count which does not change its form,[59] and the denial of a motion to allow an amendment to the answer to traverse allegations of an amended complaint is not prejudicial where defendant is afterwards permitted to file an amended answer denying all material allegations of the amended complaint.[60]

The allowance of amendments at any stage of the proceedings is largely in the sound judicial discretion of the trial court, and his ruling thereon will only be reversed in case such discretion is abused;[61] but they should be liberally allowed

48. An amendment from "railroad" to "railway" in the name of the corporation declared against and amendment of the return on the summons to correspond is not permissible in the absence of proof that the "railway" company was actually served. Jordan v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 105 Mo. App. 446, 79 S. W. 1155. Where action was commenced against the "Voigt Brewing Company, Limited," and there was no such copartnership, an amendment substituting E. W. V. doing business as such company properly disallowed. Voigt Brewing Co. v. Pacifico [Mich.] 102 N. W. 739. A new party plaintiff cannot be substituted by amendment. Where action is brought in name of "F. H., statutory guardian of R. H., suing for the use and benefit of said R. H.," the petition may be amended so as to make R. H. party plaintiff, suing by F. H. as his statutory guardian. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Head [Ky.] 84 S. W. 751.

49. Will not be allowed in Georgia. Moore v. Smith, 121 Ga. 479, 49 S. E. 601. In Maine cannot amend so as to make one suing in individual capacity a party plaintiff in representative capacity. Fleming v. Courtenay, 98 Me. 401, 57 A. 592. An amendment may be allowed to correct a mistake in the designation of a defendant so as to enforce a liability against him personally instead of in his representative capacity. Error to refuse to allow amendment to title of complaint so as to designate corporation itself as defendant instead of corporation as trustee (Boyd v. United States Mortg. & Trust Co., 84 App. Div. 466, 82 N. Y. S. 1001), even though it cuts off the defense of the statute of limitations (Id.).

50. Where the answer is not sufficiently full and precise, the defect may be remedied by amendment. Deaver v. Deaver [N. C.] 49 S. E. 113.

51. Complaint charging simple negligence properly amended by striking out subsequent allegation that injury was caused by defendant's willful, wanton and reckless act, since allegations were contradictory and inconsistent. Williams v. North Wisconsin Lumber Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 589.

52. Hastie v. Burrage [Kan.] 77 P. 268. An amendment is not necessary to correct a mistake in naming the venue in the complaint, where both parties recognize it to be such, and that it was not intended to change the place of trial. All subsequent proceedings in county named in summons. Bell v. Polymero, 90 N. Y. S. 923.

53. Rodgers v. Caldwell [Ga.] 50 S. E. 95.

54. Clark v. San Francisco & S. J. V. R. Co., 142 Cal. 614, 76 P. 507.

55. So as to give defendant notice. Clark v. San Francisco & S. J. V. R. Co., 142 Cal. 614, 76 P. 507.

56. Proper where defendant did not ask for continuance, and it appears that he was not prejudiced. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 95 App. Div. 360, 88 N. Y. S. 835.

57. Dunham v. Hastings Pavement Co., 95 App. Div. 360, 88 N. Y. S. 835.

58. Amendment offered to avoid submission to jurisdiction of court properly disallowed since question of lack of jurisdiction could be raised at any time. Le Brantz v. Campbell, 89 App. Div. 583, 85 N. Y. S. 654.

59. Hudson v. McNear [Me.] 59 A. 546.

60. Frey v. Vignier, 145 Cal. 251, 78 P. 733.

61. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614. Idaho Rev. St. 1887, §§ 4229, in furtherance of justice.[62] Amendments to answers are especially favored, and greater liberality will be exercised in allowing them than in allowing amendments 4231. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226. U. S. Rev. St. § 954 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 696). Rucker v. Bolles [C. C. A.] 133 F. 858; Kleimenhagen v. Dixon [Wis.] 100 N. W. 826; Kinney v. Craig [Va.] 48 S. E. 864. Of complaint in action to enjoin obstruction of stream. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461. Will not be disturbed unless it appears that adverse party has been prejudiced or surprised, and makes timely objection on such grounds. Cooke v. Cain, 35 Wash. 353, 77 P. 682; Kennett v. Van Tassell [Kan.] 79 P. 665; Clerks' Benev. Union v. Knights of Columbus [S. C.] 50 S. E. 206; Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987. Of a bill of particulars. City of Battle Creek v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1005. At trial. Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hengst [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 832. Not reviewable unless gross abuse. Dunn v. Mayo Mills [C. C. A.] 134 F. 804. One is not entitled, as a matter of right, to amend his pleadings during the trial of a case. Goodale v. Rohan [Conn.] 58 A. 4. B. & C. Comp. Or. § 102. In action for breach of agreement to pay commission for sale of property, by inserting name of one appearing to have some interest therein, where title was not in dispute or made an issue. Good v. Smith, 44 Or. 578, 76 P. 354.

No abuse of discretion to refuse to permit amendment setting up new defense and radically changing issues, not offered until after plaintiff had rested and defendant had occupied two days in introducing evidence. Alaska Commercial Co. v. Williams [C. C. A.] 128 F. 362. Where several depositors of insolvent national bank filed bill against directors for breach of implied contract to see that assets were used according to law, held that they were entitled to amend by adding allegation as to when their deposits were made. Boyd v. Schneider [C. C. A.] 131 F. 223. In partition proceedings, amendment to complaint so as to include lands omitted held not to change cause of action, and to be discretionary. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712. Where plaintiff, after demurrers to merits have been sustained, files without motion for leave, agreement of parties, or offer to pay costs, amendment containing more specific prayer for relief but not avoiding substantial grounds on which demurrer was sustained, its disallowance is not ground for reversal. Patterson v. Farmington St. R. Co., 76 Conn. 628, 57 A. 853. By refusal to allow amendment of answer to show payment of note, in absence of statement that defendant desired to show other payments than those indorsed on note, and credited in bill of particulars. Goodale v. Rohan [Conn.] 58 A. 4. In refusing to allow amendments, or in refusing to allow defendant to file cross complaint, where motion was not made until after case had been tried, and new trial would have been necessary, taking into consideration all the circumstances. Kindall v. Lincoln Hardware & Implement Co. [Idaho] 76 P. 992. In action to restrain removal of fixtures by tenant, in striking out that portion of amended answer demanding affirmative relief, and allowing defensive matter therein to stand. Daly v. Simonson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 780. In suit by subcontractor to enforce mechanic's lien in which he alleged performance of contract and waiver of delay by contractor, and in which principal contractor answered denying waiver and alleging damages resulting from delay which were recoverable against him by the owner, and praying that owner be required to pay him the balance of the contract price after paying the subcontractor's claim, held that such principal contractor was properly refused permission to amend by omitting prayer for personal judgment against owner because of other matters of difference between them not ready for trial. Kilby Mfg. Co. v. Menominee Circuit Judge [Mich.] 101 N. W. 522. Amendment entitling plaintiff, a "corporation," in conformity to undisputed facts, properly allowed on appeal from justice court. United States Water & Steam Supply Co. v. Dreyfus, 104 Mo. App. 434, 79 S. W. 184. Amendment to complaint in action on contract so as to allege part performance and waiver instead of complete performance, offered when plaintiffs offered their proofs before referee, held properly allowed, there being no claim of surprise. Graves Elevator Co. v. Parker Co., 92 App. Div. 456, 87 N. Y. S. 156. In allowing filing of third amended answer alleging want of authority of general manager of corporation to execute certain notes. Baines v. Coos Bay, etc., Nav. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 400. Refusal to allow amendment of answer on trial so as to set up limitations. De Hihns v. Free [S. C.] 49 S. E. 841. In allowing amendment changing cause of action from quantum meruit to express contract, where court stated that it would be allowed unless defendants showed that they would be prejudiced and record discloses no attempt to make such showing. Cummings v. Weir [Wash.] 79 P. 487. Where answer had been three times amended and counterclaims had been held on appeal to state no cause of action, to refuse to allow amendment, offered 9 months after order of supreme court, injecting new fact which defendant must have known after entry of order affirmed. O'Brien Lumber Co. v. Wilkinson [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1050.

62. Kindall v. Lincoln Hardware & Implement Co. [Idaho] 76 P. 992. Should be allowed at any time during the progress of the trial and before final judgment, if no injustice is done thereby. Error to refuse to allow amendment striking out second count, which showed on its face that court had no jurisdiction of subject-matter, since this was all that could in legal effect have been accomplished by proper plea in abatement and judgment thereon. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268; Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226; United States Water & Steam Supply Co. v. Dreyfus, 104 Mo. App. 434, 79 S. W. 184; Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806; Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614; Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759. To enable parties to litigate all questions arising out of subject of controversy.

to complaints.[63] Every application for leave to amend must be determined upon the particular facts and circumstances upon which it is made.[64]

Changing cause of action.[65]—At common law the court had no power to allow amendments introducing new and different causes of action, or setting up new defenses founded upon transactions entirely different from those stated in the plea,[66] and this rule is still generally in force in so far as it applies to amendments at the trial,[67] or, in some states, after the filing of the pleading.[68] In some states, how-

Kleimenhagen v. Dixon [Wis.] 100 N. W. 826. Statutes allowing amendments are remedial in character, and are to be liberally construed and applied in favor of the privilege. Perrin v. Mallory Commission Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 476; Cooke v. Cain, 35 Wash. 353, 77 P. 682.

63. Since plaintiff may dismiss his action and bring new one, while defendant must present all his defenses for his own protection. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614; Perrin v. Mallory Commission Co. [Ariz.] 76 P. 476.

64. Kleimenhagen v. Dixon [Wis.] 100 N. W. 826.

65. See 2 Curr. L. 1218, n. 16 et seq.

66. Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806.

67. Babb v. Oxford Paper Co. [Me.] 59 A. 290; Grymes v. Liebke Hardwood Mill. & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 946; Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806; Kuntz v. Schnugg, 90 N. Y. S. 933; Sutton v. Catawba Power Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 863. In Georgia all parties may, at any stage of the cause and as a matter of right, amend their pleadings in all respects, whether in matter of form or of substance, provided there is enough to amend by [Civ. Code 1895, § 5097] (Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162; City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318). But no amendment adding a new and distinct cause of action or new and distinct parties may be allowed unless distinctly provided for by law [Civ. Code 1895, § 5099] (City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318). Held that there was enough in the declaration to amend by. City of Rome v. Sudduth, 121 Ga. 420, 49 S. E. 300. A defendant who has filed his plea may, after the expiration of the time within which he is allowed to plead, set up by amendment any new defense without making an affidavit that its omission from his original answer was not intended for the purpose of delay, if in the discretion of the trial judge, the circumstances of the case or the ends of justice require the amendment [Ga. Acts 1897, p. 35]. McCall v. Wilkes, 121 Ga. 722, 49 S. E. 722. An amendment setting up new and distinct issues is not allowable after the filing of an auditor's report. Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162. In Louisiana can be allowed only when they do not alter the substance of the demand by making it different from the one originally brought. Code Prac. art. 419. Supplemental petition cannot be allowed at close of evidence, in suit to set aside judgment for fraud, where parties for whose benefit suit is instituted are different. Relief demanded thereby is inconsistent with that originally asked for, and evidence needed to protect defendant is different. Succession of Dauphin, 112 La. 103, 36 So. 287.

Amendment held not to change cause of action: Where complaint alleged that defendant wrongfully and unlawfully changed grade of street and occupied it with tracks, amendment made during trial, striking out words "wrongfully and unlawfully," and demand for injunction. Error to strike it out. St. Clair v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 142 Cal. 647, 76 P. 485. Such words are mere epithets, and presence does not improve, or absence impair, complaint. Id. In action on contract. Kitchens v. Usry, 121 Ga. 294, 48 S. E. 945. Changing the form of an action for the recovery of money obtained by fraud from trespass to assumpsit. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001. In action of ejectment, description of property held sufficiently definite to amend by, and amendment more particularly describing it properly allowed. Luquire v. Lee, 121 Ga. 624, 49 S. E. 834. Correcting description of property in complaint in action of ejectment. Kennett v. Van Tassell [Kan.] 79 P. 665. Amended petition, in proceeding for assignment of dower and establishment of right of ingress and egress, setting up right to passway. Harris v. Langford, 26 Ky. L. R. 1096, 83 S. W. 566. Where petition to set aside deed alleged that it was procured by fraud of grantee, amendment alleging that it was executed under mutual mistake. Castleman v. Castleman [Mo.] 83 S. W. 757. Petition in action for attorney's fees. Harrison v. Murphy, 106 Mo. App. 465, 80 S. W. 724. In action for injuries resulting from fall from unprotected bridge, held that it could not be held as matter of law that plaintiff was not entitled to amend so as to allege fall from embankment over culvert. Northrop v. Sidney, 97 App. Div. 271, 90 N. Y. S. 23. Where, in action for rent, allegations of petition were sufficiently general to admit proof that defendant had gone into possession either with or without the owner's consent, and had or had not agreed to pay the reasonable rental value, amended petition declaring on either express or implied promise to pay rent would not set up different cause of action. Schmidt v. Brittain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 677. Fact that amended petition omitted count on note and prayed for larger sum did not create new cause of action. Id. In action for breach of contract, where answer set up release or rescission, amendment setting out copy of release held germane and properly allowed. Conant v. Jones, 120 Ga. 568, 48 S. E. 234.

Amendment held to change cause of action: Amendment declaring an account stated immediately between parties is departure from original cause based on account claimed by plaintiff as assignee, and is properly stricken. Ivy Coal & Coke Co. v. Long, 139 Ala. 535, 36 So. 722. Where, on foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, an execution is issued against the property, one interposing a claim ever, the allowance of such amendments is discretionary,[60] and in others a cause of action may be substituted for another when the two could have been joined originally.[70] The rule does not ordinarily apply to amendments made before trial.[71]

cannot, on a trial thereof, amend the same by alleging that the mortgagor is not indebted to the mortgagee. Ford v. Fargason, 120 Ga. 708, 48 S. E. 180. In suit for breach of lease, consisting in dispossessing plaintiff before its expiration, amendment alleging that weather was cold and plaintiff's wife was made sick by exposure. Id. Petition on quantum meruit against father's estate for services to child cannot be amended by seeking to recover on express contract made with widow after father's death. Moore v. Smith, 121 Ga. 479, 49 S. E. 601. In action for injuries to servant, amendment alleging defect in derrick. Moyer v. Ramsay-Brisbane Stone Co., 119 Ga. 734, 46 S. E. 844. An amendment changing the action from one of tort to one of contract should not be allowed. Amendment to declaration sounding in tort, seeking to recover for breach of defendant's duty as common carrier to furnish suitable car for transportation of live stock, so as to set up special contract for equipment of car, properly disallowed. Gilleland v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 119 Ga. 789, 47 S. E. 336. Petition in action by going partnership for damages for conversion of its property cannot be so amended as to wholly abandon such cause of action and to state a cause in favor of a member of the dissolved partnership for an accounting of the partnership business between such member and such defendant. Plaintiff's right also barred by limitations. Thompson v. Beeler [Kan.] 77 P. 100. No abuse of discretion in refusing to allow amendment during trial of action to restrain mining of coal and for accounting. Barrett v. Kansas & T. Coal Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 150. In action to enforce lien for purchase price of mill, held no abuse of discretion, after issues had been made up, to refuse to allow filing of amended answer setting up fraudulent representations as to lease of certain water power, and as to ownership of land, which facts would have introduced new issue and must have been known to defendant when original answer was filed. Newton v. Levy, 26 Ky. L. R. 476, 82 S. W. 259. Amendment in action to recover debt, commenced by capias, properly disallowed. Musselman Grocer Co. v. Casler [Mich.] 100 N. W. 997.

Note: The rule generally laid down to the effect that no amendments which change or alter the cause of action contained in the original pleading are allowed has in legal actions been maintained by an overwhelming weight of judicial authority and must be considered as the settled doctrine on the subject. Doyle v. Pelton [Mich.] 96 N. W. 483; Proctor v. Southern R. Co., 64 S. C. 491; Westover & Co. v. Van Dorn Iron Works Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 589; Ex parte Mansfield, 11 App. D. C. 558; Gilleland v. L. & N. R. Co., 119 Ga. 789. Various questions present themselves, among the most important of which are: What is the cause of action sued upon? Does the amendment merely amplify the statement of facts already made (Woodward v. Miller, 119 Ga. 618, 622, 100 Am. St. Rep. 188), state it in different form, still relying on the original cause of action (Robertson v. Springfield & S. R. Co., 21 Mo. App. 633), or does it seek to introduce some material allegations which create a cause of action where none existed before (Ex parte Mansfield, 11 App. D. C. 558), or does it seek to change the facts so as to permit the plaintiff to recover on a matter not anticipated by the defendant and therefore to his prejudice (Bermel v. Harnischfeger, 89 N. Y. S. 1029)?

Various tests have been resorted to to determine the question: (1) Would a recovery under the original complaint have barred any further recovery under the proposed amended complaint? Coyle v. Davidson, 86 N. Y. S. 1089; Davis v. N. Y. T. T. Co., 110 N. Y. 646. (2) Would the same evidence have been required to support and would the same judgment have been rendered in the one case as in the other? Grigsby v. Barton Co., 169 Mo. 221, 225; Boeker v. Crescent Belting & Packing Co., 101 Mo. App. 429. (3) Does the amended declaration set out a new act or thing as the cause of action, or does it only state in a different form the original act or thing as the cause? Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. People, 106 Ill. App. 516, afd. 70 N. E. 643.—3 Mich. L. R. 228.

68. City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318.

69. Allowing amendment setting up new and distinct issue after introduction of evidence matter of discretion, and refusal not ground for reversal. Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808. In New York municipal court new cause of action or defense may be set up. Proper to allow oral pleadings, in action for use and occupation of roof of plaintiff's house for purpose of stringing wires, to be amended so as to base claim on trespass. Bunke v. New York Tel. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 390.

70. May not substitute for a cause of action another which could not have been originally joined with it. By substituting cause in contract for one in tort. Crawford v. Alexander [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 707. A complaint stating a cause of action on contract may be amended so as to declare on tort where the two causes could have been joined. Where both grow out of the same transaction. Action for breach of contract in regard to construction of railway on plaintiff's land. Reynolds v. Mt. Airy & E. R. Co., 136 N. C. 345, 48 S. E. 765. Plaintiff cannot amend by setting up a new and distinct cause of action not germane to the first. Id. Changing cause of action on contract to one in tort arising out of same transaction is merely different mode of stating same cause. Id.

71. Permitting a petition in a suit to quiet title to be amended before answer so as to change the action to one in ejectment is within the discretion of the court. Not error where no prejudice to defendant is shown. Curtis v. Schmehr [Kan.] 76 P. 434. Must not set up an entirely new and different cause of action, founded on facts wholly foreign to that attempted to be set up originally. Proper where transaction and par-

New causes of action or defenses which are barred by limitations cannot be set up.[72] Tests often applied are whether the same evidence will support, and the same measure of damages apply to, both pleadings.[73] The amendment is not objectionable where the pleading remains the same in substance, notwithstanding differences of specification,[74] nor where it merely corrects a defective statement of a good cause of action,[75] strikes out words inaccurately describing the transaction ties are same and relief only is different. Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806. Where after foreclosure of deed of trust grantor filed bill praying for redemption, amendment showing limitations and praying for cancellation of trustee's deed and quieting plaintiff's title should be allowed before answer. Id. Amendments substantially changing a cause of action may be allowed before, but not during or after, the trial. S. C. Code Proc. § 194, limiting right to amend, does not apply to amendments before trial, and tort action may be substituted for contract action at that time. Standard Sew. Mach. Co. v. Alexander, 68 S. C. 506, 47 S. E. 711. In South Dakota the court may, either before or after judgment, in furtherance of justice and on such terms as may be proper, amend any pleading by inserting other allegations material to the case, or, when the amendment does not change substantially the claim or defense by conforming the pleadings or proceedings to the proof [Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 150]. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614. The limitation as to not changing substantially the claim or defense applies only to amendments made after trial for the purpose of conforming the pleadings to the proof (Id.), and does not apply to amendments made before trial (Id.).

72. In action by administratrix for wrongful death of child, amendment striking out allegation that it was brought under certain section of the code, under which it could not be maintained, and thus leaving right of action under another section, held not to constitute a departure or add a new cause of action, and properly allowed. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson [Ala.] 37 So. 431. In action to enforce lien securing note, amendment by adding prayer seeking to foreclose lien on another tract of land held not to introduce new cause of action, but merely the addition of a prayer for additional relief which could have been granted without the amendment. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527. In action for personal injuries count held not to set up new cause, but to constitute restatement of one previously alleged. Town of Cicero v. Bartelme, 212 Ill. 256, 72 N. E. 437. In action against railroad company for personal injuries resulting from negligence, amendment changing place at which injuries took place does not state new cause of action, and is not amenable to plea of limitations. Chicago City R. Co. v. McMeen, 102 Ill. App. 318. Where petition in action for appointment of receiver to take charge of road transferred by turnpike company to county, for purpose of enforcing payment of company's bonds, alleged that plaintiff had lien on property, amendment alleging that transfer was without consideration and in fraud of creditors held to state new cause of action. Roush v. Vanceburg, etc., Turnpike Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 735. Amendment held not improper on ground that it introduced new cause of action which would otherwise have been barred by limitations. Cogswell v. Hall, 185 Mass. 455, 70 N. E. 461. Amendment of complaint in action for price of stock. Cleveland v. Rothschild [Mich.] 101 N. W. 62. In action for breach of contract to repair buildings, amendments to complaint by inserting words "for a valuable consideration" (Frey v. Vignier, 145 Cal. 251, 78 P. 733), and by striking out allegation that defendant "repaired said premises and property" except the kiln, held not to set up new causes of action (Id.). An amended petition which is merely a restatement of the gravamen of the charge in the original is not a departure, nor does it introduce a new subject of litigation, though original sounded in tort, and amendment avers contract liability only. Shoemaker v. Commercial Assur. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 335. Petition in nature of bill of review, by widow and heirs of decedent and one to whom it was alleged they had conveyed certain property of decedent by warranty deed, to set aside judgment against him under which land was sold, held properly amended so as to allege that conveyance was in trust for grantors. Ferguson v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1240. Petition in action under Indian depredation act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. at L. 851, c. 538; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 758), in which wrong is alleged to have been committed by particular tribe, cannot be amended after expiration of three years' limitation therein prescribed, so as to state different tribe as wrongdoer. United States v. Martinez, 25 S. Ct. 80.

73. If both of these fail, the new pleading is not an amendment. Haines v. Pearson [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 645. Where original petition alleges negligence in placing and maintaining sign without properly securing it, a second one alleging negligence in failing to remedy defect resulting from rusting of wires held amendment, and not statement of new cause of action. Id.

74. The test of whether an amendment sets up a new cause of action is whether the cause of action remains the same in substance, notwithstanding differences of specification. Where foundation of action in both pleadings is negligence in failure to keep sidewalks clean, differences of specifications of negligence immaterial. District of Columbia v. Frazer, 21 App. D. C. 154.

75. Thompson v. Hibbs [Or.] 76 P. 778. In action for personal injuries, amended petition held not to state new or different cause of action from that stated in original, but to be merely an amplification and more specific statement of general allegations of original. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1009. The declared on,[78] corrects mistakes,[77] changes the mode of proving damages,[78] or contains additional matter descriptive of the same wrong originally pleaded, without pleading any other or different wrong.[79] By statute in Illinois an adjudication of the court allowing an amendment is conclusive on the question as to whether it is the same action,[80] unless it is claimed that the amendment sets up a new cause of action barred by limitations.[81]

On amendment introducing a new cause of action, the opposite party is ordinarily entitled to a continuance.[82] But he is not entitled to a continuance in such case on the ground of surprise where he gave evidence on the issue and was notified long before the trial that he would be called upon to meet it,[83] nor can he claim error in the allowance of an amendment on the ground of surprise where he does not ask for an adjournment on that ground,[84] or refuses the court's offer of a continuance.[85]

To correct variance.[86]—Allowing amendments during the trial for the purpose of making the pleadings conform to the proof is generally held to be discrerounding out of a complaint to cure defects is not changing a cause of action, or adding a new cause. Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co., 136 N. C. 89, 48 S. E. 642. May amend by alleging foreign law giving right of action for negligently causing death. Id. The difference between a defective statement of a good cause of action and a statement of a defective cause of action is that the latter cannot be made good by adding other allegations. Id. Allowing amendment, not changing cause of action, for purpose of correcting inadvertence in copying unsigned paper into statement of claim instead of signed memorandum of contract. Dunn v. Mayo Mills [C. C. A.] 134 F. 804. Amendment supplying omitted allegation that conveyance was made for purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding complainants. Kinney v. Craig [Va.] 48 S. E. 864.

76. Word "guaranty." City of Albany v. Cameron & Barkley Co., 121 Ga. 794, 49 S. E. 798.

77. Where petition in action for damages for ejection from street car alleged that plaintiff had paid his fare, amendment alleging that he tendered transfer slip. Lexington R. Co. v. O'Brien [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1170. So as to include lands omitted in complaint in partition proceedings. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

78. Amendment alleging market price of yarn undelivered under contract instead of sale at that price. Dunn v. Mayo Mills [C. C. A.] 134 F. 804.

79. City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318. In an action ex delicto, a petition setting out certain acts of negligence to show a violation by defendant of plaintiff's right may be amended by setting out additional acts of negligence to show substantially the same violation of the same right. Injury from defective sidewalk. Id. In action on fire insurance policy, amendment alleging that goods were damaged by being prepared for removal from building properly allowed. Insurance Co. of North America v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972. Amendment in action by servant for personal injuries held properly allowed, it merely adding additional description of conditions making defendant's acts negligent. Babb v. Oxford Paper Co. [Me.] 59 A. 290. Setting up new ground of negligence. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Perry [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 62; Pratt, Hurst & Co. v. Tailer, 90 N. Y. S. 1023. In action against architects for negligence in supervising construction of building, amendment to permit proof of negligent placing of trimmer against side wall properly allowed. Straus v. Buchman, 96 App. Div. 270, 89 N. Y. S. 226.

80. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 110, § 23. Mackey v. Northern Mill. Co., 210 Ill. 115, 71 N. E. 448.

81. As where original declaration fails to state cause of action, and amended one is filed after running of limitations. Mackey v. Northern Mill. Co., 210 Ill. 115, 71 N. E. 448.

82. Immediate enforced continuance of the trial is reversible error. Application for postponement not essential where counsel is informed by court that he should have been prepared to meet issue. Action for personal injuries on dock. Oats v. New York Dock Co., 90 N. Y. S. 878.

83. Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505.

84. Straus v. Buchman, 96 App. Div. 270, 89 N. Y. S. 226. No error in permitting amendment of petition on eve of trial, where defendant did not ask for delay on account of it, and court did not deem it necessary to strike it for his own protection. Snyder v. Ward [Iowa] 100 N. W. 348.

85. In action by junior incumbrancer to redeem from senior mortgage, held proper to allow amendment of complaint to allege payment and demand its satisfaction of record, to conform to proof, where court's offer to grant continuance to defendant was refused. Conlon v. Minor, 94 App. Div. 458, 88 N. Y. S. 224. In suit for specific performance, amendment alleging tender of unpaid purchase price and demand for deed properly allowed pending defendant's motion for judgment on pleadings, where defendants declined offer of continuance if they would show prejudice. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007.

86. See 2 Curr. L. 1220, n. 23-25.

tionary when the claim or defense is not substantially changed thereby.[87] They are generally held proper where such proof was received without objection,[88] but not when it was seasonably objected to.[89] There is a conflict of authority as to whether such amendments should be allowed after verdict and judgment.[90]

87. A new cause of action cannot be introduced after submission of case. Where case was tried and submitted and correct judgment rendered on original theory, fact that such amendment was filed after submission was immaterial. Boardman v. Louis Drach Const. Co., 123 Iowa, 603, 99 N. W. 176. Amendment seeking to recover for use and occupation instead of under lease held to change cause of action. Id. A complaint setting up a cause of action for fraud cannot be amended so as to set up a cause based on mutual mistake. Connell v. El Paso Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 78 P. 677. There is no abuse of discretion in refusing to strike amendments to a petition, filed after the taking of testimony and while the case is under consideration for the purpose of making it conform to the proofs. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 502. Refusal to allow amendment of the declaration after plaintiff has rested and when court is about to direct verdict held not error. Prochaska v. Fox [Mich.] 100 N. W. 746. Allowed where there is a mere variance as distinguished from a failure of proof [Mo. Code, § 798]. Studenroth v. Hammond Packing Co., 106 Mo. App. 480, 81 S. W. 487. Where defendant does not show prejudice from variance. Carlisle v. Barnes, 92 N. Y. S. 924. Amendment after trial so as to state new and distinct cause of action different from that first stated and upon which case was tried held properly disallowed where complaint was amended three times during trial. Conrad v. Adler [N. D.] 100 N. W. 722. Not error to refuse leave when plaintiff's claim would thereby be substantially changed. Hazzard v. Wallace, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 653. Should be allowed where it does not work a surprise to opposing counsel. Striking out word "flying" in allegation that deceased was killed while making flying switch. Adams v. South Carolina & G. Extension R. Co., 68 S. C. 403, 47 S. E. 693. A party not asking for a continuance cannot claim surprise, on appeal. Helbig v. Gray Harbor Elec. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 612.

Amendments properly allowed: In action on contract to purchase property at judicial sale, to raise question of validity of sale. Fairy v. Kennedy, 68 S. C. 250, 47 S. E. 138. In action against village for personal injuries, so as to make complaint conform to proof in regard to date of injury, where no surprise was claimed. Ladrick v. Village of Green Island, 92 N. Y. S. 622. Changing allegation that defendant entered into contract through its agent to allegation that it made contract itself, where no substantial prejudice is shown. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759. In action to set aside proceedings of village board for laying of drain, amendment alleging that meetings were irregularly called. Kleimenhagen v. Dixon [Wis.] 100 N. W. 826.

88. Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505. N. Dak. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 150. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614. No abuse of discretion in allowing amendment to complaint, in action for wrongful death, after argument begun, where evidence fully authorized averment [Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 399]. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 162 Ind. 646, 70 N. E. 985. May be allowed after auditor's report where it does not set up a new and distinct issue. Where other party wishes to introduce further evidence, he should move to recommit case to auditor. Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162. Leave to amend a complaint upon trial as to material matters in accordance with the evidence admitted without objection should be granted as a matter of course, especially where such matters appear to be undisputed and undisputable. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

89. Reilly v. Vought, 87 N. Y. S. 492. When such evidence has been received over objection and the amendment is also objected to. Changing cause from one to set aside fraudulent conveyances to one upon contract, or to enforce vendor's lien. Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66. Error in admitting evidence inadmissible under the pleadings and seasonably objected to on that ground cannot be cured by subsequent amendment of the pleadings. Does not apply when no such objection. Motion to strike out does not take its place. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1216, 1217, n. 5-9.

California: Even if the court has power to order an amendment after verdict so as to make the demand for damages conform thereto, he is not warranted in doing so where the evidence does not warrant a verdict for a larger amount than that originally claimed. Not where treble damages are demanded, and evidence shows defendant is only liable for actual damages, and verdict is greater than such damage. Clark v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 142 Cal. 614, 76 P. 507.

In Georgia will not be allowed after verdict and judgment. Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162. An amendment to a petition is not too late when offered before the case is submitted to the jury. City of Columbus v. Anglin, 120 Ga. 785, 48 S. E. 318. An auditor may allow amendments while the case is before him [Civ. Code 1895, § 4583]. Cureton v. Cureton, 120 Ga. 559, 48 S. E. 162.

Kansas: Amendment alleging mental unsoundness of grantor at time of executing certain deeds properly allowed on hearing of motion for new trial, under Kan. Code Civ. Proc. § 139 (Gen. St. 1901, § 4573). Howard v. Carter [Kan.] 80 P. 61.

In Minnesota will be allowed even after judgment, where it clearly appears that defendant was not misled or in any way prejudiced in maintaining his defense upon the merits [Minn. Gen. St. 1894, § 5262]. Briggs v. Rutherford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 954.

New Hampshire: Where one rescinds a contract of sale for false representations

On appeal.[91]—On appeal a party is confined to the issues raised by his pleadings in the court below, and cannot change them or introduce new issues by amendment.[92] An amendment will not be allowed in the supreme court making a radically different case from that presented in the lower court.[93]

After appeal.[94]—Pleadings may ordinarily be amended after reversal of a cause on appeal and remand to the court below.[95] Where a judgment overruling a demurrer to a declaration is reversed on appeal, the plaintiff may amend on return and sues in deceit to recover the purchase price, conceding that such is not the proper remedy, he may, after verdict for the damages claimed, amend by adding count for money had and received, and thereupon have judgment on the verdict. Course of trial and rule of damages the same. Fellows v. Judge, 72 N. H. 466, 57 A. 653.

Rhode Island: After verdict the declaration should be so amended as to conform to the evidence and the issues between the parties. Where, in action to recover land, declaration did not describe portion to which plaintiff was entitled. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Horgan [R. I.] 59 A. 310.

In South Carolina complaint stating cause of action may be amended after judgment. Kitchen v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 554, 48 S. E. 4.

Illinois: Amendment of declaration charging defendant with negligently erecting, permitting to remain and maintaining a column in an unsafe condition, by inserting word "placing," properly allowed after verdict. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark [Ill.] 73 N. E. 787.

NOTE. Amendment to cure defects for which motion in arrest of judgment has been made: "At common law the court had power to allow an amendment of the pleadings in any case until final judgment and after motion in arrest of judgment. Chaffee v. Rutland R. Co., 71 Vt. 384, 45 A. 750. In Georgia a motion in arrest of judgment can be sustained only for such defects appearing on the face of the pleadings as are not amendable. Merritt v. Bagwell, 70 Ga. 579. In Daley v. Atwood, 7 Cow. [N. Y.] 483, an amendment of plaintiff's oyer was granted after trial and verdict for him, though the defendant's attorney supposed the oyer to be correct until the trial, and relied on moving in arrest of judgment, of which privilege he was deprived by the amendment." Amendment may also be allowed to supply omitted averments, or to cure insufficient or erroneous allegations, or to strike out improper matter. See note 67 L. R. A. 179.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1217, n. 9.

92. From county to district court. Bankers' Union of the World v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013. Where, in county court, defendant pleaded account stated, could not amend on appeal to district court by including defense of accord and satisfaction. New ground of defense, and properly stricken. Id. In New York, when an action commenced before a justice of the peace is discontinued and recommenced in the county court, plaintiff must complain for the same cause of action only, and defendant must set up the same defense only [Code Civ. Proc. § 2957]. Moisen v. Burr, 92 N. Y. S. 435. No amendment may be made in the county court which changes the cause of action or adds a new one, or which materially changes the nature and scope of the defense, or sets up an independent and separate defense not made before the justice. Defendant setting up only facts showing that title to real estate is involved cannot amend so as to show counterclaim. Id. Upon removal of an action from the municipal court to the city court of New York, the pleadings remain the same unless amendment thereof be allowed. Cannot be amended except by permission, and then only to extent allowed in lower court. Vail v. Blumenthal, 89 N. Y. S. 287. The issue must be joined before removal, and may not be changed. Id. Where a case is removed after issue joined by answer, plaintiff cannot thereafter demur to new matter in such answer. Id.

93. First Nat. Bank v. Steel [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1215, n. 83.

95. As far as facts are concerned, case stands as though it had never been tried. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94. When a decree or judgment is reversed and remanded by the appellate court without specific directions, the lower court may permit amendments to the pleadings not inconsistent with the principles announced by the reviewing court, and not introducing grounds that did not exist at the hearing in the court below. Case stands as though no trial had been had. Dinsmoor v. Rowse, 211 Ill. 317, 71 N. E. 1003. Where the cause is remanded with directions to proceed in accordance with the views expressed, and it appears from the opinion that the grounds of reversal are such as may be obviated by subsequent amendments, it is the duty of the court to permit the case to be redocketed and permit amendments as though it were being heard for the first time. Id. Denial of application to amend plea, made after case had been heard in supreme court and remanded for new trial, not abuse of discretion. Central Sav. Bank v. O'Connor [Mich.] 102 N. W. 280. Denial not prejudicial where defendants were permitted on trial to make a full statement of all defenses claimed, and verdict was directed for plaintiff because defenses were not available on the merits. Id. On reversal of judgment for plaintiff in action on verbal contract to convey land to him in consideration of his making certain improvements, held that he should be allowed to amend petition to show how much land was to be conveyed. Robards v. Robards [Ky.] 85 S. W. 718. And that defendant should be allowed to set up counterclaim for money loaned. Id. When remanded generally, pleadings may be amended and new issues raised, but only such new issues may be raised as are presented by such amendments. Lusk v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 183, 71 N. E. 878.

of the remittitur to the lower court.[96] Where a judgment of the lower court sustaining a demurrer is affirmed, the rule is otherwise.[97]

Terms of amendment.[98]—The court may in his discretion impose such terms for allowing amendments as may be just, including the payment of costs,[99] but onerous conditions should not be imposed.[1]

Effect of amendment.[2]—Amendments ordinarily relate back to the beginning of the suit,[3] unless the original complaint fails to state a cause of action.[4]

96. City of Rome v. Sudduth, 121 Ga. 420, 49 S. E. 300; Ramey v. O'Byrne, 121 Ga. 516, 49 S. E. 595.

97. Nothing in lower court to amend. City of Rome v. Sudduth, 121 Ga. 420, 49 S. E. 300.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1215.

99. That the conditions stated at the beginning of the trial under which the amendment should be allowed had not arisen (Cogswell v. Hall, 185 Mass. 455, 70 N. E. 461), and the question whether plaintiff when he brought the action intended to include the subject of the amended count in his demand is within the discretion of the trial court. Amendment properly allowed. Id. On amendment of complaint so as to bring in new party, after reversal of judgment denying motion to dismiss because of defect of parties, where the court of appeals grants a new trial with costs to abide the event, held that requiring payment of $50 costs as condition of allowing amendment was proper. Steinbach v. Prudential Ins. Co., 92 App. Div. 440, 87 N. Y. S. 107. Held that plaintiff should be required to pay all costs of action as condition for service of amended complaint, except trial fee, payment of which was imposed on him as condition of allowing withdrawal of juror. Ross v. Bayer-Gardner-Himes Co., 92 App. Div. 616, 87 N. Y. S. 36. After a mistrial, amendments presenting new issues should be allowed only upon payment of costs already incurred. In action for libel allowing amendment to answer setting up justification, held not abuse of discretion. Bruns v. The Brooklyn Citizen, 90 N. Y. S. 701. Under New York Municipal Court Act, court may impose payment of costs as condition [Laws 1902, p. 1542, c. 580, § 166]. Klinker v. Guggenheimer, 92 N. Y. S. 797. Defendant should be required to pay costs on amending answer, where, after reversal of judgment on appeal, she was bound to be defeated and mulcted in costs as the record then stood. Id. Justice cannot impose greater sum than $10 costs as condition for allowing amendment [Id. § 335]. Toher v. Schaefer, 92 N. Y. S. 795. Order imposing greater sum not appealable, but remedy is by application to justice for reargument of motion as to terms of amendment. Id. On amendment of pleadings after an appeal and decision by appellate courts, the amending party should be required to pay all costs incurred by his adversary after the service of the original pleading. Wood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 788. It is not error to allow an amendment to the complaint after a reversal of a judgment in plaintiff's favor, without requiring as a condition the payment of costs incurred by defendant on the former trial and appeal. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94. A successful plaintiff should not be charged with the costs up to the filing of an amended petition which does not change the cause of action. Where original petition was in form of trespass to try title, amended one specifically pleading facts upon which he relied for recovery held not to set up new cause of action. Keas v. Gordy [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 385. The court may require the amending party to pay costs. Where it did not appear that, if amendment had been made before trial, case would not have been contested in same manner, it was not error to allow plaintiff to amend on payment of costs and to impose costs of trial on defendant on judgment being rendered against him. Kleimenhagen v. Dixon [Wis.] 100 N. W. 826.

1. In action on account stated, refusal to allow amendment to answer so as to plead payment and accord and satisfaction, save on condition that defendant withdraw all previous objections, held error. Shaw v. O'Meara, 88 N. Y. S. 152.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1222.

3. Changing form of action for money obtained by fraud from tort to assumpsit. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001. For the purpose of determining plaintiff's right of action, the complaint as amended is to receive the same consideration as if the matters alleged in the amendment had been included in the original complaint. White v. Stevenson, 144 Cal. 104, 77 P. 828. Amended pleading only speaks as of the time of the commencement of the action, and the rights of the parties are determined as of that time [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 544]. Le Boeuf v. Gray, 87 N. Y. S. 597; Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 93 App. Div. 263, 87 N. Y. S. 687. Where the court has acquired jurisdiction of the parties, an amendment to the petition will be construed as relating back to the original institution of the suit, and not as the institution of a new suit. Ferguson v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1240. Where petition in nature of bill of review, brought by widow and heirs of decedent and one to whom it was alleged they had conveyed a part of decedent's lands by warranty deed, to set aside judgment under which land was sold, was amended so as to allege that conveyance was in trust for grantors, held, as regards limitations, action should not be regarded as having been commenced as to widow and heirs at time of filing amendment. Id. Unless a new cause of action be introduced or a new party brought in. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708. Amended petition in suit on claim against estate of decedent held not to state new cause of action. Id.

4. An amended one filed after the running of the statute of limitations cannot relate back to the original summons. Mackey v. Northern Mill. Co., 210 Ill. 115, 71 N. E. 448.

An amended pleading supersedes all previous ones of the same class,[5] and must contain all averments necessary to the cause of action or defense relied on.[6] In determining what pleadings are superseded, their contents and not the name given them by the pleader controls.[7] The opposite party will not be held to have waived the right to object to a disregard of this rule where the amended pleading contains nothing to indicate an intention to rely on the former one.[8] An application to replead to an amended complaint is an election to abandon the original answer, though it is then on file.[9]

An order refusing leave to amend because of want of power is appealable.[10] The refusal of the court to permit the filing of an additional paragraph of the answer is not ground for a new trial, but can only be presented by an independent assignment of error on appeal.[11]

A material amendment to the petition opens the case, if in default, for answer by the defendant.[12]

Failure to amend upon order of court is ground for dismissal.[13]

§ 8. Supplemental pleadings.[14]—The plaintiff and defendant, respectively, may be allowed, on motion, to make a supplemental complaint, answer or reply, alleging facts material to the cause occurring after his former pleading,[15] and

5. Texas district and county court rules 14, 15 (20 S. W. xii, 84 Tex. 709, 710). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex.] 83 S. W. 15; Guthrie v. Howland [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 234. For all purposes of the record. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 32. Defendant cannot change its status by referring to it in the amended pleading, at least without plaintiff's consent. Original properly stricken, though amended one alleged that defendant realleged every allegation contained in certain paragraphs of the original. Id. Original need not be preserved in record made for appellate court. John Deere Plow Co. v. Jones, 68 Kan. 650, 76 P. 750. On appeal original cannot be tested by the ruling upon the demurrer thereto. Stewart v. Knight & Jillson Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 182. The sufficiency of instructions is to be determined by the amended and not the original declaration. Amended after verdict. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark [Ill.] 73 N. E. 787.

6. Answer containing denial of partnership superseded by amended one containing no such denial. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex.] 83 S. W. 15.

7. Pleading called "supplemental answer," which was direct and full reply to petition, held an amended answer, and superseded by subsequent amended answer. Dist. & Co. Court Rules Tex. Rules 6-8, 10, 15 (84 Tex. 709, 710, 20 S. W. 12). Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex.] 83 S. W. 15.

8. Plaintiff entitled to go to trial on assumption that no defense was relied on except those alleged in last amended answer. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex.] 83 S. W. 15.

9. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94.

10. Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co., 136 N. C. 89, 48 S. E. 642.

11. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finkelstein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814. Order granting defendant leave to amend is not appealable under New York municipal court act. Klinker v. Guggenheimer, 92 N. Y. S. 797.

12. Amendment of petition in action on fire insurance policy held material. Lippman v. Aetna Ins. Co., 120 Ga. 247, 47 S. E. 593. Allowing a material amendment to the petition at the trial term opens it to demurrer or to pleas setting up new and distinct defenses at that term [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 5068]. Quillan v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801. Only such amendments as make a particular defense available for the first time are material, within the meaning of this rule. Id. Amendment in action on fire insurance policy alleging that damage was caused by preparing goods for removal held not so material as to open default. Insurance Co. of North America v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972. Amendment of petition in action for injuries from negligent maintenance of telephone, made after default, held not to materially change cause of action, but merely to set forth jurisdictional facts, and hence not to open petition to demurrer or plea. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Parker, 119 Ga. 726, 47 S. E. 194.

13. Egan v. New York, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482.

14. In equity, see Equity, § 6C, 3 Curr. L. 1225.

15. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61.

In Georgia a defendant in any case may by special plea set up matter of defense which has arisen since the institution of the suit, or since his last plea. Cook v. Georgia Land Co., 120 Ga. 1068, 48 S. E. 378. In actions involving the title or right to possession of land, defendant may, by a special plea of puis darrein continuance, set up the fact that such title and right have become vested in him pending the action. Amendment to answer, alleging that defendant had acquired tax title, properly allowed. Id.

Iowa Code, § 3641. Little v. Pottawattamie Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 752. Where an action is prematurely brought and plaintiff thereafter performs the conditions precedent to his right to sue, he should be allowed to file an amendment or supplement to his petition reciting the facts, and to proceed either party may, by leave of court, set up by supplemental pleading the judgment or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction, rendered since the commencement of the action, determining the matters in controversy or any part thereof.[16] In some states the supplemental pleading may also include matters existing when the original plea was filed, but of which the party was then ignorant.[17] In others such matters may only be availed of by amendment.[18]

After an order of interpleader in an action at law plaintiff should apply for leave to file a supplemental complaint.[19]

Ordinarily a supplemental pleading cannot be served without leave of court.[20] Allowing such pleas is not wholly discretionary, and they should be permitted when substantial justice will thereby be promoted,[21] but they will not be allowed where the matters therein set out are not essential to a proper determination of the suit.[22]

The right to file a supplemental pleading may be barred by laches;[23] but mere delay in moving for leave to bring in a supplemental complaint has been held, not to preclude the court from granting the motion.[24] with his case upon payment of costs. For failure to present claim against county to board of supervisors. Id.

New York: The proper way to take advantage of facts constituting a new cause of action or defense, arising after action brought, is by application to the court for leave to serve a supplemental complaint or answer. Code Civ. Proc. § 544. Amended pleading only speaks as of date of commencement of action and rights of parties are determined as of that time. Le Boeuf v. Gray, 87 N. Y. S. 597; Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 93 App. Div. 263, 87 N. Y. S. 687. But where an amended complaint setting up such facts is served and answered and the issues thus raised are tried, they will be considered in determining the rights of the parties. Id.

South Dakota Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 154. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614.

Washington: In action for rescission of contract whereby plaintiff was to raise alfalfa on plaintiff's land, where complaint alleged breach by defendant, held proper to allow filing of supplemental complaint setting up acts of defendant since filing of original, done for purpose of driving plaintiff off the land. Hodges v. Price [Wash.] 80 P. 202. Where the contract sued on provides for payments in monthly instalments, a supplemental complaint may be filed to cover those accruing after the commencement of the action. Benefit certificate. Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601, 79 P. 209.

Wisconsin: New matters which, if known or in existence at the commencement of the action, might properly have been included in the original complaint, may be brought in by supplemental or amended complaint. True under old practice and under Code [Wis. Code, § 2687]. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

16. If set up by plaintiff, shall be without prejudice to any provisional remedies theretofore issued, or other proceedings had in said action on his behalf [S. C. Code Civ. Proc. § 198]. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61. In action to recover crops seized under lien warrant, supplemental answer alleging that first warrant had been set aside and another issued since first seizure, and crops had been again seized by defendant, who had made advances on lien which had not been paid, and that plaintiff was insolvent, held properly filed. Id.

17. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61. Iowa Code, § 3641. Little v. Pottawattamie County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 752. Wis. Code, § 2687. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. See, also, Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614.

18. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 154 should be construed in connection with Id. § 150, relating to amendments, and matters occurring before filing of original answer, but omitted by mistake, should be pleaded by way of amendment rather than by a supplemental answer. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614.

19. Under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 544. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963. Should contain substantially the allegations of the former complaint, and such further ones as may be necessary to show the facts preceding the order, including substitution of defendants and the discharge of the original defendant upon payment into court of the amount of the debt or the delivery of the property, and compliance with the terms of the order, and praying judgment for the amount deposited or the property specified in the complaint, and costs. Id. The substituted defendant should answer the supplemental complaint within the time prescribed by law for answering a complaint. Id.

20. Complaint. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963.

21. Little v. Pottawattamie County [Iowa] 101 N. W. 752.

22. Answer in controversy over real estate. Jones v. Jones, 90 N. Y. S. 1002.

23. Defendants held barred from serving supplemental answer by failure to appeal from order holding supplemental pleadings unnecessary to join administratrix, and by long delay in making application. Jones v. Jones, 90 N. Y. S. 1002.

24. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. A delay of two years after the commencement of the action does not bar the right to apply, on proper notice, for leave to file supplemental answers. Prop-

A party should not be forced to trial on the day a supplemental answer is filed.[25]

Where a new trial is granted on appeal, such pleadings as may be necessary to bring in other necessary parties and complete the issues may be filed.[26]

§ 9. Motions upon the pleadings.[27]—In some states motions to strike irrelevant or redundant matter, to make more definite and certain, and the like must be made before trial.[28] A motion to dismiss is equivalent to a general demurrer, and may be made at the trial term if the petition is fatally defective.[29]

A motion to make a complaint more definite and certain[30] or to expunge irrelevant matter should point out the objectionable matter with reasonable accuracy.[31] Where the record shows that a motion to make the complaint more specific was acted upon and an amended complaint was filed, but fails to show the filing of a motion to make the amended complaint more specific, the motion addressed to the original complaint presents no question for review.[32]

Notice of motion for judgment on the pleadings is required only when some special application therefor is to be made in advance of the trial.[33]

Until a motion to require verification is disposed of or verification made, the moving party cannot be in default of pleading to issue.[34]

An amended answer cannot be stricken out unless the case is properly on the calendar.[35]

§ 10. Right to object, and mode of asserting defenses and objections; whether by demurrer, motion, etc.[36] Right to object.—The general rules that objections can only be taken by the party aggrieved,[37] and that, in order to do so, he must, by proper procedure, have saved the right to rely thereon, are fully treated elsewhere.[38] An irregularity in the form of the action, which plaintiff, upon leave erly allowed in suit to recover crops seized under lien warrant. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61.

25. Sparks v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 61.

26. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1223. See, also, § 10, post.

28. In Georgia amendable defects can be taken advantage of only at the appearance term. Failure to verify plea to verified petition. Rodgers v. Caldwell [Ga.] 50 S. E. 95. In Missouri objections that the petition is not sufficiently definite cannot be made for first time at the trial. That injuries were not sufficiently described. Wilbur v. Southwest Mo. Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 671. In New York a motion to make more definite and certain must be made within twenty days from the service of the pleading [N. Y. gen. rules of practice, rule 22]. Borsuk v. Blauner, 93 App. Div. 306, 87 N. Y. S. 851. Under the rules of the circuit court of South Carolina, motions to strike irrelevant or redundant matter, and to correct pleadings as being indefinite and uncertain, must be noticed before answering or demurring, and within twenty days after service thereof. Lenhardt v. French, 68 S. C. 297, 47 S. E. 382. This rule does not apply where the irrelevant or redundant matter contains no statement of facts, but merely gives a reason for pleading certain defenses. In such case the motion may be made at the trial. Reasons for pleading limitations. Not too late when made after six terms and two mistrials. Id. A motion to make a complaint more definite and certain need not be heard before the expiration of the time to answer. Under S. C. Code Civ. Proc. § 181. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966. Whether pendency of motion extends time to answer, quaere. Id.

29. Minnesota Lumber Co. v. Hobbs [Ga.] 49 S. E. 783. A petition capable of withstanding a general demurrer should not be dismissed on motion made at the trial term. Id.

30. Complaint sufficient as against motion. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

31. Court not required to pick it out. Johnson v. Brice [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 791. Motion to expunge certain parts of petition will be overruled where it does not separate competent from incompetent parts. Id.

32. City of Vincennes v. Spees [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 531.

33. Notice required by N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 537, not necessary when it is made when case is regularly reached for trial. Dodge v. United States [C. C. A.] 131 F. 849.

34. In an action against purchaser from her husband. Eweil v. Tye, 25 Ky. L. R. 976, 76 S. W. 875.

35. Stipulation extending time to answer held not to authorize placing case on calendar before it was at issue. Muglia v. Erie R. Co., 97 App. Div. 532, 90 N. Y. S. 216.

36. See 2 Curr. L. 1225.

37. See Appeal and Review, § 3, 3 Curr. L. 172; Harmless and Prejudicial Error, § 1, 3 Curr. L. 1579.

38. See Saving Questions for Review, § 4, 2 Curr. L. 1598.

granted, has the right to correct as against defendant, cannot be taken advantage of by an intervening creditor or an interpleader whose rights have been acquired pendente lite.[39]

Mode of objection. Matters of substance.[40]—A general demurrer reaches only matters of substance.[41] It will not lie to a general denial.[42]

The grounds of demurrer vary in the different states.[43] Generally speaking, it will lie for failure to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action,[44] insufficiency of new matter in the answer to constitute a defense,[45] misjoinder of parties plaintiff,[46] defect of parties,[47] or improper joinder of causes of action, when appearing on the face of the complaint.[48]

39. Changing declaration in tort to one in assumpsit. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1225; also § 5, 2 Curr. L. 1206.

41. Gaskin v. Courson, 120 Ga. 1056, 48 S. E. 379. Defects in substance should be taken advantage of by demurrer where complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action in any form. Phillips v. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 605. A mere defective statement of a cause of action cannot be reached by general demurrer. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1077; Ball v. Neosho [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 777. A complaint is not subject to demurrer if it shows that plaintiff is entitled to any relief whatever, even though it may be different from that to which he supposes himself entitled. Not because allegations are appropriate to more than one cause of action. Welborn v. Dixon [S. C.] 49 S. E. 232. A demurrer is the proper remedy where a counterclaim for a breach of contract does not set out such contract. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987.

Defects not reached: A demurrer on the ground that it does not appear that defendant owes plaintiff the sum claimed for installing plumbing work, and that it does not appear by the terms of the contract that defendant owes plaintiff for the plumbing done under the contract, does not raise the question whether it appears from the complaint that it is subject to the objection that demand was for work under the contract other than for installing the plumbing in the building mentioned. Matthews v. Farrell, 140 Ala. 298, 37 So. 325. Complaint not open to such objection. Id. The absence of a prayer for judgment. Vanatta v. Waterhouse, 33 Ind. App. 516, 71 N. E. 159. A declaration, reciting that defendant was attached to answer, where such attachment would not issue on a claim for unliquidated damages. Winant v. Nautical Preparatory School, 70 N. J. Law, 366, 57 A. 133. Failure of petition to foreclose a mechanic's lien to allege that the material was actually used in the construction of the building. Foreclosure of lien only ancillary to main cause of action, and petition sufficient to enable plaintiff to recover debt. Ryndak v. Seawell, 13 Okl. 737, 76 P. 170. Defect in plea setting up failure to present claim against decedent's estate within statutory period after publication of notice of qualification of executor, in failing to allege publication of notice. Municipal Court v. Whaley [R. I.] 57 A. 1061. That a pleading is not properly indorsed. That petition was not indorsed "an action to try title as well as for damages." Echols v. Jacobs Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082.

42. In answer in injunction suit under Texas Rev. St. 1895, art. 3006, authorizing answer as in other civil actions. Murphy v. Smith, Walker & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 678.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1208.

44. By demurrer or, in case of judgment for plaintiff, by motion in arrest. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314. The right of one suing as administratrix of the estate of one person to maintain the action for the wrongful death of a person having a different name is properly raised by a demurrer to the complaint for want of sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pierce [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 604. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 488. Mack v. Latta, 83 App. Div. 242, 82 N. Y. S. 130. The question whether a pleading states a cause of action or defense should not be raised by motion at special term, especially where question is as to measure of damages. Error to strike allegation of special damages, since it had effect of granting judgment in favor of defendant on motion. Pavenstedt v. New York Life Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 853. Should be raised by a demurrer, or upon the trial, either at the opening thereof, or when evidence is offered, or at the close of the case, by motion to the court. Id. If facts stated in a cause of action are not sufficient to constitute a cause of action in themselves, distinct and different from the other causes of action, the remedy is by demurrer to such cause separately, and not by motion to strike out. Berry v. Moore Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 249.

45. Whether they are admissible in evidence under a general denial or not. Blumenfeld v. Stine, 42 Misc. 411, 87 N. Y. S. 81.

46. Akins v. Hicks [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 75.

47. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 488, subd. 6. Ward v. Smith, 95 App. Div. 432, 88 N. Y. S. 700. A defect of parties defendant must be taken advantage of by special demurrer. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562. Under a statute providing for a demurrer when there is a defect of parties plaintiff (Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 342), an objection that there are too many parties plaintiff cannot be so taken. Frankel v. Garrard, 160 Ind. 209, 66 N. E. 687.

48. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 488, subd. 7. Ward v. Smith, 95 App. Div. 432, 88 N. Y. S.

The defense of res judicata may be raised by demurrer when the facts showing it appear on the face of the petition,[49] otherwise it must be raised by special plea.[50]

So too the defense of limitations may generally be raised by demurrer when it clearly appears on the face of the pleading that the action is barred.[51] Where the objection does not appear on the face of the pleading, it must be taken by answer,[52] and in some states it must be so taken in any event.[53]

Matters involving only the construction of the instrument sued on,[54] or the declaration, should be raised by demurrer.[55] The omission to file with the complaint the original or a copy of the instrument on which the suit is based as required by statute is a ground for demurrer.[56] Suing on contract when the action is in tort is ground for general demurrer.[57] Equitable defenses in actions at law may be reached by demurrer.[58]

A general demurrer to a petition on the ground that it sets out no cause of action does not raise the question of the constitutionality of the statute upon which the action is based.[59]

The objection that separate causes of action are inconsistent should be taken by motion to require plaintiff to elect, and not by demurrer.[60] Where a statute declares that suit on an official bond shall be brought in the name of the state, the action is not demurrable because so brought, though the bond runs to the governor.[61] The fact that plaintiff has not filed an amended bill,[62] or that he asks 700; Mack v. Latta, 83 App. Div. 242, 82 N. Y. S. 130. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 598. Boyd v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 287; Chase v Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 153; Malsby v. Lanark Fuel Co., 55 W. Va. 484, 47 S. E. 358. In order to sustain demurrer, a fair and reasonable construction of the language used must show two causes of action plainly stated, each complete and perfect in itself. Mack v. Latta, 83 App. Div. 242, 82 N. Y. S. 130. Will not lie where the allegations are set forth, in form, as a single cause of action. Marion v. City Council of Charleston, 68 S. C. 257, 47 S. E. 140. The remedy in such case is by motion to make more definite and certain, or, in case allegations were made which were unnecessary to sustain the cause of action stated, by motion to strike them out as irrelevant and surplusage. If objections waived by failure to make such motions, plaintiff has right to relief to which allegations show him to be entitled. Id.

49. Ordinarily must be raised by plea. Holtheide v. Smith's Guardian [Ky.] 84 S. W. 321.

50. That plaintiff cannot maintain the action because of a recovery in a former suit. Cannot be urged by way of motion to dismiss predicated on evidence admitted without objection, or on admission by plaintiff in regard thereto. Minnesota Lumber Co. v. Hobbs [Ga.] 49 S. E. 783.

51. Stapper v. Wolter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 850. In Idaho must be raised by special demurrer. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226. In Wyoming by general demurrer. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708. Where the amended petition shows that the time between the accrual of the cause of action and the filing of such petition exceeds the period of limitations, a general demurrer does not raise the question whether the summons issued on filing the original petition was a sufficient commencement of a new action within one year after plaintiff's failure, otherwise than on the merits. Id.

52. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226; Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708.

53. S. D. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 39. State v. Patterson [S. D.] 100 N. W. 162. Suit to set aside allowance of guardian's account. Scoville v. Brock, 76 Vt. 385, 57 A. 967.

54. In action to recover possession of leased premises from assignee of lease for breach of covenant, pleas that covenant was personal to lessee and did not run with land (Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649), and that breach was not a continuing one, properly stricken out (Id.).

55. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649.

56. Omission to file bill of lading in action against carrier for damage to goods. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reyman [Ind.] 73 N. E. 587.

57. Where the complaint seems to set out a cause of action on contract, and the action is in tort. Wilkins v. Standard Oil Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 14.

58. In an action in ejectment where certain paragraphs of the answer allege facts constituting a legal defense as mere inducement to other facts pleaded as an equitable estoppel, a demurrer will lie to the whole defense of estoppel. Proper remedy not by motion to strike facts pleaded as such estoppel. Cheatham v. Edgerfield Mfg. Co., 131 F. 118.

59. State v. Henderson, 120 Ga. 780, 48 S. E. 334.

60. Equitable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747.

61. State v. Henderson, 120 Ga. 780, 48 S. E. 334.

for more than he is entitled to,[63] or that he claims damages by an incorrect measure, is no ground for demurrer.[64] The question as to whether the county attorney was authorized to bring an action in the name of the county cannot be raised by demurrer.[65]

The objection that plaintiff has not legal capacity to sue,[66] or that the court has no jurisdiction, is properly raised by demurrer or answer.[67]

The objection that defendant is misnamed,[68] and all matter in abatement dehors the record, is properly presented by plea in abatement.[69] The objection that the petition, in a suit by a next friend for a lunatic, does not allege that the lunatic has no guardian or any sufficient reason why he does not appear by guardian if he has one, must be raised by special demurrer or plea in abatement.[70] An officer's return to a writ cannot be falsified by a plea in abatement.[71] The validity of the process or return can be raised by motion to quash or by plea in abatement.[72] The question whether the action is barred by limitations cannot be raised by motion to quash the process.[73] A motion to quash is the proper method of objecting to a variance between the declaration and an affidavit for attachment.[74] The declaration may be resorted to for the purpose of establishing the variance, and a plea in abatement is not necessary.[75]

A defense that a bond was extorted in proceedings which were void for want of jurisdiction is the subject of a plea in bar, and not of a plea to the jurisdiction.[76]

Defects in the pleadings cannot properly be used as a ground for a motion for a new trial.[77] The sufficiency of a complaint is reviewable only on appeal from the judgment, and not on appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial.[76]

Where there is no evidence to support one of two counts, which is good in

62. Where a demurrer to original has been sustained. Shipley v. Jacob Tome Institute [Md.] 58 A. 200.

63. In action for enforcement of attorney's lien, objections that plaintiff's lien is a "retaining lien" and therefore passive, that he has no right to enforce it, or have the amount thereof determined, and that the action is not justified, are not grounds for demurrer. Mathot v. Triebel, 90 N. Y. S. 903.

64. Where declaration states a good cause of action. Beidler v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 211 Ill. 628, 71 N. E. 1118.

65. Otoe County v. Dorman [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1064.

66. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 498. Waters v. Spencer, 44 Misc. 15, 89 N. Y. S. 693. An objection goes to his right to sue at all and does not raise the point that he is not the real party in interest. That he is a minor, incompetent, insane, etc. Boyce v. Augusta Camp [Okl.] 78 P. 322. In Washington must be raised by a special and not a general demurrer. James v. James, 35 Wash. 655, 77 P. 1082.

67. Whether court has jurisdiction of action for breach of contract between nonresident and foreign corporation. Rosenblatt v. Jersey Novelty Co., 45 Misc. 59, 90 N. Y. S. 816. Where a complaint contains two counts, as to the subject-matter of one of which the court has jurisdiction and of the other not, a plea in abatement for want of jurisdiction should be limited to the quashing of the summons as to the second. Summons issuing contrary to statute, requiring suits in regard to realty to be brought in county where it is situated, must be abated under Ala. Code 1896, § 4205. Hence plea goes to quashing of summons. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268. A plea to the jurisdiction of defendant's person must show that there is another court in the state having such jurisdiction. Akers v. High Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

68. Plaintiff may then cure the mistake by amendment. McCord-Collins Co. v. Prichard [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 388.

69. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753. Notice of motion for judgment on note, under Code Va. 1887, § 3211 (Ann. Code 1904, p. 1686), is subject to plea in abatement if served before defendant's liability matures. Id.

70. La Grange Mills v. Kener, 121 Ga. 429, 49 S. E. 300.

71. McDaniels v. De Groot [Vt.] 59 A. 166.

72, 73. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857.

74. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833. A plea in abatement setting up only matter of variance appearing from the declaration and affidavit without the aid of the plea may be treated as a motion to quash. Id.

75. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833.

76. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11.

77. Failure to attach bill of particulars to complaint [Ga. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 4963, 5642]. Simpson v. Wicker, 120 Ga. 418, 47 S. E. 965. Motion in arrest of judgment proper remedy. Rodgers v. Western Home Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 369.

78. Frey v. Vignier, 145 Cal. 251, 78 P. 733.

form, but there is evidence to support the other, defendant can neither demur to the complaint nor to the evidence, but his remedy is by motion to instruct the jury to disregard the unsustained count.[79]

Insufficiency of the complaint to state a cause of action cannot be raised by a motion for nonsuit.[80]

A motion to dismiss is equivalent to a summary demurrer on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.[81] It cannot reach defects in a pleading which are curable by amendment.[82] The question of jurisdiction may be raised by such a motion.[83] If a case stands in default of an initial pleading, it may be dismissed as against the plaintiff.[84] If the facts stated in the petition are such as to constitute a defense, advantage should be taken thereof in the first instance by demurrer, or afterwards by motion to dismiss, and not by motion to nonsuit.[85]

Judgment will not be arrested for lack of an essential averment in the declaration which is contained by implication in the averments used,[86] nor for an omission of the formal concluding words of a pleading.[87]

Matters of form.[88]—Defects in form, readily cured by amendment, should be taken advantage of by special demurrer.[89] In many states a demurrer lies only for defects of substance, and defects of form must be raised by motion.[90] Thus, as a general rule, indefiniteness and uncertainty must be taken advantage of by a 79. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 663, 47 S. E. 850.

80. Such motion is in nature of demurrer to the evidence [Mills' Ann. Code Colo. § 166]. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

81. Waters v. Spencer, 44 Misc. 15, 89 N. Y. S. 693. A bill insufficient in that it fails to state facts which, whether taken as well or illy pleaded, could form a basis of relief, is properly dismissed on motion, though the result be to cut off further right to amend the same. Equitable action to rescind contract. Bell v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 140 Ala. 371, 37 So. 237. Where plaintiff is dismissed at trial before testimony is taken because he has not stated a cause of action, the only question is on the pleading. Coppola v. Kraushaar, 92 N. Y. S. 436.

82. Minnesota Lumber Co. v. Hobbs [Ga.] 49 S. E. 783.

83. City of Windsor v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. App. 46.

84. Where, after a motion to quash an alternative writ of mandate is sustained, plaintiff elects to stand on his petition, and declines to plead further, it is proper for the court to enter a judgment of dismissal. Hester v. Thomson, 35 Wash. 119, 76 P. 734.

85. Motion for nonsuit should not be granted where petitioner proves his case exactly as laid. Ogburn v. Dublin Wagon & Mach. Co., 121 Ga. 437, 49 S. E. 263.

See, also, Discontinuance, Dismissal and Nonsuit, § 2, 3 Curr. L. 1100.

86. Bowen v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 252.

87. Bowen v. White [R. I.] 58 A. 252.

See, also, New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, § 5, 2 Curr. L. 1051.

88. See 2 Curr. L. 1228.

89. Gaskin v. Courson, 120 Ga. 1056, 48 S. E. 379. A meritorious plea ill pleaded may be assailed by demurrer but not as frivolous. Troy Grocery Co. v. Potter, 139 Ala. 359, 36 So. 12. A count alleging negligence in general terms is bad on special demurrer for failure to set up the particulars in which defendant was negligent. Rowland v. Towns, 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 581. In an action for damages for failure of a bank to cash a check, a defect in the petition for failure to allege that the check was properly indorsed when presented should be taken advantage of by special demurrer, and not by motion for nonsuit. Wachstein v. Germania Bank, 120 Ga. 229, 47 S. E. 586. In an action to charge a widow, who has taken possession of her husband's estate, with his debt, a failure to allege that she took possession without notice of any existing debt. Moore v. Smith, 121 Ga. 479, 49 S. E. 601. Objections on the ground of vagueness or duplicity. Minnesota Lumber Co. v. Hobbs [Ga.] 49 S. E. 783. Uncertainty as to a material and essential date. That transaction occurred "on or about" certain date. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226. Duplicity. Declaration in action for royalties under mining lease. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Peers, 205 Ill. 531, 68 N. E. 1065. An objection that a declaration for fraud contains no precise averment that plaintiff was induced to part with his property by the false representations must be raised by special demurrer, where the petition states a cause of action and such an averment may be inferred. Cannot be considered after plea of general issue. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668. So must an objection that the property parted with is not particularly described. Id. Objection that declaration is not sufficiently specific. Thick v. Detroit U. & R. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64. Objection for indefiniteness should be made by motion or special demurrer. Ball v. Neosho [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 777.

90. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987.

motion to make more definite and certain and not by demurrer,[91] or motion for a bill of particulars.[92]

A party may be required to make his pleading more definite and certain when it is too general in its terms to be readily understood.[93] The granting or refusing of a motion for that purpose is so far discretionary that a reversal will not follow unless it appears that the rights of the complaining party have suffered.[94] A party is not prejudiced by the denial of the motion when the judgment against him is not based on any of the allegations claimed to be insufficient.[95]

Where two causes of action are set forth without being separately stated, the remedy is by motion to make the complaint more definite and certain,[96] or, if the allegations are unnecessary to sustain the cause of action stated, by motion to strike them out as irrelevant and as surplusage.[97]

If a pleading states a cause of action or defense, defects therein cannot be taken advantage of at the trial by objection to the introduction of evidence;[98] but

91. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069; Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Action for death because of unsafe condition of street. Wilbert v. Sheboygan, 121 Wis. 518, 99 N. W. 330. Conclusions stated instead of facts. Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348; Newburn v. Lucas [Iowa] 101 N. W. 730; Ellsworth v. Franklin County Agricultural Soc., 99 App. Div. 119, 91 N. Y. S. 1040; Kitchen v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. C. 554, 48 S. E. 4. New matter in answer ambiguous. Pierson v. Green [S. C.] 48 S. E. 624. Defects of form. Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 987. Where statement of facts is defective and uncertain, by motion to make more definite and certain. Phillips v. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 605. The insufficiency or indefiniteness of a statement filed by an auditor's agent against the estate of a decedent. Riedel v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 898, 82 S. W. 635. An exception that the petition shows on its face that the court has no jurisdiction of the cause of action alleged, because of the amount involved, does not raise the question of the vagueness and uncertainty of the allegations as to the amount of damage. Question as to sufficiency of allegations not determinative of question of jurisdiction. Foster v. Roseberry [Tex.] 81 S. W. 521. General averment of damages sufficient to confer jurisdiction, though petition did not specifically aver amount claimed for each of items of damage alleged. Id.

92. Where the injuries sued for are indefinitely stated, defendant's remedy is by motion to make the complaint more definite and certain, or by application for a physical examination and not by motion for a bill of particulars. Lachebruch v. Cushman, 87 N. Y. S. 476.

93. Colo. Code Civ. Proc. § 60. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. In action for injuries to passenger held error to deny motion. Ruebsam v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 984. In New York motion lies only when the precise meaning or application of the charges is not apparent. Application under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 546. Day v. Day, 90 N. Y. S. 680. Application on ground that pleader may intend to charge fraud, forgery or undue influence denied, as forgery and undue influence are both species of fraud. Id. Should not be directed if meaning can be seen with reasonable certainty. Complaint in action by stockholder to recover for loss caused by negligence of directors held sufficient. Kavanaugh v. Commonwealth Trust Co., 45 Misc. 201, 91 N. Y. S. 967. Court may require it to be made definite and certain by amendment. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 546. Each case to be determined with reference to particular facts alleged. Allegations of fraud sufficient. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170.

94. In suit for damages for its obstruction, defendant held not injured by failure to have more particular description of way. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 827. Defendant not prejudiced by denial of motion to make complaint more certain in regard to services rendered. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063.

95. Helbig v. Gray Harbor Elec. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 612.

96, 97. Welborn v. Dixon [S. C.] 49 S. E. 232.

98. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1077. The fact that the petition does not set up the true rule for the measure of damages, and would have been demurrable on that ground, does not warrant the exclusion of evidence admissible under the true rule. Ford v. Fargason, 120 Ga. 606, 48 S. E. 180. If the declaration is sufficient to sustain a judgment, the objection that it is not sufficiently specific must be raised by demurrer. Cannot do so by objection to introduction of any evidence. Objection that complaint in action for breach of contract to deliver ties does not allege delivery, or offer or ability to deliver, or that defendant prevented delivery. Thick v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 64. Bill of divorce. Pierce v. Pierce [Miss.] 38 So. 46. Petition in action on insurance policy held formally and not radically defective. Robinson v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 105 Mo. App. 567, 80 S. W. 9. Where answer contains good defense, even though some of its allegations are superfluous or repugnant. Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117. Technical defects which are capable of being cured by amendment. Bonne v. Security Sav. Soc., 35 Wash. 696, 78 P. 38.

if it wholly fails to state any cause of action or defense because of the omission of an essential averment, which cannot be implied by fair and reasonable intendment, the rule is otherwise.[99] Objections made at the trial are not favored,[1] and every intendment will be allowed in favor of the pleading.[2] Defendant cannot object to the introduction of evidence on the ground that the petition fails to state a cause of action, where he supplies the defects therein by his answer.[3]

Where it is uncertain on which of two theories plaintiff seeks to recover, defendant may protect himself against surprise by motion to make the complaint more definite and certain,[4] or by motion made at the opening of the trial to compel defendant to elect on which theory he will proceed.[5]

The propriety of allowing an amendment should be raised by objection and exception to its allowance, or by motion to strike, and not by demurrer to the amended pleading.[6] So, too, the objection that an amended petition states a new cause of action should be raised by motion to strike out, and not by objection to the reception of evidence,[7] or by demurrer to the added counts.[8]

The objection that pleas are not properly verified,[9] that an amended pleading does not differ from one previously held bad,[10] or that it was filed without leave,[11] and that a plea should have been offered by a supplemental rather than by the original or amended plea, should be raised by motion to strike.[12] Matter which

99. Objection to introduction of evidence in nature of oral demurrer. Robinson v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 105 Mo. App. 567, 80 S. W. 9; Farmers' Bank v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 76. May in such case object to evidence tending to prove facts pleaded, though better practice is to demur or move to strike out. Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117. An objection that a petition does not state a cause of action may be made at any time, even after judgment. Objection to introduction of evidence after overruling of demurrer. Hyatt v. Legal Protective Ass'n, 106 Mo. App. 610, 81 S. W. 470. See, also, Pavenstedt v. New York Life Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 853. Only defects in substance, which cannot be cured by amendment may be taken advantage of at that time. Bonne v. Security Sav. Soc., 35 Wash. 696, 78 P. 38.

1. Howard v. Carter [Kan.] 80 P. 61; Farmers' Bank v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 76; Boyd v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 287; Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

2. Petition in action against railroad company for killing cattle held sufficient after answer, though it would have been bad on demurrer. Farmers' Bank v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 76. Will be sustained if susceptible of a construction that will make it good. Complaint in action for personal injuries. Drolshagen v. Union Depot R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 344. Should be overruled, if, upon any fair construction, any cause of action is stated. Howard v. Carter [Kan.] 80 P. 61. Allegations of fraud and undue influence sufficient, though in general terms, and would have been made more definite and certain on motion. Id. Objection will not be sustained unless there is total lack of sufficient allegations. Waldner v. Bowdon State Bank [N. D.] 102 N. W. 169. If a necessary fact is alleged by fair inference or intendment, the objection will be overruled. Complaint for recovery of money paid as usury, pursuant to contract, held sufficient. Id. Where the case has been heard on the merits without apparent prejudice to defendant's rights so far as the pleadings are concerned, error cannot be predicated on overruling his objection to the complaint, made after the trial begins, though it is inartistic, indefinite and uncertain. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

3. If parties go to trial with full knowledge of charge, and record contains enough to show court that all material facts were in issue, defendant cannot take advantage of defects which he would seem purposely to have omitted to notice at outset of controversy. Failure of petition in action on partnership account between former partners to allege partnership settlement. Jackson v. Powell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1132.

4. Whether suing for damages for breach of contract or for money paid. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142.

5. Rochevot v. Wolf, 96 App. Div. 506, 89 N. Y. S. 142.

6. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Crumpton [Ala.] 36 So. 517.

7. Phillips v. Barnes, 105 Mo. App. 421, 80 S. W. 43.

8. Moore v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ala. 595, 36 So. 777.

9. Pleas in bar in assumpsit not accompanied by required affidavit. Price v. Marks [Va.] 48 S. E. 499. Verified answer and counterclaim cannot be taken as true because of unverified reply. Newburn v. Lucas [Iowa] 101 N. W. 730.

10. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708.

11. Is not raised by a general demurrer. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Clause [Wyo.] 78 P. 708.

12. Cannot be raised by demurrer where it is sufficient on its face. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 45 Misc. 251, 92 N. Y. S. 153.

is irrelevant or redundant,[13] and superfluous or repugnant allegations may be eliminated by motion for that purpose.[14] Impertinent and scandalous allegations will be stricken out[15] when irrelevant.[16] No allegation should be stricken as irrelevant or redundant when the portions left are unintelligible when standing alone.[17] Sham, irrelevant, or frivolous answers, defenses or replies, and frivolous demurrers, may be stricken out, or judgment rendered notwithstanding the same, on motion as for want of an answer.[18] Statutes authorizing the striking out of pleadings for contumacy are unconstitutional.[19]

A motion to strike out reaches formal defects only,[20] and cannot take the place of a demurrer so as to reach defects in matters of substance.[21] A motion to strike the whole of an answer should be overruled where plaintiff could not recover if he admitted the truth of all its averments.[22] A pleading stricken out on motion is eliminated from the record and cannot be amended.[23]

Error in refusing to strike out a part of a petition is harmless where the question presented thereby is not submitted to the jury.[24] So also is the refusal to strike out pleas of set-off and counterclaim where the jury finds nothing in favor of defendant on the pleas,[25] the refusal to strike out a part of a reply where the answer is thereafter abandoned,[26] and the striking out of a reply where evidence of the facts therein alleged is admitted.[27] Overruling a motion to strike out parts of a pleading does not constitute available error on appeal.[28]

§ 11. Waiver of objections and cure of defects. By failure to object, responsive pleading, or going to trial.[29]—Objections which may be taken advantage of by demurrer or answer are waived by not doing so,[30] and defects which should

13. Cheatham v. Edgefield Mfg. Co., 131 F. 118. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 545. Day v. Day, 95 App. Div. 122, 88 N. Y. S. 504. No part of a pleading will be stricken out as irrelevant unless the court can see that the moving party is aggrieved by it, and that striking it out will not harm the pleader. Complaint in equitable action to set aside will. Palmer v. Day, 44 Misc. 579, 90 N. Y. S. 133. Paragraph merely stating plaintiff's residence and business will not be stricken, where plaintiff cannot be aggrieved thereby. Ring v. Mitchell, 45 Misc. 493, 92 N. Y. S. 749. A verified answer, or a portion thereof, alleging matters constituting a defense, should not be stricken out as sham, though containing irrelevant or evidential matter. Continental Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Boggess, 145 Cal. 30, 78 P. 245. Motion to strike out the objectionable matter as evidentiary or surplusage is the proper remedy. Id.

14. Ryan v. Riddle [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1117.

15. Statements, in answer to bill by which complainant claims land as devisee, that she was not testator's wife, held impertinent and scandalous. Livesey v. Livesey [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1020.

16. Bell v. Clarke, 45 Misc. 275, 92 N. Y. S. 411.

17. If complaint states even semblance of cause of action, it should not be destroyed. Day v. Day, 95 App. Div. 122, 88 N. Y. S. 504.

18. Minn. Gen. St. 1894, § 5240. Answer presenting counterclaim may be stricken out as sham and frivolous. Counterclaim in answer authorized by Id. § 5236. Monitor Drill Co. v. Moody [Minn.] 100 N. W. 1104.

19. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 1991, authorizing striking of answer for failure of party to attend when required and give his deposition, as tending unduly to restrict right to defend. Summerville v. Kelliher, 144 Cal. 155, 77 P. 889.

20. Guthrie v. Howland [Ind.] 73 N. E. 259.

21. Guthrie v. Howland [Ind.] 73 N. E. 259. Hence it is error to strike out a complaint or cross complaint on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Pleader thereby deprived of right to amend. Id.

22. In nature of general demurrer. Atlanta Suburban Land Corp. v. Austin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124.

23. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 345, allowing amendments, does not apply. Guthrie v. Howland [Ind.] 73 N. E. 259.

24. Bolton v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 666.

25. Owen v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 988.

26. Strother v. McMullen Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 650.

27. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 102 N. W. 765.

28. Conner v. Andrews Land, Home & Improvement Co., 162 Ind. 338, 70 N. E. 376.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1229. See Equity, § 6J, 3 Curr. L. 1230.

30. That defendant is a married woman, and husband was not made a party [Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 434]. Reclamation Dist. No. 551 v. Van Loben Sels, 145 Cal. 181, 78 P. 638. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 498, 499. Ward v. Smith, 95 App. Div. 432, 88 N. Y. S. 700. Trying case as one of negligence and failing to demur, or object, waives objection that declaration fails to allege negligence or intentional harm. Savage v. Marlborough St. R. Co. [Mass.] 71 N. E. 531. Objection that plaintiff has no legal capacity to sue [Code be taken advantage of by demurrer are waived by answering.[31] Defendant does not, by failing to object and except to the filing of an amended declaration on the ground that it is barred by limitations, waive its right to raise such question, but may set it up by plea.[32]

Answering over after demurrer is a waiver of the demurrer,[33] and going to trial on the merits without objection waives a plea to the jurisdiction.[34]

Error in overruling a demurrer,[35] or a motion for a more specific statement,[36] or in denying a motion to strike a pleading from the files,[37] or in sustaining a motion or demurrer, is generally held to be waived by subsequently pleading over,[38] though it has been held that by replying plaintiff does not waive an exception to the overruling of his demurrer to a paragraph of the answer,[39] and that error in overruling a motion to make more definite and certain is not waived by pleading over.[40] Demurrers will be deemed waived on appeal where the record shows no action taken thereon by the lower court.[41] The right to move to strike amended answers is not waived because demurrers have been filed to the original answers.[42] Exceptions not called to the attention of the trial court and not acted upon will be deemed abandoned.[43]

Failure to reply,[44] or answer,[45] or to file an affidavit of defense,[46] or a bill of

Civ. Proc. § 499]. Waters v. Spencer, 44 Misc. 15, 89 N. Y. S. 693. One not pleading a former judgment in bar of the action cannot raise the question on appeal. Newburn v. Lucas [Iowa] 101 N. W. 730. Where the petition states a cause of action, its sufficiency cannot be raised for the first time on appeal. Id. Injury to passenger on street car. Stern v. Westchester Elec. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 870.

31. As defect of parties, or misjoinder of causes of action, to which demurrer lies under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 488, subds. 6, 7. Ward v. Smith, 95 App. Div. 432, 88 N. Y. S. 700. In action for trade libel, where defendant fails to demur for failure to expressly aver falsity and malice, he cannot raise the objection after trial where those facts are proved. Young v. Geiske, 209 Pa. 515, 58 A. 887. A defect of parties defendant. Combs' Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562; Hyatt v. Legal Protective Ass'n, 106 Mo. App. 610, 81 S. W. 470.

32. Where original declaration fails to state cause of action and amended one is filed after running of limitations. Mackey v. Northern Mill. Co., 210 Ill. 115, 71 N. E. 448.

33. Rodgers v. Western Home Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 369; Miller v. Lanning, 211 Ill. 620, 71 N. E. 1115. Answer filed without disposing of previous demurrer. Camfield v. Plummer, 212 Ill. 541, 72 N. E. 787. For nonjoinder of a necessary party unless no valid judgment can be rendered without the presence of the omitted party in court. Guthiel Park Inv. Co. v. Montclair [Colo.] 76 P. 1050.

34. Cannot, on appeal, assail the judgment on the ground that the plea to the jurisdiction was not passed upon. Harrison v. Murphy, 106 Mo. App. 465, 80 S. W. 724.

35. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Bell, 209 Ill. 25, 70 N. E. 754; City of Battle Creek v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1005; City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816; Glos v. Hanford, 212 Ill. 261, 72 N. E. 439; Baden Baden Gold Min. Co. v. Jose [Colo. App.] 78 P. 313. Error will not be considered on appeal where defendant answered over, and also failed to call attention to ruling on motion for new trial. MacDonald v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1001.

36. Carlson v. Hall, 124 Iowa, 121, 99 N. W. 571.

37. Amended petition. Castleman v. Castleman [Mo.] 83 S. W. 757.

38. Motion to strike paragraph. Curtis v. Tenino Stone Quarries [Wash.] 79 P. 955. A motion to strike or to make more definite or certain. City of Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413, 75 P. 982.

39. Bowen v. Woodfield, 33 Ind. App. 687, 72 N. E. 162.

40. Ruebsam v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 984. See, also, Sommers v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 268.

41. Denison & S. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1054.

42. Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & W. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 742.

43. Where exceptions to a plea in replication are not called to the attention of the trial court and not acted upon, the case stands as though no such exception had been interposed, and plaintiff may avail himself of it on trial. Replication setting up failure of consideration for lease, excepted to because not sworn to. Woodall v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1090.

44. Minnich v. Swing [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 271. Failure to object to absence of reply to counterclaim until near close of trial, thereby treating allegations as at issue. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1066. Where defendant makes no motion on the subject, he cannot, after the case has been submitted to the jury, take advantage of plaintiff's failure to reply (Beard v. White, 120 Ga. 1018, 48 S. E. 400); nor will the latter's silence be taken as an admission of the truth of the allegations in defendant's cross-bill, plea of set-off, or like answer (Id.). Objection after verdict is too late. Wells v. Missouri-Edison Elec. Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 204. A judgment will not particulars, is waived by proceeding to trial without it and without objection.[47] Absence of the original answer is waived by going to trial without objecting to a substituted one.[48]

Filing an amended pleading is a waiver of any error in ruling on the sufficiency of the original.[49] Answering an amended pleading and going to trial is a waiver of any error in the allowance of the amendment,[50] and of the objection that the amended pleading departs from the original.[51] An objection on the ground of a departure between the petition and the replication is waived by going to trial on the issues raised by the latter pleading without objection.[52] Objection to the allowance of supplemental pleadings cannot be taken for the first time on appeal.[53] Errors in ruling on the sufficiency of the original pleadings are immaterial, when the case is tried and judgment rendered on amended ones.[54]

Merely technical defects in the manner of stating a cause of action or defense are waived by pleading thereto and going to trial,[55] but this rule does not apply to defects in matters of substance.[56]

be reversed for insufficiency of the reply, where the case was tried as though it constituted a denial of the defenses set forth in the answer. Taussig v. St. Louis & K. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 378. The rule is not changed by the fact that defendant moved for a peremptory instruction that, under the pleadings and evidence, plaintiff was not entitled to recover, without specifically directing the court's attention to the supposed defects. Id.

45. Where parties go to trial without answer or other pleading to an amended petition and try the case as though such answer had been filed, plaintiff cannot afterwards claim a default, or that allegations in amended petition should be treated as confessed. Gregory v. Bowlsby [Iowa] 102 N. W. 517.

46. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926.

47. Should move for order requiring it, or to strike plea. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Machine Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64. The fact that a bill of particulars was demanded but not served is not of itself ground for reversal, where it does not appear that the fact was called to the attention of the trial court, or that defendant insisted upon it before going to trial, or excepted to going to trial without it. Block v. Sherry, 43 Misc. 342, 87 N. Y. S. 160.

48. Commonwealth v. Higgins' Trustee, 26 Ky. L. R. 910, 82 S. W. 601.

49. Guthrie v. Howland [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 234. Election to amend after demurrer has been sustained. Bremen Min. & Mill. Co. v. Bremen [N. M.] 79 P. 806; Wolf v. New Orleans Tailor-Made Pants Co., 113 La. 388, 37 So. 2.

50. Carter v. Baldwin [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 204. Answering over and going to trial on the merits. Even though it is clear departure and changes cause of action. Grymes v. Liebke Hardwood Mill & Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 946. Must move to strike out, and stand on motion and appeal if it is overruled. Id. Where the objection has been waived cannot exclude evidence tending to prove contract set out in amended petition, though different from that alleged in original. Id. An objection to the allowance of an amendment to the answer, on the ground that it was unfair and disadvantageous to plaintiff to have such an amendment made late in the trial, cannot be urged for the first time on appeal. Hetzel v. Easterly, 96 App. Div. 517, 89 N. Y. S. 154.

51. Phillips v. Barnes, 105 Mo. App. 421, 80 S. W. 43.

52. Where plaintiff sued on oral contract, answer set up written contract and pleaded payment, and replication admitted latter contract, but denied payment. Phillips v. Barnes, 105 Mo. App. 421, 80 S. W. 43. Must be taken advantage of by proper objection before trial, and cannot be raised for the first time on appeal. Messenger v. Woge [Colo. App.] 78 P. 314.

53. Hodges v. Price [Wash.] 80 P. 202.

54. Where the second amended complaint is answered, and the case is tried and judgment rendered on the case made thereby. Rooney v. Gray, 145 Cal. 753, 79 P. 523.

55. McNerney v. Barnes [Conn.] 58 A. 714; Cole v. Jerman [Conn.] 59 A. 425; Galvano Type Engraving Co. v. Jackson [Conn.] 60 A. 127. In an action for negligence, claiming unliquidated damages, when a defendant, either after default or a demurrer overruled, moves for a hearing in damages, giving notice of his intention to disprove the material averments of the complaint, and to prove matters of defense, and, upon the hearing, substantially tries the case upon the merits, he will be deemed to have waived the right to question the sufficiency of the complaint for defects not matters of substance. Hourigan v. Norwich [Conn.] 59 A. 487. That pleading is not sufficiently specific. Durham v. Bolivar, 106 Mo. App. 601, 81 S. W. 463. Defective statement of good cause of action. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 137. Indefiniteness and uncertainty. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069. The right to have irrelevant and redundant matter stricken out is waived unless a motion for that purpose is made before answer or demurrer. Id. Technical defects in the language of a defense are not available on appeal, where the answer fully advises plaintiff that it will be insisted upon, and no objection is made to the introduction of evidence supporting it. Nickell v. Tracy, 91 N. Y. S. 287. A reply waives informalities and uncertainties in a counterclaim. Manning v. School Dist. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

A party cannot complain of the admission of testimony as to irrelevant or defective allegations which he has allowed to remain in a pleading,[57] but the fact that he has allowed them to remain does not prevent the court from excluding such evidence.[58] Going to trial on the merits waives an objection that the pleading was filed too late.[59]

In some states defects in form are waived unless the pleading is returned within a specified time after service.[60]

One pleading to the merits waives his right to object that the action is not in proper form,[61] that defendant is misnamed,[62] or that a pleading is misnamed.[63]

Failure to seasonably and properly object to a pleading on the ground of ambiguity and uncertainty,[64] or that it is not properly indorsed,[65] or for want of a sufficient verification, is a waiver of such defects.[66]

56. But if the complaint is bad in substance and does not state a cause of action, a judgment for plaintiff is erroneous, and may be reversed on appeal. Hourigan v. Norwich [Conn.] 59 A. 487.

57. Where no motion to strike such allegations has been made. Martin v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 616. Uncertainties not taken advantage of by demurrer are waived, and proof will be admitted to establish the real facts thus defectively pleaded. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226.

58. Martin v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 616. In an action for damages caused by defendant's negligence in failing to have proper spark arresters on its locomotives, defendant is entitled to know the exact dates of the occurrences charged, and may call for them by motion or demurrer. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968. In case this is not done, evidence is admissible under the general allegation that they occurred on or about certain dates, and on various other dates. Id.

59. On the merits of a plea of privilege without raising the question. On error. Leahy v. Ortiz [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 824. Invoking a ruling on the merits of a demurrer and amending in accordance with the judgment sustaining it. Lippman v. Aetna Ins. Co., 120 Ga. 247, 47 S. E. 593. An objection to a judgment rendered on a plea in abatement on the ground that the plea was not filed in due order cannot be made for the first time on appeal where no exception is filed to the plea. Hayden v. Kirby, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 441, 72 S. W. 198.

60. In New York defective pleadings must be returned within twenty-four hours. Sweeney v. O'Dwyer, 45 Misc. 43, 90 N. Y. S. 806. Refusal of an unverified answer found to be not within twenty-four hours, it having been served at noon on August 30th and mailed back, the postmark being 8:00 p. m. on August 31st. Id.

61. Welker v. Metcalf, 209 Pa. 373, 58 A. 687. By defendant, in action to quiet title, denying plaintiff's title and filing a cross complaint to establish his own. Also waives failure of proof of plaintiff's possession. Relender v. Riggs [Colo. App.] 79 P. 328. Where defendant's demurrer to bill on ground that action to quiet title to easement did not lie was overruled, and he afterward answered claiming title thereto and asking that it be quieted in him, he thereby waived his objection to the form of the action. Guthiel Park Inv. Co. v. Montclair [Colo.] 76 P. 1050. In action of trespass for breach of marriage promise, where defendant appeared and ruled plaintiff to file her declaration, which she did, and defendant then pleaded not guilty and ruled plaintiff for bill of particulars, and subsequently had case continued, held that it was then too late for him to move for leave to withdraw his plea on ground that form of action was erroneous. Welker v. Metcalf, 209 Pa. 373, 58 A. 687.

62. McCord-Collins Co. v. Prichard [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 388.

63. Any substantial defect arising from failure to designate the allegations of the answer as a cross complaint. Action to foreclose deeds as mortgages. Answer held to contain essential averments of cross complaint. Schneider v. Reed [Wis.] 101 N. W. 682.

64. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 685. Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240. A failure to demur specially deprives defendant of the right to raise that objection after trial of the issues made by the answer. Montgomery v. McLaury, 143 Cal. 83, 76 P. 964. It is too late after verdict to allege that the complaint did not authorize proof of all circumstances attending assault for which damages are asked. If particulars desired as to general allegations, defendant should have moved for more specific statement. Levidow v. Starin [Conn.] 60 A. 123. Failure to move to have the answer made more definite and certain or to object at the trial because of defective denials. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053. Failure to demur. Hollister v. State [Idaho] 77 P. 339. Uncertainty and ambiguity in a pleading can only be taken advantage of by demurrer (Id.), and it is only where there is a total lack of a necessary or material allegation that the opposite party is justified in suffering a default and raising its insufficiency on appeal (Id.). Where no proper objection is taken to reach the defect, either before or after pleading, or on the trial of the case, it will be deemed to have been waived, and, on appeal, the pleading will be regarded as having been properly amended. Failure of petition to foreclose mechanic's lien to allege that material was used in the construction of the building. Ryndak v. Seawell, 13 Okl. 737, 76 P. 170. Where the complaint states the substantial facts constituting a cause of action, or they can be inferred by reasonable intendment from the matter set forth, it will be held sufficient, in the absence of a motion to make more definite and certain, notwithstanding imperfections of form, or the omission of specific allegations. Action to enforce constructive trust in mining claim. Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209.

Misjoinder of causes of action is waived by joining issue and proceeding to trial without properly and seasonably objecting thereto.[67] Where the question of misjoinder of causes of action is fairly before the court at special term on a motion to compel plaintiff to separate and number them, and defendants do not appeal from an adverse decision, they cannot thereafter raise the question by demurrer.[68]

A variance is waived by failure to properly object when the evidence is offered,[69] or, in some states, by failure to show its materiality in the trial court in the manner prescribed by statute.[70] An issue not made by the pleadings may be regarded as an issue in the case where evidence is introduced and received thereon without objection.[71] Where parties treat certain facts as in issue, they cannot thereafter take exception to the interpretation thereby put upon the petition.[72]

65. Objection that petition was not indorsed "An action to try title as well as for damages" cannot be first raised on appeal. Echols v. Jacobs Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082.

66. Mere irregularity. Bennett v. Roys, 212 Ill. 232, 72 N. E. 380.

67. Cannot be raised by objecting to introduction of evidence [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 602]. Boyd v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 287; Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Dullnig [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 889; Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Unless objected to in the manner prescribed by statute. Ky. Civ. Code Prac. § 86. Must be made by motion to require an election. Id., § 85. Waived by answer. Bryant v. Stephens, 26 Ky. L. R. 718, 82 S. W. 423. May not be made after answer, even though the answer is subsequently withdrawn. Id. Joining an action of trespass against one with an action of trover against two. Meloon v. Read [N. H.] 59 A. 946.

68. O'Connor v. Virginia Passenger & Power Co., 92 N. Y. S. 525.

69. Kitchen Bros. Hotel Co. v. Dixon [Neb.] 98 N. W. 816. Must point out in what the variance consists. In case he does so it is error to submit question not raised by pleadings. Id. Timely and appropriate objection must be made on the distinct ground of variance. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299. Or motion is made to exclude it. Attention thus called to it, and court given opportunity to meet it. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 663, 47 S. E. 850. Where the bill of particulars sufficiently apprised defendant of the character of plaintiff's claim and the case was tried on theory that action was for money paid out for defendant's account, an objection of variance between the oral complaint, and the proof, made for the first time at the end of the case came too late, especially where there was no surprise, or claim of surprise. Prince & K. Iron Works v. Kenny, 92 N. Y. S. 268. When first raised by requests to charge made after the close of the evidence. Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. Where plaintiff, for the first time on appeal, claims that a judgment in his favor can be supported on the ground of mistake, the defendant cannot be held to have waived the objection that the complaint seeking a recovery for fraud only was not supported by proof of mistake. Court found fraud. Connell v. El Paso Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 78 P. 677. Cannot be raised for the first time on appeal. City of Denver v. Strobridge [Colo. App.] 75 P. 1076; Fisk Min. & Mill. Co. v. Reed [Colo.] 77 P. 240; Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50. An objection that evidence admitted on behalf of defendants denies allegations in the declarations which their pleadings admit to be true. Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. Must be taken in the trial court so as to enable the opposite party to meet it by amendment. Variance curable by amendment. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2.

70. City of Covington v. Miles, 26 Ky. L. R. 609, 82 S. W. 281. In Missouri a variance will not be considered on appeal unless the objecting party has shown by affidavit, in the trial court, that he was misled thereby. Must proceed in accordance with Rev. St. 1899, § 2096. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299.

71. Kitchen Bros. Hotel Co. v. Dixon [Neb.] 98 N. W. 816. Variance between allegations that injury was caused by defective machine and proof that it was caused by improper adjustment, held cured by answer denying that it was defective or that defendant failed to have it in proper condition, and evidence, admitted without objection, showing improper adjustment. James v. Ames & Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 498, 82 S. W. 229. Though there is no allegation of damages for failure to complete building in answer, where there is a finding of such damages in the record the appellate court is bound to assume that it was based on competent evidence received without objection, nothing appearing to the contrary. Uldrickson v. Samdahl, 92 Minn. 297, 100 N. W. 5. Petition, in equitable action to set aside judgment at law, failing to state that motion for new trial was filed and overruled, will be treated as sufficient where evidence received without objection, and case tried as though such fact was stated. Parker v. Parker [Neb.] 102 N. W. 85. Where the case is tried on the real issue, the state of demand will be considered as amended on appeal. O'Donnell v. Weiler

An objection that the court has no jurisdiction of the subject-matter,[73] or that plaintiff has not negatived the exceptions in a penal statute on which he sues,[74] or that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action,[75] may be raised at any time. Parties appearing and demurring to the complaint cannot thereafter plead want of jurisdiction over their persons.[76] A plea to the jurisdiction of the person, made before a justice, is not waived by taking an appeal from his ruling against it,[77] or by filing a motion for security for costs.[78]

Failure to object to the granting of a motion for a continuance is a waiver of the necessity for a supplemental pleading setting out the facts on which the order is based.[79]

In Georgia, objections to the pleadings on both sides must be made at the first term, or they will be deemed waived.[80]

A plea in abatement is ordinarily waived unless filed before a plea in bar.[81] A plea of privilege is not waived by a continuance in order to allow a question of fraud raised thereby to be tried by a jury on trial on the merits, where the matter is called to the attention of the court and the order of continuance provides that it shall be without prejudice to the plea.[82] After a plea in abatement has been heard on the merits and plaintiff's action dismissed, he cannot raise ob-

[N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055. Where a defective averment is supplied by the evidence, an amendment will be implied. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Tehan, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 145. The admission of evidence without objection as to variance justifies the submission of the question raised thereby to the jury without regard to the pleading on the point. Testimony as to agreement as to how long contract was to continue justifies submission of question as to whether agreement was as stated. Ceballos v. Munson S. S. Line, 93 App. Div. 593, 87 N. Y. S. 811.

72. Carlson v. Hall, 124 Iowa, 121, 99 N. W. 571.

73. This is the rule whether counsel raise the question, or presently waive it, or expressly assent to the jurisdiction. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. Cannot be waived. Not by filing plea in bar before plea in abatement on this ground. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268. Not by failure to take it by objection or answer [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 499]. Le Brantz v. Campbell, 89 App. Div. 583, 85 N. Y. S. 654.

74. Not confined to demurrer, and hence withdrawal of demurrer does not preclude raising objection at trial. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 92 N. Y. S. 225.

75. Not waived by failure to take it by objection or answer [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 499]. La Brantz v. Campbell, 89 App. Div. 583, 85 N. Y. S. 654; Hyatt v. Legal Protective Ass'n, 106 Mo. App. 610, 81 S. W. 470. The fundamental sufficiency of a petition is always an open question, and may be raised for the first time on appeal [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 602]. Ball v. Neosho [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 777. In such case it should be liberally construed. Petition sufficient though indefinite in describing defect causing injury. Id. May be raised at any time [Wash. Code Proc. § 193]. Watson v. Kent, 35 Wash. 21, 76 P. 297. This does not apply where the question has been once raised by a demurrer which has been subsequently waived. Id. A trial judge may determine the sufficiency of the complaint on the trial, objected to on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, notwithstanding the fact that a demurrer thereto has previously been overruled by another judge of the same court. McConaghy v. Clark, 35 Wash. 689, 77 P. 1084.

76. Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698.

77, 78. Meyer v. Phenix Ins. Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 479.

79. McPhillips v. Fitzgerald, 76 App. Div. 15, 78 N. Y. S. 631.

80. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 5045, 5050. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322.

81. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268. A plea in abatement setting up nonresidence and service outside the state is properly stricken out when filed after a demurrer for want of facts, and a second demurrer for lack of jurisdiction and misjoinder of causes of action. Johnson v. Staley, 32 Ind. App. 628, 70 N. E. 541. The objection that a claim against a decedent's estate was not presented to the county court by the proper person is a matter in abatement only, and is waived by joining issue on the merits without raising it in that court. In re Morgan's Estate [Or.] 78 P. 1029. Is waived by filing pleas in bar which do not refer to, or save the benefit of it. Plea, in action by corporation to recover leased property for breach of covenant, denying that action was authorized by plaintiff. Granite Bldg. Corp. v. Greene [R. I.] 57 A. 649. In Missouri a defendant may unite in the same pleading pleas to the jurisdiction of the person as well as of the subject-matter, with a plea to the merits without thereby waiving the question of jurisdiction. Meyer v. Phenix Ins. Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 479; Harrison v. Murphy, 106 Mo. App. 465, 80 S. W. 724.

82. To be sued in another county. Leahy v. Ortiz [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 824.

jections thereto which he had full opportunity to raise at such hearing, particularly where he offers no excuse for his failure to do so.[83]

The right to judgment on the pleadings may be waived.[84] Where a new party is joined after a demurrer on the ground of a defect of parties has been sustained, defendant cannot object that the amended complaint is insufficient to warrant a recovery against either because not showing that he has any interest in the litigation.[85]

Admitting due and timely service of a supplemental complaint is a waiver of the objection that it was served without leave of court.[86]

Objections once waived cannot be again relied on.[87]

Errors or defects not affecting the substantial rights of the parties may be disregarded.[88] After judgment on the merits technical rules of pleading, invoked merely to injure the other party, should not be enforced.[89] Amendments which might have been made in the lower court on motion will, on appeal, be deemed to have been made.[90]

83. Cannot raise question that plea was filed too late by motion to vacate judgment of dismissal and reinstate case. Wright v. Jett, 120 Ga. 995, 48 S. E. 345.

84. Plaintiff waives right to judgment on account of admission in answer, where answers cross petition and thereby raises issue done away with by admission, and case is tried on issue so raised, he having made no request for judgment nor any objection to the introduction of evidence in regard to such issue. Caldwell v. Drummond [Iowa] 102 N. W. 842.

85. Where demurrer to complaint on ground that plaintiff's husband is necessary party is sustained, defendant cannot thereafter object that amended complaint naming him as party is insufficient to warrant recovery by either party, because not showing that he has any interest in the litigation. Harrington v. Gordon [Wash.] 80 P. 187.

86. Defendant then bound to answer within statutory time, and, where he does not do so, plaintiff may enter judgment by default. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963.

87. Where the original answer is lost before trial in the circuit court on appeal from the county court, and the case is tried in the circuit court on the pleadings filed in that court, absence of the original answer being waived, on appeal from the judgment there rendered the case must be tried on the eame pleadings. Objection having been once waived, cannot be relied on in appellate court. Commonwealth v. Higgins' Trustee, 26 Ky. L. R. 910, 82 S. W. 601. Where a demurrer to a pleading has been waived, its eufficiency cannot be again called in question. Demurrer on ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action. Cannot thereafter object to evidence on same ground. Healy v. King County [Wash.] 79 P. 624. Either in the lower court or on appeal. Watson v. Kent, 35 Wash. 21, 76 P. 297; Kern v. Arbeiter Unterstuetzungs Verein [Mich.] 102 N. W. 746.

88. Alaska Code Civ. Proc. § 97 (31 Stat. 347). Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209. Kentucky Code Prac. § 134. Miller v. McConnell, 26 Ky. L. R. 181, 80 S. W. 1103. Gen. Laws R. I. 1896, p. 812, c. 235, § 3. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930. Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 2829. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 778. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007. Failure to incorporate amendment in complaint not ground for reversal, where trial upon merits proceeded to judgment, with full opportunity for defendants to present all their evidence. Id. On motion in arrest of judgment in such cases the supreme court may direct the district court to permit the proper amendment to be made, and then to enter judgment on the decision. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930. Where only defect was failure to allege that trespass was committed with force and arms and against the peace. Id.

89. Miller v. McConnell, 26 Ky. L. R. 181, 80 S. W. 1103.

90. Hodges v. Price [Wash.] 80 P. 202. Providing the judgment is supported by the findings of fact, allegations of possession and payment of taxes under warranty deed from owner instead of under color of title. Jones v. Herrick, 35 Wash. 434, 77 P. 798. Though the complaint does not state a cause of action, it will, on appeal, be deemed amended to conform to the proof where the latter is sufficient to sustain a cause of action, and the point is not raised in either the trial or appellate court. Failure of proof. Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126. Court will sustain the petition if it contains sufficient facts to constitute any cause of action, where no defects were pointed out below while plaintiff was in a position to amend. Misjoinder of causes of action. Chase v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 153. In view of liberality allowed in municipal court, and consent of defendant's attorney that plaintiff might plead anything he wished, held that pleadings in action for money had and received and conversion might be deemed amended to conform to proof, though cause of action established was not conversion. Poess v. Twelfth Ward Bank, 43 Misc. 45, 86 N. Y. S. 857. Specification in assumpsit may be treated as having been amended if the course of trial has been such as to permit it to be so treated. Aseltine v. Perry, 75 Vt. 208, 54 A. 190.

Cure by other pleadings or proof, or instructions.[91]—Defects in a pleading may be cured by averments in the pleadings of the opposite party.[92] Thus, if an allegation is defective because its terms are too narrow to include the legal principle sought to be stated, its denial, in terms as broad as the allegation should have been, cures the defect.[93]

Where evidence is given by both parties as to a matter defectively alleged without objection, the defective averment will be deemed cured by proof.[94] But where defendant understands from the court's ruling on a demurrer to a petition that its liability is rested solely on a certain ground, its introduction of evidence will not be deemed a waiver of defects in alleging another ground of liability.[95]

Misjoinder of causes of action may be cured by instructions.[96]

Aider by verdict.[97]—Cured by verdict means that the court will presume that the thing imperfectly or defectively stated or omitted was duly proven at the trial.[98] Defects, imperfections, or omissions either in the substance or form of a pleading, which would have been fatal on demurrer, are cured by verdict when the issue joined on the trial is such as to necessarily require the proof of the facts so defectively stated or omitted, and without which it will not be presumed that the verdict would have been given.[99] It is only where there is a total omission to

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1234.

92. In cross complaint in suit for balance due for work, material, and money furnished. Abner Doble Co. v. Keystone Consol. Min. Co., 145 Cal. 490, 78 P. 1050. Failure to allege nonpayment in complaint cured by admissions in answer. Harmon v. Fox [Mont.] 78 P. 517. Complaint defective in failing to state contract sued on with sufficient clearness, not demurred to, held cured by answer in justification of breach charged. Carhart v. Oddenkirk [Colo. App.] 79 P. 303. In action for balance due for goods sold and for labor, failure of cross complaint to allege that the amount demanded had not been paid held cured by answer denying indebtedness, and by failure to object to evidence on such ground, and by the findings. Abner Doble Co. v. McDonald, 145 Cal. 641, 79 P. 369. Failure to allege that defendant did not know of defective condition of mine, and could not have known of it by exercise of ordinary care, cured by allegations of answer that he was notified of danger, and directed not to work there. Wilson v. Alpine Coal Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 337, 81 S. W. 278. In assumpsit for rent, failure of declaration to allege that defendant occupied premises is cured by an allegation of the plea that defendant entered into possession and was evicted by plaintiff. Rubens v. Hill, 213 Ill. 523, 72 N. E. 1127. In action between former partners on partnership account, allegations of partnership settlement in answer held express aider to those of petition. Jackson v. Powell [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1132. An answer supplying an omitted and necessary allegation of the petition, error on the part of the trial court in overruling a demurrer thereto ceases to be reversible error. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Hare, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 348. A transfer pleaded by answer and traversed by reply is in issue though the answer itself was not so verified as to deny the title pleaded in the complaint. Suit by assignee of note. Defense of assignment by payee to third person and nonassignment by such third person. Reply claiming reassignment. Leis v. Potter, 68 Kan. 117, 74 P. 622. Alleged assignee's testimony that he had no interest did not cure rejection of evidence under answer offered by defendant. Id.

93. Defect in petition alleging that land was susceptible of division among its owners in not adding words "without impairing its value" is cured by answer denying that it could be divided "without impairing its value." Taylor v. Webber, 26 Ky. L. R. 1199, 83 S. W. 567.

94. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McIntosh, 26 Ky. L. R. 14, 80 S. W. 496. Where an issue not raised by the pleadings is so tendered, the court is justified in considering the pleadings amended so as to embrace it. May submit it by instructions. Iverson v. McDonnell, 36 Wash. 73, 78 P. 202.

95. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McIntosh, 26 Ky. L. R. 14, 80 S. W. 496.

96. Causes of action held eliminated by instructions. Louisville & N. Terminal Co. v. Lellyett [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 881.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1234.

98. Abner Doble Co. v. Keystone Consol. Min. Co., 145 Cal. 490, 78 P. 1050.

99. Abner Doble Co. v. Keystone Consol. Min. Co., 145 Cal. 490, 78 P. 1050. Formal defects. Rubens v. Hill, 213 Ill. 523, 72 N. E. 1127. Formal defects cured by verdict and judgment, or by the judgment alone where the law and facts are tried by the court. Answer sufficient after judgment. Commonwealth v. Higgins' Trustee, 26 Ky. L. R. 910, 82 S. W. 601. In action for injuries to passenger while attempting to board street car, failure of petition to allege that defendant's servants had knowledge or were negligent in failing to ascertain that he was about to board car. Ashland, etc. R. Co. v. Lee, 26 Ky. L. R. 699, 82 S. W. 368. Where evidence not in the record, it will be presumed on appeal that such fact was proved, since it was necessary to sustain judgment. Id. Where, after verdict and judgment in an action for breach of a contract to purchase realty, it affirmatively appears that plaintiff state a cause of action, or an omission to state some fact essential to a cause of action, that the verdict will not cure the defect.[1]

§ 12. Time and order of pleadings.[2]—The time within which pleadings must be filed is regulated by the statutes of the various states.[3] The time within which a pleading must be served is to be computed from the date of the actual service of the preceding one and not from an erroneous date inadvertently given in the admission of service.[4] In New York where notice must be given or a paper served within a specified time before an act is done, or where the adverse party has a specified time after notice or service within which to do an act, if service of the paper requiring action of the adverse party is made by mail the time required or allowed is double that specified.[5] In Georgia it is error on the call of the case for hearing, to dismiss a plea and demurrer not filed in time, where the case has never been marked in default.[6]

Parties may, by agreement and with the consent of the court, extend the time for entry of a writ beyond the term at which it is returnable.[7]

The time to answer may be extended by stipulation,[8] but such time is not extended by a motion to quash the service of summons,[9] or by the removal of a case was able, ready and willing to comply with the contract on his part within the time limited, failure of complaint to so allege is cured. Defect one of form. Harmon v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 569. A cause of action defectively stated. Plaintiff will be presumed to have proved at trial the facts inadequately stated. Robinson v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 105 Mo. App. 567, 80 S. W. 9. In action for personal injuries to employe, omission of averment of knowledge on part of employer that machine was in bad order not cured by verdict, where there was nothing in petition suggesting such knowledge. Mueller v. La Prelle Shoe Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1010. Failure to allege that if conductor had signaled motorman to stop he could have stopped in time to avert injury. Leu v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 137. Defective allegations as to mutual mistake. Lewis v. Batten [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 389. Where no objection is made to the adequacy of the pleading by motion or otherwise, general averments of negligence are sufficient after verdict. Barnes v. Columbia Lead Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 203. Mere imperfections or indefiniteness in the statement of a cause of action [Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 672]. Ball v. Neosho [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 777. An issue raised on the statement of a legal conclusion which presents the real point in controversy. Allegation in petition for divorce that defendant continually abused plaintiff, quarreling with him over various small matters. Slaughter v. Slaughter, 106 Mo. App. 104, 80 S. W. 3. Failure to allege a promise to repay a loan or a breach of such promise. Kitchen v. Holmes, 42 Or. 252, 70 P. 830. Suit on note and contract, and to foreclose mortgage. Ellis v. Howard Smith Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 633.

1. Ellis v. Howard Smith Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 633. The objection that plaintiff has not negatived the exceptions in a penal statute is not cured by judgment. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 92 N. Y. S. 225.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1236.

See, also, Defaults, 3 Curr. L. 1069.

3. Answers to suits in the city court of Savannah must be filed on or before the first day of the return term. Lippman v. Aetna Ins. Co., 120 Ga. 247, 47 S. E. 593.

In Georgia where the next term of court is illegally adjourned during vacation, and is not held at the regular time, the defendant, in a case in which such term was the appearance term, may file his plea or answer at the following term, or at any time prior thereto. Where May term was adjourned until June, answer then filed is in time, where next term is in August. Frank & Co. v. Horkan [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800. Error to strike such answer as filed too late, and error properly corrected by allowing it to be refiled on same day. Id.

4. Answer within 20 days after service of summons under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 520. Tolhurst v. Howard, 94 App. Div. 439, 88 N. Y. S. 235.

5. Code Civ. Proc. § 798, applies to motion to make answer so served more definite and certain. Borsuk v. Blauner, 93 App. Div. 306, 87 N. Y. S. 851.

6. Defendant has thirty days after entry of default in which to appear and have it reopened on payment of costs. Gordon v. Hudson, 120 Ga. 698, 48 S. E. 131. Where defendant's offer to file answer after first term is refused on ground that case is in default, and record is silent as to whether it has been so marked, will be presumed, on appeal, that such entry had been made. Norman v. Great Western Tailoring Co., 121 Ga. 813, 49 S. E. 782. In city court established by Civ. Code 1895, § 4270 et seq. Clifton v. Fiveash [Ga.] 50 S. E. 134.

7. Indorsement "The within writ may be entered late" construed to allow entry after term. United States v. O'Brien, 120 F. 446.

8. Stipulation that defendant might, within five days, file such pleas or answers as it could have filed before default occurred, held to require plea of accord and satisfaction to be filed within that time. Insurance Co. of North America v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972.

9. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591.

to the Federal court.[10] Where, after the removal, a motion to remand is made, the time to answer is thereby extended to the rule day next succeeding the determination of such motion.[11]

A pleading filed prematurely[12] or too late will be stricken from the files.[13] Pleas in abatement must be filed within the time allowed by statute or they will not be considered.[14]

The court may generally in its discretion allow an answer to be made after the time limited by statute.[15]

In some states dilatory pleas must be filed at the first term, unless a failure to do so is shown to be unavoidable.[16] Special demurrers to petitions or answers cannot be considered unless filed before the trial term.[17] A motion to dismiss, in the nature of a general demurrer, may be made at the trial.[18] The previous dismissal of a special demurrer because not filed in time is no bar to such motion.[19]

Demurrers to the petition should be filed and acted upon before the case is tried.[20]

The subsequent approval of the filing of a pleading is as effective as though permission to file it had been granted in advance.[21] The appellate court will not

10. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966. In such case the time for answering is determined by ascertaining the number of days which had elapsed between the service of the complaint in the state court and the date of the removal, and suspending the time until the record reaches the Federal court, when it again begins to run from the date of the entry there. Id. Under the circuit court rules for the fourth circuit, the answer will be in time if served on a rule day within twenty days thereafter. Id.

11. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966.

12. If prematurely filed before leave given, it may be stricken to purge the records of a mistake. Petition for leave to intervene. Born v. Schneider, 128 F. 179.

13. On motion. Lippman v. Aetna Ins. Co., 120 Ga. 247, 47 S. E. 593. An answer served and filed after the entry of a default. Proper practice is to make motion to set aside default and obtain leave to answer, tendering answer with motion. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591. Plea filed out of time and without leave of court is not part of record, and if review of ruling rejecting it is desired it must be taken up by bill of exceptions. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64.

14. Rule 17 requires pleas in abatement to be filed five days before the cause stands for trial. Collier v. Grey, 105 Ill. App. 485.

15. Denial of motion to allow defendant two days in which to file pleas other than the general issue and not guilty will not be reversed, where motion was not supported by showing that he in fact desired to file other pleas than general issue, or that he had defense which could not be presented thereunder, and no excuse was shown for delay. Maultsby v. Boulware [Fla.] 36 So. 713. The court must exercise a sound legal discretion in allowing the opening of defaults. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 5072. No abuse of discretion in refusing to do so. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Parker, 119 Ga. 721, 47 S. E. 194; El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. B. & C. Comp. Or. § 103. Where, after entry of decree of divorce, plaintiff applied for alimony, etc., and defendant appeared specially and challenged jurisdiction of court, and, after his objections were overruled, refused to plead further, suffered default, and appealed, and secured reversal in part, held that he should have been allowed to answer to the merits, though mistaken in part in his view of the law. McFarlane v. McFarlane [Or.] 77 P. 837. Discretion a legal one, to be exercised in conformity with spirit of law, and to subserve ends of justice. Id. S. C. Code Civ. Proc. § 195. As where defendant has failed to answer because of pendency of motion to make complaint more definite and certain and judgment taken by default. Bryce v. Southern R. Co., 129 F. 966.

16. Ga. Civ. Code 1895, § 5058. Adams v. Branan, 120 Ga. 530, 48 S. E. 128; Quillan v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801. Where no such cause is shown, it is too late to file such a plea in the superior court on appeal from the county court. Held error to refuse to strike plea because filed too late. Adams v. Branan, 120 Ga. 530, 48 S. E. 128. Entirely new and distinct grounds for abating an action cannot be set up at the trial term under the guise of an amendment to a plea in abatement filed in due time. Quillan v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801. A plea in abatement should be filed at the earliest opportunity for pleading (Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268), but may, in the discretion of the court, be allowed after the time for filing it has passed, where defendant has not pleaded to the merits, and plaintiff has not acted upon this waiver of the matter in abatement (Id.).

17. Ford v. Fargason, 120 Ga. 606, 48 S. E. 180.

18. On ground that no cause of action is set forth. Rountree v. Finch, 120 Ga. 743, 48 S. E. 132

19. Rountree v. Finch, 120 Ga. 743, 48 S. E. 132.

20. Sheridan v. Forsee, 106 Mo. App. 495, 81 S. W. 494.

21. Substituted answer. Rice v. Bolton [Iowa] 100 N. W. 634.

interfere because of dilatory tactics in making up issues unless the trial court has abused its discretion.[22]

§ 13. Filing, service, and withdrawal. Filing.[23]—The fact that answers were not marked "filed" does not affect the validity of the decree if they were actually before the court and in its custody when it was rendered.[24]

Service.[25]—In Montana a copy of the complaint must be served with the summons unless two or more defendants are residents of the same county, in which case a copy need only be served on one of them.[26] The fact that the party on whom the complaint is served files a disclaimer does not affect the service on the others, there being nothing to show that he was not made a defendant in good faith.[27] Where the summons is served on all the defendants in the same county and a copy of the complaint is served on one of them, the return of the sheriff need not show that they were all residents of such county.[28]

Service of papers in an action may be made by mail by depositing them in the postoffice, properly inclosed in a postpaid wrapper, and directed to the person to be served at his address.[29] The test for determining the sufficiency of such service is whether the papers actually come into the hands of the party sought to be served.[30] If they are actually received, insufficiency of postage is immaterial.[31]

A defendant served by publication may, before the service is completed, appear and demand a copy of the complaint, if one has not been delivered to him personally, notwithstanding the fact that one was served on him by mail.[32] His time to answer runs from the time of compliance with such demand.[33]

The fact that a pleading is entitled in the wrong county does not justify a refusal to receive it, where it is returned on other grounds.[34]

Withdrawal and abandonment.[35]—Allowing the withdrawal of pleadings is a matter largely in the discretion of the trial court.[36] Pleadings cannot, as a general rule, be changed after the case has been opened to the jury.[37]

An abandoned plea is not before the court, and need not be passed upon or disposed of.[38] Admissions or declarations made in abandoned pleadings are open to explanation or contradiction.[39]

22. Rice v. Bolton [Iowa] 100 N. W. 634.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1237.

24. Latimer v. Irish-American Bank, 119 Ga. 887, 47 S. E. 322.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1238.

26. May be served on any one of those named in complaint [Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 635]. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591.

27. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591.

28. Presumed that they were, in absence of showing to contrary. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591.

29. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 797. Appeal Print. Co. v. Sherman, 99 App. Div. 533, 91 N. Y. S. 178; Fitzgerald v. Dakin, 91 N. Y. S. 1003. Service by dropping papers in an office letter box, loosely, and without any wrapper, is unauthorized. Answer and bill of particulars so deposited at 8 o'clock p. m., may be returned within twenty-four hours. Id.

30. Appeal Print. Co. v. Sherman, 99 App. Div. 533, 91 N. Y. S. 178.

31. Where counterclaim was sent not fully prepaid, and attorney's paid postage due without objection, the service was valid, and they could not return pleading on opening package and discovering what it contained. Appeal Printing Co. v. Sherman, 99 App. Div. 533, 91 N. Y. S. 178.

32, 33. Sanders v. People's Co-op. Ice Co., 44 Misc. 171, 89 N. Y. S. 785.

34. Tolhurst v. Howard, 94 App. Div. 439, 88 N. Y. S. 235.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1238.

36. Allowing defendant's plea of tender, in action of assumpsit, to be withdrawn just before impaneling jury not abuse of discretion. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926. Withdrawal does not prevent plaintiff from proving same as admission. Id.

37. Does not prevent withdrawal before jury is impaneled. O'Connell v. King [R. I.] 59 A. 926.

38. Hill v. Lyles [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 559. A defendant who, after announcing ready for trial and waiving a jury, refuses to submit or read his pleadings to the court, thereby abandons a plea in reconvention. Id. An announcement in open court that a party will not rely on certain allegations in his pleading is equivalent to striking them out, and they need not thereafter be considered. Where plaintiff's counsel announced that he would not rely on allegations of negligence in original petition, but would rely entirely on those in amendment, held not error for court not to submit to jury issues raised by original petition. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E.

§ 14. Issues made, proof, and variance.[40]—By demurrer[41] or motion tendering no issues of fact, all questions of fact are admitted.[42]

On appeal from a judgment by default, the complaint is to be tested as upon demurrer.[43]

The general issue and general denials.[44]—All facts which directly tend to disprove any one or more of the averments of the complaint, or to show that plaintiff never had a cause of action, are admissible under a general denial.[45]

Special issues and special denials.[46]—New matter constituting a defense or counterclaim must be specially pleaded.[47] Thus, payment,[48] fraud,[49] the statute of frauds,[50] unless the making of the contract alleged in the complaint is put in issue by the answer,[51] the statute of limitations,[52] the defense of non est factum,[53]

788. Defendant abandoning all the issues raised by the pleadings except one, is voluntarily restricted to that one defense. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011.

39. Evidence held to show that pleas of limitations in answer were made simply as defensive pleas to meet allegations of forfeiture of lease, and not intended to assert title inconsistent with lease. Wildey Lodge v. Paris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 99.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1239.

41. See § 5, ante.

42. A motion to dissolve an injunction on the ground of the insufficiency of the bill admits no more than would a demurrer thereto. Board of Trade of Chicago v. Weare, 105 Ill. App. 289.

43. Bad on appeal if it would be bad on demurrer. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296.

44. See 2 Curr. L. 1239.

45. Distinction depends primarily on construction of complaint and material averments of fact therein. Hogen v. Klabo [N. D.] 100 N. W. 847. The new matter of the codes admits that all the material allegations of the complaint are true, and consists of facts not alleged therein which destroy the right of action and defeat a recovery. Id.

Facts which may be proved: That the contract sued on was otherwise than alleged in complaint. May introduce evidence to show what contract really was. Alaska Commercial Co. v. Williams [C. C. A.] 128 F. 362. May show entire transaction. Hogen v. Klabo [N. D.] 100 N. W. 847. Where petition avers establishment and continued use of streets up to time of suit and that attempt to close them was without authority in law or right and without sanction from proper authorities, may show that streets had been vacated and enclosed by abutting owners. Chrisman v. Omaha & C. B. R. & Bridge Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 63. Estoppel in pais. Dickson v. New York Biscuit Co., 211 Ill. 468, 71 N. E. 1058. In Michigan, in an action on a promissory note before a justice of the peace, the plea of total failure of consideration is admissible [Comp. Laws §§ 767, 769]. Hubbard v. Freiberger, 133 Mich. 139, 94 N. W. 727, 10 Det. Leg. N. 123. In an action of conversion may show title in a stranger. Ten Eyck v. Denison, 99 App. Div. 106, 91 N. Y. S. 169. In Indiana contributory negligence [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 359a]. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 71 N. E. 218. Also in an action to quiet title every defense, whether legal or equitable, is admissible under a general denial [Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 1067, 1082, 1083]. Beasey v. High, 33 Ind. App. 689, 72 N. E. 181.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1202, 1239.

47. Hogen v. Klabo [N. D.] 100 N. W. 847. Mich. Circuit Court Rule 7. In action for injuries to land by water from mill race, right under deed or by prescription to do acts complained of held affirmative defenses. Scott v. Longwell [Mich.] 102 N. W. 230. In action for price of lumber defendant cannot show shortage in amounts for which it had formerly paid without pleading such facts by way of recoupment or counterclaim. Strother v. McMullen Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 650. New matter by way of confession and avoidance. That contract sued on is champertous, or void as against public policy. Rucker v. Bolles [C. C. A.] 133 F. 858.

48. Fuller Co. v. Manhattan Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1049. In action to recover money which plaintiff was required to pay state on land purchased from defendant, in excess of what he represented was due, evidence as to settlement inadmissible unless fact pleaded as bar. Word v. Marrs [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 17. In an action on notes compensation in whole or in part [Rev. Code Prac. La. art. 367]. Julius Kessler & Co. v. Perilloux & Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 903. The issue raised by a general denial of a counterclaim is the original existence of the cause of action alleged therein, and not any settlement thereof. Shaffer Bros. v. Warren [Iowa] 102 N. W. 497.

49. An assignment cannot be set aside for fraud under an answer containing a general denial only. Midler v. Lese, 91 N. Y. S. 148.

50. De Montague v. Bacharach [Mass.] 72 N. E. 938; Livingstone v. Murphy [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1012; Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007. Unless apparent on the face of the complaint, allegation that contract was made is sufficient without alleging that it was in writing. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932.

51. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007.

52. Gray Lithograph Co. v. American Watchman's Time Detector Co., 44 Misc. 206, 88 N. Y. S. 857. The pendency of another action relied on to toll limitations. Citizens' Bank v. Spencer [Iowa] 101 N. W. 643.

53. Anderson v. Blair, 121 Ga. 120, 48 S. E. 951. The execution of an instrument sued on need not be proved when no plea of non est factum is filed, though the para-or ultra vires, unless want of capacity appears on the face of the petition,[54] and the failure to perform conditions precedent to the right to sue,[55] cannot be shown under a general denial. Damages not necessarily and naturally resulting from the injuries complained of must be specially pleaded.[56] Matters which must be specially pleaded cannot be taken advantage of by a denial in an answer, even though no objection is made thereto.[57]

Variance.[58]—A party must recover, if at all, on the cause of action set up in his pleadings.[59] Hence, allegations and proofs must substantially correspond.[60] graph of the petition alleging due execution is denied in an answer, not sworn to. Id.

54. Royal Fraternal Union v. Crosier [Kan.] 78 P. 162.

55. Failure of plaintiff to resort to arbitration before suing on an insurance policy. Royal Fraternal Union v. Crosier [Kan.] 78 P. 162.

56. Loss of time and earnings. Wilbur v. Southwest Mo. Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 671.

57. Anderson v. Blair, 121 Ga. 120, 48 S. E. 951.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1241.

59. Plaintiff cannot rely on the evidence of defendant to make out a case, where, in order to do so, he must repudiate his own testimony and the allegations of the petition. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 346. Purchaser suing for fraudulent representations made by vendor as inducement for sale cannot recover by showing mutual mistake. Connell v. El Paso Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 78 P. 677; Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909; Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730. Cannot allege specific negligence of one kind and recover upon proof of negligence of another character. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Bell, 209 Ill. 25, 70 N. E. 754. If fails to establish truth of case as laid, defendant is entitled to verdict. Murphy v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 53 A. 1018. Where plaintiff seeks to recover amount of purchase money paid defendant, less rental value, on ground that he has been wrongfully evicted from premises sold to him, and it affirmatively appears from his testimony that he defaulted in payment, and that defendant re-entered as purchaser at sheriff's sale pursuant to judgment recovered therefor, plaintiff fails to prove his case as alleged, and evidence touching rental value of land is irrelevant. Rodgers v. Caldwell [Ga.] 50 S. E. 95. Is concluded by the theory of his pleadings and cannot depart therefrom by evidence repugnant thereto or contradictory thereof, or introduce a new issue. In action on curator's bond, where answer alleges that curator had property and committed defalcation after defendant was discharged as surety, defendant cannot show that property was lost by improper investment prior to his suretyship. State v. Bergfeld [Mo App.] 84 S. W. 177. The rule as to variance is the same under the code as at common law, except in so far as its consequences may be obviated at the trial. Higgins v. Graham, 143 Cal. 131, 76 P. 898; Zeiser v. Cohn, 44 Misc. 462, 90 N. Y. S. 66.

60. Griffin v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 134 N. C. 101, 46 S. E. 7; Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299. Plaintiff cannot recover for injuries caused by any other acts of defendant than those alleged in his pleadings. Wilhelm v. Donegan, 143 Cal. 50, 76 P. 713. Both for purpose of advising other party what he will be called upon to answer, and to preserve record so as to prevent another suit based on same cause. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Action for injuries received while operating elevator. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander, 212 Ill. 27, 72 N. E. 50. Every allegation descriptive of the cause of action must be proved as alleged. Even unnecessary allegations descriptive of what is material. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2.

No variance: Between original declaration and additional count in regard to locus in quo of accident. Town of Cicero v. Bartelme, 212 Ill. 256, 72 N. E. 437. Between declaration and terms of lease. Agreement by lessor to put premises in habitable condition held independent covenant. Rubens v. Hill, 213 Ill. 523, 72 N. E. 1127. Between evidence of an accounting with an agent and allegations of an accounting with the principal. Hayes v. Walker [S. C.] 48 S. E. 989.

Variance immaterial: Proof of mode of payment different from that described in complaint. McNerney v. Barnes [Conn.] 58 A. 714. Where benefit certificate offered in evidence was dated April 21, the one described in petition dated April 8, and the application made a part of the certificate was dated April 8, the variance did not warrant its exclusion. Hyatt v. Legal Protective Ass'n, 106 Mo. App. 610, 81 S. W. 470. Between allegation that defendant's testator received certain shares of stock as bailee to sell for plaintiff under guaranty to obtain certain price therefor and evidence showing that deceased purchased the stock at the same price. Linden v. Thieriot, 96 App. Div. 256, 89 N. Y. S. 273. Where plaintiff may sue in trespass or case at his election, the fact that the writ states an action of trespass and the declaration sounds in case, since the defect may be cured by amendment. Action by one bitten by dog [Gen. Laws R. I. 1896, p. 373, c. 111, § 3]. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930.

Fatal variance: A judgment creditor, intervening in action to restrain sheriff from selling wife's land as that of husband, and claiming merely that husband's deed to wife was void as to creditors, cannot after filing of findings of fact, claim that deed was really mortgage, and that equitable title was in husband. White v. Besse, 145 Cal. 223, 78 P. 649. Between allegations of damage to crops by failure to furnish water for irrigation purposes, and evidence that acts complained of resulted in depreciation of market

In order to be fatal, the variance must be as to a material fact.[61] Where it is apparent from the reading of a written instrument that its meaning and purpose as pleaded are identical with the original, there is no variance, even though the wording as pleaded is different from the instrument itself.[62] A failure of proof results only when the allegations to which the proof is directed are unproved, not in some particulars only, but in their entire scope and meaning.[63]

Immaterial variances will be wholly disregarded.[64] As a rule no variance will be deemed material unless it actually misleads the adverse party to his prejudice in maintaining his action or defense upon the merits.[65] A party claiming to have been misled must show that fact to the satisfaction of the court, and also show the particulars in which he has been misled.[66] value of land. Equitable Securities Co. v. Montrose & D. Canal Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 747. In suit for balance due on open account, held that plaintiff could not recover on proof of breach of covenant with respect to certain timber sold to him for cash, he having failed to prove his case as laid. Loyd v. Anderson, 119 Ga. 875, 47 S. E. 208. An objection of variance will be overruled on appeal if there is evidence in the record which, if taken as true, together with all inferences which may be legitimately drawn therefrom, fairly tends to sustain the averments of the declaration. Evidence in action for personal injuries held to tend to support averments in declaration, and hence no fatal variance. Town of Cicero v. Bartelme, 212 Ill. 256, 72 N. E. 437. Where a declaration states a good cause of action against two defendants jointly, and plaintiff dismisses as to one at the close of the evidence, and is granted leave to amend so as to show a cause of action against the remaining one only, the failure to make such amendment produces a fatal variance. Cannot be treated as having been made. Action against employer for personal injuries. Condon v. Schoenfeld [Ill.] 73 N. E. 333. As to manner in which injury occurred. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Mistake in one's middle name or initial. One suing as administratrix of the estate of "Ferdinand N." A. for his wrongful death cannot recover under a complaint alleging death of "Fernando W." A. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pierce [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 604. In suit to establish lien, where complaint alleged that plaintiff's mortgagor had title bond at time of mortgage, and subsequently paid for land without receiving deed, and proof showed that bond was given to a third person who sold land to mortgagor. Comb's Adm'x v. Krish [Ky.] 84 S. W. 562. Between petition alleging negligence in allowing valve to remain out of order after having been notified, without plaintiff's knowledge, and proof that plaintiff discovered defect, reported it to defendant, and continued to work, relying on promise to repair it. Studenroth v. Hammond Packing Co., 106 Mo. App. 480, 81 S. W. 487. Between allegation that plaintiff was struck by brick while in front of building owing to negligence in failure to guard those lawfully there and proof that he worked in rear of building and was in cellar when injured. Reilly v. Vought, 87 N. Y. S. 492. Inconsistency between the claim stated in an affidavit for attachment and the demand in the declaration. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833.

61. Special finding of jury that plaintiff did not state condition of his title to person who readjusted his insurance held not to show fatal variance. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730.

62. Use of word "heretofore" instead of "hereafter" mere clerical error. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063.

63. No failure in action to establish ownership of land [N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5295]. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310. The fact that the petition, in an action on a fire policy, alleges an absolute promise and the proof shows a conditional one is a variance as distinguished from a failure of proof. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299.

64. Conn. Rules under Practice Act III, § 6 (58 Conn. 565). McNerney v. Barnes [Conn.] 58 A. 714.

65. Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 469. On appeal in absence of showing of objection on ground of variance, will be presumed that evidence justified findings and judgment. Will not be reversed unless prejudice shown. Id. § 475. Abner Doble Co. v. Keystone Consol. Min. Co., 145 Cal. 490, 78 P. 1050. If averments of complaint uncertain, answer held sufficient to put question in issue, and to show that defendant was not misled [Idaho Rev. St. 1887, § 4225]. Lewis v. Utah Const. Co. [Idaho] 77 P. 336. Variance between pleading alleging that accident occurred on one side of street and proof that it occurred on other is immaterial [Ky. Civ. Code Prac. § 129]. City of Covington v. Miles, 26 Ky. L. R. 609, 82 S. W. 281. Variance in date of contract immaterial [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 539]. Carlisle v. Barnes, 92 N. Y. S. 924, afg. 45 Misc. 6, 90 N. Y. S. 810. When not amounting to failure of proof [N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5293]. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310. S. D. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 146. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

66. Amendment to conform pleadings to proof properly allowed, where defendant failed to show prejudice [N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 539]. Carlisle v. Barnes, 92 N. Y. S. 924, afd. 45 Misc. 6, 90 N. Y. S. 810. Counsel's refusal to make statement that he had been misled, required by court as condition to denying amendment, held not to entitle defendant to vacation of judgment on ground of surprise, etc. Id. Court may thereupon order the pleadings to be amended upon such terms as may be just [Ky. Civ. Code Prac. § 129]. City of Covington v. Miles, 26 Ky. L. R. 609, 82 S. W. 281. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, §

The petition may be dismissed for a fatal variance.[67]

Admissions in pleadings or by failure to plead.[68]—Allegations of the complaint, petition, or declaration which are admitted,[69] or not specifically denied, by the answer,[70] and new matter in the answer not denied by the reply,[71] will be 2096. Farmers' Bank v. Manchester Assur. Co., 106 Mo. App. 114, 80 S. W. 299. The affidavit setting forth in what manner he has been misled is the sole test of the materiality of the discrepancy. Id. Unless he does so, the variance will be deemed immaterial and disregarded. N. D. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5293. Action to redeem from deed given as security and prevent sale by defendant. Halloran v. Holmes [N. D.] 101 N. W. 310.

67. Particularly where the plaintiff declines the court's offer of leave to withdraw a juror. Reilly v. Vought, 87 N. Y. S. 492.

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1199, 1204, n. 36-38.

69. Are tantamount to findings duly made. As to method of reinstatement of suspended member of benefit society. Miller v. Head Camp [Or.] 77 P. 83. Parties may not contradict or disprove what they have admitted in their pleadings, but, to render such evidence admissible, should correct the pleadings by amendment. Sievers v. Martin, 26 Ky. L. R. 904, 82 S. W. 631. The admission of the execution of a note does not preclude defendant from setting up a conditional delivery. New Haven Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Pulp & Board Co., 76 Conn. 126, 55 A. 604. Admission that paragraph in complaint, alleging that "a copy of said protested check is hereto attached, marked 'Exhibit A,' to which reference is prayed," is true, admits that exhibit is a true copy of the original check, with all entries thereon. Wachstein v. Germania Bank, 120 Ga. 229, 47 S. E. 586. Plaintiff in partition claimed land, alleged to have been occupied by his grandparents as homestead, as heir. Defendants claimed same under contract with deceased owners, but admitted that land was occupied by decedents as homestead until their death. Held, that admission left no issue as to plaintiff's right to partition as against purely defensive part of answer, and he was entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Caldwell v. Drummond [Iowa] 102 N. W. 842. In suit to enforce mechanic's lien, answer setting up estoppel to enforce it, held to in effect admit existence and validity of lien. Badger Lumber Co. v. Muehlebach [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 546. Need not be proved. Noyes v. Young [Mont.] 79 P. 1063. An answer in a suit for specific performance alleging that, since contract was made, defendant has conveyed land to another, constitutes an admission that they owned it when it was made, and cures defect in complaint failing to aver such fact. Christiansen v. Aldrich [Mont.] 76 P. 1007. In action for personal injuries, admission of allegation that defendant was in possession of, and used certain cars at time and place of accident held to make it unnecessary for plaintiff to prove that particular engine causing injury was owned by defendant. Allen v. Palmer, 91 N. Y. S. 731. Answer in action on contract with city for street cleaning construed, and held not to admit that final payment actually made was due. Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co. v. New York, 99 App. Div. 327, 91 N. Y. S. 131.

70. Bates v. Frazier [Ky.] 85 S. W. 757. An allegation as to the death of a person, and to his dying without issue is not uncontroverted where the answer denies that he died without issue on a specified date, "or other time, or that he is dead at all." Ironton Fire Brick Co. v. Tucker, 26 Ky. L. R. 1021, 82 S. W. 1009. Will be taken as prima facie true. Miller v. Georgia R. Bank, 120 Ga. 17, 47 S. E. 525. Such admission concludes defendant and he cannot contradict it on trial. Fiebiger v. Forbes, 43 Misc. 612, 88 N. Y. S. 284. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 522. Driscoll v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 146, 88 N. Y. S. 745; Corn v. Levy, 97 App. Div. 48, 89 N. Y. S. 658; Fiebiger v. Forbes, 43 Misc. 612, 88 N. Y. S. 284. Where plaintiff, in action for dissolution of partnership, filed a supplemental complaint, by leave of court, after entry of interlocutory judgment dissolving the partnership and appointing a referee, on which no final judgment was entered, he was not entitled to a final judgment as for default on defendant's failure to answer, particularly where the supplemental complaint set up no cause of action. Cox v. Clarke, 45 Misc. 102, 91 N. Y. S. 587. Separate defenses of estoppel and easement in action to enjoin maintenance of elevated road held unavailing, in absence of denial of allegation that none of owners had consented to construction and operation of road. Driscoll v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 95 App. Div. 146, 88 N. Y. S. 745. Plea denying making of contract and representations inducing it, but failing to deny allegation that representations were false, admits their falsity. Phillips v. Crosby [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 142. Allegation in statement of claim that contract of married woman was valid by laws of state where made, not denied by affidavit of defense. Peter Adams Paper Co. v. Cassard, 208 Pa. 267, 57 A. 564. Failure to deny execution of contracts by president and secretary of corporation in its name and under its seal admits execution (Wisconsin Lumber Co. v. Greene & W. Tel. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 742), and that officers had power to make it (Id.). Allegations as to value of property damaged by blowing sawdust over it. Mahan v. Doggett [Ky.] 84 S. W. 525. Matters improperly denied [Sand. & H. Dig. Ark. § 5761]. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703. Failure to deny prima facie title set up by plaintiff, and pleading, in avoidance, tax deed and adverse possession to show prima facie title in themselves, held admission of plaintiff's title. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946. Where the petition alleges that the contract sued on was made by defendants' agents, and defendants fail to deny such fact under oath, it will be taken as proven. Watkins Land Mortg. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 560. Where the answer in a suit on an accident insurance policy pleads a failure to give notice, and the reply pleads waiver and estoppel, or matter to avoid the effect of a failure, the allegation that no notice was given will be taken as admitted. Western Travelers' Acc. Ass'n v.

taken as established. The rule, however, does not apply to amendments to the petition.[72] Nor is an admission in a pleading binding on the party making it where the opposite party fails to rely upon it, and introduces evidence to controvert the allegations admitted.[73]

A portion of a paragraph of an answer containing an admission complete in itself is admissible without the remaining portion.[74]

By default; defendant admits the truth of all the allegations of the complaint, including facts shown by an exhibit attached to, and made a part of it.[75]

A tender and payment into court of a specific sum as adequate compensation for injuries suffered, in an action for unliquidated damages sounding in tort, is a solemn and conclusive admission of plaintiff's cause of action, and of the existence of every fact essential to the maintenance of his action.[76]

A defendant admitting the allegations of the complaint and its prayer is only entitled to such relief as it suggests.[77]

Judgment on the pleadings will be given when they present such a state of conceded facts as to entitle either party to relief.[78] Judgment cannot be entered Tomson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 341. Question of excuse or whether notice was given within reasonable time entirely eliminated. Id. A party adopting the answer of another is bound by admissions therein. Rickman v. Meier, 213 Ill. 507, 72 N. E. 1121.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1204, n. 36-38. In action for possession of realty and cancellation of tax deed, failure of plaintiff to deny allegations of answer setting up tax deed acquired after commencement of action does not defeat action, where deed is not before court on appeal, so that its regularity can be determined. Paine v. Palmborg [Colo. App.] 79 P. 330. Where material parts of petition, which were basis of prayer for writ of mandamus to compel payment of salary, were denied by part of answer to which no replication was filed, payment should not have been ordered on overruling demurrer to replication. City of Chicago v. People, 210 Ill. 84, 71 N. E. 816. Defendant is not entitled to judgment on the pleadings for plaintiff's failure to reply to an amended answer, filed just before the second trial of an action, which merely sets out with greater particularity matters of defense relied on in the original answer, all of which were substantially denied by the original reply. Ruby Carriage Co. v. Kremer, 26 Ky. L. R. 274, 81 S. W. 251. Where an answer stating a complete defense is not replied to, defendant is entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Advice of counsel in action for malicious prosecution. Tandy v. Riley, 26 Ky. L. R. 98, 80 S. W. 776. Where the replication admits certain items set up in a counterclaim, it is error to charge that the burden is on defendant to prove each and every item of the counterclaim. Oliver v. Love, 104 Mo. App. 73, 78 S. W. 335. Replication admitting "each and every fact set up in the answer, except that the timber has been paid for, which he expressly denies," held not to admit payment. Phillips v. Barnes, 105 Mo. App. 421, 80 S. W. 43. Mere anticipatory denials in the complaint are insufficient. Allegations of contributory negligence must be replied to, though complaint alleges due care. State v. District Court [Mont.] 79 P. 546; Floyd-Jones v. Anderson [Mont.] 76 P. 751. In case plaintiff fails to reply or demur, defendant may move for such judgment as he is entitled to on the pleadings [Mont. Code Civ. Proc. § 722, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 142]. State v. District Court [Mont.] 79 P. 546. It is then too late for plaintiff to dismiss. Submission of motion for judgment on pleadings a trial within Code Civ. Proc. § 1004. Id. Denial cannot be assumed. Adams Exp. Co. v. Gordon, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 563.

72. Miller v. Georgia R. Bank, 120 Ga. 17, 47 S. E. 525.

73. Dressner v. Manhattan Delivery Co., 92 N. Y. S. 800.

74. Where it admits killing, plaintiff need not put in matter of explanation or exculpation. Stewart v. North Carolina R. Co., 136 N. C. 385, 48 S. E. 793. Where it is complete as an admission, it is admissible though only part of a sentence. Hedrick v. Southern R. Co., 136 N. C. 510, 48 S. E. 830.

75. Map. Hollister v. State [Idaho] 77 P. 339.

76. Only remaining question is amount of damages. Wells v. Missouri-Edison Elec. Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 204.

77. Cauthen v. Cauthen [S. C.] 49 S. E. 321.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1224, n. 78, 1225, n. 93, 94. Dodge v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 849. Where the pleadings themselves show him to be entitled thereto. Denied in suit on contract to manufacture articles. Midvale Steel Co. v. Camden Ironworks, 129 F. 246. In action against accommodation indorser on notes, where affidavit of defense sets up written contract to which plaintiff was a party, pursuant to which contract was made, and under which its enforcement was optional with plaintiff, together with facts dehors the record tending to show an election not to enforce it, the court will not attempt to construe the contract or determine its effect on defendant's liability on motion for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, but will permit case to proceed to trial, in order that entire transaction may be shown. Gallice v. Crilly, 134 F. 983. In view of admissions of answer in action on benefit certificate, judgment held properly rendered on pleadings. Bankers' Union of the World v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 on pleadings presenting issues of fact,[79] nor on the complaint alone, where its deficiencies are curable by amendment.[80] The defendant may assail such a judgment if no cause of action is stated in the complaint, though affirmative matter pleaded in the answer is not a sufficient defense.[81]

A motion for final judgment on the pleading should be made at the trial, and not previously.[82] On a rule for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, the affidavit must be accepted as a verity.[83] Statements contained in affidavits cannot be considered upon a motion for judgment upon a pleading as frivolous.[84] One moving for judgment on the pleadings admits, for the purposes of the motion, the truth of all the allegations of his adversary, and the untruth of his own allegations which have been denied.[85]

It is improper to dismiss the petition for failure to properly set out the special damages sued for, where plaintiff is entitled to nominal damages in any event.[86]

PLEAS, see latest topical index.

PLEDGES.

§ 1. Definition and Nature (1054).
§ 2. Right to Make (1055).
§ 3. Property Subject to be Pledged (1055).
§ 4. The Contract and Its Requisites (1055).
§ 5. Rights, Duties, and Liabilities Under the Pledge (1056). Title to the Property (1056). Possession and Custody (1057). Duty to Realize on Collaterals and Prevent Loss (1057). Conversion by the Pledgee (1057). Redemption and Surrender (1058). Default, Foreclosure, and Sale (1058). Right of Action on the Debt (1059). Effect of Insolvency and Bankruptcy (1059). Equities and Defenses Between One of the Parties and Third Persons (1059).

§ 1. Definition and nature.[87]—A pledge is a delivery of personal property as security for a debt or engagement, and unlike a lien gives the right not only to retain the property, but also to sue it on default in accordance with any special agreement not contrary to public policy.[88] If the general ownership passes, the transfer is a sale[89] or an assignment.[90] No writing is necessary to create the contract,[91] it being based on the idea of actual possession by the pledgee[92] or

N. W. 1013. In trespass for taking and carrying away seaweed where defendant pleads a right to use a way for the taking of seaweed, appurtenant to the land of which he is a tenant, to which plaintiff replies a trespass by the use of the way for other land than that to which the way applies, and defendant confesses the latter trespass in his rejoinder, plaintiff is entitled to judgment. Norman v. Sylvia [R. I.] 59 A. 112.

79. Issue as to existence of contract. Stratton's Independence v. Stark [Colo. App.] 79 P. 745.

80. However deficient will not sustain a final judgment on the merits in favor of defendant, entered after the opening statement of plaintiff's counsel. Redding v. Puget Sound Iron & Steel Works, 36 Wash. 642, 79 P. 308.

81. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 33.

82. Durham v. Durham, 99 App. Div. 450, 91 N. Y. S. 295.

83. Where it sets up that under laws of another state no personal liability is imposed on defendant, it is sufficient to put plaintiff on proof to contrary. American Alkali Co. v. Huhn, 209 Pa. 238, 58 A. 283.

84. Kene v. Hill, 92 N. Y. S. 805.

85. Rule extends to denials given plaintiff by statute to matters of defense set up by defendant. Chemung Min. Co. v. Hanley [Idaho] 77 P. 226. Where complaint states cause of action and answer pleads limitations, it is error to enter judgment for defendant on pleadings, though cause of action should appear to be barred on face of the complaint. Id.

86. Breach of contract for interchange of freight. Graham & Ward v. Macon, etc., R. Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 75.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1243.

88. Stern v. Leopold Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696; Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank. 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171. The law of pledges is materially different from that of mortgages. The lien resulting from a pledge is subject to strict foreclosure. That resulting from a mortgage is not. Blood v. Shepard [Kan.] 77 P. 565.

89. A purported bill of sale for cash will not, as against third persons, be regarded as a pledge. Millot v. Conrad [La.] 38 So. 139.

90. Instrument held to be an assignment and not a pledge of rents and profits of a building to one who loaned money to assignor. Seymour v. Ryan [Minn.] 101 N. W. 958.

91. If writing is passed, rights other and different from those expressed may be set up as against third parties dealing with the pledgor. Shenkle v. Vickery [C. C. A.] 130 F. 424.

some one for him,[93] of the thing pledged, though the pledgee may make pledgor his agent to take and use the pledge for any special or limited purpose.[94] The pledgee of a real estate mortgage may foreclose it and take possession of the land, but he holds the land as a pledgee.[95]

§ 2. Right to make.[96]—A pledge is not necessarily dependent on ownership for its validity,[97] and anyone in possession and apparently the owner of goods can confer rights on a pledgee regardless of the equities between the pledgor and others.[98] Consent of the pledgor is unnecessary to enable the pledgee to subpledge.[99] The pledgee of a corporation may rely on the apparent authority of its officers to pledge its bonds.[1]

§ 3. Property subject to be pledged.[2]—Every kind of personal property in existence and capable of delivery may be pledged. A pledge may, therefore, be made not only of ordinary goods and chattels, but of life insurance policies,[3] shares of stock,[4] liquor licenses having a surrender value,[5] warehouse receipts[6] and bills of lading,[7] but trade marks and trade names, having no tangible existence apart from the business in which they are used, cannot.[8] A corporation may pledge its unissued bonds[9] and the pledge is efficient as an issue.[10] Likewise, an underwriter's agreement to subscribe and float corporate securities may be pledged by the underwritten corporation with the securities.[11]

§ 4. The contract and its requisites.[12]—A pledge is created by delivery,[13]

92. Robertson v. Robertson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 571. By a contract of pledge only a special title passes to the pledgee, which depends on actual possession, while the general right of property remains in the pledgor. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115. Pledgee abandons lien when he permits purchaser to receive goods from pledgor though under an agreement that such purchaser should be given notice of pledgee's lien. Thalmann v. Capron Knitting Co., 91 N. Y. S. 520.

93. A pledge of money or negotiable paper in the hands of a third party to receive the payment of the purchase price of chattels upon an executory contract of sale vests in the vendor a lien upon or interest in the fund, which, upon performance of the contract by him, he may enforce by a suit in equity. But contract must be performed. Western Fly Guard Co. v. Hodges [Neb.] 100 N. W. 407.

94. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115.

95. Where choses in action, the payment of which is secured by a real estate mortgage, are pledged as collateral security for the payment of a debt, and such real estate mortgage is foreclosed by the pledgee, and the title to the property taken by him under a sheriff's deed, and he takes possession of the property thereunder, such title is vested in him, and is substituted for the pledged choses in action, and is governed by the law of pledges. Blood v. Shepard [Kan.] 77 P. 565.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1244.

97. Intention controls where pledgee makes pledgor his agent after original delivery to retain property pawned. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115. One who has stolen coupon bonds may, there being nothing putting the pledgee on inquiry, confer a lien on a pledgee taking them in good faith. Cochran v. Fox Chase Bank, 209 Pa. 34, 58 A. 117.

98. Lembeck v. Jarvis Terminal Cold Storage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 360.

99. Consent of pledgor unnecessary to enable the pledgee to subpledge. Coleman v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1057.

1. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Milling & Export Co., 135 F. 146.

2. See 2 Curr. L. 1245.

3. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Pacific Fruit Co., 142 Cal. 477, 76 P. 67; Clark v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 133 F. 816. A policy of life insurance, or a benefit certificate which is in effect a policy of insurance, may, even before death of the insured, be pledged as collateral security, by one having an interest therein. Coleman v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1057.

4. Robertson v. Robertson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 571; Richardson v. Longmont Supply Ditch Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 546.

5. In re Elm Brew. Co., 132 F. 299.

6. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990.

7. Commercial Bank v. Armsby Co., 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 589.

8. Crossman v. Griggs [Mass.] 71 N. E. 560.

9, 10. In re Waterloo Organ Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 345.

11. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Mill. & Export Co., 135 F. 146.

12. See 2 Curr. L. 1245.

13. A pledge of stock is not valid if the certificate is not delivered. Robertson v. Robertson [Mass.] 71 N. E. 571. To hold and preserve his lien, a pledgee must have the goods actually delivered to him and continued possession. Harding v. Eldridge [Mass.] 71 N. E. 115. Title in pledgee is not affected by pledgee making pledgor agent to take and use the pledge for special or limited purpose. Id. A valid pledge is created when certain stock certificates were transferred to a trustee as security for a debt and the transfer was made on the books of the company as required by statute.

no writing being necessary.[14] A transfer absolute on its face may be shown by parol to have been intended only as a pledge.[15]

§ 5. Rights, duties, and liabilities under the pledge.[16]—The property pledged includes all that is within the terms of the pledge or incident to that included but not delivered with it.[17]

Title to the property[18] remains in the pledgor until divested by some sale, by judicial proceedings, or by the pledgee's converting the property to his own use,[19] and on payment or tender of payment of the debt within the redemption period is entitled to a return of the pledge.[20] The pledgee's title is not divested by reason of his failure to pay the debt at maturity.[21] There must be a sale which, whatever the terms of the contract, must be fair.[22]

A pledgee acquires a special property commensurate with his rights as pledgee.[23] The pledgee of negotiable paper has the rights of a bona fide holder.[24] The pledgee stands in the relation of trustee to the pledgor and will not be permitted to manage the trust so as to gain an advantage to himself beyond his legitimate claims for debt and expenses.[25]

Though the legal title is transferred by a pledge of corporate stock, the Richardson v. Longmont Supply Ditch Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 546.

14. A purchaser from the pledgor takes subject to all the pledgee's claims though not expressed in the writing between pledgor and pledgee. Thinkle v. Vickery [C. C. A.] 130 F. 424.

15. Clark v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 133 F. 816; Loftus v. Agrant [S. D.] 99 N. W. 90.

16. See 2 Curr. L. 1247, 1248.

17. If bonds be pledged and with them an agreement to underwrite the flotation of them, stocks which by the agreement shall be a bonus to bond subscribers are included in the pledge by implication though not delivered. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Mill & Export Co., 135 F. 146. In that case receivers must surrender the stock to the pledgee in order that he may make proper tender to the underwriters. Id. In a proceeding by petition for that purpose, subscribers to the underwriting agreement cannot try their rights under the agreement. Id.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1247, n. 16 et seq.; Id., 1248, n. 21 et seq.

19. Brown v. Bronson, 93 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 872. An absolute assignment of a life policy to secure a debt does not divest the assignor of his general property therein. Clark v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 133 F. 816. Pledgor of stock of a corporation has power to enter into an agreement with a corporation issuing the stock to change its nature from preferred to common stock subject to the pledgee's lien. Pendleton v. Harris-Emery Co., 124 Iowa, 361, 100 N. W. 117. A check deposited to secure performance of a contract remains the pledgor's property until breach; then it goes to the pledgee. Pledgee is not a trustee. Furth v. West Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 936.

20. Pledgor assigned absolutely, life insurance policy to pledgee, but as security for loan. Clark v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 133 F. 816. Pledgor has right to redeem from assignee of pledgee where pledgee sold pledgor's note and did not sell but merely assigned collateral security of pledgor. Hart v. Tyrrell [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1074. Where no time of redemption is limited by the contract, the right extends through the debtor's lifetime and descends to the representatives of the pledgor unless demand has been made upon the pledgor to redeem. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197.

21. Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171. The pledgee's possession is not regarded as adverse to the pledgor, and does not bar his right to redeem, unless it is continued so long a time as to raise the presumption that the pledgor has relinquished his title in satisfaction of his debt. White Mountain R. Co. v. Bay State Iron Co., 50 N. H. 60; Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171.

22. Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171; Hart v. Tyrrell [Tex.] 82 S. W. 1074; Perkins v. Applegate [Ky.] 85 S. W. 723.

23. Coleman v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1057. Pledgee acquires an assignable interest in the pledge, or a right to subpledge. Id. The pledgee of negotiable bills of exchange or notes acquires, where the same are transferred so as to make him a party thereto, the legal title to such negotiable securities, and is entitled to receive the sum due upon the same from the parties liable thereon. Larkin Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 882.

24. Pledgee has good title to bonds payable to bearer, when taken in the ordinary course of business in good faith, without knowledge that they were stolen. Cochran v. Fox Chase Bank, 209 Pa. 34, 58 A. 117. Where possession of a bill of lading is by custom regarded as evidence of a right to the goods, the owner cannot recover them from one who has taken them in good faith as a pledge. Broker had pledged the bill to a bank to secure a loan on his own account. Commercial Bank v. Armsby Co., 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 589.

25. Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171.

pledgee's interest therein is special, the pledgor remaining the general owner and his property therein subject to the corporation's rights against him,[26] but where a pledgee of stock notifies the corporation issuing it of his rights, the corporation is bound to respect them though the transfer is not registered on its books.[27] The pledgee of stock has an interest entitling him to have corporate assets conserved and protected,[28] but it is not such as to enable him to sue in the Federal court where the pledgor could not.[29]

Possession and custody.[30]—The pledgee is entitled, until the debt secured has been paid, to have possession of the property pledged,[31] but is bound to use ordinary care and diligence in the care and custody thereof.[32]

Duty to realize on collaterals and prevent loss.[33]—Ordinarily the pledgee must collect a pledged note when it falls due,[34] and must exercise all reasonable diligence to preserve its value by enforcing securities which pertain to it.[35] If by delay he allows it to become uncollectible by reason of the maker's insolvency, he is liable to the pledgor.[36] The pledgee of stock indorsed in blank with power to transfer should collect dividends and account,[37] but if he assign and thereafter collect dividends the assignee is not liable to the pledgor.[38] A pledgee who holds commodities in a losing market is not liable to the pledgor's guarantor, no request to sell having been made.[39]

Conversion by the pledgee occurs[40] when he sells the pledge before time of 20. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197. Where a corporation issues stock which is unpaid for and the same is pledged for a loan with full power of attorney to pledgee, the pledgee's lien has priority. Id.

27. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197. Stock as a pledge, see Helliwell, Stock and Stockholders, §§ 356-372.

28. Gorman-Wright Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 134 F. 363. Status of a pledgee of stock with reference to membership in the corporation. See Helliwell, Stock & Stockholders, § 35.

29. He is within Acts Cong. March 3, 1887, c. 373, and Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, disabling assignees to create diversity of citizenship by mere assignment. Gorman-Wright Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 134 F. 363.

30. See 2 Curr. L. 1248, n. 21 et seq. See, also, ante, § 1.

31. Brown v. Leary, 91 N. Y. S. 463.

32. Pledgee is liable for loss resulting from his failure to use ordinary care and diligence in protecting pledgor's collateral security when assigned to him. Failure to collect promissory note. Roberts v. Farmers' Bank, 25 Ky. L. R. 2296, 80 S. W. 441; Scott v. First Nat. Bank [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 751. "When negotiable instruments made by a third party are used as collateral security for the promissory note or bill of exchange of the pledgor, so that the pledgee becomes a party thereto, and such collateral paper matures before the principal debt, it is the duty of the pledgee to use reasonable and ordinary care and diligence in the collection of the collateral." Larkin Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 882.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1248, n. 22.

34. Hamilton's Ex'r v. Hamilton [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1156.

35. Secured note was pledged as security. Scott v. First Nat. Bank [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 751.

Note: "The courts quite generally hold that when a creditor takes, as collateral security, a note due to his debtor from a third person, the pledgee, being entitled to the possession of the note having a certain ownership therein, must take all reasonable care to make secure the rights of the pledgor. Farm Inv. Co. v. Wyoming College, etc., 10 Wyo. 240, 68 P. 561; Reeves v. Plough, 41 Ind. 204; Mt. Vernon Bridge Co. v. Knox County Sav. Bank, 46 Ohio St. 224, 20 N. E. 339; Mauck v. Atlanta Trust & Bank Co., 113 Ga. 242, 38 S. E. 845. The pledgee, in his exercise of reasonable diligence, must, if necessary to preserve the collateral note, sue the maker thereof; and if by failure to take proper steps, the value of the collateral is lost, the pledgee is liable therefor to the pledgor. Whitteker v. Charleston Gas Co., 16 W. Va. 515; Wakeman v. Gowdy, 10 Bosw. [N. Y.] 209; Roberts v. Thompson, 14 Ohio St. 1, 82 Am. Dec. 465; Hanna v. Holton, 78 Pa. 384, 21 Am. Rep. 20; Northwestern Nat. Bank v. Thompson & Sons Mfg. Co., 71 F. 113; Hazard v. Wells, 2 Abb. N. C. [N. Y.] 444; Lamberton v. Windom, 12 Minn. 232, 90 Am. Dec. 301. In a late case, the court held that where a promissory note had been given as collateral security for the payment of a smaller one, made by the pledgor, and the pledgee had failed to demand payment of the collateral note or to give notice of its dishonor whereby the indorser was discharged, the pledgor could, when sued on his own note, show by way of recoupment the damages which he had sustained by the pledgee's negligence. Coleman v. Lewis, 183 Mass. 485, 97 Am. St. Rep. 450."—3 Mich. L. R. 245.

36. Hamilton's Ex'r v. Hamilton [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1156.

37, 38. Maxwell v. National Bank [S. C.] 50 S. E. 195.

39. First Nat. Bank v. Waddell [Ark.] 85 S. W. 417.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1247, n. 16; Id., 1252, n. 47.

redemption expires.[41] In such case the pledgor has his remedy by an action for wrongful conversion,[42] or he may set up his claim in defense of the pledgee's action on the debt.[43] Limitations begin to run against the pledgor from the time of actual conversion by the pledgee.[44]

The pledgor's remedy when the proceeds of the pledge have been thrown into the common funds of the city which was pledgee is money had and received[45] and not injunction against disbursement of the fund.[46]

Redemption and surrender.[47]—The pledgor has a right to an action against the pledgee for refusal to return the property on demand and tender of the amount due within the time limited, but has no right to the aid of a court of equity to redeem unless there is some special ground of equitable jurisdiction,[48] and equity will not intervene unless the pledgee offers to pay the debt,[49] even though limitations have run against it,[50] except in a case where the pledgee has expressly denied pledgor's right.[51] A pledge for performance of contract cannot be recovered until full performance.[52]

Default, foreclosure, and sale.[53]—By agreement the parties may make notice of exhaustion of margins unnecessary[54] and may permit the closing out of a future transaction when margins are depleted without waiting until loss ensues.[55] What is a reasonable time to call for margins depends upon the situation.[56] The pledgee may sell fairly by any method provided for in the contract,[57] but where the contract authorizes either a public or a private sale and the pledgee assumes to sell at public sale he must pursue those methods ordinarily adopted in making public sales.[58] After foreclosure of a mortgage pledged as collateral the pledgee is entitled, after a reasonable time, to have the title he acquired by the foreclosure quieted as against the claims of the pledgor.[59] One cannot purchase at his own sale unless by special agreement with the pledgor.[60] When buying in under the

41. Pledgor conveyed by bill of sale to pledgee. Evidence that transaction was a pledge admissible. Loftus v. Agrant [S. D.] 99 N. W. 90.

42. Loftus v. Agrant [S. D.] 99 N. W. 90; Brown v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 132 F. 450. Being entitled to possession until redeemed mere assertion of title by the pledgee is not sufficient to constitute conversion. Brown v. Leary, 91 N. Y. S. 463.

43. Brown v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 132 F. 450; Larkin Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 882.

44. Brown v. Bronson, 93 App. Div. 312, 87 N. Y. S. 872.

45, 46. Certified check to secure performance of contract. Furth v. West Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 936.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1247, n. 18, 20; Id., 1248, n. 23; Id., 1252, n. 48.

48. De Bevoise v. H. & W. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 91; Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171.

49. De Bevoise v. H. & W. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 91; Shinkle v. Vickery [C. C. A.] 130 F. 424.

50. Where paid-up life insurance policies are pledged to secure a loan which is not proceeded against within the statute of limitation, pledgor must repay loan for which pledge is security, before equity will grant affirmative relief to pledgor. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Pacific Fruit Co., 142 Cal. 477, 76 P. 67.

51. Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171.

52. Deposit to secure performance of covenants in lease. Mirsky v. Horowitz, 92 N. Y. S. 48.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1250, n. 37 et seq.

54, 55. Foster v. Murphy & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 47. Evidence held to show such an agreement by a modified contract. Id.

56. Fifty-eight minutes call for $8,000 made peremptory on the last five minutes held sufficient call by wire from New York to South Carolina in a very panicky market. Foster v. Murphy & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 47.

57. Stern v. Leopold, Simons & Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 696; Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171; Blood v. Shepard [Kan.] 77 P. 565. He may proceed against the pledgor personally for his debt or file a bill in chancery in the nature of a foreclosure and proceed to judicial sale or sell without judicial process upon giving reasonable notice to the pledgor. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197.

58. Sale must be held in a public place, duly advertised, etc. Hagan v. Continental Nat. Bank, 182 Mo. 319, 81 S. W. 171.

59. Blood v. Shepard [Kan.] 77 P. 565.

60. Wetherell v. Johnson, 208 Ill. 247, 70 N. E. 229. But where he is the payee of a note holding shares as collateral with power to sell at public or private sale with or without notice, he may lawfully agree with debtor to take the stock. Id.

terms of the pledge the pledgee must show fairness and good faith.[61] When sale is set aside, a day should be set for redemption and surrender within a reasonable time.[62] In a proper case the pledgee of corporate stock after sale is entitled to a transfer on the books of the corporation,[63] and may maintain a bill in equity for that purpose;[64] but he cannot compel it without showing a strict right under the terms of his contract of pledge,[65] and where he does not bring suit until long after the debt for which the stock was pledged has outlawed and the pledgor has died, he must make the heirs parties.[66] A bank having power to take a pledge may in selling the same after default warrant it.[67] The pledgee has no right to use the proceeds arising from the sale for other purposes than to reduce the amount of the loan.[68] He can recover the reasonable[69] but not unreasonable expenses incurred in maintaining the pledge and keeping it available.[70]

Right of action on the debt.[71]—An agreement to pay any deficiency remaining after realizing on collaterals will not support action on the debt until realization is made.[72]

Effect of insolvency and bankruptcy.[73]—The powers of a trustee holding collateral may be suspended by insolvency and receivership of the pledgor.[74] Where a brewing company advanced the money to pay liquor licenses, taking an assignment thereof for security and afterward pledged them for a loan and became bankrupt, the pledgee is entitled to the sums collected by the trustee from the licensees on the advancements.[75] If the trustee of collaterals petitions against a receiver for power to sell them, the pledgees may intervene to resist his application for costs and expenses.[76] The right to treat the pledge as preference is vested exclusively in the trustee in bankruptcy.[77]

Equities and defenses between one of the parties and third persons.[78]—The equities which follow non-negotiable paper do not avail against the bona fide trans-

61. Perkins v. Applegate [Ky.] 85 S. W. 723. Sale held fraudulent there having been no person but the auctioneer present who bought in for the creditor and the pledge precluding a buying in save at "public" sale. Id.

62. Perkins v. Applegate [Ky.] 85 S. W. 723.

63. Where corporate stock pledged is also subject to a second lien in favor of the corporation issuing it, the pledgee is not entitled to a transfer but only to a sale. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197.

64. The pledgee is entitled to maintain a bill in equity for the enforcement of the pledge of corporate stock where the contract specifies no time of redemption or time and manner of sale and the corporation claims a prior lien on the stock. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197.

65. State v. North American Land & Timber Co., 112 La. 441, 36 So. 488.

66. Wadlinger v. First Nat. Bank, 209 Pa. 197, 58 A. 359.

67. Cattle warranted sound and healthy. State Bank of Commerce v. Dody [Kan.] 79 P. 1092.

68. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Cooper [Iowa] 101 N. W. 459.

69. Pledgee's lands had been damaged by trespass of pledgor's hogs. It was agreed to arbitrate damages pending which decision, the hogs were pledged. Later pledgor refused to arbitrate. Collins v. Cochran, 121 Ga. 785, 49 S. E. 771.

70. Pledgee paid $30 assessment on pledged stock worth $5. Iowa Nat. Bank v. Cooper [Iowa] 101 N. W. 459. Under Iowa Code no holder of corporate stock as collateral security is liable for assessments thereon. Id.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1251, n. 43.

72. Klee v. Trauerman [Pa.] 60 A. 157. This situation is unlike that where there is a separate unconditional promise to pay the debt. Id.

73. See Bankruptcy, 3 Curr. L. 434, and kindred topics.

74. A trustee of maturing securities pledged under an agreement that he shall sell or collect them and be allowed his expenses cannot, unless the agreement so provides, exercise such powers after the pledgor's receivership. Girard Trust Co. v. McKinley-Lanning Loan & Trust Co., 135 F. 180. Agreement held not to so provide. Id.

75. In re Elm Brewing Co., 132 F. 299.

76. Girard Trust Co. v. McKinley-Lanning Loan & Trust Co., 135 F. 180.

77. But does not exclude trustee to maintain action on assumption that after payment of note secured by pledge, the surplus is an asset of the bankrupt. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990.

78. See topics Negotiable Instruments, 4 Curr. L. 787; Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1527; Chattel Mortgages, 3 Curr. L. 682; Fraudulent Conveyances, 3 Curr. L. 1535, and like topics.

feree of it as security for a negotiable note.[79] A broker who carries a transaction on margin is not affected by the undisclosed purpose of his principal that the transaction should be an unlawful one.[80] Neither is the broker affected by the fact that the customer's agent procured the transaction in his own name and in substituting the customer falsified the price.[81] Since the pledgee may assign his rights, it is immaterial to the pledgor whether it was done by one whom the pledgee authorized.[82]

POINTING FIREARMS, see latest topical index.

POISONS.

Criminal poisoning.[83]—Vending drugs and poisons without a license is by statute generally made a crime.[84]

Negligent sale and use.[85]—The mere selling of poison by a druggist is not negligence,[86] but he must exercise the highest degree of care for the safety of the public,[87] and a failure to comply with a statute requiring receptacles in which poisons are sold to be labeled "poison," is negligence per se.[88] Though selling without labeling constitutes a crime, recovery may be had in damages for injuries resulting,[89] but it must appear that the negligence (violation of the statute) was the proximate cause.[90] The fact that the person to whom it is sold is negligent as to its care subsequently does not relieve the act of its character.[91] The customer is bound only to exercise ordinary care for his own safety.[92] One who negligently allows poison to be in such position that another will be injured by it is liable in damages for injuries resulting,[93] but directing one to drink poison out of a receptacle not labeled is not negligence where the person giving the directions does not know it contains poison.[94] Whether one drinking poison from a receptacle not labeled is guilty of contributory negligence may be a question for the jury.[95]

POLICEMEN; POLICE POWER; POLLUTION OF WATERS; POOR LAWS; POOR LITIGANTS; POSSE COMITATUS, see latest topical index.

POSSESSION, WRIT OF.

This writ, originally issuable on a judgment for plaintiff in ejectment, is

79. Though fraud infects a pledge of a non-negotiable note, a bona fide indorsee of a negotiable note which they secure may take a superior title by assignment. White v. Dodge [Mass.] 73 N. E. 549.

80, 81. Hocomb v. Kempner [Ill.] 73 N. E. 740.

82. Carson v. Old Nat. Bank [Wash.] 79 P. 927.

83. See 2 Curr. L. 1252.

84. Indictment held sufficient under Criminal Code 1895, § 480. Carter v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 64. See Medicine and Surgery, 4 Curr. L. 636, for regulation of drug business.

85. See 2 Curr. L. 1253.

86. Selling arsenic to an unknown person, twenty years old, intelligent appearing, and who gives a good account of the person for whom and the purpose for which it is bought, is not negligence. Galvin v. Overbeck, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 63.

87. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201.

88. Code, §§ 4976, 2593, making such failure a misdemeanor. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793. Violation of St. 1903, § 263, establishes a prima facie case of negligence. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201.

89. Crime under St. 1903, § 2630, but recovery may be had for unlawful death. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201. Though the druggist is liable regardless of the statute, the jury should be instructed that failure to comply with it would render him liable. Id.

90. Action for death caused by drinking from a receptacle not labeled. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793. As to whether it was the proximate cause held a question for the jury. Id.

91. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793. Negligence of a nurse in administering the poison. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201.

92. Sutton's Adm'r v. Wood [Ky.] 85 S. W. 201.

93. Master putting poison in water cooler for purpose of cleansing it and failing to now applied in other suits at law and in equity where the relief is wholly or partly the recovery of possession.[96] A purchaser at execution sale entitled to the writ on notice after obtaining a conveyance is not entitled to it if the record does not show a conveyance.[97] A court has jurisdiction to issue the writ so long as it has control of the subject-matter and parties.[98] Where the trial court has lost jurisdiction to issue it, the appellate court may do so or remand the cause for that purpose.[99]

POSSESSORY WARRANT.[1]

The action is wholly statutory,[2] and it lies against an agent with whom property has been left to be kept until called for.[3]

POSTAL LAW.

§ 1. The Federal Postal System and Its Administration (1061).
§ 2. Use of Mails, and Mail Matter (1062).
§ 3. Postal Crimes and Offenses (1063). Use of Mails to Defraud (1063). Embezzlement and Larceny from the Mails (1065). Conspiracy (1065).

§ 1. The Federal postal system and its administration. Postal officers and employes.[4]—The postmaster general may terminate a contract for carrying mails, though some service remains to be performed in the district covered.[5] The measure of damages recoverable for such discontinuance is one month's extra pay, as provided in the statute, and not the profits the contractor would have made had the contract remained in force.[6] A contractor cannot recover extra pay for services outside the terms of his contract when such services were rendered pursuant to an unauthorized requirement of a local postmaster, and the contractor was relieved of such services on protest to the department.[7] A subcontractor for the transportation of mails cannot substitute another person for himself without the consent of the contractor and the postal department.[8] In a suit on a mail contractor's bond, for abandonment of the contract, the official report of the local postmaster and the finding of the postmaster general, based thereon, that the prin-warn his servants not to drink from such cooler. Geller v. Briscoe Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 281.

94. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793.

95. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 793. One need not anticipate that water in a cooler from which persons habitually drink will be poisoned. Geller v. Briscoe Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 281.

96. See 16 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 745, and Cyc. Law Dict. "Possession, Writ of"; "Writ of Assistance." See, also, Assistance, Writ of, 3 Curr. L. 345.

97. Under Ky. St. 1903, 1689. Scott v. Powers, Little & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1640, 78 S. W. 408.

98. In condemnation proceeding the writ was not awarded at the term at which the decree was entered, held it could issue at a subsequent term. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155.

99. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155. Execution as evidence to establish title in action of ejectment. Nelson v. Brisbin [Neb.] 98 N. W. 1057.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1253.

2. A possessory warrant does not lie unless the defendant acquired possession of the property in dispute in one of the modes set forth in Civ. Code 1895, § 4799. Susong v. McKenna, 121 Ga. 97, 48 S. E. 695.

3. Where the evidence showed that it was not deposited as collateral security for a debt. Allen v. Wheeler, 121 Ga. 277, 48 S. E. 923. See 2 Curr. L. 1253, n. 63.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1253.

5. Where street car service was substituted, leaving only the carrying of mails from the station to the cars in a given district, the contract was properly terminated. Slavens v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 229, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 574.

6. Postal Laws, § 817. Slavens v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 229; Travis v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 233, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 574.

7. Slavens v. U. S., 25 S. Ct. 229; Travis v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 233, afg. 38 Ct. Cl. 574.

8. No recovery by subcontractor for breach of contract by a substitute, the consent to the substitution by the subcontractor's superiors not being alleged or proved. McConaghy v. Clark, 35 Wash. 689, 77 P. 1084.

cipal was a failing contractor, is prima facie proof of abandonment of the contract.[9]

The sureties on a postmaster's bond are liable for a loss of registered mail matter caused by negligence of the postmaster.[10] A suit on such bond cannot be maintained by the owner of the package in his own name and for his own benefit,[11] but may be maintained by the United States, for the benefit of the owner, and it is the duty of the government to bring such action.[12] No formal allegation that the suit is for the benefit of the bailor is necessary.[13] In such suit, the government may recover the entire loss, though it is only obligated to return to the sender an amount not exceeding ten dollars.[14]

A carrier, suspended by a postmaster and acquitted of charges and restored by the postmaster general, with nothing said as to loss of pay, is entitled to pay during the period of suspension.[15] The duty of collecting letters and packages to be registered is within the scope of a letter carrier's duties, so that his surety is liable for the theft of such a package, though the rule requiring such duty was made after the bond was given.[16] The United States may maintain an action against a surety on a letter carrier's bond for the value of registered matter stolen by the carrier, though no claim has been made against the government for the loss.[17]

§ 2. Use of mails, and mail matter.[18]—The right to use the mails is a statutory privilege which must be exercised under and subject to such conditions and restrictions as Congress sees fit to impose.[19] By virtue of the plenary power conferred on Congress to establish a postal system and make regulations for its government and control, it may lawfully declare what shall and what shall not be carried in the mails,[20] and may lawfully confer on the postmaster general the requisite authority to prevent the mails from being used as a medium to disseminate printed matter which, on grounds of public policy, it has declared to be non-mailable.[21] The statute empowering the postmaster general to direct the seizure and return of mail matter sent to any person or company engaged in certain prohibited enterprises, involving the obtaining of money by fraud, is constitutional.[22] It is not objectionable as violating due process of law, since the action of the postmaster general, in excess of his authority, is reviewable by the courts;[23] nor as involving an unlawful interference with private mail matter;[24] nor as authorizing confiscation of property of the addressee of the prohibited mail matter.[25]

9. United States v. McCoy, 193 U. S. 593, 48 Law. Ed. 805.

10. As where registered package of money was stolen. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596.

11, 12, 13. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596.

14. Government being the bailee, may recover not only its own special loss but the entire loss of bailor and bailee, under the common law. United States v. Griswold [Ariz.] 76 P. 596.

15. A local postmaster has no power to dismiss or to suspend and deprive of pay. Corcoran's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 341.

16, 17. National Surety Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 70.

18. For corresponding matter, and also carriage of mails, see 2 Curr. L. 1254.

19, 20. Missouri Drug Co. v. Wyman, 129 F. 623.

21. Rev. St. §§ 3929, 4041, and 28 Stat. 964, are constitutional. Missouri Drug Co. v. Wyman, 129 F. 623. The postmaster general has jurisdiction, under Rev. St. § 3929, to issue "fraud orders" to postmasters, directing them to mark as "fraudulent" certain mail matter, on evidence, satisfactory to him, that the sender was then engaged in a fraudulent scheme. United States v. Burton, 131 F. 552.

22. Rev. St. U. S. § 3929, as amended in 1890 and 1895 upheld. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 48 Law. Ed. 1092.

23. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 48 Law. Ed. 1092.

24. This objection held not valid where a "fraud order" directed the return only of mail directed to a fraudulent concern or its officers or agents. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 48 Law. Ed. 1092.

25. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 48 Law. Ed. 1092.

Congress having excluded matter of a certain class from the mails, the duty of determining whether certain matter belongs to the prohibited class, or whether a certain person is in fact using the mails for a fraudulent purpose,[26] rests with the executive officer charged with administration of the postal laws;[27] and such determination is not reviewable judicially, if supported by credible evidence.[28] Even though such decision is upon a mixed question of law and fact, or on a question of law alone, it carries with it a strong presumption of its correctness.[29]

Within the meaning of the statute classifying mail matter, "periodicals" and "periodical publications" are synonymous terms.[30] The mere fact that books, complete in themselves, are published at regular intervals and in consecutive numbers, and are made to conform to the conditions prescribed by law for mail matter of the second class, does not entitle them to second-class postage rates as periodicals.[31] The fact that a publisher has made contracts for future delivery of publications at prices based on the belief that a certificate of admission at second-class rates would be continued by a succeeding postmaster general, is no ground for an injunction to prevent revocation of such certificate.[32] A certificate of admission to the mails as matter of a certain class, which by its express terms continues until revoked, is a mere license.[33]

§ 3. Postal crimes and offenses.[34]—The offense of placing obscene matter in the mails is committed by placing therein a letter obscene in character by necessary inference, though the words used were not themselves obscene.[35] An indictment for mailing of a prohibited article must describe the article with sufficient particularity so that an acquittal or conviction of the accused will bar further prosecution for the same offense.[36]

Use of mails to defraud.[37]—The effect of the 1889 amendment to the statute denouncing as an offense use of the mails in furtherance of a scheme or artifice to defraud another was simply to add other acts to those described by the original act.[38] There are three elements to the offense: a plan or contemplated series of actions for the purpose of defrauding some one;[39] contemplated use of the mails to carry out the plan;[40] actual placing of some letter or mail matter in the mails.[41]

26. A scheme whereby a fund was to be created out of dues and fees, "realizations" being returnable after a stated time, the amount to depend on membership at that time, held a lottery, within Rev. St. § 3929, authorizing "fraud orders," since the scheme contained no provision for a reserve fund, and must result in loss. Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 48 Law. Ed. 1092.

27. Missouri Drug Co. v. Wyman, 129 F. 623.

28. Exclusion of matter advertising a certain drug, on the ground that such matter contained fraudulent misrepresentations, held proper. Missouri Drug Co. v. Wyman, 129 F. 623. Court refused to review refusal of postmaster general to admit numbers of "music magazine," complete in themselves, as second-class matter. Bates & G. Co. v. Payne, 194 U. S. 106, 48 Law. Ed. 1092, afg. Payne v. Bates & G. Co., 22 App. D. C. 250. Decision of postmaster general was a discretionary not a merely ministerial duty. Payne v. Bates & G. Co., 22 App. D. C. 250. Postmaster general having excluded a newspaper which was being carried on by a receiver in bankruptcy to preserve the good will of the paper, mandamus to compel its admission to the mails was refused. In re Coleman, 131 F. 151.

29. Bates & G. Co. v. Payne, 194 U. S. 106, 48 Law. Ed. 894; Public Clearing House v. Coyne, 194 U. S. 497, 48 Law. Ed. 1092.

30. Payne v. Houghton, 22 App. D. C. 234.

31. Numbers of a "literature series" held not periodicals within the meaning of the postal laws. Houghton v. Payne, 194 U. S. 88, 48 Law. Ed. 888, afg. Payne v. Houghton, 22 App. D. C. 234; Id., 31 Wash. L. Rep. 390.

32, 33. Payne v. Houghton, 22 App. D. C. 234.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1254.

35. Construing Rev. St. U. S., § 3893. United States v. Moore, 129 F. 159. See 2 Curr. L. 1254.

36. Applied to an indictment charging the mailing of a letter giving information where and from whom an article or thing designed or intended for the prevention of conception might be obtained, in violation of Rev. St. § 3893, as amended by 25 Stat. 496. United States v. Pupke, 133 F. 243.

37. Rev. St. U. S. § 5480. See 2 Curr. L. 1255.

38. Act March 2, 1889, 25 Stat. 873, c. 393, § 1, amending Rev. St. U. S., § 5480. Miller v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 337.

39, 40. United States v. Post, 128 F. 950.

A valid indictment under this statute must allege facts which fairly show use of the mails to execute a scheme or artifice to defraud,[42] intention to so use the mails as a part of such scheme or artifice,[43] the scheme or artifice to defraud itself,[44] and the intention of defendants to defraud.[45] Only three offenses may be joined in the same indictment.[46] Omission of the names of persons whom it was defendant's intention to defraud is not fatal, when it is alleged that such persons were unknown to the grand jury.[47] An indictment charging accused with conspiring to defraud persons unknown to the grand jury is not objectionable though it shows also the offense, not charged therein, of conspiring to defraud known persons.[48] Intentional use of a legal contract or transaction to defraud another may constitute a scheme or artifice to defraud, although use of the same contract or transaction with an honest intent would be lawful or innocent.[49] The fact that the alleged fraudulent scheme is impossible of execution on its face is no defense.[50] The defense that the fraudulent scheme involved a gambling transaction forbidden by state laws, and that therefore defendants ought not to be prosecuted for not carrying it out, is also without merit.[51] The burden of proving each element of the offense beyond a reasonable doubt[52] rests throughout on the prosecution.[53] Hence, in a prosecution of a mental healer for using the mails to advertise her power and secure money from patients, the United States must prove that defendant did not possess the power alleged,[54] or that she did not believe in or intend to administer the treatment she advertised and was paid for.[55] The fraudulent intent, in such a prosecution, not being provable as an ordinary fact, but being a mental condition, may be found from surrounding circumstances.[56] Letters and telegrams of the accused and newspaper articles written as news and paid for as advertising, containing alleged misrepresentations, are admissible to show the fraudulent intent, where the charge is use of the mails to defraud by inducing the public to buy mining stock.[57]

41. United States v. Post, 128 F. 950. The offense is not completed until some letter in furtherance of the fraudulent scheme has been deposited in the mails. United States v. Burton, 131 F. 552.

42. Miller v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 337. An indictment which charges that defendants, having devised or intending to devise a scheme to defraud, to be effected by use of the mails, did, in the execution of this fraudulent scheme, deposit for transmission a letter in some post office, is sufficient. O'Hara v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 551.

43. An allegation that a scheme "was to be effected" by correspondence, etc., held a sufficient allegation of intent to use the mails to execute the alleged fraudulent scheme. Miller v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 337.

44. Miller v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 337. An indictment charging use of mails and a contract between directors of a mutual insurance corporation and defendant to render the corporation insolvent, held to set out a scheme to defraud. Id. A mere allegation that defendant was engaged in the business of mental healing is not an allegation of a "scheme or artifice to defraud." Post v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1, rvg. 128 F. 950. An averment that defendants intended to obtain a large sum of money between January 1 and May 23, 1902, for a fraudulent purpose, is not repugnant to a particular averment that the scheme was devised on May 21, 1902, at which date a letter was deposited in the mails. O'Hara v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 551.

45. Miller v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 337.

46. Where there were nine indictments for fraudulent use of the mails, each containing three counts, and all relating to the same scheme to defraud, but charging different mailings, an order to try the nine indictments together, which was done, separate verdicts being rendered and separate sentences being imposed, did not effect a consolidation of more than three offenses, within the meaning of Rev. St. § 5480, as amended by 25 Stat. 873. Betts v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 228.

47, 48, 49. Miller v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 337.

50, 51. O'Hara v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 551.

52. United States v. Post, 128 F. 950.

53. United States v. Post [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1.

54. Defendant does not have burden of proving possession of such power, even though its existence is contrary to generally accepted scientific views. United States v. Post [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1, rvg. 128 F. 950.

55. Evidence held not to sustain charge that defendant did not intend to administer advertised mental treatment. Post v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1.

56. United States v. Post, 128 F. 950.

57. Balliet v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 689.

Embezzlement and larceny from the mails.[58]—The offense is committed by a carrier who takes and destroys a letter, and takes a silver certificate therefrom,[59] and it is immaterial that the letter, addressed to a real person, was a mere decoy, prepared by an inspector to test the carrier's honesty.[60] Two counts of the indictment, one charging the carrier with embezzling and destroying a letter, and the other with stealing the contents, are not repugnant to one another.[61] Describing the article of value taken from a letter as a silver certificate of the United States, and giving its denomination, is sufficient without setting out the marks and numbers thereon.[62] An indictment for larceny of a package from the mails need not allege that the package was stamped.[63] An allegation that a package was lately put into the mails and came into defendant's possession as mail clerk admits evidence of its having been stamped and the manner in which it was stamped.[64] Where the name of the addressee as charged was idem sonans with that proved, the variance was immaterial.[65]

Conspiracy.[66]—Willful or corrupt misconduct by an official of the postal department, impairing its administration, works a wrong to the United States, and is punishable under the statute denouncing the offense of conspiracy to defraud the United States.[67]

POSTPONEMENT, see latest topical index.

POWERS.

§ 1. Nature and Kinds (1065).
§ 2. Creation, Construction, Validity, and Effect (1065).
§ 3. Execution of Powers (1066).

§ 1. Nature and kinds.[68]

§ 2. Creation, construction, validity, and effect.[69]—No precise form or technical words are necessary to the creation of a power.[70] If the execution of the power is not obligatory but is left entirely to the discretion of the donee only a

58. Rev. St. U. S. § 5467. See Abstracting Letters, 2 Curr. L. 1256.

59. Such certificate is a "pecuniary obligation or security of the government" and "an article of value" within the meaning of the statute. Bromberger v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 346.

60. Bromberger v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 346.

NOTE. Decoy letters: The use of decoy letters to detect offenses against the postal laws is not forbidden by the statutes or good morals, but is proper and justifiable. United States v. Moore, 19 F. 39; United States v. Wight, 38 F. 106. But see United States v. Jones, 80 F. 513. The purpose for which a letter is mailed is not a question under the statute against embezzlement of letters. United States v. Cottingham, 2 Blatchf. 470. It is not necessary that the letter should be a bona fide letter intended to be delivered to the addressee. Hall v. U. S., 168 U. S. 632, 42 Law. Ed. 607. See construction of term "letter" in Goode v. U. S., 159 U. S. 663, 40 Law. Ed. 297, per Brown, J. But such letter is not "intended to be conveyed by mail" if discarded as unmailable. United States v. Rapp, 30 F. 818. It has been held that a letter not reaching the employe through regular channels is yet "intended to be conveyed by mail" within the meaning of the statute. Walster v. U. S., 42 F. 891. In this case the letter was prepared in the local office and postmarked as coming from another town. See, also, Goode v. U. S., 159 U. S. 663, 40 Law. Ed. 297; Hall v. U. S., 168 U. S. 632, 40 Law. Ed. 297.—See article "Decoy Letters" in 9 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2nd Ed.) 15. Also note in 1 L. R. A. 104.

61, 62. Bromberger v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 346.

63, 64. Alexis v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 60.

65. "L. Krowder" and "L. Krower." Alexis v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 60.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1256.

67. Thus an indictment charging the assistant attorney general and attorney with failure to report on schemes for misuse of the mails, in the manner required by law, for certain corrupt purposes, was held to state an offense under Rev. St. § 5440. Tyner v. U. S., 23 App. D. C. 324.

68, 69. See 2 Curr. L. 1257.

70. Provisions of a will construed and held to confer a power of appointment. McCook v. Mumby, 64 N. J. Eq. 594, 54 A. 406. A right to use the income and so much of the principal as is necessary for support creates a life estate with power of disposition. It also creates a right to incur indebtedness for living expenses payable out of the principal after death of the donee. Hinn v. Gersten [Wis.] 99 N. W. 338.

mere naked power is conferred.[71] A power in trustees to distribute when they deem prudent is not a mere naked authority, purely discretionary, but is blended with the trust.[72] Where it appears that the donor placed special confidence in the donee, the power is personal to him,[73] but if it is not, by the terms of the instrument creating it, limited to the donee designated, it devolves upon his successor.[74] A devise over upon the same trusts and with like powers in case the first donee fails to execute a power conferred, creates in the devisees a power equal to the one given to the first donee.[75] A power of sale,[76] being merely a trust,[77] may lawfully reside in one who has no legal or equitable title to the property.[78] A power of sale given to the devisee of a life estate becomes inoperative where the life estate becomes merged with the remainder.[79] Title made by the donee passes from the donor to the appointee.[80]

§ 3. Execution of powers.[81]—If the instrument creating the power indicate that the donor placed special confidence in the donee, so that the element of personal choice is found, the power must be executed by the person selected.[82] If an act of the donee shows an intention to execute the power, it will be given effect.[83] It is not necessary that the deed of execution refer to the power.[84] A deed inoperative except as an exercise of a power will be construed as an execution though it contain no reference to the power.[85] Expressions of doubt by the donee as to whether his appointment would be effectual will not render invalid a power lawfully executed.[86] Well appointed portions in a defectively executed power will stand,[87] and where the instrument creating the power directs the further devolution of the property in case the power is not executed, badly appointed portions will follow the course prescribed.[88] If the instrument creating a power prescribes

71. A power in an heir to confirm a devise in case it was held void does not create a trust in violation of Rev. St. § 5915. Thomas v. Ohio State University Trustees, 70 Ohio St. 92, 70 N. E. 896.

72, 73. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036.

74. To "my trustees or the survivor of them" confers the power on any trustee appointed to administer the trust. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036. Under Rev. Laws, c. 147, §§ 5, 6, providing that where a trustee declines to serve or resigns, or is removed, a successor appointed in his stead shall have all his powers. Id.

75. Inglis v. McCook [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 630.

76. Full power to mortgage, lease, or sell, is power to convey a perfect title to a stranger though the evident purpose of the donor was to vest his estate in his whole family subject to such distribution as the donee should determine to be proper. Dana v. Jones, 91 App. Div. 496, 86 N. Y. S. 1000.

77. Where an estate goes to a successor of the original trustee subject to the same trusts, the power passes to him. Coleman v. Cabaniss [Ga.] 48 S. E. 927.

78. Coleman v. Cabaniss [Ga.] 48 S. E. 927.

79. A power of sale was coupled with a life estate. In case of sale, one-third of the proceeds was to go to another beneficiary. A mortgage given by the devisee in her own right was valid. Spencer v. Kimball, 98 Me. 499, 57 A. 793.

80. McCook v. Mumby, 64 N. J. Eq. 594, 54 A. 406.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1258.

Note: What constitutes a sufficient execution of a power depends largely on the facts and circumstances of each particular case, and while certain rules and principles are considered in the decision of all cases yet individual instances are constantly arising in which some circumstance causes an exception to or a novel application of those rules. As to what is a sufficient execution by will see note to Lane v. Lane [Del.] 64 L. R. A. 849, where English and American cases are considered and discussed.

82. Sells v. Delgado [Mass.] 70 N. E. 1036.

83. A testator anticipating that a certain devise would be held void prescribed a further devolution of the property but empowered his only lineal heir to confirm the devise and if she complied, the estate over was declared revoked. Held, a deed of confirmation purporting to execute the power was operative. Thomas v. Ohio State University Trustees, 70 Ohio St. 92, 70 N. E. 896. Execution of a power held valid. Koch v. Robinson, 26 Ky. L. R. 969, 83 S. W. 111. Rights of appointees determined. In re Lafferty's Estate, 209 Pa. 44, 57 A. 1112.

84. Where a trustee with power of sale joins with beneficiary in a deed, it is a good execution of the power though the conveyance does not refer to it. Kirkman v. Wadsworth [N. C.] 49 S. E. 962.

85. Kirkman v. Wadsworth [N. C.] 49 S. E. 962.

86. McCook v. Mumby, 64 N. J. Eq. 594, 54 A. 406.

87. Life estates created were valid but future estates violated the rule against perpetuities. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

88. Graham v. Whitridge [Md.] 57 A. 609.

the manner of execution, it must be followed.[89] No member of designated appointees named as a class can be ignored.[90]

PRAECIPE; PRAYERS; PRECATORY TRUSTS; PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION; PRELIMINARY SUITS; PRESCRIPTION; PRESUMPTIONS; PRINCIPAL AND AGENT; PRINCIPAL AND SURETY; PRIOR APPROPRIATION; PRIORITIES BETWEEN CREDITORS, see latest topical index.

PRISONS, JAILS AND REFORMATORIES.

§ 1. Nature and Classes (1067).
§ 2. Custody, Discipline, Government, and Employment of Inmates (1067). Employment of Prisoners (1067). A Scheme of Credits (1068). Injury to Prison by Convict (1069).
§ 3. Administration and Fiscal Affairs (1069).

This topic treats of penal and reformatory institutions, and the custody and control of the inmates. The law of criminal procedure,[91] the legal status of a convict,[92] pardon, commutation, or remission of sentence,[93] and escape or prison breach,[94] are elsewhere treated.

§ 1. Nature and classes.[95]—A prison is a public building for confining persons[96] in judicial custody,[97] either to insure their production in court as accused persons and witnesses, or to punish as criminals.

§ 2. Custody, discipline, government, and employment of inmates.[98]—A commitment need not set forth the judgment or finding of the court upon which it is based.[99] A county jailor must receive prisoners committed to his custody by a court of competent jurisdiction.[1] A sheriff has no inherent right to the custody of the county jail,[2] nor of the prisoners therein confined nor to the emoluments to be derived therefrom,[3] and cannot successfully assert a right thereto where prior to his election he has notice that he would be deprived of their custody.[4] A prisoner sentenced to hard labor cannot be unreasonably detained in jail by the sheriff.[5] Prisoners afflicted with a contagious disease must be provided with a suitable place of detention.[6]

Employment of prisoners.[7]—The state acquires a property interest in the labor of convicts, and the authorized board may,[8] by contract lawfully executed,[9] let out

89. Otherwise it is void. Ketchin v. Rion, 68 S. C. 260, 47 S. E. 376.

90. Power to divide an estate among testator's lawful issue. Inglis v. McCook [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 630.

91. See Criminal Law, 3 Curr. L. 979; Indictment and Prosecution, 4 Curr. L. 1.

92. See Convicts, 3 Curr. L. 878.

93. See Pardons and Paroles, 4 Curr. L. 872.

94. See Escape and Rescue, 3 Curr. L. 1236.

95. See generally Charitable and Correctional Institutions, 1 Curr. L. 507.

96. See Cyc. Law Dict. 723, defining "prison."

97. A reform school wherein children of tender years may be kept under reasonable restraint, not as punishment for a crime, but for their moral and physical well-being, is not a prison and is not converted into one by the fact that certain persons may be committed there instead of to a penal institution. Rule v. Geddes, 23 App. D. C. 31. A parent may commit his child to such an institution without a judicial hearing. Id.

98. See 1 Curr. L. 508, n. 44 et seq.

99. In re Phillipp [Del.] 59 A. 47.

1. By judgment of a police court, where the commitment should have been in the workhouse. City of Lexington v. Gentry, 25 Ky. L. R. 738, 76 S. W. 404.

2. In Delaware this right is especially conferred by statute and may be taken away in the same manner. McDaniel v. Armstrong [Del.] 59 A. 865.

3. Constitution, § 6, art. 8, makes the powers, duties, and compensation of sheriffs dependent on legislative action. Lang v. Walker [Fla.] 35 So. 78.

4. The enactment of a law providing for the transfer of prisoners from the county jail to the workhouse is notice to a sheriff subsequently elected. McDaniel v. Armstrong [Del.] 59 A. 865.

5. Ex parte Bettis [Ala.] 37 So. 640. What constitutes a detention for an unreasonable length of time depends on the circumstances of each particular case. Id.

6. Laws 1892, pp. 1766, 1782. In re Boyce, 43 Misc. 297, 88 N. Y. S. 841.

7. See 1 Curr. L. 508, n. 49 et seq.

8. In Nebraska the board of public lands and buildings is vested with the general management of the penitentiary and may, by contract, let out the labor of any or all of the convicts. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

9. A contract for the hiring of convict labor drawn under the provisions of section 16, such labor and employ guards clothed with authority to have custody of the prisoners while at work.[10] In making such contract, the board acts for the state,[11] and the contract entered into is a contract of the state.[12] The employer of convict labor is liable for the face of his bond though the convict cannot be compelled to work out the term therein prescribed.[13] Provisions in such bond not authorized by statute are mere surplusage and do not destroy its validity.[14]

A scheme of credits[15] is for the benefit of all prisoners coming within the terms of the statute by which it is prescribed,[16] and the diminution of sentence provided for is a privilege of which a prisoner can be deprived only in accordance with the provisions of the statute,[17] and if no forfeiture has been declared until he has served for such length of time that with the diminution provided for he is entitled to his discharge, he can secure it in a legal proceeding.[18] On cumulative sentences, each term is to be considered by itself as regards the allowance of credits.[19] A state law prescribing a specified commutation to be allowed in the discretion of the governor and prison board is not a "rule of credits" applicable to a Federal prisoner.[20] The Federal statute providing a scheme of credits applies to prisoners convicted prior to its passage,[21] unless such prisoner is entitled to the benefit of the scheme prescribed by the state wherein he is confined.[22] A Federal prisoner entitled to the benefit of a state system of credits is bound by the conditions of forfeiture annexed to it.[23] Allowance of good time is a matter of grace which may be regulated at will,[24] and the imposition of a forfeiture of "good time" by the warden of a penitentiary,[25] or the discretion of a

c. 86, Comp. St., is not valid unless executed by the warden of the penitentiary and approved by the governor and the board of public lands and buildings. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

10. Under Rev. St. § 3032, the county commissioners have authority to employ county convicts at labor upon the public roads of their respective counties and under c. 4391, Laws 1895, they may employ guards who are clothed with authority to have the care and custody of such prisoners while at work. Lang v. Walker [Fla.] 35 So. 78.

11. The action of the board of public lands and buildings in keeping or refusing to keep its engagement for the leasing of convict labor is the action of the state. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

12. An action to compel specific performance is an action against the state. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

13. The hirer gave a bond for the payment of $40.40 fine and costs which stipulated that the term of service should be six months at $7.50 per month. Under the statute the convict could be compelled to work only one day for each fifty cents of fine and costs. Gonzales County v. Houston [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 117. The right of the county to obtain a contract for the hire of a convict for the full amount of his fine and costs is not affected by a provision for the benefit of the convict. Id.

14. Gonzales County v. Houston [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 117.

15. Comp. Laws, § 2112, pertaining to allowance of good time for good behavior did not repeal §§ 11785, 11786, pertaining to additional punishment for habitual criminals. In re Butler [Mich.] 101 N. W. 630.

16. One has not served a term in prison within the meaning of a statute, allowing a prisoner reduction of term for good behavior if he has not already served a second term, though he was confined, the convictions having been of offenses not punishable by such confinement. In re Harney [Mich.] 96 N. W. 795.

17. State v. Hunter, 124 Iowa, 569, 100 N. W. 510. Where no provision is made for the forfeiture of this privilege on account of the violation of the terms of a conditional pardon or suspension of sentence by the executive no such forfeiture can be imposed by the executive under any condition or stipulation inserted therein. Under Code, § 5703. Id.

18. State v. Hunter, 124 Iowa, 569, 100 N. W. 510.

19. Where greater credits are allowed for successive years of confinement, the terms are not considered as a continuous period. Ex parte Clifton, 145 Cal. 186, 78 P. 655.

20. Act Pa. 1901 (P. L. 166). United States v. Byers, 127 F. 993.

21. Apparent contradictory sections of the statute reconciled. In re Farrar, 133 F. 254.

22. In re Walters, 128 F. 791.

23. A Federal prisoner given time for his credits and again convicted in a Federal court in the same state forfeits the credits earned during his prior term. In re Walters, 128 F. 791.

24. Laws 1886, c. 21, § 14, providing that convicts released before expiration of sentence shall lose good time by conviction of another offense, is valid. Ex parte Russell, 92 N. Y. S. 68.

25. In Iowa the warden of the penitentiary may impose a forfeiture of a prisoner's "good time" without a judicial determination of the facts constituting a violation of the prison rules. State v. Hunter, 124 Iowa, 569, 100 N. W. 510.

board of managers of a reformatory in refusing to terminate an imprisonment[26] is not open to judicial inquiry.

A law requiring the workhouse warden to serve on prisoners a copy of the mittimus showing date of discharge is without application where the mittimus is not made out.[27]

Injury to prison by convict.—That a prisoner is illegally confined is no justification for breaking or injuring the jail.[28] It is not necessary to the commission of the crime of injuring a public jail to show that the accused was confined there under commitment.[29]

§ 3. Administration and fiscal affairs.[30]—The personnel of the board of prison managers and inspectors,[31] and the extent of their authority,[32] is generally regulated by statute. A member holding his office by virtue of another official capacity is not deprived of his membership because of a change in name of the latter office.[33] In Idaho the board of state prison commissioners may determine the time of their meetings.[34] A majority of the officers constituting such board are a quorum for the transaction of authorized business.[35] A meeting may be held by a majority without giving notice to a member who at the time of the calling and holding of such meeting is beyond the jurisdiction of the state.[36]

Maintenance of prison and prisoners.[37]—In maintaining a police lockup, a town is pursuing a public purpose,[38] and a constable placing a prisoner in a town lockup, as a place of detention, acts for the state even though he may have received his appointment from the town.[39] So long as a town lockup is not injurious nor dangerous to any property or person, except to such as enter into it either willingly or are committed, it is not a nuisance.[40]

The county is liable for the board of all prisoners the sheriff is compelled by law to receive,[41] and for the necessary expense of caring for prisoners afflicted

26. A statute gave them power to remit part of sentence for good conduct. They refused to discharge a prisoner. Terry v. Byers, 161 Ind. 360, 68 N. E. 596.

27. Greater New York Charter, § 710. People v. Warden of City Prison, 37 Misc. 635, 76 N. Y. S. 286.

28. People v. Boren, 139 Cal. 210, 72 P. 899. When one accused of injuring a jail set up that at the time he was illegally confined there, evidence that he had been surrendered by his bondsmen on a charge of felony is admissible. Id.

29. People v. Boren, 139 Cal. 210, 72 P. 899. Evidence showing that one accused of injuring a public jail was confined there is admissible as showing motive. Id. On a prosecution for injuring a public jail, broken bars shown to have come from the jail are admissible. Id.

30. See 1 Curr. L. 509.

31. In Nebraska the board of public lands and buildings is vested with the general management of the penitentiary. State v. Mortensen [Neb.] 95 N. W. 831.

32. Under Statute 1899, p. 111, c. 108, authorizing the trustees of Whittier State School to take and hold property, real and personal, in the name of the corporation, they have power to make a lease of land binding on their successors. Harvey v. Whittier State School Trustees, 142 Cal. 391, 75 P. 1086.

33. P. L. 607, includes the mayor of Pittsburg in the board of inspectors of Allegheny county prison. P. L. 20, abolishes the office of mayor and vests his power in the city recorder. Hays v. Allegheny County Prison Inspectors, 209 Pa. 347, 58 A. 684.

34. The board of state prison commissioners created by the constitution and granted "control, direction, and management of the penitentiaries" may meet at such times as they deem necessary. Akley v. Perrin [Idaho] 79 P. 192.

35, 36. Akley v. Perrin [Idaho] 79 P. 192.

37. See 1 Curr. L. 509.

38. In the absence of any statute imposing liability, it is not liable for the neglect of its selectmen in the care of it. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

39. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87. The fact that a prisoner placed by a constable in the town lock-up suffers damage from its neglected condition does not make the town liable to an action therefor. Id.

40. Mains v. Ft. Fairfield [Me.] 59 A. 87.

41. Prisoners arrested for petty offenses and held until their case is determined. People v. Livingston County Sup'rs, 89 App. Div. 152, 85 N. Y. S. 284. Prisoners committed for violating city ordinances, where statutes provide that such prisoners may be sentenced to jail. Burton v. Erie County, 206 Pa. 570, 56 A. 40. Under Ky. St. 1899, § 1730, making a city liable for the keep of prisoners where it gets the benefit of a fine, it is not liable to the sheriff for the keep of prisoners committed to his custody either for appearance or under sentence when a fine constitutes no part of the punishment. City of Lexington v. Gentry, 25 Ky. L. R. 738, 76 S. W. 404.

with a contagious disease,[42] but is not liable for the board of prisoners confined for the violation of city ordinances where the fine constituting part of the punishment goes to the city.[43] A sheriff entitled to remuneration for the maintenance of prisoners must, as a condition precedent to the allowance of his claim, file such vouchers as are required by law.[44] One who furnishes board for prisoners at the instance of a sheriff who is allowed a reasonable compensation for their maintenance must look to the sheriff for his pay.[45]

The discretion of the official with authority to appoint jail matrons cannot be controlled by mandamus.[46] If the necessity of a jailor rests in the determination of the sheriff, the county is liable for the services of an appointee.[47] The amount of compensation may be determined from the allowance of prior claims.[48]

PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW; PRIVATE SCHOOLS; PRIVATE WAYS; PRIVILEGE; PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS; PRIZE, see latest topical index.

PRIZE FIGHTING.[49]

That a prize fight was conducted before a "club" is no defense where the alleged club was a mere device to avoid the law.[50]

PROBATE, see latest topical index.

PROCESS.

§ 1. Nature and Kinds, Form and Requisites (1071).
§ 2. Issuances (1072).
§ 3. Extraterritorial Effect or Validity (1072).
§ 4. Actual Service (1072).
A. Personal (1072). Upon Nonresidents or Their Agents (1073). Upon Municipal Corporations (1074). Upon Domestic Corporations (1074). Upon Foreign Corporations (1074). Upon Foreign Unincorporated Organizations (1076). Presumption of Proper Service (1076).
B. Substituted (1076).
C. The Server, His Qualifications and Protection (1076).
§ 5. Constructive Service (1077). Procedure to Authorize (1077). How Made (1078). Sufficiency of Order and Publication (1079). Personal Service in Lieu of Publication (1079).
§ 6. Return and Proof (1079). Return of Service on Corporations (1080). Amendment of Return (1080). Impeachment or Contradiction of Return (1081). Waiver of Irregularities (1081). Return on Constructive Service, and Proof of Service by Publication (1082).
§ 7. Defects, Objections, and Amendments (1082). Alterations (1082). When Objections Made (1082). How Objections Made (1083). Waiver of Irregularities or Lack of Process (1083).
§ 8. Privilege and Exemptions from Service (1084).
§ 9. Abuse of Process (1084).

This article treats of original civil process including the code summons or notice;[51] but not of final,[52] or matters peculiar to ancillary,[53] process.

42. Rent of a place selected by the sheriff as a pest house. Under Laws 1900, p. 685, c. 324, § 8, where the selection was ratified by the purchasing committee of the county. In re Boyce, 43 Misc. 297, 88 N. Y. S. 841.

43. Prisoners unlawfully committed to the county jail when they should have been sent to the workhouse. City of Lexington v. Gentry, 25 Ky. L. R. 738, 76 S. W. 404.

44. Mombert v. Bannock County [Idaho] 75 P. 239.

45. A statute provided that the sheriff must provide prisoners with food and clothing for which he should be allowed a reasonable compensation. The sheriff defaulted. Mombert v. Bannock County [Idaho] 75 P. 239. See, also, Hendricks v. Chautauqua County Com'rs, 35 Kan. 483, 11 P. 450, a case under a similar statute.

46. The discretion of probate judges as to the appointment of jail matrons cannot, in the absence of gross abuse, be directed or controlled by mandamus. State v. Robeson, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 5.

47. Plunkett v. Lawrence County [S. D.] 101 N. W. 35.

48. Where the county commissioners have for a considerable period allowed a jailer a certain compensation, they could not refuse to allow him for a past quarter's services, they having given no notice that the claim would be disallowed. Plunkett v. Lawrence County [S. D.] 101 N. W. 35.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1258.

50. Evidence held for jury where public was admitted without question on signing application for membership in club. Commonwealth v. Mack [Mass.] 73 N. E. 534.

51. Summons under the code is not technically process. See Leas v. Merriman, 132 F. 510.

52. See Executions, 3 Curr. L. 1397.

§ 1. Nature and kinds, form and requisites. Definition.[54]—Process is the means of compelling a defendant to appear in court, or to comply with the latter's demands.[55] Under the Federal conformity act, an action may be instituted in a Federal court by a notice issued in accordance with state practice.[56] The petition cannot take the place of process,[57] though it is sufficient if the summons is contained in the writ of attachment.[58]

Designation of court and parties.[59]—The process must generally describe the parties to the suit or action by their own or customary names;[60] but it need not state facts showing that defendant is a corporation,[61] and in a suit against such a defendant it need not name the agent upon whom service is to be made.[62] A statement that defendant is unincorporated may be rejected as surplusage if the service would be effectual as against a corporation.[63] It need not show plaintiff's capacity to sue.[64] Generally the process being addressed to two parties it is sufficient to sustain proceedings against either.[65]

Signing and sealing.[66]—In some states the process must be sealed[67] and signed by the court or clerk thereof, a facsimile stamp being sufficient,[68] though these requirements do not generally apply to the code summons or notice.[69] An original notice in a justice court being signed in blank by the justice and filled out by plaintiff under authority of the justice is sufficient.[70]

Indorsement.[71]—In some states the copy served must bear an indorsement of filing by the clerk.[72] Statutes requiring the attorney's name to be indorsed on the summons do not render the name a part of the summons.[73]

53. See Attachment, 3 Curr. L. 353; Garnishment, 3 Curr. L. 1550.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1259.

55. See Cyc. Dict. p. 729, and 2 Curr. L. 1259.

56. Leas v. Merriman, 132 F. 510.

57. Service of petition held ineffectual where neither the order of the judge extending time of service nor a new process was attached thereto. Rowland v. Towns, 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 581.

58. Within Mansfield's Digest § 4967 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3172) providing for commencement of action. Handley v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 716.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1259.

60. Durst v. Ernst, 91 N. Y. S. 13. See 2 Curr. L. 1259, n. 58.

61. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667.

62. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

63. Corp. Act § 88 (P. L. 1896, p. 305). Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 899.

64. Failure to so do is not cause for dismissal before the complaint is filed. The objection should be taken by demurrer to the complaint. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667. Summons need not recite that plaintiff is a partnership formed for the purpose of carrying on trade or business in the state. Biddle v. Spatz, 1 Neb. Unoff. 175, 95 N. W. 354.

65. A notice addressed to two parties and stating a demand for goods sold and delivered is sufficient to sustain an action against one. Padden v. Clark, 124 Iowa, 94, 99 N. W. 152. Though the summons describes the defendants as partners, if the complaint does not show any joint liability, the action may proceed against the defendant who alone was served. Mason v. Connors, 129 F. 831. But see 2 Curr. L. 1263, n. 1.

66. See 2 Curr. L. 1260.

67. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 1214, 1447, citation must bear seal of court. Carson Bros. v. McCord-Collins Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 391. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1447, seal of clerk is essential to validity of citation. Robinson v. Horton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1044.

68. Original notice in a justice court. Loughren v. Bonniwell & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 287. Even if defective it would only be an irregularity. Id.

69. Where action in Federal court was instituted under notice provided by Code Va. 1887, § 3211. U. S. Rev. St. § 911, as to processes issuing from U. S. courts construed. Leas v. Merriman, 132 F. 510.

NOTE. Sealing summons: The summons provided by the code in some of the states, not being issued by an officer of the court but furnished by the attorney, is not a writ or "process" and does not require a seal. Porter v. Vandercook, 11 Wis. 70; Johnston v. Hamburger, 13 Wis. 175; Hanna v. Russell, 12 Minn. 80; Bailey v. Williams, 6 Or. 71; Gilmer v. Bird, 15 Fla. 411; Rand v. Pantagraph, 1 Colo. App. 270.—From note to Choate v. Spencer [Mont.] 20 L. R. A. 424.

70. Loughren v. Bonniwell & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 287. [The court expressly limits its decision to the notice involved and states that if it were a summons, a writ or a precept issued by the justice, they would be inclined to hold it insufficient.]

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1260.

72. Under Comp. Laws, § 9985, providing for the commencement of suit by filing declaration, entering a rule to plead, and serving a copy of the declaration and rule, the copy so served need not bear such an

Stating nature or cause of action.[74]—In some states the summons must set forth the nature and cause of action,[75] but referring[76] or being attached[77] to the complaint, a defect may be cured by reference to the latter.[78]

Return day.[79]—In the absence of prejudice, error in the return day is merely an irregularity.[80] The summons being improperly made returnable before the judge at chambers he should transfer it to the civil issue docket for trial, making such amendments to process and pleading as may be necessary.[81]

Alias, counterpart, and supplemental process.—An alias summons substantially complying with the original is not defective as to form,[82] and a copy alias summons being served with a copy summons is referable to the latter.[83] In some states the original summons need not be served with the alias.[84] In Tennessee counterpart summons do not apply to local actions.[85] A second original process to perfect service on a joint defendant may issue by way of amendment after the appearance term.[86]

§ 2. Issuance.[87]—There being but one suit, one petition, one defendant, the clerk has no power, without some direct and express order of the court, to issue more than one process.[88] Plaintiff being guilty of laches after filing the petition, the court loses jurisdiction to issue process or to have service perfected;[89] but if he shows due diligence in endeavoring to have process issue, and service made, the court may, at a subsequent term, authorize new process[90] or cure defective process. A precipe for summons is not a part of the record.[91]

§ 3. Extraterritorial effect or validity.[92]—The law requiring suits affecting land to be brought in the county in which the land lies, summons may be sent to any county in the state where the defendant resides or may be found.[93]

§ 4. Actual service. A. Personal. In general.[94]—The Federal conformity act only requires that the Federal practice shall conform "as near as may be" to the state practice.[95] Process in an action in personam in admiralty must be served personally, unless the defendant cannot be found, in which case an attach-indorsement. Michigan Buggy Co. v. Smallegan [Mich.] 101 N. W. 62.

73. Is not necessary to publish such indorsement. People v. Wrin, 143 Cal. 11, 76 P. 646.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1260.

75. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 4116, the summons in a justice's court must set forth the cause of action with some degree of certainty. Summons held insufficient. Macon & B. R. Co. v. Walton, 121 Ga. 275, 48 S. E. 940.

76. Summons stating that the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint is not defective under Rev. St. 1887, § 4140, even though it does not state the amount demanded. Hill v. Morgan [Idaho] 76 P. 323.

77. Indefinite statement. Old Alcalde Oil Co. v. Ludgate [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 453.

78. But see 2 Curr. L. 1260, n. 67-69.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1261.

80. So held where service was actually made on defendant and full time to answer given. It might have been taken advantage of before judgment but it does not render the latter void. Jones v. Danforth [Neb.] 99 N. W. 495.

81. Should not dismiss the action. Martin v. Clark, 135 N. C. 178, 47 S. E. 397.

82. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 4141. Hill v. Morgan [Idaho] 76 P. 323.

83. Under Municipal Court Act, § 38, in an action to recover a statutory penalty, a copy summons being served with the copy alias summons and properly referring to the statute, the fact that the copy alias summons did not so refer to the statute does not deprive the court of jurisdiction. State Board of Pharmacy v. Jacob, 92 N. Y. S. 836.

84. Under Municipal Court Act, §§ 26, 30. Lawrence v. Bernstein, 92 N. Y. S. 817.

85. Shannon's Code, §§ 4517, 4526. City of Nashville v. Webb [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 404.

86. Cox v. Strickland, 120 Ga. 104, 47 S. E. 912. Service made under such order relates to the date of the filing of the petition. Id.

87. See 2 Curr. L. 1261.

88. Rowland v. Towns, 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 581.

89. Cox v. Strickland, 120 Ga. 104, 47 S. E. 912.

90. Rowland v. Towns, 120 Ga. 74, 47 S. E. 581; Cox v. Strickland, 120 Ga. 104, 47 S. E. 912.

91. Within meaning of Rev. St. § 5334. Palmer v. Palmer, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 242.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1261.

93. Castleman v. Castleman [Mo.] 83 S. W. 757. A suit in equity to cancel a deed is one affecting title to land within meaning of Rev. St. 1899, § 564. Id.

94. See 2 Curr. L. 1262.

95. Does not require Federal court in district of Connecticut to follow Gen. St. Conn. 1902, as to service on towns. Elson v. Waterford, 135 F. 247.

ment of his property suffices.[96] The residence of one who is serving a sentence of imprisonment is, for the purpose of service of summons, in the county where the prison is located.[97] Service upon one partner is sufficient.[98]

Generally a copy of the complaint must accompany the summons,[99] though, by statute in some states, there being several defendants, service of one complaint is sufficient, and that the defendant so served files a disclaimer of interest does not affect the service as to the others.[1]

One seeking to avoid service, the paper may be placed upon his person or dropped near him, but his attention must be called to the proceeding and the fact that service is intended.[2] The test in determining whether service by mail in particular cases suffices is whether or not the papers actually came to the hands of the attorney for the adverse party.[3] Shortage of postage not preventing such actual receipt does not invalidate the service.[4] Statutes as to the acceptance of service are not generally retroactive.[5]

Upon nonresidents or their agents.[6]—Personal service of a nonresident without the state does not confer jurisdiction of the person,[7] though giving the court jurisdiction to render a judgment in rem, as a judgment in divorce proceeding,[8] or one affecting property within the jurisdiction of the court;[9] but personal service[10] on a nonresident temporarily within the state gives the court jurisdiction to render a personal judgment against him,[11] unless his presence in the state be for a purpose which renders him privileged.[12] Attachment cannot take the place of personal service.[13] In some states service upon a co-defendant within the state is

96. Service by exhibiting the original citation to a servant in the defendant's family, at his residence, and leaving a copy with her held insufficient. Walker v. Hughes, 132 F. 885.

97. Thompson v. Montrass, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 368. Service upon him in a suit brought in that county renders service valid upon co-defendants in the county where they reside. Id. An averment that he is a resident of a certain county is not inconsistent with an averment that, in accordance with the sentence of court, he is confined in a prison located in another county. Id.

98. Maneely v. Mayers, 43 Misc. 380, 87 N. Y. S. 471.

99. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 635, 636, service of a summons without a copy of the complaint confers no jurisdiction. Rule applied to a justice's summons under § 1510. State v. Harrington [Mont.] 78 P. 484.

1. Code Civ. Proc. § 635. Bad faith would affect the above rule. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591.

2. Where paper was dropped near defendant who at the time was in a large crowd and handcuffed to a detective, his attention not being called to the proceeding, held no personal service. Anderson v. Abeel, 96 App. Div. 370, 89 N. Y. S. 254.

3. Appeal Print. Co. v. Sherman, 99 App. Div. 533, 91 N. Y. S. 178.

4. Where attorneys paid postage due without objection, but, after learning the nature of the package, returned it, held a valid service. Appeal Print. Co. v. Sherman, 99 App. Div. 533, 91 N. Y. S. 178.

5. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1349, providing for the acceptance of service does not apply to a case in which service was accepted before the passage of the act. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

6. See post, § 5, Constructive service. See 2 Curr. L. 1263.

7. Hildreth v. Thibodeau [Mass.] 71 N. E. 111; First Nat. Bank v. Eastman, 144 Cal. 487, 77 P. 1043. Substituted service. Eastern Tex. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 883. Service on a nonresident defendant outside of the district of suit is only authorized in a Federal court in cases affecting property within the district [U. S. Rev. St. § 738 as amended]. Winter v. Koon, Schwarz & Co., 132 F. 273. See 2 Curr. L. 1263, n. 2.

8. Under Gen. St. 1894, §§ 4796, 4797, the complaint and summons in divorce proceedings may be personally served outside of the state. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861.

9. First Nat. Bank v. Eastman, 144 Cal. 487, 77 P. 1043. A judgment rendered without substituted, but after personal, service on the defendant, a nonresident whose property within the state of the forum has been seized, is merely erroneous, and not void. Jones v. Danforth [Neb.] 99 N. W. 495.

10. Leaving summons with another than defendant at a house where the latter was temporarily staying is insufficient. Hennings v. Cunningham [N. J. Law] 59 A. 12.

11. Mason v. Connors, 129 F. 831. Is subject to suit, by a nonresident, on a transitory action. Lee v. Baird, 139 Ala. 526, 36 So. 720.

12. That he is superintending erection of public work does not render him privileged. Mason v. Connors, 129 F. 831.

13. Under Shannon's Code, §§ 4516, 4542, 4546, jurisdiction is not acquired by an attachment of property in lieu of personal service on the nonresident's agent. Green v. Snyder [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 808.

sufficient to bind a nonresident.[14] Petition not stating a cause of action against defendants residing in the county, jurisdiction is not acquired, by service of the summons, of defendants residing and served outside the county.[15]

Upon municipal corporations.[16]—In suing a municipal corporation, service is generally required to be made on the mayor.[17]

Upon domestic corporations.[18]—Service upon corporations is largely regulated by statutes, these generally provide for service upon an agent[19] or chief officer of the corporation; a receiver is not such an officer,[20] and the affairs of the corporation being in the hands of the receiver, and the president being a nonresident, service may be made on the "last vice-president."[21] Service is sufficient when served on one theretofore served with process, and which service the corporation accepted by appearance.[22] In some states substituted service is allowed,[23] in others it is not.[24]

Upon foreign corporations.[25]—As regards service of process, a Federal corporation is foreign to the states.[26] In most states a foreign corporation doing business therein is required to appoint an agent for the acceptance of service, and, in the absence of such an appointed agent, the law generally authorizes service upon a designated person.[27] A foreign corporation doing business within the state

14. In Vermont, there being no attachment of property or credits, service on a nonresident by leaving a copy of the summons with a co-defendant who is within the state is insufficient. Mason v. Connors, 129 F. 831.

15. Haseltine v. Messmore [Mo.] 82 S. W. 115. The misjoinder of defendants, in such a case appearing on the face of the petition, the question of jurisdiction by service of the summons outside of the county may be raised after judgment. Id.

16. As to effect of Federal conformity act see ante, this section.

17. The requirement of the Brannock Law that service shall be made on the mayor does not supersede the provision of the municipal code which determines who is the mayor at the time of service. In re Gorey, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 389. Under the Brannock Law a summons directed to B, as mayor of the city of S, and left at the office of the mayor, is not good, in the absence of B, against the acting mayor. Id.

18. See 2 Curr. L. 1263. Many of the statutory rules applicable to domestic corporations apply to foreign corporations and vice versa, hence both subdivisions should, to a limited extent, be read together. See, also, post, § 6, Return and proof. Service on agent of corporation is personal. Brassfield v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1032.

19. One taking orders for cargoes held such an agent. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. Northern Grain Co., 204 Ill. 510, 68 N. E. 558. Local operator of a wireless telegraph company at an office not yet open for general business but who had received messages for pay is a local agent for service of summons under Code § 217. Copland v. American De Forest Wireless Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 11, 48 S. E. 501. Secretary of local assembly of a fraternal benefit association is the agent of the latter. Hildebrand v. United Artisans [Or.] 79 P. 347.

20. Is an officer of the court. Youree v. Home Town Mut. Ins. Co., 180 Mo. 153, 79 S. W. 175.

21. Rev. St. 1899, § 995. Youree v. Home Town Mut. Ins. Co., 180 Mo. 153, 79 S. W. 175.

22. This is especially true where the corporation fails to inform the party in interest how better service could be made. Hill v. Morgan [Idaho] 76 P. 323.

23. May be made by leaving a copy at the dwelling house or usual place of abode of the president. Gen. Corp. Law 1901, § 48, 22 Del. Laws, p. 305, c. 167. A rule and alternative writ in mandamus may be so served. Bay State Gas Co. v. State, 4 Pen. [Del.] 238, 56 A. 1114. Such act applies to service on domestic corporation organized prior to the taking effect of the Constitution of the state in force at the time of the passage of the act. Id.

24. Under Civ. Code, § 1899, service cannot be made by leaving a copy at the most notorious place of abode of the general manager. Stuart Lumber Co. v. Perry, 117 Ga. 888, 45 S. E. 251. Such provision of the Code supersedes Water Lot Co. v. Bank of Brunswick, 30 Ga. 685. Id.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1264. See, ante, Domestic corporations as many of the statutory rules are applicable to both domestic and foreign corporations. See, also, post, § 6, Return and proof.

26. Territory v. Baker [N. M.] 78 P. 624.

27. North Carolina: Pub. Laws 1901, p. 66, § 1, includes all foreign corporations doing business, or who have done business, in the state. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667. This statute is cumulative to Acts 1899, p. 175, c. 54, § 62, providing for service on foreign insurance companies. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1264, n. 25.

Vermont: Vermont St. § 3949, providing for service on station agents of foreign railroad furnishes an additional mode of service to that provided by § 1109 authorizing service of attachment on nonresident by leaving copy with agent or attorney. Gokey v. Boston & M. R. Co., 130 F. 994.

is presumed to have complied with such laws.[28] They are constitutional[29] and apply to a corporation though the latter be not licensed.[30] Such laws do not cease to apply upon the corporation ceasing to do business within the state, but continue to operate until all of such corporation's liabilities to citizens of the state are paid.[31] The appointment of an agent for service of process impliedly revokes a former appointment and service upon such former appointee is insufficient.[32] The corporation may become estopped to deny the agent's authority to accept service.[33] Service to be binding[34] must be made upon the identical officer or agent,[35] or one of the officers or agents[36] prescribed by the statute. A corporation may be such an agent.[37] If plaintiff cannot, with the exercise of diligence, serve the designated persons, he may generally serve the managing agents[38] or other officers of the cor-

28. Johnston v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co.. 90 N. Y. S. 539.

29. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667. Acts of Arkansas 1901, p. 52, § 1, providing for service on state auditor in the absence of a designated agent of the corporation is not unconstitutional as denying due process of law. Davis v. Kansas & T. Coal Co., 129 F. 149.

NOTE. Power of the states to prescribe how and on whom process may be served: It is difficult, if not impossible, to describe any well-defined limits to the power of the state to prescribe either the mode in which process may be served on a foreign corporation or the officer, agent, or other representative upon whom it can be made. It is quite safe to affirm that any mode of service may be authorized which would be valid as against a domestic corporation. Pope v. Terre Haute C. M. Co., 87 N. Y. 137. Of course, the object of all process and of its service is to inform the person, natural or artificial, of the proceeding against him, of the court in which it is pending, and that he must, within some time designated, either by law or in the process, appear and make some defense, or that otherwise some judgment or order may be entered against him. Any method of service not calculated to give the defendant notice of any of these essential facts may well be regarded as beyond the power of the state to authorize, whether the defendant be a natural or artificial person, a resident or a nonresident. In a comparatively recent case the constitutionality of a statute was questioned which purported to authorize service upon a defendant corporation "by delivering to, and leaving with, the registrar of deeds" true copies of the summons and complaint. The statute was assailed, the defendant being a domestic corporation, as authorizing a proceeding without "due process of law." The court quoted with approval the language of Mr. Justice Curtis, in Murray v. Hoboken Land & I. Co., 18 How. [U. S.] 276, 15 Law. Ed. 372, that "it is manifest that it was not left to the legislative power to enact any process which might be devised. The article is a restraint on the legislative, as well as on the executive and judicial, powers of the government, and cannot be so construed as to leave Congress free to make any process 'due process of law' by its mere will." See, also, Hagar v. Reclamation Dist., 111 U. S. 708, 28 Law. Ed. 569; Pinney v. Providence, etc., Co., 106 Wis. 396, 82 N. W. 308, 80 Am. St. Rep. 41. These principles are doubtless applicable to foreign corporations. The Minnesota supreme court has stated the law as follows: "The statute does not define the word 'agent,' but as the service of process goes to the jurisdiction of the court over the person, it must be construed so as to conform to the principles of natural justice, and so that the service will constitute 'due process of law.' To do this, the agent must be one having in fact a representative capacity and derivative authority. Such agent must be one actually appointed and representing the corporation as a matter of fact, and not one created by construction or implication contrary to the intention of the parties." Mikolas v. Walker, 73 Minn. 305, 76 N. W. 36. See, also, Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Spratley, 172 U. S. 602, 43 Law. Ed. 569; Carroll v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. J.] 46 A. 708.—From note to Abbeville, etc., Co. v. Western, etc., Co. [S. C.] 85 Am. St. Rep. 890, 905, 927.

30. Pub. Laws 1901, p. 66, c. 5, construed. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667.

31. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667; Johnston v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 539. Arkansas rule. Davis v. Kansas & T. Coal Co., 129 F. 149.

32. Mullins v. Central Coal & Coke Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 477.

33. Corporation's general counsel stating that a certain agent was authorized to accept service, the corporation cannot question the sufficiency of service upon him. Taylor Provision Co. v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 10.

34. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. See Clark & M. Corp. § 267.

35. Local operator of a wireless telegraph company at an office not yet open for general business but who had received messages for pay, is a local agent for service of summons under Code § 217. Copland v. American De Forest Wireless Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 11, 48 S. E. 501. Local agent held to be local agent representing company within meaning of Rev. St. 1895, art. 1222. El Paso, etc., R Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

36. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1223, providing that either the general manager or local agent may be served, the former being served it is immaterial whether he is the local agent or not. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

37. Rev. St. 1899, § 570. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069.

38. Code Civ. Proc. § 432. Doherty v.

poration. But in order to have a valid service, the corporation must be doing business within the state,[39] which fact must appear of record,[40] have property therein,[41] or the cause of action must have arose there,[42] and the officer must not be inviegled into the state for the purpose of service.[43] Several methods being prescribed, a substantial compliance with all or either is sufficient.[44]

Upon foreign unincorporated organizations.—Process against a foreign unincorporated organization may be served on an agent thereof.[45]

Presumption of proper service.[46]—The service is presumed to have been regular even though the return be defective.[47]

(§ 4) B. Substituted.[48]—The statutes of most states provide that service may be made by leaving a copy of the process at defendant's usual place of abode with some one of a certain age or over.[49] The New York statute providing for substituted service is mandatory as to the time within which the papers, upon which the substituted service is granted, may be filed,[50] and it devolves upon the plaintiff[51] to show by satisfactory proof[52] that he has complied with all the requirements of the statute. In the municipal court, failure of the affidavit to state that no previous application for an order for such service had been made is a mere irregularity.[53]

(§ 4) C. The server, his qualifications and protection.[54]—By statute in most Evening Journal Ass'n, 90 N. Y. S. 671. Return of service as on "vice-president and managing agent" is good though the person was no longer vice-president. Evidence held to show that person was managing agent under B. & C. Comp. § 55. Coast Land Co. v. Oregon Pac. Colonization Co., 44 Or. 483, 75 P. 884. See 2 Curr. L. 1265, n. 26.

39. Service upon the president of a foreign corporation while he was casually going through a state in which the corporation did no business is insufficient. Territory v. Baker [N. M.] 78 P. 624, afd. 25 S. Ct. 375. Service upon the officers or directors of a foreign corporation not doing business and having no office in the state is insufficient. Martin v. New Trinidad Lake Asphalt Co., 130 F. 394. See 2 Curr. L. 1266, n. 38, 39.

40. Where neither the statement, summons, praecipe therefor, nor the return of the marshal recites such fact, service may be set aside. Jackson v. Delaware River Amusement Co., 131 F. 134.

41. Complaint for libel alleging that the same was circulated "throughout Jersey City, and the state of New Jersey and other states in the U. S.," and failing to show that the corporation had property in New York, held insufficient to warrant service upon managing agent. Doherty v. Evening Journal Ass'n, 90 N. Y. S. 671.

42. Washington: Pierce's Code § 7216, does not justify service on an agent in a transitory action by a servant for personal injuries occurring in another state. Olson v. Buffalo Hump Min. Co., 130 F. 1017.

43. Where secretary of foreign corporation was induced to come into state on business and was there served, the process being dated the day he stated he would be in town, held service would be set aside. Cavanagh v. Manhattan Transit Co., 133 F. 818.

44. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

45. Under Practice Act (P. L. 1903, p. 545) § 40. Although such agent is not the general agent in charge of its whole business. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 899. Service upon city and route agents of an express company held good, nothing appearing to show any limitation of the control of such agents over the company's business in the state of the forum. Id., 58 A. 1101.

46. See 2 Curr. L. 1267.

47. In a direct proceeding to set aside a judgment based on a defective return, the movant must affirmatively show that the required service was not actually made. He cannot rely on the incompleteness of the return. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25.

48. See 2 Curr. L. 1267.

49. Under Code § 3518, authorizing leaving of notice with some member of defendant's family over 14 years old, the fact that it was left with defendant's wife who could not understand English is insufficient to warrant a new trial. Hass v. Leverton [Iowa] 102 N. W. 811. [Had the officer been obliged to read the notice the decision might have been different. See Diltz v. Chambers, 2 G. Greene (Iowa) 479.]

50. Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1501, c. 580) § 34. Dalton v. Mills, 91 N. Y. S. 733.

For history and practice under this statute see 1 Nichols, New York Practice, ch. 3, p. 751.

51. Dalton v. Mills, 91 N. Y. S. 733; Skinner v. Jordan, 91 N. Y. S. 322.

52. An indorsement on an alias summons, "Cal. fee paid 4-12-04," without signature or any evidence of filing is insufficient to prove service of substituted process under Municipal Court Act, § 34. Skinner v. Jordan, 91 N. Y. S. 322.

53. Lawrence v. Bernstein, 92 N. Y. S. 817.

54. See 2 Curr. L. 1268. See, also, topic Sheriffs and Constables, 2 Curr. L. 1640.

states a summons may be served by an unofficial person.[55] A statute requiring service by the acting sheriff service by a deputy is sufficient.[56]

A ministerial officer is protected in the execution of process where it appears on the face of the process that the court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter, and the process in other respects shows no want of authority.[57]

§ 5. Constructive service. Service by publication. When proper.[58]—Service by publication is one of the forms of constructive service; such service does not deny a nonresident due process of law,[59] and is proper where defendant is a nonresident,[60] or being a resident cannot after due diligence be found within the state.[61] The principal defendant being a nonresident, service by publication is sufficient to support garnishment proceedings against a resident.[62]

Procedure to authorize.[63]—Where service is by publication, the statutes must be strictly complied with.[64] Generally the jurisdiction of the court to make the order of publication rests exclusively upon the affidavit for publication,[65] though in some states an attachment of a nonresident's property is essential.[66] An order for publication made in vacation before the filing of any pleading is void.[67] The affidavit for publication should describe the nature of the action,[68] it must show whether defendant is a resident or nonresident,[69] his last known place of residence, or, if unknown, such fact should appear,[70] it should also state the facts which constitute due and diligent search.[71] To this end there must be a valid return that

55. Code Civ. Proc. § 1688, as amended, providing for the appointment of a special constable, does not affect § 1510, authorizing an unofficial person to serve a justice's summons. State v. Harrington [Mont.] 78 P. 484. Code Civ. Proc. § 1895, requiring service to be made by the marshal, applies only to an action brought by a common informer. Does not apply to an action for penalties for refusing to allow a stockholder to inspect corporate books. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1004.

56. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911.

57. To assess the cost of habeas corpus proceedings against a sheriff who has lawfully performed his duty, when an order of discharge is entered thereon, is erroneous. Magerstadt v. People, 105 Ill. App. 316.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1268.

59. Action to enforce levee taxes. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252.

60. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 412, service may be made by publication where the person upon whom service is to be made resides out of the state. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007. In such case the affidavit need not state that such person cannot, after due diligence, be found within the state. Id. See 2 Curr. L. 1269, n. 83.

61. Under the Wisconsin statutes the essential fact warranting service by publication is that defendant cannot be found in the state, that he is a resident therein is not fatal. McHenry v. Brackin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 960.

62. Holford v. Trewella, 36 Wash. 654, 79 P. 308.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1269.

64. McHenry v. Brackin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 960. Must receive at least a substantial compliance. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783. Where the publication addressed to residents who cannot be found and that addressed to nonresidents are different one cannot be substituted for the other. Erased order of deputy clerk held ineffectual, the wrong order being substituted [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 575, 577 construed]. Kelly v. Murdagh [Mo.] 83 S. W. 437. See 2 Curr. L. 1269, n. 92. Civil Code § 4788 relating to service by publication in partition is not repealed by the general law relating to service by publication. Lochrane v. Equitable Loan & Security Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 372.

65. Not on attachment of defendant's real estate within the state. Johnson v. Miner, 144 Cal. 785, 78 P. 240.

66. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 148, 156, 248. Little v. Christie [S. C.] 48 S. E. 89.

67. Only a petition setting forth intent to sue was presented. Lochrane v. Equitable Loan & Security Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 372.

68. Affidavit held to describe the nature of the action with reasonable certainty. Reister v. Land [Okl.] 76 P. 156. See 2 Curr. L. 1269, n. 95.

69. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783; Empire City Sav. Bank v. Silleck, 90 N. Y. S. 561. Certificate of sheriff that he cannot find defendant and believes him to be a nonresident is not proof of nonresidence unless made a part of, or referred to in, the affidavits. Id. In the absence of affidavit that defendant was a nonresident or nonaccessible, and such facts not being alleged in the petition, the order for publication cannot be sustained [Rev. St. 1899, § 575, construed]. Cummings v. Brown, 181 Mo. 711, 81 S. W. 158. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 412, affidavit alleging nonresidence jurisdiction of court is brought into exercise. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

70. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783.

71. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783; Empire City Sav. Bank v. Silleck, 90 N. Y. S. 561. The affidavit failing in this regard, the court has no jurisdiction. Simensen v. Simensen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 708. Placing summons in hands of sheriff, the sheriff's return, defendant cannot be found[72] at the date of the application.[73] An unsigned, undated jurat being appended to the affidavit, the latter is insufficient.[74] The affidavit is not subject to collateral attack on the ground that the statements contained therein are based on information and belief,[75] and, if it state defectively but inferentially the statutory requirements, it is merely voidable and may be corrected by amendment.[76] In a collateral attack it will be presumed that it was sufficiently shown that personal service could not be made.[77] Sufficiency of the affidavit as to some of the defendants is immaterial on the question of its sufficiency as to others.[78] Where a faulty publication for nonresident defendants has been set aside, it is not necessary to file a second affidavit unless new facts have developed.[79] In Washington, personal service on one or more of the defendants will, in some cases, prolong the time for service by publication.[80]

The order may in some states be issued by the clerk,[81] though its issuance is generally a matter for the court, and, like other orders, can in such case be proved only by the court's record.[82] Substantial compliance with the statutory form is sufficient.[83]

How made.[84]—The service is made by publication in a newspaper within the territorial jurisdiction of the court if possible[85] for a time fixed by statute.[86] Publication for a longer time does not vitiate the service.[87] Publication on Sunday renders the service void,[88] and, after judgment, the burden is upon defendants to show that the newspaper containing the notice was actually published on Sunday.[89] If defendant's residence is known, the order must direct a copy of the summons and complaint to be mailed to him.[90] In construing the order, the ordinary rules of construction apply.[91] and inquiry made of persons held to show the exercise of diligence. People v. Wrin, 143 Cal. 11, 76 P. 646. See 2 Curr. L. 1269, n. 95.

72. Rev. St. 1898, § 577. Cummings v. Brown, 181 Mo. 711, 81 S. W. 158. See 2 Curr. L. 1269, n. 95.

73. Return showing absence of defendant seven months prior to application does not show absence at the latter date. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783.

74. Rumeli v. Tampa [Fla.] 37 So. 563.

75. Johnson v. Miner, 144 Cal. 785, 78 P. 240.

76. Reister v. Land [Okl.] 76 P. 156.

77. McHenry v. Brackin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 960.

78. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

79. Hunt v. Hunt, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 577.

80. So held in this case [Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4869]. Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524, 76 P. 258.

81. Where record showed issuance of order by clerk in vacation, judgment held not subject to collateral attack [Rev. St. 1889, § 2022, construed]. Vincent v. Means [Mo.] 82 S. W. 96.

82. The following memorandum on clerk's docket: "2-8-1900. Ord. Pub. to Leader Democrat," held insufficient. Cummings v. Brown, 181 Mo. 711, 81 S. W. 158.

83. Omission of words "be made" in speaking of serving summons on defendant held immaterial. McHenry v. Brackin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 960.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1270.

85. Laws 1877, p. 215, Laws 1879, p. 84 and Rev. St. 1899, § 581, construed and applied. Jewett v. Boardman, 181 Mo. 647, 81 S. W. 186.

86. Order for publication requiring two months' publication must yield to Pol. Code, § 3549, making four weeks' publication sufficient. People v. McFadden [Cal.] 77 P. 999. Proof that a summons was published for "six successive weeks" in a weekly newspaper, shows a publication "once a week" for six successive weeks. McHenry v. Brackin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 960. Quaere, would the same be true if the newspaper was a daily? Comp. Laws N. M. 1897, §§ 2956, 2964, requiring the last publication to be made at least two weeks before the return day, does not demand that the period of publication should be completed by such time, but only that the last insertion of the notice should have been published. Harrison v. Wallis, 44 Misc. 492, 90 N. Y. S. 44.

87. Harrison v. Wallis, 44 Misc. 492, 90 N. Y. S. 44.

88. Harrison v. Wallis, 44 Misc. 492, 90 N. Y. S. 44. But see 2 Curr. L. 1270, n. 8, where contra is held under California rule.

89. Under Comp. Laws N. M. 1897, § 1372 that it was published after sunrise. Harrison v. Wallis, 44 Misc. 492, 90 N. Y. S. 44.

90. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783. Code Civ. Proc. § 412. Such direction must appear of record. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

91. It cannot be said, on appeal, that the court erred in construing its order for publication in the "S. D. Union" as referring to the "S. D. Union and Daily Bee." People v. McFadden [Cal.] 77 P. 999.

Sufficiency of order and publication.[92]—Slight discrepancies between the original summons and the one published which are not capable of misleading the defendant as to the nature of the proceeding, the property affected and the relief demanded, are immaterial.[93] The order of publication is presumptive proof of the existence of all prerequisites,[94] and, unless the affidavit and order are part of the judgment roll, their sufficiency is conclusively presumed.[95] The order is not open to collateral attack if the affidavits vest the judge with jurisdiction to pass on the question and he is satisfied.[96] Sufficiency of the service is presumed from judicial recitals.[97]

Personal service in lieu of publication.[98]—Personal service out of the state is equivalent to publication and deposit of the notice in the post office.[99]

§ 6. Return and proof. Official return.[1]—While the return is only evidence of service, still there should be in the record a return by the officer showing that the process has been served, and that thereby the court has acquired jurisdiction.[2] The officer has no right to return the writ unexecuted, until the return day,[3] and if the writ shows such a return prior thereto such showing is not overcome by proof that there is no memorandum in the clerk's office.[4] The law will indulge in presumptions in favor of a return,[5] even though made by a de facto officer,[6] but this rule does not extend to the return on a justice's summons.[7] If possible the return should be construed so as to render it legal and sufficient.[8] The return should have a venue,[9] state the date of service,[10] place of return,[11] and in some states, in the case of substituted service, the name of the person with whom the summons was left.[12] A return signed by a sheriff, when the service is actually made

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1271.

93. People v. Davis, 143 Cal. 673, 77 P. 651.

94. Under Rev. St. Wis. 1878, § 2641 of filing of complaint, though minutes of court deny such fact. McHenry v. Brackin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 960.

95. People v. Davis, 143 Cal. 673, 77 P. 651. Being part of the judgment roll they are to be considered in determining the jurisdiction of the court. Parson v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007.

96. Held not open to collateral attack where the affidavits showed that defendants were nonresidents and plaintiff would be unable to make personal service within the state. Kennedy v. Lamb, 92 N. Y. S. 385.

97. Such recital is entitled to the same presumption of verity as any other recital. Parsons v. Weis, 144 Cal. 410, 77 P. 1007. A recital in the judgment that defendant was regularly served is not rebutted where the judgment roll contains simply the original summons, the return of the sheriff, and the affidavit of publication which does not show that an alias summons was not issued prior to publication. People v. Davis, 143 Cal. 673, 77 P. 651.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1271.

99. First Nat. Bank v. Eastman, 144 Cal. 487, 77 P. 1043. Hence the affidavit of publication is not a prerequisite. Hunter v. Wenatchee Land Co., 36 Wash. 541, 79 P. 40. See 2 Curr. L. 1271, n. 16.

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1271.

For the law relating to the appointment of sheriffs and constables see topic, Sheriffs and Constables, 2 Curr. L. 1640.

2. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25. There being a valid service but no return or a void return a default judgment should not be entered. Id.

3. Cummings v. Brown, 181 Mo. 711, 81 S. W. 158.

4. Such proof does not warrant the presumption that officer retained the writ until the return day seeking to execute it. Cummings v. Brown, 181 Mo. 711, 81 S. W. 158.

5. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 635, providing that where two or more defendants reside in the same county the complaint need only be served on one, held that the service having been made in the same county the return need not show that they were all residents of such county. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591. But see 2 Curr. L. 1271, n. 22. Parol evidence held insufficient to overcome presumption of regularity of official conduct. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837.

6. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837.

7. Such return is presumed to show all that was done by the person making the service. State v. Harrington [Mont.] 78 P. 484.

8. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861.

9. Being without venue it is a nullity. Frees v. Blyth, 99 App. Div. 541, 91 N. Y. S. 103.

10. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1225. Failure to so do held fatal to default judgment. Robinson v. Horton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1044.

11. Record stating writ to have been returned "before B., one of the justices of the peace for the county aforesaid, at his office at home" is insufficient. Rust v. Frame [Del.] 58 A. 825.

12. Code § 3519. Such statute is satisfied by the return stating that it was left with defendant's wife. Hass v. Leverton [Iowa] 102 N. W. 811.

by a deputy is sufficient.[13] That the return contains unnecessary matter does not necessarily affect its validity.[14]

Return of service on corporations.[15]—The return should affirmatively set out facts which will bring the service within one of the methods prescribed by statute.[16] Where service on a certain person is allowed only on condition, the return must show the existence of the condition,[17] though a motion to dismiss such service having been denied, the existence of such condition will be presumed.[18] With regard to a showing of the existence of material facts, the return is to be construed with reference to the record.[19] Use of words "business hours" in return is synonymous with "office hours," the words of the statute.[20] Return showing service on officer at "usual business office" does not show service at "principal office of corporation."[21] The terms "president or other chief officer" and "president or chief officer" are synonymous.[22]

Amendment of return.[23]—An irregular or incomplete return may be amended to conform to the facts.[24] The amendment may be voluntarily made by the officer while he remains in commission,[25] or after his retirement from office, the trial court consenting,[26] or by a nunc pro tunc order[27] of the trial court,[28] though in some cases the appellate court may, in the exercise of its sound discretion, exercise the power.[29] In Texas the return may be amended without notice to defendant.[30] Motion to set aside judgment, as based on a defective return, affirmatively showing on its face proper service, it is unnecessary to amend the return.[31] The officer seeking to amend the return, defendant may raise an issue as to the validity of the 13. Orchard v. Peake [Kan.] 77 P. 281.

14. Return held valid where officer certified the name by which defendant was described was only an alias. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1272.

16. Where action is commenced in the county where the cause of action accrued, instead of in the county where defendant has its principal office, the return must show the reason for making the service on the local agent. Hildebrand v. United Artisans [Or.] 79 P. 347. Return must state that president or other chief officer could not be found in county to render alternative service good [Rev. St. 1899, § 995]. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911.

17. Under St. 1899, p. 111, c. 94, § 1, a return showing service on the secretary of state must show that foreign corporation failed to designate agent. Willey v. The Benedict Co., 145 Cal. 601, 79 P. 270. Certificate of secretary of state to the effect that no such agent had been appointed, being no part of the judgment roll cannot be looked to on a motion to quash the service on the record. Id. Return, under Rev. St. 1899, § 570, showing service on an agent not in defendant's place of business, must state that defendant had no place of business at which the writ could be served. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069.

18. Fisher v. Traders' Mut. Life Ins. Co., 136 N. C. 217, 48 S. E. 667.

19. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. Petition describing defendant as a foreign corporation the return need not so state. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069.

20. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

21. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911.

22. Rev. St. 1899, § 995, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 115, construed. Brassfield v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1032.

23. See 2 Curr. L. 1273.

24. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25. Return on a writ of attachment. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22.

25. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25. See 2 Curr. L. 1273, n. 40-42.

26. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

27. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 5116, 5117. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25.

28. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911.

29. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911. Held amendment would not be allowed on appeal where to do so would shut defendant out from a defense on the merits. Id. Request to amend denied where sheriff was not produced for cross-examination as to where and on whom he served the writ. Id. Slight misnomer is an imperfection which, under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 672, 673, may be cured in the appellate court. Word "company" omitted from corporate name. Brassfield v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1032. A return may be amended on appeal by adding "the president and other chief officers being absent from the county and could not be found" [Rev. St. 1899, §§ 670, 672, 673]. Holtschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 489.

30. Construing Rev. St. 1895, art. 1239. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

31. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25.

service, and on satisfactory evidence may prevent the amendment.[32] An amended return relates back to the time of service.[33] Objection to the filing of an amended affidavit of service cannot be made for the first time on appeal.[34]

Impeachment or contradiction of return.[35]—The return is conclusive upon the parties to the suit or action[36] and cannot be contradicted except for fraud or mistake[37] or in a direct action against the officer for making a false return.[38] In some states the rule seems to be limited to matters, the truth and falsity of which are within the personal knowledge of the officer,[39] and while the general rule is as stated above yet modern practice is liberal in allowing inquiry into the actual facts where the return itself is not full or explicit,[40] and an application to set aside such service may be made by a rule to show cause.[41] The rule is not altered by the fact that plaintiff became the purchaser at the execution sale,[42] nor does the fact that the defendant only obtained nominal damages in an action against the sheriff entitle him to attack the return in equity.[43] The return cannot be falsified by a plea in abatement.[44] In states where the return is held inconclusive, the oath and return of the officer prevails against the oath of a single person.[45]

The rule that the return is conclusive does not deny one due process of law if on the face of the record he appears to have been legally served.[46]

The officer's return being regular on its face the burden is upon the defendant to show that the writ was not served in the manner stated.[47] Specific findings may be taken in connection with the return in determining the sufficiency of the service.[48] Findings of chancellors as to the truth of return will not generally be disturbed on appeal.[49]

Waiver of irregularities.[50]—Motion to quash the process on the ground that

32. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25. On similar proof may, in a direct attack on the judgment, have the latter set aside. Id.

33. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855; Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

34. State Board of Pharmacy v. Jacob, 92 N. Y. S. 836.

35. See 2 Curr. L. 1273.

36. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069. Remedy is an action against the officer. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069; Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481. But see 2 Curr. L. 1273, n. 45, 47-50.

37. Ky. St. 1903, § 3760. That party alleged to have been served had no recollection thereof held insufficient to show mistake. Utter v. Smith, 25 Ky. L. R. 2272, 80 S. W. 447. Evidence that deceased officer, who in his lifetime had made the return in question, had drank to excess, and evidence of conversations with such officer while alive concerning his return held incompetent to show mistake. Id.

38. Equity. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

[Note: In the above case the authorities are collected, discussed at length and the question decided as indicated, thus overruling Smoot v. Judd, 161 Mo. 673, 61 S. W. 851, 84 Am. St. Rep. 738. Along this line see the note on the power of equity to set aside a default judgment at law because based on a false return, 4 Curr. L. 304, where the authorities are exhaustively set out and the rules as to the conclusiveness of the return discussed. See, also, the dissenting opinion in Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481, 509.]

39. That personal service had been made. Judgment had been rendered. Orchard v. Peake [Kan.] 77 P. 281. Service on the agent of a corporation is not conclusive of the fact of agency. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

40. See Jackson v. Delaware River Amusement Co., 131 F. 134.

41. Jackson v. Delaware River Amusement Co., 131 F. 134. A plea in abatement, while the more ancient and formal way, will not be required. Id.

NOTE. Necessity of plea in abatement. Federal practice: The practice of setting aside service on rule has been adopted in many of the Federal districts even where the local practice requires a plea in abatement. Wall v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 95 F. 398.

42. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

43. Cannot maintain a suit in equity to set aside a default judgment based thereon. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

44. McDaniels v. De Groot [Vt.] 59 A. 166.

45. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481. [The above point was raised in this case and decided on the strength of Gatlin v. Dibrell, 74 Tex. 36, 11 S. W. 908 and Randall v. Collins, 58 Tex. 282. The principal case holds, however, that a bill in equity will not lie to set aside a default judgment based on a false return. See note on subject in Judgments, 4 Curr. L. 304.]

46. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

47. Return to a writ of attachment. Lewis v. Rasp [Okl.] 76 P. 142.

48. El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

49. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1275.

the action is barred by limitations waives all defects in the return.[51] Irregularities in the return are cured by judgment.[52]

Return on constructive service, and proof of service by publication.[53]—The return showing constructive service is to be strictly construed, and everything may be inferred against it which its departure from the description of the statute will warrant.[54] In Nebraska proof of publication by the affidavit of a person having knowledge of the fact must be made within six months after the last day of publication.[55]

§ 7. Defects, objections, and amendments. In general.[56]—Defects in the process must be distinguished from defects in the officer's return.[57] Irregularities in form will be disregarded.[58] Service of a void summons is equivalent to no service.[59] One defendant cannot avail himself of defects in the service of summons on other parties.[60] Defects in ancillary process do not affect the writ as against the principal defendant.[61] The clerk failing to annex process to petition in time for service at the succeeding term, the court may remedy the mistake by an ex parte order.[62]

Alterations. Amendments.[63]—Process may be amended[64] nunc pro tunc[65] upon motion made,[66] or, if the court has jurisdiction of the parties, upon its own motion[67] at any time before final judgment.[68] That the amendment is granted after the cause of action sued on would be barred by limitations is immaterial.[69] Where a defendant answers to the merits and files a plea of misnomer, the misnomer may be amended.[70] The court cannot assume the truth of averments in a

51. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857.

52. Omission of word "The" from company name, held so cured. Jones v. Bibb Brick Co., 120 Ga. 321, 48 S. E. 25.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1274.

54. Holtschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 489. Return held insufficient under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 995, 996, as not showing directly or by inevitable inference that the sheriff left a copy of the writ and petition at any business office of the corporation with a person in charge thereof. Id.

55. Lonergan v. South Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 407.

56. See 2 Curr. L. 1274.

57. For the latter see ante, § 6, Return and proof.

58. Failure of summons to contain words "under the penalty of the complaint being taken as confessed" as required by statute, held an irregularity of form. Ammons v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 937.

59. Henman v. Westheimer [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 101. See 2 Curr. L. 1274, n. 59.

60. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712.

61. The fact that an executor was made garnishee and cited in to disclose, contrary to Gen. St. 1902, § 881, does not render the writ defective as against the principal defendant. Hatch v. Bushy [Conn.] 59 A. 422. Inserting a fictitious name in the trustee blank in a trustee process, no one being served as trustee, does not prevent the writ from being effectual as one of summons and attachment. Keenan v. Perrault, 72 N. H. 426, 57 A. 335.

62. Bentley v. Reid [C. C. A.] 133 F. 698. The order should recite such failure and order that defendant be served with a copy of the petition and process in time for the succeeding term. Id.

63. See 2 Curr. L. 1274.

64. Illustrations: Signature of clerk added where original process was not signed, though copy was. Myers v. Griner, 120 Ga. 723, 48 S. E. 113. Defect in corporate name held amendable, summons being actually served in the statutory manner. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 57 A. 899. There being a general appearance, a justice may amend the summons so as to change the action from one in replevin to one to foreclose a lien. Amendment in such case wipes out the first action. Horowitz v. Decker, 88 N. Y. S. 217. Request to insert name of partner held properly denied. Holmes v. Daniels, 86 N. Y. S. 19. See generally 2 Curr. L. 1274, n. 63.

Contra, a summons cannot be amended in any substantial particular unless the statute expressly authorizes amendment. Fisher, Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422.

65. Where a general appearance had been made, held proper to allow an amendment nunc pro tunc inserting return day in an order to show cause. In re Quo Vadis Amusement Co., 82 App. Div. 240, 81 N. Y. S. 394.

66. A notice of an application for an order allowing amendment of misnomer held a notice to apply for an order permitting amendment wherever misnomer appeared. Sentell v. Southern R. Co., 67 S. C. 229, 45 S. E. 155.

67. Sentell v. Southern R. Co., 67 S. C. 229, 45 S. E. 155.

68. Writ amended by adding words "who brings this action for and as the next friend of J., a minor" [Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 48]. Drew v. Farnsworth [Mass.] 71 N. E. 783.

69, 70. Sentell v. Southern R. Co., 67 S. C. 229, 45 S. E. 155.

motion to amend.[71] An order allowing process to be amended is a judgment which is binding until reversed or set aside.[72]

When objections made.[73]—Objection may be made after removal of cause from a state to a Federal court,[74] and the summons failing to state a cause of action, the objection can be made for the first time on appeal.[75]

How objections made.[76]—A motion to quash is the proper method if the defect appears on the face of the return,[77] otherwise it should be taken advantage of by plea.[78] Demurrer is improper.[79]

Waiver of irregularities or lack of process.[80]—A general appearance without protestation waives lack of process[81] or any irregularities in the process,[82] and the right to object on appeal extends only to those making proper objections below.[83] Irregularities may also be waived by stipulation.[84] The appearance may be by guardian.[85] There being no process, jurisdiction over the person of the defendant is complete from the date of such general appearance.[86] One's motion to set aside insufficient service being overruled, he does not waive his rights by proceeding to trial.[87] Jurisdictional defects in the return being asserted in the first paragraph of the answer, additional paragraphs do not operate as a waiver.[88]

71. Proof must be introduced. Jordan v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 105 Mo. App. 446, 79 S. W. 1155.

72. Amendment authorized thereby should be made nunc pro tunc at a subsequent term. Myers v. Griner, 120 Ga. 723, 48 S. E. 113.

73. See 2 Curr. L. 1275.

74. Special appearance being made. Cavanagh v. Manhattan Transit Co., 133 F. 818.

75. Appeal from justice's court. Macon & B. R. Co. v. Walton, 121 Ga. 275, 48 S. E. 940.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1275.

77. Allegation in answer is insufficient. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069. But see 2 Curr. L. 1275, n. 71.

78. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069. See 2 Curr. L. 1275, n. 69, 70.

79. Cannot be used to attack failure to attach process or an irregularity in the process. Meyers v. Griner, 120 Ga. 723, 48 S. E. 113.

80. See 2 Curr. L. 1275.

81. Illustrations: Facts held equivalent to due service. Demurring and answering. Adams v. Hopkins, 144 Cal. 19, 77 P. 712; Mulholland v. Washington Match Co., 35 Wash. 315, 77 P. 497. Filing a general demurrer, answering and appearing generally in the taking of depositions, and on application to produce papers and at the trial. Haseltine v. Messmore [Mo.] 82 S. W. 115.

General appearance: Contempt proceedings. Anderson v. Indianapolis Drop Forging Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 277. Where defendant moved to vacate default judgment and be allowed to file an answer. Simensen v. Simensen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 708. Recital in judgment that party appeared by counsel held sufficient. Smithers v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 646. See generally 2 Curr. L. 1276, n. 79.

82. Illustrations: Facts held to constitute general appearance. Demurring. Myers v. Griner, 120 Ga. 723, 48 S. E. 113; Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1004.

Appearance and pleading: Neglect of clerk to annex process to petition, held waived. Bentley v. Reid [C. C. A.] 133 F. 698. That full time did not elapse between issuance of the precept and its return. Martin v. Crossley, 91 N. Y. S. 712. Plea to the merits though answer also contains an objection. Newcomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mo. 687, 81 S. W. 1069. Motion to quash the process on the ground that the action is barred by limitations. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857. Entering into an arrangement to postpone execution. Coast Land Co. v. Oregon Pac. Colonization Co., 44 Or. 483, 75 P. 884. An objection that the summons was made returnable at chambers, instead of at term, held waived by failure to move to transfer the case to the proper docket. Jones v. Madison County Com'rs, 135 N. C. 218, 47 S. E. 753. Mere error of court in a finding and order based on an affidavit of publication cannot be taken advantage of five years after rendition of judgment. People v. Wrin, 143 Cal. 11, 76 P. 646. See generally 2 Curr. L. 1276, n. 79.

83. Those raising the objection not appealing, the appellants cannot take advantage thereof. Martin v. Crossley, 91 N. Y. S. 712.

84. Ammons v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 937.

85. A judgment against a minor not served, but represented by a guardian ad litem, is not void. Penn v. Case [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 349.

86. It does not relate back and cure void proceedings theretofore had. Simensen v. Simensen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 708.

87. Order denying motion was not appealable. Dalton v. Mills, 91 N. Y. S. 733. Defect in the summons is not waived by pleading to the merits after the overruling of a motion to quash and the entry of an exception. Fisher Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422.

88. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911.

§ 8. Privilege and exemptions from service.[89]—One is not exempt because within the jurisdiction as a witness in a suit in which he is plaintiff, such suit being in furtherance of the alleged actionable wrong for which plaintiff sues.[90]

§ 9. Abuse of process.[91]—While malice is not essential still there must be an intent to do something wrong, or to make a willful misuse of the court or its process for the purpose of improperly accomplishing some collateral purpose which could not be obtained by direct method.[92] An action for damages for the malicious abuse of process may be maintained before the action in which such process was issued is terminated.[93]

PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS; PROFERT, see latest topical index.

PROFANITY AND BLASPHEMY.

Use of obscene language[94] or language calculated to produce a breach of the peace[95] is elsewhere treated. Where defendant testified that he never used profane language, evidence of profanity at times other than that charged is admissible.[96]

PROHIBITION, WRIT OF.

§ 1. Nature, Function, and Occasion of Remedy (1084).
§ 2. The Right to the Writ (1087).
§ 3. Practice and Procedure (1087).

§ 1. Nature, function, and occasion of remedy.[97]—The office of the writ of prohibition is to restrain excess or improper assumption of jurisdiction.[98] It is an appropriate remedy only where the inferior court or tribunal is proceeding in some matter over which it possesses no rightful jurisdiction,[99] or is

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1276.

90. Iron Dyke Copper Min. Co. v. Iron Dyke R. Co., 132 F. 208. See 2 Curr. L. 1276, n. 88; Id., 1277, n. 90-92.

NOTE. Exemption of witnesses: The common law has, from its earliest period, extended privilege and immunity to parties and witnesses in a law suit while attending court including the going and coming. Green v. Young, 120 Ill. 189; Massey v. Colville, 45 N. J. Law, 119, 46 Am. St. Rep. 754. This privilege is not a natural right; it is contrary to common right. Smith v. Jones, 76 Me. 138, 49 Am. Rep. 598. The privilege exists to subserve public interest [Moletor v. Sinnen, 76 Wis. 308, 20 Am. St. Rep. 71, 7 L. R. A. 817] and the proceedings must be in court. Parker v. Manco, 61 Hun [N. Y.] 519. The privilege extends to nonresidents. Small v. Montgomery, 23 F. 707; First Nat. Bank of St. Paul v. Ames, 39 Minn. 179. He may procure his writ of protection in advance of starting for or from the court, if circumstances make it reasonable to ask the court's mediation for such protection. Smith v. Jones, 76 Me. 138, 40 Am. Rep. 598. Such writ always receives a liberal construction in favor of the witness covered by it. Ex parte Hall, 1 Tyler [Vt.] 274. Every privileged person, however, must at a proper time, and in a proper manner, claim the benefit of his privilege. Gyer v. Irwin, 4 U. S. (4 Dall.) 187, 1 Law. Ed. 762.—From note to Mullen v. Sanborn [Md.] 25 L. R. A. 721.

91. See 2 Curr. L. 1277.

See Special Article, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 4 Curr. L. 470.

92. Petry v. Childs & Co., 43 Misc. 108, 88 N. Y. S. 286.

93. Mullins v. Matthews [Ga.] 50 S. E. 101.

A different rule applies in an action for the malicious use of legal process, where no object is contemplated to be gained by such use other than the proper effect and execution of the process. In such case it is necessary to allege malice, want of probable cause, and that the action on which the process issued has been finally determined in favor of the defendant therein." See Mullins v. Matthews [Ga.] 50 S. E. 101, and cases cited.

94. See Indecency, Lewdness, and Obscenity, 3 Curr. L. 1697.

95. See Disorderly Conduct, 3 Curr. L. 1111.

96. Lampkin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 803.

97. See 2 Curr. L. 1278.

98. Taylor v. Bliss [R. I.] 57 A. 939; State v. Fort [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 476.

99. State v. Crosby, 92 Minn. 176, 99 N. W. 636. Writ issued to restrain justice from issuing citations to creditors in a proceeding to take a poor debtor's oath, he having no jurisdiction, and there being no appeal from a decision thereon by him if rendered. Taylor v. Bliss [R. I.] 57 A. 939. Prohibition properly issues against an officer appointed by the probate court as superintendent of an estate to prevent him from acting as such, the appointment being void for want of jurisdiction. Koury v. Castillo [N. M.] 79 P. 293. The writ lies to prohibit a circuit court from proceeding in a prohibition suit to prevent certain persons who claim to have been elected to office from taking the same and assuming and exercising its duties. Moore v.

exceeding its powers in a matter over which it has jurisdiction.[1] The writ will not issue to restrain an inferior court from improperly exercising jurisdiction in a particular case of a class of cases of which such court has jurisdiction,[2] the existence or nonexistence of jurisdiction in the particular case depending on contested facts which the inferior tribunal is competent to inquire into and determine.[3] It will not issue to prevent a court from committing a threatened error,[4] as from making orders which, if made, would be at variance with a decision of the higher court.[5] It does not lie to prevent execution of a warrant for a criminal act, issued by a court having jurisdiction, even though the act does not constitute an offense.[6] Proceedings having been instituted in one court, another court may be restrained from taking jurisdiction.[7]

The writ is usually held not to be one of right, but issuable in extraordinary cases in the exercise of a sound discretion of the court to which application therefor is addressed;[8] but under some statutes the writ is one of right, in cases where it is applicable.[9] It is a preventive, not a corrective, remedy,[10] and does not lie after the action sought to be controlled has been taken.[11] The writ will issue only where there is not a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law,[12] and cannot take the place of an appeal[13] or writ of Halt, 55 W. Va. 507, 47 S. E. 251. County court acts judicially and within its jurisdiction in acting on applications for dram-shop licenses and its action is not subject to prohibition by the circuit court. State v. Fort [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 476. Superior court held to have jurisdiction of a proceeding to restrain a city from canvassing returns of a special election relative to annexation of territory; hence prohibition denied. State v. Superior Court for King County, 36 Wash. 566, 79 P. 29.

1. State v. Crosby, 92 Minn. 176, 99 N. W. 636. Justice of the peace has no authority to issue a rule for contempt for refusal to surrender upon a warrant issued by such justice, and contempt proceeding may be stayed by prohibition. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383. The writ will issue from Kentucky court of appeals to prevent unauthorized exercise of jurisdiction by an inferior court [Const. § 110]; Commonwealth v. Jones, 26 Ky. L. R. 867, 82 S. W. 643. Thus the writ may issue to restrain a circuit court from unlawfully appointing a special commissioner, this being an exercise of the general power of control of the court of appeals over inferior jurisdictions. Louisville Public Warehouse Co. v. Miller, 26 Ky. L. R. 351, 81 S. W. 275.

2. Cincinnati, etc., Packet Co. v. Bellville, 55 W. Va. 560, 47 S. E. 301.

3. Even though the superior court is of opinion that the questions of fact have been wrongfully determined and if rightly determined would oust the court of jurisdiction. Finley v. Moose [Ark.] 85 S. W. 238.

4. State v. Superior Court of King County, 34 Wash. 643, 76 P. 282. Court of equity having jurisdiction of subject matter, prohibition refused to prevent an erroneous exercise of such jurisdiction. State v. Kennan, 35 Wash. 52, 76 P. 516.

5. It is presumed that the decision of the supreme court will be observed by the lower court. In re Sullivan's Estate, 36 Wash. 217, 78 P. 945.

6. A justice has jurisdiction to issue a warrant to begin a prosecution for keeping gaming tables, under Code 1899, c. 151, § 1, and a decision by him as to what constitutes an instrument of gaming, is, even if erroneous, not a usurpation of jurisdiction. Woods v. Cottrell, 55 W. Va. 476, 47 S. E. 275.

7. Where a proceeding under an indictment for homicide may be maintained in either of two counties, and the court of one has taken jurisdiction, prohibition lies to restrain proceedings in the other county. Hargis v. Parker [Ky.] 85 S. W. 704.

8. People v. Stevens [Colo.] 79 P. 1018.

9. Town of Hawk's Nest v. Fayette County Court, 55 W. Va. 689, 48 S. E. 205; Woods v. Cottrell, 55 W. Va. 476, 47 S. E. 275.

10. State v. Crosby, 92 Minn. 176, 99 N. W. 636.

11. Town of Hawk's Nest v. Fayette County Court, 55 W. Va. 689, 48 S. E. 205. Does not lie to interfere with county court's action in establishing election districts. Williamson v. Mingo County Court [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 835. Does not lie to restrain an inferior court after judgment has been given and fully executed. Woods v. Cottrell, 55 W. Va. 476, 47 S. E. 275. The supreme court will not review the dismissal of a petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent the canvass of votes in a congressional election after the representatives-elect have been admitted to their seats in the house. Jones v. Montague, 194 U. S. 147, 48 Law. Ed. 913.

12. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5770. State v. Superior Court of King County, 34 Wash. 643, 76 P. 282; People v. Stevens [Colo.] 79 P. 1018. Except in extreme cases, where the right to the extraordinary relief clearly appears and the usual remedy is not full, speedy and adequate, parties will be remitted to their ordinary remedies. (It is said by the writer of the opinion that applications for the writ are becoming too frequent in Colorado.) People v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 77 P. 239. The writ cannot be used to perform the function of an action of detinue; hence will not lie to command a clerk of court to no longer hold a slot machine, seized under the gaming law, from a petitioner. Woods v. Cottrell, 55 W. Va. 476, 47 S. E. 275.

13. State v. Leche [La.] 36 So. 868. Ir-error,[14] if such remedy is adequate.[15] In considering the adequacy of the remedy of appeal, time alone, or the expenses incident to prolonged litigation, will not be decisive, if the fruits of the appeal are not lost by the delay.[16]

In some states, prohibition is only to judicial tribunals,[17] and does not lie to control administrative or ministerial acts.[18] Prohibition is not a proper remedy to try title to an office, and a court acquires no jurisdiction of such a controversy by issuing its writ.[19] regularities and defects in a proceeding over which the inferior court or tribunal may lawfully exercise jurisdiction cannot be reviewed by prohibition. State v. Crosby, 92 Minn. 176, 99 N. W. 636. Prohibition will not lie to prevent enforcement of an erroneous order of revivor, since such order is reviewable and can be adequately corrected by ordinary remedies. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 105. Writ refused to restrain lower court's erroneous vacation of deficiency judgment in mortgage foreclosure. State v. Superior Court of King County, 34 Wash. 643, 76 P. 282. Order overruling motion for change of venue reviewable only by appeal from final judgment. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 77 P. 318. Refusal to grant change of venue is appealable and writ of prohibition will not lie to restrain proceeding with case thereafter. State v. Evans [Mo.] 83 S. W. 447. The court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter, whether it had jurisdiction of the person should be raised by appeal. Finley v. Moose [Ark.] 85 S. W. 238. Prohibition will not lie to correct an erroneous ruling on a motion in the nature of a demurrer to an election notice. State v. Evans [Mo.] 83 S. W. 447. Prohibition cannot be made to take the place of certiorari or appeal by compelling a county court to revise its action in revoking a liquor license. Town of Hawk's Nest v. Fayette County Court, 55 W. Va. 689, 48 S. E. 205. Refusal to dismiss an indictment on the ground that defendant had testified before the grand jury and hence could not be prosecuted, being reviewable by appeal from any judgment that might be rendered, cannot be reviewed on application for prohibition. Rebstock v. Superior Court of San Francisco [Cal.] 80 P. 65.

14. People v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 77 P. 239; People v. Stevens [Colo.] 79 P. 1018; People v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 79 P. 1024.

15. If an appeal is a wholly inadequate remedy, the right to it is no ground for denying the writ of prohibition. State v. Fort [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 476. Under Const. § 110, the supreme court of Kentucky may issue the writ of prohibition not only to prevent courts of inferior jurisdiction from acting in matters outside their jurisdiction, but also in cases where the right of appeal does not afford a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy. Jenkins v. Berry, 26 Ky. L. R. 1141, 83 S. W. 594. Refusal to grant a dramshop license cannot work irreparable injury; hence appeal an adequate remedy, and appellate court will not prohibit circuit court from prohibiting county court's action. State v. Fort [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 476.

16. State v. Superior Court for King County, 36 Wash. 566, 79 P. 29.

17. Not issuable against a constable and clerk of court. Woods v. Cottrell, 55 W. Va. 476, 47 S. E. 275. Prohibition cannot go against an assessor. Town of Hawk's Nest v. Fayette County Court, 55 W. Va. 689, 48 S. E. 205. The establishment of election precincts and voting places by the county court is not a judicial action. Williamson v. Mingo County Court [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 835. The writ lies only to inferior courts, boards, officers, or tribunals having judicial or quasi judicial powers, to confine them within their respective jurisdictions. Moore v. Holt, 55 W. Va. 507, 47 S. E. 251. It cannot be invoked against individuals in respect to rights claimed by or asserted against them. Id.

18. Power of county court to grant or refuse a liquor license is not so controllable. Town of Hawk's Nest v. Fayette County Court, 55 W. Va. 689, 48 S. E. 205.

19. Moore v. Holt, 55 W. Va. 507, 47 S. E. 251.

NOTE. Prohibition, mandamus and quo warranto compared: "Mandamus lies to restore to office one who has been illegally ousted. Dew v. Judges, 3 Hen. & M. 1, 3 Am. Dec. 639; Lewis v. Whittle, 77 Va. 415. Quo warranto lies to try and determine the right to an office; but it goes against one who is in office, not to prevent a person from taking an office. State v. Shank, 36 W. Va. 223, 14 S. E. 1001; State v. Matthews, 44 W. Va. 372, 29 S. E. 994; Kilpatrick v. Smith, 77 Va. 347. But in these cases the process by which the subject-matter is brought within the jurisdiction of the court is authorized and given by law for that purpose.

"In its very nature prohibition is an improper proceeding by which to determine the title to an office. If it could go against a person in office, the writ would ipso facto stop the exercise of the functions of the office before an adjudication of the right of the defendant to hold it. If awarded against a person out of office to prevent him from assuming its duties, its effect would be, in some instances, to leave the office vacant pending the controversy. Thus the efficiency of the public service would be impaired, and the state left without officers to execute the laws. Everything would be within the power of the courts. Board of Education v. Holt [W. Va.] 46 S. E. 134. A mandamus to restore a person to an office from which he has been illegally ousted works no interruption of the exercise of the functions of the office. It puts the ousted officer in and thereby incidentally ousts the intruder, who has not been prevented from performing the duties of the office until the very moment of the reinstatement of the rightful incumbent. Upon a quo warranto calling upon the occupant of the office to show by what right he exercises its powers, he continues to discharge its duties until the

§ 2. The right to the writ.[20]

§ 3. Practice and procedure.[21]—The only question to be considered on a petition for prohibition is whether the court had jurisdiction.[22] It will be assumed that the court below will do its duty in the premises, as to matters brought to its attention,[23] and the application will be denied if it appears that the jurisdictional question was not raised below,[24] unless want of jurisdiction appears on the face of the record.[25] A petition for the writ will be dismissed where, in proceedings in error involving the same matters complained of, final action has been taken.[26] Prohibition lies only to a court, not to a judge or chancellor at chambers;[27] but a judge of the supreme court of Missouri may issue a preliminary rule in vacation, returnable to the court in term time.[28] In Louisiana, if a case is appealable to the court of appeals, application for a writ of prohibition as to an order or proceeding therein should be made to such court and not to the supreme court.[29] The writ runs in the name of the state, but the rule for the writ is only the necessary preliminary notice, and need not so run.[30]

PROPERTY.[31]

Definition and nature.[32]—Aside from constitutional and statutory meanings,[33] "property" in its general sense has recently been held to include a dog[34] and the carcass of a dead domestic animal[35] though the owner may not allow such carcass to become a nuisance.[36] Commodities may be property though traffic in them is unlawful.[37]

Realty or personalty.[38]—Shares in an incorporated company are personalty[39] question of his right to the office has been determined. High, Ex. Leg. Rem. § 594. The law has wisely withheld from the courts any writ by which to vacate offices in advance of judicial determination of cause of removal coupled with the power of removal, and the use of the writ of prohibition in such cases as this clearly contravenes this great principle of public policy and natural right."—From Moore v. Holt [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 251.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1278.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1279.

22. People v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 78 P. 679; State v. Evans [Mo.] 83 S. W. 447. An attempt in an answer in mandamus proceedings to set up matters which would oust the court of jurisdiction cannot be considered on an application for prohibition. People v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 79 P. 1024.

23. State v. Evans [Mo.] 83 S. W. 447.

24. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Wyo.] 76 P. 680; Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335. Where a personal decree for money is made on publication against nonresidents, without service of process or appearance, they must first apply to the circuit court by special appearance to vacate the decree and quash the execution before asking a writ of prohibition against an execution on the decree. Jennings v. Bennett [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 23.

25. Thus, where it so appears that an order of a judge in vacation was in excess of his authority, application to the judge to vacate the order is not essential to entitle the person injured to prohibition to forbid enforcement of the order. State v. Dearing [Mo.] 84 S. W. 21.

26. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Wyo.] 78 P. 1093.

27. Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335.

28. State v. Dearing [Mo.] 84 S. W. 21.

29. State v. Machen, 113 La. 541, 37 So. 175.

30. Williamson v. Mingo County Court [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 835.

31. This topic is necessarily limited in scope to very general matters of definition; and the doctrines of "Lost or abandoned property" and of "Formulae, plans," etc., are included instead of being made separate topics chiefly because they so intimately involve the general principles.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1279, and Cyc. Law Dict. "Property."

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1279, n. 23, 24; also Constitutional Law, 3 Curr. L. 752, and topics relating to the subject-matter of statutes wherein the term is used.

34. Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R. Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

35, 36. Prosecution for removing carcass in alleged violation of ordinance. Mann v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 138. Such a carcass is not per se a nuisance in the suppression whereof it may be instantly taken from the owner. City of Richmond v. Caruthers [Va.] 50 S. E. 265.

37. Liquors are property in North Dakota. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58.

38. See 2 Curr. L. 1279.

Consult Fixtures, 3 Curr. L. 1432; Real Property, 2 Curr. L. 1462; and such titles as Execution, 3 Curr. L. 1397; Descent and Distribution, 3 Curr. L. 1081; Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

of an incorporeal nature,[40] and the certificate is merely the evidence of it. Buildings are realty if fixtures, and personalty if not.[41]

The law of the place governs chattel interests in land and real estate.[42]

Formulae, processes, plans, information, literary, musical, and dramatic productions.[43]—Blue prints of plans are property[44] which remains in the maker when merely to facilitate inspection of chattels sold and delivered he entrusts them to another.[45] A trade secret is assignable,[46] and the assignment may operate by enurement of the title subsequently acquired by the assignor.[47] An assignee need not show how his assignor had title.[48] The assignor and those employed by him may be restrained from using the secret.[49] The violator cannot set up the assignor's fraud in obtaining title.[50] If there be a dispute as to the plaintiff's right, the injunction will be limited to preserving the status quo.[51] All who have united to use it may be joined in one bill.[52] There can be no exclusive right or property in mechanical elements or principles apart from the combination of them into an undisclosed or patented invention.[53] Information consisting in stock and market quotations is property even if many of the quoted transactions were gambling ones,[54] and even if such information be used in part for other unlawful transactions.[55]

Creation and transfer of property rights.[56]—Property in a thing is not created by a contract which is merely in relation to it.[57] An affidavit by a claimant cannot constitute any muniment of title to land.[58]

Loss and abandonment.[59]—Abandonment is the total relinquishment of property without intent to reclaim it or to confer it on any particular person or purpose.[60] There is no abandonment of property which one leaves behind when compelled by duress to depart intending to return and take.[61] Abandonment may be found from knowing failure for many years to pay taxes or exercise rights of ownership to land occupied by claimants under deeds.[62] A constructive abandonment of land under the Michigan statute by nonpayment of taxes and failure to redeem cannot be based on void tax sales.[63] Property in a decedent's strong box does not come to the executor as a "finder" of lost goods.[64]

"Treasure trove" is properly restricted to gold and silver coins or bullion and the like,[65] and perhaps also articles which constitute riches.[66] It does not include gold bearing quartz.[67] Chattels not treasure trove being not lost or aban-

39. Ditch and canal company. Watson v. Molden [Idaho] 79 P. 503.

40. Lipscomb's Adm'r v. Condon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 392.

41. Ice house erected by soil owner is realty. Roberts v. Lynn Ice Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 523. See other cases cited. Fixtures, 3 Curr. L. 1432.

42. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470. See, also, Conflict of Laws, 3 Curr. L. 720.

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1280, and compare Copyrights, 3 Curr. L. 878; Patents, 4 Curr. L. 929.

44, 45. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Standard Steel Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 4.

46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52. Vulcan Detinning Co. v. American Can Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 290.

53. Marvel Co. v. Pearl [C. C. A.] 133 F. 160.

54. Board of Trade v. Kinsey Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 507. The fact that an exchange tolerates such gambling does not disqualify it to invoke equity to protect this property right. Id.

55. Board of Trade v. Kinsey Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 507.

56. Consult such topics as Adverse Possession, 3 Curr. L. 51; Assignments, 3 Curr. L. 326; Deeds of Conveyance, 3 Curr. L. 1056; Descent and Distribution, 3 Curr. L. 1081; Gifts, 3 Curr. L. 1560; Sales, 2 Curr. L. 1527; Wills, 2 Curr. L. 2076.

57. Forrest v. O'Bryan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 492.

58. Patterson v. Landru, 112 La. 1069, 36 So. 857.

59. See 2 Curr. L. 1280.

60. Norman v. Corbley [Mont.] 79 P. 1059. See, also, Cyc. Law Dict. "Abandonment."

61. Eisele v. Oddie, 128 F. 941.

62. Timber v. Desparois [S. D.] 101 N. W. 879.

63. Platz v. Englehardt [Mich.] 101 N. W. 849.

64. Case v. Spencer, 86 App. Div. 454, 83 N. Y. S. 697.

65, 66, 67. Ferguson v. Ray, 44 Or. 557, 77 P. 600.

doned[68] but embedded by human agency and design in the soil belong to the soil owner and not the finder.[69] In declaring on this right, the soil owner must plead that one who has removed and taken possession of the property is not the owner[70] and that the owner is not known.[71] The soil ownership necessary to recover is that of an heir or devisee of a decedent and not that of his executor[72] and all undivided ownerships must be in plaintiffs.[73]

PROSECUTING ATTORNEYS; PROSTITUTION; PROXIMATE CAUSE IN ACCIDENT INSURANCE; PUBLICATION, see latest topical index.

PUBLIC CONTRACTS.

§ 1. Power of Government and Authority of its Officers to Contract (1089).
§ 2. How Initiated (1092).
§ 3. How Closed (1094).
§ 4. Essential Provisions in, and Conditions Pertaining to, Public Contracts (1095).
§ 5. Interpretation and Effect of Public Contracts; Performance and Discharge (1096).
A. Construction and Interpretation (1096).
B. Performance and Discharge (1097).
§ 6. Remedies and Procedure (1102).
A. By Taxpayer (1102).
B. By Bidder (1102).
C. On the Contract Proper (1103).
D. On the Contractor's Bond (1104).
E. Under Lien Laws (1105).

§ 1. Power of government and authority of its officers to contract.[74]—The legislature of a state in the absence of a constitutional prohibition[75] has power, as the supreme legislative body, to enter into a contract binding on the state, or it may authorize a committee so to do.[76] The power of a municipal corporation or public board to contract must be based on an express or implied authorization thereof by the legislature,[77] but a city having received the benefits of a contract

68. See 2 Curr. L. 1280, n. 44.

69. Ferguson v. Ray, 44 Or. 557, 77 P. 600; Burick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13. Evidence held not to show loss or abandonment where portions of a sack were found in the soil, where nearby trees had blaze marks and where the locality was not mineral bearing soil. Ferguson v. Ray, 44 Or. 557, 77 P. 600.

NOTE. Rights of finder of chattel: It is not always easy to determine the rights of a finder. Thus, it has been held that one who finds bank notes among rags which she is sorting is entitled to their possession against the owner of the rags (Bowen v. Sullivan, 62 Ind. 281, 30 Am. Rep. 172); while an aerolite, it is determined, belongs to the person on whose land it falls, and not to the one who first discovers it (Goddard v. Winchell, 86 Iowa, 71, 41 Am. St. Rep. 481, 17 L. R. A. 788). Although the present case decided merely the right of possession as between the finder and the owner of the land whereon the property was found, the court discussed at length the law relating to treasure trove, and reached the conclusion that the state could not claim the property under consideration. See further in this connection 2 Mich. L. R. 299, 495.—3 Mich. L. R. 153.

70, 71. Simple allegation that it had been buried for many years is deficient. Burick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13.

72, 73. Burick v. Chesebrough, 94 App. Div. 532, 88 N. Y. S. 13.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1281.

75. A contract to furnish the legislature of Pennsylvania with sustenance on the occasion of their attendance in a body at the dedication of Grant's tomb is not invalid as being in contravention of art. 2, § 8, of the Const. prohibiting the members from receiving any compensation other than their salaries. Russ v. Com. [Pa.] 60 A. 169.

76. Russ v. Com. [Pa.] 60 A. 169.

77. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208. Contracts entered into by municipal corporations in excess of their power or in violation of statutes expressly limiting their authority are void and absolute nullities. City of Winona v. Jackson, 92 Minn. 453, 100 N. W. 368. The matter of contractor's bonds, and conditions and limitations as to their enforcement, is germane to public improvement and hence within the purview of a statute authorizing a city to frame its own charter. Grant v. Berrisford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 940. See fuller discussion, Municipal Corporations, 4 Curr. L. 720. Incorporated towns have authority to contract for water for public use and for the lighting of the streets, alleys, and other public places in the town. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208. The power of the county court to build and rebuild court houses is governed by the provisions of Kirby's Dig. Ark. § 1025. Bowman v. Freth [Ark.] 84 S. W. 709. Code of Public Instruction Wash. § 105, authorizes the state board of education to enter into contracts with publishers for the supply of text books for the public schools. Wagner v. Royal, 36 Wash. 428, 78 P. 1094. The county commissioners have no authority to enter into a contract with a person to collect a judgment in its favor and to pay such other compensation therefor, it being the duty of the state's attorney to do so. Fox v. Jones [N. D.] 102 N. W. 161.

may be estopped to set up the unconstitutionality of the authorizing statute.[78] The power must be exercised through the agency of the proper officers or agents of the municipality[79] acting within their powers.[80] The courts will not interfere with contracts, entered into by municipal corporations, which are within the scope of their powers unless it appears there has been a gross abuse of the power entrusted to them.[81] Persons contracting with public officers are bound to take notice that their powers are limited by law,[82] and the extent of their authority.[83] An unauthorized contract made on behalf of a municipality may be ratified.[84] In the absence of legislative or constitutional restriction,[85] a city council or other municipal legislative body has power to enter into a contract, otherwise within its power, the time for the performance of which extends beyond the term of office of the persons constituting such body,[86] though it has no power to enter into a contract for an indefinite period and in perpetuity.[87] Power to make a contract does not necessarily imply power to release one who has entered into a valid con-

78. City of Mt. Vernon v. State [Ohio] 73 N. E. 515.

79. Presidio County v. Clarke [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 475.

80. Municipal corporations acting within the limit of the powers conferred upon them by the legislature are responsible for the acts and contracts of their duly authorized agents within the scope of the authority of such agents in like manner with other corporations or natural persons. Jersey City v. Harrison [N. J. Law] 58 A. 100. Town trustees have no power to charge their townships with anything but needful and appropriate articles, hence one seeking to recover on a contract for sale of article to the town must show that it was a needful and appropriate article for them to purchase. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100. Where the board of trustees of a city have power and authority to enter into a contract, they have power and authority to change and modify it. Doland v. Clark, 143 Cal. 176, 76 P. 958. Where a public board charged with the care and custody of a county building authorizes the custodian or other person to employ another to do certain work, the expense of so doing is properly chargeable to the county and the fact that the expense exceeded the estimate of such agent does not affect his authority. Webber v. Ramsey County Com'rs [Minn.] 101 N. W. 296. A contract by the bridge commissioner of the Williamsburgh bridge authorizing street railway companies for a specified consideration to operate cars on the bridge held not the granting of a franchise and within the authority of the commissioner. Schinzel v. Best, 45 Misc. 455, 92 N. Y. S. 754.

81. Nelson v. Harrison County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 197; Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 48 Law. Ed. 1142; McMaster v. Waynesboro [Ga.] 50 S. E. 122. The fact that a contract by a city providing for the lighting of its streets by electricity would render valueless an oil equipment already owned by it would not authorize interference by the courts with the creation and carrying out of such a contract. Id.

82. Taylor v. School Town of Peterburgh [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 159; Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100.

83. Silver, Burdett & Co. v. Indiana State Board of Education [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 829; Bennett v. Incorporated Town of Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349. One dealing with a city through its counsel is bound to take notice of existing ordinances and a contract with the officers of the city, purporting to act in its behalf, in violation of such ordinance is void, and the city having no authority to make it is not estopped to assert such invalidity. Hope v. Alton [Ill.] 73 N. E. 406.

84. Swenson v. Bird Island [Minn.] 101 N. W. 495; Lines v. Otego, 91 N. Y. S. 785. Where a commissioner without authority appointed plaintiffs to prepare plans and supervise the construction of a building, and later the Laws of 1896, p. 751, c. 626, gave such authority, and thereafter the commissioner accepted the plaintiff's plans, it constituted a ratification of plaintiff's employment. Withers v. New York, 92 App. Div. 147, 86 N. Y. S. 1105.

85. Under Rev. St. Ohio, § 4017, the board of education are without power to employ a teacher whose term of employment under the contract would extend beyond the term of office of every member of the board. Board of Education of Canton v. Walker [Ohio] 72 N. E. 898.

86. Tanner v. Auburn [Wash.] 79 P. 494. A contract by which a municipality fixes the term for which one appointed to a position in the city's service shall serve is not ultra vires. Dolan v. Orange, 70 N. J. Law, 106, 56 A. 130.

87. Under a statute authorizing a city to levy a tax of 5 cents on the $100 of valuation and out of the proceeds pay a water company such sum as the mayor and council may deem proper for supplying the city with water, the city has no power to enter into a contract which binds it to levy and pay such sum for an indefinite period without reference as to whether such levy produced too much or too little revenue in the judgment of succeeding city councils, since such contract is an attempted invasion of the legislative functions of subsequent councils. A contract to pay a definite sum for specified period would have been binding. Nor will such contract be deemed limited to the period for which the corporation is organized, so as to be for a definite time. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster, 98 Md. 551, 56 A. 990.

tract, from his obligation to perform.[88] Statutes or charter provisions prohibiting a municipality from entering into contracts creating an indebtedness, for the payment of which no funds are on hand or appropriated,[89] have no application to contracts for public improvements, the cost of which are to be paid for by local assessments on the property benefited,[90] nor to contracts for a number of years involving the payment of a certain sum each year, where the yearly payments do not exceed the revenue provided for each year.[91] A contract for a pur-

88. Under statutes providing that the county commissioners may enter into a contract for not less than two nor more than three years for the care and repair of the public roads and providing for the enforcement of such contracts, the commissioners have no power or authority to release one with whom they have contracted from the obligation of his contract, it being against the interest of the county to do so. Corker v. Elmore County Com'rs [Idaho] 77 P. 633.

89. Under St. Mass. 1893, c. 444, § 29, providing, in regard to cities, that no sum appropriated for a specific purpose shall be expended for any other purpose and no expenditure shall be made and no liability incurred by or on behalf of the city until the city council has appropriated sufficient funds to meet such expenditure or liability, a contract consuming a part of an appropriation is valid, though the completion of the improvement will require a greater sum than that appropriated. Webb Granite & Construction Co. v. Worcester [Mass.] 73 N. E. 639. Where a school district is by statute prohibited from contracting debts in excess of the funds available to pay the same, the fact that, after making a contract for the payment of which there are available funds, the district enters into another contract which consumes the available funds, does not render the earlier contract invalid. School Dist. No. 3, Carbon County v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155. A city should not be allowed to escape payment for light furnished under a contract duly entered into on the ground that there was another existing contract under which all the taxes had been appropriated, where such appropriation was not necessary under the terms of such other contract, but appears to be an arbitrary act to defeat payment under the former contract. Kennedy v. New York, 99 App. Div. 588, 91 N. Y. S. 252. Under a constitutional provision prohibiting a county from incurring an indebtedness in excess of the income for the current year, a contract for the erection of a court house made after the levy of the taxes for a given year, but before the expenditure of such funds for the ordinary purposes for which they were raised, is invalid, since such provision contemplates the payment of the ordinary current expenses out of the revenue of the county, before any of it can be applied to extraordinary purposes. Anderson v. Ripley County, 181 Mo. 46, 80 S. W. 263. Municipal improvements being let by contract, the clerk's certificate provided for by Rev. St. § 1536-205 that the money required is in the treasury and credited to the proper fund, and unappropriated, is not required until just before the contract is signed. Braman v. Elyria, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 387. Under a statute prohibiting a municipality from entering into a contract unless the money therefor is on hand or appropriated, one who enters into a contract with a municipality calling for an expenditure in excess of the funds on hand, is entitled to payment, after performance on his part, to the extent of funds on hand at the time the contract was made. Lines v. Otego, 91 N. Y. S. 785.

90. Winona Charter, § 10, providing that an annual estimate of all sums required to defray expenses of the city for the ensuing year shall be made and taxes levied on the basis thereof and further providing that no greater sum shall be expended does not apply to improvements (sewers) authorized by Chap. 7 of the charter, the costs and expenses of which are to be paid by the property owners. The City of Winona is not prohibited from entering into a contract for the construction of sewers by reason of the fact that no provision has been made in advance for the payment of the pecuniary liability incurred thereby. City of Winona v. Jackson, 92 Minn. 453, 100 N. W. 368. Under P. L. N. J. 1902, p. 284, providing for the making of municipal improvements and local assessments according to benefits to defray the expenses thereof, it is not necessary that the municipality should have funds on hand with which to pay for such improvements before entering into the contract therefor. Dixey v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 370.

91. Const. Cal. art. 11, § 18, providing that no city "shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose, exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for in such year, does not prohibit a city from entering into a contract for a term of years by which it obligates itself to pay an annual rental for the thing contracted for, where the amount of the annual rental does not exceed the amount provided for such year, though the aggregate of the rental which will accrue under the contract does. Doland v. Clark, 143 Cal. 176, 76 P. 958. If a town contracts for water or light, or other things which pertain to its ordinary and necessary expenses and agrees to pay for the same annually or monthly as furnished, such contract does not create an indebtedness for the aggregate sum of all such payments, within the meaning of Const. art. 13, because the debt for each year or month does not come into existence until it is earned, but if the indebtedness of the town already equals or exceeds the constitutional limit and the current revenues are not sufficient to pay such indebtedness as it comes into existence, including the other expenses for which the town is liable, the contract is in violation of the constitutional provision. Voss v. Waterloo Water Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 208. The power of a city to provide for itself is derived from its charter and the fact that two-thirds of the electors did not vote in favor of making a ten-year contract does not depose substantially the same as one authorized by the electors will be upheld.[92] Contracts entered into by municipal corporations with members of the legislative body to whom its business affairs are entrusted, or other municipal officers in violation of statutory or constitutional provisions may be void,[93] or merely voidable.[94]

§ 2. How initiated.[95]—Where a municipal corporation is prohibited from contracting in any manner other than provided by law, a contract not entered into in substantially the manner so provided is of no legal effect.[96] If the legislature has not directed that the municipality shall contract by ordinance, it may do so by resolution.[97] The action of the council must be taken at a legal meeting thereof.[98] Statutory or charter provisions, requiring as conditions precedent to the power of the municipality to contract, that a finding of the necessity of the prive the city of its inherent power to make a contract which did not involve the creation of a debt. But if, without the popular vote authorizing the same, it entered into a ten-year contract, the agreement would only be operative so long as neither party renounced or repudiated it. McMaster v. Waynesboro [Ga.] 50 S. E. 122.

92. While a municipality that has submitted to its electors the question of whether or not the indebtedness of the municipality shall be increased for a designated purpose cannot divert the funds raised pursuant to a vote authorizing an increase, to a different purpose, a contract made by it calling for substantial performance of such purpose is valid and will not be enjoined. Major v. Aldan Borough, 209 Pa. 247, 58 A. 490.

93. Under Acts 27th Gen. Assem. Iowa, c. 13, § 1, prohibiting members of the board of supervisors from being party to any contract with the county, a contract made by a third person for the benefit of a member of the board, to the extent it is performed by such member will be held illegal and compensation pro tanto refused. Contracts express or implied entered into with a member are void and warrants issued in payment should be canceled. Nelson v. Harrison County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 197. Under Pol. Code Ga. 1895, §§ 709, and 751, a contract entered into by a municipality through its council with a private corporation is void where one of the councilmen is a stockholder in the corporation at the time contract was entered into and the fact that the councilman thereafter sells and transfers his stock does not validate the contract. Hardy v. Gainesville, 121 Ga. 327, 48 S. E. 921. Charter City of New York, § 1533, prohibiting any officer of the city from being interested in any contract, the consideration of which is payable from the city treasury, has no application to a mere employe. A teacher of gymnastics in the public schools is an employe and not an officer of the city. Munnally v. Board of Education of New York, 92 N. Y. S. 286.

94. Munnally v. Board of Education of New York, 92 N. Y. S. 286. A statute prohibiting any member of the city council from being interested in any contract with the city does not render a contract by a firm of which a member of the council is a member void, when it also appears that enough votes without his own were cast to carry the resolution awarding the contract. Such contract might have been voidable, but one who has not objected before performance cannot resist collection of an assessment to pay for the improvement on such ground. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542. A contract awarded to a private corporation by commissioners, acting for a municipal corporation, one of whom is a stockholder in the private corporation, will be set aside on application of a taxpayer of the municipality. Brown v. Street Lighting Dist. No. 1 [N. J. Law] 58 A. 115.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1284.

96. A municipality is without authority to make a contract having any vitality whatever, otherwise than for objects and in the manner prescribed by law, and one in form entered into in any other manner than substantially that provided by law, where the provisions in that regard are coupled with a prohibition to otherwise contract, imposes no liability on the municipality even though it is performed by the opposite party. Nor can such a contract be ratified unless the acts relied on as a ratification would be sufficient to support a contract as an original matter. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

97. Where the legislature has authorized a municipality to act or contract and does not require this to be done by ordinance, the legislative body of the municipality may contract by vote upon a motion or by passage of a resolution, but a resolution, to take the case out of the statute of frauds, must be communicated to the other contracting party by the direction of the legislative body adopting it and accepted by such other, in order to constitute a contract. The mere passage of a resolution directing certain municipal officers to enter into a contract, is not a contract until they have executed the contract and such resolution may be rescinded. Jersey City v. Harrison [N. J. Law] 58 A. 100. An ordinance confirming a contract entered into pursuant to a prior ordinance cannot be held to repeal the ordinance authorizing the contract to the extent that the terms of the contract are inconsistent with the first ordinance. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

98. A city council has no power to enter into a contract at an adjourned meeting, the meeting adjourned not having been attended by a quorum and less than a quorum having no power to adjourn. Pennsylvania v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

making of the improvement shall be made,[99] or that the question of making it shall first be submitted to a vote of the electors,[1] or that it shall be made only on petition of a stated proportion of the abutting property owners,[2] must be complied with. Bids for public improvement contracts must be advertised for as required by statute.[3] Substantial compliance with the statute is sufficient.[4] If the lowest bidder fails to enter into a contract, the contract may be awarded to the next lowest bidder without readvertising for bids.[5] The time recited in the advertisement for the opening of bids must be fixed by competent authority.[6] Where a statute provides that contracts for public works shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, it implies that plans and specifications shall be furnished by the city and be equally accessible to all persons and a failure of a city so to do renders a contract entered into by it of no legal effect.[7] Specifications au-

99. Under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. § 7853, a finding by the board of commissioners that a necessity for entering into a contract exists and the entry thereof of record is a condition precedent to the power of the board to enter into certain class of contracts. But it is not necessary that a contract made in pursuance thereof should be agreed to and spread on the minutes before it is entered into; it is sufficient if it is made a matter of record during the term and before performance is commenced. Board of Com'rs of Howard County v. Garrigus [Ind.] 73 N. E. 82.

1. Where a municipality enters into a contract for the performance of a public improvement but is at the time of so doing, by reason of an informality in calling the election at which the question of making the improvement was voted on, unauthorized to enter into it, and is enjoined from paying for it after the completion of the improvement by the contractor, the municipality by accepting the improvement after a valid election has been held, ratifies and renews the former agreement and makes it a binding contract. Failure to give the bond required by Laws 1895, c. 354, p. 757, did not defeat contractor's right to compensation. Swenson v. Bird Island [Minn.] 101 N. W. 495.

2. Under Ky. St. § 3096, providing for the laying of sidewalks of certain materials only on petition of a certain proportion of the abutting owners, a city of the class to which such statute is applicable has no power to award a contract for a sidewalk of the designated material until a petition has been presented therefor and the abutting owner is not liable for an assessment though he made no objection to the improvement. City of Covington v. Brinkman, 25 Ky. L. R. 1949, 79 S. W. 234.

3. Rev. St. § 796. State v. Snyder, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 261. An indispensable prerequisite to the making of a valid contract is the inviting of offers by advertisement in accordance with Pol. Code Ga. 1895, § 345. Scott v. Crow, 121 Ga. 68, 48 S. E. 691. A notice inviting bids reciting that payment will be made as the building reaches certain stages of completion but not requiring commencement or completion of the building at any specified time is not a compliance with Pol. Code Ga. 1895, § 345, requiring such notice to inform the public of the terms and times of payment, and the officer charged with the letting of the contract will be enjoined from so doing at the suit of taxpayers. Id.

4. Substantial compliance with statutes as to advertising for bids, the manner of submitting them and the furnishing of a bond to enter into a contract are conditions precedent to power of a municipality to make a valid contract. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603. An ordinance requiring the city engineer to advertise for bids on public improvements for five days does not require that the advertisement should be published for five consecutive days. Roth v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 913. A statutory requirement that proposals for bids shall be published in a weekly paper for not less than four weeks prior to the opening of bids does not require that the first publication should be a full 28 days prior to the day set for opening bids, but a publication once a week for four successive weeks, the last publication being before the date set for opening bids, is sufficient. Commonwealth v. Brown [Pa.] 59 A. 479. Where the plan for a public improvement remains practically as it was at the time bids were received, the fact that details were changed and the amount of deductions therefor agreed on after the bids had been opened, and contract awarded to the lowest bidder, is not ultra vires, as constituting a letting of a contract without advertising for bids. Criswell v. Board of Directors of Everett School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420, 75 P. 984. Under Rev. St. Wyo. 1887, § 3938, requiring the board of directors of a school district to advertise for bids where the amount of the improvement exceeds a certain sum, an advertisement by a committee authorized to act for the board for bids on a building and heating plant held a sufficient compliance with the statute, though the accepted bid for the building consumed the funds at the disposal of the committee, where the board subsequently accepted the bid advertised for by the committee. School Dist. No. 3 v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

5. Huston v. Franklin County Com'rs, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 582.

6. Where the charter of a city requires that notice of opening of bids shall be given, a resolution directing the engineer to advertise for bids whereupon the latter fixes the date without any authority therefor from the city, the advertisement is invalid and no legal contract can be predicated thereon. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

7. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.]

thorizing bidders to submit samples of more than one kind of material proposed to be used under a bid at a given price, choice therefrom to be made by the municipality, does not preclude the submission of bids at different prices with different kinds of material, by any one bidder.[8]

§ 3. How closed.[9]—In the absence of a mandatory statute or charter provision requiring it,[10] it is not necessary to the validity of a contract for a public improvement that it be let to the lowest bidder.[11] Cases construing such statutes with reference to whether the improvement is within the purview thereof are referred to in the notes.[12] Public officers must act in the manner prescribed by statute or the municipality is not bound.[13] Statutes requiring contracts to be in

99 N. W. 603. Variations in the plans and specifications, not communicated to all persons who may have bid, and the acceptance of a new offer based on such changes without submission to all the bidders, is not a letting to the lowest responsible bidder and is of no legal effect. Id.

8. Dixey v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 370.

9. See 2 Curr. L. 1287.

10. A contract not let to the lowest bidder after notice is void. Swenson v. Bird Island [Minn.] 101 N. W. 495. Where public work must be let as a whole, the county commissioners having such work in hand must award the contract to the lowest bidder [Rev. St. § 799]. Huston v. Franklin County Com'rs, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 582. Under Act of March 11, 1901, § 5, providing that in case one who bids for a franchise shall fail to pay therefor within 24 hours, the same shall be awarded to the next highest bidder, the franchise must be awarded to one whose bid was submitted at the time the franchise was offered for sale and not to one who subsequently bids. Pacific Elec. R. Co. v. Los Angeles, 194 U. S. 112, 48 Law. Ed. 896. Where a municipal corporation has paid a contractor for the erection of a structure (bridge) under a contract which was entered into without a substantial compliance with a statute requiring the contract to be let to the lowest bidder, the contractor as well as the officers who paid him the money may be held personally liable at the suit of a taxpayer in behalf of the city to refund the money so received. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

11. The powers of municipal officers in awarding contracts are not merely ministerial, but discretionary and they may take into consideration other matters than the mere pecuniary responsibility of the bidder, and they are not bound to make awards to the lowest bidder. City of Philadelphia v. Pemberton, 208 Pa. 214, 57 A. 516. It lies in the discretion of the directors of public service, after street improvements not exceeding $500 in cost have been ordered by the council, to let the contract therefor to the lowest bidder. Under Rev. St. § 1536-679, the council cannot require the contract to be so let. Ohio v. Roebuck, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 688. Where a statute directs the awarding of public contracts to the lowest responsible bidder, it is discretionary with the proper officials to reject any or all bids or to award the contract to one whose bid is not the lowest. City of Akron v. France, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 496.

12. A contract for lighting the streets and public places of a city is not a contract for the erection, improvement or repair of a public building or work, or for street or sewer work, and hence need not be let to the lowest bidder after notice as required by Laws Wash. 1903, p. 33, c. 29. Tanner v. Auburn [Wash.] 79 P. 494. A statute providing that all "work" ordered by the council of a city * * * shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, requires that contracts for buildings, bridges, and other structures should be so let. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603. Under Laws Ill. 1872, p. 218, § 50, all public improvements to be paid for by a special assessment and all public improvements which will exceed in cost the sum of $500 must be let to the lowest responsible bidder after advertising for bids and the city cannot itself make the improvement. Such provision applies to the completion of a contract which has been abandoned by the contractor where the cost of completion will exceed $500. Such statute is constitutional and is not repealed by Laws 1897, p. 102. City of Chicago v. Hanreddy, 211 Ill. 24, 71 N. E. 834.

13. A township trustee is a special agent possessing statutory powers only and is without general authority to bind the town. He can bind it when he does what the statute authorizes and does it in the manner prescribed. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. of Putnam County [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100; Taylor v. School Town of Petersburgh [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 159. Where the statutes fix the manner in which statutory board and officers may enter into a contract, compliance with such statute is a prerequisite to a valid contract, nor can the state be estopped to deny that the contract is invalid for the reason that such provisions were not complied with. Acts of state board of schoolbook commissioners with reference to revision of text books held not to constitute a contract under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. §§ 5890-5895. Silver, Burdett & Co. v. Indiana State Board of Education [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 829. A contract made with an ordinary in behalf of the county of which he is an official is not binding upon the county, unless it is in writing and entered on his minutes, under Ga. Pol. Code 1895, § 343. Holliday v. Jackson County, 121 Ga. 310, 48 S. E. 947. Act of April 4, 1870, Laws Pa. being an act prescribing the manner for entering into contracts by county commissioners is not repealed by Gen. Laws 1895, p. 38. Commonwealth v. Brown [Pa.] 59 A. 479. Application by a contractor to compel the execution of a contract held properly denied on the ground the resolution of the city council authorizing the con-writing and signed by the parties must be complied with.[14] If the bidder has made a mistake in his bid, he will not be bound if he promptly withdraws it.[15] Where a contractor has given a bond for the faithful performance of his contract with a public board, the latter cannot resist performance on the ground that the bond has not been approved as required by law.[16] Title to money deposited by the contractor as security for the performance of the contract, remains in him until the expiration of the time of performance and vests in the city, if at that time he has failed to perform.[17] In Kentucky, contracts by boards of public works of cities of the first class, for the original construction of public ways need not be approved by the general council, as a prerequisite to their validity.[18]

§ 4. Essential provisions in, and conditions pertaining to, public contracts.[19] —A statute providing that contractors with a municipality should not employ laborers for more than eight hours a day in performing work on a public improvement is unconstitutional and the incorporation of the provisions of such statute in a contract does not deprive a contractor who has violated such provision of his right to compensation for work done under the contract.[20] A public contract unlawfully stipulating against alien labor is not against public policy where that was disregarded and it was otherwise valid.[21] A clause in a contract for the construction of a pavement requiring the contractor to keep it in repair for a specified time is regarded as a guaranty of good work and not as imposing on abutting owners the cost of maintenance,[22] provided the time for which he is bound to keep it in repair is not longer than a well constructed improvement ought to last without repairs.[23] The period of time fixed by the municipal au-tract was not passed in the manner required by the charter of the city of Geneva. People v. Geneva, 90 N. Y. S. 275.

14. Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 5989a, providing that contracts between teachers and school corporations shall be in writing and signed by the parties to be charged is mandatory. It is not conclusive against the validity of such a contract, however, that the agreement is contained in more than one paper. Taylor v. School Town of Petersburgh, 33 Ind. App. 675, 72 N. E. 159. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 6759, counties in the erection of public buildings cannot be made liable upon an implied promise to pay the value thereof; the contract must be in writing, including the consideration and a contract changing one in writing which states the consideration, and which increases the cost about one-third must also be in writing expressing the consideration to be paid for the extra work. Anderson v. Ripley County, 181 Mo. 46, 80 S. W. 263. A contract entered into in behalf of the state board of education by the president and secretary of the board is valid, at least as against third persons where it appears that the board acquiesced in the execution of contracts in its behalf by the president and secretary. Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420, 78 P. 1103. A contract for a water supply is a contract for the sale of goods, wares, and merchandise, and where the price exceeds $30 or it cannot by its terms be performed within one year, it is within the statute of frauds and must be in writing. Jersey City v. Harrison [N. J. Law] 58 A. 100.

15. Where a contractor by reason of an excusable mistake on his part puts in a bid for a sum much less than he intended to do, pursuant to proposals therefor, there is no contract since no meeting of the minds, where he notifies the opposite party at once and the bid of the next lowest bidder is accepted, and in such case he is entitled to a return of money deposited with his bid as a guarantee that he would enter into the contract if it was awarded to him. Board of School Com'rs of Indianapolis v. Bender [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 154.

16. Wagner v. Royal, 34 Wash. 428, 78 P. 1094; Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420, 78 P. 1103.

17. Furth v. West Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 936.

18. Board of Public Works of Louisville v. Selvage Const. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2098, 79 S. W. 1182.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1289.

20. People v. Grout [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 464.

21. Doyle v. People, 207 Ill. 75, 69 N. E. 639.

22. A clause in a contract requiring the contractor to keep the improvement in repair for a specified period of time after the completion of the work is not void, since considered as a guarantee of good construction and not imposing on the abutting owner the burden of repairs for which they are not subject to assessment though they are for original construction. Bacas v. Adler, 112 La. 806, 36 So. 739. A provision in a contract for paving that the contractor will keep the premises in repair for a specified period is not void on the ground that the city charter does not permit the cost of repairs to be assessed against the abutting owners who must pay the cost of construction. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

23. Local assessments for local improvements can be imposed only where special thorities is presumed to be reasonable until the contrary is shown.[24] If a portion of the contract price is withheld by the government as security for the maintenance of the improvement, it must show damage as well as nonperformance in order to withhold payment of such sum.[25]

§ 5. Interpretation and effect of public contracts; performance and discharge. A. Construction and interpretation.[26]—Contracts for the construction of public improvements are to be construed the same as contracts between individuals and the intention of the parties as gathered from the entire instrument will control.[27] They must be certain as to terms.[28] A contract may be implied.[29] They are, however, subject to the statutory or charter limitations of the municipality.[30] A local custom inconsistent with the terms of the contract is not incorporated therein.[31] The Federal courts are not bound, under all circumstances, to follow the construction placed on a municipal contract by the state courts.[32] benefits have been conferred on the property assessed and only to the extent of the benefits. In the case of street paving only the first cost can be charged against the abutting property. A charge for maintenance indirectly imposed by including it in the first cost is no less objectionable than a direct charge. But the municipality, to secure the proper performance of the contract, may require a guaranty of the permanency of the work, if in so doing they do not impose on the abutting owner more than the cost of the original improvement in accordance with the specifications. If the obligation to repair does not exceed the time which the pavement, if laid in accordance with the contract, would endure, such guaranty does not add to the cost of the improvement, unless the time for which the guaranty is made is unreasonable so as to evade the provision that only the first cost shall be chargeable to the abutting owner. The latter cannot resist the enforcement of a lien on his premises by the municipality for the benefit of the contractor. City of Philadelphia v. Pemberton, 208 Pa. 214, 57 A. 516.

24. City of Philadelphia v. Pemberton, 208 Pa. 214, 57 A. 516.

25. Where by terms of a contract the government retains a part of the consideration of the contract as security for the maintenance by the contractor of the improvement during a prescribed period and also provides that the contractor shall be paid a certain rate of interest on the sum so held, the government in order to withhold the payment must prove damages from the failure to maintain and not merely a failure to maintain the improvement. Switzer & McHenry's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 275.

26. See 2 Curr. L. 1290.

27. Morrill & W. Const. Co. v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 550. A contract by a municipal corporation with a water company to furnish the former with an emergency water supply does not authorize the municipality to require the water company to furnish water to an adjoining municipality. Rehill v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 175. Contracts of a corporation, whether municipal or private, stand on the same footing with contracts of natural persons and depend on the same circumstances for their validity and effect. Jersey City v. Harrison [N. J. Law] 58 A. 100. Proposals for construction, invited bids on a structure complete and as modified in two different particulars. A bid offering to do it for a certain price and a deduction for each particular feature omitted, was accepted omitting one feature only, held not to constitute a contract as to the value of the other feature that it was of the value the bidder proposed to deduct in case it was omitted, so as to preclude a reduction of a greater amount than that stated in his bid on a subsequent change of the contract so as to omit such feature. Conners v. U. S., 130 F. 609. A contract to pay a designated sum per cubic yard for the "removal of 2,000 cubic yards of gravel more or less, as may be designated by the city engineer, read in connection with the balance of the contract, held to mean that the amount of gravel to be removed and not the location from which it was to be removed was to be designated by the engineer. Normile v. Ballard, 33 Wash. 369, 74 P. 566.

28. A resolution of a school board made pursuant to a request for a position by a teacher, reciting that the person should be employed for the following year but not reciting the time when the employment should begin or the pay which should be given does not constitute a contract for employment as a teacher and hence no recovery can be had for refusal to employ the teacher. Taylor v. School Town of Petersburgh, 33 Ind. App. 675, 72 N. E. 159.

29. An implied contract to pay for the use and occupation of land may arise from the use and occupation thereof by the government officers in the prosecution of a public improvement. Willink's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 693. A contract to pay for materials received and used in the construction of a public improvement may be implied. Lines v. Otego, 91 N. Y. S. 785.

30. Under Rev. Charter City of Orange, § 8, employment by city of a janitor for police station is revocable at pleasure. Dolan v. Orange, 70 N. J. Law, 106, 56 A. 130.

31. One who has contracted to deliver a certain quantity of coal at a government wharf is not entitled to demurrage paid for delay in getting to the wharf, when the delay was not due to the fault of the government, and the terms of the contract are inconsistent with a custom imposing on the consignee the payment of demurrage charges. Moore & Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 590.

32. The Federal courts are not bound to (§ 5) B. Performance and discharge.[33]—If a person contracts to do a thing which is possible at the time the contract is entered into, he is not excused from performance by an act of God; if he wishes to escape liability on such ground, it must be so provided in the contract.[34] Nor is he excused by reason of contingencies making the work more expensive than was anticipated by reason of unexpected exactions of the government.[35] Substantial performance by the contractor is essential to his right to recover on the contract.[36] Gross negligence or a willful departure from the terms of the contract preclude a recovery for any part of the contract price.[37] If he does not perform in accordance with the contract, but the municipality accepts the improvement and uses it, it must pay the reasonable value thereof not exceeding the contract price.[38] An engineer charged with overseeing the construction of a public improvement has no implied authority to consent to the construction of the improvement in any manner other than that called for by the contract.[39] If the contractor fails to perform in accordance with the terms of the contract, the measure of damages is the reasonable cost of completing the improvement in accordance with the contract,[40] unless the follow the decisions of the state courts as to the validity of a municipal contract unless at the time the alleged contract was entered into the state courts had adopted a settled course of decisions with reference to such contracts so as to constitute a rule of property, where the jurisdiction of the Federal courts is invoked by a resident of another state. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, Safe Deposit, Title & Trust Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 162.

33. See 2 Curr. L. 1290.

34. Phoenix Bridge Company's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 492.

35. One who has accepted a franchise and agreed to construct a street railway over a certain route and has deposited a check to be forfeited in case of his failure to perform within a specified time is not relieved of performance by reason of the fact that the United States government requires the construction of more expensive bridges, which are essential to the completion of the route, than was contemplated by the parties, where the requirements of the government could have been ascertained before the contract was entered into. Furth v. West Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 936.

36. The term "substantial performance" is by no means without limitation of a legal nature. The rule allowing a recovery on a contract for such performance is equitable in its nature. It is really a judicial invasion of strict contract right out of regard for the contractor. It means strict performance in all essentials necessary to the full accomplishment of the purposes for which the thing contracted for was designed. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 of Ft. Atkinson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

37. City of Philadelphia v. Pemberton, 208 Pa. 214, 57 A. 516.

38. Criswell v. Board of Directors of Everett School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420, 75 P. 984. Slight imperfections in the work or variations from the contract not seriously affecting the usefulness of the pavement, but making it of less value, would entitle the defendant to a deduction of the difference between the value of the work contracted for and the value of the work done. City of Philadelphia v. Pemberton, 208 Pa. 214, 57 A. 616. Where a contract has not been fully, but has been substantially, performed, in that it has been, in good faith, complied with in all essentials to the full accomplishment of that which was contracted for and the contract labor and material wrought into the property of the proprietor has been appropriated to the use intended, such contractor is entitled to recover the contract price less such deduction therefrom as will make good to the proprietor the imperfections in the work. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 of Ft. Atkinson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

39. The city is not estopped from asserting its damages as an offset in an action for the contract price by the contractor or a subcontractor seeking to charge the fund due the contractor with a lien for materials or work furnished by him. Modern Steel Structural Co. v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 536.

40. Under a contractor's bond conditioned that the contractor "shall complete said contract according to the terms thereof and the contract price * * * and shall faithfully perform the work specified in said contract," the measure of damages which a city can recover against the sureties on the bond, where the contractor abandoned performance, is the reasonable cost and expense of completing the work, nor was it necessary that the city in completing the work, should follow the plans and specifications made a part of the contract, but they had a right to resort to such methods and means as were reasonably necessary so to do. City of Winona v. Jackson, 92 Minn. 453, 100 N. W. 368. The reasonable damages sustained for the necessary work and labor performed and for materials furnished in the completion of defective work are a proper counterclaim by the government against a contractor suing for the contract price. Beckwith & Quackenbush's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 295. Where in an action for the contract price for the construction of a bridge, the county sets up a counterclaim for damages on the ground the bridge was not constructed of metal as heavy as called for by the contract, the measure of damages is the difference in the cost of the metal used and that called for by the contract plus the contractor's profit measure of damages is fixed by the terms of the contract.[41] Money paid to a contractor during the progress of the work cannot be recovered back merely because he fails to complete the entire work. In order to recover money so paid there must be either an agreement to that effect or an entire failure of consideration.[42] Where time is not of the essence of the contract, completion of the improvement by the contractor within a reasonable time after the time fixed is sufficient,[43] nor can the municipality resist payment where the noncompletion was prevented by an injunction obligatory on the city as well as the contractor,[44] or a valid extension of the time has been made.[45] Where time is of the essence of the contract, a contractor cannot recover on tax bills issued to him by the city where he failed to complete the improvement within the time limited by the contract.[46] Where the ordinance authorizing the improvement fixes the time for completion, time is deemed to be of the essence of the contract.[47] Where the for construction. Modern Steel Structural Co. v. Van Buren County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 536.

41. Under a contract providing that the contractor shall furnish a certain kind of material in quantities as needed during a specified time at a specified price and also provided that in case of his failure to supply the same it should be purchased by the government in the market and that the difference between the contract price and the amount paid should be charged to the contractor, the government cannot recover of the contractor the excess of cost of supplies purchased in open market after the contractor's bankruptcy, where no order was given to him to supply the materials, but as to materials ordered and not furnished prior to that time the government can recover. Sparhawk v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 720.

42. Where a city contracts for a sewerage filtration plant guaranteed to accomplish certain results which are expressly declared to be the inducement on the part of the city for entering into the contract and the completed plant wholly fails to accomplish the results contracted for, the city is entitled to recover the full sum paid the contractor without allowance for parts of the plant which are in accordance with the contract, they being valueless to the city for any other purpose, the rule applicable to sales of personal property that the vendee is liable for the value of property retained though not in accordance with the contract of sale not being applicable to permanent erections on real estate. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

43. Where an ordinance providing for a public improvement does not fix the time within which the contract shall be completed and the contract though fixing the time does not make time of the essence of the contract, its completion within a reasonable time is a compliance with the contract. Hilgert v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 496. A paving contract held to have been performed within a reasonable time, where delay not due to fault of contractor. Id. A contract for the performance of work in the way of street improvement, first specifying a definite time for the completion of the work, then followed by a penalty clause for failure to complete within the time designated, in the absence of a requirement by an ordinance that the work shall be completed within a definite time, may be complied with by the completion of the work within a reasonable time. In other words, that time is not the essence of a contract in that form, in the absence of an ordinance fixing a definite time for the completion of the work. Schibel v. Merrill [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1069.

44. Webb Granite & Construction Co. v. Worcester [Mass.] 73 N. E. 639.

45. Where a contract provides that the time for completion "may be extended only by the previous written consent of the mayor for good cause shown," the mayor is not precluded from making more than one extension nor does the making of more than one extension constitute an alteration of the contract so as to release a surety on the contractor's bond. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

46. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062. Where a definite time for the completion of an improvement is specified in the ordinance ordering it, or if no definite time be specified therein, but is made of the essence of the contract by the stipulation of the parties, then in either case, if the work be not completed in the specified time, tax bills issued in payment for the improvement will be void. Hilgert v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 496. Where a contract fixes the time within which an improvement shall be completed and provides that no additional time will be allowed unless the contractor shall be restrained from prosecuting the work in pursuance of a written order of the city engineer and then only for the number of days stated in the order, the engineer has no authority to dispense with compliance with the contract except for some reasonable cause, and unfavorable weather conditions, nothing with reference to the same being stipulated in the contract does not excuse performance within the time limited by the contract or authorize the engineer to suspend the completion of the work. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

47. Where an ordinance provides for the completion of the improvement within a specified time and the contract also provides for its completion within the time stated in the ordinance and provides a liquidate sum as damages for each day of noncompletion after the time limited, time is of the essence of the contract, and the time fixed by ordinance performance of a contract is indefinitely suspended by the government, the contractor may elect to treat the contract as terminated and recover his expenditures made in performance to the time of its suspension, together with loss of anticipated profits.[48] Where a contract provides that the work contemplated thereby shall be done to the satisfaction of a designated officer, the work must be satisfactory to him; whether his decision is right or wrong is immaterial, provided he acts in good faith.[49] The person holding the office at the time the contract is completed is the person to pass on the sufficiency of the performance and not the person in office at the time the contract was entered into.[50] So too an arbitration clause providing that the determination of a named person or officer as to any matter in dispute,[51] or as to the quantity of work performed, shall be conclusive, is binding on the parties.[52] The person occupying office at the time the decision is to be made is the person upon whom devolves the determination of the controversy,[53] though one to whom a controversy has been submitted may render a decision after his term of office has terminated.[54] What constitutes an acceptance of the improvement must in a measure be determined from the circumstances of each case.[55] Mere use by a municipality of a public improvement governs. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

48. Houston Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 724.

49. Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70. A clause in a contract that the improvement "shall be accepted and payment made when the plant is completed, tested, and made to work satisfactorily," requires that the completed plant should be satisfactory to the purchaser, acting reasonably, and hence the question whether it works satisfactorily should not be submitted to the jury. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 of Ft. Atkinson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356.

50. Where a contract provides that the work thereunder shall be performed to the satisfaction of the architect of the board and the board is afterwards reorganized and the duties of the architect devolved on an officer differently designated, the latter is the judge of the sufficiency of the performance. "It is the officer who discharges the duties of the office who is meant and not the person who fills the office." Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70.

51. Conners v. U. S., 130 F. 609; City of Mobile v. Shea [C. C. A.] 127 F. 521. A clause in a contract providing that claims arising thereunder shall be submitted to arbitration is valid and requires the submission of a claim to arbitration before an action at law arises. Werneberg, Sheehan & Co. v. Pittsburg [Pa.] 59 A. 1000.

52. A clause in a contract that "the estimate and certificate of the director of the department of public works shall be final and conclusive evidence of the amount of work performed and shall be taken as a full measure of the compensation to be received by the contractor, without the right of exception or appeal, renders the decision of the director final only as to the 'amount of work performed' and the compensation to be received" and does not preclude an arbitration clause in the contract from being operative as to other questions in dispute. Werneberg, Sheehan & Co. v. Pittsburg [Pa.] 59 A. 1000.

53. Under a provision in a contract that in case the city became dissatisfied with the manner in which the contractor was executing the contract, the city should take over the work and proceed to complete it and that the entire expense incurred in executing the improvement should be allowed by the contractor in favor of the city in accordance with the decision of the city engineer from whose decision there shall be no appeal, the engineer in office at the completion of the contract is the one to make the decision, and where no decision on the entire work is made by him, the contractor is not precluded from a judicial investigation of such expense. City of San Antonio v. Marshall & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 315.

54. Where a contract provides that "in case any question or dispute shall arise between the parties, it shall be submitted to the director of the department of public works whose decision thereon shall be final, the fact that the official named as arbitrator was removed from office after a disputed question had been submitted to him and he had heard the evidence does not deprive him of jurisdiction to determine the question submitted. He acts as an individual and not as an official. If he refuses to render a decision, the arbitration clause of the contract is exhausted and the jurisdiction of the courts attaches. Werneberg, Sheehan & Co. v. Pittsburg [Pa.] 59 A. 1000.

55. A contractor on a public improvement cannot object to a deduction for defective work on the ground that it has been accepted by the government engineer and that he has paid the subcontractor in full therefor when he could have discovered the defect had he used reasonable diligence, there having been no final inspection of the work. Beckwith & Quackenbush's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 295. Making a part payment of the amount due the contractors, after the time stipulated for the completion of the building, is not a waiver of the county's claim for liquidated damages by reason of its noncompletion within the specified time, the county retaining enough to discharge such liquidated damages. Lawrence County v. Stewart Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1059.

is not an acceptance of the same, so as to preclude it from objecting that the performance has not been in conformity to the contract.[56] A contractor who has agreed to complete a given improvement is not entitled to extra compensation for work done by him in the performance of his contract, in excess of what it was contemplated would be necessary.[57] He may, however, recover for extra work, required by a representative of the municipality, authorized to give directions in the premises, performed under protest and not called for by a proper interpretation of his contract.[58] In such case he is entitled to the reasonable value of such

56. Mere use by a city of a public improvement, when it is necessary that it should use it in order to protect the public health and convenience, is not an acceptance of the improvement so as to preclude it from objecting that it is not in accordance with the contract. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097. Where a public improvement is of such a nature that a partial performance thereof by the contractor incorporates labor and material into the purchaser's property (such as installation of a heating plant) in such a way as to render him powerless to do otherwise than accept what is delivered, there can be no recovery by the contractor without proof of acceptance other than such as is inferable from the mere fact that the improvement is retained and used. Manning v. School Dist. No. 6 of Ft. Atkinson [Wis.] 102 N. W. 356. An unorganized and informal meeting of the supervisors of a county at the place of the erection of a bridge pursuant to a contract with the county and the execution and delivery to the contractor of a statement signed by the supervisors to the effect that they "hereby accept the bridge," cannot bind the board nor is it an acceptance of the bridge by the county so as to estop it to allege damages for the contractor's failure to perform the contract according to the specifications. Use of the bridge, though not in accordance with the contract is not an acceptance so as to estop the county from claiming damages. Modern Steel Structural Co. v. Van Buren Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 536. The fact that a county with the consent of the contractor authorized certain county officers to occupy the court house before it had been accepted by the county is not a waiver of liquidated damages which had accrued at the time of such occupation, arising by reason of failure to complete within the specified time. Lawrence County v. Stewart Bros. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 1059.

57. A contractor who makes a gross bid for the entire performance of a given work, even though approximate estimates of the quantities of work to be done, which are materially wrong, have been prepared by the public authorities, is not entitled to extra compensation for the performance of work in excess of that called for by the estimate, and necessary to complete the improvement, but where there is an express representation in a plan or specification inserted for the purpose of showing bidders that something exists which will facilitate and render less expensive the performance of the work, a recovery may be had for the damages caused if it shall turn out that the representation is erroneous. Lentilhon v. New York, 92 N. Y. S. 897. Where a contract for laying a sewer provides that the contractor shall, as a part of the work for which compensation is stipulated, keep the same free from water and also provides that if the bottom of the trench is not a suitable foundation for the sewer that a suitable foundation should be made under the direction of the city engineer and extra compensation paid the contractor therefor, the contractor is not entitled to extra compensation for removing an unexpected quantity of water, where it appears that it is practicable though expensive to do so and the bed of the trench when water is removed is a suitable foundation. City of Winona v. Jackson, 92 Minn. 453, 100 N. W. 368. Where specifications which are submitted to prospective bidders state the approximate amount of excavation which must be done to secure a foundation for a structure, but which also recites that the bidder must satisfy himself as to their accuracy, a contractor who has been compelled to do more excavation than is recited in the specifications in order to get a proper foundation is not entitled to extra compensation therefor. Conners v. U. S., 130 F. 609. Where a proposal for bids on cement to be furnished in a given year recites the approximate amount which will be required and the specifications which are made a part of the contract recite that the approximate quantities are only given as a guide to the bidder, but in no way to bind or limit the city as to the amount which is to be ordered, a contract to furnish all the cement which may be required during the year, obligates the contractor to furnish all cement required for municipal purposes in excess of the amount named as the approximate amount, at the contract price. National Bldg. Supply Co. v. Baltimore [Md.] 59 A. 726.

58. Damages as for a breach of contract may be recovered for an erroneous direction of a representative of a municipality authorized to give directions in the premises in superintending the execution of contract work, which are insisted on and necessitate the performance of more work than the contract, properly interpreted, requires; and the contractor has an election whether to refuse to proceed and recover upon a quantum meruit for the work already done, or to continue under protest and recover the value of the extra work upon a quantum meruit as the measure of damages for the breach of contract. Lentilhon v. New York, 92 N. Y. S. 897. Under Act of Congress of June 16, 1880, the court of claime has power to award compensation to a contractor for extra work performed by him under the direction of the commissioners of the District extra work.[59] He cannot of course recover for extra services rendered at the instance of an officer having no authority to order the same.[60] A contract with a municipal corporation, in the absence of some ordinance or statute prohibiting it, is assignable.[61] An order by a contractor directing the municipality to pay a third person a designated sum out of a certain fund accruing to the contractor under a contract is payable only from such fund.[62] Where a contract with a city provided that the contractor should receive assessment certificates in full payment for the work done under the contract and such certificates were duly delivered to him, he can nevertheless recover the amount of the certificate where it develops the assessment is illegal.[63] Acceptance of a sum and receipt in full by the contractor may constitute an accord and satisfaction, precluding further recovery by him.[64] A public officer charged with the superintendence of a public improvement is liable for negligently and corruptly accepting inferior work.[65] A city is not liable for the torts of an independent contractor, though it may be liable for damages caused by the prosecution of an improvement intrinsically dangerous.[66] It is liable for the torts of its officers and agents in connection with of Columbia. District of Columbia v. Barnes, 25 S. Ct. 401.

59. Mott v. Utica, 96 App. Div. 495, 89 N. Y. S. 168. Where a contractor is required to do extra work in carrying out his contract, the amount which he is entitled to recover for such extra work is the amount fixed by the contract for similar work. Beckwith & Quackenbush's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 295.

60. Slaven's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 574; Phoenix Bridge Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 492. Where a contract provides that no claim for extra work or material will be allowed unless authorized in writing by the secretary of the treasury, a contractor cannot recover for work done under orders from the superintendent in charge, though beneficial to the improvement. Hyde's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 649.

61. Where a contractor assigns a part of the money earned under his contract and the city pays the assignee, it cannot object to the assignment of the residue to another, on the ground of the division of the claim. Gordon v. Jefferson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 617. Section 277 Duluth City Charter does not forbid or render void an assignment of the money due or to become due on a contract for public work, made after the work has been completed. Appeal of City of Duluth [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1059.

62. An order by a contractor directing a city to pay a third person a designated sum "out of any money belonging to me or that may hereafter be due me * * * on the waterworks contract, either in the 20 per cent reserve or the amount found due on the final estimate," held payable only from the reserve created by the terms of the contract on the amount payable to the contractor on final estimate. There being no money in such fund, there can be no recovery on the order. Dickerson v. Spokane, 35 Wash. 414, 77 P. 730. In an action against a city on an order by a contractor directing the city to pay the payee named in the order a certain sum out of certain money earned under the contract, the plaintiffs cannot recover unless there is money in the fund on which the order is drawn, and the fact that the consideration for the order was work and labor furnished to the contractor in the prosecution of the public work does not entitle plaintiff to payment as preferred creditor, since the action is founded on the order and plaintiff's rights are measured thereby. It is not an assignment of the laborer's claim. Id.

63. Younker v. Des Moines [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1129; Iowa Pipe & Tile Co. v. Callanan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 141.

64. Acceptance of payment and receipt of voucher "in full for all charges, claims, adjustments, differences, or other alleged indebtedness" incident to the performance of a contract held to be a compromise and settlement of a contractor's claim for extra compensation under a contract. Phoenix Bridge Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 492. Release signed by contractor held to be an accord and satisfaction as to disputed claim for payment under the contract. Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co. v. New York, 99 App. Div. 327, 91 N. Y. S. 131.

65. Where a local improvement (paving) is to be paid for by assessing the cost against the abutting owner, the latter has a cause of action against the municipal officers who negligently or corruptly allow the contractor to do the work in such a manner that the completed improvement is inferior to that for which the abutting owner has been assessed. The acts of the officers in accepting the inferior work is ministerial and not judicial, and they are personally liable. The cause of action exists though the abutting owner may have had other remedies as by injunction to restrain a departure from the contract; or a writ of mandamus to compel the city to complete the contract in accordance with the terms, or by interposing objections to a judgment on the special assessment. Gage v. Springer, 211 Ill. 200, 71 N. E. 860.

66. One who undertakes to furnish the material and perform the labor for laying a water main in a city street, the city retaining no control over the method of doing the work, is an independent contractor and the city is not liable for his negligence in the performance of the work unless the negligence was with reference to some positive the performance of a contract for a public improvement.[67] The contractor is not liable for the doing of acts which he has a right to do unless he does them in such a negligent and unreasonable manner as to unnecessarily injure another.[68] The contractor may recover damages for unreasonable delay on the part of a municipality in permitting him to proceed, or in performing conditions precedent to his duty to proceed, or unreasonable interference with the contract work, or with other contractors over whom control has been reserved.[69]

§ 6. Remedies and procedure. A. By taxpayer.[70]—A resident freeholder and taxpayer may maintain a suit to enjoin a municipality, and one with whom it has contracted, from performing an ultra vires or otherwise illegal contract,[71] or to restrain the municipality from accepting and paying for work not in accordance with the contract.[72] But he cannot, after completion of the improvement, resist assessment proceedings to pay the cost thereof, where he has failed to avail himself of a remedy provided by statute, while the contract is executory,[73] though it seems he may maintain a suit in behalf of the municipality to recover money paid out under an unlawful contract.[74] duty of the city or the work itself was intrinsically dangerous, or if properly done was likely to create a nuisance. Bennett v. Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349.

67. Normile v. Ballard, 33 Wash. 369, 74 P. 566.

68. The town had authority to lay water mains in its streets and also had power to contract with a third person to do the work, and if in the course of the installation of the water mains, the contractor disconnected a private drain which a property owner had constructed across the street, and such disconnecting was necessary to the laying of the water main, the injury is damnum absque injuria. Bennett v. Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349.

69. Lentilhon v. New York, 92 N. Y. S. 897. Where a contractor is delayed in the performance of a contract by noncompletion of his contract by another contractor, he is entitled to receive the value of the services of his employees and machinery during the time they were idle, diminished by compensation received by them for other services performed during the period not engaged on the contract work. Cotton's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 536. For any improper interference with the work of a contractor, the United States, like a private individual, is liable. Houston Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 724. A contractor, doing work for a city is entitled to damages and extra expenses caused by default of the city engineer in locating the place for the erection of the improvement. (Sinking crib in lake.) O'Neill v. Milwaukee, 121 Wis. 32, 98 N. W. 963. Where by reason of the fault of a city engineer, a contractor has failed to complete a public improvement and the city demands that he do so, he does not waive his demand for damages sustained by reason of the engineer's fault, by proceeding to repair the faulty construction so caused, when he, at the time of so doing, notifies the city that he will claim such damages. Id.

70. See 2 Curr. L. 1293, n. 67.

71. Fox v. Jones [N. D.] 102 N. W. 161; Bowman v. Frith [Ark.] 84 S. W. 709. Price excessive. Ohio v. Fronizer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373. Where a taxpayer brings an action to enjoin a contractor from proceeding under an alleged illegal contract with a city and joins the city and its officers as parties defendant and praying that the contract be adjudged void, the fact that the contractor has abandoned performance under the contract does not deprive plaintiff of his right to have the action proceed where the contractor has done some work under the contract for which he will be entitled to pay if the contract is not adjudged invalid. Patterson v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1064. A taxpayer cannot maintain a suit to restrain the performance of a contract between a city and another, on the ground that the other is an officer of the city and not authorized to contract with it, without joining the city as a party defendant. Eames v. Kellar, 92 N. Y. S. 665.

72. Taxpayers may maintain a bill in equity to enjoin a county board from accepting and paying for work done by a contractor which is not in accordance with his contract and which it is alleged the county board in collusion with the contractor intend to accept and pay for. Board of Com'rs of Laporte County v. Wolff [Ind.] 72 N. E. 860.

73. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542. On an application for judgment against a property owner for an assessment made to pay for an improvement, he cannot object that the contract was not let within the time and in the manner required by statute where he has not taken advantage of the means provided for objecting to the validity of the contract before its performance by the contractor. In such a proceeding in the absence of evidence to the contrary it will be presumed that the contract was let within the time fixed by statute. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 468, 72 N. E. 1108. One who has been assessed for a local improvement cannot resist the proceedings to enforce it on the ground that the terms of the contract under which the improvement was made has not been complied with. City of Chicago v. Sherman, 212 Ill. 498, 72 N. E. 396.

74. A taxpayer is entitled to equitable relief to recover money paid out by the officers of a municipal corporation on a contract not lawfully entered into, though his

(§ 6) B. By bidder.[75]—Where public officials directed by statute to award contracts to the lowest responsible bidder do not award a contract to the lowest bidder, mandamus will not lie to compel such award,[76] nor can the bidder maintain an action to recover the profits which he would have made had the contract been awarded to him.[77] His remedy is by a suit to enjoin the prosecution of the work and have the contract set aside and the matter referred back for further action.[78] Mandamus will not lie to compel a municipality to levy an assessment to pay for a public improvement at the suit of the contractor, where the city denies performance by the complainant, nor will the question be litigated in such proceedings.[79] An injunction will lie at the suit of the contractor to restrain a breach of a contract already entered into.[80]

(§ 6) C. On the contract proper.[81]—Where a contract with a municipality is illegal, there can be no recovery for work performed thereunder.[82] Statutory requirements constituting conditions precedent to the contractor's right to payment must be complied with.[83] Only such persons as are parties to the contract,[84] or for whose benefit it is made,[85] can maintain an action thereon. Officers of a municipality who enter into a contract solely for the municipality and as officers thereof cannot be held personally liable on the contract.[86] Where a contractor rejects material furnished by a subcontractor as not being in accordance with the subcontractor's contract and subsequently uses them, he is liable to the injury in case the relief is not granted would be very slight and it appears that his private pecuniary interests other than in his capacity as a taxpayer would be seriously injured and that the latter motive is probably the controlling one in the institution of the suit. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1293.

70, 77, 78. City of Akron v. France, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 496.

79. City of Mt. Vernon v. State [Ohio] 73 N. E. 515. Mandamus will not lie to compel a municipality to levy a tax to carry out a contract between a city and a water company unless the right of the water company to the performance of the contract is clear and there is no other adequate remedy. Westminster Water Co. v. Westminster, 98 Md. 551, 56 A. 990.

80. Under statutes authorizing the state board of education to adopt a uniform system of text books for use in the public schools and also authorizing them to contract for the furnishing of the books so adopted, the publishers with whom the board have contracted can maintain a suit to enjoin a school board from substituting other books for those which they have contracted to furnish; provided the complainant suffers substantial injury or loss by reason thereof. Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 399, 78 P. 1096; Eaton & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 435, 78 P. 1093. In such a proceeding, the board cannot object to the legality of the contract. Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420, 78 P. 1103.

81. See 2 Curr. L. 1293.

82. Ohio v. Fronizer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

83. Under Duluth Charter § 276, providing that payment to a contractor for public work shall not be made until an affidavit that all claims for work and labor have been paid shall be made by the contractor or his personal representative, the affidavit may be made by the contractor or his assignee if the latter has personal knowledge of the facts; and the term personal representatives does not mean executor or administrator, but those persons who stand in the place of or represent the contractor. Lowry v. Duluth [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1059.

84. Where a city enters into a contract with a water company to furnish water for purposes of extinguishing fires and to maintain hydrants, a resident of the city has no cause of action on the contract, against the water company for damages caused by a defective hydrant resulting in loss to his property from fire which could not be extinguished because of the defective hydrant. Allen & Currey Mfg. Co. v. Shreveport Waterworks Co., 113 La. 1091, 37 So. 980. Where a contract for the construction of an improvement provides that the contractor shall hold the city harmless on account of all injuries sustained by any person by reason of the performance of the contract, a property owner abutting on the improvement who has been injured by the negligence of a subcontractor cannot maintain a suit against such contractor, since not a party to the contract and it is not made for his benefit. Haefelin v. McDonald, 96 App. Div. 213, 89 N. Y. S. 395.

85. A mortgagee of a water company which has a contract with a city to furnish water for fire protection at an annual price, where the contract provides that the said annual rentals shall be paid to a trustee of the company's bonds in case it shall appoint one, has such an interest in the contract as will support a suit to enjoin the city from maintaining a waterworks system in competition with the company's franchise. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund Co. v. Dawson, 130 F. 152.

86. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100.

owner for the value thereof, but not for the contract price.[87] In a suit against a municipality on a contract entered into in its behalf by its officers, it must affirmatively appear from the complaint that the contract is one the officers had authority to make,[88] and that it was entered into in the manner prescribed by statute.[89]

(§ 6) D. On the contractor's bond.[90]—In a suit on a contractor's bond, a surety cannot set up as a defense the want of power of the city to enter into the contract or that it was not made in the manner required by statute.[91] The obligation of the bond will be construed as a penalty and not an agreement for liquidated damages.[92] Nor are the sureties liable for liquidated damages stipulated for in the contract, where not made so by the terms of the bond.[93] The amount recoverable on a bond cannot exceed the penal sum named therein, nor can interest on the amount of the damages sustained be allowed where the aggregate exceeds the penalty of the bond.[94] Minor changes in the contract for the faithful performance of which the bond is given do not constitute such an alteration as will relieve the surety from liability.[95] Nor is he relieved from liability by payment to the contractor of the contract price before it is due.[96] The successors in office of the obligees in the bond can maintain a suit thereon.[97] In some cases

87. Wilson v. Dietrich [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 251.

88. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100.

89. A contract by a township not entered into in accordance with Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 8085, designating the manner of entering into such contract is void. In an action on a contract, the plaintiff must affirmatively show that the contract was entered into in accordance therewith. In the absence of a showing it will be presumed the contract was not so entered into. Oppenheimer v. Greencastle School Tp. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1100.

90. See 2 Curr. L. 1294.

91. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

92. A bond given by a contractor in the "penal sum" of a certain designated amount, conditioned for the performance by the contractor of numerous covenants, warranties, and guaranties in the contract for the faithful performance of which it was given, will be held to be for a penal sum and not liquidated damages, and the plaintiff in an action thereon must show the amount of his damages caused by a breach thereof. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097.

93. A surety on a contractor's bond conditioned "that the contractor" will complete the contract according to its terms and save the city from any cost, charge, or expense that may accrue or arise from the doing of the work specified in the contract" is not liable for liquidated damages specified in the contract for failure to complete the contract within the specified time, no such provision being incorporated in the bond. City of Winona v. Jackson, 92 Minn. 453, 100 N. W. 368.

94. Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70.

95. Work done in an attempt by the contractor to bring the improvement up to his guaranty and pursuant to an understanding that it was so done held not an alteration of the original contract so as to relieve a surety on the contractor's bond from liability. Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70. Delay in deciding that heating plant installed in school would not heat the building, due to absence of suitable weather for making test and also due to time afforded to contractor to enable him to try to remedy defect held not so unreasonable as to release surety on contractor's bond. Id. Where a city pays a contractor a part of the consideration of a contract on the certificate of one engineer, instead of two as required by the terms of the contract, a surety on the contractor's bond cannot escape liability thereon on the ground that there was an alteration of the principal contract, where it appears that the provision that the payment should be made on the certificate of two engineers was inserted for the benefit of the owner alone and that the payments made were not greater than they should have been if a proper certificate had been exacted. City of Madison v. American Sanitary Engineering Co., 118 Wis. 480, 95 N. W. 1097. A surety on a contractor's bond is not released from liability thereon to a materialman by reason of an extension of time by the latter within which the contractor may pay his claim, where the materialman and contractor could have fixed the time when the materialman's claim should become due, without the consent of the surety. Chaffee v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 918.

96. Chaffee v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 918. Sureties on a contractor's bond are not relieved of liability thereon by reason of the fact that the secretary of the treasury, after the breach of the contract for the faithful performance of which the bond was given, paid to the contractor on account of money accruing on the contract an amount in excess of the damages claimed, though under 18 Stat. U. S. 481, he was authorized to retain an amount equal to the damages suffered. United States v. Ennis, 132 F. 133.

97. Where a public board is by legislative enactment reorganized, but the new or rethe statutes provide that no action on the bond shall be maintained unless a notice of claim is served on the surety within a designated time.[98] A bond given by a contractor pursuant to Act of Congress of August 13, 1894[99] is liable for material delivered though not actually used in the improvement.[1] A subcontractor can maintain an action in his own name on such a bond,[2] but the mere fact that it is brought in the name of the United States for his benefit does not give the circuit court jurisdiction.[3]

(§ 6) E. Under lien laws.[4]—In some states the statutes provide that a subcontractor on filing a claim therefor may have a lien on money due the contractor under the contract,[5] and likewise one who furnishes labor or material to organized board composed of different individuals from those on the old board, performs the same public duties as were imposed on the old board, the new board can maintain an action on a contractor's bond given to the old board. Board of Education v. National Surety Co., 183 Mo. 166, 82 S. W. 70.

98. Laws Minn. 1897, c. 307, § 3, providing that no action on a contractor's bond for work or labor furnished shall be commenced unless a notice of claim is served on the principal and surety within 90 days, has no application to a bond required and given pursuant to the provisions of the St. Paul home rule charter, since it, purporting to deal with such subject, supersedes the statute. Grant v. Berrisford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 940.

99. A contract to furnish all the necessary labor and material required in the construction of a building is a contract for the construction of a building within the purview of Act of Congress Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, providing that any person who enters into a contract with the United States for the construction of any building shall give a bond with certain conditions. United States v. Murdock [Me.] 59 A. 60. Lubricating oil furnished to a contractor to be used for lubricating machinery used in the prosecution of a public improvement is not "material used in the prosecution of the improvement" for which the contractor's bond given pursuant to Act of Congress August 13, 1894, is liable. United States v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Security Co., 21 App. D. C. 369.

1. Under Act of Congress Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, providing that one who has supplied labor or materials to one who has contracted for the construction of a public building may maintain a suit on the contractor's bond, one who has contracted with the contractor to manufacture and supply certain materials, who manufactures but does not deliver them to the contractor has no cause for action on the bond. If delivered it is not necessary that they should actually be incorporated in the building. United States v. Murdock [Me.] 59 A. 60.

2. Where a contractor has given a bond under the Act of Congress of August 13, 1894, conditioned for the payment of all persons furnishing material or labor, to the contractor in the prosecution of the work, all persons who have furnished material and labor can maintain a suit on the bond in the name of the United States to recover compensation for the labor or material furnished, nor does the fact that the contractor associated a partner with him in the performance of the contract constitute an assignment of the contract or the firm a subcontractor so as to preclude a recovery on the bond. United States v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Security Co., 21 App. D. C. 369.

3. A contractor's bond to the United States conditioned "to pay all persons supplying labor or materials" in carrying on a contract with the United States, given pursuant to 28 Stat. U. S., c. 280, which also authorizes an action thereon in favor of subcontractors in the name of the United States, gives rise to a cause of action in favor of the subcontractor and not the United States and hence the circuit court has no jurisdiction unless there is the requisite diversity of citizenship and amount in controversy. United States v. Barrett, 135 F. 189.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1295.

5. Under Code Iowa § 3102, providing that a subcontractor who furnishes material or labor for the construction of a public building may have a claim therefor against the municipal corporation "not in excess of the contract price and providing the corporation shall not be required to pay any such claim before or in any different manner from that provided in the principal contract" provided a sworn statement is filed by the subcontractor within thirty days after furnishing the last item, a subcontractor who files a claim after the completion of the contract and after the municipal corporation, in garnishment proceedings, has disclosed that it is indebted to the principal contractor is not entitled to priority over such garnishee creditor, where at the time of the disclosure the corporation had no notice of the subcontractor's claim. Swearingen Lumber Co. v. Washington School Tp. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 730. A subcontractor who intends to assert a claim against funds due the contractor, under Code Iowa § 3102 must take notice of the terms of the contract between the municipality and the principal contractor and cannot recover against the city where by reason of the contractor's failure to perform the contract in accordance with the specifications there is nothing owing to the contractor, at the time of filing his claim, especially where the defect is in the quality of the materials furnished by the subcontractor. Modern Steel Structural Co. v. Van Buren Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 536. The right of subcontractors and materialmen to assert a lien against funds due to the contractor from a municipality is not affected by the fact that the contractor unjustifiably abandoned performance of his contract. Rockland Lake Trap Rock Co. v. Port Chesa subcontractor may have a lien on the funds due to the subcontractor from the contractor.[6] Generally the lien does not attach until a claim is filed.[7] A surety who completes the performance of a contract which has been abandoned by the contractor is not entitled to subrogation to the rights of the city under a contract authorizing it to complete and deduct the amount from the contract price so as to gain priority over a subcontractor claiming a lien on funds due the contractor.[8] The lien of a subcontractor may be discharged by the contractor by giving a bond to pay such sum as may be found due the subcontractor.[9]

PUBLIC LANDS.

§ 1. The Public Domain and Property Therein (1107).
§ 2. Lands Open for Settlement and Lands Granted or Reserved (1107). State Lands (1107). Swamp Land Grants (1108). Who May Locate and Acquire (1108).
§ 3. Mode of Locating and Acquiring Title (1109).
A. Federal Lands (1109). Railroad Grants (1109). A Grant of Indemnity Lands (1110). Sale of Town Lots (1111). Defective Titles and Confirmation Thereof (1111). Cancellations and Forfeitures (1111). Repayment of Purchase Price on Cancellation (1111). Jurisdiction of Land Officers and Courts (1112).
B. State Lands (1113). Grants and Patents (1114). Purchase of Additional Lands in Texas (1115). Rescissions, Cancellations, Forfeitures, and Reversions (1116). Adjudication of Title by Courts (1116).
§ 4. Interest and Title of Occupants, Claimants, and Patentees (1117).
A. Federal Lands (1117). Adverse Possession (1117). Area Acquired and Boundaries (1119). Mode of Proving Title (1120). Indian Allotments (1120).
B. State Lands (1120).
§ 5. Leases of Public Lands and Rights Thereunder (1121).
§ 6. Spanish and Other Grants Antedating Federal Authority (1122).
§ 7. Regulations and Policing, and Offenses Pertaining to Public Lands (1123). Cutting Timber on Public Lands (1123). Crimes and Offenses Against Public Lands (1124).

This topic includes both state and Federal lands. For obvious reasons the treatment of each is separate from the other within each section; but many printer, 92 N. Y. S. 631. Under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 3418, a municipality is not liable for costs in a suit by a subcontractor to foreclose a lien on funds due a contractor for a public improvement where the amount of the subcontractor's lien together with costs aggregate more than the amount due the contractor from the municipality. Id.

6. Under Laws N. J. March 30, 1892 (Gen. St. p. 2078) one who furnishes material to a subcontractor for use on a public improvement is entitled to a lien, on giving the notice required by the statute, for his pay therefor to the extent that the contractor is at such time indebted to the subcontractor. Wilson v. Dietrich [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 251. Where two lien claimants file their notice of claim of lien at the same time, they are entitled to a pro rata distribution of the funds in the hands of the contractor due and owing to the subcontractor. Id.

7. Under P. L. N. J. 1892, p. 369, the lien does not attach until the filing of the claim, and where prior to the filing of the claim the contractor had been adjudged a bankrupt, the trustee takes the money due the contractor free of any lien sought to be created by a subsequently filed claim. Garretson v. Clark [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 414. Under this statute the lien attaches on the filing of the notice to all sums due or to become due to the contractor. The claimant has a lien irrespective of whether the contractor is proceeding with his contract or has abandoned it, though payment cannot be enforced until the completion of the contract since, until then, it cannot be ascertained what, if anything, is due the contractor. Pierson v. Haddonfield [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 471. A notice of a claim of lien for work and material furnished in grading and macadamizing a village street served on the chairman of the committee on roads and bridges of the village board of trustees is a service on the head of the department having charge of the improvement. Rockland Lake Trap Rock Co. v. Port Chester, 92 N. Y. S. 631. Liens filed against a village on account of a public improvement need not be verified. Id.

8. Pierson v. Haddonfield [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 471.

9. Where a contractor gives a bond to discharge a lien claimed by a subcontractor on funds due the contractor from a municipality, the subcontractor can maintain a suit in equity against the contractor and the sureties on his bond to establish his claim as against the contractor and also personal judgment against the surety for the claim so established. Mertz v. Press, 99 App. Div. 443, 91 N. Y. S. 264. The time limited by Laws 1882, c. 410, § 1824, for the bringing of actions to foreclose liens for work done under municipal contracts has no application to action on bonds given by contractor to discharge a lien claim filed by a subcontractor in accordance with Laws 1895, c. 605. Id.

ciples common to both may be found. Hence the reader is likely to profit by an examination of both.

§ 1. The public domain and property therein.[10]—"Public Lands" has no statutory definition and should be given such meaning in each case as comports with the intention of congress in the use of the term.[11] The state rather than its local municipalities owns public lands.[12] The mere right to acquire public lands even if it be preferential is not property in the lands.[13]

Proceeds of lands granted for a specified purpose may be used as directed by statute.[14]

§ 2. Lands open for settlement and lands granted or reserved.[15]—Portions of the public domain opened to settlement may be taken subject to prior valid settlement, reservation, or withdrawal.[16] Lands appropriated by the United States for special public purpose are not open to preemption while so used.[17] Lands made subject to sale and to the homestead laws are "public" lands subject to reservation.[18] A withdrawal of lands from preemption or homestead entry withdraws them for all purposes.[19]

State lands.[20]—Portions of the public domain such as navigable waters[21] necessary for public use or convenience are not open to settlement. In setting apart, specifically, to schools or other public use, certain of the public lands, irregulari-

10. See 2 Curr. L. 1295.

11. United States v. Blendaur [C. C. A.] 128 F. 910.

12. Note: The general rule is that title to tide lands is in the state and not in the municipal subdivision in which they lie unless expressly granted to such subdivision by the state (Commonwealth v. Roxbury, 9 Gray [Mass.] 451), and the mere establishment of municipal boundaries so as to include a portion of the land under the water is not sufficient to carry title to the land there situated (Bliss v. Ward, 198 Ill. 104, 64 N. E. 705; Kean v. Stetson, 5 Pick. [Mass.] 492; Russ v. Boston, 157 Mass. 60; Palmer v. Hicks, 6 Johns. [N. Y.] 133). There is nothing to prevent the state from granting title to the municipality. Coolidge v. Williams, 4 Mass. 140; Payne v. English, 79 Cal. 540, 21 P. 952. A grant of land within certain boundaries will include land under the water within such boundaries (Robins v. Ackerly, 24 Hun [N. Y.] 499), but water not expressly within the bounds of the grant will not pass (East Hampton v. Vail, 151 N. Y. 463, 45 N. E. 1030). See note to Mobile Transportation Co. v. Mobile [Ala.] 64 L. R. A. 333).

13. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503, 77 P. 845; Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808. Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, providing for a lien on tide lands for the excavation of public waterways does not deprive owners abutting on such tide lands of property without due process; they having no interest but only a preferential right to purchase, and on purchasing take with notice of the lien. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503, 77 P. 845. Nor does it violate a constitutional provision that the credit of the state shall not be given to a private individual, it being provided that the state is not liable to discharge the lien. Id.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1296, n. 2, 3. Laws 1852-53, p. 29, c. 13, conveying swamp lands to the counties in which they were situated and directing the appliance of the proceeds of a sale was not repealed by Laws 1858, p. 256, c. 132, requiring question of the use of proceeds for the erection of public buildings to be submitted to the people and its use for a purpose specified under the former act need not be submitted. Nelson v. Harrison County [Iowa] 102 N. W. 197.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1296.

16. A homestead entry so long as it remains a subsisting entry, precludes a subsequent entry. Holt v. Murphy [Okl.] 79 P. 265. At the time of attaching of railroad grants to lands in California, certain lands within the place limits of the grants were within the boundaries of a Mexican grant, the plat and field notes of which were of record in the land department. Held, such lands were excluded from the grant though a subsequent survey excluded a part of them. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 662.

17. Lands appropriated for a military post cannot be preempted under the act of April 22, 1826, until such post is abandoned. Scott v. Carew, 25 S. Ct. 193.

18. The Flathead Indian lands from which the Indians were removed by Act June 5, 1872, and which were made subject to sale and to which the homestead laws were extended by Act Feb. 11, 1874, became part of the general public domain and as such were subject to be set apart as forest reservations in "public lands." United States v. Blendaur [C. C. A.] 128 F. 910.

19. Withdrawal of railroad lands which came within the place limits of a subsequent grant to another railroad excepted them from such subsequent grant though the line of the first railroad was so changed that the lands did not come within its grant. Northern Lumber Co. v. O'Brien, 134 F. 303.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1298.

21. State v. Twiford, 136 N. C. 603, 48 S. E. 586.

ties may be disregarded except in particulars made essential.[22] In the absence of judicial interpretation of statutes reserving lands from location, the departmental construction will be adopted.[23] The privilege of taking state like Federal lands is subject to prior application or settlement. Thus, in Texas, school lands under lease[24] or which the records of the department show to have been sold[25] are not open to settlement. And a part owner of a lease of state school lands cannot waive the lease so as to authorize purchase of the lands.[26]

In that state a patent though containing an erroneous description and not filed in the county where the land is located withdraws it from the public domain.[27] An award to one who through uncertainty as to the boundaries had made settlement on the wrong section is sufficient to keep the land from being subject to a subsequent application.[28]

Swamp land grants[29] whereto the state has completed the title may be sold,[30] but if set aside for or granted to a particular incompatible public purpose they are withdrawn from settlement.[31]

Who may locate and acquire.[32]—In Texas only actual settlers[33] or owners[34] engaged in agricultural or stock raising pursuits[35] are entitled to purchase "additional" school lands. A sale to a minor is validated where after attaining majority he affirms the purchase by residing on the land.[36]

In California lands belonging to the state and suitable for cultivation can be sold only to actual settlers.[37] This provision is applicable to swamp lands.[38] The Chilocco reservation was not "within" the Cherokee Strip opened to settlement in 1893 and one who ran from there is qualified to enter lands though he

22. Under the laws of Texas, irregularities in the survey or noncompliance with statutory requirements relative thereto, or mistakes of the commissioner of the land office in failing to charge lands to the school fund in the adjustment on a partition between the state and such fund, does not affect the character of lands as school lands. Failure to comply with the statutory requirements with reference to application for survey or in returning certificate and field notes to the land office. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 4265, providing that all public lands heretofore surveyed for the benefit of the public schools by virtue of any certificate, valid or void, are hereby declared to be lands belonging to the public schools. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607. The numbering and designation of sections reserved for the school fund need not be the personal act of the commissioner. He may adopt the designation and numbering of the surveyor's field notes. Id.

23. Courts will follow the construction placed upon such statutes by the attorney general. State v. Gunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1028.

24. Bradford v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 392. In trespass to try title where plaintiff made a prima facie case, the burden is on the defendant to show that a lease was still in force when plaintiff's application to purchase was made. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 569.

25. Application to purchase is properly rejected. Bradford v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 392.

26. Evidence of the transfer by one part owner is inadmissible in the absence of proof of his authority to act for the others. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 569.

27. Gilbert v. Mansfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 830.

28. May v. Hollingsworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 841.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1297.

30. California swamp land cannot be sold by the state until it is segregated and surveyed by authority of the United States [Pol. Code, § 3441]. Polk v. Sleeper, 143 Cal. 70, 76 P. 819.

31. Lands granted to levee boards held not subject to pre-emption. West v. Roberts [C. C. A.] 135 F. 350, following earlier cases. See 2 Curr. L. 1298, n. 30.

32. See 2 Curr. L. 1299.

33. One who actually occupies and settles on land with an intention of making it his home is an actual settler. May v. Hollingsworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 841.

34. One is an "owner" entitled to purchase additional land under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 4218fff, who has a contract to purchase and has taken possession and made valuable permanent improvements. Bone v. Cowan [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 385.

35. Not the owner of town lots. Under Rev. Civ. St. 1897, art. 4218fff. Conn v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 608.

36. Taylor v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1011.

37. Const. art. 3, § 7. Polk v. Sleeper, 143 Cal. 70, 76 P. 819.

38. Constitutional provision, art. 3, § 7, that lands belonging to the state suitable for cultivation shall be sold only to actual settlers, applies to swamp lands. Polk v. Sleeper, 143 Cal. 70, 76 P. 819.

was not on the 100-foot strip and was on the reservation before noon of the day set.[39]

§ 3. Mode of locating and acquiring title. A. Federal lands.[40]—An application has no validity if made when the land was not subject to entry.[41] Entry must be made in good faith[42] on a part of the public domain,[43] and for the entryman's own benefit.[44] If it be homestead entry, he must reside on his claim.[45] A prior sale by an entryman may raise a suspicion that his entry was not made for his own benefit but is insufficient to establish fraud.[46] The holder of a state certificate of homestead acquires no title as against the United States.[47]

The preferential right given to a successful contestant of preemptions is a mere privilege of becoming the first entryman,[48] and may be cut off by laws of congress.[49]

Railroad grants[50] take effect in praesenti and title passes on filing the map of definite location[51] and survey where that is necessary to identify the sections

39. McCalla v. Acker [Okl.] 78 P. 223.

40. See 2 Curr. L. 1300.

41. Hence, an appeal from the rejection of an application to enter land covered by a homestead entry is not a pending application that will attach on the cancellation of the previous entry, since the appeal does not create any rights not secured by the application. Holt v. Murphy [Okl.] 79 P. 265.

42. Entries made by fraud and for the purpose of obtaining title in violation of the laws of congress are void. United States v. Clark, 129 F. 241. Grantees of an entryman with notice of all the facts may be sued without joining the entryman. Id.

43. In order to make a valid mining location under Rev. St. U. S. § 2319, surface ground, including the vein or lode appropriated must be the property of the United States. In this case it had been patented to a railroad company. Traphaagen v. Kirk [Mont.] 77 P. 58. Application to enter land covered by a subsisting entry confers no rights upon the applicant. Holt v. Murphy [Okl.] 79 P. 265.

44. A contract by an entryman to convey a part of the land to be acquired in consideration of advancements to enable him to enter and make final proof is void. Collins v. Bounds [Miss.] 36 So. 689. A husband contracted to give his wife one-half of all property which he should acquire. He thereafter entered a timber culture claim which they resided on until long after he acquired a patent. Held, the agreement did not contravene the Federal law providing that such claims shall not be entered for the benefit of another than the entryman. McElhaney v. McElhaney [Iowa] 101 N. W. 90. A stipulation that one shall obtain a patent if he can, when the land is in the market for the benefit of the other to the extent of his interest, does not reveal a contemplated fraud on the government. Waring v. Loomis, 35 Wash. 85, 76 P. 510.

45. A homestead entryman who votes in a county different from that in which his claim lies is precluded from claiming at the same time a residence on the land for homestead purposes. Small v. Rakestraw, 25 S. Ct. 285.

46. Anthracite Mesa Coal-Min. Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 56.

47. Code 1896, § 1813, providing that certificates issued pursuant to any act of congress should vest title in the holders could not operate to pass the title of the United States. Lowery v. Baker [Ala.] 37 So. 637.

48. Is not a property or vested right which may be enforced against the government [21 Stat. 140]. Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808. Facts and review of proceedings before the land department held to show that a preemption entry was never canceled so as to entitle the contestant to a preferential right of entry. Id.

49. Act Cong. March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1098), providing for the confirmation of contested preemptions in the hands of bona fide purchasers cut off the preferential right given to a successful contestant by 21 Stat. 140. Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808.

50. See 2 Curr. L. 1302.

51. Adverse possession as against the company commences from this date. Sage v. Rudnick, 91 Minn. 325, 100 N. W. 106.

Note: This decision reverses the court's former holding on the same case. Sage v. Rudnick, 91 Minn. 325, 98 N. W. 89. See 2 Mich. L. R. 630. The first decision followed Railroad Co. v. Olson, 87 Minn. 117, 94 Am. St. Rep. 693. In reversing the case on rehearing the court holds that Railroad Co. v. Olson is to be distinguished in principle, the parties before the land office not occupying the same relation to the property. The principal case seems to have the weight of authority in its support. It recognizes the well established principle that when a person is prevented from exercising his legal remedy by some paramount authority, the time during which he is so prevented is not to be counted against him in determining whether the statute of limitations has barred his right. Railroad Co. v. Olson, 87 Minn. 117, 94 Am. St. Rep. 693, 19 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] 216. In view of the facts, however, the court held the case did not come within the rule, as the title passed to the H. & D. R. Co. upon filing the map of definite location. Schulenberg v. Harriman, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 44, 22 Law. Ed. 551; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Phelps, 137 U. S. 528, 34 Law. Ed. 767; Deseret Salt Co. v. Tarpey, 142 U. S. 241, 35 Law. Ed. 999; Railroad Co. v. Baldwin, 103 U. S. 426, 26 granted within place limits.[52] An exception from a railroad grant of such lands as shall be found to have been "granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, preempted or otherwise disposed of," includes lands upon which preemption filings had been made and accepted by the land office, though not paid for at the time of the attaching of the grant,[53] also lands upon which homestead applications were made between the filing and approval of the map of definite location;[54] lands occupied with an intention to acquire title under the homestead law though no application for entry thereof had been made;[55] and lands for which such application has been made and accepted whether occupied by the claimant or not.[56] The grant to Minnesota for the benefit of a railroad company is not void because of a prior application to enter the land as a homestead.[57]

A grant of indemnity lands[58] to the state becomes absolute upon acceptance and selection. Selection may be made by a legislatively authorized board,[59] and the right of selection is not impaired by settlers' entries until the time for selection has elapsed,[60] except as provided by the terms of the grant.[61]

Law. Ed. 578; Toltec Ranch Co. v. Cook, 191 U. S. 532, 48 Law. Ed. 291. While in most cases the government retains title to the public lands until issuance of a patent yet railroad grants are usually an exception to this rule as they are almost invariably grants in praesenti, a patent being issued merely as evidence of the title. Tiffany, Real Prop. §§ 371, 374; Wisconsin C. R. Co. v. Price County, 133 U. S. 496, 33 Law. Ed. 687; St. P. & P. R. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 139 U. S. 1, 35 Law. Ed. 77; Carter v. Ruddy, 166 U. S. 493, 41 Law. Ed. 1090; Langdeau v. Hanes, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 521, 22 Law. Ed. 606. The government therefore having no interest in the land, the title having passed to plaintiff's assignor, the courts and not the department of the interior had jurisdiction over the controversy between the two railroad companies. Peyton v. Desmond, 129 F. 1; Bockfinger v. Foster, 190 U. S. 116, 47 Law. Ed. 975; Parcher v. Gillen, 26 Land Dec. 34; Noble v. Union River Logging R. Co., 147 U. S. 165, 37 Law. Ed. 123. The plaintiff's right to bring ejectment not having been suspended, defendant's adverse possession had ripened into title.—3 Mich. L. R. 152.

Under act of congress granting lands to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, such company acquired title to the odd numbered sections within the place limits of its grant on the filing of its map showing definite location of the line, without paying for the cost of survey, therefore the United States cannot recover for timber cut on land which when surveyed would show to be from such odd numbered sections. United States v. Losekamp [C. C. A.] 127 F. 959.

52. The Northern Pacific Railway Company did not acquire title under the grant of July 2, 1864, until identification of the odd numbered sections by survey. United States v. Montana Lumber & Mfg. Co., 25 S. Ct. 367. A private survey is inadmissible to show that when the land is surveyed it will be an odd numbered section and included in the grant to the company by the act of July 2, 1864. Id.

53. United States v. Oregon & C. R. Co., 133 F. 953.

54. Grant to the Oregon & California Railroad Company (Act June 25, 1866) 14 Stat. 239. United States v. Oregon & C. R. Co., 133 F. 953. Where the United States relies upon the private entry of a tract of land which was of record and uncanceled at the time of the attaching of a railroad grant under which the land was patented, to except such tract from the grant and as ground for the cancellation of the patent, it must be shown either that the entryman was then residing on the land or that he had made final proof and payment where without one or the other his right had been lost by abandonment. Id.

55. United States v. Oregon & C. R. Co., 133 F. 953.

56. Such lands being within the term "otherwise disposed of." United States v. Oregon & C. R. Co., 133 F. 953.

57. The certification to Minnesota for the benefit of a railroad company of land within the indemnity limits of the railway land grant act of July 4, 1886 (14 Stat. 87). United States v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 113.

58. Grant to the state of portions of the land within the abandoned military reservations by Act Cong. March 3, 1893 (27 Stat. 555), held to become absolute on its acceptance and selection of the lands according to the terms of the grant. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235.

59. The state may by legislative act accept the terms of the act of congress, granting to it lands as indemnity school lands and authorize the commissioner of public lands and buildings to select them. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235.

60. The Act of Congress, August 23, 1894, 28 Stat. 491, giving the preference right of entry to a bona fide settler on lands embraced within an abandoned military reservation in no way impairs the right of the state to select indemnity school lands within the time and manner contemplated by the grant. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235.

61. The rights acquired by settlement and recognized by the Act of July 5, 1884, or those of like character are the "lawful rights" which it is declared shall not be prejudiced by Act March 3, 1893, granting lands to the state as indemnity school lands. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235. The Sale of town lots.[62]—"Claimant" in the Arizona statute providing the method of executing the trust of land entered by the county court pursuant to the United States statute relative to the entry of town sites applies to "occupants" and he is entitled to his deed only on compliance with such statute.[63]

Defective titles and confirmation thereof.[64]—The act confirming title in bona fide purchasers of land from a railroad company to which it was erroneously patented, and requiring the company to pay to the United States the government price of the land is valid,[65] and an action under such statute may be maintained in equity.[66] This act is not applicable to lands patented to the state in aid of railroad construction.[67] It is no defense that the company sold the particular land in controversy for less than the government price,[68] nor that the company has not yet received the full amount of land to which it is entitled; there being other lands within the indemnity limits from which it may select to make up the deficiency.[69] A bona fide purchaser from a railroad company of land excepted from its grant who makes application to purchase within ten months after the land is stricken from the company's list acts with reasonable promptness.[70]

The right to confirmation of a commutation entry which was invalid only because prematurely made in ignorance of the Act of March 3, 1891, is not defeated by the entryman's subsequent efforts to protect his grantee's title by taking a reconveyance and residing again upon the land.[71]

Cancellations and forfeitures.[72]—A breach of a condition annexed to a state grant that no more than a certain number of acres should be granted to any one person can be taken advantage of only by the United States,[73] and not by a private individual, especially after a long lapse of time and an apparent waiver of the conditions by the United States.[74]

Repayment of purchase price on cancellation.[75]—Error of the land department at the time of entry in receiving an unauthorized affidavit and taking the entryman's money entitles an assignee to recover on subsequent cancellation of the patent,[76] and the fact that the entry can be corrected will not defeat his right where proviso in this act that no existing lawful rights arising under the public land laws shall be prejudiced does not inure to the benefit of one who settled on the land about the time of the passage of the act and prior to a survey and the time within which the state might make its selection. Id.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1302.

63. Robertson v. Martin [Ariz.] 76 P. 614.

64. See 2 Curr. L. 1303.

65. Not void as creating an indebtedness by a retrospective statute. The debt having been created when the company sold the land to which it had no right. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 651. Mortgages executed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company held not to constitute the mortgagee's bona fide purchasers. Id., 133 F. 662. Purchaser of land certified by the secretary of the interior to the State of Minnesota in aid of railway construction and conveyed to a railroad company is a purchaser in good faith protected by Act March 3, 1887, though the certification was erroneous and the land might have been recovered by the government while it was in the hands of the railway company. United States v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 113. A state corporation is a citizen of the United States within the meaning of the Act of March 3, 1887. Ramsey v. Tacoma Land Co., 25 S. Ct. 286.

66. Act March 3, 1887 [24 Stat. 556]; Act March 2, 1896 [29 Stat. 42]. United States v. Oregon & C. R. Co., 133 F. 953. Action to recover from a railroad company the purchase price of land and for the cancellation of the patents to such lands as have not been conveyed. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 651.

67. Protection afforded by Adjustment Act March 3, 1887, to bona fide purchasers from any grantee railroad company to whom lands had been erroneously patented does not extend to one who purchased after the date of that act unearned lands included in the grant of May 12, 1864, to the state of Iowa. Knepper v. Sands, 194 U. S. 476, 48 Law. Ed. 1083.

68, 69. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 662.

70. Ramsey v. Tacoma Land Co., 25 S. Ct. 286.

71. Right to confirmation under act of June 3, 1896. Hill v. McCord, 25 S. Ct. 96.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1304.

73, 74. Nichols v. Southern Or. Co., 135 F. 232.

75. See 2 Curr. L. 1304, n. 12 et seq.

76, 77. Anthracite Mesa Coal-Min. Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 56.

the entryman cannot be found to make the necessary affidavit.[77] An assignee before entry cannot recover.[78]

Jurisdiction of land officers and courts.[79]—The land department retains jurisdiction over public lands[80] until the issuance of patent or such other act as passes the title of the United States.[81] Except as to possessory rights, this jurisdiction is exclusive[82] and cannot be affected by state laws.[83] But where rights are asserted in good faith and on colorable grounds, a court may enjoin removal of timber prior to patent issued.[84] Until legal title has passed out of the United States, the interlocutory rulings and decisions of the land department are open to review or reversal[85] after notice to the parties in interest and due opportunity for a full hearing;[86] but the final judgment of the land department in matters of fact properly determinable by it is conclusive when brought to notice in a collateral proceeding.[87] After legal title has passed from the government, the interior department has no jurisdiction to determine controversies between individual claimants concerning title or right to possession,[88] and the pendency of a controversy before that department will not suspend the running of the statute of limitations in favor of an adverse claimant.[89] A court of equity will not review proceedings had before the land department,[90] nor entertain disputes which by act of congress the land department is given jurisdiction to determine.[91] Mandamus will not issue to review the judicial discretion of officers of the interior department.[92] A finding of fact in a state court is conclusive on the Federal supreme court, on a writ of error to the

78. Where one prior to entry conveys a portion of the public lands his grantee takes nothing and where the grantor subsequently makes entry which is canceled for an error of the land officers, the grantee cannot recover the money paid. Anthracite Mesa Coal-Min. Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 57.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1305.

80, 81. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1.

82. The courts have no jurisdiction in controversies involving equitable rights in public lands, except in possessory actions, so long as title remains in the United States. Sims v. Morrison, 92 Minn. 341, 100 N. W. 88. Courts have no jurisdiction to determine controversies between claimants of public lands the legal title of which has never passed out of the United States by patent. Northern Lumber Co. v. O'Brien, 124 F. 819.

83. A state law purporting to regulate the final receipts issued by the land department cannot restrict the authority of the officers of that department in the disposition of public lands or withhold from the grantees of the United States any of the incidents of the transfer of the government title. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1.

84. Northern Lumber Co. v. O'Brien, 124 F. 819.

85. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1. One who purchases from an entryman on faith of a final receipt or patent certificate, before the issuance of a patent, takes only the equity of his vendor subject to the authority of the land department while title remains in the United States, to cancel the entry if it is found to be based on error which if not corrected, will lead to the transfer of the government's title to one not entitled to it. Id.

86. The power to review its prior rulings and to cancel existing entries while the legal title remains in the United States is not unlimited or arbitrary. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1.

87. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1. In issuing a patent. Quinn v. Baldwin Star Coal Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 552. A finding by the land department on an issue as to whether certain persons are bona fide purchasers of contested pre-emptions is conclusive on the state courts. Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808. The conclusiveness of a finding by the land department of the sufficiency of settlement, residence, and improvements, is not affected by a later decision in a second contest between the same parties that the alienation of the land was a bar to supplemental proofs offered in aid of a premature commutation entry. Hill v. McCord, 25 S. Ct. 96.

88. Sage v. Rudnick, 91 Minn. 325, 100 N. W. 106.

89. Sage v. Rudnick, 91 Minn. 325, 100 N. W. 106. St. Paul, M. & M. R. Co. v. Olson, 87 Minn. 117, 91 N. W. 294, distinguished.

90. Where parties submit their cause to the Federal land department and are given a full and fair hearing, equity will not set aside the decision upon an allegation in a petition that perjury was committed during the hearing. Cagle v. Dunham [Okl.] 78 P. 561.

91. Rights of grantees of the Northern Pacific Railway Co. of land claimed to be within the indemnity limits of the land grant of July 2, 1864 (13 Stat. at L. 365). Humbird v. Avery, 25 S. Ct. 123.

92. Evidence held to show that the secretary of the interior had not abused his discretion in deciding that an applicant had failed to show by his application that the land was open for settlement. Riverside Oil Co. v. Hitchcock, 21 App. D. C. 252.

state court.[93] In ejectment in the Federal courts, an equitable title cannot be set up to defeat the legal title by impeaching a patent. This rule is not affected by a state statute under which such defense would be permissible.[94]

(§ 3) B. State lands.[95]—Subject to constitutional modes of disposal,[96] it can be accomplished only pursuant to statutory mode or by direct legislative act and where the disposal of title is governed by special laws, a grant except under such laws is void.[97] The legislature cannot provide for the disposition of school lands to which the state has acquired a perfect title otherwise than as directed by the constitution.[98]

In Texas the legislature must provide for the sale of school lands in such manner as to be most beneficial to the school fund.[99] In that state the county in which school lands are located has a restricted power of sale[1] which cannot be committed, without restriction, to a third person.[2] A sale by one to whom such power was committed is void whether made to one with notice of such procedure[3] or to a purchaser in good faith.[4] The county is not liable on the warranties in the deed executed by such commissioner.[5]

In Washington, if the land be heavily timbered, land and timber must be sold separately.[6] The Kentucky statute providing that one desiring to appropriate vacant lands may obtain from the county court an order authorizing him to enter and survey not to exceed 200 acres does not limit the number of orders the same person may obtain.[7] The three years' residence required under the grant to persons who arrived in the state of Texas, prior to 1837 need not have been subsequent to the issue of the conditional certificate.[8] In perhaps all the states where there are public lands, a survey or other identification of the land is the first act,[9] and while it subsists[10] one location and survey withdraws the land

93. That when a commutation entry under the homestead laws was allowed neither the entryman nor the land officers had knowledge of the amendment of Rev. St. § 2301, by the act of March 3, 1891, making such commutation premature. Hill v. McCord, 25 S. Ct. 96.

94. Law and equity are separate in the Federal courts. Tegarden v. Le Marchel, 129 F. 487.

95. See 2 Curr. L. 1306.

96. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235.

97. The "Cherokee Lands" in North Carolina have always been kept separate from other public lands of the state and are not subject to acquisition under the general entry and grant laws. Bealmear v. Hutchins, 134 F. 257. Provision of Rev. St. N. C. 1837, c. 42, that it shall not be lawful for an entry taker to receive an entry for lands lying (description) except the vacant and unsurveyed lands, etc., if construed to authorize an entry of these lands under the general entry and grant laws, casts the burden upon one claiming under such entry to show that the land was "vacant and unsurveyed." Id.

98. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 529, c. 115, providing for the disposition of school lands to which the state has acquired perfect title otherwise than is provided by Const. art. 8, §§ 1, 8, is void. State v. Tanner [Neb.] 102 N. W. 235.

99. Under Const. art. 7, § 4, provlding that such lands shall be sold under such regulations and at such times as may be provided by law. Conn v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 608.

1. Under Const. art. 7, § 6. Logan v. Stephens County [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 109; Id. [Tex.] 83 S. W. 365.

2. Rev. St. 1895, § 794, gives the court power to appoint a commissioner to sell but declares the court is not authorized to dispose of such lands in any other manner than as provided by law. Logan v. Stephens County [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 109.

3. Const. art. 7, § 6 and Rev. St. 1895, art. 794. Logan v. Stephens County [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 109.

4. Logan v. Stephens County [Tex.] 83 S. W. 365. Want of power exercised by the commissioner being one of the links in the chain of title, a purchaser is charged with notice of it. Id. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 109.

5. Logan v. Stephens County [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 109.

6. Act 1897, c. 89, p. 235, § 11; Laws 1903, p. 103, c. 74; Laws 1901, p. 308, c. 148, construed. State v. Callvert [Wash.] 79 P. 791.

7. Lockard v. Asher Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 689.

8. Buster v. Warren [Tex. Clv. App.] 80 S. W. 1063.

9. In Kentucky the first person to enter and survey public land acquires title, under St. 1903, § 4704, providing that every survey, entry, or patent shall be void so far as it embraces land previously entered, surveyed, or patented. Gray v. Peay, 26 Ky. L. R. 989, 82 S. W. 1006.

10. A location and survey under an original certificate is not rendered void by the fact that a survey was made under a dupli-from others. When entry is made on lands already publicly surveyed, the affidavits of occupancy and improvements of a homestead claimant must identify the land[11] and be filed in the proper land office. Entries must be before an officer authorized to take them;[12] mere irregularities of the owner of an original certificate to enter land,[13] or of the surveyor in making the survey, will not invalidate a location.[14] Applicants must comply with proper regulations adopted by the land commissioner.[15] School lands in Texas regularly classified and valued need not be sold for less than the valuation fixed though the "corrected and revised list of all unsold school lands" show school lands in a certain county to be valued at less.[16] Mandamus will lie to compel the issuance of a patent or certificate to one clearly entitled,[17] no exercise of discretion being involved.[18] Mandamus will not issue to compel the acceptance of an application where the right to purchase depends on a question of fact,[19] or where the records in the commissioner's office show the land to be claimed by another than the person seeking to compel the sale.[20]

Grants and patents.[21]—A patent is only prima facie evidence that steps leading up to its issue have been taken.[22] An original land patent is not void because not sealed with the lesser seal of the commonwealth.[23] A grant of land under water cate certificate under a mistaken belief that the original was lost, the latter survey having been abandoned when the original was found. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607.

11. McClallahan v. Marshall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 862. Must be filed in general land office. Id.

12. Laws of North Carolina in force in 1852 (Rev. St. 1837, c. 42), authorizing justices of the peace of a county to elect one person to receive entries of lands within such county, does not authorize him to receive entries for lands in another county. A grant based on such an entry is void. Bealmear v. Hutchins, 134 F. 257. Pub. Laws N. C. 1850-51, p. 99, does not confer jurisdiction on an entry taker living in one county to take entries of lands in another. Id.

13. The failure of the owner of a certificate for the entry of public land to make a written application or entry describing the land applied for. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607.

14. Failing to conform to the description embraced in an entry and application which substantially cover the body of land segregated. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607. That surveys made under a certificate of entry are not contiguous is an irregularity which the state alone can take advantage of. Id.

15. The regulations requiring applications to be in writing and on blanks furnished. Held that one having knowledge of such rule cannot claim to be a purchaser through letters and telegrams. Hornbeck v. Terrell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 485.

16. Wilson v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 818.

17. Note: When one has complied with the law in applying to purchase state lands, he is entitled to a deed or patent and mandamus will lie to compel its issue. Hubbard v. Auditor General, 120 Mich. 505, 79 N. W. 979. So it will lie to compel a commissioner of the general land office to reinstate relator as a purchaser of certain public lands, the award to him having been canceled (Hazelwood v. Rogan, 95 Tex. 295, 67 S. W. 80), and to force an entry taker to receive entry where he wrongfully refuses (Rainey v. Aydelette, 51 Tenn. 122). It will not lie, however, to compel the execution of a patent where a prior patent has been issued to another. Smithee v. Mosely, 31 Ark. 425. The ministerial duty of delivering a patent to a person entitled may be compelled by mandamus. United States v. Schurz, 102 U. S. 378, 26 Law. Ed. 167. See note to State v. Gardner [Wash.] 98 Am. St. Rep. 873.

18. In Michigan the discretion of the commissioner of the state land office in issuing a certificate of homestead entry is not reviewable on mandamus. Under Act No. 107, p. 154 of 1899, he may issue the certificate when "in his judgment the application is made in good faith." Beebe v. State Land Office Com'r [Mich.] 100 N. W. 128. In Kansas the county treasurer in receiving and receipting for purchase money of school lands acts ministerially and must accept a receipt for payment from one who presents a proper transcript from the probate judge though another has purchased the same lands. Scott v. Schwab [Kan.] 78 P. 443.

19. Commissioner asserted that the land had been previously sold to another. Clark v. Terrell [Tex.] 81 S. W. 4.

20. Under Act April 15, 1901, p. 253, c. 88, amending Act Feb. 23, 1900, p. 29, c. 11, § 6. Juencke v. Terrell [Tex.] 82 S. W. 1025.

21. See 2 Curr. L. 1310.

22. Proof that the affidavit of occupancy had not been so filed rebuts the presumption that precedent steps to authorize the issuance of a patent had been taken. McClallahan v. Marshall [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 862.

23. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491. A land office copy of a patent is admissible though it fails to show that the lesser seal of the commonwealth had ever been attached to the original. Virginia Coal & Iron Co. v. Keystone Coal & Iron Co., 101 Va. 723, 45 S. E. 291.

with the privilege to improve and fill in the same takes effect at the date of the grant.[24] Patents issued for land already located for and appropriated to the general school fund at the time of the locations and surveys upon which said patents were based are void,[25] and the unauthorized act of the commissioner of the general land office in issuing such patents does not operate as an estoppel against the state.[26]

Purchase of additional lands in Texas.[27]—An applicant for the purchase of additional land need not be an actual settler on the land applied for,[28] especially if it be a detached tract of less than 640 acres.[29] The Decker healing act validated an award of a home section as well as of additional lands to one who within six months after filing his application made actual settlement on the land.[30] The first applicant is entitled to the land.[31] An application for the purchase of additional lands must show the location of the home section of the applicant and that he is a resident thereon,[32] and must not be for more land than is authorized to be sold to one person,[33] or for land subject to a lease.[34] Mere clerical errors[35] or error in the name of the applicant not causing uncertainty will not invalidate it.[36] An award is prima facie evidence that all requirements of the law have been complied with, including classification and appraisal,[37] but not that the land is within the required distance of land owned and resided on or purchased and settled on by the applicant.[38] After an award of school lands, only the state can raise the issue of collusion.[39] An abandonment of actual residence and bona fide settlement on state school lands is only excused if caused by fear of death or serious bodily harm,[40] but it need not be such as would be given way to only by a man of ordinary prudence and courage.[41] Jurisdiction to determine whether an applicant is an actual settler is vested in the land department.[42]

24. A deed by the riparian commissioners of land below highwater mark "with the right and privilege * * * to exclude the tide water from so much of the land * * * as lies under the water by filling in or otherwise improving the same and to appropriate the lands under the water to the 'grantees' exclusive use" passes title to the land prior to the filling in. Burkhard v. Heinz Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 191.

25, 26. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607.

27. See 2 Curr. L. 1299, n. 45 et seq.

28. The right of an applicant to purchase additional lands is not impaired by the fact that in his application he, by mistake, described himself in the affidavit as an actual settler on such additional lands. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 4218fff. Ratliff v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 600.

29. Gen. Laws 27th Leg. p. 253, c. 88, was not repealed by Laws 27th Leg. p. 292, c. 88, §§ 7, 9. McGrady v. Terrell [Tex.] 84 S. W. 641. Whether detached at the time the statute so providing was enacted or subsequently became detached [Gen. Laws 27th Leg. p. 253, c. 88]. Id.

30. Evidence held sufficient to show actual settlement on the home section within six months after the application to purchase. Taylor v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1011.

31. In a school land case, evidence held to show that plaintiff's application to purchase reached the general land office first. Coody v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1233.

32. "Settlement is on No. 4," is insufficient. Goethal v. Read [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 592.

33. Goethal v. Read [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 592.

34. An application to purchase filed prior to the expiration of a lease is void and action on it by the land commissioner after the expiration of the lease confers no title on the applicant, a valid application having been filed in the meantime. Jones v. Lohman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1002.

35. In one place omitting the word "land" but showing that the applicant desired to purchase the "survey" in question for a home is admissible. Goethal v. Read [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 592.

36. Application by "Wm. Reed" is admissible in an action to establish title brought by W. M. Read where the record identified the plaintiff as the applicant. Goethal v. Read [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 592. "Read" and "Reed" are idem sonans. Id.

37. Stolley v. Lilwall [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 689. Proof of an award by the land commissioner establishes a prima facie case of ownership. Holt v. Cave [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 309.

38. Knippa v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 658. In trespass to try title, he must show these facts in order to establish a prima facie case. Id.

39. May v. Hollingsworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 841.

40, 41. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 569.

42. As to abandonment. Angle v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 231.

Rescissions, cancellations, forfeitures, and reversions.[43]—Generally speaking a grant or patent may be rescinded and canceled by the state for lack of any essential fact or act necessary to gain title.[44] One may contest the right of another to purchase swamp and over-flowed land though he shows no right in himself to purchase, nor in any way connects himself with it.[45] The date on which the constitution took effect is to be excluded in determining whether certificates required to be surveyed and returned to the land office within five years are barred.[46] In Arkansas the county court may, in its discretion, reject a sale of school land, but cannot exercise its authority in such manner as to prohibit a sale.[47] The grant of Texas school lands to Greer county reverted to the state when it was determined that the territory embraced within the county was not within the state but was in Oklahoma.[48]

Adjudication of title by courts.[49]—The superior court of California does not get jurisdiction of a state land contest by reason of a reference of the contest by the surveyor general unless action is also begun.[50] A power in a court to entertain an appeal from the board of land commissioners involving the prior right of purchase of tide lands and to try the case de novo does not give it power to determine what papers were on file in the commissioner's office.[51] The power of the Oregon land commissioners to settle disputes between occupants gives them power to waive a forfeiture by a purchaser of school land for nonpayment of the purchase-money notes.[52] In New York the court of claims has jurisdiction to determine the rights of one claiming under a patent without warranties and to disregard the defense of lack of warranty.[53] In New Jersey the validity of a grant of tide lands by riparian commissioners is to be determined at law rather than in equity.[54]

The defendant in a state land contest is not required to come into court and affirmatively set up his rights where the complainant does not state a prima facie case.[55] But if the complaint states facts which if proved would defeat his right, he must affirmatively aver and prove facts which entitle him to purchase.[56] It is

43. See 2 Curr. L. 1312.

44. See ante this section. Excessive subgrant by state as breach of condition in grant to it. See Nichols v. Southern Or. Co., 135 F. 232.

45. Polk v. Sleeper, 143 Cal. 70, 76 P. 819.

46. Const. 1876, art. 14, § 2, and Rev. St. 1879, arts. 3880, 3881, 3882, fixing April 18, 1876, as the date on which the constitution took effect. Eyl v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 607.

47. Under Kirby's Dig. §§ 7700, 7708. Ex parte Young [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1133.

48. The legal title to Texas lands patented to Greer county by Gen. Laws Texas 1883, c. 55, under the mistaken supposition that this county was Texas territory did not pass to the corporation subsequently organized out of such territory by Act Cong. May 4, 1896. On disappearance of the de facto county the title vested in the state of Texas. Greer County v. State, 25 S. Ct. 437.

49. See 2 Curr. L. 1313.

50. This must be followed by the commencement of an action and filing of a complaint showing that for some reason the defendant's certificate of purchase is invalid. Sharp v. Salisbury, 144 Cal. 721, 78 P. 282. Affidavit for the publication of summons in an action to foreclose the rights of the holder of a certificate for state lands held not to show that the foreclosure and judgment thereon were fraudulent. Id.

51. Whether the original application to purchase had been taken away and a forged one substituted. Squire v. Sidney [Wash.] 79 P. 469.

52. Hills' Ann. Laws 1892, §§ 3607, 3608. Robertson v. Low, 44 Or. 587, 77 P. 744. Waived by subsequently accepting payment though another application to purchase had been filed in the meantime. Id. Facts held to show waiver of forfeiture by a state. Miller v. Wattier, 44 Or. 347, 75 P. 209.

53. Wheeler v. State, 97 App. Div. 276, 90 N. Y. S. 18. Evidence held to show that the town of Hempstead had parted with its title to the land in question. Sandiford v. Hempstead, 97 App. Div. 163, 90 N. Y. S. 76. Evidence held to show that its title to "Post Lead" was extinguished by the fencing order of the town in 1659. Id.

54. Whether a grant of tide lands was ultra vires. Attorney General v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 348.

55. The fact that defendant has a certificate of purchase, that the plaintiff protested against the issuance to him of any further evidence of title and that an order for reference has been made is insufficient. Sharp v. Salisbury, 144 Cal. 721, 78 P. 282; Polk v. Sleeper, 143 Cal. 70, 76 P. 819. The defect in the affidavit or application to purchase relied on must be alleged. Id.

56. Polk v. Sleeper, 143 Cal. 70, 76 P. 819.

presumed that the commissioner of the general land office performed his duty with reference to the classification and appraisement of school lands actually sold.[57] The finding of fact of the death of the grantee of a conditional headright certificate by the county board of land commissioners and the issuance of an unconditional certificate to his administrator is not conclusive on the heirs of such grantee.[58]

§ 4. Interest and title of occupants, claimants, and patentees.[59] A. Federal lands. Possessory rights.[60]—The power of the United States to dispose of its public lands is absolute and the right of its grantee to possession on receiving the legal title cannot be obstructed or affected by any claim made under the law of any state.[61] The possession and improvements of a homestead entry man[62] or occupant of public lands[63] are valuable rights which he may legally convey. A homestead entryman acquires the privilege of pre-emption and the right and power to protect his entry from intrusion or trespass.[64] While as against the government he, perhaps, acquires no vested interest in the land allotted to him.[65] As against all others he acquires the right to an absolute and undisturbed possession.[66] An occupant has a right relative to which he may contract.[67] An entry on land already patented to another is a trespass.[68] It confers no rights on the occupant,[69] and a contract based on such entry is without consideration.[70] Statutes relative to possessory rights of one in possession of public lands with a view to acquiring title thereto do not apply to unoccupied land owned by an individual.[71]

The provisions in the law in restraint of alienation by the homestead entryman are strictly construed.[72] The alienation prohibited is an absolute alienation of the land or a part thereof.[73] A sale of standing timber is not an alienation of part of the land within the meaning of this law,[74] nor is a lease of short duration and for a specific purpose, e. g., lease of timber for turpentine purposes.[75] Such a lease is not against the policy of the government which is designed to secure for the homesteader the exclusive benefit of his homestead right.[76]

The pre-emptor has a right to assign after entry.[77]

Adverse possession[78] does not run against a patentee until patent issued,[79] but as against an action to recover land granted by congress to a railroad company, it runs from the time the company's title is perfect and nothing remains except to receive the final certificate.[80] Adverse possession will not give title to the right of

57. He being required by law to do so, a plaintiff in trespass to try title is not required to prove that the lands were classified and appraised. Corrigan v. Fitzsimmons [Tex.] 80 S. W. 989.

58. Buster v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1063.

59. Compare ante, § 1.

60. See 2 Curr. L. 1314.

61. Claim to improvements made by one in possession as against a patentee. Tegarden v. Le Marchel, 129 F. 487.

62. Holloway v. Miller [Miss.] 36 So. 531.

63. One in possession of public lands with an intention of acquiring title. Waring v. Loomis, 35 Wash. 85, 76 P. 510.

64. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561.

65, 66. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561.

67. Is based upon a consideration. Waring v. Loomis, 35 Wash. 85, 76 P. 510. Description of the land held sufficient as between the parties to a contract relative to their rights. Id.

68. Entry on land patented to a railroad company is ineffectual for the purpose of initiating a valid mining claim. Traphaagen v. Kirk [Mont.] 77 P. 58.

69. One in actual occupancy of land patented to a railroad company has no preferential right to purchase it by virtue of his occupancy. Cavanaugh v. Wholey, 143 Cal. 164, 76 P. 979.

70. Cannot be specifically enforced under Civ. Code, § 4417, providing that specific performance of a contract cannot be had unless it is based on an adequate consideration. Traphaagen v. Kirk [Mont.] 77 P. 58.

71. Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460.

72, 73, 74, 75, 76. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561.

77. Anthracite Mesa Coal-Min. Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 56

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1315.

79. Tegarden v. Le Marchel, 129 F. 487.

80. Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Fehring [Iowa] 101 N. W. 120.

way of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company.[81] As between two adverse claimants one of whom has initiated his claim in violation of the law and the other in obedience to it, the latter is favored.[82]

The legal title to a timber culture claim[83] or homestead[84] remains in the United States until patent issued, and if a claimant die before such date his heirs take as donees of the government,[85] but a patent issued relates back to the initiation of the claim[86] not only for the benefit of the entryman but for the benefit of those with whom he has dealt,[87] and validates and renders enforceable by the doctrine of estoppel contracts previously entered into with reference to the land.[88] The patentee may recover for a trespass between the initiation of his claim and patent issued,[89] and the United States cannot retain, as against its grantees, a sum recovered from trespassers between the selection of his claim and approval of such selection by the land department.[90]

A patent to a trustee conveys to him the legal title.[91] A patent is prima facie evidence that entry was made in good faith;[92] of the regularity of proceedings leading up to its issue;[93] and that the patentee named therein is the entryman.[94]

81. The act of April 28, 1904, was intended only to confirm title to lands held adversely outside the right of way. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 S. Ct. 302; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hasse, 25 S. Ct. 305.

82. One had made his settlement in advance of the time permitted. Watt v. Amos [Okl.] 79 P. 109.

83. Where the entryman died prior to its issue, his estate as such never became entitled to the property. Gould v. Tucker [S. D.] 100 N. W. 427.

84. The inchoate rights of a deceased homestead claimant, who dies before the issuance of, or before he has acquired a right to a patent, vest in his heirs, and cannot be sold by the administrator for the payment of his debts. Under U. S. Rev. St. §§ 2290, 2291 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1389, 1390). Towner v. Rodegeb, 33 Wash. 153, 74 P. 50. Where equitable interest of deceased vendee under contract of sale to him of school land has been treated as realty, and dower has been assigned to the widow therein, a deed issued to her for the portion so assigned in her own name, on payment by her pro tanto of the balance due on the purchase price, gives her no new rights as against the heirs, she taking the legal title as trustee for their benefit. Cutler v. Meeker [Neb.] 99 N. W. 514. A contract for the sale of a homestead by an entryman before he has made final proof or acquired a patent is not enforceable. Under U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1389, § 2290. Horsman v. Horsman, 43 Or. 83, 72 P. 698.

85. Under Act Cong. June 14, 1878 (20 Stat. 113), until receiving final certificate the entryman has no divisible interest. Kelsay v. Eaton [Or.] 76 P. 770.

86. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1. Where an entryman is permitted to amend his entry, the amendment to take effect as of the date of entry, the patent relates back to the date of the original entry. Quinn v. Baldwin Star Coal Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 552. An approval of an Indian's deed by the secretary of the interior has a retrospective effect and validates subsequent conveyances. Campbell v. Kansas Town Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 839.

87. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561. The assignee of a soldier's additional homestead certificate, upon filing an application for a specific tract, acquires an equitable, which ripens into a legal, title relating back to the date of application, upon issuance of the government patent. Gilbert v. McDonald [Minn.] 102 N. W. 712.

88. A turpentine lease. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561.

89. May recover the value of timber wrongfully cut. Peyton v. Desmond [C. C. A.] 129 F. 1. After patent issues such grantee may maintain damages for trespass committed after date of application but prior to confirmation. Gilbert v. McDonald [Minn.] 102 N. W. 712.

90. Grant of indemnity lands by 11 Stat. at L. c. 41, in aid of railway construction. United States v. Anderson, 194 U. S. 394, 48 Law. Ed. 1035.

91. The president of the board of trustees of a town may convey land patented to him in trust for the town though not authorized to do so by the corporate officials. Thomas v. Wilcox [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1072.

92. Evidence held insufficient to show fraud in a patentee where action was commenced 40 years after the alleged fraud and two lower courts had found that there was no fraud. United States v. Stinson, 25 S. Ct. 426. Purchasers of land are not required to go behind the patent to discover antecedent defects in the title. Bogart v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 633. One who would attack a patent for fraud or mistake of fact must plead and prove the evidence before the department from which it resulted, the particular mistake that was made, the way in which it occurred, and the fraud which induced it, before any court can enter upon the consideration of the original issue of fact determined by the department. Le Marchel v. Teegarden, 133 F. 826.

93. Act Cong. Feb. 26, 1895 (28 Stat. 683), providing that no patent shall be delivered to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company for any land in Montana or Idaho under the congressional grant until the land has been classified by mineral land commissioners as non-mineral. A patent to land classified as

Clear and convincing proof of its invalidity is required to disturb the title passed by it.[95] The title of a bona fide purchaser subsequent to the issue of patent is superior to the equitable claim of the United States to avoid the patent for fraud or error in their issue.[96] Bona fide purchasers of the equitable title evidenced by receiver's final receipts upon which patent subsequently issued have a complete defense unassailable by the United States to avoid the patent for fraud or error in its procurement.[97]

In a proceeding to declare a resulting trust, findings of the secretary of the interior made in a contest and attached to the petition are conclusive on demurrer.[98] The demurrer will be sustained if the secretary's judgment is consistent with all his findings.[99]

A contract by a preemptor of Federal lands to pay another one-fourth the amount of a sale of the lands at a proper value after title secured in consideration of one-fourth of the expenses of final proof is valid.[1]

One who procures the relinquishment of a homestead entry and himself enters the same land is bound by the terms of a contract entered into by the prior entryman to convey a specified tract for church and cemetery purposes.[2]

The exemption from debts until issuance of final certificate is applicable to tree claims and will be enforced in state as well as in Federal courts.[3]

That an unsuccessful contestant institutes proceedings asking the secretary of the interior to exercise his supervisory powers and reopen the case is not a bar to forcible entry and detainer by the successful contestant.[4] Bona fide purchasers will be protected against a successful contestant who has made no declaration of homestead nor paid fees for the land and the good faith of his action in bringing a suit to have them declared trustees is questionable.[5]

A selection of indemnity lands in an unsectionized township where the selection is liable to be defeated because of adverse claims or because the land was mineral in its character confers no rights.[6] A selection of a town lot in a projected townsite does not vest in the person making the selection a right superior to the rights of the public.[7]

Area acquired and boundaries.[8]—A patent is not rendered void because including a greater number of acres than called for by metes and bounds.[9] A patent non-mineral is conclusive as to its character in the absence of fraud, imposition or mistake. Traphaagen v. Kirk [Mont.] 77 P. 58.

94. Where it is claimed that an entry was made by a particular person but that in issuing the certificate and patent a wrong name was used, before a court can vest title in the claimant it must be shown that he is the person who made the entry. Martin v. Brand, 182 Mo. 116, 81 S. W. 443.

95. Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808.

96. United States v. Detroit Timber & Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 668.

97. United States v. Detroit Timber & Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 668. Receivers' final receipts are notice to purchasers of the equitable title they evidence that they are voidable by the Land Department for fraud at any time prior to patent issued but they are not notice that the equitable titles they disclose were procured by fraud or other irregularity but on the other hand are prima facie evidence that the land they describe was honestly and regularly entered and that the entryman is entitled to a patent. Id.

98, 99. McCalla v. Acker [Okl.] 78 P. 223.

1. Gross v. Hafemann, 92 Minn. 367, 100 N. W. 1, following 91 Minn. 1, 97 N. W. 430.

2. Eimer v. Wellsand [Minn.] 101 N. W. 612.

3. Act Cong. March 3, 1891, c. 561 (26 Stat. 1095), providing for this exemption is a substantial re-enactment of Rev. St. U. S. 1878, § 2468. Gould v. Tucker [S. D.] 100 N. W. 427.

4. Smith v. Finger [Okl.] 79 P. 759.

5. Graham v. Great Falls Water Power & Town-Site Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 808.

6. Land selected under Act Cong. June 4, 1897 (30 Stat. 36), providing that owners of land included within forest reservations might relinquish it and select another tract in lieu. Peters v. Van Horn [Wash.] 79 P. 1110.

7. Will not prevail against the rights of the town to use the lot as a public street under a subsequent survey approved by the Act of May 14, 1890. Oklahoma City v. McMaster, 25 S. Ct. 324.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1318.

9, 10. Goff v. Lowe, 25 Ky. L. R. 2176, 80 S. W. 219.

excluding from the lands granted prior patents amounting to a designated number of acres need not describe the patents.[10] Where the description in two patents conflicts, the senior will prevail.[11] In locating the lines of subdivisions of a government survey, the courses, distances, and monuments given in the field notes of the government surveyor should be followed without regard to whether more land is given to one subdivision than to another.[12] A diagram from the office of the secretary of the interior certified to by the acting commissioner of the general land office is to be taken as prima facie to correctly indicate the limits of the grant,[13] and is not overcome by unofficial maps and plats filed in the office of the governor or secretary of state.[14] Where the remainder of a subdivision is shown to be the waters of a navigable stream, a patentee in a patent purporting to convey up to the meander line takes title to the stream,[15] and where he takes possession of the land between a meander line and the stream, his title and possession will be protected as against persons not claiming from the government though the government has not been paid for such land.[16] In such case no one but the government or its grantee can question his title or right to possession.[17] Grants of public lands are construed most favorably to the grantor.[18]

Mode of proving title.[19]—It is permissible to show that the certificate was seen in the hands of a particular person as tending to show that he made the entry though the certificate and patent were issued in another name.[20]

Indian allotments are fully covered in a prior article.[21]

(§ 4) B. State lands.[22] Possessory rights.[23]—One lawfully in possession of school lands and having improvements thereon has a right as against a subsequent purchaser to retain possession until paid therefor.[24] A patentee in a grant conferring constructive seisin may maintain ejectment without proof of seisin in fact.[25] In Texas a purchaser from one holding a certificate of occupancy has a good defense to an action by the state to cancel the sale for nonoccupancy.[26] In that state a homestead claimant under the act of February 23, 1900, has a title superior to one who purchases the same tract as school land,[27] and if he is able to show that he comes within the class protected by that act the fact that field notes filed in the land office have disappeared does not affect his rights.[28] In Washington the preference right of an abutting owner on tide lands to purchase must be availed of within the time limited by law,[29] as must the right of appeal by an owner whose property is affected by a sale or lease of state shore lands.[30] In California the

11. Senior patent was issued before entry or survey of the land included in the latter. Moore v. Mauney, 25 Ky. L. R. 2274, 80 S. W. 458.

12. Yolo County v. Nolan, 144 Cal. 445, 77 P. 1006.

13, 14. Eastern Oregon Land Co. v. Andrews [Or.] 77 P. 117.

15, 16, 17. Johnson v. Hurst [Idaho] 77 P. 784.

18. Act Cong. Feb. 13, 1891 (26 Stat. 748), granting to the state of Montana a portion of a former military reservation to be selected "so as to embrace the buildings and improvements thereon" did not carry the right to use the water of a stream from which the government had taken water by means of a ditch across other lands. Story v. Woolverton [Mont.] 78 P. 589. A grant, "to embrace buildings thereon," "embrace" means to encircle. Id.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1318.

20. Martin v. Brand, 182 Mo. 116, 81 S. W. 443.

21. See Indians, 3 Curr. L. 1707.

22, 23. See 2 Curr. L. 1319.

24. Brummett v. Campbell, 32 Wash. 358, 73 P. 403.

25. Howdashell v. Krenning [Va.] 48 S. E. 491.

26. State v. Hughes [Tex.] 80 S. W. 524.

27, 28. Lane v. Huffman [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1070.

29. Under Sess. Laws 1901, p. 294, c. 138, he had until July 1, 1902. McNaught-Collins Imp. Co. v. Atlantic & P. Pile & Timber Preserving Co., 36 Wash. 669, 79 P. 484.

30. Under Laws 1901, p. 98, c. 62, he must appeal from the order of the board of land commissioners within thirty days. McNaughton-Collins Imp. Co. v. Atlantic & P. Pile & Timber Preserving Co., 36 Wash. 669, 79 P. 484. Denial of resale of a right to lease tide land, by the board of land commissioners, held, under the circumstances of this case, an executive act and not appealable to the circuit court under Laws 1901, p. 98, c. 62. Id.

right of purchasers of swamp and overflowed lands to recover from the state the amount expended in reclamation is an absolute right.[31] Statutes providing for this recovery create a contract between the state and the purchasers,[32] and statutes providing for the payment are a fulfillment of the contract.[33]

Area acquired and boundaries.[34]—The grant by Texas to the Federal government of specific lands devoted to the purposes of public defense did not deprive the state of her right to the waters for three leagues from the shore nor entitle the Federal government to lands attached by accretion.[35] A patentee takes subject to easements granted by the state.[36]

Mode of proving title.[37]—One assailing the validity of a sale by the state as against the vendee in possession has the burden of proof[38] which is not met by evidence that at the date of the sale the land was subject to a lease.[39] One claiming under the United States must, as against the state, show that the state has parted with its title.[40] After transfers of school land have become archives in the general land office, the original copies cannot be used as evidence.[41]

§ 5. Leases of public lands and rights thereunder.[42]—In Texas prior to 1895, the commissioner of the general land office could lease the same land to former lessees who had forfeited their leases.[43] The statute forbidding this practice until arrears in rent were fully paid has no retrospective operation.[44] The commissioner has no power to issue a new lease while a prior one is still in force,[45] nor to cancel constituent leases on the execution of a consolidated lease covering the lands embraced within them,[46] nor has he power to execute such consolidated lease,[47] and payments of rent thereon should be applied to the constituent leases;[48] but such consolidated lease is valid as to lands not embraced within the constituent leases.[49] He cannot reinstate a canceled lease.[50] The date of execution of a lease is excluded in computing the time of its operation.[51]

The cancellation of a lease cannot be shown by the deposition of the land commissioner but only by a copy furnished as required by law.[52]

31. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104. St. 1893, p. 342, c. 229, § 6, providing that lands susceptible of reclamation "by reason of periodical overflow" establisbes the test whereby to determine what lands are "swamp and overflowed" and enables the purchasers to avail themselves of the provisions of Pol. Code, §§ 3446-3491. Id.

32. Statutes 1893, p. 342, c. 229, § 6, providing for the repayment to purchasers of swamp lands of their payments made in purchase of the land, after reclamation had been completed. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104.

33. St. 1899, p. 182, c. 149, not objectionable as a gift of public money. McCord v. Slavin, 143 Cal. 325, 76 P. 1104.

34. See 2 Curr. L. 1321.

35. State v. Jadwin [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 490.

36. Under Act 1882, No. 84, p. 106, "any person, company or corporation" is authorized to build a railroad through state lands. A purchaser of land subsequent to the building of a railroad through it cannot recover compensation. Friedrichs v. New Orleans Belt & Terminal Co. [La.] 38 So. 32.

37. See 2 Curr. L. 1321.

38. Jones v. Wright [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1053.

39. Under Act 1895, p. 63, c. 47, a sale could be made with the consent of the lessee. Jones v. Wright [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1053.

40. Evidence held to show that land in question did not pass to the United States under the cession. State v. Jadwin [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 490.

41. Proof of such fact warrants the introduction of certified copies. Tolleson v. Wagner [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 846.

42. See 2 Curr. L. 1322.

43. Act April 1, 1887, does not forbid it. Angle v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 231.

44. Section 20 of this act providing for the cancellation of the original leases and the execution of new ones on security being given for the back rent does not affect the construction placed upon this act [Rev. St. 1895, art. 4218v]. Angle v. Terrell [Tex.] 80 S. W. 231.

45. Where a lessee intended to forfeit his old lease and have a payment of rent made while it was still in force apply on a new lease applied for, the year's rental deposited should be applied on the old lease. Thomson Bros. v. Lynn [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 330.

46, 47, 48, 49. Scott v. Slaughter [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 643.

50. Wilson v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 818.

51. Jones v. Lohman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1002.

52. Under Sayles' Rev. St. 1897, art. 4218v, and art. 308. Bradford v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 392.

It will not be presumed that the commissioner did not consent to the transfer of a lease.[53] Where the commissioner did not claim a forfeiture on the grounds of want of consent to assign, the assignee cannot set up such want of consent to defeat his contract.[54]

In Colorado leases procured by fraud may be canceled by the state board of land commissioners.[55] The authority to cancel such leases is not a judicial power.[56]

§ 6. Spanish and other grants antedating Federal authority.[57]—Title under a Spanish grant passes on the date of confirmation of the survey.[58] The confirmation of a Mexican grant need not be approved by the land department.[59] The finality of a decree of the district court confirming a Mexican grant is not affected by a mere application for an appeal.[60] A purchaser from the Mexican government may alienate his concession before the lands have been selected.[61] The title to an imperfect Spanish or Mexican grant was, at the date of the treaty, vested in the United States,[62] and does not pass out of it except by legal survey and patent issued,[63] and until such time the land is not subject to territorial taxation.[64]

The protocol of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, stating that the suppression of the 10th article was not intended to annul Mexican grants in ceded territories but that these should preserve the legal value which they possess, refers to titles existing in Texas at the time of the treaty and not to titles to lands embraced in the treaty.[65] In the construction of those provisions of a treaty that provide for the protection of property of owners within the ceded territory, the term "property" embraces all rights, legal, equitable, or imperfect,[66] but rights claimed by virtue thereof cannot be adjudicated until a remedy is provided by the political department.[67] The laws providing for the testing of titles emanating from the Spanish or Mexican governments includes equitable titles having their origin in a grant by the Mexican government.[68] This statute does not of itself confirm any grant,[69] nor can a presumption of grant be indulged in, in order to authorize a confirmation.[70] Rights will be adjudicated according to the laws of Mexico in force when the right was acquired,[71] and where the record evidence as to whether

53. On which to base a forfeiture. Scott v. Slaughter [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 643.

54. Scott v. Slaughter [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 643.

55. Evidence held to show fraud [Mills' Ann. St. § 3637]. American Sulphur & Min. Co. v. Brennan [Colo. App.] 79 P. 750.

56. A statute conferring it does not confer a judicial power. American Sulphur & Min. Co. v. Brennan [Colo. App.] 79 P. 750.

57. See 2 Curr. L. 1324.

58. A Spanish grant, based on settlement and cultivation was confirmed by Act Cong. May 4, 1826 (4 Stat. 159). The tract was subsequently surveyed in accordance with the statutes and the survey approved by the surveyor general of Louisiana in 1856, but patent did not issue until 1873. Held, title passed on confirmation of the survey and was not held in abeyance until patent issued. Levy v. Gause, 112 La. 789, 36 So. 684.

59. This did not change its effect as a withdrawal of the land from the operation of a railroad grant nor did the fact that it was subsequently disapproved and a new survey ordered. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 662.

60. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 662.

61. Surghenor v. Ranger [C. C. A.] 133 F. 453.

62. Territory v. Delinquent Tax List [N. M.] 76 P. 316.

63. Under land court act (26 Stat. 858) not by decree of the court of private land claims. Territory v. Delinquent Tax List [N. M.] 76 P. 316.

64. Territory v. Delinquent Tax List [N. M.] 76 P. 316.

65. Does not affect article 8, that property of every kind belonging to Mexicans shall be inviolably respected. Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029; State v. Russell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 288.

66. The provision in the Guadalupe Hidalgo treaty that Mexican grants in ceded territory shall preserve their legal value, etc., is applicable to equitable titles. Titles which could have been perfected had there been no change of sovereignty. State v. Russell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 288; Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029.

67. State v. Russell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 288; Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029.

68. Sp. Laws 1901, p. 4, c. 4. State v. Russell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 288; Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029.

69. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 4, c. 4.

70. Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029.

71. The courts will take judicial notice of necessary steps to acquire title had been taken cannot be produced, parol evidence is admissible.[72] Under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo the governor of Tamaulipas had no power on Jan. 2, 1848, to grant land east of the Rio Grande.[73] The fact that an applicant for the purchase of Mexican lands was in possession when the lands were denounced is sufficient to dispense with juridical possession.[74] One who had denounced land but had not paid the amount required by Decree No. 24 of the state of Tamaulipas did not have a title protected by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, and the documents evidencing the grant are not evidence of the facts recited therein in behalf of those claiming under them.[75]

§ 7. Regulations and policing, and offenses pertaining to public lands.[76]—State police regulations relative to the keeping of live stock extends over the public lands of the United States within a state.[77]

Cutting timber on public lands.[78]—A homestead entryman may cut such timber as is necessary to clear the land for cultivation, or to erect buildings or fences and perhaps exchange such timber for lumber to be devoted to such purposes,[79] but may not sell for money except so much as has been cut for the purposes of cultivation,[80] though the fact that a profit incidently results does not render the sale void.[81] The fact that timber removed from mineral lands is manufactured and sold as an article of commerce does not make the taking unlawful,[82] nor can it be made so by a rule of the secretary of the interior,[83] since he has no power to deprive one entitled of the right to take.[84]

The right of the United States to recover is confined to damages for the trespass, or in trover for the value of the manufactured product and a suit in equity for an accounting cannot be maintained.[85] A bill against several persons does not state a cause of action in equity for an accounting because it alleges that by reason of the complicated relations between the defendants it is impossible to state the quantity taken by each,[86] or because of an allegation that under cover of licenses to cut timber on certain land, the defendants willfully cut from other lands.[87] Nor is such a suit maintainable on the theory of establishing a trust in property purchased with the proceeds of the timber taken, it not being alleged that defendants are insolvent.[88] If the trespass was not willful, only the stumpage value can be recovered.[89]

those laws. Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029. Where at the time of the location the settler had neither a legal nor equitable title within the protection of the treaty or of the laws of Texas existing at the time or within the protection of the act of 1901, the state can recover the lands. Id.

72. Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029. Evidence held to show that an applicant for the purchase of Mexican lands had complied with the requirements of the laws of that nation. Id.

73. Texas claim to the territory having been perfected by possession in 1846. Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029.

74, 75. Haynes v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1029.

76. See 2 Curr. L. 1326.

77. Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1326.

79. See 2 Curr. L. 1326, n. 17 et seq. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561.

80. Orrell v. Bay Mfg. Co., 83 Miss. 800, 36 So. 561.

81. Under Rev. Stat. U. S. § 2291, requiring an affidavit that no part of the land has been allenated and section 2461, making it a crime to remove timber from the public lands. King-Ryder Lumber Co. v. Scott [Ark.] 84 S. W. 487.

82. Under Act June 3, 1878. United States v. Rossi [C. C. A.] 133 F. 380. Where the taking was justified under this act it was proper to show the mineral character of the land from which the timber was taken and also of adjoining lands. Id.

83. He has power to promulgate rules prescribing the manner of taking so as to preserve the undergrowth. United States v. Rossi [C. C. A.] 133 F. 380.

84. Under the act of June 3, 1878, timber can be taken for smelting purposes. United States v. United Verde Copper Co., 25 S. Ct. 222. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1326, n. 16.

85, 86, 87, 88. United States v. Bitter Root Development Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 274.

89. Bark taken from trees on the public domain under a misapprehension as to the true boundary held not willful trespass. Trespasser liable only for stumpage value of bark. United States v. McKee, 128 F. 1002. See, also, 2 Curr. L. 1327, n. 29 et seq.

A purchaser of timber cut from state lands by a trespasser acquires no title.[90] He cannot defend an action of replevin by the vendee of the state trespass agent on the ground that the vendee's title from the state is defective.[91]

Crimes and offenses against public lands.[92]—The Act of Congress providing that the secretary of the interior may make rules and regulations concerning the occupancy and for the preservation of forest reservations, the violation of which shall be punished, is not a delegation of legislative power.[93] A conspiracy to defraud the United States of a portion of the public lands is complete when the conspiracy is established and an overt act committed.[94] The making of a false verified statement under the timber and stone act that the land acquired is not for the benefit of any other person is a criminal offense though the agreement whereby the land entered was to inure to the benefit of another be within the statute of frauds.[95] The intent and motive of the entrymen in making the entries is the material question in issue.[96] Indictments against the same person for conspiracy by means of illegal entries by different persons may be consolidated for trial.[97] An allegation charging that defendants did unlawfully conspire together to defraud the United States out of a portion of its public lands on homestead entry, etc., included all proceedings as a whole necessary to complete the transfer of title.[98] It would be implied from such allegation that the affidavits and proofs were such as are required by law to entitle an entryman to a patent and that such affidavits and proofs were false.[99] An allegation that defendants did unlawfully conspire to defraud the United States out of a portion of its public lands by "procuring persons" to make fraudulent entries is not inconsistent with a further allegation as to overt acts charged showing that false proofs and entries were made by defendants themselves.[100] Where the overt act charged was the causing of an illegal entry of a certain described tract by a named person evidence that the defendants induced the entry of other tracts by different persons at the same time is competent in proof of conspiracy and fraudulent motive.[101] A special agent of the general land office whether appointed by the secretary of the interior or by the commissioner of the general land office is not an officer of the United States.[102]

PUBLIC WORKS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

§ 1. Definitions and Scope of Title (1125).
§ 2. Power, Duty, and Occasion to Order or Make Improvements (1125).
§ 3. Funds for Improvement and Provision for Cost (1126).
§ 4. Proceedings to Authorize Making (1129).
A. In General (1129).
B. By Whom, and How Initiated (1130).
C. Notice and Hearing (1131).
D. Protests and Remonstrances (1131).
E. Estimates of Cost (1132).
F. Necessity and Contents of Ordinance or Resolution (1132).
G. Curative Legislation and Ratification (1134).
§ 5. Proposals, Contracts, and Bonds (1135).
§ 6. Security to Laborers and Materialmen (1138).
§ 7. Injury to Property and Compensation to Owners (1139).

90, 91. Raber v. Hyde [Mich.] 101 N. W. 61.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1327.

93. 30 Stat. 35. Criminal prosecution and punishment provided by 25 Stat. 166. Dent v. U. S. [Ariz.] 76 P. 455.

94. It is not a fatal variance where several were charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States out of lands to show that only a part of them shared in the benefit. Olson v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 849.

95. Olson v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 849.

96. Where they are placed on the stand by the prosecution, the defendants may cross-examine as to whether they had made contracts to sell the lands. Olson v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 849. Evidence as to the value of the timber on the land is admissible as bearing on the bona fides of the entry and conveyance by the entryman. Id.

97. They are for the same class of offenses [Rev. St. § 1024]. Olson v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 849.

98, 99, 100. United States v. Cunningham, 129 F. 833.

101. Olson v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 849.

102. Not subject to indictment and prosecution for extortion under color of his office as provided in Rev. St. U. S. § 5481. United States v. Schlierholz, 133 F. 333.

A. In General (1139).
B. Establishment or Change of Grade of Street (1140).
§ 8. Local Assessments (1141).
A. General Principles (1141). Due Process of Law (1144).
B. Assessing and Levying Officers (1145).
C. Persons, Property, and Districts Liable (1146).
D. Amount of Individual Assessment, and Offsetting of Benefits and Damages (1148).
E. The Assessment Roll or Report, and Objections Thereto; Approval or Confirmation Thereto (1149). Judicial Confirmation (1150).
F. Equalization (1151).
G. Reassessment and Additional Assessments (1151).
H. Maturity, Obligation, and Lien of Assessments (1154).
I. Payment and Discharge (1155).
J. Enforcement and Collection (1156). Notice (1158). Limitations (1158). Pleading and Proof (1158). Defenses (1159). Waiver and Estoppel to Urge Defenses (1160). The Judgment (1161). The Sale and Redemption (1162).
K. Remedies by Injunction or Other Collateral Attack, and Grounds Therefor (1163).
L. Appeal and Other Direct Review (1164).

§ 1. Definitions and scope of title.[1]—This article treats generally of public works and improvements, the powers and duties of municipalities in respect thereto, the procedure to be followed in the making thereof, and the manner of providing for the cost, including local assessments.[2] The taking of property for public works,[3] the construction and operation of particular public works,[4] and matters peculiar to the powers and fiscal affairs of particular public bodies,[5] are specifically treated elsewhere. While the manner of letting a contract for a public work, and the validity of provisions peculiar to contracts of this kind, are here treated, matters pertaining to the making and validity of public contracts in general are not included.[6] The liability of municipalities for negligence in construction of a work is also excluded.[7]

§ 2. Power, duty, and occasion to order or make improvements.[8]—Municipalities have only such power to order or make public improvements as is expressly or impliedly conferred by statute.[9] The exercise of powers, clearly granted, by the proper municipal authorities, in determining the necessity, time, and place, and plan, of a particular improvement, is discretionary, and will not be interfered with by the courts[10] in the absence of a manifest abuse.[11] The power so conferred can-

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1328.

2. As distinguished from topics like Highways and Streets (see 3 Curr. L. 1593) they treat of the structure and use of specific public places and improvements while the present title is devoted chiefly to fiscal and economic questions.

3. See Eminent Domain, 3 Curr. L. 1189.

4. See Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1593; Sewers and Drains, 2 Curr. L. 1628; Waters and Water Supply, 2 Curr. L. 2034.

5. See Counties, 3 Curr. L. 959; Municipal Corporations, 4 Curr. L. 720; Towns, 2 Curr. L. 1877; States, 2 Curr. L. 1703.

6. See Public Contracts, 4 Curr. L. 1089; Building and Construction Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 550.

7. See Negligence, 4 Curr. L. 764; Municipal Corporations, 4 Curr. L. 720; Independent Contractors, 3 Curr. L. 1702.

8. See 2 Curr. L. 1328.

9. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 5989, cities of the fourth class have power to condemn and order removal of sidewalks. Scott v. Marshall [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 98. Code, § 782, authorizes cities and towns to establish street grades without reference to sidewalks, thus giving them power to grade the portion of streets reserved for walks and parking purposes. Gallaher v. Jefferson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 124. The general power to improve streets, under Code § 792, includes the power to construct a strip of parking along the center of the driveway, to curb the same, and assess the cost to abutting owners. Downing v. Des Moines, 124 Iowa, 289, 99 N. W. 1066. The statutory proceeding to improve streets applies not only to the improvement of the street as a highway but also to the laying of water pipes. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884. Authority to build a street gives council power to lay a drain necessary to the completion of the work, though that might have been done under a different law or in a different way. Burke v. Wapakoneta, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482. A city or village in Ohio may build a pest house outside its corporate limits without consent of the township within which it is located [Rev. St. §§ 2142, 2169]. City of Lorain v. Rolling, 24 Ohio Circ. R. 82. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1840, the fiscal court has power to install an elevator in a county court house. Simons v. Gregory [Ky.] 85 S. W. 751. Charter gave city power to acquire land for fire house without previously or at the time providing for erection of building thereon. City of Santa Barbara v. Davis, 142 Cal. 669, 76 P. 495. Purchase of land by city presumed to have been in good faith for a site for an engine house, and its action cannot be attacked on the ground that there was no intention to erect such building. Id.

10. Scott v. Marshall [Mo. App.] 85 S. W.

not be delegated, but the functions of the municipal legislative body are not delegated by the appointment of agents to carry on the actual work.[12] Such agents are also confined to the authority given, which may be implied[13] but not proven by parol,[14] nor derived from a city which itself lacks power to make the particular improvement.[15] A statute which creates a board of public works and directs the preliminary steps in the making of an improvement to be taken by it, such steps to be approved by an ordinance passed by the council after a hearing, does not deprive a city of control over its local affairs.[16]

The drainage and reclamation of large tracts of swamp and overflowed or submerged lands is a matter of general public utility and concern, for which the legislature may provide by the creation of local administrative organizations or political corporations.[17] If two cities have unreasonably neglected their duty relative to the maintaining of a bridge between them, it is within the power of the legislature to compel compliance with the regulations of law, Federal and state, by appointing a commission with power to remove an existing bridge and replace it with a new one.[18]

§ 3. Funds for improvement and provision for cost.[19]—Municipalities have

98. Ordinance condemning a sidewalk and ordering construction of a new one held proper under Rev. St. 1899, § 5991. Id. When power is given a city to provide works of public improvement it is ordinarily within the discretion of the council to determine when and where the work shall be done and to provide the plan thereof. Downing v. Des Moines, 124 Iowa, 289, 99 N. W. 1066. The question of the necessity of a local improvement is for the council, and the courts will not prevent the construction of an improvement unless the ordinance providing therefor is so unreasonable as to be void. Clark v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 358. County board itself is the judge of the necessity of repairs on court house and whether finances justify such repairs, under Rev. St. c. 34, § 26, prescribing its duties in this regard. Cole County v. Goehring, 209 Ill. 142, 70 N. E. 610. The fact that a street which had been macadamized was repaired with asphalt is not such evidence of fraud or abuse of power as to warrant a court in interfering with the action of the city council, especially where it appeared that the macadam was out of repair. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 48 Law. Ed. 1142. The municipal authorities are the best judges of the necessity for the improvement of streets and alleys, and the opinion of a witness that an improvement is unnecessary will not warrant the court in reviewing their decision. Jones v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 92, 72 N. E. 798. The legislature, with the consent of the city, having provided for the erection of a monument in a certain square, the courts will not interfere on the ground that the proposed location is improper. Locke v. Buffalo, 97 App. Div. 483, 90 N. Y. S. 550.

11. It is the duty of a council in constructing a street improvement to avoid any abuse of discretion as to character or cost, and to exercise good judgment in making the improvement permanent, and to require work to be done in a workmanlike manner, without extravagance. Burke v. Wapakoneta, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482. Taking up brick walk in good repair and ordering cement walk relaid, the only object being to correct the grade and slope of the walk, held an abuse of discretion, warranting an injunction. Detmers v. Columbus, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 657.

12. A council does not delegate its functions to the city engineer by directing him by ordinance to fix the grade of a sewer. Rich v. Woods, 26 Ky. L. R. 799, 82 S. W. 578. Council has power to appoint engineer to take charge of improvement. Burke v. Wapakoneta, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482. Buffalo park commissioners may delegate to the department of public works the actual work of diverting and re-enforcing sewers passing through a public square. Locke v. Buffalo, 97 App. Div. 483, 90 N. Y. S. 550. An ordinance for street improvement is not void because an infinitesimal portion of the work is left to the discretion of the proper city officials. Swift v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 80, 79 S. W. 172.

13. Authority to make street improvement is conferred upon the directors of public service by the passage of the semi-annual appropriation ordinance, authorized by statute, containing among other things an appropriation for work and labor necessary in making such improvement. State v. Roebuck, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 688.

14. Authority to construct a sewer cannot be shown by parol, no such authority appearing on the records of the officers concerned. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

15. A city of the fifth class in Kentucky having no power to construct a sidewalk on private property without compensating the owner, an ordinance declaring the necessity of such work and directing that it be done, could not confer authority on the city's agents. City of Clinton v. Franklin, 26 Ky. L. R. 1056, 83 S. W. 140.

16. Statute creating Denver board is valid. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117.

17. Neal v. Vansickel [Neb.] 100 N. W. 200.

18. In re Opinion of the Justices [Me.] 60 A. 85.

19. See 2 Curr. L. 1330.

no power to provide for the cost of local improvements by special assessments unless such power has been expressly conferred by the legislature.[20] Statutes delegating the power are strictly construed,[21] and the provisions of law prescribing the purposes for which the power may be used, and the manner and mode of its exercise, are mandatory, and must be complied with.[22] An attempt to employ a method other than that provided by statute is without jurisdiction and void.[23] None of the prescribed steps can be taken by officers other than those designated.[24] Where, as in Iowa, an assessment can be made only through the medium of an ordinance, the ordinance providing for a work must also provide for an assessment for the cost.[25] The assessment must be made within the time prescribed by law,[26] and must be, by some laws, preceded by a valid contract for the work.[27] Statutes compelling lot owners to make sidewalk improvements and authorizing liens upon property when the improvement is made by the municipality are to be strictly construed.[28]

The cost of an improvement may be met by an issue of bonds if power to issue bonds exists.[29] An issue of bonds cannot be authorized by special legislation con-

20. Allen v. Davenport [C. C. A.] 132 F. 209. The repeal of a statute authorizing assessments by the front-foot rule, and not according to benefits, renders invalid an ordinance pursuant to such statute. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 99 N. W. 557. West Chicago Park Commissioners constitute a corporation authorized to levy special assessments for park purposes under Park Act §§ 1, 2, and may follow the provisions of the local improvement act in the return and collection of assessments. Cummings v. People, 213 Ill. 443, 72 N. E. 1094. Township of East Orange commenced construction of a drain for drainage of swamp lands, in January, 1899, was incorporated as a city in December, 1899, and finished the drain in 1901. The revised township act of 1900 repealed the drainage and sewage act under which construction was commenced. Held, city could not levy an assessment to pay for construction of drain. City of East Orange v. Hussey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1060. Statutes authorizing cities and villages to make local improvements by special assessments are amendatory of the incorporation act and hence of the charters of cities and villages, within the meaning of Const. 1870, art. 4, § 22, prohibiting amendment of such charters by local or special laws. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399.

21. Miserney v. People, 208 Ill. 646, 70 N. E. 678.

22. Allen v. Davenport [C. C. A.] 132 F. 209.

23. City of Bluffton v. Miller, 33 Ind. App. 521, 70 N. E. 989.

24. Power to select the kind of paving materials to be used cannot be delegated by council to engineer. City of Bluffton v. Miller, 33 Ind. App. 521, 70 N. E. 989. Proceedings to open a street cannot, in New York, be joined with those to improve the same, and commissioners appointed to assess benefits for the opening of the street have no power to assess for the grading of it. In re Locust Ave., 93 App. Div. 416, 87 N. Y. S. 798. The assessment for improvement being wholly void, the commissioners' report must be thrown out entirely, and could not be recommitted to them for correction, this being an error going to the jurisdiction of the board. Id.

25. Where an improvement was ordered, the contract let, and work completed, under an ordinance which did not provide for an assessment to pay the cost, no assessment therefor could be made by a retroactive ordinance. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 99 N. W. 557.

26. An ordinance appropriating damages and costs of a public improvement is valid if passed at the first session of the council after the report of the judgment by the clerk, though not at the first meeting. City of St. Joseph v. Truckenmiller, 183 Mo. 9, 81 S. W. 1116. In Massachusetts an assessment of betterments must be made within two years from the passage of the original order. This means two years from the time of the approval of the mayor, or from the time of passage over his objections, if he objects, or at the expiration of 10 days after the original passage if the mayor takes no action. Quinn v. Cambridge [Mass.] 73 N. E. 661.

27. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 4362, 4393a, town trustees have no authority to levy taxes for water and lighting until contracts therefor have been actually made. Brewer v. Bridges [Ind.] 73 N. E. 811. Special assessment invalid where contract for paving had been declared void by Iowa supreme court before work was done, valid contract being required by Acts 25th Gen. Assem. Iowa, c. 7, p. 18. Allen v. Davenport [C. C. A.] 132 F. 209.

28. Town of Greendale v. Suit [Ind.] 71 N. E. 658. A statute authorizing assessments upon lots for sidewalk improvements made by the municipality does not authorize an assessment upon lands which have not been divided into lots. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4394 et seq., construed. Town of Greendale v. Suit [Ind.] 71 N. E. 658. Under 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 857, the bill for cost of a sidewalk built by the city on failure of the property owner to do so must set out the cost of grading, materials, laying and supervision in separate items, or the special tax levied therefor will be invalid. Miservey v. People, 208 Ill. 646, 70 N. E. 678.

29. A county may issue bonds to pay for its share of the cost of a highway. County Law, § 12, subd. 6. Ontario County v. Shepard, 91 N. Y. S. 611.

trary to the constitution.[30] The validity of such a statute may be contested by a bidder to whom the bonds have been awarded and who has made the required deposit with his bid, the trustees having refused to return his deposit on the ground of invalidity of the statute.[31] Certificates[32] or bonds, payable out of special assessments,[33] or pledging special assessments,[34] do not render the municipality issuing them primarily liable thereon. Nor do bonds pledging special assessments make a city a guarantor of collection: the city becomes a mere statutory trustee, bound to use due diligence in the collection of assessments and payment of the same to the bondholders.[35] The city does not become liable on such bonds by a return of the taxes as delinquent,[36] but must account to the bondholders only for the amounts returned to the city by the county after collection.[37] A bondholder is entitled only to his pro rata share, according to the class of bonds held by him, of the fund collected by the city, less the amount he has already received.[38]

Constitutional limitations upon the general tax rate in cities do not apply to assessments for local improvements or taxes to pay bonds issued for such improvements.[39] Limitations on the tax rate,[40] or on the indebtedness which municipalities may incur,[41] apply when the cost of an improvement is to be met by general taxation. A limitation of the cost of an improvement to fifty per cent of the assessed value of property to be charged does not prohibit the assessment of particular tracts in the district for more than one-half their assessed value.[42] "Assessed value," within the meaning of such a limitation, is the value of property as last assessed for general taxation.[43] Limitation of assessments to twenty-five per cent of the general taxable value of the property assessed refers to the fair market value after the improvement is made.[44] The constitutional limitation as to the amount of an assessment may be waived by contract or by conduct of the parties in pais.[45]

30. Acts 1903, p. 347, c. 198, autborizing issuance of school bonds in any city or town having a population not less than 4540 nor more than 4545 is repugnant to Const. art. 4, § 22. School City of Rushville v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 193, 70 N. E. 134.

31. School bonds. School City of Rushville v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 193, 70 N. E. 134.

32. Statute authorizing opening and improvement of an avenue in Long Island City held not to make the city liable on certificates provided thereby, so as to render Greater New York liable after the consolidation. East River Nat. Bank v. New York, 93 App. Div. 242, 87 N. Y. S. 803.

33. Such bonds do not create a liability against the city within the meaning of a constitutional limitation or municipal indebtedness. Adams v. Ashland, 26 Ky. L. R. 184, 80 S. W. 1105.

34, 35, 36, 37, 38. Jewell v. Superior [C. C. A.] 135 F. 19.

39. Const. Ky. § 157, limiting tax rate in cities of 15,000 or more to $1.50 per $100 does not apply to bonds for sewerage system payable by tax on district. Dyer v. Newport, 26 Ky. L. R. 204, 80 S. W. 1127. Art. 281 of Louisiana constitution limiting taxes to five mills, does not apply to art. 232, and city of Monroe did not exceed its power to tax itself. Endom v. Monroe, 112 La. 779, 36 So. 681.

40. Under Road and Bridge Act § 13, the highway commissioners cannot levy a tax exceeding 60 cents on each $100 without filing a certificate that there is a contingency justifying such levy. People v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 213 Ill. 503, 72 N. E. 1119.

41. While the legislature may impose the burden of assuming and paying the cost of a bridge upon two cities, it cannot authorize a city to increase its indebtedness beyond the constitutional limit. In re Opinion of the Justices [Me.] 60 A. 85. An ordinance accepting a gift of a library building on condition of an annual expenditure of $1,000 for maintenance violates Const. § 157, prohibiting the incurring of indebtedness exceeding in any year the income and revenue of such year, without the consent of the voters. Ramsey v. Shelbyville, 26 Ky. L. R. 1102, 83 S. W. 116. A contract for repairs to a court house, providing for monthly payments of 85 per cent of the work done, in interest bearing orders, and the payment of the balance in orders bearing interest from date on completion of the work, does not create an indebtedness of the kind contemplated by Const. art. 9, § 12, requiring a direct annual tax to provide for the same, not being fixed in amount, or payable at a stated time. Cole County v. Goehring, 209 Ill. 142, 70 N. E. 610.

42, 43. Ferry v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 652, 76 P. 277.

44. Ayers v. Toledo, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 57.

45. Signing a petition for an improvement, the signers agreeing to pay the assessment irrespective of the number of owners signing, constitutes such a waiver. Thornton v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 31.

Whether the cost of street improvements is to be borne by abutting property owners or the city at large may depend upon the character or permanency of the work.[46] The nature of the work may also determine which of several funds is to be used.[47] It is not necessary that a municipality have in hand a fund to pay for paving streets before authorizing such improvement.[48] The manner of paying the cost may be decided when a particular work is to be done.[49]

The commissioners and inspectors of a levee and drainage district of Arkansas may maintain a suit in equity to recover funds, resulting from a valid import for levee purposes, in the hands of the county treasurer.[50]

Where two cities neglect to rebuild a bridge, the legislature may appoint a commission to do the work and apportion the cost between such cities, or direct such apportionment to be made by appraisers.[51]

A private corporation organized to drain swamp lands performs a public service for which it may constitutionally be given a lien for special taxes on adjacent land benefited by the work.[52]

§ 4. Proceedings to authorize making. A. In general.[53]—Procedure is statutory.[54] There may be more than one method provided by law, either of which is proper.[55] So long as the constitutional guaranty of due process of law is not

46. Work done on curbing held repairs and not reconstruction and hence not chargeable to property owner. Perkinson v. Schnake [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 301. Paving a street with vitrified brick, in place of an improvement made years before consisting of grading and macadamizing with cinders and mill ashes, is an original construction, the cost of which is chargeable to abutting owners, and not a reconstruction, chargeable to the city at large. Adams v. Ashland, 26 Ky. L. R. 184, 80 S. W. 1105. Temporary repairs on a plankroad acquired by a city, made to render travel thereon safe until a permanent improvement could be made, do not constitute a paving so as to relieve abutting property owners of the cost of subsequent improvements when the road was changed into a city street. In re East St. [Pa.] 60 A. 154.

47. Under Code, §§ 751, 782, 832, a city may improve, grade, or repair streets and pay therefor out of the general fund, or the grading fund if the improvement consist of grading, or the improvement fund if repairs are made. Shelby v. Burlington [Iowa] 101 N. W. 101. Under Laws 1897, p. 735, c. 455, authorizing Buffalo park commissioners to take possession of and improve a certain square, etc., the commissioners had power to use money appropriated for that purpose to divert and re-enforce sewers within the square. Locke v. Buffalo, 97 App. Div. 483, 90 N. Y. S. 550.

48. Scheme for street improvement provided by Act April 3, 1902, §§ 66, 87, 94, 105, does not render this necessary. Dixey v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 370.

49. "Ordinance No. 50" of Burlington, Iowa, did not commit that city to the policy of paying for street improvements by special assessments, but left the manner of paying open to be decided when a particular work was to be done. Shelby v. Burlington [Iowa] 101 N. W. 101. Action of village board in authorizing construction of gutters and sidewalks held to have been taken under Rev. St. 1898, c. 40, § 893, subd. 11, and §§ 912, 914a, authorizing general street improvements payable by the city, and not under § 905 authorizing paving of particular streets and assessment of abutting property for the cost. McCullough v. Campbellsport [Wis.] 101 N. W. 709.

50. The commissioners appointed under the act of 1901 are the successors of those acting under the act of 1893; the latter act was not repealed by the former. Pratt v. Dudley [Ark.] 84 S. W. 781.

51. In re Opinion of the Justices [Me.] 60 A. 85.

52. 2 Acts 1857-58, c. 518, as amended, creating the Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Company does not grant special privileges. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141. The act having been recognized by subsequent legislation, an objection that the charter thereby granted was invalid could not be sustained. Id.

53. See 2 Curr. L. 1332.

54. Proceedings to improve a street also properly taken under general street improvement act, as constitutional amendment did not affect or change that law as applied to such proceedings. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661. Proceedings to change grade properly taken under Laws of 1891 and 1893, instead of under charter of Los Angeles which was not made supreme in such matters until the constitutional amendment of 1896. Id. Improvement of certain streets in Boston and construction of terminal station held to have been done under a special law providing therefor (St. 1896, p. 520, c. 516) and not under the general law requiring the superintendent of streets to construct improvements through contracts. Wells v. Street Com'rs of Boston [Mass.] 73 N. E. 554.

55. Procedure in construction of walk and assessment therefor under Laws 1881, c. 37, § 12, held proper, though Laws 1881, c. 38, might have been followed. City of Leavenworth v. Jones [Kan.] 77 P. 273.

violated,[56] the legislature, or its proper delegate, may prescribe any scheme or procedure for the making of public improvements which it considers proper.[57]

(§ 4) B. By whom and how initiated.[58]—In the absence of statutory provisions, city authorities may initiate and complete improvements without preliminary action on the part of owners whose property may be assessed for the cost.[59] But many statutes require a petition of property owners as a necessary prerequisite,[60] without which subsequent proceedings and assessments are invalid.[61] The necessity of such petition depends, under some statutes, upon the class to which the city concerned belongs.[62] In Missouri, a petition is unnecessary to authorize proceedings to condemn land for the extension of a street.[63] When required, the petition must conform to the statutory provisions.[64] The sufficiency of a petition for a change of grade, signed by a majority of the owners of the land to be charged is not affected by a subsequent enlargement of the assessment district by the council.[65] A petition in behalf of a city need not allege that a petition of property owners has been made and presented.[66] The resolution of intention to construct improvements involving a change of grade is itself conclusive that at its passage the persons whose names appeared on the petition were the owners of a majority of the frontage.[67]

56. The procedure required by the Vrooman Act (St. 1885, c. 153, and amendments thereto) for the making of a street improvement constitutes "due process of law." Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 5648-5658, providing that all steps in proceedings relative to public improvements prior to hearing of exceptions and entry of judgment may be taken in vacation do not violate Const. art. 6, § 1, providing for the vesting of judicial power in certain courts (City of St. Joseph v. Truckenmiller, 183 Mo. 9, 81 S. W. 1116), nor do those sections operate to deprive persons of property without due process of law (Id.).

57. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81. Within constitutional limits city authorities have power to prescribe the preliminary steps to be taken in the making of improvements. Thus, a contract for paving may be let without notice to property owners, so far as the constitution is concerned. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142.

58. See 2 Curr. L. 1332.

59. Denver Charter, art. 7, § 23, providing that construction of storm sewers shall not be the subject of petition or remonstrance is valid. Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126.

60. Rev. St. 1899, § 5683, relative to petitions for local improvements and publication of the same was not repealed by § 5661, whereby a petition is not required in some cases. Roth v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 913. Where the surface of a street is so worn and rotten that all the surface material will have to be removed and replaced with new material, though the same concrete base may be used, such work constitutes a "repaving" and not simply a "repairing" and hence can be done only on petition of the property owners affected, when the cost is to be borne by the abutting property. McCaffrey v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 251.

61. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3096, an ordinance providing for the original construction of a brick sidewalk is void unless preceded by a petition of the owners of two-thirds of the frontage. City of Covington v. Brinkman, 25 Ky. L. R. 1949, 79 S. W. 234. Failure to commence proceedings for a street improvement by petition of the property owners renders an assessment levied therefor invalid. Brookfield v. Sterling [Ill.] 73 N. E. 302.

62. The mayor and council of a city of the first class, with a population of less than 25,000 have power to contract for grading of streets and alleys and to assess abutting property for the expense, without having been requested to do so by a petition signed by the resident owners of abutting property. Tarman v. Atchison [Kan.] 77 P. 111. An ordinance providing for a street improvement in a village of less than 10,000 cannot be adopted until there has been a petition signed by the owners of one-half the abutting property, and by a majority of the resident owners of the property affected [4 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1902, p. 149, c. 24]. L'Hote v. Milford, 212 Ill. 418, 72 N. E. 399. Laws 1897, p. 103, § 4, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 95, giving cities having a population of over 50,000 power to adopt ordinances for local improvements by special assessments without a petition by property owners, and denying that power to cities having a population of 50,000 or less, is a valid classification of cities. Id. Laws 1903, p. 101 (Acts of May 11, 1903, and May 15, 1903), amending the Act of 1897, are in conflict with Const. 1870, art. 4, § 22, because the classification adopted by those statutes is arbitrary. Id.

63. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 5979, 5990, 5993. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329.

64. No evidence to justify finding that petition for construction of sewer had been presented, signed as required by statute. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

65. O'Dea v. Mitchell, 144 Cal. 374, 77 P. 1020.

66. Local Improvement Act, § 37. Richards v. Jerseyville [Ill.] 73 N. E. 370.

67. Objection that there was no proper petition held untenable. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

Sanction by voters is quite commonly required to authorize the issue of bonds, increase of public debt, or levy of taxes.[68] The validity of public work may depend on any of these as prerequisite. At a special election to vote on public improvements, taxes may be voted for or against, without specifying with close particularity the amount to be expended upon each improvement contemplated.[69] In such elections, registration laws must be complied with.[70] The ballots must be so worded as to submit the question directed by the council to be submitted to the voters.[71]

(§ 4) C. Notice and hearing.[72]—Failure to give notice of the various steps in the proceedings[73] in the manner provided by statute[74] is fatal and leaves the authorities without jurisdiction to proceed. Notice will not be implied from the fact that the property owner is the city attorney.[75] Published notices of proceedings must correspond to ordinances and resolutions.[76] A mortgagee, as well as the owner, has the right of appeal to the city council, secured by the California act.[77]

(§ 4) D. Protests and remonstrances.[78]—To be effective a protest must be unqualified.[79] The Missouri statute giving a majority of resident owners the privilege of protest against an improvement does not violate the constitutional guaranty of due process or equal protection of law because it does not give nonresident owners the same privilege.[80] In Indiana, a remonstrance is not peremptory, so as to cause proceedings to be abandoned, unless signed by two-thirds of the property owners who reside on lots abutting on the improvement, and who also represent two-thirds of the lineal feet of such abutting property.[81] A remonstrance is of no effect unless filed within the time prescribed by statute.[82] Remon-

68. See Municipal Bonds, 4 Curr. L. 706; Municipal Corporations, § 13, 4 Curr. L. 746; Taxes, 2 Curr. L. 1786.

69, 70. Endom v. Monroe, 112 La. 779, 36 So. 681.

71. Where a borough council resolved to submit the question of construction of waterworks at a special election, and the ballots read "for" or "against" "the proposition of construction or purchase of waterworks," such ballots, being in the alternative did not submit the question directed to be submitted, and the election was invalid and nugatory. Marcellus v. Garfield [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1099.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1333, n. 47.

73. City charter provisions requiring the mayor and council to give property owners thirty days after approval of an ordinance in which to designate paving materials are mandatory and jurisdictional. Eddy v. Omaha [Neb.] 101 N. W. 25. City authorities have no power or jurisdiction to abate a nuisance consisting of stagnant water on lots without giving notice to the owner and affording him an opportunity to do the work himself. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 298. The record of condemnation proceedings to condemn land for street extension must show five days' notice of hearing on award of damages [Rev. St. 1899, § 5993]. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. Evidence held to show notice of order for construction of sewer and service of such notice. Walker v. Detroit [Mich.] 101 N. W. 847.

74. In giving notice after filing the plat and schedule, special charter cities of Iowa are to follow § 971 of the Code and not § 823, the former section not having been repealed by Acts 28th Gen. Assem. c. 29, p. 15, § 3. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542. Publication of notice of time when proposed improvements will be considered once each week for two weeks is insufficient unless first publication is two weeks before the time of meeting [Comp. Laws, § 3195]. Auditor General v. Calkins [Mich.] 98 N. W. 742. Publication of notice of hearing of objections, made by the city clerk under the instruction of the council, is a sufficient compliance with Comp. Laws, § 3195, requiring the council to give notice of such hearing. Id. Under Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 3, subsec. 2, requiring board of public works to publish a notice 20 days before ordering a public improvement, Sunday is to be included though it is the last day of publication. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117.

75. Proceedings to abate a nuisance by filling in private lots. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 298.

76. Thus, where resolution was for grading and graveling and notices only mentioned graveling, the variance was fatal to a special assessment for all the work. Gallaher v. Garland [Iowa] 101 N. W. 867.

77. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

78. See 2 Curr. L. 1334.

79. A protest to paving in 1898 but expressing willingness to have it done in 1900, insufficient under Sess. Laws 1897, p. 219, § 31. McMillan v. Butte [Mont.] 76 P. 203.

80. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 48 Law. Ed. 1142.

81. Remonstrance insufficient when signed by more than two-thirds of the resident owners, but such signers did not own or represent two-thirds of the lineal feet of abutting property. Maley v. Clark, 33 Ind. App. 149, 70 N. E. 1005.

82. Remonstrance filed after notice for bids had been published three weeks was too late [Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 4289a]. McKee v. Pendleton, 162 Ind. 667, 69 N. E. 997.

strances do not render invalid subsequent ordinances containing substantially different specifications for the improvement.[83]

(§ 4) E. Estimates of cost.[84]—In New Jersey the ascertainment of the probable cost of an improvement is a condition precedent to the passage of an ordinance ordering the improvement.[85] Under the Illinois statute, the engineer's estimate is insufficient if given in a gross sum.[86] An estimate showing the estimated cost of the substantial component elements of the improvement is sufficient.[87] In Indiana, the engineer's estimate of the cost of a street improvement must give the frontage on both sides of the street.[88] In California the only certificate required of the engineer is one which gives the street superintendent the facts necessary to enable him to make an assessment according to law.[89] When such certificate is required by the superintendent, it must be recorded.[90] An increase in the cost over the original estimate is sometimes prohibited.[91]

(§ 4) F. Necessity and contents of ordinance or resolution.[92]—The authorities are not in accord as to whether powers in regard to public improvements are to be exercised by resolution or ordinance, and the matter probably depends on the language of the various statutes.[93] If the statute provides that a city shall exercise powers conferred upon it by general ordinance, such ordinance is essential before the city can act, and proceedings without it will be invalid.[94] Even though the statute does not provide for the exercise of powers conferred by general ordinance, such an ordinance may be necessary if the statute is not specific as to the methods to be adopted in carrying out the powers granted.[95] But where it is simply required that the council shall act, by vote or otherwise, in the specific case, in accordance with a method pointed out by statute or general ordinance, a resolution is sufficient.[96] In Missouri, the first step in proceedings to condemn land for a street extension should be by ordinance, not by resolution.[97] If an ordinance is necessary, it must be properly adopted.[98] In providing for a street improvement not involving a change of grade, no action need be taken relative to the grade when it has already been fixed, even though the previous action fixing it was taken by resolution and not by ordinance.[99]

83. Town of Greendale v. Suit [Ind.] 71 N. E. 658.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1334, n. 50.

85. Under P. L. 1895, p. 242, amount to be paid for land taken and damages caused must be determined before laying out and opening of a street can be ordered. Paterson, etc., R. Co. v. Town Council of Nutley [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1032.

86. City of Peoria v. Ohl, 209 Ill. 52, 70 N. E. 632.

87. Clark v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 358.

88. Giving frontage on one side only is not a compliance with Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4293. Klein v. Nugent Gravel Co., 162 Ind. 509, 70 N. E. 801.

89. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661. Engineer's estimate of cost held sufficient, though not detailed. O'Dea v. Mitchell, 144 Cal. 374, 77 P. 1020.

90. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

91. Where a second increased estimate was made and notice thereof given and opportunity to be heard thereon afforded, such estimate was practically original and did not violate a charter provision prohibiting an increase in cost above the original estimate. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122.

92. See 2 Curr. L. 1335.

93. In Iowa, ordinance rather than resolution. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529.

94, 95. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529.

96. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529. An ordinance is not essential to providing for an improvement payable out of the general fund, under Code, § 751; such action may be taken by resolution. Shelby v. Burlington [Iowa] 101 N. W. 101.

97. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. The mayor has no power to appoint a jury to assess damages in a proceeding to condemn land for a street improvement until an ordinance has been passed defining the benefit district. Id.

98. Ordinance for laying stone sidewalk set aside because not passed by "unanimous vote of all the members of the council." That all present voted for it is not sufficient. Crickenberger v. Westfield [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1097. The certificate of the clerk of the city council that an ordinance has been adopted is prima facie proof of its regular adoption. Moody & Co. v. Spotorno, 112 La. 1008, 36 So. 836.

99. Langan v. Bitzer, 26 Ky. L. R. 579, 82 S. W. 280.

Contents.[1]—In Illinois, the first resolution is sufficient if it specifies in general terms the extent, kind, character,[2] and estimated cost[3] of the improvement. It need not include a statement of the manner in which an improvement is to be paid for.[4] The statute requiring the estimate of the cost to be made a part of the record of the first resolution is not complied with where the resolution makes the estimate a part thereof by reference only.[5] Where after objection to a proposed improvement, the board, at the public hearing, decided to adhere to the original scheme, a new resolution adhering to the first resolution was sufficient.[6] The final ordinance must contain a definite description of the improvement provided for[7] and the material to be used.[8] A variance between the resolution and ordinance is not fatal unless willful and material.[9]

Under the Indiana statute, the necessity for an improvement and an order therefor may be declared in the same resolution,[10] and the adoption of a resolution declaring the necessity of an improvement is not necessary to confer jurisdiction on the municipal authorities, when the property owner is notified and a hearing is had before making final assessments.[11] An ordinance providing for a street improvement is not void for the purpose of showing an intention to pay the whole cost by special assessments, though void as to the limitation of the assessment to abutting property on only one side of the street.[12]

Under the Kansas City charter, the council must, by ordinance, prescribe the dimensions, materials, and character of the contemplated improvement.[13] Pro-

1. See 2 Curr. L. 1335.

2. No variance between resolution and ordinance where resolution did not contain details of street improvement. Lanphere v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 440, 72 N. E. 426. Resolution for paving of alley, giving locality of improvement and stating how it was to be made, sufficient, though width of alley was not stated. Jones v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 92, 72 N. E. 798.

3. Estimate of cost in a paving resolution held sufficiently itemized. Hulbert v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 452, 72 N. E. 1097. Reciting the engineer's estimate in full in the first resolution is a sufficient compliance with Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 24, par. 513, though the preamble and signature of his report are omitted. Lanphere v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 440, 72 N. E. 426. Statute sufficiently complied with where estimate of street improvement except title and signature, was copied into the first resolution; and estimate held sufficiently itemized. Jones v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 92, 72 N. E. 798.

4. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 390, c. 24, contains no such requirement. Ziegler v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 61, 72 N. E. 719; Jones v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 92, 72 N. E. 798.

5. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chicago, 209 Ill. 444, 70 N. E. 659. Nor was the section complied with by keeping the estimate on file and accessible, with other estimates, in the office of the board of local improvements. Id. The fact that this practice has been followed in Chicago does not warrant placing such construction on the act as applied throughout the state. Id.

6. Hulbert v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 452, 72 N. E. 1097.

7. Description of street improvement in ordinance held sufficient. Lanphere v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 440, 72 N. E. 426.

8. Language of ordinance describing paving material held sufficiently definite and certain. Jones v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 92, 72 N. E. 798. Ordinance held not to contain sufficient description of supply pipe. McChesney v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 368. Fire hydrants not mentioned in original ordinance and held not included in the description of cast-iron water supply pipes. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884.

9. Omission of signature from engineer's estimate in resolution held not to invalidate special tax, such variance not being willful or substantial. Ziegler v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 61, 72 N. E. 719. Where a resolution provided that the entire roadway of an avenue and all intersections should be paved and the ordinance provided that some of the intersections should not be paved, the variance between the resolution and the ordinance was willful and material within the meaning of § 9 of the local improvement act and the ordinance is invalid. Smith v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 346.

10. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

11. Hence, notice and hearing upon the necessity are not essential before the order for construction. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

12. Helm v. Witz [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 846.

13. An ordinance did not prescribe the dimensions, material and character of a sewer (Kansas City Charter, art. 9, § 10) by merely referring to specifications on file with the board of public works, when such specifications were not in fact on file at the time. Dickey v. Holmes [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 982. The detailed plans and specifications for a public work required by Kansas City Ordinance 1888, § 924, are not those required to be prescribed by ordinance under art. 9, § 10, of the charter. Id. The council cannot delegate to the city engineer the power to prescribe specifications for the roofing of areas or vaults in sidewalks; such specifications ceedings taken under an ordinance, invalid in this respect, cannot be validated by a subsequent ordinance.[14] A charter provision that property owners may select paving materials is satisfied by an ordinance providing for selection from asphalt, vitrified brick, or macadam, without specifying at least two kinds of each material.[15] A certificate by a board of public works that an ordinance proposing a sewer system conformed to the system established by the board is a sufficient compliance with the charter provision requiring the approval of the board to be endorsed on such ordinance.[16]

The resolution of intention, provided for by statute in California, must describe the extent of the improvement.[17] A resolution which describes the work in general terms, and makes the description potentially certain by reference to plans and specifications on file, is sufficient as to description.[18] Such plans and specifications need not be incorporated in and published with the resolution.[19] A resolution which declares the contemplated work to be "of more than local and ordinary public benefit" is not invalid because it charged the expense on a district including only abutting lots.[20] Under the "Bond Act," authorizing the issue of bonds if the estimated cost exceeds fifty cents per front foot, the resolution of intention need only state the determination that bonds shall be issued, which implies a finding that the cost exceeds the amount required.[21] A general description of the bonds in the resolution is sufficient, without incorporating them in full.[22] The resolution must be properly recorded,[23] and posted.[24]

(§ 4) G. Curative legislation and ratification.—From the power to authorize it follows that the legislature also has power to cure the omission or irregular performance of steps which it has prescribed, except as to those necessary to constitute due process of law, or to comply with any other constitutional provision.[25] That a must be made by ordinance, under Kansas City Charter, art. 9, § 2. Haag v. Ward [Mo.] 85 S. W. 391.

14. Where sewer ordinance did not prescribe dimensions, material and character of sewer, a subsequent ordinance passed after the contract was let did not render tax bills valid. Dickey v. Holmes [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 982. A sewer for drainage only is not authorized by an ordinance directing construction of a sewer for "sanitary and drainage purposes." Barton v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1093. The assessment therefor was not made valid by the subsequent construction of catchbasins and connections with the sewer to carry off surface water. Id.

15. Ross v. Gates, 183 Mo. 338, 81 S. W. 1107.

16. Dollar Sav. Bank v. Ridge, 183 Mo. 506, 82 S. W. 56.

17. A resolution stating an intention to curb and pave a certain street between two other intersecting streets "where not already laid" sufficiently expresses the portions of the streets not to be improved. Dowling v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc., 143 Cal. 425, 77 P. 141.

18, 19. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

20. The size of the benefit district is not jurisdictional. O'Dea v. Mitchell, 144 Cal. 374, 77 P. 1020.

21, 22. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

23. Entry of resolution in resolution book after first publication, and then by pasting in the published notice, instead of writing it in, is immaterial. Dowling v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc., 143 Cal. 425, 77 P. 141.

24. Posting of resolution of intention to improve a street held sufficient to comply with St. 1891, p. 196, c. 147. Dowling v. Hibernia Sav. & Loan Soc., 143 Cal. 425, 77 P. 141.

25. The Street Bond Act (St. 1893, c. 21) providing that bonds issued pursuant to the act shall be conclusive evidence of the regularity of previous steps cures all defects, not jurisdictional, to which no objection was properly made before the bonds were issued. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81. Thus, the act was held to have cured an objection that the time for completion of the work was extended; that the notice of the time of recovering bids was not posted or published for the precise length of time required by the statute; that the contract did not provide that materials used should conform to specifications; that the street superintendent did not properly certify to the record of the assessment; that the engineer's certificate did not show actual measurement of the work by him; that the time for beginning the work was not fixed by the contract; and that the contractor's return to the assessment was insufficient. Id. Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 3, subd. 3, providing that the finding by the city council that the petition for paving was signed by the required number of property owners shall be conclusive is valid. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117. Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 3, subsec. 8, makes the finding of the council, by ordinance, that an improvement was ordered after due notice, conclusive. Held, the provision is valid, since other cp-curative act arbitrarily fixes a period of thirty days after which defects which before may have been fatal are placed beyond inquiry does not make the law unreasonable.[26] Statutes designed to cure minor irregularities cannot cure failure to give proper notice.[27] No subsequent ratification or acquiescence by a city can cure a substantial defect or omission of a board acting judicially under statutory authority.[28]

§ 5. Proposals, contracts, and bonds.[29]—In the letting of contracts for public works, statutory requirements must be strictly complied with.[30] Statutes, or city charters or ordinances, determine what contracts may be made,[31] and who may make them.[32] Some statutes prohibit the making of a contract until an appropriation has been made for the cost,[33] or until the cost has been estimated by the council.[34] Where a city, without authority to charge cost of grading to abutting property, receives bids and lets contracts in lump sums for work including both grading and graveling, so that the expense of each work cannot be separately ascertained, a special assessment for the work is wholly void.[35]

The notice for bids must ordinarily make competitive bidding possible, and to that end the specifications must be definite[36] and such that bidders may make their offers intelligently and on the same basis.[37] Under the power of selecting materials portunities to be heard are afforded. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114.

26. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

27. Comp. Laws, § 3922, unavailing when notice did not comply with § 3195. Auditor General v. Calkins [Mich.] 98 N. W. 742.

28. Held no authority to construct a sewer. Kidson v. Bangor [Me.] 58 A. 900.

29. See 2 Curr. L. 1336; also title Public Contracts, 2 Curr. L. 1280; and Building and Construction Contracts, 3 Curr. L. 550.

30. State v. Snyder, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 261. Where county commissioners could let a bridge contract without advertising if the cost did not exceed $1,000 they could not leave out the cost of the substructure in ascertaining the cost. Id. A public letting of the contract is essential to the validity of tax bills therefor. Dickey v. Holmes [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 982. Charter requirements as to manner of letting contracts for work being disregarded, the contract and work done thereunder does not render the city liable, nor can the city give the contract any validity by recognizing it as valid. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

31. An ordinance providing for the paving of a street authorizes a contract for macadamizing. Ross v. Gates, 183 Mo. 338, 81 S. W. 1107. The Illinois statute providing for construction of sidewalks by the municipality on failure of the property owner to do so, and providing for the cost by special assessment, does not prevent construction by contract. People v. Peyton [Ill.] 73 N. E. 768. Contract for construction of sewers held not to have been in excess of power of council as given by Winona city charter relative to public improvements, the limitations on incurring liabilities therein found not being applicable to such works. City of Winona v. Jackson, 92 Minn. 453, 100 N. W. 368.

32. Contracts awarded by boards of public works in cities of the first class in Kentucky, for the original construction of public ways, need not be approved by the general council. Board of Public Works of Louisville v. Selvage Const. Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 2098, 79 S. W. 1182. The street commissioner of Worcester, who has been "directed and authorized" by the council to construct a bridge, may make a contract therefor, in conjunction with the mayor under St. 1893, c. 444, §§ 18, 23, 32, 39, 40. Webb Granite & Const. Co. v. Worcester [Mass.] 73 N. E. 639.

33. Where a county board appropriated 75 per cent. of the tax levy for repairs on the courthouse, before making the contract for such repairs, the misappropriation of such funds or their application to other purposes could not affect the question of the power of the board to make the contract. Cole County v. Goehring, 209 Ill. 142, 70 N. E. 610. The statute prohibiting a city from incurring liabilities until a sufficient appropriation has been voted therefor precludes the making of a contract only when prior unpaid obligations in excess of the appropriation have been actually incurred, not where the mere estimated expenses exceed such appropriation. Webb Granite & Const. Co. v. Worcester [Mass.] 73 N. E. 639. Thus where damages for the taking of land did not accrue until September 13th, a contract made on July 30 preceding, for construction of streets and bridges for which an appropriation had been voted July 1, was not in violation of the statute. Id.

34. Though the order of a city council contains an estimate of the cost of a bridge, without determining such cost does not prevent the mayor and street commissioner from contracting in good faith for such bridge at a cost in slight excess of the council's estimate. Webb Granite & Const. Co. v. Worcester [Mass.] 73 N. E. 639.

35. Gallaher v. Garland [Iowa] 101 N. W. 867.

36. Specifying three alternative kinds of paving material does not comply with statute. City of Bluffton v. Miller, 33 Ind. App. 521, 70 N. E. 989.

37. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603. Specifications which called for a particular brand of coal tar cement, only made by one manufacturer, did not render the ordinance void by preventing competi-for paving, vested in city councils, those bodies have power to choose a material as to which competitive bidding is impossible.[38] If the notice is invalid, no legal contract can be based thereon.[39] The call for bids must be published as the law directs,[40] or must be made in some way reasonably calculated to attract the attention of persons likely to become bidders if given an opportunity.[41]

Statutes requiring contracts to be let to the lowest responsible bidder[42] do not require acceptance of the lowest bid.[43] It is discretionary with the proper authorities to award the contract to one whose bid is not the lowest,[44] or to reject any or all bids.[45] It is improper for the council to negotiate with one bidder privately and close a contract by changing the scope of the work or the terms of payment in consideration of his reducing his bid.[46] The council should, after judiciously considering the relative merits of bids submitted, accept the one deemed most reasonable, or reject all bids, if power to do so is reserved.[47] Bids must be within the advertised specifications[48] and must comply substantially with charter requirements.[49] A contractor who interposes a gross bid for entire performance of a given work assumes the risk as to the nature and quantity of work to be performed, even though approximate estimates, which are materially wrong, have been prepared for the guidance of bidders.[50] Where public officials fail to award a contract to the lowest bidder as provided by statute, such bidder cannot maintain an action to recover profits which he claims he would have made had the contract been awarded to him.[51] His remedy is an injunction to restrain prosecution of the work, have the contract set aside and the matter referred back for further action.[52]

The best thought of recent years is opposed to the "maintenance clause" in public contracts as imposing an improper burden on property owners, and giving the contractor an undue advantage,[53] but such provisions are commonly held valid,[54]

tion, where there was only one manufacturer who had been successful in making the material desired. Swift v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 80, 79 S. W. 172. Specifying cement by calling it a certain brand was sufficient when all the contractors knew that the brand referred to was a brand of cement. Id.

38. Choice of Trinidad Lake asphalt valid. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 48 Law. Ed. 1142. The choice by a city council of a product of a foreign country for paving material is not an interference with interstate commerce so as to violate the commerce clause of the constitution or the federal anti-trust act (Trinidad Lake asphalt selected.) Id.

39. A resolution directing the city engineer to advertise for bids left the date for receiving bids blank, and did not expressly authorize him to fill in the date. Held, such notice by the engineer was invalid. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

40. Publication of the engineer's notice to contractors for five different days is sufficient in Missouri though the days are not consecutive. Roth v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 913.

41. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

42. The word "work" in a city charter providing that all work exceeding in cost a specified sum shall be let to the lowest reasonable and responsible bidder, includes structures such as buildings and bridges. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

43. So held under Denver City Charter art. 7, § 46, requiring contracts to be let to the lowest reliable and responsible bidder. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114.

44. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114. Mandamus will not lie to compel an award to the lowest bidder. City of Akron v. France, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 496. It lies in the discretion of the directors of public service, after street improvements not exceeding $500 in cost have been ordered by the council, to let the contract therefor to the lowest bidder. Under Rev. St. § 1536-679, the council cannot require the contract to be so let. State v. Roebuck, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 688.

45. City of Akron v. France, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 496.

46, 47. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

48. Specifications for paving materials held to permit bids for different kinds of blocks at different prices by same bidder; successful bid within specifications. Dixey v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 370.

49. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

50. Lentilhon v. New York, 92 N. Y. S. 897.

51, 52. City of Akron v. France, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 496.

53. Bacas v. Adler, 112 La. 806, 36 So. 739.

54. Provision in paving contract requiring contractor to maintain street in proper state of repair for 10 years held not invalid at time contract was made. Bacas v. Adler, 112 La. 806, 36 So. 739. A contract provision requiring the contractor to guaranty a pavement as are provisions indemnifying the city against claims for damages growing out of the work.[55] Provisions requiring the exclusive use of union labor,[56] and provisions requiring residents or citizens to be employed as laborers, and supplies to be purchased of local concerns,[57] are invalid. In Illinois where a municipality, on failure of the owner, constructs a sidewalk by contract, the contract must specify separately the cost of grading, materials, and laying the walk so that the bill of cost may be made to conform to the statute.[58] Hence, a contract for construction by the square foot cannot be made the basis of a special assessment for the cost[59] and the fact that the bid contained the proper terms as an alternative does not cure it.[60]

Failure to complete work within the time prescribed by an ordinance and contract, both of which make time of the essence of the contract, renders tax bills void, notwithstanding a stipulation in the contract for deduction of a certain sum per day as liquidated damages for delay.[61] In such case the time cannot be extended after the contract has been let so as to validate the tax bills.[62] But in the absence of an ordinance requiring completion of the work within a specified time, a contract containing such a provision and also a provision for liquidated damages for delay, is complied with by completion within a reasonable time after confirmation of the contract.[63] Taxpayers are entitled to have deducted from the contract price of a road improvement amounts which the contractors have saved themselves by failing to make the work conform to the contract.[64] In the absence of any claim of fraud or collusion, the acceptance of a work by the proper city authorities is conclusive proof that work has been done according to contract.[65]

A suit to enjoin performance[66] of a contract will not lie when the work is practically finished.[67] But a taxpayer's action to prevent unlawful disbursement of money for a public improvement, the contract for which is alleged to have been illegal, will not be dismissed merely because execution of the work has proceeded so far that the preventive relief asked cannot be granted; the action should be retained and such relief granted as the court has power to afford.[68] The fact that to remain in a perfect state of repair for five years does not conflict with a Kansas City charter provision prohibiting the charging of repairs on abutting property. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

55. A contract for paving and curbing is not rendered invalid by provisions requiring the contractor to meet claims for damage arising out of the nature of the work, to repair or replace all permanent sidewalks, streets, alleys, etc., to indemnify the city from suits or claims for damages to person or property growing out of the work, and to pay for injuries to water, gas or sewer pipes. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542.

56. The Detroit board of education has no power to require contractors to use union labor exclusively in the construction of public buildings. Lewis v. Board of Education of Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 756.

57. Diver v. Keokuk Sav. Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 542. The invalidity of the alien clause does not make the contract against public policy both parties having disregarded it. Doyle v. People, 207 Ill. 75, 69 N. E. 639.

58. People v. Peyton [Ill.] 73 N. E. 768.

59, 60. An alternative proposition in the contract, providing for such construction, cannot be availed of to justify an assessment. People v. Peyton [Ill.] 73 N. E. 768.

61. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062.

62. Spalding v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 540.

63. Evidence held to show work was not completed in a reasonable time. Schibel v. Merrill [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1069.

64. Board of Com'rs of Laporte County v. Wolff [Ind.] 72 N. E. 860.

65. Baldrick v. Gast, 25 Ky. L. R. 1977, 79 S. W. 212.

66. Where in an action to restrain excavation of a street which would result in destruction of shade trees, plaintiff did not suggest that the excavation was being done with a view to the construction of a sidewalk, the question whether the city had a valid sidewalk ordinance under which to act was immaterial. Gallaher v. Jefferson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 124.

67. Injunction to prevent performance of a paving contract refused when the work was practically finished, and the circumstances which would call for enforcement of the bond to keep the paving in repair for 10 years were only remotely contingent. Fisher v. Georgia Vitrified Brick & Clay Co., 121 Ga. 621, 49 S. E. 679.

68. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603 Where in a suit to determine the validity of a paving contract and to enjoin the contractor from proceeding with the work and the city from incurring any liability thereon, it appeared that part of the work had been finished, and the contract such taxpayer has private interests which will be affected by the outcome of the suit does not affect his right to maintain the action.[69] Where a council has exceeded its power in making a contract, a property owner affected thereby may have an injunction to prevent execution of the contract.[70] Equity has jurisdiction to enjoin a county board from accepting a road and allowing the contract price therefor, where the work was not done in accordance with the contract and the county board acted in collusion with the contractors to defraud the taxpayers.[71]

§ 6. Security to laborers and materialmen.[72]—Ordinary mechanics' lien laws do not apply to public property.[73] Some statutes provide for security to mechanics and materialmen by requiring a bond of the contractor.[74] It is held that under the act of Congress requiring such bond,[75] the persons secured are practically given a special lien, substituting the bond for the building.[76] Other statutes provide for a lien on funds due the contractor from the municipality.[77] Under such statutes, notice of claims must be served upon the proper municipal officer[78] and within the time provided by law.[79] Two lien claimants who deliver their lien claims at the abandoned by mutual consent as to the latter, the plaintiffs had a right to continue the suit to determine the validity of the contract. Patterson v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1064. These facts do not bring the case within the rule that an injunction will not be granted where a change of circumstances after commencement of the suit renders it unnecessary. Id.

69. As where owner of toll bridge, whose receipts would be affected by construction of new bridge, sought to prevent payment of money on contract. Chippewa Bridge Co. v. Durand [Wis.] 99 N. W. 603.

70. City of Bluffton v. Miller, 33 Ind. App. 521, 70 N. E. 989.

71. Board of Com'rs of Laporte County v. Wolff [Ind.] 72 N. E. 860. In accepting work and directing payment, the board acts in an administrative not a judicial capacity. Id. No demand on the county board to bring suit was necessary, since it would have been unavailing. Id. A complaint alleging failure of contractors to comply with contract for road, and collusion between contractors and commissioners, and seeking to enjoin acceptance of work and allowance of payments on the work, justifies making the contractors parties to the proceedings. Id.

72. See 2 Curr. L. 1339.

73. Carnegie Library held a public building, on which no mechanic's lien is imposed by the mechanic's lien law, Rev. St. 1883, c. 91, § 30 et seq. Goss Co. v. Greenleaf, 98 Me. 436, 57 A. 581.

74. A contractor's bond can derive no obligatory force, in so far as it refers to materials furnished, from a statute requiring such bond to secure payment of "laborers and mechanics" only. American Radiator Co. v. American Bonding & Trust Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 138.

75. Construction Act Aug. 13, 1894. Lubricating oils used in operating a dredge are not "materials" supplied in prosecution of the work within the meaning of the act. United States v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Security Co., 21 App. D. C. 369. Same holding as to coal used in operating the dredging machine. United States v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co., 23 App. D. C. 153. Hence the parties furnishing the coal cannot recover therefor from sureties on the contractor's bond. Id. Nor can persons who made repairs on the dredging machine recover the cost thereof from such sureties. United States v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co., 23 App. D. C. 155. Contract to "furnish all necessary labor and materials" for construction of a government building, providing for work to be done and time and manner of doing it, and wherein the government agrees to pay for "construction" of the building, is a contract for construction of a building within the meaning of 28 Stat. 278, requiring contractors to give bonds for prompt payment of persons supplying labor and materials. United States v. Murdock [Me.] 59 A. 60. A mere agreement to supply materials, without actual delivery to the contractor, or his sureties who complete a contract after his death, is not a "supplying" of materials under the act. Id.

76. United States v. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Security Co., 21 App. D. C. 369.

77. Under Gen. St. p. 2078, securing payment of persons furnishing materials for a public improvement, one supplying materials to a subcontractor has a lien only on so much of the contract price as had not been paid to the subcontractor at the time the lien claim was notified, etc., under the statute. Wilson v. Dietrich [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 251.

78. Lien for materials used in macadamizing village street properly served on chairman of committee on roads and bridges of the village trustees, under the lien law. Rockland Lake Trap Rock Co. v. Port Chester, 92 N. Y. S. 631. Service of notice of a mechanics' lien against an addition to Gouverneur Hospital, authorized by commissioners of the sinking fund, by filing with the comptroller—chief financial officer of the city and a commissioner—held sufficient, under Laws 1897, p. 520, c. 418, § 12, in the absence of any showing that the commission had a regular official head on whom such notice could be served. Hawkins v. Mapes-Reeve Const. Co., 178 N. Y. 236, 70 N. E. 783.

79. Payments made to a contractor for construction of a schoolhouse were valid as against the claims of materialmen who did not file claims against the school district until after the last payment had been made to the contractor according to the terms of the contract [Code, § 3102]. Green Bay same time are each entitled to a pro rata share of the fund remaining applicable to their claims.[80] The right of materialmen to enforce their liens is not affected by the fact that the contract was unjustifiably abandoned.[81]

In New York, liens filed against a village on account of public improvements do not require verification.[82] Orders on a fund due from a village for a public improvement, are invalid unless copies thereof are filed in the county clerk's office.[83] A village which has paid such invalid orders is not entitled to the benefit of such payment as against the liens of materialmen.[84] A judgment directing the payment of funds due a contractor to lienors properly limits costs to the amount due the contractor.[85]

Under the Iowa statute subcontractors on buildings not belonging to the state may file claims against the municipality to the extent of the contract price.[86] This statute does not authorize a lien on the building or on funds due the contractor.[87]

The affidavit that all claims for labor have been paid, required by the Duluth charter, before a final estimate and payment on a public contract, may be made by an assignee of the balance due thereon, who has personal knowledge of the facts.[88]

§ 7. Injury to property and compensation to owners. A. In general.[89]—A municipality is not liable for damages to private property necessarily caused by the construction of a public work.[90] But if the work is done in a negligent manner, and unnecessary damage, such as a physical invasion of property beyond the limits of the street results,[91] or the procedure has been irregular[92] or unauthorized, an

Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 84.

80. Wilson v. Dietrich [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 251.

81, 82, 83, 84. Rockland Lake Trap Rock Co. v. Port Chester, 92 N. Y. S. 631.

85. Code Civ. Proc. § 3418. Rockland Lake Trap Rock Co. v. Port Chester, 92 N. Y. S. 631.

86. A contract for construction of a school building provided that the district might complete the work and deduct the cost from the contract price, and that the architect's certificate of such cost should be conclusive thereon. The contract was abandoned and completed by the district. Held, the architect's certificate of the cost of the work by the district was conclusive as against materialmen seeking to enforce claims against the district. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 84. That the district, in completing the contract, took possession of materials left by the contractor, as the contract permitted it to do, did not render it liable to the materialmen. Id. In action by materialmen and subcontractors for materials furnished for a schoolhouse, the contractor answered, and the proof showed liability as to him; held, error to refuse judgment against him, though the school district was found not liable. Id.

87. Code § 3102, construed. Green Bay Lumber Co. v. Independent School Dist. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 84.

88. Appeal of City of Duluth [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1059.

89. See 2 Curr. L. 1341. Taking property for public use, see Eminent Domain, 3 Curr. L. 1189.

90. Necessary destruction of private drains in the course of laying water mains is damnum absque injuria. Bennett v. Incorporated Town of Mt. Vernon, 124 Iowa, 537, 100 N. W. 349. A property owner cannot recover damages for removal of a condemned sidewalk. Scott v. Marshall [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 98. No damages are recoverable by a property owner for the necessary removal of shade trees by a city in the course of improvement of a street. Fourth class cities have power under Rev. St. 1899, § 5960, to remove shade trees which prevent construction of a walk of uniform width. Id. No recovery where trees were outside lot line, but roots penetrated into plaintiff's lot. Colston v. St. Joseph, 106 Mo. App. 714, 80 S. W. 590. The act of paving a street nearer to the lot line on one side of the street than on the other involves the exercise of discretionary power, and does not give a cause of action for damages to an abutting property owner. McGrew v. Kansas City [Kan.] 77 P. 698. A railroad company having a right to elevate its track without liability to adjoining owners, the city cannot be made liable for requiring such elevation for the public safety. Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217. Requiring a railway company to build a new bridge to accommodate an increased flowage in a natural stream caused by construction of a drainage system is not taking property without due process of law. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 103, 72 N. E. 219.

91. McCullough v. Campbellsport [Wis.] 101 N. W. 709. As where filling on street was thrown on plaintiff's lot. Bunker v. Hudson [Wis.] 99 N. W. 448. Or where excavation removed lateral support and caused a landslide removing and injuring part of plaintiff's land, separated from street by a narrow strip. Damkoehler v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 706; Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 102 N. W. 578.

92. Where there is a valid ordinance for abutting property owner, charged with part of the cost, has a right of action for damages.[93] But an irregularity in procedure cannot be made the basis of an action by one not an abutting owner.[94] The right to damages cannot be taken away by a subsequent statute, though such a statute may provide for a reassessment of benefits.[95] Where the property owners affected, and the city, have agreed upon the compensation for damages caused by an improvement, a general taxpayer cannot interfere, though the improvement is to be paid for out of a general fund, the agreement not being inequitable.[96] The question of "just compensation" to owners of property for injuries caused by grading a street is for the jury, in an action for damages.[97]

For failure to enforce compliance with a contract for paving and corruptly allowing the contractor to use inferior materials, members of the board of public works are personally liable to the owner of property assessed for the cost for the special damage thereby suffered.[98] The duty to strictly enforce the contract is ministerial, and recovery of such damage cannot be defeated on the ground that the board was performing a judicial function,[99] nor is the right to maintain such personal action barred by the fact the property owner injured might have invoked the powers of a court of equity to restrain departure from the terms of the contract, or might have compelled proper performance by mandamus, or could have objected to the application for judgment against the property to satisfy the assessment.[1] Where a statute authorizes the making of contracts for river and harbor improvements, the occupation of land on the river frontage by the engineer in charge of the work is not ultra vires, and a contract of tenancy should be implied.[2] But if it appears that the damages suffered from such occupancy were caused by illegal acts and intimidations of the government officers, no contract can be implied.[3]

(§ 7) B. Establishment or change of grade of street.[4]—There is no common-law liability resting upon municipalities to pay damages or make compensation to abutting owners for changes lawfully made in the grades of streets. Such liability is entirely statutory.[5] Damage resulting from a change of grade does not constitute a taking of private property for public use, within the meaning of grading and the work is done without taking measures to ascertain and pay damages to an abutting property owner, the city is liable for the damages caused. Schrodt v. St. Joseph [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 543. In an action to recover therefor, a warranty deed and proof of possession by plaintiff is sufficient evidence of title. Id. An occupant of property cannot recover for damage and inconvenience caused while a railway right of way was being lowered in the street, without showing some special damage, not suffered by the public at large, and that the work was done unlawfully or in a negligent manner. Thompson v. Macon, 106 Mo. App. 84, 80 S. W. 1.

93, 94. Damkoehler v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 706.

95. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 102 N. W. 578.

96. Shelby v. Burlington [Iowa] 101 N. W. 101.

97. Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113, 78 P. 607. A jury trial being granted in a suit to restrain a city from grading a street, it was not error to allow the jury to determine the damages to which plaintiffs were entitled in the same action, instead of by a suit by the city under the statute. Id.

98, 99, 1. Gage v. Springer, 211 Ill. 200, 71 N. E. 860.

2, 3. Willink's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 694.

4. See 2 Curr. L. 1342. See, also, Highways and Streets, 3 Curr. L. 1603.

5. City of Newark v. Weeks [N. J. Law] 59 A. 901; Damkoehler v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 706. Railroad Law 1897, p. 797, § 63, authorizing condemnation of lands to abolish grade crossings, does not impose such liability. Smith v. Boston & A. R. Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 679, afg. 99 App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. S. 412. Laws 1903, p. 1396, c. 610, relative to change of grade of highways on which state roads are built does not change the rule as to ordinary highways. Id. New York railroad commissioners have no power to determine that a municipality shall be liable for damages to abutters caused by change of grade. Id. The revised eminent domain act of New Jersey (P. L. 1900, p. 79) does not apply to injuries arising from change of street grade. Manufacturers' Land & Improvement Co. v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1. Nonpayment of damages for change of grade of street does not affect the right of a city to make the improvement or to assess the cost thereof on adjoining property. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661.

the constitution, if the municipality act under authority of law, and use due care.[6] But if the city acts without authority, or if the work is done in a negligent manner so that injury is unnecessarily caused, an abutting owner has a cause of action therefor.[7] Conditions prescribed by statutes allowing recovery of damages must be complied with.[8] The correct measure of damages, when recoverable, for a change of grade, is the difference in the value of the property with, and the value without, the improvement.[9] That the city consented, when convenient, to fill a lot with surplus earth, is irrelevant on the question of damages.[10] Under the New Jersey statute,[11] the damages should include not only structural damage to buildings but also loss of rental value during the time the buildings are rendered untenantable by the work of changing the grade and of adjusting the building to the new grade.[12] A city having the right to grade streets, an excavation for that purpose will not be restrained unless it is made to appear that the change is unnecessary and unreasonable or that the work is to be so performed as to result in an unnecessary injury to private property.[13]

§ 8. Local assessments. A. General principles. Equality and uniformity.[14]—Many of the general principles of taxation apply to local assessments and as to such the topic Taxes should be consulted.[15] It is within the power of the legislature to create special taxing districts and to charge the cost of local improvements, in whole or in part, upon the property in such district, either according to valuation, superficial area, or frontage.[16] Statutes conferring this power on municipalities are the measure of their rights.[17] Whether the cost, or a portion

6. Damkoehler v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 706. Where village board acted lawfully and with due care in changing grade, property owners had no cause of action for damages for rendering access to property difficult and inconvenient. McCullough v. Campbellsport [Wis.] 101 N. W. 709.

7. Damkoehler v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 706.

8. Failure of an abutting owner to file petition for damages with council is a waiver of the claim for damages. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661. To entitle a property owner to damages for change of grade, under Greater New York charter allowing damages only where the owner has improved his property after the grade has been established, such owner must show that his improvements were made in conformity to the grade established. People v. Muh, 101 App. Div. 423, 92 N. Y. S. 22. The board of assessors of New York city having rejected a claim for damages for change of grade, and the board of revision having confirmed such action, it is not reviewable by certiorari. Id.

9, 10. Wheeler v. Bloomington, 105 Ill. App. 97.

11. Legislation on subject in New Jersey reviewed. City of Newark v. Weeks [N. J. Law] 59 A. 901. By virtue of 3 Gen. St. p. 2820, the common council of Camden has power to appoint commissioners to assess damages to property owners caused by change of street grade. Manufacturers' Land & Improvement Co. v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1. The power conferred to appoint "nine commissioners, at least one from each ward," does not authorize the appointment of twelve, though the number of wards has increased from nine to twelve. Id. The power to assess damages for altering a street conferred by the Camden charter does not confer a power to assess for change of grade. Id.

12. City of Newark v. Weeks [N. J. Law] 59 A. 901.

13. Gallaher v. Jefferson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 124.

14. See 2 Curr. L. 1344.

15. See 2 Curr. L. 1786.

16. Vories v. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 249; Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955. Amendment to charter of city of Dallas by Acts 27th Leg. held valid. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874. Laws passed in the exercise of this power are not open to the objection that they deprive the owner of property without due process of law, in the absence of proof that the assessment upon particular property is altogether out of proportion to the actual benefits conferred. McMillan v. Butte [Mont.] 76 P. 203.

17. The legislature may confer the power of special assessment upon municipalities, empowering them to determine what property, as regards its location with respect to local improvements, shall be assessed. Wolff v. Denver [Colo. App.] 77 P. 364. Acts 1893, p. 332, c. 149, Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4274, prescribes modes of assessment for sewers constructed or ordered before passage of the act. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668. A levy of assessments for drainage authorized by acts passed under the constitution of 1850 is not affected by the constitution of 1891. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3706, the board of trustees of a city of the sixth class has power to order the improvement of one-half of a street and assess the cost thereof to property owners on that side, the other half of the street being outside the thereof, is to be paid by special assessments,[18] the proportion of the cost to be so paid,[19] what property is benefited by an improvement, so that it may be included in the assessment district,[20] and the apportionment of the cost within the benefit district,[21] are legislative questions, with the decision of which by the proper legislative authorities, the courts will not interfere[22] in the absence of fraud or manifest injustice.[23]

Constitutional provisions requiring taxes to be uniform are not applicable to city limits. Town of Central Covington v. Busse, 25 Ky. L. R. 2179, 80 S. W. 210. Virginia Const. of 1902, § 170, prohibits special assessments except for sidewalks, improving and paving existing alleys, and sewers. Held, a special assessment for paving a street made after the constitution went into effect, was invalid. Hicks v. Bristol, 102 Va. 861, 47 S. E. 1001. The St. Louis charter, adopted by vote of the people in obedience to an express grant by the constitution, has, with respect to municipal improvements and assessments therefor, all the force and effect of an act of the legislature. Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955. Where a sidewalk was constructed and drain pipes put in by order of the council and not on petition of property owners, the rule for apportioning the cost is that each piece of property pays its proportionate share according to frontage. Moody & Co. v. Spotorno, 112 La. 1008, 36 So. 836.

18. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874. Charter provision that district "benefited" should be assessed is valid and does not authorize assessments on property not "specially" benefited. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122. A pumping station and system of sewers constitute a local improvement for which a special assessment may properly be made. Fisher v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680. A tax for a public improvement in one portion of the municipality at the general expense of the taxing district is for a governmental purpose and is valid. Davern v. Board of Com'rs [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 268.

19. The decision of a city council, by ordinance, of the proportion of the cost of an improvement to be paid for by special taxation, is conclusive. The court has no power to change the proportion or submit the question to a jury. City of Peru v. Bartels [Ill.] 73 N. E. 755. Where a council established an assessment district for a new road 300 feet wide on either side, the reviewing court could not hold such action an abuse of discretion on the ground that the district should have been larger or that the whole city should have borne the expense. Power v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 288.

20. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062. City council's finding that benefits exceeded damages not reviewable. Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661. The question of benefit vel non to particular property included within a local assessment district because of its being similarly situated with all the other property in the district with reference to the work of public improvement for the cost of which the assessment is levied, is a legislative not a judicial question. Moody & Co. v. Spotorno, 112 La. 1008, 36 So. 836. In establishing a sewer district, a city council is exercising, for police purposes, a legislative power, having its origin in the taxing power, such power being conferred by the constitution and statutes of the state. Wolff v. Denver [Colo. App.] 77 P. 364. Action of city authorities in laying out street-grading district is conclusive on the courts unless manifestly unjust or unreasonable. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142. A resolution providing for payment of a certain sum by property owners who connect their premises with a city sewer applies not only to abutting owners but all who connect with and make use of the sewer. City of Fergus Falls v. Edison [Minn.] 102 N. W. 218. St. Louis charter, art. 6, § 14, providing method of creating assessment districts for street improvements, construed. Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955.

21. Vories v. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 249. Action of municipal authorities in making alleged excessive assessment final. Price v. Toledo, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 57. A taxing district having been fixed, and taxes therein apportioned, by valid legislation, a property owner cannot be heard to contend that his property, included in the district, is not in fact benefited, or that the apportionment is incorrect. Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955. Apportionment of benefits for viaduct upheld where subdistricts were made, the rate on each tract in a subdistrict being the same, but the subdistricts varying. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122. No presumption that an assessment is inequitable arises from the mere failure of council to make a record of the valuation of the property charged therewith. Ayers v. Toledo, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 57.

22. Court refused to restrain tax sale on ground of erroneous judgment in creating sewer district. Wolff v. Denver [Colo. App.] 77 P. 364. Creation of assessment district for viaduct under Denver charter art. 7, § 24. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122. Where an assessment on a tract comprising several lots, for a street improvement, is certified over without authority by the city clerk, a court cannot, upon complaint of a lot owner, without having all lot owners affected before it, apportion an assessment over all the lots of the tract liable therefor. Bloch v. Godfrey, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 318. In such case the court will simply decree that plaintiff pay that proportion of the entire amount of the assessment which the area of his lot or lots bears to the area of the entire tract assessed. Id.

23. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122. Assessing the whole cost of a street extension, including planking on abutting property, is not so manifestly unjust to one whose property lies some distance from the point where the planking ceased, as to invalidate the assessment. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44.

special assessments.[24] Absolute equality is not to be expected and any rule of apportionment which makes assessments on property as nearly as possible proportionate to benefits is upheld.[25] It is therefore held that assessments for street improvements levied on property in the benefit district in proportion to frontage are valid,[26] even if made without reference to benefits.[27] But an application of the frontage rule which results in great inequality is void,[28] and may be relieved against in equity.[29] So also the rule of apportionment according to area is prima

24. Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955. Tax within an improvement district being equal and uniform, a law authorizing creation of districts does not contravene constitutional requirement of equality and uniformity of taxation. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874.

25. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114.

NOTE. Local assessments as "taxes": The distinction between the words "tax" and "assessment" as applied to local improvements is said to have been first pointed out in Re New York, 11 Johns. [N. Y.] 77, upon which many later decisions have been based. The word "assessment" is technically applied, not to a burden, but to an equivalent, which is laid for local purposes upon local objects, and compensated for to some extent in local benefits and improvements enhancing the value of the property assessed. McGehee v. Mathis, 21 Ark. 40; Creighton v. Manson, 27 Cal. 613; People v. Austin, 47 Cal. 353; Hayden v. Atlanta, 70 Ga. 817; Palmer v. Stumph, 29 Ind. 329.

It has been held that assessments are taxes within the meaning of the constitutional provision requiring uniformity. But such cases usually hold that the rule of uniformity is sufficiently complied with when the assessment is uniformly laid upon property within a prescribed district, or upon property uniformly benefited; or justify the assessment by holding it analogous to license fees, tolls, duties, and the like, excepted by implication from the rule of uniformity. People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351, 354; Smith v. Farrelly, 52 Cal. 77; Lexington v. McQuillan, 9 Dana [Ky.] 513, 35 Am. Dec. 159; Daily v. Swope, 47 Miss. 367.

Other cases hold that assessments are not taxes within the meaning of the uniformity clause, since the property owner is compensated by benefits accruing to the property by reason of the improvement. Holley v. Orange County, 106 Cal. 420; Bridgeport v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 255, 4 Am. Rep. 63; Sterling v. Galt, 117 Ill. 11; Illinois C. R. Co. v. Decatur, 126 Ill. 92, 1 L. R. A. 613; Rooney v. Brown, 21 La. Ann. 51; Brooks v. Baltimore, 48 Md. 265; Atlanta v. First Pres. Church, 86 Ga. 730, 12 L. R. A. 852.

Another class of cases holds that while assessments are made by the taxing power so long as the assessment is an equivalent for the benefits, yet when the benefit ceases to be an equivalent for the assessment, it becomes pro tanto a taking of private property for public use without just compensation, and hence unconstitutional. But these cases also hold that the rule of uniformity is not violated by an assessment spread over a whole district, or spread upon property according to benefits. People v. Brooklyn, 4 N. Y. 419, 55 Am. Dec. 266; Excelsior, P. & M. Co. v. Green, 39 La. Ann. 455; Matz v. Detroit, 18 Mich. 495; Macon v. Patty, 57 Miss. 378, 386, 34 Am. Rep. 451; Clinton v. Henry County, 115 Mo. 557, 37 Am. St. Rep. 415; Litchfield v. Vernon, 41 N. Y. 123, 133; Lima v. Cemetery Ass'n, 42 Ohio St. 128, 51 Am. Rep. 809.—From note to San Diego v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist. [108 Cal. 189] 35 L. R. A. 33.

26. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44. Kansas City Charter imposing frontage tax is valid. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Munn [Mo.] 83 S. W. 1062. St. Louis charter valid in this respect. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Peck [Mo.] 85 S. W. 387. The front-foot rule for grading is prima facie valid and just. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142. Acts 1894-95, p. 907, authorizing imposition of entire cost of paving a street on abutting property according to frontage is constitutional and valid. City Council of Montgomery v. Moore, 140 Ala. 638, 37 So. 291.

27. Assessments according to frontage without reference to benefits are not a denial of due process of law. Ross v. Gates, 183 Mo. 338, 81 S. W. 1107. Assessments for sidewalks according to frontage, without reference to actual benefits conferred, do not constitute taking of property without compensation. Wilzinski v. Greenville [Miss.] 37 So. 807. A special assessment is to be levied on all property benefited by the improvement in proportion to benefits, and hence the proportion of benefits is a proper subject of inquiry. City of Peru v. Bartels, 214 Ill. 515, 73 N. E. 755. But a special frontage tax is valid, though not based on proportionate benefits, if the tax is within the limit of benefits conferred. Id.

Note: The case of Norwood v. Baker, 172 U. S. 269, 43 Law. Ed. 443, which held in effect that an assessment in substantial excess of benefits was a taking of private property without just compensation, and that the question of benefits was always decisive of the validity of an assessment, has been thoroughly discredited, although not expressly overruled, by French v. Barber Asphalt Paving Co., 181 U. S. 324, 45 Law. Ed. 879, and subsequent decisions. Wight v. Davidson, 181 U. S. 371, 45 Law. Ed. 900; Tonawanda v. Lyon, 181 U. S. 389, 45 Law. Ed. 908; Webster v. Fargo, 181 U. S. 394, 45 Law. Ed. 912; Brown v. Drain, 187 U. S. 635, 47 L. Ed. 343; City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44. See, also, City Council v. Moore, 140 Ala. 638, 37 So. 291, 294; Duncan v. Ramish, 142 Cal. 686, 76 P. 661, 665; Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874, 878.

28. Under the Milwaukee charter, a uniform front-foot assessment of several lots, so differently situated that the cost of grading varied from $4.20 to $86.70, without regard to benefits to the particular lots and without any allowance of damages, is void. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 930.

29. City of Denver v. Campbell [Colo.] 80 P. 142.

facie valid,[30] but may be relieved against in particular instances when it appears that injustice has been done.[31]

It is held in some states that property can be assessed only to the extent to which it is actually benefited by the improvement,[32] and that assessments in excess of, or without regard to, benefits are void,[33] and constitute a taking of property for public use without compensation[34] or without due process of law.[35] But this rule is rigidly applied only in the case of improvements primarily for the public welfare and only incidentally for the benefit of the landowner.[36] With respect to improvements primarily for the benefit of the adjoining land, which are deemed appendages thereto, such as sidewalks and curbs, gutters and house connections with sewers, the actual cost may be charged on the private property to which the chief advantage accrues.[37] Water pipes in streets constitute an improvement of the latter class.[38]

Due process of law.[39]—Assessments levied without notice to persons on whose

30. Under Denver Charter, art. 7, § 4, assessments for paving are according to frontage, unless the abutting lots are not of substantially the same depth, in which case the lots may be assessed substantially the same deptb, not less than 20 nor more than 150 feet from the street line, as the board of public works may determine. Held, the scheme of assessment is prima facie valid. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117. Under it strips of land less than 20 feet deep are not exempt. Id. Denver Charter, art. 7, § 21, whereby assessments in storm sewer district are apportioned according to area, is valid. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114; Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126. Sess. Laws 1897, p. 219, § 30, providing for payment of improvement by an entire district, each tract being assessed according to area, is constitutional. McMillan v. Butte [Mont.] 76 P. 203. The Kentucky statute imposing the cost of improvements on owners of lots in quarter squares, according to the square feet owned by each, and defining a square as the territory bounded by principal streets, and providing that where contiguous land is not so divided into squares, the council shall determine the depth to which an assessment district shall extend, is not rendered invalid by the fact that squares are not all of the same size [Ky. St. 1903, § 2833]. German Protestant Orphan Asylum v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 805, 82 S. W. 632.

31. Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126.

32. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16; Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874; Harper v. New Hanover County Com'rs, 133 N. C. 106, 45 S. E. 526. A sidewalk having been built on private property without compensation to the owner, a court of equity could not enforce a lien against the property for the cost of the improvement, at the same time charging the city with the value of the land, even though the city could have originally condemned the land. City of Clinton v. Franklin, 26 Ky. L. R. 1056, 83 S. W. 140. The right to assess property for local improvements is measured by the amount of benefits. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884. A lot having a frontage of 218 feet on one street, and already supplied with water, could not be assessed for the laying of a supply pipe in another street, on which it had a very small frontage, no benefit resulting therefrom. McChesney v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 368. An ordinance for sidewalks on several disconnected streets, provided that the cost should be levied "on the lots or parcels of land touching upon the line of said sidewalk, in proportion to their frontage upon such sidewalk." Held, the ordinance provided that each owner should pay a pro rata share of the cost of all the walks, and was invalid. People v. Stearns, 213 Ill. 184, 72 N. E. 728. Where an assessment for a street improvement is apportioned without regard to benefits, it cannot be protected by any order the board of public service may make upon its journal. Nulsen v. Cincinnati, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 679. In apportioning an assessment for a street improvement according to benefits, regard should be had for the depth of lots and the relative value of each after the improvement is made. Id. Engineer's certificate showing assessment for sewer construction in accordance with resolution directing assessment, and made in proportion to benefits, is conclusive that lots were so assessed as well as by area. Walker v. Detroit [Mich.] 101 N. W. 847.

33. Neal v. Vansickel [Neb.] 100 N. W. 200.

34. A front-foot assessment of three tracts each fronting 100 feet on a street, and 8 feet deep, equal to the assessment per front foot of lots 120 to 175 feet deep held unequal and invalid. Iowa Pipe & Tile Co. v. Callanan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 141.

35. Village Laws, § 230, as amended by Laws 1902, p. 1628, c. 591, providing for assessment for fire protection of a building and lot within 500 feet of a hydrant, though water is not taken or used by such premises, is unconstitutional because it provides for the taking of property without due process of law. Village of Canaseraga v. Green, 88 N. Y. S. 539.

36, 37. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16.

38. Act of March 9, 1871 (P. L. p. 415), making the charge of 75 cents per foot of frontage a lien on adjoining land to meet expense of laying pipes in streets of Camden is valid. Doughten v. Camden [N. J. Law] 59 A. 16. Laying new pipes in place of old ones put in by the city's predecessor comes within the meaning of the act. Id.

39. See 2 Curr. L. 1346, n. 68, 69.

property they are imposed, or without affording them an opportunity to be heard, are void.[40] Notice of an assessment by advertisement and posters, instead of by actual service, is not a denial of due process of law.[41] Publication of notice to property owners, and opportunity to be heard before the tribunal intrusted with steps in the assessment procedure is due process of law as to matters to be passed on by such tribunals.[42] A statute which provides for a hearing is not invalid because not providing for notice of the time and place.[43] Publication of an ordinance creating a benefit district on Sunday does not render the assessment invalid.[44] Under the Missouri constitution, no notice is required to be given property owners respecting those matters which the legislature itself determines or delegates to the municipal authorities.[45] A special sewer assessment has been held not void for want of notice to the owner of the property assessed when notice was given to the person who paid the taxes on the property the preceding year.[46]

(§ 8) B. Assessing and levying officers.[47]—The appointment of a commissioner to spread assessments must be legal.[48] Such appointment may, in Illinois, be made by the president of the board of public works.[49] One who is pecuniarily interested in a contract for an improvement is disqualified from acting.[50]

40. Neal v. Vanslckel [Neb.] 100 N. W. 200; In re City of New York, 95 App. Div. 552, 89 N. Y. S. 6. Since Laws 1896, p. 887, c. 727, § 2, providing for the addition of Riverside Park to New York City, makes the provisions of law relative to the taking of private property for public use applicable to the procedure, notice is provided for, and the act is constitutional. Id. Failure to give property owners notice of the proposal to make an improvement, of the engineer's estimate of cost, and of the time and place for hearing objections renders an assessment void, and subjects it to collateral attack. Daly v. Gubbins [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833. An assessment for street improvements held not conclusive as against a street railroad company to which notice had not been given in accordance with Mobile charter, § 87. City of Mobile v. Mobile Light & R. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 127. On objections by property owners to an assessment, it was referred back. Later the resolution referring back the assessment was rescinded, and more than a year later the assessment was confirmed as originally made without further notice to property owners. Held, proceedings set aside as illegal, and new assessment according to law directed. Beach v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 58 A. 81. Burns' Rev. St. 1894, § 4290, making abutting property to the extent of 150 feet from the front line liable for improvements according to frontage, and providing that where such land is subdivided or platted the first 50 feet shall be primarily, and the backlying property secondarily, liable, is not unconstitutional for not entitling the owners of the backlying property to a hearing on the benefits assessed, since the statutory notice of assessment of abutting property is binding on such owners, and they are interested parties, entitled to a hearing. Voris v. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 249. Creditors secured by a deed of trust are not entitled to notice before the levy of a special assessment, not being owners within the meaning of Acts 1891-92, c. 312. City of Richmond v. Williams, 102 Va. 733, 47 S. E. 844. Under Laws 1893, c. 57, a separate ordinance is required for each improvement, and a general ordinance prior to that statute is of no force. Hence, notice of a hearing on confirmation of the report of assessment officers, if sufficient to constitute due process of law, is valid though not given in accordance with such prior general ordinance. City of Aberdeen v. Lucas [Wash.] 79 P. 632.

41. 2 Acts 1857-58, c. 518, providing for assessments for drainage is constitutional on this ground. Hoertz v. Jefferson Southern Pond Draining Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1141. Notice by the city engineer of the completion of an assessment for street improvements, and that such assessment will be open to inspection in his office for ten days, need not be addressed to individual property owners, but is sufficient if addressed "to all owners and other persons interested in" the land described. Palmer v. Port Huron [Mich.] 102 N. W. 996. Notice by publication of the boundaries of a benefit district is due process of law as to persons whose land is not taken but only benefited. City of St. Joseph v. Truckenmiller, 183 Mo. 9, 81 S. W. 1116.

42. Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955. Giving property owners an opportunity to be heard before a council is sufficient though the judgment of the council is subject to revision by the board of public works. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117.

43. Denver Charter, art. 7, § 30, is valid. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117; City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114. Sections 30, 31 of such article provide due process of law. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122.

44. City of Denver v. Londoner [Colo.] 80 P. 117. Storm sewer district. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114.

45. Meier v. St. Louis, 180 Mo. 391, 79 S. W. 955.

46. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 213 Ill. 367, 72 N. E. 1069.

47. See 2 Curr. L. 1346.

48. Laws 1901, p. 101, amending and repealing certain previous legislation, held to control appointment of commissioner. Vil-

(§ 8) C. Persons, property, and districts liable.[51]—In general, all property benefited,[52] including homesteads,[53] may be assessed.[54] Property owned by the municipality or the state is liable for assessments in some jurisdictions.[55] In California, it is held that a railroad right of way cannot be assessed for a street improvement.[56] The contrary is held in Kentucky[57] and New Jersey.[58] In delage of Melrose Park v. Dennebecke, 210 Ill. 422, 71 N. E. 431.

49. Sumner v. Milford [Ill.] 73 N. E. 742.

50. Civil and sanitary engineer, employed to design and construct waterworks system, whose compensation is based on total cost of the work, is disqualified. Murr v. Naperville, 210 Ill. 371, 71 N. E. 380. Proof that such engineer was employed to design and construct the system and later appointed a commissioner to spread the assessment is admissible to show disqualifying interest, in proceeding to confirm an assessment. Id.

51. See 2 Curr. L. 1347.

52. NOTE. Applicability of exemption clauses to local assessments: Applying the generally recognized distinction between taxation and local assessments [see note supra under § 8a], it is generally held that constitutional provisions exempting certain classes of property from general taxation do not apply to local assessments. Thus, in the absence of specific statutory or constitutional exemption, the property of religious, charitable, and educational institutions or societies, is held not exempt from local assessment when benefited by an improvement. In re New York, 11 Johns. [N. Y.] 77; Lockwood v. St. Louis, 24 Mo. 20; Atlanta v. First Pres. Church, 86 Ga. 730, 12 L. R. A. 852; M. E. Church v. Hinton, 92 Tenn. 188, 19 L. R. A. 289; Chicago v. Baptist Theological Union, 115 Ill. 245; Harlem Pres. Church v. New York, 5 Hun [N. Y.] 442. Whether such property is exempt under statutes which state exemptions in more specific terms, depends on the construction placed on the particular statute involved. Held exempt: Lefevre v. Detroit, 2 Mich. 586; Erie v. First Universalist Church, 105 Pa. 278. Held not exempt: Beatrice v. Brethren Church, 41 Neb. 358; Mullen v. Erie Com'rs, 85 Pa. 288, 27 Am. Rep. 650.

Private educational institutions are usually held liable for local assessments. Harvard College v. Boston, 104 Mass. 470; Thiel College v. Mercer County, 101 Pa. 530; In re College Street, 8 R. I. 474; Marks v. Purdue University, 37 Ind. 155; Sioux City v. Ind. School Dist., 55 Iowa, 150.

Property set aside for cemeteries is also liable for improvements which benefit it, in the absence of specific exemption. Bloomington Cemetery Ass'n v. People, 139 Ill. 16; Buffalo City Cemetery v. Buffalo, 46 N. Y. 506; Beltzhoover v. Beltzhoover, 173 Pa. 213; State v. St. Paul, 36 Minn. 529.

So also the property of public charitable organizations and other institutions beneficial to the public are not exempt under the general taxation exemption clause. State Protestant Foster Home Soc. v. Newark, 36 N. J. Law, 478, 13 Am. Rep. 464; Boston Society, etc., v. Boston, 129 Mass. 178; Roosevelt Hospital v. New York, 84 N. Y. 108; Erie City v. Y. M. C. A., 151 Pa. 168; Philadelphia v. Ladies' United Aid Soc., 154 Pa. 12.

Public property cannot be assessed, unless the power to assess it is conferred by statute. Polk County Sav. Bank v. State, 69 Iowa, 24. The intent of the legislature to confer the power must be clear. Worcester County v. Worcester, 116 Mass. 193, 17 Am. Rep. 159. But when the power is clearly granted, such property as court houses, public squares, etc., is assessable on the theory of benefits. McLean County v. Bloomington, 106 Ill. 209. [The Kentucky statute has recently been held valid. Hager v. Gast (Ky.) 84 S. W. 556.]

Quasi public property, such as that belonging to railroad companies and used for railroad purposes is usually held liable for assessments in proportion to benefits. New Haven v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co., 38 Conn. 422, 9 Am. Rep. 399. But an assessment cannot be made unless the property is benefited. Mount Pleasant v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 138 Pa. 365, 11 L. R. A. 520.

There is, however, a conflict as to the power to assess railway property. See cases cited to text in this section. Also, C., etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 89 Wis. 509, 62 N. W. 419, 28 L. R. A. 249. [For discussion of exemption from assessment in general see note to San Diego v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist. (108 Cal. 189) in 35 L. R. A. 33, from which the above matter is largely taken.]

53. Under Texas Const. art. 16, § 50, making homesteads liable to sale for taxes, a homestead is liable for a street assessment. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874.

54. Changes in certain streets of Boston and construction of a terminal station held to be parts of a single improvement, so that benefits might properly be assessed therefor on adjoining property. Wells v. Street Com'rs of Boston [Mass.] 73 N. E. 554. Where property owners knew of, and most of them requested or consented to, the building of a necessary retaining wall along a street constructed on the side of a hill, they were liable to assessments for the cost, though the wall was not actually built on their property. In re Perrysville Ave. [Pa.] 60 A. 160.

55. In Missouri, property owned by a city is liable for special assessments for street improvements. The statute providing for enforcement of the tax by a general judgment against the city is constitutional [Rev. St. 1899, § 5682]. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. St. Joseph, 183 Mo. 451, 82 S. W. 64. The Kentucky statute providing that in cities of the first class, where an improvement is such that the abutting property is assessable for the cost, property owned by the state may be assessed the same as other property, is not invalid as special legislation, even though Louisville is the only city of the first class in the state. Hager v. Gast [Ky.] 84 S. W. 556. The statute does not violate the constitutional provision exempting public property from taxation; nor that forbidding the general assembly from authorizing any debt on behalf of the commonwealth except for specified purposes [Const. §§ 49, 50]. Id.

56. A statute authorizing assessments for termining the liability of a street railway company for street improvements, the local charter,[59] general statutes,[60] and contracts between the company and the municipality,[61] must be looked to. A company cannot be charged with the cost of improving a street which it has not occupied with its tracks.[62]

Whether particular property has been properly included in an assessment district may depend upon the construction placed upon the statute or ordinance creating the district.[63] In Indiana it is held that an assessment omitting benefited street improvements on abutting property does not authorize the assessment of a railroad right of way. A portion of such right of way could not be sold to satisfy such assessment if made, since the use of the land is necessary to the exercise of the franchise. Southern California R. Co. v. Workman [Cal.] 79 P. 586.

57. Orth v. Park & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1910, 79 S. W. 206.

58. Railroad lands benefited for railroad purposes by a municipal improvement may be assessed to the extent of such benefit, in the absence of a legislative exemption. Land occupied by depot and tracks held benefited by curbing and paving of street. Erie R. Co. v. Paterson [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1031.

59. City charter provision requiring street railway companies to pay cost of paving streets between rails and tracks and two feet on either side is valid. Kettle v. Dallas [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 874. A street railway company required by ordinance to pave and keep in good condition portions of streets in which tracks were laid is not liable to an assessment for a water supply pipe on one side of the street. McChesney v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 368.

60. Under Pub. Acts 1893, p. 310, c. 169, § 6, placing on street railroads the duty of keeping in repair that part of the highway occupied by them, and the act of 1897, providing that the cost of an agreement for future repairs by the contractor may be made an element of the cost of paving, it is held that a street railroad cannot be compelled to bear that proportion of the cost added by an agreement to keep the paving in repair for ten years, the contractor's bond inuring only to the benefit of the city. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven [Conn.] 58 A. 703. Award of court assessing street railroad held to include such a sum, and hence improper. Id.

61. Where a street railway company agreed to repave a portion of the streets used by it with trap block pavement, and the city council passed a resolution requiring a street to be paved with granite blocks, the railway company was liable for what trap block paving would have cost. City of New York v. Harlem Bridge, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 557.

Note: See note on liability of street railways for paving assessments appended to Shreveport v. Prescott [51 La. Ann. 1895] in 46 L. R. A. 193.

62. Harris v. Macomb, 213 Ill. 47, 72 N. E. 762. Under Mobile Charter, §§ 91, 85, a street railroad cannot be charged with a portion of the cost of underground drainage incurred in paving a street on which it had no tracks, though it had tracks on streets in the district improved. City of Mobile v. Mobile Light & R. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 127.

63. Certain tracts of land held to have been erroneously included in assessment district, under St. Louis city charter. Collier's Estate v. Western Paving & Supply Co., 180 Mo. 362, 79 S. W. 947. Where only one of four lots owned by the same person abuts on an improved street, the whole tract cannot be assessed unless the owner has disregarded the lot lines and used the lots as a single tract. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Peck [Mo.] 85 S. W. 387. The St. Louis charter provides that if property fronting on an improved street is divided into lots, the line of a special assessment district shall be drawn so as to include the entire depth of lots fronting on the improved street. Held, platted lots should be included, though they extend beyond the middle line between the improved street and the next street. State v. St. Louis, 183 Mo. 230, 81 S. W. 1104. A tract including ten lots, only five of which front on the improved street, should be included only to the middle line, though the owner uses the tract as one, disregarding the lot lines. Id. An unplatted tract between the two streets should be included to the middle line. Id. Under Laws 1895, p. 1380, c. 635, tit. 7, § 19, an assessment for grading and curbing cannot be made on a lot no part of which fronts on the street improved. Harriman v. Yonkers [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 493. Lands which do not abut on proposed sewers, are not within the district, and are not permitted to drain into the proposed sewers cannot be assessed for their construction. Clark v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 358. A finding by the Kentucky court of appeals that certain territory is not a square, not being surrounded by principal streets, is not binding on the court in a subsequent case between different parties, when the contrary appears to be the fact. German Protestant Orphan Asylum v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 805, 82 S. W. 632. Where improved cross streets were not extended because a railroad right of way intervened, they were treated as extended for purposes of assessment. Specht v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 193, 80 S. W. 1106. Where a free turnpike road, improved under the one-mile assessment law, makes an obtuse angle, the proper method for ascertaining the amount of property assessable at the angle, is to project the limit lines parallel with their respective sides at an exact length and then connect the two points to a line, instead of projecting them still further till they meet. Monypeny v. Board of County Com'rs, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 330. Portions of a street vacated by a municipality go to the owners of the abutting lots and do not revert to the original owners and such lots are liable as abutting property to assessment for improving the street. Price v. Toledo, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 57.

abutting property is invalid.[64] In Colorado, the omission of lots from an assessment does not make the entire assessment void.[65] An objection that lots which should have been assessed were omitted is unavailing unless accompanied by proof of other tracts that should have been included.[66] Territory brought within the limits of a municipality during the construction of a public work, and benefited thereby, is subject to assessment.[67] The detachment from a town of territory in which an improvement has been made does not prevent the carrying out of proceedings to pay therefor by special assessment.[68] A city in accepting a deed of land for a street has no power to agree to a condition that other land of the grantor in the addition shall not be assessed for the improvement.[69] The action of one council in creating an assessment district is not conclusive on a subsequent council by which an improvement is completed.[70]

(§ 8) D. Amount of individual assessment, and offsetting of benefits and damages.[71]—Damages caused by an improvement are commonly deducted from the amount of the assessment.[72] Where a council proceeds under the Barrett law and subsequent legislation, in Indiana, in providing the cost of a general sewer system, actual benefits and damages are to be considered, and the assessment is not limited to ten per cent of the assessed valuation of the property.[73] In Washington a city may, after determining the amount of damages for land taken for street purposes, assess benefits resulting from the improvement against the remaining land.[74] In New York a property owner is entitled to interest on the award of damages[75] if a proper demand for damages has been made.[76] Both damages and benefits being assessed on realty in street opening proceedings,

64. Helm v. Witz [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 846. Though only a part of a street in width is improved, abutting property on both sides of the street is liable to assessment of benefits, and an assessment of property on one side only is void under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4290. Klein v. Nugent Gravel Co., 162 Ind. 509, 70 N. E. 801.

65. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114; Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126.

66. O'Dea v. Mitchell, 144 Cal. 374, 77 P. 1020.

67. Since under Rochester charter, §§ 198, 199, an assessment cannot be made until the improvement is completed. In re Hollister, 96 App. Div. 501, 89 N. Y. S. 518. Under § 172, the first assessment having omitted such property, the council properly enlarged the assessment district so as to include the property newly incorporated into the city. Id.

68. 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 802, § 10. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884.

69. Leggett v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 566.

70. Where a council opened a new street and fixed the limits of the district to be assessed for the cost, and a subsequent council provided, by independent proceedings, for the grading and curbing of the street, and fixed a district to be assessed for the cost thereof, the omission from the second district of two tracts included in the first did not render invalid the second assessment, since the first council could not by its action conclude the second. Harriman v. Yonkers [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 493.

71. See 2 Curr. L. 1348.

72. Ordinance invalid where award of commissioners failed to allow damages to railroad company for structural changes in roadbed and tracks made necessary by opening new street. Paterson, etc., R. Co. v. Town Council of Nutley [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1032. Where the council failed to deduct from an assessment the amount realized from the sale of a building on property taken, it was held proper for the reviewing court to amend the assessment by deducting such amount and then allow the assessment to stand. Power v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 288.

73. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 3 (Barrett Law) and Acts 1895, p. 192, c. 91, § 3, held to have been followed, and not Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 3541, subd. 43. Norton v. Fisher, 33 Ind. App. 132, 71 N. E. 51.

74. Pierce's Code, § 5064. Quirk v. Seattle [Wash.] 80 P. 207. This is not a violation of § 5071, prohibiting assessing of benefits against lands taken or found to be damaged, since that section applies only to entire tracts. Id.

75. Laws 1896, p. 888, c. 727, § 4, providing for addition of Riverside Park, is not objectionable because it includes interest in the amount to be awarded owners as damages, since owners are entitled to interest from the time title to property taken vests in the city. In re City of New York, 95 App. Div. 552, 89 N. Y. S. 6.

76. To entitle a property owner to interest on an award of damages, after six months from the date of the confirmation of the commissioner's report, under the New York charter, a proper demand must have been made within the six-months period. A demand for damages which took no account of the benefits assessed, was not sufficient. In re City of New York, 91 App. Div. 553, 87 N. Y. S. 123.

and the city being liable for interest on the damages, interest should also be charged on the unpaid benefits.[77] When the amount by which an assessment is excessive can be mathematically determined, the excess only, and not the entire assessment, is invalid.[78] Where lots are adjacent and appropriated in use and occupation as one property, they are to be so treated alike, for purposes of assessment, whether improved or vacant.[79] Though a corner lot has been assessed to the limit per front foot for a sewer in the street on one side, it may nevertheless be assessed according to frontage for a sewer in the other street.[80] An assessment roll of benefits and damages to lands in a drainage district by a jury who went on the land is prima facie proof that the benefits assessed will be received by the lands concerned.[81] In fixing benefits arising from improvement of a street, greater weight will be given to the testimony of experts than to that of resident property owners who have established permanent homes and give little attention to changes in market value.[82] Where a municipality is made liable to a lot owner for damages which it has been decided he has sustained in excess of benefits conferred by an improvement, the taxable property of the municipality constitutes a pledge or fund to which the owner may resort for payment in the manner prescribed by statute.[83]

(§ 8) E. The assessment roll or report, and objections thereto; approval or confirmation.[84]—The record of assessment should be properly certified or authenticated.[85] An accurate description and location of the land assessed is essential to the validity of an assessment.[86] Extraneous evidence cannot be resorted to, to render a description certain, as in the case of a private conveyance.[87] The fact that only one-half a lot was included in a resolution creating a district is immaterial where the whole lot is assessed and the tax paid, and the result would have been the same had the description been correct.[88] Property must be assessed to the proper person,[89] and under the Indiana statute, the engineer's report on assessments must give the owner's name in full.[90] A general objection that an assessment and all proceedings are illegal and void does not raise an objection that the assessment is irregular because made to the estate of a testator instead of to the devisees who held title.[91] Such irregularity is waived where the owners did not raise it at the time they raised other objections thereto.[92] Where the engineer is instructed to make a plat of a district to be assessed, showing the location, number and frontage of each lot, and such plat is made and adopted, the district assessed is sufficiently designated.[93] The assessing or-

77. In re City of New York, 91 App. Div. 553, 87 N. Y. S. 123.

78. City of Denver v. Kennedy [Colo.] 80 P. 122.

79. Hill-O'Meara Const. Co. v. Sessinghaus, 106 Mo. App. 163, 80 S. W. 747.

80. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3105, limiting sewer assessments to $1 per front foot. Rich v. Woods, 26 Ky. L. R. 799, 82 S. W. 578.

81. But finding that a tract would not be damaged by a ditch held contrary to evidence. Pinkstaff v. Allison Ditch Dist. No. 2, 213 Ill. 186, 72 N. E. 715.

82. Waldschmidt v. Bowland, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 99.

83. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 930.

84. See 2 Curr. L. 1349.

85. Certificate held sufficient. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81.

86. Description held to apply to tract not owned by person charged. City of Rochester v. Farrar, 44 Misc. 394, 89 N. Y. S. 1035. Laws 1903, p. 1187, c. 522, § 1, curing errors and irregularities in assessment proceedings and validating assessments cannot validate an assessment void because the land was erroneously described. Id.

87. Description of land in engineer's report of assessments held uncertain. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

88. McMillan v. Butte [Mont.] 76 P. 203.

89. Land belonging to devisees under a will is improperly assessed to the estate of the testator. Brown v. Otis, 90 N. Y. S. 250.

90. "P. Ft. W. & C. Railway Co." for Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Railway Company is insufficient. Pennsylvania Co. v. Cole, 132 F. 668.

91, 92. Brown v. Otis, 90 N. Y. S. 250.

93. Under Comp. Laws, § 3198. Auditor General v. Calkins [Mich.] 98 N. W. 742. Assessment roll and designation of district dinance need only give the rate of assessment in the district, without showing in detail the amount charged against each tract in the district.[94] The original order of county commissioners fixing a road levy can, on petition, be amended by the commissioners, if the amendment is made in time to permit the first installment thereof to be collected in due course, and before any inconsistent action has been taken upon the first levy.[95]

Judicial confirmation.[96]—In Illinois the filing of a petition for confirmation of an assessment gives the county court jurisdiction.[97] A property owner who voluntarily appears and files objections waives all questions of jurisdiction over his person.[98] Objections must be made in such a manner as to show the point on which a decision is asked, and to enable the opposite party to obviate it, if it can be done.[99] Allowance of amendments to objections filed, or permission to file further objections, is discretionary with the court.[1] Under a statute providing that a recommendation by a board of local improvements shall be prima facie proof that all preliminary steps required by law have been complied with, the introduction in evidence of such recommendation, of the estimate of the engineer, and of the ordinance makes a prima facie case.[2] The prima facie case made by an assessment roll returned by a jury cannot prevail if rebutted by competent proof.[3] A plat stated by the witness to be incorrect is inadmissible.[4] The city has the right to open and close the argument.[5] The judgment of confirmation should not include the expense of making and levying an assessment.[6] Where an ambiguity in the description of property in a judgment of confirmation is shown by extrinsic evidence, the ambiguity may be explained by similar evidence.[7] The reversal of a judgment confirming an assessment as to a particular piece of property does not affect the assessment on other property[8] as to which no appeal was taken.[9] Where, after reversal of a confirmation of an assessment, notice of a motion to redocket the cause was given, and the objector failed to appear, it was proper to take a default before proceeding further.[10] A paving ordinance being held insufficient on appeal, on the ground that it did not properly describe the improvement, it was improper for the court, on remand of the case, to hold the ordinance invalid as tending to create a monopoly; hence the latter judgment is not conclusive in a subsequent proceeding based on a different ordinance providing for a second assessment to pay for the same improvement.[11] Where a therein held sufficient. Walker v. Detroit [Mich.] 98 N. W. 744.

94. Denver Charter, §§ 218, 190. Spalding v. Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 126.

95. Monypeny v. Board of County Com'rs, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 330.

96. See 2 Curr. L. 1350, n. 23.

97. Where the objection that a petition had been previously used in connection with other ordinances, which had been held invalid, was not raised, objectors could not obtain relief in equity against a confirmation, on the ground of want of jurisdiction. Sumner v. Milford [Ill.] 73 N. E. 742.

98. Fisher v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680.

99. Fisher v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680. Objections that the resolution by the board of local improvements should specify in terms, whether the improvement is to be made by special assessment or special taxation, or partly by one and partly by the other; and that the estimate required to be itemized and made a part of the resolution should be incorporated in the record thereof, over the signature of the engineer of the board of local improvement, held sufficient in form. Ziegler v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 61, 72 N. E. 719.

1. City of Peru v. Bartels [Ill.] 73 N. E. 755.

2. Local Improvement Act, §§ 9, 10. Richards v. Jerseyville [Ill.] 73 N. E. 370.

3. Evidence held sufficient to show assessment of benefits on land in drainage district excessive, and to overcome prima facie case made by assessment roll. Wathen v. Allison Ditch Dist. No. 2, 213 Ill. 138, 72 N. E. 781.

4, 5. City of Peru v. Bartels [Ill.] 73 N. E. 755.

6. Since the 1901 amendment to the local improvement act. Lanphere v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 440, 72 N. E. 426.

7. Harman v. People [Ill.] 73 N. E. 760.

8. Sumner v. Milford [Ill.] 73 N. E. 742.

9. Goldstein v. Milford [Ill.] 73 N. E. 758; Harman v. People [Ill.] 73 N. E. 760.

10. Gage v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 109, 71 N. E. 877.

proceeding to confirm a special assessment was dismissed because not brought under the proper act, the judgment of dismissal was not conclusive in a proceeding under another ordinance, brought under the proper statute.[12] Objections to an assessment must be raised in the county court, and cannot be first raised on appeal.[13] Failure of the board of local improvements to give an itemized cost estimate does not subject to collateral attack the county court's judgment declaring and fixing an assessment.[14] The question of benefits, and whether property has been assessed more than its proportionate share of the cost, are questions of fact, and a judgment of confirmation rendered on a hearing before the court will not be interfered with unless manifestly contrary to the weight of the evidence.[15] On a hearing of objections to a petition for a special assessment the court may, in its discretion, grant separate hearings to different classes of objectors.[16] In such case each hearing is distinct, and objectors in one class are not entitled to a bill of exceptions containing the evidence given in support of objections heard in another case.[17] The order of the court granting separate hearings can be made a part of the record only by a bill of exceptions.[18]

Under a statute requiring any attack upon an assessment to be made in thirty days, the day of passage of the ordinance and ascertainment of cost of the improvement is included.[19]

(§ 8) F. Equalization.[20]—Notice of a meeting of the council as a board of equalization "at least six days prior" to such meeting means that the notice is to be given during the six days immediately preceding the meeting.[21] Property owners may, at such meeting, offer objections and submit evidence in support thereof.[22] An equalization board, when properly in session, with due notice given, acts judicially, and its action within its jurisdiction is not subject to collateral attack, except for fraud, gross injustice, or mistake.[23] "Gross injustice" within the meaning of the exception must be so flagrant and excessive as to substantially deprive a citizen of his property, or a part of it, without due process of law.[24]

(§ 8) G. Reassessment and additional assessments.[25]—The statutory assessment of benefits is simply a mode of special taxation to meet the expenses of government in making public improvements which specially benefit particular property.[26] If the other necessary conditions exist, such taxation may be authorized after as well as before the expenditure is incurred,[27] and this proposition includes the authorization of a reassessment to take the place of one which is void for ir-

11, 12. Lusk v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 183, 71 N. E. 878.

13. Fisher v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 268, 72 N. E. 680. Objections, except to the jurisdiction of the court, over the subject-matter, are waived unless properly raised on the hearing below. Id. An objection to a judgment confirming a special sewer assessment, which does not appear on the face of the record, will be overruled, the judgment appearing regular on its face, showing that the court had jurisdiction and the statutory requirements were complied with. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 213 Ill. 367, 72 N. E. 1069.

14. Treat v. Chicago [C. C. A.] 130 F. 443.

15. Clark v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 358.

16. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 374, c. 24, § 48. People v. Carter, 210 Ill. 122, 71 N. E. 369.

17, 18. People v. Carter, 210 Ill. 122, 71 N. E. 369.

19. City of Leavenworth v. Jones [Kan.] 77 P. 273.

20. See 2 Curr. L. 1352.

21. Shannon v. Omaha [Neb.] 100 N. W. 298.

22. Denver City Charter, art. 7, § 31, making it the duty of the council sitting as a board of equalization to hear and determine all complaints before the assessment ordinance is passed, contemplates an opportunity to property owners to offer objections and evidence in support thereof. City of Denver v. Dumars [Colo.] 80 P. 114.

23. Comp. St. 1901, § 161, c. 12a, and § 164, c. 12a, construed. Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675.

24. Wead v. Omaha [Neb.] 102 N. W. 675.

25. See 2 Curr. L. 1352.

26. Warren v. Boston [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1022.

27. Warren v. Boston [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1022. An assessment may be levied for public work already done. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44. But see 2 Curr. L. 1346, n. 76.

regularity or error.[28] Reassessments for this purpose are commonly authorized.[29] Since an assessment may be levied for public work already done,[30] a reassessment is not invalid because it covers work unauthorized at the time the improvement was constructed.[31] Such a reassessment is not a denial of due process of law.[32]

Where an ordinance is necessary to authorize a city to order an improvement, a wholly void ordinance renders all proceedings pursuant thereto invalid, and incapable of being cured by reassessment.[33] But if no ordinance was necessary, as under a statute specifically pointing out the method to be followed, an invalid ordinance is immaterial and a reassessment may be upheld notwithstanding.[34] Under the Iowa reassessment statute, a reassessment may be made where the original assessment was adjudged invalid by the district court because made by the front-foot rule, regardless of the correctness of such decision.[35]

In Illinois, unless an assessment has been annulled by the city council, or set aside by some court, or the ordinance has been held insufficient for the purpose of a prior assessment, so that collection is impossible, a new assessment cannot be made.[36] An ordinance authorizing a supplemental assessment for work completed and accepted under an invalid ordinance need not remedy defects of description in the original ordinance.[37]

In Kentucky, the court which, on an appeal to it, has declared an apportionment illegal, is authorized to order an apportionment on the proper basis as prescribed by the statute.[38]

28. If the error or defect is one which the legislature might have authorized in the first place, it has power to cure it by a subsequent act. Warren v. Boston [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1022.

29. St. 1902, p. 439, c. 527, authorizing reassessment of betterments for improvements completed during the six preceding years, assessments for which were void owing to irregularities, is constitutional. Warren v. Boston [Mass.] 72 N. E. 1022. The act applies to previous improvements made under both general and special acts, and whether such prior assessments were void for mere irregularity or because of unconstitutionality. Id. The act does not apply to improvements assessments for which were valid. Id. The act is not unconstitutional because authorizing unequal taxation, by reason of the fact that the lands on which prior invalid assessments were paid without protest are exempt, since the reassessment is only for one-half the cost, and presumably is proportionately less than the prior assessment. Id. A reassessment may be made where the original assessment was unenforceable because the ordinance did not properly define the assessment district. State v. St. Louis, 183 Mo. 230, 81 S. W. 1104. Under Rochester Charter, § 215, authorizing reassessment in case of nonpayment for irregularity or error, where an assessment is held invalid because not including territory incorporated in the city after commencement of the work, the council is authorized to make a reassessment including such property. In re Hollister, 96 App. Div. 501, 89 N. Y. S. 518.

30. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44. Contra, see 2 Curr. L. 1346, n. 76.

31, 32. City of Seattle v. Kelleher, 25 S. Ct. 44.

33. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529. McClain's Code, §§ 834, 835, providing that the council may take necessary steps to correct any omission or irregularity in proceedings, rendering a tax invalid, does not authorize an ordinance validating a void assessment. McManus v. Hornaday, 124 Iowa, 267, 100 N. W. 33.

34. Code, § 792 et seq., relative to street improvements and assessments therefor, renders a general ordinance unnecessary. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529.

35. Under Code, § 836. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529.

36. Where judgment on a special assessment was reversed and remanded to allow proof that "flat stones" had a well known commercial meaning among contractors, so that an ordinance using the term would be valid, such judgment was not a final disposition or setting aside of the assessment so as to authorize the making of a new one. Holden v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 289, 72 N. E. 435. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, p. 389, c. 24, §§ 57, 58, providing that a special assessment shall not be void because levied for work already done, in good faith, under a prior ordinance, and authorizing a supplemental petition in such case, a judgment that the ordinance is invalid is not res judicata on the liability of property assessed; a supplemental ordinance being passed, the court has jurisdiction to entertain a petition for an assessment thereunder. City of Chicago v. Sherman, 212 Ill. 498, 72 N. E. 396.

37. City of Chicago v. Sherman, 212 Ill. 498, 72 N. E. 396.

38. Ky. St. 1899, § 2834; also § 2833 prescribing mode of apportionment. Orth v. Park & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1910, 79 S. W. 206. Where the chancellor ordered the commissioner to charge quarter squares contiguous to an improvement, as required by statute, the presumption is that the commissioner did so, and that the circuit court's judgment was right. Orth v. Park & Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 184, 80 S. W. 1108.

In Wisconsin, where, in an equitable action to set aside an assessment, or an action at law to recover damages for an improper assessment of benefits and damages, the court decides an assessment invalid, it must stay proceedings until a new assessment is had.[39] The statute so providing is applicable to a proceeding instituted after the statute went into effect, where the assessment complained of was made before its enactment;[40] and, as thus construed, is constitutional.[41]

Under the Illinois statute, authorizing a second assessment to pay a deficit, such assessment should have its origin in a proper petition to the county court for an order directing the same to be made.[42] The engineer's estimate, and its approval by the board of trustees of a town, affords prima facie proof of a deficiency.[43] In determining the question, the expense of collecting and disbursing an assessment, and the interest on vouchers given the contractor, may be considered a part of the cost of the improvement.[44] The holder of a voucher for an instalment of a special assessment is not entitled to a supplemental assessment to cover a deficiency caused by property owners paying instalments to a village before maturity, thus causing a loss of interest.[45] A supplemental assessment for a deficiency cannot be made until the amount of the deficiency is definitely determined;[46] that is, until the work has been actually completed and accepted and the cost thereof ascertained.[47] Hence, the preliminary steps necessary in the case of the first assessment are not essential to the validity of the second.[48] An improvement as made must conform substantially to the original description thereof in the ordinance, in order to sustain a supplemental assessment.[49] When the benefits to property from an improvement have been finally and conclusively determined, and the amount of an assessment equal thereto paid, the power to assess is exhausted.[50] A judgment confirming an assessment is, in the absence of an express finding, a prima facie adjudication that the property of an objector has been assessed to the full amount of its benefits,[51] and such judgment should be given that effect in a proceeding for a supplemental assessment.[52]

The effect of vouchers, accepted by contractors under the city and village act of Illinois, is simply to release claims against the municipality, except the right to have assessments collected, and does not prevent supplemental assessments.[53]

39. Held error to refuse such stay in action at law for damages, construing Laws 1903, p. 572, c. 354, amending Rev. St. 1898, § 1210e. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 930.

40. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 930.

41. It does not deprive lot owners of damages in excess of benefits, nor of any right of action or remedy to which they are by law entitled. Haubner v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 101 N. W. 930.

42. Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 374, c. 24, § 59. City of Chicago v. Noonan, 210 Ill. 18, 71 N. E. 32.

43, 44. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884.

45. The relinquishment of claims by holders of vouchers bars the right. Village of Wilmette v. People [Ill.] 73 N. E. 327.

46. Sheriffs v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 367.

47. Sheriffs v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 367. Where contract is let at a price in excess of the first assessment, a second cannot be levied until the work is completed. City of Chicago v. Richardson, 213 Ill. 96, 72 N. E. 791.

48. Recommendation by board of improvements, engineer's estimate, public hearing, and second ordinance, unnecessary. City of Chicago v. Noonan, 210 Ill. 18, 71 N. E. 32. Where work was done and accepted and bonds and interest-bearing vouchers were issued therefor, an ordinance for a second assessment to pay a deficit need not provide for an estimate of cost by commissioners. Lusk v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 183, 71 N. E. 878.

49. Construction of roadway 64 feet wide is a substantial departure from an ordinance authorizing one fifty feet wide. City of Chicago v. Ayers, 212 Ill. 59, 72 N. E. 32. The use of a five-inch instead of a six-inch curb and gutter and use of four-inch instead of three-inch crushed stone is not such a departure as to invalidate an assessment. City of Chicago v. Sherman, 212 Ill. 498, 72 N. E. 396.

50. Thus a verdict of a jury in a proceeding to confirm an assessment that the benefits exactly equal the amount of the assessment precludes litigation of the question of benefits in a supplemental proceeding for a second assessment. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884.

51, 52. Sheriffs v. Chicago [Ill.] 73 N. E. 367.

53. Town of Cicero v. Green, 211 Ill. 241, 71 N. E. 884.

The order of a city council confirming reassessment proceedings has the conclusiveness of a judgment of a court.[54] To include in a reassessment items not proper to be included therein does not render the assessment void or subject it to collateral attack.[55] An objection that a reassessment is excessive is waived by failure to raise it at the proper time.[56] The mere fact that lots are all charged with the same amount by a reassessment and for the same amount as by a prior assessment which was under the front-foot rule does not conclusively show that the reassessment is not according to benefits.[57] The validity of a reassessment is not affected by the fact that city officials promised to give an interested person notice of the reassessment proceedings, and failed to do so, where the statutory notice is given and proceedings de novo taken.[58] Such a promise could not in any case affect the proceedings, since it was void as against public policy.[59]

Notice of the reassessment may be presumed from the record of the proceedings.[60] A supplemental assessment must be made within the time provided by law.[61]

(§ 8) H. Maturity, obligation, and lien of assessments.[62]—Special assessments are not a lien on property unless levied according to the statutory rule[63] and entered on the proper books.[64] The lien of a tax bill is not rendered invalid by the omission of the owner's name.[65] The duration of a special assessment lien is fixed by statute.[66] A constitutional provision that tax liens shall lapse in three years, as against third persons, cannot be taken advantage of by one not a third person.[67] Special assessment liens cover the entire estate and are paramount to all existing liens of a private nature.[68] A lien for general taxes is paramount to a lien for a special assessment, even though such assessment is payable in instalments, some of which have not matured.[69] The fact that the city holding the lien of a special assessment was not made a party to the proceeding to foreclose a delinquency certificate does not change the rule, proper notice having been given the owner of the property.[70] A street assessment lien, unlike the lien of a general tax, is subject to the statute of limitations, and when merged in a judgment is

54. The statute so providing is valid. Alexander v. Tacoma, 35 Wash. 366, 77 P. 686.

55. Cost of keeping street in repair for five years improperly included. Alexander v. Tacoma, 35 Wash. 366, 77 P. 686.

56. Question of excessiveness of reassessment waived by failure to appear and object, statutory notice being given. Alexander v. Tacoma, 35 Wash. 366, 77 P. 686.

57, 58, 59. Alexander v. Tacoma, 35 Wash. 366, 77 P. 686.

60. As where resolution for reassessment was on Jan. 6, 1902, objection thereto was made on Jan. 31, 1902, whereupon a resolution was passed making the reassessment. Martin v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 102 N. W. 529.

61. An order denying a sale, made several terms after a judgment of confirmation, was not a setting aside of the confirmation, and hence a subsequent assessment more than five years after the original assessment was confirmed, was barred by limitations, under § 60 of Law of 1897. Doremus v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 513, 72 N. E. 403.

62. See 2 Curr. L. 1353.

63. Front-foot rule in Iowa. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City [Iowa] 101 N. W. 268.

64. In Iowa, if the county treasurer on receiving the tax list fails to enter thereon unpaid special assessments, such assessments cease to be a lien on the property. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City [Iowa] 101 N. W. 268.

65. City of St. Joseph v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 98.

66. Special assessments levied by a city are barred by limitations when delinquent for five years. Fitzgerald v. Sioux City [Iowa] 101 N. W. 268. Revenue Act, § 279, barring by limitations a special assessment not returned as provided by that act, does not apply to an assessment confirmed under a prior act and returned under Act 1897. Cummings v. People, 213 Ill. 443, 72 N. E. 1094. Since a city has no authority to adopt the plan of charging the whole cost of a street improvement to abutting owners, and making the same payable in ten yearly instalments except upon request of the owners, when such action is taken, the statute limiting the lien of the assessment to five years applies. City of Lexington v. Crosthwaite, 25 Ky. L. R. 1898, 78 S. W. 1130.

67. La. Const. 1898, art. 186. Bacas v. Adler, 112 La. 806, 36 So. 739.

68. Chase v. Trout [Cal.] 80 P. 81. A special assessment lien is superior to all liens acquired by personal contract. O'Dea v. Mitchell, 144 Cal. 374, 77 P. 1020.

69, 70. Pennsylvania Co. v. Tacoma, 36 Wash. 656, 79 P. 306.

governed by the same rules as other judgment liens.[71] Under the Indiana statute making abutting lands on an improved street primarily liable, and backlying lands secondarily liable, an assessment based on a report covering only the bordering lands creates a valid lien on the backlying lands.[72] Such lien is not released by the signing of a waiver of illegalities by abutting owners for the privilege of paying assessments in instalments.[73]

(§ 8) I. Payment and discharge.[74]—Assessments may usually be made payable in instalments.[75] In such case interest is properly charged on deferred payments.[76] Where an ordinance directing the issue of street improvement bonds named the rate of interest of the bonds, the statute requiring the council to fix the rate of interest on unpaid instalments was sufficiently complied with.[77] An assessment payable in a single payment cannot be regarded as an instalment within the statute authorizing the charging of interest on deferred instalments.[78] In Indiana, owners may have the privilege of paying in instalments by agreeing to pay the assessment and to waive irregularities.[79] Interest accrues upon an indebtedness to a municipality for an assessment the same as upon any other debt.[80] A property owner who refuses to pay any part of an assessment is liable to the penalties and interest prescribed by law on such amount as is held valid upon litigation of a tax bill though the amount of the assessment is reduced.[81] A formal demand of payment is waived by the owner's declaring that he will not pay except at the end of a lawsuit,[82] and the penalty for nonpayment is chargeable against such owner without a formal demand.[83] The exact date of a demand not being shown, it will be considered as having been made on the last day of the month wherein it was made,[84] and the penalty for nonpayment will be computed from that date.[85] Unless there has been a prior demand, a penalty begins to run on a tax bill when suit is brought thereon.[86] A property owner is not liable to a contractor for interest on an assessment until a legal apportionment has been made, since, until then, he is not in default for not paying.[87] Nor is such interest recoverable from the city where under the statute it is not liable when it is without power to enforce liability against the property benefited.[88]

71. Duration is six years in Washington. Hinckley v. Seattle [Wash.] 79 P. 779.

72. Construing Burns' Rev. St. 1894, §§ 4290, 4293, 4294. Voris v. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 249.

73. Voris v. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. [Ind.] 70 N. E. 249.

74. See 2 Curr. L. 1354.

75. This mode of payment is proper. Sumner v. Milford, 214 Ill. 388, 73 N. E. 742. An assessment payable in one payment is an "instalment" returnable as delinquent and collectible under Laws 1901, p. 118, amending Act 1897, p. 135, § 99. Cummings v. People, 213 Ill. 443, 72 N. E. 1094. Detroit City Charter, § 44, providing for payment of a street grading assessment in four instalments does not apply to an assessment for a street opening; the latter may properly be made payable at one time, under Pub. Acts 1883, p. 120, § 15. Power v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 288.

76. Local Improvement Act, §§ 42, 86, providing for payment of assessments in instalments and the issuance of bonds in anticipation of deferred payments, are constitutional and do not deprive owners of property without due process of law by fixing the interest on the bonds at not less than 5%. Legislature has power to fix the interest. Hulbert v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 452, 72 N. E. 1097.

77. Scott v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 548, 70 N. E. 879.

78. Part of ordinance providing for interest on an assessment payable in one payment held void. McChesney v. Chicago, 213 Ill. 592, 73 N. E. 368.

79. The agreement to pay an assessment, contained in stipulations signed by a property owner who waived illegalities for the privilege of paying an assessment in instalments, was not changed by the 1893 amendment to Burns' Ann. St. 1894, § 4294. Scott v. Hayes, 162 Ind. 548, 70 N. E. 879.

80. Gilfeather v. Grout, 91 N. Y. S. 533. Interest held properly included in a reassessment. In re Hollister, 96 App. Div. 501, 89 N. Y. S. 518.

81. Power v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 288.

82, 83, 84, 85. Perkinson v. Schnake [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 301.

86. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Peck [Mo.] 85 S. W. 387.

87. Second apportionment being necessary because of invalidity of first, no interest between the two was recoverable. Orth v. Park & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1910, 79 S. W. 206.

A special assessment, paid under protest, before the whole amount was delinquent, may be recovered if the assessment is held void.[89] Voluntary payment of a special assessment, with notice of the proceedings on which the assessment is based, precludes recovery of the amount paid.[90] The legislature has power to prohibit an action to recover money paid on a void assessment except on compliance with certain conditions,[91] and where it has provided a remedy for persons aggrieved by such an assessment, such remedy is exclusive.[92] Money paid on an assessment, valid on the face of the record, but invalid by reason of facts outside the record, cannot be recovered until the assessment is set aside.[93, 94] One who has voluntarily paid the whole amount of an assessment cannot maintain an action for a reassessment, to reduce or extinguish the assessment of benefits.[95] One who pays or redeems from a drainage assessment cannot require reimbursement from other owners unless they claim some adverse or junior right in the land.[96]

A statute relieving property owners from assessments should be construed in favor of, not against, such owners.[97]

(§ 8) J. Enforcement and collection.[99]—Since there is no personal liability for a special assessment,[99] the proceeding to enforce such assessment is one in rem,[1] and the validity of the decree is not affected by the fact that the owner of the property was not a party.[2] But it has been held that an action to foreclose the lien of a street assessment is not a proceeding in rem except in the sense that the amount of the lien can be collected only out of the property involved in the action,[3] and that the owner of the land is not bound by a judgment in such action if he was not made a party.[4] The statutory rule that a pendente lite purchaser is bound by a judgment, if notice of lis pendens is properly filed, is applicable to the suit.[5] A court of general superior jurisdiction is a court of "competent jurisdiction" to enforce a drainage assessment lien in Indiana.[6] It was expressly provided in Indiana that certain drainage assessments should be collected under the law in force when the work was begun.[7] The commencement of a suit to foreclose

88. Orth v. Park & Co., 25 Ky. L. R. 1910, 79 S. W. 206.

89. South Omaha Charter of 1889. City of South Omaha v. McGavock [Neb.] 100 N. W. 805.

90. Shirley v. Waukesha [Wis.] 102 N. W. 576. Payment of assessment, apparently valid, but in fact void, by one who has knowledge of the facts rendering it void, is a voluntary payment and the amount cannot be recovered. McCall v. Rochester, 44 Misc. 129, 89 N. Y. S. 766.

91. Laws 1898, p. 440, c. 182, §§ 466, 467, providing an exclusive remedy for a party aggrieved by a void assessment, is constitutional. McCall v. Rochester, 44 Misc. 129, 89 N. Y. S. 766.

92. No resort can be had to equity. McCall v. Rochester, 44 Misc. 129, 89 N. Y. S. 766.

93, 94. McCall v. Rochester, 44 Misc. 129, 89 N. Y. S. 766.

95. Shirley v. Waukesha [Wis.] 102 N. W. 576.

96. Ellison v. Branstrator [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 146.

97. Gilfeather v. Grout, 91 N. Y. S. 533. Laws 1899, c. 522, authorizing cancellation of certain assessments on payment of one-third thereof, construed as giving property owners the right to three months in which to pay said one-third on payment of 6% interest from the date of the passage of the act, and on failure to do so, requiring 1% per month for the balance of the time fixed. Id.

98. See 2 Curr. L. 1354.

99. A provision in a deed that it is subject to any existing liens for street work does not render the vendee personally liable. Page v. Chase Co., 145 Cal. 578, 79 P. 278.

1. Orth v. Park & Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 342, 81 S. W. 251. A proceeding to enforce an apportionment warrant being in rem, a mistake in the christian name of the person owning the property assessed is immaterial. Langan v. Bitzer, 26 Ky. L. R. 579, 82 S. W. 280.

2. Suit to procure sale under Acts 1895, p. 89, c. 71. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252.

3. Page v. Chase Co., 145 Cal. 578, 79 P. 278.

4. Construing St. 1885, c. 153, § 16, and St. 1896, c. 151, § 8. Page v. Chase Co., 145 Cal. 578, 79 P. 278.

5. Page v. Chase Co., 145 Cal. 578, 79 P. 278.

6. Rev. St. 1881, § 4277. Ellison v. Branstrator [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 146.

